THE Ord Quiz

The North Loup irrigation and power project is ready to go and there would seem to be no good reason for delay, if the administration really wants to get people to work. The increased business, incident to starting the work, would enable merchants to add salespeople which they can't do now with little business.

City on NRA Basis, 4th Engineer Hired

The electric light and water department of the city of Ord is cooperating in the NRA move to put men to work. The city has signed the electrical code which provides for a forty-hour week for mechanical employes. This made necessary the employment of a fourth engineer at the city plant and W. L. Frederick has been given the position. Harry Dye, Anton Johnson and Jis Mortensen are the other engineers. Each will work a six-hour shift each day.

L. B. Fenner Back Home.

L. B. Fenner, prominent Burwell man who was operated on at Rochester, Minn., three weeks ago for ulcers of the stomach returned home last week. He stood the operation in remarkably fine shape but will be obliged to curtail his regular activities for a time, on the orders of his doctor. Ord friends are glad to learn that he is on the road to recovery.

FREMONT WOMAN DIES HERE AFTER AUTO ACCIDENT

Car Upset Near Comstock Saturday, Miss Forester Fatally Hurt; Dies in Hillcrest.

Miss Elizabeth Forester, 55, veteran postoffice clerk at Fremont, Nebr., passed away at 5:30 a. m., Sunday at Hillcrest from injuries received in an automobile accident near Comstock the previous afternoon. Two broken legs and serious internal injuries were discovered by Dr. C. W. Weekes, who attended her, and it was the internal injuries that caused her death.

Accompanied by her 76-year-old mother, Mrs. Emma Forester, the deceased had gone to Comstock to inspect farm property that she owned near there. She was driving west and as she drove over a hill was blinded by the setting sun. Miss Forester involuntarily applied the brakes, which locked, and the car rolled over several times.

Miss Forester and her mother were brought to Hillcrest immediately. The latter was not badly hurt but Miss Forester passed away Sunday morning. The body was taken to the Frazier mortuary and Monday morning was taken to Fremont for burial.

Albert Adams Fined.

Albert Adams was fined $100 and costs in county court Saturday when he plead guilty to possession of intoxicating liquor. County officers had secured a search warrant and searched the house in which Adams lives with his mother, Mrs. Sarah Adams, in east Ord and found about a gallon of moonshine whiskey. The young man was unable to pay his fine and will spend the next thirty days or so as a guest of Valley county.

440 CONSUMERS SIGN NRA CARDS IN CITY OF ORD

Only 37 Refused to Sign, Says Edwin Clements; Business District Almost 100%.

Four hundred and forty families in Ord signed NRA consumers' pledge cards during the drive in Ord last week, said Edwin Clements yesteray. Colonel Clements, who was in charge of the man-power division of the local NRA organization and had charge of the drive, expresses himself as being very well satisfied with the reports of his solicitors.

Only thirty-seven families out of almost 500 contracted by his organization have failed to sign cards, Clements says. About half of this number refused to sign, the others were not at home when solicitors called, he says.

All consumers' pledge cards and the names of families who did not sign have been turned over to Miss Eunice Chase, lieutenant-general of the local organization. Miss Chase is awaiting instructions from the state committee before proceeding farther with efforts to sign up the 37 recalcitrants.

Any family who was missed in the drive and wants to sign a consumers' pledge card may do so by calling at the postoffice, at Chase's Toggery or at any business place in Ord displaying the Blue Eagle, Colonel Clements says.

The business district of Ord is almost 100 percent NRA as a result of last week's drive, it is announced by "General" L. D. Milliken.

Further NRA efforts are being held up pending instructions from R. L. Metcalfe, state director, and General Hugh Johnson, national director, the local officials state.

MRS. BEN MORRIS SAVED FROM FIRE BY 12-YEAR-OLD

Family's Tent-Wagon Home Burns Monday, Woman Is Trapped By Flames.

Trapped in the flames of her burning tent-wagon home Monday afternoon, Mrs. Ben Morris was pulled to safety by her 12-year-old step-son, Bennie, and though she is in an Ord hospital suffering with serious burns she will recover, says Dr. C. W. Weekes, who is attending her. If she does she will owe her life to the quick thinking and youthful strength of 12-year-old Bennie.

For more than a year the Morris family has lived in their tent-wagon, which was located on a vacant lot north of Guy Burrows' filling station. They were preparing to spend another winter in this flimsy home and Mrs. Morris had purchased new clothes for herself and the children and stored them in the wagon.

Monday afternoon she was melting paraffine on a gasoline stove and was planning to use the wax in making paper flowers, which the children sold in Ord. The wax became too hot and suddenly caught fire, flaming up and igniting the gasoline tank, which exploded.

In the wagon were Mrs. Morris and two step-sons, Bennie, 12, and Virgil, 10. When the gasoline tank exploded the two boys ran to safety but Mrs. Morris, intent on rescuing the new clothes she had recently bought, delayed too long and was trapped by the flames. Her hair and clothing blazing, she fell to the floor and would have burned to a crisp had not Bennie dashed back into the blazing wagon and dragged his mother out through the door. She stripped off her burning garments, rolled on the ground and succeeded in freeing herself from flames, although she was terribly burned.

The tent wagon burned to the ground in a matter of minutes and the fire department, although it arrived promptly, was too late to save any of its contents.

Mrs. Morris was taken to Hillcrest hospital immediately and her burns were treated. She is terribly burned about the face, arms and chest, Dr. Weekes says, and will probably have to remain in the hospital for ten days or two weeks.

Howard County Fair To Begin Next Week

The Howard county fair is coming out again this year as usual with a big program of events, entertainment and amusement. The fair will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week, September 12, 13, 14 and 15, inclusive.

The high lights on the program are the tug of war, baseball, men and women's kittenball tournaments, big parades, outstanding attractions, big fight and wrestling card Thursday evening, and a gorgeous display of fireworks for which the Howard county fair is noted, on Friday evening.

Stanley Kordik of Ord will wrestle John Dobish of Farwell, Thursday evening. A brief synopsis of the program appears in this week's issue of the Quiz. Be sure and read it.

The Howard county fair is deserving of support from the people of this community and as many as possible should plan to attend at least one day.

Arrested at Grand Island.

Two brothers, Jerry and Frank Drahosh, both of Ord, were fined $5 and costs each, in police court, Monday morning, on charges of petty theft. Both entered pleas of guilty. They were arrested Saturday afternoon. It was charged that they stole a .22 calibre rifle, some spark plugs, two pocket books, a package of tire boots and one or two other minor articles from the Montgomery-Ward store. The rifle was carried out of the store under a rain coat worn by Jerry, the older of the two. Employes in the store spotted them and called officers, the latter meeting them as they stepped from the store.—Grand Island Independent.

Are Fined for Fighting.

Four Ord young men, Ray Seerley, Norville Loft, Roy Whitford and Frank Andersen, were fined $5 and costs in county court Saturday when they pleaded guilty to fighting at a public dance held in Ord two evenings before. Only Andersen paid, the others electing to "lay it out" in county jail.

100-Degree Weather Cuts Corn Severely

For five days the temperature in Ord has hovered around the 100-degree mark during mid-day to form one of the worst September hot spells this country has ever known. Reports from all parts of the county say that corn is being injured by the hot weather.

Three Men Fined On Liquor Charges

Appearing before County Judge John L. Andersen last Thursday, Harry McMichael of Arcadia pleaded guilty to a charge of selling a pint of intoxicating liquor to John Doe and Richard Roe, minors, and was fined $100 and costs, which he has so far failed to pay. He is held in the Valley county jail.

McMichael's arrest came as the aftermath of the arrest at Arcadia on August 27 of Dale Lambert, 20, and Velda Hickenbottom, 19, of Broken Bow. Found in an intoxicated condition, the young men were taken into custody by the Arcadia marshal and lodged in jail there. During the night they succeeded in wrenching the padlock from the door of their cell and escaped.

Sheriff George Round went to Arcadia last Wednesday and took the two into custody and Wednesday afternoon they appeared before Judge Andersen here and pleaded guilty to drunkenness, paying fines of $25 and costs each.

Charge of jail breaking were not filed against them inasmuch as they revealed the name of the man from whom they bought liquor and evinced a willingness to testify against him had it been necessary. For this reason, and because of their youth and their previous good records, county officers did not file jail breaking charges and Judge Andersen was lenient in the fine he levied.

Ord Stores Check All Cotton Goods

Processing Tax on Cotton Goods To Be Collected Upon Stocks Already on Shelves.

Ord's retail stores, those who sell any goods composed largely of cotton, were busier than the proverbial cat on a tin roof last week in taking what amounted to a virtually complete inventory of some stocks. Dresses, coats, stockings, piece goods, belting, canvass, sheets, and pillow cases, cotton batts, some "rubber goods" and dozens of other things were being taken into consideration in the check-up.

The reason for all this activity was the cotton processing tax which went into effect September 1 and which required that inventories of cotton stocks then on hand be submitted to the government. The tax hereafter will be placed at the factories, who in turn transmit it to the wholesaler, who passes it on to the retailer, who in turn makes the ultimate consumer pay the tax. In the meantime, retailers had to account and pay for the stocks they already had on hand before August 1. The tax amounts to about 4 1-2c per pound of cotton.

Tax money thus derived will go to the cotton planters of the south to reimburse them for reducing their cotton acreages in the same way that the wheat processing tax is raising funds to pay middle-west farmers for cutting down their wheat acreages.

Cotton materials received in shipments since August 1 will not have to be weighed out for their cotton content, it is stated, as the tax has already been applied on such goods by the manufacturers.

Merchants who had not taken time to go into the cotton tax earlier were finding lots of things to ponder over last week. The prediction in Ord is that some lines of business apparently not affected by the cotton tax may find themselves in trouble later because they failed to find out about it and comply. The tax will apply to numerous articles in the garage and hardware business that would scarcely be thought of in connection with cotton. Some kinds of tires will be taxed while others will not, most garden hose will be taxed, some belting, brake lining, etc. At present the whole thing is a puzzle to most retailers but will tend to straighten itself out later as dealers become more thoroughly informed on the way the tax works.

Sack in Omaha Hospital.

Dr. C. J. Miller and Harold Sack returned Thursday night from Omaha where they went to take the latter's father, Wm. Sack, who underwent an operation for an eye ulcer and is still being cared for in an Omaha hospital. For several weeks Mr. Sack was under the care of a Hastings eye specialist but, his condition not improving, he was taken to Dr. Judd, the famous Omaha eye surgeon. The latter operated immediately and it is thought that the sight of Mr. Sack's eye will be saved, although his vision will be somewhat impaired. Philip Sack, of Crete, a brother of Will Sack, came to Ord Monday and is looking after things at the lumber yard for a few days.

Negro Singers Here Friday.

The Mt. Beulah college singers will be at the Christian church Friday Sept. 15. This is a quartette of Negro singers of high merit and all will want to hear them. Their college is one of two fully accredited negro schools in Mississippi. They will bring a program of high grade negro music and you are sure of a pleasant evening. No admission but a free will offering will be taken.

240 POUND SOWS NOW ELIGIBLE FOR U. S. BONUS

County Agent Dale Gets Rulings On Questions Puzzling Local Hog Owners.

That the minimum weight of piggy sows qualified to receive the government bonus has been lowered from 275 to 240 pounds was the principle point of interest in a new bulletin on the hog program received Monday by County Agent C. C. Dale from W. W. Derrick, in charge of government purchases of hogs in Nebraska. Furthermore, no permission is needed to ship piggy sows.

Other points of interest in the new regulations follow:

All pigs received for account of government must be accompanied by permission to ship and no premium will be paid for pigs unless permission has been granted prior to shipment. Advance permission must be secured through commission firm operating on terminal market but no permits will be issued through commission companies to anyone other than original owner. In no case are permits to be issued to one owner for more than 200 head.

Farmers may still have their pigs handled through shipping associations or by country buyers by supplying them with letter or telegram from commission firm indicating that they have permission to ship their pigs. Such agencies may also act in behalf of original owners in securing these permits, though permits are to be sent by commission firms directly to original owners of the pigs.

These rulings are made necessary beacuse of pigs being shipped to some markets without permission despite earlier rulings and because some local traders are asking for permission to ship without actually owning pigs at the time, thus making it extremely difficult for individual farmers to obtain permits.

A large number of pigs were shipped from Valley county to terminal markets for U. S. purchase when the government's hog buying program first went into effect, say County Agent Dale and local buyers, but lately there has been so much uncertainty about the program that few pigs have been shipped.

The government program ends October 1 so local farmers who expect to sell pigs and receive the government bonus should apply for permission to ship very soon.

Farm Bureau Offers Free Movie Program

The character and value of the service of farm organizations is depicted in a movie, talkie picture entitled "The Benefactor" and a companion reel entitled "Horse Sense" which will be shown under the auspices of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation at Ord, Nebraska, at Bohemian Hall, on Thursday evening, September 7 at 8:00 p. m.

In connection with the picture there will be flashed upon the screen the first issue of the National Farm News reel depicting the National Corn Husking Contest, National Dairy Show, the International Live Stock Show with the champion 4-H Health Boy and Girl, the winning livestock, the judging in the great arena and other interesting features.

"The Benefactor" is a thrilling movie, talkie picture of farm folks while the three reel picture entitled "Horse Sense" is a mixture of good sense and some nonsense including a lot of entertainment led by the Arkansas Woodchopper and other special features.

The Agricultural Extension Department of the University of Nebraska will have the opportunity of discussing recent developments in the application of the Agricultural Adjustment Act which is now being worked out by the National Government.

This entertainment which is being sponsored by the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation is absolutely free. There is no charge for admission as the entire evening's program is of an educational nature. While there is a lot of sound material for serious thought there is a lot of fun mixed in with it thus assuring a pleasant profitable evening's entertainment. Free tickets of admission will be furnished to all those who desire to attend either by mail or at the door of the show.

Boys and girls who are taking Agriculture or Home Economics courses or members of 4-H clubs who attend this entertainment will be interested in a National Essay contest in which $250.00 in prizes are being offered for the best essays on the value of insurance. Entry blanks for this essay contest will be distributed during the show to those boys and girls who are interested.

First C. B. & Q. Agent Dies in Grand Island

Thomas Connor, who was the first Burlington agent in Ord and lived for a time in a box car near the railroad tracks, passed away in Grand Island Sunday after a week's illness. He had been a Burlington agent in Nebraska nearly all his life, conducting the stations at Dorchester, Hyannis, York and Grand Island. In the latter place he served as agent for forty-two years, being in active service until a week before his death although long eligible for the retired list. J. H. Capron and other Ordites knew Mr. Connor well when he was serving as Ord's first Burlington agent.

'CASEY'S TRIAL' WILL BE GIVEN BY AUXILIARY

Hilarious Home Talent Comedy To Be Presented in Ord Next Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Casey's Trial", the big community show sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary and said to be one of the funniest and most interesting events of the season, is to be presented at the Ord high school auditorium, Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 12 and 13.

The play is a two-act farce comedy, and the audience will be assured of a laugh from start to finish, according to the general chairman, Mrs. Cecil Clark, and members of the cast. The cast has been very carefully selected from Ord's "who's who," and all are very capably filling the parts assigned, assuring a real show.

The fun commences at once in the first act with a mock trial taking place, with Dotty Perkins (Ruth Haskell) sueing Casey (Herschel McGrew) for breach of promise. The scene of the show is in the days of the gay nineties, when woman's rights were not so well established. The Irish judge for the first act, (who is none other than our own Judge Andersen) rules the court with an iron hand and receives many surprising answers when questioning the League of Nation jury and the various witnesses that they chose. The clerk takes his duties very seriously and Attorney Skin acts as prosecuting attorney with Attorney Take-A-Coin nobly defending poor Casey. After hearing all the evidence of the case, the judge decides that they are both guilty and Casey thinks perhaps the best way out of it would be to marry the girl.

The second act is equally as funny as the first, with the minister making many attempts to perform the wedding ceremony, with entirely too much help from the other members of the party. Mrs. Perkins is kept very busy, trying to keep the wedding progressing and her husband from telling one of his numerous funny stories. As in all weddings there is of course a maid of honor and the best man, but you will never find as many interesting things at another wedding as at this one. The Hummin' Bird orchestra plays wildly and those flower girls, you must see them, never was there another such a wedding and so many laughs.

Between acts of the show about forty of the popular young ladies of high school will sing and dance. These girls will be attractively costumed, the first number being a rainbow chorus, this being followed by the merry-go-round chorus and then the springtime chorus and ending with a very pretty tableau on Moonlight and Roses.

To advertise the play a "merchants' parade" will be held at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. A number of cars are already entered and all merchants,, business firms, Legion and Auxiliary members and members of the cast of Casey's Trial are invited to take part. The parade will start from the Legion hall at 2:30 o'clock sharp.

See the handbill in this paper for a complete list of characters and full information, and don't miss seeing the biggest show of the year "Casey's Trial".

Mystery Surrounds Death of Husband In Denver Hotel

North Loup, Sept. 5.—(Special)—Saturday evening Mrs. Neva Wetzel Wells, who with her two children lives in this village with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Wetzel, received a message from Denver telling about the mysterious death of her husband, Howard Wells, whose body was found in a hotel room in that city. No further information relative to his death was received by Mrs. Wells. Police of Denver are investigating his death.

ORD ENROLLMENT UP TO PAR, SAYS SUPT. M. D. BELL

Fewer Hi School Pupils As Ord Schools Open Monday But Grade Enrollment Up.

The enrollment at the high school and grade school of Ord, to date, equals that of last year according to Superintendent Millard Bell when interviewed Wednesday morning at his office. As many are enrolled this year as last, he reports, but the distribution is considerably different as to the number in each class. Enrollment figures continued a steady upward trend in the elementary grades and in the first four grades of the high school, the increase in all totaling from 20 to 30 students in these grades.

A loss of about the same number in high school was largely attributable to the large graduating class, 87 being the largest number of seniors ever to receive diplomas in Ord in one spring. The lower grade classes being sent up now are smaller, considerably, and the eighth grade class of last year was smaller.

Extremely large classes are found in the first, second and seventh grades, with fifty or more students in each one, said the superintendent. The post graduate registration totalled 16 Wednesday, which is the same number of entrants as for 1932-1933. In the eleventh grade twenty new pupils arrived from the various tenth grade schools of Valley county, and the junior and senior classes each had one or two new members this fall.

The business slump is reflected in the enrollment of the schools as well as other places, and several students were unable to attend because of family finances. Practically all girls who wished work in return for their board and room have secured good places to stay, but three or four very desirable boys who would be glad to do housework or other chores are still unable to find such jobs.

A new year third year agricultural course is being offered for the first time in Ord by O- vanda, much to the delight of several boys who requested it. All teachers are carrying heavier loads this year, as the teaching staff was reduced a little last spring. No teacher now has more than one hour off during the day, between eight and five, after classes assemble, but all of them are working hard, glad they have work when so many teachers are unable to find it. They are cooperating with the school board in accepting loads that a few years ago were not allowed by national educational authorities.

Ord school building is in good shape, cleaned and painted, with considerable refinishing done in the grade building to be done over, and a number of the high school receiving the same treatment. Much other cleaning, painting and scrubbing was also done before the start of school this week.

New combination padlocks were purchased this year for high school lockers, and are sold to the students for ten cents a year, all of which is refundable at graduation. Each padlock has an individual combination, like a safe, while the school authorities have a master combination to use when needed.

Football practice is already under way, with Coach Molzen provided with a group mostly green at this sport. Very few veterans of the teams of the past few seasons are back for practice, which of course handicaps the Ordites somewhat. The schedule for the fall games is as follows:

Sept. 29 .....at Scotia
Oct. 6.....St. Paul at Ord
Oct. 13.....Broken Bow at Ord
Oct. 20.....Burwell at Ord
Oct. 27..(tentative) at North Loup
Nov. 3.....at Ravenna
Nov. 10.....Ansley at Ord
Nov. 17.....at Arcadia
Nov. 30.....Loup City at Ord

A game with Sargent, scheduled for the 24th of November was cancelled because of their ineligibility, and it is possible that the North Loup game may be shifted to this date, in place of the one it now occupies.

Wants Garden Photos.

Rev. Willard McCarthy, who is planning to present a public program dealing with beautiful gardens and homes in Ord, wants photographic negatives of Ord flower gardens. He colors the negatives to show the natural colors of the flowers and makes them into lantern slides. Rev. McCarthy's program will be one of the finest things given in Ord and people who have beautified their yards in the last year or two are asked to get in touch with him at once.

—Mart Beran and Dutch Berger report excellent success at bass fishing Sunday in a bayou on the Calamus river near Valley View. They caught sixteen, most of them of good size.

BACK FORTY

By ROVANDA

...ised much dam... summer. Conditions were favorable for this parasitic plant, which produces black, slimy odorous masses on the stalks, leaves, tassel and ears of corn.

Corn smut is a disease that lives over winter in the soil. It is not carried to any extent by seed corn, and it does little good to treat seed for it. The disease cannot be prevented as is oats smut or stinking smut of wheat. It thrives especially well in manured ground, and may be spread by hauling manure.

Crop rotation helps to keep down the prevalence of smut. The best plan is to grow some other crop when a field becomes badly infected. Application of manure to grass land a year or so in advance of planting the field to corn, tends to reduce the infection from manure.

Corn smut does not seem to hurt livestock. In fact it is rich in digestible nutrients and contains more protein than corn grain. Livestock fed on smutty corn did better in certain experiments than animals eating normal corn.

Typically, corn smut lives over winter in the old stalks and soil of the field. When spring comes, the live infection spores are blown by the wind to young corn. When corn is about a foot high, an occasional plant may be observed to have small whitish overgrowths or smut boils, if examined closely. Only a few of these are formed, but they mature their spores and furnish the source of the later infections that do so much damage. Over and over again the story is repeated until the corn shows in the fall a liberal amount of this wasting disease.

Where a crop is grown intensively, such as a small lot of sweet corn, rogueing of smutted plants early in the season is a good practise. The smutted plants are pulled and destroyed by burning or burying. This keeps the disease from spreading.

—Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hall and little daughter returned to their home in Holdrege Monday. They had been enjoying a two weeks vacation trip in oClorado and Wyoming. Mrs. Hall was formerly Miss Musa Misko of Ord.

To Advertisers . . . And Correspondents

This newspaper has signed the NRA code for the printing industry, which provides for general pay increases as well as a 40-hour week for mechanical employes, and we are attempting to live up to provisions of this code.

With business as it is at present we cannot afford to hire extra employes or pay over-time help, so we are asking all advertisers and Quiz correspondents to co-operate by getting copy in as early in the week as possible.

In future no Classified Ads or copy for Display Ads can be accepted after 2:30 p. m. Wednesday afternoons. To be printed, all news letters must reach us not later than 10:00 on Wednesday mornings.

Beginning next week, the Quiz will go to press at 4:00 Wednesday afternoon and the papers will be in the postoffice early Thursday morning as in the past.

Something DIFFERENT

If you want to have the fun bring up the subject of queer food combinations your friends or family like to eat together. This subject of conversation is positively guaranteed by this author to be interesting to the extreme, amusing and practically never ending.

—oOo—

For instance, Florence Anderson likes to eat gravy on her pickles.

—oOo—

An Alliance boy I knew long ago likes his bananas served with catsup handy.

—oOo—

Lillian Hansen, now married and gone, who once taught here always sprinkled sugar over potatoes before adding gravy to them for ultimate consumption!

—oOo—

Joe Dlugosh and most of his family, who live near Elyria dip nearly every bite into butter before eating it. This is regardless of the type of food. Unique, isn't it?

—oOo—

Two prominent Ord business men who are thin and just can't gain . . . how unusual these days . . . . are crazy about jelly when it is served with cream, sometimes sugar too.

—oOo—

The Leggett family never got over it because I once announced that jelly made custard pie slide down better!

—oOo—

Mabel Misko was once addicted, and still enjoys occasionally eating a helping of pie served with rich beef gravy. While John, her brother, is peculiar, by virtue of liking syrup on his cottage cheese.

—oOo—

I have heard quite a few remark when the subject was brought up that tomatoes, fresh, were delicious when served with sugar and cream. Dr. Barta and family enjoy them this way I know.

—oOo—

Each fall there are a lot of families that want their roast wild duck served with sauerkraut dressing. Originally a Bohemian custom, this delicious filling has won many converts among people of other nationalities, and is very popular hereabouts.

—oOo—

Dorothy McBeth, when her last name was still Clements, was partial to cream and wanted it served with nearly everything. And I like it on most fruit pies, don't you? IIncluding cherry and gooseberry!

—oOo—

Several groups of small boys have been having more fun this summer. One group fixed up a little golf course and have been busy, happy and off the streets, as well as being where their mothers could readily locate them, and out in the sun and air getting their health rays from the sun.

—oOo—

Another group had a circus or "Fun House" recently. This is not the first circus to be held by youngsters of Ord this summer, by any means. Not long ago one group made about $4 cash, and the one last week cleared $2.01, it is said. In the "Fun House", those who were gullible enough to enter became well scared, quite black and dirty. And they underwent all the old-time regulation thrills. There were many other things to be done for amusement at this circus, with practically all prices and admissions set at one and two cents.

Mimeographed bills were prepared by the father of one of the boys, and broadcast over Ord, bringing a throng of youngsters to buy the tiny balloons, toys, candy and enjoy the excitement at the home of Kirk Lewis.

The 1,632 books which the U. S. Government purchased from the Winter Palace Library of Nicholas II, late ruler of Russia, have been placed in the Congressional Library, at Washington, D. C.

The home of 15-year-old Herbert Simmons, near Corvallis, Mont., was set afire and burned when the punching bag which he was using broke loose and overturned a lighted lamp.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Please send in your canning recipes promptly if you are intending to do so, as the season for this work is passing and will be gone before we realize it. What is the best relish you make? Send in the recipe please, at once, and also any recipes for grapes, tomatoes or other fall ripening fruits. Many people will be happy to try your prize recipes, you know, if you will offer them this opportunity through the columns of The Quiz.

Beet Relish.

Combine one quart of cooked and chopped beets with one quart of chopped cabbage and one cup of ground horseradish. Season with two teaspoons of salt, mix well, put into a kettle with one cup of sugar and two cups vinegar and one-fourth teaspoon black pepper, and cook until clear. Seal hot This is particularly good with mutton.

Mrs. William H. Thomas, Ashton, Ida.

Liver with Vegetables.

Put on to cook one cup small onions, two cups cut carrots or turnips, one quart small potatoes, one tablespoon celery tops or parsley with enough boiling water to cover, boil twenty minutes. Then put into a baking dish with the stock in which the vegetables were boiled, add one tablespoon flour mixed with cold water. Cover with the liver prepared as follows: remove the skins and veins from the liver, sprinkled with salt and pepper, and sear in hot grease. Cover and bake one hour. This serves six.

Mrs. O. E. Wesenberg, Omaha.

Green Tomato Mincemeat.

Cut one peck of green tomatoes in small pieces, and also prepare one quart of apples, fresh or dried, one pound seedless raisins, juice of three lemons, one pound of cocoanut or suet, two and one-half pounds brown sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg or any desired spices. Put tomatoes in a large pan, sprinkle with a little salt, let set and then drain off. Add enough water to prevent sticking, cook for a while then add the rest of the ingredients, grating one lemon, adding the white part of another and one cut in small pieces. Let cook until the tomatoes and apples are tender, stirring often to prevent sticking, remove from fire and seal in jars. You may add more sugar and a lump of butter to each pie when it is used for pies.

Mrs. Mid Garner.

Pineapple Ice Box Cake.

Cream two-thirds cup butter, add two cups powdered sugar and cream again. Add four egg yolks, beat two minutes, then one teaspoon vanilla, one teaspoon lemon extract, one-fourth teaspoon salt and one and one-half cups crushed pineapple. Mix well then add four beaten egg whites. Using 16 slices of angel food cake cut thin, put a layer of cake in a dish, covering the bottom and sides, add half the pineapple mixture, another layer of cake then the rest of the pineapple, finishing with a layer of cake. Chill 24 hours, carefully unmold, cover with two cups of whipped cream mixed with four tablespoons sugar. Sprinkle with one-half cup maraschino cherries and serve at once.

Mrs. George Parkins.

Potato Salad.

Combine one quart mashed potatoes, one-half cup cream, two tablespoons sugar, three tablespoons vinegar, one-half teaspoon mustard, two hard boiled eggs, chopped. Chopped onions and sweet pickles may also be used if liked.

Gladys Boyce, Ord.

Prunella Cake.

Cream one-half cup lard with one cup sugar, add two eggs and two-thirds cup stewed prunes, chopped. Stir in two-thirds cup sour milk, add one and one-half cups flour, one-half teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, and one-half teaspoon baking powder. Pour into greased and floured layer pans. Bake in a moderate oven about 25 minutes, cool and cover with this icing:

Mix two cups confectioners' sugar, one-half teaspoon of cinnamon, one-eighth teaspoon salt, two tablespoons prune juice and one tablespoon lemon juice. Beat until creamy.

Sunbeams

By FRED HOWARD
In Clay Center Sun.

Following the old copybook advice "Do that thing which you can best do," a lot of people do nothing.

A northside lady tried heaping coals of fire on her husband's head, but got no results until she substituted an electric iron.

"Your ace high with me," said a northside girl as she embroidered the Blue Eagle emblem of fair dealing on her shorts.

A lot of folk who will have to have help to run this winter would be able to get along under their own power if they had good self starters.

When someone tells me that they have heard a very confidential matter I get out my pencil for I am certain that I am about to hear a bit of news.

One of our nizboys who is a better talker than he is worker, reports having told a Harvard girl that "Kisses are the language of love," and getting a fast return from her, "Well, speak up."

When you get to thinking of the approaching winter morbidly, recall many items you have read in The Sun this summer and you will know that no community is very hard-up that can send so many visitors to the Century of Progress exposition.

A two page Navy bulletin at hand explains that a "Jackass" is a hawsecover. To complete my nautical education I will have to have another bulletin telling me what a hawsecover is—Oh, now I have it, a hawsecover is a Horse Marine's blanket.

Askt what I thought would be a good name for a new club being organized by a group of young women, I replied quickly, "The Homemakers." "That's so old fashioned" one bright young thing said. Come to think of it, I guess she was right. How's "Night Riders", girls?

The latest addition to the brain (less) trust is a 33 year old Amhurst professor of economics. He qualifies for membership in the President's advisory cabinet by reason of his being a crack tennis player. There is hope that the local pool shark may yet secure recognition.

Bill Deines, who substituted for one of the old gentlemen who came to this city last Friday evening from Sutton to indulge in a matched game of kittenball with one of our girl teams, says that he must have been out of condition for the game stiffened him up more than any game he has played this year.

"Well,"" said Claryce of the longerays, as she mirrored her armpits to see if her razoring had been satfactory, "You may pan beer all you wish to, but I find it very satisfactory as a laxative. When I get home nights, tense with having argued with women who insist on silk when they should buy red flannel, I find that a glass of the new beer will quiet my nerves, give me a sense of perfect peace and allow me to go to sleep without effort. Booze hounds will not get much out of it, but as a laxative for tired women it certainly suits me fine." Reluctantly Claryce pulled her elbows out of a pile of soft silk garments to inform a banker's wife, "No'm them don't come in out sizes."

No one seems to be much exercised over the daylight robbery of a Lincoln grocery by a dozen hoodlums who have been sources of annoyance to decency in our capitol city for many months. Least exercised of all are the officers of the law who are sworn to do certain things which seem essential to the safety and comfort of the people who pay the salaies of these officers. "Officers of the Law" bids fair to soon become as obsolete as is "Guardian of the Peace" which we elders were once wont to use in referring to the blue coated gent who made the monthly collection from the Scarlet women of the borough. If you should find yourself at loss for a simile for three point two you might use "As weak as the enforcement of the law."

"History repeats itself!" Forty years ago a reformed cattle rustler, one of the famous Doc Middleton gang, told me to keep his name out of a newspaper which I was conducting for a pair of sandhill politicians, because too many sheriffs were looking for him. Last week a local party askt me to keep any mention of her going to other towns out of The Sun because she owed everyone and her creditors would think that she should be paying them instead of spending her money on pleasure jaunts. The rustler wore a .45 which to my civilized eye was very impressive and his name was never again mentioned but—O well there is little of news in the stories of the local party, so may as well accede to her request. Should some week pass, however, in which she does not go to Hastings, Lincoln, Omaha or some other seaport, that will be news and may secure attention.

From an item in the Sutton Register I take it that the Burlington railway is paving their right-of-way on Saunders avenue in that city—a matter of possibly 100 feet. Not much paving, to be sure, but you may depend upon it the Sutton papers will make it assume creditable proportions for the town which they support in a manner wholly out of proportion with the way the town supports them. Editors and babies easily forget punishment in their love for those who neglect or abuse them. It was always thus, which brings out the observation that the newspaper fraternity sired and perpetuated that thing which we call community boosting. They clothed and fed the kid; reared him in decency until he attracted the attention of a bunch of moochers who immediately adapted him to their purpose, using him when he was useful but always depending upon the parent to maintain him. Sometimes I am proud of any small part I may have had in raising the guy, at others I regret the existence of a trade parasite—Fred Howard in Clay Center Sun.

Something Is Wrong . . . .

Whenever a man working on a regular salary uses up every penny of his earnings to pay regular expenses, you may know that something is wrong and that this family faces financial disaster in future. Every man should practice systematic saving just as a matter of protection. No one can predict what calamities may fall and the wise man is he who so arranges his affairs that his family will be safe no matter what happens.

If you are not now following a campaign of organized saving we invite you to become acquainted with the Protective plan.. Absolutely safe and assures you a comparatively high return on your money. Begin today to save.

DR. RICH says:

Grand Island, Nebr., Sept. 4 1933

People who suffer with rectal trouble frequently are undecided what to do or where to go for a cure. They hear much about home cures and many things about different doctors which is very confusing. They usually do the wrong things to obtain relief which is disappointing, delaying the cure they seek.

The Dr. Rich Rectal Sanitarium and Clinic has been in constant business in Grand Island, Nebr., for more than thirty years. There is no need for anyone afflicted with rectal trouble to be undecided where to go when they can come to such an old established institution for a life-time guaranteed cure.

The treatment here for rectal trouble is different. There is no experimenting. No case is ever accepted unless a cure can be assured. Reasonable prices and home-like accommodations. Avail yourself of this splendid opportunity. Write to me at Grand Island for any information you would like to have.

Don't Drive Through Funeral Processions!

Several complaints have been made to city authorities about automobile drivers cutting through funeral processions at intersections in Ord. This is contrary to city ordinance and also contrary to Nebraska statute. Instructions have been issued to city officers to arrest all drivers who cut through a funeral procession in Ord in future and they will be vigorously prosecuted. This is the only warning that will be given, so take notice.

Christian Science.

"Substance" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, for Sunday, September 10.

The Golden Text is from Psalms 135:13: "Thy name, O Lord endureth forever; and thy memorial, O Lord, throughout all generations."

A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from James 1:17: "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow nor turning."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "Spirit, God, has created all in and of Himself. Spirit never created matter . . . . Spirit is the only substance, the invisible and indivisible infite God. Things spiritual and eternal are substantial. Things material and temporal are insubstantial." (page 335).

North Loup News

North Loup's annual fall festival next Wednesday and Thursday Sept. 13 and 14. Two days of free entertainment with heaps of popped corn for the public's disposal. Who shall be 1933's queen of Popcorn days? Are you planning to vote? Some young lady of North Loup or vicinity will be crowned with special ceremony Wednesday evening. Special music and other entertainment will also be featured that evening. A ragamuffin parade will be featured by Riverdale folks on Wednesday afternoon. On Thursday afternoon Barker and Union Ridge will give a street entertainment. An entertainment of outstanding interest is H. M. S. Pinafore, the light opera presented here at summer chautauqua, which is to be presented the second evening, Thursday, entirely home talent. Kittenball will be a daytime attraction, also horse pulling contests. Ball games, both afternoons, with music throughout both days by the North Loup band. It is hoped there will be a fine exhibit of agricultural and home products. Meals at very reasonable prices will be furnished by the churches and other organizations.

The local Legion and Auxiliary enjoyed the evening Monday at the regular monthly dinner to which the families are always invited. A special feature of interest Monday evening was the awarding of the prizes won at the Legion convention held in Kearney last week. North Loup unit received three awards, namely, citation of merit for work done during the year; special award for child welfare work and first prize for best story of community activities prepared by the president, Mrs. Myra Barber. The Auxiliary very much enjoyed the music furnished by the town orchestra.

In the kittenball tournament held at St. Paul Thursday evening, Dannebrog defeated North Loup's team, score 1 to 0.

A list of the teachers of this city and vicinity who began work Monday morning are: Helen Madsen at Rural; Nema Cruzan at Kenesaw; Maxine McCune near Oconto; Leo Greene, Arcadia vicinity; Bernice Canedy and Beulah Willoughby at Dist. 3; Velma Baker Dist. 13; Julia Meyers Dist. 16; Esther Bee, Dist. 18; Fern Cook Dist. 39; Dorothy Knapp, Dist. 40; Lenore VanHorn, Dist. 42; Ilene Harris, Dist. 43; Margaret Sayre, Dist. 52; Ella Mae Sershen, Dist. 53; Pearl McCall, Dist. 68; Sylvia Baker, Dist. 70; Lucille Davis, Dist. 71; Katherine Chadwick near Scotia; Thelma Bresley, Riverdale.

North Loup school opened Monday morning with a high school enrollment of 80, three less than last year's number. There will be no normal training class this year, but other training particularly vocational will be strengthened, Supt. O. E. Greene reports. The manual training room has been converted into a farm machine shop under the supervision of W. D. Bailey, high school principal and athletic coach. Miss Naomi Yost, music instructor took a special course this summer in piano and voice at Northwestern University, Chicago. Miss Yost also teaches English again this year. Miss Nass of Mira Valley, home economcs teacher is the one new member on the high school staff. Miss Modd of Genoa again has charge of mathematics and Latin. New grade teachers are Marcia Rood, 7 and 8th grades and Carmen Weber of Burwell, 3 and 4. Nellie Parker begins her 3rd term in the intermediate room and Marjorie Thelin her 4th term as 1st primary teacher. Enrollment in the grades exceeds last year by a large number, Miss Thelin having 26 beginners.

The women's study clubs begin their new year's work with this week's sessions. A lesson on "Textiles" was the subject of study at the NoLo club Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary Davis with Mrs. Genia Crandall as assistant hostess. Mrs. Betty Manchester was the leader. A style show in connection with the lesson was an exceptional feature. Styles as far back as 1830 were featured. Did the wearing of these ancient costumes Tuesday afternoon create a laugh? Yes, screams. A dainty luncheon was served at the close. Models for the show were Mary Frances Manchester and Mary Ann Bartz.

Mrs. Esther Schudel was hostess on Wednesday afternoon to the Fortnightly club. The Century of Progress was the subject of study following a brief address by the president, Mrs. Winnie Bartz. Architecture and location were discussed by Mary Thelin, amusements by Florentine Earnest. Mrs. Earnest was among the first group to enter the world's fair grounds. Historical exhibits were discussed by Elfrieda Vodehnal and the Enchanted Island by Ruth Hudson. The hostess served delicious refreshments.

Gertrude Hemphill left Wednesday morning for Lincoln where she will again be a student in nurse's training at the state university.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Willoughby with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sayre drove to Lincoln Sunday afternoon to attend the state fair. They returned Tuesday evening.

A wedding of interest to many in this vicinity was solemnized at Albuquerque, N. M., when Miss Ruth Babcock, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Babcock, became the bride of Mr. Richard Sporleder Sunday, Aug. 27, at the Presbyterian parsonage in that city at 8 a. m. Attendants were the bride's mother, Mrs. Esther Babcock, her aunt and cousin, Mrs. J. A. Clarke and Marion of Kearney, Nebr. The bride was reared in North Loup, graduating from high school with the class of '24, attended Milton college one year and also a year at Doane college, Crete, majoring in music. Miss Babcock is an accomplished violinist. She taught one term of school and has spent much time as her father's assistant in the post office here. The young people first met while attending college at Milton. Mrs. Sporleder's pleasing personality and musical ability will be greatly missed.

A. H. Babcock drove to Kearney Thursday to meet his wife who returned that morning with her sister and niece, the Clarks, from Boulder, Colo., where a day's stop was made with relatives enroute from Albuquerque, N. M., where they were present at the wedding of Miss Ruth Babcock. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Green who had been with relatives in Denver for the past few weeks returned with the party, accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Babcock here from Kearney.

Still Time to Sign the Wheat Applications

There is still time for wheat growers who did not sign applications on the filing days, to come in to the county agent's office and make application.

The time is short, and probably will end about September 15. Any man who has not signed by that time will have lost his opportunity. A wheat grower who does not get in now can not get in next year.

No man who has grown wheat regularly can afford to pass up this opportunity. The benefit payments in Valley county will average about $16.00 per acre for each acre taken out of wheat production. Is there any other way in which a farmer can receive as large a net return per acre, with present prices?

The government is not begging anyone to sign this contract. They want every wheat grower to have the opportunity of signing. The processing tax is being collected, ad the grower who does not enter into a contract will pay his share and receive nothing in return. The man who signs will receive 30 cents per bushel above market price for over half of his wheat.

All wheat growers should give serious consideration to the plan before passing up this opportunity.

Ord Kittenballers Lose to St. Paul

A team made up of outstanding kittenball players of the Ord city league drove to St. Paul last Friday and entered the kittenball tournament being held there but lost to the St. Paul entry by a score of 8 to 0. The St. Paul team won the tournament. Teams competing included Fullerton, Chapman, Wood River, Boelus, Elba, Dannebrog, St. Michael, Cotesfield, St. Paul and Ord. The St. Paul team will play in Ord this coming Sunday, it is announced.

The Sinclair Hot Shots continue to lead in Ord's league competition, defeating the Court House Rats Tuesday evening by a 4 to 3 count. So far the Hot Shots have lost only one league game.

Standings of the teams yesterday were as follows:

	W	L	Pct.

More Than a Joke

By DUFORD JENNE

© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service

WILBUR took his mail from the country postmaster and said, "Mr. Stacey, know of any place round here where I could work for my board this winter?"

"So you want to farm it, eh?" Mr. Stacey said with his usual twinkling smile.

"Why not? I don't want to go back to the city; and I know that Rhode Island Reds are not apples but hens, and that the young son of a bull is not a bullet."

"Wal, you ought to do a pile of farmin' on that knowledge, my boy, but, howsoever, I'm not the man to stan' in the way of a young man goin' back to the soil. Hum—let's see." His eyes twinkled. "You go up to Laurel Hollow—up to the Hillview farm. They need a man there and need him bad."

"I'm the one they are looking for," Wilbur said as he started off.

"Laurel Hollow," Wilbur mused to himself. "Ought to be about right for a busted-down poet."

He began immediately to walk to Laurel Hollow. He had good reasons why he wanted the job and right off. The summer in the hills had won him back to fair health after the long grind of his work in the city, but he hated to go back until he was stronger and he almost wished he never had to return. Then he was short of funds. In fact, a hill refuge was about all the refuge left to him.

A half hour later he faced the farmhouse on the Laurel Hollow road.

"A wonderful view, and probably good, old-fashioned food. Yes, I think they need me badly."

The door was opened at his knock, and he was looking into brown, pretty eyes, and a girlish face that was as pretty as the eyes.

"Yes, this is Hillview. Please come in," her clear voice said cheerfully.

He stepped into a room as cheerful as the voice, and he explained his errand.

Her eyes widened and a little smile crept into the brown depths. "Yes, we—we do need a man to help—us—"

He was not listening but wondering if the hills grew many such attractive young things as this in front of him.

She paused and looked at him, an odd look in her eyes, a look that gave him a queer thrill.

He agreed to her terms readily. He was to come the next day.

His weary feet were light on the way back and his voice was happier as he stopped in the crossroads store and post office to tell Stacey of his good fortune.

"Got my job, Stacey!" he announced.

The old man blinked over his glasses. "What's that?"

"I say I'm hired—for the winter, and I hope forever; and I'll show you I haven't forgotten what my old man pounded into me on the old home farm."

Stacey gasped. "Why, gosh-a-mighty, man, you can't live up there!"

"Well, why not?"

"Why, I sent ye up thar jest for a joke. This farm was left to the girl, Janice Ransom. She came and opened it up this summer, an' she's tryin' to run it—guess she jest come from some school whar she was studying, only her money gave out, and the old place was left to her by her grandad jest in time to help her out. She's livin' there alone—you can't go up thar with her alone. She agree to it?"

"Sure. So you did it as a joke?" Wilbur answered, a bit stunned.

"Yep, had no idea she'd take you. Didn't she say nothin'?"

"She hired me."

"Wal, 'twon't do here. If you's married, be all right."

"Well, I'll have to marry her."

Stacey gasped again. "What's that?"

Wilbur told him again.

The old man's strangled exclamation followed him down the steps, but outside Wilbur paused. She surely had hired him—that much was certain, and he would go on that basis.

The next day, with some doubt in his mind, he hired a team to take him and his luggage to the hill farm. It looked as cozy and as welcome as his previous trip.

As he stepped into the house, he noted two things; the girl's quick, friendly welcome, and an old silver-haired lady who was busy in the kitchen. A load went from his mind—with the old lady on hand, there was no chance of scandal.

He drove down that evening to the store for supplies for the house, a memory of her brown head bent over the slip she made out for him following him the whole way.

Stacey greeted him with a serious face. "She fixed it. I've found out. The minute after you left, she hired old Mrs. Clem to come up. She's a clever one, and I guess she liked your looks."

"You're right. And don't forget, deacon, that I liked hers. And besides, we'll be married one of these days."

Stacey blinked. "This is gittin' to be too fast a world for me. By gad, young man, I believe you!"

Jens Abrahamsen Dies at Askov, Minn.

After an illness of many weeks which were spent in the University hospital in Minneapolis, Jens Abrahamsen of the Askov community, passed away on Sunday, August 13. Death was caused by a liver ailment which began its fatal work during the first part of May.

Mr. Abrahamsen was born in Vejstrun, near Skamlingsbanken, Denmark, on May 19, 1891, and came to the United States in 1909 to settle at Ord, Nebr. In 1915 he came to Askov where he had lived since and where he and his wife, who survives him, acquired 120 acres of land. Mr. Abrahamsen spent about nine months of each year for the past ten years in the employ of A. Henriksen whom he assisted in the handling of the produce crop. In this vocation his memory will be cherished as a loyal and efficient aide by his employer, he being always of the straight-forward type who went about his business in a quiet and businesslike manner and put forth always that which could be expected from him by every one.

Mr. Abrahamsen was married to Miss Mabel Larsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jens Larsen of Askov, on March 23, 1918 and to their union were born three daughters, Esther, Mildred and Ruth, who survive with their mother. He is also survived by his father, two sisters and two brothers in Denmark; one brother in Australia and a brother, Hans, in the Askov community. He was confirmed in the Lutheran faith in Denmark and besides his boyhood home he lived at Esbjerg, Denmark, before coming to this country. He visited his old home in Denmark together with his brother, Hans, in the summer of 1932.

The funeral was held from the Danish Lutheran church Tuesday afternoon at 2 p. m. after the body had been brought home on the noon train Monday. Rev. A. E. Frost officiated at the ceremony and burial was made in the Askov cemetery. The pall-bearers were Viggo Jensen, Wayne E. Jacobsen, Otto Skov, Peder D. Pedersen, H. C. Jorgensen, and Niels Serritslev.

Mrs. Abrahamsen had been at the hospital with her husband the three weeks just preceding his death.

The sympathy of a large circle of friends and neighbors goes out to the bereaved family in the loss of a good husband and father.—Askov (Minn.) American.

IRRIGATION HEARINGS POSTPONED

LOUP PROJECTS ARE HELD UP BY LATENSER WIRE

Public Works Board Secretary Calls Halt to Local Plans For Friday, Saturday.

Saturday, Sept. 16 was to have been a "red letter" day in Ord due to the fact that the final hearing on the North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation district's $2,900,000 development project, so long postponed, had been definitely set for this date.

Late yesterday afternoon, however, local hopes were turned to disappointment upon receipt by Bert M. Hardenbrook of the following terse telegram from John Latenser, jr., secretary of the Nebraska public works advisory board:

"Field hearings both North and Middle Loup irrigation projects postponed account meeting called by deputy administrator."

Further explanation of the postponement had not been received when the Quiz went to press but it is thought that the meeting called by a deputy administrator of the National Recovery Act will hasten final approval of projects that are ready to start construction. Both Loup projects are in this class, so the postponement may result in quicker action later.

Officers of the North Loup district early in the week were notified that on Saturday the project would be inspected by a group that included Frank Murphy, Red Oak, Ia., regional director of federal public works projects, Dan V. Stevens, Fremont, John Latenser, jr., Omaha, and J. E. Lawrence, Lincoln, members of the Nebraska public works advisory board, Albert C. Arend, Omaha, engineer for the board, C. J. Campbell, Lincoln, the board's attorney, A. C. Reamy, Omaha, federal engineer working with Mr. Murphy, and other state and federal public works dignitaries.

At the same time Middle Loup officers were informed that their project would be inspected Friday. Both of these inspections and hearings have now been postponed.

After going over the irrigation district from end to end they had planned to devote Saturday afternoon to a public hearing at the Ord opera house, at which time officers of the district were expected to present evidence to show the project's feasibility and the likelihood that the project will be self-liquidating.

For almost a year local irrigation enthusiasts have been working toward the goal that appeared to be in sight with the final hearing called for Saturday.

Originally planned as a power and irrigation project to cost between 7 and 8 hundred thousand dollars, the North Loup valley project, upon the report of reliable engineers has developed into a project that will cost almost 3 millions and will produce 26,000,000 kilowatt hours of electric energy per year while irrigating 35,000 acres or more of farm land.

As the first step boosters for the project last spring employed the Kansas City engineering firm of Black & Veatch to make preliminary surveys of the valley and draft plans for harnessing the North Loup river. The wisdom of hiring this reliable firm was proved last Wednesday when, at Fremont, E. H. Dunmire, a representative of the firm, went over the plans with Engineers Arend and Reamy and received their unconditional approval.

Bert M. Hardenbrook, president of the district, assisted Engineer Dunmire in presenting the plans and is authority for the statement that Messrs. Arend and Reamy regarded them with favor. Their inquiry was very exhaustive, lasting throughout Wednesday and part of Thursday, and all information elicited was favorable to final approval of the local project.

Under the terms of the public works act, the North Loup valley district is asking that $2,900,000 of federal funds be made available to carry out the project, 70 per cent of which is to be regarded as a loan and 30 per cent as an outright grant. Rate of interest and details of amortization remain to be settled by the Nebraska public works board.

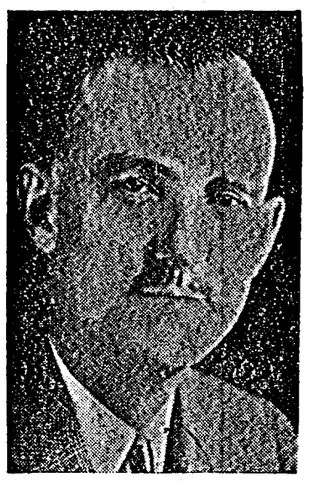
If constructed as outlined by Black & Veatch the project will have an enormous amount of "firm power" for sale annually and upon disposal of this power will hinge the project's ability to pay for itself.

The cities of Ord and Burwell have already agreed to buy electric energy from the project, Sargent has tentatively promised and President Hardenbrook made trips to Broken Bow and St. Paul this week and believes that these cities will also be customers. Several other municipalities are regarded as likely prospects for electric energy and the surplus, if any, can be sold at the "dump power" rate to large public service companies, it is thought.

Such terrible unemployment conditions have been uncovered in the district that federal approval is regarded as certain if public works officials deem the project self-liquidating. It is thought that jobs can be created for 2,000 men for a period of from 12 to 18 months, on this project alone.

Local irrigation boosters have no idea when the hearing will be held since receiving Mr. Latenser's wire yesterday but have every confidence that the hearing will be held within the next week.

Ted Metcalfe Appointed On Veterans Board



Theodore W. (Ted) Metcalfe, former Lieutenant-Governor, has been appointed to serve as an alternate member of the Special Board to review claims of Nebraska war veterans.

Announcement of the selection of Mr. Metcalfe was made from Washington by Brigadier-General Frank T. Hines, acting for President Roosevelt. The other alternates appointed were: John F. Cordeal of McCook, and Phil Hall of Greenwood. The regular members of the Board are Robert Flory of Albion, G. E. Price of Lincoln and Frank J. Taylor of St. Paul.

"General Hines told us that every reasonable doubt should be resolved in favor of the veterans," said Mr. Metcalfe. "Naturally I am interested in watching the interests of all disabled veterans."

Ted Metcalfe is very well known here as head of the Great Navy of Nebraska. Many of his Admirals reside in this community. There has been a decided effort throughout the state to get Metcalfe to run for Governor. He will make his decision soon.

Duck Season Open Oct. 1 to Nov. 30

That the open hunting season for waterfowl will be limited to two months this year, as it was in 1932, was the announcement made by federal department of agriculture authorities. In Nebraska the season will open October 1 and remain open until Nov. 30.

The daily bag limit on ducks was reduced from 15 to 12, not more than 8 of which may be canvasbacks, redheads, scaups, teal, shovelers or gadwall. The possession limit for ducks was reduced from 30 to 24 and on the six species above mentioned from 20 to 16.

It will be illegal this season to shoot wood ducks, ruddy ducks and buffleheads but this will not matter much to local nimrods as few of these species are sighted in this country.

The open season on pheasants in Nebraska also was definitely fixed by state authorities last week as October 22 to 31, inclusive.

HOLIDAY ASS'N ASKS STORES TO STOP OLEO SALE

Influential Farm Group Goes on Record Opposing Substitute Butter Irrigation Okeyed.

The Farmers' Holiday association, probably the most influential farm organization in Valley county and claiming a majority of the farmers of this county as members, Saturday evening met in the lobby of the court house in Ord and went on record as opposing the sale of oleomargarine by all merchants.

Present at the meeting were Anton Welniak, acting president, E. S. Coats, secretary, Frank Carkoski, treasurer, and the following township committeemen: Olie Nelson, Ben Mason, Charles Arnold, Walter Coats, Philip Mrsny, Henry Vodehnal, Will Nelson. This group, with other township committeemen not present, makes up the organization's executive committee which has power to act for the association.

The resolution passed by the Farm Holiday association says:

"Because the butter substitute known as oleomargarine is made up of 71 per cent cocoanut oil produced by cheap foreign labor, and

Because oleomargarine comes into direct competition with butter, the product upon which farmers rely for money to buy the ordinary necessities of life,

Therefore, be it resolved by the Farmers' Holiday association of Valley county, representing a majority of farmers in the county, that we go on record as condemning the sale of oleo and the shortsightedness of merchants who advertise and sell it to the detriment of the dairy farmer, and

Be it resolved, furthermore, that we oppose the sale or keeping for sale of this product by every merchant in Valley county and urge that the practice be immediately discontinued.'"

The secretary was directed to send a copy of this resolution to the president of the state organization and urge that similar resolutions be adopted by every county of Nebraska and that other states in the dairy belt take similar action.

Another resolution passed unanimously by the Farmers' Holiday group was an endorsement of the North Loup and Middle Loup irrigation and power projects, with a recommendation that the federal government loan money to carry out these projects immediately.

Elmer King Passed Away on Tuesday

Elmer King, well known Valley county farmer who lived near Ord for many years but moved to Pleasant Hill neighborhood a couple of years ago, passed away Tuesday morning at his farm home after a long illness with cancer of the liver. His body was brought to the Sowl funeral parlors and funeral arrangements have not yet been made. Obituary details are not available this week.

Rev. Spracklen To Amherst; Michigan Woman Sent to Ord

After five years as pastor of the Ord United Brethren church, Rev. H. H. Spracklen last week was transferred to Amherst, Nebr., by the state conference, the change being made at his own request. Rev. Spracklen has been in the ministry forty years without a single year's lay-off and a desire for the less onerous duties of a smaller church prompted him to ask for the transfer.

His successor at Ord will be Rev. Miss Mamie Young, of Dubois, Mich., who will arrive in a few days to assume the local pastorate. She will be the first woman to occupy the pulpit in Ord for many years.

The state conference was held in Seward and from here went Rev. and Mrs. Spracklen, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Waterman, Orin Kellison and Rev. Wantz. The latter was returned to the Midvale pastorate.

CASEY'S TRIAL IS LAUGH HIT; CROWDS SMALL

Comedy Sponsored by Auxiliary Laugh Success but Better Attendance Merited.

Screamingly funny was "Casey's Trial," the home talent play given at the high school auditorium Tuesday and Wednesday evenings under the auspices of the American Legion Auxiliary. Large can Legion Auxiliary. Rain and bad roads cut the attendance Tuesday evening but the Wednesday night crowd was larger.

Principals included Herschel McGrew, as Casey, Dale Norman as the judge, J. D. McCall and Ed Mouer as attorneys, Stanley McLain as bailiff, Ruth Haskell as Dotty Perkins, the plaintiff, and Thelma Partridge and Alfred Weigardt as her mother and father.

The comedy dealt with the mishaps of Casey, who was sued for breach of promise by Dotty Perkins and after a trial, which apparently was going against him, decided to marry the girl. The second act, even funnier than the first, dealt with Casey's wedding and in this the principals were Dr. Blessing as Rev. Potts, Dorothy Finch as the maid of honor and C. J. Mortensen as the best man, in addition to most of those who were principals in the first act.

A high class jury made up of Bill Ayres, D. E. Troyer, Jay Auble, Margaret Frazier, Dr. Joe Kruml, Alma Baker, John Misko, Elinor Dworak, Joe Puncochar, Esther Zulkoski, John Goddard and Dr. Osentowski heard the arguments of the attorneys and contributed much to the general merriment with their comments and actions. Four comedy witnesses, Bill Sheehan, Jerry Petska, Dr. Walford Johnson and H. T. Frazier performed their parts well.

In the wedding act the bridal couple were preceded to the altar by a group of flower girls made up of Mabel Tedro, Bess Sweet, Mazie Fox, Beth Molzen, Winnie Johnson and Orpha Jirak, attired in variegated costumes. The Hummin' Bird orchestra directed by Joe Puncochar put forth spasms of music during the ceremony.

One of the most enjoyable parts of the performance was the work of the girls' chorus of forty, who danced very prettily and sang several numbers. An orchestra led by Orville Sowl performed acceptably between acts.

"Casey's Trial" was directed by Miss Gladys Lindly and to her much of the credit for its success is due. She was ably assisted by Mrs. Cecil Clark as general chairman of the Auxiliary committee in charge of the production. The production deserved to be more largely attended as it was one of the best home talent plays ever presented in Ord.

1.64 Inches of Rain Fell Here This Week

A general rain fell Monday and Tuesday over most of Valley county, the moisture total in Ord being 1.64 inches. The recent hot spell was broken and fall pastures were much benefitted by the moisture, though it came too late to help most of the corn. More rain is prophesied for this week.

—Mrs. Edmund Geis of El Centro, Calif., is leaving this week end for her home. She was formerly Miss Maude Jackman and has been visiting in Ord and with her people near North Loup for several weeks.

—Stanley Jurzenski and his sister, Mrs. Lewis Wegrzyn drove to Grand Island Monday. On the way home they stopped in Elba for a short visit with their mother.

YOUNG MAN GETS 30-DAY SENTENCE ON BEER CHARGE

North Louper Started Breaking Bottles When Officers Raided His Home.

James Preston, 23, of North Loup will have thirty days in which to reflect upon the folly of manufacturing and selling home-brew beer without first buying a state manufacturers' license. The law against making and selling home-brew beer is much more severe now than it was before 3.2 beer was legalized in Nebraska, as young Preston learned last Thursday when he appeared in county court and was sentenced to 30 days in jail at hard labor by Judge John L. Andersen.

Preston's home was raided last Wednesday evening by Marshal Glen Johnson of North Loup and Deputy Sheriff Archie Keep. In a cave in the yard they found Preston busily engaged in putting bottles of beer into an ice-filled tub. When the officers went into the cave Preston started throwing bottles against the cement wall, with the intention of destroying the evidence. The air was filled with flying glass for a while, officers say, and both Deputy Sheriff Keep and young Preston were cut by the glass. The officers got six or seven unbroken bottles for evidence, however.

In county court the next day Preston pleaded guilty to possession of beer and admitted in court that he had sold some of the illegal beverage. He is married and six weeks ago became the father of a child, he said. Unable to get work, he tried to make a living for his family by making beer, he testified. He had realized only about $6 from the sale of beer.

"People who have paid heavy license fees for the privilege of selling legal 3.2 per cent beer must be protected,'" said County Judge Andersen in sentencing young Preston to 30 days in jail. Under the law a fine of $1,000 and imprisonment up to one year could have been administered and Judge Andersen indicated that if the penalty given Preston is not severe enough to curb beer bootlegging he is prepared to be more severe.

The home-brew taken in the Preston raid was analyzed by Dr. H. N. Norris, county physician, and tested 7.95 per cent alcohol by volume.

Escape Injuries.

Owen Portis and Harold Schaffner of Olean miraculously escaped injury Sunday evening when Portis lost control of his car and it plunged over a ten foot embankment into Mira Creek after striking loose gravel on the highway near the Ed Verstraete farm. The car was wrecked.

Wheat Campaign On Until September 25th

According to an announcement from Washington received today at the county agent's office, the wheat allotment campaign is to be continued until September 25.

This will give every farmer a final opportunity to sign up. After September 25 no more applications will be accepted.

Many applications have been received at the county agent's office the past week, and it appears that practically all farmers who grow wheat regularly in this county will sign up.

—Sunday Mrs. Lillian Crow and daughters, Misses Lillian and Merna drove to Grand Island. Miss Lillian stayed and will be employed by a Miss Tangerman in a small bakery.

Mad Bulls, Vicious Dogs—And Now a Rattlesnake

Add to the dangers of appraising farm property for the Federal Land Bank the possibility of being bitten by poisonous reptiles.

When Ray R. Kocina accepted an appointment as Federal Land Bank appraiser for Valley county he was prepared to brave such dangers as mad bulls, vicious dogs, swarming bees and possibly irate farmers. But he hadn't expected rattlesnakes.

Monday morning while appraising a farm about five miles south of Ord Kocina saw a three-foot rattlesnake lying in his path. The reptile was logy and would not have molested him, Kocina believes, but he wasn't taking any chances so seized a club and crushed the poisonous reptile's head. Then he brought the snake to town and it was displayed in the McLain-Sorensen Drug company's window for a few days.

He found the snake near an abandoned prairie dog town, Mr. Kocina reports. It was a big one and sported nine rattles but Kocina says it was a baby compared with the snake that shed its skin in the same pasture. The discarded skin showed the snake to have been at least five feet long. When the duties of his job abate a little he will go back to the pasture and try to find this Grandpa Rattler, Kocina says.

Home Loan Office Ready to Function

A meeting held in Scottsbluff Monday, with attorneys and appraisers of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, completes the program of instructions for the taking of applications on the part of those desiring to refund and refinance their loans through this corporation. The meeting in Scottsbluff was held under the direction of Paul Jones, assistant state manager.

Heretofore applications have been made to the home offices direct. It would not be feasible, however, for many borrowers to drive the long distance from their homes to the home office of the district, and in order to facilitate the taking of applications, local attorneys have been appointed for the purpose. With a local attorney appointed for every county, home owners who come within the scope of this law have the facilities open to them for making their applications conveniently and without expense. Prospective borrowers must bear in mind that loans with the Home Owners' Loan Corporation are made only for the purpose of refunding and refinancing mortgages and liens which were in existence on the 13th day of June, 1933. The Corporation will make new loans running for a period of fifteen years, and drawing 5 percent interest, to take up existing encumbrances and liens, including taxes. Where necessary a reasonable amount will be added to the loan for the purpose of making needed repairs.

Before seeing the local attorney, Ralph W. Norman, to make an application for a loan, the borrower should first negotiate with the present holder of his mortgage. In order that the loan may be refinanced through this governmental agency the present mortgage holder will be required to agree to accept the bonds of the Corporation in exchange for his mortgage. Unless the mortgage holder is willing to do this, in most cases, the loan cannot be refinanced. The Corporation will loan 80 percent of the appraised value where the loan is made by an exchange of bonds for the mortgage.

With the state organization complete in every detail, the facilities of this loan agency are now open to those whose circumstances are such that they are unable to meet the payments due and because of this, stand in danger of being dispossessed of their homes.

—Tuesday evening there was a family gathering in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Blessing. Guests were the Edwin Clements, Dr. F. L. Blessing, W. L. Blessing and Earl Blessing families, Alvin Blessing, Mr. and Mrs. Will Bartlett and Miss Murl Bartlett and the young men of the Clarence Blessing home. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Hull, Victor, Ia., and R. L. Fleming of Bloomington, Kas.

—Miss Delpha M. Taylor, of Lincoln, recently spent ten days near Ord as the guest of relatives, Mrs. W. D. Wiberg and Mrs. C. H. Finley. She was also having some repair work done on her property here, which is now occupied by George Anderson and family.

TAX LEAGUE IN SESSION SAT'DAY O.K.'s IRRIGATION

Court Room Crowded Saturday When Group Approved Big Hydro-Electric Project.

Meeting in the district court room here for the first time in several months, the Taxpayers' League of Valley county Saturday afternoon passed resolutions urging the public works board to grant federal loans for both the North Loup and Middle Loup irrigation projects. The meeting was well attended and a number of important matters were discussed.

The motion to pass a resolution favoring irrigation was made by A. W. Cornell and was seconded by Burt Sell. After considerable discussion it was passed by a vast majority and Secretary C. E. Goodhand was directed to send copies of the resolution to the public works board.

President Jos. J. Waldmann presided at the meeting and led discussion on the proposition of forming taxpayers' leagues in each township of Valley county. On motion by Burt Sell, seconded by Joe Holoun, the president was directed to appoint a committee of two in each township to promote township leagues and also to appoint a representative from each township to confer with the county board.

Mr. Waldmann appointed the following:

Arcadia—R. B. Williams, Ed Nelson.

North Loup—J. E. Lee, Ben Eberhart.

Ord—Chas. Sternecker, Frank Stara.

Noble—Arthur Mensing, Paul Hughes.

Independent—Roy Horner, Harry Tolen.

Enterprise—A. W. Cornell, John Hornickel.

Elyria—Jos. Smolik, Will Dodge.

Michigan—Fred Dowhower, J. G. Jablonski.

Eureka—John Zulkoski, Paul Szwanek.

Vinton—Ben Hackel, Henry Cremeen.

Davis Creek—John Lunney, Will Koelling.

Springdale—Chas. Arnold, H. M. Timmerman.

Geranium—Albert Ptacnik, Joe Holoun.

Liberty—John Hruby, Port Dunlap.

Yale—Burt Sell, Frank Holmes.

On motion of W. A. Anderson, seconded by F. J. Shotkoski, an invitation was extended to each of the county supervisors to attend the next meeting of the Taxpayers' League, which will be held in Ord October 14.

Popcorn Days Being Held at North Loup

Popcorn Days, the big celebration held annually at North Loup, started yesterday and continues throughout today. Baseball and kittenball games, band music, a parade and other home talent entertainment occupied the attention of visitors yesterday. Last night the big event of the celebration was held, the crowning of Popcorn Days queen. As usual buttered popcorn is being served to visitors free of charge.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

At Jackpine Lodge on Middle Cullen Lake, near Nisswa, Minn., Wed. Sept. 6th, 1933

Dear Quiz Readers:

These are lazy, hazy days on Cullen Lake. September is almost always beautiful here in northern Minnesota, just when summer is merging into fall, I almost said into winter for it turns cold here almost as soon as summer is gone. Just now there is a heavy smoke in the air, so dense as to make it look like a fog and almost hides the sun. We don't know where it comes from but suppose there is a fire in the heavier timber to the northeast, as the wind is in that direction. We are hoping there will be a light frost very soon for in just a few days after a light frost the leaves on the oak trees will be all shades of red. Already the shumacs are turning red, some bushes are scarlet and very pretty against the darker red or purple of the sumac bobs. The basswood, birch and poplars are turning yellow, showing that fall is close, though no doubt the continued dry weather has hurried the color turning process somewhat. A little frost will make the whole picture look like a great painting and nothing can be more beautiful than the shore lines at certain times in the fall. We will be leaving for Ord very shortly now and fear we are going to miss the late fall colors this season. The frost will have to come soon if we do not. The farmers are anticipating the coming of frost for they are all getting their corn into silos as fast as possible. For two days now we have heard the constant hum of the corn shredder or ensilage cutter on the Waus farm over the hill to the northeast and big loads of the cut fodder go rumbling along our back lot line on the road, for Mr. Waus raises his fodder down the road a mile or so having no land broken out up on the lake shore where his buildings are.

We are not quite so lonesome here the past few days for Mr. Ilgenfritz of Burwell, with his daughter and son-in-law and their adorable baby boy Ben are in the Fenner cottage just over the fence. The men folks lose very little daylight from fishing, and while I have not heard, I suspect that they do not plan on staying long. Monday they fished so late on the upper lake that they got lost while trying to come home late in the evening and one of the men landed and walked down the lake shore and turned the car headlight on as a beacon for the other to guide the boat to coming into the dock. They explained that they got to catching big bullheads about coming home time and just couldn't quit. They have been getting lots of fish but were out of luck this forenoon, as they came in at noon with just one fish as a result of a half day's fishing. The Missus and I went out about ten o'clock and came in at noon and didn't even have one fish to show. The fish are on a strike for two days now. Before that we caught plenty and they may be going good again by tomorrow. I caught the limit of bass two days running the first of the week, in a couple of hours in the morning and the last two days, couldn't get a bass. No large ones have been caught however.

It is still dry here. Clouds up, thunders and lightens and sprinkles a few drops and that is the end of it. It is also real warm the past few days so that we do not need a fire even in the evening and the lake is a delight when we get into our bathing clothes each afternoon.

Sunday after dinner we drove up to the Mrs. Ira Johnston home and with her and her father and the Simpsons, went out in the woods to gather hazelnuts. There are, or were, great quantities of them this year. We brought home a bran sack full and spread them out on the floor upstairs to dry and hope we can shuck them before time to come home. Some years the hazelnuts are very wormy but this year they are quite free from worms. It is something different to do than anything in Nebraska and we enjoyed the experience and when we eat the nuts this winter we can recall the experiences of the day gathering them. We got them on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Josep, former Beatrice, Nebraska people, though I believe they have been in this country a long time.

When we left Ord we took along a couple of peach crates of our good tomatoes and having used the last of them, we went to a farm near Pequot where we saw them advertised, to get some, yesterday. We not only got the tomatoes but three heads of cabbage, some carrots, a nice squash and some melons. This is a great garden country, only the dry weather this season, has been a serious handicap to the people who depend on raising stuff to sell to the tourists.

[illegible] are expecting Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Hallaway from Harlan Iowa [illegible] week end for a few days visit. [illegible] has not had a vacation for a [illegible] of years and I hope the fish [illegible] up before he comes. A letter just received from him says he will be expecting fish for supper when he arrives. That would be quite a contract today if I didn't happen to have a nice bunch in the live box.

Sept. 8, 1933

Since writing and mailing the above we have had lots of excitement and a change of weather. When we drove to Nisswa to mail the above we were told at the postoffice that the railroad depot was broken into the night before and 11 sacks of mail stolen. We had sent to Eugene for some magazines that we wanted and he wrote that they were on the way. They must have been in the sacks stolen. The padlock on the depot door was knocked off. The mail comes in from both north and south during the night and is thrown into the depot and left there for the postmaster to get in the morning. It was thought that the robbery took place between 4 a. m. and daylight, as the village electric lights are turned off at 4 a. m. and everything is closed for a couple of hours. The postmaster informed us that there was only one registered letter in the mail and we did not learn the value of the loot stolen. It was said that no finger prints or other traces were left. The sheriff and several railway detectives arrived within a few hours. If they had any idea who did the job they were keeping still about it.

And Wednesday it started raining and we have had plenty of water since. I don't know how much but would guess a couple of inches at least. The Missus and I were rained off the lake yesterday morning after we got one nice bass but went out in the afternoon and got 7 more, the largest one 4 lbs. We also got wet for it drizzled most of the time. We got up at 4:30 this morning and with Ray went to Gull, getting onto the lake at 6 o'clock. At 8 we had to hurry for shore and got a good wetting before we got in.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

This column needs more recipes at once. Please do your share. Please do your share. You read the recipes every week, use some of them, brag on them, but do you ever send in any?

Recipes from experienced cooks are especially requested and fall dishes will be greatly welcome. Please cooperate and do your share without further prodding. This column will be discontinued if you do not.

Here is a recipe requested by a number of friends of Mrs. Gregory.

Lazy Daisy Apple Dumplings.

Place a pan with one quart of water on stove. Season with sugar, nutmeg and a little butter. If fresh fruit is used slice four or five large apples in a bowl, add one-half pint of water, sugar and nutmeg to taste. If canned fruit is used it will take from a pint to one and one-half pints, and usually contains enough water. Add one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, stir in enough flour for stiff cake dough. Drop in boiling water and stir twice while cooking. Serve with cream. These are very good.

Mrs. J. E. Gregory, sr., Muleshoe, Tex.

Dutch Pumpkin Pie.

This is an old time recipe, but everyone enjoys it.

Fill a pastry lined pie tin with thinly sliced uncooked pumpkin, cut into half inch lengths. Cover with one tablespoon each of flour, molasses and vinegar and four tablespoons of brown sugar. Dust with cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg and add the top crust. When the pie is baked it resembles sliced citron and is delicious.

Mrs. Mike Noha, Ord.

Good Canned Tomatoes.

To one gallon tomatoes add one tablespoon salt and one-half cup sugar, cook and seal while hot.

Mrs. C. W. Bebee.

Magic Butter Rolls.

To one and one-half cups bread flour add one teaspoon salt and one-half cup butter or other shortening, combining as for pie crust. Mix one-fourth cup hot water and one-fourth cup milk, add two cakes compressed yeast which have been dissolved in a little lukewarm water, with one tablespoon sugar. Beat until smooth. Let rise until light, then add three eggs, one teaspoon vanilla, and one and one-half cups more flour. The dough will be stiff but slightly sticky. Tie the dough loosely in a square of some soft material. I use a flour sack. Then drop in a pail of cool water. When the dough has risen to the top remove from the water and turn the dough on a platter. Cut off pieces the size of an egg, roll in one-half cup sugar which has been mixed with one cup chopped nuts. Place on a baking sheet. Allow to stand five minutes. Bake in a hot oven.

Marie Boyce.

Fruit Salad.

Peel and quarter three dozen fresh peaches, and three dozen fresh pears, and using one gallon broken slices of pineapple and one gallon can of apricots, and a small jar of maraschino cherries, pack all different kinds of fruit in sterilized jars. Add two or three cherries to each one. Use the cold pack method, boil twenty minutes and then seal tight. The boiling method may be used too, just let the fruit come to a good boil. This makes 16 quarts.

Mrs. O. E. Wesenberg, Omaha.

Trucks Valuable Horses.

Charlie Hather Thursday trucked two valuable horses from Omaha to the Lee Huff farm south of Ord, farmed by Mr. Huff's nephew, Howard Huff. The horses had been trucked to Omaha from Lee Huff's summer home at Lake Okiboji and will be wintered on the Huff farm here. Both are valuable riding horses and it is reported that Mr. Huff paid $800 for one of them.

Something - DIFFERENT

Marilyn McBeth came home from school, her very first day, and told her mother proudly: "I didn't even get one spanking!"

Next day at noon, when Marilyn came in, Mrs. McBeth asked her how everything went at Kindergarten that morning and received the astonishing answer, "I only got one spanking, Mama."

This shocked her mother considerably, but an older brother, Bobbie spoke up and said, "Yes, but it didn't count, because it was on the playground." It seems Marilyn had got at least one spank, for not staying in line.

Preston Loomis' little daughter recently had trouble conveying some information to playmates across the street, and seized the opportunity to show off some of her learning.

"I've got a dog," she screamed to her chums. A wavery "What?" greeted this remark about the first three times she made it.

Finally the little girl cried out: "I say I've got a dog, a dog, you know, a g-o-d (spelling it out) a dog!"

Date Auble is very mysterious when friends ask him about his bruised countenance. He just won't tell. You don't suppose he'd pick a fight with anyone, do you? A good citizen like Mr. Auble?

In these modern days many people forget there are still those who thoroughly disapprove of any and all drinking, smoking, etc. Even though it is now legalized.

An Ord woman recently had occasion to recall this, when her school girl left abruptly. The head of the house had put two bottles of beer on ice, as he expected some gentlemen friends in for cards that evening. The school girl went to the ice box, saw the bottles and rushed upstairs and packed her belongings.

When asked for a reason for her speedy packing, she announced indignantly, "I won't stay in any house where there is drinking and such goings-on!" She left and stayed left.

Mrs. Roscoe Garnick of Ord loaned a dress one hundred years old to the No Lo Study club of North Loup, recently, to be used in a style show. In this show were displayed two ancient bonnets, one of them said to be 200 years old. Another garment loaned for display was the gray silk lansdown wedding dress of Mrs. Paul Hanson, which was very interesting to those present. The bridal dress was made with wasp waist, a very wide skirt, yards around, and leg-o-mutton sleeves, as of the vintage of 1896.

Wasp waists and yard-wide skirts are not in style now, but leg-o-mutton sleeves are certainly not to be sneered at, as you may know just from scanning any style pamphlet full of suggested frocks for autumn, 1933.

When You and I Were Young, Maggie

25 Years Ago This Week.

G. G. Clement took his fine whiteface cattle to the Iowa and Nebraska state fairs and won many ribbons at each show. From Lincoln he shipped the cattle to a fair in Denver, thus passing up the Valley county fair for the first time in years.

Russell Mann contracted with Springdale school district to teach another year there. His friends in that locality gave him a handsome writing desk in appreciation of his fine work.

Joe Bartos was building a large store at Elyria and went to Omaha to buy his opening stock of goods.

J. W. Carkoski was trimming a horse's hoof and the horse jumped and plunged the knife into his owner's leg, inflicting a nasty cut.

The Valley county fair was on and of all the fine exhibits of livestock the Stichler stallions were attracting most attention from lovers of horse flesh.

The little daughter of Silas Criss of Arcadia was kicked in the head by a horse and several stitches had to be taken.

While acting as policeman at the state fair, Wilmore Gray had an altercation with a Lincoln tough who was trying to deliver a sack of bottled liquids, same being forbidden on the fair grounds. Gray got some pretty hard blows in the fight but managed to subdue the tough.

20 Years Ago This Week.

The much heralded Shirley and Moses ball game got well under way at the park only to be stopped by rain. Moses, the challenging party, had Dutch Berger and Ky Castle for his battery. Bud Shirley had Alan Clements and Henry Misko. Bud and Bill played second base on their respective teams. It was promised that the game would be played over when more suitable weather came.

J. C. Meese's fine Poland Chinas carried off $350 in prize money at the Lincoln state fair. Mr. Meese went from there to Topeka with his herd.

The Farmers Co-op creamery at Sargent was leased to the Ravenna Creamery company and Otis Moorman went from Ord to manage the plant.

Daughter Has Meningitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hejsek were Grand Island visitors last week, going down to see their daughter who is a student nurse at St. Francis hospital and is very ill with spinal meningitis. Though she suffers greatly the girl will recover, doctors believe.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

It cost Harold Benn $1.89 an acre to raise barley this summer. Like every other grower of small grain, he lost money. In spite of the loss he completed a neat and accurate project record book. It includes some interesting facts.

CREDITS
30 bu. barley grain	$9.00
4 tons barley hay feed	5.00
Total credits	$14.00
DEBITS
Seed	$ 6.70
Two-fifths rent	3.60
44 hours horse labor	5.50
16 hours tractor labor	12.64
Interest	.16
Total debits	$28.60
Labor Income	—$14.60
Charge for 39 hrs. man labor	4.87
Net Loss	—$19.47

Machinery drawn by horses is covered by the horse labor charge of 12 1-2 cents per horse per hour. Man labor is also charged at this figure. The cost of a two-bottom plow tractor was estimated to be about 79 cents an hour.

A mower was used to cut the grain. Twine costs were eliminated. Harold paid his father the threshing bill by giving him the straw, and pasturage of the stubble.

The field was double-disked and harrowed. The seed was planted about the first of April at the rate of 2 bushels per acre. Formaldehyde was sprinkled on it to prevent smut. The seed was of the Trebic variety.

The crop was ruined by the drought in June. Harold concludes that it doesn't pay to grow small grain in this locality, but that it is necessary in order to make out a crop rotation.

Becomes Radio Engineer.

That Kenneth Bryan, of North Loup, recently passed a federal radio examination at St. Paul, Minn., and is now licensed to act as chief radio engineer of any station in the United States, was the news brought to Ord friends last week by Kenneth's mother, Mrs. R. H. Bryan. The young man formerly was an officer in the signal service of the U. S. marine corps. He has many friends in Ord.

ON THE SQUARE . . . AND OFF

By E. C. Leggett.

Back to the old home where my boyhood days were spent! How many of us have taken sentimental journeys of that sort. Tom Goff is the latest, returning last week from a 3,200 mile jaunt through Michigan, Illinois and Indiana including a visit to his old home in the latter state. Tom operates one of the best hatcheries in the North Loup valley country and is one hatchery owner who believes in keeping abreast of his profession. So he attended the national baby chick convention in Grand Rapids, Mich., and also a poultry clinic at Ames, Ia. He also spent a few days at the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago.

But the best part of the trip, Tom says, was his visit at his old home in Indiana. Every hill, every field was familiar. He visited kinsfolks whom he hadn't met for years. And he saw the paw-paw trees loaded with fruit, a sight he hadn't seen since he was a boy. The paw-paws weren't quite ripe but he made arrangements with a friend to ship him a few when they ripened and this editor was privileged to eat one last Saturday.

Of course Mrs. Goff and the boy were present on the trip and it was a rare experience for all of them.

And speaking of keeping abreast of one's profession, Dr. C. W. Weekes is a striking example. He told me recently that since he has been practicing medicine he has taken postgraduate work in Chicago 32 times. He left for another seige of post work in Chicago just last week.

A bouquet of posies to Rev. Willard McCarthy, who is always planning novel programs at the Ord Christian church. His latest is a lantern slide program showing beautiful Ord homes, yards and gardens. Rev. McCarthy is coloring the slides himself and the program will be very interesting, surely. It will be given in the high school auditorium or some other suitable place and people of all denominations will be urged to see it.

Charlie Hather tells me that since beer became legal in Nebraska the danger of driving a truck at night has increased many-fold. In going from Ord to Omaha after dark he meets dozens of drunken drivers nowadays, Charlie says. But he doesn't blame it on 3.2 beer. It is lack of enforcement of all prohibition laws that causes it, he believes. In Omaha there is no liquor law enforcement whatever, it appears. Federal authorities, hampered by lack of funds, have quit their efforts. City authorities in Omaha never did care. Sunday nights are especially bad and from Clarks to Omaha a truck driver must watch his step then or he'll find himself in the ditch, Charlie avers.

The feud between golfers, football fans and kittenballers over where the lighted field shall go in Bussell park is causing the park board a few sleepless nights. Football and kittenball addicts want the field in the natural ampitheatre across from the picnic grounds. Golfers say putting it there will knock out three holes of Ord's fine golf course. On the theory that Bussell park is owned by the city, that golf is played by a comparative few and football and kittenball by many, the field should probably be put where the majority desires it put. But, on the other hand, upkeep of the park will be a costly proposition if the golf club should decide to lease land for a course elsewhere. Nobody will envy W. A. Anderson, C. C. Shepard and L. D. Milliken, who must make the unpleasant decision.

Steven Dubas, one of the good farmers of the Elyria neighborhood, was a pleasant Quiz visitor Saturday and says that his neighbors mostly are in favor of irrigation and will take water as soon as it becomes available. Mr. Dubas has two farms that will be under the ditch and he plans to irrigate both of them. In July his corn crop looked like it would make 60 bushels, Mr. Dubas says. Now he doesn't look for it to go over 20 and possibly not that high.

NRA MEMBER U.S. CHEVROLET

"Proud and glad to do our part"

WITH President Roosevelt's acceptance of the NRA Automobile Code, Chevrolet, the world's largest builder of motor cars, officially begins operations in accordance with the administration's recovery program.

Although the official code was signed only a few days ago, it will be of interest to Chevrolet's many friends to learn that the Chevrolet Motor Company started to carry out the spirit of today's recovery program over three years ago!

At that time, we put into operation a "share-the-work" plan, whereby our workmen cooperated in spreading the work to give more men jobs. By means of this plan, as well as by regulating hours of work per week to meet retail demand, and by building up parts stocks in lean seasons, it was possible to carry 33,000 men on our payroll through the depression. For eleven months of each year since 1929, we have kept our employment within 10 per cent of this average. We are justly proud of that record. We are also proud to say that Chevrolet workmen did not, at any time during the depression, become a burden on public welfare departments.

On August 1st of this year, Chevrolet announced a blanket wage increase as well as the adoption of a 7½-hour, 5-day week and the employment of 12,000 additional men. This wage increase was the second in the last 4 months, Chevrolet having been among the first to put a blanket wage increase into effect.

We feel that the President's recovery program deserves the whole-hearted support of every citizen and manufacturer in America. It is a bold, swift, courageous plan to start the ball rolling toward economic recovery. Its sincerity is unquestioned. Its objectives are admirable. And the direct, forceful steps the President and his associates are taking to make it a success, should stir the pride and admiration of every American.

We are proud and glad to do our part. And we are deeply grateful to the American people for the patronage that has enabled us to anticipate the present recovery program and to play our part today. After all, the immense number of men employed by Chevrolet is a direct result of the continued preference America has shown for Chevrolet.

Experience ... Counts!

Too many people think that all it takes to run a meat market successfully is to install a refrigerator counter and a stock of meat and go to doing business.

But that isn't all it takes. EXPERIENCE is the necessary ingredient. It takes long years of experience to know how to choose meats, cut them up properly and handle them so that they reach the consumer in prime condition.

With every cut of meat that you purchase here you buy, also, our EXPERIENCE. We know how and we have the proper equipment with which to work. Don't take chances in your meat buying. Buy from an EXPERIENCED market.

A study of the tax levies for 1933 in Arcadia as compared with the levies for 1932 discloses some interesting figures. Increases are noted in the general fund levies of the state, county, village and school district. Small increases were also made in the township road fund and the village park fund and a village relief fund of six-tenths mill was levied for 1933 which had not been levied heretofore. Decreases occurred in the state capitol fund, the county bridge fund, the village sinking fund and the township bridge fund. The levy for 1932 totaled 21.47 mills while the levy for 1933 totals 27.79, an increase of approximately thirty percent. It is understod that the state board of equalization made a flat reduction of twenty percent in real estate values over the state. This being the case a piece of property which was valued at $1,000 in Arcadia for 1932 taxation would have been required to pay $21.47 in taxes. For 1933 this amount will be increased to $22.33.

Proceedings Of The County Board

September 5, 1933, at 10:00 A. M.

Meeting called to order by Chairman with supervisors Sorensen, Desmul, Ball, Vasicek, Hansen, Barber and Johnson present upon roll call.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

Bank balances as of August 31, 1933, read as follows: First National Bank, Ord, $36,103.02; Nebraska State Bank, Ord, $15,193.13; Arcadia State Bank, $7,943.69; Elyria State Bank, $3,437.07; First National Bank, Arcadia, $5,378.49.

Resolution adopted by Arcadia Community club, read as follows:

RESOLUTION.

To the Honorable County Board Ord, Nebraska

The Arcadia Community club at its regular meeting of August 22, 1933, having been fully informed and advised as to the facts and knowing the existing conditions regarding the building and grading of a much needed road, being more fully described as follows, to-wit:

Commencing at the northwest corner of the Northeast quarter Section Twenty-nine (29) Arcadia Township West of the Village of Arcadia about two miles, and running thence due South along the Section line one-half (½) mile and connecting State Highway number 57, with Sherman County Highway South to Litchfield, which matter is to be brought up before your Honorable Body, has passed the following Resolution:

WHEREAS: the citizens of this Community feel it would be a great benefit to them to have the road described above opened.

We respectfully ask your honorable body to cast a unanimous vote for the building and maintaining of said described road, whereby the citizens of southwestern Valley County, Nebraska and the surrounding territory may have a much better road to travel, thereby benefitting all persons in said locality and elsewhere by decreasing traveling expenses, besides affording a connecting link from the new State Highway Number 57 with towns and territory to the Southwest.

Respectfully submitted,
A. E. Haywood, President
Max Wall, Secretary

Upon motion duly seconded and carried, foregoing resolution having been read, was ordered placed on file.

Resolution authorizing Nebraska State Bank of Ord, to withdraw from the Omaha National Bank of Omaha, as trustee, City of Madison, Nebr., refunding bond No. 3, of $1,000.00, same having been called for payment, was unanimously adopted by the Board, upon motion duly carried.

Upon motion duly seconded and carried, C. J. Mortensen was allowed $5.00 per month rent of rooms, occupied by Mrs. Clarence Fox and children, from Sept. 1, 1933, until further order of the Board.

Official bond of Mike Gregoryski, road overseer district No. 3, bearing the endorsement of the committee on bonds, was formally approved by the board, upon motion duly carried.

Official bond of J. H. Hruby, road overseer district No. 18, bearing the endorsement of the committee on bonds, was formally approved by the board, upon motion duly carried.

Supervisor Hansen then introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption.

RESOLUTION.

Whereas, there is now pending before the State Advisory Board of the National Public Works Administration Applications for loans to construct irrigation and hydro-electric projects in the North Loup River Valley and the Middle Loup Valley and

Whereas, this Board believes these projects are feasible and would be of material benefit to Valley county, Nebraska, and its residents for the following reasons: 1. That on account of the widespread financial and economical depression there are a great many unemployed men in the Valley, many of whom are now being cared for by public and private charity.

2. That a great many men who have thus far been able to take care of their families will become public charges unless economic conditions change materially within the next few months.

3. That on account of depression now existing a vast number of residents in said County have been unable to pay either their personal or real estate tax and this failure to pay taxes has materially hampered this Board in the administration of the affairs of the County.

That in the opinion of this Board the allowance of these loans and the commencing of work upon these two projects will materially relieve the situation by putting men to work and thus enabling them to care for their families and pay their taxes and other obligations.

Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Valley, The State of Nebraska, that this Board heartily approve said projects for the reason that the allowance of said loans and construction of said projects will not only bring about a production of better and surer crops within the County but will also relieve a serious financial and economical condition existing in said county, and

Be it further resolved, that a copy of this Resolution properly certified by the County Clerk of Valley County, Nebraska, be delivered to said State Advisory Board of the National Public Works Administration.

Motion to adopt foregoing resolution was seconded by Ball, and upon roll call, supervisors voted as follows: Sorensen, yes; Desmul, yes; Ball, yes; Vasicek, yes; Hansen, yes; Barber, yes; Johnson, yes. Said motion having received the unanimous vote of all supervisors, Chairman declared same carried and foregoing resolution duly adopted.

Woodman Hall

About one-half of an inch of rain fell here early Monday morning. The temperature has changed considerably and is more pleasant than the hot winds of last week.

Our school started last Monday with ten pupils enrolled and Miss Minnie Holoun as teacher. Wilma Vancura and Donald Waldmann are new pupils, Wilma in the sixth grade and Donald as a beginner. The Vancura family moved into this neighborhood last spring.

Several from this neighborhood attended the Golden Jubilee celebration at Sargent last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Miss Lillian Krikac went to Grand Island last Wednesday and is spending some time there.

A large crowd attended the dance and accordian contest at the Community hall Sunday evening. Eight contestants entered and $16 in prizes were given, the first being $6. Jos. Lukesh won first and John Bower second. The Lukesh orchestra played for the dance.

Frank Krikac is making plans to build a barn on his farm which is ocupied by Lawrence Waldmann. Charles Parkos of Burwell is to do the building.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Waldmann, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph John and their families made a trip up to the Bahy pastures north of Taylor Sunday. They took their lunches with them and had a picnic at noon and returned late that evening.

Miss Wilma Krikac spent the week end with her parents. She is attending high school in Ord and is staying at the Will Kokes home there.

Mr. and Mrs. John Parkos and daughter Bernice drove to Farwell last Wednesday and spent some time visiting at the home of Mrs. Parkos' sister Mrs. Studnilka.

Albert Parkos and family drove to New Helena last Tuesday and attended the wedding dance given in honor of Blanch Hosek of Sargent and Jos. Kinesh of Anselmo.

The trustees and members of the Geranium church held a meeting after mass last Sunday to make plans for their annual celebration to be held on St. Wenceslaus day, Sept. 28. It was decided to have an all day celebration and the committees are busy completing their plans for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. George Puncochar and baby of Burwell visited at the James Petska home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ptacnik and family spent Sunday afternoon at the Jos. Parkos home near Taylor.

Miss Anna Weverka is attending high school in Comstock.

Mr. and Mrs. John Weverka drove to Dorchester, Nebr., and spent some time visiting at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Edw. Jarolimek last week.

Four Valley County Reforestation Boys Write Interesting Letter From Chadron

Sidney Fuller, of North Loup, David Aubert, of Arcadia, Clarence Beehrle and Edward Lacina, of Ord, who are members of Valley county's reforestation delegation and are stationed near Chadron, last week wrote an interesting letter about their work to Ralph W. Norman, who had charge of reforestation enlistments in this county. The Quiz is privileged to print this letter, which is signed by all of the boys:

Mr. Ralph Norman,
Ord, Nebraska
Dear Sir:

Just a few lines that should have been written a lot sooner to tell you how we are getting along. We expect you may think that we didn't appreciate your kindness and help at the time of our enrollment but we surely do appreciate the jobs you made possible for us. We couldn't have found better jobs than this no matter how we tried.

Although we were enrolled late we think we were lucky in drawing the most beautiful spot of any of the camps in Nebraska. The park consists of 800 acres of some of the most beautiful pine trees along the pine ridge district that extends into Nebraska. As we rise in the morning amid the sweet odor of pines we feel thoroughly refreshed and ready for a day's work.

After afising our first duty is to our stomachs which is satisfied by Edward Lacina and the rest of the cooks including Art Merrill, who used to work in the New cafe at Ord. The boys are well pleased with the food and accommodations received here at camp.

The work is very interesting and educational due to the fact that we have classes and practical experience in all of our work. The classes consist of forestry, surveying, botany and trigonometry. There is a saw mill in the park and the work is carried on like it is in a regular lumber camp. There are five trucks in camp to carry on the heavy work, one being driven by Dave Aubert and another by Clarence Beehrle.

On Wednesday and Saturday nights two to four of the trucks take the boys to Chadron where we are privileged to attend the shows and dances, which forms a welcome break in the monotony of camp. The boys enjoy the dances very much because there are about 500 girls attending Chadron Normal, who also attend the dances.

On Sundays there is church in the park for the Protestant boys and the Catholic boys go to town.

Sidney Fuller has been on the kitchen force for quite a while and although he is not one of the cooks he is getting a lot of practical experience.

Well, it is raining and if we don't want to get wet we had better hunt our tents, so will close."

Has Rare Pheasants.

Recent arrivals on Frank Koupal's beautiful acreage west of Bussell park are some gold and silver pheasants, brought here from a Lincoln game farm by Irl Tolen recently. The male birds have beautiful gold and silver plumage but the females look much like female Chinese pheasants. Mr. Koupal will no doubt be pleased to show the pheasants to visitors, upon request.

—George Watson and Guy Vincent left Wednesday for Scottsbluff to work in the potato fields.

This Letter Will Bring Joy To Fat Folks and

Neuritis Sufferers

"Dear Sirs: I was so crippled with neuritis all down left side of my head and arm and both knees so swollen that I could hardly get up and down. At times my feet pained so badly I thought my toes would break off. I tried everything. The doctor told me I would be no better while I lived here but I stopped in a drug store in Brooklyn, N. Y., one day last November and the man in charge told me to take Kruschen for 3 weeks steady and I would get relief which I did. Never felt better and along with it, have lost weight. I weighed 210 then. Now I weigh 154 and while I'm over 50 yrs. old I feel 30. I took it for one thing—got two—so I now have 6 others here taking it." Mrs. A. V. Carr, Ft. Tilden, N. Y.

"It's the little daily dose that does it" so take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast. Get Kruschen at any live druggist in the world—a jar lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle.

Laughran Held Blameless.

In Lincoln Monday a coroner's jury held that the collision in which Fred C. Jenkins, Lincoln insurance man, was killed was "unavoidable" and held blameless Steve Laughran of Scotia, driver of the truck that killed Jenkins. Laughran formerly lived in Ord and was employed by the Graham-Seyler Chevrolet company as salesman. The accident happened last Friday.

Attends Golf Tournament.

Irvin Thelin, Union Pacific agent at North Loup and former Ord resident, left last Thursday for Cincinnati, O., where he is attending the national amateur golf tournament. Last summer Mr. Thelin attended the professional golf tourney in St. Paul, Minn. On his present trip he also expects to visit the world's fair in Chicago. H. H. Goddard, of Kearney, is agent at North Loup during Mr. Thelin's absence.

Christian Science.

The subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, for Sunday, September 17, is "Matter".

The Golden Text is from Psalms 56:4: "In God I will praise his word, in God I have put my trust; I will not fear what flesh can do to me."

A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from Isaiah 40:4, 5: "Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low: and the crooked shall be made straight and the rough places plain: And the glory of the Lord shall be revealed and all flesh shall see it together."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "The conventional firm, called matter and mind, God never formed. Science and understanding, governed by the unerring and eternal Mind, destroy the imaginary copartnership, matter and mind, formed only to be destroyed in a manner and at a period as yet unknown. This suppositional partnership is already obsolete, for matter, examined in the light of divine metaphysics, disappears." (page 274).

—Claude Watson, of Armour, S. D., arrived Monday night to visit his brother, George Watson and family. He walked as far as Burwell, coming from there to Ord with relatives.

DR. RICH says:

Grand Island, Sept. 14, 1933.

Fight cancer with knowledge is the slogan of the celebrated Dr. Bloodgood of Baltimore. With clinics and lectures this cancer expert battles every day to arouse the professions and the public against the inroads of the ravening cancer dragon.

The greatest protection against cancer is to substitute knowledge for indifference, carelessness and ignorance. The very fact that the irritation from rectal trouble is present is the best knowledge one can have and the best reason for immediate removal of that disease.

The best cure for cancer is prevention. To wait until cancer has developed is a poor time to seek a cure. Prevent any possibility of cancer beginning by having your rectal trouble taken care of as soon as possible. For further information address Dr. Rich, Rectal Special Specialist, Grand Island, Nebraska. (1)

"Mister" Farmer

Raise Your Prices by Eating Your Products

If thirty million farmers consume an extra dozen eggs per week, it means thirty million dozen or one million cases out of the market and within five weeks the tremendous surplus will be converted into a shortage and prices will automatically advance at least 5c per dozen.

One dozen eggs are worth about 11c to you. If you produce 30 dozen eggs per week at 5c advance, it means $1.50 or a net to you of $1.39 more per case than you are getting, with the satisfaction of having eaten a dozen good eggs for nothing.

If thirty million farmers eat one more pound of Butter per week, there will be thirty million pounds less on the market and in five weeks the heavy surplus will be converted into a shortage resulting in an advance of at least 5c per pound.

One pound of butter is worth about 17c to you. If you are producing 1 can of cream, equal to one-half tub of butter per week, the advance of 5c per pound means an additional $3.00 per tub, or a net gain to you on the one-half tub per week of $1.43.

You can eat your products for NOTHING and make more money.

DON'T eat substitutes and pay for them.

The government and the public are in sympathy with you, but remember, all the power of the nation cannot help the man who won't help himself.

ARCADIA SCHOOL WAS DESTROYED BY FIRE FRIDAY

Flames Wipe Out Structure Built In 1910; New Building Will Go Up at Cost of $75,000.

Arcadia, Sept. 19.—(Special)—The public school building of this village, built in 1910 at a cost of $25,000 was totally destroyed by fire of undetermined origin early last Friday morning. The opinion seems to be that the blaze was probably caused by spontaneous combustion in slack coal stored in the basement.

A near by resident discovered the blaze about 1:00 a. m. Friday and reported it immediately. Firemen with hose carts responded promptly but it was evident from the first that the structure could not be saved. Though built partly of brick, the building was not fire proof and flames gained rapid headway.

Throughout the night residents watched the fire, which was the largest and most disastrous here in many years.

Only nineteen typewriters were saved, all other furniture, equipment and books, together with a number of fine musical instruments owned by members of the high school orchestra, being totally destroyed. Books to the value of over $1,000 had been added to the school's equipment only a few days before, it is reported.

While the blaze was still raging the Arcadia board of education met and made plans to hold classes for the 300 students in church basements and empty business buildings about town. School will be resumed Monday morning, Sept. 25, with all regular departments functioning.

Insurance in the amount of $20,000 was carried on the building itself but it has been stated that only $1,800 insurance was carried on books, furniture and equipment which is only a fraction of the loss.

It may cost as much as $75,000 to build and equip a new building, members of the board of education state, but plans for the structure are already under way. Architects and lawyers were summoned immediately to lay plans for the erection of the new building on the site of the old and the Omaha firm of Latenser & Son was employed to furnish plans.

Before work can be started it will be necessary to hold a bond election to authorize the issuance of bonds to be used as security for a federal loan under the public works act. It is planned to ask for a federal grant of 30 per cent of the cost.

More Rattlesnakes Killed.

This seems to be a "rattlesnake year" for from all over Nebraska come stories about rattlers being killed in places where these reptiles have never been seen before. Although there have always been a few rattlesnakes in the hill region south of Ord they never have been seen in such numbers as this summer. Last Wednesday Fritz Kuehl killed one more than three feet long and says he had killed two smaller ones previously. Saturday Verl Madison brought a huge rattlesnake to town and said that he killed it on the Loup City highway. It was 36 inches long and had ten rattles.

Arcadia Young Man Instantly Killed

Arcadia, Sept. 19—(Special)—George Ritz, 16 years old, who lived with his parents on a farm a number of miles south of Arcadia, met instant death Friday morning when a tractor he was driving on the Ritz farm overturned, pinning him beneath and crushing his skull. A brother, Lewis, who was riding with him, suffered a fractured arm. Funeral services were held at Loup City Sunday.

Chicken Coop in Flames.

A chicken coop at the Kenneth Draper home caught afire from hot ashes Wednesday afternoon and the Ord fire department was called out. Mr. Draper, called from his work at the Farmers store by his wife, had extinguished the flames before the department arrived. Only slight damage was done.

Aagaard Pupils in Recital.

Music students of Miss Anna and James Aagaard will give a recital of vocal and piano music at the Christian church at 7:45 o'clock Friday evening, Sept. 22. The public is cordially invited.

—Abut 20 G. A. R. members left Nebraska Saturday for the G. A. R. 61st annual national encampment which is held this year in St. Paul, Minn. Auxiliary members will perhaps bring the Nebraska delegates up to about 75. Mrs. Cecil Clark of Ord is the only one to go from here. She is department president of the Ladies of the G. A. R.

—Miss Betty Lukes is in Lincoln this year taking a course in beauty parlor work. Her brother, Eldon Lukes, is taking up his second year's work as a student in the state university.

Ulrich Gets 2 More Graveling Contracts

Monday at Lincoln Fred Ulrich, Ord contractor, was awarded contracts for graveling near Platte Center to the amount of $2,200 and near Hastings to the amount of $600. Mr. Ulrich will begin work immediately.

A fifty-four mile stretch of gravel between Dunning and Mullen is being finished this week by the Ulrich gangs, who will move from there to the Platte Center and Hastings jobs.

Mr. Ulrich has secured nine state gravel contracts so far, he says.

Legion Running Special.

A special train bearing central Nebraska members of the American Legion and Auxiliary to the national convention in Chicago will leave Grand Island at 10:00 p. m. Saturday, Sept. 30 and will arrive in Chicago at 1:30 p. m. Sunday, says E. R. Fafeita, of the Ord post. The round trip fare is only $12.85 from Grand Island and allows a ten day stay in Chicago.

FUNERAL RITES FOR E. S. KING HELD THURSDAY

Sorrowing Relatives and Friends Follow Bier to Last Resting Place in Ord Cemetery.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist church in Ord last Thursday for Elmer Sorrell King, who passed away two days before at his home in Davis Creek township after a long illness. Rev. C. F. Wantz had charge of the impressive rites and active pall-bearers included Arthur McLain, Dave Arnold, Bud Covert, Stanley McLain, Walter Cummins and Marion Strong. Honorary pall-bearers were Dave Strong, Charles Stichler, John McLain, and H. M. Timmerman. Interment was in Ord cemetery.

The deceased was born Nov. 20 1862 in Warren county, N. Y., and when death came was 70 years, 10 months and 23 days of age.

He was the son of Valentine and Martha King, the father dying when Elmer was only three years old. When a small child he went with his mother, a brother and a sister to Wisconsin, living at Oconomowoc and Watertown until he grew to young manhood. Then he came to Nebraska, living at Lincoln for a few years, and forty years ago he came to Valley county.

In 1884 Mr. King was married to Amelia M. Hansen and to them was born one daughter, Lena. Mrs. King passed away March 6, 1891 and five years later, on Sept. 15, 1896, Mr. King was married to Cynthia A. Rassett. Two children came to bless this union, Wayne and Berenice.

Springdale was the King family home for forty years and it was less than a year ago, in March 1933, that Mr. King moved his household to Davis Creek.

To mourn his death are left his widow, Cynthia, three children, Berenice, at home, Wayne, of Ord, and Mrs. Lena Rawles, of Mitchell, Nebr., a brother, Albert King of Davis Creek, twelve grandchildren and eight great grandchildren, nieces and nephews and numerous friends. A sister, Mrs. Adelia Curtis, passed away Jan. 4, 1931 and two other sisters died in infancy.

Mr. King was one of Valley county's substantial farmers, respected and liked by the whole community, and his death will be much mourned.

Leases Texaco Station.

Last week George Finch, who had been employed for the past several months by L. J. Auble, leased the Texaco Super-Service Station from the company and bought the fixtures from I. Eschliman. He took charge immediately. Mr. Eschliman will again be employed by the Weekes Seed company.

469 Consumers Sign NRA Pledge In Ord

A total of 469 consumers signed the NRA pledge in Ord, reports Miss Eunice Chase, lieutenant-general who assisted in the drive, which was completed last week. Only 39 Ord consumers have failed to sign, some because they were not at home when canvassers called and others because they refused to do so. "Its against my religious beliefs," was the excuse most often given for failure to sign, Miss Chase says.

Safeway Store Modernized.

Workmen have been busy for several days building new shelves and counters at the Ord Safeway store and the store has been changed to a self-service grocery, making it more convenient for the public. The store presents a most attractive and modern appearance.

—Friday Mr. and Mrs. E. K Langevin returned to Omaha after a two weeks stay with the latter's sisters, Madams Mark Tolen and Archie Mason. Madams Langevin, Mason and Tolen visited in Broken Bow for a few days.

HEAVY WIND DID DAMAGE FRIDAY; RAIN FOLLOWED

Near-Cyclone Raged Friday In Some Parts of County; Ord Moisture Total .93.

A heavy wind of near-cyclone proportions, followed by a downpour of rain, did damage in some parts of Valley county last Friday evening. Damage was confined to small buildings, farm machinery, windmills and trees, though in some localities it is reported that corn fields were blown flat by the wind.

Friday morning dawned chilly and the cool weather continued until evening when the breeze shifted to the southeast and it became very hot within the space of a few minutes.

Then came the wind, which shifted suddenly to the northwest. Rain followed a few moments later and fell in sheets for about twenty minutes.

The wind was probably most severe at North Loup where the large plate glass window of the postoffice was shattered and many large trees were broken off. At the Pete Jensen farm a mile south of that village a large cow barn was completely unroofed, the back porch of the house was demolished and other damage was done.

Mr. Jensen reports that brick and timbers were flying through the air as he came into the yard with some horses, one of which he was riding. After the storm Mr. Jensen found himself lying on the ground beside the horse and doesn't know yet whether he was thrown off or was blown off by the wind.

At the Rolla Babcock farm farther east several stacks of feed were destroyed and other farmers report damage to hay and feed stacks. Below Scotia a number of farm buildings were unroofed.

In Mira Valley a windmill was wrecked on the Walter Fuss farm, shingles were torn from the Oscar Collins, Clayton Noll and Wm. Fuss homes, outbuildings were damaged at Dan Cook's, Rev. Bahr's and other places and severe damage was done to trees and stacks of hay all through the valley.

Northeast of Ord the storm was almost as bad and a hay rack on the Dave Guggenmos farm was picked up by the wind, carried for quite a distance and wrecked. Several wind-mills were damaged in the neighborhood.

In Ord the moisture total reported by Horace Travis was .93 inches but in other parts of the county as much as 2 inches fell. Creeks were bank full of water and even the North Loup river raised appreciably, indicating that the heavy rain also fell in the sand hill region.

For several days following the storm the weather was unseasonably warm but Tuesday the temperature was more moderate and pleasant weather is forecast for the balance of the week.

Optometrists Will Co-operate With NRA

Dr. Glen D. Auble and Dr. George A. Parkins were in Grand Island Sunday attending a meeting of the Central Nebraska Optometrists association at the Stratton hotel. Dr. E. B. Alexander, of Duncan, Okla., was the principal speaker and told how optometrists are cooperating with the N. R. A. to clear up quackery and unfair practices in their profession.

"The public might assume that the N.R.A. would not affect us," he said, "but it will and we expect it to prove of great benefit to the public, which is buying millions of dollars worth of inferior lenses and not knowing whose fault it is because they do not get perfect satisfaction from their glasses. Like all industries and professions, ours has its troubles. One of the worst is that the optical market has been flooded with inferior and defective lenses and materials. These are offered the public in some instances by unscrupulous people at bargain prices. We expect our code, now under consideration at Washington, to eliminate this evil.

"During man's millions of years on earth, man's eyes have been used almost exclusively for distance seeing," Dr. Alexander said. "With the advent of modern civilization, man has had to adjust his eyes to see things close at hand and to continue the effort for long hours. The strain of this re-adjustment has been tremendous and today 40 million people in the United States alone are wearing glasses and millions of others are suffering from uncorrected defects. Literally thousands of people are walking the streets half blind, or suffering from the effects of defective eyes and entirely unaware of the cause of their troubles. Children are quitting school, becoming misfits in life, wholly because of correctable eye defects."

The Ord optometrists report that this meeting was one of the most interesting they have ever attended.

—Mr. and Mrs. Barney Brickner were Grand Island visitors Friday.

Sylvia Vodehnal And Victor Kerchal Wed

Miss Sylvia Vodehnal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vodehnal, and Victor Kerchal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Kerchal, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday by Rev. Willard McCarthy, the ceremony being attended only by close friends and relatives of the contracting parties. Ed Kerchal and Ernest Vodehnal were groomsmen and the bride was attended by the Misses Mary Tensky and Freda Hrdy.

In the evening the parents of the bride and groom were hosts at a dance in the Bohemian hall, honoring the newlyweds. Music was furnished by Joe Puncochar's orchestra and more than 1,000 people attended, the crowd being the largest ever seen at a dance in Ord.

In a few days Mr. and Mrs. Kerchal expect to leave on a trip to Chicago, after which they will be at home to friends at the farm about eight miles north of Ord. Both are deservedly popular young people and a host of friends unite this week in wishing them the best of luck.

CHARLES MASIN PASSED MONDAY AT BROKEN BOW

Former Ordite Dies at Age of 57, Will Be Laid To Rest In Ord Cemetery Today.

Charles J. Masin, well known former Ord resident, passed away Monday, Sept. 18, at his home in Broken Bow after a brief illness and funeral services are being held at the Ord Bohemian hall this afternoon with Rev. B. A. Filipi of Clarkson in charge. Interment will be in Ord cemetery.

The deceased was born in New York City Nov. 11, 1875 and when death came was 57 years, 10 months and 7 days old.

When a lad of 14 he came with his parents and three sisters to Ord and grew to manhood here, being married on March 30, 1897 to Josephine Stanek at Burwell. To them were born six children, of whom three died in infancy and one, Joseph William of Santa Ana, Calif., passed away in 1929.

Left to mourn are his widow, one son, George, of Long Beach, Calif., one daughter, Louise Trueblood, four grandchildren, three sisters, Mrs. F. J. Stara, Ord, Mrs. Mary Eret, Prague, Okla., and Mrs. Antonia Wisda, Lexington, as well as numerous other relatives and a host of friends.

Mr. Masin was a member of the Z. C. B. J. lodge and this order will assist in the funeral rites to be held this afternoon.

Loans On Livestock Now Available

Loans to farmers for the purpose of feeding livestock in drouth, storm and otherwise devastated areas are now available according to L. J. Paulson, manager of the crop production loan office in Minneapolis.

Feed loans will not be granted in excess of the actual amount necessary to feed 20 head of cattle, 6 horses, 50 sheep and 5 brood sows. Loans will be made to assist in the preservation of foundation stock and the maximum amount allowed to any one family will be $250.00.

A first chattel mortgage upon livestock will be taken as security together with a promissory note due August 31, 1934. In cases where livestock is already encumbered, applicants must secure the waiver of prior mortgage holders in order to obtain a loan.

Forms are now being distributed to county loan committees by the crop production loan office in Minneapolis and applications for feed loans must be submitted before October 31, 1933.

Valley county is one of those included for this form of relief loan.

High School Leading In K-Ball League

By the margin of a single game played and won while the Sinclair Hotshots were idle, the Ord high school team this week took the lead in the Ord kittenball league. It was the first time since play started last spring that the Hotshots have been in second position.

Games this week resulted in the High School beating the Court House Rats 10 to 3 and the Knights of Pythias 2 to 1 and the Knights of Pythias beating the Barbers 20 to 2. Last Friday night the Hotshots beat a Comstock team 6 to 1 on the local diamond.

Present league standings are:

	W	L	Pct.
High School	7	2	777
Hot Shots	6	2	750
Barbers	5	4	555
Court House	4	5	444
Knights of Pythias	3	6	333
Merchants	1	7	125

Last night an Ord ladies team was to play a ladies team from North Loup but the result cannot be given until next week.

Public Works Board To Hold Hearing in Ord Next Saturday

C. OF C. BANQUET FOR IRRIGATION SATURDAY EVE

Public Works Dignitaries Will Be Guests of Honor; Everybody Invited To Attend.

One of the most interesting banquets ever held in Ord will be held at the high school auditorium Saturday evening when the Chamber of Commerce will honor Regional Director Frank Murphy, public works board members, Dan Stevens, J. E. Lawrence and John Latenser, jr., and other state and federal dignitaries who will be here for the North Loup project irrigation hearing that afternoon. The dinner will be served at 6:00 p. m.

Ticket selling committees have been appointed in Ord, North Loup and Burwell and it is thought that 250 or more irrigation boosters will be present. In Ord the committee consists of Ed Mouer, F. V. Haught and R. C. Bailey and tickets also may be purchased at either Ord bank. They will cost 50c each.

The public generally and farmers of the valley especially are invited to attend this banquet.

Bert M. Hardenbrook will be master of ceremonies at a program following the banquet and speeches will be made by all of the guests. People who are not able to attend the banquet for any reason are invited to come for the program afterward. Bleacher seats will be available for several hundred, it is announced.

Burwell Couple Married.

At Bartlett on Thursday, Sept. 14 occurred the marriage of Miss Stella Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parker to Orville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Miller, all of Burwell. Judge Berney performed the ceremony. They were accompanied by Miss Thelma Alder and by Herman Parker, brother of the bride. A wedding dinner was served in the Parker home at Burwell that evening and later the young people motored to Elyria and spent a few hours with the bride's sister, Mrs. Frank Jablonski. They will make their home on a farm north of Burwell.

James Kluna Is Laid To Rest

Geranium Township Pioneer Passed Away Sept. 12 at Comstock, Was Buried Friday.

James Kluna was born at Vsenice, county of Rokycany, Plzen, Cecho-Slovakia on January 25, 1857, and passed away at his home in Comstock Tuesday, September 12, at the age of 76 years, 7 months and 17 days.

When a young man, in about the year 1877, he came to this country, coming by the southern route and landing in Texas. He first settled in Arkansas, where he spent about four years. Leaving Arkansas he came to Omaha, where he was employed for two years, then coming to Valley county and settling on a homestead located about four miles east of Comstock. He homesteaded in Valley county in 1883, being among the early settlers, and stood his share of hardships, which all of the early settlers underwent. He and his wife lived on this homestead until 1901 when they moved to a farm in Woods Park where they lived until 1916. In that year they moved to their home in Comstock where they have resided ever since, and where Mr. Kluna answered the final call.

On June 22, 1887 he was united in marriage to Miss Marie Slaby, the ceremony taking place in Omaha. Six children were born to this union, one daughter passing away in infancy. The oldest son preceded his father in death, passing away about twenty years ago.

He had been a faithful worker in the Z. C. B. J. lodge, first joining this order in Ord. He was a charter member of the Slavin order in Geranium, and at the time of his death was grand master of the Comstock camp of the Z. C. B. J. lodge.

He leaves to mourn his departure his widow; four children, Joe Kluna, Mrs. Joe Klapal and Mrs. John Stefka of Comstock, and Anton Kluna of Ord; fourteen grandchildren, one brother, John Kluna, and a large circle of friends.

The funeral services were held last Friday, first at the home in Comstock, and then at the National hall in Geranium, with the Rev. B. A. Filipi of Clarkson in charge. The body was laid to rest in the National cemetery. Pall-bearers were: Jake Johanek, Joe Lebruska, Jerry Pliva, John Koncel, Joe Urban and Frank Kolar.

Rev. Smith Again Appointed to Ord M. E. Pastorate

At the state conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in Omaha last week Rev. Mearl C. Smith was again appointed to the Ord pastorate. Rev. Smith was first assigned to Ord last year and members of his church are glad that he will be here for at least another year.

Rev. Wm. H. Stephens was again assigned to the North Loup and Davis Creek pastorate and Rev. R. O. Gaither will return to Arcadia.

Noha Home Visited By Grocery Thief

Sheriff George Round was called to the Mike Noha home on the sand flats yesterday morning to investigate a case of petty thievery that happened the night before. While the Noha family were in town somebody broke a window in their home and from the kitchen stole a sack of flour, a can of sugar, three pounds of coffee and a sack of raisins. Nothing else about the place was disturbed, the sheriff says. Round followed the tracks of the thief's car for several miles but lost them. There is no clue to the pilferer's identity.

ALBERT VERGIN IS FOUND DEAD IN BED TUESDAY

Aged Retired Farmer, Father Of Several Ordites, Will Be Buried Friday.

Albert Ferdinand Vergin, 78 years old, passed away during the night Tuesday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Albert Kirby, where he had been making his home for some time.

Mr. Vergin had been in his usual good health when he retired Tuesday night. In the morning his son-in-law arose early and went to the George Kirby farm to work in the hay field. Mrs. Kirby, thinking she would allow her father to sleep late, did not call him at the usual hour. When she finally went to his room to summon him to breakfast she discovered that he had passed away during the night.

There was no indication that he had struggled or tried to call help during the night so it is thought that death was due to heart trouble and that he slipped peacefully away to his final rest.

Mr. Vergin was born in Germany Febr. 23, 1855 and came to this country in 1880. Ten years later he was married at Ord to Bertha Miller, who passed away June 21, 1929. He is survived by five children, Warner Vergin, Elmer Vergin, Mrs. Emma Nielsen and Mrs. Anna Kirby, Ord, and Mrs. Lena Williams, Sargent, and by ten grandchildren.

A farmer most of his life, the deceased was respected by all who knew him. He was a member of the Lutheran church.

Funeral services will be held at Sowl's chapel at 2:00 p. m., tomorrow, Sept. 22. Interment will be in Ord cemetery.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORHOOD

—L. W. Rogers made a business trip to Grand Island Monday.

—Degree of Honor lodge was in session Tuesday night in the hall and Mrs. W. E. Carlton was taken into membership. After the business meeting one-half the members served a nice luncheon. Mrs. F. C. Williams was chairman of the serving committee.

—A ten pound daughter was born Sunday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zulkoski. Miss Frances Swanek is caring for mother and baby. Mr. and Mrs. Zulkoski have one other child, Margaret May, who is staying in Ord with her aunt Mrs. Lewis Wegrzyn and attending the Ord school.

—Mrs. Gould Flagg has received notice of the birth of a baby boy to Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Noyce of Penasly, N. J. The baby arrived on the 10th of September. Mrs. Noyce was formerly Miss Marjory Hostetter, a teacher in the Ord schools and a sister of Mrs. Flagg's. The baby has been named Philip.

—It seems good to see Will Sack again on the streets of Ord. For several weeks he was in a Hastings hospital suffering with an abscess of the eye. He then went to Omaha and submitted to an operation. Mrs. Sack was with him in Omaha for a few days after he was able to leave the hospital. Saturday his son Harold and a brother of Will's Philip Sack, drove to Omaha and Sunday they all returned to Ord.

FATE OF 2 LOUP WATER PROJECTS TO BE DECIDED

State-Federal Group To Inspect Middle Loup Friday, North Loup Valley Next Day.

That public hearings on the North Loup and Middle Loup hydro-electric and irrigation projects will be held in Ord and Arcadia on Friday and Saturday of this week was the cheering news that came to the Quiz yesterday from Bert M. Hardenbrook, who was in Fremont meeting with the Nebraska public works advisory board.

The Middle Loup hearing will be held at Arcadia Friday, Sept. 22.

The North Loup hearing will be held in Ord Saturday, Sept. 23.

In the group that will come to the Loup region for these hearings are Frank Murphy, Wheaton, Minn., regional director of public works for an area that includes Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Wyoming, Montana and the Dakotas; Dan V. Stevens, Fremont, John Latenser, jr., Omaha, and J. E. Lawrence, Lincoln, members of the Nebraska public works advisory board; Albert Arend, Omaha, and C. J. Campbell, Lincoln, engineer and attorney for the board; A. C. Reamy, federal engineer, and other state and federal public works dignitaries.

The program for Friday includes an inspection of the Middle Loup valley from Comstock to below Loup City in the morning, followed by a hearing to be held in the Electric theatre, Arcadia, in the afternoon.

Late Friday night the group will come to Ord and early Saturday will begin a thorough inspection of the North Loup valley from Taylor to Scotia. The Wranglers club of Burwell will entertain them at an 11 o'clock luncheon, a public hearing will be held in the Ord opera house in the afternoon, and the Ord Chamber of Commerce will be hosts at a banquet in the high school auditorium at 6:00 p. m.

These hearings were originally scheduled for last Friday and Saturday but late Wednesday came word that public works board members had been called to Kansas City on those dates for a conference with Col. Henry M. Waite, deputy administrator of public works. This conference was held and its outcome gives added encouragement to North and Middle Loup valley people.

Colonel Waite urged all haste in getting non-federal projects under way, so that employment may be given to thousands of men this fall. And Sunday Regional Director Murphy announced that within ten days action would be taken on the Columbus, North Loup and Middle Loup projects in Nebraska, showing himself to be familiar with them and indicating that favorable action will come soon.

Tuesday President Hardenbrook of the local district went to Lincoln and Fremont to consult with Nebraska public works board officials and hurry them up on setting a date for the Ord hearing. That he was successful is proved by the fact that the hearing is set for Saturday of this week.

At the hearing Secretary Jos. P. Barta and other officers of the North Loup district expect to be able to paint such a rosy picture that there will be no doubt about the public works board's approval. Engineering details have already been approved and the only question left to be settled involves the prospect of repayment.

A survey of land owners made recently disclosed that 35,000 acres of land will sign up immediately for irrigation at a price not to exceed $2.00 per acre, which will give the district $70,000 per year. The enormous total of 35,000,000 kilowatt hours of electric energy annually will be generated and officers of the district say that a market for 5,000,000 kilowatt hours is already committed, total receipts from this amount being about $40,000 per year. To amortize the loan being requested about $120,000 per year will be needed and practically the full amount is already assured from sale of water and a small fraction of the power. When the rest of the power output is sold it seems certain that the project will prove self-liquidating.

After the public works board passes on the project approval from Washington, D. C., will be needed before federal money is loaned but Secretary of the Interior Ickes has promised immediate action. It is not unlikely that work on the project, if it is approved by the public works board, can be started within 30 or 40 days.

Saturday promises to be the most important and eventful day in the history of the North Loup valley.

ON THE SQUARE . . . AND OFF

By E. C. Leggett.

What is it about this kittenball that makes it such a fascinating game? A year ago Ord didn't know what Kittenball was all about, in spite of the fact that many other Nebraska cities had been playing it for years. Then this spring we broke out in a kittenball rash and now everybody plays it. North Loup, Comstock and other near-by towns are just as bad. Lighted fields for night play are in prospect here and in other towns of the Loup valley. And those of us who don't play the game want to watch it on every possible occasion. Baseball used to be like that, but not any more. Probably because it became too greatly commercialized. And kittenball in this neck of the woods is still a strictly amateur pastime. And everybody who wants to can play. More power to kittyball!

I notice that the Safeway store is being revamped throughout this week. Into a self-service store. Not, as some have suggested, because less help will be required but because the public can be better served. The Safeway manager tells me that just as much help will be needed as in the past but that experience has proved self-service stores to be more popular. Anyway the store now has a very metropolitan look.

How the blinds are springing up along the Loup this week! Anyone, be he hunter or not, can tell that duck season is just around the corner. Wonder how the flight will be this year? And what effect irrigation, when it comes, will have on the duck flight down this valley. It should increase the flight.

The Farm Holiday association's request that Valley county stores quit selling oleo is not an unreasonable one and if generally heeded should result in an increasing use of butter. But store managers tell me that farmers, many of them butter-fat producers, are the biggest buyers of oleo. Not much argument there for city people to quit using it.

If the North Loup irrigation project goes through, and it seems certain that it will, we'll know to whom most of the credit for putting it through should be given. His name is Bert M. Hardenbrook and he's been eating, sleeping, talking and working irrigation for almost a year. Of course he's had plenty of loyal helpers—such men as Joe Barta, Roy Bailey, Harry Doran, Roy Hudson, Ralph Brownell, and the rest of them—but Bert has been the main-spring that makes the clock tick.

Broken Bow last week passed a public market ordinance and such a market will be established in that city at once. A certain place where vegetables, melons, etc., may be sold—well located and with proper conveniences—would be an acquisition to Ord. It would take the vegetable and melon wagons off the streets and thus leave more parking space for visitors, would give better service to the sellers and to the public also. Mayor Bill and City Attorney Ralph might look into this.

QUIZ FORUM

Cream Prices Too Low.

To the Editor of the Quiz:

The man that gave Mr. Farmer that little "butter and egg" problem in last week's paper got a wonderful answer. Sure nuff.

For the last 2 years or more cream and eggs have been the two cheapest food articles on the market—bar none.

When sold, the farmer's cream and egg checks have not been large enough to buy such foodstuffs as they did 3 or 4 years ago.

Since a farmer has to eat the same as anyone else; what did he do? He consumed (as you call it) more cream, more butter and more eggs. And he is still doing it for nothing and making no money fast.

I thought all cream, butter and egg peddlers knew that long ago.

This mathematician suggests that 30,000,000 farmers eat an extra dozen eggs and an extra pound of butter per week to boost the prices. This I judge to be per "farmer family".

A very bright idea! Since there are less than 7 1-2 million farms in the U. S. (1930 census) bring on the other 20 million or so and there would be a shortage.

Then in the next breath he says they need more cream to maintain volume and that it will pay dividends to you. Let someone else figure that out—I can't.

But why pick on "Mister Farmer?" Can't everybody, farmer and town family alike, eat extra eggs and butter too?

In fact, why not everybody increase their butter and egg consumption, as the farmer has been compelled to do?

During the past summer cream in Ord has been from 2 to 5 cents less than in surrounding towns.

Is that difference now what we will get as a "dividend" about Christmas time?

A "Mister" Farmer.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Canning goes merrily on, as the season for materials draws to a close. If you have any prize recipes for fall canning, please permit the Quiz to print them for the help and edification of your neighbors. They will appreciate the privilege very much, so will we.

Apple Chow Chow.

Grind 19 green tomatoes, seven large onions and seven large sour apples through the food chopper, using the coarse knife. After grinding the tomatoes let them stand two hours, then drain off the juice, and throw away. Mix together four cups vinegar, seven cups sugar, two teaspoons allspice, two teaspoons cinnamon, two teaspoons cloves, mustard seed and celery seed to suit your taste. Cook three hours on the back of the stove, seal while hot.

Mrs. Claude Dalby, Arcadia, Neb.

India Relish.

Grind eight large green tomatoes, eight large green apples, three medium onions, one large red pepper and one-half pound seeded raisins in food chopper. Add two cups sugar, one-fourth cup salt, one and one-half pints vinegar, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves and boil all together for one-half hour. Seal while boiling hot.

May McCune.

Delicious Piccalilli.

Put through the food chopper enough green tomatoes to make two gallons and enough cabbage to make one and one-half gallons, add one cup chopped onions, one dozen large green peppers chopped, one and one-half tablespoons celery seeds, two cups sugar, and two cups vinegar This should make the mixture rather juicy. Add one teaspoon salt, one heaping teaspoon mixed spices in a bag, boil thirty minutes. Remove the spices, seal while hot.

Mrs. Mid Garner.

Sweet Tomato Pickles.

Slice one peck green tomatoes, two green peppers and eight onions, or more if you like them. Place them in a stone jar or porcelain kettle over night, sprinkle in a good half cup of salt. In the morning drain thoroughly, put in your preserving kettle with two quarts of vinegar, five cups sugar and cook twenty minutes. Seal while hot.

Mrs. Mid Garner.

Timely Hint.

To avoid constant stirring when making fruit jams and butters, place an asbestos pad or sheet of asbestos paper under the kettle or pan. It will not burn with just an occasional stirring.

Mrs. J. M. Burkey, Grant, Neb.

Favorite Uncooked Catsup.

Grind through food chopper two quarts ripe tomatoes, four tablespoons onion, four tablespoons red peppers, chop fine one and one-half cups celery, add four tablespoons salt, six tablespoons white mustard seed, one-half teaspoon each of cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg, also one and three-fourths cup vinegar. Seal in large bottles

Mrs. J. M. Burkey.

Dinner In a Dish.

Cut three onions and one green pepper fine, fry in fat. Add three cups ground veal, hamburger or what have you, frying slowly. Butter casserole and put in a layer of canned corn, a layer of meat, onions and pepper, next a layer of canned tomatoes. Repeat and season with salt and pepper. When a can of corn and a can of tomatoes have been used and the casserole is full, sprinkle over with cracker crumbs and a little butter. Bake thirty minutes, or longer if you use fresh tomatoes and corn. With a salad and a dessert, this is a complete meal.

Mrs. Clayton Burke, Cody, Wyo.

—Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hall and daughter Sally Ann of Holdrege drove to Ord last Saturday and visited until Sunday evening with Mrs. Hall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Misko and with her brother, John Misko and family. Mr. Hall is manager of the telephone exchange at Holdrege.

Something DIFFERENT

Many names for the newly legal beer are now heard. One old fellow calls it "that one-two or two-three or whatever 'tis!"

Walter Winchell calls it 'three-dot-two'.

Prohibitionists call it much worse names.

I do hear, though, in my travels, that many bottles formerly used for bottling home brew and suchlike are this fall being filled with tomato juice by the busy housewife as she does her canning for winter. And I mean in Ord and vicinity.

What do you make of this, Watson?

Orville Sowl is rather proud of the fact that many people have complimented him on the excellent music furnished by an orchestra he directed for the Legion Auxiliary play, "Casey's Trial".

The personnel of this capable little orchestra included Edwin Clements, jr., Horace Travis, Elwin, Jay and Glen Auble, Dr. Kirby McGrew, Mrs. Kirby McGrew, and Misses Elsie Pecenka and Elizabeth Janssen.

It is sincerely hoped that this will not be the last music provided by these local musicians.

Maude Jackman (pardon me, Mrs. Geis,) had quite a time convincing her friends that she was not vying with Baron Munchausen for some fantastic title, when she told her experiences with the heat in her California home. Maude lives in one of the hottest places in the United States, but nevertheless had a little difficulty in making herself believed, and this in spite of the fact that her reputation for veracity has never been questioned, I'm sure.

Mrs. Geis related that when drawing water for a bath in the hot summer days, it would be necessary to let the water run for a long time, as the first out of the tap would be 'way too hot to use! Several local heads were put together over this one, and it was at last accepted, along with tales of having to do cross-desert driving at night and similar stories.

Maude says the severe climate of her adopted home is taking the curl out of her hair, too. A shame, out I should think it would, wouldn't you?

Another Ordite who has lost her famous curls is the former Musa Misko. When her little daughter Sally Ann arrived, she had curls and since then Musa has none, and has also been having a battle with anemia. And so far the efforts of beauty operators, numbers of steam and oil treatments and other remedies have not brought back Musa's waves and curls.

We all have various sorts of talents, but Florence Anderson is winning fame in a peculiar field, if it could be called field.

Florence has learned to decorate cakes with fancy little do-funnies, and is in considerable demand for this skill. Her clever fingers decorate many birthday cakes, among those for whom she has created dainty masterpieces being her brothers Hi and George on their natal days, as well as her nieces and nephews, several members of the Leggett family and I am not sure just how many of her friends.

Recently she tried her hand on little individual cakes, and turned out cunning affairs, worthy of any big-city cateress. When Linotyping fails, Florence can become a professional cake decorator.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

One who is skeptical about irrigation should visit the Loren Butterfield farm near Burwell. Its intensive crops are especially apt to convince the doubter. 2700 bushels of No. 1 potatoes grew there last year on a 9 acre patch, as well as several hundred bushels of culls.

This season the sugar beets are stretching out toward a world championship. An expert beetman has forecasted the phenomenal yield of 50 tons to the acre for one four-acre patch. It is certain they will more nearly approach 50 tons than 25, and 25 tons is considered a high yield for sugar beets.

The writer pulled out a beet. It weighed 6 pounds with its "clothes" on—not bad considering that it belongs to a small variety and has a month to grow yet. The stand is perfect. Out west they say there is good money in five dollar beets. This crop will bring about $4.50 a ton at Grand Island, depending on sugar content.

Hot winds injured all the corn in this neighborhood, including Butterfields. But irrigation water was applied in time to check continued and later damage on the latter. The owner can now stand in 50 bushel corn and look over at 7 bushel corn, within a clod's throw across the fence. Both fields are similar in variety and on like soil.

A striking thing about Butterfield's corn is its uniformity. The stalks are erect, and ears are equal in height. One could shoot down a row at shoulder height with a rifle and hit every ear.

Other crops on this farm include 30 acres of popcorn and some sweet corn. It stands up high and has long, straight ears. Several acres of navy beans lie on the ground so thickly they cover it. Melons are so abundant that they are given away.

A pump with an 8 inch pipe supplies the water from a 100 foot well. It furnishes enough to irrigate the entire 160 acre farm, with the exception of several acres that lie across the creek. The well is constructed with Mr. Butterfield's own patented casings, a type so successful that he has been called upon to build several in other parts of the country.

Merril Williams left for Fairibault, Minn., to attend military school. Arthur Capron also attended this school.

Miss Gertrude Gifford and Charles Mickelwait were united in marriage.

Charles Hillman came to Ord and entered the employ of the Quiz. Mr. Hillman's home was St. Paul where he formerly operated the Republican, which had just been purchased by H. D. Leggett.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

M. E. Getter Writes About Irrigation.

(Editor's Note—The Quiz this week has the privilege of printing a letter from the pen of Mark Getter, whom Ord old timers will remember. It was written to Mr. Getter's friend, George R. Gard, and deals with irrigation, a subject upon which Mr. Getter is well qualified to write and in which Quiz readers are interested.)

Long Beach, Calif., Aug. 27, 1933.

Mr. Geo. R. Gard
Ord, Nebr.

Dear George:

Yours of July 30 came O K. It was a great letter, and I appreciated it very much. I will try to answer, but no doubt will fall far short of doing so. It would require many pages to do the various subjects justice, however I will endeavor to touch a few of the high spots. One of the dominant subjects on which you wrote was prospective canals and water power. Well George I know you will pardon me when I say to you that this is a laugh, and yet I would not do or say anything whatever to throw a damper upon the enthusiasm of the people of that valley in regard to the proposed public improvement. You will recall, George, that about 40 years ago or more the writer was the proponent for not only city water but canals for power and irrigation as well, and following along those lines induced the little town of Ord to construct a system of water works which proved a success, and the writer had the supreme satisfaction of having charge of the construction thereof and its ultimate completion, and the day that the test hose was attached and a powerful stream was thrown to the cupalo of the O. S. Haskell soft brick court house (You remember, George, they said the bricks were that soft that you could stick fingers into them). Well George, that a happy day for Ord, and quite especially your humble servant.

Well now to the canals, George, you will recall how you helped on the surveys. Bruno Lacuck of Omaha conceived the idea that abundance of water would be of great benefit to the farms of the Loup valley, and perhaps having learned something about someone living at Ord who was thinking along those lines made arrangements with Ernest Babcock and myself to take charge of and construct a canal.

Starting above Almeria the canal was made, and it fell upon me to act as right-of-way man and assistant manager prior to construction, and it was a good little canal. But now comes the sad part to relate. The farmers did not think the water was worth one dollar per acre per annum and they refused to take the water, rather trusting to the God of storms to furnish water. Well this is how Providence did the job, about one year in three to five there came a fairly reasonable amount of rain and that year there was a fairly good crop, the next year not so much rain, then followed about two-thirds of a normal crop; the next year some rain and much hail and no corn and small crop of small grain, potatoes very small; next year, bone dry, part crop of small grain. Farmers were very hard up, could not pay taxes, and so it has gone on in the beautiful Loup valley, perhaps one of the most beautiful and fertile farming valleys on the American continent. And why is it that it has been so? Why have these rich, fertile soiled farms proved so unproductive? Simply lack of water. I do not believe there has ever been a year that more water would not have been beneficial. But it takes labor to apply the water and if the farmers are not obligated by contract to pay for the water even though they do not wish to use it, many of them will lay down on the job, and as in the olden days, trust to God to furnish and apply the waters, and you and I, George know how God helps those that are to lazy or independent to help themselves. I hope and trust Loup valley will get the canals and the power. That is a wonderful river, sweet. pure water, life giving water flowing on and to waste, on and on, for all past ages. People living on its fertile shores and not sense and gumption enough to reach out the hand and grasp what the Giver of all good has provided for them and these lands. Well George, I became disgusted with them years ago, I mean those that opposed and defeated the several irrigation projects and I went to other lands, where vision was more clear, where people believed that flowing streams of life giving waters were placed there to be applied to the soil, and they asked to have the canals constructed. The U. S. government had the canals constructed. (The writer had the pleasure of contracting and building one hundred and twenty miles of those canals. Pardon the digression). Note the result. Lands that had produced small crops, if any, prior to irrigation have, since irrigated, produced an average of 14 tons of sugar beets per acre, 50 to 55 of wheat, 65 of barley, 80 to 100 bushels of oats, 350 to 600 bushels potatoes, 10 to 12 tons alfalfa, 40 to 60 bushels of corn and other products in like proportion. The Loup valley soil is richer and being in a lower altitude will under proper irrigation produce even large crops than the Platte valley, especially corn. Some farmers in the Platte valley are hard up, some bankrupt. But those that did not plunge and go into speculative debts during the boom times are independent, many of them loaning money to their speculative neighbors. I have in mind a young man who was teaching a small country school, who finally saved up about $400 with which he purchased a relinquishment on a sandy 80 acres of land on which there was a small frame house, which I think cost about what he paid for the claim. He filed a homestead entry on the land, married a frugal, sensible girl, moved on to the sandy 80, that was considered of small value, compared to average quality of other lands in the valley. I think perhaps he taught a few more terms of school until he finally devoterd most of his time to farming his poor 80 acre farm. I think he grew mostly alfalfa (which does well on sandy soil, especially where the drainage is good) and potatoes. After a few years he purchased for cash, a hundred and sixty acre farm, one of the best, with perhaps 5,000 dollars worth of buildings, farm all under cultivation, worth at time of purchase at least 12 to 15 thousand. A few years later he purchased the third farm of 160 acres, all under cultivation and improved later on the fourth farm, and for the past several years has been accumulating notes and mortgages until now the poor school teaching boy is perhaps one of the wealthiest men in the North Platte valley and water and brains did it. And the qualifications in the Loup valley will bring about the same results, and perhaps more for the reason that the soil is better.

The young man referred to is is not alone on prosperity. In that valley there are scores of others who are prosperous and happy and bless the day that they purchased one of the one hundred and seventy-two farms that the writer sold and located them on, during his eight years of activity in that wonderful valley. The secret key that opened this rich storehouse of that land was water and it will do the same for the Loup valley if applied. Question: Will the people do it? There must be one certain ruling adopted, viz, as the government did with the land holders in the Platte valley. Every land owner who would expect to receive water from the canal was required to sign an agreement to take the water. He was given what was considered a reasonable time in which to sign. And those that did not sign before the expiration of that specified time would thereafter be forever barred from obtaining water for that tract of land. For the reason that the canal was constructed of a sufficient size and capacity to carry and deliver a certain amount of water and when that water had been contracted for and allocated to the lands under contract, there being no more water to allocate, those that would refuse to sign be compelled to go without the irrigation. Land of that kind would perhaps be worth ten dollars per acre while his neighbors irrigated farm was worth one or two hundred dollars per acre. The result was that as far as I can learn not one single farm failed to come into agreement. Result has been that all farms under the canals are using the water and the crops are the best in the state. Well George, I think that will be more than sufficient along that line. If you should care to locate in this part of the state you could now purchase a good 5-room modern bungalow for from $2500 to $3500. I sure would like to see you out here. Many people who have good homes in the building and loan companies are unable to keep up the payments of $25 to $40 per month, and the loan companies are taking them over, some 2,000, some 2,500, some 3,000. The loan companies are selling these for what they have against them with a small payment down, if any, and the balance monthly payments of $12.50 on each thousand. Many speculators and investors are buying these places as they are on the market. So you see George, one can step into a fine modern home for a few dollars, provided he can make the monthly payments of $12.50 on each thousand of the purchase price. For instance, say a 5 or 6 thousand home mortgage 25 or 30 hundred payment, $37.50 per month on the $3,000 really is not more than rent. Think of it, George, write me if you recover after this letter.

Sincerely your friend,
M. E. Getter

WOODMAN HALL NEWS.

About five-eighths of an inch of rain fell here last Friday evening, making about two and one-fourth inches of rainfall all together.

James Hrebec is threshing sweet clover.

A ball team from near Sargent drove down to the Jerry Pliva place and spent the afternoon playing kittenball and baseball with the local team. The players were treated to some fine watermelon after the games.

Miss Lillian Krikac came up from Grand Island Monday on the buss and returned to the same place Friday.

The Kruml team and the local boys have been engaged to play baseball for the St. Wenceslaus celebration at the National Hall on Thursday September 28. The Smetana orchestra will play for the dance in the evening. Lunches will be sold at noon and in the evening as in former years. Also mass at the church in the morning.

Rich or Poor

"BUT Vivian, you must have known, all along, that I wanted to marry you!"

Fred raised troubled eyes to the small, slender girl.

"Well," Vivian countered, "what if I did? And of course I did think—But you never said anything—and now this has just swept me off my feet, Fred. Can't you understand?"

"Understand!" Fred's eyes were angry now. "Of course I understand. Here I am, a poor young man. But I'm good enough till this rich old fellow comes along and—"

"That's not fair, Fred, and you know it. I love Thorley Morehouse. If he didn't have a penny I'd still want to marry him."

"I'm sorry, Vivian. It sounds rotten. But you see how it looks. You and I've known each other for months and batted around together and I thought it was all settled."

Vivian's hard dignity left her. "Fred, I'm awfully sorry," she said. "I thought so, too, honestly. I did—I do—like you. And I didn't meet Thorley until last month. And I'm refusing you because I hope he'll ask me to marry him. It's my fault."

"You're right, of course, Vivian. It's just my hard luck. Well, I'll have to run along now."

As the hall door of her small apartment shut noisily behind Fred, Vivian sat down in a big cushioned wicker chair. She forced back the tears and looked about her cheerful, comfortable little living room. A great vase of Thorley's roses—the outstanding thing in the room. But the real room with its charm and its comfort had been there before she knew there was a Thorley Morehouse in the world—excepting as she had heard of the big brokerage house of Morehouse and Morehouse.

But she had met Thorley—she'd been sent to get a story from his brother's wife on how the women of Russia were meeting their new responsibilities. Thorley's brother had being doing some investigating in Russia, and the Star, on which Vivian was a reporter, had given her the assignment. She hadn't got the story. Mrs. Jack Morehouse wouldn't talk. And Thorley, who lived with them, had walked in on them chatting over tea and cinnamon toast.

That was the end of things—or the beginning—for Vivian. He was coming to see her tonight and Vivian knew the message he was bringing.

A bell rang. Vivian opened the door into the hall and waited.

"Hello, Vivian," said Thorley.

"Thank you for the roses," she said stiffly.

"Oh!" Some of the youth had gone from Thorley's voice. "Were they all right? Color and everything?"

"Lovely," said Vivian. "They're—in the kitchenette. It seemed warm here."

"Oh!" said Thorley again. "Well, Vivian, I suppose you know why I've come tonight." He took her cold hands in his firm warm ones. But he did not try to keep them when she drew them away. "I know I'm not good enough, Vivian—too old, and all that. But I adore you. When I was a youngster there was a girl I liked a lot—but she turned me down because I was poor. And there's never been anybody else."

"Because you were poor, Thorley? How despicable. But—I'm sorry, Thorley. I can't."

Fifteen minutes later Vivian sat alone again in her room. She'd give herself five minutes more—the last she'd ever let herself think of Thorley. Then she'd telephone Fred.

The telephone rang. The Star office. One of the young reporters. Had she heard the news? Another big crash: Morehouse and Morehouse had gone under. Thought she'd be interested. Maybe she'd like a chance to come down and write up a good story of that Mrs. Jack Morehouse she interviewed the other day.

"Is Mr. Morehouse poor now?" asked Vivian. "Then I'm through—I mean, I'm resigning. Tell the boss. Good-by." And as quickly as she could she got Thorley's house on the telephone. His voice, after a minute of waiting.

"Oh, Thorley," she said. "You're poor. And I'm so glad. Come back, Thorley, as fast as you can. I want to tell you why I said I couldn't marry you and tell you why now I can."

To Vivian, the things she said made sense. To Thorley, it didn't matter that they didn't. He was with her in ten minutes.

"But, Vivian," he said, as he held her, sobbing, in his arms. "I don't know what you mean. But I don't care. I'm not poor, Vivian. But does that matter? It doesn't really matter. Money isn't what matters."

As Vivian stammered out her story, the telephone rang again. The Star office. Sorry, but that was a wild rumor they telephoned her before. It was Millhouse and company that had gone under.

Vivian went back to Thorley. "Thorley, I love you," she said. "I can't help it, whether you're rich or poor."

The Fable of 1875 and 1925

By GEORGE ADE

© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

ONCE upon a time an esteemed Old Lady who had been a reigning Belle during Grant's Second Administration, sat back watching the Antics of a reformed and purified World, wondering what it was all about. She was like every other living Person beyond Sixty. It seemed to her that all the honored Traditions had been hit in the Head, that Civilization was being vamped by frivolous Innovations and that the whole Works had gone blooey.

One of her important Discoveries was that Young People are not what they used to be. She didn't suppose that any one else had noticed it but she simply couldn't get over the Way in which the Jimmies and Janes were taking it for granted that they owned the Universe.

This honored Hold-Over had a Grand-Daughter and Namesake who was a mere slip of a Thing 19 years old, who was endeavoring to establish a World's Record for Speed and Endurance. Very often Grandmother would ask, "Haven't her Parents any Control over her?" The correct answer to the above question was: "NO!"

It happened that One Day the Old Lady couldn't stand it any longer. Little Genevieve, the Child Wonder, had been to an all-night Party. Along about 4 G. M. she had brought a Pack of Comanches into the House and had shown the Ice-box how to take a Joke. She came up for Air at Noon and was propped up in her theatrical Pajamas, having the whole House wait on her, while she found Fault with the eggs, the Toast, the Coffee, the Weather and all of her Relatives. For one thing the Service was not up to the Ritz and she didn't like to have the Curtains lifted so high and her Name was mis-spelled in the Papers and everything looked dark for the Princess.

Queen of the Flappers.

The Old Lady sat in fixed Amazement for a while, surveying the Eighth Wonder of the World, and then she said: "When I was a Girl and went to a Party, I always came down to Breakfast next morning and, what's more, I came down early and helped Mother."

The Queen of the Flappers gave her respected Grandmother the cold Once-Over and then said, "You were a Simp."

"Possibly so, from the standpoint of a modern Snipe who has become so superficial and self-centered and selfish that she regards her Parents as House-Servants. In my Day it was an Imperative Rule that Young People should respect their Elders."

"Mebbe you had a better Bunch to work on," said little Genevieve. "When they were giving out Relatives I almost drew a Blank. I've tried to put up with Mom and Pop, and you'll have to admit that they're a couple of Giffies. Both of them can sleep standing up. They don't seem to be hep to what's Transpiring. I told them a Month ago I wanted a Roadster just like Bernice is driving. It is one Duck and the price is only $4,000. Do you think I can get those two Snoozles to buy one for me? The old Tight-Wads keep talking about the money. Don't they know that a Cutie can't hold the Boys any more unless she has her own Bus? And you know how these flat-haired Papas are. They don't like to ride in a Lizzie. You can't blame them, can you? No. I want something that will cut across Lots and Climb a Tree and if those two Kloodles think they can work off a Fliv on me, they've got another Guess coming."

All during this Rave the kind faced Relic of by-gone days stared at her dainty little Grand-daughter and sighed Deeply.

The Coy Debutante and the Bustle.

"I am wondering," she said at last, "if there is left, anywhere in the World, such a thing as a Chaperon. I saw one last Season and she was, if you will pardon the Modernism, a Pip. She was a Grass Widow, aged 28, painted a Creamy White, with a shingled Nob and she wore about eight Ounces of clothing. As a Guardian of Young Girls I would say that she was hand-picked. In 1875, when I had my Coming-Out Party, the Girls were brought by their Parents and no Young Gentlemen even asked for Permission to Call until he talked with the Mother and had flashed his credentials."

"I get you," said Genevieve. "You are now going to pull a line of Chatter about the Good Old Days of 1875, but you will never get away with it. I have studied Ancient History and I am wise to that Golden Age of Chivalry, when every popular Bachelor had the map covered with Trailing Arbutus and the coy Debutante wore a Bustle which made it practically impossible for her to sit down. You are panning me because I don't want to play the Melodeon and attend Lectures on the Holy Land. You think I am a Hussy because I don't want to sit in the Hammock all Day and read Tennyson. I will admit that I cannot get a Kick out of the One-Finger Exercise or the Herring-Bone Stitch. Probably I am immodest because I do not wear a lot of steel Harness. In the year 1875, which you are boosting so strong, you and others couldn't take a Full Breath but you were Nice Girls. And you Were concealed within ruffled Balloons which trailed on the Ground behind you, kicking up the Dust and collecting 10,000,000 Germs every Day."

"I will admit that we tried to hide our Ankles," said the Old Lady. "At Least we tried to hide Something. It seems to me that People could find out in the Newspapers about you girls wearing Bloomers without you proving it to them. And just because you have shed your Corset, is that any Reason why you should be a Contortionist every time you dance? Is it absolutely necessary that you should attempt to crawl into the Gentleman's Vest Pocket? And is it because you are afraid of catching Cold that you make it impossible for any draft to come between you? I am a petrified Fossil, propped up on the Side-Lines, and tolerated because I own a little Real Estate and I am 22 Miles behind the Parade, but I am asking just the same."

"There is no use trying to explain to a Has-Been," said little

Christian Science.

"Reality" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, for Sunday, September 24.

The Golden Text is from Isaiah 65:17: "Behold, I create new heavens and a new earth: and the former shall not be remembered, nor come into mind."

A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from Ecclesiastes 3:14, 15: "I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be forever: nothing can be put to it, nor anything taken from it: and God doeth it, that men should fear before him. That which has been is now; and that which is to be hath already been; and God required that which is past."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "There is but one primal cause. Therefore there can be no effect from any other cause, and there can be no reality in aught which does not proceed from this great and only cause.... The Spiritual reality is the scientific fact in all things. The spiritual fact, repeated in the action of man and the whole universe, is harmonious and is the ideal of Truth." (page 207).

North Loup News

The 31st annual celebration of North Loup's festive days known as Popcorn Days is now history. Owing to muddy roads Wednesday's crowds were sparse until evening. Two thousand must have witnessed the coronation of the queen with special ceremonies and the children's dance and men's glee club chorus which followed. Miss Vesta Peterson of Barker District was the young lady honored as North Loup's Popcorn queen. The juvenile parade lead by Mr. Barber's junior band was a most pleasing feature of the afternoon's program. Thursday, though the day was cloudy, crowds were present long before the dinner hour eating the delicious freshly popped corn while they visited. While the parade of floats was not so extensive as in some past years, it was none the less fine in quality. Prize winning floats were as follows: Business, North Loup Auction (Preston Bros.) 1st, Fred Lundstedt Garage, 2nd; North Loup High 1st, Scotia High 2nd; Union Ridge 1st in 2-room rural school, "Puritans" (Thanksgiving, Riverdale, "The Gleaners" 2nd; Clubs and lodges, Union Ridge Woman's club 1st, North Loup Fortnightly 2nd; Union Ridge girls' 4-H club 1st, Barker Pig club 2nd. Exhibits of agricultural products were smaller than usual. The display of fancy quilts excelled other years. The flower display was beautiful considering the drouth. Thursday evening's mixed program was well received. Much praise being due Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Davis who were in charge. All organizations serving meals report a good two days business. Altogether the various committees in charge believed the celebration to be successful and all who gave their services toward its success feel well repaid. Of course North Loup's band favored the crowds with music throughout both days, at the baseball grounds, both afternoons and preceding the evening's entertainments.

Earl Bingham and Ward Gowan are engaged at present in converting cane into old fashioned molasses. A number of farmers of the community are patronizing these molasses millers.

Will Stine trucked a load of cattle to Omaha Sunday for Rube McCune and Vern Robbins, returning via Lincoln to visit a son. At Grand Island Mr. Stine brought up a load of merchandise for Scotia and North Loup merchants.

Sidney Fuller of North Loup with the other reforestation boys at Chadron has been discharged to return home to seek work. If jobs cannot be secured they will be allowed to return to re-enlist until April 1.

Mrs. Evelyn Patterson expects to go to University hospital, Omaha this week for another limb treatment. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Weigardt of Ord are taking her down.

Fable of 1875 and 1925.

Genevieve, wearily. "I suppose we should all wear something with lace at the bottom and sit by Ourselves, over in a Corner waiting for the Gentlemen to bring us some Chicken salad, but them Days are gone forever. You can probably remember when the principal Instrument in the Orchestra was the Flute and The Blue Danube was Hot Diggity-Dog. Likewise the Lancers, which I would classify as the Zero of Indoor Sports."

"Everything which happened before this year is evidently Antiquated and N. G.," said Grandmother. "I will admit that the Orchestra which used to play for our Dances did not have any Steamboat Whistle or Derby Hat. But they made lovely Music. And when I say Music, I mean Music. I don't mean an imitation of a dying Pig or a busy Day at the Insane Asylum. Furthermore, any Gentleman who came to a Party all lit up like a Cathedral would have been given the Gate. Nowadays all of our Best Young People gather around him and give Three Hearty Cheers and then follow him to the Cloak Room. It's a terrible Situation."

Grandma Takes the Count.

"It sure is," agreed Genevieve. "Most of the stuff is synthetic. By the way, Granny, now that you are all wound up, why don't you bawl me out for being a Bob? Go on and tell about the Good Old Days when every Gal had a Horse's Tail hanging down her Back, and when she did it up she put in a couple of Soft Pillows and then wore a Rhine-Stone Comb, just to make the While Thing more blah. Then, after she got an 18-inch Hat, with a Kitchen Garden around the Terrace and a Velvet Bow on Top, and clasped on her Cameo Brooch and pulled out her Puff Sleeves, if she wasn't a Gawk you're crazy. A Woman had so much Junk about her Shoulders in those days, it gave her the Neck-Ache to carry it around. Yes, indeed, the Snappy Days of Yore! Give the Sweet Young Thing a Buggy Ride and a Ball of Pop-Corn and she'll be contented for several days. I figure that, to please the superannuated Fogies, all of us blue-eyed Bessies should go back to playing Charades and working Card-Board Mottoes. Also ride in Victorias, have a Taffy pull once in a while, and take Lessons on the Harp. We must be rather Hough House, as I learn that we are being criticized severely by all those who are cheating the Old People's Home by running around on the Outside. They have talked incessantly for a number of Years, but they have not, so far as I can learn, headed off a single Petting Party. I must now leave you to play 18 holes, attend a couple of Teas, take in a shake-up Party at a man's apartment, dine at a Road-House and dance all night at the Cross-Eyed Goose. If the Police don't get me, I'll see you Tomorrow at this hour."

Saying which she departed, leaving Grandma on the Ropes.

DR. RICH says:

Grand Island, Neb., Sept. 21, 1933.

Why I selected Dr. Rich of Grand Island to cure my rectal Fissure. "I was advised to do so by several people living in my neighborhood who have been cured of rectal trouble by Dr. Rich. I have found the way for myself and for those who suffer as I did to save both time and money. I am satisfied. Ben Parr Jr., Rt. 3, Dodge, Neb.

What is worth doing at all is surely worth doing well. Rectal trouble should be considered of equal importance to disease in any other part of the body. People who suffer with Piles, Fissure or Fistula should select their doctor with every possible care and caution. When expert service is easily available it is foolish to accept less.

For more than thirty years the Dr. Rich rectal Sanitarium and Clinic has carried on in Grand Island, Nebr. It still continues to render a highly specialized rectal service reasonably priced under really and truly pleasant conditions. If you need this kind of attention you cannot afford to overlook this splendid institution.

"As Easy as Spearing Fish in a Dry Lake"

That's what one man says about how easy it is to save money by following the Protective plan.

Dozens, yes, literally hundreds of our satisfied stockholders will echo this man's speech. IT IS EASY to save the Protective way.

The Protective plan is as simple as A-B-C. It is merely saving systematized. You buy a certain number of shares of installment stock, paying for them by depositing a small sum weekly or monthly. The installment stock pays a comparatively high rate of interest and helps to pay for itself. In a few years any salaried man can acquire a competence by following the Protective plan.

We'll be glad to furnish detailed information on this remarkable plan of money saving. Remember—"We took the 'If' from Thrift."

Experience . . . Counts!

Too many people think that all it takes to run a meat market successfully is to install a refrigerator counter and a stock of meat and go to doing business.

But that isn't all it takes. EXPERIENCE is the necessary ingredient. It takes long years of experience to know how to choose meats, cut them up properly and handle them so that they reach the consumer in prime condition.

With every cut of meat that you purchase here you buy, also, our EXPERIENCE. We know how and we have the proper equipment with which to work. Don't take chances in your meat buying. Buy from an EXPERIENCED market.

The Fable of Mr. Eatmore's Diet

By GEORGE ADE

©. Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

ONCE there was a Respected Citizen named George Eatmore who should have taken off his Hat to his Tummy. For the humble pear-shaped Organ has been through many a War. The Fact that it was not worn out, but was still trying to stay on the Job, proved that Nature is more wonderful than Art; when it comes to all-round toughness the Rhinoceros runs second to Man.

Before the stomach finally went on strike it earned many a Service Stripe. Through years of gormandizing and guzzling it was a True Pal of George, always right there when needed and doing its Duty cheerfully under the most trying Circumstances.

And yet, for several Decades, Mr. Eatmore never referred to his faithful Gizzard except in Language of Complaint. And he would not have dreamed of introducing his Stomach as a Topic of Conversation in Polite Society. He adhered to the old-fashioned Belief that the Alimentary Canal is entirely a private Affair.

It would be impossible to produce a Novel, Play or Movie without featuring the Heart. The Cardiacal Mechanism is put in the Center of the Stage and flooded with Spot-Lights while the hard-working and reliable stomach, situated only about Eight Inches to the Southwest, is permitted to toil at the most menial tasks in utter Darkness, with never a word of Sympathy or Encouragement. The prudes say that One who becomes too specific regarding the old Food-Trap is immodest and guilty of Social Error.

The Lungs often receive Honorable Mention and many a Vermiform Appendix, with little to be said for it in the way of looks, is carefully preserved in a Bottle and shown to Callers, but the Stomach has been and continues to be, as you might say, the Step-Child of the Human Organism. It endures all of the Hardships and gets most of the Blame.

For instance, take the Case of George Eatmore. Even while he was very Young and on the Milk, he would often ask his Digestive Apparatus to take on such Odds and Ends as Buttons, Pins, small Pieces of Coal, Calling Cards and Lint. Soon after he was weaned he put into the handy Receptacle a most varied Assortment, including Green Apples, Raw Turnips, Molasses Candy, Strawberry Pop and all of the dye-stuff Berries and oleaginous Nuts growing in the Wildwood.

Did the Craw rebel when it was bombarded at all hours? On the Contrary, it stood up and never was devoid of Pep. Each Morning it would look up at George and say, "Well, my Hearty, what's the Program for Today?"

College Lads Learned Something.

It was while George was in High School that he got quite a Giggle one day from reading in his Physiology that the Stomach of Man contains about Three Pints. Very often he had eaten as many as two Watermelons at a Sitting and anyone who says that two Watermelons are not more than three pints has never studied Botany. It just goes to show how little the Authorities really know.

After George entered College he and the Receiving Station took many a hard Trip together. All this happened when Keg Parties were considered Polite Functions and a string of Weenies smothered with Mustard was called a Light Luncheon. Lads who attended Institutions of Learning really learned something.

Between the catch-as-catch-can Beanery, which specialized on catch-dried Prunes which had been outercased by the Goodyear Company, and those jolly Midnight Pick-ups consisting largely of Limburger and Rye bread, is seemed at times that George should have been supplied with several Stomachs, the same as a Cow.

Once in a while the hard-worked Pouch would try to suggest to George that it was not a Waste-Basket, but he seemed to think that the Proper time to eat was between meals. Whenever there was a complaint he would ignore it and urge the patient Slave to keep on working overtime.

We now discover Our Hero as a struggling Law Student, trying to live on Nothing per Week. It was during these Lean Days, after Dad had discontinued the sending of Checks, that George seemed to regard the Doughnut as Vitamin B. He frequented the old-style Lunch Counter and subsisted on so-called Food which was turned out by Foundries instead of being cooked. When he hoisted a Cup of Coffee which had been twenty-four hours in the Urn, it is little Wonder that the Stomach would look up at him in Surprise and emit a low Growl of Protest.

About the Time that he got a foothold he married a very sweet little Apricotina who had been taking Music Lessons and cooked accordingly. George could have played Eighteen Holes with one of her Soda Biscuits. It was truly said of her that she could not boil Water without giving it a Scorched Taste. But she could tear the Lining out of Tosti's "Good-Bye."

For a long time they couldn't afford a Swede and it was during this period when the Little Woman was tying to turn out Angel Food which could be cut with a Knife instead of a Pair of Scissors, that Mr. Eatmore and his alimentary Side-Kick earned a couple of Carnegie Medals for Heroism. You say that Anybody can make Tea. Even a man. Well, Sweetie could do something to it which made it taste like Sheep-Dip. And not the best Quality of Sheep-Dip at that.

Every Known Variety of Chow.

At last the Sun of Prosperity began to shine on the Eatmores and they had a Lot of Servants. They had only Two at one Time, but they had a lot in the course of a Year. The colored Mammies would prepare everything Southern Style, while the Transients imported from Ireland favored Corned Beef buried in Cabbage, and several who had escaped from Germany to avoid Military Service put Caraway Seed in every Viand and then laid a Dill Pickle on top of it. Just when the Gullet thought it had transported every known variety of Chow, along would come a pleasing Novelty, such as Raviola, or Tripe with Apples chopped up in it, or Olives stuffed with Torpedoes, or Hungarian Goulash, or Chicken Livers wearing Festoons of Garlic, or Gutta Percha Pudding dashed with Shellac, or the seductive Alligator Pear swimming in the Lubricant which you see advertised in every Filling Station.

When a good Doctor goes over a Man he always listens to the Heart. Sooner or later Science will devise a Dingus which will enable Doc to listen to the Stomach and in that Event the Specialists will get many an Earful. For instance, the Stomach which accompanied Mr. Eatmore could have written quite a large volume on "Unexpected Guests."

Not until George became a Prominent Citizen and began to attend Formal Dinners did he put his Digestion to the Supreme Test, and start in to lean heavily on Bi-Carbonate of Soda. We are referring to the Age of Gustatory Miracles when every Diner-Out found an Exhibit of Glassware in front of his plate and was supposed to fly at every kind of red, white and blue Fluid during the prolonged Battle with the heavy Courses. A real Dinner, in the old days of cheap Liquor and the deadly Toast List, made Belchazzar's Feast look like a Cafeteria Snack. The Boys had to get into a State of Coma in order to put up with the Speeches.

When Mr. Eatmore took his Stomach away with him after one of these three-hour Feeds he didn't have to be told that his Stomach was present. He would throw it a little Pepsin and tell it to behave. During all his years of Alimentary Acrobatics, George never took any Blame on himself. He would curse his Stomach and feel that he was the Injured Party.

Late this Season Mr. Eatmore was entertained a great deal by Friends who had Pre-War Stuff. It was made before the War between Hoover and the Senate. At the Hospital he told the Nurses and Everybody that it was Gastritis. The Stomach had no opportunity to speak up and say "I went into the Ring once too often."

As some of his old-time Associates were driving back from the Cemetery they removed the Black Gloves and said they couldn't understand why George had to check in at the Early Age of 62, because the Old Scout certainly had taken the Best of Care of himself at all Times.

Mink Prejudice Justified

"The prejudice against minks held by trappers appears only too well founded," says Dr. Ned Dearborn in "Food of Fur Bearing Animals in Michigan." "Unquestionably, minks kill many muskrats in winter when other warm-blooded animals are more difficult to find," he says. The mink burrows into their houses, occupies their nests, and lies in wait to kill them. An entire colony of muskrats may be destroyed or routed by a pair of these freebooters.

Sweet Clover and Alfalfa Seed

We are still in the market for sweet clover and alfalfa seed and we are paying the highest possible price for it. Markets have been reduced some and it is hard to tell how long we will have an outlet for this seed.

If you have seed bring in a sample for our test and offer. We feel that as long as we can make the offers that we have been making that it is a very good time to sell this seed. Some growers are holding their seed for higher prices; but the large seed houses are getting well supplied with seed and may stop buying at any time.

OFFICIALS INSPECT LOUP PROJECTS

PUBLIC WORKS MEN BANQUETED HERE SATURDAY

250 Attend Dinner Sponsored By C. of C., Hear Speakers Say Project Feasible.

Almost 300 men and women from the communities of Taylor, North Loup, Elyria, Burwell, Ord and Scotia attended the banquet held at the Ord high school auditorium Saturday evening to honor Dan V. Stevens, J. E. Lawrence and John Latenser, jr., members of the public works advisory board. The banquet was one of the most successful affairs ever given in the North Loup valley; in fact, the spirit of co-operation that made the banquet such a success was never before evident to its present high degree.

The dinner was prepared and served by ladies of four Ord churches—the Catholic, Methodist, Presbyterian and Christian— and was a delicious and bountiful repast of three courses.

Long tables ran the length of the big auditorium and down the center of each ran a replica of the electric high tension line that it is hoped will run up and down the valley when the North Loup project is carried out. These decorations were conceived in the mind of Glen Auble, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and were carried out by Cecil Molzen and George Allen.

All during the meal an orchestra directed by Orville H. Sowl played and several vocal selections were sung by a quartet composed of Ed Mouer, LeRoy Frazier, Dr. F. L. Blessing and E. H. Petty.

Bert M. Hardenbrook acted as master of ceremonies and called upon W. I. Hoffman, of Burwell, to give the address welcoming the visitors. This Mr. Hoffman did in his usual capable manner.

J. E. Lawrence, editor of the Licoln Star and member of the public works board, was the firs. speaker called on by Mr. Hardenbrook and gave an exceptionally interesting address in the course of which he praised the beauty and fertility of the North Loup valley, the spirit of cooperation shown by its people, and the feasibility of the power and irrigation project being considered.

Captain R. A. Radford, federal engineer who is chief inspector on public works projects in the middle west, was next called upon. Captain Radford said that his wife is a granddaughter of General E. O. C. Ord, for whom this city is named. He related how a federal apropriation of $110,000 built Fort Hartsuff in 1878 and saved the entire North Loup valley from starvation in that year of drought and grasshoppers. He expressed confidence that the present power and irrigation project would be approved by the federal government and the $3,000,000 appropriation being asked for would again save residents of the valley from bankruptcy and starvation. The audience was charmed with Captain Radford's soft, Virginian accent and with his gracious words.

Other speakers called upon by Mr. Hardenbrook were John Latenser, jr., former Attorney General C. A. Sorensen, and N. T. Veatch, jr., and each of them made short speeches in praise of the North Loup project.

J. Merinus Sorensen, a former Ord resident and at present cashier of Dan V. Stevens' bank at Fremont, was another speaker who praised the project but it remained for Mr. Stevens, chairman of the public works board, to put confidence into every banqueter. Mr. Stevens, a Nebraska pioneer and former congressman, expressed in his whimsical talk the belief that the North Loup valley project will be carried out as planned and that the fullest measure of prosperity awaits the people of this region.

The banquet was sponsored by the Ord Chamber of Commerce but much of the credit for its success should go to people of other towns of the valley who attended in large numbers and showed the finest spirit of cooperation possible. It was an epochal event, enjoyed by the honored guests and by people of the valley also.

—Miss Marie Hall was hostess Monday evening to Les Belles Femmes club. The evening was spent with cards and a nice lunch was served. The members of this club are Misses Marie Hall, Eunice Chase, Thelma Partridge, Mae Baird, Daisy Hallen, Clara McClatchey and Garnette Jackman, Madams Forrest Johnson, Frank Andersen, Tamer Gruber, Horace Travis and Wilbur Cass.

—Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Leon McMindes and children of Joint and Mrs. Albert McMindes of Atkinson drove to Farwell and visited Mrs. Leon McMindes' relatives and attended a birthday party for one of the sisters.

Frank Andersen And Lucene Hardin Marry

On Monday, Sept. 18 at Logan, Ia., Miss Lucene Hardin of Lincoln became the bride of Frank Andersen of Ord, the newlyweds coming to Ord Thursday to make their home. They were the recipients of an enormous charivari that evening being seated in a trailer and carried around town with an escort of forty car loads of friends equipped with noise makers of all kinds.

Mrs. Andersen, who for several years was a popular instructor in Ord high school, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Hardin or Lincoln. She is a graduate of Lincoln high school and the University of Nebraska.

Her husband, a graduate of Ord high school, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Andersen and is associated in the grocery and meat business here with his father. He is one of Ord's most popular young men.

They will make their home in the Gust Rose house in Hillside addition.

Churches and Vacant Buildings Are Used For Arcadia School

Arcadia, Sept. 26.—(Special)—The schools of this village re-opened Monday after a week's vacation following the destruction of Arcadia's public school building by fire. Although handicapped by lack of the usual facilities, board of education members are feeling fortunate in being able to secure accommodations and resume school in such a short time after the fire.

Classes for the high school are being held in the Bellinger hall, public library and Christian Science church. Grade rooms are being cared for in the basement and Epworth league room of the Methodist church.

Plans are under way for the rebuilding of the school house and Friday the Nebraska public works advisory board was approached as to the possibility of a 30 per cent federal grant being forthcoming in connection with the rebuilding. No definite answer was given but it is likely that formal application for a loan and a federal grant will be made soon.

Scotia Community Wants Irrigation

Anxious to be included in the North Loup valley irrigation development, a group of Scotia business men and farmers waited Saturday evening upon directors of the district only to be told that it was too late for their inclusion. They then contracted N. T. Veatch, jr., and E. H. Dunmire about the practicability of forming a district of their own and Sunday morning employed these engineers to make a survey of the Scotia acreage.

There are about 6.000 acres suitable for irrigation near Scotia, it appears, and Engineers Veatch and Dunmire suggested formation of a district and the building of a diversion dam above Scotia. Water might cost as much as $4.00 per acre, since no power development is planned, but the Scotia enthusiasts indicated that farmers there would be glad to get the water even at this price.

Mr. Dunmire and a force of men are busy surveying near Scotia at present and it is hoped that plans can be completed in two or three weeks.

It is thought possible that at some future time the Scotia district might be consolidated with the North Loup River Power and Irrigation district so as to save administration and operating expense on both projects.

Ericson High School May Collect Taxes

At a session of the district court held in Bartlett last Thursday, Judge E. P. Clements sustained the Ericson rural high school district in a case brought by A. L. Bishop, and others, who claimed the district was improperly organized and that the law under which it was organized, was unconstitutional and asked for an injunction against its collecting taxes. The case had been pending for some time and the continuance of the rural high school district was involved in the case. A. L. Bishop of Bartlett was attorney for the plaintiffs and F. J. H. Lawson and Davis & Vogeltanz represented the school district. The case may be appealed to the Supreme court.

—Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Emil Vodehnal celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary in the National Hall. There was a big crowd and a general good time and plenty of good things to eat. Joe and His Merry Music Makers furnished the music.

—Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Draper entertained a few friends at dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Naivaux and Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Finley.

Duck Season Opens At Noon October 1

The open season on ducks in Nebraska will start at noon Sunday, October 1 and will continue until sundown November 30, regulations sent out by the game department specify. After the first day ducks may be shot between one-half hour before sunrise and sundown of each day. The daily bag limit of ducks is 12 and the possession limit is 24. Not more than 8 canvasbacks, redheads, scaups, teal, gadwalls or shovelers may be killed in one day. There is no open season on ruddy, bufflehead or wood ducks.

State Game Warden O'Connell also has announced regulations for the pheasant hunting season that opens October 22 and continues for ten days. The daily bag limit is five, of which two may be hens, and the possession limit is the same. The season will be open in all counties except Box Butte, Cass, Cherry, Dawes, Douglas, Gage, Johnson, Lancaster, Nemaha, Otoe, Pawnee, Richardson, Sarpy Saunders, Sheridan, Sioux and Washington.

Will Have Piano Recital.

Piano students of Mrs. J. W. Severns will give a recital at the Christian church next Friday, October 6, at 8:00 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend.

—Tuesday morning A. J. Meyer submitted to a major operation in the St. Francis, Grand Island hospital. His sister-in-law, Mrs. Gladys Hutts, accompanied Mr. Meyer to the hospital and is staying with him.

—Monday afternoon Mrs. Cecil Molzen gave a kensington in honor of Mrs. J. R. Smith of Omaha. There were fifteen guests.

The Latest News On Irrigation!

The Quiz had hoped to be able to announce this week that the North Loup hydro-electric and irrigation project had been approved by the Nebraska public works advisory board.

When board members left Ord last Sunday they promised an immediate verdict.

Tuesday Engineer E. H. Dunmire went to Omaha, fully expecting that the project would be approved either Tuesday or yesterday and that he could assist board members and the federal engineer, Albert C. Arend, in preparing a report to be submitted to Washington.

Late yesterday afternoon Mr. Dunmire telephoned President Bert M. Hardenbrook and said that he had interviewed John Latenser, jr., secretary of the board, and had been informed by Mr. Latenser that the board would not hold an executive session this week and consequently could not take action on the North Loup project until next week at the earliest.

Engineer Arend, who was taken ill while in Ord last Saturday is in a hospital at Omaha but tells Mr. Dunmire that he is ready to approve engineering details of the North Loup project as soon as the public works board takes action.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes is urging haste on job-making projects. The North Loup project is ready to go. Work could be under way in 30 days. It is a sound project, legally, financially and in engineering detail. And yet the public works board postpones action for another week!

Two Men Are Fined On Pheasant Charge

Although six pheasants were found in their possession by Game Warden Bert Lashmett last Wednesday evening, Howard Huff and Perry Timmerman were charged with possession of only one bird apiece when they were arraigned in county court Thursday. Upon their plea of guilty Judge John L. Andersen fined each of them $25 and costs, plus state damages of $10 each for two birds. Mr. Huff paid but Timmerman is spending a few days in county jail in lieu of payment. Frank Cetak, who was in their company when Lashmett took them into custody, was not prosecuted.

During the hearing, George A Munn, county attorney, stated that in his opinion the penalty for shooting pheasants is too severe. Had Huff and Timmerman been charged with killing six pheasants and had their guns been confiscated they would have been penalized in the amount of $400, he said. As it was their total fines costs and damages aggregated only about $80.

On the other hand, the law against killing pheasants out of season must be enforced. Officers have taken oath to enforce all laws, so, regardless of personal feeling, County Attorney Munn pointed out that he was compelled to file charges and that Judge Andersen was compelled to levy fines in accordance with those charges.

Huff and Timmerman were being let off as easy as the law permits, Mr. Munn said.

Ill With Encephalitis.

Arcadia, Sept. 26—(Special)—Mrs. Everett Webb, who has been seriously ill with an attack of encephalitis, more commonly known as sleeping sickness, for several days, is somewhat improved today. She is expected to recover unless complications set in.

Mergenthaler Loses Case.

The case of the Mergenthaler Linotype company vs. James McNamee, which had previously been decided by both the district and supreme courts in favor of McNamee, was definitely ended last week when the supreme court denied a motion for rehearing filed by the linotype company through its local attorneys, Davis & Vogeltanz. Mr. McNamee was represented by Hardenbrook & Misko

Card of Thanks.

The Chamber of Commerce wishes to thank all who assisted in making the banquet in honor of the Federal Public Works Commission, a success. Only through the splendid cooperation of the ticket committee, the committee on arrangements and the ladies of our churches was it made possible. We wish to thank all who took part in any way in the program. We realize how much work and sacrifice it means for those in charge. It is through this splendid cooperation that our community will be benefited.

ORD GRIDSTERS WILL DEPEND ON SPEED-MOLZEN

35 Boys Practice But Team Will Be Very Light; Hope To Play Games at Night.

Although he has thirty-five or more enthusiastic young gentlemen out for football practice nightly, Coach Cecil Molzen said Tuesday that he is going to have to depend on speed and deception if his team is to be a winner. Most of the boys are light and inexperienced, the coach says.

The first game is coming up for Ord next week when the Chanticleers journey to Scotia. According to rumor, Scotia has every intention of copping the Loup valley association title this fall and has a heavy, experienced team in the field.

On October 6 Ord plays its first home game against St. Paul. That team swung into action last Friday against Greeley, defeating the Irish by a tidy margin. Burwell also began its season last Friday by beating North Loup 48 to 0, which looks as though Coach Zorn is in with another winner.

Coach Molzen has several experienced backfield candidates but the line will be almost entirely new. A forward-passing attack is being developed to make up for the team's lack of weight.

There is every probability that Ord will play its home games under the arc lights this season. The park board yesterday decided to install a lighted football and kittenball field at Bussell park and it is thought that night games will bring about a big boost in attendance.

Dr. Barta Named To Examine War Vets

Dr. F. A. Barta received his appointment Monday as examiner for war veterans of this locality who seek compensation for disabilities of service origin. Soon after President Roosevelt took office all compensation being paid to veterans was sharply reduced. Now veterans are being permitted to appeal their cases to a special board composed of Robert Flory, Albion, G. E. Price, Lincoln, and Frank J. Taylor, St. Paul. Before their cases will be considered by this board Valley county veterans must be examined by Dr. Barta and his report will guide board members in their action.

Lillian Zadina Wed To Emil Sedlacek

At 9 o'clock Monday morning a beautiful wedding ceremony was performed at the Catholic church in Ord when Father Lawler united in marriage Miss Lillian Zadina, Ord and Emil Sedlacek, Geranium.

The bride wore a white floor length, satin gown, with a lace jacket. Her trailing veil was trimmed in scalloped lace, the cap being trimmed in rows of tiny seed pearls. Her bouquet was of pink and white roses. Her bridesmaid, Miss Alice Cerny of Sargent wore a floor length gown of pink taffeta and carried pink and white carnations. The groom and his best man, Will Sedlacek, his brother, wore dark blue suits.

Bernice Parkos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Parkos of Comstock and Margaret Blaha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Blaha of St. Paul were flower girls and carried baskets containing pink and blue snapdragons and baby's breath. They were dressed in white crepe de chine, trimmed in pink rosettes.

The wedding dinner was served at the bride's home to 50 close relatives. Miss Lydia Sedlacek and Miss Lucile Turek were waitresses and were dressed in white dresses trimmed in pink. Pink and white decorations were used throughout the house.

In the evening a wedding dance was held in their honor at the Ord Bohemian hall at which about 1,000 people were present. A lunch was served at midnight.

The bride is the daughter of Frank Zadina and since her mother's death has made her home with her grandparents and her aunt Anna. She graduated from Ord high school with the class of 1931. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sedlacek and graduated from Comstock high school in 1929.

They left on a wedding trip yesterday morning to attend the Chicago world's fair with Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kerchal, who were married last week. They will be gone about a week.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zulkoski have named their little daughter Margaret Mary. Marjory Mae thought the new sister should have a name similar to her's so she selected this name.

Burwell Grid Boys Hurt In Car Crash

Six members of the Burwell high school football team suffered severe cuts and bruises about 6 o'clock Monday evening when the car in which they were riding crashed into an oil truck. The accident happened as the boys were returning from a practice session at the fair grounds and had the boys not been wearing head-gears, padded trousers and other football clothing their injuries might have been much more severe.

Roland Gross, driver of the car in which they were ridng, suffered a broken nose and severe facial cuts and bruises. Melvin and Marvin Malicky, Donald and Harold VanWagenen and Richard Gross suffered severe bruises and cuts, the latter mostly from flying glass. Alex Chambers, also a passenger in the car was uninjured.

Church Celebrates Return of Pastor

Members and friends of the Davis Creek United Brethren church met Friday evening at the church in celebration of the return of Rev. C. F. Wantz and family to another year's service in this community. Following a delicious supper served in the church basement, ably supervised by Mrs. Alice Bower, president of the ladies aid society, the assembly gathered in the church auditorium where the congregation joined in singing a number of songs and the pastor then delighted his audience with a brief chalk entertainment. Following this, the time was spent in inspecting the fine donation and visting with the convction often expressed that this year promises to be one of the very best experienced by this thriving, energetic church. Beside every resident family of the church being represented, in practcially every case the entire family present, visitors among those who occasionally make the church their worship and community center and Mr. and Mrs. Earl White of Colorado and Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Kindler and baby of Ewing were present to help make the occasion more successful.

The following officers are responsible for the supervision of the church for this conference year: Sunday school officers, superintendent, Bert Cummins; efficiency director, Clifford Collins; secretary, Edith Jeffries; treasurer, Will Eglehoff; chorister, Vivian Cummins; pianist, Ina Collins, librarians, Donzella White and Ava Leach. Church officers; class leader, Alice Bower; steward, Clifford Collins; treasurer, John Williams; chorister, Paul White; pianist, Wilda Wantz; ushers, Corwin Cummins and Donald Jeffries; junior superintendents, Dora Eglehoff and Mrs. Ed Jeffries. Will Rendell was re-elected to his place on the church board of trustees.

Attends Meeting Of Land Bank Lawyers

E. L. Vogeltanz attended a meeting of attorneys who have been representing the Federal Land bank of Omaha, at Lincoln Monday. The general counsel of the land bank informed attorneys present that they have a avalanche of work confronting them. This has made speedy completion of loans extremely difficult, but the bank is doing its best to hurry these loans through. "When one realizes that in the years since it was organized, this bank has made 29,000 loans, and that it now has about 35,000 applications, one can see a part of their problem", reports Mr. Vogeltanz. There are more applications from the territory served by this land bank than from the territory covered by any other land bank. The bank had eight appraisers in February. 1933, and now has over three hundred. Every effort will be made to pass upon all loans and complete all that are approved by the first of the year, or sooner.

Woman Will Preach At Union Services

Miss Mamie Young, new pastor of the United Brethren church of Ord, will preach at a union service Sunday evening at the Christian church. Miss Young arrived last week from Dubois, Nebr., and preached to her congregation for the first time Sunday morning.

Stamp Meeting Sept. 29.

Stamp collectors and those interested in seeing an exhibition of stamps are invited to attend a meeting in the K. of C. hall at St. Paul, Nebr., on Friday evening, Sept. 29th. Collectors are asked to bring part of their collection to display and also to bring some duplicates along to swap with other collectors. It is hoped that collectors of Central Nebraska will organize a club at this meeting.

HEARINGS HELD IN ORD, ARCADIA BY STATE BOARD

Stevens, Latenser, Lawrence Sit In Judgment, Promise Early Verdict on Projects.

North Loup Makes Fine Impression

Conclusive Evidence of Ability to Repay Loan Is Given; 299 Farmers Want Water.

Central Nebraska's dream of irrigation and hydro-electric development in the North and Middle Loup valleys moved a step nearer to realization Friday and Saturday when the Nebraska public works advisory board, accompanied by other officials, arrived to inspect the two projects and hold formal hearings in Ord and Arcadia.

The group was made up of Dan V. Stevens, J. E. Lawrence and John Latenser, jr., members of the board, Albert C. Arend, the board's engineer, Captain R. A. Radford, federal engineer who is regional inspector of public works projects, and Dale Stough, former court reporter for Judge Bayard H. Paine and now acting in similar capacity to the public works board.

Also here were Dr. G. E. Condra of the state university and Col. Val Kuska of the Burlington railroad, both of whom testified at the hearings. C. A. Sorensen, of Lincoln, attended both hearings as attorney for the districts. H. H. Henningson and Mr. Standeven, of Omaha, were in Arcadia representing the Middle Loup project as engineers while N. T. Veatch, jr., and E. H. Dunmire were here from Kansas City to represent the North Loup district in the same capacity.

The public works board began its work Friday morning with an inspection of the Middle Loup valley, continuing the same afternoon with a formal hearing at Arcadia. That evening the Loup City Commercial club entertained them at dinner.

About 9:30 a. m. Saturday the group arrived in Ord and under the leadership of Jos. P. Barta, secretary of the North Loup district, an inspection tour of the valley was begun.

First the group was taken to the top of Hillcrest hospital hill and were permitted to gaze over the beautiful panorama of the North Loup river spread before them. Then the tour was started.

There were ten cars in the caravan and the first stop was made at the west end of Ord's L street to inspect the proposed lake and emergency power plant site. The C. J. Mortensen farm was the next stop and a field of irrigated corn was compared with a field of dry land corn near by. From there the group went to the Butterfield farm near Burwell where irrigated sugar beets, beans, potatoes and corn were inspected.

From Butterfield's the caravan went to Taylor, pausing at the Sioux Creek power plant site enroute, and from Taylor returned to Burwell where a bountiful luncheon was served by the Wranglers club at the Hallock hotel. Then down the east side of the river, stopping at Fort Hartsuff and Sumter, and back to Ord for the formal hearing.

This hearing was held at the opera house which was crowded with 500 or more farmers and people from Ord, North Loup and Burwell. The board occupied chairs on the stage and Bert M. Hardenbrook, president of the dsitrict, introduced witnesses.

Dr. Condra was the first witness introduced and he, with the aid of colored maps, explained that the North Loup valley is entirely suited to irrigation. "It is the largest distribution of soil suited to irrigation in Nebraska," Condra said, "and compares unusually well with land at Scottsbluff." The quantity of beets that could be raised on this soil should be great and the sugar content extremely high, he said. The entire valley is well adapted to the diversification of crops with especial emphasis to beets, alfalfa, corn and potatoes.

Ralph W. Norman was the next witness and gave figures on unemployment in the valley. A total of 1,732 unemployed registered in Valley, Garfield and Loup counties, he testified, and of this total at least 90 per cent are actually out of work. He explained that 149 should be deducted from the Valley county total because they are situated in territory adjacent to the Middle Loup project. The situation is becoming more serious each year and if this or a similar

By H. D. LEGGETT

Well, dear Quiz readers, the boss is back on the job after a wonderful month in northern Minnesota. I went away expecting to be gone a couple of weeks and Eugene wrote to stay as long as I wished, as he and the office force could handle the job here. He also said it was as hot as, well, any place he knew anything about, so I stayed on. Finally the wind started to blow and I never saw it blow harder anywhere than it did up there on the lake. It tore my livebox loose and wrecked the dock and I decided it was time to migrate. I saw the blackbirds getting ready to go for several days before we left and the robins and other kinds of birds had already gone. Some of the natives told me there would be ice in the lakes inside of 30 days. I doubted that story, for there has been no frost there yet, but I was anxious to get home in time to help enjoy the big irrigation meeting and to look after my garden and flowers before cold weather here.

—o—

We didn't intend to come for a few days yet till it started to blow and for three days we couldn't get onto the lake, then it rained and in that country a good rain this time of year almost certainly means three days more of hard wind and that settled it for us. We packed up and got out of camp within a very few hours after we finally decided to go.

—o—

Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Hollaway from Harlan, Iowa spent a week with us and Mrs. Elsie Callaway who had been with us there, accompanied them home. Lou got a couple of boxes of nice fish, among them several walleyes weighing 4 to 6 pounds each. Also a nice lot of bass. Then, as often happens, the fish went on a strike for a few days and we had hard work getting enough pan fish to supply our small needs for the balance of the time we were there. We had planned on getting some nice big ones to bring home but there was nothing doing. All we could catch the last few days were bullheads and sunfish. The pike and bass will strike again this fall, liable to start any day in fact and go crazy for a few days and he who is lucky enough to be there at that time will come away saying he had the best fishing trip of his life. I have seen them that way a good many times. There are no lakes in Minnesota with more fish or better fish than we have in the Cullen lakes and they strike more of the time than fish do in many other lakes, but there are times when they go on a strike. On a diet I guess. The fish there are fat and I sometimes think they are like the human race, get to thinking it is not stylish to be too fat and go on a diet. Anyway, we were the only ones in camp and it was awful lonesome, especially when the wind was blowing a gale.

—o—

That is a great plum country up there and we bought some plums and made jell and butter. There is a cucumber pickle factory at Pequot and most farmers have a patch of a few rows to an acre or so of cucumbers and a lady let us go into the patch and get just the size we wanted for 80 cents per hundred and so we killed some time making and canning a batch of pickles. We also bought red raspberries from a farmer and canned and made them into jam. We had a carload of canned stuff to bring home and we really had a lot of fun doing the work.

—o—

Those who cater to the tourist trade tell us that this season has been much better than last or for the last couple of seasons and they are looking forward to a normal year in 1934. There are still many cars from Nebraska and Iowa going into Minnesota for the fall fishing. People are learning that mid-September is a mighty good time to go when only 30 days can be spent there and it looks as though the season, which used to end with August, is going to be extended a couple of months.

—o—

On the way home we saw a live black bear beside the road and stopped to look at him. He was chained to a tree and was kept as an attraction by a filling station owner. He seemed as gentle as a big dog and paid little or no attention to us but we didn't try to shake hands with him.

—o—

We are all anxious for a return of prosperity but personally, I cannot see how we can be any more prosperous with the prices of everything we have to buy, going up, unless the prices of the things we have to sell, also go up and so far that has not been the case. Perhaps time will work things out to the satisfaction of everyone. No doubt inflation is the only thing that will bring about the desired results and it looks to me as though inflation is sure to come. Probably, up to a certain point it will be all right. Who knows just how much inflation to turn loose?

I have received the new fall magazine lists and will be glad to have your subscriptions for all magazines and periodicals. It won't cost you any more, may save you a little money, will surely save you some bother and I will make a small commission. I am sure, when ordering a magazine, you will be glad to let us send in the subscription. And the same applies to all daily papers. Let us send in your subscriptions to the Bee, World Herald, State Journal, Star or G. I. Independent. We get 10 per cent and it don't cost you anything to give us the business instead of handing it to some travelling salesman or sending it direct.

—o—

And here is something else to think about. Pretty soon there are going to be many engineers and others looking for places to room, board, or do light housekeeping. Some will want to rent rooms, others will want a house. If you have anything to rent let it be known through the "want ad" department of the Quiz at once. I predict there will not be a vacant house or room in Ord 60 days from now.

Something DIFFERENT

Because of unfavorable weather, Ord yards and gardens aren't as pretty this year as other summers have seen them, but nevertheless there are many places in town well worth a special inspection.

The planting around several homes newly built a season or so ago is maturing beautifully, and now in it's prime. In this group the Pullen home is attractively surrounded with exactly the right shrubs and growing things. Some way or other, every planting of their yard seems perfectly suited to the spot it occupies.

Another home in this class is the Clifford Flynn residence. The yard of this citizen and the yard of his neighbor, Frank Kasal, merge into one charming whole. Both of them are charming, and together they appear at even greater advantage.

The homes of the Lincoln brothers, Abe and Aube, are both beautifully planted, as you have no doubt noticed.

Judge Clements' yard is delightful, and hundreds of kinds of flowers are to be found in it. Many visitors have enjoyed them during the season, but I liked the lily pool almost better than any of the flowers.

The Quiz yard has bloomed all season with first one flower and then two other kinds. The beautiful bed of glowing red salvia and Dusty Miller which the Quiz had two summers ago I believe inspired a great many small replicas, and was even prettier than the one in the yard this summer.

Both the Ign. Klima and O. E. Johnson homes have a cunning little backyard garden fenced in with a neat white fence, inside which are found profuse blooms and a little pool.

Many places look so inviting year after year that no one specially mentions them, since their orderly beauty is taken for granted; everyone is accustomed to it.

Mrs. Zabloudil's place is invariably gay with color and well cared-for. As fast as one flower passes its prime she removes it and substitutes another, and there is always something to see.

The Hager grounds, the Milford grounds, the Jim Misko surroundings are always in order, but few think to mention it. Dr. and Mrs. Shepard customarily keep their yard immaculate and attractive but were a little handicapped this year by their late return from California. John Klein's yard is a pleasure to see and never disappointing and the same may be said of the grounds upon which Mrs. Mat Kosmata expends so much effort.

—oOo—

There are a lot of neat, charming places that should be mentioned . . .so many that I can't remember them all.

—oOo—

Bud's flower-patch is worth a trip to see, as it is every summer. And the bird-houses he has posted are worth a trip around the golf course, in spite of the fact that you don't play golf.

—oOo—

Valley county's farm houses are more than averagely attractive, too. Whether the house and barns are bigger than those of the neighbors doesn't mean much to me, but to drive by neat, orderly places with a nice piece of green grass in front, and a few big shade trees is always a fascinating glimpse.

In fact I believe paint and tidiness are about the most necessary to make a pleasing view, whether it is found in town or country. Take away either one of these two, and what is left doesn't look like much.

—oOo—

There is a house outside Ord a few miles on a main highway that has so many gables I always think of the "House of Seven Gables" as the title of it. Then I count the gables and get gypped, for there are only six!

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank all those who assisted us in our recent bereavement, especially for the beautiful flowers and many expressions of sympathy.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

In spite of all we have recently heard and read about vitamins and balanced menus, a good many ancient recipes are still in use and have not been improved upon one bit in the course of the last hundred years or so. Nearly every family has a few of these old favorite dishes which are highly esteemed, and which the older cooks of the family carefully teach the young cooks to make.

If you have one of these revered recipes in your collection won't you send it to the Quiz? Below is a dumpling recipe which has been used at least a hundred years, and is excellent.

Foolproof Dumplings.

Beat one egg light, add three-fourths cup flour, one and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Drop in hot liquid to cook. This makes six nice, large dumplings, as light as down. If any dumplings are left, cut in slices, fry in butter and serve with apple syrup or any kind of jelly you prefer.

Mrs. Noha.

There are a number of ways to make dumplings, and opinion divides as sharply on this as on family mince pie preferences. Then there is also the argument as to whether dumplings should be covered and cooked, or cooked uncovered, with both schools willing to argue forever and never give in. Here is a picnic goulash you will want to try at once.

Picnic Goulash.

Boil noodles twenty minutes, cook together slowly one can tomatoes, one cup diced onions. This is usually done at home and taken to a picnic in a fruit jar to be added to meat. Over the campfire fry hamburger, stirring until thoroughly cooked, then add the noodles and tomato mixture.

Mrs. Clayton Burke, Cody, Wyo.

Mrs. Burke guarantees this to be good, even if you have ants down your neck and smoke in your eyes!

Apple Crisp.

One cup flour, one cup brown sugar, one-half cup butter, eight medium sized apples. Slice the apples and put in a buttered pudding dish. Cut the shortening into the dry materials with a knife or the finger tip, spread it over the apples and sprinkle with cinnamon or nutmeg. Bake in a medium oven 45 minutes. Serve warm or cold with cream.

Mrs. Bud Auble.

Chili Sauce.

Chop twelve ripe tomatoes, six onions, two red peppers, one-half large head of cabbage, add six tablespoons sugar, three tablespoons salt, four cups vinegar. Cook for one hour, then add one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon mustard, one teaspoon celery seeds and let boil five more minutes. Seal while hot.

Mrs. Ed Verstraete.

Canned Spaghetti and Tomato.

Cook spaghetti until done, and separately cook enough tomatoes to yield one gallon tomato juice. When done combine and add one tablespoon salt, two cups sugar or less, two-thirds cup vinegar, one-third teaspoon red pepper, one-half teaspoon cloves, then one teaspoon each of allspice, ginger, and cinnamon. Cook a few minutes and cold pack for a good thirty minutes in cold water. Serve with any kind of meat.

Mrs. Ed Verstraete.

Grape Pie.

Put one pint grape juice in double boiler, sweeten to taste. When hot add three tablespoons cornstarch which has been dissolved first in a little cold water. When it has cooked thick and clear, let cool. Pour into a pie crust which has been baked beforehand, serve with whipped cream.

Florence Walton Jaeger commited suicide by swallowing carbolic acid and was laid to rest in Ord cemetery. Ill health prompted the act.

W. L. McNutt and Alvin Blessing went to Tripp county, South Dakota, to take part in the land drawing.

The Ord Gun club was holding its 10th annual trap shooting tournament and shot-gun artists were here from all parts of the state.

Miss Addie Fuson and Fred Hallock were united in marriage by Rev. J. M. Huston.

M. L. Fries was selected to represent the republican central committee of Valley county at the state convention.

Vincent Kokes made the suggestion that farmers sow the roadsides by their farms to alfalfa, thus keeping weeds down and growing a valuable pasturage crop.

D. B. Smith had just finished threshing 751 bushels of wheat from 22 acres of ground, a yield of 34 bushels per acre.

20 Years Ago This Week.

A Burlington freight train was wrecked near Sumter, five cars being derailed. Two cars of kerosene burst and sprayed kerosene all over the countryside. In one car was the National automobile belonging to Crawford Mortensen, which had been shipped to Ord from Chicago because of bad roads. It was wrecked badly. Trainmen were not injured.

Governor Morehead issued a proclamation calling mass meetings in every county seat for the purpose of getting people interested in improving roads. At Ord it was decided that everybody should go out and work on the roads on a certain day.

The engine exhaust set fire to oil on the floor at the Ord electric plant and for a time it looked like the plant was doomed. Quick action by firemen extinguished the blaze, however, and damage was not extensive.

A vast swarm of insects visited Ord one evening, being so plentiful they almost blanketed the glow of street lights. The next morning sidewalks of Ord were pulpy masses of dead insects. The rest of the swarm disappeared as rapidly as it had come.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

It has been said that nobody can change a type of farming but the sheriff. Irrigation would do it in the North Loup valley.

Sugar beets would thrive in the Loup valley under ditch irrigation, perhaps better than in any regions where now produced. Our soil is of the same type as that in the Scottsbluff valley, which is noted for its sugar beet production. In addition, our soil is more fertile, and nearer to consuming markets.

Our Loup valley has the advantage of 20 days more growing season. Our first killing frost strikes on about October 1, according to long time weather bureau statistics. The Scottsbluff area is visited by killing frosts on about Sept. 20. Our last killing frost of spring comes on May 6. It arrives at about May 16 in the Scottsbluff sugar beet district.

The chief crops grown in the Loup valley are corn and small grain. There are 3 1-8 acres of corn to every one acre of the cereals. Irrigation would reduce the acreage of each, because they do not respond to artificial watering as well as the more intensive crops, like sugar beets and potatoes.

Irrigation at the North Platte experiment station increased corn profits by $17 an acre. Irrigation increased potato profits at the station during the same year by $376 an acre. Corn is injured by hot winds even though it has water.

The Loup valley is far enough north to produce disease-free seed potatoes. There is always a shortage of this quality product.

Corn would be replaced by beet tops for cattle and sheep, with the advent of irrigation. They are nearly equal to corn in nutritive value. This is shown by various authorities on feeding.

There is need for more crop rotation in the Loup valley. Corn needs to be rotated on acount of smut and other troubles. Irrigation would make this possible.

Irrigation would probably increase alfalfa production. At least it would check the steady decline in acreage. Nebraska still leads in alfalfa acreage, but the alfalfa crop will continue to lose out under dry land conditions. It is ow generally impossible to reseed old alfalfa ground, the subsoil moisture being exhausted. This subsoil moisture cannot be replaced in 200 years by natural rainfall. Irrigation can replace it in one season.

A 12,000 to 18,000 acre beet area brings in a sugar factory. Irrigation in the Loup valley would result in at least one factory. The factory labor, and the intensive work needed in tending beets would solve an unemployment problem for many hundreds of people. Additional sugar production would reduce the shortage that now makes it necessary for the U. S. to import five million tons annually.

Grand Island, Neb., Sept. 28, 1933

James L. Larson of Alliance, Neb., wrote under date of Sept. 10th, '33—I am awfully grateful to you. You have done me a great favor. I am feeling fine. No more trouble with my Fistula. Will always remember your splendid treatment of me and the good cure I received.

That's why Mr. Larson came to me. He knew from my other patients in and around Alliance that he would get a cure, that my treatment of his case would be most pleasant and he also was sure that my treatment of him personally would be fine. He also saved quite a bit of money by getting his cure here.

If you suffer with rectal trouble and wish a perfect cure don't forget that it does make a lot of difference who your doctor is. There is a better way to obtain a cure. I have had that better way here for more than thirty years. You will profit much if you will consult me first. Write for information. (1)

If this gets by Editor Geze's hands, it will be the first time in weeks that he has been able to accept such copy.

Evidently the irrigation meeting held in Ord last Saturday must have been a big success. At least J. E. Lawrence, member of the advisory board for Nebraska and editor of the Lincoln Star, says the board was taken through some wonderful country in the valley. Ord people can "bank" on Mr. Lawrence giving them a square deal. In Lincoln and elsewhere he is highly respected and one of the men that many, many people would like to see in public office.

Even though not many Valley county farmers were eligible to sign up to reduce wheat acreage under the "Triple A" adjustment plan, the program thus far has been described as successful. Thousands have signed contract applications in all parts of the state. It is thought that benefit payments will be made to growers soon after the contracts are approved in Washington.

Saw Syl Furtak recently. He plans on being home this week.... "Hoonza" is in Omaha now..... Numbers of Ord boys and girls are attending school in Lincoln this year....Duane Woods, Ord young man, is making good on the freshman football team and is playing a guard position on the first string ....He starred in high school at Central City. Ord sport fans will remember him also as a first class catcher.

Perhaps Valley county farmers who planted seedlings and transplants last spring in woodlots and shelterbelts haven't had much luck with the governmental trees. At least the percentage of survival has dropped to about 50 percent. Unfavorable weather in June killed many of the trees. Clayton Watkins, extension forester at the Nebraska college of agriculture, says the trees will be available again next spring.

A three-legged duck born. Mother doing well....Julius Vala is again in school here....And to Manager Beeghly: Congratulations on that K. of P. baseball win. It was wonderful....Trench silos will again be popular in Valley county this year, it is thought.... Local 4-H boys and girls who have fed calves this year are now pointig toward the Ak-Sar-Ben show in Omaha. The club work is to be emphasized this year more than ever before.....

Next year perhaps some farmer near Ord will try out some atlas sorgo—a plant developed in Kansas to withstand drouth. Reports from outstate indicate that the atlas is yielding about 14 tons of ensilage to the acre. In many places it is better than corn. Experiments show the plant is a good feed for livestock.

Elyria News

Thursday evening the St. Mary's dramatic and social club held a meeting at the Elyria hall and initiated fourteen new members, making a total membership of 78. After the initiation they went to the river where they enjoyed a weiner roast. The members are planning to present several plays during the winter. Their next meeting will be on October 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ciemny received an announcement of the marriage of their daughter Helen to H. E. Childs of California. Mr. Childs owns a store in a seaport not far from Los Angeles, where they will make their home.

Mrs. Ed Hansen, formerly of Ord is making her home with her niece Mrs. Joe Kuklish.

Jim Wozniak of near Arcadia was a dinner guest at the C. E. Wozniak home on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Zulkoski and family and Mrs. F. Zulkoski sr., spent Sunday at the J. B. Zulkoski farm home.

A. A. Hayek returned to Lincoln Saturday after spending several days in Elyria attending to business matters.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wozniak and daughter Lucile drove out to the C. M. Sorensen farm home Sunday and Mrs. Sorensen accompanied them home and on Tuesday they all drove to Brainard to visit Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wright. They will also go to Omaha to visit the Emil Anderson family before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Albin Carkoski moved Thursday into the C. E. Wozniak house in the north part of Elyria.

Floyd Wozniak had the misfortune to have one of his best horses struck by lightning Friday night. His barn was also struck but did not do much damage to it.

Leon Ciemny accompanied Ivan Yates of Hastings on a trip to St. Paul, Minn., last week.

A dance given Sunday evening by the St. Mary's dramatic and social club was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Flakus and daughter of Burwell were Sunday evening visitors at the Leon Ciemny home.

Students in the Elyria high school will conduct a school newspaper as part of their work in the English classes. The paper has not yet been named but it will be put out every two weeks. The purpose of the paper is to inform parents and patrons about what is being done in the various classes in school. The editor-in-chief, Stella Geneski was elected by a vote of the students. For the first two issues, the staff is as follows: assistant editor, Erwin Dodge; outside reporter, Laura Sobon; seventh grade reporter, Audrey Hoyt; eighth grade reporter, Rose Golka; ninth and tenth grade reporter, Frank Baily; reporters for lower rooms, Maxine Jablonski and Pearl Kapustka; humor editor, Chester Dubas; printers, Marion Ciemny and Leonard Sobon. The staff will be changed every month so that all students may have an opportunity to participate.

Students in the Elyria Primary room who have had perfect spelling lessons since school started are Bernice Ruzovski, Donald Harmon, Phyllis Dodge and Irene Iwanski.

Sylvester Carkoski was ill Monday and unable to be at his duties at the Holub store.

The Quiz believes that day in and day out, month in and month out, the Ord market is the best in the whole Loup valley region for producers of butter-fat, eggs, grain and hogs. An investigation of charges made recently to the effect that Ord buyers are paying less for butter-fat than buyers in neighboring towns shows that there is little truth in such charges. It is true that in certain towns to the west of Ord centralizer buyers have been waging a fight against a Broken Bow coop creamery and so have been paying more for butter-fat than the state of the New York butter market warranted. But this was a temporary condition. Every day in the year the Ord creamery pays as high a price for butter-fat and other produce as it is possible to pay and still conduct a going business. The dividend paid to patrons at the end of the year raises Ord prices considerably over those paid by most other towns and butter-fat producers of the Ord territory should realize this and sell all their produce in Ord.

—Mr. and Mrs. Albin Nelson and daughter Ruth of Omaha arrived Sunday and are spending the week with Mrs. Nelson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Koll and other relatives.

Arcadia Department

By MRS. RAY GOLDEN

The state public works advisory board held a hearing in the Methodist church at Arcadia Friday afternoon relative to the Middle Loup Public Power and Irrigation project. Several hundred were in attendance at the hearing where evidence was submitted by business men and farmers regarding the probable possibilities of irrigation in this territory and the advantages of cheap power. The board had made a tour of the territory covered by the project prior to the meeting. No decision was announced but it is expected to be forthcoming at the next session of the board.

Mrs. Clara Koker, Clifford and Ralph Aubert and Ernest Milburn drove to Grand Island Saturday to take Mrs. Martha Aubert to the Soldiers Home. Mrs. Aubert will remain there for a time while receiving medical treatment.

Rev. and Mrs. R. O. Gaither and family spent Thursday and Friday of last week with relatives in Hastings. The former's mother, Mrs Cora Gaither accompanied them home from Hastings. She had spent the summer with relatives in Michigan, Iowa and Nebraska. While away Mrs. Gaither visited Niagara Falls and on her return flew by airplane from Detroit, Mich., to Des Moines, Iowa. From Des Moines she flew to Omaha, going from there by car to Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. Len Sutton have purchased a filling station and cabin camp on the Lincoln highway in the west edge of Kearney. Dr. F. H. Christ has purchased the property which will be vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Sutton. Arcadia people will be sorry to lose Mr. and Mrs. Sutton from their midst but wish them an abundance of success in their new location.

The many friends of Rev. and Mrs. R. O. Gaither and family will be pleased to know that he has been returned to Arcadia by the Methodist Conference to serve as pastor of the local church the coming year. This will make the sixth year that Rev. Gaitheer has had charge of the church here.

Mrs. Bertha Rettenmayer, Mrs. C. W. Conhiser and Will Rettenmayer of Loup City were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Rettenmayer Sunday.

Miss Evelyn Cole and Mrs. Maurice Leavitt entertained two tables of bridge Saturday afternoon in honor of their sister, Mrs. D. C. Bartlett.

George Parker trucked hogs to Omaha Sunday. He accompanied them returning to Arcadia Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Holeman drove to Hastings Monday to consult a doctor in regard to the latter's health.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Tiffany returned from Hastings Saturday where the former had spent a week receiving treatment for his eyes. Mr. Tiffany had his eyes severely burned recently when babbitt metal exploded as he was repairing a bearing on a piece of farm machinery. His condition is improving slowly.

Mr. and Mrs. Len Sutton visited at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. F. C. Williams in Ord Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Rosenquist came the first of the last week from Omaha for a visit with Arcadia relatives. Vernon accompanied Noel Hogue to Arkansas Sunday and expects to return the latter part of this week. Mr. and Mrs. Rosenquist will leave for their home in Omaha next Sunday.

The Mens Community club held their September meeting at the Congregational church basement Tuesday evening.

Wallace Doe returned from Baranof Islad, Alaska Saturday evening where he had spent the summer at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Victor Rademacher. Wallace had a wonderful trip and brought home a large number of trophies including bear hides, deer skins, seal skins and articles common in Alaska. He should be very proud of his collection of hides as the animals from which they came were killed by his own hand, which upholds his reputation as a skilled marksman.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones and family and Albert Jones and children visited at the Carl Wolf home near North Loup Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Len Knapp and Donna were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Johnson of Davis Creek Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Braden and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hunkins and Ivan visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Strong at Palmer Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cadwell and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Rosenquist spent several days last week with relatives in South Dakota.

The American Legion Auxiliary met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. G. Cruikshank with Mrs. W. F. Pickett as assisting hostess. Eleven members and twelve guests were present. The afternoon was spent working on a quilt for the Auxiliary after which a delicious lunch was served by the hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hawley came last week from Holdrege for a visit at the home of the former's father, D. O. Hawley.

The Rebekah kensington met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Owens with Mrs. J. W. Wilson as assisting hostess.

Mr. and Mr. L. P. Fenster were Loup City visitors Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Kingston and family spent Sunday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith near Loup City.

Mrs. Roy Clark spent last Thursday with friends in Hastings.

Miss Dorothea Hudson spent the week end at Lincoln as a guest of Miss Rosa Minne.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hayes of Chadron visited Thursday with the former's sister, Mrs. Lloyd Owens and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Braden were Ord visitors Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hyatt, Mrs. Dean Whitman, Mrs. Harry Bellinger and George Hatfield visited relatives at Berwyn Sunday.

Mrs. H. L. Jameson and Ruth and Mrs. L. G. Arnold and Billy and Esta Mae were Ord visitors Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Knight Dorsey and daughter Marjorie were Ord visitors Thursday.

Homer Jameson trucked hogs to Omaha Thursday. He returned to Arcadia Saturday.

A family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bray Sunday in honor of their daughter, Mrs. Velma Collett of Omaha.

Dean Whitman and Glen Robers left Saturday for Scottsbluff where they have employment.

Mr. and Mrs. Abe Hyatt and baby of Grand Island spent the week end with relatives in Arcadia.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hollingshead visited with the former's mother at Ord Sunday.

A number of football benefits have been held in Arcadia the past week for the purpose of helping buy equipment for the high school football boys. A food sale held at the City Meat Market Saturday netted $20, benefit dances at the Opera House and Bellinger hall Saturday evening brought in about $30 and the sale of potatoes donated by Anton Nelson and Clifford Carver added about $12 to the sum. Paul Travis, who operates a cleaning establishment at Loup City is kindly donating twenty-five percent of the money received of articles cleaned from Arcadia this week. The football boys lost their entire equipment in the school fire and they feel very grateful for the interest the public has shown in helping them replace it.

Russell Buck returned from Chicago Saturday where he had attended the Century of Progress exposition in company with Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Buck of Lincoln.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Urban Wednesday, Sept. 20th.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Buck returned to their home at Alliance Monday after spending two weeks with relatives here. Russell Buck accompanied them and will remai if he can find employment.

HEARINGS HELD IN ORD, ARCADIA BY STATE BOARD

project is not started before winter public welfare agencies will be unable to cope with the problem, Mr. Norman said. Chairman Stevens commented that his testimony was extremely valuable.

C. J. Mortensen was then introduced and gave a picture of banking conditions in the valley, explaining that banks have decreased from ten to three at present and bank deposits from $3,500,000 to only $600,000.

Then came Col. Val Kuska, who introduced into the record a printed report showing the number of cars of grain shipped into this valley in recent years and giving other vital information.

Then came W. I. Hoffman of Burwell, whose written report was put into the record, and Wm. Heuck who pictured the falling off of corn production during recent years of drought and the cost to feeders of shipping in corn.

C. C. Dale read a paper showing that the United States produces only a fraction of the amount of sugar it consumes and gave other evidence to prove that crops that would be raised in this valley under irrigation are not over-produced at present.

C. M. Davis gave detailed census figures showing that the population of North Loup precinct dropped 113 between 1920 and 1930. Ord 23, Elyria 55, Rockford 78, Kent 55 and Taylor 40. This decrease at a time when the population of state and nation are on the increase can mean only one thing, Mr. Davis believes—that farmers are unable to make a living in this valley without irrigation. To make a living they are compelled to farm more land each year, whch has resulted in many sets of farm buildings becoming vacant.

W. B. Weekes, who was a Greeley county pioneer and rode with Buffalo Bill in exploration in early days, testified to the present status of the seed corn and sweet corn business in this valley. Irrigation would save this important industry, he concluded.

Other witnesses included Dr. C. J. Miller, Evet Smith, Dan Manchester of North Loup, George Munn and Jos. P. Barta.

Mr. Smith testified that on his land last year he raised 20 bushels of corn per acre without irrigation while on an adjoining tract his yield was 70 bushels with irrigation.

Mr. Barta put into the record a number of resolutions from civic organizations and testified that a survey of farmers has been made with the result that 299 out of 310 between Taylor and Scotia have agreed to take water at a cost not to exceed $2 per acre. He also introduced commitments to take power from the towns of Broken Bow, Burwell and Ord.

Attorney Munn's speech, though brief, was a dramatic plea to the board to approve this project and save our great number of unemployed from the hardships that will surely face them this winter. It was one of the most moving speeches ever heard here and in commenting on it afterward former Attorney General C. A. Sorensen said: "Its lucky that man Munn isn't a communist; if he was he could raise an army of 100,000 in a week with speeches like that."

Chairman Stevens concluded the hearing with a brief talk in which he stated that the board was favorably impressed by the project and entirely sympathetic to it. He promised immediate consideration and early action.

President Hardenbrook stated Monday that he is confident the public works board will approve the North Loup project and forward details to Washington with a recommendation that federal money to carry it out be loaned immediately. He expects approval some time this week, he says, and expects to leave within a few days for Washington, D. C., to present the project to public works authorities there. He will be accompanied by Engineer Veatch and will be met in Washington by Frank Murphy, of Wheaton, Minn., regional administrator of public works, who will assist in presenting the North Loup district's application and move for immediate approval. Middle Loup people are said to be equally confident that their project will be approved and it is confidently expected that work on both projects can be started before snow flies.

—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ferris entertained at dinner Sunday. Those present were Byron Housel and John Hunter of Stockham, Mr. and Mrs. John Koll and family and Gerald Clark.

—Mr. and Mrs. Albin Nelson and daughter Ruth of Omaha, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Koll and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Roe and daughter Mary were dinner guests Tuesday evening in the Arthur Ferris home.

It's Smart TO BUY TIRES NOW . . .

Now . . .

is the time to buy tires. Prices may go higher. If they do, it will actually cost you money to use up old tires. And with fall and winter weather and wet and slippery roads just around the corner, it's a good idea to have the protection of safe new tires all around. And remember this—tire wear is slower in winter than it is in summer—the tires you buy now will give you full protection all winter and you will still have good tires for next spring and summer to withstand the ravages of hot summer roads. We carry the complete line of Goodyear Tires—Speedway, Pathfinder and All-Weather. At the price you wish to pay we have a Goodyear Tire. Why not come in today and talk it over?

—The Ladies Aid of the Bethany Lutheran church had a good meeting Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Jens Hansen. Rev. S. S. Kaldahl of Wolbach, who had preached Sunday in the Lutheran church, stayed for the meeting. The hostess served a nice luncheon at the close of the afternoon.

—Harry Doran and sons Jack and Tommie were down from Burwell Saturday. Jack had barely recovered from a broken arm when he sprained the ligaments of one foot while practicing football and now has to go on crutches.

—Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Weigardt of Ord and Mrs. Evelyn Patterson of North Loup drove to Omaha returning Friday. The latter entered University hospital for another treatment for her limb. It will be remembered Mrs. Patterson was badly injured several months ago in a runaway. She has been under the care of doctors ever since.

—Friday Rev. Mamie Young of Dubois, Nebr., arrived in Ord with her household goods and at once moved into the U. B. parsonage. She preached Sunday to her people.

—Sunday Joseph Bartos and Frank Bartos and son Edward and daughter Libbie went to Cedar Rapids, Iowa to attend the funeral of an uncle, Joseph Pavlis. The funeral was held at 2 p. m., Monday.

—Rev. E. H. Maynard has again been returned to McCook, Nebr., by the Nebraska conference. Rev. Maynard was a former pastor in the Ord Methodist church. He is a brother of Mrs. Val Pullen.

—Mr. and Mrs. Jim Nay of Long Beach, who have been visiting numerous relatives here, have gone to Omaha to spend a few days with their daughter, Mrs. Bill Wright and family.

—Rev. B. A. Filipi returned Thursday evening to Clarkson. He had been here to preside at the funeral of Charles Masin. Rev. Filipi spent a short time visiting old friends.

—W. E. Lukenbach is making his home again with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Capron. Since first coming to the Ord school Mr. Lukenbach has always roomed with the Capron family.

—Royal Neighbors were in session Friday evening in the Odd Fellows hall. There was the usual attendance. Madams Ed Holloway, Archie Bradt and Walter Noll served a nice luncheon. The October kensington will be held in the home of Mrs. Archie Bradt.

—Mrs. Emma Hohn from Mullberry, Mo., is here visiting her son H. H. Hohn and family and expects to stay for some time. Her son Elmer Hohn of Philips, N. D., had been visiting his mother in Missouri and brought her to Ord, spending a few days with his brother and family before he left for his own home.

—Father Feeney of Greeley is on the way home from a trip to Europe. He left for that country in June and spent many pleasant days visiting relatives in Ireland. Father Feeney has several friends in Ord. Two of our own citizens, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Bals, who spent the summer in Belgium are expected home. They planned to sail for the United States and reach New York about October first.

—Harry Abernethy, who has been living in Elk Creek, Nebr., since his return from California a few weeks ago, is a patient in the Veterans hospital, Lincoln. Raymond Abernethy writes the W. A. Anderson family that recently he visited his uncle Harry. At that time Harry's sister, Miss Laura Abernethy and a brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Abernethy of Elk Creek were there. Harry is in a serious condition.

—Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Weigardt spent Sunday with the former's mother, Mrs. A. Weigardt in Elyria.

—From Tuesday until Saturday Mrs. Frances Mills and her daughter, Mrs. Mamie Wear were enjoying a visit with the latter's daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Healey of Council Bluffs.

—Mrs. C. Carroll left recently for her home in Chicago. She was stopping for a short visit with a cousin, George Rowbal in Des Moines. Her cousin Miss Lucy Rowbal and Miss Inez Swain took Mrs. Carroll as far as Grand Island.

—Mr. and Mrs. Pete Anderson entertained several guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Beehrle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lenz and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Munn.

—Mrs. E. S. King spent a short time in Ord returning last Wednesday to her home on Davis Creek. Her son Wayne was a patient in the Ord Hospital recovering from an appendix operation.

—Mr. and Mrs. Mat Kosmata and Misses Anna and Adeline Kosmata were visiting Sunday in the home of Misses Bess and Barbara Lukes.

—Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Mason of Garfield county were in Ord last Wednesday. The latter is recovering nicely from a major operation performed several weeks ago in Hillcrest.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charley Cleary of Tustin, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bartz and Mary Ann of North Loup were guests Sunday in the home of Mrs. Paul Hanson. Charley Cleary is a brother-in-law of Mrs. John Cleary and the latter is a daughter of Mrs. Paul Hanson. The Charley Cleary family are visiting in Valley county for a few weeks.

—Mr. and Mrs. Lyle McBeth and son Jack spent Sunday in the country home of Mrs. McBeth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Meese.

—Several ladies of the Presbyterian church drove to St. Paul yesterday and attended a district church meeting.

—Ever Busy club will have a study meeting this afternoon in the home of Mrs. Robert Newton. Dressmaking will be the subject for study

—Twelve o'clock dinner guests Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Satterfield were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Baker. In the evening the Bakers were dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Knapp, North Loup.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Collipriest and Miss Gertrude Collipriest of Lexington were visiting their daughters in Ord from Friday night until Sunday afternoon.

—The two children of the late Charles Masin, Mrs. Louise Masin-Trublood and George Mason of Long Beach, Calif., could not come to Ord to attend the funeral of their father. Mrs. Trublood has a small child.

Chevrolet gives most miles per gallon,

CHEVROLET

No argument about the camel. When it comes to miles per gallon, there's nothing in all the Gobi desert—or Sahara—or anywhere else—that can beat him. No argument about Chevrolet, either. It's the most economical form of full-size transportation on wheels.

You can travel a long, long way in a Chevrolet Six without a single stop for gas or oil. In fact, you can get more miles out of a gallon of gas in a Chevrolet, than you can get in any other full-size car. The best proof of this is the way Chevrolet is being preferred by leading national business firms. These firms know their mileage figures. And today, Chevrolet is their first choice by an overwhelming count. Chevrolet is also first choice of the American public by the widest margin in history.

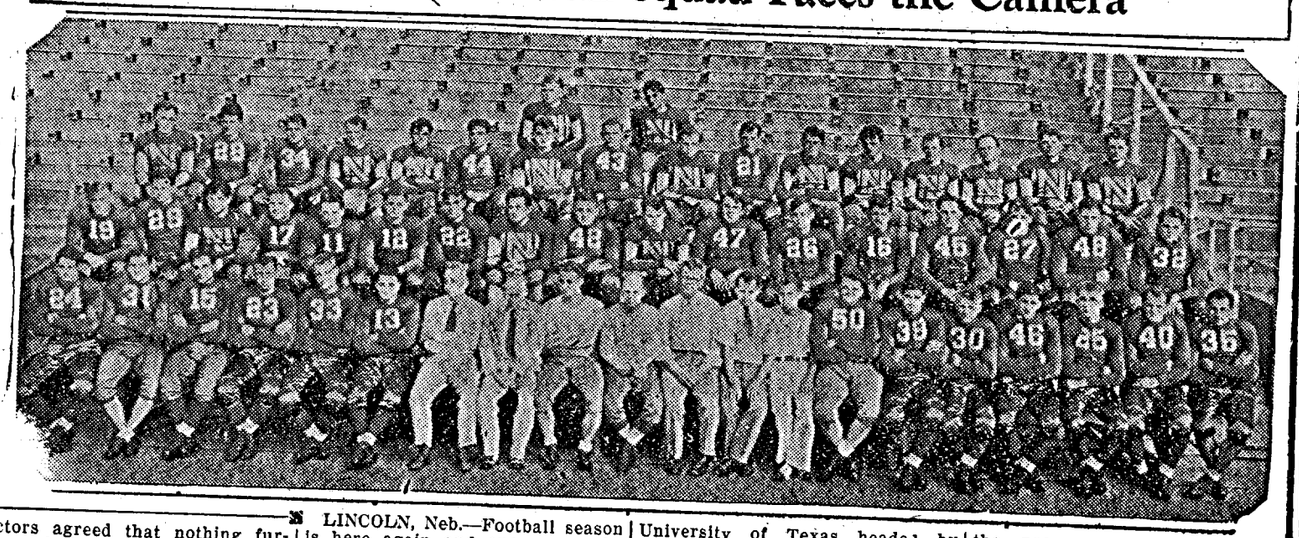
Cornhusker Football Squad Faces the Camera



LINCOLN, Neb.—Football season is here again and once more the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers, champions of the Big Six conference, are on the gridiron with a fine team.

Head Coach Dana X Bible and his assistants Henry F. Schulte and W. H. Browne have a squad of 35 varsity performers in suit while a squad of 40 additional candidates, drilling under their own coaches, are busy preparing for a "B" team schedule of four games with Nebraska colleges.

Prospects of a winning team and reduced prices for tickets are expected to combine to attract large crowds to the Memorial stadium this year for the four home games on the University schedule.

The home slate opens with the University of Texas headed by Halfback Hilliard rated as one of the greatest ball carriers on the collegiate gridiron this season. Strength of the Texans is shown by the fact the Longhorns swamped Missouri last year, 65-0.

Oklahoma, the second opponent on the varsity home card, played the Huskers 5-0 last year and with an abundance of sophomore recruits are rated as one of the most formidable teams in Big Six circles. Kansas, another conference opponent, is the Armistice day attraction at Lincoln.

The University of Iowa, member of the Big Ten conference, will close the home schedule.

Nebraska fans at Memorial stadium will find it easier to follow the progress of the individual players this season. Large numbers will be worn on the front as well as the back of the player jerseys. Another change in Husker equipment this year is the addition of light, satin pants to the wardrobe. These pants are of the speed variety and are said to make the work more difficult for the tacklers.

While the varsity will lose nearly an entire team by graduation next spring the hopes for 1934 are bright in view of the promising squad of more than 120 freshman working out under the direction of Ed Weir, former all-American tackle at Nebraska U.

As in the past, the University will sponsor a knot-hole section for youngsters.

North Loup News

—Supt. and Mrs. L. O. Greene and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Bailey attended a picnic supper at Bussell park, Ord, Sunday given in honor of the association of Loup valley superintendents and principals.

The ladies of the Legion Auxiliary met with Mrs. Clyda Chadwick Friday afternoon. Nellie Manchester and Gertrude Cleary of Tustin, Calif., were guests. A very interesting report was given of the recent state convention held at Kearney. Mrs. Cleary, a former member of the North Loup Auxiliary gave some items of interest concerning the work of their own auxiliary in Tustin, of which she is serving as president.

The 20th Century club re-organized Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Georgia Greene as its president. The project leaders, Florence Hutchins and Merle Sayre, with Mrs. Greene met in Ord last week for the lesson on "Tailored Finishings", as given by the state leader, Miss Rita Douglas of Lincoln. There will be seven lessons in the year's course.

Mrs. Neva Fisher was hostess to the Fortnightly woman's club Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 20 at her home in Barker district. South America was the very interesting subject of study. "The Amazon river basin", prepared by Elsie Shineman was given by Genevieve Hoeppner; beautiful Rio De Janeiro was described by Ruth Babcock; Mrs. Gertrude Carter gave a very fine description of Paraguay and the people of that little country. Much knowledge was gleaned from Mrs. Florence Hutchins' discussion of the industries of Brazil. Mrs. Hoeppner entertained the club with a solo. Little Lucine Fisher delighted the assembly with a piano number. Madams Merle Zangger and Doris Rupert again became active members in the club. Delicious ice cream, cake and coffee were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Myra Gowan entertained at a kensington and tea Thursday afternoon honoring Mrs. Florence Smith of Grand Island.

Mrs. Smith was the honoree at the Madsen home Friday evening when Rook was the diversion with delicious refreshments served at the close.

Mrs. Sarah Gogin departed Tuesday for her home at Redlands, Calif., following a visit of several months with her sister, Mrs. Mabel McClellan and with relatives in Wisconsin. Mr. and Mrs. McClellan took her to Grand Island.

I. J. Thelin returned Friday evening from Chicago where he visited the century of progress exposition following his attendance at the national golf tournament held in Cincinnati.

Miss Lois Flemming of Chapman is a guest here of Miss Maxine Johnson.

Evelyn Patterson, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Weigardt of Ord drove to University hospital in Omaha Wednesday of last week, returning Friday afternoon, where another consultation was held concerning Mrs. Patterson's limb. Doctors agreed that nothing further could be done. However Mrs. Patterson, her family and friends rejoice that she is able to walk and to do her household tasks and is enjoying good health otherwise, even though she will be compelled to wear the iron brace most of the time.

Little Doris Paddock has been very ill following a serious tonsil and adenoid operation Saturday. Dr. Barta was in attendance.

Mrs. Gladys Christensen of Arcadia spent last week with her mother, Mrs. Grace Hutchins who was on the sick list but now improved.

Mr. Preston suffered a severe heart attack about 2 o'clock Thursday when he fell from his couch to the floor. His daughter, Mrs. Carter was in a room close by and soon was at his side. Dr. Hemphill was at once called and the patient put to bed. Mr. Preston seems to be improving, his pulse being quite normal for one of his age.

Friends of Earl Kriewald and family are very sorry to learn Earl is not recovering his health as it was hoped he would following his serious tonsil operation. Tuesday of last week he was again removed to St. Francis hospital. His nervous system seems on the verge of a collapse and his heart action weakened. Because of a paralyzed limb he is not able to walk. Mrs. Kriewald is assisting in caring for him.

Rev. and Mrs. Stephens are this week beginning their second year of visitation among Riverdale folk.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Leydig and Eva Brown returned Friday evening from a three week's visit with Mr. Leydig's people at Glade, Kas.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schudel entertained at bridge at their pleasant country home Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Babcock, Mrs. Jessie Babcock and Mrs. Myra Gowan were entertained at Sunday dinner at the George Gowan home in Riverdale.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bartz and Maryann with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cleary were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Paul Hanson near Ord.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleary are enjoying two of their favored diversions with their North Loup friends and relatives, that of fishing and hunting.

Phyllis Jones and Lillian Kokes of Ord came up from Grand Island Sunday with Miss Donnie Smith, enjoying the day with their people here and at Ord. Miss Donnie came up after her mother. The party returned to Grand Island Sunday evening, Phyllis and Miss Kokes to their nurse duties at St. Francis.

Coach Bailey's football team accepted defeat Friday afternoon from the Burwell team, score 48 to 0.

Rally day will be observed Sunday at the M. E. church. Parents are urged to be in attendance with their children at the Sunday school hour, 10 o'clock.

The M. E. Aid kensington and tea was attended by a goodly number at the church Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Lucy Cress was hostess.

The Junior Endeavor society of the S. D. B. church enjoyed a social time Sunday evening at the home of Harold and Herbert Green. Rev. Warren directed the games.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rodaway of Unadilla, Nebr., and Mrs. Mary Cramer of Syracuse returned home Monday morning having spent the week with Mrs. V. J. Thomas and Maud. Mr. Rodaway and Mrs. Cramer are brother and sister of Mrs. Thomas. The three are the surviving members of a large family.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl White of Fort Collins, Colo., are guests of Mr. White's people at Union Ridge and relatives in town.

—Mr. and Mrs. Merrill McClellan, Mrs. Sarah Gogin, Clifton and Fannie McClellan were Sunday dinner guests at the Homer Sample home. The occasion was in honor of Mrs. Gogin before her departure to her California home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hudson returned Tuesday evening from a ten day visit to Chicago's, century of progress. While in the city they were guests of Miss Sarah Purdum.

Mrs. Lawrence Coplen returned Thursday from a two weeks visit with her son Leon Coplen and family at Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Maxson of Chicago enroute to Denver to visit Mr. Maxson's people were guests from Wednesday evening until Friday with their cousin Ruth Babcock, Rua Wilson and Eva Goodrich and their families.

Mrs. Della Manchester will share her home this winter with Mrs. Chas. Thrasher and her mother, Mrs. Weed. The latter established their residence with Mrs. Manchester Monday. Mrs. Thrasher has rented her little home on east main street to Mr. and Mrs. Jim Coleman who moved in Tuesday.

The Antoine Slack family who came here recently from Greeley moved Monday to the residence of Daisy Paddock in the east part of town.

Mrs. Edwin Miller entertained Tuesday at an all day quilting party. Out of town guests were a number of Davis Creek ladies, former friends of Mrs. Miller. A bountiful dinner was served.

JIM ALLEN shivered as he stood in the jostling group and waited dumbly for the big doors to open and the crowd to rush in. Slowly he counted the men around him—twenty-eight of them, all trying to get the same job.

As the moment approached for the doors to open, Jim's tension grew. If he failed this time he would have to beg or steal, for Sally had to have food and warmth; there were exactly thirty-three cents left in the worn pocket of his trousers and he had had no breakfast.

They had been neighbors back home—and had fallen in love as naturally as any other denizens of the forest and had spent a blissful month planning their future. Then Sally had suddenly developed a streak of restlessness.

"Just seems like I couldn't settle down till I got a chance to see a big city," she had told him. "I ain't never seen a street car nor any big fine houses or nothin'. They say they got houses down there twenty or thirty stories high, just piled one on top of the other. It must be a sight."

Jim had tried to dissuade her, but in vain. Sally was determined. The adventurous spirit of her pioneer ancestors had seemed to crop out in her. On a bright fall morning she had taken wings unto herself and had flown away, carrying with her a crash covered "telescope" full of home-made clothes and $8.80 in her cheap little purse. Jim had heard from her regularly, but the letters had brought little news; a few laboriously written lines of stilted sentences: "I am well and hope you are the same. I like it here fine, but do miss you a heap. Hope all the folks are well." Then at last had come a note: "I am bad off sick. Can you come? Don't tell Mommy and Poppy."

Half frenzied with terror lest she should be desperately ill, Jim had dropped his work and rushed to town. After a bewildering search he had found her in an unspeakably dreary rooming house, in an unheated room. Her face was pinched then and her cheeks flushed with fever. When he first saw her he was so shocked that he could not speak.

When the people in the rooming house heard that Sally's friend had arrived they helped him find the things he needed. They directed him where to get food and where to buy fuel for the empty grate. Almost immediately the girl began to show improvement. Jim spent his few dollars with joy, then suddenly found his pockets nearly empty and the search for work began. Day after day he allowed himself only two meals a day, then only one meal until finally, he did not dare permit himself even a cup of coffee. If he didn't get this job—

The doors in front of him opened noiselessly. A well-dressed man stood at the entrance.

"Sorry, boys, but we hired a man yesterday afternoon."

The crowd turned away growling down the unfamiliar street. At a big store window Jim was attracted by a display of homespuns. "These are woven back in the hills by the mountain folk," a card informed him. It would be warm inside, and he felt that he could not endure the cold another minute, so he turned in the door.

"Can I wait on you?" a man's voice inquired.

"I was just lookin' at the homespun you got in the window. Mommy used to make me weave that stuff when I was a youngun."

"Can you still do it?"

Jim nodded listlessly.

"We've got a loom and spinning wheel and we're thinking of putting on a window display for a week. Could you find a mountain girl to spin?"

Something like an electric current swept through Jim as he grasped the import of the other's words.

"Sure could," he answered.

"All right. Tomorrow's Saturday. You come on down and get the loom set up and we'll start the display on Monday."

So the Sunday papers carried an advertisement to the effect that Sally Lane and Jim Allen of Bear Wallow would give a demonstration of weaving and spinning at Whittington's all the following week.

By the time the store opened Monday morning people were already crowded around the big window, to watch the mountain girl and man at work. Every hour they came out of the show window and talked to the customers in the store.

"They're the quaintest things I ever saw and you ought to hear them talk!" said one customer to another. "Mr. Whittington says he's going to keep Sally to sell the goods because she can explain how it's made and everything, and Jim's going to do some kind of work around the store. Sally told me all about it. She's the happiest little thing—and so pretty—looks just like a wild flower!"

Jim laughed that night for the first time in weeks as he held Sally close in his arms.

"My weavin' come in handy, didn't it?" he said. "And remember how Mommy used to have to beat me to make me do it!"

French Found Humor in Idea of Guillotine

Doctor Guillotine, the inventor of the French machine for executions, is rumored to have died by the instrument. The guillotine was rather an improvement than an invention, for similar contrivances had been in use in other countries: Scotland, where the regent Morton was so decapitated in 1581; Yorkshire (the Halifax "gibbet"); Germany's Italy, and even southern France.

It was in December, 1789, that Doctor Guillotine put his plan before the constituent assembly, but it was not adopted till October, 1791.

Apparently deputies found the subject humorous. "With my machine, messieurs," said the doctor, "I whisk off your head (vous fais sauter la tete) in the twinkling of an eye, and you have no pain." "Whereat," adds Carlyle, in his historical present tense, "they all laugh."

Bring a Girl

"BUT I told you when you 'phoned this morning, that I couldn't come—" Ned Fairfax was holding his telephone with one hand and signing letters with the other, reading them, and talking to his sister all at one time. "I've got a day's work at the office still before me and it's nearly five. One of the men is away in the output department and I've got to go over there and take care of his mail. I'll be dictating until nine."

"But you've got to come, simply got to," his sister Nellie informed him. "It will absolutely ruin that party if you don't. You are needed to make up the fourth table, That's all there is about it."

Nellie hung up the receiver and Jim realized that he would have to do his sister's bidding. As a matter of fact he had finished with his own work. He would go over to the output department where he had been told a stenographer would be waiting for him, work an hour, send out for a sandwich and a cup of coffee and plod ahead until nine.

He was not entirely sorry that he was going. Nellie had told him that she had arranged to have an attractive girl there for him.

Then his telphone rang again. "Say, Ned," came his sister's
