Season tickets sold, Child—250
Season tickets guaranteed by signers—750

With the two programs given by the band today, and the program with Glenn's Marionettes and Dr. Billis, the most decidedly worthwhile Chautauqua that Ord has ever held will come to a close. It has been, thus far, a well-balanced and powerful program, and has in every respect, equaled and surpassed the programs of Chautauquas of previous years.

A few of the most appreciated programs have been "Six Cylinder Love," Charles Ross Taggart, the Radio Entertainers and Chaucer George H. Bradford. The All-American band today will undoubtedly have taken its place with the above before this article is read by the majority of Quiz subscribers.

The Chautauqua has enjoyed good crowds for the most part during the entire week, and the weather has been auspicious. The time, Rev. Brill, Glen Auble, and many more boosters on the local committee have worked their heads off to make the week a success and we can truthfully say that it has been.

Some hint as to the financial success of the week can be gained by reading the summary published at the head of this article.

Within a few days the committee will meet to decide whether the seven day Chautauqua will again be contracted for next year, or whether the five-day circuit, which is much less expensive and nearly as good, will play in this city. The Quiz will give fuller details next week.

Radio Entertainers Open Week's Program

Beginning with the blare of popular music as dispensed by those versatile young musicians, the Radio Entertainers, last Saturday afternoon, the 1924 Chautauqua got off to a real start, with nearly enough season tickets sold in advance to make up the guarantee. Miss Ritter, the same local manager who accompanied the last year's Chautauqua was introduced by Glen Auble as this year's manager, and made a few short remarks introducing the company that put on the opening program.

Leo Fitzpatrick, the Merry Old Chief of the Kansas City Night Hawks was no disappointment to his many local admirers. He told stories of nationally known personages such as Gloria Swanson and Ruth Bryan Owens, with both of whom he became acquainted through his work as announcer on the Kansas City Star, and entertained the large audience throughout the afternoon with his delightful foolery.

Perhaps the greatest hit made by the orchestra was with the old favorite weather prediction, "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More" which was encored enthusiastically by the audience. The program played by the orchestra, although one or two selections of the more classical nature were played. The band played made a great personal hit with his burlesque upon the Poet and Peasant overture, and demonstrated complete mastery of his instrument.

BOY SCOUTS AT CAMP SAYLING

Thirty-one Ord Scouts in Camp. Let- ters to Parents Indicate Fine Time. Camp Has Over Hundred.

Last Sunday was a busy day for the two Ord Boy Scout troops for they were getting ready to go to Cushing to spend ten days camping at Camp Sailing. Fathers of the boys in most instances took cars and made the trip with them and saw them settled and Leonard Kemp was with them as assistant. Scout Master, Chautauqua and other duties were given Rev. Brill and Rev. Maynard going at the start. Those who went down with the boys are speaking in the highest terms of the beauties and convenience of the camp and we are promised a story by the boys themselves when they get home.

Mrs. Chas. Mayo has been enjoying a visit with a sister, Mrs. Will Vaughan and husband from Omaha. They returned Tuesday. Their daughter and husband Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Harrow and their small son are also up from Omaha. Both families have been at the Mayo and Otis Hughes homes.

Mrs. Paul Perryman was in Grand Island the first of the week to attend a Woman's Federation board meeting.

PAY FINE AND COSTS FOR HAVING LIQUOR

While searching a car owned by Lloyd Timmerman, during last Friday night Nightwatchman Roy Far- due found a bottle of booze wrapped up in an old paper sack and he arrested Timmerman, and his partner Wilbur Nay and Saturday morning the boys pleaded guilty to unlawful possession and were fined $100 each and the costs and were remanded to jail till same were paid.

Later the fine and costs were paid and the boys were released. Another lad was picked up with them but he denied knowing about the booze and his companions insisted he didn't even know they had it, so he was released.

The boys claimed they had been to Burwell to a dance and that they had been given the bottle of booze by a fellow whom they had met. They claimed they didn't know his name. The liquor is vile smelling stuff and was poured into a bottle that had evidently laid on the ground and had accumulated heavy scale of dirt on the inside on one side. This had soaked loose and there appeared to be a teaspoonful of dirt in the half pint of stuff left in the bottle. It looks as though it would require a strong stomach to drink from the bottle even if the contents was good. The boys had evidently not been drinking the stuff for neither were under the influence of liquor when arrested, though Nay admitted having taken a drink with the fellow who gave him the bottle. The bottle was found by accident, the search at the time being made for some automobile tools that had disappeared.

CORRECTED STATEMENT

An article in the Quiz last week stating that the National Fire Insurance Co., of Hartford, Conn., held first place in the United States for amount of business written in 1923 and that the Union Fire Insurance Co., of Lincoln, Nebraska, held second place. This article should have stated that these companies held this position on business transacted in Nebraska and not in the United States.

MANY ATTEND BOOSTER PARADE

Large Interest Taken in Parade Helping in Giving Big Program Final Send-off.

The interest which the children and Chautauqua committee took in preparation for the big event, which started last Saturday afternoon, culminated in the monster street parade which was staged last Friday evening when several hundred children in all kinds of fantastic costumes followed the band and other local entertainment and recreation organizations about the streets. The parade started from the tent and after marching about the streets, dispersed in front of the Community Service Club rooms after more music and a few stunts by the Rainbow Queen Chautauqua under the command of Captain Watson and the boy scouts commanded by Rev. Brill. There were scores of children and it must have been hard for the judges to decide on those entitled to win the prizes, so exceptionally good were many of the rigs worn. The parade was won by the most prettiest girl and costume while Eloise Maynard was awarded 2nd as having the most original costume and Iolamae Williams got 3rd place on her comic costume. Among the boys in the parade order Julius Valla won 1st, Frank Yokome 2nd, and Joe Culp won 3rd. Mentionable mention was also made of Rollin Haught, Elizabeth Janssen, Marcela Wright and Arthur Auble. Miss Peck the lady who has charge of the juvenile part of the Chautauqua says the Ord parade was the best and most enthusiastic she ever saw.

RURAL CLUBS MAKE PLANS FOR THE CO. FAIR

Do you know how to make a dress form, have you ever seen one made? Do you want to know a simple, attractive finish for your every day or social dress? Or how to cut a collar pattern and what style of pattern is most becoming to your type of figure? These and many other things will be demonstrated at the County Fair was decided Thursday, July 31 at Co. Agent Dale's office when Miss Mary Ellen Brown, state extension leader of women's work met with a group of 25 delegates from the clubs taking extension work. Ten of the fourteen Valley county clubs were represented and Ericson also had a delegation. Each club will have 15 or 20 minutes to demonstrate to the public one thing they have learned the past year.

On Friday Miss Brown went to Burwell to plan with the Garfield county clubs for a like demonstration. Both counties will have exhibits at the Fair.

On July 31st a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Claude Neal at their home at Casper, Wyoming. Mrs. Neal was formerly Miss Tina Lane.

Tom Graffius, who has been a guest of Miss Frieda Brown, left Sunday for his home at Columbus.

"A CARLOAD OF GIN!" SAYS COUNTY ATTORNEY HARDENBROOK

ATTENDS LEOPOLD-LOEB TRIAL

Fords Assembled in Thirty-nine Seconds. Babe Ruth Knocks Home Run. An Exclusive Interview by Quiz Reporter.

"I am convinced that there was a carload of gin in bottles stacked up on one side of the room in a big saloon at the Canada end of the bridge. Mrs. Hardenbrook was the first one of our party to enter the saloon," said County Attorney Bert M. Hardenbrook at his office in the Valley county court house when a Quiz reporter interviewed him last Saturday morning.

The Hardenbrook party, composed of himself and wife and her sisters, Misses Nina and Mamie Smith, arrived home last Thursday evening after a three weeks trip to the east with Niagara Falls as the big objective of the trip. They spent four days at the home of a brother, Rev. Charles Smith at Olivet, Michigan.

When they left Ord they drove to Fremont and spent the first night with the parents of Mr. Hardenbrook.

Des Moines was their objective for the second night and they drove into LaSalle, Illinois the evening of the third day. The morning of the fourth day they drove on to Chicago and spent the balance of that day and the next in that great city seeing as many of the sights as possible in the limited time at their disposal and promising themselves a longer visit on the return trip.

On the morning of the sixth day from home they drove out of Chicago and on to Michigan City, Indiana and then on to Buffalo, New York and spent three days at Niagara Falls. It was when they were at the Falls that they walked across the big international bridge and it was while Mr. Hardenbrook was making some inquiries and chatting with a chance acquaintance that Mrs. Hardenbrook said she would go into the store and buy some gum. She did and it was some store but it proved to be a booze store. The balance of the party followed soon and it was therein that Mr. Hardenbrook saw more real booze than he has any hopes of ever taking away from (Continued on Page Two)

ORD LOSES IN 18 INNING BATTLE

Honeycutt and Finch Wage Pitcher's Duel. Ord Out Hits Ashton-Longest Game Ever Played in League.

Although Ord lost in last Sunday's league encounter with Ashton, it was some exhibition of the national pastime, going is frames for a 6 to 5 victory for the Ashton leaguers. Finch and Honeycutt waged a pitcher's duel in which each passed out plenty of hits, but both were able to keep them well scattered. Seventeen safe swats for Ord and fifteen for Ashton was the total given by the score keeper after the combat. Honeycutt whiffed seventeen and Finch made 15 fan the air.

Ord was minus many of the stars of previous battles, Heuck, Johnson, and Burger being absent, but their places were taken by a crop of youngsters who filled them nobly. Ashton opened the scoring with a run in the first inning, and Ord tied it in the second when Shirley hit the sphere for two bases, and then continued home when the Ashton players threw it away in two vain attempts to catch him.

Ord erred frequently seven bobbles being chalked up to their discredit, but seemed to possess the ability to pull out of bad holes. The score was tied at five to five by Ashton in the ninth inning, and neither team got a glimpse of the home platter until Ashton pushed the deciding marker up in the 18th inning, cutting short what was the longest game ever played in the Central Nebraska league.

POSTMASTER TELLS OF AIR MAIL SERVICE

The public does not seem to realize that mail matter can be sent via air mail from any office not on the direct air route. Mail matter regardless of its classification can be sent via air mail upon the payment of the proper rate of postage.

The United States is divided into three air zones by imaginary lines running north and south through Chicago, Illinois and Cheyenne, Wyo. The postage rate is 8 cents an ounce per air zone. This rate applies to all classes of mail. Ord, being in the center zone, has a rate of 16 cents an ounce to Chicago or Cheyenne. Letters mailed in Ord before noon of one day will reach Chicago at 7:20 a. m., and New York City at 5:05 p. m. of the next day. West bound mail dispatched at noon one day will reach San Francisco at 5:45 p. m. of the next day. This means saving about one to one and a half days each way.

Mail addressed to points not on the direct air route are dispatched by air to the nearest landing field then by rail to destination. Mail for Florida or lower California will save from one and a half to two days depending on the location of the office of address.

All non negotiable securities may be sent via registered air mail. Second, third or fourth class mail may be sent insured. C. O. D. upon the payment of the regular 8 cents per ounce rate in addition to the insurance or C. O. D. fees.

Air mail regardless of its destination is sent from Ord via rail to Omaha, where it connects with the air route. As the planes leave Omaha for the West at 12:20 a. m. and for the East at 2:05 a. m. you should mail your letter for dispatch on the motor at noon.

Be sure that all mail matter is marked AIR MAIL just above the address and that it has sufficient postage affixed.

RURAL CARRIER EXAMINATION

There is to be an examination for rural mail carrier held at Ord on Sept. 13 to fill a vacancy on route 2 caused by the resignation of Mr. Luce.

OLD TIMER SELLS BUSINESS

A. M. Daniels Sells Business After Nearly Forty Years. Only One Older Business Man Left.

A deal has just been closed by which T. H. Cooney of Sargent became the owner of the Daniels undertaking and furniture business, including the building. Mr. Daniels came to Ord in February 1886 ahead of the railroad. J. C. Work, who is still in business, beat him here two or three months. Mr. Daniels says he is retiring and plans to take it easy. The new owner is a licensed embalmer and has a family consisting of a wife and three children two of them twins. He will be in Ord with his family within a few days.

HAGER-PETTY

Ord friends have been advised of the recent marriage of Lucille Hager to Gene Petty, a Kansas City commission man and we understand they will make their home at Liberty, Kansas, where they have a branch office.

A WONDERFUL WHEAT YIELD

Oscar Collins dropped in yesterday and as he looked pretty much peeved we asked him what was the matter and what he was mad about and he admitted that he was mad, but it was not at the Quiz. It was because he didn't put in more wheat last fall. He had just finished threshing 19 acres of wheat raised on the Adolph Fuss land which is adjoining the Collins farm and which he has rented for several years. It was the second crop on alfalfa seed and he threshed 1010 bushels of fine wheat, machine measure, which was 53 1-6 bushels per acre. One load weighed over run 6 bushels, which would make the yield for the field 56 bushels per acre. Don't wonder he wished he had more such wheat. Now who has a better yield of wheat than Mr. Collins had.

BEES BEGIN HOUSEKEEPING IN CREAM STATION

Frank Piskorski and Frank Tedro, cream buyer and cobbler on the north west corner of the square, are going to have to choose between their human friends and their honey bee friends, says Will Ramsey, who came along there Tuesday and while he was instructing some little girls not to strike at the bees, one sat down on the back of his neck so hard that he yelled with pain. The cream station building and the shoemaker building are close together and a warm of bees came along and entered a small hole in the wall between the buildings and began getting acquainted with many of the customers of the two places and the passers by. There was little trouble until one day this week another swarm of bees entered another hole near the first one and then the whole bunch seemed to get peeved. The boys thought of burning the building down and while that would get rid of the bees, they thought they might get in bad with the authorities so they gave up that idea and sent for Joe Knezacek to come and smoke them out but Joe was out of Tennessee Blossom and was unable to make any impression and Ole Buck has gone to Utah so the bees were not available and the smoke idea fell through. Frank Ramsey is a bee expert and he went over to talk it over with the bees but they soon got the best of the argument. Frank Tedro is going to bore a hole through the wall to where the bees are and hang up some honey boxes there and he thinks the bees will go to work in his boxes and all he will have to do will be to take the honey out and sell it when it is made. Will Ramsey had a stiff neck as a result of the bee that sat on his neck for only an instant and says he won't have a thing to do with the business.

The Chris Peterson family of Grand Island have a new baby. Mrs. Peterson was formerly Zelma Nelson of Ord.

HAIL STORM STRIKES ORD

During last night a hail storm struck Ord doing considerable damage to gardens and fruit trees. The light globes in the clusters on the court house steps were broken and some other damage done. The hail played havoc with the sparrows, as 37 dead ones were found under one tree in the court yard. There was 84 of an inch of rain in Ord. The rain extended eight or nine miles south and petered out there and there was no hail north of town to do any damage, so it is not believed there was enough hail damage to amount to anything.

VALLEY COUNTY FAIR DATES

They are Tuesday to Friday, Aug. 26 to 29. Tuesday is opening day when all exhibits must be in place. The program will be on each of the three following days. ## HARDENBROOK TELLS OF EASTERN TRIP

Valley county bootleggers. He says he really believes there was a carload of gin alone, in bottles on one side of the big room while the other side was literally filled with all kinds of whiskeys in thunder. This was not a retail store but a sort of store house, or wholesale warehouse in charge of government men and liquor was not sold there. Mr. Hardenbrook says it was impossible to bring any liquor across the line, except in one way and he denied doing that, probably because the fad was along. He says a permit to buy liquor in Canada costs $2 and the purchaser must be identified and vouched for by a friend, who must swear that he is not addicted to liquor using and never gets drunk, though what in thunder that kind of a man would want to buy liquor for is more than the writer can understand. It is probably in the same way that in the old days of saloon licenses no one was ever granted a license to sell liquor except a man who bore a good moral character and was in every way above reproach as a citizen. Mr. Hardenbrook says he is convinced that liquor could not be bought at the hotels on the American side and he says that officers told him that most of the liquor that got across the line was there was brought over in flying machines. After three days at the Falls the party returned to Detroit and while they had a wonderful time there, the big thing was the trip through the Ford factory where they actually saw a Ford car assembled in just 39 seconds. It takes "Pike" Hill longer than that to make change for me when I buy a few gallons of gasoline. Mr. Hardenbrook says that there is a string of workmen along a traveling endless belt. The first man hurriedly clamps the frame work of the car to the belt and the next man jams a wheel on and so on down the line, each man doing just one thing. Electrically driven screw drivers and tools of all kinds are used and every move counts and it was just 39 seconds from the time the car started till a man jumped in at the other end of the line and giving the horn a toot, drove off.

From Detroit the party went to Olivet where Rev. Smith is pastor of the Congregational church. Olivet, Mr. Hardenbrook says, is a delightful small city. It is the location of the Congregational college and the children of Rev. Smith are getting their education there. While Hardenbrooks were in the east Rev. Smith was called to Crete, Nebraska and an Iowa point where he had been offered much more money than he is getting where he is, but it is understood that he will remain in Michigan. He is employed part time as instructor in the college and is so attached to the beauties of the place that he dislikes to leave there. Though a good sized town, there is no picture show there except the one run by the church and college and it so nearly fills the demand for that kind of amusement that, despite numerous efforts, it has been impossible to make another show pay. Pine Lake is near Olivet and there is good fishing, boating and bathing. After the visit at Olivet was completed the party started homeward with Chicago as the first objective. Probably the biggest thing they saw there was the Fields Museum where every animal and bird known to captivity is on exhibit. The collection is valued at over a million dollars and many things date back to pre-Bible times and down through all the years since. A side trip was made to Milwaukee from Chicago and there rare good fortune. Mr. Hardenbrook was able to get to hear a day of the famous murder trial now under way. A lawyer friend got him admitted at first and he soon got acquainted with State Attorney Crowe who showed the Valley county attorney went courtesies. Mr. Crowe happened to remember that Mr. Hardenbrook was president of the state association of Nebraska county attorneys and that doubtless had some thing to do with the favors he was shown. Mr. Hardenbrook says that when he first went in he was taken in hand by two policemen and his shoes removed and he was thoroughly searched for any possible weapons. This treatment was administered to all visitors. There were a total of 25 police officers who had to be passed from the street entrance to the court room on the sixth floor and when he got to the court room he was seated within ten feet of where the two murderers were seated when they were brought in and where he had a splendid view of all the proceedings. He says the court room was about the size of the district court room in the Valley county court house but not as handily arranged or as nice. When the prisoners were brought in they were handcuffed with a big policeman between

Mr. Hardenbrook says Mr. Darrow, head attorney for the defense, is not much for style and dressed very plainly but he was impressed with him as a powerful attorney. He also believed that Mr. Crowe was a very talented lawyer but he was very stylishly dressed and made a striking appearance. The judge wore a long black cloak while he presided. The jury box was reserved for the newspaper men and their desks were numbered and named and papers from one end of the country to the other represented, including the London Times.

The Hardenbrook party attended one of the big ball games and saw Babe Ruth make one of his sensational home runs hits in the 14th inning and he won the game. The trip was 2,400 miles long and one puncture was the total of the car trouble and for the most part they had good roads. The crops are generally good but Mr. Hardenbrook says he saw better corn between Fullerton and Ord than anywhere else further east.

MIRA VALLEY NEWS NOTES

(By Cora L. Lange)
Louis Fuss has purchased a new Buick car.

ECHOES FROM WOODMAN HALL

(By Mrs. Waldmann)
This is some hot weather. We believe last Tuesday was the hottest day this summer anyway we do not wish for a hotter one. But heat is what we need for our late corn, so there's never a lass without some gain, although it has cost us a 400 pound hog.

The Catholic Sunday school classes of Sargent and Germanium held a joint picnic at the river last Sunday and all enjoyed themselves visiting and swimming. Father Heinzman treated the crowd to candy.

Several from here attended the Robbins Bros. Circus in Burwell last Friday night. They report the show quite good what there was of it, but the charge appeared a graft as the admission was 75c and 75c more inside the tent.

Mrs. Jim Hokek was taken seriously ill the latter part of last week, one side of her body being partially paralyzed. We hope for her speedy recovery.

Father Heinzman and the Frank Penas family took Sunday dinner at the F. Krikac home.

The Frank Bruhs, Jim Klanecky and Jim Skoll families spent Sunday at Frank Smolik's.

Jim Skoll threshed wheat for John Mottl and reports the field as 43 bushel per acre, wagon box measure. The wheat this year is of good quality and ripened in the natural way as no rust was in evidence. The oats yield will not be so good as it had a late start in the spring and made cutting a disagreeable job on account of rust. The corn looks beautiful, although quite late but the hot weather of the last couple weeks is bringing it right along and if frost holds off we may get a fair yield yet. Potatoes were never better and we will be as happy as the Irish when we dig them in the fall.

A dance was held at the Jungman hall Saturday night and only a small crowd was present. It appears to us the dancing business is overdone in this section, more of us should take a vacation for a change in recreation.

HAPPY CIRCLE CLUB

The meeting held at Mrs. Chris.

Nielsen's on August 1st was well attended and a good time was reported by all.

Mrs. M. W. Brown and little daughter, from Arizona, were visitors. The club decided to buy one dozen folding chairs, for use among the members and the community.

The club colors were officially changed from "Old Rose and White" to "Gold and Black".

Mrs. Henry Jorgensen's suggestion for a motto was chosen. It is "Be a lifter, not a leaner."

The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Carl Holm's on August 22nd.

NOTICE

I am leaving for Vienna Austria and have secured the services of Dr.

T. Read who has recently completed a post graduate course in medicine at Philadelphia, Penn., and who will take over my practice after Sunday, July 20th, until I return about January 1925. F. A. BARTA, 16-37

Duroc Bred Sows For Sale

I have a few choice recorded Duroc Jersey sows bred to the grand champion "Trail Blazer" for first of September farrow. Priced so they will move at once.

Cleaning-Up Public Sale

Pure Bred Dual Purpose Shorthorns

This advertising is for the purpose of announcing the absolute clean-up sale of all the pure bred Shorthorn cattle on the place. If interested, write or phone at once for a catalogue, as they are ready. The sale will take place at the farm 3 miles northeast of Ord on

MONDAY, AUGUST 18

BRITISH COUNT 2ND, the herd sire, is a son of the International Grand Champion Count Avon, and out of a Marr Missie dam. He is a heavy boned bull, weighs well over a ton in ordinary breeding condition, and is a remarkably sure breeder.

FOREST GLOSTER 2ND is a red two year old out of British Count 2nd and a Duchess of Gloster dam. He is out of the same dam as the cow that topped our sale last year. This bull is a good enough individual and is well enough bred to head any herd.

FOREST GLOSTER 3RD is a full brother of Forest Gloster 2nd and will make as good a bull.

FOREST AUGUSTUS and FOREST AUGUSTUS 2ND, are two wonderful yearling bulls. They are both out of British Count 2nd and out of Bruce Augusta dams. Their pedigrees are the best in Shorthorn breeding and with the proper fitting either of them would make a good showing in the ring.

WHITE ROCK is a Bates bred bull with two scotch tops. For the man who wants a young bull to produce both milk and beef, he is probably the best bull in the sale. He is out of British Count 2nd, and out of a 1,700 pound dam. His dam is one of the heaviest milkers we ever had.

FOREST PRINCESS is probably everything considered the best cow we have ever owned. She is a full sister of the cow that topped the Indiana Shorthorn Breeders' sale two years ago at $2,500. She sells with a heifer calf at foot and is re-bred to British Count 2nd. She is the kind of cow that will be cheap no matter what is paid for her.

ROCKWOOD AUGUSTA 4TH is a three old heifer heavy with calf to Gloster Goods Jr. She has a Bruce Augusta pedigree that will appeal to the man who is after the best in Shorthorns. Her last years calf sells in this sale and is ample proof of the kind of calves that you can expect to get from her.

For a show type, DALE'S CROWN ROSE 2ND is the best thing in the sale. If fitted she would not look out of place at any state fair, and not only that but she raises show calves. She is a sure breeder, and sells with a bull calf at foot and is rebred.

RED ROSE is one of the best dual purpose Shorthorns we believe in the Loup Valley. She is an especially heavy milker, and her milk tests high. She raises good calves, not only for milk but also for beef.

DAISY is another especially good dual purpose cow. She is the dam of Red Rose, and you can see from her, the kind of calves that she will raise. For that matter this is a sale of dual purpose cattle. Every cow selling is broke to milk and every one will give enough milk to raise two calves. They are the kind of cattle that everyone can buy and make money on.

We are also selling eight head of two year old Shorthorn steers. These steers will weigh between 1,100 and 1,200 pounds and just in the right condition to go into the feed lot and make money.

Other Personal Property

In addition to the pure bred stock we will sell one good Holstein milk cow to freshen in September, 10 head of good young work horses, 28 head of extra good Poland China brood sows and 100 head of May pigs.

FREE LUNCH AT NOON, Sale to follow

LOCAL NEWS

(Crowded out last week)
Bill Heuck was attending to business at Arcadia Tuesday afternoon.

James Urban who is in Valley county visiting relatives, is spending several days this week with his uncle, Will Zablouit. His home is at Prague, Oklahoma.

Last evening Mrs. W. Misko and daughter Miss Mabel Misko came home after a visit with Dr. George Misko and wife at Arlington. Miss Mabel also went to Omaha and Lincoln.

Lew Shelley is a sarcastic cuss. He says: A few years ago the democratic ticket was Bryan and Gassoway Davis. This year it is Davis and Gassoway Bryan.—Ole Buck in Harvard Courrier.

A Mr. Ray, typewriter salesman, was arrested near Elyria last Friday and later pleaded guilty to being intoxicated, in Judge Gudmundsen's court and paid a fine of $25 and the costs.

George Johnson and Ches. Chinn of North Loup, were in Ord Tuesday morning attending to some court matters before Judge Gudmundsen.

Editor Tolson returned home Friday from Lincoln where he helped nominate a candidate for governor on the democrat ticket. Iri is the male committeeman from this senatorial district. He made the trip by auto.

Iri Tolson has purchased the Ord Journal from H. M. Davis and is now in full charge. I've often wanted to get Iri into a corner where I could roast him as he deserves. Now I can do it. He isn't as fat as Hank Leggett but I believe he is fully as ornery.—Ole Buck in Harvard Courrier.

The Klan held an open air meeting in the city park at Sargent last evening and the public was invited. There was a national lecturer present to explain the mission of the order and the meeting is said to have been very largely attended.

Arthur Woods returned to the hospital at Hastings Sunday, after spending five weeks visiting his family who live out on the Frank Kull place. They drove down with him. Mr. Woods is much improved in health since he began his treatment at the hospital and his people hope for his ultimate recovery.

The Umsteads, who came to Ord from Ohio a few months ago and who later bought the Ord Cafe on the east side of the Square just south of the Anderson grocery, are much pleased with the splendid business they are doing. They say the business is growing steadily, especially among their farmer trade.

Hank Leggett deduces that we would have plenty of money if we didn't spend so much. All of which is true but we simply must have automobiles, radio, and all the other fixin's. If we didn't folks would think us back numbers. That would never do. We must all keep up with the times and with the neighbors. Otherwise we pay our debt of not.—Ole Buck in Harvard Courrier.

The Claude Davis family drove over to Genoa Sunday and took her mother, Mrs. A. J. Smith, who will spend a few weeks visiting her son Charley Smith. The family, who the Davis family are on their western trip. They plan on leaving this week for Colorado points and after visiting several places of interest, including Boulder and Estes Park they will go up to Rifle where Charley Coffin lives and camp near a beautiful lake. They are all looking forward to a delightful vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Bannister returned this week from Independence, Mo., where they spent three weeks at the home of their daughter, Mrs. May. Mr. Bannister says they found the roads good except for part of one day on the down trip when they had some mud. The roads were dry and good all the way home. Mr. Mayer is a Scout Executive at Kansas City and the surrounding smaller towns and Mr. Bannister says he is out now on a camping trip with 400 boy scouts.

The John Perlinski family returned Tuesday evening from a few weeks spent in Minnesota. John broke the record so far as we have heard, by driving the 600 miles to St. Paul when he left Ord, in one day, that is, he drove it before turning in but the day was 18 hours long and he admits that he was pretty tired when he got there. They drove to Cullen and spent a day with the Judge Clements family and tried the Cullen fishing.

Pat Hanley and wife of Burwell were in Ord for a couple of days, leaving Tuesday for Greeley. The latter has but lately left a hospital in Grand Island, where she had been for three months recovering from a fall. The accident happened at Cotesfield, where she was doing nursing. She fell and broke her collar bone and six ribs and received other injuries from which she will never recover. Mr. Hanley is quite well acquainted in Ord.

The latter part of last week Mrs. A. Mutter returned from Hastings where she had attended an encampment of the Rebekah lodge. While there Mrs. Mutter was honored with the degree of Chivalry. Not every member of the lodge is entitled to this order, one must have been a member for a certain time, must have done good work for her lodge and must receive the vote of her lodge members. As there has to be a large membership before a lodge is entitled to this degree it is considered quite an honor.

CHAPTER OF EARLY HISTORY

First Settlement of Valley County Graphically Portrayed by the Pen of an Old Settler

By Peter Mortensen.

The narrative of M. B. Goodenow's hardships in the early times of Valley county's history in last week's Democrat recalls to my memory the time when he first made his appearance in the Loup valley. Mr. Goodenow left his family and most of his worldly goods near Sioux City, Iowa, and in his covered wagon, with an extra saddle horse "Billy" tied behind, he started to find a home and make a fortune on the rich Nebraska prairie. Failing to find what he was searching for in the Elkhorn valley, he left his heavily-loaded wagon there, saddled his true horse "Billy" and with a lariet rope, a blanket and a few hard tack started westward. A few days later he for the first time from the top of the hills on the north side of the river near Haskell creek, beheld the beauties and riches of the North Loup valley.

Some weeks previous to Mr. Goodenow's arrival, a small Danish colony consisting of Chris. Frev, John Smith, Nels Anderson, Geo. Miller and the writer had located between Dane and Dowhower creeks. Jointly we owned two ox teams for which we paid nearly $400, one wagon on which cost us an even hundred dollars, two breaking plows and a few other farm and household utensils, for which we paid equally high prices. A joint habitation in the shape of a part dug-out and part log house, located just north of Mr. Miller's grove, had been erected. The members of the colony were all busy with the assistance and advice of Mr. Goodenow, to build up a fortune. Having no pen, I lariatied the animal close to my dugout, but fate was against me. Either the grass was too rich a diet for the animal or the sun too hot on the open prairie. In a few weeks the pig died and it took years before I was able to get another start in an industry which has done so much to develop our county and state. Mr. Goodenow has always taken a prominent interest in the welfare of the community. He was elected Lieutenant of the Valley County Home Guards, organized for the protection of the community against the hostile Indians, and as such participated in a battle with the Sioux during the war of 74 on Pebble Creek, near the town of Burwell, at which time Mr. Littlefield was killed. He served one term as sheriff to the satisfaction of his party and to the people in general. His clear counsel and good judgment has often been sought and profitably followed by his many friends. His extreme poverty as depicted in the Democrat could not, I am sure, have been of long duration, as I have never known of the time when he did not have an abundance of horses and cattle around him. But it was in those days too much of a luxury to kill or use the meat of a domestic animal, and it was not, as a rule necessary, as there was plenty of game—elk and deer—in the valleys and hills in those days. Mr. Goodenow from the start had unbounded faith in the Loup valley, which neither Indians, grasshoppers or drought has been able to shake, and he has proved his faith by his works, and is now reaping the reward of his labors and privations of himself and his interesting family.

Previous to the building of Fort Hartsuff in 1874, two military companies had been in camp during the summer months at Cotesfield, in Howard county, near the present town of Elba, under the command of Captain Munson, well and favorably known to many of our old settlers. T. H. Capron, a son of our own E. S. Capron, was first lieutenant and quartermaster. They would arrive in May and return to their quarters in Omaha in the fall before cold weather. From this camp the officers would occasionally send a squad of soldiers up the valley, ostensibly for scout purposes, but really to take back to camp, for use and sell their fat bacon to the settlers. In addition many of the soldiers had located claims on some of the best land around Cotesfield, which usually, after final proof had been made, would work into the hands of some of the officers, who became the owners of large tracts of fine land in that locality, and was of but little benefit to the settlers, who had located forty to fifty miles above their camp.

Shortly after the arrival of the Danish colony, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dowhower and a brother, John Dowhower, arrived and filed on the west half of section 6 in Ord township. Like Mr. Goodenow, was then, like in later years, quite eccentric and of an excitable nature, but withal a good neighbor and honest and upright in all his dealings. His sad death in the insane asylum is familiar to those now living here. His widow with a large family of children are still residing on their old homestead in easy circumstances, and are now reaping the benefit of their early privations. John Dowhower soon left the country and his claim was entered by Chas. H. Potter, who still resides there. About the same time in July or August Mr. Fall Moeller arrived direct from his native Denmark with his wife and four children, three girls and one boy, Jorgen, who is the present chairman of our board of supervisors and the prospective independent candidate for county treasurer next year. He entered the northeast quarter of section 6 in Ord township, which is now owned by his son, and later purchased section 1, Michigan township, which he has put into a high state of cultivation, erected commodious buildings and crowded the farm with valuable horses, cattle and hogs, which makes his work very profitable, and is a living proof that farming can be made profitable in Nebraska.

P. Mortensen.

with his hooks and lines, and often surprised his boarders with a fine mess of well-baked catfish—a rare change from the usual meal of fat bacon.

Mr. Goodenow from the hillside across the river was happily surprised in finding evidence of civilization, and was not slow in warning the river. In a week and nearly started condition he arrived at our dug-out. Mr. Miller received him in true Danish hospitality and while he was slipping a cup of George's extra strong coffee, he soon had a catfish and a lot of warm biscuits ready and our friend sat down to his first and probably best-relished meal eaten in the Loup valley.

Mr. Goodenow soon located his claim and on his way back to the Elkhorn went by way of Grand Island and filed on his claim at the time he was in the Loup valley. Mr. Goodenow had been sought and profitably followed by his many friends. His extreme poverty as depicted in the Democrat could not, I am sure, have been of long duration, as I have never known of the time when he did not have an abundance of horses and cattle around him. develop our county and state. Mr. Goodenow has always taken a prominent interest in the welfare of the community. He was elected Lieutenant of the Valley County Home Guards, organized for the protection of the community against the hostile Indians, and as such participated in a battle with the Sioux during the war of 74 on Pebble Creek, near the town of Burwell, at which time Mr. Littlefield was killed. He served one term as sheriff to the satisfaction of his party and to the people in general. His clear counsel and good judgment has often been sought and profitably followed by his many friends. His extreme poverty as depicted in the Democrat could not, I am sure, have been of long duration, as I have never known of the time when he did not have an abundance of horses and cattle around him. But it was in those days too much of a luxury to kill or use the meat of a domestic animal, and it was not, as a rule necessary, as there was plenty of game—elk and deer—in the valleys and hills in those days. Mr. Goodenow from the

A CRITICAL SITUATION

A meeting of the stock holders in good standing, of the Ord Community Service club, is being called and before this paper is published next week it will have been held. The purpose of the meeting is to appraise the stockholders of the club of the critical condition in which the club finds itself at this time and to listen to any suggestions that the stockholders may have to offer for the guidance of the directors, who at this time feel that there is little to do but to discontinue the club and turn the lease over to some other organization or organizations. This course is very distressing to the directors and will be the same to some of the stockholders. There is a lack of interest in the work however, that seems to make the move necessary, in fact, imperative, unless something can be done speedily. There were 150 members of the club a few months ago but the charms of outdoor amusements have caused the list of paying members to be cut just about in half. Numerous business men have declined to keep up their dues, some of them probably partly from necessity as well as from lack of interest though a business must be indeed tottering that cannot stand $2 per month, if the club is of enough benefit to the town to warrant keeping it going. If it is not that fact should be determined at the coming meeting. Personally, the Quiz feels that it is going to be a serious mistake to quit, but the majority must rule, and if the majority says quit we can use the $4 per month that we are constantly paying into the club treasury for something else. We have seen a number of similar organizations started and they have all died because of the interest which was at fever heat to start with cooling, and only a few were left to do the work. In the present instance men who have received the benefits of the club have declined to pay, until their just dues have had to be placed with an attorney for collection. Most towns the size of Ord have an organization similar to ours. Few in the state have the reputation that we have for keeping an up-to-date organization going. We have put over some big things and have many more in prospect but the time is about here when a half dozen men feel that they are through carrying most of the burden and being almost abused when they seek to collect dues that are owing and needed to pay running expenses. It is a shame, in our judgment, to let the club die in this way, and it may be possible to save it when the club members know the real facts.

FAKE MEDICAL ADVERTISING

I call it fake medical advertising for several reasons. But first I had as well tell the reason for this squib. I received an advertisement last week from a Mr. Seeley, purporting to be a rupture expert. It was ordered run in both the Ord and Arcadia sections and drafts were sent in both instances in payment. Both were returned and I explained that it was not in accordance with my policy to run that class of advertising. Now for the reasons. These traveling so-called, or rather, self styled, "experts" are usually in town for a single day or two or three days at the most. In this instance it was for one day only. Now it is the people who have doctored with the home doctors, who patronize the transient's and they do so in the hope that they may be benefited. The home doctors have most necessary appliances to make careful examinations and they are all anxious to effect a cure. It goes without saying that they have used their best efforts to help the patients. A careful examination cannot be made in one day where the case is chronic and surely not in a few moments, as would be necessary where a good many patients called on a doctor who was in town for a few hours only. It takes X-Ray work and chemical analysis to all chronic cases and this cannot be determined the seat of the trouble in done short of several days and any "doctor" who says otherwise is surely a fake. That is why this paper will not print advertisements for that class of doctors. Ord and North Loup and Arcadia enjoy the reputations of having some of the best doctors and surgeons in the state or in the west. Several of them specialize in various ailments of the human body and they know their business. At least two of them have spent small fortunes in equipment necessary to determine the cause of human illness and this equipment is here for the assistance of all the other doctors of the county and surrounding counties and any time these local doctors are unable with the facilities at their command, to determine the cause of your illness, you had better take their advice as to the outside specialist to consult or else go to some outside specialist who has had years of experience and who is in an established office where you can readily reach him at any time. It is my judgment that the doctors themselves are largely to blame for the flood of quack specialists who make one day stops over the country "entertaining" which your home doctor has given up. If the home doctors would go to the people with safe statements of the equipment they have in their work and fairly and honestly explain their experience and ability to do the things they specialize in and forget the bugbear of "ethics" it would be far better for the people at large. I believe the doctors are neglecting a duty when they fail to do so.

THE DEFENSE TEST

During all the years that Germany was building up its wonderful fighting machine, prior to the world war, the claim was made that they were doing it simply for protection in case of invasion, but we all know that they were doing it with the one and sole purpose of conquering the world; that the German rulers had a dream of world empire which they did their best to make come true and which might have succeeded had this country not gotten into the game.

On another page will be found a communication under the same heading as this editorial bears. It was sent to me by the war department with the request that it be published. We continually receive such matter from the various government departments but seldom publish them but an exception is being made in this instance because we believe the people are vitally interested in the proposed defense test scheduled for September 12. There has been a lot of misunderstanding about the purpose of the defense test day and this article which we are publishing seems to us to greatly modify the impression which the people had received from earlier statements emanating from government sources. All have read in the daily press the picture taken by Governor Bryan and by the governor of Colorado. They seemed to believe that an effort was being made to create a spirit of militarism in this country and we are of the opinion that was the intent of the military men back of the scheme. President Coolidge seemed to be fooled by them also, judging from his various statements on the matter.

Many people get a certain thrill when the band plays martial music and the flags wave and the soldiers march down the street and there is no question but a continuance of such a policy throughout the country would create a spirit of militarism. When people get this thrill they see only the pomp and glory and excitement; they don't, at that time, stop to look ahead and see the cost in both money and lives; they don't see the sorrow and suffering that always follows war. We will be another hundred years getting over the world war and the people of this country don't want war. That is the one thing which will do the fighting don't. The soldier, the higher ups, the munition makers, the great manufacturing organizations who can make millions out of war and who can, with their influence, escape most of the danger of war, want it. If there is a real sincere desire on the part of the politicians who run the country, to keep away from war, let them pass some binding legislation making it imperative that every resource of the country be drafted when war comes. Let factory workers and munition plant workers and everyone else work on the same stipend that the soldier gets and let the blood of commerce, which is money, as well as the blood that runs in human veins, be conscripted. Take away the possibility of the captains of industry making millions and there will be no war. Why should one man be forced against his will, as so many times happened in the late war, to go into the battle line and be shot to pieces while another man sits at home and allows to enlist as a railroad worker at $10 a day, simply to escape wars horrors? Treat them all alike, let them all be drafted and all be sent where they can best serve but let all share alike as to pay. Even then those who are sent to the machine shops and railroad yards will far prefer to the battle line.

We sometimes wonder whether the proposed movement is not a cure for the old scheme to train the men of a few years hence to have a military spirit. The way it is growing lends color to the suspicion.

MY OWN COLUMN

(By H. D. Leggett)

Platforms don't mean very much but just the same I would have had LaFollette put an enforcement plank in his platform. He has been credited with being in sympathy with the wet element. He may be but I presume he would do as much as either of the other candidate toward enforcement of the liquor laws, still, the matter is not mentioned in his platform.

I am sure getting rimmed out and roasted and joshed and made fun of for saying last week that the highway was being put in good shape now and that there would probably be no further cause for complaining. Several have called me on the phone and a number have been in, to invite me to take a drive to North Loup over the highway. They insist that it is a slow trail indeed and that one has to continually cross back and forth to get along at all. I remember that the same thing happened last year between Ord and Burwell. It is fresh in my mind because it happened just before our fair and two men up in that country who had reserved hog pens, called me and cancelled the order and didn't come to the fair because the road was so bad. I can't help but believe it is a mistake to allow the sides of the road to grow up with big sunflowers until August and then roll them into the road. Of course if they are allowed to grow there, something must be done with them sometime but the mistake is in allowing them to grow there at all. I am sure it is not usually done. I know in Howard county the sides of the grades are kept clean so that there is no chance to get the road in the shape of a highway is now in and the shape it was a year ago. This month we have made inquiry of tourists who have been over the state highways in the eastern part of the state and they insist that the sides of the grades there are kept clean. As this is written the highway west toward Burwell is in the worst shape I have ever seen. It is to go over it and to the same as has been done down below Ord and if that is done (and there seems nothing else to do) it is easy to see what will happen.

Enough harrowing will smooth the roadbed, but the weeds that grow in the weeds must not be literally smashed to dust before the road can be as smooth, even as it is now. Now it seems to me it would be so much easier and so much cheaper to keep this work done without letting the weeds get big. We have this experience on the race track at the fair grounds. We used to wait till a couple of weeks before the fair and then cut the weeds and burn them and scalp the track and work it down and two years ago we tried the experience of letting the track keep up all summer and not letting the weeds grow and the expense was less than half and there were no big, ugly stubs at the sides to endanger the feet of horses that happened to get outside the track. Before that we did have a horse or two injured and that was what really set me to thinking about the better way. Mr. Vodehnal is credited with telling the people last week when he started the work that was done on the North Loup end of the highway, that he was doing it according to newspaper ideas. If he said that he was wrong for indeed he is not doing it according to this newspaper's idea. It is many weeks too late for that. He is evidently doing it according to his own idea and I don't want to be accused of the result.

I noticed the Greeley Leader-Independent this week and it was a dandy from the standpoint of the subscriber for it was packed full of locals and correspondence but there was a noticeable lack of advertising. The paper was nicely printed and the merchants should be able to get good returns from ads planted in such a paper.

I don't like the trend of the Leopold-Loeb trial in Chicago. It looks to me as though Judge Caverly was getting ready to let the kids down as easy as possible. The case will no doubt drag along for weary weeks and perhaps months or years, while if it were not for the great wealth back of them, justice would have been done before this.

Ole Buck thinks that Henry Ford is going to start making air flippers and that there will soon be ten million of them darting around over head, and that none of us will be safe from the oil cans, monkey wrenches and other things that will be dropped. There will be a regular shower of cigaret stubs, gum, powder puffs, etc., but I think that Ole has overestimated the danger when he says we will have to live in cy-cloons cellars.

When Ole Buck visited me last spring he mentioned that his folks were great hands for iced coffee. I was in hopes the Missus had forgotten it but when I went home the other night she announced that we had iced coffee for supper. I would just as soon drink tanlac and I know of things that I would lots rather drink.

Curt Parsons has been mad on me for some time but I judge he has gotten over it because he told the following lie about me last week: "I believe I will have some of that" said Hank Leggett pointing to a line printed in French on the bill of fare at a fashionable resort where he was recently invited by a friend to dine. "Sorry" said the waiter, but the band is playing that."

A fellow can't spell his own name as he wants to spell it. I have always followed in the footsteps of my father and his father and so on and it should be spelled LEGGETT but almost everyone insists on spelling it Leggett or Leggit. I suppose Ole Buck would kick if I should refer to him as Oleander or Old Leander Buck and probably Marie Weekes would object if I was to leave the last e out of her name and spell it in the good old fashioned way, weel. And I would say they were justified for they sure ought to know how to spell their own name. I know a girl who was named Flora and the family bible says so but for a good many years her high toned friends call her Florence and I am thinking that a more dignified name. Another was surely named Alice, but in this day of bobbed hair and low necks and thin skirts she has changed it to Alyce.

I can never understand the merchant who says he don't believe in advertising and then proceeds to clean up his show window and fill it with his best goods with attractive price cards on them. If he would put the same thing (by name) in the paper and price them so many more people would see his window. Of course he is doing the right thing with his window but he is not consistent.

Ole Buck says more stomachs are ruined by gray than by whiskey, thereby taking a mean swipe at J. Lee Boyer. No, Boyer don't drink whiskey but he is strong for gray and his stomach is sure ruined, at least for shape. I suppose this will make Bill Bartlett and Charley Bals mad.

Two or three months ago a customer gave Dr. Blessing an order for a mouthful of store teeth and in his anxiety to make the sale, Doc said the man could even eat sweetcorn off the cob. Doc has been a little worried since the sweet corn season was drawing near and the other day when the customer phoned him that he was coming in to see him, Doc hurriedly packed his fishing tackle and went fishing for a few days.

A dance hall manager down at St. Paul who is not in sympathy with the Sunday anti dancing law, advertised a dance to start at 12:05 a. m. Monday morning. He thought he would be smart to show the law enforcement officers and the legislators of the state just how close he could come to violating the law and get away with it. He had about 60 couples present but only two or three of them were from St. Paul and vicinity. The others were from Grand Island, and Greeley.

A couple of brother editors are scrapping about roasting ears, what are and what are not, which reminds me that we just picked the first mess from our garden last Thursday, July 31st. There is nothing nicer than juicy roasting ears, cooked with steam as mother used to cook them and then the rule is to plaster on a liberal supply of butter and sprinkle it with salt, generally three or four rows at a time and then grasping the ear by each end firmly, start at one end and gnaw a mouthful. You are sure to get some butter and salt out on each cheek and I have noticed that those who even got the salt and butter back on the face almost to the ears seemed to enjoy the delicacy the most.

An Ord lady sent her small son down town the other day with instructions to get a box of candles to put on her birthday cake. The boy is one who is inclined to use his own head a little and when he found that a box only contained 24 candles he bought two boxes and going home, explained to his mother and incidentally to the assembled guests, that he knew she must be over 24 and he thought two boxes would be about right—and he didn't miss it so far, at that.

The editor of the Ord Quiz, a leading country newspaper of the state, announces that the editor and the paper expect to be perfectly independent in political matters, and that both will advocate the choice of men whom the editor believes will be best for all the people, regardless of the ticket on which they may be running. That is all well and good and quite in keeping with the way many others feel about the situation. It seems that he is not easily suited in the matter of presidential candidates for he passes up both Coolidge and Davis. But this is a good year for the honest doubter who seeks to really be independent. If he doesn't like Coolidge or Davis, he still has a choice of Robert M. LaFollette, Progressive; Rupert H. Poulter, People's Progressive; Gilbert O. Nations, American; Frank Johns, Socialist-Labor; Herman J. Faris, Prohibition; William J. Wallace, Commonwealth Land; or Duncan McDonald, Farmer Labor. Surely out of nine candidates there ought to be one to suit the most independent voter on earth.—Seward Independent-Democrat.

A Straight Spine Means Health and Happiness

See that your spine is normal. Call on your chiropractor and let him give you a Spinal Analysis. If there are any defects, these are generally found to be subluxated vertebrae (displaced small bones of the spine) which press upon the nerves where they leave the spine, pinching them and preventing the ALL IMPORTANT VITAL FORCE from flowing freely to the various organs. When the flow of this Vital Force is thus impeded and the organs are unable to functionate, the condition is what is known as dis-ease. The competent chiropractor, by the use of Chiropractic Vertebral Adjustments, given with the bare hands alone, puts the displaced bones back to their normal positions, the pinching of the nerves is released, the Vital Force flows uninterrupted and the condition known as dis-ease disappears.

Put yourself in the hands of a competent chiropractor, heed his advice, and you will not get old before your time.

Mrs. H. G. Frey and son Ross returned home Saturday evening after their trip to Wood Lake, where she visited her sister and their mother, who was there from Bassett. Mrs. Frey also visited at Hot Springs, S. Dak.

Mrs. Will Luse and daughter of Omaha have been visiting at Scottia and they are expected to come to Ord this week. Meredith came as far as Scottia with his mother and then came on to Ord to visit his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Luce.

James Barnes was able to leave the Ord hospital last Friday and go to the home of his daughter Mrs. Curt Wilson. Mr. Barnes had been in the hospital for several days. Mrs. Barnes and Miss Ida returned to the home near Greeley the same day.

Miss Clara McClatchey of Lincoln arrived Saturday for a visit with her people, the Tom McClatchey family. She will spend a week here and then go to Chicago to see her sister, Mrs. J. E. Walters formerly Miss Gladys McClatchey.

Six of the Grand Island teachers, among them being Miss Myrtle Milligan of Ord, have been taking in the Colorado and Wyoming sights. Miss Milligan is expected to come to Ord this week and visit her parents. She has taught in the Grand Island schools for six years and plans on going back again next year.

Ralph Carson and wife and two sons, Billy and Floyd, drove in from their home at Lewiston, Mont. They came by way of Yellowstone Park where they spent a week. This is the first time Ralph has been home since he went to Montana ten years ago and he expresses pleasure at the improvement he sees on every side here.

Tom Neuman, U. P. engineer and wife, are planning on renting and moving their household goods to Ord. They have been boarding but Mrs. Newman thinks she wants her own home. They have been in Ord since last winter.

Mrs. Ida Bartunek who was visiting in Ord last week, returned to Wolbach the latter part of the week, where she makes her home with her mother. Mrs. Bartunek returned recently from a trip to Colorado. She had planned on going to California but her mother was taken ill so she returned home.

After a few days stay with Ord friends, Miss Fay Bundy and her small cousin Phyllis Moore, returned the latter part of last week to Grand Island. They were accompanied by Miss Opal Tedro who went for a weeks visit.

Harry Tolen and family came down from Taylor Saturday morning and took dinner with his father, J. E. Tolen and wife and Mrs. L. L. Oliver of Olean was also a guest at the Tolen home. When she returned in the evening she was accompanied by her two grandsons, Leonard and Irl Tolen, who will spend a couple of weeks at Olean.

Mrs. E. J. Mattley returned home the latter part of last week from Ansley where she had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Bert Williams. Mrs. Mattley was accompanied home by her granddaughter Isla Williams, who will visit in Ord for a while.

Henry Holm, Oscar Knecht and James Campbell left the latter part of last week for Des Moines to attend the training camp for a month. James Collipriest and Martin Frederick of Ord preceded them a few days and all five were looking forward to a profitable as well as a pleasant outing.

After an absence of several months, Miss Alice Armstrong returned home last Friday. She has been with a sister at Kimball most of the time and was accompanied to Ord by another sister, Mrs. Mary Hamilton for the ride.

whose home is at Delta, Utah and who had been visiting at Kimball for a couple of months. She came to Ord to visit relatives and to look after some business matters.

Mrs. Will Carson tells us she received, last week, a nice long letter from her niece, Edith Byington, who is at Cullen Lake. Her people are occupying the Dr. Shepard cottage and of course they are having fresh fish every day. When they first went up there strawberries were ripe and now they are enjoying the raspberries which are very abundant. They were all feeling fine and having a delightful time.

Wm. Banister was up from Aurora last Sunday.

Miss Marie Lastovca came up from Omaha Friday to assist with some drilling for the Sokol club.

Last Saturday Miss Ethel Ollis arrived from Kansas City for a visit with numerous relatives in this vicinity.

Mrs. W. S. Peterson of Burwell drove to Ord Monday, accompanied by her son Emey, who left on the motor for Lincoln. They had with them two little girls, Maureen and Bernice Troxell, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Troxell of Burwell. They came with Mrs. Peterson just for the ride.

1924 CHAUTAUQUA

ASSURED SUCCESS

Many of the original pieces featured so successfully by the Coon Sanders Night Hawks were played, and proved quite as entertaining when heard from the stage as from the loud speaker.

Leo Fitzpatrick in his opening remarks explained the difficulty of talking in "reverse gear" as he styled it, touching upon the difference between speaking to a visible and an invisible audience. Many of the ears in the audience, he was sure, were familiar to him.

"All Aboard" Proves Popular

Elwood T. Bailey of San Diego delivered his popular lecture in the evening and it proved very popular with the Ord people who attended. He has a fine oratorical presence and enunciates clearly. His address was packed with common sense utterances, along with a lot of humor. Building up an immense allegory in which he built a road bed, placed a train upon the track and shouted "All Aboard" he gave a lecture that was at once, concrete and interesting.

Mr. Bailey served during the war without recompense entertaining American soldiers in France, and brings to his Chautauqua audiences a wide knowledge of the life of America today. A California man, he is a loyal booster for his climate and state, but did not talk exclusively upon this phase as so many "Native Sons" do.

The Radio Entertainers with the Merry Old Chief delivered the first of the evening's entertainment. He was up to the standard of their afternoon program, and was much enjoyed. Many comments were heard upon the trombone solo given by Mr. Daugherty of the orchestra, who is an exceptional musician. During the past few years he has been playing in London and Paris with a bunch of Lincoln dance musicians who went over under the name of "The Southern Rag-a-jazz" and received great publicity while there. A recent engagement with Paul Whiteman's orchestra of Victor record fame attests to his ability. The banjoist is also an exceptional musician, and as in the afternoon his solo elicited hearty expressions of approval.

Chancellor Bradford Says, "This Way Up"

Chancellor Bradford was surely one of the strongest numbers on the weeks program, and spoke to large audiences both Sunday morning at a church service given by the combined churches of Ord, and Sunday evening when he delivered his famous lecture "This Way Up." It was rather more than a lecture, for it had the quality of advice offered by an old and familiar friend. Helpful, original and packed with native humor and philosophy, Chancellor Bradford's lecture was without peer in the annals of Ord Chautauqua lectures.

The Margaret Riner company that entertained afternoon and evening with music and readings, while not one of the strongest numbers, nevertheless pleased many people. Miss Riner is a character impersonator of real ability, and many completely succumbed to her delightful mimicry.

Dr. Ravel on Monday

Dr. Werahiko Ravel, on the evening of the third day, Monday, told of life in the American group of the Samoan Islands of the South Seas.

Dressed in native costume, he revealed facts unknown to the majority of his audience and brought out facts connected with these little known possessions of the United States that surprised his hearers, most of whom did not realize that the United States numbered these islands among her possessions.

The manner in which Samoans make cloth from the bark of trees, ornamental art of the natives, the strange marriage customs used there—in short a cross section of the daily life of a Samoan, were among the things touched upon by the lecturer. Dr. Ravel is a native who has lived more than fifty of his seventy-five years among his own people. His manner of address is that of a cultured Englishman.

The Mendelssohn Quartet who gave the afternoon program and the musical prelude to the evening, is a high-class company, composed of a cello, two violins and a piano, the pianist also possessing a wonderful soprano voice. Miss Thelma Marty delighted the audience with a group of violin solos. Many praises were heard for this company.

Comedy Mixed With Pathos

"Six-Cylinder Love" which made up the bill Tuesday evening, depicted the trials and vicissitudes of two young couples who tried to carry on a six-cylinder life on a four-cylinder income. It was a realistic and powerful indictment against the too common practice of mortgaging the home to buy a car.

Mixed with the comedy, which traveled at a mile a minute clip most of the time, was mingled a great deal of pathos. The characters in the play were admirably played, especially those of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling, the newlyweds who buy an automobile by placing a mortgage on their home.

From extreme farce comedy to ludicrously over played agony and sadness, the play ran the gamut of the emotions. The moral left by the play was that one who buys a car without being able to pay cash for it, is certain of unhappiness.

Dr. McMurry lectured in the afternoon, and told many facts about China, the interior portions of which are little known to white people. The lecture was much enjoyed.

Charles Ross Taggart Entertains

Charles Ross Taggart, of Victor record fame, furnished the piece de resistance of yesterday's program, and pleased his audience mightily. He is really an old country fiddler, and some of the jigs and songs of a by gone day that he played were, to many of his large audience, like greetings from friends of their youth. He also plays the piano a little, not well, as he admits, but well enough to please everybody. His talk, somewhat in the manner of Cal Stewart, was a pleasure to listen to. No high brow is Mr. Taggart, but simply folksy folks. The Harper Terwilliger company gave a musical prelude both afternoon and evening. Wallace Bruce Ambary made a decided hit in the afternoon with his lecture "Laughter and Life." We regret that space will not permit our printing many of the things he said for they are really worth reading.

We have in your vicinity a high grade piano on which party is unable to continue payments. You can own this by paying the unpaid balance either cash or payments. If interested write A. Hospe Co., Omaha, Nebraska.

Let us change your hard truck tires into pneumatic casings. We have the Ford sizes in rims and wheels and casings 32 x 4-1-2 and 33 x 5, also 34 x 4-1-2 and 33 x 5 in stock. Come in and see us. Peter Hallen Battery &amp; Tire Station, Ord, Nebraska.

A. M. Mutter is planning a trip for about the middle of this month, to the southwest and expects to go down through Colorado and into New Mexico, where he says he is sure there are some delightful places. He camps on the trip and is looking forward to a delightful trip.

Mrs. Glendall Bailey who had been visiting at the Roy Bailey home for a few days, departed Sunday for her home at Hastings, going as far as Cushing with the Bailey family, who were taking some of the Scout boys down to camp. They then took so, Bailey across to St. Paul in time so she could take the motor. Her husband had intended coming after her but was too busy getting his new territory organized.

We agree with Editor Leggett of the Ord Quiz that the State Fair is not entitled to advertising space at any less figure than is quoted the local merchant. And we feel much the same as regards the local fair. In years past the News has contributed hundreds of dollars worth of free space to the Boone county fair, but that institution has apparently reached the point now where it does not need this support. We expect to contribute of our space from time to time, but so long as it is ours to dispose of, we hope to place it where it will be appreciated.—Albion News.

Judge William Pierson and his wife Mrs. Lena H. Pierson, of Austin, Texas, who were visiting for a few days at the Mrs. Peter Mortensen home, were pleasant visitors at the Quiz office Monday afternoon. They were accompanied by their little daughter. Mrs. Pierson was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Haskell and Ord was her birth place. The family removed to Texas in 1893. Judge Pierson is a member of the Texas supreme court. They visited Ord 23 years ago while on their wedding trip and this is the next visit since that time. Judge Pierson says he has found Nebraska roads superior to any dirt roads he has ever driven over, as they are making the trip by auto. They left Ord Tuesday for Lincoln and after a visit there, they are going to Iowa points where they have relatives and then on to Illinois, where they will visit the R. B. Perkins family and other relatives.

The Marion Cushing family returned last Saturday evening from a trip of several weeks spent in Minnesota, with a side trip to Iowa and Illinois on the way home. Marion was at his desk as usual Monday morning at the Ord State bank and speaks in the most enthusiastic terms of the pleasures of the Cullen Lake camp. We had heard him quoted as saying they caught an 8-pound bass and told him that was too large, but he denied having said so, but insisted that they did catch some wonderful bass, which of course we were willing to grant. Marion has started planning, already, for a trip to the north woods again next year and surely there is no better or cheaper place to go. There is no high priced society at Cullen but there is plenty of it at other resorts within a few miles. Over at Brezzy Point one can go as high as he desires in price for a dinner and can get most anything he wants, too.

Kith Lewis of the Penney Co store breezed in early Monday with mats or the ad which will be found in their regular position, upper right and corner on page 5. Messrs. Earhart and Lewis realize that it pays to advertise in a newspaper that covers every corner of the county as the Quiz does and they realize that it pays to get their copy in early so they may have good position. They always bring mats to us and we cast the cuts and mount them on wood blocks and that is the way the Penney advertising is prepared each week. It is a wonderful help to have an advertiser bring his copy in on Monday. That gives us a chance to plan the paper and make it larger or smaller as necessary. Frequently it is a late rush of advertising that crowds out valuable correspondence and news items, the ads coming in without previous notice when it is too late to provide additional pages. If Mr. Earhart, manager of the Penney Store, was going to need a half page for a full page, he would notify us before hand so we could be ready. That always gives us a chance to give advertisers good position. Be sure to read the Penney ad this week and note the prices.

It was nine years ago that Martin Barnes and his family moved to the vicinity of Crosbytown, Texas.

Before that for some years they lived out in Vinton township and they traded land there for Texas land and have never been back since.

In the change, even though they had to move away and leave a lot of good friends in Nebraska. They now own a section of good land and have it paid for and last week Mr. and Mrs. Barnes and their son-in-law, O. J. Bouma and his family, motored up to the Valley county for a visit with relatives and old friends. Mr. Barnes says they finished threshing before they started and had the work all caught up in good shape. He says wheat averaged around 35 bushels to the acre this season in the Valley county. The state says that they were always had good crops since he has been there. Anyone who will talk with Martin will conclude that he is thoroughly satisfied with his home and the progress he has made. He says it don't get as no there as it does here in the summer, rarely getting above 90 and that it seldom gets to zero in the winter and then for only a short time, the average winter temperature being 40 to 50. He says the only fault he can find with that country is that a farmer can work 12 months in the year and get it done. He says land there is worth $45 to $65 per acre. Mr. Barnes don't look much older than when he left Valley county and he says the Mira Valley country sure does look rough to him, as his neighborhood is as level as a floor. We didn't speak to him on the subject of politics, as we have understood that Texas was mostly inhabited by democrats and thought it might be a tender subject with him.

METHODIST CHURCH

(By Mrs. Leslie Mason)

The activities of the church, last Sunday were confined to the Bible School. Owing to the fact that the Boy Scouts were getting off to the Scout Camp, Say Ling, at Cushing, Neb., where they were enjoying a week camping, and a number of parents were taking the boys there in their cars, the attendance at the school was 179. Mrs. Hager's class was the only one having 100 percent attendance. Miss Hallen, Mrs. Hager, and Miss Smith of the teaching force have returned from their vacations and were back in their places. We hope to have the attendance back above the 200 mark again next Sunday.

We are sorry to note that Mrs. W. L. Lockwood is still ill at her home. We miss her very much in the bible school and hope she will soon be able to be with us again.

All members and friends of the Missionary society are urged to be present at the meeting next Thursday at the Chautauqua tent.

A very interesting union service was held at the Chautauqua tent last Sunday morning with Rev. Maynard presiding. The singing was led by a union choir with Miss Bond as pianist. Prayer was voiced by Rev. Brill. The speaker of the morning was Chancellor Geo. H. Bradford the Chautauqua lecturer for that evening. Dr. Bradford gave a sermon-lecture using the life of David Livingstone as his subject. He brought out many excellent lessons in Christian living, to be learned from the life of this great missionary who gave a wonderful life of service to Africa. We think we voice the sentiment of all present when we say this was one of the best talks we have heard in a long time and we hope we may hear Dr. Bradford again.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Brother Bell, our pastor, will be with us next Sunday after a two weeks absence. Boost for a big attendance and bring money for the Lord's house. We are getting behind again.

Sunday school is doing well for this time of the year. Men have 636 points and the women have 719, with only 53 in the lead. Let's all be on hand next Lord's day.

We were all inspired by the wonderful and very practical talk given by E. T. Bailey Saturday evening and by Geo. Bradford Sunday evening. We trust the 100 per cent American talks may be used by all.

Our doubtful friends who heard Dr. Ravel Tuesday evening at the Chautauqua cannot but believe that God does work in wonderful ways when people apply His divine and universal laws. God bless every Missionary and Christian home worker.

Regular services Sunday and Bible study a week from tonight.

CHURCH NOTICE

There will be services at the Danish Lutheran church on Sunday Aug. 10th at 10:30 a. m. Services will be conducted by Rev. Magnusson of Elba. A hearty invitation is extended to all.

Mrs. M. Flynn has heard from her niece, Helen Arnold, who went to Vancouver a few weeks ago with her aunt, Mrs. Marie Fradenburg, and she seems well contented. That was her home before coming to Ord. Mrs. Fradenburg writes that Mrs. Alvin Hill, who was with Helen on the trip had been to see them and seemed to be enjoying her visit.

ELYRIA DEPARTMENT

MRS. BERNARD HOYT, EDITOR

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Coombs of Cotesfield called on Mr. and Mrs. John Schuyler and family Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand B. Wheeler came home Wednesday on the passenger from Kearney.

Miss Dorothy Sorensen is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Thorwald Sorensen this week.

A number from this community attended the party given at the home of Mrs. Anna Socha Sunday evening. The evening was spent in dancing after which pleasant refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fischer visited Mrs. Ed Albers Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. John Schuyler called on Mrs. Art Piny Tuesday afternoon.

Miller and Norton and Mike Kusek shipped two carloads of hogs to the Omaha market Monday morning.

Mike Perliniski is again working for his uncle, after a trip with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Perliniski to Minnesota and Wisconsin. Some of his time was spent at Cullen Lake, Minnesota.

Father Kolaska and Father Murray of Burwell left Tuesday for Clear Lake, where they will spend a few days fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Abrahams and Mrs. Simpson and Virginia visited at the Fred Martinson home Monday evening.

Mrs. O. W. Kemble and Miss Leitha Pugh visited at the Fred Dowhower home Tuesday afternoon.

Christian M. Sorensen returned home Wednesday evening after a two weeks vacation at camp in Port Des Moines.

Dave Palmer and Otto Pecenka called at Jorgen Sorensen's bachelor apartments Monday evening.

George Jablonski was an incoming passenger from Ord Wednesday evening and is going to visit his boys who are farming north of town.

Mrs. O. W. Kemble and Miss Leitha Pugh called on Mrs. Alice Dodge on Wednesday evening.

John Ulrich and family and Elenore Polak visited at the Joe J. Jablonski home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Vogeltanz spent Sunday evening at the Holub home.

Miss Mary Kukulish came home and is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eman Kukulish after having made a short visit with her relatives at Comstock and Grand Island.

Otto Goss went to Grand Island on Tuesday on the motor and after a short visit returned home.

Leon Dubas and family, Frank Wada and family and Ignatius Krasen and family spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sobon.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Jablonski and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Dubas and family visited at Joe Sobons last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dugosh and family and Mr. and Mrs. John Kneble spent Sunday at the Frank Janus home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Holub motored to Ord Monday afternoon.

Pep Kukulish spent the week hauling hay for Miller and Norton. The only thing that Pep hates about it is the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Coombs called on the Charles Wozniak family last Thursday evening.

Several Elyria folks attended the Robbins Bros. circus last Friday at Burwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Dodge and family, Jackson Dodge and Mrs. Alice Dodge took dinner at the B. Hoyt home Sunday.

Mike Socha and David Palmer motored to Erie and Sun, where they took in the sights. Mike says that Ericson has the biggest bunch of loafers by a dam site.

Mrs. Alex Iwanski received word last week of the death of her brother in Duluth, Minn. His name was Jacob Swank.

Mrs. Chas. Wozniak and daughters Florence and Lucille and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wright called on Mrs. Jerry Schuyler at Burwell last Friday afternoon. While there they also took in the big circus. Florence and Lucille enjoyed the wild animals very much.

Arthur Piny, Mrs. Bernard Hoyt and son Eldon were passengers to Burwell last Thursday evening.

The mill has been unable to grind for a day or two on account of the breakdown of some of their machinery.

Mrs. Sorensen delivered one truck load of flour to Ord Monday morning and another to Taylor in the afternoon.

Vacations

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Holub left Monday morning for their vacation which they expect to spend in Chicago. Mr. Holub is planning on spending a lot of his time watching the big league ball games.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dowhower and family left last week in their car for the West. They expect to go to Boulder, Colorado where they will visit relatives and while there will take in some of the mountain scenery which they have heard so much about.

Mrs. Ralph Carson and children of Lewiston, Montana, are visiting at the Thomas Jablonski home this week. Mrs. Carson was formerly Miss Josie Jablonski and lived with her parents north of Elyria until she was married. She expects to stay about two weeks after which she will return home.

Dave Palmer and Otto Pecenka will leave soon for parts north where they think that the fish bite and expect to decide which one of them is the best fisherman.

Joe Ciemny and Pete Miller expect to spend two or three weeks at some southern summer resort where they can do all the swimming they wish without having one or two Ord people spoil it all for them. It may be that they will take Eddie Kusek along with them for a mascot.

Mrs. Agnes Dodge and Mrs. Olga Ciemny are planning on visiting their folks some time the latter part of this month.

The Weather

It aggravates us a good deal at times to hear some of our friends who now live in California tell us about the wonderful weather they have out there and then forget about the fine weather we have been having right here in Nebraska, for the last year or two. There is an expression which reads "What is so rare as a day in June," but we have had days that were just as good, not only in June but in July and August. Not only do we have fine weather, but our state is one of the healthiest in the Union and on this point has California backed clear off the map. Should our state be given the publicity that is given to California, there would be no comparison between the two.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sanders are slowly getting settled in their new home and the young folks of Elyria are planning on giving them a charivari. They were married at Council Bluffs, Iowa last week. Mrs. Sanders was formerly Miss Elizabeth Fischer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Fischer. Mr. Sanders is an enterprising young farmer, and all their friends are wishing them all kinds of success and happiness.

Joseph Liberski who has been employed by Frank Zulkoski has given up his work and is now planning on entering other business. Mr. Liberski thinks perhaps he will go into the coal business.

Florence Wozniak is now running the ice cream parlor which Balt Severson formerly managed. Florence is doing a good job serving ice cream. If you don't believe it go in and see her.

John Powell motored to Ord on Sunday where he partook of a good chicken dinner. Too bad Pete Miller was not along.

Frank Piskorski was a Tuesday evening visitor in Elyria, returning to Ord the next morning.

Floyd Wozniak attended the dance at Wild Cat hall last week.

Otto Goss of the Holub Grocery store is certainly taking it easy since his boss is gone. Yesterday Chester Carcoski told us that he had been asleep most of the day. Chester and Otto are now making a checker board and will spend all their spare time playing checkers.

One man who has joined the army of bobbed haired ladies. This only leaves two or three more in the city of Elyria and makes the bobbed hair army almost one hundred per cent.

Miss Dorothy Sorensen who has been attending summer school at Kearney returned home last Wednesday evening. She is planning on going back to school.

Mrs. Alice Dodge and Mrs. Alex Iwanski visited Mrs. Bernard Hoyt last Tuesday night.

A Fine Showing

Many of our friends will be interested in the showing that Mr. Sorensen and D. Palmer have made with the Elyria Roller Mills. It will be remembered that when Mr. Sorensen purchased the mill, the good will was valued at nothing. There was no trade built up and the flour had been unsatisfactory.

From this the business has been built up to a point where they have done as much business in six months as they counted on doing in one year. Not only this but the business is growing in a good normal way and it will not be long until Mr. Sorensen will have his share of the business in this vicinity.

This is because Mr. Sorensen uses good business methods and because Mr. Palmer, his miller, whose services he considers himself fortunate in securing, has a quality of flour which is as good as flour can possibly be made and we know that when better flour is made it will be Mr. Palmer who will be making it. Mr. Palmer is thoroughly experienced as a miller, a fact to which you will agree if you have been using the Star flour.

JOHN S. WHEELER

John S. Wheeler, fourth child of Chauncey and Katy (Krantz) Wheeler, was born March 19, 1854 at Youngsville, N. Y., where he lived with his parents until 1878, when he came to Nebraska, taking a homestead in Geranium township, living there until 1905 when he moved to the present home Willow Bank near Elyria.

He was married July 22, 1884 to Ida B. Wheeler of Mongaup Valley, N. Y., and to this union was born six children, two of whom died in infancy.

He leaves to mourn his absence, a faithful wife and four sons, Arthur C., Lloyd P., Ferdinand B. and Merton Chauncey, also a sister, Mrs. Katy Homer, of Youngsville, N. Y.

He departed this life August 1, 1924, at the age of 70 years, 4 months and 23 days.

He was a loving father and husband, a kind neighbor and leaves a host of sorrowing friends.

The above facts regarding the life of one of the good men of Valley county, is published just as it is handed in. The writer has known Mr. Wheeler for more than a quarter of a century however and we want to say that during the years he has been a resident of Valley county, he has been able to number his friends by those who knew him, which is more than many people can truly have said about them. He has been a sufferer for a number of months, from a malady that refused to yield to treatment. He was one of the old settlers of the county and will be missed by a host of friends who, though long years of association, had earned to love him.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon from the Ord M. E. church, Rev. Maynard officiating and interment was in the Ord cemetery.

EUREKA NEWS

(By J. B. Zulkoski)

The weather is fine for threshing. Viggo Muller finished threshing Monday and they will pull to J. B. Zulkoski's place.

neighborhood is of fine quality. Next week we will put in the paper how many bushels to the acre the Turtle Creek Threshing Co. are turning out.

Leo and Edmond Osentowski and Edward Zulkoski were putting up alfalfa Monday.

Joe Kuta finished stacking his grain Tuesday. Joe is a real stack man.

Frank Danczak was cutting oats Monday and as help is scarce he has no shocker and it keeps him busy. Raymond Zulkoski helped Edward Zulkoski cultivate corn Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Kochonoski were visiting relatives in Ashton Sunday returning home the same day accompanied by his sister, Helen.

Philip Osentowski and family and Mrs. Anna Socha and boys visited at the Nodolinski home Sunday.

Pete Kochonoski and Charlie Flakus helped James Zulkoski thresh Friday of last week.

Clemmy called at Osentowski's Sunday.

John Zulkoski and family, Ed Zulkoski and Chas. Flakus spent Sunday at Andrew Kusek's and in the afternoon enjoyed themselves bathing in the river.

TRED BY A BULL

When the writer asked Guy Burrows the other day, for the loan of his climbers, Guy came right back with, "You don't need any climbers if the bull is as close to you as mine was" and then he went ahead and told the story.

Opportunity for fishing so after unloading a load of gas at Elyria the other day about six o'clock, he drove down to the river bridge and fished down the river on the north side, staying on the job till it got dark and about the time he was thinking of starting home, he wanted to get a yellow behind him and looked back to see a large bull bearing down on him. The bull was walking and bellowing and pawing the ground and Guy looked at the tree and then at the river and was trying to decide whether to swim the current or to climb the tree when the bull decided the matter and with his head down, charged. He was only about 40 or 50 feet away when he started to run and Guy went up the tree and he says he went way up, too. He sat still among the branches and he says he thinks the bull lost track of him for pretty soon he wandered away down the pasture and Guy could hear him in some small timber, bellowing and evidently bunting the trees in his rage. Guy slid down to the ground and gathered up his fishing tackle and went to the bridge where his truck was and he admits that he made pretty good time in the going.

A CARD OF THANKS

We sincerely thank our many friends for their assistance during the sickness and death of our beloved husband and father, words cannot express our appreciation of their kindness and of the beautiful floral offerings received.

Mrs. John Ward came down from Burwell yesterday and spent a few hours with her people, the Ed Milligan family, then went to Grand Island and on the motor.

Will and John McLain returned home Saturday evening from their trip to some of the northern states and Canada. They report a fine time but glad to be back in Ord again.

Tuesday J. F. Tyrdik was down from Burwell. He formerly lived in Ord and went from here to accept a position with the First State Bank of Burwell. Mr. Tyrdik has had to lay off work for a while, but thinks he will be able in a few days to resume his duties in the bank. He had for four months in an Omaha hospital. His trouble was with his leg. It had to be opened and the bone doctored several times.

Tuesday evening Miss Martha Nass returned to Ord after an absence of two years. She has been teaching in the Central Business College of Denver. After a visit with her people she will return to Colorado, having accepted a position as instructor as commercial instructor in the Louisville high school. Miss Nass was a graduate from Ord with the class of 1917.

Viola May Burdick and Dewey Desch were married last Friday in Kansas. They are staying with the bride's mother, Mrs. Frank Lunney. Dewey has been working on the farm. He is well and favorably known around Ord. His people live at Central City, but for several years he has stayed the greater portion of the time in Ord with his uncle, Walter Desch and has spent his working hours at his uncle's place of business. His wife, who has been better known as George Burdick, is the second daughter of Mrs. Frank Lunney. She has always lived in or near Ord and her many friends wish her and her husband a long and happy life together.

Mrs. C. W. Weekes and daughter Muriel left Monday to drive to Centennial, Wyoming where they planned on spending a couple of weeks enjoying the beauties of the mountains. Several couples of Scottia friends were also of the party and Dr. Weekes plans on joining them for a few days before they return home.

Prof. Murphy who taught in the Ord schools last year has entered the Chiropractic school at Davenport, Iowa and will take the course to fit himself as a practitioner. It may be of interest to his many friends here, some of whom don't know the facts perhaps, to know that he was very seriously afflicted with diabetes and after trying numerous treatments, began taking treatments from Dr. Mizar and left Ord practically cured. He was so impressed with the treatment that he desired to become a Chiropractor.

Sheriff Round is a tender hearted man and will always do a kind act if possible, even for a prisoner. Last week he got a telegram from the sheriff at Columbus telling him to arrest a man for a minor offense. Sheriff George located his man near North Loup where he was employed by a farmer and they were busily engaged in plowing corn. When advised of the situation the farmer said he had a large field of corn there, knew of no other help he could get and asked the sheriff to leave the man, who was willing to stay and work as long as possible, until the officer came from Columbus. After sizing the defendant up, George said he would do it and instructed the party that he would phone him when the Columbus officer was coming and that he was to get on the train and come to Ord at once. Two or three days later George got a message saying the Platte county officer was coming the next day on the motor so he phoned his man and when George went down to meet the incoming motor there was the sheriff and prisoner. They had ridden from North Loup together but neither knew the other. They were introduced and we trust will soon settle their differences and that the Valley county farm worker will be back home.

Miss Bertha Paul of Aurora was an over Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Chotena, having come up by auto on Saturday with Wm. Banister.

Do You Play Fair With Your Home Town Merchant?

When times are slack and times are poor, then is the time that you need credit and it is the home merchant that pilots you through. He is the one you seek to provide the goods that you and your family need. He carries you over with credit; many times he doesn't even charge interest and he always maintains the same grade of reliable goods and stands back of every line and sells them at a fair price.

The home merchant, more than any other, holds the key to your success in times of stress. You will agree to this if you will stop to think of the many times he has helped you when you were unable to pay cash for the things you really needed. That is why he needs and deserves your support and patronage in times of plenty as well as in times of stress.

And have you ever stopped to consider that there are those that use him only for the favors he can render when times are hard, and then throw him aside when the highly colored catalogues of the mail order houses call attention to alleged bargains. Is that fair? Stop and ask yourself a few questions. Does the mail order house pay any tax in your county? Will the mail order house sign the subscription paper for $5 or $10 to build a new church, or repair the parsonage or foster the Boy Scouts or do a hundred and one other things that the home merchant is all the time called upon to do? Not on your life.

We all need the merchant, his confidence and his friendship. We need his enterprise and the service he renders day in and day out in handling out reliable goods at a reasonable price, always backed by his reputation.

And we should let him have cash when we have it. We should pay our bills as promptly as possible after we have been favored and then when we have money we should remember the favor and spend our money with the merchant who favored us. LET'S PLAY FAIR.

CULBRANSEN The Registering Piano

Put a Few Pigs in the Parlor

Did you ever stop to think how much nicer home would be with some kind of music in it?

Keep the home alive with music. Song is in the youth's heart, bring it out with music.

Music is to the development of youth what sunshine is to flowers and instills in their minds an appreciation of the finer things of life.

No matter where you are, music is one of the things that helps to fill in the evening, or helps to bring your mind into a contented condition.

Music is God's great gift to mankind, our ever ready means of enjoyment in our journey through life; and our comfort in the awesome presence of death. Therefore let us become better acquainted with this messenger of sorrow.

The piano is the foundation of a musical home. Lay a foundation NOW.

THE DEFENSE TEST

The Secretary of War has written the following letter to a clergyman who asked for information in regard to the "Defense Test":

"In acknowledging your letter I wish to thank you for seeking official information on the 'Defense Test' to be held on September 12th. Nothing will be done on that day to alarm any sincere American citizen, and our plans should meet with the approval of all, except possibly those who are opposed to any defense against external aggression. Attached are statements by General Pershing and myself, which explain our plans from a technical standpoint. I would like however to make several points clear to you.

"In the holding of the 'Defense Test' the War Department is merely obeying the basic law of our country. The preamble to the Constitution gives National Defense as one of the main objects for which one of Congress in 1792 the democratic nature of our military service was determined when it was prescribed that all male citizens between eighteen and forty-five years of age should be available for military duty in time of war. The National Defense Act of 1920 prescribes that the 'Organized peace establishment shall include all of those divisions necessary to form the basis for a complete and immediate mobilization for the National Defense in the event of a national emergency declared by Congress. To fulfill the expressed purpose of the Constitution we have organized a new citizen army, and prepared a mobilization plan based on community cooperation in the spirit of the Act of 1792 and in conformity with the provisions of the Act of 1920. Such a democratic conception of National Defense will only meet the requirements of an emergency if it is thoroughly understood by all who have definite responsibilities under it. The most practical way of assuring this is by public demonstration.

"The event to take place on Sept. 12th will not be a 'general mobilization.' A mobilization would mean the bringing to war strength, in men, animals and material, of the armed forces of the Nation. Our military establishment will not be increased for an instant on Sept. 12th. The 'Defense Test' will be only a demonstration of mobilization plans. It will be an endeavor on the part of the Federal Government to inform our people as fully as possible on the present status of our security. Our whole purpose is to present to our country the new citizen army of the United States and to indicate what action would have to be taken in a national emergency by our individual citizens, and by communities. If our country is to be defended, we must be fully informed. The simple demonstration planned might be compared to a fire drill in a school for the safety of the children. Just as fire escapes and exits are of little value if the children do not know how to use them, so also are the new plans for defense of value if the people do not know what the plans are and what they should do in a crisis. We firmly believe that our action is in the interest of more intelligent citizenship.

"We are able to take this forward step because our plans are purely for defense, and their object for defense, and their object for peace. We therefore need not keep them secret. Our test will enable not only our own people, but all peoples, to visualize our proposed plan of mobilization. Open defense plans openly arrived at are merely a practical extension of the principles underlying open diplomacy.

"Insofar as there is any foundation for the assumption that people are frequently seduced to warlike acts without realizing the consequences of the act, the 'Defense Test' will be a preventive measure. Every one will be made aware of the sacrifices which war will require of him.

"The 'Defense Test', on the other hand, will apprise the world as words cannot of our friendly purposes as a nation. They will see that we have neither a standing army of a half-a-million men, like some of the great nations, nor compulsory military training like other great nations. They will see a small standing army, reinforced only by citizens who have volunteered for service to their country in the event of war. As a matter of fact, some of those who object to our simple demonstration could well use it as an object lesson for all nations.

"From a military standpoint the 'Defense Test' will be of practical value. It will be educational both to the military establishment and to our citizens. We have tried to learn from the lessons of the World War. From them we have evolved our present plans which apportion our defense task equally among all communities. Their object is to save millions of dollars and thousands of lives, and to prevent wastage through delay and confusion in a defensive war. They are dependent for success, however, on each community understanding its particular responsibilities, and on the co-operative effort of all. Explanation and demonstration are necessary; hence the 'Defense Test'.

"In conclusion, I would like to emphasize that I am striving for peace, and that in common with all Americans I desire it most sincerely. My observation has brought the conviction that such is also the purpose of General Pershing, and of all members of the Army of the United States. But the promotion of peace is not secured by the denial of the lessons of history. Our country has always refrained during the past from adequate prevention against the possibilities of war. Nevertheless, wars have come in

Our Exchanges

(By Mrs. R. J. Clark)

A telegram received stated that the only daughter of Elmer Olson of Kanab, Kansas, passed away Monday evening—Greeley Citizen. Mrs. Elmer Olson is a sister of Mrs. Arthur Lewis. The Olson family lived at Horace until a year or so ago and often visited here, and have many friends in Ord and vicinity, who will sympathize with them in the loss of their only child. We were privileged to read a letter from Mrs. Arthur Lewis. She said little Norma was taken sick Sunday, the local physician could not diagnose the disease, and they were making preparations to take her to Denver Monday night to consult a specialist but she died Monday evening. She was 4 years of age.

Mrs. John Grant Shick came home Wednesday of last week from Hastings, Neb., to which place she helped her daughter, Mrs. G. V. Bailey, move from West Point. Mrs. Bailey is visiting Mr. Bailey's parents in Ord, while her husband gets acquainted with his oil salesmanship work in Hastings.—Wayne Herald.

Ernest Woolery of Ord is taking the place of Lloyd Patrick at the cream station at Ericson for 10 days or so while Mr. Patrick is taking a vacation.

Cecil Mathews of the Blue Hill Leader has sued Webster county for $15,995 for the death of his son Cleo.

Hank Leggett of the Ord Quiz boasts of the hand set heads on the front page of his newspaper. All the heads in the Citizen are machine set, the modern way, and never before have we felt inclined to say anything about it.—Greeley Citizen.

Charles Hull and Aaron were auto passengers to Ord Sunday to visit his daughter, Mrs. Ben Morris and family.—Greeley Citizen.

Pidge Johnson motored here from Ord Wednesday and visited with friends returning to his home late that evening.—Howard County Herald.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Misko and two daughters drove down from Ord Sunday and were guests at the home of Bartunek home.—Wobach Messenger.

Rev. Raymond Rush, pastor of the Ravenna M. E. Church, who was taken ill three months ago and has passed through a very severe experience with inflammatory rheumatism is home from the Methodist hospital in Omaha. He is but little more than a shadow of his former self, having lost 55 pounds of weight in the ordeal through which he has passed. The doctors assure him that his illness has left him with no organic trouble and that as soon as he regains his strength he will be practically as good as new. He is yet too weak to resume his work, and intends to take a few weeks' vacation in an effort to regain his strength.—Ravenna News.

Rev. and Mrs. John Hewitson and son of Las Vegas, N. M., arrived Saturday evening. Rev. Hewitson being the minister of the Christian church. We welcome this splendid family to our little city and most earnestly hope they will enjoy their charge here.—Ansley Herald. Rev. Hewitson was pastor of the Christian church in Ord about 10 years ago.

After visiting with Burwell relatives for several days Mrs. H. H. H. went to Central City one day the latter part of last week where she will visit the Fred Hallock home. Mrs. Effegen Hallock accompanied her and visited for a day or so at Central City.—Burwell Tribune.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kline and family of Ord visited the J. J. Dilla home Sunday. They had dinner and supper with them and then returned home in the evening.—Sherman County Times.

He worked during 1894, or until there was nothing more to do, on account of the dry winds which burned the crops up, for Lewis (Butter) Thompson. When Mr. Thompson could no longer use him he came to Ord and later got a haying job up on the Cedar but he was only able to earn $10 during the balance of the summer and winter. He came back in the fall and went to school, living at the Thompson home during the time. It is needless to say that he didn't have much spending money. He didn't find it necessary to patronize the barber and shoemaker and callor every week as boys do now days for his $10 wouldn't reach that far. He was mighty well satisfied with stout boots and very plain clothing and says he now recalls that he had a very good time, probably thinking at the time that he was having as good a time as boys think they are having nowadays. Mr. Bosson is one of the substantial and prosperous farmers in the Arcadia neighborhood. While in the office he mentioned the candidacy of Mary Sutton for county superintendent and said he considered her an exceptionally fine teacher and was hoping for her election. His recommendation will doubtless have considerable weight.

The Misses Martz arrived here last evening from their home at Whittier, California, and are visiting their brothers.—Ericson Journal. These are the daughters of Sam Martz, who lived in Ord for years before going to California. Their names are Fern and Mildred Martz.

Dr. George Card and family are planning a vacation trip and they are going to drive and wanting to be sure of making the trip without unpleasant incident or car trouble, the Dr. has purchased a fine new Buick 3-passenger coupe from F. J. Bell and expects the new car to be delivered this week.

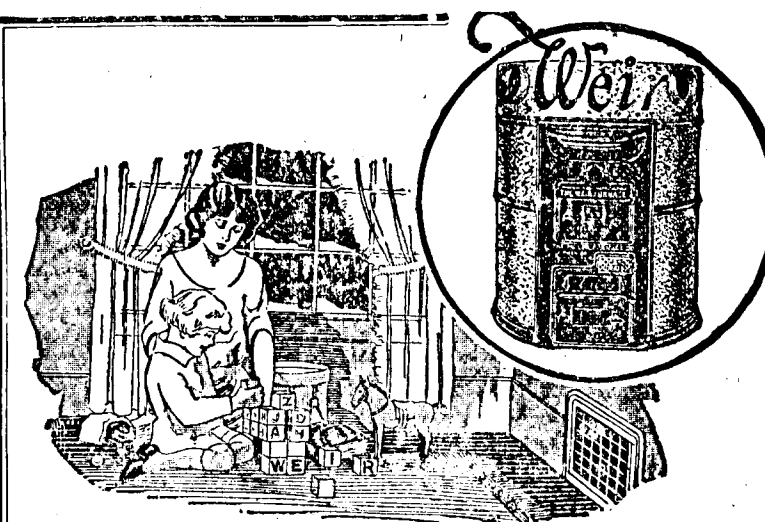

Unable to stand the big fish stories that Marion Cushing started telling as soon as he got home last Saturday, George Work and Anthony Thill loaded George's Ford with the necessary camping equipment and pulled out early Sunday morning for Cullen Lake in northern Minnesota, vowing that whether they caught any fish or not, they would come home with a supply of stories that would put the stories of Mr. Cushing and Jake Ward in the shade.

Mr. Huffman of the Wickman store and Mrs. Huffman, departed

Monday for a few days vacation trip, going first to Hastings to visit a brother. They were going on to York and then to Lincoln where they also have relatives. They expected to be gone about ten days.

A. B. Fletcher and Mrs. Fletcher of Burwell were Ord visitors last Thursday afternoon.

Lasting Cleanliness is Assured in the WEIR-Heated Home

The most common complaint in ordinary heating—smoke and dust—is entirely overcome in the jointless construction of the WEIR Furnace. It is made of steel, electric-welded and riveted throat, absolutely and permanently tight. This different construction of the WEIR Furnace makes leakage of smoke and dust impossible, and is permanent assurance of cleanliness in the WEIR-Heated Home.

Let us figure on your heating requirements; let us tell you how your home can be heated comfortably and economically with clean, healthful, moist-warm-air.

"Fruit Jar Bank Robbed"

THIS IS the heading of a news item taken from a daily paper recently. It tells how a man near Falls City hoarded his money in a fruit jar and had it stolen. Had he placed it in some good bank he would not only have saved his money, but would have received interest on it while he had it in the bank.

CHESTNUT HILL NEWS

(By Otto B. Schott)

Jack Cass is putting the activities of his son Dick to good use. Some time ago the boy sent off to a well known house and got one of their bicycles. Since that time he has spent most of his time on the wheel and the old man has lost sight of him except at meal time. This was too much of a good thing so Jack took the wheel into the shop Sunday afternoon, locked the door, and hammered and sawed until dark. Monday morning as soon as Dick had finished his breakfast, about nine o'clock, Jack took him out to the wash house and introduced him to his new duties. He had connected the wheel with the family washing machine, and all that Dick had to do was to sit there and pedal, and the family wash was soon done. It worked fine for a while, but pretty soon the boy got tired. "Dad," said he, "this would be all right if I had a change of scenery once in a while." "Yes, son, I thought of that," said Jack. So he turned on a motion picture machine threw the views on the screen right in front of Dick, and thus provided as much of a change of scenery as anyone could get. Jack went out to work in the field. When he returned at noon his wife reported that Dick had jumped his job. After a while Jack found him in the hay mow sound asleep. He woke him up and asked him why he quit work. "Had a good time," said Dick. "You see, it was this way: In those pictures there was an auto speeding down the road straight at me, and before I could get out of the way, it ran right over me. So I'm here in the hospital now."

The other day Hiram Quick went to town to get a few balls of twine for his field of late oats. He got six of them and put them in the back compartment of his Ford runaround. While he was in the grocery store getting some things the Mrs. ordered Clate McGrew slipped out to the car. He tied a rock to the inside end of one of the balls, which he dropped out on the ground. Then he tied the outside end of this ball to the inside end of another and continued this until all were connected. Hiram came out and started for home, not noticing the end of the string, and of course unraveled the string as he went. When he got home he found the twine had all disappeared and drove back to report that it had been stolen. About three miles out of town he discovered the end of the string, which he followed into town. There he found out who had done the deed, and made him cough up for the twine. Then he walked home, following the twine as he went. He figured that the twine belonged to whoever got it. However as soon as he got it all rolled up Clate came along and claimed it on the ground that he had been compelled to pay for it, so Hiram had his work for nothing. Clate has been using the twine for setting for catfish. He caught 26 the other night and had to let one of them go in order to keep under the legal limit.

Frank Furter's grandmother was among those present at the big Edd Noyes wedding at Amos Keeter's last week. The old lady is as deaf as can be, but she don't like to admit it. They were all listening to the radio, and all enjoying it except grandma, who claimed the blamed thing wasn't working. Just about that time the serenaders started to make the night hideous. There were about a hundred of them, and they had all classes of noise producing devices which the ingenuity of man could produce. They scared all the cats and dogs off the place and the horses either jumped into the mangers or climbed into the loft. The next day most of the Keeter black Minora chickens were white as snow. As soon as this awful pandemonium broke loose, grandma's face assumed a pleased expression. "O," said she, "Isn't that heavenly! I haven't heard a gospel hymn for years. Isn't radio a wonderful thing." Amos Keeter has just finished cutting and shocking his oats. This year the stand was unusually light, so he hit upon a plan by which he could shock it for himself while the horses rested. He carried the bundles on the carrier for several rounds until he had collected enough of them to make a shock. By this time it was usually time to give the team a breathing spell, and he would let them rest while he set up the shock. Last year the crop was a little heavier and he made it a rule to bring the bundles to the end of each round. Thus he had only one row to shock. Amos says he don't care to raise any heavy crops as they are too hard on his binder and he hasn't a suitable place on the farm to stack the grain. He rented some ground from Frank Kurner one year, but his hired help lost him ten dollars, and then the lightning burned the stacks down. This saved him the thresh bill, however.

Bennie Fishel returned from a trip through the west by train last Saturday night. He says that the trip was cut there are just about like ours. He said one day the conductor came rushing in and said, "I want to warn you people. About two miles ahead there is a covered bridge, and the men who built it left just room for the cars to get through. Last week a man had his head out of the window and 'he bridge cut it right off.' He hadn't more than said it before nearly every man had his head out of the window, trying to see the place where he accident occurred. Bennie got a job while out there, and will go to work about the first of September. He is to help run a saw mill in one of the petrified forests of Arizona. He was also offered a job by an old bird who carves out busts of famous men from the bones of animals. This job ought to suit Bennie pretty well, he is so good at making Boneheads.

Talking about shocking oats reminds us that I. B. Jiggard has a field of oats right next to the old swimmin' hole where the boys used to swim. The boys don't use it any more, but the girls do. Tuesday Mr. Jiggard finished cutting his oats at noon, and thought he would do down along in the evening and shock part of it. Just after dinner about two dozen of the girls went down there to swim and forgot to take their bathing suits. When Jiggard arrived on the scene the whole field of oats had been shocked.

Otto Schuler claims that he is the biggest man physically that there is in the country. He is not only big, but the equator, but has to humn his back to crawl under a telephone line. His wife got him a pair of overalls the other day. She got the biggest that Jim had, and they were 48 waist by 36 in seam. When she got them home Otto said "What do you expect me to do with those little things? Don't you remember that old war cry 54-40 or fight? That's the way. I remember the size of my pants."

I had a lot of things to say about the Old Settlers' Picnic but I just received a letter from Charley Watson warning me not to say them. I will no longer cease to refrain.

JOINT ITEMS

(By R. A. Grant)

The hot weather of the past week, together with the light rains we have had is bringing the corn along fine; the small grain is all in the shock. The second crop of alfalfa is on top, and a short crop of that and a few beans are just coming in. As usual, the last row of corn to lay by. As usual, the last row of corn to lay by. As usual, the last row of corn to lay by.

Thursday Leon McMinde drove to Erickson 36 head of cattle which they shipped to Omaha, Will Witt shipping 10 head, making a shipment of two face assumed a pleased expression. "O," said she, "Isn't that heavenly! I haven't heard a gospel hymn for years. Isn't radio a wonderful thing." Amos Keeter has just finished majority were with the Outing club in their usual Sunday picnic. This trip was to Doris lake in Custer County route taking them through Burwell, Taylor and Sargent. From Sargent a line of cars carrying the members of the Outing club with their mother south of Ord, home. Her mother is much better.

Other Sunday activities were Frank Holden, wife and children to Mark Bodyfield, Lloyd Hicks to bring Mrs. Ackles who had been staying with her mother south of Ord, home. Sunday school is dwindling somewhat in attendance, twenty four being reported present Sunday. Gladys Flock had to return home from Kearney two weeks before the end of the term on account of taking the measles while there. She is making up the balance of the terms work at home.

NORTH LOUP

By Maude Conway

Opal Eyerly who has been visiting in Coteville returned home Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Robinson left Wednesday morning for an auto trip thru the east.

Lucy Miller spent the latter part of last week with the Harvey Friend family at Ord.

Myra Thorngate who had been visiting in Lincoln came home Monday and is back in the Loyalist office again. She came by auto with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Clement, who were coming to Grand Island and came on up here to see relatives. They planned to drive back to Grand Island Tuesday morning but on account of the rain Mrs. Clement went back on the train and her husband drove back the next morning.

Mrs. H. W. H. Marks went to Ord Tuesday evening to visit her children.

Mrs. Jessie Barnett was an incoming passenger Tuesday evening. One of North Loup's oldest business men, both in age and in the number of years in business, has retired. George Worth, for years known to everyone as "Dad" Worth sold his restaurant to Charlie Williams who will employ Vol Earnest to take charge of it until he finishes his work at painting.

W. E. Burrows and family of Lewiston, Montana are visiting at the Thomas home. They came Saturday and are visiting their relatives here and other places in Nebraska.

Seventh Day Baptist Church

Rev. Scamdt filled the pulpit last Sabbath in the absence of Pastor Polan.

Sabbath School picnic was held at the Babcock place Sunday.

Sunday night was the regular business meeting of the Christian Endeavor.

Vesper Services this week will be in charge of Albert and Jessie Babcock. Everyone is invited to attend these services.

M. E. Church Notes

The Epworth League held a very enjoyable social at the home of Miss Nettie Clark last Friday evening. The girls who were delegates to the Institute at Camp Sheldon introduced several new games which were played on the lawn. After a short business meeting and a delicious lunch the young people sang until it was time to go home.

Rev. and Mrs. K. H. Clifton and Eugene drove to Curtis on Monday of last week returning Friday. They went to take Rev. Clifton's mother who has been visiting here for a couple of months, to her home. On the return trip they were accompanied by Miss Phelps of Holdrege, who will visit them for a few days.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society are meeting this week with Mrs. A. H. Jackson for an all day meeting. They will pack a Christmas box for the foreign field at this meeting.

Our Sunday school attendance last week was good but we wish it might reach the 150 mark next week and that all who possibly can would stay to the preaching service

Rev. Clifton gave a very interesting and helpful sermon last Sunday morning and in the evening. W. E. Burrows of Lewiston, Mont. spoke. He told of his work at Sunday School Missionary in Montana. Dorothy Bohrer, who has been in Lincoln for several weeks, is giving a party for her Sunday school class Thursday afternoon on the lawn at her home. This is one of the largest classes in the Sunday school and has been very efficiently taught by Miss Lola Sample during Miss Bohrer's absence. However the class is glad to have their teacher at home again.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Rumsell are two more of our Sunday School workers who were back last Sunday after several weeks vacation in Iowa. Mrs. Florence Smith came from Grand Island Thursday evening where she had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ed Simpson.

Howard Preston was an incoming passenger Thursday evening. The Lollipop club met with Louise Hutchins Wednesday evening for a picnic supper. There was quite a crowd and everyone enjoyed a good time besides the splendid picnic supper.

Dr. Hemphill went to Omaha Tuesday afternoon after his new car. Mr. and Mrs. Grover Barnhart and family went to Omaha Monday afternoon. They accompanied cattle and will visit at the Siberson home.

Mrs. Leo Wolf from Still City is visiting Mrs. Clyde Currie of North Ord.

Mrs. I. A. Manchester went to Ord Monday evening to visit at the S. J. W. Brown home and attend Chautauqua.

Mary Davis and her mother left on Sunday for Milton, Wis. They expect to visit a while before attending the general S. D. B. conference.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Manning of Grand Island visited at the Shultz home Sunday.

Dorothy Bohrer who has been pending most of the summer in Lincoln came home Sunday.

Gladya Hutchins had her tonsils removed last Monday at Hillcrest sanitarium at Ord by Dr. Hemphill. Although she was quite ill for a few days she is improving now.

Mrs. Frank Holman spent the latter part of last week with her mother, Mrs. W. W. LeBarrow of Ord.

Doc Rubel who has been running the Holman dray has quit and left for his home at Merna. Tuesday morning his brother came up for him. Earl Smith is now running the dray.

Mrs. Stella Parsons went to Ord on Thursday evening to visit with Mrs. M. Flynn. Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Milt Earnest drove up and brought her home.

C. C. Shultz and wife of Santa Ana, Calif. are visiting at the Will Shultz home. They came Saturday night.

Mrs. Matt Brown who has been at North Loup went to Ord the latter part of last week where her two sons live and where she spends a good deal of her time.

The M. E. Epworth League held their monthly social at the home of little Clark on the lawn. Along with the many games appropriate for the age they enjoyed Victrola music, lunch and wafers were served for refreshments.

Reva Currie drove Eyerley's car to Arcadia last Wednesday and brought Opal and her niece Lots Springer who had been visiting.

Tom Big Springs Tuesday afternoon where they have been in the interest of his wheat crop.

RIVERDALE

Claude Thomas and Charlie Williams were painting at Edwin Shudels in Mira Valley last week. This week they are doing the inside of the Farmer's State Bank.

George Bartz and wife and John Kriewald and wife spent Sunday at the river.

Jenkins will meet the 5 o'clock train tonight (Wednesday) to meet two daughters, Mrs. Gail Krievanek and Mrs. Ella Cook, whose homes are at Twin Falls, Idaho. The ladies will stay for a short visit.

Florence Wilmer of Stanton, Neb. is the guest of Margaret Shudel. She came Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bartz and family were guests at Herman Schoenings Saturday night and Sunday.

Sunday night Mrs. Rozella Barrows and children, who are guests of their relatives, the Thomases, came to Ord. They are including Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and Miss Maud and Jessie went for a picnic up on Jim Banta's place.

Mr. and Mrs. Mart Hish and baby, two of the Worrell young people, Veltano and Wlad Arnold were entertained at Ed Hishes.

Jenkins have an abundance of choke cherries this year. They are selling them at 30c per gallon and seem to be finding a ready market for all they can pick.

Viola and Marie Thomas drove to Scotia Wednesday evening to attend chautauqua.

The Kirk family spent Sunday at the Cross home in North Loup. Gus Wetzel has some lovely home grown cabbage which he is selling at 3c per pound. He has a truck farm that is well worth driving out to look at. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wetzel have put in a great deal of time and painstaking work to make their enterprise successful.

Mrs. C. V. Thomas is expected home from her eastern trip this (Wednesday) evening.

The American Legion had their big doings Monday evening. They had a very good entertainment, the main feature of which was a mock wedding. Alice Thorngate was the bride, Birdie Marie Rood the groom, Gertrude Hemphill, best man, Kate Babcock bridesmaid, Elsie Rood, mother, Myra Thorngate, father, Eugene Rood, flower girl, Katherine Chadwick, train bearer, Margaret Clark, ring bearer, and Paul Jones minister. All played the wedding march on kazooes, the flower girl carried a small sack of Gooch's Best flour, the train bearer a toy locomotive, the ring bearer a jar ring on a pillow, etc. Of course it was heaps of fun. Mrs. W. Van Horn, Mrs. Birdie Marie Rood and Miss Elsie Rood served sandwiches, coffee and pie.

Our community received between three and four inches of rain Monday night which was splendid for corn but might have spoiled the grain and mowed hay. This average is just a little better than the first. Maude Conway, Hannibal Sample and the Wright family enjoyed a picnic supper a few miles out of Ord and later took a stroll through the beautiful park. Sunday evening

GOODENOW
(By Maude Goodenow)

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Carpenter of Marion, Iowa, are at Burwell visiting Mrs. Carpenter's father, J. L. Jenkins and a sister, Mrs. Carl Grunkemeyer. Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Grunkemeyer and their visitors called at the Goodenow home.

Thursday evening Mrs. M. B. Goodenow was a passenger to Burwell where she attended a meeting of the O. E. S., then remaining a day or two as the guest of Miss Margaret Barr.

Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyer and children left via automobile route for a visit at the home of Mrs. Meyers parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kingsbury at Morningville, Iowa. They also expect to make a stop at Lincoln, Nebraska where they will visit relatives, the Tully family.

Sunday Claude Kennedy with Mr. and Mrs. Goodenow and Maude and Miss Tillie Gross took their lunch and motored to Jenners Park at Loup City. The roads for a few miles between Ord and the park are rather rough, showing signs of recent rains. Crops along the way for the most part are splendid. Wheat either in the stack or in shocks make a good showing and it looks as if the yield would be unusually good. No threshing has been done so far as we could notice. The majority of the corn is tasseling out evenly. It is showing no lack of grain. In this we score a little higher on percentage of pasturage and cattle than the middle Loupers so far as were able to judge from the road way. We were rather surprised to find Henry Helecamp and Mr. Carricker and their wives and Mrs. Carricker. Their party consisted of 26 persons but those mentioned were the only ones we met. They are from Pleasant Valley, a few miles northwest of Burwell. Mr. Helecamp said his boys were at the park a short time ago and insisted on other members of the family taking in the sights, which they did feeling quite satisfied with the result.

Claude Kennedy and his party stopped in Ord Sunday evening and called on Ralph Haas at the Ord Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Haas are the parents of down from Burwell and were there at the same time. Mr. Haas appreciates his many callers and the flowers sent.

Stanley Mitchell left for Chicago Sunday and will take a three months course at the undertaking and embalming school of instruction. In the meantime his wife will visit for a time with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Horner of near North Loup.

When the circus passed on the way to Burwell Thursday night or rather Friday morning, the arrival made a hit with the dogs at the oodowen farm and they did an awakening bark until we paraded out to make sure it was nothing more important than a circus train. Among the Indians one spotted Claude Kennedy. He said "I saw you at Witten, S. D." The Indiana name was Stewart. Claude remembered his sister well as she was often to Witten and married an Indian by the name of Yellow Fox. The remembering of faces once seen is characteristic of the Indian.

Doris Alderman of Burwell is spending a few weeks at Fortorton. She went over to B. & Q. Dr. Jergerson met her at Palmer and it is at his home she will visit.

Kenneth Detmar and wife were visiting at the Fred Richey home a few days ago.

Phyllis and Helen Richey of Burwell came out to the Fred Meyer home to spend the day and with the operations of a threshing machine. They are the daughters of the dentist, Dr. Ritchy.

Two threshing machines in the neighborhood at the same time causing shortage of help, Tom Clark of Burwell, an old timer in Nebraska, is looking after the indoor work for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyer while they are away for a couple of weeks.

CAMP LIFE

A Fine Word Picture of Boy Scout Life at Camp Say Ling During 10 Days Outing.

Editors Note—This fine article was intended for last week but arrived Thursday evening.

Camp Say Ling, Cushing, Neb. This camp is located about three quarters of a mile from Cushing, on Spring Creek about a mile north of the Loup River. We arrived at camp Sunday where the tents had already been set up by a detail that came out from Grand Island on Saturday, and we reported first at the Camp Headquarters tent and were checked in and assigned to our tents. We have eighteen tents for the Scouts, Headquarters tent, Doctors tent, Officers tent and Canteen tent, where we buy our candy, etc. The Canteen tent is only open from 1:00 to 2:00 P. M. and 7:00 to 8:00 P. M. and we are only allowed to spend 10 cents a day for candy as they don't want us to get sick on candy. We also have a cook shack and dining hall to seat 100 boys.

Each tent is in charge of a tent leader, who is generally the ranking scout of the tent, where ever it is possible, and he reports for the tent on all formations and goes to the headquarters tent and reports all of the boys in after taps every night. The tent leaders from Ord are Rex Jewett, Bill Shepard, Chancy Hager, and George Rounds. Chancy Hager is also the camp bugler.

Monday night we had an awful rain storm and the rain came down in torrents but we had our tents all pitched good and no one suffered much with the dampness. We took our bedding, and ticks, and on the next day and aired and sunned them and everything is O. K. again. Nobody slept a whole lot during the storm, but we kept up our spirits by singing "It ain't goin' rain any more". But you can bet that we slept good last night and we were all in favor of throwing Bugler Hager in the river this morning when he blew the bugle to get us out of bed.

Every day 12 of the scouts are detailed for kitchen police. A scout is in charge as Head "K. P." and he details the work to the different squads for the cook.

In the morning at 6:30 Reveille is blown by Bugler Hager and we all pile out and get dressed so that we are ready to fall in at the next call in 15 minutes. At 6:45 we have waking up exercises by Executive Curzon. 7:00 breakfast. We all stand out in front of our tents and have our dishes inspected and then we march past the cook shack and get our eats (cafeteria style) and go into the dining hall where we eat. We all must have our dishes clean before we eat or we have to go and wash them and then our tent would get a poor rating for our stripes on the Totem Pole.

7:30 we have flax raisin exercise. 8:00 sick call. We have a doctor in camp all the time. A new one comes up from Grand Island every day and relieves the one who is already here. At 8:15 our tents are inspected and graded on their appearance and we get a stripe on our Totem Pole for this. (Some times it is not so good). At 9:00 we have scout's instruction in all phases. 11:30 relief 12:00 dinner. 1:00 quiet hour. 2:00 signalling instruction by Mr. Harrison and Mr. Curzon. 2:30 more scout's instruction and at 3:30 we have the period

COZAD MERCHANT TELLS HOW BUSINESS GREW

Chicago, Ill., July 30.—Speaking today before the Interstate Merchants' council, Fred W. Anderson, department store owner of Cozad, Nebraska, discussing the subject, "How we built a $300,000 business in a town of 1,300," recalled that when business was slack in his career, he would go out and build a postoffice or otherwise bestir himself.

"We let all organizations hold sales in our store any time they want to," said Mr. Anderson in explaining how he runs his business in Cozad.

"We invite country boys to leave their lunches at our store and come there and eat them.

"Our town has a league baseball team. We own it.

"We listen to traveling men's stories. We aren't too good to talk to anybody.

"We give free picture shows. The show costs us thirty-five dollars and brings in $100 in business.

"We support our newspaper. We don't run the same advertisement twice."—Elm Creek Beacon.

GREELEY COUNTY TO HAVE A REAL COUNTY AGENT

A petition has been circulated in Greeley county and a lot more than the required number of farmers have signed it, to give them a county agent. Our neighbor on the east is sure taking many signs of life and action this year. First, they started a vigorous road improvement campaign and they are pushing it to the limit. Then they started a law enforcement campaign and that is being pushed. Greeley county has born the reputation of being a bit lax in law enforcement, especially as to the have realized that they were wrong. Now they are going to have a County Agent.

THINKS POLITICS FUNNY

A recent issue of the World-Herald contained a long article about good crops, good prices, and other favorable indications and wound up by saying that we are sure to have prosperity. At the same time, in the editorial page, there was another article telling how the rascally republicans had ruined everything and intimating that unless the democrats are again given control everything will go to the dogs. Ain't politics funny.—Ole Buck.

HAIL BREAKS HOLES IN ROOF

Joe Holoun was in from the western part of the county last Friday and told us about the hail storm which visited his neighborhood Wednesday night, or rather, early Thursday morning, for it was about 3 a. m. when the first chunk of ice crashed through a shingle roof on a rather flat part of a house. Joe says there was no wind with the storm and very little damage was done to crops in his part of the county. Further north there was serious damage to crops. While in the office Mr. Holoun ordered the Quiz sent to his son-in-law, Joe Cech, for a year.

BURLINGTON EQUALIZES RATES

Effective with Sunday of this week, the Burlington railroad has equalized freight rates on stock from non-competitive points in this part of the state, with the other roads.

that we have been waiting for all day. This is the swimming period. We swim by the "Buddy" system and each boy has a buddy and they swim together all the time and every Buddy must know where his buddy is all the time and we are checked in and out of swimmin' by Buddies. This is sure a good system and the officers are able to keep a check on everybody in this way. 5:00 games are played. 6:00 supper. 6:45 idle hour. 7:45 we have our council ceremony. We all like this fine. We have a big Council Ring built right in the center of the camp. It is constructed of limbs of trees and has no nails in it. It is fastened together by strips of bark. No one is ever allowed in the Council ring during the day. It is sacred ground in our camp. We put blankets around us and walks slowly into the ring behind the officers. No one speaks a word from the time we start to march to the ring until after a fire is made by the Chief (Curzon). He makes the fire with a "fire by friction" set, and as he gets the embers to burst into a blaze we all give the Indian sign for approval "How". He then takes a report from each tent leader, who stands up and reports the tent, the animal it stands for and gives the animal yell. We then have stories, games and songs and have a big time until the end of the ceremony. When we all file out silently to our tents. It is very impressive and I wish the folks could see this. We are going to have a big ceremony Thursday night and every tent is going to have a tent yell and song and hunt and we are working hard to have the best stunt that night as we get a big stripe on our Totem pole for the best stunt.

DOESN'T ANYBODY HERE KNOW POOR OLD RIP?

"AS A MAN THINKETH" SAYS RAILROADS WATER STOCK

(By H. J. Leggett)

This morning my vis-a-vis at breakfast was a large rather than some man, with one exception—his otherwise fine face was disfigured by a scowl which bore the marks of permanency. The cause was not far to seek—he believed he had indigestion and nerves. Of this he was so positive that I should have leaped from his pocket a little tin box, and from it there popped into his mouth two brown digestive tablets, and these were followed by another glass of ice water. In the meantime he drummed on the table with his fingers and glared about him as if to say "I should have business how I do it!" At this juncture the waiter came with our breakfast and for five minutes this neurotic gentleman aided by knife, fork, and spoon, gave a gastronomic exhibition which for its lightning-like rapidity of thrusting victuals into obscurity, I have never seen excelled. It was admirable in its artistic skill, deftness, celerity, and perfect quiet. He glanced at the bill, laid down something too much, and was gone. Now what was wrong? Well, all of this exhibition, this part. This man was not a good body builder. His thinking was wrong. He was suspicious of his digestive apparatus. He believed in "Nerves" and so he had them and he did not eat—he simply fed. His was not a rare case, there are many. He had become the victim of his haste and his fear, both curable. In his fear he was like Job who said "The thing I greatly feared has come upon me." Better the word of the other man "Be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind." Both words bring the result but the results of the second are easier to line with. Man follows his thought, he can do no other way. Weak thoughts build an inefficient body, an indecisive character. Strong positive thoughts build just the reverse. Jesus of Nazareth never uttered a negative thought. His word was always positive. "I am the Way, the Truth, the Life." "I am the Resurrection and the Life." "And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me." "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." The truth that Jesus taught by both word and life is the fact of the all-presence of God, of His goodness, and His love. That truth accepted by man and woven into his life fabric has power to free him from any limitation whatsoever. That truth shall cause so-called physical ills to be unknown, lack to become plenty, in harmony and fear to vanish. Let man think true thoughts, constructive thoughts, thoughts which include the other fellow as well as himself. Then shall he sleep without nightmares, and need no digestive tablets to enable him to enjoy a breakfast.

THREE BANDS FOR THE FAIR

Three bands have been secured for the fair, those of Scotia, Burwell, and Sargent. No, they won't all be here on every day but one of them at least will be on hand every day. The dates are August 26, 27, 28, and 29. Tuesday is entry day when everything must be entered. Judging in all departments will start promptly at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning and as fast as it is completed the premium checks will be distributed and delivered. Every exhibitor will get his or her money by the fair's close. Write Fair Secretary, Ord, for names and stall numbers that will be saved for you.

CRAB APPLE TREE NEARLY FIFTY YEARS OF AGE

It was 50 years ago that the father of H. H. Bailey set the first apple trees on his claim 3 miles north-east of Ord but the grasshoppers killed them that year. More trees were set out the following year, and among them some transplanted crabs, or 49 year ago and last Friday Mr. Bailey brought a branch of one of the crab trees to the Quiz office and it was loaded with fine fruit. These trees have born an abundance of fruit a majority of the years for a half century and give promise of going on in the same way for many years longer.

For a long time the Haldeman corner north of the Presbyterian church has been anything but a place of beauty but improvements have been made in the dwelling and a coat of paint is being administered both inside and out, which will be a great improvement. Some miscreant slipped in the other day and ruthlessly mowed down the large palms that were growing in the garden on the corner and he should be apprehended and justice dealt out to him.

SHOT REMOVED AFTER 34 YEARS

Thirty four years ago, while playing with her brother in her childhood home at Mount Union, Penn., Mrs. Wm. Wood was shot with an air rifle, the shots going into the end of her tongue. The shot was not taken out at the time, but remained there all these years, until just this week, Mrs. Wood, who is visiting here with Mrs. Henry Paez, went to Dr. Billings and had the shot cut out of her tongue, together with a small pebble about the size of a BB shot, which was also in her tongue, although she did not know the pebble was there. It is supposed that her brother had picked up pebbles and put in the rifle in place of shot and one of these had also lodged in her tongue when the air gun was fired.

Mrs. Wood says she intends to keep the BB shot and pebble as souvenirs, as she has had them in her possession 34 years and intends to keep them the balance of her life.—Constock News.

ISSUING FAIR PREMIUM LIST

Valley county newspapers have united this week in issuing a special Fair Premium List edition and everyone getting the Loyalist, Journal, or Quiz, will get the complete premium list. We want to call special attention to the advertising in this section. These advertisers are all boosters for the fair. Heretofore it has been the custom to sell the advertising in the premium book but this year we are selling the advertising in this section and circulating it all over the county. The editors all co-operate in that end. Better preserve this 4-page section till after the fair. Write secretary, Ord, for such pens, stalls or space in the various halls as you may need.

CAR PILFERED AT GREELEY

A party of Ord young people drove to Greeley last Thursday evening to attend a dance and the girls left their hats in the car, which was parked right in front of the dance hall. One of the girls also left a small hand bag with the usual trinkets a girl carries and a few dollars in money, in the car. When they started home the hats and hand bag were gone, a loss of about fifteen dollars. One of the girls lost a hat there in the same way some months ago and this particular bunch of young people, who have visited Greeley regularly, say it is their last trip there, as they would expect to have their car stolen next and don't care to take the chance. It would be well for the Greeley authorities to start an investigation and clean up their bunch of sneak thieves, for otherwise, people will quit visiting the town.

The exchanges that come to the Quiz desk tell of graveling of the roads all over the state. A letter from Harry Williams, who drove last week, to Colorado, says they drove over newly gravelled roads much of the way and that he was reminded of Minnesota roads. From the Hartington Herald we learn that Cedar county, where Hartington is situated and where Ernest S. Coats and all his trite came from, has just let a contract to gravel a highway across the county and the contractor is hiring two shifts of men to run the trucks and is going to run each shift 10 hours, making 20 hours a day that the trucks will be doing duty. The object is to get the job done as soon as possible and give time to get the new gravelled roads in shape for winter. Nebraska gravelled roads are coming rapidly and the more people who drive to other states where they have gravelled roads and consequently "good roads the year around, the more the demand is going to be for them and of course here. There is plenty of gravel in Valley county, once the determination comes to use it on the roads. It will cost something to put it on but the upkeep will be much less than under present methods.

ADAM McMULLEN MAKES STATEMENT

Adam McMullen was born on a farm in New York state. He is of Scotch parentage and has lived in Nebraska since childhood. He entered the state university during the hard times of the early nineties and by working at any odd jobs he could find such as janitor of doctors' and lawyers' offices, caretaker of furnaces, printer on a farm journal, manager of a students' boarding club, and finally newspaper reporter, he earned his way through and graduated in the class of 1896. Later he graduated from the Columbia Law College, attending classes in the evening and working during the day. He practiced law at Wymore, where he was mayor and also president of the school board. For the past fourteen years he has devoted his time to extensive farming operations.

During the world war Mr. McMullen offered his services to the government and was stationed at Camp Meigs, Maryland. Mr. McMullen has served three terms in the state legislature, twice in the house during the sessions of 1905 and 1907 and once in the senate, session of 1917, where he represented Gage and Pawnee counties. In the session of 1907 Mr. McMullen took a leading part in moulding some of the most progressive legislation ever put on the state statutes. He was the first to introduce a direct primary bill and was chairman of the joint house and senate committee that drafted the present law. He was author of the precinct assessor's bill; also author of the present law providing for the city manager form of government. He introduced and supported many measures improving the conditions of the farmer and laboring man. He was author of the employers' liability bill, the first law of its kind passed by any state legislature. He supported the two-cent fare bill, the anti-pass law and the railway commission bill.

Mr. McMullen is a member of the Episcopal church, of this city, and has always taken an active part in any movement advancing the moral and material well-being of the community and state.—Beatrice Express.

Adam McMullen's Statement

"Our state government is a huge business institution. We are all directly interested in having its various departments managed in an economical way, because, as citizens and taxpayers, we must furnish every cent of the money that is paid out for their support.

I have always held the belief that the same fundamental rules of economy that apply to private business should be faithfully followed in connection with public business.

The only way we can save money as individuals is by spending less than we make, and the only way the state government can hold taxes down to a reasonable figure is by making every tax dollar that is expended for public service, purchase 100 cents worth of value.

If elected to the office of governor, my policy of action will embrace the foregoing principles, and I shall do my best to help administer the business of the state in an efficient and economical manner."

ORD MILL TO GIVE PRIZES

For many years it has been the custom of the Ord Milling company to give special premiums at the county fair and this practice will be continued this year. It hopes to see many more competitors for these prizes than have hereto taken part in the contest. Following are the prizes:

- Best loaf of bread from Big 4 flour $8.50
- Second best loaf from Big 4 flour $4.00
- Best loaf of bread from No. 1 flour $8.50
- Second best loaf from No. 1 flour $4.00

ORD MILLING COMPANY. 20-2t.

P. J. Melia of Ord was a Greeley visitor last Friday. He said wheat in the vicinity of Ord was yielding well. A neighbor, he said, had an average yield of about fifty bushels an acre from a field of sixty acres. —Greeley Citizen.

INVESTMENT

If you want a good, safe investment it will pay you to investigate this proposition.

THE TIME HAS COME when the heirs of the W. A. Wright estate desire to again get into business where they can be active in the management and for that reason they have decided to dispose of their interest in the Ord Milling Company, consisting of 53 shares of the incorporated stock of the company.

This stock has paid good dividends and is without a doubt as good a proposition for an investment of this nature, as can be found anywhere. Any one interested will do well to look into this matter at once.

A ORD ABOUT LAND

TO THE BUYER,

Every thing points to an advance in price of land. If you are in the market for a farm don't hesitate, buy now before the raise. I have some real bargains.

TO THE SELLER,

I am receiving a good many inquiries about land, and have some real buyers in sight. If you really want to sell list your property with me.

AUGUST PETERSON, Superintendent

Lot 8—Hogs, Each Breed

All animals must be recorded or out of recorded sires and dams. All boars over six months shall have their tusks removed before shown. Pigs farrowed as property of exhibitor may be shown as bred by exhibitor. Any intentional misstatement of age by an exhibitor will automatically disqualify his entries. All aged boars and sows must have produced living offspring within twelve months preceding the show. There is to be no competition between breeds.

To each premium number there must be two or more exhibitors to constitute competition. When there is no competition second money only will be paid. The Board does not feel justified in paying liberal cash premiums unless there is fair competition. It desires to encourage competition believing that greater benefits will be derived therefrom.

Aged animals must have been farrowed before September 1, 1921. Senior yearlings must have been farrowed on or after September 1st, 1922, and before March 1st, 1923.

Junior yearlings must have been farrowed on or after March 1st, 1923, and before September 1st, 1923.

Senior pigs must have been farrowed on or after September 1st, 1923, and before March 1st, 1924.

Junior pigs must have been farrowed on or after March 1, 1924. Old herds must consist of boar and 3 sows farrowed before September 1st, 1923.

Young herds must consist of boar and 3 sows farrowed on or after September 1, 1923.

Get of sire must consist of four animals, any age by one boar. Produce of dam must consist of 4 animals any age produced by one sow.

Senior champion boar or sow must have been farrowed on or after September 1, 1923.

CHAUTAUQUA

The officers of the Ord Chautauqua association, the guarantors of the 1924 Chautauqua and others interested in having a Chautauqua in 1925, met at the club rooms last Thursday afternoon and after considerable discussion and some ill feeling, voted not to accept the Redpath-Horner contract as presented.

Then in the evening the platform manager put the matter of next year Chautauqua up to the large crowd that was out to hear the band and voted them of course in favor of having the premier Redpath-Horner Chautauqua next year. She cleverly played on their feelings by asking them if they wanted to be in the class with Comstock, Sargent, and Arcadia, who have the Pioneer Redpath-Horner program which is a 7-day program. She said of course the numbers on the smaller program would not be nearly as good and she indicated that they would be slightly poor and of course no one voted to have the cheaper Chautauqua.

The platform manager was unfair to say the least, in that she didn't include Loup City, a neighboring county seat town in the list that had contracted for the Pioneer program next year. She was unfair in that she didn't explain to the people present, that the Premier program is to be out next year to a 6-day Chautauqua instead of a 7-day Chautauqua as it is this year and that at the same time the price is being raised to $1,600; which is one hundred dollars more than this year. She said that she had never cut the price and never would, but had she wanted to go into the matter of price and at the same time be fair, she should have told the large audience that the Redpath-Horner people had cut the price on their Pioneer program for next year, for she knew that to be a fact.

The platform manager of this year and the Kansas City hog buyer whom Redpath-Horner sent to Ord to help browbeat Ord citizens into signing a contract for the Premier program for 1925 at a hundred dollars more for a 6-day Chautauqua than was paid them this year for a 7-day program, were actually insulting. They indicated that the committee had laid down on the job this year and said if they had got busy they could have put the guarantee over. As a matter of fact the committee has come a couple of hundred dollars nearer putting it over this year than last, which is accounted for, perhaps, by the slightly improved conditions at this time. Six weeks earlier this year, it would have been much harder to do what was done. The committee this year has done exceptionally well. They have worked early and late.

Now the writer believes that under present conditions the Pioneer program is plenty good enough for Ord, especially with something like seven hundred dollars between that and the Premier program. Ord is a little larger than Arcadia, Comstock and Sargent, that is true, but it is made up of the same kind of people and if the Pioneer program is good enough for them, why, it is plenty good enough for us. The writer didn't vote that way when the platform manager voted the audience last Thursday night because he knew what the facts were and most of the audience didn't. They were enjoying the fine band music, they were enthusiastic for Chautauqua and of course they voted for the Premier program. It was intermission, they had just listened to a lot of fine music and they had just been told that there would be no band on the Pioneer program. They were not told that there would be no band on the Premier circuit next year either, for the reason that the Redpath-Horner people can't afford the expense of bringing a band every year. The platform manager knew that for she told the committee so. No, she was not trying to be fair and honest with her audience. She was licked in trying to force the Ord people to buy something they didn't want. She said she wouldn't sell us the cheaper program but she or her hog buyer salesman from Kansas City, at once wired headquarters to ask if they should do so and as this is written the answer has not come back. We are hazzarding a guess however, that Ord will get the Pioneer program if they want it. It is easy to vote a large audience when the person putting the vote over, has the setting of the stage. It would have been just as easy for Rev. Brill to get up and with a short explanation which he could have made, vote the same audience the other way, after the lady had her vote. It is the committee of 30 or 40 or perhaps 50 Ord business men who have to get out and sell the tickets, who should have the say of what shall be done. Many of the audience last Thursday evening, who voted so enthusiastically for the Premier circuit, were attending Chautauqua for the first time this year, that evening. Ninety-nine out of a hundred of the others hadn't done a bit of the work incident to putting it over and didn't know a thing about the contract, price, terms or anything else and how could they vote intelligently. They couldn't and most of them would have voted differently had they been informed. We hope Ord will have a Chautauqua next year and we believe it will and there are several others besides the Redpath-Horner, if they don't want to sell us what we want. We do want to ask the people, however, to reserve their judgment until they are in possession of all the facts.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

It is pretty generally conceded that there is a tendency on the part of the people generally not to obey the laws. In other words the people seem to have formed the idea that they were a law unto themselves and they have been allowed to violate the laws so long without being taken to task about it, that they seem to think they can continue along the same lines indefinitely.

There is a law against Sunday dances and while the writer believes in properly conducted dances, we believe there are enough days in the week for dancing without holding dances on Sunday and we have no patience with those people who will give an alleged concert Sunday night till just the midnight hour and then start dancing. Young people who attend these dances, probably for the most part, do so without giving the matter much thought but they are sure laying up trouble for themselves in doing so. It is all wrong, in the first place, to stay up that late to dance and it is sure wrong to connive in that way to violate the intent and spirit of the law, even if technically they can get by with it.

Then there is the automobile laws. They have been violated so flagrantly in Ord that the officers are now trying a new scheme and whether or not it is a success, depends upon whether it is enforced or not. If the officers will actually enforce the new methods adopted, of tagging all offenders, starting on some of the worst in Ord instead of some corner fellow who at most violates the laws occasionally instead of every day, then there will be some good results. It will be well for auto drivers to watch their step.

Prohibition officers in Omaha have adopted a new scheme for the handling of bootleggers. Heretofore when a man was arrested, convicted and called for bootlegging, he knew that his family would be well cared for and he had no compunction about "laying it out" if he was convicted. From now on, when a bootlegger is convicted and sent to jail his children are to be cared for in a home and his wife is to be put on her own resources for making a living and it is likely men will be less likely to engage in law violations when they know their homes are going to be broken up and their children sent to a reformatory. Progress is being made all over the nation in the enforcement of prohibition laws and new and more drastic methods are all the time being put into effect to that end.

STOP WASTING FUEL

WEIR

Moist Warm Air Furnaces

Savestons of coal because every heat unit is extracted from the fuel that they burn.

The patented Weir fire pot mixes superheated air with the fuel gases, consuming all the unburned substance which ordinarily passes up the chimney as smoke and soot.

WEIR heat is healthful heat. The improved water pan gives off sufficient moisture to the air, relieving it of the harshness and dryness which physicians say cause so many of the winter coughs and colds.

WEIRs are quiet and soot-free. No blackened walls, paper and ill-smelling houses where they are used. Easier to operate. First cost is last cost.

Come in today and let us point out the WEIR many features. Examine it for yourself. You'll like the way it's built.

We will be glad to give you an estimate of the cost of putting one in your home.

God gave her. The next day she was there, too, but she had it bobbed.

An Ord woman bought a thermometer at the Kokes hardware the other day and then asked the clerk to set it at 65, saying that was the temperature she desired to keep her room at.

Col. Weller handed in the following little poem which he said he would like to have printed this week:

I stood on the bridge at midnight,
A beaver was damming the river,
And a guy with a broken radius rod
Was doing the same to his liver.

If bobbed hair hasn't served any other good purpose it has improved the language around the barber shops. It has, however, caused a lot of fellows to cuss when they looked down to see if there was a vacant chair in the shop and saw it full of girls awaiting their turn.

The joke is on some of the reporters who left Nebraska during June and July to avoid the hot weather of the summer.

W. A. Anderson is fighting mad because the Missus and I beat him about a week on sweet corn and ripe tomatoes this year.

It is not all the hard times that has caused a slump in Chautauqua interest. An ever increasing number of talking machines has brought high class music to the people and to that extent did away with the necessity for seeking that feature of Chautauqua. Then the radio has probably been an even bigger element in the same direction. Hundreds of people can sit in their own homes and get as good or better entertainment every day and night and all these things cut down the number of Chautauqua prospects.

Earl Sickels got a letter the other day from a customer over in the edge of Garfield county, who said, "I have ate three cans of your corn syrup and it has not helped my corns a bit."

An exchange says bobbed hair is passing. I'll say it is passing and it is stopping and coming n too and staying in, at that. Yes, it is passing more and faster than ever before.

An Ord man has filed a claim for damages with the company in which he carried accident insurance, because his mother-in-law came unexpectedly for a visit and it is liable to be an interesting case.

President Coolidge is going to get the surprise of his life this week.

ORD BOY SCOUTS

AT CAMP SAY LING

Each tent has the name of some animal and then we make a totem pole with a picture of the animal or one carved out of wood on the top of the pole. Some of the tents have some wonderful poles. We are rated in camp on our conduct, appearance, advancement in scouting, language, conduct in tents after taps, inspection of dishes, inspection of quarters, tent stunts, tent song, and tent yell, and we are awarded a stripe on our pole each day for these things. We get a blue strip for Excellent, Red for good, White for fair, Yellow for poor, and of course we are all striving to see who is going to get the most blue stripes on our pole each day and how few yellow ones we get. We stripped all the bark off of the poles and they look good out in front of the tent.

We have been a little handicapped so far on account of the weather but we are all working hard on scouting and we are all going to try to be first class scouts before we leave camp.

H. L. Davis Writes
Watsonville, Cal. July 20.

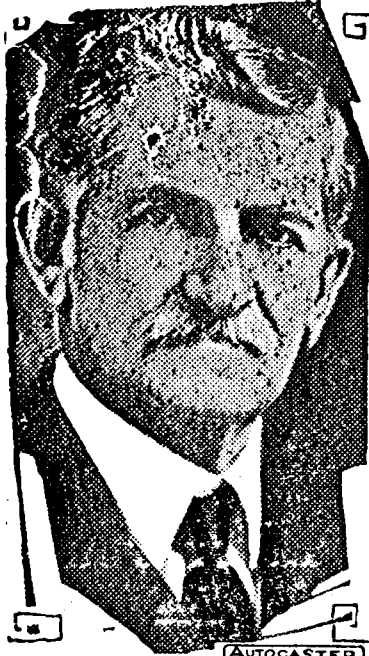

Dear friend Billy and wife:
I was surprised when I picked up your letter and saw it was just two months since you wrote it. How times does fly. It will be one year tomorrow since our sale. It doesn't seem possible. Yes, we enjoy California very much, especially the climate, plenty, fishing trips and last but not least the beaches, watching the bathers, all sizes, enjoying the salt plunges. The fruit is wonderful, doesn't taste like what we get there, you see we get it ripened on the tree instead of in the box it is shipped in. I am so full of figs now that I can hardly write, just came in from picking and eating all I could hold, from a tree in our back yard. Apricots back there don't taste any more like they do here than a raw potato tastes like a peach. Black loganberries in abundance have a different flavor altogether than what you get back there. Strawberries are much larger here but have the same watery flavor that the everbearing berries have there. We have moved again. We now have a nice 5-room cottage, with all modern conveniences, on a very pretty street. We have a roomer who pays enough for his room to feed us and I manage to do enough to pay the rent so we are living quite easily. Yes, my wife is still with me very much in evidence, especially when I want to go to the beach. I expect she will soon be bobbing her hair and will blossom out a real flapper yet. Her health is fine, haven't had what you could call a sick day since we have been in California. So you, as well as White, think I will do well to go into the Fallings class do you. Now I am not surprised at Bert White accusing me of telling big fish yarns because you know Bert would naturally be a little jealous of the wonderful fishing I am having here because his fishing is limited to feeding turtles off of the Willow Springs bridge, and occasionally landing a Carp that would weigh from one to one and a half pounds, but when he sees a real fish caught by a real fisherman it would naturally make him jealous, but you to accuse an old friend and a truthful one, of being eligible to enter Fallings class, I am surprised.

Bernice Mitchell was down to see us the 4th and expects to make us a visit before she goes back and while here we are going to take her fishing and I would give a lot to see her haul in one of the big ones. I suppose you folks are having plenty of hot weather there now. We don't know what a hot day is here, only one day that was a little warm. Cool nights make sleeping fine. Fern and Free are doing very nicely, live about one half block from us, so we see them every day. I wrote Garska to either rebuild the silo, or take it down if he didn't want to use it, but I haven't heard from him yet so don't know what he has done about it.

Now don't worry about Mrs. Davis for believe me she is very much in evidence, especially at times. Hope Mrs. Wright is feeling better. Be sure to give her our kindest regards. We think of both of you so often. Also tell the Goodenows's hello for us, also all our friends. Our new address is 23 1/2 Alexander St., Watsonville, California. Yours as ever,

Presidential Nominee On Dry Ticket

H. P. Faris, of Clinton, Mo., is the Presidential nominee named by the Prohibition Party Convention at Columbus, O. He is an ardent dry worker and several times been nominated for Governor of Missouri by his State Prohibition Party.

An authority says that Nebraska farms to the value of over ten million dollars have been sold in the last seven months of 1924, which indicates that we are slowly but surely coming back. Reasonable prices for farm produce will be the cause of many farm sales, even in Valley county, in the next few months, for there are men who have money and want to buy land, once they are convinced that the bottom has been reached. Some of them are waiting so long and will pay a premium, the first they know, for their delay.

Monday evening Jess, Alf and Joanna Muller, children of Mr. and Mrs. V. Muller came home from Kimball, Iowa, where they have been attending a Danish summer school. They were joined at Omaha by Eleanor and Wm. Christoferson who will spend several weeks with their relatives, the Muller family.

THERE are two ways to buy a mattress. First, you can buy just "a mattress," guessing blindly at its quality and ability to wear. Second, you can learn to know mattress value by name and always insist on having that particular brand. For instance, you know SQUARE BRAND mattresses are Better Mattresses because they represent the development that only years of exclusive mattress building experience can give. SQUARE BRAND mattresses have been manufactured for over 40 years.

Best materials, modern equipment and highest skilled workmen—these insure SQUARE BRAND mattress value.

FORTY YEARS AGO

(With apologies to the author)
I wandered through the court house yard
Today at half past ten;
I met the Valley County Board
And other business Men;
I met some men of prominence,
That we all love and know;
Who lacked ten years of being b. n.
Some forty years ago.

The courthouse yard is altered some,
A change which I regret.
But other generation come
And soon we all forget.
That edifice had seen its day
And it was doomed to go;
Yet it was in its infancy
Just forty years ago.

The rising generation comes
To view the town with pride;
The dear old landmarks, one by one,
Are rudely thrust aside.
The march of time we cannot stay,
These relics all must go;
And yet they all look bright and gay
Some forty years ago.

So, on a visit round the square,
I found old friends were few;
I saw their faces lined with care,
Their footsteps faltering, too;
And some have laid the burden down
Whom one I used to know;
Yet they were leaders in the town
Just forty years ago.

Turn backward in your memories
Unto that distant day;
The tiny school of yesterday,
With boys and girls at play;
Our city dads were tiny lads,
Had scarce begun to grow;
But most of them are now grand dads,
Since forty years ago.

And yet a few spots on the square
Familiar seemed to me;
I found Jim on the corner, where
His father used to be.
He's ageing, like the rest of men;
Gray hairs begin to show;
Yet he was just a boy of ten,
Some forty years ago.

And then, there is another one
I look for, as a rule;
I speak of Mr. Anderson,
Who taught me when in school
And should I lead in word or deed,
In ways of right and truth,
A certain need 'his, indeed,
Who taught me in my youth.

The court house square is filling up

With buildings neat and new;
For blocks of brick and stone have come,
And filling stations, too,
While on the busy streets, the cars
Go whipping to and fro;
A thing of which we never dreamed
Some forty years ago.

We do not go to see our friends
As once we used to do,
We call them on the telephone
And talk an hour or two

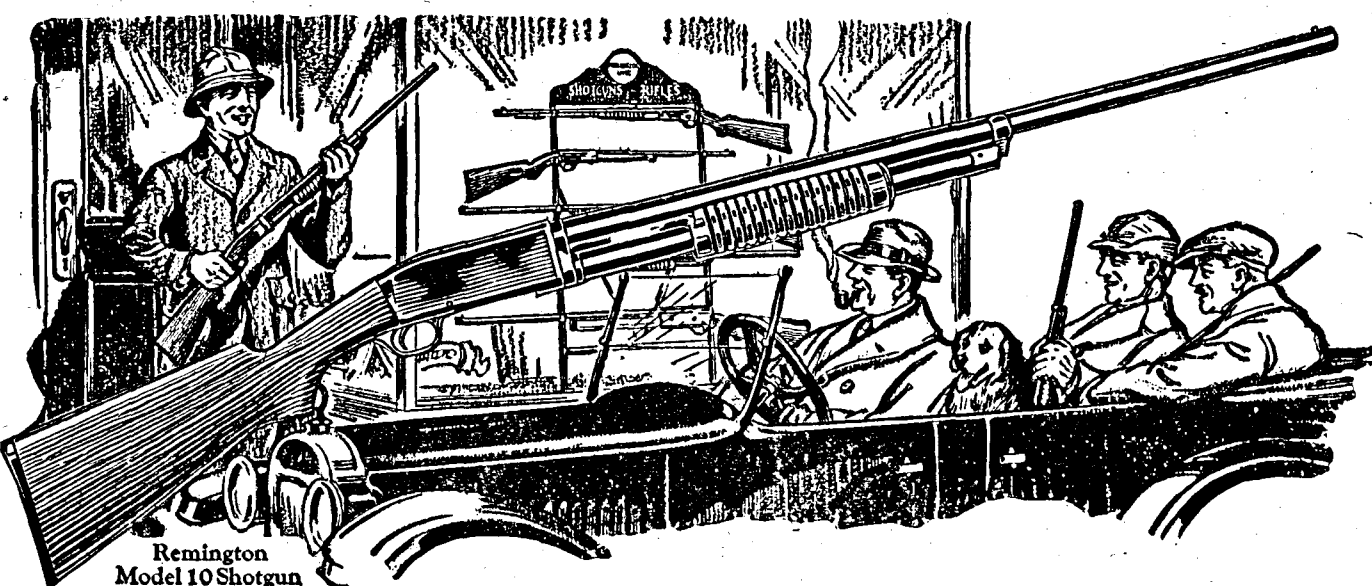

We do not go to concerts now,
We use the radio,
Whoever dreamed of all these things
Just forty years ago?

Thus every day its pleasure brings
Its share of care and sorrow;
The children of today will be
The leaders of tomorrow.
And you, on whom the flight of time
Has not begun to show,
Remember who were in their prime
Some forty years ago.

Ask Your Dealer to Show You the New Improved Remington Pump Gun

THE Remington Model 10 Pump Gun your dealer is showing now contains so many improvements over the original model produced in 1908 that the Remington Pump Gun of 1924 might almost be called an entirely new model.

Everybody remembers when Remington brought out the Remington Pump Gun—Model 10—the first solid breech, hammerless, repeating shotgun. This gun was an outstanding achievement.

But there has been a lot of new mechanical and gun-making knowledge accumulated since then. Remington has been improving this Model 10 right along.

And now with refinements and betterments you have a gun that is almost as far in advance of the old Remington Pump Gun as that gun was ahead of anything that was ever produced before.

See the New Improved Model 10. Note its balance and lines—its fine pointing quality—the quickness of hammer action that its design gives. Try it in the field. You will quickly see how far Remington has gone with the development of the Pump Gun.

If you are thinking about a new Rifle for big game—

See the Remington Model 14 Slide Action—the only fore-arm operated high-power rifle made. Gives six shots without reloading. Chambered for .25 Rem., .30 Rem., .32 Rem., and .35 Rem. Cartridges. A Remington Rifle with all the Remington quality and precision—and the Remington knowledge of what a fine arm ought to be.

NO CHAUTATQUA CONTRACT SIGNED

Whether or not Ord will have a Chautauqua next year, depends upon later developments, as the local committee was unable to get together with Miss Ritter, platform manager this year, and who was seeking to make a contract for next year. A majority of the committee and many other of the business men feel that the raising of the contract to a hundred dollars, $1600 while at the same time cutting the program to a six day program instead of seven, made it undesirable for Ord to make the necessary effort to put it over and that the five day program was best for Ord, at least for this year. Broken down, the county, two adjoining county seat towns, have the 5-day program, have had it for some years and are said to be pleased with it and it has been pretty hard to make the guarantee for the seven day program for the last two or three years. The committee feel, that a program costing six or seven hundred dollars less for only a day difference, will be lots easier to sell.

There was a movement started at the suggestion of leading business men to sell $100 of Chautauqua stock to each of 20 men and thus guarantee the proposition, leaving the 20 men to dispose of their $100 worth of tickets as best they could and that would be an ideal way to handle it, but the trouble was to find the 20 men. Some six or seven hundred dollar men were soon found and signed the contract but when the man who made the proposition declined to be a party to his own proposition, that gave the whole matter a chill and some who had already signed expressed the belief that the 5-day program would suit them better and the whole deal was called off.

The 5-day program can be bought for $1000 with a large tent like we had this year and anything realized over the $1000 will belong to the committee and that proposition appeals to a good many of the business men who will have to become responsible if we have a Chautauqua. In the mean time other Chautauqua propositions will be investigated and it is not likely that Ord will be without a Chautauqua next year. It is an institution we should have and if it were possible to put the Premier program over without so much effort we would all favor that one but the effort is too great for three or four men to undertake year after year.

This year the officers of the committee were forced to do most of the work. Messrs Brill, Auble and Weller were on the job early and late and the fact that the Chautauqua only went in the hole $35.00 this year was due to their efforts. They didn't lay down on the job as suggested by the platform manager and her assistant but they did heroic work, neglecting their own business for four days and spending practically all their time in putting the Chautauqua over, all without a cent of pay and with more or less criticism. The same thing happens every year, the committee works hard and gets cussed out for it by unthinking citizens who have done nothing more than buy a ticket, to further the enterprise. The community owes the 1924 Chautauqua committee a big vote of thanks for what they accomplished.

SMITHS ON THEIR WAY

A letter received this morning from Wesley Smith, says they are leaving Louisiana this week for some point in California and that as soon as they arrive there they will advise.

THE FARM BUREAU SECTION

LAFOLLETTE MEN TO MEET TUESDAY

There is to be a mass convention held in Grand Island next Tuesday, August 19 to nominate LaFollette and Wheeler to head the national ticket in Nebraska and every progressive interested in this ticket is urged to attend this important convention. It will be called to order at 1 p. m. It is necessary to take this action to get their names on the official ballot.

Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota is to be one of the main speakers at the Grand Island convention Tuesday and it is said that Robert LaFollette Jr. may also come to Nebraska for the meeting. The meeting is to be held in the Liederkranz hall. Reports from over the state, it is said, indicate that a crowd of at least 1000 people will go to the Island for the meeting.

OFF FOR EUROPE

Dr. F. A. Barta is to leave tomorrow for New York where he will board the ship for Vienna. It is his plan to put in several months studying and taking active practice in surgery of the eye, ear nose and throat, the practice that he specializes in. Dr. Read is looking after the practice of Dr. Barta during his absence.

Attend the Loup Valley Fair.

PUNCHOCAR-JONES

Anna Eleanor Punchocar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Punchocar of Ord and Frank Jones, son of Charles Jones of Greeley, were married at the Ord Catholic church by Rev. Father M. A. Lawler A. 5:30 Monday morning. Emily Punchocar, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Victor McBeth was best man.

A delicious breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents immediately after the ceremony, neighbors and close friends of the bride and groom being the guests. Both of these young people are well known in Ord and vicinity and the bride has lived here all of her life and they begin life together with the hearty good wishes of a host of friends. They left on the early morning train for Omaha where the groom has a good position.

ASSAULT CASE DISMISSED

On August 11, a complaint was made by H. Koch, alleging that Roy Archer had assaulted him and a warrant was issued. Hearing was held on August 12, and the court found the evidence insufficient to establish the guilt of the defendant. The case was dismissed at the costs of complainant.

WATCH THE CLOCK STOP

"Who will hold the lucky number and get the big clock" is the all absorbing question at the Kokes hardware store. Tickets have been given on sales and the one who holds the number bearing the time on which the big clock stops, will be given the clock. Watch the clock stop. 20-11 Mr. Kokes tells us that his aluminum sale went over big last Saturday. The selling was fast and furious and the stock was almost taken during the afternoon.

FAIR PROGRAM NEARLY COMPLETE

The Fair Program is About Completed and Fair Patrons are Assured of More than Money's Worth this Year.

Cleg Hughes and a helper were busy yesterday and are out again today, putting up advertising for the county fair. A meeting to be held this evening, looking to making arrangements for a booster trip some time next week, advertising the fair and everything indicates the best fair in several years.

A feature of the fair-exhibits this year will be the large display which the women's clubs will make in the art hall. There are fourteen of these clubs and it is their plan to all have exhibits. Another feature is the team which each club will have at the hall to put on a demonstration.

Judges have been arranged for in every department and from the way stalls and pens are being spoken for we are expecting to have a better stock display than last year.

The advertising is being placed in Ord business houses this week and we want to call the attention of everyone to it and especially to the International Revue company which is to be with us as a free attraction.

Music will be furnished by bands from Sargent, Burwell and Scotland and there will be a ball game each day between two teams of the Sunday School League. There will be horse races, mule races and other attractions. There will be plenty of places on the grounds where visitors can get "eats" and drinks and it is the intention of the management to keep the grounds free if possible, from anything that should not be there and in this they have the hearty cooperation of the authorities.

CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR TO ATTEND THE FAIR

Candidates for governor McMullen and Norton have been asked to attend the Valley county fair week after next and it is indicated that they will both accept. There being no candidate for governor on the LaFollette ticket, the regional manager for LaFollette, Frank A. Harrison has been asked to furnish a speaker for one day and a letter just received from Mr. Harrison, says he is after a big man to represent the LaFollette and Wheeler ticket at the fair, probably on Friday.

SCOTTISH RITE MASONS TO PICNIC AT HASTINGS

Members of the Scottish Rite Masonic bodies in this community are planning on attending the annual picnic of the bodies which will be held at Prospect Park in Hastings, on Thursday, August 21st.

The committee in charge of the picnic have planned a wonderful program of sports and the list of prizes is unusually long. In addition to the usual prize list there will be ten nice prizes given to those who attend but do not participate in the sports.

Members of the DeMolay are also included in the picnic and every Scottish Rite Mason and his family is urged to attend.

POSTMASTER ON VACATION

Postmaster Edwin P. Clements and family departed by auto early Wednesday morning for Boulder Colorado for a visit with his brother Wayne and family and to enjoy their vacation in the mountains.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

(By Mrs. Leslie Maçon)

Our Bible School attendance for last Sunday was only 113 in place of the 200 we hoped for. However, we had a very interesting session and we are not discouraged. For next Sunday Miss Iola Mae Williams will sing a special number for us. The collection for next Sunday will be applied to the missionary work of the school. The officers and teachers are very anxious that every member of the school be in his place and do all he can to further the interest of the school. Be on hand and bring somebody with you.

The young ladies of Mrs. Marquand's Bible School Class have been together through almost the whole of four years while they were going through high school. Now several of the girls have graduated and are going away from Ord, so they decided to have a get together good time before they parted. At the close of the afternoon they served an enjoyable lunch of angel food cake, ice cream, and grape juice. These girls have a novel way of providing funds for refreshments at their parties. If one is absent from the Bible School she is find a nickel which is laid aside for this purpose. It might be a good idea for some of the other classes to try this plan.

We all enjoy a vacation from our duties and not many of us try to cut vacation time short but last Sunday at the Bible School Brother Maynard told us that he is anxious to get back into the harness, so there will be preaching service next Sunday morning at eleven o'clock. We hope the church will be filled to hear him. There will be no service in the evening.

At the meeting of the Ladies Aid Society yesterday they decided to hold their monthly Kensington on Wednesday August 20 in the church parlors. They extend a cordial invitation to all their friends to be present.

For some time the church board has been planning a big Methodist picnic and last night they decided to hold this gathering at the park on Friday, August 22. The charge at Sumter is cordially invited to join with the Ord charge and every Methodist church attendant and Sunday School member is expected to be there. We expect to have plenty of eats at noon and a program in the afternoon and hope to have a ball game. Further announcement will be made at the Bible School and preaching services Sunday and we expect to have a big crowd and a royal good time.

Miss Ruth Stewart came up from Grand Island last evening for a few days stay with her people, the Wm. Stewart family.

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The rain last Sunday caused a considerable slump in our Bible School attendance. If the weather is fair next Sunday we are expecting a great turn out to make up for the slump. We hope that everybody will be in mind that our aim for average attendance is 175 with a seven dollar offering. The contest that is now going on shows the women a few points in advance. Come on men and boys let us catch them.

Our Christian Endeavor society was invited to join in a social with the Christian Endeavor society of the Christian church at Burwell on Tuesday evening. They were all loaded into cars and started for Burwell and were out about four miles when the rain came up from the northeast. They decided that it was going to storm and turned and struck just as they drove into town. They are going to try it again soon and hope to have better luck next time.

Prof. Francis G. Peabody gives a worth while suggestion when he says that "The Kingdom of God" which is the end of religious education is nothing else than the realization of the social ideal whose germinal type is the normal family." He bases this statement on the beautiful word of the Master, "Except ye turn and become as little children ye shall not enter the Kingdom of God." The key to the understanding of the Christian religion is the family idea. God is Father, Jesus is Savior, the people are brothers. We will miss the way if we trust Christianity as a philosophy, a cult, a club, or just a higher civilization. We need to practice more earnestly the art of Christian brotherhood.

All the folks who sing in the choir are urged not to forget choir practice each Friday evening. Directing the music of the church is a big task, but a very enjoyable one providing all music talent takes part and everyone is faithful to attend practice. Let's encourage Mr. Janesen with a fine turn out Friday.

Services next Lord's day. 9:45 Bible School. 11 Communion and sermon, "The Master's Self Restraint."

7 Christian Endeavor, Junior, Intermediate and Senior. 8 Sermon.

We cordially invite you to attend all services.

BASE BALL AT THE FAIR

Charley Arnold, who has the task of arranging the base ball for the fair, announces that he has arranged a series of games between the various teams of the Sunday school league, as follows:

The Ord team plays North Loup. Thursday

North Loup plays Mira Valley. Friday

Mira Valley plays Davis Creek. Saturday

The Loup Valley Fair, Aug. 26-29.

MARIE BARTA MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Barta announce the marriage of their daughter, Marie, Helen, to Joseph W. Lofwig, at Littleton, Colo. Saturday, August 2nd. Relatives and friends of the Frank Barta family have received the above announcement. Marie was the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barta. She was born in Ord and was but a little girl when her parents moved away. Frank is a brother of Joe. Barta of good meeting was had by the score Mrs. Mary Beran and a sister of of business men present. The object of the meeting was to allow the directors to explain to the stock owners the exact financial condition of the club at the present time and see if something would be suggested for the bettering of the financial condition of the club.

ORD MUSIC LOVERS CHARMINGLY ENTERTAINED

Some of the music lovers of Ord had a treat yesterday that they will not soon forget. Through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Barta about fifty guests were invited to their beautiful home last evening to meet Mrs. Barta's brother, Tom Eason and his wife, Ethel Wright. Fusing in a social way and offering a miscellaneous selection of musical numbers. We had thought the last time they treated an Ord audience to a musical program, they had reached a degree of perfection that would be hard to beat, but we now come to the conclusion "at they sang even better than when last at Ord. Tom is the same jolly whole-hearted fellow as of old. His success in the musical world has not spoiled him. He mingled with the guests and recalled to those who remembered, many an incident of his life in Ord. His wife is a very pleasant lady to meet and it would not take her long to become acquainted with her husband's old friends. After the program delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Barta and her able assistants.

SOCIAL EVENTS OF COMMUNITY

Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wisda families of Ord, had dinner at their farm home. The guests were Mrs. Chas. Mason and daughter Louise, who are here from California, Mr. and Mrs. Will Wisda of Lexington and the F. J. Stara and Jim Wisda families of Ord.

The So and Sew club was entertained last Saturday afternoon by Mrs. C. J. Mortensen.

Tomorrow afternoon the Rebekah circle will meet with Mrs. Anthony Thill.

Mrs. F. A. Barta will entertain the Delta Deck club Friday afternoon.

Sunday was the fortieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Jorgensen. All of their children and their families, who live near Ord, and one son Will Jorgensen and family from Minden were in attendance. In addition to the relatives there were six other couples invited, Judge Goodmumdsen, N. C. Christensen, Oscar Enger, John Olson, Gust Rose and Ored Olson and their wives. A seven o'clock dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Jorgensen received a set of silver knives and forks and numerous other gifts. At a late hour the guests departed, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Jorgensen many happy returns of the day.

The Entre Nous did not meet last week on account of chautauqua. Next week they will meet with Mrs. C. C. Dale.

Mrs. Frank Stara is entertaining the Happy Hour club at a special meeting this afternoon. The party is in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Chas. Mason, who is here from California.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McLain and Dr. and Mrs. Blessing entertained at a bridge party. The function was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Emery of Lincoln, the former a brother of Mrs. Blessing, and also for Dr. Barta who is soon to leave Ord for his travels and studies abroad.

Tomorrow afternoon our young ladies, the Misses Roxy Auble, Ethel Travis and Helen Johnson and Mrs. Alpha Hill are giving a shower at the Johnson home for Miss Ruth Hoepfner.

Next meeting of the Happy Hour Club will be Thursday at the home of Mrs. Frank Blaha Sr.

An enjoyable affair was given on last Friday afternoon at the country home of Mrs. Anton Beran. The party was arranged as a surprise kitchen shower in honor of Miss Ruth Hoepfner. Mrs. Beran and Mrs. Enger were hostesses and served a tempting one o'clock chicken dinner. A mock wedding was staged. Miss Roxy Auble was the bride, Miss Lillian Dworak the groom and Mrs. Louise Branting played the wedding march. Those in attendance besides those already mentioned were Mesdames Hazel Hill, Tom Wright, Elmer Gudmundsen, Emil Fafetta, Cash Rathbun, Rudolph Koupal, Laura Prall and the Misses Daisy and Winnie Hallen, Freda Siler, Ethel Travis, Marie Wentworth, Helen Johnson and Lydia Gruber.

SMALL CROWD AT CLUB MEETING

Interest in Club Work at Low Tide. Plans Suggested to Keep Club Going.

The severe storm Tuesday evening probably accounted for the small attendance at the Community Service club meeting, still a mighty good meeting was had by the score of business men present. The object of the meeting was to allow the directors to explain to the stock owners the exact financial condition of the club at the present time and see if something would be suggested for the bettering of the financial condition of the club.

The first of January of this year there were 150 members in good standing but since that time members have been dropping out until at the present there are but 77 members in good standing and the club is confronted with a dunc. Those present seemed anxious that the club be kept going and a number who had been back on their dues, came forward and paid up and since the Tuesday evening meeting others have pledged themselves to pay up shortly.

Among suggestions for overcoming the present difficulty, was one to rent the back room as a lodge room, another to rent the front rooms as offices and give them a social feature be cut out and the dues reduced and it seems imperative that the services of the secretary be dispensed with, at least for the present, much as the active members dislike to do that.

The facts of the matter are, that a large majority of the members who made the most use of the club rooms in the winter season are the ones who have declined to assist in carrying the burden during the summer months when they want to be outside and cannot get a hundred percent or more of actual personal return for the money expended. Those who have been loyal and paid their dues promptly, in large measure, are the ones who are members because they believe the club is a necessity and they want to do the thing that is best for the town and community. Some of those who have dropped out will doubtless want to come back when it comes cold weather again and at that time they should be confronted with one of two proposals either to pay up their dues in full or join over again which means buy new stock. A stockholder should not be allowed to pay dues one month and drop out another just as his fancy dictates when it is impossible for the club to adjust the overhead expenses in the same way and if we understand the feeling of the club's management, that is going to be the course pursued.

THE BAILEY SALE

Next Monday the entire Bailey Shorthorn herd is going to be dispersed at the big Bailey sale on the ranch three miles northeast of Ord and it will be an opportunity to secure some splendid foundation stock for the starting of a dual purpose herd. There is no better milking strain of Shorthorns anywhere and every animal should stay in Valley county.

In addition to the registered cattle, a lot of horses, steers, some brood sows and an exceptionally fine lot of about 100 May shoats weighing around 100 pounds each, will be sold. This bunch of pigs is a very thrifty lot.

Col. Thompson of Lincoln does the selling with Charley Burdick assisting.

On the way from Lincoln to Ord the first of the week Tom Fuson and wife and Joe Barta and family visited for a few days at Central City with the Fred Hallock family.

MUCH DAMAGE DONE BY STORM

There was a severe rain storm which struck this vicinity Tuesday evening about seven o'clock and in some sections did considerable damage. It was stated yesterday, Wednesday, afternoon that the Capron Agency had upwards of forty half claims filed and the Hager Agency well towards the same number. The storm was severe, it is said, opposite Elyria and in the Dick Flynn neighborhood north of Ord. A few large hailstones fell in Ord and considerable damage was done in all the territory straight north of town. The storm extended only a few miles south of town. Between three and four inches of rain fell north of Ord but the record in the city showed .68.

GEORGE TERHUNE DIES

Geo. Terhune, who has been ill for some time, passed away Tuesday morning at Ord where he had been for medical attention. His body was taken to his Arcadia home later in the morning. Undertaker Hastings having come over for that purpose. Mrs. Terhune has been staying in Ord for several weeks, so as to be near her husband.

After a two months stay with their relatives the Frank Klein family, Ted and Gertrude Belitz returned this morning to Omaha.

Miss Dorothy Towell, a friend of Miss Della Marks, returned Friday to her home at York, after a few days visit here.

Boyd Weekes of Grand Island had been visiting at Scotia for a few days and the first of the week came up to Ord for a visit with relatives.

Miss Myrtle Milligan arrived home last Thursday evening. She had stopped at Grand Island for several days after her return from the Colorado trip.

Roy Collison arrived from Colorado last week and we understand he plans on making his home in Ord. He will be associated in the Ord Mill organization as flour salesman.

The James Zadina people are looking this week for the arrival of their son Joseph Zadina and two sons, Edward and Joe from Colorado Springs. They left Valley county about two years ago.

Glendall Bailey drove up from Hastings and spent Sunday with his parents. His wife had been in Ord for several days, she accompanied Glendall back to Hastings the first of the week.

Mrs. Tom Weekes and Miss Barncie were outgoing passengers last Saturday for their home at Beatrice. They had been in Ord for several weeks, making their headquarters with Mrs. Weekes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Vancilke, and spending some time with their relatives, the Leslie and John Mason came from Benedict Saturday and spent Sunday with home people leaving again Monday. They are working on a large consolidated school building which is being built near that town.

Rev. Hansen and family are expected home this week from their overland trip to Illinois, Minnesota and Iowa. Rev. Hansen has written that he will be here for Sunday services.

Last week Mrs. David Jones was entertaining her mother, Mrs. Mary Sheridan and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Roy Sheridan and two children from Columbus and another sister-in-law, Mrs. John Sheridan from Platte Center.

Rosevale, Haskell Creek and Midvale Sunday schools will hold their annual Group Gathering Thursday, August 31, in Andrew Swanson's grove, one half mile west of Rosevale school house. A good, helpful program has been prepared by the local schools. Speaker, E. E. Dillon of York, Rev. Wells, Rev. Reeves, A. L. Nordin and others. Come for a good, profitable day.

Mrs. Will Staples and her daughter Miss Flora Staples and another daughter, Mrs. C. W. Eubank and husband, all from Neligh, were in Ord Monday by auto way. They had been visiting in the state and had visited the Evel Petty family at North Loup. While in Ord they called at the D. B. Smith home. The past two years the Misses Flora Staples and Mamie Smith were teachers in the schools at Stanton.

Among the passengers for Burwell Saturday were Mrs. Cecil Clark and son Arden. They were Sunday guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Pearl Miller.

Mrs. Perry Anthony of Minneapolis is expected to arrive in a few days for a visit with her mother, Mrs. A. Timmerman and other relatives.

Robert Lyons of Lincoln, who has been visiting his aunt, Mrs. Cecil Oliver, went to Cushing with the Scout boys returning home Sunday. He and his brother Wilbur expect to return to Lincoln soon.

Chris Lindhartsen came in from Omaha last Saturday and went out to his farm, which is about nine miles northeast of Ord. Carl Zieger lives on the place and was in town to meet Chris.

D. W. Sherer and his sister, Miss Evelyn Sherer of Harvard, who are guests of the George Kellison family, went to Sumter Saturday to visit the Rathbun families. The Sherers plan on returning to their home soon.

Last Friday Chas. Brown and family and Mrs. A. Timmerman moved from the latter's property, east of the south school house, to the John Carson house, known as the Jorgen Moeller property which the Brown's lately purchased and which makes them a beautiful home.

Clate Gilroy has run the mail wagon on route 2 for nearly a year. Perry Luse, who has been the regular carrier has been ill the greater portion of that time and Clate has acted as his substitute. Mr. Luse had to resign on account of poor health. Clate will continue to act until the new man is appointed.

A. B. Fletcher was aboard the B & O Sunday making his regular trip to Genoa, Illinois. He tells us of a hail storm that struck that portion of the country, just a short time ago while he was there. The storm covered a section of the country about 6 miles wide and twenty-five miles long, sweeping through the town of Genoa stripping leaves and branches from trees on the west side of houses and buildings. There was not a window glass left in town. Thousands of dollars worth of damage was done. He said in talking to old citizens they stated that such a hail storm had never struck them before, at least for fifty years, as some of them had lived there that long. It was lucky for the state that the storm covered such a small section.

The home of Judge and Mrs. R. A. Haggart was gladdened yesterday afternoon when the storm carried there long enough to present them with a big baby boy. Certainly it is the best boy that ever happened. Just what was needed to give the Judge an even break in his home. Now there are two males and two females in the family and when it comes to a vote it will be a tie. Mrs. Haggart and the youngster are getting along in fine shape and with a few days rest and constant care Judge Haggart will be able to resume his campaigning for the office of district judge. All the new papa's and mama's in the district will, without any doubt, vote for the new papa as he is a candidate looking for suffrage.—St. Paul Photograph.

The Judge Clements family arrived home Sunday morning from their Minnesota trip, driving in mid most of the time after striking Nebraska. It was a delightful trip in spite of the fact that they broke a wheel on their car soon after starting from their cottage and had to lay over for a full day till the wheel could be secured from Minneapolis. When they arrived at Spading they were advised to come through Ericson as bridges were out between Spading and Greeley and before reaching Ericson something went wrong with the lighting system of their car and they remained there till morning rather than try to continue the trip home in the dark.

In letters to their parents, Seton and Edwards Hanson say they had a fine trip, by auto, to C. M. T. Fort Des Moines. Found no crops to compare with those around Ord until they reached Scranton and Jefferson, Iowa, where they visited

OBITUARY

Marie Barbara Werber, infant daughter of Mrs. John Werber, passed away at the Weekes hospital, on Thursday morning, August 7th, following an operation which took place July 31st.

The little one was born March 27, 1933, and was 1 year, 4 months, and 11 days old at the time of her death.

She had been a patient sufferer for several months and although all that could possibly be done by medical science to alleviate her suffering was done, nothing could prevent the inevitable call.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her mother, Mrs. John Werber and four brothers, Eldon, Leroy, Lloyd, Wilfred. One brother preceded her in death, as did also her father, who passed away only a few months ago. Funeral services were held from morning at 10 o'clock a. m., Father Lawler conducting the services including the mass of the Angels. Interment was in the Ord Cemetery.

Card of Thanks

We sincerely thank our many friends for their assistance during the sickness and death of our beloved daughter and sister. Words cannot express our appreciation of their kindness and of the beautiful floral offerings received.

Mrs. J. S. Werber and Family.

CANDIDATE FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Mr. A. A. Clements, who for many years was associated with his brother, Judge E. P. Clements of Ord and is competent in every way, is a graduate of the embalming school at Cincinnati, Ohio, one of the best in the country.

He is young, energetic and has many new ideas. He is here to stay. Give him a trial and you will be convinced he is the right man for the place.

Again I thank you, A. M. Daniels.

Learn What
Chiropractic
IS

CHIROPRACTIC is a drugless health science of the cause of so-called disease and the art of adjusting the human spine when its segments are out of natural alignment, so that mental impulse can transmit naturally thru the nerves to provide normal health function to every organ and part of the body.

It is a system that includes the use of nothing but the bare hands to locate a subluxated vertebra (small bones of the spine) and effects its replacement to normal position by a peculiar move, made in a particular direction, with a technical degree of speed and force.

The Brain is the power plant of the body. The nerves are the electric cable distributing the power by way of the spine to the different parts of the body to produce life. The stomach, liver, kidneys and other organs are motors which are run by power delivered through the nerves.

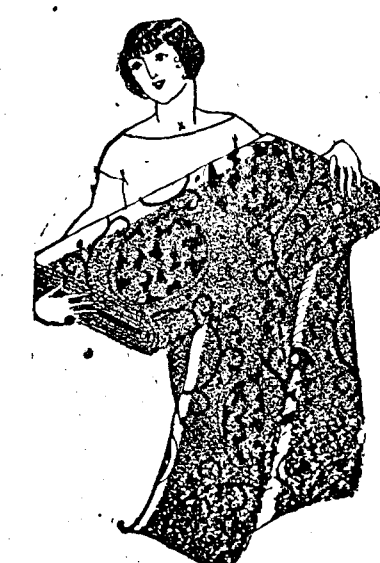

If the power is severed, or interfered with, the motor quits running. Connect up the power and the motor starts running. Same is the case with our bodies. We are simply a complicated piece of machinery and each part must work in harmony to make HEALTH, which is LIFE. The Chiropractor connects up the power that has been interfered with by releasing the pressure and allowing the power (Vital Force) to flow uninterruptedly to the various organs, which then function normally. If there was no good in Chiropractic it would have died of its own accord years ago; but it still lives and is progressing very rapidly.

brought on plates as the curved surface spoils the shape of the cake. Pies should be baked in a perforated pan or removed from the pan on which baked and placed on a china plate. Butter should be wrapped preferably in parchment paper. The ideal is a one pound, plain rectangular print, as this sort packs and cuts to the best advantage. Dirt in butter disqualifies it. In case there is but a single entry in a class the judge may decide whether or not the article is worthy of a prize. If worthy of a prize second money only will be given.

All baked goods entered become the property of the fair board and will be sold at the close of the fair.

Farm Loans

Money is easy and rates on Farm Loans are low at this time. The heavy demand in the spring caused by March maturities of old loans may tighten money and increase rates. The prudent borrower is taking advantage of the present low rates to re-new his loan instead of taking chances on advanced rates in the spring.

I am offering the lowest rates and most favorable options on all classes of Farm Loans 5—7—10—20—30 year loans, any kind of loan you desire. It is important and will be of profit for you to see me about your Farm Loan, no matter when you want it.

and then slipped from the saddle. The other end she tied securely to the saddle horn of her friend. She stripped from her hands the heavy riding gauntlets she wore and gave them to Joyce.

"Pull these on and your hands will be warmer. Don't give up. Sit tight and buck up. If you do we'll be all right."

"But I can't. . . . It's awful. . . . How far do we have to go?"
"We'll soon hit the road. Then we can go faster."

Moya swung to her saddle again stiffly, and Billy took up the march in the driving storm, which was growing every minute more fierce and bitter. The girl did not dare give way to her own terror, for she felt if she should become panic-stricken all would be lost. She tried to remember how long people could live in a blizzard. Had she not read of some men who had been out two days in one and yet reached safety?

The icy blast bit into her, searched through to her bones and sapped her strength. More than once she drew up the rope with her icy hands to make sure that Joyce was still in the saddle. She found her there blue from exposure, almost helpless, but still faintly responsive to the call of life.

The horses moved faster, with more certainty, so that Moya felt they had struck a familiar trail. But in her heart she doubted whether either of the riders would come to shelter alive. The ponies traveled upward into the hills.

Joyce, lying forward helpless across the saddle horn, slid gently to the ground. Her friend stopped. What could she do? Once she had descended, it would be impossible to get back into the saddle.

Searching the hillside, the girl's glance was arrested by a light. She could not at first believe her good fortune. From the saddle she slipped to the ground in a huddle, stiffly found her feet again, and began to clamber up the stiff incline. Presently she made out a hut. Stumblingly, she staggered up till she reached the door and fell heavily against it, clutching at the latch so that it gave to her hand and sent her lurching into the room. Her knees doubled under her and she sank at the feet of one of two men who sat beside a table playing cards.

The man leaped up as if he had seen a ghost. "God Almighty, it's a woman!"

"My friend. . . she's outside. . . at the foot of the hill. . . save her," the girl's white lips framed.

They slipped on mackinaw coats and disappeared into the white swirling night. Moya crouched beside the red-hot stove, and life slowly tingled through her frozen veins, filling her with sharp pain. To keep back the groans she had to set her teeth. It seemed to her that she had never endured such agony.

After a time the men returned, carrying Joyce between them. They put her on the bed at the far corner of the room, and one of the men poured from a bottle on the table some whiskey. This they forced between her unconscious lips. With a shivering sigh she came back to her surroundings.

Moya moved across to the group by the bed.
"I'll take care of her if you'll look after the horses," she told the men.
One of them answered roughly. "The horses will have to rough it. This ain't any night for humans to be hunting horses."

"They can't be far," Moya pleaded.

Grudgingly the second man spoke. "Guess we better get them, Dave. They were down where we found the girl. We can stable them in the tunnel."

Left to herself, Moya unlaced the shoes of Miss Seldon. Vigorously she rubbed her feet and limbs till the circulation began to be restored. Joyce cried and writhed with the pain, while the other young woman massaged and cuddled her in turn. The worst of the suffering was past before the men returned, stamping snow from their feet and shaking it from their garments over the floor.

"A h— of a night to be out in," the one called Dave growled to his fellow.

"Did you get the horses?" Moya asked timidly.

"They're in the tunnel." The ungracious answer was given without a glance in her direction.

They were a black-a-vised, ill-favored pair, these miners upon whose hospitality fate had thrown them. Foreigners of some sort they were, Cornishmen, Moya guessed. But whatever their nationality they were primeval savages untouched by the fourteen centuries of civilizing influences since their forbears ravaged England. To the supernervous minds of these exhausted young women there was a suggestion of apes in the huge muscle-bound shoulders and the great rough hands at the ends of long gnarled arms. Small shifty black eyes, rimmed with red from drink, suggested cunning, while the loose-lipped heavy mouths added more than a hint of bestiality. It lent no comfort to the study of them that the large whisky bottle was two-thirds empty.

They slouched back to their cards and their bottle. It had been bad enough to find them sullen and inhospitable, but as the liquor stimulated their unhealthy imaginations it was worse to feel the covert looks stealing now and again toward them. Joyce, sleeping fitfully in the arms of Moya, woke with a start to see them drinking together at the table.

"I don't like them. I'm afraid of them," she whispered.

"We mustn't let them know it," Moya whispered in her ear.

For an hour she had been racked by fears, had faced unflinchingly their low laughs and furtive glances.

Now one of the men spoke. "From Goldbanks?"

"Yes."

"You don't live there."

"No. We belong to the English party—Mr. Verinder's friends."

"Oh, Verinder's friends. And which of you is his particular friend?" The sneer was unmistakable.

"We started out this afternoon for wild flowers and the storm caught us," Moya hurried on.

"So you're Verinder's friends, are you? Well, we don't think a whole lot of Mr. Verinder out here."

Moya knew now that the mention of Verinder's name had been a mistake. The relations between the mine owners and the workmen in the camp were strained, and as a foreign non-resident capitalist the English millionaire was especially obnoxious. Moreover, his supercilious manners had not helped to endear him since his arrival.

The man called Dave got to his feet with a reckless laugh. "No free lodgings here for Mr. Verinder's friends. You've got to pay for your keep, my dears."

Miss Dwight looked at him with unflinching eyes which refused to understand his meaning. "We'll pay whatever you ask and double the amount after we reach camp."

"Don't want your dirty money. Give us a kiss, lass. That's fair pay. We ain't above kissing Verinder's friends if he is a rotten slave driver."

Moya rose to her slender height, and the flash of courage blazed in her eyes.

"Sit down," she ordered.

The man stopped in his tracks, amazed at the resolution of the slim tall girl.

"Go on, Dave. Don't let her bluff you," his companion urged.

The miner laughed and moved forward.

"You coward, to take advantage of two girls driven to you by the storm. I didn't think the man lived that would do it," panted Moya.

"You've got a bit to learn, miss. What's the use of gettin' your Dutch up? I ain't good enough for 'ee, like enough."

The girl held up a hand. "Listen!" They could hear only the wild roar of the storm outside and the low sob of Joyce as she lay crumpled on the floor.

"Well?" he growled.
What, then?
"I'd rather go out into that white death than stay here with such creatures as you are."

"Don't be a fool, lass. Us won't hurt 'ee any," the second man reassured roughly.

"You'll stay here where it's warm. But you'll remember that we're boss in this shack. You can't come without being asked. I'm d—d if you'll ride your high horse over me."

"Go on, Dave. Talk your kiss, man."

Then the miracle happened. The door opened, and out of the swirling wind-tossed snow came a man.

CHAPTER IX

Out of the Storm a Man

He stood blinking in the doorway, white-sheeted with snow from head to heel. As his eyes became accustomed to the light they passed with surprise from the men to the young women. A flash of recognition lit them, but he offered no word of greeting.

Plainly he had interrupted a scene of some sort. The leer on the flushed face of Dave, the look of undaunted spirit in that of the girl facing him, the sheer panic-stricken terror of her crouching companion, all told him as much. Nor was it hard to guess the meaning of that dramatic moment he had by chance chosen for his entrance.

His alert eyes took in every detail, asked questions but answered none, and in the end ignored much.

"What are you doing here?" demanded one of the miners.

"Been out to the Jack Pot and was on my way back to town. Got caught in the storm and stuck for the night."

He closed the door, moved forward into the room, and threw off his heavy

Frank Carkoski and family motored to Primrose Sunday, where they visited relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Piny and son Eldon visited with Leon Carkoski and family Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Tom Wright and children and Mrs. Rudolph Collison and son of Ord visited Mrs. John Schuyler on Friday evening.

Last week we mentioned that Ed Sanders and Miss Lizzie Fischer were married at Council Bluffs. However this was an error, as the event took place at Julesburg, Colo.

Chester Carkoski was entertaining some interesting company last Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. O. W. Kemble and Miss Letha Pugh visited at the Simpson and Abrahams home Friday afternoon.

Elmer Dowhower has been keeping himself quite busy out at the farm attending the various small jobs which need doing at this time of the year.

$1.00 reward is offered by Pete Miller for anyone who will tell him the authorship of the following anonymous letter which he received Friday on the morning mail.

The letter is or seems to be written in a lady's hand writing. That is why Pete is so anxious to find out who wrote it. "Pete Miller: During your vacation at this southern resort swimming, I beg pardon to remark that it would be much more genteel and better etiquette to take your bathing suit along 'as it were.' You do not seem to realize that the days of 'Huckleberry Finn are over—thank for the entertainment. Pete says that suggestions as to authorship of the above letter will be welcomed and kindly received, but proof of authorship must be given in order to claim the reward."

Mrs. Wm. Fischer and Mrs. Bernard Hoyt motored to Burwell last Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Leon Clemmy left Friday afternoon by way of auto for Brainard, Neb., where she will spend a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hayek and family. She expects to return before the end of next week.

Mrs. Joe Wozniak called on Mrs. Flakus Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fischer visited the Chas. Wozniak family Monday evening.

I. F. Miller is taking the place of Lester Norton on the mail route this week. It keeps him quite busy carrying mail and attending to all of his cattle and hogs.

Edwin Bartunek left last Thursday for Chicago where he is employed as electrical engineer for the Western Electric Co. He is a son of Anton Bartunek.

Astrid and Gerda Moeller were visitors in Elyria Tuesday afternoon.

Chester Carkoski, Holub's enterprising clerk, seems to be very popular with all the opposite sex. Otto Goss says that some afternoons Chester don't even have time to go to supper.

Anna Zukoski returned from Cedar Rapids last Saturday where she had been visiting relatives and friends.

Chas. Sobon motored to Ord Tuesday afternoon, accompanied by his two daughters, and returned with a truck load of merchandise for Holub's General Merchandise store.

Terry Jablonski assisted Andrew Kusek with farm work this week as Andrew had a little more than he could handle, even if he is a "big fellow."

Miss Mary, Kuklish returned to her duties at an Ord hospital after a vacation of three weeks.

Lloyd F. Wheeler came down on the passenger from Burwell Monday.

Dave Palmer is the dullest cuss, fer ketchin' fish, he sure is great! He never seems to make a fuss about the kind of pole or bait, or weather neither, he will just say, "I gotta ketch a mess today," and towards the river you'll see him slide, a whistling and wailing wido. I says to him one day, "Dave," says I, "How do you ketch 'em ennyway," He gives his bait another swish in, and chucklin says, "I just keep fishin'."

Archib. Boyce, Chris Sorensen, Chas. Ciochon and Soren Sorensen, took dinner Sunday at Jorgen Sorensen's bachelor apartments.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Hoyt and daughter Audrey spent Saturday evening at the home of the former's parents Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Hoyt near Burwell.

W. B. Caster is again thinking very strongly of cutting the weeds in the back of his lumber yard. He does this twice a year whether it needs it or not. It looks to us like the weeds around the town hall should also be kept cut as it looks bad for our town. When one glances toward John Powell's lawn and flower gardens the contrast is truly shocking.

The Pleasant Hour Club met with Mrs. Joe Clemmy and daughter Helen Thursday. About half of the members were present. At five o'clock the hostesses served to delicious luncheon. The next meeting will be with Mrs. John Carkoski, Aug. 21.

A. A. Hayek of Brainard arrived late Friday evening and returned Monday morning, taking as passengers his daughter, Mrs. Will Dodge, Leon Clemmy, Erwin Dodge and Phyllis Dodge who will all visit at Brainard for a period of several days.

I. F. Miller was entertained at Sunday dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Clemmy.

Mike Socha moved his household goods to Ord and will live hereafter in the Percy Lowe house. Mr. Lowe plans on being gone for some time and Mike will take care of his house while he is away. Mike told us that he sure was enjoying Mr. Lowe's little home.

Pete Miller enjoyed Sunday dinner

so much at the Clemmy home that he would not be satisfied until he had made arrangements to take all his meals there for the coming week. Pete knows who makes the good eats alright.

John Augustyn and family of Loup City have been visiting the Frank Dubas and Mike Kusek families the past few days.

The Hans Fischer Sr. family spent Sunday at the Wm. Fischer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sanders motored to Ord Saturday.

Mrs. Joe Kuta died Friday, Aug. 8. The remains were taken to Duncannon for burial. He leaves a husband and several small children.

Peter Duda, Gregorczski brothers and Joe Bogus loaded a car of yellow popcorn this week. This corn went to the seed house at Ord.

John Kupik is working for Frank T. Zukoski Jr.

Last week Mrs. Frank Vetecka while visiting her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Eman Kuklis, asked Mr. Kuklish obliging, as he is on of a load of coal. Of course Mr. Kuklish obliged, as he is one of the most obliging fellows there ever was. He did not notice however that the brakes were set, and passersby were startled to see him driving a team and the rear wheels of the wagon sliding as if they were tied. He could not figure out why the horses were pulling so hard on an empty wagon and does not know to this day that when he arrived at the elevator Mike Kusek released the brakes.

Another week will see the complete removal of an old and historic landmark in the town of Elyria. For many years this building as stood here and has been used for all kinds of purposes. Many of the older settlers will remember when Frank Hewett had his blacksmith shop in this building and of later years when Anton Wiegardt followed his trade of blacksmith in the same place. Mr. Wiegardt has almost finished tearing this building down and while it will improve the looks of his place greatly there are a few who are loathe to see it go, as it was a daily reminder of days long ago.

Mike Goss spent Sunday at Fort Hartsuff. His intentions were to go out and get a complete set of pictures, so he could send them to his friends back east, where he used to live.

Shortly after 7 o'clock Tuesday evening we noticed a black, ominous looking cloud gathering in the northeast and it was not long until it was directly over us. Half fell, some of which was the size of hen's eggs and while there probably will be some damage to crops, it will not amount to enough to make things serious. The local weather man reported an inch of rain in less than twenty minutes.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Norton and son Shirley left by auto for Omaha, Lincoln and Grand Island, where they expect to do some shopping and make it a little vacation trip. They expect to return some time next week.

Word has been received from the Ed Holub family that they are in Chicago and are having a lovely time. It seems that Ed is having a fine time watching the ball game.

DISTRICT NO. 42

(By Mary Johnson)

Forty-two enjoyed all the privileges and blessings of a flood again a week ago Monday night. Once more pumping out, cellars and shoveling mud out of the barns and chicken houses was the order of the day. Mr. and Mrs. VanNess, returning from town late at night ran into such deep water on the east road that the carburetor of the car refused to function and they had to leave the car standing near the Jim Johnson place while they walked, knee deep most of the way home. Wednesday evening the rain was not so heavy but a hail storm did considerable damage in this vicinity. Corn is a 25 per cent loss or more and many gardens are ruined.

Miss Elva Clement's violin class doubled itself a week ago last Tuesday. There are now eight in the class. The new pupils are Robert and Howard Baxter and Mona and Merrill Pierce.

Carmell Bryan and Garnett Jackson attended a high school reunion of the class of '24 at the Chalk Hills last Wednesday night.

Mary Johnson returned Monday evening from a visit with her aunt, Mrs. Dora Sievers, at Marquette.

The Carl Nelson family have been enjoying a visit from the Will Harold family the past week. Mr. Herald formerly occupied the Will Burges place and Gertrude attended school here. Mrs. Herald and Mrs. Nelson are sisters. They returned to their home in Central City Saturday.

Klath Baxter received quite a cut on his ankle Saturday when the pony he was riding ran away with him and collided with a barbed wire fence. He is getting along nicely now.

The Barrows family accompanied by V. J. and Claud Thomas families called at the Anderson place last week to look over the old Barrows home.

Doris and Molly Clement spent Wednesday and Thursday at the Glen Johnson home.

Merlyn Bryan entertained a number of boys in honor of his birthday Friday afternoon. They all say they had the best time.

Hubert Clement was the guest of Roger Johnson Thursday evening and Friday.

Mr. Willoughby finished threshing early last week. He was quite well pleased with the results, the wheat made between 31 and 32 bushels to the acre and oats about 40. Since then there has been so much rain no more threshing has been attempted.

We are glad small grain bid fair to pay well for certainly harvesting and threshing have been attended with great difficulties.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Barnhart returned Friday night from a visit with the Siberson family in Omaha. The trip was in celebration of the shipment of their last car load of cattle. The ranch was managed during their absence by Chas. Barnhart Sr. and Jr. assisted at times by Mr. Harris. The three younger children stayed with Mrs. Charles Barnhart.

Irandma Mayo is at the Jackman again after several weeks visit her daughter Mrs. Doane of neighborhood was well represented at the Strand Saturday night, when "The King of Wild Horses" was shown. It would be easier to name those who were not there, than those who were.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nelson drove to Albion Sunday to take Mrs. Nelson's mother to her home. She had been their guest for more than a week.

Gladys Williams returned Wednesday from a visit in Arcadia with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Williams.

The Glen Barber boys played at the Anderson home Saturday.

Friday afternoon Lorene Otto played at Gladys Williams' home.

Fred Jackmans took dinner at Paul Tolens Sunday.

Ernest Stillman, who has been working for Chas. Otto this summer, left Sunday for the home of Chas. Glouse in Palmer. He will work for Mr. Glouse this winter.

Mrs. Will Burgess left for Beatrice Tuesday morning. She goes to visit her people there and expects to be gone several weeks. Meantime Mr. Burgess will have a taste of the high life as a bachelor.

Paul Tolens spent Monday with Roy Kerns.

Steve Parks took dinner at Will Stines Sunday.

After a few weeks stay in Ord with relatives, the H. G. Burson family, Miss Viola Whitford left Monday for Selma, Kansas. From there she was to join friends and return by auto to her home at Santa Ana, Cal. Miss Viola is a daughter of Albert Whitford, who left Valley county about thirteen years ago.

When Ign. Kilma Jr. gets a minute off duty he spends the time making boxes for his swarm of bees which he keeps on his mother's farm. These bees are about as busy as bees can possibly be, making honey of the finest quality. A Quiz reporter called to that fact because Mr. Kilma called her in one evening and gave her a whole pound.

DAVIS CREEK
(By Mrs. John H. Williams)
Miss Ruth Mayo of North Loup has been spending a few days at the Chas. Johnson home.

Harry Stevens and two children from Belgrade have been visiting friends and relatives on Davis Creek. He has also been looking after business matters.

Mrs. Maggie Annys and sons returned to their home in North Loup after spending several days on Davis Creek.

Mrs. Della Manchester and Howard and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cummins and family were at the Chas. Johnson home Sunday and helped Grandma Cummins and Howard Manchester celebrate their birthdays. Everyone had a very nice time and Mrs. Cummins received many useful presents. She also received many cards in her shower and enjoyed them very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Waller moved Monday to her mother's farm in the Fussysville neighborhood.

Owing to rainy weather Alfred Jorgensen and Ben Naumberg were the only ones in this neighborhood lucky enough to get through with threshing last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Mysny and Emil called at John Williams home Wednesday evening.

Will Wheatcrafts new house is nearing completion, the carpenter's now working on the inside. It will be one of the modern homes when finished.

ECHOES FROM WOODMAN HALL
(By Mrs. Jos. J. Waldman)
A surprise party was given Louis Vancura on the Klma place Saturday night. All present enjoyed it very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldman and son John attended the funeral of Marie, infant daughter of Mrs. Jno. Werber at Ord Friday.

The dance that was to be given at Jungman hall Sunday night was postponed to next Sunday on account of the rain. There will be a dance at National hall Saturday night.

Our band boys are kept quite busy furnishing music for the home entertainments and practicing for the Broken Bow fair where they in connection with Comstock furnish music two days of the fair.

Albert Lukes says the Ord folks have nothing on him. A swarm of bees arrived at his place one day last week and assumed lordship for a while but finally accepted the chimney corner for their place of abode. Albert invited Joe Waldmann to help him persuade them to move to more comfortable quarters but they refused to obey orders and are determined to stay so now all Albert needs to do is to poke a faucet in the chimney hole in his front room and have honey galore.

We are glad to report that Mrs. Jim Hosek who was taken to the Weekes hospital at Ord last week is improving nicely and will soon be at home again.

Threshing is being delayed on account of almost daily rains.

We were awakened last Thursday night by what sounded like several trains approaching and before we could realize what was going on large chunks of ice came pounding on the roof, only a little rain and luckily, no wind, a terrible storm was upon us. We escaped with but slight damage but about a mile northeast the storm was much worse and loss to corn is very heavy as the stalks are striped badly and otherwise bruised so it will not make much. The hail stones were as large as a man's fist and crushed through roofs, doing considerable damage to buildings and windmills.

As far as we have learned V. J. Vodehnal lost some poultry and young pigs and Ign. Peshia some ducks and geese. The strip where most damage was done was about a mile wide coming from the north west. The storm raged here at 3 o'clock and we are told it reached Ord about 4 making the distance of about 15 miles in about one hour. About one half inch of rain fell.

The Farmers Union will hold a county picnic at Lake Doris next Wednesday. There are to be many attractions, our band boys furnishing music.

FUSSYSVILLE NEWS
(By Mrs. Orsen E. Davis)
It was a splendid rain that visited us Sunday. It brought advantages and disadvantages. The correspondent and some others were rained in at North Loup.

All but two of the members of the Sew and So Fussys Club were at the meeting Thursday with Mrs. Ivan Canedy. A splendid time was had and four dress forms were made. The meeting for the coming Thursday will be held at Mrs. Pete Anderson's.

Gerald and "Short" Manchester, Clayton Arnold and Clyde Knight motored with Roy Williams to St. Paul Friday night to get a new threshing machine belt.

The school house is being beautified with two coats of paint. Orsen Davis and Archie Babcock are doing the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Waller have moved into the Della Manchester house. Mr. Waller we are told is going to fall plow the farm.

The Sunday School planned to hold their meeting out of doors Sunday on account of the painting not being finished, but the rain kept them at home.

A tourist car at the camp at Geneva bore a unique metal plate stating that "This car stops at all railroad crossings."—State News.

Friends of Walter Parks will be glad to know that he is better having undergone a tonsil operation which was very serious, the tonsil and goiter having grown together. He was in the hospital at Dickinson, N. D., a week. He expects to return in November for the goiter operation. He writes that the hospital is run by Swiss sisters from Switzerland and it is said there are only four such hospitals in the U. S.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson who lived east of Mrs. Wards moved to the Huff farm.

Monday, August 18

BRITISH COUNT 2ND, the herd sire, is a son of the International Grand Champion Count Avon, and out of a Marr Missie dam. He is a heavy boned bull, weighs well over a ton in ordinary breeding condition, and is a remarkably sure breeder.

FOREST CLOSTER 2ND is a red two year old out of British Count 2nd and a Duchess of Gloster dam. He is out of the same dam as the cow that topped our sale last year. This bull is a good enough individual and is well enough bred to head any herd.

FOREST GLOSTER 3RD is a full brother of FOREST AUGUSTUS and FOREST A4. Forest Gloster 2nd and will make as good a bull. GUSTUS 2ND, are two wonderful yearling bulls. They are both out of British Count 2nd and out of Bruce Augusta dams. Their pedigrees are the best in Shorthorn breeding and with the proper fitting either of them would make a good showing in the ring.

WHITE ROCK is a Bates bred bull with two scotch tops. For the man who wants a young bull to produce both milk and beef, he is probably the best bull in the sale. He is out of British Count 2nd, and out of a 1,700 pound dam. His dam is one of the heaviest milkers we ever had.

FOREST PRINCESS is probably everything considered the best cow we ever owned. She is a full sister of the cow that topped the Indiana Shorthorn Breeders' sale two years ago at $2,500. She sells with a heifer calf at foot and is re-bred to British Count 2nd. She is the kind of cow that will be cheap no matter what is paid for her.

ROCKWOOD AUGUSTA 4TH is a three years old heifer heavy with calf to Gloster Goods Jr. She has a Bruce Augusta pedigree that will appeal to the man who is after the best in Shorthorns. Her last year's calf sells in this sale and is ample proof of the kind of calves that you can expect to get from her.

For a show type, DALES CROWN ROSE 2ND is the best thing in the sale. If fitted she would not look out of place at any state fair, and not only that but she raises show calves. She is a sure breeder, and sells with a bull calf at foot and is rebred.

RED ROSE is one of the best dual purpose Shorthorns we believe in the Loup Valley. She is an especially heavy milker, and her milk tests high. She raises good calves, not only for milk but also for beef.

10 Head of Horses 10

In addition to the cattle, I am selling ten head of horses. Two bay geldings six years old, weighing 3,200; one gray gelding five years old, weighing 1,450; two bay mares five and six, weight 2,600; one gray mare five years old, weight 1,250; three draft colts two years old, and one driving horse three years old.

28 Poland China Sows

Also twenty-eight head of Poland China brood sows past a year old and one hundred head of May pigs. And also there will be eight head of two year old Shorthorn steers. Also one Holstein Milch cow to freshen in September.

Jake Barber and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barber plan to start for Brainerd, Minn. Thursday morning to visit Mrs. Chas. Black, daughter of Mr. Barber.

M. C. Church

Church and Sunday school attendance last Sunday were quite good considering the weather.

The Ladies Aid is having another Kensington this Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Clifton. Ice cream and cake will be served and a charge of ten cents will be made.

Plan to take a "trip around the world" with the Epworth League on August 25th.

Those in the Primary department of the Sunday school are refecting over a new set of song books. There are some real musical little people in this department and all are enjoying learning the new songs.

Because of weather and bad road conditions the meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society which was to have been with Mrs. A. H. Jackman last Thursday had to be postponed until this week.

The regular monthly business and social meeting of the Epworth League was held at the church on Monday evening with twenty-one in attendance. Some important business was transacted and a very pleasant evening spent. The committee served refreshments of ice cream and cake. If you are a young person of North Loup and not identified with any other church you are invited to these meetings.

There are being made or an exchange of pastors next Sunday. Rev. Chamberlin of Loup City will preach here in the morning and Rev. Maynard of Ord in the evening and Rev. Clifton will preach for them.

There are only three remaining Sundays in our church year. Have you done all for the church that you planned at the beginning of the year? If not the opportunity is yours for three weeks more.

RIVERDALE

(By Mrs. Lottie Wright)

Julius Schoening drove his to cattle to Sumter to ship. He accompanied the shipment to Omaha.

Margaret Shufel attended a slumber party at Katherine Chadwick's Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stude spent last Tuesday at Wetzel's, visiting and picking choke cherries.

Edna and Ellen Baker went to Greeley Friday. Saturday night they stayed at Duke Carr's in Horace and returned home Sunday.

Fred Green spent Wednesday night and Thursday with his daughter Mrs. Willet Wright and family.

Frank Manchester, whose home is in Council Bluffs, is in this vicinity threshing and he spent one of the rainy days visiting at Albert Brown's.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Redden took dinner at Kirk's Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Redden of Omaha are visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bartz Sr. Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Redden and Paul Bartz spent the day at Geo. Bartz.

The neighbors and friends who met at the George Bartz home on Thursday evening, pleasantly surprised Miss Helen Pazant on her eighteenth birthday. She is still enjoying the beautiful bouquet of gladiolus presented to her by Mrs. Athey.

There were five tables of Rook. The refreshments were ice cream and cake. The guests from away were Mr. Kirk's mother and his sister's family, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kibra and daughter Joyce. They all dispersed at the midnight hour wishing her many more happy birthdays.

Edna Baker is staying at the E. A. Sins home in Ord.

Brown tells me that Herman Schoening, Geo. and Fred Bartz Jr. went to Lake Ericson last Saturday with the intentions of filling their game sack with fish, but when they returned to their boat they found the turtles had devoured their catch.

Ross Jenkins drove to Grand Island Sunday.

Frank Wright Sr. is working at the Ed. Hish place.

The usual jolly group of young people surprised Mrs. Floyd Wetzel Tuesday evening. The party was not as large as usual, thinking perhaps in that way to really surprise her.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins and their guests, Mesdames Ella Cooke and Gail Krievanek, took supper Saturday night at the home of another daughter, Mrs. Paul Maddox, near Scotia.

Frieda and Julius Schoening, Otto Brown and Mr. and Mrs. attended a birthday party for Ruth Hansen in North Loup Saturday night.

John Krievanek spent an evening last week at Floyd Wetzel's.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott they Kimbro, Mr. and Mrs. Kirk came from Greenville, Illinois Wednesday and were guests at the Emer Kirk-home until Tuesday when they started on their return trip.

In common with other communities heretofore we have not had more than an abundance of rain. A storm came up Wednesday evening but blew around, but early in the morning another came up and we were treated to quite a severe hail storm.

Up near the school house and beyond over toward Horace the wind was evened out. The hail was in several places the next day we saw where corn and even grass had been blown until it laid up hill almost touching the ground.

From Floyd Wetzel's down, the hail seemed worse but it did not extend as far as at Scotia. There was no hail at Wetzel's. The corn fields at Athey's and on Gowen's place seemed to show the worst damage.

Greatest damage however, was done at Gus. Wetzel's, where the acres of truck which they have worked at so hard was almost ruined. Cabbages, tomatoes, etc., were so badly damaged that they will soon rot.

Practically all gardens in this vicinity were ruined. It is hard to estimate the damage to the corn. Whether stalks were badly bruised so that it will not recover is a question. At any rate the growth will be stunted and the yield materially shortened.

Again Sunday we were given an all-day rain—the kind that comes slow but amounts to a lot, and again Tuesday night a hard dashing rain lasting nearly half an hour. A few hail stones fell but not enough to hurt anything much. All who spoke of it have mentioned the cloud Tuesday night as being the worst they have seen this summer.

SUMTER ITEMS

(By Mrs. Ed C. Miller)

Sumter was visited by a terrible rain storm Tuesday evening. Over three inches of rain fell. Roads and fields were covered with water. A little hail came here but not enough to do much damage but we understand that Springfield and vicinity had quite a lot of hail.

Dwight Sherer and sister Miss Minnie, are visiting with the Mott Rathbun and Guy Waterbury families this week.

George Kellison and family spent Sunday at the Mott Rathbun home.

Merrill Pierce is spending a few weeks at the home of his uncle, Theo Miller Jr. of Arcadia.

Rude Inbody and Julius Schoening shipped two car loads of cattle on Monday.

Joe Osemtowski returned from Wyoming Thursday of last week.

Mrs. Cash Rathbun attended the shower given by Mesdames Anton Beran and Henry Eager in honor of Miss Ruth Hoepfner.

Lewin Drake and three younger children of Trenton, Mo., are visiting relatives this week.

Mrs. Oscar Chubbuck spent Tuesday afternoon with Cligord Chubbucks.

Frank Osemtowski and family visited at the James Krumel home on Sunday.

Mrs. Archie Negley and children and Mrs. James Whitting Sr. are visiting the Jess Lee and the Floyd Whitting families at Shelton.

The Springfield Kensington club sent a very enjoyable afternoon at the home of Mrs. Cash Rathbuns.

Arrangements were made for the club exhibit at the Valley county fair, after which the hostess served a dainty lunch of date jelly and fruit punch.

It was decided to have the club meet this coming Thursday at the home of Mrs. Mott Rathbun.

The Earl Drake family visited the Cecil Drake family Sunday.

(By Otto B. Schott)

Amos Keeter is having more trouble with his frogs than ever.

Amos sent out a large size incubator to handle his frog eggs, and set it about two weeks ago.

It happened that he had to go away for a short time, and he left Jack Cass to look after affairs.

Jack could not refrain from experimenting and he figured out that an increase of heat would result in quickening of incubation and so he turned on a little more current.

This week the tadpoles were hatched, and the extra heat had burned their skins until they are a chocolate brown instead of the light gray that is the inherent birthright of properly produced tadpoles.

This is serious, as Amos can't sell them for thoroughbred unless the extra color can be eradicated.

On his way home to Arcadia the other day Bill Oleksa, the prominent Irish doctor, said what he thought to be a log lying on the edge of the road.

It was a short time after he had passed the Coats place, and he was traveling rapidly and looking back over one shoulder about half the time.

Without slacking speed, he turned to the left side of the road, thinking there would be room to pass the obstruction.

Imagine his fright to see the log suddenly rise up and flop down directly in front of his Ford.

When a couple of old maids took the remnant of a short time after, and folded them across his many breast, they sincerely felt that the spirit had departed.

The doctor arrived, and found that he was suffering from concussion of the brain from sitting down too suddenly.

As soon as he could talk, Bill asked about the log that had caused the accident. No log could be found, but Greenback 3d, Amos Keeter's pedigree herd bull, was found hopping about in a nearby slough.

He was picking sparrows and other birds off the trees as easily as an ordinary frog captures flies.

When I asked of the Ford that both from wheels of the Ford and hit him one in the neck and the other across the small of the back. Save for a few slight bruises he was able to proceed home under his own power when Mr. Keeter called on him a short time later.

The Ford was a complete wreck and Oleksa hung it on a fence post, expecting to fix it back for it later.

When he got back the Ford was gone, as Willie Kisser had mistaken it for a can, and had taken it to carry half in. Full particulars of this will appear next week.

Now we might think that two Grandmothers club would be enough for one week, but we cannot choose our items.

For some time past Mrs. Jigard has been complaining to her husband that the rats are skunking her. She was bothered by her chickens. She thought at first that it might be the chickens, but the finding of the chicken thieves had the finding of several hens in the canyon back of the barn discounted this idea.

Tuesday night Mr. Jigard set a steel trap in hopes of catching the miscreant. The next morning the trap had disappeared. The only way he was able to find was some peculiar three cornered tracks about a foot long in the dust behind the hen house.

Jigard searched the neighborhood all day in an endeavor to find out where his trap had gone, but in vain. That night one of Amos Keeter's best and biggest bull frogs came hopping home with a No. 2 steel trap attached to his tail.

The tales of the strange animal that has been terrorizing the residents of the hill country to the north of Arcadia so excited some of our young Davy Crocketts that a hunting party was organized last week, whose members pledged themselves to solve the mystery and capture the animal, or die in the attempt.

On Friday morning they set out on foot, taking provisions with them to last the week. Those present were Lynn C. Doyle, Seymour Hyde, Gabe L. Endd and Otto Killen.

They arrived at the scene of the beast's depredations about noon, and during the afternoon found plenty of evidence that such an animal as had been described really existed.

The party partially devoured carcasses of several calves were found in as many different places. Toward evening they discovered the place where it had made its den. This was a hollow place beneath a stump hill side and the animal had pulled up a number of plants bushes by the roots and arranged them around in a semi circle to form a better protection.

It was away when the discovery was made. The party at once decided to encase them selves in convenient locations and await the return of the beast to its den.

Doyle and Hyde climbed a convenient tree, made themselves a bower in its branches and took turns watching and sleeping throughout the night.

Eadd and Killen took the first of the brow of the hill and spent the night there. About four o'clock in the morning the beast came. Killen was the first to glimpse the baleful glare from its fiery eyes and let out a whoop to awaken his sleeping comrades.

Doyle woke up with a start, rolled over and fell out of the tree breaking his leg. Hyde let fly with his trusty shotgun but his aim was bad, and he hit Gabe L. Endd on the exact spot to which his name refers.

He then dropped out of the tree and hurried straight home to feed the hogs. Killen's position indeed was perilous. With his two remaining companions out of the running it is not to be wondered at that he shook with fright.

Meanwhile the beast approached in a peculiar jerky manner until it came across the body of Doyle, who had fainted, either from fright or the pain of his injury.

Here it paused a moment, rooting him about with its muzzle. It had evidently satisfied its hunger, and (Continued next week)

FROM OUR EXCHANGES

Mrs. Chas. Haley received word Saturday that her father was very low and left at once to be with him.

Mr. Tuttle took her and Mr. Haley to Grand Island where she took the train for the remainder of the journey.

Miss Florence Haley is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Haley—Amity Items in Ericson Journal.

Rev. E. H. Maynard, pastor of the M. E. church at Ord, but for six years pastor of the M. E. church here, coming the fall of 1910 and leaving the fall of 1916, made his office a much appreciated visit, on our part, last Saturday afternoon.

He came over to officiate at the wedding of Miss Clarice Tobias and L. Carlton Zink—Sargent Leader.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Kosmata and daughter of Ord were over Sunday guests at the Jacob Belina home—Burwell Tribune.

Geo. P. Emig and sister Mrs. Lilly Sharp and Mr. and Mrs. John Call are spending a few weeks at Hot Springs, South Dakota—Taylor Clarion.

SOCIAL EVENTS OF THE COMMUNITY

Yesterday afternoon was Missionary day for the Presbyterian church people. The party was given at the home of Mrs. Marion Cushing.

At these meetings they celebrate the birthday of any lady having had a birthday within the past three months.

At this meeting the following eight ladies were entertained: Mesdames Will Bartlett, Frank Serch, Alta Hill and the Misses Margaret Brown, Louise Johnson Ethel Travis and Bernice Mead.

These ladies were seated at a separate table and each of them were presented with a small cake with a burning candle. The serving committee was Mesdames C. J. Miller, Anton Beran, Ed Banister and the hostess Mrs. Marion Cushing.

There was a good attendance and of course all were treated to refreshments, ice cream, cake, ice tea, etc.

The Christian Missionary Society are having a chicken supper at the park this evening.

Mrs. Read, Mrs. Paul Emery of Lincoln, a sister-in-law of Mrs. F. L. Blessing and Mrs. Douglas Beedell of Chicago, a sister of Mrs. C. J. Mortenson. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. F. A. Barta.

Mrs. Jim Tolen will entertain the Grandmothers club tomorrow afternoon.

The Jolly Sisters are planning a picnic for next Tuesday at the park. They have asked their husbands and plan on taking all the fried chicken the men can eat.

The Rebekah lodge had a good turn out last Tuesday in spite of the bad storm. Mrs. W. M. Carlton's committee served refreshments.

The Missionary Society of the Methodist church held a meeting in the church parlors yesterday.

Mrs. Henry Marquard's Sunday school class enjoyed a picnic last week on the Marquard lawn.

The Jolly Sisters held their regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at the J. J. Beeble home.

Our Exchanges

Doggone this idea that women have of all dressing alike. The other day I passed a woman on the street who looked like the Boss, same size, same kind of a hat, same kind of a dress. I yelled at her and she stopped. When I saw it wasn't The Boss the only thing I could think of to say was, Gimme a match.—Ole Buck in Harvard Courier.

Messrs. Arthur Van Slyke, Oliver Collison, and Vernon Anderson of Ord visited here Tuesday and Wednesday at the home of Jos. Vancick while motorizing from Ord to Omaha.—Schuyler News.

Mrs. Arthur A. Clements and son Robert, returned to their home at Paonic, Colorado, Friday after spending the last three weeks with her sister, Mrs. W. E. Cover and family.—Central City Nonpareil.

Probably the largest gathering of Lions and Lionesses in over a year assembled Monday noon at the Hays hotel to listen to the musical program given by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fuson of New York. The occasion proved to be one of rare enjoyment. Many special guests were present. Rev. Jesse W. Foster, new instructor in art at Nebraska Central college, gave a much appreciated talk on art.

The Fusons were for six years entertainers on the Redpath-Horner circuit and during the past five years they have been in New York City. The unusually fine harmony attained by their voices, their selection of beautiful numbers and their pleasing address and personality made them instant favorites. Applause for each selection was fervent and continued. Mr. Fuson is a brother of Mrs. Fred Hallock.

It was with deep regret that the Lions and their guests watched the Fusons' depart hurriedly at 12:30 for Grand Island where they had another engagement. The club voted their thanks to the entertainers, and to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hallock, who brought them to Central City.—Central City Nonpareil.

Rex Collins and family left Wednesday on their homeward trip. They went from here to Milford, Nebraska to visit a sister, then to Mitchell, for a few days with Dr. Collins and Earl, then to Moorcroft, Wyoming for a short stop with the Clarence Thurston family there. They expect to reach their home in Washington the first week in September.

Rev. E. A. Knight received a telegram last Thursday announcing the death of his brother at Luddington, Michigan.—Ohiowa News.

Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Knight and Miss Mildred attended the Epworth assembly at Lincoln the past week.—Ohiowa News.

Editor Fred G. Reeve of the Pioneer at Howard, S. D., recently announced in his paper that "if the best looking lady in Howard will call at the Pioneer office she will be presented with a dollar bill. Eight dignified matrons of the city donated their best apparel and charged the newspaper office in a body. The editor took 'em all for an ice cream treat but did not attempt to pick the winner of the dollar.—Geneva Signal.

The "educational" advantages of a Chautauqua were again demonstrated this week when "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot", chanted by a bunch of coons, drew double the crowd of any of the lectures in the course. Kinda humbling, but it is a fact that as a community we prefer magicians, accordion players, Ventriloquists and the like to the "educational" dope. Truth is we are fed up on boosting which is founded on the educational bunk and patriotic twaddle.—Fred Howard in Clay County Sun.

Commencing Tuesday of this week, the Burlington is now running a passenger coach all the way from Burwell to Lincoln. The same rule prevails on the return trip. Heretofore passengers had to change at Palmer and Aurora.

A week of fishing at Lake Ericson netted the Misses Anna and Rose Doyle 100 fish, varying in size from one to four pounds. They returned from the lake this morning.—Greely Citizen.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bradt of Ord drove down Tuesday forenoon for a few days visit with relatives here.—Wolbach Messenger.

Mrs. Will Post, and children of Aurora returned home Monday. Mrs. Post's mother, Mrs. Toppes accompanied them and will visit there for a couple of weeks.—Burwell Tribune.

Mrs. Carl Moss and children of Palisade arrived in Burwell the first of the week and are visiting relatives and friends for a few days.—Burwell Tribune.

Rev. H. M. Pinckney, a former resident of this city, but for the present living in Omaha, and his son, Dr. Chas. E. Pinckney, a physician, also a former resident of Broken Bow, spent several days with old time friends here this week. Rev. Pinckney and his wife are making their home with their youngest daughter, Grace, who is a school nurse in Omaha. Dr. Chas. Pinckney and his wife have had a most interesting experience since leaving Broken Bow several years ago and signed up with the Board of Missions for work in the Orient. From here they went to New York City and after a six weeks stay there went to London, England, where they spent four months in a medical school studying tropical medicine. They were directed to go to Batavia, Java, where they were for two years in a mission hospital and studying all the time in the government school. As Java is under Dutch rule, it is needless to say that all training there was of the most thorough kind.

The next move was when orders came to go to southern India and they were stationed at Bidar where he had charge of the mission hospital. After a year here when the he was intense, Mrs. Pinckney's health began to fail and on her account they decided to return to the United States and accordingly started for home. On the return they visited points in China, Japan and Hawaii, landing in San Francisco, California, Friday the 13th of June. They spent a short time at Fairmeade, California, with relatives of Mrs. Pinckney and then made the trip by auto to Omaha, where they held a family reunion, all members being present, excepting Mrs. Mabel McGuire who lives in Washington state.

It will be of interest to their friends to know that Rev. Pinckney's oldest son, R. M. who has held a position in the agricultural school at Bozeman, Mont. for the past fourteen years is now in St. Paul, Minn., studying for his doctor's degree in chemistry and the sister, Miss Mabel, is still with the business department of the Montana school as stenographer.—Custer County Chief.

The Pinckney family lived in Valley county years ago and have many here who will be glad to know about them.

Ralph Collins little boy is having a siege of mumps. The little fellow seems to be having quite a time of it.—Loup City Standard.

Mrs. R. S. Dickinson left today for a visit in Ord at the F. O. Holden home.—Columbus Telegram.

THE CHARGE DENIED

In last week's Quiz brother Leggett uses a lot of valuable space giving excuses, not reasons, why he refuses ads for traveling doctors. His line of argument is all bosh, as any one knows who analyzes it. He would not hesitate to accept an ad from a foreign concern which competes with Ord merchants. Why do doctors need protection more than those of other professions or lines of business. Their code of ethics keep them from advertising, and so far as we are concerned, Leggett, we would starve if we depend upon them for support. Our very closest friend and associate is a doctor but he does not expect me to spend time and give space in an effort to keep competition from him. It is possible and not improbable Leggett may be playing to the grandstand. North Loup, Loyalist, better take up before it is too late.

I deny the insinuation or suggestion by Bro. Rood, that I am "playing to the grandstand." I have got advertising space to sell and will sell it to a doctor as quickly as to anyone else if I am convinced that he is on the square and can deliver the goods as agreed. I will sell space to established merchants, hospitals, mills or manufacturers that compete with Ord merchants and business concerns, just the same as Ord merchants will sell their goods to any one who has the money and wants them. But I won't knowingly sell space to any fake concern and my claim is that a "one day doctor" is a fake because it is impossible for any doctor to make a diagnosis of a chronic case in that time and prescribe a cure that will be any help. I will decline to sell space to any one else when I have reason to believe the advertising will be harmful to Quiz readers.

ADVERTISING

Did you ever stop to think— That the world is full of substitutes but there never have been invented any substitute for advertising through the printed page worth considering?

That the advertising of a business, and a willingness to serve does much to build a better business?

That the business men who cling tenaciously to the old ways of doing business never get very far in these days of keen competition?

That nowadays you can find in the advertising columns the names of modern business concerns who operate normally and successfully?

That the most practical thing to do to inject life into a near-dead business, is to advertise it truthfully and persistently?

That some business concerns labor under the delusion that just because they have been in one location for a long while that everybody knows them and therefore are in no duty bound to buy from them?—that class better make up before it is too late.

That it doesn't pay to be independent of the public when you are depending upon them for patronage?

That the noise of good advertisement attracts attention and persistence in service advertised are right.

Business firms should get their business so firmly established in the minds of the buying public that when the public thinks "Buy," they think of their places first. Advertising does the work—advertise—E. R. Waite, Secretary Shawnee, Oklahoma Board of Commerce.

It is almost a daily occurrence to have someone make the remark that business conditions are getting better. Many of our troubles are imaginary and never really happen. We have had a serious business slump and conditions have been bad but we are lots better off than we realize and we are "coming back" much faster than most communities. Valley county is the greatest place on earth to get on its feet, after a fall.

A citizen of Burwell saw an advertisement where it offered six decanters for $6 f.o.b. He sent the money and when they came he was very mad and wanted his money back because they were empty. The lawyer he went to asked him what he expected them to contain. "Full of booze," what else does f.o.b. mean?

Fred Howard wants to know what difference it would make if the worm did turn since he is the same on both ends.

Chataqua is in theory at least an educational institution but I notice that the entertainment numbers which smacked of old fashioned times drew the most applause. It is all fine and dandy to "educate" the people and feed them up on classic stuff but I am not sure but it would be good to encourage the singing of the good old songs and the playing of the good old tunes, at least half of the time and by doing so I am sure those charged with the responsibility of putting over the Chataqua next year would have an infinitely easier job.

The boys still continue to run the state fair advertising and some of them have surely run that ad a half dozen times, or they have given the state fair management a rate about a quarter what they charge the home advertisers. Some of them will be running it yet when the state fair is over.

I am hearing a good many favorable comments on the new department which Mr. Vodehnal has promised to keep going till such time as his copy finds its way to the waste basket.

An Ord man attended a social given for the benefit of the foreign missions that is, any profits were for missions and the charge was 25 cents. Ice cream and cake coffee and other things were served and it was probably assumed that most of the guests would have had supper and not be very hungry or the price would have been pitched higher. At any rate the Ord man had disposed of his third dish of ice cream had eaten four pieces of cake, disposed of three sandwiches and was passing his dish for more ice cream and remarked to a friend that he believed such enterprizes should be encouraged. It was estimated that his eats didn't cost the committee over $1.25 so the missions was only out a dollar on his account.

I have had so any calls for copies of the Quiz which contained the writeup of the Old Settlers picnic recently held in the Bussell Park in Ord that I am going to explain that the story was written by Superintendent H. L. Cushing. Mr. Cushing attended the picnic and furnished us with the story and should have been credited with writing it at the time.

I think the statement of Candidate Davis that he is anxious that the United States enter the League of Nations will cool the ardour of some of the Democrats.

I am proud of the record the Quiz correspondents are making. Last week for the first time in several weeks all the letters from regular correspondents were set and printed. One man said the other day that he didn't care for this country news and asked why I printed it. He happened to be a town man and I happen to know that stories about crops or good stock or markets would be about the extent of his interest. In fact he admitted that he didn't care for the town locals or the society news. It is a fact that a newspaper cannot be printed that will suit all the readers. What suits one will not suit another. The ladies like the locals and the society news everyone likes the items that refer to themselves, the people in the neighborhoods where there are correspondents like the news from their neighborhood and there are always some all over the county and even in other states, who have moved away and now watch the home neighborhood news with great interest. I was talking just recently with a lady who has been away from here for 30 years but she says she always reads the paper through and frequently finds items about former friends or neighbors and about relatives. The Quiz is never less than 16 pages and probably will not be less than that size and if some plans which are in the making, materialize as we expect probably the Quiz will carry 24 pages occasionally. But even in a 16 page paper there will surely be enough that will interest every subscriber to make the paper worth the 50¢ a week that it costs. Surely everyone will be able to get the worth of his or her money.

An Ord woman got mad at the Quiz editor a few years ago because we couldn't agree on certain matters of civic improvement, though both had a right to hold his own views on such matters and to express them. But this woman got mad and came in and sopped her copy of the paper and then not satisfied wrote a very mean and insulting letter to the editor. The letter has been carefully preserved. Now I have no doubt the woman in question would be highly indignant if I were to accuse her of stealing the Quiz since that time but that is just exactly what she has done every week that she so mad at this newspaper and its editor or so ashamed of her action that since that day when she wrote the letter and stopped her copy of the Quiz she has never spoken when we met yet each week she has pilfered the news contents of the Quiz. No doubt she claims to be a Christian woman and probably she would feel insulted if she were accused of stealing but what else can it be called.

Moya had recognized him from the first instant. Now Joyce too saw who he was. She twisted lithely from the bed, slipped past Moya, past the miners, and with the sob of a frightened child caught at his hand and arm.

"Oh, Mr. Kilmeny, save us . . . save us!"

Jack nodded reassuringly. "It's all right. Don't worry." She clung to him, shivering back to self-control. This man's presence spelled safety. In the high-laced boots of a mining man, he showed a figure well-knit and graceful, springy with youth, but carrying the poise of power. His clean-cut, bronzed face backed the promise; so too did the ease of his bearing.

Moya gave a deep sigh of relief and sat down on the edge of the bed, grown suddenly faint. At last her burden was lifted to stronger shoulders.

"You ain't wanted here, Jack Kilmeny," the standing miner said sourly. He was undecided what to do, perplexed and angry at this unexpected hindrance.

"Seems to be a difference of opinion about that, Peale," retorted the newcomer lightly, kicking snow from the spurs and the heels of his boots. "Trefoye and me own this cabin. You'll sing small, by gad, or you'll get out."

"You wouldn't put a dog out on a night like this, let alone a man. It would be murder," Kilmeny answered mildly.

"There's horses in the tunnel. You can bed 'em," Jack glanced around, took in the whisky bottle and their red-flamed eyes. He nodded agreement.

"Right you are, boys. We three will move over to the tunnel and leave the horse to the women."

"You ain't got the say here, not by a d—," a sight, Jack Kilmeny. "This'll be the way of it. You'll git out. We'll stay. Understand?" Peale ground out between set teeth.

Jack smiled, but his eyes were like steel. "Suppose we go over to the shaft-house and talk it over, boys. We'll all understand it better then."

Kilmeny still stood close to the red-hot stove. He was opening and closing his fingers to take the stiffness of the frost out of them.

"By G—d, no! You go—we stay. See?"

The young man was now rubbing industriously the thumb and forefinger of his right hand with the palm of his left.

"No, I don't see that, Peale. Doesn't sound reasonable to me. But I'll talk it over with you both—in the shaft-house."

Jack's eyes were fastened steadily on Peale. The man was standing close to a shelf in a corner of the cabin. The shelf was in the shadow, but Kilmeny guessed what lay upon it. He was glad that though his legs were still stiff and cold the fingers of his right hand had been massaged to a supple warmth.

"You be warm now, lad. Clear out," warned the big Cornishman.

"Build 'ee a fire in the tunnel, mon," suggested Trefoye.

"We'll all go or we'll all stay. Drop that, Peale."

The last words rang out in sharp command. Quicker than the eye could follow Kilmeny's hand had brushed up past his hip and brought with it a shining thirty-eight.

Taken by surprise, Peale stood stupidly, his hand still on the shelf. His fingers had closed on a revolver, but they had found the barrel instead of the butt.

"Step forward to the table, Peale—with your hand empty. That's right. Now listen. These young women have got to sleep. They're fagged to exhaustion. We three are going over to the shaft-house. Anything you've got to say to me can be said there. Understand?"

The man stood in a stubborn sullen silence, but his partner spoke up. "No guns along, Kilmeny, eh?"

"No. We'll leave them here."

"Good enough, eh, Peale?" Trefoye's small eyes glittered. Slyly he winked to his partner to agree, then got a lantern, lit it clumsily, and shuffled out with Peale at his heels.

Joyce clung to Jack's arm, bewitchingly helpless and dependent. A queer thrill went through him at the touch of her soft finger tips.

"You won't leave us," she implored. "You wouldn't, would you?"

"Only for a little while. Bolt the door. Don't open it unless I give the word." He stepped across to Moya and handed her his revolver. In a very low voice he spoke to her. "Remember. You're not to open unless I tell you to let me in. If they try to break the door shoot through it at them waist high. Shoot to kill. Promise me that?"

Her dark eyes met and searched his. The faintest quiver of the lip showed that she knew what was before him. "I promise," she said in the same low voice.

Moya bolted the door after him and Always look for this ticket for it's the best overall made

The reason that we boast Oshkosh B'Gosh Overalls so strongly is because we know that it is impossible to make a better overall. We know that it is the manufacturer's ambition to always keep Oshkosh B'Gosh at "the top of the heap."

Every tested improvement is adopted for Oshkosh B'Gosh Overalls without delay. Just recently three new features have been added.

First: Hip pockets are now lined with 8 oz. denim, giving two thicknesses of cloth where the wear comes, so that the tools don't wear holes in the pockets. These new pockets will outlast the overall. The hip pockets are also sewed under the side seams, lining and all, giving added strength at the point of greatest strain—across the seat.

Second: The combination watch and pencil pocket has been bettered. It now has a double pocket for time book, etc., and the new center opening makes a safer watch pocket.

Third: Most important of all is the new material used. It is extra heavy weight, extra long wearing and the color remains a nice bright blue no matter how often the overall is washed. "Double Dyed Denim," this new material is called, because it is the only denim that is dyed with genuine indigo by the special Ely process. Every yard of it is cut into Oshkosh B'Gosh Overalls.

Oshkosh B'Gosh lot numbers 101, 201 and 301 are made of Double Dyed Denim. Insist on the name and number and you'll always get the greatest overall made—bar none! They must make good or we will.

THE HIGHGRADER

eat down trembling by the table, the revolver in her shaking hand. She knew he had gone to fight for them and that he had left his weapon behind according to agreement. He was going against odds just as his father had done before him in that memorable fight years ago. If they beat him they would probably kill him. And what chance had one slender man against two such giants? She shuddered.

"What are they going to do, Moya?" whispered Joyce.

Her friend looked at her steadily. "Didn't you hear? They said they wanted to talk over the arrangements."

"Yes, but—didn't it seem to you—? Why did he give you that pistol?" "Oh, just so that we wouldn't be afraid."

Hand in hand they sat. Their hearts beat like those of frightened rabbits. The wall of the wind screaming outside seemed the cry of lost souls. Was murder being done out there while they waited?

Kilmeny strode after the Cornishmen with the light-footed step of a night nurse. Beside the huge miners he looked slight, but the flow of his rippling muscles was smooth and hard as steel. He had been in many a rough and tumble fray. The saying went in Goldbanks that he "had the guts" and could whip his weight in wildcats. There was in him the fighting edge, that stark courage which shakes the nerve of a man of lesser mettle. He knew that tonight he needed it if ever he did. For these men were strong as bears and had as little remorse.

Inside the shaft-house, his quick glance swept the dimly lighted room and took in every detail.

Trefoye put the lantern down on a shelf and turned to the man who had interfered with them. "Is't a fight ye want, mon?"

Kilmeny knew the folly of attempting argument or appeal to their sense of right. Straight to business he cut. "I'm not hunting one. But I reckon this is up to me. I'll take you one at a time—unless you'd rather try it two to one and make sure."

His sneer stung. Peale tore off his coat with an angry roar.

"By G—d, I'm good enough for you." Head down like a bull, he rushed at his foe. Jack sidestepped and lashed out at him as he shot past. Peale went down heavily, but scrambled awkwardly to his feet and flung himself forward again. This time Kilmeny met him fairly with a straight left, tilted back the shaggy head, and crossed with the right to the point of the jaw.

As the fellow went to the floor the second time Jack was struck heavily on the side of his face and knocked from his feet upon the body of the Cornishman. Even as he fell Kilmeny knew that Trefoye had broken faith. He rolled over quickly, so that the latter, throwing himself heavily on top of him, kneed his partner instead of Jack.

His great hands gripped the young man as he wriggled away. By sheer strength they dragged him back. Kilmeny wrapped his legs around Trefoye to turn over. He heard a groan and guessed the reason. The muscular legs clenched tighter the man above him, moved slowly up and down those of his foe. With a cry of pain the Cornishman flung himself to one side and tore loose. His trouser legs were ripped from thigh to calf and blood streamed down the limb. The sharp revolvers of Kilmeny's spurs had sunk into the flesh and saved their owner.

Jack staggered to his feet half dazed. Peale was slowly rising, his murderous eyes fixed on the young man. The instinct of self-preservation sent the latter across the room to a pile of steel drills. As the two men followed he stooped, caught up one of the heavy bars, and thrust with a short-arm movement for Trefoye's head. The man threw out his hands and keeled over like a stuck pig.

Kilmeny threw away his drill and fought it out with Peale. They might have been compared to a rapier and a two-handed broadsword. Jack was more than a skilled boxer. He was a cool punishing fighter, one who could give as well as take. Once Peale cornered him, bent evidently on closing and crushing his ribs with a terrific bear hug. It would have been worth a dozen lessons from a boxing master to see how the young man fought him back with jabs and uppercuts long enough to duck under the giant's arms to safety.

The wild swinging blows of the Cornishman landed heavily from time to time, but his opponent's elbow or forearm often broke the force. The lighter man was slippery as an eel, as hard to hit as a Corbett. Meanwhile, he was cutting his foe to ribbons, slashing at him with swift drives that carried the full force of one hundred seventy-five pounds, sending home damaging blows to the body that played the mischief with his wind. The big miner's face was a projection map with wheels for mountains and with rivers represented by red trickles of blood.

Quartermen round the room they came again to the drills. Peale, panting and desperate, stooped for one of them. As he rose unsteadily Kilmeny closed, threw him hard, and fell on top. Jack beat savagely the swollen upturned face with short arm jolts until the fellow relaxed his hold with a moan.

"Don't 'ee kill me, mon. I've had enough," he grunted.

Kilmeny Threw Away His Drill and Fought It Out With Peale.

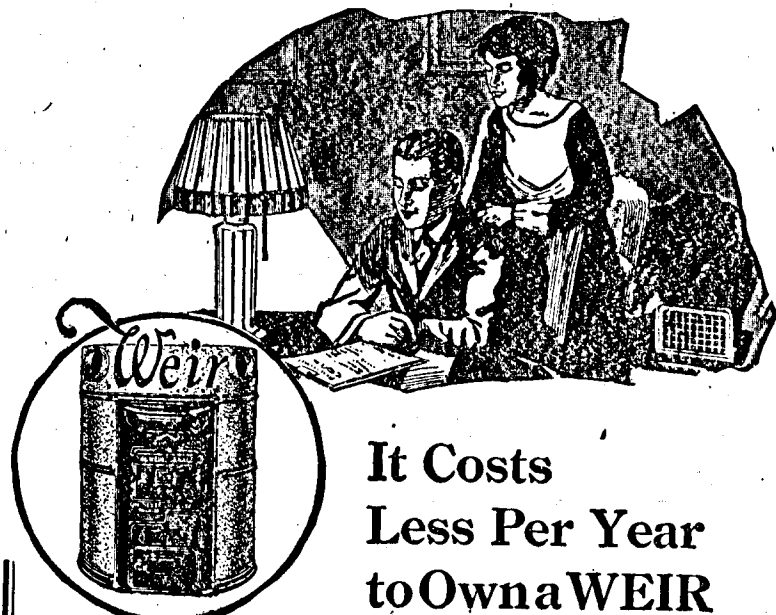

Kilmeny sprang to his feet, caught up the bar of steel, and poked the prostrate men in the ribs with it.

"Get up," he ordered. "You're a pair of cowardly brutes. Can't be decent to a couple of helpless women in your power. Can't play fair in a fight with a man half the size of one of you. Get up, I say, and throw a dipperful of water in Trefoye's face. He's not dead by a long shot, though he deserves to be."

Peale clambered to his feet in sulky submission and did as he was told. Slowly Trefoye's eyelids flickered open.

"What be wrong wi' un?" he asked, trying to sit up.

"You got what was coming to you."

TIRE building took a big step forward when the makers of United States Tires invented the Latex Process.

The added strength and wearing quality given by Latex-treated cords is something that the user of Royal Cords can tell you about from his own experience.

Royal Cords are the standard of value in cord tire equipment—even more certainly today than ever before.

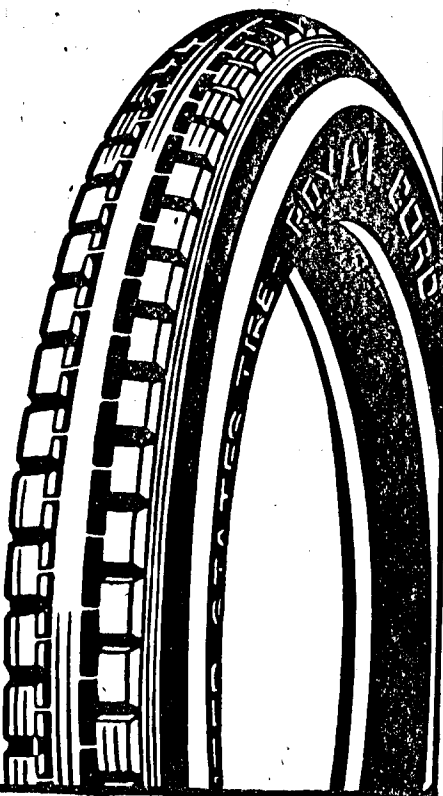

And this holds good whether you are considering a High-Pressure Tire, a Balloon-Type Tire to fit your present wheels and rims, or a Balloon Tire for a 20 or 21 inch wheel.

Is it enough, or do you want more?" "Did 'ee hit me, lad. Fegs, it's enough. I give you best."

"Then get up. We'll go back to the house for blankets and fuel. You'll sleep tonight with the horses in the tunnel."

The two girls shivering in the hot room heard the footsteps of the returning men as they crunched the snow. Moya sat opposite the door, white to the lips, her hand resting on the table and holding the revolver. Joyce had sunk down on the bed and had covered her face with her hands.

A cheerful voice called to them from outside.

"All right. Everything settled. Let us in, please."

Moya flew to the door and unbolted it. The Cornishmen came in first, and after them Kilmeny. At sight of the ravages of war Joyce gave a little cry of amazement. The big miners were covered with blood. They had the cowed hangdog look of thoroughly beaten men. Jack's face too was a sight, but he still walked springily.

He gave curt commands and the others obeyed him without a word. Almost the first thing he did was to step to the table and fling the whiskey bottle through the door into the storm.

"We'll not need that," he said.

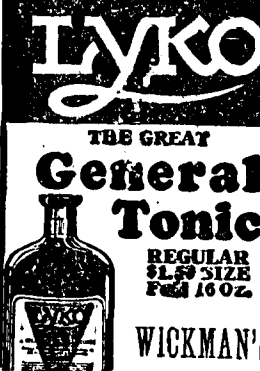

One of the miners gathered up their extra blankets while the other took a load of firewood.

As soon as they had gone Joyce cried breathlessly, "You fought them."

Jack looked at her and his eyes softened. All men answered to the appeal of her beauty. "We had a little argument. They couldn't see it my way. But they're satisfied now."

Moya bit her lower lip. Her eyes were shining with tears. A queer emotion welled up in her heart. But it was Joyce who put their thanks

Spring Pigs, mostly sired by "Giant I Am" a wonderful son of Great I Am, the 1920 Nebraska Grand Champion. A few pigs are sired by Cherry King, the sire of the sensational spring boar that won for us Grand Champion at Greeley last year.

We are breeding for market toppers as well as prize winners. We have finished marketing over one hundred head of fall pigs and received extreme top on every truck load.

We are not showing at the fairs this fall as all of our sows are bred for Fall litters.

Last year at Ord and Greeley we won 70 ribbons, including 29 firsts, 2 Senior Champions, 2 Junior Champions, and 2 Grand Champions.

Come and visit us. We will make you welcome and show you a real herd of Durocs.

The big high light in early republican campaigning in Nebraska is the coming of Dawes on August 29th. He will speak at night in the big university memorial stadium before upwards of 35,000 people.

The entire nation will be looking on and listening in when this human dynamo lifts the national campaign. Delegations and individuals from all parts of the state and from other states will be on the ground to hear and to see the spectacular, straight-from-the-shoulder running mate of President Coolidge.

Writers compare the Dawes temperament with that of Roosevelt. He shocked a congressional investigating committee with his Hell'n Maria explosion. His friends say that the world will know the campaign is on at full blast after he has spoken.

He was a big feature in national life before undertaking reconstruction work for the betterment of war-torn countries. His plan of reducing the German reparations to definite and practical terms probably will be followed by further reduction of armaments and a further lowering of taxes in America and elsewhere. In commenting editorially on the Dawes program for a reasonable and productive settlement, the Chicago Tribune says:

"The war is almost over. France and Germany apparently are on the verge of the first economic and political accord they have enjoyed for ten years. Peace appears over Europe. The outlook is brighter than it has been for a decade and for all that, much credit must go to Charles G. Dawes."

The Philadelphia North American, oldest daily newspaper in the country and a staunch progressive organ, says of Dawes and the republican ticket:

"All who participated in the progressive movement of 1912 ought to be glad that the republicans refused to resort to the transparent trickery of putting forward a ticket facing both ways. The American voter is too sophisticated to be deceived by such palpable misnaming as appears in the democratic ticket."

Adam McMullen, republican nominee for governor, returned from a trip through western Nebraska with this one big story in a few words:

"The farmer is smiling."

The head of the state ticket, himself an active farmer for the past fifteen years, found no evidence of unemployment. This, his legislative labor record, indicates how close he is to labor.

Author of employers' liability bill, full crew bill, twice a month pay day bill and measure removing $5,000 limitation from accidental death in hazardous employment.

Locals

The Will Witt family were over from Erlson last Sunday.

Miss Lella Moorman was a return passenger from Burwell the latter part of last week.

Mrs. Ward VanWie has a new auto which she purchased last week from Wilford Williams.

Miss Owens Furtwangler left on Thursday afternoon for Kearney where she will attend school.

Mrs. L. Furtwangler and daughter Ruth left Monday for a visit at Beaver Crossing. Relatives were to meet them at Utica.

Esther Bee had been up from North Loup staying with her grandmother, Mrs. W. W. Loofburrow for a few days. Monday she returned home.

Mrs. Mary Leckey, who now lives near Ord, has purchased an eighty near Burwell and plans on moving onto this place next year and going into the chicken business. That is she will raise small chicks for the market. She has raised seven hundred this year. Next year she will make a specialty of the business.

W. A. Lukesh went to Omaha on Monday with a car load of cattle.

Miss Emma Rasett was a Grand Island visitor the latter part of last week.

Inez Swain and Lucy Rowland returned home this week from the David Holmes farm where they had been spending several weeks.

After spending a few days looking after things on his farm Chris Lindhartsen returned Monday to Omaha. Chris manages to come up about twice a year.

CHESTNUT HILL NEWS

(By Otto B. Schott)

As some of you perhaps know, Chestnut Hill was right in the path of a very violent hail storm this week. Monday a threatening cloud showed up in the west about three o'clock. A little later it swept across the hill leaving nothing in its path. Cal Amity had just finished threshing on the Sam Arrian place, and was on his way to I. B. Jigard's with the outfit when the storm hit him.

The hailstones crashed thru the sheet iron top of the engine like it was paper. The engine and engine under the boiler and the hot water and steam came pouring out, driving Cal out into the open once more. He then crawled under the separator. The hail had crashed through the roof of the machine and was rapidly filling it with a cargo of hail.

Hearing the axles squeaking, Cal took the hint and crawled out just in time to escape as the weight broke the running gear down. About this time a large stone hit him on top of the head and he lost out on the rest of the storm.

Awakening half an hour later to find himself about buried in the hail, only one of his feet sticking out. At the Arrian place the wheat had just been unloaded into the granary. The hail came right through the roof and ground the wheat up into Pettit's breakfast food. It knocked the feathers all off the chickens, and bruised some of the smaller ones up pretty badly.

The cows waded around in the hail until milking time and most of them gave ice cream. At the Noyes place the hail broke a hole through the parlor roof and played 'hot time in the Old Town Tonight' on the keys of the piano.

The old man keeps a loaded shot gun over the door, and a stone hit the hammer of said gun, causing it to explode, the charge seriously killing a team of horses in the barn. Louie Beerbunk was out as soon as the storm ceased shoveling hail into the cellar, expecting to keep it to use in place of ice. It knocked all the spots off Louie's spotted cow, and most of the freckles off the Amity twins.

In Sunday school last Sunday Hiram Quick gave a special talk on the evils of bobbed hair, saying that it was an abomination to the Lord. Then the Rev. Christian N. Deyer got up in church and gave as his text, "The Lord Tempests the Wind to the Shorn Lamb." Sort of a backhanded swipe, so to speak.

Gabe L. Endd helped Amos Keeter clean out his well Monday. He let Amos down into the well with the rope and hauled the trash out in the bucket. When he got through he started to haul the old man up and had him about half way out when the whistle of the thrasher across the road blew for dinner. Gabe recently came from the city where he worked in a factory. The force of habit was too strong for him, and the moment he heard the whistle he let go of the rope and ran for the house. When he came back to work at one o'clock he found Amos in the water up to his neck, nearly frozen and on the verge of nervous prostration. He pulled him up to the edge of the curb, when Amos, thirsting for revenge, made a grab at his collar. Gabe let go in an effort to escape, and down went Keeter to the bottom of the well again. It made him so angry that he climbed the rope and got out himself, a thing he had tried to do before but had failed. Gabe saw him coming and left for parts unknown. He has not been seen since.

Cal Amity is about the stupidest bird that ever bought cold tea for hooch. This year he went to town and bought a license for his car and a hunting license. Saturday he was arrested for speeding and it was found that he had been running his car on his hunting license, for which he was fined $25.00 and had to pay it.

Monday he went fishing. The game warden came along and found him carrying his car license for a hunting license, and he drew another fine of $5.00. Cal says the authorities are always picking on him just because he hasn't got no education.

Fishel Bros., Bennie and Artie, recently returned from an auto trip out west, and say they will walk next time they go. The car needed overhauling before they left, but they took a chance and ran it as it was. On the way back it nearly played out on them, so they stopped at a garage to have it repaired. They waited around a week at a little one horse town while the car was being repaired, with nothing to do and no place to go. Then they paid a bill for $54 for extra parts and $35 for putting them in. There was also a charge for putting in two new inner tubes. The car ran pretty good until they were almost home, when it went foody again. The garage man they took it to the second time was an old friend, and he told them that none of the new parts they paid for had been put in, and even found out that the new tubes were merely the old ones repaired.

Amos Keeter asks us to announce that the big frog killed over near Arcadia was not one of his thoroughbreds, but a genuine wild one.

Jack Cass and Bill Olea returned Saturday night from a weeks camping trip up in the sandhill country. Their itinerary included the celebrated Alkali Lake, which jumped into the lime light last year by claiming to be the home of a sea monster. The boys found out the facts of the case, which are unique enough to require space in these interesting items. Last spring a man up there had a pet bull snake which had grown to enormous size, and which he had plans of selling to a circus at the first opportunity. This snake had reached the unusual length of thirty feet when it tackled too big a morsel and lost its life. It made an attempt to swallow one of the rancher's steers. When it had engulfed the animal, all but its head, the steer kicked so strenuously that it kicked its feet through the hide of the snake. The snake of course died, but the steer was able to walk about, clothed in the snake's skin and dragging about twenty feet of the snake's body behind it. This apparition was what the people saw who reported seeing a sea monster. Local people knew all about it, but knowing the value of the publicity they were certain to gain from the story, they kept the facts of the case to themselves.

The little town of Ashton once had a resident sign painter, but it is said he went crazy. Our local man, Lynn C. Doyle, has been sent for to do some work for the people there. Lynn went down and looked over the list of names he was expected to spell, and came home. He says having to spell all those names is enough to set anybody crazy.

Cal Amity says that there seems to be a doubt as to what to do with Leopold and Loeb. He suggests that they be put to work on a sandhill farm and compelled to earn their own living, or starve to death. That would be giving them hell with a vengeance. Another fitting punishment would be to give them Cal Amity's Ford and make them run it all over every state in the Union, until it went to pieces like the dean's shay.

"You saved us. You're the bravest man I ever saw," she cried.

A deeper color rose to the embarrassed face of the young man. "I expect you didn't need any saving to speak of. The boys got too ambitious. That's about all." He was thinking that she was the most beautiful creature he had ever set eyes upon and thanking his lucky stars that he had come along in the nick of time.

"You can say that, Mr. Kilmeny, but we know," she answered softly.

"All right. Have it your own way, Miss Seldon," he returned with a smile.

"You'll let us doctor your wounds, won't you?" Moya asked shyly.

He laughed like a boy. "You're making me ashamed. I haven't any wounds. I ought to have washed the blood off before I came in, but I didn't have a chance. All I need is a basin of water and a towel."

The girl ran to get them for him. He protested, laughing, but was none the less pleased while they hovered about him.

"Such a dirty towel. Don't you suppose there's a clean one somewhere?" Joyce said with a little move of disgust as she handed it to him.

He shook his head. "It's like the one in 'The Virginian'—been too popular."

Moya gave him the scarf that had been around her head while she was riding. "Take this. No. . . I want you to use it . . . please."

After he had dried his face Jack explained their disposition for the night. "We'll stay in the tunnel. You'll be alone here—and quite safe."

"And you—do you mean that you're going back . . . to those men?" Moya asked.

"They're quite tame—ready to eat out of my hand. Don't worry about me."

"But I don't want you to go. I'm afraid to be alone. Stay here with us, Mr. Kilmeny. I don't care about sleeping," Joyce begged.

"There's nothing to be afraid of—and you need your sleep. I'll not be far away. You couldn't be safer in Goldbanks. I'll be on guard all night, you know," he reassured.

It escaped him for the moment that Joyce was thinking about her own

FAIR BOOSTERS
MAKE TRIPCommunity Service Club Sponsors
Trip. Many Interesting Features
Make Entertainment Enjoyable to All

More than one hundred loyal fair boosters, including the Ord band, and The Rainbow Queen Cadets, took part in the booster trip last Tuesday which was organized and sponsored by the Community Service club, acting in conjunction with the fair board. Twenty-five or thirty cars made the entire trip, starting from Ord at 8:30 in the morning and returning about 6:30 after having visited Elyria, Taylor, Burwell, Sargent, Comstock, Arcadia, Loup City, Scotia and North Loup.

Crowds welcomed the visitors in nearly every town. When the boosters approached Burwell they were met by a delegation of Burwell cars and escorted into that city.

Captain Watson's Rainbow Queen cadets made a decided hit in every town visited with their snappy red and white uniforms, and their well-ordered drill. Barney George, his horse Spark Plug, with Rudy the ostrich, and Sunshine were a part of the company. Brick Norman, George Round, Jr., John Perliniski, and Willis Weekes were responsible for this part of the entertainment. Bert Boquet dressed as Cholly Slaughter with telling effect. Isaac Einstein, many cow boys and other performers were a part of the varied company.

The Ord band under the direction of Glen Auble played in every town and were much appreciated. Rev. Ed. Hill acted as announcer, and told of the advantages of the fair at every stop.

It is felt that a great deal of valuable advertising was done by the boosters, and the fair officers thank those taking part in it, heartily.

FARMER STUCK BY FORK

Last Monday morning John Lickley was stacking when he felt himself falling. He had a pitch fork in his hand and attempted to throw it from him, but the fork came back, a prong of which struck him in the arm, passing clear through and coming out several inches on the other side. He at once pulled it out and went to a doctor. It does not look as though it was going to cause him any serious trouble.

Friday evening Mrs. Bertha Der- and Harold and Lloyd Sack returned home from Sutton where they had been for a few days with Mr. Sack's relatives.

CHARLEY PARKS DEAD

C. W. Parks, who at one time lived at Ord, passed away last week at Lawrence, Kansas. His body was brought to Lincoln for burial. His sister, Mrs. C. J. Barker of Burwell came to Ord to accompany his children to the funeral. Those going from here were his son, Harvey Parks and wife, and his daughter Mrs. Chas. Burdick. The body was taken to Burdick and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Finley went down. Mrs. Finley is a niece of the deceased.

CHANGE IN CLOTHING FIRM

P. C. Perryman came to Ord 14 years ago and established the firm of Gamble & Perryman. Later Alfa Hill acquired an interest in the firm, which became Perryman-Hill and now it becomes Hill & Hill. Ernie Hill taking the interest of Mr. Perryman in the business.

MAY GRAVEL
STATE HIGHWAY

Test Being Conducted to Determine
Traffic on North Loup-Burwell
Highway. Heaviness of Traffic
May Warrant Graveling

Under the direction of State Division Engineer James Knapp, a test is being made this week on the highway between North Loup and Ord, and if traffic is heavy enough to warrant it, gravel may be applied. For some time it has been felt that traffic was unusually heavy on the North Loup-Ord road, and the present test is the result of repeated efforts on the part of county officials and interested parties.

Men working in four hour shifts, representing both the state and county are stationed at places along the road and count Valley County cars, out-county cars, out-state cars, trucks and horse-drawn vehicles, separately.

It is reported that more than one hundred and sixty cars traversed the road Monday, the first day of the test, and that many more passed on Tuesday, although the exact figures are not revealed. The result of the test will not be made public for some time, and in any event, should the warrant it, gravel would probably not be applied before next spring.

However, it is certain that sooner or later, as more and more people come to realize the advantages of gravelled roads over ordinary dirt roads with the lessened maintenance expense, that all Nebraska roads will be gravelled as Minnesota and Iowa are as well as those of many other states, now are. It is simply a question of time, but the test now under way will do much toward revealing when this time will come.

MOTORCYCLE SPEEDERS
FINED TEN AND COSTS

Ernest Smith and Albert Sorenson were fined in Justice Hamilton's court the first of the week, for fast driving with their motorcycles. The boys were circling around over the lawn at the park, contrary to the rules and when called down by caretaker Shirley, got smart with him and their arrest was on his complaint. They were fined $10 each and costs, amounting in all to $14.50 each, which they paid. The officers tell the Quiz that a number of complaints have been made from the country about the fast driving of these motorcycles and they insist that if complaints come in again arrests will follow, as the nuisance must be stopped.

PHILA E. WHITE

Phila E. White was born at Olin, N. H., April 28, 1846 and died at Ord, Nebraska, August 18, 1924 at the age of 78 years, 3 months, and 28 days. On April 28, 1881 she was married to Oscar S. Holden of Puntney, Vt. No children were born to this union. Two years later they moved to Nebraska arriving at Columbus, March 2, 1883. They lived on a farm near Columbus three years and then moved to a farm near Silver Creek where she remained until about May 1st, 1924 when she came to Ord to spend the balance of her days with the family of her stepson P. O. Holden. She was a devout Christian and a member of the Congregational church at Silver Creek for nearly 40 years. Her husband preceded her to the great beyond about 16 years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss her four step children Mrs. H. S. Weekes of Columbus, Nebraska, Mrs. R. S. Dickinson, also of Columbus, H. D. Holden of Broken Bow and F. O. Holden of Ord, their families and a large circle of friends.

MANY FINED FOR WRONG PARKING

City Authorities Determined to Enforce the Ordinance in this Regard.
The Speeders Will Also be Given Attention.

A couple of weeks ago the city authorities published a notice on the front page of both Ord newspapers, warning auto drivers regarding the new parking and speed ordinance and advising them that the law was going to be enforced. In spite of this, the following people have been fined the police judge and in each case have paid a fine of $5 and costs: A. Guggenmos, John Whiting, L. J. Jablonski, Joe Burian, George Varza, Louis Mazza, Alvin Hanke, Jorgen Miller, Iga. Gussini, William Chas. Frank Vella, and Mr. Ackerman. The Quiz prints this news, not because it is very interesting news, but because the offence is serious but to warn other not to get caught in the same way. We know that it was a matter of carelessness on the part of those fined rather than any intent to do wrong for they are farmers and business men with reputations above reproach.

MARGARET BROWN JUDGING AT BROKEN BOW FAIR

Miss Margaret Brown went to Broken Bow Tuesday and is doing judging of the art and commercial exhibits this week at the county fair. Miss Brown is well qualified for this work and has been employed to do the judging in these departments at the Valley County fair next week. Miss Brown has been employed to teach in the city school at Franklin the coming year.

MRS. CHRIS SORESENSEN

Mrs. Chris. A. Sorensen, formerly Miss Dena Christensen, died Sunday at the home of Mrs. Tom Williams, after an illness of six weeks. She submitted to several operations, two of them at Rochester, but was unable to regain her health. She was 33 years of age and leaves, besides her husband, two children, Dennis aged 13 years, and Orin aged 5 years. She also had three sisters and one brother. The remains were taken to Minden for burial on Tuesday and were accompanied by the husband and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Larsen, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sorensen and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Nelson.

GOOD EATS AT THE FAIR

The Ord Christian Church membership will conduct the dining hall and refreshment stand at the usual place on the Fair Grounds during the Fair week. You will find a homelike place and eats. The table service will be in charge of the C. E. society. Friends who wish to contribute anything may phone 268, to G. O. Bell, Supt. of the dining hall concession.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Sunday school at ten o'clock, will be followed by the regular church service at eleven. In the evening all the churches are uniting in the regular monthly union Sunday evening service. The union service this month will be at the Methodist church. Everyone is cordially invited to this service and we trust there will be a good attendance.

Be sure and get our special prices during the fair. Bailey & DeWitt.

MANY BRILLIANT ATTRACTIONS
AT 1924 LOUP VALLEY FAIR

If there was no attraction at the fair except the splendid exhibits every ticket holder would be amply repaid for the money expended, but the exhibits will really be the smallest part of the attractions.

One of the big attractions will be the auto races, which are fully explained in another paragraph. The Ford auto race for women will be more fun than a box of monkeys and you don't want to miss it.

There will be numerous other races, including a mule race, a wagon race, foot races and the frog race which will make you almost die laughing. Then there will be the music by the bands and the free acts on the platform mixed into the program throughout the afternoon.

There are numerous other stunts besides the ball games which many like better than anything else. The ball games this year promise to be exceptionally good.

Then the night show with the great International Revue which will be put on on a platform right close up in front of the grand stand. Don't miss this big show. The McOwen Stock Company will put on one of their big shows every evening during the entire week and many enjoy this form of entertainment. The McOwens are the best on the road.

Then there is the Midway with its bright lights, its singing, its blanket sales, its swings, the hawkers calling their wares and the hundreds of young people throwing confetti, shewing gum, giggling and having a good time. Don't think of missing any part of the fair this year. You will meet all your friends and have the best time of the whole year.

SCOTIA WINS
ONE-SIDED GAME

Mcgrue was the master of the situation last Sunday afternoon when he held the Ord baseball aggregation to five safe swats and Scotia was away with the game by the score of 10 to 2. The Sluggers took an early lead, scoring seven runs in the first four innings, and added three more in the eighth for good measure. Ord entered the full court of honor, and scored twice in the eighth on nothing that resembled a hit, Scotia errors being responsible for their scoring. Ord perpetrated four fielding bobbles, each of them being of the costly variety. Nine hits were gathered off of Honeycutt's delivery, one of these a home run by old man Sautter. Four of the hits were two base swats. Dan Sautter was the leading hitter of the day, getting three out of four. Loup City plays here Sunday, and the home club will scout for a victory. Come out and see the battle.

NOTICE

Court of Honor for both Boy Scout troops will be held at the Community Club Rooms Friday evening, August 22. All members of both Troop Companies, the full court of honor, and the parents of boy scouts are especially requested to be there. Scout executive Curzon of Grand Island will be present, and a number of the boys will undergo scout test work.

YOUTHFUL TRAVELER IS LOCATED AT MINNEAPOLIS

Walter Wetzel, 15-year old son of Mrs. Knut Petersen, arrived last evening from Minneapolis where he was located through the efforts of Sheriff Rounds after his almost distracted mother appealed to him for help. She left the boy with his aunt at Casper, Wyoming several months ago. After he had been there for a time he decided to see more of the world and started out and after visiting numerous places he arrived at Minneapolis about the time his mother asked Sheriff Rounds to help her find him and George was not long in locating him. He put out a call to all Nebraska Sheriffs and the word was turned in to the national association of police officers and in a couple of days a message came to George from the Minneapolis chief of police telling him that he had been located. A ticket was sent for him to come home on and the boy was doubtless glad to get back.

35-ACRE TRACT SOLD

A deal was closed last week by which N. Orcutt sold his 35-acre tract just west of town to Mr. Wilson who lives on the former Wilcox farm south of town, the consideration being $200, which was paid in cash. The sale was made through the Jack Brown agency.

SENT MESSAGE BY FLYING MACHINE

C. J. Mortensen conceived the idea of sending a message to reach Dr. F. V. Barta as he was leaving New York for Europe. In order to reach him the letter had to be sent via flying machine, which was done. The message was made up of numerous best wishes and witty sayings written and signed by friends of the Dr. and no doubt he will get a number of laughs as he bids goodbye to the U. S.

JOHNSON-MARKS

Clara Johnson and Sam Marks were married Monday morning in Kansas and returned to Ord Tuesday. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carm Johnson and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tenry Marks and both are well known in Ord and will have the best wishes of their hosts of friends for their happiness and prosperity. The groom is associated with his father in the stock business.

SEASON FAIR TICKETS

Season fair tickets can be purchased before hand at the bank. You will save money by buying a season ticket. You will enjoy the whole show.

Archibald Gaweke is in Omaha this week with a car load of cattle.

TO DEMONSTRATE

Following is a List of Country Clubs That Will Demonstrate Their Work at the Fair.

Following is a list of Valley country clubs that will have teams at the fair to demonstrate their various kinds of work and the hours at which the demonstration of each club will be made.

Mutual Benefit of Mira Valley—August 27, 11 a. m. Bound button holes and middy pocket.

Neighborhood Sisters—August 27, 1 p. m. Muslin waists and measurements.

Springdale Kensington—August 27, 3 p. m.

Home Makers—August 28, 11 a. m. Set in sleeves.

Royal Kensington—August 28, 1 p. m. Becoming Collars.

Happy Circle—August 28, 2 p. m. Button Holes and Set in Pocket.

Loyal Workers—August 29, 2 p. m. Bias fold and its use.

HOEPFNER FLYNN

Miss Ruth Hoepfner and Lesley Flynn were married last evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Newbecker, Rev. Maynard officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Anton Beran were the only witnesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Flynn have grown up in Ord and both are graduates of Ord schools. Later taking college work to fit themselves for teaching which profession they have followed for several years. They will make their home at Alliance where the groom is employed in the city schools.

The Quiz joins with their friends in wishing them all that life holds in happiness and prosperity.

WHAT IS CHRISTIANITY

(By Mary S. Flint in Unity)

What is Christianity? Surely it is not a conforming to a set of doctrines compiled by theologians of the various schools or sects; but it is a steady march forward day after day following in the footsteps of Jesus Christ, our pattern and our guide. To the mother, Christianity is faithful attendance upon the many tasks in the home; that is, loving care of her children, cheerfulness in arranging and carrying out each household detail and thoroughness in whatever the undertakes.

To the father, the active business man, Christianity means living up to the best and highest ideals. In business it is expressed in generosity, sincerity, and courtesy, even toward those who may seem to be playing a petty game. To the school girl and the school boy it means faithfulness in the learning of each lesson assigned. To the teacher it represents thoroughness, fairness, and freedom from speech that may discourage the pupil. The ball player will play a steady game, when actuated by the Jesus Christ motive; the actor will perform his part more perfectly when he takes Jesus Christ into his life. The minister in the pulpit will better reach the masses when he daily lives Jesus Christ, because in actual service for humanity he loses sight of theological differences; the love of Christ will help him to see the good in all.

Seeking its true nature, we realize that Christianity in its best sense is service for others, put into daily practice. As Ella Wheeler Wilcox expresses it so fittingly, there are

So many gods, so many creeds—
So many paths that wind and wind
While just the art of being kind
Is all the sad world needs.

The Howard Barnes and Hans Hansen families were visiting the Vitt home near Arcadia last Sunday and brought the Vitt children home with them for a few days stay at the Hansen home. There are six of the children, Woodrow, Fern, Donald, Vera, Russell, and Roda, and they are having a lively time out at the Hansen farm this week.

EXPLANATION OF THE RELAY FORD RACE

The relay Ford race is a new one for the Loup Valley Fair, but it has been successfully used in other fairs and invariably makes a hit. Each entry has to have two Ford stock cars. He runs one car for once around the track and then stops on a marked line and cranks up the other car and continues. The race is five times around the track or two and one-half miles.

It is hoped that there are as many as five entries of ten cars in this race and all interested are asked to see C. J. Mortensen. Purse each day $25-$10-$5.

Owing to the popular demand it has been decided to run the mule race on Friday the 29th in addition to Thursday of the fair. The purse will be the same for both days $5-$2.50-$1.

CHAS. FINLEY GAINING FAST

Chas. Finley who underwent a very serious operation recently for the removal of the gall bladder, is improving rapidly and will soon be able to be up and about again.

SLEPT TOO LONG AND GOT CAUGHT

Some folks seek notoriety and others seem to have notoriety thrust upon them. August Soucek is in the latter class. He went to visit his lady love the other evening or night, the Quiz is not advised of the hour of the visit but he stayed too long because he slept too sound and when the housewife in the home where the lady love of August was employed, went to call her, there was August. He was awakened and mildly scolded for his seeming disrespect for the laws of polite society and one word led to another until the woman of the house got peeved and called Sheriff Rounds who came and lodged Soucek in jail. Later a charge of lewd and unbecoming conduct was filed against him and he pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $25 and the trimmings.

August first broke into the limelight a couple of years ago when he was caught and convicted on a looze charge and served six months in the county jail. It is stated that he was entirely convinced, by that experience, that the officers of this county meant it and he may have to be given some more of the same kind of medicine before he will become a good citizen.

GOING ON SHORT VACATION

Dr. Chas. Mizar will leave Saturday of this week for Davenport, Iowa where he will spend a week taking some advanced and new work at the head Chiropractic school. It is expected that there will be ten thousand Chiropractors at this big meeting. They are coming from all over the world and The Hawaiian Islands, Russia, many countries of Europe and even Rome, Italy, which only has one Chiropractor, will be represented. Dr. Mizar was looking forward to an enjoyable as well as a profitable time.

SCHOOL STARTS
SEPTEMBER FIRST

The Ord city school will open Monday September 1. All of the teachers have been employed and Supt. Herbert L. Cushing is busy at the school house these days getting everything in readiness for the opening day. Janitors Hill and Rasett have made needed repairs and the usual renovating and cleaning and filling of floors has been accomplished.

The Quiz is printing a bulletin this week dealing with the various items of interest to patrons and high school pupils. Supt. Cushing hopes to distribute these next week so that only the minimum amount of time may be required in acquainting those interested with the procedure that is to be followed the coming year. The bulletin will contain a complete list of subjects offered in high school, regulations affecting the routine matters of school and other information along similar lines.

Indications at the present time point to an increased enrollment in the high school with about the usual number in the grades.

APPLES GOING TO WASTE

Thousands of bushels of good apples are going to waste in Valley County and will go to waste in the next few weeks for lack of a market. Good apples are being sold in bushels at 75 cents a bushel and no doubt if some one wanted to buy them in truck loads and take them to localities in the state where there are no apples, they could be bought for 50 cents. Transportation is so high that it is practically impossible to ship them. The writer wanted to send a bushel to a friend in Minnesota and a bushel of apples worth $1 cost $1.77 express to send.

The same box that the apples went in can be shipped back from the station that the apples were shipped to filled with fish and ice for just half the amount it cost to ship the apples and the express company will re-ice the box enroute. In other words the express company will handle a wet, leaking box of fish over the same route and go to the work and expense of icing for half the money they will handle a box of clean apples.

FARMER CAUGHT
MAKING BOOZE

Boy in Charge Started to Run When Surprised by Officers. Two Plead Guilty. Fine and Jail.

James Samia, 33-year old Vinton town ship farmer is nicely started on a 30-day jail sentence and has a fine of $500 to pay and his hired man Leonard Luddington whom he left to run his still while he went to Arcadia to get more supplies was fined $100 and costs and remanded to the care of Sheriff Rounds till fine and costs are paid. Judge Gudmundsen assessed the fine against the boy who is eighteen years old on a charge of unlawful possession, while Samia facing a more serious charge of having a still in operation in his possession was taken before Judge Clements in district court. The fine of $500 will be a lien on the Samia farm and he will be turned loose at the end of his 30 day sentence and the fine will be collected by due process of law if Mr. Samia has not paid it in the meantime. The fine of the boy was paid by his grandmother and he was discharged.

The county attorney and sheriff went to the Samia place Friday afternoon on a tip that liquor was being made there and found young Luddington asleep beside the cow barn. When awakened by the approach of the officers the boy started to run but stopped upon being commanded to do so and came back and told all he knew about the manufacture of booze on the place. He at once led the officers into the cow barn where the still was in operation with a stream of alcohol as large as a lead pencil pouring out into the container. The still was red hot and the boy was giving it close attention under directions from his boss, James Samia, who had gone to Arcadia. The still, several quarts of manufactured product, and numerous cans, jugs, bottles and pails of mash, etc. were loaded into an automobile and brought to Ord and lodged in the cell room off the office of the sheriff. The balance of the mash on hand was destroyed.

Both men made sworn statements to the officers separately and seemed as far as can be determined to be telling the truth. Probably Samia didn't tell all the truth for he admitted that he bought the still in Sherman county but couldn't remember the name of the man who sold it to him. He did say however that he knew where the place was and as it is a very serious matter to sell a still probably the Sherman county man will be visited soon by federal authorities. When Samia was first arrested he was very much surprised that a still had been found on his place and assured the officers that it had been placed there while he was away. After thinking it over in full till Saturday morning however, his memory was so far restored that he admitted the facts above and in his statement said he had made unadvised alcohol for his own use on two occasions. He didn't admit making as much as the boy says he made, still on the whole their stories hang together pretty well.

Luddington says he only drank a little of the stuff being made on one occasion and tasted of it Friday while making it. He says he is not in the habit of drinking booze and his looks bear out his statement. He had only been working for Samia a couple of weeks and Friday was the first time he had assisted in making booze. Corn, peaches, sugar and water was used in the making and the sample brought in by the officers was anything but appetizing.

ARRESTED IN A ROOMING HOUSE

Registered at Koehler Hotel. Arrested with Male Companions and Face Serious Charges.

Mrs. Max Schuyler and Mrs. Bert Bresley went to Grand Island one day this week and last night they were caught by the Valley county sheriff and county attorney with the assistance of Grand Island police officers, in separate rooms in the Koehler Hotel in that city, each woman with a male companion with her. Mr. Bresley accompanied the officers to Grand Island and Mr. and Mrs. Bresley arrived home with the county attorney this morning at an early hour. Mrs. Schuyler spent the night in the Grand Island jail and was brought to Ord by Sheriff Rounds this morning on the motor. When the women left Ord together, Mrs. Schuyler bought a ticket to the Island but Mrs. Bresley bought a ticket to North Loup and told the Quiz reporter she was going there to visit a sister. She didn't stop at North Loup however.

It seems to be pretty well established that Mrs. Schuyler was instrumental in causing the delinquency of Mrs. Bresley who until the last few days has always born a reputation above reproach. Both women made confessions and the Schuyler woman is alleged to have implicated numerous men in unlawful practices with her.

Later

Mrs. Schuyler has just pleaded guilty to conducting a house of ill fame and was fined $100 and costs, amounting in all to $145. We are advised that there are still two charges pending against her but we are not advised what they are.

Want Ad Page

Mrs. Housewife
Mr. Business Man
Mr. Farmer
Mr. Stockman

Here is something to think about—
EVERYONE HAS SOMETHING TO SELL—WANTS TO BUY SOMETHING—WANTS SOME INFORMATION ABOUT SOMETHING.

The Quiz "Want Ad" section will sell what you no longer need, it will find what you want to buy, it will get the information you want, it will find the article you have lost.

Twice in the last year paper money has been lost in Ord and restored to the owner through a little 25c "want ad" in the Quiz.

Hundreds and hundreds of dollars worth of setting eggs and pure bred poultry have been sold the past few months by using these "want ads".

Scores of lost articles have been found by advertising in the "want ad" columns of the Quiz and many FOUND articles have been restored to the owner in the same way.

Two or three years ago Mr. C. A. Hager advertised a certain farm for sale in the Quiz "Want Ads" and at an expense of 50c he closed a $25,000 deal. The buyer came and said he read the ad and looked at the place and bought. Now is the time to advertise anything you want to buy or sell, have lost or found. Last year a family wanted to take a long auto trip west and disliked to go alone. They advertised for a companion car and found another family situated just as they were and the two families enjoyed the trip together. These little ads cost 5c a line with a minimum charge of 25c if the ad runs but once.

ELYRIA DEPARTMENT

MRS. BERNARD HOYT, EDITOR

Doris Schuyler returned home on Thursday after a few weeks visit with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schuyler of Kent. Mrs. Schuyler accompanied her home and visited until Saturday evening, returning to Burwell on the passenger. Bud and Orin Schuyler went with her and will stay until school starts. Max Schuyler and Tom Hennich of Burwell were in town Thursday afternoon and evening on business. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Norton and son Shirley returned home Wednesday night by way of auto after spending a week at Omaha. Harold Fogt arrived Wednesday evening on the passenger from Riverton, Wyo., where he has been for some time. He expects to stay at home the remainder of the season. Wm. Fischer and brother Fred motored to Ord Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Johnson of Ord and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnson of Burwell visited at the Simpson and Abrahams home Sunday. Several of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sanders friends went in and surprised them last Wednesday evening. A very delightful evening was spent in dancing and refreshments were served about midnight. Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Hoyt and family visited at the Evert Smith home east of Ord Monday afternoon. Mr. Smith is a brother of Mrs. Hoyt. Mrs. Winifred Hoyt motored to Burwell Tuesday to have some dental work done. Mr. and Mrs. John Jablonski visited at the Stephen Jablonski home Sunday. Messrs. Dave Palmer and Otto Pecenka left Sunday by way of auto for the lakes in Minnesota where they expect to spend a week or two of real fishing. Both Otto and Dave claim to be real fishermen and we are expecting a carload of fish soon to distribute among their many friends. Mrs. Alice Dodge and Mrs. Bernard Hoyt visited at the O. W. Kemble home Monday afternoon. The Misses Eva Kusek, Adelaide Ciochon and Helen Ciemny spent Sunday afternoon with Rose Zulkoski. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Flakus of near Taylor and Mrs. Anna Socha spent Friday at the Frank Zulkoski Sr. home. Bill Fischer claims to hold the record for being the poorest fisherman in Valley county. Veda and Delma Moser and their cousin Elma Williams of Ansley were incoming passengers Wednesday evening. Miss Williams will visit at the Dean Moser home this week. Mrs. Jos. Ciemny and daughter Helen were afternoon visitors at the O. W. Kemble home last Thursday afternoon. Miss Leota Hoyt visited her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hoyt this week. The Murphy Brothers, who live on a ranch north of Elyria had a truck load of feed ground at the Elyria Roller Mill Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Winifred Hoyt were Saturday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Johnson. They returned home Sunday evening. Jack Dodge visited his little daughter Virginia Sunday afternoon at the Simpson and Abrahams home. Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Kemble and Mrs. Kemble's sister Miss Pugh, motored to Burwell Sunday where they enjoyed a picnic dinner with several of their Burwell friends. Mrs. Chas. Wozniak and daughter Florence called on Arthur Finney Friday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zulkoski Jr. visited at the home of Mrs. Zulkoski's brother John Boro near Arcadia last Friday. Mrs. W. Wright and daughter Lila of Ord were guests Sunday at the C. E. Wozniak home. Mrs. Dean Moser came home Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Anton Bandura and children of Cotesfield and Mrs. W. Urbick and son of Omaha spent last Saturday night and Sunday at the Frank Zulkoski Sr. home. Miss Rose Zulkoski returned home with them after a six weeks visit with relatives at Farwell and Cotesfield. Mr. and Mrs. Germain Hoyt and family, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Hoyt and Mrs. G. L. Hoyt spent Sunday at the Forrest Hoyt home at Burwell. Lucille Wozniak was a passenger to Ord Thursday where she visited with her little friend, Yvonne Ramsey until Friday evening. Fischer Install Valve Grinding Machine. Wm. Fischer, who runs the garage and hardware, is a fellow who is always looking for better things which will help him turn out better repair work and has installed a valve grinding machine at considerable expense. This machine will make a valve just as true as it possibly can be made and beats grinding valves the old way all to pieces. It seems that after a car has been run about so long the valves become untrue and cause the car to lose some of its original power. This fault is eliminated by the use of this machine. Mr. Fischer is to be complimented on installing this machine and after car owners become acquainted with the value of it they will be glad that we have one in town. If you have not seen it, it will pay you to go in and look it over. It will be time well spent.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Holub and daughter Kathryn returned from Chicago and other points where they had been the past two weeks. Mrs. Fred Cohen of near Burwell spent Friday and Saturday at her home returning to Ord Sunday. Mrs. Cohen has been under the care of Dr. Weekes for the past month and is improving rapidly. Mr. and Mrs. Leon Ciemny who had been spending a few days with relatives at Brainard and David City returned home Saturday evening. Mrs. Ciemny's sister, Miss Grace Hayek of Brainard accompanied them and will visit his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Pugh of that place. Last Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Joe J. Jablonski entertained at a six o'clock dinner Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carson and children and Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Jablonski. Miss Eva Kusek returned home from Loup City Wednesday, where she had been for some time visiting with relatives. Ed Golka and family of Loup City spent Sunday at the Mike Kusek home. One day last week Joe Welnak who lives a mile and a half east of Elyria was hitching up a team when one of the horses reared up and fell on him, breaking his leg. A doctor was called immediately and although not able to be up and around Mr. Welnak is not suffering great pain. Adelaide Ciochon returned to her home Tuesday morning, after spending a short time with her friend, Eva Kusek. As a result of the hail and wind storm last week Wm. Fischer was replacing window panes in the Catholic church Monday. The hail did considerable damage to others, too numerous to mention, in our community. Miss May Matheson of Ord is visiting at the Chas. Diugosh home this week.

Misses Bessie and Elma Krahulik and a friend from Omaha were visitors in Elyria Saturday. Father Kolaska, Rose Goss, Sylvester Carkoski and Emma Kuklish left Tuesday for Lake Enders where they will spend a few days fishing. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jablonski and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carson motored to Grand Island last Friday. Pete Miller spent Monday and Tuesday at Burwell having dental work done. Leo Dubas and family visited at the Ign. Krason home Friday. Mrs. John Wheeler and son Meriton and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Johnson Sr. were at the Arthur Wheeler home at Burwell for dinner Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Leo Carkoski and Mike Perliniski motored out to Frank Perliniski's west of Ord Saturday evening and returned home Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. John Ulrich, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sedlacek and Miss Eleanor Polak spent Monday evening at the Joe Jablonski home. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Finney called at the Leo Carkoski home Sunday evening. Mrs. Mary Flakus spent Sunday with her son Tom and family near Taylor. The O. W. Kemble family spent Tuesday at the Frank Techner home at Burwell.

HAPPENINGS IN THE HILLS
(By Helen Sibal)
Carl Weber and children were Tuesday callers at the home of Purl Long. The Happy Hour club met at the home of Mrs. Clarence Jeffries Wednesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ruzicka were Wednesday guests at Emil Ruzickas. Mrs. Carl Weber and son returned to their home Tuesday evening after a few days stay with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Horner. Mr. and Mrs. L. Butterfield were Sunday guests at Carl Treptow's. Tony Polkorny spent over Saturday and Sunday with her cousins, Marie and Helen Sibal, returning to her home Monday. Mrs. Fred Maxfield and baby spent Friday with Mrs. M. Sanders of Burwell. Doris, Carmen and Russell Weber and Frances Seamen were Wednesday visitors with Nola Long. Emma Loghry called on her sister, Mrs. Harold Walters Sunday. Emil Ruzicka helped James Ruzicka fix a well Wednesday. Joseph Hulinsky and son Anton were Tuesday callers at Emil Ruzickas.

Barbara Hulinsky returned to her home Sunday after working for several weeks for Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parkos near Comstock. The Lunney Cafe closed out and discontinued business the first of the week. Mrs. Alvin Hill is having a very enjoyable time on her visit to Portland. She is at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Emrich, who was formerly Miss Agnes Scott. A brother, Adelbert Scott, from Astoria, Oregon and a sister, Mrs. J. Stevens from Didsbury, Canada, are also at Portland and they all are having a most delightful time. Last Sunday George Newbecker and wife and the former daughter Mrs. Ethel Ross and little son drove to Sargent where they spent the day visiting relatives. Last Tuesday they all drove to Taylor where they visited relatives. Yesterday Mrs. Ross and baby returned to Ames, Iowa, George and wife going with them as far as Grand Island. Saturday evening Mrs. Earl Brink came up from Grand Island and Mrs. J. W. Moorhouse arrived the same evening from Hastings. They were spending the first part of this week with their friend, Mrs. J. C. Work. For some time it has been the custom for these three ladies to meet at least twice a year. The first meeting place this year was at the Brink home in Grand Island, now they are in Ord, later, perhaps in October, they will be at Hastings. Both of these ladies formerly lived at Ord and they have been spending some time with other friends.

EUREKA

(By John Zulkoski)

Mr. and Mrs. Jafes Lipinski called at Frank Guzinski's Sunday toward evening.

John Zulkoski butchered a porker Saturday.

A few neighbors attended the party given at Lew Wegryzn's home Saturday evening. All report a fine time as they returned home Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bruha, John Zulkoski and Ed Zulkoski spent Sunday afternoon at the Louis Dohnal home.

JUNGMAN HALL NEWS

(By Emma Hulinsky)

Some showers we are getting this week and the wet weather is delaying the people with their threshing. Everybody wishes the rain would wait a while so they could get their grain in the bin.

Mr. and Mrs. Wencel Mathausen are the proud parents of a baby boy born Monday morning. Grandma and Tillie Klat are staying with the family at this writing.

James Ruzicka is having trouble with his well again. Albert and Frank Hulinsky helped him with it Sunday and the ladies took the dinner for them up to Jim's place.

Grandma Kolousek spent the week end at Jos. Fajmans.

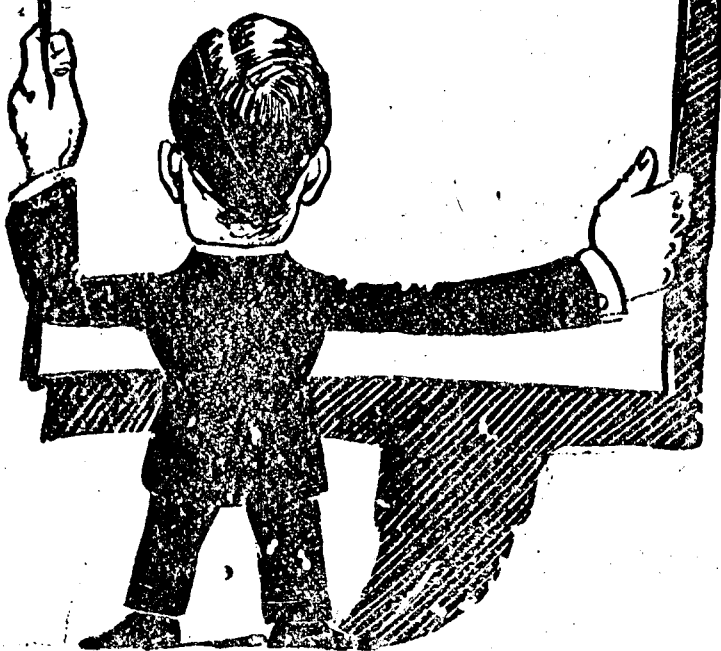

Will Mach and W. Bruha spent last Sunday afternoon at the home of M. Hulinsky.

Mrs. J. Skolil called on Mrs. M.

Calvin Coolidge

COOLIDGE PHILOSOPHY AND DOCTRINE

"Men do not make laws. They but discover them. Laws must be justified by something more than the will of the majority. They must rest on the eternal foundation of the majority."

"Statutes must appeal to more than material welfare. Wages won't satisfy, be they ever so large. Nor lands; nor coupons, though they fall thick as the leaves of autumn. Man has a spiritual nature. Touch it, and it must respond as the magnet responds to the pole."

"Do the day's work. If it be to protect the rights of the weak, whoever objects, do it. If it be to help a powerful corporation better to serve the people, whatever the opposition, do that. Expect to be called a standpatter, but don't be a demagogue. Don't hesitate to be as revolutionary as science. Don't hesitate to be as reactionary as the multiplication table."

"Don't expect to build up the weak by tearing down the strong. Don't hurry to legislate. Give administration a chance to catch up with legislation."

"There is no problem so great but that somewhere a man is being raised up to meet it. There is no moral standard so high that the people cannot be raised up to meet it."

"It is only when men begin to worship that they begin to grow."

"There is no need for Americans to lack confidence in themselves or in their institutions. Let him who doubts them look about him."

"It is not a change that is needed in our Constitution and laws so much as there is need of living in accordance with them."

"The law of life, the law of progress, is the law of obedience, the law of service."

"Education which is not based on religion and character is not education."

A REAL ATTRACTION

The Hazel McOwen Stock Co., numbering 22 people will open a weeks engagement here, beginning Monday night, August 25th. Changing their entire program every night, and guaranteeing to surpass anything in the dramatic line ever seen under canvas.

Having remained for 20 weeks at the Strand Theatre in Grand Island, during the past Winter Season, they have selected their Repertoire of plays from the very best which they produced while there. The Vaudeville, numbering 5 big features every night is second to none. The big feature of the Vaudeville portion is the Vagges, a novelty juggling-Hoop rolling and double Bag Punching Act which was secured at a heavy expense by this company, after having closed their Vaudeville tour at the Orpheum Theatre at Kansas City.

A real 5-piece Concert is also the boast of this clever organization, under the personal direction of Prof. Chas. Niles, formerly conductor at the Capitol Theatre, Des Moines, Ia.

Miss McOwen, the clever little ingenue leading woman will be seen to advantage in the opening play, which she owns and controls personally, entitled "Your Sister and Mine," known to be the greatest morality play ever seen. It teaches a lesson to be remembered by every man, woman, and child.

The feature play is a direct adaptation from the famous mystery play, "The Cat and the Canary" entitled "Spooks."

One lady will be admitted FREE Monday night when accompanied by a paid Adult ticket. The regular prices are 10c for children and 50c for Adults.

Locals

Miss Hazel Rogers will teach at Alliance this coming year.

Saturday morning H. G. Burson and wife left on the early train for Denver for a few days visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sheridan and children of Columbus drove to Ord from Sargent the first of the week and were guests at the David Jones home.

Frank Blaha and wife will move from the Morris property, where they have resided for a couple of years, to the Haldeman house just west of the Blaha garage.

Mrs. C. C. Dale is entertaining her father, E. G. Sowie. He makes his home in California the greater portion of the time. Previous to coming to Ord he was visiting a daughter and looking after business at North Platte.

Mrs. Morrison, a sister of Mrs. W. T. Hamilton, returned the latter part of the week to her home at Joliet, Illinois, after several weeks visit in Ord. Mrs. Hamilton went with her as far as Omaha, returning Monday evening.

Harold Parks and family were at North Loup last Sunday visiting Harold's brother, Steve Parks and family. While the Parks are away Mrs. Mary Parks is staying with her son Steve. She went down with Harold and family Sunday morning.

R. C. Bailey and family returned home the first of the week from Kimball, where they had been to look over the crops on their farm.

Monday evening Mrs. G. W. Collier returned home from Venango, Denver, and other points. She had been away for over a week.

The John Klein family are this week entertaining two nieces Evelyn and Rosella Dilla. Their father J. J. Dilla brought them over from Loup City.

Dr. Geo. Gard and family started at seven-thirty Sunday morning, in their new car, on their trip to Dayton, Washington, where they will visit the doctor's brother, Elmer Gard and family.

The latter part of last week Miss Bernice Mead left for West Liberty, Iowa, after a visit of several weeks with her cousins, Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Miller. Miss Mead made many friends while in Ord.

Christina Larsen returned last Saturday from Fremont. She had gone by auto with the Oscar Hansen family when they returned home after a visit with the John Olsson people at Ord.

Mrs. E. G. Brechbill was an outgoing passenger last Thursday afternoon for Grand Island, where she visited a daughter. She lives near Coodenow and returned to that place Monday.

Agnes and Carl Anderson returned home Sunday by auto from Schuyler where they had been for a few days with relatives. Monday Miss Agnes resumed her work at the McLain store after a two weeks vacation.

Miss Emma Jean Barlow of Kearney was in Ord just between trains Monday evening. She is not acquainted in Ord at all, but she was going to Burwell and was to visit Miss Nettie Myers, who is quite well acquainted at Ord.

W. E. Wolters and wife went to Fremont Sunday to attend to some business matters and pack and ship their household furniture to Ord. They have lived in Ord four years and this is the first time they have ever both been away from the office at the same time. They expected to be away three or four days and Miss Evelyn Mason was looking after the city office during their absence.

Joseph Zadina and two little sons arrived the latter part of last week from Colorado Springs for a visit with his parents, the James Zadina family who live in Ord and with numerous other relatives. Mr. Zadina still owns a fine farm in the western part of the county and went out there the first of the week to look after it. He says they had a severe hail storm that destroyed all their crops at Colorado Springs just before he started for Nebraska. The Zadina people moved west for their health and are very much changed with the change from that standpoint.

Luther Pierce was down from Burwell Sunday, a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Pierce. When he returned in the evening he was accompanied by his small daughter Dorothy, who had been left with Ord relatives while her mother was away for a few days, but decided she had better go back to Burwell and care for her father.

Last Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Curtis returned from their eastern trip. Mrs. Curtis was taking some advance studies at Columbia University in New York City for a few weeks.

Claude Lewis and Henry Van Slyke Jr. were in Schuyler by auto last week, staying for a few days. From there they were uncertain as to where they would go but thought they would drive to Elmwood.

Mrs. Ed Milligan and son Lynn were visiting relatives at North Loup last week. When they came home they were accompanied by two of Mrs. Milligan's daughter's children, Doris and Jennie Jean Clement. The girls stayed until Sunday, when their aunt, Mrs. Cecil Ferguson, took them back by auto.

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Earhart and two daughters drove in from a trip to the Black Hills. Mr. Earhart had been enjoying a two weeks vacation from his duties at the Penney store. They had been accompanied on the trip by relatives of Mrs. Earhart from Broken Bow and Grand Island.

A historic tree at Ravenna was removed last week, the old cottonwood tree which has stood guard at the southern portal of Ravenna for forty years, to clear the road leading to a new bridge recently built. Its age was estimated at two hundred years. It is thought it was venerated by the primitive races as near-by Indians cemeteries indicate that this was once the rendezvous of a large Indian settlement.—Loup City Standard.

Agnes Scheffek and her cousin, Minnie Wandro came up from Lincoln Thursday evening. They were after Joe Kuta's infant baby girl, whose mother died last week. They are relatives and left this week with the child, for Silver Creek, Mr. Kuta accompanying them. There are relatives there, who may decide to keep this boy. The child is but a few weeks old. There are four other small children, three boys and one girl.

Vern Morris, a son of Geo. Morris of Mitchell, Nebraska, left for his home Thursday afternoon. He had been in camp at Ashland and stopped with relatives at Grand Island. While in Ord he visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rasett and in the country with his aunt, Mrs. Elmer King and family. He tells us his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Morris and the Art Perkins family of Mitchell are doing well. Vern had not been at Ord for about eleven years.

The J. E. Tolen family have been having a lot of trouble with chicken thieves but contrary to the usual custom these thieves have been leaving the dead chickens in the chicken house. Mr. Tolen thought at first it might be rats but by the look of the last dozen that were killed Thursday night he comes to the conclusion it's a weasel.

Saturday evening Dr. Weekes and family returned home from their vacation trip. The doctor had joined his wife and daughter at Centennial, Wyoming, where they had gone on a fishing trip with some Scotia friends. From there the Weekes family drove to Longmont and then to Denver. On the return trip they picked up Mrs. Weekes' father, Mr. Sears at St. Paul and he accompanied them home.

The competent Chiropractor "DELIVERS THE GOODS." He tells you that his Science will in all cases of Nerve Pressure relieve that pressure.

He proves to you that the majority of so-called Dis-ease is caused by Nerve Pressure.

He further proves to you that this Nerve Pressure is in its turn caused by subluxations (displacement) of the vertebrae (small bones of the spine).

By Chiropractic Vertebral Adjustments given with the hands alone, he puts the subluxated vertebra back in normal position. The Nerve Pressure disappears and with it the effect, called Dis-ease.

You have confidence in your Merchant with whom you have dealt for many years, because you KNOW that his word is good, and that he DELIVERS THE GOODS.

Your Chiropractor is in the same class.

DISTRICT NO. 42
(By Mary Johnson)

Mrs. Chas. Barber, who has been spending a few days with her daughter Fern, was called to the Hulse Clement home Wednesday to assist in caring for the new boy.

There is to be a new bridge put in at Ray Bryan's drive. Repeated high water had made it almost impossible. The new one is to be a sixteen foot bridge and will help some.

Friends in this community will be interested to know that Chas. Finley recently underwent a very serious operation at the Miller hospital. At our last report he was doing nicely.

Ord was favored last Friday by several representatives from No. 42—the Nelson family and members of the Hellewege and Johnson families.

Glen Johnson has been under the doctor's care the last few days. His difficulty seems to be summer flu.

Mr. and Mrs. Stine, Mr. and Mrs. Parks and the Carpenter family attended the dance at Shidner's hall.

Steve Park's mother, who makes her home with Dr. Gards in Ord, is visiting at the Parks home. Dr. Gard and family have recently started on a trip to Washington and Mrs. Parks will take advantage of the opportunity to make a visit with her son.

Lewis VanNess accompanied by his father and sister, drove to David City Sunday. His father and a brother returned with him.

Harold Parks took dinner with the Steve Parks family Sunday. Mrs. VanNess and children and Mr. and Mrs. Smith took dinner in the park at Ord Sunday.

Ruth and Garris Clement spent a few days at the Glen Johnson home this week.

Lewis VanNess shelled corn Friday and Saturday and threshed Monday.

Grover Barnhart shipped a carload of hogs Monday.

Bert Baxters took dinner with Fred Everly Sunday.

Lind Nelson visited at Andersons Sunday.

Mrs. J. D. Williams and her son were at Wes Williams Saturday. Mrs. Williams is the mother of Wes Williams.

Chas. Ottos were at Fentons Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Bryan spent Sunday at Horace Bryans.

Jim Johnson took his brother's place in the hay field last Monday.

Mrs. Steve Park's brother Clarence Larson of Omaha is here visiting for two weeks.

Steve Parks and Clarence Larsens took dinner with Paul Tolens Sunday.

The Lewis VanNess family plan an auto trip into Iowa next week to attend a family reunion. We all hope a rain will not spoil their plans.

The Willoughby family enjoyed the visit with an uncle, Gene Edwards from California Sunday.

Mrs. Crosby and daughter Leola from Lincoln visited at Chas. Barnhart's last week.

Grover Barnhart's family, Mrs. Chas. Barnhart and the I. L. Harris family spent Sunday at Lake Ericson. They didn't have very good luck fishing but the dinner is reported to have made up for any such disappointments.

Last Wednesday Wilma and Lorne Barnhart gave a party in honor of Verna Mae Shaffner. The guests were Maxine Johnson and Thelma Willoughby.

Grover Barnhart, Mr. Harris and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Barnhart spent Saturday afternoon in Ord on a shopping tour.

Mavis Bright is spending a few days with Garnette Jackman.

Frank Whites returned Monday evening from their Colorado trip. They report a delightful outing.

Maud Jackman was at her home over the week end.

Roy Colemans and Pearl Whites were at Frank Whites Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hurley, Blenn and Kenneth left for the S. D. B. conference at Milton, Wis. last Friday. They will also visit relatives. They left Clarence Babcock and his son Gilbert in charge of the place.

Mr. and Mrs. Reeve Manchester spent the week end at Frank Whites.

Helen and Rose Kokes visited with Jaunita Grant Sunday afternoon. Adolph and the other Kokes boys brought them over and went on to Ericson to fish, calling for them in the evening.

This community was saddened to learn that Mrs. S. R. Holden, Grandmother Holden as she was familiarly called, after a short illness passed away Monday morning about two o'clock at the home of her son, F. O. Holden, where she had made her home for the past three months. The body was shipped to Silver Creek.

Her former home, Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Holden accompanying the remains to Silver Creek. Mrs. R. S. Dickinson, a daughter, has been with her since Saturday, being at the bed side of her mother in her last moments, returning to her home at Columbus Monday morning, so she could get ready to be at the funeral Tuesday.

Bert Dye expects to have his car of household goods loaded ready to ship Tuesday of this week and take his family by auto to Lincoln where they will make their home while the boys are attending school. They still own their farm where Mr. Ackles is farming.

FUSSYVILLE ITEMS
(By Mrs. Orsen E. Davis)

Mr. Leggett has asked for the news to be sent in one day earlier (it has to cool a day before setting the type) so we are a little late in saying that Martin Chubbuck was mostly bailed out last week. The hail did more damage at his place than anywhere else in the neighborhood.

Mrs. Ross Davis is keeping house at the David Davis place while they are absent.

Miss McGarvey came up from her home at David City Tuesday and returned Saturday.

Because Ruby Post reached her sixteenth birthday Saturday she invited in some of her friends to help her celebrate Friday evening. Croquet and indoor games were played and a luncheon of sandwiches, light and dark cake, pickles and lemonade was served. Those present were Ora Walkup, Gerald Manchester, Ross Williams, Erma and Elsie Smith, Andy Glenn, Velma, Chester, Orville and Darrel Noyes, Lucy, Anna, Carl, Morris, and Alvira Anderson. A fine time was reported.

Mrs. John Nelson was visiting in this neighborhood one day this week, making up a school supply order from the Larkin Club.

Speaking of birthdays those for this week are: Mrs. Roy Williams, Mrs. Orsen Davis, Mr. Billie Worrel, Billy Davis and Ervin Worrel. It seems to us as though our pals ought to make us a big feed. We could at least have cabbage.

Keith Davis is developing a case of good lungs by taking cornet lessons.

Canning apples and cutting weeds are respectful occupations these days.

The So and Sew Fussy Club was held with Mrs. Pete Anderson Thursday. A number of visitors were reported. From lack of material only two dress forms were made but the business meeting took us some time and the day was an enjoyable one.

While crawling under the carriage seat to get out of the storm the other day Carl Anderson had the misfortune to bump his knee against a corn knife cutting it so badly that several stitches had to be taken. "And only two weeks of vacation left."

Fussyville Sunday School begins at ten-thirty. There were forty-two present this week. Mr. Nordean the field secretary was a welcome visitor.

A stranger was asking us Sunday what time the Malden Valley Sunday school commenced. We took it that he wanted to attend. We did not know but it would be interesting as well as profitable if some of these things were published.

There was preaching at the school house Sunday night by Mr. Nordean.

Lloyd Van Horns are the proud owners of a new Oakland car purchased last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Billie Worrel attended a party at the Ed Hish home Saturday evening. A good time, a dance and a supper of sandwiches, pie, pickles, and coffee was enjoyed by all.

A large crowd of ladies gathered at the home of Mrs. Orin Manchester for a shower in honor of Miss Agnes Madison Friday afternoon. She received many beautiful presents and the best wishes of all. It is reported that Agnes and Darrel will be married Thursday. He will farm and Agnes will teach again this year in the Manchester school.

Jess Manchester hauled hogs Saturday.

Edward Whalen helped Roy Cruzan butcher the first of the week.

Orsen Davis was some sore because one of his horses stepped on his foot. In easing it off she up rooted the great toe nail. Orsen says its no laughing matter.

The Weeks Visit:

For Sunday—Will Naves at Ed Manchesters, Morris Rendell and Henry Smith at Archie Jeffries Dave Ingrahams at Johnnie Ingrahams. Dorothy and Mildred Davis at Orsen Davis'. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williams, Ross, Ora Walkup, Gerald Manchester and Clayton Arnold at Pete Anderson's. Jessie Sperling and Everett Wright at Murray Rich's. Andy Glenn at Pete Anderson's. ER'S NOTE BOOK
(By Frank Vodehnal)

If we had a rain tight roof over the state highway like some of the kickers have over their business places and had it arranged so we could turn on water or sunshine at will, we could always have a road like a pavement.

So many seem to forget that our highway is made of just plain dirt that absorbs water readily and gets soft and in spite of all that may be done the traffic quickly churns it up into mud and cuts it full of ruts that are hard to fill so the dirt would stay in them and make a smooth road again.

Yes, sure, we make some mistakes. Show me the fellow who don't. Even the fellow who never did anything made a mistake.

Do you ask how? Well he made a mistake by not trying to do something.

At present Henry Stars is being employed as an extra hand on the highway. Under my instructions he repaired the Petersen corner south of town, between showers last week and I hope you will all like the job when we get it dragged down a little more and smoothed.

Hank also acts as a straw boss on the repair work in the canyon south of town and is doing good work.

Why anyone living in Ord and having a pond in the street right at his front door should go up to Elyria to look for mud holes, gets my goat.

For two weeks the highway near North Loup has been a fright. We started down there several times but always found it too wet. With side ditches full of water there was nothing to do but wait until it let up raining.

Last Monday we grasped the opportunity of a little sunshine and went down there with a double header and put the road in a tip top shape. So it is easy to see, as usual—where we quit at the south end.

If the maintenance boys happen to pull in at 4 or 5 o'clock, every bench warmer in town pulls his watch on them; but when they come in at 8 or 9 o'clock, no one sees them.

Last Monday they got so anxious about the highway near North Loup that they sneaked off at 6:45 A. M. and returned at 7:30 P. M. Did anyone notice?

A fellow remarked the other day that he believed if he had the top down on his Ford, he could go under some of the street crossings in Ord easier than go over them.

I would like to suggest that the streets in Ord, connecting with the roads from the country should be filled with dirt even with the cross-ties and then graveled, as they are nearly always wetter than the country roads. This work could be done hereinbefore described, together with $45.05 costs, and I was directed to advertise and sell said premises for the payment of said decrees, interest, costs and accruing costs;

SNAPPY PROGRAM FOR THE AIR

The 1924 Program Will Interest Features This Year Never Seen Before. Auto Races Will Thrill.

Some of the exhibits departments at the fair this year will not be as large as last while others will be better than ever before. This is always the case. Last year there were few horses and this year present indications are for the best horse exhibit in years. The addition this year of exhibits from 14 woman's clubs will make the old art hall groan with the weight of display. Corn is late and the corn exhibit cannot be as large as usual but the other exhibits in agricultural hall can be the equal of any former year. Superintendent Bresly says he believes the poultry exhibit will be fully up to the average. All the superintendents are busy trying to get good exhibits and the exhibits in charge of the fair grounds are busy every minute getting every thing in good shape. The water has been put in, lights have been installed plenty of hay, alfalfa and straw have been provided for the stock and all buildings have been cleaned and fixed up for the big show.

The program of free amusement this year will be better than usual because a lot of novel features will be introduced, different than fair goers have seen in former years. There will be base ball as usual to be sure and there will be some novelty features like the mule race the frog race the relay auto races which will be real thrillers and the Ford race with woman drivers. Arrangements for all these features have been made and sandwiched in between other afternoon attractions will be four vaudeville acts which will furnish entertainment and amusement. Then in the evening the great International Revue beautiful and spectacular, will be the most wonderful feature ever shown on a fairground in the county. This feature is put on by beautiful girls dressed in wonderful and filmy gowns of the latest Paris design and will make a real hit with all. Then there will be band music, orchestra music, show music together with the bright lights and the blare of the rides and of the many concessions and every one will get more than the worth of his or her money.

A season ticket good for all the day and night performances can be bought for $1.50 and as the program is varied this year each afternoon and evening you will want to attend every one. The children can get a season ticket for $1. Be sure to write your friends to attend the 1924 Valley county fair at Ord next week.

REESE BAND WILL PLAY AT ORD FAIR

We notice by the Ord papers published last week that the Sargent band has been engaged to play at the Ord fair on Wednesday, August 27th. As Sargent is fortunate enough to have two bands we had to make inquiry of the band leader, Prof. S. R. Barnett and Isaac Reese to find out just which Sargent band was meant. This inquiry developed that Mr. Reese's band is the one that will play at Ord that day. This band has selected the name, The Sargent Invincible Band. Prof. Barnett says that they did not have any application to play at the Ord fair—Sargent Leader.

Poem by Uncle John

There's many a smooth promoter of the get-rich-quick concern, which wouldn't need "promotin'" if the stock was with a dem—O, there ain't no honest money that is any keener missed, than the dollar that it costs a man to head the sucker list!

When a feller gets to dreamin' of the life on easy street, he'll buck the game that promises to put him on his feet. The "dotted line" in front of him—the pencil in his fist,—the bait is easy swallowed, so, he heads the sucker list!

I've done a heap of prayin' that the time would come to pass, when brains would stop the idiot from blowin' out the gas,—but I've wondered more here lately,—if a well-directed fist to the point of anaesthesia—wouldn't end the sucker list?—They lay it on the good old stork—there may be nothin' in it—but they say the old bird brings around at sucker every minnit! I ain't believin' all I hear—I don't pretend to know, but jedge! from the suckers caught, I half believe it's so!

GOT THEIR PANTS PRESSED

"Heck" Bradt and "Spot", Johnson hated rivals in the bread, cigar and soda water business in Ord have trousers just alike. Both took a notion at the same time last week to have their trousers cleaned and pressed and both took them to the same cleaner for that purpose. Now "Spot" is about several sizes larger than "Heck" and by the same rule "Heck" is several sizes smaller than "Spot." This of course wouldn't make any difference but the cleaner got the trousers mixed and delivered the large, fat ones to "Heck" and the little bandy legged ones to "Spot." Then "Heck" packed the pair he got and went on a vacation trip over to Woback. When he was making his toilet a day or two later to go to a dance he found the big trousers and after cussing the cleaners for stretch ing them all out of shape he took them over to the tailor shop and had them altered to fit him. About the same time "Spot" was getting his trousers out for some function and also cussed the cleaners for shrinking them and went to the tailor and had a strip set in each leg of the nearest kind of cloth he could get and a big "V" put in the back and vowed he could wear them for every day anyhow. When "Heck" gets home the boys will probably get together and that cleaner will sure get cleaned.

Chas. Meese and niece Miss Opal Meese and friend Miss Mae Golland autoed out to Adolph Asmus beautiful country home Sunday morning. Mr. Asmus had purchased a Radio from Mr. Meese and they were installing it. —Erickson Journal.

The Kieth County sheriff accompanied by three or four sheriffs of the western counties was in Loup City Monday looking for a man by the name of Osantowski who is charged with the killing of a man at Ogallala early last spring. They found the man they were looking for and took him with them. —Sherman County Times.

Mrs. John Ward was in Ord between trains last Friday, enroute to her home at Burwell. She had been visiting at Grand Island with the Chriss. Petersen family, and assisting in caring for a new baby at the Petersen home.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McLain returned home last Friday from Grand Island where they had been guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Connell. The latter was formerly Miss Rosa Booth and taught school at the same time Mrs. McLain was an Ord teacher, some four years ago.

TRADE SCRUBS FOR PURE-BREDS

October 7 the Date for Pure Bred Train to Reach Ord with Load of Pure Bred Bulls to Exchange For Scrubs.

The farmers who received the pure bred sires in exchange for their scrubs in Colorado last fall under practically the same plan that is being used in arranging for the Burlington Dairy Sire Train in Nebraska this October are being visited this week by the men who were instrumental in sending the train through Colorado. Mr. J. B. Lamson, Burlington Agricultural Agent from Chicago and Mr. H. L. Ford Burlington Agricultural Agent from the Denver office, together with representatives of the Colo. Agricultural College and the breed organizations are calling upon every farmer who received one of the pure bred sires last fall.

These men who encouraged the movement in Colo. are interested in what the results have been in the local communities of the farmers whose livestock business was changed by the introduction of a good pure bred sire to lead their herds. They did not drop the purebred off the train and forget about him. If the sire has been a success, he should have made with his new animal these men want to know about it. If the purebred has in any way proved unsatisfactory they want to know that also.

As is the plan in Nebraska this fall when the 31 purebred dairy sires are to be exchanged the agreement connected with the movement have no strings attached to the sires after the change is made. The purebred is the property of the farmer to have and to hold as his own. The visit being made by these men therefore is merely one of friendly interest to show these farmers that the Burlington, the Agricultural College and the breeders are still interested in the welfare of every farmer who was favored last fall.

It is the plan of the men connected with the movement in Nebraska to make at least yearly visits to the farms where these 31 dairy bulls are placed by the process of exchange. Follow-up assistance to these farmers who are just starting with purebred sires will be even more valuable to them than the first exchange.

The 1925 program will be different! According to the present plans the Burlington Dairy Sire Train will be loaded and ready to leave Lincoln early Monday Oct. 6. When it leaves it will have on board 51 purebred young dairy bulls of the four most common dairy breeds which have been furnished by the breeders of purebred cattle in Nebraska. One exhibit car of high production cows will be taken along as a feature of the entertainment in each town where the train but that will be very over in this years program for the people of these communities.

"AND THEY ARE NOT IRON CROSSES EITHER"

UNPUBLISHED QUIZ WANT AD RESTORES PIN TO OWNER

While the heading sounds rather impossible it is nevertheless a fact, and here is the how, why, which and where of it.

Last week while playing golf on the Ord course Paul Walter of Broken Bow who is employed in the state highway surveying work near here lost a fraternity pin and a careful search failed to disclose it. He came to the Quiz and ordered a wanted insert in this weeks edition. Harry McBeth, head operator on the Quiz force, who is in addition an inveterate golfer, set the three line notice and remembered it as Quiz readers have a habit of remembering Quiz want-ads. Sunday while playing golf Harry discovered a pin on one of the greens and within fifteen minutes it was into his pocket and restored to its owner. Mr. Walter is ready to admit that Quiz wantads surely do pay.

Mrs. C. C. Jensen went to Omaha last Saturday to spend a few days. Iolanay Williams was visiting at Arcadia last week.

H. G. Barkmeyer and wife and daughter Ruth returned to their home at Central City last Friday after a few days stay with the Wrights, Pullen, Greenfields, and other friends. Paul was left at home to look after things.

will also be stowed away somewhere much in evidence at every stop. Two coaches of exhibits will be arranged Department. The inter coaches of the long special train will accommodate every one who makes the trip, from the chore boys to the President of the railroad.

The schedule of stops has been arranged by the Burlington officials and the Agricultural Extension Service as follows:

Monday, October 6—Seward and York Seward and York counties.
Tuesday, October 7—Burwell and Ord Garfield and Valley.
Wednesday, October 8—Greeley and Aurora. Greeley and Hamilton.
Thursday, October 9—Ravenna and Broken Bow. Buffalo and Custer.
Friday, October 10—Alliance and Scotts Bluff. Box Butte and Soots Bluff.
Saturday, October 11—Bayard and Sidney. Morrill and Cheyenne.
Monday, October 13—Grant and Curtis. Perkins and Frontier.
Tuesday, October 14—Farnam and Elwood. Dawson and Gosper.
Wednesday, October 15—Minden and Holdrege. Kearney and Phelps.
Thursday, October 16—Benkelman Dundy and Hitchcock.
Friday, October 17—McCook and Orleans. Red Willow and Harlan.
Saturday, October 18—Beaver City and Franklin. Furnas and Franklin.
Monday, October 20—Red Cloud and Superior. Webster and Nuckolls.
Tuesday, October 21—Hebron and Geneva. Thayer and Fillmore.
Wednesday, October 22—Harvard and Hastings. Clay and Adams.
Thursday, October 23—Milligan. Fillmore.

Each of these towns will draw from miles around and the crowds are expected to be record breakers. When the representatives of the Burlington and the Agricultural Extension Service called upon the business men of each of these towns, they were met with the heartiest kind of support and enthusiasm. The coming of the train to these towns will be a big event in this years program for the people of these communities.

LEARN HOW TO GRAVEL ROADS

The state of Nebraska has learned the little lesson of how to build gravel roads and as a result better highways are being constructed at the present time according to state officials. The old system of permitting the contractor to distribute from two to four inches of gravel over the top of the road draw his money and go to another project has been revolutionized. Under the modern process the contractor dumps the gravel along the roadway and the states maintenance crew does the rest.

When the gravel is put on the road where it is dumped from wagons or trucks it is spread off the roadway. As this works it and it becomes a permanent part of the road the maintenance crew moves some more gravel over the highway. In this way the road gradually becomes better and better without seriously hampering traffic. Instead of splashing and spreading it in all directions as is done when traffic is forced to travel through piles of gravel it is spread out evenly and the road can take it and finally comes to the top making a firm foundation.

The federal government according to State Engineer Cochran permits this practice which is general in Minnesota, Iowa and other states. It was first used in Nebraska in the spring and is proving highly satisfactory. In most instances the original contract price is a little higher but the contractor remits for labor he is saved and in the final analysis according to Mr. Cochran the new process means lower road building costs.

Not only are many highways being graveled this year but cities and towns are surfacing their streets with it. It has been found that a street which drains properly can be surfaced with gravel and that it will be almost as lasting as some kind of pavement. However the best of it all is that the cost is comparatively small as compared with hard-surfaced streets.

ORD MILL TO GIVE PRIZES

For many years it has been the custom of the Milling company to give special premiums at the county fair and this practice will be continued this year. It hopes to see many more competing for these prizes than have hereto taken part in the contest. Following are the prizes:

Best loaf of bread from Big 4 flour $8.50
Second best loaf from Big 4 flour $4.00
Best loaf of bread from No. 1 flour $8.50

NAME SHOULD BE HOOCH

A rattlesnake about three feet long was discovered by Mrs. Henry Hosch in a lily bed north of the Keppel residence. While Mrs. Keppel was seeking someone to kill the snake disappeared. Rattle snakes are scarce these days and the opinion is that it probably came down with the high water as the creek in the north part of town was on a rampage Thursday morning. —Scottia Register.

Upon receiving word of the serious illness of her father, Mrs. Scott Wolf left last Saturday for his home at Gilroy, California.

MISS MONTANA COMSTOCK RETURNS FROM NEBRASKA

Miss Montana Comstock daughter of Wm. Comstock the Nasco rancher arrived in the city on Friday evening from Nebraska where she has resided for the past four years. She was met in this city by her mother and sister, Marguerite, who made the 130-mile drive in from the ranch. They will make the long drive back to the ranch in the course of a day or two, taking in the winter supplies. Marguerite Comstock is a robust young woman something over six feet and during the season operates a trap line in the Nasco country. She is quite capable of taking care of herself and is often absent from home for months at a time.

The above clipping was handed us by Ed. Comstock and was taken from a Canadian paper. Miss Comstock is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Comstock who were residents of this community a number of years ago. She has been attending school at Scotts Bluff Nebraska the past four years and graduated at that place before returning to home in Canada. —Comstock News.

Mrs. John Rybin and her granddaughters, Agnes Fuxa and Ella Rybin were outgoing motor passengers Saturday afternoon to visit relatives at Elba and other points.

CHESTNUT HILL NEWS

soon climbed over the barrier of bushes into its nest. Here it settled down for a nap and soon the sound of its snoring shook the surrounding landscape. Killen valiantly remained at his post, and when the first rays of dawn made it possible to aim a rifle with tolerable accuracy, he took careful aim at the creature's head and pulled the trigger. His aim was good, and it expired with scarcely a struggle. Otto remained on the hill until the rays of the rising sun revealed what he had shot. Then his heart was filled with thankfulness that he had been permitted to escape an awful death, for he had killed one of the biggest bullfrogs ever seen in the Loup Valley.

Last Tuesday the Hiram Quick family Sundayed all day Friday at Hopper's. Mr. and Mrs. Payne wish to announce the engagement of their daughter Iva to Mr. Lynn C. Doyle. The Sunbeam Circle of the union church will pull off a raffle Tuesday night, the proceeds to be given to the society for the suppression of gambling. Mark Tupp still shows the effects of his fight with Tacus Quick last Tuesday. A prize will be offered for the prettiest bathing suit worn at the picnic grounds on next Friday evening. Our young ladies will no doubt try to outstrip each other to win the prize. Hereafter the batter who knocks a ball into the weeds in the outfield in the ball park, will either find the ball or replace it with a new one. The golf commissioners ask me to announce that players are required to find all balls they lose in Jiggard's pasture. This ruling is made because golf balls are getting so numerous there that the cattle can't eat the grass. The party who left a Ford car beside the highway near the Chestnut Hill school house last spring is requested to remove same so that the road overseer can grade the road.

ORD BUYS PIONEER PROGRAM

Ord and Community Assured of Good Chatauqua Next Season. Contract Guaranteed by Ord Business Men.

A representative of the Redpath-Horner people dropped into Ord the middle of last week and by Thursday enough signers to the contract for Pioneer or 5-day program had been secured to assure the deal going over. More names were added later and a large tent the same size we had this year will be sent here. The Quiz neglected last week to give an account of the new contract, in fact up to Wednesday evening it looked as though it would be some weeks before the matter of the 1925 Chatauqua would be settled. The Redpath-Horner people, however, were not taking any chances on another company getting a foothold in Ord and they hurriedly sent Miss McMillen who represents the Pioneer circuit to Ord to look the field over and she was here but a few moments when she was sure of putting the deal over. She was able to guarantee five of the leading numbers for next year, among them the Radio Entertainers who pleased the people so much this year and who will be backed by the Merry Old Chief and a couple of additional musicians. The other numbers already selected are good and the Quiz believes we will have just as enjoyable entertainment next year as we have ever had.

The program has been bought for a flat price, $950 and the local committee gets all the single admission receipts. This is $650 less than it would have cost to buy the six day program, for a difference of one day and we are glad it was decided to take the Pioneer program for next year.

QUIZ REPORTER COFS PRIZE

There is really no prize for the accomplishment which the Quiz reporter put over last week and which she is putting over every week that is there is no prize except the feeling of satisfaction which comes to all of us from work well done.

But to begin the story a little further back. Some weeks ago a newspaper sent a report in to the Printer's Auxiliary, a trade paper for newspaper men put out by the Western Newspaper Union. This story told how the city reporter on the paper in question which I think was down in Missouri, had gathered a total of 228 local items in a week. The story was read and forgotten. Two or three weeks ago there was another similar story from another weekly newspaper editor claiming that his city reporter had busted the former record by gathering and turning in a total of 228 local items in one week. Now the writer knew that Mrs. Chapman the Quiz reporter always had more locals than that so, we marked the little story and handed it to her and suggested that she keep track of her locals for a week and last week she did so turning in a total of 337 short local items. She is not credited with hospital notes, society items, church news or other items that run under heads, but simply for short personal items. Last week was not an exceptional week for local news in fact we will be glad to look up and tell in a number of former issues of the Quiz that carry a larger number of locals gathered by Mrs. Chapman. Now if some other Nebraska newspaper has got a reporter who is turning in more locals per week the Quiz would like to hear about it. Mrs. Chapman has been on the Quiz for seventeen years. She very seldom ever misses a train she knows almost every one in Valley county and they have formed the habit of phoning her and telling her the news when it is news.

To Our Dairymen Friends of Central Nebraska:

In the beautiful and nature-blessed central counties of Valley, Custer, Sherman and Buffalo, we have our plants, our homes, and our business. In these counties, we pay the principal part of our taxes and work to develop dairying in Central Nebraska.

We are strictly The COUNTRY CREAMERIES, located in Loup City, Ravenna, and Kearney, and our earnings are paid out for public improvements in town and county in these great central counties of the state. We are the second oldest creamery concern in the state today and we have been right here in your midst working every day in the week for over a third of a century.

WE ARE FOR YOU; ARE YOU FOR US?

Jersey Home Farm

Yes, we have the COW, the SOW and the HEN, and we do not know how about the rest of Valley county but we do know that these three have been the salvation of JERSEY HOME FARM. Hospital bills, Fire, and the money panic all hit us but thanks to the above mentioned farm animals we are still doing business larger and better than ever. At present we have ten Jersey bulls for sale. Some are from our prize winning cows and all are from the best producers. In the Fall and early Winter we will sell a couple of hundred single comb White Leghorn cockerels. You are invited to call and see our stock.

RECORD ENROLL-
MENT EXPECTEDHigh School Students Will Number
300. Teachers Begin to Arrive
for Monday School Opening

With the opening of school Monday it is expected that the Ord schools will be asked to care for a record enrollment. While the enrollment in the grades may show but a slight increase over last year, it is expected that the high school attendance will approach the three hundred mark. There are already 270 enrolled for high school work and while some of these may not put in appearance when school opens, there are likely to be others to take care of any vacancies.

The list of teachers with tentative assignments is as follows:

Belle N. Bryan, high school principal; Hule C. Cole, English; Flossie Varney, Latin and Spanish; Lillian Hansen, Spanish; Tillie Saxon, Home Economics; Edward Sevelk, Science; Helen Kuback, Science; Clara Morris, Mathematics; Ellen M. Anderson, Commercial; Herbert Colwell, Manual Training and Physical Education; Wilma Cook, History.

Junior H. S. Helen Campbell, principal; Carrie Curtis and Alice Nixon.

North School: Frieda Siler, principal; Thelma Dyckens, fifth; Gertrude Nixon, fourth; Margaret Stark, fourth; Iva Hess, combination; Lucille George, third; Daisy Hallen, second; Thelma Abbott, combination.

Primary: Dorothy Jenkins, first; Mabel Misko, kindergarten.

Six of the high school teachers are new to the system. They are: Belle Bryan, high school principal who served in that capacity at Arnold last year; Edward Sevelk of St. Paul, Nebraska, who graduated last spring from Hastings college; Helen Kuback of Crete, a Doane College graduate who has taken work for the past two summers at the Marine Biological Laboratories at Woods Hole, Massachusetts; Clara Morris, McCool Junction, a recent graduate of the University of Nebraska; Ellen M. Anderson of Wayne, Neb., who has taken special commercial work at the State Teachers College of that city; Herbert Colwell of Grand Island who taught at Dannebrog the second semester of last year and who has been taking special work in Manual Training at the University of Nebraska the past summer. Mr. Colwell has enjoyed a place on mythical all state football teams the past two years. He has served as captain of both football and basketball teams while a student at the Grand Island Baptist College.

At the North school Frieda Siler takes the Principalship. Thelma Dyckens nee Achenbach will have the fifth grade instead of the third. Lucille George, who will have the third grade is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. George of Broken Bow. Mr. George has for a great many years been Secretary of the Board of Education at Broken Bow. Thelma Abbott is a graduate of the Sargent high school and taught near Sargent last year. Iva Hess and Dorothy Jenkins are both Nebraska Wesleyan girls. Miss Hess resides at University Place while Miss Jenkins hails from Gothenburg. She was a student in the high school at Gothenburg when Ruth Milford was teaching there.

Students desiring to register for high school work may do so either Thursday or Friday morning, August 28 or 29. The high school principal will be at the high school building to assist new students in registration.

Patrons who have spare time employment for high school students may get in touch with trustworthy students by consulting the superintendent.

Non-resident students who do not hold a trade high school tuition certificate should present a receipt for one month tuition, signed by the Secretary of the Board, R. W. Norman, at the time of registration. Tuition in the high school is $3.00 per week; in the junior high school, $2.00 per week and in the grades $1 per week.

Herbert L. Cushing, Supt.

HOITS CELEBRATE
WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Wednesday, Aug. 20 being Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hoyt's wedding anniversary, about 60 of their neighbors surprised them by driving their cars in the evening to remind them of the event. It is needless to say that they took plenty of good eats with them. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt, attended by Mr. and Mrs. Jake Beehrle went through a mock marriage ceremony. The marriage lines were read by Henry Benn in the very best style. As the ring ceremony was used Little Ruthie Benn acted as ring bearer, carrying it on a lovely Zimica.

After the ceremony the lunch was partaken of and at a late hour the guests departed wishing the couple many more anniversaries.

On Sunday the same crowd with the addition of more relatives and friends went to the park to celebrate the birthdays of Ruth Benn Henry Benn and Della Beehrle. They took well filled lunch baskets and a lot of ice cream and cake and had a merry time until chore time called them home.

Mrs. Paul Lambrecht and children returned Tuesday to Burwell after spending a few days with the former's people, Mrs. W. A. Wright and family.

WELL
ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Mrs. Leell Ferguson filed a complaint Wednesday in county court, charging H. G. Wells with adultery with her over a period since May, 1923 to the 21st day of the present month. Wells was arrested and promptly plead guilty and was released on an $800 bond which was furnished by his employers, Bailey & Detweiler and the case was set for trial week after next.

GRAND ISLAND TOBACCO MAN
PLEADS GUILTY AND PAYS FINE

A tobacco salesman working for the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. and said to live at Grand Island, was arrested Tuesday night, or rather in the small hours of Wednesday morning, at the home of a well known Ord woman and when taken into court Wednesday morning, gave the name of Robert Smith and plead guilty to a charge of lewd and indecent conduct and paid a fine of $20 and the costs. Robert Smith is not his real name but a fictitious name which he gave. He is well known in Ord, as he has been making this territory for some time.

THE BURWELL FAIR

In another column will be found the schedule of the booster trip which the Garfield county fair folks are going to make next week. They are to be in Ord late in the afternoon. Let's show them a good time while they are here. The Garfield county fair is going to be the best ever this year. The program is greater than in any former year.

COUNTY NURSE BACK ON JOB

Miss Margaret Jungles, county nurse, is back on the job again, after enjoying her vacation to the fullest extent and her many friends are glad to see her again. Miss Jungles is doing an important and helpful work and her work can be greatly helped by the active support and co-operation of everyone.

PASS SECOND DEGREE TEST

The following Boy Scouts have completed the work that enables them to take the second class test and they appeared last Friday evening before the Court of Honor, with Supt. Herbert L. Cushing as chairman, and every one of the 14 boys eligible to take the test, passed it and became 2nd class scouts. Scout Executive Curzon was present. Later they will take other degrees. The list follows:

Donald Marquard
Wesley Pierce William Shepard
John Rounds Roland Pierce
John Maynard Samuel Stacy
William Orcutt Kenneth Hughes
George Rounds Dennis Sorensen

HAPPY CIRCLE CLUB NOTES

The meeting held at Mrs. Carl Holm's on the 20th, was well attended and the Yernoon was spent in making the black and gold badges that represent the club colors. Mrs. Jack Vanslyke and children were visitors.

It was decided to send $5 to the Free Milk and Ice Fund for the babies in Omaha. Let us hope that many more organizations will contribute to this fund.

There is to be a club picnic at Will Nelson's grove on Sunday, September 7th. The boys will play ball in the afternoon.

Next meeting will be held at Mrs. Walter Jorgensen's on Sept. 11th.

Mrs. Elmer Dahlia.

1924 LOUP VALLEY FAIR
IS PLEASING LARGE CROWDSJudging Nearly Completed Wednesday Evening. Secretary Paying Out Premium Checks Wednesday.

It is late enough in the 1924 fair to say that it is an unqualified success in all respects. The Wednesday crowd was a whopper and the program was all that could be desired. Everyone who saw the Tuesday evening entertainment put on by the International Revue, was back yesterday and last evening and everyone is loud in their praise of the entertainment.

The Judging started Wednesday morning with George Davis of St. Paul handling the hogs and horses, Henry Bickle of Loup City judging the cattle and C. C. Dale and George Davis judging the poultry. Henry Jorgensen of St. Paul judged the agricultural products and Margaret Brown is judging the art and domestic science departments. The judging was practically complete last evening and the secretary started handing premium checks to the winners in the stock department shortly after noon yesterday. He says that every premium check will be delivered before the fair closes Friday evening. Exhibitors will be allowed to begin taking their exhibits away at 5 o'clock Friday and it will be a great favor to the fair management if they will all refrain from trying to take things away before that hour. It is the wish of the management to treat all exhibitors alike.

There are as many horses as were ever shown on the grounds and the quality is better than ever before. There was a wonderful horse show. The hog show was all that could be desired in Poland China, Spotted Poland China, and Duroc classes. The white hogs were conspicuous by their absence this year. There is a small display of high quality Hampshires.

The cattle show is fine but not as large in numbers as in some former years. The Sautter herd of Shorthorns is as fine as was ever shown on the grounds. The Eberhart Jerseys are a splendid lot and the Clement Herefords are getting their share of the attention of the visitors.

Mrs. Van Deear and her force of workers have been literally buried under the finest display of fancy work ever shown at a county fair here and the premiums are mostly in place as this is being written.

Seven rural clubs are exhibiting this week. Considering their space and this being a new line of exhibit work the clubs have certainly put up a wonderful display. Elm Creek was the lucky club to draw first prize. The Royal Kensington won second and the Springdale Kensington third. The Neighborhood Sisters did not have a complete exhibit but considering their being a new club they have shown how the sewing machine attachment work may be made practical. The Elm Creek club has some especially good designs to illustrate unbecoming lines in dress and hat. Springdale Kensington has some splendid pictures showing the activities of their club work. The Midvale Home Makers had two perfect little dress forms. The Happy Circle embroidery stitches are one of their outstanding features. With the Loyal Workers of Davis Creek considerable favorable comment is being made on the blue dress made of handkerchiefs. The Royal Kensington Club has a moving picture machine which seems to take with the crowd.

Yesterdays program started promptly at one o'clock in front of the grandstand. The stand was about half full but before the races had started, the stand was almost packed.

In the Shetland pony race, Arnold Long riding J. D. Hopkins pony won first. Young Norris came in second on the Philbrick pony.

The free act featuring The Vagges in a combination jugglitz and punching bag act took place on the platform and was well received.

Five ponies were entered in the three-eighths mile pony race on the platform with three selections and drew rounds of race in which Philbain won first, Benson second and Moon third.

Hipp, Amon and Lewis, the Male Harmony Trio entertained.

In the half mile running race, Benson nosed out Philbain for first money after Philbain had led by a couple of lengths most of the way. DeMond came in third.

The frog race was the most exciting race on the program. There were five entries who wheeled frogs in wheelbarrows. They were not to lose the frogs. John Round won first because his frog never attempted to move during the race. George Round took second and Shirley third.

There were no entries ready in the Ford race, and a two mile motorcycle race was substituted. This proved a thriller. The two machines see-sawed for a mile, when the leading driver hit the fence on the west end of the track and took a bad spill. He was not seriously injured but the machine was put out of commission. Sorensen was declared winner.

Three entries consisting of six Ford cars took part in the Ford race. Stock cars were used, each running 1-2 mile and this furnished more excitement than anything else on the afternoon program. Chas. Hether won first, Ed Anderson second and Art Diamond third.

The wagon race concluded the racing program of the afternoon. Bill Moon won first.

LOUP CITY SMOTHERS
ORD BY 21 TO 9 SCORE

The Loup City Sluggers took picks on the crippled Ord team last Sunday afternoon and fattened their batting average by slaying the pellet to all corners of the lot and winning the game by a score of 21 to 9.

Honeycutt injured his arm in the second inning and was forced to leave the mound. Ernie Hill came to the rescue but did not have much success in putting the ball where it could not be found by the Sluggers. He lasted three innings and was relieved by Clements.

Three circuit courts were registered during the battle, two of these by Benson and Clements for the locals. Mike Hill drew the batting honors by connecting for three singles out of four hits. The home club will journey to Arcadia Sunday to tangle with the crippled Wreckers there. As both teams have several regulars out of the lineup a close game can be looked for.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harry W. Hansen, Minister
Beginning Sunday there will be services both morning and evening. Sunday school at the usual hour. Morning worship at 11 and the evening service at 8 o'clock.

The morning subject will discuss the questions "Is Faith in the Power of Prayer Justified, and Is the Practice of Prayer Worth While?" The subject for the evening will be "Life Lessons from Jonah." There will be special music. We extend a cordial invitation to all who have no church home to worship with us.

NOTICE

Two traveling bags were lost between the fair grounds and the square yesterday. One of them has been returned to the owner and the party who was seen picking up the other one is requested to bring it at once to the Quiz office or to the Secretary's office at the fair grounds. 21-11

PERRYMAN BUYS
IN BROKEN BOW

Brief mention was made last week of the selling by Paul C. Perryman, of his interest in the Ord store of Perryman-Hill to Ernie Hill. Later Mr. Perryman bought a clothing store at Broken Bow, trading in on the deal a quarter section of Kimball county land which he owned. Mr. Perryman took immediate charge of his new property.

Paul C. Perryman was active in all affairs of civic interest in Ord during the years he has been in business here and he will be greatly missed when he comes to putting over all kinds of activities. He was always prominent in the Community Service Club and has held offices in the organization most of the time since the club was organized. He was treasurer at the time he left Ord and a successor will have to be named at the next meeting of the board.

Mr. Perryman was also prominent in Masonic and K. P. circles and has held many positions of trust in both orders. He was active in the Ord Retailers association as long as that organization functioned and probably gave more liberally of his time in promoting matters for the good of the town and community. The Quiz congratulates Broken Bow in having him locate there.

ORD'S IRON DERBY
GOLF TOURNAMENT

Grand Prize of 10,000 Marks to Low Medalist for the Play of Twenty-Seven Holes.

Ice cold lemonade at various points on the course for refreshments, will be furnished for the players, list of club members has been arranged and you will be notified by the captains either by card or personally, on which team you are to play.

Play starts at 9:15 a. m. Sunday, August 31. Try to be on time. Let us all get out and have a real golf match.

MAX SCHUYLER FILES PETITION ASKING FOR A DIVORCE

Max Schuyler has filed a petition in district court, asking for a divorce from his wife. This action is a culmination of her acts which became public last week. Attorney Hardenbrook is attorney for Mr. Schuyler.

STAR CAFE REOPENS

The tar cafe, which closed recently when the former proprietor, Chas. Lunney, became bankrupt, has been leased to D. R. Beighley, of Ericson and has opened for business. He has been in business at Ericson for some time and has had years of experience in the business and there is no reason why he should not do a fine business.

Last Monday there was a shower given for Miss Priscilla VanDecar, at the Otto Johnson home. The function was planned by Louise Johnson and Margaret Brown.

Miss Inez Knack was a return passenger Saturday for North Loup.

GARFIELD FAIR
BOOSTERS COMING

The Garfield county fair boosters will be in Ord next Wednesday afternoon and the Quiz is printing the complete schedule of their trip and it is some trip. They will arrive in Ord at 4:40 according to their schedule. They are not likely to get here much ahead of their schedule because it is a heavy one.

Now last week when the boosters from Ord went on their trip the Burwell boosters met us down the line several miles and we would like to see at least 25 cars go a few miles and conduct them to Ord. Arrangements can be made to find out where they are during the afternoon and just when they leave last town for Ord and their is the time to start. It would be fine to take along a lot of noise making implements and let every car carry one of the big decorative flags. It will make an imposing procession to see 20 or 30 cars coming up the line with those big all flags flying. They can be strapped to the side of the car in some way so they can be carried upright. Let's show the Burwell folks at least as good a time as they showed us. They will arrive according to the schedule given below:

Leave Burwell 8.00 A. M. Arrive	Taylor 8.45.
Leave Taylor 9.05. Arrive Sargent 9.35.
Leave Sargent 9.55. Arrive in Comstock 10.40.
Leave Comstock 11.00. Arrive in Arcadia 12.00 noon.
Leave Arcadia 12.30. Arrive in Loup City 1.00.

Leave Loup City 2.00. Arrive in Scotia 3.00.
Leave Scotia 3.20. Arrive in North Loup 3.40.
Leave North Loup 4.00. Arrive in Ord 4.40.
Leave Ord 5.00. Arrive in Elyria 5.30.
Leave Elyria 5.50. Arrive in Burwell 6.35.

CARLOTA DAVIS WRITES FROM COLORADO RESORT

Trappers Lake, Colo.
August 22, 1924.

Dear Quiz—
Before coming to Estes Park we had determined to climb Long's Peak, the King of the Rockies, and so at 5:30 one morning father and I left the village for Hewes-Kirkwood Inn at the base of the mountain. There we had a peak breakfast and were joined by four others and our guide.

At 7:15 we started on horseback along steep wooded trails, past timberline, by banks of snow and finally after about two and one-half hours reached what is known as the Boulderfield. This is a long stretch of giant rocks and boulders. There we dismounted and scrambled across the boulders for an hour or more until we finally came to the "Key-hole." After a little rest we went on along sheer precipices and over boulders to "The Trough."

This is a steep path up the rocks with slides very much resembling a rough and is the most tiresome and dangerous part of the climb. Below it dropped downward thousands of feet and at places we would have to dig our fingers in a large crack and our feet in another and pull ourselves over the difficult places. After several hours of hard climbing we reached the top of the trough flagged out and our hearts beat like a trip hammer. Here father gave up and reluctantly, "I admit, I went on."

The next part was "The Narrows" a very narrow path at the edge of a steep precipice hundreds of feet straight up on one side and straight down on the other. Here we had to hold in mere cracks and edge along. The guide however helped me in all dangerous places and I made it all right. It seemed to me though, that I didn't care if I did fall off for I could hardly put one foot ahead of the other and as father said afterwards I got so finally I couldn't even smile.

The Narrows didn't last for so very long and at last we came to the Home Stretch, the steepest part of the climb, and reached the top of the peak at 1:30. Here the view was magnificent over peaks without number, immense snow banks, black forests and shining lakes, and even far out across the plains to what we imagined must be Nebraska in the distance.

We ate our dinner hurriedly for a storm was coming and was almost on us. It began to sleet and by the time the lightning was all around us, by raising our hands our fingers would crackle and snap. There had been a lady struck by lightning the year before on the peak and so we hurried down. As we were descending it began to snow and we were in a cold blizzard with clouds above and below us.

The descent was slow but not so tiring and we finally reached the horses. After an aching tedious ride we came to the Inn at 7 p. m. nearly twelve hours for the round trip. On the way we saw trees and flowers of many strange kinds, many birds and several animals, including a mountain lion which ran from across the Boulderfield.

Our party was very congenial and although we were real stiff the next day we were certainly glad we made the climb.

Very truly,
Carlota Davis.

Charley Pokorny went out to see his best girl last Sunday and while on his way had a puncture but had it fixed in a short time and made the best of his way over there and not very long ago Joe Urban of Arcadia went out to see his girl and had a trouble and a puncture also. I suppose the only reason of having all this trouble when they go to see their best girl is because it is leap year and the boys have no business going to see a girl.

Helen Sibal has been staying in Burwell for some time, working for McMillen Bros.

HASKELL CREEK NEWS
(By Eva Miska)
The younger folks of Haskell Creek are anxiously but not eagerly looking forward to starting to school Monday.

Several attended the dance at Will Nelsons Saturday evening. In spite of the warm evening they seemed to have a good time.

Mrs. Edward Miska autographed some Calumet S. D. Theatricals to spend a few days with the Brechbills family and other relatives.

MIDVALE ITEMS
(By C. D. Bennett)
As it has been quite a little time since I wrote any items I thought a few lines from down this way might interest some of our readers. Since writing there are many things for which I am indebted to many of the good people in this community.

Three years ago Mrs. John Bell gave me a cherry tree to pick, as did Bro. C. H. Leonard. This year, though Sister Bell has passed to her reward, Bro. Bell called me up and told me the cherries were ripe and to come and get them as did Bro. Leonard also. And in order to make sure that I should have enough cherries for the winter brother Earl Leonard gave me two more trees to pick this year. I am also indebted to Bro. Robert Squires for feed for my chickens for the past two months. I surely will miss the good people of this community when I leave, but whoever does come will find that he is surrounded by friends and neighbors that are hard to beat anywhere.

A couple of weeks ago the writer and his family autographed to South Dakota to see J. M. Bennett, a son of the writer. Until we passed Creighton we could see that they had very heavy rains and by Albion we crossed a strip of country where it looked like the hail had completely destroyed the crop. In South Dakota they were getting very dry and at best the corn will be short. I do not think I saw any corn on my trip as good as right here in Mira Valley. Certainly none any better.

Last Thursday the C. H. Leonard family, Earl Leonard and family, Bud Bell and family and the writer and family took their dinners and autographed to Lake Ericson and spent the day. I think all enjoyed the day very much.

There was good attendance at both services Sunday. Come again and bring others with you next Sunday.

I understand that A. A. Leonard and family and Vere Leonard and family visited at North Loup Sunday. Laverne Lamdin, Gwen Kellison and Charles Bennett visited at the Raymond Burrows home Sunday. Bess and Julia Bennett spent Sunday afternoon at the Oscar Collins home.

Some of the relations of Mrs. C. H. Leonard of Mammouth, Illinois, spent Sunday at the Leonard home. And then the ice cream social given by the ladies aid society Thursday evening was well attended.

Orin Kellison and John Maslin Jr. shipped cattle from down this way last week.

The grain in this community is all threshed and in the stack or nearly so.

Mrs. P.vey and daughter Ruth visited in Hastings Saturday and Sunday.

R. E. Noll hauled hogs one day last week and Orin Kellison was hauling hogs Monday.

I see Henry Geweke Jr. nearly every day with hogs or wheat or anything else but hooch. That we do not have out this way.

I just learned that Brother Tom Lamdin has a new daughter. We will be looking for her at Sunday school before long.

Mrs. Lunney of Ord who came to visit her son J. H. Lunney and was taken sick some weeks ago, was taken back to her home in Ord last Wednesday, where she will be close to medical aid.

Just a couple weeks more of this hot weather and most of the corn will be out of the way of the frost.

Mrs. James Hisek was taken back to the Hillcrest Sanatorium after being sick for quite a while. We all hope she gets well soon again.

George, small son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hisek, is staying with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Holman while his mother is at Hillcrest Sanatorium.

The Weeks Visit
Mr. and Mrs. V. Bruha at the Grandma Bruha home last Monday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cernik and family at the V. Bruha home last Tuesday evening. Joe Zadina and sons at the V. Bruha home last Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. V. Bruha and daughters Emma and Katherine and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Polak at Jos. Klats near Burwell Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bruha and family at the Joe Bruha home Sunday evening.

THE PLEASANT HILLS
(By Rose Hulsinsky)
Adolph Ruzicka and family were Saturday visitors at Ed Ruzicka's.

The Misses Tillie Klat, Emma and Bessie Vancura are staying a few weeks with the former's sister, Mrs. Vencil Mathouser, taking care of the new boy.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mach and children, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hulsinsky, were Sunday visitors at Ed Ruzicka's.

Burwell Fair and Rodeo

September 8, 9, 10, 11

A reproduction of the old days on the frontier. More than $1,000 in purses for the wild west contests alone. We have also booked the best talent in the west for special acts; and we offer an entertainment so diversified, to suit all tastes, and at an expense of thousands of dollars. We have our own Texas steers for the Bulldogging and riding events; our live stock, poultry and agriculture departments promise to be well filled with high class exhibits.

THE GRIFFITH TRIO, of Gainesville, Texas, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Griffith and their ten year old son "Dick" in thrilling rides and stunts.

THIRTY FIVE SIOUX INDIANS, in tribal dances, and attacks on the White Man; in which they will burn his house and lift his scalp in full view of the crowd.

HASTINGS GIRL CADETS in their dazzling military drills, which have thrilled the immense crowds before whom they appeared last year, in many of our large cities.

LOUISE HARTWIG, of Miles City, Montana, the queen of many Rodeos who will ride the Texas Steers and the Outlaw Horses.

ROY GOODMAN the cowboy clown, who will please and amuse with his original and laughable stunts.

HAZEL MCOWEN STOCK COMPANY A high class theatrical company in their own large tent, to give performance.

safety, while Moya was anxious about his, but later he was to remember it. He had not been gone ten minutes before Joyce was sound asleep. She trusted him and she trusted Moya, and for her that was enough. All her life she had relied on somebody else to bear the brunt of her troubles. But the girl with the powdered freckles beneath the dusky eyes carried her own burdens. She too had implicit confidence in the champion who had come out of the storm to help them and had taken his life in hand to do it. Her heart went out to him with all the passionate ardor of generous youth. She had never met such a man, so strong, so masterful, and yet so boyish.

Her brain was far too active for slumber. She sat before the stove and went over the adventures of the past two hours. How strange that they had met him again in this dramatic fashion. Perhaps he lived at Goldbanks now and they would see more of him. She hoped so mightily, even though there persisted in her mind a picture of his blue-gray eyes paying homage to Joyce.

The storm had blown itself out before morning. A white world sparkled with flashes of sunlight when Moya opened the door of the cabin and gazed out. Looking down into the peaceful valley below, it was hard to believe that death had called to them so loudly only a few hours earlier.

Kilmenny emerged from the shaft-house and called a cheerful good-morning across to her.

"How did you sleep?" he shouted as he crunched across the snow toward her.

"Not so very well. Joyce slept for both of us."

Their smiles met. They had been comrades in the determination to shield her from whatever difficulties the situation might hold.

"I'm glad. Is she quite herself this morning? Last night she was very tired and a good deal alarmed."

"Yes. After you came Joyce did not worry any more. She knew you would see that everything came right."

The color crept into his bronzed face. "Did she say so?"

"Yes. But it was not what she said. I could tell."

"I'm glad I could do what I did."

The eyes that looked at him were luminous. Something sweet and mocking glowed in them inscrutably. He knew her gallant soul approved him, and his heart lifted with gladness. The beauty of her companion fascinated him, but he divided in this Irish girl the fine thread of loyalty that lifted her character out of the commonplace. Her slender, vivid personality breathed vigor of the spirit wholly engaging.

Joyce joined her friends in the doorway. With her cheeks still flushed from sleep and her hair a little disheveled, she reminded Jack of a beautiful crumpled rose leaf. Since her charm was less an expression of an inner quality, she needed more than Moya the adventitious aids of dress.

The young woman's smile came out warmly at sight of Kilmenny. It was her custom always to appropriate the available man. Toward this bronzed young fellow with the splendid throat sloping into muscular shoulders she felt very kindly this morning. He had stood between her and trouble. He was so patently an admirer of Joyce Seldon. And on his own merits the virility and good looks of him drew her admiration. At sight of the bruises on his face her heart beat a little fast with pleasurable excitement. He had fought for her like a man. She did not care if he was a workingman. His name was Kilmenny. He was a gentleman by birth, worth a dozen Verinders.

"Mr. Kilmenny, how can we ever thank you?"

He looked at her and nodded gayly. "Forget it, Miss Seldon. I couldn't have done less."

"Or more," she added softly, her lovely eyes in his.

No change showed in the lean brown face of the man, but his blood moved faster. It was impossible to miss the appeal of sex that escaped at every graceful movement of the soft sensuous body, that glowed from the deep still eyes in an electric current flashing straight to his veins. He would have loved to touch the soft flushed cheek, the crisp amber hair clouding the convolutions of the little ears. His eyes were an index of the man, bold and possessive and unwavering. They announced him a dynamic American, one who walked the way of the strong and fought for his share of the spoils. But when she looked at him they softened. Something fine and tender transfigured the face and wiped out its sardonic recklessness.

"The pressing question before the house is breakfast. There are bacon and flour and coffee here. Shall I make a batch of biscuits and offer you pot luck? Or do you prefer to wait till we can get to Goldbanks?"

"What do you think?" Moya asked. "I think whatever you think. We'll not reach town much before noon. If you can rough it for a meal I should advise trying out the new cook. It really depends on how hungry you are."

"I'm hungry enough to eat my boots," the Irish girl announced promptly.

"So am I. Let's stay—if our hosts won't object," Joyce added. "I'm quite sure they won't," Kilmenny replied dryly. "All right. A camp breakfast it is."

"I'm going to help you," Moya told him.

"Of course. You'd better wash the dishes as soon as we get hot water. They're probably pretty grimy."

He stepped into the cabin and took off his coat. Moya rolled up her sleeves to the elbows of her plump dimpled arms. Miss Seldon hovered about helplessly and wanted to know what she could do.

The miner had not "batched" in the hills for years without having learned how to cook. His biscuits came to the table hot and flaky, his bacon was done to a turn. Even the chowchow coffee tasted delicious to the hungry guests.

With her milk-white skin, her vivid crimson lips so exquisitely turned, and the superb vitality of her youth, Joyce bloomed in the sordid hut like a flower in a rubbish heap. To her bronzed vis-a-vis it seemed that the world this morning was shimmering romance. Never before had he enjoyed a breakfast half as much. He and Miss Seldon did most of the talking, while Moya listened, the star flash in her eyes and the whimsical little smile on her lips.

Joyce was as gay as a lark. She chattered with the childish artlessness that at times veiled her sophistication. Jack was given to understand that she loved to be natural and simple, that she detested the shams of social convention to which she was made to conform. Her big lovely eyes were wistful in their earnestness as they met his. It was not wholly a pose with her. For the moment she meant all she said. A delightful excitement fluttered her pulses. She was playing the game she liked best, moving forward to the first skirmishes of that sex war which was meat and drink to her sanity. The man attracted her as few men ever had. That nothing could come of it beyond the satisfaction of the hour did not mitigate her zest for the battle.

They were still at breakfast when one of the Cornishmen pushed open the door and looked in. He stood looking down on them sullenly without speaking.

"Want to see me, Peale?" asked Kilmenny.

"Did I say I wanted to see 'ee?" demanded the other roughly.

"Better come in and shut the door. The air's chilly."

The battered face of his companion loomed over the shoulder of Peale. To Kilmenny it was plain that they had come with the idea of making themselves disagreeable. Very likely they had agreed to force their company upon the young women for breakfast. But the sight of their dainty grace, together with Jack's cheerful invitation, was too much for their audacity. Peale grumbled something inaudible and turned away, slamming the door as he went.

The young miner laughed softly. If he had shown any unwillingness they would have pushed their way in. His urbanity had disarmed them.

"They're not really bad men, you know—just think they are," he explained casually.

"I'm afraid of them. I don't trust them," Joyce shuddered.

"Well, I trust them while they're under my eye. The trouble with men of that stripe is that they're yellow. A game man gives you a fighting chance, but fellows of this sort hit while you're not looking. But you needn't worry. They're real tame citizens this morning."

"Yes, they looked tame," Moya answered dryly. "So tame I'm sure they'd like to crucify you."

"I daresay they would, but in this world a man can't get everything he would like. I've wanted two or three pleasures myself that I didn't get."

His gaze happened to turn toward Joyce as he was speaking. He had been thinking of nothing definite, but at the meeting of their eyes something flashed into birth and passed from one to the other like an electric current. Jack knew now something that he wanted, but he did not admit that he could not get it. If she cared for him—and what else had her eyes told him in the golden glow of that electric moment?—a hundred Verinders and Lady Farquhar could not keep them apart.

His heart sang jubilantly. He rose abruptly and left the room because he was afraid he could not veil his feeling.

Joyce smiled happily. "Where is he going?" she asked innocently.

Moya looked at her and then turned her eyes away. She had understood the significance of what she had seen and a door in her heart that had been open for weeks clanged shut.

"I don't know, unless to get the horses," she said quietly.

A few minutes later he returned, leading the animals. From the door of the shaft-house the Cornishmen watched them mount and ride away. The men smoked in sullen silence.

Before they had ridden a hundred yards Joyce was in gay talk with Kilmenny. She had forgotten the very existence of the miners. But Moya did not forget. She had seen the expression of their faces as the horses had passed. If a chance ever offered itself they would have their revenge.

It was a day winnowed from a lifetime of ordinary ones. They rode through a world shot to the core with sunlight. The snow sparkled and gleamed with it. The foliage of the cottonwoods, which already had shaken much of their white coat to the ground, reflected it in greens and golds and russets merged to a note of perfect harmony by the Great Artist. Though the crispness of early winter was in the air, their nostrils drew in the fragrance of October, the faint wafted perfume of dying summer.

Beneath a sky of perfect blue they pushed along the shoulder of the hill, avoiding the draw into which snow had drifted deep. Life stormed in their veins, glowing in their flushed cheeks, rang in the care-free laughter of at least two of them. Jack broke trail, turning often in the saddle with a little twist of his lean muscular body, to suggest a word of caution at the bad places. Always then he discovered the deep violet eyes of Joyce Seldon with their smoldering fire. To let himself dwell upon her loveliness of fine-textured satiny skin, set off by the abundant crown of lustrous bronze hair, was to know again a quickened pulse of delight.

When he spoke it was with the languid drawl of the western plainsman. In humor he feigned to conceal his passion, but Joyce knew him to be alertly conscious of her every word, every turn of her pliant body.

They reached the road, where two could ride abreast. Sometimes he was with the one, again with the other. Moya, who had not much to say this morning, made it easy for him to be with Joyce. She did not need to be told that he was under the allure of that young woman's beauty; and not alone of her beauty, but of that provocative stimulating something that can be defined only as the drag of sex. All men responded to it when Joyce chose to exert herself, many when she did not.

Once he turned to point out to Moya some snow-covered mounds above the road.

"Graves of a dozen auto-skippers killed by Indians nearly thirty years ago. My father was the only one of the party that escaped."

Half a mile from town they met two men on horseback and exchanged news. All Goldbanks had been searching for them through the night. The Farquhar party were wild with anxiety about them.

Kilmenny gave prompt quiet orders. "Get back to town, boys, and tell Lady Farquhar that it's all right. We'll be along in a few minutes."

The news of their safety spread as by magic. Men and women and children poured into the streets to welcome them. It was as much as Kilmenny could do to keep back the cheering mob long enough to reach the hotel. Verinder, Lady Jim, and India came down the steps to meet them, Captain Kilmenny and Lord Farquhar both being away at the head of search parties. India and Lady Farquhar broke down without shame and cried as they embraced the returned wanderers.

"We thought . . . we thought . . ." India could not finish in words, but Moya knew what she meant.

"It was very nearly that way, dear, but everything is all right now," her friend smiled through a film of tears.

"It was Moya saved us—and afterward Mr. Kilmenny," Joyce explained between sobs.

The crowd below cheered again and Moya borrowed India's handkerchief to wave. It touched her to see how glad these people were to know they had been rescued.

Lady Farquhar thanked Kilmenny with a gulp in her throat. "We'll want to hear all about it and to get a chance to thank you properly. Will you come to dinner this evening? Joyce and Moya should be rested by then."

Jack accepted promptly. "I'll be very glad to come."

CHAPTER X

"Prove It! . . . Prove It!"

Sam Bleyer, superintendent of the big Verinder mines, had been up to see his client at the hotel and was passing the private sitting-room of the Farquhar party when a voice halted him. He bowed inclusively to Lady

Farquhar.

"You called me?"

"I did. Are you in a very great hurry?" Joyce flashed her most courteous smile at him.

"You are never to be in a hurry when Miss Seldon wants you, Bleyer," announced Verinder, following the superintendent into the room.

Bleyer flushed. He was not "a lady's man," as he would have phrased it, but there was an arresting loveliness about Joyce that held the eye.

"You hear my orders, Miss Seldon," he said.

"Awfully good of you, Mr. Verinder," Joyce acknowledged with a swift slant smile toward the mine owner. "Just now I want Mr. Bleyer to be an information bureau."

"Anything I can do," murmured Bleyer.

He was a thin little man with a face as wrinkled as a contour map of South America. Thick glasses rested on a Roman nose in front of near-sighted eyes. Frequently he peered over these in an ineffective manner that suggested a lost puppy in search of a friend. But in spite of his appearance Bleyer was a force in Goldbanks. He knew his business and gave his whole energies to it.

"We're all so interested in Mr. Kilmenny. Tell us all about him, please." "That's a rather large order, isn't it?" The wrinkles in his leathery face broke into a smile. "What in particular do you want to know?"

"Everything. What does he do?

How does he live? How long has he been here?"

"He has been around here about five years. He has a lease in a mine. There was a flinty dryness in the manner of the superintendent that neither Joyce nor Moya missed.

"And he makes his living by it?"

Above his spectacles the eyes of Bleyer gleamed resentfully. "You'll have to ask Mr. Kilmenny how he makes his living. I don't know."

"You're keeping something from us. I believe you do know, Mr. Bleyer." With a swift turn of her supple body Joyce appealed to Verinder. "Make him tell us, please."

Moya did not lift the starlike eyes that were so troubled from the face of Bleyer. She knew the man implied something discreditable to Kilmenny. The look that had flashed between him and Verinder told her so much. Red signals of defiance blazed on both cheeks. Whatever it was, she did not intend to believe him.

Verinder disclosed a proper reluctance. "Bleyer says he doesn't know." "Oh, he says! I want him to tell what he thinks."

"You won't like it," the mine owner warned.

"I'll be the best judge of that." Joyce swung upon Bleyer. "You hear, sir. You're to tell me what you mean."

"I don't mean anything." He paused, then looked straight at Joyce with a visible harshness. "I'll tell you what the common gossip is if you want to know, Miss Seldon. They say he is a highgrader."

"And what is a highgrader?" demanded Moya.

"A highgrader is one who steals rich ore from the mine where he works," answered Verinder smugly.

Moya, eyes hot and shining, flashed her challenge at him. "I don't believe it—not a word of it," so far as Mr.

Kilmenny is concerned."

"Afraid that doesn't change the facts, Miss Dwight. It's a matter of general knowledge." Beneath Verinder's bland manner there lurked a substratum of triumph.

"General fiddlesticks! Don't believe it, Joyce," cried Moya stormily. "He doesn't even work as a miner. He owns his own lease."

"He used to work in the mines, even if he doesn't now. There are stories—"

"Ridiculous to think it of Mr. Kilmenny," exploded Moya. "We've done nothing but insult him ever since we've known him. First he was a highwayman. Now he is a thief. Anything else, Mr. Verinder?"

"Everybody knows it," retorted Verinder sulkily.

"Then prove it. Put him in prison. Aren't there any laws in the state? If everybody knows it, why isn't he arrested?" the Irish girl flamed.

"Moya," chided Lady Farquhar gently.

"Her ward turned upon Lady Jim a flushed face stirred by anger to a vivid charm. "Can't you see how absurd it is? He owns his own lease. Mr. Bleyer admits it. Is he robbing himself, then?"

The muscles stood out on the cheeks of the superintendent like cords. He stuck doggedly to his guns. "I didn't say he stole the ore himself. The charge is that he buys it from the men who do take it. His lease is an excuse. Of course he pretends to get the ore there."

"It's the common talk of the camp," snapped Verinder contemptuously. "The man doesn't even keep it under decent cover."

"Then prove it . . . prove it! That ought to be easy—since everybody knows it." Moya's voice was low, but her scornful passion lashed the Englishman as with a whip.

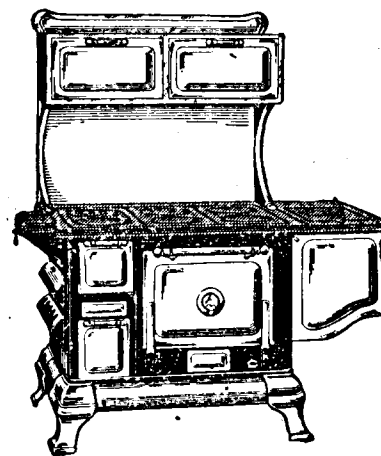

"By Jove, that's just what I'm going to do."

MR. SIMMONS

The spirit moves the Times-Herald to say a good word in behalf of Robert G. Simmons, of Scottsbluff, republican candidate for congress from the Big Sixth Nebraska district to succeed himself. There is no special occasion that calls for any bouquets. Mr. Simmons' work in behalf of his district has been uniformly good. Filling the unexpired term of Moses P. Kinkaid, the young Scottsbluff attorney has succeeded beyond the greatest expectation of his friends in learning the needs and problems of his district, and in diligently applying himself to the service of his constituents.

The democratic nominee, Charles W. Beal of Broken Bow, undoubtedly has his friends and supporters. It is conceivable that he might, if given sufficient time and plenty of luck, measure up to the position he desires to fill. The Sixth district, the largest and one of the most important in the state, however, has been represented in an exceptionally able manner for more than twenty years, the incumbent has proved himself in every way fitted for the task, and the voters have no disposition to call for a change at this time.

Bob Simmons represents the best strain in the national political life of today. He is young, earnest, energetic, willing and able to serve. His is a growing intelligence. He is a better man in every way than when he went down to Washington, and he had decided ability when he won the election to congress from a half-dozen men with more political experience. His value as a representative from Nebraska will increase every time he is re-elected. The Big Sixth made no mistake when it selected him for the honor and responsibility, and it will make no mistake when it returns him to Washington.

Committee appointments of prominence, which mean increased influence, come to a congressman in proportion to his years of service. Western states, generally, make the mistake of changing their representatives too often, just as they get in position to do the most effective service to their constituents. The Big Sixth district did not make that mistake with M. P. Kinkaid and the voters are not likely to underestimate the ability and capacity of Bob Simmons. He should be given a vote of confidence. It has been well earned and he will repay it with increased devotion to a task for which he is eminently fitted.—Alliance Times-Herald.

MY OWN COLUMN

(By H. D. Leggett)

If the Quiz don't amount to much the next few weeks don't blame it onto me for I won't be here. I don't know who is going to keep Bert Hardenbrook, Archie Bradt, Postmaster Ed. Clements and a lot of other fellows straight while I am away but I am going to wash my hands of the job for a while and if they get into trouble they will have to get out the best way they can.

About fifty fellows have been in to ask me not to print that list of names. They say it will be so hard on the wives and children of the list.

If I was to print half of the dope the fellows at the national republican headquarters send me I wouldn't have room for half of the Ord society news and I am sure the s. n. is more interesting.

I am sore because several fellows have suggested that the Quiz should be printed on pink paper.

Asa Wood of Gering found out that Ole Buck was coming to visit him again this summer so he had his house painted another color, thinking to throw Ole off the track but he fell down and now the Wood family is on a mush and milk diet for six weeks to let the family pocket book catch up with its schedule. I know how to sympathize with you Asa.

Ole Buck says an Ord woman served pie on a lettuce leaf. It was apple pie and it was served on a fig leaf, Ole.

Now Jake Ward and Marion are trying to get me not to go up to Cullen this fall. They know that I will knock the socks off their fish catches.

I notice that some of the fast drivers have found a way to control their speed considerable.

Unless present plans miscarry the Missus and Miss Flora and myself will fill up Saturday of this week for the Quiz cottage on Cullen and Eugene will be left in charge of this paper for a few weeks. I am going to send home some big fish stories and also some big fish. I wish it was possible to send a mess of fish to every Quiz reader and I assure you I would enjoy the sending as much as you would the eating. I can send one box of fish for each license so the number of fish it is possible for me to send is very limited.

LOCAL NEWS

(Crowded out last week)

Mrs. D. E. Ross of Ames, Ia., who was formerly Miss Ethel Newbecker of Ord, arrived last week from a visit with relatives in different parts of the state. She is a guest at the home of her father, George Newbecker. Mrs. Ross visited her brother Dr. Cecil Newbecker and their sister Bernice and met the Haldermans and of course several former friends on her trip to the coast state. She was accompanied by her little son.

Last Sunday evening James Heyn a brother-in-law of August Behrandt and an uncle of Mesdames Nels Jensen and Morris Jorgensen arrived from Chicago. Mr. Heyn has not been in Valley county for seventeen years. In the old country he and Hans Clement were friends, so he will spend some time at the Clement home. He homesteaded in Valley county in the early eighties.

F. C. Williams and wife and Mrs. Wilford Williams and baby drove to Arcadia last Sunday and spent the day. They were accompanied home by Tolamny who had been at Arcadia for several days.

Mr. James Heyn, from Chicago, who is visiting his old friend Hans L. Clement, came to Ord in the year 1883 with the Clement family. He came to be pretty well known with all the old settlers in Valley County. He worked on the Felle Moeller farm for some time and was soon a good friend with Peter Mortensen, George Miller, Jens Smith, and many others of the old friends. He also worked for Satterlee and for Rogers who in those days used to buy up ponies from the Indians. While working in Johnson's Grocery Store he formed a club of younger business element with the purpose of getting a brass band for Ord. After getting the instruments from Lyon-leaf, the boys made such hellish noises that the town folks decided to give them the old school houses to practice in. The boys did so well, that the town folks built a band stand the following spring in the Court House square. He left for Chicago in the spring of 1884 where he is now connected with one of the large importing firms. He is also a director and vice-president of one of the leading danish papers in Chicago, called the Danish Times. As he has a large circle of friends in Valley County he is keeping Hans Clement pretty busy visiting them all. He always thinks Valley county is the grandest place, and through these lines he sends his warmest regard to those friends that his time does not allow him to see.

Dale Garnick and wife, and Roy, Alta and Estelle Stewart depart in an auto last Sunday morning for Colorado, where they expect to spend about two weeks.

Mrs. Mike Gorham and children arrived this morning from Council Bluffs. They are guests of the C. C. Furtwangler family.

Mrs. Stepmann, a friend of the Roy Stoltz family came up from Grand Island this morning.

Mrs. Ed. Wegrzyn came up from Columbus last evening for a visit with her people the Frank Koupal family.

One Way in Which the WEIR Furnace Does Save Coal

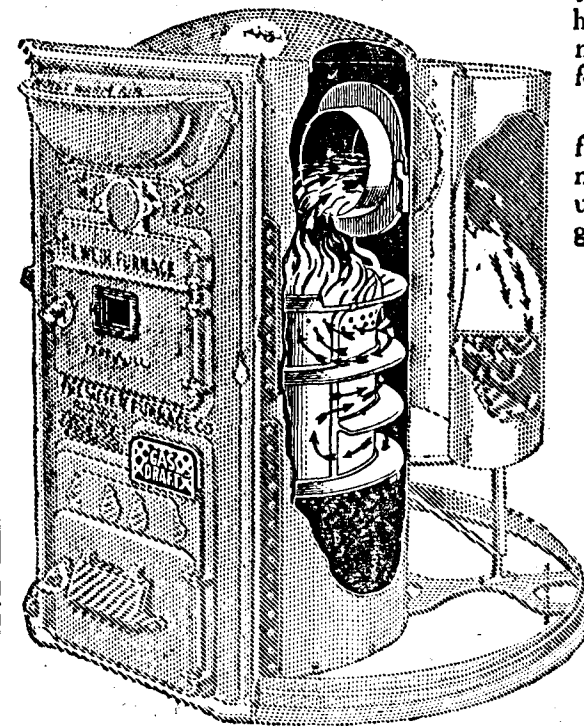

The perfect combustion principle used by the makers of the WEIR furnace for thirty-five years has been imitated but not equaled.

It consists of a combustion whereby air enters the front, travels twice around behind the linings, to be heated, after which it is thrown over the fire, hot, thus igniting the burnable gases which ordinarily escape up the chimney unconsumed. Cold air admitted over a confined fire is detrimental to combustion, as will be noted when you open a door of a heating stove to cool it; but heated air, admitted in exacting proportions, will stimulate the fire, thus giving more heat which is obtained from the burned gases.

A mica window in the feed door permits you to see the jets of flame coming from the holes in the firepot—which proves this principle a fact and not a mere claim. These jets are merely heated oxygen, ignited, which costs nothing, but which produces more heat for your service.

The feed door, 14 x 17, the first feature usually investigated by a furnace buyer, is big enough to permit the use of large chunks of coal and will be greatly appreciated.

COST LESS than "cheaper" overalls because they give more wear

You're willing and glad to buy an overall that will give you longer wear. Yet it's hard to tell the difference between overalls, as they're all blue and look about alike. But here's a test that will settle the point of longer wear for you.

Toss the ordinary overall on the scales and read the weight. Then place the same size in an Oshkosh B'Gosh Overall on the same scale. Watch the indicator go past the previous mark, one—two—three—four—five—yes, sometimes six or seven ounces!

That's the story! Heavier denim has larger, stronger threads and more of them to the inch, hence it wears longer and gives you more for your money.

There is no other overall that will weigh as much as Oshkosh B'Gosh! There is no other overall that will wear as long or actually cost as little. These are not idle statements. We will gladly prove the former to you in our store. You can prove the latter by trying an Oshkosh B'Gosh in actual service. That's the final test. Remember, "they must make good or we will."

Rambling Thoughts
That we are living in one of the best farming communities in the world is something which many of us have never thought of, however this thought came to us one day last week after we had a short conversation with one of our friends, who had been visiting the Elyria Roller Mills, being interested in the various machinery which they have there. This friend remarked to us about the wonderful view which may be had from one of the top floors of the mill. Looking to the east is a beautiful stretch of country, level as a table, and as far as the eye can study it is a mass of cornfield, with farm houses and other buildings scattered here and there. These cover this fertile valley to a point where the earth seems to touch the sky. The north gives us a view which is even better than the east, that is, the river may be seen winding its way here and there like a huge snake.

It is truly a beautiful sight and we are as the farmers of Kimberly who had acres of diamonds at their very feet and yet they left to find a better country elsewhere. Our friend believes Elyria is one of the best farming communities in the world, and if you will take the time to get the view he did you will thoroughly agree.

Crops
With the good yield of wheat which we had this year, many of the farmers are beginning to study about the matter of planting wheat this coming year. It seems that all the propaganda last year was to discourage the farmer who was inclined to use his own judgment and put in the wheat and the result was a good yield of wheat and a good price too, something which does not usually go together very often for the farmers.

Corn here appears to be doing well and prospects are that we will have as much corn here as they have anywhere else in the country. It may be that here and there we will have a little soft corn, but the average will be good. Our main trouble lies in the fact that there was so much poor seed and so the yield cannot be as good as it would have been otherwise.

Alfalfa did well the first crop, the yield per acre being some shorter than usual years. The second crop was somewhat better and the third crop a little short.

Oats. Many of the fields experienced some dry weather during the spring but even with this handicap our oats crop was exceptionally good.

The hog crop was good, but by the time the price came up to where it should have been, most of the hogs had been sold, and only the man who makes a practice of having hogs the year around profited much from the advance in price. Many are hoping that the next crop will command at least the same price the hogs brought at the high price of July.

Mr. Kusek says his business, showing considerable gain over the past year, though some of this is due to the fact that many farmers, outside of our territory sold him their hogs. Cattle showed a profit for only a few of the farmers, though if accurate account had been kept of the same, so as to account for all the feed they would have shown a larger profit.

It must be a fact that the root of the farmers' prosperity is corn, alfalfa, hogs and cattle, with cream and produce sprinkle in as a side line, at least this is what we gathered from a conversation with the farmers were having at the corner of Holub's store.

After a stay of a month and a half with relatives here, Miss Letta Pugh and nephew Billie Schmidt left last Wednesday for their home at Marquette, Keith Kemble accompanied them and will visit his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Pugh of that place.

Mrs. Winfred Hoyt has been suffering this week from an infection caused by the pulling of a tooth.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Kimble and neighbors of Turtle Creek enjoyed themselves Sunday at a picnic dinner on the Tully Island.

Mrs. W. B. Johnson Sr., Mrs. G. L. Hoyt, Mrs. Winfred Hoyt and Mrs. Wm. Fischer visited Mrs. Bernard Hoyt Tuesday afternoon.

DAVE GARD WRITES

S. S. H. A. C. L. Millard, Neb. August 24th, 1924.

Dear Leggett: I have been spending the most of this lovely forenoon reading a late copy of the Ord Quiz, which was very interesting to me as it was the first one I was fortunate enough to receive since I left Ord the last time. If you know when that was, I don't know when and seen so much of Nebraska and as I do not keep any record of time since I have been an honored member of the above abode. I have been thinking that perhaps the meaning of the above caps is Soldiers and Sailors Home, asylum, comfort and luxury, provided for the aged veterans, their wives and widows and supported by the generous tax payers and other democrats of this great and glorious commonwealth of Nebraska.

Might be interesting to a few of your many readers. Although there are not very many members in the home at the present time there is very little of interest taking place. There were only the six or six ladies answered to roll call on the 16th and some 56 women, besides a few others in the hospital. The membership seems to be enjoying help good health, many of them being absent on furloughs. At this time of the year the officers and camp have been somewhat improved at this summer making it very pleasant and home like.

Last week I was absent most of the time visiting the Easton family in Havelock. They were entertaining two young lady cousins of Edith's from New Jersey, Miss Anna and Miss Margaret Caparn.

One week ago today we drove down to Nebraska City and picniced in the grove planted and donated by the father of Arbor Day. And here let me say to anyone who has not visited the place they have missing something with seeing all the surroundings show the handiwork of an artist. The groves, the flowers, the gardens and buildings are all interesting and must be seen to be appreciated. The mansion is a grand structure built at different times and contains 52 rooms beside the basement and sun parlor and is furnished with magnificent and expensive furniture and it is not worth while for me to undertake to give any detailed illustration of the place as it would require a volume to do it. I believe it was estimated that there were over 15,000 visitors passed through the grounds and building and all were requested to register which I believe nearly all did.

It seemed to be a marvelous sight to our visitors to view the immense growing corn fields which about the fields and the growth of the crops. They never had the pleasure of seeing such a prosperous farming country. In spending the day we must have driven nearly 125 miles through the most beautiful farming country that exists anywhere, all equipped with modern improvements. We visited in Lancaster, Cass, Otoe and Nemaha counties on the trip. Tuesday we took in the Nebraska fisheries down on the wonderful Platte river which is to be used and the water business. The fisheries are a wonderful sight too if you have never visited them. It would be time and expense well spent. They are all stocked with all kinds of game fish and this too is a picturesque part of Nebraska if you have never seen it. Now this is only two days of the week sight seeing and I am not able in my weakened condition to give you any more of it and this may find the waste basket so I will say off for this time.

Yours truly,

D. A. Gard

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

(Mrs. Leslie Mason)

Last Wednesday the Ladies Aid Society held a very enjoyable Kensington in the church parlors. Miss Alice Maynard gave a reading entitled, "At the Box Office" in a very pleasing manner and Mrs. Dale Auble and daughter Roxey, sang a beautiful duet. While the attendance was not so large as usual everyone seemed to have a very pleasant time. At the close of the afternoon the ladies served a lunch of ice cream, cake and coffee.

About 250 people from Ord, Springfield and Sumter gathered at the park last Friday and enjoyed a Methodist picnic. There was an abundance of cats for the dinner with coffee and lemonade for everyone. Games were played with numerous races and contests and a ball game in the afternoon to finish the fun. We are sure everyone there had a good time and we are planning some more gatherings of a like nature before long.

We were favored at the Sunday morning service in having our district superintendent, Dr. Bryant Howe with us. Dr. Howe used as a text Exodus 14:15 with the subtitle "Go Forward" and reviewed the history of America and gave us his idea of what this country can accomplish if she will be led by God and use her opportunities. We presume if the church notes had not been crowded out last week there would have been a larger crowd out to hear Dr. Howe. This is his last visit to Ord before Conference.

The evening service was a union service of all the churches. The S. S. orchestra assisted with the music and Glen Auble and Preston Loomis sang a very pretty duet as a special number. Rev. Bell read the Scripture lesson as his portion for the evening. Rev. Brill voiced the prayer and Rev. Hansen preached the sermon, using as his subject the "Meaning of Christianity." Rev. Hansen handled his subject in a splendid manner and we are sure every body present found much good in it.

For next Sunday Rev. Maynard has worked out a novel program that we are sure all will enjoy. In the morning Rev. Clifton of North Loup will bring his choir and conduct the services for us. In the evening Rev. Chamberlain and his singers from Loup City will have charge. Both of these churches are fine talkers and we urge everyone to come and hear them. Rev. Maynard and our choir will occupy the pulpits in North Loup and Loup City Sunday.

FORMER ORD FOLKS REMEMBER OLD HOME TOWN

Following is a letter handed us by Mrs. R. J. Clark, who received the letter from Mrs. Rudolph Sorenson. The Quiz and many readers are always pleased to hear from Mrs. Sorenson who with her family, lived here for so many years. With Mrs. Sorenson's letter also came a little poem written by Mrs. Frank Furgeson. The Furgesons were prominent business people here 30 and 40 years ago and many of the older Quiz readers will remember them.

The letter and poem follow:

Long Beach, Cal., Aug. 21, 1924.

Dear Mrs. Clark—

You will no doubt be surprised to hear from me, but I have a poem by Mrs. Furgeson, which she gave at our last Ord picnic. I want to send it to the Quiz. You folks may think we forget our old home town and friends back there, but we want you all to know that our thoughts go back quite often.

We are always glad to welcome new Ord folks when they come out here. Carl Sorenson and wife made us a very pleasant visit, not long ago but not as long a stay as we had hoped for. Now we are looking forward to a visit with Mrs. Haskell and Dr. Coxa and children. They expect to arrive Sunday morning by boat from San Diego. We are also enjoying a visit with Rudolph's sister, Mrs. Anna Hull. Rudolph would like to have gone back to Ord, but he could just get two weeks and that was a short time. Mr. and Mrs. Will Selver from Los Angeles called on us the other day and in the evening all called on the E. M. Williams people.

One evening while Carl and wife were here we went down on the pike in a little while had an bunch together. Mamie and Anna, Mrs. Hornald, Perry Bell, Chas. Daggett, and John Milligan. It doesn't seem as though we are so very far from home. We run across Ord folks everywhere.

Well, I must close now wishing you health and happiness.

Mrs. R. Sorenson.

Lines of greeting read by Mrs. Clara B. Ferguson at the Ord picnic at Long Beach, California:

Let us go back to Ord today. Back where we were young and gay; Where the corn, wheat and cattle grow—

To the land of blizzard, hail and snow.

But the sun shone brightly most of the time.

And we were happy in that Nebraska climate.

Time has flown, and after all these years

Of joy and pleasure, sometimes tears

We're glad to meet here by the sea

In this land of health and prosperity.

A ten pound daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Collins last Friday, at their home in Mira Valley.

Construction of Two Is Described, With the Materials That Must Be Purchased.

Theoretically any number of transformer coupled stages of audio frequency amplification can be used. However, due to the amplification of static disturbances, power line induction, tube noises, etc., three stages are about the practical limit. If more than three stages are used the noises become so loud in comparison with the signal that it is difficult to hear the signal.

Since audio frequency amplifying transformers can be purchased at any radio shop and the simplest method of coupling, the construction of two audio frequency amplifier units will be described.

The first unit will be arranged to be used in conjunction with the vacuum tube receiver mounted on the eight-inch square horizontal base board, previously mentioned in this column. The second unit will be mounted on a vertical panel four inches wide and six inches high to "match up" with the six-by-eight vertical panel vacuum tube described recently in this column.

The following standard apparatus will have to be purchased at a radio supply store in order to construct an amplifier unit to be used in conjunction with either receiver.

One amplifying transformer, cost about $5.

One vacuum tube (for amplifier), cost $6.50.

One vacuum tube socket, cost $1.

One filament rheostat, cost about $1.

Seven binding posts, cost about 70 cents.

2 FALL BOARS 5 Spring BOARS

Gilts are by Big Boy, Prospect Boy, Alfalfa Wonder 2nd, King Buster, and Petroleum Lad. Fall boars are by Big Boy by Alfalfa Giant. Spring boars are by Websters Giant by King Anak. 12 of the offering are consigned by Frank Schudel.

These offerings are not culls from my herd, but are some of my very best stock. As this is my first sale I want satisfied buyers, and you will be if you buy anything offered. A field man from the Nebraska Farmer says my herd is as good as any he has examined. ALL ARE CHOLERA IMMUNED.

My experience with Chester White convinces me they are extremely hardy, and are very heavy breeders and are good mothers and milkers. I am more than pleased with the Chester Whites.

CHESTNUT HILL NEWS

(By Otto B. Schott)

A rather remarkable example of feline intelligence has come to light here, and it is the approval of our readers, both of whom I am sure will appreciate it. Ina Hasbin, who knows the distinction of being the dean of all local cat maids, has for her company a splendid cat of the tiger variety who apparently thinks that everything that is unusual is at right. Ina is usually a very modest and retiring dame, but the booby cat craze got her, just like it gets so many otherwise really sensible people, and on her last trip to town she returned with her new iron gray focus off. She even went the whole way, and got one of them snuggles, and the kind of a man has around the south side of his head from ear to ear, you know. The cat was asleep on the porch as Ina came into the yard. As soon as he was up and gave one look, he let out an awful yowl and took up a tree. After a while he came slipping down again, only to rush to some other direction. Finally he rushed out into the highway, where Sam Arrian was mowing weeds, and before Sam realized what was going on, he jumped upon the sickle bar and swung his tail directly in front of the engine, cutting it off short. Then he hurried over to the barn, found an old snuggly, carried it over to the house and snuggled around as proud as a peacock. He had a shingle, and was cut off short behind too, and while he had sacrificed much of his beauty for style, he felt that he had done his duty as a citizen.

Rhoda Stradell, a niece of Otto Schott, arrived here Saturday, and will remain until after the Burwell fair, in which she plans to take part. Rhoda is one of the best lady riders in the west, and has a string of medals of which any one could be proud. She rode down on her favorite pony, making the trip of two hundred miles in one day. She reports having some trouble with the Sioux Indians as she came through their reservation. One of the chiefs wanted to marry her, and she only escaped by the fleetness of her mount. Miss Stradell is a direct descendant of the celebrated Bugg family of England, a representative of which was elevated to the peerage by Edward, the Conqueror. Her mother, a Bugg, married Ebenezer Stradell, a sort of Stradell-Bugg combination, as it were. Miss Stradell came by her calling naturally.

Monday a lady called me down on the street for telling such awful lies. They ain't lies, and I resent the imputation. If she thinks these are lies, what would she think when I really get started once. I can prove every item I write is absolutely true and if you don't believe them, ask the people concerned. If you don't believe my frog stories, ask Amos Keeter, or go over to his farm and see them for yourself.

Tuesday the latest Beerpunk kid showed a cat down their casing well, from which the pig had been removed for cleaning purposes. When the well men arrived they were told about it, and decided that the best thing to do was to get some jacks and pull the well up. They did this, working hard all day. Just as they were pulling out the last joint they heard a mewling behind them, and along came the cat from the barn, where he had been sleeping all the day. When asked why he had told such a lie, the boy replied, "I just wanted to see what the men would do."

Jack Cass, who owns one of the biggest telescopes in the west, and who has made Mars his special study for the past twenty years, says that what he saw this week on the planet confirmed his idea that Mars is inhabited and that the people there reached a very high state of civilization compared with the people here. This is borne out by the fact that while he had his telescope trained on the planet Tuesday night he also had his radio machine tuned up and tuned in. His instrument is so made that he can develop a much higher rate of frequency than is usual in radio machines. About the time Jack was looking the Martians evidently tuned in, and Jack heard a raucous voice remark, "Please look the other way." That was all the intelligible conversation he caught, but he heard enough other jabber to make a good sized lecture. Jack is very enthusiastic over his efforts and feels that he can truly claim to be the first to establish communication with our sister planet.

places and sang sweet lullabies to the chiggers all night long. The chiggers refused to sleep, however, and burrowed into the skins of the visitors to keep dry, to the evident torment of their victims. The boys managed to stand the treatment pretty well, but it kept the old man busy adjusting the covers as fast as they were kicked off. He gathered wood and kept a fire going all night in hope of discouraging the mosquitoes, but they never gave up their efforts for a single instant. During the night they found that they had camped in a pasture, and the cattle and horses came along to snort for a while and then stampede, at least a dozen times during the night. The next day started out chilly, but before noon it was about a hundred in the shade. They moved the tent to a more protected spot early in the morning and then moved again at noon to get out of the glare of the sun. After they had got located the last time they found they had camped beside an ant hill, and the insects were soon busy carrying away morsels of food, not disdaining to occasionally take a nip at the members of the party. They got home thoroughly disgusted, and determined not to go again. However, Otto is already planning on going again next year, which shows that man is never satisfied.

took nearly two billions of dollars out of circulation. It began in 1919. In 1920, banks were told to come in and take up their paper. Bankers, in turn, told the farmer to dump his crops and take up his obligations. He dumped them on a flooded market. That was deflation. With the return of the republic party into control, conditions were immediately bettered. Government expenditures and taxes were reduced. The farmer is getting back upon his feet."

SOCIETY EVENTS OF COMMUNITY

(Crowded out last week)

The Rebekas Circle met last Friday afternoon for a sewing hour at the Thill home. A goodly number in attendance. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. W. M. Carlton.

The Royal Neighbors had a business meeting Friday evening at their hall. They had planned on dismissing early but stayed until a late hour and had a fine time. Mrs. Joe Rowbal surprised them with refreshments the best of which was sandwiches and coffee with rich cream and pumpkin pie with whipped cream. Without a committee, which is the usual custom, Mrs. Rowbal prepared and furnished the supper and had it ready as soon as lodge was dismissed. The members pronounced her a Royal Neighbor in every respect. At the next meeting it is hoped that more members will be on hand to assist in the good time.

Mrs. J. E. Tolen entertained the Grandmothers club last Friday afternoon. There were ten ladies in attendance and one guest, Mrs. M. Flynn. The next meeting will be with Mrs. A. Timmerman.

There was a party at the Ed Finley home last Thursday afternoon. Miss Hazel Rogers entertained fourteen guests.

The Junior Matrons are meeting tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. F. A. Barta.

Mrs. J. W. Moorehouse of Hastings has been a guest a part of the week with Mrs. C. A. Hager and also Mrs. R. C. Bailey.

The Methodists are planning a big time tomorrow at their picnic at the park.

The Entre Nous met yesterday at the home of Mrs. C. C. Dale. One guest, Mrs. G. Flagg was present.

Last Saturday was Arthur Auble's seventh birthday. He had a party at the park and invited fifteen of his little boy friends to help him celebrate the occasion. Leota and Joy Auble assisted in the serving.

Last Thursday afternoon Mrs. Will Ollis entertained six young ladies at her country home at a one o'clock chicken dinner. Mrs. James Ollis took the ladies out in her car. Besides the sisters mentioned there were five others, Misses Ruth Hoepfner, Ethel Ollis, Roxy Auble, Winnie and Daisy Hallen. The hostess had the guests hem a number of dish towels after which they were showered upon Miss Ruth Hoepfner.

Last Thursday afternoon Mrs. Arthur Capron opened her home to the "So & Sew" club. Mrs. C. J. Mortensen's sister, Mrs. Beedell and Mrs. Stewart, mother of Mrs. Lyle Milliken were extra guests.

The Likely family was in from the farm and visited Mrs. Carrie Likley last Sunday where they were treated to a big dinner.

Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Weekes entertained Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mortensen and Mrs. Mortensen's sister, Mrs. Beedell and her daughters of Chicago at dinner Tuesday evening.

Judge and Mrs. E. P. Clements had as dinner guests Tuesday evening the Marlon Cushing family and O. A. Abbott Jr.

Sunday was Sammie Stacy's twelfth birthday and the Stacy and O. B. Mutter families held a picnic at the Mortensen farm in honor of the event. "Buck" Parkins was also of the party.

A delightful dinner party was given last Friday evening by Mrs. C. J. Miller, in honor of her cousin, Miss Bernice Mead. The tables were attractively decorated in pink and lighted with pink shaded candles. An elaborate four-course dinner was served by the hostess. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Homer Veeder, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Chotena, Misses Bernice Mead, Margaret Brown, Helen Johnson, Lydia Gruber and Messrs. Bud Scolmes, Mark Tolen, Ernie Hill and Frank Fafeta.

One of the most enjoyable social affairs of the week was a shower for Miss Ruth Hoepfner, given at the home of Miss Helen Johnson last Friday afternoon. At one o'clock the hostesses, Mrs. Alpha Hill and the Misses Roxy Auble, Ethel Travis and Helen Johnson served a delicious two course luncheon, at small tables, daintily decorated for the occasion with yellow the predominating color. Little Dorothy Auble, dressed as a bride, presented Miss Hoepfner with a little wagon load of gifts. The guests were the Misses Ruth Hoepfner, ner, Margaret Brown, Ethel Ollis, Lydia Gruber, Frieda Siler, Marie Wentworth, Winnie and Daisy Hallen, Bernice Mead, Mesdames Joe Barta, Emil Chotena, Anton Beran, Henry Eger, Marion Cushing, Emil Fafeta, O. J. Miller, Harold Hoepfner, Laura Newbecker, Vern Stark, Jay Auble, Glenn Auble, Miss Hoepfner was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

The Master's Kingdom Builders class of the Christian church held another successful social and business meeting in the church basement last Friday evening. These social gatherings are held twice a month with a covered dish supper and refreshments. A large number of the members are young married couples of the Bible school. The class is growing in interest and in membership under the efficient leadership of Rev. Bell. The class is studying a special series of lessons based upon "the social teachings of Jesus."

ing to do. "I'm going to put our friend behind the bars for a few years," the smug little man cried triumphantly. The red spots on Moya's cheeks burned. The flashing eyes of the girl defied her discarded lover.

"If you can," she amended with quiet anger.

The soft laugh of Joyce saved for the moment the situation. "Dear me, aren't we getting a little excited? Mr. Bleyer, tell me more. How does a highgrader, didn't you call him—how does he get a chance to steal the ore?"

"He picks out the best places while he is working—the nuggets that are going to run a high per cent of gold—and pockets them. At night he carries them away."

"But—haven't you any policemen here? Why don't you stop them and search them?"

"The miners' union is too strong. There would be a strike if we tried it. But it has got to come to that soon. The companies will have to join hands for a final fight. They can't have men hoisted up from their work with a hundred dollars' worth of ore stored away on them."

"Is it as bad as that, Mr. Bleyer?" asked Lady Farquhar in surprise.

"Sometimes they take two or three hundred dollars' worth at once."

"They don't all steal, do they?" demanded Moya with an edge of sarcasm in her clear voice.

Bleyer laughed grimly. "I'd like to know the names of even a few that don't. I haven't been introduced to them."

"One hundred per cent dishonest," murmured Moya without conviction.

"I don't guarantee the figures, Miss Dwight. The superintendent added grudgingly: "They don't look at it that way. Bits of highgrade ore are their perquisite, they pretend to think."

Verinder broke in. "They say your friend Kilmeny took ore to the value of two thousand dollars from the Never Quit on one occasion. It ran to that amount by actual smelter test, the story goes. I've always rather doubted it."

"Why—since he is so dishonest?" Moya hung at him.

"Don't think a man could carry away so much at one time. What d'ye think, Bleyer?"

"Depends on how highgrade are the mine carries. At Cripple Creek we found nearly four thousand on a man once. He was loaded down like a freight car—looked like the fat boy in 'Pickwick Papers.'"

"Should think he'd bulge out with angles where the rock projected," Lady Farquhar suggested.

"The men have it down to a system there. We used to search them as they left work. They carry the ore in all sorts of unexpected places, such as the shoulder padding of their coats, their mouths, their ears, and in slings scattered over the body. The ore is pounded so that it does not bulge."

"Perhaps I'm doing Mr. Kilmeny an injustice, then. Very likely he did get away with two thousand at one time," Verinder jeered with an unpleasant laugh.

"Yes, let's think the worst of everybody that we can, Mr. Verinder," came Moya's quick scornful retort.

The Croesus of Goldbanks stood warning himself with his back to the grate, as smug and dapper a little man as could be found within a day's journey.

"Very good, Miss Dwight. Have it your own way. I'm not a bally prophet, you know, but I'll go this far. Your little tin hero is riding for a fall. It is all very well for him to do the romantic and that sort of piffle, by Jove, but when you scrape the paint off he's just a receiver of stolen property and a common agitator. Don't take my word for it. Ask Bleyer." Without looking at him he gave a little jerk of the head toward his superintendent. "Who is the most undesirable citizen here, Bleyer? Who makes all the trouble for the companies?"

Bleyer shook his head. "I can't back my opinion with proof."

"You know what people say. Whom do the men rely on to back them whenever they have trouble with us? Out with it."

"Kilmeny is their king pin—the most influential man in camp."

"Of course he is. Anybody could tell to look at him that he is a leader. Does it follow he must be a criminal?" Moya demanded abruptly.

The superintendent smiled. He understood what was behind that irritation. "You're a good friend, Miss Dwight."

"It's absurd that I am. He did nothing for Joyce and me—except fight for us and see that we were sheltered and fed and brought home safely. Why shouldn't we sit still and let his reputation be torn to tatters?"

Blucher bore down upon the field of Waterloo. "Of course we're for Mr. Kilmeny, as you Yankees say. I don't care whether he is a highgrader or not. He's a gentleman—and very interesting." Joyce nodded decisively, tilting a saucy chin toward Verinder.

"We're for him, aren't we, Moya?" Lady Farquhar smiled and let her embroidery drop to the table as she rose. "I like him myself. There's something about him that's very attractive. I do hope you are wrong, Mr. Bleyer. He does not look like an anarchist and a thief."

"That is not the way he would define himself. In this community highgrading isn't looked on as theft. Last year our sheriff was suspected of buying ore from miners and shipping it to the smelters. Public opinion does not greatly condemn the highgrader."

spoke, excused himself and withdrew. Verinder appealed to Lady Farquhar. The indignation of the newly rich sat heavily upon him. With all his little soul he disliked Jack Kilmeny. Since the man had done so signal a service for Joyce, jealousy gnawed at his heart.

"Of course we've got to be decent to the man, I suppose. He had a big slice of luck in getting the chance to help Miss Seldon and Miss Dwight. And I don't forget that he is a cousin to our friends. If it wasn't for that I'd say to mail him a check and wipe the slate clean. But of course—"

"You'd never dare," breathed Moya tensely. "I won't have him insulted."

West had done. Queer errant impulses tugged at her well-disciplined mind and stormed the creed of worldliness with which she had fenced her heart.

A stroll to view the sunset had been arranged by the young people up what was known as Son-of-a-Gun hill. Moya walked of course with Captain Kilmeny, her betrothed. Joyce saw to it that Verinder was paired with India, Jack Kilmeny falling to her lot. Since India knew that her escort was eager to get with Miss Seldon, she punished his impatience by loitering far behind. During the past few days Jack had pushed his tentative suit boldly but lightly. He understood that Joyce was flirting with him, but he divined that there had been moments when the tide of her emotions had swept the young woman from her feet. She was a coquette, of course, but when his eyes fell upon a plummet into hers

The day before the tornado in Northern Ohio, happy men, women and children, enjoyed the security of what they fondly believed to be their permanent homes.

The day after came the sad awakening. In a few minutes the savings of a lifetime were wiped out.

Within their reach was the protective force of Tornado Insurance, but, on the theory that tornadoes were rare in their locality, they took a chance. The tornado won, and now many of the victims are dependent upon a "Relief Drive" for the necessities of life.

Complete protection means independence from every kind of loss.

they sounded depths beneath the surface foam. At such times the beat of the surf sounded in his blood. The spell of sex, with all its fire and passion, drew him to this lovely creature so prodigal of allure.

The leading couples stood for a moment's breathing space near the summit. Beneath them the squalid little town huddled in the draw and ran sprawling up the hillsides. Shaft-houses and dumps disfigured even the business street.

Joyce gave a laughing little shudder. "Isn't it a horrid little hole?" Jack looked at her in surprise, but it was not answered.

"Oh, I don't think so, Joyce. Of course, it's not pretty, but—doesn't it seem to stand for something big and well, indomitable? Think of all the miles of tunnels and stopes, of all the work that has gone into making them." She stopped to laugh at her own enthusiasm before she added: "Gold banks stands to me for the hope in the human heart that rises in spite of everything. It is the product of an idea."

Miss Seldon gave a little lift to her superb shoulders. "You're incredibly romantic, Moya. It's only a scramble for money, after all."

"Don't know about that, Miss Seldon," disagreed Captain Kilmeny. "Of course it's gold they all want. But gold stands for any number of good things, tangible and abstract—success, you know, and home, and love, and kiddies, the better development of the race—all that sort of thing."

"Is that what it means to the highgraders, too?" Joyce let her smiling eyes rest with innocent impudence in those of the miner.

Kilmeny showed no sign of discomfort. His gaze met hers fully and steadily. "Something of that sort, I suppose."

"Just what is a highgrader?" Moya held her breath. The debonaire highness of the question could not rob it of its significance. Nobody but Joyce would have dared such a home thrust.

Jack laughed dryly. "A highgrader is a miner who saves the company for which he works the trouble of having valuable ore smelted."

"But doesn't the ore belong to the company?"

"There's a difference of opinion about that. Legally it does, morally it doesn't—not all of it. The man who risks his life and the support of his family by working underground is entitled to a share of the profits."

"He gets his wages, doesn't he?"

"Enough to live on—if he doesn't want to live too high. But is that all he is entitled to? Your friend—he waved a hand toward Verinder, puffing up the trail a hundred yards below—"draws millions of dollars in dividends from the work of these men. What does he do to earn it?"

"You're a socialist," charged Joyce gayly. "Or is it an anarchist that believes such dreadful things?"

"Mr. Kilmeny doesn't quite believe all he says," suggested Moya quietly. "Don't you? Behind Jack's quizzical smile there was a hint of earnestness."

"I believe that Dobyans Verinder is a parasite in Goldbanks. He gobbles up the product of others' toil."

Joyce flashed at him a swift retort. "Then if you believe that, you ought to be a highgrader yourself."

"Joyce," reproved Moya, aghast. "I mean, of course, in principle."

at her own audacity.

Her impudence amused the miner.

"Perhaps I am—in principle."

"But only in principle," she murmured, tilting a radiant challenge at him.

"Exactly—in principle," he agreed. There was humor in his saturnine face.

Joyce ventured one daring step further. "But of course in practice—"

"You should have been a lawyer, Miss Seldon," he countered. "If you were, my reply would be that by advice of counsel I must decline to answer."

"Oh, by advice of counsel! Dear me, that sounds dreadfully legal, doesn't it, Moya? Isn't that what criminals say when—?"

"When they don't want to give themselves away. I believe it is," he tossed back with the same lightness.

"Before I make confession I shall want to know whether you are on my side—or Verinder's."

Under the steady look of his bold, possessive eyes the long silken lashes fell to the soft cheeks. Joyce understood the unvoiced demand that lay behind the obvious one. He had thrown down the gauge of battle. Was she for Verinder or for him? If he could have offered her one-half the advantages of his rival, her answer would not have been in doubt. But she knew she dared not marry a poor man, no matter how wildly his presence could set her pulses flying or how great her longing for him. Not the least intention of any romantic absurdity was in her mind. When the time came for choice she would go to Verinder and his millions. But she did not intend to let Jack Kilmeny go yet.

She lifted to him a face flushed and excited, answering apparently his words and not his thoughts. "I haven't decided yet. How could I tell I hear what you have to say for yourself?"

"You couldn't find a more charming sister confessor for your sins," the captain told his cousin.

"I'll do my best," Joyce promised. Then, with a flash of friendly malice "But I haven't had the experience of a Moya. She is just perfect in the role I know, because she hears all mine."

Moya flushed resentfully. She did not intend to set up for a prude, but she certainly did not mean to treat highgrading as if it were a joke. If Jack Kilmeny was innocent, why did he not indignantly deny the charge? "Afraid I'll have to be excused," she said, a little stiffly.

"Miss Dwight doesn't approve of me," explained the miner. "If I confessed to her she would probably turn me over to the sheriff."

The girl's quick eyes flashed into his. "I don't approve of taking one that doesn't belong to one—if that's what you mean, Mr. Kilmeny."

Jack liked the flare of temper in her. She was very human in her impulses. At bottom, too, he respected the integrity of mind that refused to compromise with what she thought was wrong.

But no admission of this showed to his strong brown face. His morose eyes mocked her while he went into a whimsical argument to show that highgrading was really a virtue, since it tended to keep the rich from growing richer and the poor poorer. He wanted to know by what moral right Verinder owned the Mollie Gibson and the Never Quit any more than he did.

The mine owner, puffing from the exertions of the last bit of ascent, exclaimed indignantly: "Own 'em, by Jove! Doesn't a Johnny own what he buys and pays for?"

"You don't suppose that when God or Nature or the First Cause created that ore vein a million years ago He had Dobyans Verinder in mind as the owner," derided Kilmeny.

"That's all anarchistic rot, you know. Those mines are my property, at least a commanding interest. They're mine because I bought the shares. Government is founded on a respect for property rights."

"So I've observed," retorted Jack dryly. "I'd back that opinion, too, if I owned half of Goldbanks."

"I suppose Mr. Kilmeny's highgrading friends are superior to law. It isn't necessary for them to abide by the rules society has found best for its protection," Moya suggested.

The engaging smile of the accused rested upon Miss Dwight. "I met you and your friends in a motorcar yesterday. I'll bet that speedometer said twenty-five miles, but the town ordinance puts the speed limit at fifteen. What about that?"

"You know that's different. No moral question was involved. But when it comes to taking what belongs to another—well, I say that a thief is a thief."

"Right as a rivet, Miss Dwight. But you're begging the question. Does that ore belong to Dobyans Verinder any more than it does to—well, to Jack Kilmeny, say, for the sake of argument? I go down there and risk my life blasting it out. He—"

"But you don't," interrupted Moya. "Not today, perhaps—or yesterday. But I did last year and the year before."

Here is something to think about—
EVERYONE HAS SOMETHING TO SELL—WANTS TO BUY SOMETHING—WANTS SOME INFORMATION ABOUT SOMETHING.

The Quiz "Want Ad" section will sell what you no longer need, it will find what you want to buy, it will get the information you want, it will find the article you have lost. Twice in the last year paper money has been lost in Ord and restored to the owner through a little 25c "want ad" in the Quiz. Hundreds and hundreds of dollars worth of setting eggs and pure bred poultry have been sold the past few months by using these "want ads".

Scores of lost articles have been found by advertising in the "want ad" columns of the Quiz and many FOUND articles have been restored to the owner in the same way.

Two or three years ago Mr. C. A. Hager advertised a certain farm for sale in the Quiz "Want Ads" and at an expense of 50c he closed a $25,000 deal. The buyer came and said he read the ad and looked at the place and bought. Now is the time to advertise anything you want to buy or sell, have lost or found. Last year a family wanted to take a long auto trip west and disliked to go alone. They advertised for a companion car and found another family situated just as they were and the two families enjoyed the trip together. These little ads cost 5c a line with a minimum charge of 25c if the ad runs but once.

"ACCORDING TO NEWS- PAPER IDEAS" (7)

Frank Vodehnal, county road commissioner, says he has worked county roads the past season according to newspaper ideas.

What newspaper advocated the idea of dragging the roads from many days to weeks after a storm and after they had been badly rotted by heavy traffic? What newspaper suggested it is a wise plan to scrape dirt from the sides of the road and deposit it on the grade thus making the grades narrower and higher? What newspaper claims it is good road work to wait until midsummer before making an effort to remove weeds from ditches and then pile them where they are a danger and a men to auto drivers? What newspaper claims it is a good thing to drain ditches along side the grade—to leave water standing all season? What newspaper says roads are made better by rolling a ridge of dirt alongside the grade and leaving it there for an indefinite period of time? What newspaper lays claim to favoring the maintenance taken from the highway and over the new road being built from between Ord and Arcadia.

If the commissioner will name the paper or the papers in our territory which is favorable to road work as done in Valley county we will put our guns in their direction and will give them a few shots. Name the papers, name them. Mr. Commissioner, that an inquisitive public may know which they are and may lay the blame at their doors for future to have the federal highway kept up as it should be—that the blame may be taken from your doorstep.

We wonder if it is generally known that items of expense in connection with federal highways in Valley county do not go before the supervisors for their approval and that the record of the expenditure of funds for the upkeep of the road does not show in the supervisor's proceedings. It may be interesting to know that at least two men are employed by the month to run the maintenance—that they are paid in the neighborhood of $85.00 each per month. Considerable extra help is employed at 3c cents per hour. The road commissioner receives $5.00 per day and mileage for his services. We are guessing help employed is but a small part of the cost. There is the cost of the upkeep of the big maintenance, the cost of new machinery and the cost of gasoline and oil. The question this writer is asking himself and readers is "Are we getting anything like value in road work for the money expended?"—North Loup Localist.

DAVIS CREEK

(By Mrs. John H. Williams) Tuesday, August 19, Mrs. Archie Bell called on Mrs. Amos Redland while Mr. Bell and Mr. Redland attended the land sale at Larson's. The sale was not very well attended and so far as we know there was no deal closed for the land.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Will Wheatcraft shipped cattle Wednesday. Charley went down with the shipment.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Axthelm and family from Eastern Nebraska who have been visiting near Lincoln and Sutherland came to Louie Axthelm's Friday and visited until Monday.

The D. C. L. club met Friday at the school house to finish up some work for the fair. Not many were present. They also traced some patterns. I think the club work at the fair will be quite an attraction this year.

Golda Linthcum of Loup City has been spending a few days at Charley Quarty's and came to John Williams Friday and stayed until Sunday evening.

Pearl Leach returned Friday from North Loup where she had been visiting. John Falser went to Omaha Monday with a car of cattle.

Irene Jikmund of Ord and Charley and Bill Raded of Comstock spent a few days last week at Alfred Jorgenson's.

Mr. Melia was at John Lunney's Wednesday looking after stock that he has in the pasture.

Mrs. Grace Spurling has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Redland a few days.

People in this neighborhood are sure glad threshing is so near done. Mrs. Ben Naumberg was helping Della Manchester with canning on Thursday.

Sunday visitors were: Mrs. Wm. Rendell and children at Archie Jeffries; Howard Manchester and his mother at Harry Walters; Ruby and Opal Post at John Williams; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Coleman and family and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Finches, Mrs. Anna Tappen and family and Dora Horner at Will Egglehoffs on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bower went to Ericson Saturday evening. Mrs. Bower will visit her parents for a few days.

Mrs. C. C. Williams, Mrs. C. E. Johnson and Mrs. Clyde Sample went to Ord Tuesday to enter the club work of the fair.

Mr. and Mrs. John Davis have returned from their trip to New York and Mrs. Davis is helping her mother, Mrs. George Sample cook for threshers.

terest in the mine? Isn't their moral claim greater than that of Mr. Verinder, who sits in London and draws the dividends?"

"They are pensioned, aren't they?" "They are not," returned Jack curtly. "The mine owners of Goldbanks don't believe in encouraging negligence."

If these workmen hadn't taken chances they probably would not have been killed, you see. But if they didn't take chances none of the men could earn a living for their families. It is plain how very much to blame they are."

Moya looked across the summits of the hills into the brilliant sunset that lay like a wonderful canvas in the crotch of the peaks. A troubled little frown creased her forehead. She was unusually silent on the way home. Once she looked up and asked Captain Kilmeny a question.

"After all, two wrongs don't make a right, do they?" "No, dear girl. Life's full of injustice. I dare say some of the men I lead are better than Ned Kilmeny, but I've got to forget that and sit tight in the seat that's been dealt me by the cards. If Jack is trying to justify highgrading, he hasn't a leg to stand on."

She sighed. "You don't think, do you, that—?" "He answered her broken sentence. "Don't know. He doesn't play the game by the same rules we do, but my judgment is that the gossip about him has no basis of fact."

The girl he loved gave him one grateful look and fell again into silence. Captain Kilmeny walked beside his slim, tall, worshipful sweetheart with a heavy heart. She was his promised bride. That she would keep faith he did not doubt. But the progress that he made in winning her love was so little that he seemed to himself to be marking time. The shadow of his vagabond cousin still lay between them.

CHAPTER XI

One Maid—Two Men

Jack saw to it that he and Joyce followed the others down the trail at a very leisurely pace. The early night of the Rockies was already cutting them off from the rest of the world. Captain Kilmeny and his betrothed could be seen as shadows growing every minute more tenuous. India and her escort were already lost in the descending darkness.

It was the first time that the Goldbanks miner had ever been alone with Miss Seldon. He meant to make the most of his chance. Her loveliness sang its way through his alert, masterful eyes into the blood of the man. They talked little, and that irrelevantly. In both of them the tide of emotion ran full. Each was drawn by the subtle irresistible magnet of sex attraction. When their eyes met it was but for an instant. A shyness, delicious and delightful, ran like a golden thread through the excitement which burned their blood.

Frederick Bartz

On Tuesday afternoon, August 19th, the earthly end came to one of the earliest settlers of this community. When Frederick Bartz passed away following a sickness which has fastened itself upon him when about eight years of age and except for a period of about two years following an operation he had been a great though patient sufferer.

The nature of the disease was urtic poisoning of the kidneys, the immediate cause of his death being a large poisonous blister on his heel which had been lanced five days before.

Frederick Bartz was born in Colberg, Germany November 4, 1844. His only sister, his twin, died in Germany about ten years ago. He had no brothers.

On November 12, 1872, he was united in marriage to Augusta Schoning and to this union was born four sons and two daughters. His two sons, Otto and Paul were born in Germany; Mrs. Clara Redden of Omaha and Mrs. Ida Knabb, George and Fred Jr. on the farm which has been the family home for forty-eight years.

Mr. Bartz was a pioneer of the sturdiest type. He was a kind and generous neighbor. A loyal and devoted husband and father a Christian whose faith was "the faith of our fathers."

At an early age he was converted and about thirty years ago he was united with the Evangelical church of North Loup to which he had always remained a loyal supporter always attending its services, when it was possible for him to do so; and not until his suffering became so great was the family worship abandoned.

The Methodist picnic was a fine affair last Friday. A good crowd from Ord, Springfield also had a good turn out. Everything good to eat and the day was ideal.

At the Rehoboth ball last Tuesday evening there was the usual good time. An unusual feature was a handkerchief and button shower in honor of Mrs. Laura Newbecker who is soon to leave for California.
