New Bird Refuges Authorized By Conservation Commission

The Migratory Bird Conservation Commission, of which Secretary Hyde of the Department of Agriculture is chairman, on December 18 authorized purchases of lands by the Biological Survey for migratory game bird refuges in Florida, California, North Carolina, and Nebraska, aggregating 73,780 acres. The cost to the Government will average $5.28 an acre.

The four proposed refuges had been surveyed previously by biologists and land valuation experts of the Biological Survey, and the Department of Agriculture had approved their acquisition as units in the nationwide system of refuges authorized by Congress.

The new Florida refuge will extend about 12 miles along Apalachee Bay, in Wakulla, Jefferson, and Taylor Counties, and will be known as the St. Marks Migratory Bird Refuge. It will contain 13,981 acres.

The new purchases in California will be 8,932 acres to the Salton Sea Wild Life Refuge, created by executive order of November 25, 1930. The purchase authorized, together with the public lands recently set aside by the President, will create a refuge for waterfowl and other migrants in the Imperial Valley.

The Swanquarter Migratory Bird Refuge will be established in North Carolina under the new authorization. This will consist of 11,718 acres in Currituck and Pamlico Sound, and together with intermingled areas of water will make an administrative unit of about 20,000 acres.

In the sandhills of western Nebraska the purchase of 39,038 acres is authorized for the establishment of a migratory bird refuge in an area resorted to by great numbers of waterfowl in the nesting season. This is in Garden County and will be known as the Crescent Lake Migratory Bird Refuge.

The Migratory Bird Conservation Commission, which was created by the act providing for a ten-year program of refuge acquisition consists of Secretary Hyde of the Department of Agriculture; Secretary Lamont of the Department of Commerce; Secretary Wilbur of the Department of the Interior; Senator Norbeck of South Dakota; Senator Hawes, of Missouri; Representative Ackerman, of New Jersey; and Representative McReynolds, of Tennessee. Rudolph Dieffenbach, in charge of land acquisitions of the Bureau of Biological Survey, is secretary of the Commission.

The new purchases authorized, together with those previously approved by the Commission, and those established by Executive Order since the inception on July 1, 1929, of work under the Migratory Bird Conservation Act, make a total of 158,167 acres that will become inviolate sanctuaries for the conservation of migratory birds.

The ultimate objective is the establishment of one or more such refuges in each State of the Union. The Act authorizes annual appropriations for ten years for the purpose of carrying out this objective.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

THE EXTRA THICK HIDE AND THREAD ON THE NEW BASEBALL IS BAD NEWS TO HOME RUN SMACKERS, BUT FOR PITCHERS IT'S JUST DANDY

BY PHILIP MARTIN

THE name of the gentleman who remarked that "a stitch in time saves nine" has slipped my mind, but I am able to give you the correct dope on several stitches that may revolutionize the game known as baseball.

The powers who settle problems arising in our national pastime have settled one much-mooted question for 1931. They are going to make the game safe for pitchers and infielders by operating on the baseball.

There are several reasons for this operation on the ball which has been in use for the past 10 years. One is that entirely too many infielders have had an arm torn off by sliding liners from the bats of the Ruths, Wilsons, Bergers, and Gehrigs. Another is that the recent excessive home run production has given sluggers a decided edge in slay over the players who field and throw gracefully, pitch heroically or run the base paths with abandon. And still another sound reason is that an over-abundance of home run hitting, in cheapening all other departments of attack, has cheapened the four-base blow.

The moguls in their recent meeting in New York decided that the 1931 baseball should have the same core and the same outside

However, the horsehide cover will be just twice as thick as that sewed to the "lively ball" and will be stitched with thread just twice as heavy as the stitching of the "jack rabbit" nugget.

BASEBALL officials expect to see pitchers using the new ball get even with the boys who have been spluttering their offerings against distant outfield walls. The heavier stitching will make a raised ridge around the ball, enabling the pitcher to get a firm grip on it. These raised seams will also offer greater resistance to the air when the ball is delivered. Can you picture the hops and dips it will take because of this added resistance?

The cover of double thickness means that a certain amount of string used in winding around the core will have to be eliminated so that the ball may retain its usual size. Omitting this tightly-wound string will take away some of the ball's liveliness.

There will be two reasons, then, if Babe Ruth, Hack Wilson, Lou Gehrig and some other behemoths of slug fall to hit more than 25 home runs apiece in the coming campaign. The added hop on the ball from the pitcher and the subtracted rebound of the pellet from the bat are expected to turn the trick.

Public properties of the state whose control is vested in the Nebraska Game, Forestation & Parks Commission now number 35. Included in the list are fish hatcheries, parks, recreation grounds, fishing lakes, two game reserves and one tract on which is a monument to mark an Indian battle-ground.

With the exception of the fish hatchery at Gretna, which was purchased with legislative appropriations, all these properties were acquired either by gifts or with funds derived from the sale of fishing and hunting licenses. The Commission is one state body that pays as it goes and the burden of expense falls on fishermen and hunters. The total value of all properties is estimated at $587,132.70.

The accompanying map shows the location of these properties. The figure on the map corresponds with the number of the property in the appended list. They are well scattered over the state to afford the pleasures of the great out-of-doors to the most people with the least inconvenience. By acquiring these properties early, the Commission has not only purchased many valuable lakes and recreation grounds for a small price, but they have saved some of them for public use that were certain to be destroyed or used for private purposes.

The Commission is a non-political body of five members, the Governor being by law the ex-officio chairman. Members serve six years and are appointed by the Governor, and serve without compensation except a per diem allowance for time actually given. A salaried secretary is employed who is also state game warden.

A great work is being done by the Commission in saving Nebraska beauty spots, creating new ones and assuring to this and succeeding generations that the outdoor delights and recreations of the common people will be continued and increased.

The holdings of the Commission are: 1, Arbor Lodge state park. 2, Chadron state park. 3, Victoria Springs state park. 4, Stollie state park. 5, Goose Lake recreation grounds. 6, Rat and Beaver Lake recreation grounds. 7, Walgreen Lake recreation grounds. 8, Gretna state fish hatchery and recreation grounds. 9, Valentine state fish hatchery. 10, Benkelman state fish hatchery. 11, Rock Creek state fish hatchery. 12, Dodge county sand pit recreation grounds. 13, Cass county sand pit recreation grounds. 14, Niobrara island game reserve. 15, Memphis Lake recreation grounds. 16, Blue river recreation grounds. 17, Rowell Lake recreation grounds. 18, Long Lake recreation grounds. 19, Cottonwood Lake recreation grounds. 20, Cottonmill Lake recreation grounds. 21, Fort Kearney state park. 22, Pressey recreation grounds. 23, Wild Cat Hills game reserve. 24, Pibel Lake recreation grounds. 25, Willow Lake recreation grounds. 26, Massacre Canyon monument. 27, Ballards' marsh shooting grounds. 28, Oxford Lake recreation grounds. 29, Champion Lake recreation grounds. 30, Litchfield Lake recreation grounds. 31, Loup River Lake recreation grounds. 32, Lincoln county recreation Alexandria Lake recreation grounds. 34, Haney Lake recreation grounds. 35, Arnold Lake recreation grounds.

ORD HI CAGERS TO OPEN SEASON AGAINST WAHOO

Coach Krejci Has Good Prospects For Winning Team; let Game Here Friday Evening.

Ord high school cagers will swing into action here tomorrow evening, opening their 1931 season against the fast Wahoo high school five. This will be the first appearance of the Wahoo team in this part of the state but for years they have been leaders in their own section. Cager fans are looking forward to this opening clash Friday night.

Coach Joe Krejci has excellent prospects for a winning team this year, fans believe. His squad is light and small but fast and should give a good account of themselves. The starting line-up tomorrow night will probably include Hather and Stoltz at guards, Don Lashmet at center, E. Lashmet and Benda at forwards. Others who have been looking good in practice include Bob Cushing, Harvey Michels and Frank Ryasny. The latter is probably the most accurate goal shot on the squad but his passing has been weak though he is improving in this department. No captain was chosen for this year but the starting squad each night will select a game leader.

STRONG TEAM TO REPRESENT G. I. A. C. HERE JAN. 5

Ord All-Stars Will Face Tough Initial Test But Should Win Handily.

When the Ord All-Stars, town basketball team, open the 1931 season here next Monday, Jan. 5, they face a tough test for an opening game. Their opponents, the Grand Island Athletic Club, have an exceptionally fast team this year according to Matt Kauman.

Players who appear in the G. I. A. C. line-up are Gunnerson, center; St. John and Cooke, forwards; Reese and Welland, guards; Turner, Habis, Robbins and Stillson, substitutes. Ord fans are acquainted with St. John, Reese and Welland and if the balance of the team measures up to these three they will be hard to beat.

The All-Star squad has not been named as yet but it is expected to include Krejci, Jensen, Beeghly, Ervie Lashmet, Adams, Blessing and others. Nine men will be named on the squad and new suits for this number have been received.

A large crowd of fans probably will witness the All-Stars in their first game here next Monday.

Pussyfoot Sportlog

By GEORGE ROUND, JR.

From K. W. Peterson of Burwell, I received the following nominations for an all-Loup Valley high school football team. Yes, it was a pretty good one. His selections for the first team are Metcalf, Sargent, and Skull, St. Paul, at the ends; Harrison, Arcadia and Cook, Scotia, at the Tackles; Ward, Burwell, and Gregg, Ord, at the guards; Babcock of North Loup at center; Anderson of Burwell at quarter; Higgins, Arcadia, and Weterka, Comstock, at the halves; and Brown of Sargent at full.

Friend Ken's selections appear to be good ones. Quiz readers will note that he placed Paul Gregg of Ord on his first team at a guard position. All of which indicates that Mr. Gregg must have been going pretty good this year despite the fact that his associates failed to win many games. Gregg should have another year of competition, if I am not mistaken.

From all over the country come complaints about the college way of managing football. Everyone seems to realize that today football is a side industry at colleges and universities over the country. The game demands that high salaries be paid to coaches and assistants to turn out a football machine that is capable of getting the customers to flock to the stadiums, leaving their dollars as they go through the gate.

One critic has gone so far as to say that the game will be dead in five years if things continue at their present rate of progress. Another advances the suggestion of having a free gate. All of which are noble suggestions but none will be taken into serious consideration.

At least in my observation, football in the Cornhusker state enjoyed less interest than before. Some may lay it to the depression while others say Nebraska didn't have a winning team with which to back the customers in the memorial stadium. Personally, I believe that decreased interest is because people in the middle-west are being fed up on football to a great degree.

Evidently Mr. John L. Ward of Burwell didn't approve of my all-valley high school football selections which were recently published in the Quiz. What he cautions me, actually I find one man that doesn't agree with me. Really I expect everyone to heartily endorse my selections and here Mr. Ward had to spoil my expectations.

After watching the Ord high school basketball squad in practice sessions last week, I have come to the conclusion that Coach Joe Krejci's boys should win a few games. Especially did Frank Ryasny look good in the early scrimmage. If he develops as expected, Frank will make a lot of points for the Ord high team this year. I hope he doesn't disappoint local fans.

Leonard Shunkwiler believes that fried rabbit is pretty good eating. Not long ago Wernie Andersen invited him down to dinner and "Shunky" had what he thought was rabbit. Anyhow he says it was good.

Thinking of "Wormy" reminds me that fried squirrel isn't so bad eating now. Not long ago Wormy shot a few and invited me down to dinner one evening. The fried squirrel tastes better than any wild meat that I have ever eaten before. Even better than good old buffalo. Residents of Arcadia were able to purchase the buffalo meat at a to-cal market last week when Ray Hill purchased a two year old critter at the buffalo sale at Grand Island. The meat sold for fifty cents a pound over the counter.

The Scotia town basketball team has started out by winning their first game with the Scotia high school quintet. Evidently they are in with another winning team this year. Those at Scotia say if an easy enough schedule can be arranged a successful season will be enjoyed. Will they include Ord?

Now Peanuts Jensen and Lynn Beeghly think I have something against them in saying that Joe Krejci and Company should have some support on the town team this year. They maintain that they helped Joe a little last season. Well, perhaps you are right, Peanuts and Lynn. Jensen and Beeghly were two outstanding guards last season and showed to an advantage in nearly every game in which they played.

They tell a good one on Orle Sorenson of Arcadia who played football on the high school team this year. At the first of the season, Orle was afraid of hurting someone and jacked a little fight. Slapping Sorenson, Johnny Higgins attempted to tell him to get in the game and fight a little bit. The next play, Orle smashed through the line and doubled up his fist and let it fly at an opposing player. The referee saw him perform the act and penalized the Arcadia team a long distance.

Members of the team asked Orle

Replacing of Ducks Shot by Hunters Aim of Two San Francisco Sportsmen

FOR every duck killed, another of the same species shall take its place in the migration south."

With this as their maxim, two San Francisco sportsmen have instituted a fine bit of game conservation and propagation.

Four years ago Non R. Tucker, stock broker, and J. O. Tobin, banker, started the Pintail Duck Club with a two-fold purpose. To provide excellent duck shooting and to raise a sufficient number of water fowl so that the number released at the close of the season would equal the number killed during open months.

Permission of the government to take over 300 acres of San Francisco Bay for raising purposes, was secured and a semicircular breakwater was erected around the area.

Problem of Raising

One summer later the salt water had dried up and the process of filling the sea with fresh water was started. Within the 300 acres several smaller breakwaters had been erected, breaking up the large pond into several smaller ones.

Several penned deep water ponds were filled. Into these was put the nucleus of what now has bred into nearly 1000 game birds. During the first shooting season many mallards were trapped and carefully penned for the breeding season.

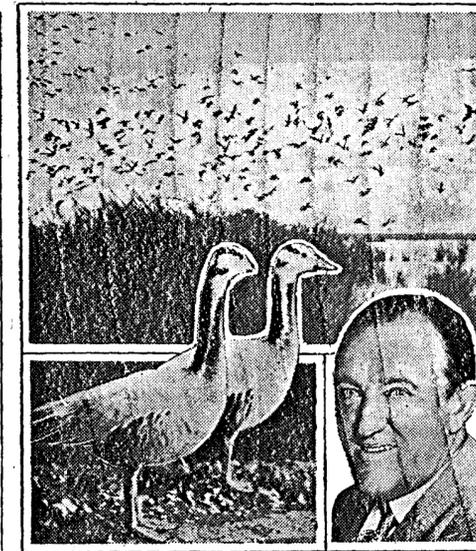

Spring, canvasback, redhead, widgen and bluebills found their way into the baited pens, but after the first season it was found these species did not take to domestic raising.

The second year of the migratory bird hunting season found Tucker and Tobin ready to start their propagation work. That year nearly 1000 birds were sent aloft to join members of their own kind flying high overhead on the way southward to the winter feeding grounds.

Banding the Birds

In addition to the excellent work in replacing all birds taken during the season, a government banding station has been established at the Pintail Duck Club.

There, after the shooting season is concluded, hundreds of birds are trapped, banded with a numbered metal strip, and released. Reports of the birds being shot have come from virtually every state and from Alaska and Mexico.

In 1929, 743 birds were caught by means of a specially constructed pen trap, banded and released. In 1930, due to a late start, after the southern flight had practically ceased, only 637 were thus treated.

Both students of ornithology, Tucker and Tobin have a collection of rare and semi-rare game birds that would be a credit to almost any zoo. Some have been brought from Africa. Big prices have been paid for several species in the hope they would propagate and furnish sport to American hunters.

Among rarer geese imported from Japan, Alaska, England, Africa, and the continent are listed the red-breasted goose, Egyptian goose, Cereopsis goose, Orinoco goose, white fronted goose, blue goose, gray lag, and Emperor goose. A pair of the latter species costs $600.

From All Countries

In the two dozen duck pens are kept birds from virtually every country on the globe. Among these are found pairs of the following varieties: black-bellied, black-billed, Japanese, white-faced, mallard, widgen, black-breasted, Egyptian rosy bill, South African sheldrake, blue bill, European widegen, American widegen and a half-score of birds well known to hunters on this continent. In all 42 varieties are represented.

Want Sport? Try Shooting Crows

The season on wild fowl ended Dec. 31 and nimrods who seek sport with the scatter-gun will be forced to go without or else shoot at more lowly game. The pestiferous crow makes a fine target and he is present in great numbers. In fact many farmers believe there are more crows in the county this year than ever before.

Men who want a little sport should try shooting crows. The big back birds are hard to hit and harder to down. Several Ord men have been visiting the crow woods adjacent to town recently and report that one can shoot as many shells as he likes without wanting for targets. There is a big roost south-east of the Anderson Island, just east of Ord, and crows flock to it by the thousands every evening. A crow-call or a staffed owl for a decoy makes the sport livelier but they are not necessary.

Sportsmen throughout the state are hoping that this year's legislature will provide funds so that a state bounty can be paid on crows, for the black hoodlums are very destructive to all bird life. Many hold to the opinion that the superabundance of crows is responsible for the rapid decrease of prairie chicken in Nebraska.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

I wish you all a Happy New Year.

And I hope that 1931 may bring you all more happiness and prosperity than has the year just closed.

I don't believe much in new year resolutions. If I did I would resolve to write this department every week during 1931. No doubt a lot of you would want me to break such a resolution anyhow.

After all what have we gained by having New Year come and end the football season. We have the basketball season getting nicely started.

Ol' Frank Johnson, down at Ed Beranek's, is having a hard row to hoe these days. Frank was, is and will be, against Norris but he refused to believe the great republican heads had anything to do with the fight on Norris, that is, he refused until lately. Now that old Bull Mooser, Dr. Taylor, is leading a pack of Norris backers that all the time pick on Frank, who is tied to his job and can't run out on them.

Frank Edgecombe told a fellow townsman of his recently that I am a crook but he admitted that I mean well. I am going to go down to Geneva some of these days and hand out of Frank two or three days and then he will be sorry.

Ed. Beranek was telling the boys the other evening that he owed his success to just one thing and when asked what it was, replied that it was pluck. Ralph Norman spoke up and asked him who he plucked.

Ord is getting a lot of publicity out of the local creamery. I noticed stories in the Clay Center Sun and the Ord Signal last week, taken from the Quiz.

E. S. Coats is finding fault with the picture I use at the head of the Ag. page and I spoke to George about it. He asked me if I thought I would use it. If he had any other face, No. George is not faced or he would surely use the other one. Neither can I see how it would improve matters to use Ernest's picture.

Now that Christmas is over I want to suggest, before the work of 1931, that some civic organization should take hold of the beautiful Ord project, started a couple of years ago by the Quiz and boosted harder than ever this year by Auble Bros. No business firm should have to assume the burden, however. The Chamber of Commerce is really the organization that should sponsor the movement. No doubt a number of business men would help by offering prizes if that is desirable but some civic organization should take the lead. Let's have a hundred per cent improvement next year.

The question of whether or not Ord wants natural gas is going to be a live question here soon. Albia and Central City are the closest towns to take it on but inquiry has been made here and the gas people are looking for an outlet for their product and it will not long before Ord will be asked for a franchise. Anyhow it is time to be thinking about the matter.

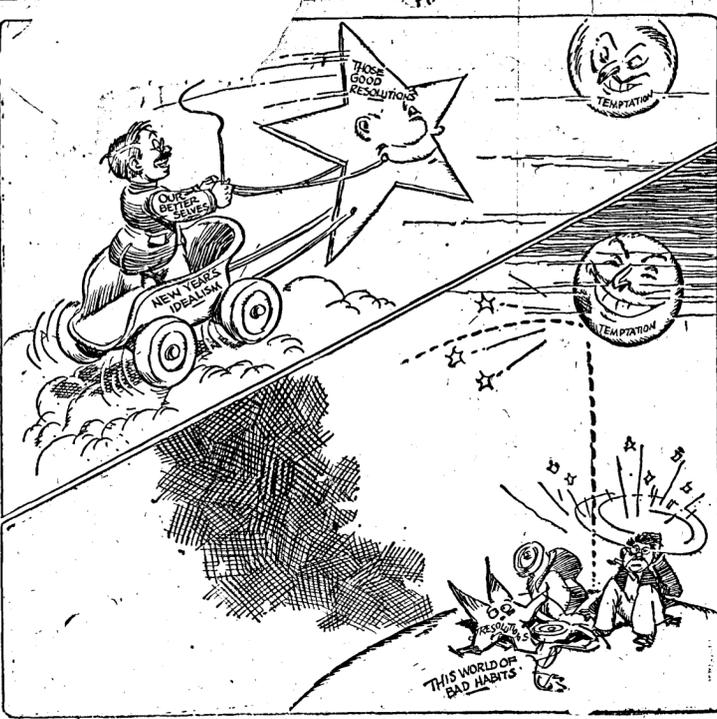

Talking about the price of wheat, Russian wheat has long been a bugbear, yet it is said the Rus-

"If a stranger were driving in the vicinity of North Loup in the twilight he might envision a long low hill rising from the plain, and think he had come at last to the famous country of Nebraska sandhills. But he would be wrong. There is such a hill, but it is not sand. It is hay in the stack. The stack is a quarter of a mile long, and contains 800 tons, according to the estimate of its owners. It is located a mile north of North Loup in Valley county.

Twelve hundred head of cattle are being fed on the place and before spring the hill will be pretty well flattened down. Its succulent contents will have been converted into beef and milk, for it is good Nebraska alfalfa. This item of recognition for Valley county was clipped from an eastern Nebraska newspaper. As most readers know, it refers to the Barnhart place, where Grover Barnhart and the company in which he is interested conduct their large scale feeding operations. The paragraph did not tell about the big 70,000 bushel corn pile, which is just as striking, and represents even more wealth than the hay stack.

The twelve hundred head of cattle are range Hereford steers and heifers, mostly yearlings. They are raised on several ranches, the largest of which are the Dohy and Meadow ranches near Center, Colo. The Meadow ranch alone has 2500 stock cows on it. Last year 45 herd bulls were purchased for this ranch at an average cost of about $400 apiece.

Mention should be made also of the accounts kept on this farm. They include all expenditures, receipts, purchases, and sales. These are recorded daily. They tell what it costs each day to feed every animal. They are one of the reasons why the company is making money, and steadily expanding its feeding operations. When Mr. Barnhart sold them his

Some saw in it the menace of "chain farming," the domination of farm lands by powerful interests. But regardless of the definition for this system, it has caused no embarrassment for anyone. It has enabled Mr. Barnhart to maintain a higher standard of living. It has provided his neighbors a better market for their hay and grain.

Dear Editor:

The reader has surely attended healing demonstrations such as I have recently witnessed, in course of which the sick were instructed, yea, implored to "put all their trust in God," to expect healing not from men, but from Jesus and from prayer spoken in His name, and to expect no help unless they had faith. Is it possible, one might ask, that cures dispensed with such appeal to God and faith and prayer cannot be accepted as the working of divine power? I wonder whether the reader has paid close attention to the use which these healers make of the term "faith," and

In the first place, so far as I know them, these healers one and all declare that through the faith of the sick persons the cures of the Lord and His apostles were effected. Their own frequent failures they explain by lack of faith on the part of those who come to them for aid. But what says the Gospel-record. In the company of the enemies of Christ there was a man with a withered arm, Matt. 12; will any one maintain that he was a believer in the Messiah? The man referred to John 5, 1 ff. did not even know who Christ was (v. 18), yet he was healed. The long and detailed account of the healing of the blind man in John 9 renders it very clear that he had no saving faith in Christ when he was healed. His first words Jesus merely "a man," and only later on he becomes convinced that Jesus is a "prophet" and Lord. Finally, the high priest's employee whose ear was restored to him in Gethsemane surely was not healed through his faith in Christ. When the people of Galilee did not accept the Gospel, the record does not say that on account of their unbelief Jesus was unable to heal their sick, but that He "did not many works there." He did perform a few in spite of their unbelief. He said to His disciples, "Ye shall follow me, and ye shall work miracles, our Lord did not blame the unbelief of the people, but the lack of faith in the disciples, Matt. 17, 14-21. We conclude that while our Lord often relieved those of sickness who had faith in Him, He was by no means able to exercise His power on those only who had faith in Him. And this applies to the works of healing done by the apostles. Publius on Malta "courteously lodged" Paul and his family, Matt. 13, 53. When the disciples failed to work miracles, our Lord did not blame the unbelief of the people, but the lack of faith in the disciples, Matt. 17, 14-21.

How to play Bridge AUCTION or CONTRACT

by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

ARTICLE No. 6

In the preceding article, reference was made to "spool bridge," as bluff bids are termed by our English cousins. Here is a hand where the bluff bidder was out-manuevered:

Y : A Q 3 2
A : B :
Z :
Hearts—A, Q, 3, 2
Clubs—10, 4
Diamonds—Q, J, 10
Spades—A, Q, 9, 8

Y's hand was as follows:
Hearts—K, 10, 8, 7
Clubs—3
Diamonds—A, 8, 5, 2
Spades—K, 7, 6, 4

Needless to say, Y Z made four odd at spades and thus won a rubber that many would have lost. If Z had not been alert and deduced that A was making a bluff bid, he would have played the hand at no trump and thus allowed A to make eight club tricks. It is a fine example of "calling the bluff."

AUCTION BIDDING:

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one no trump. A bid two spades and Y bid two no trumps. If B passed, what should Z bid? How should he analyze the bids of A and Y? How could A bid two spades and Y bid two no trumps, if both were bidding soundly? His own holding in spades really made Z's problem fairly easy. It was a certainty that A could not have a spade bid, for if he did, Y could not possibly bid two no trumps. Such a bid should indicate at least one stopper in spades and that stopper could only be three or four spades to the king. A's two spade bid, therefore, must be a bluff bid, made to induce Y to bid two no trumps and thus give A a chance to make a set-up club suit. Z correctly figured this out and decided that his best chance for game lay in the spade bid, particularly if his partner should hold four spades to the king. Z, therefore, bid three spades and A bid four clubs, thus verifying Z's deductions. Y and B passed and Z bid four spades and all passed. A's hand was as follows:

Clubs—A, K, Q, J, 9, 7, 6, 2

Physiology Class Discusses Way Of Disease Prevention
BY IRMA ELLIS LEGGETT
Miss Mae Baird, an Arcadia girl, is co-worker this year with Miss Lucine Hardin in the home economics and related arts department. As she had never had a visitation by this Quiz reporter, I decided to give her this valuable (?) experience Tuesday morning!
The class Miss Baird was giving Tuesday morning was on the Physiology and about 15 young ladies composed the personnel of the class. Audrey Mella was reciting as I found a seat at the back of the room. The discussion under way was whether or not people with contagious illness should be reported to the quarantine authorities. The class said they should be, and then talked about why so few people do report such cases.
It was decided that everyone thought someone else would report such cases, and that we are all a little lazy or negligent in situations like that. The danger of not calling the doctor was discussed and the fact that a doctor going in and out of a quarantined home must be very careful not to do some disease carrying. As the account of casual and thoughtless ways of endangering others when quarantined were talked over, and one girl said putting out milk bottles was a good example.
Miss Baird asked how typhoid was usually spread, and Gwendolyn reported that it is spread by the class concluded Ord was in little danger of typhoid, with the water filtration plant running efficiently. Thelma Palmatier told how typhoid broke out where the water supply was unclean, and that the water was the chief source of danger in connection with this disease.
Evelyn Smith stated that nowadays toilets on farm places were practically always correctly situated, and in such a position that the lives of the family in the farm house were not endangered. No longer does the family toilet occupy the hill top, with the well below and closer to the house. Margaret Bonne described how farm buildings should be located, and said that the important thing was to be careful in disposing of the present. Dorothy Seerley started in to name the five commonest ways diseases are spread, giving impure water, and ineffective quarantine for a couple of them.
Viola Mae Flynn pointed out outdoor toilet facilities you never knew was there. Don't fool with medicine which cleans only PART of bowels, but let Adlerika give stomach and bowels a REAL cleaning and get rid of all gas! Ed F. Beranek, Druggist.

"As The Days Begin To Lengthen The Cold Begins To Strengthen" is an old time saying, and whether it proves true this winter and regardless of all weather predictions, we don't want any of our customers to get caught short of coal if and when a bad storm comes. We have had remarkably fine weather so far and every week of it brings us nearer spring, but it will be an unusual winter if we don't get a few real bad storms and if we do they may come soon. It is distressing to come after coal in a bad storm. Better be safe and get a supply right now when it is a pleasure to come after it.

Wife, Gas, Scare Man In Dead Of Night
"Overcome by stomach gas in the dead of night, I scared my husband badly. He got Adlerika and it ended the gas."—Mrs. M. Owen.
Adlerika relieves stomach gas in TEN minutes! Acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing old poisonous waste you never knew was there. Don't fool with medicine which cleans only PART of bowels, but let Adlerika give stomach and bowels a REAL cleaning and get rid of all gas! Ed F. Beranek, Druggist.

Flowers "Bloom" on Winter Frocks

SATIN ROSES, VELVET GARDENIAS LEND UNUSUAL TOUCH OF COLOR TO SOMBER COSTUMES WHEN WORN CLOSE TO THE NECK OR AT THE WAISTLINE

BY HARRIET

FLOWERS bloom in the winter time on many of the loveliest costumes.

Not real flowers, of course, but some of the prettiest of artificial flowers. They are made of chiffon, organdie, velvet and even patent leather. When cut of the right color, there is nothing more trim, more feminine.

Arranging flowers as trimmings demands a real artistic sense. If a woman is chic, she can add such a touch herself to enhance completely the charm of a gown.

A black velvet gown, for instance, can have a velvet or satin rose placed just right at the side of her waist and presto, she has on a lovely costume. White gardenias used as shoulder straps may totally change the aspect of a black gown. The newest of novelty necklaces is composed of little flowers made of colored crystal. One of the outstanding party gowns this year had for an accessory a necklace of chiffon flowers exactly matching in color the blue of itself.

A trailing cluster of flowers becomes a young girl charmingly. The same may also apply to slender mature women. But on sophisticated, flowers may be placed more carefully, chosen more artistically.

These Jean Patou creations illustrate how artificial flowers, correctly worn, may become darker frocks. On the black chiffon evening gown, left, there is a cluster of three large velvet chiton roses. The black velvet coat, right, depends on a large velvet rose for its dash.

ONE of the popular ways to wear a single lovely and colorful flower is to place it right at the center of the V front neck. This, for instance, might be done with a lace and chiffon dress that was developed in bois de rose and dark brown. The flower should be browner than the rose and rosier than the brown.

A new Paris gown for dancing has rosettes of flowers around the bottom, like ruching. It is a chiffon organdie, in pastel tone, and the ruching makes a lovely spring-like finish. The very short sleeves have a diminutive ruching around them for finish, too.

Two of the new ways to wear flowers are right close to the neck, under one ear, where the coat or

Both demand some thought. Suppose you have a little black velvet jacket that you wear with your afternoon as well as your evening things. Get a velvet rose, in the color of your gown and attach it firmly in the center of the scarf collar that ties on one side. This makes a party garment of the coat, ties it up to the dress, makes a costume of the whole.

If you want to wear flowers at your waistline, you must have a decided waistline. Flowers are especially lovely above a peplum-cut skirt. It is a good idea to have a couple of flowers, make a kind of nosegay of them, and attach them firmly at the right side of the center front. If you have a black chiffon frock, for instance, three violet colored chiton roses, with unusual shading in each, make an unusual adjunct to the frock and a lovely accessory.

Ord Church News

Ord Methodist Church

Happy New Year! to all our people and everybody else. The only way, however, that we can really have a new year is that we must make of ourselves new people. That must be what a writer of verse had in mind when he wrote: Be thyself Not the one thou art. But that better self God planted in thy heart.

The pastor would like to challenge a lot of fine folks to try to make a new year for themselves by turning over a new leaf in the matter of church going. Start in next Sunday to go to church morning and evening. Take in the whole program. As a result the church will be new and you will be new and it will then be a happy new year.

Remember our plan for Thursday is to eat together in the basement of the church at the noon hour. Everybody welcome, of course. Short program to follow. Let us make this a great social time. It is for old and young. Be sure to bring the baby.

The Sunday school is at 10. Morning service at 11, Epworth League at 6:30, Evening service at 7:30.

W. H. Wright

Presbyterian church.

Sunday school 9:45. Morning worship service 11, topic "Jesus' attitude toward the poor." A joint meeting of the Board of Trustees and Session at 3 o'clock. Evangelistic services 7:30.

Wed On Christmas Day.

The Congregational church was the scene of a beautiful wedding Christmas day. The bride, Miss Mather, became the bride of Cecil Weddel. The ceremony took place at high noon and was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends. The church was decorated with ferns, and sprays of white spruce. Two pedestals candelabras each holding seven lighted candles and large baskets of chrysanthemums were placed on either side of the altar. Mrs. B. W. Bureleigh, pianist played while the guests were arriving and heralding the arrival of the bride and groom. The music drifted into the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march to which Rev. Bureleigh entered the church followed by the bride and groom and their attendants, Miss Ramona Duxstad of Hastings and Lawrence Hagood of Upland. The bride and groom took their places before the altar where the ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Bureleigh. Preceding the service Mrs. C. C. Weddel sang very sweetly, "Oh Promise Me." Misses Grace Hagood and Mary Elizabeth Cook acted as bridesmaids. The bride and groom have a host of friends in Arcadia and they graciously extended an open invitation to all to attend the church service.

The bride was beautiful in a gown of white satin, trimmed in princess lines and trimmed in bridal lace. Her only ornament was a string of crystals, a gift of the groom. The beautiful handkerchief which she carried was the "Bride's Handkerchief" from the Mary Lanning Hospital Training school at Hastings, and is carried by all brides who are graduates of the school. She wore a bridal veil which fell from a tight fitting cap and reached to the bottom of her dress. The veil was made with a small caplet. Two sprays of orange blossoms, gift of friends in California, were held in place by small rosettes at either side of the cap. Her slippers were white moire satin. She carried a shower bouquet of butterfly buds and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaid was gowned in a rose beige chiffon georgette costume with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of butterfly buds. The groom and his best man were attired in dark suits. Following congratulations and best wishes from the relatives and friends the bridal party was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Weddel where a lovely wedding dinner was served. A large white wedding bell was suspended from the ceiling of the dining room at the Weddel home from which pink ribbon streamers were strung to the dining table. The table decorations consisted of four tall white candles in holders, four tiny Christmas trees, bouquets of pink roses and a large wedding cake made in three tiers surmounted by a miniature bride and groom under a spray of lilies of the valley and foliage. The favors and place cards were tiny brides and grooms, complete in every detail even to the bride's veil.

The menu for the dinner follows: grape fruit and maraschino cherries served in half of grapefruit, notched, roast turkey and roast duck with dressing, cranberry sauce with whipped cream, mashed potatoes, brown gravy, pineapple and carrot salad, whole pickled peaches, celery, creamed cauliflower, hot rolls and butter. Individual molds of ice cream in the shape of red hearts, topped by a white ice cream cupid with bow and arrow, bride's cake, groom's cake, coffee.

The guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Weddel, Rev. and Mrs. B. W. Bureleigh, Miss Mary Elizabeth Cook, Miss Ramona Duxstad, Miss Grace Hagood, Lawrence Hagood, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Doe, Wallace Doe, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Weddel, Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Hawley, Mrs. Augusta Mather, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Mather and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Routh, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Weddel and family and Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Weddel and John.

Mae is the daughter of Mrs. Augusta Mather. She graduated from the Arcadia high school with the class of 1925 and attended the University of California School for nurses during the year 1926. She returned to Nebraska and entered the Mary Lanning Training School for Nurses at Hastings where she graduated in June 1929. Since then she has resided at the Maryland Hotel in Hastings and done private nursing.

Cecil is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Weddel. He graduated from the Arcadia high school in the year 1922 and has since attended the Kearney Normal and Hastings college graduating from the latter with the class of 1929. The past two years he has been superintendent of the school at Inavale, where he is now employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Weddel left Thursday afternoon for Omaha for a few days visit after which they will make their home at Inavale, a short distance from Inavale. It is the sincere wish of their large circle of friends that their married life may be one of health, happiness and prosperity.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Augusta Mather of Chanute, Kas., mother of the bride and Miss Ramona Duxstad of Hastings.

Mrs. Martha Nelson Passes Away.

Christmas Program and Free Lunch.
The open air Christmas program held at the Community Christmas tree and the free serving of coffee and doughnuts in the business houses of Arcadia Tuesday evening, Dec. 23rd was a wonderful success. The weather was ideal and friends and neighbors from far and near were on hand to complete their Christmas shopping and indulge in a hot cup of coffee and a doughnut.

The program at the tree consisted of the singing of Christmas carols accompanied on the cornets by Arthur Easterbrook and his son, Paul. Following the singing, popcorn balls were distributed among the children and grown-ups, popcorn balls, doughnuts and cream were provided by the ladies of Arcadia and the surrounding territory and the coffee and sugar was donated by each merchant in whose store was served. The work was sponsored by the Ladies Community club. The work of selecting and making arrangements for the tree was sponsored by the Men's Community Club, the tree was donated by Arthur Easterbrook and hauled free of charge to its present location by Harry McMichael. The Western Public Service Co. of Loup City decorated the tree, donating their services and the lights.

John Hawthorne Movie Operator.
John Hawthorne, young son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hawthorne, bids fair to putting P. E. Doe and all the surrounding picture show managers clear out of business. John received an up-to-the-minute motion picture machine for Christmas and to say he is real proud of his possession is putting it mildly. John features a western picture and a gang comedy. He entertained his young friends at a movie Tuesday evening and has another such entertainment billed for Friday evening. He charges the small sum of two cents to pay his overhead expenses.

Farmers Club Meets.
The December meeting of the Farmers club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John White last Saturday with one hundred and two members and guests present. ### NORTH LOUP DEPARTMENT

MRS. FRED BARTZ, Reporter

The W. F. M. S. of the M. E. church is meeting with Miss Maud Thomas on Friday afternoon of this week.

Union Revival services opened Friday evening at the Friends church with Miss Bessie F. Brown, pastor of this church bringing the message. A good attendance and much interest prevails.

Marjorie Thelin returned from Hillcrest this afternoon of Christmas day. Her many friends are pleased to know she is recovering nicely from her recent illness.

Miss Lois Kildow spent Friday at Palmer as the guest of Miss Alice Pierce at the Rumsdell home.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Thomas and family had for their Christmas day guests, Mrs. V. J. Thomas and Maud, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Dutcher of Greeley and Mrs. Fenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Salter of Greeley, made a short call at the Fred Bartz home Sunday afternoon. They were returning from Ord where they had visited their son Ray, who is convalescing at Hillcrest after a recent appendicitis operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolly Fisher and son Gordon of York, closed their place of business Christmas Eve and motored up to spend Christmas with the home folks. They were attendants at the M. E. church service Sunday morning, returning to their home in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Sohl of Cedar Bluffs, motored to the Geo. Baker home, Christmas morning, Miss Cecile Baker of Omaha accompanied the party.

Mrs. M. J. Gowan with the Geo. Gowan family were Christmas day guests at the Eddie Davis home.

Grandma Milligan entertained her children, grandchildren and four great grandchildren at her home in the village Christmas day. The Milt Earnest home was the scene of a large family gathering on Christmas day.

Mr. Wendall, father of Mrs. Earl Bingham, who has spent the past two months here left Sunday morning by motor for his home in Melchar, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Manchester Tuesday, December 23, a son, Paul Eugene.

A very pleasant surprise in the nature of a miscellaneous shower, chiefly edibles was tendered Tuesday, Mrs. Hurley Warren by the people of the church, on Christmas day, while they were partaking of a lovely Christmas dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Art Babcock. Mrs. Babcock was Santa Claus, the others her helpers, so she knew what was in store for them when they returned home. This act of kindness was greatly appreciated by these good people.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson were Christmas guests of their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hamilton of Geneva.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Helbig of Loup City entertained a large company of relatives Christmas day. They were Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Barnhart and son Erman, the Bert and Henry Rich families, Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Peterson and Miss Grace Rich.

Thirty-two young people from the M. E. church at North Loup attended the district Epworth League rally at Arcadia Friday evening. About 200 from the various Leagues of the district were in attendance and a splendid time is reported. There was a program of songs and readings, a check talk by Mr. Ray Lutz of Arcadia. Then more singing. The guests then retired to the basement of the church where they enjoyed a gift exchange, a number of delightful games and delicious refreshments. Altogether it was a delightful evening.

Cattle Make More Gains With Wheat

Tests Show Wheat-Corn Ration
Superior To Straight
Corn Feed.

Experiments recently completed at the agricultural college, Lincoln, in cattle feeding, have shown that a ration made up of one part ground wheat and two parts ground corn is more efficient and more economical than a straight shelled corn ration at present grain prices. Alfalfa hay was used as a supplement in both lots. The results should be of interest to Valley county farmers.

Unusual as it may seem, Prof. Gramlich of the animal husbandry department says the profits on the wheat ration were nearly double what they were on the corn fed cattle. Certainly this is of interest to farmers around Ord, North Loup and Arcadia.

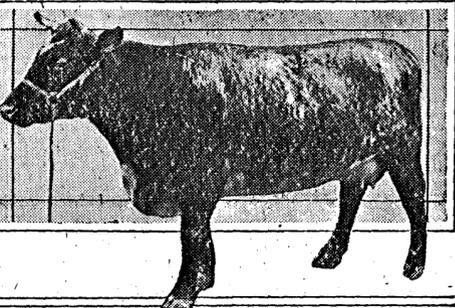

Herefords raised by the United States Department of Agriculture on an experimental livestock farm at Miles City, Montana, were used in the test. The cattle were shipped to Beltsville, Maryland, at the conclusion of the experiment where studies are to be made on the finished carcasses by government men. A few head were left in Lincoln for slaughter study by the college of agriculture.

The cattle fed the corn-wheat ration gained more than three and one-half pounds daily while the lot fed the straight corn ration gained slightly over three pounds daily. The results proved the wheat fed cattle to be the biggest gain producers. Necessarily, farmers around Ord who feed cattle are interested in this result.

The addition of ground wheat to the corn in the ration proved to Nebraska and Valley county farmers that under present conditions, it is advisable. The mixture of ground wheat with corn appeared to be more palatable as the results show the steers ate more and not only made gains but made more economically. The profits on the wheat ration were nearly double what they were on the corn-fed cattle.

In figuring the costs and financial return the cattle made, interest on investment, initial feed cost, cost of marketing were taken into consideration. The cattle were figured to be worth

Wins Prize for Novice Farmer

George W. Borg, who has been a farmer for less than two years, set a remarkable record at the International Live Stock show at Chicago recently when his short horn cow, "Dorothy Dairymaid," above, won the grand championship for milking short horns and the senior championship in the same class.

$8.25 cwt. at the start of the experiment. It cost nearly $2.00 more per head to feed the wheat-corn cattle than those fed a straight corn ration.

As most Valley county feeders probably expect, less pork was produced behind the cattle that were fed the ground feed than those fed the shelled corn. In figuring the profits from the experiments this was taken into consideration.

None of the cattle in the experiment were actually marketed at the close of the test but final figures were based on appraised value and estimated market weights, that is home weights shrunken a certain percentage to allow for shipping to Omaha.

The steers fed wheat and corn were considered enough better to rate a twenty-five cent higher price than the corn-fed cattle despite their greater weight. Market price from Omaha who visited the college shortly before the experiment was concluded and appraised the cattle believed if the weights had been equal, they would have made a fifty cent difference in favor of the wheat-fed lot.

Department of agriculture scientists are to study the quality of beef obtained from the steers when they are slaughtered in Maryland soon. Valley county farmers will probably be watching for the results.

Fumigation Most Effective Method Of Killing Rats

Bare Suggests Using Fumes,
Carbon, Disulphide, Cyanide.

Fumigation of rats is certainly the quickest method of exterminating them where it can be safely used, according to O. S. Bare, extension entomologist at the agricultural college. It probably is one of the most effective methods of destroying the rats. Bare mentions gasoline engine fumes, carbon disulphide, and calcium cyanide as fumigating agencies.

Rats in burrows or under tight places can often be killed by the exhaust fumes from an auto, tractor or truck, suggests the college of agriculture man. He says, however, that it is not fully effective.

In using the fumes, a piece of hose is attached to the exhaust and inserted into the burrow or other rat harbor. The carburetor is adjusted to give a rich, smoky mixture, and the motor is started and run for about ten minutes or longer. To make the method more effective, the entomologist recommends that all openings be tightly closed. Farmers using the fumes to poison the rats should be careful that it not be used in or under buildings containing livestock because the gas is poisonous.

Farmers and other people over the state find that carbon disulphide is most effective in fumigating rat harbors but when attempting to exterminate the rats. A wad of cotton, rags or other absorbent material should be saturated with a couple table-spoons of the liquid and pushed as far as possible into the burrow. The burrow is then to be closed with moist dirt.

Explaining the use of calcium cyanide as an agency for getting rid of the rats, Bare says that it is the most effective and also the most dangerous. It comes as a gray powder or in a gray flake which is most effective when exposed to the air. This gas, Bare relates, is extremely poisonous and destructive to most if not all animal life.

The extension man suggests that the calcium cyanide not be used in dwelling houses nor in or about buildings that contain domestic animals or poultry due to the possible results. It is best to handle it in the open air. In storing the calcium cyanide, it should be tightly closed in subdivisions where it is inaccessible to children and livestock. Bare does not advise the use of calcium cyanide by anyone who is unfamiliar with it. Farmers around Ord use great quantities of the calcium cyanide when killing prairie dogs so are acquainted with it and the results obtained.

Calcium cyanide is best used by forcing it into burrows and other rat harbors by means of a hand or foot pump type duster. A few sticks will fill the burrow or other harbor with the fine smoke-like dust which will emerge from all connected openings. These should then be closed with moist earth.

ACCOUNT BOOK SUMMARY SOON

Will Show Lost Or Profit This Year. Meetings In Ord.

Valley county farmers who have been cooperating with the extension service at the agricultural college and the farm bureau at Ord in the farm accounting project will summarize their account books soon after the first of the year, County Agent Dale announced today. Local farmers will take an inventory of their property and determine what their profits or losses have been for the year.

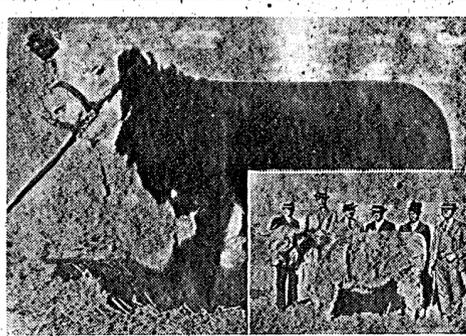

Those including at the state including Valley, will be visited by the extension economists where county-wide meetings will be held for all farmers having farm account books. The men are scheduled to be in Ord February 19-20. Farmers here will bring their books to the meeting place where the extension men will help to summarize them.

Farm accounting is not a new thing to Valley county farmers, Dale says. For several years, many farmers have been taking out the books furnished by the extension service and keeping an account of expenditures and receipts made upon the farm. The first year there were but a few taking account but the list has grown until nearly one hundred are cooperating with the Valley County Farm Bureau this year.

Agent Dale expects many other farmers from over the county will cooperate this coming year. He says with economic conditions the way they are, farmers are beginning to see the value of keeping cost accounts and determine whether they are actually making or losing money on the farm.

Nebraska rural pupils whose districts do not supply high school education have the privilege of enjoying a high school education at the cost of the home districts. The high schools of the state received approximately two million dollars in 1929 from this tuition source.

Smallpox quarantine was removed Sunday from the A. W. Pierce place and the boys were glad to return to their own home.

SELECT PRINCE 2ND.
Insert—The 1930 Judging team and their Scotch Highlander steer mascot, "Moonshine."

Lincoln, Nebr.—Onward Prince 2nd, Hereford yearling steer from the University herd, will represent the University of Nebraska in the beef cattle division at the National Livestock Show in Denver the second week in January, according to a recent announcement. The animal, already a show winner, will be exhibited in the Denver ring and then sold.

When shown recently at the Ak-Sar-Ben show in Omaha Onward Prince stood second in his class. Show judges deliberated at great length before placing him second. At the American Royal Show at Kansas City this animal placed first in an extremely large class of junior calves and was awarded first in an extremely large class of junior calves and was awarded the reserve championship as the second best Hereford steer. The American Royal is the largest Hereford show in the world.

Developed primarily for student class work, members of the University beef cattle herd made many fine records. Probably the most popular and most universally liked animal ever produced by the University was College Kenyon. This animal was shown in the Denver show in 1926 and went through to the grand championship. It also produced the grand champion carcass, the first time in which a steer was grand champion both on foot and in the beef. The steer, weighing 1,200 pounds was sold to a railroad for one dollar above the first time a railroad has ever been known to purchase show beef.

LACK OF MASH MAKES POULTRY TROUBLE HERE

Ag College Man Suggests Too Much Scratch Feed.

Referring to poultry trouble that many Valley county farmers are having at this time of the year, Jack Redditt of the agricultural college believes some of the trouble may be due to the ration lacking enough mash for hens under heavy production.

Poultrymen writing the poultry husbandry department at the college of agriculture for information say they are feeding about twenty-five pounds of mash per day to 450 hens. This would mean they are getting only twenty pounds of mash a year per hen. Redditt suggests that usually considering a hen should eat three times that much during the year.

The poultry specialist says the problem of many farmers having such trouble is to get their birds to eat as much mash as they are scratching. He suggests using some artificial lighting as electric lights or hanging a lantern in the house all night in such a position that the birds can get off the roosts and feed. This should encourage greater feeding consumption.

Those including at the college from near Ord about their birds say the appetites of the chickens are irregular. Some eat good while the rest do not care if they eat or not. Farmers having the trouble have examined some chickens and find no worms and find no traces of worms.

Speaking of the weight of spring hatched birds, Redditt says many poultrymen are finding the chickens weighing but three to four pounds April hatched leghorns should weigh from four to four and one-half pounds now if they have been kept on a full ration and have been free from disease and parasites.

Again referring to the feeding, the college man says if there is plenty of room in the poultry houses, the chickens can control the consumption much better than if the birds were confined in the houses. He maintains that pullets are better satisfied if housed all the time than when they are given an irregular schedule and kept housed during bad weather.

BIRDS MAKE FIVE CENTS NET PROFIT

Poultry cooperators with the agricultural extension service report that the average market price received for eggs in November was thirty-one cents, according to J. R. Redditt of the poultry department at the college of agriculture, Lincoln. One cooperator from Valley county assists the college in making the cost accounting project reports.

Figures from the cooperators show that it cost an average of ten cents to keep a hen for the month. The average gross return for each of the hens in the project was fifteen cents, leaving a net income of five cents per bird for the month.

With more than ten thousand hens being recorded, the monthly report at the agricultural college shows that each hen laid an average of 57 eggs during November. The high flock in the state among cooperators averaged eleven eggs for the month while the lowest average production was but nine-tenths of one egg.

forth the form of organization of the basic or local cooperative in a recent bulletin which deals with the cooperative and the corporation tax. It is essential that not less than twenty may organize a cooperative although the number is not limited. Law terminates and dissolves the company whenever at any time the membership or stock ownership is held by fewer than twenty persons.

In further pointing out the methods of organization, Lawrence quotes articles from the compiled statistics and the session laws of Nebraska. He lists six points which a cooperative company must provide in its articles of incorporation.

Speaking of the income tax, the college of agriculture man says there is an income tax of twelve percent on the net taxable income of every corporation. Certain corporate bodies, however, may be exempt and such exemptions include cooperative associations.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue has charge of collecting the income tax and the rules of that bureau become vital to cooperative organizations in Lawrence's opinion. No association should assume that it is exempt from the income tax, he warns, but should make application for exemption. Several cases in the past have been cited where many associations have assumed that they were exempt from liability for the payment of taxes when, in fact, they were not exempt because they did not qualify for exemption. Several years elapsed before they were called upon and compelled to pay the taxes.

In speaking further of tax exemptions for cooperative associations, Lawrence quotes from the Revenue act of 1928: "Such an association may market the products of non-members in an amount the value of which does not exceed the value of the products marketed for members, and may purchase supplies and equipment for non-members in an amount the value of which does not exceed the value of the supplies and equipment purchased for members, provided the value of the purchases made for persons who are neither members or producers, does not exceed 15 percent of the value of all its purchases."

The marketing specialist says statements made in support of an application for exemption must be sworn to and must have the backing of business records. In this respect, he says good bookkeeping is a prime essential in all cooperative efforts. The Bureau of Internal Revenue are made on the supposition that a cooperative company treat members and non-members alike in the return of savings.

The bureau permits these savings to remain in the treasury of the association if such savings are shown to be applied on payment for stock or membership. In that way, Lawrence explains, a cooperative may show that dividends are being returned to patrons up to 85 percent of their gross business. If the company can show that 15 percent or less of its savings will not be returned to the patrons who brought the business to the company, then that company is exempted from the income tax.

Lawrence Says Major Share Of
Business Done For Mem-

Co-ops Save Money; Aim Not To Profit

Lawrence Says Major Share Of
bers Usually.

"Cooperative societies are organized for saving money and making money" declares J. F. Lawrence, marketing specialist at the agricultural college. He says it is not contemplated in the organization of a cooperative that a major portion of the business of the association is to be done with the membership out of whom money is not to be made but for whom money is to be saved. This information should interest Valley county farmers.

Lawrence believes that a cooperative association should be so organized that a portion of its stock would be at any time available to any one who might come within the scope of its business and who wished to purchase stock. Because of the scope, plan, and conception of cooperative organizations, certain restraints have been put on them and certain privileges accorded them by law.

A large crowd attended Christmas services at the German church on Christmas eve. There will be mass at 11 o'clock A. M. New Years day.

All of the Waldmann children and their families, except John of Alma, Neb., spent Christmas day at the home of their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Anton Neveklia and Frances drove to Alton last Thursday to be with Mrs. Neveklia's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ign. Pesha for the holidays.

When the church bells pealed forth at midnight Christmas Eve, announcing the commemoration of the hour of the birth of our Savior about 200 people were present to take part in the beautiful and impressive services.

The Farmer's Union held their annual meeting last Friday night at the Woodman hall. The old officers were re-elected to office and Jim Visek and Will Waldmann were chosen as delegate and alternate to the state convention.

The Modern Woodman of America held their annual meeting last Saturday night where they re-elected all officers.

Chas. Krikac and family spent Christmas with the home folks.

The Absent-Minded Bridegroom, will be given by the high school at the National hall, Jan. 1. It is a comedy in three acts, and promises to be a good one.

Ed Waldmann and family visited at Jacob John's at Ord Christmas Eve.

Club of Eight will hold their next meeting with Mrs. R. C. Nelson.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 30—Nebraska's five Master Farm Homemakers of 1931 were announced here today.

A public recognition ceremony, January 7, is planned not only to honor them but to recognize the contribution of all Nebraska farm women in building the state.

The Master Farm Homemakers are: Mrs. Jacob Norris, Laurel; Mrs. Edward L. Cooley, Waverly; Mrs. Howard P. Capwell, Elmwood; Mrs. Delmar S. Anderson, Lexington; and Mrs. James W. Miller, Beaver Crossing.

The recognition is sponsored annually by a national farm women's magazine in St. Paul, Minn., with the cooperation of the agricultural extension service of the University of Nebraska and is one feature of Organized Agriculture, January 5-8, 1931. Similar recognitions are given in 19 other states by the magazine and cooperating Colleges of Agriculture, and 320 outstanding women of the nation have been honored so far.

Calves Creep-Fed Return Big Profits

Creep feeding is a conservative and profitable method of producing beef. It is the suggestion made to Valley county farmers today by Paul McDill, assistant extension agent in animal husbandry at the college of agriculture. He says creep feeding is a low cost of production method and that the system produces small cuts of well finished beef that the public desires. It is believed to be true in Ord that the housewife desires a smaller cut of pork or beef.

Valley county farmers have made it a common practice in most localities to creep feed lambs and pigs for many years but the use of creep feeding calves is rather new, according to McDill. In Nebraska just a few men have tried it, probably none here. Although there is no accurate experimental data on the subject under Nebraska and Valley county conditions, work done on fattening cattle of various ages proves definitely that the efficiency of gain decreases as the animal grows older.

In backing up his statement, the college of agriculture man says that calves gain as much gain on sixty pounds of feed as yearlings do on seventy pounds. Further he says the calves will make as much gain on the sixty pounds of feed as the two-year olds will on eighty pounds or as three-year olds will on ninety pounds.

Despite the fact that little experimental work has been done at the Nebraska station, tests in neighboring states and cowmen's experiences in Nebraska indicate clearly that the suckling calf makes more efficient use of grain than will the six months later in the feed lot. The cow's milk plus the grain produces a maximum weight and finish in the shortest time, McDill believes.

Early spring or late winter calves creep feed the best because the calves learn to eat grain quicker in the feed year than when on pasture. Another advantage of the early calf is that the cow maintains a good milk flow longer. The first two months the maternal instinct of the cow induces a good supply of milk, then she goes on to good spring grass which gives milk production a boost which holds up until fly time.

Further explaining creep feeding, McDill says the method adds weight to the calf. Incidentally, he believes each bushel of corn or its equivalent in other grains will produce ten or more pounds of beef. On the market, the creep-fed calves sell for more money since they are more highly finished than the other calves. Other advantages of creep feeding listed by McDill are that it saves shrinkage at weaning time, shortens the feeding period from forty-five to ninety days, evens up the calf crop and goes into the winter in better condition.

The farmer who raises both grain and cattle is finding the creep method a profitable one but some Nebraska ranchers are also finding it profitable to buy grain with which to creep feed their calves. It appears as though Valley county farmers are ideally situated as to grain and calves to practice the creep-feeding method.

In speaking of feeds best used for creep feeding, McDill says shelled corn has proved itself to be the best again. It produces the most gain, the calves like it the best, and it stands the weather conditions in the pasture feeder. Oats grow the calves but do not produce the desired amount of finish for market cattle. The animal husbandry man believes that rolled barley ranks next to corn as a creep feeder kram. When the cows begin to dry up it is a good practice to add from five to ten percent to pea size linseed oil or cottonseed meal to the grain in the feeder, he suggests to Valley county farmers.

Experiments at different stations over the country have proven that creep-fed calves do make profits. The Missouri extension service reports that on forty-one herds in the years of 1926-29, that each calf made a net return above cost of $26.02. Other tests have shown likewise that the creep-fed calf usually returns a good profit to the farmer.

MRS. EDWARD L. COOLEY WAVERLY, NEBRASKA

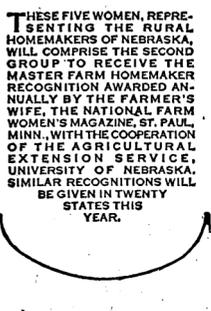

MRS. DELMAR S. ANDERSON LEXINGTON, NEBRASKA

MRS. JAMES W. MILLER BEAVER CROSSING, NEBRASKA

MRS. JACOB NORRIS LAUREL, NEBRASKA

MRS. HOWARD P. CAPWELL ELMWOOD, NEBRASKA

THESE FIVE WOMEN, REPRESENTING THE RURAL HOMEMAKERS OF NEBRASKA, WILL COMPRISE THE SECOND GROUP TO RECEIVE THE MASTER FARM HOMEMAKER RECOGNITION AWARDED ANNUALLY BY THE FARMER'S WIFE, THE NATIONAL FARM WOMEN'S MAGAZINE, ST. PAUL, MINN., WITH THE COOPERATION OF THE AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE, UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA. SIMILAR RECOGNITIONS WILL BE GIVEN TWENTY STATES THIS YEAR.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 30—Nebraska's five Master Farm Homemakers of 1931 were announced here today.

A public recognition ceremony, January 7, is planned not only to honor them but to recognize the contribution of all Nebraska farm women in building the state.

The Master Farm Homemakers are: Mrs. Jacob Norris, Laurel; Mrs. Edward L. Cooley, Waverly; Mrs. Howard P. Capwell, Elmwood; Mrs. Delmar S. Anderson, Lexington; and Mrs. James W. Miller, Beaver Crossing.

The recognition is sponsored annually by a national farm women's magazine in St. Paul, Minn., with the cooperation of the agricultural extension service of the University of Nebraska and is one feature of Organized Agriculture, January 5-8, 1931. Similar recognitions are given in 19 other states by the magazine and cooperating Colleges of Agriculture, and 320 outstanding women of the nation have been honored so far.

To be eligible a woman must be nominated by five neighbors, then she answers over 500 questions concerning all phases of her home-making ability, and a state judging committee makes the selection.

Believing that every woman should have hobbies, Mrs. Norris has chosen children, flowers, and a garden for hers. She has been a school board member eight years, has boarded rural teachers for 20 years, is a leader in many community activities, and won $105 premium money on canned goods at fairs last year. Nevertheless her first ambition is to be a good wife and mother.

With the recognition of Mrs. Anderson Nebraska will have its first Master Farm Family, for Mr. Anderson is a Master Farmer. Mrs. Anderson says that a successful homemaker is a good housekeeper, wife, mother, business woman, and neighbor.

Mrs. Cooley believes that "The right function of a home is to raise the children to be useful citizens, able to take their part in the work of the world", and points out that a parent's job is "to furnish the right home setting and the example."

Her children have won statewide prominence in 4-H club work and the Future Farmers. Mrs. Cooley has been a leader in Parent-Teacher associations, is county chairman of women's work in the farm bureau and helped organize a Farmers' club.

Mrs. Capwell is finding time to read a 15-volume set of Dickens while rearing a family, carrying the usual routine of a farm home, serving as Children's Superintendent of the County Sunday School Association, teaching a Sunday school class of 40 adults and being president of a women's club.

Mrs. Miller points out that there is more to homemaking than good housekeeping and that giving a family high ideals and the fullest possible development is much more important than baking the best pie in the neighborhood or never seeing a bit of dust on the window sill.

ORD'S SCHOOL TAX IS AMONG STATE'S LOWEST

Only Three County Seat Cities Have Lower Mill Levy For Schools Than Ord.

That school taxes in Ord are lower than in most other Nebraska county seat towns is revealed by a survey made recently at Geneva, the results of which were revealed in last week's Geneva Signal.

These figures do not include county seat towns where the tax levy is made for the county seat schools over the entire county.

This record speaks well for the board of education in Ord for being able to keep the school tax among the state's lowest and at the same time build a fine new building and make extensive repairs and improvements on the old building.

Board of education members here include the president, Dr. J. W. McGinnis, the secretary, G. W. Collipriest, and Dr. F. L. Blessing.

The following is the tax levy of the county seat towns of Nebraska where the levy is paid by the district and not by the entire county:

- Allamore, 24.3; Alliance, 24.3; Ashland, 24.3; Aurora, 24.3; Beaver City, 24.3; Bennington, 24.3; Blair, 24.3; Broken Bow, 24.3; Brown, 24.3; Cambridge, 24.3; Central City, 24.3; Chadron, 24.3; Clay Center, 24.3; Colfax, 24.3; Council Bluffs, 24.3; DeWitt, 24.3; Elmwood, 24.3; Geneva, 24.3; Grand Island, 24.3; Hartington, 24.3; Hastings, 24.3; Hebron, 24.3; Holdrege, 24.3; Kearney, 24.3; Lexington, 24.3; Lincoln, 24.3; McCook, 24.3; Neligh, 24.3; North Platte, 24.3; Ord, 24.3; Pawnee, 24.3; Plattsmouth, 24.3; Red Willow, 24.3; Scotts Bluff, 24.3; Seward, 24.3; South Platte, 24.3; St. Paul, 24.3; Valentine, 24.3; Wahoo, 24.3; York, 24.3.

Ravenna All-Stars Meet Local Team Here Next Monday

The fast Ravenna All-Stars, well known town team from the Buffalo county city, will be opponents of the Ord All-Stars at a game to be played in Ord next Monday night.

The Ravenna aggregation is even speedier this year than last, Manager Hillebrandt promises. The same line-up that appeared for them last year, with the exception of Boswell, represents Ravenna again this season.

Fire Inspection Here January 21

Nebraska Fire Prevention Body Will Send Corps of Inspectors To Ord; People Urged Co-operate.

At the invitation of Mayor Moses and the Chamber of Commerce, the Nebraska State Fire Prevention association will make an inspection of Ord, January 21. This with the purpose of discovering any conditions in construction, equipment or upkeep of a business house that might cause a fire, if not remedied.

To accomplish their purpose, members of the state organization will inspect buildings, both inside and outside. The prime object of the men making the inspection is to secure the cooperation of both owners and occupants of the various buildings in ridding their premises of all existing fire hazards.

In no way will the regular order of things in a store or factory be interfered with by the fire preventionists. The men about their work in a careful manner, noting any dangerous accumulation of inflammable rubbish in or adjacent to the premises inspected.

The visitors will not attempt to inspect residences here, this phase of the work being handled by means of what are known as "Home Inspection" blanks in the hands of the school children. Examination in this respect elsewhere has demonstrated that the children enter into the spirit of the work, at the same time acquiring a knowledge of what is meant by fire prevention and fire safety that will have lasting effects.

Investigation covering a number of years shows that over 50 percent of all the fires occurring in this country are either due to carelessness or could have been averted by simple preventive measures. Having this fact in mind, members of organizations similar to the Nebraska State Fire Prevention association are striving in every possible way to educate the people as a whole in the matter of safeguarding their homes and places of business against the danger of fire.

Bernice Smith Would Divorce Her Husband

Suit for divorce from her husband, Lester L. Smith, was filed in district court here this week by Bernice Smith, through her attorneys, Davis & Vogelzang. Her husband has an uncontrollable temper, she alleges, and frequently cursed her and on one occasion choked her.

Recovering From Operation. Everitt "Buster" Petty is recovering nicely from a serious operation performed last week in the Methodist hospital at Omaha. Four inches of bone were taken from his leg and placed in his crippled arm.

Check Forgers Bound Over. At a hearing in St. Paul Tuesday Charles Kinney and Joe Sokol, the two youths who left a trail of forged checks down the valley two weeks ago, were bound over to the district court. They will probably be sentenced to the penitentiary by Judge Horth today.

Both Marriages And Divorces On Wane In Valley County

Fewer marriage licenses were issued and fewer divorce actions were filed in Valley county in 1930 than in the previous year, is the report of county officials. Only 56 licenses to wed were issued and this is 21 under the 1929 total.

Buyers Jablonski Auto. The Lincoln 8 confiscated by officers when Jerry Jablonski was arrested on liquor charges a few weeks ago was disposed of at sheriff's sale Tuesday, C. A. Anderson buying it for $30. The car was an old model and was badly damaged in Jablonski's collision with the Achen car.

DAMAGE SUITS TOTALING $5,750 ARE FILED HERE

Jack Sargent, Gilbert Gaylord Ask Large Amounts For Car Accident Injuries.

Two damage suits aggregating $5,750 were filed in district court here yesterday by Jack Sargent and Gilbert Gaylord against Lee Lacey and the Uly-Talbert Company for injuries received in an auto accident on the streets of Ord November 10, 1930.

The suit filed by Gaylord is for $5,000. The young man charges that his left arm was torn nearly off, his arm was badly wrenching, his scalp was cut and he was seriously bruised all over his body.

Jack Sargent's physical injuries were slight, he admits, though he was unable to work for ten days after the accident. However, his car was a total wreck and he should be recompensed in the amount of $750, he believes.

Adopt Girl 'Santa Claus'. North Loup, Jan. 5.—(Special)—Friends of Dr. and Mrs. Pluckney of Scotia will be interested to know that they have adopted a baby girl ten months old.

Meyer To Sponsor Power Farming Day

Next Tuesday, January 13, is power farming day in Ord for A. J. Meyer, dealer in John Deere farm implements, is sponsoring a power farming show at the Gem theater. Motion pictures showing new John Deere implements and their uses will be shown and later, at Mr. Meyer's implement house, experts will demonstrate many of the machines. All farmers are urged to register at the implement house before going to the theater as Mr. Meyer is giving away a $25 tank heater to some farmer who does so. See his advertisement on page seven.

New Hatchery Manager Here. Stanley Rutar of Central City has arrived and is in charge of the Ord Hatchery, which is again open for business in the same location. Mr. Rutar is former Valley county resident. He has been operating a hatchery at Central City and his wife is still in charge of that hatchery while Mr. Rutar will operate the one at Ord.

Wahoo Team Beats Ord High, 21 to 10

Coach Krejci's Ord high school basketball team opened their 1931 season last Friday evening with a loss to Wahoo by a score of 21 to 10. The Ord team shows prospects of developing into a strong organization before the season is over, though several green men must first round into shape.

ORD POSTOFFICE REPORTS BIGGER BUSINESS IN 1930

December Volume 20 Percent Larger Than 1929, Says Postmaster Edwin Clements.

Volume of business for the past year at the Ord postoffice ran slightly larger than in 1929, according to Postmaster Edwin Clements. Climaxing an excellent year, Christmas business ran 20 percent larger than in December of the previous year, the postmaster says.

Cities with $20,000 volume of postal business are eligible for federal buildings and the Ord postmaster is hoping that within a few years local business will have increased sufficiently so that Ord can get a structure of this nature.

Mrs. Robert Squires Dead. S. W. Roe received a message Sunday telling of the death on January 2 of Mrs. Robert Squires, at her home in southern California. Mrs. Squires' body is being brought here for burial by her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Winchester, of Albuquerque, N. M. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. in the Ord Presbyterian church and burial will be in the Ord cemetery.

Pays $129.90 for Freedom. Jerry Jablonski, who stayed in county jail fifteen days rather than pay a $150 fine assessed against him on a liquor charge, was released Tuesday when he appeared before Judge Hollingshead and paid $129.90 for his freedom. His fine and costs, minus a $45 allowance for time spent in jail, totalled this amount.

COUNTY'S FIRST 1931 BABY BORN LAST SATURDAY

Albert Volf, Jr., Is Fortunate Infant, Will Receive Gifts From Ord Merchants.

Albert Marvin Volf, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Volf, is Valley county's first 1931 baby. The child was born at 11:40 a. m. Saturday, Jan. 3 at the Volf farm home three miles west of Ord. Dr. Henry Norris being in attendance.

Valley county's first 1931 baby is a fortunate infant indeed for he is receiving gifts from eleven business firms of Ord. The presents include a knife, fork and spoon set, a baby toilet set, a baby blanket, a sheet and pillow case, a Mennen set, a baby hot water bottle, a solid gold ring, two little dresses, a set of birth announcements and a $1 savings account.

Business people who offered these presents were Able Bros., Stoltz Variety Store, the Golden Rule, Sophie McBeth, McLain & Sorenson, Geo. A. Parkins, Ed F. Beranek, the Chase Toggery, Milford's, Drs. Nay & Nay, and the Ord Quiz.

Two births since Saturday have been reported to the Quiz. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bredthauer are parents of an eight pound baby girl born Tuesday noon in the Ord hospital with Dr. C. J. Miller in attendance and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Guggenmos are parents of an 8 1/2 pound boy born at 7 p. m. Tuesday with Dr. Lee Nay in attendance.

Bankers of District Dine Here Saturday. Bankers of this district were guests of Ord bankers last Saturday evening at a dinner served in the Rotary club rooms. A fine meal was served by the New Cafe staff after which the bankers enjoyed an informal discussion of their problems. About forty were present.

Give Program at Scotia. The Aulsebrook orchestra journeyed to Scotia last Sunday evening and presented a program at the Scotia Methodist church. They report a splendid reception and Scotia people report a fine program.

Notice. I want the public to keep in mind that I am now running my own hatchery, located in the Bailey building west of Farmers store. Thomas R. Goff. 42-2t

Jay Auble Leaves For Michigan; Will Demonstrate Patent

Jay Auble left Monday for Niles, Mich., where he is attending a convention of the Kawr-neer store front company, largest manufacturer and distributor of store fronts in the United States. He will demonstrate his patented marquee, or canopy, to Kawr-neer executives. Several store front companies are interested in Mr. Auble's invention but naturally he prefers to deal with the biggest in the business. The Ord man will also visit in Chicago for a few days before returning home.

Fined For Intoxication. Ord people may have celebrated New Year's Eve in a big way but records show that only one man was arrested for indulging too freely. In county court last Friday Laverne Burrows pleaded guilty to intoxication and was fined $15 and costs.

FINAL QUARTER RALLY WINS FOR ORD ALL-STARS

Town Team Takes Opener From Grand Island A. C. By 28 to 22 Score; Krejci "Hot."

A desperate final quarter rally spelled the difference between victory and defeat for the Ord All-Stars Monday night and Joe Krejci and his town cagers pulled through with a 26 to 22 win over the fast Grand Island Athletic club team. A comparatively small crowd saw one of the best basketball games played in Ord in many seasons.

The Ord team was never headed during the first half and when the gun sounded they led by a slender 2-point margin, the count being 10 to 8.

North Loup Couple Weds. At St. Paul last Saturday occurred the marriage of Miss Ellen Rich to Edwin Honeycutt, both of the North Loup neighborhood.

Scotia Choir To Present Cantata. At 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening the twenty voice choir from the Scotia M. E. church will present their Christmas cantata, "The Holy Child." Bert W. Ammerman, well known Scotia musician, directs the choir in this presentation and it is said to be a splendid cantata.

Eight Gallons Poured Out. Eight gallons of so-called whiskey went gurgling merrily down the sewer yesterday when Sheriff George Round poured out the hooch found in the Jablonski car, a couple of weeks ago. The liquor was destroyed in the presence of Judge Hollingshead, County Attorney Munn and a few curious on-lookers, of whom the Quiz editor was one.

Struck By Auto, Dies. North Loup, Jan. 5.—(Special)—Last Wednesday evening Mrs. Alfred Crandall received word that her sister, Mrs. Alice Groeteker, of Brookfield, Mo., had been struck by an auto while crossing the street and was near death. Thursday morning Mr. and Mrs. Crandall left for Brookfield where they found Mrs. Groeteker still alive but unconscious. She passed away at 11:45 a. m. Sunday.

NORTH LOUP MAN DENIES CHARGES OF Dr. TSCHAUNER

Didn't Steal Affections of Wife, Floyd Hudson Says; Dentist Was Jealous Husband.

Picturing Dr. A. A. Tschauer as an insanely jealous husband who treated his wife with such cruelty that she had to appeal to police for protection, Floyd Hudson of North Loup Wednesday denied his answer in district court here to the dentist's $30,000 allegation of affections suit. Munn & Norman are attorneys for Mr. Hudson while Roy Higgins of Grand Island represents Dr. Tschauer.

Mr. Hudson's answer to the damaging affidavit of Gladys A. Tschauer admitted a divorce action against her husband but denies that he conspired with her to that end or suggested such an action. Mrs. Tschauer was given her divorce at Claremore, Okla., on October 4, 1930, the answer says.

He was a friend both of Dr. Tschauer and his wife, Hudson says, and frequently was invited to the Tschauer home as a friend of the family while they lived in North Loup. He admitted meeting Mrs. Tschauer in public places where he talked to her openly and in good faith as a friend but denies meeting her secretly at any time.

The North Loup man suggests that the dentist's "unwarranted, insane and suspicious jealousy," his threats to kill his wife and his cruel and inhuman treatment resulted in the loss of her affections. Dr. Tschauer's parents disliked Mrs. Tschauer, Hudson says, and they interfered with the marriage in many ways.

He charges that Dr. Tschauer has repeatedly tried to compromise his former wife by trying to induce her, during her divorce action and since it was granted, to live with him secretly as his wife and then re-marry him upon the completion of his damage suit against Mr. Hudson. Since the divorce was granted Dr. Tschauer has employed his former wife to work in his office, Mr. Hudson says.

The North Loup man asks that the suit be set aside and that he be recompensed for his costs in the suit.

The suit probably will be heard at the spring jury term, the date of which has not yet been set.

Neighbors Gather, Husk 1,000 Bushels For John Chipps

A husking bee was held at the John Chipps farm east of Arcadia when nineteen of Mr. Chipps' friends and neighbors gathered last Tuesday and husked his entire corn crop, about 1,000 bushels. Dinner and supper were prepared for the men by ladies of the neighborhood, with the assistance of Mrs. Chipps. Mr. Chipps has been receiving treatment here for some time for inflammatory rheumatism, with which he has been confined to his bed for five weeks.

Those who took part in the husking bee were Leo Sydzyski, Anton Kucera, Donald Chlewicki, Ernest Jensen, Martin and Floyd Lybarger, Ray Lutz, Walter Holmes, Loren Christ, Fred Lemmon, George, Delmas and Levi Chipps, Jr., Joe, Walter, Anton and Andrew Sydzyski, Archie Boyce and Levi Chipps, Sr. Mr. and Mrs. Chipps greatly appreciate this kindness.

John Parkos Dies At Kimball Jan. 1

John F. Parkos, 46, for many years a resident of Valley county, passed away January 1 at Kimball, Neb. The body was brought here for burial and funeral services were held Sunday at the Woodmen hall. Mr. Parkos was born May 23, 1884 in Chicago, Ill. He leaves his aged father, James Parkos, of Ord, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Kump of Saline county and Bessie Parkos of Beatrice. His mother, Mrs. Anton and two brothers preceded him in death. He will be greatly missed not only by his immediate relatives but by friends and fellow members of the Ord Z. C. B. J. lodge.

Night Schools for Farmers. Farmers in the vicinity of Haskell Creek will start their winter agricultural meetings again tonight at the district 45 schoolhouse. It will be the third winter for conferences of this nature at Haskell Creek. J. A. Kovanda will take charge of the discussions, which will be on soils.

T. J. Stoetzel Dead. T. J. Stoetzel, a pioneer resident of Greeley county, passed away at 1:30 a. m. Tuesday at his home in Scotia. Mr. Stoetzel had many friends in Valley county.

Start Year Right! Try New Recipe!

Enchant your family by learning a new way to make old favorites, and by introducing some new favorites to the table. Here is a splendid recipe for caramel cookies, really an ice box recipe, and I know it is good because I use it myself! These cookie rolls are so handy to keep wrapped in wax paper in the ice box. Then at any crucial moment they may be sliced and baked, and be fresh and tender for guests or to complete a meal. Try them! You will write adjectives beside the recipe and paste it in your best cookbook!

Caramel Cookies
1/2 c. lard and butter
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
2 c. brown sugar
3 to 4 c. flour to which 1 level tsp. each of soda, cream of tartar and salt has been added. Work into a loaf and leave on moulding board overnight. In the morning slice thin and bake.
Mrs. H. R. Packer.
Mrs. Packer also sends her recipe for cornbread. All young brides and timorous cooks please copy! It uses sour cream, so perhaps some old, experienced cooks would like to try it too!

Best Corn Bread
1-3 c. sugar
2 eggs
1/2 tsp. salt
1 c. sour cream
Beat well and add 1 c. cornmeal and 1 c. flour to which 1/2 tsp. soda has been added.
Several other recipes were sent in by Mrs. Packer and will be given to Quiz readers in the near future.
And now would you like to know how to make one of the famous Brownstone Front cakes? Here is the recipe, and it also comes from an Arcadia Quiz reader:
Brownstone Front Cake.
For the dark part: Add 1/2 c. of grated chocolate to 1 c. sweet milk; boil until well dissolved and add the yolk of one egg in a little milk.
For the light part: Take 1/2 c. butter creamed with 1/2 c. sugar; 1/2 c. milk, 1 tsp. each of baking powder and soda, 2 eggs, 2 tsp. vanilla and 2 c. flour. Mix light and dark parts together and bake in a moderate oven. This, when baked in a loaf and covered with white icing is excellent.
Mrs. B. D. Trefren, R. 2, Arcadia.
Mrs. Trefren also sends a recipe for Burnt Sugar Cake. Now, I don't know about you, but this happens to be the cookery editor's firm favorite. It is an uncommon cake, and being a little different for your family. How long has it been since you made a caramel cake?

Burnt Sugar Cake
First make the burnt sugar syrup: Put 1/2 c. granulated sugar into a granite saucepan, stir continually over the fire until the sugar softens, then melts, and finally becomes liquid and throws off an intense smoke. It really must burn. Have ready 1/2 c. boiling water, remove saucepan a moment, pour in the water and stir rapidly allowing it to boil until you have a smooth syrup.
Cake part: Cream together 1/2 c. butter and 1/2 c. granulated sugar, add 2 well beaten eggs and 1 c. milk. Then put in 2 c. flour and 1/2 c. burnt sugar syrup. Lastly add 1 tsp. vanilla and another 1/2 c. flour sifted with 2 tsp. baking powder. Beat well before putting it in the pans. Bake in loaf or layer. This is excellent if the recipe is followed closely.
Mrs. B. D. Trefren
Now surely, you will get right

Chic, Color Mark New Sports Outfits

LATEST CREATIONS FROM PARIS HAVE WARMTH WITHOUT USUAL BULKY LINES—CLOSE-FITTING VISORED CAPS SUPPLANT LAST SEASON'S BERET

BY HARRIET

SNOW banks and glistening frozen lakes have come into their own this season with the advent of the gayest and most becoming costumes for winter sports that have yet come from Paris.

Patou is one of the masters of design who has done particularly well by the young women who are skillful with skis, snowshoes and ice skates. Patou's winter sports outfits are practical as well as picturesque and they have warmth without clumsy, bulky lines.

Bright, warm colors are favored. Yellow and brown, scarlet with navy, and all of the greens are seen. As with street clothes, it is in the accessories that one's fancy for vivid hues may run riot. Most of Patou's skiing costumes are made with loose, blousing trousers and short tailored jackets roomy enough to be worn over a sweater. Heavy, woven scarfs, gloves and socks turned down over the boot tops complete the jaunty ensemble.

The beret, universally worn last winter, has been supplanted by close-fitting, visored caps of the same material as the costume. These caps have flaps (so reminiscent of Sherlock Holmes' famous checked headpiece) which can be unsnapped and brought down over the ears.

The general effect of such a costume is extremely boyish. What a double life Dame Fashion calls upon her devotees to lead! By night they must be demure and maidenly; by day they must be pink checked, slim-limbed young athletes.

An outfit designed by Patou for wear at St. Moritz is made of heavy ribbed waterproof woolen fabric in a soft shade of yellow. The Norwegian trousers are topped with a belt of self material. The man tailored blouse of heavy white crepe has a dark brown bow tie. Over this is worn a hand-knit cardigan, also dark brown, and a short, double-breasted jacket with wide lapels. The cap is of the yellow woolen. Boots worn with the costume are dark brown and the socks are yellow with a brown border.

A typical ensemble for winter sports this year is the smart suit above, made of a heavy ribbed waterproof woolen fabric in a soft shade of yellow. The visored cap, which can be unsnapped and brought down over ears, is a distinctive feature of the outfit.

Another Patou skiing ensemble has trousers and coat of dark brown whipcord with scarf, gloves and socks made of "boucle" wool in a matching shade of brown flecked with yellow. Under this there is a heavy white crepe blouse with brown tie. The cap designed for this outfit is part whipcord, part boucle.

For those who take their winter exercise less strenuously, strolling through the park or motoring, Redfern suggests a hip-length jacket of brown sear that may be turned down or brought snugly up about the throat. The jacket is worn over a one-piece frock of jersey tweed which combines brown, beige and white. The tiny brown beret, quite simple except for a jeweled clasp, gains sophistication from a wisp of veil drooping over the forehead.

Ord Church Notes

Christian Science Society.
The subject of the lesson-lesson for Sunday, January 11, 1931 will be "Sacrament". Sunday services are held at 11:00 A. M. and Sunday school at 10:00 A. M. where pupils of the age of twenty may be received.

On January 14, 1931 will be the regular Wednesday evening meeting at 8:00 P. M. at which testimonies of healing and experiences and remarks on Christian Science are given.
We cordially invite you to attend our services and meetings.

Ord Methodist Church.
There is a lot of chaff but some wheat in "God and the Groceryman" by Harold Bell Wright and here is a sample of the wheat: "we build temples and churches but will not worship in them; we hire spiritual advisers but refuse to heed them; we buy Bibles but will not read them; believing in God we do not fear Him; acknowledging Christ we neither follow nor obey Him." We ought to try to try to change that situation, if it applies to us. And now at the beginning of the new year, is a good time to renew our religious interest. We are calling our people to a Forward Movement from now until Easter. If you, dear reader, join us in this? Will you help us increase the attendances at our worship services? Would like to have all our people present next Sunday morning. Melvin Cornell will lead the League service at 7:30 the method follow from Scott's will render a Christmas cantata given there at Christmas time. This should call out a large crowd.

Presbyterian Church Notes
There will be the regular Sunday school service on Sunday next Sunday at 9:45 a. m. and 11:00 a. m. Rev. Real's topic for his sermon is "When First is First." The topic for the Sunday evening service starting at 7:30 p. m. is "Western Dust." The Presbyterian male quartet will render several selections. Last Sunday afternoon a Union Board meeting of Trustees and Elders was held in the church. The following Committee appointments were made:
Dr. Norris—Chairman Men's work committee.
Dr. Blessing—Chairman Membership committee.
Mr. Henry Benn—Chairman Boys work committee.
Mrs. Benn—Chairman girls work committee.
Mrs. Flagg—Chairman young peoples committee.
Mr. Petty—Chairman music committee.
The educational group committee of the church held a joint meeting with teachers and officers at the church basement Monday night. Many plans were formulated for the coming year in the vital interest of the many phases of the church work.
Last week Mrs. Flagg's class took a hike and picnic lunch in the hills. Rev. Real accompanied the group.
For the past eight weeks the members of the Philathea class of the Sunday school have conducted a contest. Two leaders were chosen and the class was divided with the same number of members on each side. The losing side in attendance are to give a dinner to the winning side. Mrs. Goodhand is the very efficient leader and teacher of this class. All the members admire her and appreciate her efforts in behalf of this class.

Do not fail to attend the splendid luncheon and dinner to be given at the Presbyterian church next Saturday noon and evening. Everybody is welcome.

Something DIFFERENT

This column, a new one, is going to be devoted to bits of human interest, things that are not quite news.....odds and ends.

So if you are a very orderly person and do not care for such bits this is a warning.....don't read this column!

This is a small town, but not so small but what it is related in some way or through some person's interest, to practically every other place in the world! Did you ever think of that? For instance, you have read of the very famous mayor of Chicago, who is now campaigning for a fourth term? William Hale Thompson, sometimes called "Windy Bill", the boy who won his election one time on the grounds of being against King George and England, and their fame in Chicago school textbooks? Bill, the smooth politician, the handy orator etc., etc.

But I'll bet anything you didn't know William Hale once lived over near Spalding, on a ranch. And that he has friends near there, yet, who go to Chicago to smoke a pipe with him, over the old days?

Bill, the famous Chicago character, we have Capone, front name Al. Now no farther away than Loup City he, Mr. Capone, has a calm and peaceful brother-in-law, working away quietly, and staying out of the papers.

Isn't the good people who get in the newspapers, you know. It is the bad news. That is, unless the good people entertain a club or leave town, or come home, or have guests, etc. Divorces, murders, scandals, suicides, accidents, startling and unusual things, these are news.

We are glad to say that in the big-town newspaper sense, Ord has very little real news. Folks hereabouts are peaceable and orderly, and we are glad of it. Even if the Quiz never has any screaming headlines, wouldn't you rather have them small?

Honestly, if "we" do say it "ourself", the Quiz cookery calendar is going to be a peach. A beauty, really, and all the recipes in it came from those sent in to the Quiz during the past year. Any Quiz subscriber may have a calendar, by calling at the Quiz office.

And right here is a good time to say that plans are being made for next year's calendar, even now. Send in your pet recipe, if you would like to have them printed in more permanent form than the Quiz.

Little Margaret Kocina brought the Eugene Leggett dog, a big Chesapeake, "Buck", into the conversation the other day in an unusual manner.

Margaret asked her parents if there were any other families that had only one little girl. So Mr. and Mrs. Kocina started in to name all the various acquaintances of the family who had only one child. Soon Margaret was naming them too, and she ended her list with: "And Buck's the only child Eugene and Irma have got!"

It has been mentioned in the Quiz before, several times in fact. But have you seen that huge pile of corn on the Barnhart place down near North Loup? Mr. Barnhart is feeding 1200 or more calves, and as it takes 500 bushels of corn a day for them, not to speak of the hay, that pile of corn is gigantic! Drive down and see it!

Don't think that local husbands and fathers are destitute of ideas when it comes to choosing gifts for their wives! Nothing ordinary or commonplace about the gifts they give. Now it may be telling, but one ultra conservative matron hinted for and received a jeweled cigar holder on one occasion. Thereby astonishing her friends, who have never faintly suspected her aspirations. On a slightly different occasion, another fond husband returned home bearing a gift of delicate hued step-ins. Wasn't that nice? You don't know what they are? Well, you will just have to ask your wife, Mister!

—Irma.
We are going to have a real bargain sale for 10 days and give more real bargains to the public than they have ever received before in this part of the country. If you doubt this come and see for yourself. Blessing & Robbins, Ord. 12-11

Resolved:

That during and after 1931 I shall have some stationery both for my business and for myself which will be creditable.

I shall have a well designed letterhead and shall use only the finest paper.

No longer shall I disregard the appearance of my correspondence any more than I would disregard my personal appearance.

This I know will return to me results in many ways far greater than any cost.

There is one thing of which I shall be proud in 1931 and that shall be my stationery.

GIRL RESERVE NEWS. Girl Reserves are, as most organizations, indulgent enough in building air castles, but—well, we did plan to sing carols Christmas night, didn't we? But amid holiday hustle only four remembered it and hence Ord was not so favored.

"MEMORIES OF TWO WEEKS GONE." These pleasant recollections were wrenched from our dear faculty members who sat in dreamy-eyed contemplative silence recalling for your benefit those ecstatic Christmas vacation days.

Contributors. Robert Cushing, LaVyda Rogers, Elizabeth Janssen, Martha Mae Barta, Alvina Beran, Leona Caroski, Mary Welniak, Leona Caroski, Harvey Michels, Mildred Meyers. Sponsor: Miss Nelson.

Ord Meets Defeat. The Ord high school basketball team played the first game of the season January 2. This game did not turn out as well as it might have because it was Ord's first game this season and Wahoo's third.

Haskell Creek. The community decided that they wished to see the new year in so lively a way that they all gathered at the school house in time for supper. After this important part of the evening was over they all settled down to play cards or to watch the stunts and boxing bouts until 1931 should appear and in fact many were so interested in these things that the new year hardly got all the attention that is usually given it.

There are three example hands that were played recently at one of the New York Clubs. Test your knowledge of the game by working out solutions. The solutions, when compared with the ones given in the next article, will enable you to get a good comparative line on your game.

ASPIRING POETS. About two weeks ago the Senior English class was in the act of studying Carl Sandburg's poetry, which, as you know, has the modern trend. As a result, we find three aspiring class poetesses who, inspired by this modern genius, wrote their ideal. This has been anonymously contributed, due to the modesty of our child poetesses.

CONVOCATIONS. Wednesday morning December 31, a general convocation was held in the High School auditorium at which time the pupils of both Junior and Senior high schools joined in a hearty sing.

THE DAY AFTER. A writer has said of thinking: "There is a well of thought which has no bottom; the more you draw from it, the more clear and fruitful it will be, etc." When he wrote this he had in mind the originality or mental alibis of a person.

New Courses To Be Offered. Next semester two new courses will be offered that will fill a long felt need. They are, a public speaking course under Miss Nelson and an advanced Arithmetic given by Miss Jearry.

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y win five of the eight tricks against any defense? Solution: Z should lead the six of spades, which A or B can win either (a) in A's hand with the nine of spades, or (b) in B's hand with queen of spades.

My Own Column By H. D. Leggett

The last time I saw Fred Howard he was wearing a nifty suit, well polished shoes and white spats and a stiff cad and seemed to be as full of p. and v. as any young fellow of forty, but now I notice the young ladies of Clay Center refer to him as Old Man Howard.

Have you ever noticed that the fellow who crabs first, last and all the time and is always against everything, is about the last person in the list to reach down into the pocket and give something tangible to better things?

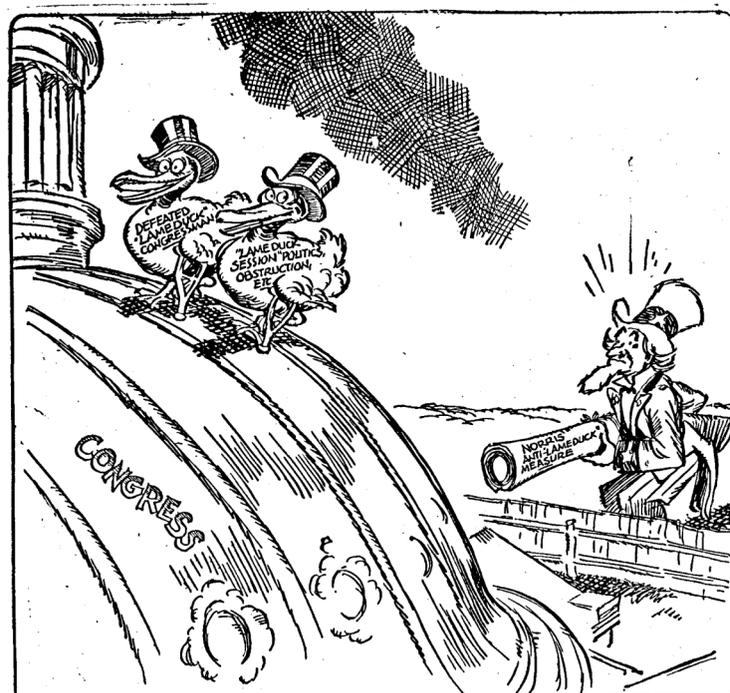

In speaking of the taking over of the Washington county offices Editor Tom Osterman said last week that Lester Belford steps into Mabel Marsh's shoes. I'll bet Mabel's shoes will get badly sprung and that Lester will soon have corns if he continues to stay in them. Tom is going to be elected president of the Nebraska State Press association next month and he should not be slamming the Washington county ladies that way about their big feet.

Although I don't very often take the advice I do believe this would be a better world in which to live if all would attend church once a week and listen to a good sermon and the inspiring music almost always heard at all religious services. It is with this thought in mind that the Quiz is running a series of advertisements which we hope will stimulate church attendance.

As I looked at the modern Auble building the other day, saw the loads of jewelry, musical instruments, radios, recalled that the upper floors housed some of the best experts in medicine and dentistry in the country and realized that Bud Auble in the basement was one of the most successful General Motors dealers in the state and that the Chase establishment in another building was as nifty a ladies ready to wear store as can be found, I recalled the times when a little unpainted wooden building occupied that corner with George and Joe Erit bartering in the front room and Chas. Mozingo, the one handed sign painter, doing his stuff in a little back room. Yes, and about the same improvement can be seen all the way around the square only we don't often take time to recall the old times and in that way realize what a splendid town we now have.

Irma said the other day, "Dad, what am I going to do to get the ladies of the Quiz family all over the county to send me recipes to use in my department in the paper," and I had to acknowledge that I didn't know the answer. However, I have spoken to a number of lady callers at my office the past few days and I find that all are willing to send in the recipes but they just neglect it and I am believing that they are going to do it now. When they get the dandy calendar that we have ready for them now, they are going to be reminded of it every day. And folks, they are now ready. If you are in Ord this week and are a Quiz subscriber, just drop in and get yours. Better write out a few of your favorite recipes and bring them along too, so Irma will have them to use during the coming months. It won't hurt if she has a supply for several months and the best ones will be used again on the calendar next year. By the way we plan on making the 1932 calendar much nicer than the one this year. To be perfectly frank, we are disappointed with this, our first effort along the calendar making line and we have already learned a lot of things that enable us to make the next one a lot better. But you will be pleased with the one for this year just the same. If you want it mailed to you send us a line with 3 cents in stamps for mailing.

There is a state wide movement on foot to have the state issue forty millions of bonds with which to push an 8-year road paving program in Nebraska. The legislature will be asked and urged to take action this winter. The people can't vote on it until the election in the fall of 1932, unless a special election can be called for the purpose. Personally I believe the present speed of building roads in Nebraska is plenty fast enough and I am opposed to voting forty million or one million or any other amount of bonds for the purpose. I believe the present "pay as we go" system is good enough and is costing us plenty. I won't kick on another cent gasoline tax but I am opposed to any property tax more than we have got. If we pay our share by gasoline tax and the time comes when we feel we can't stand it, we can get out of it by putting the old car in the garage and quit buying gas, but once the property tax is levied we have got to pay it whether we can or not. When the roads are built by a gas tax a lot of fellows help pay it who will never be called on to pay anything if a property tax is levied because they will never have any property for a tax to be levied on. And I believe the matter is so serious at this time and those interested should see and talk to or write to our representative Mr. Tootley at Broken Bow, and tell them just how we feel about it. The Good Roads Association is out to put over the bond issue and they are being ably backed by the cement manufacturers and others. It is all right to say that the forty million of bonds will be taken care of by the gas tax. If that is true and that is all of it why not go ahead and use the gas tax to build the roads. But that is not all. There will also be millions of dollars of interest to be paid and before the bonds are retired instead of forty millions we will probably pay twice that. At any rate I for one believe it will be better to go a little slower and use the gas tax to build the roads and use that part that will go for interest, for road building also, even if it takes sixteen instead of eight years to get the roads built. If any of you have got any views either way on this matter the public pulse department is open to you and now is a mighty good time to discuss it.

There are a good many of you who owe me subscription and I need the money. About half of the Quiz list expires January 1st. $2.50 is not a great lot to each of you but it amounts to a lot in the aggregate and it takes more than $200 every Saturday night to pay the boys and girls in the back office, so have a heart. Come in now and pay up or send it in and continue to make it possible for us to go on improving the paper. We are working on a project right now that, if it pans out as we hope, will be a great improvement in the paper. I am not permitted to say what it is but you know I have made good on a number of other improvements promised and I believe you can trust me again. Better be sure to stay on the Quiz list during 1931.

I noticed several Ord guys wearing spats who never wore them before and I know of two or three who have beautiful white spats who have not dared to wear them. El Anderson says he is going to wear his as soon as his new stiff hat comes.

That local newspapers are great boosters. They boost the home city at every opportunity and in every way possible. They boost the churches, the schools, the civic organizations and everything that promotes happiness and is for the welfare of the people. They boost for better streets for the city and better roads for the country; they know that good roads lessen the distance between city and country, make better business and a better community. They boost to promote friendliness and harmony between all people. They boost for a square deal for everyone in the home city. They boost for better business and for everything that helps to develop industry. They boost to bring new capital and new industries to the home city. They boost everything possible to help in developing the natural resources surrounding their city, which will increase payrolls and bring increased population. YOU SHOULD BOOST THE LOCAL NEWSPAPERS AND GIVE THEM YOUR HEARTY SUPPORT. THE MORE YOU BOOST YOUR NEWSPAPERS, THE MORE THEY CAN BOOST YOUR CITY.

QUIZ FORUM

To The Ord Quiz: Friend Ernest Coats believes we should have an open season on pheasants. Perhaps you are right, Ernest. The recent study made on pheasants here in Valley county showed what they eat but it appears to me that such a test and survey would have to be made over a period of years to get any definite information with which to draw real conclusions.

The above is taken from George Rounds in last week's Quiz. Well George, of course I am right on the open season. If you don't take my word for it I can ask some of these farmers who use the heads when they farm. W. Joseph Klat, Lou Smolik, John Vodehnal, Homer Jones, Jos. Waldman, John Albers, Will Gates, Sam Roe, Will and Lew Hansen, Levi Chippes, Lloyd Hunt and about five hundred other Valley county farmers. George, how would you like to have, say $10 a month taken off your wages to make sport for country and city sports? And do I believe you would want a survey or test to extend over a number of years to see whether it was damaging you. No, you would not like that. You would want action at once. Well, George, we farmers get our wages out of our crops and we do not wish to give a part of our wages to raise pheasants any more than you do to have $10 a month taken off of your wages. We farmers are the most concerned about what the pheasants eat and we know they do destroy a lot of corn, mostly by pulling it up and digging it out in the spring. What they eat in the fall does not matter so much. While the investigation did not show many sprouted grains of corn in their food, we farmers know that they pull a great many more grains of corn than they could possibly eat. Some say they are after the tender sprout that goes from the grain down, others say that they eat after worm that lives near or on the grain. The result is the same in either case. The farmer is the one who owns the farm and he should be the only one concerned as to what is raised on his farm, so I say an open season at the year. And if any farmer so loved the pheasant that he did not want them killed he could post his farm and raise all the pheasants he wished to. Fair, ain't it? While now a farmer must break the law to protect his crop.

Well, George, our mutual friend Leggett, in his column, was making fun of your picture and said mine was no better. Say George we can't help being homely any more than he can, anyway. We both try to look good and just between you and me, Leggett could not look good even if he tried.

Well George, also Quiz editor, some one said and I wish the county board would pay a bounty of five cents and the state a bounty of five cents on crows. And to help the sport along and make it interesting I will give $5 to nine others near to make up $50 to be divided $10, $15 and $25 to the three sportsmen who kill the largest number of crows in Valley county in a year, the county clerk to keep account on the number killed, am ready to deposit my $5 with the county agent whenever the other nine men are ready to come across with their share, county agent to take charge of the $50 and pay the prizes at the end of the year. If you know of any better plan to rid the county of crows speak up. That means you, Quiz editor, George or anyone else. To make the sport more interesting the county clerk could have the names of the three high men published in the Quiz once a month. By Vinton farmer, Ernest S. Coats.

MR. ROY CHAPMAN.
"About nine years ago I first noticed that rheumatism was affecting my right hip," said Mr. Roy Chapman, 19 Fifth avenue, southwest, Aberdeen. "The ailment became so severe that I had to walk with a cane. Neuritis attacked my left shoulder about four years ago. Since that time my arms and fingers have been so terribly stiff and sore that I could not work. Constipation annoyed me constantly.

"I have taken four bottles of Konjola and I sleep and rest better than I have for a long time. My bowels have been regulated and I am stronger and more energetic. Neither rheumatism nor neuritis have bothered me since I began taking Konjola. Konjola is marvelous medicine and I am recommending it to all my friends."

Taken regularly over a six to eight week period, Konjola is daily doing for thousands, all that it did for Mr. Chapman.

Konjola is sold in Ord, Nebraska at the McLain and Sorensen drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

THE GREAT AMERICAN VALUE

At the National Automobile Shows
Chevrolet wins
for the fourth time

First place at the National Automobile Shows—a position granted on the basis of annual sales volume—is again awarded to Chevrolet.

This is the fourth consecutive time that Chevrolet has achieved this honor. And the reason lies in the exceptional value which Chevrolet cars consistently provide.

This year, in its bigger and better Six, Chevrolet is offering an outstanding example of the value which has brought it such record success.

In fact, no previous Chevrolet car has ever represented such a high degree of quality and advancement, and sold at such low prices as today's Chevrolet Six.

Martha Lee Nelson
Funeral services for Mrs. Martha Nelson were held at the home of her son Henry Nelson, Tuesday morning December 30 at 11 o'clock, conducted by Rev. B. W. Burleigh, pastor of the Congregational church. Interment was made in the Arcadia cemetery.

Martha Lee was born in Norway January 9, 1839 and passed away December 28, 1930 at the age of 91 years, 11 months and 19 days. She came to America at the age of 8 years. She was baptized in infancy and united with the Lutheran church early in life and was ever a faithful member. She was married to Erick Nelson on April 7, 1856 in Wisconsin. He preceded her in death on August 23, 1911. To this union were born ten children, five girls and five boys, three dying in infancy.

She leaves to mourn her passing Mrs. M. A. Nelson, Mrs. John of Pierce, Minn., Mrs. Pete Borgstrom of Duluth, Minn., Ole and Mrs. Robert Winther of Collinswood, Tenn. and Ida and Henry of Arcadia. Also twenty-one grand children and forty-six great grandchildren.

Legion Auxiliary Meets.
Nine members and four guests attended Auxiliary Friday afternoon. Mrs. A. E. Weddel was hostess and served a delicious two course lunch at the close of the afternoon. It was decided to start a "Market Basket" some of the food will be put in the basket and given to someone who will take it and pay for it and put some other article in. We would like to keep this going right along so if it comes to you please do not keep it longer than necessary. A pocketbook will be placed in the basket for the money.

Verna Gregory and Hazel Weddel were elected delegates to attend the district convention at Broken Bow Jan. 30. We hope as many of our members as can will go. At the American Legion holds their convention there at the same time it would be nice if some of the boys would go.

Our next meeting will be held January 16 at the M. E. church basement. This will go as a lay meeting for the purpose of quilting a quilt.

Married During Holidays.
We have just learned of the marriages of Miss Esther Osterloh and Howard True and Miss Katie Lenz and George Duryea which occurred during the holidays.

Miss Osterloh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Osterloh of Westerville and Mr. True, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles True of Arcadia were married December 22nd at Taylor and are residing on a farm six miles west of Arcadia.

Miss Lenz and Mr. Duryea were married at St. Paul, Dec. 22 and are now at home in the Duryea property just south of the Smith cream station.

Glendale Literary Meets.
The Glendale Literary society met at the Glendale school house last Friday evening. Following the business meeting a short program was given and a newspaper was furnished by Guy Barr and Thurman Bridges. The debate, "Resolved: That credit is a detriment to the American People," was decided in favor of the affirmative side.

The next meeting will be held at the school house Friday evening, January 23rd.

School Opens After Vacation.
School opened Monday after a two weeks vacation which was greatly enjoyed by both pupils and teachers. The out-of-town teachers of the week to enter upon their duties for the year 1931. Next week mid-year examinations will be given in the majority of the grades marking the close of the first semester. The second semester will start Monday January 19th.

Skating Proves Popular.
Skating, one of the most popular of winter sports, is proving very entertaining among the children and young folks at this season of the year. Congers pond seems to be the favored spot where the ice is safe but not as smooth as wished. Hockey games among the boys form ideal pastime.

Mrs. Ernest Norton Passes Away.
Word was received by relatives in Arcadia recently of the death of Mrs. Ernest Norton which occurred Tuesday, Dec. 16 after a short illness at her home in Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Norton was formerly Miss Bernice Toops, twin sister of Blanch Toops, and resided in Arcadia until a few years ago. She was thirty-two years of age at the time of her death. She leaves to mourn, her husband, one son and a number of other relatives including a brother, W. V. Toops of Arcadia. She was buried at Detroit Thursday, Dec. 18th.

Opens Hamburger Stand.
Clarence Kucera, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Kucera of Arcadia, has opened a hamburger stand in Loup City. The opening date was celebrated New Year's day. The stand is located two doors north of the Conger studio.

Loup Valley Ministerial Meeting.
A meeting of the Loup Valley Ministerial association was held at the Methodist church basement Monday. Dinner was served by the ladies of the church at noon after which the afternoon session was held. About thirty were in attendance including fifteen ministers. Ansel, Scott, North Loup, Burwell, Ord and Arcadia were represented. Devotionals were led by Rev. Burleigh, pastor of the Arcadia Congregational church and a paper on "The Popular Preacher" was read by Rev. M. Wayne Pickering of Ansel. Open discussion followed, led by Rev. Gettys of Ansel. Questions to be answered and discussed at the next meeting were prepared and placed in the question box. The next meeting will be held at Ord Monday, Feb. 2nd.

Society Notes.
Mr. and Mrs. Ed Christensen entertained Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Christensen and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hutchins, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hutchins and family and Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Brennick of North Loup at an oyster supper last Saturday evening.

With Carkoski and Adams at the forwards, Krejci center and Jensen and Beeghly at the guards the All-Stars came out for the last period charged with dynamite.

Fans were in a frenzy during this last desperate rally and the final whistle was the signal for a prolonged demonstration.

Captain Krejci led in the scoring for Ord with 12 points but he had more scoring assistance from his mates than he enjoyed at any time last year.

Jensen scored 6 points while Adams and Lashmett contributed 4 apiece. Jensen was particularly efficient at long shots, sinking two from near the center of the floor, while Adams and Lashmett were deadly underneath the basket.

Syl Carkoski, while he failed to score, was a big factor in the Ord win because of his "hurry-up" style of play which always demoralizes the opposition.

Beeghly played his usual strong game at guard.

The All-Stars show indications of being a more powerful team than last year but must function better than they did last night if they are to win the next three games against Ravenna, Warner's Roamers and the Bowen Druggs.

Irma Enthusiastic About New Music Teaching Methods

By IRMA ELLIS LEGGETT

Miss Bloodgood, Ord's tiny music teacher, having been slighted by me in my travels from school room to school room, one of her classes was visited Tuesday morning at the high school.

For, as Miss Bloodgood explained, this class was made up of a number of things; the study of famous bits of music, the composer of the pieces and interesting things about them and their lives, short bits of history that are entangled in music, and quite a little of the history of music.

When I came in the class had just finished an exam, and were busily inquiring of Miss Bloodgood about some of the answers that had been put to paper.

Three questions asked were still on the blackboard, the second being: Choose composers from this list for these selections: Mozart, Schubert, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Verdi, Gounod, Gilbert and Sullivan, Handel, Liszt, Wagner, Brahms, Strauss, Tchaikovsky, Debussy, Ravel, Stravinsky, Prokofiev, Bartok, Copland, Shostakovich, Khachaturian, Scriabin, Scriabin, Scriabin, Scriabin.

The other question was: Identify with two statements: "Madam Butterfly"; Bach; "Messiah"; Gilbert and Sullivan; Mendelssohn; "Martha"; "Rigoletto"; "The Two Grenadiers".

Next, from a song book, the class chose the things the members liked to sing, and Miss Bloodgood mounted to the platform and the piano stool.

From there, accompanying the music, she occasionally halted proceedings to give a word of advice or direction, or to explain an anecdote or rit. The songs were written very simply, with much emphasis on the melody so that in learning the melody the song became something enjoyable to these students.

Operatic themes and famous tunes will never be alien to them. They come alive and become something to be loved, with a distinct meaning, and no more do the composers seem dry old fellows full of technicalities.

These young people are learning to appreciate music or perhaps it would be better to say they are gaining music consciousness, on awareness.

I am very enthusiastic over the interesting way music is taught; the possibilities. And also, isn't it splendid to think that any child who loves music can now take such courses? No longer is music proscribed for study by classes better off, financially. Poorer children now have a chance to absorb a little music, too.

Sunday dinner guests in the Vernon Dye home were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Strong and daughter Marie of Elmira, Milo and Oliver Walcott of Sargent, Bill Strong of Elmira and Raymond Ericson of Taylor. After dinner Bill and Raymond left for Lincoln where they are attending college.

GROUND GRAIN FOR ALL MASH POULTRY FEED

Few Use Method Here. Ohio Experiments Cited. Lights Used.

Though few Valley county poultrymen have adopted the all-mash system of feeding laying hens, there have been inquiries recently about the method at the college of agriculture. Poultrymen at the college refer Ord poultry producers to the results of experimentation at the Ohio station. They found that it is much better here the grain ground rather coarsely so that the mash is in a granular form.

In the mash, the oats are not ground at all. At the Ohio station they seem to have received best results by using all lights in the houses where they feed the all-mash. A rather dim light held over the feed and water used. Valley county poultrymen are advised to use a sixteen watt bulb if they try the plan in a 20 x 20 foot room.

The Ohio all-mash ration used with all light lights includes:

- 45 pounds, ground yellow corn.
- 20 pounds, cracked wheat.
- 5 pounds, bran.
- 10 pounds, meat scraps.
- 1 pound, cod liver oil.
- 15 pounds, whole oats.
- 5 pounds, dried milk.
- 2 pounds, bone meal.
- 1 pound, salt.

By GEORGE ROUND, JR.

At least it is a fact that people all up and down the Loup Valley read my all-valley football selections published a few weeks ago if communications from them is any indication.

John Bentley, sports editor of the state journal, says in his column "George Round, Jr., picking an all-Loup Valley high school team by mail chose a player for his first team who turned out to be a water carrier. Round is now looking around for a shoulder to weep on. Anyway, he is probably the best water carrier in the conference, George sobs by way of explanation.

Friend John evidently realizes the value of water carriers on all-levens. If they are good water carriers, they deserve mention.

Already basketball aspirants at Comstock are talking of the victories the Comstock high school basketball five will score over Ord this year. The two teams should be scheduled to meet and when they do, Ord should do their best to win the Custer county lads for a change.

Speaking of Comstock reminds me that Editor Krikac of the News recently made a statement to the effect that the Comstock town team could defeat Ord easily. Surely friend Ed must have been planning to kidnap Mr. Joe Krefcl on the evening the two teams met if it was to be a close game. Krefcl and company are quite capable of holding their own with anything that Comstock can produce. As Joe goes, so goes the company.

The Valley County Farm Bureau baseball league attracted much attention over the state this past year and numerous inquiries have reached me, asking how the league was organized and how it functioned. It appears as though other counties are interested in forming such a league this year and wish to copy the form used here in Valley county.

Whether such leagues in other counties would be a success depends a lot on that specific community. All people in counties over the state are not baseball minded like those in Valley county. Just because the league was a success here doesn't indicate it will be everywhere else.

It is presumed that the farm bureau ball league will be in operation again this year. Interest over the county is still strong and there is a possibility that the league will include ten teams this year. I only hope that I am in Valley county to lend what valueless assistance I can to the organization and promotion of the league.

If "Fat" Adams goes as hot in basketball on Krefcl and company's team as he did in the army or navy, he should be a big help to the big Ord captain.

Hanko Lange is reported to be ready for the opening of the farm bureau ball league this spring. He is practicing catching flies out behind the barn on the farm in hopes that he won't make so many errors as he did last year. At times, they say he was credited with errors when he didn't have any chances. Even Jim and George Bremer are probably getting around the hot stove league hearing gossip about the league. Both are Mira Valley ball hawks. Paul Gregg of Ord was evidently a popular choice for guard position on the all-teams in the Loup Valley this year. He was picked by nearly every one. Peanuts Jensen and Lynn Beeghly have it in for me and say it would be best that I not show up at Ord for some time. I wonder why.....

Ord people who made New Year resolutions are now having a hard time living up to them. Here are a few of the resolution makers and the difficulties they are encountering: Carl Dale: Yes, Carl resolved that he wouldn't teach his boy more football signals until next year. Already he has had numerous chalk talks since last week and skull practices.

Dave Haight: Yes, Dave gets in to print again. Everyone knows Dave received a golf bag for Christmas and he resolved not to carry it until the first day of spring. Evidently he couldn't resist the temptation for lately he has been noticed carrying the bag to work every morning. Such practice, Dave, you need it.

Hank Armatis: Here, Army resolved never to come to Ord again. Rumor has it he will be back to work for Bill Ayres next summer so that resolution will be broken. Lynn Beeghly and Peanuts Jensen: The two curds on the Ord town team wanted to make a good resolution so decided that they would help Captain Joe out this year by making one point apiece during the season. Look out, fellows or you may break that resolution.

Leo Long: Though not essentially a baseball or basketball player, Leo solemnly resolved never to go hunting again this year. He had so much hard luck during the past open season on pheasants that he is afraid to trust himself anymore. He wields a wicked shotgun though.

Miss Taylor Palne's Secretary, Judge Bayard H. Paine, who takes office today as a justice of the supreme court, is taking Miss Delpha M. Taylor to Lincoln with him as his secretary. Arthur H. Bass, Lincoln, will become court reporter for District Judge Ralph R. Horth.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

SOMEHOW THAT WRESTLING CROWN RESTS EASIEST ON A LEARNED BROW— ANYWAY, ED GEORGE, ANOTHER COLLEGIAN, IS THE NEW KING

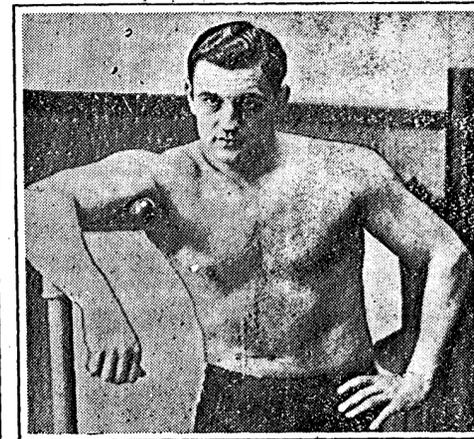

BY PHILIP MARTIN

OUR heavyweight rassing racket has gone completely collegiate, just as it has gone Greek, Italian, Lithuanian and Turkish in past years. Most of the tinsars connected with the neck-twisting and head-crushing pastime are suave graduates of Michigan, Illinois, Oklahoma and a half dozen other institutions of higher learning and emphasized football teams.

The newest of these rah rah pachyderms is Ed George, new world's heavyweight rassing champion. Jim Londos, the Greek, however, is still considered the champ in some quarters.

George was bequeathed the title last month by defeating Gus Sonnenberg, the Butter Boy from Dartmouth and Detroit, who succeeded Strangler Lewis. Londos was similarly honored by beating Shikat, pet of the New York and Pennsylvania athletic commissions.

NORTH JAVA, a wide place in the road 20 odd miles southwest of Buffalo, N. Y., was the birthplace of George 25 years ago. He obtained a preliminary education in Buffalo and then set out to conquer the world. He accepted all of those world-conqueror camps and harvesting in wheat fields, gradually becoming interested in the grappling sport.

Ed George... king of wrestlers at 25.

locks and shipped to Amsterdam with Uncle Sam's Olympic team, but gained no more than a love for travel.

While George was in Hollywood working in the filming of a picture (his part was to flop before a pink-cheeked movie hero), he fell in with the Sonnenberg syndicate as a sparring partner for the champion. With improvement, he challenged Gus and lost the first match when both were knocked out in a head-on collision. Sonnenberg, recovering first and pinning his unconscious foe. George won the second match and the title Dec. 10.

THE new champion favors no one hold in his grappling. He uses the "Flying Tackle," but not as frequently as Sonnenberg, McMillan and other collegiate rasslers. He also works in the headlock, copied from Strangler Lewis, a scissors like Joe Stecher's, and a toothhold similar to Golch's.

He was questioned in regard to meeting Jim Londos. "I'll meet anybody," he said quickly. Then as an afterthought, he added: "Anybody that Jack McGrath, my manager, chooses for me."

HOG SHOWS LACK INTEREST OVER STATE RECENTLY

Not True Here; Valley County Swine Exhibits Stronger Every Year.

In an effort to determine the actual reason for the decreased popularity in hog shows at fairs and expositions, prominent Nebraska hog producers and purbred breeders are appearing in discussions at the agricultural college this week. Though in general hog shows over the country have slumped in recent years people around Ord feel that the exhibits of hogs at the Valley county fair has more than held its own in the past few years.

Generally, however, the pig shows at fairs have been gradually decreasing in importance. Those at the agricultural college believe it may be due to disease. County Agent Dale Ord agrees with them in this respect.

Paul McDill, assistant state extension agent in animal husbandry at the college, and Agent Dale Ord say it is their opinion that flu has been a great cause for the decreased interest in the hog shows. Fairs and expositions come at the time of the year when the disease apparently affects the hogs, they explain.

It is usually during the first frost, or rainy and cold weather that hogs catch the disease. This weather ordinarily comes during September and October, when most fairs are operating.

Though in general the hog shows over the country have not been successful in recent years, the opposite appears to be true in Valley county. In the past few years, if numbers are any indication, the hog shows at Valley county fairs have been very successful.

This year at the Ord fair, the pens were crowded with prominent exhibitors from over the country. The interest shown by fair patrons was as great as usual. Results of the discussions held at the agricultural college during Organized Agriculture will interest Valley county farmers, especially the breeders, since hog shows here apparently are as popular as ever and have not been declining in recent years.

Farm Bureau News

The officers of the Valley county Farm Bureau are making plans for a big day on Wednesday, January 14th, the date of their annual meeting. The meeting will be held at the high school auditorium and will start at 10:30 a. m. It is hoped to get the business meeting over before noon. A free lunch will be served at noon, to those present and the afternoon program featuring talks by the Champion Crops Judging Team, W. H. Brockaw, director of extension, and Francis Flood of the Nebraska Farmer, who will give an illustrated talk on his trip to South America. All farmers and their families should attend this meeting.

The Livewire Rope Club has been organized in District 57 by Lewis E. Klein, who teaches in that district. The following members are enrolled: Kenneth Koelling; Lola Koelling; Harlan Wyrick; Emma Smith; George Kupke; Gladys Collins; Evelyn Ollis; Alberta Croley; Arnold Croley.

The Lucky South Side Baby Beef Club met Tuesday at the home of their leader, R. C. Clement, and reorganized for 1931. The following were present at the meeting: George Falser, president; Orval Sorenson, vice-president; Roger Johnson, secretary; Dean Marks, reporter; Don Marks, Harold Koelling; Kenneth Koelling; Glen Jameson; Donald Barnes, and Melvin Koelling. Several other boys have signified their intentions of joining the club.

The Big Six Baby Beef club which takes in the north part of the county will also reorganize soon with a number of new members.

Boys or girls who wish to join either club should be in touch at once with Clara Clement, Mott Rathbun, or C. C. Dale.

NOTICE

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the State Bank will be held at the State Bank building Tuesday, January 20th, 1930 at 4:00 P. M. John J. Allen, Cashier.

Francis Flood, (left), widely known explorer and associate editor of the Nebraska Farmer, will give an illustrated talk on his recent trip to South America at the annual Loup Valley County Farm Bureau meeting to be held at the Ord high school auditorium on Wednesday, January 14. Two years ago Mr. Flood spoke here about his trip to Africa.

FARMERS ARE NOT PAUPERS

Cering Man Blames Machine Age And Government For Situation.

The farmer is a victim of too much adverse and unfavorable publicity, E. P. Cromer, master farmer and legislator from Gering, maintained in speaking before the farm bureau federation Tuesday morning of this week at Organized Agriculture held at the college of agriculture. Since many farmers in Valley county feel the same way about the farming situation, Cromer's remarks will be interesting to people around Ord, North Loup, Arcadia, and Elyria.

"Our occupation has been singled out as the only one on the verge of bankruptcy. We have been so adversely advertised that we are fast becoming ashamed to admit we are farmers," the western Nebraska man said. Here again farmers in Valley county probably agree with him.

Everyone has a remedy to help the poor farmer, he continued. "The Jack-legged lawyer injects a big dose of Hiccockalism. Hardly has he passed when the cock-eyed politician shoots in another dose of Lowcockalism. We frankly admit there are some spots in the farming business but they will never heal while they are being constantly irritated and flouted before the eyes of the world," Cromer emphasized.

An alarming number of banks that have not been robbed, have been placed in the hands of the receivers, yet there is no bank relief bill up in Congress, he says. Taking a crack at the farm relief measure, Cromer stated that if the bill had been intended to readjust the industrial activities of the country and the farm board had been called the industrial board the farmer would have been saved a world of chagrin and embarrassment. It is no disgrace to be poor but is infernally humiliating to have everyone know it. Farmers do not need to be wards of the government, the western believes.

Purchase of big machinery on time has been responsible for a lot of the farm problem, Cromer said. "May the good Lord save us from any more labor saving machinery at the present time. Let us go back even to the wooden moldboard plow if that will restore universal employment, contentment, and happiness. At least pay for the machinery on the farms now before anyone is hauled out from town, he pleaded with farmers at the federation meeting.

In a more humorous vein, the speaker reported the invention of a new machine to shuffle a deck of cards, a labor saver at bridge parties; and predicted the universal adoption of a new machine to pitch horse shoes. Even poker will some day be manipulated by machines, he believes, if the present machinery craze keeps on.

"We have all been gone on a joy ride and are now walking home. The first step in getting well is to think we are going to get well, to be optimistic and cheerful," Cromer recommended. "The best way to make a fortune is to buy from a pessimist, pay the money, and take a chance on cheering him up to be a prospective customer."

"The American farmer is not a pauper," Cromer stated. He earns enough in three days to buy out Standard Oil, and in five days to purchase the steel trust. One harvest would buy the kingdom of Belgium, two would pay for all of Italy, and five would wrest Russia from Bolshevism.

"Someone ought to erect a monument to the founder and leaders of boys and girls club work for the tramp, tramp, tramp of the mighty army is invading many homes with a keener vision and clearer perception of the new opportunities and possibilities in farming and farm homemaking. There is nothing but optimism in this picture of the future."

More Mortgages Filed And Fewer Released In 1930

More farm and chattel mortgages were filed and fewer of this kind of mortgages were released in 1930 than in 1929, figures compiled this week by County Clerk Ign. Klimka, Jr., show. The slump in prices of agricultural commodities undoubtedly caused this record.

During the past year 161 farm mortgages were filed, the total coming to $780,137.29, and 159 were released, the value being $806,759.25. In 1929 the number filed was only 157, for a value of $753,929.12 while 179 totaling $939,407.53 were released.

Chattel mortgages filed in 1930 were 2,500 in number and totaled $2,860,344.49 while those released were 2,079 and represented a value of $2,147,708.56. In the previous year 2,420 valued at $2,224,315.28 were filed and 2,770 reaching a total of $2,983,574.99 were released.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

The other day a large group of farm boys was asked how much of each kind of fuel they burned in their farm home for the purpose of keeping warm. It was learned that a few used wood only, and about the same number consumed only coal; but a summary of all replies showed that the average farm family in Valley county burns about one-third coal, one-third wood, and one-third cobs.

Most of the two latter fuels is collected at odd times upon the home farms. Although they represent only a small investment, wood and cobs save the folks in this country over $50,000 each year on their fuel bills.

The farmers are well aware of this fact. Last year they secured over eighteen thousand trees through the Valley county agent's office alone under the now famous "Nebraska plan." Even the renters here have the tree planting habit. There are only a few treeless farmsteads, and these stand out conspicuously because of their scarceness.

Over five hundred trees of different kinds were planted by W. O. Zangger a year ago last summer. Most of them were the so-called "fringe" given out by the state. Practically all survived, and some of the willows are now higher than a man's head. Mr. Zangger also purchased one hundred walnut trees for a very small price, and ninety-one of these are growing on his farm nine miles south of Ord.

This should not be taken as a recommendation for extensive tree planting locally. Trees grow rather slowly here. By way of illustration, a Pawnee county farmer kept a strict account of all expenses and interest on a hardy catalpa grove for a period of fifteen years. He found that he produced over two thousand hardy catalpa posts, and made a net profit of $6.25 per acre. On the other hand a York county farmer raised less than four hundred posts per acre in twenty years, and made no profit.

According to this, we are beyond the western limit of the range for economic plantings of this nature. As a sideline, however, the farm orchard or woodlot deserves a place on nearly every farm. In Rock county, for instance, a thirty year old yellow pine plantation of this kind yielded 30 cords of wood, or 226 railroad ties per acre.

The Christmas trees now being burned may have been cut where thinning out was necessary; still the fact remains that our forests are being consumed five times as fast as they are replenished; that two-thirds of the timber cut goes to waste; and that most of the money spent for lumber goes to pay transportation charges. There is no danger of a surplus in our timber crop.

Arcadia Club Boy Wins Scholarship

Orle Sorensen Awarded 4-H Club Prize; Outstanding Member Says Dale.

Orle Sorensen, son of Mrs. Matilda Sorensen of Arcadia, is the winner of the Valley county 4-H Club Prize, according to an announcement made today by County Agent Dale in Ord. Young Sorensen will receive the $100 scholarship for his outstanding work in club activities.

It is good at the agricultural college, Lincoln, where he plans to continue his education, that Arcadia high school. Each year the Union Pacific railway system offers such scholarships to outstanding 4-H club individuals in some Nebraska counties. To be eligible for the Union Pacific 4-H club scholarship, according to the announcement made today by County Agent Dale in Ord, Young Sorensen will receive the $100 scholarship for his outstanding work in club activities.

The first report of Sorensen shows that he put his gain on his pigs this year at a cost of two and one-half cents a pound which is unusual. He fed his litter 123 days and he made a nice profit of the litter.

County Agent Dale says there is probably not another 4-H club member in Valley county who is more of a booster for the work than Sorensen. Dale has observed Orle since he started in the swine club four years ago and knows he is a real club member. Last year he interested his brother, Bill, to join the baby beef club and now Bill is in again with a good calf.

Pecan Nut Discovered by Farm Agent Brings Prosperity to Mississippi Area

ABOUT 10 years ago an alert farm agent of Adams county, Mississippi, named H. J. Greer found what he thought to be a new type of pecan nut growing on a plantation near Natchez.

His discovery aroused little interest in Natchez at the time but the young agent started out to tell the land owners about the new nut and the advantages in cultivating it. And now they're glad he did.

Drought Results

Not long ago the drought hit Natchez hard. Feed and food crops were lost. The price of cotton fell. Farmers had no money from their crops and lacked credit to carry on until another crop was made. On top of it all came the widespread depression.

Greer's missionary work began to bear fruit. Pecan nut growers who had taken Greer's advice to top work and graft the abundant wild pecan trees with new paper shelled varieties found the trees just coming into bearing. So this year, for the first time, the marketing of the nut crop forged to the front as a major business.

Millions of pounds of nuts are being shipped by the local co-operative pecan marketing association through the national association with headquarters at Jackson, Miss. Independent buyers are commanding prices of from 10 to 60 cents a pound.

The Co-operative Scheme

When local paper shell growers decided that the co-operative marketing plan offered the best opportunity to obtain top prices for their choice varieties, they organized the Natchez Co-operative Pecan Marketing Association, leased a warehouse and purchased grading machinery.

Livestock Probably Continue Important Gramlich Indicates

Ag Man Says Bees May Not Be So Highly Finished.

Speaking of the place that livestock will hold on the farm of tomorrow, H. J. Gramlich, head of the animal husbandry department at the University of Nebraska, told those gathered at Organized Agriculture at the agricultural college Wednesday afternoon of this week that he felt sure that livestock will play fully as important a part on the farm of tomorrow as on the farm of yesterday. Gramlich appeared on the program at the joint session of the crop growers and livestock breeders.

Valley county farmers are interested in Gramlich's prediction since he is noted authority and because of the undetermined status of livestock in the future. Right now farmers around Ord and North Loup are wondering if any changes in the importance of farm animals will take place in Valley county within the next few years.

The University of Nebraska man told those present at the joint session of the two groups that the man who succeeds in producing his animals most economically and in fattening them with the least expense is the one who will be able to survive the lean years which are bound to develop on the horizon at more or less frequent intervals.

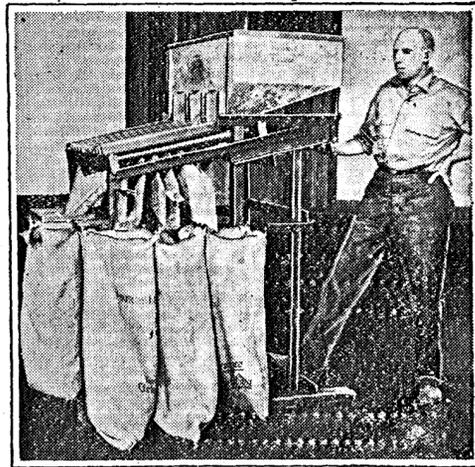

Tracing the importance of livestock, Gramlich related that the livestock business has ever been an important part of the world's agricultural activities. He declared that it would probably continue in this capacity.

In spite of the mediocre aspect of the present and the immediate past, the animal husbandry man emphasized that there can be no denying that livestock must continue to constitute an important part of the farm operations. While not absolutely necessary in the production of large crops, they are essential in the consumption of them, he pointed out. Gramlich quoted figures to prove his statement, declaring that Valley county and Nebraska farmers probably received about 70 percent of their cash income through the sales of livestock and livestock products.

A great deal of the remaining 30 percent comes from the sale of grains and roughages which are to be fed to livestock ultimately.

In telling of the future importance of livestock, he said there is a possibility that animals will not be finished as highly as in the past. If this comes to pass, beef producing will be linked closely around the liberal use of farm roughages which would draw the corn plant into the picture first. In this respect, fodder will be an important feed.

Grading pecan nuts

By Dec. 15 the total of pecan shipments from Natchez reached 4,000,000 pounds, with the prospects for the shipping season to continue for two months longer.

The co-operative plan for marketing is functioning so well that the manager of the Natchez association predicts that 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 pounds will be marketed next year.

There are several recognized types of paper shelled pecan, but the "Natchez" is considered best of all because the trees bear heavily, the nuts are larger and mature well.

When Greer discovered the wild seedling from which the "Natchez" was propagated, he notified the United States Department of Agriculture. Experts there confirmed the fact that a new type of paper shell pecan had been discovered and officially listed it as "The Natchez."

A state experimental station specializing in pecan culture, was soon established in Adams county and Greer appointed the director. With the aid of an assistant, he is continuing his work of producing bigger and better pecans.

Earnings of Farmer Depend On Lower Production Costs

Farm earnings have never depended so much on lower production costs as they do today, according to Will Kokes, local dealer for the J. I. Case Company, in a recent talk to the editor of this paper. It is his firm belief that farmers can do more towards securing a satisfactory profit by using efficient machine methods to reduce the cost of their crops than by any other method.

"Everyone knows that price alone does not determine profits," says Mr. Kokes. "It is the difference between the market price and what it costs to produce a crop that counts. For instance, it costs some farmer 60c a bushel to produce wheat. Others grow it for 40c or even less. There is no question as to which farmer makes a profit even when the price is low."

No less an authority than the United States Department of Agriculture tells us that on the average, 60 per cent of the cost of producing a crop consists of power and labor. Fortunately these items are largely under the control of the individual farmer, while the other 40 per cent cannot be changed very much, if any. And the secret of reducing power and labor costs, lies largely in efficient use of present day farm machinery.

Mr. Kokes pointed out that a farmer can cover more acres per day with one of the new Case tractors because of their fast speeds and ease of handling. He can get into the fields earlier, due to the unusually light weight of these machines. He can get every job done on time with the best results. Greater capacity for work and low upkeep are the things that turn the trick for him.

Throughout the Case full line, from walking plows to combines, original improvements have been made, and many new machines brought out after prolonged development. Case has changed tandem hitches for pulling harrows behind plows and drills behind to properly apply power and increase working capacity per man.

Low Yields Keep Boys From Placing In Corn Contests

Though the two Valley county 4-H corn club members who participated in the state junior ten-acre corn yield contest failed to place in their respective district, records disclose they made a good score. Paul Stewart, extension agronomist, released the results of the contests this morning at the agricultural college during Organized Agriculture. Harold Benn and Anthony Kokes were the two Ord boys entered in the corn yield contest.

Records show that Kokes' corn yielded 20.5 bushels to the acre. Benn's corn averaged 20 bushels to the acre. The state winner had a ten acre plot that made 60 bushels on the average.

Both Benn and Kokes were members of the national championship 4-H club crops from Valley county. Bill Gramlich, the other member, did not compete in the state ten-acre yield contest.

STEERS PRODUCE EFFICIENT GAINS

Experiments Show Better Results Than On Heifers.

In all of the experiments conducted at the agricultural college steers have made greater and more economical gains than spayed heifers. Valley county feeders are interested to know that the steer calves gained a less cost than the heifer calves. Yearling open heifers made slightly greater and more economical gains than yearling steers. In all the cases open heifers made greater gains at materially less cost than spayed heifers of similar age, proving there is no advantage to spaying.

Heifers fattened faster than steers in the experiments. This feeders around Ord and North Loup are finding to be true in practical feeding. In most cases there was a wider margin between buying and selling prices with the heifers than with steers. The feeding period for heifers should be fifty to seventy-five days shorter than for steers of two-years old and yearling ages. In the trials conducted by the experiment station, the yearling and two-year old heifers produced more than a profit even when the price is low.

The dressing percentage of steers and heifers of the two year old and yearling varied but little in the cases of calves the heifers dressed considerably more than the steers. The discriminating against heifers was justified only from the standpoint of waste. This point applies especially to the two-year old spayed heifers. From the beef man's standpoint, the open heifer produced the most desirable carcasses of the entire experiment.

As in previous tests results of these trials were really in favor of the calves of both sexes in so far as economy of production and popularity of the carcass of the finished animal were concerned. Because of their greater economy of gains, calves can be handled on a narrow margin between cost and sales price than older cattle.

Personals

—Mrs. Vernon Laughrey returned home Monday after a weeks visit with her people in Glen Elder, Kan. —Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Kocina and daughter returned Monday from Creighton where they had spent two weeks with relatives. —Will McLain drove down from Winner, S. D. Monday for a brief visit with relatives and friends here. —Rev. L. M. Real submitted to a minor operation for sinus trouble. He is staying with Mr. and Mrs. James Hastings. —On Dec. 29, Earl Ball of Nelburg, Sask, Canada writes his brother, Elsworth Ball. He says in part, they have had a busy fall. They had a heavy crop and lots of rain and three snows before they got through threshing. In fact it looks as though the last snow would not go off, over the finished threshing on Nov. 19th. The tractor has been a wonderful help, but it takes about all the crop to pay off the expense. It does not seem to make any difference how much they raise this year, nothing can be saved. Earl says his wheat averaged 35 bushels to the acre and he calls his nearly 15,000 bushels of wheat and 3,500 bu. of oats and barley but every where up there prices and grades were bad. Earl writes that his father, who lives not far from him, has a quarter of good land and another that he calls his sand place. The latter farm was all halled out. Earl and Elsworth have two brothers there, Frank and Donald. The latter lives in North Battleford, where he is running a recreation parlor. Earl speaks of having recently received a letter from the sister, Mrs. Ernest Hallock of Lincoln.

Legislature Forms With Republicans As Chief Officers

In spite of many rumors to the contrary the republicans organized the legislature without much opposition. Representative Cushing of Valley and Representative Sorenson of St. Paul refused to go into the republican party caucus and this encouraged the democrats to believe that there was a chance of a break which would enable them to organize the house and a slate was made up with Representative O'Malley of Greeley for speaker and Eli D. Tolen of Ord for chief clerk but the insurgent republicans swung into line and voted for the republican slate, Max Keir for speaker and Frank Corrick for chief clerk. Mabel Gudmundsen Gillisple of Sarpy took a leading part in trying to put the democrat slate across.

day afternoon at the home of their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brown. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adamek and son Paul and Joe Turek were Thursday dinner and afternoon guests at the Edward Sevenker home. ## PIONEER COUPLE AT FINAL REST IN ORD CEMETERY

Remains of Mr. and Mrs. Squires Are Buried Here Saturday; Early Mira Valley Residents

At Sowl's chapel here last Saturday funeral services were held for Mrs. Robert Squires, 73, who passed away January 2 at her home in San Jacinto, Calif. Rev. D. C. Williamson had charge of the services and burial was in the family lot at Ord cemetery. With her were the ashes of Mr. Squires, who died Nov. 26, 1927.

Ella Frances Brink was born in Le Raysville, Pa., July 6, 1857 and while still an infant she accompanied her family to Carroll, Ill., and later to Stanwood, Ia., where she grew to womanhood. On March 2, 1885 she was married to Robert Squires.

Mr. Squires was born in Wellon, England, May 12, 1852 and came to the United States in 1873, coming almost at once to Nebraska. He bought a farm in Mira Valley and in 1885 brought his bride there to reside.

Only a few settlers lived in the valley at that time. The Ward's, Petty's, Clement's, Gray's, Boettger's and Bell's were there or came soon afterward and with the vision of the future before them these pioneers and those who followed built churches and schools and roads and with each other's interests at heart they established a respected and prosperous community.

As a bride Mrs. Squires came from Iowa in a covered wagon and at the streams along the road she watered the shrubs and roses that she planted around the little one-room sod house that was their first home.

Drouth and discouragement were often their lot and many of their early settler friends moved away, but with the hope of a brighter future they stayed on their Mira Valley farm and with the passage of years they saw many of their dreams realized.

Two children born to Mr. and Mrs. Squires grew to maturity, David, who died April 13, 1922, and Mrs. J. M. Winchester, of Clayton, N. M. Three grandchildren also survive.

Ill health forced Mr. and Mrs. Squires to seek a milder climate and six years ago they moved to San Jacinto, Calif., where they lived until the final call came. The husband died on Thanksgiving day in 1927 and the body was cremated at San Bernardino, Calif., the ashes being brought to Ord to rest beside the body of Mrs. Squires.

At the funeral services Saturday Mrs. Bert M. Hardenbrook sang two beautiful solos accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Glen Auble. Pall bearers were John Bremer, S. W. Roe, John Beams, Bud Bell, Wm. King, Ed. Ass Leonard, all of them neighbors and friends of the Squires' during their life in Mira Valley.

Annual Loup Valley Conference Planned

The annual conference of young people of Loup Valley Methodist churches will be held in Ord, Jan. 30 and 31, announces Rev. S. T. Geiger, of Ericson, who is registrar. Even a larger attendance than last year is expected. A fine program has been planned with such men as Professor Gregg, of Nebraska Wesleyan, Rev. W. C. Fawell, U. of N. student pastor, Dr. A. V. Hunter, of Hastings, Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Hess, of Kearney, and others as speakers. The conference opens with a religious drama, "From Self to Service," put on by the Epworth league of Ord. There will be Saturday morning and afternoon sessions, climbing in a banquet Saturday evening. Besides Rev. Geiger other district officers are Rev. G. A. Randall, of Scotia, dean, and Rev. W. H. Wright, of Ord, manager and treasurer.

Ord Picnic Febr. 1

Former Ord people now living in southern California will hold their annual picnic in Bixby Park, Long Beach, on Sunday, Febr. 1, at 12:30 o'clock, the Quiz is informed by E. Lloyd and Mrs. Rudolph Sorenson, president and treasurer of the organization. People attending are requested to bring their own lunch and coffee and a large attendance is expected.

—Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Dworak sr. left for Schuyler to attend the funeral of a brother-in-law, V. J. Pavlicek. Deceased was 65 years old and well known in Ord. He has often stayed with the Dworak family for days at a time. He leaves his widow and two children.

—Chris Byers, who is working for the county, is taking treatment from Dr. Henry Morris. The ligaments of his leg were torn when a tractor wheel dropped on his leg.

—Rev. L. M. Real went to Omaha for this week. He will return Sunday.

High School Music Students At Rotary

Professor Theo. Toenniges and six of his high school music students, Florence Lukesh, Arthur Auble, Frank Rysavy, Wilhelmina Janssen, Edythe Mason and Elwin Auble, were guests of the Ord Rotary club at luncheon Monday and furnished an enjoyable program of popular music. Other guests were Ralph Clements, of Burwell, and John Benson, of Sargent, who came with H. B. Vandecar.

Bill Heuck's winners in the recent attendance contest will be entertained at dinner next Monday evening by Col. E. C. Weller's losers.

Rotarians decided Monday to attend the opening of the new Ord theatre en masse, with their wives. The theatre will open early in February.

CLAUDE A. DAVIS JOINS LAW FIRM IN GRAND ISLAND

Ord Lawyer Resigns From High Court Commission To Practice In Third City.

Claude A. Davis, for twenty-two years a prominent attorney in Ord and for the past three years a member of the supreme court commission at Lincoln, has become a member of a new law firm formed at Grand Island last week. The new firm, which is called Cleary, Suhr & Davis, is the successor to Horth, Cleary & Suhr, and was formed as the result of Ralph H. Horth leaving the firm to become judge in this district.

Next Wednesday, January 21, is "fire inspection day" in Ord when a corps of thirty or forty inspectors from the Nebraska State Fire Prevention association will visit this city and inspect all business buildings for fire hazards. They come upon the invitation of Mayor Wm. Moses and the Ord Chamber of Commerce and the object of this inspection is to reduce fire hazards, with a possible reduction of insurance rates as a result.

A luncheon in honor of the inspectors will be served at 12 o'clock in the Methodist church basement. It is announced today. Chamber of Commerce members, firemen and all others interested are eligible to attend. H. B. Vandecar, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will preside and there will be talks by inspectors and local business men.

E. C. Weller and Stanley McLain have been named on the committee to sell tickets for this luncheon and they will start their drive Monday morning. The luncheon will be served by M. E. church ladies.

Investigation covering a number of years shows that 80 percent of all fires in this country either are due to carelessness or could have been prevented by simple measures. With this information to work on, organizations like the Nebraska Fire Prevention association are trying by every means to cut down the huge annual fire loss in the United States.

Only business buildings, etc., will be inspected next Wednesday but homes are being cared for by "home inspection blanks" which were distributed this week to all school students and which will be turned over to fire inspectors for examination and recommendations. Every citizen should possess himself of one of these blanks, read it carefully and fill it out because the blank itself gives much valuable information on preventing fires.

Round Elected To Honor Fraternity

Ord Young Man Recent Pledge Of Sigma Delta Chi Junior In College.

George Round, Jr., agricultural editor of the Ord Quiz and son of Mr. and Mrs. George Round of Ord, is a recent pledge to Sigma Delta Chi fraternity on the University of Nebraska campus, according to an announcement forthcoming from Lincoln today. Sigma Delta Chi is an honorary journalism fraternity for men.

Students elected to membership in the honor fraternity are selected on a basis of ability in journalism and scholarship. Nine students have been pledged to the organization for the second semester of 1930. Initiation will probably be held during the fore part of February.

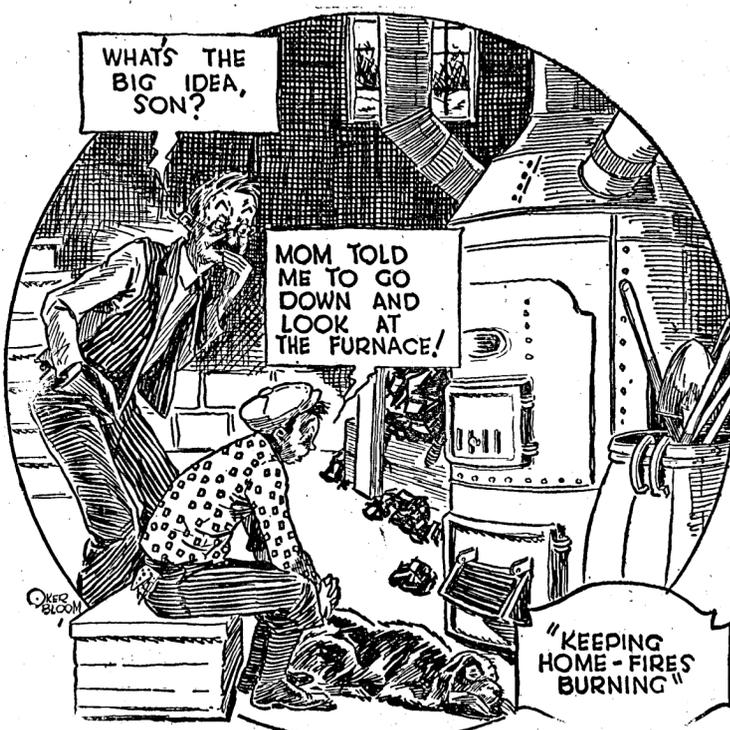

The Ord young man is a junior in the college of agriculture. His agricultural page in the Quiz is probably one of the most unique in the state.

Two Fined For Speeding. Two Ord rural mail carriers, W. L. Blessing and James McCall, were arrested Monday by Marshall Covert for exceeding the speed limit and in Justice Hamilton's court were fined $10 and costs each.

—Mrs. J. S. Collison returned Sunday from Polk, where she was called on New Year's day by the serious illness of her brother, Ed Lindquist. He passed away and was buried January 2 but Mrs. Collison remained because of the illness of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Anna Lindquist, who was taken to a York hospital and passed away there. She was buried January 2.

Several other members of the Collison family drove down to attend both funerals. Mr. and Mrs. Lindquist had often visited in Ord and were well known here.

—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coe and three children and Mrs. J. H. Capron were Grand Island visitors Tuesday.

JAMES ELECTED AS CHAIRMAN OF COUNTY BOARD

Veteran Ord Supervisor Named Head For Second Time; All Committees Named.

E. C. James, veteran Ord supervisor, Tuesday was elected chairman of the Valley county board of supervisors at that body's first meeting of the new year. He succeeds J. A. Braden, Arcadia, who served last year. Mr. James served as chairman of the board two years ago and has been a member of the board for two terms.

New board members sworn in Tuesday were S. V. Hansen, Arcadia, who succeeds Mr. Braden on the board, J. A. Barber, North Loup, who succeeds V. W. Robbins, and the two members who were re-elected, Joe Vasicek and Morris Sorenson. Board members who hold over are Chairman James, Charley Clochon and C. E. Johnson.

Standing committees for the year have been named as follows: Committee on settlement with county officers: Johnson, Sorenson, Hansen. Committee on estimates: Hansen, Clochon, Barber. Committee on roads and bridges: Clochon, Hansen, Vasicek. Committee on grounds and buildings: Barber, Vasicek, Johnson. Committee on bonds between sessions: Sorenson, Johnson, Barber. Committee on claims: Vasicek, Clochon, Sorenson.

At their Wednesday session the county board appointed Bill Ayers highway commissioner for another year, named Dr. C. C. Shepard as county physician and made the Quiz the official county paper.

Falls Off Bike, Breaks Arm.

Robert Rashaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rashaw, will be laid up for six weeks with a badly broken arm. The accident happened Monday while Robert was riding his bicycle home from school. A friend turned the wheel in such a way that Robert was thrown to the ground. Vern Stark was passing by and took the lad to the Ord hospital where Dr. Lee Nay and Dr. C. J. Miller reduced the fracture.

Teachers Exams Saturday.

On Saturday, Jan. 17, teachers examinations will be held in Ord, North Loup and Arcadia. Clara McClatchey, county superintendent, 43-11

—Mrs. Will Detweiler, of Grand Island was in Ord Monday looking after business affairs.

MAN WHO ROBBED MEAT MARKET IS STILL AT LARGE

Identity of North Loup Hold-up Established And Arrest Expected Any Time.

Arrest of the bold robber who held up the Kildow meat market at North Loup last Wednesday evening is expected at any time, the Quiz is informed by Sheriff George Round. The identity of the hold-up is fairly well established and officers throughout the middle West are working for him. Sheriff Round doesn't believe that he can possibly make his escape good, though he has eluded justice for more than a week.

The robbery occurred at 3:30 o'clock last Wednesday evening. Will Kildow was alone in his market when a stranger entered, whipped out a revolver and ordered Mr. Kildow to open the cash register. The robber took all the cash in the register, about $41, then ordered Mr. Kildow toward the back door while he quickly made his get away through the front entrance.

It is thought that the robber made his escape in a car parked around the North Loup State bank corner. A female companion was waiting for him in the car.

Sheriff Round was notified immediately and got on the job at once. Mr. Kildow was able to give a good description of the robber, who was unmasked and wore neither hat nor coat. He was tall and very dark. Mr. Kildow said: "A stranger answering this description, accompanied by a woman, had eaten supper earlier in the evening at a North Loup restaurant and officers are confident this is the couple they are seeking."

Reports from Cotesfield the next morning said a man and woman answering the descriptions ate breakfast there but nothing has been heard of them since.

Officers all over Nebraska and adjoining states have been given a description of the man and Sheriff Round is hopeful that he can bring the robber to justice.

Large Crowd Attends Power Farming Show

A. J. Meyer, local John Deere implement dealer, was very pleased with the large crowd of farmers that attended his power farming show Tuesday. The farmers were guests of Mr. Meyer at the Gem theater where several reels of motion pictures were enjoyed and after the show a demonstration of new machinery was held at the Meyer implement house. Mr. Egbert, a representative of the Deere company, and Mr. Woods, a Letz grinder representative, were here and helped Mr. Meyer in the demonstrations. Emil Smolik was given the tank heater offered by Mr. Meyer.

—Saturday Lloyd Alderman of Burwell was in Ord. His mother, Mrs. M. Alderman and her daughter, Miss Doris Alderman accompanied him home. They had been here with Mrs. August Peterson for a short visit.

Keith Lewis To Attend Convention

Keith Lewis, manager of the J. C. Penney Co., store in this city is leaving Saturday to attend the annual spring convention of that organization to be held at Kansas City, Mo.

Owing to the new conditions in the department store field which have been brought about by drastic reductions in commodity prices, the convention, which is usually held in April, has been moved ahead to give all J. C. Penney Co. store managers an opportunity to get full advantages of the new merchandising and price policies of the company.

Price reductions running as high as forty percent in many staple lines of merchandise handled by the organization, have already been announced and further announcements regarding new price and quality standards may be expected, according to Mr. Lewis.

H. B. VANDECAR CHOSEN TO LEAD COMMERCE BODY

Chamber Elects Officers For Year At Meeting Tuesday; Ed Seyler Vice President.

At their annual meeting held Tuesday evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, H. B. Vandecar was chosen president of the organization for the coming year. Ed Seyler was elected vice president and John Goddard, H. T. Frazier and C. J. Mortensen were added to the board of directors. Directors who hold over are C. A. Hager, E. C. Leggett, Wm. Heuck and George Work. Only a small crowd was present but the meeting was notable for its enthusiasm.

Optimism that present business conditions are bound to improve, in fact are already on the mend, was the keynote of informal talks made at Tuesday night's session. Most of the evening was devoted to plans for increasing Ord's trade territory and the Chamber of Commerce expects to launch a trade expansion program at once.

Roy Collison, retiring president, J. R. Stoltz, retiring vice president, and the three outgoing directors, Dr. F. L. Blessing, Ed Beranek and Ed Seyler, along with other officers, directors and committee members, were the recipients of a vote of thanks proposed by E. C. Weller and voted unanimously by the members. Mr. Collison was singled out for complimentary remarks on his work as executive during the past year and responded with a brief address.

Previous to the election of officers Glen Auble, acting secretary, briefly outlined accomplishments of the chamber during the past nine months. These included road activity, help in taking the federal census, the Christmas tree and community treat, the Valley county exhibit at the state fair, sponsoring the corn husking contest with the farm bureau, and many other accomplishments.

The board of directors and newly elected officers will meet soon to choose a secretary and treasurer and plan the work for the coming year.

Jay Auble Reports Satisfactory Trip

A. J. Auble returned Tuesday evening from Niles, Mich., where he went to demonstrate his patented canopy to executives of the Kawneer store front company. He reports a very satisfactory reception by Francis J. Plym, president of the concern, and Charles M. Boynton, vice president. He had a two hour session with officers and engineers of the company and they seemed impressed with the possibilities of his canopy, Mr. Auble says.

Walter Johnson Stricken.

North Loup, Jan. 13.—(Special)—While sitting in Clark's garage talking to friends Saturday afternoon, Walter Johnson suddenly collapsed. He was immediately carried to the George Johnson home where he is now slightly improved. He is being cared for by Gus Eisele.

Kills Huge Eagle.

Weeks Goes to Chicago.

Dr. C. W. Weeks left Sunday for Chicago where for ten days or two weeks he is taking up special work. Great progress has been made recently in the diagnosis and non-surgical treatment of stomach ailments and Dr. Weeks is devoting most of his time to studies along this line.

—Tuesday a baby daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank John Dr. F. A. Barta was in attendance.

FRANCIS FLOOD MAKES HIT AT BUREAU MEETING

Pleases Large Crowd Wednesday When He Tells of South America.

Francis Flood, travel editor for the Nebraska Farmer, gave a splendid speech to members of the Valley county farm bureau and their friends in the high school auditorium Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Flood's speech was extremely interesting, and was delivered with a friendly informality which was equally engaging.

Mr. Flood, who has travelled up and down and east and west, told how his partner and he had their way out to the president of an Alaskan steamship line as "playing piano and saxophone." They could play the partner played both instruments, Mr. Flood being totally helpless in this direction. He recalled another trip, made via highway with the aid of an empty gasoline can. Other travellers, seeing a pair supposedly out of gas, could always be depended upon to furnish a lift.

Long and lanky, speaking in quick staccato little jerks liberally punctuated with a hand that waved around almost constantly, Mr. Flood entertained the generously filled auditorium, giving the crowd much information, but so painlessly that it was greatly enjoyed. Speaking of Rio de Janeiro, which was 400 years old the first of this present month, the traveller called it the most beautiful city in the world, with incredible contrasts of sea and mountains, jungle and civilized city. The sidewalks were as wide as streets here, inland with colored stones. Just outside a friends' back door rose a mountain covered with a luxuriant jungle growth, and hundreds of chattering monkeys. Yet this mountain, never penetrated, was in the heart of the city.

Describing the size of the country, the speaker said New York was closer to the north pole of Brazil, and Africa closer on the east side, then the opposite sides were to one another... the east side to the west side etc. That Brazil could swallow the United States and an extra Iowa, Nebraska and Minnesota. This huge country is still, three-fourths of it, in the hands of the government, and is for rent or sale. The other one fourth is owned by half a million people, while 39 1/2 million people do not own a thing.

The high point of his address was Flood's positive statement that there is no poverty in the United States; that until poor people in other lands have been visited, those in this country have no conception of being poor. He scoffed at the idea of feeling poor and talking depression. This huge country was no want in the United States. Only scraggly, big-boned Zebu cattle can be raised in South America, as other strains cannot stand the climate and its accessories. One man offered to sell a ranch of 625 sections to Mr. Flood at $15 an acre with his cattle, about 600 head, thrown in gratis. There are 6,000 farms in Brazil, each having 100 sections or more in its domain. No wonder there are so many poor people.

Thousands of miles of Brazil have never been seen or explored by white people, so far. Many things have caused this. This bush is impenetrable because of the ferocious Indian head hunters, the intense sun, the snakes, the terrible mosquitos and ants and other insects. Of these the head hunters are the worst.

Mr. Flood showed colored slides to bring out his talk, which cannot be reported in full. The speech was very good, and it is too bad everyone in Valley county was not privileged to hear it.

Other high spots in the afternoon program were the fine talk given by Mott Rathbun, enthusiastic club leader for the boys of the Big 6 baby beef club. Mott talked about the boys and girls clubs, how much good they are doing, how much encouragement we should all give

Nearly 12 Months Without Zero Weather

Californians, move to Valley county, Nebraska, if you want to enjoy warm weather almost the year round. This is the advice given this week by W. A. Anderson, old Ord resident who keeps a careful record of temperatures and weather conditions.

Yesterday morning, January 14, the temperature fell to below zero for the first time in almost twelve months. Four degrees was what Mr. Anderson's thermometer registered. And it was the first zero weather reported since January 28, 1930, according to Mr. Anderson.

Can you beat that record, Californians?

Writes From Kimball.

Kimball, Nebraska
Jan. 10th, 1931.

Dear Editor:
Enclosed please find a check of two dollars and fifty cents ($2.50) for which send me another year's subscription of the Ord Quiz.

We are having the nicest weather out here. It is just wonderful. We had some snow the 18th and 19th of November and did not have any since. A white blanket of snow would be nice for the wheat now.

The prospects of wheat are fine. All the stock is in fine shape as they are pasturing on the green wheat. Farmers do not worry about getting their winter's feed for their stock because it is always plentiful out here.

Well the suit-case farmers are now starting to drift in to prepare their spring work. Now I must tell you what suit-case farmer means. It means the farmers from other counties come here, put their crop in and after harvest take the money that is left and go and do not come back till spring work begins again.

Will close with best regards and wishes to all our Ord friends.
Yours sincerely,
Walter Slobazewski.

Announcing A NEW OLDSMOBILE WITH IMPORTANT NEW FEATURES IN BODY, ENGINE and CHASSIS and LOWER PRICES

THE SYNCRO-MESH TRANSMISSION—Eliminates gear clashing, and permits easy shifting through all gears... from low into second, from second to high, and from high back to second. A NEW QUIET SECOND GEAR—Assures smooth, swift acceleration—in second gear—which rivals high gear performance in quietness. NEW DOWN-DRAFT CARBURETION—Gives increased power, with higher speed and faster acceleration. It also assures instantaneous starting even at zero temperature. COORDINATED STARTER AND THROTTLE—Add to driving convenience by automatically opening throttle to proper starting position when starter pedal is depressed. A NEW CARBURETOR-SILENCER—Muffles the sound of air entering the carburetor and contributes to quieter operation throughout the entire speed range. NEW INSULATED FISHER BODIES—Are warmer in winter, cooler in summer, and remarkably quiet. Advancements in Fisher construction add to body strength and serviceability. OPTIONAL UPHOLSTERY—Enables you to make your selection between luxurious mobair and smart whipcord fabrics, both notable for their long-wearing qualities. A DEEPER, STURDIER FRAME—Improves roadability and handling ease at all speeds—and gives greater strength and solidity to the car as a whole. FIVE WIRE OR FIVE DEMOUNTABLE WOOD WHEELS—Are standard equipment, offered optionally, and without extra charge. Advantages which result from these many new fine car features of the 1931 Oldsmobile are readily apparent in MORE DISTINCTIVE APPEARANCE and FINER ALL-ROUND PERFORMANCE.

acceleration, and greater smoothness. And a new carburetor-silencer contributes to quieter performance at all speeds.

Finally, the new Oldsmobile will prove itself so easy to drive that you'll find renewed pleasure in motoring. The Syncro-Mesh transmission... a feature heretofore found only in higher priced cars... permits silent shifting through all gears... from low into second, from second to high, and from high back to second, as desired.

In addition, Oldsmobile's transmission has a new Quiet Second Gear—assuring smooth, swift acceleration which rivals high gear performance in quietness.

These and many other new features make the new Oldsmobile a great car to drive... just as its finer quality and lower price make it the logical car to buy and to own.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

When I was a boy on the farm I took pride in being a good farm hand. Sometimes boys are not as attentive to their work helping father as they should be. Probably I was not always as careful at the job as I should have been, but father often said he couldn't hire a man who would do as much and as good work as I did and at the chores as I did and I really was a hard grind and my mother always urged me to get an education that would fit me for something besides farming. I heard that so much that it is a wonder I stayed on the farm as long as I did. Sometimes I have thought it was a mistake that I didn't stay on the farm and a number of times down the line of 40 years since I left the old home farm I have been strongly tempted to return to the farm for I failed to get the education that my mother wished me to get to fit me for something else and any success I have been able to make has been more on account of hard work than from any other one thing and all along I have felt keenly the lack of the education I might have had as well as not if I had cared to get it.

I do believe though that education is being overdone in many cases, that is, the kind of education boys and girls are trying to get. There is a movement in recent years along the line of trying to find out what the boy or girl is fitted for or adapted to and to educate for that thing and when that is done we will have a better citizenry. Now and in the past it has been just get an education, alike for Bill, Mary and Tom though at were adapted for different things and no effort was made to find out what each was adapted for. In my own case music was my mother's hobby and hundreds of dollars were spent on me for music. I was taught to play the organ and piano, the clarinet and singing. In fact went so far as to teaching singing school for a time but I didn't like music or care for it and the money and time was wasted. It is hard to make a square peg fit a round hole. It would not be very hard probably in most cases to find what a boy or girl was adapted for and it wouldn't cost half as much to educate a child along the lines of the least resistance, that is in the thing he or she takes an interest in, that it does to fight nature by forcing the child to do something that is distasteful. Herbert L. Cushing talked to me long and loud about this matter years ago and I have no doubt he is still working along the same lines. It is hard to buck generations of precedent however and while the time will come when we will try to find out what a boy wants to do and then help him to do it, a lot of kids will be ruined for good farmers by trying to make college presidents out of them.

And that reminds me that Walter A. Williams became president of the University of Missouri January 1st. He has been acting head of the school for a long time. Yet Mr. Williams does not have a college degree. Think of it, head of a great school and not a college graduate, yet no matter how successful a teacher may be he or she can't teach in the Ord schools without having a degree. That's the law. Walter Williams gained more than national renown by establishing and bringing to recognition the School of Journalism at the Missouri University. He has traveled and lectured both in this country and in Europe and has long been recognized as the dean of journalism school presidents. He is a wonderfully successful teacher yet he is not a college graduate. He made his way to the topmost round of the ladder in his profession because of his ability along his particular line just as hundreds of American boys have done the same thing in their chosen work, whether they had a college education or not. Of course I am not trying to belittle college education but what I do believe is that any boy or girl can and will succeed if in the business he or she is adapted to, regardless of the education. And I believe a lot of money is wasted trying to fit a boy or girl for the wrong thing and it is not found out till too late.

Robbers at Clay Center recently got a small haul at a filling station when they could no doubt have made a rich haul by tapping Fred Howard's till.

After all we in Nebraska have a lot to be thankful for. According to the newspapers we have, up to the first of this week when this is being written, had better weather than they are having in southern California. When we stop to think that we are in the middle of January and have had no snow and no zero weather, and bright, sunny days all the time with NO bad weather, we should be thankful. The coldest it has been any night is 7 or 8 above zero. And we had dandy crops the past season all along the line. True grain is low but many more than the usual number of cattle are being fed and the corn crop is going to be marketed at a good price in that way. Cattle and hogs have remained a fair price. A well known farmer told me Friday that he was feeding all his corn to 35 head of calves of his own raising and he had corn enough to feed to the middle of May at least. He said if he got 8 cents for his cattle then his corn would bring him at least 90c a bushel and he thought that was a good price. Most of those I have talked to believe cattle will be worth more than 8c in May and June.

I am looking for a lot of good to come to the people from the present session of the legislature. Governor Bryan is talking more sense than he ever talked before. The membership of the two houses is so evenly divided between the two parties that politics will not cut as much, figure as in many times does. Then there are six or eight real good, able men who are pretty well inoculated with the non-partisan ideas, who will, if they choose to exercise it, have a balance of power and who can and should have a large part in shaping legislation along sane and reasonable lines. Mostly those independent souls are farmers or closely related to the farming industry and their work should be more helpful. I believe the tendency is going to be more improvement of existing laws and less new laws this winter. I hope that will be the case. I hope banking and the primary can be amended for the better, that some readjustment of tax laws may be made, that it may be possible, if taxes cannot be reduced, that they be not increased at this time. One thing the legislators should remember and that is that we have the referendum law and that any banking legislation will be taken to the people always at more or less expense. A judge tries to so conduct his court that the supreme court will not reverse him and the legislators should conduct their work so that it will not be necessary to go to the people for a final decision.

SLAT'S DIARY

Friday—ma is getting ready for a dinner party at her house for tomorrow night and she takes an interest in that it does to fight nature by forcing the child to do something that is distasteful. Herbert L. Cushing talked to me long and loud about this matter years ago and I have no doubt he is still working along the same lines. It is hard to buck generations of precedent however and while the time will come when we will try to find out what a boy wants to do and then help him to do it, a lot of kids will be ruined for good farmers by trying to make college presidents out of them.

Saturday—well I tuk Jane to the Legion's buzaar tonite and they was sum girls there a selling kisses for a dime a piece to all men under 18 yrs. of age and I wanted to help the legion airs a little and I was a going to buy a couple kisses just to help the Legion airs a little. But Jane sed I was foolish to do that with my munney, so I diddnt. I dont no yet why she thoer it was foolish. she is sort a kweer sum times.

Sunday—on are way home from Sunday skool Jake and me tuk a couple shots with sum snow balls at ole Mr. Sinks Derby and I mist it. Jake hit it I time tho. I sent I throw Miss Euhoffs frunt window and when I got home she had telephoned to ma and ma give me a slapping. even when I xpained I diddnt intend to hit the window. Jake got a tickin to.

Munday—well the mane spring in my Crismus riet watch broke and I tuk it to the jewellryer and he charged me a $ and a 1/2 to fx it. I ast him what he wood give me for the watch and he sed seyenty 5 cts. so I got out of it by giving him 75 cts. I have had a very sourfooln Crismus so fur.

Tuesday—Ole Jim Droon tried to comit suicide today becu every buddy calls him Lazy so he went down to the R. r. track to throw his self in frunt of the 12 fifteen train. But he was 3 minutes late. Tuff luck some are rmarken.

Wednesday—ma is wirrying becu I am the ft. of my class. but they teach the same kinda stuff at both ends so why shud she wirry.

Thiraday—pa sed this evning he was a going to ole Mr. Glutzes funeral tomorro and Ant Emmy ast was he dead and pa sed well they feel pritty sure he will be by the time of the gathering.

Something DIFFERENT

From an extremely distant western station one night late came a good Scotch joke over the radio: A man walked into a Western Union office and inquired the price of wiring to Vancouver, B. C. The clerk answered that the fee was 10c per word, but that the signature was free. The Scotchman wrinkled up his forehead and then said earnestly: "Well, you can believe it or not, but I'm a full-blooded Indian, and my name is Papan-won't be home tonight."

In the shop of Alois Marecek hangs a picture of a good looking young man, wearing one of those fascinating and handsome uniforms of some foreign army. One of those kind with a cap like soldiers in this country wore during the Civil War. You know, they look a little like a stretched pancake. On inquiring I learned this was a picture of Mr. Marecek himself, taken during the Great War, when he as a member of the Austrian forces saw service on the Italian frontier. Did you know this quiet, self-effacing man with the talking eyes had such a military secret buried in his past?

Orditers who don't go to the town basketball games are missing a lot of Big Moments. These games are really good, speedy, thrilling ways some unexpected thrill turning up to provide your money's worth. Get out and get at them. You won't be sorry.

Not quite as far back as in the days of Godey's Ladies Book, but nevertheless several years, women used to wear odd looking things called "sacques", or maybe it was "sacks". Kinda loose, kinda blousy they were tightly clutched to the waist-line, if any, by a belt. And then a sort of tail hanging down, or maybe it was more like a ruffie. Do you remember them? "They Say" that fashions repeat themselves every few years, so probably these near-sacques now on display in some local windows prove it. When I Was Very Young I thought sacques were very stylish, but now, I suppose just because they are in fashion, I am charmed by them. Just another sheep, jumping through the hole in the fence with the rest of the sheep!

Last January was such a terrible strain on..... should I say the family coal bin or the family pocketbook? Anyway, it was a terrible strain; you'll admit that won't you? But now Nature is being a nice girl and furnishing wonderful weather. The law of compensation must be working again.

Women do seem to be like sheep about following fashions. One day their skirts are knee-high. Next day or shortly thereafter, one skirt goes to the ground, and the rest of them break records following. Isn't it too bad that styles aren't just a little more staple, a little more long-lived?

I have always pitied men, having to wear such drab clothes, all over the same pattern, so colorless so much the same, year after year. I should think men would long to wear a gay color occasionally; long for an opportunity to be a little different; be sick of seeing every other man look monotonous-ly like themselves. I should think they'd be tired of having to carefully restrain their whims for a bit of color and life to just a mere necktie, a suit of pajamas, a lounging robe or if they are extremely daring, to a sweater and golf sock.

A happy medium, for both women's wear, and men's wear, would be much nicer. Styles for women that would last longer than the time it takes to choose them: a touch of brightness, and an occasional change in the style of men's wear..... something more than peaking lapels and shifting a button.

—Oo—
Talk about ornery cracks! It has been reported that one girl, who really does use enough lipstick, was recently asked if it was true that she used mercurochrome on her lips!

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

We have several delicious recipes to give to our readers today, and they are very unusual recipes too, old stand-bys made in new and delightful ways, and some brand new dishes that are really practical. You will surely be interested in reading over the list below, and let us hope your family will enjoy the results of the glances bestowed on this col-yum.

Did you ever hear of feather biscuits? Well, here it is. But here it is sent in by a former contributor to this col-yum, Miss Ellen Stanton.

Feather Biscuits.
2 c. flour
2 to 4 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1-3 c. fat
1 egg

Sift the dry ingredients. Put into a cup 2-3 c. milk and fill with lard till the milk runs to the top. Cut the lard into the dry ingredients. Beat an egg and add to the milk. Mix the egg and milk mixture together then the flour. Dough will be fairly stiff but by kneading quickly and lightly on a floured board for a few seconds light and crisp biscuits are the result. Pinch off three little rolls and place together, so as to form one biscuit when baked.

Then we have a recipe for a mock cherry pie that uses cranberries, and would be very nice at this season. So, although the lady who sent it in forgot to sign her name, here it is:

Mock Cherry Pie.
1 c. ground cranberries
1/2 c. ground raisins
1 c. sugar
1 tsp. flour sifted in dry
1 tsp. vanilla
1 c. boiling water

Put the water in last, mix all together and let come to a boil. Cook before putting into two crusts.

If the sponsor of this recipe will send in her name, we will be very glad to give her credit.

Then there is a nice recipe for carrot and apple salad which is a favorite wherever it is tried. And it has the virtue of being very good for your family in this day of vitamins. Lots of things that are supposed to be good for us aren't tasty, but this salad is, so you will be glad to make it often.

Carrot and Apple Salad.
1 c. sliced apples
1 c. shredded carrots

1/2 c. mayonnaise
1-4 c. nut meats, chopped
Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing, sprinkling the carrots on top.

Mrs. L. H. Covert

Then comes an intriguing recipe from someone you all know, Mrs. Flavia Twombly Schwartzel, showing she is still interested in her old home and old friends. As it is unusual, and not too expensive, maybe you will want to try it. Do you have a sweet tooth or even sweet teeth in your family? They'll love this:

Applettes.
2 c. cooked, strained apple pulp
2 c. sugar
1-4 c. nuts
1-4 tsp. each, vanilla and almond flavorings
1 tsp. Knox gelatin dissolved in 1-4 c. water and 1-4 c. lemon juice

Cook the apples in as little water as possible, put through a sieve, add sugar, cook until a little stands upright when dropped on a dish (usually in about 25 minutes). Stir constantly. Add gelatine and cool, add nuts and extract and pour in buttered tins. When set, cut in squares and roll in powdered sugar.

—Mrs. Joseph G. Schwartzel, 114 Penn. Ave., Meadville, Pa.

Nearly everyone who gets one of the new calendars and recipe books from the Quiz has sent in a dandy recipe. Isn't that fine? Have you sent yours yet?

And don't forget, we not only want pie and cake and cookie recipes, but economical dishes, thrifty dishes that your family enjoy on wash-days, dishes made from left-overs, cheap cuts of meat, etc. What have you to offer, please?

Anniversary of Bilzard.
W. A. Anderson calls to the attention of the Quiz the fact that Monday was the 43rd anniversary of the "big bilzard" which raged through January 12, 1888. Mr. Anderson says he remembers that great storm very vividly.

THE NEW FORD

Everything you want or need in a motor car

THE more you see of the new Ford, the more you realize that it brings you everything you want or need in a motor car. . . . And at an unusually low price.

Its substantial beauty of line and color is apparent at a glance. Long, continuous service emphasizes the value of its simplicity of design and the high quality that has been built into every part.

The new Ford accelerates quickly and it will do 55 to 65 miles an hour. It is an easy-riding car because of its specially designed springs and four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers. It has fully enclosed four-wheel brakes and the added safety of a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield. Operation and up-keep costs are low and it has the stamina and reliability that mean thousands of miles of uninterrupted service.

See the nearest dealer and have him give you a demonstration ride in the new Ford. Check up every point that goes to make a good automobile and you will know it is a value far above the price.

F. O. B. Detroit, plus freight and delivery. Bumpers and spare tire extra at small cost. You can buy a Ford for a small down payment on a convenient financing plan. See your Ford dealer for details.

Reducing Fire Hazards Reduces Insurance Rates

Next Wednesday, January 21, the Nebraska State Fire Prevention association will make an inspection here and the result of their inspection may have a big effect upon insurance rates in Ord. Both for the sake of public safety and to help in the reduction of insurance rates we urge the co-operation of every Ord resident.

Reducing fire hazards naturally will reduce insurance rates. Look over your premises carefully and do away with all fire hazards. Long electric drop or extension cords are a dangerous source of many fires. Have such fire hazards eliminated wherever possible.

Let's Reduce Fires to the absolute minimum in Ord. Co-operation Will Help To Do It!

Lose Record Book, Must Inventory Stock Again

Lost—Account book used in taking inventory. Finder please return to Beranek Drug Store and receive reward.

Above appears a want ad that would be inserted in the Quiz this week if Ed F. Beranek had any idea that his inventory record book is still in existence.

With half of their annual inventory taken, employees at the Beranek drug store were "sitting pretty" when last week came to a close.

Ed thinks that Frank Johnson must have laid the inventory book down on a pile of rubbish when he quit working on it last week and Stanley Absalom must have found it.

Reporter Attends Miss Easley's Class

BY IRMA ELLIS LEGGETT

Entering Miss Easley's classroom in the opening moments of an examination period, I tipped to a student that I was an unusual kind of examination, for the students were all reading, as if as possible upon their work.

Miss Easley explained, saying it was a different kind of test, one where the class was given a story to read, after which a sheet labeled "Best Answer Test" was to be read over.

As Miss Easley handed me a mimeographed sheet too, I read the story and then took the memory test, or whatever you want to call it.

Next period the class reciting before Miss Easley was a group of eighth grade people studying the geography of Nebraska.

The advance assignment was to study out potatoes in Nebraska. Don't you think these courses are much more practical than the geography of olden days, where no mathematics appeared immediately when teacher asked what percentage the corn raised in Nebraska was of the total corn crop.

Maps contained in each answer book were colored to show the oats section and the wheat growing section of our state, which recitation brought out to be the "poes" section.

Next the class discussed why more wheat could be used than oats. Do you know? It is because there are more uses for wheat, bread, cereal, etc., to a large extent.

They discussed the class, according to this class, was especially a horse and other stock food.

How to play Bridge AUCTION or CONTRACT by Wynne Ferguson Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

ARTICLE No. 8 An indication of the great popularity of auction and the hold it has on the public fancy, is the fact that the merchants of the country are now making use of interesting hands to advertise their products.

The following hands are recommended as examples. They were given as problems in the preceding article:

- Solution to Problem No. 3 Hearts—A, 9, 7, 5 Clubs—Q, 7, 6 Diamonds—K, 3 Spades—A, K, Q, 3 Hearts—K, 3 Clubs—K, 10, 8, 5, 3, 2 Diamonds—9, 5, 4 Spades—10, 6 Hearts—8, 4, 2 Clubs—4 Diamonds—K, J, 8, 6 Spades—J, 8, 7, 4, 2 Hearts—Q, J, 10, 6 Clubs—A, J, 9 Diamonds—A, 10, 7, 2 Spades—9, 5

AUCTION BIDDING: No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one no trump and all passed. If A opened the five of clubs, how can Z score a small slam against any defense?

CONTRACT BIDDING: Z one no trump, A pass, Y three spades, B pass. Z should now bid three no trumps, A should pass and Y, with a very strong hand, should bid six no trumps. How can it be made?

Solution to Problem No. 4 Hearts—7, 6 Clubs—A, J, 6, 4 Diamonds—A, 10, 7, 4, 2 Spades—10, 6 Hearts—A, 10, 3, 2 Clubs—8 Diamonds—Q, 6 Spades—A, 9, 8, 4, 3, 2

AUCTION BIDDING: No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one heart. A passed, Y bid two diamonds and B bid two spades. Z bid three hearts and all passed. A opened the king of spades, which held the trick. He continued with the seven of spades. B won this trick with the ace and the problem is to pick out B's correct lead at the third trick and the reasons for it.

CONTRACT BIDDING: Z, as dealer, should bid one heart. A should pass. Y should bid two diamonds and B should bid two spades. Z should bid three hearts. A should pass and Y should bid four hearts. B should pass, for a double would locate the heart strength. The play is the same as at Auction.

Solution: B's best play is a low trump. If he leads a spade and A is unable to overtrump the dummy, the location of the ten of hearts, the only missing card, will be known to be in B's hand and when Y obtains the lead, Y can score game by finessing against B. On the other hand, the trump lead does not give any information and the location of the ten of hearts is still unknown.

Solution to Problem No. 5 Hearts—J, 10, 4, 3 Clubs—Q, J Diamonds—10, 9, 7, 2 Spades—A, 10, 9

AUCTION BIDDING: No score, first game. Z dealt, bid one no trump and all passed. What is A's proper opening lead? CONTRACT BIDDING is the same. Solution: A's proper lead is the ten of hearts. The long suit opening is the logical one and one that cannot hurt A's hand. The player who held this hand in actual play led the queen of clubs and defended the play on the ground that the lead of the heart would probably lose a trick. Don't ever make short openings against a no trump bid, unless your partner has bid the short suit and you decide to open. Your long suit always is the proper opening when your partner hasn't bid.

The McLain-Sorensen team's victory over Andersen's Grocers was the feature of play in the Ord City Basketball league Tuesday evening. By a score of 16 to 13 the Drugists broke their losing streak and went into a three-way tie with the Gem and Andersen quintets. In defeating the Gem 16 to 15 the J. C. Penney company team kept their perfect average of 1000 percent.

COMING TO ORD BOHEMIAN HALL ONE WEEK STARTING MONDAY JANUARY 19th Johnston Comedy Co. The Big Fun Show Presenting High Class Vaudeville, Singing, Dancing, Music, Mirth and Mystery ADMISSION: Children 10c Adults 20c DON'T MISS IT!

Lose Record Book, Must Inventory Stock Again Lost—Account book used in taking inventory. Finder please return to Beranek Drug Store and receive reward.

Above appears a want ad that would be inserted in the Quiz this week if Ed F. Beranek had any idea that his inventory record book is still in existence. But he doesn't believe it is, and as a result there has been great weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth at the Rexall store this week.

With half of their annual inventory taken, employees at the Beranek drug store were "sitting pretty" when last week came to a close. The hard part of the inventory was done, pills had been counted, medicine measured, and they were all ready to start on the larger articles. But when they got ready to start Monday morning the inventory book couldn't be found and it hasn't turned up yet, and as a result the inventory is being taken over. Ed thinks that Frank Johnson must have laid the inventory book down on a pile of rubbish when he quit working on it last week and that Frank Johnson must have burned it.

Reporter Attends Miss Easley's Class BY IRMA ELLIS LEGGETT

Entering Miss Easley's classroom in the opening moments of an examination period, I tip-toed to a seat. However this was an unusual kind of examination, for the students were all reading, as intent as possible upon their work. Miss Easley explained, saying it was a different kind of test, one where the class was given a story to read, several pages of descriptive material. The story had to do with jungle explorations conducted by a Mr. Allee, and his first hand reports of the trees, flowers, climate, etc. The story was to be thoroughly but rapidly read, after which a sheet labeled "Best Answer Test" was to be read over. Upon this sheet were three or four conflicting statements under each question one of which completed the sentence begun so that the sentence contained true facts. The various phrases from which the students were to choose were designated "a", "b", etc. To indicate a choice all that was necessary was to draw a ring around one of these letters.

As Miss Easley handed me a mimeographed sheet too, I read the story and then took the memory test or whatever you want to call it. There were thirteen opportunities to be wrong, and I only selected one of them, so I concluded I must be terribly smart. This class was supposed to be studying literature. You see how differently they do it now. All sorts of modern-day character builders are combining, under every course listed that a student may wish to choose. Not like they used to be, is it? Next period the class reciting before Miss Easley was a group of eighty grade people studying the geography of Nebraska. And here again, things are taught differently than in my day. A glimmer of mathematics appeared immediately when teacher asked what percentage the corn raised in Nebraska was of the total corn crop. Three people went to the blackboard with all kinds of paraphernalia to figure it out. As they had 1,243,682 to divide into 74,352,000, you can see there was something to be done, if the size of the figures means anything.

Maps contained in each answer book were colored to show the oats section and the wheat growing section of our state, which recitation brought out to be the "loss" section. Do you know what that is? Rainfall in these parts averaged 28 to 32 inches, another important item in growing oats and wheat. The part of the state colored with crayolas to tell this story was the portion to the north and east of us.

Next the class discussed why more wheat could be used than oats. Do you know? It is because there are more uses for wheat, bread, cereal, etc., to a large extent. Oats, according to this class, was especially a horse and other stock food.

The advance assignment was to study out potatoes in Nebraska. Don't you think these courses are much more practical than the geography of olden days, where no two things were mentioned in relation to the arithmetic book or the geography text didn't say to do it that way? Go visit the Ord schools and see what you think of it.

Salamagundies Meet.

The Salamagundies met at the home of Mrs. W. J. Ramsey Monday in honor of the birthdays of Mrs. Ramsey and Mrs. F. J. Russell. A delightful lunch was served at 4:30 and at 6:30 Mrs. Ramsey surprised the guests with the arrival of their husbands and their families to whom she served an elaborate dinner. The occasion was heartily enjoyed by all who attended.

Mrs. G. W. White.

Funeral services for Mrs. G. W. White were held at the Methodist church Wednesday afternoon at 2:30, conducted by the pastor, Rev. R. O. Galtner. Music was furnished by a quartette composed of Rev. and Mrs. Galtner, Mrs. C. C. Weddel and Lowell Finney, who sang "Face to Face", "Near the Cross" and "It is Well With My Soul." Burial was made in the Arcadia cemetery.

Meanor Sewell was born in Jamestown, Ind. April 14, 1850 and passed away at the home of her son Frank near Arcadia, Neb. Jan. 5, 1931 at the age of 80 years, 8 months and 22 days. She was united in marriage April 9, 1868 to George W. White who preceded her in death September 10, 1912. To this union were born eleven children, three of whom are left to mourn her passing, Frank W. of Arcadia and Samuel J. and Roy A. of Purdum, Neb. also eleven grandchildren.

The family moved to Purdum, Neb., in March 1886 where they resided for about sixteen years. Since that time Mrs. White lived in or near Arcadia. Mrs. White was a woman of high virtues and a useful life has been lost to the community. She accepted Christ and became a member of the church in her early girlhood remaining faithful until called to her reward. Her wonderful sweet memory will ever be cherished by the family and her many friends. Appointed Ass't Sergeant-At-Arms

The Arcadia friends of H. S. Conger will be glad to know that he was appointed assistant sergeant-at-arms of the state legislature at Lincoln for the present session.

Mr. Conger took up his duties at Lincoln last week and will remain there until legislative adjourns.

Leases Restaurant. H. F. Tucker has leased his restaurant equipment to Frank Casteel of Scottsbluff. Mr. Casteel expects to take charge soon and will operate a restaurant where the Tucker cafe is now located.

Mr. Tucker plans to serve short orders at the dining room of the hotel in connection with the regular hotel business.

Breaks Arm. Bernard Bartholome, thirteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bartholome painfully injured his left arm one day last week when coasting with his wagon while returning from school. An x-ray examination showed a piece of the bone had been chipped off at the elbow joint. The injury is healing nicely at present.

Hold Annual Meeting. The members of the Congregational church held their annual business meeting at the church Thursday, January 8th. Dinner was served at noon, over one hundred being present. Following the dinner the meeting was called to order. Reports from the different divisions of the church were read and approved and other matters of importance were presented and discussed. Election of officers was held and the following were elected: clerk, C. H. Downing; treasurer, C. W. Starr; trustees, C. C. Hawthorne and A. C. Mather; deacons, D. O. Howley, Elmer Wibbel and Albert Wibbel; choir leader, Kermit Erickson; assistant choir leader, Mrs. F. V. Amick; pianist, Mrs. H. L. Jameson; assistant pianist, Mrs. H. D. Weddel; Sunday school superintendent, Elmer Wibbel.

L. R. Dowse, first settler of Custer county and resident of Oak Grove since the early days, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. C. Spooner at Evansville, Wis. Tuesday, Jan. 6th at the age of 85 years. Mr. Dowse had resided with his daughter since the death of his wife which occurred a year ago last March. Mr. and Mrs. Dowse knew all of the hardships of pioneer life and their passing marks another vacancy in the ranks of the pioneers of Nebraska. Their daughter, Mrs. Alice Simms of Wichita, Kas. was the first white girl born in Custer county.

The body of Mr. Dowse was brought to Comstock last Friday where funeral services were held at the Methodist church on Sunday afternoon.

Add Money to Flower Fund. The members of the Rebekah lodge have just completed a unique way of raising money for their flower fund. Several weeks ago a silent friendship club of twenty-four members was formed. Each member was asked to earn one dollar between the time the club was formed and its closing meeting. To add interest to the work the members drew names and the name one drew was to be your silent or secret friend and they were not to be addressed as to whom held their name. During the duration of the club the members were asked to remember their secret friend with a gift of some kind each week. Following the regular lodge meeting held at the I. O. O. F. hall Wednesday evening of last week the club members met and told how they earned their dollar and who their friend was. Much pleasure was derived from the club as well as the adding of $24 to the flower fund.

Demonstration Day. The Sell Implement Company sponsored a demonstration day at their place of business in Arcadia Monday. The Letz feed grinder and the new general purpose wide tread John Deere tractor were demonstrated during the forenoon and a three-reel picture show was shown at the Electric Theatre to about 250 interested farmers during the afternoon.

The feed grinder demonstration was under the direction of Robert Woods of Omaha, factory representative of the Letz Mfg. Co. In this district the tractor demonstration was conducted by Allen Eggers of Grand Island, service man for the John Deere Plow Co. in this block. Each of these men made a short talk at the theatre performance, the first prizes were also given away at the afternoon performance, the first prize being a fifteen gallon drum of motor oil which was won by Benson Bros.

Mr. Sell was well pleased with the response which the farmers of the community gave the demonstration day.

Hayes Creek Aid Elects Officers. The Hayes Creek Ladies Aid society met with Mrs. G. N. Brooks and Mrs. Henry Schultz at the Brooks home last Friday afternoon. The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. W. D. Kingston, vice president, Mrs. Wayne Benson and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. George Jensen. The society will meet again January 23 with Mrs. Joe Holmes. Re-elect School Superintendent.

At a recent meeting of the school board C. C. Thompson of Ellis, Neb. was re-elected superintendent of the Arcadia schools for the 1931-32 term. Mr. Thompson has served as superintendent the past five years, giving excellent satisfaction. His re-election comes as welcome news to his many friends.

ALL-STARS WIN ROUGH CONTEST FROM RAVENNA

Defensive Battle Ends In Ord's Favor, 13 to 11; Dunker Is Ejected For Fouls.

A close defensive battle featured by football tactics ended in favor of the Ord All-Stars Monday evening when they took the Ravenna town team into camp by a score of 13 to 11. This is the second straight win for the Ord team as the previous week they defeated the Grand Island A. C. 26 to 22. Next Monday Warner's Roamers, of Hancock, Ia., appear in Ord.

Dunker and Sanderson of Ravenna and Beeghly of Ord ran a close race Monday night for high fouling "honors" but Dunker won out in the fourth quarter when he was ejected for four personal fouls. Sanderson and Beeghly stayed in the game but had three fouls apiece. Krejci wasn't playing his usual game Monday evening but was still high scoring individual, with a total of six points. M. Knotek pressed in for scoring honors with five counters.

The game was close and exciting, the lead see-sawing back and forth all the way. Ord scored first, Krejci sinking one from beneath the basket, and at half time Ord led 6 to 5. Soon after the second half Ravenna tallied to lead 7 to 6 but like Blessing dropped in another to give the lead back to Ord and the local team was never headed, though Ravenna was never more than a point or two behind. Peanuts Jensen played a whale of a guarding game for Ord, Blessing looked good on offense and Krejci appeared to advantage on both defense and offense. He was closely covered all the way through which accounts for his failure to go on his usual scoring spree. Bailey of North Loup refereed. A preliminary game was played between two junior high teams and the practice of having preliminaries will be continued by the All-Stars. Next Monday the North Loup Hi Reserves will play the Ord Hi Reserves, the preliminary starting at 7:30 o'clock and the main game at 8:15.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

IT MIGHT HELP THE BOXING GAME A LOT, SAYS MARTIN, IF COMMISSIONS WOULD ONLY LET THE FIGHTERS TAKE CARE OF THEMSELVES

BY PHILIP MARTIN

hearing a recent dispute between a boxing promoter and the Cleveland Boxing Commission ruled that the commission had no authority whatever in boxing affairs. It came as a distinct shock to that city's boxing solons when they were informed that their function was purely advisory. What a glorious thing it would be if some courageous judge would set New York's alleged fight uplifters in their places. A cure for football's evils, so the learned minds tell us, is to give the game back to the boys who play it. And so it seems to me that an antidote against boxing tomfoolery would be to give the sport back to the lads who throw the punches. It might be worth a trial, anyhow.

Mere mention of the New York State Commission makes me think of ancient eggs or open sewers. It jades the appetite to read newspaper accounts of what that so-called august body has been doing with regard to the heavy-weight situation. More than 600 boxing critics recently voted Willie (Young) Stribling the ablest heavyweight of the day, with Boston's Jack Sharkey second best and Champion Max Schmeling in third place. And yet the Gotham body demanded that unless Schmeling give Sharkey the chance, his second, it would call a halt to everything flat.

Such stubbornness once more seems to have taken a world's heavy-weight championship fight away from New York, for recent dispatches indicate that Schmeling will meet Stribling next June in a Chicago ring. The first Dempsey-Tunney scrap was shifted to Philadelphia when the New York board balked. They were still balking a year later so Chicago staged the renewal of the Dempsey-Tunney feud. Just why there was no room for Stribling in the New York commission's championship picture is explained by a New York critic. He writes that Pa Stribling, Young's father-manager, was quoted as saying that his boy wouldn't fight in New York because he wouldn't get a square deal there. This apparently inflamed the New York solons of awat so much that they benched the Georgian. They then adopted Sharkey as "teacher's pet."

The Georgian may not be the greatest fighter in the history of boxing, but he decisively flattened Von Porat and Scott. And as I see it, he deserves a title shot ahead of Sharkey, who had his chance and very ridiculously let it go with a series of low blows. HERE are a few reasons why I think the New York boxing board is inconsistent. Once they vetoed a New York match for some absurd reason and then after it had been staged elsewhere, permitted the two principals to be rematched at the Garden. Another time they insisted Sharkey meet a much-beaten fighter before approving him for a title match with Schmeling, but refused to see Stribling because Sharkey shaded him two winters ago and because Pa Stribling made some unkind remarks. They also ruled that fighters participating in bouts ending in fouls be paid according to the rounds fought. But they conveniently lifted this ruling last June and Sharkey and Schmeling walked out with their full purses. Is it any reason, then, that some of us can't accept the Gotham commission?

Warner's Roamers Stronger To Play Here Next Monday

Warner's Roamers, probably the fastest basketball team that ever played in Ord, will be opponents of the Ord All-Stars at the high school auditorium next Monday evening, January 19. Last year this traveling team, which hails from Hancock, Ia., defeated the All-Stars 16 to 14 after a thrilling game that kept fans on their toes for the whole forty minutes. This season they are even better than last.

Nearly the same team as represented the Roamers last year will appear here next Monday. Included are Nieman, of Iowa State, Brown, of Parsons college, McMaster and Schmidt, of Simpson college, LeRette and Burgett, Iowa all-state high school players, and Pickrell, of the University of Iowa. All of these men except Burgett and Pickrell were here last year. R. D. Proctor, the team manager, also will be here. This team features a short passing game and a man to man defense and fans last year found it a pleasure to watch them in action. On this road trip they play in Nebraska, Colorado and Kansas, meeting such teams as Ord, Ravenna, Paxton, McCook, Fallsdale, Harvard and Alliance, in Nebraska; Fleming, Sterling, Ft. Collins, Pueblo, Monte Vista and Sanford, in Colorado, and Atwood, Bird City, Rexford, Goodland and Dresden, in Kansas. Cage fans will be offered a big program next Monday evening for in addition to the feature event a fast preliminary game is being arranged. The prelim will start at 7:30, with the main event scheduled for 8:15. Fans should come early to be sure of getting seats.

WILLIAMS PLACED ON MID-WESTERN FOOTBALL SQUAD

Kansas Coach Puts North Loup Athlete On Second Team. Kearney Athlete.

Valley county men students at Kearney Normal college at Kearney have always been outstanding in the field of sports and this year Le Ross "Cap" Williams of North Loup is upholding the glory of the popcorn producing center of the world. He captained the football team this fall and now is performing at a guard position on the basketball quintet. Recently he was placed on most of the all-state and all-west football teams in the country. Clippings from numerous newspapers indicate he is a powerful athlete, both on the gridiron and on the basketball court.

Gregg McBride, veteran sports writer, placed him at a guard position on his all-conference team and said he was one of the outstanding players in the conference. Likewise on all other teams, he appeared to be a popular choice for first team honors. Probably the biggest recognition which "Cap" received was news reached here today to the effect that he had been placed on the second All-American midwestern college team. Art Kahler of the Sterling, Kas. Teacher's college made the selections. Kahler said that Williams was the big North Loup youth who led his mates to triumph in the normal school race this season. The Kansas man named Williams as a tackle on the second squad. Now with Williams performing remarkably at a guard post on the Kearney Normal basketball team he bids fair to go out of the school as one of the most outstanding athletes ever turned out. Other Valley county athletes who have shone upon the gridiron and captained teams in recent years include Archie Mason of Ord and John Waldmann of Comstock but in Valley county.

He is not going out of the breeding business but just reducing his stock. His offering includes four good Percheron horses, six high grade Jerseys, eight head of Hampshire swes and 22 Poland China hogs. He is anticipating a splendid sale.

team had previously challenged the Ord All-Stars to a game but probably will withdraw the challenge since this defeat.

Clay Center Will Play Here Tonight

This evening, Thursday, the strong Clay Center high school basketball team will be opponents of Coach Krejci's Ord cagers in the local gymnasium. As usual Clay Center is in with a fast team but the Ord boys have been showing a lot of stuff this week and the game should be a good one. Last Friday night the Ord team performed at St. Paul, losing 24 to 11. At the end of the first half the score stood 6 to 5 but the Krejci-men weakened in the final periods and St. Paul scored almost at will.

"Cyclone Sally" will be at the Bohemian hall January 16. Don't miss it. 43-11

MAN WHO BOUGHT DISEASED HOGS GIVEN JUDGMENT

Jury Finds Moody Should Pay Anton Nelson $100 And Costs of Case.

A judgment of $100 against Ben Moody, Arcadia, was given Anton Nelson by a county court jury last Thursday in Nelson's $400 damage suit against Mr. Moody for selling cholera hogs. Moody also was ordered to pay costs of the case, which totalled $43. Davis & Vogelitz represented Moody while Bert Hardenbrook was attorney for Mr. Nelson.

Evidence brought out in court showed that early in the fall Mr. Moody had a herd of hogs that was not doing so well. He had five sows and 35 shoats to start with but one of the sows died, after which he took the other four sows to Arcadia and sold them to Key Clark. Later he had Dr. F. H. Crist, Arcadia veterinarian, vaccinate the shoats for cholera.

Cholera serum should protect the herd for from four to six weeks, it was testified, and acting on Dr. Crist's advice Moody decided to sell the shoats at once. He took 34 head of them to the Arcadia sale barn where Anton Nelson bought the best 17 head at $10 per hundred and True Whitman bought the rest at about $3 per head.

Nelson took the hogs he bought to his own farm and turned them in with his own herd. A short time later cholera broke out in the herd and he lost 3 of the hogs he bought from Moody and 24 head of his own hogs. Therefore he sued Mr. Moody for $600 damages. Mr. Whitman testified that out of the Moody hogs he bought three died. He did not mix them with his own hogs so lost none of his own. One of the Whitman hogs was examined after death by Dr. J. W. McGinnis, who testified that the hog was diseased.

The jury in the case was composed of Andy Cook, Henry Penn, Ralph Haas, C. O. Turner, Frank Flynn and C. C. Furtwangler. A. C. Wilson was called for jury duty but was excused when it developed that he had prejudices against any man who sold cholera hogs whether knowingly or not. The jury was out only a short time before bringing in a $100 verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

Billy Word Winner 4-H Club Week Trip

Billy Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ward of Arcadia, has been awarded a free trip to boys and girls 4-H club week held at the agricultural college, Lincoln, early this summer, according to word reaching the Quiz today. He is awarded the trip by the Omaha union stockyards for his outstanding record in club work.

Young Ward has perhaps been one of the most enthusiastic 4-H club boosters in Valley county. He is a breeder of hogs with his father and brother, a club member also. During the past few years he has shown successfully at county fairs both in the open and club classes.

This year Billy has been a member of the R. K. D. sow and litter club of Arcadia. He will probably join again this year.

VALLEY COUNTY DAIRYMEN WIN MANY HONORS

Awarded Medals And Certificates For Average Production In 1930.

Fourteen members of the Valley County Dairy Herd Improvement Association had herds that produced 300 pounds or more of butterfat in 1930, records at the state dairy office located on the agricultural college campus show. Carl Smith is the local leader.

Eight of the members won bronze medals for their records as made by their dairy herds. The other six have been awarded certificates by the dairy department of the University of Nebraska. E. C. Scheidhelm, dairy extension specialist, made the announcement today at the banquet of the valley county dairymen upon their 1930 record.

Public announcement of the winnings of the Valley county men was made along with other winners at the dairy banquet held at the Lincoln hotel in Lincoln last week. The banquet brought the dairymen's meetings during Organized Agriculture to a close.

The Jersey herd of Ernest S. Coats and Son of Ord was high for the Valley County Dairy Herd Improvement Association in 1930, records disclose. The Coats herd, long known for their ability to produce butterfat, made a record of 476.1 pounds average butterfat in the year.

In second place was Earl Smith of Ord whose herd produced an average of 377.3 pounds of butterfat in 1930. Smith will receive a bronze medal for the record made by his Holstein herd.

Frank Valasek had the third high herd in 1930 and William Valasek the fourth. Frank's herd produced 362.2 pounds of butterfat while William's herd averaged 359.3 pounds. Both will receive certificates from the dairy department. Both men live near Ord.

Benson Brothers' herd averaged 341.2 pounds to earn them a certificate and fifth place in the local standings. J. B. Pala of Elyria had the sixth high herd, his cows averaging 339.3 pounds butterfat. John Moul of Ord won a bronze medal when his herd averaged 339.3 pounds. R. M. McCall of North Loup also won a medal when his herd averaged 333.7 pounds.

Below McCall, W. D. Kingston's herd averaged 332.5 for a bronze medal. Likewise, Kingston's neighbor, L. P. Fenster, had a herd who earned a medal, they producing an average of 327.3 pounds per cow for the year.

Another Arcadia man had a herd producing above 300 pounds, Dewey Bonsall. His herd averaged 326.2 and won him a certificate. A. W. Pierce's herd averaged 324.1. W. J. Collins found his herd averaging 317.8 pounds. Both received certificates as does Earl Hansen whose herd averaged 313.1 pounds.

Each year the extension service honors the women at the Organized Agriculture meetings. Director Brokaw gave a brief talk to the honored ladies at the meetings held under the supervision of the home economics department of the University of Nebraska.

Referring to the work of Mrs. McGinnis, County Agent Dale of Ord says she has been a faithful woman's club worker and deserves the honor. Much of the credit for the complete organization of clubs in this county should go to Mrs. McGinnis, Dale avers. It has been through her efforts that a successful club year has been enjoyed.

Floyd Wetzel Wins First In Corn Show

Has Best Ten-Ears Popcorn In State. Scores A Second Also.

Again Floyd Wetzel, premier North Loup farmer, demonstrated his ability to produce winning corn when he won places with an exhibit at the annual corn show held at the agricultural college last week in connection with Organized Agriculture. The North Loup man topped first place in the popcorn class and a second in the white dent corn class of the central section.

Entries in the popcorn show were not divided up into sections as usual, but Wetzel placed first against other exhibitors from over the state. Nevertheless, he won high honors on his exhibit of ten ears. In the white dent class of the central section he was a close second.

Each year the North Loup man exhibits at the small grain and corn show held at Lincoln and always is among the highest winners. He is a member of the Nebraska Crop Growers' Association. Interest in the corn show was greater than ever, according to Anton Frolk who had charge of it. He said the people in central Nebraska had a better exhibit than ever before and much interest was shown in this locality.

Practical Combine For Valley County Farmers To Appear

Two new combines, a windrow baler, quickly detached cultivators and listers, and a new type of disc harrow are coming on the market as soon as manufacturers can get the machines built, C. J. Trenary reported at the farm equipment exhibition held at the agricultural college campus last week at Organized Agriculture held at the agricultural college, Lincoln. His talk followed a spirited discussion of corn harvesting machinery which is still too new to be well recognized by the average farmer.

Since the production of the new machinery may affect farming operations in Valley county, local farmers are interested in what the machinery may be. If they can use a small combine economically they are especially interested in a farm around Ord, they wish to know about it.

All the new machines are intended as improvements over existing models and machinery, the machinery instructor of the college said. The new combines and cultivators are intended for small acreages such as are found around Ord, the windrow baler will work on alfalfa, prairie hay, or on straw left by a combine, and the detachable equipment for general purposes. The combine will take care of the greatest shortcomings of the present, the amount of time used in getting ready to do a piece of work.

The first combine, Trenary mentioned has only one principal moving part in the threshing unit. The grain is cut and worked into the center of the platform through the aid of augurs. Inside a steel tube is a large drum rotating at 1250 revolutions per minute. A fan at the upper and large end of the tube is attached to the drum shaft and blows the grain into a hopper as the drum. Suction from the fans draws the cut grain up through the tube to the threshing apparatus on the revolving drum. Raps on both the outside of the drum and the adjacent side of the walls of the hopper constitute the threshing machinery. Suction draws the straw and grain through the rest of the mechanism to later let the grain drop and separate from the chaff by gravity. Percentage of grain left in the straw while the combine is running is low. The combine can be pulled by a general purpose tractor.

The other combine is known as the "baby combine." A wire brush turning at 1000 revolutions per minute takes the place of the combine's rollers. The brush is controlled by use of a governor and regulates the size of openings and maintaining the same volume of air flow to clean the grain.

This combine weighs only 3000 pounds and has only twelve moving parts, according to the advance information about it. The company claims to have threshed orchard grass, flax and soybeans with only two adjustments of the baffles which hold the grain and straw against the threshing brush.

The windrow baler will handle three acres per hour picking up the straw behind a ten-foot combine. Two men can operate the baler in straw or light hay. A trailer carries the bales to the end of the field where they are dumped.

Cultivators are soon to be on the market which can be taken off a general purpose tractor in less than ten minutes. The new cultivators will stand up alone when detached. Heretofore, farmers have had to spend several hours getting their tractor cultivators

By J. A. KOVANDA

Proso, or hog millet, is a prehistoric crop, so ancient that it was almost forgotten, until two or three years ago. Then the Dry Land Experiment Station of Akron, Colorado placed it into the limelight with startling claims. They discovered that proso not only outyielded other grains in that region but usually made better stock feed, pound for pound.

These findings were based on the honest statistics of a conservative government station. They were not the propaganda of a commercialized institution with something to sell. Farmers recognized the distinction and began to take notice.

Its possibilities were mentioned last winter at one of the Haskell Creek night schools during a feeds discussion. Since it is drought-resistant, C. H. Nielsen wondered if it wouldn't do well on first year alfalfa ground where other upland crops often burn up. At length he decided to try some.

Seed was secured at low cost through a Colorado county agent. It was drilled in late spring and mowed and stacked when most of the heads appeared to be threshed. The other day Mr. Nielsen threshed it; he estimated the yield harvested at about ten bushels of seed per acre. This he is grinding into his cattle along with several other kinds of grain. Mr. Nielsen considers this country too windy for hog millet. He believes that half of his shattered out during one windstorm, and more was knocked off in the process of handling.

Apparently proso is out of place where corn is more productive and less chaffy than in Colorado. But if other crops failed late, then a catch crop of proso for grain or forage would be very satisfactory, as it has been known to mature in fifty days, and it must of necessity be seeded rather late.

The seed is round and white, and is produced on a large open-branched panicle or top. It sells for about three cents a pound. A bushel weighs about fifty pounds and plants two or three acres. Proso has the lowest water requirement of any grain crop, but, due to its shallow rooting habit, it sometimes succumbs to drought quicker than well adapted varieties of other grains.

Corn Picker Cost Varies Over State

Reports Show Cost From 3.7 Cents To 12 Cents Per Bushel This Year.

It cost from 3.7 cents to 12 cents a bushel to pick corn with mechanical corn pickers in eastern Nebraska this year, L. R. Snipes, farm management specialist of the Nebraska extension service, reported at the close of the corn picker discussion last week in the farm equipment association meeting at Organized Agriculture held at the agricultural college, Lincoln.

Comparison of costs here in Valley county compared favorably with those in eastern Nebraska, it was disclosed in Ord this noon. One farmer living north of Ord reported that it cost him approximately $1.68 to pick an acre of corn this winter. Of course, the average locally around Ord and North Loup may be greater or less than that sum.

"Only those farmers who figured out how to cut down labor costs and the number of men needed to do the job kept their per bushel down," Scott Whitman, of the agricultural engineering department, added in his remarks at the Organized Agriculture meetings.

One Cass county man picked 90 acres by himself with his picker. He took his team to the field, tied it behind the wagon while he pulled the wagon and filled it with the tractor and picker, hauled the load in with the team, dumped it, and repeated the procedure and got along without a second man. Whether anyone around Ord used such a method is unknown.

A Polk county farmer picked his corn with a horse drawn, engine driver picker, driving the two horses on the wagon and the three on the picker himself while a second man picked up the down ears and threw them into a trailer and also helped with the turns at the end of the field.

The man who picked his corn for less than four cents per bushel, Snipes said, husked 207 acres of 84 bushel corn with a two-row tractor drawn picker. Use of his picker cost forty-one cents per acre and the total cost was $1.25 per acre but had lower yields which made the cost per bushel four cents.

"Those who are enthusiastic about mechanical corn pickers may say we have no business putting out figures for this year because of the low yields, but they ought to consider that the weather this fall was ideal for the operation of pickers and the costs per acre are much lower on that account than they might be," Snipes said in defending the project. "An-ready to operate and then in changing to the next job. A lister is also being manufactured which will come off a tractor quickly. The new type of disc mentioned by Trenary is sixteen feet long with two foot sections on each end which can be turned up to make a 12-foot disc with weighted ends. The angle of the disc is controlled with power from the tractor.

other thing, only the farmers who got along well were willing to turn in their records to use at the end. Many of those who had trouble with their machinery had no figures for us at the close of the project, so what we do have represents successful rather than average operators."

Comparing one row and two row tractor drawn machines, the farm management specialist said the costs on two row outfits varied from $1.11 to $1.92 per acre. On the one-row machines, the costs per acre varied from $1.31 to $2.12, and the cost per bushel from 6.5 cents to 12 cents. Two operators of horse drawn, engine drawn pickers in forty bushel corn did the work for $2.00 and $2.08 per acre and 5.2 cents per bushel.

The man who kept an account of his expenses on picking corn with the picker near Ord used a two-row machine in his operations. In line with the figures of others over the state, the cost for the two-row machine was less than for the one-row.

Both Snipes and Whitman brought up the point that there is little use in putting money into expensive machinery to save labor if the same number of men are used to husk the crop and the rest of the winter is spent on the coat or in town doing nothing. Labor saving equipment is profitable only to the extent that the labor saved can be put to more productive and profitable work, they believe.

COATS ELECTED TO STATE OFFICE

Member Board of Directors In Nebraska Jersey Organization.

Ernest S. Coats, one of Valley county's outstanding Jersey dairy cattle breeders, was elected to the board of directors of the Nebraska Jersey Cattle Association at their annual meeting held last week at the agricultural college, Lincoln. He is to serve for one year.

The Ord man is a member of the Valley County Dairy Herd Improvement association, where his Jersey herd topped all members in butterfat production for 1930. He was one of the original founders and boosters of the organization.

Taking his cattle on the show circuit each fall, Coats has made a name for himself among Jersey breeding circles in the state as indicated by his election to the board of directors of the statewide organization.

Miss Marie Hinesh returned Friday from Fremont where she had been employed for several weeks.

RELIEF CAME WITH KONJOLA

Kidney and Stomach Disorders Ended—Read These Words Of Praise.

MRS. EDWARD BONGHE

"I am giving this endorsement of Konjola in the hope that others may be helped," said Mrs. Edward Bonghe, 1013 Farnum street, Omaha. "I suffered for about nine months with stomach and kidney disorders. Then neuritis settled in my shoulders and arms and the pains were terrible.

"I lost weight, strength, and ambition, until I began taking Konjola. It soon proved itself to be the right medicine and in just seven weeks this master remedy had me feeling like another person. I feel fine, enjoy my work, and will never cease to praise Konjola."

Konjola is recommended over a six to eight week period for ailments of the stomach, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness. Konjola is sold in Ord, Nebraska at the McLain and Sorensen drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Judge Cattle at Broken Bow. Carl Dale and Clara Clement were in Broken Bow last week judging cattle at the show held in connection with the Central Nebraska Livestock Breeders' sale. They report an excellent sale with the cattle bringing good prices.

Hatchery man Wins Suit. In county court here last Friday Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Goff sued the Platte Valley Hatchery company for $408.60 they claimed was due them as wages. Judge Hollingshead found in their favor and ordered the hatchery company to pay up.

Ord Church Notes

Ord Methodist Church.

The anniversary of the ratification of the prohibition amendment occurs on the 16th, so we plan to have a service in recognition of this great event on Sunday evening at 7:30. It will be a platform meeting and Mrs. Leo Long, Evet Smith and S. F. Roe will be the speakers with the pastor bringing up the rear. A double male quartet will sing. Let us have a rousing temperance service. We must keep awake and keep fighting to carry forward what has been so well begun.

Morning services as usual, of course. Sunday school at 10 and worship at 11. We have classes for everybody. 201 were present last Sunday. And can't we have more of you present for the sermon? Let the dishes go an hour longer. The pastor will be pleased to see you, and have you listen to what he has to say. Let us have more of a united effort to build up a great congregation. Kenneth McGinnis will lead the League service at 8:30. Attention folks! The plan is to have a Get-together next Thursday night. It is for everybody, baby and all. Bring a covered dish and your own dishes for a 3:30 o'clock supper and there will be a program and some games. We hope to make this a regular monthly affair. This is your invitation. W. H. Wright

Ord Presbyterian Church.

Sunday school and preaching service next Sunday at the usual hours. Rev. Reals' topic for his morning sermon is "Baptism". Special music will be rendered at the evening service. Choir practice will be held on Thursday night at seven thirty this week instead of the regular Tuesday. Last night the ladies of Mrs. Goodhand's class who were on the losing side in the recent membership contest gave a dinner to the winners. After a three course banquet Miss Blanchard, Miss Nelson and Miss Frederickson had charge of the entertainment. There was a good attendance at the luncheon and dinner held in the church basement last Saturday. The ladies realized a goodly sum for their efforts.

Tuesday Laverne Bussell was injured.

His coat caught in a tractor in such a manner that his leg was badly cut. He also suffered a "green stick" fracture. Dr. Kirby McGrew is caring for him.

Pentecostal meetings are to be continued in Ord for some time.

Meetings are also being continued in Burwell, in a building that was formerly the Farmer's store.

Donald and Ernest Horner of North Loup were in Ord Saturday.

FRANCIS FLOOD MAKES HIT AT BUREAU MEETING

These future farmers and farmer wives of Valley county. He also discussed the Rotary pig club formed three years ago, and told how much good it had done several herds near here. Mr. Rathbun declared that there are 40 members now preparing 50 or 60 baby hives for next fall's show, and added that there are also 15 or 20 more boys planning to join 4-H clubs and do the same thing. His talk was very fine, and was heartily in accordance with the ideas of most of the men present.

The three boys who covered themselves and Valley county with glory at Chicago not long ago by winning the crops-judging competition were presented to the crowd and given their gold medals by their friend, coach and county agent, C. C. Dale.

Anthony Kokes spoke first, describing just how the judging was done. The crops were put on a number of tables; boys on the same team were carefully separated into various other groups; then the boys were allowed ten minutes at a table, for inspection and taking notes after which they gave their decision. They had to walk, alone, into a room where he told his reasons for his classifications. Anthony made it perfectly clear.

Next came Billy Garnick, who told how the 1,400 boys and girls at the national meeting were royally planned for and entertained during their stay. Beginning with the Field Museum Sunday afternoon and ending with a big banquet arranged for them by the railroads on Thursday night, the boys certainly enjoyed their visit and will always have a good word to say for Chicago, the scene of their triumphs.

Harold Benn elaborated on the sights the boys saw, and made a most interesting few minutes talk. All three of the boys were as modest and unassuming as the angels they made the trip and talked to the crowd as one friend to another.

Mr. Holland, district extension leader, gave a brief but very good talk. He spoke of America as the place which has made the most rapid progress in the world, and is rewarded, but where co-operation is being applied, and improving the results. He brought out how much standards of living shifted since the day when, with the introduction of bathtubs, a doctor's prescription was necessary before taking a bath, which was strictly taboo from November to March.

Charles Faudt, acting president of the farm bureau, spoke briefly now and then, when introducing other speakers. He thought the best record so far made by the bureau was in the matter of awards, and mentioned several achievements. He told how proud everyone is of the judging team, and called attention to the great amount of favorable publicity that they had brought to Valley county.

Mr. Faudt also took occasion to suggest that more co-operation would do lots of good, and mentioned several instances where the lack of it had not been. His general joking also pleased the crowd. Three directors were to be chosen at the session Wednesday morning, so Mrs. McGinnis was re-elected; D. E. Strong was re-elected and Don Round was elected to a two year term. County superintendent Dale gave his report; Mr. Holland made a short talk on extension work throughout the state, and what it was accomplishing. With the big crowd, the splendid talks, and the high current of enthusiasm, the meeting was considered a thorough-going success.

AM I RIGHT?

By GEORGE ROUND, JR.

Probably the most interesting meetings at Organized Agriculture last week were those dealing with the farm equipment section. Though not many Valley county farmers attended the meetings, they had something worthwhile for them.

Certainly the report on cost of husking corn with corn pickers over the state this year is interesting. The report shows one thing, in my estimation, that affects all if the number of men used in the operations isn't cut down no labor is saved. As those at the college pointed out, there is no value in doing the work a little quicker with the same help and then laying around the rest of the winter.

Seems as though H. D. took a good slam at Ernest Coats and myself in his own column last week. Well, now Ernest, perhaps we could combine the good qualities of our perfect looks into a good picture that would even make Hank sit up and take notice. Regardless you note that Hank knows better than to put his picture at self in his own column recently, every once in a while. It just wouldn't do.

C. E. McGrew is still confined to his home. He has had to stay in since before Christmas. He is suffering with varicose veins and his son Dr. Kirby McGrew, advises him to keep off his feet as much as possible.

Miss Ann Shonka received a letter this week from John Carson, who is spending the winter in California. He is feeling fine, Mr. Carson writes. On New Year's day he enjoyed dinner with a brother-in-law and sister.

"Why Take a Chance?"

is right!

Last week's issue of the Ord Quiz carried an advertisement to which was affixed the names of Harding Cream Co. and L. M. Loft, in which they urged their MANY patrons to call for their checks and advised the patrons that they did not want to sell them any stock. If you read this so-called advertisement, you perhaps noticed that they forgot to state how much of a rebate they were paying on butterfat purchased, what period of time the rebate was for and just WHY they were paying it in Ord but were not paying it in many other Nebraska towns where the Harding Creamery does business.

They evidently did not want to advertise that they were likely paying this rebate in an attempt to meet the Dividend that the Ord Cooperative Creamery Company pays its Stockholder Patrons.

Since he, or they, quote from one of our former advertisements

we wish to emphasize this point.

The Harding Cream Company had three different buyers in 1930, last of which is one L. M. Loft. The buyer who represented them in 1929 says that they did not pay any rebate from Dec. 1, 1928 to Dec. 1, 1929. We know a man who sold them cream after Dec. 1, 1929 and they say they have no rebate check for him.

Perhaps if they had paid a rebate during that period their patrons would have been glad to buy some stock or some groceries or anything else that money will buy.

During the year 1929, Mr. Loft worked for the Omaha Cold Storage. One of their patrons during that time told us that he did not receive any rebate. Has the Omaha Cold Storage Co. paid any rebate on their 1930 business? Again we say

Why Take a Chance?

Isn't it better to patronize the Ord Co-operative Creamery Company and Help Make a Dividend, that you will get just before Christmas, than to have to worry about a REBATE which you expect to get but sometimes don't get because of Cream Stations being closed or promises violated.

Ord Co-operative Creamery Co.

We are putting on more help again this coming Saturday, so bring on your cream, poultry and eggs.

KREJCI GOES ON RAMPAGE AS ORD BEATS ROAMERS

All-Star Center Makes 26 Points, Most of Them in Last Half; Visitors Good Passers.

Uncorking a brilliant attack that functioned perfectly without the slightest defensive faltering, the Ord All-Stars swept to a 36 to 24 victory over the highly rated Warner's Roamers, of Hancock, Ia., here Monday evening. Joe Krejci, captain and star center of the Ord team, turned in the greatest individual performance ever seen on an Ord floor when he scored twenty-six points, which was enough to win the ball game without the ten tallies contributed by his team mates.

The Iowa team came to Ord with a record of 11 wins in 12 games this season. Previous to the game Monday their only defeat was at the hands of the Glenwood A. C. and their wins included a victory over the Pratt Bookstore quint of Denver. The Roamers had a clean hard fighting team and made a hit with Ord fans.

In giving due credit to Krejci for his great performance no attempt is made to minimize the fine game played by the entire All-Star team. In offense and defense the All-Stars were better than their opponents and only once after the first whistle did the Roamers go into the lead.

Lynn Beeghly, one of Ord's star guards, who until Monday had spent most of his efforts in defensive work, scored first against the Roamers. Slipping down the side lines he took a pass underneath the basket and converted it into a counter. A moment later after LeRette had evened the count, Beeghly did it again from farther away. It was the first time since Lynn has worn an All-Star suit that he scored twice in one game.

Clayton Ward Chosen As National Director

Clayton Ward, prominent farmer and purebred stock raiser of the Arcadia vicinity, last week was notified of his election as director of the National Purebred Association to fill the vacancy left by ex-governor Keith Neville, of North Platte. The association has six directors chosen from all parts of the United States, each director serving a three year term. Mr. Ward left for Peoria, Ill., Tuesday to attend the national convention.

New Restaurant Will Be Established Here

Blakeley and Marquard, who have been running the Ideal Bakery and Cafe in Loup City, will move their establishment to Ord about March 1, a story in last week's Sherman County Times says. They have leased a building on the north side of the square here and will conduct a first class lunch and confectionery, the item goes on to say. Ord is Mrs. Marquard's former home and her son-in-law, Mr. Blakeley, also is well known here.

Canadian Prices Low

W. T. Barstow, of Lincoln, was a week end guest in the J. H. Capron home, coming to Ord after spending a few days in Gordon, where he owns an elevator. Mr. Barstow says that a Gordon farmer, who owns land at Easton, Saskatchewan, told him of the grain prices being paid there on Jan. 10. Wheat was 30 to 32c, oats from 12 to 14 1/2c, barley from 7 to 9c, rye from 10 to 14c and flax from 64 to 73c. We would have depression, indeed, if we had Canadian grain prices, Mr. Barstow believes.

Vodehnal To Hold Reduction Sale

E. E. Vodehnal has rented 160 additional acres of land and will do tractor farming next year so he has decided to hold a reduction sale of his stock and horse-drawn machinery. This will be one of the largest sales of the season as Mr. Vodehnal is selling 55 head of cattle, 121 head of hogs, several horses and a fine lot of machinery. His ad will be found on page three of this week's Quiz and the sale will be held Friday, Jan. 30.

Chas. Faudt Heads County Farm Bureau

Charles Faudt, of North Loup, was elevated to the presidency of the Valley County Farm Bureau at that organization's annual meeting last Wednesday. He was elected vice president last year and since the president, Anton Beran, moved to Lincoln Mr. Faudt has been acting president. Other officers elected last week were Clayton Ward vice president and Mrs. J. W. McGinnis secretary. The directors include the officers, Dave Strong, Don Rounds, Mrs. Boyd Mulligan and Joe Rousek.

Hold-up Attempted On Arcadia Road

While returning to Arcadia from Ord last Friday evening Mrs. W. J. Ramsey had an exciting experience when somebody took a shot at her car in what is supposed to be an attempted hold-up. Instead of stopping Mrs. Ramsey increased the speed of her car and reached Arcadia safely. The attempt occurred on the highway about a half mile north of the A. J. Lybarger corner. Mrs. Ramsey, who was accompanied by three high school girls, heard the explosion of the gun and heard the bullet whizz past in front of her windshield. Two of the girls saw a flash of light at the side of the road. At first Mrs. Ramsey thought a fire had blown out but readily guessed that someone had taken a shot at the car with the expectation that it would stop. An investigation the next day revealed gun wadding at the place where the attempt occurred and the gravel at the side of the road bore evidence that someone had been concealed there. No other trace of the would-be hold-up has been found.

AGED RESIDENT OF NORTH LOUP GOES TO REWARD

Grandma Paddock, Nearly 90 Years Old, Dies Friday Morning After Brief Illness.

"Grandma Paddock", as she was commonly known, and who was one of North Loup's pioneers, died at her home in this village early Friday morning, Jan. 16, following a brief illness in which she apparently suffered no pain. Her daughter, Eliza Jane Manchester, was born in New York state where she attended college at Troy after finishing the common course of study and where she taught three terms of school. She was one of a family of ten children, she being the last answer to the call. Her three sons, besides a number of other relatives survive her. William, of Atlantic City, Calif., was unable to be present at her funeral. The other sons are Walter and Ernest of North Loup.

Mrs. Paddock was a woman of outstanding individuality, an apt Bible student with an exceptionally keen mind and was an interesting conversationalist. Had she lived until June 14 she would have been 89 years of age. Funeral services were held from the M. E. church at which she was a charter member, on Sunday afternoon, Rev. Schwabauer officiating. A mixed quartette, Roy Hudson, Donald Fisher, Mrs. Schwabauer and Miss Maxine McCune sang several beautiful hymns with Mrs. Arthur Hutchins at the piano. J. V. Kildow, Frank Johnson, Otto Hill, Fred Swanson, Will Wetzel and Ray Knapp acted as pallbearers. Interment was made in North Loup cemetery.

Stockmen Form Organization To Combat Crime

At the McGuire hall in Ericson last Thursday a meeting of farmers and stockmen was held to organize an anti-crime organization. Christ Wunderlich, Frank Kaiser, S. V. Mentzer, Frank Heinze, Carl Doherty, Bob McCarry, Carl Asimus and W. H. Meyer are officers and directors of the association. Farmers from Wheeler, Greeley and Garfield counties were enrolled. The organization is determined to put a stop to theft of cattle, hogs, poultry and all petty thievery and for arrest and conviction will pay rewards ranging from $25 to $100 for such offenses as cattle stealing, arson, shooting or poisoning livestock, swindling agents, leaving gates open, cutting fences, trespassing, sign mutilation etc. County officials are said to be behind the organization.

Firemen's Ball To Be Held Febr. 6th

The forty-third annual ball of the Ord volunteer fire department will be held on Friday, February 6 this year. Advertising for the big event is already out and firemen will start a ticket sales drive in a few days. Every person approached to buy a ticket should do so, as that is about the only way Ord people can show their appreciation to the firemen for their work during the entire year.

Crosby Back On The Job. Marlon Crosby was back in his hardware store Tuesday for the first time in eight weeks. Two months ago he underwent an operation to remove a piece of diseased bone from one of his legs and ever since that time has been confined to his bed, first at the Ord hospital and then at home. His many friends are glad to see him back on the job again.

SCHOLARSHIPS ARE OFFERED BY McCORMICK

Farm Implement Manufacturer Will Give $500 Tuition to 100 4-H Boys and Girls.

Any Valley county 4-H club member who will be of college age by September, 1932, and who is enrolled in a project on March 1 of this year will be eligible to compete for one of the forty new scholarships offered by Cyrus McCormick, Jr., to 4-H club members of the cornbelt states, according to County Agent C. Dale of Ord. Just how the winners of the scholarships are to be chosen will be determined this month when a committee of club leaders, the chairman of the extension directors committee on organization and policy, and a representative of the United States Department of Agriculture meet in Chicago, according to the latest information coming to County Agent Dale.

Each scholarship is worth $500. Mr. McCormick offered one hundred of them to the country, forty going to the north central states. The offer was announced at the time of the National club congress in December where the Valley county 4-H crops team won the national club judging title.

L. I. Frisbie, Nebraska state club leader, said the first of this week he hoped to have more details to give to members and local leaders in Nebraska soon. According to word from Chicago, the committee mentioned expects to report by February 1. The secretary of agriculture has already been named as one of the judging committee. It has also been definitely stated that the winner of a scholarship must use it to help defray educational expenses at an agricultural college or other institution with an approved agricultural course. Valley county 4-H club members are urged to keep in touch with County Agent Dale in regard to the contest. He will probably have more particulars by the end of the month on the scholarship and boys will be glad to tell Valley county boys and girls how they may win it.

Babcock Committed To State Hospital

Clarence Babcock, of North Loup, was brought before the insanity commission yesterday and was committed to the state hospital at Hastings for treatment. Mr. Babcock is about fifty years old and is the father of nine children ranging in age from 2-12 to 20 years. He is employed at day labor and frequently goes into spells of acute despondency. He has been at the state hospital before for treatment.

Ord Firemen Have Supper

Last Thursday evening members of the Ord fire department, honorary members and other friends enjoyed an oyster supper in the dining rooms of the Thorne cafe, followed by a social evening. About forty were present.

Cleaning Stairs—A Capitol Idea

You're old snow shovel wouldn't make much of an impression when it comes to cleaning the snow off the stairs of the national capitol at Washington, D. C. Here we see a whole force of men on the job trying to get caught up before the next snowfall.

ORD THEATER TO BE OPENED FEBRUARY 12

New Show House Will Be Finest In Valley, Say Those Who Have Peeped Past Doors.

The new Ord Theater, said by those who have peeped inside to be the finest in the Loup valley, will be formally opened on Thursday, February 12, it is announced this week by Manager Jack Hoogenboom. A formal three-day opening program will be presented February 12, 13 and 14, he says. Eddie Cantor's famous musical comedy, "Whoopie" will be the feature attraction but there will be pleasing short subjects and music will be furnished by Professor Toenniges' symphony orchestra.

Work on the interior of the theater is practically completed but the projection machines, sound equipment, carpets, seats and draperies are not yet installed. When completed the theater will be far better than in any city in the state comparable in size to Ord.

—Guy Keep has been ill and out of school this week.

An Open Letter To The Public

I have been elected president of the Ord Community Club. I have been promised the active co-operation and support of the board of directors, and, on that account, I have accepted the position. In assuming the duties and responsibilities of the position, I fully realize and appreciate the fact that I am merely an integral factor in the organization; that I cannot accomplish much individually through my own personal efforts, and that any success that may be achieved will be through the activities of the club and will be attributable to the active support of the board of directors and all the members of the club.

It is basic that everybody knows more than anybody. It is equally basic that nobody can please everybody. However, I am going to do the best I can individually, and, with the support that has been promised me, I hope for at least a reasonable degree of success in my efforts to please as many people as I can.

As the name implies, this organization is a Community Club, and has as its chief object and purpose, the civic welfare of not only Ord, but also the whole community tributary to Ord in all of which the people of Ord are vitally interested. This is a typical farming community, all of us have a general common interest in agricultural success and welfare. It is, therefore, to the interest of all residents of Ord, and all residents in the territory tributary to Ord to co-operate in all matters pertaining to the general welfare of the whole community. No one, nor any individual branch of industry is wholly independent of others or of other industries. More can be accomplished by co-operation than by dissension, and I am earnestly in hopes of having the active co-operation of all the people of this community whether they be residents of Ord or of the territory tributary to Ord. Let us work together for common good and benefit to all. Constructive suggestions and honest criticism will be gladly received, and will be considered in accordance with their merits, but please bear in mind "To err is human" and I am human and not entirely immune of error.

In connection herewith, I feel it fitting and proper to pay my respects to my predecessor in this position, Mr. Roy Collison, under whose administration much of material benefit was accomplished for Ord and community.

Respectfully,
H. B. VanDecar

Fire Inspection Reveals 414 Fire Hazards Here

Wednesday was fire prevention day in Ord. Sixteen men, inspectors for the Nebraska State Fire Prevention association, visited this city yesterday and made a thorough inspection of all business buildings.

The delegation was headed by Jos. W. James, secretary of the association, and L. P. Carpenter, a past president. Tom Wilson, deputy state fire marshal, also was in Ord yesterday.

Late in the afternoon, after the inspection was completed, Secretary James tabulated results and furnished them to the Quiz. His report shows that 155 inspections were made and 126 of them were criticized. 81.3 percent of Ord business buildings have one or more fire hazards, 414 defects being found and the average per risk criticized being 2.67.

Except for the electric wiring system, Ord compares very favorably with other cities in Nebraska, Secretary James tells the Quiz. However, much of the wiring in business buildings is antiquated and unsafe and he recommends a thorough overhauling. Out of the 414 defects found 114 of them were electric wiring.

No personal inspection of residences was made but from home inspection blanks filled in by school children Mr. James recommends that floors under stoves be protected by metal, that matches be kept away from heat and out of the reach of children that Ord people discontinue the practice of keeping kerosene or gasoline in the house for starting fires, and that every person in Ord familiarize himself with the method of turning in a fire alarm. These were the most general defects revealed in the home inspection blank.

To turn in a fire alarm ring telephone number 88, or if you can't remember the number call Central, Mr. James recommends.

Grand Island's Best Leaguers Will Play Here

Next Monday evening, January 26, the strongest team in the Grand Island city league will be the opponents of Joe Krejci's All-Stars in a game to be played in the local high school gymnasium. This team, the Bowen Drugs, recently defeated the Grand Island Athletic club by a score of 33 to 11. Since the All-Stars had hard work in disposing of the G. I. A. C. 26 to 22, it would appear that Krejci and his team-mates are in for a long, tough evening.

Manager Hurley S. King, of the Bowen aggregation, says he will bring his best line-up to Ord next Monday. Included is Schafer, star forward on last year's American Legion quint. Fans will remember Schafer as the curly, black-haired lad who was such a long shot artist. Other Bowen Drug players are Carmody, who played three years with Midland college, and Schwartz, Emil and Bob Meyers, Townsend, Chamberlain and King, all former Grand Island high school stars. Schafer, who captains the team, is a Grand Island college athlete.

The Bowen Drug team is at present tied for leadership in the city league and so far hasn't lost a game this season. Last year they were runners-up in the league and later won the amateur gold medal tourney at Benedict.

The Scotia town team will play Anderson's Midgets in a preliminary game.

Chamber President Names Committee

H. B. VanDecar, president of the Chamber of Commerce, announces the following business men as members of the chamber's important trade relations committee: Wm. Heuck, H. T. Frazier, M. P. Crosby, Gould B. Flag, A. J. Auble. This committee will have charge of planning the series of trade events that Ord merchants hope to sponsor during the coming year.

High School Cagers Beat Burwell Twice

Two Ord high school basketball teams, the first team and the reserves, cleaned up on corresponding teams from Burwell here Tuesday evening. Coach Krejci's first stringers won 33 to 13, and the reserves held the long end of an 18 to 2 score. Both Ord teams were playing flashy basketball Tuesday night and coaches believe they can keep up the winning clip against their future opponents. Tomorrow night the Ord boys play at Fairbairn and week the Broken Bow team plays in Ord.

Mrs. Walters Married

Mrs. Nella Walters, of Fullerton, and C. D. Roseborough, of Omaha, were married last Wednesday at the bride's home, Ord friends of the bride learn. They will make their home in Omaha. Mr. Roseborough is a traveling salesman and has been in Ord several times. Mrs. Walters was the city clerk here for a number of years.

Loses Right Thumb

While unloading corn at the August Peterson elevator last Saturday afternoon, Marvin, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Wilson, had his right thumb cut off. He was rushed to Dr. C. J. Miller, who dressed the wound, and it is healing nicely.

Davis Breaks Cane, Weller Gives Him A New One

What was almost a major tragedy to F. M. Davis occurred a few days ago when Mr. Davis broke his favorite cane, which has stood him in good stead ever since he had his leg amputated several years ago. Mr. Davis has had other canes, including a gold headed one given him by his children, but none that he liked as well as the one he broke. But now Mr. Davis is happy and pleased with a new cane just presented to him by Colonel E. C. Weller. It is a strong cane of the type that cattlemen use and Mr. Davis finds that it replaces the broken one very satisfactorily.

Mr. Davis is one of the few surviving Civil war veterans left in Ord. Many can remember when he moved here in early days and started farming. He and his good wife, now deceased, reared a large family of children but only one, Mrs. Lillian Crow, now lives in Ord. Mr. Davis spends most of the year when Mrs. Crow but visits frequently with his other children.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

Not content with abusing me through the columns of his scurrilous Ord Quiz, Hank Leggett is now sending my wife presents. She has never seen Hank, but I have and am positive that as a Don Juan he will never have any success outside of an institution for the blind. Joking aside, Hank, you have made a fine cook book and calendar combination. Any housewife would be pleased to have one in her drawers in the kitchen cabinet.—Fred Howard in Clay County Sun.

Citizens of Lushon, York county town on the Meridian highway, want the county board to provide four men with a couple of automobiles to patrol the highway at night. They claim there are so many holdups that people have largely quit traveling at night. I know this is true for often people who have contemplated a trip, say they have given it up or will have to take an extra day in order not to have to drive at night. It is easy to believe that many will give up a Lincoln or Omaha trip if an extra day must be taken for it. It is reported that there were 18 holdups on the DLD highway between Lincoln and Hastings during one night recently. Whether this is true or not I do not know but I know that Valley county people are scared to get very far away from home and have to drive home after night. It is going to be pretty expensive if a county has to employ four men with two cars to do night police work.

I see that a Michigan legislator wants to have every person in the state finger printed and a record of same kept. What an army of employees that would take. It is said that quite a percent of the people are on the payroll now in some capacity. I wonder if there is room for all of these.

I try to remember to ask each lady who comes in after a calendar to bring or send us a few of her favorite recipes but sometimes I forget it. This is to remind all the ladies who read the Quiz that we have one of the 1931 calendars for you if you have not already had it and to remind you that the only way we can keep the recipe department going is for you to send in some material for it.

It always amuses me when people get mad at me and won't subscribe for the Quiz, but are willing to borrow it from a neighbor and read it each week. If the borrowers could hear some of the remarks the people they borrow it from make to me, they would go without rather than to borrow. Most anyone will loan their Quiz to a neighbor and for a few times they will do it graciously but it soon gets to be an old story. They buy it because they want it for themselves and a paper the size of the Quiz is not read in an hour. Then there are things nearly every week that will be referred to again during the days of the week and longer and if it has been loaned and not returned promptly, the owner is disappointed. What people should do is to decline to loan the weekly paper. Tell the persistent borrower to spend a little of his own money for the paper instead of for shoe leather running to borrow it. In a recent survey of six people on an Ord route who do not subscribe for the Quiz, five of them borrow it regularly and the other one said he almost always got to read it.

I suspect that many of us think we have hard times now because we have had too much of almost everything. We have cultivated tastes that are too expensive. Measured by our needs of forty years ago, we are most of us wallowing in wealth now. I am inclined to believe we would be better off if we would try to cut out a few of the luxuries that we have come to look upon as necessities.

Texas turkeys brought their owners six and a half million dollars in 1930. Texas is a good turkey country. So is the sandhill country of northwestern Nebraska and land may be bought for almost a song there and turkey ranches could be made profitable at a fraction of the cost of engaging in the cattle business. There is room for a vast number of homes in Nebraska where now the income from the land is next to nothing.

I know that many Valley county folks get the Nebraska Farmer and I wonder if they enjoy the department By The Way written by Mr. McKelvie. I always like it, some-times of course more than others, but Sam is always an optimist. He gave the wheat farmers something to think about this week.

I was a little scared after writing my weather comment last week but the weather man came out of the kinks in fine shape and while it was a little colder with a few nights below zero, the sun has been putting in full time and old settlers are telling me that they never saw the equal of this winter both for steady nice weather and entire lack of storms. Some always have to add "But we will get plenty of bad weather yet" or "We will probably get it next May when we ought to be planting corn." Some folks just can't help trying to cross bridges before they come to them.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

The most unusual recipes are coming in! Recipes for dishes quite out of the ordinary run of things you are likely to feed your family. And they are being sent in to the Quiz in the most new ways! See what you can do!

Mrs. E. L. Achen sends in a recipe for Sour Cream Cake, and adds a note: "I am especially sending this for members of the young set, as my little girl has very good luck with it." Now isn't that nice? Perhaps you have a little girl or boy who is interested in stirring up mysterious things in the kitchen! Let them try this.

Sour Cream Cake.

1 egg
1 c. sour cream
1 c. sugar
7 level tsp. soda
1/2 c. hot water
1/2 square chocolate
Add enough flour to stiffen and bake in a loaf.

—Mrs. E. L. Achen.
Then again, did you ever hear of Mock Catfish? Well, you are now!

Mock Catfish.
Make a cornmeal mush, a trifle stiffer than usual. Add one can of salmon. Let cool, after placing in a roll or in a form. When cold it may be sliced, dipped in cornmeal and fried.

—Miss Ellen Stanton
Then, here is something clever from an old friend, now the sedate Mrs. Jake Barber!

"Dear Mr. Quiz

To run a coonery colymun

So I a cook

Will look in my book

And perform my duty solymun.

It has been said

And I have read,

Man live not by bread alone;

So I'll send both

And nothing loath

Consider my duty done!

—Myra Thorngate Barber.

Then follows a recipe for Ice

Box Rolls, and another for Sour

Cream Cake, which will be printed later. But be sure to clip this recipe for ice box rolls. Nothing could be handier to have in the ice

box. Or in the mouth!

Ice Box Rolls.

1 c. scalded milk

2/3 c. fat

2/3 c. sugar

2 eggs, well beaten

1 cake Fleischman's yeast

1/2 c. warm water

1 c. mashed potatoes

1 tsp. salt

Flour.

Dissolve the yeast in lukewarm water. Combine separately milk, fat, sugar, salt, potatoes without seasoning, and beaten eggs. Beat well. When lukewarm add dissolved yeast. Beat again. Mix until a stiff loaf is formed with flour. Put in an oiled pan and keep in a cool place.

When you wish to use some,

pinch off a bit of dough in size of the rolls desired, and let them rise half an hour in a warm place.

Bake in a hot oven twenty to thirty minutes. These are delicious.

—Myra Thorngate Barber.

Then from Mrs. John Stanek comes a recipe for one egg devil cake. Would you care to try it?

One Egg Devil Cake.

1 egg

1 c. sugar

1/2 c. fat

1/2 c. cocoa or chocolate

Mix the cocoa with hot water, then add sour milk to make one cup. Put in 1 1/2 c. flour, plus 1

level tsp. soda.

—Mrs. John Stanek.

We are still asking for dishes that are cheaply made, but none the less delicious because of their inexpense. Goulash, stew, what cheaper dish do you make that your family "oh" and "ah" over?

May we have the recipe, please?

—Mrs. John Stanek.

Attention! Diet will help—cut out party and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—the Kruschen way is the safe way to lose fat. Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money

When Nebraska Farmers Want Gravel They Get It.
There are two ways of getting highways graveled. One is to wait until the state department of highways and the county road crews get around to make the improvement. The other is for farmers to pitch in and help buy and spread the gravel.

A group of Cedar county farmers chose the latter method and as a result the county engineer of that county has made a remarkable building a graveled road between Coleridge and the Knox county line. The work has taken an incredibly short time because of the help given Engineer Griesel by farmers living in the territory adjacent to the road. These men not only donated their work in assisting the road building crews, but also have donated money, raising more than $1,000 to help with the graveling.

This is a sample of the interest the farmers of Nebraska take in road improvements. An all-year road is viewed no longer as a luxury but a common necessity for the people of the farms who need to go abroad at all seasons of the year on marketing trips with automobiles and trucks. The view that surfaced roads are forced upon property owners by a leisure class has just about faded in Nebraska and in its place is a recognition that good roads are a great asset to the farms as well as a great convenience to travelers.

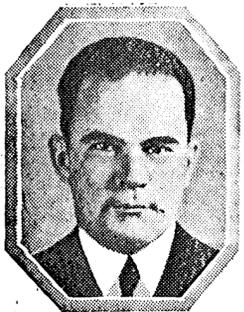

Over all Nebraska the sentiment for good roads has rapidly traveled graded and graveled roads are in high favor. When state and county funds are lacking farmers will turn out, as they did in Cedar and Merrick counties, and get the improvement without. With over 5,000 miles of the $0,000 miles in the state highways system paved or graveled, Nebraska is making progress safely and steadily.

—Irma

Must Have The Quiz.
"I don't see how I can get along without the Quiz," writes Mrs. Martha Lee Otto, of Grand Island. Twenty-three years ago in April Mrs. Otto moved to Grand Island from Valley county. The first year her folks sent the Quiz to her and since then she has subscribed every year herself. "My folks came to Mira Valley in 1885 and always kept the Quiz and I think most all the children got it now," Mrs. Otto writes.

KONJOLA MAKES RECORD HERE

New Medicine Proved Goodsent To World War Veteran—Stomach and Bowel Troubles Ended.

MR. LAWRENCE COLEMAN
"Ever since coming out of the army in 1919 I was bothered off and on with stomach trouble," said Mr. Lawrence Coleman, 1004 Seventh street, Des Moines. "Food soured and I had heartburn. My appetite was poor, I was constipated and my tongue was badly coated."

"A friend urged me to try Konjola and I have taken it for just three weeks. I am eating hearty meals and enjoying every bite. I have put on weight and sleep soundly at night. I can heartily recommend Konjola to anyone suffering from stomach trouble, dizziness, constipation, or kindred ailments."

It is the same glad story whenever this great medicine of 32 ingredients, is given a chance to make good. Try Konjola today. Konjola is sold in Ord, Nebraska at McLain & Sorensen's drug store.

and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

—Saturday Mrs. Joe O'Brian and son of Grand Island were in Ord between trains, visiting Mrs. Bryan's sister, Mrs. R. L. Lincoln and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kasal.

Something DIFFERENT

Well, one of our best known local wags is now "on the county." Rather a shock to me, but he told me about it himself, so it must be true. He was painting and varnishing some of the woodwork in the courthouse at the time. He would make a joke about it..... George would.

Mr. Hoover says in the current issue of Cosmopolitan that he is not worried about America's future as long as the standards of living in this country continue to go up. That is something.

For as far as the part of the west is concerned, few are hard up for necessities. No, it is things like radios, automobiles, and other luxuries.

One of the best puzzlers I ever heard asked by a child was this: "Where does the dark go when the light turns on?"

—00—
It seems pink-eye is having its usual winter fling about town. Miss Lucy Rowbal mentioned that is very big and ugly. I don't approve of making fun of ugly people, a speashully if they are big becuz mebbly if they ketch you they are libel to nock you cockide or sumthing.

If Ord people kept their sidewalks cleared in snow weather. They are so easily cleaned when the snow first falls, and then the longer you wait the worse they get.

And beside all that, property owners are liable for damages for injuries happening because of their slippery walks. Us Eugene Leggetts don't always do right by our sidewalks, either, so don't consider this a superiority complex on my part.

All folks are old, I suppose, and are merely riding in cycles, but anyway, if you've heard this one, don't read:

About the rooster who wandered to a neighboring barnyard just as a football sailed to the ground. He hasted home and called a hen conference, cleared his throat and began tactfully,

"Now girls, I don't want to crab. I know you do work hard. But allow me to call your attention to what others are doing!"

This is almost a capsule age. If there is something you don't like, something that is good for you, and you should have, just take it in a capsule. Every thing from cod-liver oil to capsule sermons.

I'm afraid I was born just a little bit too soon. Here they are striving for cancer cures (and they'll find them soon); they are finding new ways to lengthen the life span every day; new ways to treat deadly diseases, and new ways of preserving youth and staying young.

But it is going to be a little late for me. Maybe the next generation will get the benefit of all the wonderful new things science is doing now. But I was born too soon; they aren't going to do me any good. I suppose I shouldn't have such a selfish, personalized view-point, but you know how it is.

The introduction of the new Chevrolet Six has established a new standard of value in the low-price field. So evident is its quality, and so attractive is its price, that it is winning a remarkable buying response throughout the country. More and more buyers in the low-price field are finding it's wise to choose a Six.

In none of the features of the new Chevrolet has there been any compromise with quality. Wherever better materials or improved design could add to the satisfaction and economy of ownership, improvement has been made. Yet for all its excellent performance, its attractive appearance, and its thorough dependability, the new Chevrolet Six sells at new low prices which establish it as the Great American Value.

To Own A Home

The hope of every human heart!

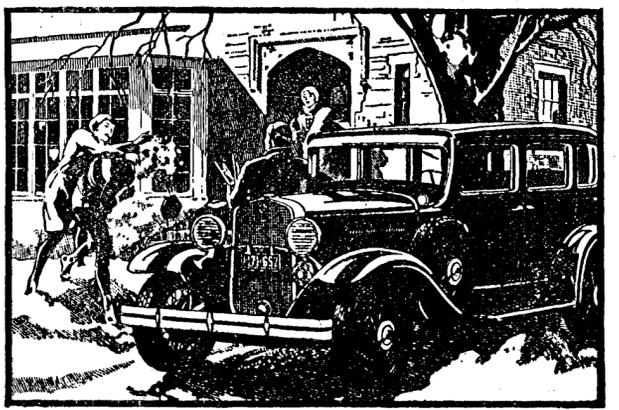

The deep urge to live with one's family in a peaceful home of one's own... secluded from the rest of the world yet near enough for social and business intercourse is an urge that you can satisfy. Don't say -- "I can't afford to own a home." It's so easy if you start saving the Protective way now. Money deposited here weekly or monthly grows by leaps and bounds. It draws high interest, yet is perfectly safe. Our association is under state supervision at all times.

When you want to buy or build we help you. You can pay off the cost of your home in the same easy installments that you would pay if paying rent.

Owning a home the Protective way is easier than living in a rented house. At the end of a few years, instead of a bundle of rent receipts to show for the money you've paid, you OWN YOUR OWN HOME.

Write or call for particulars of the Protective plan of home ownership. No obligation—we're glad to furnish details.

NORTH LOUP DEPARTMENT

MRS. FRED BARTZ, Reporter

A number of cases of smallpox are reported in our town and community. The most serious case so far being that of Louise Miller of Union Ridge neighborhood.

Mrs. Madsen who has been suffering from a severe case of Lumbago is much improved at this writing.

The Primary department of the M. E. Sunday school of which little Everett (Buster) Petty was a member sends its best wishes to Buster and hopes he will soon be entirely well.

Mrs. Esther Babcock was hostess to the No. 10 club on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 13. The greater part of the time was devoted to the annual election of Officers. For President, Mrs. Nina Johnson was chosen, vice president, Mrs. Mary Clement, secretary, Mrs. Beulah Earnest, treasurer, Mrs. Frank Johnson, Chairman of program committee, Mrs. Esther Babcock, Mrs. Della Reed in an interesting discussion of the World Court. The club was very pleasantly entertained by Mrs. Edgar Davis in two songs with guitar accompaniment. The hostess served a lovely lunch with Mesdames Myra Gowan and Erlow Babcock assisting. Mrs. Florence Smith of Grand Island and Mrs. L. O. Green were guests.

The Fortnightly club was entertained at the home of Georgia Green on Wednesday afternoon. The last four chapters of the course on "Child Study" were reviewed by the following members: Lulu Manchester, Genevieve Hoepner, Ruth Hudson and Myra Thrasher. The club in general feels this has been a most interesting and profitable study. Roll call was responded to by giving suggestions for next year's study. Four guests were present: Mrs. Myra Gowan, Mrs. Mary Davis, Mrs. Jesse Babcock and Mrs. Esther Babcock. The hostess served delicious refreshments during the social hour.

Mrs. George Parkins of Ord visited her sister Mrs. Frank Johnson the fore part of last week. Supt. Carter of the M. E. Sunday school at Scotia gave an interesting talk to the young people at the Epworth League hour Sunday evening along the lines of his experiences as a boy scout leader among the American Indians. It was an inspiration to young as well as old ones.

Harold Fisher is expected home from Hillcrest the latter part of the week. He is recovering nicely after his recent operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Coleman called at the Paul White home Sunday afternoon. Mr. White who has been confined to his bed for the past several weeks is not much improved. He now has infection of the throat, though he suffers no pain he is very weak.

Mrs. Myra Gowan spent the week end with her son George and family of Riverside.

The Ernest Lee family and Miss Mabel Lee spent Sunday at the country home of Ben Eberhart of Malden Valley.

Mrs. Annie Ellifritz of Edgar, who is state assembly warden for the Rebekah lodge, was present at the Wednesday evening session overlooking the work and giving special instructions to the officers. While here she was the house guest of Mrs. Amy Taylor. Mrs. Ellifritz left via motor Thursday for Danneberg.

Mrs. D. S. Bohrer and daughter Mary were Ord visitors Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Schmaljohn of Rockville were week end guests of Mr. Schmaljohn's grandmother, Mrs. Vanscoy.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hish of Riverside were Mr. and Mrs. Chubbuck, and Morris Rathbun, the Jim Banta family, Hermina Schomings and August Kriewalds. An occasional evening of social fellowship together is refreshing and helpful. Games and stories, including Bible stories were features of the occasion.

Mrs. Geo. Bartz called at the Bert Burtens on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Addie Gowan attended Fortnightly club at Georgia Green's Wednesday afternoon.

Misses Irene and Ruth and Raymond Baker attended church services at Horace Sunday evening. Supt. Carter of Scotia was in charge of the services motoring over to Horace after the young people's service at North Loup.

Miss Maud Shepard will be hostess to her Sunday school class of young ladies this week at her home.

Mrs. Geo. Smith returned to her home at Grand Island on the Monday motor.

Saturday night Erio Cox with a load of basketball boys met with a near serious accident at a dangerous bridge crossing about 5 miles this side of Farwell. At the foot of a draw the road makes a sharp turn across a bridge which is built crosswise and which the driver did not see until they were upon it which was too late to avoid missing the side of the bridge. Two wheels were badly damaged and had to be replaced before the boys could proceed to the game. Fortunately no one was injured. The game was staged with the first defeat of the season for the boys. It was at this place a man was killed last summer and also the site of Mrs. Ferguson's accident a short time ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Haught of Sumter were Tuesday visitors at the Otto Bartz home. Union revival services closed Sunday evening with a forceful sermon by Miss Bessie Brown. ### Frank Taylor Heads University Regents

Mr. Frank J. Taylor.

OMAHA, Neb.—Mr. Frank J. Taylor of St. Paul, Neb., was elected president of the board of regents of the University of Nebraska at a meeting held here Saturday afternoon. President Taylor was elected to the executive office for a one year term. He succeeds Mr. John R. Webster, retiring member of the board.

President Taylor first became a member of the board of regents in 1924, when he was appointed by Governor C. W. Bryan to fill out the term of W. L. Bates of Kimball who had resigned. In 1926 he was elected to represent the sixth district for a six-year term. He also served as president of the board in 1926.

Dr. A. C. Stokes of Omaha, elected to represent the second district for the next six years, took office at the recent meeting while Regent Earl Cline of Lincoln started his second six-year term. Other members of the board are Stanley D. Long of Cowles, who was elected vice president for the coming year; Fred A. Marsh of Archer; and M. A. Shaw of David City.

University regents draw no salaries for their services, being paid only for actual expenses incurred in handling University business. While only two meetings a year are required by law, the pressure of work makes it necessary for them to meet about once a month.

Lone Star News

John Urbanosky and family attended a dance in Ord Tuesday evening and when ready to go home found that the gas in their car was frozen. They had to remain with relatives in Ord that night and take their car to a garage the next morning and have the pipes thawed out.

Miss Belva Cass, teacher of Lone Star, was a week end guest in the John Zurek home.

Oiga Urbanosky stayed Thursday night with Lela and Violet May Guggenmos.

In spite of the snow storm Saturday night a good crowd gathered for the District Legion convention attended a dance. Everyone had a fine time until the few hours of dawn. Vick John's orchestra furnished the music.

John Zurek and son Bill shelled corn for Kruml's Wednesday and for Paul DeLashmutt and Dave Guggenmos Thursday.

Art Meyer delivered a feeder and hog waterer to the Dave Guggenmos farm Saturday morning.

Leon and Duane Woods called on Paul DeLashmutt Friday evening.

Several in this community are attending the agriculture meetings at Haskell Creek.

J. V. DeLashmutt spent Friday night in Burwell.

Miss Dorothy Philbrick was a week end guest in the Dave Guggenmos home.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Philbrick and son Alton called at the Guggenmos home and Dorothy returned home with them.

Paul DeLashmutt had a new separator delivered to his home Saturday.

The John Zurek family visited at the Joe Bartos home Sunday.

Lloyd Werber returned home Sunday from Calloway where he had been husking corn the past two weeks.

Jim Guggenmos returned to his home Sunday after spending a week at the Werber home.

Low Prices Don't Mean "Cheap" Meats

Our meat prices are always low but that doesn't mean that we are selling "cheap" meats. We buy and butcher only the best but because we do the work ourself and overhead costs are low we are able to sell the best at low prices. You can always save by making this your market.

Different eye jobs call for different glasses

NEEDLEWORK is often mixed with conversation, for one can sew and talk at the same time without concentrating on either. Needlework often calls for special bi-focals—glasses that focus clearly on your stitches and equally clearly on the faces of your friends.

BOOKKEEPING, for instance. "Reading" glasses, not of the bi-focal type but large, full-vision, near-focus lenses, may help you in your work to relieve the strain of long, close application.

GOLF calls for glasses that will focus at 6 feet for driving and at 100 yards to follow the ball. The ordinary glasses focused at 20 feet may place an unnecessary strain on your eyes.

Let us make an Occupational Analysis of your eyes. We want to prescribe glasses that are right for you, not in our fitting room, but in your daily tasks.

Palm Beach Sets Styles for Spring

COTTONS AND LINENS IN NEW OPEN MESHES ARE WELL ADAPTED TO TAILORED EFFECTS—SLEEVELESS JUMPER SUITS IN VOGUE

BY HARRIET

THE Palm Beach breezes bring rumors of the tremendous vogue for cottons and linens in the new southern fashions. As go Palm Beach styles in January, so go all styles for spring. So, if you are clever with your needle, you can get a head start on the rest of your friends and begin now to collect the spring wardrobe.

The new cottons and linens have learned a lot from silks and wools in the way of varying their weaves. There are all kinds of fascinating new open mesh materials, striped, ribbed, dotted and those made with nubby dots and dashes. Some new cottons have the feel of woven wools and are admirably suited to tailored effects.

With the new era of economy dawning, spring promises many a smart suit, home or party frock made of cotton that would have been expensive silks in former years.

There are some smart sleeveless jumper suits in the new styles. One of these is a tricky, young looking little outfit of heavy cotton tweed. It is made with a white eponge blouse that laces up the front with a blue silk cord.

The skirt has pleats all around one side, beginning in the front and extending over the hip to the outer edge of a panel back. These pleats are stitched to hip length and a belt of the material is stitched onto the top of the skirt.

The little sleeveless jacket has smart wide revers, buttons with pointed flaps and a separate belt of the material that slips through a buckle. A blue satin turban and blue snakeskin shoes complete the outfit.

SMALL also is the perfectly chic plaid gingham dress with a neck scarf with pleated ends that tie to make a fan-shaped jabot.

The colors are brown, tan, white and a narrow stripe of red. The goods is used horizontally for the hip-yoke, which gives an interesting novelty to the dress. Short little sleeves are set into the beautifully fitted blouse. Below the yoke the skirt is pleated across the front and across the back.

When the scarf is removed, there is a simple V neck, finished with a piping of the red and white lines. Worn with a white beret, white washable cotton gloves and white oxfords, this frock is as chic as can be.

Cotton tweed promises to be tremendously smart for all kinds of sports things this spring. It comes in loose, open mesh weaves, looks and feels as substantial as homespun and is cool, in addition.

Woman's Club Meets. The Ord Woman's club met this week at the home of Mrs. Charles Goodhand. Mrs. J. W. Severus had charge of the program on "Instruments of the Symphony Orchestra."

Wickersham Body Favors Modifying Prohibition Law

The Wickersham commission's report on prohibition was presented to congress this week and declared against repealing the law but put forward a plan for modifying it. Six of the eleven commissioners asked for repeal or modification. In a message to congress President Hoover said he concurred in the commission's finding that the prohibition amendment should stay and did not recommend any present effort to amend it.

Church advertisement. Text: THE CHURCH HAS SOMETHING FOR YOU YOU HAVE SOMETHING FOR THE CHURCH. YOU and the church are interdependent. Without the church, your community would degenerate into a materialistic group of selfish individuals. It is the church that provides a background of ideals, and unity of purpose. The church is at the source of countless benefits that you take for granted and enjoy daily. Without your support, in turn, the church would cease to exist. Your duty to the church, therefore, and to your fellows, yourself and your God, is to give your support by regular attendance. Attend Church Somewhere Next Sunday!

FIRE INSPECTION HERE REVEALS 414 FIRE HAZARDS IN BUSINESS HOUSES

every call which Mr. Bridges characterized as very commendable. P. Carpenter, a past president of the Nebraska Fire Prevention association, was next called upon but the hour was so late that he curtailed his talk, speaking only briefly about the work of his association.

Inspectors here yesterday were Gordon Beals, Larry H. Bridges, W. A. Bucklin, C. H. Brinkmann, Earl L. Crellin, Robert H. Crellin, L. P. Carpenter, Chas. Aldwell, R. F. Calwell, W. C. Dunker, F. A. Dyck and Jos. W. James. Sixteen different fire insurance companies were represented by these men.

Previous to the inspection home inspection blanks had been distributed among Ord school children. Those distributed were filled out and turned in. They were graded Tuesday by Messrs. James, Carpenter and Bridges and in his talk Mr. Bridges stated that the blank filled out by Dorothy Auble was the neatest and most accurate. Other students given honorable mention by Mr. Bridges were Bertha Danner and Alice Mazza. Just as diners were leaving the banquet hall yesterday quite a lot of excitement was caused when the fire alarm sounded. It developed, however, that the blaze was a pile of banana crates and other rubbish set afire by members of the fire department, who made a quick run to the fire and extinguished it in record time for the edification of visiting fire inspectors.

The entire morning and afternoon yesterday were spent by inspectors in going through business houses and public buildings in Ord. Recommendations for doing away with fire hazards were made and checklists outlining the reasons for the hazards distributed. They were left in all places. It is hoped that these recommendations will be carried out at once.

KREJCI GOES ON RAMPAGE AS ORD BEATS ROAMERS

Ord's starting line-up included Carkoski and Lashmet, Krejci, Beeghly and Jensen. With the exception of Syl Carkoski all of them contributed to Ord's point total. Lashmet dropped a close-in shot, Jensen swished one through the netting from the center of the floor and Adams, who substituted for Lashmet, contributed a nifty from the side lines. Ord led, 16 to 15, when the half ended.

Krejci made only six points in the first half, appearing to be taking it easy, but in the last two periods he was on a constant scoring spree. He dribbled in, under and around the Roamers, scoring almost at will, and when the game ended he had piled up a total of 26 points, the most he has scored since wearing an Ord suit. His performance fanned town team basketball enthusiasm to white heat and though the gym was only comfortably crowded Monday the management is planning extra seating capacity for future games. For the Roamers LeRette and McMaster were the scoring aces with 9 and 8 points respectively but Niemann, a guard, turned in a beautiful performance. The passing game flashed by the visitors was the best ever seen on the Ord floor and only the fine defensive game played by the entire All-Star team kept the score down.

R. D. Proctor, manager of the Roamers, was loud in his praises of the local aggregation. His team was off stride Monday night, Mr. Proctor said, and he is seeking a return game. "We'll have to devise a special defense to hold Krejci down," Proctor averred, adding that he was sure his Roamers could "take" the All-Stars if given another chance. The game may be arranged some time in February.

Next Monday evening the Bowen Drugs, of Grand Island, will furnish opposition to the All-Stars and a huge crowd is expected as the Bowens are undefeated in Grand Island city league competition. The All-Stars also have a perfect record and will fight mightily to keep it unblemished. A preliminary game was played Monday evening between Jesse Kovanda's Future Farmers of America and Coach Bailey's North Loup Hi Reserves. The North Loup team won a 12 to 5 after a fast game. Another good preliminary is being arranged for next Monday.

The main event Monday was about the cleanest ever seen in Ord, only three personal fouls being called. Peterson, Burwell, and Bailey, North Loup, gave excellent satisfaction as referees. Next Monday Peterson and Coach Zorn of Burwell will referee.

The way they scored

Ord All-Stars. fg ft pt pts. Carkoski, f, 0 0 0 0; Lashmet, f, 1 0 2 2; Adams, f, 1 0 2 2; Krejci, c, 13 0 26 26; Beeghly, g, 2 0 4 4; Jensen, g, 1 0 0 0.

BANNER 4-H CLUB YEAR, DALE SAYS

National Crops Title High Spot. More Club Boys and Girls Enrolled.

From every indication 1930 has been a banner year for 4-H club work in Valley county, topped off with the winning of the national crops judging championship by the Ord corn club. Final summary shows that the percentage of completion is better than a year ago and more club members were enrolled. All in all it has been a successful year, according to County Agent Carl C. Dale of Ord.

With a record enrollment of 215 boys and girls from all parts of the county, an all-time record enrollment was set up during the past year. In 1929, Agent Dale reported 157 club members. A stimulated club program during the summer months helped to raise the membership in Valley county this year.

Along with the increased membership locally, the increased number of completions made, according to final figures released at the agricultural college today. They show that 67.63 percent of the members enrolled in the projects completed their work and received certificates of achievement. In 1929, Valley county reported a percentage of completion of but 43.95, according to official figures at the college. Comparing this with the completion during the past year shows the degree of success which the club program has reached during 1930.

In past years, Valley county has not been an exceptionally strong 4-H club county among the leading county champion producers in the state but this year County Agent Dale has put the local county on the map in club work. His increased enrollment and completion along with the Ord corn club winning the national crops championship at Chicago brought further honor to the county. It is highly probable that the membership will be increased this year along with the increased percentage of completions.

Club work over the entire state has been successful, according to State Leader L. I. Frisbie. There has been an increase of some two thousand club members and likewise the percentage of completion has increased to nearly eighty. This makes Nebraska one of the outstanding club states in the union.

Dick Flynn and Frank Flynn's son Merrill left Monday with four truck loads of goods for a farm near Blair. This will be the home of the Flynn family in the future. Mrs. Flynn and smaller children were visiting in Wolbach, but they accompanied Dick Monday.

Hog Lot Sanitation Chart Being Printed

A chart of recommended practices in hog lot sanitation somewhat in the form of a calendar for hanging up in the shed or barn, will be issued to Valley county operators with the agricultural extension agent in animal husbandry at the college of agriculture. He announced this morning that the chart is being printed and soon will be ready for distribution to Valley county farmers.

The chart emphasizes the fact that the breed of hogs doesn't matter. Instead it urges Ord farmers to remember that the methods used are those that count in pork production. In accord with the former recommendations, those at the college are urging farmers over the state to select clean pastures for sows and pigs. The farther away from the old hog lots the better, they maintain. In the selection of a field, the chart urges farmers not to select a field that receives drainage from the old hog or barn lots. Windblown dust from old hog lots is a danger.

In getting ready for farrowing time, Valley county farmers are told that it is best to clean the pens. All the manure, mud, and litter should be scraped off the walls and floors of the pens. Then all parts of the pens should be scalded with boiling hot water to which has been added one can of lye to each 30 gallons of water. The chart recommends the scrubbing clean with a heavy push broom or wire brush to get the best results.

Along with the cleaning of the farrowing pens, the calendar in the barn should serve as a constant reminder that the sows should be kept clean before farrowing, according to McDill. After washing the sow's body, it is best that the farrowing pen be bedded down with clean straw three or four days before farrowing.

Many times the pigs are farrowed in large permanent houses in which case the college of agriculture man advises hauling them to the clean pasture lot. Driving them gives an opportunity for sows to get dirty and for pigs to root and eat dirt that may be full of disease germs and parasitic eggs, farmers are reminded.

Another point that the new chart stresses is keeping the pigs on clean ground pasture until they are at least four months of age. The best plan, however, is never to take them back to the old hog lots, finishing them on clean pasture.

As a final recommended practice, the chart declares that farmers should vaccinate against cholera. Sanitation will not prevent cholera, it maintains.

Vincent Kokes made a business trip to Lincoln Sunday to attend a meeting of county fair officers.

Dairy Feed Costs Low For Past Year In Valley County

Test Association Ranks Low In Fat Average. Receive Profit.

Though the Valley County Dairy Herd Improvement Association ranked but twenty-first in the state in average butterfat production in 1930, the organization and the state leader had a record average production of 355.1 pounds. The annual report from the state dairy office shows that it cost members of the Valley county association but $47.13 on an average to feed each cow for the year. This represented the second lowest feed costs in Nebraska for 1930. Most associations reported costs of about $75 per cow for the year.

There were twenty-six herds on test in the Valley county organization last year, according to the annual report. The average butterfat production of these cows averaged 7216 pounds of milk each over the twelve months. Though the feed costs for each cow in the Valley county association were low for the year, the records show that the value of the products was low in comparison to other associations. On an average each cow in the local association produced products valued at $124.14. It was here that the Valley county organization fell down, showing that the improvement in the quality of dairy cows kept here.

Valley county farmers in the dairy herd improvement association, however, did not lose money on their 1930 project, according to the final figures. The final record shows that each cow turned on an average of $77.01 over feed costs. The low feed costs naturally helped Valley county farmers to produce butterfat cheap, it costing but sixteen cents a pound. This represented the lowest cost figure in the state. It cost sixty-five cents on an average to produce a hundred pounds of milk here for 1930.

Valley County Dairy Herd Improvement Association had a butterfat production average of but 22.0 pounds per cow for December and as a result ranked nineteenth in the state, according to information reaching the Quiz this morning from the agricultural college. Local creameries indicate a continued tendency for production to equal or exceed last year's levels.

The economic situation report says that unless severe weather cuts production sharply, steady egg prices seem most likely the next thirty days. Declines since November have discounted the less satisfactory supply situation and should not be carried much farther until the time of flush production arrives.

Declines since November have discounted the less satisfactory supply situation and should not be carried much farther until the time of flush production arrives.

With a production of 32.2 pounds butterfat per cow, Earl Hansen's Holsteins ranked eleventh in the state in the class of sixteen or more cows milked twice daily. The Ord man had sixteen cows on test.

Den W. Mason of Arcadia had the high producing cow in the Valley County Dairy Herd Improvement Association for December, the word to the Quiz reads. Mason's Holstein cow made a record of 63.3 pounds butterfat. She produced 1472 pounds of milk that tested 4.3 percent butterfat.

HOG PRICES TO REMAIN STEADY

Hedges Believes Corn Prices Will Be Lower. Butter Continues Low.

Hog prices will probably remain close to present levels in the next thirty days with more firmness developing toward the end of the period, Harold Hedges of the rural economics department at the University of Nebraska indicates to Valley county farmers in his monthly economic situation report reaching the Quiz today.

Hedges says wheat prices are likely to remain close to present levels, corn prices steady to weak, lower prices for medium to good grades of fed cattle, little change in butter prices, about steady egg prices, and higher poultry prices.

Action of the grain stabilization corporation sponsored by the Federal Farm Board will largely determine the course of wheat prices in the next thirty-day period, according to the college of agriculture man. He says continued support from that agency should make wheat prices remain fully steady. Prices are being sustained at levels well above what would be expected by world price factors.

Indicating that corn prices may remain steady to weak in the period, Hedges says that the past ten years, the February top price for No. 3 mixed corn in Omaha has been lower than the January top price for the same grade in any other year. The support given wheat prices should reflect to corn prices as well, the economic situation reads.

Citing market conditions of past years, the situation says that hog prices should remain close to present levels during most of the next period with more firmness in evidence that receipts will continue liberal during the week ahead and may work against the usual price advance.

The number of cattle on feed this year is the smallest in ten years, Prof. Hedges remarks. Nebraska is the only state showing an increase. With this is the steady feeding practices adopted by Valley county farmers. Although the feeding situation appears to be about ten percent larger, other things are likely to work against improvement in the next thirty days. Liberal receipts of medium and good grades of fed cattle in the next few weeks along with the usual tendency for receipts to increase will influence the price.

If production continues as large as at present, little change is expected in butter prices. Hedges shows that December butter receipts at the four principal markets were about ten percent larger than in December of 1929. Reports from creameries indicate a continued tendency for production to equal or exceed last year's levels.

Dale Urges Valley County Farmers To Enter Corn Contest

Valley county farmers should now be thinking about entering the ten-acre corn yield contest for 1931, declared County Agent Dale of Ord this morning in talking over plans for the new contest. "In past years we have had few entries and practically no winners. Other sections of the country have produced winners and there is no reason to believe that we cannot do likewise."

Commenting further upon the contest, Dale says that Valley county has the soil to produce as efficiently and as high yields as those in other parts of the central Nebraska district. Heretofore, farmers here have taken little interest in the contest.

Twelve Nebraska farmers now belong to the 100-bushel corn club as a result of producing at least that much corn on an acre on their plot in the contest. Without doubt, Valley county farmers may do likewise is the belief of Agent Dale.

One interesting thing about contests the past few years is that many of the winners have produced their high yields on comparatively new ground. Those at the agricultural college point out examples of where the high producing lands have come from plots where alfalfa grew a few years before.

Former Valley county competitors in the ten-acre contest include H. J. Walkemeyer of Arcadia. Though never a winner, he competed for several years and probably gained some valuable experience, Dale points out. In the past the Arcadia man has also been an outstanding 4-H club leader in his community.

NOTICE OF MEETING. The annual meeting of stockholders of the Ord Co-operative Oil Co. will be held in the Bohemian hall, Wednesday, January 23rd, 1931 at 2 o'clock P. M. All members are requested to be present.

ROUND WILL TELL FARM BOYS HOW TO WRITE NEWS

Ord College Student Will Teach Farm Operator's News Values.

The one hundred Nebraska farm boys attending the farm operator's short course at the agricultural college, Lincoln, are soon to receive a week's instruction in newspaper appreciation, according to H. K. Douthett, course director. He announced this morning that an Ord boy, George Round, Jr., will have charge of the instruction.

Round will meet with the farm operators in five class sessions in explaining the simple fundamentals of news writing and news appreciation. The course is designed to help the farm boys in writing country correspondence for the weekly newspaper.

During the first few meetings of the class, Round proposes to show the boys how to construct a lead in an interesting and informative fashion. Then he plans to have the boys write their own leads and he will then correct them and criticize them in a constructive fashion.

A visit to one of the leading Lincoln papers will finish up the week's instruction. Two Valley county boys will be in the Ord boy's classes. They are John Campbell of Ord and Donald Rich of North Loup.

Farmers To Attend Corn And Hog Days

Meeting At Broken Bow Expected To Attract Valley County Farmers.

Although there is no corn-hog day planned for Valley county this year, farmers near Ord, North Loup, Arcadia, and Elyria, have the opportunity of attending a similar meeting at Broken Bow in February, according to an announcement sent the Quiz this morning from the agricultural college. Farmers here attended corn-hog days last year but it was impossible to arrange for them at this time, Agent Dale said this morning.

Those attending the meetings will hear about the value of creep feeding baby beef calves. Animal husbandry men from the college will take fifteen minutes of the time to tell local farmers of the advantages of creep feeding.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

Last spring an incubator got overheated in the basement of an Ord residence and caused the dwelling to be destroyed by fire. While the house was partly insured, the country was made poorer by the full amount of the loss. In addition, the owner suffered the inconvenience of being without a building until it was replaced.

Efforts to combat this blaze met with the usual failure experienced when a farm building is on fire. Only rarely are attempts to control big fires, which have gained headway, successful. It is much easier to prevent them and there is room for improvement in making the farm safer by eliminating the common fire hazards.

Each year fires destroy two million dollars worth of farm property. The chief single known cause of these fires is defective chimneys, flues and cupolas. Many a building has been saved by having a ladder handy for reaching the top of the roof. Some chimneys need to be built higher to lessen dangers from sparks.

The second biggest cause of fires is lightning. Livestock losses can be lowered by having fences grounded with steel posts. Good lightning rods offer about ninety-eight percent protection and even poor rods help to reduce losses in property and lives. Forty-four people were once killed in a single bolt of lightning.

Matches and smoking come next and it is a wonder that they do not head the list. If children with matches are dangerous to property then careless smokers are properly the unconscious toss of a burning cigarette butt is not essential to graceful smoking.

Spontaneous combustion, the next ranking factor, can be minimized by adding a few pounds of salt per ton of damp hay. This will improve the hay's feeding value, but will lessen the danger of losing it and the barn as well.

There are numerous lesser causes of farm fires, such as poorly set stoves, open fire places, defective wiring, thoughtlessly dumped ashes, carelessly lit grass fires, and mismanagement of oils. Too many folks wait until dark to fill their kerosene lamps. The reports of accidents with kerosene are often gruesome.

If fire prevention falls the next best thing to do is to keep the fire from spreading. Fire extinguishers, ladders, water pressure, blankets, and fire proof roofs play important roles here. The house and barn should be at least 150 feet apart. It is desirable to have main placed parallel to prevailing winds, which are supposed to blow north and south in this portion of Nebraska.

Farm Animals Show Decrease In Numbers

With the single exception of milk cows, all farm animals show a large decrease during the past ten years in figures collected by the United States census. Last spring and released for the first time this week. Horses decreased from 10,494 to 8,198, cattle from 33,875 to 31,678, hogs from 44,203 to 29,450 and chickens from 142,588 in 1925 to 123,281 in 1930. Milk cows increased from 5,530 in 1920 to 7,423 in 1930. Mules increased from 643 in 1920 to 824 in 1925 but during the past five years decreased to 657. Animals born after January 1, 1930 were not included in the census.

She's a Real High Flyer

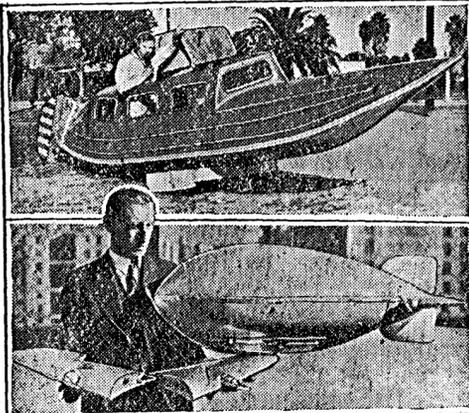

When Mrs. Juanita Burns brought her open cockpit monoplane to rest in Los Angeles after a three-hour altitude flight, she reported her altimeter stopped at 26,000 feet, or some 4000 feet more than the official woman's record. This picture shows Joe Nikrent, National Aeronautical Association official, removing the barograph to be sent to the U. S. Bureau of Standards for calibration.

Bus Drivers Take Exams Now

To be a bus driver you must go to school and pass examinations, for there are lots of things to know these days beside driving a car. Students of a Cleveland, O., bus driving school are shown taking some mental notes at a typical lecture class.

Speaking of Aircraft Styles

She May Settle Human Problem

Scientists who have for a long time argued as to whether heredity or environment is predominating as a human factor, look to this eight-year-old Chinese girl for their answer. She was left on the steps of the American mission at Foochow, China, when an infant and adopted by Dr. and Mrs. Wesley Bissonette of the mission. She is shown arriving in Los Angeles with her foster parents, and will be brought up as an American.

AM I RIGHT?

By GEORGE ROUND, JR.

(Crowded out last week) Mrs. Mae McGinnis of Ord is deserving of the honor she received at the agricultural college last week for her efforts during the past year in women's extension club work in Valley county. She has served as county chairman and helped get club work over the bumps here many times. Agent Dale values her assistance.

More than the mere honor of having been honored at the college during Organized Agriculture, was probably the self-satisfaction that Mrs. McGinnis received from her work during the year. Surely it took some time to help develop such a wide extension club, program. It took much of Mrs. McGinnis' efforts. She knew there was no financial reward coming for her work but, nevertheless, never shirked on the task. It is that self-satisfaction of doing something for somebody else that drives some people ahead in this world. Such a different type they are from those who appear to be willing to help but only so long as there is remuneration coming back to them for their efforts.

Though perhaps this fast developing age has lost some of the glory of doing something for another and developed an individualistic individual, the experience of Mrs. McGinnis of Ord proves that not all people have turned away from helping others. Perhaps we may not be rewarded financially for the little things we do for others here but there is a lot of self-satisfaction that one is doing his or her bit to help the community along when achievements are made as were produced by Mrs. McGinnis this year.

Cooperation seemed to be the keyword to the Organized Agriculture meetings held at the agricultural college, Lincoln, last week. A spirit of pulling together by the hundreds of farmers gathered for the sessions predominated at all meetings. This it seems to me represents the true faith of the average Nebraska farmer today in a period of economic depression. It should appeal to Valley county farmers. In many of the sessions which I attended, the farmers were quite aware of the financial condition of farming at the present time. None however, seemed to be entirely discouraged but ready for a bitter fight to maintain the farming industry as a profitable one. The farmer of yesterday who was rather an individualistic person apparently is doomed to pass from the picture if the attitude of those farmers attending the Lincoln meetings is any evidence of what future years may contain for the farmer. On all hands they seemed to think that it is high time farmers organized as have other industries and fought their battles together rather than to compete directly against each other.

Though he talked in a firm, straight-forward manner, Alexander Legge's address at Organized Agriculture was a disappointment to me and a keen one. Not particularly was I disappointed in the man himself but in his subject matter. To me, he said very little in his address but he did offer some informative remarks in the closing discussions.

With his hands sadly entrenched in the corners of his coat pockets, Mr. Legge spoke in a firm fashion of the farm board workings. He never became excited and failed to shout, "Hallelujah the Lord." He spoke in a reserved and dignified tone, in my estimation. The federal farm board chairman didn't deliver a forceful address but only uttered such words as "confound it" once in a while. Once he was heard to whisper what was meant to be a so-called cuss word. Yet he had his apparently big hands in his coat pockets and delivered his favorite word, "confound it." In spite of these things, Mr. Legge brought something tangible to Valley county farmers in the closing minutes of his time. Sensing that his talk was not being received so well, he immediately switched to a discussion period, asking for questions. They were many but always Mr. Legge with his hands in his pockets delivered an answer that seemed to please the huge crowd. He stood his ground, he didn't back up, and made it clear how he and the farm board stand on various things. When asking for questions, many of the retired old farmers who had drifted into the meetings attacked Legge in an uncourteous manner as to be expected. Always, Mr. Legge answered their questions so as to leave no doubt as to who was the master of the situation. They never once crossed the former implement man up.

ALL-STARS LOSE CLOSE GAME IN EXTRA PERIOD

Blessing Lives Up To Name When He Ties Score As Whistle Shrills But Bowen Drugs Win.

Put into the game with only three minutes to play and the All-Stars trailing by five points Monday night, Earl Blessing lived up to his name and proved a blessing indeed when he sunk the tying field goal just as the game ended, forcing a five minute extra period. But his efforts went for naught when, after a scoreless battle, Bob Meyers sunk the winning goal with only twenty seconds to play and the Bowen Drugs of Grand Island beat the Ord All-Stars 24 to 24. It was one of the most exciting games ever witnessed in Ord and was the first defeat of the season for Joe Krejci's town team.

It was a nip and tuck game all the way through Monday night and the gymnasium was a bedlam of sound as first one team and then the other forged ahead. At the half the score was tied at 12 points apiece, when the third quarter ended each team had sixteen points and then the Bowen Drugs, who are leaders in the Grand Island city league, hit a goal shooting streak and forged steadily to the front.

With only three minutes left to play they led 24 to 19 and Ord seemed hopelessly defeated. Captain Krejci called time out and Syl Carkoski to the show. He substituted the Blessing, diminutive short shot ace.

Then things began to happen. "Peanuts" Jensen, who had been unable to score, dropped a long shot through the netting and the count moved up to 24-21. The ball then moved back and forth, both teams missing set-up shots, and only thirty seconds remained when Schwartz fouled Krejci. It was Schwartz' fourth personal foul and he left the game.

Measuring the distance with care Krejci made the free throw good and the score stood 24-22. But only twenty seconds were left as the ball went back to center. One fast play and the count was tied. Krejci tipped the ball to Adams, who made a lightning fast pass to Blessing under the basket and Blessing came through with the tying field goal. The final whistle blew almost before the ball hit the floor but the score was tied and a five minute extra period had to be played.

It would be nice to record that during that time the Ord All-Stars hit the goal with regularity and won hands down but such was not the case. Both teams played a close guarding game, declining to take chances. Adams missed a short shot and Krejci missed a long one before Bob Meyers, a long shot artist of the Bowen team, got the ball midway of the floor and along the north side line. He straightened up, the ball made a graceful parabola and dropped squarely through the basket, putting the Bowen into the lead by a 24 score. The game ended a few seconds later.

Though handicapped by an injured ankle and a sore thumb, Captain Krejci was still high point man of the game with 13 points. He was distinctly off form though and missed a number of hard luck shots that ordinarily would have

Annual Conference Of Young People Here This Week

The annual conference of Methodist young people of the Loup valley will be held in Ord Friday evening and all day Saturday, January 30 and 31. The Friday evening program will consist of a song service, a pageant by the Ord League and a talk by Rev. H. E. Hess. Saturday morning Rev. Hess, Prof. F. M. Gregg and Rev. W. C. Pawell will speak before the recess period and following the recess Rev. A. V. Hunter, Prof. Gregg and Mrs. M. E. Gilbert will give addresses. A pastor's luncheon will be served at the Thorne cafe at noon and in the afternoon the various speakers will take part in a discussion and Prof. Gregg will give a special talk for girls. The conference banquet will be given Saturday evening.

Play at National Hall.
The young people of Germanum Catholic church will present a rural comedy drama in three acts, "In Red Acre Farm" Sunday, February 8 at the National Hall. Steven Polak, as Colonel, the champion Har, and Lillian Vodehnal as the beautiful heroine, are featured players. A dance will follow.

Three Wise Men of Science

Here are perhaps three of the greatest living scientists, shown as they met at the California Institute of Technology recently to work on new theories of the universe. The men, and the works for which they are famous, are, left to right: Dr. Albert A. Michelson, for measuring the speed of light; Dr. Albert Einstein, for his theory of relativity and Dr. Robert A. Millikan, for discovering the cosmic ray and isolating the electron.

JUDGE HORTH IS HONOR GUEST OF ORD ROTARIANS

New District Jurist Recalls First Visit to Ord 46 Years Ago; Wiegardt, Bass Guests.

Judge Ralph R. Horth, of Grand Island, recently appointed by the governor to fill the place of Bayard H. Palne as judge in this judicial district, was a guest of Ord Rotarians at their weekly luncheon Monday. He made a pleasant impression with his brief talk. Other guests were Judge Horth's court reporter, Arthur H. Bass and Alfred Wiegardt, clerk of the district court.

In his address Judge Horth recalled that his first visit to Ord was made forty-six years ago and he complimented residents of this city for the splendid progress Ord has made in the intervening years. He thanked members of their local bar for their action in endorsing him for the position he now holds and pledged himself to serve the district faithfully during his tenure as judge.

Judge Horth was introduced by H. B. VanDecar, who has known him for many years. In his introductory remarks Mr. VanDecar complimented Judge Horth and Judge E. P. Clements highly, stating that in his opinion this district has the most able and efficient judges of any district in Nebraska. Mr. Bass, who was Attorney VanDecar's guest, and Mr. Wiegardt, who came as the guest of Ed Veltz, both spoke briefly.

Marion Crosby was present for the first time in two months. Rotarians welcomed him heartily and expressed their gladness at his recovery.

Harvard Indians Here February 2

Three Indians, all former university stars, form the backbone of the speedy Harvard Indians who appear here next Monday, February 2, as opponents of Joe Krejci and his rd All-Stars. It is the first appearance of this fast team in Ord.

Hamburger, center, formerly a star at Cornell Uni., A. Wolfe and Steve Stabler, forwards, both of Haskell Uni., are the three Indians playing with the Harvard team. Hamburger is an elongated young gentleman who may be the only center of the season to take the tip-off away from Krejci. Wolfe and Stabler both possess an uncanny goal shooting ability.

Other Harvard players include Higgins, a guard, formerly of Nebraska Uni. and Creighton, Kohler, of Doane college, and Eberhardt and Gerlach, both former Harvard high school stars. This aggregation has been functioning together for several seasons and will be hard to beat.

Another good preliminary is being arranged to precede this game, the main event starting at 8:15 Monday evening.

Two Clean-up Sales.
Two clean-up sales are being advertised in this week's Quiz, the John Beran, Jr. sale on February 5 and Joe Cienny's sale on February 11. Mr. Beran is planning to move to either Texas or Oklahoma where he will locate in a university town where his son, Lumir, can continue his medical studies. Mr. Cienny also is quitting farming. Both of these sales are good ones and farmers should read the ads on page eleven with interest.

HEART DISEASE BRINGS SUDDEN DEATH TO GARNER

Former Resident of Ord Vicinity Dies At Home In Arcadia Saturday; Buried Here.

Arcadia, Jan. 28.—(Special)—James Francis Garner was born near Pittsfield, Ill., June 7, 1857 and died very suddenly at his home in Arcadia, January 24, 1931, aged 73 years, 7 months, and 17 days. The cause of death was heart disease. When about 16 years of age Mr. Garner accepted Christ as his savior and joined with the Christian church. He came to Nebraska in 1904 and there being no church of his faith near him, he united with the United Brethren church.

Lewis, McMIndes Committee Heads Firemen's Ball

Charles Lewis and Lores McMIndes are the heads of committees in charge of arrangements for the annual firemen's ball, which is to be held this year on Friday, February 6. Mr. Lewis heads the dance committee while Mr. McMIndes is chairman of the entertainment committee. Other members of the dance committee are McMIndes and Julius Jensen while C. B. Gudmundsen and Lewis Merrill are on the entertainment committee. These men promise that the 43rd annual ball will be as successful and enjoyable as any of the previous ones.

Suicide Victim Is Buried At Fremont

Short funeral services at Sow's Chapel Friday for Peter Peterson, who took own life Thursday.

Short funeral services were held at the Sow chapel last Friday afternoon for Peter Peterson, 45, who took his own life early Thursday morning at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Knud Peterson, in Springfield. He retired to bed about midnight and at 8:30 a. m. Thursday his body was found in bed. He had shot himself in the side with a 12-gauge shotgun, which was found beside him. Sheriff George Round and the coroner, George A. Munn, were called and it was pronounced a clear case of suicide.

Rev. W. H. Wright had charge of the services here and Saturday the body of Mr. Peterson was taken to Fremont for burial beside his sisters in the family lot at that place. Deceased was born at Fremont July 2, 1885 and when ten years old came with his parents to Valley county, living here until he was 28 years old when he went to Chambers, S. D. A few months ago he suffered a mental breakdown and since then has been at the home of his parents. He was the oldest son and besides his parents he is survived by five brothers, Knut, of Ericson, Fred, of North Loup, Christ, of Scotia, Hans and William of Ord, and by one sister, Mrs. Marie Rasmussen of Ord. He also leaves a number of other relatives and friends.

Farm Bureau Will Have Plan Meeting

The Valley County Farm Bureau announces a planning meeting to be held at the American Legion hall in Ord February 5 at 11 a. m. The meeting will be similar to one held here last year and L. I. Frisbie, state 4-H club leader, will be in charge. The meeting is open to the public and farm men and women are urged to attend.

R. E. Holland, who conducted the meeting last year, states that it was one of the best meetings of the kind ever held in the state and those in charge hope to make this meeting even more successful. Boys and girls club leaders should be especially interested in attending as it will give them a chance to discuss their problems with the state club leader.

A free lunch will be served at noon. Vodehnal Sale Tomorrow. Tomorrow is E. E. Vodehnal's reduction sale of stock and farm machinery, an ad for which appeared in last week's Quiz. Mr. Vodehnal has a big offering and should have a big crowd at the sale.

—Saturday Mrs. Joe Kluna and daughter Minnie, of Comstock, were in Ord to see Dr. Lee Nay.

Miss Helen Glover, Student At Stanford, Is Able Mathematician

Studying in Europe, if she cares to do this. She is now assisting Professor Bohr, of Copenhagen, in English and next summer she will assist Professor Lauden, who is coming to Leland Stanford from Germany to give a course in higher mathematics. He is one of the greatest living mathematicians and Miss Glover feels greatly honored at being given a chance to work with him.

Dentist Dismisses $30,000 Damage Suit

Dr. A. A. Tschauer, the divorced Mrs. Tschauer, Attorney Higgins Grand Island and Floyd Hudson of North Loup met at the office of Munn & Norman Monday afternoon and Dr. Tschauer dismissed his $30,000 allegation of affection suit against Mr. Hudson. No money changed hands and Dr. Tschauer dismissed the suit without prejudice, which means that he cannot file future suits, and also paid all the costs of the case. This action relieves Mr. Hudson of any suspicion of alienating Mrs. Tschauer's affections.

In the second round, Feb. 4, Ord and Scotia, Burwell and Sargent, and the winners of the St. Paul Comstock and North Loup-Taylor games will be matched. It will be of great interest to know who will meet in the semi-finals Feb. 5 and even greater interest is sure to be aroused by the final Feb. 7.

Radio Gives False Report of Kansas Bank Robbery

Station KMMJ, Clay Center, had Valley county officers excited for a few minutes Monday afternoon when they announced that a Mankato, Kas., bank had just been robbed of $3,000 and that the robber made his escape driving a Valley county, Nebraska car. Almost before the radio report was complete Sheriff George Round was in communication with officers at Mankato and learned that the report was false. The bank was robbed, all right, but no Valley county car was seen and Kansas officers are at a loss to know how the report started.

Western Electric Sound Purchased For Ord Theater

Sound equipment in the new Ord theater will be installed by the Western Electric company, announces Jack Hoogenboom, theater manager, this week. Western Electric sound apparatus is the most successful and costly type and is the kind used in the largest city theaters. In installing this type M. Blomond, the theater owner, continues his policy of putting only the best into his new theater here, which is resulting in Ord having one of the finest motion picture show houses in the middle west. As announced last week the new theater will be formally opened Feb. 12.

Leases Texaco Station.
D. E. Troyer, of Callaway, is the new manager of the Texaco filling station, leasing it last week. Floyd McLain, who has been managing the station, is undecided as to his future plans.

McGrew Back on the Job.
C. E. McGrew, who for several weeks was confined to his bed because of a cold, is back on the job again this week. His shoe repair shop was closed during his illness.

Buy Bankrupt Stock.
F. Fafetta and his son, Frank, Jr., were in Seward much of last week and purchased the stock of a general store that went broke there. They shipped the stock to Ord and will sell it in their building here.

HOUSE NUMBERS, MAIL BOXES ARE REQUIRED FIRST

Postoffice Department Sets Date For Free Service But Two 'ifs' Stand In Way.

Free city delivery service of mail will start in Ord April 1, 1931, if— This is the announcement made this week by Postmaster Edwin Clements, upon receipt of a communication from the postoffice department at Washington. Free city delivery will be established by date providing house numbers and mail receptacles are installed by that date. All houses must be numbered and at least 85 percent of the houses must have mail receptacles, the postmaster says.

Miller Moving to Burwell

W. W. Miller, who has been a resident of Ord for some time, is moving to Burwell this week and will take charge of sales of the Chevrolet automobile in that territory. He has been employed by the Graham-Seyler agency here and now enters the firm at Burwell, the firm name being the Graham-Seyler-Miller Chevrolet Co. Wheeler Bros. will service Chevrolet in that town and Chester Fox is moving from Ord to Burwell to enter their employ as a mechanic.

Barbara Vodehnal, Joe Cernik Marry

Miss Barbara Vodehnal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Vodehnal, and Joe Cernik, of Sargent, were united in the bonds of matrimony Tuesday afternoon by Judge J. H. Hollingshead, the ceremony being performed in his office. The young people were attended by Will Vancura, Agnes Vodehnal, Rudolph Vodehnal and Minnie Cernik. In the evening a huge wedding dance was held at the National hall, music being furnished by the Puncocar orchestra. Hundreds of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Cernik were present to enjoy the dance and a big lunch. The Quiz is glad to extend congratulations to this fine young couple.

Hill Disappears From North Loup

Farmer Elevator Manager Leaves Sunday, Not Seen Since; Nothing Wrong So Far, Auditors Say.

Otto R. Hill, manager of the Farmers Grain & Supply Company elevator at North Loup, has been gone since Sunday and neither officials of the company nor members of his own family have any idea as to his whereabouts. This is the substance of a statement given the Quiz this morning by Win. Heuck, general manager of the company.

According to what facts are known, Mr. Hill drove to Central City with his wife Saturday evening to visit friends. Sunday they attended church in that city and during the service Mr. Hill left the church. He has not been seen since that time.

An audit of Farmers Grain & Supply Company accounts at North Loup elevator is being made by VanBoskirck-Remington, of Lincoln C. B. Remington and H. L. Babcock are the auditors in charge. This morning Mr. Remington told the Quiz that so far in their audit they have found no reason for Mr. Hill's disappearance. There is no shortage in the accounts as far as they have gone. Mr. Remington states: Mrs. Hill is said to be greatly worried over her husband's strange actions. He has been upset lately over the misdemeanors of their son, Dwight, who is under arrest at Greeley for theft, and this may account for his going away.

—Howard Roe was up from Scotia and took dinner with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Roe.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Weekes who had been visiting Ord relatives left last Wednesday for their home in Beatrice.

Petitioning Board For Crow Bounty

Gilbert Gaylord, at the suggestion of numerous farmers and others has been spending some time circulating a petition, asking the county board to vote a bounty on crows and it is being presented to the county board at its regular meeting Tuesday, February 3. Mr. Gaylord says that he is asking fifty farmers to sign the petition figuring that the farmers are the ones who are having damage done by the crows. He has circulated his petition in the vicinity of Ord, North Loup and Arcadia but of course is unable to see near all the farmers. Therefore he would like to have those who he has not written him at Ord so he would get the letters by next Monday and all such letters will be added to the petition and placed before the county board.

Arcadia News

By MRS. RAY GOLDEN

Child Fatally Burned.
The following article taken from the Chester County Chief tells of the tragic death of the small granddaughter of Mrs. Julia Chlewski, who lives southeast of Arcadia: "The three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Chlewski of Oconto was fatally burned in an accident last Thursday. The little girl had been with her mother who was hanging out clothes and went into the house to secure a wrap. When she returned to the yard her clothing was in flames. The source of the fire was not known. Her father and her uncle, who were near the flames as soon as possible and she was taken to the Broken Bow hospital but the burns had been so severe that she only survived a short time.

Funeral services were held Thursday, January 22nd at Loup City water interment at that place.
Up-To-Date Club Meets.
The Up-To-Date club held a very interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. H. D. Weddel Tuesday afternoon of last week. Roll call was answered by "Famous Americans." A letter written to the club by Mrs. Lillian Swaynie expressed her appreciation of cards sent her by the members at Christmas time and commented upon the pleasant memories which linked her life with the club, of which she was formerly a member. She thereupon thanked the club for the years club book which they sent her and stated that she would be with them in thought at each meeting.

Mrs. A. E. Aufrecht conducted the lesson which was on "Outstanding American Men and Women." The following were studied, Jane Adams, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Edgar A. Guest, Cecilia Beaux, Carrie Jacobs Bond, Thomas A. Edison, Ida M. Tarbell, Woodrow Wilson, Frances Willard, Zane Grey, Virginia Gilchrist Winter, and Mrs. Goodhue. At the close of the lesson Miss Nema Cruzan favored the guests with the three following vocal numbers, "Love is a Rose," "Thine Beaming Eyes" and "I Know a Lovely Garden." Miss Cruzan also played two piano solos, "Country Gardens," and "The Swallows." The numbers were all greatly enjoyed.

Oscar Almqvist Honored.
The many Arcadia friends of Oscar Almqvist, prominent Nebraska contractor, will be pleased to know that he has been elected secretary and also a director of the Nebraska Builders association. His election took place at the annual convention held in Grand Island last week.

Mr. Almqvist was contractor for the new Arcadia Methodist church and also for the M. L. Fries residence. His home is at Central City.

John Ohlsen Marvel.
Funeral services for John Marvel were held at the Congregational church last Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. R. O. Gaither, pastor of the Methodist church and a close friend and neighbor of the deceased, conducted the services bringing a comforting message to the sorrowing relatives and friends. The funeral was one of the largest ever held in Arcadia and the church was far too small to accommodate those attending. The floral offerings, profuse and beautiful, were silent reminders of the love and affection which harbored in the hearts of all those who knew the deceased. Mrs. Otto Rettenmayer, accompanied by Mr. Rettenmayer on the piano, sang two beautiful solos, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Enough to Know." Six of John's schoolmates officiated as pall bearers, Charles White, Downing Rounds, Robert Ackles, Donald McMichael, Bobby Milburn and Maurice Konvalin.

John Ohlsen Marvel, the third child of Jess and Frieda Marvel, was one of a family of four children, one girl and three boys. He was born on a farm between Arcadia and Comstock, Nov. 30, 1919 and passed away very suddenly Jan. 21, 1931 at the age of 11 years, one month and twenty-one days. His death came as the result of a fall from his bicycle.

Has Leg Broken.
Eugene Petaska, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Petaska had the large bone of his left leg broken about four inches above the ankle last week. Eugene was riding his pony when it slipped and fell catching his leg beneath. Dr. Hillie reduced the fracture and placed the limb in a cast.

Victim of Pie Party.
Oranges are cheap these days and we think an orange pie should be the favorite menu. But Mesdames C. H. Downing, A. E. Weddel, Ernest Easterbrook, J. C. Ward and C. M. Routh like lemon pie better as they baked themselves a delicious lemon pie last Monday they began looking around for a convenient place to eat it. And where should they pick but the C. C. Hawthorne home. As a consequence they surprised Mrs. Hawthorne Monday afternoon by bringing their prize pie and an arm full of sewing and spending the afternoon with her. While Mrs. Hawthorne was very thankful that they didn't come to dinner, still she admits that she greatly enjoyed their company and states that the pie was delicious.

NORTH LOUP DEPARTMENT

MRS. FRED BARTZ, Reporter

The Philatelic class were pleasantly entertained at the home of their teacher, Miss Maud Shepard on Saturday afternoon. Misses Mary Bohrer and Alice Meyers had charge of a number of interesting and clever games. During the social hour a lovely lunch was served.

The No Lo study club is meeting this week with Mrs. Mary Davis and the Fortnightly ladies with Mrs. Nora Kildow.

Dell Barber accompanied two carloads of hogs to Omaha Monday.

A number of friends visited at the Ward Gowen home Sunday evening, the occasion being a surprise in honor of Mrs. Gowen's birthday. Those present were Earl Bingham, Elmer Kirks, the Harris Schaffner and Baxter families and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kimbrel. Delicious refreshments were served at the close.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Baker and little daughters Shirley and Corrine spent Sunday at the Geo. Baker home. They returned to Ericson Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bartz entertained at rock Wednesday evening, January 21, the occasion being Mrs. Bartz' birthday. There were eighteen present. A lovely lunch was served at the close. A delightful time is reported.

Mrs. Ed Post returned from Cairo Sunday. Mr. Meith and Miss Ruby Post brought her home. The young people returned to Cairo Sunday evening.

Mrs. John Schultz of Riverdale attended M. E. Aid tea at the parsonage Wednesday afternoon while Mr. Schultz drove out to D. A. Manchester's sale.

Mrs. Ida Brown spent Saturday night and Sunday at the Alex Brown home at Pleasant hill. Mrs. Brown and the baby have been very ill but at this writing they are improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bartz took Mrs. Brown back to the Bartz home in Riverdale Sunday evening.

The regular monthly meeting of the P. T. A. was held Tuesday evening at the high school auditorium. The lesson in general being "The Spiritual Education of the Child." The chief speakers of the evening were Miss Thelma Buchanan, Mrs. Cora Hemphill, Mrs. Grace Hood and Rev. Geo. Schwabauer. Their talks were most interesting and inspiring. Following the program lunch consisting of sandwiches, cookies and coffee was served by the committee, Mesdames Shinemann, Hoepfner, Babcock and Johnson.

Misses Doris Davis and Ella Williams took Arvada Vanhorn to her school north of Burwell Sunday afternoon, she having spent the week end with the home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Burt who have been visiting at the Tenney home returned Friday to their home at Albion.

Forty ladies attended the M. E. aid tea at the Methodist parsonage Wednesday afternoon, January 21. Following devotion led by the president, Mrs. Merle Zangger, a business session was observed, after which a short program was rendered with the following numbers, reading by Miss Cecile Willoughby, violin solo, Ella Mae Serstien; vocal solo, Muriel Jane Bartz, and two short readings by Mrs. Dallam. The committee in charge served lunch during the social hour. An unusual and most appropriate feature of our old teas were clever little place cards designed by Mrs. Betty Manchester and her daughter Mary Frances.

Those who witnessed the basketball games played at the gymnasium Saturday night between Burwell and the North Loup boys say it was a splendid game, and the spirit of the boys on both sides was fine. Burwell's 2d team won, score 10 to 11, and North Loup's first team, score 12 to 6.

The opera "Pickles" will be given at the high school auditorium Thursday evening, January 29 by the high school chorus. This play is said to be delightful and one which you cannot afford to miss.

Miss Brown, pastor of the friend's church at North Loup and former missionary to China, will give an interesting missionary address. Previous to this service will be the Sunday school which begins at 1:30.

Miss Nelson: "Allan, use 'deceit' in a sentence."

Allan Norman: "I wear pants with atches on de seat."

KONJOLA WON FOR THIS LADY

Again New and Different Medicine Puts An End To Years Of Suffering.

MRS. IVA BENISCHKEK

"Five years ago I developed stomach trouble which caused me much misery and discomfort," said Mrs. Iva Benischek, 806 Washington street, Lincoln. I bloated terribly after meals and was finally subject to constipation which forced me to take purges frequently. "My mother had received such fine results from Konjola that she advised me to take it. After I finished the first bottle I knew that Konjola was the medicine I needed. I have now taken five bottles and my bowels have been regulated, my digestion has so improved that I can eat almost anything I want. I am glad to recommend Konjola to everyone."

Konjola is recommended for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Give this great medicine a real trial, beginning today.

Konjola is sold in Ord, Nebraska at the McLain and Sorensen drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

JONES BELIEVES CATTLE FEEDING REMAINS NORMAL

Ord Man Says Feeders Not Complaining About Low Prices.

One Valley county cattle feeder, H. C. Jones believes that feeding operations are as heavy as usual in this county, according to a dispatch from the Journal-Stockman newspaper in Omaha. Jones was a recent shipper on the Omaha market.

He says although the cattle market is not what many would like to see it, there are feeders who are not complaining but just going ahead in spite of the generally low prices. His stock sold for $3.40 on the market, the Journal-Stockman says. The Valley county man bought the cattle on October 15. Since that time, they gained between 250 to 300 pounds until they were put on the market. Jones figures that the corn eaten by the steers netted him around 90 cents a bushel.

"A large number of cattle are on feed in Valley county," declared Jones through the Omaha paper. "I believe there are more on feed now than there were a year ago. A good lot of stock has been shipped in the past few weeks and quite a few feeders are still buying."

"We have weights of corn this year. There is more corn in Valley county this year than has been for some time. Feeders are buying some at around 50 cents while some is going to the elevators for about 40 cents."

"There are not many fall pigs in the country this year but, on that, I think there are as many as usual. The prospects for the spring pig crop looks like we are going to have a great many brood sows are being carried over."

Will Play at Ravenna Next Sunday, February 1, from 4 to 5 p. m., the Puncocchar orchestra will broadcast from Station KGFV at Ravenna. Many of their friends probably will want to listen in.

FORD SMOOTHNESS

The new Ford has more than twenty ball and roller bearings

EVIDENCE of the high quality built into the new Ford is the extensive use of ball and roller bearings. There are more than twenty in all — an unusually large number. Each bearing is adequate in size and carefully selected for the work it has to do.

At some points in the Ford chassis you will find ball bearings. At others, roller bearings are used regardless of their higher cost. The deciding factor is the performance of the car.

The extensive use of ball and roller bearings in the new Ford insures smoother operation, saves gasoline, increases speed and power, gives quicker pick-up, decreases noise, and gives greater reliability and longer life to vital moving parts.

Other outstanding features that make the new Ford a value far above the price are the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, silent, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, three-quarter floating rear axle, Rustless Steel, the extensive use of fine steel forgings, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing.

LOW PRICES OF FORD CARS $430 to $630

F. O. B. Detroit, plus freight and delivery. Bumpers and spare tire extra at small cost. You can buy a Ford for a small down payment on a convenient financing plan. See your Ford dealer for details.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

Ashton, Idaho
Friend Quiz: Thank you for your kind offer in saying come and get your calendar. I have been wondering how our outside subscribers would fare.
Enclosed please find 3 cents in postage and also a recipe, and some household hints. Here's hoping you get plenty of nice recipes for a big cook book, if you fall short you can call on me; but I don't think that is necessary as Ord women are all good cooks.

I want to tell you how we enjoy the Quiz. I certainly like the High School paper and the farm talks by different people. Oh yes, I must not forget to say the funny paper is fine. I doubt if a small paper in any other part of the country has a funny paper. Keep up your good improvements, they are fine.

We are having plenty of snow and cold weather here in Nebraska, two months of winter; hoping your good weather keeps up.

Mrs. Wm. H. Thomas

A letter like the above sure encourages us to make every effort possible to make the Quiz all that our readers would like it to be. I hope Mrs. Thomas will make use of some of the recipes and I want to assure her and all our readers that the 1932 calendar will be an improvement over the one issued this year. As I have said before, the calendar this year was rather of an experiment and we have learned some things that will help us next year. We appreciate having the recipes from Mrs. Thomas and I want to urge all who have never sent in recipes to do so for that is the only way we can keep the recipe department going and have a supply of material for next year's calendar. Just think what a wonderful fund of recipes a few years of these calendars will be for any cook to have.

But there is one thing that I don't want any Quiz reader cook to do and that is to make a cake from one cake recipe in the paper last week and bring me the cake and make me eat it, not if the directions in the recipe are followed. Florence set the recipe and she says she made a mistake in setting it 7 teaspoonfuls of soda instead of 1/2 cup. The recipe in the paper says 1/2 cup. The editor of the department read the proofs of the material for the department and this we will see that the blame is put where it belongs. I don't suppose any cook would be so absent minded as to follow the recipe but I understand Col. Weiler, who claims to be quite a cook and who often amuses himself by making a pie, cake or pudding, tried out the recipe in question while his wife was at the society, and the result was a green cake. Ernie may deny this story but of course he would.

Fred Howard says the committee is hard at work looking for a speaker to throw the ball at the opening of the new co-op creamery. They couldn't do better than to draft Fred Coe, manager of our local creamery. He is making an outstanding success of his job and would be able to start them off right.

I notice that Representative Cushing is giving a good account of himself and is recognized as a very substantial member of the house. A Lincoln friend writes me that Mr. Cushing is always listened to closely when he gets on his feet to talk.

Three bills have been introduced in the Nebraska legislature making it compulsory that auto drivers take out liability insurance before they will be granted a license to drive a car. I am for such a law mighty strong. Now there is no much reckless driving by irresponsible persons. A $25 automobile driven by a half soured youth can do a thousand dollars worth of damage in a minute and perhaps take a life or two and there is no redress. If he had to take out insurance some like them at least wouldn't be driving cars.

I thought the other day when I went back and took a drink of city water, cold and soft and sweet, what a wonderful thing it would be if we could have it that way during the two or three months in the summer when it gets warm and unpalatable. We have got wonderful water in Ord any day.

Pretty soon Tom Goff is going to mail out to about seven thousand people, catalogues or broadside folders, telling about his chick hatchery and many Quiz readers will get them. When you get this nice folder from Mr. Goff just remember that it was printed in the Quiz office and that we specialize in all kinds of fine printing.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

All those who have come in to get Quiz calendar-recipe books have sent in very nice recipes, and as a result we have a number of recipes on hand. So if you do not see yours in print for a few weeks this is the reason. Yours will be printed soon.

We are still asking for recipes, however, and will be more than glad for any contributions you may make. Any dish you have tried and found delicious will undoubtedly receive a warm welcome from other Quiz readers, so please send in your favorites.

Last week in the sour cream cake recipe which Mrs. Achen said her little girl often made, a mistake was made in the amount of soda. Through a typographical error it read 7 tsp. of soda, which from one cake recipe is a few weeks to be re-dickulous. The correct amount of soda in this recipe should read: "1 tsp. soda."

However, there are some advantages to making mistakes like this one, as it at least proves many people read the recipe. Well, the Quiz came out last Thursday the telephone in the Quiz office has rung six or eight times a day, or oftener, each time some cook telling about that 7 tsp. of soda. I hope people don't think I use 7 tsp. of soda in cakes at our house! If so, please suggest it!

Here is a recipe that looks promising. How about it:
Baked Lima Beans.
1 pt. lima beans
4 slices bacon
1 medium chopped onion
1/4 tsp. pepper
Salt to taste
2 c. tomato juice
1 tsp. ground mustard
1 tsp. sugar
Soak lima beans over night. Add onion, bacon, pepper, salt, mustard and sugar. Mix well, put in baking dish and pour tomato on top. Bake 2 1/2 or 3 hours. A little water may be added if they become too dry while baking.

—Mrs. L. J. Auble.
You may be interested to learn that the mock cherry pie recipe printed two weeks ago was sent in by Mrs. Arthur Ferris, whose son Kent, has graduated from the position of printer's devil, to a more exalted place in the Quiz shop.

Here is something new and different. And I believe it will be delicious:
Fruit Dumplings.
1 c. flour
1 heaping tsp. sugar
2 tsp. baking powder
3/4 c. cold water
Beat and sugar by spoonfuls in boiling fruit. Cover and cook ten minutes. A quart of cherries, gooseberries, or rhubarb are good to use. Serve with cream.

—Mrs. C. E. Inness.
Mrs. Barnhart of North Loup says in her letter, of course I would be glad to receive a recipe for a cake that is as good as this whipped cream cake! Have you tried it?
Whipped Cream Cake.
1 c. cream
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla; beat with the above ingredients until light and foamy. Then add:
1 c. sugar
1 1/2 c. flour
2 level tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. salt.

After these things are sifted together add them to the liquid mixture and beat. Bake in loaf or layers, icing in any way you like. We enjoy it cut in squares and served with whipped cream.

Mrs. Charles L. Barnhart

And thank you Mrs. Barnhart for saying you had tried so many of the Quiz recipes and found them good. I'm sure the women who send them in will be glad to know they are enjoyed.

Another recipe for something different is this one for lemon butter. My mother makes this and it is a favorite recipe. Good, different, delicious. Nice for jelly rolls, too.

Lemon Butter.
Grated rind and juice of two lemons
3 egg yolks
1 c. sugar
1/2 c. butter
Mix all together, place on stove, and cook until as thick as sponge, stirring all the time. We like this jelly between layer cakes, and it is very nice for sponges and also white cakes.

Thank you, Mrs. C. E. Norris. Also thanks to our other friends. Occasionally we receive a batch of recipes without a name. Or from a modest Quiz reader who will not allow her name to be used. We are glad to get them anyway, although undoubtedly many more people would try such recipes if the name of the sponsor was known.

Then, here is a good recipe from Mrs. Packer, who sent in six or eight days ago.
Baked Meat Pie.
2 lbs. beefsteak
Roll in egg, then in bread crumbs. Brown in frying pan on top of the stove, then cover with milk and bake two hours.

—Mrs. H. R. Packer.
We would like to have some good meat recipes. We feel our readers would enjoy using some new ones that they knew to be good. Will you send in one, please?

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

There are always queries at this time of year about the provisions of the seed testing law. Farmers who have various seeds for sale are the ones especially concerned. Farmers who have to buy seed need to be equally particular that the seed they buy has been tested, as indicated by a label from the state department of agriculture.

Seed such as alfalfa and sweet clover is not exempt from the testing law unless it is sold to a dealer to be re-cleaned before being sold to the ultimate consumer. Such seeds as corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, kafir, milo and sudans, cow peas and soybeans need not be tested when marketed by the grower on his own premises. But if the above named seeds are advertised for sale, then they must be tested. According to the law, seeds like alfalfa or sweet clover must be tested regardless of whether they are advertised or not.

The agreeable feature of the seed law is that it costs nothing to have seed grains analyzed and tested. All that is necessary is to prepare a small representative sample of about half a pint of the seed, and send it to the Seed Analyst, State House, Lincoln, Neb.

When buying legume seed, sweet clover, the popular pasture, hay and soil-building crop, can be bought scarified, or unscarified. Seed that is properly scarified without question germinates more rapidly and gives a better stand. The objection to it is that often seed advertised as scarified has not been properly scarified, and therefore germinates no better than unscarified seed. If one must pay much of a premium for this so-called scarified seed he had better purchase unscarified seed. Seed with hulls should not be planted in the spring if much of a crop is expected that year.

The hazard in buying alfalfa seed is that it may have come from a warmer part of the United States. The red staining of seed from other countries with mild climates helps some. Violet stained seed should survive our winters well. The best yielding alfalfa varieties at Lincoln for the past seven years have been Cossack, Baltic, and Grimm in the order named.

Something DIFFERENT

Talk about movie thrillers! You've seen a lot of these last minute plays that saved the game, redeemed the hero and won the game for dear old Whattid? Well, you shoulda seen the basketball game Monday evening!

In the last thirty seconds of play Ord got the three points that tied them with the sharpers from Grand Island. So then that gave an additional five minutes of play, and was it furious? Both sides took the longest chances, desperately attempting to make a basket and win the game.

The crowd was wild. Such roaring and screeching! And breathless! When the suspense and nerve wracking crises of the game left this spectator, at least feeling like she had done three or four washings and ironings that day!

Anyway, you'd better go to the next basketball game. And if Krejcl hadn't been all backed up Monday night, that wild game would have been! Speaking of Krejcl, did you hear the one about him down in Kansas last year? He was working with some boys down there who were out to win a game. His boys were way ahead. In the last minute of play some confusing things happened, and when the smoke cleared, it was found that Joe, our Krejcl, had beautifully put one through the iron ring,....but it was the wrong basket!

Aha! Twirl your moustaches! We have a mystery in our midst! Also a sort of joke. You know Ed Panowicz of Comstock, of course. He is a familiar figure in Ord, and visits here often. His friends are laughing at him; it seems he owns a sandhill farm or rancho, over in the country between Greeley and Erlson, which he sold to a man, but had to take back. As Ed had not looked it over for about a year and a half, and the buildings were standing empty, he decided to drive over and see it.

Imagine his surprise. Not a building in sight! Unless you call a pump-handle a building! And the three-room house and three or four good sized outbuildings, garage, chicken house, etc., had gone!

Where? That's the mystery! Here's your chance, mail order detectives! Send in the correct solution and maybe Mr. Panowicz will give the buildings to you!

W. A. Anderson entrusts me with a little clipping which he says he has carried in his pocket for forty years!

It's a poem, and here's his taste in poetry:
"The Spinster."
Why should I worry?
I'm living my life.
Better an old maid
Than an unwed wife.
Lonesome? Well, hardly!
No man? Who cares?
I've a lovely parrot
That shrieks and swears.
A stove that smokes
At a lively rate,
That stays out late.
Yes, I'm happy as any clam.
For a husband now I would not give a cent.

Probably that holds the long-in-the-pocket record for poetry, in these parts! —Irma

"During my thirty years experience in the newspaper business, the greatest mystery continually confronting me, and the most persistent question is, 'Why does the average business man fall for the unscrupulous advertising solicitor? Promoters for theatre curtains in remote school districts, cook books, menu cards, directories of every kind, hotel registers, jumbo thermometers and numbers of other such schemes find 'rich pickings,'

How to play Bridge AUCTION or CONTRACT

by Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright, 1930, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 10

We are all familiar with the play of discarding a losing card from one hand on a winning card led from the other. Any good player playing the two hands in a suit declaration seizes the opportunity of saving a trick in this way.

The object of discarding a losing card on a loser is not, however, so apparent. At first sight it is difficult to see what can be gained or how a trick can be saved. The play, however, can be very effective when it strips the declarer of the only suit in which an opponent can get in to lead a partner a ruff, and in some cases it may be the only play to secure the contract or game.

The following three examples illustrate this play very clearly:

Example No. 1

Spades—4, 3
Hearts—K, 10, 5, 4, 3
Diamonds—K, Q, J
Clubs—J, 4, 3
Spades—A, 8, 7, 5
Hearts—A, J, 8, 7
Diamonds—8
Clubs—K, Q, 10, 9

Example No. 2

Spades—4, 3
Hearts—7, 6, 4, 3
Diamonds—10, 9
Clubs—A, K, 10, 7, 3
Spades—K, Q, J, 10, 9, 6, 2
Hearts—none
Clubs—8, 2

No score, rubber game. Z bid "Three Spades," which secured the contract. At Contract, Y would bid four spades over Z's original three spades bid, and despite B's come-on signal with the seven, then led the eight of diamonds. He saw he could down the contract if he could make a small trump in addition to his two aces and two club trumps. Z realized the probability of the diamond being a singleton and that he must at all costs prevent B getting the lead or the game was gone. There was only one sure method of doing this, and even that was dependent on the position of the ace of hearts. At trick No. 3, therefore, Z led dummy's king of hearts and, on B playing small, discarded his remaining club. No dealer by A and B could then save the game.

Example No. 3

Spades—J, 7
Hearts—7, 6, 4, 3
Diamonds—10, 9
Clubs—A, K, 10, 7, 3
Spades—A, 6, 4, 3
Hearts—2
Diamonds—Q, 9, 8
Clubs—J, 9, 5, 4, 2

No score, first game. Z, "One Spade"; A, "No Bid"; Y, "Two Clubs"; B, "Two Hearts"; Z, "Two Spades"; A, "No Bid"; Y, "No Bid"; B, "Three Diamonds"; Z, "Three Spades"; A, "No Bid"; Y, "Four Spades"; B, "No Bid"; Z, "No Bid"; A, "No Bid"; Y, "Four Spades"; B, "No Bid"; Z, "No Bid"; A, "Five Diamonds"; Y, "No Bid"; B, "No Bid"; Z, "Five Spades," which A doubled.

Z, as dealer, should bid three spades. A should pass and Y should bid three spades. B is now in a position where he knows that Y has a game in spades, so is justified in making a five diamond bid. Z should bid five spades, which A will double. The play then follows as in Auction.

A leads the two of hearts and Z now stops to count the opponents' hands. The heart lead obviously is a singleton because A has denied the suit and must be opening his highest card of it. At least, probably eleven, red cards can be placed in B's hand, and A probably holds all the unseen trumps. Z's problem is to prevent A ruffing his two winning hearts, and the solution does not seem easy. However, Z's first play must be to discard one of his losing diamonds on a winning club, and he leads accordingly. On the second round of clubs B plays the queen. There is now a chance that B has no more clubs and no trump, and Z must therefore play a losing club and discard his last diamond. This throws the lead to A and effectively prevents B from getting in again to give a heart ruff. Z has now only to draw the adverse trumps to go game.

Auction BIDDING:
Z, as dealer, should bid three spades. A should pass and Y should bid three spades. B is now in a position where he knows that Y has a game in spades, so is justified in making a five diamond bid. Z should bid five spades, which A will double. The play then follows as in Auction.

heart or club suit and correctly led the four of hearts. Z won the first trick in his own hand with the king and led three rounds of spades. He then led three rounds of diamonds, discarding his ten of clubs on the third round. On the lead of the ten of diamonds, Z discarded his queen of clubs and A is forced to trump with the top trump. In other words, Z was thus able to make sure of a little slam, irrespective of A's next play, for he has the ace of hearts as a re-entry and a good diamond on which to discard his losing heart.

No score, rubber game. Z bid two spades, A passed, Y bid three diamonds and B passed. Z bid three spades and all passed.

CONTRACT BIDDING:
Z, as dealer, should bid one spade, as his hand does not contain the quick trick strength (four and one-half tricks) to justify a "two bid" at Contract. A should pass and Y should bid three diamonds. B should pass and Z should now bid four spades. All pass and the play follows as in Auction. Note that no slam is bid in the hand, even though made in the play. This happens frequently in Contract. Many slams are possible in play that are not possible in the bidding.

The foregoing examples of discarding a loser on a loser should be carefully studied. If they are thoroughly understood they will win many a trick in the future.

A had the choice of opening the and right at the places where the very best newspaper advertising salesmen cannot get a look-in.

"The man who knows anything about advertising knows he might as well write his ad copy and put it in his safe, so far as results are concerned, as to put it in a directory of any kind. In fact, it would be better to put the copy in his safe, because that procedure would not cost him anything, and he would secure the same results. The most distinguished dumb-bell, numb-skull or whatever you desire to call a nut, would never think of looking into a directory to see where to buy an automobile, foodstuff, clothing or any other article. I have traveled about a little myself and just claim average intelligence, but I'll be darned if I have ever sought information in a directory to find a hotel, garage, cafe, night club, a place to buy wearing apparel or any other article I might need.

"I am ashamed to tell it, but just recently some of the merchants of my town fell for an 'air circus'—a one-plane affair in which the interested merchants paid a fancy price to have a few circulars tossed out in the breezes. To my way of thinking, the merchants were the clowns in this circus, and I believe most advertising men will agree with me.

"The newspaper in every town, regardless of size, carries more news regarding its particular town than any other newspaper in the world; it works unceasingly for the upholding of its town and community; it wants to see every merchant and business enterprise prosper, whether it is an advertising concern in its columns or not; it's on the job 365 days a year, and year in and year out; its corps of employees contain men who are honorable citizens of the town, and who know something about advertising and are always glad to assist the advertiser any way they can, AND YET, AS STATED, THESE HOME-TOWN, HONORABLE WORKERS ARE NOT GIVEN THE SAME CONSIDERATION THAT THE OUT-OF-TOWN UNSCRUPULOUS SOLICITOR RECEIVES AT THE HAND OF THE AVERAGE BUSINESS MAN."

Stripes Feature New Spring Styles

THEY THREATEN TO SURPASS THE POLKA DOT IN POPULARITY--STRIPED FABRICS NOW AVAILABLE RANGE FROM HEAVY WORSTEDS TO SHEER COTTON

BY HARRIET

Stripes threaten to surpass the polka dot craze, and to supplant the dots in the leading fashion styles.

Dots always have a certain popularity. But there is no denying the fascinating effects that you can get with stripes that are impossible with polka dotted materials.

New striped fabrics available now for spring wear, run the gamut of materials from heavy worsted to the sheerest of cottons and dimities. There is a real vogue for the rather soft woolen striped materials. They make charming little suits, worn with sweater blouses on the first early days, and later on with crepe or linen blouses.

They are apt to be rather conservative in their stripes, combining beige and brown, navy blue and white-black and white or two other colors in equal proportion of color, alternating slender stripes of each.

Woven woollens, on the other hand, go in for the nattiest of novelty stripes. The stripes may be formed by a floral motif, or square checks, or arrows, or little dots and dashes or other figures used in succession in perfect straight lines.

When it comes to the ginghams and cottons for spring, there are such charming combinations of colors in striped effects that you can indeed have a rainbow around your shoulder every time you don a frock of this material.

There are two outstanding spring developments in stripes. One is the striped woolen suit, with plain coat, lining and blouse, which more often than not tops itself with a rather tailored little hat of bakou or felt.

The other is the smart, woven fabric striped frock and beret to match.

Both kinds of striped outfit are smart and both are recommended for the spring. In fact, both are suitable to wear under your winter coat while it is still cold. They have a jauntyness about them that lend dash and color while all the world is still drab and drear.

First comes the striped woolen suit. The one shown today is a medium navy blue and white, made with a lot of horizontal and vertical use of the stripes. The jacket is lined with white jersey, and a square-necked blouse of the white jersey completes the suit. The hat is white natural Panama, blocked in the new off-the-forehead manner. Second, here is a rich dark maroon red and soft beige knitted

Recommended for spring wear are these smart striped outfits. The woolen suit, left, is a medium navy blue and white made with horizontal and vertical use of stripes. On the right is a charming rich dark maroon and soft beige knitted frock, with matching beret. Both creations may also be worn to advantage in the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorea McMIndes and son Roger were dinner guests Sunday evening in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Lee Nay.

Monday afternoon a few friends surprised Mrs. Frank Glover and assisted that good lady with her quilting. Mrs. Henry Marks furnished a luncheon. The self invited guests were Madams Schmidt, Fuson, Thill, James, Marks and Hollingshead.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Greenfield and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Simpkins of Wamblee, N. D. were Sunday dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Severns.

R. K. D. Litter Club Re-organized Friday

County Agent Carl C. Dale attended a meeting of the R. K. D. Litter club of Arcadia, last Friday evening, where the R. K. D. Litter club was reorganized for the year. This is the club that made an outstanding record last year, the eight boys enrolled winning over $700.00 in prize money.

Mrs. Morris Fowler who led the club so successfully last year was again chosen leader and the following members were enrolled: Max Cruikshank; Kenneth Dorsey; Glenn Jameson; Preston Ward; Billie Arnold; Downing Rounds; Carl Easterbrook; J. C. Ward; Orle Sorensen; Edward Arnold; Pa; Easterbrook; Edith Thompson; Claude Williams; Gilbert Konvally; Louis Drake.

At this time a Baby Beef Club was also organized at five members. This is the first Baby Beef club to be organized in this section of the county, although Orvel Sorensen and Glenn Jameson were members of Clare Clements' "Lucky Southside Club" a year ago. As a testimonial of their confidence in Mrs. Fowler's leadership she was also selected by the boys to act as leader of this club. The following members were enrolled: Paul Esterbrook; Harold Konvally; Orvel Sorensen; Glenn Jameson; Emanuel Heiska.

Both clubs expect to have an increased enrollment by the time of their February meeting.

This Is The Year To Raise Chickens

The chicken business and the potato business aren't much different. Some years everybody raises potatoes, there is a big crop and the potatoes don't bring anything. Then, the next year, people don't plant spuds, there is a short crop and the price is high.

Last year everybody raised chickens and the price of both eggs and poultry was low all through the summer and fall months. As a consequence many are staying out of the chicken business this year and poultry and eggs will be high next summer and fall.

Service here will require one regular carrier and one 7-hour-a-day auxiliary carrier. The secretary of the 8th civil service district has been requested to hold an examination here to provide a register of eligibles and the date and place of this examination will be announced later.

To begin with the service will cover the city west of the railroad tracks within a boundary line running approximately as follows: South on 18th street from the corner of K and 18th to O street, thence east to 12th street, thence south to P street, thence west to 16th street, thence south to O street, thence west to 18th street, north to P street, west to 21st street, north to M street, west to 23rd street, north to Q street, east to 19th street, north to G street, east to 13th street and south to K street.

Postmaster Clements makes the following announcement: "Patrons desiring mail delivered to their carrier should notify their correspondents of their street and house number as soon as possible. There will be considerable confusion incident to the establishment of the service and you will avoid delay if your mail is addressed to street and number."

The postal service is for your convenience and you may have your mail delivered at your house, office, general delivery or postoffice box. You may have part of your mail delivered at one place and the rest delivered at another place just so that you have it addressed that way.

The local postoffice force desires to assist you in every way possible and will gladly answer any question you may care to ask."

One Hundred Years Ago. An interesting item in a recent issue of a creamery magazine possessed by Fred Coe gives prices current in New York City in January, 1831, just one hundred years ago. At that time wheat was 45 to 50c per bushel, corn 25c a bushel and butter from 8 to 15c a pound. Eggs were from 4 to 6 1/2c per pound.

How Niagara Looks Since Rocks Crumbled

The most beautiful part of Niagara Falls, the famous "bridal veil" on the American side, was marred when thousands of tons of rock broke away from the rim of the precipice and went plunging down with the falling water. The break left a U-shaped indentation about 150 feet wide and from 150 to 200 feet deep. The dotted line indicates the contour of the falls before the break. The change is the greatest in the contour of the falls since white man first saw it.

Union Ridge News

Tuesday morning a little daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tolen. They named her Ada Marie. We did not get the news before too late to send in last week. On Wednesday a little daughter 9 years old had a very bad accident while coming home from school she fell off of the horse she was riding and broke her arm at the elbow. She was taken to town by Mr. Worrel where the doctor set the arm after taking an x-ray of the break. She has been resting as well as can be expected. This makes it very bad for the mother at this time and we hope all will be well in time.

The Union Ridge S. S. cleared about $24 with their lunch at Darrel Manchester's sale and all interested are well pleased with the results.

Old English Law Enables Girl Clerk To Sue Sunday Movies for Million

MISS MILLIE ORPEN, 22, who works as a clerk in a financial office in London's financial district, is today the most discussed person in the United Kingdom.

For, acting through her lawyers, she has proceeded as "Common Informer" under some very ancient English laws and is claiming about $1,250,000. And thereby hangs a very complete and muddled tale of the law, the movies, the newspapers and the courts.

Sunday Movies the Cause Theaters in England have to be licensed for public performances by the Lord Chamberlain in King George's palace and he, likewise, acts as censor of plays. No play can be performed for patronage by the general public if he disapproves of it. Likewise, he has never allowed theaters to give public performances on Sundays.

But the movies were not under his jurisdiction. Therefore, some years ago the London County Council licensed movie houses and permitted them to open up on Sunday evenings. Recently in the high court the judge enunciated the dictum that the London County Council had absolutely no right to permit Sunday opening of the movie houses.

Old Law Recalled He suddenly remembered what everybody seemed to have forgotten, that in 1780 there was passed by the Parliament a "Common Informer" act. This law is known to the legal sharks as "21 George III c 49"—in other words a law passed during the reign of that King George III whose acts caused the American colonies to revolt.

In this law it is laid down that "if any room or place be opened for any public entertainment or for debate upon any subject on Sunday to which persons are admitted only on payment, there shall be forfeit, to any persons who will sue for the same, from the keepers of such places, $1000 for each offense; from the managers, $500; from the receiver of money or tickets, $250; and from every printer of advertisements, $250."

Plaintiff's Status The person, who thus sued, was quaintly termed a "Common Informer." This person has a very ancient status under English law. It dates back to the times when there was no such thing as a police force to enforce the laws of the land and it was left to common informers to take action, to see that the courts enforced the laws.

Miss Collipriest's First Graders Are Learning Be Polite

By IRMA ELLIS LEGGETT

The first grade reading class of Miss Helen Collipriest are learning to read very nicely, thank you. You should hear them. They may not read as fast as the second graders, but still they do very well. And they were reading such an interesting story. It was called "In The Barnyard", and told about Gray Pony, White Cow, Piggy Wig and Red Hen, and the ideas of each animal as to how a nice sunny day should be used. Lavay Umstead read, and Billy Miller, then Marie Rohia, Dorothy Albers, Margaret Mary Kocina, Mary Kominek, Mary was called upon because she was sitting nice and tall. Who would have thought of that? It pays to sit nice and tall, doesn't it? Eldon Wachtrie read, standing in front of Miss Collipriest, and after him Norma Smith, Harold Williams, Junior Pettska, Roland Norman, and Jean Carlson. Really all these little people do well. Of course they are a trifle uncertain, and hesitate and waver once in a while, but that is because picking a story off a page in a book is so new to them. They are very earnest and interested, and do their best.

I glanced over the room and took note of the wearing apparel. It was a nice sunny day, which probably accounted for the fact that only one little boy and one little girl wore sweaters, while 19 boys and girls were garbed in shirts and washdresses. Eight of these boys wore overalls, but looked very neat and scholarly, nevertheless. Four little girls had on woolen dresses.

The cheerful day was made sunnier by the bright colored pots in the window, each with a thrifty plant.

After the first grade read, came a reading test. On a sheet of paper, marked in big squares, were questions about what had just been read. Across the bottom of the sheet were pictures of animals. The trick was to cut out the animal that answered the question and paste it in the proper square. Each child had a sheet.

Meantime, the second grade readers began with a Yes and No test. In turn each child would stand and answer a question in the book that had to do with the story just finished, saying: "Yes, Bettie Squirrel was polite to Mrs. Bushy Tail." The teacher would usually ask why, and the reason would be given. In the Squirrel story were all sorts of little lessons in manners, I found. The children absorbed these while they read the story and answered the questions.

Thus, after reading a new story about Bobby and Bettie Squirrel, the questions referred to the pictures that went with the story, and a child would answer "No, Bettie Squirrel was not being polite when she yelled across the street at Mrs. Bushy Tail." "No, Bobby should not drink his milk very fast, because it isn't good for him." "No, Bobby Squirrel should not put his hat in the house." "Bobby Squirrel should say 'please may' and not 'Give'."

These children, Raymond Furtak, Ruth Tolen, Clifford Barnes, Helen Catherine Work and Harry Mellich, in fact, the whole class read rapidly and well. They understood the story, and liked to read and talk about it. So did Lyle Chotena, and Virginia Wachtrie, as well as Myrnie Auble, Dean Misko, Patricia McGrew, and Clarence Romans. Once in a while Miss Collipriest would ask them a

How One Woman Lost 20 Lbs of Fat Lost Her Double Chin Lost Her Prominent Hips Lost Her Sluggishness Gained Physical Vigor Gained In Vivaciousness Gained a Shapely Figure If you're fat—first remove the cause! Take one half teaspoonful of KRUSCHEN SALTS in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—cut out pastry and fatty meats go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—in 4 weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished. Notice also that you have gained in energy—your skin is clearer—your eyes sparkle with glorious health—you feel younger in body—keener in mind. KRUSCHEN will give any fat person a joyous surprise. Get an 85c. bottle of KRUSCHEN SALTS at McLain and Sorensen's (lasts 4 weeks). If even this first bottle doesn't convince you this is the easiest, safest and surest way to lose fat—if you don't feel a superb improvement in health—so gloriously energetic—vigorously alive—your money gladly returned. Mrs. Mame Carey of Buffalo, N. Y., writes—"Since I began taking Kruschen Salts I have lost 20 pounds and I feel as if I had lost 50 pounds—I feel so good and the best part of it all is that I eat anything I like."

By defeating the McLain-Sorensen quint this week 15 to 13 the J. C. Penney company team continued its perfect record in Ord City basketball league play. So far the Penney team hasn't lost a game though Joe Krejci, captain of this team, has been on the sidelines for the past two weeks. Last week the Penney company beat Andersen's Grocers 17 to 8. In the other game played Tuesday night Andersen's ran away with the Gem five 16 to 6. Last week the Gem edged out the Nyal five 15 to 13. Games last week were played on Wednesday evening and the Quiz did not secure a report of them for last week's paper.

A Valued Testimonial C. S. BONE Teacher of Piano Kearney, October 1, 1930. Pianists who are fastidious about the "In Tune" of their piano will find in MR. CHARLES C. PERRY of Grand Island an expert to their taste. He leaves my Steinways (a concert and a parlor grand) in perfect shape, also, which is very much to the point, they stand in tune like a rock. In my 45 years of teaching I have had quite a few tuners and I cheerfully give testimony in meeting, that MR. C. C. PERRY is one of outstanding excellence. A piano out of tune is a woeful handicap to a student, a misery to the advanced player. (Signed) PROF. C. S. BONE. ALL-STARS LOSE CLOSE GAME IN EXTRA PERIOD gone through for him. His inability to hit free throws was costly, as he made only three out of nine attempts.

Caroski gave his best performance of the year, handling the ball well and breaking into the scoring column with a timely field goal. Adams played well, too, though he was missing a number of short shots that should have resulted in scores. Beeghly and Jensen played at guards but didn't enter the scoring except for Jensen's single long shot late in the game. Lashmett was erratic, playing well at times and musing up plays at others.

For Grand Island Bob Meyers was high scorer with 10 points while Schwartz and Wunderwald also played well. The visitors committed eleven personal fouls while the All-Stars made but four. Peterson and Parsons of Burwell were officials and gave excellent satisfaction though Krejci was forced to ask more consideration from the crowd when they "booted" Schwartz after the latter made a flagrant violation of the holding rules.

A preliminary game was played between the Scotia town team and Andersen's Middlets, the latter team winning by a 15 to 10 score. Ross Blessing, McLain, Carlson, Baker, Gifford, Chaffield, Williams and Anderson played with the Ord team, Gifford and Blessing being high scorers. Grohosky looked best for Scotia.

It is probable that the Bowen Drugs will play in Ord again late in February. The All-Stars believe they can beat the Islanders at any time for money, marbles or chalk and are insisting on another chance to prove it.

PUSSYFOOT'S SPORTLOG

By GEORGE ROUND, JR

The co-partners in Mr. Joe Krejci and company's basketball team appear to be doing an about face in scoring points over what they accomplished last season if boxscores are correct. Evidently Beeghly and Jensen are out to break their 1930 records.

Sargent high school seems to have about the class of the Loup Valley conference if early season victories are any indication of strength. Initial games of the season have been won by large margins. Coupling of the basketball title as well as the football championship would mean a large feather in Sargent's cap.

Comstock and Ord high schools should have quite a battle when the two teams mix in the Custer county town tomorrow night. Comstock isn't as strong as usual and with Ord's improvement, there should be quite a tussle. Comstock has managed to defeat Ord in recent years and so the Krejci boys are anxious to gain a little revenge.

It will be my privilege to work the Ord-Comstock basketball game as an official. I haven't refereed in Comstock for a year or so and am hoping they haven't changed the way of throwing brick bats. Really, I could dodge them pretty well before. I do hate rotten tomatoes though.

Speaking of Comstock reminds me that there probably isn't a better town in the Loup Valley in which to referee basketball games. They always give the official a fair break.

Quiz reports of basketball games have it that the reserves are playing a sweet brand of basketball. Seems as though finally the Ord schools are realizing the value of bringing the boys up in a basketball spirit. Lack of it in past years has been one of the main reasons for the downfall of the sport and lack of material in my estimation.

Winning of several games by the reserves should go a long way toward developing real future stars for the Ord schools. Particularly do Smith and Nutter look good for the second-stringers, at least they did during Christmas vacation.

Wonder what the trouble is with Hank Armatis. The only peep I hear out of him is through the State Journal. There he sent a sample of a sign in to Oz Black. It read like this, "North Loup three miles. Will you die in eternity?" Black suggests that he doesn't believe the North Loup community club erected the sign. No they didn't.

Now listen Lynn and "Peanuts" there is no use of getting mad when you score at least one point during the season. Keep your head, don't let it get too big. With the hot stove league session about over, baseball players over the county should be warming up the old soup-bone. Particularly should Doug Barber and some of the other old-timers for Manager Ed Lange's Mira Valley Reds are secretly planning to carry away high honors in the farm bureau league this summer.

Warner's Roamers Will Play Again

Warner's Roamers will play again in Ord this season, the town team management announces this week. The fast travelling team from Iowa will appear against the All-Stars February 3. Manager R. D. Proctor insists that his men were "off" when they were defeated by the All-Stars two weeks ago and is so sure that the Roamers are the best team that he has proposed a side bet of $100.

Thanks Cane Givers. F. M. Davis asks the Quiz to express his thanks and appreciation to E. C. Weller and Albert McMindes for the fine cane they presented to him last week.

ELECTRIC WATER HEATERS MAY BE ON MARKET SOON

Ag Man Working On Idea. Stock Need Warm Water.

Experiments with a new idea along the lines of stock water heaters are being planned by E. P. Lewis of the engineering department at the agricultural college, Lincoln. He plans to begin work immediately upon the project.

Valley county farmers have always found the stock water heating a problem which they have been unable to cope with in a successful fashion. Some use different types of heaters and find them successful. Lewis may put a new one on the market that will make Ord farmers sit up and take notice, County Agent Dale infers.

The aim of the work is to develop a heater for a stock tank on a farm with available electricity that will eliminate the bother of refueling and excessive heating of other types of heaters and at the same time have a minimum cost of installation and operation.

"The value of having water at proper temperature for livestock and especially dairy cattle seems to be quite generally agreed," declares Lewis. "While there are several practical principles used in water heaters for stock tanks, the greatest degree of satisfaction possible has not as yet been attained."

"Many stockmen try to use a heater effectively on a large tank containing several hundred gallons of water with the result that in very cold weather the heater is unable to maintain the proper heat or at least without excessive cost. The economy in heaters for stock tanks comes in having only a small amount of water kept at the proper temperature. The temperature of the ground is about right when it runs into the tank only as it is needed, not a great amount of heat is required to maintain the temperature."

Lewis believes many Valley county stockmen would have less cost and bother with the present types of fuel heaters if they used small tanks and took advantage of the ability of the ground to keep the water above freezing temperatures.

This winter farmers around Ord and North Loup have not been bothered with tanks freezing over as in normal years, the weather being much warmer than usual. Nevertheless, they apparently are interested in the idea of finding a better type of tank heater.

KOELLING HEADS NEW ROPE CLUB

Live wire Club Organizes. Lewis Klein Leader.

Kenneth Koelling of Ord is president of the first rope club to be organized in Valley county for 1931. The club being known as the Live-wire 4-H rope club. Lewis E. Klein is the club leader.

Nine boys are members of the newly organized club. Lola Koelling is the vice-president; Harlan Wyrick, secretary; and Emma Smith, news reporter. Other members of the club include George Kupke, Gladys Collins, Evelyn Olla, Alberta Crosley, and Arnold Crosley.

The program of work calls for business meetings, demonstrations and judging. Achievement day will be held on May 6, according to initial plans. At that time club members will exhibit their work.

Led Farm Bureau To Big Success

C. C. DALE
C. C. Dale, county agricultural agent, led the Valley County Farm Bureau to the most successful year in its history in 1930. His crop judging team, which won the national championship, was the high point of the year. Now Agent Dale, assisted by Clare Clement, Mott Rathbun and others, is busy lining up calves for calf club work in 1931. About sixty calves will be bred by club members in Valley county this year, Mr. Dale says.

VALLEY COUNTY BOYS STAY FOR SECOND TERM

Last Period Opened Monday. Whitman, Campbell, Rich Attend.

The three Valley county farm boys enrolled in the farm operator's short course at the agricultural college, Lincoln, will probably stay for the second period, according to word received by the Quiz this noon from the college. Dean Whitman of Arcadia, John Campbell of Ord, and Harold Rich of North Loup are the three local boys attending the college.

Reports from Lincoln indicate that the first term closed last week. The second term was to open Monday of this week and will continue until early in the spring. Director Douthett of the short course informs the Quiz that nearly one hundred farm boys are enrolled for the course.

All three boys indicate in reports to the Quiz agricultural department that they like the course. Successive issues, according to present plans.

Pictures Will Show Seedling Growth Today

Mats and stories on the growth of seedlings distributed by the agricultural college extension service in the last four years will be pictured in the Quiz again this spring, according to word sent to Ord from the college at Lincoln today. Quiz readers will remember the mats and stories from last year on the agricultural age.

Four years of growth on the first of the seedlings show some real results, Clayton Watkins, extension forester, declares. A few of the farmers have received growth of seven to eight feet on their pine and ten to twelve feet on the broadleaved kinds. For the most part the illustrations will show the plantings the first year, then two, three, and four years later.

Valley county farmers have secured hundreds of trees distributed through County Agent Dale of Ord. The list of cooperators has steadily increased and Dale believes some real results can be observed over the county.

Trees that farmers may receive are planted for windbreak or woodlots.

HENS MAKE FIVE CENTS NET PROFIT

Account Cooperators' Report; One Here. Eggs Average Twenty-five Cents.

Reports of the January poultry accounting project carried on by thirty-three Nebraska poultrymen with the agricultural college indicate they received an average price of twenty-five cents a dozen for their eggs during the month. J. H. Claybaugh, extension poultryman, issued the report from the college this morning.

One Valley county poultry producer is among the cooperators. Each month the local person sends a copy of their cost accounting project to County Agent Dale in Ord who then forwards the copy to the agricultural college at Lincoln. At the end of the year the project is summarized for the Valley county person and he knows what profits or losses he made during the year.

Though poultry prices have been down along with the poultry products, Valley county poultrymen evidently aren't losing money in their business if the account report is true of the average producer. It shows the average net income per hen in the project for January to be five cents. It costs each cooperator on an average of eleven cents to keep one hen during the month. Each hen returned a gross average of sixteen cents to the owners.

One cooperator with the extension service reported an average production of 12.19 eggs for the month. The lowest average was but 2.1 eggs for the same period. Over eleven thousand hens were used in determining the costs of production during January, according to Claybaugh in his monthly poultry report.

Claybaugh indicates that one cooperator received an average price of forty-three cents a dozen for his eggs in January. This was probably due to superior products and efficient marketing, those at the agricultural college are inclined to believe. The lowest prices received during the month by any cooperator was seventeen cents.

Miss Atwood makes monthly visit. Women meet again Friday.

Valley county farm women are being told this week that optional health for the child is the physical ideal of childhood by Miss Atwood, state extension agent in charge of nutrition from the agricultural college. She is meeting extension club leaders in Ord today and Friday in her monthly meetings.

At each of the country training meetings, typical examples of a healthy boy or girl are brought to the meetings for the leaders to observe.

Miss Atwood advises Valley county farm extension club women to look for the outward manifestations of a well built body. The healthy boy or girl will have plenty of hair with a lustre due to sufficient natural oil and bright clear eyes, she tells local women at the Ord meeting today.

In addition, Miss Atwood stressed the value of a good color in the skin. She maintained that the skin of white children should be a ruddy pink. Certain nationalities and families naturally have paler skin even when the blood is normally rich in iron, she added in further explanation.

"It is more important that there should be a general muscular development than that certain groups of muscles should be exceptionally developed," she declared. "Let us have fine and strong muscles for the rural child."

An alert and happy expression usually means that the individual has a well functioning body, the college woman reminded Valley county women. The close relationship between bodily and mental health can not be too strongly emphasized, she said. It is the reflection of good physical health in a child's character which makes the effort to improve the health most worth while, she stresses in closing her Thursday's session in Ord.

Miss Atwood will meet similar group of club leaders in Ord tomorrow in another training school. Another healthy boy or girl will be brought in for the leaders to observe.

Farm Electric Lines To Be Constructed Next Spring

Fifty-five miles of electric lines to serve farmer customers will be installed in Valley county and the east part of Custer county early in the spring, a representative of the Western Public Service company told the Comstock News last week. A sufficient number of signers has already been secured to insure the line being built.

According to proposals one line will be built along the south highway from North Loup to the south highway between Ord and Comstock, another will run from Comstock north where it will go east and north again to the Jos. Waldmann farm, and another line will run from the North Loup line connecting at the Waldmann farm. A large number of farmers will be served by these various lines.

H. H. Barge, who revealed the public service company's plan, promised that construction would start early in the spring and that the various lines would be completed by late summer.

Farmers May Enter Pig Crops Contest

Again this year Valley county farmers have the opportunity of entering the pig crop contests, according to County Agent Carl C. Dale of Ord. He has entry blanks for local farmers who wish to enter and is urging that they get in soon. In the past not many Ord farmers have entered.

Each year the agricultural college honors Nebraska farmers who produce 1200 or more pounds of pork per sow. This year Honor Oschner of Madison won the state crown for the third successive year.

Although no farmers here in Valley county have officially produced 1,200 or more pounds of pork per sow, one 4-H club member made a ton litter out of his club project in six months. He was Hugh Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ward of Ord. He made his record two years ago.

Canning Meat Is Best This Year Says Miss Greene

"Weather conditions are unfavorable for the aging of butchered meat upon the farm and it is necessary for the housewife to can or freeze the surplus meat with a few days after butchering," declares Jessie G. Greene, assistant state extension agent in boys and girls 4-H club work at the agricultural college. Valley county farm women have found this to be true and are canning their meats this winter in preference to aging them.

In explaining the canning of meat for Ord women, Miss Greene says it keeps the meat indefinitely and preserves the natural flavor. It makes it possible for the housewife to serve fresh meat during the summer months and gives a better variety to the diet throughout the year.

Meat should never be canned unless it is fresh and from healthy animals. The boys and girls club agents for the surplus meat with meat will not make safe and wholesome if the meat has started to spoil. It cannot be canned unless it is in prime condition, she stresses for Ord women.

Frozen meat should not be used for curing or curing. Valley county farm women are advised that heat cannot penetrate the canned meat freely and brine cannot penetrate the cured meat evenly. Miss Greene advises the North Loup housewife to test out the jars before doing any canning. Each year the 4-H club exhibits have spoiled because the club members failed in this respect.

After the animal has been butchered, the college of agriculture woman advises letting it cool quickly and kept in that condition for forty-eight hours and then improved if the meat is aged from one to two weeks. After that the meat is to be cut into small pieces or strips that will fit into the jars, removing the large bones, gristle, and excess fat. It is then seared in the fat in a pan or boiling water so that it may be packed hot.

In filling the jar, Miss Greene advises Ord women that in removing a hot jar from the process water and packing with the hot prepared meat the housewife is to add one to two tablespoons of salt to the quart. The jar is then to be filled with boiling stock or boiling water and sealed. If the product is not boiling hot, a partial seal is made. After that the jars are to be processed and then stored in a cool dry place, according to Miss Greene.

Would Turn Birds Over To Farmers

World-Herald: Establishment of the European system of game protection and hunting reserves in Nebraska is to be proposed in a bill Senator Kenneth S. Wherry of Pawnee City will introduce before the legislature this week.

The plan consists of vesting the title to all non-migratory game birds, such as quail, pheasants and prairie chickens, in the farmers or land owners. The plan has been widely advocated during the past year by nationally known sportsmen and conservationists.

Under the provisions of the bill the individual farmers would be permitted to breed, propagate and exploit the game birds on their farm lands at their own discretion. They would have authority to grant hunters permission to shoot game birds on their land either on a seasonal or daily fee, or at no charge.

While such a plan would in effect place hunting of these game birds on a more or less commercial basis, the income would at the same time encourage farmers to propagate and protect game birds. Birds, such as quail, pheasants and prairie chickens, are the farmers' commission workers still in the open season and bag limits, but every farmer would automatically become a game warden protecting the birds on his own land in a manner that would insure them against extinction.

According to the theory on which the plan is based, it would mean more revenue for the farmers and more shooting for the sportsmen.

"Vermil alone destroys millions of birds annually," Senator Wherry asserted in behalf of his bill. "According to the theory on which the plan is based, it would mean more revenue for the farmers and more shooting for the sportsmen."

Filley Urges Tax Revision At Once

Believes Gas Tax Fair Except For Tractors. Suggests More Luxury Taxes.

A progressive income tax, more luxury taxes, a tax on cosmetics, gasoline exemption for tractor operation and other needs not related to roads, a tax on gross incomes of railroads, and a centralization of assessing power in a state tax commission or tax board are suggested to Valley county people by Prof. H. C. Filley of the agricultural college at Lincoln.

He believes a progressive income tax meets the various conditions of an ideal tax system better than any other one tax. It is not better than a combination of several taxes, however, Filley remarks for the benefit of Quiz readers.

Four qualities essential in a tax system that can be administered successfully are listed by Filley. He says it must be productive, must be flexible, dependable, and it should be economical.

Authorities agree fairly well, Filley says, that the burden of taxation should be based upon ability to pay and ability should be based upon income, less a certain exemption for living expenses. He listed the regulations of the federal income tax which is progressive rather than proportional, that is, the rate increases as the income becomes larger. This plan, Filley believes would be fair to everyone.

National law should be changed to make possible a uniform state income tax over the entire country in the estimation of the agricultural man. As it is now, if one state adopts an income tax plan of raising part of its revenue, riches may move to the neighboring state where there is no income tax assessed. If the national law enact income tax laws that would be uniform.

Luxury taxes, such as those on tobacco, furs, silks, and diamonds are classed by the speaker as fair and a good way to take some of the tax burden off the general property owner. A ten percent tax on the sale value of cosmetics would return a considerable revenue. This alone in Valley county would probably bring a large income.

Nebraska gas tax is fair except that it levies the same assessment on tractors as on automobile gas. Filley emphasizes. An exemption should be made for tractors and stationary gas engines, and for other uses not effecting highways, if the chance would be legally possible, the agricultural college man maintains.

A tax on the gross incomes of railroads would help solve the school district problem and the continual disagreement regarding the value of railway property, Filley believes. Such an arrangement is working in Minnesota.

Since railroads must locate terminal facilities at certain points to take care of the business from surrounding territory and are required to pay property taxes locally, some schools get much of their support at the expense of other districts not so fortunately located, but which may contribute heavily to the upbuilding of the railroad.

Speedy Relief for Sore Throat

This Doctor's Prescription Requires No Gargling

No longer is it necessary to gargle and choke with nasty tasting medicines to relieve sore throat. Now you can get almost instant relief with one swallow of a doctor's famous prescription. This prescription was refined so often that the druggist who originally filled it decided to put it under the name "Thoxine" and make it available to every one.

The remarkable thing about Thoxine is that it relieves almost instantly, yet contains nothing harmful. It is pleasant tasting, and safe for the whole family, and is guaranteed to relieve sore throat or coughs in 15 minutes or money back. Put up ready for use in 35c, 60c, and $1.00 bottles. Sold by Beranek's Drug Store and all other good drug stores.

Vodehnal Auction To Be Held Friday

E. E. Vodehnal's big reduction sale of stock and machinery is to be held tomorrow on the farm eight miles west and one mile north of Ord and will be one of the biggest of the season. Mr. Vodehnal is selling 56 head of cattle, 121 head of hogs, several horses, a good line of machinery, harness, collars, etc. Coles, Weller and Burdick are auctioneers. A full list of the offering appeared in last week's Quiz.

It's July All Year for This Cow

One man who likes lots of day in his dairy is J. Frank Zoller, of Schenck, N.Y., who has equipped his stables with sun lamps so that his cattle, when kept indoors during the winter months, may receive ultra violet rays artificially, like those they get in summer. One of his cows is shown here basking under a lamp.

POISONED BAIT KILLS POCKET GOPHERS BEST

Ag Man Recommends Use of Vegetables. Can Trap Also.

It won't be long until the ideal poisoning time for pocket gophers will be here for Valley county farmers is the suggestion offered today by O. S. Bare, extension entomologist at the agricultural college, Lincoln. He believes they may be poisoned as soon as the frost is out of the ground and the gophers begin working. The college man says poisoning is a much faster and cheaper way of exterminating them by trapping.

Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, carrots, parsnips, and sugar beets are good baits, Bare recommends. The vegetables are to be peeled and cut into pieces about one inch long by half inch square. After rinsing and draining the bait, a solution of one-eighth ounce strychnine alkaloid, one-eighth ounce common baking soda, and one-eighth ounce saccharine should be sifted over it. This mixture will cover one gallon of the bait.

Valley county farmers should remember that the poisoned bait must be placed in the main runway where the gopher will find it, the extension entomologist urges. Care must be taken, however, that the burrow is not disturbed enough to make the gopher become suspicious.

Bare suggests finding the main runway by probing the ground with a heavy, stiff wire or a wagon end gate rod. It will usually be found from four inches to a foot below the surface. When it is located, the hole made by the probe may be enlarged to allow a couple pieces of the poisoned bait to be dropped in. The opening should then be closed with a clod or small bunch of grass. Here Bare says care should be taken that loose dirt is not rolled down to cover the bait.

Farmers over the state may find that on large fields where gophers are numerous, it is a good plan to harrow down the mounds about a week before the poisoning is to be done, according to the college of agriculture man. Then poison only near the new mounds, he advises Valley county farmers.

Where only a few gophers are to be poisoned, it does not pay to mix a gallon of the poisoned bait, the entomologist recommends. A few poisoned raisins will do well. The raisins is to be split down the side. With the point of the knife, a strychnine crystal is to be inserted into each raisin when the raisin is pinched shut. It is dropped into each burrow just as in the case of the vegetable bait.

Considering that a few gophers are too smart to eat poisoned bait, Bare says they may be trapped successfully. Ordinarily steel traps are used but special pocket gopher traps are better.

ARCADIA YOUTH ATTENDING AG SHORT COURSE

Dean Whitman Enrolled. Likes Course. Taking Second Term.

Dean Whitman of Arcadia is one of the 100 Nebraska farm boys attending the farm operator's short course at the agricultural college, Lincoln, according to word reaching the Quiz today. He is enthusiastic over the course and plans to stay for the second term which opened Monday of this week.

Like John Campbell of Ord, Dean Whitman is one of the eight in the morning until five in the evening. He studies crops, soils, livestock, English and other subjects. He believes he is getting some practical information.

"Of all the subjects which I study, I believe I like agronomy best," Whitman says. "There I learn how to handle them. I sure was surprised at the number of mistakes we are making with our ground on the farm at home."

Machinery Cuts Labor Need For Corn Production

"Though many Valley county farmers do not realize it, the ten-acre corn yield contest has attracted national-wide attention mainly through the labor records that it has shown," declared D. L. Gross, extension agronomist at the agricultural college in Lincoln, Wednesday. "In the short space of seven years, labor utilized on an acre of corn has been nearly cut in two."

Valley county farmers have noticed the decreased number of hours needed in cultivating an acre of corn with the increased advantages offered by new and larger machinery, Agent Dale of Ord points out in accordance with Gross' statement. Corn pickers and the addition of the two, three, and four row cultivator has decreased the hours of labor needed here in Valley county, he stresses.

Gross shows by his records that an acre of corn in 1924 required to produce an acre of corn in 1924 in eastern Nebraska. Records for the 1930 contest show that it took but 5.6 hours of man labor for the same acreage. Likewise in other sections, the amount of labor required for each acre of corn has been cut down considerably.

Records show that a man handled 80 acres of corn in 1930 in the same time that it took to produce 50 acres in 1924. In western Nebraska, Gross points out if a man could handle 155 acres in 1930 he could handle 155 acres in 1924.

Gross emphasizes, however, that averages do not tell the whole story. A number of individual records are quite unusual. Floyd Brown of Stamford turned in the extraordinary record of 1.2 hours required per acre in the 1930 contest. The Stamford man disked, worked, listed the corn, used a 4-row cultivator for the first operation, then harrowed, and finally cultivated once more with his 4-row cultivator.

The gradual decrease in labor requirements has been brought about by the increasing use of larger machinery, the college of agriculture man maintains. Figures on seven years show the contest has been running show the increased number of large machinery on the contestant's farms has led to the reduced labor requirement.

There were three times as many eastern Nebraska farmers using the two, three, and four-row cultivators in 1930 as in 1924. Records show 86 percent of them used such cultivators in 1930. The percentage of increase was also noted in the other districts but not to such a great extent.

North Loup News

An auto accident occurred Sunday near the Vanfoosen farm when coupe driven by a Mr. Wilson of Broken Bow turned a somersault with its occupant escaping uninjured. Billings Clark brought the car to town and on Monday Mr. Wilson drove it to Grand Island for repairs.

A near serious accident took place Sunday afternoon the other side of St. Paul near Dublin, when as related by Mr. and Mrs. Leland Ernest, who appeared on the scene shortly afterwards, two cars, a Nash with eight occupants coming towards St. Paul and a Buick with two passengers on its way to Grand Island collided, the wheels locking. With wheels and fenders bent each car bounced to either side of the road and although much damage was done to both cars no one was injured. No particular blame was placed on either driver both asserting that blinded lights was the cause.

Many Auto Licenses Still To Be Issued

County Treasurer George L. Satterfield reports that up to Monday night about 1,800 auto licenses for 1931 have been issued. Omitting the number who have placed cars in storage for the winter and therefore will not secure licenses at once, this means that approximately 1,200 Valley county people must secure licenses before February 1 or else be unable to legally drive their cars on the public highways. About 3,000 licenses are usually issued in Valley county.

Wollers-Roseborough.

Mrs. Clarence Sigea and son, Albert, attended the wedding of her sister, Mrs. Nellie Wollers, of Ord, and B. F. Roseborough, of Omaha, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ellen Hunscoate, in Fullerton, Jan. 14.

The home was prettily decorated in roses in harmonious shades of red, pink and white and baby's breath with sufficient greenery to transform the interior to a fairyland of beauty. The marriage vows were administered in the large living room by Rev. L. Lohr, of Grand Island, in the presence of immediate members of the family, at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The bride was attended by her two sisters, Mrs. W. L. Douglas, of Newman Grove, and Mrs. Clarence Sigea, of Monroe.

Mrs. Roseborough was very attractive in her wedding attire which was of brown. She wore as her only ornaments the gift of the groom, diamond ear rings and white gold necklace with a diamond pendant. The matrons of honor were also becomingly dressed in brown.

After the wedding a formal three course dinner was served in the dining room where all the guests were seated at one table. Those attending the wedding besides those previously mentioned were Mr. Roseborough's daughter, Miss Irene, of Omaha, the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hunscoate, of Clarks, W. L. Douglas, of Newman Grove, her aunt, Mrs. Rhoda Marvel of Fuller-

PROPOSES PUT VALLEY COUNTY IN NEW DISTRICT

Bill Introduced by Wellensiek Is Meeting With Disfavor Here; Protests To Be Made.

Valley county will be in a new judicial district composed of Platte, Nance, Boone, Greeley and Valley counties if a bill proposed last week by Senator H. G. Wellensiek of Grand Island is adopted by the Nebraska legislature. The bill, which is one of several re-districting measures proposed on the plea of economy, is very unfair to Valley county, many believe, and strong protests will be made against its passage.

By re-districting judicial districts in the state Senator Wellensiek and others say that five district judges can be eliminated. Since district judges draw salaries of $5,000 annually passage of the bills will save the state $25,000 a year.

If Senator Wellensiek's bill is passed, Ord attorneys point out that judges in the new district always will be located at Columbus or in that end of the district since Platte and Nance counties will have the heaviest vote. As a result, it will be difficult to get service here with the judge located at such a distance. It will be a great inconvenience to everybody concerned and not nearly so satisfactory as the present district with two judges, one living in Grand Island and one in Ord.

More Wellensiek bill would form another new judicial district composed of Hall, Howard, Merrick and Hamilton counties. It would put Garfield and other counties to the north into a "sand hill" district with a judge residing probably at Bassett and still other counties in the present fifth district would be added to other districts in north and west Nebraska.

Bert M. Hardenbrook, who is president of the Valley county bar association, is planning to call a meeting this week to discuss the Wellensiek measure and Ord county attorneys are expected to be present.

H. B. VanDecar, president of the Ord Chamber of Commerce, is out of town so could not be reached but it is believed that this organization will complete a protest against passage of the Wellensiek bill in its present form.

Several other re-districting measures proposed at Lincoln are of interest to Valley county people. One of them would place Greeley and Valley counties in the same legislative district, another would put Sherman, Valley, Greeley and Garfield counties into a new senatorial district and several bills have been proposed to re-arrange U. S. congressional districts in the state. More complete details on these various measures will be available next week.

Henry Hiner's Mother Was Buried Saturday

Funeral services were held at the Christian church here last Saturday afternoon for Mrs. Elizabeth Cox, 75, who passed away at Sargent January 29 after a long illness. Rev. W. McCarthy had charge of the services and interment was in the Ord cemetery.

Elizabeth Kinser was born Feb. 23, 1855, in Springfield, O., and in 1870 was married to Samuel Hiner in Atchinson county, Missouri. Ten children were born, Mrs. Rose Anthony, Marysville, Mo., Mrs. Cora Smith, Ash Grove, Mo., Mrs. Anna Louisa, Comstock, Neb., Mrs. Lola Dennis, Los Angeles, Calif., Albert, Charles and Riley Hiner, Arthur, Nebr., Daniel Hiner, of Wyoming, Henry Hiner, of Ord, and Marjorie Hiner, of Comstock.

In later years, after Mr. Hiner's death, she was married to John Cox who passed away soon afterward. Mrs. Cox has been a member of the Christian church nearly all her life.

Sorensen Will Sell Dairy Stock Febr. 10

H. C. Sorensen is advertising a dispersion sale of his Holstein dairy stock in this week's issue of the Quiz. He has built up one of the good dairy herds of Valley county and his offering includes 41 head of cows, heifers and bulls, three of the cows being pure-bred and registered. Mr. Sorensen's offering also includes twenty head of stock hogs and a fine selection of saddle horses, as well as machinery and miscellaneous items. It will be one of the big sales to be held in the county this winter. His ad will be found on page 9.

Ground Hog Sees Shadow. Monday, February 2 was ground hog day and there is no doubt about the animal seeing his shadow, if he poked his head out of his burrow at all. The sun shone all day and the weather was mild as it has been throughout January and the first week of February. If there is any truth in the superstition Nebraska is certainly in for it now.

ALL-STARS BEAT HARVARD QUINT WITHOUT KREJCI

Star Center Is Ill But Ord Town Team Plays Close Defensive Game to Win 17 to 5.

Playing without the services of their star center, Joe Krejci, Monday night the Ord All-Stars took a weak Harvard Indian team into camp by the score of 17 to 5. The tight defensive game played by the All-Stars and the Indians' inability to connect with the basket spelled victory for the local town team. It was a rough game and only a small crowd was present.

Adams and Lashmet were high scorers for the All-Stars, the former having six points and Lashmet five. Adams was at center in place of the absent Krejci and was getting the tip-off frequently, also playing an excellent floor game. He did not begin hitting the basket until late in the second half but dropped three field goals through in succession to grab off high scoring honors.

Jensen and Beeghly, Ord's star guards, were right in the thick of the fight and the small score made by the Indians can be attributed largely to their fine work. Ike Blessing also was a big factor in the Ord defense. Caroski, Christensen and Carlson also saw service, Syl and Swede each contributing a field goal.

HALF CENTURY VALLEY COUNTY RESIDENT DIES

Former Ord Blacksmith Passes On Jan. 29 at Home in Mitchell; Buried Here Monday.

Francis E. Hewett, 80, a resident of Ord for nearly a half century, passed away January 29 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Collins, in Mitchell, and the body was brought to Ord for burial. Funeral services were held at the Sowl funeral parlors at 2 p. m. Monday, Rev. W. H. Wright having charge, and burial was made in the Ord cemetery.

Mr. Hewett was born at Bushnell, Mich., Aug. 29, 1850 and when death came to him last Thursday he was 80 years, 4 months and 29 days of age.

In 1872 he was married to Miss Margaret Ohler, who died in Ord many years ago. To the union four children were born, Frederic Earl, Frank, Edith Estelle and Mrs. Frances Collins. With the exception of Mrs. Collins they all preceded their father in death and are buried in the Ord cemetery.

Mr. Hewett was a pioneer blacksmith in Ord and was a familiar character to all early residents. He moved to Scottsbluff from Ord several years ago and though he has no close relatives living here his funeral Monday was attended by a large number of old friends.

COUNTY BOARD DECIDES PAY CROW BOUNTY

Will Pay 5c for Each Crow, 25c For Each Dozen Eggs Turned In After March First.

Sportsmen, get out the old shot-gun. If you can shoot straight enough Valley county will pay for the shells you use!

This was decided Tuesday at the regular monthly session of the county board when Supervisor Joseph Vasek introduced a resolution to pay a 5c bounty on crows and it was passed unanimously. The bounty will become effective March 1, 1931 and will be paid until January 1, 1932.

The board's action came in response to petitions circulated last week by Albert Gaylord, which were liberally signed by farmers and stockmen throughout the county. More than 200 signatures were appended to petitions he presented to the board Tuesday.

According to the terms of the resolution passed Tuesday the bounty will be paid only on crows killed after February 13 and no claim for less than $1.00 will be paid. The county also will pay a bounty of 25c per dozen on crow eggs.

To secure the bounty heads of crows must be turned in at the office of County Clerk Ign. Kilma. In general the provisions of a state law governing the paying of bounties will be followed.

A word of warning is broadcast by Bert Lashmet, state deputy game warden in this locality. Before you polish up the old scatter-gun and sally forth for crows be sure you have a 1931 hunting license in your possession. It is illegal to shoot even crows without a hunting license, Warden Lashmet says.

Rotarians Have 100 Per Cent Attendance

The Ord Rotary club had 100 per cent attendance at its meeting Monday, the first perfect attendance session since early in December. Guests were H. A. Rapke, architect for the new theater building, and W. W. Haskell. Both spoke briefly. Next Monday Rotarians will visit the Ord schools after the regular weekly luncheon.

150 PRESENT AT YOUNG PEOPLE'S MEETING IN ORD

Methodist Churches of Valley Send Fine Representation To Conference Here.

More than 150 young people from Methodist churches of Loup City, Greeley, Scotia, North Loup, Arcadia, Burwell, Erickson and Ord were present last Friday evening and Saturday at a young people's conference held in the Ord Methodist church. The conference culminated in a fine banquet Saturday evening.

Speakers at the conference included Rev. A. V. Hunter, of Hastings, Rev. H. E. Hess, of Kearney, Prof. F. M. Gregg, of Nebraska Wesleyan, Rev. W. C. Fawell, university pastor from Lincoln, Mrs. M. E. Gilbert, dean of women at Wesleyan university, and also pastors of the various Methodist churches represented.

At the banquet Saturday evening music was furnished by Prof. Theo Toenneges and his orchestra. Rev. Hunter served as toastmaster and toasts were given by Ilda Mitchell, Scotia, Dorothea Schoemaker, Arcadia, Mary Manchester, North Loup, Bernice Froxell, Burwell, Ethel Saxton, Loup City, and Dorothy Green, Erickson. The address of the evening was given by Rev. Hess. A solo by Elwin Auble also was a feature.

Ord-Arcadia Road Complete July 1st

Bids for graveling the "missing link" of 7.3 miles on the Ord-Arcadia highway are being advertised for this week by the department of public works, Lincoln. Approximately 99,800 square yards of sand gravel will be required to finish the work. Bids must be in by February 27, the work must start by May 1 and it must be completed by July 1, according to the notice to contractors.

Notice to Correspondents. The Quiz will be issued on Wednesday next week in the form of a special edition to announce the opening of the new Ord Theater. Please get your copy 24 hours earlier than usual and at least not later than Tuesday night.

Everything In Readiness For Theater Opening

Final preparations are being made this week end for the formal opening of the new Ord theater, which is to be next Thursday evening, February 12. The opening picture "Whooped" with Eddie Cantor, will also be shown Friday and Saturday evenings and in matinee performances Friday and Saturday afternoons. Prof. Theo Toenneges will conduct the orchestra at the formal opening.

H. A. Rapke, of Omaha, architect for the new structure, has been in Ord this week going over the theater and directing the finishing touches. A multicolor sidewalk in a cob-web effect has been laid in front of the building which gives a striking effect.

Workmen have been busy inside the theater this week laying carpets, installing seats, hanging drapes, and getting the sound and projection equipment installed. The last day or so before the opening will be devoted to tests to see that all equipment is working perfectly.

WILL MOON, JR. HURT IN AUTO CRASH TUESDAY

Found Unconscious On Loup City Road After Car Overturned; Still In Hospital.

Will Moon, Jr., is in Hillcrest hospital here suffering with injuries he received Tuesday afternoon when his car overturned on the Loup City road about three miles south of Ord. He was thrown clear of the car but was quite badly hurt.

Young Moon was found by Clarence Blessing and Clifford Goff, who were driving into town from the south. They found him lying face down beside the road, covered with blood and mud, and at first supposed him dead.

He was brought to the Ord hospital by Dr. C. J. Miller, sewed up his wounds, which included a long, deep cut around his brow and a bad gash on one wrist. The young man recovered consciousness while the surgeon was caring for him and as he appeared to be recovering he was allowed to leave the hospital. Later he became worse and was taken to the hospital where he is being cared for by Dr. Kirby McGrew. His chest also appears to be hurt.

As far as can be learned Moon lost control of his car about 3-4 of a mile south of A. W. Cornell's farm home. The car started for the ditch, Moon gave the wheel a twist to right and the car went off the grade, tipping over twice. His injuries are not dangerous, doctors say.

Ord People Attend Legion Convention

Among Ord people attending the district American Legion and Auxiliary convention held last Friday in Broken Bow were H. H. Hohn, Lawrence Berger, Ernest Achen, C. J. Mortensen and E. L. Vogel, who went as Legion delegates, and Mrs. C. J. Mortensen and Mrs. Cecil Clark, who represented the Auxiliary. Mrs. W. L. McNutt took the women delegates over. Among the speakers were State Commander Marcus L. Poteet, District Commander Henry Kriz and Col. Robert G. Douglas. A splendid banquet was served at the Arrow hotel.

Elwood Murray Made Doctor of Philosophy

Elwood Murray, a former teacher in the Ord schools and a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Prince of Ord, was given a degree as doctor of philosophy from the University of Iowa on January 27. Mr. Murray graduated from Hastings college in 1922 and was given his master's degree by Iowa university in 1924. Since leaving Ord he has been an instructor in Abraham Lincoln high school, Council Bluffs, at Midland college, where he headed the department of speech, at Purdue university, where he was director of debate, and at the University of Iowa, where he was a fellow in speech. While teaching English and coaching debaters in Ord high school during 1922-23 he developed winning debate teams, almost the last success Ord has had in the debating line.

Fined For Assault. North Loup, Feb. 4.—(Special.)—In justice court here Monday Clyde Hutchins pleaded guilty to charge of assault and battery upon Elmer (Hollywood) Drawbridge and was fined $5 and costs. According to the account of the affair related in court, Mr. Hutchins ran into a car driven by Edgar Crockett, of Horace, in which young Drawbridge was riding. The latter used strong language in rebuking him, whereupon Hutchins struck him.

ECONOMY WILL BE PROGRAM OF COUNTY BOARD

Resolution to Reduce Salaries of County Employees Loses Out; Paupers to File Proof.

Stringent economy in conducting county affairs will be the program of Valley county's new supervisors, it appeared at the regular monthly session of the board held Tuesday of this week. The tax burden is constantly becoming higher and if it is to be reduced public affairs must be run on a striking economy, supervisors decided.

The first economy measure was a resolution proposed by S. V. Hansen to reduce the salaries of all patrolmen and all county highway and bridge employees ten per cent. A majority of the supervisors, however, believed that these employees are not paid any too highly at present and the resolution was voted down, 4 to 3. Chairman James, Sorensen, Ciochon and Vasek voted no to the proposal. Supervisors Hansen, Johnson and Barber favoring it.

Former Ord Girl Passes In Omaha

Ord relatives and friends were shocked Tuesday when advised that Mabel Clements Brewer of Omaha had died suddenly that morning. Mabel was the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barton Clements. She was born in Ord, December 8, 1906 and moved to Omaha with her mother following the death of her father. She grew to womanhood there and was married to Walter Brewer, but has mostly been out of touch with Ord relatives and friends in recent years. She is survived by her husband and little girl, her mother and two sisters, all in Omaha, besides many relatives in this vicinity.

The remains will be brought to Ord this Thursday evening, and funeral services will be held from Sowl's funeral parlors at 10 o'clock Friday morning and interment will be beside her father in the Ord cemetery.

LEGION WILL SHIP CARLOAD FOOD TO DROUTH VICTIMS

James McCall Heads Committee To Arrange Aid; Donations Of Food Stuffs Wanted.

The Ord post, American Legion, will add drouth sufferers in Arkansas by the shipment of a carload of food here, Chairman McCall announced at a meeting of the Legion and Auxiliary. Commander C. J. Mortensen appointed a committee composed of J. D. McCall, James B. Ollis and H. H. Hohn to make arrangements to ship the food and this committee is now active. The car will probably leave Ord early next week.

Thousands in Arkansas and other southern states are said to be almost starving because of the drouth and the Red Cross and other relief organizations have been collecting food in northern states and shipping it to the drouth area for some time. Cars left Loup City and other nearby towns this week.

The Legion will work with other organizations in collecting the food here, Chairman McCall announced. All imperishable food stuffs, particularly flour, corn meal and cured meats, will be gratefully received. Farmers are asked to donate wheat or corn and arrangements are being made to have the grain processed by the Ord Milling Company. Cash donations also will be gratefully received and used to purchase food, Chairman McCall says.

Railroads have been generous in shipping food to drouth sufferers without transportation charges and it is believed the local roads will do this here.

Anyone wishing to help the project along is asked to get in touch with one of the committee members at once.

Firemen's Ball Tomorrow. The annual ball of the Ord Fire department will be the Friday evening feature event in Ord. Show your appreciation for the fire boys by attending or at least by purchasing a ticket.

Archie Boyce Will Sell. Archie Boyce will hold a general clean-up sale on the farm ten miles south of Ord on Davis Creek Monday, Feb. 16. See his ad in next week's Quiz. 46-11

E. C. Weller and Dr. F. A. Barta were Omaha business visitors the first of the week.

Chop Suey Lindy

You can judge for yourself whether or not Zensaku Azuma, above, was glad to get back to his San Francisco restaurant after his famous solo flight in which he flew across the United States, shipped his plane to Europe and then flew to Tokyo by way of Europe and Siberia. He is shown here sampling his chop suey, profits from which enabled him to finance the flight.

OTTO HILL STILL MISSING, FAMILY BEGINS SEARCH

Radio Enlisted in Hunt for Absent North Loup Man; Insanity Advanced As Theory.

Alarmed at the continued absence of Otto R. Hill, manager of the Farmers Grain & Supply company elevator at North Loup, members of his family Monday enlisted the aid of county and state officers in an attempt to learn his whereabouts. Nothing has been heard from him since he disappeared from a church at Central City on January 25.

Omaha radio stations were broadcasting the number of Mr. Hill's car Monday in an attempt to find him but so far nobody has reported seeing a car with the number 47-996.

One theory advanced to account for Mr. Hill's continued absence is that his mind became affected because of family misfortunes. It is also considered possible that he is suffering from amnesia, or loss of memory.

Auditors are still working on Farmers Grain & Supply company books but so far nothing wrong has been discovered. The audit probably will be completed this week.

Weekes Injures Arm, Has Lucky Escape From Blood Poison

Dr. C. W. Weekes returned last Friday night from Chicago, where for three weeks he had been taking special work in large hospitals of that city. Enroute home he stopped in Onawa, Ia., to visit his daughter, Mrs. Robert Oliver, and while visiting in her home tore his arm slightly on a protruding nail. He thought little about the injury and came on home. Monday the arm was badly swollen and he had to be hospitalized. Tuesday was confined to his bed, having had a narrow escape from blood poisoning. He is recovering nicely.

Fined $50 Because He Struck Father

When he pleaded guilty in county court Tuesday to a charge of striking his aged father, Oliver Boettger, 27, was fined $50 and costs by Judge J. H. Hollingshead. The complaint was filed by his father, Charles Boettger, who is 63 years old. Evidence brought out in court showed that last Sunday young Boettger and his father became embroiled in an argument and the young man knocked his father down with a blow on the side of the head, later kicking him. Young Boettger paid his fine and costs of $8.25.

Fire Department Called. About 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the Ord fire department was called to the Orville Sowl residence but their services were not required. A girl employed in the Sowl home had wiped off the electric stove with an oiled cloth. The stove was hot and the wiper evidently caught fire after she put it away. The house filled up with smoke. They could not locate the cause of the smoke at once so play safe and turned in a fire alarm. No damage was done.

ORD GOES INTO SEMI-FINALS OF VALLEY TOURNEY

Krejci-men Beat Scotia, Will Play Danneberg Tonight; Sargent, St. Paul Play.

THE TOURNAMENT AT A GLANCE.

Results Tuesday Night. North Loup, 16; Taylor, 7. St. Paul, 24; Comstock, 15. Danneberg, 22; Loup City, 5.

Results Wednesday Night. Ord, 21; Scotia, 11. Sargent, 24; Burwell, 6. St. Paul, 21; North Loup, 15.

By beating Scotia 21 to 11 in the second round of the Loup Valley tournament last night, Coach Joe Krejci's Ord high school cagers go into the semi-finals tonight against Danneberg. Probably the two strongest teams in the tourney, Sargent and St. Paul, will meet in the other semi-final clash. Saturday night the winners of these two games will meet in the finals, the silver basketball emblematic of the Loup valley championship going to the winner. A consolation game will be played between the two losing teams tonight.

The tournament opened here Tuesday night when North Loup beat Taylor, St. Paul eliminated Comstock and Danneberg snowed Loup City under. The St. Paul-Comstock game was the most thrilling of the evening, Dobry piling up the biggest scoring feat of the tourney when he scored 20 of St. Paul's 26 points. Ayres was the big shot in Comstock's locker but the Custer county boys yielded to the Paulites in the closing moments.

North Loup romped over Taylor with even more ease than the score indicates, Jefferies and Babcock looking best for the winners. Danneberg took it easy with Loup City but won 22 to 5.

The St. Paul-North Loup game was the best played Wednesday evening. The St. Paul boys took a big lead in the first half but Coach Bailey's proteges came back strong in the third quarter and before it was many minutes old lead 12 to 11. They spent their efforts in that one burst of speed, however, and St. Paul came back with their long passing game to win handily, 21 to 15. North Loup fought hard and had the crowd pulling for them but couldn't pull through with a win. Sample, Jefferies and Sayre looked best for North Loup while Dobry, Harvey and Crowe starred for St. Paul.

Coach Krejci's Ord team turned in a good performance when they eliminated Scotia Wednesday after drawing a bye in the first round. Father and Son were playing well at guards and Everett Lashmet piled up 6 points to lead the scoring. Sternberg was the leading Scotia scorer.

The Sargent team flashed the best basketball of the tournament in the first half of their game with Burwell last night. With Clark Metcalf leading the attack they had Burwell down 17 to 5 at half time. In the final periods Sargent substituted freely but still outscored Burwell in the second half and won 24 to 6.

In games tonight Ord is given only an outside chance to beat Taylor last night. The team from that village gave Krejci's men a sound thumping a couple of weeks ago and unless the Ordites play better ball than they have this season they are due for another. The Sargent-St. Paul game is the real feature attraction of the evening but on the face of their performances last night Sargent should win with ease. However, St. Paul is always dangerous and a large crowd of fans probably will crowd the Ord gymnasium to see the twin bill.

Warner's Roamers Out For Revenge

Warner's Roamers, the fast traveling basketball team from Iowa who were defeated by the Ord All-Stars here a few weeks ago, are determined to get revenge in their return game Monday night, Feb. 9. They have been going hot since leaving this city for the west and so far have been beaten only once. Paxton turned the trick, stopping the Roamers 23 to 18. Town teams they have beaten include Brush, Colo., McCook, Potter, Brule, Scottsbluff, McCook Junior College, Loveland, Colo., and several Kansas teams. Captain Joe Krejci will be fully recovered from effects of the flu by Monday night and a fast game is expected.

Marriage License Issued. Judge J. H. Hollingshead issued a marriage license Tuesday to Miss Genevieve Bogus, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bogus, and Edward Zulowski, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zulowski. Both are from the Elyria neighborhood and the marriage will take place next week.

Ord Church Notes

United Brethren Church.
Sunday school at 10 o'clock. Preaching at 11. Subject, Christian College. Christian Endeavor at 6:30. At 7:30. Address by Prof. Bell, Superintendent of Ord schools. H. H. Spracklen, Pastor.

Methodist Church.
We have announced two special topics for the next two Sunday nights. Our people want to know about this "divine healing" and "speaking in tongues." So next Sunday night the subject will be: "Divine Healing." What about it? Are those who practice it healers or fakers? The Sunday night following it will be: "Speaking in American versus Speaking in Tongues."

The Sunday school in attendance is keeping above the 100 mark. Let the good work go on. Perhaps we can make it 250 by Easter. Our congregations, too, are growing. It is encouraging.

This is the committee for the next Get-together: Mesdames Wilbur Rogers, Glen Auble, W. O. Wright. The men are Clayton Noll and Rodney Stoltz.

Well, I nearly forgot that next Sunday is Lincoln Sunday and we will speak at 11 o'clock on "The Man who always finds the wind, Abraham Lincoln."
W. H. WRIGHT.

Presbyterian Church Notes.
There will be the regular Sabbath school and preaching services at 9:45 and eleven o'clock. Rev. Reale's sermon will be on Social Service. His topic for the evening service at seven thirty o'clock will be "The Boy Isaac." Everybody is cordially invited to these services.

The Trustees will meet at the church Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m.

Sabbath school attendance is growing by leaps and bounds—but there is still room for improvement. Come again next Sunday and bring a friend. The missionary exercises given by the Primary grades were especially interesting and followed by Rev. Reale's strong appeal in favor of world-wide missions.

Mrs. Marjorie Sorensen is in charge of fourth and fifth grade pupils who are meeting at the church next Friday night at 7:30 p. m. They formed a club called "The Friendly Indians" and their study will be character building.

There will be an oyster supper held at the church Saturday night for the Young People's Sunday school class. A large attendance is expected.

One of the largest crowds that ever assembled here were present at the wedding dance of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Cernik at the National hall Tuesday. They were married at Ord that afternoon attended by Miss Agnes Vodehnal and Will Van Cura and Miss Minnie Cernik and Rudolph Vodehnal. The bride was beautifully gowned in white crepe and lace and wore a wreath and veil. Her attendants wore gowns fashioned from yellow lace and chiffon. The bride received an abundance of beautiful and useful presents. We join with their many friends to wish them happiness.

The Detroit Board of Fire Commissioners, through the fire prevention bureau, has issued a warning that death, injury and fire are always present when highly inflammable fluids are used in home dry cleaning. They emphasize the fact that, because of the readiness with which gasoline and similar fluids evaporate, the fumes find their way to open flames, though not being used near such hazards, serious explosions resulting. In addition, it is pointed out that static electricity generated through rubbing the clothing is a frequent cause of explosions. Grim proof of this is the fact that during a single year almost 700 women lost their lives in the United States when static electricity, induced by friction, caused the ignition of the garment being cleaned, with a resultant explosion and loss of life and destruction of property, in many instances.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT Have you ever stopped to take notice of how your neighbor student studies? Have you ever thought that studying reveals interesting traits and characteristics he has? The manner in which he studies now, reveals before hand how he will do his work when he goes out into the world.

A shiftless, careless, and lazy student is only practicing bad habits that he probably will carry with him in his after school life, or else he will have to "snap" into it and change his manner completely.

There are, also, the students who never seem to have or show any enthusiasm. The lack of enthusiasm is a great obstacle—it holds him in the background. He is never a leader.

Busyness is another characteristic which is a hindrance to one's personality. A little busyness is often pleasing, but too much only shows that the person lacks self-confidence. His ideas are left unsaid even though they be of good judgment.

Let us be sure that our studying reveals only good characteristics. Thelma Palmatter

Arcadia News

By MRS. RAY GOLDEN

Club Holds Good Meeting.
The Arcadia Community club held their first meeting of the year at the Methodist church basement Tuesday evening, January 27th. The Ladies Aid society of the church served another of their excellent club dinners at seven o'clock. Several new members were welcomed into the club at this meeting. At the business session which followed the dinner, committees were appointed to take charge of certain road matters which have had the attention of the club for some time. An entertainment committee was appointed to bring this to a successful conclusion.

After the business session an old fashioned spelling bee was held. W. J. Ramsey and Claris Bellinger were the winners. The members of the club being chosen and the losing side which proved to be Claris Bellinger's is to treat the winners to an oyster supper at the Methodist church basement at 7 p. m. February 10th. This feature of the club is quite entertaining as well as disclosing the fact that Arcadia is blessed with several business men that evidently attended school where spelling was started in, at least occasionally. C. W. Ingar and H. D. Weddel were the last two standing on Mr. Ramsey's side while C. O. Rettenmayer and Dan Bartlett were the successful members of Mr. Bellinger's group. Rettenmayer, Starr and Bartlett went down in order having Weddel the undisputed champion speller of the club.

Gets Contract at Sargent.
At a meeting of the board of education held at Sargent January 27 Oscar Almqvist of Central City was awarded the general contract for the construction of a $55,000 addition to the Sargent high school. Nineteen bidders submitted estimates. The Crawford Electric company of North Platte received the contract for lighting and the Castens company, of Omaha was awarded the contract for heating. The estimated cost of the building is $40,000, the remaining $15,000 to be divided among lighting and heating.

Better Maintainer Service.
County Engineer Ayres advises us that soon after the first of March another maintainer will be put in service in this section of the county and will be stationed at Arcadia to cover the territory west to the Custer county line, southeast to the Sherman county line and north probably to the Ord-Comstock highway. One Suppers will be in charge of the maintainer.

This should result in a decided Improvement in the condition of the county roads leading into Arcadia as the maintainer will be in a position to give service when it is needed.

H. D. Bridges Passes Away.
H. D. Bridges received worse last week that his brother, H. D. Bridges, had passed away January 22nd at his home in Los Angeles, Calif. Had Mr. Bridges lived but four days longer he would have reached the age of sixty-eight years. His death came as a shock to his Arcadia relatives who were not aware of his serious condition. Just recently he shipped his brother and family a box of delicious fruits and vegetables and at that time wrote that he was recovering from an attack of the influenza. No further word had been received from him until the announcement of his death. The body was cremated at Los Angeles according to his wishes and the remains taken to Red Oak Iowa to be buried beside his wife.

Mr. Bridges resided in Arcadia on a farm now occupied by the L. G. Arnold family during the years 1892-93 and will no doubt be remembered by many residents here.

Wiley-Burnett.
The marriage of Mrs. Pearl Wiley and Bert Barnett both of Boise City, Okla. took place at Loup City, Saturday, January 31st.

Mrs. Wiley is the daughter of Mrs. J. F. Garner and came to Arcadia last week in company with Mr. Burnett to attend the funeral of her father, J. F. Garner.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnett returned to Boise City the forepart of the week where they will reside on a farm.

Farmers Club Meets.
The Farmers club held their January meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Holmes last Saturday. Ninety-eight were present. The morning was spent socially, followed by a sumptuous dinner at one o'clock.

Following dinner the meeting was called to order by the chairman, John White. The following numbers comprised the program: song, Artie Holmes; recitation, Clinton Stone; vocal duet, Kathryn Holmes and Betty Horner; music, Lee Park orchestra; music, violin and piano, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Fenster; song, young folks; recitation, Ura Stone; music, accordion and piano, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Holmes; dialogue, "Storm Clouds"; Blanche Chitcock and Evelyn Barr; music, Ruth and Millard Leudtke and Chas. Leudtke; song, "America."

The February meeting will be held Saturday, February 28th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Pearson.

Glendale Literary To Meet.
The Glendale Literary society will meet at the Glendale school house Friday evening, Febr. 6th. An interesting program will be given.

Hatches 16 Baby Chicks.
Even the chickens think spring is here and as a result an ambitious hen at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Holmes surprised them January 2nd when she appeared with sixteen fluffy baby chicks. The hen had hidden her nest in the hay barn and every egg which she had in her nest hatched.

Debate at Taylor.
Arcadia's two debating teams, their sponsors Horace Mott and Supt. C. C. Thompson drove to Taylor, Wednesday evening of last week where both teams debated on the subject "Resolved: that the nations should disarm except for such forces as are needed for police purposes."

The Arcadia affirmative team composed of Mary Elizabeth Cook, Margurite Rettenmayer and Harold Gates defeated Taylor's negative team composed of Roger Cochran, Orville Marsh and Glen Jamison lost to Taylor's affirmative team.

Practiced Class Play.
The Junior class of the Arcadia

Easy as Pie Baking in This Oven

Johnny wouldn't have long to wait if a mother baked her pastry in a steel treating oven like the one above. Pretty Janice Miller, above, is shown trying it out with a pie.

high school began practicing this week on their class play, "The Man in the Green Shirt" which will be given some time in March. Miss Muriel Majors, class sponsor, will direct the play which is a three act comic mystery. There are ten members in the cast.

Take Pictures for Annual.
Mr. Hartman, of the Nelson studios at Hastings and Holdrege, was in Arcadia last Thursday and Friday for the purpose of taking pictures of the high school students for publication in the high school annual.

Individual pictures were taken of the senior class and group pictures were taken of the other high school grades and high school organizations. The Annual will appear shortly before the close of the school year.

Eighth Grade Exams Given.
Eighth grade examinations for the students of the surrounding rural schools were given at the high school building last Friday under the direction of Miss Mary Sutton, instructor of the Arcadia 8th grade. A large number of pupils took the examinations.

Special Church Services.
Dr. Frank R. Finch, state worker in religious educational work will be in Arcadia this week-end and have charge of the services at the Methodist church. Saturday evening he will speak to the officers and teachers of the Sunday school and Sunday morning he will address both the Sunday school and the church congregation. If it is possible for him to remain Sunday evening he will also have charge of the evening service, if not a special speaker will be present.

Community Club Oyster Supper.
Those members of the Community club who took part in the spelling bee at the last meeting should bear in mind the date of the oyster supper, Tuesday evening, February 10th at seven o'clock at the Methodist church basement.

Those who were not present at the last meeting are to come to attend the oyster supper but are requested to make reservation with the chairman so there will be plenty of food for all.

American Legion Auxiliary Convention.

The ninth annual convention of the sixth district, American Legion auxiliary, convened at Public Service club at Broken Bow, Jan. 30, with a large crowd and an excellent program.

The Arcadia unit was represented by the president, Mrs. Wm. Gregory, and six members, Mrs. W. Boone, Mrs. D. O. Hawley, Mrs. J. G. Cruikshank, Mrs. F. H. Christ, Mrs. A. E. Aufrecht and Miss Myrtle Forbes. The work of their unit equalled that of some of the much larger units and has a national citation for increase in membership.

Mrs. D. R. Lee and son Alvin drove to Grand Island Saturday for a visit with the former's father, B. D. Allen who is a patient at the St. Francis hospital.

Relatives in Arcadia have received word of the birth of a ten pound son to Mr. and Mrs. Lester McCormick at Silver Creek. Mrs. McCormick is a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Hendrickson. Mrs. Hendrickson is at Silver Creek at present.

J. C. Ward and H. F. Tucker were in Grand Island last Thursday on business.

Clayton Richardson returned from Denver last week where he had been employed for some time. W. G. Eastman and Francis Marsh drove to Grand Island Monday day to attend a stock sale. Mrs. Klintworth, trained nurse who had been caring for Clarence Marsh, returned to her home at Grand Island with them. Clarence's friends will be glad to learn that he is recovering splendidly.

Dr. C. D. Langrall received a letter from Mrs. G. W. Thompson recently in regard to signing certificates for Daryl Thompson which would assist him in entering an aviation school. The Thompson family are located at Whittier, Calif. and from all reports are getting along splendidly and are very much pleased with the country and climate. Daryl is fortunate in being located where he can enter a school of his choice.

Relatives in Arcadia have received word that Mrs. John Hyatt, is very ill with pneumonia at a hospital in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Hyatt have been residing in Chicago where Mr. Hyatt is attending school and Mrs. Hyatt who is a trained nurse, has been working in a hospital. Both are former residents of the Clear Creek neighborhood.

While visiting in Lincoln last week M. L. Fries had the honor of being asked to address both the senate and the house of representatives. This privilege is very unusual and was greatly appreciated by Mr. Fries.

John Chipps, who has been ill for several weeks with inflammatory rheumatism, was taken to Hot Springs, Ark. last week in the hopes of bettering his condition.

Mrs. Martha Aubert is having an extra room built on the north side of her residence. The room is 12x12 and will be used as a bed room.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold McCleary of Grand Island, Neb. spent Saturday and Sunday with the latter's mother, Mrs. Emma McGavran.

Mr. and Mrs. Rulan Leach and children were Grand Island visitors Monday.

Mrs. Hubert Leach was able to be brought to her home last Saturday from the St. Francis hospital in Grand Island where she had recently undergone an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Walker and children left last Friday for their home at Beatrice after spending two weeks with Mrs. Walker's brother, Ray Braden and family. Mrs. Brown and Bonnie took them to Beatrice in her car and remained for a few days visit.

Faith and Works

Two boys aged ten and twelve were playing when the larger one transgressed the rights of the other, who immediately withdrew and sat down at the other side of the lawn. After awhile the larger boy, tired of solitary playing called out "Say George, come on back! I'm sorry."

But George warily asked: "What kind of sorry? The kind so you won't do it again?"—Christian Ad-vent.

The opinions of some folks are like a bottle of pop; they soon go flat when exposed to air.

Congressman's Wife Says Afternoon Tea Chief Indoor Sport Of Capital

While bridge seems to be the chief indoor sport of most cities, in Washington, it is attendance at afternoon teas. Much is said and written about the complicated system of call-making among official people. It is so extensive that a wife of a new Member of Congress will make in one season, if she is conscientious about it, around six hundred first calls, to say nothing of those which she must return. If some of these calls can be made at afternoon teas, of course, it is more pleasant. Many ladies have them.

Five days of the week are set apart for calling. On Monday, the calls are made on the wives of the Chief Justices; on Tuesday, on the wives of Congressmen; on Wednesday, on the wives of Senators; on Friday on the wives of diplomats.

Of the diplomats, there are so many (fifty-three embassies and legations), that some of their ladies are always at home on Friday. Last Friday we called on several.

All of the countries, even the smaller ones, have beautiful legations or embassies. One center near which are located ten or more is upper Sixteenth Street. This grouping is due to one remarkable woman, the widow of a Senator from Missouri. She owned much property along Sixteenth Street, and conceived the idea of making it an outstanding locality. She built her own home there, called Boundary Castle because at that time it was on the edge of the city. It looks like pictures of old European castles, and is one of the show places of Washington. Then she gradually built along the street beautiful buildings after her own plans, and succeeded in renting or selling them to different countries for embassies or legations. One of the most beautiful of these she offered as a gift to the government as a home for the Vice President. It was refused for two reasons: It was more magnificent than the White House, and would cost too much to maintain. Eventually she sold it, and it is now the Spanish Embassy. Her efforts have made of Sixteenth Street a more attractive place.

The embassies we visited on this Friday were similarly arranged: curved driveway to the entrance, entrance hall with cloak rooms, a beautiful stairway to the reception rooms above. There, the ambassador and his wife, in formal afternoon gowns, receive the incoming-room, and tea was served in the dining-room. Of course, these varied greatly in decoration and furnishing, but all were elaborate, formal and luxurious. In the Greek Legation the most individual fea-

SOCIAL NEWS

Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Ign. Klima entertained a few guests at dinner. They included Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Beeghly, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Burrows and daughter, Madams and Tedro, Florence Chapman and Ella Hughes and the latter's children, Pete Jensen and daughter, Miss Elfrida and Miss Wilma Klima.

Pythian Sisters are meeting this evening in their hall. Madams Stanley McLain and August Peterson and Miss Norene Hardenbrook are the serving committee.

Friday Mrs. Ed Vogelitz was hostess to the Junior Matrons. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. August Peterson.

Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Barta and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Vogelitz entertained guests at dinner Sunday evening in the Barta home.

Another club dance was held Tuesday evening in the Masonic hall. Ladies of the Eastern Star are serving lunch at these club dances. The Aulsebrook orchestra played Tuesday.

Merrymix club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Ign. Klima. Other guests were Madams Pete Tolsen and Ella Hughes and the Misses Wilma Klima and Elfrida Jensen.

A table luncheon was served during the afternoon. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Katie Marks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Stoltz and son Rodney were dinner guests Sunday in the home of Mrs. Carrie Lickley.

Yesterday the Presbyterian church Missionary society held an all day session in the home of Mrs. R. C. Nelson. Members brought a covered dish for dinner. Madams G. W. Collipriest and J. M. Beeghly assisted with the dinner plan and helped Mrs. Nelson with the serving. Mrs. Gould Plagg was on the program committee.

At the Thursday evening party held in Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Blessing's home, there were four tables of players. High score was won by Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mortensen and a low score by Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Kosmata.

Friday evening the Club of Eight had a pleasant meeting in the home of Mrs. George Hubbard. A seven o'clock dinner was served by Misses Frances Hubbard and Frances Lindsay.

The U. B. Aid society met last Wednesday evening with Mrs. Pat Daily. Twenty-two were in attendance. Four teachers were there for luncheon, after the close of school. A pleasing feature was the announcement of the 74th birthday of the hostess over radio station KMMJ. The announcer went on to state that Mrs. Daily had been a member of the U. B. It's Black, Blue or Beige for Spring

COATS IN EITHER OF THESE COLORS HAVE MOST PRACTICAL VALUE BECAUSE THEY GO WELL WITH WIDE VARIETY OF DRESSES, SUITS, SKIRTS

BY HARRIET

WHETHER you want spring frocks or springs suits this year, the first thing you need to think about in the last analysis is a spring coat.

Since fashions have subsided from the dizzy revolutions of last year to sane and sensible lines, the type of spring coat may depend upon yourself.

So may the color. And if you are handy with the needle, this is the spring when you may make your own spring coat and be proud of it, because there is a soft dressmaker touch about spring coats that hand-sewing improves.

First of all, you must decide upon your material. There are two general types of plain materials, the loose-weave, tweedish looking plain material, and the smooth velvet material.

If you don't hanker after plain coats, there is a wide diversity in stripes, plaids, checks and novelty weaves.

Assuming that you need a utility type of coat, I suggest three colors. Black, navy blue or beige. These are many obvious advantages to these three. They go well with such a wide variety of dresses, suits, skirts, that you might think twice about refusing one of the three colors.

Nothing is more wearable than black, blue or beige. Green is springlike. Rust is good this year and all the nuances of lavender and purple are excellent. But if you must wear your coat with many things and must wear it for some time there is nothing like the good old utility colors.

MOST of the first spring coats this year have some kind of trim. They show a preference for fur hangings, fur scarfs or fur touches of this kind that. But there are many that use a different material, a plaid or checked material, a new color of the fur.

A new blue coat of homespun weave crepe is made with raglan sleeves and the neatest kind of shoulder fit. It has a gay white galyack scarf to fasten under the chin.

urday and again Sunday evening. Guests were Otto and Anton Radil and their families, Charley John and Emil Skoll and their families, Albert Radil and his friend, Vit Kumpust, both from Western, Nebr., and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Knezacek.

Two coats which promise to be popular this spring are the beige nappy wool coat, left, and the new blue coat of homespun weave crepe, right. Notice that both make use of the prevalent style of fur decoration.

It is semi-fitted with rounding seams under the arms and a seam down the middle of the back. It is quite an easy model to make because its very raglan sleeves are an advantage to the home-dressmaker. There is a self-belt, which fits easily around the waistline, the coat already being fitted easily to the figure. The coat is full-length.

A second type of coat is the beige nappy wool coat, of hard weave, made with hands of leopard fur. There is a deep shawl collar edged in the leopard fur and there are two bands of it around the sleeve, with a bow of the beige at the outer edge in between.

This is a voluminous coat, not fitted but full and straight line, gathered to the body by means of a belt, fastening at the waistline. Both coats promise great popularity for spring. Take your

This Woman In 4 Weeks Lost 17 Pounds of Fat

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

"Gentlemen: I started taking Kruschen every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give "Kruschen Salts" a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better.

May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince anyone."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at McLain and Sorenson's drug store or any drugstore in America. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning. To help reduce swiftly cut out pastry and fatty meats and go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar.

The Kruschen way is the safe way to reduce—Try on bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money back.

News of the Farms!

What's New in Farming!

SO THE OLD GRAY MARE AIN'T WHAT SHE USED TO BE

Horse Numbers Decrease Here. Barley Acreage Increases.

Figures released by the bureau of census at Washington indicate that power machinery is gradually replacing the horse and mule on Valley county farms. The initial release on the figures reached the Quiz this morning. It shows a gradual decrease in the number of horses found here in recent years.

There were over two thousand less horses in Valley county in 1930 than there were in 1920, according to the release. They show that there are now 8,198 horses now in comparison with 10,494 in 1920. However, the report does show that there has been an increase in the number of mules found here over the number in 1920. This, nevertheless, is less than for 1924. Evidently feeding operations were lower here in 1930 than in previous years when the census has been taken. The figures bring out the fact that there were 31,578 cattle in 1930 while there were 37,880 in 1925.

Though dairying has been on an upturn in the last decade in Valley county, the census shows that there were less cows in 1930 than in 1925. The chart shows there were 7,428 cows last year and 7,765 cows in 1925. Both numbers were great, however, than the total found in 1920. Valley county farmers sensed the opportunity to enlarge their dairying operations soon after 1925 but evidently in the past few years the number of cows on the increase has not been so great.

Dairymen around Ord point out that perhaps the decrease in number found in 1930 over the number in 1925 is due to the realization of the value of good cows here. Calling has been carried on to a great extent. In addition, dairying conditions in the past few months have caused many so-called local dairymen to go out of business.

The direct cause for the decreased number of hogs found in Valley county during 1930 over 1925 and 1920 is hardly explainable, hogmen point out. The figures show there were 29,480 hogs in Valley county last year as against 54,572 in 1925 and 44,203 in 1920.

Likewise the number of poultry found in the county in 1930 over 1925 has decreased, according to the report. It shows there were something like 19,000 less poultry here last year than for the previous year of 1925 when the census was taken in a like manner. Seeing the value of barley as a feed, Valley county farmers have increased their barley acreage in the past few years, the report points out. There was nearly five times as many acres planted in 1930 as there was in 1924. Farmers around Ord and North Loup have noticed the increased acreage in recent years. In many localities the oats acreage has been cut down to allow for the growing of more barley. Oats has decreased in value since the horse numbers have decreased and that is what oats was formerly used principally for.

LOWER CHICK PRICES WILL PREVAIL NOW

Present indications are that chick prices in Valley county will be somewhat reduced this year over last year, according to County Agent Dale. In accord with Jack Redditt, state extension agent in poultry husbandry, he says he has not seen enough price lists to know how much the reduction will amount to but apparently it will be lower than last year. Redditt maintains that it will be around two cents per chick less than last year. Whether prices will be that much lower around Ord remains to be seen.

Speaking further of prices, Redditt believes a rather popular and prevailing price for eggs is twelve cents above the market price. The premium is provided for people to produce and offer the kind of eggs the hatchery requires.

By good quality, Redditt continues, is meant that the eggs must be of good size, uniformly in size, proper and uniform in shape, and high hatchability. In addition, the eggs must be from purebred flocks that are well managed.

12 Hundred Attend Power Farm Show

Twelve hundred people were entertained last Thursday at the power farming show sponsored by Mat Kosmata & Son and put on in the Gem Theatre and at the Kosmata Implement newly broken in the morning. Ord high school boys witnessed the motion picture, "Romance of the Reaper," showing the progress of harvesting machinery since the first reaper was invented. In the afternoon so many farmers were present that the film had to be shown twice to accommodate the crowd. McCormick-Deering implement experts were present to demonstrate various machines at the Kosmata warehouse. A feature of the day was the exhibit of the first reaper ever made, which was brought to Ord on a truck and stood in front of the Kosmata store all day. Mr. Kosmata and his son, Matthew, Jr., express themselves as being very pleased with the success of their show.

Plowing Legumes, Listing Corn Good Practice, Gross

Results of ten-acre corn yield contests in Nebraska over a period of seven years have indicated a new cultural practice which may have some bearing upon the problem of handling newly broken ground. In the opinion of D. L. Gross, extension agronomist at the agricultural college, he advances facts showing how record yields have been produced on alfalfa ground plowed and then listed in corn instead of the usual practice of surface plowing.

Though few Valley county farmers have entered the corn yield contests in the past, Agent Dale points out that the practices used by the winners might be observed to get some good points on their own farms. Farmers around Ord, North Loup, and Arcadia are anxious to improve their yield practices and the results of the contests show them how they can in some measures.

Ed Noyes of Valley first produced 100 bushels of corn per acre using the practice mentioned by Gross and since many eastern Nebraska farmers entered in the contests have used this process of handling the legume land. Only one man was recorded in 1924 as having listed his corn into plowed land while in 1925 one-half of the contestants in the eastern region listed their corn and one-half of that number plowed the land before listing.

Gross declares that during the past year, the evidence was even stronger than past records indicate as to the popularity of the practice. Nearly one-third of the contestants in 1930 used the plowing and listing method of planting on legume land.

The extension agronomist believes the reason for the increased popularity of the practice is the fact that listed corn is less likely to be injured by drought than surface planted corn. He, however, points out that it makes a slower growth early in the season, makes a less extensive leaf growth with fewer suckers, and is in better condition to stand hot dry spells later on during the year.

Increased numbers of mechanical corn pickers on the farm have caused the average farmer to look for a variety that will stand up and since listed corn ordinarily stands much better than surfaced corn, Valley county farmers are paying more attention to this factor, Gross maintains.

Summing up the practice of listing on plowed land, the college of agriculture man shows that it is practiced almost entirely in eastern Nebraska and in the irrigated sections. He believes, nevertheless, that it would likewise be a good practice in central Nebraska, particularly on land that has been in alfalfa or sweet clover.

Go to Kansas City.
Thomas K. Goff, of the Goff Hatchery, left last Saturday for Kansas City, Mo., where he is attending an exhibit of the Smith Incubator Co., and inspecting the standard flocks of the American Poultry Association with a view to obtaining fancy chicks this year for several Valley county poultry raisers who sell hatching eggs to Mr. Goff's hatchery. He expects to return tomorrow or Saturday.

Successful men do not as a rule, attain success on a four or five day week plan.

DAIRYMEN MAY ENTER BETTER SIRES CONTEST

Valley County Organization Enthusiastic Over Plans.

The Valley County Dairy Herd Improvement Association may enter a better sire contest which opened last week, according to E. C. Scheidhelm, extension dairy specialist at the agricultural college. All herd improvement associations in the state are being invited to enter the contest. County Agent Dale of Ord is reported to be enthusiastic over the idea.

There will be no individual contest for the best sire but Scheidhelm points out that individual participation in the contest will help some association to win. Seeing the need for better sires among dairy circles in Nebraska, extension dairymen have been prompted to start the contest this year. Iowa conducted a similar contest last year.

Scheidhelm made a study in ten dairy herd improvement associations in October of last year to determine the real need of better sires. After summarizing the investigation, he found the need for purebred sires with records is great in Nebraska if the dairying standard is to be lifted.

Probably the outstanding thing about sires and dams that the extension man learned in the investigation was the influence they have upon butterfat production. His report shows that 91 percent of the dams with records had production records of over 400 pounds of butterfat.

Further survey of the ten associations brought out the fact that 53.9 percent of the dams were reported without any record, indicating the room for improvement in dairy stock in herd improvement associations. As to sires he found 11.5 percent of the number used were grade while 16.5 percent were purebred but not registered. Out of the total number sires reported 46.1 percent had dams with records.

Though strict rules for entering the better sires contest have not been laid down, the outcome will be judged upon type, productivity, and suitability. Scheidhelm pointed out at the college this morning that often times a sire does not belong in some herds, either having too low or too high a productive record.

When the number of associations entering the contest has been determined, it is probable that cash prizes will be offered to winners by the Nebraska Dairy Herd Improvement Association and the Nebraska Dairymen's Association. Additional prizes may be offered by the different breed associations. It is highly possible that the Valley County Dairy Herd Improvement Association will enter the state contest, according to County Agent Dale.

JANIKE TO MEET VALLEY COUNTY CLUB LEADERS

Pig and Baby Beef Leaders Will Hold Training Meetings in Ord.

Valley county baby beef and pig club leaders are scheduled to meet in Ord on February 17 for a training meeting, according to County Agent Carl C. Dale of Ord. It will be the first time in recent years that individual projects have sent their leaders to Ord for a meeting to plan the coming year's work.

Dale told the Quiz this morning that Ed Janike, assistant state extension agent in animal husbandry, will meet with the Valley county leaders for the training meetings. Common problems of club organization will be talked over and Janike will tell the local leaders how they can make their clubs stronger than in previous years.

The Valley county extension agent is inviting all Valley county club leaders to attend the meetings. Others interested in 4-H club work also are invited to attend, according to Dale. Increased interest in pig and baby beef club this year indicates a good attendance.

ARCADIA MAN TOLD TO FEED FOR FALL SALE

Gramlich Suggests Corn, Alfalfa, Ensilage Ration. Sell On Fall Market.

One Valley county cattle feeder residing near Arcadia has been advised by Prof. H. J. Gramlich, head of the animal husbandry department at the college of agriculture, that a satisfactory method of handling steer calves of good quality is to feed them upon shelled corn, alfalfa hay, and ensilage. The Arcadia man intends to fatten the calves on grass and corn this summer and will finish the heaves in the dry lot for fall market.

Gramlich suggests that the Arcadia livestock man feed from three to five pounds of corn per head each day during the remaining months of the winter. With an abundance of silage and alfalfa hay, he believes the calves should come through in splendid condition.

"The chances are that they will consume 20 to 25 pounds of silage and in doing so will be getting the equivalent of about two pounds of shelled corn, providing the silage is made from corn containing an average amount of ears," declares the college of agriculture man.

Speaking further about the feeding operations, Prof. Gramlich says on grass he suggests feeding six to possibly seven pounds of corn daily. It does not believe it would be necessary for the Arcadia man to feed any supplement with the corn while the calves are grazing. Grass is relatively high in protein and balances the corn ration very satisfactorily for yearling steers. If using a supplement he advises using one-half to three-fourths pound of cottonseed meal or pea-sized cake for each calf daily.

Molasses Adds Variety To Ration Gramlich States

Though the addition of molasses to the ration fed to cattle does not balance it by any means, molasses is palatable and adds variety to the ration, maintains Prof. H. J. Gramlich, head of the animal husbandry department at the University of Nebraska. He made the statement public today at the college of agriculture after numerous persons had written him from Ord about the value of the product.

County Agent Dale says Valley county 4-H club members used molasses last year to add variety to the diet in the baby beef project. Toward the end of the feeding period, boys and girls over the county found it to be a helpful feed. Floyd Rathbun, who has had the grand champion baby beef club calf at the Valley county fair for the past year, says he used a good booster of feeding the product.

Little experimentation has been accomplished at the Nebraska experiment station and not enough to draw any very definite conclusion. Gramlich, however, refers to Iowa and says that a number of experiments have been completed comparing beet and cane molasses. Their results indicate little difference in the feeding value of the two products.

"Most rations in Nebraska which are available to livestock are deficient in protein," declares Gramlich. "Some of the molasses dealers urged farmers to buy molasses in order to properly balance the ration. Inasmuch as molasses is essentially a carbohydrate product, this is the wrong stand."

A pound of starch such as that contained in oats, barley, and corn does practically the same in the animal's body as a pound of sugar as found in molasses, Gramlich reminds Valley county farmers. In a general way, he indicates that experiments have tended to show that one pound of molasses possesses but little more feeding value than one pound of corn.

Valley county breeders do make use of the molasses to add variety to the ration, says the college man. Especially those fed over a long period and being fitted for exhibition seem to relish the product. Under such conditions, Gramlich believes it is an excellent practice.

Wants Sanitation Chart.

Mr. Carl C. Dale, County Agent, Ord, Nebraska.

Dear Mr. Dale:
Reading in the Ord Quiz about hog lot sanitation chart being printed, I would like to know if you could possibly get me one of the charts.

I take a great interest in your work in Valley county, my home county too. You, Ernest Coates and George Round, Jr., put a good deal of pep in your work, keep it up. It is good and Valley county is ever so much more progressive since you are cooperating with the farmers.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Wm. H. Thomas,
Ashton, Idaho.

The Difference

The optimistic housewife sets a hen on 13 eggs and rejoices that she hatched all but one. The pessimistic sets a hen on 13 eggs and complains that she spoiled all but 12.

The optimist selects the biggest potatoes every time, and is eating the best all winter. The pessimist selects the little potatoes every time and is eating the poorest all winter.—Hastings Democrat.

Harold Rich Likes Farm Operator Study

"Sure, it is great stuff!" That is the statement made by Harold Rich of North Loup when asked by a Quiz reporter what he thought of the Farm Operators' short course which he is attending at the agricultural college now. "Every day Donald goes to school from eight o'clock in the morning until five in the evening where he studies things about crops, livestock, agricultural engineering, English and other subjects. He says he is getting the real stuff that will help him in a practical sense when he goes back to the farm after completing the first term. Perhaps he will even go back again next year to complete the two-year course."

Of all the things, the North Loup lad is studying, he says he likes the agricultural engineering best. There he does a little woodwork, practices a little blacksmithing, and does some forge work. In the woodwork shop, the farm operator boys are started out on the fundamental things of making things out of wood. So far, Harold hasn't made any big things but soon he will help to build hog houses in the agricultural engineering department.

"Studying livestock production and judging different breeds of animals is a lot of fun, too," Harold told the Quiz staff man. "We will have judged horses, sheep, cattle and hogs by the time the course is over. I like to judge the beef cattle better than anything. Sure is hard to tell much about the sheep."

Members of the agricultural college faculty teach the various courses and give the farm boys first hand information about the same as the college students receive. Even in crops, the boys learn about plant life and are now beginning to study the different crops. They will learn about some of the best varieties and why they are recommended to Nebraska farmers. When they go back to the farm they perhaps will try some of the best producers.

Harold is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Rich who live six miles south of North Loup. Last year Harold attended Puyessville high school, graduating from the tenth grade. There he was a good student and participated in the county track meet held in Ord last spring. When asked if he placed, Harold replied in a quiet tone that he never found out.

When Mr. Rich was in Lincoln for the state fair last fall, he found out about the short course and advised Harold to go. Thus far, he isn't disappointed.

JAP BOYS WINS MANY PRIZES

Dale Points To Record. Says Valley County Can Win.

"Valley county 4-H club boys and girls should be interested to know of the success that Masa Matsutani, Keith county Japanese club member, has had in the grand champion baby beef at the recent Denver National Livestock show," declared County Agent Dale this morning. "The Keith county lad won $428 in prizes and his calf sold for $918."

Dale, however, is not pointing to the success of the Japanese club member as a symbol for all club members to try for financial gain and that alone. He believes the goal of club work is not make prize money but to develop the individual club member.

The calf, owned by Matsutani, "Stub," sold for 85 cents a pound in the auction, according to Dale. The calf weighed 1080 pounds. Not only did the Keith county lad win so much money in prizes and received a high premium for his calf but he was also given a purchase order for a prominent Colorado Hereford breeder. The breeder was prized highly, according to County Agent Dale who received his word from the agricultural college, Lincoln, yesterday.

Valley county has not produced a grand champion club calf at the state fair, Ak-Sar-Bon, or Denver but Dale points to the accomplishment of the Japanese boy for proof that not does 4-H club work pay in developing the individual but also in a financial way. All such heights as Matsutani's, he points out, but it is a good goal to try to attain.

AM I RIGHT?

By GEORGE ROUND, JR.

Results of the sheep feeding experiment should convince those Valley county farmers who are feeding lambs that ground wheat plus ground corn and alfalfa is a good ration. Evidently wheat is proving to be just as good a lamb feed as it is for hogs and cattle. Wheat feeding is not carried on to any great extent here because there is not a surplus of the crop produced each year. Further west it is estimated that more livestock have been fed out on wheat than ever before. Prevailing prices have forced the farmer to feed the wheat and market it in the form of livestock rather than to sell it upon the market for fifty or sixty cents.

Thanks for the letter, Ed. Seems as though you were polishing up that shotgun for something besides game. Expect you are quite an accurate shot. Just try hitting that rooster for practice. Speaking of Ed, I refer to Ed Hackel, farmer living south of Ord. He recently visited me out for turkey dinner but ran out of that delicate food and elected to attempt to serve a rooster who was blind and past his stage of usefulness. In addition, he knew I couldn't be there.

Mr. Hackel did try using some mineral in feeding his cattle last summer and it was for the purpose of finding the results that I was to go to his house for turkey dinner. Now that I know his test revealed nothing, I shall wait until they kill the rooster and have another crop of turkeys.

Now that Ed Hackel has let the world know that he has his shotgun out, Leo Long of Ord is putting his arsenal up for the rest of the winter or summer. Why either one of them need such an implement for farming is hard to understand.

George Carter, former game warden, suggests through the columns of a Lincoln newspaper recently that farmers deliberately place a few bushels of corn on the outside of the corn field in the spring to keep the pheasants from eating the newly sprouted corn. He actually believes the plan would be practical.

Personally, I do not see how Carter's plan would work. The pheasant would probably eat more than ever. Scattered about the corn around the field might be an expensive practice. He says this would be better than shooting the pheasant and letting it lay in the field. From all observations, there have been but few such pheasants left in the field for the crows to eat in Valley county.

Wonder what the good friend, Ernest Coates, thinks of Carter's new and original plan.

Prospects are bright for a successful 4-H baby beef year in Valley county. More boys and girls than ever before will be enrolled and with a large number of good calves on feed, it is highly probable that the club beef show at the Valley county fair this fall will be bigger and better than ever before.

Editor Krikac of the Comstock News believes the picture of Ernest Coates at the head of H. D.'s own column would help it some. Might use the picture in an assumed way but that is a disclaimer. It would prove to be when subscribers actually saw the Quiz publisher after gazing on friend Ernest's picture at the head of the column.

Perhaps after all it would be better to leave all pictures off in the case of the publisher. He might make some enemies if the masterpiece were published. Ernest and I are agreed upon that fact.

ORD BOY LIKES SHORT COURSE

John W. Campbell, who is a first year student in the farm operator short course at the agricultural college, declares it a great opportunity for farm boys to study and put into practical experience the "kinks" of up-to-date farming. This course includes agricultural engineering, animal husbandry, English, farm calculations, and animal pathology. John likes agricultural engineering best for it affords experience both in wood-working and forge. The boys learn to be able to make repairs in short time and make many small handy equipments that can be used most anywhere on a farm.

He explains that in animal husbandry, one learns the habits of farm animals, also to judge livestock which is a part of the course. John believes animal pathology fits in very well with animal husbandry for it teaches the causes and cures for nearly every known livestock disease.

Campbell is enthusiastic about his work and believes it stimulates an interest in farming and from it he gains the confidence that he will try and be a better farmer. When asked, "Do you work all the time," he replied, "goodness, no, I have classes from eight to six but still find time to go to other things, games, parties and basketball. The physical education on Friday and Saturday afternoons keep a fellow from getting soft. For those who do not care for physical education, they go down to the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool Tuesday and Thursday nights of every week."

Believe it or not, large amounts of corn alcohol are smuggled every year from the U. S. into Canada.

RULES FOR CLUB CONTEST PUBLIC

Former Ord Blacksmith Passes On Jan. 29 at Home in Mitchell; Buried Here Monday.

Rules for awarding 100 scholarships to be given to 4-H club boys and girls over the United States by the International Harvester Company have been received at the state club office on the agricultural college campus, according to word put forth by the members of County Agent Carl C. Dale. The scholarships are valued at $500 each.

A committee representing the extension service convened in Chicago and perfected the final plans for the rules during the latter part of this month.

The plan as approved permits each state club leader to submit the records of five outstanding 4-H club members. States having more than 1,000 individual club members completing are allowed to submit one additional entry for each 750 individual members completing. Under this arrangement, Nebraska in addition to its own records must be approved by the state club leader. Dale points out to Valley county aspirants that they should be juniors or seniors in high school to qualify.

The 4-H club members will be judged on a basis of 100 points. Thirty points will be given for the effort put forth by the members in his community, thirty points are given for the results and accomplishments of the entrant in the worthwhile activities in connection with the project on the farm and in the home, club, and community. Twenty points are given for evidence of the scholastic and leadership ability of the entrant while the remaining twenty points are for the development of the 4-H club member according to the ideals for training as to head, heart, hand, and health.

It didn't cost Nels Bossen of Mira Valley much to build a self-feeder for his hogs. After cutting the top and bottom from a fifty gallon oil drum, he mounted the drum or barrel over the bull-wheel from an old binder. A part of the barrel bottom was cut into strips which were bent down between the spokes of the wheel to regulate the flow of grain from the barrel into the wheel. The barrel was secured to the wheel-spokes by adjustable iron hooks which were fastened out on the farm forge. The spokes were cut to prevent the hogs from contesting for positions while eating. The wheel rests in a base of concrete which the hogs cannot upset.

Thirty cents for cement practically covered the cash outlay on this feeder. Together, the barrel and wheel have a capacity of about ten bushels. They will outlast feeders of this size which sell on the market for at least five dollars. By making wise use of his spare time and waste material, Mr. Bossen has constructed an improvement of proven value to add to his livestock equipment.

Metal oil containers have many possibilities. Frederick Jensen demonstrated another use with one of these barrels which he brought in for his agricultural shop work at school. Toting with chisels, drills and hack-saws, he managed to cut a square section out and hinge it back on for a door. Extending himself further, he made a small hole into which he placed a chimney. Fred now exhibits a practical tank heater. He hopes that some day he will get a chance to try it out. If it does, that is he will probably link it in a sandbar and use it for a duck blind.

Many useful ideas, like the two mentioned above, are developed when people have more ability than capital. When folk need something they cannot afford to buy, they contrive other ways to get it. The result is a more careful utilization of resources.

(Editor's Note—Many Quiz readers will remember Everett M. Goats, who several years ago was a regular correspondent for the Quiz. Evidently Everett still considers himself a correspondent from his home in far-off Seattle he sends a portrait to be printed in the Quiz along with a letter of explanation. We hate to be unkind but must say that we can't take the chance of printing Mr. Goats' picture. The Quiz press is rather old and not as strong as it used to be—and oh, there are various reasons why the picture can't be printed. Friend Hank:

Well Hank I bet you will be surprised to hear from me again from way out West here where men like me and women like you are glad to see it is like this here; me and Joe was just setting here; me reading the Quiz and Joe just setting and I seen where you are going to publish the pitchers of all of your correspondents.

Joe he is Joe Blitz which he operates the second chair in my shop and he is a wise cracking smart fellow and probably a democrat but he is a good barber and these here college kids which same they aint got even one brain in their head they like to come in here and wise crack with Joe and he appeals to them and holds there trade on account that he aint so intelligent and serious like I. So I keep him anyway but almost every day he makes me so mad that I am about to bring him down in a tall spin (My shop it is near a aviation field also) But Joe he seems to know when he has went far enough with my temper.

Well anyway, I was reading all this and telling Joe that I used for to be a Newspaper man and write for the Quiz and I was wondering if you still considered me one of your co-respondents, in which case of course you would want my picture which same you would publish it along with the others. And so I was telling Joe all this just by way of sorter thinking out loud and so I says, "but Joe" I says, "I aint got a picture of myself outside of the one I had took at the Odd Fellows picnic, and Hank he would not want to publish that one with all my traps and regalia on." I says, "And I just can't afford to have one took at this time I says, "the way conditions is" I says, "and then Hank, I got to thinking about the old home town and a lump always gets in my throat when I think of the old home town and I was just thinking how disappointed your readers would be if you announced that you was going to publish the pictures of your co-respondents and my picture was not in the bunch.

So Joe he says "Hey", he says I thought you said this here Hank feller the one which he published the paper was a friend of yours," he says, "You don't suppose that he would want to publish your picture or any other funny picture

By GEORGE ROUND, JR.

Refereeing a basketball game at Comstock last week end reminded me of old times, especially since Ord and Comstock high were meeting. The last time I refereed an Ord-Comstock game was three or so years ago when Rex Reed was the athletic director in the local schools. His Ord quintet lost their game that night to a fast Comstock club as I remember it.

It is a pleasure to referee at Comstock.

It is highly probable that Frank Andersen, manager of the Ord Camels, and Charley "Deacon" Arnold will not be able to tangle this summer about baseball things. It begins to look as though Charley will be out of the picture with the disappearance of the Ord Mustangs while the Camels will probably be in the thick of the fight for the farm bureau championship and the Quiz cup.

The Andersen managed team won the Quiz cup last year but must win another year to gain permanent possession.

It took Kearney Normal to down the Nebraska Aggies recently after the "farmers" had run up seven straight victories. Figuring in the Kearney win was LeRoss "Cap" Williams, former North Loup high school star, who performs at a guard on Coach James' Kearney five. The Aggies claim they were off form when beaten but the score remains the same.

Ord basketball fans have been disappointed in the non-athletic appearance of former members of the championship St. Paul basketball five. Most Ord people thought Keith and Everett Davis along with Lynch would be college stars by this time but evidently they have a right to be disappointed.

All three athletes thought of enrolling at Nebraska but persistent hounding on the part of Cornhusker athletic officials lost their chance for enrolling the Apostles boys. Keith enrolled at Oregon Aggies while Davis and Lynch went to Creighton. Keith starred on the Oregon freshman team but little has been heard of him this year either on the court or on the football field. Everett Davis dropped Creighton and enrolled at Oregon but little has been heard about his athletic prowess. Then Lynch failed to return to school this year so that completed the downfall of the trio.

At least, we can truthfully say that Lynch, Keith and Everett Davis were great high school athletes.

Eggs are from 10c to 12c per dozen and butter 18c to 20c per pound, he says.

This Great Healing Oil Best For Pimples and Skin Troubles

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

You've probably been, like a lot of other people, convinced that the only thing to use was an ointment or salve (some of them are very good) but in the big majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores and the condition primarily remains the same.

Go to any good druggist today and get an original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil—an 85 cent bottle lasts 2 weeks.

The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly cleanse you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past.

Remember that Moore's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.

Sunday. Rather a poor attendance. Last year we had forty or over every Sunday in February.

Anna Mortensen and Hazel Rallsback were week end guests at Chris Nielsen's. Lena Nelson came up from Grand Island Saturday and was also visiting there until Sunday afternoon when she returned to the Island. Ilda Howerton and Wilbert Marshall visited in the Nielsen home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Matt Kern and his daughter, Mrs. Walter Maxsen of North Bend visited at Leonard Woods' Thursday and Friday.

We are glad to hear that Dorothy Jorgensen's burns are healing nicely. She was standing by a kettle of boiling vegetables off onto her feet burning them painfully. However she has attended school every day, riding a pony down and back.

Chris Nielsen and Frank Flynn shipped a load of cattle Monday. Morris Sorensen also shipped a few head sending them with Lars Larsen.

Mr. and Mrs. Wes Miska and children attended a party of the Christian church people Wednesday evening. They were entertained with a debate and an old fashioned spelling bee and said they had a fine time.

Ben Philbrick returned from Omaha Sunday. Mrs. Philbrick decided to consult a doctor in that city instead of going to Rochester as she had intended. She has entered the Immanuel hospital and will undergo an operation in about two weeks. She does not have any pain and we hope she will improve in health.

Mildred VanSlyke celebrated her birthday Saturday and in the evening several neighbors came in to help her enjoy the event.

News of the Farms!

What's New in Farming!

SO THE OLD GRAY MARE AIN'T WHAT SHE USED TO BE

Horse Numbers Decrease Here. Barley Acreage Increases.

Figures released by the bureau of census at Washington indicate that power machinery is gradually replacing the horse and mule on Valley county farms. The initial release on the figures reached the Quiz this morning. It shows a gradual decrease in the number of horses found here in recent years.

There were over two thousand less horses in Valley county in 1930 than there were in 1920, according to the release. They show that there are now 8,198 horses now in comparison with 10,494 in 1920. However, the report does show that there has been an increase in the number of mules found here over the number in 1920. This, nevertheless, is less than for 1924. Evidently feeding operations were lower here in 1930 than in previous years when the census has been taken. The figures bring out the fact that there were 31,678 cattle in 1930 while there were 37,830 in 1925.

Though dairying has been on an upturn in the last decade in Valley county, the census shows that there were less cows in 1930 than in 1925. The chart shows there were 7,428 cows last year and 7,765 cows in 1925. Both numbers were greater, however, than the total found in 1920. Valley county farmers sensed the opportunity to enlarge their dairying operations soon after 1925 but evidently in the past few years the number of cows on the increase has not been so great.

Dairymen around Ord point out that perhaps the decrease in number found in 1930 over the number in 1925 is due to the realization of the value of good cows here. Culling has been carried on to a great extent. In addition, dairying conditions in the past few months have caused many so-called local dairymen to go out of business.

The direct cause of the decreased number of hogs found in Valley county during 1930 over 1925 and 1920 is hardly explainable, hogmen point out. The figures show there were 29,480 hogs in Valley county last year as against 54,572 in 1925 and 44,203 in 1920.

Likewise the number of poultry found in the county in 1930 over 1925 has decreased, according to the report. It shows there were something like 19,000 less poultry here last year than for the previous year of 1925 when the census was taken in a like manner. Seeing the value of barley as a feed, Valley county farmers have increased their barley acreage in the past few years, the report points out. There was nearly five times as many acres planted in 1930 as there was in 1924. Farmers around Ord and North Loup have noticed the increased acreage in recent years. In many localities the oats acreage has been cut down to allow for the growing of more barley. Oats has decreased in value since the horse numbers have decreased and that is what oats were formerly used principally for.

LOWER CHICK PRICES WILL PREVAIL NOW

Present indications are that chick prices in Valley county will be somewhat reduced this year over last year, according to County Agent Dale. In accord with Jack Redditt, state extension agent in poultry husbandry, he says he has not seen enough price lists to know how much the reduction will amount to but apparently it will be lower than last year. Redditt maintains that it will be around two cents per chick less than last year. Whether prices will be that much lower around Ord remains to be seen.

Speaking further of prices, Redditt believes a rather popular and prevailing price for eggs is twelve cents above the market price. The premium is provided for people to produce and offer the kind of eggs the hatchery requires. By good quality, Redditt continues, is meant that the eggs must be of good size, uniformity in size, proper and uniform in shape, and high hatchability. In addition, the eggs must be from purebred flocks that are well managed.

12 Hundred Attend Power Farm Show

Twelve hundred people were entertained last Thursday at the power farming show sponsored by Mat Kosmata & Son and put on in the Gem Theatre and at the Kosmata Implement house here in Ord. The morning high school boys witnessed the motion picture, "Romance of the Reaper," showing the progress of harvesting machinery since the first reaper was invented. In the afternoon so many farmers were present that the film had to be shown twice to accommodate the crowd. McCormick-Deering implement experts were present to demonstrate various machines at the Kosmata warehouse. A feature of the day was the exhibit of the first reaper ever made, which was brought to Ord on a truck and stood in front of the Kosmata store all day. Mr. Kosmata and his son, Matthew, Jr., express themselves as being very pleased with the success of their show.

Plowing Legumes, Listing Corn Good Practice, Gross

Results of ten-acre corn yield contests in Nebraska over a period of seven years have indicated a new cultural practice which may have some bearing upon the problem of handling newly broken legume land is the opinion of D. L. Gross, extension agronomist at the agricultural college. He advances facts showing how record yields have been produced on alfalfa ground plowed and then listed in corn instead of the usual practice of surface plowing.

Though few Valley county farmers have entered the corn yield contests in the past, Agent Dale points out that the practices used by the winners might be observed to get some good points on how they produced high yields. Farmers around Ord, North Loup, and Arcadia are anxious to improve their yield practices and the results of the contests show them how they can in some measures.

Ed Noyes of Valley first produced 100 bushels of corn per acre using the practice mentioned by Gross and since many eastern Nebraska farmers entered in the contests have used this process of handling the legume land. Only one man was recorded in 1924 as having listed his corn into plowed land while in 1929 one-half of the contestants in the eastern region listed their corn and one-half of that number plowed the land before listing.

Gross declares that during the past year, the evidence was even stronger than past records indicate as to the popularity of the practice. Nearly one-third of the contestants in 1930 used the plowing and listing method of planting on legume land.

The extension agronomist believes the reason for the increased popularity of the practice is the fact that listed corn is less likely to be injured by drought than surface planted corn. He, however, points out that it makes a slower growth early in the season, makes a less extensive leaf growth with fewer suckers, and is in better condition to stand hot dry spells later on during the year.

Increased numbers of mechanical corn pickers on the farm have caused the average farmer to look for a variety that will stand up and since listed corn ordinarily stands much better than surfaced corn, Valley county farmers have found that in their favor. Each year Valley county farmers are paying more attention to this factor, Gross maintains.

Summing up the practice of listing on plowed land, the college of agriculture man shows that it is practiced almost entirely in eastern Nebraska and in the irrigated sections. He believes, nevertheless, that it would likewise be a good practice in central Nebraska, particularly on land that has been in alfalfa or sweet clover.

Go to Kansas City. Thomas K. Goff, of the Goff Hatchery, left last Saturday for Kansas City, Mo., where he is attending an exhibit of the Smith Incubator Co., and inspecting the standard flocks of the American Poultry Association with a view to obtaining fancy chicks this year for several Valley county poultry raisers who sell hatching eggs to Mr. Goff's hatchery. He expects to return tomorrow or Saturday.

Successful men do not as a rule, attain success on a four or five day week plan.

DAIRYMEN MAY ENTER BETTER SIRE CONTEST

Valley County Organization Enthusiastic Over Plans.

The Valley County Dairy Herd Improvement Association may enter a better sire contest which opened last week, according to E. C. Scheidenhelm, extension dairy specialist at the agricultural college. All herd improvement associations in the state are being invited to enter the contest. County Agent Dale of Ord is reported to be enthusiastic over the idea.

There will be no individual contest for the best sire but Scheidenhelm points out that individual participation in the contest will help some association to win. Seeing the need for better sires among dairy circles in Nebraska, extension dairymen have been prompted to start the contest this year. Iowa conducted a similar contest last year.

Scheidenhelm made a study in ten dairy herd improvement associations in October of last year to determine the real need of better sires. After summarizing the investigation, he found the need for purebred sires with records is great in Nebraska if the dairying standard is to be lifted.

Probably the outstanding thing about sires and dams that the extension man learned in the investigation was the influence they have upon butterfat production. His report shows that 91 percent of the dams with records had production records of over 400 pounds of butterfat.

Further survey of the ten associations brought out the fact that 53.9 percent of the dams were reported without any record, indicating the room for improvement in dairy stock in herd improvement associations. To sire he found 11.5 percent of the number used were grade while 16.5 percent were purebred but not registered. Out of the total number sires reported 46.1 percent had dams with records.

Though strict rules for entering the better sire contest have not been laid down, the outcome will be judged upon type, productivity, and suitability. Scheidenhelm pointed out at the college this morning that often times a sire does not belong in some herds, either having too low or too high a productive record.

When the number of associations entering the contest has been determined, it is probable that cash prizes will be offered to winners by the Nebraska Dairy Herd Improvement Association and the Nebraska Dairymen's Association. Additional prizes may be offered by the different breed associations.

It is highly probable that the Valley County Dairy Herd Improvement Association will enter the contest, according to County Agent Dale.

JANIKE TO MEET VALLEY COUNTY CLUB LEADERS

Valley county baby beef and pig club leaders are scheduled to meet in Ord on February 17 for a training meeting, according to County Agent Carl C. Dale of Ord. It will be the first time in recent years that individual projects have sent their leaders to Ord for a meeting to plan the coming year's work.

Dale told the Quiz this morning that Ed Janike, assistant state extension agent in animal husbandry, will meet with the Valley county club leaders for the training meetings. Common problems of club organization will be talked over and Janike will tell the local leaders how they can make their clubs stronger than in previous years.

The Valley county extension agent is inviting all Valley county club leaders to attend the meetings. Others interested in 4-H club work also are invited to attend, according to Dale. Increased interest in pig and baby beef clubs this year indicates a good attendance.

Gramlich Suggests Corn, Alfalfa, Ensilage Ration. Sell On Fall Market.

One Valley county cattle feeder residing near Arcadia has been advised by Prof. H. J. Gramlich, head of the animal husbandry department at the college of agriculture, that a satisfactory method of handling steer calves of good quality is to feed them upon shelled corn, alfalfa hay, and ensilage. The Arcadia man intends to fatten the calves on grass and corn this summer and will finish the calves in the dry lot for fall market.

Gramlich suggests that the Arcadia livestock man feed from three to five pounds of corn per head each day during the remaining months of the winter. With an abundance of silage and alfalfa hay, he believes the calves should come through in splendid condition.

"The chances are that they will consume 20 to 25 pounds of silage and in doing so will be getting the equivalent of about two pounds of shelled corn, providing the silage is an average amount of ears," declares the college of agriculture man.

Speaking further about the feeding operations, Prof. Gramlich says on grass he suggests feeding six to possibly seven pounds of corn to a cow or bull. This amount was made necessary for the Arcadia man to feed any supplement with the corn while the calves are grazing. Grass is relatively high in protein and balances the corn ration very satisfactorily for yearling steers. If using a supplement the advice would be to feed three-fourths pound of cottonseed meal or pea-seed cake for each calf daily.

Molasses Adds Variety To Ration Gramlich States

Though the addition of molasses to the ration fed to cattle does not balance it by any means, molasses is palatable and adds variety to the ration, maintains Prof. H. J. Gramlich, head of the animal husbandry department at the University of Nebraska. He made the statement public today at the college of agriculture after numerous persons had written him from Ord about the value of the product.

County Agent Dale says Valley county 4-H club members used molasses in the baby beef project. Toward the end of the feeding period, boys and girls over the county found it to be a helpful feed. Floyd Rathbun, who has had the grand champion baby beef club calf at the Valley county fair for the past two years, is a sound booster of feeding the product.

Little experimentation has been accomplished at the Nebraska experiment station and not enough to draw any very definite conclusion. Gramlich, however, refers to the Iowa state where a number of experiments have been completed comparing beet and cane molasses. Their results indicate little difference in the feeding value of the two products.

"Most rations in Nebraska which are available to livestock are deficient in protein," declares Gramlich. "Some of the best protein sources are found in molasses, Gramlich reminds Valley county farmers. In a general way, he indicates that experiments have tended to show that one pound of molasses has about the same feeding value as one pound of corn.

Valley county breeders do make use of the molasses to add variety to the ration, says the college man. Especially those fed over a long period and being fitted for exhibition seem to relish the product. Under such conditions, Gramlich believes it is an excellent practice.

Wants Sanitation Chart. Mr. Carl C. Dale, County Agent, Ord, Nebraska.

Dear Mr. Dale: Reading in the Ord Quiz about hog lot sanitation chart being printed, I would like to know if you could possibly get me one of the charts.

I take a great interest in your work in Valley county, my home county too. You, Ernest Coats and George Round, Jr., put a good deal of pep in your work, keep it up. It is good and Valley county is ever so much more progressive since you are cooperating with the farmers.

Yours truly, Mrs. Wm. H. Thomas, Ashton, Idaho.

The optimist selects the biggest potatoes every time, and is eating the best all winter. The pessimist selects the little potatoes every time and is eating the poorest all winter.—Hastings Democrat.

Harold Rich Likes Farm Operator Study

"Sure, it is great stuff!" That is the statement made by Harold Rich of North Loup when asked by a Quiz reporter what he thought of the Farm Operators' short course which he is attending at the agricultural college now. Every day Donald goes to school from eight o'clock in the morning until five in the evening where he studies things about crops, livestock, agricultural engineering, English and other subjects. He says he is getting the real stuff that will help him in a practical sense when he goes back to the farm after completing the first term. Perhaps he will even go back again next year to complete the two-year course.

Of all the things, the North Loup lad is studying, he says he likes the agricultural engineering best. There he does a little woodwork, practices a little blacksmithing, and does some forge work. In the woodwork shop, the farm operator boys are started out on the fundamental things of making things out of wood. So far, Harold hasn't made any big things, but soon he will help to build hog houses in the agricultural engineering department.

"Studying livestock production and judging different breeds of animals is a lot of fun, too," Harold told the Quiz staff man. "We will have judged horses, sheep, cattle and hogs by the time the course is over. I like to judge the best cattle better than anything. Sure is hard to tell much about the sheep."

Members of the agricultural college faculty teach the various courses and give the farm boys first hand information about the same as the college students receive. Even in crops, the boys learn about plant life and are now beginning to study the different crops. They will learn about some of the best varieties and why they are recommended to Nebraska farmers. When they go back to the farm they perhaps will try some of the best producers.

Harold is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Rich who live six miles south of North Loup. Last year Harold attended Fussyville high school graduating from the tenth grade. There he was a good student and participated in the county track meet held in Ord last spring. When asked if he placed, Harold replied in a quiet tone that he never found out.

When Mr. Rich was in Lincoln for the state fair last fall, he found out about the short course and advised Harold to go. Thus far, he isn't disappointed.

JAP BOYS WINS MANY PRIZES

Dale Points To Record. Says Valley County Can Win.

"Valley county 4-H club boys and girls should be interested to know of the success that Masa Matsunami, Keith county Japanese boy, secured at the grand champion baby beef at the recent Denver National Livestock show," declared County Agent Dale this morning. "The Keith county lad won $423 on prizes and his calf sold for $187."

Dale, however, is not pointing to the success of the Japanese club member as a symbol for all club members to try for financial gain and that alone. He believes the goal of club work is not make prize money but to develop the individual club member.

Dale, however, is not pointing to the success of the Japanese club member as a symbol for all club members to try for financial gain and that alone. He believes the goal of club work is not make prize money but to develop the individual club member.

Valley county has not produced an grand champion club calf at the state fair, Ak-Sar-Ben, or Denver but Dale points to the accomplishment of the Japanese boy for proof that not does 4-H club work pay in developing the individual but also in a financial way. All cannot obtain the confidence that Matsunami, he points out, but it is a good goal to try to attain.

Literally So A kindly landlady inquired of the young bride she and her husband proposed spending their holiday.

"Our plans so far," she replied, "are tentative."

"Oh, how delightful!" exclaimed the landlady. "I am sure that you will enjoy camping out more than anything else you could do."

AM I RIGHT?

By GEORGE ROUND, JR.

Results of the sheep feeding experiment should convince those Valley county farmers who are feeding lambs that ground wheat plus ground corn and alfalfa is a good ration. Evidently wheat is proving to be just as good a lamb feed as it is for hogs and cattle. Wheat feeding is not carried on to any great extent here because there is not a surplus of the crop produced each year. Further west it is estimated that more livestock have been fed out on wheat than ever before. Prevailing prices have forced the farmer to feed the wheat and market it in the form of livestock rather than to sell it upon the market for fifty or sixty cents.

Thanks for the letter, Ed. Seems as though you were polishing up that shotgun for something besides game. Expect you are quite an accurate shot. Just try hitting that rooster for practice. Speaking of Ed, I refer to Ed Hackel, farmer living south of Ord. He recently invited me out for turkey dinner but ran out of that delicate food and elected to attempt to serve a rooster who was blind and past his stage of usefulness. In addition, he knew I couldn't be there.

Mr. Hackel did try using some mineral in feeding his cattle last summer and it was for the purpose of finding the results that I was to go to his house for turkey dinner. Now that I know his test revealed nothing, I shall wait until they kill the rooster and have another crop of turkeys.

Scattering has let the world know that he has his shotgun out, Leo Long of Ord is putting his arsenal up for the rest of the winter or summer. Why either one of them need such an implement for farming is hard to understand.

George Carter, former game warden, suggests through the columns of a Lincoln newspaper recently that farmers deliberately place a few bushels of corn on the outside of the cornfield in the spring to keep the pheasant from eating the newly sprouted corn. He actually believes the plan would be practical.

Personally, I do not see how Carter's plan would work. The pheasant would probably eat more than the corn. Scattering the corn around the field might be an expensive practice. He says this would be better than shooting the pheasant and letting it lay in the field. From all observations, there have been but few such pheasants left in the field for the crows to eat in Valley county.

Wonder what the good friend, Ernest Coats, thinks of Carter's new and original plan.

Prospects are bright for a successful 4-H baby beef club year in Valley county. More boys and girls than ever before will be enrolled and with a large number of good calves on feed, it is highly probable that the club beef show at the Valley county fair this fall will be bigger and better than ever before.

Editor Krikac of the Comstock News believes the picture of Ernest Coats at the head of H. D.'s own column would help it some. Might use the picture in an assumption of the subject. He says it would prove to be when subscribers actually saw the Quiz publisher after gazing on friend Ernest's picture at the head of the column.

Perhaps after all it would be better to leave all pictures off in the case of the subject. It might make some enemies if the masterpiece were published. Ernest and I are agreed upon that fact.

ORD BOY LIKES SHORT COURSE

John W. Campbell, who is a first year student in the farm operators' short course at the agricultural college, declares it a great opportunity for farm boys to study and put into practical experience the "kinks" of up-to-date farming.

This course includes agricultural engineering, animal husbandry, English, farm calculations, and animal pathology. John likes agricultural engineering best for it affords experience both in wood-working and forge. The boys learn to be able to make repairs in short time and make many small handy equipments that can be used most anywhere on a farm.

He explains that in animal husbandry, one learns the habits of farm animals, also to judge livestock which is a part of the course. John believes animal pathology fits in very well with animal husbandry for it teaches the causes and cures for nearly every known livestock disease.

Campbell is enthusiastic about his work and believes it stimulates an interest in farming and from it he gains the confidence that he will try and be a better farmer.

When asked, "Do you work all the time," he replied, "goodness, no, I have classes from eight to six but still find time to go to other things. The physical education on Friday and Saturday afternoons keep a fellow from getting soft. For those who do not care for physical education, they go down to the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool Tuesday and Thursday nights of every week."

Believe it or not, large amounts of corn alcohol are smuggled every year from the U. S. into Canada.

RULES FOR CLUB CONTEST PUBLIC

Former Ord Blacksmith Passes On Jan. 29 at Home in Mitchell; Buried Here Monday.

Rules for awarding 100 scholarships to be given to 4-H club boys and girls over the United States by the International Harvester Company have been received at the state club office on the agricultural college campus, according to word received in Ord today by County Agent Carl C. Dale. The scholarships are valued at $500 each.

A committee representing the extension service convened in Chicago and perfected the final plans for the rules during the latter part of this month.

The plan as approved permits each state club leader to submit the records of five outstanding 4-H club members. States having more than 1,000 individual club members completing are allowed to submit one additional entry for each 750 individual members completing. Under this arrangement, Nebraska will have the privilege of nominating a number of entries. County Agent Dale of Ord is in hopes that some Valley county club members will be able to enter for Nebraska.

Each entrant must be qualified to matriculate on or before September, 1932, in a regular agricultural or home economics course. In addition their records must be approved by the state club leader. Dale points out to Valley county aspirants that they should be juniors or seniors in high school to qualify.

The 4-H club members will be judged on a basis of 100 points. Thirty points will be given for the effort made by the entrant in his community, thirty points are given for the results and accomplishments of the entrant in the worthwhile activities in connection with the project on the farm and in the home, club, and community. Twenty points are given for evidence of the scholastic and leadership ability of the entrant while the remaining twenty points are for the development of the 4-H club member according to the ideals for training as to head, heart and health.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

It didn't cost Nels Bossen of Mira, Valley much to build a self-feeder for his hogs. After cutting the top and bottom from a fifty gallon oil drum, he mounted the drum or barrel over the bull-wheel from an old binder. A part of the barrel bottom was cut into strips which were bent down between the spokes of the wheel to regulate the flow of grain from the barrel into the wheel. The barrel was secured to the wheel-spokes by adjustable iron hooks which were fastened out on the farm forge. The spokes in this feeder also serve as dividers to prevent the hogs from contesting for positions while eating. The wheel rests in a base of concrete which the hogs cannot upset.

Thirty cents for cement practically covered the cash outlay on this feeder. Together, the barrel and base have a capacity of about ten bushels. They will outlast feeders of this size which sell on the market for at least five dollars. By making wise use of his spare time and waste material, Mr. Bossen has constructed an improvement of proven value to add to his livestock equipment.

Metal oil containers have many possibilities. Frederick Jensen demonstrated another use with one of these barrels which he brought in for his agricultural shop work at school. Tolling with chisels, drills and hack-saws, he managed to cut a square section out and hinge it back on for a door. Exacting himself further, he made a small hole into which he placed a chimney. Fred now exhibits a practical tank heater. He hopes that some day he will get a chance to try it out. If it doesn't draw, he will probably sink it in a sandbar and use it for a duck blind.

Many useful ideas, like the two mentioned above, are developed when people have more ability than capital. When folk need something they cannot afford to buy, they contrive other ways to get it. The result is a more careful utilization of resources.

Sure Way to Stop Night Coughs

Famous Prescription Brings Almost Instant Relief.

Night coughs, or coughs caused by a cold or irritated throat, can now be stopped within 15 minutes by a doctor's prescription called Thoxine which works on an entirely different principle from ordinary medicines. It has a quick double action, it relieves the irritation and goes direct to the internal cause.

Thoxine contains no harmful drugs, is pleasant tasting and safe for the whole family. Guaranteed to give better and quicker relief for coughs or sore throats than anything you have ever tried or you can have your money back. 35c, 60c, and $1.00 bottles. ### Feeds All Better!

See for yourself right in your own hog lot how much better the Rowe Self-Feeder feeds all feeds. See how it handles even ground feeds without clogging—how perfectly it controls the feeding of free-flowing feeds, such as shelled corn, etc.

Rowe Self Feeder The Only One with Steep Accelerator Floor
Feed bins are wider at bottom than top. Regulating boards are of steel—heavy galvanized troughs—swinging water-proof galvanized cover over bins. Tilts either way to shut off wind while filling. Also acts as guard to prevent spilling feed. All wood hot creosoted.

Mounted on Skids—Easily Moved
Entire feeder on skids—easily moved, full or empty. Made in 4 bushel, 24 bushel, 50 bushel and 65 bushel sizes.

First Valley County Flag Staff Feature Of "Antique Fair" at North Loup Febr. 5-6

North Loup, Febr. 4.—(Special)—A cedar pole cut in the pine canyons near Burwell fifty years ago or more, and which bore the first flag flown in the Valley county seat, will be one of the exhibits at the antique fair sponsored by the Methodist aid society here Friday and Saturday evenings. Many other interesting relics of pioneer days will be on exhibit.

A business meeting to make plans for the event was held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Beulah Earnest. The committee sponsoring the affair are anxious that anyone having a curio or relic of any kind, either foreign or domestic, will loan it to Myra Gowan, Lou Barber, Esther Babcock or Mary Davis, for display at the fair.

The antique show will be held at the town hall and a large attendance is expected. A lunch will be served Saturday evening.

For the Indians Buxton, a lengthy center, appeared to best advantage. Only due red-skin appeared with the Harvard team, the others having run afoul of the law at Clay Center a day or so previous. It was a poor aggregation and the fans were disappointed.

This gives the All-Stars the fine record of four wins and one defeat. Next Monday night the fast traveling team, Warner's Roamers, will be here for a return game. This team has been playing real basketball on their trip through western Nebraska, Colorado and Kansas. They have been defeated by only one team, Paxton, since they were beat by Ord a few weeks ago and they are counting on getting revenge from the All-Stars next Monday night. Krejci will be back in suit and probably the largest crowd so far this season will attend the game.

Nebraska Leads the Nation in Musical Activities.

Where do you say the center of the nation's musical activities is? New York? Philadelphia? Chicago? Hardly. If the president of the Nebraska Music Teachers' association, Miss Lucille Robbins, can be relied upon, it is in Nebraska. Miss Robbins attended a meeting of the national association of music teachers in St. Louis, in the closing days of December. "You can imagine my surprise," Miss Robbins said to an interviewer, "when I learned that the state of Nebraska leads the nation in musical activities. Although I knew that the state had been making rapid strides since she called during the past seven years, I had no idea our work was being considered a criterion until I had a personal conference with the national secretary. Our state seems to have at the present time only one rival, California."

Miss Robbins stated that the judgment of the Nebraska work is based on the manner of securing members, the resident talent, the type of programs presented, and the co-operation given state officers in sponsoring musical education. "That if we are successful it is due to the wonderful co-operation given by state officers, the executive board and the musicians of the state. We have no deficit in our state association, being entirely self-supporting from the collection of dues."

Plans are being made for the state convention of Nebraska music teachers to be held in Lincoln in March. Six nationally known artists will be present to participate in the program. Fresh interest in this meeting has been given by the statement President Robbins has given of Nebraska's standing in musical activities. This adds another feather to the head-dress of Nebraska which is already pretty well filled with tokens of national achievement.

"I don't want any callers this afternoon," said the business man to the office boy. If they say their business is important, just tell them that's what they all say."

That afternoon the boy called and insisted on seeing him. "I am his wife," she exclaimed. "That's what they all say," said the office boy.

A man phoned the Salvation Army and asked, "Do you save Bad Girls?"

The lady who answered the phone replied, "Yes."

Young Man: "Well, save me a couple for Saturday evening."

We don't benefit most by finding the solution of a problem, but the development we gain in finding the solution that is the most beneficial to us.

Matthew: "Well, Betty, and what progress are you making toward matrimony?"

Betty: "I think I'm on the last lap."

A Bargain in Food

Butter is a food bargain. It is all food, no waste—97.88 per cent digestible.

Butter is one of the best sources of bodily fuel. It supplies energy and vitality, is necessary to growth of CHILDREN and health of the ADULT.

Valley County produces over a Million Pounds of Butter each year and this is one of the County's big resources. These Dairy Dollars do not stay long with the Farmer. He puts them into circulation at once, paying his bill with the Grocer, the Physician, the Hardware dealer—in fact, the Dairy Dollar finds its way into every channel of local trade and helps maintain all forms of business and industry in Valley County.

POPCORN VALLEY BUTTER is the one manufactured product that the farmers of this community produce in their own factory and offer for sale to the people of Ord.

Supervisor Johnson introduced a resolution approving House Bill No. 219, which provides that it shall be lawful for counties to contract for and do township road work. He believes it is for the best interest of Valley county and all the townships because the county maintains equipment and men for this work and if the bill is passed they can be kept busy the year around, at a saving of money to both townships and the county. The resolution was passed by a unanimous vote.

Supervisor Vascek introduced a resolution that in future no county aid shall be allowed to paupers until applicant has declared under oath that he is entitled to such aid and until he submits proof of his assertions. The cost of taking care of paupers is gradually mounting in Valley county, pauper costs in December reaching $686.50 and the three months previous being about the same. Supervisors passed Mr. Vascek's motion unanimously.

As an economy measure, supervisors decided to publish only a summary of minutes of their meetings in all papers in the county, providing that the papers are willing to do this for one-fourth of the legal rate each. As the legal rate is only 25c per column inch the four papers in the county will each receive but 6-14c per column inch for publishing the summary, should they accept. Until a year or so ago minutes of the meetings were printed in full in all papers of the county, which is the policy followed in most other counties of Nebraska.

The $2,000 bond of R. C. Ayres, county engineer, was approved and bonds for township officers were approved. All claims on file were allowed with the exception of Geo. J. Owen's claim of $260 for painting and varnishing in the court house, which was referred to a committee and laid over until the next meeting. All supervisors were present at the meeting.

Thinks Dairying Still Pays Carl Smith, tester for the local cow testing association, thinks that dairying is still a paying proposition and gives the following figures to prove his belief. Carl says the average production of the cows in the association was 32 pounds at an average cost of 15 cents. That was for the month of testing. He says the average selling price for the same period was 22 cents. He believes the net profit was greater than a year ago when cream prices were much higher.

Cast of Bohemian Play. People taking part in the play, "Red Acre Farm," which is to be given at the National hall Sunday for the benefit of the Altar society of Germanum, are Lawrence Waldmann, Steven Polak, William Moravec, Rudolph John, Thomas Waldmann, Rudolph Kokes, Emil Sedlacek, Gladys Krikac, Lillian Vodehnal, Irene Clochon and Alice Waldmann. A dance will follow the play.

Lucky Southside Club Meets. The Lucky Southside Baby Beef club met this week in the home of their leader, Clare Clement. In the absence of the president the vice president called the meeting to order after which plans for the coming year were discussed. Three new members were taken in and Claude Williams of Arcadia was a visitor. Dean Marks is news reporter for this club.

Buyers Car of Furniture. Harlan T. Frazier is expecting a carload of furniture which he purchased for shipment this week. It will arrive early next week.

No City League This Week. No city league basketball games were held this week because of the Loup Valley tournament. Games will be played as usual next Tuesday evening.

Nebraska's Most Modern Show House To Be Formally Opened On February 12th

By IRMA ELLIS LEGGETT

Anyone who thinks that Ord's beautiful new theater does not exemplify modernistic motifs gracefully has only to inspect the restrained elegance of this latest addition to our business and pleasure district. The promise extended by the unusual and charming exterior is more than fulfilled within doors. In fact, I believe the interior is even more attractive than the front of the building. From across the street, or to a passerby, the Ord Theater shows a front of pale cream bricks built up to a high two stories, and rising at the middle to a higher peak, the slopes of the peak being interrupted occasionally by notches, after the modern manner. The canopy at the center front, overhanging the street, is of silver and blue painted metal, with many notches and points, with the word "O R D" prominently featured, and with places for 111 electric bulbs! Think of that!

The broad double doorways, at either side of which is a big glass window and place for a small shop, enter a lobby which is really charmingly different. In each side wall is a fireplace, jutting out gradually and modernistically, running to a peak at the top. In the fireplaces are grills, throwing out heat, and high above are side-lights. On a mantel shelf sits a tall blue vase full of blue bells. The ceiling, rising by steps toward the center, is of silver and blue. The octagon of the ticket window projects at the back and middle of the west lobby well, and is flanked by a pair of broad entrances. Entering the next lobby, heavily carpeted, gives a view of the theater itself. Broad and long, sloping to the front, the high side walls are very simply treated with blue and silver macabre cloth hangings in each panel, above which is an octagon, centered with a modernistic light. These lights can be turned up or down very gradually, as city theaters do.

An aisle on either side leads to the stage, which has two curved front effects running across it. Between these the orchestra is invisibly seated, only coming into sight when standing up. The shape of the stage opening is rectangular, with two spare corners at the sides of the top. The curtains of the stage, and at the back of the theater, will be of red and silver. The first nine rows of seats are entirely of brown leather; after that a small diagonal patterned red and black velvet is used for covering. The seats are extremely comfortable. Hidden aisle lighting will help the late arrival to find a seat safely, and he will walk noiselessly on a thickly carpeted track which is sunk to floor level. The theater seats 564 people.

Carpeting is in a very pleasing modernistic pattern, in a subdued pattern of tans, brown, maroon, soft greens and rust color. The walls of the theater proper are of Celotex, which possesses the best acoustical properties of any material on the market. In the lobby at the back, and in the outer lobby the walls are of an art plaster, slightly rough, of creamy coloring. Woodwork all over the building practically, is of oak finished silver grey, and many slender mirrors feature the lobbies.

To the south of the inner lobby is the famous crying room Ord has heard so much about, with a double

FRISBIE LEADS FARM BUREAU'S PLAN MEETING

State Club Leader Pays Tribute To Crops Judging Team At Meeting Thursday.

L. I. Frisbie, state 4-H club leader, presided last Thursday at the annual planning meeting of the Valley county farm bureau. In his remarks Mr. Frisbie paid a high tribute to Valley county's national championship crops judging team. "As state leader I was mighty proud to have Nebraska represented by these boys," he said. "Not so much because they won, but because of their conduct on the way. They went to Chicago modest and unassuming, won the title and came back the same way."

About twenty-five men and women from all over the county were present at last Thursday's meeting and took part in planning the farm bureau's program for the coming year.

The goal for 4-H club membership this year was set at 300. Last year was the most successful club year ever enjoyed by Valley county, 241 enrolling in clubs organized by County Agent C. C. Dale.

This year the county agent and the various club leaders will try to increase this number materially.

It was decided last Thursday to continue the annual corn husking contest, to continue the hybrid corn and alfalfa test plots, to sponsor a more intense forestry program, to advocate an increased poultry program and to hold a 4-H club picnic next August.

Some discussion was held on having a farm bureau crew shoot in the near future but no decision was made, this being left up to the board of directors to decide at their meeting late in February.

One farm bureau activity which met with commendation is the petition being circulated throughout the county, asking the state legislature to remove the gasoline tax from gas used for agricultural purposes.

Several hundred farmers already have signed this petition, Agent Dale states, and it will be sent to the legislature at once.

A knotty question left for the farm bureau directors to unravel is whether or not the bureau shall sponsor a baseball league again next summer. Some opposition to this activity developed because games are played on Sunday but this is the only day when farmers generally can compete and attend games and so many throughout the county regard the league as the bureau's most important activity that directors may decide to go ahead with the league.

Mrs. H. Edwards Sanders. Mrs. H. Edwards Sanders of Burwell, Nebraska, passed away at her home in Burwell, Wednesday, February 4th, following a long illness, being 82 years, 11 months and 3 days of age at the time of her death. Funeral services were held Wednesday and burial was in the Burwell cemetery.

Mrs. Sanders is survived by her husband, H. Edward Sanders and one son, Will Sanders of Ord and three daughters, Mrs. Louise Sebesta of Ord, Mrs. Mable Jeffries of Lincoln and Mrs. Minnie Jeffries of Burwell. Six children preceded Mrs. Sanders in death.

'Whoopee', With Eddie Cantor, Opening Show at Ord Theater

The greatest event of the picture year in Ord comes Thursday, February 12, when the new Ord Theatre opens its doors to the public for the first time. It is fitting that "Whoopee," the Samuel Goldwyn-Flo Ziegfeld musical riot, starring Eddie Cantor, should be the opening attraction for this great picture has made an immediate national hit. This famous pair of producers have exhausted every angle of their art to make "Whoopee" memorable.

The cost of the production, originally estimated at a million and a half dollars, was nearer the two million mark when shooting was completed. The filming called for seventy-four changes of scene, many of them taken in such world-famous natural beauty spots as Zion National Park, 512 changes of costume and scenes including four and five hundred people.

The entire Goldwyn and Ziegfeld staffs were combined to make "Whoopee" technically perfect with Thornton Freeland, young and brilliant Hollywood director, in charge of the filming. In "Whoopee" a great stage success becomes one of the pictures that make history.

Sally Morgan (Eleanor Hunt) has long been in love with Wanenis (Paul Gregory), an Indian boy who lives near her father's ranch, but her father is forcing her to marry the Sheriff (John Rutherford), while Wanenis is away being educated to white man's ways. Wanenis returns just before the wedding, learns of the plans and goes back to his people on the reservation, broken-hearted. Sally, desperately unwilling to go through with the marriage, prevails on Henry Williams (Eddie Cantor), an imaginary invalid living on the ranch, to take her away in his ranshackle Ford. As soon as her escape is discovered, her father and the Sheriff set out in pursuit.

Sally and Henry are despairing when they run out of gas in a few miles, but they hold up a car to steal gasoline and get to the next ranch for food, ignorant that this very ranch is owned by the people they have held up. The foreman of the ranch is expecting the owner and family, and is desperate because he has neither cook nor maid to take care of them. Sally and Henry volunteer for the jobs, only to discover, on their arrival, that the people they are to wait on will surely recognize them. Henry blacks his face with soot as a disguise and proceeds to cook in his own sweet way. All is going well until Sally's father and Sheriff arrive, looking for the fugitives. Sally and Henry escape just in time and dash off in the Ford, after Henry has gone home, knocked out the ranch-owner's son and wrecked the garage. They seek refuge in the Indian reservation and learn that Wanenis has determined to abandon white civilization and go back to savagery in his despair, believing that his race may survive for Sally impossible.

$15,300 ASKED IN DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST INNESS

Local Man Killed His Wife In Car Smash, Charges James Spence of Newman Grove.

A damage suit for $15,300 was filed in district court here Saturday against Charles E. Inness by James E. Spence of Newman Grove, who as administrator of his wife's estate asks that amount for the death of his wife, Edith Spence, on July 23, 1930, which his petition states was due to Inness' negligence in driving. Spence also sues in behalf of his minor daughter, Mary Jane Spence, who is but 8 years old, wanting $15,000 for the loss of her 32 year old wife and mother, $300 for her funeral expenses, and the costs of the case.

In his petition it is alleged that Inness hit the Spence car at an intersection on the KND highway, as the Spence family and Axel Nelson, father of Mrs. Spence, were going from Pullerton to Central City. The cars collided with such force that the Spence car was thrown about 20 feet. The Spence filing claims that Mr. Inness did not have his car under control; that he was going at a reckless rate of speed estimated at between 40 and 45 miles per hour; that the defendant was not paying attention and did not heed the stop signs, and was careless and negligent. Munn and Norman and Prince Munn and Prince of Grand Island are attorneys for the plaintiff. The trial will probably come up for hearing at the spring term of court.

DANNEBROG WINS CHAMPIONSHIP IN FINALS SATURDAY

St. Paul Loses Out In Extra Period; Ord Loses Close Game to Sargent.

By defeating St. Paul 22 to 19 in an extra-period game here Saturday night Dannebrog won the Loup Valley championship and gained possession of the gold basketball for at least a year. This was the first annual Loup valley tournament, so Dannebrog high's name will be the first one inscribed on the cup. They won the right to compete in the finals by preliminary victories over Loup City and Ord and their right to the championship is undisputed.

Bang-up basketball was the rule Saturday night and the consolation game between Ord and Sargent was nearly as exciting as the main event, Sargent coming from behind in the last four minutes of play to win 24 to 17. At the time Sargent staged their final rush Ord led 17 to 18 but long shots from the center of the floor by Shettron, big Sargent guard, proving the undoing of Ord's hopes.

The third quarter was Ord's big period. The local boys were behind 6 to 12 at half time but came out fighting and soon pulled up even with Sargent, going into the lead early in the final period. All of the Ord boys participated in the scoring but Steinwort led with 5 points. For Sargent Clark Metcalf was the high scorer but Lysinger and Shettron were big assets to the Custer county team.

J. Dobry, with 11 points, was the highest scorer in the St. Paul-Dannebrog game but Pederson, Dannebrog center, shared individual stardom honors with him. Harvey also played a fine game at guard for the Dannebrog team.

This game was a thriller all the way through. At half time Dannebrog led 16 to 15 and when the game ended the score was tied at 19 alike. In the five minute extra period a field goal by Petersen and a free throw by Pederson completed the scoring and gave Dannebrog the game and the championship.

Semi-final games last Thursday night also were exciting. In the first Dannebrog defeated Ord, 30 to 21, and in the second game St. Paul edged out Sargent by an 18 to 17 score. The play of Crowe and Dobry featured in the first game, while the play of Sargent, Shettron and Hans looked best.

The box score of the championship game Saturday night:

Merchants Plan Bargain Days To Correspond With Opening Of Ord's Fine New Theater

In connection with the opening of the new theatre, merchants of Ord have planned a three-day bargain event that starts Thursday and continues through Friday and Saturday. Nearly every business man and woman in town is making special prices for the three days.

To spread the fame of Ord's new theatre over a wider territory than the Quiz covers, a number of the business people collaborated in mailing out a four-page circular, 3,356 copies of which went into the mails Tuesday. If anybody within fifty miles of Ord doesn't know that the Ord Theatre is having its formal opening Thursday night and that the city of Ord is an ideal place to visit on one of the three opening days, it is the fault of the theatre manager, Ord business people or the Quiz. Read the ads in this week's Quiz carefully. Practically all of them feature money-saving items that every household needs. And if your friends who live at a distance don't know about the theatre opening and the big bargain event being held in connection with it, telephone to them or write them at once.

ORD ROTARIANS GAIN HINTS ON SCHOOL METHODS

Club Members Pay Informal Call at School, Thoroughly Enjoy Their Visit.

Ord Rotarians visited the Ord schools Monday afternoon after their regular luncheon, dropping in informally to watch a number of the various classes as the regular routine of the school unfolded. Trailing along, the Quiz reporter decided that the Rotarians were enjoying the trip, gaining fresh enthusiasm and interest in our schools, and learning a great deal about just how school now-a-days is carried on. Nearly everything they saw was new and wanted explanation by Superintendent Bell, for hardly any of these men had ever been inside the doors of an Ord school before. But it will not be difficult to coax them to go, after this.

The first stop was the gymnasium, where about forty girls of the junior high were enjoying games and exercises and drills under the capable direction of Miss Edna Hrizida. The play which was going on when the Rotary club entered changed to wheel-barrowing, and this drew lots of chuckles from the visitors. In this wheel-barrowing, one girl, facing the floor, goes about on her hands, and her legs are grasped firmly by the ankles by a second girl.

Grover Alexander Spends Sunday In Ord Jail, Pays Fine of $158.50 For Liquor

"I'll come down any time of the day or night to issue a license or marry a couple but I won't hold court on Sunday for the convenience of a liquor law violator," said Judge J. H. Hollingshead.

And so Grover Cleveland Alexander, famous baseball pitcher and world series hero spent Sunday in the Valley county jail.

Alexander, whose home is in St. Paul, came to Ord Saturday evening to assist in cheering the St. Paul high school basketball team on to victory in the Loup Valley tournament. He rode up with friends and was perfectly sober on the way, his friends said. But after he reached Ord it was a different story.

Midway of the evening the famous hurler entered the schoolhouse hilariously intoxicated. He was given an opportunity to leave by school authorities but did so before the purpose of getting another drink! Then he returned and was arrested by Sheriff Round and Marshall Leonard Covert.

While they were taking him to the court house "Old Pete" succeeded in throwing a pint bottle of hooch away but Sheriff Round's eagle eye saw him dispose of the liquor and the car was stopped while the officers retrieved the evidence.

In Judge Hollingshead's court Monday morning Alexander pleaded guilty to charges of intoxication and possession filed by County Attorney Munn and paid fine, and costs totalling $158.50, after which he was released.

As a result of the world series hero's visit to Ord the local school fund is richer by a considerable amount and Alexander is poorer--but probably no wiser. He has been in too many similar scrapes before.

Welcome To The New Ord Theater!

As one of the oldest institutions in Ord, this newspaper extends greetings to the Ord Theatre, the newest.

If Mr. M. Biemond is to be congratulated upon his foresight in locating such a model theatre in the thriving and progressive city of Ord, the city is also to be congratulated upon attracting to it such a progressive business man as Mr. Biemond.

A description of the Ord Theatre appears elsewhere in this week's edition. Suffice it to say that Mr. Biemond has spared neither effort nor capital to make the theatre a success. It is a credit to Ord and we are sure that Ord, by its patronage, will be a credit to the theatre.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

Since I very modestly mentioned my cooking experiences while the Missus was away last spring, many requests have come for me to furnish more of my recipes but the ladies are doing such a splendid job of bringing them in, I shall decline to do so.

A few weeks ago I asked the Quiz correspondents to send in their pictures, as we plan on wanting to use them a little later. So far only a few of the correspondents have complied with the request. We have several however and no doubt more will be coming along. When we bought our printing press of course we had to agree not to print anything that would be too much of a strain on the press and in looking over some of the photographs sent in, I was in doubt whether the press would stand it. Of course most of the pictures got my o. k. at once I hesitated when Ernest Coats and George Round sent theirs in and the more I thought of it the more doubtful I became so I sent them in to the printing press people. They wrote back and said they would guarantee the press to stand it all right as it was made extra strong for just such things. But when "Pat Fuson's picture came I was sure we would not dare use it so I forwarded that, also, to the press people back in Boston. They say they are in doubt too, and wish to be relieved of all liability in case of accident if we decide to use the picture. I hope John Ward don't hear about this because I know I couldn't use his picture. I wouldn't even bother to send it in.

Col. Weller does not claim to be a horse doctor but he does, at times talk horse sense. The other day a Scotta man asked Weller what he should do about his horse. He said at times the horse was terribly lame while at other times the horse was perfectly all right. Weller told him to sell the horse the first time he was all right.

We always get practically ready to go to press with the last run on Wednesday evening and at 9 o'clock Thursday morning we plan after having the wheels turning. That means that everyone is very busy on Thursday morning, so that twice in the last month important stories have been missed. The first one, the Peterson suicide was not reported in town until after we were making the last run. Last Thursday morning we didn't hear about the McLain & Sorenson robbery until the city papers were all in the office. We put the city papers out first if we can do so and have time to make the routes and bundles afterward but sometimes a little delay forces us to run the routes a bundle first. I don't like to miss these late stories and I am going to make this offer: We will pay the first person who gets an important story to us before 9 o'clock Thursday morning, 50c. If it is from some distant part of the county and there is a phone charge we will also pay that. An important story means a bad accident, a real fire with property loss, a sudden death, a robbery, holdup or other real important happening late Wednesday night or early Thursday. We are going to try this scheme to get the very latest news.

Charley Arnold sent in the following bit of verse and said he wanted it dedicated to "Hip" Norman:
Old Mother Hubbard she went to the cupboard,
To get her poor husband a drink.
But the cupboard was bare,
The dry squad had been there,
And emptied it all in the sink.

One of the nicest, brightest boys I have visited with in a long time, called at the Quiz office Saturday to see if I had some pictures of poultry, which he wanted to use in his school work. I was sorry I didn't have what he wanted. The boy is Harlan Wyrick, R2, Ord, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wyrick and if anyone who reads this can do so, I will appreciate their sending Harlan some of the pictures he wants.

I understand there is a bill before the legislature proposing to do away with the state library commission. I hope this will not be done without making some other suitable provision to take care of the work.

I have had a good many Valley county farmers and business men ask why the county board quit printing the full proceedings of the board and I have told all of them that I thought it was for the purpose of saving money. They have been having a brief summary of the board proceedings printed. So many asked that the full board proceedings be printed that I asked Mr. James to get a resolution before the board, authorizing the printing of the full proceedings as used to be done and agreeing to print the same for a third of the legal rate for such advertising, provided the Loyalist and Arcadian would do likewise. Commissioner Barber introduced the resolution and Commissioner Hansen seconded the motion but the board declined to have the job done. My offer would have given each of the papers eight and a third cents each per inch which is less than a quarter of our regular advertising rate and which would not pay for the setting of the proceedings in any of the offices. I believe the county board is making a mistake in refusing to print the full proceedings as was formerly done. The cost would not be great as if it could be printed in all three papers full publicity would be had over the county, as no doubt practically every one reads some one of the papers mentioned. So long as the board is not willing to print its proceedings in full the Quiz will try to give as full reports as possible of the doings of the board in its news stories.

A hundred years is a long time as we humans think of time but after all it is not so long, for the International Harvester Co. is going to have a dinner at the Yancey Hotel in Grand Island on Monday, February 16 to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the invention of the reaper by Cyrus H. McCormick and I received a nice printed invitation to be present and help dispose of the good things which will be provided. I am sorry I cannot go for it is quite an honor to be invited. The International Harvester Co. is one of the greatest institutions in the world, I don't even need to say the United States for they are a world institution and Grand Island is fortunate in having a great branch of the company located there and Ord and the farmers of the Loup Valley are also fortunate in having the products of this company located so close. I am sorry that I will be unable to attend the function.

SLAT'S DIARY

Friday—well I don't see no use in people learning to speak french, are teacher thinks she nose how to but all she does is to talk about sum girl which's name is Jenney Sapay or sum thing, an I don't see how you cud make up a football yell out of French so what does enny buddy want to be learn french for. Saturday—Jake aint as dum as he seams at lease I hope he aint. Today it was raining so we studied are 1000's for M and I with each another. Finely I ast him what was the three best ways to take care of the yuman body and he sed. Wash grease and powder. Sunday—well ma had made a date for me to go to the dentist tomorrow p. m. after skool and this morning the dentist's wife called up and sed he was layed up with the mumps on 1 side of his face and I wood half to wait a wile for my treatment. It seams like suchy offie pity that he has got the mumps. thank heven. Monday—They is a new girl down at the sody fountain at the drug store and she is ofly fresh with sum of us customers. This p. m. I set down at the counter and I sed do you serve nuts with ice cream. she looks at me kinda sneerishly and sed Dont ast such foolish kwestions what kind of ice cream do you want we serve enny buddy with ice cream. Tuesday—Ant Emmy went and got a mannuance this p. m. agd she cant talk about nothing else but. and she sed she thot it soundd so much nicer to call them mannuance parters than to call them a hand laundry. but I gess we half to xpek things like that from Ant Emmy. Wednesday—Mrs. Blunt was at are house fer supper tonite and I think she got about 1/2 sore at pa becuz he ast her dident she want some more bread and she sed Just a mouth full and pa went and giv her three more slices. Thursday—Mrs. Gillems sister rote a letter to her and sed for her to enkwire a round and find the best Tonsorial parier in town becuz she was a going to half to have her little dotters tonsils amputated this coming week.

By the way, the second was such a perfect June day, wasn't it too bad everyone couldn't be out doors. A shame to work inside when it is so pleasant and balmy out! I thought of having a law passed to lift the roofs off all the buildings each nice day, but then probably the law would get all gummed up with official red tape, and not work!

Of course all her personal friends know it, but there are hundreds of women in Valley county who are not aware that Mrs. Charles Bals is an expert at making handmade lace, and that her lace curtains in most of the rooms of her home are every stitch her own work. Look at her windows next time you go by; her curtains are lovely and so different from the casual store-made curtains which are becoming standardized in all homes in this country.

I feel about as swollen with pride as a cream puff at present, for Mr. Loft said some very nice things about my colyum recently, when I was chatting with him for a few minutes. He made the compliment worth more, in my estimation, when he talked about his favorite newspapers and writers, for I discovered he liked what I did. For instance, O. O. McIntyre. There's a man what can write a colyum!

Something DIFFERENT

Arlos Thompson didn't have any black eyes or anything when I was talking to him the other day but his home life must be terrible. When he gets a chance to have any, that is, for Arlos is a busy person. The date was Febr. 2, and Arlos said that his wife had casually asked him that morning: "Do you know what day this is?" The husband thought a bit and then opened his mouth to put his foot in it, saying, "Why, Grand Hog Day, I guss." And in telling me, he went on "and it was our wedding anniversary and you can imagine what she said to me!" Yes, I can, because I know what I'd say to my husband if he forgets we've been married 5 years next Monday. Poor Arlos!

Did you ever play this corn game? It used to be called Keno, and played with checkers or something. Well that's what it looked like down at Bob Noll's place the other day. . . . two or three young fellas were sitting at a counter sort of fiddling around with grains of corn. Every once in a while some grain of corn would do something they didn't care for, and get shoved off on to the floor!

Imagine my embarrassment when I was informed they were sorting seed corn, and throwing away the poor grains! It really looked as if they were playing, and enjoying it, and here they were working alla time!

I must be the ignoramusesst, as Andy would say. The younger generation understand high finance too, don't think they don't! Less than a week ago a little boy asked his Mama for 25c with which to buy a birthday present for a school mate who was celebrating. The little boy got the 25c, went down town, intending to buy a nice 25c flashlight with the money.

But he saw a pretty ball, nice and red, and it was nine cents! My, but he'd like to have that! After a morning of shopping and figuring, and wanting the red ball, the young shopper came home with a nice knife, which was 10c, the red ball for 9c, and a little birthday card which cost a few pennies! He proposed to keep the ball, and give the knife and card!

red ball for 9c, and a little birthday card which cost a few pennies! He proposed to keep the ball, and give the knife and card!

You would probably like to know though, that his Mama wouldn't let him! So he took it to the party and longingly relinquished it!

How many times grown-ups do the same thing. Buy something they can afford to give away, but not to keep!

And then there are some who are on the other side. Nothing to give away, but everything to keep!

Which would you rather be?

One of the local doctors may not know it, but he is highly out of favor with a certain small girl. Why? "Because, Mama, he only brings boy babies!"

Twenty-five Years Ago. The Ord high school debating team went to Central City and debated the question: "Resolved, that granting the suffrage to the negro in 1869 was unwise." Ralph Harris and Archie Coombs formed the Ord debating team.

The Ord Telephone Company was re-organized with I. H. Hatfield, F. H. Wheeler, D. A. Gard and Peter Mortensen as officers. Cards were out announcing the marriage of Lena Timmerman and Ernest B. Stewart.

An article appeared in the Quiz arguing that free lunches at public sales should be done away with and a lunch wagon at which food could be bought given a place on the grounds. The free lunch custom should disappear in Valley county "as it did in other places long ago" the Quiz argued.

The custom of giving free lunches prevailed here until only a year ago. The Women's club entertained the Laurel club at the home of Mrs. Alvin Blessing. Peter Mortensen was being prominently mentioned as a candidate for governor.

Twenty Years Ago. There was some talk of a third bank in Ord, the Sorensons being active in organizing it. J. Cass Corneil and family left for the east to attend a hardware convention in Rock Island, Ill., and an automobile show at Chicago.

Dr. H. C. Perry, a long time resident of Ord, was found dead in his bed at San Diego, Calif., where he was spending the winter. Misses Ella Mutter and Nellie Bradt returned from South Dakota where they had been homesteading for six months.

Ord high's second stringers in basketball played the North Loup basketball, winning 34 to 9. City Clerk Blessing resigned and A. J. Shirley was chosen to fill the position.

The opinions of some folks are like a bottle of pop; they soon go flat when exposed to the air.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

With lots of recipes, all of them good, the cookery editor is delighted to offer a choice assortment this week.

Firstly, here is a recipe by a man! How would you like to try this recipe for suet pudding? It is not too expensive. Shall we try it?

Suet Pudding a la Anderson. 2 lbs. flour or soaked bread 2 eggs well beaten 1 lb. finely chopped suet 1 lb. seedless raisins 1 tsp. salt 1/2 lb. layer raisins 1/2 tsp. grated nutmeg 2 heaping tsp. baking powder

Mix all thoroughly together. Have a cotton sack that will hold about 4 lbs. Fill into the sack after it has been dipped in hot water. Tie sack and leave room for pudding to expand as it cooks. Put in a kettle of boiling water and boil two hours. I seldom found any of this pudding left after our dinner.

W. A. Anderson Mr. Anderson writes: "What the writer does not know about cooking would fill several volumes, but as he had at one time several years experience as head cook in the household he is willing to help out with some of his experiences. Once a week and generally on Sunday I made a suet pudding, and this is the formula used." Thank you, Mr. Anderson. Are there any more one cook among our readers?

Then, Mr. Anderson sends in a recipe for the sauce for this pudding: Pudding Sauce 1 c. sugar 1/2 c. butter, mixed well 1 c. boiling water 2 tsp. flour 2 tsp. cider vinegar Cook for five minutes, stirring constantly. Flavor with lemon or vanilla.

W. A. Anderson Then for variety, we offer a salad recipe of fruits, nuts and marshmallows, really a dessert salad, equally suitable for either of two places in a meal. Pineapple Salad 1 c. pineapple marshmallows 1/2 c. nuts Drain the juice from the fruit. Beat well four eggs, add 1/2 c. suar to the eggs and put in the juice. Boil until thick. Take from fire and cool. Mix with 1 c. whipped cream and add other ingredients.

Hulda Hanke And for more variety, here is a recipe for drying beef that farm housewives and others who have access to quantities of fresh beef may like to try. Dried Beef. For every 20 lbs. of beef take two cups of salt, 1 1/2 c. brown sugar Mix well together and divide in 3 equal parts and rub into the meat on 3 successive days. Keep the pieces of meat in a large cork or porcelain vessel, and turn them in the liquor every day for a week. Then wash and hang up to dry over stove, or someplace where it will dry quickly.

Mrs. H. R. Packer We are also going to help Myra Thorgate Barber out this week. Myra is worrying about the proportions in a recipe she gave at a club the other day, and asks that we print this recipe for "Whipped Cream Cake"

1 c. cream 3 eggs whites 1/2 c. water 1 tsp. vanilla 1 3-4 c. sugar 2 c. pastry flour 1/2 tsp. salt 3 tsp. baking powder

Whip the cream until stiff; beat the egg whites stiff; mix the cream and eggs lightly together. Add water and vanilla; then, a little at a time the dry ingredients which have been sifted together twice. Bake up in an oiled pan in a moderate oven about thirty minutes.

Mrs. Barber is a very entertaining contributor! One time she wrote a poem and sent it in with a couple of recipes. . . . do you remember? The next week she took exception to my calling her Mrs. Jake Barber. . . . pardon me, Myra! . . . and wrote me a poem and gently but firmly mentioned the fact! Now I'm sorry she didn't compose a poem this time, too! Aren't you, readers?

Last week we requested butter-milk recipes. We would also like to ask for sour milk recipes. Many women are lucky enough to have lots of nice sour milk and cream to use; the rest of us get hold of some now and then. Also, we are still requesting recipes for thrifty meat dishes, stews, etc., pot dinners, economical time saving recipes for busy women. What is your favorite delicious money-saver?

Nebraska Hatchery Battles Birds, Frogs and Snakes.

At the Crawford station of the federal fish bureau, where game fish are grown to stock streams and lakes of many surrounding states, the attendants have to wage a constant warfare against predatory birds and animals who act as though the fingerlings are grown especially for them.

The American blackbird is the worst offender. Early in the summer it was discovered that blackbirds were wading into the ponds near Fort Robinson and catching small trout and other fish. The ponds have also been a happy hunting ground for kingfishers. Bullfrogs and snakes are a constant menace to the hatching and growing of game fish. And so between birds, frogs and snakes, the keepers at the hatchery have had a busy summer and fall protecting their infant charges.

Nevertheless with all the hazards a total of 360,305 fish were shipped from the hatchery to the lakes and streams of seven states, Colorado, Montana, South Dakota, Nevada, Utah, Wyoming and Nebraska. In addition, 290,000 fish were distributed by the federal station.

Speckled fingerling that will be wary trout someday, if their enemies do not overtake them before that time, were sent out to the number of 114,975. They ranged in size from four to six inches. In this group were brook trout, rainbow trout and Lock Levans.

But trout were not all the yield of the hatchery. There were 20,000 catfish, 104,000 sunfish, 1,725 black bass, 18,900 yellow perch and thousands of bluegills last year.

The clear fresh waters of Nebraska streams create almost perfect conditions for fish hatching. This explains why Nebraska fish are in such great demand to stock the waters of neighboring states.

FRATERNAL PROTECTION

WITH A 48-YEAR RECORD OF SUCCESS

In a little Iowa town, Modern Woodmen of America was organized in 1883. Its purpose was to broaden the social opportunities of farm, town and city, to promote fraternal activities in various communities and to provide life insurance protection for its members.

So successfully has it done these things that Modern Woodmen of America now has more than thirteen thousand local camps in forty-six states and four Canadian provinces, has become the largest fraternal beneficiary society in the World, and has more than a billion dollars of life insurance protection in force.

FOR THE FAMILY of your family is provided by Modern Woodmen of America at the lowest cost consistent with safety. On equal terms, this organization insures men and women, from sixteen to sixty, for amounts ranging from $500 to $10,000, and in such a variety of certificate forms that you can select one to fit the average need. There is even a Junior Insurance Department for children under sixteen. For the benefit of members who become afflicted with tuberculosis a free sanatorium is maintained in Colorado.

SAFE AND SOUND Modern Woodmen of America is 100% actuarially solvent. Its claims are paid, ($455,000,000 to date) and will continue to be paid promptly and in full. Its modernized plan of insurance is safe, sound and meets all requirements. To be insured in Modern Woodmen of America is to enjoy unusual benefits in addition to the safety of its insurance guaranteed by the required reserves.

GET MORE DETAILS One or more of the thirteen thousand Modern Woodmen Camps must be in your neighborhood. For more information as to benefits of membership and how you can protect your dependents, see the local camp clerk or deputy, or write to the Head Offices. Decide today to do this.

How to play Bridge AUCTION or CONTRACT by Wynne Ferguson Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGES"

ARTICLE No. 12 It is pretty good evidence that Auction Bridge is becoming the national game when the editors of the metropolitan dailies make it the subject of their editorials. Here is one that recently appeared in the New York American, under the caption "Bridge of Sighs": "Most games of cards are criticized as gambling, but bridge is coming in for condemnation because it provokes violence. Judge W. N. Gemmill goes so far as to say that married couples never should be partners. A bride of social importance had testified that she doubled a four diamond bid and lost the trick, at which her husband, who was her partner, flamed into a rage and berated her before their guests. Only a few weeks before, another couple traced the cause of their separation to the trumping by the wife of her husband's ace. "Assuredly, bridge is for those who can control their tempers and their tongues. Players who cannot smile and turn the other cheek when smitten should stick to euchre or casino. But bridge is a wonderful school for poise and patience. Anyone who can pass through the ordeal of a tournament without an emotional outbreak ought to be able to buy Radio on margin and sleep soundly of nights."

ORD SPORT FANS, ESPECIALLY THOSE INTERESTED IN FOOTBALL, WILL HAVE TO AGREE WITH ME THAT IT IS ALWAYS THE BIG MAN THAT MAKES THE COLLEGE FOOTBALL TEAM TODAY. CHRIS MATHIS IS AN EXAMPLE OF A LITTLE FELLOW MAKING THE GRADE. ORD PEOPLE SAW MATHIS WHEN HE WAS IN ORD AS MY GUEST RECENTLY AND SOME WERE ASTONISHED TO SEE HOW LITTLE THE QUARTERBACK FLASH IS.

During the football season, Chris weighed but 142 pounds. Since that time, he has had his tonsils out and now scales around 160 or so. Ord people have never known a more consistent trainer than Christopherous. Even though the football season is over, he still refrains from smoking and keeps physically fit otherwise.

Now that the track season is about to roll around, the Tecumseh boy will probably be pole vaulting or Coach Schutte's team. Chris did 12 feet last year and says he should be able to make twelve six this season. In a recent military compet, he sailed over the bar at eleven six with his army suit on. Unless the unforeseen happens, Chris should letter on the track team.

Among the local people glad to see Chris were Dickie Koupal and Bill Tunnell. Both lads are football fans and admire Mathis. They both hope that Chris will come back soon to seem them again.

Though the Ord high school basketball team continues to lose basketball games consistently, the student body is staying with them. It is remarkable how students in Ord high are backing their losing teams. Ord hasn't had a winning team in two years, but to me, it seems as though the cheering at the basketball games is above any of former years.

HERE IS REAL PROOF. "My stomach and bowels were weak for many years," says Mrs. J. R. Baker, 612 Eighth avenue, N. Grand Forks, N. D. "My husband won health through Konjola and now, after I have taken five bottles, I am free from stomach trouble and constipation and actually feel better than I have in years. Konjola is marvelous." CONGRATULATIONS TO MR. M. BIEMOND AND MR. J. HOOGENBOEZEM WHO HAVE MADE POSSIBLE THE NEW ORD THEATRE H. A. RAAPKE Architect 1228 City National Bank Bldg. Omaha, Nebr.

this year. While in Ord recently, it was the talk of the town, it seemed to me. Everyone is interested in seeing big Joe and his associates wallop the opposing teams. To me, it appears as though town team basketball has done a large bit in helping to kill high school basketball in Ord. The town team games have been more thrilling and interesting than the high school games and as a result fans want to see the all-stars play. They want to see the home team win.

Evidently Ord will have two former high school football stars competing for places on the University of Nebraska freshmen eleven next fall if all reports are true. They are apt to be Thurston Gifford and Bill Garnick. Of the two, Gifford should stand the best chance of making the team although Garnick is a fast improving man.

While in high school, "Switz" played an end on the football team. If he goes to school next fall, he will probably be switched to a tackle position where he should be able to realize his possibilities. Gifford is big, built well, and mighty strong. Too, his hands aren't so small and he is an apt pass receiver. Rumor has it that Thurston weighs over 200 pounds. Not a bad prospect at all.

Coming to Garnick, we find a young fellow who developed fast this year on Coach Krejci's team. He, too, is quite large and strong. Bill possesses the "guts" and he may make the grade. At all Ord football fans will be pulling for "Switz" and Bill next fall if they are enrolled at Nebraska. Both will probably register in the college of agriculture.

who walks behind. It is fun and exercise, all at once. This class was bare-legged, in black bloomers and white blouses. Sox were rolled down over their shoe tops.

Next, the class numbered "one, two, three, four", as rapidly as possible, each girl bending over as she gave her number. Drill came next, regular military drill, open ranks, straighten lines, etc. Miss Hinzda seated herself at the piano to play the accompaniment for the exercises which followed. Leaving the class to count aloud rhythmically as the bending, stretching, etc., went on. Afterward group dances with four girls forming a group, on the order of folk dances, were demonstrated for the intruding males. Perhaps Parkins was willing to play with any group that needed him.

A visit to Jesse Kovanda's vocational agriculture room in which a number of his students were studying, was next made. These young farm-ites were testing lessons and milk, and doing other lessons that needed the apparatus in this room. These boys have formed a junior cow testing association and many of them bring in milk to test every day. There are 11 members of this class.

Beginning woodworkers, next door, were busily making every thing from furniture to model A type hog houses. Several boys were making small cedar chests, hinges, finish and all. An end table of gum wood, a davenport table, a hall tree and several mysterious looking objects were also under construction.

Miss Mae Baird, in the related arts class, was superintending a lesson on the proper necklace, and her girls were very interested. Using members of the class for models, a number of necklaces were tried on, scrutinized and criticized. Then the model was told just what she should wear around her neck. Dr. Barta caused some diversion by trying to swipe an egg out of an open bowl on the teacher's desk but he just couldn't get away with it.

Going south, the Rotarians found Miss Hardin overseeing a number of girls who were busily cutting out pajamas. This frightened them away immediately, so the clubmen went upstairs and watched a big typing class practicing. Miss Fredrickon, the instructor, handed out a number of typed pictures for examination. A neat bit of work was a picture of a house and road, with the title, "The House by the Road", done by Marie Kosmata with the aid of a lot of sixes.

Tip-toeing through a study hall conducted by Elizabeth Shaver, the next stop was a geometry class with Barton Redfern in charge. Billy Baird was proving something on the blackboard, but as long as Ernie Weller couldn't understand it the Rotarians wouldn't stay. The chemistry lab was a curious looking place, full of bottles, oddly built tables, and a number of cabinets and closets. No class was in session there, although it houses biology and physics classes as well as chemistry. Back in the

REGINALD DENNY AND GRACE MOORE FEATURED IN "A LADY'S MORALS"

REGINALD DENNY

Reginald Denny, the popular comedy favorite, and Grace Moore, Metropolitan opera star, play the feature roles in "A Lady's Morals" which will be shown at the new Ord Theatre Wednesday and Thursday nights, next week. Wallace Beery and Gus Shy also appear in the supporting cast. Nine musical numbers are heard in the picture, which has been a great success. Mr. Denny's brilliant performance as a pianist is a feature of this charming picture.

South east corner was a newly acquired aquarium, and a nice The ventilating system in this room came in for admiration too, several Rotarians agreeing it was much better than open windows.

In the newly re-organized library, the visitors were told that books on the south wall might be checked out for reference, but that all the others had to be studied in the room and as the seats will hold about 100, there should be no trouble. A student librarian is now kept in charge here. Next door was another study hall, with Miss Blanchard in charge.

Back on the first floor, the last stop was made in the music room, where Miss Bloodgood directed the singing of that old favorite "Merry Life." The would-be singers were from the junior high school, judging by their size, and were told to "watch their tra-la-las!" by their little teacher. The Rotarians evidently thought this applied to them also for they left the room and the building very shortly after.

What's New in Farming!

TREATED SEED CORN DOES NOT PAY, TEST SHOWS

No Superior Yields. Dale Advised To Warn Farmers.

Mercury dust treatments have not been found to be effective on seed corn in Nebraska, according to tests conducted at the North Platte station and reported to County Agent Dale in Ord today. Farmers in Valley county have been wondering about the possibilities of using the treated seed corn and what value it has.

The test results show that dry climate is not favorable to the parasitic fungus organisms causing such diseases as may be treated on seed corn. When they do occur, selection of good, sound ears for planting eliminates most of the infection.

Each year farmers around Ord and North Loup have been bothered with seed corn treatment salesmen who have claimed that their product was useful, according to Agent Dale. Those at the agricultural college have conducted the tests to find out for the Valley county farmer what value the treating as far as production is concerned.

Three widely advertised mercury dust treatments were used on three varieties of corn in the tests, the report to the agricultural college shows. Two plots of each variety were planted with seed treated with each of the dusts. Each treated plot had an adjacent untreated check plot of the same variety of corn. There was no practical difference in the stand secured. The average yield was about the same.

While untreated blue flour corn and salico outyielded the treated plots of the same variety, Dale says this cannot be said that this was due to injurious effects of the treatments. In 1929 results were obtained with a large number of treatments. There was practically no difference between treated and check plots in that year.

Valley county farmers wishing further information about the mercury tests for seed corn should get in touch with County Agent Dale or write agronomist at the college of agriculture.

Farmers Enjoy Night Schools. Considerable interest is being shown in the crops and soils schools conducted for farmers by J. A. Kovanda. Meetings are held on Monday evenings at Valleyside and on Thursday evenings at Haskell Creek. Over thirty farmers are coming regularly to each school.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

One of the most profitable agricultural projects carried out by an Ord high school boy last year was a five acre planting of Spanish rice popcorn which Billy Garnick put in and contracted through the Ord Seed House.

After he had sold his corn, paid his father two-fifths share rent, deducted twenty-five cents an hour for labor, and paid all other expenses, Billy found that his crop had made him a clear cash profit of over 12 dollars an acre.

Thus his financial summary reads:

10,044 lb. popcorn at 2 1/4c.	$226.00
DEBITS—
Seed, 36 lb. at 4c.	$1.44
Planting, acre-$2.30	11.50
Planting, acre-$1.50	7.50
Harrowing; 2 man hours	1.70
8 horse hours	1.70
Cultivating; 6 man hours	5.10
24 horse hours	5.10
Cultivating; 6 man hours	5.10
24 horse hours	5.10
Cultivating; 12 man hours	6.60
24 horse hours	6.60
Cutting weeds; 3 man hours	.75
Harvesting, hired	30.00
Share rent	90.40
Hauling	2.00
	$ 63.91

In order to simplify project accounting, horse labor is charged at 15 cents per horse per hour; this charge also covers the depreciation on machinery drawn by the horses. Student labor is computed at 25 cents an hour.

Over twelve dollars was deducted in labor charges. This is not strictly a cash expense, and if not subtracted makes the labor income from the corn come up to better than fifteen dollars an acre. Billy was shrewd enough to contract his corn; otherwise he might have been unable to find a market for it. He may be unable to contract for this summer so he is trying his luck with baby beves and brood sows instead. With these he has had previous experiences, both as a 4-H club member and as a student in vocational agriculture.

WHEY TEST TO INTEREST NORTH LOUP FARMERS

Ag College Experiment Will Determine Whey Value. Used As Hog Feed.

In an effort to determine the exact value of whey as a hog feed, experiments are now being conducted at the experiment station at the agricultural college which will interest Valley county farmers. Especially will those around North Loup be interested in the results of the test with available whey purchasable at the cheese factory at North Loup.

Three lots of fall pigs are being used in the experiment to compare the value of tankage, whey, and skim milk. The standard check ration is composed of shelled corn and tankage. All lots are being fed alfalfa hay in the rack. When put in the test, the pigs weighed about sixty pounds. Now they weigh around 100 pounds. Original plans call for the completion of the experiment at the time the pigs are ready for market.

Shelled corn and alfalfa hay are being fed in the whey ration. The shelled corn is self-fed, according to A. D. Weber of the agricultural college. He believes North Loup farmers will be anxious to know of the results of this ration in comparison with others.

The third ration is composed of shelled corn, skim milk, and the alfalfa hay. The latter is fed in the rack while the other two cases the shelled corn is self-fed. The skim milk is being hand-fed in the trough.

Since this is the first time the Nebraska station has carried on any tests in regard to whey, it's results will be particularly interesting. The number of cheese factories over the state in the past few years and farmers have been anxious to get some experimental data on the value of whey. Previously it has not been used as a hog feed to a great extent but product available to farmers at reasonable prices.

ORD GIRL WINS CLUB WEEK TRIP

Myrna Ward Goes To College Next Spring. Makes Club Record.

Myrna Ward of Ord has been awarded a free trip to the 1931 club week at the agricultural college next spring, according to County Agent Dale of Ord. He received word of the Ord girl's winning today from the college. The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad is the trip donor.

By having made an outstanding record as a 4-H club leader Miss Ward is given the trip. The trip was awarded to outstanding club leaders in counties which the railroad passes through providing the leader has been a former 4-H club member.

During the past year the Ord girl led a clothing club up north in the brick school district. Myrna's club was late in getting started but finished up in the fall with a good record. The club was organized by her own efforts and given a little assistance from the county agricultural agent, she developed a club spirit in the district.

Miss Ward will attend the club week at the college to learn more about 4-H club work. Similar outstanding club leaders from over the state and outstanding club members will be at the college at that time. Trips, lectures, schools and other entertainment form the program. Club week is an annual affair at the college. Valley county club members and leaders have attended in former years and received much benefit from it.

The winning girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ward of Ord. Hugh Ward, producer of the first ton litter in 4-H club work in Valley county, is a brother of Myrna's. The Ward family are boosters of club work in Valley county.

County Agent Dale considers it likely that Miss Ward will again head her clothing club for the second year.

TRIED SOWS ARE PRODUCING PIGS

George Gowen, North Loup Farmer, Successful In Hog Raising.

George Gowen of North Loup says he tries to keep old tried sows in his hog production program, according to a dispatch in the Omaha Journal-Stockman this week. Gowen raises two litters a year and never sells a sow until she fails to raise a litter or becomes so breachy or cross that she is a nuisance.

The dispatch quotes Gowen as saying that sows seldom become cross and he does not try to discipline them. He tries to outwit them instead. An old sow becomes so stout after a couple of years that if she becomes breachy, practically no fence will hold her.

On the other hand, Gowen explains that he has had one sow who, although having had several litters, has never lost a pig, farrowing eight or ten every time. Now he doesn't feel like exchanging her for an untried sow.

"Further, I try to pick sows that are good dispositioned and good milkers and also try to save gilts from those sows," Gowen is quoted as saying in the Omaha paper. "I try to get boars when they are young so I can see the mother sow and pick them likewise. What good is a stately shaped sow if she will not raise pigs?"

"I always breed several more sows than I intend to keep. Then all that fail to get with pig the first time they are bred I sell. Thereby all the pigs come within three weeks and frequently I have had them farrow much closer than that. By so farrowing the pigs do not rot so badly and I can even put the litters by giving pigs from one sow to another."

Gowen says in the Journal-Stockman that only one sow out of the eight lost any pigs when farrowing and this happened because she moved her nest. He gave her a few more pigs from another sow and he raised 45. He had 64 good ones and one runt.

Near the first of September, Mr. Gowen turned his pigs out in a field of squaw corn. There the sows and pigs ran until October 6th, when he made a creep so the pigs would continue in the corn but the sows would not. The sows naturally dried up, some by taking them off the full feed. After about a week, he shut the sows up tight and dried them completely.

The pigs continued in the corn without a "flutter". He never fed them a drop of stop or anything but corn in the field and alfalfa pasture and occasionally a tankage horse. They were never near the old feed yard until they were over four months old. There was not one but what curled his tail and was fat and slick. After the alfalfa pasture was gone, he fed them a bucket of tankage at noon but not all they wanted. They had alfalfa hay and ate quite a little of that. They also had free access to a mineral.

About Christmas the North Loup man shut all of them he intended to sell in the feed yard and allowed those that he wanted to keep for brood sows to continue to clean up the corn field. The pigs weigh about 200 pounds now.

AM I RIGHT?

By GEORGE ROUND, JR.

Co-operative creameries over the state fared well during the past year, press dispatches indicate. Splendid management at most points was the cause of financial return to farmers selling their cream to their own communities. Among the successful creameries are the Scotia co-op, Clay Center, Loup City, and Wolbach.

Naturally the work of the Ord creamery stands out since they made a record production of about 445,000 pounds of butter during the year. It gives the other creameries a record to shoot at in future years.

Announcement that Myrna Ward has won the Burlington club week trip for her outstanding leadership during the past year is gratifying to me. I know that Myrna is a strong 4-H club booster and deserves the trip to the college this spring. She will enjoy it and take a lot of things back to her club to help them have another successful year.

By the way, Myrna is the sister of Hugh Ward. Hugh is the little fellow that successfully produced a ton litter in club pig work a few years ago. Yes, he is the club boy who used to walk to town in order to be on hand for the meetings. Hugh is a real 4-H club booster.

Bill Dodge of Elyria is taking the short course at the agricultural college. Within another week, I hope to have a story on him to be published in the ag page. Watch for it. Speaking of the college reminds me that just now I saw Claude Roe of Ord. He plans on continuing in school the second semester. Claude received his degree from the University of Nebraska last spring. During Jesse Kovanda's recent illness, he substituted in the high school. Now Ed Hackel volunteers to even kill the old rooster if I will come out his way. He must be a tough bird or Ed wouldn't be parting with him. Use to think that Leo Lyon only would only be out on out when he had the shotgun but he has proved that he isn't the shot he used to be. If he invites you, go, for he can't shoot straight.

The new Ford is an economical car to own and drive

Low first cost, low cost of operation and up-keep, and low yearly depreciation mean a distinct saving to every purchaser

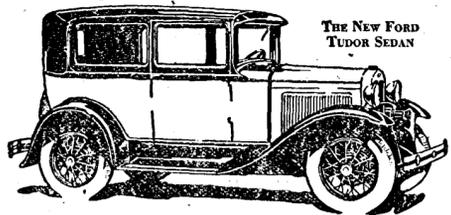

THE NEW FORD is a splendid car to own and drive because of its attractive lines and colors, safety, comfort, speed, reliability and long life.

There are, in addition, three other features of importance to every far-seeing automobile owner... low first cost, low cost of operation and up-keep, and low yearly depreciation.

During the life of the car, the day-by-day economy of owning a Ford will amount to considerably more than the saving on the first cost. You save when you buy the Ford and you save every mile you drive.

The reasons for this economy are simplicity of design, high quality of materials and care in manufacturing and assembling. Many vital parts are made to limits of one one-thousandth of an inch. Some to three ten-thousandths of an inch. Throughout, the new Ford is an outstanding example of fine craftsmanship in automobile engineering.

The more you see of the new Ford—the more you talk to Ford owners and experienced mechanics—the more certain you become of this fact... It brings you everything you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

$430 to $630

F. O. B. Detroit, plus freight and delivery. Bumpers and spare tire extra at small cost. You can buy a Ford for a small down payment on a convenient financing plan. See your Ford dealer for details.

Lose Fat Safely and Quickly

Kruschen Salts (a perfect combination of the six mineral salts your body should have to function properly) purify your blood of harmful acids, and aid the kidneys and bowels to throw off waste material—the continual formation of which is probably the cause of your fat.

In this modern age of living, it's impossible to get these salts from the fancy foods you eat—but don't worry just as long as you have Kruschen Salts.

Take half a teaspoon every morning before breakfast in a glass of hot water—little by little that ugly fat disappears—you'll feel better than ever before—years younger, more energy. You'll soon possess that enviable beauty, clear skin, sparkling eyes, superb figure which only perfect health can impart.

An 85c bottle (lasts 4 weeks) at McLain's Sorensen's or any progressive druggist in America. Money back if Kruschen doesn't convince you that it is the safest, quickest, easiest way to lose fat.

A Hartford woman writes, "I'll tell the world Kruschen Salts is wonderful stuff to reduce." An Ohio woman lost 10 pounds with one bottle.

—Madams W. McDonald and T. E. Owen and the latter's daughter, Norma Lee, of Burwell, were Ord visitors for a few hours Saturday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Oliver, who reside near North Loup, were visiting the latter's mother, Mrs. M. Flynn Saturday.

—Mrs. Pete Todsden and son Blaine left Friday for Grand Island when they go to their new home in O'Neill.

—Mrs. Mazie Fradenburg and son Richard of VanCouver, Wash., arrived in Ord Sunday. The former is a daughter of Mrs. M. Flynn. It has been eight years since she was last in Ord. Several of her sisters and brothers and other relatives were calling on Mrs. Fradenburg and mother Sunday.

—Eric Erickson came from Hastings and spent Sunday with relatives and friends. He was accompanied by Ward Mizar, also a former Ord boy now employed in Hastings.

—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller and little daughter spent Sunday with Mrs. Miller's people, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Blessing.

—Misses Jessamine Meyer and Evelyn Barta spent the week end with relatives of the Meyer family in Burwell.

—Mrs. Ida Livingston, of Burwell, was in town for several hours Friday.

—Saturday Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Miller and little daughter came from Grand Island and were visiting until Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Miller's people, Mrs. Hans Bossen and other relatives.

—Richard Fradenburg, of VanCouver, Wash., entered Miss Rowbal's fourth grade Monday. He is in Ord visiting his grandmother, Mrs. M. Flynn.

—Mrs. L. M. Real drove to Ord Saturday from Omaha and conducted services as usual in the Presbyterian church. Mrs. E. H. Petty and two children who had been in Omaha for six weeks accompanied Rev. Real to Ord.

—Mrs. James Fisher of St. Paul, arrived in Ord Saturday evening and is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. John Rybin. The latter has been quite ill with pneumonia. Mrs. Rybin is the mother of Mrs. Warren Lincoln.

Asks: What Is ACNE? Big Ugly PIMPLES

Yes! That's the simple answer, but Acne is more than just a big pimple—better to call it a big stubborn pimple.
That's why you must fight this obstinate skin disease with something powerful enough to kill it and swiftly get the unsightly thing off the skin.
So we advise all who are so unfortunate as to have Acne to get rid of it at once and for all by using antiseptic oil that no case of Acne, Pimples or Eczema can withstand.
And those itchy toes that get raw and sore—the germs that cause it are killed by Emerald Oil. Don't waste time with weak washes—Emerald Oil is guaranteed by druggists everywhere to rid you of stubborn unsightly skin troubles or money back—an 85 cent bottle lasts 2 weeks.

Above material shall be Standard Saw 54S
All prices shall be F. O. B. Union Pacific Tracks, Ord, Nebraska. Payment for Bridge Material shall be made during September 1931.
Immediate delivery shall be made on all above items.
Checks equal to five percent of the amount bid shall be submitted with all proposals.
Bids for bridge material shall be submitted on proposals furnished by the County Engineer.
The Board reserves the right to waive any technicalities and reject any or all bids.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Tuesday February 3
The first game played was Dannebroeg vs. Loup City. Dannebroeg beat Loup City by a score of 22 to 4.

The second game was played by North Loup and Taylor. North Loup took this round by a score of 8-16.

The third game proved to be the fastest basketball game of the night although St. Paul beat Comstock 23-18.

Wednesday, February 4.
Ord played their first game of the tournament with Scotia. The Ord boys played a good game of ball and won with the score of 21 to 11. This game placed Ord in the semi-finals. The next game was between Sargent and Burwell. The tall Sargent boys defeated Burwell 24 to 6. St. Paul and North Loup played the next game. North Loup threatened several times but was defeated 21 to 15.

Thursday, February 5
Ord played Dannebroeg and was defeated 30 to 21. The game was not very fast but Ord could not catch up with Dannebroeg. The final game of the night was between two of the fastest teams in the league, St. Paul and Sargent. The game was very close, both teams showed a very fast brand of basketball and St. Paul won out with a score 18 to 17.

Saturday, February 7
Sargent beat Ord by a score of 24 to 17. This was the fastest basketball ever played by the Ord team.

Dannebroeg beat St. Paul 20-17. This was a very exciting game which had to run over for an extra period during which time Dannebroeg made their points. This proved to be a very fast game of basketball.

GIRL RESERVE.

The G. R. are planning a Valentine day luncheon to be given February 14, at one o'clock. Any girl in high school is invited to attend. Each girl is to bring her mother or a guest. The Home Ec. girls are preparing the luncheon.

At the G. R. meeting they were handed a paper on which they were supposed to write their likes and dislikes about the G. R. meetings. The coming meeting they are going to discuss the papers and decide new plans for their future meetings.

CLASS NOTES

The Civics classes have been writing paragraphs on school spirit and athletics.

The Biology classes have been studying the frog and will soon begin dissecting it.

The Senior English class is studying the Revolutionary period.

The Agronomy class is practicing identifying seeds.

The animal husbandry boys are taking up a study of the breeds of hogs.

Eight members of the Junior costuming association have tested samples and weighed milk for January.

Miss Nelson's public speaking class is going to have real banquets this week. They are on a Junior Senior banquet honoring Admiral Byrd, Alumni Banquet and a football banquet. They are going to have food and carry on over the non hur with reality. One day Mr. Bell is invited as a guest. The class is divided into groups of six and seven students to a group. After they have completed their speeches they will have a general discussion and criticism on the work.

Glee Club.

Both Glee clubs are working on the operetta "The China Shop" which is to be given in the high school auditorium February 25.

Perhaps each of us has been in a mood where he begins to think that all life is but a futile struggle. We are born, we grow to maturity, we struggle for money and fame, and then we drop from life. We think of struggling a lifetime, exhausting our very souls to be able to keep from dying.

You know there is nothing quite so wonderful as the human race. It is endowed with a marvelous intelligence. It is able to mold nature's mighty forces into its own uses. Today the mind dominates the world. If given the time, it seems capable of doing anything.

There is nothing in life which brings more complete, deep satisfaction than a victory for mankind. That conquest gives not only the satisfaction of a mere victory for self, but also the feeling of the worth of a life spent for others.

Do you think George Washington's life was wasted, or Abraham Lincoln's? How about William Shakespeare, James Milton, in science Aristotle, Galileo, and today Edison? Sure enough, we cannot all be this sort of man, but nevertheless, if we can even make one fellow man's life better, our life shall have been worthwhile. The larger the number we help and the greater the amount of aid we give to each is exactly in proportion to our own satisfaction of life.

We can use our life making a fortune for ourselves or we can spend it making life better for the human race. It is to be the latter then when the end comes we shall be able to receive it smiling, happy to go to our Maker.

Charles Shepard

ST. VALENTINE

St. Valentine was a Roman bishop who was martyred in Rome on the fourteenth of February. Ever since both the Catholics and Protestants have celebrated this day. They have set this day aside for sending cards and tokens to their friends. Some say that St. Valentine was accustomed to go from house to house leaving food on the doorsteps of the poor.

When and how the custom was changed into sending Valentines—both of ridiculous and pretty sorts—no one knows.

HI-Y CLUB

The HI-Y club ordered their pins at the last meeting. The pins are of a triangular shape, with a narrow gold border around the edge and in the center is a white cross which stands for purity. The red triangle which is around the cross stands for red blooded service and growth in the body, mind and spirit.

The HI-Y club's purpose is, to create a high standard and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character.

The HI-Y boys are planning an initiation meeting for all the new members next Wednesday. They are also planning a HI-Y dinner to which they will bring a guest. They have not yet decided just when the dinner will be given.

Loup Valley Tournament.

The Loup Valley tournament held at Ord was a success although it failed to come up to the expectations of many of the people. It managed to pay out and promises to grow into a big tournament in the years to come.

We are hoping that Ord can continue to entertain this tournament. The Ord facilities were adequate in every way.

PERSONALS

Miss Mae Baird spent the week end with her parents at Arcadia.

Oleta and Ronald Rose were absent the greater part of last week from the eighth grade rooms on account of eye trouble.

There have been many visitors in the high school the last week as a result of the basketball tournament.

Miss Bernice Campbell, third grade teacher, is going to spend the week end at her home in Callaway.

Robert Rashaw had the misfortune of rebreaking his arm and has been absent from school the past two weeks.

Ord high school had several visitors from Burwell posting bills for a carnival.

Doris Tatlow, student of Ord high school, underwent an appendicitis operation the first of last week.

The Senior class have decided on their announcements for this year, and will soon place their order for them.

The music festival is to be held March 26 at St. Paul. Although there will be no awards given the contestants will be judged.

The music contest is to be held April 10-11 at Grand Island. The state music contest will be held May 1-2 at Lincoln.

The Junior Class has planned card games for their party Friday night. It will be a Valentine Party. The sponsors are Miss Frederickson and Miss Nelson.

The F. F. A. basketball team plays Horace and the Loup City reserves this month.

CONVOCATIONS.

Wednesday, February 4, we had a pep meeting after which Coach Kroejel gave a short talk on our school spirit toward basketball games in attending and while we are there.

Friday's convocation we had a short pep meeting after which Mr. Cass gave the report of the basketball tournament. He then made the announcement regarding the game for Friday night being played by Junior High, Grade school and High School.

High School Orchestra.

The high school orchestra is working hard, getting ready for the district music contest, which will be held May first, and second. The contest piece is "Song of summer" by Polocore.

There are thirty members in the orchestra that will go. Last year the orchestra placed second because of lack of instrumentation. But this year it has a full instrumentation, outside of the Viola. So Ord has a fine chance of placing first.

JUNIOR HIGH NOTES.

The decoration club members are working on stencils, quilt blocks and paper flowers.

Mrs. Jake Severns visited the seventh and eighth grade last week.

Miss Lukesh's home room enjoyed the music of the Victrola Thursday—the children brought their own records.

Mrs. Benjamin visited the seventh and eighth grades last week.

Boys Home Ec. Class.

Miss Hardin and Miss Baird are teaching the boys' home ec. classes. Miss Hardin's class has been making cocoa but next week they are going to start on an egg unit. Their first lesson will be of baking eggs. Miss Baird's class is making some butcher aprons which they will use in preparing the food lessons.

Meeting of Loup Valley Association

The Loup Valley Association met Saturday at the Rotary room at Ord. The Superintendents asked the music supervisors to meet with them and they made plans for a music festival.

Other school people and wives of the Superintendents and supervisors were also guests. About thirty-five people were in attendance.

Nebraska School Board and Executive Association Meet

Nebraska School Board and Executive Association had an annual meeting February 10 and 11, at Kearney. Ord is a member and plans to have representatives at Kearney.

There will be fine discussions by some of the leading board members and executives on the program.

All of the people are Nebraska people and the discussions deal with problems of Nebraska.

Don Moody Appeals County Court Verdict

Don Moody has filed an appeal to the district court here because in a lower court the jury decided he must pay $100 to Anton Nelson, who as plaintiff had filed a suit for $600 over a hog sale. Buying 17 hogs from Moody, for which he paid $155.70. Nelson brought suit because he lost 27 hogs by disease, alleging that Moody knew the hogs to be diseased when he sold them. The hogs were purchased at public sale.

Nelson previously asked the $600 as follows: $276 for 24 hogs which died, at the rate of 10c per lb.; $23.35 for vaccination and medicine; $55 because diseased hogs were sold to him; $22.65 for car expense entailed in numerous trips made necessary by the condition of the hogs, the filing of suit, etc.; $100 to help eradicate the diseases on the farm; $100 for the loss of value of his remaining hogs, making a total of $600.

Personals

—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barnard returned home last Wednesday evening after nearly a week's stay in Omaha with their daughters.

—Will Bartley, who is attending college in Omaha, writes his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ramsey, that recently while two friends of the Ramsey family, Madams A. C. Shaw of Philadelphia and Harold Parcher of Sioux City were visiting their father, Fred Douglass of Omaha, Will was invited to a dinner in the Douglass home. Eighteen years ago Mr. Douglass and daughters lived in Ord.

who walks behind. It is fun and exercise, all at once. This class was bare-legged, in black bloomers and white blouses. Sox were rolled down over their shoe tops.

Next, the class numbered "one, two, three, four", as rapidly as possible, each girl bending over as she gave her number. Drill came next, regular military drill, open ranks, straighten lines, etc. Miss Inizda seated herself at the piano to play the accompaniment for the exercises which followed, leaving the class to count aloud rhythmically as the bending, stretching, etc., went on. Afterward group dances with four girls forming a group, on the order of folk dances, were demonstrated for the intruding males. Perhaps they weren't intruding. . . . George Parkins was willing to play with any group that needed him.

A visit to Jesse Kovanda's vocational agriculture room in which a number of his students were studying, was next made. These young farmerites were testing cream and milk, and doing other lessons that needed the apparatus in this room. These boys have formed a junior cow testing association and many of them bring in milk to test every day. There are 11 members of this class.

Beginning woodworkers, next door, were busily making everything from furniture to model A type hog houses. Several boys were making small cedar chests, hinges, finish and all. An end table of gum wood, a davenport table, a hall tree and several mysterious looking objects were also under construction.

Miss Mae Baird, in the related arts class, was superintending a lesson on the proper necklace, and her girls were very interested. Using members of the class for models, a number of necklaces were tried on, scrutinized and criticized. Then the model was told just what she should wear around her neck. Dr. Barta caused some diversion by trying to swipe an egg out of an open bowl on the teacher's desk but he just couldn't get away with it.

Going south, the Rotarians found Miss Hardin overseeing a number of girls who were busily cutting out pajamas. This frightened them away immediately, so the clubmen went upstairs and watched a big typing class practicing. Miss Fredrickson, the instructor, handed out a number of typed pictures for examination. A neat bit of work was a picture of a house and road, with the title, "The House by the Road", done by Marie Kosmata with the aid of a lot of sixes.

Tip-toeing through a study hall conducted by Elizabeth Shaver, the next stop was a geometry class with Barton Redfern in charge. Billy Baird was proving something on the blackboard, but as long as Ernie Weller couldn't understand it the Rotarians wouldn't stay. The chemistry lab was a curious looking place, full of bottles, oddly built tables and a number of cabinets and closets. No class was in session there, although it houses biology and physics classes as well as chemistry. Back in the

REGINALD DENNY

Reginald Denny, the popular comedy favorite, and Grace Moore, Metropolitan opera star, play the feature roles in "A Lady's Morals" which will be shown at the new Ord Theatre Wednesday and Thursday nights, next week. Wallace Beery and Gus Shy also appear in the supporting cast. Nine musical numbers are heard in the picture, which has been a great success. Mr. Denny's brilliant performance as a pianist is a feature of this charming picture.

In the newly re-organized library, the visitors were told that books on the south wall might be checked out for reference, but that all the others had to be studied in the room, and as the seats will hold about 100, there should be no trouble. A student librarian is now kept in charge here. Next door was another study hall, with Miss Blanchard in charge.

Back on the first floor, the last stop was made in the music room, where Miss Bloodgood directed the singing of that old favorite "A Merry Life." The would-be singers were from the junior high school, judging by their size, and were told to "watch their tra-la-las!" Elizabeth Jorgensen visited her sister, Mrs. Ed Zikmund Thursday, while Alfred attended a sale in that neighborhood.

Men of the U. B. church tried their hand at kitchen work at the church Wednesday evening. They served supper consisting of frankfurts, sandwiches, fried cakes, cinnamon rolls, pickles and coffee to about seventy people. Rev. Warren of North Loup delivered an address on moral education which was very helpful. The men convinced themselves there is no need of them going hungry when the lady of the house is gone away.

TREATED SEED CORN DOES NOT PAY, TEST SHOWS

No Superior Yields. Dale Advised To Warn Farmers.

Mercury dust treatments have not been found to be effective on seed corn in Nebraska, according to tests conducted at the North Platte substation and reported to County Agent Dale in Ord today.

The test results show that dry climate is not favorable to the parasitic fungus organisms causing such diseases as may be carried on seed corn.

Each year farmers around Ord and North Loup have been bothered with seed corn treatment salesmen who have claimed that their product was useful, according to Agent Dale.

Three widely advertised mercury dust treatments were used on three varieties of corn in the tests, the report to the agricultural college shows.

While untreated blue flour corn and salico outyielded the treated plants of the same variety, Dale says this cannot be said that this was due to various effects of the treatments.

Valley county farmers wishing further information about the mercury tests for seed corn should get in touch with County Agent Dale or write agronomist at the college of agriculture.

Farmers Enjoy Night Schools. Considerable interest is being shown in the crops and soils schools conducted for farmers by J. A. Kovanda.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

One of the most profitable agricultural projects carried out by an Ord high school boy last year was a five acre planting of Spanish rice popcorn which Billy Garnick put in and contracted through the Ord Seed House.

After he had sold his corn, paid his father two-fifths share rent, deducted twenty-five cents an hour for labor, and paid all other expenses, Billy found that his crop had made him a clear cash profit of over 12 dollars an acre.

Thus his financial summary reads:

10,044 lb. popcorn at 2 1/4 c.	$226.00
DEBITS—
Seed, 30 lb. at 4c.	$1.44
Planting, acre-$2.30	11.50
Harrowing, 2 man hours	1.50
8 horse hours	1.70
Cultivating, 6 man hours	5.10
24 horse hours	5.10
Cultivating, 12 man hours	5.10
24 horse hours	6.60
Cutting weeds, 3 man hours	.75
Harvesting, hired	30.00
Share rent	90.40
Hauling	2.00
	$152.09
NET PROFIT	$63.91

In order to simplify project accounting, horse labor is charged at 15 cents per horse per hour; this charge also covers the depreciation on machinery drawn by the horses.

Over twelve dollars was deducted in labor charges. This is not strictly a cash expense, and if not subtracted makes the labor income from the corn come up to better than fifteen dollars an acre.

Billy was shrewd enough to contract his corn, otherwise he might have been unable to find a market for it. He may be unable to contract for this summer so he is trying his luck with baby heaves and brood sows instead.

While untreated blue flour corn and salico outyielded the treated plants of the same variety, Dale says this cannot be said that this was due to various effects of the treatments.

Valley county farmers wishing further information about the mercury tests for seed corn should get in touch with County Agent Dale or write agronomist at the college of agriculture.

WHEY TEST TO INTEREST NORTH LOUP FARMERS

Ag College Experiment Will Determine Whey Value. Used As Hog Feed.

In an effort to determine the exact value of whey as a hog feed, experiments are now being conducted at the experiment station at the agricultural college which will interest Valley county farmers.

Three lots of fall pigs are being used in the experiment to compare the value of tankage, whey, and skim milk. The standard check ration is composed of shelled corn and tankage.

Shelled corn and alfalfa hay are being fed in the whey ration. The shelled corn is self-fed, according to A. D. Weber of the agricultural college.

Since this is the first time the Nebraska station has carried on any tests in regard to whey, its results will be particularly interesting.

ORD GIRL WINS CLUB WEEK TRIP

Myrna Ward Goes To College Next Spring. Makes Club Record.

Myrna Ward of Ord has been awarded a free trip to the 1931 club week at the agricultural college next spring, according to County Agent Dale of Ord.

By having made an outstanding record as a 4-H club leader Miss Ward is given the trip. The trips were awarded to outstanding club leaders in counties which the railroad passes through providing the leader has been a former 4-H club member.

During the past year the Ord girl led a clothing club up north in the brick school district. Myrna's club was late in getting started but finished up in the fall with a good record.

Miss Ward will attend the club week at the college to learn more about 4-H club work. Similar outstanding club leaders from over the state and outstanding club members will be at the college at that time.

The winning girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ward of Ord. Hugh Ward, producer of the first on litter in 4-H club work in Valley county, is a brother of Myrna's.

County Agent Dale considers it likely that Miss Ward will again head her clothing club for the second year.

TRIED SOWS ARE PRODUCING PIGS

George Gowen, North Loup Farmer, Successful In Hog Raising.

George Gowen of North Loup says he tries to keep old tried sows in his hog production program, according to a dispatch in the Omaha Journal-Stockman this week.

The dispatch quotes Gowen as saying that sows seldom become cross and he does not try to discipline them. He tries to outwit them instead.

On the other hand, Gowen explains that he has had one sow who, although having had several litters, has never lost a pig, farrowing eight or ten every time.

Further, I try to pick sows that are good dispositioned and good milkers and also try to save gilts from the sow pens. I never give away a saying in the Omaha paper, "I try to get boars when they are young so I can see the mother sow and pick them likewise."

Three lots of fall pigs are being used in the experiment to compare the value of tankage, whey, and skim milk. The standard check ration is composed of shelled corn and tankage.

Shelled corn and alfalfa hay are being fed in the whey ration. The shelled corn is self-fed, according to A. D. Weber of the agricultural college.

Since this is the first time the Nebraska station has carried on any tests in regard to whey, its results will be particularly interesting.

AM I RIGHT?

By GEORGE ROUND, JR.

Co-operative creameries over the state farred well during the past year, press dispatches indicate.

Announcement that Myrna Ward has won the Burlington club week trip for her outstanding leadership during the past year is gratifying to me.

By the way, Myrna is the sister of Hugh Ward. Hugh is the little fellow that successfully produced a ton litter in club pig work a few years ago.

Bill Dodge of Elyria is taking the short course at the agricultural college. Within another week, I hope to have a story on him to be published in the ag page.

Speaking of the college reminds me that just now I saw Claude Roe of Ord. He plans on continuing in school the second semester.

County Agent Dale considers it likely that Miss Ward will again head her clothing club for the second year.

ROAMERS TORRID IN 3RD PERIOD, BEAT ALL-STARS

LeRette and Krejci Wage Battle For Scoring Honors; Iowa Team Wins, 27 to 25.

The torrid spell indulged in by LeRette, midget forward for Warner's Roamers, spelled the difference between defeat and victory for Joe Krejci and his All-Stars Monday evening and the Iowa traveling team won, 27 to 25. A few weeks ago they lost to the All-Stars, 36 to 24 and they were giving all the basketball that was in them Monday night.

That third quarter was a disastrous one for the All-Stars for soon after the second half started LeRette went on his scoring junk and never went headed until he had scored five field goals and a free throw, and put his team ten points in the lead. From then on it was all the All-Stars could do to catch up, let alone win.

At the beginning of the game Ord scored first, Krejci tipping in a short shot. LeRette made a field goal to even the count. Krejci retaliated with a long shot that went swishing through the netting and all through the first half the teams were neck and neck. Warner's Roamers held a two-point advantage as the half ended, the score being 10 to 8.

The third quarter finished up with Warner's ahead, 21 to 15, but the All-Stars were coming fast and during most of the final period only two points separated the teams. With two minutes to play Krejci called time out and instituted a man-to-man defense but somebody erred and Pickeral went through to score a field goal and give the Roamers a 4-point advantage.

Adams came to the fore with a neat one-hand shot and with less than a minute to play Krejci picked up the ball after a mad scramble underneath the basket. He had plenty of time to make that easy shot that would have tied the game but the ball rolled around the rim and bounced out.

A foul was called on McMaster with only fifteen seconds to play and Krejci went to the free throw line with two chances. If he made both free throws the game was tied. But he missed the first and tried a bang shot against the backboard, hoping for a field goal on the rebound but the ball went straight into the hands of a Roamer and the game ended with the score 27 to 25 in favor of the visiting team.

For the first time since he has appeared in an All-Star suit Krejci failed to be high point man of the game. He was edged out by LeRette, who scored 16 to Joe's 15. Joe was closely guarded all the time, however, while LeRette had many open shots.

Most of the All-Stars seemed to be off-form Monday night, all of the forwards failing to assist in scoring until the last few minutes when Adams scored twice and Lashmutt once. Jensen played a great game at guard, particularly in the first half, and Beeghy got stronger as the game wore along and was guarding nobly at the close.

The short-passing game, which has been worked out to perfection by the Roamers was hitting on all six Monday night. Niemann's work was very outstanding and Pickeral and McMaster also played well. The Roamers played their usual clean game, which has made them a favorite team with Ord fans.

Next Monday night the Blain Livestocks, from Grand Island, will be opponents for the All-Stars. The Blain aggregation is an independent team and does not belong to the city league in the island but only one team in the third city is faster, and that is the Bowdoin Drags. The Blain team should give the All-Stars a tough game. The Ericson town team will play Andersen's in a preliminary.

Sells Hogs in Minnesota.

R. E. Psota who has been holding a bred sow sale of his Poland Chinas every year for some time, will not hold a sale this spring because he disposed of a large block of his offering to one firm. Messrs. Minson and Smith of Appleton, Minn., came with a truck Monday and bought eighteen of Rudolph's choice sows and gilts and a Clydesdale gelding and loaded the whole outfit into a double deck truck and drove home with them. Mr. Nielsen has been buying Poland Chinas from Mr. Psota for several years and says he always was pleased with his purchases so he decided to buy all he needed this year there. Mr. Psota has only a few head left and can easily close those out at private sale.

RELICS OF DAYS OF OLD FEATURE ANTIQUE FAIR

Cake Baked in 1856, Quilt 150 Years Old Among Displays At North Loup Show.

North Loup, Febr. 9.—(Special) A cake baked in Ohio in 1856, the shirt worn by the first village marshal of North Loup, a quilt 150 years old and many other interesting relics of days gone by were among the articles displayed at the antique fair sponsored by ladies of the S. D. B. church here Friday and Saturday. The town hall, where the fair was held, was packed to overflowing on both of the two days.

A 25c gold piece coined in California and now owned by Wesley Hutchins was another interesting antique on display, along with many other ancient coins. A daintily embroidered baby dress made by Chas. Barber's mother and worn by that gentleman was one of several such relics.

Lovely hand embroidery of 1818, now in Mrs. Edith Bartz' possession, a gown woven, dyed and made by Albert Brown's mother in Germany, primers 100 years old and many ancient guns were among the antiques.

A piece of the ill-fated battleship "Maine", in the form of a hammer, in the possession of the VanZant families, attracted lots of attention.

There were representations from many countries including England, Scotland, Ireland, Italy, China and Japan, and the showcases and tables were jammed with the various antiques.

S. D. B. church ladies were charming in their apparel of 50 years ago and they cheerfully answered all questions in connection with the antiques. A lunch was served Saturday evening and this, with the door receipts, netted the sponsors about $40, which made them feel that the fair was a decided success.

Paddock Truck Badly Damaged

North Loup, Febr. 11.—(Special) Saturday night as Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Paddock were returning from Ord in their truck a car containing St. Paul basketball boys collided with the truck. Mrs. Paddock was thrown out when the truck overturned but was not badly hurt. Mr. Paddock is nursing a swollen wrist. Both car and truck were badly damaged and Sunday the owner of the St. Paul car appeared at the North Loup garage and paid for the damage done to the truck, admitting that the accident was his fault.

Much News Let Out.

Though the Quiz is issuing a twenty page paper this week we are sorry to have to report that a large amount of news had to be omitted. We are printing 24 hours earlier than usual so that the theater opening can be well advertised and with a short week to work in we found it impossible to print enough pages to care for the big volume of advertising and all the news. We are sorry.

Many Public Sales Are Advertised This Week.

Several public sales are advertised in this week's issue of the Quiz, beginning with the sale being held Friday, Febr. 13 by J. W. Clabaugh and George S. Watts. On Febr. 16 Archie Boyce is holding a sale, on Febr. 17, Paul Whippas has one and on Febr. 18 there are three, the Lous Penas, sr. sale, the Morris Fowler pure-bred Poland China sale and the Joe Holecek, jr., sale. Read the ads on other pages of the Quiz.

Glendale Literary Meets.

Arcadia, Febr. 10.—(Special)—The Glendale Literary Society met at the Glendale schoolhouse Friday evening. A newspaper and a very fine program was given. The next meeting will be held Friday evening, Febr. 20th.

Spencer Horner and family of Arcadia were Ord visitors Thursday.

ANNOUNCEMENT Valley County Drought Relief

In order that the people of Valley County, through the aid of the Red Cross, can help in the very worthy cause of assisting the people of the south, suffering from the drought, arrangements have been made that a carload of flour will be shipped over the Union Pacific Railroad from Ord. This car will be spotted on their tracks at the Ord mill on Friday, February 13th, and will be there Saturday and Monday, and will be shipped out Tuesday noon, the 17th. The Union Pacific Railroad is transporting all of these supplies free of charge.

At a meeting held Monday night, considerable consideration was given to the best way to handle this problem and it was decided that what is known as Mellow D flour should be purchased at the Ord Mill and that all products should be converted into flour. The Ord Mill is making a price on this at 80c a sack, which is less than the wholesale price.

It is to be especially understood that this movement is representative of all the people of Valley County, with all cooperating, so it is especially desired that donations be as liberal as possible under the existing conditions and that this can be done in cash, popcorn or grain, as follows:

(a) By means of cash subscriptions, to be made to members of the below mentioned committee, or to solicitors, who will call.

(b) Corn and other grains to be hauled to the Farmers Elevator in Ord and North Loup where it will be converted into cash and that money be used to buy flour.

(c) Baby rice popcorn will be accepted by the Dickinson Elevator and the Weekes Seed Company, at 1 1/4c a pound, up to approximately $200 for each elevator, for which check will be given to the committee.

(d) Flour can also be accepted, and exchanges made at the Ord Mill.

Committees have been appointed as follows, for part of the county and any one can see one of these. North Loup and North Loup Township, Louis Van Ness, Paul Jones and Merrill Wellman; Arcadia, Yale and Liberty Township, C. C. Hawthorne, C. O. Rettenmeyer, H. D. Weddell, Lloyd Bulger, Joe Suelle and also all the mercantile stores in Arcadia; Davis Creek Township, Bert Cummings, Ross Leonard and J. H. Lunney; Independent Township, Roy Williams and Ed Schudel; Enterprise Township, Orin Kellison and Bert Cornell, Geranium Township, Charley Cochran and Charles Velega; Elyria and Eureka Township, E. A. Holub; Vinton Township, H. H. Hayes and Charles Mason; Michigan Township, Joseph Vasitek and Harvey John; Noble Township, Will Nelson, Carl Holm and Henry Enger; Ord City Township and Springdale Township, J. D. McCall, James E. Ollis, G. W. Collipriest and Geo. S. Rounds and Charley Arnold.

J. D. McCall is the general chairman for the county and James E. Ollis is Treasurer.

Let us all cooperate for this very worthy cause and see that the Valley County car of flour is promptly filled.

Alice Round Campbell III After Birth Of Son; Blood Transfusion Resorted To

Mrs. Frederic Campbell, formerly Alice Round, daughter of Sheriff and Mrs. George Round of this city, became the mother of a son weighing 8 1/2 pounds Saturday night in a Minneapolis hospital. The baby is doing splendidly but Mrs. Campbell has been very weak, so it was deemed best to make a blood transfusion, and a pint of her husband's blood was used for this purpose. At last reports the mother was thought to be slowly improving.

HARRY FAIDLEY, PENNEY HEAD DIES SUDDENLY

Popular Grand Island Man, Well Known in Ord, Passes Away In Night Sunday.

Harry Faidley, 44, head of the J. C. Penney Company's store in Grand Island, passed away suddenly in the night Sunday, according to the Grand Island Independent. Mr. Faidley had been in his customary good health and had attended to business as usual Saturday, so his untimely death was a great shock to friends and business associates.

Mr. Faidley was at one time financially interested in the J. C. Penney store here, establishing it and putting it in charge of his brother, Lloyd H. Faidley, who now lives at Lincoln as manager of the Penney store there.

At that time Harry Faidley was a frequent visitor to Ord and made many friends here, who will regret his demise. Keith Lewis, manager of the local Penney store, is a close friend of the deceased and will attend his funeral in Grand Island Thursday.

Janitor Entertains School.
Arcadia, Febr. 10.—(Special)—Cash Royha custodian of the Arcadia school building, entertained all the pupils and faculty members at the Electric Theatre last Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Routh honored the school in the same way last year.

McGrew Leases New Offices.
On March 1 Dr. Kirby McGrew will move to the new offices he has leased on the second floor of the Hron building. The McGrew family also will occupy living apartments in the rear of the same building.

Aid Society Receives Eggs.
Arcadia, Febr. 10.—(Special)—The Ladies Aid society of the Methodist church held a very interesting meeting at the church basement Friday afternoon. Each member was requested to bring eggs in payment for their lunch and as a result over sixty dozen eggs were received. These will be sent to the Methodist hospital at Omaha.

Special Revival Meetings.
Arcadia, Febr. 10.—(Special)—Revival meetings are being held at the Methodist church every evening this week at 7:30. Rev. Harold of Scotia is conducting the services.

Young People Married.
Judge J. H. Hollingshead was called on Tuesday to unite in marriage Miss Marie Kokes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Kokes of Eureka township, and Alvin Foth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Foth of near Elyria.

Miss Audrey Whitman entertained a number of friends at a 6:30 dinner last Thursday evening in honor of her sixteenth birthday.

BIG FOOT PRINT ONLY TRACE OF PHARMACY THIEF

Robber Leaves Clue At Mouth of Coal Chute When He Steals From Cash Box.

A huge foot print at the mouth of the coal chute in the rear of the McLain-Sorenson drug store is the only clue to the thief who entered some time after the drug store closed last Wednesday night or Thursday morning and stole $16 from the cash register. Sheriff George Round is working on the case and is hopeful of catching the pilferer.

Evidently the intruder went in through the coal chute, went upstairs, robbed the cash register and left through the rear door of the store, leaving it locked behind him. Mr. McLain and his employees have been checking up since the robbery but can find no merchandise missing.

Last Wednesday night Mr. McLain locked up and left the drug store about ten minutes to nine. A short time later when Night Officer Roy Pardu tried the back door to see if it was locked he noticed a light in the basement but supposed Mr. McLain had left it burning. It is now believed that the intruder was in the basement at the time.

Sheriff Round believes the robbery was the work of a local man or grown boy but he has no clues except the print of a No. 11 shoe in the soft dirt behind the coal chute.

Celebrate His Birthday.

An enjoyable party was held at the farm home of John Lunney Monday night in honor of his birthday. About thirty friends and relatives enjoyed the evening immensely playing rook and visiting. A delicious lunch was served.

Taken to State Hospital.
Mrs. Ellen Lott, mother of L. M. Umstead, was taken to a state hospital at Hastings last Thursday by Sheriff George Round and Mrs. W. E. Kessler. She is not in the insane asylum but in a hospital in connection with it and is receiving treatment there.

Attend Funeral Friday.
Those who came from Omaha last Thursday evening to attend the funeral of Mrs. Walter Brewer were Walter Brewer and little daughter Beverly Jean, Mrs. Jessie Clements, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Brewer, two sisters of deceased, Mrs. Dale Steward and Mrs. Ralph Knudsen and husbands, Mrs. Musiel, a friend of the family, a sister of Mr. Brewer and her husband whose names we failed to get, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Pedersen and son Kay, also Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mitchell of Hastings. Mesdames Mrs. Ethel Aubert of Broken Bow, Margaret and Bernice of Iowa and Lillie of Wyoming. The brother, Aaron Hull, lives in Wyoming. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday from Sowls' with Rev. McCarthy in charge of the Ord cemetery.

Buried in Lee Park.
Arcadia, Febr. 10.—(Special)—The remains of Andrew Sherbeck, former resident of the Clear Creek neighborhood, were brought to Lee Park for burial Sunday, following funeral services which were held at Ansley. Mr. Sherbeck passed away in the St. Francis hospital in Grand Island Thursday, Febr. 6th. He had made his home at Ansley for some time, where he is survived by daughter, Mrs. Carl Case.

Honored On Birthday.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS PLAY, 'RED ACRE FARM'

A large crowd was present at the National Hall Sunday night when "The Red Acre Farm," a comedy in three acts, was presented by a group of people from that neighborhood. Those who had parts in the play were Lawrence Waldmann, Mrs. Chas. Krikac, Rudolf John, Thomas Waldmann, Rudolf Kokes, Lillian Vodehnal, Emil Sedlacek, Alice Penas, Steven Polak, Irene Cochran, Will Moravec and Alice Waldmann. The play was a success in every way and all played their parts well. Much credit is due to all who helped put it over, especially Mrs. Rudolf John, who coached the play and exerted every effort to make it a success. Miss Alice Penas, with her beautiful soprano voice, and the Misses Helen Frost and Dorothy Spooner, both talented singers, gave several numbers between acts which were highly appreciated. A humorous monologue between acts by Lillian Krikac also was greatly enjoyed.

COUNTRY FACES ICE SHORTAGE PATCHEN STATES

No Ice Cut on Ord Pond Because of Warm Winter; Conditions Elsewhere Similar.

Unless weather conditions change soon this country will be faced by an ice shortage next summer, according to Omne Patchen, who with his father, H. P. Patchen, sr., has had charge of the ice business in Ord for many years. The warm winter has made it impossible to cut ice in most places, Ord included.

Only thin ice of poor quality has frozen on the Ord pond this winter, Mr. Patchen states. They have been unable to harvest any ice off the pond so far and although ice has been harvested as late as March 1 in a few former years, Mr. Patchen believes it is extremely unlikely that they will be able to harvest any ice on the Ord pond this year. Weather conditions will of course be the determining factor.

Ice of fair thickness and quality has been cut on a few creeks of Valley county this year but the quantity harvested will not nearly supply the local demand. More than a mile of lower Mira Creek was harvested, this portion of the creek having steep banks and being heavily timbered so that ice froze. The big spring water ice pond here, open to wind and sun, has failed to freeze to a sufficient thickness.

Supplies of ice were heavily reduced everywhere by the extremely hot weather of last summer, Mr. Patchen says. They have enough ice to supply Ord for a portion of the summer and if they are unable to cut ice this winter will ship it in from other places to finish out the summer, Mr. Patchen says.

Mrs. Ben Morris Dies Suddenly

Passes Away Just Before Operation That Might Have Saved Her Life; Ill Several Weeks.

Ida Pearl Hull was born June 14, 1901 in Ohio and when a small child moved to Valley county with her parents, the Chas. Hull family and they lived in the south part of the county. She was married to Ben Morris in 1920 and seven children have been born to them, the youngest a tiny baby born a few weeks ago. The mother did not recover as she should from her illness at the time the baby was born and was taken a few weeks ago to the Ord Hospital where she has been cared for since. A growth in her side, following an infection has continued to sap her strength and vitality and it had been known for some time that an operation was imperative and the only chance to save her life. The operation was to be performed Tuesday morning and it was while preparations were being made to operate that she suddenly collapsed and was dead almost instantly. Deceased would have been 30 years old had she lived till June 14. Six children, her husband, her father, one brother and three sisters survive her. The children are Bennie, Virgil, Leona, Edna, Dorothy and the baby whom the mother asked to have named Fern Irene. Arnold Leroy died about a year ago aged about 5 years. The father, Chas. Hull makes his home with the Morris family in Ord. The sisters are Mrs. John Earl of Horace, Mrs. Ethel Aubert of Broken Bow, Margaret and Bernice of Iowa and Lillie of Wyoming. The brother, Aaron Hull, lives in Wyoming. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday from Sowls' with Rev. McCarthy in charge of the Ord cemetery.

FAIR MANAGERS HIRE CARNIVAL FOR 1931 SHOW

Savidge Company, One of Best On Road, Will Appear Here; Fair Dates Are Set.

The fair board met Monday afternoon at the office of Secretary Vincent Kokes and went over plans for the coming fair. Messrs. V. Kokes and Sam Roe told of the state meeting of fair managers which they attended in Lincoln, January 19 and 20. Several splendid free acts have been bought for the 1931 fair and in addition the Savidge Carnival Co. has been engaged. This is one of the best companies on the road, headquarters in Nebraska and is heartily recommended by such fair managers as Emerson Purcell. The Custer county fair having them last year and have engaged them again for this season.

The fair dates will be Monday to Thursday inclusive, Aug. 31 and the first three days in September, as usual the week before the state fair. The track will be improved and a committee composed of Chas. Bals, Sam Roe and Clyde Baker has been named to attend to the work. Recommendations of some of the leading drivers are being followed in making the track improvements and it will be a safer and better track than ever before.

The Ord fair has now had auto races for five years and the first money winners those five years have been, in this order, L. E. Kerbs, Vic Felt, Bagley, Sam Hoffman and Johnnie Gerber. A different committee on revision of the premium list and an effort will be made to get the lists out much earlier this year than has usually been the case.

Clement, Roe and Kokes were made a committee to confer with leaders of the various farm bureaus of Valley county this year with a view of changing the usual program this year by turning the art hall over to the clubs and having their exhibits take the place of the exhibits that have usually been shown in this hall.

Football Banquet Held At Arcadia.
Arcadia, Febr. 10.—(Special)—The annual banquet for the football squad of Arcadia high was held last Friday evening in the Congregational church basement, the dining tables being adorned with flowers and arranged in a triangle and red and white streamers being draped to form a canopy. Lisle Pumphrey served as toastmaster and toasts were given by Russell Buck, Marion Fenster, Raymond Erickson, Morris Kingstone, Frank Wheatcraft, Milo Smith, Raymond Lee, John Higgins and Edwin Harrison. Arnold Tunling, Supt. C. O. Thompson and Horace Sutt were guests.

The banquet was sponsored by the sophomore class of Arcadia high school, and much credit is due their sponsor, Miss Edith Hranac, and also Mrs. Leo Woodworth, who prepared the banquet. Six sophomore girls served.

Notice to Trailer Owners.
The Nebraska law says that every auto trailer must be licensed and this is warning to trailer owners to get their trailer licenses from the county treasurer at once, or they are liable to prosecution. 47-1

York Paper Tells About Former Ord People Living There

Last week's edition of the York Nebr., New Teller had an interesting article about Mr. and Mrs. Henry Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McLain, of York county, who have many relatives here. Before her marriage Mrs. Anderson was Miss Clara McLain, a daughter of G. A. McLain who moved from Ord to York in 1910. J. A. McLain is the former Ord man's son. Both the Anderson and McLain families are prosperous and substantial York county farmers and the New Teller reporter wrote about them in an interesting way. Lack of space forbids reproducing the entire account.

Ord Church News

Methodist Church. We have decided to continue the discussion of "divine" healing next Sunday evening. There is much more to be said than was time for last Sunday evening. We will also give our interpretation of the "speaking in tongues" teaching. At the same time we will open a Question-box. Send in your questions by mail or any way to get them to me on this matter under discussion and I will try to answer them. Let them however come from persons who sincerely want to know the truth, as our purpose is of course not to dispute and deny, but to be helpful. In other words we reserve the right to censor the questions and to answer them when we think it proper. All our services were well attended last Sunday. Does not the week go better when we visit the house of worship on Sunday? W. H. Wright.

Presbyterian Church Notes. The regular Sunday morning Sabbath school and preaching services will be held at the church. Rev. Real's topic will be "The First Cleansing." Evening service at 7:30 p. m. Everyone interested in singing please come to choir practices every Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock at the church. Last Monday evening the Board of Trustees were in session and Monday afternoon "The Friendly Indians" held a meeting. These boys are in Mrs. Marjorie Soren-

The Toughest Old COUGH Can Now Be Stopped

And One 65 Cent Bottle of Broncholine Is Guaranteed to Do It.

Lingering coughs—the kind that hang on and hang on and rob a man of his sleep—the kind that makes him peevish and all worn out.

Those are the breed of coughs that are about as useful as a bottle of ginger pop.

The quickest and surest way to get rid of a persistent cough is to take a teaspoonful of Broncholine Emulsion four times a day.

It's guaranteed by all druggists to stop the old-timers—the tough ones—and it does it without any loss of time.

For ordinary coughs three or four doses is usually enough. McLain & Sorensen and dealers everywhere can supply you—a generous bottle 65 cents.

The New Ord Theater

And we urge you to visit Ord during

"Theater Opening Bargain Days"

Thursday, Friday, Saturday

Febr. 12, 13, 14

It is not every city the size of Ord which can boast of a fine new theatre such as has been built here by Mr. M. Biemond, and which is to be formally opened Thursday, February 12. Ord has always been a thriving city, an up-and-coming city, and now it takes its rightful place as the "amusement center of the North Loup valley" for with the opening of the Ord Theatre this city will have the finest, most modern showhouse in this portion of Nebraska.

It is our pleasure and our privilege to welcome the new Ord Theatre, to congratulate its owner, M. Biemond, and its manager, Jack Hoogenboezem, and to wish them every success.

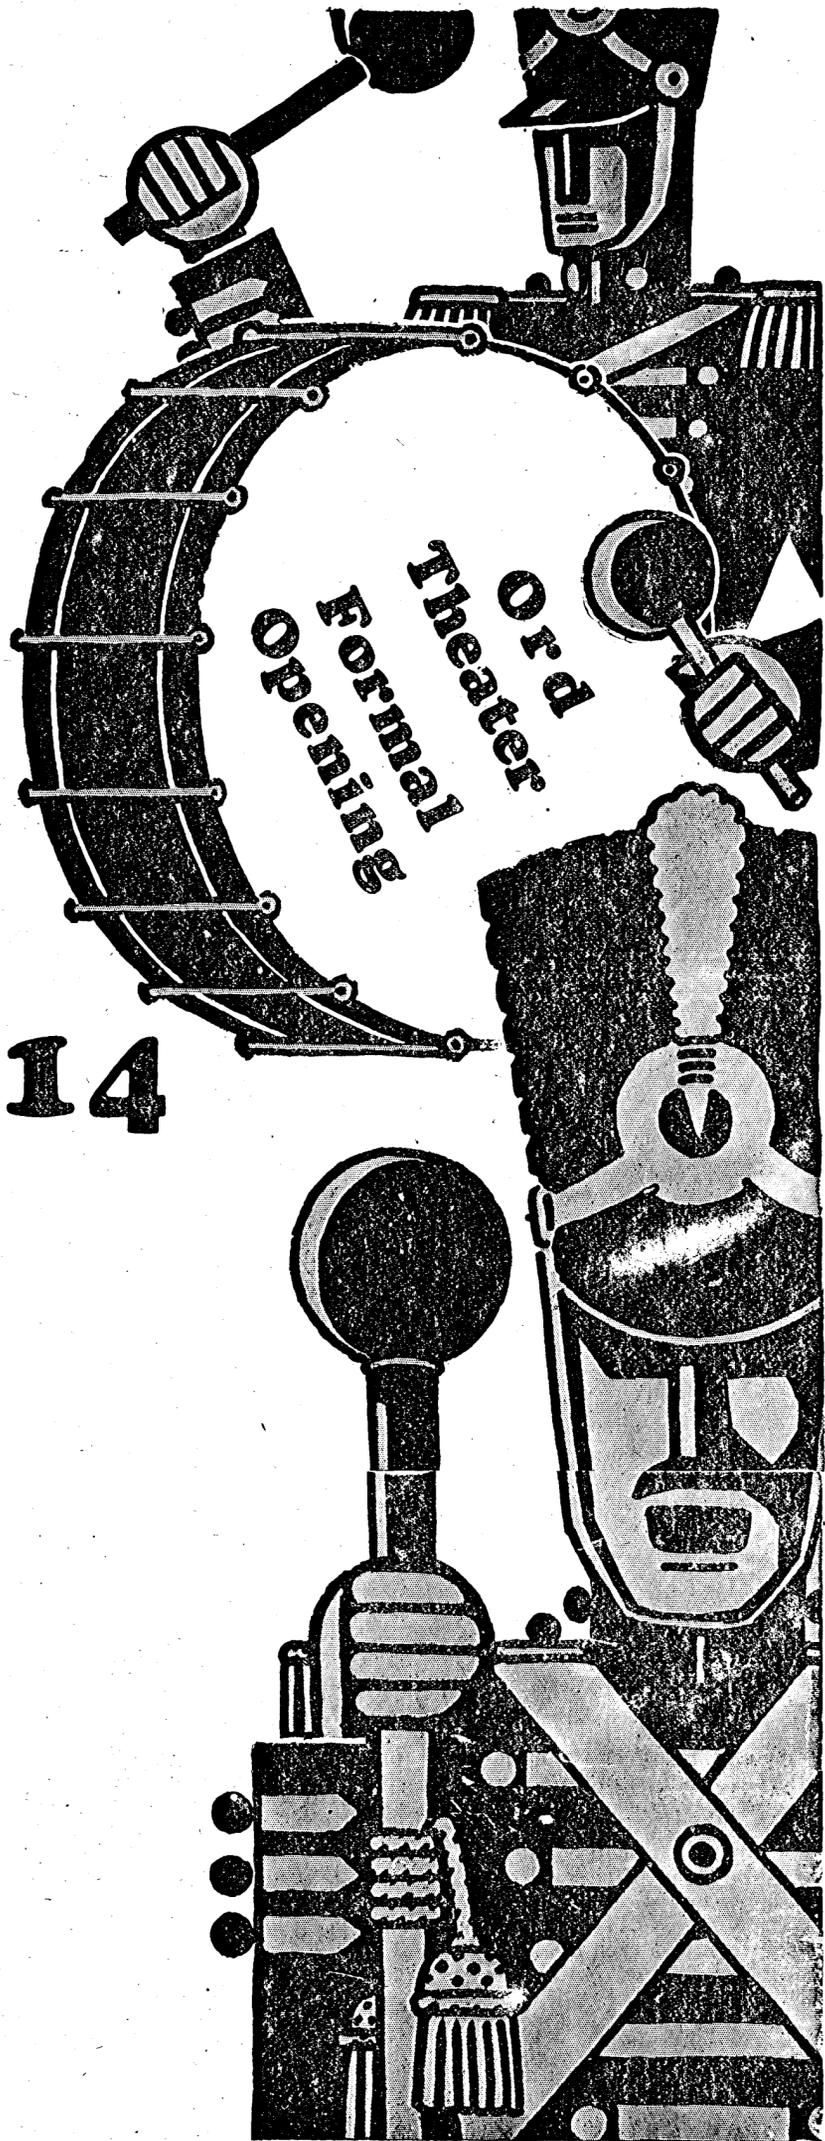

In conjunction with the theatre opening Ord merchants have arranged a three-day bargain event known as "Theatre Opening Bargain Days." These come on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, February 12, 13 and 14. We urge you to visit Ord on one of those three days, do your shopping and pay a visit to the fine new Ord Theatre.

MRS. CROUCH HAS STROKE AT HOME OF FRIEND, DIES

Was Taken Ill Friday At Harry Lewis Farm Home But Lingered Until Sunday.

A second stroke of paralysis coming within a period of a few short weeks brought death Sunday morning to Mrs. A. Lincoln Crouch 49, a long time resident of Valley county. She was stricken Friday while calling at the home of a neighbor, Harry Lewis, but lingered until Sunday morning. A few weeks ago, while visiting in Broken Bow, Mrs. Crouch had a slight stroke from which she rallied.

Friday Mr. and Mrs. Crouch and two of their children, Mary Ellen and Merrill, went to the Lewis home where Mr. Crouch had business. They had planned to stay only a short time but soon after arriving Mrs. Crouch was stricken. On March 30, 1930 Mrs. Crouch met with serious injuries in an auto accident and from these injuries she never fully recovered. She was in the Ord hospital for a long time and after leaving the hospital was in bed at her home for months, becoming able to get around only recently.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Sowl funeral parlors, John Doak and Frank Wilkie officiating, and interment was in the Ord cemetery. Pall-bearers were Henry Nolte, Fred Cohen, Nels Nelson, Harry Lewis, W. E. Kessler and Forrest Townsend.

The following obituary is contributed by members of the family:

Annie B. Snow was born Nov. 2, 1881 in Valley county, Neb., and departed this life Feb. 15, 1931 at the age of 49 years, 3 months and 13 days. She was united in marriage to A. Lincoln Crouch on July 29, 1903 and to this union were born four children, Merrill D., Mary Ellen, Harry E., and Leona M., all of whom survive. She leaves three daughters, Frank Snow of Litchfield, Ed Snow, of Eddyville, and Archie Snow, of Callaway, also numerous other relatives and friends.

ORD THEATER HAS BRILLIANT OPENING CROWD

New Showhouse Thronged At Shows Thursday; Perfection Of Sound Thrills Crowd.

A brilliant opening night crowd was present last Thursday evening when the new Ord Theatre was formally opened. In advance of 7:15 o'clock every available seat was filled and a crowd of several hundred fought for admission, being forced to wait until the second performance of the evening. The beauty of the new showhouse and the perfection of the Western Electric sound system held the throng spellbound and every person present thought the opening a conspicuous success.

As the first feature of the opening night show Professor Theodore Toenniges directed his 25-piece little symphony orchestra in the "Norma Overture," by Bellini, which was followed by an intermezzo by Georges Bizet. It was the first public appearance of this orchestra and Ord music lovers were delighted by the performance they gave.

Bud Auble's orchestra played popular numbers, from the orchestra pit between shows.

Burlington Starts Sunday Stock Train

Through the efforts of C. J. Mortensen and the Ord Chamber of Commerce the Burlington railroad has been induced to put on a Sunday stock train, beginning next Sunday, Feb. 22. A freight train on Sunday has been sorely needed here for a long time as it enables livestock men to ship to the Omaha market for Monday selling.

Ord High Beats Burwell. Coach Krejci's Ord high team performed the miraculous feat Tuesday night of beating the Burwell team on their own floor, the score being 20 to 13. The Ord second team lost to Burwell by a close score.

ORD MEN ATTEND REAPER'S 100TH BIRTHDAY PARTY

International Harvester Company Holds Big Dinner At Grand Island Monday Night

A speaker at the centennial banquet held at Grand Island Monday evening, said that 100 years was a long time. It was 100 years ago that Cyrus Hall McCormick, son of a Virginia plantation owner, perfected the first grain reaper. Mr. McCormick was at that time a young man of 22 years. His father, a prosperous farmer, blacksmith and mechanic had been working for years as had others for generations before to make a grain cutting machine and finally, in the spring of that year, gave up in disgust, admitting that it could not be done. It was then that young Cyrus Hall McCormick took off his

Coyote Hunt Will Be Held Febr. 22

Frank Carkoski is promoting a coyote hunt in which more than 100 men and probably nearly that many hounds will take part Sunday, Febr. 22. The drive will start at 1 p. m. from the west side of Bussell park and the territory between the park and the Mike Potzreba farm will be covered, after which the drive will swing north as far as the road running west out of Elyria. The coyotes will be driven down onto the Potzreba flats, where they will be surrounded.

Mr. Carkoski's plan is to appoint at least ten captains, each of whom will be in charge of ten men. Those having wolf hounds who will take part in the drive are the Kriz boys, Philip Osestowski, Anton Swanek, Earl Gates, Frank Ptacnik, and Joe Tryon. Others who have been named as captains are Verne Andersen, Charles Lickly and Paul Whippis, and Mr. Carkoski will appoint others.

Men who want to take part in the drive should get in touch with Mr. Carkoski or one of the other men mentioned at once.

No Jinx On No. 13 In Valley County

Down in Greeley county the treasurer had a hard time getting anybody to take automobile license plate No. 1313—until he told an enquiring reporter about his difficulty. The reporter wrote a newspaper story about it and requests for that number immediately deluged the treasurer. In Valley county no difficulty of the sort has been encountered, according to George R. Satterfield. Steve Laughlin, in 1913 this year, he says. They did have some trouble getting rid of No. 13, however. Mart Weigard had this number last year but evidently wanting to change his luck demanded a different plate in 1931. Immediately Chris Byers appeared and claimed No. 13. Now Laughlin and Byers are driving the hard luck cars but so far the jinx hasn't overtaken either of them.

SPOUSE VALUED AT $100,000 BY MRS. PAUL BARTZ

Asks That Amount From Relatives And North Loup Bankers For Alienating Affections.

The affections of her husband, Paul Bartz, are valued by Orilla Mae Bartz at $100,000 it was revealed last Thursday when in district court at Omaha she sued for that amount against three of his relatives and two North Loup bankers, charging a conspiracy to alienate his affections. The suit climaxes legal complications which have involved Mr. and Mrs. Bartz for over a year.

Mrs. Bartz formerly Orilla Mae Beckler of Ord, named as defendants Otto and George Bartz, brothers of Paul, and their wives, all of whom live in Valley county; Mrs. Clara B. Redden, a sister of Paul, who lives in Omaha; and two North Loup bankers, Ches Chinn and M. D. Earnest.

This group conspired to alienate her husband's affections, she charges, saying that they told him she was "unfit," "worthless," and had "married him for his money." This suit comes as a climax to the troubles Mr. and Mrs. Bartz had over since their marriage Feb. 4, 1929 at Omaha.

Last March Mrs. Bartz filed suit for divorce against her husband, charging cruelty and that her husband had failed to provide a home for her. Then one of the bankers brought suit against Mrs. Bartz to halt some of her financial transactions and in suit pending Mr. Bartz, through his attorneys, Davis & Vogelitz, then filed a cross-petition for divorce, also charging cruelty in his suit. And a fourth suit was filed by Ches Chinn to prevent Mrs. Bartz from using money obtained from a mortgage on land, the mortgage being held by Mr. Chinn. None of these suits has been settled.

In her original divorce suit Mrs. Bartz was represented by Bert M. Hardenbrook of Ord and Wm. Suhr of Grand Island but in her present $100,000 suit she has retained the law firm of Fradenburg, Stalmaster & Deber. The suit was brought in Omaha because one of the defendants, Mrs. Redden, is a resident of that city and if it comes to trial it will be heard by a Douglas county judge and jury.

Held For Investigation

Leland Leach, who hails from Morrill, Neb., has been held for investigation by county officers for the past day or two. The young man has been trucking gravel for a highway project at Ord and came to Ord to buy some merchandise, which he paid for with checks signed with the name of Joe Anderson. He was suspected of forgery but later it developed that he has an employe by that name who authorized him to write the checks. One or two something new developments Leach probably will be released today.

Celebrate Silver Wedding Febr. 15

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Hosek, of the Arcadia neighborhood, celebrating the 25th anniversary of their wedding. They were married Feb. 26, 1906 in Ord and have lived in Valley county ever since. Their anniversary party was held a few days early so all relatives could attend. A big dinner was served Sunday at the Hosesk home. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. F. Hosek, sr., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kokes, sr., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Penas, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Hosek, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Babka, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Babka, Mr. and Mrs. James Wachtle, Mr. and Mrs. John Sevenker, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hybl, Joe Hosek, and their families, Ed Blaha and Miss Ann Hosek, all of Ord; Mr. and Mrs. James Hejsek and son, of Arcadia, and their daughter, Lillian, of Grand Island, Mr. and Mrs. John Kokes and family of Walworth, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Truhl, of St. Paul. The honored couple were given fine silver set by their children and many other beautiful gifts by relatives and friends.

Double Basketball Bill

A basketball card has been arranged for next Monday evening that is sure to please fans. The Bowen Drugs, champs of the Grand Island City league play a return game with the Ord All-Stars and the Comstock town team plays Anderson Camels in the preliminary. The Bowen-Ord game has been anticipated for weeks by fans, as 'the Bowen quint is the fan's one that holds an edge over Joe Krejci's town team.

Plant Life Thinks Spring Here, Says Mrs. Jos. Waldmann

Mrs. Jos. Waldmann, Quiz correspondent for the Woodman Hall neighborhood, says that vines and other plant life are beginning to believe spring is here. She writes the Quiz as follows this week:

"Mother Nature is most unusual this year. Here the middle of February we noticed while visiting at the Walt Pedrick home near Sargent a climbing rambling, supported by a trellis on the west side of the house, was fully leafed out. The tip of each twig bore a cluster of fully developed leaves which although somewhat reddish in color were otherwise as nice as they could be in the bright sunshine of that day.

"We also have a climbing honeysuckle on the west side of the house which is leafed out enough to be a credit to the 1st of May."

KREJCI ENTERS GAME IN SECOND HALF, ORD WINS

Blain Livestocks Had Big Lead When Crippled Center Went Into Action Monday.

Joe Krejci's dramatic entry in the second half of the game Monday evening between the Ord All-Stars and the Blain Livestocks of Grand Island proved the turning point in that struggle and the All-Stars won, 29 to 20. Before Big Joe went into action the Third City team was ahead, 14 to 7, but crippled as he was Ord's star center not only scored 11 points himself but inspired the All-Stars to such a pitch that the Blain team was soon hopelessly defeated.

The Blains brought a strong aggregation to Ord Monday night. Three of their players are members of the camp Bowen Drug team and the other two of the Legion team, which is runner-up in the Grand Island City league. Against this line-up Ord had to oppose a Krejci-less team for the big center dislocated the great toe on his right foot a week before and it had failed to yield to treatment.

Hardenbrook Attends Committee Meeting On Re-districting

Bert M. Hardenbrook and R. C. Bailey were in Lincoln Tuesday and Mr. Hardenbrook attended a meeting of the senate committee on judicial re-districting. Such a large crowd was present from all over the state that the meeting had to be held in the senate chamber instead of in a committee room. Sentiment outside of the committee was against Senator Wellenslek's proposed re-districting measure, Attorney Hardenbrook reports, and he doesn't believe there is much chance of the proposal being passed.

The Ord man spoke against the measure, reminding committee members that the judiciary of the state would be disrupted if the measure passes. "If Nebraska needed 35 judges in 1915, when the present districts were made, it surely needs that many or more today with the prohibitory laws, automobile damage suits, the compensation laws, no-fund check laws and many others almost unknown in 1915," the Ord man said in his address.

Senator Wellenslek spoke in defense of his proposal, saying that "more compact districts" were needed, but Mr. Hardenbrook scored against him when he reminded those present that if the measure passes Ord will be in a district that is 135 miles from its eastern to its western border, which is anything but a compact district.

Have Another Club Dance

The Ord Dancing club enjoyed another successful club dance Tuesday evening at the Masonic ball room. Music was furnished by Bud Auble and his orchestra and the affair was largely attended. Luncheon was served by members of the Eastern Star.

Burlington Sunday Stock Service. Beginning Sunday, Febr. 22, the Burlington will run special stock train each Sunday, leaving Burwell at noon and Ord about 1 p. m. for the convenience of stock shippers, so they may get their stock on Monday's market at Omaha or Nebraska City. 48-11

Friday, 13th, Unlucky Day For Burwell Boy; Is Sentenced to Bread-Water

Friday, the 13th was unlucky for at least one person—George "Bud" Hoyt of Burwell. Arrested last Thursday evening at a dance here by Officers Covert and Pardue, young Hoyt appeared in county court next morning to answer a second offense intoxication charge. He pleaded not guilty but after hearing the testimony of officers

Judge J. H. Hollingshead found him guilty and sentenced him to spend thirty days in the Valley county jail, the first three days and the last three days of the sentence to be on a bread and water diet. Through his attorney, Ben Rose, young Hoyt appealed the verdict to the district court. He is at liberty on $300 bond furnished by his brother.

15-YEAR-OLD BOY CRUSHED BENEATH CAR

Monte Schaffner Killed Instantly Last Friday, Body Was Found Three Hours Later.

Fifteen-year-old Monte Schaffner was a capable, self-reliant boy, fond of working with machinery. Last Friday afternoon he was removing some parts from an old automobile in the yard of his parents' farm home eight miles southeast of Ord. The wheels of the car had been removed and the body was jacked up and on blocks. Monte was working underneath the old car and in some way jarred the automobile off the jack. It fell, pinning him beneath it and killing him instantly.

At 4:30 o'clock, two or three hours after the fatal accident happened, the boy was found. Dr. C. J. Miller was called at once but pronounced Monte dead. The motor of the car had fallen on his chest and neck, crushing them and evidently causing instant death since there was nothing to indicate that Monte had struggled to release himself.

Monte was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Schaffner and besides his parents is survived by two older brothers, Russell and Harold. He attended school at Olean, graduating from the eighth grade in the spring of 1930. This year he stayed at home, planning to enter high school next fall.

The body was brought to Sowl's funeral parlors here.

The body was brought to Sowl's funeral parlors here where services were held Monday afternoon. The rooms were not large enough to hold all the friends who came to extend sympathy to the bereaved family. Rev. H. S. Warren, of North Loup, conducted services and a quartette of North Loup boys sang. Pall-bearers were Rex Bingham, Marvin Babcock, Boyd Sheldon, Everett Bryan, Mr. Jorgensen and Floyd Weed. Everett Lashmet and David Coleman were honorary pall-bearers. Interment was in the Ord cemetery.

Moeta Bennett Schaffner was born at Beaver, Ia., July 6, 1915 and is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Schaffner. He spent the first three years of his school life in the North Loup rural school, the next three years in the North Loup town school and the seventh and eighth grades were completed at Olean in 1930. Since then he has spent his time at home.

Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers, Harold and Russell, a grandfather, Monte Edwards, and a grandmother, Mrs. Katie Walker, as well as many other relatives.

Mrs. Paddock Asks Alimony Increase

Says Former Husband Now Worth $15,000, Wants $150 Per Month Instead of Only $20.

Asserting that her former husband, Walter B. Paddock, is now worth $15,000 or more, Daisy H. Paddock is asking an alimony increase from $20 monthly to $150 or more in an action filed Monday in district court by her attorneys, Davis & Vogelitz. Mrs. Paddock was given a decree of divorce on Nov. 23, 1929 by District Judge E. P. Clements.

At that time her husband was ordered to pay Mrs. Paddock, for the support of their children, the sum of $20 each month. He has failed to do this all the time, his former wife charges in her suit, and she also seeks to collect $131.98 back alimony.

The case probably will be heard at the spring term of district court. —Mr. and Mrs. Albert Peterson are the parents of a fine 8 1/2 pound daughter born Friday, Febr. 19.

MIRA VALLEY IS RICH IN OIL, IS PHILLIPS BELIEF

Leasing Land, Will Begin To Drill At Once, Contract Says; Other Companies Coming.

That Ord may be on the verge of an oil boom was indicated last week when J. D. Barefield, of the Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla., came to Ord with a crew of men and began signing their lease leases on Mira Valley land. As soon as they have 30,000 acres leased they will begin drilling a well. Mr. Barefield says, and are prepared to spend $100,000 or more to sink the well 4,500 feet in depth. There is a strong likelihood that oil will be found, Mr. Barefield believes.

The Phillips company, which is one of the largest in the business, has been making geological surveys in Valley county for several months, their representative states. Petroleum is usually found in one of several geological formations, most commonly in the Dakotas, Gorum, Oswald and Wilcox formations, he says. All of these are present in Mira Valley.

Several Mira Valley land owners already have leased their land among them being E. S. Coats, W. J. Klat, Mrs. Ada A. Munn, A. J. Ferris, and others. Mr. Barefield is proffering a lease that provides his company either must drill within two years, pay 25c per acre or relinquish the lease.

That the Phillips people are serious in their intention to actually sink a test well is guaranteed by a contract which Mr. Barefield has deposited in the Nebraska State Bank. In this contract he guarantees to start drilling within nine months. He tells the Quiz, however, that if 30,000 acres can be leased at once his company will start drilling sooner, probably within sixty days.

Alvin Hale in Custody. Alvin Hale, of the Arcadia neighborhood, was taken into custody Monday evening by Deputy Sheriff Keep and is being held pending the arrival of an officer from Washington, Kas., where the young man is wanted as a car theft suspect.

Officers Use Tear Gas To Make Arrest

When Joe Klat tried to make a break for liberty, after being arrested by Officers Covert and Pardue Wednesday evening, the officers used a tear gas cartridge to subdue him. He was taken into custody at a local restaurant and while Officer Covert was unlocking the court house door to take him to a cell Mr. Klat wrenched away from Pardue and started to run down the steps. Pardue then fired the tear gas cartridge, which stopped Klat at once. The tear gas makes people unable to see and brings on a severe spell of weeping, having no injurious after effects. Officer Covert and Charley Arnold, who assisted Mr. Klat upstairs also got a generous dose of the tear gas. The prisoner will be charged with intoxication.

Ord Girl A Little Better

Sheriff George Round left Monday evening for Minneapolis, Minn., to receive a message that his daughter, Mrs. F. S. Campbell, was in a serious condition. He was taken to Grand Island by Dave Haught and Mrs. Tamer Gruber and went by rail from there. Wednesday evening the Round family heard from George to the effect that Alice was a little better after a second blood transfusion yesterday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell's little son, John Frederick, born last week is in fine health, his grandfather reports.

Wanted: Old Auto License Plates! Who Has Them?

County Treasurer George Satterfield and his deputy, Clyde Baker, have arranged an interesting display of old automobile license plates at their office in the county court house. A plate for each year from 1915 to 1931, with the exception of three years, have been hung on the wall in the form of a panel. Now Satterfield and Baker are looking for plates of the three missing years so as to complete their display.

The plates they want are for the years 1916, 1917 and 1918 and anybody having plates of these years are requested to bring them to the treasurer's office in the court house.

A veteran of the World War, the Earl of Bessborough, above, has been named new governor-general of Canada to succeed Lord Willington, who was appointed viceroy of India. The earl is ninth of the line created in 1739.

INSTALL MAIL BOXES AT ONCE, CLEMENTS URGES

Free Delivery Service Starts 1st Of April, He Says, If 85 Per Cent Boxes Installed.

Get your mail boxes and install them at once, urges Postmaster Edwin Clements. Free delivery service will start in Ord April 1 if 85 percent of houses in the delivery limits have installed mail receptacles by that time, he says, and he urges the co-operation of all Ord people.

One of the two "ifs" that stood in the way of free service beginning April 1 is rapidly being removed. House numbers are being installed within the delivery limits and this work will be finished this week. Now the only "if" remaining is the mail box question.

Three different types of mail boxes, all of which conform to government regulations, are on display in the postoffice lobby. These boxes may be procured at other hardware stores and at other places. People who don't want to go to the expense of purchasing a box may cut a slot in the door of their home.

Postmaster Clements is hopeful that every house within the delivery limits will have a mail receptacle by March 15, for on that date an inspector will visit Ord to make the final decision on whether or not free delivery will start April 1. The postoffice department is calling for bids now for the erection of five mail collection boxes in Ord. Anyone interested may secure details at the Ord postoffice.

Condra Will Speak About Irrigation

R. C. Bailey, who was in Lincoln Tuesday as a member of the Ord Chamber of Commerce committee on irrigation, brought back the plan for irrigation. Dr. G. F. Some Gigantic Beasts Shook Prehistoric Nebraska

The paleontologists are being constantly delighted with the fossil finds in Nebraska. The common folks in the state are interested in the fact that some time in the long ago great beasts walked up and down the earth in this locality and the common folks would like to know what they looked like and what the appearance of Nebraska was then.

What is believed to be the largest mammoth tusk ever unearthed in the Central West was recently removed from the Fred Krell gravel pit near Deweese by the director of the Hastings museum.

Workmen at the pit found what they supposed to be a large petrified tree trunk protruding from the soil. They called the museum men who discovered on arrival that instead of a petrified tree trunk the find was a tusk of a prehistoric Imperial Mammoth, measuring almost ten feet in length with a circumference of twenty-two inches. A few days later what was supposed to be a similar tusk was found nearby. It was not so large as the first and when the two were placed together in the Hastings museum it was found that they were not two tusks but one, the two fitting together and making a tusk almost fourteen feet long.

When the entire specimen is fully restored, another foot will be added to the point, which was broken off, and several inches to the base which was badly weathered. In life the great beast must have had a pair of tusks almost sixteen feet in length, weighing over 600 pounds.

ORD TEAMS PLAY TONIGHT.
Two high school basketball games will be played here tonight, the Ord first team meeting the North Loup first team and the reserves from the two schools meeting in a preliminary. Both Ord and North Loup made good records in the recent tournament and appear evenly matched. They haven't met before this season so the game tonight should be an interesting one.

Bly Funeral Was Held Wednesday
Respected Arcadia Citizen Buried In Local Cemetery; Phlebitis Was Cause of Sudden Death.

Arcadia, Febr. 14.—(Special)—Funeral services were held at the Methodist church here Wednesday afternoon for Floyd S. Bly, popular and respected citizen of this village who passed away suddenly early Monday morning after an illness with phlebitis. Rev. R. O. Gaither had charge of services and interment was in the local cemetery. Pall-bearers were C. C. Weddel, O. R. Lueck, J. R. Golden, J. H. Marvel, John Marlon and F. H. Christ. Three solos were sung by Lowell Finney.

Mr. Bly was born near Ashton March 20, 1884. He moved with his mother to Arcadia when eleven years old and this was his home since. On Sept. 1, 1908, he was married to Miss Lillie Bellinger at Loup City and besides his wife and his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Butterfield, of Arcadia, he is survived by one brother, Lester, of Arcadia, and by four sisters, Nora Gilbert and Cora Garner, of Grand Junction, Colo., Ruth Meyers, of Denver, and Verna Gregory, of Arcadia.

About six years ago he received baptism and united with the Methodist church of Arcadia and was a trustee of the church at the time of his death. He also was a member of the Odd Fellow and Highlander lodges and of the Men's Community club of Arcadia.

DON'T SIGN ROAD
PETITIONS, SAYS CHAMBER HEAD

State Highway Improvement Held Up By Many Petitions, VanDecar Advises.

"Don't sign road petitions" is the advice given this week by H. B. VanDecar, president of the Ord Chamber of Commerce. Road petitions signed by Ord business men to obligate customers or friends have caused delay in highway improvement in the past and can do so again, President VanDecar says, and he requests Ord people to refer people with road petitions to the chamber's road committee. If their road petitions are such as to benefit Ord the committee will approve them; if not Ord people with the interests of this city at heart have no business signing them.

As one instance of road petitions that held up highway improvement vitally important to Ord the chamber chief cites the many petitions circulated in regard to the Ord-Arcadia highway. All of these were signed by Ord people, some local men signed petitions opposed to each other, and the result was delay in completion of the highway and ill feeling toward Ord by many people interested in the route this highway should follow.

Another such instance developed last week at a meeting of Ord and Burwell men interested in seeing the Ord-Burwell highway completed and graveled. A petition that may delay this project was drawn up here and a few signers secured in Ord, it was brought out at the meeting. Needless to say the petition never was submitted to the chamber of commerce road committee.

President VanDecar and other officers and directors of the Chamber of Commerce feel that highway development is a question of the gravest importance to Ord and in fact to the whole Loup valley region. The chamber's road committee, headed by Dr. J. W. McGinnis, is making a special study of highway conditions and all questions affecting highways should be brought to the attention of this body.

Carol Palser was very ill Wednesday night. Dr. Pinckney was called and found his trouble to be appendicitis. Carol plans to go to Ord for an operation some time this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Williams enjoyed dinner at Della Manchester's Thursday, then attended Megru's hog sale. John got three sows. One will be used by Everett in the club.

Mrs. George Fisk entertained the M. E. ladies aid society Wednesday. There were ten ladies present and they tied a comforter for Mrs. Fisk and did some quilting. Mrs. Velma Manchester was a guest.

Paul White has been able to be up and around a little of late, and Tuesday last week ventured to the barn to look at his calves. It was too much for him and he collapsed and has been in bed since.

Ralph Mitchell reset the flag pole at Dist. 36 Wednesday and enjoyed the hot lunch with the school. This week was visitors week as a number of teachers were at liberty Friday. Oletha Williams, Thelma Weed, Florence Palser, Miss Esther Maxson, Ellen Williams, Leona Axthelm and Opal were guests at Dist 36 Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Portis were dinner guests of their daughter, Mrs. Carl Stude Thursday. In the afternoon Mr. Portis went to Scotia to a sale. Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Portis visited their daughter Mr. Jim Kimbrel and helped with some butchering.

Martin Zoucha helped John Palser pull some mulberry trees Saturday. The work was done with the Farm-All. Unless they were too dead they were able to pull them up roots and all.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Terrill entertained the adult Bible class of the U. B. church, Friday evening. There were fourteen adults and twelve children present. Various games were enjoyed and a lunch was served.

Mrs. Freda Noyes came Friday evening and visited until Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Herman Desel. In the forenoon Sunday they called to see Ralph Mitchell's. Their little baby has been very sick this week with a severe cold. Monday morning it was thought to be some better.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Baker were supper guests at Bert Cummins' Sunday evening.

Mrs. Nelson Sample entertained at a party Saturday afternoon for her son, Everett, it being his birthday. In the evening they had a dance.

Clifford Bowen and his parents will move soon to the place known as the Lincoln White place.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Sample, Vivian and George Palser returned Sunday from Big Springs. George has been helping Falser Brothers get ready for their sale which was last Wednesday. They had hardly got started the first day, the report is that there were 500 cars there by noon and no hogs or cattle were sold the first day as there was so much machinery and tools. The sale was continued the next day.

Archie Boyce has rented the Ernest Rahlmeyer place and will not have his sale as advertised.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Johnson spent Wednesday evening at Charley Johnson's. The report this week is that his brother Walter seems to be falling so that it is quite noticeable.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cummins returned Saturday from attending the Palser brothers' sale. He says George Palser was able to sit up in bed, and enjoyed visiting some when they left. He has been confined to the house and much of the time in bed for several months with heart trouble.

Helen Joyce Sayre spent several days at Arthur Collins' last week while her mother, Mrs. Charles Sayre was in the hospital in Ord and submitted to a severe operation Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Manchester spent Sunday at Maggie Aaby's. Mrs. Manchester is the first in the neighborhood to report having incubators set. She has two going.

an Open letter to Buick owners

February 7, 1931

Dear Buick Owner:

Because of its importance, we decided to inform you now that the present line of 1931 Buick Straight Eights will not be replaced by new models this summer.

Buick, as you know, has introduced its new cars on August 1st, year after year. But inasmuch as these new Straight Eight models have met with such spontaneous approval by thousands everywhere, Buick has decided to continue manufacturing the present Eights throughout the summer and coming fall.

This is mighty good news to thousands of Buick owners because they will buy new Buicks now with the knowledge that there will be no model change next summer.

They will find in these new Buicks a degree of performance that is certain to give them a genuine thrill. All have the safe, silent-shift Synoro-Mesh transmission. All have Valve-in-Head Straight Eight engines. And all have the famous insulated Bodies by Fisher.

So well has the 1931 line been received that, out of every 100 eights sold in Buick's price class, 56 are Buicks.

May we suggest that you drive the Eight as Buick Builds It? Your Buick dealer will be glad to have you take the wheel and learn at first hand how much Buick Straight Eight performance adds to the joy of motoring.

Very truly yours,
BUICK MOTOR COMPANY, FLINT, MICH.

In writing this week to ask for one of our recipe calendars, Mrs. Hall Barnes says she has been real sick for some time but is on the mend, though still unable to be up more than part of the time. Maude and family dropped in soon after she was taken sick, so stayed to care for her. The many friends of Mrs. Barnes will be sorry to know of her illness. She says she will send us some recipes as soon as she gets about again.

I was talking with a business man the other day, who has a business friend who is engaged in the canning business in a Platte Valley city. This friend had heard that there was some irrigation talk at Ord and was asking about it and stated that he would bring his factory to Ord if there were a few thousand acres of irrigated land here. He stated that where he was located and had been in the canning business for 11 years, he had seen two years so dry that there was nothing to pack and three other years during the same time he had about a half run of business and he wanted to get where there was a sure crop. It is a well known fact that this Loup valley does not dry out like the Platte valley does and our friend would be much surer of a crop every year than where he is located. I for one would like to see someone come in and organize a co-operative packing concern. We don't have the irrigation but well irrigation is feasible and is known to be a success in this country and with a sure outlet for the crop in a factory, a number of farmers about Ord will put in wells to irrigate their land. What Ord needs now more than anything else is a number of small factories to give employment to a lot of people and make a sure and profitable market for a lot of produce. Some years popcorn has proved very profitable and it will do so again. This year the general business slump coupled with the fact that fifteen or twenty states are so badly crippled by the 1930 drought that they are not in the market for luxuries like popcorn, has spoiled the popcorn market. That will come back and popcorn raisers in future years will make money off the crop. If there was a canning factory here making a profitable market for a few thousand acres of sweet corn, a few hundred acres of tomatoes, a few score of acres of beets, etc., that kind of a steady, sure income with the cream and egg and poultry income already here, would greatly improve business. Ord business interests could well afford to get behind such a project if the opportunity offered. The outgoings from these canning crops would make a valuable addition to present food crops for the smaller stock, the pigs and chickens. It might be possible to organize such a company and let farmers who took a share or more of stock pay for their stock with a part of the receipts from the first year's crop. If farmers are interested along this line I would like to talk with some of them. I did have a talk the other day with Mr. Coats and he said he would not only be glad to buy stock but he said he had eight or ten acres of creek bottom land that was very rich and ideal for garden crops which he would be glad to contract to a canning project. I talked with a farmer west of Burwell on the Loup who is already pumping water from the river to irrigate melons, tomatoes, etc., and he said he would be greatly interested in such a project. I believe there are a dozen farmers along the river above and below Ord who would put in a river pumping plant this spring if there was a prospect of a canning factory and a sure market for their crops.

AN ENGLISHMAN COMMENTS ON US

To American Business Men from Herbert N. Casson, Editor of Efficiency Magazine, London, England.

You are depressed. You think you are crippled. You are afraid of the future. You are full of fears. You have half the gold of the world and half of the machinery and most of the automobiles and all the skyscrapers. You have the greatest home market in the world and the largest corporations that the world has ever seen. You are ruled more by ideas and less by tradition than any other people in the world. You have usually done what you thought you could do. How can it be possible that a progressive nation of 120,000,000 people can be wrecked by the speculation of a little handful of fools in Wall Street. The prices that were forced too high had to come down. Today all the prices are too low. There is now a golden opportunity for every man who has eyes to see it. Dollars are now being sold for thirty cents. Practically every security in the United States is being sold at less than its value. The way to create a fortune is to buy from pessimists. Pay your money and take the risk. Frick started his career by buying coke ovens in the slump of 1875. Carnegie made $300,000,000 by buying steel plants in slumps. Hundreds of fortunes have been made by buying from pessimists. Ye Gods! What a chance there is at this moment! In five years from now, most American business men will belong to the "I-wish-I-had-Club." Then it will be too late to buy a dollar for thirty cents. The opportunities will be gone. When a horse balks the balk is in his head not in his legs. He moves on when he thinks he will. And when an American business man is depressed the slump is in his head. There is nothing serious to prevent him from making money if he thinks he will. When Fear rules the bill nothing can be done, but when a man casts Fear out of his mind the world becomes his oyster. To lose a bit of money is nothing, but to lose hope—or lose nerve and ambition—that is what makes men cripples. This silly depression has gone on long enough. Get rid of it. It is inside of you. RISE AND WALK.

When You and I Were Young, Maggie

Twenty-five Years Ago. Ed Johnson had bought the Tully house near the B. & M. depot and planned to move to Ord in the spring. Ben Waterman let a cake of ice fall on his foot and three of his toes were smashed. The first red polka Durban bull in Valley county was bought by Adolph Fuss at York and was shipped to Ord. O. P. Cromwell was having quite a lively sale on tankage, a new product just introduced to hog feeders of Valley county. Rudolph Kougal was very ill with typhoid fever, having a temperature of 105 1-2 degrees. Several cases of typhoid fever gave color to the suspicion that the city water supply might be impure. It came from a spring and was piped to town, in one place the mains running beneath the waters of Danc creek. The supposition was advanced that possibly the main might have parted in this place and Danc creek water be drawn into the mains along with the spring water. A sample was sent away for an analysis. Preachers of Ord met at the home of Rev. Oscar Sweeney and formed a ministerial association.

Rev. Wimberly being chosen president and Rev. Halsey secretary.

Twenty Years Ago. A mock trial was a feature of a Presbyterian Sunday school party held at the home of Miss Shuman. Ruth Work was accused of stealing the heart of Bert Cushing.

A special election was held to decide whether the city should vote $14,000 in bonds to purchase a privately owned light plant. The proposition lost, 213 to 123. Several changes were made in the game laws, the prairie chicken season being changed to thirty days later, or from Sept. 1 to Oct. 1, and the wild duck season being cut down 15 days, or open only from Sept. 15 to April 5.

Ord Methodists determined to build a $20,000 church in the spring and preparations were being made to raise the money. George Parkins was assured possession of his new location in the Mortensen block and his former store in the Quiz building was advertised for rent. A bowling team from Ord went to St. Paul and beat the bowlers of that city. On the Ord team were Stroup, Hillburn, Kasal, Mehn and Wambrecht.

Solution to Problem No. 13

that the suit is one of four cards or has length without the top. A passed one diamond, and Y bid two clubs. This bid is a much better bid than one no trump. B passed and Z now bid two spades. When A passed, Y realized that Z's spade bid was not overly strong or he would have bid it on the first round; so he correctly decided to bid two no trumps. When B passed, Z had the stage set for his third suit bid of hand, and correctly bid three hearts. He reasoned that if Y could not support either spades or diamonds, he should have heart strength. His bid of three hearts was passed and the resultant play he easily scored four odd, losing only one club and two heart tricks. It was a pretty hand and cleverly bid. As the cards lay, no game could have been made at no trump, spades or diamonds, so Z's clever bidding was well rewarded. The bidding would have been the same at Contract, except that after Z bid three hearts, Y would have bid four hearts, and thus Y Z would have been able to score game at Contract also.

State Highway Improvement Held Up By Many Petitions, VanDecar Advises.
"Don't sign road petitions" is the advice given this week by H. B. VanDecar, president of the Ord Chamber of Commerce. Road petitions signed by Ord business men to oblige customers or friends have caused delay in highway improvement in the past and can do so again, President VanDecar says, and he requests Ord people to refer people with road petitions to the chamber's road committee. If their road petitions are such as to oblige customers or friends, they will benefit Ord and the committee will approve them; if not Ord people with the interests of this city at heart have no business signing them.
As one instance of road petitions that held up highway improvement was really important to Ord the chamber chief cites the many petitions circulated in regard to the Ord-Arcadia highway. All of these were signed by Ord people, some local men signed petitions opposed to each other, and the only result was delay in completion of the highway and ill feeling toward Ord by many people interested in the route this highway should follow.
Another such instance developed last week at a meeting of Ord and Burwell men interested in seeing their road petitions well highway completed and gravelled rapidly. A petition that may delay this project was drawn up here and a few signers secured in Ord, it was brought out at the meeting. Needless to say the petition never was submitted to the chamber of commerce road committee.
President VanDecar and other officers and directors of the Chamber of Commerce feel that highway development is a question of the gravest importance to Ord and in fact to the whole Loup valley region. The chamber's road committee, which is headed by Dr. J. W. McGinnis, is making a special study of highway conditions and all questions affecting highways should be brought to the attention of this body.
Appears in Radio Play.

an Open letter to Buick owners
February 7, 1931
Dear Buick Owner:
Because of its importance, we decided to inform you now that the present line of 1931 Buick Straight Eights will not be replaced by new models this summer.
Buick, as you know, has introduced its new cars on August 1st, year after year. But inasmuch as these new Straight Eight models have met with such spontaneous approval by thousands everywhere, Buick has decided to continue manufacturing the present Eights throughout the summer and coming fall.
This is mighty good news to thousands of Buick owners because they will buy new Buicks now with the knowledge that there will be no model change next summer.
They will find in these new Buicks a degree of performance that is certain to give them a genuine thrill. All have the safe, silent-shift Syncro-Mesh transmission. All have Valve-in-Head Straight Eight engines. And all have the famous insulated Bodies by Fisher.
So well has the 1931 line been received that, out of every 100 eights sold in Buick's price class, 56 are Buicks.
May we suggest that you drive the Eight as Buick Builds It? Your Buick dealer will be glad to have you take the wheel and learn at first hand how much Buick Straight Eight performance adds to the joy of motoring.
Very truly yours,
BUICK MOTOR COMPANY, FLINT, MICH.

In writing this week to ask for one of our recipe calendars. Mrs. Hall Barnes says she has been real sick for some time but is on the mend, though still unable to be up more than part of the time.

I was talking with a business man the other day, who has a business friend who is engaged in the canning business in a Platte Valley city. This friend had heard that there was some irrigation talk in Ord and was asking about it and stated that he would bring his factory to Ord if there were a few thousand acres of irrigated land here.

AN ENGLISHMAN COMMENTS ON US

To American Business Men from Herbert N. Casson, Editor of Efficiency Magazine, London, England.

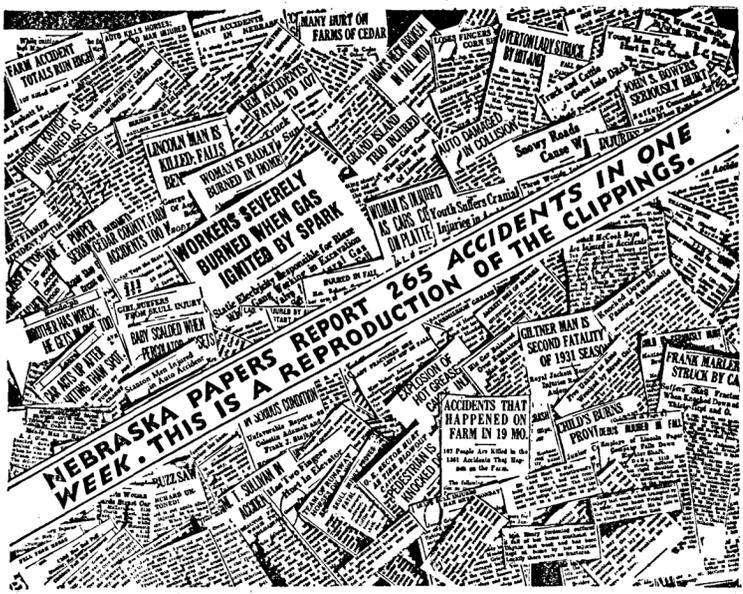

You are depressed. You think you are crippled. You are afraid of the future. You are full of fears. You have half the gold of the world and half of the machinery and most of the automobiles and all the skyscrapers.

How can it be possible that a progressive nation of 120,000,000 people can be crowded of the speculation of a little handful of fools in Wall Street. The prices that were forced too high had to come down. Today all the prices are too low.

There is now a golden opportunity for every man who has eyes to see it. Dollars are now being sold for thirty cents. Practically every security in the United States is being sold at less than its value.

When I started to write this I was planning on going to Lincoln this week end to attend the annual meeting of the Nebraska Press Association but before it is finished the phone says Harry is ill with the flu, another phone call says a large order of store sale bills will be sent in the last of the week and the Missus is not feeling very good anyhow and it begins to look doubtful whether I will get down there or not.

When a horse balks or loses nerve and ambition—that is what makes men cripples. This silly depression has gone on long enough. Get rid of it. It is inside of you. RISE AND WALK.

will make money off the crop. If there was a canning factory here making a profitable market for a few thousand acres of sweet corn, a few hundred acres of tomatoes, a few score of acres of beets etc., that kind of a steady, sure income with the cream and egg and poultry income already here, would greatly improve business. Ord business interests could well afford to get behind such a project if the opportunity offered. The roughage from these canning crops would make a valuable addition to present food crops for the smaller stock, the pigs and chickens. It might be possible to organize such a company and let farmers who took a share or more of stock pay for their stock with a part of the receipts from the first year's crop. If farmers are interested along this line I would like to talk with some of them. I did have a talk the other day with Mr. Coats and he said he would not only be glad to buy stock but he said he had eight or ten acres of creek bottom land that was very rich and ideal for garden crops which he would be glad to contract to a canning project. I talked with a farmer west of Burwell on the Loup who is already pumping water from the river to irrigate melons, tomatoes, etc. and he said he would be greatly interested in such a project. I believe there are a dozen farmers along the river above and below Ord who would put in a river pumping plant this spring if there was a prospect of a canning factory and a sure market for their crops.

Is Ord looking up? I believe so. There is a crew of men in this vicinity right now leasing land with the prospect of starting drilling for oil. A front page story this week tells all we have been able to find out. Since I started to write these lines a representative of another oil company and one of the biggest in the business came in and quizzed me to find out all I knew about the Phillips promotion work and said that his people also would be in here leasing land and preparing to drill very shortly. Do the oil people think there is oil here? The last mentioned company had their geologist here for weeks a couple of years ago but we didn't mention the matter because we couldn't find out a thing from him. His wife did slip a remark one day that "Bill said this would be a noted oil field inside of 5 years" but when we tried to get more information we were asked to forget it for the present. So I, always preferring to be an optimist as long as possible, am feeling hopeful that Ord will soon be mentioned as the wonderful new oil field. There will be plenty of time to be a pessimist after the oil folks are gone, if oil is not found.

When I started to write this I was planning on going to Lincoln this week end to attend the annual meeting of the Nebraska Press Association but before it is finished the phone says Harry is ill with the flu, another phone call says a large order of store sale bills will be sent in the last of the week and the Missus is not feeling very good anyhow and it begins to look doubtful whether I will get down there or not. Chances are not believe it pays to get away once in a while and rub elbows and exchange ideas with the others of the craft.

A committee of congress is investigating the leasing of postoffice properties and the head of the department of the government handling the leasing has refused to let the committee have the information it seeks. Looks funny to me. Must be a lot of graft somewhere. I guess it is up to congress to find out what it started to find out even if it is necessary to overturn a few departments.

Presides at Club Meeting. Another meeting of the Central Nebraska Optometrists club was held Sunday in Grand Island. Dr. George A. Parkins, who is president and educational director of the club, presided. The club members in its membership are optometrists from Grand Island, Ord, Columbus, Loup City, Holdrege, Sargent, York and Fairfield. Dr. Glen Auble of Ord is also a member.

Breaks Arm Twice, Recovers. Robert Rashaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rashaw, is back in school again after being laid up several weeks with a broken arm. He broke the arm falling off a bicycle and then, when it was partly healed, broke it a second time when he attempted to sit on a turned-up seat in the movie theater.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Do your family want potatoes fixed a new way? Are they tired of the old stand-bys, the way women have fixed them for years? Well, perhaps this is a new dish to you:

Lyonnaise Potatoes. Put a piece of butter into a hot skillet and in it fry three small onions, chopped fine. Add two tablespoons of vinegar, a pinch of salt, about six medium-sized potatoes cut in dice and previously boiled, and last a tablespoon of chopped parsley.

Delpha M. Taylor Miss Taylor, a sister of Ora Taylor who worked on the Quiz for many years, is well known here, and her many friends will be glad to have an opportunity to try one of her favorites. Incidentally perhaps there are some who would like to know that she signs her address as being 2645 Garfield St., Lincoln, Neb. Thank you very much for the recipe.

Then here is a recipe for sour milk cornbread. Would you like to try it?

Corn Bread. 1 egg 3-4 c. sour milk 3-4 c. syrup 3-4 c. flour 1 c. cornmeal 1 tsp. salt 1 tsp. soda Bake for half an hour.

Mrs. L. J. Payzant As there is nothing more delicious than tender, crumbly cornbread, hot enough to melt butter, we expect many cooks will like this cornbread.

Then here is another "sour" recipe, for a cake that is quite different from any we have had recently.

Sour Cream Raisin Cake. 1 c. sour cream 1 c. sugar 2 eggs 2 c. flour 1 tsp. soda 1/2 tsp. salt 1 c. raisins, cut in pieces 1 tsp. cinnamon 1 tsp. nutmeg 1/2 tsp. cloves 1 tsp. vanilla Mix sugar with sour cream and add the beaten egg yolks. Mix and sift the flour, spices, soda and salt, then combine with the cream and sugar. Add the raisins and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites.

Mrs. Willard Conner. Ice Box Cakes are always delicious, and something new and different to many people, and are extremely easy to make. And in addition, they are fashionable now. So many will wish to try this recipe:

Ice Box Cakes. 4 egg whites well beaten. Add slowly 1/2 c. sugar pinch of salt Add drop by drop 1 tsp. vinegar. Beat 20 minutes from the time you started. Bake in pan 2 inches deep, slowly, for an hour. When cold cut in 2 layers Whip a pint of cream, a little sugar, vanilla to taste, and add 1 c. walnuts which have been chopped. Spread the mixture between layers, and cover all of the outside. Let stand 5 to 24 hours, when it is ready to serve.

Miss Gertrude Hawkins. New Greeley County Claimant. A new claimant for the honor of being the first white child born in Greeley county bobbed up last week when Mrs. Mary Davis, of North Loup, the mother of Horace M. Davis, wrote to the Scotta Register stating that Walter Babcock was born in Greeley county on August 12, 1872, and Ida Sheldon on July 8, 1873, both of them being born several months in advance of Horace Davis' birth. Mr. Babcock is since deceased but Ida Sheldon, now Mrs. Lewis, lives at Western, Neb.

11 Years Constipation Glycerin Mix Ends It

"For 11 years I tried to get rid of constipation," says Chas. E. Blair. "Then at last the simple mixture, Adlerka, made me regular."

The simple mixture of glycerin, buckthorn bark, salina, etc., (Adlerka) acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, relieving constipation in 2 hours! Brings out poisons you never thought were in your stomach. Let Adlerka give your stomach and bowel a REAL cleaning and see how good you feel! Ed F. Beranek, druggist.

How to play Bridge AUCTION or CONTRACT by Wynne Ferguson Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Something DIFFERENT

There is no way to make a house look more inviting, or to make it look as though the people who live in it are fond of it than to put up several pretty bird houses on the premises. Just try it and see what a friendly expression it will lend.

Several Ord people have already found out about this, and dainty little colored homes invite feathered travelers. Marion Crosby has a pair; Hagers have several; Jim Misko's place is so adorned; and a very attractive one is seen in the rear of Mrs. Rose Pierson's. Mrs. Matt Kosmata is very interested in birds, and also tries to lure them, and so does her neighbor, Mrs. Will Zaboult.

Why don't you find a corner for one this spring? Don't you think that would be nice?

Mentioning Mrs. Kosmata, 'did you know she is very clever with carpenter's tools? Most of the white trelis work, arches, fences, and even birdhouses that ornament the Kosmata side yard are her doing, so she told me. Pretty touches like these make any place look like a real home, and increase its value a great deal.

Had you noticed the many pretty winter bouquets passed outside for the joy of passers-by? Evergreen and bright berries do help a lot when the landscape is so gray and brown. But frjes hereabouts are beginning to bud, and it won't be long now.

John Stoltenburg, kindly and genial, hides a varied assortment of interests under his unobtrusive manner. Firstly, he paints sketches, many of them water-scapes. This pastime has furnished even pretty gifts for several friends of his.

Then, John is an ardent opera fan. He has heard most of them several times, and is rather in the way of being a critic. Knowing the stories, and having much knowledge of the scores, he never lets many months pass without utilizing a seat in some famous opera house.

And in addition to being a laboratory technician in the daytime, for a living, Mr. Stoltenburg spends many evenings putting among his beloved chemicals, trying some new experiment.

One couple in Ord are always spoken of as being inseparable. I never hear him mentioned without someone saying she was there too. Whatever they do, walking, riding, loafing, they do together, according to report.

But isn't it odd? I have yet to see her with him.

A certain figure we know who is painfully dry and 'takes his seat' in office very seriously, indeed very, very seriously, was recently regaled for an afternoon by an outspoken young lady. She kept him roaring with laughter, to the mystification of the others of the company. Imagine the shock to the sedate company when they learned this reckless young Mrs. had been retailing all the many ways in which beer might be made!

It is rumored that an Ord girl famous for her series of excursions to matrimony is about to leap again.

W. A. Anderson is not the only manly cook in these parts, Bert Cushing wants to tell Valley county. Bert says he is some efficient cook himself, and also states that he believes following recipes eggkally as they are writ. To do doing he attributes his success as a kitchen artist. Bert threatened to send in some recipes, so women, prepare for the worst!

Speaking of gentsmen cooks, we are bringing some in our high school. Miss Hardin now has a number of male would-be-cooks. She says they are very interested and eager to learn every little thing about kitchen routine. There is also a sewing class for boys, and a number of Ord boys

It is very seldom that a player has the chance to bid three suits, but here is a hand where it was justifiable and offered the only chance for game:

Hearts—A, J, 9, 8 Clubs—K, 10, 8, 7, 5 Diamonds—7, 6, 3 Spades—10, 7, 3

Y : A B : Z : Hearts—Q, 7, 6, 4 Clubs—9 Diamonds—A, K, Q, 4 Spades—A, K, 8, 2

AUCTION BIDDING: No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one diamond. Many players would prefer a spade bid with this hand but, as between two four-card suits, both justifiable bids, it is preferable to bid the minor on the first round. By bidding the major on the second or subsequent round, partner should realize

Solution to Problem No. 6 Hearts—8, 6 Clubs—A, 9, 8, 5, 3 Diamonds—J, 6, 3 Spades—J, 10, 9

Hearts—K, 10, 3 Clubs—Q, J, 7, 2 Diamonds—A, K, Q Spades—8, 7, 2

Hearts—A, J Clubs—6 Diamonds—9, 5, 4, 2 Spades—A, K, Q, 5, 4, 3

AUCTION BIDDING: No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid two spades and all passed. A opened the king of diamonds and followed with the queen and ace. If A now led the deuce of clubs, how should Z play the hand so that he can make game against any defense?

CONTRACT BIDDING: Z's best bid with this hand is one spade. A passes and Y should bid two clubs to give Z another chance if his hand justifies it. B will pass and Z should now bid three spades. A will pass and Y is justified in bidding four spades. The problem then is the same in both cases, that is, how to make game against any defense.

Solution: The proper way for Z to play this hand is to set up a club in his hand on which to discard his losing jack of hearts. To accomplish this purpose, he must trump clubs three

Solution to Problem No. 7 Hearts—A, 5 Clubs—10, 2 Diamonds—10, 2 Spades—9, 8, 7, 2

Hearts—10, 4 Clubs—2 Diamonds—Q, 9, 6, 3 Spades—10, 5

Hearts—9, 2 Clubs—A, 8 Diamonds—K, 5, 4 Spades—A, 3

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win seven of the nine tricks against any defense? Solution: Z should lead a heart, A and Y play low and B is forced to win the trick with the jack. B should then lead the jack of clubs. Z should win this trick with the ace, and lead another heart which Y wins with the ace. Y that the suit is one of four cards or has length without the top. A passed one diamond, and Y bid two clubs. This bid is a much better bid than one no trump. B passed and Z now bid two spades. When A passed, Y realized that Z's spade bid was not overly strong or he would have bid it on the first round; so he correctly decided to bid two no trumps. When B passed, Z had the stage set for his third suit bid of hand, and correctly bid three hearts. He reasoned that if Y could not support either spades or diamonds, he should have heart strength. His bid of three hearts was passed and in the resultant play he easily scored four odd, losing only one club and two heart tricks. It was a pretty hand and cleverly bid. As the cards lay, no game could have been made at no trump, spades or diamonds; so Z's clever bidding was well rewarded. The bidding would have been the same at Contract, except that after Z bid three hearts, Y would have bid four hearts, and thus Y Z would have been able to score game at Contract also.

Solution to Problem No. 6 Hearts—8, 6 Clubs—A, 9, 8, 5, 3 Diamonds—J, 6, 3 Spades—J, 10, 9

Hearts—K, 10, 3 Clubs—Q, J, 7, 2 Diamonds—A, K, Q Spades—8, 7, 2

Hearts—A, J Clubs—6 Diamonds—9, 5, 4, 2 Spades—A, K, Q, 5, 4, 3

AUCTION BIDDING: No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid two spades and all passed. A opened the king of diamonds and followed with the queen and ace. If A now led the deuce of clubs, how should Z play the hand so that he can make game against any defense?

CONTRACT BIDDING: Z's best bid with this hand is one spade. A passes and Y should bid two clubs to give Z another chance if his hand justifies it. B will pass and Z should now bid three spades. A will pass and Y is justified in bidding four spades. The problem then is the same in both cases, that is, how to make game against any defense.

Solution: The proper way for Z to play this hand is to set up a club in his hand on which to discard his losing jack of hearts. To accomplish this purpose, he must trump clubs three

Solution to Problem No. 7 Hearts—A, 5 Clubs—10, 2 Diamonds—10, 2 Spades—9, 8, 7, 2

Hearts—10, 4 Clubs—2 Diamonds—Q, 9, 6, 3 Spades—10, 5

Hearts—9, 2 Clubs—A, 8 Diamonds—K, 5, 4 Spades—A, 3

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win seven of the nine tricks against any defense? Solution: Z should lead a heart, A and Y play low and B is forced to win the trick with the jack. B should then lead the jack of clubs. Z should win this trick with the ace, and lead another heart which Y wins with the ace. Y

Solution to Problem No. 8 Hearts—K, 3 Clubs—A, 6, 5 Diamonds—7, 2 Spades—none

Hearts—8, 4 Clubs—Q, 8 Diamonds—K, Q, 5 Spades—none

Hearts are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win four of the seven tricks against any defense? Solution: The king of diamonds is the proper lead and Y should be careful to play the seven (as a) below. B should refuse to win the trick. Z should now lead the queen of clubs. A should play the king and Y should play a low club. A's best play is the trump, Y should play the king and B the ace. B should return the seven of hearts, forcing Z in the lead. Z now leads a club which Y wins with the ace and the diamond lead makes the queen good in Z's hand for the fourth trick. (a) Should B win the first diamond trick with the ace and follow with the ace and a small trump, Y should win the third trick with the king of hearts.

League Party and Shower

An Epworth League party was held at the basement of the Methodist church last Friday evening and a special feature of the evening was a surprise miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Margaret Walker and Everett White whose marriage occurred the following Sunday. The young couple received many lovely gifts. A lunch of ice cream and cake was served at the close of the evening.

Legion Auxiliary Meets

The Legion Auxiliary met last Friday afternoon at the Methodist church basement with Mrs. Winifred Boone as hostess. Eight members and four guests were present. The afternoon was spent sewing carpet rags and finishing a quilt which the members had been quilting. It was decided to buy five hundred poppies to be sold on the annual poppy day. A lovely two course lunch was served at the close of the afternoon. The next meeting will be held at the Methodist church basement Friday afternoon Feb. 27th with Mrs. F. H. Christ as hostess.

Boy Scout Meeting

The Boy Scout meeting was postponed this week and will be held Wednesday evening, February 25th at the home of Lind Golden.

Glendale Literary to Meet

The Glendale Literary Society will meet at the Glendale school house Friday evening Feb. 20th. A miscellaneous program has been planned.

Revival Services Continue

The revival services held at the Methodist church have been well attended. The meetings are in charge of Rev. Randall of Scotia and will continue this week. Services begin at 7:45 each evening.

Church Wedding Sunday

A very pretty wedding took place at the Methodist church at high noon Sunday when Miss Margaret Walker and Everett White, members of prominent Arcadia families, were united in marriage. The pulpit of the church was decorated with house plants and ferns and the wedding ceremony was performed immediately following the regular Sunday morning church services. The bride party entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Nema Cruzan and took their places before the altar where the pastor, Rev. R. O. Gaither performed the impressive ring ceremony. Prior to the entrance of the bride party, Mrs. Gaither sang sweetly "At Dawning".

Janet Gaither and Ruth Wibbel dressed in white, acted as flower girls scattering roses along the bridal path. The bride was very lovely in a gown of orchid net. The bridesmaid, Miss Lorena Walker, sister of the bride was gowned in green georgette and carried pink sweet peas. The groom and his best man, Kermit Erickson wore dark suits.

After receiving the congratulations and best wishes of their many friends the bride party returned to the home of the bride's parents where a lovely wedding dinner was served to a number of relatives and friends.

Margaret is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Walker who reside west of Arcadia. She graduated with the class of 1930. Everett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John White and has been associated with his father in farming for some time. He is an industrious young man and highly respected in the community.

Mr. and Mrs. White will make their home on a farm four miles west of Arcadia.

Community Club Meets

The Arcadia Community club enjoyed an oyster supper at the Methodist church basement Tuesday evening. This was a special meeting as the result of the spelling bee which was held at the last meeting, when the losing side treated the winners to an oyster supper.

Enjoys Tennis Tournament

A number of the older sports and some that are not so old were engaged in a tennis tournament on the court at the school-ground Sunday afternoon. Fun followed during the playing, but those who have not indulged for some time were reminded that tennis still works at the same old stand.

The finals developed into a real battle with Jess Marvel and Alvin Lee against Horace Mor and Ed Bellinger. Mott and Bellinger winning two out of three sets, the count of the last set being 13 to 11.

Many have expressed a desire to see the program repeated again soon.

Debate at St. Paul

Both debating teams of the Arcadia high school went to St. Paul Thursday of last week where they met the debating teams of the St. Paul high school and debated the question "Resolved, that the nation should disarm except for such forces as are needed for police purposes". Arcadia's affirmative team composed of Mary Elizabeth Cook, Marguerite Rettenmeyer and Harold Gates won from St. Paul's negative team and St. Paul's affirmative team won from Arcadia's negative team which was composed of Roger Cochran, Paul Easterbrook and Glen Jameson.

Community Dance Big Success

The Community dance which was held at the Electric Theatre last Thursday evening was very well attended and was reported as one of the nicest dances of the season. Everyone present had a good time and is still so filled with enthusiasm over the event that the committee in charge has decided to arrange for another community dance soon.

Twenty-eight dollars was added to the treasury of the Community park from the receipts and an expression of thanks is extended to all those who attended or aided in any way in making the evening a success. Special mention should be made of the names which were provided by volunteer musicians. Their untiring efforts were greatly appreciated.

Scientists Failed to Locate Water But This Kansan Did It With a Twig

SCIENTISTS have had little faith in "water witches" who claim they can locate underground water simply by carrying a forked twig over the surface in a certain manner.

But in locating water for a school well in Kansas City, a recently reported "water witch" is reported to have succeeded where scientists failed. And this is the story they tell.

On the completion of the Eugene Ware elementary school, the board of education employed a geologist to make a survey and a driller and to sink a well at the place indicated by the scientists as the most likely to produce water. The well proved to be a dry hole.

Bets on Peach Twig

Then came forward D. W. Hamilton, "water witch," who lived near the school.

"With a forked peach twig I can locate water," he said. "I'll bet on it."

The board of education was ready to bet for, under Hamilton's proposal, the board had nothing to lose. He was given a contract for digging a well for $100 on a "no water, no pay" basis.

Then Hamilton cut his peach twig and started to walk over the school ground, holding the twig in the manner shown in the accompanying photograph.

Suddenly L. H. Brotherton, superintendent of the buildings for the school board, and others, saw the peach switch bend toward the ground. Hamilton knelt and turned the twig upward, but each time, and for 53 times, he said, the twig yielded to a mysterious pull.

Digs at Own Risk

School board representatives, still skeptical, suggested Hamilton dig away at his own risk. So the water finder and his son, Edwin, went to work.

In a few days they had a hole slightly more than 50 feet deep. Confident, Hamilton telephoned to the school superintendent, "Come on out and watch us strike water."

Brotherton went and by aid of a glass which reflected sunlight far into the well, was astonished to see water bubble an inch high through an opening made by a pick in the hands of the well digger.

The well began to fill at the rate of 1000 gallons a day.

Seeing Is Believing "You win," said the school authority. "But still I don't believe in witching."

"What does the twig have to do with it?" the water witch was asked.

"It has everything to do with it," was the reply. "I don't care what scientists say and I don't know why it always turns down when there is water under it in the ground."

And that's all there is to it, according to the well digger.

Scientists, who go about the same task with elaborate instruments based on gravitational magnetic, seismic, electrical, radioactive, or geothermal principles, think it is mere chance when an unscientific person finds water.

It is not because of any mysterious power acting upon the crooked stick, they say, but because the person holding it is a quick observer and has had considerable experience in finding water.

New Styles Emphasize Contrasts

DIFFERENT FABRIC, COLOR AND PATTERNED DESIGNS LEND DASH AND CHIC TO LATEST CREATIONS—FROCK AND JACKET SUIT AN EXAMPLE

BY HARRIET

CONTRAST plays one of the biggest parts in new styles. You can have contrast of fabric, contrast in color, contrast in patterned design. Moreover, it is quite smart now to have a colored hat to wear with a neutral toned coat or suit. Colored accessories brighten the picture that might be much less arresting without them.

The new spring suit consists of two types of garments. One costume, which is newest, is the frock with coat toppling it. The other, which consists of a skirt and coat and separate blouse, is often worn belted and on the outside.

The frock and jacket suit this season is likely to lighten the contrast idea by using the same color but a different material for the waist, by trimming the waist with a still different material of a contrasting color.

A crepe frock suit may have the wool crepe for the skirt and the upper part of the frock made of flat crepe or crepe Elizabeth of the same color, with either a different tone of silk or lace or embroidery for the yoke and upper sleeves.

Of course you can make your separate suit blouses out of any material that strikes your mind right. But if you have a suit to fix over or if you are making a new suit or buying one, look carefully at the suit described today.

GRAY wool fabric, one of the many lovely semi-sheer crepes, fashions a skirt with a very unusual cut. The bodice of the frock is composed of gray marocain, part matching light gray and part rose marocain.

The wool material fashions the deep cuffs of the frock and gray marocain fashions just about half of the bodice portion excepting the yoke and upper part of the sleeves, which is all rose.

There is a sweet bow-knot idea worked out in stitching the rose silk for a tie effect. There is a soft sash belt of gray marocain, tied on one side in slip-knot fashion, just like the tie at the rounding neckline.

For contrasts consider this gray wool fabric frock, left. Part of the blouse matches marocain and part rose. The distinguishing feature of the coat, right, is its three-quarters sleeves. Gray fox bands the coat smartly.

The coat is specially smart, with the new three-quarters sleeves which are way and ahead of any other single style feature in popularity.

Gray fox bands this coat handsomely, around the rather tall collar and the flaring three-quarters sleeves. It is, altogether, a dressy suit. But it is also practical because it is an idea that can be developed in many color schemes, many materials and be assured of chic and newness.

The Season's Biggest Attraction--BASKETBALL!

Ord All-Stars vs. Bowen Drugs -- Monday, Feb. 23

Here is the return game with the only team that holds an edge over Ord this year. They beat the All-Stars by a single field goal early in the season and now the All-Stars want REVENGE! A fast preliminary. Admission 15c and 50c. Don't miss this game.

ORD THEATER HAS BRILLIANT OPENING CROWD

With Mrs. Kirby McGrew at the piano Orville Sowl then gave a pleasing violin selection from the floor, which was heartily enjoyed. Then the theatre's expensive sound screen was rolled down and the film performance began. This screen is the first of its type installed in this section of the state. Made entirely of silvery beads, it is pierced by thousands of tiny openings through which sound from the huge horn behind it comes.

First came a Hal Roach "Our Gang" comedy which gave the audience an amusing twenty minutes and put them in a receptive mood for the famous feature of the evening, Eddie Cantor in "Whoopee". The comedy was followed by a new M-G-M feature, "Believe It or Not", with the original Robert L. Ripley. This feature was shown for the first time in this part of the state and further "Believe It or Not" will be shown at the Ord Theatre every week.

Messrs. Blomond and Hoogenboom could not have made a better selection for opening night than the photoplay, "Whoopee". Most of the audience were seeing and hearing Eddie Cantor for the first time and they enjoyed every minute of his performance, gasping at the magnificent Ziegfeld tableaux that were revealed. Eddie Cantor was assisted by Ethel Shuts, Paul Gregory, Eleanor Hunt and the film and stage favorites and the picture was one of the most enjoyable ever shown in Ord, keeping the crowd in gales of laughter throughout.

Gem Quint Crowds Penney For City League Honors

HOW THEY STAND.

J. C. Penney	7	W	1	Pot
Gem Theatre	7	4	3	715
Andersen's	7	3	4	529
McLain-Sorensen	7	2	5	268

The sensational scoring streak of Gem Theatre cagers has been the feature of play the last two weeks in the city basketball league. Led in scoring by Ross Blessing, Millard Bell and Bill Heuck, the Gem has won its last two games by substantial margins and is crowding the Penney quint for honors.

Last week the Gem beat the Penney team 31 to 18 and this week they won from the Nyal five 32 to 16. In the other game last week the Nyal Drugs beat Andersen's 5 to 4 and this week Andersen's beat Penney 16 to 6. However, the Penney scoring ace, Joe Krejci, has been out of league competition for several weeks and whenever that team needs to win a game he probably will be in suit.

Geneva Bogus And Edw. Zulkoski Wed

Elyria, Febr. 18.—(Special)—At 9 o'clock Monday morning a beautiful wedding took place at the Catholic church here when Miss Geneva Bogus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bogus, and Edward Zulkoski, son of Mrs. Frank Zulkoski, were united in marriage. Father Murray of Burwell performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a beautiful white crepe dress. Her bridesmaids were Miss Julia Zulkoski, a cousin of the groom, and Kathryn Setlik, a close friend of the bride. They both wore gowns of pink silk. The groom's attendants were John Bogus, brother of the bride, and Raymond Zulkoski, a nephew of the groom.

After the ceremony many relatives and friends were entertained at a bounteous dinner at the Bogus home. In the evening a dance was given at the Elyria hall in honor of the newlyweds.

Auble Bros. have sold one of their awnings to the Osceola, Nebr. Theatre and Jay is going to superintend the placing of the awning, which is now being manufactured at Hastings.

Pioneer Resident Dies At Ericson

Mrs. Dollie Baker Jansen, whom pioneer residents of Ord will remember, passed away early last Friday morning, Febr. 18, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ella Meese, at Ericson. Her death was due to a heart ailment with other complications. Mrs. Jansen's home was in Omaha but for several months she had lived with Mrs. Meese, also spending some time with her brother, Geo. Baker and family, in Riverdale. Since her husband's sudden death in December, 1929, Mrs. Jansen never seemed to fully recover from the shock and longed to be re-united with him.

Funeral services were held Sunday at Cedar Valley church east of Ericson, Rev. Primrose of St. Paul having charge. Interment was made in the family lot at Pibel Lake, overlooking the home where she grew to womanhood. Relatives and friends from Omaha, Cedar Rapids, Ord and North Loup were present.

Mrs. Jansen was born in Indiana and emigrated with her parents to Nebraska when she was eleven years old. In Kentland, Ind., Mrs. Jansen and her brother, George Baker, were classmates of the famous humorist, George Ade, who still lives in that city.

Girl Reserves Banquet Mothers

Girl Reserves of Ord high school entertained their mothers last Saturday, Valentine's day, at a delightful banquet served at the high school building. A program of toasts followed the dinner, Miss Marion Grace Cushing serving as toastmistress. Those giving toasts were Martha Mae Barta, Leota Crosby, Miss Jean Nelson, Mrs. J. L. Abernethy, Delma Palmatier, Mrs. D. C. Williamson, Lavada Rogers, Leota Auble gave a piano solo and vocal solos were given by Mrs. Joe Barta, Rosemary Needham and Virginia VanDecar, Miss Elva Bloodgood being at the piano. Misses Mae Baird and Lucene Harbin presided in the kitchen.

Vern Robbins is having a vacation of a few weeks from his duties in the bargain store, and is devoting his time to the purchase and sale of horses. There is nothing Vernie enjoys more than handling horses. He has a demand for the horses he could buy.

Siam's Rulers To Visit U. S.

The United States will welcome one of the most progressive rulers of Asia when King Prajadhipok, above, of Siam, comes to New York in the spring for eye treatment. He will be accompanied by his queen, below, reputed to be one of the most beautiful women in Siam.

Among Arkansas Hunger Victims

You can't blame these sad-eyed children for not smiling. Their parents dead, these youngsters were found living alone in a houseboat near Lepanto, Ark., without food and fuel, by Red Cross relief workers who immediately gave food and warm clothing. Left to right are Mildred Morris, 7; Irene Morris, 15; and Lester, Morris, 13.

ORD MEN ATTEND REAPER'S 100TH BIRTHDAY PARTY

The banquet tables in the gold room of the Yancey. It was a wonderful banquet and the crowning feature was the ice cream of the last course, in the shape of a shock of wheat. Following the eats Claude R. Russell acted as toastmaster and in turn introduced J. L. Cleary, Senator H. G. Wellensek of Grand Island and George Hodge of Lincoln, the latter state manager for International. Mr. Russell is Assistant General Manager from Chicago. Carl Dale, Walt Noll and H. D. Leggett of Ord were guests as was Mr. Jenkins, Smith-Hughes teacher in the schools, from Burwell, who accompanied the Ord men in Mr. Dale's car.

Play At Valleyside Is Largely Attended

The Valleyside high school play, "A Poor Married Man," was presented by tenth graders of that school last Friday evening to a capacity audience that was generous with applause. Especially did the crowd like Rex Bingham, who played the title role, and Leonard Wolf, as the negro comedian. Others in the cast were Vernon Collins, Ruth Wiberg, Catherine Ollis, Lois Collins, Harold Koelling and Lois Bingham. Music between the acts was presented by 10th graders who sang "Sweeping the Cobwebs Off the Moon" and by 10th graders who sang "Those Evening Bells." About $27 was made from the play.

Have Benefit Bridge

Last evening the American Legion Auxiliary held a benefit bridge in the home of Mrs. C. J. Mortenson. Twenty-five cents or more was given by each member and refreshments were served. Money realized is to be sent to southern drought sufferers.

Clean News

Tuesday evening Frank Adamek accompanied Will Philbrick and his mother to Winner, S. D. where they went to attend the funeral of the latter's brother, Carl Cramer. Messrs. Simon and John Schaffner of Omaha, Harold and Lawrence of Boone, Ia., arrived at the George Schaffner home Saturday evening. They came to attend the funeral of their nephew and cousin, Monty Schaffner. They returned to their homes Tuesday forenoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Kokes entertained the following relative at dinner Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bellina and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stupka of Burwell, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bohacek and son Robert, Mrs. Mary Davie and daughter Helen, of Omaha, Mrs. Victor BenBen, Miss Emma Schaffner, Mr. and Mrs. James Hrdy and family, Mr. and Mrs. Will Beran and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beran.

Mrs. Leonard Medlar called at the Ray Kearns home Thursday. Joe Kasper spent from Thursday evening until Saturday morning with his cousin, Frank Adamek Jr. The pupils of Olean school and their teacher, Inez Eberhart, gave an entertainment for their mothers Friday afternoon. A short program consisting of Valentine's Day and patriotic selections was given. A Valentine box Saturday treats were much enjoyed after which refreshments were served. Twenty visitors were present.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Payzant of Sumter, were Saturday callers of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Medlar. Mrs. Irma Adamek spent Saturday with her sister, Mrs. William Klancek, assisting with some work. She returned to her home the same day.

ALL-STARS WILL SEEK REVENGE MONDAY NIGHT

Will Try Beat Bowen Drugs, City League Champs at G. I., Who Beat All-Stars 26-24.

A strong desire for revenge against the only team that holds an edge on them in basketball competition this winter will be the compelling motive of Joe Krejci and his All-Stars when they go into action against the Bowen Drugs next Monday night at the Ord gymnasium. Earlier in the season the Bowen quintet edged out the All-Stars, 26 to 24, in the most thrilling game played on the Ord floor this season. Probably the biggest crowd of the year will witness their next encounter.

Since beating the All-Stars the Bowens have continued to pile up an impressive record. They are the conceded champs of the 10-team Grand Island city league, having won twelve straight games in league competition. Outside of their victory over Ord their biggest feat of the year was their defeat of a picked team from the Grand Island city league. So far the Bowens have won fourteen games and hope for an unblemished record.

Only one other team has beaten the Ord All-Stars this year. Warner's Roamers of Hancock, Ia., out-pointed the Krejci-men and won 27 to 25 two weeks ago but a lot of stung was taken from the defeat by the fact that a few weeks previous Krejci and his mates beat the Roamers 36 to 24.

If the All-Stars play as good basketball against the Bowens as they did against the Roamers they should win. Their biggest problem will be to spike the guns of the Bowens big ace, Bob Meyer, whose long shots beat the All-Stars before. Captain Krejci probably will detail Caroski to hold Meyer down next Monday night and if Syl gets the job done the All-Stars should win. Meyer is the leading scorer in the Grand Island city league.

Besides their victory over Warner's Roamers the Ord team has defeated the Grand Island A. C., the Harvard Indians, the Ravenna town team and the Blain Livestocks.

A good preliminary is being arranged for next Monday night, probably between the Andersen Camels and the Comstock town team.

On Trip to Hastings. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin E. Foth, who were married here on February 10, have enjoyed a wedding trip to Hastings, where they were visiting in the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Frank DeJung and family. Before her marriage Mrs. Foth was Miss Marie Kokes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Kokes of Eureka township. The groom, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Gust E. Foth of Mira Valley, is one of the county's progressive young farmers. The young people will make their home on the groom's farm three miles south of Ord and the Quiz joins with their friends in wishing them much happiness.

Miss LaVina Aldrich and Kothwell Robl, both of Taylor, were quietly married at the Methodist parsonage last Saturday evening by Rev. W. H. Wright.

Bill Cohen and wife drove to St. Paul Sunday for a visit at the Gerald Cohen home. They returned home the same evening.

While in Lincoln Tuesday R. C. Bailey enjoyed a visit with his son, Arthur, who is a student at the state university.

Teacher's Red Hair Scared Them

When pretty Miss Edith Rankin came as a substitute teacher to a Chinese school in San Francisco recently all her little pupils were thrown into a panic at the sight of her red hair. They thought it was on fire. Here three of the kindergarten class are being shown by Miss Rankin that they're all wrong.

KREJCI ENTERS GAME IN SECOND HALF, ORD WINS

For the first few minutes of the game neither team scored but the Blains soon hit their stride and rolled long shots in from all over the floor. Jensen, Beeghly and Adams were playing such a great defensive game that short shots wouldn't work but that didn't faze the Blains at all.

The All-Stars counted thrice from the free throw line early in the first half but only two long counters by Jensen put them in the running. The period ended with the score 14 to 7 in the Blain team's favor.

Krejci had been sitting on the bench in his street clothes during the first half, getting more nervous and fidgety every minute. During the intermission he hobbled to the dressing room, called Dr. Lee Nyal to tape his foot tightly and got into his basketball togs. He got onto the floor just as the half started, taking a forward position and leaving Adams at center.

Almost from the first play things began to happen. Joe secured the ball and looped a long one through, then followed it up a moment later with a short one. Other All-Stars soon hit a scoring stride and at the end of the third quarter the Ord team led, 17 to 14. And they stayed out in front the rest of the game.

The Blain team was roughing Krejci unmercifully and Anthony soon left the game with four personal fouls. A moment later Meves followed. By that time the Grand Islanders had shot their bolt and it was just a question of how large the score became.

Beeghly came through with a pair of long field goals, Jensen contributed another, Adams and Caroski made short field goals and both scored from the free throw line, and Krejci made 11 points to give Ord 22 counters during the last half. In the same time the Blains could score but 6 points.

Beeghly and Jensen turned in far and away their best performance of the season. Besides guarding well high perfectly both entered into the scoring with abandon. Caroski, who went in when Krejci did, also played a wonderful game. Lashmett played well during the first half and Adams was a tower of defensive strength though

1703 Bags Flour Shipped By Legion To Drouth Victims

$1,282 Is Amount Raised, Which Was More Than Expected; Committee Reports.

Car of flour billed this week to American Red Cross care of J. M. Craig at Idabel, Okla. consisted of the following items: 1,562 48-lb. bags of flour, 6 24-lb. bags of flour, part rye 65 24-lb. bags of corn meal, 68 48-lb. bags of Corn meal, 6 10-lb. bags of Corn meal, 1,703 bags in car.

Total amount of money received by the committee—$1,281.73.

Paid out to the Ord Milling Co., $1,129.97, and to the Elyria Flour Mill, $150.00. Total expended for flour, $1,279.97. Balance on hand to be turned over to Red Cross $4.76.

In addition to the money received there were 72½ sacks of flour donated at the Ord Mill, in exchange for grain. There were 31 forty-eight pound bags and 6 twenty-four pound bags of flour and 2 ten pound bags of corn meal, donated and delivered to the car.

The list of those contributing to this car of flour is on file at the Nebraska State Bank of Ord, and may be examined by anyone wishing to do so.

All the incidental expenses, such as phone calls, etc. are being taken care of by the American Legion, so all of the money contributed went directly for relief work.

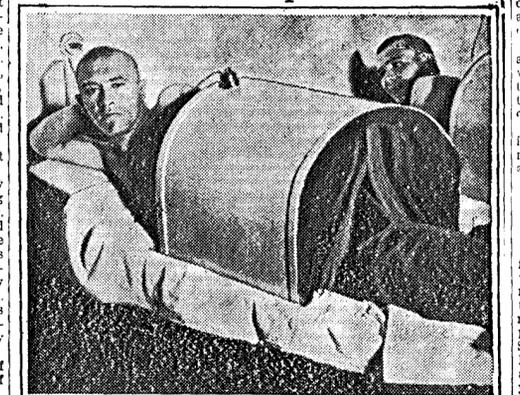

We, the committee, wish to thank all the solicitors and committees, who helped with the canvass for this flour and we also wish to thank all those who so generously contributed.

Due to the contributions exceeding our expectations, it also was necessary to buy some corn meal at the rate of $1.00 per bag.

Only a few reservations were allowed by the management. Rotarians and their families and guests occupied a center section of eighty seats, going in a body to show their appreciation of the new showhouse to their fellow Rotarians, Messrs. Blomond and Hoogenboezem. A no-host party occupied the balcony loges, which should prove increasingly popular for theatre parties.

While Ord people had anticipated the theatre's opening as the event of the season they were pleasantly surprised and thrilled by the every detail. Never again will Ord have a back seat in the matter of film entertainment; the new theatre is the best this section has to offer. It will undoubtedly prove a huge magnet in drawing people to Ord and should succeed even beyond the expectations of its owner.

Adamek and Philbrick, and their sons, Harold and Lester, of Boone, Ia., arrived at the George Schaffner home Saturday evening. They came to attend the funeral of their nephew and cousin, Monta Schaffner. They returned to their homes Tuesday forenoon. Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Kokes entertained the following relatives at dinner Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Welina and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stupka of Burwell, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bohacek and son Robert, Mrs. Mary Davis and daughter, Helen, of Omaha, Mrs. Victor BenBen, Will Lukesh and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Hrdy and family, Mr. and Mrs. Will Beran and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beran. Mrs. Leonard Medlar called at the Ray Kearns home Thursday. Joe Kasper spent from Thursday evening until Saturday morning with his cousin, Frank Adamek Jr. The pupils of Olean school and their teacher, Inez Eberhart, gave an entertainment for their mothers Friday afternoon. A short program consisting of Valentine's Day and patriotic selections was given. A valentine box and candy treats were much enjoyed after which refreshments were served. Twenty visitors were present. Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Payzant of Summit, were Saturday callers of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Medlar. Miss Irma Adamek spent Saturday with her sister, Mrs. William Klanecky, assisting with some work. She returned to her home the same day.

ALL-STARS WILL SEEK REVENGE MONDAY NIGHT

Will Try Beat Bowen Drugs, City League Champs at G. I., Who Beat All-Stars 26-24.

A strong desire for revenge against the only team that holds an edge on them in basketball competition this winter will be the compelling motive of Joe Krejci and his All-Stars when they go into action against the Bowen Drugs next Monday night at the Ord gymnasium. Earlier in the season the Bowen quint edged out the All-Stars, 26 to 24, in the most thrilling game played on the Ord floor this season. Probably the biggest crowd of the year will witness their next encounter.

Since beating the All-Stars the Bowens have continued to pile up an impressive record. They are the conceded champs of the 10-team Grand Island city league, having won twelve straight games in league competition. Outside of their victory over Ord their biggest feat of the year was their defeat of a picked team from the Grand Island city league. So far the Bowens have won fourteen games and hope for an unblemished record.

Only one other team has beaten the Ord All-Stars this year. Warner's Roamers of Hancock, Ia., out-pointed the Krejci-men and won 27 to 25 two weeks ago but a lot of sting was taken from the defeat by the fact that a few weeks previous Krejci and his mates beat the Roamers 36 to 24. If the All-Stars play as good basketball against the Bowens as they did against the Roamers they should win. Their biggest problem will be to spike the guns of the Bowens big ace, Bob Meyer, whose long shots beat the All-Stars before. Captain Krejci probably will detail Caroski to hold Meyer down next Monday night and if Syl gets the job done the All-Stars should win. Meyer is the leading scorer in the Grand Island city league.

Besides their victory over Warner's Roamers the Ord team has defeated the Grand Island A. C., the Harvard Indians, the Ravens town team and the Blain Livestocks.

A good preliminary is being arranged for next Monday night, probably between the Andersen Camels and the Comstock town team.

On Trip to Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin E. Foth, who were married here on February 10 have enjoyed a wedding trip to Hastings, where they were visiting in the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Frank DeJung and family. Before her marriage Mrs. Foth was Miss Marie Kokes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Kokes of Eureka township. The groom, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Gust E. Foth of Mira Valley, is one of the county's progressive young farmers. The young people will make their home on the groom's farm three miles south of Ord and the Quiz joins with their friends in wishing them much happiness.

Miss LaVina Aldrich and Rotherwell Robl, both of Taylor, were quietly married at the Methodist parsonage last Saturday evening by Rev. W. H. Wright.

Bill Cohen and wife drove to St. Paul Sunday for a visit at the Gerald Cohen home. They returned home the same evening.

While in Lincoln Tuesday R. C. Bailey enjoyed a visit with his son, Arthur, who is a student at the state university.

Teacher's Red Hair Scared Them

When pretty Miss Edith Rankin came as a substitute teacher to a Chinese school in San Francisco recently all her little pupils were thrown into a panic at the sight of her red hair. They thought it was on fire. Here three of the kindergarten class are being shown by Miss Rankin that they're all wrong.

KREJCI ENTERS GAME IN SECOND HALF, ORD WINS

For the first few minutes of the game neither team scored but the Blains soon hit their stride and rolled long shots in from all over the floor. Jensen, Beeghly and Adams were playing such a great defensive game that short shots wouldn't work but that didn't faze the Blains at all.

The All-Stars counted thrice from the free throw line early in the first half but only two long counters by Jensen put them in the running. The period ended with the score 14 to 7 in the Blain team's favor.

Krejci had been sitting on the bench in his street clothes during the first half, getting more nervous and fidgety every minute. During the intermission he hobbled to the dressing room, called Dr. Lee Nay to tape his foot tightly and got into his basketball togs. He got onto the floor just as the half started, taking a forward position and leaving Adams at center.

Almost from the first play things began to happen. Joe secured the ball and looped a long one through, then followed it up a moment later with a short one. Other All-Stars soon hit a scoring stride and at the end of the third quarter the Ord team led, 17 to 14. And they stayed out in front the rest of the game.

The Blain team was roughing Krejci unmercifully and Anthony soon left the game with four personal fouls. A moment later Meves followed. By that time the Grand Islanders had shot their bolt, and it was just a question of how large the score became.

Beeghly came through with a pair of long field goals, Jensen contributed another, Adams and Caroski made short field goals and both scored from the free throw line, and Krejci made 11 points to give Ord 22 counters during the last half. In the same time the Blains could score but 6 points.

Beeghly and Jensen turned in far and away their best performance of the season. Besides guarding well high perfectly both entered into the scoring with abandon. Caroski, who went in when Krejci did, also played a wonderful game. Lashmett played well during the first half and Adams was a tower of defensive strength though

$1,282 Is Amount Raised, Which Was More Than Expected; Committee Reports.

Car of flour billed this week to American Red Cross care of J. M. Craig at Idabel, Okla. consisted of the following items: 1,562 43-lb. bags of flour 65 24-lb. bags of flour, part rye 68 45-lb. bags of Corn meal 6 10-lb. bags of Corn meal. 1,703 bags in car.

Total amount of money received by the committee—$1,281.73. Paid out to the Ord Milling Co., $1,126.97, and to the Elyria Flour Mill, $150.00. Total expended for flour, $1,276.97. Balance on hand to be turned over to Red Cross $4.76.

In addition to the money received there were 7 3/4 sacks of flour donated at the Ord Mill, in exchange for grain. There were 31 forty-eight pound bags and 6 twenty-four pound bags of flour and 2 ten pound bags of corn meal, donated and delivered to the car.

The list of those contributing to this car of flour is on file at the Nebraska State Bank of Ord, and may be examined by anyone wishing to do so.

All the incidental expenses, such as phone calls, etc. are being taken care of by the American Legion, so all of the money contributed went directly for relief work.

We, the committee, wish to thank all the collectors and committees, who helped with the canvass for this flour and we also wish to thank all those who so generously contributed.

Due to the contributions exceeding our expectations, it also was necessary to buy some corn meal at the rate of $1.00 per bag.

Gravel Near Ericson.

Prospectors have been busy at Ericson the past week but they weren't looking for gold. Gravel, of quality suitable for road work, is the magnet that has attracted contractors and others to Ericson. Several fine gravel beds have been located, one just off the Burlington right-of-way, close enough so that gravel can be pumped directly into cars for shipment. Gravel from these beds will be used on the Bartlett-Spalding and Greeley-Wolbach highways this summer.

Parks Catches Bass.

According to the Ericson Journal, bas aren't striking very much at Lake Ericson but at Skeeterhurst lake, a private lake owned by J. A. Parks of York, they are going wild this winter. Mr. Parks has made several good catches in 1931, his largest bass weighing 3 3/4 pounds. Lake Ericson is open all over the main body, the Journal says.

Quiz Reporter Is Guest At Public Speaking Banquet

By IRMA ELLIS LEGGETT

One of the nicest school visits I ever made was to visit the public speaking class Wednesday noon, as a guest at their luncheon. This class of 26 is now studying after dinner speeches, and under the tutelage of Miss Jean Nelson the class has been divided into four groups. Of these groups, one is chosen each day and that group does all the work. A menu is planned and half the class see that it is prepared and served promptly at eleven o'clock. The other half of the class compose the speakers who give the after dinner talks. Each dinner is planned around a theme all its own, and the same is carried out very thoroughly and completely throughout the year.

This luncheon, or perhaps I should say dinner, was a football banquet given by a school to welcome home their heroes after winning the championship. So the printed programs set before each place read as follows:

Football Banquet.

Program

Toastmaster ..... Roberts
Cooperation ..... Roberts
H. H. Cushing ..... H. H. Cushing
A Athletics ..... Worn
M Mentor ..... Coach Marshall
P Penalties ..... Welniak
S Success ..... Smith

On the opposite page:

Boys are allotted exactly the same treatment as girls in this class, so there were three boys, Bob Cushing, Harley Crouch and Wilson Bell who were serving, fitting to the kitchen, removing plates, overseeing the service, etc. The boys of the football team, the committee were Evelyn Coe, Geran, dine Beeghly, and Alvina Beran. The food was mostly provided by the mothers of the committee, Mrs. Kosmata making the delicious gelatin salad which was buried in transparency, topped apples, celery and red plums; Mrs. Cushing and Mrs. Coe making the tasty meat loaf; Mrs. Beeghly the tender and delicate hot rolls; Mrs. Bell furnishing the chocolate angel food, and I don't know who fixed the potatoes, but they were mashed, put back in the half shell and topped with cheese.

The speakers of the evening were the husky football players and successful warriors, each one making a brief talk. The unusual part was that they were all girls. Roberts, the toastmaster, honored Mrs. Roberts, who introduced each one with a little joke, after that old Spanish custom of toastmaster. The burly Roberts also made the speech on Cooperation, and its place in football and life. Next came Burson, personified by Carol Burson, whose remarks were in honor. Burson took each letter of the word, and told a characteristic needed to make honor.

The next huge footballer was Worden, little Helen Worden, and he subject of this talk was Athletics, and what they teach. As football coach, Wilbert Marshall, as the only boy speaker, told how very proud his team had made him by winning! After him Mary Welniak, another oversized player, told the penalties inflicted for several errors, and in every case life extracted penalties for the same things. Lastly Ella Mae Smith, called "Smithy" by her teammates, talked on success. These talks were good. The girls were self-possessed, calm and held the attention of the listeners well. Of course, like all except callous old hands, at after dinner speech-making, their appetites for the food beforehand were somewhat impaired. Coach Marshall also spoke well, and all the speakers told the tenets in the matter by liberally sprinkling jokes on one another in their speeches.

Monday the subject of the talks and the object of the dinner was to commemorate Byrd and his expedition. Today the banquet was a junior-senior and suitable trimmings were added. On Thursday noon Superintendent Bell was to be the guest of honor, and I do not know what plans had been made for Friday noon. But anyway, there was a real after-banquet flavor to the speeches, and I think the unique class would have to be called a great success. There was just one thing that puzzled me. . . . Miss Nelson didn't have a grade book with her to make little marks in, after each speech, or when a boyish waitress removed a plate!

Toughest of Old Hang-On Coughs Go

And Go Swiftly or Money Back—65 Cents a Bottle

Why send a boy to do man's work? Sweet, sugary cough syrups may help a simple cough, but when you are traveling along toward the cemetery with a stubborn tight old cough that lingers on and on with the most persistent devilishness then you need a real cough medicine—and the quickest destroyer of tough old weakening coughs is Bronchiline Emulsion.

The cough may be so tantalizing that you can't sleep nights and your days may be filled with racking torture, yet that's just the kind of a cough that Bronchiline likes to tackle and conquer.

Many times a few doses will stop the hacking and loosen things up and you can depend upon a bottle to make a two months' die-hard cough quit cold and disappear.

Life is sweet—it will be much sweeter when you get rid of that old time cough that wears you down.

Ask McLain & Sorensen or any wide-awake dealer anywhere for a 65 cent bottle of Bronchiline Emulsion. There's no dope in it—no chloroform, and three or four teaspoonfuls will usually end any ordinary cough—that's why results are guaranteed or money back by druggists everywhere.

DALE SUGGESTS CLUB BOYS BUY SOWS AT ONCE

Swine Clubs Organize Soon.
Many Members Expected
In Valley County.

Valley county boys and girls who plan to get into sow and litter 4-H clubs this spring should begin to look around for their sows in the advice given them today by County Agent Carl C. Dale, of Ord. Dale doesn't believe the problem of getting a sow should be hard to answer this year. Bred sow sales are in full swing and prices are reasonable. He does, however, urge club members to be careful in their selection of sows. It is impossible to get a perfect gilt or sow but club members can pick one that is rugged and healthy with plenty of size and smoothness.

The Ord man suggests that prospective club members try to avoid the short and chubby type as well as the type that are too leggy and shallow bodied. He believes it would be a good plan for the club member to look over the herd book and the sow from which the individual has been produced before buying.

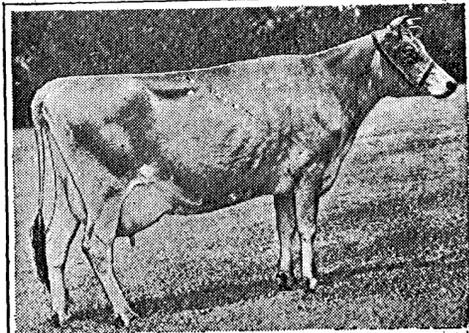

Valley county boys and girls are reminded that pig club work is an individual project and the club pigs should be kept separate. Any shed if handled under proper methods of sanitation, will serve as a farrowing pen. A corner of the alfalfa field makes an ideal place for the litter. Dale says the farther away from the old hog lots, the better off the sows and pigs will be.

Club records at the agricultural college show there were 1,732 boys and girls over the state enrolled in pig club work last year. Agent Dale reports a greater interest here than ever before. The county agent believes the club's output of work should receive time and consideration. Club tours offer opportunities to visit each member and to compare management methods. Judge and demonstration work offer outside activity after school is out and the warm weather comes, Dale suggests.

Older club members are being urged to enter the junior crop contest. To enter, a boy or girl must have six or more sows. The pigs are to be ear marked. Within seven days after the last litter is farrowed, the county agent or a disinterested farmer and the club member are to count all the sows and litters and see that the farrowing sheet is correctly filled out. Then within ten days before or after the pigs are six months old, a committee is to count the pigs again and determine the average weight.

Buy Two Prize Sows.
Two prize Chester White sows arrived in Ord by rail last Wednesday evening for Charley Urban. They came from the famous B. M. Boyer herd in Farmington, Ia. Mr. Urban has probably the largest Chester White herd in Valley county, numbering 150 at the present time. He has been constantly building up the line of his herd and in the past two years has imported champion boars from the J. W. Kemp herd of Hinton, Ia., and the LaDaux herd of Spirit Lake, Ia.

She's From Missouri, But—

By producing more butterfat than any junior two-year-old Jersey cow has ever produced in an official 305-day test recently, Observer's Queen, above, captured the world's championship of her breed with a record of 677 pounds of butterfat and 11,840 pounds of milk. She is owned by Longview Farm, Leo's Summit, Mo., and is the first Jersey in the state to win a world's production record.

Bee Keepers Will Meet February 25

O. S. BARE

Valley county bee keepers will come into their own on Wednesday, Febr. 25, when at 2 p. m. in the county court room at Ord a meeting will be held under the direction of O. S. Bare, state extension entomologist. At this meeting a county bee keepers association will be formed and according to County Agent Carl Dale it is planned to get Mr. Bare to return to Ord for a series of practical demonstrations during the summer months.

Many Valley county people keep a few stands of bees and several produce honey on a large scale. There is a constantly growing interest in honey production and the meeting next Wednesday probably will be largely attended.

Inspection of bee colonies is a big part of Entomologist Bare's work. During 1930, with the help of associate county directors, he inspected more than 5,000 colonies of bees throughout Nebraska, about 13 percent of which were found to be diseased. This is the important feature of the work and Mr. Bare plans to do more of it in 1931, since it is better organized and there are more funds available. With the organization of a Valley county association a local director probably will be appointed. It is not known who this will be but F. M. Vodehnal, one of the largest bee keepers of the county, has been prominently mentioned for the place.

VALLEY COUNTY WOMEN RECEIVE RECIPES WEEKLY

Listen To Mrs. True Homemaker And Her Programs.
Get Cards Each Week.

Nearly five thousand Nebraska housewives have written to the agricultural extension service since the fore part of December asking to be kept or placed on the mailing list for radio receipts. This number includes numerous Ord, North Loup and Arcadia women who anxiously await the coming of the cards each week through their local postoffices.

The 1931 list for homemakers totaling over 5,600 names has been sent a card each week. Each card gave the best recipes which Mrs. True Homemaker had broadcast in her morning periods in the University of Nebraska radio program.

About December first, the 5,600 women were asked to write in again if they wished to remain on the mailing list during 1931. The high percentage of replies indicate the popularity of the recipe cards, those in charge of the radio programs believe.

Mrs. True Homemaker appears regularly on the KPAB program through the University of Nebraska at each week. County Agent Dale of Ord believes local people enjoy listening to her talks and like to get her recipe cards. He believes the interest around her programs near Ord is increasing each year.

Any Valley county woman can be put on the mailing list for the Homemaker recipes by writing the agricultural college at Lincoln or by getting in touch with County Agent Dale at Ord. Dale will be glad to have Valley county women upon the mailing list. There is no cost to the project, he reminds Ord women.

ORD BOY WILL TRY FOR HIGH CLUB HONORS

Bill Garnick Applies For Scholarship. Active In Club Circles.

Bill Garnick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rock Garnick of Ord, is to try for the International Harvester scholarship, according to County Agent Dale. The local extension recently received the rules for the 4-H club contest and Garnick has signified his intention of trying for a scholarship valued at $500. A committee representing the extension service convened in Chicago and perfected the final plans for the rules during the latter part of this month. The offer was announced during the National Club Congress in Chicago late in December. It was at that time that Garnick first heard of the plans for the scholarship contest. He has been interested since.

The plan as approved permits each state club leader to submit the records of five outstanding 4-H club members. States having more than 1,000 individual club members completing are allowed to submit one additional entry for each 750 additional club members completing. Under this arrangement, Nebraska will have the privilege of nominating fifteen applicants for the scholarships. The Valley county boy may be one of the number to be nominated.

Each entrant must be qualified to matriculate on or before September, 1932, in a regular agricultural or home economics course. In addition their records must be approved by the state club leader.

The 4-H club members will be judged on a basis of 100 points. Thirty points will be given for the effort put forth by the member in his county. Twenty points are given for the results and accomplishments of the entrant in the worthwhile activities in connection with the project on the farm and in the home, club and community. Twenty points are given for the efficiency of the scholastic and leadership ability of the entrant while the remaining twenty points are for the development of the 4-H club member according to the ideals of training as to head, heart, hand, and health.

The Valley county 4-H club member has been active in club circles for the past few years. This past year he was a member of the national championship crop-judging team from Ord and was among the high individuals in the contest held at Chicago.

During the first few years of his club work, Bill has been engaged in pig club work but last year fed an Angus calf in the baby beef club. This year he is feeding two calves in the baby beef club. He is vice-president of the Big Six club.

The Ord boy graduates from the local high school this year. In school he has been active in scholastic and student activities. He was an outstanding football player on the Ord high eleven this fall. He is the most consistent ground game that Coach Joe Krejci had on his team.

In addition, Garnick has been on judging teams from the Smith-Hughes agricultural department in high school. He is active in agricultural circles under Jesse Kovanda, Smith-Hughes teacher.

CROSSING MAY PRODUCE GOOD FEEDER BEEVES

Gramlich Advises Ord Feeders.
Says Angus Sire May Work
All Right.

The use of a beef sire for crossing grade dairy cows may be a practical plan under some conditions. This is the advice given prominent livestock men living north of Ord by H. J. Gramlich, head of the animal husbandry department at the college of agriculture, Lincoln. They had written him about the plan and wanted his advice. Other Valley county feeders have been wondering about the advisability of the practice. The livestock producers writing Gramlich are noted for their records made in the sale ring and breeding activities.

"The farmer desiring information presented a problem which had been propounded many times during recent years," he told the Ord man. "The farmer has an abundance of pasture likes to be able to grow out the calves which his milk cows produce. The ruinously low prices paid for the dairy-colored steers have tended to discourage the growing of such animals."

Some of the farmers have inquired about the possibility of using an Aberdeen Angus bull on dairy cows. Gramlich believes the color and hornless characteristics of the Aberdeen Angus are very desirable and farmers will find most of the calves from the cross of a black color and polled. The college man says that while the calves might not be as low set as the Purebred Angus, they should develop into a very acceptable feeder steers. He says they would unquestionably bring much better prices than the calves that the grade cows might produce if mated to a Holstein sire.

BARLEY ACREAGE INCREASES HERE

More Planted Over State. New Varieties Causes Popularity.

"Nebraska has increased her barley production 300 percent since 1927," declared Paul Stewart, extension agronomist, at the agricultural college in Lincoln this morning. "Farmers grew some 750,000 acres in 1930. This increase has been brought about in a large degree by the distribution of smooth bearded sorts such as comfort, glabron, and velvet varieties." In accord with Stewart's remarks are the records of crop production in Valley county. They show that farmers near Ord, North Loup, Arcadia, and Elyria are planting more and more barley each year. A steady increase has been noted here since 1927 as over the state. Ord farmers believe the increasing importance of barley as a feed along with the decreased value of oats has caused the increased acreage. Improved varieties have brought a great deal, however is Agent Dale's belief.

The first smooth bearded variety to be grown extensively in Nebraska was in 1927. Comfort barley was distributed from the agricultural college at that time. The variety has proven popular and to some farmers the greatest variety promises to be even more general in growth, according to Stewart who is well known in Valley county.

The college man explains that the smooth-bearded varieties have been bred but they are smooth, the rough bearded varieties having been bred off. He believes it makes it much less disagreeable to handle than the common barley types. This is what Valley county farmers have found through experience.

Smooth bearded varieties, comfort and glabron, have also yielded some 20 percent more than the common 6-row barley. Velvet has even more disagreeable in the business than the stings, and far more disastrous.

Every bee keeper, whether he has one hive or 100 hives of whatever type or style should have his bees inspected at least once a year.

If upon inspection it is ascertained that you have no disease, fine and dandy. If on the other hand your bees prove to be diseased the inspector will be glad to instruct you just how to proceed to clean your hives up and in some cases will help you do so if requested.

The law allows 10 days for the cleaning up. If your hives happen to be box hives where the brood combs cannot be removed, the inspector will instruct you how to move your bees to standard hives (which you can make yourself, if you want to) with removable combs so the bees can be inspected.

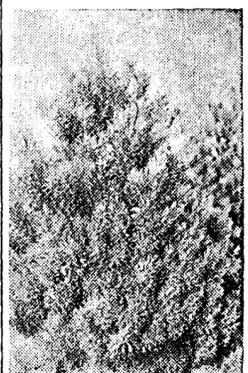

Whoever suspects disease among his bees should report the same to Mr. L. M. Gates, State Bee Inspector, State Department of Agriculture, Lincoln, Nebr.

And I know that Mr. Gates will treat you right.

It is against the law in this state to sell used bee equipment without having it inspected. Boys, lay off of the old hives at the public sales. To take them among your bees is the worst thing you can do.

Yes, it can be cleaned, but why take the chance. Generally you

Order Trees Now For Wind Breaks

The Austrian pine shown in the illustration is four years old and has been grown in the windbreak planted by Chris Latta of Minden on his farm in the high plains region of south central Nebraska. The tree was a little seedling about eight inches high when Mr. Latta planted it in the row. In the four years it has developed into a tree about five feet tall which any farmer should be proud to have near his farm buildings.

Mr. Latta planted both Scotch and Austrian pine in the double row north of his buildings. When the little bundle of trees came to him he prepared the land as directed in the extension circulars, planted the trees, watered them, and cultivated them the first two years to make them develop strong root systems deep in the ground. Since that time he has kept the rows mulched with straw about six inches deep.

Mr. Latta says he has enjoyed every minute that he has spent with his trees and that it has not been a great amount of work or bother to take care of them. He received the trees from the extension service of the agricultural college for one cent each. The trees were distributed under the Clarke-McNary act of Congress and the one cent per tree was used to cover the cost of counting and wrapping the bundle for shipment. Any farmer can get seedlings for his farm planting under the same provisions. Order blanks are available at the office of County Agent C. C. Dale at the court house in Ord.

QUIZ FORUM

To beekeepers in Valley county: There are some beekeepers in our country who fear the bee inspector more than anything else; in fact some are afraid of him more than they are of bee diseases, not excepting American Foul Brood. This is especially true of those who own only few hives of bees, or perhaps I should say boxes of bees, instead of hives.

So many bee keepers of the box hive class are under the impression that the inspector's chief mission is to pile up the box hives and set them on fire. Others think that the inspector is in cahoots with some hive manufacturer and is trying to make them use a hive of a certain kind.

Nothing could be farther from the truth and let me say right here that the inspection law, which was passed two years ago, does not specify what kind of a hive the bee keepers of Nebraska must use. In fact there are about as many types of hives in use as there ever were, and there is no law against it.

But the general trend is toward the mostly 10-frame. The standard hive is not patented and scores of manufacturers, and hundreds of bee keepers are making them.

All that the law requires as to the kind of hive to use is that it shall be constructed so that the brood combs can be removed and inspected for disease, chiefly American Foul Brood; which is even more disagreeable in the bee business than the stings, and far more disastrous.

Every bee keeper, whether he has one hive or 100 hives of whatever type or style should have his bees inspected at least once a year.

If upon inspection it is ascertained that you have no disease, fine and dandy. If on the other hand your bees prove to be diseased the inspector will be glad to instruct you just how to proceed to clean your hives up and in some cases will help you do so if requested.

The law allows 10 days for the cleaning up. If your hives happen to be box hives where the brood combs cannot be removed, the inspector will instruct you how to move your bees to standard hives (which you can make yourself, if you want to) with removable combs so the bees can be inspected.

Whoever suspects disease among his bees should report the same to Mr. L. M. Gates, State Bee Inspector, State Department of Agriculture, Lincoln, Nebr.

And I know that Mr. Gates will treat you right.

It is against the law in this state to sell used bee equipment without having it inspected. Boys, lay off of the old hives at the public sales. To take them among your bees is the worst thing you can do.

Yes, it can be cleaned, but why take the chance. Generally you pay for that old stuff all it is worth. If this doesn't land in Hank Leggett's waste basket, and if I don't get a good cursing from some one, I may write again and tell more about the bees and the American Foul Brood, and if Hank don't holler that I am wasting valuable space in his paper I will tell more about the new bee law that was passed two years ago.

And now, all of you bee keepers whether you have one box hive or a hundred modern ones, attend the bee keeper's meeting in Ord, Febr. 25, 2 p. m. at the court house. We will have with us Mr. O. S. Bare from the state college of agriculture who will talk to us about bees, inspection and American Foul Brood. Let's get together and get better acquainted.

F. M. Vodehnal

To the Editor of the Quiz:

Mr. Editor, I wish to say a few words this week to Quiz readers about our Valley county dairy herd improvement association and I wish to thank George Round, Jr., for the write-ups he has given us. A man out in Colorado who takes the Quiz read about our Jersey herd and the records they made in the association and his neighbor about it and the neighbor wrote to us. Now we are shipping him a dandy five weeks old bull calf that will advertise us in that part of Colorado. While Colorado is a beef cattle country there are some good dairy herds there also. We sold a bull calf out there a few years ago that went out there in a burlap sack in the back end of an auto. This one goes in state over the U. P. railway. His dam is one of our best cows that as a 3-year-old produced over 500 lbs. of butterfat in 310 days. His sire was the bull we got of A. J. Firkins of Nampa, Ida., whose dam is a gold medal cow with an official record of 777 lbs. fat for one year. So we are not ashamed to send this bull to our neighboring state to head one of its good herds. The calf's dam looks like she will be a 600-lb. butterfat cow this year if nothing happens to her. We only feed our common farm feeds. I expect we could make larger records if we fed a real dairyman should and milked 3 times a day as they do to make these big records. Times are hard and money scarce so we did not ask a long price for this bull, still we got as much as a big 2-year-old steer will bring on the Omaha market. All I am sorry about is that someone in Valley county did not buy him and help to improve our own dairy herds. Why milk a 200-lb. butterfat cow when it's just as easy to milk a 500-lb. cow? Butterfat is cheap, 22 cents Saturday, but with the 15 cent dividend it is still the best thing we have to sell and we get more for our feed when fed to the dairy cow than if it is sold any other way. Our tester, Carl Smith, shows on our herd book this year our feed cost was $39.30 and the product this feed made was worth $100, or for every dollar's worth of feed the cows paid $2.56. The butterfat was produced at a feed cost of 12¢ per lb. We have a 2-year-old heifer that just finished her 2-year-old record of 513 lbs. Ernest S. Coats Vinton Farmer

N. Y. Woman Lost 14 Pounds of Fat

One 85 Cent Bottle of Kruschen Salts Did It
"I am starting on my second bottle of Kruschen Salts and am real pleased with results. I take it for reducing and so far have lost 14 pounds and I think it is doing wonders for me. I do not feel as tired evenings when I get home from work."

A generous bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at McLain and Sorenson's or any drugstore in America—take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—that will help Kruschen take off your fat. Before the bottle is empty surplus fat is leaving you—indigestion changes to activity—you'll feel younger—eyes will brighten—step comes spry. Millions know it. Kruschen Salts is the ideal treatment for constipation, indigestion, headaches, nervousness, tiredness. Take Kruschen every morning—it's the little daily dose that does it. If not fully satisfied after the first bottle—money back.

Here it is!
The Tractor you've always wanted.

HERE, in the new Model "CC" Case, is a tractor that successfully combines a plowing and a cultivating tractor in one machine. It is the first tractor to offer a variable wheel spacing feature by which the rear wheels can be easily moved in or out, from standard 48-inch tread for plowing to various treads, up to 84 inches, for row crop planting and cultivating.

This is the tractor you've always wanted. It fits all your work... handles easily between the rows... swings around quickly... loses no time in turning... works rapidly because of three fast speeds and enables you to accomplish a lot of work in a day.

The Model "CC" is designed to work with two and four row planters and cultivators and is adapted to various equipment for every soil and for every row crop—flat, ridge and furrow.

Those who have seen this new tractor are loud in their praise of its many unusual features which, it is easy to see, will cut the cost of every farm operation. Come in and let's see what you think.

Popcorn Proving Drug On Market Ord Man States

Art Mensing Says Little Pop Corn Moving. Has Faith In Cattle Feeding.

In line with what other farmers have found to be true, Art Mensing of Ord is credited through an Omaha newspaper as saying that popcorn is pretty much of a drug upon the market in Valley county. Mensing recently shipped a mixed carload of cattle to Omaha, according to the dispatch. He says most of the popcorn which was not contracted is still in the hands of the producers and none of it is moving at any price.

Ten head of the Ord man's steers weighed an average of 952 pounds and cashed at $9.65 per hundred weight. Other odd cattle which made up the consignment consisting of cows, steers, and a bull, brought prices varying from $4.25 to $8.00.

The livestock which Mensing marketed was of his own raising and he still has lots of confidence in the industry. According to the Journal-Stockman, he says even at the present low prices it is more profitable to market a crop through cattle than to sell it as grain.

Corn is selling at about 39 cents a bushel in Ord. The crop was very good in the Mensing locality. Mr. Mensing plans on raising the cattle which he feeds and feeding out his crops. On land on which corn and alfalfa can be grown, a livestock program is the only one to follow, he maintains.

Mensing's statements about the advisability of feeding the grain to livestock and marketing it on foot rather than selling in the raw state. Another Valley county farmer, R. C. Jones, was a recent shipper to Omaha and he declared at the market that his corn returned him about 90 cents a bushel when sold as marketed livestock. Other farmers over the county have found the same to be true, according to the general consensus of opinion among those farmers living close to Ord.

As Relief Plane Sighted Marooned Fishermen

This is not a scene of a lost expedition in the Arctic but an aerial view of a group of fishermen just before their rescue on Lake Erie, where they were marooned on floating ice. The plane, sent out from Buffalo, N. Y., located the men and found crude signs "EATS" and "HELP" which they had formed on the ice with plike poles. After dropping a big can of steaming coffee by parachute, the pilot directed U. S. Coast Guard boats to the scene, where the rescue was effected. Note the canvas windbreak in the center, about which the men huddled.

MIRA VALLEY IS RICH IN OIL, IS PHILLIPS BELIEF

Four or five carloads of pipe will be shipped to Ord as soon as leasing operations are far enough along, Mr. Barefield states. Tools, derricks and a crew of expert drillers will come by truck. It has not been determined exactly where the test well will be located.

From other sources the Quiz learns that Mr. Barefield has made arrangements with a local abstracting company to make abstracts of title on seventy different pieces of land in Mira Valley, contingent upon his being able to lease this land. For this his company will pay nearly $3,000 in cash. It is reported, probably that another big company will be in Valley county leasing land within a few days was indicated Monday when the Ord representative of this company received a telegram from headquarters asking for all information available and stating that they would have men here within two weeks.

It is known that this company made a geological survey of Valley county two years ago and at that time it was rumored that he had made the statement that this region was a coming oil field.

—The Ben Madison family had only been out of quarantine a few days when Russell came down with small pox. He was vaccinated but evidently he had already contracted the disease.

—Nebraska Has Beauty Spot At Niobrara Reserve. A 500-acre reserve, located a short distance from Niobrara in Knox county, is one of the many valuable acquisitions to Nebraska-owned parks and playgrounds.

The tract, formed by the Niobrara river and what is said to be the old Mormon channel, is a well watered and timbered island. Several bayou springs on one part of the tract insure protection to game fish in severe winters. The waters in later years have been stocked with bass and they are reaching the interesting age.

Excellent cover is afforded game birds in the timber. Sixty wild turkeys were recently released on the tract. They have taken kindly to their new home and their calls can be heard echoing from the hills that surround the island. Quail, pheasants and timber squirrels are squatter residents. An employed caretaker looks after the fish and game and watches to see that no weapon stronger than a camera lens is used on the premises. The Game, Forestation and Parks Commission within the past few weeks planted 2,000 black bass, ranging from six to twelve inches in length, in the waters of the reserve.

The Niobrara reserve has the reputation for being one of Nature's finest beauty spots in Nebraska. A well maintained highway runs alongside the tract. Visitors will find pleasure in exploring the wild places and making close acquaintance with wild life. Citizens of Knox county through a united effort secured deeds to the land and presented the property free of all charges to the state of Nebraska as a public game reserve.

The reserve will call new attention to the delightful natural scenery to be found along what perhaps is Nebraska's most picturesque stream, the Niobrara river.

High School Will Present Operetta Wednesday, Feb. 25

The Ord high school has undertaken to give a Chinese operetta known as the China Shop. This clever Chinese operetta is by Arthur A. Penn, writer of "Yokohama Maid," "Lass of Limerick Town," "Captain Crossbones," "Maid of the Mill" and others. The plot of the China Shop centers around Pat Sing, a prosperous old merchant of the town of Ping Pong. How he tires of life and wealth, disappears and draws up a strange will makes an interesting story. Of course, Sing Fong his son is effected by his father's will. It also happens that several young ladies are also interested in this will and all wish to become orphans. Why they wish to become orphans can only be understood by seeing the show.

The comedy element is furnished largely by an American reformer named Juscot Karfair, the efforts of the three belles to land Sing Fong in their matrimonial nets, and by Mush Lush, a woman hater, also add to the comedy. Other characters are Bert Boone, Charles Tannyu, Donald Williamson, Juscot Karfair, Eldon Lukesh, Mush Lush, Julius Vala.

The chorus groups of shoppers and garden party guests are made up from boys and girls glee clubs.

Newlyweds Are Honored. There was a dance and wedding reception Friday evening in the Legion hall, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nelson, who were lately married. The latter was formerly Miss Fern Witt of Ericson. The hall was filled with people. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carikoski furnished the music. A very nice luncheon was served.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

When Bud Hughes moved away from a Valley county farm to Grand Island he decided to carry out his agricultural project anyway. To accommodate this he bought two hundred baby chicks during the latter part of July. They were kept in the back yard of his city home until they were ready for market. Then he sold them, and after deducting his cash expense he found that he had made a slight profit. His accounts read:

Production and sales.....	$78.35
Closing inventory.....	20
Total credits.....	$77.15
Beginning inventory.....	$12.70
Feed.....	24.80
Interest on investment.....	.38
Miscellaneous expense.....	.75
Total debits.....	$38.63
Labor Income.....	$38.52

They show that Bud had thirty-eight dollars to show for about three hundred hours of work. This left him no net profit for labor charges were deducted, but it gave him something constructive to do. Much of the labor was also performed at odd and leisure hours.

These are lean times for farmers who depend on poultry for their incomes. Many poultrymen are wondering what to do, and about the only course left open for them is to carry on. They cannot quit and move to town to join the growing ranks of unemployed. They cannot turn to any other farming enterprise that is more apt to be profitable. They cannot afford to let their poultry houses and brooder equipment remain idle or be sold for a song. Yet most of them will have to reduce their operations, and many will be scared or forced out of business.

All indications point toward a smaller pullet crop next fall. There is already a shortage of dressed poultry. The surplus of cold storage eggs cannot be carried over for another year. It seems, then, that poultry and egg prices will have to be somewhat higher next winter.

The Anton Adamek family stopped at the Stanley Petska home Sunday afternoon on their way home from Burwell where they had been visiting.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Beef Steers Open the Week Slow to a Quarter Lower
HOGS ACTIVE, HIGHER

Fat Lambs Slow to 10@15c Lower at $7.85@8.35. Feeder Lambs and Aged Sheep Unevenly Lower.

Union Stock Yards, Feb. 17, 1931—A liberal run of cattle Monday, 10,000 head, was responsible for a further weakening in the fat cattle market and prices ranged from steady to 15@25c lower than the close of last week. Cows and heifers and stockers and feeders shared in the general weakness.

Quotations on Cattle: Good to choice yearlings $9.25@11.00; fat to good yearlings $7.75@9.00; common to fair yearlings $6.50@7.75; trashy, warmed-up steer $5.50@6.50; good, choice hand, steers $9.25@11.00; good to choice heavy steers $9.00@10.25; fair to good steers $7.25@9.00; common to fair steers $6.00@7.25; good to choice stockers $7.75@8.75; fair to good stockers $6.50@7.75; common to fair stockers $5.50@6.50; trashy grades $5.00@5.50; good to choice feeders $7.50@8.50; fair to good feeders $6.50@7.50; common to fair feeders $5.50@6.50.

HOGS SELL 10@20c HIGHER
Twenty thousand fresh hogs arrived Monday but both local packers and other buyers had liberal orders to fill so the trade was lively at prices 10@20c higher than Saturday. The range of prices is wide, bulk of the trading being at a spread of $6.15@7.40 with best light weights at $7.50.

SHEEP AND LAMBS LOWER
With 13,000 fresh sheep and lambs Monday the market developed weakness and trade was slow at prices steady to 10@15c lower than the close of last week. Fat lambs sold at $7.75@8.35. Feeder lambs and aged sheep were also weak.

FAT LAMBS: Fed lambs, good to choice $8.00@8.35; fed lambs, fair to good $7.50@8.00; native lambs, good to choice $7.50@8.00; shorn lambs $7.50@8.00; cull lambs $4.00@7.00.

FEEDER LAMBS: Feeders, good to choice $7.50@8.00; feeders, fair to good $7.00@7.50.

EWES: Fat, good to choice $4.25@4.50; fat, fair to good $3.50@4.25; breeders, yearlings to four $4.00@5.50; cull and canner ewes $1.00@2.00.

A force of men have been at work seining Moon Lake in Brown county for carp, for the state commission. Recently, despite some trouble experienced with sand, the crew removed four tons of carp, and on another day they broke their record by landing better than a carload for the day. The carp are running smaller than in previous years.

CORN CLUB WILL PROVE POPULAR DALE DECLARES

National Champion Crops Team Help Dale. Three Clubs To Organize.

Valley county boys and girls desirous of getting into 4-H corn clubs for the coming year are being urged to get in touch with County Agent Dale in one as soon as possible. Dale said this morning that he believes the corn club work will prove popular this year.

It is highly probable that the achievement of the Valley county 4-H crops judging team in winning the national title while competing at Chicago will serve as an incentive for additional boys and girls to enroll this year. There was but one corn club in Valley county last year, that being led by Anthony Kokes of Ord who was a member of the championship corn club.

At least two and possibly three corn clubs will be organized this year over the county, according to Dale. Already Bill Garnick, also a member of the championship team, is preparing to lead the Ord corn club. It is highly possible that Harold Benn, the other team member, and Kokes will head separate clubs this year.

Each member of the corn club must care for and keep record on ten acres or more of corn during the year. All members are eligible to compete in the junior ten-acre corn yield contest. This year members of the Ord corn club competed in the statewide contest. More members are expected to try for high state producing honors this year.

It is County Agent Dale's hope to build another national crops judging championship team this year. Given the cooperation and help of his champion team members, it is possible that he may achieve his goal.

Though there was not a 4-H corn club in the Arcadia vicinity last year, Dale believes the prospects for the organization of a club are strong. H. F. Walkemeyer used to lead the Arcadia club and started ed corn clubs in that section of the county.

AGER SUGGESTS WORKABLE PLAN FOR PHEASANTS

Son of Former Ord Man Suggests Scheme That May Solve Problem; Farmer Gets 50c.

A plan for controlling the pheasant hunting problem has been suggested by Chester Ager, a son of J. H. Ager, who lived in Ord forty years ago. It is called to the attention of the Quiz by Representative Marjorie J. Cushing, and is reproduced in full below.

"I believe that if you will give this publicity it will get before the people of our county so that we can get some expression from them in regard to the matter," Mr. Cushing writes. "So far, this is just a suggestion as no bill has been introduced covering this matter, nor has the commission taken any action. It is being talked of and we would like to get the reaction of the farmers and of the sportsmen," he says.

The Ager plan appears workable to the Quiz and after reading it farmers and others should send their comment either to the Quiz or to Representative Cushing.

Mr. Ager's plan is as follows:

The Ager Plan.

"As much as we hate to admit it, the days of free hunting for upland birds are virtually over. The only upland bird we have an open season on in this state at present is the pheasant. The farmer has risen in protest. He feels that since he has harbored and fed these birds he is entitled to some consideration. He has had his fences broken down, stock and poultry killed and fire started by irresponsible hunters, (not sportsmen). Trespassers have gone upon his land without asking permission, cutting and breaking down trees and littering up his grounds. He was slow in making a protest but has finally lost patience. The result now, when our pheasant season is open the sportsmen are faced by "No Trespass" signs wherever he goes. If you happen to be lucky enough to know a few of the birds are plentiful you can usually get in, but the man who is unacquainted may travel up and down the highways and by-roads all day trying to find a place to shoot.

Hurlbert Infant Dies Suddenly

Della Rose, one year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hurlbert, passed away suddenly at 7 a. m. Monday from causes that remain unknown. The child had been ill for a couple of days and Sunday night Mr. and Mrs. Hurlbert were up all night with her. The next morning she seemed worse and Dr. C. C. Shepard was called but the child passed away within a short time. It is believed that Della Rose picked something up off the floor and ate it, producing a stomach disturbance that caused her death.

Funeral services were held at Bowls chapel Wednesday afternoon, Rev. W. McCarthy, having charge. Mrs. Jos. P. Barta, Mrs. A. S. Koppal and Mrs. J. W. Severns furnished music. Interment was in Ord cemetery.

John Sharp Guilty Of Driving While Drunk, Loses License

When he pleaded guilty in county court to a charge of driving a car while intoxicated, John R. Sharp, of North Loup, was fined $50 and costs and his driving license was revoked for one year by Judge J. H. Hollingshead. Sharp was taken into custody Saturday evening, after smashing into another car at North Loup. In all he paid $66.25 to gain his freedom.

Angry Cow Hurries Men To Steps Of Court House

A large red cow strolled nonchalantly down the paving on the south side of the square early Tuesday morning. Wes Dally, Ray Hunt and Deputy Sheriff Archie Keep were strolling across from Johnson's restaurant to the court house. The cow sighted the three strollers, put her head down, gave an angry bellow and charged them. These were the ingredients of an unusual spectacle furnished Ord people. Dally and Hunt ran for the court house steps and got a place of safety a few steps ahead of the cow. The deputy sheriff crouched behind a bush, hiding until the cow finished paving the earth and left. The animal was one of a herd being hauled by R. O. Hunter's trucks and escaped from a truck to make her sightseeing tour around the pavement.

Elyria-Ord Road Grading Contract In March Letting

Seven miles of grading on the Elyria-Ord highway was included in the $3,173,000 highway program to be let March 20 at Lincoln. The huge program includes ninety miles of paving in Nebraska. The longest stretch to be paved is between Lincoln and Beatrice, where 29 miles will be hard surfaced, and between Omaha and Auburn, where a 16 mile stretch is included. Contracts for fifty miles of paving will be let Friday of this week, so the season's activities will add 140 miles to hard surfaced roads in Nebraska.

Plan Special Service

A special service is being planned at the Methodist church Sunday evening. Several solos and duets will be sung, two readings will be given, and Rev. W. H. Wright will give a story-sermon on "The Friendly Road."

KREJCI HAS OFF NIGHT, ALL-STARS TAKE DRUBBING

Crippled Foot Handicaps Center As Bowen Drugs Defeat Ord Team For Second Time.

As Joe Krejci goes so go the Ord All-Stars. Monday was an off night for the big Ord center and the Bowen Drugs of Grand Island swept to an easy 27 to 15 victory, giving the All-Stars the worst drubbing they have suffered in two years. It was the second time this season that the Bowen Drugs beat the All-Stars, the first game ending 26 to 24 in their favor.

From the start Monday night it was apparent that unless a miracle occurred Ord was in for a beating. The Bowens started out strong and caged three field goals before Ord counted. Then Syl Carkoski entered the game and on the first play started the scoring for the All-Stars with a nifty field goal. He counted on a free throw a moment later and Joe Krejci scored to put the All-Stars in the running. The first half ended 8 to 5 in the Bowen team's favor.

For a few moments at the start of the second half Ord fans believed the miracle they were expecting had happened for the All-Stars immediately took the lead with a pair of field goals by Krejci and Blessing. But their belief in miracles was short lived for the Bowens started hitting the basket with regularity and soon had piled up a commanding lead which they increased as the half wore along. Ord never had a chance again.

The All-Stars gave their poorest performance in two seasons Monday night. Beeghly and Jensen were off form at guard and the Bowen forwards dribble through and around them. Neither participated in the scoring though Jensen tried many long shots. All of the Ord forwards were "off," though Blessing played a good floor game. The absence of "Fat" Adams may have had something to do with their poor showing.

For Grand Island Schafer and Nath were high scorers with Townsend playing an excellent game at guard.

A preliminary game was played between Anderson's Camels and Comstock, the Camels winning 18 to 8. Ross Blessing looked best for the Camels in the first half and Swede Carlson and Floyd McLain showed to advantage in the second. Others playing with the Camels were Gifford, Christensen and Andersen. The Comstock lineup included A. Bartu, J. Bartu, Meyers, Piersoll, Stone, Gilmore and Brecken.

The Ord All-Stars aren't satisfied yet that the Bowen Drugs are the better team and for the sake of getting another shot at them may enter the town team tournament to be held at Grand Island in March.

QUIZ TO SEND CHAMP SPELLER TO STATE BEE

Arrangements Made For Valley County Representative To Enter World-Herald Contest.

The champion speller of grade schools in Valley county will win a trip to Omaha this spring, with all expenses for self and companion paid by the Ord Quiz, and will also win the right to participate in the Nebraska spelling contest sponsored annually by the Omaha World-Herald, the winner of which is sent to the national contest at Washington, D. C., with all expenses paid by the big Omaha daily.

Each spring an annual contest is held for school children of Valley county but never before has a local representative competed in the state contest at Omaha. Sending the champion Valley county speller to Omaha this year is made possible through the co-operation of the Quiz.

The official Valley county contest will be held on Friday, April 3, Miss McClatchey announces. Two students will represent each school in the county and prizes will be awarded as in the past to the first and second winners in both oral and written contests. Three honorable mention awards will be made in each class.

Then, on Friday, April 17, the ten students winning in the Valley county contest will engage in an oral contest to determine the student who shall represent the county in the World-Herald's big state bee. The boy or girl who wins this contest will be sent to Omaha by the Quiz with all expenses paid. The Quiz also will pay the expenses of the student's mother or other chaperone.

The local spelling bee April 3 will be held at the Ord high school auditorium, Miss McClatchey says, and the place for the contest April 17 will be announced later. Eaton's standard speller will be used in both contests.

More particulars about these spelling bees will be available by next week.

Chester Weekes Gets Job With Farm Board

Chester Weekes, of Florida, a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Weekes, of Ord, has been made manager of the United States farm board's department at Baltimore, Md., his father was informed this week. Chester was called to Washington from Florida last week and the position offered to him. He accepted and the appointment was made immediately.

Actress Almost Cast To Play "Lincoln"

Lucille La Verge, one of America's most versatile actresses, who started London recently with her bewhiskered portrayal of Shakespeare's "Shylock" adds another distinctive part to her varied characterizations with her role in "Abraham Lincoln," D. W. Griffith's all-dialogue production for United Artists, showing at the Ord theatre Friday and Saturday.

Miss La Verge first made up her mind to play in the picture a month prior to actual filming when she cabled from London requesting that Griffith consider her candidacy for the role of Lincoln, but Walter Huston was selected for the title role and Miss La Verne was signed instead for an important supporting part.

The cast of "Abraham Lincoln" includes 112 of the stage and screen's greatest character players headed by Walter Huston, Kay Hammond, Una Merkel, Ian Keith, Jason Roberts, Hobart Bosworth and Frank Campeau.

Joe Karty Buys Sershen Hardware

Joe Karty is the new owner of the Sershen hardware, having completed a deal this week to purchase it from Frank Sershen. He will take possession as soon as an inventory is completed and Messrs. Sershen, Karty and a couple of assistants are working on this task now.

Mr. Karty is no stranger in Ord hardware circles. For several years he was employed in the L. V. Kokes store, leaving to enter the implement business in partnership with Will Kokes. Later he went into the hardware business at Loup City. Now he returns to Ord as owner of the Sershen store. He has already moved his family here.

Frank Sershen says that he will find enough to do since selling his store. He retains ownership of the building in which the store is located and plans to paint the building this spring. He will also do some painting and repairing at his residence on North 19th street, and plans to take a vacation later.

Ord Masons Take Degree at Hastings

More than 600 were present at a Masonic meeting in Hastings Monday night when the Colonial third degree was given to several candidates. A number of Ord members attended, among them being George Work, Bert Boquet, Bert M. Hardbrook, Frank Johnson, Henry Benn, Mark Tolen, J. E. Sharp and Fritz Kuehl, Jr.

The names of three teachers elected by the board of education of Ord on February 16 were omitted from the list in last week's Quiz through an oversight. The three are Lucy Rowbal, of the 4th grade; Mae Baird, who teaches home economics in the high school, and Elizabeth Lukesh, of the Junior high. All three were elected for next year.

COMMERCE BODY DIRECTORS WILL MEET TONIGHT

President VanDecar Says Several Important Matters To Come Up; Members Invited.

According to notices sent out this week by H. B. VanDecar, president of the Chamber of Commerce, directors of that organization will hold their regular monthly meeting tonight at the C. of C. rooms. The meeting will be called to order promptly at 7:30 o'clock, Mr. VanDecar says, as there are several important matters for discussion.

It has been suggested that the chamber sponsor a yard and garden contest this spring and summer, the aim being to make Ord a more beautiful and inviting city. Several members also have suggested the advisability of having a new survey made on a hot spot. The possibility of bringing a new canning factory to Ord has also been suggested.

The city mail delivery, the Ord-Burwell highway and graveling of the road between Scotia and Elba also will be reported on at this meeting. Chairmen of various committees are requested to make reports.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce are C. A. Hager, George Work, Wm. Heuck, E. C. Leggett, C. J. Mortensen, John Goddard and H. T. Frazier. The officers, Mr. VanDecar, Ed Seyler, Glen D. Auble and John J. Allen, also form part of the official body.

Chamber of Commerce members who have matters to present are urged to attend this meeting. Any suggestions for the betterment of Ord will be heartily welcomed.

13 Criminal Cases Already This Year; New Record Looms

Thirteen criminal cases were filed in county court here during the first seven weeks of 1931. Judge J. H. Hollingshead tells the Quiz. This is about one-third of the number usually filed in an entire year and unless Valley county people mend their ways a new record for criminal cases is in sight.

Ten of the criminal charges filed so far have been for violations of the liquor laws. Judge Hollingshead has revoked the drivers' licenses of three men found guilty of driving while intoxicated.

Fined on Liquor Charge.

Joe Klat, who was arrested last Wednesday evening, was fined $15 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication in county court the next morning. He paid the fine and gained his release.

New Carrier Tables At Ord Postoffice

Two new tables for city mail carriers were received this week and have been installed at the Ord postoffice in preparation for free city delivery, which starts April 1. The postoffice department this week issued a call for candidates for carriers jobs to take the civil service examination. The position as regular carrier pays $1,700 per year and substitute carriers are paid 65c per hour. Application blanks may be secured from Postmaster Edwin Clements.

Last Home Cage Game.

Coach Joe Krejci's Ord high school cagers are playing their last home game of the season against the Sargent team Friday evening. Next week the Ord boys play a district tournament at Grand Island.

MUSIC STUDENTS MAKE HIT WITH 'THE CHINA SHOP'

Operetta Presented Last Evening To Appreciative Audience At High School Auditorium.

A very appreciative audience enjoyed the musical play, "The China Shop," a two act operetta, Wednesday evening at the high school auditorium, considering the singers well placed and the director, Miss Elva Bloodgood, to have done more than well. Rodney Stoltz as the merchant prince, Fat Sing, had an important role, and so did his son, played by Wilson Bell. Virginia VanDecar as Lotus Blossom, the poor orphan girl, had a leading part. Then Bert Boquet as Wun Tun and Julius Vala as the woman hater were suitably garbed in their parts. Charles Shepard made a successful secretary, Donald Williamson enacted the fisherman Will and Eldon Lukesh made a superlative reformer.

The three little belles, Ting-ling, Ding-Dong and Ping-Ping, sang about themselves very prettily. Mae Williams, Thelma Palmatter and Marthamie Bara. Their chaperone, Evelyn Haught, also pleased the audience. Virginia VanDecar carried off her solos with an air, her soprano reflecting the benefits of Miss Bloodgood's training. Sing Fong, also had a good voice, and in fact the entire cast more than delighted the spectators and auditors.

The three choruses revealed the time and careful attention paid them by their instructor, and the entire show, beginning with the garden scene before the shop, and the scene in the second act which takes place in the garden of the chief magistrate proved to be well rehearsed.

Mr. Toenniges and his orchestra provided music between times, and Miss Hardin assisted with the costumes and general arrangements. Miss Edythe Mason and James Milliken were the accompanists chosen for the occasion.

It has been suggested that the chamber sponsor a yard and garden contest this spring and summer, the aim being to make Ord a more beautiful and inviting city. Several members also have suggested the advisability of having a new survey made on a hot spot. The possibility of bringing a new canning factory to Ord has also been suggested.

Leach Tries Make Get-Away; Faces Forgery Charges

When released from county jail here Tuesday to sell his truck and thus secure money to make good several forged checks with which he defrauded Ord merchants, Leand Leach, of Morrill, Nebr. tried to make his get-away. As a result he now faces charges of forgery that may land him in the penitentiary.

Leach has been held by Valley county officers on suspicion of forgery since early last week. He had almost succeeded in convincing County Attorney George Munn that he was innocent when word came from Wyoming that he was wanted there for removing mortgaged property. About that time Bill Zikmund appeared and offered to buy Leach's truck and Leach offered to make good the no-fund checks that he had scattered around town with the proceeds.

The young man has been hauling gravel at Ericson and his bill of sale for the truck was in his room there, he said, so officers allowed him to drive the truck to Ericson, accompanied by Mr. Zikmund, to get the missing papers. They completed the errand and were on the way back when Leach pretended to discover that the truck was out of water. He induced Zikmund to go to a near-by well for water and while Zikmund was gone he started the truck and left.

Deputy Sheriff Archie Keep was notified promptly and started forth to search for young Leach. He found him within a short time as the truck was out of gasoline.

Wednesday County Attorney Munn filed charges of forgery against Leach and the young man waived preliminary hearing. He will appear in district court today and if he pleads guilty will be sentenced at once by Judge E. P. Clements.

PHILLIPS MAN STILL BELIEVES IN MIRA VALLEY

Optimistic That He Can Get Leases And Promises Drill Oil Well Within A Short Time.

Mira valley has the best geological indications that oil exists beneath the surface of any region in Nebraska, is the statement made to the Quiz yesterday by J. D. Barefield, of the Phillips Oil & Gas company, who is in Ord trying to lease 36,000 acres of land preparatory to sinking a 4,500 foot well at a cost of $100,000 or more. He is confident that oil will be discovered in Mira valley, Mr. Barefield says.

Absent from the city for several days, the oil man returned yesterday still optimistic that he can secure the necessary acreage here. "Mira valley people have everything to gain and nothing to lose by leasing their land to us," he says.

The Phillips concern has already deposited a contract in escrow at the Nebraska State bank, guaranteeing to commence drilling in Mira valley within nine months providing the necessary acreage can be secured. To show the sincerity of his company, Mr. Barefield now offers to deposit all leases in escrow at the same bank or any other bank until his company has its drilling rig on the ground and ready to commence operations.

The Phillips Oil & Gas company is a firm of drilling contractors operating mostly heretofore in Kansas and Oklahoma. They have just completed a well south of Ellis, Kas., Mr. Barefield states, and now want to open up a new territory where geology indicates that oil is present.

They have decided on the Mira valley region because outcropping rock formations there are the same as in oil regions of Montana and Wyoming. Four distinct rock formations that have been proved oil producers in other regions occur in Mira Valley, he says, and his company is willing to gamble $100,000 or more that they will find oil here.

His company has plenty of financial backing, Mr. Barefield states. The venture here is not a stock selling scheme in other regions occur in Mira Valley, he says, and his company is willing to gamble $100,000 or more that they will find oil here.

The lease he is asking Mira Valley people to sign is the standard "form 88" lease. It provides one-eighth royalty to the owner whose land oil is found. The escrow agreement he has deposited in the Nebraska State bank cancels all leases if the Phillips company he asserts.

Bee Keepers Form County Organization

Fourteen Valley county beekeepers met at the district court room Wednesday afternoon with O. S. Bare, entomologist from the agricultural college, and perfected the organization of a Valley county beekeepers association. Frank Vodehnal was elected president, pos. Waldmann vice president and E. E. Williams secretary-treasurer. The organization will hold another meeting March 28.

Four demonstrations will be held during the year at the home of the president, it was decided. The first one will come late in April or early in May and others will follow during the summer months.

The primary purpose of such organizations is to combat American foul brood and other bee diseases and thus produce a better quality of honey.

Coyote Hunt Postponed.

Because of the rain the coyote hunt scheduled for last Sunday was postponed and will be held this coming Sunday, following the same plan as outlined in last week's Quiz.

Olsen May Build Artificial Ice Plant In Ord

City officials received letters last week from Olaf Olsen, now of Omaha, indicating that he plans to build an artificial ice plant in Ord this spring. He asked questions regarding electric service in Ord and stated that he planned to ship ice making machinery here at once.

Olaf is a former Ord boy and is the son of Ored Olsen of this city. He attended high school here and later graduated in engineering from the University of Nebraska. For several years he has been employed by the Baker Ice Machine Co., and was stationed at Fort Worth, Tex., and Omaha.

Mr. Olsen and his enterprise will be welcomed to Ord business circles.

NORTH LOUP DEPARTMENT

MRS. FRED BARTZ, Reporter

The P. T. A. program sponsored by the Board of Education deserved a much larger audience than was present last Tuesday evening at the high school auditorium. Preceding the interesting and instructive address by J. A. Kovanda of the department of agriculture in the Ord schools, Mrs. L. O. Green played the piano selection "The Rustle of Spring." Sterling Manchester with a musical saw rendered "In An Old Rocking Chair" with Mr. LeBar at the piano. The reading "How Ruby Played," was very ably rendered by Frank Johnson, and was followed by an encore. Mrs. Green played as the closing number "Mesa of Flowers." Mr. Kovanda in his address on vocational agriculture, spoke most favorably on the suitability of such a course in our North Loup schools, the country around being especially adapted for such. He says it is one of the least expensive and most practical courses Mr. Kovanda conducts night schools in the various communities free of charge. Mrs. Hemphill was chairman of the evening's program. A lunch served by our teachers with Mrs. Morrison as chairman was enjoyed at the close. The bake sale sponsored by the ladies of the Fortnightly club Friday netted $13.25. This sum will be used for Red Cross local work. Mrs. Nora Kidlow with assistant hostesses Mrs. Mary Theila and Mrs. Anna Grandall entertained about thirty ladies at the February Aid tea on Wednesday afternoon of last week. Plans were perfected for the Washington church supper on Monday evening, also the aid voted to entertain at dinner the ladies of the Inter-County Federation which is to convene in North Loup on March 26. A short program was rendered consisting of a vocal solo by Mrs. Genevieve Hoepfner and a piano solo rendered by Mrs. Ruth Hutchins. Both numbers were much enjoyed. As usual lunch was served at the close.

The following teachers were re-elected by the Board of Education Monday evening Feb. 16: Marjorie Theila, 1st Primary; Velma Peterson, 2nd Primary; Alice Meyers, Intermediate, and Alice Kissinger, Grammar, also Supt. L. O. Green and Mr. Bailey of the high school faculty.

One important problem dealing with sanitation and tidiness has been solved for our village for the present year at least. It is that a trash ground has been secured, located at the Steve Parks place about 2 miles north of town. And now it is up to every resident to have all refuse disposed of and thus make our little city a place of beauty and a joy forever.

The King's Heralds enjoyed another meeting at the home of their leader Miss Maud Thomas on Saturday afternoon. Devotions and the lesson were along missionary lines. As usual a dainty lunch was served. Nine members were present.

The old gentleman had spent each winter for the past 30 years at Winter Haven. The remainder of the time being lived at his home in Grand Ridge, near Streeter, which is about 80 miles from Chicago. They also visited an uncle of Mrs. Pet-erson's at Streeter who at present is confined in a hospital at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Westberg and Mr. and Mrs. Ira Patterson and little son Gordon visited in Ord Tuesday. Mrs. George Bartz and little daughter Lelia returned Saturday evening from a visit with relatives in Omaha and Schuyler.

Mrs. Will Kildow accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Goodrich to Lincoln Saturday afternoon where she visited with her daughter Lois, a student in Wesleyan. The Goodrichs visited with the Harold Goodrich family and on Sunday they motored to Omaha for a visit with another brother Ren and family who have been Omaha residents for a number of years.

Miss Mabel Lee motored to Ord Saturday afternoon to do some shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Knapp were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. Knapp's people.

Irene and Donald Baker of Riverdale were Saturday afternoon callers at the Fred Bartz home. Miss Yelma Peterson accompanied Miss Alice Meyers to her home at Polk over the week end.

Mrs. Frank Allard and sons of Litchfield were week end guests of their relatives, the Eugene Brown family of Riverdale.

Miss Grace Rich was the guest of Mrs. Edith Bartz a few days last week.

Dr. and Mrs. Dallam and children were week end guests of Mrs. Dallam's people at Brunswick.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schudel and little son are enroute home from California where they have spent the past two months.

Mrs. Westberg returned from the Leland Stillman home Monday afternoon where she has been caring for the fine new boy who was born to them on Tuesday, Feb. 17. He has been named Gordon Eugene.

Two interesting basketball games were played in the high school gym. Wednesday evening when the team of Andersen's Grocery met the North Loup town team and our high school boys played against the Farwell boys, the result being a defeat for the North Loup boys in both games, though both teams showed good playing. North Loup players were Schaffner—Captain, Sheldon, Fuller, Vodehnal, Earnest, Williams, Hill, Cox, Jeffries and Coach Bailey who was forced to resign after injuring a knee.

In the high school game the boys playing against Farwell were Sayre, Babcock, Jeffries, Sample and Paddock playing their usual positions for the entire game. Sayre was high point man, scoring nine points. The game was refereed by Sorenson of Elba.

FORD COMFORT

Every new Ford is equipped with four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers

ONE of the fine things about driving the new Ford is the way it takes you over the miles without strain or fatigue. No matter how long the trip, you know it will bring you safely, quickly, comfortably to the journey's end.

The seats are generously wide, deeply cushioned and carefully designed to conform to the curves of the body. Every new Ford has specially designed springs and four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers. These work both ways — up and down. They absorb the force of road shocks and also provide a cushion against the rebound of the springs.

Other features that make the new Ford a value far above the price are the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, silent, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, more than twenty ball and roller bearings, extensive use of fine steel forgings, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, Rustless Steel and unusual accuracy in manufacturing.

In addition, you save many dollars because of the low first cost of the new Ford, low cost of operation and up-keep, and low yearly depreciation.

LOW PRICES OF FORD CARS
$430 to $630

F. O. B. Detroit, plus freight and delivery. Bumpers and spare tire extra at small cost. You can buy a Ford for a small down payment on a convenient financing plan. See your Ford dealer for details.

My Own Column

I was talking with a former merchant in town within the present trade radius of Ord but outside the county. By the way, the trade radius of Ord is now well over 50 miles in most directions. This former business man said he was mighty glad he was not now in business, for, said he, "Ord stores carry splendid stocks priced right." And he added, "People can go to Ord and find just as good and complete stocks and just as attractive prices as they can at Grand Island and other towns much larger than Ord is!" Asked what other things he thought Ord had that other towns in the Ord trade radius didn't have, he replied, "Well, Ord has several things, one of the foremost being the splendid Saturday sale; another is the market for cream and other produce and another is the seed and popcorn market when there is a market anywhere for those things." Then he mentioned Marks & Son and Johnson and Peterson who have made Ord an attractive market for all of 50 miles in all directions for years. I sometimes wonder if we business people realize what a really wonderful market town Ord really is. I believe if anyone who thinks Ord is not ahead of all its trade competitors in this Loup valley will visit the other towns and make a few inquiries, they will speedily be convinced. A man came from Omaha one day within the week to buy a monument from Walt Desch and he said he could get a finer quality of work in that line here for less money than he could any place he had been. The new picture show is one of the greatest assets Ord ever acquired and night after night it is drawing from many surrounding towns and the show management in those towns feel the drain and say so frankly. It is too bad this has to be, too bad for the other fellow but business these days is a survival of the fittest. The fellow who gives the best service and the best goods for the money is bound to get the business. Distance up to a hundred miles is of small moment and fifty miles is not thought of. Ord can, if it will, have most of the business in a radius of 25 miles and just think what a lot of business that would be. With improved roads the farmer or town man within 25 miles of Ord can be here in 30 minutes with the expenditure of 25 cents worth of gas and oil and if they want a very few dollars worth of any kind of goods they can save the cost of coming and have a nice profit left over. Let us try to realize and appreciate the many blessings we have in Ord and then let's boost to bring as great an amount of trade here as possible.

For the first time in a number of years I was forced to forego the pleasure of attending the annual meeting of the State Press Association which was held at Lincoln last week.

There are a good many Quiz subscribers who have not yet come out for their recipe calendar. We will have plenty of the calendars and we want everyone to have one. Send 5c if you want it mailed or come in and get one. And we do want every Quiz reader to send in a few favorite recipes. That is the only way we can keep that department going.

The Quiz classified columns get results. If you have got something to sell or want to buy something, your purpose can be accomplished, probably for two bits by making known your desires through the classified columns in this paper.

Pretty soon Dr. Condra is coming to Ord to talk about irrigation. We all want to find out all we can about irrigation, whether well irrigation is practical for this valley, from what depth it is profitable and practical to pump the water out of a well. So far there has been no well sunk in this vicinity to test the matter. It has been demonstrated that river pumping is practical but comparatively few can do that. With those who could, if they would, irrigate from the river and creeks and with a few wells scattered around Ord from which to irrigate, enough land could be watered to supply a canning factory if such a factory is deemed a good thing for the community. Of course I don't presume to say that it would be a good thing for I don't know. No doubt it would be easy to get hold of someone who would know, to tell us all about it.

We do know that the creamery is a good thing. We are told that what are known as killing plants for handling poultry are a good thing in other towns and I presume the creamery will eventually be installed such a plant in connection with its cream business. Poultry raisers know that when it is possible to bring in a poultry car and load it, they get a few cents more for their produce. It is claimed that when the poultry is shipped all dressed another few cents is added to the producers pocket. The marketing of the farmers produce is a serious problem. What the farmer gets and what the consumer pays, well, the spread is too great. Not that, as a rule, any one person in between gets an unreasonable profit but there are too many small profits all along the line and it seems to me co-operative methods can and will have to, eventually, eliminate some of this expense if the producer is to make a living and a little more.

No matter who you are or where, I will be glad to have your daily paper subscription or renewal. It doesn't cost you any more and it saves you a little money.

SLAT'S DIARY

Friday—well ma and pa including me went down to see Mrs. Slikk this evening which is a couple months ago and she was showing a lot of pitchers to us 3 and finely we cum to I wish none of us and figger out o'ley pa and me was sure it was a pitcher of the Mountens and lakes and rivers and ect. In Southern China but Mrs. Slikk finely told us it was a X ray pitcher of her husbands stumck witch he had tuk before he died, wie he was still under the Dr's care.

Saturday—ma was at a bridge party this p. m. so me and pa past the time away at home and long about 4 a clock why pa give me 20 cts and sed to go down to the restaurant and get each a ham sand witch so I went down and they onley had enuff ham for 1 sand witch so pa had to go without. so I give him back his 1/2 the price.

Sunday—well Mr. Shock witch is the supt. of the skool and is very absent minded ma says was called to the telephone and they told him that down at the hospite his wife had a nice little boy and girl. He was busy working a problem so he told the nurse he wood take the boy and hung up the telephone.

Munday—the teacher ast us what was the principle thing that water was usefull for and Bisters sed it was used mostly for making oshens and lakes and rivers and etc.

Tuesday—well we entended going to the show tonite and just before we was ready to start to the show why a lot of Co. drops in and we had to stay home. I wish Co. wood come erlier in the evning and not wait intill I had my face wash-ed and also my teeth and ery thing. For show perpeses.

Merry mix are meeting today at a covered dish luncheon in the home of Mrs. John Mason.

Something DIFFERENT

Life insurance companies advise a yearly physical examination, but very few people take this precaution. If they did, they would probably live longer. But there is one well known Ord-er who does, and what is more conservatively follows to the letter the exact orders his doctor gives him!

Several years ago the yearly examination disclosed a slight tendency to be diabetic, the doctor duly advised this citizen that he must be careful and not eat so many pies, cakes and so much dessert.

The next year brought another examination, and the doctor was amazed to learn that the man now had a tendency in the other direction, and was not eating enough sweet foods! So the pendulum had gone to the other extreme! And the Ord fellow was told to eat some dessert, but not to go to either extreme, neither to omit desserts nor to eat them consistently.

Came another physical exam time, and again the local resident sought his doctor. And waited for the verdict. And was told he was strictly normal, just as he should be!

If you have a dollar in your sock, dig it out and use it. When prices are low it is the logical time to buy and to invest if you can do so. The time to remodel, to build, to spend your money.

Not only because your dollar will buy more, and will go farther for you, but also because it will put another fellow to work! So plan to finish the attic, to add that room; to have that partition put in the basement or to have your lawn dug up and re-seeded this spring. Now is the time.

Shortly the Quiz is going to startle the entire world by appearing in the loudest, the gaudiest, the gayest, maddest of bright red smocks! Prepare for a big shock when you see the Quiz workers so adorned.

Once upon a time there was a red-headed fella and he wouldn't let his girl appear in even a touch of red, when he was around. The sensitive little violet! Good thing there are no strawberry-tops in the Quiz!

Since the monstrous footprint was located in back of McLain & Sorensen's store, everyone has jumped Carl about it, just because poor Carl is unfortunate enough to be unable to put on a size eight or nine shoe.

Carl stood it and grinned, and finally revealed that he wasn't afraid, because even bloodhounds can't track him! And told how when he and Mina were married a number of people thought it necessary to charivari them. But Carl and Mina had other ideas!

In a borrowed car they eluded their eager trackers, who promptly borrowed a bloodhound and prepared to trail the newly-wedded Sorensens. The fugitives shook in their boots for a while, but at last relaxed when the bloodhound decided he could make nothing of it, and gave the whole deal up for a bad job!

This column is turning definitely red this week; but did you know Ord has four men who are identified as "Red, the Barber"?

If Frank Dworak keeps on, he is going to make a darned good-looking place out of Mrs. Weaver's old home. People-who-have-left-Ord, you wouldn't know the old place now! It has been moved back toward the alley and put on a foundation over a furnace and cellar, is having its face lifted on the east with a fashionably low-swooping roof and small porch, a couple of dormers form panthers on the roof; and lastly and also new-fashionably, the garage is under the same roof, on the alley side, and all over and about the roof slopes so gracefully. You ought to see it! And only one big tree was sacrificed, to date.

And ain't that somepin'! Frost is nearly out of the ground. Any Nebraskan who goes to California to find charming weather this winter just likes to travel. Another winter like this and all the Ex-Nebraskans will be moving back!

I started to say that the frost is out of the ground. Ed Finley and Pete Tennent who goes to California to find charming weather this winter just likes to travel. Another winter like this and all the Ex-Nebraskans will be moving back!

Just because it isn't one of the main arteries of travel in Ord, don't think I like it when some of Ord's speed demons take the opportunity to whiz past our palatial residence just after I have dusted! Some of these days I will get actually riled, and then I'll go out and put a tack in the gravel! Cursis on 'em!

When You and I Were Young, Maggie

Twenty-five Years Ago. Joe Pecenka and Mrs. Alva Rockhold carried off honors as the best masked gentleman and lady at a ball at the Bohemian hall.

Alvin Blessing received his commission as postmaster of Ord. Jay Auble purchased a jewelry store at Brayton.

James Rybin and Mary Novotney were married by Judge Gudmundsen.

Dr. Billings and his automobile came to grief. Something went wrong and John Stafford was unable to fix it so the doctor decided to order a new engine for the car.

Diphtheria At Grand Island. Dr. Frank Ryder, Grand Island school physician, announced Saturday that over 2,100 school children of the junior high and grade schools of that city have been inoculated with toxin-antitoxin against diphtheria. Several cases of the disease have been reported in Grand Island.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

A new recipe for meat loaf is always interesting. It seems someone discovers something new in this line nearly every day. Try this recipe on your family tomorrow, and you'll have a new dish to delight company with the next time it is necessary to rack your brain for something different and dependably good!

Meat Loaf. 2 lbs. ground beef 1/2 lb. ground pork or the same amount of hamburger (2 1/2 lbs.) 1 onion grated 1 c. thick cream sauce or gravy, or 2 eggs 1 c. dry bread or cracker crumbs 1 to 2 c. canned tomatoes salt, pepper and celery tops to taste

Mix the ingredients together thoroughly. Shape the mixture into a loaf. Bake 1/2 or 3/4 hours. If sauce or gravy is used as a binder for the loaf make it with 3 tbs. flour and 2 tbs. butter or other fat to 1 c. of liquid.

Then here is a recipe for a simple ice box salad, and one that is very good. Another advantage: this dish does not require a large number of ingredients, nor take a long time to prepare.

Ice Box Salad 2 lbs. graham crackers 2 lbs. dates 2 lbs. marshmallows 1 pt. milk 1 roll graham crackers fine. Cut the dates coarsely, and use scissors to cut the marshmallows into fourths, or smaller. Mix all together and mold in a roll and put in the ice box. Slice when ready to serve and use whipped cream to garnish. Cream may also replace the milk, if you can spare it.

Mrs. Walter H. Jones of Arcadia has very kindly sent in eight or ten ways to put together favorite dishes. This week a recipe for something different in little cakes is her contribution.

Sour Cream Gem Cakes. (This may be baked in layers, too.) 2 eggs beaten 1 c. brown sugar 1 c. sour cream 1 2-3 c. flour 2 tsp. soda 1/2 tsp. salt 1/2 c. melted chocolate or 1 heaping 1/2 tsp. cocoa Sift the dry ingredients together, beat well, and put in lastly 1 tsp. vanilla.

Mrs. Walter H. Jones, Arcadia. Also a recipe by Miss Ruth, who wants to tell some of the younger generation how to make Divinely Candy.

2 c. sugar 1/2 c. white syrup 1/2 c. water 2 egg whites 2 egg whites 2 egg whites

Boil the water, sugar and syrup until it forms a soft ball in cold water. Beat the eggs very light and add to the syrup. Put in 1 c. chopped walnuts 1 tsp. vanilla. Beat while it cools. Pour into a pan, and when cold cut in squares.

Thank you very much members of the Jones family. You are surely well represented. Would that every Valley county family would do as well!

Lastly, a recipe for an inexpensive cake. It is really much like a spice cake. This is a good recipe, but as eggs are so cheap, let us help our farmer friends by making an angel food today, and putting this recipe into our cook books for some other time!

Egless, Milkless, Butterless Cake Put into a sauce pan 1 c. brown sugar 2 c. seeded raisins 1 c. cold water 1-3 c. lard pinch of salt 1/4 tsp. nutmeg 1 tsp. cinnamon 1/2 tsp. cloves who says of herself, "I am 12 years old. My favorite recipe." Well, Elsie, I know it is a good one because I have made it a time or two myself! And thank you!

Boil together 3 minutes, and set aside to cool. When cool add 1 tsp. soda dissolved in 1 tsp. warm water, then add 1/2 tsp. baking powder and 2 c. flour. Beat thoroughly and bake in a moderate oven.

Allenru 48 Hour Week-end Treatment For Rheumatism

SUFFERERS NOW JOYFUL—THANKFUL—ASTONISHED—Pain Agony And Swelling Go Over Week-end or Money Back Say McLain and Sorensen 8 OZ. BOTTLE 85 CENTS

QUIZ FORUM

Comes Back At Earnest. Friend Hank: Well sir Hank it sure surprised me when I got the last Quiz and seen where Earnest Coats he thinks that Pat Fuson and me is the same person and it made us both mad that Earnest he thinks that he is a barber. Pat he is not a barber and all he knows how to do is to drawer pictures and he aint any too good at that.

Pat he was over here after we got the Quiz and Joe he says, "I tell you what I will do", he says, I will drawer a picture of Pat also and send it in to Hank and Hank he can show it to the Earnest feller and let Earnest judge if it is the same feller or not.

And I am sending the picture that for Joe Drawered and of course you wont publish it but I want you to show it to Earnest so that he wont think that we are anything alike.

While we was talking this thing over Joe's uncle Gus he comes in to have his whiskers trimmed and he heard us talking about Earnest Coats and Nebraska so he chimed in and he told us that he knewed a family of Coatses back in some of them eastern states, either Ohio or Ogden or maybe Alabama but some of them states right in there close to Nebraska and he knowed the Coatses before they ever moved to Nebraska.

He says that he was traveling around in a horse and buggy just a few days before the election when Bryan and McKinley was running and he was out in the country a ways and pretty soon he seen big crowd of men coming across the fields and they had some dogs trailing something and some of them was carrying ropes and one feller he had a big net and they seemed all excited about something they was chasing.

So the uncle Gus he seen two fellers setting on a bobbed wire fence and asked them, "hey" he says. What is all the excitement about here anyways?" he says. Thinkin that it was a coon hunt or something. So one of the farmers setting on the fence he says that it is only a few days now to election and that old man Coats' son Earnest, just came of age and this here crowd of fellers is the Republican Central Committee trying to ketch him to put pants on him.

It seems that in them days and in that part of the country a feller he couldn't vote republican unless he wore pants Hank.

Well I must close for here comes a customer. Yours truly, Everett M. Goats.

Writes From Montana. Regina, Montana, Feb. 13, 1931 Friend Leggett: I have been putting off writing for some time so that I could tell what a hard winter we were having out here, for I know you fellows back there whenever you think of Montana you think of ice, snow and 40 degrees below but I am discouraged in waiting for you have had no winter to date. One snow in November that stayed on about 10 days, and one about the 20th of January which lasted only two days, not much of a winter.

Stocks are grazing every day and looking well. You have been so darn enthusiastic about that cook book that it got my curiosity aroused and I told the Mrs. that I believed that I would send and get one but she said that likely there would be a catch in it some way, possibly for best results use Big Four Flour or something like that, but I told her that possibly Hard Spring Northern would do. I had got the impression that every one who got one had to send in a recipe and I had been looking around for one and I thought I had it when a widow lady (I'll call her that) dropped in and I heard her telling the Mrs. that she had a cake recipe that she had used very successfully a few times and when she began telling it I was all attention but real good to me and did not sound like a couple of days later and saw a cake on the oven door I says here is that finished recipe. It seemed to have a vicious look and a smell that did not appeal to me and when I was out to the barn I got to thinking of that expression. That she had used it a few times very successfully and as she had buried three men in the last ten years and the coroners jury had brought in a verdict in all three cases, death from some unknown cause, I did not eat any of that cake neither am I going to send that recipe. So here are two postage stamps if that will do.

I was quite interested in that letter from Goats, it sounds just like him and I thought the picture on the front page was him until I read the item under it and I saw it was some Napoleon in Texas. Geo. E. Cummings

Quiz Makes New York Paper. Dear Quiz: Am sending you a clipping from The New York Evening Journal which as you see, mentions the Quiz and whether you think so or not, I think it an enticement to a year's subscription to the Quiz. You don't think so? Well, alright then I'll just pay cash because I must have the Quiz.

Isn't it too bad that there is Valley County's Best Newspaper.

They tagged poor old Pete Alexander in Ord, Nebr., Sunday night a week ago for possessing a pint of liquor and, after a night spent in durance ville, Pete wound up paying $15.50 in fines to the Ord local school fund. He had gone there to root for a school basketball team.

Pete tried to beat the rap by tossing the bottle out of his car, but the liquor was so hard the glass refused to break. It just bounced along the street. That corn gets that way with age.

Tom Fuson, who sends me the clipping from the "Ord Quiz," harks back to the time Alex, then a gangling kid, came to Ord to pitch a game for the home team for ten dollars.

The game was a shutout until the tenth when "Dode," which was what they called Alex in the Loup Valley then, hit a home run after two were out. So they passed the hat and collected a $60 purse for him. He was up then. Now he is down, so they are taking the sixty back with interest.

He is his own enemy, but you can't somehow, help being sorry for old Pete. He was a good guy when he had it on his fast ball, and he drank then, too. He always drank. But there are extenuating circumstances, which I am too good a friend of his to tell. Bill Cornum in New York World.

Hall of Fame Should Honor What Two Nebraska Citizens? In the hall of statues in the capitol are niches reserved for two distinguished Nebraskans. Who shall they be?

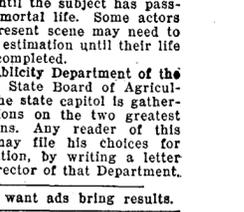

The subject has had some discussion in the legislature. An Omaha newspaper recently took an informal poll of Omaha and state residents. William Jennings Bryan and J. Sterling Morton were easily the most popular. A number of living sons were suggested, among them General Pershing, Senator Hitchcock, Senator Norris, and General Dawes.

The nominations took a wide range. Included in the list were: Buffalo Bill Cody, Dr. Harold Gifford, Count John A. Creighton, Judge James M. Woolworth, Robert W. Furnas, Dr. C. E. Bessey, Edward Rosewater, John G. Neihardt, Willa Cather, Father Biggs, Bishop R. H. Clarkson, Governor John M. Thayer, Senator Charles F. Manderson, James C. Dahlgren, Governor James W. Dawes, Miss Grace Abbott.

Several who were asked to give suggestion counseled allowing the niches for Nebraskans at Washington to remain unoccupied until time shall reveal the state's greatest citizens. It is the whim of greatness that it never casts its mantle until the subject has passed on from mortal life. Some actors on the present scene may need to wait full estimation until their life work is completed.

The Publicity Department of the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture at the state capitol is gathering opinions on the two greatest Nebraskans. If you have any suggestions, please send them to the director of that Department.

How to play Bridge AUCTION or CONTRACT by Wynne Ferguson

Copyright, 1930, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 14

Here are four hands that were recently played in one of the New York Clubs, and they all present points of general interest.

Hand No. 1 Hearts—A, Q, J, 9, 7 Clubs—J, 7, 10, 6 Diamonds—8, 4, 2 Spades—8, 4, 2

Y B Z

AUCTION BIDDING: No score, rubber game. If Z dealt, bid one spade and A passed, what should Y do?

Many players with Y's hand would pass and give as their reason that he holds three spades and should, therefore, not deny his partner's spade bid. This reasoning is correct if your partner never bids a four-card suit; but, in these days, four-card suits are bid freely and often, and three small trumps are not average or proper support for a four-card suit-bid. Such a suit-bid, to produce the best results, requires at least three trumps to an honor or four or more small trumps. Y's proper bid, therefore, is two hearts.

At spades, Y Z could make only three odd, while at hearts they could easily score four odd, game and rubber. Z held a four-card spade bid and A made two tricks in spades. Be on the lookout for such hands and don't hesitate to show as good a suit as Y held, even if you do hold three small trumps of your partner's suit.

At Contract, the bidding should be the same.

Hand No. 2 Hearts—9, 8, 5, 3 Clubs—A, 10 Diamonds—K, J, 10, 7 Spades—7, 6, 2

Y B Z

AUCTION BIDDING: No score, rubber game. If Z dealt, bid one spade and A passed, what should Y do?

Many players with Y's hand would pass and give as their reason that he holds three spades and should, therefore, not deny his partner's spade bid. This reasoning is correct if your partner never bids a four-card suit; but, in these days, four-card suits are bid freely and often, and three small trumps are not average or proper support for a four-card suit-bid. Such a suit-bid, to produce the best results, requires at least three trumps to an honor or four or more small trumps. Y's proper bid, therefore, is two hearts.

At spades, Y Z could make only three odd, while at hearts they could easily score four odd, game and rubber. Z held a four-card spade bid and A made two tricks in spades. Be on the lookout for such hands and don't hesitate to show as good a suit as Y held, even if you do hold three small trumps of your partner's suit.

At Contract, the bidding should be the same.

Hand No. 3 Hearts—7, 6, 3 Clubs—A, Q, 10 Diamonds—Q, J, 7 Spades—Q, J, 10, 9

Y B Z

AUCTION BIDDING: Score Y Z—16; A B—0, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one spade, A passed and Y bid two hearts. If B and Z passed, what should A bid?

A's best bid is two no trumps. If his partner hasn't the hearts stopped, they will be unable to make the bid, but in that case they will probably save game and rubber. Y Z have 16 on the score so, if they make their two-heart bid, they will score game and rubber. As a matter of fact, A's bold bid was well rewarded for his partner B held the following hand:

bid one spade and A passed, what should Y do?

Here is another hand, very similar to Hand No. 1, where Y holds three small spades which, as already pointed out, are not proper support for a possible four-card suit bid. Y's correct bid with this hand is one no trump. B will pass and Z will now bid his hearts. At the latter bid, Y Z can score game and rubber, but if Y had passed and allowed Z to play the hand at one spade, Y Z would only have scored three odd. Be on the lookout for hands of type one and two.

At Contract, the bidding should be the same.

Hand No. 3 Hearts—7, 6, 3 Clubs—A, Q, 10 Diamonds—Q, J, 7 Spades—Q, J, 10, 9

AUCTION BIDDING: Score Y Z—16; A B—0, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one spade, A passed and Y bid two hearts. If B and Z passed, what should A bid?

A's best bid is two no trumps. If his partner hasn't the hearts stopped, they will be unable to make the bid, but in that case they will probably save game and rubber. Y Z have 16 on the score so, if they make their two-heart bid, they will score game and rubber. As a matter of fact, A's bold bid was well rewarded for his partner B held the following hand:

Hearts—K, J, 9, 5 Clubs—J, 10, 6, 2 Spades—8, 3, 2

As Z held the king of clubs and Y the ace queen of hearts, A B easily scored three odd, game and rubber, as their only losing tricks were the ace of hearts, ace of diamonds and ace king of spades.

At Contract, the score would be Y Z—60; A B—0, rubber game. If Z bids one spade, A should pass, but if Y bids two hearts, and B and Z pass, A should bid two no trumps as in Auction. If Y passes, B should bid three no trumps, which can be made as already pointed out.

Problem No. 9 Hearts—A, Q, 10 Clubs—A, K, Q Diamonds—K, J, 9, 4 Spades—J, 6, 4

Y B Z

AUCTION BIDDING: No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one spade and A passed, what should Y do?

Many players with Y's hand would pass and give as their reason that he holds three spades and should, therefore, not deny his partner's spade bid. This reasoning is correct if your partner never bids a four-card suit; but, in these days, four-card suits are bid freely and often, and three small trumps are not average or proper support for a four-card suit-bid. Such a suit-bid, to produce the best results, requires at least three trumps to an honor or four or more small trumps. Y's proper bid, therefore, is two hearts.

At spades, Y Z could make only three odd, while at hearts they could easily score four odd, game and rubber. Z held a four-card spade bid and A made two tricks in spades. Be on the lookout for such hands and don't hesitate to show as good a suit as Y held, even if you do hold three small trumps of your partner's suit.

At Contract, the bidding should be the same.

CONTRACT BIDDING: Z's proper opening bid is two no trumps; A passes and Y should bid for a grand slam. All pass, so the problem is to make a grand slam against any defense. Solution in the next article.

Poland Chinas Sell High.
The Fowler double grand champion Poland China hog sale which was held at the Arcadia sale barn Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 11th attracted buyers from far and near. Forty-seven hogs sold for an aggregate sum of $2,815. This included five aged sows among which was the Nebraska 1930 Grand Champion sow, twenty-nine spring gilts, seven full gilts and six boars. The Grand Champion sow, "May Beauty" topped the list at $200 and was purchased by Walter Rockwell of Gandy. Her sister "Miss Fancy," was purchased by Claude Williams for use in the R. K. D. Litter club, at a price of $100. Buyers were attracted from Iowa, North and South Dakota, Illinois, Texas, Washington, Oklahoma and Minnesota as well as all sections of Nebraska.

Up-To-Date Club Meets.
The Up-To-Date club met Tuesday afternoon of last week at the home of Mrs. Floyd Bossen. Roll call was answered with quotations from Browning. The lesson study of the "Life and Works of Elizabeth Barrett Browning and Robert Browning" was led by Mrs. R. O. Gaither, whose knowledge of the subject proved very interesting. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Bossen surprised the members with a lovely lunch of ice cream and angel food cake. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Edith Bossen Tuesday afternoon, March 3rd.

White-Holmes.
The marriage of Miss Edith White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch White, and Allen Holmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Holmes, occurred at York last Wednesday, February 18th. The young couple returned to Arcadia Thursday and are at present residing with the groom's parents.

Farmers Club To Meet.
The members of the Farmers club will hold their monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Pearson next Saturday, Febr. 28th.

Glendale Literary Meets.
The Glendale Literary society met last Friday evening at the Glendale school house. A miscellaneous program and newspaper were given. The next meeting will be held Friday evening March 6th when a debate will be given on the question "Resolved: That picture shows do more harm than good."

Adventists Hold Services.
The Seventh Day Adventists held services at the Hayes Creek school house several evenings last week and also held services at the school house Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week. Rev. Verlo of Loup City and Elder Hay of Grand Island conducted the meetings.

Ladies Community Dinner Tuesday.
Remember the ladies community dinner which will be given at the Methodist church basement next Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock sharp. Every lady in the community is expected to attend. Come out and enjoy a good supper and a social evening.

Revival Meetings Continue.
Revival meetings have been held at the Methodist church the past two weeks and will continue throughout this week. Rev. Randall of Scotia has charge of the services. Make an effort to attend and enjoy the services and special music. A cordial invitation is extended all.

First Catch of the Season.
Albert Strathdee, Ed Christensen and Clyde Hutchins of North Loup embarked on a fishing trip last Thursday, the scope of action being Ericson and Gables. Between the three of them they managed to land one fair sized black bass which perhaps, isn't so bad for February fishing.

At Society News.
At the regular meeting of the Methodist Ladies Aid society which was held at the church basement last Friday afternoon, the members voted to purchase a second-hand range to be used in the kitchen of the basement.

Four cases of eggs were received recently by the Aid Society and these were sent to the Methodist hospital in Omaha where they brought $19 in credit for the hospital fund. The aid members greatly appreciated the donation of eggs and wish to thank all those who contributed.

1916 Reversed Winter and Summer.
The following interesting article was taken from a recent issue of a Merrick county newspaper: "According to the Omaha Bee-News, the winter of 1916 ranked with this one in point of pleasant weather and sunshine, but the country paid dearly the following summer for every mild day of January, February and March. According to clippings found among the possessions of Mrs. Park S. Avery of Omaha, ponds and creeks were frozen over July 4th.

One article relates there was a heavy fall of snow on June 17th. A Vermont farmer had sent his flock of sheep to pasture the day previous. The morning of the 17th dawned with the thermometer below freezing. At nine o'clock the farmer started to locate his flock. The following day a searching party was formed to find the man, who had been lost in the snow. When found both of his feet were frozen.

August proved the worst month of all. Almost every semblance of vegetation in the United States was destroyed by frost, according to the clippings. There was great privation. Thousands would have perished only for an abundance of fish and wild game."

Rain Much Welcomed.
A slow, drizzling rain, amounting to forty-eight hundredths of an inch fell in this vicinity during last Saturday and Sunday. The moisture was very much needed and was greatly welcomed by all.

Cut Leaders in Hand.
Joe Marlon is recovering from a painful injury which he received to his left hand one day last week when the axe with which he was chopping wood slipped, striking the back of his hand and severing the leaders to his thumb. Mr. Marlon was taken to Broken Bow where the injured member was treated and placed in a cast. It will no doubt be some time before he will regain use of the thumb as the leaders are said to be very slow in healing.

Improve Liberty Church.
Workmen have been busy the past week building a room at the rear of the Liberty church to be used as a kitchen. This will greatly aid the church workers in serving church suppers.

R. K. D. Litter Club Meets.
The R. K. D. Litter club met at the home of Billy Arnold Friday evening, February 20th. Fourteen members whose names were sent in for registration were present. Thus far our club is divided into the following groups: for raising hogs: two boys have Chester Whites, four have Poland Chinas, three have Duroc Jerseys and one has Hampshires. Mrs. Fowler gave out club material and explained the use of it. J. C. Ward gave a vivid description and several important points of a good brood sow. Our leader asked Glenn Jameson to discuss the construction of a self-feeder and Billy Arnold, a watering trough. It was decided that we make at least two judging tours this year. After the meeting of the R. K. D. Baby Beef club which was held in connection with the Litter club a delightful lunch was served by Mrs. Arnold, consisting of cake, ice cream and coffee.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Paul and Carl Easterbrook March 6th.

Paul Easterbrook, Reporter.

Arcadia-Grand Island Debate.
The affirmative debating team of the Arcadia high school and the negative debating team of the Grand Island high school debated the subject: "Resolved: That the nations should disarm except for such purposes as needed for police purposes," at the high school assembly room Monday evening. The debate was decided in favor of Grand Island. Mrs. C. D. Langrall, Alvin Lee and A. E. Haywood served as judges. Marguerite Rettenmayer, Mary Elizabeth Cook and Harold Gates represented Arcadia.

Play Well Attended.
"Two Days to Marry" was the title of the three act comedy given at the Methodist church basement Monday evening under the direction of Miss Jesse Blakelee, instructor of school district No. 4. The cast included seven characters and all parts were very well taken. Orena Lutz and Miss Dorothy Schoemaker furnished musical readings between the first and second acts and Mrs. Ed Christensen sang two vocal numbers between the second and third acts. The proceeds from the play will be used toward the purchase of a piano for the district school.

Following are the characters: Arthur Lutz, Donald Luther, Evelyn Lybarger, Leo Sell, Gladys Hughes, Esther Holmes, Ben Greenland.

Society.
Mrs. A. H. Hastings was hostess to the Afternoon Bridge club last Thursday evening. Several members and three guests, Mesdames Ray Waterbury, Daniel Bartlett and Floyd Bossen, attended. High score honors were awarded to Mrs. H. S. Kinsey and Mrs. E. C. Baird. The next meeting will be held March 5th at the home of Mrs. Baird.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray McClary entertained a few friends at their home Sunday evening. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bulger, Mr. and Mrs. Claris Bellinger and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Bridges held another one of their popular dances at their home Friday evening. The members of the Hayes Creek Farmers Union were entertained Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Arnold.

Mrs. J. Van Wieren and Mrs. Jennie Milburn entertained members and Rebekah kensington Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Van Wieren.

A number of friends and relatives surprised Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Bridges with a farewell party on Tuesday evening of last week. Mr. and Mrs. Bridges expect to move soon to a farm near Comstock.

The Legion Auxiliary will meet at the Methodist church basement Friday afternoon with Mrs. F. H. Christ as hostess.

The Congregational Ladies Aid society met at the church basement Thursday afternoon with Mesdames C. H. Downing, H. L. Jameson and Marie Petersen as hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. John White entertained a large number of friends and relatives at a reception Friday evening in honor of their son Everett and his bride. A short program was enjoyed after which the evening was spent socially, followed by lunch. The newly married couple received many lovely gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Russell entertained Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Hawley and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weddel and children of Carleton at dinner Monday noon and Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Weddel entertained the Hawley and Weddel families at dinner Monday evening.

A number of neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wozniak last Saturday evening to tender them a farewell party. Mr. and Mrs. Wozniak expect to move soon to a farm in Mira Valley.

Sunday dinners: Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Bly entertained Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bellinger, Mrs. Lilly Bly, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lybarger, Gladys McMichael and Mrs. Ruth Myers of Denver. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Snodgrass and family were guests of C. J. Bonsall. Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Hawley entertained Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Doe, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Weddel and John, Misses Clara Koenig, Edith Hranac and Muriel Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weddel and children of Carleton, Nebr. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Jensen and family were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Benson. Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Schoemaker and Dorothy were guests of Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Christ. Mr. and

Quiz Gets Results For County Treasurer

Last week a story in the Quiz said the County Treasurer George R. Satterfield wanted auto license plates for the years 1916, 1917 and 1918 for a display of plates in his office. As a result of the story the treasurer's office has been overrun with people bringing license plates. By 3 o'clock last Thursday afternoon the missing plates had been supplied but that didn't stop the rush and ever since then the treasurer and his deputy, Clyde Baker, have been kept busy explaining that the demand was already filled. However, they would like to have plates for years prior to 1915 if anybody in Valley county has them.

N-K'S DO THE TRICK WHERE THE WORMS ARE
Poultry worms are more harmful than they look. Large round and tape worms kill hundreds of thousands of chickens and turkeys every year. For a long time poultrymen have been seeking a safe, sure, economical way of avoiding this terrible loss. That's why N-K Tablets made such a hit. They provide individual doses of fresh, powerful Nicotine and Kamala, the two vermicides on which all authorities agree. Encased in seamless, airtight, insoluble coating only broken by the gizzard. NICOTINE AND KAMALA IS THUS DEPOSITED FRESH RIGHT ON THE WORMS.

GRADE SCHOOL NOTES.

First Grade. Marie Butcher has left Ord. She was attending the first grade. The first grade has been making George Washington and Martha Washington dolls. Second Grade. The second grade had a membership race last week.

Third Grade. The third grade are beginning to study "Cotton" in Geography. Dick Koupal, Lillian McGrew, Allen Zikmund, Max Klein, and Eugene Puncchar did not miss any spelling week before last. Fifth and Sixth Grade. The fifth and sixth grade penmanship classes have finished the second test and are beginning drill work for the third test.

Rodney Stoltz. Rodney Stoltz, our very dependable guard in basketball, is a very good in his studies, as well as in his activities. He is at present the president of the H-Y club. H-Y members think they have chosen wisely in making him their president. He was in the Junior play, and the operetta. Rodney has received his football sweater with one stripe. He made a very good center for the Ord high school football team, this last fall.

PERSONALS

Jessamine Meyers spent a few days in Omaha last week for dental work. The following were absent on account of illness last week: Charles Barnhart, Clara Auguetto, Dean Worden, Hazel Leonard and Leona Carkoski. Mr. Cass went home over Saturday and Sunday last week. Miss Johnson was in Omaha the thirteenth and fourteenth of this month. Lucene Hardin is attending a Home Economics conference today at Lincoln. There was a faculty meeting held, and plans are made for an Arithmetic course for the south school, which will be on Thursday's. Health scales have been procured for each school building. Hygiene teachers will use them. Junior high and grade schools plan to use the visual education for the rest of the year, by arrangement of the University of Kansas, film slides have been procured at a very reasonable cost. The strip Argentina was showed last week. All of the pupils and teachers were very well pleased with it. Class Activities. Eleventh grade English class finished a four week unit in literature. They are now starting a unit in argument. In Biology, students have started the study of the human body and its structure. Miss Nelson's public speaking class have been using notebooks called Literary Adventures. They also find poems and illustrate them. The next thing they will study is Interpretive Reading. A slender acquaintance with the world must convince every man that actions not words, are the true criterion of the attachment of friends; and that the most liberal professions of good will are very far from being the surest marks of it. COOPERATION WITH SPONSORS

Cooperation is one thing leaders and sponsors do not get enough of from the students and pupils. When plays are given, sponsors have a hard time getting all of the cast there on time or to be there at all. Here is one incident where pupils do not cooperate. In operetta practice pupils make excuses that they cannot come for practice at a designated time, as they have something else to do and maybe they are just too lazy to come. Students do not cooperate in classes. I don't say that all people are not cooperative but an assignment that has to depend on all of the class and only one or two recite is not interesting. A teacher gets tired of hearing just one or two people recite all of the time. If students would cooperate with the teacher and voice their opinions, I am sure the teacher would like the class better. People who play in the band are not always cooperative because they "forget" to come to practice. One missing instrument may spoil the whole practice. Nothing is more unpleasant than to know that someone is missing at a gathering. Let's bear all of these things in mind and cooperate with everyone and everything will be ship-shape. Twila Brickner

GEORGE WASHINGTON

George Washington is undoubtedly the father of our nation because he was the man who by his courage kept his army together, the darkest days of the revolution his everlasting courage did not fail him when tried to the utmost, starvation, sickness, hunger through the longest winter in the Revolutionary War, during all this time he kept his army at Valley Forge. When spring came he attacked the English and won the Revolution. After the war Washington was elected President of the United States and again he showed his courage and wisdom in developing the United States. He made a strong central Government and had not vested all the power in the state government. Some traits of Washington that make him so well liked are his self-reserve, honesty, and was always ready for an emergency. When he died everyone mourned his death for he had led the nation to freedom, but it was not until later years that he received the credit due him. Today we honor Washington's birthday because it is customary to honor the birthday of a great man and he was great in the eyes of the American people if not in European people. A Few Sayings of Washington. 1. When you see a crime punished, you may be inwardly pleased but always show pity to the suffering offender. 2. When man does all he can though it succeed not well, blame him not who did it. 3. Speak not injurious words neither in jest nor in earnest. 4. Show not yourself glad at misfortune of another, though he were your enemy. 5. Reproach none for infirmities of nature, nor delight to put them that have in mind thereof. 6. Do not express joy before one sick or in pain; for that contrary passion will aggravate his misery. 7. Every action in company ought to be with some sign of respect to those present. 8. In the presence of others, sing not to yourself with a humming noise, nor tump with your finger or feet. 9. Use no reproachable language against another neither curse nor revile. Miss Johnson: Where did Shakespeare die? Melvin Hackel: At the bottom of page ten.

CONVOCATIONS

Convocation was held Tuesday, February seventeenth. A pep rally was given for the basketball team. Following this Mr. Cass gave a short talk on school attitude. The meeting was then dismissed by Mr. Cass. Convocation was held February nineteenth. The Juniors put on a very pleasing skit. Those taking part were: Charles Shepard, Rodney Stoltz, Marlon Grace Cushing, Marcus Steinward and Adrian Tolson. A pep rally followed this in which much enthusiasm was shown. The meeting was then dismissed by Mr. Cass.

GIRL RESERVE

Wednesday evening the Girl Reserve met and discussed personal appearance of high school girls. Topics were chosen and discussed by several girls. Miss Baird closed the discussion by giving a summary of the discussion and contributing what she could. The Girl Reserve conference will be held in Grand Island the twenty-seventh and the twenty-eighth of this month. Ten girls will represent Ord at this conference.

Junior High Notes.

The seventh grade pupils are studying the "Courtship of Miles Standish." The seventh grade boys are planning a play for their home room period next week. The seventh grade pupils are also studying the problems of the farm. F. F. A. Defeats Loup City. The Future Farmers of America won another game last Friday when they played against Loup City. The game was between the F. F. A. of Ord and the second team of Loup City. The score was 8 to 6 in favor of Ord. It was a very close game and at the end of the first half the game was a tie four to four. F. F. A. Wins Over Horace. The Future Farmers of America won over Horace last Wednesday night. The score was Ord 10 and Horace 6. It was quite a close game the last half. When the first half ended the score was 3 to 2. The last half Ord only made one basket. Ord had the advantage because they were taller. But Horace men were very fast.

ADVANCEMENT

Taken from the Boy's Life Magazine for September. Boys sometimes ask, "Does an education pay?" The following figures show definitely what four years in high school paid in dollars and cents. The figures first mentioned below are of those who left school at 14, while the second shows the gain by staying in school until 18. When 14 years of age $200 $000 When 16 years of age 250 0000 When 18 years of age 350 5000 When 20 years of age 475 7500 When 24 years of age 575 10000 When 25 years of age 668 15500 This shows that the salary at the end of 11 years time for the one who quit school at 14 is only $5112, while the one with the greater education is $7337.50. At 25 years of age the better educated boys are receiving $900 per year more salary, and have already, in 7 years, received $2,225 more than the boys who left school at 14 years of age have received for 11 years' work. Never before has there been such a need for educated men as there is now. Hundreds of new positions needing educated and trained persons to handle them are developed every year. JOKE Mr. Redfern: Are there any questions? Ralph M: How do you calculate the horse power of a donkey engine? Miss Nelson: In what tongue did Balaam's donkey probably speak? James M: Most likely in he-brayic. Mildred A: Say, what part of the body is Fray? Miss Johnson: Fray! what are you talking about? Mildred: This book says that Ivanhoe was wounded in the Fray. Did you hear about the Scotchman who went down to the Black Sea to fill his fountain pen? Max Dumond: My grandfather built the Rocky Mountains. Lowell Jones: Aw, that's nothing. Do you know the Dead Sea? Well my grandfather killed it. Miss Jeary: Now we find x is equal to zero. Walter A: All that work for nothing. Mr. Cass: I am a man of few words. If I beckon with my hand that means, "Come." Leland S: That suits me. I'm also a fellow of few words. If I shake my head, that means, "I'm not coming." What is the excitement in the library? Seems like the librarian walked in. Bob Cushing: How does your new car operate? Mr. Redfern: With gas. Same as the old one. Glen: There are several things I can always count on. Freshmen: What are they? Glen C: My fingers. Miss Blanchard: What are the sister states? Harold Finch: I'm not sure but I think they are: Miss Ourl, Ida Ho, Mary Land, Callie Fornia, Louisa Anna, Della Ware, and Minnie Sota. Miss Johnson: What do you miss most since coming to school? Dean Worden: Classes. "The proper study of mankind is man." There is in the heart of each of us an intuitive desire to gain an insight into the methods that motivate hero life. Lincoln longed to be a Washington. It is within the power of each of us to learn the secrets of lofty patriotism and service as exemplified by Washington and Lincoln. February is the month when our patriotic devotion, service to the world, should be deepened. How are you becoming a better world patriot?—Exchange The student body of Ord High School takes this means of expressing their sincere sympathy for the Crouch family during this time of sorrow.

Chemistry Class Studies Practical New Discoveries

By IRMA ELLIS LEGGETT

Mr. Cass declares I never have visited his chemistry class, and although I am sure this is an exaggeration I did enjoy a stop there Friday afternoon. This was a chemistry class in current events which I was hearing, something new, and it seemed to me, something very practical. These young chemists had searched out news of new discoveries in their line, and brought their articles from the Scientific American or from some of the national journals dealing with this subject. Then in turn each member of the class gave orally or read the description of the new experiments which had been proved to be important.

First came a description of the making of acetic and lactic acids from sawdust, two very useful acids which are needed both commercially for other chemical work and for medicine for sick stomachs, etc. Acetic is the acid which makes vinegar vinegary, and lactic is the one found in butter-milk.

Next Rodney Stoltz told how carbon monoxide seeps into the cockpit of a plane, of its effect on the blood, and steps that were being taken to counteract this colorless, odorless, tasteless poison gas. Experiments that transformed coal and others that obliterated the soap deposit which gathers on the inside of glass in which nuts are packed came next. After Leah Hather's reading followed a description of the new catalytic agents used in the making of sulphuric acid. As sulphuric acid is needed in the manufacture of many things, this was a very important discovery, the use of finely divided platinum as a catalyst being extremely expensive, as you may imagine.

But the one that interested me most, bearing a little more locally than any of the others was the newly found method of making paper from grapevines. Plants are already being put in operation at this work, with headquarters in Sacramento, Calif.

I thought Adrian Tolén's articles all dealing with insecticides were very interesting, and to him they would be practical as well, for it is well known that Adrian is as enthusiastic a gardener as his grandfather, and also that Adrian is specializing in vocational agriculture, Arsenic, Paris Green, nicotine and others were mentioned as being efficacious.

Pick Tunes They'd Like to 'Die By'

What song would you like to hear played as you drift out into eternity? That question was recently asked notables in a nationwide questionnaire conducted by a music magazine. The interesting selections of these famous figures, from left to right, are: John Philip Sousa, band leader, "Stars and Stripes Forever"; Roger Babson, economist, one of Sousa's marches; Billy Sunday, evangelist, "In the Sweet By and By."

Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the House, "Beethoven's Seventh Symphony"; Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, funeral march from Wagner's "Gotterdammerung"; and Rudy Vallee, crooner, Rimsky-Korsakov's "Scheherazade."

After Virginia VanDecar came Oakley Hather, who read an interesting article about the discovery and use of a new steel called Nirosita, having many advantages, and how it decorated the home offices of its inventors in the world famous new Chrysler Building in New York City. There were also descriptions of how lemonade made from some patent preparation left in an enamel pail overnight gathered antimony acid from the enamel; and lastly, talk of new aids for pneumonia. The last two talks were given by Bud Brickner and Billy Garnick. Billy you remember, was one of the boys who won fame at Chicago recently.

This class does not have current events every day, nor every week, because of course they have long laboratory sessions for experimenting, and then much other work to do, writing up their experiments, studying formulas and symbols, and learning new equations, etc. Lots of chemistry is mathematics, you know. Some other day I hope to see some other sides to their study of chemistry, but I was well pleased to find the work being tied to practical, everyday life by means of the current event method.

District 42 News

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Bridge returned from Rochester, Minn., Friday afternoon. Mrs. Bridge was there to consult the Mayo clinic. While there they drove to Askov which is about 213 miles from Rochester, where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jens Larsen and several brothers and sisters live and spent a few days with them. On their way home they stopped at Austin, Minn., where they got Miss Zeta Gallagher and brought her home with them. She will visit her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bryan indefinitely.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Parks started Sunday morning for New York where Mr. Parks will enter a sanitarium for treatment. He has not been well since an operation which was performed about a year ago. They plan to be gone about six weeks. Bill Parks will tend the farm in their absence.

Lewis VanNess drove to Grand Island Monday to attend a horse sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Honeycutt gave a dance at their home Saturday evening. A good sized crowd enjoyed a jolly time. The community program which was in the form of a farewell for the people of this district who are moving away was enjoyed by a large number. The program was arranged by Mesdames Hurley and Pekraka which consisted of music, Lincoln and Washington exercises by school children and a number of laughable stunts. A delicious lunch was served by Mesdames Otto Anderson and Ivy Sperling.

Mrs. Ray Bryan's father, Mr. Hutchins has been very sick with flu at the Eddie Davis home in North Loup. Mrs. Bryan has been devoting some of her time with him. Monday Mrs. Beachamp of Chapman came to be near as bedside.

Mr. Ed Hurley had the misfortune to run a rusty nail into his hand which makes it very sore. Mrs. Mable Anderson also had the misfortune of falling and in some way cutting and spraining her hand. She is handicapped for her moving work. Miss Darlene plans to help her mother this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Meyers and sons were present at a farewell surprise party at Carl Oliver's Wednesday evening. A nice lunch closed a pleasant evening. The Olivers will occupy the Mable Anderson place after March 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Weed and son were Sunday guests at T. S. Wood's of Barker's.

Mrs. Mable Anderson and family helped little Evelyn Joyce Severance celebrate her second birthday Sunday by eating dinner with her and Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Severance.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Johnson and children were at Pearl Woods' supper guests at Lytle Abney's.

Mr. and Mrs. Artie Vost of Scotia spent Sunday afternoon at the Charlie Bridge home.

The Ray Kearns family spent Monday evening at Ray Bryan's.

Mr. and Mrs. George Finch spent Sunday evening at Pearl Woods'.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nelson called at Mable Anderson's Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Weed helped Paul Tolan's with their butchering Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Klinger of Scotia spent Saturday afternoon at Charlie Bridges.

Mrs. Mable Anderson and family visited at the Stanton home Friday evening.

Mrs. Ray Knapp visited her mother Mrs. Carl Nelson Saturday afternoon.

News of the Farms!

What's New in Farming!

AGER SUGGESTS WORKABLE PLAN FOR PHEASANTS

"Under present conditions this state of affairs will continue to grow worse from year to year. It is a fact that in some cases the pheasant is doing actual damage to crops with the result that these birds are being killed unlawfully and their nests are being destroyed by the farmer who under our present laws has no opportunity for financial reimbursement. There is a more organized attempt at each season of the legislature, to get through legislation allowing the farmer to destroy the pheasant at any time of the year. Such legislation would only result in no pheasant shooting at all for the public, but if present conditions are not changed it is very likely to happen anyway.

"The farmer must receive some compensation or he will not and cannot be expected to cooperate with the sportsman. There are plans and plans to take care of this condition. Here is a plan, that I believe is workable which does not take the vested rights of our birds away from the State.

"The Game Forestation and Parks Commission will issue a book which we will call "Hunter's Shooting Script." This will contain five checks, or tickets attached to stubs (assuming that the daily bag limit is five birds). These checks or tickets to be detached from the stub same as a check. The purchaser of these books will pay $2.50 or $0.50 per ticket. The ticket will have on it a statement that it is good for 50¢ if presented at the office of the Game Forestation and Parks Commission before the last day of the particular year which it is dated. The merchant or bank with whom the farmer does business will undoubtedly handle this script the same as a check. On it will be a place for the signature of the Hunter and his address and also the signature of the farmer and his address. They may be given distribution through the same agencies that hunting and fishing licenses are bought. The sportsman will drive up to the farmer's house, after the farmer has become acquainted with this plan, and ask for permission to hunt, showing his book. For instance there are five of us, we drive into a farmer's place, show him our book and make arrangements to go out to shoot. We shoot twenty birds or four each. We come back to the house and we each give this farmer four checks or tickets from our book. These checks we have signed with our name and address and the farmer then has a record who we are and where we live, in case of any damage we may have done. These checks may be cashed by the farmer for $10.00 or 50¢ each. He has received then, some compensation for the feed that these birds have eaten. If the entire book is not used the checks will be redeemed by the Commission. If you only shoot two birds you receive back $1.50 from the Commission, so that your cost has since that time has kept them mulched with about six inches of straw all the time. He lost only four or five of the 200 seedlings which he planted.

The trees are growing in a double row about ten rods north of the farm buildings. Within four or five more years they will serve as an excellent windbreak for the home and livestock.

Government trees may be secured through County Agent Carl Dale who has application blanks at his office in the court house.

only been at the rate of 50¢ per bird.

"This plan does not compel the farmer to let any one hunt if he does not so desire, nor will it compel him to make a charge for letting his friends, or anyone else shoot if that is his wish, as he does not have to take the checks. I venture to say there will be enough checks which will never be redeemed to pay for the additional expense that the commission may be put to be inaugurating this plan. The advantages as I see in this plan over some other suggested plans are, that the state still has control of the birds and can regulate open season and bag limit. It will bring the hunter, the farmer and commission in closer touch with each other and cause better feelings all around.

"The farmer if he can feel that he is being paid for the feed that is going to the pheasant and something for the damage that he suffers by the sportsman going on his land will in most cases, I believe, not only welcome this sort of plan but instead of doing as they are in some places—destroying nests and breaking up the eggs—will feel that a nest with 20 eggs in may mean ten dollars that fall. They will feel that they can afford to scatter some corn in the spring to protect the new corn just coming up rather than to kill the birds which are in that corn. This will not keep the habitual trespasser off the grounds but will help and will surely bring a healthier feeling between the producer of the game and the sportsmen to protect the new corn just coming up. This is a positive necessity if we expect to continue having upland hunting. The time spent by a good many of those going out after pheasant in looking for a place to hunt will cost them as much or more than a book of tickets.

"The pheasant is the only proven upland bird which is hardy enough to adopt himself to our conditions and in spite of several times more hunters than a few years ago and with no vermin control he has increased magnificently, in spite of three open seasons. They have proven that the whole state can be well stocked in a few years. Under this plan as well as any other we may get the farmer interested in vermin control (this includes two-legged vermin) and if that is done, the battle is won. A farmer near Arcadia told me last fall that in spite of the fact that pheasants were shot all summer around his place, that he thought about sixty per day were shot on his land during the open season, as they did not represent cash to him, he had in no way protected them. Give the farmer a square deal and he will help the pheasant.

"I think that most anyone would rather go out, leave his car in the farmer's yard, hunt without the fear of being put off or arrested (trespass. Under this plan I believe you can do it. If you shoot no birds you pay nothing. Fifty cents is about what the producer is now getting for a chicken and

HYBRID CORN NOT PROFITABLE BUT PRODUCES YIELDS

Cost Too Much, Dale Points Out. Tests Made Near Ord. Seed Available Here.

Extensive corn variety tests carried on over Nebraska and Valley county during 1930 indicate that certain kinds of hybrid seed corn are worth planting but that little if any profit can be obtained by planting commercial lots of hybrid seed corn at the present stage of hybrid seed development in the opinion of County Agent Dale of Ord. Paul Stewart, extension agronomist, with Dale of agriculture, agrees with Dale.

Included in the tests over the state were the ones conducted in Valley county. The results in the tests near Ord produced about the same results and showed Valley county farmers the value of the different varieties. County Agent points to them for further information.

The twelve highest yielding varieties of corn in 1930 were all hybrids. Only two varieties of ordinary corn were better than Hogue's yellow dent used as a check in the tests. Commercial hybrid seed, however, averaged only 99 percent as high as Hogue's and cost a lot more, the college of agriculture man points out for Valley county farmers.

Of the fifteen hybrids that out-yielded Hogue's in 1930, only five have been developed to the point where the seed is available in any quantity. These varieties are field No. 5, Funk 365, Funk 517, and field No. 4. They yielded about five down to less than one bushel more than Hogue's and ranked in the order named. In considering these hybrids for 1931, Valley county farmers are urged to compare the increased cost of the seed with the possible increase in yield per acre which must pay the bill.

Seven of the fifteen high yielding hybrids were developed at the Nebraska experiment station. Five of the seven were among the top six, Nebraska 111 and Nebraska 110 and 77 bushels per acre compared with 62 bushels for Hogue's yellow dent.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

The broad-base, graded ridge terraces known as Mangum terraces, were built a few years ago by Will Nelson on his farm in the Haskell Creek neighborhood. They successfully stopped the washing away of soil from one of his hillside fields.

These terraces are growing in popularity because a person can farm right over them with nearly any kind of machinery. Also, because they cost less to construct than other kinds of soil dams, and are more apt to be successful.

On the P. H. Mangum farm near Wake Forest, some of the terraces are from 40 to 50 feet broad. In Nebraska they are generally built about 20 feet wide and 2 feet high in the center. They are sure to check water erosion on slopes of less than 15 feet rise to 100 feet horizontal distance.

It is necessary to have a leveling instrument of some sort in laying out a system of terraces. A line for a terrace is staked out across the slope for each 5 feet of vertical drop; each terrace is given a side drop of 5 inches per 100 feet. This side drop is made without flooding over the tops of the ridges.

A man with team and plow back furrows around the line of stakes until a strip of ground up to twenty feet in width has been plowed. A ridge is then started, and a ridge very much like a road grade is constructed. This ridge can also be built with a drag or similar device. Where the terrace crosses small gullies, fills are made with silt scrapers.

Terracing should be done in the fall or early in the spring. Plenty of time for settling before the spring rains. Land which has been in small grain and is fall plowed or about to be plowed furnishes nearly ideal conditions for successful work. The terraces are constructed and sowing is started through the winter and back-furrowed again in the spring. Terraced ground should be planted to small grain or leguminous crops the first year or two but not to corn, unless the rows run around the slope with the terraces and not across them. Each time a terrace is crossed with the corn cultivator a small ditch is left which may result in an overflow at the first hard down-pour. Men who have successfully done terracing work have found it practical to back-furrow each terrace once every year or two.

Soil erosion destroys one hundred million dollars worth of crops and soils in this country annually. It causes deep gullies which lower water tables and cause wells to go dry. Each year over five million dollars worth of phosphorus and potassium goes down the Mississippi. Over five million acres of land in the United States have been ruined by erosion. In fact soil erosion is the most practical protective agency we have for breeding places of surplus production on the farm.

URGES BOYS TO LOOK FOR TYPE IN CLUB SOWS

Bill Garnick Tells Club Boys To Buy Sows Now. Will Organize Soon.

Billy Garnick, leader of the Ord pig club, is telling his club members and prospective members this week to be looking for their sows to be used in the 4-H club work this year. The Ord boy succeeds George Round, Jr., as leader of the Ord club.

Having been a member of the national championship club crops judging team from Valley county, Bill is quite well known to club boys and girls over the county. He is expected to have a successful year in leading the swine club.

With bred sow sales on at this time of the year, the Ord club leader believes it would be well for 4-H club members to begin looking for good brood sows to use in their projects. It is an important part of starting a successful swine club year, he points out.

Garnick stresses the value of type in picking the sows for the club work. Citing his own experience when he was told the type was the big thing to look for in a sow, Bill says he didn't find out until after year's experience in club work. On every hand, he was advised to get a sow of good type. No one volunteered to tell him just what good type really meant.

Gradually, however, the premier Valley county 4-H club boy began to learn what the term type meant. Today he is telling his prospective club members that they should look for a hog that is well proportioned throughout the body. In addition, the hog should be large enough to have plenty of constitution. Garnick doesn't like a short and chubby type of pig.

"There are some very common faults in hogs that are sometimes very serious," Bill declares. "Two of the most common, perhaps, are the weakness behind the shoulders and weakness on the pasterns. Any hog with these faults certainly will not get very far in the show ring."

With the advent of young Garnick into leading a club, it appears as though one of the most successful swine club years in the history of club work here will be enjoyed, those at the agriculture college point out. The Barker pig club, the R. K. D. club, and the Davis Creek clubs are expected to be strong again this year.

Last year the R. K. D. swine club carried off the highest honors in club work in swine project. The Ord club didn't fare so well in competition with Mrs. Fowler's Arcadia boys and Garnick hopes to be able to develop a club here that will compete on even terms with the Arcadia club.

Since sows in the sow and litter 4-H club are to farrow after March 1, Garnick hopes to call the initial meeting of the club soon and get organized. Boys and girls anxious to get into the Ord club should get in touch with Bill or County Agent Carl Dale, both at Ord.

Colleges May Merge.

York college may be merged with another United Brethren school at Kansas City, says President J. R. Obermiller. The church board of education recently expressed the opinion that the mission school support both institutions. Several Ord people have attended York college.

DALE SAYS SEED LIST AVAILABLE

Lists Certified Growers Over State. Nebraska 60 Is Popular Wheat.

Valley county farmers may now get the 1931 certified seed lists for spring grain and flax, according to County Agent Dale. The seed lists are being distributed from the office of Paul Stewart, extension agronomist at the college of agriculture, this week.

The new catalog stresses the value of using a standard improved variety of seed. The standard seed increases the profits and also simplifies marketing and increases the demand from millers for Nebraska wheat. The use of standard spring grain varieties is also well worthwhile, it states.

Farmers near Ord are told that more than 65 percent of the winter wheat planted in Nebraska is Nebraska 60 variety and other improved strains from the college of agriculture. It is most probable that the percentage runs so high here since wheat production is not as great as in the panhandle of western Nebraska. Nevertheless, Ord farmers point out that Nebraska 60 is a popular winter wheat and is planted to some extent in Valley county.

Though there is no certified small grain or flax available in Valley county, farmers near here may get their certified seed from nearby growers of standard varieties. County Agent Dale points out that it is essential especially in some crops to get the seed as close to local conditions as possible so as to make it adaptable to Valley county climate and rainfall.

All seed listed in the catalog is described for purity, color, and test weight. In addition each seller has a definite number of bushels for sale.

The seed lists are free and available at County Agent Dale's office in Ord.

If the weather permits, a crew of men will start clearing the Ericson road soon as it is cut up very bad. Carl Asimus is overseeing the work.

Unlike other remedies if he will protect the pheasant he will be able to raise several hundred a year on the average farm.

"The present income to the State from hunting and fishing permits is around $200,000.00 each year. With State wide distribution of the pheasant this will be increased at least $50,000.00. A large part of our moneys so received are being spent by the Game Forestation and Parks Commission in the purchase of lakes for public shooting, fishing and recreation grounds which are for all the people to enjoy. Anything which hampers those who spend their money for hunting and fishing licenses, will cut down the revenue and make it impossible for the State to buy these places, but anything that tends to make it more possible to get a bag of game will increase the revenue proportionately and we may acquire these lakes before they are taken over by a few sportsmen who have the money to buy them."

LOW CORN PRICE MAKING FEEDING OPERATIONS BIG

Greeley County Farmer Says Stock Being Held Back. Little Corn Marketed.

Hogs and cattle feeding operations evidently are about the same in Greeley county as in Valley if press dispatches from Omaha indicate. Feeders shipping from here have said that the stock is being held back and that little corn is moving to the elevators because of the prevailing prices. Greeley county farmers make the same assertions.

James Scott of Greeley county who recently shipped to Omaha says a great share of the hogs in Greeley county are being held back. Most of them are ready to come to market any time but growers are reluctant to sell at present levels. The same holds true here in Valley county, local farmers emphasize.

The Greeley county man says if, anything, there are more cattle on feed than last year in his home county. A big corn crop that was worth comparatively little has stimulated feeding. Corn will bring but about forty cents, he says through a press dispatch. Scott believes the corn is too cheap to sell outright and that little has been moving in Greeley county.

SWINE SHOWS NEED BIGGER PRIZES TODAY

Mrs. Fowler of Arcadia Says State Fair Does Not Pay Enough.

In line with criticisms from leading livestock breeders over the state, Mrs. Morris Fowler of Arcadia believes that premiums paid at the large swine shows are not enough. She declares she isn't satisfied with present conditions at all fairs, including state and county.

State papers have carried dispatches in recent editions about leading swine breeders and feeders who brought out their disapproval of swine shows. It is quite evident over the country the shows have been less and less important and interesting each successive year in the past. Though this interest has not sagged at county fairs such as the one held in Ord each fall, there has been a marked decreased importance of swine exhibits at the larger shows such as the state fair.

The Arcadia woman who leads two 4-H clubs in her community maintains that the premium money paid at state fairs is entirely too small in place of seven to fifteen places, she suggests that the number of placings be cut down to five or eight places. She would have the state board of agriculture pay $10 for first place in each class and so on down in the respective classes.

If the present situation continues to exist where many moneys are awarded in each class, the club leader believes the paying of more money would help the situation. As it is now the 4-H club members have a hard time making expenses when showing at the state fairs such as the one at Lincoln.

Speaking of the county fair and the swine shows, the Valley county woman thinks there should be more support given by county and business places. In the past there has been very little. Another suggestion in place of seven to fifteen placings, she suggests that the number of placings be cut down to five or eight places. She would have the state board of agriculture pay $10 for first place in each class and so on down in the respective classes.

Mrs. Fowler, however, does not believe that money is all that 4-H club members in Valley county and over the state get out of 4-H club work. She stresses the value of education and finishing up at the end of the year. The Arcadia woman has been the leader of the R. K. D. litter club last year which was one of the outstanding pig clubs in Nebraska.

At 97, This Oklahoma Farmer Dares Younger Men to Do Things He Can

"I BET that there is not another man in the state within 25 years of my age who can do the things I can."

This was the boast J. R. (Uncle Johnny) Smith, 97-year-old farmer living near Haskell, Okla., made recently when the city of Muskogee presented him a gold-headed cane for being the oldest male citizen in the county.

Perhaps there will be few to challenge this rugged nonagenarian who for nearly a century has filled the soil of eastern Oklahoma. Robust, muscular, and towering well above the six-foot mark, Uncle Johnny carries his splendid physique with the comportment of an army officer.

Swings a Mighty Ax

Folks who know him say that his good health cannot be doubted and they vow he can wield an ax much better than any average young man of today. But listen to Farmer Smith himself:

"I ride Fanny," he says, referring to his old speckled mare, "to town twice a week to buy the groceries, and I have walked it a distance of seven miles, a time or two."

"Anybody," Uncle Johnny contends, "is just as old as he feels. I can walk, talk, see and hear as well now as I could half a century ago, and I am sure I will live well past the 100 mark."

"Well, I say I am as good as I used to be, but I guess I ain't." He used to be able to hit a sackbrab with a rock at 50 paces, but he missed one the other day. Maybe my eyesight is falling me a little."

Still Going Strong

Farmer Smith, who really looks little more than half his age, has been farming the same tract of 120 acres of land, a mile south of Haskell, since 1918. Since the death of his wife, not long ago,

They want him to slow up, but Uncle Johnny Smith, 97, above, shows he's as fit as he was half a century ago.

He has been living with his son, J. S. Smith, and his grandson, W. E. King, who share the many duties of the farm.

Least you think Uncle Johnny is let off lightly, he reminds you: "But I still do my part of the work. When there is farming to be done I always do my share, besides chopping all the fire wood and doing most of the chores about the house. My son and grandson are always wanting me to slow up, but I tell them that work never hurt anyone. Look at me. I work like this because I want to."

Uncle Johnny's hobby is reading newspapers and magazines. As a consequence he can discuss authoritatively on such contemporaneous topics as prohibition, farm relief, the presidential outlook for 1932.

He was born in Wayne county, Ky., on July 11, 1832, and spent his early life there in the hills. He has had many experiences in Kentucky feudal clan wars.

His present home faces the county line separating Muskogee and Okmulgee counties. Had his home been located just across the road, which also is a part of the farm, he would not have been eligible as a candidate for the cane.

But Uncle Johnny would not have been sorry to have lived across the road. "For," he said, "the fact they are giving me this cane for being the oldest man in Muskogee county makes me feel like an old man. I think that they should have given it to some other person, about half my age, who already is so feeble that he can hardly walk without it."

This Nebraskan Has Lived on His Claim 75 Years

Seventy-five years is a long time to live on a piece of land but Samuel Gramlich likes it. He was born in the territory of Nebraska January 18, 1856. Long before that his father, Alois Gramlich, came to America from Germany on a sailing vessel that consumed 90 days in making the passage.

In 1855 Alois Gramlich and his wife left Illinois for California in a train of prairie schooners with all their possessions. When the travelers reached Kanesville, now Council Bluffs, they discovered the emigrant train they expected to join had already left for California. They faced the prospect of waiting until the next year for another train to be formed. They decided to put up for the winter near Bellevue at a place where hay could be obtained for their stock. They selected claims at East Larimer Mills, a steamboat landing on the Missouri, near where Lo Platt now stands. By spring the train disbanded. Some of the members went back to Illinois, their old home; the rest, all but the Gramlichs, went to California. Mr. Gramlich took a pre-emption claim of 160 acres but traded it later for one he liked better. He gave his last horse to boot because it had wood and water. Having no horses he was compelled to go back to Illinois and buy a span for $200. That was in 1857. It was eight years before he got that debt paid.

Mr. Gramlich recalls that his first school was held in a granary, next in a neighbor's farm house. His third school was district o. 6 in Sarpy county, a log house with one door, three windows and a sod roof. The seats were cottonwood slabs 14 feet long, flattened on the seat side. The pioneer citizen with the prize record for continuous residence on one piece of land has eleven children. He and his wife celebrated their golden wedding last September.

Rev. W. H. Wright, of the Ord M. E. church, was a guest and speaker at the Ord Rotary club's luncheon Monday. His talk was about George Washington. Next Monday Rotarians will go to Grand Island to attend an inter-city meeting.

Fire Prevention Notes.

Because of their tremendous explosive force when mixed with air and the fact that they vaporize rapidly into highly inflammable gases, the use of gasoline, benzine or naphtha by housewives or others in cleaning clothing in the home is most dangerous.

A record of 392 fires in clothing factories shows that 173 were caused by careless smokers. In one instance, a fire resulting from carelessness on the part of a smoker caused the death of over 100 of the female employees of a New York cloak factory; while fifteen girls lost their lives in a Pittsburgh paper box factory fire, where a cigaret smoker dropped a lighted match in a pile of scrap material on the workroom floor.

Lowest Price of Baby Chix in History

Do this before you buy them: Clean, scrub and disinfect your brooder house, (Chloralide is good) move your brooder house to new ground. Do not crowd your chix in a small house—three chix for one foot of floor space. Buy brooder stove with plenty of capacity, you will need it some time. Never put any more than 500 chix under one stove—350 chix will make you more money. Have wire guard ready, it is needed for the first two days. Have plenty feeders ready, the twenty-four inch feeder for 50 chix. Use clean drinking fountains and plenty of them, also for your clean bedding buy Peat Moss. Keep this in your mind and you will make a lot of money from highest quality chix obtainable at the Ord Hatchery.

Same care is given to your custom hatching as to our highest quality eggs.

ARTIFICIAL ICE PLANT SETTLED OLSSON STATES

Will Have 10-Ton Plant Going By May 1; Will Enlarge Later, Former Ord Boys Says.

That he will have an artificial ice plant large enough to make ten tons of ice daily operating in Ord by May 1 is the statement made Tuesday by Olaf Olsson, former Ord boy who is moving here from Omaha this week. He has already purchased the machinery and expects to start Monday on a building fifty feet square, planning to have the building completed within three weeks.

He will purchase a truck and start his own delivery system, Mr. Olsson says. Artificial ice will be delivered at 60c per hundred pounds, the same price that has been charged in the past for natural ice. People who wish to come after their ice may purchase it on the ice plant platform at 50c per 100 pounds, Mr. Olsson says. The plant's location has not been definitely determined as yet but it will be within three blocks of the business district and, probably closer, the owner promises.

The artificial ice plant's slogan will be "as pure as the water you drink" as Mr. Olsson plans to use the filtered city water in making his ice. City electric power will be used and the plant will give the Mistaken For Bandits.

Mistaken for the Hastings bandits robbers while enroute to Lincoln last week, Lev Chippis and Ted Pettier were pursued for many miles by state officers. The two local men were driving Pettier's Chevrolet, which is similar to the car driven by the Hastings bandits. Officers failed to realize their mistake until they caught up with and questioned the two local men. It was an exciting trip all the way for greatly nearby home, the Pettier car struck and killed a cow belonging to Sam Boettger.

Would Dismiss Hoyt Appeal.
On the grounds that E. Rose, attorney for George Hoyt, of Burwell, made an error in filing Hoyt's appeal from a thirty day sentence given him in county court on a liquor charge, County Attorney Geo. Munn has filed in district court a motion to dismiss the appeal. A hearing will be held before Judge E. P. Clements Thursday. Should Mr. Munn's motion be sustained, Hoyt will be forced to serve his sentence, six days of which are to be on a bread and water diet.

Parents of Twin Boys.
The first pair of twins reported to the Quiz so far in 1931 arrived at the Ord hospital early Monday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Mark Tolten. The twins are boys, fine healthy little fellows, and they have been named Richard George and Ronald James. Mother and babies are doing nicely under the care of Dr. C. J. Miller.

Southern Drought Sufferers Express Their Appreciation

The thanks and appreciation of Idabel, Okla., people to Valley county people who donated to the car of flour sent by the Ord post, American Legion, are expressed in a letter received this week by C. J. Mortensen, commander of the local Legion post, from J. M. Craig, chairman of drought relief in McCurtain county. It follows:
Dear Sir: We have, today, received the car of flour from the citizens of Valley county through the American Legion post. This flour arrived here in good shape and will be distributed to the destitute farmers in this county. The value of the car on the Idabel market is $1,820.30. The Red Cross chapter will see that this flour is placed in the homes of the destitute of this county and in behalf of these people I want to extend to your post and the citizens of your county, their sincere appreciation.
Yours very truly,
J. M. Craig.

Mary Kirby And Elwin Boyce Wed

In Loup City last Wednesday, Feb. 25, Miss Mary Kirby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kirby, became the bride of Elwin Boyce, son of Fred Boyce. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Birmingham, pastor of the Loup City M. E. church. Fifty guests were present that day at a lovely wedding dinner served at the home of the bride's parents and the young people received many lovely gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Boyce will make their home for the present on the Ed Verstraete farm, where Mr. Boyce will be employed.

COUNTY URGED TO COMPLETE ORD TO BURWELL ROAD

County Board Passes Resolution Asking for Completion of Grading and Gravel.

The state department of public works is urged to complete grading and graveling on the highway between Ord and Burwell this summer, in a resolution adopted Tuesday by the Valley county board of supervisors. The resolution was proposed by Morris Sorensen and passed unanimously. Bids are being called for at present for grading between Ord and Ellyria, the route to follow the railroad tracks, but supervisors are anxious that the entire highway be completed this year. They are not interested in the specific route the highway follows but want it completed without fail, the Sorensen resolution says.

The resolution will be forwarded to State Engineer Cochran at once.

Levels Will Return.
Ord friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jontie Level will be interested to know that they are going to return to Nebraska this spring after living at Long Beach, Calif., for many years. They have arranged to come to Brewster, Neb., to take over the store and ranch interests of a couple of cousins who wish to retire.

Old Settler Crosses Divide.
North Loup, Mar. 4.—(Special)—Mrs. Will Kildow received word this morning that her father, Sam Buffington, had just passed away. He was at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Frank Mulligan, at St. Paul, Neb. The Buffington family were early settlers in the southeast part of Valley county.

Ten Thousand Acres Now Leased For Oil

J. D. Barefield, who is here in charge of oil leasing operations for the Phillips Oil & Gas Company, reports that his company now has more than 10,000 acres in Mira Valley under lease and that more is being leased at a rapid rate. C. A. Anderson has been employed by Mr. Barefield to assist him in obtaining the leases.

Mr. Barefield repeats his promise that as soon as 25,000 acres are under lease a test well will be drilled.

Attend Inter-City Meeting.
Five Ord rotarians were in Grand Island Monday attending an inter-city Rotary meeting. Those who went from here were George A. Gard, E. C. Weller, Irl Tolcan, James Misko and Roy Collison. Other cities represented were Aurora, Minden, Kearney, Hastings and Grand Island. About eighty-five club members were present.

Carl Bouda Better.
Carl Bouda writes the Quiz this week that he is improving, following an operation twenty days ago for gonorrhea, that he feels like a new man and that he expects to return home inside of a week or ten days. He has been at Rochester, Minn., for several days.

The Catholic ladies will hold a bake sale at the Pecinka & Perinski market next Saturday, March 7.

COMMERCE BODY TO HOLD YARD, GARDEN CONTEST

Prizes Will Be Awarded To House Holders Who Make Most Improvements During Year.

A "Yard and Garden Contest" with prizes to the home owners who make the biggest improvement in their places during the summer of 1931 will be sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, directors decided at their monthly meeting last Thursday evening. The contest is being undertaken as part of a campaign to make Ord a more beautiful city. Definite plans for the contest have not been worked out as yet.

The committee to take charge of arrangements for the contest is the chamber's regular public affairs committee, which is headed by C. J. Mortensen. Other members are John Goddard, A. J. Meyer, Ign. Klima, Jr., and Forrest Johnson. The Chamber of Commerce probably will offer cash prizes to winning yards and gardens with supplementary prizes offered by various business places in Ord and nurseries in other places.

Other business taken up by the Chamber included an endorsement of Olaf Olsson's proposal to build extensive improvements and met with much interest. The Chamber of Commerce is, of course, greatly interested in seeing oil drilling done in this locality.

Postmaster Edwin Clements appeared to request the Chamber's aid in seeing that 85 percent of Ord people have city mail boxes installed before free city delivery starts April 1 and a committee with C. J. Mortensen as chairman, was named to take charge of this work.

Several other matters were discussed, among them being the possibility of getting a cannery factory to locate here. It was reported that one canning magnate would build a factory here if assured of 5,000 acres under irrigation.

The meeting was one of the most successful the Chamber of Commerce has ever held. All but one of the directors were present and several members also attended. Another regular meeting will be held March 26.

Competition Keen, County Buys Lumber At Minimum Prices

With more than a dozen bidders present, Valley county supervisors bought bridge lumber and road machinery at minimum prices at their session Tuesday. Six lumber bids were submitted and the Wheeler Lumber & Bridge Supply company was given the order, their bid being $38 lower than the nearest competitor. Valley county will use two or three carloads of lumber during the summer and bought it at the lowest prices in many years.

The same situation existed when bids for a Duplex motor maintenance were opened. The Nebr. Cultivator & Manufacturing Co., of Wahoo, was the successful bidder. The Interstate Machinery Co., of Omaha, was awarded an order for a Monarch caterpillar type tractor when their bid was found to be the lowest of several submitted.

Mrs. Weverka, 89, Died February 25

Mrs. Frances Weverka, one of the old pioneers of the Woodman Hall neighborhood, passed away last Wednesday morning at the age of 89 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jos. Moravec. Funeral services were held at the German church where a choir composed of Mrs. Jos. Suchanek, Mrs. Jos. Dworak, Mrs. John Ulrich and Mrs. Jos. Jablonski sang the requiem mass. Six grandsons, Edward and William Moravec, Emanuel Weverka, Wilf Kriss, Paul and John Weverka, served as pall-bearers. Deceased leaves to mourn her death three sons, Joseph, John and Martin, and two daughters, Mrs. Jos. Moravec and Mrs. James Kriss, also a large number of grandchildren. She was laid to rest in German Catholic cemetery.

Bathing Season Opens.
Two Brewster young ladies, Blanche White and Kathryn Erickson, opened the 1931 swimming season when they went into the North Loup river on February 15. This is five days earlier than they went swimming last year.

Ord Hotel Owners Plan 20 Thousand Dollar Addition

With a plan in mind to spend $20,000 or more in building an addition to their hotel here and doing extensive remodeling and modernizing, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Partridge and daughter, Theima, have engaged Architect H. A. Raapke, of Omaha. Mr. Raapke is the architect who designed the new Ord theatre. He is making plans and estimates at present and the Partridge family hope to be able to go ahead with their plans this spring or summer.

MATT VAVRA HAS STROKE, GOES TO REWARD MARCH 2

Resident of Valley County For 60 Years; Funeral Service Held At 2 P. M. Wednesday.

Matt Vavra, 77, a resident of Valley county for sixty years, went to his reward March 2, death occurring at 5:30 a. m. four days after a stroke of paralysis. Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Bohemian hall, Rev. Filipi, of Clarkson, having charge, and interment was in the Bohemian National cemetery here.

Mr. Vavra was born Feb. 23, 1853 in Budejovec, Bohemia, and in 1870 he came to this country and settled on a farm in Valley county, Nebraska. On Feb. 24, 1883 he was married to Miss Mary Severin and the family home was in Germanium township until 1919, when they moved to Ord. Mr. Vavra's death occurred at his home here.

Besides his widow he is survived by seven children, Mrs. Peter Dargies and George Vavra, of Ord, Mrs. Anna Mach, Mrs. Antonia Elchstedt and Mrs. Rose Suppos, of New Rayner, Colo., William Vavra, Joe Vavra and Lloyd Vavra, all of Germanium township.

Other near relatives surviving include two brothers, Frank Vavra, of Wyoming, and Joe Vavra, of Minnesota, and two sisters both of whom live in Minnesota. Several grandchildren also survive.

Pall-bearers at the funeral yesterday were John Dorovka, John Sveinaker, John Zukoski, Frank Kriz, John Host and John Valasek. Music was furnished by a mixed quartet composed of Mrs. Jos. P. Barta, Mrs. A. S. Koupal, Dr. F. L. Blessing and Geo. W. Collipriest, with Mrs. Marion Cushing at the piano.

Leach Sentenced To State Prison

When Leland Leach appeared in district court here last Thursday and pled guilty to a charge of forgery, he was sentenced to serve from one to two years in the state reformatory at Lincoln. Charges against him were filed by George Munn, county attorney, and Judge E. P. Clements was on the bench. Young Leach, whose parents live near Morrill, came to this district from Wyoming. He held contracts for hauling gravel between Erickson and the Spalding-Bartlett highway and came to Ord two weeks ago to buy some merchandise, paying Ord stores with checks to which he forged the name of "Joe Anderson." He denied fraudulent intent at first but last week attempted to escape from county jail. When recaptured he admitted the forgeries.

Itinerary Puzzles These Tourists

Taking a round the world trip has its worries, too, as you can judge from the occupied expressions on the faces of these tourists. Here you see Janet and Jean Adams trying to make something out of a travel guide on the liner Shinyo Maru on which they are bound for Shanghai on the last lap of their globe circling trip. They are 13 months old.

ALL-STARS LOSE BY SINGLE POINT TO BOELUS TEAM

Free Scoring Thriller Monday Is Won By Visitors; Andersen's Beat North Loup.

By the margin of a single point the Ord All-Stars lost their last game of the season Monday night to Andy Jensen and his Boelus town team, the game being a free scoring battle with the final score standing at 35 to 34. Ord led by a small margin most of the way through but when Boelus took a six point lead late in the final period the All-Stars were unable to pull up even again.

Led by captain Krefel, the Ord scorers machine was working to perfection but the flashy team work of Boelus penetrated the Ord defense time and again. Andy Jensen, with 12 points, and a big center, Tockey, with 8 points, led the Boelus attack. Tockey's one-hand overhead shot proved a big factor in the Boelus win.

Crows Departing For Places Where No Bounties Paid

"We're getting rid of our crows and it isn't costing us much either," said Ign. Klima, jr., county clerk, yesterday. Since March 1, when Valley county began paying a bounty of 5c per head on crows, only $11.10 has been paid out but County Clerk Klima estimates that there are fewer crows by thousands than there were previous to February 13 when the bounty act went into effect. The black scavengers are departing for counties where no bounty is paid.

Cecil Oliver and Lee Klingler, with a basket of 180 crow heads, received the first bounty warrant here March 2. Ted Albers, who brought in 42 heads, got the only other warrant issued up to Wednesday morning.

Those who have gone crow hunting say that the birds are less plentiful and get rarer every day. It is believed that a year or two of the bounty will reduce crows to the minimum in Valley county.

Ella Weekes Given Divorce; Settlement Of Property Made

Mrs. Ella Weekes was given a divorce from Dr. C. W. Weekes in district court here last Thursday. Judge E. P. Clements occupying the bench. Mrs. Weekes had sued on grounds of extreme cruelty. By the terms of a property settlement made more than a year ago, Dr. Weekes pays his former wife $3,000 in cash and $100 per month for forty-nine months, the payments dating back to October 15, 1929. Mrs. Weekes also was given the family household furniture and the fees of her attorneys, Davis & Vogelanz, were paid by the doctor. She agreed to transfer title to an Oldsmobile car to her husband. Dr. Weekes did not contest the divorce.

Coyote Hunt Held, No Success Sunday

More than 100 hunters with about fifty hounds took part in a coyote drive west of Ord Sunday but though several of the animals were seen they went through the circle and escaped. It is thought that the hunters bunched up too much to make the drive a success. Another hunt is being planned for a later date, at which time those participating will try to correct the fault of the first drive.

HANSEN SUFFERS STROKE, PASSES AWAY MONDAY

Had Just Moved From Home In Ord To Garfield County Farm When Fatally Stricken.

Suffering a stroke of paralysis and an attack of double pneumonia Saturday, soon after he finished moving from his home in Ord to a farm in Garfield county, H. P. Hansen, 66, passed away Monday, March 2. Funeral services are being held at 2:30 p. m. today at the Danish church in Ord.

Hans Peter Hansen was born at Fyn, Denmark, Dec. 1, 1864. At the age of fifteen he came to the United States and prepared a home for his parents, who came over two years later. On Sept. 12, 1890, he was united in marriage to Kjestine Olsen, at Minden, Neb., and to this union seven children were born, two of them preceding their father in death. Besides his loving wife Mr. Hansen is survived by the following children: Mrs. Marie Rasmussen, Mrs. Ella Witt, Nels Hansen, Martin Hansen and Mrs. Clara Barnes. He also leaves twelve grandchildren and three sisters, Mrs. Chris Larsen, Minden, Mrs. George Petersen, Hildreth, and Mrs. Paul Borgard, Grand Junction, Colo.

When a child Mr. Hansen united with the Lutheran church and remained a faithful member all his life. He was a loving husband and father and a substantial citizen who will be greatly missed.

Supervisors Oppose Gas Tax Exemptions

Bills pending in the state legislature to exempt gasoline for agricultural purposes are opposed in a resolution passed Tuesday by the Valley county board of supervisors. Valley county's official board feels that letting the bars down in this matter will force the state to exempt also gas used by railroads, by dry cleaners, by aeroplanes and for other purposes and will result in a drastic curtailment of the state's highway system.

In North Dakota last year gas tax exemptions resulted in a 48 percent loss to the highway fund in South Dakota a 25 percent loss as reported from the same cause Kansas had a 17 percent loss which will be greater this year if the exemption is not repealed.

Kerosene is the fuel most used on tractor farming, the board's resolution pointed out, and reducing the price on gasoline will effect only a small saving to farmers but will work havoc to the highway program.

The resolution was proposed by E. Johnson and was passed unanimously.

Will Play In Tournament.
Coach Krefel's Ord high school basketball team is competing this week in the district tournament at Grand Island. A good showing at this tournament will entitle the Ord team to enter the state tournament which will be held this year at Hastings. Last Saturday night the Ord warriors showed class in beating North Loup 21 to 13.

Farmers Store Meets Today.
The annual meeting of stockholders of the Farmers Grain & Supply company is being held today at the Bohemian hall here.

COUNTY BOARD CUTS PAY ROLL $110 PER MONTH

Paupers Who Fail Sign Affidavit Taken From List; Necessities Defined By Supervisors.

The Valley county "pauper payroll" was cut to the extent of $110 monthly by supervisors at their closing session yesterday, the board continuing with its economy policy as expressed at the January meeting. All who received county aid last year but who did not sign pauper affidavits were removed from the payroll. Those who will occupy places on the regular payroll and receive aid during coming months with amounts they receive each month, are as follows:

Elle Larkin, $25. Wm. Weare, $20. George Weare, $15. Ed. Turek, $15. Ed. Hurlbert, rent, $8. Euphemia Fenton, $10. Kate Van-Slyke, $10.

Those who receive mother's aid are as follows:
Barbara Urban, $15. Bernice Stuart, $15. Clara Kenfield, $20. Wilma White, $25.

In addition to the regular payroll there are many who receive groceries, coal and medical attendance at county expense from time to time. The board will adopt a more stringent policy in such cases as a result of a resolution defining food necessities which was proposed by Joe Vasek and passed unanimously by the board.

Necessities, according to the resolution, are flour, potatoes, beans, lard, oatmeal, coffee, butter, tea, soap and sugar. No claims will be allowed for anything except above items unless authorized by a supervisor in writing. The board passed this resolution because it has been called to their attention that several persons receiving county aid regularly have been purchasing merchandise which supervisors class as luxuries.

Davis Discusses State Income Tax

Former Ord Man Guest Of Rotary Club Monday, Endorses Bill Now Before Legislature.

Horace M. Davis, of Lincoln, a former publisher of the Ord Journal, was a guest of Ord Rotarians Monday and made an interesting talk on the proposed state income tax law, which is now before the Nebraska legislature. Mr. Davis heartily favors the bill.

In nine states income tax laws are now in effect with conspicuous success, Mr. Davis says. Twenty more state legislatures are considering similar laws this winter and it is probable that least ten additional states will adopt such laws.

Income tax laws are immediately responsible for lowering agricultural taxes wherever they are adopted, according to Mr. Davis. A recent survey made in Iowa showed that the income of all people in the state was approximately one and one-half billion dollars. Of this total the income of farmers was 25 percent of the total. In striking contrast to this discovery, farmers of Iowa last year paid 88 percent of the state's taxes. "Why should a class of people earning only 25 percent of a state's income pay 88 percent of its taxes?" Mr. Davis asks. Iowa will adopt income tax laws this year, he says.

The federal income tax law has been in operation since 1911 and at present about 60 percent of federal taxes are raised by this means. Mr. Davis predicts that within a few years every state in the union will have adopted a state income tax, as such a law equalizes the tax burden and makes people who are able to pay the tax do so.

Representative Marion J. Cushing of this district is said to be one of the sponsors of the income tax law in the lower house of the Nebraska legislature.

Farmers Having Good Sale.
Wm. Heuck, manager of the Farmers Grain & Supply company, tells the Quiz that their stores are having a fine sale. It started last Thursday and continues through this week. A large advertisement of the sale appears on page three.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

I was at the picture show recently and an advertising slide was run for a local draying concern, showing a horse drawn dray backed up to a loading platform. R. O. Hunter was named as the drayman and I have been watching since to see his horse-drawn dray in operation. I would think Ralph would get a new, up-to-date slide to use in his advertising.

Col. Weller got the paper the other day and about the first thing he noticed was a story headed "Spring Styles Shown At Our Store" and he carefully cut the article out before folding the paper up to take home, remarking that it wouldn't do to let the Missus see that story.

Bill Tunnicliff wrote an ad which appeared on page 12 of the Quiz last week that was worthy a front page story hook-up, but as Bill didn't get his ad copy in till next to the last minute he didn't get the story. Anyhow, if you have not read the ad look up last week's paper and read it, then kill Bill and Gould about it.

In presenting a long time program for Kansas betterment, the governor of that state says that means of making up the raw products of that state into goods ready for consumption at home is necessary. In other words he says that there is too great a spread between what the producer gets for the raw material and what he pays for the finished product. Freight is paid both ways by the Valley county coal-miner for one thing, then the manufacturing cost is paid by us to people who pay it out in living expenses in some other place.

I bought a little can of beets the other day. It was canned in a far away state. Included in the price I paid was freight half way across the continent, yet we can raise just as good beets in Valley county as they can raise in York State. We have the people here who can do the work just as well as the people back there can do it. Why not raise and can Valley county coal and sweet corn and peas and sell them to Nebraska people and let New York folks sell their products to their own people?

Jay Auble has invented and patented a store awning which looks like it might make him a millionaire. I wish he could see his way clear to make it in Ord and market it from Ord. The biggest incubator factory in the world is down here at Clay Center and look what that industry has done for that city!

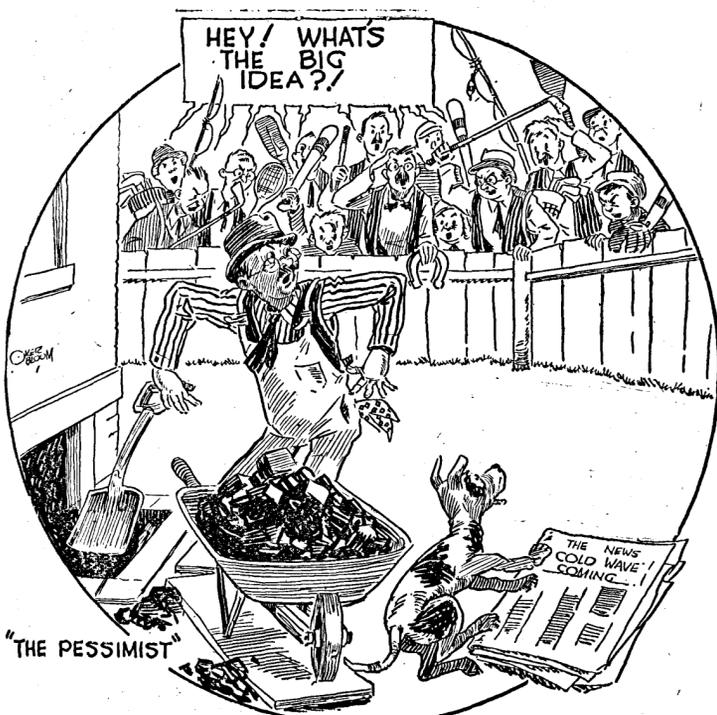

It is probably true that a way will have to be found to sell electric power at a cheaper rate than now prevails before we can hope to get much in the way of manufacturing but I believe that can be managed.

It remains to be seen whether Governor Bryan is wise in all his ideas for retrenchment but from what I have been able to read I believe his idea of saving thirty-five thousand dollars by placing the child welfare work under the department of the state superintendent is a good one. I do fancy it a good joke on the governor though if the legislators should reduce his salary from $7,500 to $5,000 and I shouldn't be surprised if $5,000 a year would be as much as most of our governors have been able to make and surely the honor is worth something.

I noticed that Representative Cushing voted both ways on one measure the other day so he must have been right one time or the other.

C. A. Hager recalls that during the winter of 1894-5 he didn't wear an overcoat all winter and he says it was just such a winter as we have had this winter and that a good crop was raised the following year. Mr. Hager has no patience with the croakers who are predicting a dry year and a poor crop because we have had an open winter.

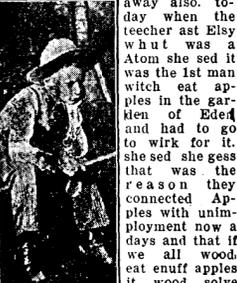

It is time for those Ordites who are going to have a prettier flower garden and lawn than they had last year to get busy. I believe that Ord made a hundred per cent improvement last year in beautifying the home grounds of the town and I would like to see another hundred per cent gain this year. I planted several hundred bulbs last fall and I have found a sort of partnership with Rufe Clark to raise plants for my flower garden which, in addition to what I can raise in the Quiz building grounds, will be on a whole lot back of the Clark home. We have built a large hotbed in the town and will transplant to a large cold frame which is also built nearby and we plan on having nice plants and plenty of them when it is time around the middle of May, to set them out. I expect to let Rufe do a good part of the work but I want a place to dig in the soil a little when I feel like it and I plan on having enough flowers this summer to keep the Missus making bouquets a lot of the time.

SLAT'S DIARY

Friday—well mebbly I am Dum sum times but they are others to that are that away also. today when the teacher ast Elsy whut was a Atom she sed it was the 1st man witch eat apples in the garden of Eden and had to go to wirk for it. she sed she gess that was the reason they connected Apples with unemployment.

Something Different

Aren't the variegated roofs pretty? The kind that have become fashionable in the last few years? Or perhaps I should say the colored roofs, for the colored shingle ones are eye-catching, too aren't they?

For years and years W. A. Anderson has declared that geological formations of our country indicated oil deposits beneath. Mr. Anderson, who has made an intensive study of many things, is a well informed man who believes in serious self education, and present indications that his oil theory may be proved, do not surprise his friends. They know his words are not lightly spoken. And now the enthusiastic interest displayed by some of the big oil producing companies bears him out.

There are several ways of being educated. You may know a smattering about many things, and not a dozen facts about any subject, or you may choose to go deeply into one subject in turn, and to make your self extremely well informed on that one before passing to another.

Mr. Anderson is the last named type.

Here's hoping the flag pole doesn't take any more shots at him!

The hooked rug fever, which has been so prevalent in the cities for several years, has hit Ord with a loud clatter of 'Blue Nose Hookers'. Among those who meet and hook madly in company are Mrs. Ed Holub, Mrs. August Peterson, Mrs. Ed Vogelanz, Mrs. R. H. Kocina is planning one made of old clothes, one of those clipper ones in lovely colorings. Mrs. Wilford Williams has made several, including a clever little door-step pattern. . . . that means a half round shape. Mrs. Roland Ayres sent a beautiful one to her sister at Christmas time, and Mrs. Keith Lewis and Miss Eunice Chase began a large one together.

Every night the high school is in use, as lights tell the passer-by. Which has occasioned several comments. Which side are you on? Some think it outrageous to burn up public money like that. And others suitably reply, Why not use this beautiful and expensive building for as many community enterprises as possible, since we the tax-payers have helped erect it?

Hurray for the grapefruiters! Hadn't you noticed something flat about Rudy's singing? A monotonous quality, every tone similar to every other? A flat, nasalness? Of course, it may not be nice to hurl overripe grapefruit, but just the same, I am kinda on their side!

Have you heard about the Royal Bumps?

That is the rough treatment some of the older boys hand out to some of the younger ones, and which caused the school teachers at the grade school to take the step of punishing children for arriving early, punishing children for starting at exactly the minute which will bring him to school on the dot.

But surely the Royal Bumps can't be extinct? Every day I see small droves of children circling blocks just out of sight of the school, loitering or street corners in large groups playing in the streets, etc. How then can the "Royal Bumps" plan be successful? How about bumping the Royal Bumps?

Those who delight in such play as giving the Royal Bumps don't usually care much for their own medicine!

When You and I Were Young, Maggie

25 Years Ago. The Ord Commercial club called an annual meeting but less than a dozen members were present so it was decided to disband the club.

A new type of gas lamp that pre-heated the gas was advertised as the coming thing by the Ord Gas company. The new lights were in use at the Quiz office.

J. W. Wimberly, who moved to Valley county from York in 1903 and paid $8,000 for a half section in Mira Valley sold 160 acres for more than the purchase price of the whole.

A. J. Firkins held a sale of blooded stock but picked out a poor day for the worst blizzard of the year was raging. However the stock sold well, one bull bringing $305.

Call up the Blue Barn when you want a good pig," advertised Charles A. Miller.

20 Years Ago. Irl D. Telen and Miss Katherine Koupal were married at the Presbyterian manse, Rev. P. A. Davies performing the ceremony. R. Fuss and George McLain loaded their effects into a railroad car and moved to Hamilton county to farm.

Ed Beranek was in Omaha, where he underwent an operation. The Methodists met and elected a building committee for their new church. Rev. A. L. Umpley was chairman and members were D. B. Smith, A. J. Firkins, G. W. Mickelwait, R. C. Bailey and W. W. Haskell.

Amos Harris, better known as "Nigger Amos" passed away at Greeley after a series of paralytic strokes.

W. T. Barstow and Mr. Koupal made a trip to Erlison by automobile, thereby breaking into a news because they accomplished the trip without mishap.

Victor O. Johnson, a former Ord boy, was making a big success as a lawyer and statesman at Shoshone, Idaho.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Do you ever make meat balls? This deliciously different way of serving meat will please you and your family too. Made a little large, and with a sauce as this recipe suggests, they provide all the needed, much touted vitamins. Made in a wee size, they are something novel to put in a meat soup, and will delight the most finicky child.

Meat Ball Recipe. 1 lb. meat 2 eggs 1 tsp. onion, finely cut 1 c. cracker crumbs 1/2 c. milk Beat the eggs into the ground meat, add the cracker crumbs and milk. Make into balls and place in a pan, having 1 tsp. butter and 1 tsp. lard and brown well. Add 1 c. of hot water and cook fifteen minutes. Pour over all 1 small can of tomato soup and let simmer until ready to serve.

Selma E. Robbins, North Loup. Then here is a fruit and cabbage salad that is sure to have just that distinctive touch all good cooks love to administer to a familiar dish. It also comes from North Loup.

Cabbage Salad. Use one medium size head of cabbage cut up fine and salted. Add 1 c. chopped nuts 1 c. cut marshmallows 1/2 c. shredded pineapple 1 c. mashed bananas Then take 1 c. of sweet or sour cream, 4 tsp. sugar, 2 tsp. vinegar and mix well, and add as a dressing to the salad.

Mrs. E. D. Wright, North Loup Such a nice letter came from an Ord girl you all know, saying she certainly enjoyed the recipes printed, and that she knew she could depend on having "good luck" when using the Quiz recipes. She also said she was keeping a scrap book of the recipes. This is a fine idea, and I hope you are all doing it, because although another recipe calendar is planned for next year, it is impossible to print all the good recipes, such as the Quiz would love to do it. And it won't be any reflection on the ones left out, because as far as I know all of them are good. I have never tried one that isn't!

Date Cookies. 1 c. fat (butter) 1 3-4 c. brown sugar 2 eggs 1 tsp. vanilla 1/2 tsp. nutmeg 2 tsp. cinnamon 1 tsp. cloves 1/2 tsp. salt 1 c. chopped dates 1 c. chopped nuts 5 tsp. cream (sweet) 4 c. flour 1 tsp. soda Cream the fat and sugar. Add the eggs, vanilla, spices, dates, nuts and cream, and beat for 3 minutes. Put in the rest of the ingredients and shape into a roll. Chill for 2 hours or longer. Cut off thin slices and bake 12 minutes in moderate oven. Frost with the following icing: 3 tsp. soft butter 3 tsp. boiling coffee 1 tsp. vanilla 1/2 tsp. salt 1 3-4 c. sifted confectioners sugar Mix ingredients, and beat 2 minutes. Carefully spread on the cookies.

Elfrieda Jensen I am sure we thank you very much both for the remarkably good recipe and for the nice sayings.

QUIZ FORUM

Ernest Coats Leaves Pat Fuson in Hole. Dear Quiz: Well, I expected to drop this Everett M. Goats and Pat Fuson stuff but when in last week's Quiz they made fun of me about my pants I got sore. Well, I will admit back in the old days my pants were pretty short but even Pat will have to admit I always had plenty of coats even away back in the old democrat days when prices were worse than they are now.

I suppose I owe Everett M. Goats an apology for thinking he and Pat Fuson were the same person. Well, Everett, after Pat had eaten us all out of grub out here in Vin-ton when he was herding potatoe he was for the liner he decided to move back to Ord. I remember the last time he was here for dinner (the missus cooked an extra bu. of potatoes and an extra dozen of eggs) he said he was through being a farmer. I asked what he was going to do and he said his ambition was to be a great editor like Hank Leggett. Mr. Coats says "If your appetite holds out I guess you will weigh at least 240 lbs. when you get your growth."

Any way, I am sorry Pat is not a barber for I let my whiskers and hair grow in hopes I could make Pat a visit next winter. When I found out Pat wasn't a barber I went over to Leonard Furtak's shop and asked him to reduce prices on a six weeks job and as I was out of cash I asked him what he would take in eggs and butter to do the barber act on me. He figured a while and said it would be 65c cash. I said no cash. He said, well, as I am a married man and keeping house I can use the eggs and butter. He did the job for five dozen eggs and a pound of butter. Now Leonard won't get any more flapper trade since I gave it away he is married. When I came home all shaved up and minus the foliage on my dome the wife did not know me, said she took me for an insurance agent or something just as bad and set the dog on me. He gave me a bite (the first one I had since breakfast).

Well, Everett, when Pat went to Ord he put on another suspender and shed a few freckles but got rid of the newspaper notion. As I was driving the old team down to the Blue Barn one day I met Pat and asked him how he was making it. He said "I am a merchant now. I have learned the mercantile business from bottom to top." "Tell me about it," I said, and Pat says "I went to work at the McLain store on the first day I was there Miss McLain sent me down to the basement to sort potatoes. The next day she sent me up in the attic to wash the windows, so I know it all the way up."

I didn't see Pat for a few months and then I noticed he was getting brown up and had something on his upper lip that looked like with a lot of care it might turn out to be whiskers. Pat told me then that he had visions for Ord. He said there was going to be a solid brick building around the square and a new school house and a great court house. And possibly a new moving picture theater. You know he said that new theater will be so fine we fellows will have to cut out spitting tobacco in the aisles and it won't be nice any more to scratch our backs. Pat said it was going to be some swell town and that he had decided to become a mason. So Pat went to Les Mason and asked for a job to learn the trade and Les told him he had a second hand trowel that he'd give him for the afternoon's work. Pat worked four hours for the trowel, then he figured he had the trade learned and the mason tools to start out with.

Then he put an ad in the Quiz that he was ready to do any kind of mason work. Ormsby Petty lived on his farm out south of Ord at that time (that was before Ormsby became an old maguete) and was one of our rood democrats in those days. But when he wanted results he read the Quiz, even if it was a republican paper. He saw Pat's ad and as he wanted a cistern built he went in to see Pat. Pat thought while waiting for Ord to build it he would take on Ormsby's job so Ormsby laid in a big supply of grub and loaded Pat and his trowel on his spring wagon and went out to the farm. He told Pat to build the cistern egg shape and leave only a four inch hole in the top just big enough to run the four inch pipe from the cave troughs into. Pat gets his scaffolding up inside the cistern, Ormsby hands him the mortar and brick, everything goes fine and Pat had his mind on how he was going to get the contract for the new court house. Ormsby handed him enough mortar and brick to finish the job and went to do the evening chores. Pat finishes up the job and leaves the four inch hole and just then Mrs. Petty called "Supper!" And Pat found that he had built himself into a cistern with only a four inch hole in the top. Well, Everett, I hate to leave Pat in a hole but its time to go milk. Yours truly, Ernest S. Coats, Vinton Farmer.

ARTICLE No. 15

One of the most frequent errors noted at the bridge table is "bidding to the score". Players seem to think that if they have a score toward game, they are justified in making bids that they would never think of doing if they had no score.

The following rule is very simple and should be thoroughly understood. "Never consider the score in making an offensive bid". In other words the score is immaterial when you make an original bid. Such a bid should be the same, irrespective of the score. On the other hand, defensive bids should be made when the opponents' score is such that their bid, if made, will give them the game. Under such conditions the score is important, but players should be sure they understand the distinction: that is, from an offensive standpoint, the score is never important; but, from a defensive standpoint, it always is. Consider the following example hand:

Hearts—A, 9, 7 Clubs—A, Q, J Diamonds—A, K, 4 Spades—Q, 10, 8

Rubber game. AT AUCTION: Y Z—16; A B—0. AT CONTRACT: Y Z—60; A B—0.

AUCTION BIDDING: If Z bids "One No-Trump", A will say "No Bid" and, if Y also passes, B will say "No Bid". But if Y says "Two Diamonds", A at least is not going to leave it in. He will bid "Two Spades". With the score as it is, and with the feeling that Y has a weak hand, A will make an effort over "Two Spades"; B will raise his side's bid to "Three Spades". If Z bids "Four Diamonds", Y falls by a trick. If Z doubles, A goes down only one trick, a cheap save at the score. There is nothing exciting about the above hands. If it were love-all and Z bid "One No-Trump," it would be ridiculous for Y to take out with "Two Diamonds" on the above hand. Let Z have a chance to make game, and don't hoist the white flag by a "weak take-out". And even when the score is 16 or more, a take-out of "One No-Trump" into "Two Clubs" or "Two Diamonds" suggests a weak spot and encourages the opponents to enter the lists.

CONTRACT BIDDING: Z should bid one no trump and A should pass. At contract, Y's obligation to pass with such a weak hand is much stronger than at Auction. If Y passes, B will also pass and Z will play the hand at one no trump. Here is a neat little problem for you to consider:

Problem No. 10 Hearts—4 Clubs—10, 8 Diamonds—A, J, 9, 5 Spades—none

Hearts—5 Clubs—9, 3 Diamonds—7, 6, 3 Spades—Q, 9

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win seven of the eight tricks against any defense? Solution in the next article.

Solution to Problem No. 9 Hearts—A, Q, 10 Clubs—A, K, Q Diamonds—A, K, J, 9, 4 Spades—J, 6, 4

Hearts—8, 6 Clubs—8, 2 Diamonds—Q, 8, 7, 5, 2 Spades—Q, 10, 7, 3

By MRS. RAY GOLDEN

Revival Meetings Close.

The revival meetings, which have been held at the Methodist church the past three weeks, came to a close Sunday evening. Good attendance, good music and fine meetings were experienced throughout the period. Rev. Randall of Scotia had charge of the services.

Second Community Dance.

Another community dance was given at the Electric Theater Monday evening. A large crowd attended and a general good time was had. The music was provided by local talent, who donated their services. The proceeds from the dance will be used for the community park.

Buy Interest In Farm.

A deal transpired last week whereby Dr. F. V. Amick and Paul Chlewski became joint owners of the Joe Wozniak farm located about seven miles from Arcadia on the Loup City road. Dr. Amick and his family will move to the farm as soon as a program of redecorating the interior of the farm home is completed. The doctor will continue his work as a dentist at the office in Loup City which he established several months ago. Mr. Chlewski will assume the management of the farm.

Legion Auxiliary Notes.

The Legion Auxiliary met last Friday afternoon at the Methodist church basement with Mrs. F. H. Christ as hostess. The afternoon was spent singing and eating. After which a lovely lunch was served. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. G. Cruikshank Friday, March 13th.

The Auxiliary Ladies took in about $15 at the lunch which they served at the Gregory Baker's last Saturday afternoon and evening.

The amount will be added to the flower fund of the Auxiliary. Your patronage was greatly appreciated.

Win Debate at Mason City.

The affirmative debating team of the Arcadia high school met the negative team of the Mason City high school at Mason City Friday afternoon of last week and debated the question "Resolved: That the nations should disarm except for such forces as are needed for police purposes." The pastor of the Mason City Baptist church acted as judge and awarded the decision to Arcadia. Misses Marguerite Rettenmayer and Mary Elizabeth Cook and Harold Gates compose the Arcadia affirmative team.

To Add Attractions at Park.

Plans are being made to add a double tennis court to be located at the Community Park. Dirt will be hauled in so as to secure a level field and as soon as this is completed the necessary tennis court equipment will be added.

As soon as warm weather arrives the tables and buildings will be brightened with a coat of paint.

Leaves on Southern Visit.

Mrs. Sara Russell left Tuesday for Hastings where she visited overnight with her daughter, Mrs. Wes Wallace and family. She left Hastings Wednesday for Lucedale, Miss., where she will visit her aunt Mrs. Alice Kinch. Mrs. Russell will also visit relatives in Alabama while away. She plans on being gone about two months.

Farmers Club Meets.

The February meeting of the Farmers Club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Pearson last Saturday, February 28th. About seventy were present. The morning was spent socially and a lovely dinner was served at one. Following dinner the meeting was called to order by the chairman John White.

GLEN D. AUBLE OPTOMETRIST

Presbyterian Church Rummage Sale AND DINNER SATURDAY, MARCH 14

Our Board of Trustees have arranged for a Rummage Sale on March 14th, 1931. The proceeds of which are to be used in cleaning up the indebtedness of the church before the close of the church year. The committee is extremely anxious that our people, both members and friends, respond liberally and graciously with anything that can be turned into cash. If our country folks have livestock or farm products of any kind that they wish to donate, it should be delivered to the Hawkins building, first door north of the State Bank, which has been rented for the sale purpose, or in case of livestock it should be taken to the sale barns.

For further particulars see any member of the trustees COMMITTEE—G. W. Colppriest, Chairman

after which the minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Thurman Bridges.

Recitation by Shirley Pearson, Theodosia Skinner and Earl Nyberg and a song by Lavina Pearson furnished the numbers on the program.

Miss Ruth Leudtke was elected assistant secretary and the club members voted to assist the Men's Community club in sponsoring a corn show at some later date.

The meeting closed with the singing of "America."

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Delano Saturday, March 28th.

Attend Birthday Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Rounds, Mrs. Belle Wall, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Rettenmayer, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Rettenmayer and Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Wall drove to Loup City Sunday where they attended a dinner given by Mrs. Viola Odendahl in honor of her birthday and her fifty-first wedding anniversary. About forty guests attended.

The dining tables were beautifully decorated with cut flowers and a lovely dinner was served the guests at two p. m.

Following the repast reminiscences on the early days were given by Mrs. Otto Rettenmayer and Max Wall and piano numbers by Mrs. Odendahl's daughter, Mrs. Charles Carter, was given.

The Loup City guests presented Mrs. Odendahl with a beautiful electric reading lamp and those from Arcadia presented her with a cedar chest containing a pair of pillow cases and a sheet.

Glendale Literary to Meet.

The Glendale Literary society will meet at the Glendale school house Friday evening, March 6th. An interesting program and a debate will be given.

Reception for Newlyweds.

A reception for Mr. and Mrs. Allen Holmes was given at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Holmes last Friday. About one hundred and sixty guests attended. The day was spent socially and a bounteous dinner was served at noon. The honor guests were the recipients of a large number of beautiful gifts.

Purchase of Hogs.

Win McMichael and Fred Hollingshead left Saturday evening by truck for Carbondale, Kas. 15 miles south of Topeka where they secured two hogs which had recently been purchased by Clayton Ward, well known breeder of Duroc Jerseys. One of the hogs purchased by Mr. Ward was an outstanding boar which won first place at the National Swine Show and first at ten out of twelve state fairs where he was exhibited last year. He is expected to show this hog at the fairs next fall.

city turbines a nice added load, as between four and five hundred kilowatts daily will be used. Modern ice making processes will be interesting to Ord people. A large brine tank is installed through which coils run. The ice is frozen in 300 pound cans, which are submerged in the brine tank. The tank holds 144 of these large cans and it takes from 36 to 48 hours to freeze the ice. When the plant gets started the daily output will be slightly over ten tons.

To begin with Mr. Olsson plans to build a storage room to handle fifty tons of ice and later will enlarge the storage room. He will operate about six months of the year at the beginning and later months out of the year, depending on the demand for ice.

One or two men besides Mr. Olsson will find employment at the plant and he will need at least one truck driver to take care of deliveries.

The ice plant owner is no stranger to Ord people. He is son of Ored Olsson, of this city, and was graduated from the Ord schools in 1920, later graduating from the University of Nebraska. Since that time he has been employed by the Baker Ice Machine company, of Omaha. About a year ago he met and married a Fort Worth, Tex., girl and Mrs. Olsson will accompany her husband to Ord this week. They will make their home with Mr. Olsson's father.

ALL-STARS LOSE BY SINGLE POINT TO BOELUS TEAM

Captain Krejci led scorers with a total of 20 points, 14 of which he scored in the first half. Lashmet played his best game of the season and tallied twice on long shots that centered the basket squarely. Syl Carkoski worked to the play nicely and dropped a couple of short shots.

At half time the Ord team led, 21 to 17, but early in the third quarter Carkoski made his fourth personal and left the game and after that Boelus piled up the score rapidly. Two Boelus players, Tockey and Bremer, played most of the game and kept their heads but managed to keep from fouling.

The All-Stars have played ten games this season, winning five and losing the same number. Attendance has been falling off in recent weeks so the team management has determined to end the season while it is still a financial success.

In a fast preliminary Monday night Andersen's Camels won from the North Loup town team 19 to 11, making the points that spoiled victory in the closing minutes. Carlson led the scoring with 6 points and Gifford was close behind with 5. Andersen, McLain and Ross Blessing also played with Andersen's. The North Loup team was composed of Shotton, Hill, Schaffner, Fuller and Jeffries.

The box score:

Ord All-Stars. ft ft pt pt Krejci, f ..... 8 4 12 Carkoski, f ..... 2 0 4 R. Blessing, f ..... 0 0 0 Lashmet, f ..... 2 0 2 Adams, c ..... 2 2 4 Deeghly, g ..... 1 1 3 Jensen, g ..... 0 1 1 14 6 10 34

Over The Week End Goes Pain and Agony of RHEUMATISM

Money Back If It Doesn't, Say McLain & Sorensen. Large 8 Oz. Bottle 85c

NEW 48 HOUR TREATMENT

Here's the new swift way to drive Uric Acid from your joints and muscles and free your body from Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuritis—many call it the week end treatment—and it is particularly valuable to those who cannot afford to lose time thru the week.

Start to take Allenru as directed on Friday night and keep to bed as much as possible till Monday morning—Allenru acts with double speed when the sufferer is relaxed and resting.

Allenru is a powerful yet harmless medicine—free from narcotics—you can't depend on mild medicines to overcome stubborn rheumatic conditions and handy relievers used only to stop pain won't get the uric acid out of your joints.

Allenru is sold by McLain and Sorensen and all modern druggists America over—an 8 oz. bottle for 85c—And guaranteed to do as advertised or money back.

FACTS You Should Know About FENCE!

The average poor quality galvanized wire has only .00039 inch galvanizing (less than 1/4 as much as "Galvannealed"). Good average galvanized wire has only .00086 inch galvanizing, (1/2 as much as "Galvannealed.")

"GALVANNEALED" wire has .00178 inch zinc protection—4 1/2 times more than the poorest and twice as much as ordinary galvanized wire. Extra heavy patented "Galvannealed" (heat treated) zinc covering, plus copper in the steel (20 to 30 points)—these are the reasons why RED BRAND FENCE so far outlasts all others.

Remember that, regardless of trade name, there are only two kinds of fence wire; namely, patented "Galvannealed" (heat treated) and ordinary galvanized (compression wiped).

Red Brand Galvannealed Outlasts All Others in Actual Weather Tests.

Ord Church Notes Christian Lesson. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon read at all Christian Science churches are as follows on Sunday, March 1, was "Christ Jesus, the citations from the Bible show that the spiritual Christ existed before and after the human Jesus, and is available for every human need for all who understand and obey Jesus' instructions. One reference in the Bible reads, "But as many as receive him, he gives them power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name: Which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God." A citation read from "Science and Health with Key to Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, (p. 473), states, "Jesus established what he said by demonstration, thus making his acts of higher importance than his words. He proved what he taught. This is the Science of Christianity. Jesus proved the people, and he proved the people, and casts out error, to be divine."

Presbyterian Church Notes. Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. A note of interest is the fact the size of the Sunday school has grown so that it is necessary for the Intermediate department to meet at the Legion hall. Come and bring a friend. Morning worship at 11 a. m. Reverend Real will continue his discourses on the life of Christ.

Last Monday night the Religious Education department of the church with eleven members in attendance. Next Monday night the Devotion department will meet at the church at 7:30 o'clock. Choir meeting every Wednesday night at seven thirty o'clock.

Many favorable comments have been passed on the music hour given last Sunday night by the choir and hopes for another program in the near future have been expressed.

Mrs. Goodhand's class will meet next Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Frank Dworak, Jr. Mrs. Meyers will be assistant hostess.

Tuesday night was the third meeting of the Cherokee tribe of the Friendly Indian club sponsored by Mrs. Marjorie Sorensen. The boys of this Sunday school class who have such names as Rising Sun, Cloud and Rain, Moon, etc., entertained the "Squaws" from Mrs. Allen's class.

Tribal officers are Lloyd Nutter, Chief, Wampum Bearer, Arden Clark; Tom Tom, C. Worden; Medicine Man, Dale Hughes; Indian Runner, Robert Albers. These boys will soon have head bands, armbands and friendly Indian buttons on their waists. Their project for this first month is to learn the Ten Commandments, 20th chapter of Exodus and scriptural readings. The point system is carried out by the parents and school teachers so each boy's progress may be noted. These boys are showing splendid enthusiasm and co-operation in working out their program.

Methodist Church. Woodbine Willy says: "You cannot build a democracy on men who are forever thinking of their rights, and never of their responsibilities." And therein lies the appeal of the church for the underlying purpose of its whole program is to make men conscious of their duties. We are working on a good program for next Sunday. Our aim for every sermon is to select some subject that is vital, and make it interesting. Special mention might be made of the evening service. As a carrier for the message we will use Johan Bojer's story "The Power of a Lie." Bojer is a Norwegian and of the best present day writers of fiction. And that reminds me that on another charge ten young men answered for me the question: "Is it ever right to tell a lie?" Their answers will form a good introduction to the discussion. This ought to make an interesting and profitable service for everybody. Remember the mid-week Lenten service on Thursday evening at 7:30. W. H. WRIGHT.

St. John's Lutheran Church. Eight miles south of Ord. English services at 10:30. Sunday school after services. Lutheran hour every Thursday at 9:00 p. m. over Columbia chain. William Bahr, Pastor.

United Brethren Church. Sunday school at 10, preaching at 11 and 7:30. Christian Endeavor at 6:30. Evangelistic services each evening, except Saturday at 7:30. All are welcome and urged to attend. H. H. Spracklen, Pastor.

EDITORS COLUMN The Operetta has gone off with a bang! It was a big success.

The weather is just fine until now when it turned cold and made things pep up a bit.

If the English class under Miss Blanchard keeps up all of the students will be able to pose as an interesting group. Some of the students have very clever ideas.

It seems that Coach's basketball team is picking up. They have won more games this season than they did last season.

The beginners BAND is still tooting. They are coming along. Some day they will be able to toot like the regular band.

The two different colors in the football boy's sweaters makes one think that they do not belong to the same school.

Rev. McCarthy gave us a speech on Monday. Little George never told a lie.

At convocations the teachers sit on the bottom row of the bleachers and there they are, like a row of judges Judging the guilty. ONLY the students are not guilty.

The students of Ord high school are full of song at the convocations.

Have you ever heard of a red-headed Chinese? Well the Glee Club of the high school had one. They are very original.

Cupl & Company put on their first play Wednesday. It was very good.

Who do we have convocations for? Who put up a howl at the first of the year for convocations? Shall we have an outlay room, as some schools have, to send the unbecoming students too?

FIVE MINUTES WILL DO IT How many things we put off from day to day, not from want of time as we generally say, but through sheer failure to get started.

The tasks are there, waiting for us; time is there—twenty-four hours given to us all; and we ourselves are there, but dreading the start. What a pity we are not equipped with self-starters, we who need outside encouragement or have to be forced into tackling the disagreeable. Now once we set about it, the long-dreaded task is not so disagreeable after all.

Generally the doing itself takes less time and effort than the dreading. And then what a relief to find the whole thing off our minds again. How much time we waste looking at a thing and dreading to start, when five minutes would have done the task.

—Sylvia Cornell.

BASKETBALL The Ord high school basketball team made a good finish to their season this year by winning their last game. They went to North Loup last Saturday night and cleaned the high school team there 23-13.

The second team also gained another victory by beating the North Loup seconds 11-12. At the half the score stood 7-3 in favor of the North Loup team.

In the feature game Rysavy was high score man for Ord with Don Lashmet following close behind.

THE CHINA SHOP. The dress rehearsal of the operetta, "The China Shop" was given on Tuesday afternoon February 24. Both the high school and the grade schools were present.

CONVOCATIONS.

February 23. A special convocation was held February twenty-third in commemoration of Washington's birthday.

Miss Bloodgood led the students in singing a number of patriotic songs.

Mr. Cass introduced Rev. McCarthy who gave an interesting short talk. He spoke of the good character of Washington and told us how to be like him.

February 25. The convocation opened with Miss Bloodgood leading the high school and junior high in the song, "Reuben, Reuben, I've Been Thinking."

Next Joe Cupl and Adrian Tolson put on a dinky act. They were dressed to fill the parts of two negroes and pulled off various tricks and jokes on each other and the audience.

They were clapped back, but having nothing else to deliver, they bowed and Mr. Cass dismissed convocation.

February 27. Last Friday morning, February 27, the high school was called to convocation at ten thirty.

The program was a very interesting talk given by Mr. Thomas, state secretary of boys work.

He gave us a very fine talk because of his special interest in boys and girls in high school.

He gave us about a book called "Larry." This book he said would well be worth our time to read.

The boy Larry had been killed in an accident and he had kept a diary. His parents and a girl friend of his had also kept letters had written to them.

His diary and his letters have been put together into a book. The book is his view regarding modern life and what people are thinking today.

In closing his talk he had each of the students write some serious question that appeared in his or her letters might be discussed in the future.

We hope very much that we will again be given the chance to hear Mr. Thomas speak.

February 27. At ten minutes after one, the students assembled in the gymnasium for a short pep meeting.

The cheer leaders led in a few cheers and a song was sung. The rally was dismissed at one twenty.

PERSONALS. The faculty of Ord high school attended a supper given in the basement of the Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening of last week.

The supper was a reception for the new minister, Rev. Real, and his family.

Miss Hardin attended a Home Economics conference at Lincoln on Thursday and Friday.

Miss Jeary spent the week end at Seward, and Miss Baird and Miss Frederickson were in Arcadia visiting.

La Vena Dasher came back to school last week after being absent for a few days.

Miss Bloodgood's sister, Nell Bloodgood, came to Ord to see the operetta. Her home is at Minden where she is county superintendent.

During the past year and a half she taught school in Cumberland, Maryland.

The regional tournament is starting this Thursday at Grand Island. Ord is playing Taylor as the first game.

The winners and runners-up of the tournament will go to Hastings.

Report cards have been issued for the first six weeks of the new semester.

The Animal Husbandry agriculture class has been killing chickens. They were very fortunate in that they have been given free lunches at places where they worked.

This week the Senior normal trainers are going out to practice teaching. All seem very enthused about it.

Miss Nelson's public speaking class are now memorizing readings.

The Advanced Shorthand class produced some excellent note books. The cover designs were made with shorthand characters and very cleverly done.

The Ord HI-Y was very pleased with the meeting and hope all the guests present were, too. They also hope that Bill may come back soon to see them again.

People ought to be eating more eggs. The price is cheap, but in most places eggs are still just assorted eggs, and the cold storage surplus is growing bigger than ever.

The per capita consumption of eggs in the United States is at a standstill. In Canada it is more than double what it is in this country.

The increase in Canada has been brought about by a well enforced law requiring that eggs be sold according to grades.

Were it possible for the American consumer to know what he was getting, the eating of eggs would increase to the point where surplus would be eliminated in short order.

The eating of eggs would not decrease in warm weather if they were of definite and uniform quality. As it is, a dozen eggs from the market may be all right for cooking, fair for frying, but no good for poaching or boiling.

Nobody like to buy a "pig in a poke," and one bad egg is apt to turn the buyer to some other breakfast ration for a long time.

Many Nebraska poultry producers now receive a premium of four or five cents per dozen more than the average community price.

They have earned this premium by building up a market for their eggs which are graded and packed well, and can be handled with a minimum loss.

All farm products the egg comes in the most convenient and sanitary package. In keeping it thus a number of points should be considered.

1. An egg is injured by rough handling even though it is not broken.

2. An egg is apt to absorb odors from filth, vegetables, disinfectants, and other matter.

3. An egg spoils quicker if washed.

4. An egg, if fertile, continues to incubate immediately after it is laid if the temperature is above 68 degrees Fahrenheit.

5. An egg never improves with age for food purposes.

PSORIASIS

This is a serious skin disease usually of a stubborn nature and causes no end of trouble to folks who are unfortunate enough to contract it.

The antiseptic Emerald Oil treatment takes right hold with the first application and good results continue daily 'till the disease is entirely eradicated.

If powerful antiseptic Emerald Oil doesn't conquer Psoriasis any live druggist anywhere will return the purchase price.

A Philadelphia man spent thousands of dollars trying to get rid of Psoriasis—Nothing helped until he got Emerald Oil—soon he was well—again free from this stubborn disease.

Moore's Emerald Oil costs but 85 cents a bottle and it's so wonderfully helpful for other ailments such as Eczema, Acne, Itching Skin, Old Sores, broken Varicose Veins, Itching Toes and Athlete Foot—it's a great home remedy.

Chevrolet Output Larger Than In 1930

January production of Chevrolet Motor Company was 70,766 cars and trucks, according to W. S. Knudsen, president. Output schedules for February with three fewer days, call for 67,429 cars and trucks, exclusive of schedules in the company's Canadian plants.

January's production compares with an output of 64,019 in December, the largest December month in the company's history.

The month just ended is the third in succession to establish new high production marks over previous months since Chevrolet brought its new line of cars in November, when 45,000 cars were made, setting a new output record for that month in any year.

According to President Knudsen, output in February likely will exceed tentative schedules now set and each month during the remainder of the year is expected to show an increase over the preceding one.

Chevrolet factory employment as of Saturday, January 24, totaled 34,447, an increase of more than 2000 over the corresponding date in December and 8000 more than when the company commenced production of its new cars in early November. During the current month employment is expected to reach 40,000. Chevrolet's normal operating force.

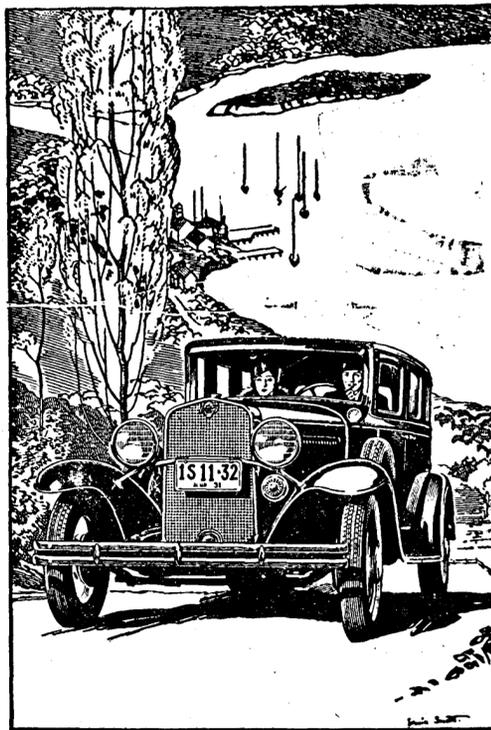

Will Egglehoff and son Glen have been busy lately making some A type hog houses.

LEGAL TANGLES INVOLVING BARTZ CASES SETTLED

Ches Chinn's Suit Disposed Of, Several Orders Withdrawn; Divorce Suit Remains.

A portion of the various legal tangles involving Paul Bartz, Orilla Mae Bartz, Theron Beehrle, Ches Chinn and others were unraveled last Friday in district court here. A settlement was reached in Mr. Chinn's suit against Theron Beehrle, et al, amounting to $4,435.43, which has been paid by Alfred Wiegardt, clerk of the district court, was distributed among various claimants. Judge E. P. Clements was on the bench.

By the terms of the settlement, Mr. Chinn was given all but $615 of the sum held by the judgment. Mr. Chinn was adjudged to have a $3,750 claim against the farm to which Theron Beehrle holds title, and Judge Clements ordered defendants to pay this sum within twenty days or the land will be sold to meet the judgment.

Of the $615 otherwise distributed Valley county gets $15 as back taxes and Oscar T. Doerr, one of the attorneys representing the Beehrle interests, was given the $600.

It was expressly stated in the agreement that settlement of this case does not affect in any way the divorce case of Mr. and Mrs. Bartz or the $100,000 damage suit filed by Mrs. Bartz in Omaha against Ches Chinn and others.

Change in Taxation Promised by Weller

Taxation methods in Nebraska will be greatly changed within the next few years, is the statement made by E. C. Weller, county assessor, in a talk to the Ord Rotary club Monday. Mr. Weller was in Lincoln last week attending a meeting of county assessors, county clerks and tax commissioners. Representative Marion J. Cushing, of this district, is co-author of a substitute for the state income tax bill now before the state legislature. Mr. Weller reported, and he believes Cushing's bill has several merits not possessed by the original measure. If an income tax law is not adopted at this session of the legislature it will be at the next session, Weller is confident.

Free Delivery of Mail Now Assured

Ninety percent of houses within the limits of proposed free delivery of mail in Ord will have boxes installed by April 1, Postmaster Edwin Clements tells the Quiz this morning. Starting of the service on that date is now assured, he says. The postmaster and his assistant, Guy LeMaster, have been making a house-to-house canvass this week and discover that while only a small number of boxes have already been erected almost everybody promises to have boxes up before the date when service starts.

Unions Hold Joint Meeting.

Two Farmers Union organizations, the local Progressive Union of Woodman hall neighborhood, and the new Popcorn local, of the region just south of Ord, held a joint meeting last Tuesday evening at the National hall with about seventy members and their wives present. Fred Hage, of Grand Island, gave an interesting talk about the Farmer's Union's progress in the thirteen years it has been in existence. James Visk, who was a delegate to the convention at Omaha, gave a fine report. The Popcorn local elected new officers as follows: President, A. W. Cornwell; vice president, Will Prie; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Fern Johnston. The ladies served a delicious lunch.

Electrical Bill for One Night 'Shot' Proves Shock to Studio

Wesley Ruggles, director of Radio Pictures "Cimarron," wanted a night "shot" showing the arrival of a wagon train in "the town of Osage," built near Hollywood for the Edna Ferber story.

He got it. The electrical bill for one "shot" was $100,000!

Which meant that 400,000 kilowatts of electricity flooded an area 900 feet long and 200 feet wide—that 106 large sun arcs and 342 assorted incandescent lamps were "set up"—that 176 electricians were required to operate the equip-

Vera Thorne Would Divorce Husband

In an action filed in district court here last Friday Vera Thorne, of Ord, is seeking an absolute divorce from her husband, Hans Thorne, who now lives in Loup City. Desertion and non-support, constituting extreme cruelty, are the grounds given by Mrs. Thorne. In the past two years her husband has contributed only $25 to her support and the support of their only child, Betty, ten years old. She asks custody of the child, reasonable alimony for herself and maintenance for the child. Davis & Vogelitz are Mrs. Thorne's attorneys.

WELLER COMPANY TO HOLD SERIES COMMUNITY SALES

Success of Bresley Sale Wednesday Shows Demand For Such Events Exists.

Because the Harry Bresley community sale Wednesday was such a great success and because their Saturday sale business has grown to the point where sufficient time cannot be devoted to the selling of horses, farm machinery, etc., the Weller Auction company has decided to hold a series of community sales beginning March 25 and continuing until the time when farmers are busy in the fields. The Quiz is authorized to announce this series of sales today.

A huge crowd was present at the Bresley sale yesterday and judging from the prices received they responded liberally to the solicitations of Cols. Weller & McMinds. Some 25 head of horses and mules were disposed of, 15 head of them bringing $100 or more each. Brood sows sold for from $20 to $35 and cattle and machinery sold equally well. The sale was ably managed by Harry Bresley.

Giving better service to their customers is the aim of the Weller Auction company in announcing their series of community sales. Each sale will be held in a different neighborhood in all four directions from Ord and will be managed by a prominent farmer and stockman of the neighborhood where the sale is held. Wednesday has been chosen as an ideal day for the sale as it will not conflict with the regular Saturday events, which will be continued as in the past.

Farm machinery and other articles farmers want to sell are heavy and difficult to transport and bringing them to town means considerable expense for the owner. Colonel Weller points out, and he believes that a series of mid-week community sales, each in different neighborhoods, will prove a real benefit to farmers. Anybody wanting to consign stuff to any of these sales should get in touch with the Weller Auction company for particulars as to when the sale will be held in your neighborhood.

Young Arcadia Boy Suddenly Summoned

Arcadia, March 11.—(Special)—Joy Parker, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Parker, passed away suddenly Tuesday morning at the St. Francis hospital in Grand Island where he had been taken a few hours previous. Joy underwent an operation for appendicitis the first week in February and seemed to be recovering nicely. He was taken ill at school last Friday but had so recovered that he was able to be up town Monday morning. Late that afternoon he was again taken ill, his limbs becoming paralyzed. During the night he was rushed to Grand Island but nothing could be done to relieve his condition. Death was due to paralysis caused by a blood clot. Funeral services will be held at the Congregational church Friday afternoon.

U. P. Motor Late.

The Union Pacific motor broke a crank shaft near St. Libory Monday night and did not arrive in Ord until 11:35 o'clock. An engine was sent them from Grand Island. Walter Burnly, roadmaster, came up with them, returning on the morning train.

Free Movies for Farmers.

Farmers and their families are invited to attend a free picture show to be given at the Ord high school auditorium on Friday evening, March 13, at 7:30 p. m. The show will include half a dozen reels on dairying, wineries, poultry production, crops growing and other farm practices. In addition, a three-reel comedy will be shown.

This movie is given as a part of evening school programs being conducted by the department of vocational agriculture. Everyone is welcome to come.

CLEMENT SALE OF HEREFORDS IS NEXT WEEK

Anxiety 4th Blood Will Feature 3rd Annual Sale of Well Known Local Breeders.

Next Wednesday, March 18, of the late seven miles south of Ord, Mrs. G. G. Clement and sons, Clark and George, will hold their third annual sale of Hereford cattle. There are fifty head of choice Herefords in the sale, including eight consigned by Long Bros. of Greeley county. The Clement herd has a good blood line as any in the Hereford breed and every year their sale attracts buyers from greater distances.

"Never before have we been able to offer as many top-notch bulls of long ages," say the owners in their catalog. "They will please both the breeder of registered Herefords and the man raising commercial cattle."

It is probable that the Clement offering will not bring prohibitive prices. Three years ago many who really needed blood to improve herds stayed away from the sale only to find out afterward that they could have bought just what they wanted at a fair price. The same situation prevailed last year, only not so many stayed away, and it is likely that a huge crowd of buyers will be present next Wednesday.

The auctioneering next week will be done by Cols. A. W. Thompson, E. C. Weller and Bert Cummins. Jos. P. Barta, of the First National bank, is clerk and fieldmen will be Wm. Law, of the Nebraska Farmer, and Chas. Corkle, of the Journal-Stockman.

General Snow Storm Swept Middle West

Crop-benefiting snow fall, belated yet welcomed by thousands of farmers, swept over the middle west last Thursday and Friday, assuming blizzard-like proportions at times. About eight inches of snow fell and a high wind Saturday drifted it badly, though snow fences protected the highways. Less traveled roads were impassable and mail carriers in Valley county had a hard time for a few days. Sunday night the temperature descended almost to the zero mark but warmer weather has prevailed since and the snow is melting rapidly. Rain and snow is predicted for this week end.

New City Ordinance Makes Perpetual Care of Lots in Ord Cemetery Possible

Ordinance No. 80, as passed last week by the Ord city council, enables owners of lots in the Ord cemetery to provide for their perpetual care by the payment of a small sum of money to the city. Most cities have such an ordinance and it has proved popular everywhere.

The full text of the ordinance appears elsewhere in this issue but, in brief, this is what it provides: By paying in to the city clerk $75 for a full lot or $50 for a half lot in the Ord cemetery, owners of lots may arrange for their perpetual care. Such care will include keeping lots free from weeds, cutting grass regularly, filling and re-seeding any sinking graves and keeping the entire lot in good condition.

In a good many instances, owners of lots in the Ord cemetery live far away from here and it is difficult for them to care for the lots. Others, who live closer, often feel that they haven't the time to devote to this work.

In more beautifully kept cemeteries it is certain to result if the "perpetual care" ordinance is taken advantage of by lot owners.

Otto Hill's Car Found In Lincoln

North Loup, March 11.—(Special)—The automobile belonging to Otto Hill, missing elevator manager of the Farmers Grain & Supply company, was brought home last Saturday from Lincoln, where it had been in a garage since some time in January. It was left there by a man supposed to be Hill, from whom nothing has been heard since he left here early in the month. Nobody has any idea as to his present whereabouts. R. D. Inbody and Mills Hill went to Lincoln after the car.

Masons Will Have Stag Party.

Members of the Masonic lodge in Ord are planning a stag party and oyster supper for next Wednesday night at their banquet rooms. Each Mason will invite a guest.

Hoover Makes "Good Picture"

"He has a splendid forehead and anyone with this feature makes a good picture." That's what Douglas Chandor, noted British artist, said about President Hoover after he had completed his portrait at the White House. Chandor, who has painted portraits of the Prince of Wales and many of Great Britain's prime ministers, is shown here beside his latest work.

Vets Bonus Loans Will Bring Large Sum Into County

The world war veterans bonus loan bill, passed a couple of weeks ago by the United States congress, will bring from 60 to 100 thousand dollars into Valley county, estimates C. J. Mortensen, commander of the Ord American Legion post. Three or four veterans are applying for loans daily through the Nebraska State bank, Mr. Mortensen says.

Under this bill veterans of the world war may borrow half of the face value of their insurance certificates. An application blank must be filled out by the veteran and this application is sent to the nearest veterans bureau, which is located at Omaha. Only those who are in need of the money may borrow. Post Commander Mortensen has a supply of the application blanks and will be glad to assist any veteran in making out a loan application.

SAM ROE AGAIN HEADS FARMERS ORGANIZATION

Directors Re-Elect Former Head At Meeting Monday; Company Will Continue Operations.

S. W. Roe will again be president of the Farmers Grain & Supply company during the coming year. He was chosen Monday at a meeting of the board of directors. Other officers are D. E. Strong, vice president, and John Bremer, secretary-treasurer. Wm. Heuck will continue as general manager of the company.

Last Thursday afternoon the company's annual meeting was held at the Bohemian hall, nearly a hundred stockholders braving the inclement weather to attend. Manager Heuck read the audit report compiled by the VanBoskirk-Remington company, of Lincoln, who audited the company's affairs during January and February. The report disclosed that all of the company's units made money during 1930 with the exception of the North Loup elevator, which lost in the neighborhood of $2,500.

The company's annual report shows that assets now total $113,169.85 and liabilities $37,741.64, leaving the sum of $75,428.21 over care of capital stock and surplus.

Charles Sternecker led a fight to close the Farmers Store in Ord, making a motion to that effect. Ernest Rahlmeyer seconded the motion but on a vote it lost out, 57 to 38.

Directors elected last Thursday were S. W. Roe, Arthur Mensing and John Vodehnal. Mr. Roe being re-elected and Mensing and Vodehnal filling the places of E. R. Foth and R. P. Flynn. Other members of the official board who held over are A. H. Jackman, P. E. Pocock, John Bremer and D. E. Strong.

City Caucuses Will Be Held March 19

The caucuses of the Citizens and Good Government parties will be held next Thursday evening, March 19th, committees representing the two parties decided yesterday. The Citizens will meet at the district court room and the Good Government will meet at the city hall. City election this spring is to be held Tuesday, March 7.

The terms of three councilmen, two school board members and one park board member expire this year and nominations for these positions will be made at the caucuses. Joe Rohla, Chester Palmater and Carl Sorenson go out as councilmen, Dr. F. L. Blessing and Will Zaboludl as school board members, and W. A. Anderson as park board member. A city clerk also is to be elected. Miss Lucinda Thorne being appointed to fill Mrs. Wolters' unexpired term. Miss Thorne probably will be re-elected. The committee arranging for the citizens caucus includes Vincent Kokes, E. C. Leggett and Dr. J. W. McCinnis while J. H. Capron and Mr. G. W. Taylor are on the committee for the Good Government party.

Martin A. Kroetch Dead.

Martin A. Kroetch, 70, died in Spokane, Wash., this week after an illness of two months with toxiposion, a telegram to Vincent Kokes says. Mr. Kroetch was associated with his brothers John and Al in a lumber business in Ord, and had 99 acres of land, which he sold to the Dierks Lumber company, who later sold the yard to Weller Bros. Mr. Kroetch was engaged in the lumber business at Spokane.

Will Wright and family, who have been staying with Mr. Wright's parents, Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Wright, left Tuesday for Chicago where Mr. Wright expects to find employment.

VANDECAR TALKS TO ROTARY CLUB OF CITIZENSHIP

Ord Attorney Says Communism Is Only Menace to U. S. Being Greatest Country.

Drawing a striking contrast between Philip Nolan, "the man without a country," and Nathan Hale, who died saying his only regret was that he had only one life to give to his country, H. B. VanDecar, Ord attorney, gave a splendid address on "Citizenship" to members of the Ord Rotary club Monday. A deep love for and belief in the United States characterized his talk, which was in observance of annual "citizenship day."

This country is a land of opportunity and only one menace exists to prevent it continuing as the greatest nation on earth, Mr. VanDecar said. He traced Communism and socialism, which are becoming more prevalent in several of the larger centers of the United States. Members of congress with socialistic leanings are the greatest menace, Mr. VanDecar believes.

He drew another contrast between the different types of immigrants who have come to this country, the fine northern peoples who have helped to build up Valley county and the later immigrants such as Al Capone who came to the United States to carry on a life of crime. It is humiliating to every citizen, Mr. VanDecar believes, that the government of this country will consent to "dicker" with Capone as has been done in the recent income tax case. Capone is a known criminal and it should be simple to deport him if he cannot be successfully prosecuted for his many crimes, Mr. VanDecar implied.

The Ord lawyer's talk was one of the most inspiring Rotarians have had an opportunity to listen to.

Dr. Nielsen Gets Post At Norfolk

Arcadia, March 11.—(Special)—Dr. J. C. Nielsen, formerly a practicing physician in this village, last week was promoted to the superintendency of the state hospital at Norfolk. He succeeds Dr. C. E. Charlton, who was promoted to head the state institution at Hastings when the former head, Dr. J. B. Babcock, was asked to resign. Dr. Nielsen had been assistant superintendent at Norfolk for the past two years. Previous to that he practiced in Arcadia for over a year and both he and Mrs. Nielsen made many friends here who are glad to hear of his success. Before coming to Arcadia Dr. Nielsen was physician for the Union Pacific railroad in Omaha.

John Haskell Robbed On Sargent Highway

John Haskell, Maytag salesman at Sargent, was the victim of highwaymen Tuesday evening when he was held up on the highway between Sargent and Taylor and relieved of $292. He was returning from a collecting trip and stopped on the crest of a hill to make some adjustments on his car. The hold-up men covered him with guns as they drove up in their car, went through his pockets, forced him to drain his gas tank and then drove away in the direction of Burwell. There were three in the party, Haskell said.

William Nelson Gets Letter From One of Drouth Victims

William Nelson, farmer living near Ord, was one of the largest contributors to the American Legion flour shipment to drought sufferers of Oklahoma. He gave twenty-five sacks of flour and in each sack he put a slip giving his name and address and requesting the person who received the sack to write him a letter, telling about conditions in the drought area. Last week Mr. Nelson received a letter from a man at Shinnwell, Okla. It follows:

"Dear Sir: I received a sack of flour through the Red Cross with your name and address in it and wanting to know conditions of things here and from whom I got the flour. I received it free through the Red Cross. We are in the drought stricken district of Oklahoma. To show how bad the drought was here, I had 25 acres of cotton and ordinarily the 25 acres would have made me or 60 bales. It made one bale. I had 99 acres of corn which made 60 bushels of shuff and wasn't worth gathering. There is not any work here at all. The Red Cross is feeding 95 percent of the farmers, that is they are about half feeding them. There are ten in my family. We draw $7.00 every two weeks, or 25c each per week, so you can imagine how much we have to eat. Yours truly, W. N. Davis, Shinnwell, Okla."

Parker; secretary, Mrs. Floyd Bossen; treasurer, Mrs. Don Rounds. The lesson study was on "Landscaping" and was led by Mrs. Ernest Esterbrook. Mrs. Albert Wibbel gave a very interesting talk on "Flowers".

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. F. J. Russell Tuesday evening, March 17th. At this time the members will entertain their husbands at seven o'clock dinner.

Ladies Community Club Dinner
The ladies of the community enjoyed a six o'clock dinner served by the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church at the church basement Tuesday evening of last week. There were fifty-four present and the dinner and evening were wholeheartedly enjoyed by all attending.

The dining tables were decorated with bouquets of artificial roses. Following is the menu: individual meat loaf, escalloped potatoes, pineapple and cheese salad, creamed lima beans, pickles, rolls, jam, lemon pie and coffee.

A very fine program followed the dinner and consisted of community singing, vocal numbers by Miss Nema Cruzan, vocal duets by Mrs. F. V. Amick and Mrs. Otto Rettenmayer and talks on the community park, its advantages and its future, by Mrs. N. A. Lewin, Miss Clara Koenig, and Mrs. F. H. Christ. At the close of the program impromptu speeches were made by a number of those present. The meeting closed with community singing.

Pauline Holmes Recovering.
Pauline Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Holmes is recovering nicely from injuries which she received in an automobile accident the fore part of last week. Ordinance No. 80.
An Ordinance providing for the perpetual care and maintenance of lots in cemeteries owned and operated by the City of Ord, Nebraska, establishing the cost of same; defining the care to be given such lots and the liability of said City therefor; directing that the City Clerk make a contract on behalf of the City to give such care and maintenance; to create a perpetual maintenance fund; directing how the same shall be invested and interest therefrom disposed of; providing for the repeal of prior Ordinances in conflict therewith and prescribing the time when this Ordinance shall be in full force and effect.

Be It Ordained by the Mayor and City Council of the City of Ord, Nebraska:

Section 1. The owner or owners of any lot in any cemetery owned and operated by the City of Ord, Nebraska, may secure perpetual care and maintenance of said lot or lots under the following conditions and upon the payment of the amounts hereinafter specified:

Section 2. That there is hereby established the following uniform prices for the perpetual care and maintenance of lots in said cemeteries:

For all full sized lots, the sum of $75.00.
For all half lots, or fraction thereof, the sum of $50.00.

The perpetual care and maintenance as mentioned in this Ordinance shall mean the care of said lots and the same in accordance with the following conditions, which shall be the same free from weeds and other objectionable vegetation, cutting the grass thereon, filling and re-seeding any sinking graves on said lots and in general, to keep and maintain the same in good condition, which, in consideration of the sums as herein prescribed, the said City of Ord agrees to do; provided:

The said City shall only be bound to expend in any one year upon any one lot or fraction thereof an amount equivalent to the income derived from the amount paid for the perpetual care and maintenance of said lot or fraction of a lot as provided herein.

Section 3. The City Clerk of the City of Ord is hereby directed to keep a record of all moneys so paid, by whom the same is paid and the lot to be cared for, and is hereby authorized in the name of the City to issue a receipt for the money so paid which receipt shall be in duplicate and in the nature of a contract on the part of the said City, to do the work specified in Section 2 hereof.

Section 4. The City Clerk shall report monthly to the City Council whether or not such receipts have been issued or such contracts entered into, together with a statement of the amounts collected under this Ordinance. All moneys collected hereunder shall be credited to a fund to be known as the "Perpetual Maintenance Fund" and shall be invested under the direction of the City Council as follows:

First, in bonds of the City of Ord, Nebraska; Second, in bonds of the School District of the City of Ord, Nebraska; Third, in bonds of the County of Valley, the State of Nebraska; Fourth, in bonds of the United States of America; fifth, in such other securities as the City Council may direct.

The bonds heretofore provided for shall be purchased in the open market in such manner as the City Council may direct.

Section 5. All income derived from said "Perpetual Maintenance Fund" shall be credited to the cemetery fund of said City and shall be used in the same manner as other moneys in said fund.

Section 6. The City Clerk shall notify the Sexton of the Cemetery as soon as any receipts are issued, specifying to him the lot to be cared for, and it shall be the duty of the Sexton as soon as he is so notified to give the said lot the care mentioned in Section 2 of this Ordinance.

Section 7. All Ordinances or parts of Ordinances passed and approved prior to the passage and approval of this Ordinance and in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 8. This Ordinance shall be in full force and take effect from and after its passage, approval and publication according to law.

Passed and approved March 6th, 1931.

More than 73,000 miles in a New Ford

THE substantial worth of the new Ford is reflected in its good performance, economy and reliability. Its stamina and endurance are particularly apparent in sections where bad roads and severe weather put a heavy extra burden on the automobile.

In less than a year a new Ford Tudor Sedan was driven more than seventy-three thousand miles over a difficult route. The operating cost per mile was very low and practically the only expense for repairs was for new piston rings and a new bearing for the generator.

The car carried an average load of 1200 pounds of mail and was driven 250 miles daily. "The Ford has never failed to go when I was ready," writes one of the three mail carriers operating the car. "The starter did the trick last winter even at 34 degrees below zero. The gas runs about 20 miles per gallon. At times I pull a trailer whenever I have a bulky load."

Many other Ford owners report the same satisfactory performance. Every part has been made to endure — to serve you faithfully and well for many thousands of miles.

PUSSYFOOT'S SPORTLOG

By GEORGE ROUND, JR.

At least Coach Joe Krejci's Ord high cagers received a break last week in the Grand Island district tournament when they were carded against Taylor in the opening game.

The 1931 basketball season is about to close. With it has been the continued success of the Ord all-stars who were organized last year.

Our friend, Christophorus Mathis isn't going so hot in the pole vaulting event of Coach Scully's Cornhusker track team.

Nevertheless, Chris continues to go out for the track sport and is passing up spring football. They, however, indicates nothing as few veterans on the football team turn out for the spring workouts.

Of special interest to Valley county baseball fans is the fact that Jesse Livingston is trying out for the pitching staff on the University of Nebraska.

While playing for the Ord club in the farm bureau league, Jesse proved to be the outstanding pitcher in the circuit, in my estimation.

Now speaking of Clement, reminds me that he is no bad pitcher. The world's best ball club, at least they called themselves that, or the Ord Mustangs learned in their farm bureau game that Clement is still able to wheel the ball over the plate at a rapid pace.

But getting back to Livingston, he perhaps won't be able to make the pitching staff of the Cornhusker school but he should get on the squad as an infielder.

Not only Livingston is competing for position on the staff but there is "Army" Armatis who is back for his third year of competition. Last year the army didn't go so good but was effective as a relief hurler.

Dr. Carl's Discovery Stops Gas, Constipation. In his private practice, Dr. Carl Weschko first perfected the simple mixture now known as Adlerika.

Nebraska Banks Fourth in Certified Seed Potatoes

Nebraska potato growers are not content with just raising potatoes. They know the soil is equal to raising the best and so more and more each year they go in for certified seed potatoes.

Last year they grew 451,000 bushels. Nebraska's rank for the production of certified seed potatoes has risen from twelfth to fourth in five years. Certified seed potatoes meet rigid requirements of planting, cultivating and harvesting. The seed is inspected for quality before it is planted. The fields are inspected while the crop is growing for mixtures of varieties and diseases. At harvest time the crop is inspected for diseases and imperfections. And finally the crop is graded. The potatoes that reach certification are as near perfect as can be grown.

Nebraska's potatoes are mostly of the Triumph variety. This is one of the most popular varieties in the southern states and so the demand there for Nebraska certified seed potatoes is great. Nebraska produced last year about two-fifths of the country's available supply of Triumph seed potatoes. Some Cobbler and Green Mountain potatoes were certified.

The price to the growers of certified potatoes last year was $1.60 a bushel, or nearly three times the price offered for table stock. That price was 49 cents a bushel lower than 1929 and 60 cents higher than 1928.

"I will buy only the leading make of tire" A GOOD RESOLUTION -SEE IT THROUGH- THE GREATEST NAME IN RUBBER. TWO REASONS WHY GOODYEAR. 1. The famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread is superior in traction. Note how the deep-cut light-gripping blocks are placed in the center of the tread, where they belong. Press the palm of your hand upon this tread and feel how the blocks grip and pinch the flesh. This illustrates the All-Weather Tread's holdfast action on pavement of road. 2. The patented Good-year Superwrist Cord Carcass is superior in vitality and long life. Under continued flexing or sudden road-shock, where ordinary cords fatigue or snap, the extra-elastic Superwrist cords stretch and recover, like rubber bands. I am writing this on Friday, March 6 and it is snowing to beat the band. It snowed all day yesterday too, and there was a high wind some of the time and well into the night and I am sure the roads in the country must be badly drifted.

I notice the little school girls going by to school. They all seem to have high topped overshoes and said overshoes all seem to have fastening straps on them, but almost every pair is left flopping at the top, as if the top was made to catch as much snow as possible instead of to keep it out and I believe those kids will have wetter feet, by the time they get to school than they would have if they left the overshoes at home.

Marion Cushing told the house the other day that the farmers of Nebraska needed a chance to sell their products at a decent price rather than more credit. They owe aplenty now and could pay their debts if they could get a fair price for what they raise.

If, as is claimed, the soldier bonus bill will turn 20 to 30 million dollars loose in Nebraska, business conditions should be greatly improved and I don't see why the president was so opposed to it.

Arthur Brisbane thinks it would be far better to spend the money that is being spent on the building of air ships. He says that several hundred flying machines can be built for the price of one battle ship and that one of those air ships, flying overhead can destroy the biggest battle ship.

The government spent 2 millions to finance the California grape growers who make the grapes up into liquid concentrates and all that is necessary to do is to pull a plug and let the air in and presto, it becomes more or less potent liquor; then the government must spend other millions to punish people for selling it. But it sure helped California. Now the government should finance the corn growers and show them how to make corn juice so that all that is necessary to do is to turn on the air and make it into corn whiskey.

Opportunity is a great thing. The private secretary to President Hoover, at a salary of ten thousand dollars a year, has resigned to accept another job and two or three times as much. Probably when he got the secretaryship and ten thousand it was two or three times as much as he ever got before.

We all cry about our taxes being too high but we go right on demanding better and more roads, more paving, better court houses and city halls and everything else that is modern and convenient. And we go right on buying better cars and better radios and washing machines and everything else.

When a lot of the public improvements we are now struggling to pay for were being built we were all making money fast and couldn't realize that a change would ever come. Then labor and material were both at the peak. If

Anvil Work of Aged North Dakota Smithy Brings Him College Degree

THANKS, thanks to thee, my worthy friend, For the lesson thou hast taught Thus at the flaming forge of life Our fortunes must be wrought.

THESE were the lines, you recall, that Longfellow addressed more than half a century ago to "The Village Blacksmith," in his memorable poem.

Out in Fargo, N. D., the other day, North Dakota Agricultural College, like Longfellow, rendered its thanks to a blacksmith. But instead of dedicating a poem to him, presented him the honorary degree of master of artisans.

Work Brings Fame Halle Chisholm is his name, and to him goes the rare distinction of being perhaps the first blacksmith in this country to receive an honorary college degree on the merits of his work as a smithy.

For 29 years, "the college blacksmith," as he is known, has been an instructor in metal and official blacksmith for the institution.

His recognition results not so much from his long and loyal service to the institution as from his intricate hand-wrought iron pieces which have gained him wide repute. In Fargo folks say "he has the soul of an artist." And they point to his most important work, the hand-wrought gate and gateway which leads into the famous Roosevelt Park on the grounds of the North Dakota state capitol at Bismarck.

Retire? A Raise, Rather! Halle Chisholm has heard the merry ring of the anvil for 66 years. Born in upper New York state on Oct. 23, 1861, he went to work as a smith at the age of 14, having learned the trade from his father. He has been at it ever since.

In 1888, after he had worked as a railroad blacksmith in Vermont, he came to Fargo to work for the Northern Pacific railroad. He left that job in 1903 to accept another at the state college. As he was getting along in years he resolved to stay at the college 10 years and retire.

we could have had the wisdom then, to not build to pay the money in and start getting interest on it, till now, we could make the improvements for nearly half and could save thousands of dollars of interest as well. But what's the use.

This snow is going to put the soil, already well soaked down, in the finest shape it has been in years for the start of spring work.

Grand Island is making great plans for beautifying the third city and Ord, as the principal city in the Loup valley, ought to take pride in making careful plans along the same line and every civic organization should take pleasure in backing the enterprise.

When You and I Were Young, Maggie Twenty-five Years Ago. State Treasurer Peter Mortensen withdrew as a candidate for governor when informed by his attorney, E. J. Clements, that it was illegal for him to run for one state office while holding another.

Forty head of hogs were sold at the J. A. Ollis, Jr., pure-bred sale, the average being $54.50. Wilmer Gray bought the highest priced boar for $150 and Jos. Waldmann paid $110 for the highest priced gilt.

Warwick & Carlsen were advertising that they had the only buggy and carriage paint shop in Ord. In a full column editorial the Quiz editor blamed saloons for the death of a local man and called on Ord voters to vote saloons out at the city election April 3.

Twenty Years Ago. Frank Stars sold his market to H. C. Steinwart, of Spalding. Alan Clements got out of Mexico when the revolution got too hot and accepted an offer to pitch for a Texas baseball team in the Southern league.

A Quiz reporter discovered that A. F. "Dad" Sherman, now deceased, was a nephew of General Sherman of Civil War fame.

Chester Palmatier and Miss Marie Kosmata were married at the home of the bride's parents.

Earl Wise was elected manager of the high school baseball team.

Card of Thanks. We wish to thank sincerely all the neighbors and friends for the beautiful flowers and help during the illness and after the death of our beloved husband and father. Mrs. Matt Vavra and family

Halle Chisholm, "the college smithy" at work at his forge at North Dakota Agricultural College. He is thought to be the first blacksmith to receive a college degree on the merits of his forge work.

When the 10 years had passed, Mr. Chisholm, at the age of 70, advised the college authorities that he was ready to retire. "I thought," he said, "that they would want to be getting rid of me by that time." But the college authorities answered by giving him a raise in salary and sent him back to work. "So now," the college smithy says, "it is up to them—I'll stay as long as they want me."

His Ten-Hour Day Chisholm, despite his advanced years, works arduously at the anvil 10 hours a day. He spends his leisure time making the designs he later works out in iron. Though machinery has ruined the business of making hand-wrought iron work, this gray-haired artisan of the forge says there are so few workers in iron left that the demand far exceeds the supply.

Just after Chisholm had been awarded his degree at a ceremony at which college deans, city and state officials were present, a reception was given in his honor in Fargo's "Lincoln Log Cabin." In the cabin were three hand-wrought chandeliers, fireplace sets, candlesticks, candelabra, and lamps and other small pieces. All of them had come from the master's forge.

Something Different Times are different than they used to be. A woman of forty once took to the corner rocker, to knit and darn and tat for her grandchildren. She wore a black band about her throat, cameo brooch on her fichu, and perhaps a little white cap.

Now, at forty few women are grandmothers, for every one is marrying older than they did years ago. So the modern Mrs. Forty is out there. And she has no wrinkles on her throat yet, due to facials and constant care given her skin, "contour" treatments, etc. So she doesn't need the black band. In place of the cameo brooch she puts artificial sunflowers on her shoulder, or wears long crystal earrings! And her hair is fashionably snipped and waved into place. She only wears a cap once in a while at night....to keep the wawe!

Anton Bartunek has travelled extensively, and can pass out many odd bits of information about lost corners of the world. But he has done much of his travelling with his eyes, reading everything he can lay hands on. Mr. Bartunek has travel booklets galore, and numerous books on as many countries, explorations, etc. He has a fine globe, and can point out "most any spot without hesitation."

It is just a hobby of his, one that he gets much pleasure from, at small outlay of money. He travels in that comfortable device, a rocking chair, as a rule, although he really has been here and there about the globe, but not nearly as much as he intends to be some day.

One doctor of our city has a large heart, and really feels for his patients. Among them is a small boy greatly afflicted, who can never be better. Knowing how slowly time goes, and how the boy longed for something pleasant to do, this doctor arranged for the installation of a radio at the boy's bedside, and thereby provided numberless happy hours for the young fellow.

As bad times had the parents firmly clutched, and the doctor knew that his reward would not be monetary, surely this was a kindly benevolent gesture!

Another doctor of Ord surely believes in signs, judging by his office. For it is plastered with mottoes, admonitions, and wisecracks about how to do your living.

How could he possibly use 'em all? A typographical error proves amusing, found in a newspaper from a nearby town. Speaking of a famous Nebraska authoress, she is called "Willia Catcher."

I don't know. Do you think you will. Are you planning your summer flowers? Now is the time. Order shrubbery, prepare the ground, put a plat of the way the beds will be on paper to scale, showing just what space is to be occupied by such and such kind of flowers. And start your seedlings. The magazines are full of helpful suggestions, and if you wish help in planting your backyard, or even the whole lot, many magazines give such advice. Some sell plans for from 2c to 10c while others, if you draw your buildings and grounds to scale, will make an individual plan to suit your needs, for little or no charge.

Get out the seed catalogs, and plan now for a prettier home, and a beautiful Ord. Don't you think living flowers would be a nice gift to send at Easter? Or for Mother's day or Dad's day? Say a pair of monthly blooming rose bushes, one dark red and one orangy yellow? —Irma

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

When your family are a little tired of the more ordinary cakes, a spice cake is nice. Tasting just a bit different, it has a delightful individuality, especially when topped with a caramel icing.

Spice Cake. 1 c. sugar 2-3 c. butter creamed with sugar 1 c. sour milk (buttermilk, is best) 2 c. flour 2 eggs beaten light 1 tsp. soda 1 tsp. cloves 1/2 tsp. nutmeg 1/2 tsp. cinnamon A little melted chocolate or cocoa will vary this, when you wish. Sift the dry ingredients together, adding gradually. Put in vanilla to taste.

Mrs. Walter H. Jones, Arcadia. Caramel Filling. 1 c. sugar 1/2 c. rich sweet milk small piece of butter Boil until it hairs. Beat until cool enough to spread.

Mrs. Walter H. Jones, Arcadia. Walnut Slices. 1/2 c. butter 1 c. flour 1/2 c. cocoanut 1 1/2 c. brown sugar 1 c. chopped nuts 2 tsp. flour 1/2 tsp. baking powder 1/2 tsp. salt 2 eggs 1 tsp. vanilla Work butter into flour until smooth. Pat into a 9 x 12 pan until very even and bake to a delicate brown in a 350 degrees Fahrenheit oven for 12 to 15 minutes. Four a mixture made of all the other ingredients over this crust, and bake 20 to 25 minutes at 350 degrees. When cool spread with this icing and sprinkle with 1/2 c. chopped nuts.

1 1/2 c. confectioner's sugar 2 tsp. butter 2 tsp. orange juice 2 tsp. lemon juice Add more orange juices to make right consistency, if necessary.

Mrs. Frank Fafetta, Jr. Many people have praised this recipe, and we are sure the readers will like it too.

Jelly Roll. 3 eggs 1 c. sugar 1 c. flour 1 tsp. baking powder (level) 2 tsp. orange or lemon juice 6 tbsps. hot milk Beat eggs until light, add sugar, fruit juice, beating well. Then add the hot milk and flour which has been sifted with baking powder alternately, beating constantly with the egg beater. Pour in an ungreased shallow pan and bake around ten minutes. Take from the oven and spread with jelly and roll while warm.

Mrs. Wayne King. A jelly roll is a quick and good dessert and perhaps some of our younger housewives need to have it recommended to them. Then here is a recipe for making pimento cheese at home, which undoubtedly will be useful to many people who like pimento cheese and find it expensive to buy.

Pimento Cheese. 1 lb. cream cheese yolks left from angel food cake 1 can pimentos 1 rounding tsp. salt 1 scant c. hot water Butter size of an egg Run the cheese through a grinder, and put with the hot water in a double boiler. When the cheese is melted add the beaten egg yolks stirring continuously until thick (Do not cook too long). Then add the butter, salt and a dash of pepper. If it tastes too much of egg add more salt. This makes very good sandwiches.

The donor of the above recipe was too modest to include her name, we are sorry to say.

Deep Fat Frying Studied By Ord Cookery Classes

By IRMA ELLIS LEGGETT

Peeking first in one room and then another, I secure a good idea of what several teachers were doing on a recent morning. In the gym Mr. Krejci had a lot of junior high boys practicing basketball, after giving them their exercises and callisthenics. They whipped the ball about with all the vim and vigor displayed by the older boys, playing hard and honestly. A student referee was used and the coach directed from the side lines.

Miss Elizabeth Shaver was just concluding a history session for a class made up of senior boys and girls. The class of 36 was depleted Tuesday because of the 17 normal trainers who are out at country schools learning to teach first hand. The first two days this week were for observation; the second two for teaching with the regular teacher, assisting when necessary, and Friday the embryo teachers work alone. Thrilling and scary! For Miss Shaver and Miss McClatchey, county superintendent, tour around, going from one school to another to see just how the young normal trainers are managing.

The history class was engrossed in Civil war times, the presidential election of 1864, taxes, money, copper heads, blockades, etc. The study period began and I left for the first floor, lead hither by an interesting smell!

The nice smell came from the cooking lab, where sophomore girls were deep in the mysteries of deep-fat frying. Yesterday they had made timbales, or patty shells; today it was French fried potatoes, and potato chips. Tomorrow it was to be meat croquettes, for which the meat was now cooking. And Miss Hardin was grinding dry bread for the crumbs to be dipped in.

These girls liked their own cooking. Here and there a pair would be nibbling and tasting and discussing their own work with every appearance of enjoying and approving. These girls wore white smocks with blue or pink trim.

That is, most of them did. Why not all of them...? Well, you see those smocks were made the fall these girls were freshmen, in their sewing class, and some of them have grown as much as eight inches! That is, part of it up and part of it their skirts have come down. So those growing ones have to wear some other kind of apron.

The bell rang and the class changed. The sophomores who had been cooking went in to Miss Baird's class, and those she had come in to Miss Hardin's next class, which was another one in deep fat frying.

The class began with a discussion of what they were to do, and how it differed from their other lessons. That the fat wasn't as hot as for timbales, why draining on brown paper, etc. There were three large kettles of hot fat, one quite large potato to each two girls, and then the work began. The potato was washed, peeled, cut lengthwise into medium sized pieces, and then the frying began.

These girls are interesting to teach. Eager to learn, bright and quick. Interested in their work. They had a number of classes that helped them to know themselves better, all under the home economics division. Friday Miss Baird's group discussed hairdressing and took themselves as subjects for criticism, telling one another why a long face needed a certain part, and length of bob, etc. So by the following Tuesday, when I saw them, some of them had changed considerably.

The self analysis class also helped them. One girl was informed she was far too serious, and that she did not take her work gally enough, that her attitude was too sober. So she earnestly tried to laugh more, to learn to be pleasant and light hearted at her tasks. And is a much more complete and attractive character as a result.

Dies of Mastoid Operation. North Loup, March 9.—(Special) Wednesday evening friends at North Loup received word of the death of the year and a half old baby boy of Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Collins, Ramer Colo. The child had undergone an operation for mastoid infection and died a few days later of pneumonia caused by the ether. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Collins left for Colorado Thursday morning.

How to play Bridge AUCTION or CONTRACT by Wynne Ferguson Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGES"

ARTICLE No. 16 Here is a most interesting hand that aroused considerable comment among the members of a well-known New York card club. When it was played, the declarer failed to go game and his partner didn't hesitate to call his attention to the fact that he had missed an opportunity of making a most ingenious play and one that would have scored game. The declarer couldn't figure how it could be done, even after he was assured that the play was possible. Here are all four hands so the readers of this article will be given an advantage that the declarer didn't possess, but even with this advantage the solution is not easy. Think it over carefully and compare your solution with the one that will appear in the next article.

Solution to Problem No. 10 Hearts—4 Clubs—Q, 10, 8 Diamonds—A, J, 9, 5 Spades—none Hearts—A Clubs—A, 6, 3 Diamonds—K Spades—7, 4, 2

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y win seven of the eight tricks against any defense? Solution: Z should lead the king of diamonds and overtake in Y's hand with the ace. Y should now lead the queen of clubs, which B can either cover or pass. If he covers, Z plays the ace and leads back a club, winning in Y's hand with the ten. Y should now lead the jack of diamonds, which B can win with the queen. No matter what B leads, YZ must win the balance of the tricks as Y has the eight of clubs as a re-entry for his two diamonds. If at trick two, B refuses to cover the queen of clubs, Y should lead the jack of diamonds at trick three. B must win this trick and, no matter what he leads, YZ must win the balance of the tricks. If B leads a heart, for example, Z wins the trick and leads the ace of clubs, which Z drops B's ace and thus makes Y's ten of clubs a lead the jack of diamonds, which B can win with the queen. No matter what B leads, YZ must win the balance of the tricks as Y has the eight of clubs as a re-entry for his two diamonds. In either case, therefore, YZ must win seven of the eight tricks against any defense.

NORTH LOUP DEPARTMENT

MRS. FRED BARTZ, Reporter

Miss Dorothy Kissinger returned to her home at Hastings Thursday morning after a short visit with her sister, Miss Alice.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Weed and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Post were invited to Ord Thursday to attend a meeting of stockholders of the Farmers Grain & Supply company.

Mrs. Gus Wetzel left via motor Sunday afternoon for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Neva Wells, Grand Island.

Sunday dinner guests at the Otto Bartz home were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schudel and son Merlyn. Since the Schudels have lately returned from California and lived during their two months stay in an apartment near the John Cleary home in Santa Ana, it was a visit of unusual interest to those concerned.

Ladies of the M. E. church were at Maude Shepard's home, Thursday afternoon, when the regular work of the W. F. M. Society was conducted. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Millie Thomas, opening exercises and business session was led by the vice president, Mrs. Joe Fisher. Mr. Bohrer lead the society in a review of the work of noted oriental women in social and welfare work. Tributes of friends and co-workers, commemorating the passing of a beloved former national president of the society, Mrs. Wm. Fraser McDowell, wife of Bishop McDowell of Wash. D. C. Eberhart was reviewed by Mrs. Minnie Bartz. A playlet, "Honorary Members", was cleverly demonstrated by Mrs. Schwabauer and Mrs. Tillie Barnhart. Miss Maud Thomas presented the Mystery Box Questions in a unique way commencing the regular work of this organization by eight women on a stormy March day in 1869 at Fremont Street church, Boston, Mass. Miss Shepard, assisted by Mrs. Myra Gowan, served a lovely lunch with the serving of a delicious Angel food being reserved for Mrs. Minnie Bartz whose birthday was being honored. Last Thursday evening Ed Post received a telegram from his nephew, R. O. Post in Grand Island stating that his mother had just died in a hospital in Omaha to which place she had been taken on Monday from her home at Ainsworth, Nebr. An operation was to have been performed but it was too late in her weakened condition. Friday Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Post of Grand Island and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Post of North Loup, with Mr. Ed Post of North Loup motor to Ainsworth where the funeral of Mrs. Jeff Post took place Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Miss Rula Post, a daughter of the deceased, who has been employed for the past several weeks at the John Edwards' home near Ord accompanied her brothers and uncle to Ainsworth.

Raymond Baker, Charley Porter and Miss Marie Thomas of Riverdale motored to Hastings Sunday where they enjoyed the day with friends and relatives. No club is meeting with Mrs. M. B. McClellan on Tuesday afternoon. The Fortnightly with Mrs. Florentina Earnest, with Mesdames Myra Barber and Dorothy Knapp as assistant hostesses. The 20th Century club met with Mrs. Edna Post on Tuesday afternoon, Mar. 3. The lesson study was on child welfare as set forth at the recent White House Conference. Plans were made for the local achievement day which will be held on Mar. 26 at the home of Mrs. Dollie Clark. It is one which promises to be very interesting. Mrs. Nellie Fisher will be hostess to the next regular meeting to be held April 14. Lesson subject will be "When we entertain."

The Boy Scouts enjoyed a hike with delicious supper cooked in the open Tuesday evening, March 3.

At the regular session of the Library Board Tuesday evening $50 worth of new books was ordered. Also a few new rules regarding the use of magazines were made, most of which will go into effect April 1st.

While enroute home from the Andy Cook home near Arcadia, Mabel Lee had the common misfortune, Saturday afternoon of getting stalled in a snow drift about 14 miles from town. United Brethren Church. Sunday school at 10, Preaching at 11 and 7:30. Preaching every evening this week at 7:30 except Saturday by Rev. C. P. Wantz, Cartoon Pastor. Everybody invited, come. You will enjoy these services. H. H. Spracklen, Pastor.

St. John's Lutheran Church. Eight miles south of Ord. English services at 10:00. German services at 10:30. William Bahr, Pastor.

Christian Science. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon read at all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, March 8, was "Man." Citations from the Bible show that man in God's image and likeness is spiritual, and is not the material sense which mortals commonly call man.

Also, they show that when the true spiritual sense of God and man is obtained and lived then disease and other discords of the flesh are thereby overcome. One Biblical selection, quoting Jesus' words, reads, "For whether it is easier to say, 'Thy sins be forgiven thee'; or to say, 'Arise and walk.'"

From Mary Baker Eddy's definition of man as God knows him to be, as given in her book "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 475) the following is a part of a citation read: "That which has no separate mind from God; that which possesses no life, intelligence, nor creative power of his own, but reflects spiritually all that belongs to his Maker."

Pentecostal Full Gospel Church. Have you been to our church? If not, why not? Come and see for yourself. Don't believe the lies of the devil, for you are missing God's best. Wednesday night is Bible study. It is great, don't miss it. Friday night R. O. Hunter will speak telling what this blessing means to him, the pastor will also speak, telling some of God's wonder in the late war. Yes, we are expecting you with us at Sunday school Sunday, 10 o'clock. Preaching at 11, and at 7:30, Evangelistic message. W. J. Nelson, pastor.

Methodist Church. A pessimist said one day to his friend: "I sometimes wonder if life is worth living." And his friend being an optimist replied: "It is. It is worth living a whole lot better than most of us live it."

The church services of Sunday will help us to live a better life. Plan to occupy your place in the church services next Sunday. The choir is furnishing us fine music every Sunday. That alone is worth coming for. And we have Sunday school classes for all. The evening service will be interesting. We will complete the story given last Sunday night, "The Power of a Lie," by Bojer. Also Prof. Toenings and woodwind instrument group will play two numbers: "Apple Blossoms" and "Melody of Love." W. H. Wright.

Morris son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rathburn, was a passenger Monday for North Loup. He was going to the Oscar Chubbuck home in Riverdale.

Change In Taxation Promised by Weller

Assessors appointed a standing committee to work out a plan for more equitable taxation of real estate, especially farm property, and legislation along this line will be in effect by 1933, Mr. Weller says.

The Valley county assessor believes the present $200 exemption on household furniture will be removed soon and believes also that some per capita tax will be put in effect so that every individual over 21 years of age will bear a share of the tax burden.

One of the important matters discussed by county assessors at their annual convention was the question of evaluating telephone and power lines for taxation purposes. At present such corporations can and do claim one valuation for rate fixing and stock selling purposes and another valuation, often only a fraction as large, for taxation purposes. They will be required to use the same valuation for all purposes in the future, Mr. Weller believes.

—Mrs. Wm. Burgess and two daughters left Saturday for their home in St. Louis. Mrs. Burgess is a sister of Mrs. Val Pullen. Mr. and Mrs. Pullen took Mrs. Burgess and children as far as Lincoln. At Harvard, Miss Beulah Pullen joined them, having come over from back.

—Miss Ruth Flynn, who teaches in district 60, spent the week end in Ord with her grandmother, Mrs. M. Flynn.

—Although the roads were deep with snow Rex Jewett was able to drive home Friday. He teaches near Almeria.

—Miss Bernice Mason has again been offered a position in the school in Lake Alice, near Scotts-bluff.

—Mrs. Clifford Collins of North Loup was in Ord last Wednesday visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Finch.

—Chester Frey, of Chicago, was spending a few days at home. Monday he left for Omaha where he plans on working. He has an uncle, a brother of H. G. Frey, who resides in Omaha.

—A nephew of Albert McMendes, Norrel Smith and the latter's friend, Ponny Bigli of Greenfield, Iowa, were in Ord for a few days leaving Sunday for California where they will be employed.

—Thursday Leslie and John Mason left for Fort Riley, Kas., where they are plastering for a Fairbury company. Mrs. John Mason has been making several trips with her husband but was glad to stay at home for a few weeks.

—Miss Lucille Witter, teacher in the combination room in the grade school, was operated upon Sunday morning for appendicitis in the Ord hospital. Dr. C. J. Miller was in attendance.

—Miss Muri Connors, of Omaha, one of the leading ladies in the Joe Marlon players, who were at the Ord Theater Tuesday evening, is a friend of Mrs. Will Sack.

—Friday Cecil and Maxine Knapp and Mrs. Ray Knapp drove to Ord from North Loup and Mrs. Mazie Fradenburg and son Richard accompanied them to North Loup for a visit in the Knapp home.

—Madams A. C. Eichstedt and Rose Suppos and children left Thursday for their homes in New Rayner, Colo. Mrs. Anna Mach, who resides in the same city stayed for a week with her mother, Mrs. Matt Vavra. They had all been called to Ord to attend the funeral of their father, Matt Vavra.

—Monday Miss Anna Mortensen returned to her duties as teacher in district 45. She had a week's vacation and was trying to dispose of the stock of goods belonging to Mrs. Lova Trindle. The stock is on sale in the Keown building near the post office. Mrs. R. O. Hunter, assisted by Mrs. Alvin Hill, will have charge of the sale until Saturday and then Miss Mortensen will assist them.

—Lincoln, Lathrop, of Blair, came to Ord to spend the week end with his family, who are visiting Mrs. Lathrop's people, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Norris. When near Chapman, Ted ran into a big snow bank. He jumped out of his car and landed in the snow up to his waist. He had no shovel and he worked hard to move the snow so that he could get out on the chains.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mortensen left Saturday for Denver, driving as far as the island. From Denver Mrs. Mortensen was going to Pacific Palisades, Calif., to see her mother, Mrs. C. C. White. Mr. Mortensen spent but a short time in Denver and then returned to Ord.

—Friday John Klein went to St. Libory on the train, where he met his brother-in-law, George Dilla of Farwell. The latter was returning home after an operation in Fremont. Mr. Dilla left the train at St. Paul for his home. Mr. Klein returned to Ord the same evening.

—Mrs. Tamer Gruber left Saturday for Minneapolis to be with her sister, Mrs. Frederic Campbell, who is still in a hospital improving from a serious illness. Another sister, Mrs. Will Roberts, who was with Mrs. Campbell, has returned to Lincoln.

—Lee Chaffield has again been elected as superintendent and athletic teacher in the schools of Duncan. His class has made some wonderful records in football and basketball games. Just recently Floyd made a short visit to Ord. He has been with the Duncan school two years. He is an Ord boy and a graduate from our public school.

What the NEW HUMIDOR PACK

means to Camel Smokers*

COMPARE a package of Camels with any other cigarette and note the difference in the technique of packing.

Note that Camels are completely enclosed in an outer transparent cover of moisture-proof cellophane and sealed air-tight at every point.

We call this outer shell the Humidor Pack. It differs from the ordinary cellophane pack and while it is egg-shell thin, it means a lot in terms of cigarette enjoyment.

It means, for instance, that evaporation is checkmated and that Salt Lake City can now have as good Camels as Winston-Salem.

While Camels are made of a blend of the choicest Turkish and mellowest domestic tobaccos, it is highly important, if you are to get full benefit of this quality, that these cigarettes come to you with their natural moisture content still intact.

The Humidor Pack insures that. It prevents the fine tobaccos of Camels from drying out and losing any of their delightful flavor.

Aside from cheap tobacco, two factors in a cigarette can mar the smoker's pleasure:

Fine particles of peppery dust if left in the tobacco by inefficient cleaning methods sting and irritate delicate throat membrane.

Dry tobacco, robbed of its natural moisture by scorching or by evaporation gives off a hot smoke that burns the throat with every inhalation.

We take every precaution against these factors here at Winston-Salem.

A special vacuum cleaning apparatus removes dust and now the new Humidor Pack prevents dryness.

Camels and other ordinary dry cigarettes.

First of all you can feel the difference as you roll the cigarettes between your fingers. Camels are full-bodied and pliable. A dry cigarette crumbles under pressure and sheds tobacco.

If you will hold a cigarette to each ear and roll them with your fingers you can actually hear the difference.

The real test of course is to smoke them. And here's where the new Humidor Pack proves a real blessing to the smoker.

As you inhale the cool, fragrant smoke from a Camel you get all the mildness and magic of the fine tobaccos of which it is blended.

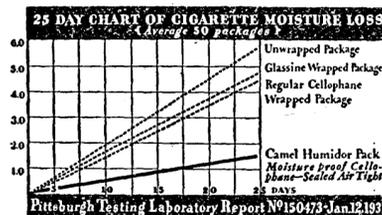

But when you draw in the hot smoke from a dried cigarette see how flat and brackish it is by comparison and how harsh it is to your throat.

If you are a regular Camel smoker you have already noticed what proper condition of the cigarette means.

But if you haven't tried Camels in the new Humidor Pack you have a new adventure with Lady Nicotine in store.

Switch your affections for just one day, then go back to your old love tomorrow if you can.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY, Winston-Salem, N. C.

The Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory chart above graphically shows you that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition.

Check the difference yourself. It is a very simple matter to check the difference between Humidor Packed

Carolina Woman Lost 47 Pounds In 3 Months And Feels Years Younger

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for nearly 3 months. I have continued taking one teaspoonful in warm water every morning. I then weighed 217 pounds, was always bothered with pains in my back and lower part of my abdomen and sides.

"Now I am glad to say I am a well woman, feel much stronger, years younger and my weight is 170 pounds. I do not only feel better but I look better, so all my friends say.

I shall never be without Kruschen Salts, will never cease taking my daily dose and more than glad to highly recommend it for the great good that is in it. Mrs. S. A. Solomon, New Bern, N. C. Jan. 1930.

"P. S. You may think I am exaggerating by writing such a long letter but truly I feel so indebted to you for putting out such wonderful salts that I cannot say enough."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at McLean & Sorenson's and drugists the world over. Take one-half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

Attention to diet will help—cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—the Kruschen way is the safe way to lose weight and if you are not joyfully satisfied—money back.

Presbyterian Church Rummage Sale AND DINNER SATURDAY, MARCH 14

Our Board of Trustees have arranged for a Rummage Sale on March 14th, 1931. The proceeds of which are to be used in cleaning up the indebtedness of the church before the close of the church year. The committee is extremely anxious that our people, both members and friends, respond liberally and graciously with anything that can be turned into cash. If our country folks have livestock or farm products of any kind that they wish to donate, it should be delivered to the Hawkins building, first door north of the State Bank, which has been rented for this purpose, or in case of livestock it should be taken to the sale barns.

Oil Discoveries Boom Business At New Fields In Eastern Texas

"Last week in eastern Texas men woke in the night with dreams of leases, drilling, sudden wealth."

At Henderson, pop. 2,332, 15 miles to the south, construction was afoot on two oil refineries. Plans were drawn for a five-story hotel. Since the discovery of oil deposits in the two national banks had risen from $750,000 to $1,900,000.

"All through the region crews of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and of Western Union were stringing new wires. Railroads were building new sidings to care for the booming traffic. Even tax collectors were not spared—back taxes were paid up at unprecedented rates. In neighboring counties—for it is not known how far the field may extend—derrick were going up, leases and land titles changing hands.

"How many barrels might be in this field? How much money would it yield at even 40c per bbl.? Why should eastern Texas care? The Goddess of Fortune had stepped into her pool and once more laved her soft white limbs in oil."

This graphic account of what happens when oil is discovered in a new field is taken from the magazine, "Time."

News of the Farms!

What's New in Farming!

BARLEY PROVES UNCERTAIN FOR CATTLE FEEDING

Some Feeders Enthusiastic Over Results, Others Get Poor Tests.

Reports from feeders over Valley county to the agricultural college and County Agent Dale of Ord indicate they are getting varied results in the feeding of barley to cattle. Some are disappointed while others feel that they have received splendid results, according to the information furnished the Quiz today by H. J. Gramlich of the college.

Experiments conducted at the college recently, however, show that barley is an efficient feed for livestock. As a result farmers over the state have increased their barley acreage and decreased their oats production. This is especially true in Valley county, around Ord. Farmers here have sensed the advisability of getting more results from barley and hence have planted more barley each year.

County Agent Dale avers that Valley county farmers were skeptical about the pork and beef that barley would produce until the experiments proved that barley produces good meat. Previously they had been under the impression that barley produced a soft pork. Packers in some cases discriminated against barley-fed hogs.

Heavy barley such as some Valley county farmers possess should prove to be about 85 percent as valuable per pound as corn for fattening cattle, the college maintains. Barley selling at 36 cents a bushel costs the same as corn per ton when the latter is selling for 42 cents.

"If barley is available at a price considerable under 36 cents, farmers are probably justified in feeding it," Gramlich told the Quiz editor yesterday. "I shouldn't doubt the wisdom of feeding it in equal parts with corn, based on the consensus of opinion expressed by most cattle feeders reporting to us."

Feeders desirous of feeding a barley and corn ration are advised to use two parts of cracked corn to one part of ground barley, together with the equivalent of one pound of cake per steer. Upon that mixture, Gramlich believes the cattle would require approximately 9 pounds of corn, 4 1/2 pounds of barley, and the one pound of cake. As a further suggestion, he believes it would be well to take several weeks to get the cattle up to the strong feed.

Fat Production Low Again Here

With average butterfat production remaining at a low ebb in the Valley County Dairy Herd Improvement association, the organization again ranked low for January in comparison with twenty-eight similar associations over the state. The local association placed twenty-second for the month, according to the monthly dairy letter from the agricultural college at Lincoln.

The monthly publication shows that the Valley county organization with Carl Smith of Ord as tester had an average production of 25.2 pounds of butterfat. Eleven cows produced from fifty to sixty while thirty-nine produced from forty to fifty pounds of butterfat.

J. D. Moul of Ord had the high producing herd in the Valley county organization for January, Smith's report to the agricultural college shows. Moul's herd of Holsteins averaged 43.5 pounds of butterfat for the period.

In the sixteen or more class, Earl Hanson had the high herd in the local association. His Holsteins made an average production of 25.6 pounds of butterfat for January. The Ord man had seventeen cows on test, according to Smith's report.

Honors for having the high cow in the Valley County Dairy Herd Improvement Association go to W. H. Sutton. His Holstein made a record of 66.3 pounds for January. The cow produced 1,311 pounds of milk that tested 5.1 percent butterfat.

FARMERS URGED TO GET ACCOUNT BOOKS AT ONCE

Dale Seeks Co-operators For Coming Year. Will Help With Problems.

"Now is the time for Valley county farmers to get their 1931 farm account books," declares County Agent Dale of Ord. "We have had many co-operators here in the past few years and certainly farmers are beginning to realize the value of knowing what their business is making or losing for them."

The farm account books as available at the county extension agent's office are free to Valley county farmers who will make use of them and cooperate with the farm bureau. Schools are planned throughout the year by Agent Dale in helping local co-operators keep their books up-to-date.

Farmers here previous to three years ago did little accounting, Dale avers. They felt that they could estimate what their farming operation was making or losing for them. Now Dale says they feel different about it and are eager to keep track of all money expended and received throughout the year.

Reports from the rural economics department at the college of agriculture indicate that Valley county is one of the foremost in the state in the number of farmers cooperating in the accounting project. All counties having extension agents, however, are interested in the project and report increased interest each year.

Not only is Dale willing to give the books out to all Valley county farmers but he is willing to help those with the books who might have trouble. When the farm account book first came out several years ago, farmers here had some trouble keeping their books. Many of them complained that the system was too complicated and took too much time.

In recent years the farm account book has been simplified and Valley county farmers are enthusiastic over it. Dale believes it takes but a few minutes to keep the book each day or week, depending upon what period the farmer will check up on his expenses.

August Peterson had his tonsils removed Friday in the Ord hospital. He was able to go home Sunday. He is not feeling any too well but in a few days expects to be in better health than heretofore.

THALMAN LOOKS FOR GOOD LATE CATTLE MARKET

Tells Ord Farmers Prospects Better Than For Last Year. Feeds Cheap.

Lower feeder rices and cheaper feeds should make the cattle outlook on the late market much better than last year was the statement made today at the agricultural college in Lincoln by Prof. Ray R. Thalman. Valley county feeders are interested in what the late fall market may do and hence will read of Thalman's prediction with more interest than usual.

Since farms in the vicinity of Ord have made the statement that there are more cattle on feed here now than usual, it is practical that those farmers are looking forward to the fall market, the Quiz agricultural editor points out. Some farmers may disagree with others about the number of cattle on feed locally but it is generally conceded that feeding operations in Valley county are large.

Thalman backs his statement by referring to stocker and feeder cattle purchased last fall at a price considerably below that of a year ago. He cites the lower wintering costs also as an advantage for the Valley county feeders. Feed costs have been reduced roughly by one-third.

Speaking of summer feeding, the animal husbandry professor says the spring months always find a relatively strong demand for feeder cattle despite the fact that many have already been purchased for summer feeding. The demand is great for thin cattle that will respond rapidly to grain on grass or a period on grass alone followed by a short feed in the dry lot.

The college of agriculture man reminds Valley county farmers that they must realize that while fat cattle prices usually start upward in July or August and reach the peak in October or November, that a lot depends upon the grade and class of cattle that are being finished for a particular market.

For the past eight years the highest prices for choice steers at Chicago were paid during September and October and the lowest during April and May. The spread was $2 per hundred.

Common steers, on the other hand, brought the highest prices in May and the lowest in late October. Thalman believes farmers should bear in mind and hold for summer feeding only those steers that possess sufficient quality to grade good or better.

Again commenting upon summer feeding, the college man says by far the greatest amount of it is done on grass. Farmers having abundant pasture are reluctant to see it go to waste and consequently buy thin cattle for summer feeding. Judiciously practiced, this method has merits since summer gains are considerably cheaper than winter gains and cattle finish somewhat more rapidly if grain is fed in conjunction with pasture.

Only steers should be used in summer feeding, Thalman says. "Selecting cattle for summer feeding should be done in a careful and considerate manner."

The most common method of pasture feeding, according to Thalman, is to feed grain on grass. Where this method is practiced, the cattle are made ready for market in a comparatively short period and at the same time the most efficient use of the available pasture is made. Corn is the most commonly used grain although when prices are low enough, wheat or barley may be substituted in the ration.

A practice that has grown tremendously during the past three or four years has been that of buying stock cattle, mostly calves or light yearlings in the fall when prices are low and carrying them through the winter on a cheap roughage ration. Thalman believes the advantages of the practice lie in the fact that with the coming of spring three alternatives are open to the feeder.

The wintering of calves in Valley county is not so great, however as it is in the eastern part of the state. Experiments at the Nebraska station, nevertheless, have proved that calves can be handled in this manner at a profit with little or no advance in price.

Joseph J. Dobrovsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Dobrovsky, of Garfield county, enrolled recently in a flying school at Lincoln and reports that he likes the course very much.

DALE SAYS BULL NOSE INCURABLE

Suggests Sanitation As Good Preventive. Unclean Conditions Blamed.

Bull-nose is perhaps one of the most difficult swine diseases to cure, according to County Agent Carl C. Dale of Ord. He said today that Valley county farmers know from experience that it is one of the easiest acquired diseases of the young pig. Necessarily those hog producers around Ord and North Loup will have to watch for it this spring in the crop of young pigs after they are of a growing age.

The disease is really something to worry about, the extension agent avers. "It is not just a disfigurement. It is the cause of an infection sore mouth or canker of gan-grenous inflammation of the nose and the skin at the various parts of the body."

Dale explains that as the infection works its way into the mouth, lips, cheeks or the tongue are commonly ulcerated. From the original ulcerations, the germs penetrate the tissues and an ill-smelling debris fills the resulting cavities. Then there is often a nasty and bloody discharge, according to Dale. Naturally the afflicted pigs nurse with difficulty and their growth is stunted. Often the pigs die of starvation.

Valley county farmers perhaps have noticed that the germ causing the bull nose usually gains entrance into the tissues of the pig through small abrasions of the skin. The abrasions are caused by rooting in the soil, in breaking through of teeth, and occasionally through wounds made by the ringing of pigs.

"Bull nose is one of the diseases which the pig may be said to never fully recover," declares Dale. "In fact very few recover at all. Those who do, however, remain stunted and runty and fail to make profitable swine."

"It is a disease that is much easier prevented than cured. In common with other diseases, its origin is largely due to filth. The fact that it often occurs in sanitary quarters does little to disprove this theory but rather proves that fresh manure must be given due credit for the disease. Knowing then that the disease is contained in the manure and the soil contaminated with manure, it becomes obvious that young pigs must be kept away from unclean places."

Farrowing pens should be thoroughly disinfected before the sow is allowed to enter and she should be put through an even more thorough disinfection than the pen itself is Dale's advice. When the time comes for the pigs to be turned out, they should be taken to some pasture land and be housed there with the sow in a colony house.

VALLEY COUNTY DAIRYMEN PLAN IMPROVE SIRE

Herd Improvement Association Enters State Contest; Rules Not Known.

The Valley County Dairy Herd Improvement Association has definitely entered the better contest, according to word sent the Quiz from the agricultural college at Lincoln today. Seventeen such associations from over the state have entered, the message reads.

Up to the present time there have been 100 percent of the associations made their requests to enter, including the local one. The remainder of the associations will be visited and the contest explained to them within the next two weeks, according to Extension Dairyman Scheldenhelm who is well known in Ord.

Seeing that better sires are needed in dairy herds in Nebraska, the dairy department and the extension service at the college believe the contest will stimulate interest in better sires. Definite rules for the contest have not been adopted as yet.

Rules of the contest and word as to the prizes to be awarded will be out by the latter part of this month, County Agent Carl Dale of Ord reports to the Quiz.

CONQUERS TOUGH HANG ON COUGHS

IN DOUBLE QUICK TIME—IS GUARANTEED—65 CENTS

For slight ordinary coughs almost any cough syrup will do, but if you have one of those tough ones that won't yield to common remedies and often keeps you awake at night then your one best bet is Broncholine Emulsion. Often one half bottle forces the most stubborn cough to yield and you are better almost before you know it.

A New York nurse just couldn't stop coughing even after consulting specialists yet one half bottle of Broncholine Emulsion did stop it completely.

Ask McLain & Sorensen or any good dealer for a 65 cent bottle—often three or four doses will stop an ordinary cough. Sold on Money back if dissatisfied plan.

AM I RIGHT?

By GEORGE ROUND, JR.

The Ager plan of pheasant control apparently has its merits and might be a success in such a county as Valley. The plan should bring some revenue to the farmer who it seems is justified in shooting the birds although there is a law prohibiting it.

When reading Ager's plan, I was amused in one place when he said that there probably were farmers in this county who shot the birds once in a while. It gave the impression that farmers around Ord seldom shot the pheasants out of season. That tickles me.

There is no use beating around the bush about it, farmers in Valley county have and are shooting the pheasants out of season. They are making no "bones" about it themselves. The truth of the matter is that they are getting tired of eating the pheasant and dislike to shoot them anymore. This may not apply to all farmers over the county but Mr. Ager shouldn't try to smooth over the pheasant shooting matter.

Orle Sorensen should have his Chester Whites bought now for his 4-H club work. Perhaps this year he will not sell his prize-winning pigs to other club members over the county but Mr. Ager shouldn't try to smooth over the pheasant shooting matter.

When Valley county farmers hear Dr. George Condra speak on irrigation, they will hear one of the foremost authorities on the subject with no exceptions. Condra knows his irrigation and should bring out some important facts about the possibility of pump and river irrigation in the North Loup valley. His talk should be interesting.

Now word comes that the textile exhibit at the Valley county fair will be done away with and the women's extension club exhibit substituted. The fair board evidently has made the first move to place the textile building at the disposal of the clubs for their exhibits. To me, it is a smart move.

Last year the women's clubs over the county were crowded out and not allowed to exhibit their work. Some club leaders and women over the county blamed County Agent Dale for the inability of the women to get the space but the blame should go where it belongs; to the fair board. Realizing perhaps, the injustice to the women's clubs, they are now offering plentiful space for the 1931 fair.

Fair patrons don't need to worry about the club women putting the exhibit across. They will do it and there will probably be all of twenty-five clubs exhibiting their wares at the 1931 show.

Last fall and during other months, some Valley county farmers were bothered to some extent with bloating on the part of calves pastured on sweet clover. Some farmers lost valuable animals. Now Professor Gramlich of the agricultural college suggests that a feed of ground barley and oats in a self-feeder along with the pasture should eliminate the chance for bloat.

Ted King evidently is enjoying his bachelor life on the farm. Quite different than eating in Paris cafes, eh Ted? You recall Ted visited Paris and other spots across the big pond several years ago when he was a member of a prize judging team. Jesse Kovanda will serve as agricultural instructor in the Ord schools for another year. Evidently Max Cruikshank of Arcadia saw some of the best Hampshire in the United States on his recent sale trip with Dick Holstein of Cairo. Besides being enthusiastic over the Hamps, the Arcadia lad now believes there are no other cattle like the Ayrshire. . . .

Drilling for oil at a time when there is an overproduction and prices are unreasonably low appears to me to be quite unaccountable. Perhaps not though as the Phillips company is not investing any money where it will not return reasonable interest. But with oil selling in the Texas fields for something like 40 cents a barrel and an overproduction everywhere, drilling in a new vicinity near Ord looks funny to me.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

The following comments on the farm situation for 1931 are being received from reliable sources. They should be of interest to farmers.

GENERAL OUTLOOK: There is little chance for recovery of farm prices in the first six months of 1931, but there is possibility of some improvement during the latter half of the year. Optimists think that the world-wide economic depression may have run the worst of its course by the summer of 1931. Such a trend should tend to improve domestic and foreign demand later in the year. Production costs will be lower this year but credit will be harder to get.

WEATHER FORECAST: In looking through old copies of Wallace's Farmer we find that they predicted, with accuracy, both the drought of last summer and the mild winter which followed. They again venture similar information: "This has been the warmest winter since 1877, which was a little warmer and very much wetter. Warm winters have most generally been followed by cool May and warm July weather. All the dry winters of the past fifty years have been followed by plenty of rain the following season."

HOGS: Slaughter supplies will be smaller, but demand will be weaker. Hogs will remain in a fairly favorable position relative to corn and other feed costs.

Poultry: There should be a normal seasonal rise in egg prices next fall and winter. Poultry prices should also be somewhat higher.

BEEF: Lower prices, but improvement during the second half of the year apparent, due to stronger demand for feeders and meat, and smaller competition from fresh pork.

DAIRYING: Increased production and lower prices expected. Cattle production has been increasing for three years, and the increase has been greater in dairy cattle than in beef cattle. Reduced returns from other products have led farmers to turn to dairying.

HORSES & MULES: There is possibility of price improvement in a few years. The shift from horses to motive power will be slowed up by cheap feed, cheap labor, and lack of money to buy new machinery.

SHEEP & WOOL: There are still too many sheep, and the supply will exceed the demand.

CORN: Prospects for a big corn acreage point to low prices next fall if yields are normal. Due to the short supply, some improvement in cash corn prices seems probable before the 1931 crop is available.

WHEAT: Withdrawal of farm board support of the present pegged price of wheat will necessitate adjustment to low world level prices.

OATS: Much oats will be planted for hay in the drought areas, and elsewhere because it fits so well in the rotation. The outlook is dull because of the decline in numbers of horses and the tendency to substitute barley for oats.

CONCLUSION: There is little to warrant an expansion of any crop at present. The farmer can beat weather the storm by growing the crops most profitable on his farm, and continuing to cut his expenses to the minimum.

Riverdale Busy Bees Meet. North Loup, March 9.—(Special) The Busy Bee club of Riverdale braved Thursday's snow storm eating a pleasant and profitable afternoon at the Bryan Portis home. Another lesson on child welfare was studied. Those present were Mrs. John Schultz, Mrs. Albert Brown, Mrs. Alfred Christensen, Mrs. George Bartz. The club will sponsor a play to be given at the Riverdale school, Mar. 29. Before adjournment a lovely lunch was served by the hostess.

FENCE 'Galvannealed' is NOT the same as ordinary galvanized fence! PICTURES PROVE IT!

Red Brand Galvannealed and ordinary galvanized fence were stretched side by side for 4 1-3 years at the Burgess Weather Test Field on the Gulf of Mexico, where damp salt sea air and smoke from a neighboring railroad yard make this probably the most destructive spot in the United States for farm fence.

Could you ask for more positive proof than this? Photographic evidence that demonstrates beyond question the vast difference in the lasting qualities of RED BRAND 'GALVANNEALED' and ordinary galvanized wire.

Nebraska's Tricky River Ruined This Town's Prospects.

Some new history about eastern Nebraska, recently come to light in a sort of commercial club folder issued at Bellevue in 1857, reveals the ambitions of a town that hoped to be the terminal of a great railway system. Its site now lies beneath the shifting silt of the Missouri river. Bellevue once bore unofficially the name of Council Bluffs. Early settlers in that vicinity, writing back east, referred to the town as Council Bluffs. This was very likely because an Indian agency of that name was located there. The town across the river from Omaha in Iowa, that is now called Council Bluffs, was then called Kanesville of Mormon Hollow. The name of Council Bluffs was conferred by the Iowa legislature. Across the river from Bellevue, which lies eight miles south of Omaha, was the town of St. Mary. In 1857 Bellevue citizens were scolding because the Rock Island was surveyed into Kanesville, instead of St. Mary. If St. Mary had been chosen instead of Kanesville, the railroad center that is now Omaha might be Bellevue, and St. Mary might be the thriving Iowa city that is now Council Bluffs. Many a Nebraska and Iowa town has been elevated to influence or lost to greatness by whims that directed the course of a railroad. St. Mary not only lost its asserted birthright to be a city, but its site is hidden from human view beneath the yellow waters of the tricky Missouri. The Missouri has been a voracious monster in its time, swallowing farms, destroying railroad tracks, isolating villages, creating and removing islands, and burying town-sites beneath its surface. St. Mary fell in its path and went down to a watery grave.

FARM CONDITIONS GOOD, LANGE SAYS

Pastures Fine, Soil Has Plenty Of Moisture. Hay Prices Extremely Low.

Valley county farmers are sitting comparatively pretty, according to recent press dispatches from Omaha where local men have been shipping cattle and hogs. The Journal-Stockman quotes Henry G. Lange of Ord as saying that pastures are in the best condition that they have ever been. The Ord man said through the publication that there is plenty of feed in Valley county and cattle that have been roughed through the winter are looking fine. Grass is beginning to green up a bit in some places and so is the winter wheat. Lange also declares that the ground is in fine condition with plenty of moisture.

A surplus of hay is to be found in Valley county according to Lange. Alfalfa is selling as low as $3.50 a ton and wild hay for anything it can be had for is selling at 10c. Corn is selling for 40 cents or was at the time that the Ord man was selling on the Omaha market. Lange is credited with the statement that the horse market here is good. Farm prices are generally high. With oats low, farmers feel that horses are a cheaper source of farm power than tractors, the Ord man stated.

Suicide Report Lands Jadwin In Hands of Law

Ord Barber Wrote No-Fund Check, Went To Grand Island; Phoned Friend Here Announcing His Suicide.

A fake suicide report Monday evening landed Paul Jadwin, for several months a barber at the Benjamin shop, in the hands of the law and he is still confined in the Valley county jail pending results of an investigation by officers. When all the facts are in Mr. Jadwin may serve time at the Valley county jail, may be released with a fine or he may be committed to a state institution at Lincoln.

Last Saturday Jadwin wrote a check for $8.00 at the Farmers Grain & Supply company's Ord store, taking merchandise and $4.00 in cash. Unfortunately he had no money in the bank and Monday morning Wm. Heuck, manager of the company, filed a complaint against him.

Fake Suicide Report.

In the meantime the barber left for Grand Island and when officers started hunting for him Monday he could not be found. Monday evening Walter Smith, an acquaintance of Jadwin, received a telephone call from Grand Island. "Paul Jadwin cut his throat a little while ago at the St. Francis rooms. He left a note in his pocket saying to notify you," the voice said.

Mr. Smith immediately got in touch with Mrs. Jadwin, who was still in Ord, and also communicated with Sheriff George Round. The sheriff immediately called Grand Island to verify the report and found that police there knew nothing about it. They would investigate, they promised.

A few minutes later came a telephone call from Grand Island. Jadwin had been located, the police said.

Report Was Exaggerated.

"Is he dead?" Sheriff Round asked. "Yeah, dead drunk!" answered the voice at the other end of the wire.

Evidently Jadwin had intended to make an end of himself, announced his suicide prematurely and then lost his nerve.

Tuesday Sheriff Round brought the barber back to Ord and since then he has been held in jail here. A hearing in the case may be held today. Officially, the only charge against him is for writing a no-fund check, which carries a very slight penalty, but if he expresses a desire to become cured of his unfortunate habit authorities here may secure his committal to a state institution for treatment. He is a good barber and was well liked by fellow workmen and by customers.

Carl Dudschus Dies, Funeral Is Today

22-Year-Old Ord Man Passes Away In Sutherland Monday After Several Weeks of Illness.

After an illness of several weeks Carl Dudschus, 22, passed away at 6:30 p. m. Monday at his home in Sutherland, Neb. Funeral services are being held at Sowl's chapel at 2:30 p. m. today Rev. W. H. Wright conducting them, and burial will be made in Ord cemetery.

The young man was a son of Mr. and Mrs. August Dudschus, the former passing away here about four years ago. Some months ago Carl and Miss Edna Knecht were married here, moving to Sutherland soon afterward. They have one infant son, Carl, Jr. Besides his own family and his mother, Carl is survived by four brothers and four sisters, E. Dudschus, Ord, Otto Dudschus, Denver, Albert Dudschus, Akron, O., Paul Dudschus, Aurora, Neb., Mrs. J. Yager, Cheyenne, Wyo., Mrs. Anson Kinney, Ballagh, Neb., Mrs. Will Salem, Akron, Ohio, and Mrs. Louise Sharp, Grand Island, Neb. Nearly all of them will be present at the burial services today.

Elwood Stanton Sent To Insane Hospital

Elwood Stanton, 18-year-old son of Mrs. Myrtle Stanton, of Olean vicinity, was committed to the state hospital at Hastings by the Valley county insanity board at a hearing Tuesday. Sheriff George Round took the young man to Hastings the same day.

About three weeks ago Elwood began to act queerly, shutting himself up in a room at his mother's home and refusing to come out. Members of the family took his meals to him and sometimes he would eat and sometimes refuse to do so. He made occasional trips outside through the window.

Sheriff Round went down after him Monday but Elwood escaped through the window and was caught only after a long chase through the corn fields.

He is a son of the late Joe Stanton, who committed suicide some years ago. Until recently he has appeared to be a bright, normal boy and was graduated from North Loup high school with high scholastic honors. It is hoped that he will recover his mental health with treatment.

Pentecosts Buy Church. People of the Pentecostal church this week purchased the Baptist church property, which they have been using for services for some time. The consideration is reported as $2,550. The parsonage and part of the church lot were bought by Mrs. Mamie Wear for $1,200.

It is unusual to mow wild hay early in March but that is just what Pete Weiniak was doing Monday. He had two mowing machines working all day cutting the rank wild hay for feed.

Catch Big Catfish From Erickson Lake

E. S. Thomas, of Cairo, and C. J. Conger, of Loup City, were in Ord yesterday afternoon proudly displaying a 33-pound catfish that they caught out of lake Erickson that morning. They caught the big fellow on a set-line, using the entrails of a rabbit for bait. The two men also caught a 6½ pound catfish at the same time. They were going to Loup City to show the fish to James Conger, owner of the lake resort, and then planned to return to Erickson to fish again last night. So far as is known this fish is the largest ever caught in Lake Erickson. Last summer a Mr. Fry, of Lincoln, caught a 30-pound catfish in the lake.

Hoyt Subsists 3 Days On Diet Of Bread and Water

For George "Bud" Hoyt, of Burwell, the first three days and the last three days of his 30-day jail sentence are the hardest. Saturday Hoyt began serving his sentence in the Valley county jail and, following the judge's orders, Sheriff Round served the young man with bread and water only on the first three days of his sentence. For the next 24 days he will enjoy normal food but must complete the last three days of his sentence on the restricted diet.

Young Hoyt was convicted of intoxication some time ago but appealed the case to the district court. He neglected to sign his appeal bond, however, and County Attorney Munn filed a motion to set the appeal aside. Judge E. P. Clements sustained Mr. Munn at a hearing last Friday and the Burwell youth began serving his sentence at once.

John Misko Returns To Ord As Partner Of Hardenbrook

Misko, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Misko, of Ord, entered into a partnership with Bert M. Hardenbrook. The partnership becomes effective April 1 and for the present the firm of Hardenbrook & Misko will occupy Mr. Hardenbrook's present offices in the Beranek building.

Mr. Misko needs no introduction to Valley county people. He attended the Ord schools and later Wesleyan university and the University of Nebraska, graduating last spring with high honors from the law school at Lincoln. Since that time he has been employed in the office of Clarence A. Davis, at Holdrege.

A new law firm was formed in Ord last Friday when John P.

The arrangement goes into effect today, and five double tickets are waiting at the box office now for five heads of families living in Ord or vicinity.

Who gets these tickets and how are they secured? The answer is simple—anybody may be the lucky persons and they may be earned by reading the Quiz carefully from front page to back page, as most Quiz subscribers do anyway. Somewhere, tucked away in the news items or even in the display advertisements, the names of five people appear in items something like this:

Find Items Like This!

"Mr. and Mrs. John Blank call at the Ord Theatre for free tickets March 19 or 20."

Now begin reading the paper and don't stop until you've read every line in it. Read every advertisement in the Quiz carefully as the item that has your name in it may appear in a display ad.

After you have found your name, all you have to do is to identify yourself at the Ord Theatre box office either tonight or Friday night, depending on which picture you want to see. You will be admitted promptly, for Manager Hoogenboezem has a list of the names that appear in this week's Quiz. The tickets are good only tonight and Friday night.

Five Shows at Theatre. Two very interesting pictures are being shown at the Ord showhouse tonight and Friday night. Tonight is the last showing of "Girls Demand Excitement" with John Wayne, Virginia Cherrill and Marguerite Churchill, and tomorrow night the feature picture is "Not Exactly Gentlemen" with Victor McLaglen, Lew Cody, Eddie Gribbon and Fay Wray. This picture also is to be shown Saturday night but free tickets cannot be used except on Friday.

Would you like to attend the Ord Theatre free? Then read the Quiz carefully this week and every week.

City Caucuses Tonight. Both the Citizens and Good Government parties will hold their annual caucuses at 8 o'clock this evening. The Citizens will meet at the district court room and the Good Government at the city hall. It is hoped that a large number of voters will turn out to nominate the city officers.

Aged Woman Has Operation. Mrs. H. H. Thorgate, who is 67 years old, underwent a serious major operation at Hillcrest hospital Monday, Dr. C. W. Weekes performing the operation with the assistance of Dr. Hemphill. Mrs. Thorgate is in a serious condition but is standing the operation remarkably well for a woman of her age and will recover unless complications set in.

Mrs. F. P. Hoffman Goes To Reward

Funeral Services Held Wednesday At Sowl Parlor; Was Resident Of Ord For Over 30 Years.

Lydia Ann Redenbaugh was born near Covington, Indiana, Dec. 20, 1858 and departed this life March 16, 1931 being 72 years, 2 months and 26 days old.

At the age of 13 months her mother died leaving her in the care of a grandmother, then at the age of 12 she lost her father and, from then, was raised by an aunt.

On her 19th birthday she was united in marriage to Franklin P. Hoffman, who survives to mourn her loss. To this union six children were born, John M., who passed away at the age of three years; Jacob P. Hoffman and Mrs. John D. Lickly, of Ord; William I. of Burwell; Herbert A., who died in infancy; and Helen Steinwart, whose death occurred Jan. 25, 1920.

For eleven years she was mother to the two sons of her daughter Helen, Marcus and Manfred Steinwart. She also leaves five other grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

About three years after her marriage she, with her husband and baby boy, moved to Platte county, Neb. After the death of her son Platte county no longer held any attraction and in 1883 she, with her husband and two baby boys, homesteaded near what is now Comstock. Here she endured all the hardships of early pioneer life, living on the homestead in a sod house while her husband taught school many miles away.

After selling the old homestead, she finally moved to Ord in 1898, where she has since lived.

While yet a girl she became a member of the Church of Christ and her place in her membership with the Christian church in Ord, Faithful, trusting, loving, believing in the goodness of God, she lived her life unafraid and, in departing, she leaves a memory ever dear to those who mourn.

In Progressive Parley

Here is the host and some of the guests who attended the conference of progressives in Washington recently. Reading from top to bottom are Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, Governor Roosevelt, of New York, and Governor Phil LaFollette, of Wisconsin. It was Senator Norris, right, who sent out the invitations. As a result of the progressive parley a third party looms.

Christian Science People Purchase New Building

Christian Scientists of Ord last week completed a deal by which they become owners of the former Cronwell cream station building, just opposite the Ord hospital on South 16th street. A few months ago it was remodeled by the former owners, the Protective Savings & Loan association.

The Christian Science people already have electricians and plumbers busy in their new building and expect to begin holding services there by April 1, moving their furniture from their present rooms in the Lola building.

Claude Rowley Is Elected As Coach

Famous University Athlete Gets Position at Highest Salary Ever Paid First Year Coach Here.

Claude Rowley, famous University of Nebraska football player, was elected Monday evening by the board of education as athletic coach in the Ord schools for next year. He was elected at a salary of $1,600, the highest wage ever offered a first-year coach in Ord.

Mr. Rowley has not indicated yet whether he will accept the contract, though he has an applicant for the job.

Under the tutelage of Coaches Bear and Bible, Rowley developed into one of the greatest punters Nebraska ever produced. He played fullback on the Cornhusker team and also was proficient in other branches of athletics.

This is the first time a University of Nebraska athlete has been offered the coaching job in Ord.

Other new teachers elected Monday are Miss Ratcliff, of Stuart, who will teach in the grade school, and Miss Lincoln, of Mt. Pleasant, Ia., who will teach the kindergarten.

Mrs. Newbecker Has Stroke. Mrs. George W. Newbecker had a severe paralytic stroke at her home in Compton, Calif., last Friday, Ord relatives are informed. A telegram Monday said she was still seriously ill and another message Tuesday said she could not possibly live more than a day or two. In the event of her death the body will be brought to Ord for burial.

A telegram from George W. Newbecker to Orville Sowl this morning says that Mrs. Newbecker passed away Wednesday morning. The body will arrive in Ord Saturday evening and funeral services probably will be held Sunday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sack were Omaha visitors Sunday.

Two New Cars Wrecked Sunday Eve In Collision Near Ord Fair Grounds

Delbert Bridge and Wm. Wegner Still In Ord Hospitals In Serious Condition; Cars Hit Tractor Being Hauled By Furtak.

Four young men, Delbert Bridges and Harmon Williams, North Loup, Wm. Wegner and Melvin Holm, Cotesfield, were injured and two new automobiles were wrecked Sunday evening in a smash-up on the highway near the fair grounds here. Young Williams' car, a new Willys 6, smashed into a tractor which was being hauled to town behind a truck driven by Clement Furtak. Wegner's car, a new Ford, crashed into the Willys and also was wrecked. All four of the young men required hospital care.

The accident happened about 8 o'clock and all of the parties concerned were proceeding toward Ord. Furtak's truck, with the tractor in tow, was part way up the hill on the highway near the city limits.

Were Driving Rapidly. Both the Williams and Wegner cars were being driven at a high rate of speed, young Williams admitting to Sheriff George Round that he was bettering fifty miles per hour. The truck was on higher ground than the automobiles and the lights of the Williams' car did not strike it until it was too late to stop.

The Williams car struck the tractor with such force that it telescoped the car, breaking the engine in two pieces. Then the Wegner car struck the Willys, overturning it and pinning the Williams and Bridges boys beneath it.

When help reached the scene both Williams and Bridges were unconscious and bleeding profusely. Neither was recognizable because of the blood that covered them and both were rushed to the Ord hospital where Dr. C. J. Miller cared for their injuries.

Bridges Boy Badly Hurt. Harmon Williams was only cut and bruised but Delbert Bridges was more badly hurt. His injuries consisted of deep gashes around the head and neck, one ear nearly severed and one knee-cap split. He is still in the Ord hospital in a serious condition. Dr. Miller expects to operate on his knee in a few days.

Both of the Cotesfield boys were taken to Hillcrest, where they were cared for by Dr. C. W. Weekes. Young Holm was not badly hurt and was soon allowed to go home but his cousin, William Wegner, owner of the car, had most of his teeth knocked out, a knee-cap shattered and many cuts and bruises. Dr. Weekes operated upon his knee Monday and he will recover.

Both Cars Were Wrecked. Damages to both cars were very severe. The Willys was totally wrecked and cannot be repaired. Repairs for Wegner's Model A Ford will cost more than $100, estimate mechanics at Blaha's garage where the wrecks were taken and where more than five hundred people viewed them Monday.

The truck Furtak was driving, which was owned by John K. Finsen, was not damaged but the tractor will require major repairs.

Mr. Furtak admits that he was driving without lights on either truck or tractor. He had planned to stop at the top of the hill and turn the headlights on and also planned to hang a lantern on the rear of the tractor, he said.

Both Parties To Blame. Blame for the accident is divided almost equally between Furtak and the young men driving the two automobiles. The former was admittedly negligent in not providing lights on his vehicle while both Williams and Wegner were driving at an excessive rate of speed, according to their own admissions.

Ben Morris Tries Kidnap Own Child

Ben Morris ran into some trouble that might have proved serious for his young son, but he tried to kidnap his own child, Etta Mae, 17 months old, from the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Urban, who have been caring for her since the death of her mother some weeks ago. Ben and his second wife, the former Lottie Tiff, who Ben married at Loup City March 9, drove to the Urban home while Mr. Urban was away Monday, removed the child from her crib and carried her away despite Mrs. Urban's protests. Sheriff Round was notified and that evening he went to the Morris home and Mr. Morris gave the child up. Mr. and Mrs. Urban are preparing to adopt the child legally and when they took the baby Morris agreed to sign the adoption papers whenever they were ready. Had he refused to relinquish the baby Monday evening he might have been in for some serious trouble but since he did so no charge will be filed against him.

Get Two Coyotes In Sunday Drive

Two coyotes were killed Sunday in a drive at the south edge of Woods' park. Between 300 and 350 men with a large number of hounds took part in the drive, Joe Burson tells the Quiz. The coyotes were auctioned off, $2.50 and $3.00 being bid, and the proceeds were given to the Red Cross.

On March 29 another drive is being planned. It will start at the west side of the Bals ranch and covers the territory west to the Urban road. The drive will start at 2 p. m. It is being arranged by Joe Burson and Chas. Urban.

Another coyote hunt is being planned for this coming Sunday March 22, to be held west of Ord in the territory covered by the fraternal drive a few weeks ago. Several coyotes were seen at that time and those planning the drive believe that better results will be had this time.

By MRS. RAY COLDEN

Joy Burnette Parker.

Funeral services for Joy Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Parker were held at the Congregational church Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock conducted by the pastor Rev. B. W. Burleigh, assisted by Rev. R. O. Gaither, pastor of the Methodist church. The church was filled to capacity and the sermon prepared by the pastor brought comfort and strength to the sorrowing assemblage. The many beautiful floral offerings were symbolic of the love and affection which Joy held in the hearts of his relatives and friends. Music was furnished by a quartette composed of Mrs. Vera Cook, Mrs. E. V. Amick, H. D. Weddel and J. G. Cruikshank. Burial was made in the Arcadia cemetery where an impressive service was held by the Boy Scouts, assisted by the pastors. Taps was played by the Boy Scout bugler, Carl Easterbrook. Active pall bearers were Max Cruikshank, Morris Kingston, Marlon Fenster, Carol Lutz, Orle Sorenson and Edward Arnold. Honorary pall bearers were Downing Rounds, Billy and J. C. Ward, Milo Smith, Billy Sorenson and Milton O'Connor.

Joy Burnette Parker was born July 25, 1916 at Arcadia, Neb., and passed away March 10, 1931 at the St. Francis hospital in Grand Island following a short illness. He was a member of the freshman class of the Arcadia high school, the town band and the Boy Scouts. Of a quiet and extremely loving disposition he will be greatly missed in the community by both the young and old. He leaves to mourn, his parents, one sister, Mrs. Brownie Barger of Newport, Neb., his grandmothers, Mrs. E. A. Easterbrook and Mrs. Alice Parker of Arcadia, besides a large number of relatives.

The following from out of town attended the funeral, Edgar Foster of Geneva, Mrs. Lou Williams, Donald and Lucile Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Williams of Loup City, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Bossen of Wahoo, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Yocum and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Perkuhn of Grand Island and May, Myrtle, Leon, Loren and Lester Pugsley of Wiggle Creek.

Home Burns.
The four room residence on the farm occupied by Mrs. Walter Coakley, northwest of Arcadia was totally destroyed by fire one day last week and practically all of the contents burned. The fire started in a clothes closet where the four year old daughter had been striking matches while her mother was busy outside. The child called her mother when the house became filled with smoke but it was too late to extinguish the blaze. Fortunately the little girl was uninjured.

Paul Larsen Injured.
Paul Larsen, who resides on the P. W. Rounds farm east of Arcadia, had his right limb injured last Thursday evening while trying to assist a lame horse in rising from the ground. The horse fell back against Mr. Larsen catching his limb beneath it in such a manner as to crack the bone above the ankle. The injured member was placed in a cast and is healing nicely.

Literary to Give Play.
The Liberty Literary Society will give a three act comedy entitled "The Parson Slips" at the Liberty school house Friday evening, March 20. The proceeds will go toward paying for the new addition on the church. There are nine members in the cast. Mrs. Floyd Hyatt, Hazel Armstrong, Faye Crist, Floyd Armstrong, Kenneth Saddler, Mrs. Fred Hunt, Don Moody, Labon Deaver and Floyd Hyatt.

Gospel Meetings Well Attended.
The gospel meetings being held at the old Methodist church building are drawing large crowds. A sermon is delivered each evening by Evangelist B. E. Hay of Grand Island and stereopticon views are also shown. This week Mr. Hay is telling of his experiences in the Philippines and illustrating his remarks with the use of stereopticon slides.

The male quartette from the Shelton Academy will be present for the services Friday and Saturday evening.

Mrs. Ed Freeman Passes Away.
Relatives in Arcadia have received word of the death of Mrs. Ed Freeman which occurred Thursday, March 12 at Creighton, Alabama where Mr. and Mrs. Freeman had been visiting. Mrs. Freeman's death followed an operation. The body was taken to Clarinda, Iowa for burial.

Mr. Freeman is well known in Arcadia where he resided for many years. Many of his Arcadia friends were not aware of his recent marriage which occurred January 2nd.

Present Junior Class Play.
The junior class play "The Man in the Green Shirt" was presented at the Electric Theatre Monday evening to a large and appreciative audience. There were ten members in the cast and each actor did splendid work in his part.

The story dealt with the Fuller family who were on the verge of bankruptcy due largely to the wife's (Dorothy Bly) extravagance. Mr. Fuller (generally known as Morris Kingston) owned ten shares of Blue Parrot Oil Stock which he had considered worthless so had stowed it away in an old green shirt. The stock suddenly boomed and the shares were in great demand, but somehow or other the shirt couldn't be found. An advertisement was inserted in the local paper, the police enlisted and a wild scramble made to find the missing article. Incidentally a son of an old friend of Mr. Fuller's, Ivan Ross (who very much resembled Edwin Harrison) arrived on a visit. He went in bathing and his clothes were stolen. Willie, the servant, (Everett Johnson) provided some old clothes in the emergency. Later it developed that the missing shirt was among these garments, which the young man had put away in his bag and forgotten. The family is then placed in easy circumstances with some valuable lessons learned. Ivan won the hand of the Fuller's daughter Millie, (Lorraine Bartley) and Willie was made happy by the promise of marriage from the Fuller's maid, Lena Mae Crow (Evelyn Hyatt). The crook (Arthur Lutz), the adventures, (Mildred Carmody), the hard boiled policeman (Pearlie Dobson) and the social leader (Lenora Holmes) all figured prominently in the cast, adding their part to the dramatic and maddy touches.

Specialty numbers were given between the first and second acts by the Girl's Glee club and Carl Easterbrook favored the audience with cornet solos between the second and third acts.

The play was very ably directed by the class sponsor, Miss Muriel Majors.

4-H Club Meets.
The R. K. D. Litter club met at the home of the leader, Mrs. Morris Fowler Friday evening, March 18.

All members were present but two and we had three new members, Roy Braden, Keith Holmes and Orle Sorenson. The subject that we studied was "The breeding of the sow, the pedigree, the number of pigs and the weight of the sow."

Glenn Jameson gave an interesting talk on how to make a feeder.

Billy Arnold gave a talk on how to water hogs.

Billy Ward Scribe. The R. K. D. Baby Beef club met with the leader, Mrs. Fowler Friday evening, March 13. Five members were present.

Preston Ward was taken into the club. Preston has a Hereford calf.

In the club there is one Angus owned by Paul Easterbrook, three Herefords owned by Billy Sorenson, Emanuel Petska, much, C. Ward and one Shorthorn-Hereford owned by Glenn Jameson.

After a good discussion of calves, feeding, etc. the meeting was adjourned until the April meeting which will be held with Cleith Thompson, a pig club boy. Glenn Jameson, Scribe. Epworth League Elects Officers. At the Epworth League social held at the Methodist church basement Friday evening of last week the following officers were elected for the coming year: Orville Lueck, president; John Erickson, first vice president; Marie Gates, second vice president; Ellsworth Bruner, third vice president; Dorothea Schoemaker, fourth vice president; Harold Gates, secretary-treasurer and Loma Hyatt, pianist.

Community Club to Meet.
The regular March meeting of the Mens' Community club will be held at the Methodist church basement next Tuesday evening, March 24, at 7 p. m.

Ladies Hold Interesting Meeting.
The Ladies Aid society and the Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church held a joint meeting at the church basement Friday afternoon. A number attended and enjoyed the following program: Devotionals led by F. H. Christ; Sketch of a Native Welfare Worker in Japan, Mrs. Lowell Finney; play—"A remembering Party", parts taken by Mrs. R. O. Gaither, Mrs. A. E. Aufrecht, Mrs. Lyle Lutz, Mrs. J. G. Stanley and Mrs. Wm. McMichael.

"The Whole Wide World for Christ", Mrs. C. C. Weddel; business meeting.

At the close of the meeting a lovely lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Lowell Finney and Mr. A. E. Aufrecht.

Dislocates Arm.
Huber Leach dislocated his right arm at shoulder joint Wednesday of last week when he was thrown from a colt which he was breaking. The injured member was properly cared for and is healing nicely.

Teachers Sign Contract.

Now... Shell makes it possible for motorists to save MILLIONS

Announcing a great step forward in refining practice—the New Improved Shell 400

MODERN motor cars need it. Research and experiment, backed by actual engine tests, prove it can be made.

Now it is offered to motorists here—regular priced gasoline that gives the great majority of all cars real protection against "knocking," as well as full power, pick-up and mileage.

New Improved Shell 400 is far above common regular priced gasolines in anti-knock value—in fact, above many premium priced brands. It will help millions of motorists to lower their driving costs.

Almost all car owners can use it—and forget any question of paying an extra 3 cents per gallon. New Improved Shell 400 will give them all the anti-knock value, quick starting and power their engines are capable of, at a real money saving.

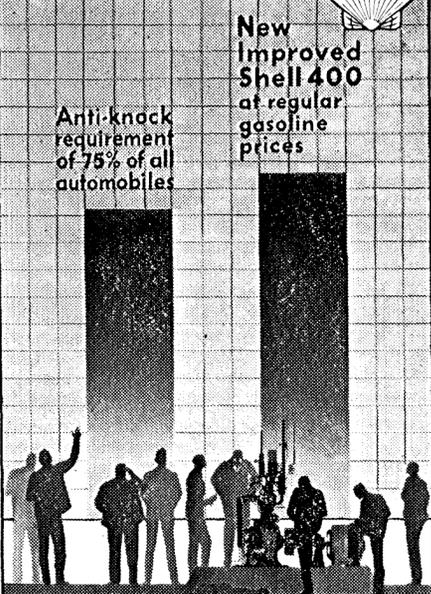

There are only a few makes and models of cars which require fuel of still higher anti-knock value. If your car is one of these, your station man will tell you, and recommend the proper fuel.

In justice to your own driving comfort and your own pocketbook, try the New Improved Shell 400. Test it on hills, in cold weather starting, in traffic, snow, ruts—however you wish. It may cut down your driving costs many dollars.

New Improved Shell 400 at regular gasoline prices

Anti-knock requirement of 75% of all automobiles

At least 75% of all cars can reduce gasoline bills—put an end to repair costs caused by common gasolines—by using New Improved Shell 400. In the majority of cars it gives perfect driving satisfaction—full power, quick starting, all the anti-knock value the engine requires

NEW IMPROVED SHELL 400

Real anti-knock gasoline at regular price—definitely better than many present premium fuels, and far above common regular priced gasolines in this indispensable quality modern engines need

WHEELER AND WOOLSEY KINGS OF FILM FUN

"The king-pin of all comedy teams!" That is how Eddie Cline, director, speaks of Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, whom he directed in Radio Pictures' "Hook, Line and Sinker", at the Ord theatre beginning Sunday.

"There can be no doubt of it," he says, "when you remember they have scored consecutively in five pictures since their highly successful Ziegfeld stage days—RKO'S "Rio Rita", "Cuckoo", "Half Shot at Sunrise", "Dixiana" and now "Hook, Line and Sinker".

The explanation is very simple, according to Cline, who is an authority on comedy psychology, having learned his lessons well from Mack Sennett in the days of the "Keystone Kops."

"They are entirely different and secure laughs by different methods," he says. "Woolsey is master of humorous lines. Wheeler develops the situations with hilarious results. If the theatregoer isn't laughing, Wheeler, he is laughing at Woolsey."

Haskell Creek

During the last recess Thursday afternoon Lydia Dana caught one of her fingers in the door as it was being closed. The fingertip was cut and the nail was torn. The wound was so painful that she was forced to go home, however she was back in school Friday.

Most of the farmers in the community raised some hogs but we believe that Frank Flynn has most of them beat. He has over two hundred and forty little Hampshires.

The Whist club met with Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Collison Friday evening.

There has not been so much moving done in this community as has been usual in past years. Bergman Hansen has moved to the John Beran jr. place and Ign. Nevrivy and family are moving to Mr. Hansen's place.

Elmer St. Clair has moved down near North Loup but no one is moving onto this place as Elliot Clement has rented the farm ground. George Morrison has moved onto the place vacated by Peter Welniak.

The Welniak children and Laverne Hansen have withdrawn from District 45. There were 28 in Sunday school Sunday morning. A. L. Nordin, the district missionary was present and spoke after the lesson discussion. Friday evening he will show stereotypical pictures of "Ten Nights in a Barroom" at the school house.

New Body Style In Chevrolet Line

A new body style, the 5-passenger coupe, has been added to the 1931 line of Chevrolet Sixes, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, announced this week.

The new model is Chevrolet's latest addition to its deluxe line, another of which, the convertible cabriolet, was brought out early in January, and through which Chevrolet is establishing a new order of quality, luxury and individuality in the low priced field. The new type, which brings the number of passenger models in the Chevrolet line to eleven, is priced at $595 f. o. b. Flint, Mich.

The 5-passenger coupe is of the 2-door, close-coupled type with the sport treatment carried throughout. Body is by Fisher. Finish is in new Duco combinations of ember gray on body, with Coopers-town green wheels, and the roof and rear quarters in Sheffield green. The trim stripe is cream.

Interior arrangement is practically the same as that of the 2-door sedan, affording abundant leg room for all passengers. The front seats are separate, the driver's being adjustable. The other has a thin back and can be tilted forward. The rear seat holds three persons comfortably. The three-hinged door is exceptionally wide, permitting easy entry for passengers.

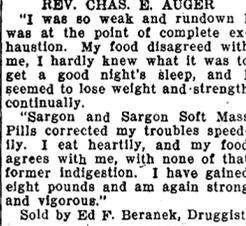

The interior appointments are of the deluxe type throughout. The upholstery is optional in Bedford cord or mohair. The instrument board is specially designed. There are arm rests, an assist horn on the right side, ash tray and curtains on the rear side and rear windows.

Exterior treatment is in keeping with the interior. A package compartment in the rear deck has a large capacity and is easily accessible. Radiator grille and cow lights in chrome plate are used. Chromium plating is also freely employed on headlamps and other exterior hardware. The regular Fisher VV windshield is used. Five wire wheels are standard equipment with the spare carried in the rear.

The new model is now in production and dealers throughout the country are being stocked for immediate delivery.

Minister Firmly Endorses Sargon

No matter where you go—North, East, South or West—there are thousands who testify that they owe their strength, vigor and well being to Sargon. Rev. Chas. E. Auger, 1803 W 2nd Ave., Spokane, Wash., recently said:

REV. CHAS. E. AUGER
"I was so weak and rundown I was at the point of complete exhaustion. My food disagreed with me, I hardly knew what it was to get a good night's sleep, and I seemed to lose weight and strength continually."
"Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills corrected my troubles speedily. I eat heartily, and my food agrees with me, with none of that former indigestion. I have gained eight pounds and am again strong and vigorous."
Sold by Ed F. Beranek, Druggist.

Children Like This Safe Prescription

Coughs and Sore Throat Relieved Almost Instantly

Stop children's coughs and sore throats before these ailments lead to dangerous ills. Use Thoxine, a doctor's famous prescription which brings relief within 15 minutes, yet contains no harmful drugs.

Thoxine works on a different principle. It has a quick, feeble action—it relieves the irritation and goes direct to the internal cause. Ideal for all children because it is pleasant tasting and easy to take—not a gargle. Ask for Thoxine, put up ready for use in 85c, 60c, and $1.00 bottles. If you are not satisfied, your money will be refunded. Sold by Beranek's Drug Store and all other good drug stores.

This Great Healing Oil Best For Pimples and Skin Troubles

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

You've probably been, like a lot of other people, convinced that the only thing to use was an ointment or salve (some of them are very good) but in the big majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores and the condition primarily remains the same.

Go to any good druggist today and get the original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil—an 85 cent bottle lasts 2 weeks. The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past. Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

The Nebraska legislature will probably appropriate fifteen thousand dollars to be used in making an exhibit at the world's fair in Chicago in 1933 but it will be money thrown away. Anyone who will stop to think, will agree that fifteen thousand dollars will not make a creditable showing. It will enable a few Nebraskans to go back there at that time and have a mighty good time and the people will pay the bill.

If farmers in the Ord trade territory could be reasonably sure that decent prices could be secured for produce such as a canning factory would need, there would be plenty of pump irrigation soon in operation to produce all the string beans, tomatoes, red beets and pumpkins that such a factory would need. I understand such a factory, meaning one of a miniature size, could be started by a business man would build as a starter in a new field, would give employment to from 60 to 100 people for eight months in the year. A payroll of that kind would be a fine thing for Ord.

If Governor Roosevelt of New York was not avowedly wet and could get the democratic nomination next year he would be a mighty hard man for Hoover or any other big business choice on the republican ticket to beat. Probably if Roosevelt was not wet, he wouldn't be mentioned for the democrat nomination however.

If George W. Norris was ten years younger I would like to see him in the president's chair for a term with a congress to back him up. A worse mess couldn't be made than we have at present or than several former conditions that we can all remember if we are fifty years old or older. But Senator Norris is too old to be even considered. Then there are a few Nebraska editors who would bite themselves and have hydrophobia, if Norris, was even a candidate.

And, by the way, I have never seen where those same Nebraska editors ever said a word in condemnation of the dirty, crooked deal that republicans high in the organization of the party cooked up to defeat Senator Norris last year. Yet seldom a week passes that they do not mention the name of Norris. They seem to think that anything is fair just so it is against Norris.

I sincerely hope the progressives in congress will get organized and see that the progressive legislation that the people want is introduced, and then that they will stand pat and insist on its being passed if any other legislation is passed. But of course Hoover will veto any progressive legislation that may be passed. But it will cost him a lot of votes if he does, no matter who runs on the other ticket.

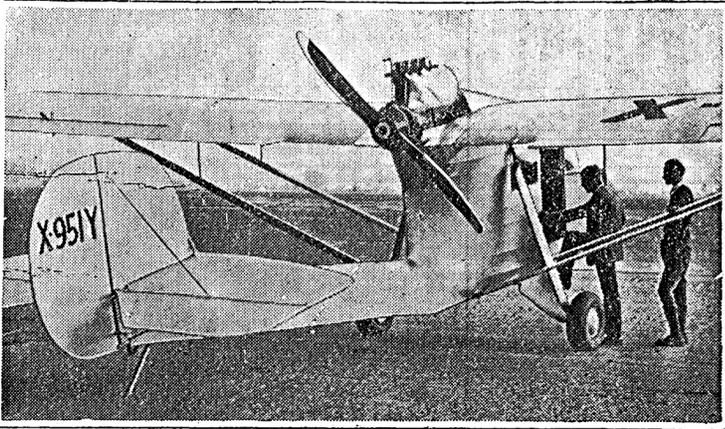

I see that some of the big democrats say that Smith couldn't be elected if he was nominated. I don't know about that either. As I see it conditions are changing rapidly. We all know where Al stands on the liquor question but who knows where Hoover stands? Perhaps if a month in the David Mannes school of music, New York City, where he has been studying voice for some time. His instructor, Frank Bibb, is the coach of Frieda Hempel, operatic star, and Herbert is making great progress under Mr. Bibb's direction. He is employed by the King Features Syndicate while studying in New York City.

—Mrs. Guy Lemaster has been real sick with jaundice. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Charley Lemaster, was staying with her for several days last week.

Quiz Is Honored Third Year In Succession

For the third year in succession the Ord Quiz is honored by being given the distinguished certificate awarded annually to better newspapers over the United States by the School of Journalism, University of Illinois. The certificates are given for all-around excellence. Only a few weeks newspapers in Nebraska were so honored and the Quiz is the only paper in the North Loup valley region to receive a certificate.

At Last—The Noiseless Plane

Not much to look at, perhaps, but this odd plane has its fine points. Designed by Earl E. McClary, of Huntington Park, Calif., this plane is distinguished for its perfect visibility control for the pilot, greater and more positive control sensitivity and almost total absence of noise and vibration. It can land and take off at a speed of 35 miles an hour and possesses normal flying speed. McClary is shown above climbing into the cockpit with Dwight Peterson, test pilot.

Something Different

I know my column isn't much like Odd McIntyre's, but I would like it to be, and as he talks about the places he goes travelling, may I please do the same? Well, then, I am in Alliance, a rather new town full of the characteristics of a city, population about 8,000, a hustling, bustling, business town. Here I was born and reared, enjoying same mightily, and in spite of the fact that I am often teased by my relatives about being from the sandhills, Alliance is not much closer to the sandhills than Ord is. The sandhills begin about eight miles from Alliance at their closest point, and lie to the east and south in a sort of crescent shape.

This country is only beginning to be farmed, and the land is fertile and cheap, compared to other sections. The best of it is now available at $5 an acre, and less. Originally, this was a typical western cow-town, and my father, who was here before the town was thought of, and spent many years in the newspaper business in Alliance, has seen the day when shooings on the main drag occasioned no emotional flurry, but merely a rush to the nearest cover.

A few days ago Mr. Robbins came to see my father, wanting a lot of information about pioneers and pioneering hereabouts. Mr. Robbins prepares and presents such publicity for the Woods Brothers Corporation, of Lincoln, over radio. Imagine my surprise to learn this was Harold Robbins, "one of the twins," as he put it with a grin, and that he was born and reared in Ord.

He asked lots of questions about friends in Ord, so I thought it O.K. to ask a few myself. And here is the low-down on his family. Sister Emma is physician for students at the University of North Dakota, and must like it as she has done this work for several years.

Brother Horace is an insurance adjuster, and travels constantly, north in the winter and south in the summer, Harold says.

Sister Alice married Harold Fogt who is now president of the University of Wichita. Floyd and Edith conduct the Robbins Studio in Lincoln, as they have for a number of years.

Rose Holson is in London, where she is living. Her daughter Ruth just can't stay put, but wanders around enjoying life. She spent 5 years in the Hawaiian Islands, went to China, working in a side trip to Australia, and has recently married a burly Scotchman, a ship captain who Harold says is Ruth's exact opposite, staid and methodical in the extreme. So Ruth's address will be China for some years, now.

Harold himself is busy putting authentic tales of western Nebraska on the air, usually from Scottsbluff, I believe. By next fall he will have two boys in the state university, and a twelve-year-old girl ready for high school. The family home is now in Kimball.

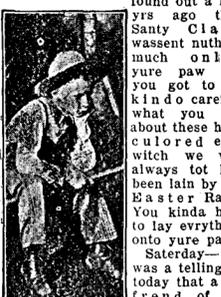

—Mrs. Robbins gave fine reports of the Carl Johnson family, saying that Mr. Johnson had made a fine, thorough-going farmer of himself, that there wasn't a better farmer in the county. That he congratulated himself when he got Carl to rent a half section of his and work it. He declares that Mr. Johnson has made an intensive study of farming, and knows his business.

—Mrs. Johnson received a good share of praise for the family success, and Mr. Robbins stated emphatically that there wasn't a finer boy in university or girl about ready to go there than the Johnson youngsters. Isn't it nice to hear such glowing praise of someone?

Take a tip from the above, and go today to someone you admire and respect, and tell them about it. Maybe they need that cheer, and perhaps they don't know how you feel, and it won't do them any good after they're dead.

Can't Go Hungry With This Kitty

William Kane, 18, may have been broke when he set out from New York last fall to hike across the country, but he had a good idea. Instead of asking busy housewives for meals en route, he told them his poor little kitten was hungry. They fed the cat and threw in a little extra for him, too. And that's how Bill Kane got to San Francisco.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Some of these days the cookery colyum is going to have to print a flock of recipes without signatures, for some of our modest-violet-cooks absolutely will not permit their names to be given, and yet have sent in recipes. And good ones. Please, people, don't be that way! Everyone enjoys them more if they are signed recipes. You yourself are much more interested in using the recipes if you know the woman who sent them in, even if you have only overheard a remark on the street as to her good housekeeping! Don't you see? However, we are grateful for small favors and all larger ones in proportion, so thank you for the recipes, of blushing contributors! Now how about this?

Puffball Doughnuts. 3 eggs, 1 c. sugar, 1 pt. milk, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. vanilla extract, 2 heaping tsp. baking powder, sifted with 2 c. flour. Use more flour to make a thick batter in which spoon will stand upright. Drop in hot smoking fat and fry brown.

—Hulda Hanke Good, aren't they? And then, this!

Butterscotch Pineapple Pie. 1 c. brown sugar, 1/2 cup flour, 1/4 tsp. salt, 1 c. cold water. Mix together, freeing from all lumps; add the yolks of two eggs which have been beaten to a cream. Cook in a double boiler until the mixture thickens, then add 1 tsp. each of butter and vanilla, 3-4 c. grated pineapple, 1/2 c. nut meats finely chopped. Pour in baked pie shell, top with a meringue made with the whites of the eggs beaten with 1 tsp. powdered sugar and brown delicately in the oven.

—Mrs. H. D. Norris I don't believe any better recipe than that, nor one more different and delicious, was ever sent in. Thank you, Mrs. Norris. And here is something else you will like.

Applesauce Cake. 1 c. granulated sugar, 3-4 c. butter, 1 egg, 1 1/2 c. sweetened apple sauce, 1 c. raisins rolled in flour, 1/2 c. nuts, chopped small, 2 c. flour sifted with 2 level tsp. soda, 1/2 tsp. cloves and 1/2 tsp. cinnamon. Bake this in a loaf tin. It is fruity and good.

—Susan Dutcher Now here is a recipe that is not ordinary, for making braised beef, a dish that is good and not expensive. The name of the sender has been lost in this case. I am sure it came in with several recipes, and the sheet bearing the name is gone. The Quiz will gladly print the name if this housewife will be kind enough to send it in once more!

Braised Beef. Any one of the tougher cuts of beef may be prepared satisfactorily if well seasoned. Brown in a little fat, place in a covered casserole and cook slowly for several hours. A little water should be added to keep the meat moist. It should be remembered that it is the long cooking at a low temperature that brings success in the preparation of the tougher cuts of meat.

Some cooks cut meat in rather small pieces to braise, though it is not necessary if you would rather not. On thinking it over, surely this recipe came from Arcadia. Am I wrong?

Reporter Finds Every Student Has Chance At Music

By IRMA ELLIS LEGGETT

Drifts nearly to my neck did not keep me from wading to the west door of the high school, nor from sitting down a few minutes in the first home room I came to, which was a junior high room presided over by Miss Lukesh, where a spell down was in full swing. On the north wall and over against the south wall, two strings of children hung on the spelling of every word, listening to see if some one was 'going down'!

Though these folks were mostly the same age, or nearly so, they were variegated as to size. There seemed to be a few more girls than boys in the room, and a sprinkling of occupied seats indicated those who had met their Waterloo and lost.

Here are some of their words: lament, although, retreating, print, berth, in law, litter, recede, stroll, suppose, vigor, narrow, hardware. Not very difficult words, you say. But just the kind of words that get good misspellings every day. And anyway, these youngsters were preparing for the county contest. So every other day came oral spelling, and in between came written spelling lessons, just to train them for the big meet.

The blackboard showed that practical lessons in math were also in order, for rows of problems in percentage were worked out. You know the kind, $5.00 was the value of the yarn, 18 the ad valorem duty, and what must be paid?

Slightly embarrassed at the presence of a watcher, these spellers were very earnest, every man Jack trying his best. They were the age of Ruth Elizabeth Koupal and Charlotte Blessing, but I could not recognize many of these young sprouters and did not interrupt Miss Lukesh to ask.

Next stop was on down the south side of the hall, in the official music room, and here Miss Bloodgood was supervising the boys Glee Club and doing a thorough job of it, too. She would start them and listen a bit and stop them, and bustle about the room putting her head up close to this one, and listening a moment to that one, as they sang. Now and then she would shake a finger at some young fellow, and give him further directions.

Sometimes she would illustrate the way a more difficult passage should go, singing it to the class. Many times James Milliken, the accompanist, at his exalted position at the piano on the platform, was asked to start over or repeat some passage that someone had not caught. In case you don't know it, this is the way choral work is handled to the best advantage... the way famous leaders do it.

The selection was unfamiliar to me, something called "River, River", and of course it was arranged in several parts. I did not count the number of members of the class, but I believe there were 20 or more. These boys liked to sing, that was easily discovered, but I hardly think they liked to have an observer very well while they were practicing.

The class worked faithfully, trying very hard to follow Miss Bloodgood's directions. This little teacher has very fine control of her classes in spite of her diminutive size. She is full business, though in a very pleasant way. Rapidly she moves about the room, snapping her fingers to speed up the tempo at times, then again softening the volume by holding up a palm and tipping her head back a little.

Among the familiar Ord names represented were Tanchiff, Auble, Tolen, Vala, McGinnis, Shepard, Boquet, and many others. Just about the same names that will represent the progressive young business men of our town in about 10 years, the chances are.

It is very interesting to watch the way music is taught in the schools now. And the nice thing is that every boy and girl, no matter how poor, has a splendid chance to secure an insight into the personal pleasure that music can give. A chance to learn to read music, to appreciate it, and even to play the instrument of his choice, for of course today's school owns a number of musical instruments. Time used to be when only children of those in moderate circumstances, or better, could secure much musical training, because it was so expensive. Now, children have an equal opportunity in this respect. Why don't you visit the schools and learn how school money is spent at the present time, and just the advantages that a school child has in our days?

QUIZ FORUM

Central City, Nebr. March 14, 1931

To Editor of Quiz: Dear Sir: It is pretty hard times to keep up payments on papers, as well as many other things, but it seems I can hardly get along without the Ord Quiz. I am mailing you a check for another year's subscription to your paper. I really get more news from your paper than any other I take. You with many other people who take the Ord Quiz remember my son Ira and wife, when they lived in Ord, had a little son come to make his home with them. On last Friday, March 13, a little 8 lb. daughter came to bless the home, her name, Leta Joy, and all are fine. Makes 26 grandchildren I have now. Well, success and health to all of the Quiz family. How to play Bridge AUCTION or CONTRACT by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

ARTICLE No. 17

A number of times in these articles attention has been called to the importance of making the right play at the first trick, and here is a fine illustration: Hearts—8, 6, 4, 3 Clubs—A, K, J Diamonds—Q, 9, 7 Spades—K, Q, J

Y : A : Z : Hearts—A, 7, 5 Clubs—Q, 10, 8, 5, 2 Diamonds—K, J Spades—A, 10, 3

AUCTION BIDDING: No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one no trump. A and Y passed and B bid two diamonds. With only one stopper in diamonds, Z did not consider two no trumps sound; so he bid three clubs. Note that Y had a good opportunity to bid two no trumps on the first round. His hand is so strong that it looks as if, if only possible, he had chance to lose game and rubber is by a heart or diamond bid, and a two no trump bid would have shut this out if the hearts or diamonds are in B's hand. Y, however, missed his opportunity, so B was given a chance to bid two diamonds. When Z bid three clubs, Y again had a chance to bid three no trumps. His great strength in clubs would indicate that Z must have a strong outside hand and possibly a stopper in diamonds. However, again missed his opportunity, for when A passed three clubs, Y also passed. It is evident that Y Z has an easy game in no trumps, but the game in clubs is not so easy. When B also passed the three club bid, A opened the deuce of hearts. Y played the trey and B the king. How should Z play the hand so that he will be sure to make game? Before reading further, figure out how you would play the hand.

Solution: Z must allow B to win the first trick with the king of hearts. The lead of the deuce of hearts by A shows four hearts so that B cannot have more than two. Therefore, Z must allow B to win the first heart trick so that with the ace of hearts and the ace of diamonds (marked in his hand by his bid of two diamonds), he cannot lead hearts to A. Z will thus be able to discard a losing heart on the queen of diamonds in dummy. If Z makes the mistake, however, of playing the first heart trick, A will save game. When B gets in with the diamond ace, he can lead back hearts to A, who will be able to win two heart tricks. Be on the look-out for a game with the ace of diamonds over your hand and the dummy very carefully before you play to the first trick.

CONTRACT BIDDING: Z one no trump, A pass and Y three clubs. This bid shuts out B's diamond bid, so he is obliged to pass. All pass and Y Z make an easy game in no trumps. The Contract bidding thus shuts out B's bid and gives Z an easy chance for game with the ace of diamonds. However, again missed his opportunity, for when A

Solution to Problem No. 11 Hearts—5 Clubs—J, 7, 3 Diamonds—A, Q, 7, 2 Spades—K, 9, 8, 5, 2

Hearts—A, 8, 3 Clubs—K, Q, 6, 4 Diamonds—4 Spades—A, 7, 6, 4, 3

Hearts—K, Q, J, 10, 9, 7, 4, 2 Clubs—8, 2 Diamonds—K, J, 10 Spades—none

Hearts—6 Clubs—A, 10, 9, 5 Diamonds—9, 8, 6, 5, 3 Spades—Q, J, 10

Hearts—K, Q, J, 10, 9, 7, 4, 2 Clubs—8, 2 Diamonds—K, J, 10 Spades—none

Solution to Problem No. 12 Hearts—none Clubs—8, 7, 6 Diamonds—K, J Spades—A, J

Hearts—9 Clubs—J, 10 Diamonds—Q, 10 Spades—Q, 6

Hearts—J, 8 Clubs—none Diamonds—9, 8, 7 Spades—10, 9

Hearts—Q, 10, 2 Clubs—10 Diamonds—6, 5 Spades—3

If hearts are trumps and Z is in the lead, how can Y Z win all of the tricks against any defense? Solution: Z should lead the three of spades and win the trick in Y's hand with the jack. Y should now lead the ace of spades and Z should discard the king of clubs. Y should then lead the six of clubs, which Z should trump with the deuce of hearts. This is the crucial play for it enables Z to shorten his trump holding. Z should then lead the five of diamonds and Y should win two diamond tricks with the king and jack. Z now has the queen ten of hearts over the jack eight in B's hand and must, therefore, win the last two tricks. Played in this way, Y Z must win all of the tricks against any defense. If B trumps the club lead at trick three, Z overtrumps, gets out the opposing trumps and makes good the diamonds in Y's hand.

NORTH LOUP DEPARTMENT

MRS. FRED BARTZ, Reporter

The waffle supper sponsored by the leaders and members of the Standard Bearer Society of the M. E. church was a real success, many worthy comments being tendered the girls for their excellent cooking. The tables were very pretty with their decorations in Shamrock.

Neutral Toned Costumes in Vogue

THOUGH COLOR'S THE THING FOR SPRING, EVERY WARDROBE SHOULD HAVE AT LEAST ONE OUTFIT IN DISTINCTIVE BEIGE OR GRAY

EVERYBODY'S talking about the flair for color in spring clothes and their combinations of material. To offset what might develop into too much of a good thing, every wardrobe will welcome at least one outfit in a neutral tone.

Here are two important spring fashions which lend themselves admirably to the neutral toned costume. The beige wrap-around dress, left, has for contrast a pale blue collar, blue vestee and blue and flared skirt with stitched pleats. The blouse is in pale pink.

A VERY smart version of the wrap-around frock is shown in a beige flat crepe. This particular dress gets away from any stiffness or an over amount of dignity by having a circular flounce to soften the severity of straight lines.

GRADE SCHOOL NOTES.

First and Second Grades. The children have been weighed and measured. Seven in the class are perfect. They are: Mary Miller, Mary Komens, June McBeth, Patricia McGrew, Lyle Norman, Ora Hulbert, Gerald Nutter.

Third and Fourth Grades. The third grade made Holland scenes and have finished their Holland projects.

In Arithmetic they are starting on multiplication. Visitors in Miss Swain's room were: Mrs. Vogeltanz, Mrs. McGrew, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Sorenson, Miss Christensen, and Miss Flynn.

The following pupils in the fourth grade are on the Honor Roll: Viola Koll, Lucille Lakin, Jeannette Clements, Evelyn Knecht, Eleanor Wolf, Daniela Dunning, Junior Fox, Charles Keown.

Those on the Achievement Roll are: Luella Lincoln, Christina Larsen, Marlon Beechly, Daniela Dunning, Deloris Higgins, Eleanor Wolf, Elaine Worden, Dean Blessing.

Fifth and Sixth Grades. The fifth and sixth grades are having exhibits on Mexico. This includes pictures, a shawl, handkerchiefs, a pair of beads, a woven belt, pottery and some Mexican money. They are making booklets on Mexico.

Their project for next week is Eugene Field and his poems for children. Poems receive special attention are, "Little Blue Pigeon," "Little Boy Blue," and "Seeing Things at Night."

PERSONALS

Miss Mamie Smith is substituting in Miss Witter's room the past two weeks.

Phyllis Jean Lewis of the kindergarten class celebrated her sixth birthday Thursday, March 13. She treated her class to cake and lollipops.

Raymond Wright of the fifth grade, left for Chicago where he will attend school the rest of the year.

OUR ATHLETES

Eldon Benda, a well known school student and liked by all, has proven himself quite an athlete from his Freshman and Sophomore years.

Eldon is known throughout the school as a good student, a good athlete and an all-around fellow. He makes new friends and keeps old ones. But what we like about Eldon is his never dying faith in what he wants to put through in athletics, lessons and everything else.

CONVOCATION

There was only one convocation this week which was held Friday. This convocation was given by the public speaking class. Excellent readings were given by the following in the order given: Irene Clachon, Leota Crosby, Mary Welnick and Mildred Meyers, who also acted as announcer.

MUSIC

Mr. Toennies is pretty busy, for he teaches sixty-five students. So you can imagine he is a hard worker. He plans to carry his beginners on with their practice, all through the summer in order to be well prepared for a good standing at the state fair in 1932. At present the students are coming along nicely.

GLEE CLUBS

The Glee Clubs plan to give contest music for convocations next week. The students are trying out for the special numbers as Girls sextet and Boys quartet. In the major group of boys and girls there may be 12 girls and twelve boys. In the mixed chorus there may be thirty-four students.

O. H. S. PAPER STAFF

ALIBIS If you have heard this one before, stop me!—"I didn't have time." "Oh, the assignment was too long." "It left it at home."

"Well, I didn't know that was our lesson." Are you guilty of these sayings? Don't answer, we all have had the experience, but why do we do it?

Is just "getting by" your goal? If so, it will not be necessary for you to continue reading this.

When a teacher assigns you a long lesson and you already have enough work (at least that is what you think) don't shirk and then give an alibi. Yes, it is true alibis will often get you by but when you are out of school can you pass an alibi for shirking at your work? No! Then why is it that we hear these same alibis day after day in school? Just why?

I believe it is pure laziness on our part, don't you? Do we not know that if we just squeeze a few more minutes in, we could get our lessons. Why, just imagine the minutes that one spends in whispering, idling and planning an alibi would probably be enough time in which to get your next day's lesson.

Now let us forget our alibis and get down to some real honest work. Facing the music is the best policy to follow all through life.

Now that our alibis are forgotten, I have a nice surprise for you—there are only ten more weeks of school. Then let us all get to work and raise our grades to one hundred percent perfect and beat any record that O. H. S. has ever seen.

—Irma Kokes Junior High Girl's Club. Miss Lukesh's Girl's Club is doing very nice work. The girls are beginning to make the most beautiful olcloth pillows. These are made in basket design with flowers of olcloth sewed on to give the effect of a basket full of flowers. They are also making paper flowers and embroidering.

They have made many beautiful articles in the past too. The most impressive article was a crepe paper pillow made by Oleta Rose. This pillow was made up of several rows of ruffled paper sewed onto a newspaper for foundation. The shape was oval except for the bottom which was straight edged. Gilt was the decoration given to each ruffle and a kiewple doll with gilt colored hair was surrounded with paper trimmed in gilt. All in all it was very beautiful. They have also made some very beautiful picture frames from a mixture of salt, flour and water and then applying gilt. The frames were also colored and the colors of them corresponded very nicely with the colors of the pictures.

JUST IMAGINE. Emanuel Sevensker has sprouted a mustache! Bobbie Hughes is the new high school sheik, commonly known as "Hair Oil and Face Powder!" Ray Desmul really came to class with his Geometry, March 9! Just imagine Frankie Rysavy teaching school!

The seniors are getting optimistic, they think they are going to pass! Paul Gard has gone on a diet of water and toothpicks, minus the toothpicks. Evelyn Coe is growing up. Why she is seventeen years old! George Allen was seen playing in the street with a "Kiddle Kar." Hallem Pierce trying to boll water without burning it!

Freshman English Class Miss Nelson's Freshman English class has been studying Julius Caesar by Shakespeare. They have made wooden swords, models of swords in Caesar's time, to create interest.

May Dreams Come True.

Clara Lee thinks she is jealous of Harold, she dreamed of lemons. Edith M. looks forward to when her dream will come true, as she dreamed of a lion which means fascinating lovers.

Evelyn B. must always dream of leather as she always has light love affairs. Dorothy never wants to go through a tunnel so she wouldn't dream of it as it is bad for those in love.

Mr. Cass always hopes every night that he will dream about violets, meaning immediate marriage. Miss Frederickson likes to dream about bad weather, such as a cloud burst, which means a wealthy marriage with a foreigner.

Dean Worden must always dream of nets for his bad conduct is causing him trouble. Earl K. has an unworthy ambition, noodles cause it all.

Every night before Betty goes to bed she hopes that she will dream about nuts, for it means fortunate love affairs. John D. always eats pancakes for supper so he will dream about them, they mean success in all enterprises.

HI-Y NOTES. The HI-Y had its regular meeting in the school house Wednesday night at 7:30. The meeting was called to order by President Stoltz and opened with the HI-Y ritual. The members present were: Shephard, Vala, Baird, Allen, Tedro, Herce, Lukes, Hackel, Mickels, Cushing, Kokes, Romans, Williamson, Millken, Boquet, Stoltz, McGinnis, Bell, Cull and Mr. Cass.

The questions which were written for Bill Thomas were sent to Mr. Cass. They were discussed and the HI-Y plan to use them for future meetings. Another order of pins was taken for new members and for the old members who do not have pins.

The topic of the evening was thrift, and was led by Kenneth McGinnis. The meeting was full of discussion and was enjoyed by all the members present. The meeting adjourned at 8:30.

Girl Reserve Notes. The Girl Reserve held a candlelight service Thursday evening for the purpose of welcoming and initiating new members into the club. The service was a beautiful scene which was composed of a Girl Reserve triangle formed by the girls holding lighted candles and flags forming the corners. The program was composed of a talk by the President, Martha Mae Barta and a ceremony carrying out the code of the club. Only one new member was initiated although many had thought of joining and failed to do so at the school term is nearly completed.

The Girl Reserves are now planning a party to be held in the near future. F. F. A. Several of the boys are getting their project books in order to be sent in as a part of the qualifications for the State Farmer Degree. Only the ten most outstanding agriculture students in the state are chosen for this degree each year. Adrian Tolen is the only Ord boy ever to have received this honor up to this date.

Robert Cushing is preparing a speech on taxation which he will present at the State F. F. A. Convention. The F. F. A. basketball team wound up with a successful basketball season and now they are turning their attention toward baseball.

Everett Lashmett was elected as the captain of the Ord high school basketball team. The basketball boys had their pictures taken in two ways, one in their sweat suits and the other in their basketball suits. Baseball and track will begin next week. If the boys do not go in for track, only baseball will be taken up.

Aeroplane Club. The past two weeks the aeroplane club has been flying aeroplanes. Lowell Jones has the most planes and he is also the fastest worker. They have received their country fair premium lists and are going to exhibit some of their work.

PERSONALS

A teacher's meeting was held at the home of Miss McClatchey. Miss McClatchey and Miss Collier were hostesses. There is a new student in school, Robert Jones, a junior, who came from Wood River.

Mr. Krefel has been playing basketball for the last week with the Grand Island American Legion. Boys' Athletic Club has been planning for spring baseball. A few of the boys are preparing for track.

Mr. Krefel and Redfern went to Lincoln and Hastings over last week end. They left Saturday morning. Miss Lucille Witter is convalescing from her operation and we hope to see her teaching again soon.

STOCK MARKET Royal Baking Powder—A quick rise. Firestone Tires—Will soon be flat. Bubble Gum—Due for a break. Flap Jacks—In for a flop. Balloons—Going up. Gluey Paste—Sure to Stick. Awarded Medals for Themes. Students who wrote the best themes on the Romance of the McCormick Reaper received medals from the McCormick-Deering Co. last week. Those who received medals are Arthur Aule, James Milliken, Myrtle Benson, Paul Wachtle and Irma Campbell. They are very proud of them as the prizes are well worth the effort they put forth to win them.

CLASS NOTES

Senior Class The Senior class is working on the selection of characters for the class play. Their measurements are being taken for caps and gowns this week.

Junior Class The Junior class is planning for their banquet which is to be held May 7. They have not decided what plan they will use.

LATIN CLASSES. The first year Latin class is studying the play of Horatius. They are planning to give it before the second year class. The second year Latin class has just completed a contract in which they have translated the history of Rome from its beginning through the time of Caesar.

Different members of the first year Latin class are making post-ers to compare the life of the Romans with the life of today. The class is finding out that some of these people are just as human as we ourselves.

TOMORROW We're going to do so many kindly deeds, Tomorrow. Today slips by on swiftly moving wings. But tomorrow—We'll visit the neglected friend—Some flowers to the sick we'll send. Maybe some broken vow we'll mend—Tomorrow. The stupid sheep, we take the beat-en way, and borrow, From time the precious hours of today. But tomorrow—If good intentions caught for aught The war with self, so grimly fought, Should bring victory—though dearly bought, Tomorrow. —Exchange.

Films Used in Classes. The films on different subjects have been arriving on schedule. They were shown to the grade schools on Wednesday. Also a film on Correction of Gymnastics were shown to Miss Hinda's and Mr. Krefel's gym classes.

The Junior high saw slides on "China," "Japan," and "How Rice is Raised and Manufactured," on Thursday afternoon in the auditorium.

High School Music Class. The high school music class is studying Indian music which is very interesting and also beautiful.

Tells How To Get Rid of Rheumatism In 48 Hours

BIG 8 OUNCE BOTTLE FOR ONLY 85 CENTS

It Is Guaranteed

Thousands of well meaning people are taking the chance of being crippled for life with rheumatism.

When a rheumatic attack occurs they seek to deaden the pain with handy relieves—a method that usually ends with disastrous results.

Every rheumatic sufferer knows that painful, swollen, inflamed joints and muscles are caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood. When you drive this troublesome uric acid from the blood you are getting rid of the cause of rheumatism—relievers won't do this. While you are taking the nerve deadening relievers the uric acid continues to penetrate further and

How One Woman Lost 20 Lbs of Fat

Lost Her Double Chin
Lost Her Prominent Hips
Lost Her Sluggishness
Gained Physical Vigor
Gained in Vivaciousness
Gained a Shapely Figure

If you're fat—first remove the cause!

Take one half teaspoonful of KRUSCHEN SALTS in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—cut out pastry and fatty meats—eat light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—after 2 weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished.

Notice also that you have gained in energy—your skin is clearer—your eyes sparkle with glorious health—you feel younger in body—Kruschen Salts will give you fat person a joyous surprise.

Get an 85c bottle of KRUSCHEN SALTS at McLain and Sorensens (lasts 4 weeks). If even this first bottle doesn't convince you this is the easiest, safest and surest way to lose fat—if you don't feel a superb improvement in health—so gloriously energetic—so vigorously alive—your money gladly returned.

Mrs. Mame Carey of Buffalo, N. Y., writes—"Since I began taking Kruschen Salts I have lost 20 pounds and I feel as if I had lost 50 pounds—I feel so good and the best part of all is that I eat anything I like."

Any Vet May Get Loan.

Any World war veteran with an adjusted insurance certificate may present an application for a loan, says C. J. Mortensen, commander of the local Legion post, this week. A story in last week's Quiz would indicate that only veterans in need were eligible for the loans. Any veteran is eligible. Commander Mortensen says.

FARMERS TOLD TO ADVERTISE CERTIFIED SEED

Stewart Says Prices Will Be Reasonable This Year.
Barley Popular.

Valley county farmers belonging to the Nebraska Crop Growers' Association are urged by their officers to advertise their certified seed grains in their local papers and by other means to encourage other farmers to use the best seed available this year. With prices of farm crops as low as they are, P. H. Stewart, secretary of the association, says it is all the more important that individual progressive farmers get the maximum yields per acre in 1931.

No prices have been established on the certified seed this year as a rule, word to the Quiz this morning from the college indicates. Glabron barley, one of the newest smooth-bearded kinds, will probably sell for 85 cents to $1 per bushel in Ord. Other smooth barley will not bring as much to the certified seed grower.

Ord farmers may find oats of the certified type selling for 50 to 65 cents per bushel. Although spring wheat is a very minor crop in Valley county, the certified seed will probably sell for about a dollar a bushel in some sections of the state. Although these prices are all above market values, they are not unreasonable, considering the high quality of seed offered for sale, County Agent Dale points out to local farmers.

A new variety of wheat will enter the certification list this year which may interest Ord farmers is the belief of those connected with the crop association. It is to be known as Nebraska 50 although Agronomist Stewart says it may be given another name by harvest time. The wheat yields well and stands up with a stiff straw and erect head which should make it popular for those Valley county farmers who use a combine at harvest time.

The hundred bushels of the new wheat were sent out last year to cooperative farmers over the state for an increase in the seed supply. With favorable conditions, these farmers should have five thousand bushels of the new wheat to distribute this fall.

W. W. Magee of Bennington, Herman Ebers of Seward, Howard Wahlgren of Elk City, and Dr. T. A. Kisselbach and P. H. Stewart have been named as the certification board of the crop growers association for 1931. The group will handle the policies governing the inspection of fields and the certification of the 1931 crop of grains.

Valley county farmers may get the certification seed lists at County Agent Dale's office in Ord. They are free for the asking.

VALLEY COUNTY BOYS TO RETURN AS COURSE ENDS

Short Course Closes Next Week
Three Local Boys Finish
First Year.

The three Valley county farm boys who are attending the farm operator's short course at the agricultural college in Lincoln are expected to return this week end when the second term closes, according to information reaching the Quiz today. John Campbell, Ord; Harold Rich, North Loup; and Dean Whitman, Arcadia are the three boys attending.

All three of the local boys are first year students in the short course. They are all expected to return next year for the second year and graduation.

Seventeen boys will be graduated from the course next Thursday evening when the commencement exercises are to be held on the college campus. Newton W. Gaines, well known agricultural extension worker, is to give the commencement address. Ten boys were graduated from the course last year, showing the increased number of second-year students finishing this year.

All of the hundred boys attending the short course, including those from Valley county, will attend the annual banquet. At least 150 are expected. Another Ord boy, George Round, Jr., is to be a guest along with the other short course faculty members. Round taught both the first and second year students a few weeks of journalism during the second term.

Though the short course has not attracted much attention locally in the past two years, more and more Valley county boys are learning of the value. Director Douthit informs the Quiz. The enrollment has been larger this year than ever before and Douthit expects more boys from Valley county to attend next year.

CORN IS CHEAPER FEED THAN OATS

Valley county farmers were told last week by Prof. H. J. Gramlich, head of the animal husbandry department at the agricultural college, that at present farm prices, corn is a cheaper and better feed than oats for baby heaves. When plenty of oats are available, however, many Valley county feeders prefer to start the calves on half corn and half oats and change gradually to corn after two months feeding of the mixture.

As farmers around Ord have generally found, Gramlich says that silage and alfalfa hay in limited quantities go well with the oats and corn mixture and later with the corn alone. Cottonseed or linseed meal might be added to increase gains but many Ord farmers at the present time probably prefer to use home feeds and hold down the cost of production.

BURNING METHOD ERADICATES BEE FOULBROOD HERE

Bare Says American Foulbrood
Is Deadly Enemy; Destroys Colony Eventually.

Valley county farmers are told by O. S. Bare, extension entomologist, that American foulbrood is the most deadly of all bee diseases. He has recently finished writing a bulletin upon the foulbrood diseases and it is now ready for publication.

Farmers residing in and around the vicinity of Ord will remember Bare as the college of agriculture representative who recently organized a beekeepers organization in Valley county. The college man intends to come back to Valley county at various intervals during the year to conduct bee demonstration work.

"When American foulbrood appears, the beekeeper can rest assured that it will destroy the colony eventually and will usually spread to others unless the diseased colony receives proper treatment," Bare declares. "It is highly infectious and is easily spread from one apiary to another. A colony which has the disease is a menace to every colony within a radius of several miles."

The entomologist says the American foulbrood is commonly spread by using frames or other equipment from diseased colonies or by feeding honey that has been produced by such colonies.

Valley county farmers are told that a high percent of the bees that are said to have been winter killed are really victims of the dreaded disease which so weakened the colony in the preceding season that it went into winter without enough energy to carry it through to spring. Consequently, Bare points out in his new circular, all colonies that die during winter or early spring should be objects of suspicion. The hives should be tightly closed until they can properly be examined and treated.

Describing the germ that causes the American foulbrood, Bare says it attacks and destroys the developing brood of bees. It does not, however, affect the adult bees or any other insects. The college man says that it has no effect upon anything other than the developing larvae and pupae of the honey bee. Beekeepers are told that the larvae that have died of American foulbrood have extended in the cell instead of being curled up at the bottom as is usually the case in European foulbrood.

Referring to the treatment for the disease, Valley county farmers are told that it consists of complete removal of the cause. Bare recognizes burning and shaking as the two methods in common use for the eradication of the disease. Of the two, he believes burning is unquestionably the more effective and all localities that have made notable progress in the eradication of the disease have come to depend principally on the burning method.

As one of the methods of destroying the disease, Bare tells Ord farmers to first dig a hole at least two and one-half feet deep large enough to hold all diseased frames and equipment. A good supply of dry wood is to be placed at the bottom of the hole, it being saturated with gasoline or kerosene to insure burning.

The farmers then are directed to use calcium cyanide. The entomologist advises spreading a table-spoonful of the cyanide on a cardboard or sheet of stiff paper and push it into the entrance of the hive. The entrance is then to be closed and left undisturbed for fifteen minutes. The gas given off by the cyanide soon kills the bees. A few minutes later the hive is to be carried to the edge of the pit and when the fire is roaring the dead bees are to be thrown upon the flames. The diseased brood and honey is to be put on the fire then as fast as possible, without choking it.

Valley county beekeepers are warned not to lose any of the dead bees or hive contents on the ground. This contains disease germs and may be gathered up by other bees and taken into the hive.

As a further precaution the wax and propolis is to be scraped from the hive bodies and thrown on the fire. When all of this has been burned as completely as possible, it is to be covered at once with foot or more of dirt. Bare urges the beekeeper to use great care in seeing that no honey or dead bees are left where other bees may get at them. A single drop of spilled honey may make all of the eradication work a total loss.

In addition the hive bodies, top and bottom boards, supers and queen excluders are to be scorched with a gasoline blow torch until the wood is brown. The equipment, however, may be boiled for fifteen minutes in a lye solution made by dissolving one pound of lye in ten gallons of water.

DALE STRESSES 4-H CORN CLUBS

Boys and Girls Study Different Varieties; Learn All About
Hybrid Seed And Value.

Developments in successful corn production have caused the corn club to become one of the major 4-H clubs in Valley county, according to County Agent Carl C. Dale in continuing his drive for corn club members in this county. He is urging boys and girls over the county to join clubs and increase the enrollment here for the year.

Dale says there are probably more new developments in profitable corn production than in any other phase of farming. He backs his statement by showing the results of variety tests conducted in many counties over the state during the past few years as well as in Valley county. The test have demonstrated conclusively that there is a big difference in the yielding ability of different varieties.

In 1930, tests showed one variety to yield nearly 30 bushels more per acre than another. Where the lowest yielding variety made but 50 bushels to the acre, the highest yielding variety produced 80 bushels. Dale says that one would not expect such a margin every year but at the same time the figures demonstrate that the matter of choosing a good variety of corn is important.

As to the boys and girls in corn club work, Dale says they will study the different varieties as well as the hybrids. Hybrid varieties have been receiving publicity but very few farmers know just what they are and what the possibilities and limitations are now. The 4-H corn club members study the hybrid variety in their club lessons.

Youths enrolled in the corn clubs grow some of the new hybrids on their own farms in order to compare them in yield with other home grown varieties. The college of agriculture furnishes the seed to the members for their project work. Members of the Ord corn club received the seed from the college last year and planted it in their plots.

Only five boys and girls are necessary to form a standard 4-H corn club, according to Dale. Each club has a leader who directs the policies of the club and lends the assistance in the organization and in conducting the business meetings. Junior corn growers in the clubs over the county are allowed to compete in the junior ten-acre yield contest and also for state-wide honors. The state is divided up into four divisions for the corn yield contest. Members of the Ord club entered last year but failed to win state prizes on their project.

CORN CONTAINS CUCKLE BURRS

Complaints reaching the agricultural college from grain dealers in Omaha indicate that some of the shelled corn reaching the market contains some cuckule burrs. It comes from the fields picked with mechanical pickers. The complaints indicate that the burrs made the corn less satisfactory for feeding but do not grade the grain down.

Since the mechanical corn picker does a great deal of the husking in Valley county, farmers here are interested in what the Omaha dealers have to say about finding the burrs. It is perhaps true that farmers near Ord know whether the mechanical picker will allow the burrs to get into the shelled corn. Dealers say although cuckule burrs are classed as foreign material, they do not grade the grain down due to the fact that they do not get into the sampler problem. The samples are taken from the car. The burrs are not usually found in shelled corn from fields hand picked, the complaints report. Whether this is true in Valley county is hard to determine, local enthusiasts point out.

Probably the only way to prevent burrs from getting into the shelled corn is by a picker is by keeping the burrs out of the field is the opinion of Paul Stewart of the agricultural college who is quite well known in Valley county. Since there is no law against shipping cuckule burrs in the corn, Stewart believes farmers should be warned that the burrs will come back to their own farms sooner or later. The corn is often bought in Omaha by feeders of sheep, cattle and hogs in Nebraska and reshipped back over the state with the cuckule burrs.

FLACK SUGGESTS CORN, WHEAT AND OATS FOR RATION

Tells Farmers To Use Home
Grown Grains For Dairy Cows
With Existing Low Prices.

Valley county dairymen are being told this week by M. L. Flack, state extension agent in dairying, that 200 pounds of ground snapped corn, 100 pounds ground wheat and 100 pounds ground oats makes a fairly satisfactory grain feed to use with alfalfa hay for dairy cows. This grain mixture can be prepared at about a dollar per hundred pounds, Flack believes.

Ord dairymen may find it convenient to add 30 pounds of oil meal to the 400 pounds of farm grain but very few milk and cream producers are buying feed of any kind with butterfat prices at present levels.

Another ration which Flack suggests is composed of 200 pounds of ground snapped corn, 200 pounds of ground oats, 100 pounds of oil meal. Valley county dairymen, particularly those who milk cows for production in farm income, can use their home grains to an advantage even with butterfat prices so low as they are at the present time. The college of agriculture man says this will be particularly true from now until the first or middle of June when the pasture is at its best. It may not be necessary to feed grain to any extent through the heavy pasture season but grain should again be added to the dairy cow's ration when the flies get bad and the pasture short in late summer or early fall.

STEWART URGES EARLY PLANTING

Valley County Farmers Will Receive Higher Yields On Spring Grains.

Experience has taught Valley county farmers the value of early seeding of spring small grains in order to get satisfactory yields, according to County Agent Carl C. Dale of Ord. In accord with Dale's statement, Paul Stewart, agronomist at the agricultural college, says tests at the experiment station in Lincoln have brought out the value of seeding the grains early.

The usual planting of spring wheat first, then oats, and finally barley. Since little spring wheat is produced in Valley county, oats is generally the first crop put in the spring. What little wheat is produced around Ord is of the winter wheat variety. Dale and Stewart acknowledge, of course, that the exact date of seeding will vary somewhat with the season so it is rather hard to suggest definite dates. Ord farmers have observed that weather conditions enter into the production.

Since spring wheat is grown chiefly in the western and northwestern parts of Nebraska, Valley county farmers are referred to tests conducted at the North Platte experiment station. As an average for seven years, the tests show that spring wheat seeded on March 31 yielded 15.8 bushels per acre as compared to 12.1 bushels for fields seeded April 12.

Ord farmers naturally are more interested in oats production and are cited yields at the Lincoln experiment station. Oats seeded on March 31 yielded 52.4 bushels as an average for thirteen years as compared with 45.7 bushels for April 11. Here again Dale points out the value of seeding the spring grains as early as possible. Each day's delay in seeding after early April has cut the yield of oats about 7 of a bushel per day, he says in backing his statement.

Practically the same situation exists with barley although the second seeding has yielded slightly more on the average than the very earliest seeding. Actual figures for the Nebraska experiment station show that seeding on March 31 brings an average of 23.4 bushels while the barley seeded April 10 produced 23.5 bushels. After the latter date, the production is cut down.

Summing up the advantages of early seeding, Stewart says it helps to mature small grain ahead of the hot dry season. Often a few days in time of maturity makes a great difference in the yield.

Barker News

The Barker P. T. A. met Monday evening March 9th, with a large crowd present. Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Canedy made up the program committee and certainly did a wonderful job of it. The program consisted of programs from the various radio stations with Ivan Canedy general announcer. Ivan seems to be much talented along this line and surely put it over great. The following stations were represented by one or more entertainers: over station WOW was heard Madame Schumann-Heink by Maxine McCane, the two black crows by Ivan VanHorn and Keth Weed. Station WMAX was represented by the Rosebud Kiddles, Mavis and Maynard Schudel and Darlene and Dale Mulligan. From station KG-BZ Rasmus Peterson acted as Dr. George R. Miller and gave his daily talk. T. S. Weed played the part of Lyle Pack, the cowboy singer. The Warblers were the Barker high school girls and teacher. Boyd Mulligan played as Dr. Carl and answered all questions asked. The Kiddles' hour was heard from station KPOR. This consisted of recitations by Harold Schudel, Luella VanHorn and Billy Negley. Over station KFAB two very interesting talks were heard. The one on our state capital at Lincoln was by Mrs. Boyd Mulligan, the other, the history of Nebraska was by Mrs. B. L. VanHorn. From station KMMJ the gospel singers, Mrs. Will Eglehoff and Miss McCune sang. John Jensen was also heard from this station. Next came the Old Fiddler's Contest. Those taking part were Ed Schudel, Lee Mulligan, Chas. White, T. S. Weed and Mrs. Chas. White. Mrs. White easily walked off with first prize and the booby prize was awarded to Mr. White. Last but not least was the entertainment by Uncle John and Aunt Minerva, Mr. and Mrs. W. VanHorn. A delicious lunch of sandwiches, coffee, cake and fruit salad was served after which they departed for their homes. Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Peterson and Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Mulligan are on the entertainment committee for next month. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kimbral spent Sunday at the Ross Fortis home. Mr. and Mrs. Rude Embody were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Frazer. Thelma Weed visited there in the afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Mulligan spent Sunday at the R. H. Peterson home. The Ward Goodrich family are quarantined with smallpox. Cora is staying at the Harry Meyer's home in town so that she can go to school. Hannah is one of the victims so she has to miss school. Mrs. H. H. Thorpate was taken to the Weekes hospital in Ord Sunday evening. She underwent an operation Monday morning at 9 o'clock and is getting along as well as could be expected. The Barker Pig Club met Tuesday evening at the C. E. Collins home. The lesson was given by the leader, E. O. Schudel and the time was spent discussing subjects concerning their pigs. After the business meeting they spent a social hour playing rook, after which a nice lunch of sandwiches, pickles, cake, fruit salad and coffee was served. The next meeting will be on March 24 with Keth and Lloyd Weed.

Join the Ranks of Ord Home Owners

Ord will witness a big building boom this spring. Many are planning to build homes. You can, too, and we'll be glad to tell you how.

Never was there a better time than the present to become a home owner, either by building a home or by buying one. Real estate is cheap, building materials are low in price, labor is available; money is plentiful and cheap.

Ask for particulars of the Protective plan, the easiest and fairest means of financing home ownership. There will be no obligation.

Herefords Bring Good Prices At Clement's Sale

Good prices were the rule at G. G. Clement & Sons sale of pure-bred Herefords Wednesday afternoon. The top bull was bought by Carr Bros., of Valentine, and brought $275. Herman Koelling of Mira Valley and Fritz Bickel, of Loup City, paid $205 for the two top cows. The first twenty bulls in the sale averaged $175 and the first ten cows $168, calves sold later bringing this average down somewhat. Clare and George Clement express themselves as pleased with the results of the sale and with the large crowd of buyers present.

Work 2 Months For 5 Minute Comedy Scene

Extensive research work is a new phase of the business of making comedies. It was employed by Radio Pictures in producing "Hook Line and Sinker," side-splitting laugh show co-featuring Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, at the Ord Theatre Sunday and Monday.

On the theory that no trouble or labor is so great to create a laugh the studio spent more than two months digging into the hidden recesses of antique shops, seeking furniture of the McKinley period. The complete collection was used in a hilarious scene not more than five minutes in length. But the roaring reaction of audiences to the scene has more than justified the effort.

Buyers Photograph Gallery.
Stanley E. Lumbard, of Grand Island, last week closed a deal with the Guggenmos sisters and becomes owner of the Ord studio, which he took possession of immediately. Mr. Lumbard has had sixteen years of experience as a photographer and for the last ten years has been in a leading studio at Grand Island. He is a brother of Lawrence Lumbard, who recently was wed to Miss Beulah Guggenmos. They are the youngest of Grand Island. Miss Thelma Guggenmos, the other sister, is returning to her home at Taylor.

Henry Prien Dead.
Mrs. Charles Prien received word Sunday of the death of her brother-in-law, Henry Prien, 83, at his home in Sturgis, Saskatchewan, Canada, last Saturday. He leaves two sons and a daughter. In former years the Prien family lived on Davis Creek.

Simmons Stays At Capitol.
Robert G. Simmons, representative for this district, will remain in Washington, D. C., until well into the summer, he writes the Quiz this week. He believes he can render greater service to his district there than by returning to his home at Scottsbluff. He will be glad to render any possible service to people of this vicinity, "Bob" writes.

Community Sale.
There will be a Community Sale at Jack Mogensen's on the old Mogensen place, 10 miles north of Ord on Haskell Creek, on Tuesday, Mar. 21. Anyone wishing to consign property to this sale see Jack Mogensen or the auctioneers.

Six-Year-Old Boy Killed.
Frey, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cerney, of Garfield county, was killed last Wednesday when the horse he was riding stumbled and fell on him, killing him instantly. The body was taken to Omaha for burial.

Didn't Give 25 Sacks.
Will Nelson takes the Quiz to task for stating last week that he donated 25 sacks of flour to southern drought sufferers. He didn't give that many sacks, only had slips put in that many. "If I were rich enough to donate that much I wouldn't be farming," Mr. Nelson writes.

Make Record Drive.
North Loup, Nebr. March 19—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Robinson made record time on their drive to California last week end friends here learn. They started from North Loup at 7 a. m. Saturday and drove into Los Angeles at 10 p. m. Monday.
