ORD WILL FIGHT TELEPHONE CASE IN HIGH COURT

Business Men Vote to Resist the Company's Appeal of R. R. Commission Decision.

About forty Ord business men met last Thursday evening at the city hall to talk over and get a better understanding of the plans for carrying out the ideas for the new deal. Many didn't understand just what was necessary and even after the meeting some store managers were hazy in their minds, as to just how to proceed. There seemed to be a general desire on the part of all present to cooperate with the administration to the fullest extent, once they know just what to do. It seemed to be the general idea that business places must be kept open at least 52 hours each week, that a minimum wage of $12 per week was the rule that only 40 hours could be worked by any person employed, in all cases where more than two persons were employed and that the price minimum applied to those who only employed one or two persons. It was generally agreed that to live up to this rule would cause considerable extra expense to most business houses in spite of anything. Some, like those requiring expert or technical help, where no such extra help was available, were at a loss as to how to proceed. After the matter was discussed pro and con for an hour, a committee, consisting of Freeman Haught, Keith Lewis, John Ferlinski, Robert Noll, William Heuck, R. J. Stoltz and D. E. Troyer was named and instructed to retire to an anteroom and draft a code for Ord business men and if possible, report back to the meeting before it adjourned. After the committee retired to do its work the chairman, Mr. Ferlinski, president of the Chamber of Commerce, introduced B. M. Hardenbrook with the statement that he would explain the telephone situation.

Mr. Hardenbrook went back over the fight that has been made to get a lower rate and better service, explaining what has so far been done and said that after the state railway commission ordered a reduction in Ord rates, the telephone company, instead of complying with the order of the commission, appealed the matter to the supreme court. He said that it was now necessary that the Chamber of Commerce or the citizens of Ord, defend their position in the supreme court or all that has been gained would be lost. He said that in the past such public service people as the phone company had been allowed to charge a rate that would insure them a profit on the investment they had but he said that a new rule was being brought forward, had, in fact, already been adopted in several states, and in some higher courts, that rule being that the rate charged should be based upon the service rendered. He contended that, since a large number of phone users had quit and that since a present phone user was deprived of the privilege of talking with and doing business over the phone with many who were formerly available, a lower rate should now be charged and he thought the supreme court would probably take that view of the matter and make the phone company follow the instructions of the commission, if the case was fought through. It was the unanimous verdict, when the matter came up for a vote, that the matter should be fought through the court and those present pledged the necessary funds to see the matter put through.

Mr. Hardenbrook also explained that a law passed in 1931 made it possible for a municipality to go into the phone business and he suggested that, in case a satisfactory settlement of the present phone controversy was not obtained, such a movement might be started here. This seemed to interest those present, it was suggested that a phone plant might prove just as profitable and helpful as the municipal water and light plant and it was urged that a committee be named to look into the matter, find out just what the law is, what the probable cost of a 600-phone plant for Ord would be and gather all possible data, so, in case it is needed later, time would be saved. Such a committee being unanimously asked for, the chairman named Atty. R. W. Norman, Dr. J. W. McGinnis and A. B. Capron as such committee.

It was then found that the committee on code was not ready to report and the meeting adjourned, the understanding being that another meeting would be held Monday night of this week. That meeting, if one is held, will be reported in another story.

Will Open New Bakery.

F. J. Haruda, of St. Paul, has leased the Sarah McLain building on the south side of the square in Ord and Saturday will open a new bakery sales room, selling products freshly baked in the Haruda bakery at St. Paul. Later bakery equipment will be installed and the products will be made here, it is expected.

Rev. Real in Chicago Taking Medical Treatment

A telegram received by the Quiz yesterday from Rev. L. M. Real, popular pastor of the Ord Presbyterian church, says: "Dear friends of Ord and vicinity: Greetings. I am under treatment for sinus infection. Dr. Balmer has my case. I am getting along O. K. Thanks for the interest and prayers of my Ord friends. I will not preach again before Sunday, August 27."

Rev. Real and his family left several days ago for Illinois to visit relatives and attend the world's fair in Chicago. The minister has been troubled for several years with sinus trouble and has had several operations in the past. His Ord friends will hope that the trouble will be cleared up this time and that Rev. Real will return to his work here much improved in health.

Paving Thru Ord Deemed 'Possible'

Mayor William A. Moses received a letter Tuesday from Mr. Porterfield, secretary to Governor Chas. W. Bryan, in which it was stated that a project to pave Highway No. 11 through the city of Ord is now under consideration by the state highway department and that adoption of the project is considered possible.

The Ord mayor had written to request that since gravel is being applied to No. 11 on both sides of Ord that the road also be regraded through the city.

The Ord Chamber of Commerce, through Dr. J. W. McGinnis as chairman of its road committee, has for several weeks been working to secure inclusion of No. 11 through Ord in the state's paving program for this summer and this letter from Secretary Porterfield proves that the campaign is bearing fruit.

Should this paving be decided on, it is probable that the city will install sewers on the streets adjacent to the permanent surface as laid. Federal aid in installing the sewer will be sought, Mayor Moses says, and the two projects should supply much labor for local unemployed.

Carload of Furniture.

The "new deal" and his own optimism have caused Jerry Petka to buy and have trucked from Omaha the past few days, more than a carload of furniture and this week he is calling the attention of Quiz readers to his offering in this line. Jerry very seldom falls to have an advertisement in the Quiz each week. Asked the other day if he got results, his reply was characteristic. "If I didn't, I sure wouldn't buy the space." If he gets good results from his ads this week no doubt we will get larger ads from him in the future and he surely has the stock to warrant your visiting him. Even if you don't want furniture you will enjoy the trip to his store.

VanDecar in Accident.

While driving south through Midvale Sunday afternoon, the car in which Mr. and Mrs. H. B. VanDecar were riding was struck at an intersection by a car driven by Carl Tiede, of Loretto. High weeds blocked vision at the intersection and caused the accident, Mr. VanDecar says. Both cars were quite badly damaged but none of the occupants was greatly hurt.

Brown Adds New Line.

C. C. Brown is having the former Hunter office renovated and decorated anew and by the time this is read, will have installed a complete line of auto tires, batteries and some accessories. He has a new electric hoist grease rack and says he is much better equipped than ever before to serve his customers.

Corn Crop Assured By August Moisture

A nice rain fell throughout most of Valley county early Tuesday morning, giving almost certain assurance that the biggest corn crop in many years will be harvested here. In Ord only 27 inches fell but at Elvira the rain totaled an inch and even more fell in Eureka. The rain was quite general.

Won Battle of Music.

Joe Puncocar and the members of his Merry Music Maker orchestra were in Duncan Sunday evening to play for a dance. Playing for the same dance was the Silver Moon orchestra from Prague and the two orchestras engaged in a "battle of music." The Puncocar group being adjudged the winner by popular vote of the large crowd of dancers present.

ORD WOMAN ATE POISON JULY 27, DIED NEXT DAY

Mrs. Anton Moravacek Ate Paris Green to End Life; Was Temporarily Insane.

Eating a quantity of poisonous Paris Green, an insecticide, early last Thursday morning, Mrs. Anton Moravacek, a well known and highly respected Ord woman, passed away the next morning, July 28, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ed Lukesh. It is believed that she was temporarily insane when she committed the act.

It is not known at exactly what hour Thursday morning Mrs. Moravacek ate the poison but after taking it into her system she walked from her home in the northwest part of Ord to the home of her daughter in southeast Ord and told Mrs. Lukesh what she had done. Dr. J. G. Kruml was called and attended Mrs. Moravacek but the poison had worked rapidly and nothing could be done to save her life, although she lingered until 4 a. m. Friday.

Josephine Kolar, the daughter of Vaclav and Mary Kolar, was born Dec. 18, 1867 near Pisek, Czechoslovakia and passed away in Ord, Nebr., on July 28, 1933 at the age of 65 years, 7 months and 10 days.

The first home she lived in was in the United States, coming to Saline county, Nebraska where she found employment in a farm home.

On Dec. 23, 1888 she was married at Wilber to Adolph Krajknek and they made their home for several years on a farm near that town, meeting with many financial reverses. One morning they found their home on fire and saved only a few household articles. In the afternoon of the same day, while Mr. Krajknek was in a nearby town, a tornado swept their place, destroying the rest of the farm buildings and killing some stock and poultry.

In 1905 they came to Valley county and made their home on a farm nine miles west of Ord, later moving to a farm near Arcadia. In 1919 they moved to Ord and here Mr. Krajknek passed away on Febr. 9, 1928. His widow continued to make her home here and on June 17, 1930 was married to Anton Moravacek, also of Ord.

Besides her husband, the deceased is survived by three sons and two daughters. They are Fred Krajknek, of Nampa, Ida., Mrs. Emma Kreliek, of Arcadia, Will and Henry Krajknek, of Ord. She also leaves thirteen grandchildren and one brother, Joseph Kolar of Daykin, Nebr.

Funeral services were held at the Sowl funeral parlors Monday with Rev. B. A. Filipi of Clarkson in charge. Relatives in attendance besides those of the children who could come were Joe Kolar, of Daykin, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hrdlicka and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hrdlicka of Wilber, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hrdlicka, Frank Pelcack, Joe Oliva and Mrs. Adeline Pelcack, of Milligan. Interment was in the Ord cemetery.

The W. M. S. of the Evangelical church in Mira Valley will have their Missionary oratorical contest next Sunday evening, August 6, at eight o'clock. Everybody invited. 19-1t

Music Pupils In Recital

An auditorium full of parents and friends of students of music gathered at the high school Tuesday evening to hear the students of Dean Duncan, music supervisor of the Ord schools, in recital. A delightfully varied program was presented by the young musicians, and showed a great deal of hard work on the part of both professor and students, as well as excellent results.

The intermediate orchestra was heard first, playing as a group and in solo, "Mac March", "For Mary", cornet solo by Dean Barta, "Vera" waltz, "Rondino Scherzando" for clarinets by Marjorie Coe, Lillian Karty, Opal Miller; "Artist Polka"; "America"; Jeanette Clements then played a flute solo, Beethoven's "Minuet in G", and a small group of woodwind students played "Moonglade", including Opal Miller, Darrell Fish, Dorothy Auble, Lillian Karty, Edward Sweet, Jack Petty, Marjorie Coe, Eugene Puncocar.

Hope Bartunek sang "Thank God for a Garden" and Lloyd Sack played on his trumpet, "Into the Dawn With You". A mixed chorus sang "Nobody Knows the Trouble I See", "When Jesus Was a Little Child", and "All Through the Night", with Dorothy Allen and Delma Palmatier singing the solo parts. A violin solo followed, played by Mildred Smith, and Laverne Lakin gave a musical Latenser, Stevens On Public Works Board For Nebr.

John Latenser, an Omaha architect, and Dan V. Stevens, a Fremont banker, have been named by President Roosevelt to serve as members of the Nebraska public works board, which will have charge of investigating and allowing federal loans for self-liquidating projects such as the North Loup project. John G. Maher, of Lincoln, was named as the third member of the board but declined to serve. His successor has not yet been appointed but it will probably be James E. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star.

Bert M. Hardenbrook left Ord Monday to present the North Loup valley project's application for federal funds. He was in Omaha yesterday and was planning to present the application either yesterday or today. In a telephone conversation Tuesday, he said that prospects of the loan being granted are very encouraging.

Senator Schuyler Dead.

Dr. C. C. Shepard received a telegram Monday telling of the death of his brother-in-law, former United States senator, Karl Cortlandt Schuyler, of Denver, Colo., who passed away in New York City from injuries received in an auto accident July 17. Senator Schuyler was a prominent Denver lawyer and a business man, was a director in the Denver National bank and president of the Kinney-Coastal Oil company. Last fall he was elected to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Waterman. The Ord doctor's sister, the former Alena Shepard, was with her husband in New York city when death came and yesterday telegraphed her brother that the body would be taken to Denver for burial. Dr. Shepard, his son Charles and a nephew who has been visiting them, left yesterday for Denver by auto to attend the funeral and Mrs. Shepard left Ord by rail for the same destination.

National Delphian Society Establishes Chapter In Ord

Under the direction of Mrs. Esther Killen, national supervisor of the Delphian society, a chapter was organized in Ord Tuesday evening in the city superintendent's office. Daleth chapter was the designation selected.

Mrs. Killen in a brief talk emphasized the aims and purposes of the Delphian society.

Election of officers resulted in the choice of the following: President, Miss Thelma Partridge; vice-president, Miss Grace Puleen; secretary and treasurer, Miss Marie Hall; seminar chairman and assistants, Mrs. Orville Sowl, Mrs. George Allen and Miss Lucinda Thorne.

The National Delphian society is an educational movement, the program covering a well defined course in the history of drama, art, fiction, music and poetry, with a foundation of world history, outlined by some of America's leading educators selected from universities, including Princeton, Yale, Leland Stanford, Harvard and Columbia.

Flag Family in Accident.

Mrs. Gould Flag and children were riding in east Ord Saturday and for a moment Mrs. Flag, who was driving, was blinded by the sunlight. When she could see again she discovered that she was about to be run over by a street grader. Rather than hit it she took the ditch, with the result that the children were badly shaken up and Miss Priscilla's head was cut slightly. The car was not greatly damaged.

SEVEN ASK RIGHT TO SELL 3.2 BEER HERE AUGUST 10

Council Will Issue Licenses At Meeting Friday Eve; More Applications Expected.

Seven Ord firms have applied for licenses to sell 3.2 beer in Ord beginning next Thursday, August 10, reports City Clerk Lucinda Thorne, and more applications were being expected Wednesday afternoon and today. The city council will act on all applications at the August session tomorrow evening.

Those who had applied by Wednesday morning were Olof Olsson, who wants a wholesaler's license, Will Zablouill, who seeks an off-sale license, Frank Kasal, John Sharp and Mrs. Fred Buchfink, who seek both off-sale and on-sale licenses, Johnson's Cafe and the New Cafe, who want on-sale licenses only. By "on-sale" is meant for consumption on the premises, by "off-sale" is meant for consumption elsewhere.

Mayor Wm. A. Moses told a Quiz reporter Tuesday that all Ord people who expect to apply for licenses should file their applications before Friday evening so that the council may act on them at that time. No special meetings will be held for this purpose, he says.

The sale of beer in Nebraska becomes legal at 1 minute after 12 o'clock midnight next Thursday, August 10, but it is probable that the brew will first be offered for sale here at a later hour Thursday morning, possibly at 8 or 9 o'clock. Both draught and bottled beer will be sold here, applicants say. Several of the leading brands will be available, it is claimed.

Sinclair Hotshots Lead in Kittenball The League Standing.

W	L	Pct.
Sinclair Hotshots	2	0 1000
Barbers	1	1 500
Court House Rats	1	1 500
High School	1	1 500
Merchants	0	1 000
Knights of Pythias	0	1 000

Interest in kittenball in Ord is growing by leaps and bounds as six teams compete in the league that has been formed and two ladies teams play regularly. The Sinclair Hotshots so far appear to be the class of the league, having won two games without losing. They had a narrow squeak Tuesday evening, however, when they edged out the Court House Rats 2 to 1. The Rats had the game won until a late inning when a Hotshot batter poked out a hit that rolled beneath the car of Ign. Klima, which was parked too close to the playing field. Custodian Dave Haught was supposed to get it but couldn't squeeze under the car, so two Hotshot runs scored.

To make them more proficient in league play the Rats are scheduling some outside games and tonight will play the North Loup business men at that village with a return game in Ord scheduled soon.

Men's teams are playing at the fair grounds and women's teams play on the lots south of the Bohemian hall. Two women's teams have been organized so far and it is hoped that two more teams will take the field soon. Any women interested in playing should get in touch with Judge John L. Andersen.

Hundreds Attending Pentecostal Meetings

A thousand people, many of whom are spending the entire week camped on the grounds, were present Sunday at the Pentecostal camp meeting being held at the Clement grove south of Ord. The attendance at all meetings has numbered several hundreds of people, it is claimed. Evangelist Guy Shields is speaking at all meetings and is being assisted by Rev. White of Grand Island, Rev. Lamar of Ord and several other pastors.

Freeman Haught, of Ord, has the grocery concession on the camp grounds and reports that more than 100 families are camped there.

The meetings continue throughout this week.

Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Miller gave a lawn supper at their home last Friday evening. Honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fuson of New York City and Mrs. Eva Ford and daughter Idabel of Des Moines. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jos. P. Barta and daughters Marthamae and Pauline and Mrs. C. Fuson.

Saturday Mrs. E. O. Carlson and three children returned home. They had visited in Fairbury, Lincoln and Grand Island. A brother-in-law L. E. Carlson and family of the Island brought Mrs. Carlson and children to Ord. The Grand Island relatives stayed for a short visit.

Besides the usual rodeo and fair features, Miller's Society Horse Show will give a program of twenty acts each afternoon. There will be fancy roping, horse riding, bull-dogging, horse racing, band music and many other items of entertainment. The J. L. Landes Carnival company will be on the grounds with dozens of rides and shows.

All Quiz readers are invited to attend the rodeo on one or more days and a good time is promised them.

Dry Cause Is Doomed, Unless Church People Awake, Says Speaker

(By Methodist Reporter)

It is not always necessary to go far from home to discover a hero or to witness heroic deeds. Such an opportunity came at Ord last Sunday evening. An unkindly fate had decreed that Bert M. Hardenbrook should be called upon to speak on the theme: "The Present State of Prohibition." Despite the fact that the pilot of the prohibition airship is about to shout: "Stand by for the crash," Mr. Hardenbrook came bravely to the Methodist pulpit and delivered a masterly address on the subject assigned him, knowing that the vote by states so far is unanimous for repeal and that such a thing could not be possible without the pretty general support of church-going people.

His theme did not call for any discussion of the repeal question, so he did not go beyond the limits of his subject, but he gave a very studious description of prohibition's present state.

In 1869 the first prohibition political party was organized. At first it was the laughing stock of the saloon forces, then firmly entrenched, but it forced a discussion of the saloon question and attracted many thousands of brave people to its standard. In 1874 the W. C. T. U. commenced its crusade against intemperance. In 1893 the Anti-Saloon League. These and many minor temperance organizations kept up the fight until prohibition was adopted in several states, and finally in 1917 the 18th amendment to the national constitution was overwhelmingly adopted.

The situation is now reversed. The aggressors became the defenders. The bootleggers who did business in competition with the saloons, now had the brewers and distillers as their allies. Propaganda backed by millions of money grew in violence to this day. Then other conditions came to the aid of the brewers. The greatest depression naturally followed the greatest war. Most everyone was in financial distress and it was easy for them to be made to believe that prohibition was to blame for it all. The political party which has always supported the saloon was swept into power. The new administration not only promptly submitted a proposed amendment to repeal the 18th amendment, but is using its immense patronage to club the voters to vote for repeal, so far with success. Twenty states have voted for repeal and only 16 more are needed to accomplish the repeal.

The situation is immeasurably worse because those who knew from experience the horrors of the saloon are rapidly dying off and their places are being filled by many thousands of young voters of both sexes who knew little of saloon days.

Harassed by their financial troubles a majority of voters are too indifferent to vote. It is the stay-at-home drys who are permitting the repealists to win.

The above summary of Mr. Hardenbrook's address is not given in his words, but I have endeavored to follow his argument.

S. D. B. Church Will Celebrate Sixtieth Birthday Aug. 9th

North Loup, Aug. 2.—(Special)—All-day services will be held next Wednesday, August 9, at the Seventh Day Baptist church of this village to celebrate the 60th anniversary of the organization of the church. An elaborate program is being planned and the public is invited to attend.

Pecenia Pupils Recite.

Music pupils of Miss Elsie Pecenia gave a public recital in the Bohemian hall last Friday evening, the program being well attended and the children doing exceedingly well. Doris Klima returned the prize given for the pupil making the best record of advancement. Miss Pecenia may well be proud of all her music students and their progress.

SHORTER HOURS AND HIGHER PAY IN ORD STORES

Roosevelt's Recovery Code Is Being Adopted Here as Ord Groups Organize.

President Roosevelt's national recovery act code went into effect yesterday in many Ord stores and by the end of the week it is predicted that almost every business in this city will have pledged support to the recovery program and will be displaying the NRA red and blue eagle emblem.

Another article in this issue tells about the Chamber of Commerce meeting held last Friday evening, at which the provisions of the NRA code were first discussed by Ord business men. At that meeting committees were appointed to study the code more thoroughly and these men worked throughout much of Monday in formulating programs for the different business groups represented here.

Dry goods and department stores were the first to organize, adopting a 58-hour week at meeting Tuesday morning. In this group are the J. C. Penney company, Brown-Ekberg company, Farmers Grain & Supply company, Chase Toggery, F. J. L. Benda, A. F. Kosmata, Frank Hron and Julius Vala.

Beginning yesterday, these stores will be open at 9 a. m. on Monday to Friday, inclusive, and remain open until 6 p. m. on Saturday, they will open at 9 a. m. on Sunday and remain open until 10 p. m. on Saturday. In the past some of the stores have opened at 7 o'clock and remained open until 6 on week days and until 11 o'clock or even later on Saturdays.

Grocers met Tuesday evening and after considerable discussion agreed to open at 8 o'clock and close at 5:30 on Monday to Friday, inclusive, open at 8 o'clock and stay open until 10 p. m. on Saturdays. The new schedule will not go into effect for a few days, however, and grocers stores will have an announcement of their plans in next Thursday's Quiz.

Hardware and furniture stores have not yet adopted a program but are expected to do so soon. Other business groups, including filling stations and garages, expect to meet the latter part of this week and agree upon a program.

The object of the recovery act is, of course, to supply more jobs and Ord stores who pledge their support to the code and display the official emblem will all be working their employees shorter hours and hiring additional employees to do the extra work thus created. Employees in retail stores will work 40 hours each per week at a minimum wage of $11. In the past they have worked from 48 to 60 hours weekly.

Postmaster Edwin Clements, who is in charge of receiving pledges, says that Ord stores are falling in line rapidly. Keith Lewis, manager of the J. C. Penney company store, was the first to sign Monday but Tuesday twelve more stores signed up and the number was being increased rapidly yesterday.

Mr. Lewis says that one more employee will be required in the Penney store and John Goddard, of the Brown-Ekberg store, estimates that he will need one more regular employee and considerable extra help on Saturdays. The Food Center, the Safeway and other stores will hire one extra employee regularly.

Reports in the daily papers show that the NRA program is being adopted on a nation-wide basis and it is hoped that employment for several million additional workers will be provided by this means. The NRA program, along with construction of public and self-liquidating projects, is counted on to furnish employment for all Americans who want to work and thus break the back of the depression.

Treating Eye Injury.

C. A. Wellington, of Taylor, has been in Ord for the past week and under the care of Dr. F. A. Barta for serious eye injuries caused when he was struck in the eye by a bolt. Dr. Barta believes that he will be able to save Mr. Wellington's sight. Other out-of-town patients of Dr. Barta in the last few days were Joe Lonowski, of Loup City, and Steve Wajchowski, of North Loup, who had their tonsils removed, Mrs. Adolph Ruzicka of Burwell, Mrs. Thomas Nelson of Comstock, and a daughter of Arthur Ausserer of Bartlett who were here for eye treatment.

Gave Visitors Farewell Party.

Relatives and friends had a delightful time Thursday at the Vaclav Bruha home where they gathered in honor of Vaclav Drobny and daughter Miss Bessie of Chico, Calif., who were leaving Saturday for their home. Dinner and supper were served and the day was spent in visiting. Besides the honored guests, those present were John Klat and daughter Bessie, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Mathauer, Mr. and Mrs. V. F. Cadek, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Valia, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Klat, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Hulinsky, Mr. and Mrs. Wencel Bruha and their families and Emil Hulinsky.

THE ORD QUIZ

Ord, Valley County, Nebraska

H. D. LEGGETT . . . PUBLISHER
E. C. LEGGETT EDITOR

Entered at the Postoffice at Ord, Nebraska, as Second Class Mail Matter Under Act of March 3, 1879.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

I have had a pretty strenuous time the past three weeks while the editor was away. I didn't use to think anything about doing the editorial work on the paper, and between times, doing considerable job work and type setting, besides soliciting business, but it seems more of a job, after not doing it for so long. I am glad Eugene is back on the job.

There are a lot of business men worrying about how to co-operate in the presidents campaign to bring back prosperity. Merchants can't understand how it is going to help their business, for instance, to add a hundred or two dollars a month to the salary overhead by having their help work less hours and get, in many instances, more pay, besides adding a few extra sales people. That idea might work out better in an eastern community where there are factories and a lot of factory people are being put back to work. That is not true here. But perhaps it will work out and we all hope so. At least all are desirous of doing their part.

Probably, if the business men of Ord get together on an agreement of closing etc., will depend on whether they are all willing to give and take a little, in their views. There is a great chance for improvement among the business people of Ord, in ethics, that is, in the way they treat their competitors. Probably it is too much to expect humans to always be fair with the other fellow.

There are a couple of places down north of the new school house that are well worth the time of anyone to go and see. They are beautiful. One, I believe, is "Jap" Kasal's and the other Clifford Flynn's. When you are out for an evening ride, drive past there and it won't make the boys and their good wives mad, if you stop and look their places over and express your appreciation.

Quite a number of Quiz readers will remember Carl Clements. He was a son of Eugene Clements who used to be a blacksmith in Ord and also farmed in the county. Carl has lived near Faolis, Colorado for a good many years. He is engaged in farming and fruit raising out there. Last week he shipped me a box of the finest apricots I ever saw and we sure had a feast of the fruit. We visited him two years ago. He is in an irrigated district, couldn't raise anything without irrigation. He is right in the middle of one of the finest fruit sections of the state.

Went in the grocery store to swap lies with Hans Andersen Friday, though I don't know why because he is a much worse liar than I am, but anyhow I met a seedman by the name of Simms and got to talking about gardens. He said it was still plenty early to plant a good many kinds of garden stuff and I agreed with him and said I was planting stuff right along yet. He then went to the case and gave me a dozen or so packages of garden seeds, all different and suggested that I plant them and I expect to have a fine late garden this fall, when most people think it is too late for beans, peas, cucumbers, radishes etc.

The Government seems to be getting interested in kidnapping at last, but a good many lives had to be sacrificed and a good many millions of dollars in money had to be extorted from the public before the government took action. Now, if the government will make the same effort to stamp out kidnapping that it does to stamp out counterfeiting, it will soon be practically stopped. The government never has exercised that diligence to enforce the 18th amendment else kidnapping never would have gained the start it has.

If it is the program of President Roosevelt that has caused the price of grains to advance, then why can't his program make the price of cattle and hogs advance also? For the most part the grain is all in the hands of elevator men and the price increase, instead of being a benefit to farmers who raised the grain, will be a detriment to them for they are having to buy flour to feed their families and corn to feed their stock. It is not reasonable to think the administration policy can raise the price of a few commodities and not have the same effect on others. I believe the fact is, that the markets are largely controlled by the large dealers and that supply and demand have very little to do with it. I also believe that the government should stop the board of trade speculation that is fleecing countless thousands of people who are foolish enough to think they can beat the other fellow's game. Supply and demand, legitimate supply and demand will not make grains fluctuate up and down ten or twenty cents a week but artificial manipulation can and

I believe does, cause these fluctuations and enables those on the inside doing the fixing and knowing what is going to happen, to get great profits at the expense of others.

It is said that 98 per cent of the wealth of this country is in the hands of two per cent of the people. If that is true then it is time that either something was done by the government to remedy such a condition or else it is time that the people themselves take the matter into their own hands and effect a change, even if a revolution is necessary to effect the change. A bloodless revolution, of course. It will have to be fought with ballots.

Something DIFFERENT

Just forty-seven years ago Monday the stage made its last trip from North Loup to Ord, since the train service was to begin next day.

The last trip of that horse-drawn stage is accurately remembered by Mrs. C. E. McGrew, for she was a passenger for Ord, and in addition to reaching Ord she reached the ripe old age of 14 that day also. The final trip nearly ended in disaster, reminisces Mrs. McGrew, for the night was so dark that the horses couldn't see their way, and since the trip closely followed a storm, the way was perilous. Once the horses stopped so short that the coach rocked. On investigation it was found that the horses had stopped at the very brink of a chasm, one of those to be found yet on or near the Jackman place near North Loup.

George Watson the long-armed will long remember the night his little daughter Mary Lou arrived at their home.

George, sent hastily after the doctor, dashed down a pitch-black alley and all at once plunged headlong over some object, something big that rose up as he caught himself on his hands. The something big proved to be Kemp's cow. Inquired Fred Kemp "Did it hurt you?" "No," was the emphatic answer, "but it damn near scared me to death!"

The little Barnard children enjoyed a trip to Washington not long ago. Laverne, little stutterer, reported to neighbors that "it a-a-aint near as big as Ord". On being informed that Washington was a state, not a town, he revamped his reply, "oh, yes, Ferdale isn't as big as Ord, either."

Miss Lena Clements, of an inquiring turn of mind, began timing the whippoorwills calling, in Minnesota, where they whistle every evening for a while. And strangely, she discovered that the birds began their cry at exactly five minutes of nine, each evening. Unexplainable, isn't it?

The eight children now vacationing at the Clements cottage on Cullen Lake are having a picnic out of it. They swim several times a day and hastily acquired tan over most of their bodies. Bathing suits and sun suits are almost uniforms there for them. Bobbie McBeth stands out on the dock all day long, fishing constantly, and by his cries of delight it is possible to tell just how many fish he snares on his hook. The other children also fish and catch many little sunfish that swim there, curious and hungry. In addition, a small bass was snagged by one of the children, and some small perch and other fish.

They are also learning to row, and splash about in the front yard, calling to one another. Then when tired of those sports, the eight of them play games up and down the camp, tramping barefooted and bareheaded. A more healthful vacation for children cannot be imagined. Included in the group are Harry James, Bobbie, Marilyn and Donnie McBeth, children of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McBeth and Rosalie and Catherine Lesters; Norma Mae Snell and Harold Melia. Harold, as the oldest and biggest, leads the gang.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Nothing interests housewives more the next few weeks than recipes for good cucumber pickles, and below are several sent in by Quiz cooks which you will like to try. Cheap to make at home, pickles are expensive to buy. And nothing will add a more finished touch to your meals, or give more delight to your family.

Lazy Pickles.
Wash enough four inch cucumbers to fill the jar, dry them and pack them in the jar. Mix one-fourth cup salt, one-fourth cup sugar, two tablespoons ground mustard, three cups of vinegar and one cup cold water, until smooth. Fill the jar up to the top with this brine and seal. Turn the jar upside down on the kitchen table and next day set it upright. Turn it each day for four days.

Chunk Pickles.
Make a brine strong enough to hold up an egg, put in seven pounds of good sized cucumbers and leave three days. Take them out and put in fresh water for three days, changing the water every morning. Then cut in chunks. Scald in weak vinegar with a small piece of alum and grape leaf for two hours (not too hot). Next scald a mixture of three pints of vinegar, two pounds of sugar, one-half ounce of spices, whole cloves, allspice, cinnamon and white mustard seed. Pour over cucumbers. Heat same vinegar for four mornings and pour over pickles, last morning sealing them in sterilized jars.

Dill Pickles with crushed rock salt.
Fill a two quart jar with pickles, add one cup vinegar, two tablespoons crushed rock salt and about two tablespoons dill seed (I use stems and seed both). Then fill jar up with cold water and seal. Set aside in a warm place to work for three weeks.

Corn Relish.
Combine fifteen medium sized ears corn, one medium sized head of cabbage chopped with six large green tomatoes and four large onions, with three cups sugar, half white and half brown. Also add one tablespoon celery seed, two teaspoons mustard seed, four teaspoons salt, one teaspoon pepper, three tablespoons flour, one quart vinegar. Cook all together until corn is done and seal hot.

Oatmeal Delights.
Mix two cups sugar, one cup shortening, two eggs, one teaspoon soda dissolved in six teaspoons milk, one teaspoon each of cinnamon, allspice and cloves. Add one cup chopped raisins, two cups oatmeal, two cups flour. Mix well and drop from a teaspoon on cookie sheets. Bake in a hot oven.

Creamed Chicken.
Make a white sauce of two-thirds cup butter, two-thirds cup flour, six cups milk, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon paprika, one-half teaspoon celery seed, then add four tablespoons chopped pimientos, four cups diced cooked chicken and cook four minutes over hot water.

Not Her.
Miss Smart—It takes all kinds of people to make a world, you know.
Miss Snob—That may be—but I'm glad I'm not one of them.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

This is the third consecutive summer that Ag. boys from the Ord high school are assisting the U. S. department of agriculture. The work is in connection with black stem rust and common barberry eradication.

When federal funds were so reduced that it was impossible for the government to continue the rust eradication program in this state, fifteen Nebraska high schools offered to take over the work and do it for nothing. These schools wrote the activity in as a part of their Future Farmer programs. It later brought them national recognition.

Harold Benn is carrying on a slide exposure experiment for the department. It is to determine the number of spores in the air. Last year and the year before this experiment was carried on by Anthony Kokes. A lag from each precinct is appointed to report the amount of black stem rust in grain fields, and also the presence of barberry bushes.

The work which Harold Benn does, consists of exposing a vase-line-coated glass slide once a week. This slide is fastened to the front of a weather vane, and catches any black stem rust spores that may be riding on the wind. From the number of spores trapped on the glass, it is possible to estimate the amount traveling through the air per square foot, or for any other given area.

A glass slide exposed by Anthony Kokes on June 11, 1931, caught 4,482 rust spores. The source of these was traced to some barberry bushes in the county. The bushes were destroyed. During the following summer only 5 spores were caught on a total of fifteen exposures. In fact Valley county appeared to be free of black stem rust than any other portion of Nebraska. One exposure made at Ashland, for instance, caught over 100,000 spores.

This parasitic fungus lives over winter on stubble, old straw, or grasses. When spring arrives the spores are blown about by the wind. If these colorless spores light on any plant or object except the leaves of the common barberry they die. On the barberry bushes they form cluster cups which develop orange-colored spores. These second spores are blown to plants of small grain, weakening them, and causing shrunken grain kernels. These spores multiply and spread from plant to plant. They have been found at a height of 10,000 feet. As the grain ripens, black spores appear, and lie dormant all winter.

Common barberry bushes are necessary for the spread of rust. They should not be confused with Japanese barberries. Many birds feed on the berries of the barberry bush, and thus the seeds are scattered widely. The bushes are generally killed with salt.

The barberry problem is an old one. Its destructive effect in connection with black stem rust was known as early as 1660 when laws requiring the eradication of barberry were passed in France.

These late increases are reflected in such items as bread—the former 5c loaf now sells for 8c, etc. This rise in the price of raw materials is also responsible for an increase in merchandise of major calibre as FURNITURE, finds the increased prices commanding the buyer's urgent attention. Grand Island, Nebr., Aug. 3, 1933. "Life gives you back just what you put into it". We choose an incident, give it the importance it deserves and immediately that incidence exerts a vigorous influence on our further thoughts and acts for our own benefit, no matter what our needs may be. Prejudices, fears and indifference to our bodily health makes life narrow and bristling with danger. Hopes, plans and faith can accomplish wonders. Tomorrow is full of promise, promise of all that life has yet denied us. We must act ourselves promptly and intelligently, to obtain what we desire. People who suffer with rectal trouble should seek a cure quickly. That's the only way to avoid dangerous complications. Prices are lower now than for many years. Terms given if desired. MORE SAFETY In the tread

● The safest tread is the one that can stop your car the quickest. Goodyears stop quicker than any other tire, 10% quicker than the second best. Up to 77% quicker than others. Tests on wet pavements prove it. Why not buy the safest tire?

MORE SAFETY In the plies

● Goodyears give you safety in every ply—because every ply is built with patented Supertwist cord—and every ply runs from bead to bead. Ask to see a Supertwist demonstration and see for yourself why it means more safety in every ply.

MORE MILEAGE

● Bus fleets know mileage. And bus fleets using Goodyear Tires report 97% more mileage than they got five years ago. Goodyears for your car have the same improvements that made this extra mileage possible.

Mearl C. Smith, Minister.

Christian Science.
"Spirit" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, for Sunday, August 6.
The Golden Text is from Psalms 143:10: "Teach me to do thy will; for thou art my God; thy spirit is good."
A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from John 4:24; and reads: "God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth."
A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "Spirit being God there is but one Spirit, for there can be but one infinite and therefore one God. There are neither spirits many nor gods many. There is no evil in Spirit, because God is Spirit. The theory that Spirit is distinct from matter but must pass through it, or into it, to be individualized, would reduce God to dependency on matter, and establish a basis for pantheism." (pages 334-5).

Mrs. Mabel Simpson.
Miss Mabel Johnson was born June 24, 1871 at Red Oak, Iowa, her parents being Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Johnson. She came with them to Valley county in 1882 the family home being just northwest of Ord. After her marriage the family home was north of Elyria for many years, or until the death of her husband, which occurred in June, 1923. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Guy Abrahams of Lincoln, Nebraska. Another daughter, Mrs. Jack Dodge, died some years ago. There are two sisters, Mrs. Ida Taylor of Creston, Iowa and Mrs. Maggie Peters of Clearfield, S. D., and two brothers, W. B. and J. V. Johnson both of Burwell, also 2 granddaughters, Virginia Dodge and Bonnie Abrahams and many other relatives and a host of friends. Deceased was a member of the Baptist church at Elyria and was active in that organization as long as she lived there. Funeral services were held in Lincoln last Wednesday at 10 a. m. and from the Sowl parlors in Ord Thursday at 2:30, interment being in the Ord cemetery beside the body of the husband. Brownie Barger left for Norfolk recently where he is assisting his father with the erection of a new home. The Barger home at Norfolk was destroyed by fire some time ago.

The Balsora Bible school closed last week with a picnic for the members at the Community Park Thursday. An Achievement day program was held at the Balsora church Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed John and family returned to their home at Denver Tuesday after spending several days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. John. A dinner was held in their honor and also in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Claude Gould at the John home Sunday.

The Girl Scouts and their leader, Miss Elizabeth Haywood, returned Monday from a six days outing at Camp Sheldon, near Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ward drove to Broken Bow Tuesday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Jim Atkinson. Mrs. Atkinson was burned to death Saturday when a gasoline stove exploded as she was filling it.

Small grain was not a total failure in this vicinity as evidenced by the fact that Ed Christensen has threshed two thousand bushels of wheat, oats and barley. Burt Sell's wheat, rye, oats and barley totaled 2,300 bushels.

VOL. 51 NO. 20

APPLICATIONS FOR FARM LOANS TOTAL $1,050,600

Valley County Farmers Seek Vast Sum From Federal Agencies, Says Ollis.

James B. Ollis, who takes applications in Valley county and territory tributary to Ord in Garfield and Greeley counties for federal land bank and land bank commissioner's loans, said yesterday that applications for federal loans filed here up to August 8 reach the astounding total of $1,050,600.

Land banks loans are always made on the security of a first farm mortgage but loans by the land bank commissioner may be made on first or second liens on land and may include chattels, he explains.

Bert Waddell, agent of the land bank commissioner at Omaha, sends to Mr. Ollis an explanation of the term "normal value" as it is applied to the appraisal of farms, a subject which will be interesting to farmers of this county because of the large number of applications for loans and because the normal value of a farm, as arrived at by an official appraiser, has a very important bearing upon the amount of money which may be loaned by the commissioner of the land bank.

"The law specifies that the basis of appraisal in all cases is the normal value of the land for agricultural purposes and its earning power for such purposes is a principal factor," says Mr. Waddell. "There is a distinct difference between this basis and one which averages the sale prices of farms over a series of years with the claim that that average represents normal agricultural value. Where a farm must be appraised on its earning power, crop yields and prices, as well as cost of operation, including overhead charges such as taxes and depreciation, must be taken into consideration."

"The appraisers who place values on farm properties upon which loans are sought, estimate the production of the land, then use the average of farm commodity prices between August 1909 and July 1914 to determine the value of the products. Various other factors must be considered, notably the cost of farm machinery, the variation in taxes, the livestock carrying capacity of the farm, the proportion of good crop land to pasture, the acreage in orchard, timber and waste, etc. Then there are the questions of drainage, overflow and erosion; insect and plant pests and diseases; accessibility to markets, cost of hired help, etc."

Mr. Waddell also points out that the land bank is permitted to loan up to 50 per cent of the appraised normal agricultural value of the land plus 20 per cent of the insured, permanent improvements. Where the land bank cannot make a loan under the provisions of the Farm Loan act or the Emergency Farm Mortgage act, the agent of the land bank commissioner will endeavor to supply the farmer's needs.

The agent of the land bank commissioner can lend up to $5,000 to an individual, he says, with the provision that the agent's loan, when added to all prior indebtedness on the property, must not exceed 75 per cent of its appraised value. In other words, after the farmer is refinanced by the land bank commissioner, the farmer must have an equity in his property of at least 25 per cent. If he does not have that much equity his chances of success are probably rather remote, Waddell believes.

"Many farmers, when they find they can get a commissioner's loan for a certain amount, approach their creditors and get them to scale down their debts to a point where they can be refinanced," he concludes, adding that "many creditors prefer to have cash for their claims even though at a reduction rather than to 'carry' the farmer longer."

Camp Meeting Closes. The Pentecostal camp meeting, which was held last week in Clement's grove in Mira Valley, came to a close with the Sunday night meeting. Evangelist Guy Shields, the district superintendent, Rev. White, and the Ord pastor, Rev. Lemar, were well pleased with the large attendance and the great interest shown.

—J. E. Tolen is considerably improved and during the week has been out riding with his son Mark Tolen. However the exercise did not exactly agree with him and he does not intend to try it many times.

—Mrs. Wm. Funk son Isaac and daughters Rose, Ruth and Adell of Urbana, Ill. and Mrs. Ruth Straight, of Kalispell, Mont., left Tuesday for Mrs. Funk's home in Illinois. Mrs. Funk and Mrs. Straight are aunts of Mrs. John Moul and had been visiting here.

Steve Finch Named Leading Pitcher In Denver Tournament

Big Steve Finch, North Loup man who has been playing baseball in valley circles for a good many years, gained new laurels last week when he was chosen the leading pitcher in the Denver Post baseball tournament, held annually in Denver, Colo.

Finch pitched for the Sioux City Stockyards, runners-up in the tournament. The M & O Cigar Store of Denver was the winner.

To Harold Parks, of Denver, the Quiz is indebted for a copy of the Denver Post which tells of the North Loup pitcher's triumphs. Finch was named the leading pitcher in the tournament and as such was awarded a percolator set offered by the Public Service company of Colorado. He was also named on the all-star tournament team. Undefeated in the three games he pitched, Finch also batted for an average of .467. He shared in $1,932 awarded to the Stockyards team for being runners-up. Had the Stockyards won they would have divided $4,334, this being the sum awarded to the M & O Cigar Store.

Lots of local fans have been saying that Steve is "through" but he is disproving such statements in sensational manner this summer. Here's to you, Stevie!

Brechbill Obsequies Held Last Thursday

Death claimed Elmer Brechbill, well known Goodenow farmer, early Tuesday morning, August 1, as a result of the dreadful injuries that he suffered last June 23 when the car that he was cranking started suddenly and ran over him. He was the only son of E. G. and Cora Brechbill and was born near Duff, Rock county, Nebraska, on July 21, 1867. When he was a child his parents moved to Valley county and they still reside on their farm near Goodenow station. Elmer received his common school education in the home school, later attending Ord high school. After completing his education he assisted his father on the farm until his marriage.

During the World war Elmer enlisted and spent two months in training camp, the Armistice being signed before his company was sent across to France.

He was married to Miss Hazel Alder on August 5, 1924, and to them were born three children, Duane, Kenneth and Ermaegen. His death is mourned by the Goodenow community, in which he had lived since his marriage. Funeral services were held from the M. E. church in Burwell Thursday afternoon, August 3, conducted by Rev. C. E. Austin, of Cairo, Nebr., a former pastor of the Burwell church who had visited Elmer many times while he was in the hospital at Grand Island, where he was taken for treatment after his accident. Interment was in the Burwell cemetery.

Ord Enthusiastically Supports NRA Drive, Many Firms Sign Agreement

Shorter Hours In Effect In Most Stores; Local Organization Will Back National Move.

The comforting wings of the NRA blue eagle are hovering over Ord this week, as this city in common with all other communities of the nation gives an enthusiastic reception to President Roosevelt's first major offensive against the great depression.

Ord's business firms are co-operating splendidly in complying with the new regulations. At 11 o'clock yesterday, thirty-seven firms had signed the blanket code and others were only awaiting receipt of codes adopted by their own special industries.

Last week dry goods stores of Ord, seven in number, were the first to sign certificates of compliance and regulate their hours and the salaries of employees in accordance with NRA regulations. This week all the barber shops of Ord adopted the new closing hour of 7:00 p. m. and a miscellaneous group made up of jewelry stores, hardware stores, grocery stores, etc., decided to open at 8 o'clock and close at 6 o'clock on week days and remain open until 10 o'clock Saturday evenings. Drug stores are opening at 8 and remaining open until 8:30 on week days, until 10:30 on Saturdays and from 9 to 12 Sundays.

Many merchants who have not signed the code agreement as yet are carrying out the spirit of the agreement in the form of shorter hours for employees. In this list here a number who have delayed signing pending the receipt of more complete instructions to regulate their special cases.

It is particularly gratifying to business leaders that many of the smaller business firms of the city, many of which do not come under the provisions of the NRA regulations, are falling right into line and agreeing to the "fair competition" clause of the NRA code, even though they do not sign the agreement with President Roosevelt.

It was estimated yesterday that at least a dozen persons in Ord who had previously been unemployed were given jobs as a result of the plan. Many others received increases in pay and reduction in working hours. As the NRA agreement is signed by a greater number of business people it seems certain that many more jobs will be created, more than would seem possible at first thought in a city of this size.

Employers and employees alike are hailing the recovery plan as the dawning of a new day for business.

That all firms who employ a sufficient number of persons to come under the NRA regulations will be forced to sign, even though they are not disposed to do so, seems certain from the tone of recent announcements by General Hugh Johnson, national director of the NRA. And that a local organization will be formed to see that all do sign was made plain early this week when the Ord Chamber of Commerce received from NRA officials instructions to organize a local committee to co-operate in the re-employment drive that will start soon and end on labor day.

Acting in accordance with these instructions, Harlan T. Frazier, Chamber president, called a meeting of heads of business and civic clubs of Ord and this session of Tuesday evening. A discussion of ways and means of enacting the NRA provisions locally was held, and committees were appointed until the meeting was adjourned until tonight, at which time officers will be appointed and arrangements made to co-operate to the fullest extent with state and national NRA officers.

It is proposed to appoint a General who will have complete charge of NRA work in Ord. He will be assisted by three colonels, one in charge of publicity, one in charge of educational work and one in charge of enforcement. Each colonel will, in turn, be assisted by majors, captains and privates, each of whom will have certain duties to perform. The whole organization will be in direct contact with Richard L. Metcalfe, former mayor of Omaha, who was named Tuesday as director of the work in Nebraska.

It is proposed by President Roosevelt and his aides to conduct a nation-wide campaign to induce people to patronize only those firms that are patriotic and display the NRA blue eagle emblem. No boycott of other firms is planned, it is claimed, but public opinion will be massed to see that all firms that should sign do so.

Postmaster Edwin Clements, who is in charge of accepting certificates of compliance and distributing the NRA emblems locally, said yesterday morning that Ord firms are signing up at a more rapid rate daily. The total number that had signed by 11 o'clock was thirty-seven but it was thought that many more would sign during the day yesterday, which is the reason the Quiz does not attempt to print a complete list of signers this week. In fairness to all it will be another week before a list of signers is printed, after which firms that have not signed may expect the displeasure of patriotic citizens to be directed at them.

Arcadia Man Becomes Violently Insane, Is Taken to Hastings

Becoming violently insane while attending the Pentecostal camp meeting being held at Clement's grove last week, Jack Hutchison, itinerant farm laborer who has been working in the Arcadia neighborhood for the past two years, was taken to the state hospital at Ingleside by county officers Sunday.

Hutchison's mentality had been slipping for some time, it is claimed, and the excitement of the camp meeting apparently proved too much for him. When he became convinced that the devil was chasing him, officials of the camp meeting had him taken to Arcadia. There he was lodged in jail but insisted on tearing all his clothes off so Sheriff George Round was called.

The man was brought to Ord Saturday night and officers had much trouble with him in the jail here, hypodermics finally being used to quiet him. The case was so troublesome that Hutchison was taken to Ingleside Sunday and formal insanity hearing was not held until Tuesday. Commitment papers were issued at that time by the Valley county insanity board, which consists of Dr. F. A. Barta, Clarence M. Davis and Alfred Weigard.

SEVEN RETAILERS BEGIN SALE OF 3.2 BEER TODAY

Licenses Issued to Eight By City Council Friday; Beer Sold at 12:01 This Morning.

At 12:01 o'clock this morning legal beer containing 3.2 per cent alcohol by volume went on sale in Nebraska and as the Quiz is being issued this morning beer is being sold by seven retailers in Ord, this number of retailers licenses having been issued by the city council at its meeting last Friday evening.

The seven to whom retail licenses were issued are: Jack Riley's pool hall, Frank Kasal's pool hall, The New Cafe, John Sharp's cafe, Mrs. Fred Buchfink's cafe, The Johnson cafe, The Valley Bottling Works.

All except the bottling works are licensed to sell beer for consumption on the premises but Mr. Zablouin is licensed to sell beer for consumption off the premises only. Most of the better-known brands of beer will be sold in Ord, it is stated. Olof Olsson, who was given a wholesaler's license by the council Friday evening, is handling Old Saxon beer made by the Storz Brewing company of Omaha, and this beer is being sold by almost all of the licensees. Budweiser, Schlitz, Kingsbury, Pabst, Country Club and Blatz are a few of the other bottled beers being sold here today.

Draught beer is being sold in four places in town including John Sharp's cafe. Other licensees may put in equipment for selling draught beer later.

No License Fee Charged.

Arcadia, August 8.—(Special)—At the regular meeting of the board of trustees Monday evening, licenses to sell 3.2 beer were granted to the Ramsey Drug Store, L. E. Bly billiard parlor and Walter I. Judah residence, the licenses being conditional upon proper surety bonds being produced. In accordance with an ordinance enacted recently, no license fee will be charged by the village.

Court House Takes Ten Inning Clash By 1 to 0 Score

The League Standing.

W	L	Pct.
Sinclair Hotshots	2	0.1000
Court House Rats	3	1.666
Barbers	1	1.500
High School	1	1.500
Merchants	0	2.000
Knights of Pythias	1	1.500

The Court House Rats increased their lead over the lowly Merchants Tuesday evening when the court house kitten-batters won a ten inning clash by a score of 1 to 0. At the end of the ninth the score was tied but in their half of the tenth frame the Rats ran in a score and then held the Merchants safely in the last half of the inning.

The Sinclair Hotshots remain at the top of the league heap, possibly because their game with the Barbers, scheduled for Monday evening, was postponed. An interesting kittenball game was played at North Loup last evening when the Court House Rats beat the business men of that village, 9 to 5. A return game will be played soon.

—Sunday Eileen Hollander was able to leave the Ord hospital and return to her home. She is recovering from an operation.

EXPECTS HEARING ON IRRIGATION WITHIN FEW DAYS

Hardenbrook Promised That Public Works Board Will Visit Ord Soon To Investigate.

That within the next two or three weeks a public hearing to determine whether federal funds for the North Loup power and irrigation project will be allowed will be held in Ord by the Nebraska public works board, was the word brought back from Omaha last Friday by Bert M. Hardenbrook, president of the district. Mr. Hardenbrook had been in Omaha for several days presenting the local district's application for funds to this board, which has as its members John Latenser, of Omaha, Dan V. Stevens, of Fremont, and James E. Lawrence, of Lincoln. Mr. Lawrence is a new appointee, having been named in place of Col. John G. Maher, who refused to serve.

Prospects of the loan being granted are distinctly encouraging, Mr. Hardenbrook says, but several steps must be taken before final federal approval is secured. First the Nebraska board must recommend the project, then it must be approved by Regional Director Murphy, of Wheaton, Minn., and federal public works authorities in Washington must then give final approval.

At the hearing to be held here Latenser, Stevens and Lawrence will investigate local unemployment conditions, crop conditions and financial conditions in general and will then determine whether spending of almost 3 millions of dollars of federal money here will result in wide-spread improvement.

The engineering feasibility of the project will be determined by Regional Director Murphy and a corps of army engineers that he will bring to Ord. This group will come by airplane as soon as the state board has its hearing and makes its recommendation, it is expected.

President Hardenbrook was asked by the board about unemployment conditions here and told members that he believed there are from 1,500 to 2,000 men in the district who are not gainfully employed at present and who will welcome a chance to work on the project should it be allowed. Since the district takes in northeastern Custer county, part of Blaine county, part of Loup county, much of Garfield county, most of Valley county and a portion of Greeley county, it is believed here that his estimate was not greatly out of line.

The Nebraska board's reaction to the project will depend much upon the extent of unemployment here at present, Hardenbrook believes. He urges all men who hope to secure work on the project to heed the call of the Re-employment committee and register immediately. A list of unemployed needs to be made up early, moreover, in order that present residents of the valley may be given preference over drifters who are sure to come in when the project is allowed.

No further developments in the project are likely until the date of the Ord hearing is determined but then events should move quickly and the project should be allowed or rejected within a short time.

4 Inch Rain Falls North of Arcadia

This territory received a beneficial rain again Monday night which ranged from a quarter of an inch in Ord to as much as four inches a few miles north of Arcadia. Drainage facilities there were taxed to capacity and in some cases were unable to accommodate the overflow. About eight miles east of Arcadia the Burlington tracks were washed out. The North Loup community reports Monday night rainfall at from 1 to 2 inches and most parts of the county participated in the rain to some extent. The corn crop is now regarded as sure and pastures and alfalfa are also in excellent condition for this time of year.

The Tallest Corn.

Arthur Nass brought in a couple of stalks of corn Wednesday that measure 13 1-2 feet tall. We are wondering if this is the tallest corn in Valley county. Arthur says the whole field averages about 12 feet tall.

Mass will be at 10 o'clock at Ericson, Nebraska, Sunday August 13, after which there will be a PICNIC at CHRIS' COZY CABIN CAMP RESORT for the benefit of the CATHOLIC CHURCH. The ladies will serve a big chicken dinner for 25c a plate. There will be a ball game between Don Nowlaski's Ericson team and Joe Grimm's Spalding team, also other sports which may take part in. Those who prefer to fish may have that pleasure. A licensed aviator has promised to come and do some aerobically flying. The regular gate charge of 25c per family car and 15c each for extra men will be made, all of which will go to the Church. This charge will include all sports and fishing. All are cordially invited to come.

Bud Honored By Golf Club On 75th Birthday

When anybody in Ord thinks about golf they must of necessity think of A. J. "Bud" Shirley, for almost since the Ord Golf club came into existence Bud has been the professional thereof and to him must go the credit for Ord's fine golf course.

Naturally when Bud reached his seventy-fifth birthday last week the golf club desired to help him celebrate it, so Bud was the guest of honor at the club picnic held Thursday evening. A huge birthday cake graced the long table, especially in Bud's honor.

How many golf clubs in the United States can boast a professional who is seventy-five years old and still going strong? Not only working fourteen or fifteen hours daily on the course but also playing the same par game that he has played for the past twenty years. Not many, the Quiz is willing to bet. And the way Bud is going we'll almost be willing to bet that twenty-five years from now he'll still be out there hitting them with a full swing and cracking par occasionally. All honor to Bud, dean of golf playing in Ord.

Valley Co. Group Wins Prize Money

Agent Dale's Grain Judging Teams Place in World Grain Congress at Regina, Canada.

Word that both of County Agent C. C. Dale's Valley county grain judging teams placed in the money in the world grain judging contest held recently at Regina, Canada, came this week to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Benn, parents of Harold Benn, a member of one of the teams. Although neither team bagged first place the boys won more than enough money to pay expenses of the trip, he wrote.

The intermediate judging team of which Harold was a member placed fourth in its event and drew down $120. Other members of the team were Bill Garnick, also of Ord, and Clifford Heine, of West Point. In individual judging Benn placed ninth, winning $130, Garnick placed eleventh and Heine placed twelfth, each winning slightly less than Benn did. Mr. Dale's junior team, which won the United States championship at Chicago a few months ago, placed eighth in their division. Members of this team were Charles Barnhart, Bud Brickner and Valerian Clochon.

Harold Benn wrote that the boys judged under extremely difficult conditions, as they were unfamiliar with many of the Canadian crops and grasses and the rules were entirely different from those they are accustomed to. A University of Minnesota team won first in the intermediate contest, Alberta won second and Manitoba won third, he wrote. After the show at Regina Mr. and Mrs. Dale and their children and Bill Garnick left to spend a few days fishing in Minnesota and the other boys are spending a few days in Yellowstone park.

Trap Big Timber Wolf.

An animal believed to be a timber wolf was trapped by Will Foth and a hired man on the E. R. Foth farm in Mira Valley Sunday evening. Darker brown than a coyote and also larger, the animal had been seen for several months in that vicinity and sheep raisers, fearful for their flocks, had made a number of efforts to trap and shoot it. It had grown so bold that on one occasion it entered the Foth farm yard and seized a chicken close to where Mr. Foth was harnessing a team. Mr. Foth was showing the huge scalp to Ord friends Tuesday.

Reforestation Boys Visit Home People

Lester Manchester, Alvin Carlson, Raymond Richardson, Milton Meyers and George Knecht, of Ord, and Pete Drawbridge of North Loup, all members of Valley county's reforestation contingent and all stationed now at Camp Bryan, Fremont, Nebr., visited home folks Saturday afternoon and Sunday, returning to camp Sunday night. All of the boys like camp life very much and some of them are planning to re-enlist November 1, they say. Their visit was much enjoyed by their relatives here and at North Loup.

—At the Community park in Arcadia Sunday a picnic was held honoring Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Schwarzl, of Meadville, Pa., who are visiting in the home of Mrs. Schwarzl's relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Ord Twombly, a number of her friends from Ord were present and the company numbered fifty or more.

—Tuesday Mrs. W. E. Huggins and son Bill of Omaha came to Ord and are spending a week with Mrs. Huggins' sister, Mrs. James Milford and family.

REGISTRATION OF UNEMPLOYED MEN TO BEGIN FRIDAY

All Who Expect Work on Irrigation or Other Federal Projects Should Register Now.

Every man in Valley county who expects to secure a job on the North Loup or Middle Loup irrigation projects, on highway construction or any other federal project contemplated for central Nebraska, should register in the office of Alfred Weigard, clerk of the district court, on the third floor of the Valley county court house in Ord tomorrow or Saturday.

The drive to create employment on a nation-wide scale is on in earnest, being manifested locally by the appointment at a meeting in Grand Island last Friday of Mr. Weigard as chairman of the Valley county branch of the National Re-employment Service, a federal agency, and the appointment of Alvin Blessing, Val Pullen, Carl Sorenson and M. F. Kosmata to work with him. All are Ord residents, it being deemed imperative by federal men who had charge of the meeting that committee members be residents of county seat towns, so that they may meet frequently and act rapidly.

George Hodge, of Lincoln, is state director of the re-employment service and Chairman Weigard and members of his committee are acting upon Mr. Hodge's instructions.

These say that it is necessary that all unemployed men register immediately with their county re-employment agency, as jobs on federal projects are expected to open up in the near future. As contracts for federal projects are let, a list of unemployed in counties where the projects are located will be furnished to the contractor, who must select his working force from these lists.

Chairman Weigard announces that he will have a clerical force in readiness throughout Friday and Saturday to take all registrations. All persons 16 years of age or older, not now gainfully employed or who hope to find employment on any project carried out with federal money, should register in Ord Friday and Saturday of this week, the sooner the better. Next week it is probable that members of the committee will visit Arcadia, North Loup and Elyria, at times to be announced in next Thursday's issue of the Quiz, and permit unemployed of these communities to register. If any in these communities are able to come to Ord and register this week it is advisable that they do so, as the first who register may be given preference when jobs become available. It is hoped that enough federal projects may be started to furnish work for all, however.

With the Nebraska public works board promising to hold a hearing on the North Loup irrigation project here within the next week or ten days, Chairman Weigard's committee desires to have a fairly complete registration of Valley county's unemployed ready for their inspection and consideration.

Garfield, Custer, Loup and Greeley county men who hope to work on irrigation and other projects will register with the committees in their respective counties. Only Valley county residents should register in Mr. Weigard's office Friday and Saturday but all such who want employment should do so without fail.

Will Form Chapter Of Walton League

Preliminary steps looking toward the organization of an Isaak Walton league chapter in Ord were taken this week when ten local sportsmen signed an agreement to become members as soon as the chapter can be organized. In former years there was a strong Isaak Walton organization in Ord but it had been allowed to die out. Now, with the prospect of having two or three lakes in the Loup valley in connection with the irrigation project, it was deemed expedient to organize again. There is also the likelihood of securing more fish for restocking our streams where an Isaak Walton league exists. Sportsmen who care to join should watch for announcement of the organization meeting, which will be held soon.

Mrs. Kerchal Celebrates. Mrs. Charles Kerchal celebrated her 90th birthday Sunday and in honor of the occasion all members of her family gathered for a reunion at her home in north Ord and spent a pleasant day together. Mrs. Kerchal's husband passed away about a year ago.

Chester Weekes Married. Chester Weekes, a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Weekes of Ord, was recently married to an Omaha young woman and he and his bride spent a day or two in Ord last week. He has taken over the management of an elevator in Beatrice and is also opening a branch in Omaha. For the past two years Mr. Weekes was employed in Chicago by the Farmers Grain corporation, a subsidiary of the federal farm board.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

Judge E. P. Clements came down to my office one day last week and asked how the Missus and I would like to go with him and Mrs. Clements down to Beaver Crossing on Saturday, to see the water gardens. "They are among the largest in the country" said the Judge. Of course we agreed, since he was buying the gas, doing all the work, etc., though we were not greatly interested in water gardens. Didn't know what they were in fact. Of course we had visions of a mud hole with some white and yellow pond suckers in it and probably blood around and a few frogs ducking around among the moss and green slime. "What time shall we start?" I asked and the Judge said, "Be ready at 7 a. m." We prepared the lunch, for we were going to eat in some nice little park, fried chicken, apple pie and the usual things that go with it, including plenty of good, hot coffee, the latter made possible by the modern thermos jugs. And our host and hostess drove up right on the dot, in fact a few minutes ahead of the dot, but we were ready, and on our way immediately.

It was an ideal day cool and cloudy and roads good gravelled all the way except for 5 miles of dirt road south of Utica though by driving a few miles out of our way, we could have gravel all the way. In case anyone who reads this wants to make the trip, go to York, east on the S. Y. A. to the next town, on east 23-10 miles and turn south and it is 9 miles to Beaver Crossing, the first 5 miles of it dirt road but good.

Someone who don't care for pond lilies will want to know about the crops and I want to say that we didn't see any better corn than we have here all over Valley county. Down in the York country they seemed to have a pretty good wheat crop. From near Grand Island on to York county the corn is so badly burned that no amount of rain would make corn on most of it. A few fields would make a little corn with ample rain. As we left Hamilton county the corn improved and Seward county has corn about like ours. The best we saw was around Beaver Crossing. That is a wonderful country and they have a splendid prospect for corn. And before I forget it, they had a good rain there Saturday afternoon, it started to rain about the time we were leaving.

We knew we were going to visit the water gardens but didn't know who owned them, until on the way down, Judge Clements mentioned the Smiley water gardens and I wondered if it could be our old friend Erle Smiley and I recalled that he hailed from Beaver Crossing. He judged chicken shows in Ord some 20 years ago. As we drove into his yard and I saw him coming across the lawn I knew it was the same man and he don't look so much older either. Erle Smiley has a national reputation as a poultry judge and is rapidly acquiring a national reputation as a producer of fine water lilies. He asked about Frank Glover, Evet Smith and others of those who used to help at and show their birds at our poultry shows and remarked that Mr. Glover, at that time, had as good Hamburg chickens as there were in the world. Mr. Smiley has a chicken hatchery at Seward, which is really his home but in the summer he lives in his cottage on his water lily farm at Beaver Crossing.

The water garden is an 8-acre tract and more than half of it is in water ponds or small lakes. I don't know how many different ponds there are and they are all sizes. Some of the larger ones are probably 250 feet square and there are not so many of the white lilies that I was expecting to see, and none of the yellow ones like I am used to seeing up in Cullen lake. But there are white ones there, great big waxy ones as large as a coffee saucer and red ones, pink ones, large yellow ones. I judge there are pink and red ones of twenty different shades. All are marked with a neatly printed name on a stake out in the middle of the pond. There are water lilies from all parts of the world and they bring from a dollar a root to five dollars and some, recently acquired and being grown for increase, are not for sale at any price.

Then there is a fancy fish department, gold fish by the thousand and many kinds of fancy fish, some ink-black with the most beautiful fin tails. Some of the larger, fancy ones used for breeding, Mr. Smiley said, would readily sell for twenty-five dollars each but he would not sell them. A few years ago he started to raise bullfrogs and now has great numbers of them. They give a funny little squeak as they jump into the water among the lily pads when one approaches. He said he had frogs 20 inches long. We didn't get to see any of the real large ones but I arranged to buy a can of 500 tadpoles to send up to Cullen lake and in a few years I expect to be lulled to sleep at night by the booming croak of mighty bullfrogs. I am wondering if some of the more ner-

The N. R. A. Code

The Ord Quiz has subscribed whole heartedly to the provisions of the National Industrial Recovery Act, and the code which has been adopted by the Nebraska Press Association. There will be some changes in the general code as applied to newspapers and job printing establishments, but these changes will be slight. We are standing squarely behind our president.

While the forty hour working week will mean a hardship on many country newspapers, we can work under it if we can get the following co-operation:

- Correspondents sending in their news letters promptly.
- Merchants giving us advertising copy early.
- Subscribers sending in news items promptly.

If this co-operation cannot be obtained, much news will of necessity have to be left out, as we cannot afford to hire extra help, having carried for more than two years a larger working force than business justified, in order to keep our organization together and to help out during the period of depression. If merchants do not get their advertising copy to us on schedule time we will either be unable to publish the ads, or spend more money in "over time" pay than the profit derived. Either would mean a loss, which we cannot stand at the present time, and continue to operate. We must all co-operate in making the N. R. A. movement a success—will you do your part?

The Ord Quiz

vous ladies will thank me for introducing them there.

Mr. Smiley did raise trout and at one time had 170 thousand of them on hand but the market dropped to a point where they were a liability instead of an asset and he said he hung on till the experiment cost him fourteen thousand dollars and then quit. I would have kept a few to have some to eat if I had been handling the business.

And the water for the place? That is interesting. He has the finest artesian water and as I recall, he said he had four wells, all 4-inch pipes sticking out of the ground and running a full stream. Of course it takes a lot of water, and all ponds are fresh and pretty, no stagnant, dead water. I judge that the water gardens are more a plaything or hobby than anything else for I don't think it possible that Mr. Smiley can sell enough stuff to pay the enormous expense that he must have. In addition to the water lilies, he has other kinds of flowers, a large planting of fancy dahlies, many of the finest irises and other flowers and all the grounds are in lawn. The ground between the various ponds, probably eight feet in width, is lawn and carefully mowed and I saw three men and boys busy working about the place. Cars were coming and going all the time with visitors and I am told that on Sunday there are frequently hundreds of people there to see the water gardens.

Something DIFFERENT

Four or five Ord young men who have developed a yen for a pair of attractive girls in a neighboring town have been providing their friends with amusement recently. Two or three of these fellows do not have cars of their own, and their competition is limited, consequently, for they must depend on chance rides to and from Ord. These rides are not always found.

A few evenings ago two of the rivals rode together, the one finally taking pity on the other and asking him to ride with him.

But the joke was on the boy who was asked to ride. He did not know it, and of course it was unethical to inquire, but the driver of the car had a date with the favorite young lady of the pair before they ever left Ord.

So when the friend said nonchalantly: "Just drop me off at the telephone office," the driver complied, laughing up his sleeve. And then drove over to his girl's house, arriving there in time to answer the phone and tell his crestfallen friend that the gal friend was very busy, all evening.

Beer signs in Minnesota are as thick as gas signs down here, more so in fact, for the gas and beer are sold together and then the beer in many additional places.

It seems a crime that such a beautiful landscape must be cluttered up with so many uncouth signs. But perhaps Nebraska won't look as desecrated as Minnesota did, since I understand it is illegal for Nebraska gas stations to sell beer.

John Klein's home is always so beautifully kept, neat and orderly, I think he should be given some sort of a prize. There are a dozen or so places in town which are similarly well-kept.

In fact they look so speckless and perfect that it is quite difficult for their neighbors to make their home yards look as if they received any attention whatever.

Ladies of Ord are having more fun, emulating their menfolks, who are also having more fun. They are playing kittenball, and evening by evening this sport grows in favor as the crowds grow that watch from the sidelines.

Lots of Ord Mamas are down there getting their exercises. But I understand Mrs. John Goddard is so clever at that the rest of them have some trouble keeping up with her.

The best tale of the year about kittenball is this:

Ign. Klima arrived late and parked his car a little too close to the field. Dave Haught hit one which promptly rolled under Ign.'s car. This, as you can imagine after a glimpse of Dave's kewpie figure was out of reach for Dave. So the game was held up until Long John Andersen could get there to slide the ball out. Which delay cost the Courthouse Rats, as they call themselves, the game.

There has been some argument since as to whether to chastise Ign. or to make Dave reduce, with considerable enthusiasm for both courses of action.

George Parkins swears he believes the bottle story, since I told that Gene and John shuddered when swigging at it, says that convinced him the contents were really only water.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Canning recipes of all kinds are at a premium now. If you can anything of which you are especially proud, please send in the recipe. It is time to make a great many of these things now, and will soon be time for the fall canning, too.

Dill Pickles.

Boil and cool one cup vinegar, two cups water, one tablespoon salt, pack pickles and dill in jars and pour vinegar over cold and seal.

Mrs. Earl Smith.

Dill Pickles with hot liquid. Put washed cucumbers in jars, then add the following liquid while it is hot: six quarts water, one quart of vinegar, add dill, one pound or two cups coarse salt, one teaspoon powdered alum.

Mrs. C. G. Tenney.

Sweet Cucumber Pickles. Select medium sized cucumbers, wash and place in gallon crock, add one-fourth cup coarse (not table) salt, cover with boiling water and let stand overnight. Next morning drain thoroughly and let dry. Put cucumbers in a granite kettle, cover with vinegar and water. (Dilute the vinegar according to strength, usually one-half of each may be used). Add mustard seed or mixed spices as desired to kettle. Set on back of range and let heat slowly to a boil, but do not boil. Have jars sterilized and hot, add one cup of sugar to each quart jar and pack hot pickles in jars, cover with hot vinegar and seal. These pickles will not shrivel if made properly. Be sure and do not heat too fast, because the boiling point will be reached before the insides of the pickles are heated and this causes them to wither.

Mrs. C. G. Tenney.

Ground Cucumber Relish. Measure one gallon of cucumbers, grind with peeling. (I used ones too large for dills and removed the seeds). Also grind four large onions, two red peppers, two green peppers, add a handful of salt, mix well and let stand one hour. Drain well and add one cup water, two cups sugar, three cups vinegar, one teaspoon each of mustard seed, celery seed, tumeric, salt. Boil ten minutes and seal while hot.

Mrs. C. G. Tenney.

Pepper Relish. Put twelve green peppers, twelve red peppers, twelve large white onions, through the food chopper, cover with boiling water, let stand ten minutes, drain, add two quarts vinegar, three cups sugar, three tablespoons salt, one ounce of mustard seed, boil until tender, usually fifteen or twenty minutes. Seal while hot. This is not too hot or spicy.

Mrs. C. G. Tenney.

Put twelve green peppers, twelve red peppers, twelve large white onions, through the food chopper, cover with boiling water, let stand ten minutes, drain, add two quarts vinegar, three cups sugar, three tablespoons salt, one ounce of mustard seed, boil until tender, usually fifteen or twenty minutes. Seal while hot. This is not too hot or spicy.

Mrs. C. G. Tenney.

Dried Corn on the Cob.

Prepare the corn for cooking, and cook ten minutes on the cob, when cool enough to handle, string and hang on clothes line to dry, covered with mosquito net. Bring in at night if there is any dew. When ready to use soak over night and next day you can have nice corn on the cob, even in mid-winter. It saves time, jars, money and there is no spoiled corn.

Mrs. William H. Thomas, Ashton, Ida.

Peach Jam.

Skin and mash or chop one-half crate of peaches, grind two pounds of seedless raisins and one pound of walnuts, add the juice of four large oranges. Put in one cup of sugar to each two cups of fruit. Cook twenty minutes, and seal while hot.

Mrs. W. E. Lincoln.

Last week in this column in Mrs. Tenney's dill pickle recipe there was an error, which the editor desires to correct. The correct amount of vinegar is one-half cup, not a cup as was printed.

UNTIL WE LEARNED BETTER

Until we learned better, we used to mix wood and steel in our car bodies and wheels.

It was the best way to make bodies—then. But the state of the art has advanced.

Of course, it is more expensive to make an all-steel body than to make a wooden frame and nail steel panels on to it. The better way involves an initial expenditure of several millions of dollars for new dies, which renders a change very costly. Cars, especially large expensive cars which are produced in small volume, cannot afford this, because the dies cost as much for one car as for a million. That alone explains why all-steel bodies are not used in all cars.

But our basic policy from the beginning is to make a good car better, regardless of cost.

For example, when we discarded wood-steel body construction, it was not because we lacked wood. We still have some thousands of acres of the best hard wood in America. Economy would urge us to use up the wood first, and then adopt the better all-steel body. But we decided that quality was more important than expense.

We weighed the reasons, for and against, before we made the change.

We could see only one reason for retaining a mixed wood-and-steel body—nailing the metal on, instead of welding an all-steel body into a strong one-piece whole. That reason was, it would be cheaper—for us.

Our reasons for adopting an all-steel body were these: A wood-steel body is not much stronger structurally than its wooden frame. In all American climates, wood construction weakens with age. Every used car lot gives evidence of this. Rain seeps in between joints and the wood decays. A car may have a metal surface, and yet not be of steel construction. Under extreme shock or stress the steel body remains intact—dented perhaps, but not crushed.

Steel does not need wood for strength or protection. Wood is fine for furniture, but not for the high speed vehicles of 1933.

In the Ford body there are no joints to squeak, no seams to crack or leak.

The all-steel body is more expensive—to us, but not to you.

By all odds, then, steel bodies seem preferable. Wheels also have become all-steel. No one argues that an electrically welded one-piece steel wheel, such as the Ford wheel, needs to be "strengthened" by adding wood to it.

The one-piece all-steel body is the strongest, safest, quietest, most durable body made. That is our only reason for making them.

Christian Science.
"Soul" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, for Sunday, Aug. 13.

The Golden Text is from Psalms 42:2: "My soul thirsteth for God, for the living God."

A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from Leviticus 26:11, 12: "And I will set my tabernacle among you; and my soul shall not abhor you. And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my people."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "Human thought has adulterated the meaning of the word soul through the hypothesis that soul is both an evil and a good intelligence, resident in matter. The proper use of the word soul can always be gained by substituting the word God, where the defile meaning is required. As used in Christian Science, soul is properly the synonym of Spirit, or God; but out of Science, soul is identical with sense, with material sensation." (page 482).

Here's One Good Way To END AGONY OF NEURITIS

Newark Man Knows How and Loses 10 Pounds

"Gentlemen: I used Kruschen Salts to try and get rid of Neuritis from which I had suffered for one year in my left shoulder and arm. I took a little of the salts in the morning, sometimes in my coffee, other times in water. I would also occasionally take a dose in water at night before retiring. For 3 months I used the salts and while I lost 10 pounds in weight, the pain in my shoulder HAS ENTIRELY DISAPPEARED. During the time I was taking the salts I received no other medical treatment so I am fully convinced the Kruschen Salts did the trick." C. K. Murray, Newark, N. J.

Take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning—a jar lasts 4 weeks—get it at any drugstore in the world—costs but a trifle.

—Mrs. Mary Nelson of Omaha passed away Thursday at the age of 72 years. She died in a hospital after a few weeks illness. She is the mother-in-law of Mrs. Alvin Nelson, of Omaha. Overdoing It.

"So you love my daughter," said the old man.

"Love her," the young man exclaimed passionately; "why I would die for her. For one soft glance from those sweet eyes I would hurl myself from a lofty cliff and perish—a bruised mass on the rocks below, but glad enough to have had a chance to sacrifice myself in her name."

"Well, you can't have her," said the old man. "I'm something of a liar myself, and one liar is enough in a small family like ours."

Going Up

Yes, prices on land are already showing an advance! The Federal Land Bank has authorized an increase of 10% on all farms they now have. Other companies are doing likewise or will soon, without doubt. There are still some very attractive places to be had on favorable terms. We have three ranch propositions that will be of interest to those desiring ranch lands. Also some good buys in smaller farms. If you ever hope to buy a farm or ranch home for yourself it would pay you well to plan to do so in the next few months.

The Treat of the Season for Dancers... Saturday - Sunday August 12-13 Dale Humason and his RECORDING ORCHESTRA Maybe we're biting off more than we can chew. Maybe dancers of Ord and vicinity won't appreciate sufficiently an orchestra of this high calibre. But we decided to tackle it once, anyway, so here's the finest dance orchestra ever booked to play in Central Nebraska. Dale Humason and his band comes direct from the Russian Gardens at the World's Fair in Chicago where dancers paid $2.50 per couple to dance to them. They carry their own amplifying system and offer several novelty vanderlille numbers, singing trios, violin duets and a host of other stellar combinations. You'll love them. Admission: 15c at gate 40c and 10c to dance Before 9:30 Saturday night, dance tickets 25c; before 9:00 Sunday night, 25c Special EDDIE VLASEK and his original KGBZ orchestra will play for us on August 26th... Orchard PAVILION 5 MILES SOUTHWEST OF ORD LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS Ashton, Idaho, July 24, 1933. Quiz Editor Seeing the S. O. S. call from the Cook's Col-Yum-Yum, methinks it is time for me to get busy. I am sending three recipes, will send more, rather than lose that part of the Quiz. Whew! warm, I'll say, its 97 degrees now at 2:00 o'clock, it was 78 degrees at 9:30 this a. m. It would probably be 100 degrees only a stiff breeze is blowing. Small grain was very short and badly burned on account of lack of moisture. We have had fine prospects of rain the last three weeks, something like the anxious waiting in Nebraska when I lived there. But this rain always passes us by to enrich someone else. This part of the country will be just as bad off as last year for the last week of Aug. 1932 we had a killing frost that got all of the spring grain. It certainly was wonderful for Ord and vicinity in getting such a rain. I am glad to see Valley county wake up to see what a grand thing irrigation will be. She will be the garden spot of the middle west. As I was looking through the Quiz again, what do I see? Six sheriff sale notices, that don't look good to me, are the holiday farmers taking a rest? Mrs. Wm. H. Thomas. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stevens and son Ralph Alan and Pauline Powers enjoyed a picnic dinner in the chalk hills Sunday. Mrs. John Lunnay entertained the U. B. Ladies Aid Wednesday. About three inches of rain fell in this neighborhood Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haas and children were in Burwell Sunday. They have numerous relatives there. Grand Island, Nebr., Aug. 9—Patients at the Sanitarium this week (Aug. 1, 1933) have come from Deshler, Weeping Water, Norfolk, Cushing, Theford, Lindsey, York and Beatrice, Nebr. My business that has carried on for more than thirty years in Grand Island with over 14,000 cured patients to its credit must be a good business. I have convincing and valuable information that every rectal sufferer should have. BACK FORTY By J. A. KOVANDA Farmers who reduce their wheat acreages for 1934 and 1935, by not more than 20 percent, will be advanced 20 cents a bushel in cash on the fifteenth of next month. The total amount paid will be 28 or 30 cents a bushel. It will be given on 53 percent of the farmers' allotments in bushels, because 53 percent of the wheat grown in the U. S. is used for domestic consumption. It may be interesting to observe how the Agricultural Adjustment Act to wheat would affect Valley county if all farmers participated. Bushels of wheat raised during the past five years in this county are given below, since allotments are determined by averaging the production of the past three, four, or five years. 1928127,628 bu. 192950,953 bu. 1930105,200 bu. 193186,820 bu. 193230,569 bu. 74,270 bushels is Valley county's average production of wheat for the last three years. Farmers will be asked to reduce this by 20 percent, and grow only 59,416 bushels next season in Valley county. If they do, then they will be paid a bonus on 53 percent of that amount or on 31,481 bushels. The latter amount multiplied by 30 cents yields $10,338.30, the approximate amount available to our farmers under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, if they want it. The remaining one-third of the acreage reduction payments will be awarded upon evidence of fulfillment of contract. The farm will be visited to see if reduction has actually been made. This work will be done largely by county agents and by emergency agents appointed for non-agent counties. Farmers are not to use contracted acreages for any other purposes except summer fallowing; planting to soil-improving or erosion-preventing crops; for food crops for home consumption; for feed crops for production of livestock products for home consumption. Contracted acreages are not to be used for the production of any nationally produced agricultural commodities offered for sale.

VOL. 51 NO.

NRA ORGANIZES HERE; MILLIKEN NAMED 'GENERAL'

Provisions of Roosevelt Program Backed to Limit in Ord; Other Officers Chosen.

Ord, Valley county, Nebraska, will back the provisions of President Roosevelt's National Recovery Act program to the limit.

Following receipt of messages from General Hugh Johnson, federal administrator, and R. L. Metcalfe, state administrator, a meeting of representatives of local civic organizations was held last Thursday evening in the Chamber of Commerce meeting place and a permanent organization to enforce the NRA program was formed in Ord.

At the head of the program in this city will be L. D. Milliken with the rank of "general," instructions from NRA headquarters having directed local people to organize on a war-time basis. Mr. Milliken will have general direction over the entire re-employment drive.

Assisting him with the rank of lieutenant-general will be Miss Eunice Chase.

Three colonels will participate in the program, Edwin Clements, jr., in charge of enlisting members and consumers, Glen D. Auble, in charge of publicity, and J. A. Kovanda, in charge of the educational campaign and speakers' bureau.

Each of these colonels has appointed majors to sub-divide the work, Colonel Clements' organization being the most elaborate. Under him will be Major J. G. Hastings, in charge of business blocks 28-29-30, Major Forrest Johnson, in charge of business blocks 19-21, Major R. J. Stoltz, business blocks 12-13-14, Major Ign. Klimka, in charge of the 2nd ward, Major Ralph W. Norman, in charge of the 1st ward, and Major J. W. McGinnis, in charge of the 3rd ward.

Colonel Auble has appointed as his majors E. C. Leggett and M. Biemond, who will assist in explaining the NRA plan to people of Ord and vicinity.

Majors appointed by Colonel Kovanda will include H. T. Frazier, who will have charge of the information bureau, and Marlon Cushing, Clarence Davis and John P. Misko, who will be members of the speakers' bureau. Ministers who wish to speak to their congregations on any subject allied to NRA may secure material from any of these men.

These officers will make up the executive committee and will do the actual work of making the NRA plan effective in Ord. Assisting them will be an advisory board composed of representatives of Ord's civic organizations. On this board are Dr. F. L. Blessing, of the American Legion; J. A. Kovanda, Rotary club; Ellsworth Ball, county board; Glen Auble, chamber of commerce; William Sack, city council; Mrs. J. A. Kovanda, Women's club; Mrs. Wilbur Cass, P. E. O.; Mrs. William Carlton, welfare board. Dr. Blessing was chosen chairman and Mrs. Cass secretary by this board Thursday evening.

Colonel Clements emphasizes the fact that merchants who sign the NRA certificate of compliance must live up to its provisions. "It has been reported to me that certain business places in Ord have signed but are failing to live up to their agreement; these fellows are going to find themselves in hot water pretty soon," he says.

"America has gone to war," says Chairman Blessing, "We are at war against as cruel and malicious an enemy as ever attempted to riddle Old Glory. Just think for a minute of the suffering and death that have come from this frightful depression of the last four years.

"We simply must get people back to work," he continues, "and this NRA drive will do it. Here in Ord we hear words of praise and encouragement on every hand from those who have studied the plans and realize that they are economically sound.

"Very briefly, the situation may be explained in this way: In order to build up the nation's buying power to keep pace with the increasing commodity prices, there must be wholesale re-employment—not sometime in the future but right now. So President Roosevelt, acting under the National Recovery Act, entrusted to General Hugh Johnson the organization of the vast task of working out acceptable industrial codes. This work has been progressing rapidly and satisfactorily. Then in order to speed things up still more and get men back to work more quickly throughout the nation, thus raising the mass buying power to keep pace with rising commodity prices, President Roosevelt has inaugurated the blanket code. This was quite fully gone into in his recent radio address. Substantially, all persons employing two or more persons are asked to join up with the President in a covenant to maintain wages and restrict working hours.

"Every employer who signs this solemn agreement with the President will immediately have the right to display the NRA emblem in his place of business.

"This will notify the public just what places of business have fall-

Salmon Run Starts Writes Wallace Doe From Alaska

"The salmon run is starting," writes Wallace Doe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Doe of Arcadia, from Alaska where he is spending the vacation period. "Sockeye, dogs, bumper, all sizes, are running. One of the prospectors and I have been over in Fall Creek gaffing a few. Sure great sport."

"You certainly get an assortment of fish to eat up here, as well as clams, etc. Alaska's greatest industry is fishing instead of mining, though there is plenty of that, too.

"Went to Warm Springs, twenty miles from here, last week, on the gas boat. It was a swell trip and perfect weather. I shot a seal and almost got a loon. Am going trolling for Kobes out in the Straits tomorrow."

"Young Doe writes that he will start for home about August 20. His friends in Alaska want him to stay for the fall hunting, but he is unable to do so. He has a wonderful bunch of pictures to bring home, he writes.

Irrigation Hearing Coming Here Soon

Word received yesterday from Bert M. Hardenbrook, president of the North Loup power and irrigation district, indicated that a hearing will be held in Ord on this important matter soon. He has been in Lincoln and Omaha for several days and yesterday went to Fremont to confer with public works officials, who were in session there. The hearing will be held not later than the latter part of next week, he indicated, though a definite date has not yet been set.

Only One Kittenball Game. Colored Auble has appointed as his majors E. C. Leggett and M. Biemond, who will assist in explaining the NRA plan to people of Ord and vicinity.

Only one kittenball game has been played in Ord since last week's issue of the Quiz. In this game the Barbers beat the Knights of Pythias, 8 to 3. The Sincin's Hot Shots still lead the league with a perfect record. The Barbers, Court House and High School teams are tied for second place.

Members of our local organization here in Ord have taken off our coats, rolled up our sleeves and we have pledged the President to work to the limit of our ability to get every working man and working woman in Ord back to work before many weeks. Yes, America has gone to war—and, as usual, America will win.

General Milliken, too busy organizing his campaign to make a long announcement, commented characteristically:

"Tell your readers that every employer in Ord will be given an opportunity to enlist. The draft doesn't start until later."

He urges that, in buying goods, housewives of Ord give preference to stores displaying the blue eagle emblem of the NRA. The watchword of the NRA, according to Milliken, is: "Look for the Blue Eagle. Buy at Blue Eagle establishments. Buy Blue Eagle merchandise. And buy just as liberally as your purse will permit."

Consumers may sign pledge cards either at the postoffice or at any store displaying the blue eagle. These pledges bind the consumer to purchase only from a blue eagle store. To all who sign the pledges stickers will be given for display in windows of homes.

A complete list of Ord business places that have signed the NRA certificates of compliance and are conducting their businesses in accordance with NRA regulations is furnished us by Postmaster Edwin Clements and is printed below. It is complete to yesterday noon.

VALLEY COUNTY'S 1933 TAX LEVY REMAINS AT 3.70

Increase in General Fund For Poor Relief Is Offset by Lower Levy For Bridges.

Valley county taxes for 1933 will be levied at the rate of 3.70 mills per dollar of valuation, the same as in 1932, it was decided last week by the board of equalization. The board's decision will be pleasing to tax-payers as it means an actual reduction in county taxes of from 15 to 20 per cent, due to the lower valuations in effect this year.

Increasing expenses in caring for the poor made necessary an increase in the general fund from 2.33 mills to 3 mills but this increase was offset by reducing the bridge fund levy from 1 mill to .23. The interest and bond fund was increased from .37 to .47 mills and, as in 1932, no taxes will be levied for road work.

The state tax levy this year is 2.39 mills as against 2.37 mills in 1932 despite the fact that there is no levy for the state capitol, it having been found necessary to increase the state general fund levy from 2.26 mills to 2.39 mills because of decreased valuations.

The total value of all real estate and personal property in Valley county for tax purposes last year was $16,558,357. This year it is reduced to $13,672,351. The valuation of farm property was cut 20 per cent, that of town property 15 per cent and the reduction in the value of personal property averages 12.5 per cent, County Clerk Ign. Klimka says. With valuations off more than 3 millions of dollars it is only natural that some levies have to be raised, he says. Only by a drastic cut in all expenses will Valley county be able to get along without a higher levy, he points out.

School levies throughout the county are generally higher than last year, the Quiz learns. The Ord school district levy for 1933 is 17.4 mills; in 1932 it was 15.9. North Loup school district increases from 16 mills in 1933 to 22.8 mills for 1933. Arcadia increases from 6.8 last year to 10.6 this year. All of the school districts have not yet reported their levies so the complete list cannot be given at this time but will appear in board of equalization proceedings to be published next week.

City and village levies also are generally higher, due mostly to increased valuations and partly to increasing cost of poor relief. Ord's levy mounts from 3.7 mills to 7.5 mills. Ord's bond levy from 4.8 to 6 mills. North Loup's village levy from 7.5 to 9.5 mills and Arcadia's from 6.3 to 8.2 mills. The North Loup bond levy increases from 4 mills last year to 5.5 mills this year.

The county board also set up machinery to make the Old Age Pension law effective in Valley county. This law, passed by the Nebraska legislature last winter, levies an annual tax of 50c on every person between the ages of 21 and 50, inclusive, and provides a monthly pension of $20 for destitute persons who have passed the age of 63. The tax is levied as is the poll tax. Later the county board will name members of the county Old Age Pension commission who will decide what persons are entitled to receive this pension. Members of the commission serve without pay.

Mrs. Walters Is Named County Relief Worker

Will Investigate Needy Cases And Assist in Distribution of Federal Relief Funds.

Mrs. Gladys Walters, a sister of Miss Clara McCutcheon, County Superintendent, Ord, last week was appointed emergency relief worker for Valley county by the board of supervisors and has already begun her duties. She is experienced in this work and will be paid $40 per month and traveling expenses. How long she will be employed is not certain, the board having hired her for only a month as a trial of this method of administering relief.

Appointment of a relief worker was made necessary by the fact that federal relief funds allotted to Valley county could not be claimed until the worker was chosen, this being a federal requirement. In July this county was allotted $500 by the state emergency relief organization headed by Wm. H. Smith of Lincoln, but none of it could be claimed because the proper machinery had not been set up. Valley county's August allotment has not yet been announced but other counties that got $500 in July were allotted $300 in August.

Use of federal funds is expected to relieve, in some measure, the drain upon the Valley county general fund.

Mrs. Walters' duties will be to investigate applications for relief, fill out case cards required by the state emergency relief board and advise the Valley county committee, which is composed of Mrs. Wm. Carlton, Ord, Mrs. W. J. Hemphill, North Loup, and Wm. Ramsey, Arcadia. This committee will determine whether applicants are entitled to relief and will issue orders with which merchandise may be bought. Once each month copies of these orders are sent to Smith's organization in Lincoln and state warrants are sent from there to merchants holding the orders.

"I don't think that any local relief effort ever did as much with the amount of money available as has the Ord Welfare Board," said County Clerk Ign. Klimka, jr., yesterday, in explaining why he believes organized relief work under Mrs. Walters' direction will prove more efficient than have methods used by the county board in the past.

Wm. Sack in Hospital.

Councilman Wm. Sack is in Mary Lanning hospital, Hastings, being treated for an ulcer which formed this summer in his right eye. At first Mr. Sack appeared to be suffering from pink eye, apparently contracted when one of his children had the disease, but the trouble grew worse and last week he went to an eye specialist in Hastings who diagnosed the trouble as a form of ulcer. He will be in the hospital for another week, he writes.

BEE-NEWS PRICE GOING UP!

The Quiz is advised that it is now just a question of a short time till the price of the Omaha Bee-News has to go up. If you are not taking the paper and want it, or if your subscription is nearly out and you expect to continue taking it, send or bring in your renewal very soon. It will cost you $5 for daily and Sunday but they tell us the price is going to be raised. Other daily papers are higher now. The Quiz wants to send in your subscription and it don't cost you anything to let us do so. In fact saves you a few cents and a little time.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stanton of Lefors, Texas drove from Ord Monday to the Charley Finley home near North Loup. For a few days Mr. and Mrs. Stanton have been visiting in Ord, Burwell and North Loup.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Williams of Long Beach are in Ord for a few days, guests in the homes of R. C. Bailey, Jay Auble and other friends. The Williams' had been in Kimball to look after farm interests.

Minnesota Preacher At Ord M. E. Church

Large church attendance is not a common thing this time of year, but one such was at the Methodist church last Sunday morning. Guests of several sorts were there. Two of the Ord pastors were away, so their congregations came as guests. A special number, duet with guitar accompaniment, was provided by the Misses Beulah and Velma Spencer of Bedford, Iowa, who were visiting at the Harry Wolf home. Ord's own Tom Fuson sang in a duet with his sister, Mrs. J. P. Barta, and later sang a solo, in both instances being accompanied on the piano by his wife. Then the sermon was delivered by another Valley county boy, Dr. C. C. Smith, who ably applied the experiences of Samson to the conditions of this day. Here is one of the notable paragraphs in his sermon: "Samson thought it a light thing that he consider only his own interests, but that led to his being gouged out and to his being compelled to grind corn for his enemies. When the economist has advanced his theories; when the historian has given his interpretation, and the scholars have expressed their views, it will still be true that such selfishness was the cause of the Great War and the world-wide depression which has followed it. Nor can these conditions be easily corrected. Peace cannot be restored by merely writing a peace treaty, nor can the depression be lifted by legislation. Nothing short of a deep and thorough moral cleansing can restore order and security."

Dr. Smith is pastor of the First Congregational church of St. Paul, Minn., and is some preacher, all right.

CROP REDUCTION MEETINGS BEGIN TONIGHT IN ORD

Heuck Chosen Chairman of County Committee, County Divided Into Six Districts.

The temporary committee in charge of the wheat reduction campaign in Valley county met at the office of County Agent C. C. Dale Monday evening. Wm. Heuck was elected chairman of the group and E. O. Schudel vice chairman. C. C. Dale will serve as secretary, both of this group, and also of the permanent committee to be selected later.

The county was divided into six districts, as follows:

No. 1—North Loup, Independent and Davis Creek townships.

No. 2—Arcadia, Yale and Liberty townships.

No. 3—Noble, Springdale and Ord townships.

No. 4—Elyria and Eureka townships.

No. 5—Enterprise and Vinton townships.

No. 6—Geranium and Michigan townships.

Educational meetings will be held in each district as follows: District 3, at the district court room in Ord, Thursday evening, August 17 at 8 p. m.; district 4, at the Elyria township hall, Friday, August 18 at 8 p. m.; district 2, at the Odd Fellows hall, Arcadia, Saturday, August 19 at 8 p. m.; district 1, at the Barker school house, Monday, August 21 at 8 p. m.; district 6, at National hall, Tuesday, August 22 at 8 p. m.; district 5, at Vinton school house, Thursday, August 23, at 8 p. m.

Every wheat grower should attend the meeting in his district to hear the plan explained, as every man who is eligible to receive payments should understand thoroughly just how the plan will apply to his own particular operations.

Any man who grew wheat in the years 1930, 1931 and 1932, either one or two or all three of these years, is eligible to join. A farmer who grew wheat in 1933, and not in either 1930, 1931 or 1932 is not eligible to join.

The mailing list which the county agent has is only for 1933. Some men who are eligible to join will not receive letters announcing the meetings, for this reason, but should attend, if they grew wheat during the years 1930, 1931 or 1932.

At the meeting tonight at the court house, for Ord, Noble and Springdale townships, it is hoped that G. R. Davis, district supervisor, will be present. The other meetings will be conducted by Dale and Heuck assisted by other members of the county committee.

The meetings are starting late in this county, so it is important that every wheat raiser attend the meeting in his district or if this is impossible he should attend the meeting in one of the other districts.

Remember the dates and attend one of the meetings.

Burwell Rodeo Attracts 25,000

Twenty-five thousand people saw the Burwell rodeo which closed last Friday, it is claimed this week by rodeo officials. The first day crowd was about 4,000, the second day crowd about 12,000 and the Friday crowd about 11,000, they say. The program this year was better than ever before and a larger number of cowboys participated in the rodeo events. The world's bulldogging record, 5 seconds, was lowered to 4-5 seconds at Burwell last Friday.

Burlington officials in Lincoln decided not to run an excursion train to Burwell last Friday, due to the fact that business men of Lincoln were busy readjusting their businesses to conform with the NRA and were unable to make the trip. Consequently, the crowd of Lincoln people present on Lincoln Day was much smaller than usual. Three state officials made the trip to Burwell by airplane bearing Governor Bryan's compliments.

No. Loup Petitions For 3-Mile Limit On Beer Sales

A petition signed by 178 residents of North Loup was presented to the Valley county board of supervisors, in session last week, asking that no licenses to sell beer be issued within three miles of the limits of North Loup village. By vote of supervisors the petition was placed on file.

The bone-dry sentiment existing in North Loup was best shown a few weeks ago when 168 voters, the same number as voted at the last village election, asked the village board not to grant beer licenses within the village. No licenses were granted.

Scotia and Ord beer dealers say they have sold a number of cases of beer to North Loup residents, indicating that some North Loupers want to drink the beverage even though it cannot be bought legally at home.

650 UNEMPLOYED SIGN UP IN ORD AND NORTH LOUP

Approximately 650 unemployed men have registered with the Valley County Re-employment Service thus far, the Quiz was informed yesterday by Alfred Weigard, chairman of the committee for the county, and as the drive continues it is thought that at least 1,000 registrations will be secured. Registration was officially opened in Ord last Friday morning but on Thursday 130 men and for jobs on federal projects filled out the necessary blanks. This number was increased to 130 by Friday night and Saturday morning to 526 in the Ord office. Roy Hudson, who had charge of registrations in North Loup, filled out more than 100 applica-

NO NEW TEACHERS IN ORD SCHOOLS, SAYS SUPT. BELL

Experienced Faculty Will Carry On In High School and Grades; School Opens Sept. 4.

When school opens in Ord on September 4 there will be no new faces seen in the faculty, said Superintendent Millard D. Bell yesterday, because the faculty, without exception, will be made up of instructors who taught here last year. This is a unique situation as ordinarily the teaching staff changes considerably from year to year.

Wilbur D. Cass is high school principal again this year with Miss Zelma Frushour as assistant principal and English instructor. Other high school instructors are J. A. Kovanda, vocational agriculture; Elizabeth Shaver, social science; Mae Baird, home economics; Cecil Molzen, manual training and athletics; Elva Johnson, foreign language and English; W. S. Watkins, science and athletics; Walter Lukenbach, commercial; LaVerne Hans, English and dramatics; Viola Crouch, mathematics and girls' athletics; Mildred Jacobsen, normal training and English; Elizabeth Lukes, mathematics; and Dean S. Duncan, music.

In the grade school Mrs. Marguerite Stark will be principal and members of her staff will include Lois Finley, Irma Gossard, Lucy Rowbal, Bernice Campbell, Adeline Kosmata, Inez Swain, Daisy Hallen and Bertha Lincoln.

School will open on Monday, September 4, and advance registration opens August 22 and continues through August. Seniors in high school are expected to register August 22, juniors August 23, sophomores August 24 and freshmen August 25. All students are urged to register on these dates as it insures their getting the classes they desire, a better locker assignment and text books. All registrations will be made in individual conferences and prospective students are urged to bring their problems and talk them over with registration officers. All school policies will be explained at the time of registration.

Edward McComas Deqd.

Edward McComas, a pioneer druggist at Broken Bow and for several years owner of a drug store in Ord, passed away August 4th at his home in Broken Bow. He first settled in that city in 1886 and was in business there until he sold his store in 1931. His wife died in 1928 and he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Berenice Koeft of Broken Bow and Miss Helen McComas of Casper, Wyo.

Mrs. Cramer Married.

Mrs. Myrtle Cramer, formerly of Ord, was married on July 26 at Colome, S. D., to W. C. Nelson of that city. Miss Celia Brown of the Christian church of that city performing the marriage rites. A miscellaneous shower for the newly-weds was held that evening at the groom's farm home southeast of Winner. Since leaving Ord the bride had been living at Wood, S. D. Her friends will extend congratulations and best wishes.

Raises 'Em In Cans.

Claude Cook has very fine muskmellons and he deivers them in cans if you like them that way. At least he showed the Quiz force one Wednesday that grew into a quart tin can that happened to be on the ground in his patch and there was no way to get it out without either cutting the can or digging the melon out.

John Lemmon is away from Ord on a fishing trip. Mark Tolén has been delivering mail this week in John's place.

Mrs. A. F. Kosmata and Miss Elma Kosmata are spending a few days in Chicago.

Chairman Weigardt said yesterday that the drive would be carried this week to both Elyria and Arcadia and will be continued in North Loup. At Elyria blanks are available in the Elyria S. bank, where Otto Pecenka will assist unemployed men in filling them out. Arrangements will be made to have a supply of blank some prominent place in Arcadia where unemployed may register Friday and Saturday of this week.

Any man in Valley county hopes to secure work on any other project, including the North Loup and Middle Loup irrigation projects, should fill out one of these blanks immediately, Chairman Weigardt says. Jobs are promised to people who register but any jobs that do become available will go to men who have registered, he says. Should the irrigation projects be approved it will be jobs for all who want to work but if neither of them or one of them should be adopted, there may not be jobs enough go around, in which case those registered with the official Valley county re-employment committee would have an advantage over those who did not.

Women who have no means support and are capable of clerical work are advised to register also, as there may be clerical jobs available in connection with federal projects approved this year.

Chairman Weigardt points that the Valley county re-employment committee of which he is head is a recognized federal agency, operating on instructions from federal re-employment authorities. It is not favoring certain federal projects but is attempting to secure the name of all Valley county people who work, including the names of men who have teams and want to work part time on federal projects, should any such be provided.

This may prove to be the week of the re-employment drive so all unemployed who have not yet registered should do so immediately, either at Weigardt's office in the county court house, with Mr. son at North Loup, with Otto Pecenka at Elyria or at Arcadia Dan Bartlett.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

Personally I don't see where the NRA is going to help much in a town of community the size of Ord or smaller but I am going to cooperate to the fullest extent possible, in the hope that we may see better conditions. This is strictly an agricultural community and county, and for that matter, state. So, until a crop is raised and ready to sell, we can't hope for any great increase in general business and then the increase will be in proportion to the increase in the price the farmer gets for his produce. When a crop went up above twenty cents, everyone could see an increase in business but now, with the price of both cut almost in half and the price of necessities about doubled, what can we expect? Flour is about doubled and everything made from flour is higher. Overalls, such as all laborers wear, are about doubled in price. Those necessities, Groceries are following up and all kinds of clothing is soaring because cotton and wool have doubled in price. This country has no cotton to sell and very little wool. It does have lots of hogs but they are getting cheaper. Grains have gone up but that is a hardship on most Valley county farmers for instead of having any to sell, they have to buy for feed. So I claim it is no disloyalty on my part to say that I am unable to see where the NRA is going to help us for some time. If, as is of course the hope of the administration, it causes an increase in buying power (that must be in the east, of course, where there are manufacturing) then eventually prices for our products will work higher. In the meantime just how am I going to meet a payroll nearly a hundred dollars a month higher and just how are other merchants going to meet increased payrolls, when none of us have been able to get more than a jump ahead during the past months? If my advertising increases and if the business people of Ord increase their purchases of job work, then I will be able to do it. If the local buying public can increase its purchases then the merchants can meet increased pay rolls and if they sell more goods they will, of course, buy more of what I have to sell.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Quite often after serving a favorite recipe at a Kensington or club meeting, the hostess will have so many requests for the recipe that she will call up the Quiz, and desperately beg us to print the recipe, so that her friends will permit her to rest.

Such a popular recipe is this one below for sweet pickles which are very sweet and very green and very popular.

Sweet Pickles.
Soak two gallons of cucumbers which have been sliced lengthwise in salt brine strong enough to float an egg for one or two weeks. Wash and put pickles in water to cover with two tablespoons of alum. Let stand 24 hours, wash and cover with water with two tablespoons ginger, let stand 24 hours. Wash, then pour over them a syrup made of the following: three pounds sugar, one quart vinegar, one pint water. Each morning for four days drain off and let come to a boil and then pour over the pickles while the liquid is hot. The last morning seal while hot. These will keep a long time without sealing.

Pawtucket Fingers.
Cream together one cup sugar, one-half cup butter, add three eggs, one at a time, unbeaten. Then put in three-fourths cup flour, sifted with one-half teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon vanilla, one-half cup any kind of nuts, two ounces of chocolate. Bake in a very slow oven, when cool cut into slices and frost.

Cucumber Pickles.
Use seven pounds of cucumbers three inches long or smaller, place them in a stone jar and cover with brine made of one pint of salt and one gallon of cold water, let stand four days. Pour off brine and cover with clear water, let stand three days. Wash and split cucumbers, regardless of how small. Put them in a kettle and add two cups vinegar and enough water to cover. Add a handful of green grape or horseradish leaves and a slightly rounded teaspoon of alum and simmer for two hours. Be sure not to boil, as that makes them soft. Pour off liquid and put pickles back in stone jar. Heat three pints of vinegar and three pounds of sugar, one ounce whole allspice and one ounce of stick cinnamon. Pour this over the pickles and let stand overnight. Next morning pour off liquid and bring to a boil and pour over the pickles again. The third morning pack the pickles in jars and add the vinegar mixture boiling hot and seal. These look and taste just like the store sweet pickles and are well worth the trouble.

Mrs. Mike Sowokinos, Ord.
Sweet Pickles.
Wash and dry 300 medium sized cucumbers, sprinkle with three-fourths cup salt, cover with boiling water, let stand overnight. Next morning remove from the brine, wipe dry, then cover with one-half gallon vinegar or enough to cover pickles to which has been added four tablespoons each of mustard, sugar and salt, one-half cup spices tied in a sack. Pour this mixture cold over the pickles. Measure out three pounds of sugar and every morning add one-half cup to the pickles until all is used up. Put the pickles in fruit jars cold and seal. This makes about eight quarts. These pickles will keep for years and are very brittle and green.

Mrs. C. G. Tenney.
Brine for keeping cucumbers in an Open Jar.
Using a five gallon stone jar, put in one and one-half gallons cold water, one-half gallon vinegar, one-fourth pound powdered alum, and three pints coarse salt. Stir mixture until salt is dissolved. Pick and wash cucumbers and add to this brine after each day picking. When jar is filled cover with grape leaves if desired, then put a cloth over the top and a weight to hold cucumbers in the brine. The cloth will get a scum on it and should be rinsed off each time. When the pickles are to be used soak them overnight in cold water and fix them as you desire.

The rectum is the seat of innocent tumors or growths that frequently develop into cancer because of the irritation of cathartics, enema tubes, bowel movements, the use of patent Pile cures, muscular contractions and infections. Rectal Polyps having a broad base attached to the rectal wall are considered to be changing into a cancerous condition.
It cannot be too strongly asserted that everyone who is afflicted with rectal trouble should avoid the use of patent Pile cures and have an examination as quickly as possible. Hiding the pain will not cure the disease. The only way you can be sure of escaping rectal cancer is to get rid of rectal growths before they become cancerous.

Maybe never again such VALUES!

THIS new Pathfinder is a bigger value than the old Pathfinder. It has the bigger safety margin of FULL CENTER TRACTION — bigger mileage from the 20 PER CENT THICKER TREAD — a stouter body of heat-resisting Supertwist Cord — and other improvements that make it a still better buy than the 17,000,000 Pathfinders that went before.

Look at the All-Weather values, also! This great thoroughbred — the finest tire that money can buy — waves an alluring price tag.

Whichever you want — Pathfinder or All-Weather — remember this: More people are saving money with Goodyears than with any other kind.

Ord Church Notes

Christian Church, Next Sunday morning our subject will be "The Faith That Makes Beautiful."

Union service in the evening at the Presbyterian church. Mid-week Bible study Thursday evening.

Bible school 10 a. m. Try and keep the canning for the Child Saving Institute in mind. Of course you are planning for the missionary fair.

Methodist Church

Our Sunday school was larger than for several weeks. We are happy to note the increase in attendance.

It was a helpful and inspiring service in our church last Sunday morning. Visiting singers as noted elsewhere rendered several vocal numbers. Dr. Chas. C. Smith of the First Congregational church of St. Paul, Minn., delivered an excellent sermon. In the absence of their respective pastors, some visitors were present from the Christian and Presbyterian churches. So many people said, "What a fine service that was!"

The union service next Sunday night will be in the Presbyterian church. Rev. Spracklen will preach.

On the 27th of August, evening service, the Pine Woods male quartette (colored) will sing in our church. Further announcements will be made next week. Mearl C. Smith, Minister.

Christian Science

The subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, for Sunday, August 20, is "Mind."

The Golden Text is from Philippians 2:13: "It is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure."

A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from Romans 11:33, 36: "O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out! . . . For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things, to whom be glory forever."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "Reasoning from cause to effect in the Science of Mind, we begin with Mind, which must be understood through the idea which expresses it and cannot be learned from its opposite, matter. Thus we arrive at Truth, or Intelligence, which evolves its own unerring idea and never can be coordinate with human illusions." (pages 467-8).

The preacher was out on the links and thought a small moral lesson might not be amiss.

"I notice," he remarked mildly, "that the players who get the lowest scores are not those who swear."

"What the h—! have they got to swear about?" snorted the gloomy golfer as he dug up another slice of turf.—Trumbull Cheer.

Its' time to GO MODERN even if you have always bought just one certain make of car. THE TREND is to Plymouth because it made good. It offered more than people had been used to having in a low priced car. So much more that people were astonished. They refused to believe. But those who investigated, found that Plymouth actually was offering a revolutionary new type of low price car. Those that bought Plymouths found the car fully lived up to the promise of the first ride. Today those people would not drive without Hydraulic Brakes. They feel a car without Plymouth steering is hard to handle. They feel unsafe in anything but a Safety-steel body. They like its great roominess. And they'll tell you that a car without Floating Power engine mounting is nerve wracking. Plymouth owners live in a different world! Look into the enthusiasm of Plymouth's three hundred thousand owners. It is based on greater satisfaction at no extra cost! A car may be New and Not MODERN. Don't just compare a new car with your old car. Compare with Plymouth! ... That's the only way to find out if the new car offered you is really up-to-date. And you should exert yourself that much before signing up to spend five or six hundred dollars for a car. Call us for a demonstration. Coupe $567 Coach $595 Sedan $650 (THESE PRICES ARE F. O. B. Predict Continued Use Of Trench Silos In Nebraska

LINCOLN, Nebr.—Hundreds of Nebraska farmers will continue to use the trench silos they now have or they may dig new ones this fall in spite of the favorable outlook for the corn crop over most of the state. It was predicted this week by Ivan D. Wood of the University of Nebraska agricultural extension service.

In a new extension circular just completed by Mr. Wood and E. B. Lewis of the University, the construction and use of the trench silo is explained. It is pointed out in the circular that the trench silo, unless lined with some permanent material such as brick, concrete, or stone, must be considered a temporary structure that will serve for a few years only and then must be discarded or rebuilt. In an emergency it will save a crop even though the farmer has little capital to expend other than his own labor. The suggestions in the circular are based on experimental work being done at the station farm near Lincoln and upon experiences of farmers of the state.

The original idea of using a trench for the spring of ensilage seems to have been the outgrowth of the practice used in several European countries, according to the circular. Shortly after the World War this form of silo made its appearance in this country. In Nebraska the true trench silo made its appearance about 1925 or 1926. Many farm owners and most of the renters have felt that most silos were too high in first cost per ton capacity. The very low cost of the trench silo seemed to offer a partial answer.

Features of this form of silo, as pointed out in the circular, include that it is quickly and cheaply built for emergency use, that it can be built with unskilled labor and with machinery easily procured on the farm, that any desired capacity can be had by increasing the length of

One Reason...

Why Farmers Cream Checks Are Smaller

OLEOMARGERINE consumed during the first half of this year was 115,000,000 pounds, an increase of 17 million over the same period of 1932.

While this was going on butter consumption decreased 25,000,000 pounds.

Increased consumption of oleomargerine means DANGEROUS SURPLUSES of Butter in cold storage.

BETTER TIMES WILL COME

When the Farmers of the Nation can make a decent living from the operation of their farms AND NOT UNTIL THEN!

Producing butter-fat is one of the important industries of this county.

ARE YOU LOYAL

To Valley County's Dairy Industry? Show your loyalty by using plenty of MILK, CREAM, and BUTTER.

Butter markets are in a deplorable condition because of the large surplus in the coolers. Producers can help reduce this surplus by using milk, cream and butter freely in the farm home and by asking their friends, who live in the towns and villages to use plenty of butter and help Valley county farmers to get bigger cream checks, which will be spent with the home merchants.

THE ORD QUIZ

The North Loup irrigation and power project is ready to go and there would seem to be no good reason for delay, if the administration really wants to get people to work. The increased business, incident to starting the work, would enable merchants to add sales-people which they can't do now with little business.

ESTABLISHED APRIL 1882

THE ORD QUIZ, ORD, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 24, 1933.

VOL. 51 NO. 22

WHEAT FARMERS WILL GET 28 CENTS BONUS PER BU.

Government Will Pay Bonus On 54 Per Cent of 3-Year Crop; 20 Per Cent Acreage Cut.

FILING DATES FIXED.

Next Wednesday and Thursday, August 30 and 31, have been fixed as the days when Valley county farmers who expect to enter into wheat reduction contracts with the government must file their application blanks. These blanks are being mailed out this week and farmers who receive them should study them carefully and be able to give the information requested in these blanks.

Eureka and Elyria farmers may file their applications at the town hall in Elyria from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. August 30; Ord, Noble and Springdale township farmers should file at the county agent's office in Ord during the same hours on Aug. 30; Michigan and Genarum farmers must file at the National hall during the same hours on Aug. 30. Members of the county committee will be in each place to assist in filling out the blanks.

North Loup, Independent and Davis Creek farmers should file at the town hall in North Loup between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. on Thursday, August 31. Liberty, Yale and Arcadia farmers during the same hours at the Liberty and Arcadia; Vinland and Enterprise farmers at the Vinland school house during the same hours. County committeemen will have charge of filings in each place.

County Agent Dale asks farmers to bring threshermen's certificates and sales records with them if they are available; not having these records will not debar any farmer from signing a contract but they will assist in substantiating his statements as to acreage and bushels harvested.

To participate in the federal wheat reduction plan, Valley county farmers must agree to reduce their wheat acreage 20 per cent and for so agreeing will be paid at least 28c and possibly 30c on 54 per cent of the average amount of wheat they have raised per year during the past five years said Guy R. Davis, district supervisor, in explaining the plan at a meeting of Noble, Springdale and Ord township farmers in the district court room last Thursday evening. The same explanation has been given to farmers of other townships at a series of meetings held elsewhere in the county by Wm. Heuck and C. C. Dale, chairman and secretary of the Valley county wheat reduction committee.

Only a meeting held in Ord but Supervisor Davis gave a long explanation of the reduction plan and cleared up a lot of misunderstandings as to the way it will work. Other meetings have been more largely attended than the Ord meeting.

He prefaced his talk by explaining the situation that makes reducing of wheat raising necessary in this country. The amount of wheat used normally for domestic purposes in the United States is less than 600 million bushels, he explained, and for several years past we have been raising an average of 860 million bushels per year. In former years this surplus was exported but since 1928 the poverty of Europe, combined with tariff barriers, has prevented our surplus being exported. Added to this is the fact that wheat raising is on the increase throughout the world and a world-wide surplus is in evidence.

For these reasons, President Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace decided that the most effective way of coping with the wheat surplus was to reduce the acreage planted to this crop. And to induce the farmers to plant less wheat it was decided to pay them to take a part of their acreage out of wheat production.

As outlined by Supervisor Davis this is the way the plan works: In the plan a farmer who wants to reduce his production and receive the bonus must sign an application blank in which he reveals the number of acres he planted to wheat in each of those three years and the number of bushels of wheat he harvested each year.

The total number of bushels harvested in the three year period is divided by three to give the average yield and then 8 per cent is added, to compensate for the higher yield of wheat most Valley county farmers had in 1928 and 1929, which years are also counted as "base years". Then, since 54 per cent of America's annual wheat production is used for domestic purposes and the bonus is to be paid only on this portion of the crop, 54 per cent of the total is then taken. The figure thus determined constitutes the farmer's "allotment bushels" and he will receive an estimated 28c to 30c per bushel on this number of bushels.

No. Loup S.D.B. Church Celebrates 60th Anniversary With Fine Program

Church Was Founded in 1873 When Devout Group Met On Banks of Loup To Worship.

Sixty years ago, on May 18, 1873 to be exact, a little band of 37 people who were devout Seventh Day Baptists met under the trees on the green banks of the beautiful North Loup river to worship God in their own way. The way they happened to be there came about as follows:

Seeking a new spot to colonize, the S. D. B.'s had sent several men westward from their Wisconsin homes. Tired and discouraged at the dry landscape they found, the little group reached the Chalk Hills, a few miles south of the present location of North Loup. There they declared they would go no further, but would go back home and report Nebraska not a desirable field to move to, though one man disagreed with this verdict. This was C. P. Rood, who asked the others to wait for him, while he climbed the highest of the Chalk Hills, now known as "Happy Jack's Peak". From this point of vantage he could see ahead two new and fertile green valleys, those of Mira Creek and the North Loup river.

Falling on his knees in prayer, Mr. Rood vowed to bring a colony to them, to live there and to be buried there. The other men did not make a favorable report, but in spite of this, nearly a year later a Seventh Day Baptist colony was located in that beautiful green valley and has remained there ever since. Within eight years C. P. Rood was buried in it, as he had taken oath to be, but his spirit lingered and the colony thrived.

NIGHT FOOTBALL AND KITTENBALL FIELD DISCUSSED

Nominal Sum Invested In Lighting Equipment Would Result In Bigger Gates, Is Claim.

That a lighted field for the playing of football, kittenball, baseball and tennis at night be constructed in Ord is the proposal made last week by a group of sport enthusiasts headed by Dr. J. W. McGinnis. The proposal is being considered by the park board, which is composed of W. A. Anderson, Dr. C. C. Shepard and L. D. Milliken.

Six fifty-foot poles, each bearing a cluster of 1,500-watt electric lights would illuminate a field adequately for night play, adherents of the plan believe, and the necessary special equipment could be purchased for $150 or slightly less, is the claim. Company's manufacturing such equipment have offered to install it here and take their pay out of gate receipts.

Experience of other towns has proved that larger crowds turn out for football games played under the flood lights. Kittenball, which game has already captured the interest of a large number of Ordites, also could be played to better advantage and larger crowds after dark, it is believed. The shortened evenings of early fall are making it difficult to complete games during the evening and it soon will be impossible to play twilight kittenball.

Where the lighted field would be located is the chief problem. Busell park is the only available spot at present and one group of floodlight fans are urging that the lighted field be located in the park's natural amphitheater where the baseball field was formerly located. Golfers, however, oppose this plan, pointing out that it will encumber the most important part of the golf course and prevent playing golf in the evening, the only time most golfers have to play. Since the golf club contributes several hundred dollars annually toward the upkeep of the park, members of the park board seem inclined to heed the protests of the club in this matter.

111 North Loupers Want Beer Election

Last week a petition bearing the signatures of 111 voters was filed with Harold Hoepfner, village clerk at North Loup, asking that a special election be called to vote on whether or not beer should be sold. Previously a petition bearing 167 signatures of people who do not want beer sold in North Loup had been filed, hence the village board has not granted beer licenses. The board will consider the new petition at its meeting early in September.

FEDERAL PAVING PROBABLE THROUGH ORD, SAYS BRYAN

Local Group Calls on Governor To Urge Project Thursday; Engineers At Work.

That Highway No. 11 through Ord will probably be paved this fall was the statement of Governor Chas. W. Bryan and State Engineer R. L. Cochran to an Ord delegation headed by Dr. J. W. McGinnis last Thursday. Whether or not the project is carried out depends upon agreement on a route through town and the city's willingness to furnish right-of-way, the group was told.

In the delegation headed by Dr. McGinnis, who is chairman of the Chamber of Commerce highway committee, were Repr. Marion J. Cushing, County Engineer R. C. Ayres, Alfred Weigardt, H. T. Frazier, Ellsworth Ball, Cecil Molzen and Kenneth McGinnis. On the same day that the Ordites went to Lincoln a group of seven surveyors headed by State Engineer Lynn arrived in Ord and began surveying to determine the most feasible route through town. This group seems to favor a route which would take No. 11 west near the Nels Peterson farm to a point directly south of 16th street, north on 16th street to the Burlington right-of-way and northwest along the Burlington tracks to the city limits.

Mayor Moses and other city officials look with disfavor upon such procedure, as the cost of right-of-way would be prohibitive. They point out that state and federal authorities would thus be utilizing pavement already in existence and would have to build less than a half mile of new paving, which would not furnish much employment locally.

The route most favored by Ordites would follow the present route of No. 11 except where the highway enters town from the southeast. To eliminate a couple of corners it is thought that the road should go west near the Peterson farm and turn north at 14th street. City officials indicate that they would be willing to purchase right-of-way needed for this route. It has already been approved by Mr. Schumacher, federal engineer for this district, it is claimed.

Should this route be adopted about 1-1/4 miles of paving would have to be built, the cost of which would approximate $50,000. The paving would be of concrete and would be 20 feet wide. Ord people are not trying to dictate what route the highway should follow but Mayor Moses and city councilmen feel that it would not be in the best interests of the city to spend a large amount for right-of-way to secure only a half mile of federal paving. The route will probably be located to the satisfaction of all concerned before the next issue of the Quiz.

Hubert Vodehnal Wed To North Loup Girl

At Grand Island on Monday, August 1 occurred the marriage of Hubert Vodehnal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vodehnal of Ord, to Miss Mary Cox, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cox of North Loup. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. L. Geissinger of Trinity Methodist church and the bridal pair were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Reeve Manchester.

After spending the night in Grand Island Mr. and Mrs. Vodehnal drove to Omaha and Council Bluffs and spent a few days, returning to North Loup the latter part of the week. They will live in the George Walker residence property there and Mr. Vodehnal will continue working in the drug store owned by his brother, William Vodehnal.

Hubert is a graduate of Ord high school and has numerous friends here who will want to extend congratulations and best wishes.

Rotary Enjoys Music.

A fine musical program presented by Professor August Molzer, his son Victor and Miss Eunice Bingham of Lincoln was enjoyed by the Ord Rotary club Monday evening. They came as guests of Orville Sowl, whose house guests they are. Professor Molzer is an instructor in the University of Nebraska school of music. After the program Monday evening George Parkins showed a two-reel motion picture, "Lumbering in the Pacific Northwest," which was much enjoyed by Rotarians.

Wants Farm Jobs Reported. Mrs. Gladys Wolters, relief worker for Valley county, asks the Quiz to request farmers who need temporary help to communicate their needs to her. Several unemployed heads of families whom she has listed are willing to do farm work in exchange for produce, vegetables, etc. If cash wages cannot be paid, she says.

Friday Mrs. Niel Peterson of Davis Creek was in Ord for a few hours.

John Round Injured By Mountain Tumble

When John Round, young Ord medical student, fell down a mountain near Astoria, Ore., on August 14 he broke a leg, fractured a wrist, was severely bruised all over his body, and, to make matters worse, landed in a clump of poison oak and was badly poisoned. Indicate letters received by his parents, Sheriff and Mrs. George Round. John is in a hospital at Astoria.

The Ord boy, who attends the University of Nebraska school of medicine at Omaha, left for the west with Lincoln friends after the closing of the summer school term at Omaha. After visiting Estes and Yellowstone parks the party went to Astoria and engaged a summer cottage for a week.

On August 14 John was hiking in company with a class-mate, Mr. McMillen, of Lincoln. About 18 miles from Astoria they climbed a mountain, planning to take a short cut from the top back to Astoria. Young Round reached the top but his friend could not make the climb so John started back toward him. He lost his footing and fell 200 feet, his father tells the Quiz. His friend eased his sufferings as much as possible but it was almost night and the two had to stay on the mountain all night before help reached them.

Sheriff Round says that his son is recovering from his injuries and that the party will start back to Nebraska tomorrow. John will have his leg in a cast but it is hoped that he will be able to resume his medical studies at Omaha when school reopens in September.

984 WANTS JOBS IN VALLEY CO., SAYS WEIGARDT

Re-employment Committee Complete Drive; Furnishing Work Up To Government.

Almost 1,000 men in Valley county are not satisfactorily employed and need jobs on federal projects, says Alfred Weigardt, chairman of the county Re-employment committee. In announcing the results of a drive just completed under his direction, he announces the total number who filled out cards in this county as 984, with a few still coming in.

The largest number of cards were filled out at Ord, 553. At North Loup 175 and Elyria 21. It is believed that Arcadia's report cannot be complete and if more unemployed list their names there Valley county's total will mount above the thousand mark.

A similar survey is under way in other counties in the upper North Loup valley and yesterday Ben Rose, who is in charge of the campaign at Burwell, said that more than 400 had signed in Garfield county. Loup county reports a total of 250 to date.

Now that the survey has been completed and the information required by federal authorities has been secured it is up to the federal government to fulfill its promise and provide jobs on federal projects for this great number of unemployed. Paving, highway gravel, the North Loup and Middle Loup irrigation projects and others are now under consideration and some of them should be started soon.

Mr. Weigardt is making his report to the state re-employment committee this week.

Cotton Blossom Singers at M. E. Church Sunday

A colored male quartette known as the Cotton Blossom Singers from the Piney Woods School of Mississippi, will give an entire evening of music next Sunday night at the Methodist church. The group of young men are genuine southern negroes from way down south, and know how to sing negro spirituals and plantation melodies as only the down south colored folks can sing them. They are making a tour of the northern states in a house on wheels, and it was a piece of good luck when they were booked for a Sunday evening in Ord.

Many Ord people remember a few years ago when a group of young men from this same school appeared in one of our churches and gave a delightful evening of music. Many have expressed their pleasure that they would have a chance to hear them again.

A colored minister will accompany them and will take a few minutes telling of the school, and show a few stereopticon pictures. No admission will be charged, but the evening offering will be for this school which is Christian but not denominational. The public is invited.

Miner Harris Sells Paper. Miner Harris, a former Ord boy and for the past several years editor of the Wolbach Messenger, last week sold the newspaper to Darryl Jackson, who had been employed in his shop for some time. Mr. Harris and his mother left at once for a two weeks' visit in Wyoming. His future plans are indefinite.

EMERGENCY HOG PROGRAM MAY RAISE PRICES 25%

Government Will Buy Light Pigs And Sows at Premium, Raise Money By Process Tax.

By J. A. KOVANDA. Smith-Hughes Agriculture Instructor, Ord High School.

An emergency program for reducing the number of hogs for next year, has been promised by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to start almost immediately. It will provide extra cash for owners of swine in a rough and insect stricken area.

A premium will be paid on light pigs and piggy sows during a period which starts soon and closes on October first. The money will be raised by a processing tax on all legs marketed in the usual way during the next twelve month period.

The schedule of prices announced by Wallace will be as follows: 25-30 lb. pigs at $9.50 per cwt.; 30-35 lb. pigs at $9.25 per cwt.; 35-40 lb. pigs at $9.00 per cwt.; 40-45 lb. pigs at $8.75 per cwt.; 45-50 lb. pigs at $8.50 per cwt.; 50-55 lb. pigs at $8.25 per cwt.; 55-60 lb. pigs at $8.00 per cwt.; 60-65 lb. pigs at $7.75 per cwt.; 65-70 lb. pigs at $7.50 per cwt.; 70-75 lb. pigs at $7.25 per cwt.; 75-80 lb. pigs at $7.00 per cwt.; 80-85 lb. pigs at $6.75 per cwt.; 85-90 lb. pigs at $6.50 per cwt.; 90-95 lb. pigs at $6.25 per cwt.; 95-100 lb. pigs at $6.00 per cwt. Over 275 lb. brood sows at $4.00 per head above market value without dockage. They must be within 3 weeks of farrowing.

The sale of these hogs will not affect the open market for other classes of live hogs according to Secretary Wallace. The meat from the pigs over 80 pounds and better sows, which passes inspection for food, will be used in relief work among the poor. All the rest will go into tankage and similar products.

Farmers are asked not to rush pigs and brood sows to market immediately after the program starts. The packers have stated that they can handle heavy receipts, but they ask farmers and shippers to communicate with the market men before shipping, to avoid a glut on any one day. The packers have agreed to handle the processing at cost, and co-operate in every way with the emergency program.

It is thought the plan will put hog prices up 25 percent for next year, and hold down the price of corn. With this in view, the farmer who has a bunch of thirty pigs and good corn prospects will think twice before selling at Wallace's premium price.

Hog Program Under Way.

After the above article was written came word that the government's hog buying program would start Wednesday morning, August 23, and as a result it is already under way. Farmers who own definite information about marketing pigs and sows of the above kinds should consult their local hog buyers.

Accident On Highway.

Last Friday evening Mrs. Edward Penas drove onto Highway No. 11 from the driveway at her farm home southeast of Ord, just as a car driven by a Spalding man came down the highway going east. The Spalding car crashed into Mrs. Penas' car and overturned it, wrecking it badly. Nobody was injured, but the car was damaged. The accident was called to view the accident and determine the responsibility. This he was unable to do and states that each party was somewhat to blame.

Weekes Will Address Old Settlers' Picnics

W. B. Weekes, of Ord, has been invited to speak this week at old settlers picnics being held in Greeley and Howard counties and will do so, he tells the Quiz. Fifty-eight years ago Mr. Weekes homesteaded in Greeley county and now he and his brother Charles, of Greeley, are the only homesteaders of that time who are left alive.

Frank Benda on Vacation. F. J. L. Benda and family left Sunday for Chicago to attend the century of progress exposition for a few days. Before returning home they plan to visit Mr. Benda's brother in St. Louis, Mo. Frank Benda is in charge of the Benda store during the owner's absence.

Ord Schools to Open Monday, September 4

This week is registration week in the Ord high school and consequently Supt. Millard Bell and Principal W. D. Cass are busy registering a crop of students that is expected to exceed in numbers the attendance of last year. Supt. Bell expresses himself as being very well pleased with the early enrollment of new students.

Ord high school will open Monday, September 4 with the same faculty as taught last year. Every course offered in 1932-33 will be offered again this year in spite of the fact that the school budget was cut one-third. Most schools are limiting the curriculum offered at the coming term which makes Ord more attractive as a school town to pupils who want to take special courses.

Auto Crash Saturday Eve.

Saturday evening cars driven by John Kriewald and James R. Hrebec crashed on the highway south-east of Ord, bright lights being the cause. Both cars took the ditch and were considerably damaged but only slight injuries were suffered by the occupants.

ORD'S BLUE EAGLE DRIVE TO START MONDAY, AUG. 28

Every Employer And Consumer Must Sign, Johnson Decrees; Will Make Thorough Canvass.

If you are an employer and have not yet signed the NRA certificate of compliance, better do so at once. And if you have not yet signed a consumer's card pledging your family to buy only from firms displaying the blue eagle, you'd better do that, too!

On Monday, August 28 an army of volunteers will take the field in Ord under the leadership of Edwin Clements, colonel of manpower in "General" L. D. Milliken's army, and will make a house-to-house and block-to-block canvass to see that everybody is enrolled as an NRA supporter.

This move is part of a nationwide campaign ordered by General Hugh Johnson, national director of the NRA. The objective of this huge drive is to get 5,000,000 more men and women on the payrolls of the nation by Labor day and this objective can be accomplished only by the united efforts of everybody.

Efforts will be made to ascertain in just what manner each Ord employer is carrying out his NRA pledge, this information being desired by state and federal officials who head the movement. The task of Colonel Clements' committee will be made easier if Ord people will co-operate between now and next Monday by signing Employer's and Consumer's pledge cards and posting their Blue Eagle stickers in a prominent place in windows.

The pledge for employers must be signed at the Ord postoffice but consumers will find pledge cards in every store displaying the blue eagle.

Committeemen making the canvass Monday are instructed to give encouragement to all employers who have already signed the code and help them work out any problems that may be troubling them.

While the man-power division under Colonel Clements is active the other two divisions of the Ord organization will be busy too. Colonel Aulsebrook's publicity committee will see that special NRA "trailer" films are shown at the Ord Theatre next week and Colonel Kovanda's educational bureau will be furnishing speakers for all public gatherings. Plans are being made to have short NRA talks made before club, church and movie audiences during the coming week.

A special feature of Sunday evening, August 27, will be an NRA radio program over a double hook-up comprising all N. B. C. and Columbia stations. On this program Al Smith and Will Rogers will give support of the NRA, Madam Schumann-Heink will sing and a new song written by George Cohan will have its premiere. This song being a martial air especially written for the NRA. For the exact time of this program consult your daily newspapers or telephone H. T. Frazier who heads the information bureau of the NRA organization in Ord.

FINAL DECISION ON IRRIGATION IN TWO WEEKS

Public Works Board Holds First Hearing At Fremont, Is Favorably Impressed.

That within ten days or two weeks a final hearing on the North Loup power and irrigation project will be held in Ord and final decision on the $2,900,000 federal loan will be given, was the cheering news brought back last night from Fremont by 24 citizens of the Loup valley who attended a hearing held by the public works board in the Pathfinder hotel.

Members of the board, Dan V. Stevens, J. E. Lawrence and John Latenser, Jr., with the engineer for Nebraska, Albert C. Arends, Omaha and the Nebraska attorney, C. J. Campbell, Lincoln, conducted the hearing and expressed themselves as being "very favorably impressed with the project." The board's final decision will hinge entirely upon engineering feasibility of the project, board members said. Other conditions are very satisfactory to assure the loan being granted, they indicated.

In the delegation that went to Fremont were Carl Grunmeyer, Will Hoffman, Ralph Brownell, Luther Pierce and A. I. Cram, of Burwell; W. O. Zanger, Geo. E. Johnson, Roy Hudson and Charles Bridge, North Loup; C. R. Newbecker, Zack Harris and Repr. Chas. Larsen, Taylor; Dr. C. J. Miller, Bert M. Hardenbrook, E. L. Vogeltanz, George Allen, Jos. P. Barla, E. C. Leggett, J. A. Kovanda, Ralph Norman, Roy Bailey, Val Pullen, C. J. Mortensen, Harold Taylor and Repr. M. J. Cushing, Ord.

Engineer E. H. Dummire outlined engineering features of the project to the board, explaining that $2,900,000 is being asked, 30 per cent as an outright grant and 70 per cent as a loan to be amortized over a period of years and at a rate of interest to be determined by the public works board. About 37,000 acres of valley land will be brought under irrigation and about 36,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity can be produced annually. He was requested by Chairman Stevens to go over the plans more thoroughly with Mr. Arends, the board's engineer, and is doing so today and tomorrow.

Mr. Hardenbrook introduced the various local witnesses, all of whom dealt with various phases of local unemployment, drought and economic conditions, and gave a well rounded picture of what irrigation and cheap electricity means to the valley. J. A. Kovanda, agriculture instructor in Ord high school, was the first of these and emphasized the fact that this region is ideally suited to the production of sugar beets and alfalfa and that these will become our principle crops if irrigation becomes available.

Two other witnesses, Dr. Kleselback and Col. Val Kuska, gave practically the same testimony as it applies to both the North Loup and Middle Loup valleys. George E. Johnson, of North Loup, who has lived 52 years in Valley county, was next called and he was followed by C. J. Mortensen. The latter stated that the mortgage indebtedness of Valley county farmers is $1,450,000 and that more than 500 farmers in the proposed district will lose their homes in the near future if this loan is not granted.

Will Hoffman, of Burwell, made an exceptionally able argument, picturing the relationship between the Loup valley near Burwell and the cattle country to the north. In former years these cattle were fed alfalfa raised here but recent crop failures have killed this business. There is not a single cattle feeder near Burwell who is not broke at the present time, Hoffman said, and cattle raised near there are being shipped to Iowa to be fattened. He also told about Burwell's decrease in population and the decrease in real estate values there.

Mr. Hoffman said that he was authorized by the Burwell council to say that that town would buy electric energy from the irrigation district.

Claude Roe Kills Big Rattlesnake On Highway

Old settlers tell about the many rattlesnakes that infested the North Loup valley country in pioneer days but only occasionally in recent years has a rattler been seen here. Saturday evening Claude Roe killed one of these snakes, proving that a few of them still exist. The rattler was in the middle of the highway and Mr. Roe saw it as he was driving his car to town. It had four rattles and a button, he says.

Claude has killed several rattlesnakes on a piece of land south of Ord that is owned by his father, S. W. Roe, but they are rarely seen near a public road.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

Think of the almost countless millions of dollars that could have been saved to the honest citizens of this country if the federal government had moved sooner against the racketeers.

And note the names of most of the arch racketeers and criminals in this country, as they are apprehended. Don't see many with such homely old names as Smith, Jones, Brown etc. For the most part they are Italians and no doubt many of them are not and never have been even citizens of this country and many of them should be deported. I am wondering if the federal government has not, in the past, been more lenient with the criminals who were not even citizens, than it will be with us citizens during the next few years.

With the price of practically everything we have to buy going up and about everything we have to sell in this country going down in price, I am wondering if the present situation is working out just as President Roosevelt expected it to work out. Inflation, as I see it, is the only thing now that will save the day. And I believe we are going to have inflation aplenty before snow flies. If we don't then the present ever widening spread between what we have to buy and what we have to sell is going to get still wider and hell is going to pop.

I have spent a good deal of money for nice flowers and in paying Rufe Clark to help me take care of them and down in my flower gardens on the Clark lots, I have a lot of perennial flowers that should be transplanted now if people want them. Among them are oriental poppies. They are dormant now and this is just the time to set them out to let them get a good start this fall and be ready to give lots of bloom next spring. Then there are phlox, we have five or six kinds and nice plants are very cheap and should be transplanted this fall. You can still pick them from the plants in bloom but you will have to do so at once. Mr. Clark will move any of these perennials for you if your place is in Ord and we are sure they will grow and do well for you.

There are a few fellows in Ord who drive up and down the streets much faster than they should, for no reason at all, except that they probably like to kick up a big dust. There is nobody in Ord who has such important business that he needs to endanger the lives of many people, when he has only two or three or at most ten blocks to go and nothing particular to do when he gets there. Of course it is the duty of the officers to see that this dangerous practice on the part of a very few, is stopped but nothing is done and some day, when some tot is killed the officers are going to be very severely censured for not doing what is their plain duty. The really bad offenders can be counted on the fingers of one hand and there is no excuse for any of them to do as they do.

Foreman Harry McBeth wants to know when they can go back to working six days a week again. He says he would rather do the usual work at the office than to beat rugs, peel tomatoes, can corn and do a hundred and one similar household duties all day on his day off.

You all noticed where Governor Bryan was quoted in the state press last week as saying he had saved the farmers two hundred and fifty million dollars, and Fred Howard thinks there must be an election in the ofting. It indicates to me that the Governor is getting his health back, also.

If and when President Roosevelt decides that it is fair and right to take away from a lot of the big fellows some of their ill-gotten gains and return said ill-gotten gains to the little fellows who have been robbed right and left during the days of depression, simply because the dollar they were able to get hold of would pay only 25 cents of the debt they contracted in good times, he will start his inflation and keep it going till those who owe debts contracted in flush times, can pay them with the same priced dollars they borrowed. That is the only fair and right thing to do and it will have to be done before we have so called prosperity again.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Mrs. Urban sends in some very timely canning recipes, saying that they are requested by friends, and asking that the Quiz print them at once. Here they are, below. The Quiz will be glad to assist you in the same way. If you have some recipe that is entirely too popular, and you are tired of repeating it over the phone or copying it off, send it in to us.

Canned Corn.
Cook for twenty minutes; twelve cups corn cut from the cob, one cup salt, one cup sugar, one cup water. Seal hot. When you open it to use, pour hot water over the corn and mix it and pour it off. Then pour hot water on again, heat it a little and pour off again. Then it is ready to use, fix it with milk or cream. This corn keeps good, and does not spoil.

Sweet Cucumber Pickles.
Mix three quarts of vinegar, one quart cold water, one scant cup salt, one and one-fourth teaspoons saccharine. Wash and pack the cucumbers in jars, pour cold liquid over them and seal. Use spices to suit taste. This recipe will can 14 quarts. This is my favorite pickle recipe and I am sure it will be yours too, it is simple and sure to keep.

Bread and Butter Pickles:
Peel and slice cucumbers, salt them and let stand three hours. Mix three cups vinegar, three cups sugar, one teaspoon tumeric, use mixed spices tied in a cloth, cook 15 minutes.

Dill Cucumber Pickles.
Boil together one gallon water, two cups vinegar, one-half cup salt. Pour white hot over the cucumbers which have been scrubbed and packed in jars. Put dill in the bottom of glass jars, pack and seal.

Easy Dill Pickles.
Fill one-half gallon jar with pickles which are about four and one-half to five inches long add two tablespoons salt, two cups vinegar, put dill and grape leaf in, fill up with cold water. Screw lid on tight, set away for two months or longer.

Fifteen Minute Pickles.
Slice or cube four quarts of cucumbers, mix five cups vinegar, five cups sugar, three cups water, one sliced onion. Add one teaspoon each of pepper, cloves, allspice, cinnamon, and three teaspoons salt. Put spices in a cloth. Let come to a boil, and boil five minutes. Seal while hot.

Ketchup.
Boil one market basket of tomatoes with twelve red onions until done, put through colander, then strain through a sieve. Add one-third cup salt, two teaspoons paprika, one teaspoon cinnamon, one pint vinegar, one and one-half cups sugar, boil two and one-half hours, until thick. This makes seven pints.

Something DIFFERENT

About six weeks ago Ernest Achen's little Springer spaniel dog whose name is Bing or Bang or perhaps both, was struck by a car and badly hurt. It developed that paralysis of the two hind legs had made the little hound nearly helpless, and in hopes of helping it, the dog was taken to McGinnis and Ferguson. Since that time the invalid has spent most of her time in a cast.

Not long ago the veterinary decided that exercise was the greatest need for the helpless dog, and after much discussion and planning a little cart was built for the two paralyzed legs to ride on. Now the little cart is strapped on, and Bing scurries about merrily, seeming to enjoy the sport immensely.

The exercise does help, too, for just after the cart is taken off the dog, Bing is able to stand for a minute and even to take a step or so. Bing is gradually getting better, much to the delight of the Achen family.

Meantime everyone present delights in watching Bing get her exercise on the little wheeled chair, Bing not being the only one who is having fun.

Two North Loup young ladies who teach have not idled away the summer. Their spare moments have been spent out in a little shed behind the Babcock home. Here in suitable attire, Misses Ruth Babcock and Eunice Rood have spent a good many hours a week making delectable potato chips, and have supplied practically everyone in North Loup with their product this summer. Between nine and ten bushels of potatoes have been used during the course of their cooking.

Fresh two or three times a week, the potato chips sold like hot cakes, and the girls added considerably to their pin money.

Ruth left Saturday evening for Albuquerque, N. M., where she will be married, so her music teaching days are over, for a while. But Miss Rood will return to Edison, Nebraska in September, where she will resume her teaching in the first and second grades, where she was stationed last year.

The girls reported a slump whenever the weather was damp, as their potato chips would get soggy, then it would be necessary to make new ones to replace them with, in the North Loup stores.

In Ord a year or two ago Evelyn Coe and Marlon Grace Cushing made potato chips and sold them. Their potato chips were delicious, and found a ready market, in fact I think the girls could have sold more than they made. I am not sure, but I think they have now definitely abandoned their potato chip careers for others with more grown-upness and dignity. They are now young ladies, you know.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Lewis celebrated their eighth wedding anniversary very recently, having a quiet dinner at home and exchanging gifts. Their son, aged six or seven, did not think much of it, and cried because he didn't get a present too. The Lewis' family at last report, had not decided just what should be done in such a case, but I suspect that hereafter Kirk will likely get a gift also.

The little girl popcorn sellers continue to work busily at their trade. Their thorough canvases of the business district each day should inspire some of the older people around Ord to get a little busier, too.

Speaking of sluggards, I wonder if you could call a girl who would knock a homer in the famous Wednesday evening women's kittenball game a female sluggard?

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

The presence of big green worms takes some of the joy out of eating roasting ears. These larvae which lodge in the ear tips are known as the corn earworm. Their characteristics are generally known, but it is not generally observed that they are the most destructive insect enemy of corn in the United States.

A farmer in Lancaster county recently found that his forty acre patch was badly infested with corn earworms. Being a good sport, he decided to make an offer of five dollars to anyone who could discover an ear of corn that was not wormy. No wormless ear was ever located, though every portion of the field was trampled over by searching gangs of small boys.

Corn earworms destroy 2 percent of the nation's crop. In other words, twenty-four million dollars represents the worm bill for three billion bushel harvest of 40 cent corn. And a farmer raising three thousand bushels, feeds sixty bushels to the worms. The insects are especially fond of green sweet corn; the production of this vegetable is rendered almost impossible in the south.

The earworm is tolerated by all farmers because not much can be done to combat it. A few practices are of some help. Selecting seed ears that have long, tight husks retards damage. Ears tightly enveloped in husks are less apt to be attacked by all kinds of corn enemies. Early planting reduces earworm injury. Fewer moths are present to deposit eggs upon ears that silk out early. Planting on poor land invites earworm injury. This is due to the irregular silking, and high percentage of poor ears. Rich soil, legumes, and rotation aid in reducing worm damage. Fall plowing also helps.

Some folks treat small patches of market sweet corn. They use a mixture of half lead arsenate and half sulphur. The mixture is dusted on the silks as soon as they appear.

QUIZ FORUM

Wants Better Cream Price.

To the Editor of the Quiz:
People of Valley and many other counties are facing a partial or whole failure of the corn crop and their only cash income will be from the cream and egg checks. The egg price is, I think, out of our control but I believe a united front put up by the Nebraska Holiday association will do much to raise the price of butter-fat as a lot of oleomargarine is being consumed in Nebraska. If the Holiday association of each county could be interested in this and demand of their store keepers that they sell no more oleo with a penalty of boycott if they refused, I believe it would be a temporary relief. And united action by all farm and dairy organizations would be enough to make the next Congress sit up and take notice of the damage that the slippery oleo trust is causing to our dairy industry.

Figures prove that oleo is 71.7 per cent coconut oil. There is no coconut industry in the U. S. A. as these oils are a foreign product, produced by cheap labor and coming in direct competition with the butter produced on our farms. Do away with butter substitutes and the dairymen will get a decent return for their work and money invested. They will also be able to buy more from their store keepers and pay their hired help more. The dairy cow may be found on almost every farm from the Canada line to the gulf and from ocean to ocean. It is the cash income of the average farmer. We can't blame the consumer for buying the cheap substitute instead of wholesome butter when he is encouraged to do so by the store-keeper but the same amount of money spent for butter would do the consumer and his family more good and at the same time reflect in a better living for the dairyman, who could thus buy more goods and hire more labor.

We should receive attention immediately from the new administration in the farm set-up and the next congress should enact laws to protect the dairy farmer.

Dear Readers of the Quiz:
There has never been a time when the farmer, laborer and mechanic came so near being brothers. For instance you, Mr. Farmer, why do you not get a bird with the NRA, put it on your window pane and demand $6 a hundred pounds for hogs, $12 a hundred pounds for beef, 50c per bushel for corn, $1 per bushel for wheat and put in less hours work. You, Mr. Laborer, also get a bird to put on your window and demand higher wages. Mr. Mechanic should get him a bird too and demand 25 percent raise per hour and put in less time, that is what the wholesale and retail business has done, from two to fifty percent has been raised on merchandise and fewer hours time is spent in work.

North Loup S. D. B. Church Celebrates 60th Anniversary With Fine Programs

At that first prayer service Elder Oscar Babcock gave the sermon and Charles Rood conducted the singing. This spot is now marked with a memorial stone, and here the group organized. Thereafter church services were held in a log schoolhouse for a considerable time, then a little frame church building was begun. When only well started it was struck by a tornado and wrecked. Built up again, the little wooden church served for years until lightning struck it and fire demolished it.

The present handsome red brick building was dedicated June 5, 1915 to replace the church which burned, and has been used since that time. It is the mother church for churches in Denver, Boulder and one in Texas. Throughout them all are found many of the same family names which are still prominent in the church home back in central Wisconsin, and the members of one church, as one member expressed it "feel at home in almost any of the others."

From this devout colony have gone out many learned members, among them eleven medical missionaries, two doctors, 150 teachers, and many more. North Loup is one of the few towns in the United States whose people are almost exclusively Seventh Day Baptists, members having migrated there principally from near Milton, Wisconsin, and it is back to the school in this Wisconsin town that most of their young people go to college.

Of the original constituent members of the church only Mrs. Mary Davis and her brother Charles Rood are now left. Mrs. Davis will soon be eighty and has been a resident of the colony since she was a bride of eighteen, and her husband, Mansel Davis, were among the first settlers. Keenly interested in the church, she recalls many interesting days and has seen her church and her home weather grasshoppers, famine and several exciting prairie fires. She remembers when the trip for mail meant a fifty mile journey to Grand Island and back again, then one to St. Paul, and later one to Cotesfield.

Each year the church members go down on the river bank in May for a special memorial service, at the spot where those pioneers first worshipped. A prominent part of that first meeting and of all services is the music. The choir now consists of from 25 to 29 members regularly and very fine musical programs are arranged. This is one of the factors to which the church members attribute the steady and unfailing support of their young people, and the choir usually has many young members.

Church services have never been interrupted except for epidemics, such as the flu, smallpox, etc., and ministers called to the North Loup church have usually made long stays in that position. At present the Rev. Hurley S. Warren is pastor. None of the former ministers were present at the celebration, having passed thousands of miles removed at the present time, but all of them sent greetings.

In back of the church an elm tree has been planted for every member of the S. D. B. church who served as a soldier in the World War. A thick and flourishing grove is now established.

Although the 60th anniversary of the S. D. B. church at North Loup occurred in May the anniversary observance was postponed for a few months so as to avoid possible bad weather. In the presence of large audiences, anniversary programs were given last Friday evening and Saturday, August 18 and 19.

An elaborate pageant called "The Prairie" was presented at the Friday evening program for the anniversary. The presentation was an original work of Mrs. E. J. Babcock, who also carefully compiled the history of the church for a historical sketch which she gave at the program next morning. The committee in charge of the program was W. T. Hutchins, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Babcock, Mrs. Mary R. Davis, Hurley S. Warren, with Mrs. J. W. Barber, Mrs. Myra Gowen, Roy Lewis and Mrs. Gullford Hutchins assisting. Others on the program were Miss Gertrude Hemphill, Mary T. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Greene, Miss Merle Davis, Mrs. W. J. Hemphill, Miss Ruth Babcock, Mrs. Harlon Brennick, Mrs. Roy Cox, Mrs. C. W. Barber, George Gowen, Eunice Rood, Margaret Sayre, Mrs. Pearl Morrison, George Clement and many others. All who were connected with the program were relatives or descendants of that early band of S. D. B. persuasion who settled in North Loup and established their church sixty years and more ago.

The Quiz hopes that this church will flourish in the coming years as it has in the past, and surely all who enjoyed the fine anniversary service, hope they may be repeated sooner than sixty years hence. Certainly the story of the pageant and of the morning services will add to the interesting relics now kept in two historical rooms of the church.

Stairs Made Her Gasp For Breath

Penalty of Excess Fat

Although she has lost but 7 lbs. of her overweight, this woman finds that 7 lbs. has made a remarkable difference to her. Her letter reads: "I am 53 years old and my height is 5 ft. Last year I weighed 154 lbs. I have been taking Kruschen Salts, making no change in my diet. Now I am less round the hips and only weigh 147 lbs. dressed. But I feel lighter and can now run up stairs, which before used to make me gasp for breath. Everyone says how well and fit I look!" (Miss) J. H.

Kruschen is an ideal blend of 6 separate salts which help body organs to function properly and maintain a splendid degree of health—it builds up energy and strength while you're reducing to normal weight.

Get Kruschen Salts at any live drugist in the world—a jar lasts 4 weeks and costs not more than 35 cents.

Special Music at Church. Worshipers at the Methodist church Sunday morning were unexpectedly treated with some fine special musical numbers. Too late to be announced in the Quiz last week, Prof. August Molter and Miss Eunice Bingham of the University School of Music, and Mrs. Gale, widow of the late Prof. Frank Gale, of Scotland, S. D., arrived in Ord and consented to appear at the morning service. Mrs. Gale sang "Oh, Ye With Your Sorrows", written by her husband two years ago and only three months before his death. The song is admirably fitted to her low voice and harmonized with the feelings of her hearers. She is a guest of the Auble families while in Ord. Miss Eunice Bingham rendered exquisitely two violin se-

Water Damages Parsonage. A water tap left running in the bath room at the Presbyterian parsonage last week did costly damage to Rev. Real's study directly beneath before it was discovered Sunday, the Quiz is informed. Rev. Real and his family have been absent from the city for several weeks but a room in the parsonage has continued to be used as a Sunday school room. Probably someone attending Sunday school left the tap on and water ran for a week before it was discovered, overflowing and trickling through the floor and walls into the study where plaster fell from ceiling and walls and damage was done to furniture and to Rev. Real's books.

What Will Happen?

Poultry prices are the lowest I have ever seen! But read the following and come in and tell me what you think.

I quote statistics:

There was in cold storage in August:

	1932	1933
Hens, lbs.	3,964,000	11,201,000
Springs, lbs.	9,065,000	13,296,000

The consumption of broilers especially is at present closely confined to first class hotels, dining cars and steamship lines with all other outlets quite demoralized.

As time goes on your poultry gains in weight, and so means more tonnage on the market and possibly in storage, unless consumptive demand improves.

Common sense would say SELL POULTRY, but I for one will say that unforeseen things may happen, so YOU tell me.

As long as there is some kind of a market I will be here to pay all it affords for Cream, Eggs and Poultry!

Cottons

Are Going Sky-High

Beginning September 1, cotton and everything manufactured from it will be at least 40 per cent higher and many cotton articles will be 50 per cent or more higher. This is due to the cotton processing tax which takes effect at that time. We cannot advise our patrons too strongly to buy their cotton needs before Sept. 1. Buy for months in advance while prices are still low. Below we are listing a number of cotton articles that will be from 40 to 100 per cent higher after September 1. Note the present low prices and buy now!

A Message to the Meat Buying Public "The public be damned," said Cornelius Vanderbilt some time ago, and too many business places today, including meat markets, operate on this theory. Not ours. It has always been our policy to give our customers what they want and what they pay for, not only in quality but in honest weight, fair prices and prompt, courteous service. That is why the work rooms where meats are cut and dressed in our market are kept as clean and sanitary as our own kitchen. That is why our refrigerators are so efficient and are kept at such a low temperature. That is why we use the most modern type of scales and have them checked frequently. And why we buy the best home-fattened and baby beef that is available to us. And, lastly, it is why we always have enough clerks to wait on trade promptly. We have signed the NRA agreement and are living up to every provision. We believe we are entitled to a share in your business and we know that we can please you.

DR. RICH says: Grand Island, Neb., Aug. 24, 1933 Among the patients treated at the Dr. Rich Rectal Sanitarium this week (Aug. 18th-33) was a man from Genoa, Nebraska (name on request) who had been suffering for some time with rectal fissure. When people have a rectal fissure the suffering is more intense than is had with any other rectal trouble. After the treatment was finished the patient asked if it was all over. When told that it was he said, "Isn't that wonderful. I never expected such a painful trouble to be taken care of as easily as you have just treated me." For more than thirty years in Grand Island I have specialized in the correct treatment for rectal troubles. Proper treatment is always the most pleasing and comfortable treatment. If you are interested you can do no better in price, pleasant treatment and a lifetime guaranteed cure than to come to me.

WHEAT FARMERS WILL GET 28 CENTS BONUS PER BU.

To enable farmers to understand the plan, Mr. Davis worked out a number of sample problems. One of them went something like this:

Suppose a farmer harvested 50 acres of wheat in 1930 and had a yield of 20 bushels per acre, or 1,000 bushels. In 1931 he harvested 100 acres and had a yield of 15 bushels per acre or a total of 1,500 bushels. In 1932 he harvested 60 acres and had a yield of only 10 bushels per acre or 600 bushels. His total yield in the three years was thus 3,100 bushels and his average yield per year was 1,033 bushels. To this is added 8 per cent to compensate for the years 1928 and 1929, bringing the total to 1,145 bushels. Fifty-four per cent of 1,145 is 618 bushels which is the farmer's "allotment bushel" total. On this he will receive from 28c to 30c per bushel as a bonus, which will give him about $185.00.

To receive this sum he must agree to reduce his acreage by a percentage to be determined by the Secretary of Agriculture but not to exceed 20 per cent. Here the acreage planted during the three years is added, giving a total of 210 acres, and this is divided by three to give the average number of acres planted per year, or 70. The farmer agrees to reduce this acreage 20 per cent, or to other words plant only 56 acres to wheat this coming season. For taking 14 acres out of wheat production he thus receives $185.00 or about $13 per acre.

On the 14 acres taken out of production he may plant certain crops to be designated by the department of agriculture but he may not plant corn or any other crop of which there is a surplus at present.

How many farmers in Valley county will sign up to reduce their wheat acreage remains to be seen but it is probable that most of those eligible will sign. Mr. Heuck, chairman of the county committee, estimated last week that farmers of Valley county would receive in the neighborhood of $12,000 as a bonus.

Christian Science. "Christ Jesus" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, for Sunday, August 27.

The Golden Text is from John 1:18: "No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him."

A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from John 14:5, 6: "Thomas saith unto him, Lord, we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way? Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "Born of a woman, Jesus advent in the flesh partook partly of Mary's earthly condition, although he was endowed with the Christ, the divine Spirit, without measure. This accounts for his struggles in Gethsemane and on Calvary, and this enabled him to be the mediator, or way-shower, between God and men."

Irrigation Hearing

Repr. Marion J. Cushing also made a fine plea, as did Repr. Chas. Larsen of Loup county. George Allen, manager of the Ord electric light plant, stated that Ord would be willing to buy electricity from the project at the firm power rate and that if this irrigation and power project does not go through the Ord plant will have to be modernized and re-equipped within a very short time as fuel costs are becoming prohibitive.

Roy Hudson, of North Loup, Ralph Norman, E. L. Vogelzang, Val Pullen, Dr. Miller and Jos. P. Barta, of Ord, A. T. Cram, Ralph Brown and Carl Grunkmeyer of Burwell made short pleas. Mr. Barta presented resolutions that have been passed by almost every civic organization in Burwell, Ord and North Loup asking that the project be allowed.

All members of the North Loup valley delegation are pleased with the reception given them by the public works board and are confident that the loan will be granted. The board expects to make a trip through the valley early in September, climaxed by a hearing in Ord. Regional Director Frank Murphy is expected to be present at this hearing and final decision on the loan should be forthcoming immediately afterward.

A hearing on the Middle Loup project also was held in Fremont Wednesday morning and a large delegation from Arcadia, Loup City and Comstock was present. The board gave encouragement to this project also and promised final decision at the same time as decision on the Ord project is given.

Monday Misses Lucy Rowbal and Inez Swain drove to Elkhorn. They were accompanied by Neil Rowbal who was returning to his home in Des Moines, Ia., after a visit in Ord. They went to Elkhorn to meet an aunt of Miss Swain's, Mrs. Newton Hoyt of Zion City, Ill. The latter is visiting here.

The administration is very anxious that we in this valley, all cooperate in the NRA when a dozen at most is all the people who can be put to work here. If the administration would order a speeding up on the North Loup power and irrigation project, fifteen hundred could be put to work.

THE ORD QUIZ

The North Loup irrigation power project is ready to go there would seem to be no reason for delay, if the administration really wants to get people to work. The increased business incident to starting the work, will enable merchants to add people which they can't do with little business.

ESTABLISHED APRIL 1882

THE ORD QUIZ, ORD, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 31, 1933.

VOL. 51

BLUE EAGLE WILL BE DISPLAYED IN EVERY ORD HOME

'100 Per Cent NRA' Is Aim of Drive Here This Week, Says Gen. L. D. Milliken.

A voluntary army more than 100 strong is engaged in Ord this week in a war such as never has been waged before in any country. This army comprises the local volunteer workers in the Blue Eagle campaign. Each member of the army is wearing a button by way of identification upon which will be found the word "Volunteer."

And while this army of workers is advancing along the Ord battlefield, there are similar armies moving along similar fronts in every community in the United States, including the Hawaiian Islands and Alaska. It is an army of 1,500,000 soldiers of Uncle Sam setting forth to rout the forces of unemployment.

"General" L. D. Milliken is in command of the Ord army but to his colonel of man-power, Edwin Clements, will be entrusted the drive itself. Working in the residential section under Colonel Clements' direction will be eighteen captains, each of whom will have from four to eight assistants. And in the business district other captains, with their assistants, are also active.

"We are making a thorough job of it," said General Milliken yesterday while giving directions for last-minute preparations. "By the end of the week our canvassers will have called at every home in Ord. The object of this house-to-house canvass, which includes also all places of employment in the city, is to see that every employer is on the dotted line for the Blue Eagle and that every family in Ord signs the consumer's agreement with President Roosevelt and displays the familiar eagle insignia. These canvassers are also checking on compliance with the President's agreement and reporting violations to our local headquarters."

Will Raise 60-Bushel Corn.

John McLain visited the Quiz office Monday and showed the editor a couple of ears of corn from a field on the Spring Creek place farmed by his sons. One ear measured 11 inches, the other 12, and both were well filled out. His sons have a 50-acre patch that they believe will go 60 to 70 bushels per acre, he says, which is mighty good for dry land corn. Last year the same field raised about 30 bushels per acre. The McLain boys also have a field of irrigated corn that will give a heavier yield than the 50 acre field from which these ears were picked, Mr. McLain says.

Hog Raisers Must Get Permits Before Shipping U. S. Hogs

County Agent C. C. Dale yesterday received instructions to advise all hog producers and shippers of Valley county to get in touch with their respective commission firms before making shipments of pigs and piggy sows for U. S. purchase. It will be necessary that the commission firm request a permit from the chairman of the Hog Allotment committee and this request for permit must be accompanied by a telegram or a letter from the owner. The selling agent will in turn inform the sellers when their shipments can be accepted at the Omaha market. If the shipper fails to get his pigs on the market the day set by his commission firm, it will be necessary to secure a new permit before shipment can be made. This rule must be followed in order to regulate daily shipments. No permit will be issued on telephone request from shippers.

No bonus on pig prices will be paid on any hogs unless a permit, properly signed, is attached to the bill made to the purchaser. Shippers are cautioned not to ship for U. S. purchase pigs weighing less than 25 pounds nor more than 100 pounds and that shrinkage must be taken into account in selecting the pigs for shipment. All pigs and sows must be healthy.

Farmers having feed are advised to hold their pigs back for another week or two. The emergency purchasing plan will be in effect until October 1 so there will be ample time to deliver either pigs or sows to the market. These regulations are being set up to prevent glut on the market and to give shippers the full benefit of the U. S. purchasing price.

Will Teach at Chappell.

Erna R. Malotte, daughter of Mrs. Martha Malotte of Mira Valley, will leave for Chappell this week where she has been elected as commercial arts and normal training instructor in the Duell county high school for the ensuing year. Miss Malotte is a graduate of Ord high school and of the University of Nebraska. She formerly was one of the successful rural teachers of this county and of the North Loup schools.

Harold Hosch Wins Ord Golf Tourney

Harold Hosch, Scotia young man who has been vainly shooting at victory in the championship flights of Ord golf tournaments since days when he wore knee pants, shot again last Sunday—and this time his aim was true. He defeated Mark Tolen, of Ord, in the finals. The number of golfers entered was small, only thirty-two competing as compared with from 50 to 65 who competed in tournaments held earlier this summer.

Forrest Johnson won first flight honors, Padock of North Loup won the second flight and Curt Gudmundsen the third flight.

The Ord club will hold another 50c invitation tournament September 10 and late in September a local handicap tournament will be held to close the competitive season here.

W. H. CUSHING IS KILLED SAT'DAY IN AUTO CRASH

Food Center Executive Fatally Hurt Near Trumbull; Had Many Friends in Ord.

W. H. Cushing, executive in the Cushing Grocery company of Hastings and part owner of Food Centers, Inc., which has stores in Ord, Arcadia, Burwell and other towns in which the Quiz circulates, was killed Saturday night in an automobile wreck near Trumbull, Nebr. His car plunged into a ditch and overturned while he was riding alone.

The dead wholesaler is survived by his wife, who was in Battle Creek, Mich., when he was killed, and by three sons, the youngest of whom, Edward, was employed in the Food Center store here for several months last winter. Mr. Cushing is also survived by two brothers, E. E. and Frank Cushing, who were associated with him in business.

The Food Center store was closed between 9 and 11 o'clock yesterday morning as a mark of respect to Mr. Cushing. Funeral services were being held at that time.

Rev. Real Is Given Leave of Absence

Popular Presbyterian Pastor Will Seek to Recover Health; Pulpit Will Be Supplied.

Meeting Monday evening, the executive board of the Ord Presbyterian church granted an indefinite leave of absence to Rev. L. M. Real, in order that the popular pastor of the local church may take steps necessary to complete recovery of his health, which has been poor ever since he came to Ord three years ago. Rev. Real will go to Chicago and put himself under the care of physicians. He expects to be gone four or five months.

Rev. Real's last sermon will be preached Sunday morning, after which the pulpit will be filled by supply preachers if they can be secured. Young people's services and other church activities will continue as at present.

The pastor expects to leave for Chicago early next week, going by way of Laporte, Ind., where his family is visiting relatives. In Chicago the Reals will secure light housekeeping rooms. All of their furniture is being left in the Presbyterian manse here.

Rev. Real suffers from an abscess in his bronchial tubes, the result of long continued sinus infection. He has had several operations for this trouble but expects now to put himself under the care of one of Chicago's leading medical men who has worked out a new electro-therapy treatment for troubles of this type.

Since coming to Ord Mr. Real has built up Presbyterian membership to its highest point and he will be greatly missed by his large congregation. Members of the official board hope that he will eventually recover his health and be able to return to his work here by mid-winter.

Engagement Announced.

In the Lincoln State Journal Sunday appeared a picture of Miss Lucene Hardin together with the announcement of her approaching marriage to Frank E. Andersen of Ord. Miss Hardin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Hardin, Lincoln, is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and for several years has taught home economics in Ord high school. Mr. Andersen is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Andersen, Ord, and is engaged in the grocery business here with his father.

FEDERAL MONEY NOW AVAILABLE FOR HOME LOANS

State Manager Smrha Appoints Attorneys, Appraisers and Wants Applications.

Charles Smrha, state manager, announced yesterday that applications for loans with the Home Owners' Loan Corporation may be made by those who are eligible for such a loan. Applications will be considered only from those home owners who have already lost their homes, or who are not in a position to make their payments and because of that are threatened with the loss of their home. Legislation creating this loan agency does not contemplate the refinancing of all home mortgages, but aims to take care of only those who are in grave danger of losing their homes. Loans will be made to recover homes which have been lost within the past two years. Loans will be refunded or refinanced where the mortgage or lien was in existence on the 13th day of June, 1933, when the act went into effect. No loans will be made on homes which are not encumbered by mortgages or other liens. No loans will be made on business property which cannot be constructed to be a homestead. No loans will be made on homes which are not occupied by the owner except where the owner is temporarily absent and still claims the home offered for security as his homestead.

Loans may be made not in excess of eighty per cent of the appraised value of the property, or so much thereof as may be needed to pay off existing indebtedness. To bring about the refunding or refinancing of the loan it is necessary to secure the consent of the present holder of the mortgage which now encumbers the home. The corporation will give such a holder its bonds in exchange for his mortgage; the corporation will then make a new loan to the home owner, running for a period of fifteen years. Extension of time of payment may be granted not exceeding three years. In extreme cases payments may be deferred. These loans will bear five per cent interest and will be amortized by monthly payments. In circumstances where monthly payments cannot be made, arrangements may be made for quarterly, semi-annual or annual payments. Where these loans are made on the basis of an exchange of the corporation bonds for the existing mortgage, the home owner will pay on his new loan with the corporation interest at the rate of five per cent.

The act makes provision for cash loans on the basis of forty per cent of the appraised value to pay existing encumbrances, or fifty per cent of the appraised value to take up liens other than mortgages. The funds available for the making of cash loans, however, are very limited. The bulk of the loans must be made on the basis of an exchange of bonds for present mortgages.

Applications may be made with attorneys appointed for each county in the state. The attorneys for Valley county are Geo. A. Munn and Ralph W. Norman. Applications may also be made to the home office of the district in which the applicant resides. Valley county belongs in the Grand Island district. After application is made the property will be appraised by R. R. Kocna, of Ord, who has been named appraiser for Valley county.

Through the co-operation of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the holders of mortgages on homes, and the public generally, it is hoped to save for the owners not only homes which have been lost in the past two years, but the homes which are in danger of being lost now.

Woolery-Anderson.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Woolery last Thursday afternoon, when their daughter Irene and Mr. Clarence Anderson of Stromsburg were united in marriage, by her pastor, H. H. Spracklen, the ring ceremony being used. The home was beautifully decorated with the bride's colors, blue and white and the bride wore a dress of blue gloria silk. The bridesmaid was Margaret Keller and groomsmen Glen Woolery. After the ceremony ice cream and cake were served. The wedding cake was baked by the bride's mother.

Those present other than the immediate family were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Woolery jr., and Mrs. Fuller from Burwell, and Mrs. Harter of Ord. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left the same day for a short wedding trip to Lincoln and Omaha, after which they will be at home at Stromsburg.

Ruth Kessler Is Married.

Miss Ruth Kessler, of Ord, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kessler, and Doyle Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Collins of Davis Creek, were married August 23 at Taylor. Miss Betty Peterson and Orville Noyes of North Loup accompanied them. They will make their home with the Collins family on Davis Creek.

Pheasant Season To Open Last 10 Days In October

Frank O'Connell, state game warden, last week revealed that the Nebraska open season on pheasants this year will be ten days long and will probably open on October 1 and continue for sixty days. Ducks are reported to be plentiful in north and west Nebraska now, which gives promise of good sport for local hunters when the open season comes along.

Pheasants are plentiful in Valley county this year, as usual, but corn fields are so tall that hunting the birds will be difficult. Hunters will have to take great care to avoid accidents while hunting in the corn fields.

ARCADIA WOMAN DIED AUGUST 23 IN GRAND ISLAND

Mrs. J. D. Bridges, Resident At Arcadia 40 Years, Passes In St. Francis Hospital.

Mrs. J. D. Bridges, a well known resident of this vicinity for nearly 40 years passed away last Wednesday morning, August 23, in St. Francis hospital at Grand Island where she had been receiving treatment the past several weeks. Cathrine Salinda Snodgrass, youngest daughter of William and Jane Snodgrass was born on January 16, 1860 at Little York, Pa. Following her father's demise the family moved in 1865 to Illinois and in 1872 removed to Iowa. On June 18, 1885 at Emerson, Ia. she was united in marriage to Joseph D. Bridges and this union were born six children, two of whom preceded her in death, Blanch in 1900 and Mrs. Ethel Chittick in 1925. The surviving children are Elmer, Thurman, Ivan and Mrs. Otto Leuck all of Arcadia.

Mr. and Mrs. Bridges moved to Nebraska in 1895, locating on a farm near Arcadia and in 1915 retired, moving into town, where Mr. Bridges passed away July 16, 1931. Besides her children the deceased is survived by 10 grandchildren, one great-grandchild, one brother, J. L. Snodgrass of Chester, Ia., other relatives and a host of friends. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. O. Gaither from the Methodist church Friday afternoon with interment in the Arcadia cemetery.

Out of town relatives at the funeral were Mrs. Edith Bridges, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Bridges and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Clark of Albion.

Catches 13-lb. Carp.

About twenty Ordites were fishing at Ericson Monday with fair success but to Joe Dvorak went the credit for catching the largest fish. It was a carp and weighed 13 pounds and 4 ounces.

Raymond Abernethy Writes Interestingly Of Life at Camp Morton In Dundy County

From Raymond Abernethy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jason Abernethy of Ord, comes an interesting account of the work being done at Camp Morton, in Dundy county, where unemployed veterans of the world war are building a dam and doing other work on the site of a future state park.

Young Abernethy is a civil engineer, having graduated from the University of Nebraska a couple of years ago, and is foreman at Camp Morton. L. O. Trexler, a friend and fraternity brother of the quiz editor, is superintendent of the camp. Major Long has charge of military activities in connection therewith. But read Raymond's letter, which should prove interesting to all Quiz subscribers:

"In traveling west across the extreme southern part of Nebraska on State Highway No. 3, one approaches Colorado. Just before he goes through a small village which by the name on the railroad station, is identified as Parks. This town lies about 3 miles north of the Kansas line and about 20 miles east of the Colorado line. If one is inclined to see a really interesting sight the place lies 6 miles north of Parks on a county highway.

"The place is the site of a future State Park, Camp Morton by name. The work being done there is carried on by the Veterans Conservation Corps No. 1782, a veterans' branch of the Emergency Conservation Work. The army organization is under the direction of Major Long and the actual construction work is being done under the direction of Superintendent L. O. Trexler, University of Nebraska '24, C. E.

WILL NOT PAVE IF IRRIGATION OPENS UP JOBS

State Officials Say Paving Through Ord Will Furnish Work If Irrigation Turned Down.

That highway No. 11 through Ord will be paved with federal funds this fall only if the North Loup river irrigation and power project is turned down by the public works board was the statement made last week by state officials. These paving projects are being carried out at this time to furnish employment in regions where no other state or federal projects are contemplated. If the irrigation project is allowed there will be plenty of jobs available here, in which event the paving project will not be needed and will not be carried out at this time.

Local men who visited Governor Bryan and State Engineer Cochran recently to urge the paving were promised that state engineers would be put to work at once surveying the highway through Ord, so that work on the paving could be started immediately if the irrigation project does not go through. The surveyors have been at work for several days.

There is every probability that the irrigation project is going to be allowed, which will assure jobs for all, but if it does not it is likely that the paving work will be started immediately and will furnish employment for a good many men.

Mt. Beulah Singers To Appear In Ord

The Mt. Beulah Singers from the Southern Christian Institute, Edwards, Miss., are to give a program of Negro spirituals and plantation melodies at the Ord Christian church on Sept. 15. The Southern Christian Institute is one of the best schools for the training of negro leaders in the south, being one of only two in the state of Mississippi fully accredited by the Southern Association. It was chartered in 1875 and through all these years has turned out thousands of negro ministers, teachers, and leaders in all types of work.

President J. W. Province of Mississippi College, Clinton, Miss., says of the Mt. Beulah Singers: "We have had many entertainments for an hour for which we paid well, but we have never had one that gave us as much entertainment and spiritual uplift as this one has."

You will enjoy a very helpful and entertaining hour by hearing the program of these famous singers from the south. Admission is free, but a free will offering will be taken.

Raises 15-Foot Corn.

Who has the tallest corn in Valley county, in this year when most of the corn is taller than ever before? Ernest and Joe Dlugosh, who farm near Turtle Creek, will rank right up with the leaders for on a twenty acre field near the creek their corn measures 15 feet high. Many of the stalks bear three ears, the boys report. They have 85 acres of corn this year and much of it will average 45 bushels to the acre in spite of the recent dry weather.

Ord High School Pre-enrollment 218

Enrollment week at the Ord high school resulted in a total of 218 registrants last week, though it is expected that a good many more entries will drift in during the course of the next two or three weeks. School does not start until September 4.

There are now 58 seniors enrolled, and about a dozen more are expected, though even then the class will be noticeably small, since last spring saw 87 graduates finish courses at Ord high school. Nineteen entries from tenth grade schools of the county brought the total number of juniors up to 55 so far, while 50 sophomores and 48 freshmen have registered, as well as seven post-graduates. It is hoped by Principal Cass and Superintendent Bell that there will be at least 75 more enrollments.

Non-resident students number 111 this year as against 137 last year. This term is used in reference to all outside of School District No. 5, and includes 30 twelfth graders, 33 juniors, 19 sophomores, 24 freshmen.

Hardenbrook Confident Public Works Board Will Approve North Loup Project.

FINAL HEARING POSTPONED

From Mr. Hardenbrook yesterday came word that the Nebraska public works board has postponed until the week of September 11 the final hearing on the North Loup and Middle Loup irrigation projects. These hearings were originally scheduled for the first week in September but because Labor Day and the state fair come during this week and also to give local districts more time to collect evidence to prove that the projects will be self-liquidating the hearings have been postponed until the week of September 11. The exact dates of these hearings will be announced in next week's Quiz.

WHEAT ACREAGE REDUCTION SINCE 1910 AT 15 PER CENT

Returns for Idle Acres Will Increase, Says Sec. Da Contracts Coming In.

C. C. Dale, secretary of wheat reduction organization Valley county, declared yesterday that Valley county farmers will welcome the news that a 15 per cent reduction in acreage will be asked instead of 20 per cent, ruling by Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, will add third to the returns per acre benefit payments.

Twenty bushel land taken of production under the plan return $20 per acre in benefit payments this coming year, Dale in commenting on Secretary Wallace's announcement. Likewise bushel land will pay $15, farmer, Dale said, considering plan can roughly estimate the will get as many dollars per acre in benefit payments as he got shels of wheat on the three average 1930-32.

In addition to the certain amount of approximately $1 per shel, the farmers who contract to reduce acreage have a chance to realize up to $1.50 per bushel; they get the guaranty of prices in three benefit payments during the two year period, retary Dale said.

Members of the local committee in charge of organization of ley county under the Tri wheat production control plan in the 15 per cent acreage reduction officially announced Monday by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace an incentive to boost production of local wheat growers the program.

The 15 per cent acreage reduction, in view of the fact that plan was originally drafted of 20 per cent maximum reduction will mean smaller idle acre but with the same farm allot and the same amount of benefit payments to growers who line with the plan. As a consequence the contracting farmer will receive a higher payment per for each idle acre.

Yesterday Wm. Heuck, chairman of the Valley county committee members were receiving petitions of farmers who want to take out wheat reduction tracts. Eureka and Elyria township farmers were filling at town hall in Elyria, Ord and Springdale township farm at Dale's office in Ord, and Morgan and Geranium townships at the National hall in animum. Committee members assisting in filling out the applications at each place.

Today North Loup, Independence and Davis Creek farmers are in the town hall at North Liberty, Yale and Arcadia in the library building at Arcadia, and Vinton and Enter farmers in the school house Vinton.

The work yesterday was done somewhat by incomplete filed on acreage and yields. County Agent Dale says, but as application information more thoroughly information is required the is going more rapidly. In cases, also, tenants saw virtue in the Triple-A plan but land were skeptical, while in cases the reverse was true: lords wanting to sign but being unwilling.

If the work is not finished the days allotted it is likely further applications will be received at the county agent's office in Ord. Every farmer in ley county who expects to see wheat reduction contract s take up the matter with his committeeman immediately, as contracts must be signed in immediate future.

By next week it will be known how many acres in Valley county will be farmed next season. Triple-A contracts and it will be known how much money accrue to Valley county farmers who sign contracts.

Dear Quiz:

Well, the wanderlust overtook us again and we left Ord at 10:30 a. m. Thursday, Aug. 24 and arrived in camp at 7:30 the next day after a delightful trip. The distance shown was 604 and the roads were good and the weather ideal for the trip. Mrs. Elsie Callaway, who had been visiting in Ord, accompanied us. We had a rather heavy load on the trailer and drove slow, 30 to 40 miles on the average. Broke a bolt on the bumper a few miles south of Yankton and had a little delay getting into town and getting it fixed, about a couple of hours, so only got 200 miles by dark. We found a nice cabin camp at Freeman on 81 north of Yankton and were on the way at 6 a. m. Friday. Found a flat tire when we got up that morning and while the women were cooking bacon and eggs and making coffee I changed tires and we drove till we found a garage open at Pumpkin Center just west of Sioux Falls, get it fixed. Had no further trouble or delay on the trip. At 11 a. m. we got hungry so stopped at Ivanhoe, a nice little town on No. 75 north of Pipestone to get something to eat. We knew the John Matzner family were running a cafe there so of course we went there. John was behind the counter, smiling as ever when we went in and acted glad to see us. Many Quiz readers will remember them, as they lived in Ord, he managing a basket store for a time and later operating a cream station. Mrs. Matzner is a sister of Chris Haught. The Matzniers have a nice cafe, seem to have a good sized stock of goods and from all appearances are doing a good business. Like almost everywhere, it has been dry around Ivanhoe and crops are not up to the usual standard for that section, yet they are not so bad either and the few I talked with seemed to be optimistic for the future. The Matzniers wished to be remembered to their Ord friends.

We found the camp deserted, except for Mr. and Mrs. Simpson and they admitted that they would have gone had they not expected us to get in. They say it was getting pretty lonesome when just two of us are in camp and we know by experience that it is true for the Missus and I were here that way a few years ago. The fall weather here is so delightful that I for one am willing to stand a little lonesomeness for a sight of the wonderful coloring that the woods will take on pretty soon, when we get some light frosts. And it won't be long now. I saw the farmers all along the road, cutting their corn and putting it into the silos. Many fields were cut and shocked, also, showing that the home folks here are expecting frosts almost any time now. But so far everything is green. I miss the birds but have not discovered yet, whether they have gone or whether they have just quit singing. If they are here they will soon be going south.

I am sitting on the front porch as I write but it is a bit cool without a coat on. They tell me that the pike are striking good on Gull Lake. Asked if fish were biting here on Cullen, they didn't know, as no one had tried it lately. However, I see several boats on the lake this morning and I am going to be trying it for myself this afternoon.

Oh, yes, driving up the pavement yesterday I saw a flame of color ahead and as I got closer I saw that it was a field of several acres of gladiolas and I pulled up beside the road and we went in and spent a half hour looking them over. The young man who showed us around said they had between seven and eight hundred kinds. Many early ones were out of bloom but there were many still beautiful and we selected a number of new ones to add to our own collection next year.

Well, I have been here so short a time that there is not much to write and I will go to town and mail this and hope there may be more to write before next week. I expect to be here for a couple of three weeks.

H. D. Leggett.

Something DIFFERENT

An Ord lady was quite disgusted a few days ago after she had charitably fed a hungry wanderer who came to her back door and asked for breakfast. She fed him well, he ate hungrily and asked for more and she provided it.

Not long afterward, down town, she saw the man on the courthouse lawn comfortably loafing, reading the latest copy of a sport paper which he had purchased, after begging his breakfast.

Writing my gossip questionnaire in this column a couple of weeks ago principally because I did not have material for it and had to fill up the space, I have been surprised at the results.

I guess everyone enjoys talking about his neighbor, and I shudder to think of the vast amount of conversation I launched with those few inches of print. I have heard and heard about them. I hereby decline to give the right answers, too.

But John Haskell's family sent word they had discovered who wore his pants at half-mast??? John H. himself.

And Mr. Hardenbrook, to my crack about "who talks irrigation" makes the boastful answer, "two thousand people in Valley county."

Continuing, of all the people I would imagine to be disgusted by such a column, W. A. Anderson, stepped in and congratulated me upon it. Proving that you never can tell. Mr. Anderson while far from addicted to gossip, preserves his interest in his fellow man.

I also wish to state that many of the answers I have heard given are wrong.

In a neighboring city, a religious upheaval took place and one lady who had many gentlemen friends was wholly converted.

So much so, in fact, that she sat down and wrote notes to the wives whom she had wronged, begging their forgiveness and telling of the straight path she intended to follow hereafter.

They do say that more men consistently called for their wives mail, the following few weeks, in this neighboring city. And it became the hall-greeting of the hour for them to meet one another with, "Well, are you waiting for your wife's mail?"

Many Ordites are in the habit of celebrating their birthdays together. Carl and Mina Sorensen make one celebration do for the two of them, being the same age to the year and the day.

Frances Weller and Lester Norton agree on the same birthday, and the families customarily celebrate the happy day together.

In the Parks family is a peculiar record. Every birthday in the family except Daughter Alma Williams falls on the tenth of the month, although not always the same month. This habit of having birthdays on the tenth of the month has even been carried out among the grandchildren.

When Harry Williams was still a member of the Leggett family, it was the custom to celebrate his and Eugene's birthdays together at one time, as Harry had a birthday the 31st of August, and the next day Eugene had one, although Eugene was a year younger and so was doomed never to catch up!

BACK FORTY

High school training has been worth seven dollars a day. For those youngsters who demand a pay-off it is necessary to explain that the figure represents deferred earning power. There is proof of this in detailed statistics gathered from the masses.

The high school at Ord opens on Monday with the usual full program. Every course has been retained despite a cut of about one-third in the budget. The work which is the most complete of any educational institution between Grand Island and the Dakota line.

Ord offers full courses of instruction in business training, manual arts, teacher training, music, agriculture, home-making, athletics, dramatics and college preparatory work. It offers these studies in a building which is new, modern, sanitary and safe. In fact it is probably the most fire-proof school house in the state of Nebraska.

Every teacher at Ord will be a veteran on the job. All have had additional experience elsewhere, and all have kept up to date by attending summer school courses in the meantime.

Allowing a pupil to choose the course he wants, as is done at Ord, generally means the difference between his success and failure. Here lies the great advantage over a small high school with a single course. The latter gives an informational college preparatory course, that is practical for those few scholars who enter a university. It wastes considerable time for the other ninety percent that never get beyond the twelfth grade. The world is not interested in information for information's sake. It wants to know what folks can do, with their heads and with their hands.

Students at Ord learn to do, in vocational training courses. They prepare for college also. For these reasons, and because Ord is a better town, it will continue to be the most popular school center. Its patrons know that extra effort expended in getting their children to and from Ord pays good dividends.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

The wonderfully good cucumber crop this year has inspired a lot of pickle making, but the lice on the vines has stopped a great deal of it now. However, good pickle recipes continue to pour in, and perhaps you will want to try this one for dill pickles, which is more than fifty years old.

Old Fashioned Dill Pickles.

Prepare a barrel, take cucumbers dill size, not larger than five or smaller than three inches. Wash and pack in the barrel a layer of cucumbers, sprinkle with salt, add a layer of dill and a layer of either grape, horseradish or currant leaves. Repeat until all pickles are packed tight in barrel. I use plenty of dill as that is what makes them good. To a barrel of one hundred pickles I use a good big cup of salt, then pour over enough water to cover with one quart of vinegar, boiling the water and vinegar and letting cool before using. Then cover the pickles (the horseradish leaves are on top) with a white cloth and plate and put a weight on top to keep the pickles covered. Every morning wash the cloth and put it back again. When ready the pickles may be canned. Do not keep in too hot a place.

Mrs. William H. Thomas, Ashton, Idaho.

Ripe Cucumber Pickles.

Peel, cut in halves and lengthwise, cover with alum water made by combining two teaspoons of powdered alum to a quart of water, heat gradually to boiling point, then let stand on the back of the stove two hours. Remove from kettle and chill in cold or ice water. Make a syrup by boiling five minutes two pounds of sugar, one pint of vinegar, two tablespoons each of whole cloves and stick cinnamon tied in a piece of muslin. Add the cucumbers and cook ten minutes. Remove cucumbers and place in a stone jar, pour syrup over them. Scald three successive mornings and seal in jars.

Bread and Butter Pickles.

Cut thirty medium sized pickles into one-fourth inch slices, sprinkle three tablespoons salt over them and let stand three hours. Drain, add ten onions cut small and one tablespoon mustard, one teaspoon ginger, one teaspoon tumeric, two cups sugar, one quart vinegar or enough to cover pickles. Cook until the mixture has boiled well, put in jars and seal hot.

Watermelon Pickles.

Cut the rind into short strips and cut away the green outer and pink inner portions. Soak three hours in a weak brine, dissolving one-half cup salt to one quart of water. Drain the rind well, rinsing with cold water. Make a syrup by boiling together one cup of vinegar, four cups sugar, one quart of water, one tablespoon each of whole cloves, allspice and stick cinnamon. Add the melon and boil rapidly for ten minutes. Remove from the fire and let stand overnight. In the morning dip the melon out of the syrup and boil the syrup until it is thick enough to coat a silver spoon. Add the melon again and cook slowly for one hour. Pack into hot jars and seal at once.

Dried Sweet Corn.

Mix well eight pints of corn, one-half cup sugar (scant) one-fourth cup salt, one-half cup cream or one cup milk. Cook for twenty minutes, then dry in the usual way. Or this may be put in shallow pans and dried in a slow oven with the door open, or in a warming oven. I dry mine outside between screens. This is fine.

The editor thinks this is Mrs. Urban's recipe, but has lost the name and cannot be sure.

If you have any good tomato recipes please send them in at once, as the crop is ready to can now, and plentiful and of good quality.

Barnum Would Have Chuckled. Christian Science Monitor: The promised disappearance of the "gangster" with the coming of beer and possible return of whiskey is not coming true. It was one of the baits held out by many professional wets. Prohibition, they declared, had generated wholesale crime. Erase prohibition, they argued, and snuff! out goes the gang. But the gangsters were principally beer men. They made it and they sold it. Whiskey was a side line. The Chicago "gang wars" were beer wars.

And now beer has been made legal. Where has the gang gone? It hasn't gone anywhere. It is still in business, prohibition or no prohibition. The people who swallowed the wets' promise of "no gangs" have turned out simply to be a new genus of a finny tribe that Barnum made popular. He called them "suckers."

Evidence that beer has not lessened gangsterism comes from the United States Government. It is steaming up after the racketeers. At the federal building in Chicago it is said that the gangsters are reaching out for new trade. With prohibition slipping away and gambling quiet—as one official put it—the gangsters are branching out anew into legitimate business. The criminal "syndicate" is forcing itself into many lines of commerce. Sometimes it is by threat, sometimes by violence, sometimes by more devious means. Business has been sufficiently harassed to lead to the warning from high sources that the danger is nationwide and the public must be awake.

So this is the way that the waning of prohibition is banishing crime! The wets have claimed that law cannot make morals. Perhaps they will come to grant that morals cannot be made by unmaking law. Beer has not endowed the criminal with sweetness and light, and whiskey will not make him a "little innocent." It is now clearer than ever that America has a crime problem entirely apart from prohibition. It was not originated by prohibition and prohibition's repeal will not take it away.

MISS LOBELIA SAYS.

I instantly recognized the seductive voice of Miss Lobelia, the southside's exponent of liberal thought and generous judgments, when I answered the phone Tuesday morning. "What do you know about the Lincoln Press Club?" she inquired. "Well, honey, about all I know of it is that the membership is made up of active news writers of our state capitol, and that it ranks high among the quasi-social organizations of Lincoln." "Well," said Miss Lobelia, "I have just declined an invitation to be the club's guest Thursday evening. They were quite insistent and finally I admitted the truth to them about me being the only one in the family who understands the mechanism of our new capping machine and that we had a batch of high potency brew coming off that evening. Paw says I did just right in refusing to go to Lincoln, but he is kinda biased against the town since he paid a fellow who said that he was manager of the state house $6.75 for two fine carpets which the gentleman said were to be removed that day and turned over to any honest tax payer who would pay for the transportation of them to his home. He has never received the carpets and is not certain whether a mistake was made in the address he gave the manager or whether some darned slicker gyped him. Paw says he's a fool and Paw says he thinks of that every time he looks at her, but anyway, I had to tell the Press Club I could not be with them."

Tuesday afternoon's mail brought a request from Kiwanis International, 520 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, for a compilation of such observations as Miss Lobelia may have made through The Clay County Sun at various times in the past.

As publishers, we are, of course, pleased that one of our friends should have "awoke to find herself famous," but we have it from her that "I have no desire for exploitation, nor do I expect to get far away from the ennobling influence of such masters of social finesse as are to be found in the local order of coupe courtiers. I am as cold to notoriety as a white muler is to three point two."

That's the Spirit.

Bob Gore, of Culbertson, just turned 100, scorned the receding milestone and took a good look at the rising sun. "I'm younger than most fellows. And the reason is, I never worked very hard, and I never tried to get rich." This is his philosophy. We commend it to his fellows.

Note that young Bob said he did not work "very hard." We know he must work. We cannot conceive of anyone passing the century mark without having worked steadily and systematically at something. Longevity and idleness are utter strangers. But we think Bob is correct in not working too hard, especially now that he is getting up to the time he has a right to take it a little easy.

Bob's attitude toward trying to get rich recalls the story of the sick klan who was advised by his magicians to find a happy man and wear his shirt. After a long search he found the happy man, a village smithy, singing away at his task. But the envious fellow didn't own a shirt. We can't believe that Bob is shirtless, but we will agree with his view that the combination of a happy heart and shirtless back is to be preferred to a dyspeptic stomach, a sour disposition and a big checking account in the bank.

We hope the next 25 years of Bob's existence are his happiest. He has found the secret of keeping young happily.—York Republican.

"The dam will extend clear across the valley of Rock Creek at a point where the foundation can be set solidly and the width is not excessive. As before mentioned the height of the dam will be 35 feet. The length will be 400 feet and the roadway across the top of the dam will be 20 feet wide. The motorist will be protected by a strong guard rail on either side of the roadway.

"The dam is to be composed of native soil hauled into place by teams hired from farmers in the neighborhood. A concrete core wall will extend the length of the dam through its center. The wall is 3 feet thick at the bottom and 1 1/2 feet thick at the top. It is strongly reinforced with steel.

"The work incident to the construction of this dam includes the stripping off of the sod underneath the dam fill which amounts to 45,000 square feet. The core wall, diversion tunnel and spillway tunnel along with the necessary paving will make necessary the purchase of over 6,000 sacks of cement and 32,000 pounds of steel. In addition 40,000 board feet of lumber will be required for the forms for the core wall and for miscellaneous structures. It will be necessary to put in place and tamp down 30,000 cubic yards of earth. Sheet piling of the Wakefield type will be driven down below the core wall to an impervious shale bed. The whole park must be surveyed and mapped and the trails laid out which requires the services of a surveying gang.

"The work is proceeding rapidly in all ways. The setting up of the camp, directed by Major Long was accomplished in a very short time. There are tents for the men, officers, offices, supplies and visitors. In addition buildings have been put up for use as kitchen, wash house, bath house and light plant. A large tent is quite well equipped and is used as a hospital. The setting up of all this camp was done in a period of two weeks in spite of the fact that a number of the men started to work on the dam a few days after their arrival.

"If anyone is inclined to think it a small matter to have a spot pointed out on a bleak hill and told to build a camp, feed all the men regularly, make them comfortable otherwise, or in a word, establish a home for 212 men, he should be informed that it is very much otherwise. Major Long is very much to be congratulated upon the great efficiency and thoroughness with which he has set up this comfortable camp and established its organization.

"The morale at the camp is extraordinarily good. The men are getting good and plentiful food, they have comfortable sleeping quarters and many types of recreation have been made for their relaxation. At present they swim in the creek, box in an outdoor ring, play horseshoes and baseball. The evenings are cool and pleasant for sleeping. Mosquito nets are furnished for all beds and sleeping here is truly a pleasure. It has been heard many times that better places to sleep have never existed anywhere. Two army trucks haul men to baseball games and to town when possible.

"The men can enjoy themselves here knowing that they are earning enough money to keep their families comfortable. They are all intelligent, hard-working men with families, pillars of society, who have been hit severely by the depression. The only reason they are here is that they have been crowded out of their professions or trades by the unbalance of labor and capital, not by any shortcomings of their own. They are men who are too proud to accept a cent of charity but who welcome this chance to earn a living for their families and themselves after a heart-breaking attempt to get back into industry where all the cards were stacked against them. They are thus enabled to maintain their self-respect and help in a program that will be remembered long after all are back at their old places in the industrial world.

"President Roosevelt is certainly to be most gratefully thanked by the people of Nebraska for the making possible of this State Park which should attract people from a great distance for its beauty and excellent game fishing. Secretary O'Connell of the State Game, Forestation and Parks Commission has supervision over all similar projects in the state. It has long been his and Governor Bryan's dream to utilize this excellent spot for a large lake and State Park. It has now been made possible and will be a lasting tribute and memorial to those far-sighted leaders of our country who are unselfish enough to look ahead to the well-being of future generations."

Newspaper Moratorium.

Topeká Kansas Journal: Now that we've taken care of the banks and the building and loan companies and the insurance companies and the railroads and the mortgage companies and the farmers—does anyone have any objection to some sort of relief for the newspapers?

Bad times and good, the newspapers must go on just the same. The harder the times, the greater the value of news. The newspaper must be manned. It costs just as much to get out the newspapers despite the fact that advertising has dropped to a new record low ebb.

But no one sheds tears for the press. Newspapers are supposed to cry for the relief of others, sob for the suffering in individual or corporation form, and snarl for justice and retribution. Every ache is carried to the newspapers, every complaint is given to the press, appeals for the needy, pleas for business, charitable and civic organizations, begging for political reform—all is a part of the newspaper's duty to the public.

But when business falls off, advertising contracts are cancelled and publishers are struggling for a livelihood, a sudden attack of deafness comes over the land.

Why not a newspaper moratorium? Let every newspaper in the land close down until business picks up—if it can; close every radio station against news broadcasting; allow every gossip on the townside freedom of the streets and telephones; make it necessary for every politician to glorify himself single handed; let the public do its own guessing as to what is happening.

From among the more valuable articles which were within reach of the burglar who entered the Yuma (Ariz.) home of C. A. Livingston, he took three bottles of perfume.

Christian Science.
"Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, for Sunday, September 3.

The Golden Text is from Micah 6:8: "He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from Psalms 100:3: "Know ye that the Lord he is God; it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "God, the divine principle of man, and man in God's likeness are inseparable, harmonious, and eternal. God and man are not the same, but in the order of divine Science, God and man coexist and are eternal. God is the parent Mind, and man is God's spiritual offspring." (page 336).

DR. RICH says:

Grand Island, Neb., Aug. 31, 1933. About one half of my patients come to me for the cure of rectal Fistula. Fistula is one of the most treacherous of all rectal diseases, requiring the greatest skill to cure. In no place in the human body is the progress of a diseased condition so rapid, or destruction of surrounding tissues so disastrous.

A great many Fistula cases that come to the Sanitarium have been caused by improper treatment for files in inexperienced hands. People who have rectal trouble should be most careful and discreet whom they select to cure them. There is certainly never a good excuse for making an unwise choice.

An experience of more than thirty years is available at the Dr. Rich Sanitarium to those who suffer with rectal trouble. You are assured here of a life time guaranteed cure if your case is accepted. Correspondence is invited. Examination free. Address Dr. Rich, Rectal Specialist, Grand Island, Neb.

Every man should practice systematic saving just as a matter of protection. No one can predict what calamities may fall and the wise man is he who so arranges his affairs that his family will be safe no matter what happens.

If you are not now following a campaign of organized saving we invite you to become acquainted with the Protective plan. Absolutely safe and assures you a comparatively high return on your money. Begin today to save.

LIGHT AND WATER DEPARTMENT

CITY OF ORD, NEBRASKA

UNIVERSITY EXPENSE LOWER THIS YEAR

LINCOLN, Neb.—With less than two weeks remaining before the opening of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln for its sixty-third year, local high school graduates and former college students are completing their plans to attend the state University this fall. They are, according to several, working on the idea that if you cannot earn, you can learn, preparing themselves to take advantage of future opportunities and become distinguished, honored citizens of the state.

From the University at Lincoln comes word that students will be able to spend a year at Lincoln for the smallest sum in a number of years. Room and board charges have generally been reduced. In the new women's residence, Carrie Belle Raymond Hall, board and room charges have been reduced 15 percent over last year, making a total charge of $34 a month for most of the rooms, including board. Rooming houses, sororities and fraternities have also reduced their rates for the coming year.

Experiences of students during the past year have shown that a boy or girl can attend the University of Nebraska for almost any sum that he or she has available. Last year in order to keep an accurate check of expenses, fifty students at the agricultural college "kept books on themselves". One boy in this group attended the University on $12.14, while another with more expensive tastes, spent more than four times that much.

Freshman day, when new students are first shown the ropes at the University of Nebraska is Monday, September 11. Tuesday and Wednesday are given over to registration, and classes start on Thursday, September 14. Ten colleges, agriculture, arts and sciences, business administration, dentistry, engineering, graduate, law, medicine, pharmacy, and the teachers college, together with the schools of journalism, music, and nursing and the University extension division for home study, are all prepared to offer varied and attractive courses within their general fields.

Many hundreds of University students plan to work their way through college, or at least help meet expenses. While a considerable number of students are employed each year, Lincoln employers each fall are confronted with an oversupply of labor, point out University authorities. New students are discouraged from trying to work their way through school without available capital. School officials point out that former students usually have all the jobs and that the strain of starting college life and working at the same time is usually too much for the student. They advise that a student not enter the University unless he can count upon at least resources of $150 to $200.

Large Crowd Hears Colored Singers

For once in many moons the Ord church attendance put it over the movie crowd last Sunday evening. The union services were held at the Methodist church to make sure that there would be room for listeners to the "Cotton Blossom Singers," who were to have the evening all to themselves.

To the surprise of everyone the auditorium and the gallery were packed, though no special advertising had put out. The singers are one of eleven similar groups traveling over the country all the year round advertising the Piney Woods school of Mississippi. This is a school for negroes and works along lines similar to those of the negro school at Tuskegee, Ala., and now rivaling that school in importance.

The troupe consists of six colored persons: The manager, Rev. Prof. Embry and his wife and four male singers, who put on the main program consisting of songs not usually sung by colored singers. Several spasm of two or three songs each, were rendered, separated by an illustrated talk on the school they represented, and a generous collection for the benefit of the singers. Two final numbers were then rendered of which the less said the better. They left a bad taste in the mouth and made it pretty hard for Rev. McCarthy to pronounce the benediction in their wake.

Battered Barber

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate, WNU Service

BATTERED didn't begin to express the havoc wrought in Barber's big frame, when they carried him off the football field and swiftly to the nearest hospital.

After they had finished with him—the nurse and surgeons—Barber looked out from his multitudinous bandages with mournful eyes and sensed the truth.

"No more football—for me?" he essayed a smile. "You've been overgenerous with your bandages, haven't you?" he queried.

"Not more than you needed, my lad," said one kindly surgeon. "Aside from a seriously smashed knee, you also have a twisted wrist, a dislocated collar bone and a slightly cracked nose bridge."

"But apart from that I'm quite all right," Barber's twisted smile hurt the tender hearts of those nurses who had helped the surgeons patch up the battered player. "Suppose I'll have to take to addressing envelopes for a career."

"Or writing poetry," suggested the surgeon. "It's certain you'll never play football again—and the country's going to miss you, my boy."

The nurses turned away, Barber's fine mouth, despite the effort he made, was quivering. A football hero he was and now he lay physically shattered and rudely sundered from all that made life interesting.

There was one, however, who looked upon Barber's plight with eyes that had a glint of triumph in them. She, the girl whom Barber had wanted to marry, had persistently refused to marry a professional football player. Perhaps, now that football as a profession had been snatched from him, he would listen to reason and take up some business which would mean a regular salary and some kind of definite return assured.

"At any rate," she had often said to Barber, "I would much prefer to love a man who made his living by means of his brain power instead of by his athletic accomplishments."

"You don't love me, Marcella, or you wouldn't mind my profession being what it is—it is perfectly honorable."

So in the hospital Barber lay there thinking over all that Marcella had said and realizing that she certainly had a right to her views. Certainly athletes could not be called interesting as a whole.

And as week upon week went by and Barber still lay in the hospital the time began to hang heavily upon him. Tired of reading, bored with crossword puzzles, quite fed up with his own inner resources Barber felt a prey to depression.

It was his little red-haired nurse whom he nicknamed Crimson Rambler because of her hair and her natural tendency to ramble happily all over the place in search of amusement for her patients, who brought him some modeling wax.

"It's what children love to play with on a rainy day. Now you just start right in and try to model me or that bed post—whichever interests you most."

Barber laughed and pressed the soft clay with his fingers now sensitive to suffering and strangely unlike his own strong hands. As a matter of fact, Barber had always had a secret longing to model things but had crushed down the feeling lest he be considered a first-class nut.

And so, in another week's time, there was a most amusing array of tiny figures standing upright on his bedside stand. Nurses short and nurses tall—nurses smiling and nurses glum—and a generous sprinkling of white-robed surgeons and a kiddle or two all joined in that curious group of small images.

But above all Barber's eyes had taken on a new interest in things about him. The depression was gradually giving way to something akin to hidden fires bursting outwardly into flame.

And that career of art, started in so curious a way, was to carry Barber to the very heights, for the little figures standing so bravely there in the hospital, held that in their workmanship which only the master hand can contribute.

Marcella felt her heart beat triumphantly, for surely now she would say yes to the question which Barber had so many times asked.

It was through the Crimson Rambler that the dragging forth of a sculptor-to-be took place, for in her rambling about she came across one who was well in a position to express a verdict on those little nurses, surgeons and children.

And when they were carried carefully away to the great one's studio for inspection, a tear squeezed through the dark brown lashes of Crimson Rambler.

Barber saw it, and his heart gave a great bound.

"Darling!" he cried swiftly and seized the white hand hanging limply beside his bed. "Would you have loved me if I had still been a football player?"

"I would love you if you were the ash man," Crimson Rambler admitted.

BLUE EAGLE WILL BE DISPLAYED IN EVERY ORD HOME

The NRA campaign in Ord is divided into three divisions, publicity, educational and man-power. The publicity division under "Colonel" Glen Auble has attempted to acquaint every resident of Ord with the purpose of the Blue Eagle drive by means of newspaper and moving picture publicity. The educational division under "Colonel" J. A. Kovanda has worked with a similar aim in view of having NRA talks made in the local churches and other gatherings. To "Colonel" Clements' man-power division has been entrusted the most important part of the drive—that of making Ord 100 percent NRA.

There is one outstanding part about this war—for that's what it really is—and this point is that we are out to put people on the pay line. Milliken said yesterday America simply cannot go into another winter with twelve million men in the bread lines. This
