

STATE ENGINEER SAYS IRRIGATION HERE FEASIBLE

Haskell Creek to Sumter Project Best, Believes Paul Baker, Other Projects Possible.

Land along the North Loup river from the mouth of Haskell creek to the Sumter bridge lies fine for irrigation and a project there would be feasible, believes Paul W. Baker, field engineer of the Nebraska water resource survey, who spent several days last week in Valley county. This project would include a maximum of acreage with a minimum length of canal, forming a condition nearly ideal for irrigation. Mr. Baker told a Quiz reporter Friday.

According to the tentative survey made by Mr. Baker a diversion dam could be thrown across the main channel of the Loup at a point four or five miles northwest of the northwest corner of section thirty, in Valley county. A canal starting 2 1/2 miles north of the mouth of Haskell creek and running southeasterly for approximately ten miles, ending near the Sumter bridge, would not be too expensive, he says. About 1,000 acres of irrigable land would be included in the project, he says, and a tentative estimate of the cost of such a project would be $25 per acre.

Funds for the work of the water resource survey were provided by the 1928 legislature, which appropriated $25,000 for the purpose. Professor Clark Mickey, of the state university, is chairman of the survey. The legislature this winter is expected to appropriate an additional $75,000 to complete the work and if this appropriation is made state engineers will come to Valley county and map out the possible irrigation project in detail if local people are interested, Mr. Baker stated.

There are only three areas in Nebraska that are classed as irrigation prospects, Mr. Baker says. These are in the Platte valley, the Western Republican valley and the North Loup valley. Of these three the North Loup valley area is most feasible, he avers.

The state engineer says the best and quickest way for local farmers to enjoy the benefits of irrigation is to form an irrigation district, and a plan for such a district is being prepared by the state engineer. The cost of installing the system would have to be paid by the land owners benefitted, but it could be paid off by a yearly assessment of from $2.50 to $3.00 per acre. Maintenance of the project would cost about $1 per acre per year, he says, and the balance of the assessment could be devoted to paying off the initial cost, which would take about twenty years.

Increased crops on the irrigated land would pay the total cost of installing the project every year during the period, Mr. Baker believes. Sixty and seventy-five bushel corn on irrigated land is usual, he says, whereas the present average for the area probably would not be over thirty bushels.

Two other possible irrigation projects mentioned by Mr. Baker include one starting in Garfield county south of Burwell on the west side of the river and the other between Olean and North Loup on the west side. Neither of these is as feasible as the east project, however.

Auble Gets Patent On His New Canopy

The United States patent office at Washington, D. C., last week granted a patent to A. J. Auble of Ord on his new canopy. The important feature of the invention is the provision of a canopy having slats with means affording protection from rain but allowing snow and air to pass through. This makes it unnecessary for the canopy to carry any great weight in a snow storm. Canopies of this type have been in use on the Auble and L. V. Kokes store buildings for some months.

North Loup Hands Defeat To Burwell

Last Friday afternoon the North Loup high school gridsters beat Burwell on the latter's field by a score of 6-0. The touchdown came in the last quarter when a Burwell pass went haywire and landed in Sample's arms.

The game was a good one to watch and the spectators were given their money's worth during the second half. Two different times North Loup had the ball on the Burwell one yard line and both times they were held for downs. They lost another chance to score in the fourth quarter when Burwell blocked Burrows' try for a field goal.

The features of the game for North Loup were the ground gaining of Art Jefferies and Sam Sample, the punting by Burrows and the good work of the North Loup line in opening holes for the backs.

STILL TRYING TO BRING HUSKING CONTEST TO ORD

Eighty Acre Field of 50-Bushel Corn Is Required For State Contest, Say Enthusiasts.

Valley county has a fair chance to land the 1930 Nebraska state corn husking contest and will be given careful consideration when the site for the state contest is selected, according to word received by County Agent Dale and local farmers from the Nebraska Farmer within the past few days. The farm magazine has not picked the site yet and it is expected will send representatives to Ord to view prospective fields.

Local farmers have been canvassing Valley county during the past week in an attempt to line up several prospective fields. The contest demands an 80-acre field that will average fifty bushels to the acre. Rena Desmal, living north of Ord, has volunteered a field for the contest and it is thought that a field on the Fred Jackson place near North Loup is suitable. Jackman is expected to be in favor of having the contest and probably will be glad to help all he can in securing it for Valley county.

County Agent Dale informs the Quiz that Paul Stewart of the agricultural college is in favor of bringing the contest to Valley county. Stewart is said to be enthusiastic over the plan and was met recently with the Nebraska Farmer this week about it. He is the crops specialist at the college.

Up until early this week no definite information had been received at the agent's office relative to George Round's visit to the Nebraska Farmer to interview Glenn Duck, associate editor, about the possibility of bringing the 1930 contest here.

Abbott In Line For Judgeship

Court Reporter for Clements May Fill Paine's Shoes If Latter Is Chosen Supreme Judge.

O. A. Abbott, Jr., mayor of Grand Island and for several years court reporter for Judge E. P. Clements of Ord, may be named district judge to take the place of Bayard H. Paine, should the latter be elevated to the supreme bench at the November election. Attorneys all over the eleventh judicial district are said to be advocating Abbott's appointment.

The present incumbent, Judge Paine is a candidate for the state supreme court in the fifth district. In the primary he was over 8,000 votes ahead of his nearest opponent and it is generally conceded that he will be victorious in the general election.

Should he be elected a vacancy in the fifth district will be created and the appointment will be made by Governor Weaver, Attorneys and friends of Mr. Abbott are urging his qualifications for the office and it is believed that Governor Weaver will appoint him.

Abbott is an attorney but has not practiced for several years. As court reporter for Judge Clements he has become familiar with the work of a district judge and should be an ideal man for the position.

Mrs. Tully Buried At Elyria Monday

Funeral Services Monday for Valley County Pioneer, Who Passed Away In Lincoln Last Week.

At Sowl's mortuary Monday funeral services were held for Mrs. John J. Tully, 75, who passed away last Thursday morning at an early hour at her home in Lincoln. Mrs. Tully was a pioneer resident of this county. Her doors were always hospitably open and many who still live in these parts hold cherished memories of happy times which they had in Mrs. Tully's home. She moved to Lincoln 18 years ago. W. C. H. Noll of the Ord Christian district church, presided at the services here Monday and interment was in the Elyria cemetery.

Sarah Irene Harlan was born in Geneseo, Ill., Sept. 1, 1885. She was married to John J. Tully, of Peru on Aug. 25, 1874 and they made their home there until 1888, when the family moved to a farm between Ord and Elyria, in this county.

Two daughters, Myrtle and Maud and an infant son Ray are deceased and the husband and father died at Ord in 1901. In 1912 Mrs. Tully moved with her family to Lincoln.

Although Mrs. Tully was an unusual homemaker she found time to keep up with modern thought and activities. She had for eighteen years attended the meetings of Organized Agriculture at the state agricultural college, was a member of the Lincoln business and professional women's club in the first years of its organization and was a member of the Civic Home, Parliamentary and Physical Education departments of the Lincoln Women's club. She attended a semester of Mrs. England's classes at the state university.

Her keen interest in problems of government resulted in an intelligent use of her right of suffrage and she was a member of the Francis Willard W. C. T. U. and the League of Women Voters and was faithful in supporting their principles.

Forty years ago Mrs. Tully became interested in Christian Science and two years later took the class work under the instruction of Alfred Farlow, in Kansas City, Mo. She attended a reunion of this class the June before her death.

She had experienced life in its fullness and beauty and passed away on Sept. 25, 1929. MRS. ED HOUTBY PASSED SUNDAY AT NORTH LOUP

Pioneer Mother Goes to Reward, Funeral Held Tuesday; Is Mourned By Many.

North Loup, Sept. 30—(Special)—Funeral services were held at two o'clock this afternoon at the Methodist church for Mrs. Ed Houtby, who passed away at an early hour Sunday morning, September 28, and died at her home in North Loup on September 28, 1930 at the age of seventy-seven years, five months, and twenty-seven days. In the fall of 1856, her parents, George W. and Sarah Young with their family pioneered from Ohio to Iowa, settling in Masonia territory, near Winterset. The trip took six weeks, and was made in a prairie schooner. They crossed the Mississippi river on a flatboat. Mary attended the district school in an old log building, and later taught four terms near her home. When seventeen years of age she became a member of the Baptist church and was an earnest worker in that denomination. She was married on November 12, 1874 to Edward Houtby, and to this union were born four children; George E. Houtby of Burwell, Mrs. Clark of North Loup, V. Moore and Edgar M. Houtby of Angeles, California.

The Houtbys made their home near Winterset until 1881 when they came to North Loup, Iowa, near the Valley county line. Her home on Davis creek, and for years were closely identified with the life of that community. She transferred their church membership to the Davis Creek Methodist church, and ever lived with their attendants, Mrs. Houtby taught a school for twenty years, reported the Epworth League helped in every department church. Twenty-one years Houtbys moved to North Loup, Iowa, where she was active in the community insofar as she was able. Of late her health has for some time been failing and she was patient and cheerful in midst of her affliction.

She leaves to love her memory and mourn her loss, her faithful husband, the four children, eleven grandchildren, eight great grandchildren, three brothers and one sister. Her granddaughter, Hattie Houtby has been her constant and loving attendant during her long period of invalidism.

Paul bearers were Frank Johnson, J. M. Fisher, E. E. Williams, Merrill McClellan, Isaac Arnold and A. H. Babcock, and the interment was made in the North Loup cemetery.

Relatives from out of town who were in attendance at the funeral services were Mrs. Hugh Thompson of Earlham, Iowa, who is a sister of the deceased, and a granddaughter, Nettie Clark, from Bloomfield, Neb.

QUIZ FORUM

Advocates Telephone Fight.
Dear Quiz:

Are the people of Ord aware of the actual facts in the present telephone situation? Judging by the number who are signing a petition presented by representatives of the Continental Telephone Co., one would guess that they were not, or else, that they did not care. What is the situation? Simply this. Users are being asked to sign a petition, presumably to be presented to the Railway Commission asking that an Automatic Telephone System be installed in Ord together with an increase in rates considerably more than that we are now paying. This petition, together with their own figures as to investment, overhead, etc., always much higher than the figures given the assessor for tax purposes, constitute their argument for the rate increase. The commission usually grants the raise because the helpless user has no facts nor figures to present. This is the situation here and elsewhere. Hastings has just passed through the same thing that is now confronting us. The following editorial, taken from the Hastings Democrat explains clearly just what will happen here:

The state railway commission has decided, as per usual, that the Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co. is entitled to rates that will bring it approximately 7 per cent on an investment of $600,000 in the "Hastings Zone." What the state railway commission says goes, hence telephone users in the Hastings zone will begin paying 30 per cent more for their telephones after October 1.

Well, if the Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co. is entitled to 7 per cent return on an investment of $600,000 in the Hastings zone, it should have the common honesty to admit the valuation when it comes to making its return for assessment purposes. Has it? Not so you can notice it. It has the effrontery to ask a return on $600,000 invested, and then returns only one-third of that amount for purposes of assessment. You see, the Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co. has its Hastings zone patrons between the Scylla of the state railway commission on the one hand, and the Charybdis of the complacent assessor of the other. It catches its patrons and the taxpaying public in the name of common sense. We stand idly by while the telephone Co. brazenly forces an increase upon us? Have we not the proverbial...

Should we stand for an increase in rates when the price is lower than it has been in farm products, commodities, wages, equipment, most things one can think of are the answer is that they establish the high rate, but for all time, before the lower level becomes...

...ent rates were established a period of good high prices, and to raise now, under present economic conditions, on the plea of a bigger investment and better service, seems preposterous. Will we stand hunched or will we fight? The answer is up to the men and women who pay the bills. Why not a mass meeting and thrash this matter out? Why not raise a fund to make our own survey of what we want, so that we may have the facts and figures to fight them at their own game.

The New Revolutionary Cost Cutting Gleaner Baldwin Corn Combine

May be seen starting Saturday, October 4th at our place of business in Ord. We join the manufacturer in inviting all interested persons to come and see this latest and most important of all recent farm tool developments —a machine that actually cuts, shells and cleans standing field corn in one operation, at a saving of as much as 8c to 12c a bushel.

CORN Harvest

REAL FARM RELIEF for the CORN GROWER

The Gleaner Baldwin Corn Combine takes the drudgery out of the corn harvest. It cuts, shells, cleans and bins the standing field corn in one simple, inexpensive operation.

You cannot afford to continue the use of expensive, slow hand methods of harvesting corn when the job can be done in one operation by machinery at a cost from 8c to 12c per bushel cheaper than you can do the job by hand.

Gleaner Baldwin Combines have played an increasingly important part in introducing new economies on grain farms for years. They have been the means of bringing FARM RELIEF to farmers. They have become the synonym for speed, efficiency and economy wherever small grain is grown. The effectiveness of these modernly constructed machines have gained for them an outstanding popularity.

What Gleaner Baldwin Combines have done in the Wheat Belt, the Gleaner Baldwin Corn Combine will equal and even outdo in the Corn Belt, because the Gleaner Baldwin Corn Combine is the ONLY machine built that cuts, shells and cleans standing field corn in one operation at one low cost—an actual SAVING of 8c to 12c on each bushel you harvest.

This new and revolutionary machine eliminates the back-aches, sore hands and long hours of drudgery in the harvesting of corn and speeds up the work, doing a job in days that formerly required months. Because several handlings of the crop are eliminated; because more corn will be saved; because less man power is required; it cuts harvesting costs.

Cutting two rows of standing stalks at a time, shelling the corn from the cobs with the least possible cracking of corn or breaking of cobs; separating and cleaning the shelled corn from the cobs, stalks, shucks, silk and dirt with an unequalled efficiency; clearing the field of standing stalks, making it ready for the plow; depositing clean grain in the Combine grain bin ready for feeding or marketing; doing the entire job in a single operation, the Gleaner Baldwin Corn Combine has sprung into almost instant popularity wherever it has been operated.

More important still does this new and revolutionary Combine become when it is considered that with an inexpensive attachment the Corn Combine may be easily converted into a Wheat Combine that will harvest all small grain or seed crops.

The GLEANER BALDWIN CORN COMBINE, like the Wheat Combine, is light in weight, making it easy to pull through the field at a minimum expense. The Corn Combine is equipped with the famous Gleaner Baldwin Spiral Conveyor—Feeder, which does away entirely with the use of canvas conveyors.

The Special Rasped Bar Cylinder shells the corn from the cobs and does not chop cobs or stalks. Thorough cleaning is done by the unique Gleaner Baldwin Separator and clean, whole kernels of corn are delivered to the grain bin.

Among other features are the Model "A" Ford Engine; the independent self-supporting, channel steel frame; the full equipment of Hyatt, New Departure, Timken and S. K. F. bearings; the complete Alemite lubrication system, and numerous other exclusive features.

Here is a machine that means REAL FARM RELIEF for the farmers in this community. Make it a point to see it. Let us explain full details and our liberal payment plan to you.

Down stalks are picked up and carried into the Combine by specially designed pick-up devices.

Rotary Cutters cut the stalks close to the ground. The cut stalks fall directly into the harvester pan and are carried to the cylinder by the steel spiral conveyor—feeder.

The field is cleared, ready for plowing. Stalks being only slightly shredded, they may be used for fodder or scattered and plowed under.

Good, clean, marketable corn in the bin. A job completed in days that has required months.

Conqueror Well Spoken Of
The following article was carried in the Farmer and Stockman for September and concerns the hog owned by Morris Fowler of Arcadia.

"I doubt if there has ever been a more popular boar tied in for the grand championship at any show than Conqueror, the massive three-year-old owned by Morris Fowler of Arcadia, Neb., recently made grand champion at the Nebraska State Fair. This sensational Poland China sire is just about all you can fancy in a pig. And when I say big, I mean big, for this fellow weighed 1130 pounds when Mr. Fowler started him from home, bound for the fair, and he is as active as a pig, rugged and smooth. He was indeed a popular champion, deservedly so, as he won in one of the hottest aged boar classes ever at the Nebraska fair. Rich in the blood of such well known sires as Omaha, The Vision, also a great champion, Big Boy, Big Tim and other sires that have made breed history. Conqueror possesses about all that could be desired from a blood line standpoint. He is the kind of boar needed for the upbuilding of the breed, and great things can be expected from him in the hands of Morris Fowler, a man who knows his Polands."

The following have been elected class officers of the Arcadia high school for the year: Seniors, president, Carol Lutz; vice-president, Raymond Erickson; secretary, treasurer, Donna Clark. Marjorie Hostetter Writes Sister, Mrs. Flagg, About Tour of Germany

We certainly had grand luck coming from Oberammergau yesterday. The cheapest train we could get was 5 marks—that's only $1.25—and we would have had to pay at least 5 marks at both ends for a taxi. Our host at Oberammergau said he was going to drive to Munich and he'd take us for 6 marks apiece. It was a lovely ride out through the mountains and onto the plateau. The farming land after we left the mountains looked just like it does around home. We'd already written for rooms where we were last year so we came right to the pension. Then we went over to the American express and there was the new dress you sent and several letters. Last night we went out to dinner then strolled way down Maximilian stasse looking at shop windows. We ended up on the steps of some little church about 1 1/2 miles from where we stayed. Then we went back and had strawberry ice and lemonade at the "Maximilian". This morning we're going to see the sights and try to celebrate the glorious Fourth in real style. Munich July 9. Well, we've seen some things the last few days. This is a very interesting city. There's the Army Museum, the National Museum and the German Museum. The latter is an enormous thing and the best and largest of its kind. Its specialties are transportation, industry and geology. They have models of all sorts and types of famous boats—ancient Roman triremes, Chinese junks, Norwegian fishing boats, huge transoceanic liners etc. The air craft exhibits were great too. In the evening we hunted up a movie. It was a German production and a talkie but they haven't attained the skill and art with which American films are produced. We got bored and left in the middle. We went to a funny little place to get something to eat—took a table in the open court underneath an arbor. They had the funniest brass band. It's interesting to go to these places and watch the people. Germans get a lot of enjoyment out of sitting for several hours over a couple of steins of beer. Munich is said to have the best beer in the world. Augsburg July 10. This town was founded by the Roman emperor Octavian Augustus and during the 15th and 16th centuries was the leading town in Europe. The old part of the city with its old walks and moat and narrow streets is fascinating. The old town hall has a room that has been untouched for 400 years. It's one of the finest and largest halls in Germany. There are parks and flowers everywhere. Everywhere in Germany seems to be so graceful and polite and certainly go out of their way to be nice to one. Stuttgart July 13. From Ulm we came on up to Stuttgart. It's just a big industrial city and hasn't much of great interest. Shiller lived here for a time and there are gardens, streets, hotels and statues named for him. The rose show started yesterday. Yesterday we went out beyond the city to see Villa Rosenheim—promenades, arbors, terraces, fountains in galore. The green houses are so enormous that they have huge tropical trees in them. We had planned on going down through the Black Forest to Baden-Baden but its such a rainy weather we are going just across the north end of the Forest to Heidelberg July 14. From Ludwigsburg castle of course is the chief attraction here. It is said to be the most beautiful and interesting of all Germany's old castles. It was held by the French twice, was captured by Tilly, etc. When the French vacated it the last time they blew up two of the towers. The walls of these towers were 19 feet thick and so strong and well built that when the powder exploded it just fell intact into the moat where it is today. Most of the castle is in quite a ruin but one big building has been restored to look inside and out, just as it did when it was occupied. In one of the wine cellars is a huge barrel that holds 49,000 gallons of wine. Imagine it! On top of the barrel is a dance floor. A good place to have a lively dance, I'll wager. Heidelberg has the oldest university in Germany. Students come from all over the world to study, especially in the summer. You remember Professor Carlson of Doane spent a year here.

New Autumn Coats Are Rich in Color

THEY SHOULD MATCH FROCKS IN BOTH FABRIC AND TONE, SAYS HARRIET-WINE REDS AND GREEN ARE MOST POPULAR IN NEW STYLES

BY HARRIET IN the autumn a woman's mind naturally turns to coats, or, as may be the case this season, to coat dresses.

Never were both the coats and the dresses lovelier than now, what with their soft fabrics and rich colors.

The fitted line for coats, with a suggestion of the body's curves and enough flare to give walking ease and some ornamentation on collar and cuffs, is the accepted line.

The revival of woolen frocks for autumn is a happy style note. There is nothing more adaptable to many uses than a smart coat dress.

An excellent idea this year is to get your coats to top your dresses in fabrics of the same family, in colors of the same tone and in lines that bear relation to one another.

For instance, a woman who has a sumptuous Paris coat left over from two seasons ago, in wine velvet, with fox collar, this season has herself made a matching colored frock, wool of a sheen-like velvet, made with a top and sleeves of matching silk.

Having chosen a given color for the autumn and winter wardrobe foundation, stick to it. Browns are a good choice and navy blue has some advocates. But wine reds and greens are excellent.

The black-white scheme is the eternal feminine choice for it is subtle and charming when done in good taste.

ONE of the newest coats to consider this winter, lavish in its use of fur, is made of dark red brown Adeera wool velvet. It uses broadtail as it would fabric for its yoke, collar and the top of its sleeves.

Its lines are fitted with a rather conservative flare at the bottom. Worn with a little velvet hat of the same tone of brown, with a cockade of gay little feathers, it is very chic and smart.

For the woman who likes graceful clothes for all occasions, there is a little Lucile Paray model of wool crepe Cyclonia in a rich green tone. It has soft fullness in its skirt, and a belt, placed at high waistline for the young figure and two hundred guests were in attendance. A good time is reported and a delicious lunch was served.

Tuesday was the birthday of Mrs. Joe Rowbal, who is ill and confined to her bed most of the time. Her family gave her some nice gifts and in a quiet way celebrated the day.

The Methodist aid met yesterday. At a recent meeting new officers were elected, Miss Mamie Smith is president, Mrs. Robert Noll, secretary and Mrs. Sam Marks, treasurer.

At the meeting yesterday the new officers took charge of the work. Mrs. R. O. Hunter is the outgoing president. She has served faithfully for two years.

O. O. S. club are to be guests this afternoon. In the home of Mrs. Archie Brant, Mrs. L. J. Auble will be the hostess.

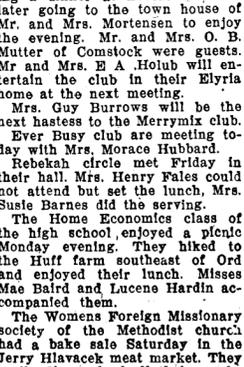

The next meeting of the D. D. O. club will be in the country home of Mrs. Paul Hanson.

Friday Rev. and Mrs. D. C. Williamson, Rev. and Mrs. Willard McCarthy and Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Spracklen gave a dinner in the Rev. Williamson home, in honor of Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Moorman, who were leaving Ord for their new home in Pawnee City.

RATS DIE so do mice, once they eat RAT-SNAP. And they leave no odor behind. Don't take our word for it—try a package. Cats and dogs won't touch it. Rats pass up all food to get RAT-SNAP. Three sizes: 35c size, 1 cake, enough for Pantry, Kitchen or Cellar. 65c size, 2 cakes, for Chicken House, Coops, or small buildings. $1.25 size, 5 cakes, enough for all farm and out-buildings, storage buildings, or factory buildings.

President's Son Ordered to Rest

With the finding of a tubercular infection in his chest, Herbert Hoover, Jr., son of the president, has been ordered to give up all business activities for a year. Young Hoover, shown here in his latest photo, has gone to his father's camp at Rapidan, Va., to recuperate.

A smart coat for winter-wear is one made of dark red-brown Adeera wool velvet, left. Its lines are fitted with a rather conservative flare at the bottom. The Lucile Paray model, right, is of wool crepe Cyclonia in a rich green tone. Both models are from Haas Brothers, New York.

It can also be used to fashion a bandeau in the hat, if one wishes. Either of these new models is worth considering for the winter mode. They depict the richness of new materials, the loveliness of new colors and the enchanting way new decorative touches enliven the autumn fashions.

BAKED PEARS FIT FOR A KING

Bake from 12 to 15 ripe Kelfer pears at one time. Place in double roaster, stems up. Add one cup of water and bake one hour before starting to sweeten then begin to add sugar, half a cup at a time, repeating this 3 times.

After which you bake 2 hours at no time letting the liquid be less than 1 cup in the roaster. After they have baked three hours, to the liquid that is left in the pan add a level tablespoon of butter and one tablespoon of corn starch, which is to thicken. This put over the pears just before serving, as it makes a little glazing, after which put on whipped cream.

Bake in a moderate oven, usually the day before serving them.

Ord Methodist Church.

We would like to appropriate the saying of the Master who said: "I am among you as He that serveth." And it will be our purpose to live up to that ideal as far as possible and serve the church and community, and every interest that contributes to the welfare of the community. These words of Sam Walter Foss have always had a strong appeal to us: "Let me live in my house by the side of the road and be a friend to man." To every man, black or white, Jew or gentile, Catholic or protestant. We greatly appreciated the call of the Catholic priest Father Borden, as we were leaving Tecumseh, to say goodbye. We were friends. Let us all of us, be friends and co-workers in a common cause.

Services next Sunday at the usual hours. The evening service to be given next Sunday. Those who are pushed ahead one-half hour. We will be glad to have the seats all filled, for empty pews are sermon killers. W. H. WRIGHT

Pussyfoot's Sportlog

-By GEORGE ROUND, JR.

Reginald Beegly recently being called a assistant manager and trainer of the Ord Camels, victors in the farm bureau league this year. In recent pictures of the team published in numerous dailies over the state, Beegly was cited as both. He only wishes one name would be dropped. In addition "Lincoln" says he has his cup ordered for next year.

With an augmented lineup, Manager Frank Andersen's Ord Camels appear to be a little better ball club than Joint. Matern it seems, needs a little more support and some stickers behind him to help win ball games. He, himself, is a promising young pitcher. Joint fans who all season have claimed that they could easily mop up on the Ord team spiked as they might see it are probably backing down a step or two now. At least they should.

Among the expected Ord people at the Nebraska-Texas football game this Saturday at Lincoln are Rude Koupal, Dr. Barta and Ed Beranek. All men are taking their sons to Lincoln to see their first "big time" game. Dickie, Floyd, and Dean will get a big thrill out of it. The game should be a tight one with Nebraska as my favorite to cop.

A game which I, as well as many other Ord and Valley county sport fans would like to see this week and to be a Katon pitcher. Joint at Omaha Saturday night. Kansas with the conference title tucked beneath its belt, in supposition at least, is in with a good team. The Creighton game will give fans their first look at the Jayhawk team.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

It has been my policy, since buying the Quiz, to make the paper just as good as the receipts of the business would justify and to pay as good wages to employees as possible and it is in line with this well established policy that I have, beginning this week, added a 4-page colored comic section. I have stood in the postoffice Sunday morning many times and seen fathers and mothers get the Sunday daily paper, open it up and look over the colored supplement first, sometimes their young ones clamoring for the "funny." I am believing that the oldsters in the colored pictures just as the youngsters do. If I believe the feature would be popular I surely wouldn't go to the expense of buying for it food a considerable addition to the overhead expense. And are a good many departments which have been added from time to time which have been appreciated by readers. If you like the latest feature, the colored section, and we let us know it will be encouraged to make further improvements which we have mind.

When the Norris investigation first started the Broken Bow Norris insisted that he filed solely because he wanted to do so and not at the suggestion of anyone else; Lawyer Johnson of Broken Bow denied having anything to do with his filing; Victor Seymour of Lincoln said he didn't know a thing about it, had never seen Norris and didn't care a hang about the matter. But the investigation continued now Norris No. 2 has that he was induced to an effort to drive Senator Johnson out of the seat. Johnson the Broken Bow lawyer has admitted helped in the matter, that $500, liberty bond through supposedly from Victor and turned it over to Norris; Victor Seymour who had pointed to a responsible with the republican committee at Denver has his job, though still insisting at he did nothing wrong in it. However, it has been that a large amount of money came from somewhere and was deposited in a Lincoln bank by Seymour and the Nye committee has adjourned, but it is stated that the committee will come back to consider the matter further. Presumably in the mean time investigators for the committee will be busy uncovering the facts. Everyone who read the papers knew all along that Norris No. 2, Seymour, husband of Broken Bow and others are not telling all they knew about the matter. Now it seems that some at least of them will be charged with perjury and likely the truth will finally come out. It may all have a tendency to stop some of the crookedness in politics and if the crookedness is stopped, our primary will not be nearly as bad as it seemed to be.

California Civil War Veteran Saw Lincoln's Assassin Trapped and Shot

A STORY which often is wrought up whenever the death of Abraham Lincoln is discussed is that John Wilkes Booth, his assassin, saw away from pursuers and lived to a ripe old age under an assumed name in either Texas, Oklahoma or London.

The man taken for Booth, so the story goes, was an innocent Confederate soldier who had changed wats with Booth during the assassin's flight through Virginia and whom the Federals had killed to save the face of the government. If there is one man able authoritatively to dispute this theory it is W. A. McDonald of Westminster, Calif. He helped pursue and corner Booth, saw him get shot and die. And he is the last living man who witnessed these events.

A Case of Shock McDonald, who enlisted when 17, was a member of the Eighth Illinois Cavalry, the bodyguard of the president, and stationed outside Ford's theater in Washington the night of the assassination. He recalls vividly the pandemonium in the theater soon after Lincoln, watching a performance of "The American Cousin" from a box seat, was shot.

After all these years the veteran is still mystified at the fact that Booth managed to escape with the theater filled as it was with soldiers. But it was a case of shock. No one seemed to know what to do. In fact, 12 hours had elapsed before anyone thought of starting out in pursuit of the assassin.

It was then that the president's bodyguard, divided into detachments of 12 men each, was directed to begin the search. "Our detachment," said McDonald, "was the first to pick up the trail, it being learned that the noted actor was accompanied on his flight by Daniel C. Herold. The hunt led us to the large plantation of Dr. Samuel Mudd, in Virginia. "We learned from the negro servants that Booth and Herold had been in hiding there for several days. Dr. Mudd was placed under arrest and sent to Washington as a conspirator and later to jail for aiding the fugitives. He had given medical aid to Booth who had broken his leg making his escape from the theater the night of the assassination.

A few perennials set out this fall will be better established for producing bloom next year than if the seed is delayed till spring. I have been told that there were twice as many flowers in Ord this season than ever before. If that is true and the doubling process could be continued for a few years, Ord would be talked about as the town beautiful by all who come this way.

While at North Platte the other day, Governor Weaver told Bert M. Hardenbrook that the gravel for the Scotia-Elba road had been pumped from the river and that he should tell his people at Ord that it would be, on the road before the winter is over, assurance that we won't have to drive through mud when we go down the highway during the wet season next spring.

And while I am talking about roads I am wondering why Tarvia roads. It is being used extensively in Minnesota and I am told that it is much cheaper than paving. Surely it is much better than just gravel, in fact I would rather drive on a good Tarvia road than on a paved road. It seems to have a little give or spring to it which one does not get on paving and I judge the upkeep is not very great. Probably there is some good reason for its not being used in this state.

NEBRASKA LAKE BEING SAVED BY HEROIC MEASURES Illustrative of the present disposition in Nebraska, fostered and sustained by the Nebraska Game, Forestation & Parks Commission and approved by every good citizen who perceives the importance of preserving natural resources, Lake Quinnebaugh in Burt county is being rescued by artificial means from going dry. This is one of the largest lakes in Nebraska. Originally it was six miles long but in recent years its waters have receded until the lake was only a part of its former size. Recently the state, taking official notice of the falling condition of the lake, installed a giant pump and a 25 horse power Diesel engine on the bank of the Missouri river nearby and began pumping a stream of 3500 gallons of water per hour into a ditch that leads to the lake. The pump is operating day and night and the engineer in charge estimates that before the water freezes in November the lake will be back to its normal size.

Lake Quinnebaugh has been a popular resort of fisherman and After 12 days of search the fugitives were found in a barn belonging to a man named Garret near Fredericksburg, Va. McDonald recalled. "It was an easy matter for us to surround the building," McDonald remembers. "Our leader, after giving instructions not to shoot unless necessary, ordered the men to surrender. Soon a dark form emerged from the barn. It was Herold. We could hear Booth cursing him for surrendering. "Convinced that Booth was determined to stay in the barn and fight it out, we set the building on fire. Through knot holes we could see him, leaning upon a crutch and holding a carbine, crouching in a corner. "The flames crept nearer and finally Booth started for the door. At this moment, Boston Corbett, a sergeant, aimed his gun through a knot hole, shooting Booth in the head and back. We carried him from the barn and laid him in the open field. He suffered painfully in dying and his last words were, 'Tell my mother I died for my country.'"

The Secret Burial The body was taken on board the monitor Montauk, where it was identified by Dr. John F. May. Because of the feeling against the dead assassin, he was secretly buried under the floor of one of the warehouses in the arsenal grounds on Greenleaf's Point. It was customary at that time for felons to be buried there.

The body remained there until Feb. 20, 1859, when it was re-interred at the request of Edwin Booth, a brother, in the family plot in Baltimore. As far as Boston Corbett, the man who killed Booth, is concerned, McDonald has this to say: "Corbett was court-martialed for disobedience to orders. Severe punishment was suspended and he later toured the country. He finally in an asylum."

BENEFITS THAT KONJOLA BRINGS COME TO STAY

Lady Was Bedfast—Tells How Modern Medicine Restored Her Health Three Months Ago.

MRS. CLARA O'BRIEN "I am recommending Konjola to all my friends because I am still enjoying the good health that this medicine brought three months ago," said Mrs. Clara O'Brien, 210 West Second Street, Sioux City, Ia. "For many years I suffered with stomach and kidney troubles. Food, no matter what I ate, soured in my stomach, gas formed, and I had pains around my heart. That kidney condition caused me much misery. My back ached almost constantly, and I frequently had severe dizzy spells. Finally I became so ill that it was necessary for me to remain in bed practically all the time. "Endorsements won by Konjola led me to try this medicine, and five bottles of Konjola thoroughly put an end to my ailments. I am feeling fine and doing all my housework. Back aches are gone. I enjoy my meals as I did years ago, and am gaining in strength each day." Konjola is not designed for mere temporary relief. Quickly it goes to the source of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola is sold in Ord, Nebraska at the McLain and Sorensen drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. —John Day, of Martin, S. D. left Saturday for his home. He had been visiting Chester Frey for a few days.

News of the Farms!

What's New in Farming!

More Students At State Ag College

Student enrollment at the agricultural college, Lincoln, increased thirty-six for the first semester over the same period last year, according to unofficial figures given out from Dean Burr's office at the college today. There were 612 students enrolled for the first semester last year with 648 enrolled this year. At least two Ord boys, Dick Flynn and George Round, Jr. helped swell the total.

In giving out the total enrollment, it was pointed out at the dean's office that the figures did not eliminate those who registered last spring but failed to pay their fees this year. When the official figures are given out, the enrollment may be cut a few.

Boy students outnumbered the girls at the agricultural college, there being 378 enrolled for the first semester while 272 girls were registered in ag college. The freshmen boys class of 118 was considered larger than last year's. There were fifty-three freshmen girls enrolled this year, according to the official count.

VALLEY COUNTY STILL FIRST IN POPCORN RAISING

Two-Thirds of State's Popcorn Crown Here; Takes Lead As General Producer.

Valley county is still the popcorn producing center of Nebraska and the world, according to statistics in the 1929 Nebraska handbook recently published and issued by A. B. Andersen, state agriculture statistician. In addition Valley county leads the counties in the central district in average production for 1929 in flax, buckwheat, barley, speltz, grain sorghum, winter wheat, spring wheat, sorghum forage, and popcorn. What a record!

Counties in the central district beside Valley county include Buffalo, Custer, Dawson, Greeley, Hall, Howard, Sherman. All parts of the state were divided into districts wherein the counties were compared as to average and production in 1929.

No county in the state even compared with Valley county in 1929 in acreage or average production. Of the 11,000 acres of popcorn in Nebraska 7,046 acres were planted in this county. Valley county lead all other counties in the state as well as this district in average production, popcorn producing on an average of one thousand pounds per acre.

Valley county farmers husked over seven hundred thousand pounds of popcorn in 1929 to keep the county on top in popcorn production. On an average the popcorn was worth twenty-five dollars an acre. Local farmers received $176,150 for their 1929 crop. Though this county is not essentially a wheat producing one, it did lead other counties in the central district in average production for both spring and winter wheat. Over three thousand acres were planted here in 1929 which averaged seventeen bushels to the acre. This was better than the five year average of 1916 to 1925 for winter wheat.

Spring wheat averaged fifteen bushel, the best average in the district. Though last year was not a bumper corn crop in many counties, it was in Valley county, it was estimated in the 1929 book that the local crop averaged 22 bushel per acre. This was slightly under the five year average production although Valley county stood second in the district. There were over one hundred thousand acres planted which returned over one and a half million dollars to local farmers in 1929.

Despite the fact that only three acres of flax were raised in Valley county last year, the average production of nine bushel led other counties in the district. Only three counties in the district raised flax in 1929. The total value of the local crop was $25.30.

So in buckwheat production, Valley county did not raise a lot but, nevertheless, lead the other central Nebraska counties in average production when the six acres here averaged eleven bushel per acre. The crop of sixty-six bushel had a value of $56.00.

Nearly twenty thousand acres of wild hay was grown in Valley county last year. The hay averaged 9 tons per acre and had a value of $129,026. Tame hay produced on an average of 2.32 tons per acre with over twenty-five thousand acres planted. Local farmers had the hay valued at $448,000.

Valley county is rapidly gaining the distinction of being the leading oats producing county in the central district. Last year the county lead all others in average production, the crop averaging forty bushels to the acre. The county stood fifth in average production in value per acre. Oats in 1929 were valued at $15.20 per acre.

So in barley production Valley county lead others in the district in average production. Though all other counties in the district had more acreage planted, none equalled the average production of thirty-six bushels. The crop was valued at $18.00 per acre with local farmers having it placed at nearly $70,000 in value.

Another crop of which Valley county farmers produced a good yield per acre is alfalfa. In 1929 there were but a little over six hundred acres planted which yielded seventeen bushels to the acre, the best average in the district. Rye produced here for the year had a value of $8,940.

In speltz production, Valley county lead in average production. The 1929 crop of 315 acres averaged thirty bushels per acre and had a value of $15 per acre. The total crop was worth nearly five thousand dollars. Grain sorghum also yielded a good crop in many other counties in the district, it making twenty-five bushel to the acre with but eighteen acres planted. A total of 450 bushel were harvested.

In average alfalfa production, Valley county stand third in the district last year. It produced 2.4 tons. It appears that Valley county is rapidly gaining the distinction of being an alfalfa producing county.

Though perhaps sorghum forage is not a major crop here there were 314 acres planted last year which produced on an average of 3.0 tons per acre. Valley lead other counties in the district in average production. Nearly one thousand tons were produced which had a value of over six thousand dollars.

Potato production is not essentially an important one here and so the average production of eight-nine bushels per acre was not so large in comparison with similar acre yields from other counties in the district. This year 123 acres returned over sixty thousand dollars to local farmers.

Livestock in the hands of Valley county farmers in 1929 was worth $3,577,558. The county stood fifth in the district in value while Custer, as was to be expected, lead all counties in the central portion of the state for the year in total value.

Though many local farmers are loath to see the horse disappear from the farm, it appears from the statistics that horses in Valley County are getting fewer and fewer every year. In 1928 there were 8,826 horses here while in 1929 there were but 8,693. This represents a loss of nearly two hundred in one year. Figures for other years are missing at this time so it is hard to tell what the decrease over the last five-year period has been.

Valley county has gained the distinction of being a big dairy producing county but there was a decrease in the number of total cows here in 1929 over the previous year. The yearbook declares that there were 8,421 cows here in 1929 while there were 8,570 in 1928. Milk produced had a value of $465,000.

Evidently sheep raising and feeding in Valley county is falling off rapidly if figures taken from the 1929 book are valid. They show that there were 3,747 sheep here in 1928 while there were only 1,955

Average Egg Price 20 Cents in August

Valley county and Nebraska farm people cooperating with the poultry department of the University of Nebraska in keeping records on poultry production reported an average net income per hen in August was fifteen cents. Two cooperators hail from this county in the project.

There were 79,377 hens entered in the project upon which the costs were kept. Other facts were disclosed in the monthly poultry bulletin issued yesterday from the college of agriculture, Lincoln.

In computing the net income and other receipts and expenditures it was figured on the basis of three hundred in the state. The average gross income per hen for August was thirty-four cents but records showed that the gross expense was nineteen cents for the average hen for the month.

Nebraska cooperators, including those in Valley county, received an average price of twenty cents a dozen for their eggs. The market mark was thirty-three cents while the lowest price received was thirteen cents per dozen.

The high producing flock for August in Nebraska among the cooperators produced 18.2 eggs per hen while the low producing flock laid but an average of 4.7 eggs per hen. The average production per hen for the total number of birds in the project over Nebraska for August was eleven eggs.

Club Baby Bees Should Be Chosen

"Valley county boys and girls expecting to enroll in baby bee clubs for next year should begin to look for their bees early. The season starts the first of January and it is quite essential that club members pick their calves early and watch them if they expect a successful year," County Agent declared today. The local baby bee club members were handling some bees by some means their calves were picked out.

This year the Valley county agent and local leaders, Clara Clement and Mott Rathbun of near Ord, hope to get the club calves located before the first of January so that members may look on the first of the year. Prospective members who do not have their bees located should communicate with any of the three men at once.

Soon leaders of club work here will make an inspection trip around the county to see how the baby bees are doing. This should eliminate some of the lateness in locating bees, Dale avers.

Yearling Ewes Now Sell for Less Money

"Young ewe sheep are now selling for less money than they have since 1921. It affords an ample opportunity for Valley county farmers to purchase young ewes for a farm herd if they expect to soon. Now is the time," A. D. Weber declared at the college of agriculture yesterday in an interview with George Round, Jr., student at the college.

Farmers who brought yearling ewes last year were compelled to pay $9 to $14 apiece for them, Weber said. At that price, profit was small for the farmer in Valley county as elsewhere. At this time young ewes can be bought from $5 to $6 per head, about fifty percent under the price paid last year.

Weber stated that young ewes are now selling cheaper than in any year since 1921. By buying a flock of young ewes, the average farmer can keep them in, maintaining his own flock until prices raised in they should be in the next few years, Weber maintained. Ewes bought for foundation stock for the farm can be fed economically with waste grain and roughage. Thirty-five to fifty usually constitute the average farm flock.

Experiment are now being conducted at the college of agriculture to find the most economical feeds. A number of blackfaced Idaho lambs are used. Rations of ground wheat, wheat, and shelled corn, each with alfalfa, are being fed in an effort to determine the feeding value of wheat to sheep. Results of this test are expected to be ready for publication in three weeks. The experiment started August 4.

AM I RIGHT?

By Geo. Round, jr.

With a spread in price of twenty cents for eggs marketed which represents the difference between the high and low prices received by poultry cooperators in August, it appears that the problem of marketing is just as important today as is the production of eggs. Certainly marketing is getting to be another phase of poultry production and without efficient marketing in 1929. So it was in swine production that the number fell off over ninety thousand recorded in 1928 and but sixty-five thousand in 1929. Poultry did likewise for 1929, the book stating there were three thousand less chickens in Valley county in 1929 than in 1928.

Tendency over the state and nation as a whole for the past few years has evidently been to get the most acres under the plow possible. This apparently does not hold true in Valley county for there were more acres under the plow in both 1928 and 1927 than in 1929. A total of 181,595 acres were under the plow in 1929, fifty-three percent of the farms were farmed by their owners last year in Valley county.

ing there will always be the spread in price received per dozen.

It probably will be explained in the case of the Nebraska cooperators with the college of agriculture that the poultrymen receiving the high price marketed a superior product and to customers that were willing to pay a little extra for quality eggs. Creating a favorable market was a part of these poultrymen's problems in making poultry a successful industry.

The man who received thirteen cents for his eggs probably marketed them in the usual farm to town store fashion. The eggs were not graded and were sold at stores as credit. No attempt was probably made to peddle the eggs to customers who demanded a quality product.

The poultry department at the college is finding out from the high-selling cooperators the exact reasons for their high prices received. I hope to be able to publish this information as soon as possible.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Chlorate weed sprays were first used in this vicinity during the season of 1928 by Wilbur Rogers. Mr. Rogers stated last fall that the sodium chlorate he used had destroyed a patch of bindweed, but that nothing would grow on the treated ground until late the following spring.

The most economical time to spray with chlorates is in autumn, before the weeds are dead. If given during that period only one treatment is necessary instead of three. Many kinds of perennial weeds were given single spray treatments by our vocational agriculture students about a year ago. None of the weeds reappeared this summer, though ordinarily the seeds would have started new plants. The weeds were replanted with a patch of bindweed, but that nothing would grow on the treated ground until late the following spring.

These weeds were thoroughly wetted by the use of an air pressure spraying machine which threw the solution in the form of fine mist. At the rate used, about 100 gallons of spray would be needed for each acre. One pound of chlorate was dissolved per gallon of water. Sodium chlorate can be purchased for about 10 cents a pound in bulk quantities.

Either sodium or calcium chlorate is the most popular of the two, as it is the first to receive attention. Calcium chlorate is now thought to be just as effective, and it is known to have two advantages; it can be applied either wet or dry, and it is less inflammable when dried on organic matter. Both of these salts are said to be 700 times more effective in plant-killing than common salt.

There is a fire hazard present where the chlorate solution has dried, but the risk is slight if proper precautions are taken. There is no more danger than with gasoline, the widespread use of which causes no alarm. The pure sodium chlorate crystals will not burn, even when held over a lighted match.

Animals will lick greedily at chlorate sprayed areas if they do not receive plenty of ordinary salt. Poisoning has thus been known to occur, but there is little chance for this when plenty of salt is kept about the livestock.

Chlorate chemicals penetrate the plant tissues through their leaves and roots. The weeds are poisoned and they assume a sickly appearance. A brownish discoloration of the roots shows that the plants are dead.

NEBRASKA'S FRUIT SECTION IS MOVING WESTWARD

The first prize for the best and largest collection and display of fruits at the 1930 Nebraska State Fair did not go to an exhibitor from southeastern Nebraska, although that section of the state with its rich Loess soil is considered the fruit section of the state. After hovering aloft over several creditable displays by a single exhibitor the gaudier descended upon the display of Alvin Daily, Irving near Milburn in Custer county. Not by chance did the prize go to Mr. Daily for this is the fifth successive year that his fruit has been considered by judges to be the best collective display at the fair. The collection included apples and plums.

days got through with Nebraska and man arrived to view the result, southeastern Nebraska with a rich and fertile soil, looked like a new location for the garden of Eden. Western Nebraska, where sand had drifted from towering hills to long valleys, looked to the early comers like a land forgotten by its creator. Naturally settlements began where the land was fat and black and well watered.

Out in western Nebraska progress in development has taken longer for it has come about by harder effort. The sandhills of the state, once shunned by all but the cattle ranchers, and the section of the states in between the sandhills and the valley country, settled by the courageous tillers of the soil and homesteaders, are now reaching a start of exploitation and development that promises a shift of population and production. The five year record of the Custer county fruit raiser at the state fair is merely an indication of what is in the future.

KREJCI'S FIELDING RECORD BEST IN VALLEY LEAGUE

Mustang Outfielder Handled 32 Chances Without An Error; Hill's Record Also Good.

Handling thirty-two chances without an error for a grand average of .1000, the record of Joe Krejci, outfielder for the Ord Mustangs, is the best in the Loup Valley league, according to figures released this week by C. A. Potter, league secretary. Other league players also had perfect records but they did not handle nearly so many chances as did Krejci, whose record includes 28 put-outs and 4 assists. Besides having a perfect record in the field he batted at a .264 clip.

Other Loup Valley league players with perfect fielding records include Long, Bubak, Smith and Eisler, of Ansley, Sheldon, Drake, Bergin and Klein, of Scotia, Gibson, Carter and Brown, of Broken Bow, Graham, Faneck, Galloway, Saun, and Schoonover, of Litchfield, Russell, Matulka, Nelson and Burrows, of Ord, and Hollingshead of Arcadia. None of these players except Krejci were regulars, however. Long, of Ansley, with 18 chances, is second in the list of perfect fielding averages.

Players in the league who fielded .900 or better include Halbensen, Eastbrook, Lang and Roberts, of Litchfield, G. Sautter, Williams, Curtis and H. Sautter, of Scotia, Knapp, Goodman and Burnham, of Ansley, Robinson, Linder and Ellington of Broken Bow, Megrue, Bulger, Finch and Burns, of Arcadia, Athey, Heuck, Bodie, Wolf and Hill, of Ord. Hill's fielding average of .965 is well toward the top of the list.

On the Ord team Hill was the most potent batter with a season's average of .373. Bodie, with .324, and Heuck, with .301 also were powerful hitters. Andy Jensen, with .571, and Nelson, with .400, led Hill, Bodie and Heuck but played only a few games with the Mustangs.

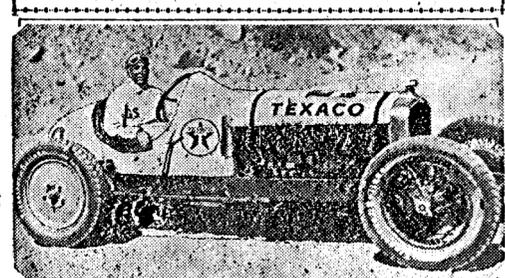

Clyde Athey was at bat the most times of any Mustang, making 71 trips to the plate. His season's average was .239. Krejci scored the most runs, 15, with Heuck next with 11. Hill got the most hits, 25, while Heuck got 19 and Armattis and Athey 17. Covert got 15 safe blows, Krejci got 14, Burke 13 and Bodie 12. Andy Jensen, though he played in but four games, got 3 hits and scored 5 runs.

During the season the Mustangs were at bat 634 times, got 91 runs and 172 hits, and finished with a batting average of .261 and a fielding average of .919. Litchfield won first place in the league, Ansley was second, Arcadia third and Ord fourth.

Camels Beat Joint Team Second Time

Playing on the Joint diamond Sunday the Ord Camels defeated the Joint team for a second time by the score of 9 to 7. Sheldon hurled for the Camels, limiting Joint to four hits while Camel hitters found Flock and Mattern for eight. Bodie, Faudt, Dittman, Polak and Athey also played with the Camels. A third game scheduled between Mattern and Anderson's team and Joint has been cancelled.

ORD GRIDSTERS FACE FIRST TEST HERE TOMORROW

Will Try Get Revenge For Defeat At Scotia Last Year; Team Will Average 104.

Friday afternoon on Bussell park field an inexperienced Ord high school football team, handicapped by the illness of Coach Joe Krejci and by the ineligibility of at least one letterman, will attempt to get revenge for a 39 to 0 defeat suffered last year at Scotia. A huge crowd will see the game for the word has gone out that though green, this year's Ord team possesses a world of fight and while the odds are against them, the team will try to win.

Henry Hoffman, substituting as coach for Joe Krejci, names the following as the probable starters tomorrow:
Ends—E. Lashmett and Finch or Benda.
Tackles—Hather and Gard.
Guards—Cochon or Rathbun and Gregg.
Center—Stoltz.
Quarterback—Steinwort.
Halfbacks—Hughes or D. Lashmett and Klein or Barnard.
Fullback—Garnick or Malolep.

The team that will start for Ord tomorrow probably will average 140 pounds, with the line averaging a good 150. Captain Glegg, Hather Steinwort, Klein and Garnick are lettermen but of these only Gregg and Garnick were regulars last year. Barnhart, touted as a sure ground runner, is a North Loup letterman of two years ago. One letterman who will be lost to the team tomorrow is Augustine, a center, who has become delinquent in one of his subjects and is therefore ineligible to play. It is hoped that he can make up his deficiencies and become eligible for future games but coaches are not worrying about it as Stoltz has been showing up well in practice.

As usual Scotia is in with a strong team which will furnish a real test for Coach Hoffman's Ord gridsters. A large crowd of fans is expected to accompany the Scotia team to Ord. The game will start promptly at 3:15 o'clock.

Brief Spell of Cold Brings Ducks, Geese

A drizzling rain and cold weather last Thursday brought large numbers of ducks and a few geese down from the north and for a few days river hunters enjoyed good sport. Paul Gard, son of Dr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Gard, succeeded in killing three geese and Howard Huff, who lives on the river south-east of Ord, also got a couple, according to reports. All of them were "cacklers," or the Hutchinson variety, which resemble Canadian geese but are smaller. Most

MARTIN PICKS MEN FROM SIX CLUBS TO MAKE UP HIS ALL-STAR AMERICAN LEAGUE TEAM—SIMMONS, AVERILL, RUTH COMPOSE THE OUTFIELD

BY PHILIP MARTIN
WHEN I chose my all-star National League ball team, which I announced last week, I saved myself lots of worry by running through the lineups of the Cubs and Giants. Those clubs gave me a nucleus of eight luminaries.

I found that in lining up the boys for my all-star American League team, my task this week was even less difficult. For the stars stand out like phosphorescent gleams in the dark. This is what I mean by the nitfiest lineup in the American League:

Lou Gehrig, Yanks, first base.
Charlie Gehringer, Tigers, second base.
Joe Cronin, Senators, shortstop.
Marty McManus, Tigers, third base.
Babe Ruth, Yanks, right field.
Mickey Cochrane, Athletics, catcher.
Ted Lyons, White Sox, pitcher.
Lefty Grove, Athletics, pitcher.
Wes Ferrell, Indians, pitcher.

Classiest pitchers in the American League are Lefty Grove, above, of the Athletics, Wes Ferrell, left, of the Indians, and Ted Lyons, of the White Sox.

GEHRIG, in my opinion, reigns supreme because of his tremendous hitting. He has boasted an average of .390 or thereabouts during the greater part of the season. Youthful Jimmy Fox of the A's and Eddie Morgan of the Indians undoubtedly are his only rivals—and rather distant ones, at that.

of the bluewing teal flitted south ahead of last Thursday's storm but greenwings are still here in large numbers. Many pintails, bluebills and widgeon also were killed but the mallard flight has not started yet.

Round Gets Bird Dog.

Sheriff George Round was the recipient this week of a young English setter, sent to him by friends in Illinois. The Illinois parties hunted pheasants with the Valley county sheriff last fall and at that time promised to send him a bird dog. John Klein is training the dog for Sheriff Round.

There could be a difference of opinion in the selection of a second baseman, but Charlie Gehringer, youthful Detroit star, gets this writer's vote.

His fielding and his value on the attack are firmly established. Gehringer is not hitting as strongly this season as Hodapp of the Indians, but he has more class as an infielder.

Joe Cronin is a standout at shortstop. The Senator star has batted in the cleanup role for Walter Johnson and has given better service in the runs-driven-in department than Washington has seen in many years. Cronin, a youngster, did not arrive as a star until this year. He may yet show he is a worthy rival of the great Honus Wagner of old National League days.

Marty McManus of the Tigers and Tony Lazzari of the Yanks are the best of the American League's third basemen. McManus plays the position regularly, while Lazzari has been shifted about on the Yankee infield. Marty also boasts a heavier batting average than the Yank.

The American League has a number of fine outfielders, but standing out at the top of the list are Al Simmons, Connie Mack's great slugger, and Babe Ruth, Swat Sultan of the Yankees. Simmons is placed in his regular position in left field with Ruth in the opposite corner of the outer garden. Both are great fielders and accurate throwers and the power of their bats would give the all-star team an edge over any other group selected.

Averill of the Indians is sandwiched between Simmons and Ruth because he combines fine fielding with heavy hitting and speed on the base paths. Earl Combs of the Yanks and Carl Reynolds of the White Sox are his nearest rivals for the position.

ship has been increased 140. The new pipe organ was secured and installed during the first year Rev. Mr. Wright was in Tecumseh, and an old debt was soon wiped out. The work has continued in well organized form and is in splendid shape now. The interior of the church has recently been nicely redecorated. Rev. Mr. Wright is a ceaseless and untiring worker, a splendid pulpit man, and a devoted and loving pastor. He is most ably supported by his wife, who is ever interested in the general work of the church, and of that of the auxiliary societies. Mrs. Wright is a great home lover, and the parsonage and its premises show the effective results of her efforts, the yard always being most beautiful in its floral attractions. Whatever may be said of the coming pastor for this church, it is a fact he will have a hard man to follow—hard because of the esteem in which Rev. Mr. Wright is held by all of our people, hard because of the work he has done here, his efficient organization efforts, pleasing pulpit work, and disposition of the pastoral duties in such an efficient manner, duties that invariably make great demands upon the minister's time and talents. The Methodists have a splendid new church property at Ord. Rev. Mr. Wright and wife will leave Tecumseh with the best wishes of all for their future welfare and for the continued success of the minister's work. Though the minister and his wife have five children they are all away from home at this time, being engaged in work of their own.

Round Named On Countryman Staff

George Round, Jr., son of Sheriff and Mrs. George Round of Ord, has been made assistant editor of the Cornhusker Countryman, official agricultural college monthly publication, according to word received by the Quiz late this morning. He is the only Ord boy on the Countryman staff. The appointment is for the first semester of this year.

Last year, his first at ag college, Round was active on the Countryman staff. He was a contributing editor the first semester and associate editor the second semester. Claude Roe of Ord was also on the Countryman staff last year.

Round is a member of the Farm House fraternity and a junior in college.

Mrs. Barber is the chairman of the social committee of the Christian Endeavor society of the Seventh Day Baptist church, and the affair was given primarily in order that the members might have an opportunity to hear Mrs. McClellan give an account of the Passion Play at Oberammergau which she saw during her trip abroad this summer.

VOL. 1 Thursday, October 2, 1930. NO. 3

Thrill is all right, and so is mince pie. But too much of either isn't good for you.

With this season's crop of pigs try Big 4 Pig Meal. Then the pounds multiply.

Big 4 Pig Meal gives the pigs a perfectly balanced, scientifically prepared ration that produces growth in the shortest time. It's economical, too.

October's frosts, November's breezes. Will cancel our BeeVeeDeeses.

John Urban would no more think of trying to raise a bunch of hogs without Big 4 Pig Meal than a Dutchman would think of doing without sauerkraut.

We know this is no work of art so you folks must help with your part. The last line's for you, do what you can do.

There's a frostiness now in the air, which reminds us that Jim Misko is prepared. We just installed a Bennett-Allison oil burner in his home. No more handling coal, building fire and carrying ashes for Jim.

Ladies in Hollywood are now smoking cigars, they tell us. We know of a certain pipe that comes into our place occasionally, that we'll dare any lady to try.

We are making the Big 4 egg mash because we make it here from Valley county grain. We're able to make you a better price than you are ordinarily in the habit of paying for a well balanced mash of this kind.

I like Big 4 Flour better every year remarked Mrs. J. D. Tedro after using it for 23 years. Some record we claim, for continued patronage.

QUIZ FORUM

Warns of High Rates.
Ord, Nebraska, October 8, 1930
To the Editor of the Ord Quiz:
I was very much pleased to see the letter relative to the new Automatic telephone in last week's Quiz. I believe the people need more of just such letters to awaken them to the danger back of private ownership of public utilities.
These big companies make a big show, spend a lot of money under the guise of benefitting the public and in the end the public pay for it all with a good profit added on. This is the way it works out; A city or group of local men have a small power or telephone plant which cost, say $200,000.00. They are doing well and everybody is satisfied with the rates and service. Along come the "big boys" and make an offer of $1,000,000.00 for the plant. This is turned down and they keep bidding until it is bought for $1,800,000.00. Everybody thinks it a good deal—that it is always good business to sell an article for seven or eight times what it is worth.
But what happens? The "big boys" immediately go before the Railway Commission and say "We have an investment of $1,800,000.00 here, surely no one can object to our fixing a rate that will give us an adequate return on our money, together with operating expenses". This looks reasonable, their request is granted and the dear public has the pleasure of immediately starting to pay for the "generosity" of the "big boys" in paying $1,800,000.00 for the $200,000.00 plant.
This may not be the way the local situation will work out, but before we favor any such proposition let's keep our eyes open and see if we cannot discover the "nigger" in the wood pile.
A Taxpayer.

"GALVANNEALED" AND COPPER BEARING OUTLASTS OTHER KINDS OF FENCE

Ever since 1923 (when Keystone discovered and patented "Galvannealing"—the only improvement in rust-resisting wire in the past forty years) RED BRAND dealers have told you about scientific laboratory tests that prove "galvannealed" wire had a 3 to 3 times heavier zinc coating than ordinary galvanized wire—therefore, would last many years longer in actual service in the field.

But these were laboratory tests. You wanted a Weather Test right out in the field. That's why the Burgess laboratories erected this Weather Test at Galveston, Texas, on the Gulf of Mexico—where all fences tested were purchased on the open market by the Burgess Laboratories including "Galvannealed" RED BRAND.

Here are the startling results of this 4 1-3 years actual Weather Test!

4 1-3 years ago, the C. F. Burgess Laboratories, Inc., Madison, Wis. bought, on the open market, 45 different makes, styles and sizes of woven wire fence. These were erected (in 1926) for a Weather Test on the Gulf of Mexico, outside of Galveston, Tex.—a spot where fence corrosion (due to damp salt air), is exceedingly severe. Tests were completed in June, 1930.

Results of these actual tests were almost unbelievable. They astonished even the makers of "Galvannealed" fence. Some of the ordinary galvanized fences rusted almost entirely away while "Galvannealed" fence, of equal weight, was still in excellent condition and looked practically as good as when erected.

If you will call at our Implement office we will show you photographic evidence for which you have been waiting. Would it be good judgment to buy ordinary fence when you can get longer lasting RED BRAND at the fair standard price? Would it be wise to refuse the opportunity to make your hard earned fence dollars go 2 to 3 times farther?

Burgess Weather Test Proves Red Brand Fence Best Among Many Kinds Tested

"GALVANNEALED" AND COPPER BEARING OUTLASTS OTHER KINDS OF FENCE

Ever since 1923 (when Keystone discovered and patented "Galvannealed"—the only improvement in rust-resisting wire in the past forty years) RED BRAND dealers have told you about scientific laboratory tests that proved "Galvannealed" wire had a 3 to 3 times heavier zinc coating than ordinary galvanized wire—therefore, would last many years longer in actual service in the field.

But these were laboratory tests. You wanted a Weather Test right out in the field. That's why the Burgess Laboratories erected this Weather Test at Galveston, Texas, on the Gulf of Mexico—where all fences tested were purchased on the open market by the Burgess Laboratories including "Galvannealed" RED BRAND.

Here are the startling results of this 4 1-3 years actual Weather Test!

4 1-3 years ago, the C. F. Burgess Laboratories, Inc., Madison, Wis. bought, on the open market, 45 different makes, styles and sizes of woven wire fences. These were erected (in 1926), for a Weather Test on the Gulf of Mexico, outside of Galveston, Tex.—a spot where fence corrosion (due to damp salt air), is exceedingly severe. Tests were completed in June, 1930.

Results of these actual tests were almost unbelievable. They astonished even the makers of "Galvannealed" fence. Some of the ordinary galvanized fences rusted almost entirely away while "Galvannealed" fence, of equal weight, was still in excellent condition and looked practically as good as when erected.

If you will call at our Implement office we will show you photographic evidence for which you have been waiting. Would it be good judgment to buy ordinary fence when you could get longer lasting RED BRAND at the fair standard price? Would it be wise to refuse the opportunity to make your hard earned fence dollars go 2 to 3 times farther?

Before winter and bad roads come, why not turn to an auto COMBINATION Policy, one that will help you over trouble anywhere. Many states now have "financial responsibility" laws which provide that you must be able to satisfy any judgment rendered against you by the courts up to the amount of $5,000.00 or forfeit your license to drive.

The early bird never has to WORM out of trouble, for he feathers his nest with complete protection. We can write you a policy protecting you against Fire, Theft, Wind, Hall, Public Liability and Property Damage, Collision and Breakage of Plate Glass from any cause, all in one or in separate policies.

Ask Dr. Miller, Judge Clements, Hank Leggett or any of our users about cost of operation and degree of satisfaction with our oil burners.

PER BASKET

When ripe they are delicious to eat raw and are fine for the school children's lunch basket.

Buy a Basket, "Eat what you can and can what you can't."

You can't beat this fruit at the price. I am just finishing my second car and if you want some of this good fruit, don't wait like you did for peaches, but buy them Saturday, either from your groceryman or at my fruit cellar.

FRED W. COE

BAKED PEARS

Bake from 12 to 15 at one time. Place in double roaster, stems up. Add one cup of water and bake one hour before starting to sweeten then begin to add sugar, half a cup at a time, repeating this 3 times. After which you bake 2 hours at no time letting the liquid be less than 1 cup in the roaster. After they have baked three hours, to the liquid that is left in the pan add a level tablespoon of butter and one tablespoon of corn starch, which is to thicken. This put over the pears just before serving, as it makes a little glazing, after which put on whipped cream. Bake in a moderate oven, usually the day before serving them.

My Own Column By H. D. Leggett

There is probably no man in all Nebraska, surely no man in Central Nebraska, better known to the people than is Judge Bayard H. Paine of Grand Island. He has served this district as one of its judges for a dozen years, every election showing that he was growing more into the hearts of his constituents. And now a broader field of endeavor is opening up to him for he is a candidate for a position on the supreme bench from the 5th-congressional district. In the primary he got something like eight thousand more votes than his nearest competitor and there should be no question but he will receive a large majority at the election in November. If Judge Paine has an enemy I have never heard of it. He is very human, sympathizes with the unfortunate and makes friends wherever he goes. He is an able man and a jurist. He is one of the most pleasing speakers in Nebraska and always in demand where a public speaker is needed. I regret that people in Valley county will not be able to vote for him this fall for he would get most of them if they could.

Some months ago a company furnishing electric juice in this section offered the city of Ord a contract whereby the city was to get juice for 2c a k. w., which is cheaper than it can be produced in the city plant. I note that the city of Blair, Nebr. has now made a contract with a similar company for the same service at 4c a k. w. and are going to retail the bought-in electric energy to their people, letting their own municipal plant stand idle because they can save money by doing so.

Interest seems to have ebbed in the telephone matter. There don't seem to be the interest that there should be in the new automatic phones being shown by the telephone company, comparatively few people taking the trouble to go in and see them work. It is stated that there is no law for a municipal system and it is also stated that the railway commission would not permit Ord to install such a system. Whether the commission has the authority to stop such a move or not I don't know. The attorney general has been asked by at least two Ord parties for an opinion, I do know but at this time neither party has had a reply.

It has been a long time since anything advertised by The Quiz has received the attention our announcement last week, of the daily and Sunday Bee-News for $5., did. The paper was hardly out till we began to get subscriptions and many have already been sent in. Many quit the Bee-News a year or more ago when the price was advanced to $8. At the present price of $5. many will want it again. How long the price will remain at $5. I don't know but if you want the Bee-News now is the time to act.

I am also pleased with the way the new colored comic section of the Quiz is being received. Many have stopped me to compliment the paper on the added department, some have phoned and several have already written. I guess it is going to be a popular feature.

I wonder how often my readers get a dinner of fried salt pork, potatoes and tomato gravy, graham bread, applesauce and black coffee. That was the menu that was set before me today when the Missus signaled that dinner was ready. Probably they are all common except the meat dish but I suspect that is not enjoyed very often. I remember when it was a very frequent item on the bill of fare. Fifty years ago in Michigan farmers butchered their own pork in the fall and put away enough side meat in brine to last the year out as a rule. Fresh meat during the summer, was not had so often but what it was considered a delicacy when it was served. The hams and shoulders were cured in a special brine and when warm weather came in the spring those not yet used up were sliced and fried lightly, then packed in stone jars and lard melted and run over them and sometimes we had some of that ham well through the summer. Bacon was not as common then as now, in fact I don't remember that my people ever smoked side meat for bacon. The hams and shoulders were hung in the smoke house and smoked with corn cobs. If we had fresh meat a couple of times a week in those days we thought we were lucky. Nowadays farmers sell their hogs alive and buy the cured meat.

MR. CHARLES W. WINTER
"I had been ill for about twenty years," said Mr. Charles W. Winter, 816 North Forty-first Avenue, Omaha. "For the past ten years I endured frightful suffering. Almost blinding headaches lasted for days. The neuritis attacked my shoulders and back of my neck. My arms felt numb and useless. This condition appeared to be getting steadily worse. I noticed a change for the better after I had taken the first bottle of Konjola. I continued the treatment and have taken six bottles to date. Today I feel fine and really know what it means to be able to do my work without constant pain. I feel it my duty to tell others of this great medicine. I shall never be without it in my home."

Is it not logical to believe that what Konjola has done for others, it will do for you—for everyone? Give Konjola a chance to prove its splendid merits. Konjola is sold in Ord, Nebraska at the McLain and Sorensen drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

NEW IDEA TWO-ROW CORN PICKER

Special Showing Now On! Complete Set-Up on Display

FOR the next few days we will have a 1930 model NEW IDEA Two Row Corn Picker on special display at our place. There has been a great deal of interested talk about this machine and for the benefit of our customers we have arranged this showing so that you can find out all the things you want to know about it. The machine is completely set up, ready to run and much of the time we will have a man here direct from the factory to answer your questions and explain every feature.

Corn picking season is almost at hand. You ought to know about the latest features in machine picking even if your corn crop is smaller than usual. This year, more than ever, it behooves every farmer to cut down his operating costs and save every ear of corn.

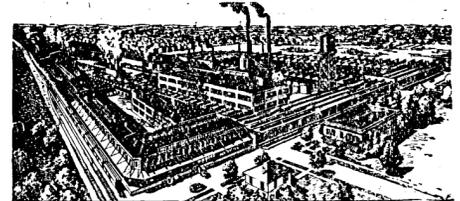

The NEW IDEA Two Row Corn Picker has certainly proved that it can lower costs. A normal day's work for this machine is 12 to 18 acres of corn — picked, husked and loaded into wagons. It saves from 4c to 8c a bushel over the cost of hand picking. It works in any kind of corn — heavy or light, thick stalked or thin, upright or down. It gets the nubbins that hand pickers miss. In a year when even nubbins are worth good money, you can't afford to overlook this fact. It will work on any kind of ground — rough or smooth, wet or dry. Its light weight (only 3200 lbs.) and wide tires keep it from miring down in the stickiest soil. Whenever your tractor can run, the NEW IDEA will work. A light tractor will draw it and pull the wagon too. Or if ground conditions are such that you prefer to have the wagon free, it can be drawn by team.

A NEW IDEA Two Row Picker covers the field with just half the driving required of a one-row picker and no other two-row picker has ever equalled the records set by it. Its exceptional balance — the light effort on the lever required to raise or lower the gathering points — make the NEW IDEA stand out as one of the easiest handled of all farm machines. It is a pull machine, operated by power take-off from any 2-plow tractor. Can be hooked up ready to go in fifteen minutes and unhooked in five minutes.

There is no question about these facts. The NEW IDEA has proved them by practical demonstration. It has been in the field for five years and each year it has been more successful than the last. The 1930 model that we are now showing is certainly a marvel of tried and tested engineering. Steel gears, heat treated; frame of high carbon steel; sheet metal parts extra heavy and galvanized; bronze alloy bearings; safety clutches on all moving units. Wearing parts are exceptionally few and maintenance cost extremely low.

The NEW IDEA saves you many cents per bushel on harvesting costs. It saves every ear and it gets you a better grade of corn because you can finish your picking while the crop is at its best. You profit all three ways. Come in and see this machine while the special demonstration is on.

Gilbert M. Hitchcock

for SENATOR

During the time that Mr. Hitchcock represented Nebraska constituents in Washington he made a positive record rather than a negative record. He counseled and cooperated with others, both republicans and democrats, and secured definite results.

He helped establish the graduated income tax.

He helped establish the postal savings banks.

He helped frame and pass the Federal Farm Loan Bank bill, and secured the location of one of the banks in Nebraska.

He was the author of the provisions in the Federal Reserve act, making the agricultural paper of farmers and stock raisers running four, five and six months, acceptable for discount at the Federal Reserve banks.

His record was one of achievement.

If Mr. Hitchcock is sent back to the senate, he will go there to fight, AND FIGHT EFFECTIVELY, for Nebraska's rights and interests.

BILL TERRY UPHOLDS PRESTIGE OF FIRST BASEMEN BY WINNING BATTING CROWN IN NATIONAL—GERRIG BATTING LOSSES OUT IN THE AMERICAN

BY PHILIP MARTIN

A conspiracy among major league first basemen to rise up and overthrow the outfielders as batting champions apparently has been nipped in the bud. Thanks to Al Simmons, Connie Mack's slugging outfielder, the day was saved for the pitchers when the A's star nosed out First Baseman Lou Gehrig of the Yanks for the American League batting crown.

Just how far this uprising had progressed may be gleaned from this statement: Two of the last four batting champions have been Lou Fonseca of the Cleveland Indians, American League winner in 1929, and Bill Terry of the Giants, National League winner this year. Gehrig held the American League lead in 1930 right up until the final day when Simmons stuck his nose under the wire a winner by two points, according to unofficial averages.

Batting champions in the American and National Leagues respectively are Al Simmons, above, of the Athletics, and Bill Terry, inset, of the Giants.

Terry had several points to spare over Outfielder Babe Herman of Brooklyn, his closest rival. Although Simmons and Gehrig passed the lead back and forth several times in the American League, Lou appeared a certain winner until statistics of the final game were tabulated.

BACK in 1907, a young Georgian outfielder named Ty Cobb started hitting the ball to all corners of the lot for the Detroit Tigers. That marked the beginning of a long batting reign by outfielders, broken only in 1929 and 1930 by First Baseman George Sisler. Cobb carried off the honors from 1907 through 1919, except for the year 1916 when Outfielder Tris Speaker finished in front. Harry Williams, Babe Ruth, Heinie Roth and Goose Goslin, all outfielders, rallied to the cause after Sisler last was dethroned and held sway until Fonseca broke through last year.

CIRCUMSTANCES in the National League have differed greatly, however. Starting in 1900, Cubs

Kenneth Lunney, former Ord boy, is now attending the University of Nebraska as a freshman and is on the varsity freshmen football squad. Playing at an end position, Lunney has demonstrated that he can stand up and battle with all varsity candidates. He has been an all-state end from York in the last two years. In basketball, to Kennedy will make the boys sit up and take notice.

Speaking of the U. of N., many Ord football fans have probably been wondering why Morris Fisher isn't out for varsity football this year. Fisher is helping coaching the freshmen squad and is said to be conserving himself for basketball where he is among the country's best forwards. He should have a lot of reserve power stored up by the time basketball season rolls around.

Perhaps many Valley Farm Bureau ball players and fans noticed the feature article in the Nebraska Farmer last week. The article written by me was a resume of the present season and I hoped to give the high spots occurring. A picture of the winning Ord Camels was reproduced. The article occupied the first page in the edition, the honor page.

In reference to Empire Sinkler in the Mira Valley-Ord game no attempt was made by myself to anger the Mira Valley fans and players in regard to the specific game. At the time the Mira Valley people thought they were given a poor deal in umpiring but perhaps since they have had time to think it all over they can see where it might not have been the fault of the umpire.

The story about the local league appeared in the October 4 issue of the farm magazine.

Wagner, Pittsburgh shortstop, won eight titles. After Wagner came Jake Daubert, Brooklyn first-sacker, with two championships. And more recently, Rogers Hornsby, second baseman, ran away with six straight batting crowns as a member of the St. Louis Cardinals and captured a seventh as a member of the Boston Braves.

Wagner, Daubert and Hornsby titles combined give the National League infielders an edge over the outfielders.

So many are the phases in batting, however, that the awards as a rule are fairly evenly divided each season. For instance, Hack Wilson, colorful slugger of the Cubs, established new National League records for home runs and runs driven in and Chuck Klein of the Phils scored the most runs while Terry was winning the batting championship, he also tied the best record for total hits, established in 1929 by O'Doul at 264 safeties.

Simmons' average was the best in the American League, but he was beaten in total hits by Hodapp of Cleveland and Gehrig, both infielders. In addition, Lou's big bludgeon smashed out the hits to drive in the most runs. Home run honing again went to Babe Ruth, but he was beaten in the senior circuit, gained a second honor to go with his batting title by winning the runs scored championship.

What's New in Farming!

HYBRID CORN IS YIELDING WELL OVER NEBRASKA

Two Species, Nos. 110 and 111, Seem Best; Valley County, Test On Kokes Farm.

Corn variety tests over Nebraska and Valley county appear to be proving that Nebraska 110 and Nebraska 111 are the best producers for this year's experimental work, according to word sent out from the agricultural college today to the Quiz. The tests have been placed at fifteen different places over the state in an effort to determine the value of different common varieties and hybrid corns. The test in Valley county was on the Frank Kokes farm, west of Ord.

Though the agricultural college is not ready to recommend hybrid corn to Valley county farmers, it appears as though it is making good yields in the contests over the state. Both Nebraska 110 and 111 are hybrid strains. Many other common varieties were planted.

In viewing the variety yield tests, the first twenty stalks were shucked out to give a relative comparison between production. Numbers were picked along with the good ears and placed in front of the rows.

In the selection of the best varieties in the tests here in Valley county and elsewhere the type of stalk is being paid more attention than in past years. Crops Specialist Paul Stewart of the agricultural college believes the stalk will be a bigger factor in successful corn production with the coming of the corn picker. Varieties in the tests here tended to show a breaking over, making shucking bad.

The tests seem to prove that the smooth type of corn is better than the old rough type. Smooth corn is replacing the rough in most places because it yields better. In picking smooth corn, the farmers are finding that a good shank is needed to hold the ear on the stalk. Many varieties of corn possess shanks that allow the ears to break off before shucking time and thereby not allowing the corn to mature.

Similar tests on yields will probably be conducted here next year. County Agent Dale hopes to have some definite figures on yields on

A Peach, Two Melons

Big enough to pick off the patch with a derrick, these Arkansas-grown watermelons, weighing 130 and 155 pounds respectively, were recently shipped to a Los Angeles consumer. Pretty Ann Killore has more than her hands full, for each of the specimens she is holding would make, so it is claimed, 10 or 12 ordinary watermelons.

The tests here within the next three to four weeks when the corn will be shucked and weighed out.

Will Build New 4-H Structure At Lincoln

"Within another year, Nebraska will boast one of the best 4-H club buildings in the United States," Tri Tolen told the Quiz recently. "A trip will soon be made by some members of the board of managers to view similar structures at different southern states and we hope to get some good pointers from all." Work is expected to start this winter on the new building on the state fair grounds, according to Tolen who is vice-president of the board. The building will probably be placed somewhere near where the present club building stands.

Club work has increased so much in recent years that the board has found the present club building inadequate. The Ord member in favor of supporting club work and having best accommodations possible. As this is written it is not known whether Tolen will accompany the members of the Nebraska board on the southern trip to view other structures or not. Business may hold him at Ord.

Burch at Rooter's Day.
As an added attraction J. W. Burch of the University of Missouri will speak at Rooter's Day held at the agricultural college, October 17, according to word received this morning by the Quiz from Wm. J. Loeffel of the college who is in charge of the program. Loeffel declares Burch is a noted authority on pork production.

The Missouri man will speak on the most pork per bushel. In past years, speakers at Rooter's Day have discussed measuring pork by the most production per acre but the new term of measuring by the bushel is something out of the ordinary.

Wayne Coats On Way To Nebraska Dairy Calf Club Championship

Nebraska 4-H Dairy Calf Club champion in 1931 will probably be the goal attained next year by Wayne Coats, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Coats of Ord. Paul Rolfsmeier of Seward county is the state champ this year and young Coats is following in his footsteps. "Sure had a big time showing on the circuit this year," declares Wayne who returned home not long ago from a circuit including six county fairs in this section of the state. He had a herd of ten Jerseys the circuit that won their fair share of the major premiums against some of the strongest competition in the state.

Wayne started his dairy calf club career when he was ten years old. Now he is seventeen. Since joining a club, he has shown every year at the Valley county fair. Each time he showed, Wayne won a first. When but ten years old, he showed his club heifer at the Nebraska state fair.

"I was sure tickled when I won a first on her at Lincoln in the club class," Wayne declares enthusiastically. There he showed the heifer in the open class and won second. Again in 1929, Wayne showed at the state fair where he placed well against strong competition from many states. This year he went on a county fair circuit.

Wayne started his fair circuit this year at St. Paul where he en-

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

One cannot keep from admiring the H. B. Crouch family for being so optimistic in the face of misfortune. For several years Mr. Crouch has been crippled to such an extent that he can do no work on his sixty acre farm. As if this were not enough, his wife was struck by an auto last spring. It injured her so severely that only thru great determination and confidence has she been even partially able to get about. In spite of all such troubles Mrs. Crouch has cheerfully remarked, "We are not exceptionally unlucky; this is just simply our off year."

These unfortunate parents have received partial compensation from watching their children assume the responsibilities of running the farm. In the case of the Crouches, there was the garden, the poultry, and the housework for the sisters to attend to. Harley had the horses, cattle and hogs to care for, and the corn crop to plant and raise. These duties and many others were and are being performed by the Crouch children. They have been doing well, continuing their daily three-mile walk to and from high school and they have been doing them well.

During the past two years the writer has had considerable contact with Harley Crouch. This year has made some changes in him, the modesty, the perseverance, the patience, the drive and the keen mind that ranked him as an honor student are of course still evident; but a maturity of thought and a note of confidence gained thru a year of farm management have been added. "I expect to become a farmer," he says with a note of conviction.

Harley is no longer a boy, but a fine upstanding man with a definite ambition to realize it. As a youth on the farm he has done without many of the things which other lads think necessary—he has had no car, little time for athletics or recreation, and few of the many other things which boys desire. However, he is quite apt to succeed, either in spite of these conditions, or because of them.

Fill Silos Now, Says Agent Dale

This is the season of the year to fill the silo, whether it is a pit, trench or some type of above ground silo, County Agent Dale related to the Quiz this morning. There is no better place to put corn that will not mature than in a silo, besides silage is an economical feed whether the corn is going to mature or not. Dale further advises Valley county farmers.

In speaking of silage as an economical feed, Dale said that silage saved forty per cent of the corn crop that would otherwise be wasted. He added that corn gives twenty per cent more production per pound of feed when ensilaged as further proof of the value of silage. Further he stated that silage carries the succulent tonic of green pastures which makes it more eatable to livestock.

Dale says that silos house more tons of feed per dollar expended than any other buildings on the average farm in Valley county. Silage also provides the greatest number of tons of dairy feed from a single acre of ground.

The modern presumption is that silage does not make for an increased production of milk among dairy cows if fed on the silage. Dale, however, stated this morning that some experimental stations have reported that silage makes an increase in production of 128 gallons of milk per cow per year. This would be about $28 per cow when the milk is marketed at nineteen cents per gallon.

The wisdom of reserving lands for school purposes when Nebraska was opened for settlement is proved every year. The schools derive over a million dollars annually from leases of these lands.

farmers in Valley county may be finding their late corn the better this year.

The thing is that late corn will not always be the best yielder. Next year perhaps if the weather conditions are favorable the early corn may be better.

Another interesting thing about the tests at Papillion was the fashion after which many varieties tended to break over on the stalk. Possessing well filled out ears, the corn breaking over destroys a lot of the value because it makes shucking hard and with the mechanical picker coming on to more farms each year, it appears as though the variety that breaks over will have to be discarded. So it is with some varieties that the shank on the corn is not strong enough and in some cases the ears drop to the ground before maturing. With the mechanical picker it seems as though the shank on the varieties will have to be stronger than ever before.

The state statistician reports that the estimated yield of corn in Valley county will be thirty bushels. Whether that is a fair estimate is hard to determine. There are probably some fields that will exceed that acreage yield but again there are some that won't make that. The average production per acre in past year ranks a little above twenty-seven bushels here which would mean that the 1930 crop is above average years.

With the coming of the open pheasant season will probably be the influx of many Omaha and Lincoln people to this county to hunt the birds. As usual many of the city people migrate to Valley county for choice hunting. Last year they were greeted with "no hunting" signs on many farms. Wonder what the situation will be this year?

AM I RIGHT?

By Geo. Round, Jr.

At least I have one farm page booster over Valley county, Claude Roe of Ord, who has read from the University of Nebraska last spring. Claude believes the ag page is great stuff and that other farmers will come to realize it in time. This is evidence to the fact that at least one farmer reads the page each week.

Soon I hope to be able to get a little story from Wilber Zangger of North Loup about his soybean crop this year. He is one of a few Valley county farmers having acreage of soybeans this year and it should be interesting to find what results he got with his crop.

Valley county farmers who are under the opinion that there is no corn in eastern Nebraska are quite mistaken to my way of thinking. I was at a corn yield demonstration in Sarpy county last week and the corn looked fair there. One man Amos Gramlich has a field of hybrid corn that should average sixty bushel to the acre without a doubt.

Whether hybrid corn will out-yield common varieties is a fact not established but Gramlich has a wonderful field of the hybrid. The corn stands up well also. Gramlich has been growing some hybrid for the past two years.

It is doubtful if there are many farmers in Valley county who have any hybrid corn in this year in large acreages. Perhaps it is better, for experiments have not proved anything definite as yet and it is not being recommended over other varieties for common usage.

In presenting preliminary figures on corn production for the year, it seems possible that State Statistician Andersen may have erred a bit in certain parts of the state by placing the expected yield rather high. Corn looks different in the field than it does from the road and some yields may be cut considerably when it is shucked out.

Late corn appears to be the best this year if appearances of tests conducted in varieties over the state can be taken as a true indication of the condition of the crop. Corn planted the latter part of May seems to be yielding higher than that planted during the fore part of the month.

In the tests at Papillion comparison between the same varieties planted about May 5 and May 18 were made. The distinction was clear between the two planting dates, the latter planting looking like it would easily outyield the early corn. This same thing is probably true over the state and

CONSOLIDATED JANUARY 1, 1929, WITH THE ORD JOURNAL

THE ORD QUIZ, ORD, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1930.

VOL. 49 NO. 30

OPEN SEASON ON RINGNECKS BEGINS OCT. 23

Valley One of 23 Counties With Pheasant Open Season This Year; Birds Plentiful.

The most important time of year for lovers of upland hunting is about here again, for next Thursday, October 23, the annual ten-day open season on pheasants begins. October 23 to November 1, inclusive, are the dates for this year's season and hunters may kill four cocks and one hen pheasant daily. The birds are said to be plentiful this year.

Valley county is one of twenty-three Nebraska counties that will have pheasant open season this year. Others are Antelope, Boone, Burt, Cheyenne, Colfax, Cuming, Deuel, Dixon, Garden, Greeley, Holt, Howard, Keith, Knox, Madison, Merrick, Morrill, Pierce, Scottsbluff, Sherman, Stanton, and Wayne.

Garfield county pheasant hunters will have to do their shooting in Valley county this year, for county commissioners in the county to the north failed to petition to farms by outside hunters last year is said to be one reason why no open season was requested this fall. Wheeler and Loup counties are also on the taboo list.

The open season is always the signal for posting "no hunting" signs by many farmers who do not want their places invaded. These farms always form sanctuaries for the ring-necks but even so pheasants will lead a perilous life during the open season.

Chief Game Warden O'Connell announced recently that no additional game wardens would be employed for this period but he did say that his entire force would be concentrated for ten days in the twenty-three counties where pheasants may be shot. This information may serve as a damper on greedy hunters who seek to kill more game than the law allows.

Suggest Fort Hartsuff As Theater's Name

Writing this week in the Ord Oracle, official weekly publication of the Ord Rotary club, Clarence M. Davis, editor of the paper, suggests that the new theater being erected in Ord by M. Blemond be named "Fort Hartsuff" Theater. "Hartsuff" is a name which would be suitable and add local color, Mr. Davis suggests. Ord Rotarians are proud of the theater projected by Mr. Blemond, who is a Rotarian at Loup City. Jack Hoogenboezem, who manages the Edmond playhouse here is a member of the Ord club.

John Stoltenburg Returns.
John Stoltenburg, for several months laboratory technician for the Hillcrest Sanitarium, returned to Ord, Nebraska, last week. He is connected with the Ord Hospital, also doing work for other Ord doctors. He has a room in the Stark home. Mr. Stoltenburg left here to accept a position in Elkhart, Ind., but did not like the work and has since been staying in Sioux City. He is a competent technician and his presence in Ord makes this city even more efficient as a hospital and medical center.

F. J. Dent's Hand Badly Mangled

F. J. Dent, of Craig, Colo., may lose his right hand as the result of an accident on October 7, the Ord is informed by Ord relatives. While hauling a load of machinery for the Texaco Oil Company Mr. Dent caught his right hand beneath a heavy piece and his thumb was pulled off, the rest of the hand being badly mangled. Mr. and Mrs. Dent and their four small children moved to Craig from Ord a few months ago. Mrs. Dent is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kessler of this city.

Candidates Use Space

Candidates for state and Valley county offices are using Quiz space this week to invite the votes of their friends at the general election November 4. Only a couple of weeks remain before the fall election and it is time citizens were determining who to cast their votes for. Perhaps page thirteen of this week's Quiz will help. Read it carefully.

Improvements Made By Co-Op Oil Co.

The Ord Co-operative Oil company has improved its uptown station by the installment last week of a new automatic dial pump for common gasoline. Twenty gallons of gas can be dispensed by this pump without attention from filling station attendants. Manager Ben Janssen also announces that his company is installing a carload tank on the railroad for high test gasoline, which will henceforth be sold at the uptown station.

Stunt Ship Fails To Arrive, Crowd Is Disappointed

A large crowd assembled at the Ed Zikmund pasture northwest of Ord to attend an air circus last Friday afternoon was disappointed when the stunt plane owned by the Rapid Air Lines failed to arrive. Four planes were on the field, including a giant Ford plane and the tina Aerona Moth, and passengers were carried all afternoon. Two parachute jumps were made by a professional jumper with the company but no local person was permitted to make the hazardous leap as the wind was too high for safety. Several had applied for the privilege of jumping.

Later Ben S. Ferguson, manager of the show, learned that his stunt plane had been forced into the Lincoln airport for repairs but returned again at Columbus while enroute to Ord.

Moving pictures were taken at the flying field last Friday and they will be shown at the Gem Theater next Wednesday and Thursday, Mr. Hoogenboezem says.

GRAVEL SURFACE FOR THE SCOTIA TO ELBA ROAD

Bids to Be Opened, Contract Awarded at Letting On November 5th.

Considerable highway construction work is under way in the Loup valley country. The paving job at St. Paul fast is nearing completion, there are prospects of eliminating the last gap in surfaced roads between Ord and Grand Island, before the end of the year, and the road connecting Cotesfield and Scotia is being graded.

The St. Paul paving, which will be opened to traffic in a week or ten days, is an entirely new road and is 3.4 miles in length. Leaving the old road at the Bunker Hill station of the Union Pacific, the new paving parallels the tracks of the Union Pacific Ord branch, reducing the distance between this city and St. Paul by more than a mile. Shoulders are fifty percent completed.

A somewhat tedious job on this project has been the reconstruction of the bridge over the Loup river bridge, just south of St. Paul, which, however, has been kept open for accommodation of the motoring public at great inconvenience to the contractors and the state department of public works. Closing the bridge would involve detouring either by Dannebrog or Palmer. To keep it open, it has been and is necessary to close and open it at twenty minute intervals to permit construction and use of the bridge at the same time.

Of equal or more importance is the Elba-Scotia project, grading of which is progressing very satisfactorily. The state department of public works has advertised for bids on the gravel surfacing of this road and bids on this work will be opened and the contract awarded at a letting, to be held at Lincoln, on the fifth of November. Officials hope the gravel surfacing can be completed before the end of the year. It is this link which provides a surfaced road all the way from Ord to Grand Island.

Some difficulty has been encountered on the other project, a grading job between Cotesfield and Scotia, in the chalk hills. Solid rock has been encountered by the contractor and it has been necessary to resort to dynamite blasting operations to cut a highway through the hills.

Another state paving job has been accepted and opened to traffic at Central City. It connects city paving with the Lincoln highway paving between that city and Chapman.—Grand Island Independent.

CORNHUSKERS-- ENTER CONTEST NOW, SAYS DALE

Valley County Championship Will Be Held If Enough Interest Is Shown, Says Agent.

"If enough interest is shown by local huskers a county cornhusking contest will be held in Valley county early next month," says an announcement from the County agent's office.

Anyone wishing to enter the contest should enroll at once. Get your entries in, at the agents office, on or before October 20.

Boys and girls who are planning to join the 4-H Baby Beef club should try at once to locate their calves, says C. O. Dale, county agent. Now is the time to buy calves while they are still in the hands of the farmers or breeders who raised them, and they should be taken as soon as they are weaned and started on a grain ration, so they will not lose their milk fat.

Those who are planning to join for the first time should get in touch with the county agent or with Mott Rathbun or Clare Clement, club leaders. Any boy or girl who desires assistance in selecting a calf should make their wants known at once.

Heavy Rain Saturday, Light Frost Monday

Rainfall totalling 1.78 inches in Ord and more than 3 inches in North Loup fell Saturday night and early Sunday morning. A decided drop in temperature followed and Monday morning a light frost was reported in some localities.

W. A. Anderson tells the Quiz that the thermometer registered only 34 degrees at his home early Monday morning but lower temperatures were reported from other neighborhoods. The frost was not heavy enough to damage flowers and garden vegetables.

Another rain of 4.8 inches fell shortly after noon Wednesday and as this was written last evening more rain seemed probable. The moisture is very unpopular with farmers who have been hoping for dry, frosty weather so they can get into the corn fields.

Haystack Accident Victim Passes Away

Charles Rother, 49-year-old Scotia farmer who was seriously hurt six weeks ago when he fell from a haystack, passed away early last Saturday morning at a local hospital where he had been since the accident. Several vertebrae in his back were broken but he was thought to be recovering. Mr. Rother is survived by his wife and sons. He was one of Greeley county's best known and most prosperous farmers.

Death Parts Twin White Brothers After 58 Years

Death severed a Damon and Pythias bond that had existed for fifty-eight years without a disrupting quarrel when Orville T. White, for many years a resident of Ord, succumbed to tuberculosis last Wednesday at his home in Denver. He leaves his twin brother, Scaville White, also a former Ord man.

Orville and Norville White came to Ord when young men and lived here for many years, being in the saloon business for a time. Later they moved to Grand Island and more recently to Denver, where Orville passed away.

All their lives the two brothers kept a joint bank account and were unusually close to each other in other ways. Denver newspapers say they looked so much alike that friends had difficulty in telling them apart but Ord people who knew them well said while they were similar in appearance there were many differences that enabled a person seeing them often to tell them apart.

Twenty-eight years ago he was married in Ord to Miss Grace Rasset and about thirteen years ago they moved to a farm near Mitchell. Besides his widow and his parents, Mr. Morris is survived by nine children, Mrs. Thelma Labertue, Vern Morris and Keene Morris, all of whom live in or near Mitchell, and Donald, Elsie, Willard, Waldo, Carroll and Audrey Morris, who are still at home. MANY CHANGES MADE IN WAYS OF CORN PICKING Mechanical Pickers Let Farmer Finish Work Before Bad Weather Delays It.

One of the most impressive of the many recent changes in farm life heretofore is to be observed at corn-picking time, according to A. J. Meyer, dealer in John Deere farm machinery in Ord.

A few years ago, says Mr. Meyer, it was not unusual to see a farmer or his helper picking corn well into the winter, oftentimes when snow would be lying around. The farmer did his corn-picking by the slow and laborious hand method, and bad weather often further delayed the work, so that the job frequently was not completed until after winter had set in.

A comparatively little of that obtains now, Mr. Meyer says. The mechanical corn picker has been supplanting the old method so rapidly that hand-picking on a great number of farms is only a memory. Nowadays the farmer goes into his field with the corn-picker—drawn by tractor or horse—and gets the job done in a fifth or sixth of the time required for hand-picking. Usually the work is finished long before bad weather comes to make delays.

Mechanical corn pickers have been so rapidly improved, says Mr. Meyer, that the latest model leaves practically no work for the farmer other than driving a tractor. With this newest method, he says, corn picking and loading become strictly a one-man job. Tractor, corn-picker and wagon become a unit and operate as such as the farmer drives down the rows.

Apparently corn picking, at one time among the hardest jobs on the farm, has been reduced to little more than a ride on a tractor. With elevator equipment at the crib every the job of unloading is a thing of the past.

MODERN SCHOOL METHODS BETTER, IRMA BELIEVES

Bear Direct Relation to Every Day Living, She Finds In First Visit to School.

By IRMA ELLIS LEGGETT

Quietly slipping into the back of a room in the junior high school which I knew to be conducted by Miss Elizabeth Lukesh, I found her busily helping the boys and girls solve their problems in higher mathematics. She was supervising their study period, and I was surprised to learn that the boys worked on one set of arithmetic puzzles and the girls on an entirely different set of problems. Thus the girls were busy at a recipe that was sufficient to serve ten, but must be increased to serve 35 persons. And fixing up the recipe was not as simple as it seemed for the amounts of proteins, carbohydrates, and fats had to be computed separately on a percentage basis. And the decimals and points and zeros that it took!

Among the girls trying to fix up this recipe I had to look and look again to find any of my little friends. These girls and boys are growing and changing and getting nicer looking every day, and quite different-looking than the children of two or three years ago. I did manage to sort out Ruth Elizabeth Koupal, and Charlotte Blessing, but I couldn't recognize any of the boys.

Miss Lukesh moved very calmly and quietly about, giving a little phrase of encouragement here and there, stopping to sidetrack a train of thought occasionally, and to put it on some new track. Now and then she suggested, then moved on and left the young person in question to puzzle over her meaning, and to find the true solution.

The work that kept the boys scratching their heads was regarded as very interesting to see the amount of seed a cultivator would take to do so and so. You know the kind. On the blackboards were graphs illustrating rates of interest, principal, etc., and beside them would be a neat line-up of $5,000 at 0 1/2% equal $25, $4,000 at 1/2% equal $180, and so on. All the current rates of interest were there! Other graphs showed gas rates, and illustrated various other items of modern business. And questions on the board asked about vertical and horizontal graphs, etc. It was very interesting to see that the problems bore such direct relation to those of actual living.

Going to school is quite changed. Out in the corridor a huge health poster showed small cartoons illustrating the laws of health. One picture said beside it: "Here are the laws of health. To break them is a crime against the State of Well Being." Down below that cartoon the next one declared: "The law breaker is usually caught in the act by Policeman Sickness. The act was standing in a puddle of water!"

And the caption of the next cartoon below: "The Policeman takes him at once to Judge Doctor for examination." And the next: "Judge Doctor examines the offender and immediately passes judgment." "Usually the sentence is very severe, such as days and days in bed—with castor oil."

TWO BOYS FIND LIFELESS BODY OF T. McCOWEN

North Loup Man Evidently Fell Dead From Heart Disease While Hauling Sand.

North Loup, Oct. 14—(Special)—Death came suddenly on Friday morning to Thomas J. McCowen of North Loup as he was hauling home a load of sand across the creek bridge just east of the village. His lifeless body was found by one of the Drawbridge boys and a companion. Dr. Hemphill was immediately called, but it was apparent that death had been instantaneous caused by sudden heart failure and he had evidently fallen on the wagon when he attacked seized him. The McCowens moved to the village about a year ago, buying and greatly improving the Marks place just south of the village limits. Here the deceased lived with his wife, and his son and family.

Thomas J. McCowen was born near Clarinda, Ia., on November 17, 1872, and passed away at North Loup on October 10-1920, aged 57 years, 10 months, and 23 days. He was married to Josephine Walters on January 20, 1895, and to this union was born one son, Frederick, who with his mother survived. The McCowens came to Nebraska in 1924 and lived thirty miles north of Burwell until they came to North Loup, a little more than a year ago. Beside the wife and son, the deceased leaves three sisters, Mrs. George Buffington, of Villisca, Ia., Mrs. Myrtle Gage, of Columbus Junction, Ia., and Mrs. Nora Hall of New Market, Ia. There remain four half brothers and two half sisters. There is also one young grandson.

Funeral services were held at two o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Seventh Day Baptist church in charge of Rev. W. McCarthy, pastor of the Christian church at Ord. Mrs. Harold Hoepfner and Mrs. G. A. Schwabauer sang. The pallbearers were Geo. Round and Henry Marks of Ord, A. L. Willoughby, Hugh Adams and Hubert Weese of North Loup and A. J. Fraze of Burwell. Interment was in the North Loup cemetery.

The three sisters of the deceased from Iowa were, with their husbands, in attendance at the funeral, and also Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Fraze, living north of Burwell, the parents of Mrs. Fred McCowen. Potatoes Then and Now.

On the editorial page of last Sunday's Journal, among the items listed "Forty Years Ago Today" was one which read "Potatoes were selling at Arcadia at $1.50 per bushel. The previous year they had sold for fifteen cents per bushel."

Makes us wonder if these prices move in forty year cycles as $1.50 per bushel seems to be the prevailing price of potatoes in Arcadia this year.

THIS IS THE WAY TO GIVE CHILDREN CANDY!

Candy is a splendid energy food for children. And how they love it! Properly given, it is easily digested, and rich in quick energy so needed by them.

Give children candy after meals—as dessert. In this way they will eat as much as they should—not too much. Too, candy after meals will keep normal children from munching between meals.

STRONG'S GROCERY

THE CANDY you eat for pleasure is a marvelously useful food

Candy lovers, have you ever thought of candy as a remarkably useful, wholesome food? Candy is so appetizing, so ingratiating that we forget it plays the serious role of supplying us with resistance and strength to carry on.

The scientists tell us that candy, which all of us eat because it delights our palate and tickles our taste, is a food that supplies a great bodily need. Contrary to popular opinion, it is very quickly and easily digested. For of all the foods that we eat, sugar is most ready to be burned in the body as fuel. And besides sugar, candy contains chocolate, milk, nuts, fruits, and other wholesome essential foods.

Farmers Grain & Supply Co.

CANDY is a remarkable food as well as a pleasure

Unless you are a dietician, you've probably never thought of candy as a food. Candy is so pleasant, so delicious that you naturally think of it as a mere treat.

Yet, candy is one of our best sources of quick energy. Most of the work you do is performed by virtue of burning sugar in some form in your body. So candy, which contains a large proportion of sugar, in addition often to such various ingredients as chocolate, fruits, nuts and milk, is a remarkable food for supplying us with quick energy.

Try this: Just before one of your fatigue-perfected, eat a piece or two of candy. You will be surprised and delighted to find you are not so tired as usual.

CANDY IS GOOD FOR CHILDREN

It's natural that children should crave candy. Their active bodies consume enormous amounts of energy that candy helps to supply in a form they all love. You can safely let your children have candy. It is a delicious, wholesome food. Merely take care to avoid excess (this is true of all they eat) and see that they get the other foods necessary to health and growth. Many mothers prefer to give their children candy after meals or as a dessert. Then they can have all they want.

ED F. BERANEK Druggist

say candy is valuable food as well as a sweet that thrills our palate.

Candy, being for the most part sugar, is one of our best sources of quick energy. More than half of the driving energy of men, women and children comes from sugar. That's why athletes in training now regularly use sugar in some form—candy or other.

Candy is good for all of us and especially for those who work hard and play hard.

McLAIN & SORENSEN

HARD WORKING MEN and women instinctively turn to candy, as they should, when they begin to feel fatigue.

Eat a piece just before it's time for you to get tired and notice the difference in the way you feel.

Candy, so good to eat, is good for you, too!

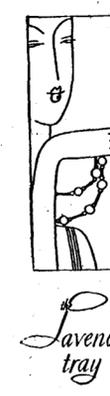

Our box candy line includes Mrs. Stover's candies, 40c for 1/2 lb. and 80c for lb. Also Woodward's and Gillen's Candies of all kinds at a variety of prices.

"Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by
The men who are good and the men who are bad
As good and as bad as I
I would not sit in the scorners' seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban,
Let me live in the house by the side of the road and be a friend to man."—S. W. Foss.

The weather of late seems to be somewhat averse to our Sunday program. We are hoping for one Sunday without muddy roads to know if all our country people are coming in to morning services. Probably not as the Sunday school attendance was cut down last Sunday to 156. However, we can't complain as there was fine attendance at both worship services last Sunday.

And you should see the large group that gather for the Epworth League service at 6:30. More chairs will be needed. One reason is the service is very interesting. The orchestra will play again next Sunday evening. And the prelude with which the service begins at 7:30 will have the added interest of a special vocal number sung by a mixed quartette. The sermon Sunday night will be on "The Science of Human Life."

Any kind of business can not reach its highest degree of success unless those working in it have good health and the project reasons of the program club this year are to keep the home makers to grow a healthy family so that the business of the home will run smoothly.

Elyria Project Club
This club wants the community to know that anyone may join without waiting for a special invitation. Just come to our first meeting on Friday October 17, 7:45 p. m. at the Elyria hall.

A great many women slave and save to make the family purse fat and then turn around and pay a large share of it to the doctor.

To state briefly, this years club work is the study of foods for health. We will score ourselves to learn in which health practices we are wrong. We will study the good points of a healthy, live child just as a good stock raiser does an animal. We also will study and make healthful sweets and school lunches.

There is a little time at any of our club meetings for gossip or visiting since the time is crowded full of information that will help us in our business as home makers.

Big 4 Broadcaster

VOL. 1 THURSDAY, OCTOBER 16. NO. 5

Home is where we are treated best and grumble the most.

Don't resort to tears if you're wanting some new clothes—there isn't much left to cry for.

It's anybody's privilege to buy out of town but if the home town merchant can offer the same quality at the same price be ought to get first chance don't you think?

No expense is spared in making Ord's Big 4. That's why it is so unusually good.

After watching some of the reckless driving that is being done here in Ord we wonder that more accidents don't happen.

Big 4 Pancake Flour is the best breakfast for the whole family.

Won't it be fine when we have the water from the Loup watering our farms when the growing crops need it. A chance for everyone to become interested and now is the time.

"Doctor" asked the young lady, "do you think my vaccination scar will show?" "Not if you are careful!"

Mrs. J. D. Tedro says that she has used Ord Milling Co. flour for 25 years—and always good. She believes in Ord and practices her belief.

There are some fine stores in Ord. You can almost always get what you want here or have it gotten for you, and we have found that the prices are better than out of town.

We want this space to be useful. If you have any announcements, parties, sales, box suppers, anything let us know and we will see that you get some free publicity.

Miss Elva Bloodgood Tells Reporter About Summer In Europe

Miss Elva Bloodgood, music instructor in the Ord high, spent her summer in Europe.

She left New York on June 6th on the steamship Majestic. Miss Bloodgood and her friend Martha Christensen went ahead of their party in order to visit Denmark. On their trip back to Paris they took an airplane part of the way. Miss Bloodgood said that landing at Paris in an airplane made them feel like Lindbergh.

At Paris they joined the rest of the party. The main stops on the rest of the trip are as follows: Marseilles, Alexandria, Cairo, Beirut, Constantinople, Athens, Naples, Rome, Florence, Venice, Lucerne, Oberammergau, Weisbad, Brussels, The Hague, London, Liverpool and Montreal. They landed at Montreal August the thirty-first.

Miss Bloodgood said the most interesting part of the trip was Cairo and the Holy Land.

She said New Cairo, where the English are building is pretty and modern, but she did not like it. It had its narrow, winding, crowded streets with men and boys sleeping all along. There were many beggars. Many of these had sore eyes or some other ailment.

There were the bazaars where one can buy anything from meat to a dress. Everything is lying out open to many flies.

The older people were dressed in their characteristic costumes, the men with their long flowing robes and fezes on their heads. The young men wore fezes also but European clothing. The women, long dresses that swept the street and heavy veils.

They visited a museum where many of the things taken from King Tut's tomb are kept. They also saw the Sphinx and the Pyramids. At the big Pyramids was a fellow who would climb to the top of it in seven minutes for twenty-five cents. And it is 451 feet high.

The guide they had kept begging for a tip until they told him they wouldn't even pay him, if he didn't keep still. Then he began to tell them about the sights.

Later the guide told about a wedding celebration that was taking place. He said the bride was quite old, in fact about nineteen years. The celebration was then in its third and last night. Since it was open to everyone and especially to Americans Miss Bloodgood and her friend decided to go.

The celebration took place in a tent in the center was an open place for the dance. The men sat around this in a circle. The women sat in a circle around the outside. The entertainment was much like a vaudeville. There were clowns, acrobats, plays, songs and talks. After this they were served coffee in small cups.

Later they went to the bride and groom. They found the bride to be a pretty young lady and the groom a nice young fellow who spoke English fluently.

On the way to the Holy Land, Miss Bloodgood's pullman car was stranded in the desert. They had only thirty cents until they got to Jerusalem. They made it.

The main street in David is a cobbled street. Another very interesting thing in Jerusalem is the walling wall. This wall was built by the Romans. The Jews go there to pray. They weep and moan and groan. It is really a sort of a mecca to the Jews.

They also went to the Garden of Gethsemane, the Mount of Olives, the Dead Sea, River Jordan, Bethlehem and Nazareth. Bethlehem, Miss Bloodgood says, is a very pretty little village with its flat-topped houses. The country was dotted with churches and shrines. At Nazareth was a shrine over the carpenter shop.

Since Palestine is a backward country, it remains much like it in the time of Christ. The farming is carried on in primitive ways. However only a small part of the land is farmed. Most of it is grazed by sheep.

Ord people will be interested in knowing that Mrs. Carrie Marie Curtis was one of the party. Miss Marjorie Hostetter was also traveling in Europe, but although she was making many of the same stops, she was ahead of Miss Bloodgood and consequently never saw her.

COACH HOFFMAN LEAVES
Henry Hoffman, who has been here coaching the Ord football squad for the last three weeks, while Coach Joe Krejci has been recovering from an appendicitis operation, left from St. Paul for his home in Lincoln Friday afternoon after the game there.

Three weeks ago a new man made his appearance here in Ord to take the place of the regular coach who was in the hospital recovering from an appendicitis operation. This man was Henry Hoffman. He worked well with the team. There was some advantage in that he played two years of football with Coach Krejci at Peru Normal. The past spring he received his degree but was unable to get a school this fall. Last fall he was chosen an all-conference end of the Nebraska Conference of Colleges. His plans for this fall are not definitely known with the exception of officiating at high school football games near Lincoln.

SQUARE PEGS AND ROUND HOLES
Square pegs often shift about in round holes for the very noblest of motives. "Never say die," says the girl who has found that she is a member of the basketball team, when she might have made good playing hockey.

Some people have made their lives most unhappy by persisting in a job for which they are not in the least fitted. "I've chosen this thing for a career," they say, "and I'll see it through." With such courage and determination, no one could be a complete failure, but if the same energy had been directed along a channel where definite talent and ability were shown, they might have been top-notch, instead of mediocre.

There is no doubt that success comes in most things by "sticking to it." But be certain that you are sticking to the right thing. Perhaps you have a yearning to be class president, or teach, or write.

If you want to do the thing for the sake of the thing itself, you will probably find that you can do it fairly well, and like it. But if you want to be a class president, because it will give you prestige, or write because it's nice to see your name in print, or teach because you think it is an easy way to earn a living, you will very likely become bored and indifferent, and consequently inefficient.

Yes, when you find that you are a square peg the best thing to do is to find a square hole. Perhaps you will have to destroy a dream picture of yourself as what you expected to be—being elected by the school for winning a race, or of yourself bowing to an admiring audience, but the next picture will be better because it will be real.

Methodist Ladies Entertain Teachers

The Methodist Ladies Aid gave a reception for the teachers of the Ord City schools and their new minister, Rev. W. H. Wright, in the Methodist church basement, Tuesday night, October 7.

The decorations were of autumn colors. The lighting effects were obtained by many floor lamps at intervals about the room. Many beautiful bouquets were placed in various positions around the basement.

In order that the people might be mixed more thoroughly different advertisements were cut up as puzzles and each person given one piece. The advertisements were then put together.

As in all receptions the teachers as well as the minister and his wife, were lined up in one long line and everyone went around and met them. Following this was some group singing. The songs, which were old favorites, were of mimeographed sheets. A musical program followed that which consisted of vocal numbers by Elwin Auble, saxophone solos by the new bandmaster, Prof. Toenniges and a piano duet by Mrs. Glen Auble and Mrs. Kirby McGrew. These numbers were very enjoyable.

A light lunch of ice cream and cake followed this delightful program. After the lunch more community singing followed and finally the crowd broke up.

Athletics

St. Paul vs. Ord.
The St. Paul-Ord football game was a thriller from the first to the last. The score was 7-0 in favor of St. Paul.

The line up for Ord was as follows: Rodney Stoltz-Center; Gregg, Hansen and Malolepszy-Guards; Finch, Benda and Lashmet-Ends; Bill Garnick-Quarter; Hughes, Klein and Steinwart-Half backs; Charles Barnhart-Full back.

The first quarter St. Paul made a touchdown and got their extra point which gave them seven points. Then there was a struggle for the rest of the quarter, trying to prevent Ord from scoring a touchdown. The first quarter began, Bill Garnick was fine in carrying the ball through the line. Charles Barnhart was good in tackling. Benda and Barnhart both got black eyes. Finch was caught by his arm, swung around and landed on the side of his head. He was put out for a while. After those mishaps our men were fighters. St. Paul almost got to their goal line but the Ord men pushed them back. The quarter was called. The last half was a fiercely fought battle with neither side scoring. It ended the St. Paul-Ord football game with the score still 7-0 in favor of St. Paul.

Ord vs. Burwell.
Ord outplayed the Burwell second team winning by a margin of 20 to 12.

The Ord boys came from behind to win, after they were trailing at the half time 12 to 0. Both teams played hard, clean football. Barnhart twice crossed the goal line and Don Lashmet crossed it once, which accounted for the other score.

Twenty-five Ord players saw action and all reported that they wanted more score than they got.

The boys who played are: B. Zulkoski, H. Garnick, S. Barnhart, C. Cochran, D. Worden, R. Vodchal, C. Blessing, C. Hansen, M. King, B. Boquet, K. Nutter, D. Barnhart, E. Benda, K. McGinnis, H. Michels, F. Rathban, Joe Ulrich, C. Sumnison, D. Strong, Allen, A. Psota, B. Hughes, T. Furtak, E. Strong, Don Lashmet.

CONVOICATIONS
Wednesday morning, October 8, during convocation Mr. Cass announced the coming of five aeroplanes which furnished a great deal of excitement Friday afternoon. A series of parachute jumps was performed.

Miss Bloodgood had charge of the vocal music. The whole student body participated in the singing of the following good old songs: America the Beautiful, Dixie, Row, Row, Row Your Boat and a Merry Life.

Mr. Glen Auble then introduced Mr. Toenniges our new band master, who played two beautiful selections on his saxophone. That his music was highly appreciated was proven by the applause he received. After these selections were given Supt. Bell explained the music program Mr. Toenniges is planning for our school.

A short "Pep Rally" closed the meeting for the day. Our cheer leaders certainly deserve credit for the way they conducted the rally. Friday morning Oct. 10, the Juniors put on a convocation for the high school.

They presented an imitation television drama representing the football game between Ord and St. Paul played at St. Paul Friday afternoon. Our cheer leaders then led the High School in a number of school yells.

GIRL RESERVE
The topic of the next Girl Reserve meeting is "Vocation." Esther Zulkoski is going to lead. There will be special talks by Miss Bloodgood, Miss Frederickson, and Miss Hardin. There is going to be one special musical number.

Junior High Notes
The eighth grade has started studying the Geography of Nebraska, with special reference to the rock layer and soils of Valley country.

The Seventh and Eighth grade art classes are completing their vases which they have been making. They have used the six standard colors, and some of the vases are very artistically decorated.

Last Thursday afternoon immediately after dismissal Miss Haisda took the pupils of her room on a hike. This merry group hiked until they were tired, then they partook of the lunch that was taken with them. The hikers returned home about five-thirty.

Grade School Notes.
The little folks are studying different kinds of butterflies. They bring them to school and put them in glass jars.

The room has very pretty fall decorations. The second grade girls and boys are having a contest to see which side can pass with the best order.

The girls are ahead. They are also having examinations in numbers and the girl and boy with the most right gets a silver star. They are studying color charts and are learning the names of the months.

The third grade has been studying about Africa and for their sandtable projects they made an oasis. They have been having a spelling contest with which there were twenty perfect papers out of thirty-three. They made a field trip to the park taking their lunch and looking for butterflies and bird nests. They are making health posters and are trying to get out of the habit of eating candy.

The Fourth grade have just finished their time tables. In reading they are taking a small paper called "Weekly Reader". There are questions in the back of the paper to be answered. In art they are drawing pictures of trees and landscapes. They took a field trip and found many different kinds of butterflies and bird nests.

Fifth and sixth grades have been doing very interesting work in language. They have had projects on Indians, lumber, trees, buildings and tractors. The platform in the front of the room is a portrayal of Indian life. There are birch bark canoes on lakes, clay pottery made by the pupils, bows and arrows, field of pumpkins, a corn grinder and people. The project will be on airplanes with an airport as the sand table project.

Physical Education in Junior High
Physical Education has been advancing rapidly in the Junior high school.

The Junior High boys show a great interest in their physical education program.

The first fifteen minutes are devoted to Calisthenics and the next twenty or thirty minutes are devoted to play, in which the boys are placed on different teams, and this affords competition among the boys.

The boys are then given fifteen minutes for their showers and to get ready for their next classes. We are certain the boys will profit greatly, and their results will be noticeable.

Miss Haisda's Physical Education classes are rapidly advancing in their work.

The first part of their period is devoted to calisthenics, while the last part is taken up by games and relay races.

The girls are all enjoying these classes and we are certain they are profiting by it greatly.

THE ORD QUIZ

By H. D. Leggett

The last time I had a visit with a prominent newspaper man of the state he laughed about a list of errors that his shop had made for a certain advertiser. He said it seemed as though they couldn't print an advertisement for that man without making a mistake. We in the Quiz office have had a good deal of the same experience with ads for Fred Coe and last week when I noticed that we advertised keller peas instead of pears for him I remembered the talk with my friend. I presume a good many who read the Coe par at latched and I don't suppose Fred was injured a bit but I know he is going to come in and jump all over me for it, unless I happen to see him before he gets to the door, in which case he is not going to find me in.

There are a lot of republicans in Nebraska who think they are bigger than the party. In fact, they seem to think they are the party. They don't want to allow the majority to rule unless the majority happens to agree with them. I am wondering what a party is, anyhow. Is it a handful of self appointed leaders or is it the voters who go to the polls and vote a certain way? In the late primary no doubt a bunch of democrats voted for Norris. So did a bunch of republicans vote in the democrat primary for Hitchcock. There are no one who promises to say that enough democrats voted in the republican primary to control the election on senator. Then a majority of the republicans wanted Norris and the majority in any party, lodge or sewing society should rule. And all good republicans who vote for the whole ticket next month. I for any man has a perfect right to have a preference in the primary. Personally I preferred Hardenbrook because he was my friend and neighbor and had long patronized me in a business way and further because I thought he was competent to fill the position of attorney general but I had no quarrel with any man who didn't agree with me and supported Sorensen. He is also my friend. I do think now, however, that all republicans should support Mr. Sorensen.

I had as nice visit the other day with Mr. Matzen who is seeking to again become state superintendent. He held the office a few years ago but was defeated for reelection by the present incumbent. I told him frankly that he would have a hard job defeating Mr. Taylor, the present incumbent, who is seeking a second term and who has, I believe, given good satisfaction in the office.

Two well known farmers gave me a slant on the years crop the other day. One was Charley Stuchler who had just returned from a visit with his children in Missouri. He said they dried out down there this year and had a very poor crop. He said the best crop he saw anywhere was right here in Valley county. The other man was Joseph Ptacnik who lives in Ord. Mr. Ptacnik farmed for many years and knows crops when he sees them. He had just returned from a few days spent in the western part of the country where he lived so many years and where he still has large land holdings. He says the crops in Valley county this year are the best he has seen in 25 years. Surely we should be happy this year with such good crops.

But there is always a fly in the ointment. The way has gone out over the country that central Nebraska is the garden spot this year and from all parts of the world are coming salesmen and grafters, seeking to harvest the money that the farmers of this section will make this year. I want to warn the readers of this column to be watchful. Be sure you want what is offered before putting your name on the dotted line and when you sign be sure you know just what you are signing and that you are going to get what you pay for. It is always a lot easier to spend money than it is to make it and it

Radio-Equipped Cars Enable Police To Nab Criminals in Minute's Time

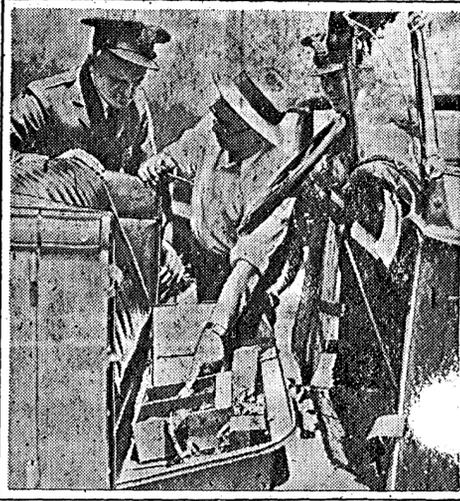

LESS than three years ago, when the Detroit police department placed an automobile on the street equipped with a radio-receiving apparatus with which it might receive reports of crime, police in other parts of the country looked upon the innovation as an interesting experiment rather than an infallible method of nabbing criminals.

Today, they have changed their minds. And it was what they had heard from Detroit that persuaded them. They had heard that a radio car had reached the scene of a murder in time to catch the slayer; that another had arrived at a home in time to arrest a burglar; that another had drawn up to a bank in time to surprise the robber and that another had reached a river in time to haul out a man and revive him.

How It Works

How does the system work? Consider the one at Pasadena. The central station has the only transmitting apparatus used. It operates on short wave. Receivers are placed beneath seats of the patrol cars and these cruise the city day and night. The radio apparatus in the cars is in operation constantly. When a frantic citizen calls for help, giving an address, the officer in charge ascertains which of the prowler cars is nearest the address. He then informs the radio operator to communicate with that car identified by a number. The operator picks up a microphone from his desk and instructs the car to proceed at once to the scene of the crime. The car driver gets his instructions from the loud speaker over the windshield.

A description of how a criminal was caught in Detroit was recently graphically presented by a writer as follows: "Down a dimly lighted Detroit street slips a purring cruiser. The four men in the car are scanning passing and parked cars . . . they are also on the alert for suspiciously acting persons, or known or wanted criminals. . . The city is comparatively quiet after the confusion of the day. On rolls the cruiser. "Swiftly comes the change. A voice rings out. It is tense, crisp, clear. "No. 10 cruiser!" The members of the crew stiffen. "A patrolman in the rear seat leans toward the car's loud speaker. "No. 10 cruiser," the voice repeats. "La Salle and Taylor! Burglar!" "The cruiser leaps to life. Away it speeds toward the intersection named. The voice continues: "No. 10 cruiser! Burglar at La Salle and Taylor. Neighbor will show you the house." "On roars the cruiser. . . On the corner a man is waiting. The cruiser slides to a halt. The figure is a constant fight to keep what we get after we get it.

I got a good calling down the other day for allowing a citizen to use the Public Pulse department but I was not entitled to the calling down. The Public Pulse department is a time honored department of this paper and it is for anyone to use who comes with his honest opinions and writes like a gentleman. Sometimes we have to submit copy to our attorney and later decline to publish but anyone can get his or her views into the Public Pulse department who desires to do so, on most any subject. We would not tolerate a religious discussion because that would be useless but any public matter may be discussed by either side of the controversy so long as it is done in a proper manner.

Just to keep history straight, this is the 10th. of October and so far there has been no frost to amount to anything. The tenderest flowers are still blooming like in June, the duck hunters are growling because it don't turn cold and the merchants who handle winter clothing are cussing (under their breath) because it is so warm. The coal dealers can't interest people in buying coal and the ice man is sore because it is not hot enough to make his business rushing.

Lincoln Chief Believes Young Folks Fine Lot

LINCOLN—The flame of youth is only a healthy glow and the story about young folks going to the bow-wows is mostly a mythical yarn. At least that is the way Walter S. Anderson, acting chief of police in Lincoln, feels after more than a decade of experiences with the University of Nebraska's horde of 6,800 students. Chief Anderson, who recently has been appointed to reorganize Lincoln's police force has seen the "bad side" of college life at his ten years as captain of detectives. But the "bad side," Chief Anderson says, is not so bad. And there is very little of it. In a car load of apples, he points out, there is bound to be a few bad ones. In a student body of 6,800 the same holds true. The few students he has dealt with, he says, have been those unable to adjust themselves to a large university and freshmen who failed to assume the responsibilities of college life.

Young people today, however, are fundamentally the same as always, the new Lincoln chief believes. In many respects he finds they are better. They are frank, more sincere and open in all they do, he says. Liquor is not a problem at the university as far as the police department is concerned, Anderson asserted. He has observed far less drinking among students since prohibition than before it, and believes the eighteenth amendment has been an effective curb on liquor. Coeds, Chief Anderson thinks, are just as fine as the old fashioned girls of thirty years ago. They are exhibiting a new spirit of independence but they will make just as good wives and mothers as their own mothers, he says. In fact, he believes, they will do better.

I like the way the young people of today are thinking and acting," he declared. "Whatever they do is not done with a malicious spirit or in an underhanded manner. They come out in the open and stand for their convictions, right or wrong.

"Certainly the parents of tomorrow will be more alert than the fathers and mothers of today simply because of this period they have gone through," Chief Anderson continued. "Parents of tomorrow won't be easily fooled. Children won't be able to put anything over on them. And those children will be fine children, because these young folks know the problems youth faces in a modern world."

Nebraska has one rural school just outside Omaha, called Ash land Park, that has an enrollment of 600 pupils out of 1,081 children of school age residing in the district.

Nebraska has an official state flag. It is a field of royal blue edged with gold fringe and containing the state seal in the center in gold and silver.

University Adds To Musical Equipment

Lincoln, Nebr.—Greatly improved facilities for the instruction of music and musical appreciation have been recently provided for the state university through the purchase of the University School of Music, located immediately adjoining the city campus in Lincoln. The new addition to the University organization was established in 1894 by private enterprise, with the encouragement of University authorities, to provide a means whereby training in music might be offered to those interested. For the next sixteen years, according to University authorities, the music school was affiliated with the University, but the ties were severed in 1911 and since that time they have been entirely separate institutions. Since the division, the University has added some work in the field of music, but the purchase of the school of music will add greatly to the caliber of the work offered. The purchase price was $100,000 according to Chancellor E. A. Burnett, of which but $10,000 was cash. The balance will be paid from the earnings of the school. The building will be connected with the University heat and power plant within the near future. "The University of Nebraska has long been interested in the development of musical instruction for its students," stated the chancellor recently. "The regents thought this an opportune time to take a forward step in this field."

The hot flashes disappeared and I no longer suffer from headaches. I look upon my former miserable condition as a thing of the past. I am glad to recommend Konjola to my friends."

One bottle of Konjola lasts a week and a trial of from four to eight weeks costs little enough when the benefits are considered. Begin today to give this master medicine a real trial.

Boarding Club for Ag College Boys
Is Latest Thing at State University

A boarding club, the latest thing at the agricultural college, University of Nebraska! The first ever organized at that institution.

Boys going to the college of agriculture want to save money for themselves and their parents. They have found that the organization of a boarding club is helping. Jobs are scarce in Lincoln this school year and the boys felt that they could save money on food if in no other way. Boys coming to school who had no jobs for meals could join the boarding club and the plan was hatched early this fall by Ralph Copenhagen, sophomore at the college from Syracuse, Neb. "It seemed like a plan whereby we could buy the food, hire the cook, and save money on our meals," he told me recently. "We have just a good bunch of congenial boys."

Organization of the club was made early this fall when students started coming back to school. The plan met the approval of every student approached and it wasn't long until twenty members had been signed up, although there is actually no signing up to do.

With Mrs. E. T. Wilson of 4631 Holdrege street as the cook, the club got into operation early this week and the boys are now eating at her home. She has a full basement where the tables are set. Breakfast and dinner are served. On Sunday she serves dinner at one and lunch in the evening. Mrs. Wilson leaves her tables open from seven to eight in the mornings for breakfast and dinner is served at 6:30 in the evening during football season and at 8 after the season closes, since many of the boys go out for football.

Mrs. Wilson furnishes the dishes, the linen, the room—in fact everything but the food for the boys. The club buys the food in big lots, saving money. They then pay Mrs. Wilson for cooking the food and use of the dining hall.

Now, members of the club are charged $4 per week for their board, breakfast and dinner. Officers of the club explain that this rate may vary and be lower later on when it is expected more boys will join. The club can accommodate thirty.

"We aim to make the club a non-profit-making organization. Only actual costs are charged for the meals. As the expenses decrease, the rate per week will also decrease. Later many more boys will probably join, making it possible to make further reductions," Steward Copenhagen explains.

All twenty members of the club live in the neighborhood of the Wilson home and have little distance to walk to the dining hall for their meals. The dining hall is but eight blocks from the agricultural college, making the walking distance to school negligible.

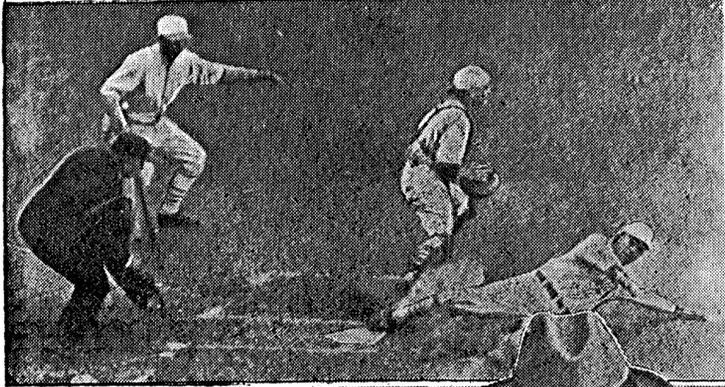

One peculiar thing about the club is that not one of the boys are addicted to the smoking habit. The club, however, is not a "sifted" group of boys for they compete on equal terms with other ag college boys in all activities.

How About A Steak for Tonight

Ask your husband what kind of meat he wants for supper tonight. Chances are he'll say "steak" and if he knows his steaks like most Ord men do he'll probably add: "And be sure to get it from Joe and John." A luscious steak, served smoking hot, is he man's food. Please hubby tonight with a steak from this market.

This scene, depicting one of the most exciting plays in the world series between the Philadelphia Athletics and St. Louis Cardinals, was made at Philadelphia in the first inning of the second game when Al Simmons, star Athletics outfielder, reached home safely on Fox's double. It paved the way to the second straight Athletics' victory. A guest at the opening game, also in Philadelphia, was President Hoover, right, who is shown here with Judge McKesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball.

By GEORGE ROUND, JR.

Valley county farm bureau ball fans will probably be anxiously awaiting the opening of varsity baseball in the Big Six conference next spring to see how Jesse Livingston goes in trying out with the University of Nebraska ball team. Jesse performed with the Ord Camels during the major part of the summer and was a big factor in their winning the county title. In trying out for a position on the varsity team, Jesse will find plenty of opposition and may not make the grade. He will have a better chance at short than in the box, it appears to me. Possessing a wonderful arm for a shortstop and being a good slicker he should make the rest of the catfish sit up and take notice. Jesse is a student at the college of agriculture.

NEW RUPTURE Retention Shield NOW SHOWING

C. F. Redlich, Rupture Expert, Minneapolis, Minn., will demonstrate without charge his unequalled method on MONDAY, OCT. 20 in Ord, at the ORD HOTEL. Evenings by telephone appointment. Mr. C. F. Redlich announces that the new "Perfect Retention Shields" hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy a weight you lift. They give instant relief and contract the opening in a remarkably short time. The secret of their success is in their simplicity. An expertly adjusted device seals the opening without discomfort or detention from work. It is practically everlasting, sanitary, comfortable and actually holds ruptures which heretofore were considered uncomfortable. Stomach troubles, backache and constipation, nearly always a consequence of rupture, promptly disappear. NOTICE: All whom we have treated during the past ten years are invited to come in for a free inspection. HOME OFFICE 535 Boston Block, Minneapolis, Minn.

I expect that "Lil" McMIndes is another Ord man awaiting the opening of the basketball season. During the past two years he has been a member of the city league and is among the most enthusiastic basketball players in Ord. He plays the game well and should be in line for a position on the all-star team this year. Predictions which I have made heretofore in this column in reference to Chris Mathis getting the call at quarter on the Nebraska football team appear to be a reality. He is considered the regular signal Barker for Coach Bible's eleven and played an outstanding game against Texas A. He was on barberry eradication in Ord this summer.

Submission to the Ord Camels is probably causing the Joint community ball club to want to get into the Valley County Farm Bureau league next year more than ever. I expect they feel that they would like a crack at the regular Camel team in a league. The recent series between the two clubs which the Camels won hands down proves to farm bureau fans that the community up north doesn't produce super-baseball teams.

Football at Arcadia high has been looking up in the past two or three years and it appears as though the Cadytown boys are in again this year with a strong team. Loup City upset the Valley county boys, press reports indicate, but Arcadia should win their share of the football games. Johnny Higgins, a back, is one of the best backfield men in this section of Nebraska and has been strutting himself in great style.

Facilities handicap Arcadia in basketball and prevent putting a quintet on the floor. With no gymnasium it is nearly impossible to develop a team. This is the condition at Arcadia. It will probably be many years also before there is a suitable place built for the basketball sport in Arcadia is my guess, not reflecting on the town either.

Hank "Army" Armatis has turned hashlinger and is now tripping the light fantastic to and from the kitchen to the dining hall at the Chi Omega house. While in Ord he looked like anything but a food man despite the fact that he gave at least one local person much food for thought. Figure it out. George Round, Jr., issued a kind invitation to hunt pheasants in Valley county on behalf of myself and County Extension Agent Dale of Ord. Altho I may not be home, Dale will be glad to act as hostess and show you where the birds are. There's a new occupation, hostess in pheasant hunting parties. George was probably in a hurry and didn't have time to proofread his letter. He adds that he has the best pheasant dog in Nebraska. "If you can't shoot them, he catches and holds them for you." John Bentley in the State Journal. It appears that John, who is the sports editor on the Journal, doesn't appreciate my new term "hostess" in relation to a pheasant hunting party. He was right when he said I probably was in a hurry and had no time to proofread my letter. Writing a home economics story before had me slightly mixed up in terms.

Insurance A Business Stabilizer
It is difficult to estimate the loss in dollars a community suffers when the central office apparatus of the Telephone Company is destroyed by fire.
Such an occurrence is not at all improbable in Ord under the present conditions. It would require weeks to establish even a temporary service.
Housing the central office apparatus in a fire proof building reduces this hazard to a minimum and is in fact, Telephone Service Insurance.
A majority of Ord Telephone patrons have endorsed our proposal. May we have your cooperation? The program is worthy of the support of every good citizen.

My Friends: Correct Your Eating Faults and Lose Your Fat With Kruschen Salts.

Yes: I'm forty-five today—but I like a race horse, my friends say—and I know I feel 10 years young.

er than I did three months ago—and I'd hate to tell you how much fat I lost with Kruschen.

I call Kruschen Salts the "magic salts" because when I was fat and wretched, despondent and half sick all the time—it took only one bottle that I bought for 85 cents at McLain and Sorensen's to liven me up—make me feel years younger and with the help of a change in diet show me how to lose the fat. I was so ashamed of Cut out pastries and desserts—go easy on potatoes, cream cheese and butter—eat lean meat, chicken, fish, vegetables and fruits and never fail to take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

Every drug store worthy of the name in the World sells Kruschen Salts—an 85 cent bottle lasts 4 weeks—not much to pay for buoyant health.

C. S. Tooley For State Senator

C. S. Tooley, Democratic Candidate for State Senator came to Custer county with his parents in 1885. He received his education in the Broken Bow schools. He taught school in the country districts of Custer county for six years, and was married in 1897 to Miss Harriet Sue Chrisman, daughter of a pioneer ranchman of Custer county. His first home was on a farm near the present Victoria Springs State Park. He followed the business of farming and stock raising for eleven years. Mr. Tooley moved to Broken Bow in 1908, and in 1909 he purchased a hardware business and is conducting that business at this time.

Mr. Tooley's political activities have been confined to city affairs. He was elected a city councilman in 1910, he was mayor of Broken Bow three terms during which time our extensive paving and sewer program originated and was completed at a cost of almost one million dollars. PORK SPECIAL SAVED 20,000 PIGS PER DAY

Real Record of Accomplishment By Burlington Train; Pigs Per Sow 16% Up.

The Burlington Profitable Pork special train that stopped at Ord for its Valley county visit about this time last fall has accomplished results as indicated by a report from the agricultural college, Lincoln, with whom the Burlington was cooperating.

Two more pigs from each three sows in Nebraska last fall; one more pig from each three sows farrowed in Nebraska this spring; a total of over 400,000 more pigs from the same number of sows, together with the construction of over twenty-four thousand movable hog houses and 3,823 self feeders—that's a real record of accomplishment. Investigations on "How come?" seem to trace directly to the influence of the Profitable Pork special prepared by the college of agriculture and operated over the Burlington lines in Nebraska last fall. The figures are estimated from the U. S. pig survey reports and a recent survey of lumber yards in Nebraska.

Long before the train was officially dedicated by Governor Westover at the Lincoln depot last fall, it was known that there was much room for improvement in the efficiency of hog producers in a single year but such an outstanding increase was not expected. Evidently a large number of the 124,000 people who visited the train could see the wisdom of its teachings and have practiced them. On a basis of the government survey, it is figured that the train should be credited with having already saved almost 20,000 pigs for each day it was operated.

These figures indicated that Valley county hog producers as well as those over the state have taken a great stride forward, but much still remains to be done. It is next to unbelievable that Nebraska should rank well below the United States as a whole in number of pigs watered per liter. Yet that condition actually exists.

New Feature On Ag Page

Announcement is forthcoming from George Round, Jr., editor of this page, that H. J. Gramlich, head of the animal husbandry department at the University of Nebraska, will write a feeder's question box for the Quiz in future weeks. Valley county farmers confronted with feeding problems are invited to send their questions to the Quiz and they will be sent to Gramlich. He will later answer them through the letter-box. Editor Round will have charge of arranging the box each week.

Gramlich is a noted authority on feeds and feeding and is well known in Valley county. He judged cattle at the Valley county fair this year. During the past five years he has judged at the leading state fairs and expositions in the United States.

Questions Valley county farmers wish answered by Mr. Gramlich are to be sent to George Round, Jr., extension editor of the Quiz, college of agriculture, Lincoln.

Thus in the fall of 1928, Nebraska saved 5.3 pigs per sow. The average for the United States that fall was 5.05. Again in the spring of 1929, Nebraska averaged 4.2 pigs per sow below the country as a whole. Then along came the Profitable Pork special. Farmers took heed to the lessons it taught and in the fall of 1929 Nebraska jumped up to 5.9 pigs per sow, a gain of 11 percent. Last spring the state's average raised to 5.60 or gain of almost six percent.

The production of pork is the largest single source of income for Nebraska farmers. There were 2,271,210 head reported by assessors in 1929.

Pump or well irrigation has changed the lower Platte valley into a non-failure garden spot. There are over 300 such plants in Buffalo county alone.

Nebraska contains 77,620 square miles of area, or 49,612,800 acres. The water area of the state is 712 square miles.

BERT CUMMINS FILLS SILO WITH 50 BUSHEL CORN

Ensilage Cheapest And Best Feed He Ever Used, Davis Creek Farmer Tells Quiz.

By Geo. Round, Jr.

Filling a trench silo with one hundred tons of ensilage to feed cattle last year, Bert Cummins of North Loup found the silo to be very practical and economical. This year he is duplicating his feat in refilling the silo.

"Last year we filled our silo with corn that made 20 and 25 bushels to the acre. We thought it was the cheapest feed we have ever fed. It also proved to be the best for milk production, with one exception," Bert told me recently in speaking of the value of the trench silo which is becoming more popular each year in Valley county.

In constructing his trench silo last year, Mr. Cummins did so in two and one-half days with three men and three teams. The silo was built 60 feet long, 18 feet wide and 8 feet deep. It had a capacity of one hundred tons of ensilage.

"You know, George, this ensilage is a great feed. You take last year our ensilage of 100 tons fed out fifty cattle for 150 days," Bert declared. At that rate it fed out about two-thirds of a ton a day for the 150 days.

In order to have the silage ready for putting into the great trench on the Cummins farm, Bert purchased an ensilage cutter. This with the two and one-half days labor constituted the cost of building the silo. Perhaps the labor of the three teams should be figured in also. The cutter cost $27.50.

Last year Bert covered his trench silo with two feet of wet oat straw. The ensilage turned out good despite the fact that some mold had formed due to evaporation. Mr. Cummins carried twenty-five head of cattle including twenty milk cows, heifers, and bull on the ensilage until about the middle of March. It proved to be an economical feed. Mr. Cummins will tell you if you are to ask him what he thinks about it as a practical farm feed. The only feed that will better it for milk cows is two bundles of squaw corn fodder per day with choice alfalfa hay, all the cows can eat. This proves to be an expensive feed, though, Bert remarked to me on inquiring about the cost.

In filling his silo this year, Mr. Cummins used three racks in the field. Three men worked in the field with two binders running during the time the trench silo was being filled. To get the ensilage packed down in the silo, one man rode a pony and lead one in trench. Correct packing is one of the essentials of getting good ensilage, Bert informed me. Experience will prove this, he added.

In view of the fact that last year there was a little molding due to evaporation, Mr. Cummins covered his trench silo this year with building paper and then added the straw on top of it.

This year the corn used in the filling of the silo would make between forty and fifty bushels to the acre. To most farmers making silage out of such high producing corn might seem out of the economically and practically. Mr. Cummins has profited by experience and knows the value of ensilage. He believes despite the fact that such corn was put into the silo this year at a higher cost in comparison to last year that he will get real results.

Writes Dairy Herd Report Each Month

E. C. SCHEIDENHELM. This is E. C. Scheidenhelm of the agricultural extension service at the college of agriculture who writes the monthly dairy herd improvement report for Nebraska. A story on the report is published in the Quiz on the ag page monthly. Scheidenhelm is quite well known among Valley county dairymen.

Rye Good Feed Mixed With Corn

In giving advice to Valley county farmers who are inquiring about the value of feeding rye to hogs and cattle, County Agent Dale believes that rye has a value when fed with other grains. A mixture of three parts snapped corn to one part of ground rye with alfalfa serves as a good ration. It takes four pounds of ground rye to equal three pounds of shelled corn in feeding value, according to Agent Dale.

Rye, however, is not a major grain crop in Valley county and there is probably less grown here than in other counties in this section of Nebraska. It is expected, then, Dale asserts that not many local farmers make the practice of feeding rye to their livestock since the annual crop is not large.

Statistics show that in 1929 there were only four thousand acres of rye planted in Valley county. Figures for this year are not available but the crop probably wasn't much larger in acreage planted. Rye averaged thirty-six bushels per acre in 1929.

Fresh Blood, Axle Grease Will Protect Trees From Rabbits

Valley county farmers will find newly planted trees that have been cultivated regularly during the growing season should be in shape to stand winter conditions, according to C. W. Watkins, extension forester of the agricultural college. Watkins is well known in Valley county for his work in promoting forestry.

Plants should go into winter with their roots in moist soil, he advises local farmers. Plantings that have been kept free from weeds will have enough reserve to stand competition from weeds and grass all summer will suffer this winter. If fall irrigation is necessary, Watkins advises applying the water not until after a few frosts or until it is sure that the growth will not be stimulated.

Protecting young trees from rabbit damage is sometimes quite a problem. Some Valley county farmers report that the rabbits do a lot of damage each year to young trees. Fencing the planting is safest but is expensive and perhaps not practical, Watkins believes. Two rather practical methods which have proven fairly satisfactory are as follows: save a bucket of two of blood when butchering this fall and with the aid of an old broom or large brush sprinkle this blood over the trees. Where this method has been used, it has not damaged the trees and has kept rabbits away for the entire winter.

A touch of strong smelling axle grease on the four sides of a small tree will also serve as a repellent for rabbits, according to Watkins. The danger of this method is that using too much grease will kill a tree but a trace here and there over it will injure it only slightly, if at all.

Advises To Feed Stained Barley With Supplement

Valley county farmers conferring with County Agent Dale about the possibilities of feeding stained barley to livestock have been advised to feed the barley but preferably with some other grain. It is doubtful if there is much stained barley here but in some sections of the state late rains interfering with threshing or combining, causing the barley to become stained. Farmers in other sections have been alarmed over the situation, believing the barley to be dangerous livestock feed.

In answering local farmers, County Agent Dale says that it would probably be better to feed the stained barley with a light ration of either cottonseed cake or linseed meal. The stained barley is good feed but may not be so palatable as the bright colored, Dale asserts.

Barley of good quality is 80 to 85 per cent as good as corn. With the barley stained, the local agent feels that the value in comparison with corn is probably lower but feeding with the linseed meal or cottonseed cake will bring up the value.

KILLING WEEDS WITH CHLORATE NEW TREATMENT

Single Treatment In October Will Kill Noxious Weeds, Says Agronomist Stewart.

Experiments carried on during the past few years have demonstrated rather clearly that most of the bad perennial weeds can be eradicated by treating them with chlorate, a chemical, Paul Stewart agronomist at the agricultural college said recently. The agronomist said Valley county farmers could eradicate bindweed, small morning glory, Canada thistle, quack grass, perennial smart weed and the Knapweed by use of the chlorate.

The experimental work is young, Stewart said, and it is rather difficult to draw conclusions as to the best time of the year to apply, how much to use per acre and the effect on the soil. All need further study, he maintains.

Valley county farmers will find chlorate well adapted for use on small patches of noxious weeds, Stewart says. When the infested area is large and the plants scattered widely, it does not seem to be a particularly practical method.

In a case where large fields are infested, the use of the duck foot method in connection with summer fallow is worthy of consideration. The usual method of eradicating the bad perennials is to dissolve one pound of chlorate to one gallon of water and apply this at the rate of at least 100 gallons per acre, which is usually a sufficient amount of the solution to moisten all the leaves and the stems of vegetation.

Stewart says for the benefit of Valley county farmers that during the last year or two, very good kills have been obtained by treating weed patches with dry chlorate salt, rather late in the fall. Perhaps farmers around Arcadia, North Loup, and Ord have experimented along that line. Stewart warns that it is necessary that the salt be distributed evenly over the area treated. Dividing the area up into one-half square rods and weighing out definite amounts of the material in small containers for each one-half square rod helps. If single fall treatment is used it may be applied in a spray form, by treating the area with the full amount of chlorate at one spraying. It is somewhat easier to get an even distribution when applied with a spray, Stewart says, for the benefit of Valley county farmers interested in weed eradication.

In using the three spray method, the first application should be made about the time the plants start to blossom. The second should be made when the plants start to blossom. The second should be applied when the plants have again made a vigorous growth and the third in September or October. October seems to be the best month for single treatment, Stewart believes. Further he advises putting the material in small containers for each one-half square rod.

In experiments noted, results up to the present time indicate that Valley county farmers had best use two pounds per square rod for good kills whether the wet or dry method is used. Where the weeds are very thick, the use of a hoe on an old stack bottom it probably is necessary to use three or four pounds per square rod.

Use of chlorates upon the soil appears to hamper the producing power of it for six to twelve months afterward, Stewart relates. Crop following previous year treatments on treated land will probably not amount to anything. Sweet clover is one of the most chlorate tolerant crops for treated areas, Stewart says.

Precautions must be observed where sodium chlorate is used, Stewart warns local people. Clothing, wood, vegetation, and similar materials when sprayed or soaked with a solution of sodium chlorate and then dried are inflammable and care must be used to prevent fires. Boots and clothing should be washed immediately following every operation.

Rooter's Day Is Only Week Away

With Rooter's Day but a little over a week away, it is anticipated that some Valley county livestock men will be in attendance. It is an annual event held at the agricultural college, Lincoln. The year it comes next Friday, a week from tomorrow. In past years some local hog producers have attended and this year will probably prove to be no exception.

Probably the greatest program in the history of the day has been arranged, according to Prof. H. J. Gramlich, head of the animal husbandry department at the college. Prominent speakers from all over the midwest are to appear on the program.

"We expect many hog producers from Valley county to attend Rooter's Day because we believe that they like to see the experimental animals. They get more out of it by being there in person," declares Prof. Gramlich.

Three experiments have been carried on by the college this year in connection with Rooter's Day. Recent overyielding of wheat has caused the college to feed wheat to hogs to determine its relative value. The second experiment deals with the advisability of marketing hogs at various weights while the third determines the value of different protein supplements.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

"I sure dread the arrival of Agent Doe," was the remark of a Mira Valley farmer the other day. "Agent Doe represents the Blank company," he continued, "and I usually have to buy some of their merchandise from him in order to get rid of him."

This farmer is not the only one succumbing to the psychology of super-salesmanship. Seldom indeed comes a day whose stillness is not broken by the persistent rapping of a street-peddler—and once he succeeds in inserting his toe inside the prospective victim's door, the latter is liable to suffer a loss of time and money or both.

"Agents Keep Out!" This and similar warnings are conspicuous in the posted near many farmsteads. But most agents come in anyway, and unless the farmers act quickly and forcefully, they are apt to yield to the flow of soothing oratory.

Superintendent Bell of the Ord schools has placed into effect a ruling which bars agents from the school house. This piece of local legislation is being welcomed by all teachers as a way of increasing their efficiency and protecting their bank accounts. It will also mean a saving to the district. The amount of this saving may be determined by taking the teacher cost per hour, times the average visitation length of past agents, times the number of past agents visiting, multiplied by the number of teachers visited. Some of these agents used to go into lengthy individual conferences with all the teachers. Often they were honest and sincere about the superior merits of their goods, but that generally made them all the more obnoxious.

Agents contribute but little to the welfare of a community. They are apt to employ costly and inefficient methods of distribution. There are some who are dishonest and unscrupulous in their dealings with customers. With these factors in mind we are suggesting a set of rules which may be followed in dealing with all strangers who want to sell something.

1. Do not purchase any product of unseen or unknown quality.
2. Do not purchase from a person of unknown reliability.
3. Buy nothing unless certain it is needed.
4. Buy nothing until after making a comparison with similar goods sold locally.
5. Buy nothing in the presence of the agent—think the matter over alone, and send your decision later.

Club Leaders Will Bring Model Lunch

Valley county women's extension club leaders meeting in Ord on the last two days of this month for their regular monthly training school will learn about the proper things a school lunch should contain. Miss Florence Atwood of the agricultural college will be here to instruct the club leaders. She comes here once a month for leader's training schools.

Miss Atwood will tell Valley county club leaders that milk, vegetables, fruits, whole grain cereal, cheese, eggs, meats, butter, water and sugars make up the desirable foods for a well selected diet. These foods furnish the body approximately the required food elements, she will tell local leaders.

Leaders will bring a school lunch with them and Miss Atwood will help to show them where they may improve the lunch. The good lunch for school children should include milk, sandwiches, fruits, vegetables and a sweet. Occasionally a surprise in the form of a few pieces of homemade candy, nuts, raisins, figs or dates will help the lunch, she will say.

Wrapping the foods in separately rolled paper will help to prevent the food from drying out, mingling flavors and help to protect the foods from dirt, she will advise. A rubber band or a toothpick may be used to hold the paper in place. A small fruit jar or parchment containers help to make it possible for Valley county mothers to include stewed fruits and soft custards in the children's lunches.

Warns of Grazing Cattle On Alfalfa

Valley county farmers who are making a practice of grazing cattle upon alfalfa with no grain ration are undertaking a hazardous problem which might result in bloating, is the warning made by H. J. Gramlich, head of the animal husbandry department at the University of Nebraska, today in word sent to the Quiz. He further asserts that grazing cattle on alfalfa now has injurious effects upon the alfalfa.

Especially with valuable cattle, it is dangerous practice, Gramlich believes. If the cattle are fed a grain ration there is no chance of bloating but the alfalfa should be in good condition for carrying through the winter months. Experiments have proven that alfalfa with a top growth and which has not been clipped is more resistant to winter killing.

Valley county farmers will probably find also, Gramlich asserts, that the alfalfa that has had top growth will tend to hold the snow better than that which has been grazed late in the fall.

The best plan to keep cattle from grazing on alfalfa when they get no grain ration is to fence the alfalfa off, is Gramlich's advice to local farmers. He says two barbed wires with posts at variable distances will protect the alfalfa under ordinary conditions from grazing cattle. Better let them graze on nearby volunteer oats is Gramlich's recommendation. Oats will not hurt the cattle.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause." But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or over increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at Ed F. Beranek's Rexall Drug Store, or at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. 8-321

Beer and Wine Immune. Wine and beer making in the home for home consumption was declared immune from federal interference recently by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock. The national enforcement agencies can intervene, he said, only when evidence of a sale has been obtained. No search warrant for a private home can be issued unless such evidence is obtained. Under law, he said, the home brewer is liable to punishment if his product is intoxicating in fact, but this is a point for settlement by a jury.

Nebraska is rapidly being converted into an out-door state by the planting of trees, improvements of lakes and the stocking of waters with fish by the Nebraska Game Forestation and Parks Commission.

ROTARY HOLDS ANNUAL DINNER FOR TEACHERS

Masonic Banquet Hall Is Scene of Brilliant Affair Thursday As Faculty Is Welcomed.

The banquet room in the Masonic temple was the scene of a brilliant affair last Thursday evening when the Ord Rotary club held its annual dinner welcoming the teachers to Ord. More than one hundred were present including Rotarians, Rotary Annas, faculty members, board of education members and other guests.

After a period of group singing led by Dr. George R. Gard, those present enjoyed a delicious three-course dinner served by the New Cafe staff. During the meal music was furnished by the Auble orchestra, which numbered among its members Dr. Kirby McGrew, Theodore Toenniges, Elizabeth Janssen, Glen Auble, Mrs. Glen Auble, Arthur Auble and Mrs. Kirby McGrew.

Carl C. Dale served as toastmaster in his usual capable manner and kept banquet guests entertained with laughter with his dry humor. Wm. Heuck extended the Rotary welcome, Mrs. Roy Collison the Rotary Ann welcome, Supt. Bell responded for the faculty, Dr. J. W. McGinnis gave the response for the school board, Miss Lucene Hardin spoke on "How Rotarians Look to Me," E. C. Weller told "How the Teachers Look to Us," and Irl D. Tolon, president of local Rotarians, spoke on "Rotary and the Schools."

Musical specialties during the program included vocal solos by Miss Elva Bloodgood, saxophone solos by Theodore Toenniges, and quartet numbers by a quartet composed of Mrs. Jos. P. Barta, Mrs. C. M. Davis, Dr. F. L. Blessing and G. W. Collipriest, with Mrs. Geo. P. Gard as accompanist. All of these musical selections were greatly enjoyed.

During the dinner balloons, toy whistles, confetti and other aids to pleasure were distributed to those present and they were made use of to the fullest extent. Group singing and a social hour followed the banquet and program.

The affair was among the most successful sponsored by the Ord Rotary club and everybody present seemed to be having a splendid time.

Return From Deer Hunt

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ericson returned Sunday from a two weeks deer hunt in the Colorado mountains which they made in company with Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Weidenhaft, of Ericson. Both Mr. Ericson and Mr. Weidenhaft were fortunate in killing deer, each downing one buck which is all that a hunter is allowed in Colorado. The entire party enjoyed the trip greatly.

Mrs. Fetz Dies Of Septicaemia

Mrs. Isla Mae Fetz, 30 years old, a resident of Burwell who was well known in Ord, died early Monday morning at St. Frances hospital, Grand Island, where she had been undergoing treatment for three weeks for septicaemia, or general blood poisoning.

Born at Burwell on Sept. 26, 1900, she attended the public schools of that town and grew to womanhood there. She was united in marriage to Cecil F. Lavery, who passed away Feb. 13, 1921. An infant son, Robert Guy, died on May 20 of that year. In 1924, at Kansas City, Mo., she married Vern Fetz, who died June 14, 1926.

Mrs. Fetz is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Miller of Burwell, two brothers, L. C. Miller, El Paso, Tex., and R. B. Miller, Grand Island; and by one sister, Mrs. F. R. Anderson of St. Louis, Mo.

Funeral services were held in Burwell Tuesday, several Ord friends attending.

Ord Methodist Church

There was good attendance last Sunday at all the services. The Sunday school made a good comeback from the Sunday before, numbering 193. But next Sunday being Rally Day we are expected to go beyond that. Let us make it 250. Remember it is visitor's day, too. Invite someone who does not attend church anywhere to be your guest at one of the services at least. The Epworth League service, too, was unusually well attended. About 50 young people were present. The special music last Sunday was very fine both morning and evening, and we would mention particularly the duet by Mrs. Peterson (formerly Miss Josephine Misko) of California and Mrs. Mark Tolon, sung in the morning service. The young people's choir will lead the singing next Sunday evening. And the pastor will give the first of three sermons to young people, making use of football terminology, "Playing the Game," "Making a Touchdown," and "The Art of Tackling" are the special topics.

Mrs. Ramsey's Will Found, Estate Must Be Probated Again

The law firm of Munn & Norman started proceedings this week to probate for the second time the $40,000 estate of Mrs. Sarah L. Ramsey, who passed away in March 1930. At the time of Mrs. Ramsey's death no will could be found and her estate was probated on the supposition that the aged woman had died intestate. Recently her will was found in a file of valuable papers at the Nebraska State Bank, which forced probate proceedings to be started over again.

Heirs to the estate according to Mrs. Ramsey's will include her sister, Mrs. Hattie Stevenson, who is left $500, her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Capron, who is given but $10, and her other children, who share equally in the residue of the estate.

Most of Mrs. Ramsey's property was located in Idaho and distribution of this part of the estate was not made under the former probate proceedings. About $9,000 in Nebraska property was distributed among the supposed heirs in August and they will be asked to make an accounting of this money.

As it was, the east end was burned and hay stored in the shed was badly scorched. It was the only building on Mr. Cornell's farm that wasn't covered by insurance.

Only Seven Homes Under Quarantine Now, Says Physician; Disease Is Mild Form.

Only seven Ord homes are under smallpox quarantine now and the disease is believed to be definitely under control, Dr. C. C. Shepard, city physician, told the Quiz yesterday. His announcement will tend to quiet the smallpox "scare" which has affected Ord for more than a week.

The quarantine was lifted yesterday from the Dr. F. L. Blessing home and today the Clifford Flynn home is to be released from the ban. Other homes now quarantined include the M. D. Bell, A. Redwanda, A. J. Meyer, Mrs. Lillian Crow and Curt Wilson homes. Millard Bell and J. A. Kovanda, superintendent and agriculture teacher in the Ord schools, and Miss Merna Crow, who teaches in District No. 10, are the only adult patients.

All smallpox patients have had the disease in a very mild form, Dr. Shepard says. Early symptoms have been those of flu and the breaking out has come after four days of illness. No smallpox cases have been reported from outside of Ord city, says Dr. Shepard, who also holds the position of county physician. Hundreds of people have been vaccinated, he says, and the absence of new cases leads him to believe that the epidemic is under control.

Insurance
A Business Stabilizer

It is difficult to estimate the loss in dollars a community suffers when the central office apparatus of the Telephone Company is destroyed by fire.

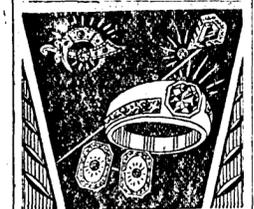

Such an occurrence is not at all improbable in Ord under the present conditions. It would require weeks to establish even a temporary service.

Housing the central office apparatus in a fire proof building reduces this hazard to a minimum and is in fact, Telephone Service Insurance.

A majority of Ord Telephone patrons have endorsed our proposal. May we have your cooperation? The program is worthy of the support of every good citizen.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

That little speck that former president Coolidge writes for the daily papers may be mighty good stuff, it must be, the price he is paid to get for it, but I get more enjoyment out of reading the writings of Bill Maupin, Joe Alden, Art Brown and half a dozen other Nebraska newspaper men.

Yes, I put off taking in some flowers and they got frozen last Thursday morning. It is a bad habit, this putting off till tomorrow the things that should be done today.

A number of our advertising customers are troubled that way. They put off getting their advertising copy in till the last minute and then we can't give it either the time it should have in setting or the position in the paper that would be best for it. But I don't expect they are going to change their ways and we will just have to get along and do the very best we can.

The election will soon be over and then after the boys have had a couple weeks to tell how it happened as it did, we will forget politics for a while. I see that Mr. Morrow has decided not to be a candidate for the republican nomination. Probably just as well. It looks as though the democrats would put up a wet man again though, probably Roosevelt and he will be a strong candidate. The time may come when an outspoken wet can be elected president but I don't believe that time has come yet.

The biggest thing on the program today and for the next ten days is the open pheasant season. They tell me that there are as many birds as ever, but it surely didn't look it all summer. A good many farmers are not going to permit hunting on their premises. And there is still a lot of difference of opinion as to the amount of damage the pheasants do. Some claim they do more good than harm, in other words that they earn all the grain they eat.

There is one thing that we should all remember when we go to vote the 4th of next month and that thing is that taxes cannot be reduced unless we want to quit making progress. There is an old saying that it costs money to buy whiskey. It is hard work to buy good whiskey at any price any more, I guess. But it costs money to maintain schools, make and maintain roads, conduct the public business of the state. Just stop a moment and recall how we, here in Valley county, have been demanding more and better roads. We have raised thunder and sent delegates to Lincoln and threatened to send other delegations if the Ord-Grand Island road, the Ord-Burwell road and the Ord-Arcadia road were not fixed. We want them graded and gravelled, do we expect to have all these improvements and at the same time reduce taxes? Mr. Bryan says if he is elected he will reduce taxes from 35 to 50 percent. I want you to stop and think a moment. In the first place 65 per cent of our taxes are for school purposes and we vote them ourselves and the governor cannot have a word to say about them. That only leaves 35 per cent of the taxes for him to monkey with and he would have to cut them all off to make good on the lowest figure of his claim. How foolish it would be for us to believe he could reduce taxes from 35 per cent to 50 per cent. Governor Weaver has made a good governor. There is no one who claims he has not been honest and economical in office and he is not making any claims that on the face of them are dishonest.

Then there is another thing that we want to remember in connection with the tax matter and that is that Nebraska has no bonded debts, she is paying her way as she goes and has a lower tax rate than any of the surrounding states. Iowa has issued millions of bonds to get out of the mud and the children's children of the present tax payers will be paying interest on those bonds. Minnesota has also issued millions of bonds for road purposes. We don't want any more of that kind of thing. That is true for individuals, the same as it is for states. I noticed when Omaha voted a half million to build a city hall. That was years ago. They still owe quite a block of the bonds and have paid almost three times the original interest and now they have an old, out of date city hall and are thinking I suppose, about voting more bonds to build a new and modern city hall. Governor Weaver is pledged to a pay-as-we-go policy in all improvements and he is entitled to a second term as governor.

A rabbit down east Nebraska republican editor said recently that George W. Norris was nominated for senator over a real, honest to God republican, meaning State Treasurer Stebbins. Wonder what he thinks, now that Stebbins has admitted that it was he who gave the Broken Bow Norris the $500 bond. He also admits that he paid $350 in cash to help keep Senator Norris off the republican ticket before the primary. I believe that Stebbins has fallen a thousand miles in the estimation of all good Nebraskans in admitting his part in the primary Norris fight. Of course when the matter was being investigated he absolutely denied knowing anything about the filing of Norris of Broken Bow so he must have been mistaken then or now. Is it possible that Stebbins is just allowing himself to be made the goat? His political race is run in Nebraska anyhow and perhaps he may as well be the goat in the hope that it will protect someone higher up. It may be he has been promised some nice, fat political plum for being the goat. Time will tell. I am guessing, though, that the investigation will be continued and it is barely possible that the real truth will finally come out. So many of the men who didn't know a thing about it at first, have decided to tell about it that we hardly know who to believe when they claim to spill the beans. There is probably still a colored gentleman in the wood pile and perhaps he will be smoked out.

NEVER SHALL FORGET WHAT KONJOLA DID

Just Another Proof of The Powers of This New And Different Medicine:

MR. JACK BARRY

"I shall never forget what Konjola did for me," said Mr. Jack Barry, R. F. D. No. 7, Lincoln. "I had a bad case of catarrh for several years. My complexion was bad and my bowels badly out of order. I could not sleep right for I had to get up in the night to use a nasal spray. "I read so much about Konjola that I gave it a trial. I now have finished the third bottle and I am certainly improved. The catarrh is clearing up day after day. I have a good color; I am getting a full night's rest and I have been able to quit using laxatives." One does not have long to wait for results once Konjola is put to work. A complete treatment of from six to eight bottles is strongly recommended for the best results. Konjola is sold in Ord, Nebraska at the McLain and Sorensen drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

The Parent-Teacher Association met at the schoolhouse last Monday evening. During the business meeting the question as to whether they should continue to have a P. T. Size, 72x84 in. Weight, 4 3/4 lb. Quality, closely woven and finely napped.

The Golden Rule, due to the fact that it stresses price, has the reputation of being a popular priced store. This blanket at $3.69 is a good example of the effort that we make to get the finest quality in our merchandise. Every mill in the country submitted its product to us this year and the selection was made not from standpoint of price but from that of quality. Come and look it over.

We Say That Our $22.50 Suits with an extra pair of pants are worth at least $5 more than we ask

We make this statement, fully aware that it is subject to question. It immediately starts the old argument as to the use of the comparative price. What is its standard of value? "If you ask only $22.50 for your suits, isn't that in itself an estimate of its value?"

First come and look over our fall suits. From any standard—the man who has his clothes tailor-made—the man who buys from a sample book—the man who wears suits made by nationally advertised manufacturers—all will find very creditable suits at this very low price. They are hand made, they fit, they have attractive new materials, and they will give satisfactory service.

We have reduced the price of our clothing through the elimination of several expensive distribution costs. We do not follow the beaten path. We buy our own woolsens, we contract for their making, and we save every selling cost except our own.

In addition to our $22.50 line, we feature clothes at $29.75 which will stand the test of technical examination in comparison to the usual ready made lines.

Winter Styles Show Russian Influence

LONG-SKIRTED COATS AND TUNIC BLOUSES ARE CUT IN COSSACK FASHION—EVEN HATS, BAGS, SCARFS, JEWELRY HAVE SLAVIC SPIRIT

BY HARRIET

THE Russian influence, whether in the form of a regulation tussian tunic, in a decorative peasant embroidery note or in a modified Russian style of garment, is of real importance this year.

Many of the new suits have long skirted coats and collars that are Russian in cut. They are especially good on slender figures. Long tunic blouses are definitely of this Slavic trend. Regal in appearance they come in all kinds of material, long and belted. An excellent way to utilize a suit that seems no longer to fit your need is to add a white or gold colored tunic to the Russian tunic. You can let your skirt down longer by putting it on an underwaist that comes well over the hips. The overwaist, extending almost to knee length, will cover the underwaist completely.

Wind break suits, in knitted material, now come with the facings buttoned up one side and with collar fastening way over on that side in true Cossack manner. Even the knitted dresses have a way of showing some modified Russian influence.

For instance, there is a neat little one-piece frock of the new nubbled boucle in several tones of green. The waist fastens on the side. It has a Russian motif despite the V neck. This green frock has a ribbed waist band that is very new, fitting the body neatly and which can adjust itself to a slight increase or decrease in your weight.

MORE Russian is a little tunic suit in eponge homespun with a three-quarters coat that fastens up one side. It has a slit scarf collar of Persian lamb that fastens under one ear.

This coat has a bloused effect and the long tunic skirt flares in quite the manner of the old czarist army coats.

The skirt of this brown suit is made wrap around. It has incidental ruckings that runs in diagonal manner all through the skirt, giving it a richness which plain material lacks.

In addition to these outfits showing Slavic influence, some of the newest hats reflect the same source of inspiration. Cross-stitched berets are to be very smart this winter. They are colorful and promise a great vogue for mid-winter sports.

The one-piece frock right, has a ribbed waist band which makes it possible for every woman to adjust her blouse to suit her figure. The fabric is a new nubbled boucle. The Russian tunic suit, left, has a slit scarf collar of Persian lamb. The material is eponge homespun.

Baggy with cross stitched design, sports shoes in mosaic multi-colored leather trim, mittens embroidered or knitted in designs of peasant figures and gaudy peasant colors. scarfs of many kinds with modern Russian designs—all these reflect the Caucasus spirit.

And to top it all, one of the newest of pins is a Russian-rouble, round out and mounted.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

BIG THREE ON THE COAST IS GETTING THE BUMPS EVEN AS HARVARD, PRINCETON AND YALE—WASHINGTON STATE SURPRISES

PHILIP MARTIN... so many football seasons ago, there was a Big Three in the football world. To be sure, other schools had football teams, but only those of Harvard, Yale and Princeton counted for much.

The first three weeks of the current football season witnessed the fall of two of the west's Big Three before so-called plebian squad.

When O. E. (Babe) Hollingberry called his little band of gridders together at Washington State a few weeks ago, nobody in Berkeley or Los Angeles attached much significance to the move.

One week later came Southern California's Thundering Herd, kicking up great clouds of dust from under stampeding hooves.

While Southern California was taking her medicine from Washington State, the Cardinals of Stanford went into the middle west to flaunt red pennants into the faces of a Minnesota team.

Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Moyer of Shelton arrived in Ord Monday evening and are spending a few days with their son, J. E. Moyer and family.

Mrs. Elroy Staley, who has been in the Grand Island St. Francis hospital has been staying with relatives since leaving the hospital. She is expected home in a few days.

Schuyler Schamp of Ericson is ill and under the care of Dr. Lee Nay. He is in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Miska, Ord.

Miss Merna Crow, who teaches in district 10, is ill this week. She is at her home in Ord. Miss Naomi Fuss is substituting for Miss Crow.

Mrs. C. Peter and son Leroy of Greeley, Colo. arrived in Ord Tuesday for a visit with their cousin, Mrs. C. J. Miller and family.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. D. Auble have been enjoying a visit with relatives from Arnold. A sister, Mrs. Jennie Goodenow and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Auble.

Corn picking has stopped as the corn is not keeping and farmers think it better off in the fields for a while.

Mrs. Eunice Oliver spent Friday afternoon and Saturday in Ord with her aunt, Mrs. Will Moses.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Finley and family spent Sunday at Myrtle Stanton's.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McNamee and daughter came up from Grand Island Tuesday and visited her parents, Henry VanSlyke, until Thursday.

Hattie Houthy, Lucille and Grace Eisele of North Loup visited Mrs.

planned to "shoot the works" against the Gophers, who promptly turned on the westerners and held them scoreless.

MAYBE it is rushing the season to go out on a limb with an affraid of guesses concerning sectional football champions.

There is one team about which I am not afraid to boast at this stage. It is Vanderbilt, down in old Nashville. Mark it down that your old friend Colonel Dan Mc-

Geason Stanton from Sunday until Monday.

Pussyfoot's Sportlog By GEORGE ROUND, JR.

Comstock high students are sorry they aren't on the Ord schedule this year. With the conference in full swing they feel they could better their standing by playing Ord.

Dickie Koupal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rude Koupal of Ord is enthusiastic over his first big-time football game which he recently saw at Lincoln between Nebraska and Texas Aggies.

Right now Dickie is imagining himself in "Red" Young's position, behind the line in the backfield. Dick wants to be a football player and it wasn't long ago that he purchased a good football to get in trim for future years.

"Swede" Carlson is another Ord sport fan who will witness the Nebraska-Pittsburgh game on the first of the month. He has his seat on the forty-yard line and is hoping that it don't rain too much for he is to be on the balcony.

Speaking of boys who some day hope to attain such heights as Red Grange rose to, there is Don Tunnicliff of Ord. Don isn't going to be very big apparently but he is going to make up for that in flight. He, too, hopes to be a member of the Cornhusker football team soon.

Don has witnessed several big games at Lincoln and is after his daddy all the time to take him to all of the games. He will probably see the Pittsburgh game.

Attempts to organize a city football team may materialize in Ord nance in the house of one Ord person, not persons.

Coming home as I am this week end for open pheasant season I will probably find "Pussyfoot's Sportdog" in great demand.

John Bentley, sports editor on the Lincoln Journal, has been invited to come to Ord during the open season to hunt pheasants by County Agent Dale of Ord and myself.

In inviting or seconding my invitation Dale wrote Bentley: "Some of my fondest childhood dreams are when my mammy used to sing, I never raised you to be a hostess. Nevertheless, since nominated if I am elected I assure you that I will extend gracious privileges to you.

The sports editor may come to Ord for the season. As a hunter I don't suppose friend John is so good. He may be able to throw the hooey in the newspaper but that is a different tale than putting salt on the pheasant's tail.

NEW YALE NEWS Anton Samia, Frank Hosek and C. O. Twombly surveyed their lines Monday morning.

Mrs. Frank Hosek and Mr. and Mrs. John Sevenker left for Oklahoma Wednesday to visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Ike Arnold, their daughter Sara and son Floyd of North Loup were visitors at the C. O. Twombly home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louie Greenwalt and their daughter Dolores and Mrs. Maglen Greenwalt were Sunday visitors at the home of Louie Lonowski at Loup City.

Mr. and Mrs. Zack Greenwalt and daughter Dorothy were Sunday guests at the home of Frank Caroski in Elyria.

Joe Parkos got the rent share of bats off the farm owned by Davis and Vegetanz Sunday morning.

The people of Dist. No. 16, the pupils and teacher, Miss Helene Ignowski are planning to hold a Halloween carnival and program Friday October 31st.

John Wolf shipped fat cattle to the Omaha market Monday.

Kindergarten
The kindergartners have been studying Indians for the past week. They have been studying the Indian songs, dances, pictures and the way they eat and dress. They decorated their sand table in Indian fashion. They made beads out of macaroni and colored them and they also made Indian head dresses out of colored paper. The little children are very proud of their work. They are planning for a Halloween party which will be held on Oct. 31. The kindergartners extend a cordial invitation to all those who wish to visit their rooms.

First Grade
The first graders have just finished their primers and have just finished making leaf men which everyone thinks are very cute. Now they are making decorations for their Halloween party. Mrs. Doctor Miller and Roger visited the first grade Oct. 24.

Second Grade
The second grade is having a contest in passing in and out of rooms, the boys are competing against the girls. The girls at present are ahead of the boys. They are having an individual Spelling and Arithmetic contest. They are starting on an Indian project, and are going to make Hiawatha booklets and fix their sand table in Indian fashion. At the present they have studied only two pictures, "Saved" and "Suspense". The second grade is also planning for a Halloween party.

Third and Fourth Grades
Charles Dobberstein, moved south of Arcadia and the children hope he has a good time there. Miss Swain's class went on a hike lately and the children enjoyed it immensely. Miss Campbell's class has just finished their annual literary trip to the Philippine Islands and I imagine many of us wish we had been with them. This room is now having a Spelling and Health contests and the contests are going on very nicely. This class went on a hike to the park Oct. 13, and it was enjoyed by the children with much enthusiasm. The third and fourth grades are putting in efforts to make the Halloween decorations gay.

Fifth and Sixth Grades
The fifth and sixth grades have very interesting subjects in English. At present, they have finished the aviation project. They built an aeroplane and port to help with the study, the airport looks very real and some of the home-made planes showed real talent. They have just started a project of the deep sea and to help with this they have built a deep sea table and they have furnished it with seaweeds, fish, boats etc. Laverne Deumey showed some excellent talent in modeling two boats which are to be used in the deep sea project. They also made autumn booklets which are very interesting. They have just received two groups of new books, "Master Library" and "Knowledge Reference", these books will help very much in the future lessons. For Halloween the fifth and sixth grades are going to fix up a table with dolls fixed as witches, goblins and etc. The 5A, 5B, 6A and 6B are having a contest in penmanship, which will end this week. Oct. 13-17 and the score as it stands now is 5B-61, 5A-68, 6A-63, and 6B-60.

Mr. Toenniges wishes that all of the grade school children if possible, would get an instrument and join the band.

CONDUCT IN THE HALLS
Our conduct in the halls of Ord High school has at times past, not been of the best, but at present it has been improved quite a bit. In fact I think it is about as good as it can be expected to be.

When passing through the halls, we should act as though we have some place to go, but not stand idle or keep wandering slowly about as if we were waiting for something great or exciting to happen or for something that we would not want to miss.

When the bell rings, which warns you, it is time to change to your next class, it is not necessary to rush out of the room and run down the halls as if the school was on fire, but just simply walk out of the room and go to your locker, or if you have your books for the next class, you could pass directly to the room in which this class is to recite.

The time, when pupils of O. H. S. usually show their disorderly conduct of the halls, is when school is dismissed before the regular time, or sometimes it is shown at five minutes of twelve, for usually at these times, pupils are in a hurry to get out of school or just in a hurry. Pupils can sometimes be excused on occasions like that.

As I have said, at present it is probably as good as can be expected. I say this because pupils can not be expected to pass through the halls keeping to the right for their locker may be to their left and for this purpose they will have to cross the hall.

So as the hall conduct at present is improved, we hope the student body will keep on improving it.

Margaret Bonne

THE MAGICIAN
The evening of October 15 we had the honor of meeting O. Wayne Meyer and his assistant, Mr. Roscoe Curtis, both of Lincoln.

The program was given in three acts.
Mr. Meyer had a Chinese box that was empty and had no cover or bottom. From this box he drew silk handkerchiefs. He also made the flag by punching red, white and blue handkerchiefs in a tube.

Then we were given some remarkable acts in mental telepathy.
Mr. Meyer, at the last, made an Angel Food cake by mixing sawdust, dutch cleanser, etc. but he made some mistake because it turned out to be wafers, which he threw to the crowd.

Between acts the audience was entertained by two musical numbers by Mr. Toenniges on the saxophone, accompanied by Miss Bloodgood on the piano.

EXAM WEEK.
The first six weeks of school are gone. Doesn't time fly fast?

When the different teachers announced the day for exams, sighs were uttered by almost everyone. Now, everyone would have to stay home and review and some of them cram. What a life! Let's make a journey and peek into some of the students windows (I think they will forgive us this time).

We see Thelma Palmatier curled up on her bed, reading Physiology as if she were in a race. Next we see Monty Petersen cramming Geometry until it seems as if he would see geometrical figures dancing in front of him. We meet Harold Finch and Clara Lea Van Wie, who think English is easy and prefer to walk to studying, but we shall see what grades they get on their report cards.

Now we gaze into Edith Hansen's window. What do we see? Is she really cancelling her name with Richard Smith's? Her poor neglected Algebra book is lying forlorn and dejected in the middle of the table. What a crime! I think Mr. Bell should look into the way his poor books are treated!

Who on earth is that hunting leaves for Biology? Why, it is Marie Desmul, and lo! with whom, I wonder? It is a shame, but we cannot pry into private affairs.

Let us hope these people wake up in time to get their reviewing done.

Activity A Week! Buy A Stamp.
Mr. Cass hopes that more students will buy their stamps on Monday, instead of putting it off. The students put off buying stamps, because they think that there is to be no activity that week. But all of the students are assured of activity of this semester. In the future, buy your stamps on Monday to show that you appreciate the activities.

Mr. Bell was very well pleased with the sale of the stamps and is trying to procure a Musical program soon. On November 6, Cloued Smith, a very high class reader of plays will appear here.

The purpose of the Pep Club is to cultivate better school spirit by conducting pep rallies and showing the team that the school is behind them.

The Pep club has decided to get costumes, each member buying his or her own. The girls are to have white polo shirts with red skirts, and the boys are to have red polo shirts with white trousers. All the members will wear white sailor hats.

The Pep Club had charge of the convocation Friday morning October 17. The program started out with the cheer leaders leading the Pep Club, who were up on the stage in cheers for Ord and Broken Bow.

Next was the wedding of Ord and Broken Bow, which was represented by the bridesmaid, Ellamae Smith. Paul Gregg represented Ord and was attended by Wilson Bell. Charles Shepard, representing School Spirit was the minister. Robert Cushing, representing Broken Bow, was one of the witnesses, high school weeping bitterly. Geraldine Beeghly, Victory's Mother was the other witness who was weeping uncontrollably. The convocation ended by the cheer leaders, leading the whole school in a few yells.

MUSIC NOTES

The city has employed the services of a new leader, Mr. Toenniges, who arrived three weeks ago. He began at once to build up a bigger and better band. About 40 new beginners have enrolled, enabling Mr. Toenniges to have a 2nd band. He plans to have the band play for the high school occasions. Seven new pupils for violin will make an improvement in the orchestra.

CLASS NOTES
The Seniors have been discussing class rings but have come to no decision as to what kind of ring.

The Junior class is planning to have a party soon. They are also considering plays for the Junior Play.

The Freshmen had a class meeting Tuesday, the 14th of Oct. to discuss more definitely about the party. They plan to have a Hobo party.

School Board Meeting.
A meeting of the School Board was held Monday evening, October 6, in the executive room of the school house. All members were present except Mr. Fred Coe. The general routine of business was transacted. Several small matters came up, including some improvements for the South school, the playground facilities and music in the schools.

HOME BAKED GOODIES TASTE BETTER
Everybody knows that home baked goodies taste better. And goodies baked in a home bakery are so much better than the "shipped in" kind that there is no comparison. They come to you hot, fresh, just out of the oven—baked only an hour or two before instead of being baked 48 hours previous.

Our line is complete, led by the famous Kream Krust bread—white, whole wheat, graham and rye. Treasure Cakes as baked in our baker are becoming family favorites. Our doughnuts, cookies, rolls and buns please discriminating tastes.

Broken Bow Defeats Ord
The Ord Gorillas suffered their third defeat Friday when they journeyed to Broken Bow and were crushed by a 51 to 0 score. Captain Paul Gregg, and Everett Lashmett were the outstanding players on the Ord team. Kenneth Clay and James White were the outstanding players of the Broken Bow team. The game started promptly at 3:15 with Ord kicking off to Broken Bow. On the first few minutes of the game Broken Bow pushed the ball across for a touchdown. As the game went on Broken Bow made more and more touchdowns. At the half the score was 19-0. In the second half Broken Bow scored four touchdowns, four points and one touch back, bringing the score up to fifty-one. The Ord High school team never threatened to score once.

WHAT THE DIFFERENT CLASSES ARE DOING.
The girls of the Freshman Home Ec. Department are just finishing their smocks. These are very pretty, made of white in princess lines and trimmed in lavender or green. The advanced girls are just beginning on their tailored project. They decided on woolen dresses which give promise of turning out beautifully.

Miss Lukeshs Arithmetic classes, the seventh and eighth grades, are working on graphs. Her home room decoration committee is doing good work. They had leaves and pictures of Autumn grouped artistically on the bulletin board and were just beginning on Halloween decorations.

In Biology, the students have been studying plant life. In class they have studied structure of plants, flowers, fruit and their economic importance to man. In laboratory, the students have studied the structure of apples, finding in what place it begins to grow. In the structure of flowers, they took up each part and learned the importance of it.

The class also went on field trips, studying the different trees. Each student is required to have a herbarium, which must contain the leaves they have studied.

Miss Johnson's Literature class of Sophomores are studying "Sias Marner" by George Elliot. There has been some very interesting discussions in class.

The Senior Normal class planned to visit schools on Wednesday, but the rain caused the plans to be postponed.

HOME ROOM ACTIVITIES
Miss Blanchard is reading a book to her home room. The name of the book is "Tom Slade at Temple Camp" written by Fitzhugh.

Mr. Cass talked to Miss Jeary's home room about football Tuesday morning. Miss Bloodgood lead in assembly singing Thursday morning.

Miss Bloodgood talked to Mr. Redfern's home room about her trip to Europe.

A musical appreciation class was held in Miss Fredericksen's home room last week. Several numbers were played on the viola to contrast classical music with the popular music. Wednesday morning they were entertained by Margaret Keller, who played the ukelele and sang several popular pieces.

Tuesday and Wednesday Miss Nelson's home room enjoyed a talk by Miss Bloodgood, about her trip to Europe. Thursday and Friday Miss Nelson read a story "Gay Neck" by Mukerji.

Miss Bloodgood gave a talk on her trip to Europe in Miss Johnson's home room last week. It was enjoyed very much.

Miss Shaver Honored.
Miss Elizabeth Shaver of the local high school has been invited to participate on the program of the normal training section of the district No. 4 Nebraska State Teachers' Association which convenes in Grand Island, October 29 to November 1. LETZ MIXED FEED MAKER

Whether you are a large or small feeder, you can materially lower your production costs by preparing your feeds with a Letz Mixed Feed Maker.

Thousands of Letz users, including live stock raisers and dairymen in every state, have positively proved this. They say that the Letz Mixed Feed Maker will:

(1) save 25% to 50% of present feed costs by utilizing waste; (2) release up to 30% of your present feed acreage for cash crops; (3) increase milk and meat production up to 30% through better feed preparation; (4) save up to 25% of labor in handling feed crops; (5) improve health and condition of all farm animals.

The No. 230 Letz will cut, grind, and mix from 2,000 to 4,500 pounds of roughage and grain per hour—handling stalks, stems, leaves and all. It does a fine job of grinding ear corn and small grains, and it won't clog if the material is green or wet. Has double-automatic, all-steel feed table. Plates are self-sharpening and self-aligning.

Come in and let us tell you more about the Letz

M a x Cruikshank Gets Heifer From Ayrshire Herd

Local people who were given the privilege of seeing the great Ayrshire dairy herd from Ansley at the Valley county fair last fall wondered at their beauty. Some probably wish they had a few shares on the farm. One boy did and now he is about to realize his wish. He is Max Cruikshank of Arcadia, one of Valley county's foremost 4-H club boys.

Max made a deal with the Ansley dairy people last fall whereby he was to trade some of his precious Hampshire hogs for a young heifer. He picked out the heifer himself. "My heifer has a wonderful full air," Max declares enthusiastically. "He was first in the aged bull picked the heifer because the dam had a good record although a small cow. Max declares that he believes record of production is much more important than size of the cow and other Valley county farmers will agree with him in that respect.

"Sire and dam of a heifer seem to count a lot in the production the heifer may make later on. If that is true, I should have a good heifer," Max tells the Quiz.

With the addition of the Ayrshire heifer for 4-H dairy club work next year, Max is not going out of the Hampshire business. He is as strong for the Hamp as he ever was. This year he is planning bigger things than ever before.

Max is going to get a junior yearling from R. C. Holstein of Cairo, Nebr., and grow him out for showing at the larger fairs next year. The boar has been junior champion at many of the big fairs this year and should make a good show animal for Max next year.

"If I grow him out properly, he should make a good show hog next year. If he does his get will be in great demand," says Max in looking forward to the future. Leave it to Max, he will grow the boar out in the proper fashion.

Max is attending many of the prominent Hampshire sales over Nebraska this year in company with R. C. Holstein of Cairo. He has attended the sale of Harry Kroebe at Max, and plans to go to the John Valks sale at Battle Creek and to the Ed Rennick sale at Pilger. All are big Hampshire breeders.

"Sure do get to meet some big breeders at the sales. In addition an having a good time and learning a lot," Max asserts.

Boys now exceed girls in school attendance in Nebraska. Last year out of 416,644 pupils attending the city, village and rural schools, 212,626 were boys and 204,028 were girls.

Nebraska's Indian population is about 3,000. The United States government maintains a school for Indians at Genoa. It is attended by Indian boys and girls from all over the Middle West and West.

W. O. Zangger Plants Soy Beans In His Practice of Crop Rotation

There is one thing about soy beans, if you expect a crop of seed from them you must keep them clean. I have found that true by experience," declares Wilbur Q. Zangger of Olean, a farmer who practices crop rotation. Zangger has had soy beans in every year of the past ten and has seen the value they are as a crop and a soil builder. This year his beans were in on part of his farm along the North Loup-Ord highway by the Olean school house.

Though he had but eight acres planted, Zangger found them a profitable crop. Planting with an eleven foot grain drill, Wilbur put them in on July 8 in a low place where the corn had been grown out. Soy beans may be planted from early spring to midsummer. In using the eleven foot drill to plant the beans, Zangger closed up the holes in the drill box and left two six inches apart for each row. Corn planters are also very generally used for sowing the beans either alone or with corn. Special attachments may be purchased for the planter but the Valley county farmer found the common grain drill to be all right with the space between rows adjusted by covering the feed cups not wanted.

Finding cultivation an important factor in seed production, Mr. Zangger went over them twice with a rotary hoe and twice with the cultivator. The beans were put in rows for better seed production.

When asked if he would have more soybeans again next year, Mr. Zangger said, "You bet I will."

Prospective conditions are such that Valley county and other county hog producers may well consider raising fully as many next year for 1931 litters as in the past two years," declared Prof. Harold Hedges of the rural economics department, University of Nebraska, today. Feed costs during the 1930-31 marketing season, beginning October 1, will be high, though he warns Valley county farmers.

Feed grain supplies for the state as a whole are somewhat larger than the average, Hedges said. Valley county's grain supply is considered at least normal also. The relative of hog prices to feed costs will be more favorable in Nebraska than in most of the other principal hog producing districts. There is a good chance that prices during the 1931-32 marketing season will be high enough to make hog raising a profitable enterprise even though production costs will be high for the rest of 1930 and much of 1931.

In planning future operations, Hedges believes Valley county hog producers should keep in mind that shortage of feed in the corn belt will probably mean some bunching of marketing in early winter at lighter average weights. Reduced supplies in late winter and early spring will also result. Valley county farmers may also find feed prices higher in 1930-31 than in 1929-30 and hog prices may average higher. Prospects for added profits from hog prices during the 1931-32 marketing year are more encouraging, Hedges reports.

Local farmers with almost a normal crop may profit from maintaining or even increasing modestly the size of their breeding herds with corn supplies in the United States short. The 1930 Valley county corn crop appears to be at least average. Relatively high costs for the feed will bring about reduction in hog production in the United States. It may be that Valley county farmers will increase their production instead.

Nebraska not only has about an average corn crop but has the advantage of a big supply of substitute feeds on hand. Producers should watch relative prices of wheat and other small grain and substitutes for corn when they can do so at an advantage, Hedges warns.

Hedges based his statements largely on the 1930-31 hog outlook of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Monthly Report Predicts Hog Prices To Lower

Lower hog prices and well sustained prices for finished steers and feeding cattle are predicted for the next thirty days by the economic situation monthly report from the rural economics department of the University of Nebraska.

The report also indicates there may be little change in wheat prices; seasonal weakness in corn prices, some seasonal improvement in butter prices, little higher egg prices, and steady to weak poultry prices.

Continued pressure of supplies and exports in quantities will probably permit little if any recovery in wheat prices, according to the report. Changes for immediate gains rest largely on the possibility of a turn for the worse in growing conditions in the southern hemisphere. Here, a crop outlook is now quite favorable.

Exporting countries continue to compete severely in offering wheat for shipment. Pressure of Russian and Canadian supplies will probably continue for the next few weeks.

Weather has been normal progress toward maturity, there may be some seasonal weakness in prices for the next thirty days. No material decline is forecast though. Adverse weather and interference with the harvest and early crop outlook is now quite favorable.

Government estimates indicate a corn crop of 2,047 million bushels this year. This is 567 million bushels less than last year's crop. The report also indicates that maturity of the new crop and an early movement to market is anticipated.

Seasonally lower hog prices are probable for Valley county farmers in the next thirty-day period. Hedges says in his monthly report. Not once in the last twenty years has the November top price for hogs in Omaha been above the October top price. Only twice has it equaled the October best price.

Movement of spring pigs gets under way in late October, resulting in the downward trend in prices.

The pork storage situation continues quite favorable. The holdings of pork meat on October 17 were 26 percent under a year ago and 17 percent below average.

Foreign demand for United States products is sluggish and may become more so in view of the prospects for a record slaughter of hogs in Denmark and substantial increase in German hog production.

Valley county farmers may find well sustained prices for finished steers and for stocker and feeders in the next thirty days, Hedges believes. Lower grades of slaughter cattle are in less favorable position.

Some gain in demand for feeding cattle is probable for the next few weeks, the report indicates. Well-sustained fat cattle prices and fairly good margin between feeding and fat cattle should encourage some movement into feed lots for the market. Auctions are in strong hands with ranger producers inclined to carry over large numbers of cattle rather than to sell at low prices.

Fewer Baby Beeves At Ak Show But Quality Is High

Valley county 4-H club members showing the baby beeves at the annual Ak-Sar-Ben livestock exposition in Omaha during the latter part of this month will find strong competition from other Nebraska club members, as well as from those from three other states.

The show will be stronger than ever in quality although not so many beeves will be shown.

Last year over six hundred club calves were shown at the Ak-Sar-Ben. This year the entries indicate there will be but 430 calves shown. This is explained by the fact that there will be more culling out at home and better quality calves shown.

In the past years the culling out committee has sifted many of the calves to market without showing. They will probably have but few to show this year. Valley county's group will be stronger than last year.

Nebraska leads the states in the baby beef entries with 286 calves expected to show. Iowa has 183 calves entered while Missouri has six and Kansas five. More herefords will be shown than any other breed. Twenty-nine Nebraska counties, including Valley, will have beeves at the big Omaha show. Twenty-one counties from Iowa will be represented.

With club swine entered from Nebraska and probably planned to be shown by club members. None are to be exhibited from Valley county. Only eight counties from the two states are sending entries. More Poland chinas will be shown than any other breed.

NEW CIRCULAR GIVES HALLOWEEN SUGGESTIONS
Hallowe'en time is just around the corner and many boys and girls in Ord and other towns in Valley county are probably planning to have a party. Planning it, they want to have some new entertainment and it presents a problem. Getting a free copy of extension circular 643 on a community program with Hallowe'en suggestions will help. The bulletin may be secured at County Agent Dale's office in Ord.

The new circular gives suggestions for costumes at the Hallowe'en party and gives suggestions for effective invitations.

Valley county people securing copies of the free circular will find suggestions for appropriate games for the Hallowe'en party. The circular also tells about a clever reception for guests at the party.

By Geo. Round, Jr.

Another booster for the ag page and one who actually reads it each week is Will King, farmer living south of Ord but who soon plans to move to town. Mr. King thinks the page is all right and even comes out and admits he reads it and my hope. Whether he believes it is a different question, he doesn't have to.

Results of recent studies made of abortion at the agricultural college indicate that some Valley county farmers may have the wrong conception of the disease which results in much loss each year.

Each year some Valley county farmers vaccinate their cattle against abortion, those who have aborted before. In many cases of which I have knowledge, of abortion has stopped after the vaccination. The question though, has been whether the cows would have aborted without vaccination.

The tests at the college prove that cows aborting twice may abort after that time or there may be a lapse of several years before they will abort again. It might be that those local farmers who have vaccinated for abortion are not proving anything because if nature had taken its course the cows might not have aborted either.

Nevertheless, any abortion will remain a disease which puzzles many Valley county farmers. It is one that needs further study.

The Profitable Pork Special train which passed through Ord and made stop here about this time last fall has proven its worth, according to a survey made recently and released from the college of agriculture. It seems as though Nebraska farmers may have heeded to some extent the lesson given out by the train in reference to hog lot sanitation. Despite the fact that I believe the Profitable Pork Special was worthy and deserves credit for placing Nebraska's hog producing ability on a higher standard, I often question in my own mind as to whether such procedure is economically sound.

It wasn't so many years ago that prominent men in this country made statements to the effect that if the population kept on increasing that within a short time, livestock would be fed nothing but roughage and no grain. They made the statement to the effect that the grain would be needed for human consumption.

Now today it appears as though the hog has come to the aid of the Federal Farm Board in the matter of consumption, though it may not be human consumption. The old theory as stated above has failed to work. Today people are begging the hog to eat grain, even such high quality grain as wheat. Ten or twenty years ago people would not have believed such an incident would occur perhaps.

Today Mr. Hog is living in luxury, speaking of food which he is fed. He does not get the chaff and roughage as was predicted not long ago by so-called authorities but consumes that which goes into the making of high class human food.

Perhaps the Federal Farm Board and similar organizations have overlooked the hog in the past. The present supply of food products is blamed to under consumption and not overproduction. It occurs to me that perhaps this under consumption has not only been on the part of humans but the hog as well. When in the past has he eaten wheat for breakfast, dinner and supper? Apparently he is consuming as much as possible today and doing so with a well relieving the present wheat situation.

Addition of the new feature on Gramlich's feeding opinions for the ag page is in line with the editor's desire to give our readers the best agricultural page in Nebraska. It is doubtful if another weekly in the state has such an agricultural page but, nevertheless, it is our plan to make it better from time to time.

Clare Clement, prominent Mire Valley livestock breeder, will vouch for the fact that Prof. Gramlich is one of the best feeding authorities in the middlewest and one of the nation's outstanding hog stock judges. It was Clare who was so influential in bringing Mr. Gramlich to Valley county and fall to judge cattle at the local fair.

hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said County, this 29th day of September, 1930.

14 Dairy Herds On Honor Roll

Valley county has fourteen dairy herds on the national honor roll, according to word sent the Quiz this morning from E. C. Scheidhelm, dairy specialist at the agricultural college. The honor roll is made up of all herds producing 300 pounds or more of butterfat in the United States. There are 304 Nebraska herds on the roll.

Of the 304 herds on the honor roll, 47 were credited with averages of 400 pounds of butterfat or more. Six of the number had averages of over 500 pounds butterfat.

With twenty-six herds in the Valley County Dairy Herd Improvement Association last year, fourteen made records of 300 pounds butterfat and up. One of the herds produced better than 400 pounds. No local herds were in the five hundred or better class, according to the report from Scheidhelm.

Sir Thomas Lipton, Famed Yachtsman, Once Ran Mule-Cars Near New Orleans

ONE fact not generally known about the man who rose from poverty to become one of the world's greatest merchant princes, to walk with kings and, in leisure moments, to seek to wrest the racing trophy from America, is that he once drove a mule car for a livelihood in Carrollton, La., not many miles from New Orleans. The man is Sir Thomas Lipton of Scotland.

And though he has since become a Knight Commander of the Victorian Order, one of the Majesty's Lieutenants of the City of London, Freeman of the City of Glasgow and Grand Officer of the Order of the Crown of Italy and of the Order of St. Sava, of Serbia, Sir Thomas hasn't lost the common touch.

Those Pancakes
In 1912 and again in 1921 he visited in New Orleans to revive those old memories, to talk once more with the woman at whose house he boarded for $5 a week and whose succulent pancakes he looked forward to each day. He is proud of those days in Louisiana.

He had arrived there as a stowaway from New York at the age of 17. He got a job in a grocery store in New Orleans, lost it, wandered six miles to Carrollton and found work there washing cars in the car barns of the mule-drawn street railway. His other incidental duties were grooming mules, repairing cars, mending harnesses.

He proved a more handy man about the barns than even that. For when, on occasions, the regular mule-car driver would fall to show up in the morning, young Lipton would mount the front platform, grab the reins, and gallop his carload of passengers to where it connected with the New Orleans cars.

For his pains he received the weekly salary of $6. Of this amount $5 went to the woman with whom he luckily found lodgings and who could make pancakes so well.

cade Nebraska has been occupying second place in literacy, yielding a shade of superiority to Iowa. But there is reason for the hope that when the 1930 census figures are ready Nebraska will have regained her old place of number one.

Nebraska ranks sixth in the percentage of income spent on education. The total school bill of the state is $35,000,000. A source of great income to the state is the lease rentals from 1,591,658 acres of school lands belonging to the state. These were lands reserved to the state when the government's land area was platted. The income from this source in 1929 was $1,157,808.10. These funds were allotted to the schools in the ratio of their enrollment.

Another source of considerable revenue to high school districts is the tuition paid for pupils of rural schools who receive high school education. It is only in recent years that the pupil in a rural school could enjoy the benefits of a high school education at the cost of the taxpayers of his district.

Formerly his parents paid the bill or he worked his way through high school. Now a rural pupil has the privilege of choosing any high school at a state in the best and his district must pay the tuition cost. Last year the city and village high schools received over $2,000,000.00 in tuition from this source.

Nebraska has 841 high schools, 308 of which are approved, 464 accredited and 49 minor accredited. Normal training is offered in 228 high schools, which graduated 2,100 students last year. The schools offer employment to about 15,000 teachers and turn out about 11,000 graduates each year.

NEBRASKANS ARE PROUD OF THEIR INTEREST IN EDUCATION

Educators in Nebraska are waiting with considerable expectancy the forthcoming census reports that will show the extent of literacy in this state. For the past de-sent to consumers and one of the questions was: "What type of advertising attracts you most?" Two hundred and twenty-one replies were received and the voters were to select first, second, third, fourth choice up to seventh, which covered all supposedly popular methods of advertising.

Here is the first choice vote:
Newspaper Advertising—173
Window Displays—86
Friends' Opinions—46
Circular Letters—10
Mail Order House Catalogs—8
Hand Bills—4
Highway Billboards—2
Radio—2

A number of votes were cast for each choice from first to seventh for all media except radio. It received two votes for first choice and not one more for any other choice.

All of which goes to prove that newspaper advertising is the most economical and most effective form of advertising.

It is a form of advertising to which the people are most responsive and evidence of this response is being demonstrated every week in the Northfield News territory.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By Edson R. Wolfe
Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT business concerns who spend just enough money for advertising to keep going can't expect to keep growing. Advertising attracts the attention of those who have money to spend.

Every business concern has something to sell that the public wants. The ones who don't tell the public what they have will find that those who do so are getting the business.

Advertisements are the buyers' guide. Everybody reads them in order to find where to buy to the best advantage.

Modern business concerns advertise only the best in quality. Everyone knows that fact.

It was this woman Lipton had the pleasure of meeting when he visited New Orleans in the autumn of 1912. Despite her advanced age, she called on the now distinguished visitor at the St. Charles hotel, where he was stopping. They dined together. Sir Thomas relates the meeting as follows:

"During the meal she leaned over the table and said, 'Do you remember saying, Sir Thomas, that my pancakes were every bit as good as those your mother used to make?'"

"Laughingly I replied that I not only remembered saying it but that I remembered the pancakes even better. This meeting was for me the most refreshing link with the past; and I can truthfully say that in all America there was no one with whom I would rather have renewed a friendship than with this dear old lady."

This is typical of Lipton's democratic spirit. It is said, in fact, that Sir Thomas' proudest boast is that he is still plain "Tommy".

Lipton is over 80 years old. Sir Thomas has never married, has not a single relative in the world. His great tea business is carrying itself along without him. More pertinent to him now is winning that America's yachting cup, for which he has tried five times, costing him more than $5,000,000. His ambition in life, as he himself says, is to "hit that damned old mule". And the sentiment of the American people, won by his great sportsmanship, is that his ambition will be gratified.

Elevations increase steadily in Nebraska from east to west. Near the Richardson county the lowest elevation is 825 feet. On the table land between Banner and Kimball counties near the Wyoming line the highest elevation is 5,342 feet.

IRRIGATION COST LOW IN VALLEY OF NORTH LOUP

Federal Engineer Tells Rotary Club Irrigation Cheapest Here In Missouri Region.

The cost of irrigating in the North Loup river valley between Taylor and North Loup would be 50 percent less than any other region in the entire Missouri river basin, members of the Ord Rotary club were told Monday by Messrs. Neff, Murphy and Engstrom, federal engineers who arrived in Ord Monday to conduct a survey of this valley. The natural minimum flow of the Loup river is sufficient to supply every acre of irrigable land in the valley, they said.

Their present trip to Ord is the second these three engineers have made and all seemed enthusiastic over prospects of eventually establishing reservoirs and a system of ditches in this valley. Bert M. Hardenbrook, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee on irrigation, introduced Messrs. Neff, Murphy and Engstrom at the Rotary luncheon Monday. Mr. Neff, who heads the party, was first introduced and explained work being done by the army engineering corps.

Several years ago Congress appropriated $5,000,000 to be used in making a survey of irrigation possibilities. Before this work got well under way came the disastrous Mississippi river flood and the next session of Congress appropriated $165,000,000 to be used for levee and dike in the lower Mississippi valley. It was suggested that flood control could best be accomplished by establishing reservoirs at the headwaters of the Mississippi so an additional $5,000,000 was added to the original appropriation and was put to work. The survey being done here is a portion of this work and expenditure of the $165,000,000 appropriation will be based upon the report of the corps.

Mr. Neff and his party were here last spring and surveyed the old Burwell irrigation project, which would divert water from the Loup about eight miles above Burwell and extend it to the city limits of Ord on the west side of the river. About nine thousand acres are included in this project. The old North Loup project which covered about nine thousand acres between Ord and North Loup on the west side also was surveyed last spring. At present the city engineers are surveying the project east of the river, between Haskell Creek and the Sumner bridge. All three of these projects are feasible, the engineers believe.

It was Mr. Neff who first made the statement that the cost per acre of irrigation in the Loup valley would be cheaper than elsewhere in the Missouri basin but Mr. Murphy, who is head of the bureau of designing and estimating, later amplified this statement by saying the cost per acre would run 50 percent less here than anywhere else in the Missouri basin. North Loup valley land lies better for irrigation than any he has ever seen, Mr. Murphy said.

Mr. Engstrom, who was the last speaker, has charge of soil survey work and said Loup valley land was better than any he has ever seen. The main feature of the festival will be the supper which is to be served from booths, each booth representing a month of the year. Other attractions planned for the evening will consist of a short program, a playlet and a social hour.

Ord Hi Gridders Lose Hard Luck Game to Ravenna

Coach Krejci's Ord high school football team deserved to win a game last Friday but in the last thirty seconds of play dropped a hard luck struggle to Ravenna, the score being 8 to 7. A Ravenna touchdown in the final minute dashed Ord's hopes to the ground. Ravenna jumped into a two-point lead early in the game when they pushed Ord back over their own goal line for a safety but a few minutes later Bill Graddock plunged to a touchdown and added the extra point to give Ord the long end of the 7-2 count. There the score stood until the final seconds, when Ravenna started a drive that ended in a touchdown just before the final whistle blew.

This game shows the progress Coach Krejci's pupils are making for the week previous Ravenna beat Ord 27 to 0, and if comparative scores mean anything the Ord boys should win some games before the season ends.

THREE HAWKS TO GIVE AIR SHOW HERE SATURDAY

Noted Pilots Will Present Air Races, Stunting and Also Parachute Jumps.

Ord is to have an air circus next Saturday when three of the latest types of planes will be here to stage a very thrilling aerial show. "The Three Hawks" consist of "The Mohawk," the "Tommy Hawk" and the "Black Hawk." The "Mohawk" is a special built stunt plane having a special tank built in the landing gear, capable of flying and is painted 21 different colors. This plane is flown by Paul "Streamline" Miller. The "Tommy Hawk" is a three-place open sport plane, piloted by Bobby "Whirlwind" Hohag. The "Black Hawk" is a six-passenger cabin monoplane, powered by a Wright Whirlwind motor, is piloted by L. P. Quinn.

The show will include air races stunting by both "The Tommy Hawk" and "The Mohawk," which also stunt together, wing-walking and a parachute jump by the "Dare-devil of the Air," Louis Tjaden, well known for his delayed parachute drops, falling more than 1000 feet before opening the chute.

The "Three Hawks" are well known over most of the United States, having shown in 22 states and carried more than 36,000 passengers in the past 10 years.

The show is scheduled to start at 3:00 p. m. During the afternoon passengers will be taken up at reduced rates. Other details will be announced following the arrival of James H. Palmer, advance agent for "The Three Hawks."

COUNTY HUSKING CONTEST WILL BE HELD ON NOV. 7

Farm South Of Brace School Will Be Scene Of Match. Huskers Are Entered.

Valley county's annual corn husking contest will be held Friday Nov. 7, on the Stanley Green farm three miles south of the Brace school house, the Quiz was informed yesterday by County Agent C. C. Dale. Eleven corn huskers have already entered the affair and three more will be accepted, Mr. Dale says.

The field selected for this year's contest is the best on which a Valley county contest has ever been held, according to people who have viewed it. The corn will make 40 bushels to the acre, rows are 100 rods long, the land lies level and the corn is clean and stands up well. It is listed corn.

Three prizes, $15, $10 and $5 are being offered to the three top huskers. They are offered jointly by the Ord Chamber of Commerce and the Valley county farm bureau, sponsors of the contest.

Huskers already entered include Victor Larsen, Arcadia, John W. Kennedy, Horace, Bill Flock, Ericson, Oscar Bredthauer, North Loup and Ross Leonard, Victor Benben, Alvin Larsen, John G. Lemmon, Earl H. Leonard, James Bremer and H. S. Flock of Ord.

Usual husking contest rules will prevail. The contestants will husk for one hour and twenty minutes, taking two rows at a time. Demonstrations will be made for more than 4 ounces of husks per hundred pounds of corn and also for any corn left in the field. Three judges are yet to be appointed.

The Valley county contest will start promptly at 1:30 p. m. and it is expected that a large crowd of spectators will be attracted to the event. Ross Leonard is the favorite so far, as he is a former Valley county champion, but each of the other entries has his adherents.

The winner of this contest will be eligible to enter the state contest at Alma, County Agent Dale says.

NO DEARTH OF HUNTERS BUT BIRDS ARE WARY

Many Nimrods Fail To Get Limit Reports County Clerk; 10-Day Season Over Nov. 1.

More pheasant hunters are hunting, but either the birds are scarcer, the hunters are not so clever as in former years, or the pheasants are wiser. Take your choice!

This is the verdict of Ign. Klima, Jr., county clerk, after six days of pheasant tagging. He reports the number of hunters in Valley county to be larger than in former years, despite the fact that there are more counties open this year than previously. But the hunters who come into his office aren't getting the limit—far from it.

It is difficult to tally up the exact number of birds that have been killed by outside hunters so far this season. They may be checked out at Mr. Klima's office in Ord, at several places in North Loup and Arcadia, at Elyria, at the August road at the Joe Waldmann place on the Sargent road.

County Clerk Klima reports that on the first six days of the open season this year approximately 2,200 birds were checked out through his office. At the Waldmann place 315 were tagged the first six days. No figures are available for other checking out places though Weddel Bros. at Arcadia report issuing 125 tags Sunday afternoon alone.

More outside hunters were here on opening day and on Sunday than on other days, Mr. Klima reports. His office issued 130 tags last Thursday, 97 on Friday, 90 on Saturday, 160 on Sunday and 35 each Monday and Tuesday. Many of the hunters went home without the limit, the county clerk reports.

No serious gunshot accidents have been reported but there have been the usual few minor casualties. Ed Christensen of Arcadia received a couple of shot in the face from a gun shot by his brother, Fred. Allen Holeman, also of Arcadia was accidentally shot in the groin and a finger of his right hand. He had to stay in bed several days but is recovering nicely. A few other reports of minor injuries have been received. The open season will close at 6 p. m. Saturday and after that hunters will have to wait another year before they can shoot pheasants legally.

Early Pastor's Son Visits

The second regular preacher in Ord was Rev. Wesley Wilson of the Methodist church. He was pastor here for a year and a half in 1880-1. He lived only a year or two after leaving Ord but is surviving in North Loup last Sunday of Central City. The latter is superintendent of the Friends Yearly Meeting, which keeps him traveling over Nebraska, South Dakota and other adjacent territory. He and his mother were attending the Friends quarterly conference in North Loup last Saturday and drove up to Ord just to see their old home of a half century ago, where the younger Wilson was born in 1881. They called on Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Haskell and would have tried to meet a fair sized crowd heard the ex-governor, Charley Bryan, speak here Tuesday evening. He is campaigning for election against Governor Weaver.

Besides her immediate family, Mrs. Kaiser leaves a host of friends in Ord.

Mrs. Parks Wed To Harold Reisen

At Kearney last Saturday occurred the marriage of Mrs. Henrietta Parks to Harold Reisen, the Rev. D. A. Johnson performing the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Reisen left immediately for northwestern Nebraska to spend a week on a ranch owned by Mr. Reisen's sister, after which they will be at home in Kearney. Mrs. Reisen will continue to conduct her dress shop while her husband will continue as manager of the radio department in the Montgomery Ward store.

Both of the parties are former Ord people. Mrs. Parks was divorced by her husband and Mr. Reisen by his wife while they resided in this city.

Several members of the local lodge spoke briefly. The tempting banquet was prepared and served by Eastern Star members and music during the meal was furnished by the Auble orchestra.

Frank Bruha Fined, Pays $300 for Team

Driving his car while intoxicated last Wednesday, Frank Bruha ran into a team of horses driven by Joe Ptacnik and injured the horses so badly that both had to be killed. He was taken into custody by Sheriff George Round and Saturday in county court was fined $50 for intoxication and Judge J. H. Hollingshead revoked his license to drive an automobile for one year. POWER QUESTION WILL BE VOTED ON NEXT TUESDAY Shall Power Plants Owned By The People Have Same Privilege As Private Plants?

Shall the power plants owned by the people in Nebraska's various cities have the same freedom to expand as have plants owned by private capital, or shall they continue to be handicapped? This is, in substance, the question which voters of Nebraska must decide at the general election Tuesday, Nov. 4.

Voters who believe in municipal or public ownership will vote for freedom to expand or for Proposal No. 324. Those opposed to municipal ownership, even where already established, will vote for No. 326.

What it's all about is ably explained in the following portion of an editorial from the Grand Island Daily Independent:

For some years advocates of municipal ownership and particularly in such cities as have successfully managed municipal plants, tried to get legislation permitting them to sell electricity to farmers in the surrounding territory. But the legislators have refused such legislation. The League of Nebraska Municipalities, of which our own Mayor Abbott was elected president last week, finally resolved to submit the question under the initiative and referendum, and to ask the voters to grant them such power. This league now represents some 200 cities and towns. At its last meeting a year ago they initiated a movement to submit the proper law at this year's election. To do so they organized "The People's Light and Power Co.," with Attorney General C. A. Sorenson as chairman; C. E. Deale, of Ord, as secretary-treasurer, a number of mayors among whom, again, is our own Mr. Abbott, as vice-chairman, and a like executive committee. This organization framed a law, and secured more than the required number of petitioners to place it, by title, on the ballot. This law provides:

That cities and villages having their own electric plants may extend such plants, for the distribution of light and power, beyond their boundaries and thus serve rural communities and other municipalities, provided that no such thereof must be paid out of the net earnings of the plant or lines and not by taxes or bonds.

That they may connect and interconnect their power, plants, lines or systems, for the payment of the cost thereof.

That they may not sell or alienate their power plant, distribution system or transmission lines to private persons or corporations without favorable vote of sixty percent of the voters, and that no such sale or alienation shall be effective until all of the facts concerning the plant sold shall be filed with the State Department of Public Works, and that no private person or corporation may, in order to promote and bring about the sale or alienation of any such public owned power plant or system or lines, pay out and expend an amount in the excess of a sum equal in number of dollars to the number of voters in the municipality or public power district affected.

Clerk of the District Court

What the AUDITORS have to say about my office:
It has been our pleasure to be a party to two audits of your office during your incumbency as Clerk of the Court. Both times we were impressed with the smoothness and ease with which the affairs of the office seemed to be handled.
Of course, our examination had to do with the accounting side of the office, of which we can knowingly say that it was conducted honestly, accurately, and with care. We also found that the dockets and records of the office were kept in a very understandable manner.
VanBoskirk-Remington Certified Public Accountants By Robert H. Van Boskirk.

REMARKS OF CHES CHINN:
I believe Miss Jackman has been an honest and efficient officer, as Clerk of the District Court, and is familiar with the work. Why make a change?
CHES CHINN, North Loup, Neb.

What JUDGE BAYARD H. PAINE has to say about my office:
I am very much pleased to say that you have been a very efficient clerk and have conducted your office in a very satisfactory manner. Your records have always been up-to-date and nothing has ever been dragging in your office to my knowledge.
You have handled your duties in empanelling juries in a very satisfactory manner, which comes from years of experience in the office. I have never heard any objections to your work from attorneys, litigants or jurymen, and this should be a source of satisfaction to you.
Bayard H. Paine District Judge.

What JUDGE E. P. CLEMENTS Says About My Office:
I have read the letter from Judge Paine which you handed to me and have no hesitation in endorsing all that he says of your conduct of the office.
While I do not desire to take any part in political contests there is no reason why I should not bear witness to what is known by any one familiar with the work you have done while an incumbent of the office.
Judge E. P. Clements.

Interesting Facts About Our New Band Leader, Theodore Toenniges

After Prof. Hautala left Ord, the question which arose in the minds of the people and music students was, "When is our new band leader coming?" Have they any prospects yet? Then Mr. Toenniges came and the questions turned to exclamations of, "The new band leader is here!" Can he play the saxophone? "No!" he is simply uncanny with a clarinet!" and many like remarks. As usual the high school girls wanted to know if he was married. Well, girls, he is and has a very charming wife for I have met her.

Perhaps you would be interested in knowing a little of the career of this important factor in our community.

He was born in Rock Island, Illinois, September 7, 1901. Shortly afterward his family moved to DeKalb, Illinois. Here he attended grade and high school.

The family being very musical naturally tended to his beginning study of music quite young.

The first instrument he mastered was the clarinet, beginning the study of it when but eight years of age. Later he took up violin and piano. His father who played the Third Regiment Band, which by the way, won several state contests, was soon able to place his son in the organization as a member.

After finishing high school he attended Plattville Normal where he made all state guard in basketball and all conference full-back in football.

While attending Plattville Normal he was given charge of the band and orchestra there.

Finishing school he went to Detroit where he secured a position as double on violin and saxophone at the Pier Ballroom which was the biggest ballroom in Detroit.

After this venture he went to the old "Fox Theater" where he played the violin and saxophone in the orchestra there. Then for 4 year he played in the Detroit Symphony but finding theater business more profitable, financially, he secured a position as director of the Capitol Theater orchestra, and at the same time he played with the theater's stage-band.

In the capacity of first chairman on the saxophone, doubling clarinet, he played in the new twelve million dollar Fox theater where the orchestra was made up of fifty-six men in the pit, and while there, he directed the stage band, too.

Further music study in preparation for directing in the capacity in which he now is, took place at the University of Michigan where he studied cello, trumpet, orchestration and class teaching method for all instruments in both grade school and high school.

He studied clarinet with Albert Luconi, solo clarinetist in Detroit Symphony, saxophone with Arturo of Chicago; Violin with Hans Letts of Chicago. He also did extensive work in the professional teaching line. When he finished at Michigan he made arrangements for his coming to Ord. Besides teaching music in the school here, he is going to start a Civic orchestra and boost the level of music to a high standard. We feel very fortunate in having secured a man of such wide experience for our band leader.

Girl Reserve Meeting.
A group of girls met at the school house on Wednesday, October 22 to attend a Girl Reserve meeting which proved to be a very enjoyable one for all.

The meeting was about Vocations and was led by Esther Zulkoski in a way to attract and hold the attention of everyone.

The first thing on the program was special talks given by three of the O. H. S. girls, Miss Hardin, Miss Bloodgood and Miss Frederickson. They told why they had chosen their subject and teaching as a vocation and how it may benefit others to do likewise. Miss Hardin's subject was Home Economics and the other two, Miss Bloodgood's, music and Miss Frederickson's commercial. They were all very interesting. After these talks the club sang two hymns. These were followed by a short business meeting after which the benediction was repeated and the meeting was adjourned.

Girl Reserve Like.
For several days there was a bulletin passed around to the different rooms stating that there would be a Girl Reserve Weirner roast on Thursday, Oct. 23 at 4:30. This statement was included, "Don't be afraid of the cold weather." It was cold that week and it looked very much as if Thursday would be too. But, Thursday came around with a warm cheery sun and the day was a beautiful one for a hike.

Many Girl Reserves were at the school at 4:30 to go. A few went before to mark the trail. The weirner roast took place about a mile out of town. It proved to be very successful for everyone came home saying what a wonderful time they had.

G. R. Candle Light Service.
On Tuesday, October 28 at 7:30 the annual Girl Reserve Candle Light Service will take place in the high school auditorium. The Girl Reserves are planning to take in quite a few members at this meeting.

RAVENNA DEFEATS ORD BY SMALL MARGIN
A big crowd attended one of the most exciting games played at Bussell park, Friday, between Ravenna and Ord. The score being 7-3 in favor of Ravenna.

Ord's eleven showed plenty of fight and fire throughout the whole game. In the first quarter Ord made a safety which marked a score of 2 for Ravenna.

The second quarter proved very exciting. Earl Klein put on a good fight, he was knocked out for a few minutes but kept on playing until the end of the game. Bill Garnick carried the ball across the line which made the score 7-2 in favor of Ord at the end of the half.

In the third quarter determination to win was shown by both teams, but neither team scored.

The fourth quarter was exciting up until the last minute, and with only two minutes to play, Ravenna made a touchdown, making the score 7-3 in favor of Ravenna.

LOYALTY
(By Leonard Desmull)
We all like the fellow who will and does stand up for his family and his friends and his school. We don't care for a boy or man who wouldn't stand up for his country. Genuine loyalty is a glorious sort of double-action sticking stuff that holds the world together and makes it go round. But steer clear of the cheap substitute known as blind loyalty; it often cracks under the tension, and always slows up your progress. It pays to watch your own brand of loyalty. To claim that your friend or team can't make a mistake is silly—that is blind loyalty. To grab onto a mistake is useless—and plain disloyalty. So admit the mistake and do all you can to get it corrected. It is hard—but that's loyalty, the sticking stuff of real men.

Convocation, October 24, 1930

Our Football Rally can be summed up in five words: "Plenty of Determination and Pep." But I know you're interested in knowing more about it.

Never before has there been such a response to the yells and singing. And by the way, the band, directed by Mr. Toenniges, furnished us with several numbers.

The contest was good! Of course we girls won. Well, haven't you heard? The cheer leaders were curious to know who could make the most noise, the girls screaming or the boys whistling. The boys didn't stand a chance.

Did I mention the new yells we learned? We certainly must hand it to our cheer leaders for being everything cheer leaders should be. After singing the Boo! Boo! song we passed to our classes with much discussion and anticipation of the afternoon game.

THE HI-Y CLUB
The Hi-Y club of our high school is not what it should be under the circumstances, and the opinion is that it is up to our high school boys to make it good.

At the present our club has about twenty members. Considering the size of our school there should be nearly twice that many. What is the matter? There are many like-able boys in the school who would please the cabinet and sponsors of the club very much by just submitting their names for membership.

Our club has a very fine program outlined for this year and the present outlook is that it will carry out this program. There are conferences to be attended in Lincoln this fall, camps for Hi-Y boys next summer, and a general good time during the school year. Not only a good time but a lot of learning or knowledge to be gained also.

The cabinet stressed especially the fact that they wished to have all the members capable of both the football and basketball teams.

Back us up, high school boys, and (as one sees at the bottom of a political advertisement) boost for the Hi-Y club. Your support will be appreciated.

Electric Light and Power at Actual Cost Made Possible By Proposed Bill. Are you interested in lower electric light and power rates? Are you interested in freeing Nebraska from the dictation of the power trust? Vote FOR the Power Bill drawn by Attorney General C. A. Sorensen which will be designated on the ballot as No. 324, a measure endorsed by 100 Mayors, the League of Women Voters, Farm Leaders, Labor Organizations, the League of Nebraska Municipalities, Progressive Chambers of Commerce, and such civic leaders as Senator George W. Norris, ex-Congressman J. N. Norton, Attorney General C. A. Sorensen, T. S. Allen, Edgar Ferneau, C. E. Abbott, E. B. Perry, H. E. Sackett, and many others. The merits of the proposed law are that: 1. It gives publicly-owned light and power plants the same chance that private power companies now have to expand and serve the public, a right that fair-minded men and women will not refuse to grant. 2. If the bill is approved by the people, farmers, and town people in Nebraska can then, whenever they wish, get electric light and power at cost. 3. By permitting the cost of plants, equipment, and power lines to be paid for by pledging the future earnings thereof, a feasible and practical method is provided by which light and power can be furnished to farmers and towns without taxes or bond issues. MARK YOUR BALLOT AS FOLLOWS: 322 Yes Fake Power Bill sponsored by enemies of Public ownership. 323 No 324 Yes Power Bill endorsed by farm and labor leaders and cities and towns. 325 No and towns. 326 Yes Other Bill sponsored by some private power companies. 327 No (Cut this out and take it with you to the Polls) People's Light & Power Association C. Alfred A. WIEGARDT Democratic Nominee FOR Clerk of the District Court For 31 years a continuous resident of Valley County excepting two years spent in the army during the World War. A graduate of the Ord high school with some teaching experience and for the past seven years employed by the Sack Lumber and Coal Co. in the capacity of bookkeeper. Should it be my good fortune to be elected by the people of Valley county to the office of Clerk of the District Court you may be assured that the very best of my efforts will be given to serve the public. YOUR VOTE ON NEXT TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 4 WILL BE GREATLY APPRECIATED!

POWER QUESTION WILL BE VOTED ON NEXT TUESDAY

When the provisions of this law as proposed by the League of Municipalities through its People's Light and Power Association, became known, the opposition to municipal ownership—or at least the opposition to granting municipalities such freedom of action—framed a counter proposal. In some respects the counter proposal is similar but it has other provisions which would completely frustrate the purposes of the League. It would cripple municipal plants that were requested to extend lines to rural regions, or to nearby villages, by demanding a special election and vote of the people any time the duly authorized authorities would be able and willing to make the requested extensions. These counter proposals known as "No. 322 For and 323 Against", and "326 For and 327 Against", are said to have been written by attorneys for the private interests. The "326 For and 327 Against"—see the form in an adjacent column—would reduce the majority required for the sale of a municipal plant from 60 to 50 percent.

VOTERS . . . WAKE UP!

The advertising matter mailed to you is of vital importance to every voter of the State of Nebraska, as it deals with the question of allowing cities and towns to extend light and power lines to other towns and to FARMERS, and provides that the cost of same shall be paid out of net earnings of the plant, and not by taxation or bonds. This bill only gives to the PEOPLE the same rights and privileges as are now enjoyed by the private corporations.

Just ask yourself this question: Why should Municipal light and power plants be legally barred from serving farmers and other towns in their immediate territory?

Make your cross opposite No. 323 and No. 324 and No. 327 on your ballot next Tuesday, and you will thereby vote for the PEOPLE'S BILL and against the opposition bills.

PEOPLES LIGHT AND POWER ASSOCIATION
By Local Committee—Ord.

Ord's interests, with a lot of money invested in a utility plant, it appears to the Quiz, are best furthered by a vote for No. 324, as illustrated, and against the other two items, also by placing crosses as illustrated. And particularly is this recommendation offered because private ownership is there by deprived of no right it now possesses, nor limited in any activities now rightfully belonging to it.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE

PLAN OF CO-OPERATIVE SEED COMPANY

Proposed By THE WEEKES SEED CO.

I propose for the purpose of being of more service to this city and vicinity to follow the Government Approved Plan of co-operation.

I need not say that in my opinion, we have a geographic location, which is one of the very best, also, that by years of experience by myself and helpers, have worked up a company and business that by proper expanding should in five years be the strongest such company in the state.

Commencing here seven years ago with the small sum of two thousand dollars in a small way and only experience and confidence, my business today reaches from coast to coast. You will pardon me when I say we have been the only buyer of pop corn for months in this town, until the last few days. During that period we have marketed considerable pop corn in nearly every state.

I have put back into the business every year, all my earnings, drawing only a living expense, until we have a net investment of thirty thousand dollars.

With the co-operation of the experienced growers in this vicinity and additional capital, equal to what I have, believe I could cash in a large amount of the present fine crop to the benefit of all business interests of Ord and the growers as well. The farmer cannot spend money until he receives it from his crop.

I do not wish to sell out at all nor retire from active business, I propose to share the earnings of the company on a plan that I believe will be fair to the farmer and business man as an investor, not only for the present, but looking to the future with confidence.

I have lived fifty-five years in this valley and been in this business activity for thirty, and my customers I feel sure have confidence in my fairness. One of the largest assets we have today is the business, which has taken years to work up, for instance we have an order for eight hundred sixty bags of sweet corn from a firm who have been shipping to for the past twenty-eight years.

I have on the books nearly fourteen hundred acres of growing contracts, and have eighty-five percent or more of the out-put of all varieties sold at this time, and this is only a small beginning as everybody knows.

We have this year in my opinion, the highest grade corn suitable for this purpose, much of which could be sold at a satisfactory price by intelligent marketing.

Briefly: I propose to offer the public and business men as investors desiring to increase the spending volume of the farmer and to the farmer himself, who is benefitted as I can show, from five to ten dollars per acre more on this contracts than he would obtain under the usual plan of marketing. Have just received from one man, the product of less than forty acres and made settlement with him for $1,658.00 and this is no especial case, as we have many, nearly or quite as good. But this should be increased many times and to that end and for the purpose of being the author of a strong serviceable business I offer the following plan:

We ask subscriptions for two classes of stock. First: one to two hundred shares of preferred stock guaranteed eight percent semi-annually and a probable additional earning of two percent more, as well as sharing when owned by growers in a cash distribution of the earnings. This would be a first lien on all property as well as the entire plant. Then I propose to issue common stock to my self for my actual investment, equal to three hundred shares, and solicit subscriptions to common stock of one to two hundred shares more, this to receive dividends equal to eight to ten percent as distributed by the directors from the net earnings. Then to divide the surplus if any, and which I believe will be equally as much. Such surplus would be divided, thirty-five percent in cash back to parties who had bought goods of us or sold to us under growing contracts or otherwise, when owner of shares, either preferred or common. This would, also, apply to our customers who buy of us as well as farmers selling to us, including parties owning stock and having land in this vicinity. The remaining sixty-five percent to be put aside as surplus and may be divided amongst the common stockholders as a stock dividend if the directors choose. This in no way obliges a stockholder to sell to us, but we propose to make it to his interest to do so.

The directors, three in number, two beside myself at present, would be chosen, one from each class of stockholders. So confident am I in the earning capacity of the company that I propose to allow these directors to fix my salary as manager, which may either be a fixed sum or a portion of the net earnings as they decide.

Subscription blanks will be mailed out and solicitors will call upon you. If you are interested call upon us for further information.

Citizens of Ord and Valley County

At the election next Tuesday you will be called upon to vote for an important law which concerns not only Ord and vicinity but every town in Nebraska owning a Municipal Light Plant.

Under the present law City owned plants cannot build lines and serve people outside the city limits, we could increase our business very materially and at the same time serve other towns and the country if we were granted the same privilege which the Power Trust now enjoys.

Three bills by petition will appear on the ballot, all very similar, and two of them, it is alleged, are fostered by the Power-Trust for the purpose of confusing the mind of the voter.

We ask you to put a mark in the square opposite No. 324, and vote FOR our bill. We also ask you to mark the squares opposite Nos. 323 and 327 and vote AGAINST their bill.

This bill, if carried, will give us the right to increase the capacity of our plant and permit us to serve those who ask outside the city limits, without a bond issue nor increase in taxes, the expense being paid for out of the earnings of the plant.

We again ask you to be sure to vote for our bill No. 324, and against the other two, thus retaining some of the rights and privileges which belong to the people and which the Power Trust is trying so hard to take away.

ATTENTION FARMERS!
 For several years farmers have been calling on the President and Congress for FARM RELIEF. What did we get—the FARM BOARD! Instead of $1.25 or more per bushel for wheat, we are now getting 60c or less. The man who claims to be the farmers' friend, Senator Norris, VOTED FOR THE FARM BOARD.
 Senator Norris was chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, a position of great power, where he could have served the farmers and farm interests. But he resigned so he could take the chairmanship of the Judiciary Committee where he would be more prominent.
 What has he done for Farm Relief, or for irrigation?
 We have an opportunity to send to the Senate Gilbert M. Hitchcock who will give first consideration to the needs of our State. In these days of economic distress we need BUILDERS and not FERNINSTERS who offer nothing constructive to solve our problems in Nebraska.
 We recommend Gilbert M. Hitchcock to all our fellow farmers.

Might as Well Say "BOY SCOUT TRUST"

A newspaper article printed in Omaha Thursday quoting Senator Norris attempts to involve the Nebraska Power Company in politics.

In commenting upon the testimony before the Nye Senatorial Expenditure Investigating Committee that Walter W. Head, Chairman of the Board of Directors of this company gave some of his personal funds to conduct a poll of republican voters in Nebraska, Senator Norris is quoted as saying:

"Walter Head was formerly president of the Nebraska Power Company. He is now chairman of the board of directors of that company." Later in the statement Senator Norris is quoted as saying that the Nebraska Power Company "is a part of the power trust."

Mr. Head is now president of the Foreman-State National Bank of Chicago, is chairman of the board of the Omaha National Bank and has long been active in republican politics in Nebraska.

An attempt to involve the Nebraska Power Company in politics because of Mr. Head's political activities might just as reasonably be applied to any other of his many and worthy interests.

Mr. Head is a director of the International Y. M. C. A., a director of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad, a director of the New York Life Insurance Company, president of the Boy Scouts of America, a director of several banks and many other institutions, and a farm owner.

Instead of singling out the Nebraska Power Company and erroneously claiming that it is part of a "Power Trust," reference might just as reasonably have been made to the "Railroad Trust," or to the "Insurance Trust," or to the "Banking Trust," or even to the "Y. M. C. A. Trust," or to the "Boy Scout Trust," or to the "Farm Trust."

As a matter of fact, any statement that there is a "Power Trust" in Nebraska, we emphatically deny. There are, in Nebraska alone, many separate and distinct Power Companies with separate and distinct ownership and management.

The Nebraska Power Company is not in politics. It has not contributed one cent either for or against the election of Senator Norris. The implication that this company has anything to do with the Senatorial election in Nebraska is without foundation.

The sole business of the Nebraska Power Company is to sell electricity to its customers at the lowest possible rates and to furnish the best service we know how to furnish. We believe we are doing this to the satisfaction of our customers.

Those who think that wells of this kind may be worth while for this community. The work has only just commenced and will require ten days or two weeks for its completion.

Earle Greene left Monday for Bassett where for several weeks he will do carpenter work for the Nebraska Securities Corporation. A postponed meeting of the Nellie Shaw Missionary society was held Thursday afternoon with Myra T. Barber. Carrie Rood was the leader of the lesson, which was on child training. Mrs. H. S. Warren, Vesta Thorngate and Louise Brunick and Myra Barber spoke. The regular meeting of the society is on Wednesday of this week at the home of Mrs. George Maxson with Mrs. Nina Johnson as leader.

station in Wichita, but is teaching student fliers and flying on the side in order to complete the required number of hours of flying to secure his transport pilot's license. He is joint owner of the Baby Ace one passenger plane which brought him home.

The Bridge club is meeting on Tuesday evening of this week with Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Zangger.

Mrs. M. E. Fairchild, mother of Mrs. L. M. Catlin, is improving somewhat from a recent illness.

Corn Root-Worms Doing Damage in Parts of Nebraska

Corn root-worms have done exceptionally severe damage to a number of counties in southwestern Nebraska according to O. S. Bare, entomologist at the college of agriculture. Bare said this morning that he estimates the damage to run as high as fifty per cent in some of the more seriously infested fields.

Heaviest damage to corn fields has been in Hitchcock, Red Willow, and Frontier counties. Several of the surrounding counties in that section of the state have suffered also, Bare indicated. Thus far it is believed that Valley county has escaped from the ravages of the corn root-worm. No local farmers have indicated that the worms have bothered their corn. County Agent Dale believes there is very little if any root-worm damage done here this year.

The Colorado corn root-worm has been increasingly harmful in that region for several years. The common western or northern corn root-worm has also contributed to the injury, according to Bare. A new species to Nebraska has been found in southwestern Nebraska this year which was found first in New Mexico. Bare said while observations made during the past summer indicate its habits are practically the same as the Colorado root-worm. Little study has been devoted to it.

Beetles of all three species appear from late July to October. The eggs, Bare says, are laid in the soil around the roots of the corn plants. Bare says so far as is known this is the only place in which eggs are laid although there is some evidence that a few may be laid in the soil or alfalfa and sweet clover fields. The eggs hatch in late May or June and the tiny white worms work their way through the soil to the corn plants. The entomologist says the worm feeds only on corn roots. They completely destroy the smaller roots and badly weaken the larger ones. The plants fall over as a result of the ears fail to develop. On those that may develop the kernels are light and chaffy. If corn roots are not available, the worms die without doing damage, Bare reports.

Six Cents Per Bushel Corn Husking Price

Six cents per bushel is recommended to all Valley county farmers as a fair price for corn husking. The price was decided upon at a meeting of farmers held last week in the office of County Agent C. C. Dale, the meeting having been called to set a uniform price for corn husking. Other nearby counties have also decided on the six cent price.

Orin Kellison was chairman of last Friday's meeting. E. S. Coats was secretary and others present included Beryl Miller, C. S. Barnes, W. J. Klatt, Chas. Verzal, M. R. Hackel, Steve Papernik, Carl Bouda, Edgar Roe, H. R. Ward, and W. A. Cornell. The motion to set 6c as the price was made by Mr. Coats and seconded by Mr. Roe. It is hoped that all farmers employing huskers will adhere to the recommended price.

Didn't Buy Silage Cutter, Cummins Says

Bert Cummins didn't buy an silage cutter to fill his trench silos as stated in an article by Geo. Round, Jr., in last week's Quiz, but instead hired John Palser with his tractor and cutter, the expense being $27.50. In filling his silo this year Mr. Cummins used five racks in the field with three extra men to help. His main reason for filling the silo is that there is no waste, Mr. Cummins says. Cattle eat all of the product, whereas in feeding corn fodder in bundles there is a large amount of waste. Mr. Cummins is thoroughly sold on the silo method of feeding.

Control of the corn rootworm is comparatively simple. Bare says. Corn should never be planted on land where corn root-worms have appeared during the previous year. Rotation should be practiced regularly and corn should not be planted on the same land for more than two years in succession. Further he recommends that volunteer corn in grain stubble be destroyed soon after harvest.

Forester Watkins May Visit County

There is a possibility that Clayton W. Watkins, extension forester of the agricultural college may come to Ord or North Loup about the first of the year to conduct a forestry school, County Agent Dale announced this morning. Watkins has been in charge of the forestry school here before.

If Watkins comes to Valley county, he will bring slides along with him to show the development of windbreaks over the state. His work has carried him to all corners of Nebraska and he has seen the best windbreaks grown by farmers.

It is through Watkins that local farmers receive their free governmental trees each year. The application blanks are sent from County Agent Dale's office to Forester Watkins at the agricultural college from where the trees are ordered sent to Valley county farmers.

Well Padded Ironing Board Essential, Says Miss Muriel Smith

"Valley county, farm household ladies as well as those living in towns such as North Loup, Arcadia, and Ord are probably finding the first requirement for making ironing easier is to have a firm well padded board," says Miss Muriel Smith, state agent in home management of the agricultural college. She also tells some of the latest labor saving devices in a recent extension circular.

Ironing boards of many kinds with folding stands may be purchased, but in making this choice one should look for strength, balance, narrow, good materials, and firm construction. Miss Smith declares. The portable board that is carried from place to place must necessarily be light. A convenient board needs to be wide enough to avoid the constant moving of flat work in the process of ironing yet narrow at the end to make it possible to slip a dress over it easily, Miss Smith recommends. Valley county household keepers are probably finding that true with experience.

By Geo. Round, Jr.

Shortage of dairy feeds in eastern and northern states this year has created a situation which is rather unusual. Dairymen in those states have been forced to ship feeds in from the western states where they are relatively abundant.

In the past few weeks and perhaps a month, a mill in Ord has been buying alfalfa over Valley county, grinding it, and shipping it in sacks to those eastern dairymen. Certainly the price is high when alfalfa costs probably between $12 to $13 per ton. The original cost of the hay plus grinding charges, bags, freight, and handling has all got to be paid by the dairymen who feed it.

If those dairymen in eastern states can afford to purchase the alfalfa meal at such a large cost, it appears to me that it is sound proof that Valley county dairymen can well afford to give their cows plenty of good feed and care. Both types of dairymen are looking for economical returns and if the alfalfa meal wouldn't provide an economical feed, they wouldn't feed it.

Often one hears farmers here complaining about the cost of feeding their cows. They often expect the cows to produce on little good feed and practically no care. Such a situation as has been developed in regard to the shipping of alfalfa meal should bring to light the value of good feed in producing butterfat and milk.

It is highly possible, that the Ord Co-operative Creamery may produce more butter this year than any other independent cooperative in Nebraska. In past years, the local concern has been among the leaders but the goal of producing the most butter will, in all probability, be attained at the conclusion of the present year.

Alfalfa Meal Is Valuable Feed For Hens, Says Expert

Five to eight percent of the laying mash for hens should be alfalfa meal, Prof. F. E. Muesel of the agricultural college poultry department now recommends to Valley county poultrymen. County Agent Dale makes the same recommendation.

The alfalfa meal may be purchased on ground on the farm or at the local elevator, it is thought by Muesel. Whether Ord or North Loup elevators are doing so is not known but it is thought a well known mill in Ord is grinding alfalfa. Some elevators in the state are grinding it for 25 cents per hundred. This would make alfalfa meal cost about $1.25 per hundred.

Only third or four cutting alfalfa or green and very leafy should be used for chicken feed, Professor Muesel believes. It should be thoroughly mixed with laying mash that is fed in self-feeders to the hens. No facts are available regarding the comparative value of alfalfa meal and alfalfa meal made by grinding the stem and the leaves. A test will start October 20th at the agricultural college poultry plant to compare these two feeds with young chicks. Two senior students in the poultry department will supervise the experiment.

How To Roast Turkey Told In New Circular

How to roast turkeys is told in a new circular of the extension service which will soon be ready for distribution at the agricultural college and at County Agent Dale's office in Ord. The new circular is numbered 999 and has been prepared by Miss Florence Atwood, foods specialist of the extension service. The circular was prepared in connection with another new extension circular about the dressing, grading and marketing of turkeys.

Fertilize Trees Now, Is Advice

Ord people who have been wondering about the advisability of using fertilizer on their fruit trees and shrubs are being advised this week by the agricultural college, Lincoln, that the fertilizer will do much good. The report to the Quiz today indicates to get the most good the fertilizer should be applied at this time of the year. It is particularly true with manure that it should be applied at this time of the year. This is noticeable by the number of trees and shrubs being fertilized in Ord now. Roots of perennials will absorb some nitrates from the fertilizer during the late fall and early spring months. Available nitrates are particularly valuable to fruit trees just before they put out their fruit buds and set their fruit.

Local people are advised not to apply the manure or fertilizer too close to the plant. All the rubbish and leaves should be raked away and the fertilizer applied at least a foot from the main trunk or stems of the trees or shrubs. This method will encourage development of feeding roots farther from center of plant.

Johnson's Cafe Re-opens. Johnson's Cafe, closed since a damaging fire during the Valley county fair, re-opened last Thursday with entirely new equipment and a new staff. Hitchcock will go to Washington to fight for Nebraska. Everything he has in the world is tied up in Nebraska's prosperity. He is constructive, not destructive. He knows the value of teamwork. Pussyfoot's Sportlog
By GEORGE ROUND, JR.

Against Broken Bow, Coach Krejci's Ord high school gridlers must have turned about face to the class of football they played in their two opening games. Broken Bow at the start of the season was not considered so outstanding but results of the Ord game seem to indicate that Coach Thomas has a good squad at the Bow again this year.

Now that the football season is well underway, local sport fans are wondering what kind of a basket ball team Ord high will turn out this year. Prospects for a good team should be fair although Coach Krejci will have nothing to burn up the world with. Just what kind of teams other schools in the Loup Valley will turn out is unknown.

It is a fact though that Comstock high school will be in with another winning team. If they appear on the Ord schedule they are apt to give the local boys a lesson in the art of throwing baskets.

With the passing of Coach Pat Panek and the Davis boys at St. Paul, athletics have taken there a decided drop in the last two years. The state championship teams are a thing of the past.

Keith and Everett Davis, members of the state champion basket ball team, are enrolled at the Oregon Aggies. Keith is playing an end position on the varsity team and Everett will not be eligible for participation until the second semester.

When in high school Keith was a backfield man but evidently Coach Schissler has developed him into an end. He, however, does the kicking for the Aggies.

Pussyfoot's sportlog, not sportlog, was in great demand during the pheasant season. Every hunter in the country wanted to use him. One party having Buck, the dog, along encountered a funny situation while hunting near Ord. Starting in a canyon, Buck set two pheasants in succession for the three hunters. Each time the would-be shots missed the birds. Each time Buck looked around at them, seemingly saying, "You darn fools." Finally toward the end of the canyon, the dog apparently had a bird set. Creeping up cautiously so as to get a good shot one member of the party discovered Buck not only had the bird set but also held.

A great dog, if you can't hit them he sets and catches them for you.

From press reports I learn that Dale Cress is assistant coach at Lincoln high. He is assisting Coach Baller in bringing about another great Lincoln team.

While attending school at Nebraska Wesleyan, Cress was an outstanding football man. He played center as I remember it and Wesleyan students of not many years ago recall how Cress was among the best on the Wesleyan team.

Big 4 Broadcaster

VOL. 1 THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30 NO. 6

We wish we could change a tire out on the road like they do it at the service station.

Everybody we talked to were or were going after pheasants. Most farmers have out a welcome sign. I only found one place where my bunch wasn't welcome.

We don't attempt to argue the egg mash question. Let the hen be the judge. Put Big 4 Egg Mash in a feeder with any other kind and see which she cleans up first. Hens like Big 4. And because they lay more eggs. Try it!

Maybe the reason so many people use envelopes when the collection plate is passed is to keep the pennies from rattling.

Election next week. Of course we are all going to vote right in our own mind, but there will be a lot of office seekers disappointed and in two years they can tell us just how rotten our judgment was and we will believe them.

The average hen only lays 50 to 75 eggs a year. By careful culling and feeding Big 4 Egg Mash a production of 150 eggs per year is usual. That is profitable production you'll admit. We are selling lots of Big 4 Egg Mash and so are Ord's leading merchants.

If you don't think the farmers keep busy in the winter—try to find a farmer with plenty of time. Just any day you choose. You'll find him out working around the barns—See if you don't.

Big 4 Pancake flour is a wonder to start the day off with.

Student—"After all, stupidity can be inherited."
Teacher—"That's a fine way to talk about your parents."
