Vol.

Seed Time

We have a quantity of Iowa Gold Mine seed corn, which is very fine. It was raised by J. W. Gregory last year and made over 50 bushels to the acre. Mr. Gregory has gone through his field for years and selected his seed from the first to ripen, and has not only increased the yield of his corn from year to year, but has also got it much earlier than formerly, so he seldom if ever has any trouble about his corn not getting ripe. We have a limited quantity of this fine seed and if you want some, call early. We will furnish it either in the ear or shelled.

We also have a small lot of Choice Early Ohio seed potatoes. We will sell them at $1 per bushel. If you plant them early you can sell early potatoes for a lot more about the first of July.

Choice home grown alfalfa seed, per bushel..... $11 00
 Splendid home grown brome grass seed, per bushel..... 2.75
 We have a few bushels of Evergreen seed corn
 Genuine oyster shells for hens, sack..... 1.75
 Clam shells..... 1.25

Choice blue grass and white clover seed for the lawn. We never had as nice a lot.

We have Nebraska Grown Garden Seeds, both bulk and package. Also Ferry seeds. Our onions sets are the best we ever had. Order your seeds and sets of us.

DO YOU PAINT? It might not always do to ask that question but it is pertinent now for this is the time of year to paint. We have all kinds of paint—the well known Patton's Sun Proof house paint, a good red barn paint, small package paints for the chairs, cupboard or kitchen table. Lacqueret, a high grade varnish for any kind of furniture or the floor, green paint for the screens and all colors of buggy paint. We also have pure linseed oil, turpentine, white lead and all colors in oil for tinting.

The fishing season is at hand, and, not only the small boy, but some of the men are spending their leisure time along the river. We have the kind of fishing tackle that gets the big ones. We also have a good line of duck shells on hand at 50, 65 and 75 cents per box.

Did it

ever occur to you why all good business men keep a checking account with a bank? We'll tell you. It enables them to keep their funds in a more secure place than in the office safe. It gives them a better standing in the business world. It enables them to pay their bill by check, the returned check being an undisputable receipt.

Individuals find a checking account very convenient and a source of saving.

Money in one's pocket is often spent on the spur of the moment, while one is disposed to think twice before drawing on his balance in the bank.

Southern Mexico.

We left Mexico City in the early morning and our route was by way of Castle Chapultepec and the battle field of Churnbusco where Gen. Scott defeated the army of Mexico. The battle-field is marked by a small monument. We also saw the old red mill famed in the encounter as the place where the hottest fighting occurred.

We pass through vast fields of pulque plant and here they are at work harvesting a crop. This is done by cutting the stalk in the center and leaving a bowl shaped depression into which the juice of the plant rises from the root and is then dipped out and carried in large earthen jars to the village and is there fermented and is then ready for use.

An hour passes and we are at the southern end of the valley of Mexico and we begin to go up on the rise to the cross of the Sierra Madre range of mountains. Peach trees are in bloom, and several varieties of fruit and fine gardens everywhere, and melons, pomegranates, the grape fruit pomelas are now offered for sale at the villages where we stop. As we rise up the mountain side we have a view perhaps unsurpassed anywhere on the continent. It is the valley of Mexico with its many towns with Mexico City the queen of them all, and giant snow crowned Popocatepetl in the distance with its head above the clouds and glistening in the sunlight. In the back ground are other snow covered mountains but none rise to its 18,000 feet. It stands out in bold relief some sixty miles away, though from our point of view one would think only one third that distance.

I have never had the pleasure of viewing such a panorama as here was spread before us and a Mexican near me murmured "Vista Grande" and I agreed with him. As we climbed higher up the range, the timber grew more abundant and of a larger size being largely of pine and cedar, but there were many new varieties of trees for us unknown and beautiful wild flowers grew in great profusion.

As we climbed higher the vast up lift of this range of mountains could be easily studied and in places one could see the fire burned rocks with the lava and ashes underneath as if it were only just cooled since the volcanic fires were extinguished. Everything here shows that not long since by geological epochs all this part of the earth was in convulsion.

The vegetation here is not luxurious, and as we reach the table land at the top of the range the grass is green and abundant, and fully two feet in height. The cattle are fat and sleek, and one would judge here was an ideal climate. Some farming is done on this table land in a small way.

The Mexican house is even less trouble to construct than farther north, as only some poles with hay for roof is used. From the higher range we see burros loaded with railroad ties coming down, a tie fastened on each side. Mexico could not live without these patient beasts of burden. I never have seen at any time a burro that had been given any feed of any kind but when the load was off his back, was simply turned loose and allowed to hunt for his feed.

We begin to descend from the mountain into Cortez valley, and the scenery here is grand beyond description as it is conceded that this route is unsurpassed as a Scenic route in Mexico. This is the famous valley that Cortez chose as his own particular province and here at Cuernavaca he built his palace, and had his residence. Cuernavaca is a fine city of some 15,000 population has street car lines electric lights, and all modern improvements. The city is famous as being the home of Maximilian and Carlotta during the Empire; has the oldest sugar mill on the continent, has the shrine of the miraculous image, and near the city are the prehistoric ruins of Zochicolco antedating history, also the Aztec temple of Tepozotlan with its hieroglyphics. It is claimed that nothing outside of Egypt equals it in curious carving.

As we leave the city, the snow covered mountains are on one side the valley and all kinds of tropical products are in sight. Here sugar cane is grown in immense quantities, and every few miles we would pass a sugar mill with its out lying plantations. Here one could see the cane in all stages of growth, for here one crop succeeds another in a never varying round with one and the same season the year around. Americans are largely interested in these sugar plantations and our own D. E. Thompson owns a large sugar plantation near where we passed. The sugar is made up into the refined product at these factories, and is of fine quality.

Crossing the valley we begin winding up a small river into the mountains. Here rice and bananas are grown, and an extensive system of irrigation is in use. The soil is rich and all that is needed is the water, and labor to grow any crop known.

These people here do not have to work, and provide for cold weather ahead, and as perhaps the case in these latitudes the incentive to work is lacking and what is not necessary to do today is always put off until tomorrow.

Our train winds around the river with villages in sight here, and there in the distance, and we judge the country is pretty well settled, as all along the river are the homes of people with gardens and farms, and frequently all fenced in with stone walls. The cactus of the north does not appear here, but other trees and shrubs unknown to us.

Our train moves slower, and we begin to pass into the canyon of El Diablo. This is really an immense crevice between or in the mountains, with walls on either side from 500 to 2,000 feet in height. It is almost dark, in some places the depth below the level is so great and the beetling crags above us with immense over hanging rocks causes us to wonder what would be the result were one of these immense boulders to drop on the train. However our train only moves as fast as one would walk, and as the canyon is only about five miles or more in length we are soon out of it and in another valley with a river flowing towards the Pacific, as we are now over the back-bone of the Cordilleros of Mexico.

The new and strange tropical plants increase, and here we are descending at a rapid rate towards the sea level. At Cimero we were 10,000 feet above sea level, and here as night approaches we reach Rio Balsos only 1,000 feet above the sea, and hemmed in by mountains from one to four thousand feet in the air. Here is an Indian town of some one thousand people, and the entire town built of poles and palm leaf for roofing. This town has been here a thousand years, and probably differs but little from its original of a thousand years ago in its manner of construction. The natives of both sexes, and all ages swarm around the train, and we have a good opportunity to study the native Indian at his home.

Here is the end of our trip by rail, and the rest of the trip will be made on foot by burro tomorrow. It is like our August weather here now, very hot and sultry.

We have a fine chance for a bath here, and the entire party took a swim in the river, a beautiful stream with rock bottom and just the right depth to fine for bathing. It is too warm to sleep, but the natives are lying around any where asleep, with nothing but the stars above them, and very little on them. A hard day tomorrow, so we close, W. A. Anderson.

The Pine Which Redeems the Sand-Hills and the Waste Places on the Farm.

A mighty timber famine is coming down upon us and we must do something and do it quickly. While the Norway Poplar—Populus Laurifolia of Siberia—is the most hardy and thrifty deciduous tree of all our northern states, the Jack Pine is by far the most rapid growing of all our conifers. While on account of its persistent cones it is not as valuable as some others for an ornamental tree, yet on account of its wide adaptability to different soils and conditions, its tremendous growth, and its general utility, it is without a peer for groves, forests, and wind-breaks. Perhaps in a hundred years other pines might overtake it yet, for rapid growth for the first fifty years it will be without a rival. Here at York our Experiment Grounds, we have eighteen kinds of evergreens but this beats them all nearly two to one. It was thought they needed sand, but they will grow readily on any kind of soil. We have them on an adobe clay-bank with no cultivation that are making over two feet a year. On the poorest sand-hills of northern Nebraska, without cultivation or irrigation, they are making two feet a year and those fifteen years old are already casting seed and little ones are springing up. Put them on rich prairie and their growth is tremendous.

We know that a sand-hill is a cordial invitation to a pine tree and that the great sand waste of Nebraska, in a few years, can be made, prospectively at least, worth $100.00 per acre.

Land is rising in value and the poorest portion of the farm should be put to work. Planted to pines, it will soon be as valuable as the rest.

There are two varieties of this pine. The eastern type is a poor gnarled, scrubby tree, worthless for us. The northern type grows with rapidity, Murrayana or Lodge Pole Pine of the Yellowstone Park. It packs the ground solid with straight thrifty trees. The railroads have used Jack Pines by the millions, and now are giving them a creosote treatment to make them more durable. Immense quantities of lumber and framing timber are taken from the northern forests every year from these trees. It takes two or three years for them to get a good start after planting. They do not waste themselves with side branches but mount upward with great rapidity, making two or three feet a year, so you can figure on a forty foot tree in twenty years. And these trees will soon pass away and there will come down upon us a timber famine such as our fathers never dreamed of—increasing the value of all wood material many fold.

RAISING FROM SEEDS.

I call myself an expert and have published a work on evergreens but I cannot grow Jack Pines successfully from seeds at this Station, nor can they at the United States Government Station on the Dismal River, Nebr., where they are planting half a million acres with Jack and Bull Pines, but they do grow readily in their own habitat. Already there are nurseries of them springing up in the sands where the trees are growing. After years of experience, we have found that collected trees, twelve to fourteen inches, carefully dug and well packed are fairly successful. These, as well as nursery grown ones, can be had by the million for about $6.00 per thousand. They must always go by express, but the rates are much lower than formerly and they are 20 per cent lower on plants than on merchandise.

Think how much value even one thousand of these trees would add to any farm in the Northwest and there is hardly a farm in all that great empire where they would not grow. Suppose you put in 10,000 on some sandy or stony portion of your place, if you have it. How much of utility and beauty you would add in a very short time.

By planting well, and cultivating or mulching, you would bring them on at a rapid rate. All told, nearly a million were planted last year. It should be ten million this year.

Where can we get those pines at a reasonable rate is a question that is often asked of us. We have tried different parties. Some will send us good trees, ruined in the hauling, so we can save but 5 per cent. This is very trying to pay your money and the express rates and then loose them. H. B. Ayers of Aitkin Minnesota, sent out the first lot for the Government experiment in Holt County, which had such remarkable success. We buy thousands of them from him every year. The loss is generally not over 5 per cent. He furnishes them at five to six dollars per thousand.

C. S. Harrison, President Nebraska Park and Forest Society, York, Nebraska.

She Didn't Say Him Nay.

A little matrimonial event which was an entirely unexpected was the wedding Monday at Plattsmouth of Mr. Oscar L. Nay of Cheyenne, Wyo., and Miss Pearl Hather, of Central City, the latter being in charge of the millinery department in Burke's store. The groom is unknown here, and the bride gave no intimation when she went away of the impending event. During her comparatively short residence here Miss Hather has made many friends, proving herself very attractive elsewhere. Our community generally will offer their best wishes to the young couple just starting on their married life, with the hope that their future may be filled with happiness and prosperity.—Central City Record.

A ST. LOUIS COURT IS VOID.

More Than 700 Cases Tried—Criminals Sentenced as Illegally Restrained of Their Liberty.

Jefferson City, Mo.—An opinion, written by Judge Gant, was handed down by the supreme court Thursday holding that the law creating the court of general sessions in the city of St. Louis is unconstitutional and the proceeding was based on the suit of the school board of St. Louis against the city of St. Louis in which it was sought to divert moneys collected by the court of general sessions to the school fund, instead of allowing them to go to the state, as provided by the law creating the court.

The bill creating the court of general sessions was passed in April, 1907. Gov. Folk appointed Judge H. P. Rodgers to preside and the first session of court was held May 27, 1907. Over 700 cases have been tried in the court since then.

Joe-Dad's Bee Tree

AN EPISODE IN WOODS AND WATER EXPLOITS

By Ernest McGaffey
Author of Poems of Gun and Rod, Etc.

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

"See that," said old Joe-Dad, as he rose from the skiff and peered into the surrounding timber. "Mmm," went on the ancient "pusher," "I reckon there's a bee-tree round here somewhere. How'd some honey taste on them flap-jacks we're havin' at camp?"

"What're you mumbling about, Joe," was my answer as I hooked on a medium sized meadow frog, the kind the big-mouth bass are so partial to; "what did you see when you stood up just now?"

"Bee," said Joe-Dad. We had been fishing for several days on the Illinois river, with our camp at the mouth of a creek that emptied into the river. Big-mouth bass, wall-eyed pike and young squirts had been our bill of fare, with plenty of corn-meal pan-cakes, or "flap-jacks," as the pusher called them. The possibility of honey, however, interested me mightily, for I have what is commonly known as a "sweet tooth."

So when we got back to camp, after getting a half dozen thumping bass, and after Joe-Dad had carefully located the direction the bee went, the wuz a terrible big dead limb sticking out from the main trunk. An' from that dead limb you could see the bees goin' in an' comin' out, an' says Bob, "That's our honey!"

"There wuz another good-sized limb stickin' out from the tree close to the dead one, an' finerly I sez, 'How're we goin' to git all this here honey? That sycamore would tough a grey squirrel to climb it. Ez fer a man, he couldn't climb it no more'n he could climb a rain-bow.'"

"Bob never said nothin' but jist kep' figgerin' roun, an' then he sez, 'We'll fell that thar saplin' so'st I'll fall across the dead limb,' sez he, 'an' if it don't bust her down, one o' us 'll have to climb the saplin' an' cut away the limb.'"

"So Bob an' me lays our axes into the saplin' an' when the saplin' is about ready to go, Bob throws the rope over one o' it's limbs an' hitches to a tree close up so'st the saplin's bound to come down on the dead limb. Well, sir, down comes Mr. Saplin. It didn't bust the limb, some o' the bees they come out but went back agin, an' Bob an' me we jist stood an' looked."

"It's a case o' climb, sez he." "Now bein' that I wuz nacherly the best climber in the world, I allows I'll go up. Bob sez 'Gut her off as near the butt as you kin, an' I'll sling you the rope up after the limb busts off, an' you kin tie her to the green limb you'll be standin' on, throw down your ax an' slide down the rope. I'll cut loose from the green limb with a couple o' bullets an' there you are.'" plans and specifications for raiding the bee-tree were elaborately discussed.

"We've got plenty o' rope," said the "pusher," knocking the ashes out of his short-stemmed pipe, "and two good axes. We may hate to build a 'smudge,' and agin mebbe we won't have to."

"You must have been an interested party in some bee scrape, Joe," was my answer.

"Fur awhile, fur awhile," was the "pusher's" response. "Yes, I reckon was about the most p'rently interested feller in a chunk o' rope that yer happened into the timber."

"Why, that sounds like a story, Joe," said I, "tell me about it." "Well," begun Joe-Dad, it was this way. I was young, an' I wuz green to bees. I wuz the best climber at to a squirrel that ever shinned a saplin'. I'd lived in the woods, yit I wuz so busy huntin' an' fishin' that I'd never been huntin' fer trees more'n four or five times. I wuz mightily shore I wuzn't a-pred up any bee that ever drawed inger."

So one night over comes Bob Early he cabin, an' he's got a bee tree ed that's plumb full o' honey to him tell it, an' nothin' to do but jim an' pap to git out after it mornin'. But the old man's got e o' traps he's got to 'run, an' an' yis fer me to go long 'th Bob. Right an' soon the next mornin' an' me's p'inted fer this here bee. Bob's got an ax, I've got an ax, Bob's carryin' a long rope, an' that's the rope fer, Bob," sez I, "to hang ourselves of we miss that bee tree," says Bob. "Don't say nothin' to that, fer I Bob Early was raised on bees, he wasn't packin' that quill fer fun."

So perty soon we got to a clearin' in the timber, an' Bob took through the bresh, an' at last 'straight out from this here 's the river.' So we starts to through the awfulest tangle r seen. Buck-bresh, black-ers, pieces o' swamp, old logs gyll's own mix-up o' wood an' finally old Bob halts close er, an' lookin' up at the edge benin' in the woods he sez 'fer, here she is!'"

where it had fetched loose from. Well, that looked all right, but in about three seconds the bees aplinted a committee to investigate. Something like twelve or fifteen thousand bees wuz on this committee, an' the first thing they did to me wuz to jist sting me once for good luck. 'The rope, hollers I, an' then I shet my mouth an' eyes fer fear the bees'd start in on me there. They cert'nly did sting me awful. I thought I'd fall off'n the limb. I wuz skeered to try to slide down the sycamore, cuz I'd a dropped forty feet an' broke my neck certain. The saplin' o' course had gone with the dead limb, an' thar I wuz forty feet up in the crotch, an' gittin' stung at the rate o' six hundred stingers a second."

"Well, Bob, he jist nacherly gits the rope untied from the saplin' as soon as he kin, an' quills her up an' sends it across the limb so's I ketch it the first sling. But by that time I'm one big bunch o' pizen from them stings, an' particlerly my head and neck. Pears like they mostly settled on my back, an' the back o' my neck, an' when I got the rope, they sort o' shifted an' commenced to sting my hands."

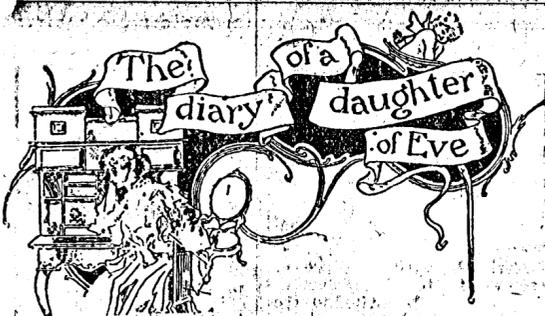

"Well, sir, I didn't lose any time gittin' a hitch to the limb with that rope an' when I slid down her I cert'nly perty near set fire to it I went down so tarnation quick."

"Talk about PAIN! Why I was jist the painfulest feller in the woods. Bob grabbed me the minute I lit, an' he had a big gob o' honey in his hands. He rubbed that honey into the stings, an' I want to say right here that in two hours I wuz all right, though I wuz some sore. But the honey took the pizen out, an' after a couple o' days I wouldn't a knowed I'd a-been stung at all. But law-a-me, I'll never furgit settin' up thar a hundred feet from the ground, er say forty feet, an' gettin' peppered by them bees."

"An' so you see if it hadn't a-been fer the rope we had along, I'd a had to jump an' break my neck er stuck thar tell them bees had jist nacherly stung me plumb off'n the limb."

"After I'd got shet a little o' the pain, by Bob rubbin' in the honey, he sez to me, 'What do you think of a rope in raidin' a bee tree?'"

"And what did you say to that, Joe-Dad?" was my inquiry. "I sez the next time I goes after a bee tree, I lowed I'd pack a ladder, if they wuzn't no objections."

Parasols, which are now being shown in the shops, are altogether lovely. Chiffon, gauze, silk and linen are all represented and in the most fascinating developments. The latest in the group is a white liberty satin embroidered with a design of a flight of swallows in shades ranging from a rich cream to golden brown. This is mounted on ivory ribs and has a stick to match. The white linen sunshades show open embroideries in pale pastel colorings quite as often as the all white needlework.

One of the pretty dancing costumes worn recently was a rose-colored chiffon, with a border of flowered gauze. A fold of bias panne velvet of the same shade over the shoulders lent a soft line to the neck, while a fringe of chenille hung over the waist line, giving the figure the required straight effect.

Another pretty frock was of green crepe, with drapery fastened on the shoulder with a buckle. The gown was made empire style and showed just a touch of black velvet here and there. In both cases the slippers matched the gown. This is a nice idea and precludes the possibility of wearing the wrong combination.

Conventional figured and polka dots prevail among the new designs in embroidery this season, both in the sheer white goods and in flannel.

I saw such a dainty pattern among the latter that would be pretty for babies' long skirts. It was hemstitched, the hem decorated at intervals with little curlycues worked in white silk, while above was a decoration of dots in satin stitch. It was only 69 cents a yard, and was much to be preferred to another by its side which was decidedly more elaborate, though less in price.

Better a little fine embroidery than a cheap, gaudy pattern. A white or colored cotton dress usually becomes creased and crumpled long before it is soiled sufficiently to warrant its dispatch to the laundry. A little thin starch, made with cold water, will, however, be found excellent as a means of stiffening the skirt where it has become limp, a sponge dipped in the starch being used with which to dampen the material. The garment should then be spread over an ironing board and pressed all over by degrees, says Woman's Life.

One of the loveliest of the luncheon dresses is made of rose-colored cloth, with a long, plain drooping skirt. The waist is a little affair in ivory-colored lace. But the coat is one of those elaborate little French coats, cut away in the front and finished with velvet collar and cuffs. The hat is a wide black one, with an immense feather going almost entirely around the brim and hanging off at the back.

A spring costume of graceful outlines is noticeable for the lining which shows on the moderately wide three-quarter length sleeves and beneath the points of the godet jacket skirt. This costume was fashioned by a woman of considerable renown as a fashionable modiste, and certainly the costume does her credit. The material used is a rich-looking green broadcloth, a color which is almost black, yet shows the verdure tinge. The style is simple, the only noticeable feature being displayed in the pointed godet arrangement of the jacket. It is lined with burnt orange silk. These two colors, while so very different, have combined splendidly in this costume. The idea of a wholly different color for a lining is, indeed, a new move toward more originality and less imitation of other fine frocks.

As simple and dainty a yoke for a chemise as you could find is made from two handkerchiefs. The handkerchiefs should not be lace-trimmed, but may be daintily embroidered around the plain hemstitched hem. The two handkerchiefs are used for the yoke, front and back, and for little sleeve caps. The handkerchiefs are cut in half, from one corner to the other, so as to make four triangular pieces. The cut edges of two of the pieces are used for the tops of the front and back yokes. This makes the opposite corner extend into the chemise in a point. The chemise is cut to form a point and the hemstitched edges of the pieces are sewed to the chemise to form the point. The back of the chemise is made in the same manner, and the cut edges are neatly hemmed.

The other two pieces of handkerchief are then hemmed neatly on the raw edges and the two smaller corners are firmly fastened, one each to one end of the front and back of the chemise, so as to make the larger and uncut corner fall in a pointed cap over the arm. Lace is then sewed to the four upper sides of the handkerchiefs, which form the top of the yoke. At each side of the arms, where the shoulder cap joins the yoke pieces, a dainty bow of ribbon is placed.

PRETTY FANCY APRON

The fancy apron now plays a more important part in the wardrobe of the up-to-date woman than for some time past. The popularity of the chafing dish has been a factor in this development and the young girl or matron who does not own one or more fancy aprons is an exception. Fine, sheer materials naturally have the preference, and white takes the lead, but among the daintily-figured stuffs that are so alluring are many that serve admirably for the fashioning of these aprons.

In the accompanying sketch is shown a particularly fetching apron of figured lawn. As indicated, it is made from two squares of the material, the apron part simply requiring a little feather stitching around the hem on three sides and a little rounding out at the waist line to be ready. The bib calls for more work, as the circular opening for the head must be carefully measured and neatly finished. The two squares are adjusted at the waist with a buttonhole. A feature that distinguishes this apron from others similarly fashioned is that the bib in the back comes down to meet waist line and is attached to the belt button. Large handanna handkerchiefs are serviceable for aprons of this type, which are practical as well as pretty.

Kimono Much Liked. That graceful and fascinating garment the kimono, which Americans have borrowed from the Japanese, has found much favor in the eyes of women of the Occident, and it has evidently come to stay.

But of the thousands of women who slip into its easeful folds for that delightful hour when they loaf and invite their souls and the confidences of their friends, how many know that the Japanese, men and women alike, invariably wrap the kimono from left to right? Only when the perform the last toilet for the dead do the Japanese reverse their custom and wrap it from right to left.

Since American women have marked the kimono as their own, they might do well to adopt its traditions along with it and wrap it from left to right.

Rich Wedding Gown. A rich effect in gold lace and white satin was shown in the gown worn at a recent house wedding. It was a heavy white satin princess, with a collar and upper yoke of point lace followed by a deep yoke of gold lace. The sleeves, ending at the elbows, were each of two founces of Venetian point and Mechlin lace, draped irregularly and quite closely to the arm. From the gold lace yoke, in both the front and the back, three graduated bands of gold lace went nearly to the gown's hem. These bands tapered in toward the waist line and then out again, and between the three ends at the hem an impalement of gold lace formed deep points.

A Thought. I am coming to believe that there is work for everybody somewhere. It may not be the work we want, and it may not be the place in which we desire to stay, but it will supply creature comforts, and that is a great deal, says Home Chat. Most of us have to do unpleasant things, from time to time, but it is quite possible to do them cheerfully.

What He Planted For. Little Tommy Whacken was taken by his mother to choose a pair of knickerbockers, and his choice fell on a pair to which a card was attached, stating: "These can't be beaten."—Current Literature.

CHILD'S FRENCH DRESS.

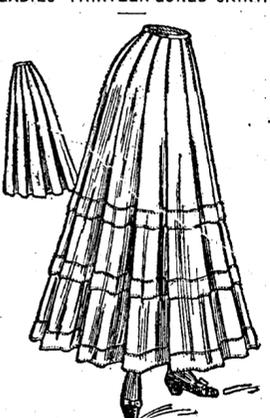

Paris Pattern No. 2270. All Seams Allowed.—Turquoise-blue plain English delaine has been used for this attractive little frock. The full waist which blouses slightly at the front is fitted into the yoke by groups of narrow tucks. The very short gathered skirt is attached to the waist under a belt of the material stitched with white, and the long-length sleeves are finished with narrow wristbands of the same. The pattern is in four sizes—two to five years. For a child of three years the dress requires three yards of material 27 inches wide, 1 1/2 yard 36 inches wide, or 1 1/4 yard 42 inches wide; with 3/4 yard of insertion to trim.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Editor," office of this paper. Write name and address plainly and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

LADIES' THIRTEEN-GORED SKIRT.

Paris Pattern No. 2069. All Seams Allowed.—Whether a woman be tall or short, stout or slender, she must have her walking skirt made ankle length, according to Dame Fashion's decree. This jaunty model, with its inverted box-plate at the center-back seam and side-plaits below the hip at the other seams, will be much worn. Three bias bands of the material stitched at both their edges and set an equal distance apart, trim the skirt, which may be developed in any of the new materials. The pattern is in seven sizes—22 to 34 inches, waist measure. For 26 waist the skirt requires 10 1/2 yards of material 20 inches wide, 5 1/2 yards 36 inches wide, 4 1/2 yards 42 inches wide, 3 1/2 yards 54 inches wide. For bias bands, 2 1/2 yards 20 inches wide, 1 1/2 yard 36 inches wide, one yard 42 inches wide, extra will be needed.

Negro Marries Englishwoman. Champions of a "White Australia" have been shocked at Melbourne by the marriage of a full-blooded negro with a young Englishwoman. The man succeeded in landing recently from a South African trading steamer, and met the woman in the course of her mission work. She converted him to Christianity, and shortly after that event he disappeared. The steamer and fore-castle of an outgoing vessel were searched in vain, and it was only after the voyage had begun that he was found a first-class passenger traveling with his white bride, his erstwhile religious teacher.

The Reason Why. It is a strange thing that though the great grandmothers of many of us smoked, and pipes at that, and were never considered unwomanly for doing it, in this day and generation there should be so much commotion about the woman who smokes a cigarette. On the other hand, as civilization has advanced and the physical ills induced by tobacco have been exploited, the attitude of men in the matter is no doubt that of protection.—Exchange.

Skate for Rough Road. A new roller skate has been invented to overcome the difficulties of rough roads. Mr. Koller, a Swiss, is the inventor of the new skate, the principal feature of which is a wheel about a foot in diameter. The wearer's foot is suspended on hangers and is fast near the ground. There are safety brakes which prevent the skate going backward. It is claimed that the device can be used on ordinary country roads.

IN THE SOUTH SEA

PROVISION WHICH IS MADE FOR CREWS OF WRECKED SHIPS.

"Food Sheds" Which Have Been Placed on Remote Islands and How They Have Saved Many a Helpless Mariner.

The recent rescue of 15 castaways from the wrecked barkentine Dundonald illustrates anew the value of the relief depots maintained in the far southern seas for the benefit of marooned mariners. The Dundonald, with a crew of 27, went to pieces on the rocks off Disappointment Island, about 200 miles south of New Zealand, on March 7, 1907. Twelve were lost, and the 15 survivors sustained themselves for eight months and through a severe winter, buoyed up with the hope of reaching Auckland Island, only five miles distant, where they knew that ample supplies of food and a seaworthy boat stored.

In the meantime they managed to subsist on mollyhawks and seal meat, cooked over a fire which they never allowed to go out, as fewer matches than men had been saved. When spring came determined efforts were made to reach Auckland Island in roughly constructed boats. Two of these frail craft were smashed, but a third attempt was successful in landing a small party, who found the relief depot and the boat, by means of which they were able to convey their mates to bountiful stores of food. A month later the government steamer Hinemoa, stopping at the island on its annual trip, brought the 15 Robinson Crusoes to New Zealand.

The saving of the lives of these sailors was accomplished through the agency of a peculiar system of charity which is kept up in that region of almost perpetual blizzards on various islands lying from 200 to 700 miles south of New Zealand and only a few hundred miles north of perpetual ice. On those remote shores, rocky, sterile, storm-bound, has been established a chain of "food sheds," as the sailors call them, from which a stranded, starving crew may obtain provisions to prolong life until they can be taken aboard a passing ship. In galvanized iron houses, about 15 feet wide and 20 feet long, are stored tinned meat, biscuits, cocoa, tea, flour, matches, candles, lamps, kerosene, axes, fishing tackle, blankets, clothing, cloth, needles, cotton and many more things likely to prove of service to a shipwrecked crew. In each one of these sheds may also be found a good, seaworthy, decked boat, fitted with sails, oars, compass and a chart, giving the course to the Bluff Lighthouse, nearest point on the New Zealand coast. The islands which are now piled with these relief depots are Antipodes, Auckland, Enderby and Campbell islands, which belong to New Zealand, and the Macquaries, belonging to Tasmania.

The New Zealand government erected these storehouses and keeps them stocked. Once each year the government steamer Hinemoa visits the islands to repair the sheds in case they should have been damaged by storm and to overhaul the stores of provisions. And on almost every cruise the Hinemoa rescues some stranded crew.

Before relief depots were established on these far distant islands many a luckless mariner perished on their inhospitable shores. On Enderby Island may be found a cemetery where the castaways of a half dozen vessels are buried. Several of the headboards bear this significant inscription: "Died of starvation."

Keeping Him at a Distance. Mrs. Blewer-Blud—That tallor yours is getting very familiar. Had the insolence to salute me in the street to-day. I think such people should be kept at a distance.

Mr. Blewer-Blud—Well, my dear, I'm sure I've done all I could! I've stood that man off now for two years.

A TUG OF WAR.

The boots my father wore were nines, and always shone with grease—I think they must, at very least, have weighed ten pounds apiece. The tops were spacious, rather lopped, occasioned by perchance, the fact that they were worn outside the legs of father's pants. And though, as I have given hint, he greased them well and oft, the leather proved perverse in growing pliable or soft. So, every morn' he'd pull the straps, stamp viciously the floor, Ah me, those wrinkled cowhide boots—the kind our fathers wore.

Of even temperature was he at ordinary times. A man who thought blasphemous speech the very worst of crimes. A prim old deacon in the church, a father to my mind. The very best, a husband most considerate and kind.

Yet, oftentimes on frosty morns in winter I, in bed, would listen awed and spellbound with commingled shams and dread. Lest, into sin with stockings feet he'd slip, so near he swore. At those old wrinkled cowhide boots—the boots my father wore.

Each night he'd take his bootjack down, a notched affair most rude. With one foot planted on its base he'd strike strange attitude. Of bowed-down martyrdom the while he tugged and tugged to stirp. From freedom-seeking foot a thing that clung with sullen grip. Depression o'er the household reigned, gazy speech was wholly lost. Until we'd hear the thuds when father, conquering, had tossed. What seemed to us twin ogres in the corner, on the floor. That have-to-day no counterparts—the boots my father wore.

The GIRL From TIM'S PLACE

By CHAS. CLARK MUNN, Author of "The Hermit."

When Mr. Munn gets into the forest he is on familiar ground; ground which he loves, and from which he extracts an absorbing sweetness that he puts into his stories. From the depths of nature he picks his characters and around them builds, not alone a mystery, but a charming old fashioned love story of a kind the public never tires of reading.

"The Girl From Tim's Place," is to be our next serial. It will begin running in the near future. Watch for it.

Both the pathos and humor of country life are presented with all the knack of a good story-teller.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Entered at the postoffice at Ord as second class mail matter.

Better commence to save your money today for easter time will soon be here and it is a pretty sure thing that your wife will be wanting a new easter bonnet.

The republican state and sixth congressional conventions will be held at Omaha on the 12th. One set of delegates are interested with responsibility of representing the party at both of these conventions.

We have often warned girls against the danger of putting the point of their pencils in their mouth while thinking what to write next. Now a Pennsylvania girl who did not heed our advice is dying of poisoning from this source.

Grand Island gets the meeting of the Nebraska Press Association next year. Fremont was a stronger bidder for the meeting but the Grand Island point was the choice of the most of the editors in the western part of the state and was selected with not any great competition. The Grand Island folks will undoubtedly be able to show the Nebraska editors a good time.

It is the opinion of the Quiz that there is no use in making a new members of the republican party the whole thing. For this reason we are heartily in sympathy with one of the resolutions adopted by the republican county convention Tuesday advocating the election of delegates to the national convention, men who do not now hold any high state or national office. The simple meaning of the resolution is that there are plenty of good men in the party fully competent to represent the party at the national convention with out burdening our senators with that responsibility.

One by one the erstwhile great men of notorious days of popdom are passing out of sight. Edmisten, the great leader of the populists, wanted for land frauds and failing to report at the recent sitting of the federal court Omaha his bond of ten thousand dollars was declared forfeit. After days of hiding, during which his wife claims she did not know where he was, he is in Florida, where he is to be too sick to come back to trial. That was a sorry day for our populist friends had we lead a few years ago. We wonder is that they left anything when they got through old office.

The Journal sheds tears because the Quiz has dared to comment favorably upon the candidacy of its party leaders for the residential nomination. This is no more than we expected for you ever notice that the feeling that is so lacking in expressing himself in regard to men and issues is always grieving because another fellow has infons and is not afraid to express them. It is certain that I cannot tell who is the Journal's presidential candidate by reading that sheet. If Bryan is nominated he will be a Bryan howler just the same even though he is too weak to come out and state whether he is his supporter now or not. Then again there is the whiskey question. Did you ever find out in the Journal columns whether or not Davis favored the open saloon? No, we do not think that you ever did since Davis has been running his name at the head of the editorial column, and that is more we do not think at you ever will. We do not think to think that Davis is a real coward for financial reasons but there are those of party that are not backward expressing such an opinion. Spring election is drawing and we must now expect to see the Journal handing the wet head a few roses in order that he may be in line later for a good long hard suck with his tobacco bespattered mouth at the city printing teat, but we guarantee that you will not see him go on record as saying that he is in favor of the open saloon. We congratulate Davis on being able to keep the saloon fellows in his wagon without openly supporting their principles, for it is seldom that you can find a lot of as intelligent fellows as the whiskey fellows are that can be hoodwinked in such a manner. When the Journal shall go on record as favoring or opposing a or two of the great issues in controversy he will possibly have some grounds for saying that we are too free in expressing our opinions upon men

There will be a meeting of the Epworth league at the home of Miss Delpha Taylor next evening. All members requested to be present as this is an important business to

A party of Ord young folks came down via hand-car route one evening last week and after enjoying a good square meal at Temple's restaurant and dispensing sweet music, returned home.

Martin Howan, the mechanic who has been here for several weeks installing the machinery at the new creamery, expected to leave for Comstock Thursday to perform a like duty at that place.

O. G. Burdick's have again become residents of the village. Louie Miller will move onto the farm vacated by them, which was recently bought of H. S. Davis by Mr. Haines.

Elizabeth Terry, who has been visiting her relatives, the Robert Johnson family for several weeks, returned home Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Jake Honeycutt and daughter returned to their home in Sargent Saturday, after a brief visit here with relatives.

Miss Vera Smith went to Omaha Monday morning where she expects to finish a course in the Creighton Pharmacy school.

Mr. Flint went to Cotesfield Wednesday morning to attend the funeral of a Mr. Barnes at that place.

Mrs. Cora Goodrich returned to her home in Boulder last Wednesday in response to a telegram.

Mrs. DeLong and daughter came in Saturday night from a trip down the road.

A cousin of Gilbert Abney and his wife, arrived in town Saturday night from Iowa.

Charles Mayo and little daughter Ruth, returned from Kansas City Monday night.

Mrs. W. H. Rood was a passenger to Ord Tuesday night, returning Wednesday morning.

Rev. Gilson's daughter from Sumner arrived Tuesday night for a visit with her parents.

Howard Swan was over from Greeley Sunday, the guest of his mother and sister.

Mrs. Seiver is in North Loup this week visiting her sister, Mrs. Larkin.

Mrs. G. H. Hempkin was a passenger to Ord Saturday night.

Will Kildow and wife came up from Grand Island Wednesday noon.

B. F. Griffith was up from Scotia Friday on legal business.

Roland Hempkin was in Cotesfield a few days last week.

Joe Copeland returned Tuesday night from Hastings.

Ainslie Davis was down from Ord Tuesday afternoon.

H. A. Doane returned Tuesday night from Mason City.

ENTERPRISE DEPARTMENT

Problem number 4. Two fields, a square and a circle, have equal perimeters and together contain fifteen acres. What are their areas?

School began in district 9.

The H. Lee family moved to North Loup Monday.

Orin Kellison visited in Springdale Thursday evening.

Miss Grace Aldrich is teaching district ten this week in place of her sister.

O. G. Petty moved to the Pratt place southwest of town Friday. They will be sadly missed in a social way and also in the choir of the Presbyterian church.

H. Lee and his goodly wife and daughter Lillie visited A. Ward's Thursday. Unpleasant things like this will happen sometimes but we must put up with them of course. And then we don't know of anyone we'd sooner visit with than the Lee's.

The second problem published two weeks ago, was a trick problem and impossible to solve. The object was to prove it impossible. No one did this and consequently no prize was awarded.

Friday afternoon a large crowd of C. W. Noll's old neighbors called in to give them a farewell party. It was in the nature of a surprise and they were caught in the midst of moving. The arrival of Drew Thompson's family ready to move into the house added to the confusion, but all found time to enjoy themselves. In the evening about forty young people called in to pay their respects to the younger members of the family. The occasion was one long to be remembered.

O. P. Bell marketed hogs Monday.

Rev. Maynard will preach each week at the Vinton church. All are cordially invited to the services.

Henry Fries, who has been staying with Henry Trefren, left for Central City Wednesday to take up the carpenter trade.

The young people of Midvale enjoyed a social at the Kellison home Tuesday night. All present report a very pleasant time.

C. C. Haught and daughter Rachel, Claude and Mott Rathbun and Mr. and Mrs. Scott White came over from Springdale Friday to attend the social at Gray's.

Word from Sam Upright states that he stood the trip very nicely and felt better than ever upon his arrival at the hospital. He is now able to use both hands a little and Dr. Shepard believes that he will eventually fully recover.

Revival meetings are still in progress on Davis Creek and fairly good success is reported. Much credit is due Rev. Barkheimer for his untiring efforts in the cause. The U. B. people are to be congratulated upon having such a man for their pastor.

Charles Strohm returned from Colorado with his lips full of praise and his heart full of thanksgiving for having found such a country. He is intending to return soon and will doubtless locate there permanently. His wife is visiting her people at Cushing.

Rev. Halsey preached an excellent sermon at the Presbyterian church Sunday. He expects to favor us in this way every Sunday until further notice. He requests us to mention the fine quality of the music which is being furnished. One and all are cordially invited to attend. Sunday school at two o'clock. Preaching at three o'clock.

J. D. Cook and Wilmore Gray took a car of hogs to town Friday, but after due deliberation decided to sell them to the local buyers. This is the proper thing to do. The local men will do the fair thing by you if you give them a chance, especially since they have discovered that they must do so to hold your trade. The method of shipping for yourself should only be used when the buyers become too arbitrary.

The oyster supper at Wilmore Gray's Friday night was a howling success from the standpoint of fun and oysters, at least. While the crowd was not large, we all had our full share of enjoyment, followed by a fuller share of oysters and other good things. Oliver Bell won a free plate of oysters by proving himself the best talker in the crowd and we all took part in composing a continued story that would have made Jules Verne blush for shame. At a late hour we all departed, voting the Gray's royal entertainers.

Last Sunday C. W. Noll closed his duties as teacher of the young peoples class in the Midvale Sunday school. The church presented him with a bible in appreciation of his untiring efforts toward the building up of both church and young people's society. He will be missed no less in other fields. Though an industrious man by nature he always found time for a cheerful word. The highest praise that can be given is the example that he has given the younger generation to follow.

Ida Items.

Messrs. Craig and Sharp attended a sale near Ord on Wednesday last week.

Mr. Carkoske has moved onto the Homer Thompson place which he recently purchased of Mr. Spaulding.

Maude Jackson visited in Burwell a couple of days last week.

Superintendent Jenkins of Garfield county Sundayed at Goodenow's.

Mr. Sharp made a business trip to Ord Monday.

Mrs. Craig and son Arthur attended an entertainment given by the Royal Neighbors of Burwell last Friday night.

The young people of the neighborhood met at the Goodenow home Tuesday evening and gave Miss Hennich a surprise.

We will save you 25 cents on a hundred pounds of flour by exchanging at the Ord Roller Mills. It is worth saving. We solicit your business. 35-ff.

SPRINGDALE DEPARTMENT

By G. R. MANN

Problem for Eighth Grade
It is 48 miles from North Loup to Grand Island and this distance is 1 mile less than seven times one fifty-fifth of the distance from Grand Island to Denver. How far is it from Grand Island to Denver?

The eighth grade physiology have completed a very interesting chapter on the brain.

Patrons, encourage your children to get a current event each day for general lessons.

Springdale has been contributing more than its usual share during the past few weeks. Being the last week of the school month of February, the pupils are enjoying the regular tests.

Jim Arnold caught another wolf Saturday morning. This makes his second victim this season.

The first grade reading completed their text in reading this week. They will take up another text soon.

Mrs. W. D. McRae's brother, Lon Virden from Colorado, arrived Saturday night. He will be a guest at his sister's home during his sojourn here.

Porter Long is busily engaged in moving his machinery and household possessions to the Will Stanton farm on Davis Creek this week.

The fourth and fifth grades have taken up the study of the continent of North America. Pupils in geography are always greatly interested in learning more about their own surroundings.

The Valley County Teachers' Association has been postponed until April 10. Several topics will be discussed at the school officers sections which will be of more than passing interest to patrons of Springdale. Plan to spend a half day at least with the pedagogues in Ord on that date. You will feel amply repaid.

On Saturday evening a republican caucus was held at Springdale for the township. The purpose of this meeting was to choose republicans to represent Springdale at the county convention which convened at Ord on Tuesday, March 3. The following looked after the interests of Springdale republicans at that meeting: S. N. Arnold, H. M. Timmerman, Chris Thompson and C. E. Timmerman.

The study of argiculture will be taken up by the eighth grade Monday. This subject can be made interesting if the experimental work is done. Lack of apparatus prevents performing all of the experiments. As an addendum to the class text bulletins from the state experiment station and from the department of agriculture will be discussed and practical supplementary work on them will be given. Circulars from the state experiment station at Lincoln have already arrived and the other circulars are expected soon. If the patrons desire any literature along argicultural lines the school would be more than pleased to supply your wants. Please consider this an invitation to one and all.

The school is manifesting considerable interest in the reading of the biography of David Farragut, one of our beloved naval heroes.

Ash Grove Valley.

About 25 friends and relatives of William Aldrich gathered at his home last Saturday evening for the purpose of giving him a birthday surprise. As he has had only one such event in four years the surprise was most complete. A fine watch chain was given him as a remembrance of the occasion. A bountiful supper was served at midnight after which the guests departed for their homes.

A brother of Mr. Aldrich is staying with him for the present. His home has been at Kansas City, Missouri, where he has followed the carpenter trade for several years. About a year ago he was taken with some kind of paralysis which affected the vocal organs and he is now unable to use his voice in any way.

Charlie Burdick's sale was well attended and although it seems as though every one would be supplied with hogs at previous sales, yet it was known that Charlie was holding some of the best and everything went at good prices. Charlie says he is well satisfied as the sale brought more than he expected.

The M. P. Calhoun family have gone to Burwell for a few weeks visit after which they expect to start for Michigan where they expect to spend most of the summer.

Dick Flynn is now master of ceremonies on the Calhoun ranch which he has rented for the coming season.

The season for farm work is almost here and everyone seems to be getting ready for an active campaign.

District 50.

It's a girl, and we now say hello Grandpa and Grandma Schoning, Mrs. Shoning will go to Grand Island this week to see the new baby and its mamma.

School is doing well in spite of severe colds and LaGrippe. It would surprise you to see the piles of lumber turned out by Brown, Bartz, Shoning, and Kriewald. Up in the pines, it would be no show, but in treeless Nebraska—Now let us all vote to plant a thousand trees for every one felled. It's the thing to do and don't you forget it.

You might as well order that gas stove installed at once and so be getting the benefits of cooking with gas. A gas stove is no luxury in winter—in summer it is a necessity.

Death Cases at .

At 12:15 yesterday morning, Wednesday, March 4, at his home in Grand Junction, Colorado, H. D. Coe passed away, a fate that had been looked forward to for some time with dread and fear by his people and with perfect resignation by himself.

Harvey D. Coe was born in Ohio 52 years ago, where his early days were spent, but long ago he came to Nebraska and lived in Saline county, much of the time at Swanton, where he was engaged in the lumber and banking business and later, on account of his health, lived on a farm for years. He was in this last pursuit when about six years ago, at the solicitation of the officers of the Crete bank, he came to Ord and took charge of their interests here in the Ord State Bank. He was a heavy stockholder in this institution and its president at the time of his death.

Two years ago his health failed him again and since then he has relinquished an active responsibility for the bank, and has been living most of the time since then in Colorado.

Though everything was done to save his life all efforts proved futile, and he has slowly declined until the end came. His wife and sons were with him at the last. He was the father of three children, Clarence, Fred, and a younger son who died in infancy at Swanton.

Mr. Coe endeared himself to the people of this and all communities where he has lived, and had the earnest sympathy and best wishes of all.

As Mrs. Coe and Fred desire to remain in the west it was decided to bury him there, which sad ceremony was performed this afternoon. In memory of the event the Ord State Bank was closed this afternoon from noon till four o'clock.

Notice of Sale Under Chattel Mortgage.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a chattel mortgage, dated on the 21st day of November, 1907, and duly filed in the office of the county clerk on the 22nd day of November, 1907, and executed by G. F. Browning to R. P. Peterson & Son to secure the payment of the sum of $850 and upon which there is now due the sum of $644.44 default having been made in the condition of the said mortgage and the undersigned, feeling and having ground to feel, unsatisfied and insecure, having declared the note secured thereby to be due and payable in accordance with the terms of the said mortgage, and no suit or other proceeding at law having been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof, therefore we, the undersigned, will sell the property therein described, to-wit: One 18 horse power vertical boiler; one 16 horse power vertical engine; one 20 foot smoke stack; two 50 shirt washers; one 20 inch extricator; one combined ironer; one 45 inch mangle; one office desk; electric fixtures in building used for laundry; one collar shaper; three ironing boards; one 30-foot shaft; four twelve-inch by one and seven-eighths inch hangers; belt; pulleys; piping and fixtures used in laundry purchased of the said R. P. Peterson & Son; one collar stacher; five shipping baskets; one Tyler or shirt finishing machine; one gasoline stove; six flat irons; two Tyler irons; one water meter and two stoves, all in Valley County, Nebraska at public auction at the laundry building on division "K" of block nineteen (19) of the original town site of Ord, Nebraska, on the twenty-seventh day of March, 1908, at two o'clock P. M. of said day.

Dated March 3rd, 1908.
R. P. Peterson & Son.

Five correct solutions have been received up to date for last week's problem. Parents encourage your children to measure their strength in a mathematical way from week to week by getting solutions for these practical problems.

Patrons, don't wait till the eleventh hour. Now is the time to have your child lay plans for taking that eighth grade examination. Will you not effectuate your responsibility in this line?

The school house pump has once again gone on a strike. The school board with their usual promptness has arranged for the repairing of the offending hydraulic machine.

Wanted—Every patron in the district who has children attending school to encourage home work. It lies within your power to do a great deal toward building up your school if you will but realize your opportunity.

Mike Dubas of Genoa and Mr. and Mrs. John Swireczk of Silver Creek returned home last Saturday morning. Mr. Dubas has been here for a fortnight visiting relatives, but the latter pair were here only three or four days and as they have a good many kinfolks here, they were on the road most of the time in their efforts to see them all. Mrs. Swireczk is a sister of Frank Dubas, who was at the train to see them off.

Mrs. Pearl Hather-Nay was in the city for a few days last week, returning to Central City Monday morning. She pleads guilty to charge of being married, but she will have to stay in Central City yet a few weeks to close up the millinery season at that place, while her husband is still at Cheyenne. After her engagement at Central City closes her home will be in Cheyenne.

Joe Pokorney, the first man at Joe Warwick's smithy, has been suffering for two weeks from a severe case of blood poisoning. The trouble had its genesis in a small scratch from a horseshoe nail and caused him no inconvenience for a few days, when the trouble began. He has had to have it lanced several times, and it is now much better so he has resumed sleeping of nights, but he is still unable to pound iron.

J. A. Ollis Jr. and Walter Johnson left yesterday morning for Omaha to help represent the populists at the state convention. They went over the Union Pacific, but H. M. Davis, representing the democrats, went over the Burlington in spite of the fact that he has transportation over the U. P. and had to pay cash for his ticket over the B. & M. This argues ill for harmony.

The Modern Woodmen and Royal Neighbors will put on a play at the opera house on the eleventh. The play is a comedy and it is said that the woodchoppers and their fraus will give you plenty of opportunity for a good laugh on that night. Tickets are now on sale at the usual places.

Tuesday Mr. C. E. Kemp went to work as cook for Hotel Ord. If he likes the place and the place likes him he may sign up for a year's service in that capacity. Kemp is a jolly good cook.

Ha, ha, the annual high school play will be given at the opera house by the Juniors on March 26. Get your tickets early.

J. A. Ollis Jr. has been appointed as superintendent of the horse exhibits at the Nebraska State Fair.

W. B. Keown was a passenger to Omaha yesterday morning.

George Gard went to Arcadia to make his regular monthly visit Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Anton Bartunek entertained the Somerset club last Friday evening.

Orin Mutter went to Comstock last Saturday morning to operate his photo car there for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Cass Cornell entertained a number of their friends at cards last Friday evening.

Don't forget the date that you are to see Barnes, the eye specialist at Hotel Ord, Tuesday March 10.

Miss Victoria Wisda came over from Comstock last Friday night to visit with her people for a week or so.

H. F. Hamilton finished up the business connected with his sale and returned home to Omaha last Saturday.

Barnes, the eye-sight specialist of Omaha, who has been traveling over this road for the last seven or eight years will be at Hotel Ord Tuesday, the tenth.

Friday night the dry folks will hold a caucus at the court house for the purpose of putting up a city ticket and transacting any other business they need to do connected with the spring election.

Henry VanSlyke and his two boys went to Grand Island last Saturday morning to meet Mrs. VanSlyke who was returning from the hospital at Kearney, where she had been for a month for treatment.

The Bohemian ball at the opera house Monday evening was a big success. The dancing part of the entertainment was preceded by a play which was put on in the Bohemian language and was greatly appreciated.

Charlie Masin is preparing to greatly enlarge his pop building by adding another building to the west of his present site about 18x38 feet in size. This will give him plenty of room to elbow around and take better care of his increasing business.

Miss Flossie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burney Weare, was married to Mr. M. P. Bird at Mitchell on the 25th of February.

The happy pair have gone on their wedding trip to Tennessee and Florida, and from there they will go to California, where their home will be for a year or so. Mr. Bird is foreman of a bridge gang and has work laid out for him for a year in California.

Peter Mortenson makes a suggestion which the Quiz is glad to second, which is that on Arbor Day every lady and school child plant a tree, or have one planted, on the road north and leading to the cemetery. This is her suggestion in the crude, and we believe it is worth consideration. Of course there should be an organization to the movement, at least in the matter of setting the tree in line and at proper distances. If this proposition meets with favor how would it be for the street commissioner to be master of ceremonies? and to be good and ready for the project let him have stakes set in line at proper intervals at which points trees may be set. Perhaps lot owners along the way will set to the planting of trees in front of their property, which would allow the planting by the public to be commenced at the north edge of town. Good kind of trees should be selected and they should not be too close together not nearer than two rods.

Editor Burgett of the Arcadia Champion was a pleasant caller at the Quiz office Monday. Mr. Burgett has recently purchased the plant from H. O. Cooley, several months of leasing the plant having convinced him that it was a money making proposition. Quiz readers will remember that in a ball game last summer Mr. Burgett broke his left arm and that member is still giving him considerable trouble. Several weeks were spent in taking treatment and undergoing a surgical operation in a hospital but the broken parts fail to knit together and he has but little use of that arm at this time. The Champion office will be equipped with some much needed machinery and under Mr. Burgett's personal management will give Arcadia a first class newspaper.

The Burlington never allows the Union Pacific to get the best of it in a retrograding movement hence it has cut the running days to its freight train down to four days a week to correspond to the same system established by the latter road. According to the present schedule the freights come in Monday, Tuesday Wednesday, and Friday. This arrangement may be changed however, by the time the Quiz gets to its subscribers as the program now changes quite frequently, but in the meantime if you are wanting any freight, and needing it in a hurry better go to the city with a horse and wagon and haul it out.

Monday night there was big doings at Burwell by the Odd Fellows and quite a number of our people who are members of the order were up there to join in the ceremony and have a good time generally. Grand Patriarch Purcell of Broken Bow was there and lead in the work. It took till morning for the work to be concluded and it was a sleepy crowd that returned home to Ord Tuesday morning. But if there are any who can keep a fellow awake and make him feel at home it is the very hospitable people of our sister town up the creek.

The B. & M. is now running freight trains regularly as follows: Westbound on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. East bound on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. If business warrants it they will run extras. The Union Pacific now run their regular freights as follows, adding extras as business demands: Both ways on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. This gives no trains out on either road on Thursdays and Saturdays.

This morning about sixteen Dergee of Honor ladies constituting the drill team of that in Ord went down to North Loup to put on the work and install officers of the lodge there. The Ord team is away up in the art and it is presumed that the North Loup Dergee of Honor folks will see some fine performance's. The ladies are very brave for they took along J. George Seiver to shield them from all harm.

One of these days you will be wanting some horse bills to advertise your stallion. We are better prepared than ever to attend to your wants in this line. We have all kinds of horse and mule cuts in stock and can undoubtedly satisfy you in that regard but if we have not just the cut you want we can secure one that is bound to please on a couple of day notice. Let us figure on your spring horse bills.

"The Girl from Tim's Place" is the title of the new serial story that will commence its first issue in these columns next week. The story is a strong one and one that we believe will be read with interest by our subscribers.

J. J. Sargent is planning a trip to Texas in a week or so to look at that country.

F. H. Eastburn of Mira Valley left Saturday for Petersburg, Nebr., to visit friends and relatives.

Miss Addie Fuson went down to Scotia Saturday morning; George Auble being her guardian on the way.

Don't forget that the Ord high school declamatory and debating contest will be held on March 12 at the opera house.

By a typographical error we made the date of the Collision Brothers' sale too late. The correct date is one week from today—the 12th.

Frank McMullen and wife visited friends in Scotia several days the first of the week returning Monday evening.

Jennie Daggett returned from Lexington Tuesday evening where she has been working in a telephone office.

Frank Vodehnal reports making $275 from the sale of eggs from his hen yards last year. It is amazing what the net result of the despized hen's labors are.

There was not a very large crowd at the republican caucus last Saturday evening but enough of the faithful turned out from which to select delegates to attend the county convention Monday.

Have you seen those lovely street and dress hats in Ladies', Misses' and Children's that are being displayed at Mamie Siler's store. They are stylish and up-to-date and prices right. I also have a fine line of caps and baby bonnets. I extend an invitation to the public to call and see styles that are correct, and the prices are the lowest.

The Republican Convention.
There was not much for the republicans to do at the county convention this year and no contest over doing that so there was not a large delegation present. But in spite of this the townships were pretty well represented.

North Loup, for the first time in the history of republicanism in Valley, was not on hand at the time for calling the convention to order, but as word was received that a delegate was on the way a little wait was made to let him show up. A barbecue in honor of the opening of the creamery was the occasion for this absence. Babcock and Smith were the men selected to forego the feast and finally made his appearance.

M. L. Fries was selected as chairman and W. W. Haskell secretary. On motion the chairman appointed the following committee on resolutions. Peter Mortensen, A. H. Babcock, George Hastings, and W. W. Haskell, to which on motion the chairman was added.

An adjournment was taken for the committee to prepare a set of resolutions, which was done by the committee in one corner of the room. Following is their report:

We, the republicans of Valley county in convention assembled, do hereby resolve, That we heartily endorse the fearless and successful administration of our peerless president, Theodore Roosevelt, and, if possible, we would gladly lend our support to his re-election.

That we commend the administration of Governor Sheldon, and the public service of our republican congressional delegation.

That we favor the election of representative men not now holding any high office in state or nation, as delegates to the republican national convention.

That we believe William H. Taft would be a worthy successor to President Roosevelt, but we leave our delegates to the state and congressional conventions free to vote as they deem wise for a presidential candidate.

The resolutions were adopted without a dissenting vote.

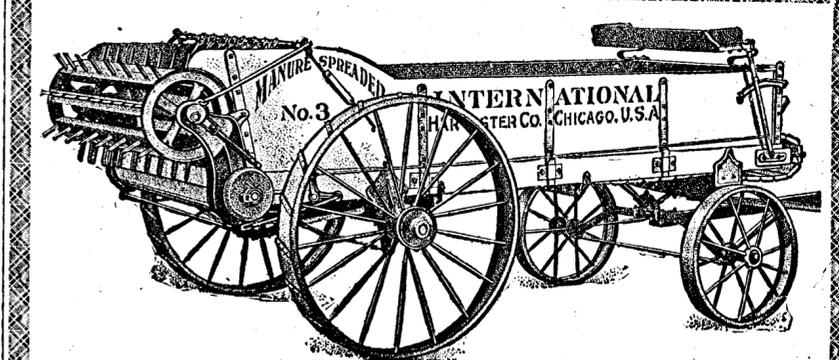

The following were elected, as delegates to the state convention: Alvin Blessing, J. H. Carson, G. H. Kinsey, M. L. Fries, W. H. Rood, W. E. Gowen, Fred Strathdee and W. W. Haskell.

On motion this delegation was made the delegation to the congressional convention, which meets at the same time and place as the state convention, namely March 12, at Omaha.

Chairman Fries then announced that this would probably be the last political convention held in Valley county unless the election laws were changed. Thereupon the convention adjourned.

The Woodman Play.

With an eye to the future, Queen Alexandra attended last spring's annual Mansion House fetes in London, and because of that auspicious fact there is a tale to tell—and worth the while. One of the diminutive flower maidens was both pretty and plump, and when her majesty stopped for an instant to smile down upon her, what did she do but put up her wee (and tempting) mouth for a kiss, which she received.

Removing Bruises from Furniture. If the bruise is slight, soak the place in warm water, and hold a red hot poker near the surface of the wood, keeping it constantly wet until the bruise disappears. This will occur in a few moments. If the bruise is large, an actual dent, wet the place with warm water as before directed. Then take a piece of brown paper, fold it six or seven times, soak in warm water and place over the spot. Against the paper place a hot flat-iron, keeping it there until the moisture has evaporated.

As a rule it is no easy matter to hem a veil, as the flimsy ends have a most provoking way of slipping out of the fingers and from under the needle. It is really easy, however, if done in this manner: Baste an inch hem in each end of the veil and then baste a piece of paper under the hems. When this is done, stitch the hems on the sewing machine through the paper. The paper then may be carefully torn off. The veil should be pressed with a warm iron and special attention given to the hems.

Hot Ham Sandwiches. A housewife who was tired of serving cold sliced ham advises other people to try hot ham sandwiches. "Cut thin slices of white bread and spread half of them with soft butter and the remaining half with finely chopped ham," said she. "Press the slices together and remove the crust. Beat one egg slightly, add one-half cup milk and strain over the sandwiches. When moistened place them in a hot frying pan with two level tablespoons of butter. Brown on both sides and serve at once."

Open Peach Pie. Line a rather deep pie plate with a layer of good crust, made in the proportion of one-half cup shortening to one cup pastry flour, a saltspoonful of salt and a third or less of a cup of ice water. Bake the crust for a lemon pie. Fill with fresh peaches, sweetened and cover thickly with whipped sweetened cream. Some good cooks advise the addition of a little apple marmalade to the peaches, holding that the combination of flavors is pleasing.

"Kitchen Minded." "Kitchen minded" is an epithet applied to women who are too much engrossed with domestic affairs. The word is evidently meant as a reproach. No doubt there are women who give too much time to the kitchen, as there are others who give too little. Who will undertake to decide just how much time is enough? That a woman should grow to like the place in which she passes most of her time is not strange. She might become parlor-minded; but many, like George Eliot, enjoy a clean kitchen best of all.

Apple Ketchup. Stew the apples and strain them, use them instead of tomatoes with the same spices, onions, celery, cinnamon, red pepper, cloves, salt and vinegar. In making ketchup make use of every bit of jelly or preserves of any kind.

Prevent Chipped China. Cut about one inch of ordinary rubber garden hose and ally over the end of the faucets in the kitchen sink. It will prevent many a nick in beloved china.

Filling for Fancy Pin Cushions. Always a new wrinkle comes to the young woman of "faculty" who knows how to do everything the nicest and easiest way. Rice, she says, makes the best possible filling for a fancy pin cushion, as it holds its shape well and takes the pins easily.

Boiled Cider Sauce. Beat one egg yolk in sauce pan over boiling water, add one tablespoon of brown sugar, beat, then add three-fourths cup of nice boiled cider. Continue beating until smooth and foamy.

With an eye to the future, Queen Alexandra attended last spring's annual Mansion House fetes in London, and because of that auspicious fact there is a tale to tell—and worth the while. One of the diminutive flower maidens was both pretty and plump, and when her majesty stopped for an instant to smile down upon her, what did she do but put up her wee (and tempting) mouth for a kiss, which she received.

Hog Cholera. The greatest drawback to the hog industry which breeders in this country have to contend with is what is known as "hog cholera" and "swine plague."

Mr. A. P. Williams, of Burnetts Creek, Ind., tells of an experience which he had with some hogs that had the cholera. "Five years ago," says Mr. Williams, "I was in the employ of Mr. J. D. Richardson, Lafayette, Ind., as his barn foreman. Some fine hogs that I was feeding took the cholera. I gave them Sloan's Lincthine and did not lose a hog. Some were so bad they would not drink sweet milk and I was compelled to drench them. I have tried it at every opportunity since and always find it O. K."

Sunday School Lessons for the World. A power greater than that of kings seems to have been wielded by the little group of thoughtful men who gathered at the Fenway residence of W. N. Hartshorn to select the lessons for the Sunday schools of the world, says the Boston Herald. Every year they gather to make this choice, and when a decision has been reached the lessons are handed out to the printers and by them literally scattered over the planet. The word thus goes forth not in one but in scores of languages. Europe and Africa, east and west, north and south, get these helps to religious study in the vernacular. There is a supply for Hawaii, Japan and the islands of the sea. For India alone 40 dialects have to be provided for. Some 500,000,000 Sunday school leaflets are thus distributed every year.

OLD SURGEON Found Coffee Caused Hands to Tremble. The surgeon's duties require clear judgment and a steady hand. A slip or an unnecessary incision may do irreparable damage to the patient.

When he found that coffee drinking caused his hands to tremble, an ill-surgeon conscientiously gave it up and this is his story. "For years I was a coffee drinker until my nervous system was nearly broken down, my hands trembled so I could hardly write, and insomnia tortured me at night. "Besides, how could I safely perform operations with unsteady hands, using knives and instruments of precision? When I saw plainly the bad effects of coffee, I decided to stop it, and three years ago I prepared some Postum, of which I had received a sample. "The first cupful surprised me. It was mild, soothing, delicious. At this time I gave some Postum to a friend who was in a similar condition to mine, from the use of coffee. "A few days after, I met him and he was full of praise for Postum, declaring he would never return to coffee but stick to Postum. We then ordered a full supply and within a short time my nervousness and consequent trembling, as well as insomnia, disappeared, blood circulation became normal, no dizziness nor heat flashes. "My friend became a Postum enthusiast, his whole family using it exclusively. "It would be the fault of the one who brewed the Postum, if it did not taste good when served. "The best food may be spoiled if not properly made. Postum should be boiled according to directions on the pkg. Then it is all right, anyone can rely on it. It ought to become the national drink." Senator Delivers Gift to Chinaman favor, possible to bestow that a gift be taken to him.

WASHINGTON. — Senator W. J. Stone the other day journeyed out to the Providence hospital, near here, where, after long search, he located the cot of a Chinaman to whom the senator presented a packet Mrs. Stone had brought from Manila. The Chinaman is L. Ah Maw, valet to Admiral Dewey, and the packet was a remembrance to Mrs. Maw from a brother. The gift was entrusted to Mrs. Stone at Manila, who promised that it should reach the proper hands in Washington.

Senator and Mrs. Stone were in Manila last fall. During their stay the Chinaman served as their particular attendant and was so zealous in his efforts to please that the Missouri senator and his wife came to like him very much. When the American party started upon their return to the United States, their Chinaman confided the fact that he had a brother in Washington, and wished, as the greatest

God to Be Restored to Nation's Coins

The responsibility for the omission was placed at the door of President Roosevelt, for only through an executive order can a change be made in designs for coins. This responsibility the president readily assumed, but when adverse criticism began to come from all quarters of the country and religious and patriotic societies took up the matter, he decided to issue a statement setting forth his reasons for the action.

In this statement the president said there was no warrant of law for the inscription. Also he said that his own feeling in the matter was due to his "very firm conviction that to put such a motto on coins, or to use it in any kind of manner, not only does no good, but does positive harm, and is in effect irreverence which comes dangerously close to sacrilege."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, it causes a rumbling sound in the ears, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of the tube, and the mucous membrane be restored to its normal condition, the hearing cannot be restored. Wonderful Phraseology.
A party of American tourists who were comfortably established in a hotel in Germany discovered a new contribution to "English as she is spoke," only this time they found it in the written word. The building had been recently wired for electricity and under the bulbs in each room directions were posted in French, German and English. The French was irreproachable, the German nearly so. The English read as follows: "To open and shut the lightning electrical on, is requested to turn to the right hand. On going to bed it must be closed. Otherwise the lightning must be paid."

LOST TEMPER WAS COSTLY

Post Banker Threw Away and Bought Back His Own Property.

Edmund Clarence Stedman, the poet, had a high temper and was exceedingly sensitive. One day, exasperated by the crass stupidity of a servant, he threw a book at his head. The book struck the servant on the forehead, but he was not hurt; a passerby had picked it up and walked off with it. Stedman began to wonder what book he had thrown away, and to his horror discovered that it was a quaint and rare little volume for which he had paid $50. His chagrin was intense, as the work was almost unique and the prospects of replacing it were remote.

Some time afterward, when browsing in a second-hand book shop, our splenetic poet banker perceived to his great delight a copy of the very book he had lost. He asked the price. "It's very rare," replied the dealer, "but as you are an old customer I'll let you have it for $40; nobody else could have it for less than $60." Stedman gladly paid the $40, got home with his treasure as soon as possible, and sat down to glaze over it. A card dropped out of the leaves. It was his own. Further examination showed that he had bought back his property. It cured him of casting books at servants' heads.—New York Press.

HUGE MAMMOTHS ENCASED IN ICE

Found in Siberia in State of Complete Preservation—Rise and Spread of This Prehistoric Monster—Roamed in Great Herds in Northern Latitudes, Including North America—Tusks Found in Great Quantities.

BY G. FREDERICK WRIGHT, A. M., LL. D.

(Author of "Ice Age in North America," "Man and the Glacial Period," "Asiatic Russia," etc.)
(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

The mammoth is an extinct species of elephant which was formerly spread all over Europe, northern Asia and North America as far north as Mexico. In size he was somewhat larger than the elephant. "Whereas Jumbo stood 11 feet high, the mammoth stood 13 feet in the museum in the Kellogg Academy of Sciences stands 13 feet as mounted, which would make him some 14 feet high when alive. The tusks of the mammoth were enormous. Those of one found in Texas, and now mounted in the American Museum of Natural History in New York city, measured 13 feet and 10 inches, and would weigh 200 pounds apiece. The mammoth had a trunk like the elephant and was covered with three tufts of hair—the largest consisting of rough black bristles 18 inches in length, the next a coat of close-set hair from nine to ten inches long, and underneath all a soft, reddish wool, about five inches long, forming a covering which would shed water, and enabling the animal to stand any amount of cold.

At the present time the elephant is limited to southern Asia and to central and southern Africa. The Asiatic species, however, differs in many respects from the African. The African elephant has much larger ears than the Asiatic; so that they completely cover the shoulder when thrown back, sometimes being 3 1/2 feet long and 2 1/2 wide. Its teeth are also different from those of the Asiatic species, and its tusks heavier. But in both cases the tusks are much smaller than are those of the mammoth.

The elephant first appeared in the middle Tertiary deposits of northern India. From that center, still occupied by the species, it seems to have spread outward to the limits of the northern hemisphere. In the later Tertiary period a species is found fossil throughout Europe, while still later the species known as the mammoth, or, in technical terms, elephants primigenius, was, as already said, spread in great numbers over northern Asia and North America as far south as the Gulf of Mexico, and all over Europe north of the Mediterranean. In these regions he survived the glacial period, and lingered until some time after the advent of man.

In Siberia the mammoth wandered down the valleys of all the large rivers running into the Arctic ocean, where so many of them left their carcasses that for centuries their tusks have formed a most important export to the ivory markets of the world. During the years 1872-73 as many as 2,770 mammoth tusks, weighing from 140 to 160 pounds each, making a total of 200 tons, were entered at the London docks. Up to the present time the ivory hunters in northern Siberia come back heavily laden with this valuable material, and it forms a constant means of barter with China. The long strings of camels which carry tea from China across the desert of Gobi to Siberia return laden in no small degree with fresh mammoth tusks, brought up from the mouth of the Yenisei, the Lena and the Indigirka river.

One of the most remarkable facts concerning the distribution of the mammoth is brought to light in the discovery of their skeletons in great numbers upon the New Siberian islands, far out beyond the mouth of the Lena river, and of similar discoveries on the Pribilof Islands in Bering sea. On the shores of Alaska north of the Yukon river the bones of the mammoth are very numerous in the frozen soil. So fresh are the remains that, as the sun thaws them out on exposure, the air is tainted with the odor of decaying flesh.

The remains of the mammoth are found chiefly in post-glacial deposits. They occur in the post-glacial river gravels all over the north temperate zone, and beneath the deposits of loess (which are connected with the close of the glacial period) in the Missouri valley. But the situation in which they most frequently occur is in peat bogs, where they seem to have been mired soon after the glacial period, and slowly enveloped with the accumulating vegetable and earthy deposits. Usually the bones are considerably scattered, so that a good deal of digging has to be done to get all the parts. In Siberia they are found in complete preservation in the ice and frozen soil that cover the northern portion of that vast area. In 1803 Mr. Adams found an entire carcass so perfectly preserved that the flesh when thawed out was eagerly devoured by wolves and bears. This skeleton, with portions of the skin and ligaments, is now mounted in the museum of St. Petersburg. It is nine feet high and 16 feet long.

In 1846 a young Russian engineer named Benkenдорф saw one of these huge animals just as it was uncovered in the frozen bank of the Indigirka river during a flood. In its stomach were chewed fragments of the shoots and cones of fir and pine trees, showing upon what the animal lived. So vivid is his description that it is worth while to reproduce it.

"Picture to yourself an elephant with a body covered with thick fur, about 13 feet in height and 15 in length, with tusks eight feet long, thick, and curving outward at their ends, a stout trunk of six feet in length, colossal limbs of 1 1/2 feet in thickness, and a tall, naked up to the end, which was covered with thick tufty hair. The animal was fat, and well grown; death had overtaken him in the fullness of his powers. His parchment-like, large, naked ears lay turned up over his head; about the shoulders and the back he had stiff hair, about a foot in length, like a mane. The long outer hair was deep brown, and coarsely rooted. The top of the head looked so wild and so penetrated with pitch that it resembled the rind of an oak tree. On the sides it was cleaner, and under the outer hair there appeared everywhere a wool, very soft, warm and thick, and of a fallow-brown color. The giant was well protected against the cold.

"The whole appearance of the animal was fearfully strange and wild. It had not the shape of our present elephants. As compared with our Indian elephants, its head was rough, the brain base low and narrow, but the trunk and mouth were much larger. The teeth were very powerful. Our elephant is an awkward animal, but compared with this mammoth it is an Arabian steed to a coarse, ugly dray horse. I could not divest myself of a feeling of fear as I approached the head; the broken, widely open eyes gave the animal an appearance of life, as though it might move in a moment and destroy us with a roar. . . . The bad smell of the body warned us that it was time to save what we could, and the swelling flood, too, bade us hasten. . . . But I had the stomach separated and brought on one side. It was well filled, and the contents instructive and well preserved. The principal were young shoots of the fir and pine; a quantity of young fir cones, also in a chewed state, were mixed with the moss."

Still more recently, even as late as 1902, a complete skeleton was found on the banks of the Beresovka river in northeastern Siberia. The entire skeleton as well as the skeleton of this has been brought to St. Petersburg, and after being stuffed has been erected in the position in which it was found. Evidently the animal was browsing on the bank of a frozen precipice, where the footing was more insecure than he supposed. While he was stretching out for a tempting morsel of herbaceous foundation gave away beneath him and he slid backward, landing in a position from which he could not extricate himself, and was there buried by fresh avalanches from the precipice and by the accumulation of sediment from the stream and frozen up for preservation.

The fresh condition of these skeletons in Siberia and Alaska, together with the occurrence of skeletons in connection with flint instruments, gives evidence that the animal continued to survive after the advent of man, so as to be for some time a contemporary of the human race on both continents, points to the recent extinction of the animal, and raises the very interesting question as to what causes could have led to this result.

Evidence that man and the mammoth were for a considerable time contemporaries comes from various quarters. In Siberia 12 feet below the surface of a cliff which stands 136 feet above the present level of the River Obi, a skeleton of a mammoth was found, associated with numerous flint implements, indicating the presence of man, while the large bones of the animal were split in the usual way of the savages for extracting the marrow.

In numerous places in Europe the bones of the animal have been found both in the river gravel and in caves associated in a similar manner with flint implements, while the picture of the mammoth carved upon a piece of ivory in prehistoric times, found in a cave of Madeleine, Perigord, France, is so lifelike that it must have been made by one who was familiar with the animal. In Wisconsin one of the mounds of the mound builders so perfectly represents the elephant that it is hardly possible to doubt the familiarity of the builders with this animal.

Law Against Bribery in China. The new draft criminal code of China contains stipulations against bribery, in which it is mentioned that any official who receives a bribe above 1,000 taels will be cashiered, and any who will receive above 5,000 taels, and, therefore, favors the person who bribes against the laws will be cashiered and banished to a military post-road with hard labor, and any who receive more than 10,000 taels, and favors the person who gives bribes against the laws, will be punished with death, and those who send bribes will be punished similarly.—Shanghai Mercury.

De 'devil say: 'Looky yere, Job, you in my power, now, an' I gwine ter 'flict you wid a few billes.' An' Job say: 'All right; I kin stan' it ef you kin.' But de billes commence ter break out so thick an' fas' dat Job say: 'Looky yere, man, dese ain't no billes—dis de smallpox, sho' ez you bo'n.' An' he etch and etch so dat he had ter scratch hisself wid a goat's hair. Den de devil git in a high win' and blow down Job's house; an' dat wuz too much. So ' Job lif' up his voice an' he say: 'Looky yere, I bargain fer billes, but I didn't want no hurricane 'throv'in fer good measure.'"—Atlanta Constitution.

CURED HER CHILDREN.

Girls Suffered with Itching Eczema—Baby Had a Tender Skin, Too—Relied on Cuticura Remedies.

"Some years ago my three little girls had a very bad form of eczema. Itching eruptions formed on the backs of their heads which were simply covered. I tried almost everything, but failed. Then my mother recommended the Cuticura Remedies. I washed my children's heads with Cuticura Soap and then applied the wonderful ointment, Cuticura. I did this four or five times and I can say that they have been entirely cured. I have another baby who is so plump that the folds of skin on his neck were broken and even bled. I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and the next morning the trouble had disappeared. Mme. Napoleon Dupepe, 41 Duluth St., Montreal, Que., May 21, 1907."

The "Patrol" Wagon.

The telephone in police headquarters rang. "Is this the police station?" inquired a woman's voice. "It is," said C. E. McVey, the desk sergeant. "Well, I wish you all'd send the patrol wagon over to Fourth and Oak streets right away. Ole Bill's got drunk again and he's just raising Cain. And say," the voice added, "if you all don't send that wagon mighty quick you all might as well send a hearse, 'cause 'I'm goin' to hit that fool nigger in a minute.'"

The wagon made a "hurry" run, but returned empty a few minutes later. The driver reported that he could find no trouble.—Kansas City Star.

Billion Dollar Grass.

Most remarkable grass of the century. Good for three mowings annually. One Iowa farmer on 100 acres sold $3,800.00 worth of seed, and had 300 tons of hay besides. It is immense. Do try it.

For 10c send this notice to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., to pay postage, etc., and they will mail you the only original seed catalog published in America, with samples of Billion Dollar Grass, Macaroni Wheat, the sly miller mixer, Sainfoin, the dry soil luxuriator, Victoria Rape, the 20c ton green food product, Silver King Barley yielding 173 bu. per acre, etc., etc.

And if you send 14c we will add a package of new farm seed never before sent by you John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., K. & W.

Similar Result.

There are certain delicate shades of expression of which a Frenchman is, as a rule, past master. One member of that fluent nation, stranded in New York, was setting forth his troubles to a lawyer.

"I understand from what you say that you are convinced your friend Lecomte has stolen your purse," said the lawyer.

"No, no, monsieur, not so fast!" cried his client. "I only say that if Lecomte had not assisted me to hunt for it I should have found it again."—Youth's Companion.

WINTER WHEAT CROP

HE REALIZED $38 PER ACRE. HIS OATS $37 PER ACRE IN SOUTHERN ALBERTA, WESTERN CANADA.

Coaldale, Alta., Can., Nov. 19, 1907. Sir: I beg to say that this year we had 349 acres of grain, consisting of 197 acres of spring wheat and 152 acres of oats. The average yield of wheat was 38 bushels per acre and oats 74 bushels. We were offered $1.00 per bushel for wheat and 50 cents for oats, making the acre values for the two crops $38.00 and $37.00 respectively.

We also had 50 tons of hay worth $13.00 per ton, and 500 bushels of potatoes, worth 60 cents per bushel, the latter of 2 1/2 acres of ground.

Our best yields this year were 107 acres of wheat, making 41 bushels per acre at $1.00 per bushel, would be $41.00 per acre; 47 acres of oats, yielding 95 bushels per acre were sold for 50 cents per bushel. Proceeds, $47.00 per acre.

I might add that 50 acres of our oats were "stubbled in."

During the spring of 1906, we hired about 300 acres broken by steam. We put in and harvested 55 acres of grain last year, did the remainder of our breaking, worked up the ground and seeded this year's entire crop; put in seven acres of alfalfa and five acres of garden potatoes, trees, etc., all with one four-horse team. During harvest we hired other teams, but aside from this, and part of the breaking, the one team did the work of raising practically 19,000 bushels of grain, worth $12,000.

Yours truly, W. H. PAWSON, JR.

WINTER WHEAT 25 TO 30 BUSHELS TO THE ACRE IN SOUTHERN ALBERTA.

Warner, Alta., Canada, Jan. 9, 1908. Dear Sir: This is the first year of farming in this settlement. Mr. A. L. Warner raised twenty-five hundred and fifteen bushels of fine winter wheat on one hundred acres of breaking and Tenny brothers had sixty acres that went thirty bushels per acre. The winter wheat that is in this year looks fine.

Spring wheat here went thirty bushels per acre, oats fifty to eighty, barley fifty, and flax ten to fifteen on sod.

The settlers here are all well pleased with the country. The stock have not required any feed except the grass up to this date and are all fat.

Yours truly, F. S. LEFFINGWELL.

Damage Done by Rats.

"The western farmer is waking up to a realization of the fact that he is, as the agricultural department told him some time ago, losing not less than $100,000,000 a year from rats," says J. H. Van Burden, a Milwaukee grain merchant. "It costs about 50 cents a year to feed a rat. We know this because we have boxed them up and fed them as much grain as they would eat for a year. It is a conservative estimate to place our rat population at 150,000,000. About one-third of them live in the large cities, where they do not get so much grain."

After suffering for seven years, this woman was restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Read her letter.

Mrs. Sallie French of Faucaunla, Ind. Ter., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I had female troubles for seven years—was all run-down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different troubles but did me no good. While in this condition I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am now strong and well."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Don't hesitate to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about your sickness you do not understand. She will treat you as a sister, and advise you free. No woman ever regretted writing her, and because of her vast experience she has helped thousands. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Our Washington Letter

Whatever differences of opinion may exist, in or out of congress in reference to most of the president's policies, his demand for the conservation of the country's natural resources finds no opponents and is steadily attracting more widespread public attention and support. As the date of the president's conference with the governors of the states on this subject approaches, writers and speakers are giving more and more attention to various phases of the question. Appleton's magazine has started out to arouse the public mind to the gravity of the situation and in its March number publishes some striking facts in reference to the rapid exhaustion of national resources. According to the statistics given in this article, the timber supply of the country will be exhausted at the present rate of consumption in from 23 to 33 years, the coal resources will be used up inside of a century, a billion tons of valuable soil are being washed away yearly by floods in the rivers, largely caused by the denudation of forest areas, and the productive power of farming lands is being decreased by improper methods of tillage. The remedy proposed by the Appleton article for this rapid depletion of the wealth-producing sources of the nation is to interest the women of the country in the subject so that they shall impress the importance of conserving America's natural resources upon their husbands and particularly upon their children, to the end that a more farsighted policy be adopted in dealing with this question. Predictions as to when the sun's heat will give out or Niagara run dry usually attract little attention because the dates are so far in the future, but if all the available timber in the country is likely to be used up within the next 25 years it probably will not be difficult to convince most persons that it is high time to put an end to forest waste.

A novel innovation will be made in army circles, if the plan put forward by a French modist who is at present in Washington wins enough friends in the war establishment to bring about the appropriation of moneys to make it possible. The visitor called on Surgeon General O'Reilly this week to explain to him the advantages which would be obtained by having army officers, and indeed, the enlisted men as well, wear the new corset for men which she has designed. The surgeon general unfortunately happened to be out, but his assistant, Major Ireland, was there and the charming Parisian corsetiere told him all about her wonderful corset and how many officers wearing one would have no trouble in enduring the ninety-mile horse back ride which President Roosevelt has prescribed. She was even armed with samples, some with dainty rosettes of baby blue ribbon on each shoulder, others with red, and still others with little knots of blue, and green, and laven-der, and she offered to let Major Ireland try them on, just to satisfy himself how comfortable they were. The Major was content, however to look them over, externally as it were, and hear the Madame describe the physical charm and perfection which surely would come to the wearers. He assured her that the surgeon general's office would take the matter under advisement. It is believed that even if the department doesn't officially adopt the new stays, not a few of the corpulent desk warriors, who fear retirement because of their inability to "mount and ride" at the president's order, will be fitted privately, for one of the Madame's strong claims for her invention is that its use will prevent and cure obesity.

Congress is receiving petitions and memorials from farmers' organizations and commercial bodies, protesting at the attempt of certain interests which are seeking to restrict their markets, and thus lower prices, by means of legislation making it illegal to buy and sell for future delivery, grain, cotton and produce on established exchanges. Several bills to its effect have been introduced both in the senate and the house and are now being considered in committee. While their avowed object is to stop speculation, they would in effect, overturn in a moment, say the petitions, the development of fifty years by which the producers of grain and other staples are now able to sell to a world market. The subject is in reality an old one, and has been passed upon by the supreme court of the United States, which held that "future contracts on the board of trade are not gambling transactions." This decision which is frequently referred to, epitomizes the situation in the following terse words: "Of course, in a modern market contracts are not confined to sales for immediate delivery. People will endeavor to forecast the future and to make arrangements according to their prophecy. Speculation of this kind by competent men is the self-adjustment of society to the probable. Its value is well known as a means of avoiding or mitigating catastrophes, equalizing prices and providing for periods of want. It is true that the success of the strong induces imitation by the weak, and that incompetent persons bring themselves to ruin by undertaking to speculate in their turn. But legislatures and courts generally have recognized that the natural evolutions of a society are to be touched with only a very cautious hand, and that such course attempts at a remedy for the waste incident to every social function as a simple prohibition and laws to stop its being harmful and vain."

HOW HE HAS MADE A SUCCESS

L. T. Cooper Tells Chicago Reporter Why He Accomplishes So Much.

No man in recent years has been more successful in restoring human health than L. T. Cooper. During his stay in Chicago, days while he was meeting thousands of people daily, he gave the following reason for the remarkable demand for his medicine to a reporter:

Mr. Cooper said: "My New Discovery is successful because it corrects the stomach. My theory is that few can be sick if the digestive apparatus is working properly. It naturally follows that few can be well with a poor digestion."

"I know from experience that most of the tired, half-sick people that get so common now, have half-sick stomachs. Put the stomach in shape, and nature does the rest. The result is general good health. My medicine does this. That is why fifty thousand people here in Chicago are using it who never heard of me until a month ago."

Among the fifty thousand mentioned by Mr. Cooper who used his medicine in Chicago is Mrs. Hilda Pfeuffer, living at 1203 Ainslie Avenue. This is the statement she makes concerning her experience with the medicine: "I have been sick for six years with stomach trouble. I was always hungry, but did not dare to eat much, as I had severe pains in my stomach, and also through my body. I could not sleep at night and was very restless. I was also very nervous, and would have severe headaches. I was constipated, and always felt bloated after eating."

"I had tried many remedies, but could secure no relief, until one day I noticed in the newspapers what wonderful results Cooper's medicines were accomplishing in Chicago. I decided to try them, and shortly after commencing the treatment I began to feel better. I did not have those severe pains in my stomach, and I could sleep at night; my appetite improved, and I can now eat well. I am feeling like a new woman."

"I am very thankful to Mr. Cooper for what his remedies have done for me. They have restored me to good health, and I would advise any one who suffers as I did to try them."

We sell the Cooper medicines. They are easily the most celebrated preparations ever introduced in this country, growing in popularity daily. —Jas. T. Johnson.

Santa Lucia.

Mexico is essentially a land of vast mountains and generally broad valleys between, and here we are at Balsas in among the range of the Sierra Madre. It was the wealth of Mexico in her mines of gold and silver that proved the undoing of the Aztecs in the fifteenth century by Cortez and his Spanish followers. Ever since, Mexico has had her tales of fabulous wealth in her mines and really it is today the great source of her wealth. Our train brought down a carload of coke and in the twilight we went out and watched the Indians load it on flat boats to be floated seventy-five miles down the Balsas river and from there it goes by way of burro train some eighty miles into the mountains to be used at a smelter owned by a mining company, and the ore is of such value even after this great expense that enormous profits are derived.

This Balsas river is a very swift mountain river and there is only in places room for a trail between the river and the mountains on each side.

The railroad ends at the river Balsas abruptly and as it were up against a mountain and it would look like the next move in the extension would be a tunnel into the mountains. However the river here comes down with a sharp turn from the east but we climb down close to the river edge and pass by a trail strewn with immense boulders among which we wind in and out and up on the bank of the noisy, rushing stream to the object of our expedition, the Santa Lucia mine.

Something less than a year since a party of Nebraska people were down in this section and in the way of an investment bought this mine. At the time it was not much more than a prospect but the amount of work that has since been done has changed all that. The owners have proceeded in the development in a truly systematic way and now can show great results for the money expended.

In as brief and simple way as I can I will try and describe it as I saw it and any other member of the party is referred to as to the conditions as I saw them when we were there.

The property owned by the Santa Lucia company lies both sides of the river Balsas and is a tract of land over three thousand feet in length and 1600 feet in width. The mountains rise within about ten rods of the river quite abruptly to from six hundred to a thousand feet in height. Here on the side of the mountain and back from the river some two thousand feet is the out crop of the lode which first attracted the attention of the original prospector. I went up on the mountain where the first prospect work was done and traced the out crop along the slope of the mountain for several hundred feet and in my explorations noted the white monuments set as required by the Mexican law showing boundary lines. The out crop certainly shows up fine and one can have no doubt but the lode is a very extensive one. And now to the mine as it now appears. Work was begun on the out crop at the top of the lode some four hundred feet up the side of the mountains. A shaft was sunk on the lode here to a depth of one hundred feet and then a drift was run into the side of the mountain at that level and the vein of ore as cross cut here and at this depth is fifteen feet in width. Here drifting was begun on the lode each way east and west for several hundred feet. The shaft was continued on down also another hundred feet in depth and another tunnel was run in at this two hundred foot level and cross cut the lode and here it was twenty-five feet across the lode. Drifting east and west was again carried out as at the hundred foot level and for a length each way of some four hundred feet. The shaft was continued on down another hundred feet and still another tunnel run in the side of the mountain and a third cross cut made on the lode and at this depth the lode is forty-three feet in width and drifting on the lode east and west has been carried some eight hundred feet. At the present time the shaft is being continued on down and is now near three hundred and fifty feet down and from all indications increases in width and values all the way down. The ore is in the form of sulphurets and has a large per cent of iron in it and runs from five to fifty dollars in gold to the ton besides a per cent of copper and other minerals. We passed through the mine examined it in all its details from top to bottom measured the width of lode stepped the length of the drifts and all we had been told was confirmed and then some.

The mine is located in an ideal spot for ease of handling the ore as it can mostly be done by gravity and many thousand tons of ore lie on the side of the mountain as it has been brought and dumped to get it out of the way as at present there is no method of working up the ore and getting the values out of it. That is the question which is up to the company who owns the mine at present and what they wish to do now is to put in a smelter and extend the railroad from the town to the mine, one and one half miles and then their troubles will be over. Experienced engineers say the ore can be worked at a cost not to exceed three and one half dollars per ton from the mine to the finished value. The average of the ore so far from top to the present depth of three hundred and fifty feet is in gold about fifteen dollars per ton. Of course the rule holds good in all mining the greater the depth, the greater the value in the ore and so the present shaft will be sunk to a depth of two thousand feet with cross cuts each hundred feet deeper down to cross cut the vein, ascertain its width and also drift on the lode each way and thus block the ore out in a way it may be easily got at and raised to the top of the shaft. The ore now in sight is about as follows. An average width of lode at the present depth is about thirty feet and on length of lode so far drifted on, eight hundred feet. A simple calculation will show something over seven million cubic feet of ore in sight. Nine cubic feet of ore to the ton will show there are now blocked out nearly eight hundred thousand tons of ore and from each foot in depth there will be the added two thousand five hundred tons allowing that the lode only extends the eight hundred feet now drifted on, whereas there is every surface indication that the lode extends over the entire property of more than three thousand feet in length and in several places shafts have been sunk proving this to be the case. The company also has as fine a water power right at hand as I ever saw and will put in a dam on the river and develop it for light and power purposes. The scenery in this vicinity is grand beyond description, with timber crowned mountains all around us.

After our exploration of the mine we were invited to dinner by our host, Mr. Prim, superintendent of the mine. That was a dinner long to be remembered, as the table was loaded with the best that Mexico affords. Two huge turkeys graced the board and haunches of roast venison in between and all cooked to a queen's taste. Mrs. Prim is an Illinois woman and evidently was taught the science of cooking in her childhood, as several of the party averred that not in years had they sat down to such a feast. Deer and wild turkey are abundant in these mountains and wild hogs and mountain lions but are here called the jaguar. Mr. Robinson, the mine engineer was also present with us and himself and wife did all in their power to make our visit as pleasant as possible.

It was with regret that after obtaining samples of ore from various places on the lode that we bade our host good bye and wended our way back to Balsas as the shadows of evening came on, for here the mountains cause the sun to disappear much earlier.

Though tired from the walk and the climb up the mountain of about a thousand feet to get a good view of the property and of the river and mountains, we still took time to study and visit the Indians and their village. These are nearly all of the original stock of Indians and are fairly good workers and are employed in the work in the mine as the temperature in the mine is about 85 degrees. However, these children of nature dress, or do not dress, to suit the temperature as they are clothed in a la Adam minus the fig leaf when in the mine. The mortality among these people during infancy is very high. I am told that only five per cent arrive at adult age. Their mode of life undoubtedly has much to do with this great infant mortality. As I went up the trail in the morning a sharp shower came on and as an Indian house was near the trail I went to it and was invited to enter. It was breakfast time and I was invited to eat, but as I had already had breakfast I sat down and noted their house furnishings and way of living. The house was four posts set in the ground around a space six by eight. The sides next the sun were woven with palm leaf like lattice work to keep out the sun, the other being open entirely. The roof, about seven feet from the floor, was also of palm leaf and made to protect from the rain and sun. A low framework in one corner covered with palm leaf matting served for a couch. On this lay folded a zarape or Indian blanket. A few calabashes were on the ground and contained different kinds of grain and a few beans. The matron was engaged in preparing breakfast while I was there, and I will describe the method. In one corner of the room was a curved granite stone something like a bread board in use among ourselves. This is called a molender and is an essential in every house, as no one can keep house without it here. I saw broken remains of these implements that dated back perhaps thousands of years. This matron placed the molender on the ground, from a gourd at her side she obtained a handful of millet seed and placing it upon the stone, with a rolling pin ground it to a fine powder, which she then brushed off into the another gourd. When the second gourd was filled with the ground meal she took another gourd with some water in it and using the meal she stirred up a batter, using her hand as a spoon, and after it was mixed to the proper consistency, she took a small handful of it in her hands and patting it as children do in making mud pies, she soon had a fair looking pancake. A low oven about one foot high and made of clay, was at her feet, and a fire of twigs was burning underneath. This cake was laid on the oven a few moments, then turned over and breakfast was ready and I was invited to eat. These cakes are called tortillas and with the frijoles or stewed beans and red pepper are almost the sole diet of these people and they are physically quite robust.

Life here if not "one glad sweet song", is undoubtedly enjoyed as much perhaps in their primitive way as among us. The land they live on here is not their own, but is owned by a Spanish Mexican Don, who collects a small tax from them annually. One can walk around through the village and observe all of their simple house work going on, as their houses are so built that no attempt at privacy is possible and perhaps not desired. Who shall say that in their simple and humble way of life they do not get as much of real happiness as we who are termed civilized? This is the close of a memorable trip and tomorrow we begin our return journey. If in these letters I have interested the Quiz readers for a short time, I will be amply repaid in making notes on the trip.

HUSBANDS

Don't be thoughtless of your wife—read this over and think it over. You have your desk if you are an office man, your bench and tools if you are a factory man or mechanic, your labor saving implements if you are a farmer—but what has the poor wife for her kitchen to save her labor, time and steps in the drudgery of her never-ending kitchen work? You wouldn't even think of trying to do your work without the necessary helps and tools. Why do you expect your wife to toil along, handicapped by the lack of the things she has to use three times every day, year in and year out. Why not help her? it won't cost much—get her a

HOOSIER KITCHEN CABINET

A thing that is just as necessary to her as your desk or bench or tools are to you. We can not tell you all about it here, but if you want to help her, come into our store and let us show you a Hoosier cabinet. Let her see it too. It is exactly what she needs. The simple table won't take its place. It is more than that—it is a pantry, cupboard, table combined—the most complete and most convenient kitchen affair ever made.

There is nothing too good for our customers. Here is another instance of our buying the best there is—there is nothing better made in the way of a kitchen cabinet than the HOOSIER. You have no doubt seen them advertised in magazines or papers and you can now step in our store and see what they really are. We got in three and sold the highest priced one the first day we had them. Come in and see them.

The Republican primary was not very well attended Monday night, as there was no opportunity to give a call. The first intimation the committee had that there was to be a primary was when his attention was directed to the call which the Quiz printed last week. We will venture the assertion that not all the members in the county were represented at the convention Tuesday, as but few knew of the convention. If the central committee want to issue a call they should do it through a paper of general circulation in the county and not through the Quiz.

The above is from the North Loup Loyalist. Now what is the matter with Rood anyway? The notice which he claims was published in the Quiz "last week" was in fact published two weeks before the convention. Furthermore the central committee-man, A. H. Babcock, was notified by mail of the convention, just as all the other committee-men were notified. Of course the notice should have been published in the Loyalist, as it usually is, but the chairman of the committee presumed that the Loyalist man was wide-awake enough to see the notice and print it if he wished to.

D. A. Gard of Lincoln is still in this community explaining the advantages of the Nebraska Mutual Life Insurance company, for which he is doing a good business as the applications he has written will indicate. It looks strange to see Dave working for anything but the A. O. O. P., of which he was instrumental in organizing and has labored to build it up from its conception. When asked for the reason he simply smiled and referred us to the annual report of the A. O. O. P. which shows they expended over $14,694 for expenses, officers, salaries and perquisites and only $6250 of it for field work to secure a net gain of 253 members for the year ending 1907, which he says is enough to cause any intelligent member to take notice and investigate and take a policy in a live company like the Nebraska Mutual.

At a special meeting of the Ord Gun Club Tuesday evening it was decided to hold a shooting tournament at Ord on the 24 and 25 of September. At that time the club expects to have its new house completed and no efforts will be spared to make this the biggest tournament ever held in western Nebraska. The selection of the dates thus early was made in order that they might be registered with the western association and have the dates secured so that no other event of a similar nature might not be held at the same time. Experts from all parts of the country will be present at this meeting.

A Little Harness Talk

Harness are high in price, it is true. It can not be doged as everything that constitutes a harness is high. The main reason that this is true is because leather is very high as yet, as well as collars, hardware and labor. Therefore, a first-class harness can not be expected to be bought at a low price. Of course, there is always some inferior harness made that can be bought a few dollars cheaper, which are palmed off as good as any, but they are not for they can not be and you do not get them. You will not gain anything in buying cheap harness. Do not be misled. Come in and examine my harness before you buy, and if you buy my make of harness you will have a first-class harness, which will wear well and you will be pleased with it. I use the best leather obtainable, sew them on the best machine, the Campbell Lock Stitch or sew them all by hand by good and practical mechanics. My reputation for making good harness during the past 25 years ought to be worth something to you.

The City Pharmacy

O. P. LUSE, Ph. G.

At the invitation of Mrs. Peter Mortensen several of the ladies of the city met at her home Friday afternoon to discuss the advisability of forming a society for the improvement of the cemetery. The idea meeting the approval of all present, an organization to be known as The Cemetery and Civic Improvement Society was effected. The officers of the newly organized society are Mrs. J. C. Cornell, president; Mrs. E. P. Clements, vice-president; Mrs. George R. Gard, treasurer; Marie R. Goodhand, secretary; board of directors, Mrs. Peter Mortensen, Mrs. F. D. Haldeman and Mrs. Ada Munn. The object of the society is to work in unison with the city council, not only in bettering the conditions at the cemetery but in cleaning and beautifying the city. It is hoped that every one will lend a helping hand to aid this organization in effecting some of the commendable improvements that it is the intention of the organization to undertake.

When the dry caucus was held last week A. J. Firkins was in Omaha and was wholly innocent of the movement on foot to nominate him for mayor. When he returned home and was told of his nomination he raised no howl about it, but expressed himself as presuming that, as the nomination was made without consulting him, the dry people would not expect him, if elected, to have a fight every time he met a saloon man in the street. We take it that if Firkins is elected, he will go quietly about looking after the enforcement of the law, but hunting no quarrel with men who differ with him on public policies. All who know Firkins know that he will do all that any man can do to perform the duties of his office, yet with fair consideration of the opinions and rights of all men.

THE ORD QUIZ

Mrs. Mount returned home last week Thursday from her sojourn in Florida, whither she went some seven or eight weeks ago. Of course she had a most delightful time as all persons do who go to that locality in winter. She spent the time at St. Augustine, Miami and other eastern and southern points and is greatly impressed with the beauty and delights of a summer in winter time, which Florida is able to show. She left her friends, the Ameses, down there, yet a month or two.

The county board worked overtime Tuesday in order to finish up a large amount of work that had accumulated and to avoid holding a session Wednesday as some of the members of the board were anxious to get back to their homes. They got through with their task about eleven o'clock that night. The minutes of the meeting have not been arranged for the printer as yet but will be found in these columns next week.

The A. O. O. P. lodge will meet at their hall Wednesday evening, March 18. The ladies are requested to bring their baskets with lunch for two. The gentlemen are expected to bring their appetites, but no money. All members are asked to be present.

J. N. Fletcher came down town Saturday for the first time in several weeks. His sick spell has made him look pretty thin but he tells us that he is improving rapidly now and soon hopes to be about his regular business again.

George Parkins has been having a tussle with the grip this week. In consequence his store has been in the sole care of Miss Vandas, who, by the way, is a pretty good superintendent.

The recent rain and snow has done a good job in moistening up the ground. Things look favorable to the farmer.

Mrs. W. B. Keown visited in Burwell a few days this week.

The Grand Army Aid Society will meet with Mrs. W. E. Rasset Friday, March 27. Everybody invited.

The sale of registered Poland-China hogs advertised by James Nay is called off, he having sold the hogs in one bunch at private sale.

The Ord District State Sunday School convention will convene in Ord on Saturday, March 21, for two days session. An interesting program has been arranged for these meetings.

The Union Pacific and Burlington lines have resumed their freights six days in the week as of yore and on old schedules. A week or so of four-day service showed them that it did not pay.

You will need a skin lotion through blistering March. Our Silcoline cream will be found the best. Prevents chapping and sunburn, costs only a quarter. O. P. Luse, Ph. G.

Carpenters are beginning to get busy again. It looks as though there would be plenty for the mechanics of all kinds to do this summer. In fact all lines of business are opening up in good healthy fashion.

Every new subscriber to The Quiz gets a new pair of those guaranteed shears that are worth very nearly the price paid for subscription alone. We have given out several pair of these shears already and they are meeting with great satisfaction.

Already several orders have been left with the gas company for the installation of new gas ranges and work of putting them in will commence as soon as the weather will permit. Better see about having a range put in your house and try cooking with gas this summer you will find that it pays.

Demonstration of Fletcher Music Method.

Miss Monna Trindle will give a demonstration of the Fletcher Music Method at the Presbyterian church Saturday afternoon, March 14, at two thirty o'clock. During the past five months she has been under the direct tuition of Mrs. Fletcher Copp, who is the originator of the Fletcher Music Method for young children. Mrs. Copp's aim in preparing this system is to give the child a fundamental systematic and logical education in a way that shall be thorough, natural and pleasurable, and thus make it possible for music to exercise her three fold power, and develop the child mentally, physically and spiritually. The length of the course for children depends upon the age and nature development of the child. The Fletcher system embodies all that is helpful along the line of technique and muscle development and eliminates drudgery, and the hours of practice that are necessary, becomes a delight at the same time the knowledge gained is as useful for any other instrument or for the voice as the system is a most admirable one and while it can be taught with greater success than any other to individual children, still it is better taught in small classes of four or five children. The system is complete, the methods simple and the work must be a pleasure to pupils. All who are interested in music are cordially invited to attend this demonstration.

Parks on the Minnesota Convention.

Up in the state of Minnesota a democratic state convention assembled and that convention had the audacity to commend the administration of Governor Johnson and endorse him for the presidential nomination, and instructed its delegates to use all honorable means to secure his nomination.

Think of it! Yes, we repeat, think of it. Think of the boldness of this convention, which dared to endorse for the nomination of president, the governor they loved, the governor, who as a private citizen, rose from obscurity and poverty to such a high place in the estimation of the people of Minnesota that they elected him their chief executive, (and on the democratic ticket) four years ago by a majority of twenty thousand, while the balance of the democratic state ticket was defeated by fifty thousand.

Then after Governor Johnson had stood tried before the people for two years, they re-elected him by a majority of almost four times as large as he received in his first election.

And he gave the people of Minnesota an administration that attracted the favorable attention of the entire country. He is not an orator, he is a statesman. He made no plays to the galleries, but confined himself to giving the people an honest and fair administration to all—he gave to the people the services of an active and sound mind.

And the people of Minnesota tried to show their appreciation for his unselfish and wise service. They come out before the nation and say that he is as fit as any other citizen of America to sit as president; they say his "mentality, restless energy and sound judgment, united with his unimpeachable integrity, make him the embodiment of the best spirit of the west, an ideal American citizen."

And they instructed their delegates to vote for him in Denver at the democratic national convention. When this part had been reached in the Minnesota convention a row was on. It wasn't a big row, but, nevertheless, it was a row. Bryan had given his henchmen instructions as to the course to take. The little idol worshippers that hang about the Bryan coat tails, drinking in the soft words of Bryanism, which float continuously from the Bryan mouth, were there before the Minnesota convention and offered the name of Bryan, the crown of thorns and cross of gold, to the convention. But they would have none of it, (not even the gold).

And to the shame of Bryan. Twice he has been defeated for the presidency, once for the nomination before the St. Louis convention; twice was he unable to carry his own state, and today he would be unable to be elected to any office in the state of Nebraska, from governor down to township clerk.

And he had the nerve to send his weak minded followers into Governor Johnson's state and demand for himself an instructed delegation. Bryan has many times been proven a fool, now we have proof positive that he is not only a fool but a knave.

And Governor Johnson may not win the nomination before that Denver convention. He will receive the support of what sanity and foresight there is left in democracy, and that is just the reason that he will not be nominated. The support of these two elements (in the democratic party) will award a man little. But destiny has so written it: Bryan will be nominated and for a purpose and to an end. His nomination will bring forth the palbearers to carry away the remains of democracy, that grand old party of Jefferson.

And before the earth is yet settled upon its ashes, there will rise to light and being a new party, free from the odium of a Cleveland, a Bryan and populism. It will be a party of soundness, of sanity. And the state of Minnesota will be called upon to furnish its first presidential nominee in the year 1912.

Though Governor Johnson loses the nomination this year, his defeat will not be for naught. It will mean Bryan's nomination, Bryan's crushing defeat, the death of the democratic party, the taking out of the lime-light of the greatest hanger-on the history of man has ever known. Governor Johnson's defeat will not be in vain, it will be very fruitful, indeed. And the Governor shall rise again.

Chapter 70 Statutes 1905.

The terrible holocaust recently at Cleveland causes us all to pause and ask what if it were our children or could such an awful thing happen in our town.

Less than two months since at Boyertown, Pennsylvania, just such a horror occurred, and one hundred and seventy victims, many burned beyond any hope of recognition, was the result. At that time we thought what an awful sacrifice of life, but said it can never happen again, and yet here again we have nearly as many of God's little ones burned to a crisp through some one's neglect of the most ordinary precautions.

Let us ask ourselves seriously and individually, could it be possible such an awful fate might be in store for any of our little ones in this town of Ord.

For the benefit of any one who may not know what the law says in regard to the public buildings, I quote the section relating thereto from the revised statutes.

Sec. 1 That all public buildings now in process of construction or hereafter to be built or constructed, which may or shall be used for churches, school houses, opera, theaters, lecture rooms, hotels, public meeting town halls or which may be used for any purpose whereby a collection of people may be assembled together for religious worship, amusement, instruction, or other purpose, shall be so built and constructed that all doors leading from the main hall or place where said collection of people may be assembled, or from the principal entrance, shall be so swung upon their hinges and constructed that they shall open outward, and that all means of egress for the public from the main hall or principal room and from the building shall be by means of doors which shall open outward from the main hall or building.

Sec. 3 That any person or persons who shall fail or refuse to comply with the provisions of this act, shall be fined in any sum not less than one hundred or more than one thousand dollars.

Sec. 4 That in all cities and towns having a population of one thousand or more, and in any city or town of said town or city shall be, and he is hereby authorized, to close and prohibit all public buildings from being used for any of the purposes mentioned in section one of this act, until the provisions of this act shall be complied with.

Respectfully, W. A. Anderson.

Ancon, C. Z., Feb. 28, 1908.
Dear "Quiz":
A week ago Sunday I went on an excursion to the Pearl Islands which lie out in the Gulf of Panama. The excursion was given by the Ancon Amusement Association. I have been here nearly eight months and this is the first trip I have taken, so you see we don't have much amusement down here.
We were supposed to leave the wharf at La Boca, the southern entrance to the canal, at 8:30, but the special train from along the line of P. R. R. was late and we did not leave before ten o'clock. We sailed on the "Aysan," a steam ship of the South American Steamship Co., which plies along the west coast of South America. She was anchored out in Panama Bay in deep water, near a group of islands known as Maos, Celebra, Penning, etc. Most of us men went out to her in a small government steamer, the "Balboa," and the rest of the party came on another small steamer, or on two scows, which she towed.
Our party of 350 men, women and children, were from all along the line. Many of the "big bugs" were along, but they get talked about so much that we will leave them out. It was quite a job to get all of us safely up the gang plank, but as soon as we were aboard we began exploring the ship.
The lower part of the ship, above the water line, was loaded with cattle and horses. The parlors, dining room, bridal chamber and berths are fitted up elegant. We all decided we would like to make a trip down the coast.
As we started the I. C. C. band commenced playing, and gave us music at times during the whole trip. There was very little wind, and such as there was, was from the shore, so the sea was very calm. A large part of the water was without ripples and lay as smooth as ice. A large number of sea birds flew and swam over the water, and amused us at times by trying to catch fish. We could look back and see the ships in the bay, the dredges resting over Sunday, the Leper colony at Polo Seco, the wharf at La Boca, East La Boca, Mt. Ancon, Ancon, Panama, the ruins of Old Panama and beyond all the mountains of the Isthmus. During the whole trip we could see the mountains in the distance, on three sides.
We heard after we had started that two cases, supposed to have been smallpox, had been removed from the ship during the night, and the ship fumigated. Col. Gorgas and several of his doctors had spent a large part of the night out there and came very near not letting us go. I have not heard of any one coming down with the smallpox. We forgot about it while enjoying the trip.
A crowd of us were standing at the rail on the left by the bow looking at the water, and I saw a spurt of water and then a large fish swim along at the surface. It was about a mile away. We were all looking for it. It kept coming up in different places and we at last decided that there were several and that they were whales. One came up nearly aboard and kept coming up and swimming about as we passed. He was about three hundred yards away and was a "whopper." He looked like the black bottom of a boat, and kept putting his tail high in the air. We could see the two long points of the tail fins as they bent when he rolled to and fro. At one time we saw at least three whales. We passed many porpoises and flying fish and saw one large shark swimming by the ship.
These big ships all carry cattle, sheep, chickens, ducks and turkeys alive, to eat when on a voyage. Crackers, ginger snaps and cheese were on board for us to eat and two regular meals were served. Beer and soda were on sale by the ship officers. I met many people from up the line whom I knew, and of course, many from this end. There were some who came down on the "Panama" last July with me.
We reached the Islands about one o'clock. A boat with four native divers had been towed along and they proceeded to show us how to get pearl oysters. We approached the shore slowly, taking soundings as we went. When we reached the proper depth, the divers prepared for work. The one who was to go down put on flannel clothes and then heavier clothes over them. His shoes were very heavy. He got on the rope ladder at the stern of the boat and rested while they put heavy weights on his back and chest, a rubber collar about his neck, and a large helmet over his head. As soon as the helmet was on they commenced pumping air to him and he went down the ladder. We could tell where he was by the bubbles as they came up. He came up with an oyster and I made a rush for dinner.

The party was so large, including we visitors that we had quite a time getting something to eat. The waiters were Spanish South Americans and could understand about as much English as we could Spanish. They would say "no tiene," meaning don't have it and if the head waiter said the same we would call for another pie. At supper the pineapple had given out, but I got the second dish of ice cream for those at our table.
On account of the size of our party, we did not land but cruised about among the islands till dark. They are just the tops of volcanic mountains which have been thrown up from the bottom of the sea. They are of solid rock with a very thin soil on top where a surprisingly large amount of vegetation grows.
Trees and other vegetation grow on piles of rock where there is almost no soil. There are many cocoanut trees on the islands. Rey Island covers about 30 acres and contains the village of San Miguel, of about 1000 people, who live by fishing and farming.
The sun went down into the Pacific, trimming the edges of the sea and clouds in gold, while the moon came out clear and bright and threw her sheet of light to us across the water as much as to say, "I will see you all safely back to port." The trip back was delightful. The sky was so clear that the stars stood out nearer and more distant stars came in view. The wind came up and added to the variety by topping the waves with white caps. We were given the freedom of the ship and on both decks and the bridge, groups were gathered talking and singing, while near the wheel on deck, the I. C. C. band played while others danced. In the south the southern cross shone out bright while in the north the north star could be seen. This was the first time I had seen the southern cross and the first time I had seen the north star in Panama because it is so low. The return trip of seventy miles passed so quickly that before we knew it we had dropped anchor in Panama Bay and were on our way to the wharf, which we reached at about 11:30. A special train took us to Ancon. We turned out our lights at 12 o'clock, while some had to ride 47 miles to Colon.
I send you a picture of I. C. C. employees and families. For fear that you will not know me I am at the right by the fire hose. One of the islands can be seen in the distance.
That other letter that you printed put the cart before the horse. Some time I will put the horse in front by telling of the trip down here and my first experiences.
Chester G. Haskell.

Adjourned Regular Meeting

The Board of County Supervisors met at their office on March 10th 1908, at 10 o'clock, a. m.
Roll call, all members present.
The Board adjourned for committee work.
Three o'clock p. m., roll call all members present.
On motion the chairman was instructed to appoint one member of the board to examine and report on the amount of damage sustained by Mr. Hoosek on account of the location of the Dohmal road. The chair appointed Mr. Gregory for this committee.
On motion the county attorney was instructed to enter into a stipulation with Mr. Oliver Olson's attorney for the continuation of the appeal of road damage on the Oliver Olson road, until the fall term, on condition that Mr. Olson allow the public to travel through the center of section 33, where the proposed road is laid, the public to open and shut two gates.
The report of the committee appointed to investigate the Paddock road was read as follows:
March 6, 1908.
To the honorable board of supervisors. We your committee appointed to investigate the Paddock road and also to see the practicability of locating the road on the section line running north on the east line of section 32 and 29-17-13, would recommend the Paddock road laid as petitioned, as the line on the south and west of the south-west quarter of section 32-17-13 is very rough, and the east line of section 32 and 29-17-13 is also too rough to make a practicable road.
Very respectfully,
E. H. Stacy
W. L. McNutt

It was moved and seconded that the following resolution be adopted; Whereas, the committee appointed to examine the route of Paddock Bros. petition have reported in favor of the establishing of said road, now therefore, be it resolved that said report be adopted and we find that there are more than ten electors residing within five miles of said road now on said petition, and that the county surveyor proceed to lay and stake out the route of said road and make and file his report with the county clerk and that said road be and the same is hereby laid in accordance with said survey and that said survey be recorded in road record as part of record of said road.

- The yeas and nays were called for: Gregory, no; Hagemeler, no; McClellan, yes; Rowell, no; Stacy, yes; McNutt, yes. The vote being a tie, the chairman declared the resolution lost.
On motion the consent road of J. S. Bussell was laid over until the July meeting.
On motion the board adjourned until 7 o'clock p. m.
7 o'clock, all members present except Stacy.

Our great battleship fleet has made such a successful trip it is now decided by the war department to send the boats around the world by way of the Hawaiian islands, Samoa, the Philippines and from there on through the Suez canal to the Atlantic and home again. The start from our western coast will be in July, and the fall practice will be in the Philippines in the fall. The date of the return home is not fixed. The boats so far have made excellent time, and are four days ahead of the schedule. Some time will be spent in the Mexican waters for practice.

Maybe it is because the writer is a Methodist, but anyway he is in favor of admitting foreign born people to citizenship in this favored land on probation. Our laws ought to make final citizenship contingent on health and good behavior. Furthermore even a residence here ought to be based upon the same conditions. Foreigners who are of sound mind and body and possessed of desirable moral qualities are and ought to be welcome comers to our shores, but all others ought to be excluded, and, if admitted, should be deported summarily, the cost of doing so charged up to the ship company that brought them in.

Last Sunday night marked the close of the series of evangelistic meetings that were being held at the church. A fine spirit has been manifested throughout these meetings. As to the exact number of converts the writer has been unable to learn definitely but there were some over 25. During this series of meetings the pastor and evangelist have endeared themselves to our people. The consecration and earnestness of Rev. Maynard Sr., will be long remembered. To show their appreciation for the good services rendered during the past two weeks a sum upwards of ninety dollars was raised for the evangelist. The good will of our people goes with him wherever he may go.

Last Thursday afternoon the school was the recipient of a call from Eva B. Shuman, our genial county superintendent. She inspected the nature of our work during the afternoon and just before dismissal made the school a clever speech. What made this talk impressive was that it was full of good common sense and advice put up in such a manner that the pupils of ordinary intelligence could not fail to understand the truths. During her short visit with us she certainly created a very favorable impression upon our pupils and we are all looking forward with pleasure to the time when we may be favored with another visit.

Peterson Bros. shelled corn for Harry Bailey last Thursday. After completing several other jobs the latter part of last week and the first of this they pulled over to Greeley county Tuesday morning where they have some work promised. These gentlemen by their efficient work and attentiveness to business have won an enviable reputation in the art of corn shelling. You can't go wrong in giving these boys a chance on your next shelling. Remember them when you have work of this kind.

This week marked a vast improvement in the service of the Farmers' Mutual Telephone company as far as this community is concerned. This organization, ever since its inception, has constantly been striving to improve in every way possible. Monday and Tuesday of this week a high line, reaching from the bridge to H. D. Rathbun's east line, was established. This improvement is one of a substantial nature and should tend to strengthen this telephone organization in this part of the country.

Patrons of route one are pleased to welcome the smiling countenance of the regular carrier again. For a considerable length of time Mr. Fletcher has been wrestling with a gripe and has finally succeeded in putting this trouble down and out. During his enforced absence George Norman attended to the wants of the patrons on the route in a most satisfactory manner.

We neglected to mention the O. M. Seerley sale in last week's issue. From all accounts it was a hummer. The corn particularly in demand. A good crowd was in attendance and showed a disposition to bid up well. This ends Mr. Seerley's career on the farm for the present at least.

Ole Olsen returned to his home in Cedar Bluffs Tuesday morning after a week's visit with friends and relatives in Springdale and Noble. The supervision of his land interests in Springdale and Mira Valley occupied a part of his time while here.

Sunday seems to have been a great day for friends and neighbors to get together. In keeping with this spirit Mr. and Mrs. Will Portis and family and Mr. and Mrs. George Turner were at the Charley Turner home.

J. H. Capron, Ord's energetic real estate agent, made a flying trip in the auto Monday evening to the O. R. Hanson farm. His wife, Arthur and daughter Hazel accompanied him.

L. D. Timmerman, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haught and son enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Timmerman last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stewart visited the latter's mother Sunday.

Charles Purcell bought a new team recently.

Charley Boettger's house is nearing completion.

J. D. Cook is suffering from the grip at present.

Ray McEachran will begin work for Charley Purcell Monday.

Freida Nass is in Ord at present learning the dress making trade.

Mrs. Barkheimer went to St. Paul one day last week, returning the next day.

Rev. Barkheimer is away at present assisting Rev. Harvey in a series of revival meetings. As a result there was no preaching at Midvale Sunday.

Matilda Smith and Martin Klein of Fish Creek were married Wednesday at the Lutheran church. After the ceremony the guests participated of a sumptuous dinner. This couple have our best wishes.

CORNELL'S SELL

Emerson Foot-Lift Plows and Farm Machinery. Home grown Alfalfa Seed 5 per bushel.

G. G. Clement returned from Cambridge, bringing back with him two of the finest heifers in Mousel's great herd of Herefords. They are certainly fine lookers and their pedigree shows that they are as fine as they look. One is a daughter of the American Champion Princeps 4th, named Princeps Flossie. She has been shown three years successfully, winning first at the Denver mid-winter show, and has calf at side by the Champion Alta Heslod. The other heifer is from the herd of Car-gill & Price and mated to Princeps 4th.

The Stevens ranch, Jake Peterson and Orle Mead have planned a concerted attack on the Johnson dog town, to begin next Wednesday. Each will furnish six men and they will keep at it until the dogs are entirely exterminated. This is a commendable project. If the parrie dog has any practical value nobody has ever yet discovered what it is. A hundred dollars spent now will add five or even ten times that much to the value of the land incumbered. It is time the dogs were relegated to the bone yard.

Of course we don't care much how many beggars, outcasts and bums the saloons produce. It don't make much difference how many men are rendered homeless or how many homes are made manless. We don't care if the people spend several times as much for booze as they do for missions but we do make a few appropriate remarks about the fellow who smashes beer bottles in the road to puncture our bicycle tires. That is going a little too far. It is adding insult to injury and we don't like it.

It pays to advertise in the Quiz. The writer advertised a team and harness for sale. Monday night three men came along in a buggy and the next morning the team and harness had disappeared. Later developments show the team at Mr. Haysek's and a check for the same in the bank at Ord.

On account of the Sunday school convention at Ord, there will be no services at the Presbyterian church next Sunday. The revival lesson will be omitted. Christian Endeavor will open again on the 29th and be continued regularly thereafter.

August Soucek is working on the Haysek ranch at present and will probably remain through the summer.

Fred Psota is showing great proficiency in ciphering and has won first place in several contests.

Owing to the quarantine Rev. Halsey was unable to preach in the Valley Sunday.

Foth, Hornickie and Haeckle shipped a car of hogs Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmore Gray visited in Springdale Wednesday.

Joe Psota is working for Ed. Armstrong for a few days.

Evert Petty was in Ord Wednesday on important business.

Stella Clement visited Glenn Johnson's last week.

Porter shelled corn for Foth and Lange Thursday.

E. H. Marks and family visited in Ord Sunday.

Bell Bros. sold stock to J. A. Ollis Thursday.

Notice.

In the county court of Valley county, Nebraska, in the matter of the estate of Orson L. Williams, deceased. Williams filed a petition in said court alleging that Orson L. Williams died intestate April 27th, 1890, in Lancaster county, Nebraska, and that he was an inhabitant of the state of Nebraska, and a resident of Valley county therein, and seized and possessed of real property in said Valley county, Nebraska, described as follows: The N. E. 1/4 of section 21 in township 19 N., of range 13 W. of 6th P. M. and that he left an estate of inheritance in said property, that the names, ages and residences of heirs at law of said estate are as follows: Mary E. Oden, his widow, of Denver, Colorado, age 47 years; Leon E. Williams, a son of Denver, Colorado, age 23 years; Bailey V. Williams, a son of Seattle, Washington, age 21 years; and Martin E. Plumb, of Lincoln, Nebraska, a daughter, age 21 years. That said real estate or any interest or equity therein is wholly exempt from attachment, execution or other mesne process, and is not liable for the payment of the debts of the deceased, and that more than 17 years have elapsed since the death of the decedent, and no person has applied for administration of his estate, and no administration of his estate has ever been had, and praying that the court make and enter findings and decree in accordance with the allegations of said petition, and that the regular administration of said estate be dispensed with.

It is hereby ordered that April 14, 1908, at 10 o'clock a. m., at my office in Ord, Nebraska, be and it is fixed as the time and place of hearing said petition, and that notice thereof be given to all persons interested in said estate by publication of this order for three successive weeks in the Ord Quiz, a legal newspaper published in said Valley county, Nebraska, at Ord, Nebraska, March 13, 1908. (Seal) H. Gudmundsen, county judge. E. L. Staple, attorney for petitioner. 31-

ches Wide SILKIZED Costs 44c a Yard

TAFFETA
SUPERIOR TO PURE SILK

This beautiful new fabric is now on the market. It has an abundance of its and virtues. Modern weaving, with advanced silkized finish, has made perfect cloth possible. In appearance it is identical to a silk, you can't tell them. Silkized Taffeta has proven to be better than silk. The difference is in the fact; it lasts longer and the more you wash it the deeper becomes its exquisite luster and it retains its rich, lustrous shade throughout the life of the garment.

For waists, suits, children's dresses, trimmings, linings, petticoats—or any fine silk is used—this is the most perfect article ever produced.

Its advantages are decidedly tempting—costs about one-half as much as and looks as good and lasts longer.

We have this beautiful fabric in the following shades:

- Bright Navy---Cream---High Blue---
- Pink---Black---Cardinal---Nile---Castor

Judge Staple has rented the front basement of the new First National Bank building and will take up his occupation there as soon as the building is completed, which will be about the first of May. The judge has been long crowded for room in his present quarters but in the new location he will have plenty of room and the bank people will have the room petitioned off to suit his needs. The building is as near fire proof as can be made, which is a big inducement, as Mr. Staple has many records in his abstract work that would cause him untold harm to loose in a fire.

The new club house of the Ord Gun Club is nearing completion. Work was commenced on the building last week and good progress was of course made during the pleasant weather. The building is being erected by the fair association, and when completed there will be few clubs in the state that will have a more comfortable home though many of them may have a much larger one.

The Quiz force is turning out a neat little twenty-page catalogue for the Ord Mercantile Company this week. The folder is a condensed price list of the goods carried in stock by that firm and will be a handy little thing for the housewife, who by keeping one hanging in her kitchen can readily tell the cost of any article that she is out of. We are going to hang one up in our house and you better get one and do likewise.

Let every lady in Ord remember the gas rang exhibit to be given in the basement of the New First National Bank building Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, March 30, 31, and April 1st. You will see the way things are cooked and baked by gas, and will be given a lunch free.

The Ben Hur team went to Burwell last Friday evening to do a few stunts for the benefit of the Burwell brethren. They returned Saturday morning, and had all manner of good things to say of the manner in which they were received by the Burwell folks.

Upon the advice of her physician, Mrs. H. E. Oleson went to Omaha last Saturday morning where she will undergo an operation. The operation is not considered a dangerous one but it will undoubtedly necessitate her being absent from the city for several weeks.

The Quiz has recently added a few fonts of two-color type to its equipment and now if you want a note, letter head or envelope printed in two colors we are prepared to fit you out on short notice. The price on two color commercial printing is but little above that of one color but it lends considerable tone to your stationery. Come in and we will show you samples of this work.

The Quiz force is hard at work upon the premium list of the Loup Valley Agricultural Society. It will probably be ready for distribution in about two weeks. It was the intention of the association to have the list ready for distribution on the first of March but the advertisers who had taken space in the book were unusually slow in preparing their copy and for this reason alone the work was delayed.

Two propositions will be submitted to the voters of Ord for their consideration at the coming election. One is whether or not the city shall grant saloon licenses. The other is whether or not the city shall enter into a five year contract with the electric light company to furnish the city some forty lights to be scattered over the city. Look into the merits of these propositions before election day so that you may vote intelligently.

Though the number of its patrons is increasing the total output of gas has greatly decreased in recent months, since the new plant was put in and the boys got onto the knack of making the gas properly. The average consumer, outside of the stores and public places, uses less than $1.00 a month the year round, including stoves lights and all. Compare this with your electric light bill. In the matter of light there is nothing that can compare with gas. Look at a store or other room lighted with gas and compare it with another room being lighted with any other means. Count the number of gas lights in the one and the number of electric lights in the other. It is dawning on the public slowly that it is great wisdom to use gas both for light and cooking. You cannot light your house nor supply your kitchen with fuel in any other way so cheaply nor so well as by using gas exclusively. The fact is proved beyond any dispute. The plumbers are ready to pipe your house right away.

Yesterday the Mesdames W. C. Wentworth and Victor Neff departed this locality to take up their abode in Holy, Colorado to which locality their husbands had preceded them. These families have been with us so long that it will seem strange indeed to miss their familiar faces. But such are the exigencies of life. People go and others come, which seems to be the demand of nature in the up-building of the race. It seems to be as necessary to mix humanity to make a good motor as it is to mix lime and cement to do the same thing. Any way we shall miss these good folks from our midst. May good luck be with them.

In its rush of an unusual busy press day the Quiz failed to make note of the Woodman play at the Opera House last Wednesday evening. The play was a three act comedy entitled "What Insurance did for Melvina", and was put on entirely by local talent, and members of the Woodmen or Royal Neighbors societies. The house was crowded to witness the show, and we do not believe that one spectator went away dissatisfied. The show not only enriched the Woodman organization by half a hundred dollars but was a good advertisement for all fraternal societies in general, and the Woodman in particular.

It is reported that the merchants of Comstock have issued a blue book rating the farmers of that vicinity. One of the books got into the hands of a farmer who was not rated highly and an investigation showed that there were others. The result is that there are a lot of sturdy farmers of that vicinity who have signed a pledge not to deal with Comstock. The retaliation is fully justifiable. Some mighty good farmers were included in the black list. It is all right for the merchants of Comstock to look out for their interests in the matter of credit, but when they go to it in such a wholesale manner they ought to expect to take the consequences.

The Smith meat market went out of business the first of the week, the shop and fixtures being absorbed by the Misko and Stara shops. The shop was established several months ago and while apparently doing a thriving business the profits were not so large as to warrant the proprietor continuing the business. A big factor in Mr. Smith's making up his mind to get out of the business was the fact that no ice for summer use had been secured by him and prospects that ice would figure considerably in the meat market profits this summer, he decided to drop out of the bologna business.

W. H. Thompson, the "Little Giant" of democracy in Nebraska, was in the city Monday night on business. He returned to Grand Island Tuesday morning. He thinks that Bryan stands a better show than ever to be elected president, which is not a surprising thing from Mr. Thompson. Whatever else may be said about Mr. Thompson, it is sure that he is a pleasant fellow.

A man in Baltimore recently shot and killed an acquaintance and all because he circulated stories reflecting on his character in which there was no truth. If one or two Ord fellows would follow this fellow's example there would not be enough people in Ord to warrant the assessor in making his annual rounds this spring.

Joe Loomis has been visiting at home for a fortnight, being off from his military service on a furlough. He has a very high notion of these possessions, but dreads the trip over the ocean.

Next Tuesday evening, March 24, will be the last number of the lecture course. This number, the Katherine Ridgeway Concert Company, will be the banner number of the course and you will miss a great treat if you miss this number. There are still a few choice seats left for this attraction but they will not last long as it is seldom that our people have an opportunity of attending an entertainment of this high standard and they will not be slow in filling the house.

Watch Milford's they are doing the business.

We want to make every lady in Valley county a present of a fine pair of shears. Not a cheap pair, but the best there is made, 7 or 8 inches long, imported, nickel finish and with tension bearing. This is a pair of shears that any lady would like to have, no matter how many other pairs she may have in the house. You will see a cut of the shears printed elsewhere in these columns. The regular retail price of these shears is from 75 to 85 cents, but we are going to give them free to every lady in the county with but one condition attached. All we ask of you is to induce someone to subscribe for the Quiz and pay for one year at the regular price of $1.50. If you are taking the Quiz get your neighbor to take it. If your old man is not a subscriber get him to forke over a $1.50 for the paper one year and you will get the shears. This is a new subscriber campaign and we are justified in making this remarkable offer for the reason that it will surely extend the circulation of this paper. Get busy now and earn one of these. If the shears are to be sent by mail add 5 cents to the price.

Paint that is Paint

The opinion is sometimes expressed that paints are not as good as they once were, the fact is that there never before were such perfect paints as can be had today if you know where to find them. We handle Hammer condensed paints which is just lead and zinc that's all and we guarantee its quality. Those that can't speak highly of this paint it is because they have never used Hammer Paint to find out its superior qualities over other brands. We carry everything in oils, colors, household paints, varnishes, enamels interior finishes, special paints, floor stains, and painter supplies you get what is best for any purpose here and get it at the lowest price possible consistent with the quality. We would like to furnish you with your paint

In a game of basket ball at North Loup last Saturday night the Invincibles won from the North Loup team by a score of 25 to 33, which goes to show that the teams were pretty evenly matched. Clayton Burke, Norman Parks and Milford Stacy accompanied the Invincibles and report that it was a good game and cleanly played, with the exception of a few rough plays by one of the North Loup players. This game probably closes the basket ball season with outside towns, and tonight will close the season in Ord with a game between the Ord high school and the Invincibles. Everyone that is interested in the game should turn out, for all indications point to a fast game.

Monday of this week A. J. Firkins sold his Kloudike farm to B. G. Almy from Holt county, the consideration being $25 per acre for the entire six quarters. This is one of the best hill stock farms in the vicinity and has proved a money maker to Mr. Firkins and will doubtless do likewise for the new owner. Last year Mr. Firkins built a fine cement house and other buildings on the place and has been adding improvements of one kind or another so that the improvement proposition is no small item. McNutt & Blessing made the sale.

There is a strong feeling astir in this community that there is need of general cleaning up of the affairs of the city. Several gambling places are known to be in operation, and there is at least one notorious character doing business with no movement on the part of the city authorities to make her get out. Then there is wastefulness in the expenditure of the city money for the benefit of a few friends of the administration and his saloon supporters. Let us clean house.

The Ord Independent Telephone company is soon to issue a new and up to date telephone directory. It was the intention of the company to put out a new directory about the first of the year but there is always considerable moving about and changing phones during the early spring, hence it was thought best to postpone drawing up the list until after the first of March.

Andrew Christensen, who moved up near Ord about three years ago, has purchased a farm west of town and moved on the place last week. Mr. Christensen has farmed near here for some twenty years before going to Valley County and has many friends who are glad to see him return. —Walbach Messenger.

We expected to see a howling blizzard when we got out of bed Tuesday morning as one was reported Monday evening to be headed this way. It evidently got mixed up in its schedule or got side tracked for it failed to put in its appearance, in these parts.

A Statement to the Public

Having concluded to go out of business I think it but fair to my patrons as well as my competitors to make a fair statement as to the reason of my action. Owing to the price of commodities I have come to the conclusion that another meat market in Ord would not be a success financially. The prices which the people have become in the habit of paying is too low to warrant a successful venture of that kind. I am not unmindful of the fact that I have had a fair share of the patrons, and I cannot complain of that venture. The parties who have occupied the field have so educated the people in low prices that it shuts out any speculative venture in that kind of competition.

I want to thank my patrons for the support I have received, and hope they will find it as in the past little cause for complaint as to price and product. I have had favorably opportunity to test the condition of the trade and know whereof I speak. Most respectfully,
C. M. Smith.

Whiskey Ticket Nominated

The whiskey folks met and nominated their city ticket in the court house last Thursday evening. The caucus commenced with the nomination of Otto Murschel as chairman and later H. Gudmundsen was appointed to take his seat along side and see that the minutes of the meeting were kept properly. For the office of mayor A. M. Daniels was nominated without a dissenting vote as was Lafe Paist for city treasurer, but when it came to city clerk the name of Ed. Watson was sprung and for a time it looked as though Andrew Jackson Shirley was going to be obliged to seek a seat in the rear. The first ballot resulted in a tie but three of "Budkey's" friends responded to a hurry up call by the time a second ballot was called for and he had that many more votes than his opponent when the result was announced. Watson had made no effort to secure the nomination, the movement in his favor having been started that evening. Many of the wet fellows are sore on "Budkey's" selection as they think that he has been favored enough along this line and if they do not do something to him on election day the Quiz man is not a very good guesser.

The different wards then selected their candidates for city council, George Parkins being the choice of the first ward folks, George Stover was renominated for a second term in the second ward and John Sershen the nominee for the third ward.

For school board Will Stevens and Anton Bartunek were the choice of the caucus, but Mr. Stevens objected quite strenuously to having his name put on the ticket and we understand that his name will be withdrawn.

The ticket is as strong as one as the wet fellows could have selected but it is doomed to defeat just the same.

Petty-Staple Nuptials

Last night at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Staple, there were joined in marriage Mr. Evert Hampton Petty and Miss Myrtle Elizabeth Staple. The evening was a bright one, the home was beautifully arrayed for the event and a great company of friends were present in their jolliest mood to witness the ceremony, and all things conspired to make the occasion an enjoyable, long-to-be remembered one.

The wedding march was played by Miss Faith Claffin and the principals in the drama led in the march by Mr. C. A. Davis and Miss Carrie Smith, all took their place under and before the elaborate decorations prepared with great pains and skill in the corner of the main room. Here the words that made them man and wife were pronounced by Rev. J. M. Huston amid the hush and keen observance of the guests.

Congratulations, hearty and joyous, were then delivered by all and as soon as the table could be spread a supper of several courses was served. In this delightful feature the Maple Leaf Club, of which Miss Staple was a member, took a prominent part, by serving the guests.

This part of the ceremony was amid the accompaniment of noises more or less discordant made by the omnipresent boy on the outside, whose demonstrations were several times hushed by the good humored attention paid them by the groom.

and Mrs. Petty are most excellent young people and deserve and receive the good will and best wishes of all this community. Mr. Petty will take his bride to the parental homestead, which will be under his management and control.

There were a great many presents costly and practical. Among the latter was a heifer of fine breed presented by Uncle Erickson.

COMING TO ORD

World Famous Medical Specialists to Visit Three Days More at the Ord Hotel.

Will Cure the Sick Free

Word has just been received here that Dr. F. Earl Gordon, one of the Hot Springs doctors who have their Nebraska State Institute permanently located at 14th and O streets, Lincoln, has decided to pay a three-day's visit to Ord and while here will stop at the Ord hotel where he will receive patients. Dr. Gordon will give consultation and make all examinations absolutely free of charge and all curable cases will be treated free of charge except for the bare cost of the medicine used.

This Hot Springs System of home treatment which Dr. Gordon is bringing to Ord on April 9, 10 and 11, has a national reputation as is attested by the fact that the United States government owns Hot Springs, Arkansas, and has established its Army and Navy hospitals there where soldiers and sailors are sent after all other methods have failed to cure. The United States government highly endorses the Hot Springs system of treatment and the Hot Springs doctors hold a government license to treat chronic diseases by the Hot Springs system of home treatment.

The Hot Springs doctors treat chronic diseases of the nerves, skin, blood, heart, lungs, kidneys, liver, bowels, including rheumatism, neuralgia, paralysis, piles, goitre, gall stones, catarrh, and diseases of women and diseases of men. The Hot Springs system is all home treatment so that frequent visits to the office are not necessary and the treatment may be used any where in any home without inconvenience, annoyance or publicity and without detaining the patient from his or her usual occupation. The leading newspapers, banks, business men and clergy endorse the Hot Springs system of home treatment.

The daily papers throughout the country are continually publishing lengthy reports of the wonderful cures that have been made by these world famous doctors. The Nebraska State Journal in a recent issue published the following remarkable article:

"Rufus E. Geiger, of 21 South Tenth street, Lincoln, tells an interesting story of how he was cured of epileptic fits by the Hot Springs doctors and is now able to go back to work at his trade as a machinist without fear of falling among the heavy machinery and being killed, while having a fit because he has no more fits."

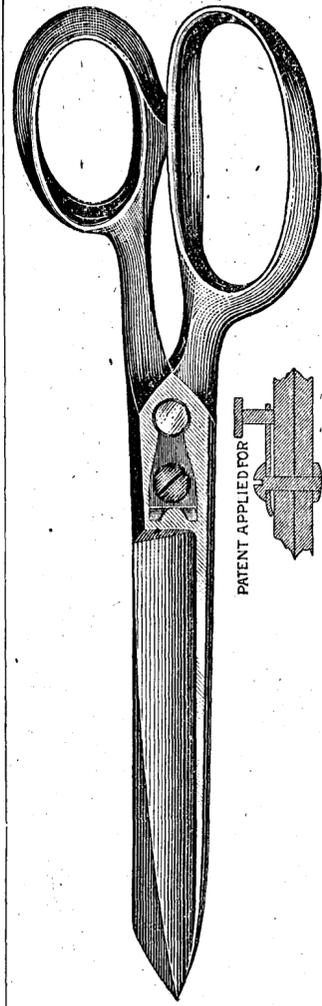

Mr. Grieger also tells another story of how his letter which was published in this paper telling of his cure has brought him a host of visitors. In a letter to the Hot Springs doctors he says:

"Gentlemen:— Since that letter I wrote you telling you how the Hot Springs treatment cured me of epileptic fits, after I had been treated and experimented on by fourteen doctors for six years without receiving any benefit whatever, since that letter was published in the newspapers, I have had hundreds of inquiries from people who wanted to know whether it was a true letter or whether it was a fake advertising scheme. Some evenings after I return home from work I have five or six callers to ask about my cure. It seems funny that so many people would think the letter a fake letter and come to ask about it, but I guess it is because of the experience they have had with other doctors like I had with those fourteen that treated me and took my money but done me no good. I think maybe some of the people are sent by other doctors, the doctors who could not cure me themselves, and it is hard for them to believe that anyone else could cure me. But here I am sound and well. Hot Springs treatment cured me after fourteen doctors failed. No more fits for me—let the skeptics keep on coming, I am a living testimonial and glad to help any sick person to a cure by sending them to you."

R. E. Geiger, of the office of the Hot Springs doctors, at 14th and O streets, the reporter asked Dr. Ben W. Kinsey, who is chief of staff of the Hot Springs doctors, if it was the custom of the doctors to publish a testimonial from each patient. "No, indeed," said Mr. Kinsey. "There would not be enough room in your paper to do that, so we publish only a few of the thousands that come to us from patients who express a desire or willingness to have them published for the benefit of others."

The waiting rooms of the Hot Springs doctors are now filled every day with patients who have come from all over the state and adjoining states to con-

The Ord Quiz.

We are anxious to increase the circulation of the Quiz during the next thirty days and in order to do so, we are offering an inducement. We will give this handsome pair of all-steel shears, carrying a five-year guarantee from the manufacturers, to any person who will secure a new subscriber to the Quiz at the regular subscription price of $1.50. They are not a cheap cast iron affair, but an up-to-date steel shear. We do not think you ever got as good a pair for less than half the price of the Quiz subscription alone. Call and let us show them to you.

sult with these noted specialists and diagnosticians.

This wonderful Hot Springs system of home treatment is what Dr. Gordon is bringing to Ord. He will be here only three days and while here he will receive patients at the Ord hotel.

Explanation and consultation is free and curable cases will be treated free except for the bare cost of the medicines used. If your case is found to be incurable by the Hot Springs system of home treatment you will not be accepted for treatment at any price or under any conditions, it being the frank and invariable rule of the Hot Springs doctors to accept no incurable case for treatment.

Remember the date and place, April 9, 10 and 11 at the Ord hotel, Ord, Nebraska.

Parents, Encourage the Pupils.

Parents, do you ever encourage your children to strive for some ultimate end in life? Every boy or girl should have a purpose in whatever they do. The sooner they arrive at some definite conclusion in this matter the better. The student in school who is purposeless, who has no ideal is invariably the stumbling block to all progress. He is not only a detriment to himself but he demoralizes the efforts of all others who are endeavoring to better their condition. Should the eighth grade pupil in the country school have an object? Most emphatically yes. The aimless, purposeless pupil who recites in a mechanical way and who simply drifts with the tide does as much damage in a schoolroom as a loose cow in a garden. At the tender age of twelve years, one of our great naval heroes, Oliver Hazard Perry, decided that he would be a sailor. From this time on we find him directing every energy toward success in this line.

What was the result? His short life was fraught with great events. And why was his success so marked? For one reason he had a definite end and which he was constantly striving to attain. But you say our boys cannot all be Grants, Perrys or Deweys. Certainly they cannot. It is not expected that our school boys and girls should thoroughly master the work set before them. To bring the matter home what should be the purpose toward which every pupil in Springdale should strive? The task before them now is to complete the common school. When is the common school considered complete? The common school is considered complete in Nebraska when a pupil can pass an examination of general questions, sent out by the state superintendent. It is readily seen then that the acquiring of an eighth grade certificate should be the ambition of every pupil of Springdale. Parents, will you not make this completing of the common school an imperative duty?

A Public Play Ground for Children

A bill is now before the Massachusetts legislature to establish public play grounds in the cities and large villages of the state, on the ground of their necessity for the physical development of the children. Few towns have sufficient space for the children where they have a right to play. It is against the law to play in the streets for reasons obvious to any thinking mind. There are fields in some towns in which the owners allow the children to play, and in many others provision is being made in the enlarged play ground of the school campus. That a reasonable time should be devoted to play by our boys and girls all will admit, but in the most of towns the children are almost compelled to commit a trespass by playing on private grounds, or in the street. This is education in the wrong direction. It teaches children to appropriate what does not belong to them. The bill makes the play of children legal. It gives them a place to play and that educates them in keeping the law. Surely the children should have a place to play without being obliged to play in the street, or to trespass on private grounds. With the spare hours coming with the lengthening days, and with one whole day in the week, free from school duty, with such a play ground there will be no occasion for ball playing on the street in front of our dwellings on the Sabbath or otherwise, and the children would thus be encouraged to obey the law instead of being allowed to violate it. E. A. Russell.

What We License the Saloon For

"Suppose I invite a young man up here," said Dr. E. L. Eaton in a recent address "and make a change in him in five minutes, transform him into what the saloon does in five months or five years. Suppose I stupefy his brain, poison his system, taint his blood, ruin his stomach. Suppose I deprive him of his energy, ambition, activity, fill him with disease, deaden his sense of morals and reduce him to a driveling idiot. Suppose I wrought such a change in the young man by a piece of magic. The ladies here would faint at the scene, and you men would rush to this platform and seize and string me up to the nearest lamp post in three minutes. "And you would do right. I should have no right live. "Yet that is exactly what the saloon is doing to hundreds of thousands of men every year, and the American people tolerate this horrible crime complacently year after year."

The "Invincibles" Won

Thirty-three to thirty was the score marked up in the basket ball game last Thursday evening between the Ord high school and the Invincibles. The score was in favor of the Invincibles, who played an exceptionally good game, no doubt the best game they have played during the season. The high school seemed to be out of form in the first half, which was probably due to lack of practice. In the second half they, too, like the Invincibles, played very fast and interestingly, and if they had started in their good work a little earlier in the evening the score would have had a different meaning. The ability of the Invincibles to throw goal was very noticeable, and the team work of the high school was very good. Some exceptionally good playing was done by Alford and Harris for the Invincibles, while Miner of the high school was deserving of recognition.

The Ice Proposition

Mr. Haskell, I wish to tell the people of Ord, through your paper, how I am fixed for the ice trade this summer. As every one is aware of the fact that it has been very difficult to get ice for the reason that our own creek was entirely a failure and the distance to haul from the other creeks, with the fact that the ice was too thin to handle to advantage, made getting any ice at all very expensive and the shortness of the season made it impossible to secure enough of it to supply the city.

I have some ice I will sell to the business part of the city for 25 cents per 100 pounds, this ice is not fit for private houses. Then I have some very fine clean ice, but it is not very thick, which I will sell to the business part of town for 40 cents per 100 and to the private houses for 50 cents per 100 pound. I think I will have ice enough to last until the middle of August and probably until September 1. Parties wanting ice can have it any time by calling me up. W. T. Draper.

Announcement

We wish to announce that we have sold the lighting plant in this city to M. M. Mickelson who will take charge on April 1, and continue the business.

As we shall be interested in the business for sometime, we have contracted with Mr. Mickelson that first class service shall be given, and we can assure our patrons that this will be the case.

We take this public means of thanking our many subscribers for their loyal support, and ask that the same shall be extended to our successor.

Your Right to Take a Drink if You Want It.

We are not questioning your right to take a drink if you want it. The issue is not total abstinence. But when you insist that the saloons shall be kept open to quench your occasional thirst, it becomes a community matter. These saloons kept open to serve you, sever other purposes. There are men unfortunately whose thirst, unlike yours, is perpetual; men who pass not an occasional coin but a week's wages over the bar; who spend in the saloon money that ought to buy shoes for the baby and a shawl for the wife, and who take home Saturday no groceries, but thick lips, swelled head, and a black eye. The boys tempted by the ever-present saloon, make up their minds that they would like to try it. And so this too high a price to pay for what some call a personal right? It most certainly is!

Bell Sells His Telephone Interests

Last week Friday a deal was closed whereby F. J. Bell disposes of his entire interest in the Ord Independent Telephone Company, I. V. Reasoner of Lincoln being the purchaser. This is the consummation of a long series of negotiations in which, D. A. Gard and I. H. Hatfield of Lincoln has figured prominently. Bell receives in payment for his stock a fine bunch of land near Holly, Colorado, and the balance in cash.

The purchaser, Mr. Reasoner is a son of the former treasurer of Garfield county, coming here with his father in an early day and spending most of his life in this vicinity. It is his present purpose to move to Ord as soon as arrangements may be made to that effect.

As a result of this change Mr. Bell has resigned as a member of the board of directors of the telephone company and as its president, and the board has been reorganized by the election of Reasoner and Hatfield as members and R. Sorensen as president and W. W. Haskell as secretary.

Very fortunately also the company has secured the service of Mr. D. B. Huff, present manager of the Greeley county telephone company, to act as manager, his term beginning on April 15 or as much sooner as he can be relieved from his present connections with that company. Mr. Huff is a splendid telephone man of wide experience and great congeniality. He has built up the Greeley company to a high state of prosperity and is even mayor of the city of Greeley. It is confidently believed that Mr. Huff will greatly strengthen the Independent company and will be able to straighten out any kinks that may exist between the company and the public. Until he comes Mr. Bell will continue in charge of affairs.

The Independent Telephone Company is in a most thriving condition, having better than 240 phones more in service now than it had a year ago and there are all kinds of opportunities to expand, the only limitation being its ability to supply the funds and do the work.

Will Try Raising Sugar Beets.

It just occurred to us the other day that we had not seen Dick Canfield behind the Bailey counters recently, and upon inquiry we learned that he has been in Colorado for several weeks, and, also, that he has purchased some irrigated land near Holly, which place we have read much of late. We understand that Dick did not purchase this land for speculating purposes alone, but for a home. It seems kind of odd to us as we picture Dick following a sugar beet row with the handle of a cultivator clinched in either fist. But it is not a picture, it is more than that, it is a fact. Dick is now a farmer, and to him we wish success.

Shipped a Car of Good Ones

Frank Harper came up to Ord last week Friday evening and on Saturday brought a car load of horses and mules, which he shipped out at once. He says that the market is slow now, it being harder to sell than to buy, which was not the case last year. But things are rightening themselves slowly.

Just a Word about the Parkins Watch

You cannot remember too well that this is the watch for hard service. The watch that will go to work with you, stand the hard knocks of your work and keep perfect time. Over one hundred and fifty of these watches in and around Ord and they are giving perfect satisfaction to their owners. Not one of these men but when asked will feel as though he wanted to tell you just how good a watch he has and how well he is pleased with it. You ought to own a Parkins watch.

Adjourned Regular Meeting

On motion the claim of Mr. J. R. Sharp for taxes paid in Garfield and Valley counties was allowed. Whereas it appears that the name of Ed. Wilcox was returned from Ord township upon the jury list, at the last meeting of the county board, and that by mistake the name was put upon said list as Ed. Nelson and that when the jury panel was drawn for the next term of District Court the said name of Ed. Nelson was drawn upon said panel, that said name is not the name of any person in Ord, Neb., or in Valley county, and that it was intended as and for Ed. Wilcox.

Therefore, the County Clerk is hereby instructed to issue a venire facias for said Wilcox as one of the regular panel for the next term of District Court.

On motion the committee on miscellaneous matters and insurance was instructed to re-insure the court house, as they deem best and at the lowest rates.

The report of the committee on official bonds was read, on motion the same was approved.

To the Hon. Board of Supervisors: Gentlemen:—Your committee on official bonds would recommend the approval as follows: Bond of Chas. Dalby, W. N. Preston, John Kokes and C. H. Downing, C. C. Rowell.

A girl employed in one of Uncle Sam's postoffices was reported recently as suffering from a painful malady due to licking postage stamps. If this trouble occurs a few times more the doctors will probably call the thing a new disease, and will dub it "postage stampitis."

Though the democrat national convention is still three months away there is all ready appearing a formidable opposition to the nomination of William Jennings Bryan. New York state is not for him and several other states are more or less of the same mind. The opposition is greatly strengthened by the appearance of Governor Johnson into the political arena, for this gives the enemies of Bryan in his own camp a chance to cluster around a definite candidate who has some real grounds for asking the nomination, and who would have reasonable demands on the loyalty of the party voters. Anyway at this time of the day it looks as though there would be other names proposed at the Denver convention than that of Bryan.

A Well Treated Thermometer.
A prominent physician of Baltimore tells of an amusing experience of the early days of his practice when he was residing in a small town where by far the majority of the workers were miners.
"I was greatly distressed at the unsanitary conditions prevailing in their cottages," says the doctor, "and, among other things, I tried to explain to each household the importance of maintaining a wholesome atmosphere in their sleeping rooms. I laid in a stock of thermometers, which were distributed to the household where they were most needed. I took pains to point out to each family in turn just how the thermometer would indicate the proper degree of temperature.
"As I was making the rounds one day I inquired of the woman at the head of one establishment, wherein I observed my thermometer proudly displayed at the end of a string, whether she had followed my instructions.
"Yes, sir," answered she; "I'm very careful about the temperature. I watch the thing all the time as it hangs up there."
"What do you do when the temperature rises above 68?"
"I take it down, sir, an' put it outside till it cools off a bit."

Orville Van Horn went to Grand Island Wednesday morning of last week to meet his brother Jay who was bringing his wife home from Milton, Wis. where she had been with her parents since undergoing an operation in Chicago last fall. She is not able to be up yet, but is gaining and it is hoped will be out in a short time.
Mrs. N. Bee has moved her millinery stock into the front room of the Walker building, where it will be more convenient for her customers. Although she is an old lady, Mrs. Bee's hand has not lost its cunning, and she enjoys a large patronage every season.

J. B. Williams and Nordahl Edgstadt were in Ord last week in the latter expecting to take an examination as to his ability to test cream. The deputy food inspector had sent him to the county judge for that purpose, but the judge had no examination to give him.
The little boy of Nels Madsen was badly hurt Friday, on the disc sharpener while playing about the blacksmith shop. His hand was caught between the large and small wheels, crushing it above the knuckles. The physician thought amputation would not be necessary.

The dancing season ended up rather disastrously at the town hall one night last week. Not very many were present and there seemed to be enough booze to go around. A fist encounter was indulged in, which wound up the event.
Mrs. Mary Brown and daughter, Freda, Mrs. Louise Gilberts and Mrs. Upmeyer, all relatives of the Schoenings and Minnie Brown, came up from the Island Thursday night, for a visit here.
Geo. Greenfield and family started out for Oklahoma, Monday morning. They expect to stop on their way, for a visit with Mr. Greenfield's mother who lives in Kansas.

Miss Effie Arnold, a niece of S. N. Arnold, arrived for a few days visit at the Arnold home in Springdale last Wednesday. This young lady's home is in Charlton, Iowa. She is on her way to North Dakota where she has taken advantage of a government homestead. Since it was not necessary for her to be on her claim before April 1st she seized the opportunity of visiting friends and relatives at this place. She departs for North Dakota today.

A Sunday School convention was held at Springdale church Friday evening. Martha M. Angelo of Lincoln was the principal speaker. The message she had for Sunday School workers in particular, and for the public in general was replete with new ideas for making the Sunday School more of a power in the community. The relation of her experiences as a far away teacher in the State Penitentiary at Lincoln was particularly interesting. We trust that Mrs. Angelo may be permitted to address the Sunday School of our community at some future time.

Quite an accident befell V. Barta as he was returning home from Ord Saturday evening. Soon after he had crossed the culvert at the end of W. D. Long's Cornfield his team became excited and began to run. To make matters worse his spring wagon, like Holm's famous "One Hoss Shay," fell to pieces. When the vehicle collapsed Mr. Barta's hand somehow caught in the wheel. The frightened team dragged him a considerable distance and his hand was injured painfully. He also received some scratches on the face and head. His injuries were so painful that he consulted a physician at once. He was informed that several bones in his hand were broken, and that the injured member would require medical attention for some time. An accident of this nature is always unfortunate, but it is particularly so at this time of year. Here's hoping the injured hand may mend rapidly.

PSOCLEM FOR EIGHTH GRADE
A farmer sold two horses for the same price. On one he gained one-fifth of the cost; on the other he lost one-fifth of the cost. He finally discovered that he had lost $15 by the transaction. What was the cost price of each horse?

Charlie Parkos visited at V Barta's Sunday.
The eighth grade arithmetic are still juggling with profit and loss.
A brother of Mr. Vodenal spent Sunday at the home of his sister.
Harry Rawles and wife and Albert King were at the Will Smith home Sunday.

Bennie Madison was greeting friends in this community Friday of last week.
George McLain and wife spent Sunday at the home of their son George in Springdale.
W. N. Hawkins and family entertained Sarah and Albert McLain of Ord Sunday.
Mr. and Mrs. Tolen of Ord, spent Sunday pleasantly at the home of their son-in-law, Will Edney.

Otto Smith is back in school again. He returned Tuesday morning after suffering from another attack of appendicitis.

March 17 was St. Patrick's Day. In order that the minds of the pupils might be clean as to the celebrating of this holiday which is so enthusiastically received by the sons of Ireland not only at home, but all over the world, its origin was discussed. For general lessons each pupil was requested to bring at least one statement about the dropping of St. Patrick. When all these ideas had been expressed the pupils had a pretty general idea why people wear the green on the 17th day of March.

We regret to state that Wayne Stanton has been dropped from our list of regulars in the school room. He has been a faithful student up to this time in the current year. His regular attendance and efficient work has been commendable. It is students of this character to whose dropping our hearts are averse. We trust that the time will soon come when with improved facilities the ordinary country school will be able to hold students of this character for the entire term.

A majority of our farmers must believe that "the early bird catches the worm," judging from their actions of late. Many may be seen busily engaged in disking or preparing Old Mother Earth in other ways for the seeding time which is not very far remote.
R. B. Haught and wife and son made the Barber home near Scotia for a pleasant visit recently. Although these good people are residents of Springdale, they take occasion to remind their Scotia friends that they are not forgotten.

Wilmore Gray and wife were Springdale visitors last week. They were entertained at the latter's parental home while sojourning here.

V. Barta Entertained the 'Klatch' Family Sunday

George Morris was at Elmer King's one day last week.
L. D. Timmerman was up from Lincoln on a business mission last week.

The eighth grammar are still hammering away at adjective clauses and conjunctive adverbs.
Williams Choice Literature is being taken up for discussion during the opening exercise period.
Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Hanson visited in Garfield county Tuesday. They were at the Will Nelson home.

Springdale contributed its usual number to the final entertainment on the Lecture course Tuesday evening.
The eighth grade physiology have taken up discussions of the bones, joints and muscles during the past week.
The parents of John Vodehnal spent the time from Saturday to Monday with their son who resides in Springdale.

Charlie Hawkins was on the sick list the latter part of last week. He is himself again, however, at the present writing.
The sixth grade grammar have been improving themselves in parsing of nouns, and pronouns, and comparison of adjectives during the past few days.

The Farmer's Independent Telephone company has completed its high line in this section of the county. This much needed improvement will be appreciated by its patrons.
Mr. and Mrs. Len Holloway departed for Oklahoma Monday morning via the Union Pacific. Mrs. Pearson and Clarence accompanied them as far as Grand Island on their journey.

Harley Smith presented himself again at the knowledge factory Monday morning after a two week's absence necessitated by a rush of work at home. The school is rejoiced that he may be with us again.
Agriculture is proving very fascinating to members of the eighth grade. Germination of seeds, seed testing and rotation of crops are some of the important phases being discussed this week.

Gertrude Hawkins desired to be in attendance at the different sessions of the district Sunday School convention which convened in Ord Saturday and Sunday. She was entertained at the L. W. Turner home while the convention was in progress.
We are informed that Jim Nelson was transacting important business Monday morning at the Valley county Sunday. Jim will certainly be compelled to explain the cause of these mysterious trips to his friends before they will be satisfied.

W. N. Hawkins attended lodge in Ord Monday evening. While Mr. Hawkins is an enthusiastic K. of P., long distance from town and pressure of business prevents his attendance at every meeting. Whenever possible, however, he avails himself of entering the benefits of the organization.
Springdale roads seem to appeal to the owners of automobiles judging from the numbers that spin along our thoroughfares. Among others we noticed a party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Capron and daughter Hazel and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mortensen taking a run into the country Monday evening. They went out as far as O. Hansons and returned.

Patrons have you planned to attend the County Teacher's Association on April 10, in Ord. Everybody who is interested in education and better school facilities for your children should plan to attend. Questions in which you are all interested will be discussed at the school board's section. By your presence show the rest of the county where you stand on school matters.
An eighth grade examination has been arranged by our county superintendent, for Thursday, March 26. This will be the last of the year for students desiring eighth grade certificates to take the examination in installments. A number of our eighth graders are taking advantage of this provision and are writing on these examinations. Parents who insist that their children write upon these examinations are to be congratulated.

The eighth grade history class during the past week have been looking into industrial development and politics in the U. S. between 1800 and 1825. They noted with more than passing interest the effects which the introduction of railroads and the building of canals had upon industrial development. The establishment of the gerrymander and political proscription in politics was also discussed with lively interest.

Miss Effie Arnold, a niece of S. N. Arnold, arrived for a few days visit at the Arnold home in Springdale last Wednesday. This young lady's home is in Charlton, Iowa. She is on her way to North Dakota where she has taken advantage of a government homestead. The relation of her experiences as a far away teacher in the State Penitentiary at Lincoln was particularly interesting. We trust that Mrs. Angelo may be permitted to address the Sunday School of our community at some future time.

Quite an accident befell V. Barta as he was returning home from Ord Saturday evening. Soon after he had crossed the culvert at the end of W. D. Long's Cornfield his team became excited and began to run. To make matters worse his spring wagon, like Holm's famous "One Hoss Shay," fell to pieces. When the vehicle collapsed Mr. Barta's hand somehow caught in the wheel. The frightened team dragged him a considerable distance and his hand was injured painfully. He also received some scratches on the face and head. His injuries were so painful that he consulted a physician at once. He was informed that several bones in his hand were broken, and that the injured member would require medical attention for some time. An accident of this nature is always unfortunate, but it is particularly so at this time of year. Here's hoping the injured hand may mend rapidly.

Special Demonstration on Direct Action Gas Range

March 30, 31 and April 1st

FROM 2:30 to 5:30 p. m., and 7 to 9 p. m. each day, Mr. W. O. Henderson, a special representative of the "Direct Action" Gas Range, will conduct a practical demonstration in the basement of the new First National Bank Building. At this demonstration practical baking will be done, such as biscuits, muffins, cookies, and also meats and fish will be prepared. The "Direct Action" Gas Range has many points of superiority over all other makes of ranges, and as it has the

Oven Burner Right in the Oven
It is not necessary to wait for the oven to heat, but all baking is placed in cold oven. This feature, together with the smaller consumption of gas used in Over Burner makes this great range accomplish the work done in any household (or kitchen) with a

Saving of One-Third in the Gas Bill
The purpose of the demonstration is to show to you that by using gas you can Get Rid of your Kitchen Troubles

and at the same time save money. Every lady in Ord, and the men, too, are invited to drop in during the three days exhibit, see how nice it is to use gas for cooking, and Sample our Coffee and Biscuits

The evening exhibit will also include a demonstration in gas lighting. You are cordially invited.

It takes a sharp swindler to catch the farmer napping these days.

A Little Harness Talk

Harness are high in price, it is true. It can not be dogged as everything that constitutes a harness is high. The main reason that this is true is because leather is very high as yet, as well as collars, hardware and labor. Therefore, a first-class harness can not be expected to be bought at a low price. Of course, there is always some inferior harness made that can be bought a few dollars cheaper, which are palmed off as good as any, but they are not for they can not be and you do not get them. You will not gain anything in buying cheap harness. Do not be misled. Come in and examine my harness before you buy, and if you buy my make of harness you will have a first-class harness, which will wear well and you will be pleased with it. I use the best leather obtainable, sew them on the best machine, the Campbell Lock Stitch or sew them all by hand by good and practical mechanics. My reputation for making good harness during the past 25 years ought to be worth something to you.

Good TO LOOK AT

That is what you will say when you get some nice, new, clean paper on your walls. Does not cost very much either if you get your paper here. We have eighty styles of new designs in Wall Paper for you to select from. Just as good as you will find anywhere, but our prices are a good deal less. We have several pretty styles at 10c a bolt (makes an average size room cost 90c for walls, ceiling and border). We have a lot of real pretty ones at 15c a bolt (makes an average size room cost you $1.35) and we have some heavy embossed, high-grade papers at 25c a bolt (makes an average size room cost you $2.25. You will find our best paper, 36c a bolt, as good as other stores ask 50c for, and please remember we sell the wall, ceiling and border all at the same price—if you buy here, the border costs you no more than the walls or ceiling. Don't send away for your paper. Come in and look at ours, bring your samples and compare prices and you will find you can buy it here cheaper than you can send away and get it. VARNISHED TILES, the kind of paper you can wash—makes dandy paper for a kitchen. We have two very pretty patterns. Come in and see them.

The Safe Paint---Sherwin-Williams

The owner of property should use this paint, not alone because it costs less by the job but because it looks best and withstands the sun and the rain outside and the wear and tear inside for the longest time. The one who knows prefers Sherwin-Williams to other prepared paint or hand-mixed lead and oil since it works easily and dries right and always gives a good job. We want you to use Sherwin-Williams paint because we know it is thoroughly honest and made of pure materials and that the guarantee of the largest paint and varnish makers in the world is behind every can. Sherwin-Williams is the safe paint, costs $1.65 a gallon. A full line of colors now on hand.

The entertainment by the Kathran Ridgeway Company at the opera house Tuesday night closed up the year's lecture course with a brilliant flourish. The company consists of Miss Ridgeway, reader, and a pianist and basso as assistants. These latter are good in their classes, but it is Miss Ridgeway who makes the company famous. She had the audience in command every time she appeared. The house was well filled.

A representative of the Campbell Bros. circus was in the city Friday evening making preliminary arrangements for the appearance of their show here. They will be here during the first week in May, probably about May 5. In the past Campbell Bros. have only visited us every other year but their advance man tells us that Ord has always been one of their best points and that they will make it again this year notwithstanding the fact that they were here last year. They are said to carry a larger aggregation than ever this year. While here their advance man made arrangements with the city authorities for privileges and with the Fair Association for grounds for the show.

The work of demolition of the old brick building north of the Bailey store owned by F. J. Dworak began last Saturday. This means that Mr. Dworak is really going to build this summer, which he declared he will do. He owns 3 lots 31 by 125 feet, and his new building will cover the premises, two stories high, which means a very fine building indeed. Dworak has taken his time for it and ought now to have a building fully up to the needs of his business. It will seem a little strange to find Dworak anywhere but north of the brick hotel, but as people found him when he was lost around the corner they will surely find him when he gets out in full sight, and in a fine building.

Mrs. John Beauchamp is one of the ladies who has had a gas stove installed this spring. Monday she made her first test of the stove's baking qualities. To see how it compared with her coal range for bread she got her coal range oven good and hot and then put part of her baking in the coal stove and part in the gas stove and then started the gas. It was a fair contest with bread of the same kneading and loaves of equal size. The result was as it always is in such contests, the gas had the bread baked a considerable time ahead of the coal stove and the bread was most perfectly browned. This was her first trial with the gas stove but she had not the least trouble in managing it.

It is proved beyond question that it pays to use gas for cooking and lighting purposes, and to convince you of this fact we ask you to take a light lunch with us at the new First National Bank building next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons and evenings, where practical demonstrations in the use of gas ranges will be had. Please accept this notice as a special invitation to you.

All Rebekahs and all Odd Fellows, and their families are cordially invited. Mrs. Davis presiding officer of the Nebraska Rebekahs Assembly will be a guest of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Braden are entertaining Rev. Walter N. Halsey this week. He was carefully disinfected after quarantine and seems glad to get out again. He says he has greater sympathy now than ever with the men behind the bars. Of course he means prison bars. Services at the Presbyterian church next Sunday as usual.

We failed to mention the birthday party of Keith, Kent, and Kenneth Stewart, a week ago last Saturday. The former two are twins and the latter has a birthday on about the same day of the year, so they have their parties all in a heap. There was a very pleasant time by a large company of little people who assembled to help the boys celebrate the occasion.

Miss Cosa Haskell came home for the week's vacation last night accompanied by Luverne Gass who came up for a visit with friends and will accompany the Haskell girls home again. Winifred will not be home till Saturday as she will visit Sterling to determine whether she will accept the school there.

LOOK UP OWN LIFE

Musa Perry Palmer Dies of Poisoning at Shawnee, Oklahoma.

Last Friday afternoon the startling and awful news reached Ord that Mrs. Musa Perry Palmer, was dead. The news came from Mrs. Meyers, a sister of Mrs. G. W. Milford, but contained no particulars.

Mr. and Mrs. Milford left the next morning for Shawnee, but no word came back to explain the death of the young woman, who was known to be in good health but a few days before.

But this week word came back to Ord from the newspapers of Shawnee and later by a letter from Mr. Milford stating that the woman took her own life, for reasons unexplained.

Musa was married some months ago to a man by the name of Palmer, but she has been away to New Mexico much of the time since living on a claim which she had taken prior to her last marriage. She returned to Shawnee a few days ago and was at home with her husband and Alberta.

The latter two are the only witnesses. Mr. Palmer says that at supper time she went to her room saying that she did not want any supper. The other two ate supper and later heard her groaning in her room and on investigation they found her in convulsions. Of course a doctor was called at once but she was dead before he came. A bottle of strychnine was there and a sealed letter to Mr. and Mrs. Perry An inquest was held and presumably a verdict was handed in this week calling the case suicide, for Mr. Milford's letter makes the plain statement that it was a case of suicide.

It seems incredible that this cheerful woman, with every apparent reason for enjoying life should seek her own death.

Musa came here in 1884 with her parents, being then about eight years old, her birthplace being Palmyra, Nebraska. She grew up among us and was universally loved by our people. She was married to Bert Milford, who lived but a year or so thereafter. He died of typhoid, and a few weeks later a daughter was born to them, who still survives.

Probably no news so shocking and unlooked for ever came to this community as that which told of the suicide of this woman. What could have led to it is beyond conjecture.

The funeral was probably held Tuesday for her parents were expected to arrive Monday from New Mexico.

Ig. Klima tells us that the farmers of the western part of Valley county are having a bushel of fun with the Comstock business men now for the rating they have placed on the sturdy farmers of that section. He says that the basis of the rating was not so much the ability and willingness of the farmers to pay as their record for sending away for goods to catalogue houses.

The rating was more on the order of a punishment of the farmers for patronizing other houses than those of Comstock. The merchants of course did not expect that the rating should get out, though they had the books printed and circulated among themselves. But one of the clerks took the book home one night and had it copied, and from this the ratings were divulged. There is a sore lot of merchants in Comstock these days, and they probably all feel that they have bumped up against something. Meanwhile the Ord merchants are helping do the business that has been lately going to Comstock, and farmers are doubtless learning that it pays to come to Ord anyway on account of the better stocks that are to be had here and more favorable prices.

A surprise was sprung on the public Monday, when it was noised around that the Crawford had sold the electric light plant. The purchaser is Mr. M. Mickelson of St. Paul, Nebraska. Mr. Mickelson is a traveling man who has saved his money and wishes to retire from the road. He will doubtless move to Ord and take active management of the plant early in April. Meanwhile the Crawford will run the plant for him. At present the plans of the late owners of the plant are not matured, but they will doubtless get busy at something soon. Here's wishing the new management of the electric light plant success.

Fire of an unknown origin entirely destroyed the Murry Haywood flouring mill at Arcadia last Wednesday night. The owner of the property is said to have carried insurance on the premises in the sum of about two-thirds its actual value. The loss is quite a severe one to Arcadia as the mill was one of its leading industries and was doing a thriving business. As it was a paying institution it will undoubtedly be rebuilt at once.

Miss Bessie Clements returned Tuesday night from her sojourn on the Pacific coast. She is looking much improved in health.

The Order of the Eastern Star initiated a new candidate into their order last Friday night and celebrated the event with the usual big banquet.

Miss Mildred Kemp went to Lincoln Saturday, on a visit for a few days with friends at Lincoln and University Place. She will be home about the middle of next week.

Mrs. Charles Gossett and children departed Tuesday morning for Papillion, where the home of the Gossetts will be for the present at least. Mr. Gossett had preceded them.

We made an error in announcing that Steve Weare had bought his former home east of the Unitarian church. He bought his former home, but not this one, which still belongs to Mrs. Coffin.

The Union Pacific depot was treated to a couple of coats of paint on the interior last week and in consequence things look pretty neat about the premises for which Agent Frick is making no roar.

Mrs. G. W. Seiver went over to Sargent to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Jensen for a few days. Mr. Seiver is over there building a house for the Jensens and of course this adds another attraction to Mrs. Seiver.

A. B. Arkland of Grand Island drove into the city last Thursday evening, and will have charge of the Singer Sewing Machine business in this section. His family followed him later, and are located in the first door east of the opera house.

It comes to us on good authority that our esteemed neighbor H. M. Davis, has accepted a position with Mr. Horner, the chautauqua man, as one of his chautauqua managers this summer. Mr. Davis will without question make good in this work, and we wish him success.

The Presbyterians of Ord and vicinity are beginning to make preparations for the entertainment of the Presbytery of Kearney, which is to meet here April 14, 15 and 16. The Ladies' Presbyterial Missionary Society comes at the same time and Ord will have the pleasure of meeting and hearing some of the best people from the surrounding communities.

There was a sort of "call of the wild" in the spring atmosphere yesterday and when J. H. Capron asked the writer to take a spin with him over into Mira Valley the invitation called louder than the demands of the work piled up in front of us. A few more experiences like that trip and we will be mortgaging our next year's salary for an automobile.

Having decided to settle the question of license by direct vote on that question, the people of Burwell have dissolved the old high-license party and dubbed a new organization as the Public Improvement party. This looks wise to the writer. This infernal annual scrap over the election of these petty officers ought to be abolished, and the best men named without regard to their stand on the saloon question if only they would enforce the law.

Tom Jablonski is putting in good licks improving the old Hamel property in the southeast part of the city these days. He has moved and raised his barn, cut out some superfluous trees, and will next tackle the house adding several feet to the height and otherwise bettering it. He figures that he will have enough to do to keep him out of mischief this summer. Tom is not the kind of a man to fool away any time if there is anything to do.

At about ten o'clock Friday night the fire alarm sounded and on looking out it was seen that the Siler barn accompanying the brick residence was on fire. The fire boys were on hand promptly and succeeded in preventing the spread of the fire, and also kept the barn from being wholly destroyed, but the building will have to come down, as it is beyond the repair stage. The cause of the fire is unknown. The barn in that same locality burned some years ago one windy day when Mr. Hayes owned the property, when a horse was burned. This kind of a fatality was avoided this time, for the live stock was gotten out. The barn was insured by the Phenix of Brooklyn.

One of the features of the Hoyte theater success "A Bachelor's Honeymoon" will be the magnificent gowns worn by the leading lady. Miss Belle Rosa, who appears as "June Joyce," has been playing in New York the past season, and before going west had her entire wardrobe designed by a leading modiste of that city especially for this production. This feature will be of interest to the ladies who attend this performance on Monday evening March 30, at the Wentworth opera house.

Manager Wentworth has secured the great Hoyt theater comedy "A Bachelor's Honeymoon" for March 30 at the Opera house.

This play has proved one of the successful attractions of the present season. It opened in August and has continued to make a hit for over eight months. All the nearby cities where the company have appeared have appeared speak in highest praise of the performance and no one should miss seeing it.

On account of being away so much C. A. Hager declined the nomination for councilman from the second ward on the dry ticket. After canvassing the situation well the committee decided to appoint E. L. Johnson for the place. The universale expression from people of that ward was in favor of nominating him. This is the hardest ward in the bunch for the dry people to carry, but there is good show for his election.

Dr. Clason has fitted up his feed yard in pretty handy style. All you have to do is to drive in and hitch under the shed in front of a manger of hay. You can feed your own grain or his, and when you are ready your team is ready too. The yard ought to do a good business in the summer time at least.

Harold Parks severed his connection with the Chapin haberdashery and went to Lincoln this morning to buy goods for the Purity Candy Kitchen in which he has invested some of his surplus cash.

Claude A. Davis, agent of the Phenix Insurance Company, carried the insurance upon Mrs. Hull's barn. The Phenix is one of the strongest companies and its settlements are always liberal.

W. E. Chapin has secured the services of an experienced clothing man from Merna who will arrive in a few days and take the place left vacant by Harold Parks.

A successful dance in many ways was the dance last Thursday evening. The invitations were issued by Allen Clements and Frank Norman, and to those receiving invitations assurance was given that good music would be furnished and the proper kind of a gathering had to make it pleasant for all. And this was the case, for the music was excellent and all other things in connection with the dance were pleasant and congenial for all those who were fortunate enough to be present.

Invitations are out announcing the approaching marriage of Dr. Charles Weeks, of Scotia, and Miss Marie Sears, of Cotesfield. These two excellent people are well known to a good many of our readers, as the bride-to-be is a Valley county girl, a daughter of E. S. Sears, who for years lived in North Loup and later on a farm south of there. Dr. Weeks is also well known in this part of the valley having been born and raised in Scotia, where he is now practicing medicine with marked success. The date for the wedding is the 30th of this month. The Quiz extends the usual congratulations.

J. E. Crawford and Harry returned from Omaha last Saturday evening where they have been taking in the automobile show. As yet they have not decided whether they will purchase a new car or not.
