LAST MINUTE FILING FLURRY PACKS BALLOT

New Candidates For County Office Keep County Clerk On Jump Until 5:00 July 3rd.

With no less than fifteen new candidates for Valley county offices having filed during the last three days of the legal period for filing which ended at 5:00 p. m. July 3rd, the ballot in this county will be built on gargantuan proportions when the primary election is held August 14. It will be the longest ballot in Valley county history.

Candidates who filed after the complete list was published in last week's issue include:

Miss Erna R. Malotke, county superintendent, non-political.

Miss Malotke is a Valley county product, for she received her elementary education in Dist. 57 of this county, and graduated from Ord high school in 1923. In 1933 she graduated from the Teachers college of the University of Nebraska receiving a B. S. degree with majors in education and commercial arts. She holds both an elementary life certificate, and a high school life certificate, valid in Nebraska.

Miss Malotke has been in the teaching profession for eight years and is known as a successful teacher wherever she has served. She has had six years of rural experience in Valley county, having taught two years each in Districts 47, 42, and 46. She taught one year in the grammar grades at North Loup, and this past year has been employed as normal training and commercial instructor in Deuel county high school at Chappell, Nebraska. As her work there has been most satisfactory, she was reelected to the same position.

Miss Malotke is well fitted for the position of county superintendent because of her education, and her experience in rural schools, grammar grades, and normal training instructor in high school. Her commercial training and office experience make her still more efficient, and in addition, she is conscientious and thorough in all that she undertakes.

Fred Ulrich, county assessor, democrat.

Mr. Ulrich is a well known farmer and gravel contractor of the Ord territory.

Charles Ciochon, county assessor, democrat.

Mr. Ciochon, formerly a popular and efficient county supervisor, is a farmer in Vinton township.

Hubert LeMasters, county clerk, republican.

This candidate, who is better known as "Bert" LeMasters, carried mail on rural route No. 3, Ord, for many years. Since his retirement from the postal service he has made his home in Ord.

Harry H. Clement, sheriff, democrat.

Mr. Clement is a well known farmer in Noble township, where he was born in 1887 and has lived ever since.

R. C. Ayres, county surveyor, republican.

Mr. Ayres has served several elective terms as surveyor and several appointive terms as county engineer, during which period Valley county's road system has been built up to its present peak of perfection. He is unopposed for nomination and election as surveyor.

Homer C. Sample, supervisor Dist. 5, democrat.

The race for the democratic endorsement in this district will be a nip-and-tuck affair, with Grover Barnhart and Charles Faudt having filed previously. Mr. Sample is an insurance man and has a wide acquaintance in North Loup and Springfield townships. On the republican ticket in this race J. A. Barber is unopposed.

Joseph Bartos, county assessor, republican.

Mr. Bartos has been an Ord resident for many years but before that he farmed in Garfield county and served seven years as township assessor. He is experienced in business, having operated a grocery store in Ord for several years, and also has served as a member of the Ord city council.

Henry Hansen, sheriff, republican.

Mr. Hansen has for a good many years been a produce buyer and operated a small grocery in Ord. C. E. Goodhand, representative, 77th district, democrat.

Contractor, cattle feeder, farmer, tax league head and two years ago an unsuccessful candidate for the county board of supervisors, Mr. Goodhand now decides to try his luck at the state representative's job.

P. J. Melia, state representative, 77th district, democrat.

A farmer and insurance man, Mr. Melia will make a strong bid for the nomination against Mr. Goodhand and Percy E. Doe, Arcadia.

William Heuck, county treasurer, democrat.

Formerly deputy county treasurer under Irl Tolen but for many years general manager of the Farmers Grain & Supply company, Mr. Heuck is entirely qualified for

New Heat Records In Last Ten Days

The month of June, 1934, will probably go down in history as the hottest and driest on record in Ord and the unusual weather is continuing into July, according to temperature reports compiled by W. A. Anderson. The high temperature on each day since June 24 is reported by Mr. Anderson as follows: June 24—102; June 25—95; June 26—106; June 27—100; June 28—100; June 29—100; June 30—95; July 1—100; July 2—100; July 3—107.

LEGION PLANNING RAISE MONEY FOR BAND UNIFORMS

Series of Entertainments To Be Given Soon, Provide Natty Clothes for H. S. Band.

The Ord high school band, under the direction of Dean S. Duncan, has appeared in several music contests during the past two years and the quality of music dispensed has entitled the band to high ranking. However, in judging the various bands, critics always take into consideration the appearance of the band as well as the excellence of its music and in the former respect the band has been sadly handicapped by its lack of suitable uniforms.

The American Legion and Auxiliary, it is announced this week by Cecil Clark, commander of the Legion, will give a series of entertainments for the purpose of raising money with which to buy uniforms for the high school band.

The first of this series will be a concert to be given on Wednesday, July 18 by a group of distinguished professional musicians, some from Lincoln and others from New York City. Music lovers of Ord and vicinity will have a real treat in store as the artists who will appear on this program are very noted.

Those coming from Lincoln are Professor August Molzer, instructor of violin, University school of music; Mrs. August Molzer, violinist; Robert Molzer, clarinetist; Victor Molzer, oboe and piano; Eugene Bingham, violinist; Arthur Babich, violinist, orchestra director and director Babich's Boys Band; Babich Sisters, aesthetic dancers; Professor Ernest Harrison, instructor piano forte, University school of music.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fuson, vocalists from New York City, also will appear on the program.

Many of these musicians have been heard in Ord before but this is the first time they have appeared on the same program. All are donating their services to the Legion for this occasion, the use of the high school auditorium will be donated and all proceeds will go to a fund for buying band uniforms. Admission fees will be very nominal so that all who desire may attend.

The artists are all expected to arrive in Ord July 15 and the date of the concert has been tentatively set for July 18. A more complete announcement will appear in next week's Quiz.

Will Sing In Canada.

James Aagaard and the Misses Anna and Walborg Aagaard left Tuesday for Edmonton, Canada. They will fill several concert engagements in Edmonton and other Canadian cities and expect to be gone two weeks or longer.

Mrs. Orville Sowl and children left this morning by auto to visit relatives in Osceola and Fullerton.

the position he seeks. He is an expert accountant, has a wide acquaintance and will undoubtedly be a strong candidate in a complicated race.

Fred Swanson, North Loup, county clerk, republican.

The first candidate to file on this ticket for county clerk is a well known business man at North Loup. He has also served as township assessor there.

H. A. Bellinger, supervisor Dist. 7, democrat.

Brady Masters, supervisor Dist. 7, republican.

Both of the above men are well known in the Arcadia vicinity, one being a merchant and the other a farmer. There is a lot of competition for both party endorsements in this district and the filing of Messrs. Bellinger and Masters makes the situation still more complex.

County Clerk Ign. Klitka, Jr., announces receipt Saturday of the withdrawal of Burt Sell as a democratic candidate for supervisor.

Dist. 7. Injuries received in the Loup City riot are probably responsible for Mr. Sell's withdrawal, as he will be in weakened health for some time to come.

CONTRACTS NOW READY TO SIGN, SAYS COMMITTEE

Corn-Hog Work Will Be Finished Within Next Week; 21,856 Hogs Eliminated.

Some precincts in Valley county will be ready to sign corn-hog adjustment contracts within the next week if no further delay should develop, it was announced this week by the county allotment committee. Final figures on corn acreage and yields, hogs produced for market and on hand when contracts were signed are now being placed in the contracts.

Notice of dates and places for signing contracts, also showing payments on corn and hogs will be mailed to all contract signers a few days in advance of the date of signing. Marion Cushing, allotment committee chairman said.

In submitting adjusted corn-hog contracts to the farmers of this county for their final consideration and signature, the county corn-hog allotment committee, which is composed of Marion Cushing, Arthur Mensing and Don Rounds, makes the following formal statement:

"It has been necessary for the allotment committee to reduce and adjust a number of hogs and corn acres entered by the farmers in the contracts. The reduction in hog numbers will mean a lower benefit payment on hogs and a lower allotment of hogs to be marketed in 1934. Reduction in corn acres will affect only the number of acres grown for grain in 1934, and in a few cases the maximum number of contracted acres.

"Federal statisticians set a quota of hogs and corn acres for Nebraska and told the state statistician and two other members of the state board of review to divide the state quota among the 93 counties of the state.

"The difference between the totals from the corn-hog contracts and the quotas assigned to this county amounted to 21,856 head of hogs and 14,226 acres of corn.

"Your county allotment committee was told by the state board of review that it was necessary to reduce the figures on the contracts until the totals were equal to the quotas. Your committee proceeded first to take out the hog numbers which were not supported by good evidence, and which for other reasons were questionable in the judgment of the allotment committee. We then followed instructions of the statisticians in further reducing numbers until the totals were acceptable to the district statisticians representing the state board of review. This reduction and adjustment affected practically every contract.

"The reduction in corn acres was accomplished partly by individual adjustment, partly by flat cut, and partly by a tolerance allowed by the state board of review.

"All of this adjusting was not a pleasant job for your allotment committee. Since we were told it had to be done, we went over the contracts again and again in order to make the adjustments as fair as possible. Methods used in this county to arrive at the county quota are similar to those used in other counties of Nebraska and other states."

Santa Barbara Band Dedicates Concert To Everett Nelson

The Santa Barbara (Calif.) band recently gave a concert dedicated to the late Everett Nelson, who was a member of the band for three years. Mr. Nelson was killed in an auto accident and funeral services were held in the First Christian church at Santa Barbara on June 17, with interment in the Victory plot in Santa Barbara cemetery. In telling about the services the Santa Barbara newspaper says:

"Mr. Nelson was connected with the Ambassador Laundry. He was possessed of considerable musical talent, was a member of the city band and of the Scouts band for years. He contributed generously of his musical gift in aid of many civic projects during his residence here.

"He was born in Nebraska 33 years ago and had made his home in Santa Barbara for the past 11 years. He served overseas during the World War, being in a number of engagements, among them the Argonne drive and the drive at St. Mihiel. He was gassed in the latter engagement and spent many months in a French hospital.

"He leaves a widow, Myrtle Marie, two sons, Everett, Jr., and Charles Richard, of this city; his mother, Mrs. Anna Nelson and a sister, Mrs. Anna Hish, both of Ord, Nebr.

"Mr. Nelson was a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled War Veterans and of the Elks lodge."

Castler Dies at Omaha.

W. B. Casler, of Elyria, passed away Monday at Omaha, where he had been for several months. He was about 80 years old and had been in ill health for a long time.

Roy Cochran Accepts Filing For Governor

Roy Cochran, efficient head of Nebraska's department of roads and irrigation for a number of years, Tuesday announced that he would accept petitions filed with the secretary of state, in which he was drafted as a democratic candidate for governor. The petitions contained over 10,000 signatures from all parts of the state. If nominated and elected Mr. Cochran promises full co-operation with the "new deal" and promises the state an efficient business administration.

CITY COUNCIL DECIDES BUILD SWIMMING POOL

FERA Work Will Cut Cost Of Development to Minimum, Provide Bathing Place.

Heading petitions bearing the signatures of 287 Ordites, the city council at its June session Friday evening decided to start construction of a swimming pool on Anderson's Island. It is hoped that it can be completed for use during at least a portion of the hot weather this summer.

The pool will not be an elaborate affair and cost to the city will be comparatively slight, as FERA workers paid with federal relief funds will do a major part of the work.

It is planned to start work this week removing the turf and upper layers of dirt with slips, after which a gravel pump will be either leased or purchased and the work of pumping gravel will be finished rapidly.

The pool will be located south of the bath houses at Ord's island park. This portion of the island was cleared of trees and brush a few weeks ago and will be an ideal location for the new pool.

Before ordering work started, councilmen decided to provide means of purifying water in the pool at all times and plans along this line are being drawn now. Whether purification will be assured by a constant flow of water through a pipe line, by chemical apparatus or by pumping the pool out at frequent intervals has not yet been definitely decided.

According to present plans the pool will be 40 feet wide and 100 feet long and will vary in depth from a few inches at one end to several feet at the other.

Similar pools are said to be in use at Central City and other places in Nebraska adjacent to rivers and are said to be uniformly satisfactory.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS FRAZIER-LEMPKE BILL SATURDAY

5-Year Moratorium on Mort- gage Foreclosures Provided By Federal Measure.

The Frazier-Lempke bill, which provides a five-year moratorium on farm mortgage foreclosures under certain conditions, along with refinancing of mortgage obligations by the government at a low interest rate, was signed Saturday by President Franklin D. Roosevelt. It was passed by Congress about ten days before adjournment but was held up by the president while he secured an opinion from Attorney General Cummings as to its constitutionality.

The full text of the bill is not available but it was drafted by Senator Lynn Frazier, of North Dakota, at the behest of farm organization leaders and its passage is regarded as a great victory for farm interests.

The president also signed the Cresser bill Saturday, which provides retirement with pension for all railroad employees at the age of 65.

VACATIONERS ARE GETTING TASTE OF HOT WEATHER

But Cullen Lake Country Also Has Plenty of Rain; Ray Luther Salvages Logs.

FISH ARE BITING GOOD AT CULLEN LAKE.

A card received yesterday from H. D. Leggett, publisher of the Quiz, states that fish are biting fast and furious at Cullen lake. Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Leggett took 12 minnows and went fishing, returning in a short time with 7 large bass. They also caught several smaller ones that were restored to the water. "Could have filled the boat," writes Publisher Leggett. Ray and Clarence Luther, the guides, with four Chicago men, brought in 36 bass the same day. Yes, fishing must be good at Cullen lake. Mr. Leggett is expected home in a few days, perhaps the last of this week.

Jack Pine Lodge on Middle Cullen Lake near Nisswa, Minnesota, June 27, 1934.

Dear Quiz Readers:

I am astonished at how hot it can get here in a short time. This morning and for several mornings, we have had a little fire. It was more comfortable, and it has been real cool as soon as the sun was down at night, so we built a fire. The days have been delightfully cool, too, but today it is hot, like Eugene has been writing it was at home. Someone says it is above 90 this afternoon and almost everyone in camp has been out in the water trying to keep cool. We have had five nice rains here since we came and it looks like it would sure rain this evening, as black clouds are rolling up from the west.

Fifty years ago this country was covered with magnificent white and Norway pines. Then the lumber companies came and cut the great trees that it took a hundred years to grow. The last of the lumbering was finished about 30 years ago. Since then a couple of crops of jack pines have grown up and much of it has been harvested for pulp wood. That is going on now and since we began coming here a dozen years ago, we have seen hundreds of acres cleared of the jack pines. Some, large enough to make dimension and 6 inch boards, is made into lumber, smaller stuff is made into pulp wood and vast quantities of the small stuff is made into stove wood. When the lumber people were operating here they dumped the logs into the lakes and floated them down to the Mississippi river and down the river 30 miles to Little Falls where there were great sawmills. In the case of our lakes if they were dumped into Upper Cullen they had to go through eight lakes before they got to the river and then some 30 miles down the river. There was a dump or driveway into this, Middle Cullen lake on our tract. I learned about it recently and I was also told that there were many logs, called deadheads, sunk in the lake. There is a law that makes those deadheads the property of the lumber company for a period of 30 years. Sunk in the lake, those logs keep in as good condition as they were when cut green. They are thoroughly seasoned and when dried out and sawed into lumber they make first class lumber. The 30 years being up now, many people engage in salvaging those old deadheads. The logway on our tract happens to be on the Ray Luther lots and he has known for a long time that there were a lot of good logs in the mud and slime in the lake in front of his cottage. Later he has been preparing to get them out and when I was up there today he had dragged some 30 of them, ranging in size from 8 inches through to over a foot. He figured

Governor Bryan Will Speak Here July 13

Charles W. Bryan, governor of Nebraska and a candidate for the democratic nomination as United States senator, will speak at a mass meeting in Ord on Friday, July 13, announces Ralph W. Norman, chairman of the Valley county democratic central committee.

Whether the meeting will be in the open air or in the opera house has not yet been determined.

—Ed Panowicz and his son-in-law, D. L. Myers of Comstock were in Ord last Tuesday. Each was driving a new Oldsmobile car. They had gone to Lansing, Mich., after them.

—Mrs. A. F. Kosmata and daughter and Mrs. C. J. Mortensen left this morning by auto for California where they expect to spend several weeks.

—Dr. J. G. Krumi reports the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Papernik of Ord on July 2.

—A number of Davis Creek young people enjoyed a picnic Saturday evening in the Ord park.

Fourth of July Is Celebrated Quietly

Fourth of July was celebrated this year by Valley county people in a quiet manner, either in family picnics or in attending celebrations given at Elyria, Clement's grove and Leudtke's grove. The weather was cool and cloudy and most people enjoyed the day greatly. No accidents from fireworks or automobiles have been reported.

Fire at Krumi Home.

The fire department was called to the home of Dr. J. G. Krumi Saturday because of a smoldering fire in the basement. Not much damage was done by fire but the house filled with smoke, causing considerable inconvenience and smoke damage.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR IRRIGATION WITH FERAMONEY

Conference At Lincoln Today Will Decide; $700,000 Is Amount Being Discussed.

That there is an excellent prospect for development of an irrigation project in the North Loup valley with funds allocated to the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, was the cheering news brought back from Lincoln Monday evening by Bert M. Hardbrook, president of the district. The project has not yet been definitely approved but further conferences are being held today and it is hoped that the matter may be settled today or Friday.

Mr. Hardbrook met Monday with Rowland Haynes, FERA administrator for Nebraska. Also present were E. H. Dunmore, representative of Black & Veatch, J. E. Lawrence, member of the state advisory board of the PWA, Roy Cochran, head of the state department of roads and irrigation, and Mr. Carnehan, assistant to Mr. Haynes.

The drought situation in Valley and Garfield counties is causing great concern to FERA authorities and it seems certain that a vast amount of relief is going to be extended here. Before receiving relief, farmers and unemployed are required to agree to do FERA work in repayment, and Mr. Haynes is considering having this work done on an irrigation system rather than on haphazard jobs.

It is believed that for $700,000 or less, irrigation canals could be built and small diversion dams constructed to furnish water to 30,000 acres in this valley. The exact cost is now being worked out by Engineer Dunmore and will be presented to Administrator Haynes at another conference today, after which Haynes will decide whether or not to go ahead with the project.

LOUP CITY RIOT DEFENDANTS ALL FOUND GUILTY

Farmer Jury Finds Against Seven Agitators, All Get Fines and Jail Sentences.

The Loup City riot trials, which were in progress most of last week, came to a dramatic close Thursday night when the six-man jury of farmers brought in a sealed verdict in which all seven of the defendants were found guilty.

County Judge Moehner then imposed the following penalties: Ella "Mother" Bloor, $100 fine and 90 days in jail.

Floyd Booth, negro, $50 and 60 days.

Mrs. Booth, $10 and 10 days.

Carl Wicklund, Sherman county farmer, $50 and 60 days.

Harry McDonald, Sherman county farmer, $25 and 20 days.

John Squier, Sherman county farmer, $50 and 30 days.

Portius Sell, Arcadia, $50 and 30 days.

Charges also have been filed against Burt Sell, of Arcadia, who was injured in the riot June 14 and was too ill to face trial last week. Mr. Sell was taken to Loup City on a stretcher Thursday and took the witness stand, his head bound with bandages. He proved the star witness but his testimony did not alter the jury's verdict.

All of the persons convicted Thursday have filed notice of appeal to district court and are at liberty on bond. Judge Moehner fixed bond at $500 in each instance. Loup City was crowded with farmers and other spectators throughout the progress of the trial but there were no demonstrations. Fifty special deputies armed with clubs patrolled the court house to stop any threat of violence.

Big Crowd at Free Dance.

More than 150 couples attended the free dance, given by Leon Clemmy at the Clemmy hall in Elyria Sunday evening.

CATTLE BUYING BY GOVERNMENT TO BEGIN SOON

Valley County Called Emer- gency Drouth Area, Inspectors To Be Here Next Week.

With Valley county named as a primary drouth area, federal cattle buying will get underway in four points next week, it has been announced by Agricultural Agent C. C. Dale. Several other counties in the state were designated as primary areas at the same time as was Valley county.

In preparation for the cattle buying program, which is designed as a relief measure and one to decrease the number of cattle on farms, Dale together with Bert Cornell attended a district conference at Loup City Monday. There W. W. Derrick, extension animal husbandman at the college of agriculture, explained the plan to representatives from five central Nebraska counties.

The schedule of buying in Valley county, as announced by Agricultural Agent Dale, includes Arcadia, Monday; North Loup, Tuesday; Ord Wednesday; and Elyria, Thursday. Other dates will be arranged if farmers wish to sell more cattle.

The plan, which Dale describes as absolutely voluntary in that farmers can sell part of their herds or none at all after appraisal, contemplates the removal of inferior animals. The government is not undertaking to buy cattle in good flesh and farmers are advised to sell such animals on the open market or elsewhere. Farmers throughout the country have requested that the government adopt such relief measure and it is for that purpose that the cattle are being purchased.

Valley county's drouth committee composed of Fred Coo, Bert Cornell and Carl Dale has charge of the program here with precinct committeemen assisting them. Cattle are to be appraised by a government appraiser, at the central points. Farmers not satisfied with this appraisal do not have to sell, Dale explains. After being purchased, they are turned over to relief agencies. Where buying has been done, farmers received their money in 8 to 10 days after sale.

Under the announced plan both the owner of the cattle and the person holding a mortgage must sign the sale contract. An agreement should be reached before the cattle are taken to the central points for sale. The debtor, under any condition gets a share of the proceeds.

The scale under which the animals will be sold:

Two years old and over—condemned animal flat rate $12; Edible flat rate $12 to $20; Participation, Debtor $6; Creditors $6 to $14.

One year to two years Condemned animal flat rate, $10; Edible animal flat rate, $13 to $15; Participation, Debtor $5; Creditors $5 to $10.

Under One year—Condemned animal flat rate, $4; Edible animal flat rate $5 to $8; Participation Debtor, $3; Creditors $1 to $5.

Appraisals to be made on even dollars.

Members of the precinct drouth committees include:

EURKA—Joe Rousek, Paul Szwanek.

ELYRIA—W. R. Dodge, Chas. Sobon.

NOBLE—Henry Jorgenson, Henry Enger.

SPRINGDALE—Ben Arnold, Earl Hanson.

MICHIGAN—John Janus, Chas. Veleba.

ORD—Henry Vodehnal, Evet Smith.

GERANUM—Otto Radil, Rudolph Krahulik.

NORTH LOUP—Grover Barnhart, Chas. Bridge.

ENTERPRISE—S. W. Roe, Clare Clement.

WYOMING—H. B. Thompson, Henry Cremon.

LIBERTY—John Hruby, Anton Radil.

INDEPENDENT—A. Frazier, Murray Rich.

DAVIS CREEK—John Falser, J. J. Skala.

YALE—Ray Lutz, Ross Evans.

ARCADIA—A. H. Easterbrook, Elmer Wibbels.

—Misses Norma and Ruth Benn attended the 4-H training school held June 29 at the Dry Valley school forty-one miles west of Ord. This training school was under the direction of 4-H club supervisors from the University of Nebraska. Its purpose was to teach club members how to judge livestock, sewing, cooking and other 4-H projects.

—Dr. F. A. Barta and daughters, Zola and Evelyn, are driving to Lincoln today. Upon their return Saturday they will be accompanied by Dean Barta, who has spent the past 30 days as a student in the University School of Music.

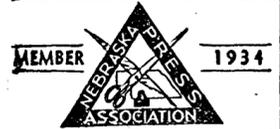

—Tuesday Mrs. Alfred Albers and Mrs. Olof Olsson and her two nephews, Horace and Frank Johnson of Ft. Worth, Texas drove to Long Pine. They have a cabin and are enjoying a few days outing.

that there would be about 1500 feet of lumber in the thirty logs and he said there were at least as many more close enough inshore so he could get them.

Mr. Luther has also got another enterprise started. The soil here is poor sand and only when there is a large amount of rain, can anything be raised on it.

Bert Hoffmaster, when he lived here, talked about giggering some sort of power pump big enough to pump that mud out of the lake into tank trucks and sell it to the farmers to spread on their land.

I see by the Bee-News today (the yesterday morning paper) that word has been received that our irrigation project was turned down definitely. The power people seem to be as strong as ever.

Mr. Haskell may be right in saying that I helped elect Roosevelt, but I didn't vote for him. I voted for Hoover against my best judgment or from force of habit perhaps.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

It is such wiling weather, cooks surely do not want to spend any unnecessary hours in the kitchen. Nearly every woman has a few hot weather shortcuts she has found helpful to relieve her of some of the burden of hot weather cooking.

What do you do in this line? Please write the Quiz. Crystallized Popcorn. Put one tablespoon butter, three tablespoons water and one cup sugar into saucepan and heat slowly.

Beat together until light one egg, one tablespoon nice juicy sour milk, add carefully to three-fourths cup flour which has been sifted, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt.

Cream together one and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup butter, and add one at a time, three eggs. Then cook and mash two pounds prunes and also add one pound chopped walnuts, one pound of crushed vanilla wafers.

Cream together thoroughly one and one-half cups brown sugar, one-half cup butter, add one cup sieved banana pulp, three well-beaten eggs.

One cup rolled crackers, added to two beaten eggs, one cup sugar, one cup molasses, one-half cup vinegar, one-half cup butter, one teaspoon each of cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg.

Something DIFFERENT

The Albert Volt family were amused recently by their young son's remarks. It seems that someone gave little Junior fifty cents which was the most money he had ever possessed in one piece.

A small Ord boy was hushed by his mother recently or so she thought, by the statement: "Oh, you don't understand, dear. You don't know anything about this kind of pony we're talking about."

Isn't the ivy on the north side of the place of business of Messrs. Sowl and Blessing just beautiful? Because there isn't much ivy clinging to brick walls in this part of the country, it is especially attractive.

It is just as much fun to see the breeze wander through this green ivy as it is to watch gentle winds wander across the top of a wheat field when wheat is golden.

Mr. Bixby of revered fame, who has for unnumbered years written "Daily Drift" in the State Journal, is quite a little way behind with his work, or so I deduce from a paragraph in his column last Thursday or Friday.

Two Fine Grandmothers Biting the Third Rail Wedell, a Good Flyer Fighting Language

President Roosevelt's mother had tea with Queen Mary at Buckingham ham palace, served in the queen's private apartments, that few American women have seen.

No doubt Mrs. Roosevelt told Queen Mary a great deal about "the most wonderful son in the world," Franklin Delano. Mrs. Roosevelt might have said truly to the wife of the British king and emperor.

On the Far Rockaway branch of the Long Island railroad, passengers saw a small dog touch the highly charged "third rail" and rise yelping into the air.

As the small dog treated the third rail so "civilized" nations treat the highly charged war danger. But, unfortunately, they don't know enough to stay away after three times.

The death of James Wedell, a flyer who held the world's record for flying, means a serious loss to this country. When only a boy, Wedell bought an old, broken-down plane sold as junk, repaired it, flew to army headquarters seeking a chance to fight and fly in France.

He was an airplane designer of real genius, a skillful builder, as well as one of the greatest pilots in the world. His land plane record was 300 miles an hour, and when he died he was working on a machine with which he hoped to win the London-to-Melbourne race next October.

Moscow newspapers accuse Japan of arousing hatred against Russia, mentioning an anti-Soviet film called "The Supreme Will," displayed in Japanese theaters.

In New York, a chauffeur asked his boss to find a job for the chauffeur's brother. A job was found at $25 a week driving a truck.

That can last a long time if the government is willing to print the money. It may last not quite so long, but several years, if the government continues its present insane course of inflating with bonds, doubling its debt by payment of interest.

If nudist foolishness last long enough, and foolish nudists have money enough, Mr. Maurice Allard, who has made himself president of the "Nature's Recreative association," intends to take a hundred and sixty nudists to lovely Vanna Vanna Island in the South seas.

At a recent sale of old coins, somebody paid $100 for a "brass dollar," of the time of Franklin, that dollar having stamped on it the words, "Mind your business."

In China, big country with the biggest population, things are done in a big way. In Fukien province nine young Chinese girls, from thirteen to nineteen, all suffering from unrequited love, tied themselves together, jumped into the river; all were drowned.

Catholics in Germany resent the government's pretensions to rule in church as well as outside. Chancellor Hitler is called by Germans their Fuehrer ("leader").

Mrs. E. C. James is spending a few days visiting in David City, Lincoln and other places. She expects to be home about July 10.

Care of The County Board, Ord, Nebr.

Dear Jake: That article in the paper last week lambasting us republicans and lauding the democrats tweaked my curiosity. It was signed as A. F. The person whom I thought at first was the author has the initials of W. M. But no combinations, backward or forward could I find A. F. apply to her.

I am sorry that it was not I instead of Haskell who was in on the argument. It looked like Annual had a little the edge. First man has no chance. Haskell might stage a comeback. At that it looks like the loafer in the oil station was about right.

Frank Kucera says, "All of my life I have heard my father tell about the drouth in '94. Now we have a story that beats that to tell our kids."

The new telephone directory is out. There seems to be a dearth of advertisers, except for the undertakers. Three of them are asking us for our trade.

Starvation perhaps. But as far as I am concerned, if I starve there will be no money left for the undertakers. Jake, would you arrange for the county to pay them if worse comes to worse? Then there are the wife and kids. Well, probably I'll last the longest, I'm the biggest.

Hoping for the best, Geo. G

NEWS, NOTE AND COMMENT

By W. W. HASKELL

Solomon and Roosevelt.

Once upon a time some 23 centuries ago, there was a great dictator, only at that time the rulers preferred to be called kings, that being a much more popular title and the title of dictator had not been invented then.

I might as well be frank and admit that I am about to set up a contender for this championship of all the wise. In order to avoid a contest with the preachers I call attention to the fact that the Bible was written many centuries ago by men who had no reason to know who was coming into power in 1933.

In comparing Solomon and Franklin D. Roosevelt, I shall pass over a lot of trivial things such as that Solomon had 700 wives and 300 lady friends, while Roosevelt has but one. Let this pass and come to the question of a successor, which concerned Solomon and is now concerning Roosevelt.

So he set about making a great name for himself at the expense of his subjects. And he did a pretty good job of it. He built a great church and a lot of other extra vagant and unnecessary things to keep the workmen busy, but what a simp he was: he made his people pay for it as he went along.

Now see how a modern politician handles the question of a success. Roosevelt in fifteen months has run the government in debt seventeen billion dollars and has two and a half years yet to go on with this spending for no other real purpose but to be re-elected.

If Roosevelt were paying as he goes and making us dig up now, he would get nowhere in the coming election. But by the simple expedient of making the future generations do the paying (and the cussing) he may succeed in being reelected.

How About Your Lights? One evening last week, noticing that there were many tall lights missing on the cars passing my home, I began to count. I do not recall now just the figures, but these are not far from correct:

- 36-lights okay. 14-no tall lights. 6-1 headlight, no tall lights. 2-tall lights but no headlights. 1-wholly dark. Monday night I took a tab and kept accurate count: 43-okay. 19-2 head lights, no tall light. 2-1 headlight, no tall light. 2-tall light, no head lights.

The situation in Germany is certainly serious. Objecting to the opposition to his regime, especially among former leaders of his Nazi followers, Hitler commenced last Saturday to shoot down in cold blood some of his former foremost friends.

A. R. McMinnans, candidate for sheriff of Garfield county, was in town Monday wearing a brand new shirt with an inscription on its back which would indicate that he would like my vote. He would surely have it if I lived in Garfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Olof Olsson entertained Sunday evening. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Knezacek, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Benjamin, Dr. Lee Nay and Will Misko.

One-Man Control

Washington.—Armed with more power than any President of the United States, or the head of any democratic government, ever has had, President Roosevelt has started what he hopes will be the final drive for economic recovery. He has all of the weapons in his own hands. There can be no mistake that he is preparing to use them.

When the second session of the Seventy-third congress adjourned, the work it had done together with the enactments of the first session, completed the transfer to the Chief Executive of more authority than any congress ever before had delegated to the head of the government. In fact, a survey of the acts seems to indicate that congress delegated to Mr. Roosevelt at least 50 per cent of the power ordinarily reserved to the legislative branch alone. Some of the grants were of a temporary character, of course, but nevertheless the President has them and they cannot be taken away until after the first of January, 1935. Irrespective of their nature, unless exigencies should arise under which President Roosevelt will call the congress back for an extraordinary session. Those exigencies do not now appear on the horizon.

The above paragraphs are a necessary prelude to the further statement that for the coming six months, at least, the country will have a distinctive one-man control. Ordinarily, we are prone to consider this government of ours in a little different manner because, in a period when congress is in session, the restrictions which its enactments embody serve to circumscribe the powers of the executive branch of the government. In the forthcoming six months, however, the executive branch may operate with all of the freedom discretionary authority carries in the New Deal legislation.

Because of the great speed which characterized passage of the New Deal legislation for which the President asked, its full meaning was overlooked temporarily in many cases. Now that congress has gone, however, appraisals are possible in the light of the relationship existing between various items of the New Deal, and this has occasioned more than the usual amount of discussion in Washington.

One line of discussion frequently heard is that Mr. Roosevelt has placed himself in a spot where he can claim full personal credit for the success of his program. By the same token, and since success is not yet assured, he is on the spot where he must accept full responsibility for failure of any part of the program to accomplish the job which he has outlined. From what I hear around Washington, there seems no disposition anywhere to take away any of the credit. The politicians on the President's side dare not seek any of the credit, for their records show them to have been wholly subservient to his will. Anti-administration politicians are continuing to play dead, for their strategy is apparently one of allowing the calf all of the rope. If failure attends any units of the program, they will make great capital of it. If success is complete, they can do nothing about it anyway, thus they are in a blind alley for the time being.

This position, I am told, does not mean that the Republicans and other anti-administration groups will not fight back. I have explained in earlier letters that they are going to foment trouble by attacks on various of the policies to show vulnerable points.

Just a Loan of Power

As I said at the outset, the story of the Seventy-third congress is the broadest loan of power ever given. It must be described as a loan of power, because congress can take it back at any time by mustering sufficient votes for repeal of the laws it enacted. But it must be remembered that, under the so-called Norris amendment to the federal Constitution, the recently adjourned session of congress was the last session. In other words, when adjournment was voted, it was an adjournment sine die. It was finished. It cannot be reconvened without a call by the President and that, as I reported above, is hardly within the realm of possibilities. All of which is by way of saying that Mr. Roosevelt will have the use of these loaned powers completely and unequivocally certain until next January.

It might be added that he will have most of them for much longer because, although congress can exercise its right to take them back, recovery of the grants of power is not as easy as it may seem. For example, normally, repeal of a law is accomplished by a majority vote in congress. But one must stop to consider here that Mr. Roosevelt may not want to give up the authority vested in him. He has the authority to veto an act of congress. Then, to get those powers back congress must override the veto. To override a veto it is necessary under the terms of the Constitution that two-thirds of each house shall have voted in the affirmative.

I am making no assertion that any such attitude will be taken by the President. None can make it for none knows what the President's attitude will be when the time comes for a decision on the point. It is worthy of thought, in my opinion, however, that here is a condition where the system of checks and balances between the legislative, judicial and executive branches of the government have placed a powerful whip in the hands of the Executive. Students of the Constitution tell me that it is a very unusual condition.

When Mr. Roosevelt came into office March 4, 1933, the congress, according to the Constitution, held the power to levy and collect taxes, to borrow money, to regulate foreign and domestic commerce, to coin money and regulate its value and to govern its relation to foreign coin, to combat counterfeiting, to set up inferior courts, to declare war and grant letters of marque and reprisal, to raise and support the army and the navy and control calls for the militia, to define and punish piracy, guard the copyright of creative work, and to make all necessary laws for carrying out these various powers.

What has congress retained of these vast powers, given it by the Constitution because it represents the people? There is a divergence of opinion. Surely, however, there has been delegated to the President some of the most important of those powers, and some authorities like Senator Borah of Idaho, and some of the Democratic conservatives claimed the delegation has been illegal. Whether that contention is true, of course, is a matter for the courts.

To examine just a few of the things done by congress will illustrate the extent to which it went in granting authority to the President. Take the laws creating the Agricultural Adjustment administration and it will be seen that the authority to levy and collect taxes was granted and at the same time a big handful of control over interstate and foreign commerce was given to the Executive. Production control under the so-called Bankhead cotton control law is just that. An important control over interstate and foreign commerce was given the President also under the national recovery act. General Johnson, administrator, exercises that authority, of course, but he does so under executive direction.

While the power is circumscribed to an extent, congress gave the President authority to change the value of the dollar. He cannot vary it greater than between fifty and sixty cents, as we used to measure cents, but the power to coin money and regulate its value rests with Mr. Roosevelt to that extent. The implications go much further. The treasury has an immense fund of gold which it can use in maintaining the relationship between our dollar and foreign coins.

Under the present set-up, congress gave away temporarily the right to make of that authority. In nearly all of the acts of the New Deal congress, much discretionary power to draft regulations and rules for administration of the new laws was accorded the Executive. Anti-administration leaders contend that in using this discretionary power, the executive branch has put government into countless businesses. Through the Reconstruction Finance corporation, for example, the government owns or has influence in, through the medium of loans, such businesses as banking, dairying, cotton and wheat and other grain stocks, in the mortgage field, railroading and in the various fields of commerce and industry such as those touched by the Tennessee Valley experiment.

In the charity field, the government has gone a long way. It is providing work in numerous ways. Various experiments are being worked out with these funds, voted by congress for distribution under the President's direction. Some of the money is being used, for example, for the building of whole towns in conjunction with a government-owned manufacturing plant.

Through NRA, it is to be mentioned also, the anti-trust laws were virtually, if not wholly, suspended. The recovery act made the anti-trust laws inapplicable where corporations signed the codes and complied with the blue eagle requirements. Under that same set of laws, too, the government virtually became a partner in all businesses, since it exercises authority over their manufacturing practices and policies as well as their methods of production and distribution.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—On her way to a position in Lostland Academy, Janet Marcer, young professor of English literature and rhetoric, after receiving a letter from Gordon Haskell, proprietor of the Academy, meets on the train a young man whom she learns is Arthur Fleming, also on his way to the Academy, as professor of mathematics and chairman of the faculty. They reach Blade, railroad station nearest to their destination, and there meet Mrs. Denver, engaged as matron of the Academy. At the school the group is struck by an air of mystery pervading the lonely place. Haskell, who owns the place, Wilton Payne, teacher of psychology, completes the faculty.

CHAPTER II.—Vaguely disturbed, and apprehensive, Janet watches, from her window, a meeting between Haskell and a man whose appearance, but who evidently is high in Haskell's confidence. Going down to the school-room she finds a group which the teachers had supposed were scholars studying, are really highly artistic wax figures of the Academy. Mrs. Denver, next day Haskell explains the somewhat unusual circumstances connected with the conduct of the Academy. The professors take up their duties. Among Janet's pupils is Berenice Bracebridge, daughter of the late owner of the Academy, and she is attracted by her, Haskell, under her father's will, is Berenice's guardian.

"I wonder if Balder keeps his valuables in here—barring fire, I should think it would be a very safe bank."

"He has no right to lock this door," Berenice said. "The meeting house is no one's property now—unless mine. Mr. Haskell told me once that years ago this village was on the academy land, the inhabitants held ground leases." They stood looking at the closed door for a moment, then Janet turned down. The four walked up the road together in the wild beauty of the sunset, Janet wishing that they could always go on like this—young and hopeful and undisturbed.

Haskell was strolling about the grounds of the academy when they reached them, and stopping to admire the handsome beds of chrysanthemums.

The head of Lostland academy seemed inordinately fond of flowers, and, as Mrs. Denver came down a path to take the air, he gallantly gathered a bunch and handed them to her. She took them shyly, then her face lighted up with pleasure as she saw the quartette approaching. At the distance rested on his hoe and watched the scene. Payne noticed a black glove lying on the white gravel of a sidewalk. The wind grew wilder. All at once the bell high up in the belfry struck one note. Haskell started violently, and Mrs. Denver almost dropped her flowers.

Berenice said: "I am sure it is Mother Martha, Guardian. You know she likes to think the boys and girls are coming back to school."

"I remember the rope does run down through the end of the passage where she lives. But I didn't know she had strength enough in her old hands to pull the rope."

Again the bell sounded. Balder ceased to stare at them and resumed his work.

"Some one has dropped a glove," Mrs. Denver remarked, and picked it up.

"It's Mother Martha's," said Berenice. "Look, Janet—may I call you Janet?—she knits these black gloves herself, and puts them on—"

Haskell frowned. "Now, Berenice, don't reveal your old nurse's eccentricities."

"It isn't an eccentricity to mourn—is it? She wears them on the anniversaries of people's deaths! What can it be today! Ah, I remember—my brothers and sisters!"

Haskell turned with a kind of anger to Janet. "There, you see I did what I could to divert her mind—away with sad anniversaries, I say! I hope you will be happy this evening! Go into the library, build a fire. Go down into the kitchen and make fudge. I'll tell the cook you are to have anything you like. Wilton, are you too grave a psychologist to make fudge?"

Wilton was thinking he had misjudged Haskell, who certainly had his problems in managing an estate so freighted with old tragedies and traditions and so involved with the future of a girl as charming as Berenice. He approved Haskell's effort to keep this anniversary from the girl's mind. "You'll come, Mrs. Denver—to this party?"

"Indeed I will!" she answered heartily; then in a lower voice, "May I walk a little with you, Mr. Payne? I want to ask you something."

"Have you seen the lake?"

"No."

He turned in that direction. She came along gratefully, huddling her rather worn coat of Hudson seal about her and glancing from time to time at her companion's face.

"How we all walk here! It seems as if everybody hated to be indoors. You are a psychologist, Mr. Payne. Tell me what is wrong with this house?"

"Ah, you've been thinking too much of these—figures of the old, sad story."

She lowered her voice, looked about her cautiously. "It's a story that's not finished—"

"Are any stories ever finished?" he said gently.

"It's not finished! You'll think me strange—I have a feeling we were brought here to finish it—we—unconquerable four!"

"I'm glad you include yourself. It means you'll stay."

"Yes, I'll stay! I want to go—but I'll stay! I'm afraid of Balder, of Mother Martha, of the principal with his queer bright eyes; but I'll stay!"

At the door which led into the basement he left her—and descending the mossy stone steps he found himself in the passage where the wax figures were lodged. A new keyhole containing a key had been let into the door.

He heard some one on the basement stairs, and stepped inside the room beyond that in which were the wax figures. As a further precaution he stepped into an empty closet the room contained. By leaving the door ajar he could see the other door and the passage.

Haskell entered swinging the new key in his hand. He looked about a moment, spied a loosened brick in the fireplace, drew it out, thrust the key in the aperture, and locked it up again. "Balder will never find that," he muttered.

Payne waited until the quick footsteps died away, then he stole out, feeling like a criminal, but sure, nevertheless, that he had a legitimate curiosity in this matter. Haskell's putting on the new lock seemed natural enough, however, as a protection to the figures from the idle eyes and fingers of the day scholars or from Balder's apparently impish desire to play tricks with them.

Finding Arthur in his bedroom smoking the black pipe which was his darling, he related the recent circumstances, winding up by a retrogressive process with the account of his visit to the Moore farm.

"Do you believe that old farmer's story?"

"Yes—why not?"

"He was the only witness of their deaths—"

"And their drowned bodies?"

"That's so! I always forget they are buried in the little churchyard. They seem so intensely alive I expect them some day to come upstairs and join my scholars."

"Haskell does, too—judging by the new lock. Do you know what thought was in my mind down at the old church?"

"The same that was in mine, I suppose—that Haskell in the dim light thought Berenice—"

"Exactly. She is so like the younger one—Isabel—that it is startling. Haskell was frightened—plain frightened. I hope he won't come in to our festivities this evening. But I am afraid he will!"

"I believe, Wilton, he's jealous of your growing influence over Berenice. She likes you, and there's nothing that would please him less than—"

"And myself more. If your sharp eyes have also discovered that I am devoted to Berenice Bracebridge, I shall not deny it. The important thing now is to protect her."

"From what?"

"That's just it," Payne answered helplessly. "I don't know what the danger is—but there is a danger. I feel it in those black basement rooms, in the stiff sad drawing room, in her own fear of the place as if she were only safe sitting close to little Isabel or with her arms about Althea or Norman. Why did you start so?"

"Let's go down! I hate this room! Come along."

At dinner, Payne asked Gordon Haskell some questions about the old house. After dinner, continuing in the same strain, he inquired: "Was Arthur Fleming's room ever assigned to the boarding pupils?"

"No. Why do you ask?"

"I was just wondering. It's a very nice, large room."

"It was young Jethro's for a great many years; then the four children used it for a study room. Berenice had it for a while, but she gave it up. She said the furniture creaked so! All old furniture does!"

"Yes, Fleming says the furniture creaks."

The evening plans included first the making of the fudge in the great barrack of a kitchen. The cook, and the rather sullen young man who had brought up their trunks, were seated near the range, and watched the proceedings with unfeigned interest. The old man who had driven the car up wandered in and began to upbraid the other servant for his matchless incompetence.

"Ah, shut your mouth! Nobody told me to say that wood. Balder's job—not mine."

"Much chance I'd have for kindling from that great lummox; always hanging around where he ain't no business to be!"

"Oh, well, he's teacher's pet. He could set fire to the old rat trap and Haskell would say nothin'."

Payne almost let the great iron spoon drop in the pan of fudge he was stirring. Janet and Berenice, picking meat from hickory nuts, did not raise their heads; nor evidence in any way that they heard this colloquy of servants. They were deft workers.

The candy came to perfection, and was put in a window to cool. The four, two of them feeling that they had renewed their childhood, went up to the library, where Haskell, true to his promise, had made a fire. Mrs. Denver was knitting a red sweater by the light of one of the lamps set liberally about to overcome the gloom. She looked up with an air of relief as they entered.

"I'm glad you've come. The servants seem to be all downstairs, and I can't get used to this big house."

Haskell appeared in the doorway—"All comfortable, all set?"

"Won't you come in, Guardian?"

"Not tonight. Don't forget to put out the lamps when you go to bed."

"I'll see to it," Janet said.

"You won't come in, sir?" Payne asked. He had noticed Haskell's reluctance on other occasions to linger in that library.

"No, I have work to do—in my room."

Berenice looked after him with a speculative, half maternal air. "I hope when I'm off his hands he'll enjoy life a little."

"Must everything go on like this until you are twenty-one?"

"Or until I marry—if I marry before I am twenty-one. Then the guardianship—trusteeship—passes to my husband until I am twenty-one—then to me absolutely."

Mrs. Denver laid down her knitting. "My child, why don't you marry?"

A nervous silence followed this remark. Payne put his hand over his eyes as if to shade them from the light, and Arthur and Janet looked like people at a play just after the curtain has gone up. Mrs. Denver resumed her knitting. Berenice stirred the fire—and great tongues of flame sought the black case of the chimney.

Then, feeling strangely juvenile together and as if skirting the dark wood of fate, they drew around the fire telling stories.

Then Payne said, "Someone must be delegated to get the fudge."

"I'll go," said Berenice, rising.

"I'll go with you."

"No, please."

Payne waited; gave her a little start, then followed her. At the foot of the staircase she turned, not toward the kitchen, but toward the room where the figures were kept.

"Berenice," his voice had a stern yet tender quality. She started violently, looked back. "Oh, why did you come?"

"Because I thought you might do this. You watched the door too much."

"I was getting afraid again—I suppose the anniversary and Mother Martha's tolling the bell depressed me—I wanted to see their dear faces but kept from thinking they could ever harm me. It's a foolish fancy, but it came, and I thought I would look in there first before I got the fudge."

He walked with her down the passage. "Will you take one of the lamps from the brackets?"

He lifted it down. She turned the handle. "Why, it's locked, and there's a new lock! Oh, he must give me the key; he must!"

"Maybe he thinks it's better for your health and spirits not to come here too much."

"Perhaps he is right—and after all—now you will think me foolish again, there was something else beside fear. I suppose I've been like a little girl with her dolls who doesn't want them to be lonely or unhappy, even though she knows they are not alive."

Later in the evening she showed him some old diaries kept by her father. "I've often thought they ought to be published; he put down so many comments on current events, as well as the academy news. Would you look over them for me some time—and tell me what you think could be done with them?"

He promised her to look through them. The four had played cards, eaten fudge, chatted, with Mrs. Denver placidly knitting in the background. They had a common outspoken feeling of being in a play. The wind sweeping wildly from the mountains rattled the heavy window frames and swayed the maroon rep curtains softly. They had a sense of empty rooms and hidden projects about them. Berenice forgot even that she had ever felt

County Treasurer

I was born and raised in Nebraska, moved to Valley county with my parents in 1905, and have been a resident in this county most of my life.

During the past seventeen years I have spent much time in helping my father (Mid Garner) on the farm southwest of Ord; until I am well acquainted with the hardships of the farmer, and would like to see him get a square deal and not any more New Deals.

Besides helping my father on the farm I have also been interested in education. I attended grade schools both in Vinton and in District 66. Then I rode horseback 10 miles a day for two years to attend high school at Valleyside (District 10). The next two years I worked for my board and room while attending the Ord High School and graduated in 1924. It was a much more difficult task to work my way through four years of college without aid, but finally received my degree in 1931.

Besides farming and obtaining an education I have also been a teacher. I taught school two years in District 39 in Valley County. I was next elected to teach high school for two years in Sherman county. And I have served as Superintendent of the Farwell public schools for two years.

With my experience and education I feel capable of serving in an economic and efficient manner as your next county treasurer. If elected I promise to cooperate and be honest with the people at all times.

I will thank you for your support, and will sincerely appreciate all votes that I receive at the primary, August 14.

tear in the place—though the ever-present mystery was still sharply with her.

CHAPTER V

WHEN every one but himself had gone to bed, Payne sat down to read the diaries of the late Dr. Jethro Bracebridge, but he had no intention of going back to the earlier years first, on the track, as he was, of the situation in Lostland academy just before the deaths of the four Bracebridge children. It was easily traced, as the diaries ended abruptly on the twenty-ninth of September of the year of the drowning. On that day Doctor Bracebridge had ceased his records, never to open them again.

Payne turned to the approximate date of Doctor Bracebridge's second marriage, and found this entry: "Mrs. Haskell is a dear woman—most lovable. I would not be surprised if after our marriage, Berenice did grow to love her as her own mother. The child is only four."

The first mention of Gordon Haskell rather surprised Wilton: "Well, he arrived at five to take up his new duties; and I must confess I am disappointed in him, though whether this first feeling will wear off, and a heartier one take its place, remains to be seen."

Two weeks later: "Jethro announced to me that he disliked Gordon Haskell, and did not intend to be his student. I remonstrated with him, but the lad, with all his fine qualities, is at times hot-headed and obstinate. Althea, Norman and Isabel show this aversion to Gordon; apparently only little Berenice likes the poor fellow. She allowed him to take her on his knee yesterday and hear her say her letters. Poor baby! Education at present interests her but slightly."

Six months later: "I intend to appoint Gordon co-guardian with Mrs. Bracebridge. In case of my death, over the five children. I shall, of course, provide for him, too; though not in the measure I do for the others. I am sorry the youngsters hate him so, for it leads to a series of minor outbreaks between them. Privately, I think Gordon a rather savage teacher; some men are like that—too impatient of a pupil's limitations! I have asked him to be more gentle and more nonchalant with his scholars. Children as a rule respect and like people who are rather casual toward them. The intense adult is their abhorrence. Perhaps they know better than we do that a rage for reshaping life is not according to the sweet reasonableness of the divine policy. Gordon is ambitious; I doubt greatly if he cares to bury himself long in Lostland academy, so the children and their mother may be separated naturally."

In the last year, Gordon Haskell's name appeared very seldom. Doctor Bracebridge evidently had other things to worry him—an epidemic of measles in the school, and a series of thefts, particularly one large sum from the locked drawer of a desk in the library. In another place was written:

"I am afraid it is Balder; a sullen, disagreeable fellow, but as he does twice the work, when he chooses, of an ordinary man, it doesn't seem right to dismiss him merely from prejudice or the suspicion of something we can't prove. I've given up trying to reconcile my incomparable four and Gordon. That, too, is a temperamental matter, and with such chemistry, one does well not to meddle."

"Poor man. It would have been better if you had meddled," Wilton reflected. "Those boys and girls probably diagnosed Haskell's character better than you did!"

It was nearly dawn when he concluded his examinations of the diaries, which, on the whole, had yielded little meat for his theories to feed on.

When he knew Berenice better he might some day ask her about the will. But he shrank from an undue and perhaps to her mind an unjustifiable curiosity. And he did not wish to fasten in her mind any suspicion of which her guardian was the object.

Berenice was as beautiful as an angel, he thought, tired with the approach of dawn, too tired to think of rare smiles and new terms.

"Oh, I am too tired to sleep. I think I'll steal a march on Arthur and go down to that old church."

for THOSE Picnic Lunches

Picnicking is the principal recreation of many families at this season and naturally the most important part of a picnic is the food. What nicer for a picnic than a cold, boiled tongue? Or a nice piece of lean beef or pork, boiled and then ground with pickles and salad dressing for sandwiches? Or a choice assortment of our cold meats, featured by boiled, sliced or minced ham, salami, summer sausage, veal loaf or whatever you like? And we're getting a lot of calls lately for cheese, especially our aged German brick. People say it goes fine with a few cold bottles of beer. Let us help you plan your picnic.

Obituary of Mrs. C. N. Blakeslee

Cornelia Nancy Smith-Blakeslee was born in Theresa Village, N. Y., August 28, 1863.

When a young child she moved with her parents to Janesville, Wis. Afterwards they lived for a short time in Northern Minnesota. From there they moved again, and then to Morango, Ia.

On August 8th, 1889 at Victor, Ia., she was married to Mr. Maurice Edelbert Blakeslee, who passed away on August 13th 1923, at Arcadia, where at that time they had made their home for some years. With her husband she moved to Howard county, Ia., where they till 1888. In that year she followed Mr. Blakeslee, in the covered wagon into Nebraska, where ever since they made their home in Valley county, with the exception of the years spent in Arcadia on this farm.

After the marriage of her grandson, Mr. Edelbert Holmes, she went back with them to the farm, where tender care of Mr. and Mrs. Holmes administered to her needs. On Friday, June 29, 1934 at 5:30 P. M. she passed on to receive her eternal reward.

To her union with Mr. Blakeslee were born five children: Maurice Blakeslee of Arcadia, Nora Blakeslee of Arcadia, Nettie Blakeslee of Arcadia, Ambrose S. Blakeslee of Arcadia and Bettie Blakeslee of Arcadia.

She leaves to mourn her loss her two sons, Maurice and Ambrose, one brother, Dr. Frank Smith of Red Oak, Ia., ten grandchildren and nineteen great-grandchildren.

She was a woman of fine upright character who took great interest in the welfare of her home and family.

Her earthly labors are over and she has entered into the rest which is sweet after the toll and cares of life.

Whereas, Rose Mary Volf of said county, has filed in my office her petition praying that letters of administration upon the estate of Anton Volf, deceased, late of said county, may be issued to John Volf of Ord in said county, whereof I have appointed Monday the 23rd day of July 1934, at Ten o'clock in the forenoon, at my office in said county, as the time and place of hearing said petition, at which time and place all persons interested may appear and show cause why said letters should not be granted as prayed for in said petition.

It is further ordered that said petitioner give notice to all persons interested in said estate of the pendency of the petition, and the time and place set for hearing the same, by causing a copy of this order to be published in The Ord Quiz, a legal weekly newspaper published in said county and of general circulation therein, three successive weeks previous to the day set for said hearing.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and official seal this Thirtieth day of June, 1934.

JOHN L. ANDERSEN,
County Judge.

CLARENCE DAVIS MAKES JULY 4TH TALK AT SIDNEY

Ord Candidate for Congress
Says Personal Taxes Can and Should Be Reduced.

Clarence Davis, Ord attorney who is waging a vigorous campaign for the republican nomination for Congress, 5th District, and is meeting with much encouragement, was a speaker at the 4th of July celebration staged in Sidney yesterday. Another speaker was Ted Metcalfe, republican candidate for governor.

That taxes on real and personal property in Nebraska can and should be reduced is the belief of Mr. Davis, who released the following statement just before leaving for Sidney Tuesday:

"Taxes on real and personal property. Every owner of property, whether it be the man with a small home, a small car or a few head of livestock, or the man with a large farm or ranch has to pay entirely too much taxes to support the government in this state. But, one might ask, how can a member of Congress do anything about this? Isn't that a matter for our legislators or local officials? That is true in quite a large measure but there is a way that Congress can help solve that problem.

"For many years the federal government has been obtaining money from income taxes and various kinds of manufacturers' taxes. If our government is to continue to levy these types of taxes, then it should remit back to this state, and other states, a reasonable proportion to be used to lower the heavy burden upon tangible properties. This should be done in proportion to population. Otherwise the states of the east, which pay most of these taxes, would again get the lion's share of this rebate. The objectors state that that would be fair as they pay the large share of such taxes. It would not be fair to rebate this tax in accordance with the way it is paid in. There is plenty of money made by the large manufacturers in getting the raw products, produced in Nebraska, prepared for sale. Yet most of these corporations have their headquarters in some eastern state and pay their taxes there on the money from the raw materials that are produced in Nebraska. Many of them make the money, they so pay a portion of the federal government, by selling goods to us that are raised or produced elsewhere. Yet this tax is paid in some other state. A rebate in proportion to population would get us a fair share of the money made from Nebraska or from Nebraska products. It could be administered cheaper than an endeavor to duplicate such taxes in this state and would get us a fair share of such taxes from corporations that we couldn't collect from by a tax just put into effect by Nebraska.

"This money could be used to defray the expenses of our state government, and thus take that burden from the property owners of this state or it could be used to help support our schools and thus ease this expense to the local communities. If elected to Congress I shall seek to limit federal expenses as much as possible and try to get an act of Congress passed providing that a reasonable proportion of these kinds of taxes, if the government continues to levy them, as it seems it will, be rebated back to this state so that your property taxes and mine may be cut to a point where we can pay them, without a great hardship. If this only cut a man's taxes on his farm, home or business twenty-five per cent, or even less, it would be of untold benefit to the taxpayers of this state. If I am selected by the voters of this district to represent them in Congress I shall do my utmost to thus cut down the taxes of every taxpayer in this state. Every man who pays taxes would then get some real benefit from these special taxes levied by Congress."

Christian Science Services.

The subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches for Sunday, July 8, is "Sacrament".

The Golden Text is from John 6:33: "The bread of God is he who cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world."

A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from Psalms 51:16, 17: "For thou desirest not sacrifice; else would I give it: thou delightest not in burnt offering. The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "If all who ever partook of the sacrament had really commemorated the sufferings of Jesus and drunk of his cup, they would have revolutionized the world. If all who seek his commemoration through material symbols will take up the cross, heal the sick, cast out evils, and preach Christ, or Truth, to the poor—the receptive thought,—they will bring in the millennium." Too Poor to Propose

By BETTY STRONG

IF DORIS WHITE had not fallen into his arms, Bob Richards would never have given her another thought.

He was clumping up the last flight of dark, oilcloth covered stairs, when he heard a little gasp, and then something soft and yielding was flung head first into his arms. He caught her as easily as he had caught the ball when he was felder, and having set her on her feet gently asked in his big voice with the trace of huskiness in it, "Hurt any?"

She breathed quickly, and answered, "I—I guess you saved my life!" There was just the suggestion of a laugh in that voice that went straight to Bob's heart.

"You see, I must have caught my toe in the oilcloth," she explained. Bob thought she had the softest, sweetest voice he had heard for a long time.

"I think my dinner is forever lost!" Doris said sadly, stooping to feel about the stairs.

They found at last the head of lettuce, the two rolls still in their bag and the lemon that was to help make up the dinner. In the process they said several things to each other, altogether trite and yet somehow most illuminating.

So it was not strange that the second time Bob ran into the occupant of the hall bedroom he lifted his hat and stopped to talk.

The third time they met, Bob asked directly, "Would you take a walk with me this afternoon?"

The faintest tinge of color showed through Doris' white skin and she said—"for it was Saturday—" "I'd love to!"

They walked along Fifth avenue. Doris' eyes were shining and she was actually prettier each time Bob Richards looked down at her.

The next Saturday it rained and Doris hesitated and then knocked at the door on the second floor that bore the card: "Robert Richards."

"I thought you might have tea with me, it's such a cold, dismal kind of afternoon," Doris offered.

At the answering gleam of pleasure in his eyes Doris hurried up the flight of stairs. She knew it would mean that she must lunch meagerly all the following week, but she bought crumpets—toasted them over her gas burner—and a tiny jar of marmalade.

Davis Creek News

Lack of moisture has made conditions very serious for the farmers of this community. Some time ago a number of farmers took all their cattle but the milk cows to the sand hills because of the scarcity of feed. The past week Allen Tappan, Ed Jefferies, Louie Axthelm, Herman Desel and Geo. Fisk took their milk cows to a farm northwest of Ericson. In each instance some member of the family went up there to do the milking. At present Lloyd Axthelm, Herman Desel, Ed Jefferies and Ernest are tending the cows.

Mrs. Iona Leach and Orville and Mr. and Mrs. Charley Mrsny went to Bassett Sunday on business. Byrnee Leach was a supper guest at Paul White's Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy McGee and family spent Wednesday evening at his uncle, George Whittiker's.

John Lunney shelled corn for Arvid Krome Thursday afternoon. He has also threshed wheat for himself, Arthur Malottke and Bert Rich the past week. In each instance they just about got their seed back. The straw was so short they had to mow it in order to get it at all.

John Palser sent his milk cows to a pasture near Ericson this week.

About 23 young people of the Davis Creek Co-Eds society picnicked at the park at Ord Saturday evening. They took their suppers and played games. Mildred McGee was an overnight guest at Louie Axthelm's and Jaunetta Fisk stayed with Florence Palser Saturday night.

The Horace ball team came to Davis Creek Thursday afternoon for a ball game, carrying off the honors. The score was 2 to 4.

Mr. and Mrs. George Saddler and son of Kearney were visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark McCall Sunday. They stopped a short time at John Williams' on their way home.

Dorothea Thorngate is staying several days with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Sample.

The United Brethren Ladies Aid society met in the church basement Wednesday of last week. There were 63 present for dinner. The ladies finished quilting a quilt for Mrs. Wm. Horner.

Leona Axthelm entertained her Sunday school class of Juniors Friday afternoon. Games of various kinds were enjoyed and Leona served a lunch of peaches and cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zabka and daughter Ida of Belgrade visited their nephew Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Mrsny Sunday.

Mrs. Ida Johnson returned home Sunday evening from Redlands, Calif., where she attended her father's funeral. She says her mother is quite poorly.

GROSS FAMILY IN AUTO CRASH, LEGGETT WRITES

Frank Gross Injured But Drives 100 Miles Farther; Quiz Man Returns Sat'day.

Jack Pine Lodge on Middle Cullen Lake, near Nisawa, in Crow Wing County Minn., July 6, 1934.

Dear Quiz:
From what Eugene writes me, many Ordites would enjoy a day such as we have here today, as we need a fire in the stove and sweaters on when we go outside. The wind is strong from the north and I think there must surely be snow in Canada a couple of hundred miles away. Hi and I got up early this morning, I made coffee and bacon and eggs for breakfast and we drove out of camp at 5 o'clock to try our luck for walleyes on Cull lake. It rained some toward morning and we always have wind after a rain here, in fact the wind was raising when we started but we had loaded motor and fishing equipment last night and planned on an hour we went anywhere. By the time we got to the lake and arranged for a boat the waves were quite big. We went ahead anyhow and in an hour were glad to get off the lake, for the whicaps were rolling and we got good and wet motoring back to shore from the fishing grounds. It was so rough we couldn't do a thing and we only got two pike. I believe we would have had a good catch if the weather had been favorable. We will try it again tomorrow if the weather is favorable.

The 4th. passed rather quietly here, the Simpson kids being about the only ones with noise-making devices. They started a couple of days early and finished up the celebration. We made a freezer of ice cream, had a big dinner of steaked bass and the usual things that accompany a fish dinner. We went to the upper lake yesterday and soon discovered a float in a place where we had never fished. Someone suggested that we try it, as someone had probably found a new fishing hole. About the time we dropped our hooks in Dr. and Mrs. Gelow motored up and said they had placed the float to mark the place where the Dr. had lost a whole fishing outfit, rod, line and all, including an enormous fish which the Dr. described as long as an ear and about as large around as a man's body (a small man). He said he was trolling along and got the strike, the fish yanking the rod from his lap where he had laid it in handy reach while he rowed the boat. He and the Missus were plenty excited so we naturally sympathized with them in losing so good a fish. Just then Hi, who was reeling his line in, said the float the Dr. had left, was moving and we all concluded that Hi had caught his line. It proved to be the fact and the Dr. Rod and reel and line were restored to him including a small snake pickerel which would weigh nearly a pound. The Dr. said he was very much pleased to get it, as he would otherwise, always have believed that he had been robbed of his outfit by a large muskie.

The Clement family are guests today, of the Gelow family. Dr. and Mrs. Gelow own the cottage built by the late Dr. Shepard. They are accompanied on their vacation by his father, a man 89 years old and who is as well and hearty as

FRANK ARNOLD WILL ADDRESS THE TAX LEAGUE

State President to Be Speaker At Annual Meeting in Ord Saturday, July 14th.

Frank G. Arnold, of Fullerton, president of the Nebraska Federation of Taxpayers Leagues, will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Valley county league, which will be held at the district court room in Ord at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, July 14, it is announced by Jos J. Waldmann and C. E. Goodhand, officers of the local league. Mr. Arnold is without doubt one of the best posted men in Nebraska on tax matters. He is filled to the brim with tax facts and is a forceful, interesting speaker. Since the state Federation of Taxpayers Leagues is advocating legislation in the interest of the taxpayer every taxpayer in Valley county, including ladies, should hear Mr. Arnold speak Saturday. New officers will be elected for the Valley county league. Monday C. A. Hager left for Kimball where he will look after crops on his farm.

Rain and Hail Storm Thursday; Heat Wave Again Grips Nebraska

About 1-2 inch of rain, accompanied by a severe hail storm, visited Ord Thursday afternoon, after which two days of cooler weather were enjoyed. The rain fell within the space of a few minutes and did little good, whereas the hail did severe damage to some fields of corn. Will Hather, who had a good stand of corn, reports that many stalks were entirely stripped of leaves. Other hail damage reports also have come in.

The hot weather again took hold Sunday, when the temperature mounted to 103 degrees. Monday was even hotter, a top of 105 being reported, and Tuesday was only a degree or two cooler. The hot weather continued yesterday with a prospect of local showers for last night and today, according to weather forecasts. A severe rain and hail storm visited northeast Nebraska Sunday night. Around Pilger and Stanton 4 to 5 inches of rain fell and hailstones as large as baseballs did extensive damage to property and crops. The storm was accompanied by a wind so severe that in one place a 7-foot tree was uprooted.

CANCER CLAIMS MARIE MENZEL SUNDAY, JULY 8

Respected Woman Succumbs To Dread Disease After Long And Painful Illness.

Mrs. Marie Menzel, a respected resident of Ord since 1898, passed away at 9:45 p. m. Sunday, July 8, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Laura Thorne, after a long and painful illness with cancer of the liver and yellow jaundice. She was laid to rest in Ord cemetery Tuesday afternoon after funeral services at Sowl's chapel with Rev. Willard McCarty in charge. The deceased woman was born June 30, 1859 in Kolding, Denmark, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans L. Clement. With her parents she came to the United States in 1881 and on April 26, 1895 she was married in Chicago to Marc Menzel, with whom she came to Ord in 1898. One son, Edwin, was born to them but passed away at the age of nine and on Sept. 6, 1904, Mr. Menzel also died. After her husband's death Mrs. Menzel established a home bakery, specializing in delicious bread and rolls, and for almost thirty years Ordites enjoyed her fine baked goods. She continued baking until about six months ago, when she became seriously ill and was tenderly cared for until her death in the home of her sister, Mrs. Thorne. Mrs. Menzel was a member of the Danish Lutheran church and the Ben Hur lodge. She is mourned by two sisters, Mrs. Thorne, and Mrs. Anna Melzer of Walnut Creek, Calif. Three brothers, Fred, Louis and Hans Clement, preceded her in death. A tireless worker and a kind neighbor and friend, Mrs. Menzel enjoyed the respect and affection of all who knew her and she will be sincerely and genuinely mourned.

Former Ordites Now Helping Run Burwell

What would Burwell and Garfield county do if it wasn't for Ord? Ben Rose is county judge and Ray Enger is fire chief, both former Ordites. W. F. Hoffman, a former Ordite, is running for county clerk on the democratic ticket and Joe Holecek, Jr., who once lived here, seeks the democratic nomination for county treasurer. Guy Laverty, who was once identified with Ord, is county attorney and seeks reelection, while John L. Ward, for years an Ord resident, is a republican candidate for county assessor. Luther D. Pierce, "boss" of the Wrangler club, is a candidate for director of the North Loup power and irrigation district and he, also, was born and reared in Ord. North Loup, also, has contributed to Burwell's greatness as E. C. Helbig, a native North Louper, is mayor of the Garfield county metropolis.

Clifford J. Goodrich Re-elected President

The Nebraska Rural Letter Carriers association, in convention at Grand Island Monday and Tuesday, reelected Clifford J. Goodrich of North Loup president. Mrs. Goodrich and Mr. and Mrs. Will Cox, also of North Loup, were present at the convention. Mr. and Mrs. W. S. King had a few guests Sunday. Their daughters Misses Clara and Grace King are at home for the summer. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Nels Peterson, Mrs. Anna Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Moser.

WASHINGTON SAYS NO LOUP PROJECT HAS 'SLIM CHANCE'

But District Officials Are Still Conferring with Haynes in Hope of Getting Funds.

Although an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, D. C., Tuesday quoted FERA officials as saying that the North Loup project has only a "slim chance" of securing funds, Bert M. Hardenbrook states that district officials are still conferring with Rowland Haynes, FERA administrator for Nebraska.

When the project was rejected by PWA authorities, the hope was extended that because of the drought situation in Valley and Garfield counties drouth relief and FERA funds might be used to build irrigation ditches.

District officials first asked for $700,000 and several conferences were held last week with Mr. Haynes at Lincoln. E. H. Dumire, engineer for the district, returned from Washington and participated in these conferences. Figures submitted by Dumire proved that the project could be developed for irrigation only for $700,000 but FERA and drouth relief regulations preclude using federal funds for anything but actual work relief and drouth relief, whereas approximately $250,000 would be required to pay engineering fees, right-of-way and water-right expenses, for equipment, for diversion dams, for materials, etc.

A compromise was then worked out whereby the district would attempt to raise $250,000 by sale of revenue bonds if approximately $450,000 could be made available by the FERA. Water would be provided to irrigators at from $1.50 to $2.00 per acre if this project works out, as the money borrowed on revenue bonds would be the only part of the $700,000 that would have to be repaid and upon which interest would have to be paid.

This proposal is now receiving consideration but whether the district can sell its bonds remains to be seen. Also, political influence may be brought to bear upon the FERA to prevent the grant of funds for the actual labor.

Engineer Dumire visited Ord Saturday and explained to officials just what happened at Washington to prevent passage of the original $2,900,000 project by the FWA. The project was killed, not through lack of merit but entirely because of politics, he charges. There is still a chance that it may be approved in 1935 but only if politicians who now control democratic policies in Nebraska are dethroned and supplanted by men who have the interests of the North Loup valley at heart.

Mr. Dumire returned to Kansas City Sunday and nothing more will be done on the North Loup project at present, unless the FERA provides funds for development of irrigation here.

W. B. Casler Laid To Rest July 6th

Early Resident of Turtle Creek, Pioneer Lumberman At Elyria, Passed Away at Omaha.

Funeral services were held at Sowl's chapel Friday, July 6, for Willis B. Casler, pioneer Turtle Creek farmer and Elyria grain and lumber dealer, who passed away July 3, at Omaha after a long period of ill health. He was laid to rest in the Ord cemetery.

Mr. Casler was born in Plainfield, Wis., in 1850 and in 1874 was married at Almond, Wis., to Katie Chalk, coming to Valley county a few years later and homesteading in the Turtle Creek vicinity where he farmed for several years. Then he moved to Elyria and entered the grain and lumber business. For forty-five years he was a resident of Elyria and soon won the trust and affection of his fellow citizens, as evidenced by his repeated election as justice of the peace there.

In 1910 his devoted wife passed away at Elyria but Mr. Casler is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Edna Lidell, of Omaha, and Mrs. Alvie Lighter, of Portland, Ore. and also by three grandchildren and seven great grandchildren. One daughter, Mrs. Grace Standard, preceded him in death.

In failing health for several months before his death, Mr. Casler went to live with his daughter, Mrs. Lidell, in Omaha, and there the end came. The funeral services here Friday were conducted by Rev. Mearl C. Smith, of the Ord Methodist church, and were attended by a host of his former friends and neighbors of the Elyria and Ord neighborhood.

—Mr. D. B. Smith is ill and under the care of Dr. C. J. Miller.

9 Local Students At Summer School

Fourteen students from Valley county are registered for the current session of summer school at the University of Nebraska. Of this group, nine are from Ord, four are from Arcadia, and one from North Loup. Total enrollment here this summer is 1,665.

The students from Ord are: Ralph E. Misko, studying in the college of business administration; Millard D. Bell, working toward the degree of doctor of philosophy; Eldon P. Benda, enrolled as a sophomore in the college of arts and sciences; Wilbur D. Cass, taking advanced courses in the graduate college; Elva C. Johnson, registered for graduate work; Eldon W. Lukesh, sophomore in the college of engineering; Vera M. McClatchey, in teachers college with junior ranking; and Mrs. Marguerite Stark, enrolled as a teachers college sophomore.

At the University from Arcadia are: Ernest Armstrong, taking work toward the degree of master of science; LaVonne Bartley, first year student in the teachers college; Rosa C. Minne, also in teachers college with rank of sophomore; and Clarence C. Thompson, studying in the graduate college. Ethel M. Jefferies of North Loup is registered as a junior in the teachers college this summer.

Horace Davis A Candidate
Horace M. Davis, of Lincoln, filed early last week as a democratic candidate for railway commissioner. Mr. Davis is a former publisher of the Journal, also served as postmaster of Ord at one time, and has recently been employed as a deputy state fire marshal.

LEGION CONCERT WAS POSTPONED UNTIL JULY 25TH

Lincoln, New York Musicians Will Give Benefit Program for Local Organization.

The American Legion's benefit concert for the purpose of raising money to buy uniforms for the Ord high school band has been postponed to Wednesday evening, July 25, the Quiz is informed by Orville H. Sowl, who is assisting Commander Cecil Clark in making arrangements for the big event.

A group of Lincoln musicians, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fuson, famous New York City vocalists and teachers, will give the concert. In the Lincoln group will be Professor and Mrs. August Molzer, violinists; Robert Molzer, clarinet; Victor Molzer, oboe and piano; Clarence Molzer, flute; Arthur Babich, violin; Babich Sisters, aesthetic dancers; Ernest Harrison, piano; Eunice Bingham, violin, and Garnet Mayhew, cello. The concert will be presented at the Ord high school auditorium and nominal admission prices will prevail. Every cent of money taken in will be devoted by the Legion to purchasing suitable uniforms for the Ord high school band.

Appointed to CCC Jobs.

Claude Roe, who has been agriculture teacher at Nehawka, and Lee Chaffield, who has been superintendent of schools at Durand, have been appointed to CCC jobs and last week resigned their teaching positions to accept. Both visited Ord on July 4, after which they left for the Black Hills, where they will be stationed at CCC camps. Mrs. Chaffield is with her husband but will return to Durand to teach this fall.

Rotary Inter-City Picnic Here July 29

The Ord Rotary club, at its meeting Monday evening, decided to issue invitations to other Rotary clubs of central Nebraska to attend an inter-city picnic at Bussell park on July 29. Invitations have been sent to clubs in Grand Island, Broken Bow, Ansley, Loup City, Callaway and Arnold.

Will Convene At Hastings.
Managers and employees of all Food Center stores will convene in Hastings Sunday and after enjoying a banquet will be guests of Food Centers, Inc., at a theatre party. Manager Joe Puncocar and wife and other employees of the local store will attend the convention.

Fred Andersen Visits Ord.
Fred W. Andersen, of Cozad, democratic candidate for Congress, was an Ord visitor Tuesday. This is Mr. Andersen's second visit to Ord during this campaign. A merchant and farm owner at Cozad for many years, Mr. Andersen is familiar with irrigation and its benefits and while here Tuesday stated that he is a great believer in development of the North and Middle Loup valleys in the same way the Platte has been developed near Cozad and Gothenburg.

BOARD PROTESTS GOV'M'T KILLING EDIBLE CATTLE

Supervisors Say Good Animals Killed, Buried, But Denial Made by Federal Agents.

WILL BUY CATTLE AGAIN NEXT WEEK.

Cattle buying by the government will again be in progress at Arcadia next Monday, July 16, and Wednesday, July 18, and at Ord Friday, July 20, County Agent Dale announces. Farmers who expect to sell cattle must have the inventories approved by township committeemen beforehand.

The total bought at Arcadia Monday was 609 head. Two carloads were bought at North Loup Tuesday and about 200 head at Ord yesterday.

Buying will be continued in Valley county as long as a demand for it exists, Dale states.

A protest against federal killing of edible cattle was made by the Valley county board of supervisors, in session Tuesday and a telegram urging an investigation was sent to Governor Charles W. Bryan.

The government started buying cattle Monday at Arcadia as part of the drouth relief program. Tuesday the work was carried on at North Loup, yesterday at Ord and today federal inspectors will be at Elyria.

Cattle that are diseased or too weak and thin to ship are supposed killed and buried on the spot, according to the drouth relief program, but supervisors charge that many cattle being killed and buried are fit for food and could be used to advantage in Valley county's poor relief program.

At Arcadia Monday about 90 head of cows and calves were killed and supervisors who were present say that a number of the calves, although they might not have been strong enough to survive shipment to Omaha, were good, healthy stock and could have been butchered and the meat distributed among families that are now depending entirely upon the county for aid.

"The government makes us levy a big tax for poor relief and then turns around and destroys good meat that would cut down the tax burden if properly used," declares S. V. Hansen, board chairman.

The text of the telegram sent to Governor Bryan Tuesday follows: "Valley county board of supervisors firmly protests present practice by Government Agency in destroying and burying young beef and veal fit for food, instead of allowing use of same for relief of destitute families dependent upon County for food. "Such practice is a sin, a crime, is unjust and inconsistent with present economic conditions and with contract entered into with State Emergency Relief Administration, demanding that County make a 1.93 mill tax levy for Poor Relief Fund.

"Valley county will bear expense of competent veterinary inspectors to determine desirability of such beef for food, if use of same for food is permitted."

County Agent C. C. Dale and O. K. Tickler, Bureau of Animal Industry inspector, who are in charge of the buying in Valley county, denied yesterday that any edible animals have been killed and buried here. Mr. Tickler is a veterinarian and has inspected all animals carefully and says that all cows and calves killed were absolutely unfit for food.

"We are following the regulations of the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Animal Industry," Dale says. "Most of the animals killed were calves from 10 days to a month old, along with a few old, emaciated, diseased cows. I don't know who would want to eat meat like that—I don't believe those on relief in Valley county would care to do so."

All animals that passed inspection by Tickler are being shipped to Omaha where they will be killed and processed by packing houses and later will be distributed to relief agencies over the state, Dale says.

Vanskike Is Speaker At Lodge Annivers'ry

James Vanskike, of Ord, was the principal speaker Tuesday evening when the I. O. O. F. lodge of North Loup celebrated its 49th anniversary. He is the only living charter member of this lodge and his reminiscences of olden days were very interesting. Other speakers included Mr. Jefferson, of Havelland, grand master of Nebraska I. O. O. F. lodges, and E. O. Helbig, Burwell, deputy state installing officer. Mr. Helbig installed Will Cox as noble grand and Billings Clark as vice noble grand for the coming year. Fifty-two people were present in all, including 21 visitors from Ord, Burwell and Ericson.

No. Loup Project Killed By Politics, Bryan Will Charge in Speech Friday

Robbers Arrested At Keystone Admit No. Loup Burglaries

The men who robbed elevators and depots at North Loup, Scotta and Burwell a few weeks ago are now in the state penitentiary, Sheriff George Round is advised by Union Pacific Detective Fitch, who assisted in their capture at Keystone, Nebr., last week. The men made a full confession in which they admitted the local burglaries.

A. C. Kelley, alias S. M. Madden, Elmer Hastings and Walter Scott each was sentenced to serve five years in the penitentiary, before a district judge at Ogallala. A fourth man was paroled for two years.

The men committed several burglaries in western Nebraska and were arrested after robbing the treasurer's office at Keystone, Sheriff Round is informed.

SIGNING OF CORN-HOG CONTRACTS STARTS TODAY

Eureka Township Signs First, Others To Follow; Money Payments Expected Soon.

Final signing of the corn-hog contracts starts today at the schoolhouse in Dist. 44, Eureka township, and contract signing in other townships of Valley county will follow quickly. The allotment committee hopes that the work may be finished by July 21 and that cash payments will come soon after that date.

Signing dates and places allotted to other townships are as follows: Geranium, Friday, July 13, at National hall.

Elyria, Saturday, July 14, at town hall.

Noble, Saturday, July 14, at Brick schoolhouse.

Michigan, Saturday, July 14, at county agent's office, Ord.

Other townships will be signed up in the following order, on dates to be announced later: Ord, Springdale, Liberty, Vinton, Enterprise, North Loup, Arcadia, Yale, Davis Creek, Independent. All contract signers will receive cards telling the time and place of signing.

Landlords are urged to make a special effort to sign contracts as soon as they have been signed by the producer. This will hurry up the time of payment, the allotment committee says. Landlords may sign either on the day contracts are sent to the township for the producer to sign or at the county agent's office at any time other than the day on which the contracts are not at the office.

Final approval of Valley county's allotment has been given and the much needed checks should be on the way to Valley county farmers shortly after signing is completed.

Ord Kittenball Team Wins Twice

The Ord All-Star Kittenball team representing the city league, defeated Central City Sunday evening, 3 to 2, in the first round of the St. Paul invitation tournament in which a number of the fastest teams in central Nebraska are competing. Tuesday evening the Ord team beat the St. Paul Lucky Dogs 7 to 3 and thus go into the semi-finals tonight.

Behind the fine pitching of Dr. Lee Nay, the All-Stars are playing real kittenball, fielding well and getting the hits when they count. It is likely that Ord will play Albion in the first game at St. Paul tonight, as the Albion boys, who have been the sensation of the tournament so far, were regarded as sure winners in their semifinal tilt last evening. If successful in beating Albion at 7:30 tonight, the Ord All-Stars will play in the tourney finals later in the evening.

Burwell Legion Is Sponsoring Exhibit

This year is the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Burwell and in commemoration the Burwell Legion and Auxiliary have decided to sponsor an exhibit of historic relics, the same to be on display in stores of Burwell while the annual rodeo is being held. Quiz readers who have such relics they are willing to loan for the exhibit are invited to communicate with any member of the Legion or Auxiliary at Burwell.

INSIDE STORY OF DIRTY WORK TO BE EXPOSED

Nebr. Chief Executive Blames Mullen and Burke; To Speak At Bussell Park 8 P. M.

Who was responsible for the North Loup power and irrigation project being rejected by the Public Works Administration when less meritorious Nebraska projects were approved?

People of the valley would like to know and they will be told Friday evening by Governor Charles W. Bryan in the course of a speech at Bussell park, Ord, starting at 8 o'clock.

Governor Bryan will tell the "inside story," he promises, and will produce evidence to show that Arthur Mullen, national committeeman for Nebraska and self-styled democrat "boss" of this state, was directly responsible for the project being disallowed by the PWA. Congressman E. R. Burke also had a hand in killing the project, Bryan will charge.

The Nebraska governor is starting his campaign for the democratic nomination for United States senator. He will speak at Loup City in the afternoon and then come to Ord for a speech at 8 o'clock. Ralph W. Norman, chairman of the Valley county democratic central committee, is making all arrangements and promises ample seating space for all on the kittenball field where Governor Bryan will speak under the floodlights.

A sensational exposure of the political maneuvering that resulted in rejection of the North Loup project is promised by Governor Bryan, who is a bitter enemy of Mullen, who has sworn to "run Bryan out of Nebraska politics." To accomplish this purpose Mullen is backing the candidacy of Congressman Burke for senator against Bryan. The governor's speech here Friday evening will have far-reaching political significance for he promises to tell the facts about the North Loup project without mincing words.

Governor Bryan has spoken in Ord on several occasions and the crowd that will hear him tomorrow night will probably be the largest ever gathered to hear a political speech here. Everybody is interested in the North Loup project and wants to know why it was killed and by whom. Governor Bryan says he has made an investigation, he has the facts and will reveal them here tomorrow night.

Auble's Celebrate 51st Anniversary

Forty-three relatives gathered at the Jay Auble home July 4th to celebrate the 51st wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. D. Auble. The extra year was just thrown in for good measure. "Date was fighting grasshoppers in Dakota last year so the celebration could not be held at that time.

All five children and their families were present together with three sisters, one brother, and a nephew and family of Mr. Auble.

Mr. and Mrs. Auble were married at Lincoln, Nebr., July 4, 1883. In the spring of 1885 they moved in a covered wagon to Lincoln county, near Arnold, Nebr., and took up a homestead, living there 3 years and then moved to Arnold where Mr. Auble worked in a store. In 1888 they moved on the Ernest Coals farm southwest of Ord which was their home until 1906 when they moved to Ord which has been their home since, with the exception of a year spent in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Auble were always interested in music and for many years Mrs. Auble conducted singing classes in the different school houses and churches of Mira Valley and could always be depended upon to furnish music for funerals or any community gatherings.

The out of town relatives were a daughter, Mrs. Lou Schwane, and family from Scottsbluff; three sisters of Mr. Auble, Mrs. Beckwith of Callaway, Mrs. Frank Laverty of Omaha, and Mrs. Goodenow of Gandy, a brother, Abe Auble and wife from Arnold; a nephew and family, Myron Auble from Gandy; and Mrs. Dick Mahan from Callaway.

Other relatives were L. J. Auble, A. J. Auble, Mrs. Jake Severns, Glen D. Auble, and their families of Ord. The afternoon was spent with musical numbers, readings, and the singing of old songs. The two sons-in-law, Lou Schwane and Jake Severns staged a jig contest that was very interesting.

A YOUNG MAN BEST.

Forty years ago today, on a homestead adjoining Harrison, in the northwest part of this state, Clarence Davis was born. He has resided in Ord for the past fifteen years, practicing as a lawyer. He is now a candidate for the Republican Nomination for Congress from the Fifth District.

A Congressman should be old enough to have experience and judgment, and be able to have his youthful enthusiasm tempered with age and experience. He should be young enough to have not outlived his youthful pep and ambition and still be able to grasp newer ideas and put them across.

The age of Clarence Davis is ideal for this position. He is in the prime of life. If he satisfies the majority of the electors of this District, after he is elected, he could serve the District for a number of years to come and give the District the benefit of his experience.

He is acquainted with the problems of all parts of the District. He has had law business in many of the counties of the Big Fifth. His legal training would be of great assistance to him in Washington. Too many of our Congressmen have passed the sphere of greatest usefulness because of their advanced age. While well equipped with experience and judgment, some of them lack the fire of youth to put their ideas and plans for their constituents across.

his son or any of us. Last year when he was here he sawed a large pine tree up for firewood. He was raised in the timber country of Indiana and still swings an axe like a real woodsman. I have never seen him out on the lake fishing yet though.

Ray Luther has his deer camp set up and I was up and saw it this forenoon. It is 18x24 with gable roof, has a couple of glass windows and is, I am sure, very comfortable in zero weather. It is built in sections, the frame being of 2x2 jackpine stuff and it is covered with heavy canvas about an eighth of an inch thick. It is 6 feet wide and is used by a paper mill in the making of paper. Ray got a discarded one and it is just the thing for his camp. The frame-work is bolted together with 3-8 inch bolts when the camp is set up. It is loaded onto a truck along with the other camping material, a large truck load in all, and thus transported to the hunting grounds in the woods north of Ord, way up northwest of lake Superior some 200 miles from here. A heating stove is included in the outfit. Last season 14 people lived in this camp during the deer season. Bunks wide enough for three people are made from poles, double decked, a couple of bales of straw is taken along to put on top of the poles and pine boughs and while there are no springs, a very comfortable bed is made, say the hunters. It is the kind of a camp that I will stay in if I decide to accept Ray's invitation for next fall. They go every year, about the same bunch from here, and so far, have never failed to bring home their deer for each member of the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gross of Albion are expected here some time this afternoon. Their son Truman and family are here now and will remain until Sunday.

Some Iowa people are in the Simpson cottage and say they have spent a week wandering around the lake region and until they came here yesterday, they had been unable to get any fish. They had plenty of fish for supper last night and think this is a wonderful place.

A lot of people around here who voted for Roosevelt, say they are going to switch this fall and vote the republican ticket.

H. D. Leggett.
P. S. Sunday July 8.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Gross drove in about 9:30 last night. They struck soft gravel down at Luxemburg, south of St. Cloud and their car rolled clear over, lighting on its wheels. In spite of their injuries they drove on to camp over 100 miles. Truman Gross called Dr. Gelow who gave first aid, after which Mr. Gross was taken to a hospital in Brainard. He had one ear torn half off and a bad scalp cut, besides numerous other cuts and bruises. He was brought back this morning and is feeling as well as would be expected. Mrs. Gross is lame, bruised and sore but both are expected to be as well as usual after a few days rest. Shatter-proof glass in their car probably saved them from severe cutting. The top is pretty well torn off and fenders bent but running gear not injured.

Care of The County Board, Ord, Nebr.

North Loup, Nebr.

Dear Jake:
A few of your constituents were chaffing on the street corner about the brawl at Loup City. We all concluded that the whole affair was an outrage, in a land where all men are created free and equal. I did not want to blicker. We parted with the conclusion that everything must be done to suppress any such affairs in our staid old Valley County.

I guess that I must be dumb. Even after that curb investive, there were a few points that I did not have settled clearly in my cranium. The old adage of "all men are created free and equal" lingered. Jake, look up in your supervisor's library and tell me why one kid should inherit a good farm, or a factory, or a million dollars, and the next boy, whose father was not so crafty, or so lucky, inherits nothing. Neither boy had anything to say about how much property his father was able to gather together.

Another point that was a little shady up in my torpid noodle is why one man, or a group of men shall be able to control, by mere act of ownership, the necessities of life, (such as oil, wheat, water power, clothing etc.) and keep them from the hungry mobs, merely because of his own whim, or for speculation. He may say, "pay the price or starve," and our laws protect him.

And then Jake, I wish you would investigate a little among your colleagues and see if you can decipher why it is that we have such surplusage on the one hand and so many hungry people on the other.

Another little point that bothers me now and then is that the guests at the Boston Tea Party were called acrid names, like Reds and Bolsheviks, by the ruling powers. Pat Henry was a revolter against the king, and if George Washington had not been such a good scrapper, he and a quite a few other smart men would have been tried and hung at sunrise. We are all glad that they had nerve enough to tell the sovereign, who was unjustly treating them, to go to ----.

Very respectfully,
Geo. G.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

This counn continues to need help badly, so if you have any prize recipes, please send them in at once.

Hot breads are always delicious, and add a substantial and attractive touch to any meal, lifting it out of the ordinary. Easy to make, they are not expensive either if you use the oven to bake some other things too.

May we print some of your prize hot bread recipes?
Gingerbread is a favorite in most households. Whether you like to eat it hot with butter as bread, or whether you ice it and decorate it for dessert makes no difference. It is good either way.

Gingerbread.
Combine one cup molasses, one beaten egg. Add two and one-half cups flour alternately with one rounding teaspoon soda, one cup sour cream. Put in one-half teaspoon nutmeg, one-half sup sugar, one teaspoon ginger, salt to taste.
Mrs. John Dobberstein.

Cheese Straws.
Sift together three times two cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, a pinch of pepper. Work into this one-third cup butter, one cup grated cheese. Beat one egg light, add one-half cup milk, stir into the mixture and work smooth. Roll out into a sheet one-fourth inch thick and cut in sticks two inches wide and four inches long. Bake in hot oven. These are excellent with a salad course, or with soup.
Mrs. Harry Walkemeyer.

Honey Date Strips
Mix one cup honey with three well beaten eggs. Add one and one-third cups flour which has been sifted with one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon baking powder, then put in one cup chopped dates and one cup chopped nuts. Place the mixture in a flat pan one-fourth inch thick. Bake in a moderate oven, 325 degrees F. for twenty minutes. Cut in strips three inches by one-half inch. Roll in powdered sugar or powdered sugar icing.
Mrs. B. Mulligan, North Loup.

Baked Brown Bread.
Mix two cups whole wheat flour, one cup white flour, one cup corn meal, two teaspoons soda, one teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon salt, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup molasses, two and one-half cups sour milk, two table-spoons melted fat. Pour into two greased loaf pans and let rise fifteen minutes. Bake fifty minutes in a slow oven.
Mrs. Alfred A. Wiegardt.

Cut in small pieces one large orange, one grapefruit, one lemon, and add one cup water for each cup of the fruit mixture. Let stand overnight. Boil ten minutes and let stand overnight again. For every cup of the mixture add one cup of sugar. Cook slowly until right consistency. This makes five glasses.
Mrs. O. E. Wesenberg, Omaha.

A Hundred in the Shade

Something DIFFERENT

Someone whom Clarence Davis did not represent in court, in fact some man whose case he opposed, evidently thought Davis did a good job of opposing. In fact he took such a violent dislike to Mr. Davis that he paid for an ad to run in the Burwell Tribune, thanking several men who had said they would not vote for Our Mr. Davis of Ord. A kind of back-handed flattery, you might say.

Inspired by the tales of heat that would pop corn, the following little poem was written by a Cotesfield man:

Little White Lies.
The sun came beaming from the skies,
Induced Ben Gasst to tell white lies,
It was so hot he did declare,
It killed a horse and scorched his hair.

So hot no more the hoe he'll wield,
It popped the corn out in the field.
We're getting close to hell, I fear,
When it pops the corn upon the ear.

And Mr. Gasst you'd better pray,
And tell the truth some future day,
Or when on earth you've hoed your row,
To a hotter place than this you'll go.

And in that region far below,
You'll find no shade, nor wind or snow,
And when down in that sweltering pool,
The earth to you might seem quite cool.

But if your ways you will amend,
To a cooler clime you might ascend.
But to the world I wish to say,
That Gasst has always been that way.

If you knew him for 30 years,
You'd close your mouth and plug your ears.
And then you'd hear some neighbor sigh,
Sure, Sure, big Ben would tell no lie.

Old Mr. Headley, friendly fisherman of the Cedar river country, who confided to parties he was guiding last year that he "had a misery in his stomach," just passed away at an Omaha hospital. Stories of his death say he had stomach ulcers. Undoubtedly he did have a misery in his stomach.

Two daughters of the J. S. Vodelnal family had narrow escapes the Fourth. Apparently it was an unlucky day for them to auto out. Stacy, who works in Grand Island, was travelling in a car that collided with a truck, and issued from the accident with a kink in her back, as well as a gash in the same spot. How she avoided a lot of injuries from flying glass is a mystery.

A sister, Mrs. Albert Volf, took part in an even bigger and better accident. In Comstock that day, three cars drove into one another, but none were seriously hurt.

Mrs. O. E. Johnson in a moment of childishness caught the measles from one of her children recently, and has been enjoying them in the usual way.

Valley county has so many candidates now, and several of them have original ideas on vote getting. John Misko advertised that he would kiss all babies between 16 and 90, but Harry McBeth, not so flakey, went John one better, declared he was going to favor with a kiss all females over 16. He left

NEWS, NOTE AND COMMENT

By W. W. HASKELL

Three Theories Advanced.
I was talking with a bright young Ord lawyer the other day about the law's delays and the difficulty and cost of getting justice in our civil courts and the ease with which criminals escaped punishment. He advanced the surprising theory that all these things would be remedied if the lawyers were given a free hand to remedy the evils. This theory does not coincide with mine, but I give it for you to ponder over. A few hours later I was talking with Claude Romans, who, you know, does a lot of independent thinking and not a little writing on economic subjects. He advanced the theory that the accumulation of wealth into the hands of a few and the other strifes that are waging between the rich and the poor, will be done away with when the right of appeal from the decisions of our lower courts is removed. His idea is that of a common citizen in Valley county having difficulty with a big manufacturer in the east, could bring his action in our local court, compelling the rich firm to fight his case here and abide by the decision, making it impossible to have a case carried on into the state supreme and the federal courts, which of course are the rich man's courts. I record this view so that you may ponder over it.

Now ponder over this: Suppose that all decisions by other courts were barred so that all law libraries were made into so much junk. Suppose the services of lawyers were forbidden in most cases. John Jones has trouble with his neighbor or the International Harvester Co. He goes to the justice of the peace or the county court and states his case, which the officer makes record of. A day for arbitration is set and both parties are notified to appear. The court hears the other side of the case. If witnesses are necessary they are brought in and the court examines them, trying in the simplest way possible to get the facts. If either party thinks that the court has overlooked some matter he may say so and the court will cover the point, but he alone can examine the witnesses. The court then tries to get the parties to agree as to what is just and right. If agreement is impossible he renders himself more leeway, not stipulating any top age. Crowd up, ladies. We will build a fence around these two fellers if necessary to keep them from being trampled in the rush.

Nebraska democrats are having a heck of a time settling their various and sundry family rows so it may be cruel to suggest that Congressman Burke, who wants to be senator, should be arrested for violating the franking privilege. It is estimated that he sent out as of June 24, about 300,000 franked letters to the voters of Nebraska, none of which were mailed under that privilege. They were not "Public Documents" as they purported to be, but purely a political advertisement. Not counting the cost of the envelopes and the paper the mailing of them cost the government some $9,000. The penalty, plainly printed on each envelope, for such violation of the law is a fine of $300 for each letter. If convicted, the matter would cost Mr. Burke about $9,000,000 fine, which is more than the senator job would be worth to him.

L. D. Bailey & Son bought the Penslar pharmacy from Mr. Brown and took charge at once.

The Quiz and the Journal were involved in a bitter fight over whether or not Ord should enter into a contract with Mr. Archibald to sink two tubular wells. The Journal was upholding the city council's desire to sink the wells and the Quiz was proclaiming it a waste of public funds. (Several columns of bitter comment on this matter were being published each week.)

The Ord Women's club was backing a move to place a Carnegie library in Ord but had to raise $12,000 to do it.

The big team belonging to Will Moses ran away and threw the driver, Jim Jewett, out and broke three of his ribs.

Frank Vavra, aged 71, was hit by the C. B. & Q. train as it pulled into town. The aged man had been up town after a ball of beer, as was his custom each evening, and was crossing the tracks back of the Ravenna creamery. Hit by the cowcatcher and thrown off the tracks, he suffered severe bruises but no bones were broken.

Arthur Bowling Files.
Arthur Bowling, of Merriman, filed early last week at Valentine as a republican candidate for congress, 5th district. Mr. Bowling is executive vice president of the Nebraska Good Roads association and recently visited Ord and organized a Valley county good roads unit.

United Brethren Church.
"Men ought always to pray and not to faint," thus spoke Jesus. Now if men ought always to pray it means in His view men are always liable to "faint." For prayer no less than fainting is a collapse. Fainting is falling back; prayer is falling forward. Fainting is sinking down into nothingness; Prayer is casting oneself upon God.—British Weekly.

"God" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches for Sunday, July 15.

The Golden Text is from Revelation 7:12: "Blessing and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honour, and power, and might, be unto our God forever and ever."

A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from Lamentations 3:22, 23: "It is of the Lord's mercies that we are not consumed, because his compassions fail not. They are new every morning: great is thy faithfulness."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "All substance, intelligence, wisdom, being, immortality, cause, and effect belong to God. These are His attributes, the eternal manifestations of the infinite divine Principle, Love. No wisdom is wise but His Wisdom. no truth is

Today's Live News For Fat Folks

3 Great Letters Read Them All

From all over the country—north—south—east—west come letters of praise for the world's safe and healthful enemy of fat—don't miss these 3 letters.

"I am using Kruschen Salts on advice of my doctor. Have used three bottles and lost 15 lbs., and gladly recommend it to all my friends." Mrs. G. W. Bryant, Foxboro, Mass., 1934.

"I am using your Kruschen Salts for constipation and reducing. Have taken 3 jars and have lost about 20 lbs. I can recommend it to be great." Miss A. J. Harber, Pineville, Ky., 1934.

"I have taken 3 bottles of Kruschen. I weighed 256. I reduced 56 lbs., and felt better each day, have got my 4th bottle." Ed Jordan, Leavenworth, Ariz., 1934.

If you are proud of your double chin and bulging abdomen don't take Kruschen Salts. Ed Jordan made up his mind to take off 50 or more pounds of fat—and he did—Ed was sick and tired of lugging it around with him—persistence won for Ed as it will for any fat man.

A half teaspoon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—get Kruschen at any drug store.

North Loup News

Coming as a complete surprise to her people as well as her friends was the announcement early this week of the marriage of Miss Maxine Knapp only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knapp of this city to Mervin Scott, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Scott of Scotia.

The young people left Maxine's home early Monday morning of June 4 to attend the commencement exercises at Central City college, however cupid had different plans for them and directed them to Smith Center, Kansas where a license was secured and a wedding ceremony performed by Judge Chas. Buell of Smith county at 1 o'clock p. m. The young couple returned via Central City where they ate supper and spent the evening with friends. The bride has been a resident here most of her young life, graduating from the high school with the class of '32. She has been her mother's chief assistant and is well qualified in the arts of house keeping, and is one of North Loup's most prim and popular young ladies.

Mrs. Scott and not Maxine Knapp presented most capably an address at the Alumni banquet a few weeks ago.

The groom is a graduate of the Scotia schools of the class of '32 and since his father's serious illness when he was injured in an auto accident more than a year ago, Mervin has been the family right hand man.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott will have rooms in the groom's parents spacious farm residence seven miles southeast of Scotia and will be at home to their friends in the near future.

Kenneth Koelling had the misfortune to run off the high grade just east of the corner intersection at Midvale last Sunday night, upsetting his car but fortunately no injury to the occupants and small damage to the car which was taken home Monday morning.

Leslie Leonard shipped cattle Monday. Others are disposing of their livestock or taking it to the sand hill pastures. This latter plan has operated disastrously to some through loss of stock in transit or after their arrival in the hills. Joe Marks lost one of his best young horses while having them taken to the sand hills through an accident in which a trucker drove into the herd striking three of the animals, resulting in the loss of the one.

Scattering rains of from 1-4 to nearly an inch have fallen in this territory since last week but the moisture is inadequate for needs in the face of the extreme heat.

Visits this past few days include Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cummins of Davis Creek at the Asa Leonard home last Sunday evening; Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Campbell at the parsonage on last Wednesday evening; the Wantz family at the M. B. Cummins home on Davis Creek Sunday evening.

Morris Rathbun who has spent the past several weeks in Hastings returned to his Midvale home Monday. His brother Neal is expected this week for a visit.

The Wantz family attended a picnic in Arcadia Tuesday of this week.

Will Frien and Orin Kellison threshed their wheat last week and it is reported that the few bushels thus resulting were of good quality. The straw was baled for future use.

MEAT and MONEY-

You don't have to urge a real man to eat meat. He likes it. He knows it provides energy, vigor, health, and steels his nerves. But he can't buy meat without a job. You can put him to work, raise his pay, and advance the market for meat animals by selling on the PRIMARY market. Real buying competition can only exist when ALL stock sells on the primary market. Real competition will bring higher prices - give you more money to spend. That money will create more jobs and keep live stock quotations advancing. You can do your part by shipping to SOUTH OMAHA UNION STOCK YARDS COMPANY OF OMAHA, LTD.

BRISBANE

THIS WEEK

First Break in Germany
The Kaiser's Praise
What Next in Germany?
Vatican Resentment

The dictatorial path of Chancellor Hitler is not as smooth as with his colleagues, Mussolini, Kemal Pasha and Stalin. A few killings, suicides and arrests will not put an end to such violent dissatisfaction, and the world wonders what will happen next.

Old President Hindenburg congratulates all the survivors. Some of the dead may be better off than the living.

According to Universal Service, Roehm, who had fought at the side of Hitler since the beginning, did not commit suicide. Left with a loaded revolver in his prison cell, he refused to kill himself and, after being given "ten minutes more," was shot down by a firing squad.

The former kaiser expresses amazement at Hitler's energy and strength. He says Hitler is "stronger than ever."

It is clear the chancellor does not lack strength of will or swiftness of execution. Before he had seized complete power he predicted "heads will roll." They are rolling, and Hitler's head man, Goebbels, predicts that "more heads will roll."

That the Hitler collapse is to be followed by horrible violence is only too probable. What would come afterward?

Would extreme "red radicalism" come to the front to take control? Would there be that union of Russia and Germany that many Germans advocated immediately after the signing of the Versailles treaty?

The pope's government in the Vatican resents, bitterly, and naturally, the statement that Heinrich Klausener, head of the Catholic Action party in Berlin, has committed suicide. An official of the Vatican recalls that "only recently Klausener made a noble speech to Berlin Catholics, which was read with deepest satisfaction by the Vatican." The Vatican official, quoted by International News Service, adds:

"We must strongly protest against the attempt to camouflage murder as suicide, since the Catholic religion forbids suicide. Militants, like Klausener, would not dream of taking their own lives."
The same official said further: "It is deplorable that, not content with killing their adversary, the brown shirts threw mud at his noble figure."

Rudyard Kipling, not as young as he was, but persistently British and patriotic, writes a new poem which says Non Nobis Domine, meaning "Not Unto Us, O Lord," should the praise be given. This new "Recessional" poem was written for a magnificent pageant celebrating England's marvelous recovery from the big war and depression and dragging in the defeat of the armada. Kipling might have written, but did not write: "Non Nobis Domine—Give the praise to our goose-like friend Uncle Sam, for without him sending us billions of dollars, and quietly accepting our default, we should not be so well off."

This great nation, as mild as a sick white mouse concerning the gigantic defaulted debts of France and England, is roaring like a first-class lion at Germany's default. It must be a great comfort to find some one to whom you dare speak plainly.

Senator McAdoo, praising President Roosevelt, says, "Rugged individualism is dying." If that were true, it would be a sad thing for the country, because some necessary things white rabbits cannot do. If rugged individualists had died earlier, there would be no tunnels from New York to New Jersey, under the North river. McAdoo cut them there, and it was a rugged job.

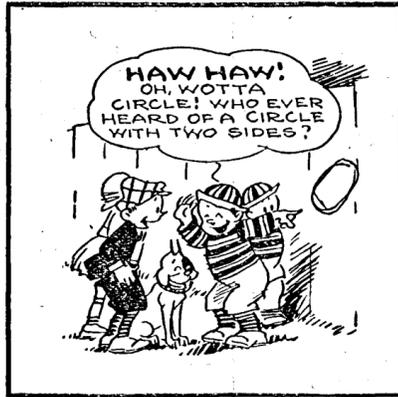

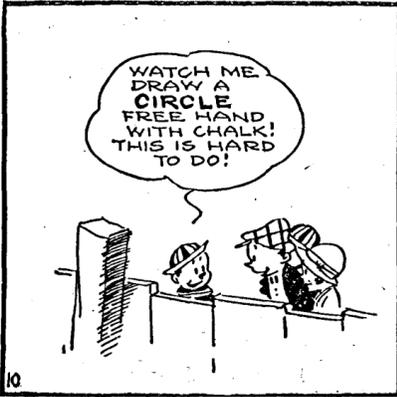

And if there were no rugged individualism left, there would be no President Roosevelt. Any man able to make congress eat out of his hand, and jump through new era hoops, is rugged.

Many old men will read this with sympathy: Fred Schlundt inhaled gas and killed himself in a little furnished room. In his pocket were 6 cents and this note: "Don't try to revive me. I want to be dead. I am over seventy-four."

Before leaving, the President establishes a "steel labor board," consisting of three men, well chosen. This board will deal with the steel strike as "the national longshoremen's board" will deal with the strike of dock laborers on the Pacific coast. Employers and employees are said to have requested the accepted arbitration by presidential boards, but Mr. Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, has not spoken enthusiastically or definitely on the subject.

Mrs. Herman Desel and children and her mother, Mrs. Freda Noyes and son Laverne and Mrs. George Fisk, Grace Brennick and Mrs. Elmer Stevens and son Ralph drove to Ericson Wednesday to spend the day. They enjoyed a picnic also swimming and fishing. Herman Desel and son Maynard and Geo. Fisk and son Tom and Lloyd Axthelm and Chas. and Donald Jeffries were there taking care of their milk cows. While there Laverne Noyes had the misfortune to have a fire cracker explode in his left hand burning and cutting his thumb and two fingers severely. He was taken to Ericson where Dr. Pinckney treated them.

Word has been received from Elmer Stevens who went to Colorado last week that he was working part time at a canning factory as electrician.

Mildred, Doris and Esther McGee visited with the Desel children Sunday morning.

Mrs. Wm. Fuss and daughters, Julia and Elva and Mrs. Elmer Stevens drove to Kearney Saturday and Dorothy Fuss who has been attending summer school there, returned home with them. The crops look fairly good from Sweetwater to Kearney and they had about 2 inches of rain between Pleasanton and Kearney, Thursday. They also had severe winds. Many limbs of trees were blown off and some large trees were splintered off.

Mrs. Herman Desel and children and Mrs. Elmer Stevens and son plan to leave Wednesday for Ericson to camp a few days. Mr. Post of North Loup will take care of Mrs. Desel's place while they are gone.

Mrs. George Fisk visited in the George Jackson home Sunday.

Miss Ellen Stanton and Donald Brennick of North Loup and Bill and Grace Brennick visited in the Desel home Sunday.

EBONY WATERS

It was glorious, walking down on this last day of September, with the red maples coming up like grenadiers from the valley under vast volleys of sunrise; and the academy a black-purple cloud on the hill behind him. The red bright sunlight was on the walls of the deserted village as he reached it.

He entered the church, and was soon on the belfry stairs, which creaked and groaned beneath his weight. When he reached the landing he looked along all the exposed rafters for a key. But no key could he find.

Descending to the church again, he found a key sticking in the keyhole of an old closet in the vestry, and went up the belfry stairs again to try it on the locked door. It fitted snugly, and though it turned the lock with difficulty, it served the purpose. He found himself in a room with four windows facing to the four points of the compass; and absolutely nothing in the place but an old Christmas tree still nailed to its square base of green painted wood. Nearly all its branches had been stripped or torn from it; but enough were left to indicate its character with the aid of a few bits of tinsel, of festive silver and gold. A Christmas tag was still dangling from one of the branches, with a name written on it. He examined it more closely. The name was "Althea Bracebridge." He mused over this poor little memorial some moments—a pathetic signpost pointing back to some long-ago Christmas celebration in this church. But why had the tree been carried up and stored away in the belfry room—instead of thrown out of doors? "Perhaps the boys got hold of it and carried it up here to form a part of their endless ingenuities; I think I'll take the card. Berenice might be glad to have it."

He untied it carefully. He was about to put it in his pocket when he saw that on the back of it was the date of the celebration of which this was perhaps, the old memorial. Calculating back, he made it precisely the Christmas before the accident.

DROUGHT LOANS NOW AVAILABLE IN THIS COUNTY

Jos. P. Barta Will Give Full Information to Farmers Who Need Feed and Seed Loans.

VOTE FOR Harry J. McBeth Republican for CLERK OF DISTRICT COURT Your Support Appreciated!

Governor W. I. Meyers of the Farm Credit Administration announces that loans to farmers and stockmen from the drought relief appropriation to purchase feed for livestock and for production of forage crops in primary drought areas will be available this week. The loans will be made from the $525,000,000 emergency relief fund appropriated by Congress.

The Governor will make relief loans in areas which have been designated as emergency drought areas by the United States Department of Agriculture. The following twelve counties have been officially set up as emergency drought areas in Nebraska: Franklin, Adams, Webster, Clay, Saline, Valley, Howard, Greeley, Sherman, Sioux and Dawes.

The loans will be administered by the emergency crop and feed loan section, Farm Credit Administration and handled thru the emergency crop loan offices since they already have local loan committees established in every county in the drought areas. Special application forms are being sent to these offices this week.

The loans will be made to applicants who, because of the drought, do not have the necessary feed to maintain their livestock and must produce forage crops, and do not have the means or other sources of credit available to obtain such feed or undertake production of needed forage.

The amount loaned to purchase feed for livestock will be limited to a maximum for each head and the loans for production of forage crops will be limited to a maximum amount per acre, such loan limits being determined according to the cost of feed or the cash cost of growing forage crops in the various drought areas. The minimum amount of a loan or advance is $25.00 for either purpose. Loans will not be made to purchase feed for livestock acquired since April 1, 1934.

The promissory notes given by borrowers as security for drought relief loans will mature November 1, 1935, with interest at the rate of 5 1/2 per cent per annum. Interest on the loan until maturity will not be deducted at the time the loan is made.

VOL. 52 NO. 16

SEEK DISMISSAL CO. AGENT DALE AND O. K. TICKLER

Tax League Protests Govern- ment Killing Drouth Cattle At Annual Meeting Saturday.

The Taxpayers League of Valley county, holding its annual session at the district court room in Ord Saturday afternoon, passed a resolution calling for the immediate dismissal of C. C. Dale, Valley county agricultural agent, and O. K. Tickler, veterinarian employed by the Bureau of Animal Husbandry, for their action in ordering 83 head of livestock bought at Arcadia last week in connection with the emergency drouth relief program, killed and buried.

The resolution was proposed by Joe Peterson, of Arcadia, was seconded by O. H. Holmes, and after some discussion was passed by the League members present.

In this resolution it is alleged that Dale and Tickler had promised needy people of Arcadia that, if they would appear at 7:00 p. m., they would be allowed to dress out the hind quarters of cattle ordered killed. When the needy people appeared at the appointed hour the cattle had been buried on the Olcott place 2 1/2 miles north of Arcadia by FERA labor, it is charged. Animals killed were healthy, white faced calves and canner cows "better than the average canners shipped to market," the resolution alleges.

The resolution further provides that in future all cattle bought by federal drouth relief agents be turned over to county supervisors and by them given to unemployed workers and impoverished farmers. Copies of the resolution were ordered sent to all Nebraska congressmen, to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and his assistant, Mr. Tugwell, and also to Governor Bryan.

"The Tax League went off half cocked without having correct information," Agent Dale said yesterday, in referring to the resolution.

"Whoever says that either Tickler or I promised anybody they could dress out any part of these condemned cattle is a liar. Any organization that assumes to represent the taxpayers of Valley county should at least get the facts before passing resolutions, and not do so on wild, irresponsible rumors.

"We were approached by needy persons at Arcadia and asked if they could be permitted to dress out some of these beaves but we told them there could be absolutely nothing of that kind permitted—that animals killed were killed because they were condemned and unfit for human food, just the same as if they were condemned at Omaha or any other market by the Bureau of Animal Husbandry.

"Anyway, neither Dr. Tickler or I would have authority to promise anybody they could use these condemned cattle for food. It would be absolutely contrary to our instructions and to the regulations of the Department of Agriculture. We would be instantly dismissed if we permitted anything of the sort.

The Tax League meeting Saturday was an interesting event and the court room was crowded. Frank G. Arnold, of Fullerton, president of the Nebraska Federation of Taxpayers Leagues, was principal speaker, his topic being "Tax Spending and the Aims of the League." Another interesting speaker was Bert M. Hardenbrook, who explained the Frazier-Lempke bill.

At the annual election of officers Jos. J. Waldmann was re-elected president, A. W. Cornell vice president and C. E. Goodhand secretary-treasurer.

The League decided to circulate petitions to get the proposition of doing away with the Valley County Farm Bureau on the ballot at the general election this fall and also resolved in favor of asking county supervisors to dispend with the county engineer during 1935.

Tom Osborne Visits Ord.
Tom C. Osborne, of Alliance, a candidate for the democratic nomination for Congressman in this district, was an Ord visitor Monday.

Rev. Osborne is pastor of the Presbyterian church at Alliance, is a former state senator and is regarded as a very able man. Two years ago he was only 42 votes behind Terry Carpenter in the democratic primary. He is making a strong campaign and has many friends and supporters in Ord.

—Frank Tedrow came home last Wednesday after a few weeks stay in Denver and other places in Colorado.

North Loup Robbers Held At Columbus

Thelbert Robertson, alias Jimmie Overstreet, and John Horn, alias Ralph Sharr, are held in county jail at Columbus as suspects in a number of Nebraska and Colorado filling station hold-ups, including the robbery of the Texaco station at North Loup during June. They have also been identified as the slayers of a Wakeney, Kas., merchant and may be taken there to answer to murder charges.

The men, accompanied by Ted Smith and Ralph Bartlett, who are under arrest in Denver, drove in to the North Loup station in a Ford V-8 and after ordering the car filled with gas produced guns and looted the cash register. They used similar tactics in robbing other stations all over the middle west, officers say.

Two weeks ago Overstreet and Horn looted a station at Humphrey, Nebr., but wrecked their car while making a getaway and thus were caught by Boyd county officers and taken to Columbus for safekeeping. Overstreet has served time in both the Nebraska and Oklahoma penitentiaries.

Sheriff George Round has been informed by state officers that Overstreet and Horn have confessed to the North Loup holdup and named Smith and Bartlett as their companions. Every major crime committed in Valley county in recent years has now been cleared up, Round says.

$75,000 WILL BE SPENT ON ROADS HERE, IS PROMISE

Paving At Ord and North Loup, Gravel Highway to Ericson, On the Program for 1934.

At least $75,000 will be spent on state and federal highway construction in Valley county during the balance of 1934, Governor Charles W. Bryan promises in a letter received by the Quiz this week. Here is the program:

—Ord—paving on No. 11 north-west of paving already done, estimated cost $10,000.

—North Loup—paving on No. 11 through the village east and west, estimated cost $25,000.

—Ord to Ericson—grading and bridge structures, estimated cost $20,000.

—North Loup—west, grading and paving, estimated cost, $20,000.

These projects have been tentatively approved by Mr. Shoemaker, federal engineer, and will get under way soon. They are being pushed at this time to furnish employment, Governor Bryan says.

From federal aid funds, Nebraska will spend about $3,000,000 on federal highways this year and about $1,000,000 on "secondary" or "feeder" roads. To this will be added about $300,000 from gas tax funds, making highway work in Nebraska cost in the neighborhood of $4,300,000, exclusive of maintenance, in 1934.

Mrs. John Wozniak Passes Suddenly

Farm Woman Felt Fine Monday Morn, Dld Washing and Then Died of a Sudden Heart Attack.

Mrs. John Wozniak, respected farm woman living southwest of Ord, passed away suddenly at 10 a. m. Monday, July 16, as the result of a heart attack. When she arose at an early hour Monday she was feeling fine, Mrs. Wozniak told her family, and she started doing a big washing. Sitting down to rest for a moment, she complained of not feeling well and a few minutes later passed away. She was 65 years old.

Agnes Grabowski was born in Poland May 7, 1869 and came to the United States with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Grabowski, when she was 12 years old. In 1888 at St. Paul, Nebr., she was married to John Wozniak and to them two children were born, George, of Ord, and Leon, of Arcadia. One daughter died in infancy.

A resident of Valley county since 1883, Mrs. Wozniak was a fine woman, generous and kindly to neighbors and friends, a loving wife and mother to her own family. Her sudden death was a great shock, as she had previously enjoyed excellent health.

Funeral services were held at the Ord Methodist church at 10 a. m., Wednesday, July 18, and interment was in Ord cemetery. Rev. Willard McCarthy conducted the last rites.

In attendance at the funeral from out of town were Frank Grabowski, of Elba, a brother of the deceased; Miss Wanda Wozniak, Grand Island; Mr. and Mrs. August Bartu, Comstock; and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Flakus, Burwell.

HARDENBROOK TO MAKE RACE FOR STATE JOB

Accepts Filings for R. R. Com- mission And Will Make An Active Campaign.

Bert M. Hardenbrook, Ord attorney, last Saturday announced that he has decided to accept filings made on his behalf by friends and that he will make an active campaign for the republican nomination for railway commissioner. A former Valley county attorney and president of the Nebraska County Attorneys association for two terms, Mr. Hardenbrook is known all over Nebraska. Two years ago he was a candidate for the republican nomination for attorney general but was defeated by C. A. Sorensen by a narrow margin.

A statement issued by Mr. Hardenbrook Saturday says:

"Some weeks ago petitions were circulated in several counties and filed with the secretary of state requesting that I become a candidate for the republican nomination for railway commissioner. The constitution of this state provides that the powers and duties of the railway commission shall include the regulation of rates, service and general control of common carriers as the legislature may provide by law and for a quarter of a century or more each succeeding Legislature has added additional duties until now the work of the commission is quite complex.

"Since the work consists largely of making investigations and entering orders that are judicial, it would be highly improper to make promises of what you would do until the facts are before you.

"Since the petition has been filed and I have been urged by a large number of my friends to accept same, after due consideration, have filed my acceptance with the secretary of state and expect to make an active campaign for the nomination.

"I favor strict economy in handling the work of the commission and if there are any professional 'bench warmers,' 'utility-minded experts' or 'drones' now drawing fat salaries in the employ of the commission will insist they be discharged and competent servants employed who will be interested in the welfare of the workers and the common people.

"I am interested in capital receiving a fair return on its real investment but am absolutely opposed to the fixing of rates based upon fictitious or inflated values.

"I am in favor of emergency telephone and electric rates being established in stricken areas.

"I am in favor of adjustment of telephone tolls and rentals so that the value of the service shall be a factor in determining the rates.

"I am opposed to the unusual outrageous prices imposed by some of the telephone companies for installing new phones, for changing phones from one place to another, for listing and other sur-charges.

"I am opposed to legislation granting to the Commission authority to fix rates for electrical energy in municipally owned electric light plants.

"I am a lawyer of twenty-five years of experience and promise that if I am nominated and elected as a member of the railway commission that I will at all times use my best endeavor in behalf of the interests of the common people. I shall from time to time further advise the people of the state of Nebraska of my stand upon the work of the railway commission."

Kenneth Wherry to Speak

Kenneth S. Wherry, republican candidate for United States senator, will speak at the Ord sale pavilion at 1:00 Saturday, July 21. Mr. Wherry is a forceful, interesting speaker and business men as well as farmers will want to hear him. He is leading the fight for preservation of interior marketing of livestock and recently made a trip to Washington in behalf of this work. By all means hear Kenneth Wherry.

Admission is only 10c and the proceeds are to be used toward purchasing uniforms for the Ord high school band.

MRS. SARAH DYE GOES TO REWARD

Fifty Year Resident of Valley County Claimed By Death Saturday, July 14.

Mrs. Sarah J. Dye, a resident of Valley county for over fifty years, passed away at 7:00 p. m. Saturday, July 14, at the home of her son, Harry Dye, in Ord. She had been bedfast since eleven weeks ago when she fell and fractured a hip. Of advanced years—she was almost eighty-one years old—Mrs. Dye suffered greatly with this injury, first in the hospital and later at the home of her son where she was tenderly cared for during the last weeks of her life. The extremely hot weather of this summer increased her suffering.

Sarah Brown was born Aug. 10, 1853 in Monroe county, Ohio and grew to womanhood there, being married in Washington county, Ohio, on Oct. 30, 1872 to William A. Dye. They lived in Lancaster, O., for several years and on March 13, 1884 arrived in Valley county, Nebraska to make their home on a farm, where they lived until moving to Ord in 1909. Mr. Dye passed away here several years ago.

Three children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Dye, one daughter, Cora Belle, preceding her parents in death. Two sons, Harry Dye of Ord and Arthur Dye, of Elyria, Calif., are left to mourn, as well as several grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Belle Burnap, of Denver.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 p. m., Monday, July 16, at the Sowl chapel with Rev. Mearl C. Smith of the Ord Methodist church in charge and interment was in Ord cemetery.

In attendance at the funeral from out of town were the following relatives: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dye and daughter, Lois, Elyria, Calif.; Mrs. Chas. Syas, Omaha, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Steinert, Omaha, Miss Eleanor Dye, Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coats, Arcadia.

A very estimable woman who was generally respected and loved, Mrs. Dye will be greatly missed. Always considerate of others, she was a kind mother and a good neighbor and friend.

Irene Pliva Is Wed To Edward Moravec

Tuesday occurred the marriage of Miss Irene Pliva, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Pliva of the National hall neighborhood, to Edward Moravec, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moravec, of Custer county, the ceremony being performed by Judge John L. Anderson in his office. The bridal pair were attended by Miss Alice Moravec and William Moravec, sister and brother of the groom, by Ernest Pliva, the bride's brother, and by her cousin, Miss Alice Wozab. Flower girls were Loraine Volt and Nadine Urban. Mr. and Mrs. Moravec are two of the most popular young people of the Comstock community and in the evening they were honored at a dance in the National hall with an enormous crowd present. They will live on a farm near Comstock.

LEGGETT'S CAMP AT CULLEN LAKE NOW IS HOSPITAL

Mrs. Burke Seriously Sick And Mrs. Leggett Scalds Foot; Fishing Is Good.

Last Wednesday evening about 6 o'clock Editor E. C. Leggett, of the Quiz, accompanied by Mrs. Leggett, their son Kerry and Miss Olga Yodehnal, left by auto for Cullen lake, Minnesota. Their plan was that they would join the H. D. Leggett family there for a few days and then Publisher Leggett would return home to look after affairs of the Quiz while the editor and family enjoyed a couple of weeks vacation. All these plans were upset upon their arrival, however.

CLARENCE DAVIS GOES ON RECORD FOR IRRIGATION

Says Projects in Fifth District Should Be Reconsidered And Allowed Quickly.

Clarence Davis, republican candidate for Congress, left Ord early Monday for points in the southeast part of this district. On Wednesday he will be one of the speakers at the old settlers' day in Callaway. From there he will go to meet western towns in this district.

Now that the filings on the republican ticket are completed it is found that Mr. Davis is the only candidate residing in this portion of the fifth congressional district. There are six other candidates for this nomination. Two reside at North Platte, one at Merriman, one at Gordon, one at Gering and the other at Chadron.

Before leaving Mr. Davis released this statement with reference to the power and irrigation districts in this district:

"I have refrained from any comment upon the way these communities have been treated," said Clarence Davis, "for fear that it might in some way injure our chances to secure these projects. This last congress appropriated a tremendous amount of money for public works in order that the employment might be promptly stimulated. The wisdom of this appropriation is not an issue now. It was done. The people in this and other valleys were led to believe that some seventy-five million dollars was available for projects in this state and that projects, such as these, would be approved, if they were reasonably feasible. As a result these communities have, in a public spirited way, raised money for surveys and incidental expenses. Instead of getting a prompt answer, as contemplated by the act, they have been fooled along with half promises and now, after more than a year, we are told they will not be allowed, at least as asked. Even the Sutherland project, which has been allowed, has been delayed so long, that the very purpose of the appropriations has been partially thwarted. If these projects had been promptly allowed and red tape cut short, it is within the range of possibility that a part of the almost unbelievable effects of this dry season might have been spared the people of this district. The various projects in this district, I believe are sound and there is little or no excuse for the way they have been handled. The way these funds were used should be carefully scrutinized. I favor the prompt and favorable reconsideration of projects in this district."

HENRY C. FALES PASSES AWAY

Well Known Ordite Succumbed To Ailment Friday, July 13, Laid to Rest Sunday.

Henry C. Fales, better known to several generations of Ordites as "Hank" Fales, is dead. He passed away at his home here at 11:45 Friday, July 13, after an illness of four months with cancer, and was laid to rest in the Ord cemetery Sunday afternoon after services in the Orville H. Sowl chapel, with Rev. Willard McCarthy in charge. The impressive I. O. O. F. rites were a part of the funeral service.

"Hank" was born in Ord and his entire life was spent here. A cripple from childhood, he was sadly handicapped but without complaint, indeed with unflinching good humor, he overcame his affliction and became one of Ord's best known and best liked business men. A skillful cook, he operated a restaurant for some years, later taking charge of a laundry route and operating a shoe shining parlor in connection. He was a member of the Odd Fellows and the Modern Woodmen and held offices of trust in both organizations. He was fifty-two years old when he died.

On January 2, 1922 he was married to Mrs. E. M. Gaylord and is mourned by his widow and one stepson, Gilbert Gaylord, of Arcadia. He also leaves a half brother, Ed Fales, of Medicine Bow, Wyo., who was here for the funeral. Other out-of-town relatives and friends in attendance included Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, of Ansley, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hall, Ansley, Mrs. Nellie Anderson, Kathleen and Mildred Anderson, and Bob Lang, all of Mason City, and Mrs. Smith, of Falls City.

Bake Sale Saturday
Ladies of the United Brethren church of Davis Creek will hold a bake sale Saturday, July 21, at the Crosby hardware store. They will also sell dressed chickens.

Ord Kitty-Ballers Lose Semi-Windup To Albion CCC Boys

The Ord softball team, playing in the St. Paul invitation tournament last week, lost their semi-final game Thursday evening to the Kemper team from Albion, the final score being 9 to 1. In the finals later that evening the Albion team lost to St. Paul, 1 to 0, and the St. Paul team thus became tournament champion.

The Ord-Albion clash was a tough one for the local boys to lose, for they got off to a three run lead in the third inning, when Bill Heuck smashed out a home run with two men on bases, and remained ahead until the sixth inning when Albion tied it up, thanks to a bobble by Third Baseman George Finch of Ord. Then Burdorf, of Albion, made a home run with one man on base and before the inning was over Albion, aided by two more errors by Finch, had amassed nine runs.

Ord had a chance to win in the last inning and did score two runs but, with three men on base and none out, the next three hitters each forced a man at the plate.

Dr. Lee Nay, the Ord pitcher, was thought by experts to be the best hurler in the tournament and had been given a little better support would have defeated Albion, as he had their heavy hitters pretty well muffed.

Ord will hold an invitation kit-tenball tournament starting about July 29, the Quiz is informed. Definite plans have not been announced but it is likely that a dozen or more central Nebraska teams will be entered.

HEAT RECORDS BROKEN SUNDAY BY MARK OF 112

Hottest Temperature in History, Says W. A. Anderson; Crop Prospects Look Sad.

The hottest temperature since weather records have been kept in Ord, was registered Sunday when shortly after noon the mercury in Horace Travis' official government thermometer mounted at that mark for some time. The closest approach to this phenomenal temperature was in 1926, when for a single day the temperature reached 110.

W. A. Anderson, unofficial weather observer, recorded the temperature Monday afternoon at 113 degrees but the Travis thermometer registered only 110. Both thermometers agreed on the Sunday high of 112.

Beginning July 11 and continuing for eight consecutive days, the temperature has been 100 degrees or over during the afternoon hours, figures submitted by Mr. Anderson show. Here is the Anderson recording: July 10—90; July 11—100; July 12—109; July 13—108; July 14—105; July 15—112; July 16—113; July 17—109; July 18—105.

The heat Sunday was ushered in by a blazing south wind that began to blow early in the morning and continued throughout the day. This wind is compared by oldtimers to the terrible wind of July 26, 1894, which ruined a corn crop in a single day. There was a difference, however, for in 1894 spring was plentiful in the early spring, a good crop of small grain was harvested, pastures were good during the spring months and until the hot wind started, prospects for bumper crop were good. This summer there was little or no small grain harvested, pastures are dry and brown as in the late fall, alfalfa fields are dying and there will be only a fraction of a normal corn crop even if rain comes, which is most doubtful. The feed situation here is acute and the only hope is that rain will come during August and given a late fall, some fodder crops can be raised.

The drouth situation is now reaching its most serious stage and, unfortunately, weather observers hold forth little hope of substantial, general rainfall.

Federal emergency drouth relief measures are continuing, notably the distribution of feed and seed, although the latter will be useless without moisture. Federal buying of drouth stricken cattle also is continuing. Monday and Wednesday Dr. O. K. Tickler and County Agent C. C. Dale bought cattle in Arcadia, tomorrow they will buy cattle here and next Monday will be at Elyria. The cattle buying program will be continued as long as a demand for it exists. Other drouth relief measures will be inaugurated as they become necessary.

—Mrs. James Milford writes from Minnesota that they expected to be in Winnipeg, Canada on Tuesday. She and Ruth are enjoying the auto trip very much.

—Mrs. Joe Cernik has been enjoying a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Otto Kotouc and family. They left Friday for their home in Humboldt.

POWER INTERESTS FIGHT PROJECT, GOVERNOR SAYS

Power Trust Doesn't Want En- ergy Developed Here to Com- pete with Columbus Project.

That the North Loup river power and irrigation project was killed by the power interests through their politically-powerful attorneys at Washington was the charge made here Friday evening by Governor Charles W. Bryan, who spoke to a crowd estimated at 2,000 under the arc-lights at Bussell park. The power trust controls both the Columbus and Sutherland projects and doesn't want electric energy developed here to be sold in competition with the output of those projects, he said.

"I am greatly interested in water power development," Governor Bryan stated. "Where did you people out here get the first money to make the first surveys? It was through the Bryans. W. H. Thompson and McConahay of Holdrege in 1915 asked my brother to help get an appropriation to develop water power out here. Later it was the Bryans who helped pass a law that would give irrigation canals and reservoirs the right to generate electric power so that they could sell the power to help pay costs of irrigation.

"The power trusts fought S. F. 310 to such an extent it couldn't be passed. I sent for men to come to my sick room and asked them if they knew what this bill meant to them. It was finally passed. If you could buy electricity over the state like we do in Lincoln the difference would pay for all school taxes, in the state, university and everything.

"The power trust employs political attorneys pledging them on percent it would cost to develop this power and buy their influence to be used at Washington.

"Two projects were granted, the Columbus and Sutherland. They said your governor was opposed to them and delayed them—I want to brand that as a falsehood. Your governor was leading the fight to get them carried out. But what happened? The people who were to get the fees and commissions wanted a contract issued making a loan with no restrictions or protection on the matter up with the government and insisted that they put into the contracts provisions to protect the people. That the provision that these companies when they commence to manufacture electricity will be required to offer it in Nebraska selling to people for a reasonable price before they sell it outside the state?

"What else did I want? A provision that they would be compelled, Sutherland and Columbus, to sell that electricity that they were going to sell at wholesale, to every municipal plant in the state as low as they would sell to any other company.

"Soon after the money was allocated for these two great projects, I was informed that you were to get yours allowed. What happened to it? You were going to get it right away but you haven't got it yet, why? I will tell you why, they are opposed to permit you to generate any power to compete with the rest of the power. They are bringing pressure against loans out here. I notice that Mr. Burke stated through the press that he remained in Washington several days and although he couldn't get a loan out here for you that he would be able to get you $700,000 to build canals to put your boys to work, that he would consult Mr. Haynes when he got back to Nebraska—Mr. Haynes is Mr. Hopkins' representative in Nebraska. Mr. Burke was going to make you believe he was coming back to get the $700,000 out of the governor's office and give it to you. I have seen lots of things but that is the cruelest one I have ever seen.

"I am in favor of you developing water but want to warn you against being bought off or bribed. If you don't have the power you can't develop irrigation, it would be too expensive. You have to have the power to sell to maintain the ditches. The farmer cannot afford to pay what he would have to unless power is developed. You have the finest power sites in Nebraska, this North Loup project. If you people fool that away, if you are induced to enter into some kind of an agreement or bargain to destroy that right to generate power and they tell you that they are helping you get irrigation, you are going to be deprived of both because you can't have irrigation by itself successfully. The same crowd is opposing the Tri-County project for the same reason as

THE ORD QUIZ

Ord, Valley County, Nebraska

LOOKING AHEAD.

In Washington Tuesday, President Roosevelt's special water ways committee filed a report, which, if and when realized, means a new Nebraska.

It outlines a 60 million dollar program for the Platte valley, embracing a comprehensive plan for impounding and conserving the waters of the river, with the ultimate aim of diverting them into irrigation ditches, using some for power before they pass to the soil.

The report is of sufficient importance to reproduce in part: "On these lands the humus of the soil has been depleted by preponderance of grain crops. The fertility of the soil has been reduced, and unless steps are taken to remedy these conditions, this agricultural community may soon be faced with abandoned farms and deserted towns."

"In the lower Platte valley, there is sufficient water available to change 800,000 acres of these farm lands into intensively cultivated, irrigated farms which produce food and forage crops that will not add to the troublesome agricultural surplus of crops."

"There is no section of the western Mississippi region that is more deserving of a definite program for the conservation and utilization of the waters, which can be obtained through a canal system, diverting the North Platte waters below the city of North Platte to cover the valley lands on both sides to Kearney and to cover the lands on the divide between the North Platte and the Republican rivers between Smithville and Hastings."

"A million acres could be served. The water would be stored in a series of reservoirs built in the dry tributaries. The first step in the system would be a 45-mile canal from the river at Kearney to the Sutherland reservoir, and a 24-mile canal from the reservoir, with a 161-foot power drop for generation of electrical energy. The water carried through the full length of the canal would then be used for irrigation around Gothenburg and Lexington. The total cost of the entire project would be placed at 60 million dollars."

"That is the program, as it affects the fertile Platte valley, which was presented to the Nebraska state PWA advisory board, approved by it, transmitted to Washington, for final approval there. It moves one step nearer to realization in the report of this water ways committee, named by the president. It becomes a definite, concrete part of the national planning to which this administration has dedicated its energies."

Four other projects, two affecting a Platte tributary, the Loop river, and two in the Republican valley, should and undoubtedly will be included in it. They are the North Loop, the Middle Loop, the Beakeman-Halgier-Arickaree, and the Frenchman. They also cover magnificent farming country, boasting of thousands of farms people, who have put splendid improvements upon their lands, and have helped to build and support solid, substantial towns and cities. They are the center of Nebraska's livestock industry, and their activities in the production of grain crops are incidental only to growing and fattening hundreds of thousands of head of choice cattle and hogs.

In sixty years, the populations of the Platte, the Loups, the Republicans, and the Frenchman valleys, by the sweat of their brows, placed improvements upon these lands now assessed for taxation at more than 200 million dollars. With the land itself included, the assessed wealth of the region runs into the hundreds of millions. It is to conserve this fine settlement, made under adverse conditions, marked by rare qualities of courage, characterized by remarkable industry and resourcefulness, that Washington is asked to adopt for a strictly agricultural state an inevitable step in farming, where generation after generation looks to the soil for its support. For, in time, soil becomes exhausted, as it is being depleted gradually in this state, and the ultimate outcome is either abandonment and removal of the population living there, or replacement of those elements which make it productive.

All that is needed is water. With water, it can be shifted from production of the grain crops which impose such a severe burden upon its fertility, year after year, and turned to alfalfa, timothy, and other grasses, where an acute shortage, it can effect the transition easily, profitably, diversifying its agriculture to such an extent that a new Nebraska will bloom, capable of supporting in decency and comfort a much larger population in the years to come. It will give to a state, which since its birth always has known the dark threat of drouth, the black scourge of withered and burned crops, a measure of security and stability, which those who founded, and built the State of Nebraska never knew. It will transform a region, which today is brown and sear, in which today people are filled with apprehension and doubt, into a smiling green land, before which stretches a certain future.

Sixty or seventy million dollars, is not too much to spend for the happiness of the million and a quarter people, who reside here now; a dominant, virtuous people of intelligent and progressive stock, rugged and wholesome in habits, contributing in an unusual sense to thought and national policy in America.

Out of this region, this great food mill has poured billions of dollars of wealth back over the stretch of the last half century, to augment the wealth of the nation. Always Nebraska has ranked near the top in the production of corn, of wheat, of oats, of sugar beets, of potatoes, of hay, both wild and tame, of cattle, hogs, and dairy products. Always it has been a great market for the products of eastern mills and factories. Always it has added to the financial strength of America. But it has only one resource—its land—and it has drawn on its land for sixty years without replenishing its fertility. If it is to continue the part it has played, it now must reshape its basic industry, so as to provide water for prairies rich in clean black earth, but crying after years of use for the healing touch of water.

Seventy million dollars is not too much to spend on a region 77,000 square miles in physical extent, where people battled grass hoppers and recurring drouths, to build as fine a farm community as may be found anywhere in the United States. It's less than the price of four modern battleships, which in thirty minutes may be sent to the bottom of the sea, to rust and gather moss. And here are more than a million and a quarter people—there easily could be better than 3 millions on the smaller, more intensively farmed irrigated tracts—whose future is endangered as seriously by depleted soil and by constantly decreasing water levels as if an armed enemy confronted them. Nature may wreak greater destruction than the heavy sieges of an invader. Nature may bring greater hardship, more drastic readjustment in the lives of more than a million people, greater suffering and loss, than war.

Seventy million dollars is not too much to spend in the Platte, the Loups, the Republican, and the Frenchman valleys by the standard which Uncle Sam himself established in other regions. From his treasury, 183 million was taken for Boulder dam, to water the Imperial valley of lower California, and small sections of arid Arizona and New Mexico. From his coffers, 60 millions were taken for the upper Columbia. Nebraska is not asking a gift horse. She will pay it back by the same toll with which she added to the wealth of a country. Time does not daily. It runs on through the waking and sleeping hours. This transformation of Nebraska cannot wait indefinitely upon time; it must come now, at the present; or it may come too late to benefit a brave people.—J. B. Lawrence in Lincoln Star.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

25 Years Ago This Week. William Wigent brought a twig off his Whitney No. 20 tree to the Quiz office and it contained a dozen apples. Will said the tree was so loaded with fruit it would have to be propped up to keep it from breaking.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Knapp, who were married in Ord 23 years before, were back on a visit. Mr. Knapp was office manager of the National Biscuit company's Chicago factory and said that the company did a business of over 3-4 of a million dollars per month.

While cultivating corn Charlie Moyer, 10-year-old son of Mrs. Wm. Higgins of Arcadia, received some very serious wounds. His team of mules ran away and he was hurt badly before his uncle, David Todd, could come to his rescue.

Mrs. Jess Baird, Mrs. Florence Hall and the Misses Nellie and Dora Bradt were out riding in the north part of town. Their team became frightened and the ladies were considerably scared when the team got out of control. Mrs. Baird received a deep cut on the nose and Dora Bradt suffered a nervous shock. The buggy was demolished.

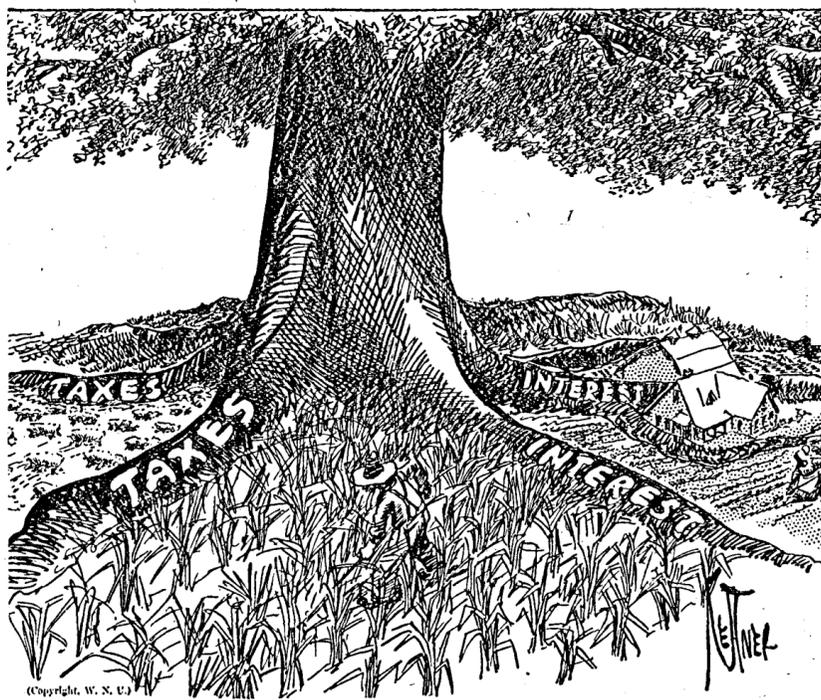

Mrs. Harry Bailey was at the station to meet her sister, Miss Jane Johnson, who was matron of a government Indian school in Minnesota.

20 Years Ago This Week. Several fine new threshing outfits had been purchased by men in the Ord vicinity and were being unloaded off a railway car.

The home of John Vozgal was broken into and some money and clothing stolen.

Employing two new players, the Ord baseball team came to life and defeated Central City, 4 to 2. Ky Castle pitched his usual good game.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Bananas are a lot of help to cooks. They rate as a plea for the children, as a vegetable, as a dessert, as part of a salad, and they are nourishing enough to fill out an otherwise rather barren meal and make it filling and substantial.

Often on sale at a bargain, bananas are not so expensive either. They are available the year around. Doctors now say there is nothing better for the baby than mashed banana, any age after three months. Do you utilize all the possibilities of this fruit?

And will you send us your best recipes for using bananas, please? We need them, and many other cooks will try your recipe and thank you, too.

Banana Pie. Make a boiled custard as follows: scald two cups milk, add two egg yolks which have been beaten with one-fourth cup sugar and one-eighth teaspoon salt. Add vanilla to taste and three teaspoons flour which was dissolved in a little cold water. Cook over water until the back of a silver spoon inserted comes out coated thickly. Now peel three bananas, quarter and put them in a baking dish. Add four tablespoons sugar, one-fourth cup water and bake until the fruit is a light brown. Remove from the oven, add two cups shredded cocoanut, one teaspoon vanilla and two cups of the boiled custard. Pour the mixture into a previously baked pie crust and top with this meringue: Beat two egg whites until stiff, adding two tablespoons sugar gradually. Spread on pie and bake fifteen or twenty minutes in a slow oven, until delicate brown.

Baked Beans. Here's a quick way to prepare baked beans in this hot weather: Place half of a large can of pork and beans in a baking dish, cover with two or three strips of bacon. Sprinkle with a large tablespoon brown sugar and about one-fourth cup catsup over the bacon, add the remaining beans and do the same with more bacon, brown sugar and catsup. Bake about twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven.

Cheese and Nut Fondue. Pour two cups of milk over two cups fresh bread, one cup ground cheese, one cup walnut meats, one teaspoon salt, four tablespoons melted butter. Stir well and let soak while beating three eggs, to which add one teaspoon baking powder. Fold into the first mixture. Set baking dish in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until set. Serve with tomato sauce.

Graham Cracker Torte. Roll twenty-four graham crackers, mix with four tablespoons melted butter, use half of it to line a good sized pie tin. Make a boiled custard with one quart boiled milk, four beaten egg yolks, one cup sugar, four rounding tablespoons cornstarch. Cook until thick, pour into the pan lined with cracker crumbs. Cut one package of dates and put over the custard. Beat four egg whites and one-fourth cup sugar. Put this over dates, add one-half cup chopped nuts and use the balance of the crumbs to cover over all. Bake fifteen to twenty minutes in a slow oven. Serve with whipped cream.

Care of The County Board, Ord, Nebr.

Dear Jake: It is getting to be about time to sort out our sows for fall farrowing. The question arises as to what constitutes the fecundity of a good sow. We use to think that the sow that would raise ten pigs was the one to keep. Honors have been given to men who would raise a ton of pork in six months from one mother hog. How times have changed. Now we should sort out and save the sow that farrows three pigs and then lays on two of them. Make one blade grow where two grew before.

Here is a little curb philosophy. Banks were being discussed. One man said in reference to borrowing, "Many of us do not feel very sorry when banks are robbed. That is about the only way to get any money out of them and get it in circulation."

Another added, "It seems impossible to stop these bank robberies. I think we had better repeal the law." Sounds like a prohibitionist.

Then another genius piped up, "I have found that Russian thistles are about the only things that do well on a dry year except the interest on the mortgage."

The fourth concluded, "There are quite a few people that have to be taken care of in the lean years as well as the good. Bankers, mortgagees, commission men, politicians for example."

Such persiflage, I will not tell more of it as the banter soon led to prevarications and more, you being a political wheel horse, those remarks might hurt your feelings.

Changing the subject a little, let me ask you a personal question. What is there about the supervisor's job that causes so many men to throw their hat in the ring? Is it the pay or is it the honor?

Respectfully, Geo. G.

P. S. The flunking out on the hog contracts by the government isn't making any more votes for the democrats or for the committee members either.

The Jolly Juniors 4-H Club. The Jolly Juniors met at the home of Phyllis Ann Dodge, Wednesday, July 11. Six members were present. Making a button hole was demonstrated by Vera Severns. For the next meeting each member is to make a button hole and they will be judged. The next meeting will be held at the home of Vera Severns, July 20. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Eagles, Ospreys, Crows Morgan's Corsair Sails What Is Wrong? Three Better Things In Alberta's huge Jasper park, Fred Brewster, a Rocky mountain guide, watches eagles and ospreys, also called "fish hawks," sitting on the high limbs of a tree, eagles at the top, ospreys below, and still lower down plain crows, all watching the lake. An osprey drops, bringing up a fish. Two eagles pursue, the frightened osprey drops the fish. The eagles try to catch it, usually fail. The crows, flying close to the surface, in a body, never fail, always get the falling fish and enjoy it.

There you have our civilization upside down. With us, those nearest the ground get the least, those next above get a little more, and those at the very top get practically everything.

J. Pierpont Morgan of Broad and Wall streets ordered his big yacht, Corsair, to his front door on East Island, and will cross for a short vacation in England.

Once such a trip might have aroused envy, but no more. The traveling salesman, the "lady buyer" for a department store, almost any body, may cross on a bigger, faster, finer boat than the Corsair at a very reasonable price.

The wise socialism is that which gives to the big crowd bigger and better ships, parks and hotels than any individual, no matter how rich, could afford for himself.

Also, among Americans of the right kind, a man and woman take pride in improving their own little house or boat, wasting no time in foolish envy of others. There is no real happiness of possession, except in what we earn.

What is the matter with this country, swindled by assorted gangs of politicians, robbed by innumerable gangs of grafters, racketeers, highwaymen, degraded by indecent moving pictures and other entertainments, the public peace and faint sign of returning prosperity imperiled by strike troubles and violence?

Has the United States become a sort of "western China," unable to take care of itself? In what direction is it headed?

President Roosevelt, warmly welcomed by marching, singing and praising citizens in Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands, hoped to make the New Deal reach every corner of the United States, saying: "I believe in better homes, better living conditions, and a better chance to earn a living."

Everybody believes in those things, and since the beginning of history, and long before, has been trying to get them.

The question is how to provide those things permanently.

The widespread attack on disgracefully immoral moving pictures has compelled those that trade in indecency to take their minds off the box office for a moment and consider a serious danger. The crusade against indecency, led by the Catholic church and directed by the Archbishop of Baltimore, who began the crusade, has been joined by Jewish synagogues and rabbis, and now many Protestant bodies have decided to take part.

Rudolph Hess, representing Hitler, and speaking as "a soldier of the front," suddenly changed, in his broadcast from German to French, and appealed to the old enemy across the line not to make necessary the building of new trenches, urging that trench life is not pleasant.

Herr Hess might have added in his speech: "While our German troops never reached Paris in all the four years of the last war, remember that German airplanes would reach there in the first two or three hours of the next war and a few hours later not one of the great monuments of Paris would be left standing; not Notre Dame, the Madeleine or the beautiful Sainte Chapelle."

Bombing airmen will not spare monuments dearest to the enemy.

Everything would run smoothly if all the United States representatives and senators felt as G. Bryant of West Virginia feels. A candidate for congress, his platform reads: "I am behind President Roosevelt all the way. I'll jump off the top of the Washington monument if he wants me to."

A solid house and senate like that would make Fascism unnecessary.

Congratulate Mussolini. "Dressed in boots, old trousers and a blue sweater," he helped Italian workers to harvest crops on the Pontine marshes, changed by him from fever-breeding swamps into fertile dry ground.

Mussolini and modern machinery did it, where former rulers had tried and failed.

TO THE PEOPLE of ORD

There have been rumors that we plan to take our dairy herd out of Valley county and I wish to tell you all that we are staying right here and expect to keep over 70 head and will ship in feed to keep them producing the quality milk like we have been delivering to you for so many years.

I have spent 31 years on a Valley county farm with Ord as my home town and have devoted 22 years to building up this herd, so it is going to take more than this drouth to scare me away from my home.

The drouth is very bad and we haven't raised anything except dust on our farm so far this year. It will cost us $20 per day for feed at present prices to keep this herd over, so we will need your business as you will need our milk, the best and cheapest food you can buy.

A number of the relatives of Mrs. George Lange helped her celebrate her birthday Sunday.

Particular People Prefer Our Meats

Yes, it's true, we number among our steady customers most of the Ord families that are known to be "particular" about their food. These families want quality at a fair price and know that they can always get it here. They know, too, that our meats are butchered, handled and refrigerated in the most modern and sanitary manner.

Is your family "particular" about its food? Then you, too, should be buying meat from our market.

KNEE-ACTION

tops a 22-year record of engineering progress that makes Chevrolet the best riding car in the low-price field

CHEVROLET Year after year, it's been the same story: Chevrolet FIRST with the NEWEST and BEST! Chevrolet leading—others following. Chevrolet out in front with the latest proved advancements. Self-starter! Sliding gear transmission! Streamlined design! It was Chevrolet aggressiveness and progressiveness that forced all low-priced cars eventually to adopt these and other major improvements. And now, this year, comes the climax of Chevrolet's engineering leadership: the Knee-Action ride! This newest of motoring sensations is a marvel of smooth, easy, gentle motion. No other ride in the world can even compare with it. It makes Chevrolet far and away the best riding car in the low-price field. Have you noticed how America has taken to the Knee-Action ride? In the first 6 months, demand for Chevrolet cars sent production to the highest total attained by any automobile during 1934. CHEVROLET MOTOR CO., DETROIT, MICH. AUCTION!

Weller Pavilion, Ord
Saturday, July 21, 1 p.m.
Cattle - Horses - Hogs

We have a nice run of both cattle and hogs for this sale and are assured of a number of good buyers from Northeast Nebraska and Iowa. If you have livestock and cannot carry it any longer bring it in to this sale. If you can wait a week come to this sale and see how it sells, we know that if we get the stock we can get the buyers and you can sell here for much less expense than to haul them elsewhere. In order to prove to you that we can get the buyers to come here after your stock we are making the following proposition:
We Will Charge No Yardage or Commission on any Stock that the Consignor Feels is Not bringing a fair Price. In other words it will cost you Nothing to try and sell your stock here. If you like the price and sell your stock you pay us a regular commission, if the price is not satisfactory, you need not sell then and we'll do the work for nothing. Is that fair? Also until we have better times or raise a crop we are going to reduce our selling charges on pigs as follows:
Pigs bringing under 70c NO COMMISSION just 7c a head for yardage, insurance and inspection. From 70c to $1.00 a head 3c commission and 7c yardage. Over $1.00 4 percent commission and yardage. So you can sell your pigs here cheaper than any other market.
So we say before you sell your stock to a stranger at a ridiculous price, bring it in and we will give you a FREE TRIAL. Remember we are going to live among you and want to help you, the stranger is here today and some place else tomorrow.
It will help us a lot, also you if you will call us up and tell us what you are bringing in, so we can tell the buyers. Call anytime but preferably not later than Friday morning at 10:00 o'clock so then we can wire the radio stations at Norfolk and Yankton.
You help us and we'll help you.

P. S.—Kenneth S. Wherry, republican candidate for U. S. Senate will speak at our pavilion Saturday, July 21 at 1 o'clock.

Woodman Hall

Alice Waldmann spent Sunday with home folks, returning to Ord Monday morning.
We received an announcement from Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Pedrick from near Sargent announcing the marriage of their daughter Lila to Mr. Thornton Hodge, Taylor, July 12. The Pedricks lived in our neighborhood several years where Miss Lila attended the Geranium high school and later graduated from the Sargent high school. She became a successful teacher in Custer county where she taught several terms including two terms in the Sargent school. Mr. Hodge is a stranger to us but no doubt is a man worthy of the bride he chose for his life partner. Miss Pedrick has many friends in this locality who join us in wishing the young couple much happiness.

LEGGETT CAMP NOW HOSPITAL
for they found Mrs. Daniel Burke, sister of Mrs. H. D. Leggett, seriously ill with a malignant bowel infection, and learned that the day before Mrs. Leggett had suffered serious burns on her ankle when a pan of boiling water upset.
Publisher Leggett was unable to leave camp when his wife and Mrs. Burke were so ill, so Sunday morning early Eugene Leggett returned to Ord with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Anderson and daughters, Shirley and Cora Lee, who had been at Cullen Lake for several weeks. He left his family and Miss Vodehnal there and will rejoin them in a couple of weeks, after the invalids recover.
The Cullen lake camp was full last week end and fishing was very good. Ross Lakin and family, of Ord, are occupying the Barney Bricker cottage for a couple of weeks and were catching lots of fish. The Frank Gross family were recovering from injuries received in an auto accident a couple of weeks ago and Mr. Gross was his jolly self, although Mrs. Gross was still suffering from her bruises and cuts. These people will be remembered as former Ordites. Judge E. P. Clements and Edwin Clements and families were having a fine time but expected to leave Cullen yesterday for Ord, arriving home some time today.
Bass were striking furiously and every party that went out on the lake came in with good catches of these fish. Bluegills and crapples likewise were biting well but walleyed pike were on a strike. These fish were shedding teeth, Guide Luther claimed, and therefore weren't interested in eating. They shed teeth at this time every summer.
The weather is delightfully cool in northern Minnesota and plentiful rain has fallen. So cold are the nights that a fire in the heating stove is needed and people sleep under several blankets. One afternoon the temperature rose to 92 but a cool breeze was blowing across the lake and it was cool in the shade. This is the hottest weather northern Minnesota has seen since May, the natives report.

cratic Convention is interested in that particular project.

I think that no right thinking man who knows anything about the Columbus project and the North Loup project would ever for one minute approve the Columbus project in preference to the North Loup project.

Here is a proposed project that for the next year would have furnished labor for hard pressed farmers who, because of drouth, are being driven to accept aid in order to live, and many of them right now are having to let their cows go, thus depriving them of their milk and cream checks, almost the only thing they have with which to buy groceries.

You pour millions of dollars into cities to support people who NEVER had any business there and who are not doing anything that will insure anyone a job after the work is done and the process will simply have to be repeated; and here is a project that will furnish the maximum amount of labor to build and when finished will continue to furnish employment to a large number, but some political high mogul, for selfish interests, says "KILL IT" and it is done.

I am perfectly sure there was no project in this state that was so favorably recommended and so intensely believed in by the state board appointed to examine these projects as was the North Loup project.

The Government may wonder that farmers develop anarchistic tendencies and in some cases resort to mob violence, but when such rank injustice has been done them as in the case of your refusal to appropriate money for this the most worthy of any major project proposed in this state, except the Sutherland project, you have no right to wonder.

We have troubles in this country, but look at China. Her chief wheat regions are burning up under a temperature as high as 115 degrees, many are dead, cholera is killing others. Locusts in many places destroy what intense heat and drouth have left of the crop.

Here, we manufacture our troubles. To unfortunate China, providence or nature sends them. Bertrand Russell says the British, ruling India, "act like Nazis."

It looks to us as though the fine hand of the man who will probably reap a fine reward out of the Columbus deal had his hand against this project all the time, but on account of its desirable character no one wanted to take the responsibility of turning it down and you have simply passed the buck from one official to another until you could pass it no longer, then it looks like Mullen told Burke to withdraw his support and someone was told to kill it.

Here is an irrigation project, which, if put through, would have stabilized a large territory in this section of Nebraska and would have been not only a big help to the land under irrigation but to people living outside of it.

It is no wonder that no one in this section of the country can talk about the way we have been treated with any degree of patience, and I think we are fully justified in the attitude we are taking and the state of mind we are in.

Yours truly, Geo. E. Johnson

Who and Where Are They? 1,000,000 Jumpers Hitler Keeps His Grip Baby Lama Is Found

Clarence Darrow, most successful criminal lawyer, says NRA is led by amateurs that do not understand political economy.

Who does understand political economy?

Mr. Darrow rebukes the President for "failing to call in men versed in statesmanship."

Who are those men in this country? Mr. Darrow should name them.

You can do things, when you control a country absolutely, as Stalin controls Russia, with all money, earned by everybody, spent to carry out government plans.

Having trained millions of young men and women in aerodynamics, as preparation for flying, the Russian government plans to train one million parachute jumpers, not ten thousand for a hundred thousand, but one million, by the end of this year. Russia does things in a big way.

That Hitler still retains his power in Germany and his grip on the German imagination is shown in his latest reichstag speech.

Thibetan Buddhists have discovered the reincarnation of their late lamented Dalai Lama.

The last Lama, ruling Thibet as spiritual and temporal head from the crimson and white palace of Lhasa, died last December. It then became the business of Buddhist priests to find a baby born at the exact minute of the Lama's death.

The right baby with the right marks has been found in a humble home far from Lhasa. A clever Buddhist priest will rule until the baby Lama reaches the age of eighteen. Meanwhile the baby will be carefully looked after.

The wise merchant tells his clerks: "The customer is always right." James J. Dooling, new leader of Tammany hall, tells those under him, the entire human machinery of the biggest city: "If public opinion is against anything there must be changes, because public opinion is always right."

Use one and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup butter, two well beaten eggs, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon salt. Combine one teaspoon soda with one-half cup sour cream, one-half cup sweet milk, and add alternately with two cups flour. Lastly put in one cup chopped prunes.

Use one banana for each person to be served. Peel and cut in two lengthwise, lay on serving plate cut side up. Whip one cup cream and add three drops of maple flavoring, one-fourth teaspoon vanilla and one cup brown sugar.

Use one medium sized cucumber, cut up two or three green onions, chopped, two hard boiled eggs cut quite fine. Moisten well with salad dressing. I also use red or green peppers or pimentos in this salad if I have them on hand.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

There are a lot of materials that many cooks do not know how to utilize in their cooking, whose possibilities are unknown and ignored. One of these, I think, is sour milk. And I am quite sure honey is another.

When Ord people can buy fresh pure honey, produced right here at home, it is a shame it is not used more. Do you have any good ideas about utilizing this product? If so, please send them in.

Heat three-fourths cup honey with one-fourth cup butter until the butter melts. While warm, add one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-eighth teaspoon cloves, let cool. When cold add one cup flour, a well beaten egg, one-half teaspoon soda dissolved in two tablespoons water and one cup raisins cut in small pieces. Then add from one-half to one cup more flour, using enough to make a dough that will hold its shape. Drop by spoonfuls on a buttered tin and bake in a moderate oven. Mrs. F. M. Vodehnal.

Mix one and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup butter, two well beaten eggs, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon salt. Combine one teaspoon soda with one-half cup sour cream, one-half cup sweet milk, and add alternately with two cups flour. Lastly put in one cup chopped prunes.

Scald two cups milk, add one cup bread crumbs cut in one-fourth inch cubes, and two tablespoons butter. Put in one-third cup sugar, two slightly beaten eggs, and flavoring to the milk. Put in raisins, coconut or chopped apples, pour into buttered baking dish and place in a pan of hot water in the oven.

Use one banana for each person to be served. Peel and cut in two lengthwise, lay on serving plate cut side up. Whip one cup cream and add three drops of maple flavoring, one-fourth teaspoon vanilla and one cup brown sugar.

Carefully combine, so it will not look messy, two cups cooked macaroni, three ripe tomatoes, cut up, one medium sized cucumber, cut up two or three green onions, chopped, two hard boiled eggs cut quite fine. Moisten well with salad dressing. I also use red or green peppers or pimentos in this salad if I have them on hand.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

25 Years Ago This Week. County Attorney Claude A. Davis was united in marriage to Miss Mary Carlota Smith.

George A. Parkins and family departed for Shoshone, Ida., where they had bought a tract of land and planned to try farming for a change.

W. E. Chapin and family departed for Osakis, Minn., for a summer outing.

Lightning struck the Nels Johnson barn four miles north of town and destroyed it. In the barn were Wallace Johnson and Roy Pardue, both of whom were knocked unconscious but recovered in time to escape burning.

The new front of the Stars building was in place and Mr. Perryman was preparing to move into the store.

Through an error, the Valley county board proceedings last week stated that groceries were bought at the Koupal Grocery for "Jameson, Haight and Rathbun."

Tuesday Mrs. Clarence Manchester and children left for Council Bluffs to visit for two weeks or longer with Mrs. Gladys Manchester and other relatives.

Something DIFFERENT

Nisswa, Minn., July 22. That unkind Edwin Clements. As the junior Clements family were about to leave their vacation spot for their Ord home, I hastened over to say goodbye to them.

Miss Jackie Clements didn't want to go back to Ord and leave Minnesota. Her aunt Lena asked her about it and Jackie flatly announced "No, I don't want to go home. I'm having too good of a nice time."

Coralee Anderson had a system all her own. As she trotted up out of Cullen lake, which is right on our front doorstep, practically, after a nice swim, Coralee's system was to come into the house via the clothes lines in the side yard, taking off her little bathing suit and neatly hanging it on the line to dry, then complacently marching on to the house to get dressed.

This is a country where many people barely manage to exist, making a very poor living. So when lumber prices recently soared skyward some of the natives thought of all the lumber buried in the bottom of the many lakes of this region.

An interesting local slant of the enormous piles of logs seen outside factories and floating down the river near here is that many of them will be ground up into pulp to make paper.

The Ord baseball team was planning regular practice two nights a week in preparation for important fair time games, according to Mgr. George R. Mann and Captain Jonas Level.

Lightning struck the Nels Johnson barn four miles north of town and destroyed it. In the barn were Wallace Johnson and Roy Pardue, both of whom were knocked unconscious but recovered in time to escape burning.

The number of patients being treated at the Sanitarium now for rectal fistula provides another opportunity, often repeated in these articles, to advise and warn those having such a rectal trouble, to understand that a rectal fistula is dangerous and to stop fooling themselves with improper treatment.

Of all rectal problems, a rectal fistula is the poorest understood and considered by those having this very common complaint. Please be advised in time. Have this condition explained to you thoroughly. When you understand it as you should, you will do the right thing first, not last. Dr. Rich Rectal Sanitarium and Clinic. DR. RICH says:

Care of The County Board, Ord, Nebr.

Dear Jake: The drouth is laid at the feet of many people and many things. As example:

The President, of course, is blamed and the star victim. The Democrats in general are quite a little responsible. In 1894 they were in power. We should have known better.

Others lay the blame on the administration, saying that this is punishment for killing the innocent little pigs and taking the land out of production when already the mobs were becoming gaunt.

Another says that our dearth of moisture is because of the lack of snow in the mountains. Some high powered scientists claim that it does not rain because we have drained so many swamps and marshes over the land.

One sanctimonious soul divines the idea that the drouth at North Loup is on account of the dances held here almost every night. These fandangoes, she claims, are wild and furious, and our scourging is only the wrath of the Lord.

And then another propounds the theory that North Loup is dryer than the surrounding country because we do not sell beer here. Just what the connection is between beer and rain, I cannot fathom, unless it is the wrath of the devil.

Then there is quite a group that feel and pronounce that the world is fast approaching the end. The tremor last spring was a forerunner of the fatal day. This old earth is moving at a too fast and furious pace and must be checked. In place of a flood that the rainbow is ever reminder of, we are drying up, little by little, like cutting off the pup's tail.

Many other notorious explanations are expounded. Now Jake, if all of us could just decide on the one person that is responsible, I think that we better hang him at sunrise.

Respectfully, Geo. G.

SHE LOST FAT High Blood Pressure

Here's Today's Live News For Fat Women—And Men Too Read It—Please

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for nearly a year for my health, and for high blood pressure and rheumatism and it helped both. My blood pressure was as high as 290 when I started to take Kruschen. I weighed 255 and now I weigh 214, that is losing 41 lbs. in about nine months and I feel fine. Wouldn't go without Kruschen Salts in the house." Mrs. W. Eckhoff, Saginaw, Mich.

Besides melting away ugly, excess fat Kruschen constantly keeps the bowels regular and free from waste that is always apt to poison the system.

Fat folks should give Kruschen a month's trial—it never disappoints—you'll feel so much better after taking one inexpensive jar which you can get at any drug store in the world—keeps you cooler in hot weather.

Christian Science Services.
"Truth" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches for Sunday, July 29.
The Golden Text is from Psalms 25:5: "Lead me in thy truth, and teach me; for thou art the God of my salvation; on thee do I wait all the day."
A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from Deuteronomy 32: 3: "Because I will publish the name of the Lord; ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the Rock, his work is perfect: for all his ways are judgment: a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he."
A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy reads: "Truth has no home in error, and error has no foothold in Truth. Truth is the intelligence of immortal mind. Error is the so-called intelligence of mortal mind. The rule of inversion infers from error its opposite; but Truth is the light which dispels error." Sorensen-Baird

A very beautiful, but quiet wedding was solemnized at eight o'clock Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sorensen when their second daughter, Ruth, became the bride of Dr. Joe Baird. The wedding ceremony was performed in the living room in front of the large bay window, between beautiful baskets of flowers. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Reudink of the Congregational church. Miss Frances Cooper, cousin of the bride, played the wedding march. The bride and groom, accompanied by the groom's sister, Miss Faye Baird and the groom's school chum, Alvin Lee, entered and took their places before the minister.

The bride was lovely in a pink organdie dress with grey accessories and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom wore the conventional dark. The bridesmaid wore pink organdie. Only immediate relatives were present.

After the ceremony light refreshments were served from a beautifully decorated table, with flowers and pink and white streamers.

The bride and groom need no introduction to Arcadia people. Born and raised in Arcadia, they number their friends by the score. They were both graduates of the class of 1924. The bride attended university of Nebraska for three and one-half years, taught two years in Old Yale rural school, one year at Fairbury in the second and third grades and later teaching in the home schools for two years.

Talented, capable and attractive, she has proven her self very popular in her associations and more than proficient in her work. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Baird. He is a graduate of the medical college at the university of Nebraska and took his interne work in Columbus, O. Since then he has practiced here for two and one-half years as a very successful physician.

Dr. and Mrs. Joe Baird left Monday evening for a short honeymoon in eastern Nebraska. The bride was attired in a blue canton crepe suit. The car was beautifully decorated with shoes, cans, etc. The Champion wishes them a happy voyage on life's journey together. They will be at home after August first in the property owned by John White.

Last Thursday evening at the Community Park, Miss Faye Baird and Mrs. Claris Bellinger entertained ten couples at a surprise party in honor of Miss Ruth Sorensen and Dr. Joe Baird. Better Meat at Prices That Spell ECONOMY

Right now most people are interested in cutting living expenses to the minimum but they still want quality, especially in their food products. For more than 30 years this market has been serving Ord people—good years, bad years, wet years, dry years—and we believe we can safely claim to have pleased our customers, otherwise we wouldn't have the large business we enjoy today. What's the answer? Our customers know we give them their money's worth and that our prices always spell ECONOMY. If you want good meat at a low price, buy here always.

ICE Shortage

We are faced with a shortage of ice and though our own equipment has been enlarged we are unable to make ice fast enough to keep up with all demands. Moreover, we have tried all over Nebraska to purchase ice but are unable to secure any as the ice shortage exists all over the middle west.

For several weeks we have been trucking ice from Grand Island and Broken Bow but supplies there are now exhausted and we are unable to secure ice anywhere.

For the present, therefore, we are compelled to announce that effective immediately we cannot make any platform sales of ice as all ice that we make must be reserved to take care of customers who have purchased Ice Ticket books.

We hope this condition will prove only temporary and assure the public that we are making every effort to manufacture more ice and also to locate an outside source of supply. As soon as the present stringency is relieved we will inform the public thru these columns and ask your forbearance in this situation.

North Loup News

Mrs. Wesley Hutchins, most respected citizen and a resident of this town since babyhood passed away at the family home here about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, being in her 63rd year. Mrs. Hutchins has suffered intensely during the past days and weeks of severe heat, having been afflicted with internal cancers. Several months ago she submitted to treatments and underwent a major operation at Hillcrest hospital but received no permanent relief. A few weeks ago the family took her to a doctor friend at Norton, Kas., where it was hoped she would be benefited. Again she was brought home to await her final summons. Death released her from her sufferings Monday afternoon in the presence of her family, except her son Clyde who had returned Sunday evening to his work at Albion. Present were her husband Wesley, her daughters, Mrs. Gladys Christensen, Mrs. Louise Brennick and her eldest son Floyd and their families. Funeral services were held from the Baptist church Tuesday at 2:30 p. m., with Rev. Warren, pastor of this church, which Mrs. Hutchins has so faithfully and efficiently served for half a century. Burial was in the family lot in North Loup.

Funeral services were held from the Methodist church Sunday afternoon for another of North Loup's pioneer residents, Mrs. Zylpha Honeycutt who died at 11:45 a. m. Thursday, July 19, at the home of her son Edwin following a long siege of illness of a complicated nature.

Zylpha Barnhart, eldest child of John and Lizzie Barnhart was born near North Loup, Oct. 26, 1885, being 48 years, 8 months and 23 days of age when death released her from years of invalidism. On March 11, 1902 she was united in marriage with Michael E. Honeycutt, to which union six children were born, Arthur and Jennie preceding their mother in death. Surviving are her husband and four sons, John of O'Neill, Nebr., Edwin, Everett and Ivan of North Loup, also her mother, Mrs. Lizzie Barnhart, three sisters, Mrs. Grace Gibson of Broken Bow, Mrs. Lena Taylor and Mrs. Dessie Vogeler, both of this vicinity and three brothers, Lester of Lehi, Utah, Truman of Albion and Alvin of Sargent, besides numerous other relatives and a host of friends. Services were in charge of Revs. Warren and Stephens, with music furnished by a mixed quartette composed of Arch Moulton, Dell Barber, Esther Babcock and Ava Johnson. Interment was in the family lot at North Loup. Among the out of town relatives attending the funeral of Mrs. Honeycutt were the A. R. Gibson family of Broken Bow, Mrs. Lillie Banta and son Elmer of Lyman, Nebr., Mrs. Rose Eyerly, Ephram Honeycutt, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Honeycutt, all of Lyman, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Barnhart and family of Sargent, Jake Honeycutt's of Sargent and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kloupa of Wyoming, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Friese of Scotia.

Mrs. Mabel Rowse and children left for their home at Crosbyton, Texas Monday morning, following a visit here of several weeks with Mrs. Rowse's mother, Mrs. Amy Taylor. They left via Arcadia where a lady friend, who drove through with them joined them for the return trip.

Jim and Bill Vogeler and Miss Alice Vogeler and Mrs. John Bremer returned Thursday from the funeral of an aged grandparent at Macomb, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Zangger, Chas. and Esther departed via auto to Thursday evening for San Bernardino, Calif., in response to a telegram received Thursday morning informing them of the sudden death of Mr. Zangger's father, who with other members of the family was vacationing in the mountains. The Zanggers had expected to leave this week for a visit with their people, there being nothing in particular to keep them on the farm at this time when the sad message came about the hour they decided to leave on Tuesday morning. They will be away for several weeks.

Clifford Hawkes went to Denver early this week to seek employment. Clayton Meyers is substituting as milk truckman in his absence.

Everett Catlin, delegate to the week's institute of Epworthians at Gothenburg gave an interesting description of the week's activities at the assembly here Sunday evening. More than 200 young people besides pastors and teachers were in attendance.

Mrs. Ardell Bailey with her class of Sunday school girls, the Anchors, enjoyed a picnic supper and swim at the river Wednesday evening.

Little Betty and Jacquie Babcock left for their home at Lincoln via bus Sunday following a two weeks visit here.

Hazel Holman and Esther Bee went to Ord via bus Monday to attend to household duties at their grandparent's home.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Shineman, Eula, Helen Marie and baby

Francis are expected home this week end from a visit with Mr. Shineman's people at Rae, Mo., and with Mrs. Shineman's relatives at points in Kansas. Lorna May is employed at the Ideal cafe so did not accompany the family.

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Thelin and daughter Marjorie and Mrs. Roy Hudson left via train Wednesday morning for a ten days visit to the city of progress.

Madams Gertrude Carter and Mattie Sheldon departed via bus from G. I. Thursday for Colorado, the former to spend a few months with her daughter and family, the Fred Trimble's at Swink, and Mrs. Sheldon will be the guest of her son, Ross and wife in Denver. The ladies expect to rent a cottage in the mountains where they will spend a portion of their vacation.

Rev. L. A. Hawkes and daughter Ruth, with Mr. and Mrs. Harold McCoullagh of Elba drove to Monroe Sunday afternoon from which place they departed Monday morning with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hawkes and a party of friends, all of Monroe for a week's trip to Chicago and the world's fair.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hauke of Wood River were guests of Rev. and Mrs. Stephens Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hamilton and little daughter, Georgia Grace of Geneva were Sunday visitors at the George Johnson home. Mrs. Hamilton's father, Frank Johnson, who has been spending a few days in his old home town drove to St. Paul Sunday morning to meet them. The Hamilton's had been visiting at Clark, Neb. They are guests this week of Ord relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Greene drove to Halgeton, Neb., Tuesday afternoon to engage a residence for the ensuing school year.

Miss Maxine McCune returned Sunday morning from a visit with relatives and friends at Gresham, Nebr. Her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Brown brought her over Sunday morning, returning to their home at Gresham Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Finch and small son Gene left Tuesday evening for Denver where Steve has an engagement with the Denver Athletic club in the Denver Post baseball tournament. Mr. Finch won honors last year in a similar engagement with the Sioux City stock yards baseball club.

Harry J. McBeth of Ord, was in North Loup Saturday in the interest of his campaign for the republican nomination for Clerk of the District Court.

Mrs. Jennie Davis was the honoree at a birthday celebration at the home of her sister, the Bert Sayres' Sunday evening. Others present were her daughter, Mrs. Dena Lewis, a brother, Frank Hurley, Dr. and Mrs. Hemphill and Gertrude and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hurley.

Mrs. Ben Moulton is entertaining a sister, Mrs. Robert Ryley of Kansas City, who arrived Wednesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Meyers took their small son Dwaine to the University hospital early Monday morning where he will be fitted with a brace for his defective limb.

Mrs. Earl Howell accompanied the Meyers to the hospital where she expected to submit to an operation for goitre.

Mrs. Guy Kerr had a severe heart attack Sunday morning. Dr. Royer of Scotia was called in the absence of Dr. Hemphill. Mrs. Kerr is improving but still is very weak.

Eino Hurley received the sad message by telegram Monday informing him of the tragic death of a niece, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delwin Green of Escondido, Calif., who was killed in an auto accident. The deceased was the eldest daughter of Delwin and Geneva Hurley Green, and was about twenty-one years of age. Besides her parents and three brothers she is survived by her husband and small baby. The deceased visited here a few years ago when she came with her people to attend the golden wedding anniversary of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. El Green.

"But this church must have been deserted then," he thought. "Maybe they reopened it for a Christmas celebration. To what had this little card been attached? A book? A bottle of perfume? A box of candy? And had Althea liked her present?"

He tried to picture the scene—the old church with the pale winter sunshine streaming in and some one in the choir singing, "Hark, the World Angels"; and the youngsters excited over their gifts and impatient for the exercises to end. And had Berenice been there? As usual when he thought of her, horizons began to open and the sky to clear. "Mrs. Denver—bless her—told her to marry. But what of poor me; with so little laid up for a wife?"

He unlocked the door and replaced the key in the vestry.

Janet was strolling in the grounds of the academy when he re-entered them, and waved to him in her usual friendly way, making no comment when he joined her on his early excursions.

"I think we did very well last night," she observed; "we really took Berenice's mind from the anniversary."

"The trouble is—there's a perpetual anniversary in that old academy as long as those wax figures are there."

"They're haunting—queer, uncanny things—like something living on long after its time. Sometimes this place seems like a dream to me. Yet it has an odd charm, too—those wakings in the quiet morning light—that solemn hall with the pictures of the old presidents; a principal so fond of flowers that he keeps his hyacinth bulbs always blooming."

"Yes. You're right, it has charm—how glowing red the old bricks are!"

"Everything glitters today. See Berenice's hair in the sun—it's like flame."

They both looked towards her as she came lightly down the path, calling to them, pulling her fluffy white wrap around her.

"A great day for our walk," she saluted them. "You are out early."

"I went to the church."

"What did you find there?"

"I'll tell you later—it's quite a story."

He did not think it the time to show her the card, particularly as he saw Haskell and Balder emerging from the greenish shadows of the basement. Both looked towards the group; then, exchanging some words, separated. Haskell approached Berenice with self-consciousness always in his manner; as if he must be perpetually on guard—warding away even friendliness and pleasant words.

"You are walking again today?"

"Yes! Will you join us?"

"Why should I walk over these hills?"

"Will you go up the ravine with us?"

"You know I never go up the ravine. It is too exhausting. However, it must be beautiful up there now, with the scarlet maples."

"Yes, they're blood red," Wilton said. "I've never seen such intensity of red."

Haskell put his hands over his eyes. "This sun fills my eyes with red."

That afternoon the four were stepping together over the hills; their happiness singularly like that of creatures let out of cages. Wilton told Berenice of reading the diary.

"How long did your stepmother live after the deaths of your brothers and sisters?"

"Fully eight years, I think; I'm not sure. She was a blessed woman; always kind to me. Even my brothers and sisters liked her, though they didn't like—" She broke off. "Oh, well, it's all past and gone."

"May I ask you if you can remember when the old church down there was last used?"

"Long before I was born—about 1850, I think."

"And was it ever opened for Christmas celebrations—after that?"

"Oh, no!"

"Are you sure?"

"Quite sure! But father used to have celebrations for the neighbors' children in the old academy, and they all received presents from the tree. I only faintly remember the last one ever held—the Christmas before the accident. It was very gay. We had a beautiful tree."

"That tree is still in existence."

She looked at him incredulously, her eyes half fearful. "How do you know that?"

"I went to the belfry room this morning; found a key that fitted the door. The room was absolutely bare except for an ancient tree on its wooden base, painted green, as usual. Bits of tinsel still clung to the dry branches, and this little card was tied to one of them with a red ribbon. Can you read the writing? The ink is very pale."

QUIZ FORUM

Upholds Farm Bureau. To the Editor of the Quiz: The Taxpayers League was organized a good many months ago. It had a good work to perform and likely it has done some good. But I can't understand why the League spends the greater part of its time discussing how to do away with the County Agent and the Farm Bureau, the only farm organization in Valley county that is hooked up direct with our government through its connection with the state farm bureau.
I was secretary of the Farm Bureau for the first few years of its existence here and I found it to be a most fair plan of organization. The government created it and turned it over to the farmers. Any farmer may become a member and can help elect himself or a neighbor to any office. The officers of the local farm bureau hire the county agent and work out the yearly programs. Nothing could be more fair. When the people of Valley county needed seed and feed the farm bureau was on the job at once and the money was procured without any delay. When the drouth struck Valley county the farm bureau, through Agent C. C. Dale, was on the job at once and held school house meetings and got first hand information on the drouth, with result that drouth relief was procured from the government at once in Valley county. When the corn-hog reduction plan needed an organization in every county in the farm states Valley county was ready by having the farm bureau organization to take charge of the work. Some counties in Nebraska are getting benefit payments now and we, I understand, are close after them. With crops burned to a crisp that money is going to be a lifesaver for this county.
When the government, through the farm bureau, learned that our cattle were starving the response was immediate and the farm bureau was on the job ready to take up the work. And from the way the farmers are taking advantage

—Rev. and Mrs. L. M. Real and little daughter of Olean drove to Ord Saturday evening and spent a short time with Mrs. Olyver's mother, Mrs. M. Flynn.
—Rebekah lodge was in session Tuesday evening with the usual number in attendance.
—Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Chatfield and family of Rosevale were dinner guests Friday in the home of Floyd's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Loofbourrow.
—L. D. Milliken returned home Friday. He had spent several days at his farm near Big Springs. Crops are just fair. He claims it is nearly as hot there as here.
—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Andersen moved to Comstock Thursday. They spent the night in Ord, returning Friday morning to Comstock.
—So and Sew club did not meet Thursday. The meeting was postponed on account of the hot weather. Mrs. L. D. Milliken will be the next hostess.
—Miss Eleanor Dye left Saturday for her office work in Kansas City. She had to be there by Monday morning. She had been called home to attend the funeral of her grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Dye.
—Miss Clara Lee VanWise returned home early Friday morning. She had spent a few days in Hastings with her brothers Lloyd and Norris VanWise and their families. Miss VanWise was accompanied home by her nephew, Verl VanWise. He was spending a few days with his grandmother, Mrs. R. O. Hunter.
—Miss Jennie Bee returned Friday to North Loup after spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Loofbourrow.
—Andy Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cook and Dale Chatfield went to Hastings Thursday. They were spending a few days at a Pentecostal camp meeting.
—Leo Kessler writes from the CCC camp at Albion, where there are about 400 boys. He likes the work. Several of the boys are to be moved and Leo is going to Fullerton, Nebr.
—Degree of Honor had a good meeting Tuesday evening. Madams W. E. Kessler, Carl Holm and Agnes Clausen served.
—Miss Maxine Leschinski of Overton was visiting in Grand Island and came to Ord Saturday by auto, riding up with Clinton Blessing.
—Miss Maxine Johnson has been staying with her aunt, Mrs. W. J. Johnson, as Dr. Johnson was away for several days. He is a government inspector of cattle.
—Thursday Mrs. Pearl Morrison was a bus passenger for North Loup.
—Mrs. Helen Hill moved Thursday from the Wright house on 16th street to the home property of her father, Nels Johnson on L street.
—Mrs. Sadie Skinner and son Billie returned to Broken Bow Tuesday evening after a visit with the J. C. Rogers family.
—Mrs. W. T. Kessler says that her daughter, Mrs. Lida Dent has returned to her work as beauty parlor operator in Lincoln. She spent a few days in Kearney after leaving Ord. Her son Dicky Dent will continue to make his home with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Kessler in Ord.
—Rev. Mamie Young has returned from Pleasanton. She was called there last Tuesday to attend a funeral.
—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Flakus returned to Burwell last Wednesday evening. They had been called to Ord to attend the funeral of Mrs. John Wozniak.
—Mrs. Frank Fafetta sr., is spending a couple of weeks in Howells, Nebr., with relatives.
—Joe Knezacek has received a letter from A. J. Wise, who is in Valdez, Alaska, with his son Dr. Earl Wise. He says it is about as hot up there as it is here. Salmon are very cheap up there. Alaska people are now fishing for trout. Mr. Wise will be home about the middle of August.
—Mrs. J. R. Patrick writes from Barnett, Mo. Crops are about in the same condition there as here. Mrs. Patrick is the mother of Mrs. Leo Long and has often visited here with her daughter, Mrs. Long and family.
—Mrs. Herman Mattley of Lincoln came to Ord upon learning of the illness of her father, W. W. Haskell, and was spending several days with her parents.
—Tomorrow evening the Royal Neighbor lodge will meet in their hall for the monthly business meeting.
—Miss Ethel Ollis of the Research hospital, Kansas City, has been here visiting her brothers, Will and James Ollis and their families. Thursday J. G. Hastings and Mrs. James Ollis took her to Hastings. After a few days stay there she was returning to Kansas City.

All right, boys, let's boost for our government and stop finding fault for a change. Our government has become our banker now, our meat packer soon, and our food distributor and it should have some respect and it should have what work the County agent is doing. I wonder why the county board doesn't cooperate with him and ship in this corn and hay and sell it to farmers at cost, instead of us having to pay speculators' prices. Times are serious, there is nothing on the farms and a whole year to go before any crops can be sold. We must pull together in one large farm bureau working with the government. Fighting the government's work will only do harm. ERNEST S. COATS, one of Valley county's dried-out farmers.

Dillinger Killed Sunday. John Dillinger, No. 1 desperado of the United States, was killed in Chicago by federal agents Sunday morning just as he emerged from a movie theatre with two women companions. Thousands of officers had engaged in a nation-wide search for him ever since his escape a few months ago from an Illinois prison.

AUCTION!

Weller Pavilion, Ord

Saturday, July 28, 1 p.m.

Cattle - Horses - Hogs

While the market on all livestock is very low due to the extent and severity of the drouth, it behooves you now more than ever to sell your stock at your home market where you have less expense. For any stock not sold we make no charge—except the feed. So bring them in and try them and if they will bring more money from the government or elsewhere you can take them out and it will cost you nothing. Should eastern Nebraska, Iowa and Illinois have rain this week we look for a better market Saturday. Call us not later than Friday morning at 10 o'clock and tell us what you are bringing in so that we may advertise it on the radio.
