IRRIGATION FEASIBLE, CONDRA SAYS

HIGH SCHOOL BOY ASKS ANNULMENT OF HIS MARRIAGE

Sumner Hastings Resists Wife's Divorce; Is Not Father Of Their Child, He Says.

Denial of a divorce and alimony to his wife, Violet L. Hastings, and the annulment of their marriage is asked by Sumner Hastings, high school student at Ashland, Neb., in a cross petition filed in district court here last Friday. He is not the father of Mrs. Hastings' infant son and was tricked into marriage with her on Sept. 14, 1928, the young man charges. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hastings, of Arcadia.

He was only sixteen years of age when he met Violet Jungo in February, 1929, and she was nineteen years old, the petition says. At her request he became intimate with her and later when she related that she was about to become the mother of his child, he entered into a marriage with her. Later he discovered that his wife bore a bad reputation and he renounced her and they have not lived together since the marriage. She induced him to marry her so as to secure his father's support for herself and child, he alleges.

The young man is in the eleventh grade of Ashland high school, he says in his petition. He has no money or income but is dependent upon his parents for support. It forced him to furnish maintenance for Mrs. Hastings and her son he will have to forego his education and will be unable to earn more than $25 to $30 per month, he says.

In her divorce action Mrs. Hastings charged non-support and asked an absolute divorce, alimony and maintenance for the child.

He asks that Mrs. Hastings' suit be denied and that their marriage be annulled and canceled.

Miles Lee, Sullivan and Wilson are attorneys for Sumner Hastings.

Jadwin Is Held As Dipsomaniac

Sheriff Round Takes Ord Barber To Lincoln For Drunk Habit Cure; Leach Also Taken.

Charges that Paul Jadwin is a dipsomaniac were filed last Friday with the Valley county insanity board and after a hearing the former barber in the Benjamin shop was taken to a state institution at Lincoln for treatment to cure him of the habit of drinking intoxicating liquor. Sheriff George Round took him down Saturday.

He knew nothing about his own actions from the time he started drinking heavily until his arrest nearly a week later, Jadwin told Valley county officers. He was taken into custody at Grand Island last week when he circulated a fake suicide note.

Jadwin wrote four no-fund checks during his prolonged spree using most of the money so procured to buy a brand of tonic that has a high alcohol content. He asked to be sent away for treatment when he appeared before the insanity board.

On his trip to Lincoln Sheriff Round also took Leland Leach to the reformatory to serve a term for forgery. He has been held in county jail here since his conviction a few weeks ago.

Aged Couple Married.

John Burian, 62, of Burwell, and Mrs. Mary A. Kamarad, 64, of Ord, were united in marriage March 16 by County Judge I. W. McGraw, of Burwell.

Ord Milling Co. Shipped 600 Tons Alfalfa Meal

Since they began making alfalfa meal last fall the Ord Milling Company has made and shipped 1,290,470 pounds, or over 600 tons, Roy Collison tells the Quiz. The local mills bought alfalfa locally during the fall, paying prices ranging from $14 to $8 per ton, thus furnishing a cash market for a crop that is now almost a drug on the market.

Farmers who sold their alfalfa surplus to the Ord mills last fall are counting themselves fortunate for alfalfa is quoted at present as low as $8 per ton with little moving even at that price.

Mrs. Wheatcraft Sues For Divorce

Through her attorney, Bert M. Hardenbrook, Mrs. Jessie L. Wheatcraft filed suit for divorce from her husband, Jasper H. Wheatcraft, in district court here yesterday. They were married June 11, 1902, in Valley county, she says in her petition, and they have six children, the youngest of whom is fifteen years old. Mr. Wheatcraft is addicted to the use of intoxicants and when under their influence is very abusive, cursing and beating her on various occasions. He has been convicted for violation of the prohibitory laws, she charges. She asks an absolute divorce and such other relief as is equitable.

Orville Sowl's Sister Dead.
Mrs. Theda Powers, 47, a sister of Orville Sowl, passed away last Friday in Fullerton after a long illness. Funeral services were held Sunday and the Sowl family drove over to attend. Mrs. Powers leaves three children. Her husband died thirteen years ago.

—John Ratliff, of Omaha, has been spending several days in Ord with his daughter, Mrs. James Milford.

Rowley Turns Down Ord Coaching Job, Signs At Sutton

Claude Rowley, University student who was elected last week as athletic coach in the Ord schools will be unable to accept the position because he has accepted a similar job at Sutton. He is to be married this spring and his wife-to-be also has a job at Sutton, the Quiz learns. Though enthusiastic over the Ord job and its possibilities he couldn't see his way clear to accept, he said. Now members of the Ord board of education are looking for another coach and hope they can find one as well qualified as Rowley.

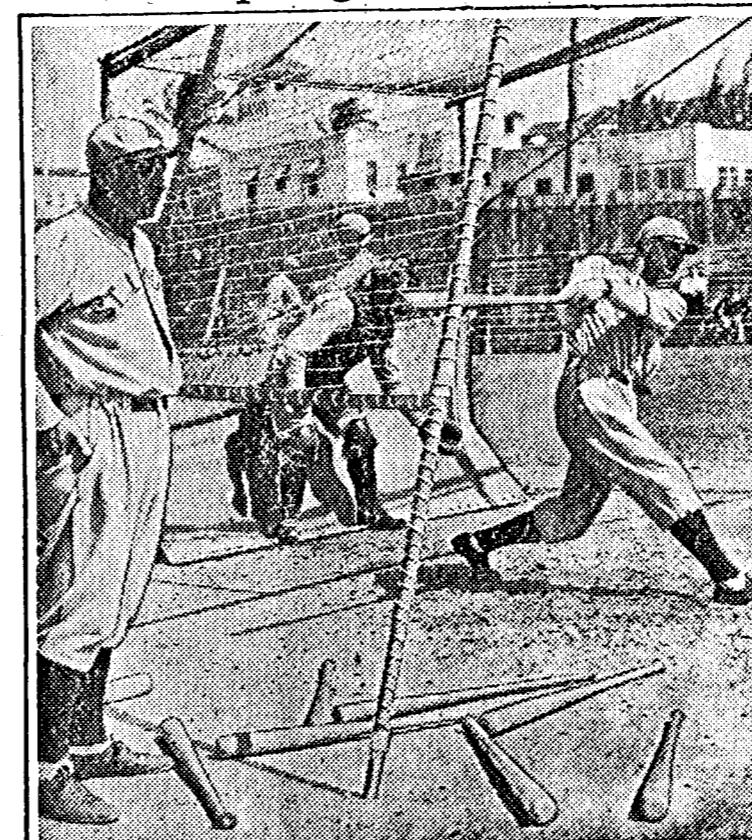

Mrs. Lemaster Very Low.
Mrs. Guy Lemaster, who has been ill for several weeks, is reported to be still alive but very low this morning. She has been suffering with yellow jaundice, which came as one of the after effects of an attack of smallpox.

Charlie Clark Was Struck By Robber Made Unconscious

North Loup, Mar. 24.—(Special)—Last Friday night as Charlie Clark, coach at Morrill, Nebr., was putting his car in the garage at the Walter Preston home, where he stays, he was struck over the head by a robber who then ran off with his pockets of $2.50, all the money he had on his person. Mr. Clark was unconscious for a half hour and then managed to crawl to the back door of the Preston home and attract their attention. A doctor was called and though Charlie was partly recovered for a time he is now recovering. He is a son of Billings Clark, of this village.

Water Experts Speak At Mass Meeting Here, Say Loup Valley Soil Ideal

Pump Irrigation, Either From River or From Wells, Is Type Most Favored for Immediate Use By University of Nebraska Men.

coarse gravel is present in sufficient quantities to assure a good flow of water.

Water Is Very Heavy.

A sheet of water one inch deep on an acre of land weighs 116 tons, the professor said, so the cost of power is a big item in well irrigation. Electric motors are sometimes used for power and are very satisfactory when costs of juice are not too high. A tractor also is a desirable source of power. $\frac{1}{4}$ horsepower for each foot of lift is the amount of power usually needed.

Irrigation wells vary in cost from $500 to $3,000 or more, with the average in the North Platte valley being about $800, this cost including the pump. Ordinarily operating costs will run about as high as 12 percent on the investment, which is the percent added for depreciation and interest.

Proper preparation of land in advance is a big factor in making irrigation of any type successful. Professor Brackett said. The land should be leveled wherever possible.

Given Conditions for Irrigation.

A number of conditions to make irrigation pay were given by Professor Brackett. Among them are:

A comparatively small quantity of water needed to supplement regular rainfall. (The Loup valley region answers this condition remarkably well for rainfall is over 20 inches.)

Under any system of irrigation farmers must resolve to put water on the crop when it reaches a certain stage.

Seven Of County's 2-room Schools Will Compete In Contest

Seven of the eight two-room schools in Valley county will have entrants in the Valley county spelling contest in April, Miss Clara McClatchey, county superintendent, tells the Quiz. If the one-room schools of the county enter in the same proportion the contest will be by far the largest the county has ever held.

What adds additional interest to this year's event is the fact that the Ord Quiz is paying the expenses of Valley county's champion speller on a trip to Omaha April 26, when the state spelling bee is to be held. The Quiz also will pay the expenses of a companion or chaperone. Reservations for the spelling champ and companion have been made at the Fontenelle Hotel.

Getting ready for the county spelling bee is the big item of business in many of the county schools, Miss McClatchey reports. Spell-downs are held each Friday afternoon in many of the schools.

The county bee this year will be held in the high school auditorium at Ord.

Will Beautify Lot North of Masonic Temple In Ord

At least two of Ord's younger business men believe in a more beautiful Ord, and are going to spend some money to improve an unsightly corner of it. Dr. E. L. Blessing and Orville Sowl have laid plans to beautify the lot north of the Masonic building, and already the ground is broken... The plot will be devoted to a lawn, with a low fence for a background provided at the east and along the alley sides of the lot, over which green vines will climb. Vines will also be planted next to the Masonic building, and help to improve the appearance of downtown Ord. Several well-thought-out flower beds will feature the grassy space, and later perhaps a bench or two may be installed to attract tired visitors.

Perhaps this will inspire some improvement in the other vacant lots in Ord that are now unattractive to the eye.

Ten of our wide-awake farmer boys met with their leader, Floyd Wetzel, at the home of Donald Davis Tuesday evening of last week where a careful study was made of the proper selection of seed corn. The boys also organized a base ball team, thus mixing pleasure with labor, which is ideal. Before adjournment, a lunch of pop corn balls was enjoyed. The April meeting will be held at Ed Hurley's.

The P. T. A. program given at the high school auditorium Tuesday evening, March 17, was very well attended and greatly enjoyed. The program was sponsored by the teachers, the opening number being a solo by Joyce Coleman. Miss Thelma's first primaries were very clever in a little song with posters, dramatizing the little maid, "who lived in the house that health built." A song by Miss Meyer's intermediates was enjoyed with Florence Hudson at the piano. Other numbers were a duet, by Jean Sample and Joyce Coleman; reading by Mary Frances Manchester, and Doreen Dallam; violin solo, by Ruth Babcock, a demonstration by the gym girls and a talk by Mr. Baley. Following the program refreshments of sandwiches, cookies and coffee was served by Mrs. Shlueyman, Mrs. Catlin and Mrs. Nema Jones.

Twenty ladies were present at the M. E. aid Tea held on Thursday of last week, at Mrs. Dallam's home. During the business hour it was voted to divide the aid into four sections or circles each assuming a financial responsibility. The hostesses served a dainty lunch at the close. The annual thank offering service was observed at the M. E. church, Sunday morning, with a special service. There was a good attendance and a splendid offering was received.

The Inter Co. Federation of Woman's clubs will convene in North Loup next Thursday, April 2. Club leaders should plan their work that they may be able to attend the all day session. An especially interesting program has been planned. The M. E. aid will serve dinner in the church dining room.

Frazier Funeral Home, Ord. Ambulance service. Day Phone 38; Night 193.

The junior class play given at the high school auditorium Thursday evening was well received. Many worthy comments have been made concerning the acting of the players. The proceeds of this play will as usual be used to finance the junior-senior banquet.

The American Legion Auxiliary held its monthly meeting at the home of Myra Barber Monday afternoon with a good attendance of members and several guests present. The ladies planned a bake sale to be held at Hurley and Barnes' store Friday, April 3. A number of pieces of sewing for the needy were completed. Charles Clochon, of Geranium township, interested in better roads, was present at the Auxiliary luncheon, after which he and Mr. Barber investigated the road west of town past the cemetery with the view of beginning work on it in the near future, connecting it with the main highway.

Suits March to Fore in Easter Parade

* * * * *
NEW CREATIONS GIVEN INDIVIDUAL TOUCH BY INGENIOUS COLLAR AND CUFF TREATMENTS AND COLORFUL ACCESSORIES—HATS SHOW CONTRAST

BY HARRIET

THE Easter problem of what to wear in the fashion parade has just about as many answers as there will be women marching.

It is the most individualized spring we have had in a decade and a half. It is the first Easter since the war that a woman, after considering her coloring, her size and type, can go out and get something flattering to conform to these important features.

Suits are perhaps the favorites for Easter, for it is a suit spring. If a woman is young, she can have a jaunty little figured or plain silk frock and coat to match with an individualized collar and cuff treatment and accessories to match. One such is a carmine red silk crepe suit, made with double white organdy collars and cuffs that tie on in bow knots. A white straw turban atop this makes it strawy as can be.

If a woman has more dignity and less youth, there is the belted jacket suit, with separate silk blouse. One of these has a flaring skirt, a surprise closing jacket that is fastened shut with a suede belt to match the French blue of the wool crepe of the suit. The same shade of blue makes the blouse to match the belted jacket suit.

Easter coats are tremendously varied in color and type. If you want to look ultra spring-like, there are beige and gray coats, or powder blue or light green ones. Rust red is a coming color. So are light browns, with green touches, or the other way round, green with brown.

Chances are good, however, that the sophisticated elegance this Easter will be picking a sleek black coat, maybe with shawl or jabot collar of soft galayck which is so flattering in its sheen and so lightweight as to be perfect spring and summer fur.

One such coat has perfect balance in the way its long sleeves flare at the cuff and the skirt portion of the coat flares at the mid-calf where it covers entirely the frock worn under it. The cushion shawl galayck collar stands away from the neck enough to flatten the face without being too warm.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Hill and daughter called at Rudolph Collison's Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jorgensen and daughters were at N. C. Christensen's Friday evening.

Jess Howerton was at Jay Rogers Sunday.

Roberta Rogers spent the week end at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jorgensen and children called at Rudolph Collison's Sunday evening.

There were 31 in Sunday school. We were glad to see so many in the Young People's class and hope that there will be a continued improvement in the attendance. Anna Nelson, Roy Clement and Henry Nielsen were chosen to represent the Sunday school at the annual convention next Sunday.

Henry Holm is spending his spring vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Holm.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Philbrick were at Dudley Philbrick's in Ericson Sunday.

Jay Rogers called at Will Nelson's Friday.

The Will Nelson, Walter Jorgensen and Howerton families from this community attended the dance in the Joint neighborhood Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wes Miska and children were at C. O. Philbrick's Sunday evening.

Eva Miska was a guest at Leonard Woods' Sunday.

There seems to have been quite a bit of sickness in the neighborhood this past week. Lou Flock who works for Fred Miska, is recovering from a case of the smallpox; Milton Clement has been having the flu; Mrs. Morris Sorenson has been quite sick and Mrs. Elliot Clement has also been "under the weather".

Theodore Knecht spent Sunday night at Elliot Clement's.

Davis Creek

Will Portis went to Omaha the first of last week with a shipment of cattle for himself and his son Bryan. He expected to visit his brother and other relatives.

Sport Models In Chevrolet's Line

One of the significant trends in the automotive field, evident during the past year or two and certain to be more pronounced than ever this motoring season, is the evolution in popular favor toward the sport or deluxe type car. Popularized on the college campus, the "dotted up" automobile represents a constantly growing proportion of each year's output, with the increase in favor meaning gradually lowering prices due to volume, points out H. J. Klinger, vice-president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

"Only a relatively short time ago the sport car represented something of a novelty for two reasons—only a limited few wanted it, and the manufacturer—particularly the volume manufacturer—could not include it in his production schedules because of the necessarily high price which he would have had to place on this type by reason of that limited demand," Mr. Klinger explained.

"Younger, largely up the production schedules, found a way to incorporate their product in his program. He went even further. He devised means of making deluxe models of the enclosed type, evolving entirely new body styles. He produced a car embodying maximum utility, which appealed to elders, and the deluxe features that had intrigued youth.

"But here, as elsewhere, youth won out. The demand for sport

SIMMONS AIDED DAIRYING

One of the most important pieces of legislation passed by the late congress was the Brigham-Townsend oleomargarine bill and according to A. M. Townsend, secretary of the National Dairy Union with headquarters at Washington, D. C., Congressman Bob Simmons of this district took a very leading part in getting the bill made into law. A condition has developed since the war that promised to ruin the stock and dairy businesses unless something was done. Several kinds of nut and vegetable oils have been coming in from the far east and could be laid down in this country for five or six cents a pound, possibly less and it was made into lard and butter and put on the market at a price that was putting home products out of business. There was a law that taxed artificially colored oleo 10c a pound. Then it was found that a yellow cocoanut oil which would make a yellow butter substitute, could be brought from Africa, Sumatra and Java and laid down in this country at 6 cents a pound. The Revenue Commissioners made a ruling that this artificial butter, though yellow, was not artificially colored and so did not have to pay the tax. The Brigham-Townsend bill met this situation by putting the tax on any yellow butter substitute whether artificially colored or not and the bill was pushed through to completion in a period of about two months despite the powerful influence of oleo manufacturers, 302 members of the house voted for the bill but only a limited number got behind the bill and pushed it along and as Mr. Loomis says, it might have taken years before it was passed without this special effort of Bob Simmons and a few others. The dairy and stock interests of the whole country owe these men a lot.

MAY HAVE "HOSS RACE"

It seems as though the Nebraska legislature is going to quit without passing a congressional redistricting bill this winter and if so, the five congressmen elected next year will have to be elected at large, that is, they will all go on the ticket and the whole state will vote. The congressional apportionment law says that when a state either loses or gains congressmen under the new law, they shall all be elected at large until the state passes a new redistricting bill. A political writer says that Congressman Morehead and Congressman Shallenberger, both well known, both former governors, would undoubtedly be able to gain nominations and elections. The same writer puts Congressman Simmons in the same class, indicating that because of his great success in the position he now holds, his wide acquaintance, and his Legion connections, he also would be able to win a nomination and an election in a statewide contest. This same writer believes that Congressman Baldridge of Omaha, because of his wet proclivities, would run into a snag outstate. We would suppose that Congressman Howard of the 3rd, with his statewide acquaintance, should be able to win, but the writer in question put him in the doubtful column. This writer also believes that there will be a large number of more prominent politicians get into the race next year on both tickets. If so the result will be a red hot campaign with one man's guess as good as another's as to the result.

My Own Column

BY H. D. LEGGETT

It is almost pitiful sometimes, the way relatives get separated and then, because of rush of work and worry of raising a family, they are not able to visit each other. I had a nice visit the other day with Mrs. Ole Peterson. They live on the Collings homestead on the highway to North Loup and when we were in Howard county they lived in that county also and read our paper. She told me how she enjoyed a visit to her people in California a year or so ago, after not seeing them for some twenty years. Now she is looking forward to another visit west and is not going to let the years pass as they did between former visits. It is getting to be less of an effort to visit relatives in distant places and it is far less expensive than formerly, when we can go half way across the continent in three or four days.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Bert Correll came in and placed a little classified ad in the Quiz to sell some fine hatching eggs. The boys left her name off by mistake. Bert came in a few days later and told me to be sure to have that corrected before the paper for last week was printed or the Mississ would come in and shoot me on the spot. I intended to do it for I didn't want to get shot or even half shot. But I forgot it. Now I am writing this Thursday afternoon almost as soon as the paper is out for I don't expect to be here more than a day or two longer and I want to make this explanation be-

'Fifty Years Young'

Last Thursday the Ord Quiz rounded out forty-nine years of service to Ord and to Valley county and today begins the last year of a half century of service.

Thirteen years ago, when the present owner purchased the Quiz, he made a resolve to make it one of Nebraska's best weekly newspapers. This resolve has been steadfastly adhered to until today the Quiz ranks as one of the finest weeklies, not only in Nebraska but in the entire United States.

It is neither our desire nor intention to indulge in self-praise or grandiloquent promises on this, our "golden anniversary," but only to dedicate ourselves anew to the task of making the Quiz a better newspaper.

We have had the loyal support of employees, advertisers and nearly 2,500 subscribers in building the Quiz up to what it is today. To reach the goal we have set for it the continued support of these elements will be necessary.

Any newspaper is a public institution and is dependent upon public confidence and good will for its success. All we can do is to shape the course the Quiz is to follow. It is for you to say whether your newspaper is to go on to new successes and continue as an institution of which you can be proud or whether it is to become less dominant as the years roll by.

With your continued support and confidence anything is possible and we ask your assistance in making the Quiz "a bigger and better newspaper."

Mrs. Ernest Orcutt committed suicide by swallowing carbolic acid.

Had a letter the other day from my old friend, Harry Gerard, who lives at Juniper, Nebr., and who says he and the Mississ are well. Harry agrees with my idea that we have been going a little too fast, clip and he thinks it we will all forget for a time the idea of buying everything we want, $1 down and $1 a week and get back to a good home garden, home baked bread and cut out some of the fills for a while, conditions will improve. It does seem as though as people we have got so we must keep things as much together as possible. Sometimes it is not possible to keep them all together because they are not sent or brought in in time. We do the best we can and are ready and willing to do more.

A no-saloon rally was held at court house hall, Rev. Oscar Sweetney of the Christian church presiding. A. M. Robbins and R. L. Staple were speakers.

Nebraska plumbers are holding a convention in Omaha and it is said they are running true to form, about two-thirds of them forgetting to take their attics along on the trip.

Carl D. Clements, a son of Mrs. Eva Clements, was married at Denver to Miss Belle McCarty. They were to make their home at Paonia, Colo.

Butch White, who was running a saloon at Laramie, Wyo., dropped in for a visit with Ord friends.

Photographer Mutter was called to the John McLain home in Springdale to take a unique picture. The two McLain boys, aged 14 and 16, had trapped over 260 rabbits during the winter and wanted a picture of themselves taken with their trophies.

The Ravenna creamery was steadily approaching completion.

Fred Bell prepared to install a picture show in the old skating rink and announced buying a new projection machine and that he would have films that had only been shown once before.

Something DIFFERENT

Ord and Alliance have lots of connecting links. Just a lot of friends and relatives in common.

For example, Sheriff Round has a sister, Mrs. J. A. Mallory, who has lived in Alliance for 42 years now, so she told me recently when I spent a day with her. I grew up just two doors south of Mrs. Mallory, so we are old friends. A widow for a good many years, she has served as a member of the school board for about 12 or 15 years, has brought up a family of four children and given them a flying start, and is generally beloved and respected by nearly everyone in Alliance. As she spent much time as a young girl in Arcadia and Loup City, she retains many friends in that part of the state.

It was with Mrs. Mallory that Lydia Gruber (Mrs. Frank Jr.) Fafeta made her home when she taught in Alliance, and here too, the Flyns lived when Les and his wife Ruth, taught here for 3 or 4 years.

Our well known Irish plumber, Kelly Ambrose has a brother working for the railroad in Alliance. Working for the Burlington is the chief indoor sport here.... nearly everyone does it.

It was with Mrs. Mallory that Lydia Gruber (Mrs. Frank Jr.) Fafeta made her home when she taught in Alliance, and here too, the Flyns lived when Les and his wife Ruth, taught here for 3 or 4 years.

A former round, jolly little person who lived in Ord many years now has a lucrative business built up in Alliance, and that is our friend, Mrs. Perryman. She is selling a famous old line of insurance here, and making very good at it, too. A few days ago she traded in her little old Ford on a neat little coupe.... surely that proves "Business is fine, thank you," as Mr. Nichols the oil man is always telling the world.

Each time I visit home Mrs. P. plies me with questions about her old friends in Ord; who lives in this house, is so and so married, where is Mr. Whatzisname, etc., and asks to be remembered to numbers of old friends there.

It was with Mrs. Mallory that Lydia Gruber (Mrs. Frank Jr.) Fafeta made her home when she taught in Alliance, and here too, the Flyns lived when Les and his wife Ruth, taught here for 3 or 4 years.

A sweet little gal of 21 or 22 who teaches in Alliance and has a room in the home of my parents is a younger sister of Harry Selk of Scotia, who will be recalled at once by all followers of the Ord ball team. One of a big family, she is as friendly and adaptable as a stray puppy. This is one of the finest possible characteristics to possess, I believe, such a person often winning over the more conscientious type which is sometimes just a bit too long-faced about her endeavors.

Cass Cornells once made their home in Alliance, and still have a number of old friends living here, and consequently, so does Bert Correll. Then the parents of Mrs. L. J. Fenner of Burwell, the Gerbers, lived in this county in the little town of Hemingford about 18 miles north of Alliance. Mrs. Fenner met her husband there, if I am not mistaken.

Speaking of the Fenners, did you know that Mr. Fenner very proudly boasted that "No man by the name of Fenner has ever been in jail?"

It was with Mrs. Mallory that Lydia Gruber (Mrs. Frank Jr.) Fafeta made her home when she taught in Alliance, and here too, the Flyns lived when Les and his wife Ruth, taught here for 3 or 4 years.

I am willing to bet that the beautiful, photographer's studio in Alliance is as attractive as any to be found in towns twice this size. Built of rosy-tan stucco in a tropical style of architecture, with the roof, this place is unique. Going around a sort of display case built into a wall in front, a crooked walk and gate give entrance. Inside, a huge reception hall is separated by a big fireplace at one end and overhead as you enter is a balcony overlooking the room and street. To get up here one climbs the most graceful curved stairs of broad steps imaginable, with a twisted wrought iron hand rail at the right.

SLAT'S DIARY

Friday—Ant Emmy has been searching through all the dickshaws in the encyclopedias and so forth hunting the wild hoy. She says she is curious to know what it is because they are so many of them shipped because ne'erly every time you read about a ship sum buddy tells sum buddy Else to ship a hoy.

Saturday—Slim Price with got married last week won't permit his wife to quit taking in washings because he says she is a great salt industry would be developed there. Settlers and Indians came long distances to get the salt in its unrefined form. The site was selected and the first capitol building was erected in 1869, two years after Nebraska became a state. In 1889 the old building, now outgrown, gave way to a new building which also bowed in time to progress. On February 20, 1919, Governor McElveen signed the bill for a new state capitol. Ground was broken on Arbor Day, 1922. The new building was built around the old and the old one used in part until space in the new building became available, then the old building was removed.

If the present building site were to be traded for a yoke of oxen, it would be next to impossible to find the oxen.

Commercial Aviation in Nebraska Is Steadily Increasing.

The federal department of commerce in charge of aviation reports sixteen municipal and commercial airports in Nebraska that meet the requirements of the government. Many cities and towns have landing fields that are not classed as airports.

The airports, eight of which are municipally owned and eight commercial ports, represent an investment of about $60,000. These places have facilities for fueling and housing planes and keep one or more attendants in charge. They are fields where planes may land and depart after receiving a reasonable amount of service.

The federal department of aviation reports 153 licensed planes owned in Nebraska. There are 93 unlicensed planes, making the total of planes owned in the state 248. The pilots licensed in the state number 215 and there are 120 mechanics capable of servicing planes. The pilots are listed as follows: Transport pilots, 74; limited commercial pilots, 23; private pilots, 118.

Municipal airports are located at Lincoln, Omaha, Grand Island, North Platte, Hastings, Alliance, Columbus and Fremont. These cities have commercial airports: Lincoln, Holdrege, York, McCook, Valentine, Scottsbluff and Cheyenne. A very complete airport is operated by the federal government at Fort Crook. It is used by both army and commercial planes.

Commercial aviation is still in its infancy but rapid developments will take place within the next few years, the aviation enthusiasts believe. Nebraska is in the direct path of the transcontinental routes. It already enjoys a good airmail connection with east, west, north and south. Its level land and broad open places offer extra inducements to the development of commercial flying.

Nebraska Eggs Are Now Going Direct to Europe.

Europe is going to consume at least five carloads of Nebraska eggs each week under a contract recently made. A Fremont produce concern has a standing order to ship five carloads each week to New York for export. The business was secured following a trial shipment of one carload. The eggs arrived at their destination in such good condition the order was voluntarily increased from one to five cars.

The contract is said to be the largest of its kind ever closed by a Nebraska egg dealer. The shipping season will run until June when conditions will prevent further shipments until cooler weather.

Egg prices in Nebraska are not very flattering but there is one group that is not worrying about it. It is the hens that are laying the eggs. They have just kept on through the mild winter of 1930-31 filling the egg crates and doing their bit to increase the farm income. Nobody has said they ought to cut down production and it wouldn't do any good. Nebraska hens have the laying habit and will keep right on laying no matter what the price.

Nebraska ordinarily produces about sixty-seven million dozens of eggs a year. Under usual price conditions the egg crop yields a total of fifteen million dollars a year. The average price for 1929 was 27 cents a dozen.

Traded Site of Nebraska Capitol For Yoke of Oxen.

A man by the name of Giles, who once owned the land on which the ten million dollar Nebraska capitol now stands, traded it for a yoke of oxen. The fact is attested by D. Rutherford of Holt county whose grandmother was twice married, her second husband being Giles.

The statement is very acceptable when it is remembered that there was no Lincoln when the capital city was located. A long struggle ensued in the legislature over the location of the capital. The North Platte section was arrayed against the South Platte. Omaha was the choice of the North Platte county, Nebraska City of the South Platte. When it was seen neither could win, though the South Platte had the most votes, Omaha threw its weight behind the North Platte section.

The Salt Creek valley was noted for its deposits of salt. Many believed a great salt industry would be developed there. Settlers and Indians came long distances to get the salt in its unrefined form. The site was selected and the first capitol building was erected in 1869, two years after Nebraska became a state. In 1889 the old building, now out

By MRS. RAY GOLDEN

The Up-To-Date club met Tuesday afternoon of last week at the home of Mrs. Ernest Esterbrook. The call was answered by "Helpful Ideas." The main lesson "Balanced Menus" was ably led by Mrs. Fred Russell. Then to demonstrate her lesson Mrs. Russell, Mrs. Esterbrook and Mrs. C. C. Hawthorne took the ladies to the home of the latter where they were surprised by finding Mrs. B. W. Burleigh at the piano playing "Barcarolle" by Scherwanek and as soon as all were in, Mrs. Vera Cook sang "Welcome Ladies" followed by "Years of the Spring." Mrs. Hawthorne then drew back the curtain and led the company into another room from which little cupids were suspended from the ceiling and on a satin covered table lay two beautiful packages. During this time Mrs. Vera Cook accompanied by Mrs. Burleigh at the piano sang softly "Slumber Sea" by Myra Christlorn followed by the poem "Mother" read by Mrs. Russell. Mrs. C. W. Starr in behalf of the members presented the packages to Mrs. R. O. Gaither and Mrs. Lowell Fleacy. The hostesses then served orangeade and wafers after which the company was entertained by another solo "Macushla" by Dermot Macnuragh rendered by Mrs. Cook. Then as a further surprise the hostesses drew back the dining room curtains and bade each lady find her place at beautifully appointed table. The place cards were great pigs of various sizes. The overweight guests drew portly porters with inscriptions to keep down calories. The color scheme and decorations carried off the St. Patrick's day idea.

The club meets March 31st at the F. J. Russell home for the double banquet which was postponed. The Inter-County Federation of Women's clubs of which Mrs. N. A. Lewis is president will meet at North Loup April 2nd.

To Hold District Union Meeting.
A district meeting of the Farmers' Unions will be held at the I. O. O. F. hall all day Tuesday, April 21st. The session will start at 10 a.m. and will consist of social entertainment, business meeting and a program of music, speaking and discussions. The state president, H. G. Kinney of Omaha will be present. Dinner will be served at the Congregational church. The public is invited to attend.

Traffic Tip Meeting.
A district traffic tip meeting for the employees of the Burlington Railroad was held at the depot in Arcadia Wednesday evening. Lunch was served at the Tucker hotel at the close of the meeting.

The district includes Farwell, Ashton, Loup City, Arcadia, Comstock and Sargent. Meetings are held for the purpose of promoting co-operation and for discussion of such problems as confront the employees.

Father and Son Banquet.
The Father and Son Banquet was held at the Methodist church basement last Friday evening at 7:15. The banquet dinner which was complete in every detail, was served by the Methodist Ladies Aid society. The six large dining tables, arranged for guests, were adorned with flowers and lighted candles.

The program was excellent and we believe was thoroughly enjoyed by every one present. The numbers followed: toastmaster, M. L. Fries; music, Auble Orchestra of Grand Island; piano solo, Carl Esterbrook accompanied by the piano of Miss Norma Cozian; invocation, Rev. R. O. Gaither; "My Boy," Burt Sell; "Important Factors," Roger Cochran; "The Boy a Citizen," W. J. Ramsey; "A True Scout," Paul Esterbrook; "Ideals for Citizenship," Ray Lutz; music, Auble orchestra; "Moon Light on the Lake," "Open the Gates of Glory," "Community Men's Chorus; Benediction, Rev. Gaither.

John Marlon Home Burns.
The six room farm home of Mr. and Mrs. John Marlon located in the Clear Creek vicinity, twelve miles southwest of Arcadia, was destroyed by fire of uncertain origin about ten o'clock Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Marlon had retired and were sound asleep when the fire was discovered by the hired man in whose room it originated. So rapidly did the flames spread that it was impossible to save any of the contents of the home. Obituary

Cora A. Bower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bower, was born in Atchison County, Missouri, Sept. 1, 1872, and departed from this life March 18, 1931 in Selma, Calif., aged 58 years, 6 months and 18 days.

When yet a small child Cora joined the Presbyterian church in Missouri. Her membership was transferred to the United Brethren church of Davis Creek when she moved to Nebraska. When she moved to Ord her membership was transferred to the Ord Methodist church and in this church she was a member at the time of her death. All during her life she was a faithful and active church worker.

When a young lady she went to Indianapolis, Ind., to study piano and for many years taught music in surrounding communities.

She had been a member of Ben Hur, the Degree of Honor and Rebekah lodges.

In June, 1919 she was united in marriage to George W. Newbecker. When he was only a small boy she took Robert Moore and reared him to manhood. She is preceded in death by her father and mother, three brothers, Noylere, William and Addie. Those mourning her death are her husband, two sisters, Mrs. Ollie Finch, Ord, and Mrs. Ethel Hagemeyer, Sterling, Colo., four brothers, Mell Bowes, North Loup, Ray Bowes, Ashland, Lloyd Bowes, Pierson, Ia., and Chas. Bowes, Sterling, Colo., and her foster son, Robert Moore, Oakland, Calif., also many more distant relatives and a host of friends.

Funeral services were held at the Ord Methodist church at 2 p.m. Monday, Rev. W. H. Wright having charge, and interment was in the Ord cemetery.

Ord Telephone People Attend Kearney Meet

Vlasta Lincoln and O. W. Nutter, of Ord, were Kearney visitors last Friday where they attended a district meeting of employees of the Nebraska Continental Telephone company. The meeting was addressed by Dr. W. B. Boyd of the Telephone Securities company of Chicago, who explained in detail the plan of the telephone company and the securities company to conduct a customer ownership campaign in Nebraska during the period of April 2 to 30, inclusive.

The state is divided into two districts. Columbus is the headquarters for district No. 1, which comprises the north eastern part of the state and Kearney is the headquarters for district No. 2 which includes the central western part of the state. These two districts are competing for a beautiful cup which is known as the "Great-Johnson trophy," so named on account of it being given by H. C. Johnson, district manager of district No. 1 and W. W. Johnson, district manager of district No. 2. The district making the greatest number of sales of the securities of the telephone company during the campaign will win the trophy.

Wallace Thornton of the chamber of commerce welcomed the visitors to Kearney and made a few very humorous and timely remarks.

After a week's absence Carolan Clark was able Monday to return to school. She was recovering from a tonsil operation. She is the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Clark.

Published weekly in the Ord Quiz by students of Ord High School and devoted to the interests of the Ord schools

PERSONALS

Edith James has been absent from school the past week on account of illness.

Plans have been completed for the sanding of the school grounds of the grade school. This work will be done at an early date.

Miss Witter, a teacher in the grade school, has been able to leave the hospital and will soon be able to resume her work.

The Ord high school baseball team will start practicing immediately. Coach Krejci picked out an entire catchers outfit while in Lincoln.

The Vissoli Weather Strip Co. of Beatrice, Nebraska, has been awarded a contract for the weather proofing of the high school walls. Work will start immediately.

Workmen will soon begin removing trees and other obstacles on the newly acquired playground north of the building. It is hoped they will have it in shape in a few days.

Henry Larsen was called from school Thursday afternoon and left immediately for Omaha. We have not yet learned the cause.

Beulah McGinnis was absent one day last week on account of illness.

Miss Bloodgood has completed the task of choosing people for the contest. These people will go to the St. Paul Music Festival today and to the District Music Contest at Grand Island April 10 and 11.

Marcus and Mantord Steinwartz have been absent from school on account of their grandmother's death. We extend our sincere sympathy to them.

The G. A. A. class have been playing baseball in the past week. Miss Hinrichs says they seem to enjoy it.

Plans are being made at the office to get out some aids and a self analysis in choosing a vocation. Among recent questions in Hi-Y Mr. Thomas reports that one of the most important questions facing high school students is "How to Choose a Vocation."

Plans have been made for fixing the floors in the math building. This plan calls for filling and waxing the floors which are not only an aid in cleaning but makes them more sanitary. A one hundred pound waster has been purchased and will be added to the janitorial equipment. This will make waxed floors complete for the school plan. Recent years have proven this type of floor best suited to schools.

Miss Elva Bloodgood spent the week end in Kearney and was very unfortunate to have been caught in the rain and was unable to return Sunday.

Miss Lillian Jeary spent the week end with her home folks at Seward. Miss Mae Baird, teacher in the Home Economics department spent the week end with her parents at Arcadia.

Declamatory Contest

The local Declamatory Contest is to be held here in the high school auditorium on March 27th. Miss Nelson is sponsoring it and says she has about thirty-five contestants. Miss Nelson has planned a one act play named, "The Florist Shoppe." She has chosen two play casts. They will both enter the local contest and the best cast will attend the sub-district contest to be held in the high school auditorium April 2. The casts are as follows:

First cast:
Mr. Slovasky.....Julius Vala
Maude.....Helga Larsen
Henry.....Harvey Mickles
Miss Wells.....Evelyn Coe
Mr. Jackson.....Robert Cushing

Second cast:
Mr. Slovasky.....Wilson Bell
Maude.....Lenora Roberts
Henry.....Leonard Desmul
Miss Wells.....Twila Bricker
Mr. Jackson.....Wilbert Marshall

BASKETBALL GAMES

Thursday night an evening of basketball was provided for all concerned.

The first game was between the grade school and the Junior High reserves. It was the most interesting game of the evening. Junior High reserves won 6 to 5.

Next the Junior High first team played the F. F. A. reserves. The Junior High emerged victor with a score of 8 to 5.

The main game of the evening was between two gym class teams, the Red and the White. It turned into a one-sided affair. The score was 19-5 in favor of the Reds.

The referees were Don Lashmett and Rodney Stoltz. The time keeper, Coach Krejci.

GIRL RESERVES

Girl Reserves had their regular meeting Wednesday evening. The meeting was led by Claralea Vanwile. The topic was "Personality."

We had a very interesting meeting. After discussion Miss Frederickson gave us a reading which we all enjoyed.

Mother: Why do they call the team you play on, the "Scrub Team."

Dean W.: Because we keep the other teams from playing dirty.

CONVOCATIONS

Wednesday March 18 several of the music department entries gave their contest numbers for the high school.

The boys quartette, Julius Vala, Wilson Bell, Eldon Lukes, and Rodney Stoltz sang for their first number, "Nut Brown Maiden," and the second number was, "Until the Dawn."

Elwin Auble sang his solo, "Give a man a horse that he can ride," and "O'er the Willow Sea."

The Girl's Glee Club sang their contest pieces, "Beautious Night," and "Persian Serenade." The girls that get to go to the contest are: Iolanae Williams, Lynne Williams, Ada Rowbal, Clara Lee VanWie, Dorothy Jobst, Charles Shepard, Julius Vala, Marie Adamak, Kenneth McGinnis, Anthony Kokes, Roy Clements, Sponsor.....Miss Blanchard

CLOCKWATCHERS

By Iolanae Williams
Lost between Sunrise and Sunset
Two golden hours,
Each set with sixty diamond minutes.

No reward is offered
As they are gone forever.

Tick-tack-tick-tock. The hours slowly move around the face of the clock to certain time or hour when the bell shall ring. To some it brings joy because of the pleasure that will derive from the next class. To the clockwatchers it is merely a tragedy to jump up, shove their books in their locker and grab the needed materials for the next class, only to slump down in their seats and look longingly at the clock and wish the period was over. Why? I do not understand.

Looking at the clock seems to make the minutes slowly pass on, but if we keep ourselves eagerly and equally busy does not the time pass much quicker? Try it! Some say, why do we have clocks if we can't look at them, but the point is we do not always just glance but impulsively stare to pass the time away. Imagine the clock as a human face and its twelve numbers are twelve eyes and its hands are there to protect its face and it should suddenly look down on the class and find a person unconsciously looking at it. Naturally it would become so frightened that the minutes would seem to tick slower and the hours become longer. We have the bells so that we need not waste our time watching the clock while we are in school, then I assure you the minutes will quickly turn into hours and we will find ourselves joyously anticipating the forthcoming day.

It is important that we form the habit of working industriously at whatever task is given to us in school for that habit will be among the most valuable things we can take with us on our graduation day and it is this habit that brings the opportunity to those who are successful and who will progress in life.

MUSIC FESTIVAL

Today the music festival is being held in St. Paul. The Ord high school has entered in nine events.

The first event is the Girl's Glee Club consisting of twenty-four girls. The second event is the Boys Glee Club, consisting of twenty-four boys. The third event is the high school orchestra of twenty-nine members. The orchestra has a very good chance of placing first in the contest this year, because it has a full instrumentation outside of the viola. Instruction is what counts when going to a contest.

The fourth event is the boy's quartette, consisting of Rodney Stoltz, Eldon Lukes, Julius Vala, and Wilson Bell. The fifth event is the mixed quartette. The sixth event is a solo which Elwin Auble will sing. The seventh event is Yvonne VanDecar's. The eighth event is the girl's sextette, which has progressed very nicely under the direction of Miss Bloodgood.

And the ninth and last event is a small instrumental group directed by Professor Toennies.

This festival is being held just to see how the different schools are progressing in getting ready for the district music contest which will be held in Grand Island on April 11 and 12.

In St. Paul they will not judge the different schools but they will criticize their faults and weak points, so they will be able to correct them before the district contest.

The whole high school is hoping that Ord will receive some good criticism.

JUNIOR HIGH

Miss Lukesh is reading "The Birds Boys" by Langworthy and her sons Leon and Edmund Osentowski from Saturday evening until Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Leon Osentowski took her home Sunday evening.

The seventh grade Arithmetic class is studying surfaces, areas, etc.

The eighth grade Arithmetic class is studying promissory notes and bank discounts. They are also getting ready for the spelling contest.

Monday Arthur Auble and James Milliken formed some magic tricks for new room number seven.

Two new pupils, Doris and Paul Bird from Grand Island have entered the seventh grade.

The National Committee Convention for two political parties has been organized. The party platform has already been made.

They chose candidates for president. The president took charge of the meeting and elected officers.

And Virginia will be waiting all smiles.

CLASS NOTES

Miss Nelson's public speaking class is practicing encore selections.

The Freshman English Classes are studying Julius Caesar. They are dressing dolls to represent the characters, and are making daggers.

The Agriculture boys judged some very difficult classes of Herefords at the Clement farm. They also attended the Willow Dale sale on Wednesday.

An inter-class contest is being held on grading eggs.

Two Ord Agriculture boys, Anthony Kokes and Harold Benn, were nominated as candidates for the degree of State Farmers. Their qualifications and records were sent to Lincoln, where this highest honor will be conferred upon ten Nebraska high school boys on the twenty-fifth of May.

Mr. Redfern's biology classes are studying the human body.

The Junior English classes are reading Scott's "Marion."

The European History class has completed the units on the French Revolution and the Napoleonic Era. They are now working on Post War Problems.

In Miss Frederickson's short-hand classes they are trying to develop speed for the contest. The beginners find it hard to take sixty words a minute and the advanced class ninety words. The contest is to be held April 4 at Kearney.

Last Friday the beginning Latin class gave the play "Horatius" before the Caesar class. It was a chance for the beginners to be more sure of their pronunciation.

The Caesar class started reading the commentaries of Caesar last week. They are drawing maps to show the route of Caesar on his campaign against the Helvetians.

GRADE SCHOOL NOTES

First Grade.
Mrs. Joe Lola visited the first grade.

The pupils are well pleased with a large picture of Holland on the blackboard.

The first grade has a new pupil, her name is Alice Frederick.

SECOND GRADE.

The second grade has just completed a health contest and are starting a new one.

Everett Petty, who has been ill in hospital in Omaha, recently came back to Ord and has returned to school.

Mrs. Chotena visited the first and second grade Wednesday morning.

Third and Fourth Grade.
The pupils of the third and fourth grades are making sand tables of Holland. Their main studies are of the Dutch.

FIFTH AND SIXTH GRADE.

The penmanship class had a contest and the winners got to go on a hike.

H.I.Y. NOTES.

The next meeting of the Hi-Y is Wednesday, March 25. The report on the questions asked for by Bill Thomas has been received.

We plan to get very valuable and interesting material from it. It should provide topics for discussion and a means for finding out just what our students think about.

JOKES

Life's Cruel Grind.
A hungry dog once wandered into a butcher store.

The butcher threw some sausage to the dog, upon the floor.

The butcher said, "Now eat it."

The dog said, "I decline."

For in that link of sausage,

Is an old sweetheart of mine!"

Judge (to prisoner). What is your name and occupation?

And what are you charged with?

Chas. S.: My nickname is Sparks.

I am an electrician. And I am charged with a battery.

Judge: (After recovering his equilibrium) Officer put this on him.

Friday George and Will Vascek and W. J. Adamek helped Joe Blaha shell some corn.

How to play Bridge AUCTION or CONTRACT

by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright, 1930, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 18

Auction Bridge is certainly becoming a popular game, so much so in fact that many of the shows are featuring it as part of the back ground of their entertainment. Now of the best sellers, Agatha Christie's "Seven Dials Mystery," uses bridge as an introduction to one of the thrilling incidents of the book. The dialogue is very amusing and so typical of the average game that it is well worth repeating.

Bridge was still proceeding — with a slight difference. Sir Oswald was now playing with his wife and was conscientiously pointing out to her the mistakes she had made during the play of each hand. Lady Coote accepted with a reproof good-humoredly. She regretted not only but many times.

"It's nice. It's so kind of you to tell me."

"My dear Maria," rose the voice of Sir Oswald in mild irritation, "I have told you over and over again not to hesitate when you are wondering whether to finesse or not. You give the whole table information."

"Lady Coote had a very good answer to this — namely that as Sir Oswald was dunny, he had no right to comment on the play of the hand. But she did not make it. Instead she smiled kindly, leaned her ample chest well forward over the table, and gazed firmly into Gerald Wade's hand where he sat on her right.

"Her tactics lulled to rest by persistency of the queen, she played the knave and took the trick and proceeded to lay down her cards.

"Four tricks and the rubber," she announced, "I think I was very lucky to get four tricks there."

"Lucky," murmured Gerald Wade, as he pushed back his chair and came over to the fireplace to join the others.

"Lucky," she called it. That woman wants."

"Lady Coote was gathering up notes and silver.

"I know I'm not a good player," she announced in a mournful tone which nevertheless did not indicate any lack of interest in it. "But I'm really very lucky at the game."

"You'll never be a bridge player, Maria," said Sir Oswald.

"No, dear," said Lady Coote. "I know I shan't, you're always telling me so. And I do try so hard."

"She does," said Gerald Wade, sotto voce. "There's no subtlety about it. She'd put her head right down on your shoulder if she couldn't see into your hand any other way."

"I know you try," said Sir Oswald. "It's just that you haven't any card sense."

The following hand was played in a New York Club the other evening. Look it over and plan your play so that you can score game against any defense.

Hearts — K, Q, 9, 8
Clubs — Q, J
Diamonds — A, K, 9
Spades — K, 6, 3

Hearts — 7, 5, 2
Clubs — A, 5, 3
Diamonds — J, 4
Spades — J, 9, 8, 4, 2

Hearts — 10
Clubs — K, 7, 6
Diamonds — J, 6, 3, 2
Spades — A, Q, 10, 7, 5

Hearts — A, 6, 4, 3
Clubs — 10, 9, 8, 4, 2
Diamonds — Q, 10, 8, 5
Spades — none

AUCTION BIDDING:

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and passed. A passed and Y bid one heart. B passed, Z bid one spade and all passed. A opened with the queen of clubs and, when his partner passed, the deuce shifted to the back of diamonds. Z won club in Y's hand with the king of diamonds and led a low heart. B played the ace of hearts and returned the club. How should Z now play the hand so that he will score game against any defense? Before reading further, figure out your own play.

CONTRACT BIDDING:

Z pass; A pass; Y one heart; B pass; Z one spade; A pass; Y four spades; all pass.

Solution: The problem for Z in this hand is to get all of the plain suits out of his hand and A's before the latter is thrown — the kid. Z should win the fourth trick in Y's hand with the queen of clubs and then lead the king and queen of hearts, on which he should discard two losing diamonds. He should then lead a low spade, winning the trick in his hand with the ace. Z should now lead the king of clubs, discarding a low diamond from Y's hand and follow with his last diamond, winning the trick in Y's hand with the ace. Y should now play the king of spades and follow with a low spade which Z should allow A to win. A's hand now contains only two spades and is thus forced to lead up to the queen in his hand. Played in this way, Z will lose only one spade and one heart trick and thus score game and rubber. It is a pretty example of stripping a hand and thus forcing a lead up to a tenace. Be on the look-out for plays of this type for they come up very frequently.

Here is a tricky little problem:

Problem No. 13
Hearts — Q, J, 7, 3
Clubs — none
Diamonds — K, J, 6
Spades — K

Hearts — A, 9, 6
Clubs — 10, 4
Diamonds — none
Spades — 6, 5, 4

Hearts — none
Clubs — J, 9, 5
Diamonds — 7, 2
Spades — A, Q, 3

Hearts — none
Clubs — none
Diamonds — A, Q, 5, 4
Spades — 8, 7, 4

Spades are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z make five tricks against?

Solution: See the next article.

AGER URGES HIS PHEASANT PLAN AT ORD MEETING

Would Substitute For Wherry
Bill Now Before Legislature;
50 Per Bird Would Be Paid

Chester Ager, author of the Ager plan of pheasant control now before the legislature, accompanied Representative Marion J. Cushing to Ord last Saturday and in the evening met with sportsmen and farmers at the office of County Agent Carl Dale, speaking in defense of his measure. Few farmers were present but Mr. Ager's plan met with favor from the men present and petitions are being circulated in this community urging its adoption by the legislature.

The Ager plan was explained at length in the Quiz a few weeks ago. In brief, it leaves title to game birds in the hands of the state and allows the game and fish commission to declare open seasons as has been done in the past.

Hunters' script will be issued by the state and pheasant hunters will purchase books of script at $2.50 per book. Upon securing permission from a land owner to hunt pheasants on his place they will do so and give to the land owner script worth 50¢ for each pheasant shot. Farmers may cash this script the same as a check.

Mr. Ager explained Saturday that adoption of his plan would insure a substantial cash revenue to farmers during the open season.

He estimated that 150,000 pheasants were shot in the neighborhood of Valley county by outside hunters last season, to say nothing of those killed by local hunters. At 50¢ per bird this means a large sum left with farmers each year, he says.

He opposes the Wherry bill, which also is before the senate. This bill would vest title to non-migratory game birds in the hands of land owners on whose places they are found. The state would have no discretion in fixing bag limits or open seasons, and Mr. Ager believes passing this bill would soon result in most of the game being killed off as it would allow birds to be sold in the open market or in hotels or restaurants.

The Lincoln man was disappointed that not more farmers met with him last Saturday evening. Both he and Representative Cushing wanted to learn how Valley county farmers feel in regard to the bill. Farmers and sportsmen who favor it should sign the petitions now being circulated by County Agent Dale.

Merrymix club are meeting this afternoon with Mrs. Noble Ralston.

Valley County Bee Keepers Will Meet

The Valley County Beekeepers Association will hold their second meeting at the county agent's office in the court house, Ord, on Saturday, March 28, announces President Frank Vodehnal. They are especially anxious to have those attend who have only one or a few hives of bees. "Transferring bees from box hives into modern hives," will be the subject for discussion. The bee disease, American foulbrood, also will be discussed, together with ways of identifying and controlling it.

What's New in Farming!

New Record Set By Past Winter

MR. T. A. BLAIR.

BUTTER PRICES SHOULD REMAIN STEADY-HEDGES

Ag College Professor Predicts Higher Corn Values For Next Thirty Days.

Valley county farmers are told that wheat, butter and egg prices will probably remain close to present levels in the next thirty days by Prof. Harold Hedges of the agricultural college through his economic situation report. The report also indicates that poultry and hog prices may work higher during the coming period.

Steady to higher corn prices are likely, Ord farmers are told. In addition a firm cattle market seems most probable for the period.

With the seasonal let-up in marketing underway, the report says that hog prices should work some higher during the next thirty days. Market receipts are now showing substantial decrease from week to week and are running well under corresponding weeks of 1930.

Receipts of hogs at seven principal markets for the first twelve days of March were seventeen percent under the corresponding period a year ago.

Wheat prices should remain close to present levels in the next 30 days with the grain stabilization corporation supporting the market local farmers are advised. Supply factors, however, favor lower rather than higher prices. The visible supply of wheat in the United States on March 9 was 27 percent larger than a year ago.

Valley county farmers are told that the price of finished cattle should show some gain in the next thirty days. Hedges sees an improved demand for thin cattle suitable to go on grass with the leading markets since December 1 have been less than two percent under receipts of the corresponding period of a year ago. Since the out-movement of the feeders last fall was much smaller than the number of fat cattle still to be marketed should not be large.

The economic report indicates that the demand for beef has been rather sluggish because of the mild winter and lessened business activity. Lower prices have kept the available supplies moving into consumptive channels.

Though the usual trend of butter prices from March to April is downward several factors suggest that prices may show less than usual weakness this year. The price are now the lowest for the season since 1924. This is stimulating demand somewhat. Storage stocks of butter on March 1 were a third less than a year ago and decreased faster than usual during February.

Though egg prices usually weaken from March to April, the report declares that steady prices for eggs appear probable. Several factors suggest less than usual weakness this year. Low prices have encouraged consumption and they may also encourage storage operations.

In addition the report indicates to Ord farmers that seasonally higher poultry prices seem likely in the next thirty days. Hedges says in the past 21 years only once has the April farm price for chickens been lower than the March price. The report states that market receipts of dressed poultry continue to run heavier than a year ago. Prices are nearly a fourth lower, however, and storage stocks are much smaller.

D. C. Sow & Litter Club.

The Davis Creek Sow and Litter club had its third meeting at the home of Percy Sample recently and the leader handed out the first lessons and other items needed to get the club started. A team ball team was organized and will start practicing soon. This club meets twice a month and each member and the leader pay in 10¢ a meeting, which is to be used for club purposes. A fine lunch was served at the Sample home and the club's next meeting will be April 1 with Donald Rich.

The D. C. club was organized Feb. 4 in a meeting at the home of George Fisk. Officers are Ralph Fisk, president; Lloyd Axthelm, vice president; Donald Rich, secretary-treasurer; Thomas Fisk, news reporter; Morris Rendell, leader; George Fisk, assistant leader.

AM I RIGHT?
BY GEORGE ROUND, JR.

It is probably true that Valley county dairymen are not buying much feed for their cows this year or rather at this time but rather are feeding what they are actually raising on the farm. This, of course, is what most of the leading dairymen practice in normal times but often they purchase some other feed like oil meal.

Now with butterfat prices low, farmers who are milking quite a number of cows are getting by on the cheapest ration possible. It is probable that they are not attempting to feed the best possible ration with the feeds available. Few local farmers perhaps are going on the market and buying such feeds as oil meal.

But here in Valley county, farmers generally have plenty of feed and have not been handicapped during the winter for lack of feed. As a result they have been feeding some feeds that otherwise would have been sold. Farmers here milking cows seem to be pretty well off in comparison with farmers in other sections of the country.

Ernest Coats, one of Valley county's leading dairymen and pen scribbler, is a man who intends to feed his dairy cows just what he raises on the farm. My friend Coats though plans his farm operations so that he will have the proper feeds for his dairy cows throughout the year. He doesn't go in for buying much outside feed. There is no reason why he should.

If there ever comes a time when there will be an under supply of livestock feeds, which isn't probable very soon, sawdust may be utilized as a farm feed. Treating the sawdust with certain chemicals is said to have made the sawdust edible and digestible with food values. This process evidently is quite expensive. There doesn't seem to be much chance now that the sawdust will have to be used.

Upon returning from Valley county where he organized local beekeepers' association, O. S. Bare of the agricultural college indicates that the local organization is one of the best in the state. He gives Mr. Vodehnal of Ord credit for helping organize the association and believes local men are going somewhere in their plans and organization.

Bare tells me that there were something like 25 beekeepers at the initial meeting. This was a good turnout, he says, considering that there are but about 100 beekeepers in the county. Now it is his aim to get more of the bee producers into the organization. There is no doubt but what the demonstrations that will be held this spring and summer will be helpful to local farmers.

CUSTER COUNTY PLANTING MORE TREES THIS YEAR

Burlington Co-operating With

Farmers. Demonstrates

Shelterbelts.

Custer county is to be one of the six Nebraska counties in which the Burlington railroad is to plant trees along their right of ways with the cooperation of adjoining property owners, according to word received at Ord today from Lincoln. The planting is made to demonstrate to Custer county farmers the value of establishing shelter belts around the farm buildings.

Other counties included in the tree planting program are Box Butte, Phelps, Cheyenne, Dundy, and Chase. The land where the trees are to be planted was plowed and worked last fall to get it ready for planting this spring.

The first planting to be made by the railroad along the right of way came in 1928. The purpose of the project was to find out if snow protection could adequately and economically be secured through the use of trees. The plantings were also to be used as demonstrations to encourage farmers in the plains area to plant shelter belts and trees about their farmsteads.

In each planting there are one to three rows. Where one row is planted, a hedge growing variety has been used. Where there have been more rows, the two outside rows consisted of hedge growing varieties such as olives, mulberry, and caragana.

Since Custer county has developed one of the best known forestry programs in the United States, farmers in Valley county are naturally interested in other forward steps the sister county is making in her project. Farmers in Custer county are interested in tree planting and have probably planted more than any other county in the country today, it is indicated in the report to the Quiz today from the agricultural college.

Farmers around Ord and North Loup are naturally interested in the tree planting project and each year order government trees through County Agent Carl Dale of Ord. The trees are sold to all farmers for a small charge of wrapping and express charges. Numerous demonstrations over the county are proving the value of trees as shelter belts.

Mr. Legge has gone back to the International Harvester company for a rest. The newspapers will find it hard to ride him now. Though his farm board may have failed, I still believe the former chairman has done a great piece of work with it. He is no one's fool.

They may criticize him, call him different names, and attempt to belittle Legge but, nevertheless, he has never been downed as yet. In some respects the farmer kicks himself in the face. Here is an example:

Grain dealers in Omaha are kicking about shelled corn coming to the market containing cuckle burs. The cuckle burs do not get into the sampling probe when the sample is taken from the car and, of course, the grade is not reduced. Then the corn is shipped out in the state to farmers who do a great deal of feeding. Feeding cuckle burs, especially to sheep, isn't so pleasing. So then the farmer complains to the grain dealer about sending him poor corn.

All in all it just reverts back to the farmer. He is only kicking the grain dealer for things which he himself, performed.

Sorry Ted about the prize judging team business. There really isn't anything to it. Ted worked his way across the big pond on a cattle boat instead of riding first class as a livestock judge. Floyd Wetzel of North Loup may develop a crops judging team from his corn club that will take Agent Dale's Ord boys this year. Floyd knows his crops. So does Dale...Now, Mr. Lashmett don't get excited about the farmers shooting pheasants. They really shoot one or two once in a while.

Three Famous Americans, Each Past 90, Refuse to Retire From Active Life

REGARDLESS of all that has been said about the killing pace of the nervous American life, three of the country's foremost citizens are beyond 90 years of age. And the amazing thing about them is that they are not only mentally and physically active but show an enthusiasm undimmed by their years.

These patriarchs are John D. Rockefeller, 91, the oil king; George F. Baker, 91 on March 27, world famous banker, and Oliver Wendell Holmes, 90, Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

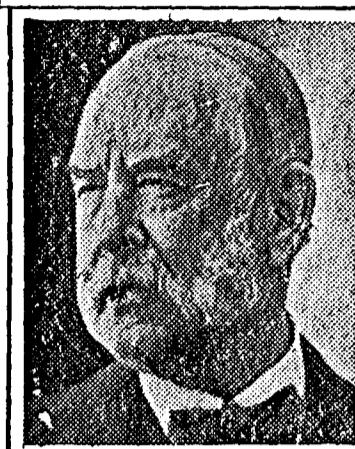

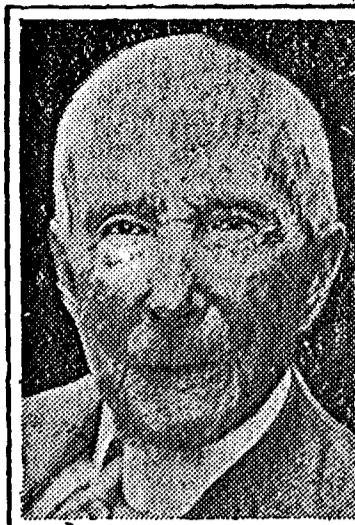

A great doctor who recently made a study of the mental health of the aged declared that there are some old people who do not even seem to realize that they are old. These "grand old men" are of such a type, as you may judge from a description of their present day life.

John D. Strong Gofser

At Ormond Beach, Fla., John D. Rockefeler plays a good game of golf, gives away shining dimes and reads poetry. The latter ceremonies, as everyone knows, are his quaint way of entertaining celebrities who come to visit him. Throughout an active day Rockefeler pursues a program of work, play and rest. In the morning, after breakfast, a secretary reads him a digest of the world news. Then, perhaps, comes the motor trip, which is often made in an open car. For exercise, he takes to the links where he plays about nine holes of golf. His strength and co-ordination are up to par you may realize from the fact he often drives the ball a distance of 200 yards.

Baker Takes Up Smoking

Unlike Rockefeler, George Fisher Baker, said to be the third wealthiest American, is still in the harness of work. He attends regularly the board meetings of his bank and of the many corporations with which he is affiliated. At present the famous financier is at his winter home, Jekyll Island, Ga. Here he plays no golf, but enjoys smoking, which he took up at the seasonable age of 70. Like Rockefeler, he reads little, but has much read to him. Both Rockefeler and Baker have given millions to the cause of charity and education.

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who observed his 90th birthday in Washington March 8, still presents his liberal opinions from his bench of the United States Supreme Court. Called by one justice "the greatest judge in the English-speaking world," Holmes is the son of Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, Boston's famed poet.

A colleague has said that Holmes has made of old age a thing to be desired.

This philosophy of Holmes applies also to Rockefeler and Baker: "After all, the place for a man who is complete in all his powers is in the fight."

BONOFAT Conquers New Field!

J. J. R. Claassen, of Beatrice, who has won so many Grand Championships, at all the biggest livestock shows in the U. S. showed a carload of 50 Hampshire Barrows at the Exposition at Fort Worth, Texas. In keen competition he won Grand Champion on his load, $200 in prize money and his hogs sold for $9.25 a cwt.

Bonofat and Prosperity Go Hand in Hand

Any one who is feeding Bonofat to their pigs and hogs is making a profit. Bonofat puts on a cheaper gain than any other supplement, bar none. It has no home grown feeds as have other feeds. It has no filler of any kind as other feeds have, so why shouldn't it be better? And the price is much lower, $50 a ton off car. Just unloaded a car this week at North Loup. Another one in the near future. Why not try it?

If you really want to make money from your pig crop this year, be sure to feed Bonofat to your hogs as a supplement to your own home grown grains and alfalfa. You will then have the best possible ration at the very lowest cost.

Service Improves With Age

Our greatest asset lies not in the customers we sell for the first time, but in the customers we keep. We are advertised not so much by the friends we make, as by the friends we hold. The sale of a man's stock for a single auction gives us but a single commission. This single commission has oftentimes been entirely dissipated by the effort and expense required to obtain it. If he did not "come back" we could not afford to bid so persistently for his patronage. It follows then, that the service we render must have unusual merit in order to retain his business. We have improved and developed our service along the same lines that an inventor improves and develops a promising piece of mechanism . . . and we know that the mechanism of our service is fully geared, well oiled and highly efficient.
