Wedding Bells

A quiet home wedding was celebrated last Monday morning at seven o'clock at the home of C. D. Bragg when Mr. John D. Rockhold and Miss Gladys Gibbons were united in marriage. Rev. N. H. Hawkins performed the ceremony in the presence of the relatives and Mr. and Mrs. George Steele. The young man is one of the popular young men of Comstock and a reliable young business man of good business ability. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. E. C. Gibbons and has grown up in our midst and has a large circle of friends who wish her much joy in her married life. After the ceremony the wedding party sat down to a wedding breakfast and the couple took the morning train for Omaha where they sojourn for a short time before settling down to married life in Comstock. The news and a host of friends extend congratulations and best wishes.—Comstock News.

Under the auspices of Miss Ethel Newbecker a general shower was given at the Dr. Newbecker home last week Friday evening, in honor of Mrs. Marie Barber Wisda. The affair was kept entirely dark from the victim, who was lead to the daughter by Miss Lickly. The affair was no doubt greatly pleased with this remembrance on the part of her young friends.

Hurt While Biking
Fay Paist, employed at the First National Bank a couple of weeks during the absence of O. E. Adams, was the victim of a rather serious accident one week ago Sunday. He left here that morning on his wheel for his home at Elba and went a few miles east of Ashton and about 8 o'clock in the morning he was in some way thrown from the wheel at the bottom of a hill, where he was found unconscious and taken to a nearby farm, suffering with bruises from head to foot and unable to continue his journey home. When found, Mr. Paist was lying near a small bridge, his wheel being on the opposite side of the structure uninjured. It is believed that in going down the hill the wheel struck some obstruction or a small ditch across the road, which was noticed and he hurried headlong, striking against the bridge, although Mr. Paist remembered nothing of the occurrence. He returned here last Thursday, showing bad abrasions on head, face and body and being too badly injured to continue work; left the next day for Elba, where he has not been heard from since.—Loup City Northwestern.

Do you remember those old rain storms that used to come up from the northwest in the face of a strong south wind? Those old fellows which stretched all across the heavens as far as the eye could reach—a dark rolling line of clouds hugging close to the ground and with a shining sheet of water connecting it to earth? We used to get them back in the '80s, but they have been a thing of the past about ever since. Monday night a small one of the sort appeared in the western sky and brought us a shower. It was not one such as used to be, but it brought back pleasant remembrances. Maybe the little one Monday will be the forerunner of the return of the old kind of rains. Say, didn't those old fellows soak the ground, though?

Robert G. Ross of Lexington is having the Big Sixth placarded with announcements that he wants the nomination for congress. This very ambitious candidate is not at all modest for he declares that he would like the nomination of all parties, naming them in the order of peoples independent, democrat, republican and prohibition. We hope the versatile Robert has all the virtues represented by these parties and none of their faults. But if he has the fact does not shine out in his face, a picture of which is printed on the bills.

Fined for Beating His Wife
Last week Friday night Sleet Yarnell went home and after stepping out for a minute came back and found the door of his house barred against him. This did not suit his notion of things and he went to the Frick house near by and procured an ax with which he broke in. According to the testimony when he emerged through the door his wife came down on his defenseless head with a club and the result was a bloody wound, which Mrs. Frick kindly bathed and looked after. But before receiving the ministrations of the neighbor Yarnell attacked his wife and beat and kicked her severely. While his injuries were the bloodier hers were the more permanent, for when the matter came to a trial Tuesday, her face showed the signs of the blows while his wound was healed.

Hearing the screams of the children and other evidences of commotion Frick went there to prevent murder if possible. He found the door panel smashed in, and the door still locked. He called to Yarnell and that person came out immediately, and was taken to the Frick home for repairs. Meanwhile Mrs. Yarnell fled to the Rockhold home for shelter. Later on Frick went to the house of war to get Yarnell's hat, the owner not caring to venture in, but the place was then deserted.

Saturday Yarnell was arrested charged with assault and battery on the person of his wife, and the prospects were good for his going to jail in default of bail, but Charlie Siler took pity on the poor fellow and agreed to stand good for the return of Yarnell to face the music Monday morning or forfeit $100 in good money.

Very soon after his release it was found out that Yarnell had de-camped. The sheriff was notified and every effort was made to apprehend the fugitive. It was found that he had gone to St. Paul and later to Loup City. Sunday morning taking one of his reliable Reos Charlie and the officers of the law went to Loup City for their man, but it was found that he had gone. For a while it looked that the quarry would escape, but after some more use of the phones it was discovered that he had gone toward Rockville, and thither the Reo was made to speed. The man was found and taken in charge and brought to Loup City. At about dark Monday night they set out for Ord over slippery roads. But after a hard struggle with mud and lack of gasoline they finally pulled into town at about 4:00 in the morning.

Tuesday the trial was had before Judge Gudmundsen and there were plenty of witnesses and something of a lawyer scrap, but it wound up with a penalty of ten days and costs.

Exercising his right of appeal that process was resorted to and bond was promptly given, Charlie Siler going on the bond along with Mr. Vest and Ed Timm.

So the end is not yet. There will be a lot of more costs and the county will settle the bill. Charge the whole affair up to the saloons.

Man is a creature of queer impulses. We once knew a barber who said he never shaved a man without sensing a desire to slash his wind-pipe. Carl Ford said he never crossed Iowa lake in the old Indian canoe free from the impulse to give one despairing whoop and jump overboard, though he couldn't swim a lick. And there are others. A. J. Russell of the Minneapolis Journal writes: Speaking of the irresistible impulses and longings in connection with the crazy man in Jersey City who could never see a fleshy woman on the street without longing to throw himself on her breast and be hushed to sleep like a tired child (which longing very naturally got him into the asylum). Oliver Herford states that he has an irresistible impulse to throw an egg into an electric fan. Another person admits he never sees a bald head but he wants to spank it. A Buffalo man confesses that he never saw loaf sugar but that he didn't want to snake dice with 'em.

A picnic given by the Odd Fellows at Wolbach last Friday called a lot of Ord folks down that day. With them went the Ord base ball team, who had a contest with their old sporting enemies the Greeley nine. The score was 6 to 5 in favor of Ord, and the picnickers were highly pleased with the contest.

Nearly everybody will want a state daily during the political mix-up now going on and the Lincoln Journal cuts its price to January 1, 1911 to $2 with Sunday or $1.50 without. You know why The State Journal is the paper to give the straight of what is going on and you'll get a lot for your money if you send it right away.

The U. P. sent out a long train from Ord last week Friday on account of the show at Grand Island. Many of our people went and freely admitted that they were going all the way to the Island, while many more were only going to St. Paul or some other point this side of the real spot.

Forty Years Crop Record
Holdrege, Neb., July 29.—F. M. Wright, who recently became a citizen of this place, having moved here from Bertrand, has kept an account of the crops in the South Plate country for the past forty years, and he has just prepared a statement of his observations.

Mr. Wright has not been a resident of the state for forty years, but became interested in Nebraska in 1860, when his father was making arrangements to move out here from the east. Mr. Wright began keeping an accurate record of crops at that time, the first few years obtaining his information by correspondence with friends and from papers sent him from this part of the country. Later he moved here and since has lived in various parts of the farming sections of the state. The record given below shows how Nebraska has fared in the way of crops since 1869:

In 1869, big crop; 1870, failure; 1871, good crop; 1872, good crop; 1873, short crop; 1874, failure; 1875, good crop; 1876, good crop; 1877, good crop; 1878, good crop; 1879, good crop; 1880, short crop; 1881, good crop; 1882, good crop; 1883, good crop; 1884, good crop; 1885, good crop; 1886, good crop; 1887, good crop; 1888, good crop; 1889, big crop; 1890, failure; 1891, good crop; 1892, good crop; 1893, short crop; 1894, failure; 1895, short crop; 1896, good crop; 1897, fair crop; 1898, short crop; 1899, short crop; 1900, short crop; 1901, short crop; 1902, bumper crop; 1903, good crop; 1904, good crop; 1905, fair crop; 1906, fair crop; 1907, fair crop; 1908, short crop; 1909, short crop.

Mr. Wright says that by examining the table it will be seen that the years 1869 and 1889, just twenty years apart are exactly the same. The same likeness follows with 1870 and 1890. In 1871 and 1891 and so on through the entire list. After 1874 there followed an era of good crops and if the rule continues in the future as in the past, an era of good crops is ahead. This year, according to the twenty year rule, he says would be a failure, and as far as results can be anticipated considering the whole farming district of the state that will about be the case.

Last Friday night Miss Edith Robbins returned to Ord, having finished her summer's work at the Kearney normal. Early in September she will sail for Europe where she will spend a year or two in music. Of course she will be with Floyd while he remains there.

Geo. Stover left with a covered wagon last Saturday morning, bound for South Dakota. In the evening E. J. Williams went up to Burwell and joined him at that place. They expect to be gone a couple of weeks, during which time they will travel over Tripp and some adjoining counties. They took along all the necessary outfit to hunt, fish and have a good time.

Alluring Prices Paid in Alaska

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—Would you care to run a truck farm with strawberries selling at $1.25 to $2 a quart, cucumbers $2 to $5 a dozen, celery 50 cents each, tomatoes 50 cents to $1 a pound, and other products at proportionate prices? Or would you prefer general farming with a few pigs and chickens as a side line, with hay selling at $60 to $100 a ton, hogs 30 cents a pound, young pigs 75 cents a pound, and eggs $2 a dozen?

These prices are received in Alaska under favorable market conditions, but the prospective settler should consider the difficulties and expense of farming as well as the high prices of his products.

Alaska is not generally given much consideration from an agricultural standpoint, and yet, despite the rigorous climate, a large variety of grains, small fruits, and vegetables are being successfully grown. Experiments are being made with tree fruits, but the results thus far have not been very encouraging. The work conducted by the government with grains at the Rampant experiment station has been an unqualified success. Varieties of nearly all grains have been found that grow well.

A cattle breeding station at Kodiak is working to develop the milking qualities of Galloway cattle, as they are the most hardy and best adapted to the climate. It is believed that this will be accomplished. The object will be to furnish hardy, acclimated cattle to settlers in the country at a price not higher than the cost of taking them from the United States. The coast region is well suited to the raising of cattle.

There are several successful farmers in the vicinity of Fairbanks, some of whom are general farmers, and others are running market gardens. While they are meeting with some failures of parts of their crops by frost and cold and wet summers, yet they are learning by experience to overcome many of the discouragements of the climate.

The climate shows a wide variation from 90 degrees Fahrenheit at Rampant, on the Yukon river, in July, with an average for the month of 63 degrees, to 69 degrees below zero at Fort Egbert, near the Klondike gold fields, in January, with an average for the month of 40 degrees below zero. The coast towns are mild for that region, neither Sitka nor Kodiak reaching zero during 1909, while Juneau, only reached 5 degrees below in January, with a daily mean for the month of 14.15.

The annual report of Alaska agricultural experiment stations for 1909 has just been issued by the United States department of agriculture and is for sale by the superintendent of documents, government printing office, Washington, D. C. It gives a complete report of the work being carried on at the four experiment stations, together with extracts from letters written by different growers showing results with different seeds furnished by the stations.

Open Letter to Hon. J. W. Crabtree
Candidate for Nomination for State Superintendent

Dear Mr. Crabtree:— I have just received your announcement and your card setting forth your qualifications for the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction, for which office you ask the support of the voters of our state at the coming primary election.

Of your educational qualifications for this important office I have no doubt. Realizing, however, that you have been a disturbing element in the Normal School at Peru for several years I should deem it disastrous to the educational interests of our state should you succeed in being elected.

You are fully aware, I am sure, of the means used by your friends, if not by yourself, in securing the position of President of our Peru Normal, which means were far from being creditable to your friends or to yourself. Your appointment was not due to your educational attainments, for creditable as they were, it was generally admitted that they did not excel those of Dr. Clark whom you succeeded.

In your scrap with our present normal board you should have followed the example of your predecessor. When he found that you and your friends had secured a majority of the members of the board against him, he did not air his grievances in the newspapers. He did not appeal to the voters for a vindication. He did not feign political persecution and martyrdom. He did not act the coward or the baby, but with the best interest of the Peru Normal School always uppermost in his mind he did what you ought to have done and what any self respecting teacher should and would have done, when he filed his resignation and quit.

With these facts before me I must decline to "speak a good word for you" as you request. Signed
Yours truly,
PETER MORTENSEN.

Uncle Walt, the Poet Philosopher

Sing me something low and tender, sing it softly, Susan Jane, for I could not bear the splendor of a loud heroic strain. In the beauty of the gloaming when the gold is in the west, and the airships cease their droning (that's a word I've just impressed), when the glowing stars are watching from the skies they long have lit, and I sit here slowly scratching where the doggone chiggers bit, let your song be sweet and swaying,— that will give my soul repose, while I scratch, with one hand spraying chigger lotion 'neath my clothes. Sometimes when the day is dying, and the mystic breezes blow, and my world-worn heart is sighing for the rest it may not know, of the stars I ask this question: "Why were chiggers ever born? They are worse than indigestion, fiercer than an aching corn. They are worse than jumping measles, than a bunton on the tongue; in the name of loads and teazles, why were chiggers ever sprung?" Sing a song of vanished faces and of happy days at home, while I scratch the itching places with a good, stiff curry-comb.

Democratic spectators at the republican county convention yesterday afternoon who expected to see a big scrap, were sadly disappointed. Everything was harmonious to a degree. The delegates present were apparently chock full of vim and enthusiasm, confidence and certainty of victory, and the meeting was one big jollification. There were no discordant notes to be heard, each speaker was applauded heartily, smiles were on every face and altogether the meeting was a good one to see. It was plainly evident that the republicans of Gage county will present a united front to the enemy this fall, and the democratic hopes of a house divided against itself have gone glimmering.—Beatrice Express.

Norman Collison has had a small coyote chained in his father's barn for several weeks, the result of a raid on a den in the hills. Yesterday morning the brute was sent to Grand Island to help some ambitious Barnum to start a show. Chickens will multiply much faster now in the vicinity of the Collisons than they have been doing since the small coyote was watching everything that came within the range of his chain.

Mechanics went to work last week Thursday on the new front of the post office and this week they are putting the Cornell front in. These modern fronts are just the article for looks and show.

Prize Articles Wanted

Wishing to do something that might be of help to the boys, and feeling the effects of the use of tobacco is wrong, as well as injurious to health, have decided on the following plan:

To offer in prizes, $7 for the best article, $5 for the second and $3 for the third, on the effects and results, from the use of tobacco on the human system. That there is to be a limit, not to exceed 250 words in each essay and that all be sent in not later than Oct. 1, 1910 on condition that 4 or more of these papers be sent in, and this contest is limited to residents of Valley county.

The plan is to have three or five judges appointed to decide the contest and the three best at least, be published in the county papers with the names of the ones that win. No name is to be signed to the paper, but the names to be on separate paper when sent in so judges will not know the author. All papers sent in to remain the property of the one offering the prizes.

All papers to be sent to Lock box No. 983, J. B. Williams, North Loup, Nebr.

Mrs. Joseph Kiker, nee Ora Frazier, one of our teachers last year, came up from Cushing one day last week for a visit at the Dyehome and with other friends. Later her husband came down and together they returned home Monday morning.

HASTE KILLS TASTE.

Everywhere haste mars art among us. What is the reason for so rampant a failure as the congressional library at Washington? Simply that haste precluded a thorough maturing of the general scheme and prevented the mural painters either from harmonizing their work with the whole or even doing their individual best.

CONVENTIONS MEET

DEMOCRATS AT GRAND ISLAND, REPUBLICANS AT LINCOLN.

COUNTY OPTION IS THE ISSUE

Republicans Adopt County Option Plank and for a Direct Legislation.

Democrats Reject County Option and Endorse Eight O'clock Closing Law.

VOTE ON COUNTY OPTION
Republican
For 558
Against 276
Democratic
For 198
Against 647

The republican state platform reviews achievements of the party and endorses the work of its leaders.

Favors the creation of a non-partisan board of control for state institutions.

Endorses county option. Favors restricting the state for legislative purposes. Endorses direct legislation.

The republican party of Nebraska has declared for county option. This fall it will go before the people of the state with its candidates, endorsing that issue as a further regulation of the liquor traffic and pledging the republican candidate for governor to sign, if he is elected.

Grand Island.—Nebraska democrats have wrested the leadership of their state organization from William J. Bryan on the issue of county option.

NORRIS BROWN, United States Senator from Nebraska.

Insistence on needed legislation. The county option plank was recommended by the committee, as was also the administration plank and the non-partisan board of control.

The convention was absolutely in the hands of the county optionists. Little had been heard about direct legislation, but when the appeal from the committee came it secured almost as strong endorsement as the county option plank.

All other matters of political import having been subordinated to the one chief issue, the wildest scenes of enthusiasm and energy were witnessed during the discussion which touched on the subject and during the roll call which was to decide whether the convention would refuse to touch the matter or would take a pronounced attitude.

Plot to Betray the State. Mr. Bryan declared that he had learned on his return from South America of the plan to betray Nebraska into the hands of the liquor interests.

"Wets" Win in Honolulu. Honolulu.—In the special election ordered by congress to determine whether the Hawaiian islands shall become "dry" and the importation of all liquor be prohibited, the "wets" won in Honolulu by a vote of 3,833 to 815.

Columbus, O.—A strong conservation plank, on lines suggested by the "progressives" in the Ohio republican convention, and an endorsement of President Taft satisfactory to both "progressives" and "regulars," were two prominent results of four hours' work by the sub-committee on resolutions of the Ohio state convention.

Fargo, N. D.—Governor John Burke of North Dakota was endorsed as the democratic nominee for the presidency in 1912 at a meeting of the democratic party of the state held here reached such heights that the roll call was temporarily suspended. Likewise when Judge Frost of Lancaster announced clearly that fifty-six votes from Lancaster county were on the county option side.

As inserted in the platform the county option plank reads: "For the further and better regulation of the liquor traffic in Nebraska we favor the passage of a county option law by the next session of the legislature, and pledge our candidate for governor if elected, to sign such a law on that subject as the legislature may enact."

Congressman Norris had been turned down for chairman by a vote of 2 to 1, and he came to the platform at the invitation of his successful opponent, Senator Brown, and had declared that the utmost harmony and understanding prevailed between himself and the senator.

Every protest against the wrong is insuring for the fight. We are unalterably opposed to the system known as "Cannibalism" and are in hearty sympathy with the insurgent movement in and out of congress.

Roll call was asked for, but the chairman finally put it viva voce and declared it carried.

The democratic platform endorses the last democratic national platform and state platform of 1908 and 1909. Condemns the Aldrich-Payne tariff bill. Favors conservation of national resources.

Grand Island.—Nebraska democrats have wrested the leadership of their state organization from William J. Bryan on the issue of county option.

Mr. Bryan, speaking from the platform in behalf of the minority plank presented by him, was greeted by shouts of applause and was listened to in silence.

Lincoln.—"We rejoice that the issue for which we have so long stood is the dominant issue in Nebraska politics."

and that he felt called upon to present the political burglary of the state.

"The republican party and the popular party of this state have adopted county option," said Mr. Bryan in conclusion; "if you do not adopt it, it becomes an issue. Your speakers say the tide is turning toward democracy in national issues; then make your fight on them, not in defense of the liquor traffic."

Mr. Bryan made no comment after the vote and in answer to questions referred to his speech in which he proclaimed his fealty to the democratic party and its platform.

Amid a tumult of cheers from the former followers of William J. Bryan, Premier Chairman Smythe of the democratic platform convention today read the result of the test vote from the gathering which practically took from Mr. Bryan the democratic leadership of Nebraska, which he has main-tained for twenty years.

The vote came on a motion made by Congressman G. M. Hitchcock, a candidate for the senatorial nomination and in effect was to eliminate the introduction of platform planks, with accompanying speeches, unless submitted as a section of the majority or minority report of the committee on resolutions.

Mr. Bryan, seated as a member of the Lancaster county delegation, was upon his feet at once with a protest and proffered an amendment that would modify the intent of the original motion.

The temporary organization was made permanent and Chairman Smythe after a brief speech, selected a committee on resolutions. Mr. Bryan was among the first two of the committee of seven named.

Chairman Yoakum of the Frisco Railroad a Convert to Improvement, Telling Farmers to Fight for it.

Niagara Falls.—Co-operation between the federal and state governments in the good roads movement was advocated by speakers at the opening session of the third annual convention of the national good roads congress.

In the discussion which followed Martin Dodge of Washington spoke in favor of the national government making appropriations equal to the amount expended by the states for road construction.

Mr. Yoakum said: "Your organization stands for a duty sadly neglected by the government. Good roads mean more for the people at large than any other public work, and add more to the comfort and upbuilding of the country. They are of national importance."

"If you will strengthen your organization through a strong concrete organization of working forces in each state, and will interest the congressmen and state authorities by getting them to realize that one of the most effective ways to promote the growth of the country and expand its agricultural development is through the encouragement of better roads, in the course of a few years we will have a system of public highways second to none in the world."

When Jailer Schroeder was about to deliver the supper to the prisoners, and just as he had opened the cage door, he was struck a vicious blow on the head by one of the men.

Stockholders Guaranty Deposits. Burt County.—Something new in the way of bank guarantee was projected at Lyons by the Farmers Bank of Lyons. An agreement was entered into among the stockholders whereby they waive the protection of all laws favoring corporations and place behind their guarantee all their private property. In an interview with the vice president he says they think it is all right to pass a guarantee law, but all wrong to make one bank pay for another's failure, hence the bank's stockholders volunteer to put all they are worth behind it.

Cumling County.—The farmers in the southeastern portion of Cumling county have organized an association for the purpose of handling for themselves the products of their farms and to buy farm necessities. AFTER FOUR YEARS OF MISERY

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md.—"For four years my life was a misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, terrible dragging sensations, extreme nervousness, and that all gone feeling in my stomach. I had given up hope of ever being well when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Then I felt as though a new life had been given me, and I am recommending it to all my friends."

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has stood the test of years and to-day is more widely and successfully used than any other female remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed.

LEWIS' 'SINGLE BINDER'

A hand-made cigar fresh from the table, wrapped in foil, thus keeping fresh until smoked. A fresh cigar made of good tobacco is the ideal smoke. The old well-cured tobaccos used are so rich in quality that many who formerly smoked the cigars now smoke Lewis' Single Binder Straight 5c. Lewis' Single Binder costs the dealer some more than other 5c cigars, but the higher price enables the factory to use extra quality tobacco. There are many imitations; don't be fooled. There is no substitute. Tell the dealer you want a Lewis' Single Binder.

More Serious.

"Mathilde Browne was very rude to an over-dressed old woman she met on the street the other day."

The Home of the Cod.

There is just one other great cod bank in the world besides those off Newfoundland. It lies off Cape Agulhas, which is the southern tip of Africa, and south of the Cape of Good Hope. The Agulhas plateau is said to be almost a duplicate in size and richness of the north cod banks. But this is too far off, so there is little prospect of its appeasing the hungry appetite of the world for cod.

I hereby announce that I will be a candidate for Republican nomination for a second term as County Attorney, at the primary election, August 18, 1910.

CLAUDE A. DAVIS.

Announcement

I announce myself as republican candidate for member of the House of Representatives from the 55th district, asking the favor of the republican voters, to support me at the primary election. Yours truly,
JOHN CEPLCHA.

For Representative

I have filed for the republican nomination for representative from Valley county and shall appreciate the support of all who favor honest, efficient work in the legislature. If nominated I shall endeavor to be elected and if elected I shall endeavor to vote and work for all honest and needed measures.

M. E. MCLELLAN.

One week from next Tuesday is the day for the primary elections. Go to the polls that day and vote. It is in every way as important that you vote then as it is for you to vote when the regular election day comes.

Once before the democrats broke out of the pen and ran over their leader, W. J. Bryan, but they came to disgraceful grief. They will suffer a like fate here in Nebraska, now that they have trampled Bryan under their feet.

In marked contrast to the democratic discord is the harmony shown in the republican state convention. There were doubtless many men there who were bitterly opposed to the proposed county option plank, but they were awed into silence by the overwhelming majority who were for that plank, and so kept discreetly silent. The result was that perfect harmony prevailed and all went away feeling enthusiastic for the republican party and its success.

Clafin's prohibition paper, the University Place News, has commenced at once talking against county option, just as the brewers and the saloon men are doing. Anything that looks like prohibition is fought by the prohibition party papers unless it can be had through that party. The success of prohibition would be the death of this insignificant party and the bosses of the Clafin stripe are not going to see their party thunder knocked out if they can help it. But they can't do much. If these fellows cared for prohibition they would be helping elect the republican ticket this fall, but it is not prohibition but party these folks are fighting for. The country voters will doubtless refuse to sanction the licensing of saloons. In these cases county option will mean prohibition, and it is prohibition by a commonwealth that has every moral right to prohibit if it chooses.

EXCHANGES

Will Taylor returned to this city Tuesday evening with a bride in the person of Miss Mary Small of Omaha, where they were married on the 25th. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Enevoldsen of this city. They will make their home here. At the same time occurred the marriage of Miss Martha Lyman, daughter of Mrs. Dr. Lyman, who is the eldest daughter of the late John M. Taylor, and sister of Will Taylor, to Mr. Chas. Classen.

Last Thursday afternoon, on complaint of S. H. Branscomb, a man by the name of Jas. Irvine, aged about 70 years, a charity ward of Rockville township, and cared for the past few years by Geo. Brammer, at the expense of said township, was brot before the sanity board, adjudged insane and on Friday morning Sheriff Williams took him to the asylum at Hastings. The old man was a native of Pennsylvania and divorced from his wife some years ago. He had one daughter married and who is now dead. The board found him subject to epileptic spasms, of unsound mind and at times considered dangerous in his tendencies.

On Tuesday morning of this week, Henry Tangeman Sr., and Henry Tangeman Jr., father and son, of Rockville township, died within half an hour of each other, the father dying from a dropsical affection and the son from cancer. They were old residents of Sherman county and well and favorably known. While N. P. Nielson was raking hay last week one of the mules he was driving kicked at the flies and struck the tongue, breaking it in two, letting the front part of the rake pitch forward, throwing Mr. Nielson to the ground under it. The mules by this time were running at full speed down the hill, rolling him over and over, the rake teeth tearing his body, until one of the wheels passed over his neck, thus freeing his body. The distance he was rolled was about 15 rods, his shirt being torn off and he was bleeding from head to foot. The worst injury was to his left arm, which he has been unable to use much since. He also received several bad cuts on top of the head. His neck might easily have been broken when the wheel struck it. When seen by the carrier, Mr. Nielson was feeling pretty good and glad that he is alive.

Charley Siler, of Ord, has brought up a display of his Reo automobiles and has opened a garage in the old restaurant building in the north part of town. Jerry Schuyler is in with Charley on the deal and is showing his Brush run-about to prospective purchasers at the same location.

Mrs. Mima Rendall Smith was born at Westeray, Orkney, Scotland, March 21st, 1849, and passed peacefully away at her home in Burwell, July 23, 1910. In 1858, when nine years of age, she came with her parents to the United States, locating near Northwood, in northern Iowa, and it was here she spent the years of her girlhood. In June 1871 she was united in marriage to William Smith, and in 1872 they came to Nebraska to make their home, locating on a homestead near Burwell, where they shared together the many trials and hardships of pioneer life—hardships the severity of which we can scarcely realize. Mr. Smith died at Denver in July 1891. Mrs. Smith was the mother of seven children, four sons and three daughters, one of which, a son, has preceded her to the spirit land, the children living are, Darl, of Seba, Canada, Solonias, of Pibel, Nebraska, Mrs. Jennie Brown and Mrs. Nellie Wilson and Claud and Ella of Burwell. Of her own immediate family three survive her, John Rendall, of Manley, Iowa, Mrs. Wright of Northwood, Iowa, and Mrs. Sawin of Northwood, Iowa. Funeral services were conducted from the Congregational church Monday afternoon, at two o'clock, Rev. Gearhart of that church having in charge the services. Interment was made in the Burwell cemetery and a large number of friends followed the body to its final resting place.

We were at Ord Friday and were more than ever impressed with the need Valley county has for a better court house. The building we have was all right and answered the demands in its day but that day has now become ancient history and a new building should be erected. We have lacked much in keeping abreast of the times in the matter of having a modern home for our county officials.

Their intent evidently was that of burglarizing the place, as the top of the desk was broken open. The books and papers were scattered in their attempt to find something valuable. Facts About Nebraska

Very few people have any idea of the productivity of Nebraska. They have some comprehension of the gold output of the nation and of the several states. They think of the copper output as something wonderful. They think of the tobacco crop as one of the nation's great resources. Yet they utterly fail to realize that Nebraska produces in grains and grasses more wealth than the gold mines, the copper mines or the tobacco plantations.

Wonderful stories have been told of the Alaskan mines, and thousands have been lured to the mountains of the west and the frozen wastes of Alaska by the glitter of the yellow metal. But in 1909 the corn crop of Nebraska was worth $5,000,000 more than all the gold mined during the same year in the entire United States, including Alaska and the Philippines.

We have heard about sugar and its protection until we are apt to imagine that the sugar crop of the United States is something magnificent in its proportions. But the 1909 wheat crop in Nebraska was worth $5,700,000 more than the entire sugar production of the United States during the same year.

Texas is a great state, and it takes the lead in cotton production. We have heard a great deal about "King Cotton," but the 1909 oats crop in Nebraska was worth $1,500,000 more than the 1909 cotton crop of Texas.

Kentucky is the greatest tobacco producing state in the Union, and we are apt to believe it means more to Kentucky than any grain crop means to Nebraska. But the 1909 egg crop in Nebraska was worth $500,000 more than the 1909 crop of Kentucky tobacco.

Rockefeller acquired his wealth from petroleum, and we are apt to imagine that the crude petroleum product is something far surpassing the entire product of Nebraska's fields and stockyards. Not so! In 1909 the Nebraska live stock product was worth $9,000,000 more than the total crude petroleum product of the United States for the same year.

Illinois is one of the great coal producing states of the Union, and coal is one of the boasted products of the Sucker state. But Nebraska wild and tame hay in 1909 was worth $14,000,000 more than the 1909 output of Illinois coal.

Nebraska butter in 1909 was worth $3,000,000 more than the total gold and silver output of Colorado's mines for the same year.

Nebraska's 1909 corn crop was worth $23,000,000 more than the Nation's tobacco crop for the same year. Nebraska live stock, cereals, grasses, butter, eggs, fruit and poultry in 1909 was worth as much as the Nation's output of bituminous coal, save the output of Illinois, mentioned above.

The 1909 potatoes of Nebraska were worth $1,800,000 more than the 1909 output of Arizona's gold and silver mines.

Nevada is a great mining state, but her 1909 output of gold and silver was worth $1,000,000 less than Nebraska's 1909 crop of alfalfa.

Nebraska's total addition to the material wealth of the Nation, in the shape of live stock, dairy products, poultry, eggs and manufactured goods was worth $8,000,000 more than the total cotton crop of the Nation.

We hear much of the iron and steel industry, but Nebraska's beef and pork in 1909 was worth $45,000,000 more than the product of iron ore of that nation, valued at the mines at $45,000,000. Isn't it a wonderful state? And isn't it our duty to spread a knowledge of it about to the land hungry and industrious peoples of the earth?

One day last week the little daughter of Emmett Collins had her nose smashed while playing ball with other little tots. Some future ball player was swinging a bat and she got her tender nose in the way of the blow. Every young man or woman who wants to prepare for a bank or office position of any kind should write the Grand Island Business and Normal College at Grand Island, Neb., for a catalogue. We understand that every student of this school is placed in a position as soon as he or she graduates and those who prefer may graduate from the College and pay expenses in monthly payments after a position has been secured. President Hargis has been at the head of this school for twenty years and under his management it has grown to be one of the most important institutions in the Western States.

SOCIAL EVIL EXPOSED AND MORAL LESSON POINTED FROM THE STAGE.

Dr. Hopkins from the Chautauqua Platform Talks Plain Truths.

"A man and a woman," said Mr. Hopkins, "sat beside each other the other evening at the Studebaker theater. They were both married. In other words, the man's wife was home with the children. The woman's husband was on the road eating his Thanksgiving dinner in a mean little country hotel, but thinking how much his wife missed him, as she often wrote she did, and how pleasant a thing it is to work for such a dear woman."

"But as the plot of the 'Commanding Officer' unfolded, the woman's face became serious. She saw how if you tell one lie you have to tell a dozen. How a little misunderstanding may be a temptation in disguise to commit a great wrong. How deep, black and awful is the abyss of destruction when you stand on the edge of it. How an infant's hand is stronger than a giant's, if only that infant is in the home."

"The show was over and the man and woman stepped out on Michigan avenue. He slipped his arm through hers and said, 'Now, let us go somewhere for a quiet little supper.' She replied, 'Thank you; the play ought to teach us all a lesson. It shows just where flirting and lies and all that sort of thing lead to. I am not afraid to go home alone, if you do not care to take me now, but I am going home.'

"No church in the city today will preach a better sermon than that drama. Perhaps if preachers said the same things as the actors, folks would not listen. If they did, they would only say, of course, that's preaching and he does it for money or notoriety. When actors and actresses preach like that it sounds different. Well, thank the Lord, so long as the essential thing gets spoken."

"Thank God for one company that steps out of the flth that submerges about two-thirds of the theater and preaches righteousness. 'How many married fools need the lesson can be inferred from the fact that one in every fourteen weddings ends in the divorce court. And you can visit every house in five blocks in a good residence district and you will find five babies or twenty children, and there is a reason and that reason is raising Sheel with the American home.'

LOVELAND, A SELF-MADE MAN.
Because he had been a most prominent pastor in some of the other prominent pulpits of the denomination Dr. Frank LaFayette Loveland was called to the First M. E. Church of Omaha a little over three years ago. The church was in bad shape, mighty bad; the congregation was small and discouraged; the building was in bad condition and a funeral pall seemed to pervade Omaha Methodism.

Nothing daunted, Mr. Loveland took the whip hand. Things soon began to pick up. His preaching filled the pews and his business judgment helped to untangle the financial difficulties. Today that congregation is paying Dr. Loveland the largest salary of any preacher west of Chicago, and he has two assistants, which enable him to give some time to outside engagements.

The Omaha preacher brings a virile message to the Chautauqua platform. He is a man with a purpose and drives straight to his object regardless of obstructions and difficulties. He does not seek to say the popular thing, rather to say the necessary thing when the occasion seems to demand.

Dr. Loveland has become one of the most popular platform speakers of the United States and the management of the Chautauqua feels pleased to announce that his time has been fully taken by the Redpath System for the season of 1910.

Carkoske & Brown did not find a ready sale for the western horses they brought into town lately and Monday they shipped three carloads back to the Island, putting them on the market Tuesday. The dry weather has stopped folks from buying horses and other things that need hay and grain, which had something to do with the lack of interest in these horses on the part of the buying public.

The New Clothing Store

We want this Store to be known as the Home of HART SCHAFFNER & MARX Clothes, as we consider that a good way to give notice to the well dressed men of this community that this is a progressive Store.

The excellence of these Clothes is well known to every man who pays any attention to dress, even men who have never worn them know they are good Clothes.

When you read the statement that we are the Home of HART SCHAFFNER & MARX Clothes, you know a good deal about our Store before you enter it. It gives you a "line" on us, and you know what to expect when you come in.

For one thing you know it is a single Standard Store, that you will not have to hunt through a lot of stuff of all sorts and grades, with uncertainty as to whether you will get something good or something not good.

The dealer in all kinds of quality no matter how conscientious he may be, can't protect you from quality mistakes.

We sell only one high grade line, and it's the best one. When you come here you choose your clothes from nothing but good ones, and your mind is cleared of all uncertainty beforehand.

To offer you all wool fabrics perfectly tailored, correct in style, and made to fit, that's a service no other Store in town offers you, and when you get to know it, you will appreciate it.

Why will people endanger their lives and property by using gasoline stoves when they can possibly save two or three dollars a year over the cost of gas for the same period. You will pay large sums for life insurance and considerable sums for property insurance and then for a paltry sum endanger both. The reason is you think gas bills are something awful. You have the idea but you do not know where you got it, perhaps, or maybe someone who does not use gas has told you so. Surely you did not get the information from gas users. Every gas user in Ord is a satisfied user. If they were not satisfied they would not continue the use of gas. Let us prove to you that you ought to cook with gas.

OBITUARY

Katie Kahill was born on the 10th day of October 1857 and died the 31st day of July 1910 at the age of 52 years 9 months and 21 days. She was born in Vermont and at an early age moved to Alman, Wisconsin, where in 1874, at the age of 17 she was married to Willis B. Casler.

To this union three children were born, all of whom survive, being Mrs. T. B. Garrison of Portland, Ore., Mrs. Edna Swepston and Mrs. Grace Selden of Omaha.

With her husband, Mrs. Casler moved in 1897 from Wisconsin to Nebraska, driving overland with ox teams and braving all the hardships of those pioneer days; coming direct to Valley county and settling on a homestead, later moving to Elyria where she passed away.

About three weeks ago she was stricken with the illness that finally resulted in her death. Her last days were full of suffering but through all she was patient and trustful. The husband and daughters were constantly at her bedside administering to her needs as only loving hands can.

The funeral occurred Tuesday afternoon. Services being held at the home conducted by Rev. E. A. Russell of Ord. The ladies of the Ord Rebekah lodge and the Baptist choir of this place furnished music. The host of friends present attested the high regard in which she was held. With them we join in extending our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved ones in their day of sadness. The interment was in the Ord cemetery.

Sunday School Convention

On July 31st at Mr. Mank's grove, six miles northeast of Burwell, the second annual Sunday school convention of Garfield county was held.

At about eleven o'clock a. m. Sunday school commenced with Mr. McGrew acting as superintendent. The school was divided into three classes, Mr. Gearhart taking charge of the bible class, Mr. McGrew the young peoples' and Mrs. John Wittsche the infants'. These teachers all knew their lessons well and were very interesting talkers. Mr. Joseph Connor reviewed the lesson.

After Sunday school was dismissed we all partook of the bountiful lunches which we enjoyed immensely. Mr. Mank was so kind as to bring water for the thirsty crowd to drink for which we were all very grateful.

At about two p. m. the meeting reopened. As one of the speakers was absent, Miss Stella Woods consented to take their place by reading a few verses from the Psalms and explaining the same. She spoke especially of God's mercy and goodness to us and that we should forget the curling corn leaves and the rain that did not come, and be thankful for the good things which he has given us. "For his mercy endureth forever." Her closing prayer was short but very earnest.

Miss Fern Davis's recitation "Convention" was well rendered.

Mr. Miller had to cut his talk short on account of losing his charts and maps which he had taken great pains to prepare, nevertheless he made a good speech. He spoke especially about the adult bible class, and interesting men and women in the Sunday school work.

Mrs. Younkell had charge of the home department work. She thought we were not persistent enough, when we asked some one to come to church of Sunday school, instead of saying in a half hearted way, "Won't you come to Sunday school?" we should cheer up and tell them how we miss them and that we really want them to come. "That we are enjoying our religion, and it will not be long 'till they will want to try it too."

Rev. Gearhart told us some of the things he heard at the state convention at Kearney. That of training the boys and girls up to be good teachers in the Sunday school he thought very important. Instead of having teachers who were inexperienced and ignorant of the Bible's teachings, we should select competent ones.

The temperance question was spoken of by Mrs. Younkell. She also attended the state convention and told some things which Rev. Gearhart did not.

The Rosevale school sang a song. Mrs. John Wittsche gave a splendid talk on her department, the cradle roll.

Mrs. C. C. Robbins and Dr. Emma Robbins returned last Saturday night from their trip to Yellowstone Park and other western points. They had a great time and are glad that they went. On their way home they visited a sister of Mrs. Robbins and her folks.

Winifred Haskell returned to Ord last Saturday night. She has been attending summer school for a few weeks, but will now stay at home and rest up pending the opening of school in Ord. She left Mrs. A. W. Gass still sick in bed, as she had been for several days.

Yesterday morning V. O. Johnson departed for Genoa, where he will sojourn briefly and then depart for his new home at Shoshone, Idaho, where he will start out in the law business again. There are few better lawyers than Johnson, and the people of Shoshone will not be long in finding it out.

The latter part of last week Mrs. Gregory made another trip to Arcadia to visit her mother, Mrs. J. A. Tricker, returning to Ord Monday night. The sick woman has no chance for recovery, so her doctors say. She is suffering with cancer of the liver and other complications, and her condition is such that the doctors dare not operate.

I. W. McGrew and wife of Burwell came down to Ord on the early freight Tuesday morning and transferred to the U. P. for a visit to Grand Island where their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Shuman are in business. Mrs. Shuman has his store on the north side of the track and as it is the only one on that side he figured that he would strike a live wire and he did.

W. L. McNutt and Alvin Blessing, both of Ord, were promiscuously scattering themselves about this city on Monday of this week. We can remember the time very well when both of these gentlemen occupied responsible positions in the court house of Valley county, one being treasurer and the other clerk. They are now both gentlemen of leisure. Just how they worked their two offices to attain this end is not quite clear, but at any rate we enjoyed a visit from them.—St. Paul Republican.

Mallory Still After the Money

The first round in the fight over the estate of the late Lucy Holtzman Mallory Fox was begun in the county court Wednesday afternoon shortly before 2 o'clock. Attorney Reardon, for Frank Mallory, filed a petition asking that the bond of the executor, Robert Fox, be fixed, since Mallory, the divorced husband of Mrs. Fox, appealed the divorce case to the Appellate court. It is presumed that Attorney Reardon will ask that the bond be made twice the amount of personal property, which would be $100,000 or $110,000.

Attorney Sachse, of Morris, and Judge B. F. Lincoln, of Ottawa, representing Robert Fox.

Attorney H. B. Smith is associate counsel with Mr. Reardon.

Mrs. Holtzman, who was a widow, married Frank Mallory, who now resides in a soldiers' home. They did not live happily, and she brought suit for divorce. The jury decided against her. Sometime afterwards she settled on Mallory $3,000 and he did not resist the second case, when Mrs. Mallory secured a divorce. She then married Robert Fox, of Morris, and when she died she willed him all her estate except two $5,000 bequests and a $1,000 bequest. Mallory claims that he was illegally divorced and that as the legal husband of the deceased he is entitled to share in the estate.—Morris, (Ill.) Herald.

County Superintendent Shuman tells us that there are a dozen schools in Valley county not yet provided with teachers, and some of them are among the best of our country schools too. The trouble is that these districts are demanding experienced teachers and there are not that kind to be had. The officers, she says, come to her and almost blame her for not having more experienced teachers on hand, but she declares she is not to blame. "The trouble is," she says, "too many of our teachers are getting married. I have tried my best to keep them from marrying, but they will not heed either precept or example, so what can I do?" This is really a serious situation, we admit, and we freely confess that Miss Shuman has done all she could do in the affair, unless it be that she might have picked out the fellow who was likely to take away some one of the schoolma'ams and married him herself, or better still she might have made them goo-goo eyes at a whole lot of these fellows and so kept them out of the general market till after school commenced. In this goo-goo business Miss Shuman has apparently wholly neglected her duty and so the young men have been free to run off with the school teachers. The law ought to make it the duty of the lady county superintendents to turn their charms to good account in saving our giddy school mams from having free opportunity to commit matrimony.

Last night George A. Percival stepped from the U. P. passenger as it slowed up at Ord. Mr. Percival has been out in Idaho helping to start a bank for other parties and as he was going back to his home in Lake Odessa, Mich., determined to run up to Ord and take, as he predicts, his good-by look at this city. Percival was one of the early business men of Ord. He came here in the spring of 1882 and started the Ord City Bank in the dinky little building at the southeast corner of the square where cream is being bought now. He stayed with the bank till after it had been changed to the First National Bank and was occupying its fine brick building. At about the time of the establishment of the Ord City Bank the Quiz put in its appearance and Dr. Halde-man hung out his shingle. All three of these are still doing business. All the other Ord business houses of that day have passed on, and it is remarkable that the three to remain till now should have been established at practically the same moment. Mr. Percival will remain here and in this vicinity for a few days.

N. C. Jensen had a mighty close call a week or two ago. He had just hauled his hay stacker to a new location and was inside stacking it down, with the team still attached to the outfit. Something scared the team and they ran away, starting with such suddenness that Nels was not able to get out. With the team going at a furious pace he was dragged some distance when the outfit finally bobbed up enough to drop him out, coming down, however, on one of his legs, badly bruising and lacerating that member. The wounds are still bad ones, though Nels is getting along pretty well. The affair might easily have resulted fatally, so he is glad he got out as well as he did.

O. M. Parkinson was here for a few days on a visit with Ord friends. Mrs. Parkinson went first to Ericson to visit her son, O. L. Horr, and family. They are now living in Los Angeles.

W. R. Wright and family departed this morning for Callaway where their home is. They have been enjoying a visit under the parental roof.

District Judge J. N. Paul and Judge Thompson of Grand Island came down from Burwell Tuesday night so as to take the train for home yesterday morning. E. P. Clements brought the wayfarers down in his auto as far as Ord.

Yesterday morning Lew Peters and family departed for their South Dakota home. Since returning to Ord some weeks ago he has been getting things in readiness for this departure. He has a home provided for the family there and is sure that he has struck it right in his new location.

Plenty of farmers are thinking now that they made a mistake in plowing up their winter wheat this spring when the prospect for it was so poor. Some fine reports are coming in as to the yield of wheat. The wheat raised by Z. Tobias on one of the Charles Bals places has turned out 30 bushels per acre.

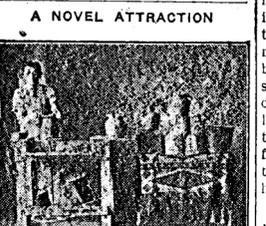

On the strength of several judgements an attachment was levied on the loose personal effects of Ross Murdock last week Friday and the property taken in by the sheriff and stowed away for safe keeping. Being a single man anything that they could find of his not attached to his person was subject to levy, but all this did not amount to enough to cover the judgements.

Crawford Mortensen phoned over from Lake Doris Monday that his machine had gone wrong and would not run, though the engine would clip along at a very creditable rate. Not being able to see what ailed the thing it was necessary for him to have council. E. J. Bell was therefore drafted into the service and went over Tuesday morning to tighten up a bolt and send the machine home flying.

Mrs. Jesse Laverty arrived in the city Tuesday night for a brief visit before moving to Denver, where Jess is managing the Denver end of the Laverty commission company. Her children had preceded her a few days. You would not have guessed that the children of this family had grown to such size in the few years that they have been away from Ord. But children have a way of growing out of your remembrance if you do not see them frequently.

All Rosevale was visited by a drenching rain Monday morning and the farmers are in high spirits that way. As is usual in dry spells the corn in the hill country has not suffered so much as the general run of the valley farms. In fact the corn has been growing all along through this dry spell, though of course nothing like it ought to. But the fields there were all green still when the rain came and the farmers figure that they will get some corn if any kind of a decent show is afforded them from now on.

Collecting an Old Debt

Another chapter of the once famous Prall-Lashmitt case was put before the district court of Garfield county Tuesday, and Judge Paul was there to hear it. Do you remember this case? Years ago over some irrigation ditch troubles Prall and Lashmitt got into the courts. All the way from Jerusalem to Jerico—from Loup county to Lancaster—the case was dragged through the courts, Prall usually being the loser. And in the final end the judgement was clinched onto him. But Prall had not her way of defeating justice, though he had large possessions. He got his property out of his hands and has been endeavoring one way or another to avoid the payment of this judgement. But the difficulty of keeping the property hid by putting the title of it into other hands is always precarious where family ties are pleasant and congenial but doubly so when husband and wife quarrel and other relatives are not too much in love with the real owner. Well, nearly two decades dragged away since the suits began, the judgements being kept alive by devices known to all good lawyers. However the matter was so quiet that in an unguarded moment Prall let the bars down. He had a farm in Loup county, which he had deeded to his son, who at once deeded it back to Prall. The former deed was placed on record, so as to make the record read that the land belonged to the younger Prall, but the latter deed was filed carefully away. Finally Prall sold the land and sent his long horded deed up for record and executed a new deed to the purchaser. Attorney Bragg of Burwell, who is interested in the case, discovered that the money was in the Burwell First National Bank waiting the perfection of the title, and he landed onto the thing with guarantee proceedings. And it is the settlement of this affair that the court had to deal at Burwell this week. Judge Paul took the matter under advisement and will go back to Burwell on the 24th to hand down his decision.

Good Word for Mattley

This paper has always stood up for Custer county men, regardless of politics, for we always like to see Custer county men get to the front. W. S. Mattley, a well-known and prominent business man of Ansley, is asking the republicans of this Fifteenth senatorial district, comprising Valley, Blaine, Custer and Loup, to send him to Lincoln next winter as their senator. Mr. Mattley is among the pioneers of this district, having been a resident of both Valley and Garfield counties, before moving to Ansley about ten years ago. He is recognized as a good business man and we have no doubt he would faithfully represent the district should he secure the nomination. Of course we are not endorsing Mr. Mattley's candidacy, outside of speaking a good word for a political opponent who is a worthy citizen of Custer county.—M. C. Warrington in Mason City Transcript.

Albert McLain was over in Mira Valley yesterday to look after his farm. As it was hot and dry when he went away he was coastless. Well, as he came on the way home over the hills south of town a gust of wind caught him as he came over a high spot and upset the rig. By the time he got things straightened up it was raining hard and his horse refused to travel so he had to lead the brute. By slow degrees he came on to the Mike Prestele place, two miles distant and was taken in and given a change of raiment and warmed up, after which he came on to town. Do you suppose McLain had been cussing the dry weather more than the rest of us, that he should be treated that way?

The barn on the Charles Cromwell place, which was recently bought by Joe Marks, was struck by lightning last night and is a total loss. By hard work Joe got his four valuable horses out and also the main part of one set of harness, but all else went up in smoke. Fortunately there was not much other property in the barn in the shape of grain and hay, but there was some of both and also many other things including collars, bridles, saddles and other things. As soon as the roads dried up a bit today Henry went out to take some collars out for the horses, for all these were destroyed. The wind was fortunately in the right direction or the granaries and corn cribs would have gone along with the barn.

Mrs. Carl Johnson and her cousin, Miss Bibby, went to Osawatimie, Kansas, this morning. Miss Bibby has been visiting here for a few weeks and persuaded, without much difficulty, Mrs. Johnson to accompany her home. Carl will follow in about two weeks.

Last Friday T. D. Lickly received a telegram announcing the death of his sister's daughter at Kearney. Up to that time the Licklys were not aware that the young lady was sick. Saturday morning he and Miss Alice went down to attend the funeral.

Does it Pay?

The campaign which is being put up against Senator Burkett by some of his political enemies and more especially Chas. O. Whedon, a candidate for the United States Senate shows too much of the vindictive spirit to appeal to the average republican voter who takes time to look into the subject.

It is evident that the methods used by Mr. Whedon against Senator Burkett are such that in the event of the latter's nomination by the republicans a great deal of the ammunition which will be used by democrats against Senator Burkett will bear the Whedon brand.

In a number of misleading statements prepared by Mr. Whedon and which are being sent broadcast over the state he says: "Mr. Burkett voted against Free Lumber."

The facts in the matter are that Senator Burkett worked for Free Lumber, spoke for Free Lumber, and voted for Free Lumber, and the record so shows.

Mr. Whedon says that "Senator Burkett voted against an amendment reducing the duty on barb wire."

Senator Burkett introduced an amendment reducing the duty on barb wire from $2.70 per hundred to seventy-five cents per hundred and the record so shows.

Mr. Whedon further says that "Senator Burkett voted to increase the duty on Boots and Shoes."

The facts in the case are that nobody voted to increase the duty on Boots and shoes. On the other hand the duty was lowered 66 per cent by the new law.

Are the people going to be deceived by misstatements emanating from a candidate for Senator Burkett's position who so disregards the truth that his statements bear the brand of personal vindictiveness instead of political decency?

Commencing on August 2 Rosevale began to get mail from Ord instead of from Burwell. This is much more satisfactory to the Rosevale folks as they are mostly patrons of this city. Will May has the contract but his wife is doing most of the driving. The trip is made three times a week.

Wife and Country.
Paul D. Cavath, the noted New York lawyer, said at a luncheon at the Lawyers' club: Vacation time is here, and already that dreadful song about the wife gone to the country is being resuscitated. But a variant to the song was furnished by a conversation I overheard the other night. "Hello, Smith," said one man to another. "I'm glad to see you back at the club again, old fellow. Wife off to the country eh?" "No," growled Smith. "She's got back."

GORE TO GIVE NAMES

OKLAHOMA SENATOR WILL PRESENT FULL DETAILS.

IS TO TELL OF BRIBE OFFERED

Members Will Visit the Indians and Learn, if Possible, How the Contracts Were Obtained From Them.

Muskogee, Okla.—Investigation of charges made in the United States senate by Senator T. P. Gore, that he and a member of the house of representatives each had been offered a bribe of $25,000 to foster a scheme whereby the Indians of Oklahoma were to be deprived of $3,000,000 profits due them through the sale of asphalt lands in this state, is to begin here at once.

On the eve of the investigation Senator Gore said: "I will tell the full details of the scheme hatched at Washington to mulct these Indians of $3,000,000 through the sale of their lands. I will give names, dates and other circumstances relative to the bribe of $25,000 offered to me and to a member of the house of representatives to remove our opposition to the scheme which would throw that vast sum of money into the hands of private attorneys."

The committee was appointed by the house of representatives to investigate what are known as the McMurray contracts with the Chickasaw and Choctaw tribes of Indians. It is headed by Congressman Charles H. Burke of South Dakota. Senator Gore probably will be the first witness.

Feature of Postal Banks.
Washington.—A central clearing house in each state for the purpose of settling all matters connected with the payment of interest and the care of accounts is a feature of the postal savings bank system adopted by the committee of officials that will make recommendations to the board of trustees.

For a long time the committee faced the necessity of providing some method for the settlement of the depositors so that it would avoid delay incident to the transmission of all such matters to this city.

Wireless Officers Indicted.
New York.—Seven officers of the United Wireless Telegraph company, most of whom had previously been arrested, were indicted by a federal grand jury on two counts—one charging conspiracy to defraud by the use of the United States mails, the other charging conspiracy in devising a scheme to induce investors to buy worthless stock.

Mrs. Muena Wants Reward.
Louisville, Ky.—Mrs. C. A. Government Sends Guard.
Constantinople.—In consequence of the massacre of more than 100 Christians and Mussulmen in three villages in the Hauran district of Syria by Druses, the government is sending a powerful military guard to restore order. Hauran has been seething in revolt ever since the constitution was established.

Fire Destroys Northwestern Shops.

Boycott American Goods.
Canton, China.—A boycott of American goods on similar lines to the one which several years ago caused millions of dollars damage to American trade, has been proclaimed here in response to complaints of the treatment of Chinese in America. The specific cause is the objection of the Chinese of San Francisco to the detention sheds on Angel Island in San Francisco bay, which they have been endeavoring to have removed to San Francisco proper in order to secure better treatment for arriving Chinese.

Many Men Are Reinstated.
Montreal.—About 50 per cent of the 5,000 Grand Trunk conductors, trainmen and yardmen who struck on July 13 have been reinstated in their old positions. Many of the men running trains were taken from other branches of the service and they will be sent back to their former employment, thus making room for more strikers. In the end, it was stated, there will be enough positions for the men taken on during the strike and the old employees.

STATE CAPITAL LINCOLN NEB.

State to Enforce Irrigation Law.
Assistant Attorney General Ayres has gone to North Platte for the purpose of asking a judge of the district court to dissolve the restraining order issued by the county judge of Scotts Bluff county. The county judge has issued a temporary order to prevent the state board of irrigation from closing the headgate of the Gering Irrigation company. As Scotts Bluff county and Lincoln county are in the same judicial district, a district judge in the latter county has jurisdiction over the subject matter and has power to dissolve the county judge's order. In Lincoln county there is situated the North Platte Land and Improvement company, which under the state law is claimant No. 1 and has priority over all other claimants for water from the North Platte river. The state board, comprising Governor Shallenberger, Attorney General Thompson and Land Commissioner Cowles, recently ordered claimants for water to close their headgates and take water from the river in the order of their priority. This order was deemed necessary on account of the scarcity of water in the North Platte.

Nebraska a Leading Shorthorn State.
Only three states in the union will receive as high as $1,500 from the shorthorn breeders' association toward the shorthorn exhibits of the country this year. The states are Nebraska, Iowa and Minnesota. Upon investigation it was shown that Nebraska was entitled to as much consideration as a shorthorn state as any state in the country, and so she was placed this year among the top notchers. Those who attend the different state fairs of the county have been aware of this for some years, but it was not until this year that the board of directors of the shorthorn association could be made to see the wrong position in which Nebraska has been placed in former years, and the board promptly changed the record so that this state is placed in the first class. Visitors to the state fair this year, September 5 to 9, will probably see the advantage gained in the increased exhibits of shorthorn cattle.

To Fill the Vacancy.
Miss Rilla T. Ferguson has been appointed to fill the vacancy of county superintendent left by the death of Superintendent Burkett. Miss Ferguson was for a number of years assistant to former Superintendent Bowman when he held the office in Lancaster county. She will now hold the office until November, when a superintendent will be elected to fill the vacancy until the term expires January 1, 1912.

Will Be the Greatest.
Secretary Mellor says the state fair to be held September 5 to 9 promises to be the greatest, not only in the history of the fairs of Nebraska, but of any fairs which have been held in the west. The entries in all departments have been large and will crowd the space allotted. It is feared by the management that unless better facilities are added they will, in some cases, be unable to accommodate all exhibitors.

Has the Time of His Life.
Jack Best, of the state university, who is enjoying a vacation at his old home in England, writes Dean C. E. Bessey that he is having the time of his life. He feels as lively as when a boy roaming through a forest that is now Penke recreation ground, a most beautiful spot, as shown by a picture sent. He is visiting his brother, who just reached his eighty-seventh birthday.

Will Go to Louisiana.
Professor Albert T. Bell, professor of botany in Nebraska Wesleyan university for the past eight or ten years, has been appointed professor of botany in the Louisiana state university at Baton Rouge. He succeeds Professor Ernest A. Bessey, who goes to the Michigan state agricultural college at Lansing.

State Fair Railroad Rates.
Secretary W. R. Mellor has received notice that a round trip rate of one and one-half cents has been granted by railroads for the Nebraska state fair. This rate is to be given by all of the leading roads for stations where the fare is more than one dollar.

The state railway commission has issued an order requiring the Lincoln Traction company to give to the city of Havelock after September 15, the same rate that is given on all other suburban lines of the company, a six for a quarter fare, or five cents for a single fare.

Lots of Automobiles.
The number of automobiles returned by county assessors to the state board of equalization will be double the number returned in 1909. In that year there were returned 3,611, while with six counties not yet reported, there has been returned a total of 6,481. April 1 when the assessment was made there were registered in the office of the secretary of state a total of 9,286 machines, and a year before a total of 5,877.

The assessment of hogs and pigs came up before the state board of assessment. In some places a sow is assessed at so much and no account is taken of the little pigs. In other places a certain value is placed on a sow and eleven pigs. As a result, the average value of pigs in the various counties shows a great variation and the state board of equalization is in danger, according to the assessors protesting, of making unwarranted changes in an attempt to equalize what appears to be widely disproportionate values.

LOOK OUT YOU BUSH LEAGUE PLAYERS, MAYORS' SCOUTS ARE WATCHING YOU

Experts Are Roaming Around the Land Hunting for .300 Hitters and "Phenom" Pitchers—Connie Mack Pays $12,000, a Record Price, for Pitcher "Lefty" Russell of the Baltimore Team.

These are the days in which the mysterious baseball scout is roaming around the land. The big teams are looking for players and it is through the work of the scouts that most of them are obtained.

A manager picks up a morning paper and reads how the pitcher of a team in some bush league shut out his opponents without a hit. Or else it may be a story about some outfielder or infielder who in five times at bat got a home run, a triple, a double and two singles.

"Go to Blankville and look at that man Smith," says the manager to the scout. "Get him if you think he'll do."

Then out goes the scout. He lands in Blankville, keeps his identity a secret if possible, and buys a seat in the grandstand. He watches the pitcher he is looking for. He makes note of whether the man wins that day or not. The scout is an expert and he can tell by the man's actions whether he really is a player of just happened to have one day of phenomenal luck.

Probably other scouts are on the scene. Then it is a case of the highest bid taking the player if he really is the goods. If there is no other scout present the one who is there notifies his boss and the matter is taken up with the owner of the team to which the player belongs. It is against the rules for a big league owner to negotiate with the player direct.

That's the way most of the players are obtained by the major league teams, but when a deal is put through like the one recently closed by Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, and Manager Jack Dunn, of the Baltimore Eastern league team, for the services of "Lefty" Russell, a pitcher, it is generally because of the record the player has been making for himself.

It is reported that Mack has paid, or is to pay, Dunn $12,000 for Russell. If this is true, and it probably is, it is a record price for a player, being $1,000 more than Manager McGraw of the New York Giants paid for Marquard, purchased from Indianapolis. Russell is to finish the season with Baltimore and then join the Athletics. He is said to have a "splitter" that rivals that of Big Ed Walsh of the Chicago White Sox, or the one used by Russell Ford, the new star of the New York Highlanders. If he has he is worth $12,000.

When a player in an effort to compliment young Fisher told the ravenous Yank that he had shown something during his three innings as pitcher, Fisher calmly answered in a philosophical sort of speech: "Yes; I showed that I had more luck than some of the good pitchers on this club." Another well-wisher asked Fisher how he liked big league pitching as far as he had essayed it. "Just like pitching anywhere else. You've got to pitch all the time and outluck the batter. If you do not, you look bad," he replied.

"Always has there been and always will there be too much fuss made over 'no-hit' games," remarked Addie Joss not long ago. "I mean by this that generally there is too much credit given to the man in the box and not enough to the catcher and to the men in the field; the men who made the 'no-hit' game possible. Strictly speaking there is, of course, no such thing as a 'no-hit' game. The only possible 'no-hit' game would be one in which the pitcher struck out twenty-seven men, in which the catcher had all of the twenty-seven put-outs and in which not even a chance was offered any other of the nine players on the team."

"I doubt if one ever heard a pitcher boast of having been the hero of a 'no-hit' game. He knows too well how he was helped along to fame by the men behind him; knows how large a meed of the praise is due the catcher who coached him along."

"Base hits—some base hits—and put-outs—some put-outs—are so nearly analogous that it is folly to talk of what a pitcher 'intended' when he offers up a certain ball to a certain batter."

"If it is the lucky pitcher's day the ball will be batted straight into the hands of some fielder. If it doesn't happen to be the pitcher's day the ball will be batted a foot or two out of the fielder's reach and instead of an 'easy put-out,' as it is set down in the records, there is a 'smashing double to center.'"

"See the point? The pitcher puts up a certain kind of a ball to a batter one day and the batter sends an 'easy put-out' to the outfielder. In the next game between the same clubs the pitcher sends up the same kind of a ball. This time it is batted in a slightly different angle and the batter gets credit for a double or a triple."

"Of course to pitch a 'no-hit' game a pitcher must be at his best, but I have worked harder and felt 'fitter,' so to speak, in a game where a half-dozen drives went safe than ever I did in a 'no-hit' battle."

"The average fan does not stop to consider the 'details' of a 'no-hit' game. He sees the cipher in the box score."

"Ah, ha," he shouts, 'they never touch'—he overlooks such paragraphs as: "Hartel came in like a streak for a shoe-string catch of Graney's liner, in the first," or "Murphy had to go into the bleachers for Lord's long line foul in the sixth," and so on."

The veteran twirler, Cy Young of the Cleveland Naps, has set a record for other pitchers to aim at, and it is likely that it will be a long time before any of them even equal it. Young, a few days ago, pitched his 500th victory. In 21 years of service in the Major leagues, the great twirler has taken such care of himself that he is still in prime condition and probably good for a couple more seasons, although it is said he will not play again after this year. He has two no-hit no-run games to his credit in his long years of service and several one-hit victories fill the pages of his achievements on the diamond.

President Barney Dreyfuss says: "I am at a loss to understand how a team that won the world's championship last year could fall off so much in form in such a short time. The remedy is just as far beyond me. It has been suggested that we get new stars, but if those making this suggestion will supplement it with a little information as to where these stars are to be found or procured, I will gladly hand them a fat bonus for their trouble. I tell you this thing is beyond me."

Should George Wheeler make good with the Reds Clark Griffith will have a complete outfield of Central leaguers. "Bob" Bescher, leading base runner in the National league, is in left; "Dodo" Paskert, who is leading the league in batting, is in center; and Wheeler will be in right. The Reds also have Dick Hoblitzel at first and Jack Rowan on the pitching staff. Hoblitzel played with Wheeler in 1908 and Rowan is a former Vet. Wheeler is known in and around the Central as the Sherrin Sluggo.

Chance to Fine Suspended Players.
Since Johnny Evers of the Cubs announced that he would be good to the umpires he has been suspended three times for his hot talk to the handler of the indicator. It got so regular with Evers that Manager Chance announced that he would fine the next member of the team who is suspended by an umpire for back talk $1,000. The Chicago fans are wondering if Chance really means it, and they also wonder whether it will make any difference with Evers, anyway. Evers says it will.

Player's Eardrum Ruptured.
Myron Grimshaw of Toronto was hit in the head a few days ago with a pitched ball. The eardrum was ruptured, but is healing nicely and the big slugger will soon be in the game again. Such accidents sometimes take a batter's nerve, but "Grim" is not the kind to be bothered much by the unfortunate happening. Lew McAllister has been hit on the head by pitched balls three times this season.

A Coakley Refuses to Be Sold.
Pitcher Andy Coakley, formerly with the Chicago National league team, who has been sold to the Montreal team, has announced that he will not go to the Canadian circuit until he gets a settlement of his claim for back salary by the Louisville club. The dispute will go to the national commission if Coakley refuses to go to Montreal, it is said.

Washington Club Buys Star.
Manager Bob Brown of the Vancouver Northwestern league club has announced that he had completed a deal for the sale of outfielder Charles Swain to the Washington American league team. Swain will remain with Vancouver until the close of the season. Manager Brown has also sold Pitcher Hardner to the Pittsburg National league club.

Indianapolis Sells a Lemon.
Catcher Leo Lemon has been sold to the San Antonio club of the Texas league by the Indianapolis club of the American association. He is not ashamed of being a lemon, like some of the players are.

Scouts Watch Quincey Player.
Pitcher Tretter of the Quincey, Ill. team, is mowing the bat-downs so persistently in his league that the scouts are beginning to swarm toward Quincey.

WHERE HE SAW RESEMBLANCE

Apt Remark of Small Boy Embarrassed Toper and Filled Car With Merriment.

Jimmie, who is a very small boy living in the East end, accompanied his mother downtown several days ago. Nearly everything he saw was quite new to him, so he was not sparing in his comments and opinions and questions.

Seated opposite Jimmie and his mother on the car homebound was an individual who, judging by the "bliss" on his nose, had partaken freely of joy water. None of Jimmie's neighbors possessed an appendage that could compare with the one across the aisle.

In silence Jimmie took in the situation and the "bliss." His thoughts must have grown so curious that they could not be withheld any longer and he finally blurted out in a loud voice: "Mamma, is that Santa Claus?" pointing to the man with the red nose. Embarrassed, Jimmie's mother tried to silence her son, but it was no use. In an audible whisper the connection between the man and Santa Claus was disclosed much to the discomfort of the man.

"Why, mamma, didn't it say in that story about Santa Claus that Santa had a nose like a cherry," he asked, and the car was in an uproar.—Pittsburg Times-Gazette.

SCRATCHED SO SHE COULD NOT SLEEP

"I write to tell you how thankful I am for the wonderful Cuticura Remedies. My little niece had eczema for five years and when her mother died I took care of the child. It was all over her face and body, also on her head. She scratched so that she could not sleep nights. I used Cuticura Soap to wash her with and then applied Cuticura Ointment. I did not use quite half the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, together with Cuticura Resolvent, when you could see a change and they cured her nicely. Now she is eleven years old and has never been bothered with eczema since. My friends think it is just great the way the baby was cured by Cuticura. I send you a picture taken when she was about 18 months old.

"She was taken with the eczema when two years old. She was covered with big sores and her mother had all the best doctors and tried all kinds of salves and medicines without effect until we used Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. H. Kiernan, 683 Quincey St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 27, 1909."

The Dentist's Joke.
At a recent dinner of the Authors' club in London to Mr. Owen Seaman, the editor of Punch, Mr. Walter Emanuel, another member of the staff of Punch, referred to the fact that the man with the largest sense of humor he had ever struck was an Englishman—a dentist. He went to him after suffering long with a toothache. He refused to have gas, and the dentist pulled out a tooth, leaving him writhing in pain, and took the tooth to the window, where he laughed quite heartily. He groaned: "What's the joke?" "Wrong tooth," said the dentist.

He Knew the Kind.
Little Edward, aged four, was an only child. He was anxious for a baby sister, and was talking of it one day with a friend of the family. In the friend's family was a baby girl of one year. The lady said: Edward, you may have my baby; she is pretty and sweet."

"Oh," said Edward, "I don't want an old baby. I want a bran new one with noffin on but tacum powder."—Red Hen.

COOLING AS EASY AS HEATING.

Now, when one comes to think of it, there is difficulty in understanding why humanity has always realized the need of mitigating the severity of climate that takes the form of cold, but for the most part still assumes the impossibility of doing anything to temper heat, from which we suffer almost as much, says New York Times. At less expense than that by which houses are warmed in winter they can be cooled in summer, and, while the winter heating, thanks to our strange refusal to learn the art of ventilation, involves the creation of conditions injurious to health, those which summer cooling would establish would probably be in every way beneficial to us. At any rate, the thing is perfectly practicable. Of course, if adopted, it would add to the cost of living, but it would also increase the general stock of available energy, which would mean an increase of earning power to a more than compensating degree. Not much of a refrigeration plant would be required to bring the air of a bedroom to a temperature in which sleep would be refreshing, instead of impossible or exhausting, and the wonder is that the rich and the well-to-do, at least, do not generally, instead of hardly at all, utilize a benefit which science is ready to give them for much less money than they pay for a thousand other smaller luxuries and conveniences.

The first passenger airship to be operated for regular transportation purposes has been put in commission in Germany. It is a Zeppelin dirigible and will run over a course that will include Friedrichshafen, Stuttgart, Mannheim, Cologne and Düsseldorf. At first Count Zeppelin himself, inventor of the machine which bears his name, will be at the helm. The airship has capacity for twenty passengers, for whom accommodations as luxurious as those of a Pullman palace car have been provided. As the enterprise is backed by a shipping company of undoubted standing there seems to be ample faith in the success of the enterprise and belief that aerial navigation has come to stay.

Finland, in so far as the autonomy enjoyed heretofore is concerned, has practically been wiped off the map, the Douma first and the Council of the Empire finally having enacted the law which turns over the administration of Finnish affairs to representatives of the czar. Finland was formerly a grand duchy, and, though under Russian control, had a large measure of self-government. The Finns are a sturdy, self-reliant and intelligent people and have made great progress in education and otherwise. But the policy of Russia is to centralize control at St. Petersburg, and the disposition of Finland is the latest exemplification of the existing tendency.

When farmers turn to "bulling" wheat the speculators in the grain exchanges hardly know where they are at. There seems to be something like a combined effort on the part of the big wheat-growers of the northwest to keep up prices, says Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin. Delegations by trainloads are going to some of the large trading-centers like St. Paul and dealing in heavy lots. Some of these farmers are rated as millionaires, having made fortunes in grain growing, and they also seem to understand the bull and bear business. At least the professional speculators in the "wheat pit" find the tillers of the soil foemen worthy of their steel.

Before you begin to criticize aviation meets for not panning out as per promises, please kindly remember how many races for the America's cup have been boring and inconclusive drifting matches. Both aviation and yachting depend on the wind, and the wind is mighty uncertain.

A Michigan farmer who separated from his wife and then became her hired man is suing her for $500 back pay. Perhaps he could get her to settle out of court if he would agree to take $499.

Western bankers report that the farmers of Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri and Iowa have spent $15,000,000 for automobiles. There must be something in that story after all.

Kidnaping is still prevalent despite the discouragements of heavy sentences. The only remedy seems to increase the penalty.

The price of cigarettes is going up, but this of course won't bother the man who always got his from the other fellow.

BIG MEN IN DEAL

SENATOR GORE UNBOSOMS HIMSELF IN BRIBERY CASE.

NAMES THE VICE PRESIDENT

Oklahoma Statesman Shy as a Witness at the Start, but Grows Bold as Congress Committee Urges Him On.

Muskogee, Okla.—What happened in the private office of United States Senator Thomas F. Gore at Washington at noon on last May 6 formed the basis of sensational charges involving the names of Vice President Sherman, Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, Congressman B. S. McGuire of Oklahoma and others in a hearing before a special investigating committee here.

During the thirty or forty minutes of a conference held in that office Senator Gore testified that he had been approached by Jake L. Hamon, former chairman of the Oklahoma territorial republican committee and also former chairman of the Oklahoma state republican committee, and that he had been offered a bribe of $25,000 or $50,000 to remove certain legislation pending in congress so that $3,000,000 might be paid to J. F. McMurray, an attorney at McAlester, Okla., and his associates.

The money was to represent "attorney's fees" of ten per cent of $30,000,000 which was to be secured from a new York syndicate for 450,000 acres of coal and asphalt land now owned by the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians in this state. Vice President Sherman's name was mentioned by Mr. Hamon, Senator Gore testified, as being "interested" on the land deal to the extent of favoring the approval by congress of what are known as the McMurray contracts with the Indians.

What happened in another private room in Washington and also where, it was alleged, Hamon made "overtures" relative to the land deal, was told by Congressman C. E. Creager, of the Third Oklahoma district. Congressman Creager supplemented the testimony of Senator Gore. He said on June 16 last he had been invited by Hamon to meet him in a private room at the Occidental hotel in Washington.

Having gone there, Mr. Creager testified, he was informed he could have a substantial "interest" in the land deal if he would withdraw his opposition to the approval of the McMurray contracts by congress.

The committee that heard the charges were appointed by resolutions by the house of representatives to investigate the McMurray contracts, which are declared to have been made by McMurray individually with 10,000 Indians, each of whom agreed to turn over 10 per cent of their profits for the sale of their land, provided the contracts were approved by congress.

Friends Proffer Assistance.
Quebec.—Friends of Dr. Crippen, who have already retained counsel to defend him on a charge of wife murder, have proffered further assistance by cable. Two messages were delivered to the dentist in his cell. The first asked if he needed funds; the second inquired about the rumors circulated abroad, as well as in this country, to the effect that he had confessed. Crippen replied by cable that he would appreciate some money and he assured his friends that he had made no admission that would hurt his case.

Think War Is Inevitable.
Victoria, B. C.—Japanese newspapers received here publish speeches by Takenokoshi Yosahuri, a noted Japanese historian, in which he says a war between Japan and America is inevitable, and urges immediate expansion of Japanese armaments.

He holds that the collision will be precipitated when the lease of the South Manchurian railroad expires, when, he says, China will insist on the return to the railroad zone and America will support China.

Wendling Claims Innocence.
Denver.—That a strange man, who, he says, called at the church several times, ostensibly looking for a former janitor, may be responsible for the murder of eight-year-old Alma Keller, was the statement made by Joseph Wendling, charged with the child's murder, who arrived here in the custody of J. P. Carney, chief of detectives of Louisville, en route to Kentucky from California.

Deadwood.—Archibald Roosevelt and his friend, R. C. Paine of Brooklyn, Mass., have arrived here for a visit with United States Marshal Seth Bullock. Captain Bullock will take the boys on an extended fishing trip.

Services in Esperanto.
Washington.—Church services in Esperanto, the international language, will be conducted on Sunday, August 14, for the first time in the history of the national capital.

During the entire week beginning August 14, the sixth international congress of Esperanto will be in session here. Two services in the new "tongue of the nations" have been arranged for and most of the 1,000 or more delegates to the congress probably will attend one or the other.

Gain on Side of Canada.
Washington.—Emigration from and immigration to Canada is the subject of a statement by the immigration bureau. During the twelve months ended March 31 last there were 74,912 arrivals of aliens and citizens from Canada for permanent residence in the United States, against 61,517 during the previous twelve months. In the same period there were 103,789 departures of aliens and citizens from the United States into Canada for permanent residence, against 59,832 the previous twelve months.

ALL OVER NEBRASKA

For Killing His Sister.
Dixon County.—The dog which tried to protect the sister from the hands of her brother, William Fliege, kept her dead body away from the hogs after she had been killed by her brother. According to the testimony of the hired man, Albert Eichenkamp, in the preliminary hearing of the case of William Fliege, charged with the murder of his sister, Fliege was bound over to the district court and his bail fixed at $15,000, which was furnished by his two brothers, his brother-in-law and himself.

The hired man told a straightforward story of the killing as he said he saw it with his own eyes. He said that he saw Fliege and his sister come down from the porch and walk to the front gate. He said they were quarreling and when they reached the front gate the dog interfered, and Fliege kicked him so that he ran under the porch.

Eichenkamp said that he saw Fliege grab his sister by the shoulder and just as he was entering the barn door he heard a shot, and turning, saw Louise on her knees. He said that he walked a little farther into the barn and then heard a second shot, and when he again turned he saw Louise lying on the ground.

The hired man said he went to the fields to cultivate corn and when he returned Louise was still lying in the front yard and that the dog which had tried to protect her when alive was still guarding her while dead.

Capital Removal Association.
Hall County.—At a meeting of representatives of the several cities in the central part of the state last night an inter-city organization under the name of the Capital Removal association was perfected, with Willis Cadwell of Broken Bow, president; C. W. Bringer of Grand Island, vice president; Willard F. Bailey of Kearney, secretary, and Joseph A. Hayes of Central City, treasurer. In the brief constitution adopted the purpose of the organization is set forth to be "to secure the removal of the capital of Nebraska to such a location in the state as will best serve the interests of all of the people of the state without reference to any special locality, it being expressly agreed by the members thereof that the association shall not favor the interests of any one locality."

Pioneer Lawyer Dead.
Douglas County.—Judge George Baker Lake, for many years a leading jurist of this state, died at his home in Omaha, aged eighty-four years. The intense heat was partly responsible for his demise. He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Roy Morton, and a son, Mr. Frederick W. Lake. He came to Nebraska in 1837.

Dodge County.—Farmers about Fremont are adopting a new means of obtaining harvest hands. They are applying in considerable number to the Y. M. C. OTOE COUNTY.—George Newburn, for many years a resident at the county poor farm, has fallen heir to an estate of $2,000, which was left him by his father, who resided in Logan county, Nebraska. The estate was discovered by the county attorney who was looking up some other matters. Newburn's wife has been living in Nebraska City, taking in washing.

Hangs Himself in Jail.
Douglas County.—James Kennedy, unknown, arrested on the charge of disturbing the peace, hung himself with a towel suspended from his bunk in the city jail at South Omaha.

LETS DOWN THE BARS

OPEN DOOR FOR LANDLESS BY PROCLAMATION OF TAFT.

AN EARLY ENTRY IS POSSIBLE

Unappropriated Remnants in the States of Colorado, New Mexico, Washington, Idaho, Utah and Wyoming.

Washington.—Thousands of acres of unappropriated lands which were eliminated from the national forests and restored to the public domain by recent proclamation of President Taft will be thrown open to homestead settlement and entry this fall. The lands are located in Colorado, New Mexico, Washington, Oregon, Utah, Idaho and Wyoming. The secretary also has restored to settlement on October 22, and to entry on November 21, about 9,220 acres in the Great Falls, Mont. land district, formerly withdrawn.

See Trouble Looming Up.
Kansas City.—All hope of a settlement of their differences since the refusal by the miners of the operators' last ultimatum, representatives of the miners and operators of the southwest, who for many weeks have been conferring on a new wage contract, have left here.

Operators say they are not in a position immediately to declare an open shop policy, but announce as rapidly as men can be secured they will be put to work under ample protection. The miners say they will picket the mines at once, and trouble of the gravest nature is feared, although leaders on both sides say they will make every effort to avoid disorder.

Not Good Substitutes.
Washington.—Peanut steaks, nut chops and other protein preparations have not proved profitable substitutes for the good, old-fashioned meats and vegetables, according to Ada L. Clark and a number of other stockholders of the Vegetarian Meat company of this city which were cited to appear in court next week to show cause why the company should not be dissolved and a receiver appointed.

The complainants declare that the company was incorporated with a capital of $250,000, and that, with their consent, was raised to $1,000,000. They say the company is doing little business.

Grand Trunk Strike Over.
Ottawa, Ont.—The strike of conductors, trainmen and yardmen which began on the Grand Trunk and Central Vermont systems on July 15, has been officially called off. Under the terms of agreement signed by President Hays for the railroads and all the union officials the men will receive, dating back to May 1 of this year, an advance of approximately 18 per cent, and beginning January 1, 1912, a rate of wages slightly below the eastern association schedule, for which they struck but an advance in many cases over 30 per cent.

Leaves With Wendling.
San Francisco.—In charge of Captain of Detectives J. P. Carney, through whose efforts he was captured, Joseph Wendling, accused of the murder of Amelia Hall of Louisville, Ky., left for Louisville. Captain Carney will take precautions to guard his prisoner after he reaches the boundary of Kentucky, as it is reported that the feeling runs high against the accused man.

Life of Nebraska Man Lost.
Missoula, Mont.—William Hovey Polleys, Jr., member of the Polleys Lumber company of Lincoln, Neb., and this city, was fatally injured near Tammany by a falling tree. He died on a train bringing him to Missoula. Polleys was leading a crew of firefighters. His is the first life lost in the forest fires that are scourging western Montana.

New York.—Italy cannot now legally demand the extradition of Porter Charlton. The legal time limit has expired, and no demand from the Italian government has been received by the United States district attorney for the state of New Jersey.

America Gets Gold.
London.—America took $3,000,000 out of the $4,500,000 worth of gold available on the open market. The rest of the supply was taken for India and the continent. The price was a half penny higher.

Dr. Crippen Is Composed.
Quebec.—Dr. Crippen and Miss Levee, the two prisoners that have centered the eyes of the world on this old French city on the St. Lawrence, are now facing two weeks or more of monotonous waiting. There will be no more legal proceedings in the case until August 8, when they will have another purely formal appearance in court to give them a last opportunity to obtain a writ of habeas corpus or any other relief to which they may feel entitled.

Richmond, Mo.—The newspapers killed me too soon. I will show them a lively corpse. I wasn't murdered beside the railroad track, and I'm running for the nomination for circuit clerk of the county at the primaries.

This is the explanation of N. J. Henderson, an attorney of this place, gives of his supposed murder near Orrick, Mo., reported in the newspapers recently. The body found beside the railroad track at Orrick and reported to be that of Henderson, was that of John McAfee, a farmer.

FIFTY THOUSAND

KNIGHTS PARADE

Brilliant Climax of Templars' Conclave in Chicago.

TRIENNIAL A BIG SUCCESS.

Acting Grand Master Melish in Command and Noted Masons From Different Parts of the World Present.

Chicago.—Fifty thousand Knights Templar, garbed in the handsome uniform of the order, wearing its glittering jewels and carrying drawn swords, marched through elaborately decorated streets of Chicago Tuesday, Aug. 9, passing beneath great arches and before a reviewing stand four blocks long, crowded with the leading officials of the order and the wives and families of the sir knights. Forty-two brass bands made music for the marchers, and all along the route they were cheered by the thousands of people who had assembled to witness the spectacle.

This magnificent parade was the climax in a spectacular way of the thirty-first triennial conclave of Knights Templar, which opened here on Sunday, Aug. 7. In accordance with the time honored custom of the grand encampment, the doings of the week began with divine service.

The sir knights selected Orchestra hall for this purpose and entirely filled the body of that hall to listen to a sermon on "Templarism" delivered by

WILLIAM B. MELISH, ACTING GRAND MASTER.

Rev. Dr. George H. MacAdam of Madison, Wis., in the absence of Sir Knight George C. Rafter of Cheyenne, Wyo., very eminent grand prelate of the grand encampment. The music was in charge of the grand organist of the grand commandery of Illinois, the choir consisting of several male quartets belonging to the order in this state.

Monday was devoted mainly to the receiving of the grand and subordinate commanderies and escorting them to their hotels.

Parade of The Knights.
The "grand parade" of Tuesday was the largest parade of Knights Templar ever held. The preparations were elaborate and Michigan boulevard was most elaborately decorated. The sir knights formed in line of march on the boulevard south of Thirty-first street, and signal to move was given by the guns of Battery B, I. N. G., the detachment for the purpose being composed of Knights Templar all of whom are members of the battery. The same detachment fired the salute to the grand master.

Marching northward in Michigan boulevard, the parade passed, near Hubbard court, beneath an entrance arch built in the form of an ancient battlement with its towers and turrets. This was intended to represent the entrance to the city, and as the column passed under it, buglers stationed on its heights heralded the approach of each grand division.

Next the knights came abreast of

THE OIL OF ENCOURAGEMENT
Some Advice Concerning the Virtues of Freely Awarding Praise Where It Is Due.

Don't be afraid to praise people, Charles Hattell Loomis writes in Smith's magazine. It is all very well to say that it hurts a boy or a man or woman to praise; there may be those who do their best work without encouragement, but let us remember that nearly all of us who live on this earth are human being, and human beings work best when encouraged.

It is a great mistake not to tell people when you are satisfied with them. If the cook sets before you a dinner fit for a king tell her so. Don't be too loopy to praise the office boy if his work is commendable. Tell him so.

It is harder for some people to give praise than it is for them to receive it. Many a generous man is a very niggard of praise.

Do you like to be praised yourself? Then depend upon it the other fellow will like it.

the first grand stand, one-half mile in length, and this needed no decorations, for it was filled to its capacity mainly with ladies whose beautiful summer costumes made it like a vast garden. About 50,000 persons were to this immense stand, as at its center was a gorgeous throne on which sat the Acting grand master, William Bromwell Melish of Cincinnati, who became head of the order on the recent death of Grand Master Henry W. Rugg of Providence, R. I. Mr. Melish will be regularly elected grand master before the close of the conclave.

Just north of the Art Institute the parade passed before another reviewing stand in which were Mayor Busse, the city council and the park commissioners.

Beautiful "Templar Way."
At Washington street the marchers turned west to State, where they entered on the "Templar Way." This stretch extended from Randolph to Van Buren street and was made beautiful by a handsome arch and massive Corinthian columns of pure white erected thirty-three feet apart on both sides of the street. Festoons of natural laurel connected the columns, and the bright red cross and the shield and coat of arms of the order were prominent in the scheme of decoration.

Moving south to Jackson boulevard, the knights again turned west, and near the federal building passed before yet another reviewing stand which accommodated Governor Deneen and his staff. Marching north on La Salle street, the parade passed beneath the grand commandery arch of pure white which spanned the street at the La Salle hotel, the headquarters of the grand commandery of Illinois.

Entrancing Scenes at Night.
The scene in the streets at night was especially beautiful, for all the arches, festoons and columns of the decorative scheme were brilliantly illuminated, and on State street, in addition to the "Templar Way," the merchants had put up decorations that transformed the great shopping district into a veritable fairy land.

Undoubtedly the most spectacular feature of the night display was the wonderful electric set piece erected in Grant park on the lake front, reproducing in colossal size the official emblem or badge of the conclave. It was 150 feet high and its 5,000 powerful electric lights of varied colors brilliantly illuminated all that part of the city.

Much of the success of the conclave must be attributed to the efforts of John D. Cleveland, grand commander of Illinois and president of the triennial executive committee, Arthur MacArthur of Troy, N. Y., is the very eminent grand generalissimo of the grand encampment and W. Frank Pierce of San Francisco the grand captain general.

Among the most noted of the visiting masons from other lands are: The Right Hon. the Earl of Euston, grand master of the great priory of England and Wales; the Lord Athlumney, past great constable; Thomas Fraser, past great marshal; R. Newton Crane, past great herald; F. C. Van Duzer, past great standard bearer; H. J. Homer, acting grand master banner bearer; John Ferguson, past preceptor of England and Wales, and the Right Hon. Luther B. Archibald, most eminent grand master of the great priory of Canada, and official staff.

Fritz the gardener was a stolid German who was rarely moved to extraordinary language. Even the most provocative occasions only caused him to remark mildly on his ill-luck. Not long ago he came back from the city in the late evening after a hard day in the market place. He was sleepy, and the train being crowded, the baggageman gave him a chair in his roomy car.

Finally the train reached Bloomfield. Fritz still slept as it pulled in and his friend had to shake him and tell him where he was.

"I thanks you," said Fritz, as he rose slowly to his feet. The open door of the car was directly in front of him. He walked straight out of it.

The baggageman sprang to look after him. Fritz slowly picked himself up from the sand by the side of the track, locked up at the door, and said with his wrath in his voice:

"There should be some steps."

Visited Pompeii and Vesuvius

Mr. Pierson, who wrote the following letter to his home paper, is husband of Lena Haskell Pierson, a former Ord girl.

Hotel Cappuccini Convent, Amalfi, Italy, July 10, 1910.—Editor Banner: We are surrounded by such beautiful scenes and such intensely interesting things that one can hardly take time to write anything, much less to make any attempt to pretense at a literary effort. Therefore my friends in far away Hunt county and Texas, I shall simply write a letter and say just what comes to mind. There are four of us, in a party of twelve, myself, wife and my sisters, Miss Margaret and Mary Pierson.

I will not go further into the whens, and the wheres, and the whys, but will proceed at once with the subject matter of this letter, to wit: "Vesuvius and Pompeii." Yesterday, July 9, we did the tremendous job of seeing Pompeii and the crater of Vesuvius, and by rail and carriage drive some twenty miles to beautiful and picturesque Amalfi on the bay of Sorrento, where we are now enjoying a most lovely and quiet Sunday.

My wife and I and sisters and one other lady looked into the crater and saw the fire and jets of steam, with the smoke at times hovering around us and enveloping us. We felt its heat, smelled its sulphurous fumes and heard our own voices echoing around its cavernous walls. We had first in the forenoon gone through the ruins of Pompeii, that most interesting buried city and only recently (some years ago) discovered and now is in the process of being uncovered.

You will recall that in 79 A. D., during the great eruption of old Vesuvius, the beautiful cities of Pompeii and Herculaneum were destroyed and buried. No, not destroyed but buried and preserved in this remarkable way to show us today the homes, the palaces, the stores, the altars of worship, their tools of industry, their clothing, their bed rooms, dining rooms, cooking utensils, ovens, baths and bath houses, their jewelry and other ornaments, their great statuary and paintings and many, many other things, and through all their every day lives, struggles, pleasures and sports, reconstructing and giving to us the lives of these people 2000 years ago.

We went through this unearthed city through its streets and houses, forums, etc., and saw the women now digging and uncovering more, as now only about one third of the city is uncovered. Great have been the treasures found and great treasures are doubtless yet to be found. Very little of Herculaneum has been uncovered. A flood of hot molten lava swept over Herculaneum while Pompeii was covered and buried with ashes, and it was forgotten that the cities ever existed. In Pompeii bodies of men, women, and children were found at various places, in streets, in rooms of houses, in the temples of their gods, in the forum, in the gladiators training grounds and everywhere. In the museum we saw the form of a little boy about 9 or 10 years old. Some of the forms show jewelry and rings on the finger and sets in the rings. The houses now are practically all one story, though several have parts of the second story standing. The houses are built of brick and cement mortar and also some of stones, the walls being thickly plastered and then beautifully painted. We saw some beautiful mural paintings, also some handsome mosaics. The architecture, decorations, statuary and paintings show, I believe, three different eras. The Etruscan, the Grecian and the Roman. The Grecian excelling in the solidity and substantial effect of the buildings and greatly excelling in the perfection of statuary and the Roman probably excelling in luxuriant finish, ornate plastering, mural paintings and mosaics, etc. They are just conclusions of my own from what I saw, but I think they accord with the history of these subjects.

The Pompeians were great lovers of ease and sport. We saw their hot (Continued on page four)

Six hundred and fifteen votes were cast at the primary election Tuesday and the cost to the county is about $900, and maybe that amount will be considerably swelled when the bills are all in. One dollar a vote is altogether too much to pay for this foolishness.

George A. Percival went on his way to Michigan Monday morning, after another look-in on Ord. He went by way of St. Paul to visit T. T. Bell between trains. Percival's visit to Ord has been a great pleasure to what ones of his old friends are still in Ord.

It was lucky for the chautauqua folks that they located the chautauqua on the Haldeman lots, for the rain has forced the meetings to be held twice in the Bohemian Hall. Had the tent been down by the school house it would have been practically impossible to shift to the hall.

A. L. Martz returned to this country again this week and will run the engine for the Martz-Stanfield threshing outfit, if it ever quits raining. For about a year he has been sojourning in Iowa. With him came his cousin, Mrs. Stevens of Grundy Center, Iowa, who will visit here for a couple of weeks.

J. O. Smith and George Gaghagen are figuring on going down to the Ozarks in Missouri or Arkansas, with the idea of locating there. The former says that he will not spend another winter here, for the weather is too severe for him now that he is getting into his declining years. They expect to go in September.

Geo. A. Percival went to Burwell last Thursday evening and spent the night with Billy McMullen and Friday was driven to Taylor to see the Engle's for a few hours, returning just in time to get well soaked by the drenching rains that fell. Saturday morning he returned to Ord and spent a few more hours with Ord friends.

Monday morning W. S. Smith sold his home in Ord to Jake Lemaster and the following morning he set out for Missouri, where he will look around in the Ozark mountains for a new place to alight. He will visit Benton county and maybe over into Dent. After looking around for a few days he will hurry home to close up business affairs.

The alkali water of South Dakota was too much for George Stover, who was compelled to abandon his team there and come back to Ord for a drink of good water. He left the team in charge of Ernest Williams, who is bringing the outfit home alone. Outside of the water George says that it is a mighty promising country. Some of the water is good and some of it frightfully bad. Nothing bothers Ernest Williams, however, and he got along there fine.

Monday night Jake Zabloull brought his brother Rudolph back to Ord. The latter has been knocked out for some time, first with an injury to his leg and then with rheumatism. Recently he has been at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and he comes from there on the advice of his doctor, who thinks he would build up better in the north. The rheumatism seems pretty well cured, but he is greatly run down in flesh and has to use crutches. Jake is looking well and reports his folks hale and hearty. The sick man will remain permanently or for the present at least, but Jake will go back right away.

Chautauqua Closes

The chautauqua closes tonight. It has been a success all through in spite of the adverse conditions. Rain has been falling or threatening much of the time but our people have come out in great numbers and got the benefit of good things offered.

Take it all through we believe the daily programs have proved satisfactory for the people have flocked to the tents and have come away with smiling faces. But the whole truth might as well be told. The management have cut us short one day from the length of the programs of previous years and there has been a steady decline in the number of strong numbers each year of the four. This year there was not one really strong number towering up like Champ Clark, or Senator Dolliver no music numbers; like the Hungarian Orchestra, Katherine Ridgeway or the Kirksmiths.

We believe that if Ord gives the chautauqua a loyal support we have the right to insist that the programs be kept up to a reasonable standard. The chautauqua just closing has presented to us too many unknowns and imitations of former great numbers.

But for all that the chautauqua as presented even this year is worth all it costs and cheap at the price. We are only lifting this voice of warning that the tendency to deteriorate may be stopped.

But in other ways the chautauqua is an improvement. In general management it shows a ripening and solidity that could not be had except by the lapse of a few years of actual work. What the management did last Sunday in bringing the talent to us at an enormous expense shows that fact, and the same thing is shown in other ways.

Superintendent W. C. Coleman is a master at his work and has managed the sessions in a masterly manner.

We want to congratulate the Redpath Chautauqua System on their triumphs and wish them success in their work and hope they will continue to succeed.

The seed house has just completed the installation of a chicken feed grinding outfit, which occupies the new cupola on the roof. With this they will grind up all their screenings and off grades of corn and other seeds and they make a mixture that is claimed to be the stuff.

How About Dad?

We happened to be in a home the other night and over the parlor door saw the legend worked in letters of red: "What is Home Without a Mother?" across the room was another: "God Bless Our Home."

Now, what's the matter with "God Bless Our Dad?" He gets up early, lights the fire, boils an egg, grabs his dinner pail and wipes off the dew of the dawn with his boots while many a mother is sleeping. He makes the weekly handout for the butcher, the grocer, the milkman and baker, and his little pile is badly worn before he has been home an hour. He stands off the balliff and keeps the rent paid up. If there is a noise during the night dad is kicked in the back and made to go down stairs and find the burglar and kill him. Mother darns the socks, but dad bought the socks in the first place, and the needles and the yarn afterwards. Mother does put up the fruit, well dad bought it all, and pears and sugar cost like the mischief.

Dad buys chickens for the Sunday dinner, carves them himself, and draws the neck from the ruins after everyone else is served. "What is Home Without a Mother?" Yes, that is all right; but what is home without a father? Ten chance to one it is a boarding house—father is under a slab, and the landlady is the widow. Dad, here's to you; you've got your faults—you may have lots of 'em—but you're all right, and we will miss you when you're gone.—S. C. R., in California Odd Fellow.

On Tuesday, August 16, occurred the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pooock, and the event was duly celebrated by the presence of the relatives and some close friends and a big feast. The family reunion in honor of the event was a very notable affair. Mr. and Mrs. Pooock are among our best people and we congratulate them on their long and happy lives. They are 72 and 69 years of age respectively.

J. M. Vanskilke returned from Omaha greatly improved in his eyes last week. The doctors have not yet removed the stray shots planted there and it may be that this extremity will not have to be resorted to.

Last Friday was Dickie Mutter's birthday and a lot of his little friends met there in the afternoon and helped to do honor to the event. At the height of the doings Mr. Mutter came with his camera and took a picture of the bunch.

W. L. Yest, the official weather prophet of the Quiz, has returned to Valley county from his several months sojourn in Kentucky, and is looking for a place to light again. He says that Old Kentucky does not look good to him any more.

Mrs. George Bailey, and Mrs. Henry Bailey of Bellevue, Ill., Mrs. Emma Phillips of Greenvalley, Ill., sisters of L. D. Bailey of Ord arrived last Saturday on a visit with their Ord folks. These three ladies are from three of the solid and wealthy families of Illinois.

Monday night John Haskell returned home from his Omaha experiences. He was taken sick with tonsillitis last Friday and had to knock off work, and Monday concluded that he would call his summer's work done so far as running a churn was concerned.

County Attorney T. J. Howard and wife of Greeley came up to Ord last Saturday to attend the Chautauqua and were the guests of the Wrights. Mr. Howard returned to Greeley Monday morning, but the good lady remained for a few days more of the treat.

Rev. R. N. Miller of Bloomington, Illinois, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Taylor of this place. Mr. Miller has been visiting in Colorado and stopped here on his return to Illinois to see his cousin, Mrs. Taylor. Rev. Miller is pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in Forest City, Illinois.

Dr. Emma Robbins departed Monday morning for Rochester, Minn., to post several weeks with the famous Mayo Bros. On her return she will open up an office in Ord. She was enjoying a very fine practice in Hastings, but not knowing how long her father would live she finally sold out there. Now that her father is dead she has decided to locate here.

There was a jolly bunch of Doan's students in the city over Sunday. D. J. Griffiths and E. G. Dickenson of Columbus and E. C. Orth and J. F. Harvey of Lincoln came up to visit the Ord contingent and take in the chautauqua over Sunday. Miss Tully of Grand Island was already here the guest of Zona McNutt and the latter and Joe Aldrich brought the number of the company up to seven. They had a jolly time while in the city.

Why will people patronize traveling doctors? If these doctors can do anything more than other doctors they would not have to travel around to get victims. The truth is that most of them are humbugs and should be treated as such. But nevertheless there are many people who will go to strangers with their real or imagined ills, be stuffed full of terrors by unscrupulous quacks, and shell out their money in advance, a thing they would not think of doing with their home physicians. It is a mighty safe practice to let all traveling doctors alone. We take their business because the law compels us to do so if they pay the regular price. But we would no more think of patronizing them than we would a robber's roost.

D. K. Taylor, father of Mrs. W. J. Taylor, was down from the ranch Monday to meet Warren Fifer of Des Moines, who has come out this way for a visit with his kin. The visiting gentleman went on up to Burwell but will be back to Ord later.

Mrs. E. T. Dow and daughter arrived in the city last Saturday for a visit with friends. They have been back to Illinois and came around this way on their way back to Colorado. The Miss Dow is recovered from her lameness.

Loup Valley Fair Notes

In so much as the crop conditions have had considerable to do with the question whether it would be worth while to have our Annual Fair this year, the officers of this fair are actively engaged in sundry ways to make this fair a success both as an educational and amusement feature.

We are endeavoring to secure the best and most up-to-date judges for our different departments.

Our revised premium lists for 1910 are being well distributed. If you have not received one, please call on or phone the Secretary and he will gladly give or mail you one.

Arrangements have been made with the National Amusement Co. to furnish plenty of good, clean, moral attractions each day of our fair.

Make your plans to be an exhibitor in as many departments as you can, and thus do your part toward making the Fair this year larger and better than any exhibition of former years. O. P. Cromwell, Sec.

In order to get their talent here for the Sunday meetings at the chautauqua the management had planned to bring them here by automobiles from Grand Island and to carry out our Saturday talent to the same place so as to get them to Central City, the next point in the circuit.

Guy Burroughs contracted to take the party down from here and with his Cole 30 delivered the goods so that the entertainers were put aboard a train at Grand Island in good time, but with only five minutes to spare, however. For the roads at that end of the line were something fierce. But he got there just the same. However not an automobile could be induced to leave the Island to bring the talent to Ord nor even to bring them part way to meet an automobile to be sent from here. So the only thing to do was to charter a train, which they did at an expense of $122 in addition to the fares of the passengers. This made the business a pretty expensive proposition, but they did it rather than fall in their program. You can easily see that the day was a money loser for the chautauqua people, and we ought to appreciate the effort.

The happy news is out that on Saturday morning at an early hour M. C. Stacy and Miss Bessie Clements will be married at the home of the bride and that on one of the early trains that morning the pair will depart for a few week absence. Miss Bess will not tell us which one of the trains they will go on, but their friends know that there are only two trains. So you may look for some fun at the cars.

W. E. Edmisten and family consisting of wife and three children, came to Ord last week for a visit at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Post. Mr. Edmisten has been in the employ of the U. P. railroad for 33 years, which is no short time for a man to stick to one job or for him to be able to have the job stick to him.

Last Sunday a bunch of nimrods went out and, according to their own confession, brought in 28 young chickens. This is not a square deal to the fellow who is willing to wait till the season legally opens before shouldering his gun. Don't do it, fellows. Sportsmen ought to be fair.

J. Taylor, was down from the ranch Monday to meet Warren Fifer of Des Moines, who has come out this way for a visit with his kin. The visiting gentleman went on up to Burwell but will be back to Ord later.

"The Better Clothiers"

By THEODORE ROOSEVELT

Leonard Wood

Reprinted from an article by Theodore Roosevelt in The Outlook, by special arrangement with The Outlook, of which Theodore Roosevelt is Contributing Editor. Copyright, 1910, by The Outlook Company. All Rights Reserved.

Gen. Leonard Wood has just returned from South America to take up his duties as chief of the general staff of the United States army, the highest military position which the service affords.

Nearly 12 years ago, when Leonard Wood was acting as governor of Santiago, I wrote in the Outlook about what he had already achieved, and what he could be trusted to achieve. During the intervening 12 years he has played a very conspicuous part among the men who have rendered signal service to the country by the way in which they have enabled it to grapple with the duties and responsibilities incurred by the Spanish war. What has been accomplished in the Philippines, in Cuba, in Porto Rico, in Panama, and in San Domingo during these 12 years represents a sum of achievement of which this nation has a right to be extremely proud. In each locality the problem has been different, in each locality it has been solved with signal success. Of course there have been mistakes and shortcomings, but on the whole it would be difficult to find anywhere a finer record of successful accomplishment. This record is primarily due to the admirable quality of the men put at the head of affairs in the different places. Messrs. Taft, Luke Wright, Smith and Forbes, Messrs. Hunt, Winthrop, Post and Colton, Governor Magoon, Colonel Goethals—to these and their colleagues and subordinates the country owes a heavy debt of obligation.

Most of those I have mentioned are civilians. Colonel Goethals, under whom the gigantic work of the Panama canal is being accomplished, with literally astounding rapidity and success, is a representative of the army. The share of the army in the honor roll is very large. The importance of work like that of General Bell in the Philippines, of General Barry in Cuba, can hardly be overestimated; but, as a whole, of all the work of the army officers, the greatest in amount, and the greatest in variety of achievement, must be credited to General Wood. And, moreover, he has at times combined with singular success the functions of civil administrator and military commander. The part played by the United States in Cuba has been one of the most honorable ever played by any nation in dealing with a weaker power, one of the most satisfactory in all respects; and to General Wood more than to any other man is due the credit of starting this work and conducting it to a successful conclusion during the earliest and most difficult years. Like almost all of the men mentioned, as well as their colleagues, General Wood of course incurred the violent hatred of many dishonest schemers and unscrupulous adventurers, and of a few more, or less well-meaning persons who were misled by these schemers and adventurers; but it is astounding to any one acquainted with the facts to realize, not merely what he accomplished, but how he succeeded in gaining the good will of the enormous majority of the men whose good will could be won only in honorable fashion. Spaniards and Cubans, Christian Filipinos and Moros, Catholic ecclesiastics and Protestant missionaries—in each case the great majority of those whose opinion was best worth having—grew to regard General Wood as their special champion and ablest friend, as the man who more than any others understood and sympathized with their peculiar needs and was anxious and able to render them the help they most needed.

His administration was as signally successful in the Moro country as in Cuba. In each case alike it brought in its train peace, an increase in material prosperity, and a rigid adherence to honesty as the only policy tolerated among officials. His opportunity for military service has not been great, either in the Philippines or while he was the governor of Cuba. Still, on several occasions he was obliged to carry on operations against hostile tribes of Moros, and in each case he did his work with skill, energy, and efficiency; and, once it was done, he showed as much humanity in dealing with the vanquished as he had shown capacity to vanquish them. In our country there are some kinds of success which receive an altogether disproportionate financial reward; but in no other country is the financial reward so small for the kind of service done by Leonard Wood and by the other men whose names I have given above. General Wood is an army officer with nothing but an army officer's pay, and we accept it as a matter of course that he should have received practically no pecuniary reward for those services which he rendered in positions not such as an army officer usually occupies. There is not another big country in the world where he would not have received a substantial reward such as here no one even thinks of his receiving. Yet, after all, the reward for which he most cares is the opportunity to render service, and this opportunity has been given him once and again. He now stands as chief of staff of the American army, the army in which he was serving in a subordinate position as surgeon 13 years ago. His rise has been astonishing, and it has been due purely to his own striking qualifications and striking achievements. Again and again he has rendered great service to the American people; and he will continue to render such service in the position he now holds.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

IS TOO MUCH HANDSHAKING?

Other Ways of Greeting Friends That Are Much Preferable, According to Writer.

Although a few have suffered the unpleasant experience of the man in the case recently reported, the bones of whose hands were forced out of place by the vise-like grasp of a too vigorous and unduly demonstrative friend, most people will be inspired by their personal recollections to sympathize with this victim of a misdirected ardor. Everyone knows people who seek to express the sincerity and earnestness of their good-will by squeezing the hand they take as though they were trying to break every one of the score or so of bones which the human hand comprises, and every one on such occasions must have wished that some other form of salutation than the one most in vogue had been devised and were generally practiced.

Shaking hands is a relic of barbarism, anyhow. It became the custom in the days when every one carried a dagger in his belt and when one friend meeting another thought it necessary to attest the peacefulness of his intentions by extending an open palm. Then the other man could do no less than make a similarly reassuring demonstration and the grasp of these two extended hands naturally followed. Subsequently, by a logical process of evolution the handshake grew to be the conventional form of greeting and the refusal of a proffered hand was regarded as one of those insults which dishonor can only be wiped out with blood. Now the custom is too firmly and widely established for its abandonment to be conceivable, and yet there are various things about it which render it unsatisfactory. Rather surprisingly it has thus far escaped the denunciations of the doctors, who have spared no little else, as a possible occasion for the communication of injurious microbes, but one does not have to be a President of the United States, nor even a popular politician engaged in a canvass for votes, not sometimes to have wished that the handshaking habit had never been contracted. There are so many ways of shaking hands that are objectionable and there are so many different kinds of hands whose touch communicates a sensation not exactly pleasant. Hands that are too hot or too cold, too moist or too dry, or whose inertness communicates an uncompromising sense of indifference on the part of their possessors.

Every one is familiar with the handshake in which all the shaking has to be done by the party of the first part, in which the hand one grasps lies limp and lifeless in one's own, to be taken or left, to be squeezed or let drop, as one pleases, while the attitude of the owner suggests an absolute lack of interest in the proceedings. Behold, that also is vanity and vexation of spirit. So is the question which recurrently arises, and which it may be suspected is the source of much secret embarrassment, the question of to shake or not to shake. Etiquette has its rules for this, but no rules etiquette can formulate will cover every case that may arise, and to determine the right thing may not always be easy.

It will be seen that the Chinese plan has its advantages. The Chinese man you meet does not shake your hand. He bows and shakes his own.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS' SHORTSTOP

JACK BARRY.

FRANK PFEFFER, Cub pitcher, probably has the most thankless job that a ball player could have.

Every afternoon Frank gets on the slab. But no thousands cheer him and the ball game does not hinge upon whether the batter gets a single or is fanned. For it is the time of the batting practice.

It's a thankless job, when you come to think of it—this pitching to batters during the practice. For 15 minutes you stand out there pitching the best you have.

One after another your pals walk up to the plate, take a swing at the ball, and the next man comes up. No interest, no excitement. Just the monotony of serving balls to brighten the batting eyes of the regulars.

Pfeffer, although he joined the team in the spring, has not started a game this year. He has finished several, but only after they had been hopelessly lost.

The Cub regulars have an idea that if Pfeffer has ever the opportunity that he could start and win his own game. That's the opinion of the fellows who bat against him in the practice every day. And, maybe, some time Frank will have that opportunity. He's waiting for it.

Meanwhile, if there is any man who works without pay if he is the pitcher who does nothing but pitch in the preliminary batting practice. It's work for him without any of the excitement, without any of the applause that is given to the pitcher out there fighting to win a game for his team.

Pfeffer was a University of Illinois man once, but signed with the Cubs, and then was traded to Boston, only to be taken back later. He is the style of man and baseball player that Chance admires.

While you are talking about the star shortstops of the American league don't forget Jack Barry of the Athletics. In Philadelphia they say he is the best in either league. In Boston this is disputed. They say Wagner of the Speed Bots is the real thing. Detroit thinks Owlie Bush has it on either of them. But this fellow Barry goes along taking care of the batters, delivering hits when they are wanted and playing an all round sensational game. It's a great question, who's the best shortstop this year, but at any rate Barry will have to be figured in the running.

Ever hear of a baseball game being forfeited twice in the same day and on each occasion to a different team?

It sounds like a pipe dream from the Winter Fireside league, but it actually happened last Fourth of July in Mobile, Ala., in the Southern league.

Charlie Frank's New Orleans Pelicans were scheduled to play two games with Mobile on Independence day, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon. It is a league rule that the two games on all holidays shall be played this way, and all the receipts are pooled and divided equally among the clubs.

The Mobile management wanted to play a doubleheader in the afternoon, and though that Manager Frank would agree to it, as it would mean more money. But they failed to get permission to do this from the league directors.

It so happened that Frank needed games in the "won" column at that time more than he did a few extra strikeouts. So he told the Mobile management that he was going to play a morning and an afternoon game. But they laughed at him.

At ten o'clock Frank and his Pelican sock rods out to the ball field with umpire Billy Carpenter in tow. Before they arrived there the Mobile club got wind of it and had the park locked. A deserted and locked park greeted the Pelicans on their arrival, but Frank ordered everyone to scale the 12-foot fence. How the Pelicans, and especially chubby Charlie Frank, got over the fence is a question, but they flew over all right. Umpire Carpenter refused to participate in so unindignified an affair. So the players opened one of the gates and let him in. Otto Hans pitched three balls over the plate, and Carpenter forfeited the game to New Orleans. The team then went back to the hotel.

The Mobile management had advertised a double-header and the park was crowded to the overflow in the afternoon. New Orleans won the first game and then started to leave the field. The Mobile club officials had gotten next to the umpire and persuaded him to call the second game. Frank refused to play and Carpenter then, for the second time that day, forfeited the same game, only this time he gave it to Mobile. Why he did it no one knows, but a glimpse of the mad, howling mob in the grand stand and bleachers probably told him that discretion was the better part of valor.

Then the crowd swarmed down on the field may as a hornet, while Frank and his team folded their tents like the Arabs and silently stole away to the hotel and incidentally caught the first train out of town.

Mention the New Orleans team to a Mobile fan and he will get purple with rage. But Frank's trick was successful, for the game which was twice forfeited was awarded to New Orleans by the league.

Here's a Sensational Play.

Anderson, outfielder of the Deep Haven (Minn.) team, promises to eclipse in historic fame Casey of Mudville. In a game with the Prince Realty team of Minneapolis on Excelsior diamond some time ago Anderson caught a fly, shutting off three runners. After a long run Anderson fell into the lake, turned on his back, and caught the fly, swam to shore, and Deep Haven won. This was in the eighth, and the score 9 to 4 in favor of Deep Haven. The umpire says he knew Anderson caught the ball, because he lives in Deep Haven and knows the fielder cannot dive.

McGraw Buys Real Giant.
Manager McGraw of the Giants has closed a deal for the purchase of Pitcher Teserau of the Shreveport team of the Texas league. Teserau is a big right hander, six feet three inches, and weighs 240. It is not known whether the Shreveport club charged for him by the pound, but if the man makes good he will cost the New York club $3,000. McGraw will pay one-third of that anyhow, just to give Teserau a trial. Owner Kinsella of the Springfield (Ill.) team has offered McGraw the first chance to bid for an infielder named McLean.

Westerners to Invade Pittsburg.
Again the story that western baseball men are negotiating for Luna park, a 13-acre site in the heart of the residence district of Pittsburg, has gained currency. J. A. Sharp, agent for the property, admits that the grounds have been surveyed at the expense of several westerners, who are negotiating for them, and says he "understands that the property is wanted for baseball purposes." The price of the property is $250,000.

Cubs-Giant Games Welded.
There is something weird about the games played by the Cubs and Giants. Let McGraw's team go down the line walloping an cuffed the other outfits, but they are sure to come to grief in Chicago. But let them be trampled on by a tall-ender like Boston and they rush into the Windy City as raging lions and claw the Cubs right and left. They did it last season and have been doing it again this year.

Would Let Them Play Ball.
George Huff, athletic director of the University of Illinois and the chief scout of the Cubs during the scouting season, is of the firm conviction that the conference colleges ought to allow college men to play baseball during the summer months. There is nothing wrong about sanctioning a young fellow making an honest living to help him through school.

Stricklett Wants Pardon.
Elmer Stricklett, the inventor of the split ball, has been given his release from the Federal penitentiary at (Cal.) club. He has asked to be reinstated by the national commission and he will wait for the verdict while resting at his ranch near San Jose.

Hurst Still At It.
Umpire Tim Hurst is still calling them "as he sees them" in the Eastern league. The veteran Timothy has as a side partner Stafford, who was a member of the American league staff two years ago.

Minor Leagues Not Prospering.
The minor leagues are not prospering this season as they did last year. There is no good reason for these droughts in baseball, but they come and go without any excuses.

MUST FORGET YOURSELF AND WORK FOR THE TEAM

"KITTY" BRANSFIELD, PHILLIES' FIRST BASEMAN, SAYS INDIVIDUAL PLAYING AND BRILLIANCY DON'T BRING VICTORIES.

By "KITTY" BRANSFIELD. (Copyright, 1910, by Joseph B. Bowles.) I used to think that baseball consisted mainly of individual playing, brilliancy and ability to hit and run and field. It took a long time for me to learn that there is little more to the game than working hard, studying hard and putting forth one's best effort to win games. Forgetting oneself and working for the team, making as many errors as it is possible to make if there is a chance to get one's hands on the ball, giving up base hits to get runs for the team, are what count.

Also I think that a player who joins a club should first of all think how he can help his manager. No matter what he thinks of the team, the manager or the orders, the players should obey. I think learning to obey without questioning and then keeping one's mouth shut no matter how it turns out is the hardest thing a ball player has to learn. Some of us never learn it. Failure to learn this thing spoils many players. I would urge a young player just breaking in to do two things: first to think and study, and second, but even more important, to keep quiet, no matter what he thinks. A player should save all his conversation for the other team.

As for playing first base; there are those who would consider me presumptuous to try to tell anyone how to play first, but also one may know a lot more about playing the position than he is able to show or even prove. I think I know a lot more than I can deliver, and I think, also, if I had known as much when I started as I do now I would have been a lot better ball player, so there is no conceit in trying to tell how I think it should be

THE BEST OF ITS KIND
Is always advertised, in fact it only pays to advertise good things. When you see an article advertised in this paper year after year you can be absolutely certain that there is merit to it because the continued sale of any article depends upon merit and not upon advertising. One must keep on selling. All good things have imitators, but imitations are not advertised. They have no reputation to sustain, they never expect to have any permanent sale and your dealer would never sell them if he studied your interests. Sixteen years ago Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder for the feet, was first sold and through newspaper advertising and through people telling each other what a good thing it was for tired and aching feet it has now a permanent sale, and nearly 200 so-called foot powders have been put on the market with the hope of profiting by the reputation which has been built up for Allen's Foot-Ease. When you ask for Allen's Foot-Ease in these papers see that you get it. Avoid substitutes.

Say, aren't these rains the stuff.

We are not hurt nearly as bad as we thought.

Now, republicans, you know what your ticket is. Let's all buckle in and elect it.

The brilliancy of your brain is not necessarily shown by the agility of your tongue.

What do you think of Dahlman running the way he did? Didn't the vote surprise you?

We usually find our blessings much greater than we thought and our trouble greatly magnified.

Without consulting him the democrats of Minnesota have nominated Lind for governor. After looking the gift horse in the mouth Lind turned the brute out into the road.

Dahlman for governor! May the Lord help us! To even mention the name in connection with the governorship of a self-respecting state is bad enough, but to nominate him is a shame and a disgrace.

This is what Senator Ollis thinks about the primary election law: "In theory it is all right, but in practice it is a failure." No man ever spoke nearer the truth. From every point of view the workings of the law shows that it is a failure.

Being shot by a discharged city employee may make Mayor Gaynor governor of New York, and you know that a New York governor is always in line for the presidency. Moral: if you are mad at a man and want to harm him, don't shoot him.

W. S. Mattley may well be proud of his fine vote in his old home town. Ord gave about half the republican votes. Considering that Will is now living in Custer county and that his opponent is a Valley county man this is a very good showing.

When cities grant franchises they ought at least to reserve a right to control the proper-ty erected and used by virtue of the franchise. Poles and apposts should be set with reference to the interests of the city, sewers should be laid so as to accommodate the whole city and to a prescribed grade and all business done by such companies should be at rates not exorbitant.

The talk of democrats winning out in the coming congressional elections is all vain. The voters will scare of a democratic congress as they would of poison. And why would they not? Every success of the democrats has brought financial disaster. Furthermore the democrats have nothing to offer in the way of reform or improvement along any line. What improvement is needed will be brought about by the insurgents and the business of the country will not be disturbed.

Some one has kindly mailed us a fragment of a Texas paper containing what purports to be a letter written by Christ and there is with it also an alleged history of the letter. A very prominent feature of the fraud letter is the threat that anyone having this letter and failing to publish it will be followed by ill luck. Of course the whole thing is a fake and as vicious as it is sacrilegious. It has gone to the waste basket.

Why do we permit dogs to run at large on our streets? We won't allow cows and horses to do so, and they would not harm things nearly as much as dogs do, besides the horses and cows are of some use, while dogs in town are worse than useless. One of the terrors of anyone owning a good store front is the disgusting depredations wrought thereon by the horde of worthless curs. And in many other ways their doings are dangerous, damaging and disgusting. We believe that a city ordinance could be made to stand compelling people to keep their dogs off the street and authorizing the marshal to shoot any one seen running at large. We get in such a habit of suffering useless annoyances along certain lines that we are astonished at our patience when we stop to think about it. Suppose a man would do, even in the dark, what these dogs are doing every minute to the streets of the city and he would be run in and fined heavily. But we complacently allow dogs to trot up to anything in sight and we are so used to it we hardly sit up and take notice. It is high time that an ordinance be passed that will abate this abominable nuisance.

After quoting what the Quiz had to say about the way prohibition party papers fight prohibition emanating from other sources, J. L. Clafin goes on to say in his paper that he cannot understand why we said such things about his paper. He finally concludes that we said it because of certain things his paper has been saying lately. That ought to be reason enough for our criticism, but he declares that what the News said about republicans and county option was not his sentiment and that he was not at all responsible for what the paper said when he is away fishing. Clafin is wholly wrong. He could be arrested for criminal libel if his paper libeled a man sufficiently no matter whether he was a thousand miles away from the paper when the libel was printed. But saying that his partner Brown was to blame for what the News said is not answer sufficient. The fact remains that prohibition party papers persistently fight the republicans even when they get around to doing things pointing to prohibition. That is the nature of the prohibitionists. Watch the prohibition ballots at any election. Whenever they have no candidates for certain offices they almost invariably vote for the whiskey man on some other ticket. If you want to clear yourself come out now and support the republican party which has espoused the cause of county option. Will the News do it?

United Pompeii and Vesuvius

baths and how they applied the use of steam and hot air, the double layers of floor and double layers of wall with air space between. Also their lead pipes in many places, are still there. We saw the theatres, a "Tragic Theatre," and a "Comic Theatre." These were built of stone and formed a semi-circle (just like stone steps all around, one row above the other, rising higher and higher and everybody could easily see the stage.) They were not far apart and the "Tragic Theatre" would seat 5000 people. They were in open air and used a canopy or tent like covering to protect from the sun. The stores and shops were small according to our idea, but not according to the European idea, from what we have seen the Azores, Gibraltar and so far in Italy.

I must pass from Pompeii or else I'll be writing a book. However, I will make one or two general observations. These people 2000 years ago must have lived in much elegance and comfort and from our viewpoint were rather immoral. Also as to vessels, many tools and the like they were almost as well equipped as we are today.

I suppose I have already told the story of Vesuvius. We saw it. It was great. It did us. We went up from the Pompeii side. We, five, left our party at Pompeii at 1 p. m. going by carriage up the mountain to within 3 1-2 or 4 miles of the top (we were told that it was four miles to the top and it seemed to us to be all of that.) Then we took horses and the fun began. We were soon in the saddle and away we went up the mountain road or path at a fierce gallop, trot and jolt, with a man running by each woman's horse, all with yell, clang, dash and flurry. Now it was fun to see those women ride up that mountain, fun to me, if not to them. My wife fell off once. It was hard riding. The road wound round and round, or zig-zag up the mountain. For some distance we had been passing wide stretches of lava which was thrown out four years ago, 1906. At that eruption several hundred feet of the crater fell in, many houses and much property was destroyed and a number of lives lost. Soon vegetation got very thin and small and finally there was nothing but black slopes and fields of brown lava. Up toward Pompeii there seemed to be some high mounds or cliffs, but when reached they proved to be the rim of the old crater. We finally reached this old crater which was comparatively flat and had a pool of water on it toward the lower side. We crossed it (about 1-2 mile) at a lively gait and soon reached the foot of the crater, which rose up before us almost perpendicular, at least it looked to us, for about 300 feet or more. Our horses could go no further. The tug of war was on. It was awfully hard climbing. It was covered with ashes and cinders and was soft and yielding. Each of the women had two men to help them, mostly carrying them. I undertook to climb it by myself but for the last one-third I had some help. Before we reached the old crater smoke was curling up through the crevices. At the base of the present crater and on up the sides to the top the smoke came up profusely and frequently fanned our faces. Finally we reached the top and there we were, looking in. The crater had a narrow rim and where we reached it was not more than 1 1-2 to 2 feet wide. We could easily reach across it. It was quite steep inside as well as outside, though of course it was not straight down but sloped a little in. We viewed carefully that great cavern with its rattling noise, smoke, steam and fumes. Something I had dreamed much of seeing and was now beholding. I was not surprised, neither was I disappointed. It was about what I expected it to be. I was intensely pleased and satisfied. It was not terrifying, yet it was grand and awful. High up on the side to our left the stream was intermittently hurling up and out stones and water and these stones went rumbling and rattling back and we could see them roll on the bottom. Some of them, from our great distance, looked to be about one or two feet through but of course they were much larger.

At different points on the sides and bottom, which of course were irregular, were jets of steam and many volumes of smoke from many places, and on the bottom on the other side from us, we could see a streak of yellowish sulphur fire tumbling and burning. It looked like it was about a foot wide and about four yards long, though of course it was many feet wide and doubtless several hundred yards long, else we could not have seen it at all. The top of the crater could very well be represented by an egg shell, the top being broken off irregularly and zig-zag. I am told that the crater is about 3000 feet deep and it is 550 yards across the top. The scenes around us were made more impressive by heavy thundering from a rain cloud near us and it rained on us before we got down the cone to our horses.

The descent down the crater and mountain was rapid. For the carriages, the horses and the guides we paid $5 each. The ladies paid $3 each for the extra help up the crater and I paid 40 cents and some tips to the runners. We caught our train to Cava and then by carriage to this most beautiful place. A man, getting there at midnight and rejoined our party. Here we have rested this most beautiful Sabbath day in or at the

UNITED DOCTORS COMING TO ORD

Famous Specialists Will Make a Short Visit to the Ord Hotel, on Saturday, August 27th

Word has been received that the Chief Consulting Physician of the United Doctors has decided to pay a short visit to Ord and while here will stop at Ord Hotel where he will receive and examine patients.

The United doctors are the specialists whose wonderful cures have caused so much comment by the press, pulp and public not only in Nebraska but all over the country. Those specialists have founded a new school of medicine which embraces all the good points of the old schools and leaves out the bad. They use Allopathic drugs where they are needed; they use Homeopathic drugs where they are needed, and Eclectic drugs where needed, and in some cases they use a combination of Eclectic drugs with Homeopathic or Allopathic drugs in the same case. Hence the name, United doctors - they have united the various schools and "isms" of medicine to form a perfect system of curing disease.

The United Doctors have many institutes established in the larger cities of the United States. Their Omaha Institute is located on the second floor of the Neville Block, corner of 16th and Harney Sts., Omaha, Nebraska.

The object of the United Doctors in making this short visit to Ord is to secure a few cases in this community but they want these cases to be only the most difficult ones. They know that if they cure a few of the worst cases here that others will hear of it and go to their Omaha institute for treatment. A cured patient is their best advertisement.

While the doctor is at the Ord Hotel for this short visit, on Saturday, August 27th, he will examine all patients free of charge but will accept only curable cases for treatment, as it would not be a good advertisement to treat any cases unless they were sure of a cure. To the cases selected for treatment a special reduced price will be made.

The diseases treated by the United Doctors are diseases of the nerves, blood, skin, heart, stomach, kidney, and liver, including rheumatism, paralysis, and neuralgia, loss of nerve force, goitre, constipation, catarrh, epilepsy, indigestion, dyspepsia, weak back, bloating, dropsy, eczema, scrofula, diseases of women and diseases of men.

The dailies throughout the country are continually publishing reports of the wonderful cures that have been made by the United Doctors. Recently an account was given in an Omaha paper of the case of Mrs. M. Bradford who lives on rural route No. 3, South Omaha, Nebraska, in which she says in part: "Ten years ago my health began to gradually fall and I grew worse until I was confined to my bed half the time with terrible pains in my stomach and bowels and violent vomiting. For years I did not know what a well day was. Could eat no food that other people ate. Could get neither sleep nor rest on account of the awful suffering. I tried all the physicians in reach, but only got worse until a council of my family physicians decided that I had gall stones and that nothing would save my life but an operation and the surgeons could not promise even an operation would relieve me or save me.

"About one year ago I began to hear accounts of the wonderful work of the United Doctors in gall stones. With death and the surgeons knife staring me in the face, it seemed that I ought to see them any way. "After a careful examination they pronounced the case gall stones and said they could relieve me at once and cure me permanently. I thought that for such results their price would be very high and I would not be able to take their treatment but I found them kind and considerate. Their price was a reasonable one. One fee paid for everything, including the medicine, until I should be entirely cured, regardless of how long it took.

"Now, for over six months I have not had an attack of my old trouble, I can eat anything I want and my digestion seems as good as ever. No more vomiting spells, no more awful pains, no more morphine from the family physician, no more starvation. I owe my recovery to the United Doctors and to them only. They have cured a. Since I have been cured a neighbor of mine also has been cured of gall stones. I want to say to all people who have gall stones go to the United Doctors."

Mrs. J. H. Bowers, route 2, Tekamah, Nebraska, writes: "After being afflicted with that dread disease epilepsy for ten years continuously, I have not had a single spell since taking my first dose of the United Doctors medicine. And not only that but my general health is now so much improved that instead of being a helpless invalid I can now do nearly all my own work and can eat and sleep and enjoy life as I have not done in ten years before. Now this may seem impossible to other epileptics sufferers, but here I am at Tekamah, Nebraska, ready to verify every statement, because I feel grateful and thankful to the United Doctors for their wonderful work."

These are only a few extracts of hundreds of testimonials on file in the offices of the United Doctors throughout the country. While the United Doctors will not accept any incurable cases for treatment, one should not give up hope simply because their doctor failed to help them. It must be remembered that this system of medicine has quickly cured many diseases which could not even be helped by other doctors or medicines.

The United Doctors treatment is all home treatment, so that frequent visits to our offices are not necessary. This treatment may be used in any home anywhere, without inconvenience, publicity or annoyance and without detaining the patient from his or her usual occupation. This wonderful new treatment is what the Doctor is bringing to Ord. He will be here but one day and while here will receive patients at the Ord Hotel Parlors.

WM. PIERSON.
Note—I have just learned that Saturday afternoon, the 9th, at 8 o'clock there was a slight eruption of Vesuvius and that ashes fell at Pompeii for the first time since 1906. Ashes fell on us as we climbed the cone but at the time I did not think of it being unusual. I noticed in the New York Herald that some excitement in America was caused by it as there were many Americans in the vicinity of Vesuvius at that time.

ORD NEBRASKA
CANADA'S NEW TOY.

The term of the Canadian navy is rapidly developing into a lively organism. The cruiser Rainbow, it is announced, will soon start from Portsmouth for the Pacific coast of Canada after having been thoroughly overhauled and inspected under the authority of the British Admiralty. The cruiser Niobe will leave Portsmouth for Halifax. Each warship will carry a full complement of British officers, who will serve in the Canadian navy for two years and a "skeleton" crew, of which the members will be engaged for five years, says Toronto Globe. It is not expected that it will be at all difficult to obtain the necessary officers and men in Canada when it becomes necessary to enlist them. It is interesting to note that the first proposal to construct a drydock of large dimensions under the legislation of last session has been made by the English firm of Vickers & Maxim, which has filed plans at Ottawa for works at Montreal covering fifty acres and costing two and a half million dollars. The construction of torpedo destroyers has long been a specialty with this celebrated firm, but far more important for this country is the building and repairing of steel vessels of large size. The introduction of such a plant will mark a new stage in the evolution of shipbuilding in Canada.

The Chicago public school authorities are preparing to establish a new high school course of two years, for the benefit of pupils who for financial reasons can remain no longer in the high schools. It is believed that by doing this many pupils who now go out into the business world from the district schools could be induced to take a special course of two years arranged with a view to their future employment. The development is in line with effort to strengthen the public schools as institutions for the preparation of young men and women for the practical work of life, and its outcome will be noted with interest by educators.

The rush to the newly-discovered gold fields of Alaska continues, and thousands are on their way, notwithstanding the certainty that many hardships and risk of failure to "make good" await them. And this in spite of that alleged discovery by a Scranton alchemist of a method for transmuting baser metals into the precious varieties, with the supposed possibilities of cheapening values. Evidently the glamour of gold has not yet lost power to lure the adventurous.

Look over a crowd of men in any place and it will be seen that black and the darker colors predominate in their clothes, no matter how hot the weather. Besides being unnecessary, comfortable they exert a decorative effect upon both wearer and oner. A freer use of colors in men's clothing would make the world a brighter place for most of us.

A Pennsylvania man has gone into bankruptcy with liabilities of $1,446,778. Some of the actors who have one into bankruptcy will be surprised to learn that his assets amount to considerably more than the price of overcoat with a fur collar.

Why can't people learn to say the "er" man word, instead of the "best" one, when but two contend? How we hope to be a great people as the populace will be so careless.

BABIES ON THE LIST

YOUNG INDIANS FIGURE IN LAND CONTRACT CASES.

A FINE FEILD FOR AN EFFORT
Lawyer McMurray Able to Convince Adults and Their Offspring He Was "It"—Choctaws Are Wealthy Tribes.

McAlester, Okla. — It has been brought out in the congressional investigation of the Gore bribery charges that baby Indians, as well as adult ones, had "signed" the McMurray contracts providing for the sale of $30,000,000 worth of land on a 10 per cent "attorney's fee" basis. The names of the little "babies" were suggested by the parents or guardians. It also developed that race suicide is far from threatening among the Indians, as families of six to nine children are common.

J. W. Perkins, a Choctaw, testified that he had nine children, all of whom had "signed" the contract. "We were led to believe that the contracts were a good thing," said Perkins. "We considered that McMurray knew better than our congressmen and senators how to go about selling the land. We believed that by signing the contracts we would realize quicker on our claims against the government; that's why I and the children signed up."

Dr. J. H. Miller, a Choctaw by intermarriage, testified that he and his eight children had signed the contracts. The present great wealth of the Oklahoma Indians was brought out in the testimony.

Although the Choctaw and Chickasaw tribes of Indians are fighting for their individual shares of the land now held for them by the government, they are at present accounted among the richest people in the world.

It was said their per capita interest in the claim against the government is $5,000, besides which they are already rich in lands.

He retired from the service at the end of his contract, June 30 of the present year. In the twenty-eight years Mr. Wikson has traveled 128,000 miles, or more than five times around the world. He first carried the mail in 1882, before the Burlington had built into the southern part of Furnas county, going from Arapahoe to Willsonville, and later from Beaver City to Precept and Spring Green, country offices, which were discontinued when the rural routes were established. For the last nine years he has carried mail from the main line of the Burlington at Oxford, meeting the fast mail from the east, and returning to Beaver City the same day. On this route he traveled more than 100,000 miles. Mr. Wikson is 67 years of age, moved to Nebraska in a covered wagon and never rode a railroad train until last summer, and then but a distance of fourteen miles. He has never seen a street car or been in a city since the earliest days of Nebraska.

It is thought division will carry.

He Memorized Them.
Kansas City.—Trying to memorize 10,000 railway stations in seven states so he could pass examination for a position as a railway mail clerk drove Grov. M. Young of Kansas City crazy. For six months after completing his day's work the young man would apply himself to the task of memorizing the 10,000 miscellaneous stations. He was successful in the examination, but the strain resulted in the unbalancing of his mind.

MAYOR GAYNOR SHOT

NEW YORK EXECUTIVE IS ATTACKED BY CRANK.

WOUND REGARDED SERIOUS
Was on Board the Steamer Ready to Sail for Europe—Assailant Is Captured and Held Without Bail.

Hoboken, N. J. — Mayor William J. Gaynor, prominently mentioned as a democratic gubernatorial and presidential possibility, was the victim of a would-be assassin shortly before 10 o'clock Tuesday. While standing under the bridge of the Kaiser Wilhelm Grosse preparatory to embarking for a month's vacation abroad, the mayor was fired upon three times by a man who gave his name as James J. Gallagher, and who is said to have been a discharged employe of the department of docks and ferries.

Almost instantly the assailant was thrown to the deck by William H. Edwards, a former Princeton football star, but now commissioner of street cleaning of New York city. In the struggle a stray bullet grazed Edwards' right arm, but unconscious of his wound he battered Gallagher unmercifully and held him until handcuffed.

After receiving temporary attention from the ship's surgeon, the injured man was rushed in an ambulance to St. Mary's hospital, where, following an examination by surgeons, it was announced that though he was desperately injured, the mayor's wounds would not necessarily prove fatal.

Boston Has a Big Fire.
Boston.—A loss of upwards of $1,000,000 was caused by a fire in the wholesale lumber district. Starting from an unknown cause in the lumber yards of Blacker & Shephard, the blaze assumed early proportions, with such magnitude that a general alarm—the first sounded in this city since 1872—followed within ten minutes of the first alarm.

The fire wiped ten millions of feet of lumber and five brick buildings off the map in a short time. These include a three-story tenement, block four wood working factories and the Boston fire department repair station.

Assured of Expositions.
San Diego.—California is now assured of two expositions to celebrate the opening of the Panama canal in 1915. Citizens of San Diego voted to issue bonds in the amount of $1,000,000 for improvement of the city parks already selected as the exposition site, and for the construction of permanent buildings that shall constitute the nucleus of the fair.

First Tragedy at Templar Parade.
Chicago.—Hermann Gressmann of Chicago, on his way to join his commandery, was caught between two cars on Templar way and received injuries from which he died on his way to a hospital. In the grandstand, two blocks away, sat Mrs. Gressmann unidentified for three hours while she scanned the marchers for her husband, not learning of his death until the parade had passed.

Newspaper Raises Point of Law.
Quebec.—A novel point in favor of Dr. E. H. Crippen and Ethel Levee was raised here by a local newspaper. On the authority of a Montreal criminal lawyer it is contended that their arrest was illegal because made by Quebec provincial police in federated territory. The government authorities are not alarmed by the contention.

New Building Damaged.
Kansas City.—Two charges of dynamite were exploded under a nine-story building that Montgomery, Ward & Co. has under construction. Little damage was done to the structure. Trouble between contractors is thought by the police to be responsible for the attempt to destroy the structure.

Fires in National Park.
Livingston, Mont. — Three forest fires are raging in the Yellowstone national park, according to reports received here. It is believed, however, that the fires will be brought under control before great damage is done. The fires are being fought by 200 regular troops stationed in the park.

Only Few Negroes Passed.
Westville, Okla.—Application of the "grandfather" clause made for the first time in an election here Monday, proved to be hard on the negroes upon whom it was exercised. But three of 100 negroes passed the educational test which the clause requires.

"Baseball in Heaven."
Mattapoisett, Mass.—"Baseball in heaven" was the subject of a sermon preached Sunday by the Rev. C. Julian Tutthill, pastor of the Congregational church. He said in part: "Heaven is but an evolution of this world. A Christian may love a ball game and loving it remain a Christian. Why, then, is it not safe to prophesy that even the game of baseball will have its place in some spiritual form in heaven?"

Labor Unions Endorse Maupin.
The central labor union of Lincoln has forwarded to Governor Shallenberger resolutions approving the official acts of Deputy Labor Commissioner Will M. Maupin. The Lincoln business men's league, an organization of manufacturers, asked the governor to remove Labor Commissioner Maupin on the ground that he had employed a woman living outside of the state as a special inspector of factories and that he was using his office for labor unions and not for the public.

STATE CAPITAL

NEBRASKA A LEADING SHORTHORN STATE.

Only three states in the union will receive as high as $1,500 from the shorthorn breeders' association toward the shorthorn exhibits of the country this year. The states are Nebraska, Iowa and Minnesota. Upon investigation it was shown that Nebraska was entitled to as much consideration as a shorthorn state as any state in the country, and so she placed this year among the top winners. Those who attend the different state fairs of the country have been aware of this for some years, but it was not until this year that the board of directors of the shorthorn association could be made to see the wrong position in which Nebraska had been placed in former years, and the new board promptly changed the record so that this state is placed in the first class. Visitors to the state fair this year, September 5 to 9, will probably see the advantage gained in the increased exhibits of shorthorn cattle.

Nebraska Fair Beats Them All.
Several days ago a machinery firm wrote the secretary of the state fair, W. R. Mellor, asking for a lot on which to make an exhibit. Mr. Mellor replied that all the machinery lots had been assigned, but if they wished to come, that they would place him somewhere on the ground. Later the following reply was received by Mr. Mellor: "Your letter of the 4th at hand, and we learn with deep regret that the space on the machinery ground is all assigned. You state that you can sandwich us in some place in the machinery department. Now, if you can do this we will certainly consider it 'worth while.' Last year we sold more machines on your grounds than at any other fair, and from the point of actual buying the Lincoln state fair has always been a prize winner. We shall certainly be there, so hold the best place you can for us."

Irrigation Injunction Dissolved.
Assistant Attorney General Ayres has reported to the attorney general that Judge Grimes of the district court of Lincoln county has sustained the motion of the state board of irrigation to dissolve the temporary injunction obtained by the County Judge of Scotts Bluff county. The injunction dissolved restrained the state board of irrigation from closing irrigation headgates in Scotts Bluff county which supply the district with water from the Platte river. The gates had been ordered closed by the state board in order to enforce the state law which provides for the taking of water by irrigators in the order of the priority of their appropriations legally allowed by the state board.

Utilizing Nebraska Water Power.
Burdette Boyers of Seward has applied for and received the approval of the state engineer for an appropriation of water from the Blue river for the purpose of operating an electric power plant. He proposes to begin work immediately and to expend $60,000 to $80,000 for the construction of two dams and power plants to be operated together. It is his intention to supply electric power and light to the cities of Millford, Seward, Beaver Crossing and perhaps David City.

Will Go to Louisiana.
Professor Albert T. Bell, professor of botany in Nebraska Wesleyan university for the past eight or ten years, has been appointed professor of botany in the Louisiana state university at Baton Rouge. He succeeds Professor Ernest A. Bessey, who goes to the Michigan state agricultural college at Lansing.

State Bank Assessment.
The capital stock of state banks which is assessed separately from real estate owned by such banks, shows that a slight increase is reported this year by county assessors in the value of stock listed for assessment. Last year a total of $2,448,248 was listed as the capital stock of state banks. This year, with Gage county not heard from, the amount listed is $2,631,855.

State Fair Railroad Rates.
Secretary W. R. Mellor has received notice that a round trip rate of one and one-half cents has been granted by railroads for the Nebraska state fair. This rate is to be given by all of the leading roads for stations where the fare is more than one dollar.

Value Nebraska Poultry.
The figures compiled in the office of the state board of equalization show the value of Nebraska poultry to be $2,369,895 this year, as compared with $1,839,485 last year. As reported by the county assessors, only a few counties show a decrease.

The Civil Service Commission has called attention to the amended announcement of an examination at Lincoln for tariff clerk for the interstate commerce commission, August 24, which change opens the examination to persons who are conversant with the various passenger tariffs and divisions, and circulars pertaining to rates charged for transportation, etc., and as a result of the examination separate registers will be established for freight tariff clerks and for passenger tariff clerks.

Marble of Humboldt, Neb. The commission will meet in Santee.

Why She Brought It Up.
"Do you remember," she asked, "that you said once that unless I promised to be yours the sun would cease to shine?" "I don't remember it now, but I suppose I may have said something of the kind."

And have you forgotten that you assured me that unless I permitted you to claim me as your own the moon would fall from her place in the heavens?"
"Oh, well, what if I did say so? Why do you want to bring that up, now?"

"I merely wished to assure you that I'm sorry I didn't shut my eyes and let her fall."

Only One Cobb.
The morning after Judge Andrew Cobb, a one-time justice of the supreme court of Georgia, tendered his resignation, an Atlanta lawyer and a shoe drummer sat in the same seat in an outgoing train.

The Lawyer Bought a Newspaper and looked over the headlines. They had turned to the drummer and said: "Well, I see Cobb has resigned." "Geel!" said the drummer. "What will Detroit do now?"—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

The Nurse's Opinion.
"A nurse had been called as a witness to prove the correctness of the bill of a physician. "Let us get at the facts in the case," said the lawyer, who was doing a cross-examination stunt. "Didn't the doctor make several visits after the patient was out of danger?" "No, sir," answered the nurse. "I considered the patient in danger as long as the doctor continued his visits."

His Soft Answer.
"And this is the sort of excuse you put up for coming home two hours late for dinner and in such a condition—that you and that disreputable Augustus Jones were out hunting mushrooms, you wretch? And where, pray, are the mushrooms?" "Here say aren't dear, in m' ves' pocket, and 'wile say ain't so many of 'em, m' dear, we had lots of fun—GUS an' I—huntn' 'em."

119 Years Old When He Died.
Paddy Blake, who was born at Ballygreen, parish of Kilmacool, County Clare, Ireland, 119 years ago, has died in the Corofin Union hospital. Paddy had a clear memory of events that happened a hundred years ago and was one of those who went to see Daniel O'Connell passing through Dunratty Pike on his way to Ennis for the great election of 1828.

Reformation.
"You say you are a reformer?" "Yep," replied the local boss; "of the deepest dye." "But you were not always so." "No. The reformers reformed only towns last year and I want to reform it back again."

HIS OPPOSITION BOTHERED ADAMS AND MURRAY.

CARTER ON WITNESS STAND
Also Met Hamon in Washington Opposing Gore's Bill—Hamon Had Testified He Was Not Interested in Contracts.

McAlester. — The poor Indian" learned a few more things about the proposed sales of $30,000,000 worth of his land in the hearing before the congressional investigation committee in session here.

Congressman C. D. Carter of the Fourth Oklahoma district, testified that at an interview at the home of Richard C. Adams, an attorney at Washington, Adams had said he had an arrangement by which he was to secure 5 per cent of the "profits" to be derived from the McMurray contracts.

"He told me so," testified Mr. Carter, "that Congressman B. S. McGuire was in on the deal and would get his share. He also told me that Dr. Wright, a delegate for the Choctaw Indians at Washington, with a salary of $6,000, was in on the deal. He also said, 'We've got some others,' but he did not mention any other names."

"I also met Jake L. Hamon at Washington. He told me to go to that old man Gore and get him to withdraw that fool bill of his against the McMurray contracts."

Hamon in denying the Gore bribery charge previously had testified he had never worked in behalf of the contracts and had no interest in them.

Habeas Corpus Writ Denied.
St. Louis. — Following the failure of habeas corpus proceedings, Joseph Wendling, wanted in connection with the death of Alma Kellar at Louisville, started for the Kentucky city in the custody of Detective Chief Carney.

Chief Carney announced that the trip to Louisville would not be completed at once, but declined to give his reasons. Neither would he state when the departure will take place.

Wendling's attorneys followed the Carney party to East St. Louis, where they are preparing to file habeas corpus proceedings.

Endorse Senator Bailey.
Galveston, Tex. — After endorsing United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey for the democratic nomination for president in 1912 and nominating a full state ticket headed by Oscar B. Colquitt for governor and A. B. Davidson for lieutenant governor, the democratic state convention has adjourned. Both Colquitt and Davidson are anti-prohibitionists notwithstanding the fact that the party declared in favor of the submission of a prohibition amendment to the people.

A BAD THING TO NEGLECT.

Don't neglect the kidneys when you notice lack of control over the secretions. Passages become too frequent or scanty; urine is discolored and sediment appears. No medicine for such troubles like Doan's Kidney Pills. They quickly remove kidney disorders.

A. Dabem, 411 N. Grant St., Wooster, O., says: "The doctors diagnosed my case as gravel, but my agony increased under their treatment, and I soon became too weak to stand alone. I had given up all hope of relief more than a few weeks at the best. I was strongly urged to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and after twelve days' use, I passed two gravel stones. After that, I improved rapidly until cured. Remember the name—Doan's."

A Mr. McGrew, formerly of Burwell but at present living in Lincoln, had an exciting experience at the depot the other morning when the passenger train pulled in. He had purchased a ticket at Burwell for Ord and had his baggage checked there also. Arriving at Elvira he left the train and just before the train was ready to leave he discovered that his baggage had not been unloaded and at once registered a kick with agent Powell. The train baggage man was consulted and he was certain that there was no baggage for this town, but Mr. McGrew was equally positive that there was and to prove it procured his checks reading Ord. Then the trouble was cleared up, Mr. McGrew made the mistake of thinking that Elvira was Ord and he got back on the train amid the laughter of bystanders.

School Notes
School opens September 5th. The new coal room will soon be a fact.

The eighth grade will be divided this year, as it was two years ago.

New walks are being laid at the south school, the walls colored and hall screens put on.

Miss Bash, high school principal, will teach German and history; Miss Morris, Latin; Miss Haskell, science, geometry and algebra XI; Miss Nether, English and algebra IX. Other subjects will be provided for.

The combination room will consist, this year, of the pupils who were promoted from Miss Fraser's school. Fourth grade pupils not promoted will attend in room 27, south building; all seventh grade pupils in room 34, south building.

Miss Ferguson will continue in charge of the eighth grade and Miss Star the second; Miss Mann will teach the seventh, Miss McAndrew the combination room, Miss Lukesh, the sixth grade, Miss Moorman the fifth, Miss Twombly the fourth, Miss McGraw the third, Miss Richardson the south primary.

Drinking fountains are being placed in both buildings. No drinking cups will be furnished by the district and the "open water pail" is banished. In this connection we may say that all should exercise care to prevent a recurrence of the contagious diseases that troubled us last spring. Our drinking facilities probably assisted the infection then. We are sure, however, that many neglected to report known cases to the school authorities. With due care in this matter a disease would seldom, if ever, interrupt a school.

Burwell Tribune.
The case of the state versus Will Rippe was the leading feature in the district court term in Loup county last week. Tribune readers will remember that the case was one where Rippe was charged with boot-legging, the act having alleged to have been committed at a fourth of July celebration some two years ago. The case was tried to a jury and a verdict of not guilty returned.

F. M. Key pulled his threshing outfit up on the table land after a couple of weeks work in the valley. In fourteen days the machine turned out 15,000 bushels of grain which is to our way of thinking a pretty good average.

Wednesday morning work commenced upon a new automobile garage and blacksmith shop on one of H. J. Cohn's lots opposite the court house. The location has been leased for five years and the building is being put up by Smith and Clark and they will have the management of the same.

Hattie Hennich went to Red Cloud Monday morning where she will visit friends for a few days. She has been engaged to teach the school at Goodenow for the coming year, the term commencing about the first of September.

The county clerks of three counties were in Burwell Tuesday. Otto Munschel, clerk of Valley county, came up via the automobile route, bringing along part of his county records and Clerk Cheeseman, of Loup county was here on the same mission.

Postmaster Sears and his wife went to Central City Friday to attend the funeral of an old friend who was accidentally killed on his farm near there.

The Scotia second ball team played the Cotesfield team here Sunday afternoon, the game resulting in a victory for Cotesfield by a score of 8 to 6. The visitors are nice boys but not heavy enough.

North Loup Localist.
F. B. Robbins received a telegram Tuesday which announced the death of his brother, E. M. Robbins, at Syracuse, N. Y. No particulars have been received by Mr. Robbins. E. M. Robbins was well known here as he has visited his relatives at this place many times.

Relatives at this place received the announcement of the death of Leonard Bristol, who lives in Washington to which place he had gone for his health. He was operated upon for appendicitis but was not strong enough to stand the shock. He was well known here as a boy and has visited here since he became a man.

O. D. Crite and George Mayo, representing the local telephone company, were at Scotia Wednesday to meet with the directors of the Scotia exchange. Arrangements were made whereby we shall have free exchange with Scotia from six a. m. till six p. m. Service will begin as soon as the new line can be built.

A bunch of ball players from north east of Ord came down Thursday in their fighting clothes prepared to take our players into camp, and they did it but not as they had expected as when the final "perout" was called it was found that our boys had won 7 to 2. Those who saw the game said it was a good one, but that the visitors ought not to have had a single score. The two they got being given them on errors.

YOUR WANTS

Save the Baby
Mother's milk is the best. It is a fact that ten bottle-fed babies die to one breast-fed baby.

When the baby gets sick with bowel trouble of any kind stop all food and call the doctor. Give nothing but a little barley water.

Don't ask your neighbors' advice about what to feed the baby. Ask your doctor. And stop feeding anything but barley water, as soon as the baby gets sick. When the bowels are disturbed, continued feeding even of mother's milk only add to the danger. Barley water is soothing, nourishing and harmless.

Keep the baby clean. See that it has at least one bath a day. On very hot days it should be given a sponge bath several times a day.

Take the baby out of doors whenever you can; especially in the early morning and evening hours. Babies must have fresh air the more the better.

Give the baby plenty of cool, pure water. Babies get thirsty same as full folks and milk doesn't satisfy the desire for water.

Never keep the baby in a close, stuffy room. Have all door and windows carefully screened to keep out the flies. B. Get the fresh air in.

And, don't forget! As soon as the baby develops diarrhoea, stop all feeding and call your doctor. Feeding under such circumstances only aggravates the trouble and kills the babies.—Special Press Service Bulletin. Chicago Department of Health.

Classy Performers From Europe Coming With Circus
The Gollmar Brothers Circus which comes to Ord, Wednesday August 24th, is a combination of the most popular shows, which toured the country heretofore. These shows are now recognized as circus of the best class and of the greater kind. The union of these shows includes just about all there is in the amusement world which is really worth while.

From the opening pageant, to the Hippodrome races, the acts in these combined shows are of the very best class obtainable in Europe and America. The Moro Family is a marvelous novelty act, seen for the first time in many seasons, they having been abroad. The LaRue troupe have never been seen in this country before. The Billy Wood brigade of clowns are not exactly new to the fun loving public, but have many really funny stunts which are actually ludicrous and lead all clown stunts.

Suicide at Burwell.

Mrs. Thomas Roberts, a sister of Mrs. Z. C. Harris, committed suicide last Friday night by drowning herself in the Loup river. Some three months ago Mrs. Roberts came to Burwell, from Portland, Oregon, to make her home here and for the past month has been employed in the kitchen at the Livingston hotel. Before coming to Burwell her husband met with financial trouble and this fact appeared to worry her considerably and in a sense had much to do with the undermining of her health and probably was the direct cause of her committing the rash act which cost her her life.

While working at the Livingston she has remained nights at the Harris home, arising every morning and going to her work, returning in the evening after the supper work was cleared up. When Mr. Harris stopped there in the evening she informed him that Mrs. Livingston was out of town and she had promised her when she left that she would remain over night and refused to accompany him home.

As she was considerably worried over her condition he went home and Mrs. Harris came up and endeavored to get her to come home but her efforts were of no avail. Mrs. Harris returned home at a little after ten o'clock and was telling her husband of the refusal of Mrs. Roberts to come home with her when he noticed a lady passing down the street toward the river, and suggested it might be her, but Mrs. Harris thought not as she was of the opinion that the person referred to came from the house of one of the neighbors. On Friday morning, Green Brown, who was in charge of the Livingston during the proprietor's absence, met Harris and asked him why Mrs. Roberts had not come up to work that morning. Harris of course was greatly surprised to learn that she had not spent the night at the hotel and his first thought was that the woman he had seen going toward the river before might have been her. The alarm soon spread about town and several searching parties were at once made up and went to the river to look for the missing woman with the result that about twelve o'clock Friday noon, her lifeless body was found on a sand bar a couple of miles down the river. Sunday her hand bag and a comb were found at the edge of the river a short way above the bridge, at a point where the deceased had been bathing with a party of friends a few days before.—Tribune.

W. S. Smith was not long in determining that he wanted none of the Ozarks. He went down there last week and returned the first of this fully persuaded that the country was not to his liking. He will move soon to the Willamette valley, Oregon. Here is where the James Colby family now resides and where prosperity is perched on their banners.

George W. Whitney, the U. P. mail clerk, has been compelled on account of his health, to give up the road and go into the office. He was in a wreck some year or so ago and after getting out thought he could stand an easy run like the Ord branch, but he finds that he cannot do it. We regret that he and his wife must leave us, for they have proved to be fine people.

Only last week Mrs. Scott and her children left Ord after having a visit with her cousin, Mrs. C. A. Hager and others, happy and hopeful, but before she reached her home in Oklahoma her eldest son, a young man of 17 was killed by the cars at Wichita, Kansas. She and her children were on the way home and were still a long way from home when the accident came, and the husband and father was far away in Old Mexico. The ordeal of the good woman in these dire circumstances can hardly be imagined. The news of the awful tragedy came to the Hagers by wire Monday.

A big black dog with stately mien, was walking over the village green on some important errand bent; a little cur, not worth a cent observed him passing by, and growled and barked awhile and yapped and howled. The big one did not deign a look, but walked along like prince or duke. The cur remarked beneath his breath: "That big four-furisher's scared to death! Those great big brutes are never game; now just watch Fido climb his frame!" The big black dog went stalking on as calm and tranquil as the dawn; he knew the cur was at his heels; he heard his yaps and snarls and squeals and yet he never looked around, nor blinked an eye nor made a sound; his meditations had a tone that many pups had never known. The cur unnoticed lost all fear; it grabbed the big dog by the ear; the latter paused just long enough to take the small one by the scruff and shake him gently to and fro; and then he let poor Fido go, and said in a quiet tone: "Now get!" And Fido's doubtless running yet. Suppose you see if you can nail the moral hidden in this tale.—Walt Mason.

Cannon is Fired

The question Congressman Longworth has answered is not the question whether Joseph G. Cannon shall be speaker of the next house. Mr. Cannon was not to be speaker again, no matter what Longworth or the president did. What the administration had to decide was whether the next speaker should be a republican other than Mr. Cannon or else a democrat.

That is, to have let it be understood that Mr. Cannon would have the republican support for speaker would have been equivalent to having no republican speakership to fill. The country is done with Uncle Joe, and will not elect a congress that promises to keep him in the speakership. The republican party could not win with Cannon on its back. Cannon shows himself incapable of quitting his party for his party's good; so a surgical operation becomes necessary. Before the campaign is over more than a majority of the republican candidates will have taken Longworth's hint and thrown off the Cannon handicap. Danville is out of it.

It is distressing to see the old man go down fighting in blind fury. To have a long public career end in defeat and discredit as so many have in the last half dozen years is always unpleasant, but that is the common fate of the man who stops learning half a lifetime before he stops working, or whose eminence was built on a false foundation. Speaker Cannon now joins the caravan of Forakers, Depews and Aldriches who are dead yet living, politically buried though physically alive.

Mr. Cannon would have done better to follow the course of Aldrich, and retire in advance of the foreseen kick. The fight that seems so brave and stirring when there is a chance to win becomes ludicrous when it is merely an obstinate butting of the head against stone walls.—State Journal.

Everybody May Hear Roosevelt

When Colonel Roosevelt speaks in Omaha Friday afternoon, September 2, it will be to the general public and not to an exclusive few political admirers or member of any social organization.

The great Omaha Auditorium, which the people of Nebraska helped build—has been engaged. It will seat comfortably 10,000 people and as it is fire-proof there will be no fire department interfering with those who wish to stand in the aisles.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon Colonel Roosevelt will arrive at the Auditorium and make his address. It will be the only address he will make in Omaha or in Nebraska. While he is going to the Ak-Sar-Ben den later in the evening and while he will be a guest at both a dinner and a luncheon in Omaha, he will speak but once—in the Auditorium where all who come may hear him. Only a few seats—150 to 200 have been reserved and all others are free to anyone who gets them. Visitors from outside will have the same chance as Omaha people. There is positively no list and no favorites except the vice presidents of the entertainment committee seated on the stage with the guests of Mr. Roosevelt who are making the trip with him.

Ord Wins From Scotia

The Ord base ball team, accompanied by a large number of fans, went down to Scotia in automobiles last Sunday afternoon and succeeded in defeating the team at that place. The score being 5 to 4.

During the first two innings it seemed as if everything was going to be in Scotia's favor, they making two runs each time at bat, while our boys failed to cross the home plate. However, during the rest of the game the Scotia team failed to score, and our players running in one score in the third, tying the sixth and making the winning run in the seventh.

Castle was in the box for Ord and pitched a good game, and the other players played equally as good ball. The Scotia boys were up on their toes during the whole game, which was fast from beginning to end.

Pull together, brethren. We are all here for the same purpose. Then live and let live. The best way to build up a town is for each and every man to pull together and not strive to rend and tear down. All the residents of a town are partners, not opponents. In all likelihood the more business done by your rival the more you will do. Every merchant who treats his customers honestly and fairly will get his share and the more business that can be secured by united effort, the better it will be for all.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT AT RAPE

Orville Phair Enters Home of Joseph R. Stevens With Supposed Intention of Committing Crime

It becomes the painful duty of the Quiz to go into details concerning another outrage against decency, against the community and against a virtuous home.

The man accused of the outrage is Orville Phair, a somewhat notorious local character, and the victim is Ruth Stevens, wife of Joseph R. Stevens, a young married couple who came to Ord a few months ago.

This family live in the small house standing close to the street line north of and in the same yard with the old Stone boarding house. Last Friday night, according to the testimony of both Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, their rest was disturbed by the restlessness of their babe. The husband, however, soon went to sleep and, as his habit is, slept very soundly. The mother was awake longer, but finally dropped off to sleep about 11 o'clock, leaving a light burning.

About midnight she was awakened by someone's hand taking liberties with her. Of course she supposed it was her husband, but being wearied by the care of the babe she told him to behave himself, to use her own words. But she quickly awoke to the fact that it was not her husband and struck a match to see who it was. Meanwhile her husband had awakened and they both got a partial view of the man making his escape through the door. She had never seen him before, but Mr. Stevens had seen him but did not know his name. They sat on the edge of the bed a half hour or so discussing the affair, when they heard a noise of someone trying to force the screen at the window. Mr. Stevens ran out and attempted to catch the man, but he got away down the alley where, near the Will Moses stone works, he overtook the man and a tussle ensued but the miscreant escaped. But this gave Stevens a chance to get a good look at the man.

Next day he saw Orville Phair on the streets and pointing him out to bystanders found out the name of the man and then proceeded to have him arrested for assault with intent to commit rape.

The preliminary hearing was had before Judge Gudmundsen Tuesday afternoon. Witnesses were put on the stand to show that Phair had made indecent remarks about this woman and what he would like to do. But the testimony of the woman and her husband was point blank and straight-forward, convincing all who heard it of the truthfulness of their account, which agrees substantially with the facts above stated.

No defense was offered. Judge Gudmundsen took the matter under advisement to make sure that no error was made in the procedure and yesterday morning handed down a decision binding the prisoner over to the district court in the sum of $1,400. As Phair has not yet been able to procure the sureties he is held in jail.

The lady is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Patrick, who used to live in Ord years ago, leaving here and going to Kansas or some other place south, and finally returning last spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, though comparative strangers here, are of good report, industrious and upright. Not a breath of suspicion is raised against the good name and character of the victim of this dastardly outrage. Of course the sympathy of the community is with her, and all are glad that she had the courage to face the ordeal of testifying in such delicate matters in order that the villain might be brought to justice. Too often guilty men escape prosecution because women have to go into open court and testify.

On every hand we hear it said that Stevens, instead of invoking the law, should have taken justice in his own hands. Doubtless had he done so he would have escaped punishment, but after all this is the better way. There seems to be no escape for Orville Phair now getting something that is due him.

The closing number of the chauteauqua was the best of all in the opinion of the Quiz. The Cleveland Orchestra was the only really good musical number on the program, and the recital of Lorna Doone and the accompanying illustrations made an entertainment of the highest order, and one that the audience greatly appreciated. There was a large crowd there and the chauteauqua folks went away happy and content. Abate the dog nuisance.

Farmers Autos

A recent investigation of financial conditions in the West by a big eastern bank included the subject of automobiles. The inquiry embraced Nebraska among other agricultural states and thus the subject was brought home to us as it were.

When it is recalled that in a state like ours there is an investment of approximately 25 million dollars in automobiles, it becomes apparent that they are of economic importance.

And so the investigation of the eastern bank wisely looked into this modern luxury. The purpose was to discover how many farmers were buying and where the money comes from.

All replies were to the effect that farmers are buying liberally, as we all know who live among them. And there was as uniform testimony that they are not spreading any mortgages on the records to pay for them but that the cash (for all auto makers sell for cash) comes out of the voluptuous bank deposits carried by the farmers.

"We don't know just why the bank in question wanted to know particularly as to farmers, any more than with reference to merchant or coal dealer or ice men or horse doctor or editors." We suspect that it was born of a notion that farmers have no business to possess autos, that it is harmful for them to indulge in such frivolities. If that be true anywhere it is time for the idea to be relegated to the limbo of imagination. There are some half baked speed maniacs who have mortgaged the home, the cradle and the family cow to buy autos but they are not found among the farmers. This class of purchasers have been taught conservatism by a prolonged period of enforced economy. But of late years the farmer has come into his own. He has driven the ravenous wolf from his door. He has accumulated surplus wherewith to loan a few paltry thousands to others who may need it, and with a part of the residue of his surplus to buy a "thirty" or "forty," "four" or "six" with which to call into town in the evenings with his family after the chores are done, permitting his $500 teams that have been doing valiant service in the fields to rest and refresh themselves for the burdens of the following day.

Whatever the motive for looking into the purchase of autos by farmers we are glad the question was raised, for it has shown how substantial is the basis upon which he now rests. Bless his heart, he and his good wife have worked and worked and dreamed, and we rejoice that their dreams have come true.—Fremont Tribune.

Cheering Words From Mattley
Ansel, Nebraska, August 23, 1910
Mr. Haskell—I am short 23 vote as I have the figures. Custer county gave me a splendid vote and if the very heavy rain had not occurred I would have been easily nominated. A supervisors fight on the democratic and populist ticket between Ben P. Morris of Ansel and John Walker of Mason where many republicans of Ansel and Myrtle townships voted for Morris and many republicans of Algernon and Elk townships voted for Walker cost me 125 votes. I did not know this was going on till late in the evening and I could not stop it. It was a county division fight and nothing could prevent it.

The county division question is to be voted on again in November. The city of Broken Bow is divided and part of it is in four counties. The new proposed Arbor county with Callaway the center and county seat, the new proposed Albany county with Oconto the center and chief town and county seat. The new proposed Corn county with Sargent the center and county seat town, the new proposed Rose county with Ansel the center and the chief town and the county seat town. Old Custer county will have Merna and Anselmo in it and it is hard to guess which will ultimately get the county seat. The vote is almost equally divided between the two and it depends on the push and hustle which will get the plum.

The First National Bank has had the largest deposits of any bank in Custer county and has maintained the lead for the past year. Since the consolidating of the two banks of Sargent as the First National Bank that bank will take the lead with the greatest deposits of any bank in Custer county.

Since the heavy rains the corn in and around Ansel has made great improvement and we will have a greater number of bushels than last year.

Yours truly,
W. S. MATTLEY.

A. W. Christensen of Howard county and one of the strong farmers of that county, came up to Ord Tuesday night to contract with the Desch Bros. for a monument to be erected over his wife's grave. He was not long in making his selection and returned home yesterday morning.

In advertising always say what you believe, if you wish people to believe what you say.

The First National Bank of Ord

Offers to its customers every safeguard known to modern banking for the security and safety of their funds.

Besides our combined Capital and Surplus of $137,000.00 this Bank is officered by men of experience, who have devoted years to the business and the study of sound conservative banking.

Considering our large resources, our prosperous condition and well established reputation of an up-to-date Bank, we unhesitatingly invite the business of the people of this county, fully knowing our ability to serve them well.

We invite you to call and talk over your wants with us.

The T. J. Nethery family departed yesterday morning for Oklahoma, where they will make their home. Nethery stayed till noon and went along with his car of effects, but the women folks took the morning passenger train and will be there ahead of him a few days. This very excellent family departing will be a loss to us, but we shall look for their return before long. Good luck go with them, anyway.

An exchange gives an incident that illustrates the impossibility of telling where the trouble resulting from a mortgage will end. A man mortgaged his farm to buy his wife a pair of ear-rings. The wife took in washing to pay the interest on the mortgage, and the first day lost one of the diamonds in the suds, and tried to hang herself in the barn, but the rope broke and she fell on a $150 Jersey cow breaking its back.

About as good a way to study human nature is when you are driving on the public road. If a man is willing to observe the laws and the courtesies of the road, he will duly give his share of it when meeting another, and shows he is willing to do the gentlemanly thing about it. But when you meet one who takes advantage of those he meets, and holds the road for his own selfish self, often to the great discomfort of those he meets, or will not allow them to pass, we are almost sure to think of pork in connection with such drivers of teams.

Chas. Partridge of Hotel Ord has been making considerable effort for the last few months to introduce the Mangolian pheasant in this part of the state and has been raising a number of litters for this purpose and last week the last of the litters was turned loose in the edge of the sand hill north of Ord. It is hoped that in a few years these pheasants may be as common in the state as the prairie chickens were a few years ago. They are very prolific breeders and raise from fifteen to twenty at a brood and hatch several broods in a season. The only drawback seems to be a fear that the birds may not adapt themselves to this climate and that sportsmen will kill them ere they have had time to increase in numbers to any great extent. Besides being one of the greatest breeds of game birds they are a boon to the farmers as their diet consists mainly of bugs worms and weed seeds. May it be hoped that they will thrive and prosper and eventually find their way into Greeley county.—Greeley Leader-Independent.

Fair Notes
Please notice the following corrections in the new premium list. 209 on page 57, should be White Orpington fowls with chicks added. Then on page 93, (Domestic arts) numbers 1017, 1018 and 1019, 1020, should be entered under 1017, 1019.

We have valuable space to rent to persons wishing to do legitimate business.

Progress is the watchword at this fair. There will be betterment and improvement at every point. The fair days will be made the holidays of the season, a time when people can rest from labor and enjoy the results. Plan to have a rest and a rejoicing during the fair.

Our pens and stalls are being taken already, so also are our locations for stands and concessions. If you are expecting to make an exhibit or use any space, don't wait until the best places are taken but apply for what you want at once.

John Albert, Jr., one of Nebraska's expert apiculturists, will be with us and lecture on Bees and Beekeeping. Arrangements are also being made to have a man from the Bureau of Animal Industry to demonstrate and lecture on the application of the Serum treatment for the prevention and cure of hog cholera. The directors have had Howard Stennett put in one of his large cement tanks that they may have an abundance of water for stock during the fair.

Our district school exhibit is going to prove a success and will no doubt be a permanent feature of the fair after this year.

If you have not received a premium list please call or phone and we will see that you are supplied, O. P. Cromwell, Sec.

The first thing you saw when you entered the Gollmar Bros. shows Wednesday afternoon, was our own Joe Kamarad, who stood in front of the first animal cage. Tugged up as he was in a red toga you may not have known, but it was Joe just the same. He promptly applied for a job when the show struck town and was accepted and put to work and taken from town. Who says that shows are not a good thing? Pity that Orville Phair was not loose so that he could go too.

W. P. Thorp, the democratic candidate for representative of the district just above us, was a passenger to Lincoln Monday, presumably to see why in Hellespont they can't count Dahlman out as candidate for governor.

On the 15th the Nebraska military academy opens, and the Lincoln academy and state university open for registration on the 20th, and for attendance one week later. The Lincoln city schools, including the high school, open earlier than the other institutions, beginning actual work on the 12th. Every year the opening of the schools and colleges brings several thousand students to Lincoln and its suburbs.

Made Him Pay Fare.
Attorney General Thompson has complained to the railway commission that a Union Pacific railroad conductor refused to accept mileage from a book bought by the attorney general more than one year ago. The railway commission will go after the railroad company for violating the Knowles law, which provides that railroads shall issue 1,000 miles of transportation for $20, the mileage books to be good in any person's hands for two years from date of sale.

Valuation of the State.
Secretary Seymour of the state board of assessment has completed the total assessed valuation of the state by counties. The total is $411,958,354, or an increase of $12,972,535. The levy of 5 mills state tax this year on this valuation will raise a total tax of $2,059,791, or $134,630 less than the total tax charged against the various counties last year on a total assessed valuation of $398,985,819 with a levy of 5 1/2 mills.

O'Neill of the Connecticut camp has written to Commander Phelps that the young man was a fine fellow and that he had two sisters. The Connecticut camp asks that the body be given a regular burial and that the camp pay the regular allowance for burial and the purchase of a headstone.

Quebec.—The dominion government's order for the release of Dr. H. H. Crippen and Ethel Clare Levee from the provincial jail and their transfer to the custody of Inspector Dew has not yet arrived. It is expected soon, however, and the impression still prevails that the prisoners will leave Quebec for London this week.

RICHES CAME EASY

OKLAHOMA INDIAN CHIEF WAXED SUDDENLY WEALTHY.

HARD TO RECALL JUST HOW

Swelling of Bank Account to Good Proportions Coincided With Payment of a $750,000 Fee to Lawyer McMurray.

Sulphur, Okla.—Douglas H. Johnson, a Chickasaw Indian and chief of the 80,000 members of that tribe, answered "I don't remember," before the special congressional investigation committee when asked how it was that he was able to deposit the $75,000 to his personal credit a few days after J. F. McMurray had received $750,000 as attorney's fees.

Johnson has testified that he has always approved of what are known as the present McMurray contracts, which provide for the sale of $30,000,000 worth of land belonging to the Indians and which would allow McMurray 10 per cent, or $3,000,000, in fees. He also has urged other Indians to sign them. He testified he was a particular friend of McMurray. He testified in what are known as the citizenship cases several years ago that he approved of a contract in which McMurray got a salary of $5,000 a year and $2,700 a year expenses. A short time afterward he approved of another contract on which McMurray obtained for doing the same work a contingent fee of $750,000. The latter fee was to have been $1,500,000, but was cut down one-half by the government.

Roosevelt an Insurgent.

New York.—Theodore Roosevelt has matched strength with the "old guard" of the republican party in New York state and met decisive defeat. The republican state committee, in session here, by a vote of 20 to 15, refused to recommend him for temporary chairman of the state convention at Saratoga September 27. Instead Vice President James S. Sherman was selected. This is Colonel Roosevelt's second defeat at the hands of the "old guard," the first having been the legislature's refusal to pass the Cobb direct primary bill, although Mr. Roosevelt especially endorsed it. With his setback today plans for harmony within the party in the state received a severe setback, and as soon as Colonel Roosevelt heard the news he issued a statement in which he enrolled himself as a progressive, so far as the New York state situation goes.

Struck by Overland Train.

Junction City, Kas.—Crawling into camp and bringing news that he and his companion had been struck by the overland limited on the Union Pacific railway, Charles H. Lightfoot was the message-bearer of the first accident at the maneuver camp. An ambulance was sent out and found the dead body of Jesse Moore lying beside the railroad. The men were walking along the track together about midnight. They heard the train coming, but thought they had plenty of time to get out of the way. When Lightfoot regained consciousness he was across a twenty-foot ditch and could find no trace of his companion. He started for camp on his hands and knees. He is in the hospital in a dangerous condition.

Women Biblical Students.

Lake Geneva, Wis.—The annual central city conference under the auspices of the national board of the Young Women's Christian association has opened here and will continue until August 24. Several hundred young women registered at the opening and many more are expected to put in an appearance before the end of the week. The conference is planned for all members of the Y. W. C. A., students and teachers in educational institutions, and other persons interested in Bible study and in missionary work.

RAISE DUCKS WITHOUT WATER

Much Success May Be Had With Them Where Stream or Pond Is Unknown—Common Error.
(By CHAS. C. WENTZLER.)
One of the greatest fallacies in poultry raising, is that ducks must be near water to be raised successfully. Even poultrymen, who happen to be more familiar with chickens than they are with ducks and geese, frequently stumble into this error.

A poultry writer told me not long ago that ducks are best raised near a stream but that he "had known of them being quite successfully raised without a stream."

Surprised at a remark that appeared to me as being so absurd, I asked with assumed innocence: "What do they need a stream or a pond for?"

He couldn't answer me and in that he had made the same mistake of supposing that because they are supplied by nature with web-feet that they must have a body of water to live in. As a matter of fact there are hundreds of duck farms and thousands of ducks to which a stream or a pond is unknown. Ducks when well fed on land will not go near water unless it is very convenient to them. Ducks live on fish and water insects and this is their reason for spending a share of their time on the water. In fact wild ducks get the bulk of their meat food in the water. It is true that they are specially adapted by nature for the water but it is only so that they can hunt for certain kinds of food. They are one of the bipeds which have held on to certain amphibious habits which date back for millions of years, to a time, perhaps, when the whale spent part of his time on land in search of food.

Tulle Roses.
A charming trimming on a pink silk evening dress seen recently, consisted of a cluster of five roses, formed of pink tulle, with green tulle stems twisted over thin wire, sewed to the left side of the low neck. The effect was exceedingly attractive, and showed again the value of the little touches to raise a gown from the commonplace.

For the Hostess

Chat on Interesting Topics of Many Kinds, by a Recognized Authority

An Animal Party.
Rather a novel party was given recently by a mother with two little children, aged seven and ten. Each child was asked to come wearing an article that would indicate some animal. When all had arrived the children were to guess all the animals represented. It was an interesting managerie, I assure you. It made a jolly half hour. Then there was an animal "hunt." All over the lawn, the porches and on the lower floor of the large house animal crackers had been hidden. There were cunning little baskets given to each one to hold the spoils; basket and crackers to be kept and besides there was a prize of those cunning little animals to be found at Japanese stores. A toy animal also made a unique prize and a "Noah's ark." Best of all the fun was moulded into animals out of clay, each child being protected by a large towel tied around the neck and in around the waist. After that a good elder sister told animal stories, while the refreshments were being made ready. There was creamed chicken, wee sand-wiches, ice cream with animal-shaped cookies. Then they had a game played just like stage coach, only they had all the names of animals and turned around when their names were called. When it came time to go home the mother came out and said: "Now you are all changed into little mice and must run away quickly to find your houses before the old cat gets out," and such a merry scamper as there was, with "Good byes" and "lovely times" from each little guest.

At a Pre-Nuptial Luncheon.
Besides the usual love symbols of hearts, true-lovers' knots, slippers, etc., at a luncheon given for a September bride-elect, the hostess had a surprise in the ices, which when brought on proved to be relative to some personal occasion in the guest's life. For instance, that for the bride represented an engagement ring; it was a circle of rich yellow cream with a huge solitary diamond made from lemon ice. A young girl known to be much interested in a soldier received a perfect little miniature officer with a sword. Another maiden whom it was suspected had turned down a prominent society chap had a cold white heart of lemon ice. Every one caught the significance and there was a merry time.

FANCIES OF FASHION.
Immense hat pins are still used. Pink linen is extremely fashionable. Fans are so huge that they are most awkward.

Amusing Contests.
This very funny contest took place on ship board, where all sorts of nonsensical stunts are planned to beguile the time away. It is just as funny on land as on sea. Perhaps some may object to the cigarette race, but this may be overcome by using cubed ones. Out on the lawn or on a breezy corner of the porch place four girls in a row, each having a well-filled match box; at a distance of, say, 20 feet place four young men with cigarette units in their mouths. When the signal "Go" is given the men run to the girls, get the cigarettes lighted and the man who first gets back to the starting point is the winner, as well as the girl who lights the cigarette for him. A prize may be awarded to each. The match boxes may be used as shields to keep the match from blowing out, but the girls must do it with no aid from the men. In the excitement some girls had to light three or four matches before the man could go on his return and some did not succeed at all. The other contest was a needle race. As in the cigarette race four young men ran to the four girls, each girl having a needle in one hand and a thread in the other. The man who first returned to the starting place with a threaded needle in his hand was the victor. It was permitted the men to hold the girl's wrist to steady it as she threaded the needle.

No Love for the Turtle.
The only living thing in this place that nobody ever tries to pet is the turtle," said the animal dealer. "There are certain tones of the voice, certain pats and punches that all animals are especially responsive to. Parrots like to be rubbed at a certain spot on the top of the head, a magpie is happiest when somebody is scratching him under the wings, and certain other birds have a preference for tickling under the chin. The dogs, the cats, the mice and the snakes are partial to a particular kind of love making, and every day we have visitors who know enough about natural history to pet each bird and beast according to its likes—everything, that is, but the turtle. Nary a pat nor a punch nor a tickle does anybody bestow upon him. Sometimes I feel sorry for the poor old chap floundering in his pool in solemn loneliness. Touched by compassion by the affecting picture, the visitor extended a hesitating hand. "How do you pet a turtle, anyhow?" was asked. "Give it up," said the dealer. "I never got very intimate with 'em myself."

Perfumed Beds.
There is nothing very novel, the unfilled mattress may think, about perfumed beds, for every one knows how good housewives have for a generation prided themselves on their naps, and that one of their special little fads was to place lavender bags among the sheets in order to add a little to the luxury of the sleeper. But when perfumed beds are talked of nowadays something is contemplated which was unknown to the old-time housewife. Now between the mattress and the sheet there is laid a scented pad—a thin quilted affair, which has one layer of cotton freely sprinkled with the favorite sachet powder—which causes the whole bed to smell deliciously of roses, violets, or whatever may be the chosen perfume. Pillows are also opened and sachet powder is sprinkled among the feathers. Orris makes a perfume resembling violets, and there are some people who like that of pine, which is easily obtained by gathering the needles from the trees in summer and laying them flat in little sacks, which are inserted in both pads and pillows.

The Test of the College Man.
"Why won't you take 'em?" demanded an athletic and indignant young man of J. A. Magill of Seattle, agent for the Copper River & Northwestern railroad. Mr. Magill has sent 3,700 laborers into Alaska, is looking for more, and the young man wanted a job. "Don't you think I could do the work?" he persisted. "I could put it all over those rough-necks you are hiring," squaring his broad shoulders. "You are physically able, I guess," said Mr. Magill, "but about the time some big Swede pulled off his shoes and stuck his feet alongside your face in the bunk you'd quit your job, owing the commissary about $30."

"We have to fight away these college men every day," said the agent after the young man had left. "We spot them as soon as they come in. Sometimes they try to fool us by letting their flannel shirts and some overalls. But they can't put callouses on their hands."—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Long Days.
How would you like to live in a place where the longest day lasted three months and a half? But that really is the length of the longest day in Spitzbergen, a far northern cape on the way to the north pole. At a place called Wardbury, in Norway, the longest day lasts from May 21 to July 22; that means that it's daylight all the time, so that you go to bed in daylight and wake up in daylight, too, for ever so many weeks. It must be funny, mustn't it?

At St. Petersburg, the capital of Russia, the longest day lasts 19 hours and the shortest one only five hours. London's longest day is 16 1/2 hours, while New York's is about 16 hours.

A GARDEN IN THE ORIENT.

One in Fez Where is Heard Music That Was Old When the Pyramids Were New.

A garden does not necessarily mean a collection of flowers arranged more or less symmetrically, with spaces of lawn, shelter of trees, and paths hither and thither. There have been gardens that, beyond a terra-cotta jar or two holding a rosebush or a flowering almond, have had no green thing within their gates. I know of an Oriental garden in Fez where white-garmented Moors come in the cool of the evening to sit and listen to ancient stories that they know by heart, or to music that was old when the pyramids were new, or perhaps to look at a dancing girl or two taking soft steps while they smoke their narghiles; yet that garden is nothing more than a series of arches upholding walls beyond walls, toned a faint, mysterious yellow that is not yellow, but white, and yet not white, but rose. In the middle is a pool of water in a stone basin that looks blue because of the intense sky overhead, and that shimmer with golden reflections from the walls. In a corner stands a mighty jar full of strange, scarlet blossoms, and rugs of deep color and intricate pattern lie on the sun-warmed flags. There is always the fairy music of dripping water, and wonderful shadows move among the arches.

This place is a garden for all that it is so built of man. The word court will not do for it. It may be that a garden, as has been said of Boston, is less a material thing than a state of mind. The story of the Garden of Eden seems to hint at something of the sort; and had we all permission to create an Eden of our own, doubtless these would vary as greatly as do the secret desires of every heart, the inner life of every soul. If, therefore, in speaking of a garden, one pictures something that to another may not appear to conform strictly to the term, what matter? If the garden spirit is there, it will incarnate itself for the true believer, who is always a seer.—Century.

MADAME MERRIL.
The new neckwear shows the effect of the frill. The girle is a pronounced feature of the best gowns. The kimono to or below the elbow leads all others in sleeves. The blue and green combinations of metallic effect are popular. All the blues are popular up to the faintest Marie Antoinette tint. Plain colored satin ribbons made into rosettes are a fad of the moment. The most favored fans are of satin and lace with extremely long handles. Light old rose tints are genuinely girlish colors for millinery purposes. The new summer stockings are embroidered in vivid colors on instep and ankle. Foulard velvets with chiffon making up simple little afternoon or visiting gowns.

The gown shown in the illustration is of natural color linen, with white crocheted buttons and bands of cotton cord.

ABOUT THE LIMIT.

Jack—I should say so! I've known him to telephone to his office and ask if he was in.

LEG A MASS OF HUMOR

"About seven years ago a small abrasion appeared on my right leg just above my ankle. It irritated me so that I began to scratch it, and it began to spread until my leg from my ankle to the knee was one solid scale like a scab. The irritation was always worse at night and would not allow me to sleep, or my wife either, and it was completely undermining our health. I lost fifty pounds in weight and was almost out of my mind with pain and chagrin as no matter where the irritation came, at work, on the street or in the presence of company, I would have to scratch it until I had the blood running down into my shoes. I simply cannot describe my suffering during those seven years. The pain, mortification, loss of sleep, both to myself and wife is simply indescribable on paper and one has to experience it to know what it is.

"I tried all kinds of doctors and remedies but I might as well have thrown my money down a sewer. They would dry up for a little while and fill me with hope only to break out again just as bad if not worse. I had given up hope of ever being cured when I was induced by my wife to give the Cuticura Remedies a trial. After taking the Cuticura Remedies for a little while I began to see a change, and after taking a dozen bottles of Cuticura Resolvent in conjunction with the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, the trouble had entirely disappeared and my leg was as fine as the day I was born. Now after a lapse of six months with no signs of a recurrence I feel perfectly safe in extending to you my heartfelt thanks for the good the Cuticura Remedies have done for me. I shall always recommend them to my friends. W. H. White, 312 E. Cabot St., Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 4 and Apr. 13, 1909."

Another Tradition Exploded.
Two Englishmen were resting at the "Red Horse Inn" at Stratford-on-Avon. One of them discovered a print picturing a low tumbling building underneath which was printed: "The House in Which Shakespeare Was Born." Turning to his friend in mild surprise he pointed to the print. His friend exhibited equal surprise, and called a waiter who assured them of the accuracy of the inscription. "Pon my word," said the observing Englishman, shaking his head dubiously, "I thought he was born in a manger!"—Success Magazine.

It is close enough to strike fire, this contest between Dahlan and Shallenberger.

As usual M. P. Kinkaid has received a flattering endorsement at the hands of the voters of the 6th district. And he will be just as triumphantly elected this fall.

What self-respecting democrat, if there be any such, can have the heart to vote for Dahlan for governor. The mention of his name in connection with this high office is a disgrace.

Too popular with everyone to have opposition even for the renomination for state auditor, Silas R. Barton received the practically unanimous vote of the republicans for another term as auditor. As an officer he has been painstaking and efficient, courteous and just. Outside of his party he has a host of friends. He was for years grand recorder for the Workmen and as such counts his friends by the hundreds. There is no doubt of his re-election by a great majority.

Another case of attempted rape due to the kind of rotgut our saloons are dishing out. And in both cases the taxpayers of the county will have to pay the costs, probably even to an attorney's fee in at least one case. And yet there are tax payers in Valley county who declare that county option is not right. Strange that anyone would say that a city has the right to license saloons, take the license money and the county at large foot the bill, and the tax payers of the county have no right to say whether saloons may be licensed.

Governor Shallenberger owes his defeat for renomination to the pernicious change in our primary election laws as made by the late lamented democratic legislature and signed by his excellency. Doubtless the governor had no idea that he was signing his own political death warrant when he signed that bill. On the face of the returns Shallenberger lost at the recent election by 61 votes. It is known to be a certainty that many hundreds of republicans voted for the nomination of Dahlan, a thing which they could not have done had the democrats not made the change in the law which enables anyone to vote any ticket he pleases at the primary elections. Some republicans voted for Dahlan just because they knew he would be the weaker candidate. But most of the republican votes came from ultra whiskey republicans who wish to turn the state over to the brewers and distillers. Anyway, the democrats sowed to the wind and are reaping the whirlwind.

The Awful Price

The results we are deriving from our saloons, the things we are sacrificing, the sense of peace and security that we are forfeiting, the lives we are blighting and the evils we are fostering in return for the paltry sums received from license money, are all being brought more and more vividly to our minds. A few months ago a little girl was assaulted on the highway by a man made drunk by Ord whiskey. Last Friday night a young wife and mother, wearied by the care of a restless babe was awakened by the foul hand of a profligate whose base passions were aroused by the rotgut sold by our Ord saloons. How much of things like this, to say nothing of myriad minor things, will you willingly endure, voters of Ord, in return for $4000 license money? How many times will you suffer your little girl to be seized by a human brute, his heinous desires aroused by Ord whiskey, for the consideration of $4000 placed in the public treasury? How many times, for a little license money going to the public, not to you, will you permit a libertine, his breath foul with Ord rotgut, and his hands reeking with unmentionable filth, to fondle your own pure wife on your own bed, taking advantage of her wearied condition and her trust in you? For the paltry share you will receive from $4000 given to Ord, how many times will you consent that your modest and innocent wife must be compelled to face a roomful of men and tell of unspeakable insults and dastardly deeds done by a product of Ord's saloons? Say, men, do you measure the value of your child's chastity and your wife's purity and trust in you in dollars and cents? Do you believe that you are called upon as citizens of Ord to give up the most sacred things in your life that a rich city may be saved a few dollars in taxes? The asking of all these questions is their own answer. Then why, in the name of your wife and daughter, will you keep voting to license saloons? The Quiz has faith to believe that the voters of Ord will some day see the awful price they are paying for a little immunity from taxes and will banish the saloons from Ord forever.

The ignominious defeat of C. O. Wheadon for the U. S. senatorship is a very fitting thing. The fight he made on Burkett was mostly falsehood, malignity and conceit, and furnished the democrats all the ammunition they could find against Senator Burkett, and he is said to their shame many democratic papers stooped to printing the stuff, knowing it was false. In spite of the bitter fight Burkett got about two votes to Wheadon's one.

What brand of whiskey and who sells it—this kind that is responsible for two attempted rapes within the past few weeks in and near Ord? If the public only knew who was furnishing it!

When we get a law for sterilizing undesirable men and in emasculating the worst cases there will be fewer instances of rape and attempts at rape and other vicious crimes?

About Chautauquas

The Quiz disapproves of the practice of guaranteeing the chautauqua folks the sale of $1,500 worth of season tickets in advance of their opening up shop. There are, we think, several very valid reasons for opposing this practice.

First there is no need of it. They will come anyway as long as the field is open.

Then it is not business like. Other enterprises come on their own responsibility and at their own risk.

Then the practice is having the effect of greatly reducing the value of the entertainment dished out by the Redpath system. Like any one these folks reason as long as they are guaranteed success with no promises as to what they have to furnish they will send us as little as they dare for the money.

Then this guarantee has the tendency to prevent this community getting up a chautauqua on its own account.

In the humble opinion of the Quiz these last two reasons are the real purpose of the manager in asking a guarantee—they want to be relieved from putting up a good program and they want to head off local chautauquas.

In the connection we will say that there is talk going around that we ought to have our own chautauqua. We are sure that a much better program could be put on and much of the money spent right here. The plan proposed is to form a stock company, one of the cardinal principles being that no dividend may be declared, but that the whole income must be spent for the chautauqua or other local interests.

It might be well to do so in the name of a commercial club, but if so we think that club should be a stock company so that no one shall have a say so in the management of the thing who does not put up his little $10 or more.

The lecture course was run here for many years and never failed to make good, except at the last the promoters had to pocket a small loss, though this might have been prevented had a little more effort been put forth by those listed for the loss.

We believe that by joining with other local chautauquas dates and talent might be arranged so as to make practically a circuit, which would greatly reduce the cost of the talent.

Aren't you in favor of our putting on our own chautauqua?

Needed Laws

Some laws that the coming legislature ought to pass:

Empowering any trial judge to clear a court room of all curious listeners, or of all men, when a woman is to testify on delicate subjects.

To emasculate certain criminals and to sterilize certain other criminals and undesirable citizens.

To wipe out all unnecessary formality and exactness of procedure in the trial of cases, civil and criminal.

Don't get your wires crossed when defining county option in your own mind or to others. County option is simply allowing the voters who support, and pay the losses caused by, saloons to say whether saloons may exist in their county. Don't you think the residents of a county ought to have a right to say whether saloons may be started in that county? Either these voters ought to have this right or they ought to be exempt from paying for the damage they do and the costs they run up.

Mattley Thanks Voters

Ansel, Nebraska, August 22, 1910.

Mr. W. W. Haskell, Ord, Neb.

My Dear Friend:—Through the Quiz thank the voters of Valley county and especially the voters of Ord for me. I would rather have a good vote from Ord as I did being my home town and where nearly all my education was obtained than any other place. I love Ord and the North Loup valley and the sweetest and most pleasing memories of my life are linked with Ord and the beautiful North Loup valley. Assuring you of my sincere appreciation I am,

Most truly yours,

William S. Mattley.

This is just the right size town to settle down in and enjoy life. Everything for the comfort of life can be bought here and $10 will go as far as $25 will in the large cities. When you want to leave the farm, come to our town and build a nice comfortable home and be among the best people in the world.

Congressman Kinkaid wishes us to express his most hearty and sincere thanks for the excellent vote given him in this county for his renomination. From present appearances it would seem that he will receive about three votes to one for his principal competitor.

Roy Allen has been enjoying a visit from his mother, Mrs. Allen, and his sister, Mrs. Woodlief, both of Kansas. These good ladies went to Grand Island Tuesday to visit for a while and from there will go on home.

WHO ARE THE UNITED DOCTORS

Some Information About the Specialists Who Will be in Ord on Saturday August 27th

Since the announcement has been made in these columns that the Chief Consulting Physician of the United Doctors who have their permanent Nebraska Institute located on the second floor of the Neville Block, corner 18th and Harney Sts., Omaha, Nebraska, would pay a short visit to the Ord Hotel at Ord, the question has been asked many times: Who are the United Doctors and what do they do? The answer is this:

The United Doctors, as the name implies, is an association of expert medical specialists who have united to organize a new school of medicine; a new and more scientific and positive system of curing human ailments. For centuries, the world has been full of different "cutts" and "isms" of medicine. We had the old root and herb doctor with his bitter potions; the Allopath with calomel and quinine in heroic doses; the Eclectic with out his calomel; the Osteopath and the Christian Scientist. We were doctored by heat, by electricity, by baths at the Hot Springs and by a multitude of men and methods. Some of the patients were cured, some died who should have been cured. It was impossible for the ordinary person to say which method of treating diseases was the best, and the physicians of the various schools were so biased that they could see good only in their own methods; all others were, necessarily, bad.

Evidently there is good in all of them, for they all cured some cases. Also there is bad in all, for they all failed at times and allowed misery to remain or death to come where a cure should have been effected.

A tremendous stride forward was made, when the association of the United Doctors was formed. The founders of this association consisted of eminent specialists from the various schools of practice, Eclectic, Homeopaths, Allopaths, Regulars and Irregulars, met and agreed to drop their prejudices and form a new system of treatment, which should embrace all the good points of the old methods and leave out the bad. The result of the efforts of these world famous specialists, of the various schools, was the wonderful treatment now being used by the United Doctors. All of this was not accomplished in a day or two, but has taken years of patient work by these specialists in their great institutions in the east; Homeopaths, Eclectic, Allopaths, all working side by side, each throwing away his old ideas when he was convinced there was something better, until at last out of the old and confusion, came the new and perfect system, as it is now used by the United Doctors.

The cost of these specialists was great not only to the labor of forming the new system of treatment, but also in the effort it cost them to ignore their prejudice in favor of the various schools in which they were originally educated. But their record has been great in health and happiness restored to hundreds and thousands who were going to their graves in misery, pronounced incurable by old methods.

The wonderful new system of medicine has cured thousands of cases of chronic disease of the liver, kidneys, skin, heart, lungs, bowels and stomach; including rheumatism, paralysis, neuralgia, appendicitis, gall stones, piles, gonor, rupture, diseases of women and diseases of men, which have been pronounced incurable by other doctors.

Louis Schultz a prosperous farmer living on R. R. No. 2 Plattsmouth, Nebraska, says that for twelve years he had been treating with his home doctors, those in Council Bluffs, Iowa, and the best ones in St. Paul, Minn., he took the hot baths at Lincoln, Nebraska, and even went clear to Hot Springs, Arkansas, all of which gave him no relief. In speaking of his case he says: "I went to the United Doctors. They told me more about myself and disease in ten minutes, than all the other doctors put together in all the years before. "Now my stomach gives me no trouble. I eat anything and digest it perfectly; my kidneys are better and my rheumatism improving so rapidly in this short time, that I am sure my recovery will be complete."

N. C. Carlson, of Wausa, Nebraska, says: "I am now as well as I ever was in my life. When I commenced treatment with you, I was barely able to walk, such was the pain I had. Now after taking your treatment for five months I enjoy perfect health."

Mrs. Alice Griswold of 1619 Frederick street, Omaha, Nebraska, says she had appendicitis in a very severe form. She did not believe she could be cured without a surgical operation but took the United Doctors treatment with a little hope. After the first two or three doses she began to feel better and in less than a month was entirely cured and has had no return of the trouble since.

These people were cured in their own homes without surgical operations and they are only a few out of the thousands who have been cured by the United Doctors at their various Institutes throughout the United States. These specialists have hundreds and thousands of testimonials from cured patients on file at their offices. Anyone interested in any particular disease can secure the names of patients who were cured of that disease by writing to the United Doctors at their Omaha Institute.

These testimonials are from responsible people of Nebraska and were given voluntarily out of the gratitude of their hearts so you can believe implicitly what they tell you. It is this wonderful all home treatment that the United Doctors are bringing to Ord Saturday, August 27th.

If you are skeptical write to the United Doctors for the names and addresses of patients whom they have cured and you will be furnished with as many as you may desire to investigate.

Remember the United Doctors will be here but one day and while here will receive patients at the Ord Hotel.

If you are sick and suffering and want to be made well and happy, call on the Doctor when he comes to Ord.

Banks may fail and factories close, workmen strike and mines suspend, merchants fail and towns burn, may be short—but the farmer who owns his acres will get along. The Quiz believes that the good women of Ord ought to encourage Mrs. Stevens by calling on her and even in a more substantial way, so that she may know that she is backed up by the Ord ladies in her willingness to testify for the purpose of bringing villains to justice. Last Friday morning at the hour of 8:00 o'clock, Judge Gudmundsen officiating, occurred the marriage of Milford C. Stacy and Miss Bessie Leigh Clephens. It had been planned that the happy ceremony should take place Saturday morning and was so given out. But these good young folks, particularly the groom, had been interested in so many practical jokes on those matrimonially inclined that it was deemed best to outwit their friends and slip out of town a day ahead of time. So this was done. After the wedding, which was a very quiet affair, the couple took a ride in the auto and wound up at the U. P. station just in time to take the early train out of town. The happy pair are spending a few weeks in the mountains. This escapade deprives the Quiz of a very efficient book-keeper, but as she promised to be back very soon we gave our consent. Of course the unsuspecting friends who were deprived of the privilege of throwing rice as Mr. and Mrs. Stacy left town will be ready to make up lost time when they come home. The home coming of the happy pair is looked for not only because of the esteem they are held in but also for the opportunity of sweet revenge.

STEEL TRUST AS CAT BUYER.

A rat got tangled up in one of the dynamos which supply power for the great blast furnace mill of the United States Steel corporation at Gary, Ind., says Louisville Courier-Journal. It required several hours to separate the rat's remains from the dynamo and in the meantime the corporation was losing money at the rate of a thousand dollars a minute. Now the steel trust is advertising for cats. Advertisements have been inserted in the Gary newspapers, offering 50 cents apiece, with no limitations as to age, sex, size, pedigree or character. Fifty cents a head is a good price for cats and the officials of the steel trust are likely to have to contend with an embarrassment of offerings. When the news percolates to all the cities and small towns of Indiana there will be a rush of feline shipments to Gary and the steel trust will find itself with a surplus of cats scarcely less troublesome than the surplus of rats with which it has been contending heretofore. Hundreds of Indiana families will willingly part with all their feline possessions at a compensation of 50 cents per cat. Some thousands of small boys will explore the alleys and woodsheds until the last backyard fence is denuded.

The report from Pisa that royal engineers state that the inclination of the leaning tower at that place has increased eight inches and that the structure is likely to collapse will tend to further increase the number of those who believe that the tower was never intended to be a freak of masonry, but that it became a wonder by the yielding of its foundation on one side. As a "drawing card" for tourists the famous leaning tower has had value in addition to the historic considerations, and if it should fall there would doubtless be a demand for its reconstruction. A modern builder could give Pisa a leaning tower of greater inclination by using an anchored steel skeleton and clothing it with well fastened veneer.

A speaker at a meeting of a medical society in New Jersey declared that some of the greatest surgeons living had left sponges, forceps and other instruments in the abdominal cavities of persons operated upon, and that the practice was "inexcusable." This makes cheerful reading for the lay public, especially that portion of it that has hospital experience in prospect; but the statement of the existence of this practice is also puzzling from the fact that it must be a more or less expensive practice to the surgeons themselves to be so careless about losing good instruments.

the number of votes polled for him in Douglas county, a contest may be filed and the courts asked to throw out the entire vote of Douglas county on the ground that at least 2,000 fraudulent votes were cast for Dahlman in Omaha. The above statement was made by campaign managers of Governor Shallenberger. They say that men casting these fraudulent votes came from Council Bluffs and some of them from even as far away as Sioux City. Dahlman denies that he had knowledge of any fraudulent voting, or that he connived by any person to vote illegally. The same kind of a denial is entered by Tom Flynn, his campaign manager. They both laugh at the charges made and say that they court an investigation.

The friends of both Shallenberger and Dahlman are still claiming victory, though both are beginning to admit the evident closeness of the race. Forty-one counties complete and thirty-nine incomplete give Shallenberger 22,320, Dahlman 24,368, Aldrich 14,870 and Cady 12,485.

Have Quit Making Estimates. With reports at hand from 1,077 precincts out of the approximately 1,700 precincts in the state, and the returns from the remainder of the state, Governor is Populist Nominee.

Governor Shallenberger is not the nominee of the democratic party he will be the nominee of the populist party and many politicians believe in that event he will remain on the populist ticket in the hope of defeating Dahlman in a three-cornered fight. Some contend that if the governor is not the choice of the democratic party he will withdraw from the race and step aside and leave a clear field for a hand to hand conflict between the republican and democratic nominees.

Douglas County Returns. Omaha—Complete returns from Douglas county are as follows: Republican—For United States senator: Burkett, 2,295; Whedon, 723; Adams, 584; Sorenson, 508; Birmingham, 288.

Governor—Cady, 3,506; Aldrich, 863. Democratic—For United States senator: Hitchcock, 6,640; Metcalfe, 1,211; Reed, 534.

Governor—Dahlman, 7,190; Shallenberger, 1,897.

Lieutenant Governor—Clark, 4,088; Green, 3,095.

ported precincts including almost all the heavy vote of the state. Governor Shallenberger is still 2,048 votes behind Mayor Dahlman in the neck-and-neck race being run for the democratic nomination for governor. The reported precincts include complete returns from sixty-one counties, and scattering returns from thirty other counties, leaving but twenty-five unties from which no words have been received. For the governor to nose out ahead of his opponent he would have to have an advantage of four votes to the precinct on the average, in the remaining precincts. Meanwhile up in Omaha the Dahlman leaders have quit making estimates of majorities and are discussing the campaign the mayor will make to land himself in the governor's chair.

While early returns of the primary election indicated that Dahlman had won the nomination by heavy voting in the eastern part of the state, and that he would win by a substantial majority, and while the friends of the Omaha mayor were congratulating each other over a splendid victory of the liberal forces, later returns do not leave the result so much that way as had been anticipated. When Douglas county rolled up a tremendous majority for Dahlman, Plattsburgh coming in strong with almost as much of a lead, Lancaster giving Dahlman 500 over Shallenberger, and other returns equally optimistic for the liberals, the mayor's friends concluded the victory was won, but when the returns from the state at large began to roll in the Shallenberger stock began to look up. In the southwestern part of the state his majorities are tremendous. In the northeast he is more than holding it level, a locality on which Dahlman counted strongly. Otoe county, which was considered as altogether for Dahlman, was about neck and neck between the two.

Aldrich leads Cady for the republican nomination on the face of the "Executive Office, Beverly, Mass. August 18, 1910. William Hayward, Lincoln, Neb. I heartily congratulate you on your triumph. May your hunting trip be as successful. WILLIAM H. TAFT."

returns, outside of Douglas county, where Cady received a majority of about 2,500. Returns from the Fifth and Sixth districts, the "cow country," are coming slowly and are insufficient to give a definite idea of the result in those districts.

A report from Omaha says: "Returns on governor from 745 out of 1,625 precincts in the state, including Douglas and Lancaster counties, give Dahlman (democrat), 18,298; Shallenberger, 14,112; Aldrich (republican), 10,612; Cady, 9,694. These precincts include many of the counties admittedly Shallenberger territory and an extraordinary gain in the remainder of the state will be required to overcome Dahlman's lead."

Congressional Contests.

Returns from the congressional districts are too incomplete to give a definite notion of the successful candidates. Up in the Third district, a few counties have been heard from and show that Boyd has received 570 and Brian 372. Brian was considered a standpatter.

In the Fourth district Bailey of Fairbury and Good of Wahoo are running for the nomination. Buffalo Bill sends congratulations. Among the telegrams of congratulations received by Mayor Dahlman is the following characteristic message from Colonel W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill):

"Hon. James C. Dahlman: You have my hearty congratulations. You will finish in the lead, as a blooded broncho should. Pull the bridle to the limit and you will quit a winner and move camp over to Lincoln. Am with you. W. F. Cody."

Charles Aroot of Schuyler, democratic aspirant for the nomination for state superintendent of public instruction, was the first candidate to file his expense account in the office of Secretary of State Junkin. His affidavit shows that he expended a total of $77.87.

Hastings.—Reports from all but three precincts in Adams county gives pluralities to Aldrich and Shallenberger for governor, Burkett and Hitchcock for senators. Dahlman carried the city by 119.

SEE A BAD SPLIT

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT MAY COME TO PARTING OF WAYS.

WILL LAY LOW FOR PRESENT

Contingency Seen Which May Force Him to Enter Lists as Presidential Candidate Two Years Hence.

Oyster Bay, N. Y.—Theodore Roosevelt has just ended what was probably the most important political conference he has held since he left the White house. He gathered about him a group of his close friends, and talked over with them the situation, which is best expressed in the reports that relations between President Taft and himself are strained to the breaking point.

William Loeb, Jr., Lloyd C. Griscom, Representative William M. Calder of Brooklyn, Frederick J. H. Kracke of Brooklyn and Representative W. W. Cocks of Colonel Roosevelt's home district, took part in the conference. From what was said by some of the visitors it was learned that the colonel and his friends have agreed on a plan of action which will hold until the situation shapes itself more clearly.

Briefly stated, it is this: Colonel Roosevelt is to stand aside in the New York state campaign and let the "old guard" fight its own fight and thus shoulder all the responsibility for the conduct and result of the campaign. He is neither to endorse nor criticize the Taft administration. He is to keep out all around, if he can.

One important provision was emphasized at the conference. Those with whom he talked were made to understand clearly that Colonel Roosevelt reserved to himself the right at any time, if he believes that the policies of which he is exponent are in jeopardy. But he let it be known that he would do so with extreme reluctance, for he feels that in such a contingency he might be led inevitably into a controversy with the Taft administration.

He Won't Be Bounced.

Daqville, Ill.—Despite the declaration of Congressman Longworth that he will not again vote for Joseph G. Cannon for speaker of the house of representatives, Mr. Cannon will continue in the race, according to his own statement. He will go into the caucus as a candidate, no matter how many republican congressmen declare they will oppose his reelection. All he asks is that those who go into the caucus abide by its vote, and he promises to do the same. He does not ask any man to pledge himself to vote for his reelection if he believes his pledge will work against him in the election this fall, nor does he want any candidate for the republican nomination for congress to repudiate his party by failure to enter the caucus.

Yemens of Detroit was elected vice president, and Dr. E. C. Reid of Columbus, O., secretary and treasurer. Roberts of Omaha will be counselor for the prairie division.

ALL OVER NEBRASKA

Fall of Manila Celebrated.

Fillmore County—The fall of Manila was celebrated with an exhibition of fireworks. The firing of the old cannon brought home by the soldiers of the Spanish-American war was a feature. The members of Company G, Nebraska National Guard, were in charge.

Sells Apple Orchard.

Richardson County—O. P. Dovel sold to John W. Furnas the apples on a ten acre orchard in London precinct in Richardson county, receiving therefor a little more than the land would have brought three years ago. For several years Mr. Dovel has realized over fifty dollars per acre from this orchard after deducting all expenses.

Model Road in Buffalo.

Buffalo County—Work on the model road running south of Kearney is rapidly nearing completion and is showing up in fine shape. The strip is about one mile long and 20,000 is being spent on it. This piece of road has been in bad shape for all time and the county commissioners are being assisted by the commercial club of Kearney in placing it in the best possible condition.

Fat School Treasury.

Dodge County—According to the report of County Superintendent Matzen, submitted to the state superintendent, Dodge county schools have a surplus of $84,000 on hand at present. Of this amount $50,000 was on hand a year ago, the remaining $34,000 representing the excess of receipts over expenditures during the past twelve months. In that time the receipts totaled $167,000.

Killed by a Shock.

Washington County—William Mathern, an employe of the electric light plant in Blair, was instantly killed while repairing a line at the top of a pole. He is supposed to have been touching one wire with the fingers of one hand when in some way he threw up his other hand, which came in contact with the main wire from the power house, carrying 1,100 volts. He was 20 years old.

Grain Turns Out Good.

Washington County—Contrary to the prophesies of the pessimistically inclined, as expressed some weeks ago, small grain has turned out unusually well in this section. Thrashing crews report that oats are averaging thirty-five bushels to the acre, and wheat close to twenty bushels. The quality of both is the best in years, the wheat testing from sixty-one to sixty-three pounds to the bushel, and oats also testing high.

Fullerton Postmaster Dead.

Nance County—J. W. McClelland, one of the oldest and best known citizens of Nance county, died suddenly at Fullerton of heart failure. Mr. McClelland, who was 68 years of age, had been honored with nearly every office worth holding in the county. He was postmaster of Fullerton at the time of his death and had served as county attorney, as county judge and had been a member of the school board.

Adopt Initiative and Referendum.

Pawnee County—At a recent special election held in Table Rock the "initiative and referendum" was adopted, which has made it seem necessary to several citizens to have another special election called for Tuesday, September 6, 1910, which has been done by the city council, for the purpose of voting on the proposition to license a pool and billiard hall in Table Rock, the village board having thus far refused to license the same.

Back to First Love.

Polk County—Several of the people who left here in the spring to take up homesteads in Montana have returned and they say it was nearly impossible to get water there even for drinking purposes, and the cattle and horses had to drink from ponds.

Blair Loses Opera House.

Washington County—The Blair opera house was entirely destroyed by fire. The building was built twenty-five years ago by a German stock company at a cost of $5,000 and had been kept in good repair. There is suspicion that the fire was incendiary.

Looking Over the Field.

Cherry County—Chancellor Avery, Regent Coupland, Dean Burnett and Mr. Chase were at Valentine inspecting the state experimental farm and looking over things in general, as they are about ready to build. The employes of the state farm have been making the cement blocks for some time, of which the buildings are to consist.

Austrian Hangs Himself.

Cass County—Mike Slavicek, who was born in Austria sixty-seven years ago, and had resided in Plattsmouth sixteen years, was found dead in a barn, where he committed suicide by hanging himself.

Drowned in the Platte.

Saunders County—Charles T. Thorson of Mead was drowned in the Platte river. He had, with two other men, gone fishing near Yutan, and in the afternoon they went in bathing. Mr. Thorson was unable to swim and got out beyond his depth.

Brakeman Smalley Killed.

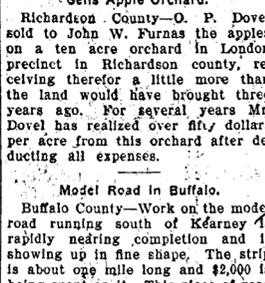

Butler County—J. H. Smalley, a brakeman on the Fremont-Hastings line, was accidentally killed at Lincoln. He leaves a wife and no children.

Probably a Murder Case.

Dodge County—The body of a man believed to be John Hoctor was found with his skull crushed near the Northwestern yards, in the southeast part of Fremont. Near by him was an iron bolt about two feet long and a half filled bottle of whiskey. It is believed to be a case of murder.

TUBERCULOSIS IN THE PRISON

Per Cent of Sufferers is Enormous and There Seems but One Remedy.

From several investigations that have been made by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, it is estimated that on an average about fifteen per cent of the prison population of the country is afflicted with tuberculosis. On this basis, out of the 30,000 prisoners housed in the penal institutions of the United States at any given time, not less than 12,000 are infected with this disease. If the Philippine islands and other insular possessions were taken into consideration the number would be much larger. Some of the prisons of Pennsylvania, Kansas and Ohio show such shocking conditions with reference to tuberculosis that many wardens admit that these places of detention are death traps. Similar conditions could be found in almost every state, and in the majority of cases the only cure remedy is the destruction of the old buildings and the erection of new ones.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the impurities of the blood and bringing the patient back to health by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Burwell Tribune.
A bolt of lightning struck the flag staff at the Burwell school house Tuesday evening, and the flag fell off a few shingles and tearing away a small piece of the staff, no damage resulted.
The Burwell Roller Mills closed down last Saturday for a couple of weeks. Flour making was called off at this time for the purpose of sending their rolls away to be re-corrugated and other repairs to be made about the plant before the season of heavy grinding begins.
Flour making returned to Burwell last Saturday night. The treatment that he has been taking at the Springs did not appear to benefit him any and he of course was anxious to be at home with his family and friends again. He is far from being severely kicked by one of the animals. He was standing pretty close to the horse at the time and as it had never shown any hostile signs he was taken entirely unawares. But before he could get away from the animal it had succeeded in kicking at him three times, and succeeded in landing on some part of his body at each attempt. The most serious bruise was on the back of his head. Friends picked him up and carried him into the barn office and later he was able to walk home alone all right but later it was necessary to call in a physician to examine the wound.

Scottia Register.
During the storm last Wednesday evening, R. F. Moody's barn was struck by lightning and destroyed by fire. He lost his head of horses, a sow and pigs, 500 bushels of corn, a new buggy, harness, etc. He carried insurance on his stock, but the barn, which belonged to Mr. Moran, was not insured. They rescued a small colt and mule, but could not get in after the horses. It is a great loss to Mr. Moody.
Miss Kate Cooper died about one o'clock Sunday morning, of Bright's disease, after a lingering illness of three months. Death occurred at the home of her brother, George M. Cooper, with whom she had lived for many years. She was born in Virginia, and was 62 years, 11 months and 14 days old. She did not suffer a great deal during her illness until the last week and she was tenderly cared for by the family. She leaves three brothers, James and George of Scottia, and Milton, of Wisconsin. The funeral was held at four o'clock Sunday afternoon at the residence of Rev. Charles Ford, and the remains were buried in Mt. Hope cemetery. She will be sadly missed by the relatives, and we extend sympathy to them in their bereavement.

Taylor News.
On Tuesday afternoon lightning struck the house on Wirsig's farm north west of Taylor, occupied by W. E. Thompson. No damage was done except shattering a window casing some wall paper, etc.
Fred Cook's house at Almeria was totally destroyed by fire Monday night, together with all its contents. The family was awakened at midnight to find the house in flames and even the animals alarmingly hot. They escaped in their night clothes, without saving anything. Two or three hundred dollars in currency was consumed along with the rest. There was no insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Comstock News.
During the rainstorm last Tuesday evening lightning struck the sod house on Vescott & Gibson's ranch, about three miles southwest of town, the charge came down the chimney and burned and shocked Mr. and Mrs. Walter Westbrook and their infant child, who were in the room, severely, and it is supposed, passed out at the door. The child was summoned, who dressed the injuries and did all he could to alleviate the suffering of his patients. It was evidently a very narrow escape for Mr. Westbrook, as the case of a watch he was carrying was melted slightly in a place or two and badly blackened and discolored all over.

North Lough Loyalist.
C. B. Looftbourrow left Tuesday morning for his home at Milton, Wisconsin.
A card from Clarence Todd, a former North Lough boy, says: "A girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Todd at 11 a. m., August 13." Clark lives at Brookfield, N. Y.
Mrs. Geo. St. John and daughter, Dora, returned Saturday night from Hot Springs, South Dakota where they had been on account of Dora's health. Her friends will be glad to know she is in much better health.
Mildred Jones returned Thursday from Boulder, Colorado, where she had been the guest of her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Strong. Helen Goodrich came home with her. It is hardly necessary to say the girls had a most delightful time.
F. N. High will sever his connections with the Farmers State Bank the first of the month and return to his old home at Wymore, where he will become cashier of a newly organized bank at that place. While here Mr. High has made good in everything he has undertaken and when he goes will leave a host of friends whose best wishes will ever be with him. His successor in the bank at this place has not yet been chosen.

Ward, of Kearney; Grammar department, Francis Keating of Ord; Intermediate Miss Lulu Alderman of Burwell; second primary, Mrs. Jennie Parker, Ord; primary, Miss Ora McCance of Newport. These teachers are highly recommended and the members of the board are pleased to have been able to secure such an excellent corps of instructors.
Last Thursday evening, A. H. Hastings, accepted by C. C. Hawthorne and A. Strubbe, of this city and Harry Andrews, of St. Paul, started for a pleasure trip to Ord in his automobile. While rounding the curve in the road on the hill just at the entrance to Mira Valley the steering wheel refused to work. Mr. Hawthorne, who was in the front seat with Mr. Hastings, was the only one who was able to get out and the car carrying the passengers plunged over the side of the bank down into the canyon. About three fourths of the way down the right front wheel dropped into a hole about six feet deep breaking the rim and throwing the car over on its side with such force as to carry the three men clear of the wreckage. Messrs. Hastings and Strubbe, each had an ankle severely wrenched, while Mrs. Andrews received a scalp wound caused by his head coming in contact with one of the bows of the top. Mr. Hastings received no injury except a sore nose, with which he struck the top when jumping. Beside the broken wheel, the front axle of the car was sprung and there were minor breaks.
