

The Ord Quiz.

PUBLISHED TWICE A WEEK, TUESDAYS AND FRIDAYS.

ESTABLISHED APRIL 6, 1882.

Ord, Valley County, Nebraska, Friday, May 3, 1907.

Vol. 26, No. 10

NEWS NOTES OVER THE COUNTY

Ash Grove Valley.

Nearly all farmers have their corn ground plowed and ready for planting, none of them, however, propose planting until the weather gets more suitable.

W. M. Alvord is building a new barn.

Harry Aldrich is still keeping bachelor's hall.

William Aldrich has shipped his hogs, many of them weighing 400 pounds each.

F. S. Kull has finished setting out a large fruit orchard. B. H. Alvord has also been engaged in similar work.

No damage has been done to oats in this neighborhood by the late freezing weather.

Rosevale News.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hallock and daughter Mabel spent Sunday in Ord.

Mrs. Dan Smith was mail carrier last Saturday.

The weather does not look very favorable for planting corn, does it?

There was no League Sunday evening on account of the weather.

Bertha Hurlbert, who has been teaching school down near North Loup the past winter, returned to her home in Rose Valley last Saturday.

Andy Swanson is on the sick list this week.

Fern Cunningham is at home again after an absence of several weeks.

The telephone company known as the Joint Company have extended their line to Ord. Now we can hope for better service.

Charles Ledger thinks this spring beats anything he ever saw before. We have about come to that conclusion ourselves.

Grant Marshall has left Rosevale and may now be found in Grand Island.

Ila Martz is home again after an absence of two weeks.

Not one man in a dozen would ever dream of Ericson becoming a sea port. Just wait and see.

This would be a "boss" time for a prairie fire.

Springdale News.

Only two more weeks of school. It hardly seems possible that in so short a time the school year of 1906-07 will be no more. This week was spent by the eighth grade rounding out into form, preparatory for taking four subjects for eighth grade examination.

Potatoes are being planted by some of our people.

We neglected to report last week that Otto Smith was the victim of a serious attack of appendicitis. At the present writing, however, he is greatly improved and it is sincerely hoped that he will soon be able to resume his duties in school again before the end of the term.

The eighth grade arithmetic are solving problems in true discount, and stocks and bonds this week.

L. D. Timmerman was looking over some land interests in Valley county the early part of the week. He is very well pleased with University Place as a college town and as an educational center. He speaks very highly of the training which Wesleyan University holds out to those who have aspirations along the musical line. Mabel is taking music at that place and enjoying the work immensely. Lura still holds down her position as stenographer with the Burlington at Lincoln. We are greatly pleased that our old friends and neighbors are prospering in their new home and sincerely hope that the good things of life may continue to be theirs in the future.

The school is planning to celebrate the closing day of the school year, May 17, with a patron's day exercise. The particulars of the program will be announced later.

Our school board again showed their thoughtfulness for our pleasure when they had the school room carefully cleaned a week ago last Saturday. The school greatly appreciates these favors.

Pleasant Table News.

We have had quite a change in the weather and the small grain, which had been sowed early, and fruit is badly damaged.

James Klanicky, Jr., of Custer county, made a trip to Omaha last Monday to visit some of his relatives. He returned home Friday.

George Kruml, of Burwell, and his two sons went to Omaha with a car load of cattle last Monday.

Mr. James Hagerty, of Sargent, returned from Lincoln Wednesday evening, where he was taking treatment. We are glad to see him back again.

Mr. Harry Guggenmos and Miss Mary Chalupa were joined in wedlock, at Taylor last Wednesday. They will make their home in Sargent, where Mr. Guggenmos has owned a dwelling for some time. We wish them many happy and prosperous years.

Ida Items.

J. M. Craig returned Saturday from Broken Bow.

Meyers branded cattle last Monday.

Mrs. C. A. Sharp has returned from York much benefited in health.

M. B. Goodenow attended a bank meeting in Burwell Wednesday night.

Rev. Keifer, of the M. E. church in Burwell, and Evangelist Jones, who is conducting revival meetings in Burwell, were callers on the people of this neighborhood Tuesday.

Mr. Buchbill went to Ord Wednesday for posts and wire.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, of Custer county, is spending a few days at the Craig home.

Mrs. Bergrud is spending a few days with Mrs. Norton. She expects to return to this neighborhood Thursday, and return home to University Place Saturday morning.

Elyria Items.

Miss Winnie Ward accompanied her Sunday school class to Ord, on Saturday last, to have their pictures taken in a groupe.

Rev. Berry moved up on the Mr. Wheeler place, so as to be close to his church. He will give all his time to the Baptist church at this place.

Roy and Bennie Collison started for Polk county, on Thursday, of this week, where they will visit a few days.

Mr. Frank Tulley went to an Omaha hospital to have a cancer removed from behind his ear.

Mr. Frank Sargent shipped a car of fat cattle to the Omaha market this week.

Tom Zulkoskie shipped a car of fat hogs to Omaha this week. Mr. Joe Gray went to Burwell one evening this week.

August Collison went to Ord on Wednesday, of this week, to close up the deed whereby he and his brother, John, have bought out Dohlin's interest.

A disagreeable sight was enacted on our depot platform one night this week. Some toughs from Burwell had been to Ord and filled up on Ord's fire water, and when the train stopped at our station one fellow jumped off the train and wanted to fight, and one of our citizens quickly accommodated him by giving him a good flogging, helped him on the train again and sent him on to Burwell, where he had better stay.

W. W. Haskell, of the Ord Quiz, was seen on our streets on Monday, of this week.

Advertised Letters.

List of Letters remaining unclaimed in the post office at Ord Nebr., for the week ending tomorrow.

Johannes Dalbjerg. Letters will be sent to the dead letter office. Parties claiming any of the above please say they were "advertised."

A. M. COONROD, Postmaster.

Two more saloon notices appear in the columns of The Quiz today. Fearing that the fight against the granting of their applications for license would find some weak spots in the history of their applicants, Hall & Heuck have commenced again in the name of W. E. Hall and White & Harris in the name of S. E. Harris, wife of the junior member of the firm.

Farm Loans.

We have ready money to place on good real estate security and can arrange your loan without delay, and at the right rate. Come in and let us tell you about our 5 per cent optional loans.

ORD STATE BANK.

Can't Do Without It.

"It seems to me," said Mrs. Oldcastle, "that Dr. Goodman lays rather too much stress on the idea that we should divorce ourselves from anthropomorphism. It may be all right to preach what he does in a general way, but the anthropomorphic sentiment is still very dear to a great many people."

"I know it," replied her hostess as she toyed with the diamond studded paper cutter. "There's a woman lives right on this street that goes to the drug store and gets it on the quiet nearly every day."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Husbands.

A woman furnishes the following essay on husbands: "There are three kinds of husbands—the young husbands, who make us unhappy because we are so jealous of them; the middle aged husbands, who break our hearts because they would rather make money or play golf than devote any attention to us, and the old husbands, who sicken us with their silly objections whenever we turn to look at younger men."—Chicago Tribune.

Scared His Speech Back.

A remarkable case of the recovery of speech and hearing is reported in the London Lancet from the canton of Ticino, in Switzerland. An Italian, aged forty-one years, who five years ago became a deaf mute in consequence of a serious disease, was startled by the sudden appearance of a runaway horse. As he jumped aside to avoid the animal he uttered a loud scream and after it had gone by found that he was able to talk and hear.

The mayor now brought up the matter of street lighting, which by motion of Gruber and full vote of board the following contract was signed to-wit:

This contract made and entered into by and between the city of Ord, Nebraska, first party, and the Loup Valley Electric Company, this 30th day of April, 1907.

Witnesseth: That first party shall accept and pay for electric lighting of the streets of said city for five years from this date, the number, location and kind of lights to be determined by said city, but it agrees to use, at least, twenty-five dollars per month of lights at the rates hereinafter specified. Second party hereby agrees to light the streets of said city as above specified, per said period, at the rate of ten cents per kilowatt, and, at its own expense, to wire, equip and maintain a circuit for said purpose. It is further agreed that the said light service shall be paid for monthly at the dates of the regular meeting of the council. It is further agreed that the said lights shall, at all times, be under the control of said city, to be turned on or off as it may direct, during the running hours. It is further agreed that said circuit shall be equipped and in operation on or before the first day of July, 1907.

of Zablouidil, et al, that was acted upon at the last meeting of the council, was reconsidered and petition granted. By roll call the vote showed as follows: Paist, yes; Gard, yes; Gruber, yes; Botts, yes; Daniels, yes; Stover, yes.

An ordinance to fix salaries for city officers was placed on first reading, and roll call showed the vote to be a yea vote by all members. Rules were suspended by three-fourths vote of council and ordinance placed on second reading. Roll call showed all councilmen voting yea. Rules were again suspended by unanimous vote, and ordinance placed on third reading and passage. Vote shows as follows: Stover, yes; Gard, yes; Daniels, yes; Paist, yes; Botts, yes; Gruber, yes. Ordinance passed, approved and so declared by mayor.

On motion of Paist and vote of council the Loup Valley Electric Company was instructed to light the city with the electric lights now installed.

ANOTHER ANTI-SALOON DECISION

Prominent Indiana Court Decides That Conducting Saloon is Unconstitutional.

Indianapolis, Indiana, April 16.—For the second time within sixty days the licensed saloon business has been declared an outlaw by the courts. Both these decisions have been rendered by jurists of distinguished reputation high in their profession.

Judge Artman's decision which started prohibitionists and liquor men alike, on February 13, just two months ago, and has already become famous throughout the nation, deliberately declared saloon license unconstitutional and refused an applicant on that ground alone.

Yesterday Judge Ira W. Christian in the Hamilton county court, at Noblesville, in a decision not less exhaustive than that of Judge Artman, not only arrived at the same conclusion, namely, that the saloon is unconstitutional, but went a step farther, based on many previous holdings carefully noted, that "the licensed saloon is per se a public nuisance."

Strange as it may seem, the attorneys representing the liquor seller are chiefly responsible for this decision conforming in such trenchant fashion with the Artman decision of less than two months since.

The history of this particular case began on December 20, 1905, when Nancy B. Middleton made affidavit before Prosecutor Hines of the Hamilton county circuit court against Edward L. Sopher, saloonkeeper, alleging that he maintained in his dramshop a partition eight feet high which was said to be contrary to law.

By various means the liquor attorneys secured the delay of this case until March 2, 1907, last, when they came into court and moved to quash the indictment against Sopher on the extraordinary ground that since license has been declared unconstitutional there is no ground for the complaint.

This was manifestly a direct reference to the Artman decision of February 13, 1907.

It was a "bad break" for those liquor attorneys to say the least.

The same prohibitionists who had pressed the case in Judge Artman's court were notified and in a "twinkling" secured the requisite evidence that Sopher was maintaining a saloon, got their legal counsel in vigorous action and on March 9 appeared in Judge Christian's court and made a charge against Sopher on the ground that he was maintaining a public nuisance in conducting a saloon.

The saloon keeper retorted, through his attorneys, with a motion to quash this new indictment and after a thorough hearing April 3 Judge Christian announced reservation of his decision.

Judge Christian's decision in brief includes these striking premises and conclusions:

1. The question squarely before the court is whether saloon liquor selling "is a public nuisance at common law."
2. From definitions of Wood, on—nuisances (3d edition sections 23 and 24) a nuisance is "any occupation (whether or not as yet declared such by the courts) which tampers with the public morals, tends to idleness and the promotion of evil manners is a nuisance per se, at the common law."

3. After quoting (1) Goddard vs. President, etc., 15 (Ill.) 589; (2) State vs. Bixman (Mo.), 02 S. W. 828-838; (3) Our House No. 2 vs. The State, 4 Freeman (Iowa) 172; (4) Supreme Court (Kans.) State ex rel vs. Crawford 42 American Reports 186; (Supreme Court (Indiana) 1855, Beebe vs. State, 6 Ind., 542; (6) Supreme Court of Illinois, Prohibition vs. City of Chicago 6 Ill. 444; (7) Thurlow vs. Commonwealth Mass.) 5 Howard 504; and six other equally important decisions from Ohio, Kansas, South Carolina and Iowa, Judge Christian concludes:

"I am drawn to the inevitable conclusion that the business of selling intoxicating liquors at retail to be drunk on the premises where sold is dangerous to the public morals, the public safety, the public health, and that therefore the place where such business is conducted is per se a nuisance and needs no proof as to its injurious effects upon the public."

4. License is permissive in its character, not restrictive.

5. There is no inherent right to sell liquor.

6. License to sell liquor is a grant where no right previously existed.

7. Saloon license is therefore unconstitutional. The decision itself covers more than eleven solid newspaper columns of exhaustive reference and quotation, including many not directly used by Judge Artman. One point made was:

"The saloon, which has been repeatedly held to be the prime source of all crime, has no right to exist at common law, and the license which grants it the privilege is not a restrictive measure, but it is the granting of a right which heretofore did not exist. I am therefore of the opinion that a law creating a business dangerous to public morals, to public safety, to public peace, to public health is not within the police power of the state."

"The liquor business legalized by statute, as shown by a long line of decisions already cited, subverts justice, creates disorder, and destroys liberty. I have arrived at the conclusion that the license law is unconstitutional, as being in contravention of the purpose and spirit of the constitution of Indiana."

From decision of Judge Samuel R. Artman in the Boone county circuit court:

"In view of these holdings, based, as they certainly are, upon good reason and sound common sense, it must be held that no state can under the guise of a license, delegate to the saloon business a legal existence."

"With due appreciation of the responsibilities of the occasion, conscious of my obligations under the oath of Almighty God and to my fellowmen, I cannot authorize the granting of a saloon license."

Serving Their Boss.

No one and no proposition that is not labeled with a whiskey bottle and wearing Crawford's brass collar has any claim on the present city council. People who do not believe in saloons, gambling, prostitution and other common evils of this city are given scant courtesy, while the toughs are given anything they want. The last thing the retiring council did, after voting the councilmen and city treasurer an increase of salary, was to grant to the Loup Valley Electric Company a five-year contract to furnish their little 32-candle lights for street lighting purposes at a rate nearly double that charged the private consumers. The electric company's proposition was to furnish these 32 candle power lights at $2.25 per month each or at a rate of 10 cents per kilowatt. Their rate to ordinary fellows is only $1.25 per light without any five-year contract. Crawford's estimate must be that the $2.25 flat rate and the 10 cent kilowatt rate are the same for he gave the city the choice, so it is safe to say that whichever rate the city accepted it would be paying about $1 per light per month more than the regular rate. This looks like a simple case of graft, and just what you might expect from a brass-collar council. As accepting a flat rate of $1 above price would be manifestly a fraud the council decided to accept the meter rate, which is doubtless the same thing or worse. Now no one knows what the lights will cost, but the probabilities are that it will be more than $2.25 a month.

But the council and their boss received a jolt when the revelation was made to them that the contract would be brought to a popular vote to see whether or no this contract will be approved. These electric light councilmen forgot that the city was under an initiative and referendum law, by means of which a petition signed by one-fifth of the voters of the city may compel the submission of any act of the city council to a popular vote.

Already an effort is being made to see whether in fact the law was ever made operative in Ord, and the fact comes to light that the city records are mum as to the whole election returns on the date of the adoption of the referendum law. But the fact of its adoption may be easily established.

This action of the board is simply in accord with regular saloon control proceedings. That the saloons rule the city absolutely is not even questioned, and it must be a delightful consideration to self-respecting Ordites to admit that only the saloons have any voice in the management of the city's affairs. The only check on their absolute sway is the initiative and referendum law by which their acts of every kind (excepting a few emergency matters) may be reviewed and approved or rejected by the qualified voters of the city. The saloons will try to have this authority taken away from the people, but it will be a long road to do it.

The parents of the Luse boys came up to Ord by team Wednesday, stopping only for a few hours as they had to return the same day. They just came for a visit with the boys.

Curt Douglas, a brother of Mrs. Will Stevens, came over from Broken Bow Tuesday evening for a few days' visit at the Stevens home and to renew his Ord acquaintances. He has been working in a barber shop for the past few months.

December 1, as pleasant as May.

Mrs. Peter Mortensen entertained the ladies of the Presbyterian aid society, each member being permitted to invite one guest, at the Mortensen home Wednesday afternoon.

In spite of the fact that there are, supposed to be no saloons open in the city there were a few cases of genuine drunk in the city yesterday and last night. Probably the superabundance of liquor that the saloons have in stock just sprung a leak when the gentlemanly saloon keepers were not looking.

Jud Rogers has sold his Valley county property and has purchased a farm in Missouri where with his family he expects to move this fall. They will break up housekeeping in Ord in a few weeks, however, and Mrs. Rogers and daughter will go to Colorado where they expect to spend the summer.

The Quiz is not hunting after saloon notices but the temperance people of Arcadia may know that a license issued in the city is not worth a snap if the notice is not printed in The Quiz. The law says that the saloon notices must be printed in the paper having the largest circulation in the county.

Koupal & Barstow are doing the proper thing with their sheds, extending the roof of the north shed out over nearly the whole yard south. The front is also greatly improved, and a large sign is being put up extending across the whole width of the property. That will be by all odds the biggest sign in the city when done.

The annual election of officers of the Epworth League was held Wednesday evening, and the following officers elected for the ensuing year: President Miss Delpha Taylor; first vice-president, Miss Lelia Moorman; second vice-president, Evet Smith; third vice-president Mrs. Ralph Whited; fourth vice-president Miss Ethel Newbecker; secretary, Perry Jones; treasurer, Ralph Whited.

The Epworth league has arranged with Rev. W. H. D. Hornaday to give his popular lecture entitled "Wanted, a Man" in Ord some time in the near future. The date for the lecture has not yet been definitely fixed. Mr. Hornaday occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church some weeks ago, and is known quite well here.

Frank Mallory treated his Ord friends to a surprise party by dropping in on them unexpectedly Tuesday evening. He comes to Ord direct from Morris, Ill. and tells us that he has closed up his affairs in that state and has come back to Ord to spend the balance of his days. He will probably go into business here but the nature of his employment he does not even know himself at this date as he is quite too busy shaking hands with his old friends to give any attention to business for a few weeks at least.

Adolph Asimus brought in a load of hogs yesterday and in passing along the grade close to the passenger which stood on the track by the depot his horses took fright at the engine and began to back away. The wagon went off the embankment and Adolph, wagon and all went over in a heap. A good soft place was picked out to fall, however, for it was on a large ash heap. In falling he turned the horses around so that they held the wagon from going over onto him. In a few minutes he got things righted up and was on his way with no damage done.

Her Mission.
Oh, Cupid went out in the mart to shop—it seemed that the rascal would never stop!
He bargained for all of the maids in town, Excepting just one—and her name was Brown.

Her name it was Brown and she kept a cat
And lived by herself in a gloomy flat;
She wore all her curls in a corkscrew style
And never—no, never—was known to smile.

Her face was as sharp as a hatchet's blade—
Said Cupid, "I guess I won't need this maid!"
He left her alone with her camphor gum
And took all the rest. Then he trafficked, some!

He opened a store and the trade was fast
Until every lad in the place was lashed!
There wasn't a man in the whole blamed town
To wed with the maiden whose name was Brown!

Said she, "This is fine: I will live, indeed,
And give to the mothers advice they need;
There's got to be one single girl, I know,
To bring up the children as they should go!"

Silhouettes.
There is nothing so lonely as a rich man alone in a castle.

Some men's idea of a good story is one that is told in whispers.

A wise fish will not do business on a butcher's scale.

A man is to be pitied who marries a woman that talks in her sleep, too.

A rich uncle is a mighty good thing to have in holy memory.

Nothing worries a man like forgetting something his wife told him she knew he would forget.

If men spent as much time in church as they do in saloons, the millennium would have a run for its money.

What some people need more than luck, is grit.

When a married man loses $5 he always suspects his wife first.

A man whose gambling propensities never carry him beyond a mind bet in a game of solitaire, is safe from the clutches of the demon Chance.

Two things that never should get old—puppies and asparagus.

Many a good trade has been learned in the penitentiary.

"It is simply impossible," says an exchange, "for one man to love two women at the same time." Why should a man try?

There would be less matrimonial trouble in this world if the women would spend more money for groceries and less for dry-goods.

Is it because salvation is offered free that so many people seem to be afraid to take it?

Modesty seldom gets a raise in wages.

The best temperance lecturer to a child is a father who practices temperance.

When a man admits he doesn't understand a woman, there is still hope for him.

Some men just seem to live on because they haven't enough where-with-all to pay the undertaker.

It has been discovered that big-hearted millionaires do not carry their hearts in their pockets.

Fate.
"I've noticed off a freak of Fate—
For instance, take a pretty miss;
Then add a dozen more quite plain—
The one you want to you can't kiss!"

"It's just the same in other things—
The house you love is not for sale,
The horse you want is someone's pet,
The business you could buy will fail!"

The place you want has just been filled,
The auto that you liked is sold,
The train you took has changed its time,
The butter on your toast is cold!

Ah! Things look better; there's that girl—
The one I've shadowed all the spring,
I need that queen and I'll just try—
Great Scott! She's wearing an engagement ring!

Revenge.
"If I had an enemy mean enough," remarked Uncle By, casually, "and the devil had granted me one wish of revenge, I know what it would be."

"What's that?" asked the listener.
"I'd wish that he had to wear a dentist's rubber dam all the rest of his life!"

Winter.
Here is a schoolboy's composition:
"Winter is the coldest season of the year, because it comes mostly in the winter. In some countries winter comes in the summer, then it isn't so worse. I wish winter came in summer here, then we could go skating barefooted and make snowballs without getting our fingers froze. When it snows in summer they call it rain."

Why?
Why shouldn't Miss Nanny know how to bake and to fry and to brew?
Her mother knew how, I am told—
And she was a fine woman, too!

"I is said she was neat as Miss Nan,
Was belle of her home and her town;
Her cheeks were as afish with the rose
As well as to bake and to brown.

I'm sure she was sweet, and a queen—
Her picture suggests she was fair;
Her cheeks were as afish with the rose
And wavy and soft was her hair.

Miss Nanny is beautiful, too—
But truth cuts me deep as a knife—
She couldn't bake bread or fry steak
To save her delectable life!

She brings to the lover she weds
A face and a form—Ah, divine!
But—When Bridget goes off in a huff,
Well—how in the deuce will they dine?

When official records fail in any important matter the place to go is to the files of the Quiz, which is a pretty complete, albeit not official, record of what has been done in times past. The question of the initiative and referendum law, under which the city has been acting since 1901, being called into notice by the proposition of the gas company to call for an election on the electric light swindle, and the probability of the saloon licenses going the same route, caused a searching of the city records to ascertain whether the city had really adopted the law. The records were blank on the subject, the city clerk at that time having failed to record the whole city election matters. His successor had left blank pages for the purpose, but the record had never been made. Under the circumstances there was no better thing to do than to go back to the Quiz files for the facts in the case. These quickly revealed the fact that the law was made operative here on the third day of April, 1901, being carried by a vote of 99 to 91.

It is beginning to look a little dubious for the saloon business. People are sitting up and taking notice a little more than they used to do. The public is long suffering and when by slow degrees it permits its right to be trampled upon, the public, strangely supine, will allow outrages to be perpetrated with the seeming assumption that it has no right to protest. But when the oppression and outrage becomes too strong the people are likely to rise up and deal a deadly blow to its oppressors. How long it took the public to realize the wrongs it was enduring at the hands of the lobbyists, the pass evil and other things that were admittedly wrong, but endured because they had been in vogue so long. But how quick the public put an end to the whole business when once it woke up to the wrong and to its power to strike back. It seems to us that the same process is being gone through with reference to the saloon business. Its evil nature has long been recognized and its pernicious influences endured. Suddenly the public is beginning to take notice of the fact and is preparing, it seems, to strike back. If it strikes with anything like the power it has there will be nothing left of the saloon business. Our courts are rendering decisions against the business on the grounds that it is a nuisance, which means that it may be suppressed, and cannot be licensed. Two notable decisions have come along this line from judges of high rank, and if this position be sustained the power of the public to license the business will be placed along with its power to foster any other nuisance. You may put it down for a certainty that the saloon business is going to follow close after the lobbyist and the political pass dispenser to oblivion.

This is a singular thing. Some people who take a strong interest in the saloon business are wrathful because other people who are opposed to the business go ahead in a lawful way to maintain their rights. The law plainly says that any citizen may protest against the granting of saloon licenses and if the protest is in proper form and place the objection must be heard. This is a legal right, just as the saloon man has a legal right to run his saloon when the license is granted. If the dry people are obliged to respect the saloon keeper in his legal right, why should not the saloon keeper respect the legal right of the protesters? Has the saloon keeper any more rights than other folks? The fact is the saloon men have violated laws so long that they seem to think that no law is worth respecting that does not help them.

Standard table pears in syrup, 2 cans for 25 cents. Try the new Egg-O-See, corn flaked and toasted, crisp and elegant in flavor. The largest 10-cent package of the flake family. We expect strawberries to be in regular supply this week. Also lettuce and radishes.

Rev. M. A. Wimberley returned home Tuesday evening, not much improved and with the determination to resign his pastorate here and quit the ministry for the present at least. Anyway he proposes to resign his charge here so that other arrangements may be made for a pastor. This move is one of regret to his church and doubtless to him also, but it is the only course left to pursue. His family and his brother John are preparing to make a trip south into Kansas and Texas and thence wherever they are inclined.

The saloons are having hard luck in these parts. Ord is dry for the time being. The saloons at Burwell were all knocked out on some grounds or other and are waiting now for a second notice to be printed. Now it comes to light that Arcadia is in the same boat. Smart Alec Cooley, postmaster, justice of the peace, city clerk and editor, made the error, it is said, of putting the date for 2nd of May. The council met on the 1st and granted the license and the saloon men opened up in grand style. On the second remonstrances were filed charging the saloon men with having sold liquor without a license, which they did because their old licenses had lapsed on the 30th of April and the licenses they had on the 1st were not worth a tap, therefore the selling they did on the first was a violation of the law and disqualified them. One would think that even Arcadia would get tired of their half-baked literary genius. When the saloon man saw where they were at they called up Lawyer Oleson of Ord and was promptly advised to shut up shop and try it again in the name of their wives or by some other makeshift. Of course Oleson did not tell them all that, but that was what it amounted to.

The New Council Meets.

The city council met at 8:00 in the morning of May 1 and after the roll call showing all the old councilmen present Mayor Murschel read a brief and commendable address showing the good points in the administration just brought to a close. He then asked for a motion to adjourn sine die which was done. The new mayor, A. M. Daniels, then took the chair and announced that his address would be delivered in patches as the occasion demanded along through the year. He announced his appointments which were, in addition to the committees, Heuck for marshal, Peters for waterworks engineer, H. E. Oleson for attorney and Henry Stroup for sexton. All these appointments were promptly confirmed with a unanimous vote.

The bonds of the appointees were then accepted and the council proceeded to take up the question of saloon licenses. Three petitions for licenses were presented, the other two being withdrawn. The three presented were those of Joe Adamek, Hall & Heuck and White & Harris.

Remonstrances against all these were read and by an agreement with the attorneys Friday at 9:00 in the morning was set for the time of hearing the case of Joe Adamek, the others being set down for hearing Monday.

Mr. Adamek's case was set for hearing first because, not having been in the saloon business in his own name last year, his was supposed by the saloon attorneys to be the easiest to handle.

E. P. Clements and A. Norman appeared for the saloons and R. L. Staple for the remonstrators.

Notice to Contractors and Builders.

If you are in need of cement blocks for building blocks I would be pleased to have you examine mine before buying. Manufactured on river bottom east of Blue Barn or for sale at the Burke lumber yard or at Oliver Cromwell's feed store.

J. K. Jensen.

Collison Brothers have bought out the interest of their partner, Mr. Dahlin, in the mill business and will run the plant on their own responsibility. Mr. Dahlin will not leave Ord but will stay and help keep the mill going for a while until other arrangements are made. This move is a surprise to us and it will be to all. Mr. Dahlin is a most excellent miller and it will be too bad to lose him from the mill.

The annual summer band concerts are expected to commence in about two weeks. The boys have been practicing steadily for several weeks and their rapidly increasing efficiency is evidenced in their playing.

The old custom of some member of his office clipping from the daily papers merely such articles as in the judgment of the clipper the president may desire to read has been abolished, at least temporarily, and now every paper, whole, is laid before him immediately upon its delivery to the White House.

Close elections are not uncommon in any representative government, but it is not often that one constituency is so closely divided for so long a time as the parliamentary division of North Tyrone, in Ireland. In the last five elections, beginning with that in 1892, the total number of votes cast has varied less than 400. The largest majority at any election was 91, says Youth's Companion. Once it was 55 and once 49. Nine was the majority of the Liberal candidate in 1906, and seven of his successor at the by-election in March of this year.

GILBERT L. LAWS DIES IN CAPITAL CITY.

LIFE WAS A USEFUL ONE

Was Formerly Secretary of State and Also Represented Nebraska in Congress—Other State News of Interest.

Gilbert L. Laws, for more than thirty years a prominent man in public affairs in Nebraska, died at his home in Lincoln. He had been seriously ill for about six weeks, at first from pneumonia and after that had been shaken off from a complication of diseases that assailed his vital organs. He has received the most devoted attention during his long illness, his wife and two daughters and his son-in-law, W. E. Hardy, having been constant in their attendance at his bedside.

Gilbert LaFayette Laws, lawyer and former member of congress from Nebraska, was born near Olney, Richland county, Illinois, March 11, 1838. He was a son of James and Lucinda (Calhoun) Laws. He has been a Nebraskan since 1876. He was elected in 1886 for the office of secretary of state over Richard Thompson, Democrat, by 21,450 votes, although Thompson ran ahead of his ticket. He was renominated and re-elected to the same office in 1888, receiving a majority of nearly 28,000. November 18, 1889, he resigned the office of secretary of state, having been elected to congress to fill a vacancy caused by the death of James Laird. As secretary of state Mr. Laws rewrote, and the board of public lands and buildings adopted, new rules for the government of the different state institutions, fixing greater responsibility and giving a wider range of authority to the superintendents of the several charitable and penal institutions of the state. Mr. Laws continued to affiliate with the republican party until 1896, when in the presidential campaign of that year he supported W. J. Bryan, and the state fusion ticket, as also in 1900.

FARMERS GET CERTIFICATES.

Annual Commencement of Agricultural College.

Thirty-six certificates of graduation and twelve military commissions were conferred upon the members of the senior class of the college of agriculture of the university of Nebraska, at the fifth annual commencement of the college. The class was one of the largest in the history of the college, and a large audience, composed mostly of the friends and acquaintances of the young men was present to witness the ceremonies.

The commencement address was delivered by President G. C. Creelman of Guelph, Canada, president of the Ontario agricultural college, who spoke on "The New Agriculture." Mr. Creelman's address was intensely practical, impressing with unusual force upon the memories of the members of the class several of the most important things learned by them in their college course.

HORSE KILLS BOY.

Bridge Gives Way, Letting Both Drop to River Bed.

Little Patrick Langdon, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Langdon, of North Bend, was killed in a peculiar accident. While driving across the bridge with his mother a section of the structure gave way and allowed the vehicle to tip over. The boy fell to the sandy river bottom below and one of the horses fell upon him. Members of the Dodge county board of supervisors went to North Bend to inspect the bridge at the point where the accident happened.

Widow Holds up Thieves.

Mrs. Robert Craft, of Norfolk, widow of a prominent Northwestern conductor, proved more than a match for three hobo thieves in her department store when she seized three pairs of trousers that one tramp had tucked under his coat and then, grasping an empty revolver from behind the counter, lined the tramps up against the wall and with the harmless barrel leveled at their heads held them captives covering before her courage, till police arrived. In court they were convicted and sent to county jail for thirty days.

Crabtree for Europe.

President J. W. Crabtree, of the Peru normal, will have charge of a party of teachers from different parts of the state that will visit Europe this summer. The party will sail on or about June 20.

Odd Fellows Celebrate.

Delegates from thirty cities and towns in Nebraska gathered in the representative chamber of the state house at Lincoln, April 26th, to celebrate the eighty-eighth anniversary of the establishment of the order in the United States. Plans for the celebration had been formulated by the late A. H. Weir. Prior to the exercises at the capital there was a parade, of which P. James Cosgrave was marshal. It was headed by a platoon of police and the First Regimental band. Over 300 delegates were present.

MAKES EFFORT TO END LIFE.

Grand Island Painter Cuts Wrist and Stabs Himself While in Jail.

W. A. Womack, a painter by trade, made a desperate attempt at suicide while in the Grand Island city jail, to which he had applied for lodging. He made two vicious stabs with a pocket knife into his side, close to the abdominal region and severed the main arteries in his wrist.

Kearney Man Dies of Injuries.

Matt Riley, who was injured while driving a colt and who has been a sufferer from a dislocated hip and other injuries, died. Though his injuries were not of a fatal nature his advanced age was against his recovery. The deceased, who was seventy-two years old, had been a resident of Kearney for over thirty years and few men of the old settlers was better known than he. He is survived by a wife and three daughters, Misses Anna and Nellie Riley and Mrs. Ed Baker, who are residents of Kearney, and two sons, William and Thomas, who reside elsewhere, and a daughter, Mrs. McNamara of Rawlins, Wyo.

Will Plant Trees in Park.

Some time ago the people of Fairbury concluded they needed a city park. A committee was put at work soliciting funds for the purpose of a suitable plot of ground for the purpose. The result of the soliciting committee's work was a fund of $8,000, with which amount the old fair grounds were purchased. A park committee was appointed to look after laying out the grounds. They have been at work since last winter and the entire plot of the grounds has been accomplished and a great deal of work on the driveways, terraces, artificial lakes and other schemes has been finished.

Dr. Stuart Took Laudanum.

Dr. A. E. Stuart, of Cedar Bluffs, came near meeting death by swallowing a 3-ounce dose of laudanum. Dr. Stuart had just come home from Iowa where he had been called to the bedside of a dying relative. He was ill when he arrived, and went at once to his home. In the evening Mrs. Stuart went to attend a lodge meeting. When she returned she found her husband in a stupor. She notified the laudanum on the floor. Physicians were summoned and they saved him. He will recover. Dr. Stuart is fifty years of age and is the oldest practitioner in the town.

Burglars Visit Wyoming.

Wyoming, a small town seven miles north of Nebraska City, was visited by burglars. Entrance was gained into Lew Kroop's store by cutting out a panel in the rear door and the thieves took two pairs of shoes, a dozen pocketknives, drank a lot of soda pop, ate some cheese and carried away some candy and smoking tobacco. From the store they went to the Missouri Pacific depot, broke the door open there and secured 44 cents or their trouble.

Egg Crop is Large.

The farmers of Adams county report one of the biggest egg crops this season in the history of that section. The merchants of Hastings report many instances where farmers have brought to market a whole case of eggs from a single week's produce, and there is one instance where one merchant gave a farmer residing west of Hastings an order on his store for $28.75 for one lot of eggs amounting to 201 dozen, which was marketed on one occasion.

President Wight Resigns.

Rev. E. Van Dyke Wight, president of Hastings college, tendered his resignation and the same was accepted by the college board. Rev. Wight, who was pastor of the local Presbyterian church for many years, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Presbyterian church at Middletown, N. Y. This is not far from where Rev. Wight formerly resided in that state. He expects to depart for that place, accompanied by his family, within the near future.

Elevator Company Incorporates.

The new elevator company, succeeding the Peavey company at Bloomfield, has incorporated under the name and style of the Saunders-Westrand company and articles of incorporation will be filed with the auditor of state in a day or two. The incorporators of the new concern are S. Saunders, J. F. Westrand, Nic Paper, E. H. Mason and W. F. Westrand, all of Bloomfield. The capital stock is $300,000.

Oats Not Injured.

Rumors have been circulated to the effect that the oat crop in Adams county has been seriously injured as the result of the recent freeze, but a well-known farmer, who was in Hastings recently said that after careful examination he was quite certain that there had been no injury whatever. He stated further that the late fruit, including several varieties of apples and plums were not injured.

Injured in His Cattle Yard.

E. E. Goer, one of the well known Furnas county stock raisers, who resides one-half mile northeast of Cambridge, was found lying unconscious in his cattle yard where he had been caring for his stock. Dr. E. L. Meyers was called at once and found Mr. Greer seriously injured about the spine, causing paralysis of the lower limbs. The accident occurred while Mr. Greer was endeavoring to halter a three-year-old bull which became vicious and attacked him while he was reaching for a pitchfork.

CAPITAL CITY CHAT

RAILROADS MAY CHARGE OLD PASSENGER RATES.

A NEW DECISION IS FOUND

Affects the Union Pacific and Upholds That Road's Contention in Regard to Rates—Other News Gossip.

The Nebraska railway commission has found after a search of the United States supreme court reports that a decision of Justice Holmes exists, given in 1903, making all traffic between points in a state where the railroad to reach it runs into another state, interstate business. This upholds the theory of the Union Pacific railroad that it may charge the old fare from points in eastern Nebraska to Sidney and west because the line bends into Colorado for a few miles.

A long line of early decisions of the United States supreme court upholds the view that such business is interstate traffic and when the matter recently was formally looked into, the case of the Lehigh Valley Railroad company vs. Pennsylvania (145 U. S., 204), decided in 1901, was regarded as ample authority to uphold this view. But the later decision noted changes the commission's view.

The railroad commission was figuring on making an order at some future date that would test the right of the Union Pacific to make the old charge but the discovery of the new case will make a different procedure necessary. Possibly some relief may be had through the United States interstate commerce commission.

The Two-Cent Fare Law.

Nothing has been made known by the railroads of their plans with respect to the 2-cent fare law which they declared previous to the enactment that they would fight and which statement was reiterated when the bill became a law. The railroad men in Lincoln are as yet unadvised of any intention of fighting the law here though they still have the belief that the roads will make a legal contest either in this state or elsewhere. It was thought likely by one man friendly to the railroads that they would make a test case of the law in one of the more thickly populated states and where if they were successful, the effect upon the less populated states might be more certain.

Disregard Local Rates.

The fact remains that in interstate business the western roads are disregarding the local rates though a ruling of the interstate commerce commission specifies that the through rate shall not be more than the sum of the local rates. Travelers who have tried to avail themselves of local rates in making an interstate trip have been embarrassed by the act of the roads in throwing off their baggage at small stations near state lines where they desire to purchase tickets for the remainder of their trip. While technically, the roads must do this, if they are inclined to make a traveler trouble, they are in a position and do cause many delays to persons who try to save a little money in this fashion.

Local and Through Rates.

The through rate from Omaha to Denver is now $16.15 while by traveling to Halgier, Neb., and purchasing a ticket from there on the 2-cent fare law will reduce the fare to $12.58. From Omaha to Deadwood the difference is that between $17.05 and $13.91. The state railway commission is not certain that it can enforce any rule that will apply to the relief of the traveling public. The railroad men say they know of no effort being made to revise tariff schedules to make through rates on interstate business conform to the sum of local rates.

Roads are Waiting.

In the case of Nebraska, it has been asserted that the railroads are lying low and acting in a most deferential manner to the railroad commission until it becomes known what attitude will be taken on freight rates. This is the one important question with all the lines and they will remain in a mood of due humility until the main question of freight charges is settled.

Requisition Issued.

Governor Sheldon has issued a requisition for the return of Edward LeVigne from Iowa on a charge of forgery. LeVigne is now under arrest at Sioux City. Sheriff H. I. Peterson of Red Willow county has gone to bring him back to Nebraska for trial. LeVigne is one of three men, the others being captured at the scene of their work.

Northwestern is Good.

The Northwestern road has decided to put in all of its "short line" rates on the two-cent basis. That is to say, where it is the long line between two places, and entitled to charge two cents a mile for the entire distance, it reduces its rate to meet the shorter haul made by a competitor. The Nebraska roads evidently started out to try to make the new law unpopular by putting on a straight charge of two cents no matter what happened. This is the first important deviation from that policy.

To Safeguard Public Interests.

State Treasurer L. G. Brian has furnished the most recent evidence that the administration of the affairs of his office are to be conducted with the sole view of safeguarding public interests and that the grafters must go. The announcement has been made at the office of the treasurer that Mr. Brian's trip to Boise, Idaho, had resulted in the completion of a deal whereby the Nebraska permanent school fund has become the buyer of $279,000 of Idaho 4 per cent bonds. State school money has been accumulating rapidly since the first of the year and when Treasurer Brian reported to the state board of lands and funds that he had a large sum of money on hand he was authorized to seek means of investment for the surplus.

In connection with the purchase of the Idaho bonds by Treasurer Brian it is stated that the ordinary commission on a block of bonds aggregating $279,000 would approximate $5,500, which amount is saved for the school children of Nebraska rather than going to line the pockets of a broker.

Railroad Commission Effective.

The effectiveness of the railroad commission, since its organization has been made manifest in a number of ways and that the mere fact of its existence will work wonders in the state is beginning to be appreciated. When the smaller places that have been putting up with small discriminations from the railroads learn this, it is certain that the commission will be made cognizant of all the inequalities that exist. It may be that this will be all the more true until the commission acts on rate classifications but at any rate much is being accomplished daily.

An instance of this is shown by the manner in which the Burlington road harkened to the voice of the commission recently at the town of Marion, a small station near Denbury, in Red Willow county. The people of this place have been asking for a station and an agent for many moons but they were put off with evasive answers until after the organization of the commission, when an enterprising citizen wrote laying the facts before Commissioner Clarke. The commission took up the matter in an informal way, ascertaining the actual situation at Marion which wanted an agent. A letter was sent to General Manager Holdrege informing him of the request made and asking him to investigate. Private advice from the town show that almost immediately the railroad management sent an official letter to the complainants in the town and promised an agent inside of forty-eight hours.

Secretary Junkin Answers.

An opportunity for the supreme court to say whether the legislature can cram two or three days into one by stopping its clocks will be presented in the suit brought on behalf of the Kearney state normal school to secure the $85,000 appropriation which Governor Sheldon vetoed. The attorney general's office has drafted an answer which raises the question when the legislature did really quit. It claims that the actual adjournment took place on the afternoon of April 6, instead of at noon on April 4, as the journal of the house and senate show.

The point involved in this contention is to prove that Governor Sheldon vetoed the Kearney appropriation within five days' time after the legislature adjourned. If it were shown that he waited longer than five days, the bill would thereby be held to have become a law without his signature, according to the terms of the state constitution. This is what the Kearney people claim in their prayer for a writ of mandamus which will direct Secretary of State Junkin to authenticate the act as one entitled to a place in the statute books.

The records of the secretary of state show that the bill was received from the governor on April 10, with his veto attached. This was six days after the fictitious adjournment, but as one of them was Sunday it is thought that the record fulfills the constitutional requirement even though no account be taken of the two days on which a handful of legislators lingered in the two chambers and pretended to transact business. However, the Kearney folks offer a second objection, which is that Governor Sheldon did not actually deliver the bill, H. R. No. 112, to the secretary of state until April 11, thus exceeding his time limit of five week days.

Many Local Complaints.

Complaints giving local needs come to the commission with regularity. Small towns that are obliged to see many fast trains fly through without even slowing up are demanding train service that will prevent the necessity of waiting for oft delayed accommodation trains and the demand for agents at towns that have been neglected is bound to become insistent as time goes on.

Railroad men declare they are willing to see this condition exist because they think the commissioners will finally tire of the continual hammering of local communities and will in the end see that the operation of the trunk lines necessitates the conditions that have existed.

Many Schedules Filed.

The railroads are obeying the new law compelling them to file schedules of rates within the new railway commission. The Union Pacific filed a dray load of papers showing the tariffs in effect. As yet nothing has been heard of the Burlington tariff sheets. The only way in which the Burlington has so far recognized the existence of the commission is by asking permission to change the rate in sand to York. Telephone rate sheets still pour in on the commission.

Pe-ru-na Relieves Spring Catarrh.

MISS DORA HAYDEN.
"Without hesitation I write to thank you for the great relief I have found in your valuable medicine, Peruna, and will call the attention of all my friends suffering with catarrh to that fact. Besides I cheerfully recommend it to all suffering with catarrh in any form."
Miss Dora Hayden, 819 6th St., S. W., Washington, D. C.

A Case of Spring Catarrh.
Mrs. N. P. Lawler, 423 1/2 N. Broadway, Pittsburg, Kas., writes: "Last spring I caught a severe cold, which developed into a serious case of catarrh. I felt weak and sick, and could neither eat nor sleep well.
"A member of our club who had been cured of catarrh through the use of Peruna advised me to try it, and I did so at once. I expected help, but nothing like the wonderful change for the better I observed almost as soon as I started taking it. In three days I felt much better, and within two weeks I was in fine health. Peruna is a wonderful medicine."

STUDENT MADE HIS POINT.
No Doubt the Policeman Understood What He Meant.

W. H. Mallock, the well-known English writer and political economist, said at a dinner in New York, apropos of a new definition of socialism: "I find that definition rather confusing. It reminds me of the young Oxford student's badinage with the policeman. 'Officer,' said the youth late one night, 'I'd like to ask you a question.'
"Very well, sir."
"Does the law permit me to call you an ass?"
"You move on," the officer growled.
"But stop a bit," continued the youth. "Does the law permit me to call an ass a policeman?"
"The law don't say nothing about that," was the gruff reply.
"Then," said the youth, 'good-night, Mr. Policeman.'"

"My little daughter broke out all over her body with a humor, and we used everything recommended, but without results. I called in three doctors, but she continued to grow worse. Her body was a mass of sores, and her little face was being eaten away. Her ears looked as if they would drop off. Neighbors advised me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and before I had used half of the cake of Soap and box of Ointment the sores had all healed, and my little one's face and body were as clear as a newborn babe's. I would not be without it again if it cost five dollars, instead of seventy-five cents. Mrs. George J. Steese, 701 Coburn St., Akron, O., Aug. 30, 1905."

CLOSING KANSAS SALOONS

Brewery Receivers Appointed by the Supreme Court Are Doing Good Work.

DISPOSITION OF LIQUOR A PROBLEM

Court to be Called On to Decide What Shall be Done With Captured Intoxicants—Wichita Is Dry Now—Eighteen Atchison Saloons Closed Up Tight.

Topeka, Kan., April 30.—"As the state can't sell liquors want it be the duty of the court to empty into the gutters the beer and whisky seized by the brewery receivers?" was asked of Attorney General Jackson Tuesday.

"That is a question that the courts will be called upon to decide, I think, before the matter is settled, and as I do not care to anticipate their decision, I must decline to answer," said Mr. Jackson. "However, from what I can learn owing to the nearness of the state line there will be little property in the hands of the brewery receivers which cannot be disposed of in a paying way. Most of the property is fixtures and real estate."

It developed Tuesday after a vigorous questioning of witnesses by Attorney General Jackson before Justice of the Peace Bollinger, that Theodore Schreiber is the agent of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing company in Topeka. The secretary of the Moerer Cold Storage company stated that Schreiber with Anheuser-Busch beer checks ordered the beer out and also paid for the same.

Wichita, Kan., May 1.—Wichita is decidedly "dry." While a few drug stores are said to be selling liquor to confidential patrons, there is little evidence of violation of the liquor law. Thomas Mahan, at the head of the Mahan Supply company, said Tuesday that there is nothing that the receivers can secure should they make a raid here, because the company has shipped its goods to Kansas City, Mo., where its headquarters will be located.

Galena, Kan., May 1.—In anticipation of a visit from the brewery receivers, and in compliance with the county attorney's order to discontinue business, Galena saloon men have removed their bars and fixtures either to private storage houses or out of the state. Saloon men who have hitherto ignored closing orders have quit business. A permanent ban has also been placed on gambling and slot machines by Mayor Sparks.

Atchison, Kan., May 1.—The appointment of receivers for foreign brewing companies doing business in the state has resulted in the closing of 18 saloons in this city but the thirty have not yet begun to suffer, as 15 saloons nearly all of which are furnished by the local breweries are still doing business.

For Forging Insurance Ballots.
New York, May 1.—Jacob Frank, an agent for the New York Life Insurance company in this city, was arrested Tuesday charged with forgery in the third degree in connection with the recent election of directors of the company. It is alleged that the signatures of policyholders on some of the ballots cast were forged. The specific case upon which Frank was arrested is the alleged forgery of the name of Erhard Gerhard, a policyholder insured in Frank's agency. It is said, however, that there are about 150 cases in all.

Salt Lake Strike Ended.
Salt Lake City, May 1.—Street car service in Salt Lake, after two days strike, called by the street car men's union, was resumed Tuesday morning. The end of the strike came shortly after mid-night and was brought about by the intervention of former Congressman Brigham H. Roberts. The company grants the men a wage increase and agrees not to discriminate against those who took part in the strike. By the terms of the agreement all other matters at issue are to be dropped.

Kansas Oil Going South.
Independence, Kan., May 1.—The prairie oil & gas company Tuesday began shipping by tank cars 2,500 barrels of Glenn oil daily from Red-fork, to the refinery at Corsicana, Texas. It will increase this shipment to 5,000 barrels a day as soon as cars are obtainable. The Gulf Pipe line is now shipping by car daily to Beaumont 8,000 barrels and the Texas Oil company is shipping 4,000 barrels. The production this month in the Mid-Continent oil field is greater than ever before.

A Tennessee Storm.
Covington, Tenn., May 1.—A wind and electrical storm here Monday night did $10,000 damage. The three sheds of the Cotton Compress company were demolished and several houses were damaged.

Snow in Iowa.
Des Moines, Ia., May 1.—Snow Tuesday in the southern part of this county ranges from three to eight inches in depth. The snow is said to have entirely ruined small early fruits.

ARE STILL ALIVE.

Miners Entombed at Johnston, Pa., Answer Signals of Rescuers on Air Pipes.

Jamestown, Pa., April 30.—"Still alive" is the report brought to the surface Tuesday morning by the rescuing party that has been trying to reach the seven men imprisoned in the Berwind-Whits mine at Foust-well since last Friday by a rush of water that filled all the headings of the mine. Without food or water the men have been able to make known that they were not drowned, by tapplings on compressed air pipes, signals that but renewed the vigor of the men working at pumps to empty the mine sufficiently to enable the men to be brought out.

Nine pumps have been at work since last Friday night and Monday another one of immense size was added. Chugging away these ten pumps are emptying the mine at the rate of 2,000 gallons a minute.

Physicians are at the mine mouth, with groups of relatives and friends of the men who are among those imprisoned. On the advice of the physicians, preparations have been made to succor and treat the men as soon as the water has receded to a level permitting a man to wade into the mine with even his head above water.

MISSOURI LAWMAKERS.

Advocates of Public Utility Regulation Defeat Amendments and Send Bill to Engrossment.

Jefferson City, May 1.—Advocates of public utilities regulation defeated all amendments but one offered to the Whitecotton committee substitute, which provides for city councils creating rate making commissions by ordinance, Monday afternoon, and sent the bill to engrossment by a vote of 101 to 6.

The senate Monday night passed Senator Kinney's bill to make the factory inspection law apply to any city of more than 10,000 population and provide for paying the inspector in fees. Senator Kinney said the bill was necessary to make effective the child labor law passed this winter.

Omaha Commerce Hearing.

Omaha, May 1.—The interstate commerce commission began a short session in Omaha Tuesday morning on complaint of the Omaha Co-operative company against the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis and the Burlington Railroad companies. The cooperative company complains of alleged unreasonable and excessive freight rates on co-barge material from Tennessee to Omaha as compared with rates to Keokuk, Iowa, and Alexandria, Mo.

Iowa Small Fruits Killed.

Marshalltown, Ia., May 1.—Snow covers the entire state of Iowa from a depth of from three to eight inches. In Des Moines and Central Iowa it is eight inches according to government report. Interviews with leading horticulturists indicate that all the small fruit is irretrievably killed. The snow will do much good to grain and pastures but the damage to fruit and some of the truck gardens is incalculable.

Destroy 25 Slot Machines.

Butte, Mont., May 1.—Hurler from the third story of the county court house, after being condemned to incarceration by Judge Bourquin, what remained of 25 slot machines were burned in the jail yard here Monday. The machines were worth $3,000. It was found that all had been manipulated so the higher premiums could not be won.

Enjoin Election Board.

Guthrie, Ok., May 1.—Gov. Frenz Monday received notice of a temporary injunction issued in Woods county against the election board, created by the constitutional convention, Judge Wilson, who issued the injunction, questions the authority of the convention to subdivide Woods county. A notice will be served on President Murray.

Authority for Railroad Commissioners.

Washington, May 1.—The supreme court of the United States Monday decided in effect that the railroad commissioners of the state of North Carolina can compel a railroad company operating in that state to so adjust its schedule as to accommodate passengers on other lines from any particular part of the state.

To See Roosevelt Again.

New Haven, Conn., May 1.—President Mellen of the New Haven Railroad company left Tuesday afternoon for Washington for a consultation. It is understood upon railroad matters with President Roosevelt. The meeting was arranged by appointment with the president some weeks ago.

Lake Steamer Ashore.

Port Huron, Mich., May 1.—The small steamer Pilgrim was run ashore Monday night because she appeared in danger of foundering. The crew and passengers were taken off by the lifesaving crew. The Pilgrim lies exposed to a northeast gale.

Corey Still Head of Steel Trust.

New York, April 30.—William E. Corey was re-elected president of the United States Steel Corporation at the annual meeting of the board of directors in this city Tuesday. All other officers whose terms expired were re-elected.

ACTS IN ANDERSON CASE

President Roosevelt Recommends Pardon or Commutation for Kansas City Man.

PAPERS PRESENTED BY SENATOR WARNER

Names of Doctors, Judges, Lawyers, Bankers and Business Men Generally on the Petition for the Release of the Convict Who Escaped From Leavenworth Prison.

Washington, May 1.—President Roosevelt, in a note to the department of justice, Tuesday expressed the opinion that John William January of Missouri, should have his sentence commuted at once or be pardoned outright.

January was convicted some years ago of robbing a postoffice in Oklahoma and served the greater portion of a five year sentence at Leavenworth. He then escaped and after nine years of liberty was re-arrested in Kansas City and returned to prison. Many petitions have reached the president asking for his pardon. He had lived in Kansas City under the name of Charles W. Anderson during the time he was at liberty.

President Roosevelt's action followed a visit to senator Warner of Missouri to the White house early in the day, accompanied by J. M. Kennedy, private secretary to Representative Ellis of Kansas City. Senator Warner presented to the president a typewritten statement containing a synopsis of petitions signed by 2,500 persons representing bankers, business men, doctors, lawyers and judges of his state. He also told the president there was a petition circulating in Missouri already signed by 37,200 persons asking for January's pardon. After the matter had been explained to him the president made the following indorsement on the statement: "Department of Justice:

"In view of the statements of the judges, bank presidents and so-forth, who know him, I think Anderson's nine years of life as an honest citizen, hard working, and of good repute, warrant us in commuting his sentence at once or in pardoning him outright. Which do you think ought to be done? Are there sufficient reasons for not doing either? T. R."

The department of justice, upon receipt of President Roosevelt's memorandum, sent letters to the trial judge and the district attorney who tried Anderson, asking for a report on the case and a recommendation as to whether he should receive executive clemency. When these reports are received the department will make a report to the president. Until that is done no action will be taken.

Kansas City, May 1.—The case of Anderson created a great deal of sympathy among all classes in Kansas City and surrounding territory. After his escape Anderson led an exemplary life. He had married in the meantime and his wife and little four-year-old daughter still reside in the home in Kansas City provided for them by the industry of the husband and father. Anderson's near neighbors and business associates were the first to move for pardon.

Dynamited a Sheep Camp.

Cheyenne, Wyo., May 1.—An explosion of dynamite at John Linn's sheep camp in Trapper Creek, Big Horn county, Sunday night killed 700 sheep and completely destroyed camp wagons and other possessions of the camp. The story of the outrage was told Monday by a herder, who said that a band of masked men raided the camp and after binding him securely arranged for the work of destruction. A similar attack was made upon a sheep camp in the Trapper Creek section two years ago.

A Junket to Hawaii.

San Francisco, May 1.—Among the passengers on the transport Buford sailing at noon Tuesday, were a party of 33 persons, including 25 congressmen, conducted by Mayor George B. McClellan, who are going to Honolulu at the invitation of Delegate Kalaniana'ole, for the purpose of acquainting themselves with the resources of Hawaii. The party includes the wives of 13 of the representatives.

Incendiary Suspects Arrested.

St. Louis, May 1.—As a result of an investigation by St. Louis county authorities into the origin of a fire at Luxemburg, a suburb, Sunday, during which an explosion of dynamite killed two men and injured eight others, August and Fred Wolff, Robert Hartman and August Schira were arrested Tuesday on suspicion of having caused the fire by incendiary methods.

Fire Makes 400 Men Idle.

Lorain, Ohio, May 1.—Fire of unknown origin Monday night destroyed the plant of the National Stove company. The loss is estimated at $200,000, covered by insurance. Four hundred men are idle as a result of the fire.

FRANCE IS JEALOUS.

Wants a Commission Like That Appointed to Adjust Tariff With Germany.

Washington, May 1.—While the recommendation from Ambassador White at Paris to the effect that a tariff commission be appointed by the United States to endeavor to effect an arrangement with the French government, such as was made in the case of Germany, has not yet formally come before the state department it can be announced authoritatively that if the French government desires such a commission there will be no opposition in Washington. Moreover, as the agitation in France in connection with the American tariff seems to be based in part upon a fear that Germany will secure certain advantages over France in the matter of trade through the arrangements which were Tuesday acted upon favorably by the upper house in Berlin, it may also be announced that the state department is prepared to grant to France any concessions made to Germany provided the concessions are even on both sides. Thus, a 20 per cent reduction of duties on German champagne is provided for in the pending German-American arrangement and the same privilege can be enjoyed by French champagne if the Government of France is willing to make concessions to America in return similar to those made by Germany.

Refuses to File Rates.

Lincoln, Neb., May 1.—The Armour Car Line company, in a letter to the State Railway commission made public Monday evening, declines to file its schedule of rates. The general counsel of the company writes in response to a notice sent out by the commission, that he has "tried to give the law a broad interpretation," but that as the Armour line does its business exclusively with the railroads and not with the public generally, he does not consider that it comes under the commission's jurisdiction. The commission is insistent and has referred to matter to the attorney general. Most of the railroads of the state completed their rate schedules Tuesday.

The Oklahoma City Floods.

Oklahoma City, Ok., May 1.—The cloudburst and continued rains of Monday has caused immense loss of property in this county. Every bridge along Crutch and Lightning creeks is gone, many head of cattle and horses were drowned and 40 houses were flooded, many moving from their foundations in Capital Hill. Prompt relief measures have been taken and the homeless have been sheltered. The temperature fell to 32 Monday night causing additional suffering. The rains have ceased and the waters are rapidly receding. But one man is said to be missing now. It is thought the property loss will reach $100,000.

Germany Against Limitation.

Berlin, May 1.—The question of the limitation of armaments, received a thorough ventilation in the reichstag Tuesday during a general debate on Germany's foreign relations. Speakers of various parties pointedly suggested to Chancellor Von Buelow that Germany should take no part in the discussion of the limitation of armaments at the Hague peace conference. Von Buelow, in reply, said that Germany did not object to letting other powers discuss the matter, but would hold aloof. This statement was received with approval by the house.

Fear to Publish News.

St. Petersburg, May 1.—With the exception of the Novoye Vremya which holds itself outside of the ordinary press restrictions, not one of the morning papers Tuesday ventured to report Monday's debate on the government recruiting bill in the lower house of parliament, fearing suspension, and in their accounts of the executive session of the house referred only guardedly to the conflict between the house and the government.

KANSAS WHEAT OUTLOOK

Despite April Deterioration Secretary Coburn Places Present Condition at 84 Per Cent.

MORE WINTER WHEAT PLANTED THAN EVER

Fifty Thousand More Acres Sown to The Cereal in the State Than Ever Before—Green Bug Damage Reported in 36 Counties in the South-east.

Topeka, Kan., May 1.—Despite alarmist rumors of damage said to have been inflicted on the wheat crop by freezing weather and green bugs, and of farmers plowing up their wheat fields to be used for other purposes, the report of F. D. Coburn, secretary of the Kansas department of agriculture, issued Monday night, declares from the observations made by 1,000 experienced correspondents and observers that the acreage today is greater than ever previously devoted to winter wheat in Kansas, and that the general average condition is 84.

Particular attention was paid to counties from which damage by the green bug was most loudly and persistently proclaimed and all acreage said to have been plowed up was subtracted. Secretary Coburn says:

The wheat crop, in the main, safely passed the perils of the winter. The continuous warm, growing weather of early spring caused it to advance remarkably and it was unusually forward and flourishing, but later unfavorable circumstances have changed the situation. The high conditions prevailing everywhere three or four weeks ago have in a major portion of the wheat territory been lessened somewhat each day since by an abnormally cold April, including several severe freezes, a lack of the rains which would have sustained or promoted its vigor, and, in various southern counties, damage inflicted by myriads of the green lice reported so harmful in Texas and Oklahoma.

"Correspondents mention these as present to a greater or less extent in 36 counties—doing in some considerable damage and in others none. These counties are in the southeastern fourth of the state.

"Fifteen counties in all report from 15 to 25 per cent likely to be plowed up, Chautauqua, Butler, Bourbon, Montgomery and Elk being worst, but these have small wheat acreages. The present returns, however, indicate that but a small proportion of the aggregate will be plowed up, approximating perhaps four or five per cent of the state's total. Even then the remaining 6,289,000 acres constitute a larger field than was ever previously devoted to winter wheat in Kansas, and its general average condition is reported as 84. The better conditions are returned in the western part of the state, and especially from the northwest.

"In the 25 counties having 60 per cent of the area sown to wheat last fall essentially the same percentage is plowed up as is reported for the state, and the condition of that allowed to stand is given as 83, but one point below the general average on the whole.

"One year ago the condition of the 6,289,041 acres left, after all plowing up was done, was 89.5, and the crop harvested from it amounted to 91,157,414 bushels, or the greatest income-bringing wheat crop grown.

"June 5, two years ago, the condition of the 5,405,936 acres left standing was 77.1, and its product 75,842,659 bushels, the greatest income-bringer up to that time.

"The close of April exhibits Kansas with an empire of growing wheat, somewhat beset in places, but bravely waving salutes to her unflinching sunshine and showers whose alchemy transmutes them into gold.

"The unfavorable conditions for wheat have likewise been detrimental to oats, and where these crops sustained most damage and promise least larger acreages of corn would be expected, although the general returns at this time do not presage that a more than ordinarily large acreage will be planted.

Premier's Ticket Aided Murder.

A Russian journal tells the story of how the murderer of Gen. Lunin, prefect of St. Petersburg, obtained admission to the semi-official party at which the deed was committed. After the crime all the guests were detained and their tickets were examined. There was one ticket the rightful owner of which was not present. It was no other than that of Premier Stolypin himself. The murder had been committed under cover of the invitation ticket of no less a personage than the prime minister. The premier had not been able to go, and his ticket fell into the hands of a member of the secret police named Nakolene. He resold it to the revolutionists for $16,000.

TRY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR YOUR RHEUMATISM.

The Pills Have Cured the Disease in Almost Every Form and Even in Advanced Stages.

Rheumatism is a painful inflammation of the muscles or of the coverings of the joints and is sometimes accompanied by swelling. The pain is sharp and shooting and does not confine itself to any one part of the body, but after settling in one joint or muscle for a time, leaves it and passes on to another. The most dangerous tendency of the disease is to attack the heart. External applications may give relief from pain for a time but the disease cannot be cured until the blood is purified. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best medicine for this purpose as their action is directly on the blood, making it rich, red and healthy. When the blood is pure there can be no rheumatism.

Mrs. Ellen A. Russell, of South Goff St., Annum, Me., says: "I had been sick for fifteen years from impure blood, brought on by overwork. My heart was weak and my hands colorless. I was troubled with indigestion and vomiting spells, which came on every few months. I had no appetite and used to have awful fainting spells, falling down when at my work. I frequently felt numb all over. My head ached continuously for five years.

"About two years ago I began to feel rheumatism in my joints, which became so lame I could hardly walk. My joints were swollen and pained me terribly. "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended to me by a friend, after I had failed to get well from the doctor's treatment. When I began taking the pills, the rheumatism was at its worst. I had taken only a few boxes, when the headaches stopped and not long afterward I felt the pain in my joints becoming less and less, until there was none at all. The stiffness was gone and I have never had any return of the rheumatism."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured such diseases as nervous and general debility, indigestion, nervous headache, neuralgia and even partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia. As a tonic for the blood and nerves they are unequalled. A pamphlet on "Diseases of the Blood" and a copy of our diet book will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 60 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Quiz Piano Voting Contest

2nd Prize: A fine gold watch from the stock of Geo. A. Parkins. The Parkins store only handles good ones and this is one of his best.

4th Prize: A dozen of the Mutter studios best $5 photographs. They are good ones.

2 Special Prizes: We want new subscribers and as a special inducement to contestants to secure them will give to the one securing the largest number of new subscribers their choice of a Fifty-Dollar International Correspondence School or certificate Ten Dollars in Gold; the person getting the second largest number of new subscribers to have prize left after first prize winner's selection.

WHO MAY ENTER THE CONTEST.

Any lady or girl residing in Valley county, except residents of Ord, will be permitted to enter this contest. No person living in Ord will be permitted to become a contestant. Ord people may vote in this contest and all contestants have the privilege of soliciting votes in Ord as well as elsewhere. It will probably take a few weeks to get this contest organized and get the voting under good headway; after that, a couple of months ought to be enough to cover the county thoroughly; and as soon as this work is done the contest will close and prizes will be awarded.

HOW TO SECURE VOTES.

For each cent paid to the Quiz to renew a subscription, ten votes will be allowed: $1.00 paid will equal 1000 votes; 1.50 (the price of one year's subscription) will equal 1500 votes, etc.

For every cent paid on the Quiz on new subscription (that is by someone not already a subscriber) twenty votes will be allowed: $1.00 will equal 2000 votes and 1.50 will equal 3000 votes.

The payment of advance subscription entitles to extra votes as follows:

Five years fully paid in advance ..... 2,000 extra votes.
Ten years fully paid in advance ..... 5,000 extra votes.
Fifteen years fully paid in advance ..... 10,000 extra votes.

VOTING CARDS.

When the subscription money is received at the Quiz office a voting card filled out in ink will be issued. This card may then be cast in the ballot box for some one of the contestants, or it may be taken away from the office and voted at any time before the close of the contest, or it may be taken away and burnt up, torn up or anything that the holder wishes to do with it. There will be no duplicate votes issued and no votes will be counted or published in the paper until they have been cast in the ballot box in our office.

TWO PAPERS FOR THE PRICE OF ONE.

The price of the Quiz is $1.50 per year. We have made special arrangements with the Nebraska Farmer, of Lincoln, whereby they take an active part in this contest, and we will combine the two papers and give our subscribers the benefit of getting two papers at the $1.50 per year rate.

The Nebraska Farmer is the best farm and family paper for a Nebraskan to take. It comes weekly and is stopped promptly at the time your subscription expires.

DATE OF CLOSING CONTEST.

This contest will close on Saturday, August 3, at 6 o'clock p. m. and all votes must be in the box at that time. Should there be a tie between the contestants on the counting of the votes August 3, the contest will continue one week, until August 10, at the same hour.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, the land, viz: Frank Osantowsky of Ord, Nebraska. Frank Zulkosky of Sedlo, Nebraska. Victor Danzek of Ord, Nebraska. Ignatius Gorny of Sedlo, Nebraska. Chas. F. Sheild, Register.

Not the Gown. It is not immodest—this decollete gown—it's she who wears it rather low rather will wear it cut Rag Time.

Always look to the mall man for the proof of the literary pudding. A pot or a man that boils over always causes trouble.

Improved by roasting—some men and all chestnuts. There seems to be some slight dispute And oceans wide of banter—Which is the best for sailing man, A canter or decanter?

Imaginary worry has real worry beaten a block. What's the use of being a "seeing-things-at-night" sort of person? Why not tie a can to imaginary worry and enjoy life while you can? Would you like to be happy? All right, you are. It's merely a matter of mind; that's all. There was never a man or woman on earth who really wanted to be happy and failed. If you are not happy it is just because you don't want to be.

There was a poor maiden named Maybe Who knew how to cook for the table. A prince came to town And she won him hands down— And this is no midsummer maybe!

Never tell a secret to the man who talks in his sleep. When a woman who lives on the second flat asks all the neighbors' children to play in her home, it may be that she is less fond of children than anxious to get even with the family under her.

Bacon is cured by smoking, but insomnia isn't.

A Chicago newspaper has been printing children's stories for weeks, several dozen a day. Here's one they have overlooked: It was the first time Dorothy had seen a street-sprinkler. "O mother," she exclaimed, with wide-open eyes, "just see what that man's got on his wagon to keep the boys from riding behind."

My stenographer fell and sprained her wrist the other day. Her family physician fixed her up and sent this bill: "To fixing one typewriter, $5."

No, Curly Locks, every girl that makes up a form well is not a good printer—even if she is of the display type.

Hall and Rain. A maid does not care where a man halls from As they wander in love up the shady lane— The thing that she queries is this, my boy: "Will the man, when they're wed, lead the maiden reign?"

Honest Confession. Here's a story that sounds like it should have on it the brand of Ople Read. I don't know who wrote it. I only know it's too good to get away: A northern man tells that, while traveling through the South, he once saw a negro, hoe in hand, sitting under a tree at the edge of a cornfield that was badly overrun with weeds. The negro in reply to a question as to what he was doing, said, drawingly, that he was out there to "hoe dat cohn."

"Then what are you doing under the tree—resting?" persisted the traveler. "No, sah, Ah'm not restin'," was the answer. "Ah'm not tiahed. Ah'm waitin' faw the sun to go down so Ah kin quit wuhk."

Too Expensive. A man may lead a double life On very little daily pay— But not a very double one On—say $3 just—a day!

An Editor's Tip. A wife who loves her husband will not object to cutting his hair every week or two, instead of every two or three months. Any man can learn to shave himself. A box of blacking costs ten cents, will last months. A chunk of soap, some hot water and a rag will take the grease and dirt out of an old suit of clothes. Most any man can go to bed an hour sooner once in ten days and have his wife or daughter crease his pants. A brush and a little elbow grease will take the dust out of one's clothes. Flowers are thick along the streets and it is a mighty slow poke who can't swipe a buttonhole when coming down town. Of course it costs 10 or 15 cents a week extra to have a nice, clean collar and cuffs every morning. And there you are. After all, then, the difference between coming down town of mornings looking as if you had slept in a hay mow, or appearing as though you had just shot out of a handbox, is 15 cents a week, a little soap, water and elbow grease. Of course, if your wife doesn't love you she will kick on cutting your hair and "creasing your pants," but then if she doesn't love you, it is your fault. She will "tidy you up" every morning if you are any account and treat her right.—Eldorado (Kan.) Republican.

The Times. If used to be the plan to earn By sweat of brow your honest money— But now the proper dose is this: From sweat of others gather honey!

Once again, men, we are approaching that glad but perplexing season when our wits are sharpened trying to guess what that red streak across a woman's shirt waist underneath the peekaboo is.

If you cannot pick the winners Where the ponies are a pace, Pick the losers and bet money That they will not win the race.

Dipping for Dollars

The stock dipping proposition is a problem that every breeder and stock raiser must face if he wishes to get all of the profit there is in it. Two factors figure in stock dipping if they are dipped right:

FIRST, you need a dip tank, one that will stand the wear and tear which it receives in every day use. A cheap affair is dear at any price. We make dip tanks and make them right. You give us the size and we make the tank and it carries the Cornell guarantee. We have made many of them for Valley county people and thus far they are giving perfect satisfaction.

SECOND, to get good results you must use a good dip. A good tank will not help you if you use a poor quality of dip. We are agents for Dipoline. Disease cannot get a foothold where Dipoline is used. We have it in any quantities, barrels, half barrels, gallons, quarts and pints. Let us fix you out for your spring dipping. We'll save you money.

HARDWARE IMPLEMENT HOUSE

The Timber Supply.
Every person in the United States is using over six times as much wood as he would use if he were in Europe. The country as a whole consumes every year between three and four times more wood than all of the forests of the United States grow in the meantime. The average acre of forest lays up a store of only 10 cubic feet annually, whereas it ought to be laying up at least 30 cubic feet in order to furnish the products taken out of it. Since 1880 more than 700,000,000,000 feet of timber have been cut for lumber alone, including 80,000,000,000 feet of coniferous timber in excess of the total coniferous stumpage estimate of the census in 1880.

These are some of the remarkable statements made in Circular 97 of the Forest Service, which deals with the timber supply of the United States and reviews the stumpage estimates made by all the important authorities. A study of the circular must lead directly to the conclusion that the rate at which forest products in the United States have been and are being consumed is far too lavish, and that only one result can follow unless steps are promptly taken to prevent waste in use and to increase the growth rate of every acre of forest in the United States. This result is a timber famine. This country is today in the same position with regard to forest resources as was Germany 150 years ago. During this period of 150 years such German states as Saxony and Prussia, particularly the latter, have applied a policy of government control and regulation which has immensely increased the productivity of their forests. The same policy will achieve even better results in the United States, because we have the advantage of all the lessons which Europe has learned and paid for in the course of a century of theory and practice.

Let it might be assumed that the rapid and gaining depletion of American forest resources is sufficiently accounted for by the increase of population, it is pointed out in the circular that the increase in population since 1880 is barely more than half the increase in lumber cut in the same period. Two areas supplying timber have already reached and passed their maximum production—the northeastern states in 1870 and the Lake states in 1890. Today the southern states, which cut yellow pine amounting to one-third the total annual lumber cut of the country, are undoubtedly near their maximum. The Pacific states will soon take the ascendancy. The state of Washington within a few years has come to the front and now ranks first of all individual states in volume of cut.

At present but one-fifth of the total area of the United States is embraced in national forests.

The remaining four-fifths have already passed or are most likely to pass into private hands. The average age of the trees felled for lumber this year is not less than 150 years. In other words, if he is to secure a second crop of trees of the same size, the lumberman or private forest owner must wait, say, at least one hundred years for the second crop to grow. As a rule, such long-time investments as this waiting would involve do not commend themselves to business men who are accustomed to quick returns. But the states and the nation can look much farther ahead. The larger, then, the area of national and state control over woodlands, the greater is the likelihood that the forests of the country will be kept permanently productive.

Our Washington Letter.

Word has been received here that articles of incorporation will be filed this week with the secretary of state of Missouri for the Kansas City Transportation and Steamship Co. This transportation company is to build and operate steamboats for the carrying of freight between Kansas City and St. Louis, and the service will be in operation, it is said, within ninety days. While the boats are being built it is understood that arrangements will be made with a Capt. T. B. Sims, of St. Louis, to put in a line of freight boats.

This is the first organization of boats into a regular line in the present revival of river traffic. The experiment is being watched with much interest, for it is really a co-operative plan. Twenty-eight shippers of Kansas City have taken $100,000 in common stock in the enterprise, and another $100,000 in preferred stock will be issued and sold as a secured investment. The Kansas City Chamber of Commerce through subscriptions has raised $140,000 toward the establishment of a boat line, and thus the project is placed on a firm financial footing.

The line is the direct outcome of the inequality of freight rates by which Kansas City has suffered. The railroads take the Mississippi river as a basing point for rates on freight west-bound, with the result that in many cases freight charges across the state of Missouri, from St. Louis to Kansas City, oftentimes are half as great as the through charge from the Atlantic coast to the river.

This inequality has long been a source of complaint to the merchants of Kansas City, and has done more than any other one thing to retard the growth of that town.

There are indications that with the beginning of work by the government on the rivers and harbors, there will be a decided increase in the number of keels laid for new vessels for the inland trade. The passage of the big appropriation bill at the last session will stimulate ship building, for it is reasonably certain now that the government will continue to spend ever-increasing sums on this important work of internal improvement.

Forgot the Dogs.

The Ord Quiz, in giving a write-up of the capture of the two men that broke into the store at North Loup Sunday night, failed to mention the fact of Sheriff Sutton being called from here with the blood hounds, although they were captured just as they got there. It was partly through his efforts that the stolen goods were recovered. One of the fellows proved to be Charlie Jones, who dug out of jail here a couple of years ago.—Greeley Leader-Independent.

Another peace organization has been launched by the humanitarians, with Mrs. Eddy as its American founder. This will at least stimulate the anti-war sentiment in Boston.

Bixby on Tom Dennison, Gambler.
A notorious character in Omaha did not like the way the Omaha News talked about him and so commenced suit against the paper. A desperate fight was made in the courts but the jury returned a verdict for $7,500 for the wounded feelings and blasted name of Tom Dennison. In an effort to make sure that the State Journal did not fare the same fate Bixby wrote the following tribute to the noted gambler:

O, joy! let us congratulate
Tom Dennison;
The verdict seems to vindicate
Tom Dennison.
The News bedaubed him with dark paint,
Its ire was fierce, its praise was faint—
Henceforward I will call him "Saint
Tom Dennison."
I shall delight through coming days,
Tom Dennison,
To shame your foes and sing your praise,
Tom Dennison;
For should I now assume to snort
About you as a gay old sport,
You'd pinch me in the district court,
Tom Dennison.
So, let me praise you all I can,
Tom Dennison;
You are a good and pious man,
Tom Dennison;
And were it now my happy fate
To have a dozen sons to date,
I'd say to each, "O emulate
Tom Dennison."

Right here I strike a happy thought,
Tom Dennison,
I'd name the youngest of the lot
"Tom Dennison."
I'd teach him to be just and true,
I'd hold such high ideals in view,
He might be good and great as you,
Tom Dennison.
I feel that justice on her throne,
Tom Dennison,
At least has come unto her own,
Tom Dennison.
Your honor, sir, and your good name
Are hoisted from the depths of shame—
You always played a winning game,
Tom Dennison.

Tough for the County Judge.

The prevailing idea that the spring months, and especially May and June, are especially propitious for the matrimonial business, seems to have been dispelled this season. A Quiz man who asked County Judge Gudmundsen how many marriage licenses he had granted during the past week was told that there was a big slump in that line just now, and that he was thinking of imposing a fine on somebody pretty quick if something did not turn up to break the monotony. He said that he had not granted a marriage license since the third day of April, over a month ago, and that there did not seem much prospect of any change in conditions very soon. He thinks that this is the longest interval during the past eight or ten years when a county judge has not issued a marriage contract.

Back to Their Old Tactics.

We observe that lately the U. P. freight has been coming in wrong end to, the new crew stopping to turn around before coming in with the mail. This is against the orders and we presume the government will have to take the matter up with the railroad company again. For years it was the custom of the freight crew to make the turn before coming to the depot, till these columns made a roar about it and the news thereby reached the ears of the government. After a brief investigation to see that the statements were true the government saw that the thing was changed, and the freight has been coming in before making the turn. This has been done faithfully till the past few days, when the new crew has taken the matter in their own hands. Guess they better quit it.

If it is wrong for railroads and other great financial interests to combine for the purpose of maintaining prices it is likewise wrong for laborers and labor unions to do the same thing. What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.

Building troubles are on in Philadelphia because of a dispute between the factions of the labor unions. The stone cutters claim that they should lay the stone they cut, while the masons claim that they should stop with the cutting the stone and let the masons do the laying. This is a case of Greek meeting Greek, and the only thing the master builders could do was to order a lockout, for they were threatened with a strike from the friends of each side if they sided in with the other side. The result is that with all of the builders anxious to pay the men all they want they cannot allow the work to go till the unions settle their own fight. And all this foolishness because our government will not prohibit strikes by legal enactment and provide courts for the settlement of labor disputes.

Now, What Do You Think.

Can a state law make a crime right or a vicious business respectable? Not by any process of reasoning. A moral wrong is wrong, no matter whether law recognizes it as such or not. One who does wrong and persists in it is an evil-doer no matter whether his wrong is perpetrated out of reach of all law or in the very halls of justice. Right and wrong are principles that no human law can change. Because a law attempts to give color of right to a wrong, that does not make that wrong any the less evil. A business that is pernicious without the sanction of law is just as pernicious when it is sanctioned by law. The only difference is that in the latter category the criminal may escape the legal punishment. The full purpose of any law that attempts to condone or legalize a wrong is simply to say that the wrong may be perpetrated without punishment. By what reasoning, then, can a saloon keeper be called respectable? The law cannot make him respectable. If the business of making money out of men's weakness for strong drink could be made respectable by legal enactment, the same power could make prostitution, gambling, horse-stealing and murder respectable by giving people license to do these things for so much a year. Respectable? Surely the saloon business is not. The only reason why anyone can call the liquor selling vice respectable is because we have become familiar with the traffic and lose sight of our real estimate of the saloon keeper. Do you think he is respectable? Then why do you not hire him to handle your business? Why do you not invite him to your parties and encourage his attentions to your daughters. You know well enough you do not respect him.

Remonstrators Take an Appeal.

The case of the remonstrance against the application of Joe Adamek for a saloon license was heard at the court house before the city council last Friday. All day was consumed in the disagreeable task. The councilmen occupied the seats where the jury usually sits and Mayor Daniels sat up high and dry in the place of the judge and really acted in that capacity. He decided all questions of controversy between the council of the contending parties and did a pretty good job of it, though this was his first experience along that line. He even got so he could keep a grin from his face, as all judges should do, when the council referred to him as "y'r on'r." If he was not just sure, as to the right decision to make the city attorney was at his elbow to post him. If at any time the councilmen did not like his rulings they had a right to call for a vote on the question, but none saw occasion to exercise this right. The only really important thing that he left undone in the discharge of his exalted duties was that he did not fine anybody for contempt of court, but he might be excused for this oversight since it was his first chance. But by the time he gets through with the other cases he may be depended upon to have a reasonable number of scapals dangling to his judicial belt. The decision of the council was, of course, that the license should be granted. The remonstrators took an appeal to the district court, till which time the saloon patrons must go around to the back door. District court meets May 21, which is not far away, when the cases will be reviewed. Only the testimony taken at the hearing before the council can be brought before the district court which will simply review the evidence taken here by reading the transcript of the evidence taken before Judge Daniels and pass upon it. Should his decision be in favor of the license the saloons may open, but, should the supreme court reverse the decision, the saloon men will be in the category of running without a license.

MORE LOCAL

John Collison went to Greeley to look after the flour business Monday.

Steve Weare is over from Greeley a good deal lately, but he still has charge of the pool hall over there.

George Watson is considerably improved in health, so much so that he is out on the streets these fine days.

Mr. and Mrs. Dr. G. R. Gard drove over to Arcadia Sunday afternoon. The doctor will spend a week there looking to his large practice, while his wife, on the other hand, will go from there to Sargent, where she spends the week with her brother, Harold Parks.

Mrs. Bergrude, Mrs. Goodenow and their little niece, Nettie Norton, were passengers to Lincoln Monday morning, the former being on her return journey to University Place while Mrs. Goodenow went to attend the meeting of the Grand Chapter of the order of the Eastern Star.

On account of the necessity of his being here to bury his sister Editor Hardesty was behind with his work. Accordingly he prevailed upon Miss Burger of the Quiz office to go over and help them out for few days. She went there this morning and will be back in a few days, if some fine young Irishman does not object.

Dr. and Mrs. Chester A. Brink took leave of the city this morning. Their immediate destination is Apple River, Ill, where the parents of the doctor live. They will sojourn there for a while but the doctor will commence his post-graduate course presently and eventually they will move to California on account of the health of Mrs. Brink. We regret the departure of these good people from Ord. The doctor promises to be back again this fall for a brief stay.

Commencing this morning the Union Pacific passenger starts out at 7:15 in the morning. There seems to be no valid reason for this change unless it be to afford a little longer wait at St. Paul, for the train pulls into Grand Island only ten minutes earlier and there is no reason for doing that. It makes no better connection. Then there is the foolishness of holding the passenger at the Island on its return trip till three o'clock, which is nearly an hour later than the scheduled time of arrival for the fast mail. This old schedule remains unchanged. There is no reason why the passenger might not come into Ord not later than 4:45 in the evening. But the railroad folks have their way of doing things, some of which are for reasons past finding out.

Mrs. Clarence Coe is visiting relatives in DeWitt, her former home, this week.

Emma Cunningham of Phoenix, Arizona, and Mrs. Laura Grier, of the state of Washington, left this morning for their respective homes. They had been here on account of the death of their mother, Mrs. Watson.

Memorial services will be held at the Methodist church, on the 26th of May. On this account their will be no preacher sent here to preach for the Ord and Springdale people unless a regular pastor is sent to take the place of Rev. M. A. Wimberley.

J. B. Young went down the road this morning armed with a permit to ride on the varnished cars as far as Oklahoma. If he likes things down there well enough he may plant some of his Valley county money in Oklahoma soil.

When Ed. Firkin's came back from the west some weeks ago he brought with him four pretty little spotted ponies that would be the delight of any boy. His step-daughter drove one team into town this morning hitched to a swell little buggy and the turnout was not long in attracting a big crowd of admirers.

Our saloon-keeper friends are trying to appear before the public as martyrs—victims of the persecution of cranks. There is no foundation whatever for this kind of posing. We know that the remonstrators have no intention of harming any person lawfully entitled to a saloon license, and they do not wish to over-ride the will of the majority by holding up the granting of lawful licenses. But they do insist that the licenses be lawfully issued to persons lawfully entitled to receive them. The applicants for licenses are not, it is believed, proper men for saloon keepers under the meaning of the law and as soon as their right to engage in the business is established there will be no objection to the granting of the licenses.

Contestants Are Getting Votes Rapidly.

Interest in the Quiz piano contest is growing steadily and some of the contestants, are hustling nobly for votes. Others are not yet making much ado, but it is to be hoped that they are simply working quietly and adding the votes to their string just the same. All these contestants should realize that it is the steady pull from now to the closing hour that will win the prize.

If you have any thought of entering the contest, do so at once and let us know so that your name may be entered in the list. Many votes are being given to the contestants without solicitation. A man coming and paying is given a voting card. If no one has spoken to him about it he feels free to cast his vote for the girl he knows, and so drops it into the box, after looking over the list. So it pays to get into the race at once.

As we have not yet had the judges selected we will not publish the list of votes cast today, but the list of contestants are:

- Miss Addie Haight, Ord, Route 1.
- Miss Bertha Goodrich, North Loup.
- Miss Ada Draper, North Loup.
- Miss Roxy Auble, Ord, Route 2.
- Miss Lena Slavicek, Ord, Route 3.
- Miss Anna Sorensen, Ord, Route 3.
- Miss Bessie Gray, Elyria.
- Miss Maude Arnold, Ord.
- Mrs. J. J. Sargent, Ord.

J. K. Jensen.

We neglected to mention last week of the meeting and organization of the new city board, which elected D. B. Huff for mayor. Not much business has been transacted by the new board as some of the members have been absent from town nearly all the time. Those here on Tuesday met and granted the saloon licenses for the coming year and also approved the bond of the new city treasurer, Paul Boisseree.—Greeley Leader-Independent.

More Saloon Petitioners.

Two more sets of saloon petitions have been filed with the city clerk, the signers thereto being as follows:

For W. E. Hall the signers are: Jos. Cernik, Mike Kasal, John Kozpal, J. A. Veleba, A. Klement, J. W. Beran, Joe Pecenka, Frank Misko, J. L. Drake, Frank Zablouil, H. Shiin, J. H. Fay, John W. ## Not Guilty.

"Tommy," said the teacher reproachfully, "why didn't you take your hat off to me when you passed me yesterday?"

"I didn't have me hat on, ma'am," replied the boy.

"Don't tell me that. I saw it on your head."

"I know you seen me, but you didn't see me hat. That was me brudder's hat I had on."

Did the Dog Reason?

The late Duke of Beaufort, who was an excellent observer, notes in his diary how (he was hunting the hounds himself) the pack drove down to a wall and flashed over—all but Bachelor. This hound missed the scent as he reached the top of the wall and, standing there, waved his stern as if in thought. Then it seemed to flash across him, "If the fox has not crossed he must have turned short under the wall." So Bachelor dropped back into the road and, racing along, picked up the line.—T. F. Dale in Outing Magazine.

Alumni, Attention.

Every alumnus of the Ord high school who resides in Ord and the vicinity is urged to be present at a mass meeting of the association which will be held at 8:00 p. m. in the court room on Saturday, May 11. Reports will be submitted by the chairmen of the various committees and plans for the up-building, betterment and welfare of the association will be discussed. Every member should consider it a duty to attend.

WAS KILLED BY MISTAKE

An Austrian Nobleman Shot to Death in California by a Sheriff's Possee.

WHO THOUGHT HE WAS A MURDERER

Count Otto Von Waldstein Was Nephew of a Cardinal and an Austrian Prince—Left His Mother Country on Account of a Love Affair Six Years Ago.

San Francisco, May 4.—The supposed desperado who was killed at Willows Monday night after a running fight with a posse of officers has been identified as Count Otto Von Waldstein of Austria, scion of a noble family of history, nephew to the cardinal and the Prince Wartenburg, one of the richest men in Franz Joseph's empire.

The identification was made at Willows Thursday by Miss Mary Fitzgerald of this city, who knew him well, after the body of the young nobleman had been exhumed from the potter's field. The identification was so complete that there can be no possibility of mistake.

Count Otto died fighting, believing he was being attacked by a band of robbers. The posse thought it had run down Smith, the murdered of John Marcovinch of Oakland.

Count Otto Von Waldstein left Austria and family six years ago because of a love affair. He wandered through the Boer war. He wandered to America, a poor young man without profession, to work with his hands for existence. He followed the reclamation service through the west. He quit a job in Placer county, the day before his death and was waiting toward San Francisco.

Francis Korbet, consul in this city for Austria-Hungary, in an interview on the affair, is quoted as follows:

"I have met Count Otto Von Waldstein frequently. His family is of the best. He was a well educated man and not a loafer or remittance man. He lost his inheritance through unwise investments and came to California for work. He was employed in San Francisco in many capacities during the last two years and during this time he has traveled over a greater portion of the coast. He was an athlete of no mean ability and the best shot I ever saw in my life."

Chevalier Karl Von Ruise, secretary to the Austrian consul, will take charge of the body.

More Pay for Packers' Employes.

Omaha, May 4.—The entire working force of all the packing houses in South Omaha, comprising about 8,000 men, were Friday morning notified that an advance in wages of from 5 to 15 per cent had been granted them. As a result of the announcement, 200 men who were out on strike from Armour's and Cudahy's plants returned to work immediately. The increase takes effect at once.

Gen. Hudson's Illness Critical.

Topeka, Kan., May 4.—Gen. Joseph K Hudson, newspaper editor and former state printer, is seriously ill at his home here. He has suffered from heart trouble for some time and now dropsical complications have appeared. The attending physician stated Friday that Gen. Hudson's condition is very serious.

Body of Missing Boy Found.

Cleveland, May 4.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of three year old Alexander Hoentgen, who it was believed had been kidnaped, was cleared up Friday by the discovery of the badly decomposed body of the boy in a large barrel near the home of his parents. The body was concealed beneath a lot of rubbish. The police believe the child was murdered.

A Washington Town Burning.

Bellingham, Wash., May 4.—Forest fires are closing in on Maple Falls in the northwest part of Whatcom county and the town is burning. The last word received before all telephone and telegraph wires went down was a frantic call for help from Bellingham. A special train with fire fighting apparatus is leaving here. Maple Falls has a population of 800.

Fatally Injured in a Runaway.

Emporia, Kan., May 4.—Mrs. William Linn, aged 60, was fatally injured in a runaway Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Linn had been to Emporia to see the circus and were returning to their home, two miles west of town, when the accident occurred. Mr. Linn was rendered unconscious but he is out of danger.

Charged With Poisoning Family.

Chicago, May 4.—Mrs. Mary Sladek, whose parents both recently died as the result of arsenical poisoning, was held Friday to the criminal court for trial. It is suspected that she mixed arsenic in the food prepared for the family. Four of her brothers were also poisoned, but recovered.

Fort Riley, Kan., May 4.—The four officers of the Chinese army spent several hours here Friday en route to the Jamestown exposition. A heavy snow storm prevailed during the forenoon and interfered with the programme for the entertainment of the visitors.

WINTER STILL LINGERS.

Another Snow Storm Accompanied by Freezing Weather in Kansas Missouri and Nebraska.

Topeka, Kan., May 4.—A heavy, damp snowfall which began at 4 o'clock Friday morning prevails over this section of Kansas. At 9 o'clock the ground was covered to the depth of over an inch with much of the precipitation melted. A strong wind from the northwest was blowing with a temperature of 30 degrees at 10 o'clock and growing colder.

Lincoln, Neb., May 4.—Snow which in some places fell to a depth of four inches covered the greater part of Nebraska Friday morning, breaking all known records for the month of May, not only in the precipitation of snow, but in the temperature, which registered 27 degrees early in the day. The snow was driven by a heavy wind in the eastern part of the state and the storm had all the marks of a blizzard, with drifts delaying trains.

Omaha, May 4.—Snow fell here and out in the state during the night and early Friday morning. In Omaha the precipitation again set in accompanied by a stiff wind which drove the snow and cut the faces of pedestrians like a January storm. Fruit and other vegetation which was believed to have escaped fatal results from preceding storms are given up now as killed.

Wichita, Kan., May 4.—Rain that began falling at midnight turned to sleet Friday morning. The temperature stood near 30 degrees above zero and continued rain and sleet with colder weather Friday night is looked for.

Muscantine, Iowa, May 4.—A snow-storm approaching blizzard proportions is raging here. The temperature is falling and the wind is rising.

St. Joseph, Mo., May 4.—A snow storm of blizzard proportions raged here Friday morning. It will greatly benefit the growing wheat.

Salina, Kan., May 4.—Snow fell for two hours Friday morning.

MISSOURI LAWMAKERS.

Bill Giving Cities Right to Regulate Rates of Public Service Corporations Passed House.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 4.—The house Thursday passed the Cooper bill giving cities the right to regulate the rates of public service corporations. The senate had already passed the bill, but it must go back to that body as the house refused to concur in one amendment requiring the appointment of a commission to investigate the condition of the corporation before the municipality could fix rates. The vote on final passage was 121 to 11.

The regulation provided by the Cooper bill is not confined to the large cities, but is state wide. The rates, once fixed, and they may be fixed by the city councils or based upon the findings of a commission chosen by the councils, can not be changed oftener than once in every two years.

A bill to authorize an increase in the police force of Kansas City and increase the salaries of the policemen may be offered in the senate by Senator Cooper. The Casey bill, which failed, will be the model, but there will be some changes.

The senate Friday passed the bill extending the fellow servant law to apply to mine operators.

To Hear Argument En Banc.

St. Paul, May 4.—Judge Sanborn, of the United States circuit court Friday announced that Judges Sanborn, Van Deventer, Hook and Adams would jointly hear the arguments on the exceptions to the bill of complaint filed by the United States against the Standard Oil company of New Jersey on May 24. This is the case brought by the federal government against the Standard Oil company and its allied corporation in the United States circuit court at St. Louis under the Sherman anti-trust law to enjoin an alleged conspiracy to restrain trade. It is expected that a rather formidable array of legal talent will be present to argue upon the exceptions.

A Question of Law.

Honolulu, May 4.—A controversy has arisen between Governor Carter and the legislature over the right of the house to reconsider its action on a veto. The governor claims that the legislature consists of two divisions, the senate and the house and that reconsideration by one is not sufficient.

All Bids Were Rejected.

Norfolk, Va., May 4.—The opening of bids for the new naval Y. M. C. A. building, for which John D. Rockefeller gave $300,000, were found to be in excess of the $225,000 available for the structural work after the purchase of the site and all bids have been rejected. New bids will be asked for.

Weather Favors Green Bugs.

Lawrence, Kan., May 4.—Professor S. J. Hunter is collecting the parasite bees but will not send any more out to prey upon the green bugs until the weather changes. The green bugs can live in this kind of weather, but the parasites cannot.

PUNJAB HINDUS RIOTING

Mob Pillage and Burns Buildings at Rawalpindi, India, Belonging to Europeans.

RESIDENCES OF ENGLISHMEN ATTACKED

A Mission Church Was Pillaged and the Post Office Looted—Town Now Patrolled by British Hussars—Outbreak Attributed to Agitators Traveling Through Country.

Allahabad, British India, May 4.—Serious anti-European riots have occurred at Rawalpindi, Punjab. A Hindu mob burned two bungalows, pillaged the mission church, looted the postoffice, burned a garage and all the motor cars in it, destroyed the plant of a power house and smashed the windows of the residences of many Europeans. Armed police eventually obtained the upper hand and dispersed the rioters. The town is now patrolled by a squadron of the tenth Hussars.

The outbreak at Rawalpindi is attributed to the incendiary influence of well known agitators who have been making speeches throughout the Punjab and who also are held responsible for the recent outbreak at Lahore.

Rawalpindi is a fortified town of the Punjab, capital of the Rawalpindi division and district, and has a population of about 90,000. The Rawalpindi division has about 5,500,000 inhabitants.

There was considerable excitement at Lahore about the middle of February following the conviction of the proprietor and editor of a native newspaper who were accused of stirring up hatred against the government and the British community. A story was printed in the paper to the effect that an English officer shot a Mohammedan policeman for refusing to carry the carcass of a dead boar which the officer had speared. The government prosecutor showed the story was fictitious and that the policeman was killed by being thrown from a horse. The prisoners pleaded that they had pursued an unverified rumor in good faith, but the court sentenced the proprietor to two years in prison and a fine and the editor was condemned to 6 months imprisonment and fined. After the sentences had been imposed a crowd of Hindus paraded the streets, angrily denouncing and hooting every European they met.

A dispatch from Lahore April 27 announced that rifles and twenty rounds of ball cartridges had been served out to the local volunteers in consequence of signs of marked unrest among the Hindu student element, due to the publication of articles in the native newspapers inciting race hatred and demanding native control of the government by means of an elective parliament. The authorities had the unanimous support of the great Mohammedan population, who, at numerous mass meetings emphatically condemned the anti-European movement.

Whole Family Asphyxiated.

New York, May 4.—William Cross his wife and their two sons were found dead from inhaling illuminating gas in their home in Jersey City Friday. Cross and his wife were found dead in bed in a room adjoining the kitchen. The two boys were dead in the next room. Gas was pouring from a disconnected pipe in the kitchen.

The Ice-man's Troubles.

Detroit, Mich., May 4.—A strike of the ice handlers of this city for an increase in wages from $17.50 per week to $19.50 has resulted in Detroit being iceless Friday. No ice is being delivered. About 500 men are out.

A Gasoline Stove Caused Her Death.

Oklahoma City, Ok., May 4.—The explosion of a gasoline stove ignited the clothing of Miss Minnie Jackson, employed at a hotel here. She died soon after the accident.

SEEKS WAR AHEAD.

Former Secretary Shaw Says War for Control of Pacific Ocean is Inevitable.

Worcester, Mass., May 4.—In a speech Thursday night at the annual dinner of the Worcester Board of Trade, Leslie M. Shaw, former secretary, declared war for the control of "I do not wish to pose as a prophet," he said, "but do you suppose the Pacific ocean was inevitable. Pacific will always be a peaceful ocean? God grant that it may. We have not a collier, a transport, powder or supplies to last for 48 hours. Other nations have. There are many ships in the merchant service of foreign countries which are under contract to leave the path of commerce at a moment's notice to enter that of war. We have not one such as these.

"Some day, as sure as Anglo-Saxon blood runs red, there is to be an awful war. There are two nations that can contest for the Pacific and this war will be settled at an awful cost." Mr. Shaw appealed to business men to take a business interest in governmental affairs.

President Will "Explain" Again.

Washington, May 4.—William A. Coakley, John S. Henry and Maurice Brown representatives of the Central Federated Union of New York had a talk Thursday with the president concerning his letter to Representative Sherman describing Messrs. Moyer and Haywood, as "undesirable citizens." While they declined to say anything about their interview further than that it was "pleasant and satisfactory" it was learned that the president will write a letter to the union to be read at its meeting next Sunday, at which the committee will report.

Standard Wants New Trial.

Chicago, May 4.—In presenting argument Friday on his motion for a new trial in the Standard Oil rebate case recently decided against that company in the federal court, Attorney John S. Miller declared that the Elkins act as applied to interstate shipments is in violation of the Fourteenth article of the Constitution of the United States. Attorney Miller then reviewed the evidence in detail. It is probably that the arguments in behalf of a new trial will consume all of Friday and most of Saturday.

To Open Irrigated Lands.

Omaha, May 4.—The government has definitely decided to proceed with the Huntley project of opening 30,000 acres of government land for settlement near Billings, Mont., by lottery or the drawing system. The exact date has not been fixed, but it will be about June 30 or July 1. This land is remarkable in that it will be the first government land ever thrown open for settlement where water for irrigation is immediately available.

Hunting Ruff Jurors.

San Francisco, May 4.—The venire issued Thursday by Judge Dunne for the completion of the Ruff jury was returned into court Friday and 19 of the 25 men answered to their names. Sixteen of these were excused by the court for legal reasons, leaving three available out of the 25 summoned. Judge Dunne issued thereupon another venire of 25, returnable Monday morning, until which time an adjournment was taken.

Sold Counterfeit Money.

San Francisco, May 4.—W. F. Greany, a newspaper carrier, was arrested Thursday night and placed on the detinue book at the city prison on the charge of selling notes which he knew were fraudulent and would be passed as good currency by the purchasers. In Greany's apartments the police found 14 boxes filled with the kind of bills complained of that purported to have a face value of several hundred thousand dollars.

A Life Term For a Boy.

Oklahoma City, Ok., May 4.—For the murder of O. H. Murphy, an Oklahoma county farmer, Newton Youngblood, 16 years old, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

MANY CHINAMEN KILLED

Terrific Explosion in Canton Brings Death or Injury to Hundreds of Natives.

THE FOREIGN SETTLEMENT ESCAPED

Gunpowder Magazine Exploded Probably by Spark From Pipe and Roofs of Houses a Mile Distant Were Blown Off—200 Feet of City Wall Demolished.

Hongkong, May 4.—Very great destruction of life and property caused at Canton Thursday evening by the explosion of a gunpowder magazine. Twenty-one bodies already have been recovered from the ruins. Hundreds of persons were injured.

Fifteen buildings were razed to the ground and over 100 were seriously wrecked. A section, 200 feet long, from the massive city wall, was thrown down. The historical nine story Pagoda escaped with slight injuries. The officials and staffs of the hospitals are doing their best to succor the sufferers. In the Shamien suburb, where the foreigners live, a terrific shock was caused by the explosion but the residents were unharmed.

The city of Canton is about six miles in circumference and is enclosed by walls about 20 feet thick and 25 to 40 feet high. There are 16 gates into the city besides two water gates. The famous nine story pagoda, dating from the beginning of the middle ages, is situated in the western part of what is known as the Old City. The foreigners reside in the shamen suburb founded in 1859 on an artificial island on the Honan side of the river. The population of Canton is estimated at about 900,000.

The roofs of houses a mile distant from the exploded magazine were blown off. A number of important Chinese and foreign mercantile establishments were completely demolished. The bodies recovered from the ruins in the vicinity of the magazine were shockingly mutilated. Many corpses of men and women were without heads.

The officer in charge of the magazine was among those killed and when his body was recovered a pipe was found clutched in his hand, which suggests the possible cause of the explosion. The financial losses are enormous.

ARMY ASSIGNMENTS.

Officers Named Who Will Command the Various Departments of the Army.

Washington, May 4.—The order assigning various officers to command departments proposed by the general staff was issued Friday by the adjutant general of the army. It provides that Maj. Gen. Wood, upon being relieved from the command of the Philippine division, shall assume command of the Department of the East at Governors Island, relieving Maj. Gen. Grant, who is ordered to assume command of the Department of the Lakes at Chicago, relieving there Brig. Gen. Carter, who is ordered to Omaha to assume command of the Department of the Missouri. Maj. Gen. John F. Weston is ordered to assume command of the Philippine Division upon the relief of Maj. Gen. Wood next fall. Maj. Gen. Adolphus W. Greely, upon the discontinuance of the Northern Division is ordered to Vancouver Barracks, Wash., to assume command of the Department of the Columbia. Brig. Gen. Albert L. Myer is ordered to San Antonio, Texas, to assume command of the Department of Texas. Brig. Gen. Earl D. Thomas is ordered to Omaha to assume command of the Department of Missouri, temporarily. Brig. ## ENDED HIS LIFE.

Charles J. Steedman, a Friend of Senator Aldrich Shoots Himself in a Paris Hotel.

Paris, May 4.—Chas. J. Steedman of New York and Philadelphia, son of the late Rear Admiral Chas. Steedman, committed suicide by shooting Thursday night at the hotel De L'Orient here.

Mr. Steedman and his wife, who is a daughter of a former governor of Rhode Island, reached Paris April 30 from Italy, accompanied by a child. They had been touring in an automobile with Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, and Mrs. Aldrich. Since his arrival here, Mr. Steedman had become despondent. He was left temporarily alone in his room and when the apartment was re-entered he was found sitting upright in a chair, with a revolver at his feet. He had shot himself in the mouth, the bullet traversing the brain and passing out at the back of the skull. Death was instantaneous. The body will be embalmed and shipped to the United States.

Gen. Kuroki in Seattle.

Seattle, May 4.—Gen. Kuroki and his staff, representatives of Japan to the Jamestown exposition, arrived in this city from the Orient at half past three o'clock Thursday afternoon after several hours delay on Puget Sound owing to fog. They received a royal and picturesque welcome by both local Japanese and Americans who crowded every dock on the waterfront and lined the street and the Japanese party passed through in a string of automobiles.

According to the St. Paul Phonograph-Press the village of Danneberg has been added to the list of "dry" towns in the Loup river section, as the recently elected board is in favor of ousting the saloons and keeping them ousted. Danneberg is now a "dry" town.

We learn that Joe Francl, who has been having poor health for some weeks, is not getting any better, and that he is contemplating going to Omaha with his mother some time next week and consulting a specialist. We trust that he will be sufficiently improved upon his return home to resume work.

Fackler & Finley, the grocers. Providers of the best obtainable in pure food products. New lot of choice California extracted honey. Also fancy honey in the comb. Standard table pears in syrup, 2 cans for 25 cents. Try the new Egg-O-See, corn flaked and toasted, crisp and elegant in flavor. The largest 10-cent package of the flake family. We expect strawberries to be in regular supply this week. Also lettuce and radishes.

Dandelions are coming out in fine feather, as yellow and beautiful as ever. If these flowers were not so plentiful they would be admired.

Arcadia has raised the license and business tax fee on saloons to $1500. Even at that price there are several people who want to go into the business.

Frank McCormack, who has been working at the carpenter trade for Ralph Whited for a couple of months, returned to his home in Burwell Saturday night.

Sunday was an ideal day for the automobilist, pedestrian and the fellow with the rubber tired buggy, and many were taking advantage of the balmy atmosphere.

The Danish Lutheran people will hold services at the Presbyterian church on Thursday, May 9, at 1:00 p. m. Rev. Jensen of Elba will preach. All are cordially invited.

C. F. Sargent was in Omaha and bought two more fine full-blooded Hereford cows and brought them up to Ord last week Thursday. With the one he bought at the Firkins sale he now has three good ones.

The cases of Hall & Heuck's and White & Harris's applications for saloon licenses were set for trial Monday morning, but after some wrangling the cases were postponed for a few days. The case of Hall & Heuck was set for hearing on Friday of this week and that of White & Harris for Thursday of next week.

The band has purchased a monster bass horn, which arrived Saturday evening and was placed on exhibition for a couple of hours in the front window of the postoffice. It is safe to assert that the base player of the organization will hereafter be heard to advantage no matter how many cornets and other little horns are trying to drown him out.

George White came home from Omaha Saturday night, where he has been attending the Omaha Dental college for a year or two, for a few days' visit with his parents on Spring Creek. At the expiration of his visit in this vicinity he intends to leave for the southeastern part of the state with the view of finding a suitable location for the practice of his profession.

In expression of their good will and for her services in aiding them in their recent theatrical venture the eleventh grade presented Miss Hattie Worley with fifteen pieces of silverware of exquisite fashion and design. Each piece contained one of the names of the fifteen members of the class and the initials H. W. were on all of the pieces. It is needless to say that she prizes the gift greatly.

The cement foundation and the frame work for A. J. Firkins' barn just back of where his new house is to stand has been reared to view. The barn will be built first so as to afford a workshop and a store room for the work on the residence. We have been casting about for a suitable name for this proposed new mansion, and have concluded to name the premises "Butter Tub Heights." We don't propose to have any fancy names on "Buzzard's Roost" 11-1t.

Champion is authorized to say positively that a new bank will be opened for business in Arcadia the coming year, application for the same having already been made to the state banking board. The location has not yet been definitely settled and we are not at liberty at this time to state the locations in prospect. But the news that Arcadia is going to have another bank is absolutely authentic and developments in the starting of it can be looked for at an early date.—Arcadia Champion.

Her Sufferings Have Passed.
DIED—Mrs. Percival Ball, on Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Minnie Gertrude Hardesty was born in Worthington, Ind., September 21, 1870, where she lived till 19 years of age. In 1889 she came to Garfield county with her mother and on May 4, 1890, was married to Percival Ball of that county. Excepting for the past two years they have lived there and in Ord. Her health had been poor ever since childhood, when she was sick with typhoid fever from the effects of which she never recovered. Two years ago they went to Missouri in hope that the change would be beneficial, but this hope was not realized. She was contented there, however, till a few weeks ago, when she requested to come back to Ord, arriving here a week ago last Saturday. Of the several children born to them all died in infancy except a little daughter one year old. This child is very small, weighing now only ten pounds, but since their return to Ord the little one is showing marked signs of improvement.

Liked His Lecture.
Rev. Mr. Eaton, pastor of the Ord Christian church, preached for the S. D. B. people last seventh-day and in the evening lectured at the church. Owing to the cold day his congregation in the morning was hardly a representative one, but those present listened to a splendid sermon. The audience in the evening was not so large as the one which greeted the speaker in the morning. The speaker held the breathless attention of those present while he drew comparisons between the life of Ingersol and Moody. The lecture was one of the best we have had here this winter, and if an admission fee had been charged a large crowd would have been present. You who were not there missed a rare treat. It is hoped Mr. Eaton may again be induced to come down to talk to us.—North Loup Loyalist.

4th Prize: A dozen of the Mutter studios best $5 photographs. They are good ones.

2 Special Prizes: We want new subscribers and as a special inducement to contestants to secure them will give to the one securing the largest number of new subscribers their choice of a Fifty-Dollar International Correspondence School certificate or Ten Dollars in Gold; the person getting the second largest number of new subscribers to have prize left after first prize winner's selection.

WHO MAY ENTER THE CONTEST.

Any lady or girl residing in Valley county, except residents of Ord, will be permitted to enter this contest. No person living in Ord will be permitted to become a contestant. Ord people may vote in this contest and all contestants have the privilege of soliciting votes in Ord as well as elsewhere. It will probably take a few weeks to get this contest organized and get the voting under good headway; after that, a couple of months ought to be enough to cover the county thoroughly; and as soon as this work is done the contest will close and prizes will be awarded.

HOW TO SECURE VOTES.

For each cent paid to the Quiz to renew a subscription, ten votes will be allowed: $1.00 paid will equal 1000 votes; 1.50 (the price of one year's subscription) will equal 1500 votes, etc.

For every cent paid on the Quiz on new subscription (that is by someone not already a subscriber) twenty votes will be allowed: $1.00 will equal 2000 votes and 1.50 will equal 3000 votes.

The payment of advance subscription entitles to extra votes as follows:

Five years fully paid in advance.....2,000 extra votes.
Ten years fully paid in advance.....5,000 extra votes.
Fifteen years fully paid in advance.....10,000 extra votes.

VOTING CARDS.

When the subscription money is received at the Quiz office a voting card filled out in ink will be issued. This card may then be cast in the ballot box for some one of the contestants, or it may be taken away from the office and voted at any time before the close of the contest, or it may be taken away and burnt up, torn up or anything that the holder wishes to do with it. There will be no duplicate votes issued and no votes will be counted or published in the paper until they have been cast in the ballot box in our office.

TWO PAPERS FOR THE PRICE OF ONE.

The price of the Quiz is $1.50 per year. We have made special arrangements with the Nebraska Farmer, of Lincoln, whereby they take an active part in this contest, and we will combine the two papers and give our subscribers the benefit of getting two papers at the $1.50 per year rate.

The Nebraska Farmer is the best farm and family paper for a Nebraskan to take. It comes weekly and is stopped promptly at the time your subscription expires.

DATE OF CLOSING CONTEST.

This contest will close on Saturday, August 3, at 6 o'clock p. m. and all votes must be in the box at that time. Should there be a tie between the contestants on the counting of the votes August 3, the contest will continue one week, until August 10, at the same hour.

POKE BERRIES.

The Plight of the Partridge That Had Been Eating Them.

One night a little after dusk as we were about to go into the house our younger brother saw something dark moving behind the dog kennel. The older boy reached in as far as he could, and with the help of his father, who stood at the other end of the kennel, he drew out a fluttering female partridge that acted so queerly we could not make out what was the matter, for she did not seem to be hurt. There were no blood stains on her feathers, no marks anywhere, but she could neither walk nor fly, and, what was the strangest of all, she did not appear frightened, and every one, I think, knows that nothing living is shier than a partridge. We marveled at the sight as she sat quietly in the older boy's hand, breathing very fast, but showing absolutely no fear.

Suddenly our younger boy exclaimed: "Oh, I know what ails her! She's drunk! She's been eating poke berries!" Sure enough. We had all read about partridges getting drunk on poke berries, but had forgotten it.

We took her into the house, and she sat on the table while we ate our supper. How indescribably funny she looked sitting there by my plate, allowing me to stroke her smooth, brown mottled back, permitting—the wild woods thing—familiarities from each one of us! Poor, helpless, drunken little dame! Her bill would partly open and shut, and if we put her up on her feet she would sway and totter, with half closed eyes and drooping tail and wings. How we laughed, and how we regretted that we had no camera and so were unable to take her picture! What a chance for Mr. Job! Not another such chance would any one be likely to have in a lifetime!

As I held her up against my face and felt the soft, faint little puffs of breath from her bill against my cheek, she seemed the very spirit of quintessence of all that is woody—shy, remote and inaccessible—and yet there she was, right in my hands—dozily, dizzily, dauntlessly drunk! —B. A. Hitchcock in Outing Magazine.

The History of the Kite.

The invention of the kite is usually attributed to the Chinese. The first man on actual record as having used the kite is Archytas (about 400 B. C.). For what purpose he employed it I have been unable to ascertain, but it is not probable that he accomplished anything of scientific importance, and it was not until 1749, when Dr. Alexander Wilson and Mr. Thomas Melville in Scotland used it for taking the temperature of the upper air, that the kite showed possibilities of becoming a useful and scientific apparatus. Franklin's well known experiment of obtaining atmospheric electricity by means of a kite again drew attention to it. It is, however, within the last decade that the kite has gained nearly all of its importance, and this is due to its development by men who have studied it and the forces acting upon it in a scientific way. Among others may be named Marvin, Langley, Hargrave and Eddy. By their labors a hitherto useless toy has become an important scientific apparatus.—Exchange.

A Long Legged Deer.

A huge, finely mounted antlered head hung just above the sideboard in the dining room. This trophy of some huntsman's skill was fastened so firmly to the wall that the glistening neck seemed to be coming right out through the plaster. Robert, who was seeing this decoration for the first time, eyed it with lively curiosity and very evident uneasiness. It looked almost too life-like for comfort.

Finally the boy, asking to be excused, slipped from his chair, tiptoed into the next room and then, flushing with embarrassment, returned to his place at the table.

"What's the trouble, Robert?" asked his host.

"I wanted to see," explained candid Robert sheepishly, "if that animal's legs were really as long as that or if he were standing on something in another room."

IN THE SICK ROOM

SIMPLE DIRECTIONS FOR THE HOME NURSE.

Proper Way to Make Bed and Change Linen Without Discomfort to the Patient—Preparing and Giving Food.

There is one important duty for the nurse before the patient is ready to begin her day. The bed must be made. Let us suppose that it is time for fresh linen. Remove the pillows, then roll the patient to the edge of the bed, keeping her still warmly wrapped in the bath blanket. Fold the exposed part of the lower sheet over to the middle of the bed; then gently move the patient across it to the other side, and pull the sheet off. Put on the new one in the same way—half at a time. Slip on the fresh pillow cover and put the pillow under her head. Remove the bath blanket and quickly replace it by the clean upper sheet, the blankets and the spread. And then the patient lies, as bright and fresh as a morning glory, feeling on the whole that she has just had a rather good time.

We will say that it is now breakfast time. If the invalid is able to sit up, the nurse should assist her to this position by slipping her arm under her neck, so that the patient's shoulder rests on her own, and her own hand clasps the body under the arm. Suppose the nurse is using her left arm for this. Next, she should replace it by her right, across the patient's chest this time, to support her while she uses her left to pile the pillows high and firm behind. In the operation she holds the patient much as she would a child in her lap. The covers should then be tucked warmly about her form, and a warm shawl thrown over her shoulders. A little device can easily be made to take the place of a table. This is merely a light board, about two feet square, with four legs about ten inches high. Cover this neatly with a cloth and set it across the patient's lap. She will find it far more comfortable than trying to support her tray in a perilous position on her knees.

PROPER CARE OF LINOLEUM.

Material Does Not Need Scrubbing to Remove Dirt.

Linoleum, while not an expensive floor covering, is a very neat and desirable one.

Good linoleum, properly cared for, should wear at least five years on a kitchen floor, provided, of course, that the usage is not extremely hard.

In cleaning this floor covering the fact should be borne in mind that the dirt is only on the smooth varnished surface and needs no scrubbing with soap or other strong agent to remove it.

Wiping with flannel, wrung from warm water, or half water and half milk, will remove all germs. A mop is not good for wiping floors unless a cloth is used to wipe the baseboard and molding after the mopping. If this is not done the wood soon becomes streaked and dirty. A good furniture polish applied twice a year will be beneficial to the linoleum.

LITTLE HOUSEHOLD TIPS.

Weak soapsuds or aqua ammonia will clean bronze statuary or bronze ornaments in the fine lines where dust has collected.

A weak solution of turpentine poured down the water pipes once a week will drive the water bugs away.

Nail stains may be removed from wood by scrubbing the wood with a solution of oxalic acid, half a pint of acid to a quart of boiling water.

Salt thrown into the oven immediately after anything has been burned in it will make the objectionable odor less disagreeable.

About Stoves.

If you use stoves in the house and they will not be in use this summer, do not try to clean them with stove polish, but give them a good coating of black varnish. It is much nicer than polish and will look well all summer. By fall, when fires are needed, the varnish will be so hard and dry that no unpleasant odor will be noticeable when the fires are started. The sides of the kitchen stove, or range can be treated in the same manner, but the top must be polished with stove polish.

Folding the Table Cloth.

Table cloths usually wear at the folds before they begin to show signs of wear generally. It is true that the folds are not always made in exactly the same places, even by the same laundress, but they usually are, and at any rate the center fold always comes in the same place. It is a good plan after a time to cut a small piece off one side and one end of the cloth, for this insures all the folds being made in new places in the future, thus giving the cloth a fresh start, says an exchange.

Tea Punch.

Make a good infusion of tea with four teaspoonfuls of the best mixed tea and a quart of boiling water. After it has drawn four minutes strain it from the leaves and cool. Fill the punchbowl half way to the top with cracked ice, stir in a cupful of granulated sugar and the strained juice of four lemons. The tea goes in next, and just before it is served a pint of some good table water.

ADVICE TO RHEUMATICS

Noted Physician Tells How to Prevent and Cure Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder Troubles.

(By Geo. Edmund Flood, M. D.)

If you would avoid Rheumatism and Kidney and Bladder Troubles, be moderate in the consumption of heavy, rich foods, substitute as far as possible soups, broths, fresh milk and drink water—lots of water. Take plenty of time to eat, and don't eat after you have had enough, even if it does taste good. If your work is confining take a moderate amount of exercise each day in the open air.

Of course, neither diet, water, rest nor exercise will cure these afflictions. I advise them as preventives only. For the benefit of the readers of this article who are now afflicted with Rheumatism, Kidney, Bladder or Urinary trouble, and desire to be cured quickly, I give below, complete in every detail, the famous prescription which has made me so successful in the treatment of these diseases. It is the most certain cure for these diseases that I have ever used. It is pleasant to take, it is not expensive, it can be filled by any druggist, and I believe it is the greatest prescription for Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder Trouble ever written. It is also a valuable spring tonic and blood purifier. If you are a sufferer, save this, take it to your druggist and have it filled, or get the ingredients and mix them at home.

Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, ¼ ounce.

Concentrated Barkola Compound, 1 ounce.

Fluid Extract Prickly Ash Bark, ¼ drachm.

Aromatic Elixir, 4 ounces.

Adult dose, take one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime; children, one-fourth to one-half teaspoonful after meals.

After you are cured follow the advice I have given you in regard to diet, exercise and water, and you will not need the services of a physician again for these ailments.

Other papers are entitled to copy.

THE DIFFERENCE IN TASTE.

Dogs Prized as Edible in China Are Here Fashion's Pets.

"He is the real thing in the way of a chow," said she. "Father bought him for me in Shanghai. Did you know they ate them there?"

"I had heard that the Chinese ate dogs, but I thought it was a fake, like the story of their eating rats."

"No; it is the truth. They do eat dogs, but only the chow variety."

"Chow," you know, means "edible." Yes, they eat chows. In every butcher shop you see chows' carcasses hung up, the same as we hang up the carcasses of pigs. The flesh is white."

"White?"

"Yes; like veal. The Chinese raise chows for food and feed them only soft, washy stuff, mashed vegetables and bread and milk. No meat whatever. Hence the white flesh."

"Notice Wu's black tongue. Well, chow tongue is a Chinese delicacy. They make soup of it. But it is very expensive, like our turtle soup, and it is only eaten by the rich."

"Isn't it strange that a dog so fashionable with us should be only an article of food in China?"

IN WESTERN CANADA.

Delicate in the Old Home; Better Health in the New.

Churchbridge, Sask.,

December 1st, 1906.

To the Editor,

Dear Sir,

I came to this country from the State of Wisconsin three years ago, and must say that I am greatly pleased with the outlook in this western country. For my own part I am entirely satisfied with the progress I have made since coming here. I have raised excellent crops of grain of all varieties. Last season my wheat averaged 23 bushels of wheat to the acre, oats 60 and barley 40.

We had a splendid garden this year, ripening successfully tomatoes, muskmelons, water melons, sweet corn and kindred sorts.

The country is well adapted to wheat growing and mixed farming, and to my mind it is the best country under the sun for a man with a family and small means, as it is possible for a man to commence farming operations with much less capital than is required in the older settled countries.

The climate is all that could be desired, being very healthy and invigorating.

My wife came out about six months ago, and although inclined to be delicate in the old home, she has enjoyed the best of health since coming here.

In short, I am more than satisfied with the land of my adoption, and I am also satisfied with the laws of the country.

Yours very truly,

"THE MARRYING SQUIRE."

Justice Geo. E. Law, of Brazil, Ind., Has Married 1400 Couples.

Justice Geo. E. Law, of Brazil, Ind., has fairly earned the title "The Marrying Squire," by which he is known far and wide, having already married some 1400 couples. Ten years ago he was Deputy County Treasurer. "At that time," said Justice Law, "I was suffering from an annoying kidney trouble. My back ached, my rest was broken at night, and the passages of the kidney secretions were too frequent and contained sediment. Three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me in 1897, and for the past nine years I have been free from kidney complaint and backache."

Fighting with Ants.

The Indians of the Mauritius dispose of termites, or white ants, in this manner: When they see their covered way approaching a building, they drop a train of syrup from this way to the nearest nest of black ants. The first ones that see the syrup follow it up till they reach the termite passage. They return to their nest, and in a few hours a black army starts out for the white ant stronghold. With great fury they rush into the galleries, and in a short time entirely destroy the enemy, and each one, on its way home, carries a dead termite, probably to eat.

One Way.

A reverend gentleman was addressing a Sunday school class not long ago, and was trying to enforce the doctrine that when people's hearts were sinful they needed regulating. Taking out his watch, and holding it up, he said:

"Now, here's my watch; suppose it doesn't keep good time—now goes too fast, and now too slow—what shall I do with it?"

"Sell it," promptly replied a boy—Harper's Magazine.

The extraordinary popularity of fine white goods this summer makes the choice of Starch a matter of great importance. Deffance Starch, being free from all injurious chemicals, is the only one which is safe to use on fine fabrics. Its great strength as a stiffener makes half the usual quantity of Starch necessary, with the result of perfect finish, equal to that when the goods were new.

Youthful Head of State.

The Hon. Richard McBride, premier of British Columbia, whose government has emerged successfully from a general election, is the youngest prime minister in King Edward's dominions. He is only 36, and he achieved the premiership four years ago, after having held a subordinate office as minister of mines.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Healy's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional Cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful, it acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists.

Would Grow Tobacco in Ireland.

An effort is being made under direction of William Redmond to repeal the law which prohibits the growing of tobacco in Ireland. It is held that soil and climatic conditions in Ireland are favorable to the production of a good quality of tobacco, and that its cultivation can be made profitable.

With a smooth iron and Deffance Starch, you can launder your shirt-waist just as well at home as the steam laundry can; it will have the proper stiffness and finish, there will be less wear and tear of the goods, and it will be a positive pleasure to use a Starch that does not stick to the iron.

The men and women nurses in the Paris hospitals have issued a notice demanding better pay and treatment, and indicating that they will strike if their demands are not met.

Coach Horras Joins Fox Chase.

They had some spirited horses in the old coaching days. Just 100 years ago a remarkable proof of this was given, and fortunately recorded for the astonishment of later motoring generations, in the case of the Liverpool mail coach. Horses were changed at Monk's Heath, between Newcastle-under-Lyme, says the London Tribune.

On this particular occasion a pack of foxhounds was heard in full cry just as the horses from Congleton were freed from the coach, and they started off with the harness on their backs and followed the run to the finish. One of them, a blood mare, stuck close to the whipper-in and took every jump after him through the two hours. And in the evening they took the return coach to Congleton as merrily as if they had been in the stable all the time.

Laundry work at home would be much more satisfactory if the right Starch were used. In order to get the desired stiffness, it is usually necessary to use so much starch that the beauty and fineness of the fabric is hidden behind a paste of varying thickness, which not only destroys the appearance, but also affects the wearing quality of the goods. This trouble can be entirely overcome by using Deffance Starch, as it can be applied much more thinly because of its greater strength than other makes.

Court's Acoustics Bad.

The acoustic properties of the courtrooms in London's new criminal courts building are so bad, it is said, that the other day a prisoner who had been sentenced to six months thought he had been sentenced to 12. He said to a warden: "One of the beaks gave me six months and another of 'em gave me six months before." Also, besides echoes, "reverberations" are complained of.

That an article may be good as well as cheap, and give entire satisfaction, is proven by the extraordinary sale of Deffance Starch, each package containing one-third more Starch than can be had of any other brand for the same money.

Kite Control.

Kite control within certain prescribed limits has been accomplished in France by means of a "deviator," and this makes the kite available for life saving purposes. A severe test was given to the device some time ago at Royan, on the east coast of France, and wonderful things were accomplished.

HEALTH OF WOMEN

In this nineteenth century to keep up with the march of progress every power of woman is strained to its utmost, and the tax upon her physical system is far greater than ever.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers few drugs were used in medicines. They relied upon roots and herbs to cure weaknesses and disease, and their knowledge of roots and herbs was far greater than that of women today.

It was in this study of roots and herbs that Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., discovered and gave to the women of the world a remedy more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

MRS. C. E. FINK

is an honest, tried and true remedy of unquestionable therapeutic value.

This medicine made from native roots and herbs contains no narcotics or other harmful drugs and today holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any medicine the world has ever known, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the laboratory at Lynn, Mass., which testify to its wonderful value.

Mrs. C. E. Fink, of Carnegie, Pa., writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—"I wish every suffering woman would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and write to you for advice. It has done me a world of good and what it has accomplished for me I know it will do for others."

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Out of her vast volume of experience she probably has the very knowledge that will help your case.

THE VALUE OF PERSONAL KNOWLEDGE

Personal knowledge is the winning factor in the culminating contests of this competitive age and when of ample character it places its fortunate possessor in the front ranks of

The Well Informed of the World.

A vast fund of personal knowledge is really essential to the achievement of the highest excellence in any field of human effort.

A Knowledge of Forms, Knowledge of Functions and Knowledge of Products are all of the utmost value and in questions of life and health when a true and wholesome remedy is desired it should be remembered that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., is an ethical product which has met with the approval of the most eminent physicians and gives universal satisfaction, because it is a remedy of Known Quality, Known Excellence and Known Component Parts and has won the valuable patronage of millions of the Well Informed of the world, who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual use that it is the first and best of family laxatives, for which no extravagant or unreasonable claims are made.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent family laxative. As its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well Informed of the world to be the best we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of—Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects, always note, when purchasing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, whether you call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

Quiz Piano Voting Contest

2nd Prize: A fine gold watch from the stock of Geo. A. Parkins. The Parkins store only handles good ones and this is one of his best.

4th Prize: A dozen of the Mutter studios best $5 photographs. They are good ones.

2 Special Prizes: We want new subscribers and as a special inducement to contestants to secure them will give to the one securing the largest number of new subscribers their choice of a Fifty-Dollar International Correspondence School certificate or Ten Dollars in Gold; the person getting the second largest number of new subscribers to have prize left after first prize winner's selection.

WHO MAY ENTER THE CONTEST.

Any lady or girl residing in Valley county, except residents of Ord, will be permitted to enter this contest. No person living in Ord will be permitted to become a contestant. Ord people may vote in this contest and all contestants have the privilege of soliciting votes in Ord as well as elsewhere. It will probably take a few weeks to get this contest organized and get the voting under good headway; after that, a couple of months ought to be enough to cover the county thoroughly; and as soon as this work is done the contest will close and prizes will be awarded.

HOW TO SECURE VOTES.

For each cent paid to the Quiz to renew a subscription, ten votes will be allowed: $1.00 paid will equal 1000 votes; 1.50 (the price of one year's subscription) will equal 1500 votes, etc.

For every cent paid on the Quiz on new subscription (that is by someone not already a subscriber) twenty votes will be allowed: $1.00 will equal 2000 votes and 1.50 will equal 3000 votes.

The payment of advance subscription entitles to extra votes as follows:

Five years fully paid in advance.....2,000 extra votes.
Ten years fully paid in advance.....5,000 extra votes.
Fifteen years fully paid in advance.....10,000 extra votes.

VOTING CARDS.

When the subscription money is received at the Quiz office a voting card filled out in ink will be issued. This card may then be cast in the ballot box for some one of the contestants, or it may be taken away from the office and voted at any time before the close of the contest, or it may be taken away and burnt up, torn up or anything that the holder wishes to do with it. There will be no duplicate votes issued and no votes will be counted or published in the paper until they have been cast in the ballot box in our office.

TWO PAPERS FOR THE PRICE OF ONE.

The price of the Quiz is $1.50 per year. We have made special arrangements with the Nebraska Farmer, of Lincoln, whereby they take an active part in this contest, and we will combine the two papers and give our subscribers the benefit of getting two papers at the $1.50 per year rate.

The Nebraska Farmer is the best farm and family paper for a Nebraskan to take. It comes weekly and is stopped promptly at the time your subscription expires.

DATE OF CLOSING CONTEST.

This contest will close on Saturday, August 3, at 6 o'clock p. m. and all votes must be in the box at that time. Should there be a tie between the contestants on the counting of the votes August 3, the contest will continue one week, until August 10, at the same hour.

POKE BERRIES.

The Plight of the Partridge That Had Been Eating Them.

One night a little after dusk as we were about to go into the house our younger brother saw something dark moving behind the dog kennel. The older boy reached in as far as he could, and with the help of his father, who stood at the other end of the kennel, he drew out a fluttering female partridge that acted so queerly we could not make out what was the matter, for she did not seem to be hurt. There were no blood stains on her feathers, no marks anywhere, but she could neither walk nor fly, and what was the strangest of all, she did not appear frightened, and every one, I think, knows that nothing living is shier than a partridge. We marveled at the sight as she sat quietly in the older boy's hand, breathing very fast, but showing absolutely no fear.

Suddenly our younger boy exclaimed: "Oh, I know what ails her! She's drunk! She's been eating poke berries!" Sure enough. We had all read about partridges getting drunk on poke berries, but had forgotten it.

We took her into the house, and she sat on the table while we ate our supper. How indescribably funny she looked sitting there by my plate, allowing me to stroke her smooth, brown mottled back, permitting—the wild woods thing—familiarities from each one of us! Poor, helpless, drunken little dame! Her bill would partly open and shut, and if we put her up on her feet she would sway and totter, with half closed eyes and drooping tail and wings. How we laughed, and how we regretted that we had no camera and so were unable to take her picture! What a chance for Mr. Job! Not another such chance would any one be likely to have in a lifetime!

As I held her up against my face and felt the soft, faint little puffs of breath from her bill against my cheek, she seemed the very spirit of quaintness of all that is woody—shy, remote and inaccessible—and yet there she was, right in my hands—dozily, dizzily, dauntlessly drunk! —B. A. Hitchcock in Outing Magazine.

The History of the Kite.

The invention of the kite is usually attributed to the Chinese. The first man on actual record as having used the kite is Archytas (about 400 B. C.). For what purpose he employed it I have been unable to ascertain, but it is not probable that he accomplished anything of scientific importance, and it was not until 1749, when Dr. Alexander Wilson and Mr. Thomas Melville in Scotland used it for taking the temperature of the upper air, that the kite showed possibilities of becoming a useful and scientific apparatus. Franklin's well known experiment of obtaining atmospheric electricity by means of a kite again drew attention to it. It is, however, within the last decade that the kite has gained nearly all of its importance, and this is due to its development by men who have studied it and the forces acting upon it in a scientific way. Among others may be named Marvin, Langley, Hargrave and Eddy. By their labors a hitherto useless toy has become an important scientific apparatus.—Exchange.

A Long Legged Deer.

A huge, finely mounted antlered head hung just above the sideboard in the dining room. This trophy of some huntsman's skill was fastened so firmly to the wall that the glistening neck seemed to be coming right out through the plaster. Robert, who was seeing this decoration for the first time, eyed it with lively curiosity and very evident uneasiness. It looked almost too life-like for comfort.

Finally the boy, asking to be excused, slipped from his chair, tipped into the next room and then, flushing with embarrassment, returned to his place at the table.

"What's the trouble, Robert?" asked his host.

"I wanted to see," explained candid Robert sheepishly, "if that animal's legs were really as long as that or if he were standing on something in another room."

NEWS NOTES OVER THE CITY

Elyria Items.

Mrs. John Collison of Ord visited at the Fort Sunday.

Charley Wozafak was in Ord Sunday.

Mrs. May Ballard accompanied her Sunday school class of boys to Ord to get their picture taken in a group.

Will Johnson was in town one day recently.

Mrs. Bales of Burwell visited at J. W. Gray's on Saturday.

E. Dodge was in Ord Wednesday.

Julia Rikoski and Francis Ringkoski were in Ord Wednesday.

Mr. Currey and his helpers are plastering Joe Cienny's house.

Perry Dodge went to work with the bridge gang Monday.

Springdale News.

Jennie Turner entered school Monday morning. This is her first experience in the school room but she is proving to be a very apt pupil.

W. N. Hawkins departed for Holt county Monday. He expects to return home Saturday.

C. O. Turner is materially improving the appearance of his farm. He has fenced his feed lots with hog fence and has also placed a neat woven wire fence around his house. At present he is building a bay window in the dining room of the house. Mr. Turner, like all other up-to-date farmers, realizes that well equipped and well arranged feed yards and other improvements makes farm life more pleasant and in the last analysis more profitable.

All grades in school are doing specimen work for the school exhibit which will be held on Patrons' Day, May 17.

C. C. Haught and father David Haught went to North Loup Saturday to spend Sunday with Joe Haught. C. C. returned Sunday but his father will remain for a few days.

The fourth and fifth grades had a test in geography Monday. The test was limited to the continent of Africa, which grand division the class has just completed.

Rev. Fox of North Loup occupied the pulpit at Springdale Sunday afternoon. Rev. Wimberley accompanied him. All of the latter's recent parishioners in Springdale were glad to see their former pastor. He informs them that he is undecided as to what he will do for the present. Mr. Wimberley has a host of admirers in this locality who hold him in high esteem both as pastor and friend, and who regret that failing health compels him to resign his pastorate.

Norman Holt has returned from South Dakota. The country was not what he anticipated it to be and he is once more back at the old stamping ground in Valley county.

The Springdale choir had its practice at the home of H. D. Stowell Saturday evening. Mr. Stowell is to be highly commended for the great interest he takes in assisting the young people in music.

The aid society of the Springdale Methodist church held its regular May meeting at the home of Mrs. O. M. Seely on Wednesday, May 1, both afternoon and evening. A good social time was enjoyed by all. From a financial standpoint this meeting was also a success, quite a neat sum being raised for the church. The next meeting of the society will be held at the home of Mrs. William Timmerman.

Gus Beck is doing carpenter work for C. O. Turner this week.

W. L. Smith has completed his new well. Frank Stewart of Ord had charge of the construction.

The pupils of the Springdale school are planning to celebrate the last day of the school year of 1906-'07, May 17, in fitting style. A Patron's Day exercise has been planned. The festivities begin at 12:30 p. m. with an exhibition of school work. All patrons and friends are invited to look over specimens of work done during the year. Immediately following this will be the program. The closing event of the day will consist of a ball game between the Ord school and Springdale. Every patron in Springdale school district is especially urged to be present. Invite your friends to come and spend a pleasant day with you.

"Bachelorism" in this community was dealt a very severe blow recently. One of its strongest adherents, Mr. Lee Cronk, has at last succumbed to the influence of the fair ones. Judging from the suspicious loads of merchandise that were passing our doors, the casual observer did not necessarily have to develop into a Pinkerton detective to infer that an ordeal of this nature was to take place in the near future. After arrangements had been made the gentleman in question hid himself to Greeley county and at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Barnes, was united in marriage to Miss Bartha Barnes on the afternoon of April 20. The happy young couple came to Springdale on the 21st inst. They immediately set up housekeeping and are now at home on the W. N. Hawkins farm eight miles north-east of Ord. The community extends best wishes to these young people.

A pleasant surprise was given to Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cronk by their Springdale friends on Monday evening, May 6. An excellent time was reported by those present.

Rosevale News.

Our singing school was not very well attended last Wednesday night. We do not know why the people who wish to learn how to sing do not turn out and take a part in this matter.

A dance was given at the home of E. Hurlbert Friday evening. A good time is reported.

B. F. Hallock of Ord has been helping his son Harry build fence for the last few days.

Harry Abernethy helped Rev. Flowers paper his house one day last week.

Frank Hallock helped put up the Rosedale barn last Friday.

A. J. Swanson was mail carrier last Saturday.

Estella Woods is at home at present on a visit. Ethel May is filling her place in the store.

Everybody is invited to attend the revival meetings at Burwell conducted by Revs. Jones and Keifer.

A Pulpit Symposium of Public Opinions.

Ord, Nebr., April 22, 1907.
My dear sir—I am making the following request believing that some of the truths of God come to us through the experience and conscientious thinking of our neighbors. I open my pulpit to the promulgation of such a message. I desire to conduct a symposium of public opinions at some early date on the subject, "Graft, Gambling and Speculation," or "something for nothing." I am asking thirty leading citizens of Ord to express themselves confidentially as suggested below. I shall endeavor to present your expressions to the public as fairly and clearly as possible from my pulpit, hoping that the public conscience may be quickened and truth and righteousness may triumph over thoughtlessness and indifference to virtue. Your name will not be mentioned publicly nor privately if you so desire. May I depend on you to state your opinions and convictions guided by the enclosed questions? Cordially yours, Walter N. Halsey, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

This letter, we understand, has been quite generally and fully answered. The light thrown on the subject from the diverse experiences and thinking of many minds will make this address more than usually profitable and interesting, and will show the state of the public conscience in these important matters. Rev. Halsey announces that this symposium will occur Sunday evening, May 12, at the Presbyterian church. Seats are free and no one need hesitate to come, for all are cordially welcome.

Umbrella Tinker Tinkers With too Much Tanglefoot, Tanks Up, Takes Wrong Coat.

Yesterday word came to town soon after the arrival of the U. P. freight that someone thereon had stolen a coat belonging to another passenger, and placing suspicion on a tinkerer who was seen to be on the train. Accordingly Marshal Heuck went around the east part of the city and soon had his man located, he having jumped off the train at the crossing. The coat was in his sack, which was good enough evidence against him to hold him. He was promptly landed in jail, where he was retained till this morning in order to get the name of the complainant. The fellow gave his name as Charles D. Kelley, his business ostensibly being to make hat racks and clothes hangers. He admitted his guilt and offered in explanation that he had been taking on too much Scotch whiskey. He will probably be a boarder with sheriff Sutton for a week or so. This morning he pleaded guilty and was sent to jail for ten days.

The contractor who will build the gas plant, changing the process to water gas, was in the city Wednesday night and closed up all final arrangements. The work will be commenced at once and will be done by the middle of July or sooner. They have changed the Norfolk system to the Tenny process and they are just completing the same work for the Central City plant. The soaring price of gasoline is driving all the gasoline gas companies to make the change, which is the best thing anyway. The new gas will be a great deal hotter for cooking purposes than other gases and with the plant put in as proposed gas can be made much more cheaply and will be sold accordingly. With the change made the gas company is sure of a great increase of business. The truth is that no special effort has been made for some time to increase the business because it was like swapping dollars to do business. With a reasonable profit in sight and enabled to still sell gas very much cheaper than now there is no difficulty in seeing a great growth of business, for the company will go after the business.

BAR STREET PREACHING

Boise Authorities Taking no Chances of Trouble During Moyer, Haywood Trial.

MILITIA AND REGULARS CLOSE AT HAND

So Far There Has Been No Indication of Possible Disorder But the City is Filling Up With Strangers and Trouble May Occur at Any Time. Many Reporters Present.

Boise, Idaho, May 8.—As a precautionary measure, street speaking of preaching will be stopped in Boise during the trial of William D. Haywood and the other leaders of Western Federation of Miners for the alleged murder of Frank Steunenberg. It is feared that freedom of speech in the street may lead to local agitation for or against the prisoners and possible disorders and Mayor Haines has decided that it will be better to issue and enforce a strict order covering the matter. The city continues entirely quiet and there is not the slightest indication of possible disorder. The occasional crank is the man feared rather than any concerted or suddenly aroused general movement. Police and detectives watch the railroad and highways entering the city and it is the general belief that they will be able at all times to fully control the situation. Behind them is an experienced militia and two troops of United States cavalry quartered at a permanent post within the city limits but there is not the slightest apprehension that their services will be required, nor has the military been instructed to hold themselves in readiness. In fact, the governor the mayor and the people of Boise decline to believe that under any circumstances, the peace will be broken.

Judge Fremont Wood has given no indication to either side as to what his decision may be in the matter of the bill of particulars asked for by the defense and argued Monday. Should this motion be granted there will undoubtedly be considerable delay in opening the case, as the defense would ask for a postponement until they can secure other witnesses. In the course of his argument Monday, Clarence Darrow, counsel for the defense, intimated that delay would be asked for should the motion be granted. Lawyers not connected with the case are of the opinion that the motion for the bill will not be granted, however.

The city is rapidly filling up. Witnesses are arriving, many of them from a long distance. The newspapermen and magazine writers, many of them have engaged houses or flats for several months in the opinion that the case will take three months to try.

Fatal B. & O. Collision.
Wheeling, W. Va., May 8.—Train No. 7 on the Baltimore & Ohio, westbound, collided with a fast freight eastbound at Rosby's Rock, 18 miles east of here, Tuesday morning. J. L. Painter of Burton, W. Va., the express messenger, and C. G. Warner, baggage-master of Bellaire, Ohio, were killed outright. The engineer of the passenger train, C. A. Riley of Wheeling, was fatally injured and cannot live through the day.

A Tobacco Magnate Dead.
St. Louis, May 8.—Charles E. Halliwell, tobacco magnate, whose death occurred in New York early Tuesday, spent all his life in St. Louis until 1899, when he accepted a vice presidency of the American Tobacco company and went east. He entered the services of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco company as a boy in humble position and grew up with the business, finally attaining the position of vice president.

The Drug Trust Suit.
Indianapolis, May 8.—The hearing of testimony in the suit brought by the government in the federal court against the members of the so-called "Drug trust" was Tuesday postponed until Wednesday. It was agreed that a decree be filed against all of the 92 defendants granting the perpetual injunction asked for by the government. This will end the litigation.

For an Irish Council.
London, May 8.—The Irish council bill, the object of which is to "provide for the establishment and functions of an administrative council" at Dublin, was introduced in the house of commons Tuesday afternoon by the chief secretary for Ireland, Mr. Birrell, before an audience which crowded every corner of the house.

Another Kentucky Feud.
Middlesboro, Ky., May 8.—In a pitched battle on Sugar Island creek early Tuesday, John Howard and Martin Green were killed, and Eleanor Howard is said to have been fatally shot. Jim and George Green were also badly wounded. The fight was the result of an old feud.

Like Anderson Case.
St. Louis, May 8.—Holding that his case resembles that of William January of Kansas City, St. Louis friends of Clarence Abraham, alias Bert Gleason, are circulating a petition requesting his release from the penitentiary at Lansing, Kansas.

House Would Prevent Brewers Obtaining Saloon Licenses—Anti-Treating Bill to the Governor.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 8.—The house Monday passed a bill prohibiting agents of distillers and brewers from obtaining dramshop licenses. The senate passed a bill, which had already passed the house, making it a crime to procure fraudulent signatures to petitions or remonstrances for dramshops.

The Carter anti-treating bill, prohibiting the treating to liquor on the day of a general election or primary was passed and will go to the governor for his signature.

The house adopted a joint resolution by Biggs Monday afternoon providing for final adjournment of the two houses next Monday, May 13.

The bill appropriating $75,000 to pay expenses of the extra session, has passed the house and senate.

The senate passed a bill authorizing the governor to contract with attorney to press claims amounting to $2,000,000 in favor of the state and against the United States government.

The house committee on judiciary reported favorably a substitute for the senate bill providing a proceeding for the removal of derelict officials.

BANK TELLER SENTENCED.

A. R. Chisholm, of Birmingham, Ala., Guilty of Embezzling $100,000 From Bank.

Birmingham, Ala., May 8.—After having been out since 6 o'clock Monday evening, the jury in the case of Alex R. Chisholm, former paying teller, charged with having embezzled $100,000 from the First National bank of Birmingham, which sum, it is alleged, he lost in cotton speculation, brought in a verdict of guilty shortly after 10 o'clock Tuesday and fixed the punishment at six years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta. When asked if he had anything to say as to why sentence should not be pronounced, Chisholm arose and said that he regarded the verdict as a just one, that he was not crazy and never had been insane, but he regretted the affair very much. Sentence was then pronounced.

Their Conscience Hurt.

Denver, May 8.—Through the instrumentality of officials of the department of justice here, certain persons in a state farther east have surrendered to Assistant United States Attorney-General Burch the patents for and deeded back to the government voluntarily, between 1,000 and 2,000 acres of very valuable coal lands in Routt county, Colorado, for which nearly $100,000 had been offered them, the probable value being two or three times that amount. This was done after careful consultation by these persons with eminent counsel with whom they had advised and serves to indicate to the government officials that there is a great awakening of the public conscience in respect to lands acquired irregularly in the west.

Says Standard Oil Did It.

Topeka, Kan., May 8.—In the United States district court Monday an answer was filed to the petition asking that the Uncle Sam Oil company be declared a bankrupt concern. The answer which was filed by Attorneys for H. H. Tucker, Jr., denies that the company is bankrupt or that it committed an act of bankruptcy. It is alleged that the Standard Oil company, through its agents, attorneys and others conspired to ruin the Uncle Sam Oil company. The postoffice inspectors, Kent and Lenard, are charged with being in the conspiracy with the Standard Oil company and with making false representations.

Busch Company Quits Kansas.

Topeka, Kan., May 8.—The Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association Tuesday afternoon filed its answer in the supreme court confessing judgment, in ouster, offering to withdraw from the state and pay all the costs in the action. The company asks that no receiver be appointed, and that the injunction standing against the company be modified to permit it to withdraw all its property from the state. The company denies that it has violated the injunction up to the present time.

More Rebate Indictments.

New York, May 8.—A federal grand jury which has been investigating rebate cases Tuesday indicted the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway company, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway company, New York, Ontario & Western railway company and the Western Transit company on charges of granting rebates to the American Sugar Refining company.

OPPOSITION TO THIRD TERM FOR CONEY

Assembly Was Sounded for the Old Soldiers at 3:30 Tuesday Afternoon—Interest Centering in Election of Officers—Public Reception to Commander Coney at Auditorium.

Topeka, May 8.—Hundreds of men and women whose hearts were stirred by the greatest Civil war the world has ever known, and their descendants and sympathizers are to be the guests of Topeka for three days, commencing Tuesday. The occasion is the twenty-fourth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic of Kansas and meetings of affiliated organizations, four in number. The hosts of men who fought in the Union armies of the rebellion, and those belonging to the other societies commenced arriving Monday. In response to the first faltering step of these old veterans the city took on a patriotic air. Flags and bunting were displayed from many places over the city. Arrangements for electrical illumination by night were made, and the show windows of business houses along Kansas avenue were decorated with the national colors.

The other societies which are to meet are the Sons of Veterans, the Woman's Relief Corps, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic and Ladies Auxiliary of the Sons of Veterans. The G. A. R. encampment did not open formally until 3:30 Tuesday afternoon when assembly was sounded from an old war bugle and the "long roll" not heard in many years at a Kansas G. A. R. encampment was sounded. Following it there was a meeting at the Auditorium, opening with a prelude on the pipe-organ by Past Commander T. J. Anderson. There was a brief exchange of courtesies and the encampment was formally open.

In the election of officers which is to come during the latter part of the meeting of each body there is considerable interest. The most vigorous fight will be for department commander of the G. A. R. Friends, of the incumbent of that office, P. H. Coney, are pushing him for a third term. This is said to be against the usual practice in the order and it appears that there is a strenuous opposition to such a programme. Commander Coney said Tuesday that he would say nothing regarding his candidacy for the office. He said he wanted to do that which was best for the Grand Army of the Republic whatever it might mean. Not only the third term feature is giving rise to opposition to Commander Coney, there is another. R. A. Campbell of Hutchinson, senior vice commander, is openly and decidedly actively a candidate for the place. He has a strong backing for it.

Tuesday night at the Auditorium there was a public reception to Department Commander P. H. Coney and his official staff, participated in by Gov. Hoch and others. A brief musical and literary programme with interesting features followed.

Conventions of the Woman's Relief Corps and the Ladies of the G. A. R. were opened formally at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning in the State House. The Woman's Relief Corps is holding its sessions in Representative hall and the Ladies of the G. A. R. in the Senate Chamber. A programme heretofore announced was rendered during the morning hours, to which the public was invited.

Shriners in Session.

Los Angeles, May 8.—The opening session of the thirty-third Imperial council of the Mystic Shrine was held Tuesday and for the first time since their arrival, thousands of Shriners from every part of the country were assembled. Officers and representatives of the council gathered at the Imperial headquarters at the Alexandria hotel and were escorted to the Scottish Rite cathedral, where exercises were held, by all the Arab and Bedouin patrols in full uniform. The procession was over a mile long.

DEED OF AMANCIAC.

San Francisco Carpenter While Insane Shoots and Kills Six Persons in Boarding House.

San Francisco, May 8.—At 6:37 Tuesday morning Walter Charley Davis, a carpenter, in a fit of insanity, shot and killed a family of six persons with whom he resided at 414 Pierces street in this city.

The dead are: Orson R. Bush, aged 57, his wife and their young son, W. S. Bard, a carpenter, with relatives in St. Louis and Denver. M. E. Zinton, a surveyor, recently from New York. Mrs. Lillian D. Carothers, an elderly woman, who boarded in the house.

Davis and his victims all resided in a boarding house by the Bush family. Davis' home was in Farmersville, near Visalia, this state, where he has a wife and six children. He has been working here as a carpenter since the fire.

The shooting was done with a double barreled shotgun. Davis, who slept in the same room with young Bush and Bard, rose shortly after 5 o'clock and after arming himself with the gun, shot his two roommates and then visited each room in turn, killing the occupants.

He fancied that the people in the house had formed a plot to kill him and take his money. The shots attracted a large crowd and a push was made upon Davis as he was attempting to reload his weapon and he was overpowered and turned over to the police and taken to the detention ward of the hospital. The bodies of his victims were taken to the morgue. One lodger in the house escaped. She was a young girl of 17. Davis pointed the gun at her and was preparing to shoot when she said she resembled his daughter, so he spared her life.

Lincoln Wants Better Rates.

Lincoln, Neb., May 8.—The executive committee of the Lincoln Commercial Club Monday authorized the filing of complaint with the Interstate Commerce Commission against six Nebraska railroads charging discrimination in freight rates against the city of Lincoln. The complaint is based upon the allegation that the rates from the South on lumber, cement, glass, salt, coal, brick, rice, sugar, egg case fillers and other commodities are higher to Lincoln than the rates on the same commodities to Omaha; over the same roads, though the distance to the latter city is from 2 to 75 miles further. The commission is asked to have its hearing in this city.

Damage From Hail Storm.

Cassville, Mo., May 8.—Allie Beeson, 16-year-old, daughter of a farmer living near Cassville was rendered unconscious Monday by falling hail and may die. At a late hour Monday night she was still unconscious. The hail storm was the most destructive ever known in Barry county. Ice in chunks as large as hens eggs fell to a depth of two inches. In Cassville windows with west exposure all are broken, trees are stripped of foliage and crops are greatly damaged.

Ten Tornadoes in Texas.

Fort Worth, Texas, May 8.—Near Celina, Texas, a farmhouse was blown down and the son of a farmer named Mize and a tenant named Pack were killed. There were no less than ten tornadoes reported in the north Texas tornado belt Monday, the greatest number ever known in one day. The property loss is enormous, but the death list is unusually small.

Lynchers Arrested for Murder.

South McAlester, I. T., May 8.—Six men alleged to be the leaders of the mob that lynched a negro at Sterrett on March 31, were arrested at Durant and Sterrett, I. T., Monday by the United States marshal and were brought to this city and held for the grand jury without ball on the charge of murder.

A Missouri Ex-Populist Official Dead.

Columbia, Mo., May 8.—A. C. Tally, secretary of the state Populist committee, died here Monday of pneumonia. For several years he was editor and part owner of the Columbia Statesman and at one time he edited a labor journal in Lamar, Mo. He is survived by a widow and four children.

TORNADO KILLS TEXANS.

Towns of Ridgeway and Birtwright Reported Destroyed With Loss of Life.

Mount Pleasant, Texas, May 8.—Heavy damage and loss of life was wrought by the tornado which swept north Texas late Monday. The towns of Ridgeway and Birtwright, 40 miles west of here are reported practically destroyed. All wire communication is suspended and details are lacking. Nine people are reported killed in the two villages and vicinity. Several persons were injured by flying debris, among them being Benjamin Pogue, skull fractured; Mrs. Pogue, internally hurt, and Mrs. Joseph Ferguson, injured about the head. Birtwright, a town of 500 inhabitants is reported to have been completely destroyed. Much damage is reported at Caney, a negro settlement.

A Mobile & Ohio Wreck.

St. Louis, May 8.—Specials from Percy, Ill., state that a fast passenger train on the Mobile & Ohio road bound to Florida, collided with a freight train there Monday night and a number of persons were injured, but none seriously. At the Mobile & Ohio offices here it was stated Tuesday morning no details of the wreck had been received.

Garland Moore Convicted.

Springfield, Mo., May 8.—The jury in the case of Garland Moore, the Bois d'Arc youth who stabbed Clara West, because she jilted him, returned a verdict Tuesday afternoon finding him guilty of murder in the second degree and fixing his punishment at 25 years in the penitentiary.

A Seminary Principal Dead.

Godfrey, Ill., May 8.—Miss Harriet Haskell, 72 years old, principal of Monticello Seminary for young ladies for 40 years, died Monday of heart trouble.

THEY SHOT THE ENGINEER

Bandits Make Ineffectual Attempt to Rob Fast Train on Northern Pacific.

IS THE FOURTH HOLDUP IN THREE YEARS

Bloodhounds Have Been Put Upon the Trail and Authorities Expect to Capture the Robbers, Who Evidently Became Alarmed and Left Without Getting Any Money.

Butte, Mont., May 8.—The North Coast Limited, the crack train on the Northern Pacific, has been held up 22 Welch Spur, about 15 miles east of this city, and the engineer killed. The sheriff's office has just been notified of the robbery and officers have left for the scene. The object of the robbery, it is presumed, was to secure the contents of the through safe carrying consignments of currency from Seattle, Portland and Spokane to eastern points. The bloodhounds of the penitentiary were wired for. This is the fourth time the North Coast eastbound has been held up in three years. The other three times this train was robbed near Bear Mouth, about 80 miles west of here. Tuesday morning's hold-up is near the scene of the robbery of the Burlington Flyer two years ago in a section of country very rough and mountainous.

Bloodhounds from the state penitentiary at Deer Lodge are on the special and the hounds were put to the trail at 9 o'clock. Welch Spur is 18 miles from Butte and in some of the wildest country in the Rocky mountains. It may be hours before the posse with the dogs reaches a telegraph station.

On the tender of the locomotive was found a telescope grip full of giant powder, evidently intended for use in blowing up the express car. The men boarded the train presumably at the Butte transfer, where a locomotive for the Montana division was attached. One mile west of Welch the men crawled over the tender and with drawn guns commanded the engineer to stop the train, which he did. Engineer Clow, however, made a show of resistance and one of the robbers fired, shooting him through the body, killing him instantly. The other shot at Sullivan, breaking his arm.

When the train stopped, Conductor Bert Culver and the train crew ran to the engine, where they found a colored man, who related the circumstances of the hold-up. This man said that he had been stealing a ride and that the men offered him a third of the booty if he would assist them. He said he had refused and had taken no part in the hold-up.

St. Paul, May 8.—General Manager Horn of the Northern Pacific railroad, gave out the following statement on the attempt to rob the North Coast Limited near Butte, Mont., early Tuesday:

"No. 22 eastbound North Coast Limited, Engineer Frank Clow and Conductor Culver was held up on the east side of Butte Mountain about 16 miles east of Butte, Mont., by two or more men who shot and killed the engineer and shot the fireman through the arm. They did some more shooting but evidently became alarmed and left. Sheriff Webb of Billings was on the train and started on the trail of the hold-up men. Bloodhounds from the Deer Lodge penitentiary have been put on their trail also and we expect to get the men. Engineer Clow had been running that train for eight years ever since the limited was put into service.

"The robbers did not get any money. While this road has had several hold-ups in that vicinity in the past ten years we have captured the robbers, in every instance and they are all doing time in the penitentiary and in all that time our money loss has not been in excess of $3,000.

The attempted robbery occurred about 2:15 Tuesday morning in a particularly rough part of the mountains. Engineer Clow was hauling his train at a fair speed, according to the meagre report received at Northern Pacific headquarters, when he was signalled to stop. He brought his train to a standstill and immediately a fusillade of shots was heard. Clow then opened the throttle for full speed ahead, but was dropped by a bullet from the gun of one of the robbers. The latter ran to their horses nearby and after firing wildly in an evident attempt to terrorize the trainmen, rode away.

When the train was again brought to a stop by the fireman, a search of the train was made. On the water tank a suit case filled with dynamite was found, clearly indicating that the robbers intended to get at the contents of the express car.

A Territory Storm.

Atoka, I. T., May 8.—One man is reported killed, a score of persons injured and crops have been ruined as a result of a severe storm which swept Atoka county Monday afternoon. In the town of Atoka a number of houses were blown down and reports are coming in from all parts of the county of great property loss. Every window in a Missouri, Kansas & Texas train which arrived here Monday night from Coalgate had been broken by hail.

Rioters such as came to the surface in San Francisco the other day are advancing the best possible arguments for making strikes criminal offenses, and for establishing arbitration courts for the purpose of settling all labor disputes.

Better than talking about disarmament of the nations is the simpler matter wholly within our borders of stopping the war between capital and labor. Make all such wars to cease. It can be done. Disputes must arise of course, but they should be settled like all other disputes may be lawfully settled—in the courts—not by the old method of war, for strikes and lock-outs are only another kind of war.

Insect Pests.

Flies and mosquitoes will not begin to trouble seriously for another month. The beginnings of the future trouble will however be laid in May wherever pains are not taken to prevent. A southern town with a cotton mill and a college as its chief institutions fell under a wave of malaria. The only still water in sight was the mill pond of the cotton factory. The local board of health, educated in the experiences of Dr. Reed and his fellow experimenters with the effect of mosquito bites, ordered the mill dam demolished as a breeding place for malarial mosquitoes. The mill owners sent for a government scientist who found no mosquitoes breeding in the mill pond, owing to the surface, which was great enough to allow the action of the wind to prevent the growth of the larva. They did find mosquitoes breeding by wholesale in tin cans left in alleys to collect rain water, in small pools unnoticed on the back end of city lots, and puddles along the sides of the street. The malarial mosquito, fortunately, does not infest Nebraska to an important extent, but the few mosquitoes we do possess have an unpleasant sting. Except as carried by high winds mosquitoes rarely travel more than a mile from their birthplace. So it is with flies, whose breeding places are the refuse heaps of stables. A Nebraska city, by close attention to its stables and stagnant water, could be practically free of flies and mosquitoes in summer. The absence of insect pests is one of the attractive features of the greater part of the state. The number could be still less and nobody would complain.—Lincoln State Journal.

What Is Happening In The Capital and Throughout the Country In a Political Way.

There is much speculation as to the real purpose of the visit of Governor Deneen, of Illinois, here this week. While it is given out extensively that the governor's arrival here for a conference at the White House had to do entirely with the matter of having the government institute a suit against the sanitary district of Chicago to prevent the reversal of the current in the Calumet river, it is believed much weightier matters provided the real reason for the trip. It is intimated that Governor Deneen is here to enlist the aid of President Roosevelt in the passage of certain corporation measures. It is regarded as unlikely that the chief executive of Illinois would leave the state during a session of the legislature for so small a matter as the institution of a federal suit, a question that could be taken up as well by letter as by personal appeal. In an interview, prior to his conference with administration leaders, Governor Deneen let drop a hint that he was having trouble with the state legislature with reference to reform measures. Of this matter he said: "The legislature, which is about to adjourn, has done little in the way of enacting reform measures, but during the next few days several such measures probably will become law." The word "probably," as used by Governor Deneen is significant, and lends strength to the rumor that he is here to ask that the big stick be brandished to frighten the Illinois solons into line. Accompanying the Governor was President R. R. McCormick, Attorney E. O. Lindley and Engineer Isham Randolph, of the Chicago Drainage Board.

"Enterprising" is the word to apply to the methods of California business men. They do not believe in slow methods when quicker ones are at hand even if the cost is great. For the first time in its history a complaint was filed by telegraph with the Interstate Commerce Commission, and as a result the action of the commission was unusually prompt and direct. The complaint came from the California Fruit Growers' Exchange at Los Angeles and was directed against the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe railroads. The petition, which was 315 words in length, and for which $80 was paid for its transmission, set forth that the railroad companies are injuring the fruit business by the method they have adopted for supplying cars to shippers. The Interstate Commerce commission, not to be outdone in progressiveness, by telegraph set the case for hearing at Los Angeles on May 15. Although it cost the Los Angeles fruit men a tidy sum for telegraph tolls, the returns in the way of quick action made the investment a good one.

The Inland Waterways commission, the board of which Congressman Burton of Ohio is chairman, and which was appointed by the president lately, has spent a busy week in organizing and making plans for future work. The first important trip of this commission will be taken next week when the members will leave here on Friday for Kansas City to board the government boat Suter for a careful investigation of the Missouri river between that city and St. Louis. Arrived at St. Louis the commission will board the government steamer Mississippi for an inspection of the Mississippi river as far south as New Orleans. The proposed trip of investigation probably will occupy ten or eleven days and will be as thorough in character as the limited time will allow. Chairman Burton has been deluged with invitations to inspect streams tributary to the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, but he is compelled to decline all these invitations. In the first place, the members of the commission all are in the service of the government in other capacities and cannot absent themselves from their various departments for any great length of time, and then Chairman Burton is vitally interested in the political situation in Ohio, where his presence is required. The initial trip of the commission is expected to do much toward stimulating the growing interest in the matter of water transportation. For five years the National Rivers & Harbors Congress has worked to stimulate this interest and to point out to the country at large the urgent necessity for providing a system of transportation that will supplement the railroads. The organization's crusade will be greatly strengthened by the activities of the commission which will undoubtedly aid the plans of Captain J. F. Ellison in building up a still greater membership.

Kansas City Stock Market.

Kansas City Stock Yards, May 6, 1907.
The loss of 10 to 20 cents on killing cattle last week had the effect of checking the receipts today, supply 6,000 head, only a little more than half the run of any recent Monday. Another cause for the small supply today is laid at the heavy run late in April, cattle sent in ahead of time, which, if it has any merit, would indicate continued moderate marketing. Heavy steers suffered most of the loss last week, medium grade heifers and yearling steers also heavy losers, while handy weight steers and good cows almost held their own for the week. The market today is naturally higher, steers selling generally 10 cents above the close of last week, but nothing tippy included, highest price $2.65, bulk of steers at $3.25 to $5.60, including quite a number of Nebraska steers at good prices, one string of twelve cars of 1,295-pound steers from Alma, at $5.55. Heavy cows sell at $4.25 to $4.90, medium class cows $3 to $4.25, prime heifers and yearlings $5 to $5.40, bulk $4.00 to $4.85, bulls strong as compared with last week, at $3.25 to $4.50, veal calves unchanged $4.25 to $5.50, stock calves 50 cents higher, $3.25 to $5.00. A large percentage of the supply today is stock and feeding grades, market on them strong to a shade higher. A good gain was made on country grades last week, and prices today are practically as high as the best time before the recent break, desirable feeders selling at $4.75 to $5.40, stock steers $4.25 to $5.25, stock cows and heifers $2.25 to $3.65.
Hogs closed last week stronger than the middle of the week, but there was a net loss of six cents for the week. Run is 7,000 today, market weak to be lower, heavy hogs especially weak. The spread between light weights and heavies is wider today than any time recently, light weights selling at $6.35, medium weights $6.30, heavy hogs $6.25. Pigs usually sell in with loads without sorting, odd lots of common pigs $5.25 to $5.75. Supply last week 64,000. J. A. Rickart, Correspondent.

A BIG CIRCUS.

The Enlarged Campbell Bros. Consolidated Shows Beyond Comparison.

The great Campbell Bros. consolidated shows which will exhibit in Ord on Monday, May 20, has been enlarged on such a scale of liberality as to make it next to impossible to depict its real magnitude. Besides enormous additions to the circus proper, the parade has been increased and is now one of the finest ever seen with this meritorious organization. In the arena display is brought together an assembly of the most famous acrobats, gymnasts, aerial performers, dancers, fun-makers and sensational specialists in the world. Most of these artists make their first appearance in this country with the great Campbell Brothers consolidated shows. Foremost among these celebrities are "The Flying Lee Vans," the "Mizuno troupe of Japs," Bishop Bros. double somersault leapers; Nellie Roland, champion bareback rider of the world; Cossack Rough Riders, in daring feats of horsemanship; the great hippodrome races and other highly sensational acts too numerous to mention.

Among the trained animal features are a herd of trained elephants, educated horses and ponies, high jumping dogs and clown mules. The menagerie annex contains the most complete, exclusive and valuable collection of wild animals from all parts of the world.

The street parade will leave the show grounds at 10 o'clock. Performances at 2 and 8 p. m.

Visiting Specialists
From the Cleveland Institute of Medicine and Surgery legally chartered and incorporated, of Cleveland, Ohio, will pay their first visit to Ord, Nebraska, and will be at Hotel Ord on Wednesday, May 22

One Day Only,
9 A. M. TO 7:30 P. M.
FREE

This Institute, composed of a group of regularly graduated, physicians and surgeons, licensed, legally chartered and incorporated under the laws of the State of Ohio, sends at its own expense these eminent medical specialists in order to introduce the newest methods and discoveries in medicine and surgery such as the system of treatment under X ray, Violet ray, Röntgen ray, Hydrotherapy, Etc., to give to those who call on the above (date, consultation, examination, advice and all medicines required to complete a cure, absolutely free. These specialists will diagnose your case and give you the benefit of their skill and medical knowledge.

There is in this case no experimenting or guess work at your expense. You will be told whether you can be cured or not. If your case is curable they will put you under treatment immediately; if incurable they will give you such advice as may prolong your life. Their treatment always gives quick relief, and ultimately positively cures. Being prepared to cope with each individual case the human system is thoroughly cleansed of the disease in a natural and direct manner and improvement is noticed at once; even the worst cases are treated without any inconvenience to the patient or the pursuing of his or her daily vocation.

If you are improving under your family physician, do not come and take up their valuable time, as they absolutely refuse to treat any one who is under the care of the local physicians. They wish besides to give each patient plenty of time and their undivided attention, but cannot listen to long stories not pertaining to your trouble. They have discarded the old methods and remedies used for ages by the medical world, and which it would be folly to depend upon any longer, for they are not known to cure, as thousands die, depending on them for relief. The following list of diseases only are taken under treatment, to-wit: Diseases of the Nervous System, Heart, Stomach, Lungs, Kidneys, Catarrh (purulent or dry), Consumption, Epilepsy, Deafness, Diseases of Women, Tumors, Pseudocancer, Piles, of a Chronic Nature only. They treat Deafness by an entirely new method, and hearing in many cases is restored at once. Catarrh in all its varied forms, like other diseases if once taken under treatment, are cured permanently to remain so and to never return. It matters not whom you have seen, or with whom treated, do not fail to call, as a visit will cost you nothing, and may restore you to health, or even save or prolong your life, as thousands of persons will testify by unassailable testimonials in all parts of the country. If you suspect Kidney Trouble bring a two ounce bottle of your Urine for chemical and microscopical analysis.

REMEMBER:—The free offer is during this visit only, and will not be repeated. Persons commencing treatment upon their future visits, will be required to pay, but not one cent will be asked from those commencing treatment during this visit for any medicine necessary to effect a cure; irrespective of your position in life, or the number of those who come on above date. Whensoever, or by whom wanted, a positive guarantee to cure will be given under their system of treatment. Those having long standing and complicated diseases who have failed to get well and become discouraged, are particularly invited to call.

NOTICE:—Married ladies, without their HUSBANDS, and minors without their FATHERS, will positively not be admitted to consultation, unless accompanied by one of their local physicians.

Office Hours: 9 A. M. to 7:30 P. M.

DON'T FORGET THE DATE.

PUDDING RECIPES

SOMETHING NEW IN THE WAY OF DESSERTS.

One Dish That Has Long Stood the Test of Time—Frozen Pudding Glace a Confection Sure to Please.

The following is a pudding which has been in the possession of a well-known family for 100 years, and is still in use—it has never before appeared in print.

Aunt Charlotte's Pudding.—Line a pudding dish with stale cake, pour sherry over it, then spread preserved peaches, quinces, or any kind of preserves over the cake. Make a batter of the yolks of four eggs, a quarter of a pound of sugar or a quarter of a pound of butter and two tablespoons of cracked crumbs. Beat together, first beating the yolks light, add the mixture to the cake, then bake. When cold put the whites of the eggs beaten stiff with pulverized sugar over the pudding, return to the oven and bake until a light brown; season with extract of vanilla and a little almond.

Orange Pudding.—One-quarter of a pound of butter, quarter of a pound of sugar, the peel of a fresh orange grated fine, two eggs, a little brandy and the lime juice. Bake in a quick oven.

Bread Pudding with Meringue.—One and a half pints of milk, one kitchen cupful of breadcrumbs, three eggs, three tablespoons of sugar, the grated rind and juice of one lemon. Mix all together and bake 20 minutes. When the pudding is cold, cover the top with preserves; beat light the whites of two eggs, with pulverized sugar, for a meringue, and drop it on in the shape of pyramids; brown lightly in the oven.

Frozen Pudding Glace.—One pint of milk, quarter of a pound of raisins, a small piece of cinnamon stick, two ounces of sweet almonds, quarter of a pound of sugar, the yolks of two eggs, two ounces of preserved cherries, one ounce of citron, one pint of cream, and two limes. First boil together the raisins and milk slowly for 15 minutes. In the milk have the stick cinnamon to give it a flavor. Strain the milk and return to the saucepan; put on the fire to boil. Put into a small bowl the yolks of two eggs and add the sugar; beat them well together, and when the milk boils take it from the fire; when it cools a little add to it the yolks and sugar, a little at a time, mixing all the time. Put all into a saucepan and add the raisins. Stir this over the fire until it begins to thicken. Blanch and fine two ounces of almonds and add them to the mixture, also the cherries and citron; cut into small pieces, remove the stick of cinnamon, and cut each lime into four pieces and add. Dip a mold in cold water and when the mixture is cool enough put in the cream, then pour the whole into the mold and freeze. While freezing stir to prevent the fruit settling.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

DISHES LIKED IN ENGLAND.

Counties Have Their Own Favorite Forms of Food.

There is scarcely a county in England that has not a favorite common dish among its people.

In rural Essex one meets with a combination of stewed rabbit and raspberry jam.

Whenever apple pie makes its appearance on a Yorkshire dinner table cheese finds a place there, and the two are eaten together.

Rabbit pudding is a dish only to be encountered in Norfolk, which county believes in stuffing a turkey with chestnuts. Lancashire has a parsnip pudding peculiarly its own, as well as a kind of cake made of fat bacon and oatmeal.

The little villages dotted about the mud flats of Essex are the only places in England where clam soup forms an article of diet.

A Cambridgeshire man usually fries and eats apples and sausages together. He is also fond of making jam of his surplus marrows; but in Lancashire they would be pickled.

The practice of eating sweets with meat is to be found in Devonshire, where the natives rarely think of eating fried bacon without sugar of some sort, either powdered, white or brown.—Home Chat.

Upholstered Furniture.

Upholstered furniture which is left unused for considerable periods in the summer should be sprayed occasionally with benzine or naphtha. This will not injure the most delicate fabric. Caution must be exercised, however, on account of its inflammability. Never use either preparation with any light in the room. Another means of protecting articles is to wipe them over with a dilute solution of corrosive sublimate in alcohol, made weak enough so as not to leave any white stain.

An easy way to apply the naphtha or benzine is to put it in a small watering pot, such as is used for sprinkling house plants.

To Clarify Drippings.

Into a large pailful of boiling water pour the hot drippings. Stir thoroughly for a few minutes, and then let the whole become quite cold. The clean drippings are then easily removed from the top of the water, all the impurities sinking to the bottom. After frying, the drippings are treated twice in this way and allowed to be tried out until all water has evaporated.

SEEDING COMMENCED IN WESTERN CANADA.

The Prospects for a Large Acreage to Be Sown in Wheat.

St. Paul, April 24, 1907.—Word has been received at the office of the Canadian Government in St. Paul that seeding has commenced at various points throughout Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The heavy snowfall during the past winter has left the ground in splendid shape for successful seeding operations. The fine weather of the past few days has taken much of the frost out of the ground and during next week there will scarcely be a district in which the seeder is not being operated. The most optimistic conditions exist and in all districts the farmers are busy getting things in shape. There will be a very large acreage sown in spring wheat, oats and barley. At many points throughout the three provinces the newcomers are busy unloading their stock and effects, working night and day in order to get on their farms and become active agencies in the effort to make the year 1907 the banner year in grain producing in Western Canada. As compared with districts many hundred miles further south than this, it will be seen that Western Canada ranks amongst the first in the line of seeding operations for the present year. It is safe to say that farmers who get in their crop before the 20th or 24th of May, will receive magnificent returns. A number of those coming in this spring, who had not their land prepared last fall, will break up enough land to get in a crop of oats and barley and probably some flax. This, together with the vegetables they will plant, will give them ample food for themselves and stock during the coming summer and winter. These early seeding operations are not confined to one district, but are spread over a country 900 miles long by 400 miles in width.

The agents of the Canadian Government, located at different points throughout the United States, are busy giving information regarding the new districts that are being made available for settlers. Low railway rates, information and literature are given on application to the agent, whose name appears in advertisement elsewhere in this paper.

A Fish Story.

"Trout protection! Nonsense!" said a gunner of local eminence. "Trout are amply able to protect themselves. Look at their depredations among ducks, for example, and you will agree with me that it's the birds that need protection. It's a common thing for a trout to jump from the water, seize a duck by the neck, drag the unfortunate fowl into the depths sufficiently to leave its feet sticking in the air, where it can get no purchase upon the universe, and thus drown it. Then the trout picks the feathers from the bird, eats it at its leisure and swims away out of the jurisdiction of the courts. Are there any fishermen? None? Too bad. This would be a match for one of their fish stories."

Labor of the Novelist.

"The way of the novelist must be hard," said a librarian of an uptown branch. "The other day an immaculately gotten up individual came into the library and announced that he was a writer with a specialty of dialect stories. We got him several books that he asked for, and little by little he took me into his confidence. 'I want the Scotch dialect for the stern father,' he explained; 'then when I've got enough of that I want some dialect for a sea captain, and then I want a duke—or maybe you can tell me, would a duke drop his h's?'—N. Y. Sun.

No Cause for Alarm.

The honeymoon had bumped the bumps. "You know, John," said the young wife, "that I used to be your type-writer."

Um—yes," grunted John.

"Well," she continued, "I wish you would discharge the girl you have now and hire a man in her place."

"Huh!" rejoined hubby.

"I hope you don't think I would make a fool of myself twice in the same way."

FRIENDS HELP

St. Paul Park Incident.

"After drinking coffee for breakfast I always felt languid and dull, having no ambition to get to my morning duties. Then in about an hour or so a weak, nervous derangement of the heart and stomach would come over me with such force I would frequently have to lie down.

"At other times I had severe headaches; stomach finally became affected and digestion so impaired that I had serious chronic dyspepsia and constipation. A lady, for many years State President of the W. C. T. U., told me she had been greatly benefited by quitting coffee and using Postum Food Coffee; she was troubled for years with asthma. She said it was no cross to quit coffee when she found she could have as delicious an article as Postum.

"Another lady, who had been troubled with chronic dyspepsia for years, found immediate relief on ceasing coffee and beginning Postum twice a day. She was wholly cured. Still another friend told me that Postum Food Coffee was a Godsend to her, her heart trouble having been relieved after leaving off coffee and taking Postum.

"So many such cases came to my notice that I concluded coffee was the cause of my trouble and I quit and took up Postum. I am more than pleased to say that my days of trouble have disappeared. I am well and happy. 'There's a Reason.' Read 'The Road to Wellville,' in pkgs.

TEN YEARS OF PAIN.

Unable to Do Even Housework Because of Kidney Troubles.

Mrs. Margaret Emmerich, of Clinton St., Napoleon, O., says: "For fifteen years I was a great sufferer from kidney troubles. My back pained me terribly. Every turn or move caused sharp, shooting pains. My eyesight was poor, dark spots appeared before me, and I had dizzy spells. For ten years I could not do housework, and for two years did not get out of the house. The kidney secretions were irregular, and doctors were not helping me. Doan's Kidney Pills brought me quick relief, and finally cured me. They saved my life."

Then she got it—with a little conscience fund addition.

With a smooth iron and DeLancey Starch, you can launder your shirt-waist just as well at home as the steam laundry can; it will have the proper stiffness and finish, there will be less wear and tear of the goods, and it will be a positive pleasure to use a Starch that does not stick to the iron.

FAMILY'S SKIN TROUBLES.

Eczema, Heat Rash, and Scalp Affections Affect Different Members, But Cuticura Cures Them.

"My wife had eczema for five or six years. It was on her face and would come and go. We thought we would give the Cuticura Remedies a trial. We did so and she has never had a sign of eczema for four years. I myself used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment some time ago for falling hair. I now have a very heavy head of hair. We used Cuticura Remedies for our baby, who was nearly bald when young. She has very nice hair now. She is very fleshy, and we had so much trouble with heat that we would bathe her with Cuticura Soap and then apply Cuticura Ointment, it would dry the heat up so much quicker than anything else. Accordingly the valet obeyed. When he returned his master met him at the door.

"Well, Reynolds?" "The father wished me to say, sir, that he hoped you wouldn't take the affair too much to heart. As for the family, they all feel very grateful to you sir, and couldn't bring themselves to accept your very kind offer."

"A most estimable family! Yet I wonder why they didn't accept the money?" "The father said such matters should be arranged through his lawyer, sir."—Judge.

Notice to the Public

ON Saturday, May 18 I will open a new jewelry store on the west side of the City Pharmacy drug store building, consisting of everything in jewels, watches, clocks, rings, chains, charms, bracelets, etc.

My entire line is brand new and up-to-date, and was selected from the largest stock in the central west.

A full and complete line of Elgin and Waltham watches, Rogers 1847 silverware, and, in fact, everything is high-grade and as well known as the last mentioned article.

I will, also, do all kinds of repair work—can do anything done by any other jeweler. All work guaranteed to give satisfaction.

Other announcements will be given later.

Repair work can be left at the City Pharmacy now, and will be done promptly.

Don't forget the date, May 18.
I ask a share of your patronage.

We are requested to announce that Rev. L. C. Fons will preach at the Baptist church next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. Services will be in the Danish language. Everybody is cordially invited to be present.

Miss Fern Timmerman went to Arcadia the other day to take down the testimony in the saloon case there, but she had but little to do in that line, a continuance being taken till next Tuesday. On that day she will return to record what is said.

On Wednesday, May 15, at 2:30 p. m., the ladies of the Presbyterian aid society will be given a Kensington at the home of Mrs. J. C. Work, the hostesses being Mrs. Work and Mrs. J. Cass Cornell. You may be sure that this will be a pleasant affair.

They must have a strong brand of whiskey at Scotia. Not long ago two fellows after filling up of Scotia rot-gut came over to North Loup and robbed Earnest Bros. store. Now another forlorn stranger, being full of the same class of fluid from Scotia, stole a coat on the train and was not long loose on the streets of Ord before he was nabbed by our authorities.

There is one good thing about the whiskey, though, it seems to land the fellows who take it in jail.

A prominent official of the city complains that the fight made by the Quiz on the saloons is not fair because we possess an advantage by reason of having a paper to talk through. We suggested that the complaint was not well founded for the saloon men had their organ, the Journal, to defend them, which suggestion simply called forth a sneer. "The Journal," he said, "will not say anything either way and so the saloon interests might just as well have no paper at all." This being true, all must admit, we made him the proposition that anything printable that the saloon men wanted to say in their defense will be cheerfully printed in the columns of the Quiz. A free and fair discussion of any subject is what the Quiz wants, and if anyone has anything decent to say in opposition to what the Quiz has been saying or on any other theme they have the freedom of these columns for the purpose of saying it. The communications will be treated with perfect fairness. Now, do not say that you have not a fair chance to fight your saloon fights.

Ord is going to have a chautauqua. That is settled. But will we have a second, a third one, one every year? Success is necessary this summer if we make this great institution a permanent feature of summer life in Ord. It is hard for a few people to carry through to success such a big enterprise. If every one in this city will help a little, no money donations are asked for. The management only wants the active good will of everyone. The kind of good will that will cause you to make it a point to talk about the chautauqua. To take the trouble to tell your friends that you are going and ask them to make arrangements to attend throughout the entire session. It is worth your best efforts. Just boost for all you are worth.

One of the foremost men in America today is Congressman J. Adam Bede of Minnesota. He is known as the humorist of congress and is amply able to sustain the reputation. But he is more than humorous and witty. He is a profound thinker and is always found on the right side of public affairs where right and wrong are the issues. Besides he is a remarkably pleasing and entertaining speaker. We are indeed glad to know that Congressman Bede has been secured for a lecture during our next summer's chautauqua.

Standard table peaches two cans for 25 cents. Standard corn one can for 5 cents. Full line of Heinz's preserves, sauces and pickles. Highest quality pure food products on the market. We are promised choice berries, fresh lettuce and radishes this week. Fackler and Finley, the grocers.

Someone or two people told Miss Roxy Auble that they had heard that she had withdrawn from the piano contest, and she requests us to state that she is not a quitter. She has no thought of quitting till she wins the piano. Just how the rumor got started she cannot guess, and does not think it is at all general, but she wishes us to assure her friends that she is working for the piano with all her might.

The attention of our readers is called to the new advertisement of Fred Hallock in this issue. This young man has for the past few months been running a jewelry store in Kenesaw, and his friends will be glad to learn of his intention to open up a store in the Mamie Siler building in a short time, using a part of the floor space occupied by the City Pharmacy.

DANIEL C. BAILEY DEAD

One of Valley County's Oldest Citizens Has Gone to Rest.

Was Member of First Board of Commissioners.

Peacefully at 10:30 o'clock this morning Daniel C. Bailey, one of the first settlers of this vicinity, passed on to his reward.

Though at the time of his coming he was a comparatively old man he has figured prominently in the affairs of the county until recent years. Of late he has kept pretty close to his home across the river, passing his time quietly with his venerable wife and family.

A week ago tonight he suffered a chill, which was the first symptom of the final end, and has since that time been slowly sinking.

He died, as he had lived, at peace with the world.

No citizen of Valley county was ever held in higher esteem, by all who knew him, than this good man. Though he has lived far beyond the allotted time of man, and was slowly but surely coming to the end, his death is nevertheless a shock to the community.

A couple of umbrella menders have been around town more of less lately. They are said to be working the umbrella racket as a side line and that are really detectives in the employ of the Anti-Saloon League.

So says the Ord Journal. Poor thing. Innocent folks are not easily scared, but the guilty are always looking for the arm of the law to get hold of them. Another kind of a tinker was arrested yesterday for stealing a coat. Was this an anti-saloon detective too? 'Fraid cat!

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Partridge and daughter took final leave of Ord Thursday morning, going to Hastings, where they have purchased a hotel, the deal being closed some days ago. The Partridges are first class hotel people, and it is the opinion of the many friends here that they will make a success of their Hastings venture. They sold their residence, the former Elmer Gard property in the western part of town, Wednesday to Walter Stark, who will move therein soon. The Partridges purchased this property when they quit the Ord hotel some months ago, and have been living there. The best wishes of their Ord friends go with them to their new location.

At this hour no arrangements have been made for the funeral, but most likely this will be held Sunday.

Daniel Cooley Bailey, the grand old man of the Loup, was born in New York state, October 15, 1820, which made him at the time of his death 87 years, 6 months and 24 days old. He was married April 6, 1845, to Susan E. Dale. They have four children, Mary, George, Harry and Frank. Leaving New York the Bailey family sojourned for some years in Wisconsin and came on west to Nebraska and the Loup in 1872. They came overland by way of Nance coun-

Today was the time set for hearing the application of Hall & Heuck for a saloon license. As they are applying in another name for another license it was practically sure that they would not stand trial, but they kept in court till the law and order people brought their lawyer from Lincoln and then withdraw their application. The other case is set for hearing next Thursday, when, doubtless, the same tactics will be pursued. As soon as Wolfenbarger gets to town they will withdraw their application. This is done of course to put the people who want to see the law enforced to as much expense as possible. We have not so much kick for this kind of monkey-business from the applicants, but for the city council to aid and abet the matter is wrong. The remonstrators tried to have the two cases set on the same day so that both would have to be dismissed or tried and so they would have to bring Wolfenbarger here but once, but the city council refused to do this, they setting the trials on different days. The council sitting as a court ought to be above such tactics, but this council is not. When they do such things why should they kick on being called brass-collars?

Quietly—that is as quietly as women can do things—the ladies of the Methodist church planned for a reception to Rev. M. A. Wimberley at the church after prayer meeting last night. A big bowl of punch brewed from the most intoxicating oranges that Fackler & Finley could furnish was provided and a neat purse of money raised as an earnest good will. After the prayer meeting services the doors were opened to the main auditorium and presently the church was filled with friends of the family. The affair was wholly informal, people sitting or walking about as suited them. During the evening Rev. Halsey presented the pastor with the purse using a few happy remarks in doing so. The response of the pastor was characteristic and both laughable and sad.

A few people have asked us to print the names of the remonstrators to the saloon petitions, saying that it was not fair to do otherwise. We had not supposed that any one was interested in the matter, but that there may be no appearance of unfairness we will print them in our Tuesday's issue.

A Great, Good Charity.

The latest charitable enterprise of Helen Gould is notable not only in itself, but for its suggestion of a way in which the city slums may be measurably cleared of a large class of persons who, helpless there, might in a different environment become industrious and independent. Miss Gould has purchased near Greeley, in Colorado, a tract of 100,000 acres. She is ready to expend $100,000 for implements, seed and fencing. The land is to be sold in small tracts, and the buyers who prove themselves worthy will be allowed easy terms of payment. They will have the advantage of instruction, with access to a library, and the sanitation of the tract will be supervised by skilled and practical directors. Early in the operation the shiftless will be weeded out. No better choice of location could have been made. The town of Greeley was settled many years ago by colonists from the east inspired by the advice of Horace Greeley. From the beginning, says Philadelphia Ledger, it has been conducted in an orderly fashion as any New England village. No liquor has ever been sold there; no rough characters ever found it congenial. It has developed into a prosperous and beautiful little city of well-kept streets and neat and luxurious homes. It is in the midst of a vast stretch of fertile land adapted to grains and fruits, and absolutely unequalled for the quality and yield of its potatoes.

A temperance crusade in England seems to have taken on much the same aspect as many famous recent court trials, inasmuch as it is largely a matter of expert opinion. The temperance leaders were somewhat set back by a manifesto published in The London Lancet, the great medical publication of England, in which 16 eminent professors and practitioners testified, over their own names, that alcohol has valuable qualities as food and medicine, giving that article a strong recommendation for usefulness and merit. Now the temperance men are trying to get a testimonial to the opposite effect from the same or a larger number of equally prominent professionals. But would not such a procedure leave the matter just about where it was before, asks the Troy Times, with the public compelled to make up its mind solely on its own construction of testimony made additionally confusing because doctors of such standing so utterly disagree? And where does moral suasion come in?

Good Housekeeping.

There is no preservative of love in married life so sure as good housekeeping; and there is no profession so absorbing, and demanding preparation and skill, as that of the housewife. When a young woman marries she as really enters upon the practice of a life profession as does a young man when he is admitted to the bar, or graduates a physician, after three or four years spent in preparation. The man is willing to equip himself fully for his part of the partnership. Does it seem businesslike and good faith, asks New York Weekly, for a woman to take the place of the second partner with a most indifferent training or none at all?

Columbia university, New York, is to have a mathematical museum, the nucleus of which will be the collection of mathematical models purchased for the university by ex-President Seth Low at the world's Columbian exposition in Chicago in 1893 and presented by him to the department of mathematics. Among other things will be a collection of models constructed by Dr. Martin Schilling of Halle, Germany, and also one belonging to Prof. Weimer of Darmstadt and a set of mathematical instruments from the Institute of Dr. G. Coradi of Zurich.

The new post office building in the City of Mexico is the first government building in Mexico of any architectural design worthy of the name. It is of fireproof construction, its frame being the first steel frame to go up in the city. Architecturally the new post office is unexcelled by any building in the country, and as a thing of real beauty surpasses, in the opinion of many, even the congressional library at Washington. It is far superior to any office building owned by the United States government.

Mr. Schwab's program immensely simplifies the situation. All we have to do is to hustle right hard and we'll catch up with all that overcapitalization. But, meantime, haven't some resourceful financiers got away with our money?

The war department has ordered an army officer to ride horseback from Portland, Ore., to New York. Perhaps this is a gentle hint to the transcontinental railroads which send in such lengthy accident reports.

JOHN HAMLIN FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER.

A FIRST DEGREE VERDICT

Jury Imposes the Death Sentence on Man Who in Jealous Rage Shot His Sweetheart to Death—Other News.

The jury in the case of John Hamlin, accused of the murder of Rachel Engle, returned a verdict of murder in the first degree and imposing the death penalty. The trial has been in progress at Grand Island and interest has been intense. Miss Engle was shot in the back by Hamlin last August, which she, her brother and others were on their way to an entertainment. Hamlin was in love with the girl and was jealous of her. The bullet which he fired injured the girl's spine and though she lived until January, she finally succumbed to her injuries. Hamlin was captured in an adjoining county a couple of days later. He was, after the death of the girl, arraigned and pleaded guilty to the charge of murder, but this plea was afterward withdrawn. District Judge Hanna, finding that he could not impose sentence for murder upon a man who had not been tried.

UNION PACIFIC MAKES MONEY.

Report Filed With the State Board of Equalization. The Union Pacific railroad has filed with the state board of equalization its statement of earnings and general condition for the year ending December 31, 1906. The statement reveals that the railroad has been making money though the operating expenses have been much larger and the earnings of the Nebraska lines show up with a deficit. The gross earnings of the entire road were $16,311,936.95 in 1906 as against $14,130,833.84 in 1905. Operating expenses in Nebraska were $9,276,267.34 in 1906 as against $7,998,132.15 in 1905. The net earnings per mile were $7,317.40 in 1906 as against $7,314.30 in 1905.

On a capital stock of $395,049,200, the dividends of the system including 961.50 miles were $10,532,155 last year as against $11,087,014.50 in 1905. The road declares that the Kearney branch was operated at a deficit of $200.95 per mile while the Omaha and Republican Valley branches were operated at a deficit of $161.75 per mile during the year.

Last year the average assessment per mile of main line and branch lines was $60,500 per mile.

To Meet Burlington Fares.

The Missouri Pacific railway has asked the state railway commission for permission to meet the short line rate of the Burlington between Lincoln and Falls City.

The request was wired by Passenger Traffic Manager H. C. Townsend of the road, and recited that the fare between Lincoln and Falls City via the Missouri Pacific is $2.08 and via the Burlington it is $1.86. The request to meet this competition was made by wire and an immediate answer was desired. An answer was wired by the commission granting the request with the provision that a greater sum should not be charged for the shorter hauls to intermediate points. It is understood that the Missouri Pacific intends making this effective the first of the month.

Boy Is Brought Home.

Bringing little Oswald Koepfen with him, but leaving the father of the boy in jail at Breckenridge, Minn., where he was apprehended by the authorities as he hurried north to the Canadian border, Constable Roy Cook arrived in Fremont. Mrs. Koepfen came down from Snyder to meet her son and there was an affecting little scene at the union passenger station when she took the little fellow in her arms. It has been over eighteen months since Mrs. Koepfen has been able to see her son. During that time he was kept by his father, who hurried away with him when he learned that the court had given Mrs. Koepfen her decree of divorce and the custody of the children. Koepfen at once started for Craada.

Fullerton Post Sold.

The Fullerton Post has changed editors and proprietors twice during April. The first of the month Ben Curin sold the plant to Robert Adams, a former owner, and after two issues of the paper he again disposed of the paper to ex-County Treasurer John R. Doff of Atchinson county, Missouri. Mr. Doff is already in the field and last week issued his first number. The paper will continue to be straight republican in politics.

Fire Set by Match.

Ray Patterson of Syracuse had a close call from cremation. He was working in his yard when he struck a match on the seat of his trousers and before he realized it the back of his clothing was on fire. But for the fact that his wife witnessed the accident and came to his rescue and stripped him of his clothing, he would have been burned to death. As it was he was severely burned on the back and about the shoulders and is confined to his bed.

TO TEST ANTI-PASS LAW.

Friendly Suit Brought in a Cass County Court.

A friendly action to test the anti-pass law, recently enacted by the state legislature, was filed by County Attorney Rawls in Justice Archer's court at Plattsmouth. The defendant to the action is Judge A. N. Sullivan, and he is charged with accepting a pass from the Missouri Pacific Railway company—the pass having been tendered to him as the local attorney for the company. A warrant was duly served on Mr. Sullivan, and that gentleman appeared before the court, waived preliminary examination, and was bound over to the district court. By this action it is sought to settle the question as to whether attorneys or physicians employed not more than half of the time by railroads can legally accept passes from such roads. The law merely permits bona fide employees to ride upon passes and designates these as persons who are occupied for a major portion of their time in the service of the railroads.

KILLED IN A TRENCH.

Scott Miner Covered by Cave-in Near Tekamah.

While pulling tiling through the back of the Peterson trench about seven miles north of Tekamah, Scott Miner was killed by the excavated dirt slipping into the trench covering him with over three feet of gumbo. Robert Palmantier was working with him at the time but had crawled out of the trench upon the bank a few minutes before the accident happened. He heard Miner yell as the dirt commenced to slide and immediately started to dig him out. He couldn't succeed in time.

CARS THROWN FROM TRACK.

Wreck of Burlington North-bound Train Near Leshera.

The Burlington north-bound train was wrecked a mile east of Leshera, Neb., thrown from the rails by a broken flange. The train ran for 100 yards on the ties cutting them up, and finally the tender rolled into the ditch and the baggage car tipped over. All of the cars left the track. The passengers were brought to Fremont on the south-bound train which ran to the point of the wreck and returned. No one was seriously hurt.

Booming Town of Rosalie.

The Rosalie Townsite company has been incorporated. Frank B. Rhoda, John F. Piper, Frasser L. Cook, Geo. C. Maryott and Harry L. Keefe are named as incorporators. Rosalie is a new town on the B. & M., and Great Northern connection between Lincoln and Sioux City, located in Thurston county, in a fine farming district. The town now has two grain elevators, a bank and several other business establishments. Another elevator will be built immediately and a lumber yard established. The townsite company will push the town to the front and it already offers excellent inducements in many lines.

No Effect on Nebraska.

A telegram sent out from Washington to the effect that the commissioner of the general land office had issued instructions to registers and receivers and local land offices permitting the various states to select school land in lieu of the land in the forest reserves has occasioned numerous inquiries at the office of Land Commissioner Eaton. Nebraska has considerable land in the forest reserves in this state, but there will be no other land taken in lieu of this. At this time Nebraska has about 120 acres coming to it from the government, but that is all. The land included in the forest reserves and belonging to the state and leased is being used by the lessees, who have permission to go to and from the land at will.

Lay Corner Stone of Church.

The corner-stone to St. Michael's Catholic church was laid by Bishop Sconnell of Omaha in the presence of a large gathering of people from all sections of that part of the state. The dedicatory address was delivered by Rev. Father Harrington of Omaha. When completed the building will be the finest in that part of Nebraska.

Imposes Occupation Tax.

The city council of University Place has passed an ordinance imposing an occupation tax on telephone companies, making the tax $100 per year for each system operated within its borders and $25 for a toll station. The council of that city is contemplating building a large water reservoir or system for emergency use.

Two Wedding Anniversaries.

In honor of the sixtieth wedding anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Richards of Edgar, a large number of relatives and friends surprised them. About 150 relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Robb to help them celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Electrocuting Rats.

Business men of a Main street block, Fremont, have undertaken by a novel means to rid their stores of rats which have been infesting them in such numbers as to be greatly annoying. Two of them contrived to build an electric platform which they connected with wires from the city plant. Cheese was placed upon this and when the rats went on the metal, the current was turned on. It was not strong enough to kill the rodents, but stunned them and they could easily be dispatched.

CAPITAL CITY CHAT

RAILROADS ANNOUNCE THAT RATES WILL BE CHANGED.

NOTIFY THE COMMISSION

Will in the Future Make Rates on Their Interstate Travel Conform to Local Tariff Schedule—Other Lincoln Gossip.

Roads Make Announcement.

The state railway commission has received an intimation that both the Burlington and Northwestern railroads will in the near future make their rates on interstate travel conform to the local tariff schedules. The information was announced several days ago unofficially, but the matter has been conveyed to the commission in such a form that they believe they are safe in relying upon it. This will leave the Union Pacific undecided, but the belief is that this road also will join with other Nebraska lines and adjust the schedule of charges.

Monthly Report Forms.

The railroad commission has drawn up blank forms for railroad agents at all stations to use in making a monthly report of business as follows:

Freight forwarded—Number cars of wheat; number cars of corn; number cars of other grain and grain products; number cars of live stock, east and west; all other cars forwarded; weight in pounds, all less than car lots, merchandise; weight in pounds, all car load lots; total amount line charges, less than car load lots; total amount line charges, car load lots. Freight received—Number cars of lumber; number cars of lime, cement and sand; number cars of other building material; number cars of grain and grain products; number cars of coal, hard and soft; number cars of live stock; all other car loads received; total weights in pounds all merchandise, less than car load lots; total weight in pounds merchandise received, car load lots; total amount line charges, less than car load lots; total amount line charges, car load lots.

Ticket sales for month—Total amount sold to state points; total amount sold to interstate points. This report must be made up not later than the 15th of the month succeeding that for which it is issued and mailed to the railway commission, Lincoln, Neb.

The commission has decided to demand a weekly report from railroad officials at division points showing the number of cars on hand and their location.

This will be done to prevent car shortage.

Commission to Work.

When the railway commission this week takes up the matter of considering complaints it will have one of the biggest tasks on hand that it has as yet tackled. It has served notice that the railroads which desire to discuss the matter of rates with the commission may be on hand and has also asked that any persons with complaints to register may appear. It is likely that matters already formally complained against will be taken up first. The commission is waiting for an opinion on the interstate phase of the two-cent fare in Nebraska in view of the decision of the United States supreme court reversing a long line of other decisions in this respect. If the commission is to enforce the two-cent fare law as it affects western Nebraska, it may be obliged to take a case into the courts on its own motion or it is possible that the authority granted in the North Carolina case decided recently by the United States supreme court, giving almost unlimited power to a railroad commission empowered to "regulate" railroads, may be sufficient to force the railroads to comply with the spirit of the law in Nebraska.

As to Pure Food Law.

A letter was sent to the secretary of state recently asking whether it was a violation of the law to include in a package of oatmeal a dish. The new law provides that any premium given with a package is not permissible and the applicant sought to ascertain whether it would be adjudged a premium if a dish were placed in a package out of the goodness of the hearts of the manufacturers. The secretary of state did not know and he sought to refer the matter to the attorney general but the legal department was at the time busily engaged in finding out some other questions of vital interest to the state at large and if anything is done, it will be by the manufacturer engaging eminent counsel and testing the law in the courts of the commonwealth.

Archer Serving Sentence.

David Archer of Valentine yesterday commenced his sentence in the penitentiary for shooting a man living near him in Cherry county. He was brought to Lincoln nominally in custody, but the sheriff in charge had so much confidence in him that he was permitted to go to the state house to interview some of the officials there alone. Senator Hanna of Cherry county also came to Lincoln in the effort to secure a pardon for the young man, if possible. A hearing on the application for pardon has been set for May 24.

Receipts Are Large.

The balance sheet of the state treasurer's office for April discloses the largest receipts of which there is record in recent years. The business at the close of last year was large but the receipts of April, amounting to $875,891.53 discount them by many thousands of dollars. The increase is due largely to the payment of railroad taxes under the decision of the supreme court of the United States. The funds on hand April 30, including all moneys of whatever description, totaled $726,212.48. This sum is large because it contains $367,643.34 of the temporary school fund which this month will be distributed among the various counties. It has been in process of collection for the past six months. The institutions' cash fund is newly created by the act of the last legislature and is rapidly increasing.

Raises Taxation Problem.

Tax Commissioner A. S. Dudley, of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway has written a letter to the state board of equalization in which he asks for a reduction of the road's valuation in the state of Nebraska because it has only "trackage rights" over the Union Pacific in entering Omaha from Iowa. He finds that the Rock Island road, while it has track in Nebraska, is not assessed on its "trackage rights" from South Omaha to the union station in Omaha and asks why there is discrimination. He does not enter formal protest but declares that there is good cause for a reduced valuation on the part of the Nebraska board.

Re-districting for the Insane.

The board of public lands and buildings held a meeting at which the superintendents of the insane asylums appeared and asked for a re-districting of the state with regard to the caring for insane patients. Heretofore the Hastings hospital has been an institution for the care of chronic insane, but the legislature passed a law removing the word "chronic" from the title of the institution under which it will be possible for the Adams county hospital to care for insane persons of all classes. The state board decided to let the superintendents of the hospitals make recommendations for re-districting the state and will adopt it in all probability. One division suggested and which will probably go through is that the Hastings asylum care for all the insane coming from the territory west of a line drawn on the westline of Saline county and running to the Platte and thence to the west line of Merrick county and to the northern boundary of Nebraska. The Lincoln asylum will care for all insane east of this line and south of the Platte and including those from Douglas county, while the Norfolk institution will care for those north of the Platte and east of the line marking off the territory for the Hastings asylum.

Reappoints Superintendents.

Governor Sheldon re-appointed Drs. J. T. Hay, G. A. Young and W. B. Kern, as superintendents of the insane hospitals at Lincoln, Norfolk and Hastings respectively. He also appointed Dr. J. G. Muir of Milford, as physician at the soldiers' and sailors' home at Milford and re-appointed Dr. W. K. Loughridge as physician at the Milford industrial home for women. The appointment of the heads of the insane hospitals is made under the provisions of the new law, S. F. No. 28, which specifies that the superintendents are to be named for a term not to exceed six years.

Bids Defective.

At the meeting of the state board of education held at Peru, a bid received for the new heating plant at the school was found to be incomplete and of such a nature that it was rejected. It was made on plans drawn by the Peru engineer. Plans will be drawn by an architect and will be available at an early date at the office of the state superintendent. Another meeting of the state board will be held on May 10.

Capitol Callers.

Representative J. W. Armstrong, M. T. Harrison, Former Representative Herbert Howe, Dr. Tyler of Auburn and Former County Attorney F. Ferneau of Auburn were at the capitol recently.

Dr. Tyler Is Candidate.

Dr. Tyler of Auburn is a candidate for membership of the state board of education. The term of T. J. Majors will expire on June 21 and at that time the governor will be called upon to name his successor. Nemaha county politics was always quite a little aroused over the mention of the name of Colonel Majors and it is probable that the occasion of Mr. Majors' leaving the board will not be bawled at, least by a few of the politicians in Southeastern Nebraska. It is said that a desire exists to secure the selection of a member of the board from a town outside Peru so that local politics may not enter into any of the school affairs.

Lean Is Appointed.

The banking board appointed George R. Lean of St. Paul examiner, term to begin July 1, and end Jan. 1, 1907. State Auditor Searle and State Treasurer Brian voted for him and Attorney General Thompson voted for Roy Marshall of Otoe county. The reduction of the term was made partly out of deference to the claim that there is no need for an additional examiner. Mr. Lean is a well-to-do man who has been closely confined to his work for a long term of years.

NICKNAMES STICK TO BALL PLAYERS

SOME ARE FUNNY WHILE OTHERS INDICATE STYLE OF THE OWNER.

ORIGIN OF MANY IS UNKNOWN

Odd "Handles" That Have Been Given to Various American League Stars—Lajole of Cleveland Is Larry, King or Nap—"Wild Bill" Donovan One of the Steadiest Players.

Few if any of the ball players in the American league are without one or more nicknames. In fact, the public know many of the players better by their nicknames than they do their Christian name. Lajole is spoken of more often as Larry, King or Nap than by the original. It's just the same with all the other stars.

Some of the nicknames handed the players are very funny and it's hard to discover their origin. There are at present quite a few doctors and dentists in the league, who write prescriptions and pull teeth during the off season. Of course all such players go by the name of "Doc." There are also a few players who travel under the name of "Doc" who know nothing about medicine or dentistry. During his early years in the big league, "Bill" Donovan, of Detroit, had a world of speed and poor control. He was dubbed "Wild Bill" and the name still hangs with him, although he is one of the steadiest players in the league.

The fans are always interested in nicknames and here are a few of the funny ones handed the stars on the different American league team.

Chicago—Sullivan, "Sully"; A. Nick; Hart, "Hub"; White, "L. Donahue"; Jiggs; Isbell, "Izzy"; Lannell; "Tanny"; Rohe, "Whitney"; Dougherty, Pat; O'Neil, "Tip"; Walsh, "Big Ed"; Towne, "Jay"; Hahn, Eddie; Comiskey, "Commy."

Detroit—Schmidt, "Smitty"; Payne, "Doc"; Donovan, "Wild Bill"; Mullin, George; Eubanks, "Honest John"; Donahue, "Red"; Stever, Ed; Schaefer, "Germany"; O'Leary, Charlie; Coughlin, "Bill"; McIntyre, "Matty"; Cobb, "Ty"; Crawford, Sam.

St. Louis—Spencer, Hack; O'Connor, "Rowdy Jack"; Buelow, Fritz; Glade, Fred; Peltz, "Barney"; Powell, Jack; Howell, "Arty"; Jones, Tom; Niles, Harry; Wallace, Rhody and Bobby; Delahanty, Jim; Yeager, Joe; Stone, "Silent George"; Hemphill, "Hemp"; Pickering, Ollie and Pick.

New York—McGuire, "Old Jim"; Klefau, Jack; Orth, Al and "Charless Wonder"; Hogs, "Peggy"; Chesbro, Jack; Clarkson, Walter; Chase, Hal; Williams, Jimmy; Elberoad, "Kid"; Moriarty, George; Conroy, "Connie"; Keeler, "Wee Willie"; Delahanty, Frank; La Porte, Frank.

Cleveland—Lajole, Larry, Nap, King and many others; Clark, "Nig"; Bemis, Harry; Joss, Addie and the "Human Slat"; Rhoades, "Dusty"; Hess, Olf; Bernhard, Bill; Liebhardt, Cupid; Glen and Iron Man; Berger, Helme; Ehmam, Buff; Turner, Terry; Stovall, "Brother George"; Bradley, Bill; Flick, Elmer and "Gene"; Bay, "Deerfoot"; Congalton, "Conny"; Birmingham, "Dode"; O'Brien, Peter; Wakefield, "Wake."

Philadelphia—Powers, "Doc"; Shreckengost, "Shreck"; Waddell, "Rube"; Vickers, "Doc"; Plank, Eddie; Bender, "Chief"; Davis, Harry; Murphy, Danny; Knight, Jack; Cross, Monte; Hartsell, "Topsy"; Seybold "Socks."

Boston—Criger, Lew; Armbruster, "Buster"; Young, "Cy"; Dineen, "Big Bill"; Winters, George; Harris, "Fat"; Grimsbaw, "Grim"; Ferris, "Hobe"; Parent, Freddy; Collins, Jim; Hoey, "Hoss"; Freeman, "Buck."

Washington—Hughes, "Long Tom"; Patten, Case; Falkenberg, "Falk"; Stahl, Jake; Schafly, Larry and "Shaf"; Cross, "Lave"; Jones, Charley; Hickman, "Cheerful Hick"; Anderson, "Long John"; Kitson, "Kit"; Altizer, "Tize."

GOSSIP OF THE PLAYERS

A recruit named Baxter is trying hard to displace Jake Beckley at St. Louis. He is said to be a batter as well as a Baxter. Liebhardt is making good with Cleveland, and will be a valuable addition to Lajole's pitching staff. Charlie O'Leary bats eighth for Detroit. He hasn't shown much in the batting line this season.

The huskiest catching staff in the league, when it comes to helping out in the batting line, is that of Cleveland: Bemis, Clark and Wakefield. All three are powerful hitters. Jacobsen is pitching much prettier ball than at any time last season, and yet has lost every game he has pitched.

Catcher Jim McGuire has just finished the building of a flour mill up near Albion, Mich. He says everything is ready to start and that he will have bread whether the Highlanders win the pennant or not.

The New York Americans have never played a game with a National league club. The Cincinnati club has released Pitcher Jack Kennedy to Louisville. John O'Connor, pitching recruit with the Philadelphia Athletics, is suffering from congestion of the brain. In an attempt to bunt the ball was fouled and hit him in the head. Cy Young has wagered he will win over half his games this year, and that he will win a larger per cent. of his games than the club will win.

Notice to the Public

ON Saturday, May 18 I will open a new jewelry store on the west side of the City Pharmacy drug store building, consisting of everything in jewels, watches, clocks, rings, chains, charms, bracelets, etc.

My entire line is brand new and up-to-date, and was selected from the largest stock in the central west.

A full and complete line of Elgin and Waltham watches, Rogers 1847 silverware, and, in fact, everything is high-grade and as well known as the last mentioned article.

I will, also, do all kinds of repair work—can do anything done by any other jeweler. All work guaranteed to give satisfaction.

Other announcements will be given later.

Repair work can be left at the City Pharmacy now, and will be done promptly.

Don't forget the date, May 18.
I ask a share of your patronage.

They must have a strong brand of whiskey at Scotia. Not long ago two fellows after filling up of Scotia rot-gut came over to North Loup and robbed Earnest Bros. store. Now another forlorn stranger, being full of the same class of fluid from Scotia, stole a coat on the train and was not long loose on the streets of Ord before he was nabbed by our authorities. There is one good thing about the whiskey, though, it seems to land the fellows who take it in jail.

A prominent official of the city complains that the fight made by the Quiz on the saloons is not fair because we possess an advantage by reason of having a paper to talk through. We suggested that the complaint was not well founded for the saloon men had their organ, the Journal, to defend them, which suggestion simply called forth a sneer. "The Journal," he said, "will not say anything either way and so the saloon interests might just as well have no paper at all." This being true, all must admit, we made him the proposition that anything printable that the saloon men wanted to say in their defense will be cheerfully printed in the columns of the Quiz. A free and fair discussion of any subject is what the Quiz wants, and if anyone has anything decent to say in opposition to what the Quiz has been saying or on any other theme they have the freedom of these columns for the purpose of saying it. The communications will be treated with perfect fairness. Now, do not say that you have not a fair chance to fight your saloon fights.

Ord is going to have a chautauqua. That is settled. But will we have a second, a third one, one every year? Success is necessary this summer if we make this great institution a permanent feature of summer life in Ord. It is hard for a few people to carry through to success such a big enterprise. If every one in this city will help a little. No money donations are asked for. The management only wants the active good will of everyone. The kind of good will that will cause you to make it a point to talk about the chautauqua. To take the trouble to tell your friends that you are going and ask them to make arrangements to attend throughout the entire session. It is worth your best efforts. Just boost for all you are worth.

One of the foremost men in America today is Congressman J. Adam Bede of Minnesota. He is known as the humorist of congress and is amply able to sustain the reputation. But he is more than humorous and witty. He is a profound thinker and is always found on the right side of public affairs where right and wrong are the issues. Besides he is a remarkably pleasing and entertaining speaker. We are indeed glad to know that Congressman Bede has been secured for a lecture during our next summer's chautauqua.

We are promised choice berries, fresh lettuce and radishes this week. Fackler and Finley, the grocers.

Someone or two people told Miss Roxy Auble that they had heard that she had withdrawn from the piano contest, and she requests us to state that she is not a quitter. She has no thought of quitting till she wins the piano. Just how the rumor got started she cannot guess, and does not think it is at all general, but she wishes us to assure her friends that she is working for the piano with all her might.

The attention of our readers is called to the new advertisement of Fred Hallock in this issue. This young man has for the past few months been running a jewelry store in Kenesaw, and his friends will be glad to learn of his intention to open up a store in the Mamie Siler building in a short time, using a part of the floor space occupied by the City Pharmacy.

DANIEL C. BAILEY DEAD

One of Valley County's Oldest Citizens Has Gone to Rest.

Was Member of First Board of Commissioners.

Peacefully at 10:30 o'clock this morning Daniel C. Bailey, one of the first settlers of this vicinity, passed on to his reward.

Though at the time of his coming he was a comparatively old man he has figured prominently in the affairs of the county until recent years. Of late he has kept pretty close to his home across the river, passing his time quietly with his venerable wife and family.

A week ago tonight he suffered a chill, which was the first symptom of the final end, and has since that time been slowly sinking.

He died, as he had lived, at peace with the world.

No citizen of Valley county was ever held in higher esteem, by all who knew him, than this good man. Though he has lived far beyond the allotted time of man, and was slowly but surely coming to the end, his death is nevertheless a shock to the com-

So says the Ord Journal. Poor thing. Innocent folks are not easily scared, but the guilty are always looking for the arm of the law to get hold of them. Another kind of a tinker was arrested yesterday for stealing a coat. Was this an anti-saloon detective too? 'Fraud cat!

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Partridge and daughter took final leave of Ord Thursday morning, going to Hastings, where they have purchased a hotel, the deal being closed some days ago. The Partridges are first class hotel people, and it is the opinion of the many friends here that they will make a success of their Hastings venture. They sold their residence, the former Elmer Gard property in the western part of town, Wednesday to Walter Stark, who will move therein soon. The Partridges purchased this property when they quit the Ord hotel some months ago, and have been living there. The best wishes of their Ord friends go with them to their new location.

Daniel Cooley Bailey, the grand old man of the Loup, was born in New York state, October 15, 1820, which made him at the time of his death 87 years, 6 months and 24 days old. He was married April 6, 1845, to Susan E. Dale. They have four children, Mary, George, Harry and Frank. Leaving New York the Bailey family sojourned for some years in Wisconsin and came on west to Nebraska and the Loup in 1872. They came overland by way of Nance county and reached the sight of their future home September 3, 1872. From the first, Mr. Bailey was one of the pillars of the upper colony. When Valley county was organized in 1873 he was elected one of the first board of commissioners and as such performed his duty well. When the Indian scares of 1873 stirred the settlements his cabin became a rallying point; when later needy wayfarers happened up on the north side of the Loup, they could expect a hearty welcome from Grandpa and Grandma Bailey.

Smith's Domestic Kitchen. Thirty-one hungry and happy young folks sat down to a well filled table and did justice to the viands, which it is needless to say, were of the best, and reflect much credit upon the caterers. The decorations were in cream and green. Several witty and enjoyable toasts were given by the students and members of the faculty. The affair was one not soon to be forgotten by all. A couple of hours were pleasantly spent in games and other amusements in the K. P. hall prior to the banquet.

Today was the time set for hearing the application of Hall & Heuck for a saloon license. As they are applying in another name for another license it was practically sure that they would not stand trial, but they kept in court till the law and order people brought their lawyer from Lincoln and then withdraw their application. The other case is set for hearing next Thursday, when, doubtless, the same tactics will be pursued. As soon as Wolfenbarger gets to town they will withdraw their application. This is done of course to put the people who want to see the law enforced to as much expense as possible. We have not so much kick for this kind of monkey-business from the applicants, but for the city council to aid and abet the matter is wrong. The remonstrators tried to have the two cases set on the same day so that both would have to be dismissed or tried and so they would have to bring Wolfenbarger here but once, but the city council refused to do this, they setting the trials on different days. The council sitting as a court ought to be above such tactics, but this council is not. When they do such things why should they kick on being called brass-collars?

Quietly—that is as quietly as women can do things—the ladies of the Methodist church planned for a reception to Rev. M. A. Wimberley at the church after prayer meeting last night. A big bowl of punch brewed from the most intoxicating oranges that Fackler & Finley could furnish was provided and a neat purse of money raised as an earnest, good will. After the prayer meeting services the doors were opened to the main auditorium and presently the church was filled with friends of the family. The affair was wholly informal, people sitting or walking about as suited them. During the evening Rev. Halsey presented the pastor with the purse using a few happy remarks in doing so. The response of the pastor was characteristic and both laughable and sad.

A few people have asked us to print the names of the remonstrators to the saloon petitions, saying that it was not fair to do otherwise. We had not supposed that any one was interested in the matter, but that there may be no appearance of unfairness we will print them in our Tuesday's issue.

For the first time since the passage of the law creating a county board of health, the board was organized in Valley county the other day. Under the law the board of supervisors constitute the board of health with the county clerk as clerk of the board and some physician as physician to the board. This latter appointment was given to Dr. Shepard. The board met last Saturday and organized and set about going at county health matters with vigor. All cases of contagious diseases will be punished with severity. The law makes imperative upon every physician to report to the board all cases of contagious diseases, and the injunction is just as strong against other people keeping knowledge of such cases from the board. If you employ a physician you are relieved from reporting the case as it will be his duty to report it, but if you do not have a physician you will be held responsible for seeing that the board are advised at once of the presence of the diseases in your home. The fact that you "did not know" will not excuse you. The purpose of the law is not to compel the people to hire a physician, but to stamp out these diseases, and the only way to do it is to know where they are and to see to the quarantine and disinfecting of the homes. If the law is carried out rigorously in time we will have these diseases stamped out. As it has been this was impossible. We could quarantine in town and disinfected, but the disease having full sway in the country it would surely be brought in again. If you know of any cases of scarlet fever or other contagious diseases you should report it at once, for the law makes it your duty to report cases that come under your knowledge whether they are in your home or not.

SPONTANEOUS REMARKS.

Cases Where Suspense Has Called Forth Emphatic Requests.

Charley Stone was one of many unfortunates who took one night stands in the wild, wild west, with a repertory of Shakespeare and other grands of the classics. The first violin in the orchestra played alto together on the E string until a well armed cowboy arose and said: "Pardner, I'm a graduate of Yale. I've been in this part of the country for nigh on nine years. I love music." Then, drawing his seven shooter, he added, "Fiddle a little on some other string or I'll make you look like a coal sifter."

Intense excitement was caused in De Give's Opera House in Atlanta a number of years ago when Jefferson was playing Rip Van Winkle. Every county in the state was represented in the audience. Emotions were deeply stirred and but ill suppressed when the profligate Rip was driven from home. A very distinguished looking old gentleman arose in the center of the auditorium and relieved the situation by crying in a loud voice: "Don't go, Rip! Don't go!" Then the lachrymal dams burst, and everybody wept. Of course we all know that men are hired at times to create these effects, but now and then such actions are spontaneous.

In Bartley Campbell's day there came pretty near being a riot over a lost baby in one of Harry Miner's theaters. It was a stage baby—a bit of real property, however—and its mother was almost crazed when some bandits kidnaped it. The Bowery audience were wrought up to the highest pitch of melodramatic interest. An attenuated westerner, over six feet high, unable longer to stand the strain, stood up and, pointing to the wings, yelled with fearful emphasis: "That's the brat over in the corner! Give it back to its mother an' let the play go on or I'll wreck the whole darn concern!" It took several policemen and ushers to restore him to reason and quiet the fury of the gallery gods.—Exchange.

Absent Treatment.

A man went into a drug store and asked for something to cure a headache. The druggist held a bottle of hartshorn to his nose, and he was nearly overpowered by its pungency. As soon as he recovered he began to rail at the druggist.

"But did not it help your headache?" asked the apothecary.

"Help my headache!" gasped the man. "I haven't any headache. It's my wife that has the headache."

BILLINGSGATE.

Markets Seen the Natural Abode of Strong Language.

The unpolished phraseology, native though not peculiar to this quarter of London, has given rise to the proverbial use of the name Billingsgate. "One may term this the Esculine gate of London," says old Fuller. "Here one may hear linguas jurgatricas." The seventeenth century references to the "rhetoric" or obscene language of the market are frequent, and hence foul language itself is called "billingsgate." In "Vanity Fair," too, Thackeray tells us how Mr. Osborne cursed Billingsgate with an emphasis worthy of the place.

It is curious how markets are the natural abode of strong language. Thus the French equivalent for "You are no better than a Billingsgate fish fag" is "Your compliments are like those of the Place Maubert," the Place Maubert being noted for its market.

In the good old days the Billingsgate porters seem to have thoroughly enjoyed themselves, for one Bangford, writing in 1715, says: "This being to my mind another ancient custom that hath been omitted of late years. It seems that in former times the porters that plied at Billingsgate used civilly to entreat and desire every man that passed that way to salute a post that stood there in a vacant place. If he refused to do this, they forthwith laid hold of him and by main force bumped him against the post. But if he quietly submitted to kiss the same and paid down sixpence they gave him a name and chose some one of the gang for his godfather. I believe this was done in memory of some old image that formerly stood there, perhaps Belus or Belin."

The original porters of Billingsgate belonged to one of the oldest labor guilds in the country, the Fellowship of Porters, and at one time the carrying work both at Billingsgate and from the wharfs to the warehouses of the city within a certain radius was entirely performed by them.—London Globe.

Splendid Isolation.

A number of military men in a Washington hotel were once giving an account of an incident of the civil war. A quiet man who stood by at last said:

"Gentlemen, I happened to be there and might be able to refresh your memory as to what took place in reference to the event just narrated."

The hotel keeper said to him: "Sir, what might have been your rank?"

"I was a private."

Next day the quiet man as he was about to depart asked for his bill.

"Not a cent, sir; not a cent," answered the proprietor. "You are the very first private I ever met."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Final Disappointment.

A man who was something of a gourmet ordered a dinner for himself and his party which from the menu should have been very palatable, but apparently it was not so. Course succeeded course, and toward the end of the meal the host could restrain himself no longer. He called up the waiter and expostulated. "I ordered a good dinner, and we have waited patiently for some satisfactory dish. The soup was a failure, the fish was a disappointment, the entree uneatable, and I am sorry to tell you that during the whole dinner there has been nothing worth looking at." The waiter looked troubled for an instant and then, brightening up, said, "If you wait a moment, sir, I will bring you the bill."

Breathing Plants.

Plants give off carbon dioxide just as a man does when breathing. Professor J. R. A. Davis describes an experiment in which a growing plant is placed in a glass jar just large enough to cover it, the jar being sealed with a greased glass plate. The jar is then put in a dark place for a time. When opened a lighted match plunged therein will be extinguished, showing that the plant has used up the oxygen in the jar. If some limewater has been left in the jar, it will be found to have turned milky, which shows that carbon dioxide has been given off by the plant.

His Logic.

Up in northern New Hampshire there lived a good woman who was an ardent Second Adventist. One night in the winter she was awakened by a loud noise, caused by the tumbling over of the woodpile in the shed connected with the house. Sitting up in bed, she shook her husband, who was sound asleep, and said: "John, wake up. Old Gabriel is coming. I hear his chariot wheels rumbling."

John, half awake, said: "Mary, lie down and go to sleep. Old Gabriel isn't such a fool as to come on wheels in such good sleighing as this."

THIEVES' SLANG.

The Traveling Irish Tinkers and the Romany Rye.

The origin of the thieves' slang of cant? Well, I guess that's a thing that's buried in the mists of antiquity, as the scholars say. But I once read up on the subject, and they say the Irish are responsible—at least for its introduction into our language. There used to be men who traveled the roads of England known as Irish tinkers.

They were traveling machinists and did all sorts of repair work. They were a canny lot—sort of a labor union—they were the wisest men in England in their way. It was worth a man's life to break into their organization irregularly.

Along about 1530 the Romany Rye people—gypsies, they call them—came to England from the continent. They were wanderers like the tinkers, and naturally the two classes came together. The tinkers picked up a few words of the gypsy lingo.

The tinkers took to the jargon, added new words to it, and it became the language in a way of their class. Finally it drifted to the criminal element, and thus was born thieves' patter, flash, lingo, jargon or whatever you may call it.

The origin of many of the words is quite plain when one stops to study for a moment. Now, take the word "bull," which is used to distinguish a policeman in plain clothes. In the early days the roundsmen of London carried bullseye lanterns because of the unlighted condition of the streets. Roundsmen could tell the approach of the roundsmen or constables by their lanterns. "Here comes a bullseye" was the natural cry.

This was contracted to "bull," and the appellation still sticks. Take the word "toy," which thieves use as the slang term for a watch. Years ago only the very rich could afford a watch because of the expense, and those who could not own a watch and therefore did not realize their usefulness called them "toys" as the rich were not supposed to purchase anything useful.

The word "Bible," to distinguish a pocketbook, comes from the fact that the Bible is the most respected of all books, and as thieves respect a well filled pocketbook above all things they designate it as a "Bible." So it is with most of the words.

American thieves are constantly inventing new slang terms and abandoning old expressions. Many cant words have been adopted as good English. They often have a pat quality that appeals to the mind and by constant usage are coined into the language of the realm.—Chicago Tribune.

The Unattached Woman.

Nowhere else in the world is the woman who has chosen the single life so thoroughly her own mistress, so wholly the arbiter of her own destiny, so completely at liberty to create the atmosphere that shall make for her happiness as in New York. In Paris she is declassé—an object of social suspicion, because she has not openly annexed a bread winner. In London she becomes the mother by proxy of her sister's children or some distant relative's children. In the lesser cities of the United States, a writer in Woman believes, some of the old prejudice remains against the woman who has missed or declined matrimony. She is to a degree the superfluous woman and as such is tolerated or pitied, but never approved.—New York World.

Wasn't Delicate at All.

A young man not regarded as a very desirable suitor had called upon a young lady a number of times, each time to be told by the maid that "Miss Florence is not well today."

One day in response to his card the young lady's mother, who was a recent accession to the newly rich ranks and whose education was not as sure as it might be, appeared and explained once more to the young man that the daughter was not well.

"I am very sorry, indeed," said the young man as he rose to go, "that your daughter is so delicate." "Delicate?" sniffed the mother. "Florence delicate? Not at all. Why, she is the most indelicate girl you ever met."

His Scheme Worked All Right.

It is related that a certain man was recently very sad because his wife had gone out of town on a visit, which she would not shorten in spite of his appeals to her to come home. He finally hit upon a plan to induce her to return. He sent her a copy of each of the local papers with one item clipped out, and when she wrote to find out what it was he had clipped out he refused to tell her.

The scheme worked admirably. In less than a week she was home to find out what it was that had been going on that her husband didn't want her to know about.

How He Looked.

An old woman was being questioned by a lawyer as to how a testator had looked when he made a remark to her about some relatives.

"How can I remember? He's been dead two years," she answered testily.

"Is your memory so poor that you can't remember two years back?" he persisted.

The old woman was silent, and the lawyer asked, "Did he look anything like me?"

"Seems to me he did have the same sort of vacant look," responded the witness.

The lawyer had no further questions to ask her.

Quiz Piano Voting Contest

1st Prize: A beautiful Hamilton Piano purchased from A. C. Johnson & Co. and now on exhibition at his store.

2nd Prize: A fine gold watch from the stock of Geo. A. Parkins. The Parkins store only handles good ones and this is one of his best.

4th Prize: A dozen of the Mutter studios best $5 photographs. They are good ones.

2 Special Prizes: We want new subscribers and as a special inducement to contestants to secure them will give to the one securing the largest number of new subscribers their choice of a Fifty-Dollar International Correspondence School certificate or Ten Dollars in Gold; the person getting the second largest number of new subscribers to have prize left after first prize winner's selection.

WHO MAY ENTER THE CONTEST.

Any lady or girl residing in Valley county, except residents of Ord, will be permitted to enter this contest. No person living in Ord will be permitted to become a contestant. Ord people may vote in this contest and all contestants have the privilege of soliciting votes in Ord as well as elsewhere. It will probably take a few weeks to get this contest organized and get the voting under good headway; after that, a couple of months ought to be enough to cover the county thoroughly; and as soon as this work is done the contest will close and prizes will be awarded.

HOW TO SECURE VOTES.

For each cent paid to the Quiz to renew a subscription, ten votes will be allowed: $1.00 paid will equal 1000 votes; 1.50 (the price of one year's subscription) will equal 1500 votes, etc.

For every cent paid on the Quiz on new subscription (that is by someone not already a subscriber) twenty votes will be allowed: $1.00 will equal 2000 votes and 1.50 will equal 3000 votes.

The payment of advance subscription entitles to extra votes as follows:

Five years fully paid in advance.....2,000 extra votes.
Ten years fully paid in advance.....5,000 extra votes.
Fifteen years fully paid in advance.....10,000 extra votes.

VOTING CARDS.

When the subscription money is received at the Quiz office a voting card filled out in ink will be issued. This card may then be cast in the ballot box for some one of the contestants, or it may be taken away from the office and voted at any time before the close of the contest, or it may be taken away and burnt up, torn up or anything that the holder wishes to do with it. There will be no duplicate votes issued and no votes will be counted or published in the paper until they have been cast in the ballot box in our office.

TWO PAPERS FOR THE PRICE OF ONE.

The price of the Quiz is $1.50 per year. We have made special arrangements with the Nebraska Farmer, of Lincoln, whereby they take an active part in this contest, and we will combine the two papers and give our subscribers the benefit of getting two papers at the $1.50 per year rate.

The Nebraska Farmer is the best farm and family paper for a Nebraskan to take. It comes weekly and is stopped promptly at the time your subscription expires.

DATE OF CLOSING CONTEST.

This contest will close on Saturday, August 3, at 6 o'clock p. m. and all votes must be in the box at that time. Should there be a tie between the contestants on the counting of the votes August 3, the contest will continue one week, until August 10, at the same hour.

The Imperial Cossack Troopers from the Steppes of Russia.

The Japanese are acknowledged to be the most daring and graceful acrobats in the world. In Japan athletics are encouraged, fostered and recognized by the Imperial government. The Mikado bestows upon those who are most proficient, medals and tokens in recognition of feats of strength or some daring exploit. Certain days of the year are set aside for athletic sports and the most intense interest is taken in these "fete days" by the inhabitants of the Flowery Kingdom. There is a troupe of twelve of these wonderful acrobats with Campbell Brothers' circus which exhibits at Ord on May 20, that have toured the world, appeared and performed before all the crowned heads of Europe. This is their first appearance in America, and wherever the Campbell Bros. have exhibited these little Japs have created unbounded enthusiasm by their marvelous performance. Circus day will open with a gorgeous and brilliant street parade at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Street Fairs.

The Methodists of Fremont have gone on record against street fairs, and their action will command the approval of the people of many cities where this form of amusement has been carried to a disgraceful extreme.

The original street fair idea was a good one. Merchants erected booths in front of their places of business and manufacturers displayed the products of their plants. The commercial idea was uppermost. The prime purpose of the fair was to show visitors what the town had and, in connection therewith, provide some wholesome, harmless forms of entertainment.

But the average street carnival has become a depraved and a debauched institution. Its principal features are too often immoral picture shows, disgusting freak exhibitions and "carnival" attractions presented by persons of poor talent and worse character.

The street fair, if it can be restored to its former standing, is a good thing. But as it is commonly witnessed today it is an enterprise that ought to be discouraged by every decent community. The Methodists of Fremont are right in opposing the present variety of street fairs. —Lincoln Star.

Old Times and New.

There is said to be a decay of politeness among our children whose fathers and mothers were brought up to be very respectful and ceremonious in behavior. Perhaps nowadays the young are too independent and that reverence for old age went out with the substituting of yes and no for the affirmations to which sir and ma'am were attached in the old days. So, too, the adoption of the words man and woman for lady and gentleman may have made the youngsters and their sisters more forward and presuming, and it may be that the banishment of the curtsy has made girls less modestly blushing and sentimental than their predecessors in the juvenile world. Still, the taking off of the hat to women by boys and men of all classes is more general than it used to be, and we believe that profanity is less prevalent than it was once, for the vigorous fathers of the republic were somewhat given to using strong expressions, and even the august Washington was accused of uttering a big, big D under the stress of powerful emotion. And it must be acknowledged that there was a good deal of hypocrisy in the fine phrases that were current in the days of hoop and gown, and that youth was made familiar with hard drinking earlier than it is to-day. There is less leisure now than formerly, says Boston Budget, and people do not have time to cultivate the graces of their forefathers, but at heart they are quite as refined in feeling and less cruel in punishment than were their ornate ancestors, and the boy and girl of the present only illustrate other times and other manners and not degeneration.

Humor and Compassion.

Humor means far more than the laughter of a fool or at one. It goes often hand in hand with compassion. It is always sane and clear-eyed, and none the less so for its kindly smile and thrill of sympathy as it contemplates the follies, foibles and faults of men. In the sympathy lies its kinship and acquaintance with pathos. But it is the sanity, the clear-sightedness, of humor that keeps the pathos from degenerating into pathos or anything that could be described as maudlin, writes Bishop Chauncey B. Brewster in North American Review. Humor is on the best of terms with sentiment, so long as it is true and healthy. When, however, feelings have passed from their natural spontaneity into a secondary state where they have become self-conscious, are called out for drill and marshaled for parade, then sentiment has degenerated into sentimentality. Genuine humor is too loyal a friend of truth to have anything to do with such artificiality or to associate with sentimentality.

The gavel used by the presiding officer of the United States senate has no handle like that used by the speaker of the house. It is an ivory contrivance, modestly ornamented, of cylindrical shape and about four inches long. In wielding it the vice president has to hold the gavel in his hand as if it were a small hammer without a handle. How the custom originated of providing the vice president with a handleless gavel is not known, though the oldest senate attache cannot remember when it was otherwise, just as the oldest senate attache cannot remember when the gold snuff box that occupies its ancient niche at the right of the vice president's desk was not dutifully filled every morning, although no statesman now patronizes that once popular box for a genteel sneeze.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson is righteously indignant at manufacturers who take advantage of the pure food law to affirm that the federal government guarantees their products. The government, of course, does nothing of the kind, as Secretary Wilson explains. The government exacts from the manufacturer a statement regarding the character of his products, and the certificate granted is to the effect that such statement has been made, and also enables the government to get after the manufacturer if the statement proves untrue and the goods turn out to be impure. To twist such a certificate into a guarantee is a form of dishonesty which merits the sharp rebuke the secretary administers.

An Indian of the Rosebud tribe has applied for divorce on the ground that his squaw beat him and kicked him out of the tepee. Evidently the Indian women are not so far behind the enlightening influences of civilization as they have been painted.

A woman's life was saved in a Pennsylvania shooting affair because the silk dress she had on deflected the bullets. Here is another argument for including these luxuries among femininity's necessities.

AFTER LOVERS' COIN

MARRYING JUDGE ADVERTISES IN STREET CARS.

Enterprising Clayton, Mo., Justice of Peace Out for Dollars of Cupid's Victims—Uses Business Methods.

St. Louis.—Justice of the Peace A. H. Werremeyer, of Clayton, has created a little stir in his section of country by his rather original way of advertising himself as one authorized to perform marriage ceremonies. Justice Werremeyer is out for the dollar and as many of them as he can get, so he is advertising in the good old-fashioned way. The justice hasn't had his signs painted on barns or fences as yet, but in the cars of all lines running into Clayton he has put up large cards with the following wording and arrangement:

"Go choose the one you love the best. Then come to Clayton for the rest."
"JUDGE A. H. WERREMEYER,"
Justice of the Peace.
Kinloch phone, Clayton No. 3. Immediate appointments.
Residence, Olivette; Office, County Court House, Clayton, Mo.

Back of this enterprise of the Clayton magistrate is the increased cost of a marriage license in St. Louis. A few weeks ago the price was raised from $1 to $1.50. In Clayton it remains at one dollar. There has been a perceptible increase in the number of marriages at Clayton since the new schedule became effective.

"I am going to let the people know that I am in the business," said Justice Werremeyer. "I want my share of this revenue from performing marriage ceremonies, and I am going right after it. People must come here on one of those car lines, and they will learn that I am prepared for them. Besides, I think that getting people to come here to be married will be good advertising for Clayton. They will look around and see what a fine town we have."

Heretofore Justice Preiss has held the championship as "marrying justice." Two other justices who are pleased to officiate are Frank Stroble and I. W. Campbell. Including Werremeyer, there are four justices who can be found at the Clayton court house at practically any hour of the day. Two Clayton ministers, Dr. North of the Methodist church, and Dr. Langtry, of the Presbyterian, have shared in the matrimonial fees, couples being sent to them by friends at the court house.

Judge G. A. Wurdeman, of the probate court, has presided at a sufficient number of weddings to attract attention.

Justice Werremeyer isn't saying what he thinks his advertising will do to reduce the business of his rivals, but his plans are of a substantial character. The advertising is to be continuous, with a change every month.

The verse on the first card was chosen from a large collection of verses. For next month's card the verse will be as follows:

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"I am going to Clayton," she blushing said.
"May I go with you, my pretty maid?"
"If to the Justice you'll go," she said.

Nor are these simple black and white cards. That would be too conventional for the justice, who had his first cards printed in blue and red on a white background.

HAS NEW FLYING MACHINE.

Professor of Johns Hopkins University Preparing to Build Air Ship.

Baltimore, Md.—The preparatory experiments for the flying machine that is being built by Prof. Robert W. Wood, professor of experimental physics in the Johns Hopkins university, with Otto Luytch, a local engineer, are practically completed and the work of construction will begin soon. Prof. Wood has been carrying on these experiments in the Hopkins laboratory for several months.

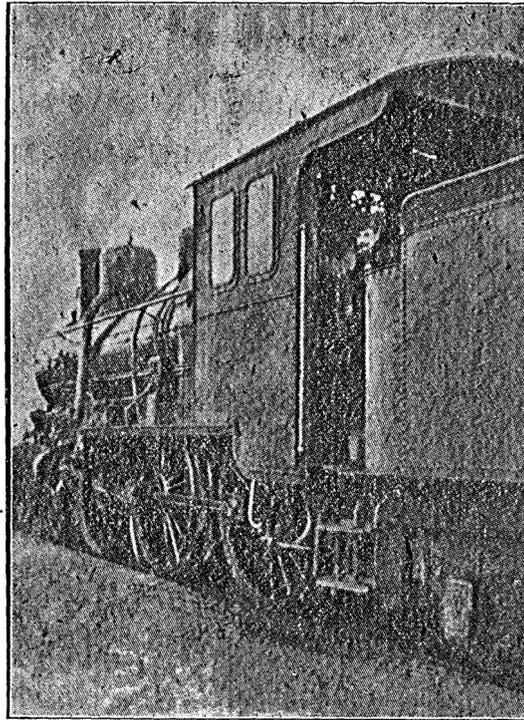

The purpose of the experiments has been to test the lifting power and the steadiness of action of screw propellers as the means of ascension and propulsion. On the basis of the results obtained by Prof. Wood a large flying machine will be constructed at Sparrows Point under the direction of the two inventors.

The projected machine is of the "Helicopter" type, which depends on a series of screw propellers variously arranged for the power of rising in the air and for propulsion. The models which have thus occupied the attention of Prof. Wood do not resemble the popular idea of the flying machine at all, and appear to be nothing but a set of electric fans, with a few weights hooked to them.

Cruises by Liquid Fuel.

London.—The Times is informed that the steamship Goldmouth, a vessel which burns liquid (petroleum) fuel, recently arrived at Thameshaven after a passage from Balikpapan, in Borneo, a distance of over 12,000 miles, without a stop. The revolutions averaged 54.3 and the speed throughout the passage averaged over nine knots. This is the third nonstop run made by this vessel while burning liquid fuel, the first being from Singapore to Rotterdam in May-June, 1906, and the second from Singapore to Thameshaven in September-October, 1906. Probably there is no other recorded instance of a single vessel having made three non-stop runs of such duration with liquid fuel.

MANY JOBS FOR A GIRL

IS STATION AGENT THOUGH ONLY 19 YEARS OLD.

New England Young Woman Looks After Tickets and Freight, Carries the Mail and Acts as Baggage Master.

Rutland, Vt.—Nineteen and a girl, yet station agent, mail carrier, express agent, baggage master and freight agent for the Central Vermont railroad—that is Miss Bessie Elizabeth Henley of East Granville, in the Green Mountain range. And she has held all these jobs since she was 17 years old.

Admiring friends claim that Miss Hanley is the only young woman in New England holding such a position, or such a multitude of positions that are so distinctively in the sphere of the male. Although just emerged from childhood when appointed, she has done the work of her office for two years without a black mark against her record. Failure to be on hand at train time is unknown not only to Miss Hanley, but to most of the residents of the hamlet.

East Granville is near the uppermost portion of the pass in the Green Mountain range through which the Central Vermont railway makes its way from one side of the state of Vermont to the other. A lumbering community, extending for eight miles back into the mountains to the west, finds a point of connection by the road with the world and its market places.

The amount of business transacted probably makes no appreciable difference in the dividends which stockholders of the system receive, but it is of considerable moment in the operation of traffic through the great ravine and to the safety and convenience of thousands of passengers on the through trains between Boston and Montreal, as well as to the hundreds of cars of freight which daily pass the point. For on the care and watchfulness of the girl in charge of the company's depot, under the sheer cliff of the mountainside, depend their safety.

No difficulty is experienced by Miss

Hanley in handling everything that comes East Granville way. She finds the railroad men all anxious to assist her. Although not many trunks are taken on at the little depot of which she has charge, when one does show up it has as much in it as the railroad will carry without excess rates; and the station agent's heart sank when she saw the first old-fashioned Saratogas intended for transportation.

There are no baggage trucks for the use of the agent, and she did not feel equal to the task of carrying the heavy boxes from the station platform three car lengths up the track to the express car. Willing brakemen saw her dilemma and came to her aid, and four powerful arms made short work of it. So also with much of the express matter billed to the town. One man would have difficulty in handling it, but Miss Hanley's volunteers solve the problem in no time, piling the articles on the freight shed platform, where they are left to be called for by the consignees.

Not many difficulties have been encountered by the young woman in the discharge of her duties. East Granville is not regarded as a particularly healthy location for tramps under any circumstance, and in the winter time it is too cold for them.

Electricity as Anesthetic.

Paris.—Professor Le Duc of the Medical college of Nantes has perfected a method of anesthetization by electricity. He sends a mild electric current through the body, which so perfectly lulls the sensory nerves that any surgical operation can be performed without the patient feeling pain.

Le Duc claims that his method produces anesthetization as deep as that of chloroform or ether, has none of the dangers of chloroform and is much more conveniently used than either. Besides, the patient revives in a stronger condition than from chloroform or ether.

A few days ago Le Duc himself submitted to a test of his discovery before many of his colleagues, who seemed much impressed by the results.

GREAT PROSPERITY IN HOLLAND.

Agriculture and Dairy Farming Flourished Last Year.

London.—The following dispatch from The Hague to the London Times is of interest:

"On the whole the year 1906 may be described as one of the most prosperous years in Holland's recent history. Agriculture and dairy farming, the economic corner stones of the Netherlands, have been more than usually profitable; the dry summer, combining with normally abundant water supply, produced excellent cereal and grass crops and prices ruled very high. Industrial activity was at a high pitch and commerce and shipping left little to complain of. The low water in the Rhine and its estuaries caused some loss and delays to the transit and river-shipping trades, but on the whole these trades also were very active, reflecting, as they did, the state of the German industries which use the Dutch waterways."

"Still more conducive to the national welfare was the remarkable prosperity of the produce trades of Holland's vast East India colonies. Tobacco, tin, sugar, spices and coffee came in abundant supplies and sold at high prices and this caused a degree of prosperity to prevail in Java, Sumatra and the other possessions which could not fail to affect the numerous Dutch capitalists who have invested enormous sums in these tropical possessions."

Its Origin Unknown.

What is the origin of the "cock and bull" story? It is the despair of all those who seek to explain this fine old trusted slang of long ago which has managed to persist into present speech, just as we may imagine our present 23 will puzzle a later generation. Brewer, in his "Phrase and Fable," explains it is a corruption of a "concocted and bully story. Evidently recognizing that this is scarcely satisfactory, he prosecuted his researches into bygone religions, dragged up Nergal from the Phoenicians in the representation of a rooster and from the Egyptian Ostris, typified by a bull. From all of which disquisitions it is as clear as may be that no one really knows anything about the story of a cock and a bull. The French have a precisely similar expression in coq-a-l'âne, and equally they do not know its origin.—New York Sun.

Washington Day by Day

News Gathered Here and There at the National Capital

MISS SHONTS WILL NOT WED FRENCH NOBLEMAN

WASHINGTON.—The departure of Theodore P. Shonts, former chairman of the Panama canal commission, with his two daughters, for New York, where he is now head of the Metropolitan traction interests, has again revived talk concerning the engagement of Miss Shonts to the Duc de Chaulnes.

If there ever was an engagement it is now off, as Washington society has the story, and the reason for this failure of another international alliance is said to be the refusal of Mr. Shonts to grant the ducal demand for a settlement.

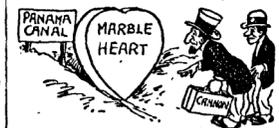

It is accepted here as the correct version of the departure of the duke without a bride that Mr. Shonts stood firmly for the American idea of marriage settlements. He is reported to have told De Chaulnes that he would give his daughter a stylish wedding, provide her with a trousseau fit for a princess, and a substantial wedding allowance that would keep her in pin money for a long time, but to enter into any agreement to settle an income on her for life before marriage, this he would not do. Personally the head of the Shonts household wants to see his daughter happily married, and, if he had any objections to the French nobleman, was willing to put them aside if Miss Shonts was satisfied with the duke. So, according to some of the wise ones, the match will never come off, as the duke is reported to "need the money," for while he is long on lineage and incumbered estates, he is short on cash.

To all appearances the two young people are really in love. "But what can a duke and duchess do without sufficient means to keep up their end of the social game?" asks Washington society. Still, some believe the young people may yet decide to marry without the settlement and take their chances on papa's determination not to rehabilitate the De Chaulnes estates.

While in New York the Misses Shonts will help their father in selecting a home for the family, to which they will move from here some time early in June.

CANAL ZONE MEN HURT PRIDE OF CONGRESSMAN

THE real reason for the estrangement between Speaker Cannon, eight other members of the congressional party and the canal zone officials was not because of the quarantine regulations but because Speaker Cannon and his party did not believe they were properly treated.

When the steamship on which the Speaker and his party were arrived at Colon the men who are digging the canal and caring for the canal zone did not even send a rowboat out to meet them. The party boarded a train at Colon, going to Panama and after it had started and was nearing Culebra cut Speaker Cannon went strolling through the coach ahead. In it he found Chief Engineer Stevens, who recognized him and talked with him a few minutes.

"Well, good-by," the chief engineer said, waving his hand, as the train approached Culebra cut. "This is where I get off."

FAIRBANKS' AMBITION OPENS HIS POCKETBOOK

WITH a presidential bee buzzing merrily in his bonnet, Vice President Fairbanks has entered on a social campaign that has made the whole capital rub its eyes in surprise and wonder at his extravagance.

Since the Fairbanks weather eye was fixed steadily on the White House the expenses of the family, it is said, have jumped from $30,000 to $100,000. Mrs. Fairbanks now is one of the most popular hostesses in Washington, and from the occasional receptions of two years ago has developed to two formal affairs a week.

Formerly the Fairbankses lived in a modest house at Eighteenth and Massachusetts avenues, the rent of which was $3,000 a year. Then they had only five servants in all, and they were without a carriage, hiring a vehicle whenever needed. Now they pay $12,000 a year for the mansion of Col. Edward Morrell, of Philadelphia, and they have more than a dozen servants, with twice that total several days a week. Over the Fairbanks' kitchen now presides John Rook, the chef who was the joy of Levi Z. Letter and his friends.

Rook has so much money to spend that he gains precedence in the market over Pinckney, the buyer for the White House. Fairbanks has given his man a free hand to stock the pantry with the choicest luxuries, and just what this means may be gathered from the fact that at two receptions nearly 1,000 guests partook of a buffet supper at which tartrapin, every kind of shell fish and the finest imported wines were served. Lavishness is the keynote of the Fairbanks establishment, and to her regular entertainments Mrs. Fairbanks now has added frequent and large theater parties.

"The Panama commission may have gentlemen in its offices in Washington, but it certainly has none of them at work on the canal," the speaker is reported to have told Gov. Magoon.

TO HAVE GOVERNMENT PAY CAMPAIGN EXPENSE

TO HAVE the proper and legitimate expenses of national campaigns paid from the national treasury for the different political parties, and to permit in presidential campaigns only a closely limited use of money other than that drawn from the public funds, is the striking project which the president has in his mind as a means of purifying national politics and preventing improper use of money drawn from improper sources.

There has been much doubt whether the scheme of publicity, after election, of campaign expenditures would be very effective. Practical politicians have protested that it is locking the barn after the horse is stolen. It would be required, of course that all money should be carefully accounted for, vouchers should be made and carefully audited, and the purposes for which it could be used would be limited to speaking, literature and organization.

It is understood that the amount made available from the public treasury would be apportioned among the parties on some such basis as the relative votes polled at the last preceding national election. This would let in the small parties for their share.

Politicians regard the scheme as Utopian, but are not at all certain whether it could be defeated if seriously presented to congress by the president.

The president has not developed details of the plan, and may be convinced yet of its practicability, but he has talked of it with much interest, and is thus far disposed to regard it as more than an impractical vision.

Politicians say that if the idea should be followed to its logical conclusions it would eventuate in nothing less than the creation of a great election board possessing unlimited opportunities for corruption.

The war epidemic is coming nearer. Guatemala and Mexico have withdrawn their representatives from each other's courts on account of the refusal of the former to surrender a Mexican charged with some high crime in Mexico. The strained relations do not necessarily mean war, but as the countries lie adjacent to each other separated by no natural barriers there is a possibility of depredations along the line which may lead to war. The United States board of health ought to come forward with some quarantine regulations to control the epidemic. We do not want war of any kind, more especially the kind that obtains in the little republics below us.

More Expansion.

Fifty three years ago last February the Spanish portion of the island of Haiti declared its independence of the negro portion, and Santo Domingo was set up by the side of the Haitian republic. From that time forward the history of Santo Domingo has been a story of various degrees of anarchy with an occasional dash of despotism interspersed. From the beginning the subject of annexation to the United States has been agitated at intervals, both there and here. In the administration of President Grant General O. E. Babcock negotiated a treaty by which, on payment of the United States of $1,150,000 the republic was to become part of the United States. The treaty was approved by Santo Domingo but defeated by lack of a single vote in the United States senate. In 1871 a congressional commission visited the island and returned to recommend annexation, but the recommendation was never acted upon.

Meanwhile the resources of the republic have remained undeveloped. In fifty years something like fifteen successful revolutions occurred. The country has been in that period a republic, a monarchy, a Spanish colony, and again a nominal republic. The accession of every ruler has called a revolutionary army into the field as inevitably as the election of a president in the United States is followed by immediate political organization among his opponents to capture the next election. Business could be carried on only in a small and irregular way. Possession of the offices has been a license to loot. The country's foreign and domestic debt grew to about $26,000,000 or thirteen times its annual revenue.

Bankruptcy and a receiver would be the only course with a business corporation in such a plight. Some two years ago it became apparent that this was the only possible course with this political corporation. The only question was whether the United States or some European nation should be the receiver. The approval of Santo Domingo of the arrangement by which the United States manages its custom until its debts are paid makes this country guardian of the troubled Dominicans for a period of forty or fifty years, the probable time required to pay the $20,000,000 of foreign debt now being funded by the new arrangement. Santo Domingo may meanwhile not be called a territory of the United States or a protectorate, or even sphere of influence. Nevertheless the arrangement marks one more advance of American expansion.—State Journal.

Laid to Rest.

The funeral of Daniel C. Bailey was held from the Methodist church Sunday afternoon, and the house was packed by old neighbors and friends who wished to pay their last respects to the departed. Music was furnished by a quartet consisting of C. E. Detweller, Miss Myrl Firkins, Miss Laura Kaiser, and Arthur Kaiser. Rev. M. A. Wimberley made a brief talk recounting the life of the dead man, which was sermon enough. What better text could any sermon need than Father Bailey, and what sermon could be more effectual than the recounting of his life. Following this Presiding Elder Shumate spoke briefly.

The pall bearers were F. M. Cushing, W. B. Keown, W. G. Collins, R. J. Collins, Peter Mortensen and Adam Smith.

There was a very large procession that followed the remains to the grave in spite of the fierce dust storm that was blowing at the time.

From the time of his death till after burial the G. A. R. flag hung at half mast.

THEY TELL STORIES OF GREAT INTEREST TO NEBRASKANS.

THE SKEPTIC LEFT TO WONDER, FOR HER SUCCESS STILL CONTINUES

That Dr. Caldwell is restoring the health and curing thousands of the afflicted there is no doubt as hundreds of reliable home people will attest. Few physicians in the country have had better educational advantages than she and few have more thoroughly improved them. She has always been an ardent student as well as an original investigator, having practiced her profession in some of the principal hospitals through the United States and Europe and it is not surprising that she has become a great specialist. Soon after commencing her practice in Louisville, Ky., some twelve years ago, Dr. Caldwell was led to believe that the important treatment of treating both acute and chronic disease was one that was demanding unusual attention and the skill of a physician who would devote her whole study and time to that specialty.

Impressed with this idea she began a series of original investigations which have resulted in many important discoveries and brought her an immense practice in chronic diseases. Her success in the line of special practice has certainly been remarkable and in the treatment of many chronic diseases unequalled Dr. Caldwell announced to the public in Nebraska something over four years ago that she would make a series of western visits, stopping in the principal cities in the state. Since that time she has visited almost every city of importance and in the meantime has established a permanent office in Omaha where she has placed some of the best physicians in her staff at its head. To prove her original assertions she went to work and is now treating thousands of people in the state. Many are among the wealthiest and most prominent citizens. Almost everyone speaks of the immediate relief that generally attends her system of treatment. Below we publish a few of the names of the many that she has cured.

Mrs. John Reed, of Pender, cured of cancer of long standing.

Mrs. J. Duncan, of Norfolk, Nebr., cured of skin and kidney disease.

Miss Anna Broch, Wayne, cancer—been treated by number of doctors without any benefit, was cured entirely by Dr. Caldwell, under full treatment.

John Else, Elm Creek, Nebr., cured of heart and spleen disease.

Daughter of J. B. Bosterick, Nesshey, Nebr., cured of St. Vitus Dance.

Mrs. Harriet Stuber, Cozad, Nebraska, cured of catarrh and blood disease.

Miss Cora West, Lexington, Nebraska, cured of stomach, liver and kidney disease of years standing.

Mrs. Emil Ponon, Hastings, Nebraska says: "Was a sufferer from female disease for 16 years, part of the time in bed. Two years ago I began treatment with Dr. Caldwell, she treated me nine months and dismissed my case as cured. I have been like another person since do my work without the least trouble for family of ten."

Dr. Caldwell, will make her next professional visit at Hotel Ord, Ord, Nebr., Friday, June 7.

May 21
Ho, for Texas
Get out of the Snow and Cold
Next Excursion goes on May 21
Join the Crowd

THE tide of immigration is flowing to Texas. Thousands of people are going to Texas to buy land. No use to dispute it, it is a fact. You have the same opportunity that others have. It will not last forever. Act now. Others are going with us, why not you?

Reasons why you should buy this land

Cheap land will soon be gone. This land raises the finest kind of agricultural crops. NO FAILURES. PLENTY OF RAIN and it falls during the crop growing season, as can be shown by the U. S. weather bureau. Corn makes from thirty to sixty bushels per acre, other crops in same proportion. All kinds of fruits and vegetables do well.

There are good markets, and farm products brings good prices. Seasons are long for doing farm work and grazing stock—very little feeding required.

Splendid climate both winter and summer, and as healthful as can be found any place. No excessive cold in winter or heat in summer. Abundance of good well water at easy depths. Good schools, churches and social conditions.

Land will pay for itself in a very short time. Prices now range from $8.00 to $25.00 per acre, depending on character and location of same. Arrange to go with me. See this country for yourself. Remember the date, May 21.

Write or call on us that we may advise you of our routing.

Colorado Lands and Climate Does it Appeal to You?

Have you money to invest, and don't know just where?
If so, you can't go wrong by investing here. The various soils are very productive, and if you invest in the land you have a climate thrown in, which is hard to beat.
I speak from a successful experience and am in a position to save you time and money, if you are looking for lands with a future.
They consist of irrigated, sub-irrigated and dry farming lands, close to Denver or other good towns.
The prices range from about $5.00 to $125.00 per acre, and the terms are right.
Think it over and write me your wants.

Yours for Business,

After the dance to-night go to the Domestic Kitchen.

Mrs. Huff was a passenger to Milligan Saturday morning.

Mrs. A. J. Wise and son went to Grand Island Saturday morning.

If you are interested in air pressure water systems see Honnold Bros.

Mrs. Westberg and daughter, Evelyn, went to Omaha last Saturday on a visit.

Earl C. Brink is on the go constantly putting the pianos of this section in order.

From dispatches it is revealed that the Sedley postoffice will be discontinued June 15, the mail going to Burwell.

Miss Arnold's music studio is located in Mrs. Hull's home and all desiring instruction are invited to call. 5-11.

A. C. Johnson felt a couple of nibbles on his piano line down at North Loup this morning and went down to land a couple of good ones.

The temperature fell about 50 degrees between church time Sunday evening and getting up time Monday morning. That is change enough for you, we reckon.

A letter received says—"I painted my house four years ago with Bradley & Vrooman paint. It looks better today than any house around." Buy some for your house from F. J. Dworak.

The face of the bonds upon which a man may become liable is deducted from an estimate of his worth by all commercial agencies. Let Honnold & Davis take the responsibility. 13-11.

J. L. Tedro, who is making his home now at Burwell, was down at Ord Monday looking after a little sidewalk work. He is engaged in that work in Burwell.

George Newbecker returned from another trip to Oklahoma last Saturday evening. He did not remain in Ord long, however as Tuesday morning found him again starting for the south.

Adam Smith went to the encampment at Fremont this morning to represent this section of the country there. He came near missing the train, having overlooked the change of time.

Last Friday one of our farmer friends from Geranium township dropped in for a chat and incidentally told of what seemed to him a pretty good joke. In the canyon south of town he met one of his neighbors going home in the middle of the afternoon, which was a surprising thing. They stopped for a few minutes and the neighbor began right off with a tirade against the Quiz and advised him to quit. As they parted the neighbor exclaimed, "Ain't this H. . . going home before dark?" For once the neighbor came home in time to do the chores.

Won't it be a good thing when people learn to quit the violation of Nature's laws? Nature will permit a good deal of violation of her perfect and just laws without showing evil effects, but the way humans go at the business of disregarding these laws is enough to show results pretty effectually. When all men or most of them even, eat work and take their pleasures according to the way Nature demands and keep it up for a few generations so as to get rid of the evil effects of thousands of years of sins, we will have little need for surgeons, doctors and hospitals, and men will get more pleasure out of life than they do now and will stay here a great deal longer to enjoy it.

S. N. Arnold is trying an experiment this spring. He is listing corn in on fall plowing. He has noticed that corn planted on fall plowing has not usually done well and so has tried this plan to see whether there would be a good effect of it. Along in April, he disced the land and a little later he harrowed it. When he started the lister he found the ground in most excellent condition, and he has a notion that the land will produce well, as surely it ought to.

We learn this week of the marriage of Aaron Waters a former Ord boy and from the report that comes to this shop the courtship and marriage of Aaron was somewhat of the unusual order. After safely undergoing an operation for appendicitis in a hospital he fell victim to the charms of the nurse who attended him during his sickness. Boise City, Idaho will be the home of the parties and they of course have the well wishes of many Ord friends, where Aaron spent his younger days.

Fackler & Finley the grocers, Ord, Nebraska. See us for choice dried fruits. New California extracted honey 10 cents a pound in 62 pound cans. Standard table peaches two cans for 25 cents. Standard corn one can for 5 cents. Full line of Heinz's preserves, sauces and pickles. Highest quality pure food products on the market. We are promised choice berries, fresh lettuce and radishes this week. Fackler and Finley, the grocers.

If there is anything in advertising the Quiz is getting it just now, though the fun is about over. There is no better advertisement than a boycott and the fellows who have tried it on the Quiz on the several occasions during the past twenty-five years have found out invariably that it has boosted this paper right along. Even during the boycott more names have come onto the list than have been taken off.

Dr. Billings went to Rochester, Minnesota, this morning to take a two weeks course of training in the clinic of the famous Mayo Brothers hospital. He declares that they have the finest hospital in the world and that scores of physicians from all parts of the earth are there constantly taking instruction in the art of cutting human steaks.

A Danish dance was the attraction at the opera house last Friday night.

The Ord band went out to George Jensen's Sunday and put in several hours very pleasantly.

H. C. Spaulding came up from Lincoln on a business trip last Saturday night. He returned Monday morning.

Did you stick to your winter underwear? Wise man you are. Stick to them still. The Quiz will notify you when it is time to take 'em off.

While in Lincoln last week the writer met F. H. Wheeler and enjoyed a few minutes very pleasantly in his company. Mr. Wheeler is still in the telephone business and now has his headquarters at Havelock.

We call our readers' attention to the ad of William Sipple's in this issue. Few men know more about Colorado land than he. He has land for sale in all parts of Colorado, and if you are interested, write or better yet call at his office in Denver.

Among the features of the Ord chautauqua must not be forgotten the moving picture company. The management will have on hand one of the very best outfits obtainable. There will be an unlimited quantity of material and some of the latest and most novel scenes will be enjoyed by our patrons.

The funeral of Metta Babcock last Friday was the largest attended of any held in recent years, the S. D. B. church being filled to overflowing. The bearers, all girls, were dressed in white also the members of her Junior C. E. and Sabbath school classes. The pure white casket and two tables were covered with flowers, the gifts of friends.—North Loup Loyalist.

Mrs. Daniel Bruke expects to go to Lincoln tomorrow morning where she will enter the Dr. Bailey's sanitarium for treatment. Mrs. Bruke has been in poor health for some time and while she has been able to be about for the greater part of the time she has been unable to see any improvement in her condition. We are in hopes that she will improve with the treatment that she receives at the sanitarium.

Congressman Bede of Minnesota is known as the humorist of congress and surely sustains the title. His wit is of the most original and pleasing kind. One never knows when he will break forth and when he speaks his audience is usually held breathless by his eloquence or is in convulsions of laughter as a result of his subtle, unique humor. But Congressman Bede is more than a witty man, more than a philosopher. He is a deep thinker and one of the fast increasing number of clean politicians. We are fortunate in having secured Mr. Bede for an address during the forthcoming chautauqua. Bede will be one of the big drawing cards.

A quick and terrible run-away occurred on the street along the south side of the square at about 6:00 o'clock Sunday evening. Frank Norman and another young fellow were riding along peacefully when the horse took a sudden scare at something and tore down the street at a terrific rate. The animal could not be controlled and was apparently blind with fright, for it ran pell mell into the telephone pole at the Woodbury corner and all things came up in a heap instantaneously. The boys were thrown into the air but alighted without any personal damage, but the horse had a sholder broken and the buggy and harness were pretty badly damaged. The horse will recover if allowed to, but will not be of much use, so Dr. Clason reported after examining him.

On account of being here on business connected with Rev. M. A. Wimberley's resignation as pastor of the Methodist church and being behind with his work by reason of sickness, Presiding Elder Shumate asked to hold quarterly conference while here and save coming back at the appointed time. This was agreed to by the church officials and the conference was held Monday morning. After going through the regular routine of work the resignation was brought up. The presiding elder said that he had relieved the pastor from the charge to take effect at once. The pastor was paid up to date and so is relieved of all responsibility as to the work here. This resignation is a sore affliction to the church, but it is known that his health is such that no other course is possible. Rev. Wimberley will take up some work that will keep him out of doors and as much as possible care free. He must not, so his physician demands, take any pastoral work or preach at funerals or any other occasion. This demand of the physician he has decided to respect and hopes that no one will ask him to break away from the resolve. He regrets very much to give over all such work, but must do it. If his many friendships here make it impossible to quit preaching altogether he will have to move away till his health will permit resumption of the work.

Last Saturday the kids of the Ord grades went to Elyria and had a day of it playing ball with the kids of that town. We do not remember how many hundreds and thousands of scores were made, but the small parts of the scores were 28 to 26 in favor of Ord.

The Ladies' Aid of the G. A. R. will meet at the home of Mrs. W. T. Draper on Friday May 17. An invitation is extended to all.

Stella Siler and daughter went to South Dakota Monday morning where she will look after her claim in the Rosebud country.

E. J. Clements and his mother came up from Lincoln last Saturday evening the latter having been spending the past month visiting in that city.

We have received a fine assortment of German china decorated dishes. Beautiful thin high grade ware. Can sell it 25 per cent under real value. Fackler & Finley, the grocers.

George Gagbagen, Hall Barnes and C. E. Kemp went to Omaha Monday morning to attend the meeting of the Grand Lodge of the A. O. U. W. They of course went as delegates of the Ord lodge.

Rev. A. H. Burress of Oveton will preach at the Methodist church next Sunday. This will be the last of the special preachers, for it is expected that a regular supply will be sent here to take the work the first of June. Week from next Sunday is Memorial Sunday and the Methodist church will be used for the purpose, Rev. M. M. Eaton preaching the sermon.

A pretty respectable snow storm in the middle of May is a little strange but not after all an unknown thing. Several times we have had snow storms in May, but as late as this is rare indeed. Bud Shirley declares that we had eight inches of snow on the 22nd of May, 1882. We presumed he was correct, but looked the matter up in the old Quiz files and find that the storm occurred all right, but there is no verification of the eight inch part of the account, as given by Mr. Shirley.

One of the ladies who had to do with the beverage at the Methodist reception at the church last Thursday night for the Wimberleys, declares that we did them great injustice in calling the drink "punch" even if we said it was brewed from oranges. We have looked up the word in the dictionary and find that punch means that some intoxicating liquor must enter into the construction of any drink that bears that name properly. We are prepared to testify that that beverage as furnished us by the ladies was not intoxicating, though it was palatable indeed. Twice as much orange juice would not have made it at all dangerous.

The Quiz print shop will this week finish the program for the commencement exercises of the Ord high school and from the copy now in our hands we are permitted to publish the following all of which will be held in the Wentworth opera house. The baccalaureate address will be delivered on Sunday evening, May 25, by Dr. J. A. Beatie, of the Cotner University; on the evening of Wednesday, May 29, will be held the class day exercises and on Thursday evening, May 30, all will have an opportunity to listen to that noted lecturer, L. B. Wickersham who will deliver the commencement address. There are eight members of the class this year, seven girls and one boy, the graduates being, Grace Aldrich, Mollie Hawkins, Lelia Moorman, Ethel Newbecker, Jessie Potter, David Squires, Leta Turner and Grace Work. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to be present at all of the above entertainments and it is believed that the entertainment furnished will be worthy of your patronage.

Our Washington Letter.

Senator Warner of Missouri, who by the way is a member of the Inland Waterways Commission, announced this week that Missouri is for Roosevelt, first, last and all the time. The senator, however, believes that Mr. Roosevelt is sincere in his declaration that he will not accept the nomination for a third term and is confident that the delegation from Missouri will be for the candidate that the president picks out as the best man to carry on his policies. Senator Warner is an ardent admirer of Mr. Roosevelt and has good cause to be. It was the president's strong personality that carried the state in 1904 and enabled Mr. Werner to pick up the toga that had fallen from the shoulders of Francis M. Cockrell. Thus it was entirely natural that the junior senator from Missouri should have become the ardent champion and defender of the administration in the Brownsville affair.

Reports have reached here that the silent senator from the state of Washington, Levi Ankeny, has a serious fight on his hands for re-election. Senator Ankeny's term expires in 1909 and it is reported that the fight for his toga is already on in full blast. His chief opponent is said to be Robert L. McCormick of Tacoma, for many years the chief legal advisor of Frederick Weyerhaeuser, the lumber king, whose wealth is said to be greater than that of Rockefeller. It was not until he came to the capital that it was known that Senator Ankeny probably cultivates wheat on a larger scale than any other single individual in the United States. It is said he has approximately twenty thousand acres of land in the states of Oregon and Washington and that the aggregate yield of his crops for a season is 450,000 bushels.

The Dead Letter office established a new record during the month of April. According to the report of the postoffice department the number of letters and packages returned to senders during the month was 459,409. The total number of pieces of undelivered mail matter received during the period was 1,091,107, as compared with 938,953 in April of last year. Still another record was established during the month when in the course of one day 20,300 letters were returned to senders because of inadequate or illegible addresses. The largest number heretofore returned in a single day was 14,488 on March 28 last.

The battle between the Santiago, Cuba, police and seamen from the cruiser Tacoma was brought up at a cabinet meeting this week, but action on the question was deferred until the official investigations now under way are completed. An informal report from Governor Magoon declared he believes the clash to have been purely individual and in no sense the result of a general ill-feeling against Americans.

Mrs. Florence Hall and daughter went to Burwell Saturday evening to visit over Sunday.

An Unique Calendar.

We have received from Clay, Robinson and Co., the well known live stock commission firm, with headquarters at Chicago, and branches at South Omaha and six other leading markets, an unusually attractive and interesting calendar, depicting the "Evolution of the Range"; in other words, the development of the cattle industry of the west. It consists of four sheets, each bearing a handsome and spirited picture, along the above line. The date runs one year from April, 1907. We are informed that any of our readers who ship at least one car of cattle, sheep or hogs per year can have one of these calendars free by addressing Clay, Robinson & Co., Union Stock Yards, Chicago.

Quiz Piano Voting Contest

1st Prize: A beautiful Hamilton Piano purchased from A. C. Johnson & Co. and now on exhibition at his store.

2nd Prize: A fine gold watch from the stock of Geo. A. Parkins. The Parkins store only handles good ones and this is one of his best.

4th Prize: A dozen of the Mutter studios' best $5 photographs. They are good ones.

2 Special Prizes: We want new subscribers and as a special inducement to contestants to secure them will give to the one securing the largest number of new subscribers their choice of a Fifty-Dollar International Correspondence School certificate or Ten Dollars in Gold; the person getting the second largest number of new subscribers to have prize left after first prize winner's selection.

WHO MAY ENTER THE CONTEST.

Any lady or girl residing in Valley county, except residents of Ord, will be permitted to enter this contest. No person living in Ord will be permitted to become a contestant. Ord people may vote in this contest and all contestants have the privilege of soliciting votes in Ord as well as elsewhere. It will probably take a few weeks to get this contest organized and get the voting under good headway; after that, a couple of months ought to be enough to cover the county thoroughly; and as soon as this work is done the contest will close and prizes will be awarded.

HOW TO SECURE VOTES.

For each cent paid to the Quiz to renew a subscription, ten votes will be allowed: $1.00 paid will equal 1000 votes; 1.50 (the price of one year's subscription) will equal 1500 votes, etc.

For every cent paid on the Quiz on new subscription (that is by someone not already a subscriber) twenty votes will be allowed: $1.00 will equal 2000 votes and 1.50 will equal 3000 votes.

The payment of advance subscription entitles to extra votes as follows:

Five years fully paid in advance.....2,000 extra votes.
Ten years fully paid in advance.....5,000 extra votes.
Fifteen years fully paid in advance.....10,000 extra votes.

VOTING CARDS.

When the subscription money is received at the Quiz office a voting card filled out in ink will be issued. This card may then be cast in the ballot box for some one of the contestants, or it may be taken away from the office and voted at any time before the close of the contest, or it may be taken away and burnt up, torn up or anything that the holder wishes to do with it. There will be no duplicate votes issued and no votes will be counted or published in the paper until they have been cast in the ballot box in our office.

TWO PAPERS FOR THE PRICE OF ONE.

The price of the Quiz is $1.50 per year. We have made special arrangements with the Nebraska Farmer, of Lincoln, whereby they take an active part in this contest, and we will combine the two papers and give our subscribers the benefit of getting two papers at the $1.50 per year rate. The Nebraska Farmer is the best farm and family paper for a Nebraskan to take. It comes weekly and is stopped promptly at the time your subscription expires.

DATE OF CLOSING CONTEST.

This contest will close on Saturday, August 3, at 6 o'clock p. m. and all votes must be in the box at that time. Should there be a tie between the contestants on the counting of the votes August 3, the contest will continue one week, until August 10, at the same hour.

FAIRBURY WINDMILLS

This is conclusive evidence that they give perfect satisfaction to over two hundred customers.

It has from 18 to 40 less joints than any other mill made. Having an 18-inch slide head to throw it in and out of gear, where all other open wheels have from 4 to 6-inch throw, which will wear three times as fast as an 18-inch throw as we are on the long end of lever. It has a perfect balance, the mill turning on a steel pivot, doing away with any rollers to wear flat.

The Fairbury will turn to the slightest breeze and go to work, where other mills will stand edgewise to the wind and be of no use unless turned to the wind by hand.

Fairbury mills have more wind surface by one-fifth than any other mill of the same size, thereby doing the work with less strain than any other mill made.

A Word About Ward.

Ward Van Wie of Ord, Nebr., came in this morning from Oklahoma on his way back to Nebraska, where he will settle up his affairs preparatory to locating permanently on a half section of land three miles from Enid, O. T., which he has just purchased. Mr. Van Wie is a successful cattle and hog feeder, who sold a good farm in Nebraska in order to go to the southwest country. "Yes, I left a good place," he said, "but I believe that I am going to a better place. Nebraska is a good agricultural state, and is producing thousands of fed steers annually, but I am convinced that Oklahoma is the coming feeding state. The farmers down there have the advantage over the farmers of the northern states. They have the mild winters and the great abundance of all kinds of forage feed, two very necessary items to the cattle and hog feeder. Oklahoma is well located with reference to a first-class market, Kansas City, which is good enough for anyone.—Kansas City Drover's Telegram.

Womans' Club Entertains.

Tuesday night the defeated half of the Woman's club entertained the other half at the home of Mrs. Alvin Blessing. As you know it is the custom of the Club to keep credits for attendance and performance of duty on the part of each member. At the close of the year the half having the lowest credits are to furnish an entertainment to the winners. To do this and do it in a novel way is becoming more and more difficult, for no club woman of today wants to do these gracious things in the way others have done it before them. That the hostesses Tuesday evening succeeded in blazing a new trail is now an acknowledged fact. When the guests came they were sent up stairs to lay off their wraps, but were warned to remain up there till called. When the summons came they were told to hunt up their own places at the tables, which were numbered in progressive style. The places were identified by little hand made flowers in old rose color on the green leaf of which was the name of one of the guests. These colors are the colors of the Club. By opening the petals of the flower, which was made of one piece of paper, you found inside the menu of nine courses and a subject for conversation at each course. At the ringing of the bell the gentlemen rose and, taking their glass of water, napkin and flower, went to the table numbered next lower. The ladies, however, kept their seats. In this way the gentlemen ate with all the ladies excepting one pair, as there were ten tables and only nine courses. The repast commenced at 7:45 and lasted till 10:45. The affair was unique and it was happy and successful. The new home of Mrs. Blessing afforded a very pleasant and commodious place for holding the feast. Now the thing to do is to study up something new for a year hence.

Settle Their Differences.

There has been some disagreement among the heads of the McLain & Siler firm for the past few days, and yesterday the disagreement resulted in Miss Mamie Siler taking over the entire store in her name. Miss Siler, as part of the consideration, deeds to Miss McLain the drug store property occupied by Oscar Luse, on the south side of the square. Along with the sale is an agreement whereby Miss McLain agrees not to enter the retail dry goods business in Ord for five years. Mr. Anthony Koupal and Miss Anna Novotny, two of the oldest clerks in the establishment, who resigned their positions the first of the week until some satisfactory settlement of the difficulties could be had, will both resume their old positions in the store at once. The affair will come as a surprise to their many friends, as only a short time ago differences between the firm caused them to split up and go different ways, but they finally got together again, and so far as the public knew no disagreement existed. The store and stock is one of the best in the city, and it mattered little which member of the firm assumed control, for the establishment will continue to merit the patronage it deserves.

Why He Would Be Absent.

A suburban train was slowly working its way through one of the blizzards of a recent winter. Finally it came to a dead stop, and all efforts to start it again were futile.

In the wee small hours of the morning a weary commuter, numb from the cold and the cramped position in which he had tried to sleep, crawled out of the train and floundered through the heavy snowdrifts to the nearest telegraph station. This is the message he handed to the operator: "Will not be at office today. Not home yesterday yet."—Everybody's Magazine.

Our Washington Letter.

Beyond the absence of military and civic parades, it is doubtful if a conquering hero ever was accorded a more rousing and cordial reception with which the doughty Japanese hero, General Baron Kuroki, was welcomed at the national capitol the other day. The streets were thronged with the curious who were anxious to catch a glimpse of the distinguished general and his staff, and hundreds gathered about the entrance of the New Willard, where was held the big reception tendered General Kuroki by Secretary Taft. The city has been more or less thronged with uniformed officers ever since the opening of the Jamestown exposition, but on the arrival of the Japanese representatives at the big fair, the city took on a cosmopolitan appearance, officers and representatives of so many different nations being attracted there as the result. After being received by President Roosevelt and dined and feted by Secretary of War Taft, the visitors scattered in groups of two's and three's to take in the points of interest at the nation's capitol. In the case of the officers of higher rank, staff officers from the war department piloted their guests around, but some of the officers of lower rank started out for themselves.

Two of these officers after wandering along Pennsylvania avenue from the treasury to the capitol, found their way into the famous Harvey's restaurant, known to the epicures as the best place in the world for seafoods. Having no doubt heard of the toothsome of the Chesapeake Bay oyster they took seats at a table and gave their orders for steamed oysters. On being served they found among the bivalves several baby crabs, about the size of a dime, which had found their way into the shells of the oysters during their life and which are considered dainties by those who know. Calling the waiter, the spokesman protested vigorously, with the best English at his command against being served with filthy food, or as he expressed it, oysters filled with "bugs and vermin." As the entrance of the Japanese had attracted no little attention, and as, in his excitement, the indignant oriental spoke very loudly, the diners at adjacent tables were let in on the joke, which they enjoyed immensely. The ancient nergo waiter was somewhat nonplussed for an explanation, but matters were soon set right by the proprietor, who explained the presence of the tiny crustaceans and assured his patrons that they were "something very fine." Thus assured, they gingerly nibbled at the crabs and on settling their bill pronounced them exceedingly palatable.

Is the United States to be outdone in the matter of water transportation, now that it has taken up vigorously the question of improving its inland streams and its great harbors so as to admit of the quickened flow of its ever increasing commerce? This is a question which improved waterway enthusiasts are asking themselves, having reference to the recently issued consular report on experiments, which for a number of years have been under way in England, Germany and France, to determine the feasibility of the "electric" canal and its possibilities in the way of reducing the costs of freight carriage on inland canals. The report states that the total cost of electrical haulage per ton mile on the canal at Douai, France, is somewhat less than one-tenth of one cent, with a traffic of 3,500,000 tons per annum. One-third of this cost is for the actual energy used for barges, while the remainder goes for upkeep charges on the plant, including labor, repairs, etc. These figures offer the strongest kind of argument in support of the contention of the National Rivers and Harbors congress. This organization began five years ago to urge upon congress and the public the imperative necessity for immediately undertaking a steady and scientific improvement of the great rivers and harbors of the United States, if this country is not to be outstripped by its European competitors in the race for commercial and trade supremacy. So widespread have been the results of its crusade that the fifty-ninth congress appropriated a record breaking sum for work of this character, while President Roosevelt appointed a commission to supervise the enormous task involved. However, the National Rivers and Harbors congress insists that the amount appropriated by the last congress practically will be wasted unless future congresses can be impressed with the vital importance to the country of continued and regular appropriations. To the end that it may be successful, this national organization, which is non-partisan and non-political and which already numbers on its rolls many of the nation's most prominent men, is seeking to increase its membership during the coming summer. Its secretary, Captain J. F. Ellison, of Cincinnati, has sent broadcast an invitation to all persons interested in reduced freight rates to join his organization and swell its slogan—$50,000,000 a year at least for ten years.

limiting the cost of that aeriform fluid upon which Washington is dependent for light and heat. In Mr. Hall's country they burn natural gas altogether for heating, cooking and illumination, and he protests the feasibility of running a pipe line down to the capital from the gas fields of Pennsylvania or West Virginia. The suffering residents of Washington received the suggestion with acclaim, until it dawned on them that it would take a trust with the capital and ability of the standard oil "octopus" to carry the thing through successfully, and they then charge just as much, if not more, than the present one.

Government-Built Warships. The government builds the best ships that float. That is certain. The Connecticut is the finest vessel of her rate and size in the world, and she was built in a government navy yard. Government money is spent honestly. There are no fights and squabbles to get what the contracts call for. It does cost a little more money it is worth it. In the progress of building up our navy for the last 21 years we are gradually getting to what is the nucleus of a very fair navy. We, who are interested in the upbuilding of the navy, says Rear Admiral Joseph B. Coghlan, U. S. N., in Leslie's Weekly, want more ships. We are to-day endeavoring to get what we have been quietly working for the last 15 years—that is, large ships with large batteries and great speed. But the seagoing classes and the merchants are conservative. It takes a long time to change them. Take, for instance, the case of the first monitor. It took the government a long time to adopt the plans. These monitors were intended for smooth water and not to go to sea. In the early days we were occupied in getting this type of vessels made into a battleship. We didn't want the monitors because they were unstable. It is only when we get the big battleships, whose movements are so slow and steady, that we get the best results for warfare.

The Actor and His Voice. The supreme gift of the actor is his voice. A singer may or may not be vocally gifted. Yvette Guilbert gives all the effect of melody, even evokes the spirit of tragic horror, with vocal organs that are stiller and smaller than the proverbial voice of conscience. The most famous Carmen of our day is said on authority to be one of the worst singers. To the great actor, writes John Corbin in Appleton's Magazine, the essential is voice, again voice, always voice. Mr. Mansfield himself has said something of the kind very eloquently, in an address to the students of the Empire School of Acting. "Think of your voice as a color and as you paint your picture (the character you are portraying, the scene you are portraying) mix your colors. You have on your palette (palette) a white voice, a blue voice; a heavenly ethereal or violet voice; the voice of prayer; a disagreeable, jealous, or yellow voice; a steel-gray voice for quiet sarcasm; a brown voice for hopelessness; a lurid, red voice for hot anger; a deep, thunderous voice for black; a cherry voice, the color of the green sea that a brisk breeze is crisp; and then there's a pretty little pink voice, and the shades of violet—but the subject is endless."

A substitute for beeswax has been discovered in the leaves of the rafia palm, a product of the island of Madagascar. The wax is extracted by the simple process of beating the dried leaves on a mat to small bits. The particles are then gathered and boiled. The resultant wax is kneaded into small cakes. Experiments are being made with the new substance to find out its commercial value—whether it may be used for bottling purposes, in the manufacture of phonograph cylinders, etc. Thus with artificial wax and artificial honey the bee is likely to be driven out of business.

The first building ever erected in the United States for the public use of the federal government, under the constitution, was the mint at Philadelphia. Robert Morris, the patriotic financier of the war of independence, was first to bring up the question of a national mint, and it was he who worked with Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton to induce congress to adopt the decimal system of money arithmetic.

Mrs. George H. Gorham, a well-known Washington woman, has just accomplished a herculean and unique task, which is the compilation of a French-English dictionary that affords the means for those desiring to learn either French or English to master those tongues sufficiently to converse and also to enjoy the literature of both.

A college girl out in New York is going into business this summer as an Adirondack guide. If the Maine girls ever follow her example, the guides now licensed for the Maine wilderness may have to cut rates in order to get business.

The king of England is a publisher. He has the exclusive right to issue mariners' charts and English mariners are forbidden by law to use any charts but his. The copyright on these royal charts, furthermore, never runs out.

It is rather petulantly pointed out that most of his time since he has been in the army Peary has spent on leave. But if he brings home the north pole nobody will kick about the salary he gets.

WM. FRANK, OTOE COUNTY FARMER, IS BURNED.

HIS DEATH IS PECULIAR

Found Lying in the Road With Clothing Completely Burned From His Body—Other News of the State.

Williams Frank, an aged retired farmer, living one and one-half miles south of Syracuse, was found lying in the road with his clothing burned from his body. He had been in Syracuse during the day and three hours before he was found had left for home in his buggy. He was smoking a cigar at the time last seen and it is believed, since he complained to some of his friends of not feeling well, that he died of heart failure and that his clothing caught fire from the cigar he was smoking. Mr. Frank has lived in Otoe county for twenty-five years. He leaves a son, John Frank, whose home is in Nebraska City.

Thinks Boys Were Drowned. The coats of Frank Dewey and Roscoe Wortman, who disappeared from home on the 28th of last December, have been found under a culvert of the Burlington track near the point where Salt creek empties into the Platte river. These two young men went skating on Pawnee creek on that date and disappeared and notwithstanding the vigilant search of their parents have never been discovered. The parents advertised extensively and although several clues to the boys' whereabouts were found they always proved misleading. At the time many people thought the boys had been drowned in Pawnee creek as the day was warm and the ice soft. The finding of the coats under the culvert again leads to the belief that the boys were drowned rather than that they ran away. The garments were found near the spot where Charles Mansfield, a young attorney of Omaha, was drowned in the summer of 1905.

Animal's Skeleton in Clay Pit. A complete skeleton of a buffalo was recently found sixteen feet under ground at the clay pit in Sarpy county, near Ashland. The bones were discovered by workmen engaged in digging into the bank and were thought to be those of a buffalo by the skull, horns and size and thickness of the bones. When taken out the bones crumbled to dust upon being touched, but other parts not handled soon hardened after being exposed to the air. Some persons who have examined the bones claim that they belong to a prehistoric period before the time of the buffalo.

Cut His Throat on a Train. An unknown man about 30 years old cut his throat on a Chicago, Burlington & Quincy train shortly after it left Napier, Mo. He was alive when the train reached Falls City, Neb., but died soon after being carried into the depot. He had a ticket dated May 7, Kansas City to Denver, and $138.50 in money was found in his clothing. He was well dressed and apparently had been in good health.

Church Opposes Street Fair. The official board of the First Methodist church, Fremont, held a meeting and after discussing the street fair question passed a lengthy resolution bearing upon such forms of amusement and severely condemning them. The board expressed its sentiment against any possible proposal to bring a street fair to Fremont this year. The move has been taken evidently to head off any such enterprise of the kind that may be started.

No Saloon for Madison. For the first time in twenty-eight years Madison is now without a licensed saloon. Former Senator W. V. Allen, by his attorney, M. S. McDuffie, appeared before the city council and filed a remonstrance against four of the five saloonkeepers, charging violation of the Stoum law. The council took no action on the one petition on which a remonstrance was not filed and adjourned.

Ashland Light Plant Burned. The plant of the Ashland Light, Mill and Power company, located on Wahoo creek, north of town, burned down. The origin of the fire is unknown, as the plant was all right at 12:30 when the night engineer left. Repairs aggregating $3,000 have recently been made and bring the loss up to $10,000, with $3,000 insurance. The town will be in darkness for several months. Omaha capitalists are interested in the company.

To Enforce Game Laws. A number of Humboldt sportsmen who are interested in the enforcement of the game laws of the state and the protection of the game and fish, have effected the organization of the Humboldt fishing club, with the following officers: President, Roscoe Anderson; vice president, L. F. Farburger; treasurer, Irvin Shirley; secretary, J. C. Williamson. It is also the intention of the company to lease either Spring lake or some other convenient place for a fishing preserve.

Alleged Murderer at Hastings Secures Acquittal. After a deliberation of one hour and thirty minutes the jury in the Barney Pearson murder case at Hastings brought in a verdict of acquittal. This ends one of the most interesting murders in the history of the state. Pearson was charged with the murder of Walter McCulla, who was killed by a shot fired through the rear window of Pearson's home after the midnight hour, July 29 last. McCulla died the following day and Pearson was tried on the charge of murder last December. The jury disagreed in the first trial. The county has paid Judge Batty $1,000 in attorney fees to assist in the prosecution which is only a small portion of the cost to taxpayers.

Woman Nearly Cremated. Mrs. Leonard Hollenbeck, the wife of a farmer residing west of Nebraska City, had a narrow escape from being cremated. She was preparing a meal and desiring to pour vinegar into a hot skillet got hold of a bottle containing turpentine, instead. The fluid no sooner struck the hot skillet than the whole was a mass of flames. Her hair and clothing were ignited. She was alone in the house and rushing out of doors jumped into a barrel of slop. She was badly burned about the body and her hair was burned from her head.

Kearney Man Gets Appointment. James Leitch, a Kearney student of the state normal, has been tendered the position of assistant to the United States consul at San Salvador. This is a position under the civil service regulations and though Mr. Leitch feels gratified in having been tendered, he has taken the acceptance under advisement owing to the remoteness of the place, but will decide in a few days whether or not he will accept the same.

At Work on New Hotel. J. E. Mendenhall has a big force of men at work razing the old A. F. Smith livery barn on the site of Fairbury's new $50,000 hotel. Everything will be ready to commence excavations for the new hotel within a week. It is the desire of the promoters of the new hotel—the Boone Hotel company—to have the new hostelry open to the general public some time during the coming fall.

Building a New Road. Actual operations in building the Omaha-Hastings electric line are soon to commence. The company's agent, J. C. Baker, signed the contract Saturday, C. D. Conover, of Omaha, and scrapers, graders, etc., are now en route to Hastings. Conover's five car loads of grading tools will be unloaded at Blaine siding six miles northeast of the city. Treasurer Baker will soon leave for New York to confer with capitalists.

Fire in Cambridge Hotel. At Cambridge fire was discovered in the second story of the Metropolitan hotel. A large crowd rushed in and with some difficulty succeeded in putting out the fire. The building was damaged considerably and also some of the contents, all being covered by insurance. While the origin of the fire is not known, there is considerable evidence to show that the fire was not the result of mere accident.

Robbers Loot Postoffice. The postoffice at Alda was robbed recently. The burglars gained entrance to Knox Brothers' store, in which the postoffice is located, by use of a skeleton key, and rifled the safe which contained about $30. Fifteen dollars in stamps were left untouched and money orders and other valuable papers were undisturbed. Sheriff Dunkel, with dogs is on the trail.

New Brewery for Hastings. Ground has been broken at Hastings for the new brewery building which is to be built in the near future. The site purchased some time ago is an excellent one, giving shipping facilities over two railroads, and being located near the business section, and far enough from the residential section as not to prove detrimental to property holders.

Met With an Accident. Mike Bauer, chief of the Nebraska City fire department and one of the oldest firemen in the state, met with quite an accident. He was driving a spirited colt and when in the western part of the city the animal turned suddenly, throwing Mr. Bauer out of the cart and injuring him severely. He will be confined to his room for some time.

Lorton Is Now Dry. Lorton, Otoe county, for the first time in its history has gone dry. The proprietors of the two saloons opposed each other and the result was that neither received a sufficient number of signers to their petitions.

Young Man Severely Hurt. Harry Doggett, a young man who came to Fremont three months ago from Chicago, was fatally injured in an accident near Wahoo, where he was working with the bridge gang of the Northwestern. Doggett, while in the act of swinging the big crane to the pile driver in place, was struck on the forehead by a revolving crank and knocked to the ground. His head was crushed. He died at the hospital in Fremont. The body will be sent to Omaha.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION HOLDING HEARINGS.

IT WANTS INFORMATION

Trying to Get the Knowledge That Will Enable it to Arrive at Just Valuation of Railroad Property.

To Assess Railroads. The state board of equalization and assessment has been holding meetings the past week to ascertain the value of railroad and car companies for the purpose of assessment.

Meetings will be held from day to day until the railroad property is valued for assessment. On the third Monday in July the board will meet to equalize the assessment of property, as returned by county assessors. Governor Sheldon, being the first member of the board named in the list in the statute creating the board, presided as chairman. George D. Bennett, who has served as secretary of the board since it was organized, was re-elected.

There is little or nothing in the way of rumors as to whether the board will change the value of railroad property as determined by the board one year ago. The board last year increased the value of the Union Pacific about $1,000,000, but made no other material change. The total value of all railroad property in the state is now $47,000,000, and the total of all property in the state, including railroad property, is $113,000,000. The members of the board have not formed any idea as yet in regard to railroad property, and will not express themselves until they obtain personal knowledge of the situation. There has been no rumor of any increase. The increase made by the former boards have been upheld by the highest court in the United States.

Railroad Rate Men on Hand.

Railroad rate men and attorneys and tax commissioners were at the state house last week in unprecedented numbers to attend.

The assessment board, Governor Sheldon chairman, heard representatives of the Sioux City branch of the Wilmar & Sioux Falls road and the Rock Island road. The board also heard Mr. S. L. Highleyman, of the Missouri Pacific, T. A. Polleys of the C. St. P., M. & O., and P. F. Crandon of the Northwestern road.

Other roads also had hearings. All the members of the assessment board are taking a deep interest in the work before them and evince a desire to get all the information possible to enable them to arrive at a just valuation of railroad property. The tax commissioners of the various roads have been asked to submit their statements in writing so that the board may digest their argument when the time comes to list property for taxation. The board comprises Governor Sheldon, Secretary of State Junkin, Treasurer Brian, Land Commissioner Eaton and Auditor Searle.

Burkett Gets Appointment.

E. R. Harper, acting governor of Colorado, has notified Senator Burkett of his appointment as a member of the program committee of the "Public Lands" convention, which has been called for Denver, June 18. Henry M. Teller is chairman of the program committee. The convention will consider future land laws, and propositions looking to the early development of the vacant lands in the west.

Governor Issues Requisition.

Governor Sheldon has issued a requisition for the return of David McMurtrey, a married man of Burt county, charged with a statutory offense against Effa Silway, a girl under eighteen years of age, alleged to have been committed March 10. McMurtrey is said to have left the state the next day and is now at Lamar, Ia.

Light Company Incorporates.

Articles of incorporation of the Havelock Electric Light company were filed in the office of the county clerk. The capitalization of the company is $15,000, and the incorporators are F. H. Whellen, J. O. Aspien, T. C. Ballard, Cornelius Moran, H. M. Eaton and C. O. Johnson.

Prohibits Getting Busy.

The state executive committee of the prohibition party met to lay plans for their campaign. The dates for a state convention were fixed for July 30 and 31 at Lincoln. Plans to banquet the prohibitionists of the state on the evening of July 30 met with favor. Secretary H. T. Sutton reported activity in all parts of the state visited by him.

Light for the State.

The state board of public lands and buildings has awarded a contract to the Westinghouse firm for the installation of a forty-horse-power motor at the penitentiary, to cost $509. The mechanism is badly needed there for the enlargement of the manufacturing facilities, which have heretofore been operated by one small motor. A dynamo is to be installed later, which will furnish power and light to the state capitol and the home for the friendless.

The State Journal has this to say of W. J. Bryan's speaking engagements: "Mr. Bryan will stay at home for a week or ten days and then another call to rush away on a speaking tour will have to be answered. He is now sought after more eagerly than any other man who is available for platform work. Whenever it becomes known that he has any vacant time the work of caring for the correspondence on that subject becomes a real burden to the folks in the Commoner office. If he filled all demands for dates he could talk, like the bands in Berlin, 'mornings, nights and afternoons, and still leave the public unsatisfied."

"Mr. Bryan's income from these engagements is very large, but it could be made much larger if he did not use lectures as an aid to getting his political views before the country. When he makes a political speech or attends a banquet he pays his own expenses. The sermons that attracted so much attention in Washington, Springfield and Boston were given freely for the public good. But when he goes on one of these trips he accepts the cost of the journey and perhaps to leave him a little profit besides. The paid lectures are thus only incidental to the main purpose of the visit."

Mr. Bryan's financial arrangements for his lectures are simple. He takes one-half of the proceeds and the people who manage the lecture take the other half. He refuses to lecture for an individual management, always insisting that the local share shall go to some organization or "cause." People have tried to estimate Mr. Bryan's income from lecturing but it is doubtful if he knows himself."

About W. J. Bryan.

A recent issue of the Springfield Republican said of the closing days of Mr. Bryan's eastern trip: "Mr. Bryan did not quite complete his program on Wednesday, but it was the fault of a late train. As it was, he merely arrived in New York at 6 o'clock, spent an hour receiving his friends, donned his evening clothes, and rushed to Harlem to deliver a lecture, was back at a downtown restaurant to attend a 10 o'clock supper in his honor, and an hour later was on his way to Newark, N. J., to deliver a speech at midnight. He is due to speak tonight in Chicago, and will get home on Sunday, planning to help plant his farm. That farm ought to get planted pretty quickly if Mr. Bryan tackles the job in the way he has been lecturing."

Liquor License in Lincoln.

The written opinion in the case of Julius Reusch against the city of Lincoln was filed Friday, the court holding that county boards may not grant license for a term exceeding a calendar year, but municipal authorities may grant a license for a municipal year, which may be either longer or shorter than a calendar year. By the term "municipal year" as used in the Stoum law, is ordinarily meant the political year as by so construing the term the principle of local option is conveyed and applied. By the amendment made to the Lincoln charter in 1905, by which biennial elections instead of annual elections were provided for, the legislature did not intend to abandon the policy of local option. In the case before the court the saloon keepers of Lincoln claimed the right to sell liquor on their licenses for thirteen months because the terms of the city officers had been extended for eight days the saloons were closed.

Regents Institute Test Case.

Regent Charles S. Allen obtained leave of the supreme court to file a mandamus suit against Auditor E. M. Searle. John J. Ledwith, who has a claim amounting to $25 for services as instructor in the university for the biennium, is the relator. The suit was filed to test the legality of the state auditor's ruling that no warrants on the state treasury should be issued when there are no funds in the fund on which the warrants are drawn. The fund in question is the one derived from a 1-mill levy for the support of the university. Mr. Ledwith's claim is on the temporary university fund. The petition of the relator asserts that the auditor has ruled that no warrants shall be issued when there is no money on hand. It cites sections 1, 2, and 3 of chapter 93, compiled statutes, to show that it is the duty of the state treasurer to register warrants when funds in the treasury are insufficient to pay the same. By reason of this it is alleged that it is the duty of the state auditor to issue warrants against the appropriation authorized by the legislature, whether or not taxes are actually collected at the time the warrants are applied for. The petition of the regents says the law authorizing the collection of a 1-mill levy for the maintenance of the university was passed by the legislature in 1899, the proceeds to constitute a fund to be expended under the direction of the regents for the maintenance and for buildings and permanent improvements.

Wants Water Right.

Application has been made to the state irrigation department by W. W. Votaw, of Lincoln, on behalf of the Maywood Milling company for permission to build a dam and sluice in Medicine creek near Maywood, Frontier county, to operate a flour mill and for an ice pond. Another application was reached the board from C. C. Mulloy of Irving, Cheyenne county, to tap Lower Dogout creek for a small irrigation system, estimated to cost $350 and water seventy acres of ground.

ETIQUETTE THAT MARKS THE WELL BRED.

Time for Returning First Calls a Matter on Which Authorities Differ.—"Housewife" for the Sewing Room.

First calls should be returned within a week, according to "Manners and Social Usages" (Harper Brothers), or, as some authorities say, within a fortnight. If a lady is invited to any entertainment by a new acquaintance, whether the invitation come through a friend or not, she should immediately leave cards, and send either a regret or an acceptance. To lose time in this matter is rude. Whether she attend the entertainment or not, she should call after it within a week. Then, having done all that is polite, and having shown herself a woman of good breeding, she can keep up the acquaintance or not as she pleases. Sometimes there are reasons why a lady does not wish to keep up the acquaintance, but she must recognize the politeness extended.

No first visit should be returned by card only; this would be considered a slight unless followed by an invitation. The size of New York, the great distances, the busy life of a woman of charities, large family, and immense circle of acquaintances may render a personal visit almost impossible. She may be considered to have done her duty if she, in her turn, asks her new acquaintance to call on her on a specified day, if she is not herself able to call in person.

After balls, amateur concerts, theatrical parties, garden parties, "at homes," cards should be left by all invited guests within a week after the event, particularly if the invited guest has been obliged to decline. These cards may be left without inquiring for the hostess, if time presses or if the weather is bad; but it is more polite to ask for her, even if it is not her day. If it is her receipt day, it would be rude not to inquire, either, and pay a personal visit. After a dinner or a formal luncheon, one must pay a personal visit. These are called "visits of digestion," and a person who fails to pay them is thought to be lacking in courtesy, especially in the case of an invitation to dinner.

It is proper to call in person, or to leave a card, after an acquaintance has lost a relative, after an engagement is announced, after a marriage has taken place, and after a return from Europe; but, as society grows larger and larger, these visits may be omitted, and cards sent if it is impossible to pay the visits personally.

A novel and convenient article for the sewing room is the housewife made on the plan of a suit case. It stands vertically, and is made of wood. The upper inside is fitted with shelves and pegs for spools, hooks for scissors, etc., and also a small folding shelf supported by hinges and chains. The lower part is lined with a pretty design of cretonne, against which is tacked several pockets of the same material for pieces, tapes, etc., three on one side and a large one on the other. On each side of the large pocket is a brass fixture to hold shears. All inside metal fittings are of brass. This particular housewife is stained a dark brown, with a row of nickel like a regular suit case, but it can be made in any color to match the furniture of the sewing room. When not in use it can be closed, and thus be kept free from dust. Although this convenient article is rather expensive to buy at the shops, any competent worker in wood can make it at slight cost.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Add alum to the paste used in scrap books and it will keep the moths out of them.

Rub the backs of old paintings with oil of cedar to protect them from injury by insects.

Add a pinch of soda in water in which fresh-cut flowers are put and they will keep longer.

Do not stretch table linen, but iron while damp, and press until quite dry; otherwise it will be too limp.

There is no better filling for needle and pin cushions than sheep's wool, as its oily qualities prevent the needles from rusting.

After the carpet is tacked down, if it is liberally sprinkled with salt and swept with a clean broom the colors will be brightened wonderfully.

Cut stale bread into the thinnest possible slices and brown it in the oven. Then crush it with a rolling pin, and you will have bread crumbs for browning cutlets, friend oysters and the like.

How to Clean Brass.

First clean the brass in the ordinary way either with one of the ready-made polishes, or with paraffin and finely powdered bathbrick mixed to a rather soft consistency. Polish with dry, finely powdered bathbrick, then rub quickly over with a little petrol, and afterward polish with dry whiteness and a leather, using a brush for any parts into which the leather will not go.

Be sure that all stains are removed before you begin polishing. Stains of long standing, that bought ready-made polishes will not move, will always yield to a vigorous treatment with bathbrick and paraffin; in fact, this, applied with a rather stiff nailbrush, is what dealers use to clean old brass that has become absolutely black through lying by.

NEBRASKA STOCK DIP

You have heard of farmers and stock raisers dipping their cattle and hogs with various kinds of dips with no definite strength. What was the result?

They had to dip over again or permit their stock to remain lousy.

If you ever use Nebraska Dip you will be convinced that it is the strongest and best dip on the market. Remember this: Nebraska Dip is sold on a positive guarantee to give perfect satisfaction and do all and more than any other dip on the market, and when it fails to do this all you have to do is to come back to LUSE and get every cent you paid for it. Isn't this fair? We want to prove this to you. Won't you give us a chance?

One day this week a couple of boys who shouldered their fishing rods and sought to lure a few suckers from the still waters at the mouth of Dane creek met their bobber going out of sight they jerked on the line in the most approved fashion. They only succeeded in almost breaching their pole and being pulled into the creek themselves. They finally landed a huge snapping turtle, and after some debate they decided to take it to Smith's restaurant, where they succeeded in selling it. The turtle weighed about thirty-five pounds, and the Smiths desire us to say that turtle soup will be the feature at the Domestic Kitchen tomorrow afternoon and evening.

The latest in the way of new brick business blocks to be built in Ord the coming season is the one which Charles Masin is figuring on putting up on the site of the Monarch saloon building. He will move the old building east a few yards and then turn it around so it will face the south. This is a plan he has been contemplating for several months. He intends to erect a first class building in all respects.

The fruit crop outlook for this section of Nebraska is probably poorer this year than it has been for many years past. The greater part of northern and western Nebraska report a hard freeze Tuesday night and while much of the late fruit showed a fair prospect up to that time it is quite probable that few if any of the fruit buds escaped on that occasion.

Prisoners Break Jail.

There was considerable excitement about town Thursday morning when it was learned that Jack Martin and Oliver Lord had made a successful get away from the Ord jail. Readers of the Quiz will remember that Martin and Lord were arrested about three weeks ago for breaking in and looting the Ernest Brothers hardware store at North Loup. The prisoners were caught with the goods on their person and there could of course be no doubt as to their guilt, in fact at the preliminary hearing Lord plead guilty to the charge, while Martin, who was an old timer and had a reputation of being connected with many crimes of a similar nature, stood trial and both prisoners were bound over to the district court in bonds in the sum of one thousand dollars each. Pending the convening of district court the prisoners were confined in the jail. When being locked in Martin informed the sheriff that the Ord jail was not strong enough to hold him and he evidently knew what he was talking about as later developments showed. The prisoners were concealed in the inner steel cages of the jail, the outside corridor being occupied by a fellow by the name of Kelly, who is serving a small sentence on a minor charge. Kelly's story of their escape is a strange one and we are told that at present he has been unable to tell it twice in the same manner. Both cell doors are locked with a key and from Kelly the information comes that the occupants of the jail succeeded in working the locks with a piece of glass. How they could do this when in their position behind the bars they could not possibly reach the key hole in the lock is more than the average person is able to explain. After getting out of the steel cell Kelley tells us that they forced him into the cage and locked the door. Their time of escape is in Kelly's several stories placed all the way from midnight to four o'clock in the morning.

As soon as the escape of the prisoners was noised about several posses were organized, the telephone was freely used and the surrounding country notified of their escape and every possible means to effect their capture has been taken. Late in the evening the report was received that a couple of strangers had been seen on the farm of a man by the name of Hansen, about six miles north and west of North Loup and at this time is about the only clue that the officers have to work upon.

It is the opinion of most of the people that have looked into the case at all that the prisoners could only gain their escape through assistance received by persons outside their cell and as Kelly was the only person that could possibly get at the lock on their door it is quite natural that suspicion is cast upon him as having something to do with their escape.

Judge Paul was billed to come up from St. Paul Wednesday evening and sentence Lord and take up the trial of Martin but this important procedure of course had to be postponed for the present. Should they be recaptured they will probably be given a speedy trial and sentence and placed behind walls where escape is not so easy. No blame can be attached to the officers in charge of the prisoners for allowing them to escape as they used every power at their command to keep them safe.

At eleven o'clock today a telephone message was received by Sheriff Sutton, stating that a person answering to the description of Lord had stopped at a farm house six miles north of Elyria and asked for breakfast. The sheriff and deputy started at once for the place in an automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Koupal and son, Rudy, returned from Lincoln Thursday evening to again take up their residence in Ord. The Koupal folks moved to Lincoln about a year ago, the move being made necessary by the sickness of their son. The boy is greatly improved now, and they, of course, take the first opportunity to get back to their Ord friends.

The Quiz expected to be able to publish the votes as they now stand in our piano voting contest this week but one or two of the contestants residing several miles from Ord have up to date failed to send in their votes. We desire all of the candidates that have signified their intention of entering the contest to have their votes in by next Tuesday so that they may appear in the list at that time. Candidates, we think, will find it to their interest to have their names on the list at the time of the first counting for in this manner they will announce to their friends that they are in the contest. There are several candidates that would like to have that fine new Hamilton piano and are already exerting themselves to that end and the contest promises to be a warm one. Watch for the vote as it will appear in these columns next week.

Contestants for the new Hamilton piano which the Quiz will give to the young lady scoring the highest number of votes are now at work and if you are in arrears on your subscription account your attention will probably be called to the fact at an early date. Contestants are authorized to receive money on both old and new subscriptions and will give receipt for the same.

The sheriff of Buffalo county was attending to affairs in Scotia when he heard of the two prisoners escaping from the Valley county jail, and, as he was somewhat interested in the parties, Jack Martin having been one time sent up from his county, he came up to Ord and assisted Sheriff Sutton in his search for the criminals.

FAIRBURY WINDMILLS

This is conclusive evidence that they give perfect satisfaction to over two hundred customers.

It has from 18 to 40 less joints than any other mill made. Having an 18-inch slide head to throw it in and out of gear, where all other open wheels have from 4 to 6-inch throw, which will wear three times as fast as an 18-inch throw as we are on the long end of lever.

It has a perfect balance, the mill turning on a steel pivot, doing away with any rollers to wear flat.

The Fairbury will turn to the slightest breeze and go to work, where other mills will stand edgewise to the wind and be of no use unless turned to the wind by hand.

Fairbury mills have more wind surface by one-fifth than any other mill of the same size, thereby doing the work with less strain than any other mill made.

An Appreciation of Daniel C. Bailey and Others.

The writer came to Ord in November 1879. Among the first acquaintances of Mrs. Weaver and myself were Mr. Bailey and his excellent wife. These with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mortensen, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Babcock, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hale, Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Haskell and other thoughtful and kind people, did much to bring relief to the embarrassments of a new country, and to draw our hearts out to them in warm fellowship and sympathy. The dear woman, who went to blessed rest in April 1881, loved them all.

Though Brother Bailey and wife were not in our church relation, this was no barrier to the mutual interest and affection that was always shown, at least on their part.

As I write these words, and memories of our visits to their home and the hearty greetings and kindnesses that met us there come trooping to me, I have tearful gratitude in my heart.

Sleep on, dear brother, we shall soon meet in the mansions of our Father's house.

Maybe Wellman will find water at the north pole, in accordance with his expectations, when he gets there, but we venture to say that it will be in solid blocks that he will have to melt, if he wants to utilize it for navigating purposes.

Havilians are talking of tapping a volcano there and using the lava to build a needed breakwater. Nature may do things from the grandeur standpoint, but man is beginning to see the business end in her awe-inspiring sublimity.

For many years now the people of Putney, near London, have been accustomed to see Mr. Swinburne leave his home, The Pines, at the same hour every day for his "constitutional." He returns from his walk the same time every day. So punctual is he in leaving his residence and returning to it that watches might be set by him. The poet's walk is always to the same spot on the beach.

The editor of the Museum Gazette of London has made an attempt to estimate the length of time man has inhabited Great Britain. He allows 250,000 years. The period seems long, but the tendency of late has been to extend it, so that the historic period of some 2,000 years in Britain is a small fraction of man's existence here, as the whole human epoch is a small fraction of the world's history.

Two German aeronauts have accomplished the feat of traveling from Berlin to Leicestershire in England by balloon, a distance of 812 miles, in just 19 hours. This recalls the world's balloon long-distance record of 1250 miles achieved by Count de la Vaux in 1900 in a journey from Paris to Kieff, in Russia, but it doesn't make it sure that Walter Wellman will reach the pole.

A good many housekeepers will be interested in the fact that Franklin Square house since it opened a little less than five years ago has accommodated 11,462 young women, to whom have been served approximately 1,680,000 meals; also in the statement that the meals to all permanent residents have cost a trifle more than 14 cents each. To furnish good meals at that price under present conditions, says Boston Globe, requires good management.

Europe sometimes overwhelms her American child with blessings. One week's shower of English periodicals contains the declarations that the American army is the most intelligent, highly trained and best equipped in the world, and that the American woman is better read and more cultivated than the English woman of corresponding class. These things are pleasant to read, but it will be well to offset them with the warning of a German critic who has lived among us, that the prevailing culture of our men is very low, that we leave the high and fine things of life too much to our women.

Mrs. Thomas F. Ryan, wife of the New York traction millionaire, has so much charity work in hand that she has a private office and staff of clerks and stenographers. She has given away about $4,000,000 in building hospitals, convents, schools and churches.

"The best that can be said about automobiles," remarks the Charleston News, "is that they will stand still without being hitched." But the trouble is that too often they persist in standing still when they ought to get a move on.

GREEN BUG ALARMS FALLS CITY FARMERS.

WHEAT IS BEING DAMAGED

One Field Examined and a Large Number of the Pests Found—Alfalfa Said to Be Affected Also.

Other State News.

A Falls City dispatch says: L. Knickerbocker made an examination of his wheat field and found that the green bugs were present in large numbers. From one bunch he claims to have shaken several hundred. His field is on the Nemaha bottoms close to the Burlington depot. At Hepcock's mill are several samples showing plainly the presence of the bug. Farmers are complaining that the alfalfa sown last fall appears yellow and not in good condition, at first they thought it was the cold weather, but now some of them blame the green bug for this also.

TO REDUCE ITS CAPITAL.

Valparaiso Bank Cuts From $25,000 to $15,000 for Reasons.

On a request from the Valparaiso state bank for permission to reduce its capital stock from $25,000 to $15,000, the state banking board took affirmative action after hearing from Examiner E. S. Mickey, who was sent to make an inquiry into the affairs of the institution. It was learned that two of the five stockholders in the bank are intending to withdraw, and the other three did not wish to carry the entire amount of capital heretofore issued. The banking board consented to have the stock of the two seceding members called in and cancelled, they to receive a cash return for their respective interests. The reasons for their withdrawal were not stated.

One feature of Examiner Mickey's report was that the bank has hitherto placed a higher valuation than is deemed conservative on its building property in its statement of assets. The permit to lower the amount of capital stock was made on the understanding that several hundred dollars be lopped off from that valuation. However, the bank has ample surplus to make good this small depletion without impairment of the assets. A member of the state board stated that the interests of the depositors are not in any way affected by the change.

Plantenberg Adjudged Insane.

Fred Plantenberg, the keeper of the village store at Aloys, in Cuming county, has been again adjudged insane and taken to the Norfolk hospital. This is the second time that Plantenberg has been committed for insanity. About two years ago he was attacked, but after a few months treatment he apparently recovered, but has had a relapse. Inordinate drinking is supposed to be the chief cause of the trouble.

Sedgewick Get at Case.

The postoffice clerks, city and rural route carriers presented ex-Postmaster T. E. Sedgewick of York with a fine gold headed cane and Mitt Dot Sedgewick, ex-deputy postmistress, with a beautiful gold bracelet. Both gifts were appropriately engraved. Mr. Sedgewick served in the capacity of postmaster from May 1, 1898 until April 1, 1907.

Twelve Sections Withdrawn.

An Alliance dispatch says: Twelve sections of land in townships 32 and 23, in range 45, have been withdrawn from lands to be homesteaded, pending the resurvey now being conducted by Messrs. Switzer and Harvey, representing the government and the state of Nebraska. These lands are all in the district containing the disputed section lines.

Fire Does Damage.

Fire damaged the flour and feed stock of W. Smith, Beatrice, to the extent of about $1,000, and the building which was situated east of the Beatrice hotel, to the extent of about $500. The stock was covered by $800 insurance, while some insurance was on the building. The fire caught in a stable in the rear of the building. Cause of it is unknown.

Marriage Not a Failure.

According to the records of the county court of Johnson county for the twenty years from January 1, 1887, to January 1, 1907, there were 2,018 marriage licenses issued. During that twenty years there were but 187 applications for divorce filed. Marriage evidently is not a failure in that county.

Hartington Wants oGod Roads.

Through the efforts of the Hartington Commercial club an "object lesson" piece of road work will be done near Hartington under the supervision of government experts. From this it is hoped will result more scientific road building. The good roads crusade has taken hold strong here and the people are fully alive to the beneficial advantages of a system of good roads. The piece of road work that will be done will be witnessed by many farmers who are deeply interested.

D. E. THOMPSON WINS.

Opinion Rendered Growing Out of Capital National Failure.

The supreme court of the United States reversed the decision of the supreme court of Nebraska in the case of Charles E. Yates and others versus the Jones National bank of Seward, Neb., and others. The case grew out of the failure in 1893 of the Capital National bank of Lincoln, Neb., and was an effort to hold the officers and directors liable for losses sustained by depositors. The state courts awarded damages in all cases substantially as prayed for.

Under the decision of the state courts of Nebraska the directors of the Capital National bank were held for a judgment amounting to about $35,000, the Jones Nationals bank and other banks alleging that they held preferred claims upon the assets of the defunct Capital National bank. It was charged by the creditors of the failed bank that the directors were liable for the claims by reason of alleged knowledge of false statements of the condition of the bank said to have been published under the signatures of Cashier Charles W. Mosher and the president of the institution. D. E. Thompson, now minister to Mexico, was one of the principal directors and stockholders and he was instrumental in appealing the case to the United States courts.

INCENDIARY FIRE AT FILLEY.

City Block Burned, But Less Will Amount to Only $4,000.

Fire, which is supposed to have been of incendiary origin, recently destroyed the greater portion of the business section of Filley, Gage county. The fire was discovered, about 4 o'clock in the drug store of Wabler, Butterfield, which was completely destroyed. The offices of Dr. C. S. Boggs and Dr. Thornton, the barber shop of Elmer Groves and the harness store of C. H. Kenwood were also consumed by the flames. Some of the stock in the latter building was saved. Hard work on the part of a bucket brigade saved the telephone exchange, in which was also located the post-office. The loss will aggregate $4,000, partly covered by insurance.

Green Bugs in Gage County.

The green bug has made its appearance in Gage county, and its ravages have already begun to have a disastrous effect not only on wheat but on oat crops. An examination of a large number of fields through the country disclosed the presence of the pests in every field. Considerable apprehension is felt among the farmers of the county as to how serious the effects of the ravages of the bugs will be.

New Hospital for Hastings.

The announcement has been made by officers of the Nebraska conference association at College View that the purchase of property has been made in Hastings, preparatory for the establishment of a branch of the Lincoln sanitarium and probably the transfer of the state headquarters to that city within a few months. The total cost of the venture will be in the neighborhood of $10,000.

Ashland Using Kerosene.

The Ashland Electric Light company, whose plant burned last week has announced that lighting service cannot be guaranteed under a month. Meanwhile coal oil lamps have been much in demand. Owing to the absence of lights, the churches of the city have decided to hold union services for the time being.

Woman Was Run Down.

Mrs. W. J. Hanna of Twenty-fourth and Y streets, Lincoln, was run down by a woman driving a spirited horse near Seventeenth and O streets. She was taken to her home by the woman who was driving the rig whose name is uncertainly because she gave several names to different parties. The horse was unruled.

Want a Sewer System.

The question of a municipal sewer system is agitating the citizens of Ashland. Several private sewer systems of considerable extent are in operation, and it is proposed that the city take these over and make them the basis for a system serving the entire corporation.

Fire at Albion.

Fire destroyed the Beckman restaurant and Perks' bakery at Albion. The building and stocks are a total loss. A heavy wind was blowing and the fire company extinguished the fire only by the hardest kind of work. Insurance is small. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Actor Struck by Lightning.

Mrs. Keith, the member of the Franklyn Comedy company, a show troupe which has been playing at Crofton, Cedar county, was instantly killed by being struck by lightning during a severe electrical storm. Other occupants of the house were slightly stunned but not seriously hurt.

Hurt in a Runaway.

Mrs. Clara Sainder, living on West Court street, Beatrice, was badly injured in a runaway, being thrown from a buggy in which she was riding to the pavement with such force as to dislocate an arm, cut a deep gash in her forehead, and inflict other injuries, the exact nature of which has not yet been discovered. The horse become frightened at an automobile. The unconscious woman was taken to the home Dr. Clausem, nearby, where her injuries were attended to.

CAPITAL CITY CHAT

THE RAILWAY COMMISSION HAS AMPLE POWER.

CAN RAISE OR LOWER RATES

Attorney General Thompson, in Response to Request Therefor, Gives Opinion in Regard to Rates.

Up to Railway Commission.

Under the decision of Attorney General W. T. Thompson the Nebraska railway commission has power either to raise or lower the commodity maximum rate bill or the rates fixed for express companies without waiting for either bill to go into effect. A dozen or more railroad traffic men appeared before the board and informally protested that the commodity rate bill would do the roads an injustice and it is up to the commission to say whether or not the commodity maximum freight rates determined by the legislature and the charges of express companies are to be changed and set aside after official hearings. The commission may, after a hearing, either raise or lower the rates fixed in these two bills, according to the attorney general, but no action is expected for some time.

The commodity rate applies to charges on live stock, potatoes, grain, and grain products, fruit, coal, lumber,

F. W. BROWN. Re-elected as democratic mayor in Lincoln, overcoming large republican majority.

and building material, and not more than eighty-five per cent of the rates charged on January 1 may be collected. This bill has no emergency clause and will not go into effect until July 8. The bill relating to express charges has an emergency clause, but as it is not in accordance with the customary form some little doubt has been cast on its efficacy. This bill provides that not more than 75 per cent of the rates charged January 1 shall be collected.

The traffic men before the board appeared to be playing a diplomatic game, desiring to ascertain what the commission intended to do and the members of the commission were successful in being just as non-committal and apparently at sea as were the traffic men.

One of the railroad men desired to divide the state into three sections, east and west, and to enforce a reduction of 15 per cent on commodity rates in the eastern division, 12 1/2 per cent in the central division and 10 per cent in the western division. As the maximum rate bill provides for a level reduction for all parts of the state of 15 per cent it is not known whether or not the plan proposed by the railroad men is legal.

Allen Succeeds Church.

Ed. A. Church, oil inspector, has given way to A. B. Allen, until recently private secretary to Governor Sheldon. It is understood that D. W. Hoyt of York and H. J. Hull of Kearney, deputies for the Fourth and Sixth districts, respectively, will not be supplanted at this time. The situation in the Second district, with several candidates in the field, is such that the present deputy, W. G. Thompson, will probably hold his job until the republican leaders reach an agreement on whom they want as his successor. Appointments have been made for the Third and Fifth districts.

Served Without Bond.

The discovery has been made that Chief Oil Inspector Church and a number of other appointive officials who held over from the Mickey administration have served since May 1 without any bonds to cover their acts. Mr. Church gave bond for $20,000 on May 1, 1905, for the period of two years, so that the surety obligation ceased to be binding on the first day of this month.

Gift for Burkett.

Senator Burkett has received a unique gift in the form of a diminutive little horseshoe. It comes all the way from Martinsburg, Pa., and the sender is Charles Gorsuch, a blacksmith, who writes the senator that he forged the little emblem of good luck on his own anvil and with his own hands. He asks the senator to accept it with his "wishes of good luck, good health, and good cheer." The senator thanked him for it and sent him an autographed photograph in return.

Ask for Information.

A request for data to be used in combating the adoption of the proposed constitution in Oklahoma preliminary to its admission as a state has been received by Secretary of State George C. Junkin. The information wanted is a synopsis of the constitutional amendments submitted to popular vote in Nebraska from time to time, the number adopted and the number rejected. L. S. Wilson of Pawnee, Okla., a former law student at the University of Nebraska, who has made his home in the new commonwealth and is taking part in its politics, is the writer of the letter. He says that the republican state central committee of Oklahoma wishes to gather facts for presentation to the voters which will discourage the movement to ratify the constitution in its present form, as prepared by the late constitutional convention, in which the democrats had a large majority.

Sheldon Asks Question.

"How many children of your own have you?" is a question that Governor Sheldon has put to several women who are applicants for membership on the new state board which will have in charge the inspection of conditions under the child labor law. Mrs. H. F. Rose of Lincoln, Mrs. Sprague of Syracuse and one or two other women have been interrogated by the governor as to the size of their respective flocks. It should not be taken for granted, however, that the executive will confine his appointments to women with large families, as he has not intimated any such intention. He merely wants to inform himself on the qualifications of candidates.

May Not Be Able to Buy.

Omission of an emergency clause on the bill appropriating $2,800 for purchase of additional ground at the state home for friendless may cause the state to lose its options on the property it had intended to buy. The discovery that the money will not become available until July 4 was made by the board of public properties this forenoon. The board was all ready to execute warrants, to John Burko for $1,000 and to Mrs. Emma Hough for $800, and to take their deeds for the property when it became aware of the fact that the emergency clause is not in the act and the money is, therefore, not available at present.

Receives Last Dividend.

Treasurer Brian has received the last dividend due the state from the defunct First National bank of Orleans, $2,000 in amount. A former dividend of $2,000 was recently paid, making $4,000 in all. The state had $20,000 on deposit when the bank failed in May, 1897, so that it gets 20 per cent of its loss, counting no interest. The money was sent by J. W. McDonald of Lincoln, who has been acting as receiver. It was not realized from assets, of which the bank had none, but came through an assessment on some of the larger stockholders.

The Retort Courteous.

An Indiana admirer who walked up town on Monday to pay his respects to Mr. Bryan asked a pointed question as to whether he was to be nominated for the presidency next year. Mr. Bryan good naturedly said that the question reminded him of the darkey who report to his master in detail about feeding the horses and the cows with hay, and that they had eaten it.

"Did you feed the ducks and geese?" the master continued.

"What did you feed them?"

"I fed em 'hay."

"Did they eat it?"

"Naw, sir, I wouldn't ezactly say they eat it, but they was talkin' about it when I lef'."

Anent Murders.

The latest murder in Nebraska reminds a newspaper telegraph editor that he is called upon to handle five or six similar items a year from Nebraska alone, and that in a large percentage of the cases the incentive to murder is robbery. It has come to such a pass that a man who keeps a sum of money around his house is inviting the attack of some murderous thug. When he has a stranger as a hired man on the place it is particularly dangerous to keep money, for its presence is generally known and is bound to be a temptation. The suggestion is made that well-to-do farmers ought to open bank accounts in the nearest town and have it known that they keep all their money there, as a discouragement to this sort of enterprise.

Despair to Quit.

Don C. Despain, appointed two weeks ago by Governor Sheldon as deputy labor commissioner, has tendered his resignation, effective June 1, in order to accept a position as traveling agent for a window shade concern having offices in Lincoln and a factory at Chicago. He will have the development of the company's business in charge throughout an area of twenty-four states. Lincoln will be his headquarters.

Outside Students Visit Lincoln.

The senior class of the Pawnee City high school, chaperoned by Miss Rose Clark, a member of the faculty, were in Lincoln visiting the university and other public institutions, and while in the city attended the fete day exercises at the university. For several years it has been the custom in the Pawnee high school for the senior class to visit the state university in a body at some time during the year. Heretofore the class made the visit at charter day.

BASEBALL IN THE SMALLER TOWNS

GAMES PLAYED IN TWILIGHT

Beginning of Soo League in Northern Michigan Where Game Depends on Miners for Support—Hiring of Professionals That Spelled a Social Organization—Schedule-Maker in Ohio Who Had His Troubles.

Baseball is played wherever Americans go. There is not a village, or hamlet, or cross-roads town or country school house that does not boast a ball club. From April to October baseball is played from Maine to lower California, and from the Aleutian Islands to Florida, writes Hugh Fullerton.

In most cases the contests merely are single games, or series between rival towns, but the idea of a league playing a regularly scheduled series of games always has been recognized as the fairest way of deciding the merits of a team. The result has been the organization of some of the oddest little leagues ever formed. For that matter, some of the "big" leagues, even up in Class A, sometimes are strangely and wonderfully made up. I recall the Southern league one year. I believe Ted Sullivan organized it that season, and the make-up was fearful. The league consisted of Little Rock, New Orleans, Birmingham and Evansville, Ind., as the western half, and Charleston, Savannah, Atlanta and Augusta as the eastern. Imagine that on Southern railways.

One of the queerest leagues ever devised and one of the most successful in a small way was the Soo league, of Northern Michigan, which now has outgrown its swaddling clothes. The league consisted of Calumet, Lake Linden and several other towns, all within the radius of a few miles. The men who made the schedule figured the there was no use in wasting the long summer twilights that prevail in that latitude, so they arranged the games on that plan. Besides, up in the copper country baseball depends on the miners for support. So the schedule was made for evening games, to be played after supper.

The miners would come out on their shift at six o'clock, the games were called at 6:30, and finished about 8:30 in the twilight. There were few games stopped by darkness. To meet the demands of the night workers, a day game also was played. Lake Linden would play at Soo in the afternoon, and run down home for the evening game. The plan proved quite a success.

Many of the smaller leagues—ones that are unknown to the powers of baseball, and that do not aspire to protection under the national agreement—are composed of two or three out-of-town professionals, and the rest of the team is made up of home talent, playing for the honor of being on the team. A queer feature of these leagues is that at the start they do not expect to make money. They are organized to hold up the honor of different towns, and usually they are backed by sport-loving business men. Another strange thing is that, in the first year, almost all the clubs make money, instead of losing, and, after that, growing confident, they attempt baseball on a higher commercial scale and fail.

One of these leagues was organized in the early '90s down in Virginia. Charlottesville, Raleigh and four other towns, close together, organized teams. The first year the league ruled that no man should play on any team who was not a resident of the county in which his team was located. There never was prettier baseball nor more exciting battles than during that year. The boys of the best families worked hard for positions, and the triweekly games—Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays—not only were well attended, but they were society events. The following year the rule was broken. Professionals were hired, getting small salaries and regular positions in factories or stores as a recompense. The social feature ceased instantly, and the league went to ruin.

Possibly the oddest league ever formed was organized by Harley Holt, who was quite some ball player. Harley not only played ball, but taught school, ran the sawmill, and knew the rule book by heart. He did not have much of a field to work on, his field being the south part of Highland county, O., where one has to hunt several miles before finding a spot level enough to play ball. Besides, the population was scattered. But the league was organized. It consisted of Berryville, population 300; Swamp College, population 12; Mount Washington, Belfast, McIntyre's store, and Mount Carmel. Belfast had about 400 population and was the star town, but, as it turned out, Mount Washington drew better, although there was nothing at Mount Washington but the church and graveyard, and ball grounds.

Fifty-four games were scheduled, to be played after school, on Saturdays, etc., and the task was further complicated because the schedule-maker had to avoid arranging games either during blackberry season, hay harvest, or thrashing. Swamp College won the championship, after a desperate race, playing off the final game Thanksgiving day, and noosing Berryville out by one game.

Our Washington Letter.

President Roosevelt is seriously considering an invitation to attend a deep waterways convention to be held in Memphis in October. Although he has not yet arrived at any definite decision, because of the press of public work that will meet him on his return to the White House in the latter part of September, it is well-known that he will make every effort to be in attendance. The president's deep interest in the question of waterway transportation is thoroughly understood.

The fact that the Memphis invitation might be accepted became known through the declination of an invitation from Albert Godchaux, president of the New Orleans Progressive Union, urging the president to attend a meeting in New Orleans immediately following the Memphis convention, at which will be discussed the proposed exposition to be held in 1915 to celebrate the opening of the Panama canal. It is understood that the promoters of the exposition wish to make Mr. Roosevelt director general of the big fair. This honor is considered eminently fitting; firstly, because the actual assumption of the task of connecting the Atlantic and Pacific ocean was begun under Mr. Roosevelt's administration, and because it has been largely due to his powerful personality that the work has progressed so satisfactorily in the face of such serious difficulties.

Although the question of waterways development has not yet been the subject of one of the numerous special messages to congress, nor been touched upon in more than a broad way in the annual message, it has taken first rank as one of the policies of the Roosevelt administration. In addition to the passage of a record breaking river and harbor bill by the sixtieth congress, President Roosevelt went a step further in the appointment of the Inland Waterways commission. Once this commission gets into full working swing it is believed that it will prove a most valuable adjunct to the rivers and harbors committee of the house. In all of his unofficial utterances the president has made plain his interest in this question. In December he said in addressing the delegates to the last convention of the National Rivers and Harbors congress:

"I have had it brought strikingly to my attention but recently how much we suffer at present because of the inadequate transportation facilities of the railways for moving the great grain crop and cattle crop of the country. We need, and must have, further facilities for transportation, and as has been well pointed out, one of the effective methods of affecting railway rates is to provide for a proper system of water transportation."

Mr. Roosevelt's interest in the problem is not of recent birth. In addressing the National Rivers and Harbors congress convention in the previous year he said:

"It is a very great pleasure to have the chance of greeting you in the White House this afternoon. Sometimes have visitors who want to discuss with me matters in which I am not interested, but a congress like this is always welcome, because it has at heart affairs in which the whole nation is deeply concerned, for it is unnecessary to say that those that live remote from any navigable river, from any deep sea harbor, yet have almost as great, though an indirect concern in their proper care and development as those who live right on the borders, for the development of our commerce depends in large part upon the same treatment of the rivers and harbors of the United States."

Although the president is not able to attend the meeting at New Orleans in October, it is very likely that the members of Inland Waterways Commission, who are now making an inspection trip down the Mississippi river from Kansas City to the gulf, will be the guests of the New Orleans Progressive Union. President Godchaux sent a telegraphic invitation to Congressman Theodore Burton, chairman of the commission, urging that they be the Union's guests on their arrival there. It is highly probable that the invitation will be accepted.

Vice President Fairbanks this week deserted his presidential aspirations incubator long enough to write a remarkable letter. Not to be outdone, Speaker Cannon, who is commonly believed to be operating a presidential hatchery himself, laid down his cigar and did likewise. The only remarkable thing, in fact, about these letters is that neither man is given to endorsing visionary schemes or to laudation in any form, as seekers after certain legislation know only too well.

With other members of the administration, Vice President Fairbanks and "Uncle Joe" have watched with much interest the efforts under way to carry out the schemes laid down by the first president for the establishment of a national university. Work to bring this about is being undertaken by the George Washington University, which was established in 1821 and which believes it has all the qualifications necessary to meet the demands on a great institution of learning. Already a fund of $200,000 practically has been subscribed by local citizens, and plans are afoot to appeal to the alumni of the University and to patriotic citizens generally for subscriptions to an endowment fund which will permit the institution to acquire and maintain the importance it will deserve.

Both letters were addressed to Dr. Richard D. Harlan, who is actively engaged in the field in preparing for a national campaign for subscriptions. The letter of Vice President Fairbanks reads:

I most heartily wish you success in securing an ample endowment for the George Washington University. It is impossible to exaggerate the importance of the work in which you are engaged. I am a firm believer in the establishment of such a University as this in the national capitol. There will assemble young men of ability from all portions of the country, to enjoy facilities for education which will be unequalled anywhere. They will not alone be able to enjoy the advantages afforded by the great libraries and be permitted to study at close hand the mechanism of the government, but they will be brought into touch and association with young men from all portions of the republic, who will become factors in all of the professional, business, political, literary and scientific walks of life. I most heartily wish you success in the great work in which you are engaged.

The letter of "Uncle Joe" Cannon is not quite so lengthy as that of the Vice President, but as an unsolicited endorsement, it is one of the most unique documents that the Speaker has ever penned. The Czar of the House did not earn his sobriquet of "Watch Dog of the Treasury" without reason, and since his elevation to handler of the gravel, he has been ever more chary of recommending anything or otherwise becoming identified with any movement. So it was with surprise that Dr. Harlan found in his mail at the university this week the following letter, bearing the cramped signature of the Speaker:

"I have been informed that you have undertaken to help in the work of securing the necessary means for the enlargement and extension of the George Washington University. The nation's capital is fast becoming the center of literary and scientific activity, and, with the advantages its enjoys, it should not be behind in educational work. I see no reason why the George Washington University should not become one of the foremost institutions of learning in the world. I hope your efforts in procuring proper endowment by voluntary subscriptions from the people of the United States may be crowned with success."

Dr. Mitchell Carroll, chairman of the building and endowment committee of the university, this week reports that the work has progressed so far that the site for the new "greater university" will be decided upon at a very early date. The trustees are now engaged in making a careful selection of a number of sites that have been offered, and the plans for some of the buildings already have been determined upon. These buildings will be erected with an especial view to conforming with the general plan of the "Washington Beautiful" board.

The Coal Situation

In an interview with Mr. W. L. Park, general superintendent of the Union Pacific railroad he states that the coal situation is the most serious that confronts the people, particularly in the west. The population is growing so fast that the demand upon the mines are very much beyond their capacity.

"It is quite likely that next winter will see a much more serious condition than existed during the past, for the reason that the country west of the Rock Springs mines is settling up very rapidly and requires the entire commercial output at the present time. Recently very little Rock Springs coal has been shipped east of Cheyenne and practically none has left the rails of the Union Pacific or its affiliated lines during the past year. It may be possible for the consumers along the Union Pacific, east of Rock Springs, to obtain this coal, if the dealers store it during the summer. This we are urging them to do, knowing how much the people appreciate the quality of this fuel. This would also give them some insurance against a coal famine in the winter of 1907-1908, to which they are entitled.

As the railroads will be entirely separated from the coal business next winter it is up to the dealers to provide such facilities for storing and it is up to the people to see that they do it. Heretofore, the railroads protected the people against coal shortages by selling from their company's supply, coal to individuals and to dealers. Under the Hepburn bill this will not hereafter, be permitted. "Personally, I intend to lay in a year's supply of coal and I am glad to give the people the tip that they had better do likewise. If their dealers do not store it, it would be wise for small families to club together and put some in storage or those who can afford it, to fill their bins and cellars; of course it will be much better for the dealers to provide facilities for storing, if they will do it.

"It is by no means a question of transportation. The problem will be producing the coal in sufficient quantities to meet increased demands.

"I would not like to see the people along our line suffer as they have done in Montana and Dakota and in Canada during the past winter, and I want to get on record this early that they must look out for themselves to a greater extent than they have done heretofore, on account of the changed conditions.

The mill is turning out good flour, and there is no reason why Ord people should not use it to the exclusion of all other makes.

The Campbell Bros. show came into the city Sunday morning and were not long in getting things to rights on the fair grounds, Monday morning the weather looked gloomy indeed, but after a little sprinkle the weather turned out to be all that might be desired from a showman's point of view. There was a big crowd in town, people coming from all the surrounding country and the neighboring towns to take in the event. The Campbells have a good name in this vicinity and people went to the show with the full expectation of getting their money's worth, which they did. Among the animals one of the most attractive was a baby camel 12 days old. The circus was a strong feature and kept the crowds well entertained. Several new and novel devices in athletic lines were introduced. The big tent was crowded in the afternoon session and well filled in the evening.

ORPHA'S REGRET

A STORY OF THE PERIOD OF THE JUDGES IN ISRAEL

By the "Highway and Byway" Preacher

(Copyright, 1907, by the Author, W. E. Edson)

Scripture authority:—Ruth 1:1-15, especially verses 14 and 15.

SERMONETTE.

A Choice That Determined a Destiny.—Orpha on the road that led to the land of Israel came face to face with the turning point of her life. The vision had come to her of a new home and a place among God's people and obedient to the aspirations for a better life and holier things, she started with her mother-in-law, Naomi, and sister-in-law, Ruth, for the Promised Land. Perhaps she and Ruth during the sad days of their widowhood had talked over together their plans. While their hearts were bleeding and tender there had come a yearning to know the God whom their husbands had known, and served, and with it had come the resolve that they would cleave unto the mother-in-law, Naomi, as the one who could guide their feet into the way and blessing of God.

So they had gone forth with Naomi and had come to the borderland of Israel. There Naomi paused and wisely tested the sincerity of purpose of the two young women. They must count the cost. It was no light thing to choose God and God's people as a future destiny. They must realize that it meant separation from the old life and hardships in the new. In substance, Naomi said to Ruth and Orpha what Jesus said to those who would become his disciples. "Which of you," he exclaimed, after he had declared that discipleship meant cross-bearing and fellowship in hardship and suffering, "intending to build a tower, sitteth down first, and counteth the cost, whether he have sufficient to finish it. Lest haply, after he hath laid the foundation, and he is not able to finish it, all that behold it begin to mock him, saying: This man began to build, and was not able to finish."

And Orpha bid her mother-in-law a tearful adieu and turned back. Turned back from the light of which she had caught a glimmering. Turned back from the higher purpose and destiny. Quenched the flickering flame of spiritual aspirations, and turned back to the old life and the old gods. Turned back to be swallowed up by the world and the things of the world. This is the last word we ever hear of Orpha. From that time forth she was counted out of God's reckoning. We can imagine what her life may have been after her return, and how when the tidings came of the blessing and prosperity which had come to Ruth in the, to her, strange, far-off land of Israel, there must have come the smartings of disappointment and regret that she had once been so near the blessing and had thoughtlessly and carelessly let the treasure slip from her. "For of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these: 'It might have been!'"

Orpha and Ruth stood side by side that day at the dividing line between the world and God. Orpha turned back, there ends the tale. Ruth went on, and today we are rejoicing in the Christ who was of the house and lineage of David, whose grandfather Obed was the son of Ruth and Boaz.

THE STORY.

BY DINT of coaxing and petting Orpha's friends had at last persuaded her to accompany them to the festivities in the village close at hand, where for weeks the preparations had been going on for the honoring of the gods of the Moabites, and she was busy getting ready for the start in the early morning. It seemed strange to them to have to coax Orpha to go, for in former years she had been one of the gayest at such celebrations, and they had expected, now that the influence of her mother-in-law, Naomi, was no longer present, that she would enter again heartily into the life and customs of her people.

On her return to her old home, after the departure of Ruth and Naomi her parents and friends had welcomed her right royally, secretly rejoicing that she was no longer to be dominated by the Israelitish woman who had come into their midst years before and who had firmly and steadfastly refused to share in their idolatrous feasts and practices, and the feelings of jealousy and resentment which were felt at the time of her marriage to the promising young Hebrew, Chilion, were forgotten in the realization that she was once more one of them.

But to Orpha something in the old life was lacking. She could not explain why. She did not understand, except that in the old home and with the old friends there was something lacking, and a sense of disappointment came to her. She tried to forget it, and enter into the activities of the home circle and friends with the old-time pleasure and vivacity, but she could not forget the quiet, helpful, uplifting influence of Naomi. Unconsciously she was constantly drawing comparisons between the life she had known after becoming the wife of Chilion, and the life her people lived. When the time drew near for the festivities attending the worship of their gods she had felt the old thrill of expectant pleasure which she used to know as she had planned and prepared to share in the celebrations. But this feeling soon passed and left her with that sense of unrest and dissatisfaction, so that at last, much to the surprise of her friends, she decided that she would not go to the festivities. It was then that they besieged her with their pleadings until at last she consented to go.

"What is the matter with me any way?" she exclaimed, irritably as she busied herself with the preparations. "Why shouldn't I go, and why shouldn't I have a good time? Why should I feel as I do?" But even while she impatiently argued with herself there kept recurring to her mind the memory of her mother-in-law's words, as repeatedly she had heard her say, when asked to attend the feasts: "No, I have left my own land, but I did not leave my God behind, and I could not go up to the services that would do honor to those which are no gods at all."

She had felt a glow of admiration for Naomi at that time for her brave words, and down deep in her heart she knew that the gods which her people worshipped were false gods and not like the God whom the Hebrews worshipped. But now that she had gone back to her people once more and was away from the strong, uplifting influence of that godly woman, she had felt the old desire to enjoy the old life as she had formerly done, but somehow she could not.

"But I will, I will, I will," she exclaimed, as she made her final preparations and started forth with the merry group of friends who had come to accompany her to the place of the celebration. As they moved on they chatted and laughed gayly, and it was not long ere the old spirit of gaiety had complete possession of her; and she forgot all about the struggle she had had and the questions which had kept her in so unhappy a state since her return to the old home.

Thus the day sped swiftly on. The festivities were at their height, and the great throngs of people awaited the coming of the solemn procession of the priests, who in the presence of all the people were to make their offerings to the gods and invoke their blessings upon the people, following which the damsels were to dance the sinuous, dreamy figures which were part of the religious ceremonies. Orpha, arrayed in her filmy, festal robes, had taken her place with the other dancers ready to play her part, when the time should come, as she had, been wont to do in former years.

"Are you not glad that you are here and not in the land of Israel?" asked one of her companions standing next to her.

"Yes," answered Orpha enthusiastically, "and I wish Ruth were here to share in the festivities with us." "Foolish she was, indeed," was the reply of the other. "What can she find there but poverty and hardship? Have you had tidings from her since she went away?"

At the mention of the land of Israel, and the name of Ruth a stranger standing near had started and then listened eagerly to the conversation which followed, but so occupied were Orpha and her friends with their conversation that they did not note this. But suddenly they were aroused by an abrupt inquiry addressed to Orpha: "Did you know Ruth?" he asked.

"Bring you word from her?" Orpha asked, eagerly. "Is she well? How fares she?" and she continued to pour out a rapid fire of questions, piling up her inquiries concerning Ruth.

The stranger lifted up his hand in helpless protest to stem the flood of questions, saying, as he did so: "Listen, for I have just come from Bethlehem and bring tidings of wonderful things which have come to pass. Call her no longer poor, unfortunate Ruth, for she has become the wife of one of the principal men of the city."

"What's that you say?" cried Orpha, incredulously, believing that her ears had misinterpreted.

And thus importuned the stranger went on to explain and to give further details of her sister-in-law's life since going to Bethlehem.

At this point the conversation was interrupted by the passing of the priests, mumbling their incantations, while the people shouted the names of their gods, crying: "Great are the gods of the Moabites. Where are there gods like unto them, and who can bestow blessing such as they give to their faithful children?"

"Who, indeed?" thought Orpha, bitterly, as her thoughts sped back to that day when she had stood in the roadway with Ruth and Naomi and had finally turned back and left the two to go on alone. Her gala attire seemed as though mocking her in her distress. She thought of the abhorrence which Naomi had had of the feast days of the Moabites. What would she think of her now in the midst of that gaiety? She knew that the God whom Naomi had worshipped and about whom she had spoken to her two daughters-in-law, was the true God. She might have had him for her God, but she had turned back. Thus harassed by the workings of her conscience, she turned and fled from the place, crying out as she went: "It might have been, but now it is too late! Too late!"

KIDNEY TROUBLE

Suffered Two Years—Relieved in Three Months.

C. B. FIZER

Mr. C. B. FIZER, Mt. Sterling, Ky., writes: "I have suffered with kidney and bladder trouble for ten years past. Last March I commenced using Peruna and continued for three months. I have not used it since, nor have I felt a pain. 'I believe that I am well and I therefore give my highest commendation to the curative qualities of Peruna.' Peruna for Kidney Trouble. Mrs. Geo. H. Simser, Grant, Ontario, Can., writes: 'I had not been well for about four years. I had kidney trouble, and, in fact, felt badly nearly all the time. This summer I got so very bad I thought I would try Peruna, so I wrote to you and began at once to take Peruna and Manalin. 'I took only two bottles of Peruna and one of Manalin, and now I feel better than I have for some time. 'I feel that Peruna and Manalin cured me and made a different woman of me altogether. I bless the day I picked up the little book and read of your Peruna.' It is the business of the kidneys to remove from the blood all poisonous materials. They must be active all the time, else the system suffers. There are times when they need a little assistance. Peruna is exactly this sort of a remedy. It has saved many people from disaster by rendering the kidneys service at a time when they were not able to bear their own burdens."

ORD STATE BANK

When this paper went to press last Friday the officers were in hot pursuit of the escaped burglars. A clue came from Mr. Obert, up in Garfield county, by his reporting that one of the men had called for something to eat. He had been supplied with bread and butter and went from the house south. The officers took the trail at once. The sheriff was carried on this mission in Sorensen's auto for a ways, when something went wrong, and a team was engaged to continue the search. Among others who took the trail was Henry Mattley, who proved to be the lucky man. In nosing along the way in the vicinity where the men were supposed to be in hiding he stopped to look behind a remnant of an old sod house wall. Here he found them closely hugging the ground. They were not armed, but boldly announced to them that he guessed that they were his meat, to which sentiment they gave ready assent. Mattley is enough to scare a brace of ordinary villains, even if he is not armed. But they did not need to know the condition of Mattley's artillery.

Sheriff Sutton had passed only a little while before, so it was not long before that minion of the law was advised of the capture, and he came back and aided in the securing of the prisoners. Mattley brought the men down with the aid of a sheriff and arrived in the city Friday evening. Court was in session that evening and a hasty trial had. Both prisoners pleaded guilty and Judge Paul sent them up in accordance with the gravity of their respective offenses. His judgment against Lord, the young man was tempered with mercy, he received but one year, while the hardened old criminal Martin, was sent up for nine years. Both sentences were rinsed down with a good lecture that ought to have been as hard to take as the sentences.

The patron's day out at the closing of the Springdale school last Friday was a very successful affair. About sixty visitors were present to witness the event and the closing of a very successful term of school by that enterprising young man, G. R. Mann, and all were pleased with the event. The patrons turned the tables on the teacher by presenting him with a fine writing desk as an appreciation for his good work and their esteem for him.

Shall We Have a Normal Course?

Superintendent Howe informs us that there is talk on the school board about qualifying the Ord high school to put in the normal course. The board asked him at a recent meeting to see if he could arrange the course so as to do it. His reply off-hand was that he thought he could do so, and he is pleased to report now, on investigation and planning, that he can arrange the course so that he can put in the normal course without increasing the teaching force or very materially increasing the cost of the school.

Two plans are open to consideration. One is to open another room and employ another teacher, giving the pupils the option of pursuing the full course, as now mapped out, or of switching off in part so as to take the normal training. By this means the school's present 32-point credit could be maintained.

The other plan is to cut out one or two branches, reducing our state university credit to thirty points, and substituting the normal course therefor. This plan can be pursued with the present room and with the present teaching force.

The objections to the first plan are that it will be difficult indeed, to find another room, and the extra expense, with teacher and all, would be in the neighborhood of $350.00. The advantage, however, would be considerable in that the credit of the school could thus be maintained. It will be with a great deal of regret that our people will see our credit drop from the highest possible notch—32 points—but after all 30 points will not be low and will in fact be a good rating. This, in the opinion of the board, is the only thing to do, as the expense will preclude the possibility of making the full course pay with the normal added.

The state allows $350.00 a year to those high schools that qualify for the normal course so the cost of adding this will be fully met.

The normal course consist in those studies especially required of teachers under the new law, and in addition goes into the methods of teaching fully. It is by all means the most practical course that will be in the high school, for more than half of our high school graduates teach more or less.

Weekly or Semi-Weekly?

When the Quiz started to print twice a week it frankly admitted its uncertainty as to the permanency of the venture. The cost we knew would be much greater than printing weekly, but we wished to see whether the interest taken would justify the expense. The only way to determine this fact conclusively was to try it. This we have done for nearly two months. From expression by our friends from various parts of the county we are about to conclude that the venture does not pay. Many are pleased with it, but they express the doubt that it will pay the publisher. A few prefer the weekly for one reason or another, but the great multitude are indifferent.

There is also a serious element of uncertainty about the matter in that the government will not report on our application for second class privileges. It would seem impossible for the government to hold that the paper was not eligible to the privilege, but the government has taken one rap at us in the magazine venture and it is not at all impossible for Madden to take a more serious one in this case. Should the privilege be denied it would mean that we would have to put up about $35 a week postage, which would be something. However, we have not much fear along this line.

The real moving cause for our commencing the semi-weekly venture was the need for more room. If printing twice a week must be discontinued we shall meet the need for more space, when it arises, by adding more pages or increasing the size of the pages.

Meanwhile if you have any ideas as to how you want the Quiz to come to you let us know about it.

THEY TELL STORIES OF GREAT INTEREST TO NEBRASKANS

That Dr. Caldwell is restoring the health and curing thousands of the afflicted there is no doubt as hundreds of reliable home people will attest. Few physicians in the country have had better educational advantages than she and few have more thoroughly improved them. She has always been an ardent student as well as an original investigator, having practiced her profession in some of the principal hospitals through the United States and Europe and it is not surprising that she has become a great specialist. Soon after commencing her practice in Louisville, Ky., some twelve years ago, Dr. Caldwell was led to believe that the important treatment of treating both acute and chronic disease was one that was demanding unusual attention and the skill of a physician who would devote her whole study and time to that specialty. Impressed with this idea she began a series of original investigations which have resulted in many important discoveries and brought her an immense practice in chronic diseases. Her success in the line of special practice has certainly been remarkable and in the treatment of many chronic diseases unequalled Dr. Caldwell announced to the public in Nebraska something over four years ago that she would make a series of western visits, stopping in the principal cities in the state. Since that time she has visited almost every city of importance and in the meantime has established a permanent office in Omaha where she has placed some of the best physicians in her staff at its head. To prove her original assertions she went to work and is now treating thousands of people in the state. Many are among the wealthiest and most prominent citizens. Almost everyone speaks of the immediate relief that generally attends her system of treatment. Below we publish a few of the names of the many that she has cured.

Mrs. John Reed, of Pender, cured of cancer of long standing.

Mrs. J. Duncan, of Norfolk, Nebr., cured of skin and kidney disease.

Miss Anna Broch, Wayne, cancer—been treated by number of doctors without any benefit, was cured entirely by Dr. Caldwell, under full treatment.

John Else, Elm Creek, Nebr., cured of heart and spleen disease.

Daughter of J. B. Bosterick, Nesshey, Nebr., cured of St. Vitus Dance.

Mrs. Harriet Stuber, Cozad, Nebraska, cured of catarrh and blood disease.

Miss Cora West, Lexington, Nebraska, cured of stomach, liver and kidney disease of years standing.

Mrs. Emil Ponon, Hastings, Nebraska says: "Was a sufferer from female disease for 16 years, part of the time in bed. Two years ago I began treatment with Dr. Caldwell, she treated me nine months and dismissed my case as cured. I have been like another person since do my work without the least trouble for family of ten."

Dr. Caldwell, will make her next professional visit at Hotel Ord, Ord, Nebr., Friday, June 7.

THE ANCIENT BO TREE.

Oldest Living Thing of Which Man Has Kept Record.

This bo tree (the Ficus religiosa) is probably the oldest living thing in the world of which record has been kept by man and, with the possible exception of the sequoia, the oldest of living trees. It was brought from India by the Princess Sanghamitta and was planted by King Dewanapaya Tissa in 288 B. C. It is therefore 2,195 years old. The preservation of this tree has been an object of reverent solicitude to successive dynasties, and either through superstitious reverence or because of its worthlessness to a plunderer it has been spared amid all the havoc of repeated invasions. As recently as 1739 A. D. it was endowed with lands by Raja Sinah, a Kandian chief.

The bo tree's age and identity are matters of absolutely faithful record, and when one recalls that in the rigorous climate of northern Germany, in Hildesheim, there grows a rosebush which is a thousand years old it does not seem so remarkable that in the balmy climate of Ceylon this tree should have lived twice as long. It is gnarled and unsymmetrical, because many of its branches have been cut off and sent to distant temples. This bo tree is a branch of the tree under which Guatama Buddha sat when he attained Nirvana, and Buddhists say the passion through which he passed communicated itself to the tree and caused all the leaves to tremble. Each of the millions of pilgrims who have toiled along the sacred way which leads to this shrine has hoped to bear away with him a leaf from the sacred tree, and happy is he at whose feet one falls.

The leaves hang on a slender stem and are easily stirred by the slightest breeze, so each petitioner is rewarded for his pilgrimage by feeling that the tree responds to the fervor of his soul, but few take home a leaf. Many bring offerings to the tree, and on a number of the lower leaves are sheets of gold placed there by jewelers and other wealthy worshippers.—Rosalie S. Morton in Century.

Wall Paper and the Sick.

"I am glad the walls of my bedroom are not papered," said the invalid. "Nobody but the sick knows how nerve racking it is to lie all day long looking at the wall paper that doesn't match. It matches well enough, you understand, for people who are well. They never would notice where the flowers failed to hitch or the stems met too far down the fraction of an inch, but we notice it and worry over it and cry sometimes because it worries us so. My wall is painted light blue, the color of the skies. It doesn't hurt my eyes at all to look at it. It doesn't worry me. When the curtain is down it is the very softest kind of blue, so gratifying that I fall asleep looking at it. Oh, yes; the only thing to do with the walls of the sickroom is to paint them light blue."—New York Press.

The Age of Fishes.

The normal length of life of our common small minnows rarely exceeds four or five years and may be much shorter, but there are few satisfactory observations on this point. No general rule can be laid down regarding the age of fishes or the relation between age and size. It is known that the salmon of the Pacific coast, which enter the rivers in such immense shoals, live to be four or five years old and then invariably die after once laying their eggs. One Japanese fish died when one year old. On the west coast of Europe there occurs a small fish which is like an annual plant—that is, all the individuals die each year and only the eggs—i. e., the seed—remain to produce the next season's crop.—St. Nicholas.

Couldn't Go the Last.

An Irishman had just come over and, being hungry, went to one of the swellest hotels in New York. When the waiter appeared to take his order he said, "Bring me the best you have."

After being gone a few minutes the waiter returned with a glass of water, a bunch of celery and a lobster. When about time to check him up the waiter returned to the customer, asking him why he had not eaten his meal.

"Well," replied the man, "I drank the water and smelled the bouquet, but I'll be darned if I could go the bug."

An Improvement.

"My dear," said Mrs. Newlywed, her face flushed with the excitement of her afternoon in the kitchen, "I want you to be perfectly frank with me now. What would you suggest to improve these doughnuts I made today?"

"Well," replied Mr. Newlywed, lifting one with a slight effort, "I think it might be better if you made the hole bigger."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

LANDS ON ITS FEET.

The Fall of the Cat and the Curiosity of Scientists.

The curiosity of scientists knows no bounds. The French Academy of Sciences once had under examination and discussion the very interesting question, "Why does a cat always fall on its feet?" The old answer, "In order that it shall not break its back," did not serve in this investigation. Members of the academy were desirous of ascertaining not only the real reason, but the precise method by which a cat, when dropped feet upward, manages to turn over instantly in the air, with no object to brace itself against in order to procure the muscular reaction that would seem to be necessary for the revolution.

To assist its study the distinguished members of the academy had one of its scientists prepare a series of instantaneous photographs showing a cat in various stages of a fall from a considerable height. These photographs were obtained under the personal inspection of a committee, and several successful "drops," which the unfortunate cats must have been totally unable to account for, were necessary.

The photographs, it may be mentioned, failed to establish anything, except that the cat, actually turned over in the air. As to how she did it, they afforded no clue. And as it was already known that she did it, the camera may be said to have contributed nothing toward the solution of the problem.

The committee next set itself about settling the matter by discussion. Several members presented their theories and compared notes. The laws of mechanics and geometry were applied to the known movements of the cat, with no other effect than to prove that a cat cannot possibly turn over in the air, which, however, it is well established that she does.

One academician maintained that the animal is able to displace its internal organs in such a way as to affect its center of gravity while in the air, causing it to turn, by a new center of weight, to one side and then, by another displacement, to throw the weight so that its back comes uppermost.

This claim, however, was but an unproved theory. Another man of science insisted that at the very instant when the cat is dropped, say, from the hands of the person who holds her, feet uppermost, she is able to make an impulsive movement, using the operator's hands to push against, as it were. At all events the cat begins to turn instantly upon being let go.

However, it has against it the fact that the cat turns successfully when there are no hands or other objects to push against—when, for instance, she is firmly held, back downward, by threads, which are cut at the right moment, allowing her to drop suddenly.—New York Times.

Historical Accuracy.

An American traveler visited Warwick castle during his tour of Europe. A tall young soldier took him through the historic house, pointing out each object of interest with a long stick.

"Ere, sir," he said in one of the state chambers, "ere is an ancient old portrait of Queen Bess. A fine work."

The American looked at the portrait, and there was a long, impressive silence. To break this silence more than for any other reason the visitor finally said:

"Queen Bess, eh? She was a pretty old lady when she died, wasn't she?"

The guide shook his head.

"Not pretty, sir, but very old," he said.

An Essential Article.

An artist was talking about Walter Appleton Clark, who died at the beginning of his artistic career. "And Clark," he said, "had a strong sense of humor. I remember going through a millionaire's stables with him one day. You know what a millionaire's stables nowadays are like—floors and walls of translucent white tiles, drinking fountains of marble, mahogany mangers, silver trimmings, and so forth and so on."

"Well, gentlemen," said the millionaire proudly, "is anything lacking?"

"I can think of nothing," said Clark, "except a sofa for each horse."

Easily Solved.

A country schoolmaster thus delivered himself:

"If a carpenter wants to cover a roof fifteen feet wide by thirty broad with boards five feet broad by twelve feet long, how many boards will he need?"

A new boy took up his hat and made for the door.

"Where are you going?" asked the master.

"To find a carpenter," replied the boy. "He ought to know that better than any of us fellows."—London Mail.

KEEPING CIGARS FRESH.

Devices to Prevent Their Moisture From Evaporating.

"Yes, sir, cigars require care to keep them fresh," said a wholesale cigar dealer the other day. "If goods are kept in warehouses where there is heat they are bound to dry out more or less, although they may be sealed virtually air tight in the individual boxes. Steam heat is the hardest on cigars. If left exposed at all they dry out very quickly and lose much of their flavor. In the big warehouses, where large quantities of cigars are stored, the jobbers have humidors installed. They are simply water containers of one style or another arranged so that the water is open to the air for evaporation. The presence of the water prevents the air from getting too dry for the cigars. Even in the big showcases in the jobbers' salesrooms the same precaution is taken to prevent the stock from drying out. Moisteners made by placing water soaked pads in tin lined wooden boxes are placed in the compartments with the boxes of cigars. The careful retailer is just as particular with his cigars and keeps a soaked sponge or some sort of moistener in his showcases with his goods.

"A brick thoroughly water soaked is good to put in a showcase with cigars. The brick is so porous that it will soak up nearly its own bulk in water. When a soaked brick is placed in a showcase the water within it evaporates slowly, just enough to keep the cigars soft.

"If cigars are packed in good, tight boxes they will retain their flavor, and the flavor of good cigars comes from the tobacco alone. It is a mistake to think that anything else is used to enhance or qualify the flavor of first class tobaccos. It's only the poor cigars that are 'doctored'.

"How? Well, with drugs or chemicals. The poor qualities of tobacco used in making cheap cigars haven't much flavor, so very often the manufacturers provide an artificial flavor with various drugs. They treat them so they give forth the odor of good tobacco too. If you're a smoker you've probably picked up an inexpensive cigar that smelled as if it were made from the best of tobacco. When you smoked it you found it contained short 'filler' and sadly lacked the smoking qualities of a cigar made from good tobacco. That was a doctored cigar. Often cheap cigars look as if they had a glaze on the wrapper, and when placed in the mouth the smoker detects a sweetish flavor. These are evidences of drugs. As far as I ever heard the drugs used are all perfectly harmless.

"Nearly all cheap cigars are made of short filler—that is, the inside of the cigars is composed of broken bits of tobacco leaves. Only the wrapper and binder are of large, perfect leaves. In the cheap grades of Spanish and Cuban made cigars there is no binder. The small bits are simply inclosed in a single outside wrapper."—Kansas City Star.

The Only Shade.

It was a broiling hot day in the park, and those walking therein were well pigh exhausted when a very stout old lady came bustling along one of the paths, closely followed by a rough looking tramp. Twice she commanded him to leave her, but still he followed just behind. At last the old lady, quite disgusted, turned angrily around and said, "Look here, my man, if you don't go away I shall call a policeman."

The poor fellow looked up at her with a tear in his eye and then remarked, "For goodness' sake, mum, have mercy and don't call a policeman, for ye're the on'y shady spot in the park."

Already Employed.

A farmer had a houseful of visitors and one morning was busily engaged in killing chickens for dinner. Just as he was about to decapitate an old black hen the house was discovered to be on fire, and a scene of confusion ensued. The farmer rushed hither and thither, holding the hen under his arm and doing nothing whatever toward putting out the flames. At length his wife caught sight of him as he was prancing about and indignantly asked why he was not fighting the flames.

"Why, Maria," he exclaimed, "how can I do anything? Ain't I holdin' the old black hen?"

Much Simpler.

At a country fair a man went up to a tent where some elk were on exhibition and stared wistfully up at the sign.

"I'd like to go in there," he said to the keeper, "but it would be mean to go in without my family, and I cannot afford to pay for my wife and seventeen children."

The keeper stared at him in astonishment. "Are all those your children?" he gasped.

"Every one," said the man. "You wait a minute," said the keeper. "I'm going to bring the elk out and let them see you all."

Is it not a pity that people cannot or will not get along without going to law? A lot of people are compelled to serve as jurors, witnesses, etc. all because differences are not settled out of court. Some day all forms of warfare—wars, strikes and lawsuits—will be a thing of the past, and then men will dwell together in unity and peace. This time will be only when men learn the all-around benefits of the golden rule, and love others as they do themselves. Hoggishness is at the bottom of most strifes and discords. When we quit trying to occupy the wallow-hole and get up onto the plane that the Almighty intended us to occupy battleships and courts will pass into innocuous desuetude.

If Bryan is not a past grand master in demagoguery then we have missed our guess. He takes the very sleek way of claiming to be political father of Rooseveltism. It is announced by his friends at his request of course that Roosevelt is so much like Bryan that Bryan will refuse to accept the nomination if Roosevelt is nominated by the republicans. While we are pleased to know that Bryan is an admirer of Roosevelt we would like to see the proofs for Bryan's claim that he is as good as the president, or that he is like him in any essential particular. Surely there was nothing in any of Bryan's sundry and diversified platforms that sounds anything like Rooseveltism as understood today.

Our Washington Letter.
President Roosevelt is to make a trip down the Mississippi river. He has accepted provisionally an invitation from the governors of sixteen states to make the voyage, for the purpose of seeing the river and harbor work in progress on that stream. The journey probably will be taken early in October, for Mr. Roosevelt goes to Canton, Ohio, September 30, to speak at the dedication of the McKinley monument. He will go from there to St. Louis or some other point on the Father of Waters and thence down to Memphis, where he will attend the deep waterways convention. It is believed he will make an address before this convention, although this has not been definitely determined yet. The trip will take about six days and will be made on one of the government steamers. This decision of the president has brought joy to the hearts of the lakes-to-the-gulf advocates, who undoubtedly will make the most of their opportunity in impressing on the president the necessity for establishing this great ship canal. The president's interest in the question of waterways development is well known and he is a hearty admirer of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, which, composed of business men, shippers and communities throughout the United States, is seeking to have congress appropriate not less than $50,000,000 a year for the prosecution of this form of internal development. The journey of the Chief Executive undoubtedly will give a strong stimulus to the work of this organization, which now is endeavoring to increase even further its membership, to the end that the American people may express unqualifiedly to congress their desire that this development be continued.

Illinois gave way to West Virginia last year in the matter of coal production. According to statistics compiled by the geological survey, West Virginia supplanted the Sucker State and took position as second coal producing state of the union. During 1906 it had a total output of 45,276,485 short tons, while the production of Illinois was 41,470,435 short tons. The loss of place by Illinois was due to the almost complete suspension of mining operation in that state in April and a portion of May because of labor troubles. According to the figures the total production of coal in the United States last year was 414,039,581 short tons of 2,000 pounds, valued at $512,610,744. Compared with 1905 these figures show an increase of 5.4 per cent in quantity and of 7.5 in value.

It remained for Professor Edmund J. James, president of the University of Illinois, to advance a unique argument in favor of the establishment of a national university here in Washington. In a letter lauding the ambition of George Washington University to fill that position, Dr. James says:

"Such a university, located in the federal capital, could do many things for American higher education which no institution in any other location could possibly accomplish. Another great advantage of such a school as this, located in the capitol, would be its powerful influence on congress as a whole in the direction of the scientific treatment of all political and economic questions. Such a school, with a faculty consisting of able experts in all the different lines of government policy and administration, would inevitably exert an immediate and helpful influence upon the country and upon the attitude of our congressmen and our government as a whole."

This view never has been taken before. Congress was looked upon as providing, in reality, an invaluable classroom in which the students of the greater university would be enabled to study political science at first hand. There is little doubt but that the existence of a national university here would be of almost as much value to congress as would congress to the students of such an institution. The George Washington University has almost completed a $200,000 fund it has been raising for the purchase of a site, and Dr. Mitchell Carroll, chairman of the building and endowment committee of the university is hoping that the American people will come forward generously with subscriptions to an endowment fund that will enable the institution to carry on the work projected. The university was established by George Washington in the first continental congress. It is well fitted in every way to carry out the idea of a national university and little doubt is expressed but that the American people will see to it that the necessary funds are forthcoming.

Former Senator Cockrell once more has resumed his duties as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The distinguished Missourian has been in poor health and for two or three months has been in the hands of his physicians, spending most of the time in Florida. General Cockrell is a glutton for work. It was really to keep him from working himself to death that he was ordered pre-emptorily by his physicians to leave Washington. During his five consecutive terms in the senate he was credited with working more hours a day than any other member of that body.

Alfred E. Bent, treasurer of the state of Colorado, is in Washington and this week gave out a public statement denying the story sent from Denver that a Trans-Mississippi Anti-Roosevelt Congress was in process of formation in his state. He denied also that Governor Buchtel, of Colorado is unfriendly to the president and behind any such movement. Mr. Bent believes that the story originated in the coming congress of ranchmen and others interested in the public and timber lands of the western states, which will be held in the near future. He says that a number of these people are not in sympathy with the policies of the administration with regard to the public domain, but brands as nonsense the statement that this feeling has crystallized into anything like an Anti-Roosevelt movement. In fact, Mr. Bent says that if the president will accept the nomination in 1908 Colorado will be for him unconditionally. He says, also, that Secretary Taft's boom is being received very graciously throughout the great territory west of the Missouri.

We are pleased to note that after long waiting and a great deal of work on the part of our former citizen, H. E. Babcock now of Columbus, there is prospect for his long cherished power canal scheme being brought to successful conclusion. He was invited to speak to the Omaha exchange last week and did so in a way to impress the capitalists of the Nebraska metropolis as to the merits of his proposition.

"Based on the very lowest price made by the electric light company—that of two cents per kilowatt hour—the annual rate per horse power, based on a twenty-four hour service, would be $130, asserted Mr. Babcock, and that is what the elevators are paying. It is true, he said, that Mr. Nash may justify his $10 statements in some instances where the horse-power equipment is used but a short time per day, in which case the cost might be as low as $10 per year. Loup River Project.

The initial project of Mr. Babcock's canal—that of the Loup river canal and dam at Columbus, will produce 40,000 horse power; and the average cost to consumers in Omaha, he asserted, will be but $27.50 per horse power per year, based on twelve hour service, slightly less for the large consumers, and slightly more for the small ones. The cost of the initial project, he said, will be $4,500,000, which is to be financed by a sale of bonds sufficient to cover the cost; an issue of 6 per cent preferred stock equal to half that amount; and an issue of common stock, which would be water."

These look like large figures to the common herd, but Mr. Babcock has dealt in them so long that they do not stagger him. We believe that in the end his project will be taken up and made to bring the results for which he has so long waited. Here's hoping so anyway.

Awful Consequences.

"Last week a Journal want ad sold a cow before the ink was dry. The cow had a calf, the housewife had a baby, the butcher had the calf and the baby has the cow's milk. It pays to advertise."

So boasts the Ord Journal. Good enough, good enough. But there are some remarkable things about this. That the want ad sold the cow before the ink was dry is not strange, neither would it have been strange if the cow went dry, too. But that the cow should have a calf and the housewife should have a baby all on account of that want ad is, in a way, astonishing. If the Journal has that potency, President Roosevelt ought to be advised of it so that, he could make use of this means to carry on his fight against race suicide. The more we think of it the more startling the thing appears. So far as appears in the record the cow and the housewife had no knowledge of the ad in the Journal want column, and so could not have given consent. Think of that, will you? What wonderful possibilities are spread out before us, but pity the poor abused cow and downtrodden housewife, who are deprived of all say-so in the matter. And then to think that the consequences are so sudden. But the plot deepens. The butcher had the calf too before the ink was dry, while it is known that ordinary calves are not good for veal till six weeks old, and surely the cow's milk, was not good, according to rule, till the ninth milking. We give it up. The Quiz will suspend publication. We wouldn't try to compete with such a potency as the Ord Journal.

WOES OF THE LANDLADY.

One of Them Is That of Serving Out the Portions to Suit.

"Trouble?" said the landlady. "Why, people that never kept a boarding house don't know what trouble is."

"To say nothing of the incessant daily, weekly, monthly, year in and year out, never let up grind of it, there's a million little things that you have to keep looking out for all the time or you are sure to get into more trouble, and one of these is the serving of the portions for the boarders at table.

"One person wants fat meat, and one wants lean, and one wants his meat well done, and another likes it rare, and you not only have to remember all these things and keep doing them right all the time, though you may be doing forty other things at the same time, but even when you've remembered them all yourself and got them all straight you have to take the chances of the waitress' putting them on the table right, before the right people, and then when you come to take into account how difficult it is when the meat doesn't turn out all right for you, how hard it is then to cut lean meat out of fat and fat meat out of lean, why, it's enough to turn anybody's hair gray.

"But, after all, the chief trouble is with chicken. Everybody wants white meat, and you know there's only a certain amount of white meat in any chicken, but everybody wants that, and nobody wants legs—particularly they don't want legs. But what are you going to do about it?"

"Somebody has got to have the legs, and on chicken days I always have a great problem before me. I know practically who'll stand for legs and who won't, and then, besides, when we have chicken I always try to distribute the legs around on the different tables, scattered like, so that there won't seem to be too many legs, so that it won't seem, you know, as if everybody was getting legs; but, for all my care in this, in this very house on chicken day last week I had a fearful calamity befall me.

"At one of my tables I had six men, all nice enough men, but all disposed to be a little finicky about their food, and I'd tried always the best I could to please them, and I think I'd have got through with it all right but for one trouble breeder among them—there's always somebody to make trouble—and this unfortunate accident. I was going to send only two legs to that table, and those far apart on opposite sides, and neither of them for the troublesome man, but the best of us are liable to make mistakes, and I think I must have sent three legs to that table myself, and the waitress did the rest.

"She got the orders mixed up somehow and put down on that table six legs. It was just legs all around the table, and when the growly man sees this:

"Gentlemen," he says, "I can stand for most anything, but when they come to feeding us on six legged chickens I draw the line."

"And that whole table of young men left me at the end of the week. I tried to explain it to them, but I couldn't make them understand at all."

"Trouble? Why, you don't know what trouble is unless you've kept a boarding house."—New York Sun.

Mrs. Louis Pegas of Mira Valley had a close call last week Tuesday. She is troubled with varicose veins and on that day a vein ruptured while she was at home with none but a child with her. Her husband had just left for a neighbor's. She sent the child to him and he came as soon as possible, but before he or the neighbors could come she had bled nearly to death. Finally the flow stopped and she is recovering. The doctor, who was summoned at once, said that the bleeding stopped only because of the weakened condition of the heart.

A legal battle of no small magnitude is going on in the district court. It is a case of Mrs. H. E. Carter, formerly of North Loup, against the Banker's Life Insurance Company. The case seems to outline this way. Some time ago while the Carter's were living at North Loup Mr. Carter made application for insurance in the form called by the company a 20-year bond. This the company refused to accept, but offered to make a 10-year policy, which after some delay Mr. Carter accepted and paid the extra fee. For some reason the company delayed issuing the policy for several weeks and meanwhile Mr. Carter sickened and died. The company then tendered to Mrs. Carter a return of the money paid which she of course refused to accept, and placed the matter in the hands of Clements Bros. for collection of the amount of insurance. C. O. Wheedon of Lincoln and Attorney A. M. Robbins are fighting the battle for the company and the case is being heard by a jury with Judge Hanna on the bench. It is purely and simply a legal battle and will probably consume the time of the court the balance of the week anyway.

We are harvesting abundantly and speedily from the seed we sowed when we voted to license the saloons again. Among other things that the saloons have brought to us is the case of Mr. Abrahamson who came to town, filled up on saloon poison, the doped liquors that all licensed saloons are handing out, and went home to his family in a frenzied condition of mind. One of the results of the opening our saloons to business again is the bringing of our old friend John Cepelcha to the fore again. The other night he made Rome howl and kept things going away late at night. His particular purpose was to be let in, waking up the clerks at Milford's, Bailey's and other places demanding to be let in. Finally along about three o'clock in the morning the Milford clerks went out and fired a revolver once or twice to scare him. The result was that the authorities got awake and put poor John in jail. He was still drunk yesterday, but not so violent.

If you have some printing to be done, bring it around to the Quiz office. We will do it to your taste and the price will suit you.

Our dear friends, the saloon keepers, respectable citizens and men of good character, have taken up the cudgel against The Quiz, and are making an organized effort to get people to stop taking this paper. We do not blame them a bit for this, but we deprecate their common sense in trying to influence the policy of The Quiz in that way. They have succeeded in getting about thirty of their friends to stop the paper, and perhaps will be able to get more to do so. To all this we have no kick coming. But since these saloon men and their allies have seen fit to take up the fight against an open expression of opinion we will see them to the finish. We take the fight against The Quiz not as an assault on us but as an expression of the sentiment of the saloon crowd that decent people must keep their hands off the saloon business. This being the case we shall accept the challenge. If the saloon traffic does not keep its work in the dark better than it has been doing in the past there will be plenty of interesting reading for the public.

Our saloons got their clutches on poor Orville Phair again this week. Orville is undoubtedly an habitual drunkard and so ought to be refused liquor by the "respectable" gentlemen in charge of these places, but that is not what we started to say. In this maudlin condition Mr. Phair made a word assault on A. Norman, who resented the insult offered and made a pass at the drunken man, but missed him.

Orville then struck Norman and damaged his ear pretty effectually. They were at it hammer and tongs, when John Luke butted in and separated the men. Later Orville came upon Mr. Luke and began a tirade against him, and was promptly knocked down. The drunken man was then locked up, but the man who knocked him down was not. Neither was Norman arrested, the man who defended the saloons in court, and afterwards began an assault on one of the saloon's victims. Neither was the judge arrested who held that the saloon license ought to be issued. Neither were the councilmen arrested who granted the license. Neither were the saloon keepers arrested who sold the liquor to the habitual drunkard and made him crazy. Neither were any of the saloon petitioners arrested, without whose help the license could not have been issued. Of course, none of these were arrested, and most of the list could not be lawfully arrested. The only man to pay the penalty for the disgusting affair was the poor victim of poisoned dope. The saloon men got his money, they took away his reason, they disgraced him in the eyes of the community, they rendered him unable to work and so provide for his family, they sent him a little nearer to death and hell. But not one of them is punishable for they are licensed to do just that thing. What the saloon men did with the full use of their faculties, and they are free. What Phair did he did with his reason dethroned by the use of poisoned liquors, and he is punished. The only one made to suffer from the beginning to the end of the chapter was poor Orville Phair. Is it any wonder that people who are concerned about the welfare of their fellowmen rebel at the license to do such things? Yet these saloon men and their friends are making a desperate fight against any one who will speak out against these legal atrocities.

There are some changes in the Quiz piano contest vote as will be noted by consulting another part of this paper. It looked last week as though Miss Roxie Auble was the only one in the race but Miss Addie Haight, the Springdale candidate comes forward with a bunch of votes this week that somewhat changes the appearance of affairs. And this is not all, along with these changes comes the announcement and a nice little bunch of votes for Miss Ada Draper of North Loup. While Miss Draper is third in the race she has a big field to work in all to herself and she will undoubtedly make some of the high ones set up and take notice before the time comes for that piano to be moved out of the A. C. Johnson store. It is early in the season for any of the candidates to figure very much on the final result as at the present time very little of the territory of the county has been gone over and it would not be at all surprising if a new name should be sprung at any time and by a little careful work get to the head of the column. So far as the Quiz is concerned the contest is proving very satisfactory as many names have already been added to the list and with prospects that many more will be added before the contest closes.

Work was begun Tuesday on the construction of the gas plant, changing the process of manufacture to water gas, which is the standard gas the country over. It can be manufactured at a considerable less cost than the cost of the present product. The new gas is as good as gasoline gas for lighting purposes and even better for heating purposes. Being made from by-products the cost of which is inclined downward rather than upward there seems to be a clear field for the success of the business. But the cost of the new plant will be about $7000. Nearly all the equipment of the old plant will be utilized to advantage. What has heretofore kept the installation of this system of gas plant in smaller towns was the cost of the plant. But Mr.

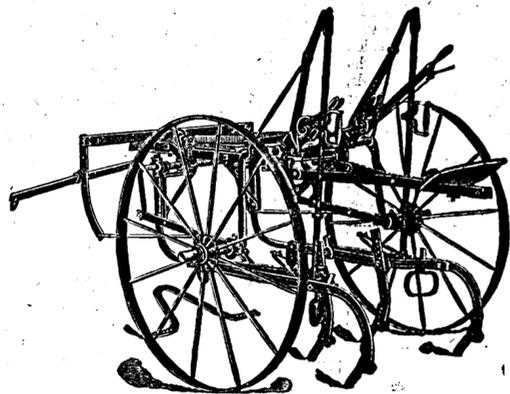

C. I. Tenney, the contractor of this work, has succeeded in making certain improvements which has greatly reduced the equipment and has brought it within reach of towns the size of Ord. As soon as the plant is installed and in operation the price of gas will be marked down to $2.00 per 1000 feet, with the expectation to make a still further reduction as soon as the results will warrant it.

Remember that not only one but several prizes are offered in the Quiz subscription campaign. The first contestant gets that handsome Hamilton piano furnished by A. C. Johnson & Co., the second in the list gets that handsome gold watch from the big stock of George A. Parkins, it will of course carry the Parkins guarantee and is a prize well worth working for; the third prize is a handsome dress pattern, your pick from the Mamie Siler big stock at the people's store and the fourth highest on the list will receive a dozen of the best $5 photographs from the Mutter studio. Every one of these premiums is worth working for. We want new subscribers and as a special inducement to get them we will give to the one securing the largest number of new subscribers their choice of a fifty-dollar International Correspondence School certificate or ten dollars in gold; the person getting the second largest number to have prize left after first winner's selection. It is never too late to enter the contest. Several contestants are already at work but little of the county has been thoroughly worked as yet. Go to work at once and you stand as good a show as the rest of them to secure one of these valuable prizes.

While at Arcadia last week we were impressed with the way that city has grown in the past few years. Since we had been there before the Arcadia State Bank has built a superb building, which is as neat as a pin and as convenient as possible to conceive. An opera house and society hall has been erected, and the city is now completing a system of water works. In addition to these there has been erected a great many residences, some of them exceedingly fine.

The Real Murderer.
[Lincoln News.]
Frank Burke, a farmhand, got drunk last Sunday up in Thurston county and murdered his employer and wife in a most brutal and shocking manner. He was pursued over several counties, finally rounded up and is now in the Douglas county jail because of the fear on the part of the authorities that if taken to Thurston county he will be lynched. Great indignation is said to exist in the latter county over the crime of the killing, not over the sale to him of the stuff that inspired it.
It was not Frank Burke that killed Cople and his wife. It was the demon conjured up out of the depths of the whiskey jug, the poison it contained mixed up with the poor wit of an ignorant man. Cople had treated Burke kindly and he admits that he killed both his victims. He doesn't know why he killed them. He had no desire or intention of murdering them until after he had soaked his reason in whiskey. That poison stealing through his veins carried in to his brain the fantastic idea of slaughter. It peopled his mental vision with a horde of dancing imps from hell, who whispered to him the delight of blowing off a woman's head, of pouring the contents of a shotgun into the stomach of a man, of the pleasure and vain-glory in seeing the rich red blood gush from torn veins and of children with fear looming in startled eyes and on bended knees begging and pleading for mercy—all of those brutal pleasures that swim in the amber drops of liquor and are mirrored in the brain of the fool who swallows them.
Burke will be put on trial, convicted and probably hung. The real murderer will not be punished, but he will be left free to creep through the land making brutes of some, idiots of others, paupers and thieves of still more. The men who manufacture the real murder poison, and the men who sell it will not even be indicted by public opinion as accessories before the fact.

We boast of our advance in civilization, we strut around in admiration of our vast progress, and yet we countenance and permit this traffic in blood and violence to continue without a real serious effort to prevent it.

Denies the Saloon's Influence.
Editor Ord Quiz,
Dear Sir:—

In the issue of your paper of date May 24, 1907, you publish a statement about a "Mr. Abrahamson" (meaning thereby the undersigned) in which you state that my case was one that was brought on by the saloons, and that I got filled up on "saloon poison" and by reason of it took a gun with evident intent to kill members of my own family.

I wish to state that the saloons had nothing to do with the matter; and they are in no way to blame.

I wish to state further that I was not "filled up on saloon poison," nor on liquor of any kind. That which I did was not induced by liquor; and that I did not take a gun and go after members of my own family with evident intent to kill.

In the same issue of your paper, under the heading "Ash Grove Valley" is an item in regard to this same matter. I would ask your Ash Grove Valley correspondent whether he or anyone he knows ever saw me "filled up" with liquor, or on a spree.

I have lived in this county only four years but my neighbors and friends in Hamilton county, Nebraska, where I lived for twenty years, know that I have always attended to my own business, and that I never had any trouble with any of my neighbors or family on account of my drinking liquor, nor on any other account; and that I have never been in the condition by your paper described on account of drinking liquor; nor can anyone here truthfully say that I have.

Now, that you have published these false statements, I ask that you publish this letter and make retraction in your paper of the statements referred to.
Yours truly,
J. Abrahamson.

Ef she'd only let me 'splain and tell
Just how it was an accident.
An' that I never truly meant,
An' never saw it till it fell.
I feel a whole lot worse'n her;
I'm sorry, an' I said I were.
I'se 'pose if I jus' cried a lot
An' choked all up like water does,
An' acted sadder than I was
An' sobbed about the "naughty spot"
She'd said, "he shant be whipped, he shant."

A Doubtful Compliment.
A clergyman was about to leave his church one evening when he encountered an old lady examining the carving on the font. Finding her desirous of seeing the beauties of the church, he volunteered to show her over, and the flustered old lady, much gratified at this unexpected offer of a personally conducted tour, shyly accepted it. By and by they came to a handsome tablet on the right of the pulpit. "This," explained the good man, "is a memorial tablet erected to the memory of the late vicar."
"There now! Ain't it beautiful!" exclaimed the admiring old lady, still flustered and anxious to please. "And I'm sure, sir, I 'ope it won't be long afore we see one erected to you on t'other side."

Obedience.
The famous Field family, Cyrus and his brothers and sisters, were brought up to obey. The father was a clergyman with $800 a year for nine children, and frugality and right living were absolutely necessary. Once a useful rat trap was missing. The father gave orders that when it was found it should be brought directly to him. A few days afterward during service, when the sermon was in full swing, there was a clattering up the aisle. It was two of the Field boys, carrying the lost rat trap. They gravely set it down before the pulpit. One of them said simply, "Father, here's your rat trap." Then they turned and went out.

The Trials of the Pioneers.

Wednesday, the 22nd, was the anniversary of the May snow storm twenty-five years ago. We have occasion to remember it very distinctly as we were out in the storm all day. A party of about twenty started from St. Paul that morning with loads of various kinds, for North Loup. When about eight miles this side of St. Paul it began to rain and it kept at it till noon without any let up. At noon we ate our dinner on the creek bank, west of Elba—ate out in the open without shelter of any kind. It was during the noon hour when it rained the hardest, the water coming down in sheets. We remember the fellows of the party stood around with a piece of bread thrust under their coats taking an occasional bite and then putting it under cover. Our teams were cold and not in the best of conditions to pull their loads up the steep bank and as a result several were stuck. We remember too, how we went after a chain and as we had no gloves or mittens and our hands were so cold we carried it over our arms from the wagon where we got it to the one that was stuck in the mud. Not one in the crowd had any covering for his hands or had an overcoat. Just after we hitched up after feeding it began to snow and for a while it came down in big flakes, but hardly enough to cover the ground. Soon, however, the snow turned again to rain and it fell in torrents all the afternoon. We were all the afternoon going from the creek near Elba to where Cotesfield now is. The creek at that place was so high we did not dare to cross with our wagons, so left them and went on horseback to Thomas Blanchard's, where we stayed all night. Only five of us stayed, however, as all the others came home after leaving their wagons at Charley Adams's. Ansel Payne, who was one of the party, was so cold we had to put him on his horse and hold him on and to help him into the house. Of the crowd who were together that day only two are here at this time, so far as we can remember—Art Watts and the writer. These were indeed strenuous times.—Loyalist.

National Capitol News.

If "Uncle Joe" Cannon has his way, these will be no tariff revision in the sixtieth congress. The speaker is one of the very few men who dare to "lock horns" with the president on any question of public policy, but it is well known that he is irrevocably opposed to any tinkering with the schedules. He spent some time at the White House one morning this week, and so interesting was the conference that he remained to luncheon with the president, along with Secretary Taft and Representative Longworth. As he was leaving the White House he declared emphatically that not one word about Ohio politics was uttered, nor was the question of the Roosevelt succession touched upon at all. Speaker Cannon said, when asked whether he had been converted to President Roosevelt's well known beliefs that there should be tariff revision: "It is too early to talk about what the sixtieth congress will do at its first session. However, you must bear in mind that the congressional campaign last fall was fought on three distinct issues: First, the record of President Roosevelt; second, the enforcement of the laws; and, third, let well enough alone." Far be it from me to say that the last was the least important.

"Uncle Joe" is still in town, but next week will visit the home of his infancy, North Carolina. He will go to Guilford county, where he was born 71 years ago, and he expects to make a speech to the students of Guilford College. There are many who see clever politics in this and who prophesy that the North Carolina delegation will be dangling at the speaker's belt for use in the convention of 1908.

Three western men were appointed this week by the President to be official visitors at the Naval Academy. The announcement was made by Secretary of the Navy Metcalf, and the men are John J. Healy, state's attorney's office, Chicago; F. W. Henshaw, supreme court, San Francisco; and William O. Jones, editor State Journal Lincoln, Nebraska. Representative Hinshaw of Nebraska, is one of the congressional members of the visiting board, having been appointed by the speaker of the house before the adjournment of the fifty-ninth congress.

In his trip down the Mississippi river early in October, President Roosevelt will make stops in only four states. According to his itinerary he will embark at some place in Iowa, not yet determined upon, and will stop on the way down at St. Louis, Cairo and Memphis. Altho' the Mississippi washes a small portion of the shore of Kentucky, the stop at Cairo will practically be tantamount to visiting the Blue Grass State, for it is just across the river from Paducah and easily reached by Kentuckians via the Ohio river. Memphis is similarly situated, being on the Mississippi river and easily accessible to the people of Arkansas. The trip will be made with the Inland Waterways Commission and the members of the Lakes-to-the-the deep waterway convention at Memphis, it is said the president will come directly to Washington without stopping anywhere en route. The National Rivers & Harbors congress is looking forward to the coming trip with deep interest. This organization's headquarters is in Cincinnati, and its secretary, Captain J. F. Ellison, is making strenuous endeavors to build up its already great membership in the Middle West and South, in order that there may be a well-defined and powerful sentiment in favor of waterway developments which to impress President Roosevelt on his voyage down the stream. The officials and directors of the National Rivers & Harbors congress are well and favorably known to Mr. Roosevelt and his administration, the president of the organization being Joseph E. Ransdell, of Louisiana, who is a member of the Rivers and Harbors committee of the house, and is one of the best informed men in the country on the subject of waterways development.

The Class of '07.

Last night at the Wentworth hall the high school graduates had the right of way, and the house was filled with interested listeners to enjoy the occasion.

The class consists of the following members: Grace Aldrich, Mollie Francis Hawkins, Lelia Moorman, Ethel Eleanor Newbecker, Jessie M. Potter, David H. Squires, Leta E. Turner, Grace Diantha Work.

Each member of the class delivered an oration and each presented a strong production well delivered.

Miss Work had the class history and presented that feature in a unique manner. In addition to telling the history of the class in her characteristic way she added greatly to the enjoyment of the story by her charcoal sketches.

While the class is strong in the literary way they were not much on singing, though their original songs were hits indeed. Superintendent Howe had warned the public not to applaud but after their first original song, sung by the girls only, the applause was forthcoming in enchoire and in response the girls came back at us with a song on "Davy", the only boy in the class.

Mrs. Walter Bundy went to Scotia on a visit yesterday.

If you are interested in air pressure water systems see Honnold Bros.

Miss Freeda Rhodes of Eugene, Oregon, favors The Quiz with an announcement of the graduation exercises of the high school of that city, she being one of the sweet girls. Valley county people will easily remember the Rhodes' s who went there from here a few years ago.

A petition for referendum was filed with City Clerk Shirley yesterday asking that the recent street lighting contract made by the city council with the Loup Valley Electric Company be submitted to a vote of the people. The petition had room on for an even one hundred names, which places were all filled. Not a dozen people refused to sign the paper, the almost universal expression being that the council did wrong to try to tie the city up for five years on any kind of a proposition of this class. The request was not made for a special election so the proposition will go over till the spring election unless the council, unless at the request of Mr. Crawford, a special election be called.

The special train over the Union Pacific carrying the members of the Lincoln Commercial Club on their junketing tour over the state arrived in the city Wednesday afternoon about three thirty o'clock. About sixty five members of the commercial organization were on board the train each one representing one of Lincoln's wholesale houses. Upon their arrival in the city, headed by a band which they carried along with them, they marched up town and around the square. Each member carried an umbrella of gorgeous colorings and all in all they created a very favorable impression.

an open air concert in the band stand while the different members of the organization circulated about town to meet their customers and shake hands with their friends. The train remained in town just one hour and left here enroute for Loup City where they were billed to stay all night.

A SNAKE INCIDENT.

The Boy Was Scared, but Had No Reason For Fright.

I stooped low to pass under an overhanging limb and found that I had planted my feet on either side of an ugly looking blacksnake about five feet long, says a writer in Forest and Stream. I knew instantly that the snake was harmless, but a crouching tiger, famished and ferocious, could not have startled me more.

The path was on a steep hillside, sheer ascent and descent on each side, the boy was behind me, and the head and most of the snake's body in front, so straight up was my only line of retreat, and to the very best of my ability I pursued it. I will not attempt to state how high I jumped, nor will I stand for the boy's statement that it was "most out of sight," but I can truthfully say that I jumped just as high as I could and stayed up as long as I could.

The snake sprang into the air at the same time—not trying to strike, but evidently surprised and startled—and when compelled to return to the earth we were about in our original positions. Without a moment's hesitation I jumped again, as did the snake.

With the next jump I combined a kick, which landed and spoiled the snake's jump, and, coming down just right, set my heel with full weight upon it, causing it to thrash about desperately for an instant and then beat a hasty retreat. Straight down the path toward the boy it went with wide sweeps. I could not shoot it without endangering him and could only call out reassuringly: "Stand still. It won't hurt you."

The distance was not over twenty-five feet, and it took but an instant for the snake to cover it. I hoped it would turn aside from the path before reaching the boy, but apparently it had no such intention.

Just as it reached the little fellow—standing wide eyed and motionless—it swerved very slightly to one side. But the quarters were too close. With a yell all out of proportion to his size the boy sprang for a sapling growing near at hand and ran up it like a squirrel. As his feet cleared the path I sent a load of shot into the snake, raking it fore and aft, and, although I deprecate the killing of all harmless serpents, I have not yet felt regret for this one.

A Hard Head.

When Farragut ran the gantlet of Forts Jackson and St. Philip, below New Orleans, the little gunboat Cayuga went in the lead and was everywhere in the thick of the fighting. A colored boy of the crew was passing powder when a spent grape-shot struck a casting near him, shattered and flew in many directions. One piece hit him on the thickest part of his forehead, says the author of "A Sailor of Fortune," and dropped to the deck.

He picked it up nonchalantly, put it in his pocket and kept at work.

When the fight was over and the members of the crew were bragging this boy, who was not over fourteen, stepped up to some of them and pulled the grapeshot from his pocket.

"You hush!" he said to the boasters. "Dat shot done hit me on de head an' broke in twi! Dere's de shot an' dere's de place it hit me."

THE RAINBOW COLORS.

See How Many You Can Distinguish and What They Are.

How many colors are there in the rainbow, or, what is the same thing, how many can one make out in the light that has come through a diamond, a piece of cut glass or the beveled edge of a mirror? The books, of course, say seven. But how many people really do see three different shades of blue as distinct on one side of the green as are the red, orange and yellow on the other? By no means everybody, you may be sure, although, on the other hand, it is known that certain sorts of ants, when they look at the rainbow, see only the sky where we see the red band, while, to make up for it, they see next to the violet, on the other side of the bow, one or two colors invisible to us.

Now, if there are rainbow colors which men do not see at all, and if some people make out only six colors where others distinguish seven, because they are blind to one of the three shades of blue, one might guess that there would be people somewhere in the world who would be able to find no more than five different colors or perhaps only four. There really is reason for thinking that this is the case. The early Greeks had no word for blue, and Gladstone always maintained that it was because they could not see blue. Moreover, it seems to be a general rule that where a language does not have words for red, yellow, green and blue the blue is always the one to be lacking, and travelers among the savage tribes in the interior of Borneo have reported them to be blue blind.

There are scientists who hold that ages ago men could see in the rainbow only red, orange, yellow and green, and that gradually, as they have progressed in other respects, they have added first greenish blue, then indigo, only lately violet, and will by and by add others still. As I write the sun, shining through the corner of my ink well, throws rainbow tints on the wall paper. I can distinguish only six colors, but I am an old fogey. You young people should be able to find seven. Can any of you get a hint of the eighth, which some day perhaps everybody will be able to see?—New York Herald.

Points About the Pulse.

The normal pulse has a wide range, but is always faster in females than males and steadily declines from birth to death. Eminent physicians have thought it possible to tell a person's sex and age from the pulse alone.

The average rate at birth is 160 beats a minute in girls and 150 in boys; at the age of four or five, 110 and 100; in maidens and youths, 95 and 90; in mature women and men, 80 and 75, and in elderly women and men, 60 and 50. In one recorded case the pulse of a healthy man of eighty-seven was only thirty a minute. The pulse varies with stature, position of body, exercise and health, and in disease it has been known to fall to fourteen a minute.—Chicago Journal.

Epitaph of Man Stung to Death.

Among the many curious inscriptions that are to be found on the tombstones that mark the last resting place of some of the early pioneers of the town of Manchester one of the most curious is in what is known as the old Greenhouse cemetery on a tombstone erected in 1814 to the memory of Timothy Ryan. On May 12, 1814, he was attacked by his bees and stung to death. The following epitaph appears on his tombstone:

A thousand ways cut short our days,
None is exempt from death.
A honeybee by stinging me,
Did stop my mortal breath.
This grave contains the last remains
Of my frail house of clay;
My soul gone, none to return,
To one eternal day.

Knew What Would Happen.

A southern lawyer tells of a case that came to him at the outset of his career wherein his principal witness was a darkey named Jackson, supposed to have knowledge of certain transactions not at all to the credit of his employer, the defendant. "Now, Jackson," said the lawyer, "I want you to understand the importance of telling the truth when you are put on the stand. You know what will happen, don't you, if you don't tell the truth?" "Yassir," was Jackson's reply. "In dat case I expects our side will win de case."—Kansas City Independent.

The Brute.

"What am I going to do, Harold?" called out a woman from the window of an apartment house to her husband, who stood on the stoop lighting his cigarette. "What shall I say to the landlord? He's coming around this afternoon for the last time, and you know it." "I will leave it to you, my dear," Harold replied blandly. "If you can bluff him as well as you do me, you're all right."—New York Press.

SMYRNA CARPETS.

Where They Are Woven and How They Are Transported.

The celebrated "Smyrna carpet" is not made in Smyrna. It is a product of the vilayet of Aidin, of which Smyrna is the capital. The chief places of manufacture are the villages of Uschak, Koule, Ghiards, Makri, Melessos, Kirkatagach, Axar and Demirdji. The industry gives employment to thousands of needy people, especially women, who are obliged to do the work almost entirely, while the men spend their time in the coffee houses drinking strong coffee and smoking numberless cigarettes, all in true oriental fashion. Little girls are compelled to take up the work early, at seven or ten years of age at the latest, and they keep at it unceasingly until they go to their graves.

The market for the wools is held every Thursday from dawn to sunset in the bazaar of Uschak, which is then filled with purchasers, who have arrived on buffaloes, camels, donkeys and other picturesque beasts of burden. The spun wools are not dyed by the weavers themselves, but by special dyers.

More than 3,000 female weavers are employed at Uschak in the preparation of carpets. The operators are generally members of the same family, but there are a number of girls who earn about 6 to 7 cents per day. The Ghiards carpets are generally smaller than those of Uschak. Very fine prayer carpets, closely woven and of harmonious colors, are produced in imitation of the Persian carpets.

The carpets are made into bales of 280 pounds each and covered with goatskins. The caravans pass the night in the open country at the foot of some hill, the drivers under tents and the camels and their loads in the open air. Very large carpets, too heavy to be packed, are folded and thrown across the backs of the camels in the form of a covering. When the carpets arrive in Smyrna they are spread out, beaten, broomed and repacked in bales weighing 500 to 600 pounds each for exportation.—Consular Report.

Dreaming a Winner.

I dare say that every year one or more people dream of the Derby winner, because thousands of people are guessing in their dreams, and two or three guess right. Take the Favonius case. A man came to an acquaintance of mine and said, "What is the Latin for the southwest wind?" "Favonius," said my friend. "That's the name," said the other. "I dreamed last night that Favonius won the Derby, but I could only remember that southwest wind was the English of the word when I awoke." There was no Favonius in the list of horses, but on reaching the race course the men found that the Zephyr colt had been newly named Favonius. Probably the name Zephyr (west wind) colt had been converted into Favonius (southwest wind) in the sleeping mind of the dreamer, though when awake he could not remember the Latin word for southwest wind. Favonius won. The dream was a good guess, no more.—Independent.

Seats in a Train.

"Why do the seats on the right hand side of a car almost always fill up before those on the left?" inquired a man on board a local suburban train just before it pulled out of the station the other evening. "I've been taking this trip for the past three months now, and I've noticed the tendency to favor the right side without finding out the reason." Two other men of the same party gave it up as a conundrum, though they admitted it as a fact. They asked the conductor when he came through. "Well," said the old and experienced railroad, "when people aren't guided in their choice of seats by a desire to get away from the sun they are apt to think of collisions and accidents, and their first thought is not to be on the side nearest the track for trains going the other way, so that if anything happens on that track they won't get a side swipe."—Philadelphia Record.

Anxious to Oblige.

The manager of a telephone exchange recently gave employment as an operator to a young woman whose previous employment had been in a department store. The girl seemed so bright and willing and possessed such a clear and distinct voice that the manager resolved to give her a trial.

The newcomer, who was all amiability and willingness, rapidly learned her new duties, but one day an incident occurred that betrayed her department store training.

In answer to a ring she had asked sweetly, "Number, please?"

"Let me have 325," said the patron.

"I am sorry that 325 is busy just now," said the girl, "but I can let you have 323 or 326."—New York Herald.

Recalled to Duty.

One word to the purpose will often turn the tide on the field of battle. At the affair of Friedland General Rapp became aware that one of his regiments had been thrown into disorder by the galling fire of the enemy's artillery. He rushed at once into the midst of the fugitives.

"Who are you?" he cried.

"The Seventy-first regiment," answered a voice.

"What!" exclaimed the general. "The Seventy-first regiment, and you give away a single step?"

The suggestion of personal responsibility and of past achievement was too much. The ranks formed again on the instant, they marched upon the guns by which they had been assailed and in a few minutes had possession of them.

A Question in Grammar.

The superintendent of a school in Vermont when making the rounds of his schools put the following question to a scholar:

"How do you parse 'Mary milked the cow?'"

Pupil—Cow is a noun, feminine gender, singular number, third person and stands for Mary.

"Stands for Mary!" exclaimed the superintendent. "How do you make that out?"

"Because," replied the pupil, "if the cow didn't stand for Mary, how could Mary milk her?"

A Waste of Good English.

Bobby's mother was often distressed by her small son's lapses from correct speech, all the more because his reports from school were always so good.

"Bobby," she said plaintively one day, "why do you keep telling Major to 'set up' when you know 'sit up' is what you should say?"

"Oh, well, mother," Bobby answered hastily, "of course I have lots of grammar, but I don't like to waste it on Major when he doesn't

It is about time for political candidates to bestir themselves and let the public know what their intentions are as to nominations for the various offices on the various tickets. This will be the year for electing county officers, which will monopolize the chief places on the ticket. The new law makes procedure in securing nominations very different from what they were heretofore, the work of making these selections being taken from the politicians and given back to the voters, where it belongs. It will be well enough to talk the matter of your political ambitions over with your friends and you might not overlook the political bosses, but the real work of nominating you will be done by primary election to be held in September. Meanwhile announcements in the local papers of your determinations to stand for nomination will be made.

Base ball enthusiasts of this vicinity will remember Joe Bills, at one time a member of the Ord base ball team and quite a favorite he was here too. His work in Ord led many to believe that he would in time make his mark in the base ball world and from the Grand Island Independent we get the following which shows that their faith in his abilities was well founded: "Another Nebraska pitcher is making a big mark in base ball circles this year. Joe Bills, a Shelton young man, is said to be the star twirler of the Southern League. He is with the Memphis team and one of the papers of that city says of him: 'Joe Bills, Kandy Kid from Keokuk! My, but that boy is a speed merchant! Two times at bat, three runs, two hits, seven assists and two putouts, to say nothing of figuring in a double play that was a peach. Some day Mercury is going to get jealous of Joey and put the wrath of the gods on him.'"

Drs. C. C. Shepard and George Gard with their wives returned from Lincoln via the automobile route Monday evening, where they had been to attend state meetings of the medical and dental professions. They encountered some pretty bad roads on the road up, at Seward where the country had recently been visited by a three inch rainfall, they were compelled to travel over a long stretch of country where the water all but flooded their engine. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bell were also along in their automobile and the only way that the party could safely get over the flooded country was to hire a man with a pair of hip boots to walk along in front of their machines to see that they did not get in too deep. They are all pretty glad to get back safely to Ord again.

When Sheriff Sutton went home last Friday night he left Orville Phair safely lodged in the city bastille but when he came down town Saturday morning he found Orville waiting anxiously outside the court house with an expectant look on his face as he sized up the lunch basket that the sheriff usually brings down to him every morning. Examination showed the sheriff that some one on the outside had broken the lock on the door and released the prisoner. Orville took the opportunity to spend the night with his wife and family but was on hand when the sheriff arrived in the morning for his breakfast. The officers have no idea who assisted the prisoner to get out.

It is a sad commentary on the young men of Ord that out of a graduating class of eight not one Ord boy is among the number. Indeed there was but one boy in the class and he was from the country. When the Quiz went to press last week the case of Mrs. H. E. Carter vs. the Banker's Life Insurance Company was occupying the attention of Judge Hanna and a dozen district court jurors. The case was a hard fought one, almost the entire testimony offered by the Carter side of the case being objected to by the attorneys for the insurance company, these objections of course called for the usual debate between counsel and the case dragged along and did not get to the jury until about eight o'clock Saturday night. The jury was not long in coming to a conclusion in regard to the matter, bringing in a verdict in favor of Mrs. Carter.

Have you seen the beautiful patterns in china dishes on the shelves of Fackler & Finley the grocers?

The attention of district court this week is being taken up with the Frederick will case, and the public is taking a very lively interest in the proceedings. The court room is being filled most of the time. Many women are among the listeners, which is very natural, the chief litigants of the case being women. No great trouble was entertained in securing a jury, though it took several drafts of the net outside of the regular petit jury fishpond to get the twelve men suitable for the place. The prejudice of the public is clearly in opposition to the will, but the evidence seems to be about all the other way. Whatever comes of the case here, it will undoubtedly go to the supreme court at least once and probably several times, and when the case is done with there will not be much left to scrap over.

Exonerates the Saloons.

We are pleased to print Mr. Abrahamson's letter denying the statement in The Quiz last week that the saloons were to blame for Mr. Abrahamson's attack on his daughter. If it be true that Mr. Abrahamson was wholly in his right mind and that the saloons were in no way to blame, then we did wrong in making the accusation against them. They have faults enough to bear, the Lord knows, without attributing to them anything that they are innocent of.

Mr. Abrahamson's exoneration of the saloons under the circumstances is a very generous and kind act on his part, since he does not deny the assault on the girl. Not many men would be honest enough to assume the blame for an act of that kind when the blame by common consent and general belief belonged to the men who sold him liquor.

While we wish to give Mr. Abrahamson credit for knowing what he is talking about there is nevertheless conflicting testimony. It is known that he had frequented the saloons that day, that he had invited another man to drink with him and that he had drunk some on the day of the assault. These things, it will be observed, Mr. Abrahamson does not deny, his denial being that he was not "filled up" on liquor. This being the case we are wondering if after all the little liquor that he drank did not at least make him irritable so that he was more easily angered than usual at the words of his daughter.

Our purpose in referring to the very unfortunate affair at his home was not in any way to harm Mr. Abrahamson but to charge the saloons with their work. While Mr. Abrahamson feels otherwise we are still of the opinion that the saloons are to blame for Mr. Abrahamson's unseemly temper in dealing with his daughter.

We are hoping that unfortunate things will not occur; but if they do and are chargeable to the saloons we shall feel in duty bound to set forth the facts as we see and hear them, however much we may regret giving the names of persons concerned.

Our Contestants.

There is another big change in the vote on the Quiz piano contestants as you will notice by consulting the list elsewhere. This time Miss Roxy Auble forges ahead with a lead equal as large as was that of Miss Haight's last week. All of the candidates are just warmed up to business and the fact that if they get in on that fine Hamilton piano that they will have to be up and doing.

Another new candidate, Minnie Donnell, of Arcadia, also gets into the race this week and the first installment of votes sent in by her lands her in third place in the contest. She is a rustler and has one of the best fields in the county to work as none of the other candidates are close enough to her to conflict in her canvas. The work done for her at present is all by her friends as she is out of the county but it is said that she will return soon and get to work in a systematic vote hunting manner.

It was agreed among the owners of the mill that Mr. Dahlin should sell his interest to the Collison Brothers but later on it was decided not to do so. The intention of Mr. Dahlin to retire from the firm was a matter of great regret, for he is known to be one of the best millers the state can boast of. It will therefore be good news to Ord and vicinity to know that he has decided to stay with us. The business of the mill is steadily increasing and with the continuance of the present management in power the mill ought to prove a good paying property. THE FAMILY BIBLE.

Its Old Time Record of Births, Marriages and Deaths. "The family Bible, with its genealogical record, served a useful purpose in its day," said the librarian, "and I don't see that, with all our boasted advance in civilization, we have developed anything quite to take its place. Of course nowadays cities and towns pride themselves on the accuracy of their vital statistics, and we have whole libraries of genealogical works—dry enough most of them are too. But the individual family record, such as was kept a few generations ago, is very decidedly missing, and it's a pity that such is the case. "For one thing, the list of births, marriages and deaths that were kept in the ponderous volume of Holy Writ operated to keep the members of the family close to one another. It was, in a way, a central point, valuable for sentimental reasons as well as for reasons more distinctly utilitarian. As scribe succeeded scribe the family continually was emphasized, and the entries were significant of the growth of a clanish feeling, which is too little in evidence at the present time. There are not, I venture to say, very many people in this year of grace who know anything or care anything about their relatives further removed than the degree of first cousinship, and even first cousins are frequently out of mind. "Of course our tendencies are responsible largely for this state of affairs, but I often wish that we had reminders of our kin, such as were furnished by the family Bibles of past days, with their direct personal testimony, amounting to messages from parents to children. Whenever I see one of these pages filled with careful entries—entries made in joy and in sorrow, in the confidence of pride of life or by the trembling fingers of old age—it seems to me that we have lost something in our hurried existence that is to be regretted. We can go to the city or town clerk or perhaps to the public library for information as to our ancestry or our relatives, but this is a rather cold and formal method of procedure. Certainly we do not find in official records and in books the handwriting of our forbears." —New York Press.

By Intention.

When a Scotchman has no argument at his tongue's end to defend his own line of conduct, which another may have criticised, it may safely be inferred that his ancestry has a strain from some other nation. A man who has an estate in Scotland lock his new plowman to task for the wavering furrows which were the result of his work. "Your drills are not nearly as straight as those Angus made," he said severely. "He would not have left such a glebe as this." "Angus didna ken his work," said Tammas calmly, contemplating his employer with an indulgent gaze. "Ye see, when the drills is crookit the sun gets in on all sides, an' 'tis then ye get early 'taties."

He Knows.

A teacher in an isolated school situated in the cattle country of Wyoming, where the children learn their letters from the brands on cattle before they learn the alphabet, was endeavoring to teach her pupils the different sounds of "a" as denoted by the marks above the letter. "Now, children," she inquired hopefully, pointing on the blackboard to the letter and the mark signifying the long sound, "what is this?"

"There was a long and discouraging silence. Then an embryo cowboy cried excitedly as he waved his hand: "I know, teacher. That's Bar A!" —Lippincott's.

Majesty of the People.

Queen Victoria had had, doubtless, some recollection of the theories of the divine right of kings, so when Mr. Gladstone, then prime minister, brought her a paper to be signed she said: "I cannot sign it. That does not represent my sentiments." "Madam," said the premier, "you must sign it." "Do you say must to me, Mr. Gladstone? I am the queen of England." "Madam, I am the people of England. Sign."

Had Plenty of Room.

A passenger entered a railway carriage already containing ten people and placed with great care a small valise under the seat. "There," he said, "now I hope no accident will happen to that." "Why, what is in it?" asked an indiscreet passenger. "Dynamite," replied the man, whereupon the ten incontinent fed, leaving him in possession, and he proceeded to open the valise containing "dynamite" and eat his lunch in comfort. —Loisirs.

OMENS AND MONARCHS.

Incidents That Have Attended Certain English Coronations. Omens were regarded seriously by monarchs if there is truth in the stories of incidents that have attended the coronations of certain English kings. The wearing of white, for example, on such an occasion is said to have been particularly fatal. Alone of all the British sovereigns Charles I. was robed in white at his coronation. The chroniclers say that this happened purely by accident. When the ill-fated prince formally assumed the crown in 1625 it chanced that all the purple velvet at the time to be found in London was not sufficient to supply a robe, and there was no time to send to Genoa or elsewhere for more. Long years before the coronation of the second of the Stuart kings misfortunes had been predicted for a white king of England, and surely no man's life ever more fully bore out such a prediction. White followed the unlucky Charles even to the grave. After the dethroned king's execution on that cold January day in 1649 as his body was brought out from St. George's hall the snow began to fall, and before the coffin reached the west end of the royal chapel the black velvet pall was covered with purest white from frozen flakes. Unfortunate signs and portents also attended the coronation of James II. The wind was light, yet the canopy which was held over the king's head by the Cinque Port barons was found to be torn, and the flag which was run up on the tower at the moment of coronation was soon afterward seen hanging in tatters. The most portentous omen of all, however, attended the coronation of George III., in whose reign Britain sustained her greatest disaster—the loss of the American colonies. It is curious how this disaster was pre-symbolized at the coronation. As the king was moving across the abbey floor wearing the crown the great diamond fell out and was not found again without a good deal of trouble. —Scrap Book.

Uses For Kerosene.

Kerosene oil is a great help to loosen dirt, used in various ways. A few drops on a rag will clean a wash basin much more easily than soap. It is also good for cleaning an iron sink. If the children's hands are stuck up with balsam or wagon grease, try rubbing them with a rag wet in kerosene before applying soap and water. If they get wagon grease on their clothes, a little soap and kerosene will take it out. To clean dirty clothes, such as coarse towels, take a tablespoonful of kerosene and a small piece of soap. Boil these together with a quart of water till it makes an emulsion. Put this in your boiler with enough cold water to cover your clothes and let it come to a boil, stirring the clothes occasionally. This saves a lot of hard rubbing. It is also very good to soften children's shoes which have become hard by being soaked with water. —Suburban Life.

Don't Cry, Go Eat.

"I don't cry any more about anything," said the bachelor girl. "When I get so sad I don't know what to do, I go out and get me something to eat. A little fellow I was very fond of once taught me that. He asked me to take luncheon with him to talk over a quarrel we were having. During the talking over it I got to crying. I cried all over my fish. He ordered me some more fish and scolded me while they were getting it ready. "Never cry, Frances," he said, 'as long as you've got a good luncheon or dinner before you. It isn't worth while.' "No. I never saw him again, but whenever I want to cry I think of him and get me something good to eat instead." —New York Press.

The Sentry's Reason.

A soldier at the Toulon arsenal was on sentry duty the other day outside a powder magazine when an officer came up smoking a cigar. "You must throw that away, sir," said the sentry, and after a moment's hesitation the officer obeyed. Almost immediately afterward the officer returned and saw the sentry smoking his cigar. He was about to call the guard when the soldier said: "I am not a smoker, captain. I was merely keeping it alight to show the corporal when he comes around that I was right in ordering you to throw it away." The captain smiled and walked on. —St. James' Gazette.

Like Old Clothes.

Little James had been imparting to the minister the important and cheerful information that his father had got a new set of false teeth. "Indeed, James!" replied the minister indulgently. "And what will he do with the old set?" "Oh, I s'pose," replied little James, "they'll cut 'em down and make me wear 'em."

SHE TOOK HIS SPEECH.

Then the Bright Girl Got Work as His Stenographer. She was riding into the city on the morning train in search of a position as a stenographer. Having seen the large, florid man in the seat in front of her cut an advertisement from his newspaper and put it away in his pocketbook, she was just curious enough to look up the corresponding place in her own paper. Finding there an advertisement for a stenographer, she noted down the address and thanked her feminine curiosity. She then turned back to her pencil and notebook. It seemed as if, practice as she might, she never could keep her speed up to 100 words a minute. She tried copying from the newspaper, but the motion of the car made the words dance before her eyes until they hurt her. She tried making up sentences as she went along and failed. Finally she resorted to taking down the incessant chatter of two women behind her, but their talk was often drowned in the disturbances of a number of young people still farther back, who were riotously noisy. The young lady struggled with a tirade on the servant girl problem, timing herself by the distance between stations—two minutes from Sherwood to Sherwood Corners. Could she do 200 words? As her hand dashed madly over the page a large wad of newspaper flew past her and struck the florid man in the neck. The laughter behind subsided into dismayed giggles. Slowly the large man turned his injured neck. He was redder than ever as he started to speak. The words fell from his lips, hot but distinct, swiftly but smoothly. He was telling the boisterous young people seven seats back just what he thought of them. The young woman with the pencil saw her chance and took it. Here was glorious dictation. Her pencil flew. The speech lasted a minute and a half and was cut short then only by the arrival of the train at the terminal. The stenographer elapped her book shut with a comfortable feeling of having done even better than a hundred words per minute and set off in search of her position. When she arrived at the address she had noted down, she was ushered into a private office, where sat the man of the speech. She stammered a little until she saw that he did not recognize her. His mind had been full of bigger things. Then she smilingly told him her errand. "Do you think you can take my dictation?" he said, frowning. "Yes, sir." "What makes you think so? I talk very fast." "But very distinctly, sir." She produced her notebook and laid it open before him. "Here's a sample." She began to read her notes. His jaw dropped. There was his masterpiece of the train, complete and unabridged. It really sounded very well, so full of fire. When she finished, he looked at her sharply. His face was very red, but his eyes twinkled. "The job's yours," he said in a subdued voice. —Youth's Companion.

Not Much Progress.

Such an exchange of courtesy as was chronicled in a German paper not long ago would hardly suit the taste of brisk Americans. The exchange was in the form of two advertisements. "The gentleman who found a purse with money in the Blumenstrasse is requested to forward it to the address of the loser, as he is recognized." "A day or two later appeared the response, which, although so courteous, had an elusive air, to say the least: "The recognized gentleman who picked up a purse in the Blumenstrasse requests the loser to call at his house at a convenient day."

Only Hearsay.

Magistrate—How old are you, madam? Witness—According to your own ruling, I don't know. Magistrate—Why, how is that? Witness—You stated that hearsay was not conclusive evidence, did you not? Magistrate—Yes, but— Witness (interrupting)—Well, I am told that I am so many years old; but, as you know, it is only hearsay. —Chicago News.

Justifiable.

The cat had eaten the canary. "I haven't any compunctions about it, either," she said, picking her teeth with her claws. "I couldn't eat the piano on the first floor or the graphophone on the third, but I could make a meal of the musician on the second floor, and I've done it." With a satisfied grin on her face she curled up on the floor behind the gas range and went to sleep. —Chicago Tribune.
