THE ORD QUIZ, ORD, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 4, 1932.

VOL. 51 NO. 19

GOVERNOR BRYAN SAYS NAY TO NEW GRAVEL HIGHWAY

Refuses to Consider Comstock End Of Desired Road But May O. K. Road to Bartlett.

Prospects for a new gravelled state highway to connect Bartlett and Broken Bow by way of Ericson, Ord and Comstock went glimmering last Wednesday when Governor Chas. Bryan gave an emphatic "no" to a delegation from Ord, Comstock, Ericson and other interested towns who visited him at Mason City, where he was making a speech in honor of that town's harvest celebration.

His refusal to order such a highway built was based upon two reasons, the governor said. He has no legal authority to gravel Highway No. 171 until all projects below No. 161 have been completed, for one reason, and for another, the state of Nebraska has no money for additional highway construction this summer.

Members of the delegation were surprised at Governor Bryan's refusal to consider the Bartlett-Ord part of the project as he had previously assured the Ord Chamber of Commerce, the Ord Rotary club, Representative Cushing and various other Ord citizens that this road would be undertaken and completed this summer providing funds were available.

It is pointed out that the $5,000,000 federal appropriation for highway work in Nebraska should provide funds for many miles of road work in addition to that originally contemplated.

Representative Cushing received from Governor Bryan a few weeks ago a letter in which the chief executive stated that the Bartlett-Ord road, No. 171 in the state system, could be finished at once even though its number is above 161 for the reason that the law provides that highways connecting county seat towns may be constructed in advance of their regular numerical order.

Dr. J. W. McGinnis, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce road committee here, points out that Governor Bryan was taken at a disadvantage at Mason City for the reason that he did not have highway maps and office records in his pocket. Dr. McGinnis believes that the chief executive will order No. 171 between Ord and Bartlett completed this summer, in spite of his unfavorable reaction at Mason City.

It is pointed out that there is little chance of having the highway from Ord to Comstock and thence to Broken Bow taken over by the state now because a highway from Arcadia to Westerville and thence to Broken Bow has already been included in this summer's highway project by the state. This would form a link in a direct connection between Valley and Custer county seats and hence no other direct connection between Ord and Broken Bow can be considered legally.

Comstock people are up in arms over what they believe is discrimination against them in highway work. Comstock has no all-weather outlet in any direction, they say, and unless an east and west highway is built through that town there is no likelihood of their being on a gravelled highway for several years to come.

As an inducement to the state to take over No. 171 between Ord and Bartlett and gravel it at once, a group of Ord business men appeared before the Valley county board Tuesday afternoon and urged that Valley county offer to pay half the cost of graveling this highway from Ord to the Gartfield county line, providing the state will take over the entire project to Bartlett and complete it.

Representative Cushing, Jos. P. Barta, H. B. VanDecar and C. J. Mortensen were business men who used this course. They pointed out to county board members that such action would actually result in a saving of money to Valley county as, if the state takes the highway over, Valley county will be relieved of the expense of maintenance which amounts to about $1,800 per year.

Estimates of the cost of graveling from Ord to the county line place the cost at $3,200, which sum Valley county could save in less than two years if the highway is taken over by the state. At the same time an all-weather road from Bartlett to Ord would be provided for travelers.

This suggestion met with the approval of the county board and a majority of members seemed to think that a similar offer should be made to the state on highway No. 172 from North Loup to Arcadia and on two miles of county road between Arcadia and the Sherman county line. Sherman county is said to be graveling up the valley to the Valley county line and it is hoped that the state will take over the entire road as soon as graveling is finished.

A resolution offering to pay half the cost of gravel on Highways 171 and 172 and on the two miles south of Arcadia was passed by the county board and will be submitted to the state highway department at once.

Beranek, Dr. Nay Fined On Charges Of Federal Agent

On charges filed by C. W. Lesh, of Omaha, inspector of the Federal Bureau of Industrial Alcohol, two Ord men, Ed F. Beranek and Dr. Lee C. Nay, were heavily fined in county court here Tuesday. Both had been under technical arrest since last Thursday when Inspector Lesh discovered in his regular inspection that each had alcohol not covered by his government permit. County Attorney Munn filed charges against them upon complaint by Inspector Lesh and the cases were heard by Acting Judge Charles Hollingshead, both men pleading guilty. Dr. Nay was fined $100 and costs and Beranek $200 and costs, the costs in each case being about $5.00.

Ed Kokes Succeeds Father As President

Directors of the Bank of Scotia met Monday and elected Edward Kokes as president of the bank to succeed his father, the late Vincent Kokes. Edward has been cashier for several years. The new cashier and vice president of the Scotia bank is Harry Grobosky.

FARM LAND HERE CUT 17.35 PERCENT BY STATE BOARD

Land Value For Tax Purposes To Be Even Lower Than County Board Cut It.

Authorization of a cut of 17.35 percent in the assessment value for tax purposes of Valley county farm land and improvements was announced last Thursday by the state board of equalization, of which Governor Bryan is chairman. Other counties of the state received similar cuts.

Originally the Valley county equalization board voted a 15 percent decrease on all real estate and this figure as it applies to town lots and improvements was permitted to stand by the state board.

On farm land and improvements, however, the board voted an additional 2 percent slash at their meeting last Thursday and then at a second session increased this by 35 percent of one percent, making the total additional cut 2.35 percent. This, with the 15 percent cut voted by the county board and allowed to stand by the state board, will cause Valley county farm property to be assessed this year at figures 17.35 percent lower than last year.

County Assessor E. C. Weller and other Valley county officers and supervisors who visited the state equalization board recently to urge that Valley county's percentage cut be permitted to stand, express themselves as being greatly pleased with the larger decrease in farm property assessment values.

Taxpayers League Will Meet Tuesday

Petitions for Referendum on Co. Agent Being Circulated; Meet Tuesday Important.

Next Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Ord Bohemian hall the Taxpayers league of Valley county will hold an important meeting, announces President Arthur Mensing today. Township league meetings are on next week's schedule also, notably one at Cottonwood school house in Vinton township Monday evening. A township meeting will be held at Woodman hall tonight.

Petitions asking for a referendum on the county agent question at the Nov. 8 election were being circulated in Ord Saturday and many signatures are being secured, says President Mensing. These petitions will be available for signatures at all league meetings scheduled for this week and next. The county agent question and other important matters will come up for discussion Tuesday and officers of the league are anxious that a large representation of taxpayers be present.

Named As Acting Judge. Charles Hollingshead, son of Judge J. H. Hollingshead, Tuesday was named by the county board of supervisors to serve as acting judge until his father returns from the Omaha hospital where he is again undergoing treatment for his ailing leg. Surgeries operated on the leg again last week and the judge is said to be getting along nicely. He may return to Ord the last of this week.

Rousek-Trrdik. At the Ord Catholic church Monday morning Miss Agnes Anna Rousek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rousek, was united in marriage to Edward C. Trrdik, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Trrdik of Comstock. The young people will make their home at Comstock.

RODEO PROGRAM OFFERS THRILLS AND ALSO SPILLS

A Gigantic Spectacular Four Days Wild West Exhibition—Great Crowds Will Be There.

When the managers of the Custer Rodeo-Fair tell the world that the show at Broken Bow, August 23-26, is one of America's really great Wild West Rodeos they have something behind the statement that is substantial.

The planning of many months is maturing in a big way. The great number of outlaw bronchos, wild riding steers, bulldozing steers and bullfighting bulls together with the large number of trained cow ponies to be shipped from great ranches that make a business of producing the particular brand desired have made the show a real show. The outstanding cowboys of the country will be at the Broken Bow show, they were there a year ago, and they are the ones who tell us that the number coming this year will be more than doubled.

The big parade each day in which hundreds of mounted cowboys and cowgirls take part is a spectacular show in itself. On the opening forenoon this great Pioneer-Pageant Covered Wagon Parade will appear on the streets of Broken Bow. Last year's parade was fine. This year's parade will be wonderful.

Snappy acts, properly styled and directed, a riot of color in costumes, beautiful and finely trained horses, skilled cowboys and plainsmen riders whose horsemanship is superb. A veritable flock of trick riders, perform almost unbelievable stunts with their steeds at full run.

Four of America's leading artists in trick and fancy roping. The climax of this act is reached when Buffalo Brady catches five running horses with one rope while standing on his head.

Junior Brady, America's most daring juvenile horseman, rides his famous horse "King" at breakneck speed in a beautiful leap over an automobile loaded with a human cargo.

These high class acts pepped up by the Rodeo clowns, make a clever diversion when sandwiched in with the thrills and spills of the cowboys in their broncho busting, bulldozing, wild steer and wild horse riding.

The loud speaker system carries the announcements to the far corners of the great crowds and everyone gets a clear understanding of who is riding, who got spilled, what records are made, etc.

The thrills of the afternoon will come thick and fast, but what about the widely heralded bullfight at night? If you are a nervous wreck or if you are troubled with heart failure take your doctor along with you because you may need him. During excitingly good in hand, and the reckless abandon of personal safety on the part of the performer is appalling.

Equal in thrill to the famous bullfights of Mexico or Spain, the performers take the same daredevil chances as do matadors of those countries.

In this Great Feature act, six daring and skillful bullfighters take part. Unprotected by the mounted Pledgers of the Mexican ring, with dummy swords, they are compelled to show their skill, without protecting themselves from the onslaught of the Bulls. They must rely upon their own agility to sidestep the furious lunges of the enraged animals.

And then with all this most unusual day and night program the great crowds must find time to view the exhibits of a truly great county fair, which shows the cream of Custer's blooded livestock, its great variety of farm products and its wonderful educational and domestic exhibits.

The Custer Rodeo-Fair furnishes a great vacation week not only for Custer county people, but for the thousands who travel great distances to see the best there is in Wild West entertainment and thrills.

Drowned in Pibel Lake. Leo B. Brophy, a 17-year-old Alton boy, was drowned in Pibel lake recently when he stepped into a fifteen foot hole at the south end of the lake. He was unable to swim and sank at once, though efforts to save him were made by a large crowd. He was under water fifteen minutes before located by divers and though a doctor worked over him for a long time the effort was in vain. This is the first fatality in the history of Pibel lake, where an Ord Presbyterian group spent several weeks earlier this summer.

Jarusek-Weber. On July 30 at 10:30 a. m. at Phillips, Wis., occurred the marriage of Miss Alice Jarusek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jarusek of Ord, to James Weber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Weber of Phillips, Wis. They will make their home at 490 Chestnut St., Phillips, Wis.

Quiz Publisher Now Fishing In Minnesota

About 10:30 a. m. Saturday a party consisting of H. D. Leggett and his wife and the latter's sister, Mrs. Nettie Burke, of Paul, Ida, left Ord for Cullen lake, Minnesota, where they expect to spend three weeks or a month fishing. A note received yesterday states that they arrived at 6:30 p. m. Sunday after a delightful trip. By next week the fish stories should begin to roll in, as Publisher Leggett has sworn to tell bigger and better stories than did his son who fished at Cullen lake earlier in the summer.

Tolen Infant Is Taken By Death

After an illness of only four days with cholera infantum, Marie Tolen, eighteen months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tolen of North Loup, passed away last Sunday. Funeral services were held at Sowl's chapel at 2 p. m. Tuesday. Rev. Willard McCarthy having charge. Burial was in Ord cemetery.

The baby was born Jan. 20, 1931. Besides her parents, Ada Marie leaves three brothers, Leonard, Irl and Merlyn, and one sister, Doris Mae.

SIX DIRECTORS ELECTED TO PUT ON JUNIOR FAIR

4-H Clubs Will Sponsor Show Last of August; Girls Will Be Added to Board.

At the livestock judging school for 4-H club boys held at the Clement farm last Wednesday, six boys were elected as directors of the 4-H Club Junior Fair association, the organization that will sponsor a junior fair, here late in August.

Members chosen Wednesday were Charles Barnhart and Bud Van Horn, orth Loup; Cleoith Thompson, Arcadia; Bill Garret, Hartington; Benn and Melvin Koelling, Ord. Two 4-H club girls will be added to the official board and a meeting will be held this week to elect officers.

Dates tentatively chosen for the fair are August 21, County Agent Dale tells the Quiz. Members of the 4-H clubs of Valley county will have entire charge of the show and a fine program of exhibitions, judging, demonstrations, contests and other entertainment will be arranged.

LIGHT RAIN IS ORD'S PORTION OF DOWN-POUR

Upper Loup Valley Left Out When General Rains Fall Over State; Is Dry Here.

Though a general rain totalling as much as 7 inches fell throughout Nebraska during the latter part of last week, Ord and the entire upper Loup Valley region had to be content with a light sprinkle.

On July 23 rain-fall here amounted to .33 inches, on July 30 our totals were .30 and on August 1 we got .10 which altogether makes only about three-fourths of an inch.

At Dannebrog 3 inches of rain fell during the same period, at York the moisture total was almost seven inches and heavy rains fell throughout western Nebraska and eastern and southern portions of this state.

Some farmers place the damage to their corn as high as fifty percent but more conservative estimates would place it at only twenty-five or thirty percent. As the Quiz went to press Wednesday afternoon a rain was prophesied for last night.

Card of Thanks. We wish to thank those men who helped park the cars at the church and at St. Mary's cemetery during the funeral of Vincent Kokes. Their efficient and willing co-operation is appreciated.

Rev. Father Lawler J. J. Wachter, Frank Piskorski, Trustees.

Lost Seven Horses. It was reported on good authority to the Quiz yesterday that Albert K. Jones lost seven horses when a pasture windmill went on the bum and his tank dried up. We were unable to locate Mr. Jones to get details of the misfortune.

ARCADIA HIWAY MUDDLE AGAIN BEFORE BOARD

Two Big Delegations Here Tuesday, Almost Get Into Fight Over Disputed Road Route.

Actual hostilities were averted but the verbal fireworks flared and sputtered all over the court house Tuesday when rival delegations from Arcadia appeared before the Valley county board of supervisors to thresh out the west-of-Arcadia highway muddle that has caused so much controversy this spring and summer.

At least two hundred men were here and several fist fights threatened between members of the two delegations. Chief of the latter, heard in the hearing room and even after the hearing was concluded the argument continued to rage in the court house corridors and on the lawn.

As the initial step in getting the highway established along the route that state highway No. 57 shall take between Arcadia and the Custer county line. Originally, the state department of public works laid out a route that would go west a mile from the Arcadia bridge, then south a mile and then west to the Custer line. The Valley county board purchased right-of-way for a highway to follow this route and it was thought that everything was ready for action.

Then an Arcadia group led by M. L. Fries and Burt Sell began to point out the advantages of a route that would go directly west from Arcadia to the county line, and thus avoid several corners. It was argued that this route would benefit a far greater number of farmers than the proposed south route.

But the township road designated May 3 would go right across Fred V. Murray's farm so a board of appraisers was appointed to determine the damage to his farm that would result. This board, composed of W. L. McNitt, Jack Brown and John Moudry, appraised the damage at $400. The county board, however, cut this down to $200, which sum Mr. Murray refused to accept. He threatens to appeal to the courts, which throws the matter up in the air again as, if a court decision is in his favor, the state would have to resort to condemnation proceedings to secure a right-of-way.

One delegation here Tuesday favors the "north route" while a second delegation led by Mr. Murray believes the highway should conform to the route originally desired by the state. The fight Tuesday centered over the amount of damage that will be done to Mr. Murray and finally M. L. Fries offered to pay Murray $400 damages out of a pocket.

The Quiz doesn't pretend to know all the ins and outs of this affair and so far as most Ord people are concerned it doesn't make any difference which route is finally decided on, just so the controversy is settled soon so that the highway can be finished this season. At the rate the preliminary proceedings are going it doesn't seem likely, however.

Visits Old Home In Pennsylvania

George W. Newbecker, who has been greeting Ord friends the past few days, left California five weeks ago and since then has driven to the east coast and paid a visit to his birthplace near Harrisburg, Pa., which he has not seen since he left it as a boy of 10. He also visited many spots of historic interest including Mount Vernon, the home of George Washington, Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, the national capitol, the Gettysburg battlefield, and many other places. He was accompanied east by his daughters, Bernice and Ethel, and the latter's children. He left Ethel and children at their home in Ames, Ia., and was accompanied to Ord by Miss Bernice. Sometime this week Mr. Newbecker and his daughter will leave Ord for a trip through the Black Hills and Yellowstone park and thence back to California.

Married Last Week. Last week the Quiz reporter in some manner overlooked the marriage of Ernest R. Smith and Sadie V. Philbrick which was performed by Rev. W. McCarthy of the Christian church on July 21. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will live on the place that the groom is farming near North Loup.

—Frank Johnson is enjoying his annual vacation from his work in the Beranek drug store so Sunday he and Mrs. Johnson left by auto for Minneapolis where they expect to spend several days.

Daryl Hardenbrook Suffers Loss of Eye

When a shingle nail pierced the ball of his right eye Tuesday afternoon, Daryl Hardenbrook of Ord suffered the loss of his sight and the entire eye may have to be removed, says Dr. F. A. Barta, who is caring for the injury.

The accident happened at the Mrs. D. B. Smith house in West Ord where Daryl was helping Seth Mason shingle a garage. A chalk line was being used to line the shingles up the line being attached to a nail driven lightly into the roof. Daryl went to move the line and instead of pulling the nail gave a jerk on the cord, the nail flying toward him and the point striking him squarely in the eye.

It was a painful accident and Daryl is suffering greatly. Unless infection sets in it is probable that the eye will not have to be removed, says Dr. Barta, but he will never see out of the eye again.

REQUIEM HIGH MASS HELD FOR VINCENT KOKES

Funeral of Respected Ord Man Was Attended by Hundreds; Procession 3 Miles Long.

Very beautiful last services for Vincent Kokes were held at the Catholic church of St. Mary's Friday morning. Father Lawler being assisted with the solemn requiem high mass by Father Murray of Burwell and Father Devine of Scotia, the three officiating in the presence of an enormous crowd who had come to pay their final respects to one of their most illustrious townsmen.

The numbers who attended the funeral could not begin to be accounted for in the church, although seats and aisles were filled but overflowed into the churchyard on all sides. Cars were parked for blocks in each direction. Attending in their official groups were the Knights of Columbus, the city council and Mayor Moser, and the fair board which Mr. Kokes served so faithfully as secretary for many years. Flowers too arrived abundantly, to show the esteem in which Mr. Kokes was held by his fellow Bohemians, by his fellow Catholics, and by all who knew him or dealt with him. Thursday afternoon, when the body lay in state at the home, so that all might call who wished to pay their respects, the room was fairly lined with flowers of every color and kind. At least a dozen large baskets and banked dozens of other offerings were contributed.

The funeral was probably the largest ever held in Ord, it is estimated. A host of relatives and numberless friends attended or attempted to do so, a lasting tribute to the quiet, unobtrusive little man they honored.

The pall bearers were four brothers and two brothers-in-law of the deceased, Charles, Frank, John and Anton Kokes, E. W. Gruber and Frank Hosek. Interment was made in the Catholic cemetery.

From out of town came the Anton Kokes family from Tekamah, a brother, Mrs. Paul Bartunek of Boise, Ida., a sister of Mrs. Kokes, and Mrs. Anna Lubin of Grand Island, in addition to a number of whom no record was kept.

Pastures Dry Up, Farmers Turn To Grain and Silage

With many Valley county pastures drying up due to the hot and dry weather of the past several weeks, dairymen are turning rapidly toward the use of hay and silage for cattle feed in order to keep the butterfat production up, County Agent Dale says.

Native grass pasture has particularly dried up in most parts of the county. Where sudan grass is found, farmers are still running their stock out for pastureage.

Many Valley county farmers are following the practice of cutting some green corn which gives little additional feed for their dairy cows with the pasture season about over. They are either chopping the corn or throwing it on the ground for the cows to consume. It makes a palatable feed fed either way, Mr. Dale says.

Dairymen are especially interested in keeping butterfat production up since most cows freshen in the spring months. Some have been feeding hay along with grain. Since the oats and barley crop for this year is now available, some will start using the grains for cattle feed.

County Agent Dale says it is practical for the dairymen to pasture their alfalfa late in the fall by eliminating the third cutting. The pasture makes a succulent feed for the dairy cows and gives fast pasture. It should not, however, be grazed down too closely, he says.

Notice. A meeting of the Taxpayers league will be held at Cottonwood school house in Vinton township on Monday, Aug. 8, 8 p. m. Everybody come. 19-11

7 NEW TEACHERS COMPLETE STAFF OF ORD SCHOOLS

Last 2 Vacancies Filled Monday Evening With Election Of Misses Hans, Frushour.

The 1932 teaching staff of the Ord schools is now complete, the last two vacancies being filled Monday evening when the board of education elected Miss LaVerne Hans, of Seward, to the English department and Miss Zelma Frushour, of Beatrice, to the Junior high faculty. Miss Hans takes the place of Miss Jean Nelson while Miss Frushour succeeds Miss Elizabeth Easley.

Miss Hans is a university graduate and during the past year has taken graduate work at Central, says Superintendent Millard Bell. For three years previous to that time she taught in Wahoo, Neb. Besides English, she will act as instructor of dramatics, which she has had much experience in.

The other teacher elected Monday, Miss Frushour, is a graduate of Wesleyan university and last year taught in Waverly. She will teach English and kindred subjects in the Junior high school. The resignation of Miss Easley, who for five years has been an efficient Junior high teacher, was accepted with regret by the board Monday evening. Miss Easley will become the bride of Wilbur D. Cass on August 14.

Other teachers new to Ord are Dean S. Duncan, who will be band leader and music instructor, Miss Viola Crouch, who will teach mathematics, Miss Mildred Jacobsen, who will teach normal training, Miss Eilfrieda Blomenkamp, who will be first and second grade teacher, and Miss Erma Gossard, who will be a departmental instructor in the south school.

Mr. Duncan, who will co-ordinate work done by both Miss Bloodgood and Mr. Toenniges, is a graduate of the college at Tarkio, Mo., and has had special work under Professor Fuhr of Hastings, Professor Quick of Lincoln and other noted instructors. He has had nine years experience in band and orchestra work including several years at Tilden and Edgar, Nebr. His home is at Allerton, Ia., and he will bring his wife and two children to Ord about Sept. 1.

Miss Crouch, new mathematics teacher, is a graduate of Henderson for several years. She will handle the work taught by Miss Hostetter last year and also will assist Miss Edna Hinzka in girls athletics.

The home of the new normal training teacher, Miss Jacobsen, is Broken Bow and she is a graduate of the University of Nebraska. The former normal training teacher here, Miss Shafer, becomes head of the history department while Miss Jacobsen takes over the normal training instruction. She has had several years of rural and city school experience.

Miss Blomenkamp, who succeeds Mrs. Helen Fuser, first and second grade teacher, is a Hastings college graduate and has been teaching at Fairmont for several years. Miss Gossard, who takes Gladys Radcliffe's place as department coach and manual training instructor at Carleton. Her education was secured at Wesleyan.

Mr. Cass continues as principal of Ord high school and Mrs. Marguerite Stark as principal of the south school. Miss Lucene Hardin will return as dean of girls and home economics teacher, Mr. Kovanda remains as agriculture teacher, Miss Elizabeth Shaver in the history department, Miss Ely Johnson in language and English, Miss Mae Baird in the home economics department, Mr. Lukenbach as commercial teacher, W. S. Watkins as teacher of mathematics and science and an excellent general coach and manual training instructor.

In the Junior high Miss Elizabeth Lukes and Miss Edna Hinzka will return while in the elementary school Mrs. Stark, Miss Lois Finley, Miss Lucy Rowbal, Miss Inez Swain, Miss Bernice Campbell, Miss Adeline Kosmata, Miss Daisy Hallen and Miss Bertha Dolcyn will resume work early in September.

John Andersen To Operate Grocery

A deal was closed this week by which John L. Andersen goes into the grocery business in the building in which his father, Hans Andersen, operated a store for so many years. John bought the fixtures in the building and bought a remainder of the Andersen Grocery stock from Eino Hurley, who bought it from Hans Andersen's creditors a few weeks ago. John this week is stocking the store with a complete line of staple and fancy groceries, fresh fruits, vegetables, etc., and says he is in business to stay. He will operate his meat market in connection with the grocery business.

Ethan Magnusen Weds. Ord friends last week received announcements of the recent wedding of Ethan Magnusen to Miss Alma Rasmussen of Audubon, Ia., where the young couple will live. Ethan is a son of the late Rev. J. Magnusen and lived in Ord for several years.

The Nebraska State Fair is a growing institution. It has become one of the great agricultural, educational and pleasure giving events of the country. More people come every year. To thousands it is a summer vacation which combines pleasure and education. As the Fair increases in size and quality the interest of Nebraska people increases in their crops, their live stock, their land and themselves. We shall be better able this year to entertain our people. The fine new grandstand and club building will accommodate thousands in comfort. The exhibits will be more extensive. The program of events will be larger and better. The profit to every good citizen who needs to know the extent of the land, livestock crop and human resources of his state will be a hundred fold. Don't forget the dates, Sept. 3 to 9.

OLD FASHIONED SPIRIT.
Broken Bow people, now busy with plans for the Custer county fair and rodeo late this month, are showing an old fashioned spirit of co-operation. It is bound to make the show a success. All those helping with the fair are doing so without pay, it is learned. No salaries are paid this year to the president, secretary, directors, judges, superintendents, clerks or helpers. The more free tickets are being issued, even officers and stockholders actually buying their own tickets.

That's the way celebrations used to be put on, everybody in the community joining in whole heartedly without thought of financial reward. The Custer county fair will have a spontaneity unknown to fairs put on by "hired help".

The annual rodeo at Broken Bow is rapidly becoming known as one of the greatest in the country. No fair being held in this year, it is likely that a host of Quiz readers will attend and see how Broken Bow does things.

THE CHANCE WE TAKE.
Hundreds of thousands of citizens who helped elevate Herbert Hoover to the presidency in 1928 have since regretted the way they voted. Many of us have been thoroughly dissatisfied with his official actions, at least during the first two years of his term. In these years he was held in a straitjacket dominated by Mellon one day and in fear of Senate democrats the next. That he has found himself in the past year and has since pursued a forceful, constructive policy gives us a new measure of his worth and throws open to him the chance of a second term.

Nobody will deny that the Hoover of twelve months ago could never have been re-elected. Few will deny that the Hoover of today stands a chance and a very good chance.

The democrat party helped the Hoover boom along when it nominated Franklin Roosevelt and John Garner.

Mr. Roosevelt cannot be seen by this independent newspaper as a man of the type needed to take vigorous charge of a faltering governmental machine. Affable, well meaning, kind hearted though he is, the democratic nominee is not the man to weld a big stick as did the great Teddy Roosevelt. The personalities of Teddy and his fifth cousin, Franklin, are entirely different. In fact, the Hoover of the past few months bears more resemblance to Teddy than does the distant relative who bears his name.

As for Speaker Garner, he is thoroughly discredited in the minds of all thinking people. After a quarter century of conservative, constructive legislation, Garner became Speaker of the house. In his first few months he showed signs of being a great executive. Then, in the closing weeks of the session he damned it all by his absurd relief bill and his insistence upon having the Reconstruction Corporation loan to anybody, anywhere, in any amount, upon any sort of collateral. A man of his type is dangerous.

Something DIFFERENT

When the Ord representatives held court for the Big Hat club of Burwell week or two ago, a fellow who listened was much impressed with the way John Misko executed his business as prosecuting attorney. After the show was over, introduced himself and exclaimed, "You know, you ought to be a lawyer."

Flabbergasted, John stuttered around and finally produced as calmly as he could: "That's what I've been trying to do now for a couple of years."

Alfred Albers calls me to say that he is not accustomed to being mistaken for either Curt Gudmundsen or Ellsworth Ball, even at a distance of a good many feet, through smoke and fire.

In other words, it was young Mr. Albers atop the Milford building as it burned a few nights ago. He was the man with the axe.

The O. G. E. girls had a lot of fun at their winners and losers party a few weeks ago. They played a trick on the winners and got them all to come dressed for a Hard-Times party. So the winners arrived in non-matching socks, terribly ragged clothes, unsightly hats, and so forth.

When the losers burst forth in all their glory, it was to appear dressed in their fuzziest, prettiest clothes. And loud was the wailing. The punishment for being a winner wasn't over yet.

After playing cards all evening, the winners were taken to Thorne's cafe to eat. And just to be sure no clothes-changing was done enroute, out of raggedy clothes into more fashionable ones, the losing girls swapped the car keys of their disgruntled clubmates, and herded them down to the restaurant under their own suspicious eyes.

Needless to remark, a grand time was had by all. Though not extremely stiff and formal, as you might suspect.

The lot north of Sowl's chapel and Dr. Blessing's dental emporium is more beautiful this year than ever. Take a look at it.

Also glance at the ivy on the high school walls. It is making a noble growth.

Count the petunia beds next time you drive up one Ord street and down another. They are many and attractive. And of many colors and sizes. The one on the Christian church corner is attractively heavy with varicolored blossoms. Only a few doors west, the Sam Marks home has one neatly tucked into a corner of the house, and all the flowers are a deep, rich purple.

"Tims" told this week about a street car in Chicago from which passengers were hurriedly ejected, while a negro lady suddenly became the mother of a baby girl. But what tickled me about it was that the mother declared that "circumstances had chosen a name for her little girl, who would be called Caroline".

The reducing fad in and around Ord gets violent-er day by day. Next to arguing about Hoover and Roosevelt and expounding your views on Prohibition, it reigns as a leading topic of conversation almost everywhere.

There are gobs of different diets, all with their convinced exponents. One calls for hard-boiled eggs and tomatoes, for 48 meals for two days a week, every week. Another calls for fasting every other day, ad infinitum. The good old days of lamb chops and pineapple as the only diet upon which to reduce are gone forever.

And don't think many Valley county residents haven't tried them out. One girl is variously told to have lost 6 pounds, 100 pounds, and several figures in between. She has taken several years from her appearance and added enormously to her attractiveness.

And the men have the fever too; they are not exempt. Waist lines that look like gutters are not popular. Everywhere men and women are trying to stay young by maintaining a youthful figure.

Ora Taylor, who was traveling with Camp's circus and playing with the circus band, wrote a long letter about circus life for publication in the Quiz.

Edwin S. Russell, 7 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Russell, died of blood poisoning.

BACK FORTY

The decadence of the county fair is one of the signs of these changing times. Some fairs have discontinued because of depleted treasuries. Others have either disguised themselves as featured amusements, or dwindled.

The over-estimated public is no longer interested in seeing pumpkins or cabbages. Exhibits are generally brought to the fair with no other purpose in mind than to collect prize money and make a few sales. Too many other agencies are duplicating the fair's educational functions. Then too, there is not the need for new breeds and crop varieties that existed years ago.

There are many out-of-date premium lists. Some offer less in prizes for basic crops, such as corn, than for onions or some other minor plants which bring the county little in revenue. Some give premiums for varieties that are poor and unmarketable. Exhibitors are encouraged in growing inferior varieties if they look to the county fair for sound information and leadership.

One county fair premium book offers tax money in prizes for six noxious weeds, listed as sheaf grasses. These are cheat, foxtail, wild oats, wild rye, barnyard grass and crab or water grass.

Similar cases occur in other classifications. Premiums may be placed upon animals and birds that the county would be better off without. The winning dairy cow may be a poor milk; the champion gilt may be barren; the sweepstakes hen incapable of laying an egg.

Exhibitors are a problem. Samples of wheat, too old to grow, are brought back year after year to win prize money. Hay, exhibited as first cutting, may still be damp. So-called junior pigs may appear to be much older. The prizemasters may be plugged with wax and government veterinarians confess that even they cannot always detect or prove an expert plugging job. Farmers cannot be blamed for the interest in exhibits which are doubtful farm value.

Wealthy professionals often tour the fairs with fancy herds of pampered blooded stock. Against these the average farmer has little chance of winning.

Competent judges are dear and scarce, and even they make mistakes. One recently placed a barrow first in a gilt class. Five dollars a day is all that will be paid to judges this season. Some mediocre words and disputes will doubtless result.

It should not be misconstrued from the above statements that fairs do not have many desirable features. These paragraphs on the gloomy side are written to portray some of the reasons why county and state fairs are slipping.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Gray Moths Take Crops.
Ashton, Ida., July 25.
Dear Quiz: I meant to mail you some recipes for the Cook's Col Yum Yum last week but failed to do so, so am mailing them today. Will also try to tell you a little about crops and rural conditions here. Late in the spring thousands of small gray moths appeared and we all began to wonder what pest we had to fight next. Pretty soon everybody began to complain that their gardens were being eaten up by worms like cutworms, also young peas and wheat fields were being stripped. Soon the worms, which were army worms, began to migrate and roadside weeds would be full of them, especially the red root and Russian thistles would be stripped. They climbed into houses and up tall buildings. Each day some of us would congratulate himself upon our escape but would wake up in the morning and find our gardens alive with them. The spray used was equal parts of slacked lime and blue vitriol to five gallons of water. It seems the moths were the cause of all the trouble, they laid the eggs.

The Western Farmer announced over the radio this morning that we could expect another invasion in September, from eggs that didn't hatch in the spring. My garden has escaped so far for as soon as the moths appeared I turned the turkeys into the garden and they soon made short work of them. The army worms like best peas, beets, carrots and onions. Down in the Idaho Falls country they are bad in the sugar beet fields while both Utah and Idaho had their share of mormon crickets and army worms. They fought the crickets like they fight hoppers in Nebraska.

and wind so far but the hail didn't do much damage.

Today, July 25, is a holiday all over this country where there are Mormons. Pioneer day, or Mormon day they call it. This is also the day that the chislers, or ground squirrels, are to hibernates until next year. It seems that in early days the chislers became pests like they are now. Brigham Young ordered them to disappear, so the legend goes, and they did. In less than a week's time they were gone and so every year afterwards.

So far we have every indication of a good crop and if prices would only come up. In the past years the cost of production has been much higher than the selling price. When they holler about people hoarding their money it makes me laugh, but doubt if the coming election can help any, until money matters are on a more solid basis.

Mrs. Wm. H. Thomas.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Canning time is here, and if you have any especially desirable methods of cold-packing or making jelly and jam, please don't be greedy, but share them with your many valley county friends and neighbors, through the columns of the Quiz.

Below is the second method of canning green beans, entirely different from the one printed last week. Perhaps you'll want to try both of them:

To Can Green Beans
To one gallon of beans cut up add 1 c. vinegar, 1 c. sugar, and salt to taste. Cover with water and boil 20 minutes. Can. When you open to use, drain off the liquid, wash and cook like fresh beans.

Mrs. O. E. Weseberg, Omaha.
To Can Sauer Kraut.
Cut up cabbage into small pieces. Salt to taste, work with the hands until salt is all through the cabbage. Pack in jars, not too tightly, and pour boiling water over. Seal tight and let stand 3 or 4 weeks before using.

Mrs. O. E. Weseberg, Omaha.
Seven Day or Sweet Cucumber
Take 7 pounds of small cucumbers about 3 inches long or less. Put into a stone jar and cover with brine made of 1 pt. salt and a gallon of water. Let stand four days. Pour off brine and cover cucumbers with clear cold water. Let stand three days. Wash and split each one regardless of size. Put in a kettle and add 2 c. vinegar and water to cover. Add a handful of grape leaves and a slightly rounded teaspoon of powdered alum. Simmer two hours but do not let the liquid twinkle in the kettle and put pickles in a stone jar.

Heat 6 c. vinegar and 6 c. sugar, 1 oz. whole allspice and 1 oz. stick cinnamon. Pour this over pickles. Allow to cool. Heat three times, allowing liquid to come to a boil. Cool liquid twice, and then add heating put pickles in jars. Pour hot liquid over them and seal.

Ilda Howerton.
"These are just like the sweet pickles you buy, when fixed right", the pickle maker declares.

Raisin Cake.
1/2 c. butter, 3/4 c. sugar, 1 egg, well beaten, 1 1/2 c. cooked raisins, 1 1/2 c. flour, 1 tsp. soda, 1 tsp. cinnamon, 1 tsp. nutmeg, 1 c. juice in which raisins cooked. Cook 1 1/2 c. raisins in pt. boiling water with 2 tbs. sugar until raisins are tender. Cool and drain. Mix the raisins in the batter last. If preferred 1 1/2 c. chopped nuts may be added. Bake in a well buttered small loaf pan in moderate oven for 45 minutes. If baked in muffin pans this recipe will make 12 small cakes.

Mrs. Dean Moser, Burwell.
Busy Ants Sewing Club.
This week's project for the Busy Ants Sewing club was "The Making of a Child's Garment" and "Stitching Darning".

The girls were assisted in their practice judging by Miss Louise Elliot of Holdrege. The general appearance of the dresses was excellent but on closer examining a few faults were discovered.

The girls found a few unfinished seams and unfastened ends. These will be all corrected and the real judging for next time promises to be interesting.

The demonstration chosen by Erma Creemen was "A Child's Under-skirt". The one picked by Helen Cruikshank and Ruth Jameson was "Alternating Patterns".

The posters made by Doris and Fern Benson were very neat and will make a good showing. This meeting was held at the home of Helen Cruikshank.

Ord Had Big Fire On Friday Night

On Friday night, of last week, the Milford store in Ord was badly damaged by fire and the St. Paul bridge players who were in the city had a chance to see the fire.

The editor was amazed at the way a fire is handled in Ord. We were at the beautiful residence of Judge Clements when a telephone call to Edwin Clements, the Postmaster of that city, telling him that the Milford store was on fire and since it was but one door from the post office he had better come down and see about the post office property.

The entire bridge party went to the scene of the fire and while driving down town, one of the Ord men, who was driving, seemed to be worrying that he might drive his car in the way of the fire apparatus and be subject to a fine. He stated that he had paid a fine a short time previously when he inadvertently got in the way of the fire apparatus. He had been in the country and was driving into town when he got into trouble. This time at the beautiful residence of his car a block or two away and walked to the scene of the fire.

Here a strange spectacle met our gaze. Not a man or woman was in the street about the Milford store where the smoke was issuing from the building in large columns. The spectators were across the street on the sidewalk and the firemen were left to do their work unhampered by a lot of people who were anxious to help, but did not know how. In a short time the fire boys ran in their hook and ladder truck and then stretched a rope from the truck to an awning support on the post office building and then the people surged up to that rope, but not one of them went into the roped-off territory.

The thought struck us that it would be a wonderful thing to have the St. Paul people, who habitually follow the fire boys and invariably hamper them in their work, present to see how people should actually behave when the firemen are fighting a fire. Ord people are certainly well trained in that respect.

J. P. Webster in St. Paul Photograph.

We call it "The Nebraska State Fair." It is far more than a State Fair. It is really a great Agricultural and Industrial Exposition. It is Nebraska's "show window." It is a visualization of Nebraska's development and productivity. For seven days, September 3 to 9, it enables Nebraskans to visualize their tremendous accomplishments and at the same time prove to the world Nebraska's greatness in productivity and opportunity.

Friends of Maud Shepard are grieved to learn of the illness which befell her Sunday evening about six o'clock. Just before she and Miss Mabel Lee, who lives with Miss Shepard, had partaken of their evening lunch the latter was stricken with paralysis which has affected her right limb, arm and hand. Miss Shepard's mind, however is entirely clear, she suffers no pain and is able to talk through her heart is very weak. Dr. Hemphill who is attending her reports her condition quite hopeful at this writing. Mrs. Gertrude Lundstedt and Miss Lee are constantly at her bedside.

Mrs. V. J. Thomas and daughters Maude and Mrs. Isa Creager entertained a few friends at dinner Tuesday all of whom were old neighbors in Dist. 42. They were Mrs. Eliza Davis, Mrs. Byron Johnson and daughter Alice and Mrs. Jacob Williams. The combined average ages of these old settlers is 79 years. The day was pleasantly spent in reminiscing over old neighborhood experiences.

Following is the very splendid program rendered at the second evening's chautauqua, Tuesday: six hand piano group arranged by Mrs. Ava Johnson composed of Mrs. Dorothy Dean Duff, Miss Margaret Johnson and Miss Ruby Babcock; reading, Cherry Bligsons, Miss Margaret Rood; contortion acts, Maud Baker; male quartette, composed of Floyd Hutchins, Erlow Babcock, George Hutchins and Arch Moulton; two piano solos by Miss Nema Cruzan; a dance, "The Highland Fling" by a group of high school girls arranged by Miss Eunice Rood; a reading by Miss Inez Hutchins. The program closed with a chalk talk by George Clement of Mira Valley and a fitting close with Mr. Clement's work as the music accompaniment consisting of Mrs. Warren at the piano, Miss Marjorie Green, violin and Donald Fisher, cello.

Mrs. Myra Barber returned Friday evening from a two months vacation with Wisconsin relatives. She was accompanied by her brother, Dr. George Thorgate and family recently returned from China and who are leaving this week end for a brief visit in Lincoln and at Welton, Ia. From there they will return to Mr. Thorgate's parents' home at Alton, Wis., where they left their youngest son, then on to the Baptist's General Conference at Adams Center, N. Y. Mr. Thorgate will further his study of tuberculosis in an eastern college this winter. The family will be with Mrs. Thorgate's people at Salem, W. Va.

Mrs. Barber reports a most enjoyable reunion with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Thorgate, formerly of North Loup and her five brothers and sisters and their families. The only absent member was J. A. Barber.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thorgate and son of Hastings motored to North Loup Saturday to greet their cousins, the George Thorgates at a family gathering at the J. A. Barber home.

Mr. and Mrs. Guilford Hutchins and daughter Inez entertained at breakfast Tuesday morning honoring Dr. George and Helen Shaw Thorgate and sons.

Mrs. Klingsmith of St. Paul came Monday morning to be with her niece, Maud Shepard.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Sample returned Saturday evening from a pleasant motor trip with relatives and friends at Ray Center, Neb., and points in Kansas.

Mr. and Mrs. Arch Moulton drove to Grand Island Tuesday to meet Mrs. Moulton's mother, Mrs. Hattie Clement who will visit here for some time. Mrs. Clement keeps house for her two sons at Geneva, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. John Davis and Mrs. Eliza Davis left this morning for Boulder, Colo., where John has employment. Mack Green also accompanied them.

Rueben Vogel and two friends autoed up from Lincoln Sunday to visit Rueben's people in Riverdale. Miss Ida Vogel who has been the guest of her parents and brothers Dan and Ed returned to Lincoln where she is employed.

A number of Riverdale young people were entertained at the Everett Stiehler home in Sumter Friday evening.

Mrs. Bill Hish was hostess Wednesday to the Merry Jane Kensington club.

Little Francis Portis has been visiting the past several days at the grandparents' home, the Portis'.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen and sons of Litchfield were week end guests of North Loup and Riverdale relatives. Their nieces, Darlene and Olive Brown accompanied them home Monday for a two weeks visit.

Rev. Weary of the M. E. church at St. Paul came Monday to labor in the financial welfare of the church at this place.

The King's Herald's met with their leader, Mrs. Winnie Bartz at the church Saturday afternoon for their mission study.

Oletha Williams of Scottia is the guest of Mrs. Anna Crandall during chautauqua.

A large crowd listened with much interest Sunday evening to the first number of North Loup's Home Talent Chautauqua which was staged in very comfortable quarters in Johnson & Co.'s lumber yard. Mrs. Thelma Hamilton, stage manager, very fittingly announced the program which opened with a sacred song service by a chorus of twenty male voices from the S. D. B. church. Mrs. Hamilton then introduced Mrs. Helen Shaw Thorgate, a graduate of the North Loup schools in 1914, who entertained by relating a hike on foot which she, her husband and nine-year-old son experienced in Japan two summers ago when they climbed Mt. Fujiama which Mrs. Thorgate reported to be the most thrilling experience of her life. Two solos by Miss Maxine McCune with Miss Nettie Clark at the piano were then enjoyed. Dr. Geo. Thorgate, a medical missionary of Shanghai, China for the past eight years then talked on his experiences as a doctor in that land and also gave considerable light on the Chinese Japanese disturbances of the present time, he himself being in the city of Shanghai when it was receiving its most severe shelling. Dr. Thorgate graduated with the class of 1910 in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Erlow Babcock and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hawks were entertained at Rook at the Clyde Baker home in Ord Thursday evening.

Mrs. Blanche Schwabauer's Sunday school class of girls were entertained at the parsonage Friday evening. Games and refreshments following occupied the time from seven to nine.

Green hats with a band of yellow upon which are printed in black lettering "North Loup Popcorn Days, Sept. 14-15" is the popular way in which North Loup and community gents are designated these days and those it seems who have not as yet joined this club are few and far between. Nearly all are catching the spirit and there be any who do not fall in line woe be unto them.

Under the direction of Mrs. Edgar Davis a kitchen band was organized Saturday night at the old town hall. All sorts of instruments ranging from washboards to potato ricers were sending forth entrancing music by this newly organized women's auxiliary and not to be out done by the donors of green hats these worthy matrons are appearing this week in green capes trimmed in yellow of all sizes and shapes. Green shoes with yellow ties may also be worn.

Mrs. Homer Rupert enjoyed a visit with her people at Broken Bow last week end. A sister, Miss Julia Porter, who has been visiting here returned home at this time. Another sister, Mrs. Edward Belz and small son of Holdrege accompanied Mrs. Rupert home Monday.

ADVERTISING BENEFITS ALL

Advertising An Investment

The accounting department may classify advertising as an expense, but it is something more than expense; it is an investment.

Advertising is an investment because, rightly done, it pays dividends to the producer, the manufacturer, the jobber, the wholesaler, the retailer.

Advertising pays dividends to the advertiser because by swelling demand it tends toward quantity production, greater volume of business with relatively little increase in "overhead" and operating expense.

The farmer has learned that by advertising his live stock and farm sales in such newspapers as The Quiz, papers of county-wide quality circulation, he gets a larger attendance of buyers, sells more at better prices. If only one buyer is influenced to come who otherwise would have remained at home, his presence as a bidder or buyer may easily repay the entire cost of advertising. And the chances are that many more than one are thus influenced.

Public Pays, But Pays Less

And the benefits of newspaper advertising are extended to the buying public in no uncertain fashion. Increased demand gives the manufacturer quantity production. Working to capacity enables his plant to produce and sell at lower cost, and a large portion of the benefit is passed on to the public. It is becoming recognized quite generally that a nationally and locally advertised product is very likely to be of higher quality or cheaper, or both. The well informed buyer has come to look with suspicion upon a commodity which is not advertised.

True, the cost of advertising is added to the price of the product, but so great is the volume of business that the advertising cost is spread so thin as scarcely to be perceptible. And it is more than neutralized by the speed and efficiency of quantity production. A familiar illustration may be seen in the mammoth factories producing low priced automobiles.

Why Newspapers Are Cheap

The newspaper of course benefits from advertising. But that also in a larger sense is a community benefit, for no weekly newspaper sold at $2 a year could long exist without advertising. It is advertising revenue which makes it possible to sell a newspaper for less than the cost of the white paper on which it is printed. The national and local advertiser make cheap newspapers possible. Without advertising The Quiz would probably be compelled to advance the price to $10 a year. This in turn would reduce the circulation and cause another advance in price, or suspension of publication.

So our readers should feel kindly toward business men who advertise. It is such farmers and manufacturers and retailers who make a newspaper possible, just as truly as it is the co-operation of the general public with a live management which makes it a GOOD newspaper.

Every merchant who advertises not only helps the town and county, but he helps every other business man in the community.

The man who does not advertise sometimes reaps where he has not sown, for he gets some patronage from the people brought to town by advertising.

Live clothiers who advertise help each other and incidentally help the dry goods and grocery men and all other lines of business. Advertising dry goods and groceries brings new customers to the clothing store. And so on throughout every department of merchandising, banking and professional activity.

Advertising keeps the town on the map. It is the best preventative of dry rot in communities where the trees are getting thick at the base.

Quiz advertising pays big dividends of community interest, profit and progress. Reciprocity is a good idea—help those who help you and yours.

Marks of Progress

There is still a tendency among a few small town business men to regard newspaper advertising as an expense instead of an investment. But the greater number are sold on the value of advertising. They know from experience that advertising to which they give the time and attention it deserves produces results.

Time was, not so many years ago, when it was quite customary for banks and grocery stores and other small town business places to change their ads only once a year, or at longer intervals determined by how long the type would print legibly. When the type was worn out and had to be thrown into the printer's "hell box" the advertiser was usually notified that the time was favorable for a new ad, as it would have to be set anyway.

That was in the days when country newspaper men were too humble to fight. They accepted such advertising in the same spirit that they accepted cordwood and pumpkins on subscription. Now it is different. The man who considers advertising a donation is told in no uncertain terms that there is no space in the paper for him.

Advertising Speeds Turnover

Generally speaking, it may be said truthfully that the stores which advertise give the best values. There may be exceptions, but they are few and far between. Here again the principle of quantity production applies. It costs the retailer but little more for fuel, light, insurance, clerk hire, taxes, and other operating expense, to do a business of $50,000 a year, than it costs to sell a $25,000 volume. And the interest on the money represented in his average perpetual inventory need not be much more.

Advertising increases the demand, and this in turn speeds the turnover or the number of times a year the retailer can use the same dollar invested in stock. With increased volume of business he is able to give better value for the same money or the same value for less money, and still show his regular profit.

And this regular profit need not be quite so high if the rapid turnover made possible by advertising leaves little or no dead stock on his shelves.

Good Ads Are Interesting

The small city, in fact every city, owes much to its merchants. It is live, progressive retailers, manufacturers, professional men, who make a town and a newspaper possible. The day is past, if it ever was, for the dealer who says: "I've been here for 40 years and everybody knows where I am and what I sell." Today is the day of the merchant who tells the world about his business and what he offers for sale.

And he tells it in a way that arrests attention, holds interest, exerts persuasion, puts over the conviction that he can fill the reader's needs to the advantage and satisfaction of all concerned.

There's a dollar and cents value in the news, and there is also a news value in advertising. A good ad carries the news of the department of the business world to which it relates. The best type of modern advertising is simple and sincere, newsy and interesting. And profitable, too. It pays to read the ads.

Mrs. Simmons Continues Tale Of Journey From Capital to Nebraska

Last week, I told of starting westward from Washington, over the Old National Trail. I tried to describe the beauty of the hill and mountain scenery through the Alleghenies. The history of the Trail I did not mention, leaving it for this week. To me it is fascinating, for it covers much that had a great influence on our nation's life, and yet about which we hear little. Perhaps, without it, we should be entirely different in government and ideals today.

From Cumberland, in the northwest corner of Maryland, this history begins. Along our road from that point, George Washington travelled many times, first as a twenty-one-year-old lad, chosen by the Government in spite of his age to go as a messenger to the French in Pennsylvania to demand that they withdraw. Over this mere trail he rode horseback in the winter of 1753, climbing mountains, fording streams, suffering hardships. He had many dangerous experiences, such as nearly drowning in the icy waters of the Allegheny River, being shot by a treacherous Indian. But he succeeded in delivering the message and learned that the French were planning a further advance to the present site of Pittsburgh. He, also, made friends of Indians thereabouts, an invaluable help to the colonists later.

The next year, Washington was sent out again over this trail, this time as Lieutenant Colonel, to try to drive out the French. He widened the trail, built the first road through the first wagon pass over the mountains, explored the country, built Fort Necessity. This old stockade in the middle of "Great Meadows" has been restored and this year dedicated as an appropriate part of the Bicentennial celebration at the site Washington chose because it was one of the very few natural clearings in this densely wooded section, and located on a creek which would furnish water. It is made of heavy logs about ten feet high, with pointed tops, driven into the ground, and must have afforded very effective resistance to the weapons of that day. Slits between the logs gave the enemy without. A cabin stands inside the stockade, of handhewn logs, the door and windows put together with wooden pegs. A tablet states that it was used as a first aid station by Ensign James Clark, who was later the Surgeon General of the Continental forces and attended both George and Martha Washington at their deathbeds.

Tablets on the walls tell many interesting things about the place and its importance. Washington, in 1769, bought the farm of 234½ acres of which it was part, and held it the rest of his life. In his will, he described it in very complimentary terms. In the battle of Fort Necessity, Washington, a twenty-two-year-old youth, commanded 400 Virginia and South Carolina troops for nine hours in a driving rain-storm against 900 trained French troops. Three times the French Commander asked for a parley. Finally, Washington consented, and next morning he and his troops withdrew with flags flying, but leaving the artillery behind.

Several results are noted. Washington's name first became famous here. It aroused new interest in the western territory and opened it for settlement. It gave the colonial forces knowledge that they could stand against the best troops of Europe. It was the first real battle of the French and Indian war, which eventually drove the French from the territory west of the mountains. Thus, it indirectly started the Seven Years' War in Europe, which affected so many countries, and made the high tides which eventually brought on the Revolution. But more than all else, it was the first united action of the colonies. Virginia and South Carolina fought here, New York and North Carolina sent reinforcements, Pennsylvania and Maryland helped pay for it, Massachusetts sent troops to harass the French.

Washington was, of course, very much discouraged by the surrender but the House of Burgess passed resolutions complimenting him very highly for his actions here.

Some of the relics of the place were found when the stockade was rebuilt. There are shot and bullets, flint, iron nails from the wagons, pieces of glass, parts of the burned logs. Many years they remained hidden in the ground until they were rescued to add their concrete bit to this important place.

That Washington's reputation did not suffer from the Fort Necessity episode is shown by the fact that the following year General Braddock invited him to go along on his expedition to drive out the French from Fort Duquesne. So, along this road marched the colonial and the beautifully equipped and trained British soldiers. But Washington was attacked by a violent illness and lay by the roadside for two weeks, trying to get well enough to go on. Eventually, he made the trip over these rough mountain trails in a covered wagon arriving at Fort Duquesne in time for the battle. The disastrous defeat, because of Washington's advice as to the method of fighting was not taken, is well known. Back along this same trail came the remnant of defeated men. Near the point where Fort Necessity had been, Braddock succumbed to his wounds and was buried. Washington is said to have read the burial service. The grave is marked by a monument in a circle of evergreens.

Near the grave is a very plain depression in the ground, clear evidence of the great amount of travel over it. For seventy years, it was the principal road to the western frontier. Along it travelled those brave souls who built homes in the wilderness. Washington travelled

Methodist Church.
The W. F. M. S. meets Thursday afternoon at 2:30 with Mrs. Peter Hallen.

Graded church every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Adult sermon at 10:30. Arthur Auble is the leader for the Intermediate Department service.

Union Service at 8 at U. B. church.

One writer suggests that the term "declining years" may refer not only to age but more right to circumstances. One's declining years are the years in which he declines things. Do you know anybody who in his church relations, would come under that head?

The study circle meets next week Wednesday with Mrs. Hardenbrook. Mrs. Molzen assisting. The subject for discussion is "Art in the Home". The program is led by Mrs. Edgar Roe.

Some "Brown Brothers" U. S. May Lose in 1940

All Filipinos and all American citizens—but contrast the two Igorrote head-hunters on the left with the native mission workers at right, the latter typical examples of the progress wrought by education under American supervision. These are some of the widely varying types comprising the 7,000,000 Filipinos whom America will lose if Philippine independence is granted by Congress.

and the coaching excellent, and all who saw it offered Inez Hutchins compliments for her splendid work as coach. The chaqueta, sponsored by the alumni, backed it and were more than satisfied with the results.
The cast of the play included Margaret Rood, as Mintie, a young lady from London seeking rest and quiet; Fanny, her maid was played by Gertrude Hemphill, while Betty Manchester, had the part of Miss Tillington, her aunt. An absent-minded neighbor was the part taken by Leslie O. Green, with Margaret Johnson playing the role of Grace, his daughter. Chester Noyes was Peter, the neighbor's son, while Arletta Ingraham took the part of Mrs. Dean, his sister-in-law and housekeeper.
Judge Bayard Paine arrived Wednesday in North Loup, where he was to speak at the chaqueta last evening on a topic having to do with economics.

FISH NOT BITING, QUIZ BOSS SAYS; WEATHER LOVELY

August Poor Month, Alibis The Man Who Boasted In Advance Of Stories He Would Tell.

Jack Pine Lodge on Middle Cullen Lake, Nisswa, Minn., August 5, 1932.

Dear Quiz: I am writing this letter, not because there is anything worth writing about, but because Eugene is expecting me to send something for publication.

We left Ord last week Saturday at 10 a. m., stopped that night in a nice tourist camp at Dakota City, just across the Missouri river 6 miles west of Sioux City, Iowa. It was an ideal day to drive, cloudy and cool all day. When we awoke Sunday morning it had been raining for some time and did not hurry, thinking it would quit, but we finally had to load up in the rain and drive in the rain for three hours and we were hoping all the time that Valley county was also getting a good soaking. We left camp at 7 a. m. and were soon going through Sioux City. We saw lots of good corn there and Ord and Sioux City and very little corn that was much hurt. All needed rain of course but most of it looked like rain would make a good crop. Iowa corn made a good crop. Minnesota is also dry, is also making a good corn crop. We drove 425 miles Sunday, got supper at Brainard, 20 miles from here and drove in about seven p. m. I was pretty tired from driving all day and it did get pretty warm, a couple of hours after afternoon, the only time on the trip, that the sun showed itself.

It is dry here, also. Some gardens have practically burned up but so far as I have seen it, other crops look good. Corn and potatoes both look good and I am told the spuds are a good crop. There has been one good shower since we came and I wish I could ship some of this delightful weather down to our Valley county friends. As I am writing this morning it is quite cool that we have a fire and it gets quite hot in the sun in the afternoon. The nights are delightfully cool and one can sleep better with a couple of blankets over them than without any. When the kids were here they complained about it and continued having the same kind of weather, blows steadily from the west day after day. Not so hard as when they were here and not so hard but what we can go on the lake but it was blowing hard and yesterday when we were down the lake so we got plenty of spray.

And the fishing. Well, the least said about that the better. We go out and get a mess of bluegills every day. So far we have had a fish dinner each day but today is going to be an exception, as we are going to Brainard this morning. We have caught a few small bass and a few crappies but fishing is bum, always is in August but I believe it is a bit worse than usual and anyone wanting to catch big fish would be disappointed. We did not expect to get them and we know the lake is literally alive with fish, so we are not disappointed.

We were surprised the day before yesterday when Bert Cushing, and Herbie motored up the lake and stopped to call. They are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Archie Coombs of Cotesfield who are in the Way-Mah-Dee camp a mile or so down the lake. The Cushings were up yesterday to have dinner with the Clements family and were leaving for their home at Lincoln the latter part of this week. This is the second year the Coombs people have been here.

The depression has hit the summer camps pretty hard. August is the hottest month in the year, usually sees the camps filled up but this year I am told that the rental properties are mostly vacant. Many who have their own cottages and could be here as cheap as at home, have not come this year and others have made short stays. At present our cottage and the Judge Clements cottage are the only ones among the 12 in our camp that are occupied. We are expecting two or three more families in soon however. H. D. LEGGETT.

Lyle McBeth Wins Spalding Tourney
Playing some of the best golf ever seen on the Spalding course, Lyle McBeth of Ord Sunday won the invitation tournament sponsored by the golf club of that town. With two O'Neill golfers, O'Donnell and Golden and Francis Shaughnessy of St. Paul, McBeth tied with 35 for honors as medalist. He then proceeded to sweep through the top flight and beat Shaughnessy for honors in the finals. Harry McBeth, his brother, was the only other Ord golfer entered in the tournament.

C. W. Leonard's stock of merchandise that was damaged when the Milford building burned a few weeks ago was being moved the first of the week to the Sarah McLain building.

Grading Starts On State Highway From Arcadia to Co. Line

Bright and early last Thursday morning a grading crew started work on the new state highway west from Arcadia to the county line, reported M. L. Fries when he visited Ord Tuesday. The highway will go almost straight west from Arcadia five miles to the line, following the right-of-way over which the big fight occurred before the Valley county board last week. State surveyors and grading crews were only waiting for this right-of-way scrap to be settled and then jumped into action at once.

From the Valley county line the new highway goes south to connect with the state road recently built in Custer county and then goes west to Westerville and hence to Broken Bow.

The new highway should be completed this summer and fall.

THIEVES RANSACK STARA HOME IN COUNTRY, GET $9

Family Absent Tuesday As Thieves Pay Visit; $21 and Diamond Ring Overlooked.

While the Henry Stara family were absent Tuesday afternoon their home on the highway between Ord and Elyria was ransacked by unknown parties and the sum of $9.00 was stolen from a dresser drawer. The thieves overlooked $21 in currency and a valuable diamond ring.

The exact time of the theft could not be fixed as the Stara family left home about 2:30 o'clock and didn't return until 6:30 in the evening.

As soon as they walked into their home they knew thieves had been there as the drawers had been pulled from dressers and cupboards and the contents were strewn about the floor.

Apparently cash was the only thing stolen, the thieves finding between $6 and $7 of Mrs. Stara's money in one drawer and about $2 belonging to one of the children in another. Mrs. Stara's diamond ring and $21 in currency had been hidden behind a picture on the wall and was overlooked.

Sheriff George Round was notified at once and made quick time in getting to the Stara home. Accompanied by Mr. Stara, he set out up the Burwell highway to question some suspicious looking men whom the Stara's had seen on their way home from Burwell. Five different men were stopped and searched, the sheriff says, but none had the amount stolen in his possession. They saw more than twenty hitch-hikers on the road and probably many had been over the road earlier so there is no likelihood that the thief will ever be caught.

Nice Rain Wednesday Gave Our Corn Crop New Lease On Life

A nice rain of 1.10 inches fell here last Wednesday evening and gave Valley county's corn crop a new lease on life, the rain being heralded as a million dollar down-pour. Other parts of the county got even more moisture than Ord, 1 1/2 inches being reported at North Loup and 2 inches in some localities. Thursday night another light rain fell. Both rains were accompanied by heavy winds and a little hail which did no damage.

Monday evening another rain threatened but only a few drops fell in Ord although Davis Creek and other parts of the county reported as much as 1-1/2 inches of moisture. Crops are looking good in the North Loup vicinity and west of there and also in Eureka township. Other parts of the county have sustained great damage from heat and drought. Temperatures of close to 100 degrees have been the rule here this week.

Wants to Hear From Friends.
In a letter to the Quiz this week, Mrs. Lovina Flieger, of Plains, Mont., states that she would like to hear from any of her old friends who still live in Valley county. The Flieger family were pioneer settlers in Mira Valley but left here 35 or 40 years ago. Mrs. Flieger is past 80 but is still enjoying good health. Her husband, J. Z. Flieger, passed away some years ago.

Hoover's Acceptance Speech on Air Tonite
This evening at 8 o'clock central standard time, President Herbert Hoover will deliver his speech of acceptance in which most people are vitally interested. To many, the speech tonight will seem the most important of the entire campaign for in it the president will impart his stand on prohibition and other vital issues of the day. The address will be broadcast over a national hook-up. If static is not too bad, anyone with a good radio should be able to hear the speech easily.

Joyce Hamilton Married.
In La Junta, Colo., on July 30, Miss Joyce Hamilton became the bride of Jacob Geist, bakery employe of that place, in a pretty ceremony performed at the Methodist parsonage. The bride is a daughter of LaJunta and has many friends and relatives here.

Pheasant Mothers Chicks.
North Loup, Aug. 9.—(Special)—Clark Skadson, of Scotia, is telling about seeing a pheasant mother skedding a brood of tame chickens on his farm a few days ago.

LEGGER WANTED BY OMAHA COPS ARRESTED HERE

Was On Way to Burwell With Liquor, Pays $200 and Costs; Being Held For City Police.

Probably the largest shipment of intoxicating liquor ever confiscated here was taken Monday evening by Sheriff George Round and Deputy State Sheriff Otto Dudschus when, acting on a tip from down the line, they arrested Plymouth driver, Charles Hollingshead and found in his possession 58 1-2 gallons of whiskey and alcohol.

The arrest was made on the highway between Ord and North Loup. Worley, driving a 1930 Ford engine coupe, was enroute to the Burwell rodeo, he said, and submitted to arrest without a struggle.

In the rear compartment of the car the officers found a quantity of liquor containing bootleg whiskey, five 1-gallon cans containing alcohol and twelve pint bottles with pretty labels and seals, the contents supposed to be "Four Aces brand" of Canadian whiskey. Worley was arraigned in county court Wednesday morning and pleaded guilty to charges of transportation and possession, being fined $100 and costs on each count by Acting Judge Charles Hollingshead. The total fine was $210.25 and the bootlegger dug down into his pocket and paid it without a murmur. His Plymouth coupe also was confiscated and will be sold by the Valley county sheriff.

The South Omaha man is a cripple and appears to be in poor health. He told the county judge that five years ago when he was working as an auto mechanic at Omaha, he fell into him as he was working in a pit beneath the car. His back was broken and since then he has had to wear an iron brace at all times. He is married and has one child, Worley says.

Having paid his fine he expected to be freed but just then Sheriff Round received a telegram from the United States marshal at Omaha asking the county to hold him until Omaha authorities can come after him. The bootlegger was indicted for liquor offenses by the Omaha grand jury recently and officers have been searching for a vast liquor pouring bee was held in the court house yesterday and the liquor confiscated from Worley was poured down the sewer with a ring of thirsty on-lookers stood around licking their lips.

PROJECT CLUBS SHOULD APPLY BY AUGUST 15
Eighteen Groups of Women Already Enrolled for "Live At Home" Project.

Valley county extension women's clubs who expect to take the home demonstration project work as offered by the college of agriculture extension service and the local farm bureau for the coming year should have their applications in before August 15, County Agent Dale said today. Eighteen clubs have already indicated their desire to give the work.

Twenty-five clubs in Valley county were enrolled in the extension project at the last year when they studied "Convenient Home Equipment". County Agent Dale expects at least thirty clubs to enroll this year.

Local clubs enrolled in the work this year will take the "Live at Home" project as well as the other parts of the state. The project is expected to give suggestions to homemakers about household savings.

During the year, the women will study various means of household saving practices. The first lesson in September will deal with the importance of gardening and ways and means of gardening. Methods and equipment for efficient food preservation will be studied in the second lesson while aids in home nursing will be discussed in the next meeting. Making the old clothes new, spending the holidays at home, the summer meat supply, use of dairy and poultry products and home baking are other topics to be studied. The community achievement days will be held in

Hurlbert Cows Dry, Pig Was Doing The Milking

From Rosevale neighborhood comes the following yarn of a new kind of self feeder for hogs.

Laely Orville Hurlbert has been grinding every morning that his cows are dry when he goes to milk them. It happened several times and Hurlbert began to get suspicious. One morning this week he arose earlier than usual and went to the corral to watch. This is what he saw: Sitting on its hind legs beneath one of the cows was a pig, busily engaged in milking the cow and seemingly enjoying his breakfast.

Since then Mr. Hurlbert has watched this pig and he will go around the cows and squeal until one of them lays down, then collect his meal of milk. During the day if the pig gets hungry he follows the cows out to the pasture.

3 ERICSON GIRLS TRY SHOP LIFTING, ARE CAUGHT HERE

Nu-Way, Chase Toggery and Kosmata Shoeg Store Victimized But Decline To Prosecute.

Three Ericson girls, the oldest 17 and the two others 15, tried their hands at shop lifting in Ord Monday and after raiding two stores successfully came to grief when they tried to add three pairs of shoes to their stolen wardrobe.

Chase's Toggery, the Nu-Way Cleaners and the Topi Shoeg Store were the stores victimized.

From Chase's the three girls made away with a silk dress, two silk slips, one pair of silk stockings, a pair of Munsing pajamas and two silk brassieres. At the Nu-Way Cleaners they lifted three silk dresses. It was at the Topi Shoeg Store that the young shop lifters came to grief when Mr. Kosmata's eagle eye observed them in the act of purloining a pair of high shoes and several pairs of silk stockings.

The girls were accompanied to Ord by their mothers but at County Attorney Munn's office in the court house it developed that the merchants within the shop lifting activities of their daughters.

After giving the young ladies a severe reprimand, County Attorney Munn called an consultation with the merchants who had been victimized and inquired whether they wanted to prosecute. When informed that if the girls were found guilty they would be sent to the state industrial school, the merchants proprietors of the Ord stores declined to file charges and the girls were released after a stiff warning.

It has been the policy of local law enforcement agencies to give children, particularly girls, a second chance if they are caught in misdemeanors and for this reason no charges were filed against the three young ladies nor were their names made public.

Ord Girls Dance At Burwell Rally

Jake Belina and the Burwell Sojaks for a distinct hit at the big pep rally held at Burwell Friday night. Jake followed Bill Hoffman, also a former Ord man, and both of them spoke on the subject of the rodeo, Jake, however, making his address in four languages, Bohemian, Polish, German and English. After this he introduced eight Burwell boys, James Kriz, Ed Hulinski, Albert Kamerad, Carl Hulinski, Will Kamerad, Emil Hulinski, Eldon Sile and Lumit Cadek. These young men, who had been at Burwell all night long, had all day on the farm, and yet find time to go through their training regularly. They put on a splendid exhibition of athletic and gymnastic work, which made a great hit with the crowd.

Another feature of the program was the tap dancing by six Ord girls, who have certainly developed this pastime into a fine art. Elwin Aulsebrook sang a number of those splendid bass solos for which he is rapidly winning renown. North Loup's contribution to the entertainment was Messrs. Hudson and Petty, and Kent and Sterling Manchester in a number of very effective quartet songs. The Burwell band played several numbers at the opening of the program, while sixteen high school girls sang songs and gave a new special rodeo yell. Bill Forsberg completed the program with one of his famous acrobatic performances, and the program was declared the best ever given at a pep rally in Burwell.

Spalding Boy Drowned.
Henry Hueman, 19 year old Spalding boy, was drowned Sunday in the Cedar river just below the mill dam at Spalding. A deep hole had been dug in the dam recently and he slipped into it and was drowned although he was said to have been a strong swimmer. The body was recovered after one hour and forty minutes. Two Ord men, Lyle and Harry McBeth, were playing on the golf course near by and were present when the body was brought out of the fifteen foot hole below the dam.

Food Center Store Given New Front
A pressed brick front with modern display windows was installed this week by James Milford in the building occupied by the Food Center grocery. Contractor C. E. Goodhand had charge of the job and completed it last night.

The new front is very attractive and the Food Center manager, Joe Puncocchar, says that it will be much easier to decorate his windows attractively now.

Harold Benn Heads Junior Fair Ass'n
At a meeting of the junior fair board at County Agent Dale's office Monday an organization to be known as the Valley County Junior Fair association was perfected. Harold Benn was elected president, Cleith Thompson vice president, Charles Barnhart secretary and Bill Garnick treasurer.

August 30 and 31 are the dates selected for the junior fair sponsored by the Valley county 4-H clubs.

Mrs. Susie Barnes, who has been visiting in Brimfield and other places in Illinois, writes that she is now in Omaha and will soon return to Ord.

COMMITTEE OF 3 WILL HELP DRAFT WAGE CUT BILL

Taxpayers League Discusses Need For Lower Co. Salaries, Names Men Help Cushing.

To assist Representative Marion J. Cushing in making up a schedule of salaries for county officers in Nebraska, these suggested salaries to be included in a bill to be presented by him before the state legislature next winter, the Valley County Taxpayers League at its meeting appointed a committee of three men.

Members of the committee are M. L. Fries, of Arcadia, A. W. Cornell and C. E. Goodhand, of Ord. They were nominated from the floor and elected by a vote of tax league members after Joseph Waldmann and others expressed the necessity for reduction of the salaries of county officers.

Other Taxpayers Leagues in Nebraska are appointing similar committees and salary reductions suggested by these various committees are ranging from 15 to 30 per cent. It is hoped that when the legislature meets a compromise measure embodying a substantial salary cut for all county elective officers may be introduced and passed.

A good crowd attended the league meeting Tuesday, probably the largest crowd present since the organization was formed.

A resolution introduced by M. L. Fries and seconded by Mr. Waldmann was passed, this resolution recommending that the Valley county board "furnish the right-of-way whenever the state department of public works desires to build a road in the county." Mr. Fries' resolution was introduced after he had summed up the so-called Arcadia road case in which he and north of Arcadia had considerable difficulty in having designated a township road the route that the state has now adopted for a state highway.

It was suggested by Mr. Waldmann and apparently approved by a majority of the members present that a Taxpayers League committee visit each county officer before January 1 and suggest that during the coming year he voluntarily reduce his salary. No official action was taken on this suggestion.

Discussion was held relative to circulating a petition asking for a referendum on whether or not Valley county should employ a county engineer next year. Action on this matter was left for a future meeting.

The League is pushing its campaign for signatures on the remonstrance against the county agent and President Mensing, who presided, said that nearly all farmers who have been approached have signed the remonstrance willingly. These petitions will be assembled and presented to the county board prior to Sept. 1.

The league expects to continue its plan of holding township meetings over the county and one will be held at Arcadia in the near future.

THE BULLFIGHT AT BROKEN BOW

Officials of Custer Rodeo-Fair Give Out Statement.

The management of the Rodeo-Fair to take place at Broken Bow, Aug. 23-26 authorize the following statement:

The widely heralded bullfight at the Rodeo in Broken Bow, August 23-26, is to actually take place. It is to go regardless of protests which are coming from all over the United States, because it will not violate Nebraska laws.

The bulls will not be killed in the ring but it will be a thrilling, exciting bullfight. The bulls are to be shipped direct from the bullfight border and the Spaniard and Mexican fighters are champions of the bull rings of Mexico.

This is not a sham bullfight but the real thrilling thing as it takes place in Mexico, minus all cruelty to the animals. The exclusive Nebraska contract with this company and costing a handsome sum of money and large delegations are coming from long distances.

Five-thousand ring-side seats will be on sale at 50c. The Custer Rodeo-Fair is recognized as one of the best in the country.

The Pioneer-Peasant Parade, the great Rodeo program, the Champion Cowboys of the U. S., famous Trick Riders, Ropers and Clowns each afternoon and especially the Bullfight each night, all go to make it a big event. Tremendous crowds are expected.

Fined On Check Charge.
On a charge of issuing a no-fund check in the amount of $1.52 to John Wozab, Jr., Rollin Brickner was fined $5 and costs in county court here Tuesday. Seven other no-fund checks for small amounts also had been given to Ord business men by young Brickner and he made all eight checks good before being released.

Supt. Bell's Father Killed By Lightning

Saturday Superintendent Millard D. Bell of Ord received the sad news that his father, who lived near Rockford, Nebr., had been instantly killed by lightning. Mr. Bell, sr., was about 55 years old and leaves his wife, two sons and two daughters. Details of the tragedy are lacking but it appears that Mr. Bell was just driving a team into his own farm yard when he was struck by the lightning bolt. Supt. Bell and family left for Rockford, which is near Beatrice, as soon as they received the message.

Grand Master Here.
Last evening Edwin B. Johnson, of Grand Island, grand master of the Masonic lodge, was in Ord and attended the regular meeting of the Ord lodge.

BURWELL RODEO OFF WEDNESDAY TO GOOD START

Crowds Slightly Smaller But Program On Par With Other Years; Tomorrow Last Day.

Though the crowd attending the Burwell rodeo yesterday was probably slightly smaller than on the same day in previous years, Ord people who attended the big show say that the entertainment dished up at the rodeo leaves nothing to be desired. The rodeo opened yesterday and continues today and Friday.

All of the nation's most famous cowboys are competing for the big prizes offered at Burwell, the list including the six top men in the annual Champion Cowboy contest sponsored by the Rodeo Association of America.

The Isler Carnival Company, which appeared at Burwell last year is again on the rodeo grounds with twenty car loads of rides and shows and is said to be doing a fairly good business.

Dr. E. E. Clark, of Ashland, is doing the announcing this year and is said to be doing just as good a job as imported announcers of the past. Dr. Clark is a former Burwell man and is well known in Ord.

More than 100 running horses are competing in races daily, the Irwin stable of Cheyenne, Wyo., being one of the many entries.

Yesterday was "Grand Island Day" and several hundred people from Grand Island attended the morning Dwight Griswold, of Gordon, republican nominee for governor, was on hand and made a brief speech. Today is "Legion Day" and officials of the American Legion from all over Nebraska are expected to attend. Friday is "Lincoln Day" and a special train from Lincoln with Governor Bryan and a host of other notables will attend the rodeo.

The final day is always considered the big day at Burwell, as winners in bull-dogging, bronc riding, calf riding, steer decorating and the other rodeo events are decided then. The largest crowd of the week probably will be present tomorrow.

PIONEER TEACHER OF LOUP VALLEY HEEDS SUMMONS

Maud Shepard, Known to Early Indians As "White Papoose," Dies In North Loup Friday.

North Loup, Aug. 9.—(Special)—Maud Amber Shepard was born at Omaha, Nebraska, August 15, 1863 and died at her home in this village, August 5, 1932.

Miss Shepard, or Maud, as she is more familiarly known by everyone, moved to Greeley county with her parents in 1872, where her father, one of the earliest settlers, had taken a homestead. Here she spent the early part of her life among pioneer surroundings.

Maud's mother never tired telling how constantly on guard they had to be, for the Indians greatly desired the white papoose, as she called her. The family moved to North Loup some 24 years ago and this has since been her home.

When 15 years of age Maud taught her first term of school. She followed this profession nearly 30 years, being a secretary of the school board for a number of years. With the exception of one year at Culbertson, Nebr., she lived at home with her parents, walking or driving to school through sunshine and storm, always optimistic and enthusiastic. She possessed the characteristics, along with the regular instruction, into the hearts and minds of hosts of boys and girls in both Greeley and Valley counties.

Miss Shepard identified herself closely with the community life, and served as secretary of the school board for a number of years. She joined the No Lo club as a charter member. She united with the church in her youth and was active in all departments of its work continuously until the time of her death.

She is survived by her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Strode and their daughter Diane, of Hollywood, Calif., and numerous more distant relatives, only a few of whom were able to be present at this time. These were a host of friends, are left to mourn her loss.

Following brief services at the home of Mrs. Shepard gathered at the M. E. church at 2:30 Monday afternoon Aug. 8, for the funeral services conducted by her pastor, Rev. Geo. Schwabauer, the NoLo club of which she was a member were seated in a body as were also the members of her young women's Sunday school class, who had charge of the preparation of beautiful flowers. Music was furnished by a mixed quartette consisting of Roy Hudson and Donald Fisher, Blanche Schwabauer and Genevieve Hoepner. The quartette sang "Abide With Me". "Whispering Hope" was sung as a duet by Maud's nephews, Harry and Hoepner and before the closing prayer Mrs. Hoepner sang "Face to Face". Pallbearers were Merrill and Clifton McCellan, Will Kildow, Claude Thomas, Homer Sample and Edwin Schudel. Interment was in the family lot at Scotia.

Had Accident Near Ord.
North Loup, Aug. 8.—(Special)—When Mr. and Mrs. Dan Bohrer and Mrs. Amy Taylor were driving home from Ord Sunday evening they had an automobile accident when their car crashed into a truck load of cattle from Dunning. The truck was running without a tail light. The Bohrer car was somewhat damaged and Mrs. Bohrer received cuts about the head and a badly bruised arm. A car coming from the south and driven by an Ord garage man had to take the ditch to avoid the wreck but was unhurt.

Delcos Retain Lead.
The Ord Delco-Lights retained their substantial lead in the Valley County Farm Bureau Loop Sunday when the members of the boys beat Arcadia 9 to 7 in a game featured by the heavy hitting of Harry Wolf, John Warford and George Finch for Ord and Scott, Higgins and Hollingshead for Arcadia. In other games Sunday Mira Valley beat Elyria and Oak Creek beat the Ord Camels.

Hron Store Goes Back to Days Of Trade and Barter
Back to the days when a farmer's wife traded a case of eggs for a new dress and the farmer himself traded a few sacks of potatoes for a new suit—that's what Frank Hron's store in Ord is doing these days. Yesterday a big sale began in the store and besides selling for cash Mr. Hron is taking in trade such things as eggs, chickens, potatoes, grain of all kinds, cows, hogs, ducks and geese and used automobiles.

The store was almost mobbed when the sale opened at 9 a. m. yesterday and since then trade has been brisk. Evidently Loup valley farmers, though they may not have ready cash, have plenty of farm products and need mechanics.

Edward F. Smith, of Omaha, is the sale manager in charge and the "trade and barter" plan being used was originated by him.

NO BOND ISSUE WANTED.

When the writers of the constitution of Nebraska placed therein an ironclad provision that the state could not bond itself in excess of $100,000 they enacted a wise law. Ever since then Nebraska has followed a "pay as we go" policy while other states, notably Iowa and the Dakotas, have issued fabulous amounts of bonds to raise money for paving and good roads.

Organizations that have tried to get Nebraska to change its constitution and then issue bonds to pave roads know just how greatly Nebraskans believe in the "pay as we go" policy. All such moves have been miserable failures.

We would like to have explained to us, though, in what way the use of $2,500,000 of federal funds by the state of Nebraska for highway development this year differs from a bond issue. Aren't we going in debt by this amount as surely as though we issued bonds? Provisions of the relief fund state specifically that the money must be paid back to the federal government when Nebraska takes this huge sum it does so expecting to repay it to the federal government.

Furthermore, the sum of $1,700,000 that Nebraska got from the federal road fund in 1931 is merely borrowed money and must be paid back. In fact, the state is paying it back now at the rate of $300,000 per year. It will take until 1937 to repay the money borrowed last year after which we will begin paying this year's loan back at the rate of $250,000 per year. Moreover, interest must be paid on this money, probably at the rate of 4 per cent or more.

Perhaps Nebraska should borrow this money from the federal government and use it to create jobs. It is badly needed though how it can be done in view of the specific provision against it contained in our state constitution we do not know. Let us use this money with our eyes open, and mayhap, gain the fund and complete knowledge that it must be paid back and that paying it back will hamper highway development in years to come. There is no use of our fooling ourselves about it—looks like we've got our unwanted bond issue in just a little different form.

THE HOSPITAL RACKET

The American Medical Association is up in arms and rightly so, the quiz believes, because of the government practice of providing free medical care for veterans with non-service illnesses or disabilities. One famous doctor making the protest, himself a lieutenant-colonel during the war, estimates that 77 percent of the cases treated in veterans hospitals are of non-service origin.

We have, of course, no disposition to deny war veterans who were injured while in service or whose present disability dates back to war causes, any medical attendance or hospital care they may need at government expense. Neither should there be desire upon the part of anyone to deny indigent veterans proper medical care. But present laws make no such distinction and any man who served his country in any capacity or for any length of time during the war, even though he may now be entirely able to pay his own medical expense, may go to a veterans hospital and receive treatment at public expense.

The government has, in recent years, been extending its system of veterans hospitals. These hospitals have been built at enormous expense and the expense of keeping them up likewise is tremendous. They are always well filled for we have 4,000,000 veterans who are eligible for treatment in these hospitals.

At the same time there are in this country thousands of privately owned hospitals that are partly empty at all times. Thousands of doctors, many of whom are themselves war veterans, are being denied practice that should be theirs.

There are limits which no people can go beyond in providing for its veterans. Since the war ended the United States has so spent six billions and it is estimated that at the present rate of increase the cost will be 25 billions by 1945. Justice must be done to the veterans but it must also apply to our hospitals, our doctors and the great body of people who pay the taxes.

THE VALUATION CUT.

After three years of unrelenting effort, those who advocated a cut in the assessment valuation of farm and town property realized their desire last week when the state board of equalization put into effect a cut of 17.35 per cent in the valuation of farm property and 15 per cent in the valuation of town lots and improvements.

This is an important outpost taken in the fight for lowered taxes, but we wonder how many people noticed the item a day or so later which said that the state levy for next year would be .23 of a mill higher than last year.

The state levy for general fund purposes this year was 1.93 mills but next year, as a result of lower values for everything taxable, it will be 2.16 mills to which will be added .11 of a mill for the state capitol building fund.

Reduced real estate and personal property valuations can actually bring about lower taxes only if levies are not increased. When levies are increased the benefit of lower valuations is divided or nullified.

Whenever it is possible by the practice of stringent economy to get along without increasing tax levies, those responsible for making the levies should leave them the same and order that kind of economy. Tax-payers should insist that they do so. In that way only will taxes ever be decreased.

Something DIFFERENT

Because of financial pressure, more boys and girls from rural homes than ever before are seeking places where they may work for room and board while completing their schooling, Superintendent Bell declares.

If these young people do not find homes willing to take them in for the duration of the school year, in return for their work many of them are unable to attend school. Adding to the tragedy of unemployment, as there is already an over-supply of labor for the work to be done, as everyone knows.

These youngsters might better be in school learning, than idling away their time, or trying to find jobs that do not exist for them. Therefore if you could possibly use a school girl or school boy in your home this year, the school authorities are very anxious that you do so, thus relieving the situation somewhat and enabling one more child to continue his or her education.

Do not sneer at the idea of taking a school boy. They are lots of help. As furnace tenders, caretakers for yards through the fall and spring, dish washers, as cleaning helpers, and also baby tenders, they are very good help. Especially for active muscular work, such as waxing floors and cleaning walls.

Another thing Mr. Bell pointed out was that the merchant who takes a young person in to work out of his board and room will automatically become the chief trading center in his own line, of course, for the relatives of that youth or young girl. And in this country so many families are so well rooted that such trades might easily mean eight or ten new customers.

So if you can, plan to keep someone to help mind your children, fires, etc. Many of the girls, of course, can also cook and sew nicely.

A lot of readers were interested in the mistakes in pronunciation I printed last week. Today I have some more.

One fellow unintentionally calls this a "bad compression." I don't know how long this compression is going to last. And it truly does compress us, so I don't know that he's so wrong.

Dalma Moser wrote from Burwell to send a couple she thought were good. One was "pretend for intend." The other was "sultrum for sultry." Very good. For instance, I pretend to say that he pays that bill. And "My, but isn't it sultrum today?"

Another thing, I want to know if any of your magazine "prescriptions" have run out? If so, let us know, and we will be glad to renew your prescription. We are agents for every magazine and newspaper published, and it will save you three cents.

Greatly resembling a crowdad, Crawford Mortensen stepped out of the muddy waters of Dune Creek Sunday morning, into which he had fallen while ardently searching for a lost ball.

How's that for a news item? Yes, they say a large piece of air appeared blue, and Crawford, upon climbing out, appeared both mad and black.

Quite a few big, heavy checker games rage since other sports can no longer be afforded. We are returning to the simple pleasures, experts say.

Well, Ellsworth Ball and Clate McGrew return every morning early to their checker games in the McGrew shoe shop. No, the shop doesn't look particularly opened up, when the checker games are being played. You have to sort of sally in and hunt, if you mean business.

That reminds me, wasn't it Mingserson Coombs of whom they tell, when not wanting to interrupt a good checker game to wait on trade, he'd say: "Be quiet, and maybe they'll walk out."

Like the fellow who didn't want to sell the groceries on his shelves, because if he did he'd just have to order some more. No merchant worrying about that now!

Believe It or Not Club.

Tillie Urban and Elma Stanton gave a team demonstration on curtains, telling how curtains should be hung, the colors that should be used, etc. Lucile Paddock and Dorothy Fish gave a team demonstration on furniture, telling how to refinish a piece of furniture, the natural finish, painted furniture and the arrangement of furniture.

Both demonstrations were given when the club met at Tillie Urban's. A delightful lunch of ice cream and cake was served at the close of the meeting. Dorothy Fish, News Rep.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

It's time to can nearly everything and if you don't put up chili sauce you're missing something awfully good. Below is a good recipe for this dinner and enjoyable relish. You will surely like to try it.

Tomato Chili Sauce.
30 ripe tomatoes, 10 onions, 5 red or green peppers, 12 tart apples, 2 c. sugar, 1 tsp. celery seed, 5 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. cinnamon, 1/2 tsp. cloves, 1 qt. vinegar. Chop, cook slowly until thick and can while hot. Made by Mrs. Glen Auble.

As this is the time to use it, you will be very interested in this recipe for homemade Certo, and especially because green apples, the chief ingredient, are so plentiful this year. Read the letter below: "Arlington, Wyo., July 25, 1932. Dear Quiz: I want to thank you for the lovely Cook's Col-Yum-Yum Calendar. I have always wanted one. I shall enjoy making things from recipes sent in by old friends. I am sending a recipe for HOMEMADE CERTO which will appeal to the folks back there as it costs nothing to make except the green apples and it works the same as Certo, which costs so much and it makes a little fruit go a long way. It takes 4 1/2 lbs. green apples (do not put up with red), water and boil 20 minutes, strain through cheese cloth but do not squeeze. To pulp again add 9 cups of water and boil 20 minutes as before. Strain and add to first juice. Boil juice until thick. Seal hot if to be kept for future use."

We are glad to see the Quiz coming along regular and hope we can manage to send a little more cash before long. With best wishes to all. Mrs. Rex Collins.

Something entirely different is the recipe below, favorite with the Vancouver schoolchildren at their hot lunches served in the schools there, Mrs. William Thomason writes.

Weinle Biscuits.
Make dough as for biscuits, roll out about 1/2 inch thick and cut in squares, put a little fat in each square. Then roll and pinch ends so the weiners are covered. Bake about 25 minutes. With a bowl of soup this makes a nice school lunch on a cold day. Mrs. William Thomason.

Chicken Dressing.
5 large raw potatoes, grated. 3 eggs, 5 slices of bread, a small onion, salt and pepper, 1/2 tsp. all-spice. By leaving out the onion and adding 3 or 4 apples, raw, cut fine, you have a fine duck dressing. Alice Jarusek, Comstock.

QUIZ FORUM

Looking Glass, Ore. 7-30-32

Editor Quiz: I am hereby congratulating you on the stand you take relative to the repeal of the 18th amendment.

Also to offer a few suggestions in relation to the booze and bootleg proposition. While living in Idaho prior to national prohibition, our county (Canyon) voted dry by 1800 majority and the wet set up a howl for another vote. You would think by the noise they made that the people were voting for the other to vote saloons back. So in two years another vote was taken and the drys won by 2600 majority. In my opinion the great vote that was cast four years ago was largely cast on account of Hoover's stand on the Hepburns and not because of his popularity or of that of the republican party. I never was guilty of voting the republican ticket in my life and had no special liking for his candidate yet if I had been entitled to vote I certainly should have voted for Hoover although I had but little faith in republican promises and have still less today.

The stand taken by the democrats is not at all surprising to me. They have a record for reversing themselves every four years or so. They were the father of the 18th amendment and now they are repudiating their offspring. Just like they said in their platform, "The American people from tradition and interest favor bimetalism" and then repealed the purchase clause of the Sherman act. The only silver legislation the country had after silver was demoralized by the republicans.

If there is a person outside of the insane asylum that has the faith to believe a change to the democratic party and to booze will change the economic conditions of the country they certainly are to be congratulated on their faith but not on their intelligence. I have seen a change from one of the old parties to the other eight different times in my life and the only change I ever was able to discover was a change of faces at the pie counter at Washington, D. C. and a change of postmasters.

The economic conditions were not caused by bootleggers but the reverse is true as employment became scarce and wages began to decrease, men turned to hooch making because of the profit there was in it. I have been told that one bushel of corn will make four gallons of whiskey and that one gallon in saloon days sold over the counter by the glass brought twenty dollars or eighty dollars for a thirty four cent bushel of corn. But if it only made one gallon that would still be a profitable business and if the poor cuss out of a job can make and sell only three or four quarts a week he can support his family instead of being a county charity case.

Mr. Editor, the booze business is the only one today that capitalism does not control for the profit there is in it and that is the main reason for this demand for the repeal. I am not defending booze nor bootleggers, but if we must have booze I prefer to let the little allow make the profit instead of the big brewing company. If times continue as they are bootlegging will soon be a thing of the past as they are already complaining that there is no sale for the dope for cash.

The best way to settle the booze question is for people to quit using it. If every one were like me the question would have been settled seventy years ago. The next best plan is to cut the profit out of it. Then no one would make it to sell. Yours truly, W. H. CRONK.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

"Cow-kraut" was made in very ancient times during periods of dry weather. But today, under the name of silage, its distribution is only partial and its value is not fully appreciated.

Around Ord the construction of temporary trench silos has become popular, especially in some neighborhoods. Here is a partial list of farmers in the vicinity of Haskell Creek, who used silos last season: Rudolph Collison, Jess Howerton, Henry Forgesten, Walter Jorgensen, Louis Larsen, Don Miller, Wesley Miska, Jack Mogensen, Will Nelson and Chris Nielsen. Ernest Coats states that he regrets it took him so many years to learn the value of silage.

The loose soil formation in this state makes it possible to dig holes in the ground without having the sides cave in. The advantages of such pits for silage storage are thus summarized:

1. Are quickly and cheaply built but little equipment.
2. Capacity can be changed by increasing or decreasing length.
3. Are fire, storm, rodent, and vermin resistant.
4. Are fitted without blower, and easily emptied.
5. Better adapted to preservation of whole corn bundles.
6. Do not mar view or appearance of yard.
7. Little danger of frozen ensilage, poison gas, or fire.
8. A silo will store more feed in less space, and keep it there in good condition for several years. It will save a third of the feeding value of corn, which is otherwise lost in the standing stalks. It will make a more efficient feed in fodder, and without the danger from cornstalk disease. It will increase the livestock carrying capacity of a farm. Work, it can be done at a slack season, and while putting up silage is hard work, it saves such work at feeding time as digging fodder shocks out of snow drifts.

There is nothing equal to the silo for furnishing succulent feed in winter, or at any time when pastures get dry. Anyone will be convinced of this after visiting the farmer who uses one.

When You and I Were Young, Maggie

25 Years Ago This Week. John Wall of Arcadia sold his mercantile stock to John O. Badne of Wahoo and planned to devote his time to his farming interests and the Commercial State bank.

The Western Union was declining all telegraph business because of a big strike that had taken operators away from their keys all over the country. Fanny Winter was badly burned about the face when she attempted to light a fire with kerosene. Orville Phair, who was confined in jail on a liquor charge of some sort, made his escape when a confederate broke the bars in his cell. Officers were making little effort to re-arrest Phair. City authorities published a notice warning Ord people not to use water after 8 p. m. any night as there was a shortage in the reservoir and night fires were feared during the hot, dry weather. Charles Finley had an operation for appendicitis and was reported to be doing well.

90 Years Ago This Week. Two hundred Ordites chartered a special train and made a booster trip to North Loup, Scotia, St. Paul and Grand Island, their purpose being to advertise the Valley county fair.

Thead Nelson was struck by lightning while driving a team from Burwell to his home at Rosevale. Knocked unconscious, he later recovered and got to his home but for several days he lay in bed. Crawford Mortensen became the owner of a new National car which was said to be the fastest thing on the road in this part of Nebraska.

While visiting at the James Bales place northwest of Burwell Miss Bessie Gray of Elyria had quite a cyclone experience. The house was struck by a tornado and demolished but none of the occupants were hurt.

Arcadia Department

By MRS. RAY GOLDEN

Excitement reigned supreme in Arcadia last Saturday evening when several members of the "Goatee or Better" club served out the sentences which had been passed upon them for violation of the club rules. Bert Sell presided as chief announcer stationing himself on barrel near the flag pole from where he introduced the culprits and told just what crime they had committed. A. O. Jenkins, Red Coons and Elmer Peterson were the first to appear near the flag pole when Lonnie spent the evening trying wieners over a camp fire. Red enjoyed fishing in a small fish bowl while Elmer devoured a big bowl of soup. Others soon made their appearance, among them Ora Russell who had a good time roller skating. Gerald Bellinger riding a hobby horse, Roger Cochran parading in a barrel with out his clothing, Harry Smith came wheeling an infant, George Hastings, Jr., in a wheelbarrow and in order that no one be kidnapped the baby was protected by guards with shotguns in the persons of Fred Stogs and Bill Hale. "Fling" True dressed as a woman serenaded the audience, Alvin Lee as a blind man and playing an accordion, tried to rob the crowd of their pennies. Dr. Carr as a good looking young matron took his infant Ray Waterbury for a ride in a baby buggy. Ray Brown and Anton Nelson who were also attired as women were kept busy washing the windshields of cars parked on main street. Alfred Hastings and Jess Marvel were on hand and weren't their cute youngsters. Alfred took his little brother, Jess for a nice ride in a wheelbarrow. At the close of the fun the participants were asked to parade down main street where they were headed by the band and the Whisker Patrol wagon. Jack Brown as cop was kept on the jump every minute of the evening and managed to land a few unruly members in the patrol wagon.

Next week the club will give a style show. Fifty of their winsome members will show you just what is the very latest word in fashions. The Boy Scouts and their Scoutmaster, Rev. R. O. Gaither left Monday for Long Pine where they will camp until Friday. Those in camp are Max, Joe and Robert Weddel, Oris Aufrecht, Billy Marvel, Downing Rounds and Lind Golden. Mrs. C. C. Weddel and son Billy, Mrs. Lillie Bly, Marcella Bly and Ramona Gaither accompanied them.

Funeral services for James W. Thompson were held on the lawn of his late home Sunday afternoon, August 7th at 2:30. Rev. R. O. Gaither, pastor of the Methodist church conducted the service. A quartette composed of Mr. and Mrs. D. Weddel, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Finney sang "Have Thine Own Way" and "Abide With Me" and Max Wall sang "He Leadeth Me". The many beautiful floral offerings bore evidence of the love and esteem which the community held for the deceased. Interment was made in the Lee Park cemetery beside the grave of his wife. The pall bearers were Albert Strathdee, Charley Freeman, Ray Golden, Harry Bellingier, George Zahn and John Murray.

James W. Thompson was born at Wilmington, Ill. August 8, 1850 and passed away at Grand Island, Nebr. August 5, 1932 being 81 years, 11 months and 28 days of age. He was educated in his native state and there reached maturity and after leaving school learned the trade of carriage painting. He was married at Wilmington, May 1, 1872 to Sarah L. Johnson. In the fall of 1879, Mr. Thompson in company with Henry Matthew drove through to Nebraska and located on a homestead in Custer county. Mr. Thompson and his daughter Marian joined him on the homestead in 1880. A son, Clyde was born on the farm in Lee Park Nov. 12, 1883. About 1893 he retired from the farm moving to Arcadia and erecting a home where he resided until the time of his death.

Next week the club will give a style show. Fifty of their winsome members will show you just what is the very latest word in fashions. The Boy Scouts and their Scoutmaster, Rev. R. O. Gaither left Monday for Long Pine where they will camp until Friday. Those in camp are Max, Joe and Robert Weddel, Oris Aufrecht, Billy Marvel, Downing Rounds and Lind Golden. Mrs. C. C. Weddel and son Billy, Mrs. Lillie Bly, Marcella Bly and Ramona Gaither accompanied them.

AUCTION

at the Weller Sale Pavilion, Ord
Saturday, Aug. 13
1:15 P. M.

100 or More Head of Cattle

All kinds and all classes. We had over 200 head of cattle at last Saturday's sale and they sold very cheap. It is our guess that if you are looking for cattle that now is the time to buy them, as we look for a higher stocker and feeder market later in the season. Come and see for yourself.

200 Head of Hogs

We will have a nice run of feeder pigs at this auction. The demand for all kinds of pigs is very good, so if you have any to sell do not hesitate to bring them in. We can use a thousand head of hogs at this auction.

SEVERAL HEAD OF HORSES.

We are holding an auction at Spalding, Nebraska next Monday, August 15th. We will sell over 250 head of cattle and 250 head of hogs at this sale. Be sure and remember the date.

DIST. GOVERNOR PAYS VISIT TO ORD ROTARIANS

Ray F. Myers Stops in Ord Monday On Tour of District, Gives Talk to Ord Club.

Declaring that international good will must be furthered before the United States can climb out of the political and economic morass in which it has been embogged for the past two years, Ray F. Myers, of Council Bluffs, Ia., district governor of Rotary International, made a fine speech before the Ord Rotary club at Thorne's cafe Monday noon.

Mr. Myers is superintendent of schools in Council Bluffs and is nationally known as an educator. He has attended world conferences on education in many parts of the world and thus has keen appreciation and insight to the problems other countries are facing.

The raising of tariff walls over which foreign countries had to climb into this country, while we entered theirs through a gate in the wall, has brought on retaliatory tariffs of the part of other nations so that now the gates are closed to us and the products of our factories no longer find a market overseas.

While he did not openly advocate this country's participation in the World Court or the League of Nations, he pointed out many advantages that might accrue to this country with such participation.

Neither opposing nor favoring a protective tariff, Governor Myers cited practical examples of the way a high tariff works. For instance, such a simple thing as the barring of the sale of firecrackers in this country has affected the unemployment situation in Japan and the forsaking of the helmet by American women has thrown thousands out of work in China.

The United States cannot expect to place a tariff on the products of other countries and at the same time continue business with them as before, Governor Myers stated.

A closer relationship between business men of any community is advocated by the Rotary head, not to fix prices but to solve problems.

In a special conference with heads of committees in the local Rotary club, Governor Myers pointed out many ways in which the Ord club might benefit the community.

Two new members, Dr. W. J. Johnson and George Allen, were taken into the Ord Rotary club Monday, the charge being given by Governor Myers.

Lawless Gets $4,900 For Water Damage

Christopher J. Lawless, of Ericson was granted a $4,900 judgment against the Western Public Service company in district court at Bartlett last Wednesday.

The judge then ordered the Western Public Service company to pay Mr. Lawless $4,900 as damages to his property.

Both are fine young people who have a host of friends here. Mr. Pocock is employed by the state department of public works in engineering work and when they return from Yellowstone he and his bride will probably make their home for the present at Hyannis, where Mr. Pocock is busy on a highway project.

George Daily Falls, Breaks Both Insteps

Falling twenty-five feet from the top of a tree at the Albert Lukesh home Monday, George Daily fractured both of his insteps and will be laid up in the hospital for three or four weeks.

Mr. Daily was trimming trees at the Lukesh place and after lopping off a large branch was attempting to lower it butt first to the ground by means of a rope and pulley.

Members of the Lukesh family rushed to his aid, fearing that he was killed. Mr. Daily was conscious and attempted to rise but was unable to do so.

JOHN PORTER HAS FATAL SEIZURE WHILE THRASHING

Riverdale Resident Suffered Heart Attack, Died Before Doctor Reached Bedside.

North Loup, August 15.—(Special)—Taken fatally ill while thrashing with the thrashing at his farm in Riverdale last Thursday afternoon, John Porter, 54, passed away a few moments later at his home.

Dr. W. J. Hemphill, who was summoned, reached the bedside a few minutes after he died and said that death resulted from heart trouble and other complications.

Mr. Porter was born March 3, 1878 in Mason county, Illinois and moved with his family to Fullerton, Nebr., when four years old.

He married Miss Mae Young of Kearney and their first home was at Wolbach, later living fourteen years at Fullerton.

He leaves his wife and six children, Mrs. Henry Ziegler of Kearney, Florence of Central City, Charles, Bessie and Edward, who lived at home; also three brothers and three sisters, all of whom live in Nebraska.

Safeway Stores Have Discontinued Using Handbills, Circulars

Safeway stores throughout Nebraska and the middle west have practically discontinued the use of handbills and circulars.

Handling and featuring nationally advertised foods, particularly those advertised in local newspapers, has proved so satisfactory that Safeway Stores will in the future confine practically their entire effort to this policy.

"We have found," he announces, "that the buying public is much less skeptical and better satisfied when offered brands with which they have unusually good results."

Our experience with selling foods advertised by the manufacturer in the same local papers in which we advertise has been so satisfactory that we plan to lend our major support to such items.

Vern Laughrey, manager of the Safeway Store here, yesterday expressed his approval of the company's new policy.

PLANS PROGRESS FOR JUNIOR FAIR HERE AUG. 30-31

Directors Met Monday To Elect Superintendents And Plan Program For Show.

Plans for Valley county's first Junior Fair which is to be held here August 30 and 31 are progressing at a rapid rate.

Officers and directors of the junior fair association met here Monday evening and outlined plans for the big event.

Superintendents of various departments were elected as follows: Swine—Bill Garnick; Baby Beef—Melvin Kolling; Home Economics—Alice Kolling; Canning, cooking, girls' room ad clothing—Mrs. L. Nelson; crops—Harold Benn; tickets—Chas. Barnhart.

The Junior Fair is being sponsored by 4-H boys and girls clubs of the county and will take the place of club exhibits at the Valley county fair, which was postponed this year.

The program will include a style show by clothing club girls, demonstrations by girls club teams, two baseball games daily, a horse-shoe pitching contest daily, a home talent play, and various demonstrations of judging by members of boys clubs.

The admission fee will be 25c for adults and 15c for children. It is announced. Ribbons will be given to winners in all club classes and money taken in at the gate, less expenses, will be prorated to ribbon winners as cash premiums.

There probably will be several additions to the program as contemplated at present and both days of the show will be of great and varied interest to all local people.

NEW DISEASE OF SWINE DETECTED IN LOCAL HERD

Swine Erysipelas Makes Appearance Here; Cholera Wasting Herds All Over County.

A new swine disease that has been quite prevalent for some years in eastern Nebraska and in Iowa but has never shown up here was detected in a swine herd near Ord last week, reports Dr. W. J. Johnson, veterinarian.

Erysipelas in swine is both contagious and infectious, Dr. Johnson reports and veterinarians and other herds will become infected hereabouts now that the disease has made its appearance.

First symptoms of this disease greatly resemble those of cholera, the veterinarian says. He warns hog raisers to be extremely careful about visiting the hog lots of others as they may thus carry this fatal disease back to their own herds.

Cholera is extremely prevalent right now, not only in Valley county but throughout the hog raising belt, reports local veterinarians and County Agent Dale.

Griswold, Simmons Were Ord Visitors

Dwight Griswold, republican nominee for governor of Nebraska, and Congressman Bob Simmons, a candidate for re-election, were Ord visitors last Thursday and were being introduced around town by Clarence M. Davis and E. L. Vogelitz.

Both men had been attending the rodeo in Burwell and Mr. Simmons returned there Thursday afternoon while Mr. Griswold went to Newman Grove where he was scheduled to make a speech that evening.

40-PIECE ORD BAND PLEASURES AT BIG RODEO

Glen Auble Leads Ord Group Playing At Burwell Show; Drill Work Features.

The Quiz has heard many comments on the work of the Ord band at Burwell's big rodeo last week. This forty-piece group under the leadership of Glen Auble played every day during the rodeo and also led the parade each day, making a hit with their drill as well as with their music.

In former years the Burwell fair board has employed a band from eastern Nebraska but this year decided that no better band could be secured than the Ord group. Proof of this belief was furnished by the band on every day of the show.

Two other bands played at Burwell, a DeMolay band from Grand Island appearing the first day and a Broken Bow band on the final day. Both of these bands played only as units supplementing the Ord band, the local group playing while the DeMolay Society, horses and other free acts were performing.

—Joe Puncocochar and his orchestra will play over KGBZ, York, on the evening of Sept. 1, the Quiz is informed. They were originally scheduled to play August 13 but the date has been changed and all their friends here may hear them Sept. 1.

CHAS. BARNHART TAKEN THURSDAY BY HEART DISEASE

Respected District 42 Farmer Was Long Time Sufferer; Funeral Sunday.

North Loup, Aug. 16.—(Special)—Heart disease, which had kept him bedfast since June 1, 1931, claimed Chas. Barnhart as its victim last Thursday, the respected Dist. 42 farmer passing away at the age of 65 years.

Funeral services were held at the M. E. church Sunday. One Glen giving the final address, and interment was in the North Loup cemetery.

Charles was the fifth of a family of nine children born to David and Elizabeth Barnhart born Oct. 20, 1866 in Saybrook, Illinois. He came with his family to North Loup in 1885 and this community has since been his home with the exception of brief moves to other states, from each of which Mr. Barnhart returned more convinced that Nebraska was the best state after all.

On March 27, 1886 he was united in marriage to Alta True Watson, who was his faithful nurse and devoted companion during his last long illness. One Glen giving the final address, and interment was in the North Loup cemetery.

Mr. Van Wie's wife of fifty years, passed away in the spring of 1930 and since then he has felt much alone, in spite of the constant care and companionship of his adopted daughter.

The burial was at the Van Wie farm. Harold Stewart, says that frequently this summer his employer had made remarks that he now interprets as proving that Mr. Van Wie had contemplated suicide because he feared that he was becoming blind.

Burwell Lad Fired On By State Police

Last Tuesday night near the river bridge east of Burwell 19-year-old Everett Holloway, a son of Ernest Holloway, was fired on three times by a state deputy sheriff, Emil Johnson.

The shots damaged young Holloway's car and it tipped over in a ditch. Policeman Johnson, in company with another state deputy and Sheriff Waters of Garfield county, was at the bridge watching for a bootlegger car from Norfolk, they said.

When young Holloway came along Johnson ordered him to stop in the name of the law, he claims, and that Holloway failed to do so. The boy tells another story, however, claiming that Johnson never told him that he was a policeman and that he feared he was a robber, hence tried to back up and get away.

Protests against the action of Policeman Johnson have been filed with Attorney General Sorensen and Mr. Holloway also says that he intends to sue for damages.

JONAS VAN WIE TAKES OWN LIFE WITH GUN FRIDAY

Prosperous Springdale Farmer Ends Life Because He Feared Was Going Blind, Note Says

Placing the muzzle of a rifle in his mouth and pulling the trigger by means of a piece of binder twine attached to his toe, Jonas Van Wie sent a bullet crashing through his brain last Friday afternoon in a corn field near his farm home in Springdale.

The body was found about 5 p. m., by his adopted daughter, Miss Jessie Van Wie, who was out in the pasture looking for a calf and was led by her father's body to the excited barking of her dog. She immediately summoned Sheriff George Round, George A. Munn, who acts as coroner of Valley county, and the county physician, Dr. H. N. Norris.

Examination disclosed that Mr. Van Wie had been dead for two hours or less. He was last seen alive about 3 o'clock and at that time was writing a letter, his daughter states. Evidently he went directly from his writing desk to the corn field a quarter of a mile away and there took his own life.

In a breast pocket of the shirt worn by Mr. Van Wie was found a letter, evidently the one that he was writing just before he left the house. The letter was addressed "to my neighbors and friends" and explained that the author had decided upon suicide because he feared that he was becoming blind.

It will be recalled that about three years ago one of Mr. Van Wie's eyes was severely injured by a whip lash. He underwent treatment for the eye both here and at Omaha and for a time it was hoped that he would recover his sight but later the entire eye had to be removed. Since then his other eye began to dim, hence his fear of blindness.

Mr. Van Wie's wife of fifty years, passed away in the spring of 1930 and since then he has felt much alone, in spite of the constant care and companionship of his adopted daughter.

The burial was at the Van Wie farm. Harold Stewart, says that frequently this summer his employer had made remarks that he now interprets as proving that Mr. Van Wie had contemplated suicide because he feared that he was becoming blind.

The deceased was a prosperous farmer and there is no suggestion that money troubles entered into his decision to take his own life. He was highly esteemed in the Springdale neighborhood where he had lived for forty-six years.

Funeral services were held at the M. E. church Sunday afternoon. Rev. W. H. Wright having charge. The floral offerings were profuse and beautiful and a large number of friends from Springdale and other communities joined with Ord friends in paying their last respects to Mr. Van Wie and to extend sympathy to his sorrowing daughter, the only close relative here. Burial was made in the Ord cemetery.

Fall-bearers were George Hubbard, Frank Kull, Chris Thomsen, Albert McIndines, Haws Timmerman and C. A. Hager, all old neighbors and friends of the deceased.

Mr. Van Wie was born August 10, 1856 in Steuben county, New York, and on December 14, 1879 was married to Ida M. Holt at Knoxville, Pa. The Van Wie family home was then at Jasper, N. Y., but on April 19, 1886 Jonas and his wife came to Valley county and settled on the farm in Springdale which has since been their home.

No children were born to them but they adopted one daughter, Jessie. Mrs. Van Wie passed away on March 28, 1930. Besides his daughter the deceased is mourned by a sister, Mrs. Jessie Dunkle, of Canisteo, N. Y., and several sons and nephews, as well as a host of friends and acquaintances who are grieved at his passing.

Chief Justice Was Here. Charles Goss, chief justice of the supreme court of Nebraska, was an Ord visitor last Thursday and was introduced to many Ordites by his friend, Bert M. Hardenbrook. Judge Goss had been on a tour of western Nebraska and attended the rodeo Wednesday. From Ord he was returning to his home in Lincoln.

Juanita Grant Married. In Asolin, Wash., on August 6 occurred a pretty double wedding, one of the contracting parties being Miss Juanita Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Grant of Ericson, who was married to Clarence F. Carrick. The other couple were friends of theirs. All of the young people involved are employees of the North Idaho State Hospital at Orofino, Ida. Mrs. Carrick is a graduate of Ord high school and of the Grand Island Business college and for five years was a stenographer in the state hospital at Norfolk, Nebr., a year ago going to Idaho to become head bookkeeper in the Orofino hospital. Her husband is a former Norfolk man. They will continue to reside at Orofino and both will continue their work at the hospital.

SHORT SIGHTED BUYING.

To have our life we can't understand how purchasing officers for county and city can justify themselves in buying from distant concerns supplies that might just as well and just as cheaply be furnished by firms paying taxes in Valley county.

It is our firm belief that, price and service being equal, the concern should be given preference. We follow this rule in our own business, always, and we believe that all of us as individuals or as business firms should do the same. Even more important is it, to our mind, for the business concerns who pay the taxes that keep them in office.

The county board proceedings printed in last week's Quiz furnishes us with a case in point.

Valley county last week paid for approximately $2,000 worth of printing and office supplies. These supplies were ordered for use in offices in our court house during the past few months.

Who got this juicy $2,000 worth of business?

A glance at the proceedings will show who got it. Here is the Hammond & Stephens Co., located at Fremont; they got part of it. And the K-B Printing Company, of Omaha; they got a chunk of it. The Huffman General Supply Company of Lincoln furnished legal blanks. The Klapp Printing Company of Omaha did several hundred dollars worth of printing for Valley county, Milburn & Scott of Beatrice got their share, the Omaha Printing Company wasn't left out nor was the State Journal Company of Lincoln.

But there are print shops located in Ord, two of them. And there are print shops in North Loup and Arcadia. Did any of these shops share in the printing and supplies furnished to Valley county and paid for with tax money? Surely here are the "forgotten men" of which politicians rant at present.

Granted that much of this work could not have been produced locally at competitive prices. Probably a third, possibly a half of this class. To that extent we hold gutless the officers who ordered this huge amount of printing out of town and out of Valley county. But how about the large part of it that could have been done at the same price, possibly at a lower price, for one, was never offered a chance to even bid on any of this work. We assume the same holds true for other local shops. The orders were given to smooth talking salesmen from Lincoln and Omaha. The money went to help owners of printing machinery in those counties pay their taxes. It might just as well have kept Valley county printers busy and helped the owners of print shops here to pay their taxes. But it didn't.

A few years ago the Quiz publisher took a certain county officer to task for buying a large order of printing out of the county, printing that the Quiz or any other well equipped shop could have turned out just as cheaply and just as well as the Omaha concern. "But what can I do," this officer replied. "Their salesman is so nice to me. Every time he comes to Ord he takes me over to the New Cafe and buys me a nice dinner, then gives me a box of candy. I just have to give him my printing."

A joke? Of course, but the joke was on the Quiz and on every other print shop in the county. At a total outlay of a couple of dollars twice a year this salesman purchased the everlasting loyalty of this county officer while shops like the Quiz, paying hundreds of dollars in tax money in Valley county each year, were left out in the cold. We are happy to report that this particular officer no longer is serving us.

This article is not written with the intention of finding fault with any particular officer in the court house or city hall at present. It is the system to which we object, the system that buys from distant concerns without first ascertaining whether or not the same work could be done locally at equal prices. The system works with other things besides printing; it works in private business as well as public business; with the housewife buying a new hat and with the sportsman buying a new shot-gun. It is not fair that this system should be in use, and we believe it is time for a new deal all around.

Give the home town business man a break—that's all he asks.

A POLITICAL FOOTBALL.

"Them as has, gets."

So a story in the Butler County Press was headed last week, the story referring to Governor Bryan's flat refusal of a request made by Wahoo and David City businessmen that Highway No. 16 be hard surfaced this year out of federal funds made available recently. A story along the same lines in the Fairbury News last week was similarly head-lined. A story in the Quiz might well have been for the governor's refusal to consider graveling the Bartlett to Broken Bow project this summer was no less definite than the refusal given Wahoo and Fairbury applicants. That is no room for doubt, that Governor Bryan is using the highway department of the state for political reasons. Highways being authorized are near the larger centers, almost without exception. In fact the governor announced just last week that highways radiating outward from Omaha and Lincoln would be given first consideration. The Quiz editor, for one, is tired of seeing our state highway system made a political football. We see no justice in the governor of Nebraska being the final arbiter on where highways should be built. The state maintains a highly paid highway engineer with well paid subordinates to determine where highways are most badly needed and it seems to us that this department and not the governor should say where highways are to be built.

Every day now one or several delegations from all parts of the state visit Lincoln to ask Governor Bryan for highway work. To some of these delegations—where the Bryan vote is largest, we cynically suggest,—the governor says "yes." To some—where he has little hope of getting a large vote, possibly—he says "No." There is no pretense that the highway department is the final authority. It is a bare-faced fact that the governor is "caj" in all matters relating to highway construction.

Valley county, for one, is tired of paying gas tax money to build highways in other sections of the state.

Something DIFFERENT

Fred Howard of the Clay County Sun, who writes a column so much better than mine that this isn't really a column at all . . . commented on my paragraph about the various peculiar agitations being put in on advertise county fairs, local holidays, etc. He wants to know if the red pants clubs had been organized here, would I have wem?

Gosh, I don't know. Would you?

But say, Mr. Howard, Fairmont of this state thought up a good one. They are all going to go disguised, or perhaps it's undisguised, as Mahatma Gandhi, to boost for a local fair. Or so I hear, though I'm from Missouri.

I might consider the red pants, meantime daring Mr. Howard to revise his wardrobe as a Gandhi.

We all believe just what we want to believe. We think we reasoned it out, but I think actually it is just the other way. Often we take stand on something, for no particular reason, and then grope about for facts to back up our side of the proposition. Watch yourself and see if this is not true.

For example, Dr. Barta listened to Mr. Hoover's acceptance speech. And A. Sorenson read it carefully. You know the political beliefs of each, one of them said: "You know, that speech cost President Hoover at least 10 million votes, I'm positive of that."

"Oh, is that so? Why I feel sure it made him anyway 5 million votes," responded the other man. Knowing one man to be a democrat—this year—and the other a faithful old-line Republican, which would you say said which?

A visiting young man pulled a good one, the other night, though I doubt if he knows it. The young man was introduced by friends to four local young ladies, standing in a row. Politely, considerably, the visitor immediately asked a fifth girl, standing close by, to dance with him, apparently thinking her one of the four he had met.

She accepted, and the young man never knew the difference. And he was extremely sober, too.

There are a legion of gay petunia beds in Ord this year, many more of them than usual showing honor to the official flower of our city.

Again I want to say that the bed before the Christian church is a handsome one, heavy with blossoms.

One of the most charming I have ever seen is in the side yard of the J. H. Capron residence. It is worth going to look at. Another fine one is in the Jim Misko backyard, interspersed with red geraniums to give even more color to the scene.

Incidentally, take a good look at the handsome Jim Misko home. It is an example of what may be done with a not-so-new house which has been put and kept in first class repair; which has been carefully landscaped as to surroundings.

And see how it seems radiant in its new coat of paint. What a help fresh paint would be to . . . shall I say your house?

The August Petersen home is another that gained a lot of added appeal with some new paint. If you don't believe me just look at it.

This is a good year to go in for such things. They are dirt cheap compared to three years ago, or ten years ago. And it would help some of your hard-up neighbors too, in case you go in for this Golden Rule stuff. Do you?

When You and I Were Young, Maggie

25 Years Ago This Week. Arcadia was planning a three day baseball tournament and to give people a chance to stake their thirst with wholesome beverages the W. C. T. U. ladies of the village announced that they would serve lemonade every day on the lot just east of the saloon.

Claude Phelps, a hired man on the Loomis farm in Mira Valley, got badly bruised up when he slipped from a hay rack and the team walked over him.

John Ward left on his bicycle for a tour of the eastern part of the state.

W. J. Armstrong sold his fine farm to the Koelling brothers and then turned around and bought the Nethery eighty. The price in each case was $80 per acre.

Miss Helen Gray was married to Scott White, the Quiz referring to the wedding with the heading "From Gray to White."

20 Years Ago This Week. J. G. Dahlin had a narrow escape from death when he broke through the cylinder of his threshing machine while he was threshing for Clarence Breseley. One of his sons reversed the engine instantly, thus stopping the machine and saving his father's life.

Dr. F. A. Barta and Miss Emma Zacharias were married, Father Kroupa officiating. They were met at the church door by a large crowd of friends who placed them in a dilapidated bug and hauled them to their new home.

The Schaaf Grain Co. opened an elevator at Spelts with Harold Stewart in charge.

Perceval Earl Ball and Miss Sarah Ruth Jones were married at the Methodist church. They were to live on the Harry Hallock farm in Rosevale.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Cucumbers are again in season; their Big Moment has come. It is time to make them into every sort of delicious pickle. The various flavors which can be achieved by combining cucumbers with other materials are almost without end. Every day some good cook finds a new and delicious way to use them. Send in your cucumber recipes. Any way that you cook them, as well as for pickles. Did you know that creamed cucumbers are esteemed delicious? And cucumber gravy? Not to mention multitudes of salads.

Sweet Pickle Recipe. Take two gallons small cucumbers about four or five inches long or smaller if preferred. Wash and pack in stone jar. Make a brine of one pint of sugar and one gallon of water, boil and let cool, then pour over cucumbers and let stand one week.

Drain off the brine. Boil one gallon of water, pour over cucumbers hot and let stand 24 hours. Drain and add one gallon of water and one tablespoon of alum. Pour over cucumbers hot and let stand 24 hours. Then drain.

Make a syrup of five pints of pure vinegar and six cups of sugar and one cup of celery seed. Boil the seed in a cloth. Boil and pour hot over cucumbers. Let stand 24 hours, drain, reheat syrup, add one cup of sugar, pour hot over cucumbers. Let stand 24 hours. Repeat this two more days, each time adding one cup of sugar and one more cup of celery seed.

First day: Cut one of medium cucumbers into 1/2 inch slices; cover with cold water for 24 hours, then drain.

Second day: Add 2 c. salt and cover with boiling water.

Third day: Drain off salt water, heat enough water to cover cucumbers, add 1/2 lb. powdered alum to it and when boiling pour over cucumbers.

Fourth day: Drain cucumbers. Heat to boiling water and vinegar to cover in the proportion of 1 qt. vinegar to 4 qt. of water. Pour on boiling hot.

Fifth, sixth and seventh days: Re-boil the vinegar solution and cover cucumbers as on the fourth day.

Eighth day: Drain well and pack in jars. With the cucumbers boil together 5 c. sugar, 5 c. vinegar, 1/2 c. celery seed, 1/4 c. mustard seed.

Other spices may also be used, for instance an onion. Remove the onion after boiling. Cover the cucumbers with the liquid and seal.

Mrs. John Mottl, Comstock. If you don't make but once in a while, your family is missing something.

Buns. 2 c. bread sponge. 1/2 c. sugar. 1/2 c. lard. 1 1/2 c. warm water. 1 tsp. salt. 2 qts. flour. Mix in the morning and let raise in a cool place all day, in the evening mix out and let raise all night. In the morning bake in a hot oven 10 or 15 minutes or until done.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

The function of a chicken's comb is sometimes argued. The suspicion is that it serves as a collector of the vitamins given off by the sun. In other words, the fowl's comb is built on top of its head to serve as an aerial for the fixation of the sunshine vitamin D.

An egg laid in the summer time contains as much vitamin D as five winter laid ones. In summer six times as much vitamin D is given off by the sun's ultra-violet rays as in the winter time.

Weak legs occur in chickens when behind window glass, or during periods of cloudy weather. The extra vitamin content of yellow corn shows up to advantage mainly in feeding poultry.

Only a few years ago it was believed that a diet was perfect if it contained the right amount of protein, fat, carbohydrates, and minerals to supply the energy for a day's work. But when Hopkins, a prominent scientist of England was experimenting with rats, he discovered that something additional was needed. Little is known about vitamins except that their absence in a ration is followed by symptoms of malnutrition.

A, known as the fat-soluble vitamin, is found in meals, dairy products, eggs and green leaves. Its absence may cause ophthalmia, a disease of the eye.

B, the water-soluble vitamin, occurs in almost all foods except white flour, starches and some fats and sugars. Its absence in polished rice causes beri-beri, a wasting disease common in the Orient.

D, the anti-scorbutic vitamin, is especially abundant in orange juice, and is also found in fresh fruits and vegetables. It protects against scurvy.

D vitamin prevents weak legs or rickets. It is most important because it is most apt to be missing. It is found in the liver of cod, a fish that never gets near the sun itself but feeds on things that do. Babies get bow-legged, not from walking too soon, but from a lack of vitamin D.

E or X, the reproductive vitamin, is found in most foods. Its absence causes sterility.

How One Woman Lost 20 Pounds of Fat

Lost Her Prominent Hips—Double Chin—Sluggishness Gained Physical Vigor—A Shapely Figure.

If you're fat—first remove the cause! Take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning. To hasten results go light on fatty meats, potatoes, cream and pastries—in 3 weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished.

Notice also that you have gained in energy—your skin is clearer—you feel younger in body—Kruschen will give any fat person a joyous surprise.

But be sure it's Kruschen—your health comes first—and SAFETY first is the Kruschen promise. Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts from McLain & Sorensen or any leading druggist anywhere in America (lasts 4 weeks) and the cost is but a trifle.

Burned Building Razed. The old frame building owned by Joe Dlugosh and occupied by the Anderson Motor Company until it burned a few months ago was razed last week and the ground is being cleared. The removal of this unsightly skeleton adds much to the appearance of that corner.

QUIZ BOSS SAYS LAKES VERY LOW, FISHING IS POOR

In this year of 1932 and we don't buy much meat. A little bacon for breakfast, a platter of fish for dinner, I sometimes have a couple of cold fish left for supper, we have fruit every meal, don't have much pie or cake, but plenty of vegetables and we never lived as well for so little money.

The people who live here wish it would rain. It is awful dry, still the corn still looks good and while it wilts because the soil is dry, it never burns because there is never a hot wind here like we sometimes have in Nebraska. The corn raised here is an early, small eared variety and every stalk seems to have an ear and good rains this month will make it all fill out and give them a good crop as they have had in years, so I am told.

A neighbor has a 40-acre farm with probably half of it cleared. Some is in tame hay, some in corn, some in potatoes and garden. He has a span of horses for years and he tells me he figures he has cultivated about 24 acres with the other old horse, of course counting several times over, for he only has six or eight acres in crops. The weeds are pulled by hand and the crop hoed well with together this year and every crop is good. A span of good nine or ten hundred pound, young horses has been offered to this man for $40 but he doesn't have the money and there is no work. He is a good carpenter but has not good many kinds of wood together this year and there is no way to earn money to buy the team. The cows and chickens and garden supply the living. That is the history of most farmers in this vicinity. The farms are all small and all worked more or less by hand labor. The neighbor's question in mowing wild hay around the lake with a hand scythe and it has to be carried a considerable distance with a fork to get it where it can be loaded on to a cart to be hauled home. Enough hay must be saved in some way to supplement the corn fodder on a few acres to feed the five head of stock on the farm this winter. I have not seen a pig or hog in this country. There is one thing that helps, tame small fruits are grown here in abundance and there are a good many kinds of wild fruits during the season. I have eaten at several of these native homes and they sure live well. They all seem to enjoy life and would not care to live any place else.

As I write Judge Clements is carrying water up the bank from the lake and washing his car, a job that I need to get at, too. I never saw the lake as low as it is this year. This is due to the lack of rain of course, in fact it has been dryer than usual here for two or three years and the general water level which underlies this whole lake country, has been lowered. A series of wet years will probably come again and the water level will be raised. We like to fish in Upper Cullen and to get there necessitates taking a boat through a half mile thoroughfare between the upper and our Middle Cullen lakes. The water so low and it is hard to get through. We used to go through with four in the boat, now all have to wade and it is a stiff pull for two men to get the boat through a part of the distance. The Judge and I are going to take my boat up this afternoon and leave it at a neighbors dock on the upper lake and then drive the mile through the woods to get over there. The boat will be left there for a few days at least. I shipped several hundred grub worms up here about the time I left Ord. Those white grubs make the finest bluegill bait there is and one always gets larger fish with them. I had them in the back yard but failed to cover them up and before I knew what was happening a little chipmuck had stolen a large number of them. I think I shall ask Eugene to insert a "Wanted" ad and offer the boys a chance to make a little money digging some for me. The old straw piles or feed yards will yield hundreds of them, or would a couple of weeks ago. They are scarce here and high in price, still, considering the effort necessary to get them, they are cheap here at 15c a dozen. Sometimes one grub worm will get three or four fish and other times it takes three or four grubs to get one small fish that has to be thrown back in the lake.

Just outside a little wren is teaching her brood to fly. They have had a nest up under the eaves and their continual racket as the little birds were being fed was sometimes annoying, especially early in the morning when I wanted to sleep, for Mrs. Wren served breakfast continually after the first daylight appeared. Now that the little family is out of the nest I suppose the racket will cease.

Another bird that I have written about before, serenades us every evening and sometimes in the morning. I mean the Whippoorwill. There are none of these birds in Nebraska and many of you have never seen or heard one. There seems to be a pair of them around the camp. One of them flew in and lit on the ground last evening near where I was sitting but discovered me as soon as it lit, and departed faster than it came. They appear to be a very shy bird and we seldom see them, yet they hang around close to camp.

Our camp is still deserted except for our two families and it is a bit lonesome. At least it is a lot more fun when all the cottages are full as they have often been, and when we had boat races, fishing races, camp picnics, etc. I hope those days are not over for good, though they apparently are for this year, as I do not expect many of the cottage owners to come for various reasons. The Simpsons probably will not come because Mr. Simpson has been ill for weeks.

The Fenners won't come because of illness in their family. Barney Brickner told us he did not feel equal to the task of driving his car up. Dr. Gelow of Grand Island was expected but has not showed up. Frank Gross was here a couple of weeks but went home before we got here as was Mr. Mackowsky in the end cottage, who lives at Des Moines and who spent a month here while the kids were here. I have never met him. Well, here is hoping that either Hoover or Roosevelt prosperity will make it possible, next year, for every cottage to be filled. H. D. LEGGETT

DR. RICH SAYS:

Grand Island, Nebr., Aug. 17 Commencing with this issue of the Ord Quiz, it will be my great pleasure to write for its readers, an interesting article each week on the important subject of Rectal Diseases, describing in detail and in plain language everything that sufferers with this widespread affliction, from infancy to old age, would wish to know.

Protection and economy in every drop

More gasoline per mile and less power from your motor—as your mileage creeps up from five thousand to twenty-five thousand miles—is the price of lubrication neglect—the use of inferior oil, dirty oil, insufficient oil or oil of wrong grade.

To lengthen the useful life of your motor, to keep repair bills low, to prevent loss of motor power, to keep down gasoline cost per mile—to secure operating economy—requires high quality oil of correct grade, replaced with clean oil at regular intervals.

Popular Ordites Are Wed Tuesday

At St. Mary's Catholic church at 7 a. m. Tuesday two popular young Ord people were united in marriage by Father Lawler, Miss Helen Zukowski becoming the bride of Joe Osentowski.

Miss Florence Lukesch played the wedding march to the strains of which Miss Zukowski took her place before the altar accompanied by her sister, Miss Martha, as bridesmaid. The groom was attended by his brother, Dr. Osentowski. Miss Bess Francl played for mass.

The bride wore a white embroidered lace gown and carried a bouquet of pink roses while the bridesmaid, attired in light blue silk, carried sweet peas.

All friends of the contracting parties were invited and the church was comfortably filled. Immediately after the ceremony the immediate relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Osentowski were guests at a wedding breakfast in their honor served in the home of Mrs. Mike Socha.

After visiting with relatives for a day, Mr. and Mrs. Osentowski left for the Black Hills yesterday for a wedding trip.

Both the bride and groom are deservedly popular among a wide circle of friends in Ord and Elyria. Mrs. Osentowski is a daughter of Mrs. Kate Zukowski, of Elyria, and is a beautiful and capable young lady who was for several years a sales lady in the Peoples Store here.

More recently she has held a similar position in the Golden Rule store and she will continue in this employment. ## Parents of Ord Woman Pass 60th Anniversary; Both Were Pioneers

In a recent issue of the Lincoln Star appeared an article about Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Allen of Comstock, who came to the Loup valley country in 1871 and who certainly can be classed as true Nebraska pioneers if anybody can. Mr. and Mrs. Allen, who are the parents of Mrs. Wm. Zablouff, Ord, and Mrs. D. R. Lee, Arcadia, celebrated the 60th anniversary of their marriage recently. So interesting is the Star article about them that we are reprinting it in full this week:

Sixty years of happy married life without the intervention of divorce courts is in itself very unusual under our present system, but when such a romance blazes the trail of pioneers into Nebraska's grassy plains, colorful history is made. On July 28, 1932, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin D. Allen of Comstock, Nebr., celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary as Custer county's oldest living settlers. Children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and friends were there to hear the true stories of an almost forgotten past. Bluestem, grasshoppers, open range, Indians, buffalo, elk, antelope, prairie fires, drouth and sod-houses, all had their part when the happy couple began to spin their yarns.

The story of the "Ben Allens" started when Mr. Allen, then a young man of 23 summers, who had been "keeping company" with Melissa Kurfmon, a neighbor girl, left Pike county, Illinois, with a caravan of covered wagons drawn by ox teams, in the spring of 1871. They reached the south bank of the Platte river south of Grand Island the same fall. Mr. Allen left the caravan soon after and started looking for a place to locate.

Was Vast Prairie. At that time the country was a vast rolling prairie of buffalo and bluestem grass some of the latter growing so high as to effectively hide a man riding a horse. Thousands of cattle were herded over this prairie. There are still a few buffalo which mingled with the cattle much to the consternation of the cattlemen. Elk and antelope were plentiful and an unfailing source of meat which in the summer was fastened to the top of long poles and allowed to dry. There were no flies then, and the meat did not spoil. The valleys along the streams, the Middle Loup river in this instance, contained large groves of cottonwood trees. One of these was located not far from a trading post camp of peaceful Pawnee Indians.

One resourceful man had built a mill to saw the cottonwood into lumber for buildings. Needing a man to help he came to meet young Allen, and offered him a job. "I don't know anything about a sawmill," admitted Allen. "Good," replied the owner, "you're just the man I want. The other man I had thought he knew so much I couldn't teach him anything."

In three months Allen was made head sawman of the mill. He was well situated, went back to Illinois and called on Miss Kurfmon. He told her all about the new country and possibly some other things. At least they were married and went back to the new country for their honeymoon.

Was Lumber Camp Cook. The new wife acted as chief cook at the lumber camp, being the only white woman in that part of the country. When the timber had all been cut the sawmill was moved up the river to a new grove, finally reaching another trading post called Loup City, in the summer of 1873. A daughter was born there. After the timber was nearly cut at Loup City, news came of land being homesteaded at Wescott, near what is now Comstock in Custer county. Mr. and Mrs. Allen gathered their few belongings, went to Wescott and homesteaded. A sod fort was built nearby to protect them against a threatened uprising by the Sioux Indians who were on the warpath. It was about this time that the settlers who had located in the region of Victoria Springs had moved down to Wescott for safety from a threatening band of Indians north and west of there.

Mr. Allen had helped build another fort, Fort Hartsuff, north of Ord, and having knowledge of the country volunteered to go to the fort and enlist aid of soldiers stationed there. He made the trip about thirty miles over the hills on horseback, armed only with a pocketknife. Upon reaching Fort Hartsuff he stated his mission to the captain, and he was assured of help and advised to communicate impossible for long periods. Freezing and starvation were inevitable unless full preparation had been made during the summer months.

During Mr. Allen's first few years in Nebraska, the grasshoppers ate most of the crops, greatly increasing the difficulties of subsistence. In speaking of homesteading, Mr. Allen tells the story of an Irish acquaintance who, asked to explain homesteading, replied: "Aye can't be givin' ye no definition of it, but aye can fill ye the mainin. The goverment simply bets ye 160 acres of land agin fourteen dollars (filling fee) that ye can't live on the land five years without starvin' to dith."

of the marriage and had it called to the attention of Judge Horth.
Last Wednesday when district court was in session at Bartlett Judge Horth had Mr. Petersen called into court and asked him if he had married again. Petersen admitted that he had. "Then I'm going to set this divorce decree aside," the judge said, and immediately did so.
Mr. Petersen now has two legal wives, all because he married before the legal period was ended. Just what will happen in this case is not known but Petersen may face prosecution for bigamy or for contempt of court.

Davis Creek News

Burton Stevens and Anthony Cummins each passed their twenty-first birthday last week and in order that they shouldn't forget the fact the Young People's class of the U. B. church went to Anthony's home Thursday night and gave them both a surprise. There were fifteen members present. They served a lunch of sandwiches, potato salad, pickles, cake and tea.

Rev. and Mrs. Charley Wanz, Wanda and James and Mrs. W. F. Wanz were supper guests of Mrs. Mell Bower Sunday evening. Mrs. Wanz enjoyed a visit with her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Street and four children, Lawrence, Kas, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stevens, Glen, Leone and Hazel spent Sunday at Belgrade. It was Mrs. Stevens' father's birthday. There were four threshing machines threshing within two miles distance Monday so threshing will soon be done. George Sample has the honor of having the best yield of oats. Last summer Mr. Jorgenson began breaking up a part of George's pasture land but it became so dry that they could no longer break. This spring as they had 10 acres broken up George sowed it to oats. Recently he threshed 80 bushels to the acre off of that patch of ground. Louise Axhelm threshed 70 bushels to the acre from 18 acres. Oats yields have been from 25 to 50 bushels.

Edwin Miller and son Ivan have been doing some much needed repair work at A. J. Friend's place, fixing graineries and corn cribs. Monday Ralph Stevens shelled corn for Mr. Friend, Everett Boettger having bought about 1200 bushels. He also shelled some for Iona Leach.

The Young Married people of the Methodist church picnicked at the Ord park Sunday. There were no services at the Methodist church as Mr. Schwabauer has had a tonsil operation.

Louise Axhelm and children met other relatives at Henry Benn's Sunday and together they picnicked at the river. Mr. and Mrs. Albert McLain and family of York were there with them and visited at Louise's Monday night.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Weller were in the western part of the state on business several days last week.

—Mrs. Clair Bebee and daughters Misses Opal and Freda of Garfield county were Sunday dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Campbell.

AUCTION

at the Weller Sale Pavilion, Ord
Saturday, Aug. 20
1:15 P. M.

100 or More Head of Cattle
All kinds and all classes. We had over 200 head of cattle at last Saturday's sale and they sold very cheap. It is our guess that if you are looking for cattle that now is the time to buy them, as we look for a higher stocker and feeder market later in the season. Come and see for yourself.

200 Head of Hogs
We will have a nice run of feeder pigs at this auction. The demand for all kinds of pigs is very good, so if you have any to sell do not hesitate to bring them in. We can use a thousand head of hogs at this auction.
