THE ORD QUIZ, ORD, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1932.

VOL. 50, NO. 46

FIRST CARLOAD GOES TO DROUTH REGION TODAY

Hay, Flour, Sacked Feeds and Grain Make Up First Car Sent By Ord Community.

Legion Endorses Relief Project

Will Make Canvass of Ord At Once, Hoping To Ship One Or More Additional Cars.

With Ord business interests and organizations squarely behind the North Nebraska Drouth Relief Project sponsored by the Noll Seed Company and The Quiz, the first carload of supplies for suffering humans and livestock of seven or eight counties in north and northeast Nebraska goes out of Ord today over the Burlington line, which has generously offered to carry all drouth shipments free of charge.

Ord's first carload is consigned to John Sullivan, chairman of drouth relief for Holt county, and will be distributed among farmers adjacent to Atkinson.

Alfalfa hay makes up the bulk of the first carload, all cash contributions having been used to buy unless those who made the donations specified otherwise. The hay was purchased from Clara Clement and was baled free of charge by Don Miller, with the help of Mr. Clement and others who donated their services. The hay was hauled to town by Herman Rice, R. O. Hunter and Ed Dudschus, who donated their work and time to help the project along.

Included in the car were about sixty sacks of flour and about 8,000 pounds of sacked milk cows' feed and grain, the balance being baled hay.

The situation in the drouth-stricken area becomes more serious daily and now that local organizations have joined in the work it is believed that more additional carloads can be collected and shipped from here.

At a meeting Tuesday evening the Ord post, American Legion, endorsed the drouth relief project and appointed a committee composed of Rev. L. Real and John Goddard to co-operate with the Noll Seed Company and the Quiz in furthering collection of additional cash or supplies. Other Legion members will join with these two in making a canvass of Ord and community.

The Ord Chamber of Commerce likewise endorsed the project at a directors meeting last week and donated $20.00.

Everybody who has a feeling of compassion for north Nebraska's suffering people and livestock is urged to open his purse strings so that as much help as possible may be given by this community.

Don't wait for Legion members to call on you. If you want to donate baled prairie or alfalfa hay, old clothing, flour, sacked feeds, grain, smoked meats, sugar, beans, or any other non-perishable supplies, take them to the Noll Seed Company. If you want to make a cash donation give it to Rev. Real, Mr. Goddard or any other Legion member or leave it at the Quiz office.

All contributions will be acknowledged in the Quiz.

Henry Jorgensen Buys Herd Header

Peerless Mischief 1st 1955033 is the wonderful new bull bought this week by Henry Jorgensen to head his herd of fine Polled Herefords. Mr. Jorgensen bought the animal from the Enos T. Skiles herd at Wilsonville, Nebr. The best blood lines in the Hereford breed are represented in Peerless Mischief 1st and he will improve still further what is already a fine herd on Mr. Jorgensen's farm north of Ord.

Wm. Ritchie Will Made Address Here

With the appearance next Saturday of the first state candidate to visit Ord during the present campaign, the political pot should come to a boil locally. William Ritchie, Jr., of Omaha, candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, will be in Ord Saturday to greet his friends and make new ones. It was announced early this week. Mr. Ritchie probably will make a brief talk at the Weller sale barn here. He is billed to speak in Greeley that night.

Fred Coe President of Nebraska Co-ops

FRED W. COE.

At their annual meeting in Lincoln Monday, directors of the Nebraska Co-operative Creamery association re-elected Fred W. Coe, of Ord, as president, Jay Wade, of Plainview, was elected vice president, and George O'Malley, of Greeley, secretary and treasurer. The association is organizing to ship butter east in carload lots, thus commanding a better price on Chicago and New York markets. An office has been opened in Lincoln with C. C. George in charge.

Mr. Coe helped organize the state co-operative creamery association a few years ago and has always been active in its work. Many of the association's most successful projects were suggested by the Ord man.

ORD THEATRE OBSERVES 1ST ANNIVERSARY

Loup Valley Finest Showhouse Opened Year Ago; Big Hits Coming at Reduced Prices.

Just a year ago next week the Ord Theatre, finest show house in the entire Loup valley region, gave its initial performance. Built especially for the then new sound pictures, the new theatre was heartily welcomed and a huge crowd contended for seats at the initial performance. Since then attendance has been very good, considering all conditions, and Manager Jack Hoogenboom prepares to show his appreciation to theatre goers with a "big hit" program for Anniversary Week. And best of all from the standpoint of theatre patrons, all pictures may be seen at reduced admission prices.

Probably the biggest feature of Anniversary Week at the Ord Theatre will be "Matl Hart", the newest vehicle starring the famous Greta Garbo. With her in this talkie appears Ramon Novarro, a star in his own right, and Lionel Barrymore, who is in greater demand as a character artist than any player in Hollywood at present. Other famous cinema stars who appear in "Matl Hart" are Lewis Stone, Karen Morley, Alec B. Francis and Edmund Breese.

The story of this latest Garbo hit is based on the life and loves of Matl Hart, the notorious feminine spy who was executed by a French firing squad after a wild career of intrigue which cost the lives of many Allied officers during the World War. Ramon Novarro is the young Russian officer whom she really loved but whose trust she betrays.

Another Anniversary Week hit is "Mother's Millions" featuring the famous stage star, May Robson, with James Hall, Lawrence Gray, Frances Dade and a talented cast. It is a brilliant picture, comedy that is often akin to tears, and with a tender story of young love running through it. Manager Jack promises that everyone, young and old, will enjoy "Mother's Millions."

To climax Anniversary Week comes the great Universal travel picture, "East of Borneo," with Rose Hobart and Charles Bickford. It was filmed right in the jungle and huge apes, man eating tigers, big snakes and crocodiles play their part in making it the most thrilling sensation of the current screen. Children, especially, will be fascinated by "East of Borneo."

Dates for these Anniversary Week hits may be learned by reading the Ord Theatre advertisement on the back page of the Quiz today.

Two Get Diplomas. Della L. Nass, and Chauncey A. Hager, of Ord, were two of the 162 students of the University of Nebraska to be awarded degrees at the end of the first semester. Miss Nass received a bachelor of science degree in home economics, and also vocational home economic certificate. Hager received a bachelor of science degree in medicine.

ORD CO-OP OIL COMPANY MAKES $11,595.00 PROFIT

Company Did $85,000 Business In 1931 Treasurer Reports At Annual Meeting.

That the Ord Co-operative Oil Company made a net profit of $11,595 while doing a gross business of $85,000 in 1931 was the report of the treasurer, J. G. Hastings, at the company's annual meeting held last Thursday afternoon in the Ord Theatre. About 125 members were present.

To do this impressive dollar volume of business the company sold 43 cars of gasoline, 15 cars of kerosene and 4 cars of lubricating oil last year. Dollar sales were about twenty percent under the previous year, due to decrease in commodity prices, but the gallon volume of business was about the same as in 1930.

Besides paying 6 percent interest on the company's $4,370 capital stock, a dividend of 10c on each dollar spent with the station was paid to all patrons who are stockholders. There are 437 stockholders who invested $10 each in stock and shared both in the interest and dividend distributions last week.

The company is in an enviable position now with assets of $23,737 and liabilities, besides capital stock and bills payable, of $13,291.82 which includes the dividend and interest payments made at the close of 1931 business.

Discussion was held at the annual meeting Thursday relative to buying or building a station and the consensus of opinion seemed to be that the company should own its own station instead of leasing one as at present. A committee composed of Harvey Hohn and Charles Clochon was appointed to get estimates on the cost of building a station.

At the election of directors and officers Arnold Bredthauer was re-elected a director and Harvey Hohn was elected to succeed A. B. Fiala. R. C. Thompson was re-elected president. Henry Jorgensen vice president and J. G. Hastings secretary-treasurer.

Ben Janssen was re-appointed as manager of the station here and all other employes continue to hold their positions. Salaries of all employes were reduced ten percent shortly before the annual meeting.

Easterbrook Home Damaged By Fire

Arcadia, Febr. 1.—(Special)—Friday evening the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Easterbrook here was badly damaged by fire thought to have originated from an oven in the kitchen stove, the kitchen being badly burned and the dining room somewhat damaged by water by the time flames were under control.

The Easterbrook family discovered the fire at the country and returned home from a high school opera. Their house is located just outside city limits and no fire hydrant was within reach so the flames were fought with an electric pump until the insulation burned out. Then with the assistance of friends and neighbors, water was carried from tanks until the fire was extinguished. For a time it was thought that the entire house would burn and by prompt action everything was removed from the building. The large amount of snow on the roof is thought to have protected the house somewhat.

Insurance was carried on the house so if the Easterbrooks suffer any financial loss it will be small.

Taxpayers League Meeting Postponed

Because of recent heavy snows and extremely cold weather, a meeting of the Taxpayers League of Valley County, scheduled for Monday, was postponed until some future date. Only a handful of members were at the Bohemian hall when the meeting was supposed to start Monday.

Joe Waldmann, of the Woodman Hall neighborhood, told members present about the movement started in Omaha recently to organize a state taxpayers league and said the state league has been endorsed by the Farmers' Union, which has 20,000 members.

President Arthur Mensting put the motion to adjourn the meeting until a date that will be announced later.

Harold Benn Wins Scholarship And Trip To Lincoln

Harold Benn, of Ord, was announced at the agricultural college in Lincoln Tuesday as the Valley county winner of the Union Pacific scholarship, given annually to the boy of girl in each county of Nebraska who is most proficient in 4-H club work. The scholarship is valued at $100. In addition to this scholarship, Harold also has been awarded a trip to club week in Lincoln next June by the Burlington railroad.

To win these honors young Benn was active in various forms of 4-H club work, being a member of County Agent Dale's world famous 4-H club. He also has been a corn club member for two years ago and also leading a corn club this year. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Benn.

Clement Auction Sale

Mrs. Hans Clement will hold a clear-out sale on February 8 and go to California. See full announcement on page 8.

MRS. GUST ROSE SUCCUMBS AFTER HEART ATTACK

Passes Quietly Away Early Saturday Morning; Sudden Death Great Shock to Community.

Death came without warning to one of Ord's best known and most loved women last Saturday when, at 2:15 a. m., Mrs. Gust Rose passed quietly away at her home here from the effects of a sudden heart attack. Her death was a great shock to family and friends alike, for until the evening before she had apparently been in her customary good health and then complained only of a faint feeling and said she did not think it was anything serious.

A feeling of great personal loss comes to scores of Ord people on the passing of Mrs. Rose. A quiet, sweet woman, she was sincere, hard working and dependable, a rare combination. A good wife and mother, she leaves her husband and four children, Oscar, of Kellogg, Ia., Reinhold N., of Ord, Mrs. Fritz Kuehl, also of Ord, and Bernice A. Burwell. Another child died in infancy in 1888, a son. Ten grandchildren also are left.

Mathilda Matson Rose was born May 13, 1860 in Westgotland, Sweden, coming to this country with her family in 1883. On May 1, 1886 she was married at Hay Springs, Nebr., to Mr. Rose, and to them five children were born, four of whom survive. After living at Hay Springs the family moved to the valley country and here they have resided ever since. Until 1900 the Rose family lived on a farm and since then Mr. and Mrs. Rose have lived in Ord, where they were well liked and

Koelling Buys 560 Acres, Pays $12,700

In the biggest land deal made here in a long time, Henry Koelling of Ord this week purchased 560 acres of Valley county land south of North Loup from Wardner Green. The price being $12,700. The deal gives Mr. Koelling a rare bargain for there are three good quarters and an eighty, with two full sets of good improvements, in the 560 acres, which are part of what is known as the "old Green section." Daughters of Mr. Green own the remaining eighty. He will rent the land, Mr. Koelling says. The former owner plans to hold a sale of his personal property soon and then move to California.

Not Worried About War in China Says Flagg Guest, Who Lives There

Frank Hennich Die. A sudden heart attack caused the death last Sunday morning of Frank Hennich, 71, pioneer Burwell mail carrier. Mr. Hennich was well known in Ord as he was one of the first white children born in the Loup valley and his entire life was spent in Burwell and vicinity.

Ord Grapplers Lose To St. Paul Vets

Making a much better showing than in their first wrestling match the week before, the Ord high school grapplers lost to a more experienced St. Paul team 31 to 15 in the Ord gym last Thursday evening. Three Ord wrestlers won their matches, Carlson, in the 85-lb. class, winning by a fall, B. Sowers, in the 145-lb. class, winning by a fall, and P. Gard winning in the heavyweight class. Ord forfeited in three classes and Lewis, Benn, and Frank Anderson lost their matches. Norval Loft lost in an exhibition match.

Do It Now! Help Ord's Drouth Relief Project As Others Have

Old Clothing, Smoked Meats, Beans and Sugar Added to List of Drouth Area Needs.

The people of Antelope, Boyd, Brown, Cedar, Holt, Keya Paha and Knox counties are in desperate need of the necessities of life. Not only are they in need for their personal wants but their livestock is dying from starvation. So far, in the absence of other aid, they are dependent upon the generosity and humanitarian spirit of their fellow citizens of the state with whom nature has dealt more kindly.

Large areas in the north part of Nebraska did not raise so much as a spear of grass this last summer due to the blight of the drouth and the scourge of the grasshopper. Every effort will be made to make further shipments from here at once and this can be done if the many people who are perfectly willing to do their share in the work will DO IT NOW!

A letter from J. P. O'Furey, chairman of the Central Executive Committee of the Drouth Relief Project, says that articles most needed now are feed for milk cows, brood sows and poultry and such articles of human food as will not be damaged by cold or be subject to spoilage—flour, smoked meats, beans, sugar or anything else that requires no special treatment. Used clothing also will be greatly appreciated.

No matter how small your donation may be it will be welcomed and will contribute toward doing our duty to these fellow citizens of the state who have suffered these discouraging reverses. The one big thing necessary is to DO IT NOW—THIS WEEK.

Contributions made to the first carload that have not been previously acknowledged include: Ord Chamber of Commerce, $20; E. L. Collins, 2 sacks oats; Vincent Kokes, $5; C. J. Mortenson, $2; Nebraska State Bank, $10; E. R. Faletta, $2; C. J. Koll, $2; Frank Koupal, $5; A. Friend, $1; R. J. Stoltz, $5; Andrew Nielsen, $5; Joe Marks, 2 sacks feed; Leo Pookwanger, 2 sacks wheat; Employees of Ord Co-op Creamery, 12 sacks dairy feed; Joe Sobon, 2 sacks corn; Alfred Shoemaker, 2 sacks corn; Bill Frank, 20 bu. oats; Fred Dowhower, 2 sacks feed; Don Friend, 2 sacks hay; Friend, bundle of clothing; Peterson, 2 sacks dairy feed; W. J. Stewart, 2 sacks flour; John Klein, 2 sacks flour; Joe Valasek, 2 sacks flour; Wm. Fuss, 1 sack flour; P. J. Mella, 4 sacks flour; E. C. Burwell, 2 sacks flour; A. D. Bredthauer, 3 sacks flour; Hans Larsen, 2 sacks flour; Geo. Rund, 4 sacks flour; A. J. Meyer, 2 bundles baling wire used for baling hay; Ed Dudschus, Herman Rice and R. O. Hunter, trucking men; Don Friend, 2 sacks hay; Clara Clement and helpers, K. T. hay. (If anybody who has made a donation that is not acknowledged will call our attention to the oversight, acknowledgement will be made at once.)

A special train with some Burlington officials visited in Ord and Burwell Tuesday.

The American Legion Auxiliary are serving lunch Friday evening at the Fireman's hall.

Merl Denning May Lose His Left Arm

Merl Denning, of Elm Creek, a son-in-law of Fred Travis of Ord, had his left arm badly torn and lacerated last Friday while using a hay baler. He is in a hospital at Kearney and doctors are trying to save the arm. Oscar Travis, his brother-in-law, is with him.

Grand Jury Indicts DeWitt Williamson

When a federal grand jury returned indictments in Omaha Saturday it was learned that DeWitt Williamson, former Ord postoffice clerk, was indicted on one count of embezzling funds from the Ord office. Late in December he admitted "kiting" C. O. D. records and appropriating about $75 to his own uses. He made restitution of the full amount and was discharged from his position. Now that he has been indicted by the grand jury young Williamson undoubtedly will be prosecuted, though he is not under arrest as yet.

GRISWOLD FOR GOVERNOR CLUB IS FORMED HERE

Clarence M. Davis Chairman of Ord Club That Seeks to Elect Gordon State Senator.

Politics as a winter sport made its debut in Ord last Saturday when a group of influential republicans met and organized a Valley county Griswold-for-Governor club, the object of the club being to work for the republican nomination and election of Dwight Griswold as governor of Nebraska. Mr. Griswold's home is in Gordon, where he edits a newspaper. He has served several terms as state senator, is former commander of the American Legion in Nebraska and is president of the Nebraska Press association.

Clarence M. Davis was elected chairman of the Griswold-for-Governor club with H. D. Leggett as vice chairman and J. T. Knezacek as secretary and treasurer. Members are joining at a rapid rate, Chairman Davis reports, and he expects that 300 will be enrolled by Saturday night. Any voter in Valley county who believes in Dwight Griswold as the best available candidate for governor is invited to join the club.

"We need a western man in the state house," Mr. Davis says. "Mr. Griswold's record in the senate proves him to be an able executive with a list of accomplishments. His entire lifetime has been spent in the western part of the state and he has the interests of the west at heart. We've had too many governors who couldn't see anybody west of Lincoln and Omaha. It is time to make a change and Senator Griswold is the best candidate available."

SNOWY WEATHER CUTS INSTITUTE CROWD GREATLY

Only 75 Enroll Epworth League Sessions Here But Meetings Regarded As Success.

Though cold and stormy weather cut registrations at the District Epworth League Institute to 75, the series of meetings held here from Friday to Sunday are regarded as a great success by Rev. W. H. Wright, who was general manager of the institute. The attendance was considerably less than last year.

The largest crowd present during the institute attended the banquet, which was held Saturday evening in the church basement. Music during the banquet was furnished by Auble Bros. and the ladies aid society of the church served the fine dinner. Rev. W. H. Wright presided as toastmaster and after invocation by Rev. R. O. Gathier brief talks were given by Epworth League members and by Methodist pastors and faculty members present.

Towns represented at the institute included Arcadia, Loup City, Scottia, North Loup and Burwell. Delegates were guests in Ord homes during their visit here. The faculty was made up of Rev. L. H. Kaub, Lincoln; Rev. E. M. Kendall, Kearney; Mrs. M. E. Gilbert, Lincoln; Prof. F. M. Gregg, Lincoln; Rev. W. C. Birmingham, Loup City; Rev. R. O. Gathier, Arcadia; Rev. H. B. Hix, Burwell; Rev. L. A. Moore, Scottia; Rev. G. A. Schwabauer, North Loup; and Rev. Wright, of Ord.

WINTER HARD ON RURAL TEACHERS, MAIL CARRIERS

Cold Winds, Snow and Zero Weather Make Driving Difficult; Worst Winter in Years.

The winter of 1931-32 seems destined to go down in history as one of intense and sustained cold. The past week has been the coldest in several years, starting last Thursday with snow and driving north winds and continuing since with sub-zero temperatures every morning and freezing weather throughout every day.

Friday was the coldest morning so far recorded, the official thermometer kept by Horace Travis registering 10 degrees below zero and down town thermometers registering 14 below. Saturday was almost as cold, 10 degrees below being registered down town, and every morning since the mercury has stood at zero or below. Snowing gangs were busy last Friday and Saturday on highways and by-roads alike, clearing the way for travel and so mail carriers and teachers could drive.

The winter so far has been a difficult one for mail carriers and rural teachers who have any distance to drive. On several days recently some mail carriers from Ord and surrounding towns have been unable to make a complete circuit of their routes.

Miss Myrna Ward, who teaches in District 60 and drives from her home in Ord to bring a brother to school and then continues on to her own school each morning, had a trying experience last Friday. She found the roads badly drifted and finally a mile or so from District 60 school her car broke down. She got out and started to walk and on the way met one of her pupils, a 12-year-old girl, who was nearly overcome by the cold. The child wanted to lie down in the snow to rest but Miss Ward succeeded in getting her into the school building, where the child fainted. Miss Ward succeeded in reviving the little girl and after she got warm she appeared none the worse for her experience.

The paving in Ord has been so icy as to be dangerous and city officials are seeking the man whose car skidded into a lamp post on the C. A. Hager corner Saturday evening, breaking the post off. After doing the damage the man drove away without being identified. The lamp post was repaired Tuesday.

Many minor accidents in which cars were smashed have happened, due to icy pavements and roads, but so far nobody has been hurt. Garages and repair shops are doing a rushing business.

The weather man promises relief later this week in the form of warmer weather.

Shadelite Marquise At Hardware Meet

The Shadelite marquise, all-metal awning invented by Jay Auble, of Ord, is on display this week at the Nebraska hardware dealers convention in Omaha. The new marquise is being featured in the Pioneer Paint & Glass Company booth. Preston Loomis is in the booth as a representative of Auble Bros. to answer questions and display samples and pictures of the new marquise.

A recent issue of a national hardware trade journal displayed a picture of the Shadelite marquise as it appears on Haeffelin's drug store in West Point, Nebr., and Auble Bros. are getting inquiries from all over the country. They expect to do a lot of business with Jay's invention next spring and summer, as several large store front companies will feature it in their new catalogs.

James Again Seeks Supervisor's Job

E. C. James recently filed on the republican ticket as a candidate for the position of Valley county supervisor for the 4th district. Mr. James has served several terms representing Ord city on the county board and has thrice been elected chairman of the board. He is regarded as an economical and efficient supervisor and so far has no opposition on either ticket.

Ord Cagers Win From Broken Bow

In a fast game played on the Broken Bow floor last Friday evening Coach Cecil Molzen's Ord basketball team was victorious by a score of 39 to 29, after leading all the way through. A fast short passing attack coupled with unerring basket shooting won for the Chanticleers. It was the fifth straight defeat suffered by Broken Bow this season. Ord plays two games this week and against Burwell and Comstock, both on the local floor.

Chas. Lickly Moving. Chas. Lickly will hold a public sale on the Sorenson farm south of Burwell. See his announcement in next weeks paper.

THE ORD QUIZ

Ord, Valley County, Nebraska

H. D. LEGGETT - PUBLISHER
E. C. LEGGETT - EDITOR

Entered at the Postoffice at Ord, Nebraska, as Second Class Matter Under Act of March 3, 1879.

Subscription Price $2.50

$1,400 FOR ARKANSAS.

HOW MUCH FOR OUR OWN? A year or so ago when Arkansas and Oklahoma people were drouth sufferers Valley county raised $1,400 and bought flour for the starving people of those states. The help was timely and the emergency great but now a similar emergency exists in our own state. Shall we be less liberal with our own people than with those of Arkansas?

Other portions of the state have responded nobly to the cries for aid coming from north and north-east Nebraska. Cozad, a town smaller than Ord, sent eight cars of hay. Greeley county sent three cars of grain and feed. Other counties and towns were similarly generous. So far only one car of supplies has gone out from Ord. So far only a small percentage of our people have donated to the North Nebraska Drouth Relief project.

The Noll Seed company and The Quiz, at the instance of other charitable people, sponsored that project after it became apparent that local organizations were not interested. It is true that conditions here are far from bright. It is true that we have little more than enough hay and grain to answer our own needs. It is true that some of our own people are hungry. But how much greater is the need in seven or eight drouth-stricken counties to the north of us where thousands of families and hundreds of thousands of head of livestock are suffering, perishing, from hunger and cold?

"Nebraska will take care of its own," our governor said, and regarding the statement that would have been made, considering Nebraska conditions, it was made and it is up to us to furnish the food and feed necessary to carry northern Nebraska through until food and forage crops can be raised again.

It is sincerely hoped that two or three more carloads of relief can be sent from Ord. Will you do your bit?

MORE ABOUT GRASSHOPPERS.

There are 154 varieties of grasshoppers found in Nebraska and only four of the varieties are harmful, reports Professor M. J. Stern, head of the entomology department at the University of Nebraska. Of these four harmful species the two striped grasshoppers cause most damage to crops and all four species that might cause crop damage are wintering now in Nebraska, he says. They will not hatch out until spring but when they do watch out.

Some time in December a newspaper correspondent over in eastern Nebraska saw hundreds of tiny grasshoppers deserting the trees and flying about in a hazy mist. Immediately a story appeared in state papers to the effect that warm December weather had caused the grasshoppers to hatch out prematurely and the supposition was that they would be destroyed by the next cold weather. According to Professor Swenk, the grasshoppers seen by this reporter were of a species that hatches out normally in the fall or early winter and lives through the winter in the nymph stage, being very resistant to cold. This species is not harmful to crops, he says.

Valley county is heavily infested with grasshopper eggs this year. It is hoped that the weather is sufficiently cold sometime between now and spring to kill these embryo crop destroyers. A stringent control measures will be necessary next spring.

We won't start counting our grasshoppers before they hatch but between now and hatching time it will be the part of wisdom to learn how these insects may be destroyed. We are asking County Agent Deane and Professor J. A. Kovanda to write articles along this line and hope readers will watch for them and heed them carefully when they appear.

BACK TO SIMPLER DAYS.

Strickland Gilliland who has been one of our favorite humorists ever since he sponsored the now famous "off again, on again, gone again, Finnegan" story, deprecates the centralizing of government in Washington. When Hank Lomax's shout out on Gander creek gets sick the federal government now sends a veterinarian to take care of him, Gilliland says, which may be the famous Gilliland brand of humor but also comes mighty close to truth.

Scarcely a day passes now that the federal government doesn't poke its nose into the concerns of every enterprise and every individual in the country, through the Department of Commerce, Labor, Health, Agriculture or the Interior. Since the author of the pamphlet on Breast Feeding of Infants was exposed as a male clerk in the department of health, the government has been a little more careful in its mailings but newspaper offices still are flooded daily with advice on every subject under the sun.

course all such pamphlets and reports are compiled, written, printed and mailed at government expense and while our wastebasket can stand the strain we doubt if the federal treasury can.

Government simply must be decentralized if the cost of government is to be reduced. Having the federal government give back to the states some of the power it has usurped is a good starting place; having the state pass this same authority back to individuals through county, city and township governing bodies is a good way to continue. We are suffering from a bad attack of too much government and the only remedy is a wholesale decapitation of official heads.

HEADING STRAIGHT FOR WAR.

Arthur Brisbane is right when he says that many Americans are wondering why it is necessary for the United States to pick a quarrel with Japan while France, Great Britain and Italy keep quiet, relying on the United States to irritate Japan while they remain friendly with both Japanese and Chinese and sell goods to both of them.

American diplomacy always has been a joke under the "career" system. Wealth has for years dominated the state department and naturally men of wealth feel that affairs of state should be manipulated for the benefit of the people of their own class. Therefore, when important financial affairs are placed in jeopardy by a threatened Japanese invasion of China it is entirely natural for career diplomats to rally to the rescue. Unfortunately, possession of inherited wealth does not entail possession of brains also, hence blundering by our diplomats.

The United States is totally unprepared for war with Japan. Our people do not want war with Japan. We have no truck with Asia. Let our government realize that fact and let the Asiatics settle their disputes among themselves. The present policy of our state department is heading us straight for war. That policy must be changed.

NO BOND ISSUE WANTED.

We cannot agree with the Pennsylvania governor, Gifford Pinchot, who advocates a five billion dollar federal bond issue as a cure for the depression. Governor Pinchot, who is a republican presidential aspirant, overlooks the fact that contracting more debts never has been and never will be a remedy for debts already contracted and that voting more taxes cannot result in tax reduction. A five billion dollar bond issue devoted to public improvements might act as an opiate upon our economic indigestion but would not result in relief of the headache, when the effects of the opiate pass, be worse than the original ailment? We believe it would.

It would be difficult to sell five billions in federal bonds at the present time, along with the two billions in Reconstruction Finance Corporation bonds that are now being peddled. If such bonds could be sold they would have to bear a high rate of interest, which would add to our annual fixed expense by hundreds of millions of dollars. Furthermore, would not loading investment in federal bonds have a paralyzing effect upon the credit needed by private concerns who might launch expansion programs? Also, the credit of the United States would be still further depressed and a drop in the securities market is the last thing we should seek in the present crisis.

The time is past for huge federal bond issues and similar panaceas. Two years ago, even one year ago, they looked attractive to those of us who still considered the abnormal conditions of early 1929 the normal to be sought for. Then we secured a half loaf, wanting a whole loaf or none, and eagerly espoused any wild-eyed proposal to give us that whole loaf. Now we view with mistrust any inflationary idea. Half a loaf looks mighty good to us, provided it is made from honest ingredients and won't melt away when we attempt to slice and eat it.

BRICK BATS

The Japanese, prepared to fight. Are shooting at the Chinks. Whose only hope is hurried flight from battles' bloody brinks. With fear they watch the coming foe.

"The fact that they can do. Around them seething war clouds grow. But that is nothing new. The history, through ages past. Has been a theme of woe. In hardship, has their lot been cast.

They've bowed to every foe. The virtues of the Chinaman, Are many, as we know. For centuries, his tribe could scan Great Empires, come and go, And yet he always was the goat, Because he could not fight, A dagger always at his throat, A victim of man's might.

Today the Japs are on his neck, Who'll grab for all they can, They'll take his silver by the peck, But leave the Chinaman, And he will live to see them fade, The sun march along in life's parade. Long after they are done, That "Might makes right" is holding true;

It will for just a day And yet the meek will reign anew When might has passed away. —Brick Smith.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

With hundreds of excited subscribers rushing to see why this department was left out last week, I hasten to explain that the editor insists that my copy be in Friday or Saturday and the dead line is Monday morning. Last week I was enjoying the flu and could not write the copy on time. Neither was I on the job till Tuesday and even since then I have been of little account. But that explains why this column was not in evidence.

And speaking of the flu I am told that a lot of people are having it, in fact people are beginning to look with suspicion upon anyone who persists in not having it and it behooves anyone who is able to keep from having the flu to at least try to look a little bit sick and cough around a little or that man Wilson may get suspicious and come out and look the unspeakably ones over. There is supposed to be some pre-prohibition stuff that is absolutely sure death to the flu germ. That is why it will be best to claim to have a few of the germs hanging about you.

I presume Valley county farmers get a pretty good idea of the condition of the farmers in northeast Nebraska by just imagining the shape they would be in right now if no feed of any kind had been raised last year. One farmer told me the other day that he thought the feed was ample roughage for the stock in the winter. I was just a bit disappointed that it took so long to get a car of stuff ready for shipment from Ord. From what Emmet Collins wrote I imagine others have also wondered at our slowness in coming to the rescue of our neighbors in the winter. When I see Greeley shipping three cars before we get one off and I notice that Cozad has already sent eight cars. There is good alfalfa for sale, baled, at about $10 a ton. There are plenty of people in Valley county, who do so would afford money to buy many carloads. I believe they would feel better and the better enjoy the blessings which we do have, to pay for the sacrifice. I will give another $5 toward filling the second car with alfalfa. Can't Ord send more than one car?

Carl Sorensen is developing into more than a druggist. He is a real doctor. He was left in charge of the store a while the other evening and Carl D. D. went to get a bottle of cough syrup. Sorensen gave him a bottle of castor oil. Dale said, "Here, I want something to take so I won't cough." "You take that," said Sorensen, "and you won't dare cough."

Fred Howard says the garage men of Clay Center report that many back ends have been ruined by the snow and ice on the highways. Fred adds that the ice on the sidewalks has also been a contributing factor.

Now that we have probably about reached the bottom, we may expect to return slowly to normal. The trouble is that a lot of us are still wanting to return to abnormal, a condition which we were foolish enough to think was going to last always. Ten cent hogs and fifteen cent beef, 40 cent cream and 35 cent eggs are not normal prices. They are abnormal and we are not likely to see them for a long time, unless our hired men at Washington foolishly get us into an Asiatic war. Just a word, however, now, for produce, would help a lot. Such prices are now below normal.

Judging from reading the daily papers, if we escape war with Japan we will always have something to be thankful for.

Of course we wild jackasses of the west don't know much and are not supposed to know much about world affairs. Perhaps it is the proper thing for Secretary of State Stimson to talk to the press and Brisbane to seem to think we should attend to our own business and let the far east run their own show and Brisbane is a highly educated and extensively traveled man of the world. He ought to know what he is talking about.

When You and I Were Young, Maggie

25 Years Ago This Week. Two below zero was registered Wednesday morning. It was the first time that the mercury crawled below the zero mark.

Officers elected by the Knights of Pythias included H. E. Olson, G. A. Parkins, A. S. Koupal, V. Kokes, A. F. Kosmata, Jos. Barta, George Selvers and H. M. Davis.

Ice skating was at its best and one or two Ord people skated to St. Paul while several were skating back and forth to Elyria.

Otis Paist was assisting Joe Capron with abstract work for a few days but had prospects of a permanent position in Lincoln.

A. R. Honhold was plotting an excursion of land seekers to Oklahoma.

Custer county newspapers, outside of Broken Bow, were hammering away at attempts to divide that big county into three or four smaller ones.

Orin Mutter and family were planning to move to Ord from Sargent. Mr. Mutter's new studio in one of the Haskell buildings was nearing completion and was to be the finest in this part of the state.

20 Years Ago This Week.

Possibility of a law suit arose when, after signing a contract to sell the corner north of the Dworkin store to W. W. Ruberg, J. Parks couldn't get the signature of Mel Goodenow, part owner of the property, because Mr. Goodenow feared the lot was to be used for a new bank building.

A course in domestic science was started in Ord high school. J. D. Tedro, sr., went to the Methodist hospital at Omaha for an examination as he had been in poor health for some time.

Mrs. Hazel Rockhold was badly burned when gasoline exploded as she was cleaning some of her wearing apparel. The Quiz installed its first linotype and much more news was printed than had been possible before.

Something Different

I agree with my husband. It seems queer that in one part of Nebraska potatoes should bring so little that farmers decline to labor digging them up; while across the state only a few hundred miles people actually grow them.

And I think one of the most genuine movements begun recently is that to help those suffering farmers feed their families and their livestock.

You know that you wouldn't be able to eat a bite if a hungry, whimpering child or gaunt farmer sat across the table watching you while they had nothing to eat. Nor could you eat in peace and comfort if even a starving calf, or hungry kitten was near, and hungry. Why, then, because they are out of sight do you shove them out of mind?

The little three year old daughter of Mrs. May Lunney, whose name is Verna Jean, has been staying with Mrs. Charles Urban for month or two while the mother had work in Grand Island.

Recently Verna Jean needed her hair shortened and Mrs. Urban decided to play barber herself, but Verna Jean, with the barbers' interest at heart, thought otherwise. She said to her mother, "Let the barber shop man to cut my hair."

Friday she had her hair, when Bud Martin trimmed it for her according to specifications.

A lot of local men haven't received their share of praise for a accomplishment, really just a bit out of their own line. For things that they can do well, things which one would really not expect of them.

Wait Noll is a cook, and often helps out when his wife needs a bit of help. He has been known to do nearly all the cooking, for days together.

John Koelma is a good rug hooker. If you have the rug hooking fever just ask his wife about his skill. Anne has made a number of beautiful rugs and has a good knowledge of the backgrounds into them. And has fine, too.

El Vogelartz is a huge comfort to have around the house. He knows how to sweep, dust, do general cleaning, and do them properly. He is a little slow, but "more help than a girl," friends say.

Judge Clements is a peach of a cook. Included in his toothsome repertoire are fluffy, delicious baking powder biscuits, tender, eatable pancakes, and many other things equally difficult to accomplish cookily speaking.

John Misko is another cook. The list he can prepare may be limited somewhat, yet, but his shoe string potatoes are something to tell about. Olor Olsson is also handy. He can make the best of anything of good things, and understands about cleaning, too.

And then, we have quite a few baby-tending husbands.

We have lots of wise-crackers around Ord. "Go to grocery boy, who perky cracks. 'Well, come in some time when you want to buy something,' 'o anyone who does not buy. One is an oil and gas man, who 'marks after washing the windshield and the radiator, and testing the radiator.' 'Come back when you want water in the radiator.'"

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

We still want more good recipes to print in this column; please send yours along. Your neighbors have probably wondered why it hasn't appeared before this. So get out the cook book, or the recipe box or whatever you do with your good recipes. Drag them out, look them over, and copy off two or three or four and mail them in. The Quiz will acknowledge them gratefully.

Below is a recipe for making a delicious cake frosting. No doubt you will wish to try it. Marshmallow Frosting. 2 egg whites. 1/4 c. sugar. 4 tbs. water. Put egg whites, sugar and water in the upper part of a double boiler, beat with a rotary beater until well mixed. Place over boiling water and beat until stiff (with rotary beater) then remove from the fire and add 5 fresh marshmallows. Beat again until ready to spread. Marshmallow cream may be added in place of the marshmallows.

Mrs. M. W. Savage, Tarnov. Good recipes are a rare treasure, as any cook will tell you. The Quiz is receiving many good ones just now. Are yours among them? Here is one you will welcome: Spanish Hash. 1 lb. hamburger. 2 c. rice, cooked. 1 c. tomatoes. 1 c. hot water. 1 c. chopped onion. Salt to taste. Bits of butter on top. Bake 1 1/2 hours. Mrs. Harry Dye Poor Man's Cookies. 1 c. sugar. 1 c. molasses. 1/2 c. lard. 1 c. sour milk. 3 level tsp. soda. 1 tsp. cinnamon. 1/2 tsp. ginger. 1/2 tsp. salt. Flour enough to roll out. Mrs. Jessie Ashley. In these times of depression, when all we hear our friends speak of is being poor and hard times is the chief topic of conversation the title of the cookies above should win them a trial from any cook. After that they will hold a place of honor on their own merits.

Lime Salad Supreme. 1 pkg. lime jello. 5 tbs. vinegar. 1 c. crisp cabbage, chopped. 1 pt. boiling water. 1/2 tsp. salt. 1 c. diced apples, olives, chopped. Dissolve jello in boiling water, add vinegar and salt and chill. When slightly thickened, add other ingredients. Chill until firm. Unroll on lettuce leaf and serve with mayonnaise. Selma E. Robbins, North Loup. Chocolate Pop Corn. 2 c. white sugar. 1 c. water. 1/2 c. corn syrup. 2 ounces chocolate. Put ingredients into a kettle and cook until syrup hardens in cold water. Pour over 4 qts. of popped corn. Stir well to insure uniform coating of kernels. Angelina Kochonowski.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

What does it cost to grow corn? An agricultural evening school on corn was held at District 10 in Mira Valley last winter. During the course of this school, blanks were given to the farmers on which records could be kept of the corn crop for the following season. Most of the blanks landed in the waste basket, but a few were carefully kept.

One of these sheets, completely filled, was brought in by Edgar Knapp. It indicates that he raised fifty-four acres of corn for an average outlay of 3 man hours and 15 horse hours per acre, up to husking time.

Various values can be placed on his labor, and everyone is free to set his own. As machine depreciation can never be figured to an exact degree, many record books use 15 cents per horse per hour or horse labor, and have this figure include the repairs and depreciation on the machinery that the horses pull. Student labor is fixed at 25 cents an hour.

15 cents for man labor and 15 cents for horse labor are the values used, it cost $3.10 an acre to raise standing corn in the field. This includes ten cents allowed for seed.

Shucking and shelling expenses should be added to this to get the total cost. The price for 134 bushels per acre. Adding 3 cents a bushel for hired shucking and 1 cent for shelling, brings the total cost of production up to $3.64 an acre. Other expenses may or may not be added, as storage, hauling and board for huskers, are not included.

The cost of producing a bushel was 40 cents. One-third share rent was paid, leaving about nine bushels of corn per acre for the tenant.

Had the corn yielded 30 bushels, the cost of producing a bushel would have been 43 cents; had it yielded sixty bushels, the cost of a bushel would have been 14 cents.

Edgar used large hitches and machines, averaging 5 hours of horse labor to 1 of man labor. His dirt, harrow and lister were six horse outfits. There was some extra labor put in mowing weeds, and replanting two acres pulled by pheasants.

Some contend that a farmer cannot count his work as anything in figuring production costs, because it is a cash outlay. If there are any who are willing to board themselves and work for nothing, they should bring their teams to town. There is lots here that folks would like to have done.

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Dan Needham entertained at dinner. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ign. Klina and children, Mrs. Florence Chapman and Rodney Stoltz.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Real Drouth in Wyoming. Dear Quiz: I thought I could have to tell you of the conditions in our part of the country. You people think it was dry there. You do not know what dry means. Now we were dry here for the last two years but this year exceeding dry so, not a thing raised. We got less than a ton of hay where we usually get from twelve to fifteen. Not a bit of garden and we planted a big one twice. Clare had in over twenty acres of oats and alfalfa and a thing from it but of course everyone else the same. One of our neighbors had in over two hundred acres of small grain but not a thing, not even short straw. Those that could bought tons of baled hay and straw and had it trucked to nearly one hundred miles. Hereabouts we have to buy everything except fuel, milk and butter. Clare has had less than two months work in the last sixteen months. He and Maude's husband are just through icing. Everyone is busy with ice now. It was quite a problem to get ice this year, the river froze up so low and all the creeks were dry. Perry hauled his ice from the river down here nearly ten miles, others are doing the same.

We are only feeding two cows and a saddle horse, the rest of the horses rustle for themselves in the pasture. Our pasture is never fed down so is quite good. If we do not raise anything this year we are leaving the ranch and we may go anyway. While we are not as isolated as some of our friends think we are, the work is getting too much for me. We have two families within a radius of two miles. School of fourteen pupils, church, Sunday school and little social gatherings quite often. Everyone seems to be congenial and all have such good times. Maude and her family sold out and moved away, were gone four months and came back and her husband filed on his additional 480 acres built a house and are glad to be back on Powder River again. One can live cheaper here than anywhere I know of.

Sorry to see so many sad happenings in and around Ord. Will say goodbye. Mrs. Hall Barnes. Nampa, Ida. Jan 26, 1932 Mr. H. D. Leggett Ord, Nebr. Dear Sir:

I am enclosing check for $2.00. We are paid ahead for so long time but you can advance our time for other year and please send the calendar as I would like to see that picture. I am also enclosing a check for $10 for northeast Nebraska drouth relief. If there is a car of produce and feed going I will give it to you by what you think is needed worst. It seems to me that would be better than sending cash, but use your own judgment. My I wish they might have some of the apples and other fruit and potatoes that go to waste here nearly every year. We have many cars of the 1930 onion crop hauled out to the dumps but this year they bring big money. A man a few miles northwest of Nampa had 100 acres of onions in 1931 that brought $60,000.00 off of land that was in sage brush. He never had a core but where one man does so well maybe a dozen other are going broke farming. Irrigation creates a tremendous overhead expense. Valley county people better do a lot of figuring before they go into very extensive farming. If they have a house figure it up and then add a third or a half for the actual outcome.

We have been listening to Gov. Bryan's Northeast Nebraska relief programs over KPAB and were wondering why Ord was not sending a car or two like other towns. We can certainly sympathize with them in Northeast Nebraska as it is still fresh in our minds the conditions of 1893-94 in Valley county. Wish we could do more but there is our community chest, Red Cross and Salvation Army here that needs help also. Thanking you now for the calendar. Come out and go trout fishing. Yours very truly, E. L. COLLINS

Diseases Grasshoppers. To the Editor of the Quiz: Your paper last week says that Valley county is badly infested with grasshoppers and I guess it is true but I think that with the county farm bureau backed up by the state agriculture department we can control the pest if it hatches here. We have 566 members of the farm bureau located in all parts of the county and if we all are alert and ready to go into the fight and do our best to help the county agent I think, if the weather is not too much against us, we can win against the hoppers and save at least part of the crop. Judging from past experience we may have no difficulty for the weather may fix that by itself. We can hardly expect a disease to exterminate them the first year but the second or third year disease is likely to attack and make an end to the grasshoppers.

We have just finished a dry year and by all rules 1932 should be a wet one. If so, that will be on the side of we humans. I lived in a country where grasshoppers took the crops three years in succession. They had no farm bureau or county agent in those days to help combat them, the farmers weren't organized and the hoppers were. Each farmer did what he could single handed, either cursing or praying and a notion struck him and one plan appeared to work about as much as the other.

As we may be in the hopper fight more or less this year, possibly a short crop of the three year hopper raids in northeast Nebraska in the homestead days may interest readers. Dixon county, over next to the Missouri river, is my old home and it lays just east of Cedar county, one of the mostly counties asking for aid now. While I was not there at the time I know this story as well as if I were for up to 20 years after the hopper years the stories were told and retold at every gathering or threshing and until that time the old settlers firmly believed the hoppers would come again. In the summer, whenever the wind got in the north, they looked every few moments for the cloud of hoppers with their accompanying roar to come out of the north.

When the Indians were driven from along the Missouri river and into Sioux City was becoming a town, a small trading post at Ponca was established and settlers started aking up land along the river. Ponca was the center of settlement and people came in from Iowa and Ohio, mostly from Iowa. The soil was fertile and what little was brought into cultivation produced enormous crops. The settlement spread out onto the prairie lands and farming began on a larger scale.

Old timers tell how one day in the latter part of July they were getting ready to harvest the best of harvests when the wind turned to the north and a cloud of hoppers came from the Dakotas. They say the roar of the insects wings was like a deadly deafening. The hoppers lit on everything clean and the small grain like a mower had been over it, and ate the corn to the bare stalk, then ate the stalks until they fell over. The wind died down and the hoppers stayed three days, then they moved on to the north and they raised up the north and they raised up the winged it to the south. A lot of cripples were left and some stayed to keep them company so the ground was full of eggs that fall. People were hard hit but they gathered some heads of wheat and oats that the hoppers had left lying flat on the ground. (The hoppers cut off every stalk).

The settlers lived all winter on rabbits, quail, prairie chickens and some venison and without much hope put in another crop. The hoppers came up with the crop, ate the gardens and as small grain began to stalk and head they cut it down, doing the same thing to the corn as it came up. Steady south winds had been blowing but one day the wind changed to the north and grasshoppers by the millions rose up and winged it off southward with a roar.

Late gardens came on and the corn made a fairly good crop so the settlers stayed on as the hoppers appeared to be gone for good. When new hope they planted again the next spring. If ever they appeared, small grain was harvested and the people of our neighborhood gathered for a celebration and to give thanks for their crops. About 10 o'clock, as the gathering went on, the wind changed and the north and picklers heard the old familiar roar. They thanked the Lord for their wheat and oats but said goodbye to their roasting ears. As one oldtimer put it, the hoppers were gone for 24 hours but that was enough. They cleaned up the corn, even stalk, leaves from the trees, all the prairie grass except the heavy bottom or slough grass and then, as the wind came up from the north, they went on their way but left enough to fill the soil with eggs.

The fourth year the grasshopper crop came up fine and settlers gave up hopes of a crop but the weather took a hand. Several heavy rains in succession appeared to do away with the hoppers.

I lived in that county 26 years and my wife's folks live there yet. (I have been away from there 29 years.) I keep in touch with farmers there and have heard of no hoppers in Dixon county since. The years 1890-31 were very dry there and they are having their troubles the same as we are but they had no hoppers, as they were over the line in the next county. Most of the oldtimers are gone and a few of the second generation also but the story of the three hopper years still lives.

When the wind gets in the north next summer I suppose I will be listening for the hopper roar and a cloud of insects to come out of the north and I really think that is where we will get the most of our trouble, for with counties north of us loaded down with hoppers they will probably migrate this summer. Here's hoping they go over us and light on the Gulf of Mexico. ERNEST S. COATS.

Urges "Eat More Eggs." To the Editor of the Quiz: Some people still tell us that we have nothing to kick about, that a dollars buys more now than a few years ago. Yes, that is so with the fellow that is still drawing a good salary and living is much cheaper. But how about the farmer's dollar. How much does it purchase with three cent hogs and eight cent eggs. It takes seventeen dozen eggs to purchase 100 pounds of oyster shell. Never before were oyster shell as high. The agricultural report says eggs will be lower in May and June.

Eggs are healthy and nourishing food so let us adopt a slogan, "Eat more eggs" and help a home industry. Mrs. Jos. J. Waldmann. Plans are being made for several Calendar Teas in the near future. Madams F. L. Blessing, Mortensen will serve in the home of the latter. Mrs. Keith Lewis and Miss Eunice Chase in the Lewis home. Madams E. H. Petty and James Ollis in the home of the latter.

North Loup News

MRS. FRED BARTZ, Reporter

Herman Graunke and son Clarence trucked their machinery to Scotia Saturday where it was sold at auction at the community sale Saturday afternoon. Mr. Graunke and his boys Clarence and Dean expect to move about March 1st to their former home at West Point, Nebr. They will reside at the old farm home which the family left about eight years ago to move to North Loup.

Ten car loads of cattle arrived in North Loup Saturday night for the Nebraska Security Co. feeding yards, one mile north of town.

Vern Robbins and Albert Mo-Mindes made a business trip to Omaha Monday.

Leland Robbins accompanied his mother, Mrs. Laura Robbins to their store at Greeley Monday.

Mrs. Anna Lee and small daughter, Bernice are spending a few days with Mrs. Martha Otto of Grand Island who has recovered from her recent operation at St. Francis hospital when a 40 1/2 lb. tumor was removed from her.

Mrs. Mary Thelin and daughter Marjorie attended the funeral of Mrs. Thelin's brother Alva Rock-hold, which was held at Burwell Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 27.

Mrs. Isa Creager and son Van who have resided for the past several months with Mrs. Creager's mother, Mrs. V. J. Thomas, moved a few personal household goods Monday to the Schudel farm in Riverdale where Van will assist Bill with his farm duties and Mrs. Creager will be chief cook and housekeeper in the fine new home which will be completed in the near future. Until the house is in readiness Mrs. Creager and Van will have sleeping quarters at the Claude Thomas home.

Rev. Schwabauer returned from the Methodist hospital in Omaha Wednesday evening of last week reporting their little daughter, Mary LeNore as doing well after a recent mastoid operation which proved to be more serious than was anticipated, as the mastoid gathering had begun to form an abscess on the brain. Mrs. Schwabauer and the little girl will not be able to return home for another week or ten days.

Kent Manchester substituted as janitor for his brother Reeve last week who suffered for several days with infection in his hand caused by coming in contact with a buzz-saw.

A grocery store and meat counter is soon to be opened here, Clyde Barrett of Trumbull, Nebr. will be the proprietor. Mr. Barrett with his family is expected to arrive soon.

Frazier Funeral home, Ord. Ambulance service, Day phone 33; Night 193.
Mrs. Elfreda Vodehnal was hostess Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 27, to the Fortnightly Woman's club. Mrs. Anna Crandall had charge of the lesson on Nebraska. In response to roll call each member located and named six counties on an outlined map of the state. Following this an amusing romance including ninety three characters, representing the counties of Nebraska was read by Mrs. Leta Leggelle. The states highways and waterways were located, also its institutions and much of its early history discussed. Altogether the lesson proved most interesting and educational. In closing the club sang in unison "Nebraska, My Native Land." Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, Madams Esther Hurley, Eulah Earnest and Prudence Dallam were guests. Mrs. Rupert lately of Loup City was welcomed into the club as its latest member.

Miss Naomi Yost of the high school faculty was absent from school Thursday and Friday because of illness.

"Ghosts of Hilo" a two act opera with a Hawaiian background, was given at the Opera House last Friday evening to a fair sized house. The opera was given by twenty members of the Girls Music club and was coached by Miss Nema Gruzan, school instructor of music. Leading parts were carried by Mary Jane Helfenmayer, Pearl Dobson, Janet Cook and Mildred Easterbrook.

The January meeting of the Farmers club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Stone Saturday as was also a reception for Mr. and Mrs. Stone's son, August and his bride who were married Tuesday of last week. Between seventy-five and eighty attended. Dinner was served at one o'clock after which the members of the club presented the new news paper, a number of lovely gifts for which Mr. Stone extended his thanks in behalf of himself and bride. The afternoon meeting was then called to order by the Chairman, John Drake. A very interesting program of music and readings was given.

The Glendale Literary society will meet Friday evening February 5th at the Glendale schoolhouse. Ina Garner, Lenora Holmes and Earl Holmes compose the program committee and Pearl Dobson, Lewis Drake and Gilbert Day will be in charge of the newspaper.

The R. K. D. Litter club held their first meeting of the year at the home of Orvel and Orle Sorenson Thursday evening of last week. Plans for club work were discussed and the following officers elected for the year: leader, Max Cruikshank; president, Paul Easterbrook; secretary and news reporter, Claude Williams. County Agent C. C. Dale of Ord was present for the meeting.

There has been much speculation of late in regard to the train service on the Burlington through Arcadia. The first plans of the railroad were to operate a mixed train from Aurora to Sargent, passing through Arcadia about 9:45 a. m. westbound and about 2 p. m. eastbound with a freight train in one direction the next day and in other direction the next day. These plans have now been abandoned and Burlington officials, including the general manager and general baggage, mail and express agent from Omaha, the division superintendent, division passenger agent and vision freight agents from Lincoln made a trip over the lines north of Aurora Monday and Tuesday of this week to talk over a proposed change in the passenger service only, with interested patrons. It is planned to operate a passenger train from Aurora at 4:30 p. m. serving the Sargent, Burwell and Ericson branches and arriving at Sargent at approximately 8:50 a. m. and the returning train to leave Sargent at 11:15 a. m. with direct connection for Lincoln and Omaha arriving at Lincoln at 6:20 p. m. and Omaha at 8:15 p. m. Very little opposition to this plan was encountered and it is expected that the change in service will probably become effective within a few weeks.

Miss Evelyn Peters, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wash Peters, who reside in the Clear Creek neighborhood and Lloyd Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Evans of Arcadia were married at Loup City Saturday, January 23rd. The young couple will make their home on the U. G. Evans farm, north of Arcadia.

The Balsaora Willing Workers club met last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Whitman. Ten members and six guests were present. The ladies took up the study of built-in cupboards and cabinets and the men, who were special guests at this meeting, made lid holders. The next meeting will be held February 26th at the home of Mrs. Albin Piers.

Roy Woodworth had his face badly scratched one day last week while cutting wood with a buzz saw using his car for power. In some manner his jacket became caught in the pulley, throwing him against the frame of the saw. Three stitches were required to close a wound made on his chin. Those assisting him released the belt to the engine, thus saving him from what might have been more serious injury.

The Liberty Literary society will meet at the Liberty church Friday evening February 5th. A three act play, "The Fortunate Calamity" will be given.

Morning prayer meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Win McMichael for the north division and Mrs. E. A. Easterbrook for the south division last Tuesday morning and will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Russell, north division and Mrs. Jess Marvel, south division Friday morning of this week.

Your Druggist Says About That Cough:

McLain & Sorenson say: "There's no need to hack yourself to pieces by coughing like that. One dose of Bronchiline Emulsion will give you INSTANT RELIEF. Two doses will probably stop it for good. Half a bottle certainly will or we won't keep your money."

"We don't care what else you've tried, nor how long your cough has hung on. We are willing to bet that Bronchiline will stop it. No dope in it. Nothing to upset your stomach. And the taste isn't half as bad as you think it's going to be from the smell, so just swallow it down. Money back, remember, if you don't get relief."

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Mich. Special equipment extra. Low delivered prices and easy G.M.A.C. terms

NEW in chassis—new in bodies—new in every vital part that has to do with economical, efficient hauling—yet selling at prices even lower than the extremely low prices of last year. That, briefly, is the story of the new line of six-cylinder trucks now introduced by Chevrolet. These trucks are available as complete units—in three wheelbase lengths—1 1/2-ton and 1 1/4-ton capacities and 28 body types. The price reductions range from $10 to as high as $65 and make Chevrolet's first cost one of the lowest in the market. Outstanding features: New Chevrolet-built bodies. Handsome new lines. Stronger body construction. Larger bulk capacity. New, roomier, more comfortable cabs. A wide variety of optional color combinations. A new truck-type six-cylinder engine, developing greater power and speed, and assuring matchless economy. A new, heavier frame. New, stronger truck-type springs. A new, sturdier truck-type clutch. A new, heavier transmission. A truck-type rear axle 25 per cent stronger than before. Interchangeable single and dual wheel equipment. And the lowest operating cost of any truck on the market.

Farmers Who Want Free Trees Should Make Application

Valley county farmers who wish forest seedling trees for spring delivery should put in their applications as soon as possible, County Agent Dale today warned. Though the deadline for the applications is not until March 1, the applications are being approved as they reach the agricultural college and the supply may be exhausted.

Nebraska farmers up to the present time have applied for 250,000 seedlings. Applications are reaching Clayton Watkins, extension forester, by the hundreds each day. As in other years the trees are distributed through the agricultural extension service and farmers pay but one cent a seedling for packing and handling charges. Delivery is made early in the spring.

County Agent Dale says both the broadleaf and evergreen varieties of seedlings are available to Valley county farmers. He says, however, because of the danger of tree insects and diseases and different growth habits of trees, a windbreak should be made up of three or four varieties and this should include at least one row of evergreens. The evergreens are much slower in starting than the broadleaf trees but are long lived and will serve as a year long windbreak.

ORD CITY WILL ASK FOR BIDS ON DIESEL ENGINE

ed with the total energy contained in heat units in the coal which is burned to supply steam to the engine. Diesel engines, on the contrary, deliver 30 to 35 per cent of useful work with respect to the heat units in the oil supplied to them as fuel.

In viewing the fuels with regard to volume and weight, the same pamphlet reports, one 12,000 gallon tank car of fuel oil when used in a Diesel engine will do as much useful work as would be done by 16 or 8 car loads of coal if used in a plant of low efficiency.

Saving in fuel cost is the greatest argument in favor of installing a Diesel engine to replace Ord's present steam plant, says George Allen, light and water commissioner. At present the fuel cost per K. W. H. on the switchboard is the cost of a ton of coal, $5.25, divided by the number of K. W. H. obtained, or 25.25, or 20.325, thus $5.25 divided by 25.25 gives 1.65c as cost per K. W. H. The fuel oil cost per K. W. H. is obtained by dividing the price of fuel oil per gallon, 25c, by the price for 7 years by the number of K. W. H. obtained from a gallon, or 9, thus 4.25c divided by 9 gives 47c as the cost per K. W. H. as the cost per K. W. H. for fuel oil.

Ord's average coal consumption per month is 5 cars which average 50 tons each and cost at the mine approximately $250 and on which the freight charge is $4.25 per ton, adding approximately $200, thus making the coal cost about $1,250 per month delivered in Ord. With a Diesel plant we should require not to exceed 10,000 gallons of fuel oil monthly at a cost of $425 delivered in Ord. The saving in fuel cost would thus amount to about $825 monthly or approximately $10,000 per year.

Manager Allen points out that there are many economies that can be effected by use of a Diesel instead of steam and that Ord's total saving may well be $1,000 per month or more. Ever since it was proposed two years ago that a Diesel engine would be a wise investment in Ord Mayor Moses and the council have been studying the matter and have written to many Nebraska cities for information. A number of cities have, in recent years, made the same change that Ord is contemplating now and invariably their Diesel plants have paid for themselves in a very few years besides allowing almost immediate reductions in electric rates to be made.

A couple of weeks ago H. F. Lutz, a representative of Black & Veatch, visited Ord and met with the council, at which time it was decided to employ the Kansas City engineers to draw up plans and estimates of the equipment needed, supervise the opening of bids and the installation of the Diesel if it is bought. The Kansas City firm is nationally famous for its work along this line.

A 300 K. W. diesel engine is the size recommended by Ord's use by the engineers and it is this size of engine upon which bids will be sought. Such a Diesel is large enough to take care of Ord's needs for several years to come, permitting the present steam equipment to be used entirely as a "stand-by."

At least two manufacturers of Diesel engines are said to be willing, if their bids are accepted, to install an engine in the Ord plant without a cent of cash paid and take their pay from the saving in fuel cost that will result. Interest and certain finance charges would have to be paid by the city, however, if such a proposition should be accepted, so it is regarded as likely that the city will pay cash, or part cash, for the engine when it is bought.

It should be understood that no tax levy will be made to raise money to buy this engine, that no bonds will be issued, nor will any special assessments of any kind be made. The city has in its electric fund, created by earnings of the electric plant, more than enough money to buy the Diesel engine and all needed equipment. It is likely that bids will be advertised for next week.

BELIEVE TRADE OF RURAL MAIL ROUTES UNIQUE

Ray Brown, of Arcadia, Swaps Routes With Beatrice Man, Moves There Febr. 1.

BEATRICE, Feb. 4.—The trade of rural routes and properties by the carriers of the Beatrice and the other rural routes, is believed to be the only one on record where homes were considered in the deal.

The carriers who figured in the transaction, which became effective Feb. 1, are Glen W. Beaver of Beatrice, carrier of rural route No. 6 out of Beatrice for 16 years, and Ray T. Brown carrier of route No. 4 at Arcadia for 10 years. Both changed their residences and routes on Tuesday.

The reason for the transfer was that Mr. Beaver was seeking a longer route and found it. On the other hand Mr. Brown, who formerly resided in Beatrice, felt he could handle a shorter route to better advantage, and finally he negotiated the trade after it had been sanctioned by postal authorities at Washington, D. C., and Postmaster Adam McMullen of Beatrice.

"We are pleased with our trade," said the man after the transfer was closed, "and we hope it will prove beneficial and profitable to us both." Mr. Beaver, who operated a dairy on a small scale in south Beatrice for a few years, entered the government employ in 1908 as a substitute mail carrier and while a "sub" worked on all the routes out of Beatrice, except No. 5. There were seven routes at this point then. Sixteen years ago he was appointed carrier on route No. 6. He was born in Beatrice, son of J. F. Beaver, a pioneer.

Ray Brown was born near Cortland, son of Samuel Brown, formerly Sage county supervisor. He attended the high school, and 12 years ago went to Arcadia. After being there two years he was appointed rural mail carrier—Omaha Bee-News.

ORD MEN VISIT TOWLE, GET O. K. ON IRRIGATION

"There is no question but that the North Loup river has many times the flow of water required that its volume does not vary from month to month that the necessary pondage can be created and soil surveys have been made to prove feasibility of irrigation.

"If all our rivers were harnessed in Nebraska, it would produce but a very small percentage of electric energy used in the state, hence there can be no question as to the sale of the energy.

"Farmers taking irrigation, if they were so inclined, could not encumber their land to pay for the water but they can make such arrangements with the corporation after it is organized to take as much or as little water as they may want. It goes without saying that the corporation would not go to the expense of planning and constructing irrigation ditches unless there was a reasonable demand for them. They are for sale at any figure under such pressure, and before the organization of the company an investigation should be made as to its desirability.

"The North Loup river has all the natural specifications required in order to create one of these Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans. The next question that arises is whether the people who will be affected want it or not.

"If the people of the North Loup river valley are interested it is believed that there is a natural power site in the vicinity of Burwell that the water for irrigation purposes could be used from the pondage to be put at both ends of the North Loup valley including Mira Valley from Burwell to North Loup and that the water could be furnished to the farmers at a very nominal price and in the time of the year when it is most needed.

"The first step to be taken is the employment of an engineering company with competent electrical and irrigation engineers and it has been suggested that such engineering company should also have the proper ability to promote such enterprises. The expense of the engineering must be provided for by popular subscription before the application for the loan can be made. Any money that is subscribed for the engineering would merely be a loan of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

"At this time there is but one barrier that may occasion some little delay. There is a question among the powers whether we have the necessary legal machinery to create a corporation such as is required by the Federal Act, however, that is being taken care of since the bill in the legislature now that is being pressed for passage and which will create the organization necessary."

As explained by Messrs. Hardbrook and Bailey, this proposition is a logical and a profitable opportunity for irrigation in the North Loup valley that probably will ever be available. The Ord Chamber of Commerce is now in the habit of showing the project to the North Loup and Burwell and it is hoped that as soon as the weather moderates a joint meeting can be called to discuss it.

BELOW ZERO A Romance of the North Woods BY HAROLD TITUS

yes, but I'm powerless to shape the policy or direct the practice of that partnership! I'd give every dollar I have, Ellen, to see you personally at peace, but you will have no peace until Belknap has his way! He is out to buy this company at a figure even lower than I offer, and he finishes what he starts. . . . Now, what do you say?"

The woman spoke then. "I have only one thing to say, Paul. That the Richards properties aren't for sale at any such absurd price; that they aren't for sale at any figure under such pressure. They're in a tight place, well enough; they would have plenty to contend with in a fair fight, but you may take this word back to your Mr. Belknap; that the Richards company is going to keep on fighting, that it's not going to whimper; that if it finally goes down, after doing all it can to survive, it will be with the flag flying and the band-saw singing!"

"Take that word to your renegade partner, Paul, and don't come here with one hand extended in friendship and the other carrying a club!" Her voice, gentle at the beginning, had mounted, and her hard-fung defiance sent a pricking sensation through the Richards' chest. Some loyal employee—a bookkeeper, an office woman; a wife or daughter or sister of the Richards involved—had set Gorbel down with a joint.

"Behind that closed door, a low, sorry laugh and the sound of slow footsteps. A shadow crossed the lighted glass and Gorbel spoke again. "Ellen! . . . Ellen, dear! Don't you see that behind this is only one thing for me? Can't you understand that I'm risking all I've got just trying to help you in small ways? It's your own voice—roughening a bit—with passion. 'It's your own blood that's in it. I can't wait, I tell you, I can't.' 'Get back! Get away! Don't you dare touch me!'"

He called her name again, almost savagely. Feet scraped on the floor; a sharp cry as with a crash the light in the office went out and the glass in the door showed a blank for John Belknap. "Paul, get out of this office, I tell you! Get away. . . . away."

Fanic, now, in the tone and for the waiting that kills me. There was but one move to make. . . . The faint light from the hallway, further impaired by his own shadow as he poised there, hand still on the knob, revealed them. Gorbel lay on the floor at the man's feet as he was turning, relinquishing his hold on the girl's wrist, looking over his shoulder with a white, drawn face. He posed so a moment, staring at this intruder who showed only in silhouette. "Well!"—in sharp demand. Young Belknap did not move; did not reply for a moment. Then he said almost casually: "I happened to overhear you being so tight to get out. I opened the door for you."

Gorbel whirled to face him then, feet spread, arms held with stiff truculence at his sides. "And who are you?"—bright eyes flashing, striving to identify the shadowy face. "The chap who opened the door." "Well. . . . Close it, then, and tend to your own affairs!" To John shook his head. "No," he said. "Not until the light is on." He could see her standing in the deeper shadows where she had swiftly retreated on his appearance. She was backed against a filing case as though in need of support. "I don't hear her asking me to get out."

Gorbel's hands were knotting into fists. "You d—d eavesdropper!" he muttered. John took the few quick strides that put him face to face with Gorbel, so close to him that he could hear the man's quick breathing. "No names!" he muttered. "No names or any other talk. Are you going out on your own legs?" Gorbel swayed backward. His right hand swept the desk top, and with a growl John had the arm in one hand, twisted the man about and wrenched upward on the wrist until Gorbel doubled over with a cry. "Drop it!" "The devil with it!" "Drop it, I told you."

Gorbel struggled, but the lock on his wrist was secure. He bent forward as if about to fall, and then the door was closed, and the one was running down the steps to regain the balance that the other's shove had imperiled. At the bottom he whirled and lifted his face, normally handsome, now wrenching with rage. "You swine!" he cried. "You'll pay for this!" "Collect, then! But you stay away from here until you're sent for!" Get that! He closed the door and turned back to the office, removing his cap as he went. Brighter lights burned now, for a cluster in the ceiling had been switched on. The girl sat at a lighted desk in the middle of the room, pale, shoulders hunched, head bowed. He stopped, poised in surprise. She was the girl he had seen in the station waiting room, and with her coat and hat removed, a graceful column of throat, she was out of place in this office with its battered desks and dingy walls as a flower in a wood yard!

John spoke: "He called me an eavesdropper. I guess, in a way, he was right." "Fortunately, you heard," she murmured, and then looked up. "Oh! . . . Oh, I didn't know it was you." She brushed at her soft, short hair nervously and managed a sort of smile. "I wanted to tell you how. . . how sorry I am that the boys did what they did. . . . Won't you come in?"

She rose, and he could see that she was rallying her composure rapidly. "I feel like an intruder," he said, advancing. "I came over here on the chance that I might find the manager and ran into the late unpleasantness!" "I am the manager," she said simply.

And now surprise had him wholly, so completely that he blinked and laughed outright. "What! You. . . Why a girl in this mess?" "I guess that's what it is: a mess. Even strangers know! I am Ellen Richards. This was my father's company. I've been trying to carry on for over a year now, since he. . . since he died." "Oh!"—a bit drawn, this time, and in a sort of relief rather than amazement or stupefaction. Relief, because it was a girl on whom his father made war!

It simplified matters for a chafed partner, Paul, and don't come here with one hand extended in friendship and the other carrying a club!" Her voice, gentle at the beginning, had mounted, and her hard-fung defiance sent a pricking sensation through the Richards' chest. Some loyal employee—a bookkeeper, an office woman; a wife or daughter or sister of the Richards involved—had set Gorbel down with a joint.

Some loyal employee—a bookkeeper, an office woman; a wife or daughter or sister of the Richards involved—had set Gorbel down with a joint.

"And that. . . that's what brought you to Shoestring?" "Surely it was a surge of relief, the sudden dawning of an unlooked-for hope, which unsteadied her tone then!"

Well, now a young man can't lie, can he? Not to a girl who, for an instant and even through the concentration of a savage purpose, seems peculiarly lovely to behold? No. . . . This young man could not; but for the sake of attaining his goal he may evade a little, may he not?

"I've just finished one job. I don't know how good I am; I'd like to find out. When I heard of the jam you're in here—lifting one hand and giving it a little twist as though the explanation were self-evident—I thought it might be a good place to see what I'm good for. . . what I'm wound up for. . . moment of silence followed. He could see the pulses leap in her throat, and his own heart speeded a trifle. A girl in a corner should welcome such a chance, and he waited, anticipating that welcome, but it did not come. Instead of figuratively falling on his neck and hailing him as the savior of the day, she folded her small hands and looked at him with a gaze as searching as it was level.

"Perhaps you're asking for more than you understand. . . in the way of trouble, I mean. I need help and right away, but I wouldn't want any man to do the work for me without knowing just how desperate the situation is. That, you see, wouldn't be fair to. . . to the sort of man I need."

"People who have known this company for years figure that we are through. Even the men who do the job have the notion that we're marked paid. Perhaps they are right; I'm trying to prove them wrong."

"I. . . it might be simpler if I knew just how much you have heard. . . . He told her tersely the gossip he had listened to in the past hour, and she nodded slowly.

"Those things are all true. There's a fundamental problem of finance, however, which is behind all. . . . Belknap of Kampfest, now owned by Belknap & Gorbel, holds enough of our paper to make our statement look very bad. We can hope for nothing but embarrassing demands there. The only way we can meet these obligations and keep from being sold out to satisfy them is to keep the mill sawing. I can borrow on lumber in the yard from Milwaukee banks, largely because we have some very favorable contracts. However, our contracts will be voided unless we are prepared to meet their terms of regular and prompt deliveries. The way out now goes back to keeping the mill going, and to running. Things haven't been any too smooth at the woods end; you know what we are up against in the matter of transportation, evidently. We can't spend a dollar for more equipment. However, we can float with what we have. . . or go down."

She paused and John had a queer feeling; annoyance at her apparent competence. "Snow came early and we're going to have trouble with it. We have fourteen miles of railroad through choppings where drifting will be certain. I was worried tonight and went looking for you and Way-Bill—my engineer and conductor—to have them take the plow out if it didn't let up. That's how I happened to see your reception. The snow has stopped; we're safe for tonight. How long we're safe, no one can tell. Without fighting snow we've been unable to build up a reserve of logs in the millyard. A three-day shut down would ruin us."

She paused again and her eyes shifted a moment from his intent scrutiny. She talked like a man, a business man, but that change in her face indicated to John that she was playing up to a part, downing her weaknesses and limitations with an effort which gave her a superficial veneer of coldness, hardness.

"My things haven't been going so well in the woods. I kept Royce, my father's old superintendent, on because I could trust him absolutely and I. . . I need men I can trust—the shell she had built about herself giving way, ever so little for the moment. "We were just getting along when Mr. Belknap himself came to Kampfest. John's mouth tightened and his brow gathered closer.

"It seems to have arranged things very well. For a year Mr. Gorbel, his partner, has been asking me to put a price on the property. I have refused. After Mr. Belknap left, the process of forcing us out began. They overtaxed our railroad with their logs; then Mr. Belknap's hired thugs put my superintendent out of the picture. The camp foreman, Mark Saunders John's heart went down. . . . and then rebounded. Sandy's letter rested in his bill-fold. Good old Belknap! He had written a letter of character that he left out the once important, but now damning, third of his name! He picked up her last words: "Yes; a lot of matters a girl can't handle alone," but his steady gaze one her face was not one of sympathy or understanding. He was sizing her up, studying her in the light of a possible vehicle for that urge of vengeance. "Throwing your caller out was simple. May-

"Yes; a lot of matters a girl can't handle alone." "I understand you're looking for a woods superintendent and I'd like to take on the chore."

lin't up to the job. Two others who are good loggers won't come near that the story has got around that Tom Belknap is after the Richards' hide."

"That is the situation," she ended abruptly. "That's what a superintendent will have to confront. Who are you to do it?" He smiled despite the unpleasant conviction that this Ellen Richards was going to be amazingly hard to deal with, and reached into a pocket for his bill-fold.

"A fellow doesn't like to pollish his own medals," he laughed, a bit nervously, as he considered the thin ice on which he was treading. "I've only held one job that amounted to anything—fingering through the papers in the waiting room. I've had four years in forestry school, but the value of that remains to be proven, I suppose." He handed over Sandy's letter. "I don't know what you expect in the way of personal qualifications. I swear when it isn't always necessary; I smoke cigarettes; I've been known to drink some. I don't know all there is to know about hardwood logging by a long shot."

She was not reading the letter; watching him, instead, as though his words or manner intrigued her. "I'd be interested in this job principally because it would. . . would show what I could do, and I'm curious to know how good or how bad I am. I've done my best to size up my own shortcomings; as for the rest, I'll leave it to Sandy Melver"—gesturing towards the letter she held.

The girl's eyes dropped to the scribbled end of the note. It was coming now, he felt! She was going to jump at the chance of getting help! He leaned forward a bit.

"That's a fine letter, Mr. Steele," she said. "Which hill? . . . I don't know the company." She looked at him as if slightly puzzled and paused a moment. Then, decisively: "I'd like to have you go to camp with me tomorrow morning. After a few hours on the job I'll give you an answer."

She rose with a manner of dismissal, and John Belknap, masquerading now as John Steele, got to his feet, annoyed and confounded.

"Fair enough," he said; it was all over now as to say, "What time?" "Seven sharp, in the mill-yard. Good night. And once more, I thank you for. . . for what you did here."

"That was all right," he said. "I'd be glad to take on a row with a hand like Gorbel!"

Both houses of the legislature settled down to the actual business of law-making last week after a two-day orgy of bill introduction. Members of the house introduced 224 bills last Monday bringing the total number of house bills to 538 before the lid was clamped on the hopper at the end of the constitutional 20-day period.

World's Fair next summer was tossed aside by the house finance committee. Bills, which would legalize 3.5 per cent beer, contingent upon passage of similar measures by congress have been referred to the judiciary committee in the house.

Ernest S. Coats, Agt. ORD, NEBRASKA

In spite of the depression our company is going strong!

PROSPERITY MUST START ON THE FARM

The quickest way to break the back of the depression is to restore the buying power of the farmer. If this one thing is done a cycle of improved business will result, reaching into all other lines of endeavor.

The reconstruction of our distress must start at the bottom, not at the top, if we are to overthrow our business lethargy within a reasonable time. Farming communities are without buying power, merchants stock on shelves of despair at a low ebb, credit is tight and naturally so because of low priced commodities. Communities, such as ours, will not regain their purchasing power until prices of farm products are boosted.

When the farmer cannot buy, the manufacturer does not operate, his employees do not work and so the cycle of unemployment and business listlessness goes on in metropolitan centers. When the farmer buys, the merchant moves his goods and re-stocks his shelves from the manufacturer. Then the wheels start to turn.

So far we have witnessed a congress devoting its time to beer. And its time was wasted in this session. The important thing is not beer, it is business—the business of putting the farmer back on his feet. The froth on beer discloses no prosperity.

But take hope. Just now there is indication that congress intends to take up farm relief. The Domestic Allotment plan is coming up for consideration. There are arguments in favor and against it but we have reached the point where it behooves us to try something new. If it fails we will be no worse off than we were; if it succeeds we are ahead.

The allotment plan looks to improving the price on several farm commodities. It could be put into operation within a short time and improve the farmer's purchasing power at once. That done the farmer would be a good spender. He needs things; we all need something or other. The manufacturer would soon feel the results of our needs when the farm buying power is restored.

It wouldn't take much to start the cycle of business and industry on the upgrade if buying power were in the right place but until the wealth that comes out of the soil is recognized there will be no buying power and no prosperity. Better days will come to all who corn and hogs are put on a pin-nacle, not before—Express, Red Oak, Iowa.

There being no further business to come before the Mayor and Council of the City of Ord, Nebraska, at this time, it was moved by Councilman Sack and seconded by Councilman Palmatter that the Mayor and Council of the City of Ord, Nebraska recess until 7:30 p. m., February 14, 1932.

Attest:
Wm. H. Moses, Mayor.
Lucinda Thorne, City Clerk.

Ord Church Notes

Bethany Lutheran Church.
S. S. Kaldahl, pastor.
Sunday School at 10:00 a. m. English services at 11:00 a. m., with Rev. Kaldahl in charge.
Bible study at 8:00 p. m., on Feb. 11 at the church.
Luther League at 8:00 p. m., on Feb. 12 at the home of Jens Larsen.

Ord U. B. Church.
Sunday will be Educational day in the Ord U. B. church, following an annual custom. Supt. M. D. Bell will speak at services at 11 a. m. Senior and Junior Girl Reserves will attend and Hi-Y boys will come in a body. Members of the school board and all school patrons of the Ord and vicinity are cordially invited by the pastor, Rev. H. H. Spracklen.

Full Gospel Church.
We are very fortunate to have Evangelist Katherine Fischer, of Old Orchard, Maine, come to Ord for an evangelistic campaign. Although it was impossible for her to come when first expected, we are glad to announce that she will be with us Sunday, Feb. 12 and that the meetings will begin on that date and continue indefinitely.

She will speak on many vital subjects from the Word of God and we trust that you will come to hear for yourself the kind of Gospel we preach, whether or not it is Bible.

There have been afternoon prayer meetings every day except Saturday since the 12th of December, and we are glad to have her with us. We are therefore expecting it to be a real revival.

We will be greatly pleased to have our ministering brethren attend when possible to do so. Extending to them and all a hearty welcome.

W. M. Lamar, Pastor

Presbyterian Church.
Special meetings are now in progress at the Christian church. Everyone should co-operate to the fullest extent in making this occasion a joy to our community. Many of us believe that our present calamity will compel us to put more of the spirit and of the teaching of Jesus into every human relationship. "The lamp of the body is the eye; if it be of single use, the whole body shall be full of light." Matt 6:22.

Primary department ages from 3 to 8 meet in the basement of the Legion Hall 10: Junior department, ages 9 to 12 meet for worship in auditorium of Legion Hall 10: The class of boys and the class of girls having the largest attendance will be taken on a horse back riding party by Rev. L. M. Real. Young people and adult classes meet at the church for study at 10:30. Worship services at 10:45. Special music and sermon by pastor. Expression club 6:30. Evening services at the Christian church 7:30.

Methodist Church.
10:00 a. m., Sunday School. A good attendance last week considering the weather.
11:00 a. m., Morning worship. Those who enjoy a service of dignity, ritual, high grade music and a sermon will enjoy this hour.
6:30 Epworth League and Fellowship Prayers.
7:30. Program of negro spirituals, jubilee songs and patriotic numbers by the junior choir, followed by story of Way Down South in the Cotton Land, illustrated by stereopticon pictures.
Mrs. L. S. Auble has accepted the superintendency of the Junior Department of the Sunday School and will begin her work next week.
Mr. Finley is using the plan, for the time being, of having capable members of the class take their turns in conducting the study of the lesson. It is a mixed class of adults and young people, an excellent plan. Mr. Finley is a good organizer and knows how to keep people at work and happy.
The family supper last Sunday night was well attended and people were called away on account of the serious condition of the baby at Albert Haught's home. Mrs. Cummins stayed until Saturday. The baby was some better. Mr. and Mrs. John Williams and Everett were guests at Ed Hackel's Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hunt and son came in the afternoon and helped Mr. Hackel butcher a beef.
Mr. and Mrs. Beck of Scotia visited their daughter, Mrs. Carol Palser Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Collins were at Walter Finch's Saturday.
Mr. and Mrs. Will Fortis entertained their children and grandchildren Sunday at a family dinner.
Born to Mr. and Mrs. Archie Boyce Thursday, Feb. 2, an 8-1-1/2 lb. girl. Mrs. Opal Peterson is caring for the mother and baby. Dr. Norris was the attending physician.
Lawrence and Ralph Mitchell each took a cow down to the community sale Thursday at North Loup.
Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jorgenson have bought the place known as the John Wheeler place, where Frank Kucera now lives. They made the purchase of Mrs. Malotke and Paul. People of this neighborhood are very glad they are staying in the community.
Mrs. Jake Zwick and baby came to Loup City Friday and came home with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Johnson. They stayed until Sunday when Mr. Zwick and son came after them.
—Bert M. Hardenbrook was an Omaha business visitor Sunday, going to Lincoln Monday and returning home the next day.

ORD BOY TALKS OVER RADIO ON 4-H CLUB WORK

George Round, Jr., Is Guest Speaker On KFOR Program; Says Club Work Profitable.

George Round, Jr., son of Sheriff and Mrs. George Round of Ord and a student at the College of Agriculture, University of Nebraska, was the featured speaker on the KFOR station KFOR, Lincoln. He discussed various phases of 4-H club work on the "Nebraska Home Folks" program sponsored by a Lincoln business college. Miss Clara McClatchey, Valley county superintendent, also spoke on this program recently.

Young Round is intimately acquainted with 4-H club work because of the fact that he has been employed in the extension department of the College of Agriculture for several years while attending the college. Before that he was an assistant to County Agent C. C. Dale and also worked on the Quiz staff.

His address, which will be interesting to all Quiz readers, follows: "In times such as we are going through at present, people look toward the financial side of activities to see if they are worthwhile things to carry on. And many people are asking if 4-H club work is profitable or only benefits rural boys and girls in an educational way. The latter fact is established and now the question is whether it pays boys and girls to enroll in 4-H clubs.

"If you were a business man and your business grossed something like $402,000 in a year like 1932 and at the close of the year you found that you had made a net profit of nearly $80,000, after deducting all expenses, you would probably be inclined to believe that your business was profitable for the specific year. Such is the way Nebraska boys and girls were in their 1932 work—baby beef, sheep and poultry—felt in concluding their 1932 work.

"Records, and they are accurate, show that 4,000 boys and girls in pig, sheep, poultry and baby beef club members in 1932 made a profit of $78,000 after deducting the expense of feed, equipment charge, interest on investment and other miscellaneous expenses.

"During the year the boys and girls fed a baby beef, the cuts of which they buy when they go to the market and ask for choice small steaks, some pigs, sheep and raised some poultry to produce this profit. Some made more money than others, to be sure, and still others failed to gain financially.

"But then you ask how much did the club members make apiece on their projects. Figures show that the baby beef club members made an average net profit of $22.40 each, pig club members $19.86 each and sheep club members $17.34 each. These are average figures and you must realize that such baby beef club members as Mervin Aegerter of Seward county who showed the grand champion 4-H beef at the 1932 Nebraska State Fair made much more.

"Baby beef club animals alone made a gross return of $290,142 to the club members in 1932. There were 1,458 members in the projects. The boys and girls found that after deducting all expenses they had profited $31,753 for their work—and they did work during the year for they had to take care of their own animals, feed them, and show them. It was fun and it netted a profit to most members and kept them well occupied all year long. They feel, well satisfied.

"But the 'curly tailed porker' also made the boys and girls some money. They started keeping records on the pigs in March and April and kept this up until the fall months. The records show that the pigs brought or were worth $87,550 at the conclusion of the project. The boys and girls made a net profit of $35,211 from their year's work although they did have a great deal of fun along with it.

"Sheep, too, made some money in 1932. The sheep made the boys and girls $1,230 although there were but 153 members in the sheep project.

"Nebraska boys and girls did not neglect their poultry club work for there were 770 members in the various clubs. They found their project financially profitable during the year also. They started the chicks in the early spring months, studied production practices and had some of the pullets laying in the late summer months. The club members made $9,883 profit from the birds.

"But these boys and girls who were feeding the various animals were not on the only ones who benefited financially from their 4-H club work. The remaining 11,000 club members likewise received many benefits. Club lessons prepared and sent out through county extension agents by the agricultural college extension service helped show them how to organize themselves into easy working groups, how to be good 'sports', how to better raise their animals—and to 'make the best better' which is the 4-H motto.

"Four-H club girls also realized some benefit from the club work in 1932. There are 5,043 girls in the clothing clubs. They learned the fundamentals of making clothing while meeting in their own homes in the hours of local leaders in the neighborhood.

"Financial returns from various other clubs in home economics, dairy, corn and other projects cannot be accurately judged. But we cite you news releases from various papers in Nebraska that show answers the question of whether or not 4-H club work is profitable.

"An Associated Press dispatch from Lincoln says:
4-H Club Work Paying Own Way. Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 3.—Way county farmers believe 4-H club work is a paying proposition. They, together with the county, have invested something like $3,000 in the last three years for the promotion of the educational enterprise. Club members have received cash or its equivalent totaling $3,500 during the three year period.

Harold Besack, county club agent, discussed this report before the annual meeting of the Gage county club association which is headed by R. E. Dell of Beatrice.

Over 500 different boys and girls in Gage county have been enrolled in club work in the county during the three years. In all about 900 members, counting the duplications, have taken the work. Dairying has been one of the most popular projects with the rural youth.

"And here is another dispatch to a news paper which tells about 4-H canning club work in Fillmore county. It reads:
Work of Fillmore 4-H Canners Saved $601 Last Summer. Geneva, Neb., Feb. 3.—Fillmore county canning 4-H club members, twenty-seven in all, believe their canning work has been profitable during the past year. They believed that they saved $601.03 by their work. The club members canned 3,546 jars of food with an actual cost of $237.91.

Figuring the market value of the fruit at $88.34, they believe they saved $369.12. In addition, many prizes were won at both fairs by the 4-H club members. Thirteen of the eighteen Fillmore county jars sent to the national club congress won places.

Not only have the canning club members saved money for their respective families but the clothing club girls believe they have also been thrifty. The 155 girls enrolled in the project made 316 articles during the project year. Clothing club records show a decided decrease in the amount of money spent for the garments this year but high standards were upheld nevertheless.

"And here is a short note from Seward county that tells about the living expenses of the county did in a financial way during the past year.
"Seward, Neb., Feb. 3.—If 1933 will be as good to Seward county 4-H club boys and girls enrolled in livestock clubs as 1932 was, they will be satisfied.

The Seward county 4-H boys and girls enrolled in baby beef, swine and sheep clubs alone made a net profit of $2,377.17 for their year's activities. They grossed over $7,000. These are accurate figures based on the individual club members records for the year.

Though the baby beef club members hit a poor market with their stock last fall, they are going along with preparations for the coming year. Many calves are already on feed. Seward county produced the grand champion 4-H baby beef at the 1932 state fair. It was owned by Mervin Aegerter and was named "Philo."

"And here is some other news about the work done by other clothing club members in 1932:
Nebraska farm girls enrolled in clothing 4-H clubs have learned how to make neat appearing but costly garments and outfits. Miss Allegra Wilkens, assistant state club leader at the agricultural college, produced figures today to show that style show champions from all over the state made extremely nice looking outfits for a very low cost in 1932.

In the cotton sport dress section, the county style champions spent but $5.62 on the average for their entire outfit of underwear, shoes, hat, hose, gloves, beads, purse and accessories. The shoes cost the girls the most money of any single item.

As to be expected the cost of the silk sport dress was a bit more costly but the average was only $7.95. In the wool school dress section, the girls reported that it cost them $10.62 for their dress, underwear, shoes, hat and other accessories.

The average cost was the highest in the tailored afternoon, silk or wool dress outfit. It amounted to $12.18. Here again the shoes were the most costly single item. In the informal afternoon section the style show champions reported an average cost of but $8.82.

"How the clothing club girls are preparing for another year of 4-H club work. Last year over 5,000 girls from all parts of the state were enrolled in the clothing project.

You may judge for yourself whether or not these accurate reports indicate that 4-H work is profitable.

"Records of two of the four Nebraska 4-H delegates to the 1933 national club camp which is held annually at Washington, D. C., further show how club work helped these two boys.
"Burr Ross of Rosalie and Lawrence Leibers of Lincoln, the two boy delegates and both freshmen in the Nebraska College of Agriculture, know 4-H club work pays in a financial way.

"Burr has been in club work since 1928. During that time he has established himself as a leader in his community and has built up a herd of purebred hogs of his own that are second to none in northern Nebraska. The herd was valued at $2,000 in 1932. He credits his success in club work to the wonderful cooperation he received from his fellow club members, his county agent, the state club leader and above all to his father and mother.

"Likewise Lawrence has learned more about dairying during the time he has been in club work. He has taken advantage of opportunities presented him and today he has a herd of purebred Guernseys and operates his own dairy on the outskirts of Lincoln. He believes 4-H club work is profitable. All of Lawrence's hogs are tested annually and have made outstanding records in butterfat production.

"One of the other two delegates, Agnes Arthaud of Cambridge has also been spurred on to greater success. She was able to become a livestock farm manager. Malze Foreman of Palmyra, the other delegate, is a real poultryman.

"One must not conclude, however, that club work is only undertaken for profits. Surely it is a business organization but the boys and girls get more than dollar and cents value from it. Friendships, contests, leadership and character qualities developed through the work are of value to them.

"In closing allow me to quote from an editorial printed in the Falls City, Nebraska, Journal, a daily paper:
"To members of 4-H clubs are open many advantages which do not fall in the way of the average farm boy or girl. Announcement has just been made of the winners of 27 scholarships offered by the Union Pacific to 4-H members. This is one of the many advantages offered by various organizations to 4-H club members. Neighborhoods, communities, school districts which neglect to sponsor 4-H clubs for their boys and girls are overlooking a chance to give them many advantages of this kind."

"But Nebraska boys and girls are starting their new year with vigor and will probably have another profitable year."

Miss M. Katner of Brooklyn, N. Y. writes: "Have used Kruschen for the past 4 months and have not only lost 35 pounds but feel so much better in every way. Even for people who don't care to reduce, Kruschen is wonderful to keep the system healthy. I being a nurse should know for I've tried so many things but only Kruschen answered all purposes." (May 12, 1932)

To lose fat SAFELY and HARMLESSLY take half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—don't miss a morning—a bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle—but don't take chances—be sure it's Kruschen—your health comes first—get it any drugstore in America. If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back.

Observe 45th Anniversary.
Sunday was the 45th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Munn and in observance of the day their daughter, Mrs. Nels Bossen, and several friends planned a surprise party on them, going to the Munn country home in the afternoon with an abundance of good things to eat. There were fourteen guests and the afternoon passed very pleasantly. Mr. and Mrs. Munn were married forty-five years ago in Lancaster, Mo., coming at once to Ord and making their home here ever since. They had five children, of whom three survive. They are Mrs. C. H. Cooper, of Omaha, Mrs. O. M. McClure, of Denver, and Mrs. Bossen of Ord. Their two sons, Ernest and Wilson, died after reaching manhood.

Below Zero

He did not heed the slight huskiness that had been in her voice, indication that thinking back to her encounter brought a recurrence of fright. He did not care what went on in the mind or the heart of Ellen Richards except for what she might think or feel of him as an applicant for a chance to show his father, indeed, what he was wound on!

Personals

—Mr. and Mrs. Dan Needham were in Burwell Monday.
—Ray Cook and Martin Rasmussen each took a load of stock to Omaha. They went down Thursday, returning Friday.
—Monday Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foth who reside in the country were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Cook.
—Mr. and Mrs. Art Tatlow and children of Arcadia were visiting Sunday with the Elroy Staley family.
—Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Anderson and Betty were dinner guests Sunday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Haught.
—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Golka and daughter Mrs. Mary Powell, were Sunday all day guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Sternecker.
—Frank Curtis of Farwell was in Ord Thursday on business and visiting Charley Sternecker and family.
—Mr. and Mrs. John Blaha have moved into rooms in the Frank Blaha home. Frank and family are planning on moving soon to their farm about 15 miles northwest of Ord.
—Mrs. N. J. Johnson of Burwell visited her daughter, Mrs. George Anderson Sunday. Another daughter, Miss Florence Johnson and Miss Frances Smith brought her to Ord.
—Dean Wayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hulbert passed away Sunday at the age of eleven months and ten days. He was ill for several days with pneumonia. He leaves his parents, three brothers and two sisters. Funeral services were held Tuesday at 10 a. m. in Sowl's chapel, with Rev. Willard McCarthy in charge.

Saturday, Febr. 11
PROMPTLY AT 1:15 P. M. (NO LATER)

75 to 85 Head of Cattle

We will not have a large run of cattle, but the quality of the offering is very good. If you have any cattle to sell bring them in for this sale, the demand is very good.

HOGS

We need all the feeder pigs we can get. Considering the market they are selling very good.

HORSES

Here is a good market at which to buy or sell horses. They must be as represented or no sale.

and there; but all the time he was resting, up on the big, growing hourly more provoked with a girl who needed him, but who would keep him waiting?

But in late afternoon, when she led the way into the office, deserted for the moment, she changed; ceased to be the assured young business woman, filling a man's shoes more or less competently.

The crude office was silent, and John closed the door.

She dropped into a chair as though suddenly weakened and her mouth worked. Then she looked up with a wry little smile and asked:

"Well, what do you think of it?"

"Hay-wire!" he exploded. "It's slow, costly . . . a joke! No wonder you're in trouble, with a woods job run like this one!"

"Well . . . what would you do?" she asked, trying to put some tone of challenge into the words and failing.

He stood there and told her what he would do and why, item by item; told it emphatically, almost as though she were disputing him; told it with a thoroughness and his agility of interpretation.

She watched him, lips parting as his conviction carried him away and when he stopped, again standing before her, saying, "Those are a few of the things I'd do until I hang up more to do the things I'd do into the sunset, filtering through the naked tops of maple and birch and beech and her eyes misted.

"I'm glad you're looking for a hard job," John replied, calmly. "I think I think I'm going to depend on you from now on."

He laughed then, as a man will who is coming out of a fight.

"I'll do my best," he said.

Now, when a young man, wholly mad, is out to show what he can do, and who has had an opportunity of displaying his capacities dangled before his eyes tantalizingly for a day that seemed like a week, he is bound to go fast, once started.

Ellen Richards' new boss went like the wind, like fire, like a wild horse; by day the office at camp or in town and laid plans for further driving.

The winter's operation had been confined to best, he said, into which, because of the contour of the country, steel could not be laid at justified expense. The haul was along the bottom of this sharp depression to its lower end and thence up a hill, where a team worked every hour getting loads to the top. From there the sleighs doubled back on the high land, paralleling the first part of the haul to reach the landing.

Over this, it was, and at one point the steel came within forty rods of the rim of the ravine.

"We should be dumping right there!" John exclaimed to Saunders when he saw the pile of steel. "But we don't haul by airplane yet!" the foreman growled.

John said no more, but his mind was busy. In the mill-yard was an old steam loader, known as "Old Three," which was used three days later it was in the woods; men were building a road through the deepening snow straight up the side of that pot-hole and one to the adjacent steel. The teams were down, added to the brink of the steep pitch, and a cable bent to the drum.

Teams left off the long journey by ice roads, took their sleighs down the pitch to the skidways, brought them, loaded, to the foot of the incline, unhooked and came up ahead while the power of the Road's steam engine snaked the loads to the top.

The team was liberated for the haul; each sleigh was able to move an extra thousand a day; costs were cut. Daily the size of the decks at the new landing increased; log production was stepping up; amendments to point out line was being overcome, and as he stood on the third afternoon following the initiation of his new plan, John muttered tightly:

" . . . see what I'm wound on, Tom? See what I'm wound on, yet?"

Yes, the Richards operation had new life new vigor as long as John had his fingers on each phase, but a man can't be in more than one place at a time; each day has only its allotted hours.

He had had the train crew with him from the beginning and did not need to worry about getting the best out of what equipment he had there. Tucker, the roadmaster, was spry enough, eager enough, it seemed, but there were times when John felt that he could not wholly trust the man. Nothing he could put his finger on; no delinquency he could point out; just intuitive distrust.

He won Jack Taff, the barn boss as a stalwart friend by sitting up through one bitter night to help minister to a sick horse. The horse died, but its distress had not been John's primary motive in going without sleep. He needed the staunch support of his men, as any executive needs the faith and loyalty of those at his command. No business will succeed unless divisional heads are behind the management heart and soul; the backbone of an army is its non-coms.

But the uphill pull commenced to show progress. Forty thousand a day, John must put to the mill to keep the band-saw fed. He began to do better than this; by holiday time the reserve decked in the yard had crept up a trifle; a two-day cut was there, waiting for an emergency; a three, enough for four days.

Not time, yet, for a long breath, but time to let yourself hope . . . a trifle.

" . . . show you what I'm wound on," he growled between set teeth as he beamed on the boys. "Bring your deck instead of directly into the hot-pond."

Not time, yet, for a long breath, though. The night watchman at the mill reported that in making his rounds an unidentified skulking figure had been seen to enter the mill. A wrench was found, dropped in the doorway, and John put on a special man to guard Tiny's old relic, their only hope.

Three days later, running for one of the stiff grades with four beams on rollers, the boys fixed Tiny Temple looked back to see a splintered end of ties pop up through the snow to see the car take the ditch and go over before he could stop it.

Wrecking tools were in Shoe-string, and it was necessary to make the run in for jacks and replacers. They got the car back on and the track repaired, but a day was lost and the margin of safety for the mill shrank instead of growing.

Way-Bill and Tiny came to John. "A brake-beam on that car'd been monkeyed," he said. "The connecting rods are fixed by law and cannot be changed during present terms of office, we, the taxpayers, demand that our state legislature in joint session adopt a resolution that all state county municipal employees who are paid from tax and public moneys, voluntarily take and accept a 25 per cent cut in their salaries as a patriotic contribution to their state, and that we, the taxpayers, shall consider all officers and employees who shall refuse to take such reduction in salary as lacking patriotism in extreme emergency an unfit to hold public office at any further election."

"Was at a session of each house of the legislature. Would say this session is the most earnest one possibly the state has experienced. Our representative Harrison Gushing was very active and evidently was getting recognition. Visited Irl Tolen and had a very pleasant half hour. Irl seemed much interested in his job and is going to make good."

"Talked to different state officers. They hardly had time to say "Good morning" before they entered into a tirade about the bill before the legislature cutting state salaries 20 per cent from 1,000.00 to $250.00, 35 per cent from $250. to $50.00, and 50 per cent over $50.00. It was rather amusing to note how warm they got."

Yours respectfully,
C. E. Goodhand.

—Raymond Abernethy surprised his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Anderson by arriving at their home Tuesday evening. He was planning on coming later but on account of the severe weather he came now as the company with whom he is working had to lay off for a few days.

—Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Hans Andersen were dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Andersen.

TAX REDUCTION NEED OF STATE, LEAGUES STRESS

"Limitation by law of the state levying taxes on property for state purposes to 2 mills per dollar."

"Limitation by law of a county property tax for all county purposes to 3 mills per dollar of valuation."

"Removal of officials who spend more than 85 per cent of the tax levy, and for the officials to be liable for the same on their bonds."

"That the system of roads and bridges be placed on a self-sustaining basis by way of the gasoline tax and annual motor vehicle license fees, and that any further reduction be made by reducing or eliminating the annual motor vehicle license fee, and that not less than 50 per cent of all gas tax funds shall be apportioned to the counties, and that the gas tax funds shall not be used for any other purpose than to sustain the entire system of roads and bridges."

"That all extension departments of the university and all normal and professional schools shall be placed upon a self-sustaining basis by way of the required tuition charge to the student, and that the maintenance of the university be charged by the state to the several counties in proportion to the number of students attending from such counties, and that the funds necessary be certified by the state auditor to the county boards of the several counties who shall be authorized to levy the necessary tax therefor."

"Restrictions upon further bond issues or increases in mill levies either by increasing percentage of voters or requiring voters to be taxpayers of the entire personal property from valuation for bond issues."

"We propose the principle of having all back taxes, if and when collected, upon a lien for payments of warrants, judgments and bonds outstanding."

"We propose also reduction of mileage fees to a uniform basis of 5 cents per mile."

"That all salaries of state and county officers, and employees paid from taxes are entirely out of proportion to present economic conditions and the ability of the taxpayers to pay, and as some of the salaries are fixed by law and cannot be changed during present terms of office, we, the taxpayers, demand that our state legislature in joint session adopt a resolution that all state county municipal employees who are paid from tax and public moneys, voluntarily take and accept a 25 per cent cut in their salaries as a patriotic contribution to their state, and that we, the taxpayers, shall consider all officers and employees who shall refuse to take such reduction in salary as lacking patriotism in extreme emergency an unfit to hold public office at any further election."

RICKARD GIVES CERTIFICATES TO 4-H CLUB BOYS

Winners At Ak-Sar-Ben Stock Show Are Honored Monday By Exchange Secretary.

Four Valley county boys who won in calf club competition at the Ak-Sar-Ben stock show, the state fair and the Valley county fair were guests of honor at the Ord Rotary club's dinner Monday evening and were presented with Master Feeder certificates by F. S. Rickard, secretary of the Omaha Livestock Exchange, who made the presentations after an inspiring talk.

Orville Sorenson and J. C. Ward, of Arcadia, Dean Marks and Melvin Koelling, of Ord, were the four boys who were honored Monday. Floyd Rathbun, now of Elmira, N. Y., also won a Master Feeder certificate and it has been mailed to him.

These certificates are awarded annually by the Livestock Exchange to 4-H club boys whose animals place from 1st to 10th in each class at the Ak-Sar-Ben stock show or at the Iowa or Nebraska state fairs, Mr. Rickard said.

To win Master Feeder certificates young Sorenson won in Class B Angus, Floyd Rathbun won 8th and Dean Marks 10th in Class A Angus and Melvin Koelling placed 3rd in Class A Hereford, at the Ak-Sar-Ben show which was held in Omaha early in November.

J. C. Ward was presented by Carl Dale, on behalf of the Rotary club, with a silver cup offered by the club to the boy feeding the grand champion steer in club competition at the Valley county fair. The cup must be won two times to become the permanent possession of young Ward. A previous cup offered by Rotarians was won twice in succession by Floyd Rathbun and now is his property.

Other guests of Rotarians Monday evening were Clayton Ward, president of the Valley County Farm Bureau, and Clare Clement, leader of the Lucky Southside Baby Beef club.

Secretary Rickard's talk dealt with the organization of the Omaha Livestock Exchange, its purposes, its interest in 4-H club work, and the value of 4-H club work to boys and girls.

"The finest crop raised on the farm is boys and girls and the 4-H club movement is the greatest thing that ever happened for them," Secretary Rickard declared.

Blaha Garage Traded For Farm, Grabowski Brothers Lease Shop

Last Thursday Frank and John Blaha closed a deal with the Valley garage building in Ord to Mrs. Tom Zulkoski for her farm on the Valley-Garfield county line. The farm includes about 320 acres of valley land in this county and about 150 acres of grazing land in Garfield, subject to a mortgage which Blaha Bros. assume.

The Blaha boys have leased the repair shop in the rear of the garage to Anton and Leo Grabowski, who took charge at once. The first named has been employed in the Blaha garage for several years, while Leo comes to Ord from Columbus. The Grabowski brothers have bought the shop equipment, except the wrecker, and plan to do a general repair business.

Frank and John Blaha will continue their efforts to selling Buick and Pontiac cars, Goodyear tires and gas and oil.

Two New Directors For Farmers Store

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Farmers Grain & Supply Company was held Thursday afternoon at the Bohemian hall with about 150 voting members present. After hearing a statement of the company's condition, read by General Manager Heuck, stockholders proceeded to the election of directors. Charles Sterneck and Carl Koelling were elected, succeeding Fred Jackson and D. E. Strong, whose terms expired. Officers will be elected at a director's meeting to be held Friday.

Dr. Nay Is Fined $25.

Pleading guilty to a charge of assault and battery upon the person of Miss Mazie Fox, Dr. Lee C. Nay was fined $25 and costs in county court Wednesday morning. The alleged assault was made Jan. 17, according to the complaint filed by Marshall Covert. Dr. Nay is alleged to have twisted Miss Fox's arms, pulled her hair and otherwise injured her when he lost his temper over some remark made by Miss Fox. Several witnesses were present when the incident took place.

Judge Back on Job.

Judge J. H. Hollingshead returned Sunday from Omaha, where he had spent two weeks in a hospital, and Monday morning was back on the job in the courtroom. The Valley county judge had a strenuous time with his leg ailment but believes now that the trouble is over, which is good news to his friends.

Death Comes to Mrs. Frank Vodehnal, Valley County Resident for 51 Years

North Loup People In China-Jap War Zone

The present situation in China is more than a world problem to several North Loup people who are personally concerned about the safety of relatives.

Dr. George Thorgate, Dr. Grace Crandall, Rev. Eugene Davis and Mr. Shaw, all former North Loup people, faced the problem of going through both Chinese and Japanese firing lines in order to reach safety in the international settlement in Shanghai, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Dr. Thorgate is a brother of Mrs. J. A. Barber of North Loup. Dr. Crandall is sister of Mrs. G. L. Hutchins and Rev. Davis has numerous relatives there. Miss Shaw and Dr. Thorgate's wife are daughters of Rev. Shaw, a former North Loup minister.

Another woman in the party, Dr. Crandall's P. M. B. O. G., has many friends in North Loup.

Molzen's Tossers Collect 2 Scaps

Defeat Comstock and Burwell By Big Scores, Will Enter Valley Meet in March As Favorites.

Thanks to overwhelming victories from Comstock and Burwell this week, coupled with their consistent early season play, Coach Molzen's Ord basketballers will enter the Loup Valley tournament, here early in March, as the favorite. Preliminary games gives Danneberg and Sargent the edge, with Ord trailing a little but with good chances to win.

Friday evening the Ord cagers won handily from Comstock, the score being 27 to 8. Second team men played a good share of the game, as Coach Molzen was saving his best team for Burwell in anticipation of a hard game Saturday evening.

The Chanticleers were going great guns in their clash with Burwell and won 28 to 9. The victory over the defeat suffered in football last fall. Burwell made only two field goals during the game.

The two Lashmetts boys, Everett and Donnie, were the scoring lumina in the game, with Comstock and Burwell games. In the latter clash Donnie scored 11 points and Everett 10. Ord team work was functioning smoothly and Kenneth Nutter, who returned to the team Friday after several weeks absence with a broken wrist, helped materially.

"The boys handle the ball nicely but their basket shooting is off," Coach Molzen told the Quiz this week. He is drilling his pupils strenuously on basket shooting this week in preparation for a game with Scotia here tomorrow night. Games with North Loup and Sargent come next week and the Ord team closes its regular season Feb. 27 at North Loup. The Loup Valley tourney will be played here Feb. 29, March 1, 2, and 5.

Davis Badly Injured In Fall From Horse

J. Davis, who lives on the old Sharp place in Rosevale, was quite badly hurt Sunday when the saddle girth broke and he fell from the horse he was riding, striking his left shoulder on the frozen ground. His left collarbone was broken in several places and two or three ribs were fractured. After the accident Mr. Davis managed to walk to Theodore Nelson's where Dr. H. N. Norris was called to attend him.

Williamson Out On Bond.

DeWitt Williamson, former employee in the Ord postoffice, was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Cleary in Grand Island Monday and was released on bond of $500 pending trial for embezzling postal funds.

Goodhand Files For Supervisor

Charles Goodhand has filed on the Republican ticket as a candidate for Valley county supervisor for the 4th district. E. C. James, present incumbent, also seeks the republican nomination for the same office.

Respected Ord Woman Dies Monday At Age of 81; Leaves Spouse, Many Descendants.

Mrs. Frank Vodehnal slumbers peacefully today in the land she loved. This fine woman, born eighty-one years ago in Sucha Lhotka, Litolmal county, which lies in the state of Chrudim, Bohemia, passed away Monday at her home in Ord and yesterday was laid to rest in the Bohemian cemetery after funeral services conducted by Rev. E. A. Miller of Bohemian hall. A huge gathering of neighbors, friends and relatives was present to honor her at the last rites, as Mrs. Vodehnal was one of Valley county's best known and best loved Bohemian-American citizens.

Miss Anna Janda was born Oct. 20, 1850 and her girlhood was spent in her native land. On Oct. 28, 1872, she was united in marriage to Frank Vodehnal and four years later she and her husband came to the United States, which they soon learned to love with a deep affection seldom felt by people who have been born here and know nothing of other lands.

Mr. and Mrs. Vodehnal lived in Tama county, Iowa for a time after arriving in this country but in 1889 they moved to Valley county and bought the Gruber homestead in the west part of the county.

Times were hard in those early days. Hall caused poor crops some years and it was difficult for Mr. and Mrs. Vodehnal to pay off the $300 mortgage they assumed when they bought the homestead. But they did pay it off, acquired more land and raised a fine family of boys, all of whom live in the Loup valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Vodehnal were born six boys and a girl and it was a great grief to them when their daughter, Emma, passed away in March, 1897, at the age of ten. The passing of one of their sons, Joseph, in 1905 also brought deep sorrow but five sons grew to manhood and, with their husband, survive the wife and mother. All of the boys are respected farmers, Frank, John, Henry and Emil living near Ord and James living near Burwell. Twenty-five grandchildren and five great grandchildren also are left to mourn, as well as one brother in South Africa and a sister in Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Until March, 1920, Mr. and Mrs. Vodehnal continued to live on their farm west of Ord but at that time they moved into a comfortable modern home and the years since have been happy ones. In 1922 they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary and each year since the children have gathered with their parents to do them honor on the occasion of their wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Vodehnal enjoyed the best of health until the last year or so, when encroaching age leveled its tribute. In spite of her age and ill health she remained cheerful until the end, taking pleasure in the companionship of her husband and in the frequent visits of her children and grandchildren. She was a good neighbor, a loving wife and mother, always kindly and hard working, of real pioneer stock, and her passing is mourned by everyone who knew her.

Firemen Clear $100 At Annual Affair

There was a hot time in the old town last Friday evening for members of the Ord Volunteer Fire Department, with the assistance of more than three hundred friends, were holding their annual ball at the Bohemian hall.

About 150 couples, besides firemen, were present and to music furnished by Cronk's Orpheas a long evening of modern and fashionable dancing was enjoyed. Fire Chief Shirley was there in all his glory as master of ceremonies and Colonel Albert McMinden functioned with his old time efficiency as caller for a series of square dances.

The firemen's ball has been held about this time each winter in Ord for the past forty-four years and always it is the big event of the social season. This year was no exception for firemen decided to donate net proceeds of the ball to the Ord Welfare Board to help that organization aid the needy. After all expenses of the ball were paid the fire department had about $100 to turn over to the Welfare Board and it was greatly appreciated.

Graveling Is Completed.

The work of graveling No. 11 highway between Ord and Elyria was completed Friday by the Burwell firm of Cram & Verley, who had the contract. Graveling between Elyria and Burwell was finished last fall so this year the link between the Calamus river and Grand Island, giving an all-weather road all the way down the Lopp valley.

Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Miller entertained at dinner. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goodhand and the latter's daughter, Mrs. Johnson, and her little daughter, and the Misses Elva Bloodgood and Wilma Blanchard.

WM. RITCHIE, JR. LAMBASTS GOV. BRYAN IN TALK

Charges Governor Betrayed Farmers In Repealing Code, Which Has Doubled Taxes.

Charging that Governor Bryan betrayed farmers who elected him when he vetoed code repeal in 1923 and that he again betrayed them last year when he failed to bring about a decrease in the assessment valuations of farm property, Wm. Ritchie, Jr. made a vigorous talk at the Weller sale barn here Saturday afternoon. Mr. Ritchie is a democratic candidate for governor.

The Code system is seen by Mr. Ritchie as the cause of a huge tax increase in Nebraska. Taxes have doubled since the code was first put into effect in 1919, he says and in 1923, when a republican legislature repealed the code law, Bryan vetoed the repeal.

Repeal of the code and return to the more simple governmental form of Governors Shallenburger, Morehead and Neville is promised by Mr. Ritchie should he be nominated and elected governor.

His talk last Saturday was made under novel conditions, as he preceded the regular afternoon sale and the bawling of cattle and squealing of pigs interspersed his remarks. Taking full advantage of these surroundings, Mr. Ritchie devoted his whole talk to taxation and promised huge reductions if nominated and elected.

The law under which property is assessed at its real value instead of 20 percent of its value is seen by Mr. Ritchie as another cause of high taxes and he promised a revision of this law if he is elected and given a legislature that will carry out his program.

Governor Bryan was lampooned for his failure to vote for reduction in farm valuations when he had an opportunity to do so as a member of the state board of equalization. The governor's vote for reduction in the valuation of pipe lines also was assailed.

Mr. Ritchie was introduced by Crawford J. Mortensen, a schoolmate of his, when both were attending the state university.

Protest Killing Of Pet Dog By Covert

Appearing before the city council last Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Olof Olsson made a formal protest against the killing of their fox terrier, Happy, by City Marshall L. W. Covert a few weeks ago. The Olssons had no license for their dog, they revealed, but because only seven such licenses were taken out in Ord last year they assumed that the license law was not being enforced. They protested against Marshall Covert being paid the customary fee of $1.00 for killing their dog.

Mayor Moses and city councilmen expressed regret over the incident and said that later a new dog ordinance might be drawn, requiring the marshal to impound dogs for two or three days before putting them to death. Such an ordinance would give dog owners a chance to claim their pets upon payment of a small fee.

Hamilton Resigns As Police Judge

After years of service as police judge in Ord, Wm. Hamilton last Friday tendered his resignation to the city council and it was accepted. Ill health was Mr. Hamilton's reason for resigning. He has been confined to his home most of the winter and is bedfast part of the time.

Councilmen appointed Wilson Bell as successor to Mr. Hamilton.

Valley County Auto Owners Are Buying 1932 Plates Rapidly

Valley county is a bright spot on the map of Nebraska so far as early purchases of 1932 auto license plates is concerned, reported Geo. Mayo, state auto inspector, who visited Ord Saturday. He told Sheriff George Round that auto owners here have bought 1932 plates at a more rapid rate than in most counties.

County Treasurer Satterfield reported Tuesday that 2,100 sets of plates have been sold here. Last year the total registration for the year was 2,900 but Mr. Satterfield does not expect as many this year because many owners of two cars are buying plates for only one and leaving the other in the garage. Plates are still going out at the rate of fifty sets a day, he says.

Mrs. Hiram Pettys and her twin sons were able to leave Hillcrest yesterday and go to their home in Burwell.

Doran Enters Race Against Simmons

Guy V. Doran, publisher of the Telegraph at Sidney, Nebr., last week announced his candidacy on the democrat ticket for congressman from the fifth district, the position now held by Robert Simmons. Doran is a native of western Nebraska, spending his early years on his father's ranch there and after graduating from the University of Nebraska he went back to Sidney to enter the newspaper business. He is a former director of the Nebraska State Press association.

Dr. John R. McCoy, of Alliance, also announced his candidacy on the democrat ticket recently. McCoy was badly beaten by Simmons at the last election.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORHOOD

Invitations are out for a reception in the Capron home next Monday in honor of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Capron.

Members of the Ord Dancing club enjoyed their final dance of the season Tuesday evening in the Masonic hall, about forty couples being present. Music was furnished by Bud Auble's orchestra. The club will hold no more dances at least until Lent is over.

Sunday a number of relatives and friends of Mrs. Elvina Clement held a surprise farewell party at her home, an abundance of good things to eat to the Clement farm home. Mrs. Clement and her daughter, Mrs. Will Dittman and family, are leaving in a few days for Long Beach, Calif., to make their home. Mrs. Clement sold a portion of her property at an auction held Tuesday.

The Women's Missionary society of the Christian church met with Mrs. A. S. Koupal Thursday evening. Following the business and worship period conducted by Maggie King, the time was given to Miss Marjorie Hostetter to tell of her work in a girl's school of Turkey. All present expressed themselves as being very grateful to her for giving them this very enjoyable hour. Mrs. Geo. Russell and Mrs. Alfred Sorenson were visitors. Mrs. Koupal, assisted by her daughter Ruth, served refreshments during the social hour. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Carlton and Miss McCune will be the leader of the lesson.

Wednesday afternoon the Presbyterian Missionary society held an interesting meeting in the home of Mrs. Dick Nelson. A good attendance of members and visitors were present. Five new names were added to the roll. Miss Jennie Powers of St. Edwards was the treasurer of the Kearney Presbytery and was a guest and gave a short talk. The topic for discussion was the American Indian. Mrs. E. H. Pettit led the lesson, assisted by Mrs. Charles Goodhand, Mrs. J. C. Ollison, Mrs. C. E. Johnson and Mrs. C. J. Miller. A playlet illustrating the good work being done by the missionaries among the Indians was given by Mrs. L. M. Real, Mrs. Wilford Williams, Mrs. Marjorie Sorenson, Mrs. C. E. Johnson, Mrs. Clyde Baker and Mrs. R. V. Sweet. The annual election of officers took place at this time with the following result: Pres. Mrs. Guy Burrows; V. Pres. Mrs. O. E. Johnson; Secy. Mrs. C. J. Miller; Treas. Mrs. Everett Pettit.

No Fund Check Charges.

I. O. Ellenwood, of Ericson, is charged with having written a no fund check for $25.29 and bought groceries to that amount at the Skaggs Safeway store, in a complaint filed in county court here Tuesday. Ellenwood is said to have written two other no good checks in Ord, the total involved being about $64. He has not yet been arrested.

Attend Legion Meeting.

Ord delegates to the Sixth District American Legion and Auxiliary convention held in St. Paul Monday were Rev. L. M. Real, Mrs. Alfred Weigardt, Mrs. Warren Lincoln and Mrs. C. J. Mortensen. Mrs. Mortensen had a part in the program. A successful convention is reported, about 200 being present.

Ericson Man Passes On.

W. D. McLaughlin, of Ericson, well known in Ord, is dead. A special car was sent to Ericson to take him to Lincoln for treatment Friday morning but he died in Aurora. Mr. McLaughlin had been ill for over a month.

Warm Weather Takes Snow Off In Hurry

The heavy coating of snow that has been on the ground here since before Thanksgiving went off in a hurry last week-end and this week. The cold weather broke Friday and since then, with the exception of Monday, ice and snow have been thawing. Roads are almost impassible, travelers report, because of mud and water.

Happilate Club Met Tuesday Evening with Miss Florence Anderson.

The Happilate club met Tuesday evening with Miss Florence Anderson.

Rats in Mail Sacks Add Hazards To Mail Carrying

Add to the dangers of a mail carrying job nothing less than rats in mail sacks.

Saturday morning as Dutch Blessing plunged his hand into a mail sack in preparation for his daily task of sorting mail for patrons on Rural Route No. 1, a huge rat ran up his sleeve. He gave a shout that bought other employes hurrying to the rescue, then danced an impromptu jig and fell over on a table. Mr. Rat escaped through a hole in the floor.

A year or so ago another Ord mail carrier, J. D. McCall, found an owl in a rural mail box, much to his discomfiture, but this is the first experience Ord mailmen have had with rats.

Postmaster Clements is considering the purchase of a rat terrier for the use of the Ord postoffice, providing he can get the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General to O. K. the expense.

NEW BURLINGTON PLAN GENERALLY APPROVED IN ORD

Freight Service Will Continue As At Present, Motor Will Arrive In Morning with Mail.

Plans of the Burlington railroad to shift trains on the Burwell-Palmer branch changed again last week, when Superintendent F. R. Mullen and other officials submitted a tentative proposal that so far appears to meet with the approval of most Ordites. Freight service will be continued as at present under the new plan but the passenger train service will be almost reversed from the way it is at present.

The new plan calls for departure of the Burlington motor from Aurora at 4:01 each morning, arriving in Ord about 7:35 and in Burwell at 9:15. Mail, express and passengers will be carried on this motor. After a brief stop-over in Burwell the motor will return, running as far down the line as Greeley and then making a side trip to Ericson before continuing on down the line to Aurora.

Original plans announced two weeks ago called for the removal of the motor with a steam train substituted, the train to be a mixed freight and passenger train. Daily freight train service would have been discontinued and a three times a week freight substituted. This plan met with objections and was abandoned.

The principal objection to the new plan is that passengers will have to lay over in Greeley for about 1 1/2 hours while the motor makes its side trip to Ericson. Railroad officials point out, however, that connections with main line trains still will be made at Aurora.

Whether the railroad will submit this schedule to the railway commission and ask for permission to put it in force or whether still another schedule will be worked out and submitted hasn't been determined definitely as yet, Agent Henry Frey states.

Cushing Candidate For Representative

The Hon. Marlon J. Cushing yesterday served notice that he is again a candidate for state representative in the 77th district when he filed on the republican ticket. This district, which is composed of Valley and Garfield counties, has been represented by Mr. Cushing at the last two regular sessions and in two special sessions. He is without opposition on either ticket so far.

Tomorrow is a 'world day of prayer' and a special union prayer service will be held at the Presbyterian church with Mrs. A. S. Koupal as leader. It is an afternoon meeting and everyone is invited.

SITUATION IN DROUTH REGION MORE SERIOUS

More Fortunate Counties Must Help More Rapidly; Three More Counties Need Aid.

The situation in Nebraska's drouth-stricken area becomes more serious as winter wears on, state papers say, and more fortunate portions of Nebraska must increase their relief efforts. Three more counties have been added to the drouth area, Dixon, Pierce and Thurston, where a partial crop was raised but where due to the severity of this winter supplies are exhausted.

Ord's first relief carload went out last Friday morning. It was a large automobile car and was packed to the top with hay, grain, flour and sacked feeds. Robert Kopp, manager of the Noll Seed Company, says contributions for Ord's next carload are coming in nicely and that he hopes the next car can be shipped within a week or ten days.

The American Legion, which is co-operating with the Quiz and Noll Seed Company in the Ord drouth-relief drive, made a telephone campaign in rural districts Monday and donations are beginning to come in as a result of this campaign.

The last of this week Legion members will canvass Ord to solicit drouth relief contributions, says E. L. Vogeltanz, commander of Ord post. In the meantime anyone wanting to help may leave cash donations with the Quiz, Mr. Noll, at either Ord bank, or with any of the following Legion members: Emil Fafetta, Horace Travis, Rev. L. M. Real, John Goddard, Iga Klum Jr., James Ollis, Dr. Blessing, E. L. Vogeltanz, Edwin Clements, Ernest Achen. All contributions will be acknowledged in the Quiz.

Donations made since last week and not previously acknowledged include the following:

- Joe Waldmann, 5 sacks flour.
- S. W. Roe, ton of alfalfa.
- Wm. Wilson, 3 sacks oats.
- Harry Brasley, 2 sacks feed.
- A. C. Wilberg, bundle clothing and sack flour.
- H. D. Stowell, Sr., sack flour.
- Henry Koelling, $10.
- Elizabeth and Barbara Lukesh, $2.00.

- Walter P. May, $2.
- A Friend, $5.00.
- Ord Quiz, $3.00.
- Well Wisner, $4.00.
- Elsie Weigardt, $2.50.
- Dorothy Sorenson, $2.50.

Everything in the food line for humans or animals is needed in the drouth area. Hay, grain, feeds, flour, smoked meats, beans or anything that will not be injured by cold will be greatly appreciated. Ord must do its part in helping the Nebraska drouth sufferers. Co-operate with the American Legion and the other sponsors by doing your share.

Eighty Present At Benefit Bridge

The Pythian Sisters benefit bridge party Wednesday evening furnished about 80 people with a pleasant evening's diversion, as well as adding approximately $12 to the money available for charity by the organization. Although it had been planned to provide rock tables for those who did not wish to play bridge, nothing but bridge was played Wednesday night. Carl Sorenson won first prize among the men bridge players, and Miss Frances Bratt was awarded first prize for ladies. Low score for men was won by Brick Smith, and among the women Helen W. Worden proved to have low score.

Refreshments served consisted of fruit jello and home made cake, both delicious. The party committee included Mrs. Opal Kosmata, Mrs. Lucile Tolon, Miss Frances Bratt, while those on the food committee were Mrs. Alta Petersen, Mrs. Mina Sorenson, Mrs. W. McGinnis, Mrs. Alyce Blessing is head of the organization this year and was in general charge of arrangements.

The party was much enjoyed, and another one will probably be held before long in answer to the earnest request of many who were ill and could not attend this benefit bridge.

Dr. C. W. Weekes, who has been laid up for over a month since he underwent major operation, was at his office Wednesday morning for the first time. He was there for only a few minutes, as he is very weak from his long illness, but he is recovering rapidly now.

Sunday Mrs. David Wigent had a birthday. Her children remembered the event and all gathered in the home and celebrated the day. They brought the dinner and gifts. A son, Will Wigent, of Chicago, who could not be with them, remembered his mother with a letter and a nice gift.

DISCOURAGING HOARDERS.

Rarely these days do we find ourselves in accord with the policies of President Hoover but in his new campaign to discourage the hoarding of money we join the chorus.

It is a patriotic duty to restore to circulation money that has been hoarded. There is, at present, a total of $1,300,000,000 in hoarding, hoarded away in hip pockets or in buried tomato cans or in a thousand and one other hiding places.

Hoarded money helps no one, least of all the hoarder. It draws no interest, creates no new money, stimulates no new business, enhances no property values.

Let's make it a patriotic duty to restore to circulation any hoarded dollars that we may have. An orgy of buying is not advisable—we tried that and look where it got us. All that is needed is wise investment or replacing of hoarded money in strong banks or other savings institutions.

A huge task has been set us by our president, the task of restoring confidence. When the task is done, as it will be done, prosperity will return. Buy, spend, invest those idle dollars and do it now.

Governor Charles Bryan's record in the north Nebraska drought relief crisis is one that our state executive probably would prefer to have unread.

Last summer, when it became apparent that the drought area would require much assistance, Governor Bryan turned down offers of help from the national Red Cross and from all agencies outside the state.

When the time when assistance was needed arrived nothing had been done. No organization had been perfected to feed and shelter thousands of people and suffering hordes of livestock.

When the crisis is over, then Bryan will come into his own. He will be the one who has been particularly black. Asked to call a session of the legislature for the purpose of appropriating funds for feed loans, he quibbled. It was bankers, not farmers, who were asking for help, he cried.

But the record is made. Governor Bryan cannot change it. The past few weeks constitute a black page in the Bryan history and citizens should read it carefully before they vote again.

A DEBT OF SOCIETY.

What debt does society owe to a man who, though innocent of committing a crime, is found guilty by a jury and serves in a penal institution until someone else confesses to the offense or circumstances reveal that the one serving the sentence is innocent?

Will a "public apology" square the debt, should the innocent victim be compensated for the time he has served, or should he receive a sum of money commensurate with the degradation heaped upon him as a result of the wrongful accusation?

Nebraska has just such a decision to make in the case of Alvernon Lytle, who was accused of robbing a bank at Minden, found guilty by a jury in spite of his protestations of innocence, and sentenced to serve from 12 to 15 years in the state penitentiary. That he did not receive the full term was about only because another man confessed himself to be the robber instead of Lytle. As it was, Lytle served almost two years of the sentence.

Such instances have occurred in the past and usually the victim is released from many years of imprisonment with nothing more than a half-hearted apology. The best years of the victim's life may be gone, he may be poor and friendless, his reputation has been blackened. While in prison he may have, through his enforced consort with more vicious men, acquired habits that may wreck his life and imperil even his hope of salvation.

Occasionally legislatures have voted to such victims a sum of money as part payment of the huge debt owed to the society. Such action should be taken in the case of young Lytle, though money alone never can repay him for his mental suffering and for the suffering brought to his family in the past two years.

WHO OWNS THE AIR? The recent ruling by the Federal Radio Commission that radio stations need announce their call letters only every half hour instead of every fifteen minutes revives and directs attention to a question that has been puzzling radio fans for a long time: Who owns the air? Is it the property of commercial interests who may appropriate all broadcast channels and use them to foist their advertising upon an impatient public? It would almost seem so and it would also seem that commercial interests own the Federal Radio Commission.

DX-ers and other varieties of radio bugs will be displeased at this new half hour ruling if it is generally followed by radio stations. Station announcements fifteen minutes apart come more often when one is trying for distance or is logging stations, and those practices form a good share of the fascination of radio listening.

Advertising is becoming all too prevalent in radio, as the big popularity of listeners will agree. Chain programs are now about 20 percent advertising while such stations as KMMJ, KMA and many others use as much as 55 percent of their time on the air for advertising purposes.

There are several bills before the House and Senate at present designed to curb the radio advertising evil. Most sensible of these appears the bill proposed by Senator Dill which would compel advertisers to pay a tax of certain amount for each minute of advertising broadcast, while music, etc., would be tax-free. Such a bill should have a tendency to regulate the amount of advertising spots broadcast and protect the interests of a public that buys high priced radio sets and then must accept what is given it in the way of entertainment.

Radio must put its house in order. If necessary requires it will be done by federal supervision but how much better it would be if the public itself control radio would do the regulating of their own accord and not require the government to do it.

EMBARRASSED BRITAIN. How embarrassed Great Britain has been since the certain American statesmen proposed that the two nations co-operate in an economic boycott of Japan as a means of ending that nation's aggression in Manchuria and China. These statesmen apparently do not know that an economic boycott means, Great Britain does.

Japan, confronted by a Chinese boycott, attempts to end it by force. In India exactly the same measures are being pursued by Great Britain for similar reasons.

Now could Great Britain join with the United States in a boycott of Japan, when she is fighting to end a similar boycott in India? Senator Borah, chairman of our foreign relations committee, is wise when he refuses to consider a boycott. The way to end a quarrel is not by starting a new one and it is certain that Japan would be seriously offended by a commercial boycott. War would be almost certain to result for an economic boycott is one of the most dangerous implements of war.

KEEPING THE COUNTY AGENTS. The increase in farm efficiency in the United States the last fifteen years has been due in no small measure to the county agricultural agent system, as believes the Christian Science Monitor.

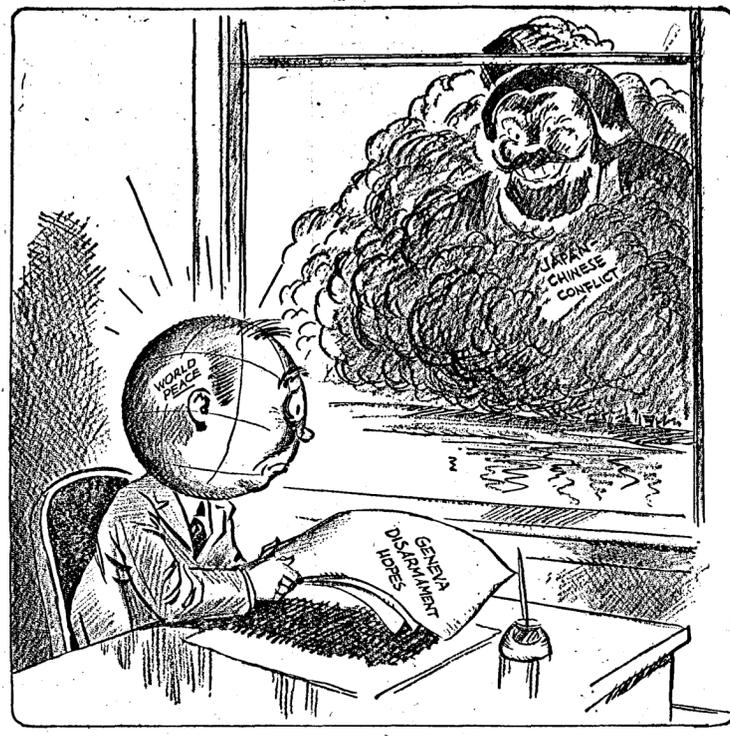

Though the Monitor bases its belief in the county agent system primarily upon the beneficial effect the system has in modernizing farming, it seems to us that the social benefits accruing from the system are even more important.

Hundreds of boys and girls in Valley county, hundreds of farm housewives, gain educational and social advantages each year from the county agent system and all that it stands for. The 4-H clubs with their high standards are an outgrowth of the county agent system and would not exist were the system done away with.

For the farmer, the county agent is the connecting link between laboratory experimentation and actual use. Many of the new ideas in feeding livestock and in farming land to the best advantage were originated at experimental stations and would not come into general use for many years were it not for the county agent, who keeps in touch with the newest developments and then brings them to his constituents and helps put them into actual use.

Even as a temporary economy measure in the present crisis, the county agent system should not be dispensed with, the Quiz believes.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

When a long-time Quiz subscriber remarked the other day, while paying his subscription, that they couldn't get along without the paper, I asked why? He stopped writing a check and said: "Well, you get most of the news of the whole county; I like the editorials and the public pulse; we all like the correspondence; the kids like the funnies; the women like the society, cookery, etc.; we all read the agricultural news and the ads. I guess that's reasons enough. Here's your check and the Mrs. said to get a calendar."

Randall Mensing dropped in Saturday to pay for a year of the Quiz and I could hardly realize that Art had such a grown-up boy. He reminded me a lot of his father 30 or more years ago and unless I am mighty mistaken he is a mighty fine young man.

Now is the time, if you have not done so before, to protect the roses and the tulips. From now on we are likely to have freezing and thawing and a few inches of strong manure now will hold the ground in fine shape.

Just remember that we at the Quiz office are having a struggle too, and if you are not in shape to pay your subscription a year in advance, send in a part of it. The boys in the back office have to have their money each Saturday night.

I believe the best way for this country to stay out of the China-Jap war, is to tell all the American citizens to pack their personal belongings and get on the boat, then bring them home. One week of war would cost this country more than all our holdings there.

We have had quite a lot of real winter but we have not had much unusual weather like they have been having in California, thank goodness.

It is time for the garden club folks to get organized. With the fine showing made last year surely we want to keep the good work going.

Brisbane says many will regret that Albert B. Fall has finally been denied a pardon. I don't believe there will be any great regret. A year and a day in prison is a very light sentence, even though he was also told to pay a fine of $100,000 for the crime he committed. It is an awful mistake to sock the poor, friendless criminal and let the rich man off with little or no punishment.

Al Smith says he is not going to make a fight for delegates to the democratic national convention but that he will run for president if nominated. This will be good news to thousands of his friends all over the country. He is very likely to be nominated too.

Now seems to me a good time to buy land, if one has the cash to pay for it. Farms have not been profitable but what has. It doesn't take much cash now to buy a well improved farm. We have had many serious depressions and business has come back. It will do so again and we will all make money again. How soon depends largely on when we start spending money wisely. Those who have money have got to start. Then those who do not have money will get some to spend.

Building material is the cheapest it has been for a long time. Some people who have some money, need to repair or build. If they would do so now it would be an economic time and carpenters and masons, electricians and material people would earn money, which they would at once spend to pay debts which they have not been able to pay. What we really need is more money in active circulation.

BRICK BATS

A guy who didn't rob the bank was once slapped into jail. To him it was a lousy prank. A sad and mournful tale.

The public simply raised the deuce they howled from morn till night And gave the cops loud rank abuse They swore it wasn't right. To get a victim for the goat To satisfy the law.

The speakers roared, the writers wrote And all proclaimed it raw. 'Tis true, the victims plight was sad He had to stand a rap For some bold bandit, tough and bad Who freely roamed the map. And yet, we'd better hold our peace Before we start to yip About the lousy state police.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Good and different recipes are arriving daily for Quiz readers but say! Have you sent yours in yet? Here are some you will surely like. For example, in place of serving your family ordinary waffles, this trick kind will surely please them. Gingerbread waffles, served for dessert with whipped cream. Surely that would make any commonplace meal a real treat for your family!

Gingerbread Waffles. 2 eggs. 1/4 c. sugar. 1/2 c. molasses. 1 1/2 c. flour. 1 c. sour milk. 1 tsp. ginger. 1/2 tsp. salt. 1 tsp. soda. 1 tsp. baking powder. 1-3 c. melted butter or other shortening.

Beat eggs until light. Add sugar, molasses, sour milk, remaining dry ingredients sifted together. Beat until smooth and add melted shortening. If a spicier waffle is wanted, 1/2 tsp. each of cinnamon and cloves may be added. Serve with whipped cream. This makes 6 waffles.

If your family likes the hot dishes, such as chili, tamales, and other highly seasoned foods, Spanish Rice will be a genuine discovery when you first serve it.

Or perhaps you would like a new way of making the old favorite. Here 'tis! Spanish Rice. 2 1/2 c. cooked rice. 1 c. tomatoes. 3 slices bacon. 1 medium sized onion. Salt and pepper.

Fry the bacon, remove slice the onion into the pan of hot fat. Fry until brown. Add the tomatoes, seasoning well, then the cooked rice and mix thoroughly. Place the bacon strips on top of the mixture and bake in a moderate oven about 15 minutes.

Mrs. Sam Brickner Snow Pie. 1 c. water. 2-3 c. sugar. 1 heaping tbs. cornstarch.

Cook in a double boiler until thickened. Then beat in 3 beaten egg whites and flavor with lemon juice. Spread in hot fat. Fry shell and chill. Serve with whipped cream. Mrs. Cecil Molzen.

Snow Pie will certainly be a new dish to deliver to your table, for have you ever heard of it before? Neither have I.

Cake is always greeted with loud cries of joy by the children, and pleases father too. Here is a kind that is just a little different: Maple Nut Cake.

Cream 1-3 c. shortening with 1 c. brown sugar and 3 eggs yolks and mix well. Add 3-4 c. milk, sift together 1 1/2 tsp. salt; 2 tsp. baking powder and put with the other mixture. Mix in one cup finely chopped nuts, preferably pecans, and 1 tsp. vanilla. Put into the cake and pour the batter into a greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven 35 minutes.

icing. 1 1/2 tsp. butter. 2 tsp. hot milk. 1 1/2 c. powdered sugar. 1/2 tsp. maple flavoring.

Beat until smooth and spread. Sprinkle with nuts while the icing is still soft.

Mrs. Archie Boyce. Lots of cooks neglect the possibilities of delicious dishes prepared with fish. Fish are wholesome, nutritious, nourishing and provide a welcome change from the usual beef and pork. Too, fish are especially good for you, and the children too. Serve the family this good recipe:

Salmon Loaf. 1 c. pink salmon. 1 c. soft bread crumbs. 1/2 tsp. salt. Speck of pepper. 2 eggs. 1/4 to 1/2 c. milk. Mix all the ingredients thoroughly, using just enough milk to moisten and hold together the loaf. Pour or shape into a buttered pan and bake in a moderate or lower heat oven for half hour to an hour. Mrs. James Woracek, Sargent.

Father of Gould Flagg Was First White Captain on Yangtze River In China; Gould Was Born There

Interesting Youth of Ordite, Who Usually is Reticent, Bared When Relatives Visit.

Gould Flagg's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Trevor Thomas and 12-year-old daughter Carolyn left Saturday after a few days visit here with their relatives. Mr. Flagg drove them as far as Grand Island, after which they took the train for San Francisco. From there to their home in Shanghai, China, their journey will be made on board the ship "President Coolidge."

Mr. Flagg says of his relatives that "They're really Chinese," Mrs. Thomas was born in Shanghai and has spent practically her entire life there, and Mr. Thomas has lived in Shanghai since he was 17. He is now 51. Going there from England as a boy to be with a pair of brothers, Mr. Thomas liked it so well that he stayed. For the past twenty years and more he has been connected with the same firm, he is manager and director of Mustard & Co., a firm representing exclusively in China a number of leading American manufacturers. It is a branch of the famous British American Tobacco Company, both names being, Gould listed in the Commercial history of foreigners in China.

The Thomas family have been away from home since last July, and so know practically nothing about the present excitement, which has mostly occurred during the absence while on vacation. They have a six months vacation which recurs about every four years. When the vacation time rolls around, in order to visit all points of interest to them, the Thomas family usually circle the globe. They go to England to visit Mr. Thomas' family, and then come to America for business and more relative visiting. On the present trip they stopped in London, and were happy to be present at the sixtieth birthday anniversary of Mr. Thomas' parents. From London the Thomas family sailed for New York City, and there Mrs. Thomas underwent a minor operation, from which she is just now convalescing. The twelve year old daughter, Carol, was tickled to death to reach Ord and find her cousins, for she had been without children to play with practically ever since leaving home last summer, and was very tired of grown-ups, and of hotels too.

In the Flagg and Thomas families plenty of adventure seems to happen. A week before the World War was declared Mr. Thomas crossed Germany enroute to China, leaving his wife and children to sail around a safer though slower route, a month later, by way of the Sues they were aboard the ship, and boat ready to sail for a week before the sailing actually took place, and the journey was made without lights, as there was much danger from enemy vessels. After arriving in Shanghai they heard their father had been searched by a number of enemy ships while crossing the Indian ocean.

The father of Gould Flagg and Mrs. Thomas ran away from his home in Maine at the age of 14 to board a sailing vessel Orient bound. When the ship reached Shanghai, he liked China so much that he had until it had sailed in that country. He was the first white man to sail the Yangtze to Hangchow, was captain of a passenger boat for many years and finally commodore of the fleet. He died of the dreaded cholera and was buried beside the river he loved. He and his wife and children were among the first white families to live in China.

Another sister of Mr. Flagg, also older than he is, is married and also lives in Shanghai. Then the Thomas family left a daughter Frances, 23, a son, Arvon, 20, in Shanghai, so they are anxious to get home again. When considering that Mrs. Flagg's sister Helen returned home last spring from three years spent in Shanghai, and that her younger sister Marjory returned in August from three years spent teaching in Turkey, it appears that travelling long distances and searching for the delightfully different runs in both sides of the family. The Thomas family visited here in 1926, when they were last on leave, and say they like Ord and this part of America very much.

Something DIFFERENT

I have a couple of clever cracks made by children that I am just dying to tell you today. They are different, startling, and all around cute. However, hope Dr. Miller doesn't hear about this one:

Roger is getting to be quite a boy, and his answers aren't so bad. Not long ago a visitor asked him inquiringly, Well, Roger, what are you going to do when you grow up? Are you going to be a doctor?

Roger considered carefully and answered slowly: "I used to think I wanted to be a farmer when I got big, but now I've decided to be cross like Daddy."

The other one is about that marvelous Quiz grandchild I am always quoting:

Hi Anderson had his little daughter, Shirley Beth downtown with him and a stop was made at the Bakery, where as always, any child who enters gets a lot of attention.

Kelly Ambrose was standing near, began deriding attention to Shirley, finally asking her if she wouldn't go home with him, where they would see Magdaline. Shirley declared she didn't want to, and Kelly answered her, "Oh, you're all wet."

And then came the blow. Kelly is still blushing, for little Miss Anderson piped up in a loud clear voice that could be heard in every corner of the Johnson Bakery: "I'm not either all wet. I'm a big girl now and I don't wet my panties."

Parent and children stories I could write about.

The father and son who quarreled when a new mama came to live. Now they—the father and son—operate rival stores, bitterly serious over it, too.

The old lady who washed out a living for herself and a crippled boy.

The parents, refined and educated, whose darling only son did everything that was rowdyish, breaking their hearts to pieces as fast as powder.

The badly spoiled youngest child who went into a poor home with her husband and had to do all her own work, and dozens of other things she once considered insulting to even hear mentioned.

The family with no children who mess over their little bull dog, the idol of their hearts.

The father, crazy about children, who insists on adopting some of the wife is ill, and they are too poor for her medical treatments.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

Propaganda of various sorts is always trying to gain entrance to high school agricultural departments. Each day's mail is cluttered with attempts to use the schools for advertising. A few of these offerings are summarized below.

The Portland Cement association has been routing out a man who conducts a two day course for high school boys. This useful course covers both the theory and practice of using concrete.

A producer of livestock medicines will send out a specialist to take charge of a hog and poultry clinic. Large crowds are attracted by the gorgeousness of the demagogues.

An implement firm has been sending out a mechanic who instructs evening school students in a seven day farm machinery course.

A dredging company has a field man with a moving picture outfit and a convincing line of argument, to sell the idea of irrigation to the youngsters.

Each pupill can get a chick waterer and lead pencil from a commercial feed organization. It is only necessary to promise that he will start his chicks on the milk.

A Chicago house offers to ship film strips free and postpaid, on agricultural subjects. It will also loan every school a film strip projection machine for one year. The school has only to pay the transportation costs.

A feed concern offers text books and typed lesson sheets on animal husbandry, in unlimited quantities. This literature is so carefully worked out that there is nothing left for the teacher to do.

A seed firm presents seeds for judging and identification purposes. They come in holders bearing the name of the company.

The backers of a certain dairy breed send photos of their animals in frames and glass.

A hardware concern gives out free auger bits and paint samples. It simply wants to know how well they were liked.

The teacher must decide what advertising is worthy of acceptance. If all specialists were allowed to come in and cry their wares before the pupils, there would be little need for regular teachers. Here might be a solution to the now publicized problem of tax reduction.

Methodist Missionary society met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. J. W. McGinnis, Mrs. R. J. Stoltz was assistant hostess and Mrs. Chester Hackett had charge of the lesson. There were a few guests, Madams Mamie Wear, Dan Needham, George Hubbard and Florence Chapman. A luncheon was served after the close of the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Chaffield and children spent Monday afternoon visiting at Mrs. Chaffield's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Key who live near Burwell. George Watts and son, Glen shelled corn Wednesday for Elmer Hallock, Duane Woods, Johnnie Rysavy and Orville Hurlbert also helped with the shelling. John Anderson who has been employed by Elmer Hallock for several weeks is now staying with some friends near Burwell. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hurlbert and son Duane went to Scotia Wednesday morning and spent the day visiting Mr. and Mrs. Emmett DeLarm. Also Mrs. Hurlbert's mother, Mrs. Cutler. Tuesday men in this vicinity went over the Burwell-Ericson highway again, this time widening the drifts and shoveling the snow that had drifted in. Jim Samla and Floyd Chaffield have both lost several head of cattle this winter. It is not known what the trouble came out of. A tractor owned by Ericson came out on highway 53 from Burwell several weeks ago and broke down a few miles this side of Ericson. Just a few days ago some one drained the gasoline and took the spark plugs out of the tractor. It belongs to the state and the thief will likely get into serious trouble. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Swanson and small son, Gene, went to Burwell Wednesday to visit with Mrs. Swanson's mother, Mrs. Ben Connor, who has been ill for some time. Robert Allen, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Dye stayed overnight Friday with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Dye. Mr. Hubbard, state highway boss of highway 53, was out Thursday looking after it. He also called on Elmer Hallock. Roy Swanson took quite sick Friday morning but is better at this writing. Mr. Swanson has been in quite poor health this winter. Frank Rysavy purchased a Ford coupe from his sister, Mrs. Irvin Merrill of Ord. Mildred Hurlbert spent Friday evening with her friend, Margaret Keller of Ord. Charlie Flakus who has been visiting at the John Rysavy home since Christmas is now working for his uncle at Elyria.

The following clipping from an Omaha paper concerns a former Arcadia boy, Arvine Cone, son of Mrs. A. D. Cone who lived here until a few years ago. Arvine is science instructor and coach of the Dunbar high school: "Dunbar high school boasts a defense that has established what is believed to be a record. In the last three halves played the Dunbar team has not been scored against. Dunbar held Brock scoreless in the last half, winning 17 to 0, and then defeated Oteo, 24 to 5, in the next contest. Dunbar has also defeated Unadilla and Palmyra while losing to Syracuse."

The downstairs portion of the Odd Fellows building has been rented by the Arcadia public school for a period of two months and will be used for basket ball games, school plays, parties, etc. The school has long been in need of a public building for school activities and this arrangement should prove very beneficial to the students.

Supt. C. C. Thompson left Monday for Fremont to attend a state school executive and school board meeting which convened Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Mrs. Thompson visited with her parents at Seward during his absence.

A valentine social will be given at the Methodist church basement Friday evening by the members of the Epworth League Society. Those attending are requested to bring a valentine and something for lunch.

The afternoon bridge club met last Thursday at the home of Mrs. E. C. Baird. Mesdames Horace Mott, C. C. Thompson, Vera Cook, George Hastings, and A. E. Carr were invited guests. Score honors were awarded to Mrs. P. W. Round and Mrs. N. A. Lewin. Mrs. Carr won the guest prize. A collection was taken among the members and $7.25 was received to be sent to the Knox county sufferers. The members are also working on two quilts which will be sent to Knox county when completed. The tops of the quilts were donated by Mrs. W. J. Ramsey and Mrs. Walter Sorenson and the lining for them was donated by Mrs. Don Round. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. H. Hastings Thursday, Feb. 18th.

Arcadia was awarded a 3-0 decision Thursday evening of last week when the affirmative high school debating team debated the negative team from Broken Bow on the question: "Resolved, That the several states should enact legislation providing for compulsory unemployment insurance." Arcadia was represented by Harold Gates, Robert Jeffries and Paul Easterbrook. Mrs. N. A. Lewin, Mrs. C. D. Langrall and A. E. Hayward served as judges. Broken Bow brought three debating teams with them and Arcadia held practice debates with the three teams but only one debate was judged.

At The Talkies

Coming to the Ord Theatre Sunday and Monday is a picture that all America is talking about, "An American Tragedy." Made from the internationally famous novel by Theodore Dreiser, this film has been alternately damned and praised by critics. Such a picture never could have been made had the talkies not been perfected.

There are no villains or heroes in "An American Tragedy"—it deals entirely with average human beings, fighting, groping, sinning, laughing, dying. Acted by a brilliant cast including Phillips Holmes, Sylvia Sidney, Frances Dee and Irving Pichel, this thrilling play should be seen by everyone.

A new vaudeville company comes to Ord next week in the persons of Moody, Daul & Company, who give a fast program of singing, dancing and dialogue. On the screen is Talullah Bankhead, that gorgeous beauty, in "The Cheat."

The last film in the Ord Theatre's big Anniversary Week program is "East of Borneo," with Rose Hobart and Charles Bickford, which opens a three day showing tonight. This is one of those pictures that appeals to people of every age from tiny tots to grandparents. Made in the heart of the jungle, East of Borneo parades a series of thrills that has never been surpassed in the flickers.

Big crowds have been seen during the Anniversary Week programs; the last few seats will sell at reduced prices. Reduced prices are still in effect.

VALLEY COUNTY DIGGING OUT OF 11 INCH SNOW

Most Severe Storm of Winter Hits Tuesday Morning; High Wind Accompanies Snow.

Valley county is still busy this morning digging out of the heaviest snow that has fallen here in many years.

Tuesday's snowfall began with a light rain early in the morning. This soon turned to sleet and by 8 o'clock snow was falling, becoming heavier as the day wore on.

Temperatures were just below the freezing point during the day but early Wednesday morning the wind died down and mercury in Horace Travis' official thermometer dropped to 6 above zero.

Wednesday morning dawned clear and still, giving Valley county a chance to dig out of the drifts and the snow going on ever since.

Highway Engineer Ayres had a large force of snow shovels at work on the county roads yesterday and many of the larger drifts have been removed.

The Burlington and Union Pacific trains arrived in Ord Tuesday evening only slightly behind time and the U. P. went down on time yesterday but the Burlington train did not make the downward trip at all as it was waiting for a snow plow to clear the deeper cuts.

Ord mail carriers succeeded in getting through Tuesday but yesterday their efforts were confined to delivering mail to boxes on the highways and on such portions of other roads as had been cleared adjacent to the highways.

So far this winter forty inches of snow has fallen in Ord, the heaviest snowfall in many years. The moisture content in Sunday's snow was .51 inches and Tuesday's snow contained .62 inches of moisture.

Free Delivery Of Express Assured

Express shipments will be delivered free anywhere in Ord in future, was the welcome announcement made this week by H. B. VanDecar, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Commission Gives Temporary O. K. To Burlington Change

An order giving temporary approval to the Burlington railroad's new schedule on the Palmer-Burwell branch was issued last week by the state railway commission.

Under the new schedule freight service remains the same as at present but the evening passenger train is discontinued while a morning passenger leaves Lincoln at 4:01 a. m. daily, arriving in Ord at 7:57 a. m.

The railway commission's order approving the change provides that in case written complaints are made about the service a hearing will be called in Lincoln and the railroad required to furnish adequate service.

It is probable that protests will be filed soon by Burwell and possibly by other towns. Bu well is particularly handicapped by the change as it gives that town mail service only in the morning unless a star route in the evening is established.

Numbered among the candidates for prom girl at the Junior-Senior prom at the University of Nebraska is Miss Carlotta Davis, beautiful and talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Davis of Grand Island.

Philip Mrazny, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Mrazny, is the new owner of the E. E. Williams farm on Davis Creek.

John W. Mason is in hospital. John W. Mason, of Mira Valley, was brought to the Ord Hospital Monday and is suffering with a cold, a recent pneumonia, complicated by heart trouble.

John W. Mason has a special nurse, is getting along fine, and his rapid recovery is expected. He is seventy-eight years old and is one of the early settlers of Mira Valley.

Lickly Sale Postponed. Charlie Lickly had tough luck with his public sale which was advertised for Tuesday for such a blizzard was raging that the sale could not be held.

Contributions to the second carload of supplies to be shipped from Ord have been coming in so slowly that it has not yet been sent.

Donations made since last week's Quiz are as follows: Geo. A. Nay, $1.00; Fred Martinson, $2.00; Wm. Koelling, $2.00; Dr. Blessing, $2.00; A. F. Parkos, 930 lbs. oats; A. Guggenmos, sack flour; Walter Guggenmos, sack flour; C. W. Beebe, 32 lbs. beans; A. Friend, 4 sacks oats; W. M. S. Mira Valley Evangelical church, 6 sacks flour; H. D. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Romans attended the funeral of a former friend and neighbor at Dannevirke on Wednesday of last week.

MORE SUPPLIES NEEDED IN NEBR. DROUTH REGION

This Week's Storms Will Intensify Suffering, Relief Agencies Must Speed Their Efforts.

Conditions in the drouth and grasshopper stricken region of Nebraska are such that we find it imperative to again call the attention of the people of our state to the necessity for continued relief if our original purpose of alleviating the distress of the people and saving from starvation the live stock necessary to carry on ordinary farm operation has not been in vain.

The letter was written before the heavy snow storms of Sunday and Tuesday and these storms will only intensify suffering there. Cattle and hogs are dying by the hundreds daily for lack of feed, as the above pictures prove.

Arthur Thomas, who is in Norfolk directing the very best campaign for the Red Cross, says that conditions throughout the drouth area are pitiable.

"As I listened to the radio announcement today giving news of the relief drive," writes Mr. Thomas, "a farmer sat beside me who had been in town two days waiting to get some grain for himself and seventeen neighbors. This man lives thirty miles from town and got up at three o'clock in the morning to start early. On account of the terrible roads he got here late in the evening and everything was gone. He is still hoping to get something in the morning. If he gets a load he will have to drive sixty miles to make deliveries to all his neighbors before he gets home. In the meantime his friends are anxiously waiting for him from him and see if he has anything for them. All agencies are doing the best they can but the stuff just isn't coming in fast enough. People getting this aid are the very best people in the county and only the fact that their stock is starving makes them accept charity. The desperate need in northern Holt county is grain. There has been a little roughage so far but that is nearly gone now."

Many other letters from the drouth area attest similar conditions to those written about by Messrs. O'Purvey and Thomas. Space forbids quoting from all of them but they prove that Ord and Valley county must redoubly their efforts to get another car started for over there at once.

Contributions to the second carload of supplies to be shipped from Ord have been coming in so slowly that it has not yet been sent.

Let everyone who can help do so now, either in a cash contribution or in hay, grain, old clothing, feed or supplies of any sort for either humans or animals.

Donations made since last week's Quiz are as follows: Geo. A. Nay, $1.00; Fred Martinson, $2.00; Wm. Koelling, $2.00; Dr. Blessing, $2.00; A. F. Parkos, 930 lbs. oats; A. Guggenmos, sack flour; Walter Guggenmos, sack flour; C. W. Beebe, 32 lbs. beans; A. Friend, 4 sacks oats; W. M. S. Mira Valley Evangelical church, 6 sacks flour; H. D. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Romans attended the funeral of a former friend and neighbor at Dannevirke on Wednesday of last week.

Wives Entertain Rotary Husbands With Songs, Play

Nineteen Ord ladies were guests of their Rotarian husbands at a Valentine day dinner served Monday evening in Thorne's cafe and furnished the entertainment of the evening with clever songs and a playlet. Valentines were exchanged.

Words of songs sung by the ladies were written by themselves and in a comical manner told the men just what they should do to please their wives. The words were fitted to Rotary tunes and were very clever. Mrs. J. J. Auble played the piano accompaniment.

A playlet, "Suppressed Desires," also an original, was given by Madams Gould Flagg, C. M. Davis and J. Kovanda and dealt with the troubles men and women find themselves in when they resort to psycho-analysis to gain their desires.

The whole program was enjoyed by the Rotarians and also by the women who did so much to make it successful.

New Street Cleaning System To Be Tried

A new system of keeping the paving clean will be tried in Ord as soon as weather conditions permit. At a recent meeting of the city council the Fire Committee, which is headed by Emil Fafelita, was authorized to order 150 feet of three inch hose to be used especially for flushing the pavement and this hose arrives this week.

It is not planned to flush the streets with the hose until the dirt in the gutter has been scooped up and hauled away.

Carrying out this procedure at frequent intervals, it is believed that the pavement can be kept clean and if so the system will be a great improvement over present conditions.

John W. Mason is in hospital. John W. Mason, of Mira Valley, was brought to the Ord Hospital Monday and is suffering with a cold, a recent pneumonia, complicated by heart trouble.

John W. Mason has a special nurse, is getting along fine, and his rapid recovery is expected. He is seventy-eight years old and is one of the early settlers of Mira Valley.

Guggenmos, sack flour; Walter Guggenmos, sack flour; C. W. Beebe, 32 lbs. beans; A. Friend, 4 sacks oats; W. M. S. Mira Valley Evangelical church, 6 sacks flour; H. D. Stowell, 125 lbs. corn; Henry Benn, 2 sacks oats; John Wozniak, 4 sacks oats; Telephone company, use of lines; Mrs. Wm. Hansen, 2 bundles clothing; Wm. Hekeler, $2.00; E. R. Foth $10.00.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Romans attended the funeral of a former friend and neighbor at Dannevirke on Wednesday of last week.

WASHINGTON TO BE HONORED AT THREE AFFAIRS

Bi-Centennial Anniversary of 1st President Occasions Union Service, Dinner, Program.

The bi-centennial anniversary of the birthday of George Washington, first president of the United States, will be appropriately observed in Ord at three different affairs to be held Saturday evening, Sunday evening and Monday evening.

First of these is a dinner to be held in the Presbyterian church basement beginning at 5:30 p. m. Saturday to which the public is cordially invited. No formal program is planned for this occasion but there will be patriotic music and appropriate decorations.

Sunday evening the churches of Ord are co-operating in a union service to be held in the Christian church. The Ord Bar association has charge of the program and Bert M. Hardenbrook has been delegated to make the principle address, which will deal with the life and accomplishments of George Washington. Patriotic music will be sung by a large union choir. The American Legion also is co-operating in the program and the public is invited to attend.

At the K. of P. hall Monday evening members of the lodge and of the Pythian Sisters will honor the memory of Washington in a special program which also commemorates the establishment of the K. of P. lodge in 1864. As chairman of the program committee, Mike Kosmata is working out an enjoyable program at which John P. Misko will be the principal speaker.

Three Chanticleer Teams Beat Scotia

That basketball is definitely on the upgrade in Ord high school was again proved Friday evening when three teams representing the Ord schools defeated corresponding teams from Scotia high school.

Ord's first team won 28 to 15, the second team won 13 to 12 and a grade school team won 14 to 8.

At the beginning of the first team clash appeared the Scotia team with Coach Molzen started his substitutes and Scotia was soon in the lead. When the second quarter started the Chanticleer regulars entered the game but went in cold and just couldn't get started when the half ended the score was 9 to 8 in Scotia's favor.

The score changed quickly in the second half, though, for Ord sharp shooters were rolling them in from all angles and soon had Scotia hopeless. Despite difficulty in edging their opponents out but the grade school won easily.

Hurt When Husband Drives From Garage

When she slipped on the icy driveway last Friday morning and fell just as her husband backed the car out of their garage, Mrs. Dan Needham suffered painful cuts and bruises, though no bones were broken.

Mr. and Mrs. Needham were preparing to drive down town and Mr. Needham was warning the car up in the garage. Thinking he was not quite ready to back out, Mrs. Needham was crossing in the rear of the car when she slipped and fell. As she fell Mr. Needham started to back the car out and struck her as she lay on the driveway. She screamed and he stopped the car before it ran over her or her injuries might have been more serious.

Another game was scheduled with North Loup Tuesday evening but it was postponed because of the storm and will be played later.

Washington Supper. A Washington memorial supper will be served at the Presbyterian church basement Saturday evening, Feb. 20, to which the public is invited. Price, 40c, half orders for small children 20c, meatless orders if you wish them. Serving starts at 5:30. 48-11

2 Newcomers Arrive In McMIndes Family

Twice within four days the stork was a welcome visitor in McMIndes homes for last Friday evening an eight pound boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Leon McMIndes on the ranch north of Ord and Monday night a boy of the same weight arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lorea McMIndes in town. Naturally Grandpa Albert and wife are bursting with joy so naturally he has a host of friends who are hoping that he will be in his usual good health soon.

Ed Skala Will Sell. Ed J. Skala is going to quit farming and this week is advertising a clean-up sale to be held next Tuesday, Feb. 23, at the place 1-2 miles north of Arcadia and six miles south-east of Comstock. Mr. Skala's offering includes a fine lot of new machinery as well as horses, cattle, hogs and miscellaneous items. Read his ad today and attend the sale.

George Parkins was not able to go to Grand Island Sunday to attend the meeting of the Central Nebraska Optometrists club. This is the first time George ever failed to go. He is the president of this society.

Leap Year Weddings Not Popular, Is Revealed Here

Either Valley county maidens are bashful or else Leap Year marriages are unpopular in this county, is the opinion of Judge J. H. Hollingshead, for so far in 1932 not a single marriage license has been issued by his office. Usually licenses are issued at the rate of four or five a month.

During 1931 there were 55 licenses issued here and in 1930 the number was 53. With seven weeks of 1932 gone the young people will have to get busy if the marriage business is to come up to normal this year.

Clifford Whitford Dies After Long Illness

Death came Sunday to Clifford Glen Whitford, nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Whitford. The little fellow had been ill since Thursday day 1930, with leakage of the heart but the immediate cause of his death was influenza, which proved a greater strain than his frail body could stand.

In recent weeks he had shown improvement and his parents were hoping that he would recover entirely when he contracted the disease that proved fatal. He was a patient sufferer throughout his long illness, always cheerful and anxious to relieve his parents and his doctor of as much anxiety and care as possible.

The lad was born August 8, 1922 and died Feb. 14, 1932 at 5 p. m. Funeral services were held at the Wm. Hobson home about a mile west of Ord, where they were to room for the first few months of their wedded life. Asked whether any people now living here were present at the wedding festivities, Mr. Capron said that Alvin and Clarence Blessing were among the guests at the wedding dinner, having accompanied their parents of course they were too young to attend the dance," Mr. Capron says.

For a few months after their marriage in 1882 Mr. and Mrs. Capron made their home with the Wm. Hobson family, who bought the lot where their present mansion stands and built a home for themselves. In this first home, with some additions, they lived until twenty-six years ago when their present fine home was built. In this home, with some additions, they have all modern conveniences including an oil burning furnace, electric refrigeration, built in vacuum cleaning system, modern laundry equipment, electric cooking devices and many other modern furnishings. It is a modern home in every sense of the word and is one of the finest in Ord.

Two children were born to the Caprons, Hazel, who is now the wife of Fred W. Coe, and Arthur, who is happily married with a wife and a son. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Capron stood with their parents in the receiving line at the receptions Monday afternoon and evening.

Clarence Davis Will Be Candidate For Republican Delegate

Petitions are being circulated this week seeking to place upon the ballot at the primary election the name of Clarence M. Davis, of Ord, as a candidate for delegate to the republican national convention from the 6th congressional district. Mr. Davis indicates that he will accept the filing if his friends succeed in getting the five hundred signatures necessary to place his name on the ballot, which they probably will do without difficulty as Mr. Davis is widely and favorably known over the district.

The republican national convention will be held in Chicago in June.

Churches Present Play

"The Harvest," a stirring human interest drama in the interest of better law observance will be presented at the Christian church Thursday evening, Feb. 25, with other churches co-operating. W. T. Dodd and E. G. McDaniel, who are connected with the Anti-Saloon League, take leading parts and will be assisted by two local people. The public is urged to attend.

Zikmund's Celebrate 25th Anniversary

Thirty people, all relatives, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Zikmund last Thursday evening and helped this fine couple celebrate the 25th anniversary of their marriage. An elaborate dinner, to which all did full justice, was served at 6 p. m. and the evening passed in a social way. Mr. and Mrs. Zikmund received several nice gifts.

Their marriage occurred on Feb. 11, 1907 in the farm home of Mrs. Zikmund's parents, Mit and Mrs. Frank Benda, who then lived eleven miles southwest of Ord. They have two children, George, who lives on the farm with his parents and Irene, who is the wife of George Hastings of Arcadia. Mr. and Mrs. Hastings were home to help her parents observe the occasion.

Loup Valley Tourney Starts February 29th

The annual Loup valley association basketball tournament will be played on the Ord floor starting February 29 and continuing March 1, 2 and 5. The complete tournament schedule, showing when each team appears will be printed in the next issue of the Quiz.

TWO RECEPTIONS HELD IN HONOR OF ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Capron Were Married 50 Years Ago Monday; Receive Many Gifts, Letters.

Monday was a gold letter day in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Capron for it marked the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage on Feb. 15, 1882 when Mr. Capron, then a spry young fellow 25, was joined in wedlock to Miss Mary F. Ramsey, then a beautiful maiden of 19. On Feb. 15, 1932 Mr. and Mrs. Capron, still spry and handsome in spite of the fifty years that have intervened, entertained more than two hundred friends at their home here in honor of that day a half century before.

The wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Capron took place in an adobe house on the old Ramsey farmstead twelve miles west of Ord, the farm now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Rev. William Wilson, then pastor of the Methodist church here, performed the ceremony.

In the evening of their wedding day Mr. and Mrs. Capron were guests of honor at a dance held in the Wm. Hobson home about a mile west of Ord, where they were to room for the first few months of their wedded life. Asked whether any people now living here were present at the wedding festivities, Mr. Capron said that Alvin and Clarence Blessing were among the guests at the wedding dinner, having accompanied their parents of course they were too young to attend the dance," Mr. Capron says.

In honor of the anniversary the Capron home was decorated with a profusion of cut flowers, the varieties including yellow and pink snapdragons, roses, acacia, jonquils and many ferns. Pink and yellow was the color motif and every room of the home was beautiful with flowers, white hanging bells trimmed with gold, and crepe paper decorations. On the table in the dining room was a huge basket of roses and ferns with a large wedding bell hung above. Four tall pink tapers tied with yellow ribbons stood on the corners of the table. On a smaller table near-by was a four-layer wedding cake, beautifully iced in white and gold, and atop it were the dates "1882-1932." One of the basement rooms was set with card tables where guests enjoyed themselves for a time.

The afternoon reception was held from 2:30 until 5 o'clock and the second one from 7:30 until 10:00 in the evening Monday and throughout these hours the Capron home was crowded with friends and well wishers. Of course many more from out of town would have attended had roads been good and weather not so inclement. Guests were served with dainty refreshments of punch, individual cakes and ice cream. The ice cream was pink and in the heart of each slice was molded the figure "50."

On the invitations sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Capron was the admonition "no gifts" but even this was not sufficient to keep them all back, the D. O. club presenting Mrs. Capron with a handsome floor lamp, and the Sew and So club presenting a basket of natural flowers. Gold dinner plates were sent by Mrs. Sarah E. Stover, of Lincoln, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas.

MORE NERVE THAN SENSE.

The quality of intestinal fortitude always is to be applauded but this same quality, which is vulgarly known as "guts," should be accompanied by a certain amount of common sense if it is to meet with our approbation.

Along with the proposal to bond the state in order to pave roads the association suggests establishment of a highway commission to control expenditure of the $30,000,000 to be realized by sale of bonds which is another suggestion very displeasing to us.

Present economic conditions are not taken into consideration by Good Roads directors in their recent proposals. The fact that Nebraska taxpayers already are groaning under a burden too great for them is not considered.

The Ord Quiz is and always has been a believer in good roads. We heartily applaud the state's present highway development program as carried out with gas tax funds.

Fortunately, the state constitution forbids a bond issue. To push such a program through the Good Roads association will have to put the question up to voters in the form of a constitutional amendment.

Nebraska wants no bond issue for paving, now or any other time.

VALUABLE DAIRY COWS. Out in Washington a new and much better breed of dairy cows has been perfected. If the editorial page of the Christian Science Monitor can be believed, for that usual accurate publication reports that Washington dairy cows, not satisfied with their average butterfat production of 4,900 pounds in 1930, liked it up to 5,800 pounds each in 1931.

PLACATING THE VOTERS. A stinging speech is being afforded voters these days in the undignified scramble of two prominent democratic presidential aspirants, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Newton D. Baker, to jump off the League of Nations band wagon and get on to some safer conveyance.

Both Roosevelt and Baker were heart and soul for the League a few years ago. In fact, in 1920 when Roosevelt was a vice presidential candidate he said that United States entrance into the League was his "sole paramount issue."

It is a fact, and both Roosevelt and Baker know it, that no man can be elected to the presidency or to any other important office on a platform that might plunge this nation into the dirty turmoil of Old World politics, hence their present haste to disavow belief in the League.

Mostly Roosevelt and Baker are honest in their reversal of opinion in regard to the league but the suspicion will not down that the words they express now may not be altogether sincere, where such a prize is at stake.

RUSSIA'S PLAN FOR PEACE.

Over in Geneva, Switzerland, delegates from 57 world powers are engaged in a disarmament conference. How to assure everlasting peace for the world is the avowed purpose of this convocation but with the exception of one nation they go at it in devious fashion.

While most of the delegates quibble and squabble over ratio of destroyers to heavy warships, whether or not poisonous gas should be outlawed, calibre of guns that will be permitted, and a hundred and one other things that would seem designed to advance the possibility of war rather than to curb it, only one nation comes out with a straightforward plan to assure the very result that delegates pretend to be working for.

The Russian proposal is simple: To scrap and abolish all the world's navies, armies and air forces. When delegates of other nations merely smiled at this suggestion, Russia came back with a counter-proposal: To scrap and abolish half of the army, navy and air force of each power represented at the conference.

To those of us who must depend solely upon the newspapers for our information it would seem that these disarmament conferences are farces. After each such meeting nations scrap expensive battleships, build cruisers or scrap submarines and more or less plane carriers. Delegates to the conference get a nice trip with all expenses paid, the army experts and navy experts and air experts enjoy mingling with experts of other countries and then coming home to build newer and more extravagant guns, ships and air-planes after destroying the old ones, and every time the taxpayer pays the bill.

If the nations who attend such conferences are sincere why not accept Russia's proposal? If they are not, and are simply trying to secure reduction in the armaments of their enemies and extensions in their own armaments, as appears to be the case, then such conferences are simply a waste of time and money.

COUNTY CONSOLIDATION. Twenty-five years ago, according to the Ord Quiz of that year, Custer county was engaged in a bitter battle between those who wanted to divide the county into four smaller counties and those who wanted to leave it undivided. Naturally, Broken Bow people preferred a large Custer county of the people of Ansley, Callaway, Merina and Arnold wanted the county divided with a county seat in each place. Fortunately for all concerned, the anti-divisionists won.

Today the trend of the times is toward consolidation rather than division of counties. One court house and one set of county officials can handle the affairs of a much larger territory and a much greater number of taxpayers than they do at present. Instead of having a huge expense at Broken Bow, titles of Garfield county could very well transact their business through the court house at Ord, as could people of Loup, Wheeler and possibly other counties. A great saving in tax money could be made, which is what the people are demanding nowadays.

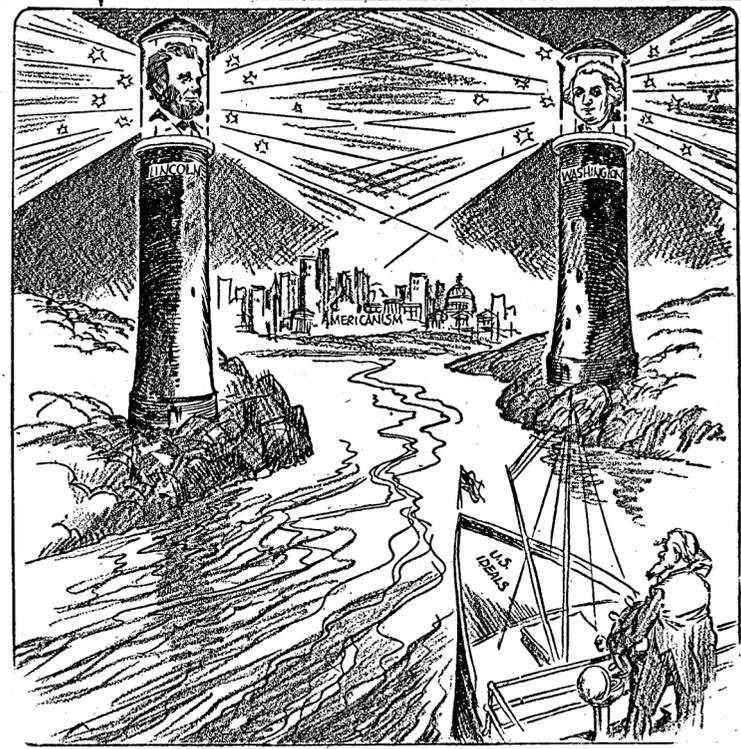

Not next year nor possibly within the next ten years do we expect a consolidation of this sort to be made. People of Burwell, of Bartlett, of Taylor will fight it strenuously. But some day, surely, expense of government of each little subdivision will be eliminated, either by a centralization of authority in the state government at Lincoln or by a consolidation of counties to form twenty or thirty large counties in a state like Nebraska instead of a hundred small counties, operated at huge expense.

COSTLY SPEECH MAKING. During 1931 members of Congress mailed 25,360,900 copies of speeches made by them in the House of Representatives and Senate, which wouldn't be so much the concern of you and I if those Congressmen and Senators were paying postage as we do. But since they enjoy the privilege of free mailing it becomes very much our business.

This whole speech making business is a costly one for taxpayers anyway. A Representative will leap to his feet, be recognized by the Speaker of the House and talk for two minutes on some topic, then ask for permission to revise and extend his remarks with the privilege of publication. Invariably the Speaker gives such permission, upon which the Representative trots over to the office of the Congressional Record with a sheaf of manuscript that couldn't be delivered in twenty minutes and this sheaf will go into the Record as a talk made by the Representative on the floor of the house. Of course the Representative sends innumerable copies to his constituents back home to give to them that they sent a good man back east to represent them.

With the postoffice department facing a deficit and the postmaster general seeking to raise letter rates from 2c to 3c, it would seem that time to cut down on the franking privilege as extended to members of Congress and also to declare a moratorium on speeches as printed in the Congressional Record.

—Miss Florence Cheyney, who is employed in Sharp's cafe, went to Erlison Monday to spend a week with her people.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

I am going to take a little vacation this week end and attend the annual convention of the Nebraska Press association, at Grand Island. Sickness prevented my going last year, the first meeting I missed in years.

In writing the other day to renew his subscription for another year, W. E. Davis said he had taken the Quiz for forty-four consecutive years. He is a son of the late P. M. Davis and lives at Fort Henry, New York. I am wondering how many others have had the paper that long. I know some have had it since it was started, fifty years ago.

One of the finest political talks I have heard in a long time, was delivered by Senator Watson of Indiana from the banquet table at the Lincoln day dinner in Washington Friday evening. Most or much of his address was devoted to a defense of President Hoover and if all that Senator Watson said is true a lot of us are mistaken in our conception of the work of the president. It is probably true that we know very little about the problems the president has had to try to solve since he has been in office.

In writing to renew her paper for 1932 Mrs. Edith Bossen of Arcadia says she has been a subscriber for about 30 years and she feels that she would hate to get along without it. I notice that nearly everyone asks for a calendar and year book all gone. If you want one don't delay sending in your renewal. We will mail the calendar at once.

I don't know what Frank Edgecombe of Geneva said about me last week but it must have been pretty bad for I looked in vain for a copy of his Nebraska Signal. He has abused me plenty before but never was afraid to let me see what he said.

My idea of an optimist is a fellow who thinks he can run on a democrat ticket in this district and beat Bob Simmons for congress.

Another three inches of snow Sunday makes it hard to interest anyone in garden and yard improvement work. Last week when it warmed up and the sun was shining, people began to talk about spring and flower seeds but their ardor has been chilled again.

If those in control of the financial affairs of the United States can find the way to so arrange money matters that borrowers may pay their debts with the same priced dollars that they borrowed, our troubles will be over. Business will revive with a rush all along the line.

Honored at Reception. The January meeting of the Farmers club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Stone, Saturday, Jan. 30. A reception was also given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. August Stone who were married Jan. 26th. Between eighty and eighty-five attended. Dinner was served at one o'clock after which the members of the club presented the newlyweds with a number of lovely gifts. Mr. Stone extended his thanks in behalf of himself and bride.

A very interesting program of music and readings was given. Everybody present had an enjoyable time. A large number were unable to attend because of the bad roads and weather.

U. B. Aid society met yesterday with Mrs. Ernest Woolery.

When You and I Were Young, Maggie

By J. A. KOVANDA

25 Years Ago This Week. The marriage on June 5 of Allie Pierce and Miss Ivy Auble was just revealed when Allie came up and took his bride to a new home in Omaha. They had succeeded in keeping the happy event a secret for months.

When the team she was driving became fractious Mrs. W. M. Alvord jumped from the buggy holding a 4-year-old girl in her arms but fractured a leg badly when she landed on the icy ground.

Dipping vats were built near the railway stock yards so that all cattle coming in by rail could be dipped before being mingled with native cattle.

W. Drobny rented his farm and moved to Holly, Colo., hoping that the change would benefit his health.

A ten pound son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Herb Mason.

Ed Zikmund and Miss Mary Bend were married by Judge Gudmundson.

A big fight was on in the state legislature over the county option law.

20 Years Ago This Week. Norman Parks, who edited the Ord Quiz, a Republican, exposed a gang of grangers and later had to pull a revolver to keep from being licked by one of them. For doing this, he was fined heavily.

Hugh Fradenburg of Washington and Miss Mazie Flynn of Ord were married.

W. W. Haskell went down to St. Paul and bought the Republican planning to put an able man in charge of it.

The name of E. P. Clements was placed on the LaPollette-Roosevelt ticket for presidential elector, state papers said. It was the first time an Ord man had been so honored.

BRICK BATS

Each day some bloated financier Gets out a loaded gat. He plugs himself behind the ear And smacks the bathroom mat. His many friends for miles around Are laughing in vast dismay. 'His business seemed both safe and sound. How did he get that way? 'We always thought this bozo had The whole world by the tail. Yet was a smart and lucky lad With money by the bale. 'When we check up his affairs, We'll find without a doubt It was the Wall Street bulls and bears That really knocked him out. Hard times had cracked him in the neck. And things were getting worse. He gambled to prevent a wreck. To fill his shrinking purse, And all he won, was added d-d-ts And wrinkles on his face. For bulls and bears are darned poor pets. To have around the place. As cash receded, fears advanced Until he lost his head. Before his eyes, grim goblins danced, And so from life he fled. Cold cash, like fire, when in control Helps keep the world in gear. But when it rules, it sears the soul And leaves the husk of fear. —Brick Smith.

Mrs. Clarence Blessing was hostess Friday afternoon to the D. D. O. club. Other guests were Madams C. J. Miller, C. F. Hughes and Will Bartlett. Mrs. Laverne Burrows was in from the country and assisted her mother.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

It cost Nebraska farmers 50 cents a bushel and $7.35 an acre to produce corn in 1931. These figures are the averages of 262 farmers in 8 different counties who kept records for the agricultural college during the season just closed. The data from the counties is tabulated below:

Table with 2 columns: County, Cost per bu., A. Cost per bu. Rows include Cuming, Cass, Douglas, Saunders, Fillmore, Phelps, Thurston, Wash.

The farmers in the first five counties have kept cost accounts on corn raising for five years. They have been able to reduce their costs each year. In the case of every county the cost of production was less in 1931 than during any previous year. But it was still too high to leave any chance for profit. It did not include shelling, storage, or marketing charges. These must be deducted by each farmer before he can figure his profit or loss.

In the records kept by these men the horse labor was figured at 9 cents per hour. To this was added a machinery charge of 4 cents per horse hour to cover machinery depreciation. Tractor charges per hour were 80 cents for 2-pow tractors, $1.10 for 3-pow tractors, and $1.20 for 4-pow tractors. Man labor was charged at 28 cents an hour, which included board, room, laundry and wages.

The more efficient counties grew corn with an output of about 5 man hours and 12 horse hours of labor. A few records which were kept in Valley county correspond closely to this. The eastern counties required more labor and had higher costs.

QUIZ FORUM

Questions County Board.

I would like to ask a few questions of the county board through your paper. I have just been reading the report of the county board.

I see by the report, that all of those men you have hired to cut food for the county are classed with paupers and 12 horse hours of labor. A few records which were kept in Valley county correspond closely to this. The eastern counties required more labor and had higher costs.

No less a pioneer than her husband is Mrs. Capron for in 1878, when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. H. Ramsey and family came to Valley county from southern Michigan she accompanied them. They came in covered wagons and the present Mrs. Capron often took her turn at driving and at doing the other hard tasks incident to that long journey.

From 1878 until July 1, 1887 Mr. Capron remained in the newspaper business, part of the time in partnership with C. C. Wolf, but at that time sold the Valley County Journal to Mr. Wolf and entered the employ of an abstract firm, E. M. Coffin & Company. Mr. Wolf continued the Valley County Journal for a time, then changed the name of it to The Prohibition Star. This was a failure and he gave it up and returned to Freeport, Ill., where he is still "sticking type" in a newspaper office there in spite of being 78 years old.

For nine months after selling his newspaper Mr. Capron remained in the employ of the Coffin company and then resigned his position to open an insurance and abstract office of his own, which he has conducted all the years since and which he still conducts with the help of his son, Arthur.

Those early years were filled with cares and trials for Mr. and Mrs. Capron just as they are for all people who settle in a new country but they have seen Ord and Valley county grow and prosper as they themselves have matured and now, both of them in good health and with their children and grandchildren around them, they can look forward to many more happy anniversaries.

200 Guests Honor Capron's Monday, Their 50th Wedding Anniversary

C. Wolf, of Freeport, Ill. A beautiful gold serving tray came from David and Mrs. Ryerson, of Wayne, N. J., cousins of Mrs. Capron, and in the evening the Ryersons called over the telephone from their home town with congratulations and best wishes. A gold loving cup was presented by the Arthur Capron and Fred Coff families, a gold vase came from Dan DePutron and wife, of Lincoln. William L. McMullen, of Burwell, looked over his gold hoardings until he found a $5.00 gold piece coined in 1882 and sent it by Mrs. McMullen—a very appropriate gift. Gorgeous bouquets came from Miss Jessie McAndrew, of Ainsworth, Miss Bess Alexander, of York, Mrs. and Miss Partidge, the F. J. Dworak families, both senior and junior, The First National bank, the Putz and Seely families, of Campgaw N. J., and Miller & Paine, of Lincoln. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hoogenboezem sent Mr. and Mrs. Capron several theatre tickets as gifts and a Ma-jestic radio of the latest model given by Mrs. Capron to her son and band completed the list. Cards and booklets appropriate to the anniversary were received from friends all over the country.

Music was furnished during the afternoon by James Aagaard and sisters and Miss Ida Bond. In the evening the Sow, Bled, and Clements and Travis orchestra played, all the musicians being appreciated and applauded by the hosts and guests.

Among guests from out of town who were present to assist Mr. and Mrs. Capron in celebrating their 50th anniversary were Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Ayes and daughter Renie and Mrs. McCullough, of Central City, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Earnest, of North Loup, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ramsey, of Arcadia, and the Wm. McMullen family of Burwell.

Ord was a new town in 1882 when the Caprons were married but in 1874, when Mr. Capron came to the Loup valley country from his home in Freeport, Ill., there wasn't any such town as Ord. It wasn't founded until several years later.

He arrived here on Sept. 14, 1874, which was his eighteenth birthday, he recalls. He was a clerk in the quartermaster's department at Fort Hartsuff, which was then being built, and his duties for the first few weeks were to check supplies as they were freighted to the site of Fort Hartsuff from Grand Island, which was then the closest rail point.

Only one other person still living in the Loup valley was connected with Fort Hartsuff at that time, Mr. Capron recalls, and that is George McAnulty, of Scotia, who was an aide of Mr. Capron's brother, Lieutenant Capron. Even Mr. McAnulty was not here when Fort Hartsuff was being built as he enlisted later.

After remaining at Fort Hartsuff for sixteen months, Mr. Capron was transferred to the Spotted Tail Indian agency in South Dakota, but after a few weeks there he returned to Freeport, Ill., and later went to Wisconsin and edited a newspaper for two years. Then he again came west as an attaché of the army in the field in Wyoming and Montana where the army was having difficulty in keeping Indians out of the Black Hills, where they were intent upon molesting mining settlements. This was two years after the famous Indian uprising in which so many bitter battles were fought and so many lives lost, when the Indians were driven out of the Black Hills.

It was in 1878 that Mr. Capron came to Ord to remain. In the fall of that year he bought a newspaper, the Valley County Courier, from Henry Nelson and changed its name to the Valley County Journal. Ever since then his life has been identified with Ord and Valley county. He was married here, has reared his family here, all of his property interests are here and few people can better claim the title of pioneer.

No less a pioneer than her husband is Mrs. Capron for in 1878, when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. H. Ramsey and family came to Valley county from southern Michigan she accompanied them. They came in covered wagons and the present Mrs. Capron often took her turn at driving and at doing the other hard tasks incident to that long journey.

From 1878 until July 1, 1887 Mr. Capron remained in the newspaper business, part of the time in partnership with C. C. Wolf, but at that time sold the Valley County Journal to Mr. Wolf and entered the employ of an abstract firm, E. M. Coffin & Company. Mr. Wolf continued the Valley County Journal for a time, then changed the name of it to The Prohibition Star. This was a failure and he gave it up and returned to Freeport, Ill., where he is still "sticking type" in a newspaper office there in spite of being 78 years old.

For nine months after selling his newspaper Mr. Capron remained in the employ of the Coffin company and then resigned his position to open an insurance and abstract office of his own, which he has conducted all the years since and which he still conducts with the help of his son, Arthur.

Those early years were filled with cares and trials for Mr. and Mrs. Capron just as they are for all people who settle in a new country but they have seen Ord and Valley county grow and prosper as they themselves have matured and now, both of them in good health and with their children and grandchildren around them, they can look forward to many more happy anniversaries.

LUTHERANS WILL MAKE SPECIAL EFFORTS TO WIN UNCHURCHED DURING LENT 3,500 congregations in this country and Canada, affiliated with the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states, have been requested to take part in an aggressive campaign to win the unchurched. St. John's Lutheran church of this county is participating in this endeavor with its sponsorship by the Synodical Press Committee with headquarters at 69 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

A list of all the unchurched, with whom the local church will establish contact, will be prepared by the pastor, Rev. William E. Spier. The following members will co-operate as volunteer visitors: Edgar Lange, James Bremer, George Bremer, Henry Lange.

The Lutheran Church is not a proselyting body. It has no intention of weaning away from other churches whose denominational loyalties are fixed. But Lutherans are convinced that their church has a message particularly to the tremendous number of unchurched in this country. Millions of dollars are spent annually in supporting home mission enterprises.

Lutheranism is frankly conservative in theology. It accepts the Bible as God's inspired word and stresses as the dominant note in its message the Gospel truth that pardon of sin, salvation and life are the free gifts of God's mercy, offered to men in Christ and received by faith in the divine promises. It believes this Gospel to be "the power of God unto salvation" and relies upon its simple presentation to convert the hearts of men. Its preaching is neither sensational nor shallow, but aims to give the hearers spiritual refreshment and instruction in the difficult art of applying the ethics of Christ to everyday living.

The Lutheran church is strongly convinced of the necessity of giving to children a firm foundation in "the faith once delivered to the saints." It devotes much attention to their training. In addition to Sunday schools and a week day catechetical class it has conducted a system of parish-schools maintained at the expense of the congregations, which offer to children a complete course in all branches of secular knowledge as well as thorough religious training. Almost 1,400 such schools are conducted by the Missouri Synod with a total enrollment of 80,000 pupils.

A Word to the Unchurched. We, the members of St. John's Lutheran church, eight miles south of Ord, extend a special invitation to you to attend our services during the Lenten season. We make no excuses for inviting you and will not admit that you are making concessions to us by coming. We believe we have what you need and you personally will be the gainer. If you attend our services we are certain that you need the Church and not because the Church needs you. There are certain fundamental questions which you cannot afford to leave unanswered. Why are you living? Is there a God to whom you are accountable? What are you doing with your life. Where are you going? Are you taking a chance on eternity? Is the religion of the Bible true? We can only ask you to come and see.

We preach the old Gospel story. We are "fundamentalists" without equivocation. We preach Christ and we preach Him crucified for the sins of men. On the basis of this one thing needful we extend an urgent invitation to you to attend our services. Attention to the needs of your soul. —WILLIAM BAHR, Adv.

North Loup News

MRS. FRED BARTZ, Reporter

Friends of Grace Rich who make her home with a sister, Mrs. Ed Helbig at Burwell will be sorry to learn of a serious illness which called for an operation performed at Hillcrest hospital Monday morning.

Rev. Schwabauer left for Omaha Monday morning in answer to a letter received from Mrs. Schwabauer Sunday stating that Mary Lenore had so far recovered from her illness that she could leave the hospital but that Mrs. Schwabauer was suffering with severe pains in her head. Friends of the family are trusting Mrs. Schwabauer's illness will be nothing serious and that they will all be able to return home this week as had been planned. It was four weeks ago Wednesday their little daughter underwent an operation for mastoid gathering at the M. E. hospital in Omaha.

A baby boy was born Friday to Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Brennick but the little one did not live. Brief funeral services were held from the home Saturday afternoon and burial was at North Loup cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Brennick have the sincere sympathy of a host of friends in their bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hamilton of Geneva are the parents of a baby girl born Thursday, Feb. 11, at a hospital in that city. Mrs. Hamilton was formerly Thelma Johnson.

Monday's Lincoln State Journal featured Robert Gibbs, present captain of the basketball team at Wesleyan University. Robert is the son of Rev. Gibbs who was M. E. minister at North Loup a few years ago.

Harry Johnson of Big Springs, and Mrs. Ditto of Fort Morgan, Colo., spent a few days this week with Mr. Johnson's people, Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson.

Rev. Bessie F. Brown was entertained Wednesday, Feb. 10, at a chicken dinner at Helen Munson's home on the occasion being Helen's birthday.

Mrs. Bee Brown with her mother, Mrs. Bonstel entertained a number of ladies at a quilting party Thursday. A delicious lunch was served at the close.

Mrs. Arthur Willoughby was hostess to a party of ladies at her home on Wednesday. Quilting was in order with dainty refreshments served.

Installation of officers of the Rebekah lodge took place at the lodge hall Thursday evening with Mrs. Olive Marquard of Ord as installing officer. Following are the officers for the ensuing year:

Bernice Stewart, Noble Grand; Bee Brown, Vice Grand; Laura Smith, Sec'y; Carrie Parks, Treasurer.

Dr. Hemphill was called to the Bert Cox home Friday afternoon to attend little three year old Boyd Cox who had cut off the end of his thumb with a small hatchet while trying to assist his father in cutting wood. It is hoped the half inch of thumb which hung by just a bit of skin and which the doctor replaced will grow secure.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Tappan who have been occupying a room at the L. A. Hawks residence moved to the Tappan farm on Davis Creek last week. The Ed Jeffries family who have farmed this place for the past several years expect to move this spring.

Mrs. Clyda Chadwick and daughters, Esther Hurley and Miss Katherine were visitors at the Geo. Tatlow home in Cotesfield Saturday.

Mrs. Fenton returned home from Aida Saturday evening where she had attended her sister's funeral.

Mrs. Jackman and Mrs. Will Preston were Saturday and Sunday visitors at the home of their sister, Mrs. Doane at Scotia. Mr. Jackman drove down after the ladies Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford Eyrely and daughters Arlene and Dorothy were Sunday dinner guests at Sterling Manchester's.

Kent Manchester is substituting as janitor for his brother Reeve, who is convalescing from a severe attack of quincy.

Fortnightly woman's club met Wednesday afternoon with Florentina Earnest for a study of their industries and beauties of our state.

Frazier Funeral home, Ord. Ambulance service. Day phone 38; Night 193. 31-11

Not to have their plans come to naught Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Crandall braved Sunday morning's weather and bad roads and taking a lovely birthday dinner prepared by Mrs. Crandall they went to the home of Mr. Crandall's mother and brother in Barker district bringing birthday greetings to the mother, Mrs. Rachel Crandall, who on Friday, Feb. 12, reached her 84th milestone, and who still is physically active and mentally alert, able to keep up her home and to enjoy the company of friends and kindred and to give her share of companionship in return. Mrs. Crandall with her son Devillo are about the only remaining old settlers in Barker district, having lived on their present farm for the past 35 years. Their former home was the old Dwight Pierce place in Sumter where Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Inbody now live. Mr. Crandall passed away at the family home about 15 years ago.

Billings Clark made a business trip to Hastings Monday returning on the midnight bus.

Miss Mildred Campbell and her cousin, Miss Campbell of Ord are invited to Clay Center for a week end visit with the home folks.

Otto Bartz is substituting this week as road manager for Clark Robey who is another victim of the flu.

Myra Barber is taking Mrs. Rood's place in the Loyalist office this week while the latter is in attendance at the editor's convention in Grand Island.

Coach Batley took his basketball team to Taylor last Thursday where the North Loup boys were victorious, game being 18 to 28.

The It-Suits-Us club entertained in honor of Edith Bartz's birthday at her home Monday evening. Rook was the diversion. A lunch of sandwiches, pickles, gingerbread with whipped cream and coffee was served.

Maud Shepard and Mabel Lee entertained the members of Miss Shepard's Sunday school class Saturday afternoon at the home.

Devotions and the mystery question period. The hostesses served their guests home made candy.

Mrs. Winnie Bartz and Muriel entertained the King's Herald's at their home Saturday afternoon.

Devotions and the mystery questions from the Missionary Friend, decorated with tiny red hearts constituted the lesson. Two guests, Everett Barrett and Dale Gilmore were present. Popcorn was served.

Little George Walter returned Monday to his school work in Dist. 42, following a long siege of illness.

Miss Merle Davis is the nurse in charge of Mrs. Louise Brennick February 17. A. was observed at Barker school Monday evening with a program on "Illiteracy."

Mrs. Boyd Mulligan was in charge. Special music was rendered by Alice VanHorn and Donna Burrows. A few patriotic numbers were given. Following the program a delicious luncheon was served.

Marie Thomas was very pleasantly surprised Friday evening when the young folks of the neighborhood called to do honor to her birthday. Rook was the diversion with a lovely lunch brought by the visitors and served at the close. Lois and Wilna Schoning entertained at Rook Friday evening. Guests were present from Riverdale and Sumter. Jello with heart shaped cookies composed the dainty lunch.

The Riverdale Extension club gave its achievement day program Thursday evening at the school house. George Gowan and John Kriewald demonstrated home heating while the ladies gave a number of practical hints on ironing. Two short playlets were enjoyed after which a lunch of coffee and doughnuts was served.

Friday afternoon under the direction of Miss Maden, Lincoln's birthday and St. Valentine's day were observed with patriotic numbers and a valentine box at the Riverdale school house. The occasion was also celebration of Betty Jenkins' birthday. A lovely lunch of ice cream and cup cakes was prepared by Miss Maden and her school.

Mrs. Creager and Van autoed to church in town Sunday morning remaining over night with Mrs. Creager's mother and sister Maud.

Notice!

The forepart of March I will be in Burwell two weeks overseeing repairing of P. O. building, and during this time, those who are bothered with HEMORRHOIDS (piles) or rectal trouble (not cancer) can be cured without any cost only about what hospital fees would be otherwise, and usually NO loss of time. One in every ten have this trouble and many times do not know it. Some of causes are: Constipation, Gas, Indigestion, Dizziness, Stomach Trouble, Torment, No Account Feeling, Itching, High Blood Pressure, Pain at stool sometimes, other distressing feelings too numerous to mention, though not all these symptoms in any one case.

We cure varicose veins without the knife and no lost time, and the cost is within reach of all sufferers. I have operated on about five hundred of above cases the past five years all of which are well satisfied, and no return of trouble. Very seldom we have to give a general anesthetic, and under local very little pain. Consultation free at rooms in Burwell hotel.

I will hold a clinic one or two days during this time at Dr. Nay's office in Ord, and possibly Dr. Norris' office also. Anyone interested please either doctors offices or Burwell Hotel. Exact dates will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jacobs and family, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Honeycutt and Alfred Shoemaker were Sunday dinner guests at Edward Shoemaker's.

Mrs. Frank Losure and Mrs. Waldo Losure and daughter spent Thursday afternoon at Frank Gifford's.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Waterman and son spent Wednesday at J. W. Meyers'. Mrs. Waterman helped Mrs. Meyers can meat.

There was no school at district 64 Monday on account of the teacher, Mrs. Layher being sick.

Friday was Russell Waterman's birthday so as a reminder of the occasion, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Waterman took ice cream and other good eats and enjoyed a birthday supper at the Russell Waterman home.

Regardless of the snow and rough roads a large crowd of friends gathered at the Maiden Valley school house Sunday noon to honor those that are moving from the neighborhood. After a bountiful dinner was served the afternoon was spent in visiting and singing.

Jerry Pasha helped Anton Nevrlka saw some wood last week.

Jos. Skoll entertained a number of guests at cards last Sunday afternoon.

Last Sunday, Febr. 14th was a day of surprises for us. We happened to tune in on York in the afternoon when, lo! Here came a number requested by our niece dedicated to our 34th wedding anniversary by the noted Burda band. Thanky Miss Erma, we certainly did appreciate the favor. In the evening just as we settled down around the family fireside here came a string of cars, who came to remind us of 34 years ago when we promised to "take thee for better or for worse." Well, thanks folks, we certainly enjoyed the surprise.

Failed State Bank Pays 20 Percent Dividend

$25,818.62 WILL BE DIVIDED AMONG BANK DEPOSITORS

Checks Being Mailed Out From Lincoln; Another Dividend Probable This Spring.

Whoops! Hurray! Three cheers! That's what a lot of Valley county residents and many merchants will holler with glee to hear that the State Bank of Ord is paying a twenty per cent dividend as quickly as the checks can be mailed from the state house in Lincoln, which will probably be about two weeks from now. Twenty per cent of all claims amounting to $25,818.62, according to the receiver, E. H. Luikart, and his local appointee of the bank, Mr. Hopka.

In addition to releasing 20 per cent of all deposits once held in the State Bank of Ord, the bank will be able to meet prior claims, trust funds and such, amounting to $6,196.54, and this money also will be sent out within a few days. Valid preferred claims of the bank are estimated at $114,500.97, so that the State Bank will not be doing so badly if this much money is again at large in this community. Mr. Hopka also hopes and plans to pay another dividend to depositors of the former Ord bank this spring some time.

Decision to pay twenty per cent was given out at a hearing of the district court Tuesday afternoon, Judge Clements in charge. The hearing was attended by Attorney Campbell of Lincoln, assistant chief of the receivership department of the state. It was also directed that final notices of disallowed claims of this bank be sent out, dated Feb. 23, to show cause why the disallowed claims should be recognized as prior or preferred claims. April 15th a hearing of these claims will be held, if any issues are made.

Mr. Hopka, acting receiver of the local bank, declares he is certain that another dividend can be declared for the former State Bank of Ord, and says that he is trying hard to make this second dividend pay out this spring. The amount of money available for it will depend largely on the settlements made on paper owned by the bank, some of which is not yet collected.

Hearing on the Valley county claims was covered by the Ord Quiz to March 7, at which time it will be decided whether county money on deposit in the State Bank of Ord will be classed as a preferred claim.

Claude Richardson Dies Monday Night

Well Known Rural Resident Goes To His Eward Monday After Many Months of Illness.

The Claude A. Richardson family moved to Valley county in 1923 and for several years lived in the vicinity of Ord. Later they moved to the southeast part of the county and have been there for two or three years. Mr. Richardson has been in poor health for several years. He passed away Monday night, the remains being brought to the Sowl mortuary and Wednesday morning they were taken to Beaver Crossing where the family lived before coming to Ord and where funeral services were held in the Christian church at 2 p. m. the pastor officiating. Interment was in the Beaver Crossing cemetery.

Claude Alvarado Richardson was born August 5, 1881 in Seward county, Nebraska. He has been a farmer all his life. He was married to Miss Hattie Gerber and ten children were born to them. One son, Glen, died in infancy. The surviving children are Edith Goff of Ashton, Clinton, Fern Goff, of Horace, Raymond, Ruth, Lloyd, Wilma, Thelma and Edna. Besides the children, deceased is survived by his faithful wife, his mother and two sisters. He was a kind father and a good neighbor.

The funeral party expected to return Wednesday evening from Beaver City. We are sure the family would want us to express their thanks to neighbors and friends who rendered their assistance during the illness and after the death of the husband and father.

Thursday a 9 1-2 pound daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. E. H. McMullen of Rosevale. Dr. Henry Norris was in attendance.

Nancy Miller on First Trip Home

Nancy Miller, above, American girl who married the ex-Maharajah of Indore, reputed to be worth $300,000,000, is in the United States for her first visit in four years to her relatives in Seattle, Wash. The Maharani, whose Indian name is Sharmisthabai Holkar of Indore, left her two children, Sharada, 3 and Sita 1, at Hellepore, Egypt, with their father.

The New Cafe has signed a lease to rent the place formerly occupied by the Lavada Cafe, operated by the Marquardt family. The date when the change will be made is not yet determined. Gertrude Kneble declares. This new location they plan to move into is owned by Frank Benda, and is located on the north side of the square.

GRAND ISLAND IS SCENE OF ANNUAL PRESS MEETING

Quiz Men Spent 3 Days at Convention, Heard Many Fine Talks; Received Inspiration.

The annual meeting of the Nebraska Press association was held at Grand Island the last three days of last week and as usual it was attended by two members of the Quiz staff, H. D. Leggett and E. C. Leggett. Both of them regard the meeting as the most enjoyable they ever attended.

Most important event on the program was the address made by L. M. Nichols, of Bristol, Okla., who is president of the National Editorial association. Mr. Nichols, in his address, was an inspiration to all of his hearers, as was the speech made by Harry Rutledge, secretary of the Oklahoma Press association. Another fine talk was made by Clifford Crooks, of the Nebraska Farmer, and dealt with small newspaper opportunities. Mr. Crook is a nephew of Mrs. Dorcas Fish, of Ord, and asked that he be remembered to her and to other relatives here.

Among other men who have relatives here and with whom the Quiz editor chatted was Dick Koupal, who is editor of the Nebraska Merchant, a McKelvie publication, and who admits to being a cousin of Frank Koupal of Ord. Emil Holub, editor of the Scribner Rustler, is a first cousin of Ed Holub of Elyria.

Fire Destroys Home In Arcadia Thursday
Fire of unknown origin totally destroyed the five room farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Smith, Arcadia, and all of its contents late Thursday evening of last week. The family were attending a birthday party at the home of their son, Ernest Smith and were not aware of the fire until one of the guests of the party noticed a blaze coming from the direction of the Smith home. Friends and neighbors gathered to lend their assistance but the fire was then beyond control. No insurance was carried on the furniture and but a small amount on the residence.

ORD FAVORITES TO COP VALLEY TOURNAMENT

Win Over Sargent Places Locals At Head of List; Competition In All Games To Be Keen.

Ord basketball fans are jubilantly assuring one another that Ord has a dandy chance of keeping home the bacon in the impending Loup Valley basketball tournament, which is scheduled to take place in this city Feb. 29, March 1, 2 and 5th. Coach Cecil Molzen's boys have done very well this year, and have played a brand of basketball that is not inferior to any in the valley.

Last Friday evening in the Sargent gym, rooters for the local quintet had the pleasure of watching a mighty good game end 27 to 21 in favor of the Ord ball tossers. Securing this victory from a team that is admitted to be one of the finest in the Loup Valley league this year sent the stock of the Ord boys soaring up, and now the expert testimony locally says the Ord boys have an excellent chance to win the approaching league meet to be held here soon.

Ord has been defeated inside the league only one time this year, when the Dannebrog five went through the Ord opposition to the tune of 28 to 22. Out on the evening in question, when the Ord players took this drubbing, two of their stars were laid up, both Nutter and Steinwert being absent because of injuries. Consequently Ord really does not water itself alibi for losing this one game, and consequently, many are the enthusiastic basketball boosters who expect Ord to be a winner in the nearing tournament.

In the first round of the tournament, as now arranged, Ord drew North Loup and a bye. Taylor drew a bye. Scotia plays the first game with Sargent at 7:30 Feb. 29. Loup City drew a bye for the same round, and so did Burwell. Comstock plays game number two of the series that night, facing St. Paul at 8 o'clock. It concludes the first round, and the Ord game of that Monday evening is Ord and North Loup, playing the first game of the second round.

Game number four, first Tuesday night game, will be called at North Loup. Taylor and the winner of the Scotia-Sargent game. Following will be Dannebrog meeting Loup City, and after that Burwell opposing the winner of the Comstock-St. Paul game. That concludes the second round of play. These games should be fast ones, but do not get the idea that any of them are going to be slow to watch.

On Wednesday evening at 7:30 the tournament re-opens with two hard fought games between the four winners of the previous night. These victors then meet to decide the championship Saturday evening, and the losers play to see who wins third place and who wins fourth place. This concludes the tournament, which is expected to be a corker. Plan now to see the local stars in action against the finest competition in the valley.

Weller Files Answer To Wentworth Suit

Through his attorney, H. B. Vandecar, Colonel Weller filed his answer to the suit recently brought against his sale pavilion by Mrs. Margaret Wentworth. The motion, filed Monday, asked that the suit be struck out, but Tuesday morning this pleading was over ruled. Mr. Weller now has an additional 20 days left to file another pleading.

Kucera's Are Remarried.
In Loup City last week occurred the re-marriage of Clarence Kucera, of Arcadia, and Mrs. Wilma Kucera, of Ord. The couple were married some years ago and have three children but last summer were divorced and since then Mrs. Kucera and two of the children have been living in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gates.

Arcadia Boy Kicked By Horse.
Donald McMichael, Arcadia, had his left limb injured above the knee Sunday when he was kicked by a horse while playing in the McMichael barn with a group of children. The wound is so deep that four stitches were required to close it.

A 7 pound son was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Severson. Dr. Kirby McGrew was in attendance. This makes four boys in the Severson home.

Storm Rages, Six Men Dig, Girl Arrives Safe!

A fine eight pound daughter who planned to arrive at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Klancey came near being without benefit of a doctor Tuesday night, Feb. 16, the night of the big blizzard last week.

Dr. Frank Barfa expected to go to the Klancey home 15 miles northeast of Ord but had a lot of difficulty. So much that at last he took three shovellers with him from Ord to help him get through the drifts, while three more good shovellers worked hard and fast on the Klancey end of the trail so that the doctor could arrive. Those who shovelled were Frank Adamack and his son, Bill Novotad and his hired man, and Joe Hybl.

E. W. Black Dies After Long Illness

Founded the North Loup Loyalist in 1887; Well Educated, He Was Known as Best Writer in Valley.

North Loup, Feb. 24—(Special)—E. W. Black, well known and highly respected citizen died here Saturday after an illness of many weeks.

Evans W. Black, youngest of five children of Henry and Orpha Brown Black was born at Fort Necessity, Pa., Dec. 27, 1853. Reared in the country where schools were at a distance his school days were limited to a few months each year while he was young and then ceased, yet Mr. Black was probably, without exception, the best educated man in this part of the state, for he was a natural student and his favorite study, however, was geology. Through his research coal was discovered in a certain part of Pennsylvania which engineers had scoffed at. He helped to blast a way for the Black Hills and in 1890 he spent one summer as post carpenter at Fort Bridges, Wyo., at one time walking eighty miles to climb and explore Mt. Gregory. Years afterward he was post carpenter at Ft. Robinson, Neb., where he made the concrete for the Black Hills and the Black Hills, and spent three years in a similar position at the National Soldiers Home at Washington D. C. Mr. Black has left to posterity one of the finest museums in this part of the state, the one at Ord. He married Mrs. Nellie Chase of this place. To this union four children were born. A daughter who died in infancy, Mrs. Georgia Green of North Loup, Mrs. A. G. Fisher who died at Edinburg, Tex., in October, 1930, and Henry Chase of Detroit, Mich., in October 1887 he founded and for several years edited the Loyalist. In this paper he began a vigorous campaign which resulted in the building of the North Loup ditch in 1923, and in the Sabbath morning worship. Since November he has not left his home and has been confined to his bed under the constant care of his daughter, Mrs. L. O. Green. He was widely known and equally loved throughout the community and in his passing the world has lost one of its finest gentlemen.

New Hardware Opens.
The Square Deal Hardware, Joe Lola proprietor announces their opening Saturday of this week and invited all to pay them a visit, view the neat, new store and complete stock and make any desired purchases. Be sure to read their announcement on another page of this paper. Mr. Lola has lived in Ord a long time and in the county much longer and is well acquainted throughout the trade territory. His stock consists of the usual hardware stock with a nice line of a popular brand of paint. Variety articles will have a prominent place on the shelves also.

Quiz Editor Ill.
Eugene C. Leggett was taken ill the first of the week. Dr. Barfa is in attendance and pronounces the trouble flu and says several days in bed will be necessary.

RADIO FANS BEGIN WAR ON LOCAL INTERFERENCE

Call Meeting for Friday Evening to Discuss Ways and Means; Ask Help of City Council.

Radio fans of Ord are rebelling. All winter desperate interference, especially in certain portions of the city, has made radioing a dubious pleasure, and in spite of the best efforts of George Allen, head of the Ord light and water department and his trusty helpers, not much of the interference has been eliminated. Mr. Allen has very little in the way of equipment to help him detect the trouble spots, and so it seems practically impossible to weed out the trouble making wheezes and shrieks to which Ord has been treated of recent months.

For instance, George Gard has complained bitterly all winter that his radio carried a moaning or hissing in the background of which he could not get rid. Dr. Gard blamed the neighbors right and left. After a great deal of hard work, the city workers found the interference in the neighborhood came from the oil burner in the Gard home! Mr. Gard was as surprised as any of them, but delighted to have the trouble found and repaired. If the city had owned an interference detector, such annoyances would be found and repaired in a few minutes. As it is Mr. Allen and his busy assistants sometimes use all the spare minutes they can snatch for days, and never succeed in locating the trouble, because they do not have the necessary equipment. They have nothing to work with.

Therefore a bunch of radio fans propose to get together and present a petition to the council, asking for relief immediately in the form of a new radio interference detector. These are a necessary piece of equipment which practically all big power companies and cities providing heat and light have found necessary to own. They are not extremely expensive and should be purchased here, at least, if the city is to invest in radios are uselessly tied up at the present.

Citizens who have moved to Ord this winter from other places state that interference and local noises are worse here than in any other places they come from, and that their radios afford them no enjoyment or entertainment because of the unearthly noises that intrude.

Mr. Allen and his crew would be saved a great deal of time if the new equipment was bought. Also they would be saved a large number of excessively hard boiled complaints. Each day a number of radio owners walk in to complain, threaten, cajole, trying in every way to force Allen to fix their troubles, when he has not the tools necessary. He tries hard, but to no avail.

The meeting of those interested in remedying their radioing troubles will be held Friday evening in the lobby of the Valley county court house at 8 o'clock. Come if you want relief, and enjoyable radio entertainment in future.

William C. Boydston Died Friday, Feb. 19

Many friends who read this little story will shed a tear for Bill Boydston was liked by all who knew him. He was seventy years old at the time of his death February 19. He was born January 22, 1862.

Mr. Boydston was first appointed to the railway mail service on the Omaha & Ogden U. P. line in 1893 and transferred to the Ord-Grand Island run in October 1899 and made his home in Ord for eleven years, being transferred back to Omaha Feb. 11, 1910 where he was given charge of the transfer room. Later he served on the Omaha-Ogden run again and finally reached the retirement age in 1924 and has not been active since.

We don't have the data as to his marriage but the family, his wife, son and daughter will be well remembered by many Ordites.

Files For Railway Commission.
In D. Tolen filed Wednesday for the position of railway commissioner subject to the wishes of the democrats of Nebraska. Mr. Tolen has a wide state acquaintance and many friends have urged him to make the race again this year. He is well qualified for the position and should be nominated and elected. Ord.

May Offer for Vice-President

Here is that famous grin of New York's mayor, Jimmy Walker, who has been mentioned prominently recently as a vice presidential possibility on the Democratic ticket. Dressed in approved, northern style, the mayor is watching the ski jumper sports event.

WASHINGTON DAY OBSERVED WITH FINE PROGRAMS

Both Schools, K. of P. and Community Meeting Honor First President; Many Take Part.

Washington Day was suitably and exceptionally well observed in Ord this year, with fine programs at both school buildings as well as at a community meeting Sunday evening at which B. M. Hardbrook was chief speaker, and an equally splendid program arranged by the Knights of Pythias for their friends Monday evening.

The K. of P. program, under the guidance of Mike Kosmatka, opened with music by Dr. E. L. Blessing, Horace Travis, Edwin Clements, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Sowl. Two selections were given by these musicians, and a solo by Dr. Blessing also. Miss Bloodgood lead the community singing which followed, after which Dr. Taylor spoke on "Pythianism" or just what the lodge should mean, what it stands for.

Mrs. Mark Tolen sang two songs in her usual pleasing manner, accompanied by Mrs. Stanley McLain, after which the speaker of the evening, John Misko discoursed about George Washington. Mr. Misko said in part: that Washington needed to be known more in his character of just another human man. Telling that this famous man had a quick temper, a sense of humor, was extremely careful about keeping his accounts. . . . The audience enjoyed the talk.

Alvin Foth Buys Farm For $4,000

Real estate deals are coming thick and fast these days, after several years of real estate inactivity. Last week Alvin Foth closed a deal with Vincent Kokes and became the owner of Mr. Kokes' well improved 150 acre farm seven miles southwest of Burwell. The consideration was $4,000, or $25 per acre. Mr. Foth, who is a prosperous young farmer south of Ord, will occupy the farm this spring while his brothers, LeRoy and Gustave is well qualified for the position. Foth, will farm his place south of Ord.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Knapp, of North Loup, were visiting Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Baker.

LEGION JOINS IN DRIVE TO AID DROUTH REGION

Soliciting Committees Canvass City With Good Success; Farmers Also Give Generously.

Two more cars loaded with relief supplies for the drouth sufferers of northeast Nebraska will leave Ord within a few days, donations having been made sufficient to fill them with aid, due in a large measure to the hard work of the American Legion, and to other free hearted residents of our city. One car was shipped a short time ago, and for the size of Ord, this is as fine a record as there is anywhere. Ord should not take all the credit, however, for many farmers of the county who know what lack of assistance will bring to those who have starving livestock have brought in all the money or feed they could spare, giving generously.

Sending three carloads of livestock food and other kinds of help is a record of which the whole community may be proud. The American Legion got behind the movement with a real bang this week when soliciting committees were appointed, and functioned, as follows: Ed Voegtanz and Dr. Blessing, east portion of square; Jim Ollis and Ernie Achen, north side of square; John Goddard and Horace Travis, south from the square; and Rev. L. M. Real west side of square. $143 was secured by these men in their work, in addition to quantities of stuff suitable to ship which were given by the business men whom they solicited. Alf Swigardt secured $38 in the courthouse alone, which was left to him to solicit.

Bob Noll reports that just as soon as W. H. Smith, Governor Charles Bryan's man on relief work, sends an official O. K. so that transportation will be available, the loading of these cars will begin. Baling of hay for the first car is being done today, in expectation that the cars will be sent very soon. Mr. Noll also reports that in the first carload shipped, Alf Swigardt secured $38 in the courthouse alone, which was left to him to solicit.

Clement To Hold 4th Annual Sale

No Hereford herd in the Loup country is better known for the high quality of the breeding stock it in than the G. G. Clement & Sons herd. For thirty years the Clement family has been perfecting this breed of cattle. Starting with the best and most popular blood lines, they have always kept abreast of the times. In this, their 4th annual sale, some of the best animals in their herd are being offered for the approval of the buying public. In addition to their animals, several of the leading breeders of this part of the state are consigning one or more of the tops of their herd and the offering as a whole is going to be, no doubt, the greatest quality offering ever seen in this country. Those contributing animals are: George B. Clement, Long Bros., of Greeley, H. C. Koelling & Sons, Jack Britton, Burwell, George Howse, John Bremer, E. T. Noonan, Wm. Phibick, H. J. Peters. The total offering will consist of 60 head, 40 bulls and 20 females and the sale will be held Wednesday, March 16 on the Clement farm. Catalogs of the offering are being prepared now and will be ready about March 1. In making brief mention of this outstanding sale this week it is not necessary to say to Quiz readers that they will get bargains at this sale. The owners know they are going to make a sacrifice. We all know that anyone wanting to start in the Hereford business and having the money to do so, could not choose a better time for the prices of all stock is right at the bottom, or a better place to secure their foundation stock, for the best in the world is being offered in this sale. Write Clement & Sons for catalogs and watch this paper the next two weeks for announcements about the sale.

BACK FORTY By J. A. KOVANDA

Underconsumption is the cause of poor livestock prices, rather than overproduction. Low finances are causing folks to get along without meat. But there is an older reason for this aversion. Propaganda started by food faddists has resulted in prejudice toward a wholesome and necessary food. There has been issued a circular entitled "The Story of Too Much Meat." A sanitarium of nationwide reputation serves no meat, and circulates misleading posters in regard to it. "Eat sparingly of meat and eggs," and "Do not eat meat more than once a day or better not more than three times a week," have been popular phrases which led folks to pride themselves on doing without meat. Home economic departments in some colleges have been recommending vegetable oil shortenings as superior to lard. It is true that too much meat is harmful, but so is too much of any other single food. Studies on the other hand show that meat is high in iron, protein and phosphorus. Lack of these elements causes anemia, which makes people feel run down and below par. It has been said that the passiveness of the Chinese is due to their starch diet. They are yielding to the aggressiveness of the Japanese who raise a more balanced diet using soybeans and other protein sources. The Britons who are great eaters of beef, have always led everywhere, thus starting the old saying that meat eaters rule the world. Housewives, who reduced meat consumption because of high costs and greater varieties of other foods to choose from, may have established the habit of doing without meat. Nor have the butchers been blameless. There is a lack of standardization and terms and knowledge. A consumer who is sold prime steak one day and tough steak the next, is apt to be cautious about making further purchases. Meat is an economical food at present prices. Its consumption helps the farmer. Furthermore, it is impossible to meet the protein needs of the body without some animal protein.

—Mrs. Archie Waterman called on Miss Hayes at Mae McCane's Saturday afternoon. —Saturday Miss Ruth Bradt came from Hastings where she is employed in the First National Bank and was visiting her people until Monday. —Mr. and Mrs. Zigmund Krzycki and family and Miss Evelyn Kaminski of Elba were Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sterneck. They have farmed one of the Sterneck farms near Elba for several years.

RENT RECEIPTS or a HOME of YOUR OWN Too many young couples start life in a rented house, pay rent for several years and then suddenly awaken to the fact that true happiness comes only with a home of their own. All they have to show for the rent money they have paid out during those years is a bundle of rent receipts when, if they had applied the same amount monthly toward purchasing a house, they could own sizeable equity in a home. Don't make that kind of a mistake, young people. When you marry plan to buy or build a home at once. We can and will help you do it. Ask for details of the Protective plan of home ownership. ## Prominent Grid Coaches Seem to Be Divided in Opinion Regarding Merits of Six New Safety Revisions in 1932 Code of Rules

BY PHILIP MARTIN

WHAT have they done to our great American game of football? Will the game retain its colorful action and still be safe for the youths who play it?

It is interesting to note the reaction of some prominent coaches to the six revisions announced for the code of rules for 1932, all of them intended to protect the player from injury.

Andy Kerr, Colgate coach, believes: "Anything that will help curb the injuries is fine." Andy seems to favor the changes, as does Dr. Mal Stevens, head coach at Yale.

On the other hand, Pop Warner of Stanford and Bob Zuppke of Illinois are two coaches who seem to object to the extra red tape involved. And Cornell's mentor, Gil Doble, says, "I don't believe they will interfere seriously with the playing of the game." From which you may gather that Gil would have been better satisfied had they let the rules alone.

Edgar (Rip) Miller, the Navy grid tutor, remarks: "Restricting the use of hands on the defense is bound to cramp the Notre Dame system." (Rip thinks they might have taken a shot at Notre Dame at the same time they were making the game safe.)

I PERSONALLY like some of the revisions, but I can't see where some of the others are going to make much difference.

Equipment such as hip, thigh and shoulder pads will be made softer both inside and out. The addition of a pound or two of soft padding should not slow up a player to any great extent.

The restraining of five players of the team receiving the kickoff on that team's 45-yard line until the ball is kicked may not ease the impact of colliding bodies. Whether this will entirely eliminate the flying wedge remains to be seen.

Mrs. Owen Johns, who had been ill at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Cramer, died as the result of an attack of influenza was able to return to her home west of Arcadia last Friday.

Sunday dinners—Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Wall entertained Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Thompson; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Jaesmon and family were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Arnold; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Braden entertained Mr. and Mrs. Fred Christensen and Margaret; Mrs. Edith Bossen, Erwin Bossen of Wahoo and Mrs. E. A. Easterbrook were guests at the Geo. Parker home; Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Russell entertained Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Cruikshank and family in honor of Winifred Russell's birthday; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Drake and family and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Wisser were guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Miller; Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Whitman and family were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whitman.

Orville Sell was kicked by a mule and painfully injured Monday afternoon while hitching a team to a hay rack. The mule kicked him in several places and he was taken to Loup City Monday evening for an x-ray examination. His injuries had not been determined when this was written.

The second meeting of the R. K. D. Litter club will be held at the Liberty basement Friday evening. Everyone interested is urged to attend.

Max Cruikshank, Leader.

Much School Activity, 2nd Semester Starts

Ord schools are buzzing with activity as the second semester gets well under way and the seniors turn to their final tasks. The wrestlers are expected to enter falls, the operetta cast is being warbling trills, and material for the declamatory contest is being shaped to win. The musicians are rehearsing for the music festival, and a number of students just finished a number of preparations in honor of Washington's birthday.

Saturday evening the Ord wrestlers went to Broken Bow to show their wares against the stiff Broken Bow competition, reporting back home that the match was lost 21 to 5 to the Bow boys. But the thing about it which most impressed the team was the stiff opposition put up by the roads seriously objected to anyone making such a trip, but the Ord boys, accompanied by Messrs. Luckenbach, Molzen and Bell, managed to get safely home again.

Elwin Auble won the only match scored for the Ord schools, defeating his man with a fall. He wrestled in the 155 lb. class. William Sowers, in the 145 lb. class, lost by time advantage, and so too did Woodrow Burrows, 135 lb., Ted Furtak, 125 lb., Edward Urban, 115 lb., Bob Hughes, 105 lb., Archie Hatfield, 95 lbs.

Miss Bloodgood and her willing helpers are busily working upon a musical play, entitled "O'D Doctor" which will be presented at the high school Friday evening. Miss Bloodgood and her flunkies are also busily preparing for the all day musical festival which will be held in Ord on March 24th, when a number of Loup Valley schools are expected to enter. Those belonging to the Loup Valley association, the towns being planned for, include: Ord, North Loup, Burwell, Scotts, Arcadia, Taylor, Sargent, Loup City, St. Paul, Dannebrog and Comstock. They will also appear on the program in this order, so arranged that the most distant schools appear latest in the day.

The musical festival is not a competition, but it is planned to have an appointed out of town critic, who will aid with instruction, but not choose winners. Each school chooses and presents its own program, given at one time, to last not more than 30 minutes. A selected evening program will also be given, chosen from the numbers heard during the day. Another feature of the day will be a special dinner at which the critic will be guest of honor, to which superintendents, supervisors, faculty members, etc., may attend if they wish to pay a nominal charge.

Registrations for the music festival must be completed by March 5th, by the entering schools. Students will be charged a very small fee to hear the competition.

The declamatory meet for sub-district 3, a central Nebraska organization, has been set for Thursday, April 7, and registrations must be filed by March 28th when the high schools, Garfield, Loup and Valley counties are eligible to join. This association and enter for declamatory honors. Much interest is expected in this work this year, of which Miss Jean Nelson and Millard Bell are in charge.

Pop Warner, left, coach at Stanford, and Bob Zuppke, center, Illinois mentor, do not seem to favor the six new revisions of the 1932 code of rules, intended for player protection. And Edgar (Rip) Miller, right, New York coach, believes the revisions will cramp the Notre Dame system.

Flying tackles and flying blocks also had to go. But any football player will tell you that a man who tackles or blocks low keeps his feet under him and keeps driving, hurts you more than the one who merely dives at you.

The rule on substitutions gets my vote of approval. The team of few reserves ought to be benefited most by this rule, as it means that players may play and rest in each of the four quarters.

The dead ball rule will be a hard one on muddy fields. The ball-carrier in the open who slips and falls must not get up and run. However, the rule will lessen piling on.

Restriction of the use of hands by the defensive team is going to revise line play. It will place a premium on big, heavy linemen who can hold their opponents off until the ball-carrier arrives. The little man may find this pretty hard to do.

GRAND ISLAND IS SCENE OF ANNUAL PRESS MEETING

The convention was presided over by Dwight Griswold, of Gordon, who was last year's vice president and became president upon the tragic death of Tom Osterman of Blair. Mr. Griswold, by his practicality and common sense in presiding over the convention, proved why he is becoming such a popular republican candidate for governor.

A tour of the government's radio monitor station was a pleasant feature of the convention. This station, the only one of its sort in the world, was built by the federal government at a cost of $350,000 and was located at Grand Island because that city is approximately in the center of the country. The station is six miles from the city and cars to take the editorial party out there were provided by Grand Island residents.

Mr. Edwards, general manager of the station, explained in detail how the station works. Its duty is to tap stations both foreign and states and abroad on their allotted wave band. When a foreign station oversteps its wave band the station notifies the United States state department, which makes representations to the foreign government.

When the local station oversteps its band the national authorities notify that station directly. Much of the pleasure radio listeners have is due to the work of the monitor station, Mr. Edwards stated.

About twenty employes are located there permanently, the personnel including 11 operators, 4 Diesel engineers, 3 stenographers, a manager and an assistant manager.

While the editorial party was in the station, about 5 p. m., Brussels, Belgium and Paraguay, South America, were coming in with about the strength of Clay Center on most receiving sets.

Doyle Buckles, once editor of the Ord Journal, made a fine ten minute speech on advertising problems at the Saturday morning session. Mr. Buckles is now editor and general manager of the Fairbury Journal where he is making a conspicuous success. Another former Journal editor, Horace M. Davis, was chairman of the dinner for past presidents of the association. Mrs. Grace Rood, of the North Loup Loyalist, was present at the convention.

A signal honor was accorded H. D. Leggett of the Quiz when he was made chairman of the nominating committee and brought in a report nominating J. Hyde Sweet, of Nebraska City, for president next year, L. A. Glassburn, of Exeter, as vice president, E. H. Purcell, of Broken Bow, Emil Von Seggern, of West Point, and A. H. Backus, of Columbus, as directors. These officers and directors were elected by the convention.

At the banquet Thursday evening President Griswold presided as toastmaster and Dr. Johnson, president of the Grand Island Chamber of Commerce, welcomed editors to Nebraska's third city. A fine symphony orchestra under the direction of Mr. Abbott played during the dinner. Friday evening, through the courtesy of the Grand Island Concert association, editors and their wives were welcome guests at a concert given by Marie Kurenko, the Russian soprano, in the Liederkranz auditorium.

Throughout the entire convention Grand Island people spared no effort to make editors feel at home and to show them a good time. It was one of the most successful conventions the association has ever held and the inspirations and ideas received by the Quiz editor and publisher will enable them to give readers a better paper during the months to come.

Dairy Association Placed 3rd In State

The Valley county dairy herd improvement association, now cut down to only three herds, placed fourth in state standings in the month of January. It was announced today. In the 5 to 15 cows group Fred Murray, of Arcadia, had the high herd while E. S. Coats & Son, of Ord, had the best 18 cows or more herd. Murray's herd of grade and registered Holsteins produced an average of 36.6 pounds butter fat. Coats' registered Jerseys averaged 34.7 lbs. butter fat.

WASHINGTON DAY OBSERVED WITH FINE PROGRAMS

Sowl's orchestra provided the closing selection, "Dance of the Goblins", after which card playing and informal visiting concluded the evening. The program was considered very fine by those present, a good sized crowd.

Also worthwhile was the program arranged for Sunday evening, which was given at the Christian church. Bert M. Hargreaves was the chief speaker of the evening, making a fine address. He said: "All students of history concede that it was Washington who won our independence; that he was responsible for the adoption of the constitution; that he successfully coped with the first problems to start this nation on its way. That all governments of the world at the time of the adoption of our constitution were monarchial; that our form of government inverted the then existing scheme of government in that the people elect their ruler, elect their judges and elect their law makers. That under this form of government the standards of living of the common people have been raised; that they are the highest in the world today. That our progress in invention, our commercial and industrial progress, our social, moral and religious progress would have been impossible under the old and former forms of government and it is to Washington and our American constitution that the credit belongs."

The other ministers of the city took part in the community program as usual, and the evening was voted a great success by the sizeable audience present. Elwin Auble sang a solo called, "This Is My Task." Another noteworthy feature was a large floral flag, made of paper flowers, which is the property of Rev. and Mrs. McCarthy.

The programs in the schools were also different and enjoyable as well as instructive.

The Washington day program of the high school, while a part of regular school work for which students secured credit, was as excellent as it was unusual. The pupils of the American History classes taught by Misses Shaver and Blanchard worked out this appropriate program, each member of these two classes writing a speech upon some phase of Washington's life. Then the three best speeches from each class were presented in a program as follows: Washington, the scholar,

Washington, the general, Rodney Stoll, Washington, the family man, Wayne Johnson, Washington and social contacts, Dola Flynn, Washington, the statesman, Sylvia Cornell, Washington, the Christian, Adrian Tegen. In addition to the prepared speeches, Charles Shepard talked interestingly, giving anecdotes concerning the most famous American, Julius Vala acted as master of ceremonies, introducing the speakers and taking active charge of the program.

In addition to the speeches, a duet sung by Rosemary Nesham and Virginia Yandegar was given, and also a reading by Marion Grace Cushing, concluding one of the finest and most appropriate Washington day programs arranged here.

Thomsen and Mrs. Nels Christensen are very proud of this little fellow. Mr. Wigent is 88 years old. Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ferris returned to their home in Grand Island. They had been spending the week end with their sister, Mrs. Elroy Staley and family. Mrs. Nels Christensen, who has been an invalid for several years, is not nearly so well the last few weeks. Saturday about 40 people were down at the Ord church, attended the Pentecostal church service in the evening. Today there is an all day meeting in the Ord church. People from Burwell, North Loup and Grand Island will be here. Something the first part of March, Mrs. Will McLain will return to her home about nine miles from Winner, S. D. She has spent several of the winter months with her mother, Mrs. Martha Mutter. Mrs. McLain is hoping for better crops next year. She says the grasshoppers were their trouble last year. She raised over 400 chickens and plans on doing at least that well the coming summer. Mr. and Mrs. Jake Honeycutt of Sargent, were in Ord from Friday until Sunday afternoon in the home of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Stichter. Clyde Baker of the county treasurer's office was ill with flu and away from his duties for several days. He was back on the job Thursday. Mrs. Margaret Petty who teaches near Comstock spent the week end at home. Sunday her father, E. H. Petty, spent several hours taking her back to her school work. The roads were in bad condition. Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Umstead have been caring for the little son of their daughter, Mrs. Willis Schofield, of Garfield county. Sunday they took the baby to its parents. However, they found their daughter quite ill and they tried to persuade her to come home with them but she thought she had better stay with her husband. The Umsteads brought the baby home again. The next morning they received a call that their daughter was worse. Mr. Umstead went after her and this week she is suffering with a gathering in her head, the after effect of the flu. Sunday, Raymond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pawleski of Sumner nearly chopped a finger off with an ax. Dr. F. A. Barta was called. He found the bone was severed and the finger was held by the skin and a little flesh. The doctor hopes to save the finger. Mrs. Tom Williams has received word from her brother, J. C. Evans of Colorado Springs. Just lately she had a stroke of paralysis. He seemed to be recovering from the shock of having his legs from the knee down amputated. He was becoming quite cheerful and in his wheel chair was able to walk upon himself when this last misfortune overtook him. A couple of weeks ago Mrs. Williams spent several months with this brother and another one. The latter is a doctor in Colorado Springs.

John and H. D. Rhode and families of Burwell were in Ord Monday. Rev. Comstock of Burwell was in Ord Monday evening and will have services in the Pentecostal church. Tuesday the 16th a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Klancey. Dr. F. A. Barta was in attendance. Miss Jessie Adams who is employed in Dr. Kirby McGrew's office, was ill for several days last week but was able Monday to return to her work. I just returned from a furniture buying trip to Omaha and will have for your approval a fine lot of furniture bargains in my store in a day or two. Come in and see them. Jerry Petska, 49-11, Art Demund has moved in from the farm and is staying with his mother, Mrs. Eliza Demund. Dr. F. L. Blessing removed all of Forry Johnson's over teeth Saturday. Fearing a hemorrhage Spot went to bed for a couple of days but was feeling somewhat better Tuesday. In spite of a bum ankle which was fractured only about a week ago, Dr. F. L. Blessing was back at her duties in the Nebraska State Bank. Mrs. Mortensen was helping last week, in her absence. Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mortensen have received word that a niece, formerly Miss Gretchen Allen, was at Jacksonville, Fla., to James Shor-smith of New Smyrna, Fla. Gretchen spent a summer here not long ago, and will be well remembered with good wishes. I. A. Manchester and son Kent of North Loup, were in Ord for a few hours Monday. Everett Petty Jr., was laid up for two weeks with an attack of appendicitis. He was back in the school room Monday. Mrs. Everett Stichter was called to Shelton last Wednesday to attend the funeral of her grandfather, Mr. Lee. A. W. Tunnick and Miss Ruth Oliver returned home Friday from Onawa, Ia. The latter had been Dr. C. W. Weekes' nurse after an operation. Mrs. Nelson was ill for four days and unable to attend to her duties as night telephone operator. She is back on the job this week. Mrs. Alice Vincent has received a letter from her granddaughter, Mrs. Will Wright Blair. They had the flu but have all recovered nicely. They are coming to Ord as soon as we have better roads. Three Fine Talks Coming To Theatre 'Strictly Dishonorable' with Paul Lukas Heads List of Big Hits Here in Next Seven Days. Three of the finest talks of the year will be seen at the Ord Theatre within the space of a week. Manager Jack Hoogenboom announced today. They are 'The Big Shot,' with Eddie Quillan, 'Strictly Dishonorable,' with Paul Lukas and Sidney Fox, and 'Working Girls,' which stars Buddy Rogers, Frances Dee and the handsome Mr. Lukas. Most famous of the three is 'Strictly Dishonorable,' which was made from the great Broadway success of the same name. It is sure fire entertainment for sophisticated people. Besides the leading man and woman Lewis Stone is featured, along with an all star cast. It will be shown here Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Eddie Quillan fans, of which there are many in Ord and vicinity, will be pleased with the 'Big Shot' tomorrow and Saturday. It is a typical Quillan picture, in which Eddie has the assistance of one of the strongest casts ever assembled in a picture. The picture is a stunner with a comic bit while Maureen O'Sullivan, Ralph Ince, Mary Nolan and Belle Bennett are in the supporting cast. 'Working Girls' is another film that is a box office hit wherever shown. Buddy Rogers and Paul Lukas, both handsome in different ways, enhance the cast along with Frances Dee, Judith Wood, Stuart Erwin, Dorothy Hall and a flock of others. This picture will please everyone, Manager Jack believes. The Ord Theatre also is pleased to announce this week that 'Palmy Days,' with Eddie Cantor, will be shown here in the near future. Dates have not yet been set but it will be here within two or three weeks. The Presbyterian ladies served a delicious chicken dinner Saturday evening. They took in about sixty dollars. Frank Stara entertained the Happy Hour club Thursday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Lyle McBeth entertained several relatives at dinner Sunday, the children of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Meese and Misses Sophie and Eva McBeth and Norma Mae Snell. Just recently Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Meese enjoyed a telephone call from their daughter, Mrs. Charles Kason, of Lakeland, Florida. It was on the 13th day of February and the 39th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Meese. Several of the children were in the Meese home that day in honor of the occasion, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meese and Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Meese, and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle McBeth and all the children. John Meese and family and Mrs. John Edwards and family could not be in their parents home that day on account of illness. Madams Carl Schmidt, Anthony Thill and Will Zabloudi gave a calendar tea Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ada Mann Friday afternoon. The program was in keeping with the George Washington anniversary now being so widely celebrated. Patriotic quotations and anecdotes of his life were given in answer to roll call and many interesting incidents relating to his social, civil and political career were reviewed in the lesson taken from National Geographic with Mrs. F. L. Blessing as leader. Judge Grants Permission. District Judge E. P. Clements granted permission this week to the State of Nebraska, through Attorney Rapke, acting for E. H. Luikart to start an action which if successful will force the stockholders of the defunct North Loup State Bank to meet their double liability claims and turn them over to the receivership department in behalf of the former North Loup bank. The permission to start the suit was granted, but whether such a suit will actually be filed here, returns to be seen.

Rosevale News. Miss Anna Nelson and pupils of Rosevale had a valentine box last Monday afternoon. All the little folks who will be beginners next year were invited to attend. Bernice Giarborg and Eldwin Hallock were the only ones that were able to be there.

About a dozen men shoveled snow on the Burwell-Ericon highway again Wednesday and Thursday. Elmer Hallock and Orville Hurbert put several head of horses on the mainline Wednesday and went to the Wheeler county line, while the rest of the men shoveled the worst drifts. Rosevale school has four new pupils this week. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Everett McMillen and Mrs. Everett McMillen are parents of a 9 1/2 pound baby girl, born Thursday morning. This makes the seventh girl in the family, the other two being boys. Dr. Norris of Ord and Mrs. Keller were in attendance.

Elmer Hallock had the misfortune to lose one of his young colts Wednesday. It is thought that it ate some moldy hay. The colt was his daughter, Bonadelle's favorite pet and she feels the loss inordinately.

Mr. Davis, who has been laid up with a broken collar bone and ribs for several weeks took worse Wednesday night and Dr. Henry Norris of Ord came out Thursday noon. Mrs. Orville Hurbert has received word that her brother-in-law, A. G. Grady, of Omaha, was one of the firemen who got hurt quite badly in the big fire in Omaha recently. Roy Swanson had a truck load of hogs on the Ord market Friday. There was a mistake made last week in regard to those who have rented places. Sam Guggenmos has rented the Chris Nielsen place instead of Mihalek's and Lewis Cropp has rented one in the vicinity of Emity.

Frank Rybin, James Hrdy and John Holub spent Saturday evening playing cards at the Victor Benben home. A fair sized crowd attended the Z. C. B. J. lodge meeting at the National hall Sunday. Owing to the small number of ladies present no luncheon was served. A donation of twenty-five dollars was sent by the lodge to the grasshopper and drouth stricken area in northern Nebraska. Mr. and Mrs. Anton Novotny and family attended a card party at the John Nevrlka home Saturday evening.

Mrs. Albert Parkos, sr., who was at Eiba visiting with her daughter and family returned home last Monday. Tude Veleba was absent from school several days last week being a victim of flu. A large crew of men were kept busy last Wednesday clearing the roads after the Tuesday snow storm. Frank Norman purchased some livestock in this neighborhood last Monday.

Eureka News. Raymond and Enos Zulkoski were Sunday afternoon callers at the Jake Osentowski and Will Grabowski homes. When is the Sale Completed? A lady went to a store in Ord and paid the nationally advertised price of $8.00 for a certain electric waffle iron. When trouble developed and she returned it for repairs, no time was lost. The dealer replaced the defective element with one which he borrowed from a similar iron in his stock. Next morning the lady had waffles for breakfast as usual. Another lady also bought a waffle iron. She paid $6.98 for it at a bargain store in the city where "A Sale is Made When the Money is Paid". She had trouble, too... Not wishing the bother of writing a letter, boxing and shipping, she laid it aside to await her next trip to the city. After forgetting it once or twice it was finally carried back. To this lady's dismay the old clerks had departed and there was a new manager. Worst of all, she had forgotten to save the purchase ticket, and without that nothing could be done. Attempts at repairing were unsuccessful. The good waffle breakfasts were no more. ### Extension Worker Gives Monthly Lesson

Miss Genevieve Woodman came from Lincoln Monday to teach the monthly extension classes, a form of project work. This week, on Tuesday and Wednesday, she taught the ladies how to decorate inexpensively their kitchens and pantries. The project leaders will go back to their respective clubs with methods of painting bowls, salad forks and spoons, spice jars, and many other clever little modernizing tricks at their fingertips.

—Mrs. Leo Nelson was the newly elected county chairman for one day of these lessons, replacing Mrs. Mulligan. Mrs. J. W. McGinnis continues faithfully her duties as the other, and is so satisfactory in this capacity that she will probably have trouble sliding out from under this work. The meetings were much enjoyed.

—Mrs. Lester Norton entertained Jolliffe members Saturday evening at her home. Mrs. August Peterson came to play in place of Mrs. Leggett, who was ill.

—The rural mail carriers are having a terrible time making their routes these days. The mud is so deep and roads so impassable from the many snows this winter that the carriers are almost unable to drive their routes in a car. Tuesday night it was about six o'clock when two of them returned to the office, and Wednesday night it was later.

Mr. Noll, who has been working very hard in order to ship the carloads of feed, mash, etc., to the needy in northeast Nebraska is in receipt of a letter from one of the men in that district who is in charge of distributing the aid. In this letter Mr. Noll is thanked for his community, for the aid given those people north and east of us, and the writer goes on to describe briefly how the food stuffs are given out. Assistance is not rendered to any man who keeps more than just seed stock for next year. Farmers who have more than a small specified number are expected to sell all over this quantity and use the money for feeding their seed stock. The help is distributed as evenly as possible to those in need so that the greatest good may come to the largest number of farmers.

The letter proves that a real good is being done, that actual want does exist, and that Ord and vicinity are being of real assistance. Anyone interested may call at the Noll Seed Company and see this letter which will also be re-printed in the Quiz.

New "Y" at Erlson.

Burlington officials are making plans for the construction of a "Y" at Erlson to turn the motor and large engines as soon as the much talked of change in train schedules becomes effective. The old turntable is much too short for large engines.

Clement's Celebrate 20th Anniversary

Sunday was the twentieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Clement so the Happy Circle club members planned a surprise dinner at the school house with the Clement family as honor guests. Everything went off as planned except the surprise part for it seems that they had found it out in some way. Nevertheless, everyone had a fine time. After the dinner the young folks played games and the older ones played whist or just visited. Nearly all the community was present, and Mrs. Elvina Clement, Mr. and Mrs. Will Dittman and family, Elcanor and Guy Keep, the Frank Miska family and Mrs. N. C. Jorgensen, all of Ord were also there. The Happy Circle club, the Aagaard family and Anna Mortensen and Hazel Halsback presented Mr. and Mrs. Clement with a tinular service. The gift of Mrs. Elvina Clement and Mrs. Dittman was a large cookie jar.

Henry Koelling Buys Blaha Bros. Garage

STATEMENT OF IRL D. TOLENT

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RAILWAY COMMISSIONER

In submitting my candidacy for membership on the State Railway Commission it seems reasonable that I state briefly my conception of the duties and responsibilities of the commission.

The Nebraska Railway commission is a constitutional body, charged with the regulation of rates and service of railway and telephone companies, and with the security issues of all utility companies operating in the state, subject always to specific laws passed by the legislature.

The state railway commission is, I believe, primarily a fact finding body and, as originally intended, a first line defense for the public, with a view to the inarticulate body against the thoroughly organized corporations who are able through their powerful lobbies and skilled lawyers to present their application for increased rates with little regard for the public welfare.

Nebraska's first interest is in agricultural production. Her people cannot prosper if foreign corporations are permitted to take the profits of high rates out of the state. Nor can honest investors be expected to continue contributions to the working capital of state industries if the railway commission authorizes fictitious valuations of utility securities.

I believe that honest capital honestly invested in a public utility and honestly managed, is entitled to a fair return, but I also believe that invested capital should be compelled to assume in some proportion the risks that must be assumed by that great industry, agriculture, and by the comparatively small business man who has no guarantee of a fair return upon his capital. It therefore appears to me that the State Railway Commission, when called upon to fix rates for public utility corporations should be mindful of prevailing conditions among the great masses of people to be served by those corporations.

I believe there is need for a change in the personnel of the railway commission to the end that there may be a new viewpoint from which to measure the claims of valuation made by public utility corporations upon which to base bond and stock issues for whatsoever purpose.

If I am nominated for the office of Railway Commissioner, and elected in November, it will be my purpose to assume office with a determination to see to it first, that the public shall have first consideration, and second, to deal justly with an impartial hand regardless of social or political considerations.
