NEW TEACHERS START WORK IN RURAL SCHOOLS

School Open Monday In Valley County Districts; 3 New Buildings In County.

Rural teachers of Valley county met in the county superintendent's office last Friday to receive supplies for the year's work and to discuss plans to be carried out in the rural schools. Practically all rural schools in the county opened Monday morning. Two rural teachers, as well as the Arcadia teachers, will enjoy new school buildings this year. Vinton, District 23, has almost completed a new modern building and will be ready to move into it in a few days. Pioneer, District 44, is well started on a cozy new building and hope to move into it before the beginning of the year.

In looking over the teacher list for the rural schools, it is seen that nine teachers are teaching for the first time this fall, three have not taught in this county before, and twenty-five are new in their present positions. In more than half the rural schools, teachers and pupils were getting acquainted the first of the week.

- The directory of teachers follows:
- Dist. 1. W. C. Bailey, Ray Murray, Jesse Thorpe, Della Nass, Winfred Pettit, Marcia Ross, Carmen Weber, Marjorie Thein, North Loup.
 - Dist. 2. Alice Adamek, Ord.
 - Dist. 3. Mrs. Bernice Canedy, North Loup; Beulah Willoughby, North Loup.
 - Dist. 4. Lavonne Bartley, Arcadia.
 - Dist. 5. M. D. Bell, Supt., W. D. Cass, Prin., Mae Baird, Burdette Cowell, Elva Johnson, Walter Lukens, W. S. Watkins, Helmut Brockman, J. A. Kovanda, Dean S. Duncan, Viola Crouch, Archer, Carl Roelke, Hastings, Mildred Jacobson, Broken Bow, Bertha Anderson, Omaha, Elizabeth Lukes, Marguerite Stark, Lois Finley, Lucy Rowland, Inez Swain, Adeline Kosmata, Daisy Hallen, Vernie Wallin, Madrid, Edna Elliott, Marjory LeValley, Emma Conrad, Grant.
 - Dist. 6. Helen Houthby, Ord.
 - Dist. 7. Alice Verstraete, Ord.
 - Dist. 8. Hazel Brechbill, Burwell.
 - Dist. 9. Dorothy Full, Ord.
 - Dist. 10. Mary Clement, Ord, Merina Crow, Ord.
 - Dist. 11. Lucille Carver, Arcadia.
 - Dist. 12. Mildred Meyers, Ord.
 - Dist. 13. Mildred Hrdy, Ord.
 - Dist. 14. Mrs. Dorothy Knapp, North Loup.
 - Dist. 15. Hazel Stevens, Ord.
 - Dist. 16. Julia Meyers, North Loup.
 - Dist. 18. Margaret Strong, Ord.

Burke, Simmons May Speak

Edward R. Burke and Robert Simmons, rival candidates for United States senator, may be speakers at Popcorn Days in North Loup next Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 12 and 13. Present plans call for Mr. Burke to speak Wednesday and Mr. Simmons Thursday.

Drouth Feed Meeting.

Farmers of Valley county take notice that there will be a mass meeting at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, Sept. 8 at the court room in Ord. All who are interested in buying corn fodder should attend, especially drouth relief committeemen.

Government Cattle Buying Continues

The government cattle buying program will be continued in Valley county next week with sales as follows: Monday, Sept. 10 at Burwell, Wednesday, Sept. 12 at Elyria, Friday, Sept. 14 at Ord.

It will not be necessary to get permits for the Burwell sale thru the county agents office, but they may be secured from the township committeemen, and each committeeman can issue a permit to anyone in his township who wishes to sell. The same is true of the Elyria and Ord sales. No quotas will be assigned for these sales.

School Girls Want Work.

Millard Bell, superintendent of Ord schools, has a list of several school girls who want to work in Ord homes for their board and room. Several boys likewise want work that will permit them to attend school. A telephone call to 113 will secure a list of the names.

Christensen-Williamson.

Last Thursday August 30, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rhynie Christensen, Rev. D. O. Williamson performed the ceremony that united in marriage Miss Evelyn Christensen and Mr. Marshall Williamson, a popular Ord young couple. Guests besides the Christensen and Williamson families were Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Williamson and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Benn and family. Refreshments were served after the ceremony, after which the newlyweds left on a short trip. Both are graduates of Ord high school and are well and favorably known to all Quiz readers.

Sunday Schools Will Have Parade

The Sunday schools of Ord and the nearby country churches are planning to have a parade on Saturday afternoon, October 6. It is expected that six or seven Sunday schools will join in this parade, the first demonstration of this kind ever given on a week day in Ord. This is the beginning of a community wide forward movement in which the Protestant churches are working out a program. A visitation campaign will be held seeking to ascertain the church membership or preference of every family. The month of October will be observed as a special Sunday school and church attendance period, to be known as the Fall Recovery Crusade. All the churches will follow a general unified program, varied to suit their own needs. The public will be kept informed thru the paper and various other means of publicity of the details of this program. It is planned to be the most interesting and intensive church going crusade put on in a number of years.

ORD ENROLLMENT EXPECTED SHOW SLIGHT INCREASE

About Same No. As Last Year In Senior Hi; New Teacher To Replace Miss Anderson.

The three day pre-school registration for Ord senior high school pupils indicates about the same enrollment as for last year, Supt. Millard D. Bell reports, and while the final enrollment will not be complete until the opening of school next Monday, indications are that there will be possibly a slight increase. Grade and junior high enrollments are expected to be larger than for some time, so that the total enrollment in school will be a few per cent higher than last year or the year before. All courses seem to be well received this year and the registrations indicate classes in all the offerings of the past.

Miss Bertha Anderson, who had been employed during the summer to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Zelma Frushour resigned during the past week to accept a high school position in South Omaha. Although regretting the loss of so well qualified a teacher, the board released Miss Anderson last evening and elected in her place Miss Bernice Slot of Hickman, Nebr. Miss Slot is a graduate of Wesleyan university and has had graduate work at the University of Nebraska. Miss Slot comes highly qualified in English as well as in history, physical education and public speaking. She will take over the duties of Miss Frushour. The schools are fortunate in securing at this late hour someone so well qualified and fitting the requirements so well. This year all students will be given a combination lock to protect properly left in their lockers. This is new service offered by the schools at no charge to the individual pupils.

Another new feature planned is a change in the school paper in co-operation with the Ord Quiz. This change will give Ord high school a page in the Quiz devoted entirely to Ord school news written and edited by Ord high school students.

4-H Clubs Frolic At Bussell Park

Boys and girls 4-H clubs of Valley county held their annual 'frolic' at Bussell park last Thursday, Aug. 30, a picnic dinner being served at noon with ice cream furnished by the Farm Bureau. In the afternoon a number of medals were awarded as follows: Boys Judging—Harold Garnick, 1st, Harold Schudel, honorable mention; Girls Judging, dresses—Ruth Benn, 1st, Maxine Jones, honorable mention; health contest—Ervin Dodge, 1st boys, Virginia Davis, 1st girls; style show—Irene Hamilton, 1st winter clothes, Roberta Timmerman, honorable mention; Ruth Benn, 1st summer clothes; Mildred Timmerman, honorable mention; Vera Severns, 1st first year aprons; Irene Dingshof, honorable mention; team demonstrations—Marilly Dale, Virginia Davis, 1st, Mildred Timmerman, Ruth Cook, honorable mention.

Co. Board Refuses Cienmy Dance License

Because Leon Cienmy has been convicted of a liquor violation and because many complaints have been made as to the conduct of public dances at his hall in Elyria, the Valley county board of supervisors Tuesday refused to issue a dance license to him. His present license expires soon.

State Planting Fish.

Twelve thousand more bullheads were planted by the state fish and game department in the Middle Loup river near Sargent last week. Two weeks before 4,000 were planted. The fish were seined from sandhill lakes that have dried up.

DENNIS B. HUFF SUCCUMBS AFTER 15-YEAR ILLNESS

Former Ord Telephone Manager And Ford Dealer Died In Omaha, Buried Tuesday.

Dennis B. Huff, 60, who for twenty years was prominently identified with all business and civic activities of Ord, passed away last Friday afternoon, August 31, at his home in Omaha where he had lived since 1929. Funeral services were held at the Brewer-Korisko chapel there Monday, after which the body was brought to the Sowl chapel in Ord where it rested in state until 2:00 p. m. Tuesday, when short funeral services were conducted by Rev. L. M. Real, with interment in Ord cemetery following.

Funeral bearers here were Bert Bouquet, James Misko, Warren Lincoln, Gould Flagg, C. J. Mortensen and George A. Farkins. Many beautiful flowers were in evidence and Madama R. O. Hunter and Harry Dye had charge of them, taking them from the Sowl chapel to the cemetery. Among the flowers was a vase of roses from a bush that Mr. Huff had cared for all summer. The buds and blooms were picked by his daughter, Miss Maybelle, and placed on his grave.

Mr. Huff was born at Fremont Dec. 9, 1873 and grew to manhood there. An experienced telephone man, he was employed by a Grand Island telephone company for several years and later managed the telephone exchange in Greeley. About 1909 he came to Ord as manager of the Ord Independent Telephone company. Later he operated the Ford garage in Ord but retired from business and in 1929 moved to Omaha. With the exception of a year in California, Mr. Huff lived in Omaha from 1929 until his death.

While living in Greeley he served as mayor and while in Ord was a member of the city council and held other offices of trust. He was a member of the Ord Masonic lodge for twenty years.

About fifteen years ago Mr. Huff's health began to fail and he suffered from stomach and intestinal ailments most of the time since. His last visit to Ord was only a few weeks ago and just before that he had been in a hospital several weeks for observation and treatment. He had many friends here and had expressed a wish to be buried in Ord.

He is mourned by his widow, Mrs. Isabel Huff, and a daughter, Miss Maybelle, of Omaha, one son, Howard, of Ord, one brother, Lee, of Omaha, three sisters, Mrs. Lyle Huff and Mrs. May Thomas, Omaha, and Mrs. A. B. Congrove, Grand Island, and two grandchildren, Danny and Rogene, children of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Huff of Ord. All except Mrs. Lyle Huff were present for the services here Tuesday, as was Dick Bradley, of Madrid, Nebr., who made his home with the Huff family as a boy. Also present at the services were many of Mr. Huff's friends and former Ord neighbors, as well as members of the Masonic lodge who performed their impressive rites at the grave.

2.35 Inches Rain Fell Here Sunday

A general rain that totaled 2.35 inches in Ord and even more in other localities visited Valley county Saturday night and Sunday, every portion of the county getting a good soaking—really the first in 1934. The rain came too late to help crops but pastures were benefited and many farmers began seeding fall rye and wheat at once. Most of the moisture soaked into the ground.

North of Burwell the rain was even heavier than at Ord and the Sioux Creek bridge is reported to have been destroyed by flood waters. The North Loup river reached its highest stage in several years, indicating that the rain was general over the sandhill region. At Ord a gravel dam being erected by the city in an effort to divert the flow of the river to the west side of the channel so as to provide adequate water at the intake to the city system was partially destroyed. The weather has been cool and pleasant here for almost three weeks. More rain is predicted.

Typhoid Fever at Scotia.

In spite of 28 cases of typhoid fever that have developed at Scotia during the past month, the schools of that village opened Monday, Dr. Howard Royer, village physician, says there is little danger of school children contracting the disease through contact with each other, so board of education members decided to open school on the usual day.

Recovers Lost Pocketbook.

On August 22 Welly Brechbill lost a pocketbook at Elyria. The pocketbook contained $68.26 in cash and represented quite a serious loss. Tuesday it was found by two Elyria boys, Harold Kusek and Ernest Ruzovskiy, who promptly returned it to Mr. Brechbill, who was very grateful.

Ord Represented At Legion's Convention

Ord was well represented at the Nebraska convention of the American Legion and Auxiliary held last week in Grand Island. Not only did local posts of these organizations send official delegates but many other members attended as well as town people who went to see the fun.

Legion delegates were Cecil Clark, commander, and Alred Weigardt, service officer. These men spent much time at the service officers' school and are now posted on new legislation and prepared to answer all questions relating to compensation matters. They will give complete reports of the convention at the Legion meeting next Monday evening, at which time annual election of officers will also be held.

A feature of the Tuesday afternoon session was a concert by the Ord Legion chorus directed by Dean S. Duncan. Members of the chorus are F. L. Blessing, Kirby McGrew, Orville Sowl, John Haskell, Ed Mower, James Ollis, Emil Fafetta, Ed and Percy, John Misko, Mark Tolen and Edwin Clemens. Mrs. Kirby McGrew was pianist. The chorus sang four numbers during a program at the Liederkranz auditorium and were applauded by a crowd of over 2,000.

Auxiliary delegates included Lydia Fafetta, president of the Ord chapter, Mrs. Stanley McLain, Mrs. W. E. Lincoln and Mrs. Alred Weigardt. They also will report at the coming Auxiliary meeting.

Theme of the convention was "service to the youth of America," which policy the Legion plans to pursue. Many interesting talks were given by national Legion officers and others. Entertainment details included a polo tournament, life and drum corps contest, dancing, theatrical performances, etc. Fred Winter, of Grand Island, was elected state Legion president and Beatrice was selected as the convention city for 1935.

EARTH CAVES IN, MELIA ALFALFA FIELD IS RUINED

Curious Faults Appear In Field Near Ord; Looks Like Work Of Miniature Earthquake.

A crazy-quilt pattern of crevices made its appearance this week in an alfalfa field on the P. J. Melia farm northwest of Ord, the cracks looking like the work of a miniature earthquake altho their cause is unknown. About six acres of a twenty acre field are spider-webbed with these cracks, which range in width from three inches to two feet and in depth from two to twelve feet.

The phenomenon became known Monday when the Melia boys went to the field to drive some cows out. As they drove into the field, their car hit one of the holes and dropped in. They were traveling fast enough to get through without being stuck. Getting out to see what they had hit they discovered the crevices. One of the cows had dropped into one of the cracks and they experienced some difficulty in getting her out. They learned that six or seven acres are affected, the rest of the twenty-acre field being intact. Apparently the earth split in dozens of different places and edges of many of the cracks have caved in. The cracks run continuous in all directions across the north end of the field. A long pole was used to measure the deepest crevice and it was about twelve feet deep.

The long dry spell, followed by the heavy rain Saturday night and Sunday, may have caused the cracks or they may have been caused by a seismic disturbance of some nature. How long they have existed is not known.

Mr. Melia says he will have to go out with a shovel and cave in the sides of the cracks and possibly reseed the field.

Many Ord people have visited the Melia farm to see this unusual sight.

Larsen-Barnhart.

Miss Charis Larsen, oldest daughter of Charles Larsen, became the bride of Charles Barnhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Barnhart of North Loup, on August 19 at Bartlett, Nebr. Miss Delta Marie Hoyt and Verne Barnard were witnesses. Mr. and Mrs. Barnhart have both attended Ord high school and are popular young people around Ord. At present they are living in the western part of Nebraska where Mr. Barnhart has a job on the state highway.

Ord Kittenballers Win Opener, 4 to 1

The Ord All-Stars, competing in the central Nebraska softball tournament being held at Cotesfield this week, won their opening game against Dannebrog Monday evening by a score of 4 to 1. Last night they were scheduled to play Burwell, who were to have Clyde Baker of Ord as hurler. Sixteen teams are competing in the Cotesfield tournament and all games are being played under the lights.

RAIN AND COLD WEATHER STRIKE CULLEN COUNTRY

Publisher Leggett Describes Trip to Minnesota; Spending September Weeks There.

Jack Pine Lodge on Middle Cullen Lake Near Nisswa, Minn., Sept. 2, 1934.

Dear Quiz Readers:

As Bill Rogers said, or maybe it was Hank Longfellow:

"The day is cold and dark and dreary,
It rains and the wind is never weary."

That is just what it is here today. It has been cloudy, so they tell me for a couple of weeks with a rain nearly every night. The sun did come out a while yesterday but it soon clouded up and about bedtime, here not in Ord, it started raining and we got a lot of rain all night and this morning it is still going good. Everything in this country is nice and green, except tender vegetation which was killed with the two or three frosts they had. There is an abundance of rough feed here and these pastures and meadows would look good to Valley county farmers.

As I said before, I was sick of living alone and last week as soon as the Quiz was out of the way, I bightened it for Cullen lake. Left Ord at 8:30 Thursday morning, arrived at Canby, Minn., at 7:30 p. m. and tied up for the night, was up at 5 a. m. and drove into camp at just noon. And how the Missus, Mrs. Burke and the kids (Eugene's folks) did boll out to greet me. Acted as though they were glad I came. First we had dinner, then we began to talk about fishing. Eugene said they wouldn't bite. But I had brought a pail of worms, thanks to Kent Ferris who found them along an old drain, and we went to the Upper Cullen and soon caught a 12 quart pail full of nice bluegills. Must have had 35 or 40 and they with some bass that Eugene had in the livebox, made him a nice box to send home. He took them to town that same evening and shipped them. Saturday we got up early, had breakfast, and were on the lake at 6:30. Our objective was one of the big upper lake crappies but they refused to be enticed by our minnows and we finally gave up and started around the shoreline casting for bass and got a nice string of them before noon. Orders were to be in promptly at 12 for dinner. The occasion was Eugene's birthday, 31. I shall always remember that September 1 morning 31 years before. I had but recently acquired an interest in an Ord hardware store and was busy blacking a heating stove when I was summoned to the house with word that company was expected pronto.

But to get back to Cullen, after dinner Eugene's folks got busy and finished their packing and we loaded the car and they were on their way to Ord before 5 p. m. After they were gone it seemed awful quiet here and it is going to take us several days to get used to the quiet. And especially if the weather stays like this so we can't get out.

But you will be interested in my trip. Our trip should say for just as I was wishing I had some one to ride with me on the long trip Rudolph Marten walked in and said he was anxious to get up to Clarissa, Minn., to visit his people and would be glad to help with the driving, etc. We were not long in making a deal and he was on hand to come Thursday morning. Rudolph is a brother of Mrs. Alfred Babka and had been at the home of his sister for a year. He proved to be a fine driver, is a car mechanic and knows about cars, though we didn't have any trouble to need his services, but I did let him do a lot of driving. He would hardly believe that a car that had gone over the road more than a hundred and twenty thousand miles could run so good. "My, don't that 75 Chrysler motor talk," he would say, as he occasionally stepped it up to 60 for a short distance. I had told him we would drive between 45 and 50. Then he would say, "Why, it runs and sounds like a new motor."

The first corn we saw with ears on it was north of Wausa and there was not much of it, only a field or two. There was more corn that would make fodder than in Valley county and there is some corn with ears on it over on the Missouri valley, but otherwise the whole country is as dry as it is around Ord. After crossing the river at Yankton we turned east and after 25 miles we began to run into better crops and 40 miles east the crops are good and for a hundred miles north which we drove on highway 77 through Sioux Falls they have good crops. Then there is a hundred miles or more of badly burned corn but all the way there is plenty of roughage. Late rains which we didn't get, enable the farmers to raise some forage crops.

Brockman Expects 50 Gridiron Candidates

Helmut Brockman, new Ord high school athletic mentor, issued 30 suits Monday to candidates for the football team and this number of boys were in suit for the first practice at 9 a. m. Tuesday. These practices will continue every day this week with Brockman grilling his proteges in fundamentals. School does not start until next Monday and many grid pupils will not check out suits until that time. About 25 outfits are still available and Coach Brockman expects to have a squad of 50 or more out for practice by the end of next week. Assistant Coach B. C. Cowell is reporting at the end of this week and will assist in practices from then on.

Number 4 fairway on the golf course is being used for a practice field and games will be played in the natural amphitheatre at Bussell park. The first game will be played in Ord on Sept. 28 with Scotia.

LOUP PROJECTS TO BE APPROVED, BURKE PROMISES

Says "Changes" Will Induce O. K. Of PWA Board; Still Plan Big Protest Meeting.

That little more difficulty will be encountered in obtaining PWA approval for the North Loup and Middle Loup power and irrigation projects was the statement of Congressman Edward R. Burke, democratic nominee for senator, upon returning to Omaha Monday from Washington, where he appeared before the PWA board in behalf of the Middle Loup project. "Necessary changes" must be made, Burke states in an interview with the Associated Press.

"I am confident that by making these changes we can get both projects approved," he said. "Secretary Ickes told me he favors continuing the PWA program for two more years, with additional appropriations of at least $500,000,000 a year in addition to repayments of earlier loans. If that policy is followed I believe that not only the Loup valleys but many other sections of Nebraska will benefit."

When Burke appeared before the PWA board last week with H. H. Henningsen, engineer for the Middle Loup project, he was informed that the board was rejecting the Middle Loup because it did not consider revenue bonds proper security.

Taxed with the fact that revenue bonds were considered good security in approving loans for fabulous amounts to the Sutherland and Columbus projects, a spokesman for the board stated that this was because these projects were primarily power projects, whereas the Middle Loup and North Loup projects are primarily irrigation projects with power production as a secondary factor.

The PWA board indicated that only general obligation bonds with land to be irrigated as security would be acceptable, which makes Burke's statement as to the likelihood of immediate approval very surprising. If the "necessary changes" that Mr. Burke mentions are to be a change to general obligation bonds instead of revenue bonds there is no possibility of approval, for sentiment in this valley and in the Middle Loup as well would be absolutely against giving such security. Without considering the unfairness of accepting revenue bonds for two Nebraska projects and requiring general obligation bonds of others, Loup valley people have stated all along that they will not give a mortgage on their farms to secure irrigation development.

Speaking before the Ord Rotary club Monday evening Marion J. Cushing said that plans are going forward for a monster mass meeting at Holdrege late this month to protest PWA rulings on Nebraska projects. Mr. Cushing and Luther Pierce of Burwell represent the North Loup on the committee making arrangements for this meeting.

The Middle Loup is represented by A. B. Outhouse and John Long. Other projects who will take part in the mass meeting are the Tri-County, Arkikare, Frenchman and Blue Creek. Senator George W. Norris will be the principal speaker. It is hoped the date for this meeting may be announced definitely next week and it is likewise hoped that 100 or more North Loup valley people, their cars decorated with banners urging approval of the project, will attend the meeting and help make Nebraska's protest sufficiently strong to reach the ears of President Roosevelt.

To informed observers here it appears like Congressman Burke is still playing politics in promising action on these projects. No doubt he hopes to keep Loup valley people satisfied until after the November election with promises that he can conveniently forget after he is elected senator.

—September 12 will be the regular meeting day for the Presbyterian aid. There will be a program during the afternoon.

JAMES, NORMAN CHOS'N CHAIRMEN OF TWO PARTIES

Bi-Annual Political Conventions Thursday Reveal Demos, C. O. P.'s Sure of Victory.

If certain expressions of confidence that emanated from committee rooms in the Valley county courthouse Thursday afternoon can be believed, both the democrats and republicans are certain of victory at the November election.

The democrats were holding their bi-annual gathering in the district court room fifty strong while republican delegates, slightly fewer in number but at least as enthusiastic, were convened in the sheriff's office.

Democrats, successful two years ago in grabbing off the presidency, gubernatorial chair, most of the prize federal and state offices and several county offices, feel sure history is to repeat itself. Republicans, on the other hand, see a big swing from belief in democrat policies during the months since March 4, 1933, when President Roosevelt took his chair.

Democrats point with pride to 3,500,000 men back to work, business reviving, farm prices soaring and confidence returning while republicans look askance at the other side of the ledger which shows 10,000,000 still unemployed, $6,500,000,000 spent, the NRA, the processing taxes, the breakdown of the PWA and other gloomy features of the "New Deal."

Valley county democrats last Thursday reelected Ralph W. Norman chairman and Ign. Klimka, Jr. secretary and then proceeded in a businesslike manner to select L. H. Bulger, Wm. A. Bartlett, Ralph W. Norman, A. W. Pierce, Ign. Klimka, H. C. Sample, John Collison and Chas. E. Wozniak as delegates to the state convention in Omaha today. Jake Earnest, Alfred Hill, Harry Bellinger, Jos. P. Barta, Geo. S. Mayo, Chas. Veleba, Ed A. Holch and Alvin Lee were chosen alternates. There was little oratory but a quiet feeling of optimism and confidence prevailed.

Republicans were called to order by Alvin Blessing and heard the long-time Valley county chairman announce that he could not be a candidate for Valley county chairman again because he is seeking election as state senator, then proceeded to elect E. C. James chairman and Clarence M. Davis secretary. Both are pillars of the party in the county.

Delegates to the state convention were V. W. Robbins, Chas. Rettenmayer, L. J. Payzant, John Skala, Alvin Hayward, M. J. Cushing, E. C. James, C. M. Davis, Joe Vasic and Don Roush. Alternates include Viggo Hansen, Henry Cremon, Mel Bower and Will Zabloudd.

Co. Board Protests Pheasant Shooting

The Valley county board of supervisors, in session Tuesday, unanimously passed a resolution directed to the Nebraska fish and game department protesting allowance of an open season on pheasants in Valley county this fall. Frank O'Connell, state game warden, announced a few days before that the season would be open for ten days as usual.

Last winter several thousand birds were trapped by the state and taken out of Valley county for distribution elsewhere, and because of the drouth practically no pheasants were hatched this summer. Opening the season for ten days under present conditions would be a great mistake, supervisors believe, which opinion seems to be shared by a majority of local nimrods.

The local board has no direct control over the situation but it is believed that the protest made Tuesday will cause the state department to reconsider its action, and close the season entirely in Valley county this fall.

3 Marriages Are Performed in Ord

Three marriages were performed in Ord this week. On Aug. 30th Father Lawler united Miss Evelyn Warholoski and Adam L. Kusek, both of Columbus, on Sept. 1 County Judge John L. Andersen married Miss Helen Jarmanek and Jason A. Evans, both of Loup City, and yesterday Rev. Mearl C. Smith performed the ceremony for Miss Ruth M. Jones and Harold E. Miller, both of Arcadia. The bride is a cousin of the Albert K. Jones family of Ord and was graduated from Ord high school last spring. Her husband was graduated from Arcadia high school in 1932. They will live on a farm near Arcadia.

We came through Ericson and Bartlett and east to Eigin on the new highway, but struck some detours and rough road. When the Bartlett-Eigin road is complete and there is a good road to Ericson from Ord we can make the trip up here in 570 miles. We did that this time, not counting the extra mileage for detours and we made it in 581 as it was. But when I come home I am going around by Atkinson and Burwell, which will be about 50 miles further but good road all the way.

I drove 4 miles out of my way to land young Marten at his little home town of Clarissa, which he said was only 4 miles from his country home. As we drove up to the filling station of his uncle to let him get out, his father walked out, so he was soon on his way home. His people didn't know he was coming and they were greatly surprised. Mr. Marten sr. asked me to tell Dorothy hello for him when I got home, but I know she will see it here and be glad to know that I met her father.

I am greatly pleased at the improvement Mrs. Burke has made since I left her in the hospital 5 weeks ago today. She is feeling fine, gaining in weight and I wasn't kidding her when I told her she looked 10 years younger.

There is a family in the Macowski cottage at the south end of the camp and the Simpsons are still here, otherwise the camp is deserted. The Macowski people go tomorrow and the Simpsons some time this week, as they have to get home for school, so we will be alone. It is not the first time however and if the weather gets good we will enjoy it. Mrs. Burke thinks she will be able to stand the trip back to Ord in a couple of weeks.

About a week from today we expect the L. T. Hallaway family from Iowa. We expect them to be with us about 10 days and any talking we want to do must be done before Mrs. Hallaway and her sister Mrs. Elsie Calloway get here for they hold the Iowa record for long distance talking. Mr. Hallaway has the management of several telephone exchanges for one of the big mid-western companies. (I hope the Hallaway women don't see this.) H. D. Leggett.

Care of The County Board, Ord, Nebr.

Dear Jake:
My sister, in California, writes that there is a movement there (they have lots of ideas in California) to the effect that the government shall pay every person over sixty years of age two hundred dollars a month. She says that the idea is gaining strength fast and everyone seems to be in favor of it as soon as the proposition is explained to them. There is only one requirement, and that is that the recipient spend the money. In that way we would soon start the circulation of the lucre in the place of soaking it away in the mattress or in the bank to make temptation for the bandits. As soon as this money has become well on its way in the typhoon, prosperity will dawn for all of us.

I am beginning to be converted to the idea myself. My wife's folks are both over sixty and so is my mother. I wish the measure would soon be adopted for not one of the three are of any too good health at the writing. Further, all three of these folks are none too exacting with me. They are the nicest folks to borrow money from I ever saw. They will loan me their last dollar and nearly starve before they ask me to pay them back. Then I would plan to rent my mother a room for about forty per and charge her a dollar for a bottle of milk. Great Guns, Jake, think of the possibilities!

And then think of how some of these old folks who are getting a dollar and twenty a week to live on would act. They would surely tell someone where to go in short order. And in place of five dollars a month rent, we might get enough to pay our taxes.

I presume that I better mention how this money is to be raised, although we all know that that is a minor matter now days. It is argued that we put on a sales tax of very small denomination. That would be all right. One more little tax on top of all of the others would not be noticed. Of course if there was too much "hollar" about that, we could just have Morgenthau issue some more bonds. No one objects to that way of paying. George G.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

It is high time pickle recipes were printed, as many cooks have already made their cucumbers up into something good. So if you have any you were planning to send in, please see that the Quiz gets them soon.

Most households have favorite recipes that are used year after year. But sometimes new recipes give approximately the same results with much less work, so it is always well to keep an eye open. Here are some that came a long way to Quiz readers.

Watermelon Pickles.
Weigh and cut in cubes eight pounds of watermelon rind, and soak in salty water overnight. Next morning drain and put in kettle. Cover with water and cook slowly until tender, drain and then pour this syrup over: four pounds sugar, one quart vinegar, one teaspoon allspice, two teaspoons cinnamon, two teaspoons whole cloves. Tie spices in a bag. Heat to boiling point, seal while hot. This makes four quarts of pickles.

Mrs. H. M. Veeder, Oshkosh, Chunk Pickles.
Cut enough cucumbers in chunks to make about a gallon. Put up in brine strong enough to float an egg. Let stand three days, and then put in clear water, changing the water each day for three days. The fourth day put the cucumbers in a kettle, and pour over them one cup vinegar, six cups water, alum the size of a walnut and simmer for two hours. Do not boil. Then drain. Make a mixture of six cups sugar, two cups vinegar, five cups water, one ounce stick cinnamon, one ounce whole allspice, add the cucumbers and cook to boiling point. Seal in jars while hot.

Sweet Pickles Delicious.
Use 75 cucumbers about four inches long, or enough to fill a two gallon jar. Wash and cover with a hot brine made by using one pint salt to one gallon boiling water. Let stand one week, skimming every day if necessary. Drain and cover with boiling water to which one tablespoon pulverized alum has been added. Let stand twenty-four hours, drain and place in jars. Use five pints of vinegar, six cups sugar, one-half ounce celery seed and one-half ounce cassia buds or stick cinnamon. Mix and bring to the boiling point and pour over pickles every morning for a week, each day pouring off the vinegar and heating to boiling before putting it back on the pickles. The first three mornings add a cup of sugar each morning, which with the six cups in the vinegar makes a total of nine cups. The pickles may then be sealed or left in an open jar, where they will keep a year.

Liberty Pickles.
Pour one gallon of boiling water and one pint of salt over two gallons cucumbers, let stand eight days, stirring well each day. On the ninth day take them out of the salt water and put in about a gallon of fresh boiling water for a day. Take them out next day, split every pickle, big or little and add one gallon of boiling water, one tablespoon powdered alum. On the eleventh day take pickles out and add two quarts vinegar to two quarts of alum water, and add eight cups sugar, two tablespoons celery seed, five cents worth of cinnamon bark or a little horseradish cut up fine. Heat to boiling point and pour over pickles. Let stand one day, drain this off and beat it and pour over them for three days in succession. On the second, third and fourth days put a pinch of them while making to keep them under liquid. These pickles will keep without sealing, and are the best I ever ate.

Mrs. L. T. Nichols, Loup City, Dill Pickles.
Boil for five minutes three quarts water, one quart vinegar, one cup salt. When cool pour over cucumbers that have been packed in jars with dill. They can be packed in open jars for use in early fall, but it is best to seal them up for winter use. Mrs. L. E. Nichols.
Next week we will print more of Mrs. Nichols' recipes for pickles.

The Ord high school opens next Monday with a full program of courses and a large enrollment. Courses of instruction will be given in business training, teacher training, manual arts, music, home-making, agriculture, dramatics, athletics, and college preparatory. Subjects offered include typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, business law, commercial geography, English, public speaking, Spanish, Latin, algebra, geometry, manual training, farm shop, animal husbandry, crops and soils, home economics, general science, biology, physics, chemistry, history, civics, music, sociology and physical training.

In the extra-curricular division are band, orchestra, glee clubs, Hi-Y Girl Reserves, F. F. A., G. A. A., Pep club, Dramatic club, and various other organizations. Competitions are held with other schools in commercial contests, music festivals, agricultural contests, Girls' Play Day, Academic contests, football, basketball, baseball, wrestling, track and tennis. There are also class days, parties, picnics and banquets.

The Ord teachers are specialists in their lines of teaching, and thoroughly experienced. They keep up-to-date by attending summer school, although they are not required to do so. The Ord school buildings are new, modern, safe, and sanitary. The high school is absolutely fire-proof.

Becoming School Minded

The Ord city schools program has been retained in full, despite reduction in the budget. Depressions do not affect the volume of business done by schools. Many graduates come back because they are unemployed and cannot afford to go to college. More parents are recognizing the value of high school training and making every possible sacrifice in order to send their children.

Something DIFFERENT

I heard a story about a Swedish gal, in Minnesota. She was a sedate proper young lady with a gentleman friend. One day at the house of a neighbor, she met the minister making visits, and he said to her pleasantly: "I am going to call on you." "You don't need to come call on me, ay got a nice gentleman friend already" announced the Swedish girl, tossing her head in a decidedly unfriendly manner.

One of the most peculiar things about the Minnesota lakes you learn the first time you try to mark a spot on the water where you want to come back to fish soon.

Most of the lakes are a mile or several miles across, and the shorelines vary somewhat, here some taller pines, there a big white pine, or perhaps nothing but birches. Maybe a rod or two has been burned off, and only undergrowth ten feet high covers the bank, or possibly a point of reeds juts into the lake.

But out in the middle it is only water. And one spot looks just like another. You find a gravelly bar on the bottom of the lake, perhaps, where pike bite quite accommodatingly. And decide you want to come back there to fish. So you sit in the boat, out on the water and look around. "How simple" you think, to return to this exact spot. You see, a fence here, reads here, a pine patch.

But when you come back to try to find that spot . . . that is when the fun begins. You find the water all looks the same. In vain you try to find that gravel bar. You think there was only a few feet of water to the east, then reads and the shore. And so it is with all your landmarks. They seem to be mysteriously uneasy and you can't quite make up your mind just where they were.

Natives soon learn to landmark their fishing spots. But even they have to do it carefully. They usually line up at least three lines of vision from different angles of the boat, and each line checks some object nearer at hand.

Thus, they row carefully until a certain big branch of a tree hangs over a certain house window, until a fence post near the water stands just before an enormous oak farther in the background, etc. Then to clinch matters, after all the signs are right, they sound the bottom of the lake with their anchor, to be sure the bottom is hard, not muddy or weedy.

It is really quite an art to be able to find one certain spot on the lake, anytime the fever strikes.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

25 Years Ago This Week.
I. S. Fretz, a former Valley county treasurer, dropped dead in front of the postoffice as he was discussing politics with a group of friends. While playing with matches, little John Misko started a fire in his mother's clothes closet and for a short time the whole house was threatened. W. J. Hather shipped eight of his prize pigs to a breeder in South America, the animals going to New York City by train and from there by steamer. Archie Coombs left for Oshkosh where he was superintendent of schools. Ord autoists turned out and took members of the Helen May Butler band, which was playing for cha-cha-cha, on a long ride about Ord and vicinity. James Ollis, jr., shipped in 1,000 head of sheep which he planned to fatten on his ranch south of Ord. Sheep feeding on such a scale was almost unknown here.

20 Years Ago This Week.
Company I, Ord's militia company, left for the annual encampment at Ashland. Officers were Alan Clements, captain, George R. Gard, second lieutenant, Roscoe Watson, first sergeant, N. H. Bolen, quartermaster sergeant, H. L. Mason, Chris Sorensen, Charles Watson, sergeants, W. J. Ramsey, M. H. Fuson, Roy Banister and Mike Socha, corporals, J. P. Doyle and E. A. Pratt, musicians, Ray, Nolan, artificer. Clarence King, a new barber in the Clate McGrew shop, absconded with cash from the till and much property while Mr. McGrew was on a vacation in South Dakota. A bad hailstorm laid waste a strip ten miles wide in the south part of Valley county. It was said to be the worst hail storm since 1885. David Squires was invited to judge farm products at the state fair.

The World war was just getting under way in Europe. The latest development was Japan's declaration of war on Germany because Germany refused to relinquish certain Chinese holdings. The annual Valley county fair was on, with good crowds attending every day.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—On her way to a position in Lostland Academy, Janet Moore, young professor of Berenice...

CHAPTER II.—Vaguely disturbed, and apprehensive, Janet watches from her window, a meeting between Haskell and a young man...

CHAPTER III.—Janet and Fleming, while visiting a waterfall in the vicinity, learn from Wilton Payne the story of the tragedy of Lostland Academy...

CHAPTER IV.—Payne visits an old farmer, Jerry Moore, the only witness of the drowning of the children, who, imitating mountain climbers, had roped themselves together...

CHAPTER V.—Reading diaries kept by the late Dr. Jethro Bracebridge, Payne senses something sinister in the drowning of the children...

CHAPTER VI.—From a resident in the neighborhood, Mrs. Welford, Payne learns much of interest, ascertaining the fact that the feeling of something sinister about the Academy is general in the community...

CHAPTER VII

WHEN Payne drove to Birdale several weeks later—the expedition had been twice postponed—Berenice, Janet and Arthur were with him, all of them in rather high spirits at the prospect of a trip over the hills and back unshadowed by Haskell's ever-watchful eye...

Birdale was a little, struggling town; but after the loneliness of Lostland academy it seemed a populous and exciting place. Wilton had the key made; and Janet executed some commissions for Mrs. Denver...

"I will—if that's your wish," the waitress answered warmly. "I don't like to be talked about myself."

In the motion-picture theater, Berenice, who was seated beside Wilton, whispered: "I hope this report will go no further. It's just like Balder to talk—and about things he is ignorant of. I wish he could be sent away."

"Strong men like Balder are in demand," Payne commented; "mere muscular strength is valuable in a vast place like the academy." He slipped the key into her hand.

"No, he doesn't." "And the scholars seem less afraid. They are getting used to the old place."

"It has become very dear to me," he whispered.

"I wish I hadn't heard that report about my guardian and myself."

"Forget it!" "Balder is always doing what he shouldn't do—but not what he should. I don't suppose he even burned the old tree."

"I think he did. It was there the first time I went back to the belfry; the next it was gone!"

"I'm glad! It made me lonesome, thinking of that dreary little tree up there. I believe I'll wear this key around my neck—under my dress. Be sure you remember to put the original back."

When they returned home they found Balder burning leaves on the other side of the garden from the pine grove.

"Don't speak to him about talking of your engagement, Berenice," Janet cautioned her. "Don't get his ill will."

Berenice promised to say nothing. Wilton, when he had put the car away, proposed a walk around the lake. "If you are not tired with all the excitement of the day."

She glanced back several times at the figure of Balder seen across the smoke and flame of the burning leaves.

"He's watching us. He pretends he isn't watching us, but he is—as he tosses the leaves, he's watching!"

"What of it? He cannot harm us." "I'm not so sure. He has a queer sort of fidelity to my guardian. He may resent—"

She broke off blushing. She had come too near to uttering a secret hope. Wilton, looking tenderly at her, saw in the signals of that rising color a prophecy of his own ultimate happiness—the fulfillment of his dearest wish!

A little, smooth path of white sand serpentine through the wood, its edges fern bordered; this they took until the fairy birches received them into their company, and ringed them from observation. The girl paused then with a sigh of relief, took off her knitted cap, and let her hair blow in the wind.

"Your hair is as yellow as the birch leaves. You are not afraid now?" "No!"

"Berenice, I never meant to tell you so soon—but, my dear—"

He paused, unable to meet her eyes or to utter the wild words of worship and adoration he had so often rehearsed to the lonely watches of the night—now they had flown from him as dreams flee. What was real was his stammering, his inability to tell her that she had become his inclosed world of glory and enchantment.

"Wilton—it isn't too soon. Here everything has to come quickly." "For the danger—the fear?"

The spirit of her eyes was one of intense demand and challenge—as if she sought the refuge of his arms for more than the bright valdities of love.

"To know you love me keeps the darkness back—keeps back what I most fear—what creeps up to me from all those sad, empty rooms and corridors." She pointed through the trees, across the blue, moving waters at the ivied building. "I am glad, Wilton—"

"I could not help it." "As if I wanted you to! We shall be married—soon." "We must keep our engagement secret."

"I would have to tell Janet." She started as the whirr of a partridge shook the bushes near them. "I feel nowhere safe from harm."

"Yes—and you've had rather a strange girlhood." She looked about her. "I'm glad you asked me to marry you here—out of doors. I shall never forget it. Here a little wintergreen plant close to my feet; a laurel bush behind us, a birch tree over us!"

He drew her into his arms, held her close—then a voice startled them apart. "Miss Berenice!" They turned. It was Balder, glowering at them evilily. "Your guardian wants you," he said, and threw Wilton an insolent and threatening look.

"Miss Bracebridge will come when she is ready. Please go back where you came from."

Balder drew himself to his full height. He was a terrifying spectacle as he shot an arm into the air with the curious precision of a machine.

"Don't get near my arm," he muttered. "I warn you to keep away."

"Leave us!" "You think you can have it all your own way in Lostland academy. You're not the boss."

"Go! I tell you." Balder turned away muttering "You'll be sorry."

Berenice addressed Wilton with passionate earnestness. "Oh, I am so sorry you spoke to him at all Wilton—he is so sullen, so revengeful. I am always afraid of him. I hate to go back. He'll go straight to Gordon Haskell—and what will happen to us then?"

"Nothing can happen to us, darling. Haven't we the right to love each other?" "Yes—but suppose he separates us?"

"He can't. I'll take you away first. Marry me at once." "If I marry under twenty-one I must have his consent."

They stood in silence, the chill breath of actuality turned their vernal hopes to December bleakness.

"You are free of him absolutely—at twenty-one. Give me your promise, dear, to wait for me—through everything."

"What else should I wait for?" "You haven't met many men, dear."

"No—but—I know that I could not change." She spoke without emotion, as quietly and with as much conviction as she would have affirmed that they were standing near a lake.

"Berenice, I think I shall go straight to your guardian and tell him. What can he do? He can't turn back the clock!"

"Do you think it's best? I'm not sure of him. He has strange moods, solitary rages, biting ways of cutting people short. His personality helped in the decay of the academy; Oh, I am talking most freely, but it is a relief!"

"Of course it is. You are only telling me things I've figured out largely for myself. Janet and Arthur see it, too."

"You see, if he should be angry and tell you to go—what would become of me?"

"Don't worry! My darling, I'd be standing within call like these everlasting pines. I can camp in the deserted village—anywhere! Or go to Jerry Moore. He'd lodge me for a while, I'm sure."

"Don't let us tell him," she pleaded. "But Balder will." "Then let us go together."

Hand in hand they went back to the academy, and the depression that nearly always settled upon Wilton's spirits when he entered the building pressed down like a black cloud—but a cloud whose heart was fire. They went into the great hall and Berenice paused beneath her father's painting.

"Here's my real guardian. Go get Gordon Haskell. I will tell him here."

But Wilton did not have to go far. Haskell was coming up the steps from the basement; his usually sleek hair matted and tumbled, his eyes quite bloodshot. He stared steadily at his teacher of psychology.

"So this is the way you abuse my confidence—making love to your pupil, a girl not yet twenty!" "I am twenty-eight," Wilton said. "Much nearer Miss Bracebridge's age than you are."

A welf of red showed in Haskell's face as if Wilton had actually struck him with a whip. "Oh, you scoundrel!" he muttered. "Scoundrel! Haskell, you forget yourself! What is wrong in love that is open and honest? Since you are Miss Bracebridge's guardian, I am telling you that we intend to be married some day; with your consent, of course, if we can get it—without it if we can't!"

"Defiance! Open defiance! I will pay you your quarter's salary and you can go! Never come back! If you attempt to write to Miss Bracebridge or see her, I'll take legal steps to prevent you—that's all."

"Gordon Haskell—you are wicked! wicked!" Berenice's white face and blazing eyes transformed her for the moment into an accusing angel. If you think I'll give up Wilton Payne for a thousand guardians, you do not know me!"

"You've only known this man for a few weeks." "No matter. Now you are not to turn him out of this place. He is a gentleman, a scholar, a man of honor. He pleaded with me to tell you at once—and came to do it—and this is your greeting."

"You need not go until Monday," Haskell muttered; "but then you must."

"I certainly shall go—and, I warn you, I shall also continue to see Miss Bracebridge; I am not penniless. Before I engaged to teach here a death in my family put me in possession of enough to keep me from depending wholly on my profession."

Haskell shrugged his shoulders and walked away.

Berenice stole to Payne's side. "Wilton, we must get his consent. I'd go anywhere with you—share any poverty!"

"We'll wait for each other." "Where will you go?" "I'll ask Jerry to take me to—and those of my pupils who want to finish this quarter with me—can—with no more obligation to me than they had before."

"I am afraid—he will make it very hard for you." "I'm glad I had nothing in my hand. I believe I would have used it on him. I can quite understand now why your brothers and sisters did not like him."

"Kiss me quite openly under my father's picture. I know he's blessing us."

They kissed. The great house was shrouded in silence! Wilton thought what a blessing if the footsteps of Haskell and Balder would die out from these walls forever, and the place be restored to a lost innocence and peace.

"Oh, my dear—what shall I do in this great place without you?" "I'll stay near by. I can work and study; and plan for the future. Life is all ours."

He told Janet and Arthur that evening. The two were in dismay. "Let us all leave," Arthur exclaimed. "Let's clear out and leave the brute and take Berenice with us."

"What good would that do, Arthur?" Janet remonstrated. "It would only make matters worse! No, I think we must stay and help her in another way."

"You're right, Janet," Wilton said. "I want to get to the root of the trouble here, and maybe I can get to the root much quicker from the outside."

Arthur looked earnestly at him. "You'll never have a finer field for psychological research. What do you think Haskell's game is?"

"He wants Berenice's money, I'm sure—but I think he's fond of her, too. You generally love what you protect, and as her guardian I suppose his affection and his sense of power increased together."

"On Sunday he called at Jerry Moore's and was able to make satisfactory arrangements with him. "It will be good to have ye," Jerry commented. "He turned you out for courtin', eh? Well, I think Berenice done right to take ye—if you ask me!"

Wilton did not ask him many things. His parting from Berenice had been ardent, sorrowful, defeated and determined! She had promised him that with Mrs. Denver or Janet for a companion she would make her usual visits to Jerry. Wilton consoled himself by talking of her with the old farmer, whose admiration of Berenice was as great as his own. He spoke one night of the Christmas tree. Jerry took out his pipe and stared at him.

"That ain't around yet?" "Not now—he burned it."

"Balder always did act queer about that tree. He led to you when he said he saw it floating down. He brought it down himself on old White Star's back. White was a draught horse they used to have. After the funeral Mrs. Bracebridge sent Jerry up to fetch down the tent and other things. The tree had an American flag on it, so Balder—I was helpin' him—he says, 'I'll take down the hull business. They'll want the stand maybe.' Why for he didn't burn it I don't know—but Balder's a half-witted loon any way you take him."

Wilton thought the description accurate.

Apart from his separation from Berenice he rather relished his change of surroundings. The stark simplicities of life were always congenial to him; and the plain old farmhouse, the silence of the great hills, the bright procession of the winter days—it was an open and friendly winter—all combined to content him. Arthur he saw almost every day, Berenice every week at least; when Janet could not come with her Mrs. Denver did. The little housekeeper was no more reassured than she had been the day of her arrival; the pupils were falling off, she said; the story of Wilton's dismissal had gotten about and he had many sympathizers.

"When the last pupil goes, I'm going," she announced one day. "I shall be the last pupil," Berenice said. "You'll wait for me, Mrs. Denver."

They left the housekeeper and Jerry talking on the subject of fruit preserving and went out into the cold for their own conference, more important to them than the plans of the Olympians.

"Why did you say you would be the last pupil, dear?" Wilton asked her.

"Because I know that many of them are not coming back after the Christmas holidays; there are rumors about; since Sally Welford's story of seeing my brothers and sisters—rumors that harm might come to people in the academy. Now, isn't that foolish?"

"No, I don't think it is!" "I mean actual physical harm, not queer feelings and fear."

Feed Everybody? Big Job Roads Ask $170,000,000 Can't Shoot Santa Claus Steel Coffin for Wong

It is announced that the government will feed, at public expense, men that go on strike while the strike lasts. The American Federation of Labor representative in the South says the 500,000 textile workers about to go on strike will look to the government to take care of them while the strike lasts.

According to the Associated Press, Harry L. Hopkins, government relief administrator, says: "It is a surprising thing to me we haven't had a d--d sight more strikes than we have."

We shall probably have strikes in sufficient number if the government supports all strikers, and, if it should decide to pay them out of public moneys the wages they are asking while the strike lasts, there might be a great many strikes.

Railroads ask for an increase of $170,000,000 in freight rates to offset increased expenses which "reflect economic policies of the government." Railroads must run, and if the people are not paying enough they must pay more. It is to be hoped that increased payment will provide good pay for railroad workers, conductors, engineers, trainmen, track walkers, all others.

The "American Liberty league," organized to protect the beautiful old American dollar and "vested interests" from the "New Deal," expects former governor Al Smith to help.

Mr. John W. Davis, who also ran for President on the Democratic ticket, is said to be with the league "heart and soul."

Former Governor Smith's friends think he may be "too busy."

The probability of beating President Roosevelt's party this fall was expressed well by a former Democratic cabinet member who is not a Roosevelt man:

"You can't shoot Santa Claus, you know, especially around Christmas."

Edmund Wong On Wah, Chinese air pilot, dreamed that he crashed after a collision, and told his American wife that when he did die he wanted an iron coffin.

Wong On Wah was selected with another Chinese flyer, Fong Shek, to maneuver above the steamship Bremen, bringing in Gen. Chang Fahway. The planes collided, Wong was killed and his desire to fly and fight for the Chinese army thwarted. He will be buried here in a $750 steel coffin. General Chang, whom Wong never saw, gave the order.

Why do you suppose Wong wanted an iron coffin? It could not keep the soul in or keep the worms out, presumably. Many prosperous Americans are buried in coffins of bronze.

Not long ago Mussolini and Hitler met with all signs of amity eternal at Venice. Hands were clasped, vows of friendship and co-operation exchanged. Mussolini was to visit Hitler at his country estate as soon as possible, and the world said, "How lovely to see dictator brethren dwelling together in amity!"

And now the Mussolini visit to Hitler is postponed indefinitely. Mussolini did not like the Dollfuss assassination, and seems to hold Hitler's Nazi friends responsible.

Europe discusses the expulsion of Mrs. Sinclair Lewis from Germany as a forerunner of rigid press control. All copies of the London Times in German were recently seized and it is expected that foreign correspondents will be asked to leave if they write anything displeasing to Hitler. Engines would not last long without a safety valve, and liberty does not last long without free expression of opinion.

Modern dictators need to encroach several hairs' breadth on established liberties, and all agree with Napoleon, who said his power would last but a few weeks if he permitted freedom of the press.

Germany, preparing for a hard winter and with scarcity, is endeavoring, through Propaganda Minister Goebbels, "to establish hunger as a virtue" and arouse the people's enthusiasm concerning the duty of "doing without."

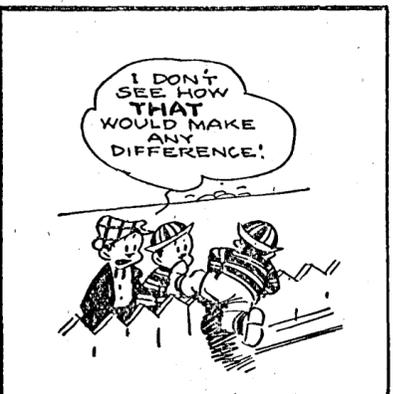

In this country also we expect a hard winter, but instead of a glorifying of hunger and the "noble patriotism of going without," our government says: "Nobody shall be hungry." The American plan will be the more popular.

Lord Edward Montagu, second son of the Duke of Manchester, thought he would join the French Foreign Legion, changed his mind, started a "hot dog" stand on the edge of the Thames, at Maldenhead, and is well satisfied.

He sells coffee, soft drinks and sandwiches with his hot dogs, and he made four pounds in 24 hours and finds hot dogs more comfortable and profitable than the Foreign Legion.

WOMAN'S MIXED DIET WAS ALL HARDWARE

Pins, Tacks and Screws Included in Her Menu.

New York.—The astonishing results of an operation performed on a woman patient at the Kings county hospital were made public. Physicians reported that 1,203 separate items of hardware were removed from the stomach of Miss Mabel Wolf of Brooklyn. She is recovering from the operation and, with prolonged rest and a more orthodox diet, is expected before long to be well.

The items removed include tacks, nails, screws, pins, beads, wire, glass and bolts. They were swallowed, according to her story, in a single week five years ago. She then was employed in the hardware department of a Manhattan department store.

"I guess I did it to be funny," she explained.

The doctor's inventory reads:

- 534 fine upholstery tacks,
- 144 carpet tacks,
- 2 chair tacks,
- 1 roundheaded thumbtack,
- 3 thumbtacks (ordinary),
- 46 small screws,
- 6 medium screws,
- 80 large screws,
- 1 hook-shaped screw (coat hanger),
- 30 small bolts,
- 47 larger bolts,
- 3 picture hooks,
- 3 nuts,
- 2 large bent safety pins.

Far Fields

By LEETE STONE

© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service

THEY were companions, and they spoke to each other; each in the fashion; from their separate cages. One was a trusty in a penitentiary, and the other was a golden canary. The lilting song of the bird and the crisp whistle of the man exchanged daily greetings across the straggling space that separated them.

This was one of the first days of spring.

Number 991 pressed 'his cheekbones against the bars of his open window. Even the metal felt less cold and unyielding than usual. Zephyrs stirred his sandy hair which had become much thinner during the ten years of incarceration. This morning out of the ruts of resignation which had claimed his spirit from the first rose a consuming desire for the far fields of freedom and the nomad life that had once been his.

Eyes bent on his little chum whose cage hung in another open window over the way this wondrous April day, Number 991 indulged his whimsicality of guarded conversation: "Can we stick another winter here, little one?" he whispered.

Notes of song trilled over to him as if in direct answer.

"Meaning 'Cheerful' and 'Carry on' and all the rest of the uplift stuff," Number 991 muttered with a wry mouth.

About to turn away from the window, his gaze—which had been riveted on the cage—was caught by the sight of a child scrambling onto a chair which stood beneath it. The child was small and had trouble making the grade; but finally stood on the chair and commenced fussing with the tiny door of the bird's prison. At once a woman appeared on the scene, removed the child with apparent scoldings and pushing the chair away.

The significance of this ordinary incident flooded the man's mind with the conviction that some day the child would succeed with its mischief and his little companion would escape to those far fields of freedom that nagged their hearts perpetually.

Thus the idea of escape was born in Number 991 on this day of lovely promise which had suddenly new meaning to him. Amazed, and somewhat bewildered, he for the first time realized how many opportunities he had missed; wrapped as he had been during the years in the dull inertia of confinement and prison shop labor. The check-up of tools was often lax. It would be simple to confiscate and conceal files and oil. Nights were long in which to softly sever his bars.

He felt that escape for the little pal was destined. Why not for him, too?

The chance to secure tools came soon and Number 991 became a different man. He stepped out of the prison rut of resignation into the province of love of life. A thousand sleepless nights had taught him where the night guard of his cell-block would be at any given moment. No detail of secrecy eluded him. Night by night the four little rifts in two of his bars grew imperceptibly deeper.

Intimacy, also, progressed between the bird and the man. Never a morning that they did not exchange buoyancies:

"How you coming, friend?" Carrolled over.

"Fine! How 'bout you, little one?" Whistled back.

The morning came when all but the last few strokes of the file had been taken. A few more deft moments' work would spell separation of the steel and—escape! Watching the bird across the way, the man's body stiffened suddenly and his cheekbones pressed the bars so closely that he feared they might give way.

The child was dragging the chair under the canary's cage again. Today! The child climbed on the chair; fussed with the cage door, and opened it. The golden bird winged swift flight through the open window, and downward, beyond the man's impetuous gaze that strove to follow.

Number 991's joy mounted to the peak of elation. The little pal was free to travel the far fields—travel with him—to indulge fantasy.

Number 991 remained long at the window planning his own escape for that very night. He dreamed as he sniffed the blossom-scented air hungrily. Then he noticed the little boy; shoulder drooped in penitence; going out of the house opposite and disappear around the corner.

But why did the child return running followed closely by a sleek black cat, and carrying something in small, cupped hands as he screamed for his mother. Number 991's eyes strained to see! They caught a glimpse of a lifeless little blob of yellow from which the feathers drooped away.

Number 991 turned away from his nearly severed bars, despair in the deep lines of his sagging face. With a watchful look everywhere first, he flung the tiny files through his bars and they disappeared in the tall grass of prison acres just as the morning shop bell clanged through the corridors. Far fields indeed!

Pat's Ready Reply Saves Him From Jail Sentence

Philadelphia.—Pat was in the police lineup as usual.

"What's the charge?" asked Magistrate Holland, "the usual thing?"

"Yes," said the arresting officer, "and I'm tired of it. Every time he gets any money he gets drunk, and every time he gets drunk he starts fighting. I wish you'd lock him up."

"That's right," volunteered another patrolman, "he's an awful pest on my beat, too. He ought to go away for a while."

"Well," said Judge Holland, "you don't seem to have many friends around here. What do you say for yourself?"

"Judge," said Pat, "just as long as you're my friend I don't give a tinker's dam for these gentlemen."

"Discharged. Next case."

VOL. 52 NO. 24

CHARGES WIFE'S LOVE ALIENATED, SUES FOR $10,000

Steve Polak Claims Parents Of His Wife Broke Up Romance And Induced Divorce Suit.

Charging that his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Narcz Gizinski, broke up his romance by inducing their daughter to leave him shortly after their marriage January 4, 1934, Steven J. Polak Monday filed a damage suit for $10,000 in district court here. His attorneys are Davis & Vogelanz.

Mr. Polak and his bride, the former Miss Clara D. Gizinski, were married January 4 at Rawlins, Wyo., and for a short time were very happy, he alleges in his suit. Then his wife began to receive letters from her parents traducing him. Five or six letters came, in all, and in each of them Mr. Polak was abused and called vile names, he claims.

The Gizinskis wrote their daughter they would leave all their property to her if she would leave her husband, Polak says, and late in February she returned to Ord leaving her husband in Rawlins. Shortly afterward he too came to Ord and attempted a reconciliation to no avail. He was prepared to establish a home and support his wife properly but her parents countered by giving her an automobile and money and she refused to live with her husband, he says.

On August 15 Mrs. Polak filed suit for divorce, alleging extreme cruelty and non-support, but hearing has not yet been held. She is represented in this suit by Hardenbrook & Misko.

Mr. Polak values his wife's love, aid and companionship at $10,000, this being the amount asked in his alienation of affections suit filed Monday against Mr. and Mrs. Gizinski.

Only 10 Cases Typhoid.

The quiz is in receipt of a letter from Dr. Howard Royer, of Scotia, in which it is claimed that only ten cases of typhoid fever developed during the recent epidemic there, that all are practically recovered and that there have been no new cases in the past three weeks. Previous reports had indicated there were 30 or more cases in Scotia but this is denied by Dr. Royer.

Ships 5 Trucks of Cattle.

One of the largest truck shipments of cattle that ever went out of Valley county was shipped yesterday by Charles E. Johnson, supervisor from District 5 and former chairman of the county board. There were five large truck loads being hauled by Truckers Headquarters of Ord. The cattle went to the Omaha market.

Martinsen-Nedbalek.

On Tuesday, Sept. 11 in the home of County Judge John L. Andersen occurred the marriage of Miss Lila Martinson, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martinson, to Thomas Nedbalek, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Nedbalek. Judge Andersen performed the ceremony. The wedding dinner was served in the home of the bride's parents and that evening a dance was given in the Nedbalek country home. The newlyweds left yesterday on a wedding trip to Scottsbluff. Both are well known and deservedly popular young people and will continue to live in the Ord community.

Former Ford Dealer Laid To Rest in Ord

DENNIS B. HUFF. "Dah" Huff, who managed the Ord Independent Telephone company and later was a popular Ford dealer in Ord, was laid to rest here September 4. He passed away at his home in Omaha August 31 after a long illness. Dan, as he was known to a host of friends, lived in Ord twenty years.

Daryl Hardenbrook Weds Fremont Girl

Daryl Hardenbrook, a son of Bert M. Hardenbrook of Ord, last Friday was united in marriage at Grand Island to Miss Helen Marie Paasch, a daughter of Mrs. Walter Hansen of Fremont. They left immediately for Colorado on a brief wedding trip and later will make their home in Ord, where Daryl has temporary employment at the Quiz office. For the present Mrs. Hardenbrook will continue to hold her position as a stenographer in an office at Fremont.

A graduate of Ord high school, Daryl learned the printing trade in the Quiz office and for several years was employed at newspaper shops in Blair, Hastings and other cities. His bride is a graduate of the Fremont public schools and is said to be a charming and talented young lady. She has often visited in Ord.

Mrs. Minnie Myers Dies.

Mrs. Minnie Myers, 54, a former resident of Ord, passed away last week in Salinas, Calif., and the body was brought to York, Neb., for burial Tuesday. While in Ord Mrs. Myers was employed in the C. C. Brown home. She went from here to Loveland, Colo., and had charge of a rooming house and later was employed in a hospital. While here Mrs. Myers suffered from diabetes and it is assumed this disease caused her death.

Pheasant Season Cut To 7 Days, Bag Limit to 4

A seven-day pheasant hunting season from 7 a. m. October 12 to 6 p. m. October 18 was announced last Thursday by the Nebraska fish and game commission, the reduction from a ten-day season being made because of the drought. At the same time the commission announced that the bag limit would be four birds, three cocks and one hen or four cocks. Last year the daily bag limit was five birds.

The protest of an open season made last week by the Valley county board of supervisors had not yet been acted upon by the state board but it is possible that the protest will be overruled and the seven-day open season allowed here, since commission members say an open season of some sort is necessary in order that the state may have the $1 license fees to finance its hatcheries, reserves, game feeding, law enforcement and other activities.

Home Loans Totalling $81,715, Says Norman

Forty-three loans by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation totalling $81,715 have been made in Valley county to date, reports Ralph W. Norman, attorney for the HOLC here. Ninety-six applications for loans have been received and 43 of them have been closed and the money expended. Several others will be closed soon.

Out of the total loan amount here $6,881 has been expended for delinquent taxes, and $3,409 for repairs. The loans have averaged $1,900.34 each.

The HOLC is now prepared to loan money for home reconditioning, Mr. Norman says, but the only property owners eligible to borrow are those who have already secured loans from the corporation, those who are eligible to have their mortgages taken over by the corporation or those who own their homes clear of any mortgage but who cannot get loans from private agencies.

Della Benson Is Married.

Ord friends last week received announcements of the marriage on August 23 at Craig, Colo., of Miss Della Benson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie J. Benson of Ord, to Vilas Pettigrew Sheldon, Jr., of Colo. The bride is a native Ord girl, a graduate of the Ord schools and later of the University of Nebraska. She taught in the high school at Oshkosh for several years and is a charming, efficient and popular young lady. Her husband is not known here. Ord friends extend congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon.

Steve Carkoski, Marie Kruml Wed

Two of Ord's most popular young people, Miss Marie Kruml and Steve Carkoski, were united in marriage at 6:00 a. m. Wednesday, Sept. 12, by Father Lawler at the Ord Catholic church. Only immediate relatives and a few close friends were present. After the ceremony breakfast was served in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Kruml, after which Mr. and Mrs. Carkoski left on a brief wedding trip.

The bride is a beautiful and talented young lady, is a graduate nurse and for several months has been assisting in the office of her brother, Dr. J. G. Kruml. Her husband is an employe of the Kokes Hardware store and is one of Ord's best liked young business men. Mr. and Mrs. Carkoski will continue to make their home in Ord.

BELATED RAINS GREATLY HELP FALL PASTURES

Almost An Inch Fell Sunday, Will Aid Drouth Situation; Much Rye Planted.

For the first time this summer Valley county pastures are showing a tinge of green as a result of two fine rains that have fallen in the past ten days. The first rain came Sunday, Sept. 2 when 2.35 inches fell here and the second Sunday, Sept. 9 when the government gauge in Ord showed a down-pour of .73 of an inch. Some parts of the county received four inches in the two showers and if frost is with-held for two or three weeks pastures will be good over much of Valley county this fall.

Thousands of acres have been planted to rye during the past ten days and much more will be planted this week. Other fall seeding is well under way.

The feed situation looks considerably better because of the recent moisture but hundreds of tons of prairie hay, alfalfa and corn fodder will have to be shipped in.

Will Broadcast Sunday.

Friends of the Joe Puncocar orchestra will want to be listening in Sunday afternoon when the Ord group of musicians broadcasts over station KGBZ, York, from 4:30 until 6:00 p. m. The Puncocar orchestra has played over the radio on several previous occasions and always proves popular with a steadily growing air audience.

Legion, Auxiliary Elect New Officers

Cecil Clark was reelected commander of the Ord post, American Legion, Monday evening when the Legion held its regular meeting. Other officers elected Monday include Orville H. Sowl, vice commander, Dr. F. L. Blessing, adjutant, and Horace Travis, financial officer. Other Legion officers are to be appointed by Commandeur Clark.

Officers elected by the Auxiliary Monday evening include Mrs. C. J. Mortensen, president, Mrs. Stanley McLain, first vice president, Mrs. H. H. Hohn, second vice president, Elsie Waterman, sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Edith Jones, chaplain.

The Auxiliary will hold a bake sale Saturday at the Fafetta grocery and proceeds will be turned over to the Legion-Auxiliary High School Band Uniform fund, in which there is now about $100. In November the Legion expects to give a minstrel show or similar program to raise money for this fund and other efforts are planned for the near future. Dean S. Duncan, director of the Ord high school band, estimates the cost of outfitting the band in new uniforms at $400 and the Legion and Auxiliary hope to raise this money during the fall and winter so that the band may go to state contests next spring in new attire.

Mira Valley People At Family Re-union

In spite of the rain Sunday seventy-nine people from Mira Valley, York and Grand Island met at Schimmer's lake at Grand Island and enjoyed a family reunion. Present were the Foth and Graul families from Mira Valley, the Ziemke and Schoenick families from York and Waco, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Bredthauer and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Fuss from Grand Island. These families make a practice of getting together once or twice each year and always have a picnic dinner and spend the afternoon visiting and playing games, which was the program followed this year. The reunion was originally scheduled for the preceding Sunday but had to be postponed because of the heavy rain that day.

On University "A" Team.

A picture of Coach Dana Bible's University of Nebraska "A" squad appeared in state papers yesterday and on it are two Ord boys, Bill Garnick and Kenneth McGinnis. Both starred on Ord HI teams in former years. Garnick is a leading candidate for guard on the Cornhusker team and McGinnis is seeking an end berth.

Popcorn Days Under Way At North Loup

All roads lead to North Loup yesterday and again today for there the annual Popcorn Days are in progress. With the Valley county fair suspended, Popcorn Days is the only fall festival given in this county and large crowds are attending. The usual afternoon and evening programs are being given each day.

Gov't Will Buy Sheep.

Any farmer in Valley county who wishes to sell sheep to the government should list them immediately at the county agent's office. Ewes over 1 year of age will be bought at a flat price of $2.00 each. There will be only one sheep buying day here. Government cattle buying has been suspended here until after Oct. 1, but if any farmer wishes to sell his cattle at Burwell or other outside points he should list them with the Valley county agent. Unless four or five hundred head are listed to be sold at one point, no sale will be held.

Young Republican Club Formed Here

Meeting at the office of Davis & Vogelanz Tuesday evening, young men of Ord who affiliate with the republican party formed a Young Republican club, electing C. B. Gudmundsen chairman, Jack Morrison vice chairman and Rex Jewett secretary. An executive committee composed of Morrison, John Misko and George Satterfield was appointed by the chairman and will attempt to interest new members and otherwise assist officers in carrying on the work of the organization.

Similar clubs have been formed all over Nebraska, the aim being to foster the principles of the republican party among new voters and work for the election of republican candidates.

E. C. James, chairman of the Valley county republican central committee, and C. M. Davis, secretary, attended the Young Republican meeting and assisted in the organization.

Will Head CCC Camp.

For the past two years the Joe Catlin family has lived in Ord, Mr. Catlin being employed by the International Harvester Co. Last week they moved to Sidney, Ia., where Mr. Catlin will supervise construction of a new CCC camp being built to do soil erosion work. When the camp is completed he will have charge as superintendent. Ord is sorry to lose this fine family, Mrs. Catlin having been active in club and church circles and Mr. Catlin assisting in the boys' work of various organizations including the Ord schools. He is a former Midland college athlete and mentor and was a star athlete while attending college.

Mrs. Francella Drake Laid to Rest Friday

Funeral services were held at the Frazier chapel last Friday, Sept. 7, for Mrs. Francella Drake, long-time Ord resident who passed away the preceding day at the age of ninety. She had long been in ill health. Rev. L. M. Real conducted the last rites and interment was in Ord cemetery.

Born in Napoleon, Mich., March 20, 1844, she deceased was married to Jerry Drake on Oct. 18, 1880 and with him came to Ord in 1884, this town being her home most of the years since. To Mr. and Mrs. Drake were born four children, of whom three daughters preceded their mother in death. One son, Roy Drake, now lives in the state of Washington, having recently moved there from Ord. Mrs. Drake is also mourned by five grandchildren, six great grandchildren and one great grandchild. Mr. Drake died in April, 1914.

Gets Job On Big Ditch.

Leonard Kemp, of Osceola, who for several months has been federal reemployment manager in Polk county, lost his job a few days ago only to get a better one. The reemployment office was discontinued on Sept. 1 but three days later Kemp was instructed to report at Columbus, where he was given a job operating a blue-print machine on the big power canal being built with federal funds. The job will last a year or more. Leonard is a former Ord boy.

First Horse Auction Was Big Success

Over 100 head of horses and mules were sold at the first special horse sale of the The Weller-Williams Auction company held in Ord last Friday. Prices ranged from $5.00 a head on plugs to $145.00 for the best horse.

They will hold another joint horse and mule sale on Thursday September 20. Col. Weller announces that they will also sell cattle and hogs on the same day and will hold no sale on Saturday, September 22, as he has been employed to sell 1500 head of cattle for The Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation on that day. This sale will be held at Ewing, Nebr.

Liberty Bonds Called.

Henry Morgenthau, jr., secretary of the U. S. Treasury, has announced that all outstanding Fourth Liberty Loan bonds bearing serial numbers ending with the digit 2 or 8 are called for redemption on Oct. 15, 1934, on which date interest on such called bonds will cease. For a limited time beginning Sept. 10, holders of such bonds are offered the privilege of exchanging all or part of their called bonds for other interest-bearing obligations of the United States. Holders of such bonds who wish to take advantage of this exchange should act promptly and if not exchanged, such called bonds should be presented for redemption Oct. 15. Ord bankers will be glad to assist bondholders in exchanging the bonds or redeeming them.

E D'S BATTERY SOFTBALL TEAM IS CITY CHAMPION

Beat Springdale In Season Final Tuesday Eve; 7th-Inning Rally Broke Tie.

By defeating Springdale 4 to 3 in the final softball game of the season Tuesday evening, Ed's Battery team won the championship of the Ord city league. The game was a ding-dong affair, the Battery team taking an early lead, Springdale tying the count at 3-3 in the first half of the 7th and the Battery team pushing a run across in the last of the 7th to take a 4-3 lead and win.

The league season this year was split and Ed's Battery team, which is managed by Ed Michalek, won the first half. The second half closed with Springdale and the Golden Rule teams tied, so before the all-season champ could be determined these teams had to fight it out.

The first game at Bussell park Tuesday evening therefore was played between Springdale and the Golden Rule and Springdale won, 3 to 6. Athey pitched good ball for the winners with Christensen as his battery mate. Ayres did the chucking for the losers with Manager Beeghly as catcher.

A large crowd was present when the championship game got under way between the Batteries and Springdale and fans saw a real game. By agreement, each team had bolstered its line-up with two players chosen from other league teams, Manager Michalek taking Catcher Harry Wolf and Shortstop Ray Peters and the Springdale boys choosing Pitcher Shunkwiler and Catcher Lashmutt, although they played the latter in the field and let their regular catcher, Christensen, do the back-stopping.

Both Nay, Battery pitcher, and Shunkwiler were in good form and hits were few. Excellent support was accorded both pitchers, also. The game had to be decided on breaks and the Battery boys got them for in the first half of the seventh, with the score 3 to 1 in favor of the Bats, Shunkwiler of Springdale was on second base with none out, only to be retired by the umpire when he failed to stand on the bag as Pitcher Nay worked on the next batter. Softball rules require runners to remain on base until the ball has passed the batter, in which respect it differs greatly from regulation baseball. Later in the inning Springdale scored two runs and tied the count and had Shunkwiler hugged his base a little tighter the Springdale team would have had a chance at victory. In the last of the 7th the Batteries pushed the winning run across on an error and two hits.

Except for exhibition games and possible tournaments the softball season is over in Ord for this summer. Much interest has been aroused throughout the season, over 100 boys and men have engaged in healthful sport by playing on the various league teams and the season has been a success in every way.

Given Anniversary Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Milligan left yesterday for Long Beach, Calif., to visit several children who live there, accompanying Archie Keep, who was driving through. The Milligans expect to celebrate the 50th anniversary of their wedding in November and the trip to California was a gift from their children.

Will Have Major Operation.

Yesterday Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Miller left by auto for Chicago, where they are spending several days. From there they plan to drive to Rochester, Minn., where Dr. Miller will undergo major surgery.

Polly, the Ramsey Parrot, Dies At Age of Fifty

Polly, fifty-year-old parrot owned by Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ramsey, is dead. She died last week and her owners are disconsolate for Polly had for years been a pet in the Ramsey home and seemed almost like one of the family.

Brought to Ord by Mr. and Mrs. John Ratliff, the parents of Mrs. James Millford, Polly was acquired by Mrs. Ramsey twenty-seven years ago and had lived in her home ever since. She was a very wise old bird and was a great conversationalist, having at the tip of her tongue every word and sentence she had ever heard uttered.

Although Polly's voice is stifled by death, she will be stuffed and mounted and kept in the Ramsey home.

Highway Safety Month Universal Draft Wanted Nazis Warned Against Jews Strikes and the Lord

Governors of forty-three states join in proclaiming September "Street and Highway Safety month." States issuing the call possess twenty-one million of the nation's automobiles, and they average twenty-six thousand seven hundred deaths from automobile accidents annually. The nation's "grand total" is thirty thousand five hundred such deaths.

Details wired by Mr. G. D. Newton of Hartford, Conn., show that this year thus far deaths from automobile accidents are running 20 per cent ahead of last year, meaning probably thirty-six thousand deaths for 1934.

Secretary of Commerce Roper, chairman of the national conference on street and highway safety, urges concerted action through the nation, and there is certainly need of it. The increase in deaths, unfortunately, indicates increasing recklessness among Americans, and, more unfortunately, increased recklessness in drinking.

The New York State American Legion demands a new law that would give government the power to draft everybody in case of war, with power to control all manufactures, railroads, etc. The national government assumed all those rights and powers last time, and would do so again without any special law.

Many would advocate a law forbidding any wholesale conscription of American youth or cash without a preliminary vote, allowing the people to express their opinion.

Rudolf Hess, chosen to succeed Hitler if the Lord should take the chancellor, warns members of the Nazi party not to employ Jewish lawyers, recommend any Jew for official or other positions, and Nazi party members must not associate publicly with Jews. That should suit self-respecting Jews, if some of the things that Chancellor Hitler said concerning the moral character of Nazis recently executed by his order are true.

Northern strikers of the "hard-boiled, he-man type" may cry "Crisis!" reading of a strike meeting in North Carolina that turned into a religious camp meeting with prayers and loud cries of "Amen."

Mr. Lawrence, eloquent strike leader, telling his followers, "Trust in God, for he is with us, as he is with all those whose cause is just." Scoffers may remember that Cromwell also prayed and took the Lord for his partner on all occasions, and what he did to privilege and power was a good deal. He is one man that never lost a battle; he cut off the king's head, and his enemies feared him long after he was dead.

The eloquent Mr. Lawrence told his strikers, "The first strike on record was the strike in which Moses led the children of Israel out of slavery, from Egypt." The first strike, some would say, is described by Milton, telling of Lucifer and his attempt to rule in heaven. Others would say that Eve was the first striker, bored, with no one but Adam to talk to, delighted to meet the serpent, although she was sorry later and wished she had not struck against the rule concerning the forbidden tree.

Another courageous flier, Douglas Davis, was killed while striving to win the Thompson trophy race at Cleveland just after he had broken another record. Col. Roscoe Turner, who recently again broke the Pacific to Atlantic record, won the Thompson trophy.

Davis, a modest young Georgian, just before his death had beaten the land speed record, going above 300 miles an hour. He will be content to have that record engraved on his tombstone. Wedell, who set the previous record, was killed recently trying to do better. This country has many brave fliers.

Impossible things do happen. At Jonesboro, Ark., Leon Brown and Homer Stewart, rival candidates for deputy clerk, each got 754 votes. The learned Dr. Newton H. Brown of Arkansas State college says, with one election a year, such a thing, according to mathematical probability, would not happen again before the year 1,600,196, or 1,607,202 years from now. Even then the human race will still be young, since science assures you that men will live here for hundreds of millions of years more.

A scientist of South Africa announces that the puff adder's venom is the basis of a new drug producing amazingly good results in treatment of epilepsy, 20 per cent of patients cured, 74 per cent greatly improved, according to an interesting article by Gobind Behari Lal. In this country it is understood that the puff adder, swelling out his cheeks, cobra-fashion, only pretends to be poisonous. Perhaps Africa has a worse puff adder.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Just because you have only the old stand-by ingredients in the house, do not think you can't produce new and delightful dishes with which to please your family. The possibilities seem to be far from exhausted, and the new dishes do not necessarily need to be something odd that will be gazed at but hardly sampled by your family, let alone welcomed.

Peanut Butter Cookies. That is an old favorite spread in most households, but how many variations does it suggest to you? Try these cookies:

American Beauty Salad. Boil one package of macaroni or spaghetti until tender, then blanch in cold water. Drain well. Cut one can pimentos, one-third can green pimentos, one-half cup cream cheese in cubes, and dice one-half cup celery. Also chop two hard cooked eggs, and two sweet pickles. Mix all together and serve on lettuce with salad dressing mixed well throughout.

Open Jar Sweet Pickles. Place 200 small cucumbers in a three gallon jar. Pour over three-fourths cup salt and boil in water to cover. Let stand over night, drain and wipe dry. Mix two-thirds cup of mixed spices, four tablespoons each of ground mustard salt and sugar, with three-fourths gallon vinegar. Put over the pickles and cover. Measure three pounds sugar, add a handful of sugar to the pickles each morning and stir well, until all the sugar has been used in this way. Can for future use.

Easy Made Pickles. To one gallon of vinegar add one cup each of salt, sugar, black pepper and mustard. Stir well, add freshly gathered cucumbers which have been washed. Place in a stone jar. Weigh the cucumbers down with a plate, tie a cloth over the jar, and in a few days the pickles will be ready to use, with no cooking or heating. These will keep if sealed in glass jars and put where the family cannot find them.

Mock Duck. Crumb up half of a one pound loaf of stale bread, soak with hot water. Pour off surplus water but do not get the bread too dry. Then add one medium sized finely cut onion, one and one-half tablespoons melted butter, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, one-half teaspoon chili powder, three-fourths teaspoon sage, and one-half teaspoon celery salt, mix well. Place this dressing on a large veal cutlet about one-half inch thick, roll it up and tie with a string. Bake forty minutes in a rather hot oven. No basting is necessary.

Prune Cake. Combine one cup sugar, one-half cup butter, three eggs, one cup mashed cooked prunes, one-half cup prune juice, one large teaspoon soda, two cups flour, (one of white and one of graham if desired), one teaspoon cinnamon. One cup of chopped nuts is also a good addition.

Cutting the Melon

Something Different

Two Ord mail carriers know for certain that they had dusty automobiles. Either that or the mail carriers are color blind. The door glass of a rear door on one of the two automobiles in question was broken. The glass to replace in the door was slow in reaching Ord and the mail carrier was about to leave on a brief vacation. He hated to go without glass in that back door!

Finally a crosby and fellow mail carrier had an inspiration. Their cars were just alike—they would trade rear doors—just trade for keeps. The new glass could be put in when it came, the first mail carrier would leave town with his car intact. So they traded, and all was well.

But behold, when the two cars were washed—on each car was revealed a rear door of another color! One black car had one dark blue rear door. And one dark blue car had one black rear door.

So the mail carriers traded rear doors again and the dark blue door was re-installed on the dark blue car, and the black door opens on the black car where it began before I told you this story.

The high school rather had its face lifted with all that aluminum paint on window casements this summer. And Ord had her face lifted with a nice smooth streak of paving, on which it is now possible to roll through Ord as slick as though riding a roller coaster.

And it is surprising, too, how quickly many Ord residents have leveled off the area between public walk and curb and neatly seeded it to grass. Thus making the new paving show to much greater advantage.

At the John Collison home, for example, the terrace is smoothed and seeded down, the sidewalk complete too, with new steps installed.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

To the Editor of the Quiz: I, and my immediate family, on behalf of our late Dennis B. Huff, wish through the Ord Quiz to assure our appreciation and thanks to Mr. Orville Sowl and his assistants, Rev. Real, the pall bearers, namely Bert Boquet, James Misko, Warren Lincoln, Gould Flagg, C. J. Mortensen and George A. Parkins, the Modern Woodmen of America and others for their beautiful floral offerings and Mrs. Florence Chapman, a true friend. I wish also at this time to call your attention to a statement made in last week's Quiz, with reference to the Masonic rituals being performed at the grave of my father. A correction is in order, because of the fact that the Masons did not in our presence, perform their rites at his grave, and we do not care to leave that impression. Again thanking those who befriended us in our bereavement, I remain Very sincerely Mabelle Huff.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

25 Years Ago This Week. C. D. Ramel took possession of the Pierce jewelry store, which he had purchased a few weeks before. Schurmerhorn, the horse formerly owned by T. M. Trindle, broke the world record for guileless pacing in a mile race at the Schuyler, Illinois, fair. He was then owned by George Meeks. C. M. Bossen and E. A. Easterbrook returned from a visit to Pennsylvania. E. M. Ford of Guthrie Center, Ia., and Miss Eva Fuson of Ord were married. Zona McNutt entertained sixteen girls at a Kensington. J. C. Meese made a clean sweep with his hogs at the state fair, winning five first prizes and a number of others. Ivan Botts also did well with his Hampers. Alan Clements left for El Oro, Mexico to work in the gold mines. E. L. Johnson shipped in six carloads of hogs from the famine district of Kansas and easily sold them around Ord. Miss Mollie Hawkins went to Gibbon to begin teaching. The old Cernik frame building was removed from the north side of the square and taken to Woodbury edition to be rebuilt as a residence.

20 Years Ago This Week. While riding in the J. B. Nay car the Quiz reporter, Mrs. Florence Chapman, suffered injuries when the Nay car was struck by a car driven by O. R. Hansen. Dr. Barta was about to build a neat cottage on the lots south of the school building. Lightning struck the spire of the Danish church and also shivered some telephone poles nearby. The church did not burn. Herman Mattley was up from Lincoln for a few days prairie chicken hunting. Clarence King, the barber who victimized Clate McGrew pulled the same stunt at Utica under the name of Clarence Grey and again made his escape. An ordinance to permit saloons to locate on the square failed of passage by a narrow margin. —Mrs. Ed Gnaster and daughter Monica Jean went to St. Paul Friday. They visited there and in Farwell until Sunday. Ed went down to spend the day and brought his family home Sunday evening. —Mrs. Frank Zeleski and son Henry and daughter, Miss Martha of Grand Island recently visited the Joe Puncocchar and Lloyd Zeleski families.

4. There should be 4 square feet of room in the laying house for each hen. When a house is overcrowded, the farmer gets nearly as many eggs, and has the use of more chickens. 5. Dip scaly legs in kerosene. Treat lousy birds with blue ointment or sodium fluoride. Spray laying houses against mites. 6. Quarantine or destroy sick birds before they spread diseases through the whole flock. Keep houses clean and don't rely on medicines or tonics. 7. Sow a little winter pasture for the chickens, such as rye or wheat. Get them out on new, clean ground if possible. 8. The use of artificial lights is generally profitable on winter mornings. 9. Gather clean eggs by having lots of fresh litter in the nests. Washed eggs will soon spoil. 10. Early molters, old roosters, and hens that are over three years old make expensive pets.

Care of The County Board Ord, Neb.

Dear Jake: Yesterday, after the rain, soon after dinner, I decided to sow my rye. I started my tractor, when I happened to think that I should call Claud. And he told me that he was going to town. I hurried to the house, leaving the engine idle. "It will only take a minute," I thought. I unhooked the receiver to find out if the wire was clear. No. Someone was talking. I rubbed a minute. I concluded that it was Mrs. Allen talking to her mother about chickens. "She is pretty long winded," I remembered, "but perhaps she will do better this time. They talked yesterday at great length. Not so much to say today perhaps." I hung up the receiver. I went for a drink. I robbed the cookie jar. I returned to the phone. Still talking. This time about the kids. Johnnie has the colic. "Too many green apples," I deduced. I picked up the paper and read while they chattered on. I read the whole paper with one hand. I became disgusted by this time. I banged up the receiver. I picked up a wild west story. I sat down and read a hundred pages. I returned to the phone. They were still talking. It was about the new teacher now. I wished one of those wild cowboys were here that I was just reading about. I had become more disgusted and nearly mad by this time. I vowed that I would stay by the ship and call Claud if it took all day and all night. I pulled an easy chair to the phone. I took a supine position, propping the receiver to my ear. I resolved to rest while I had a chance and I was very tired. More so than I thought.

Suddenly the thing buzzed in my ear. I had fallen asleep at the switch. Someone else was listening and rang in ahead of me. Such impudence. This time they rang Davis. "Probably one of Mary's many beaux calling, I deciphered. "I must pay close attention now," it was. He dated her for a dance. That was all. That was more like people should use the phone. They said good-bye sweetly. I heard the receiver click. I counted them for curiosity. Nine hung up besides mine. There are eleven phones on the line. Who do you suppose was absent? Broadcasting. Practice in public speaking. The bell buzzed again. I was too late. I shouldn't have counted. This time it was Mrs. Smith talking to her daughter. I thought then it was hopeless. My wife reminded me of swearing in the phone. Much worse to swear there than elsewhere. I reclined again in the chair. I read another story. I went for another drink. (Of water). I ate another cookie. I read another story. And on they chattered. At that moment my boy came in to the house. He is a bright lad. Takes after his Dad they say. I hailed him. "Sit down here and rubber," I ordered. "And the minute they cease their onslaught of the land, ring Claud and call me." I then laid down on the cot and napped again. Soon my boy yelled. I went to the phone. "Hello Claud. Hello. Hello." He said that he could hardly hear me, and that my batteries must be low. "Say Claud I have been trying to get you all morning. Did you go to town?" He answered that he had gone and had returned. "Say Claud. Well, by the way. Oh h... I have plum forgotten what I was going to ask you. Good-bye." I moped to the barn and turned off the tractor. It was chore time. I decided to sow the rye the next day. My boy tagged along. "Daddy," he said. "I sure stopped them didn't I? I went out and grounded the line for a few minutes." That boy of mine is a genius. George G.

It is still the FARMER'S CAR

Ford

THINK back a few years and you'll remember when the roads were pretty bad. Dirt mostly. Narrow. And the hills steep and sharp. Took a real car to make the trip to town. And the farmer didn't have a Ford V-8 to drive, either. Those were the days of the old Model T. The old T was just the car for those roads. Today you require a car that is at home both on the dirt and on the pavement. And that calls for a different car. One with the power to dig its way out of a tough stretch, and, at the same time, with speed for the concrete or improved road. And the Ford V-8 is just such a car. Under the hood of the Ford is a real engine. The V-8 and the only one in a car under $2500. An engine that Henry Ford himself says delivers more power per gallon than any Ford ever built. Power for the hills and ruts and bad stretches of road. Reserve power to take you where you want to go. On the highway the Ford V-8 steps out ahead and stays there. Power, pick-up, speed. Stamina to keep going mile after mile. Economy that is Ford tradition. Roominess and comfort, front and back, for the whole family. A car you'll appreciate and enjoy for years.

Convenient terms, if desired, through facilities of Universal Credit Company.

"I was always afraid of it. It's like a hidden ferment that may break out some day in a catastrophe. Has your guardian mentioned me in any way?"

"Yes; he says you will have to leave the neighborhood after Christmas!"

"I'll not leave you, Berenice! I'll not leave Lostland," he answered stubbornly.

"But he has threatened to stop my coming to Jerry's. He keeps the front gates locked now, and the way around by the lake is farther."

"Then we must write, when we can't meet."

"He looks over the mallbag every day."

"How about our own post—one of nature's providings? Here's a box ready—" he pointed to a squirrel hole in an old oak near by. "We can leave notes there—and if you can't get this far, Arthur will bring them himself, I know!"

"Wilton, we'll do that! My guardian has such an uncertain temper, one never knows what the next mood will be. Janet and I are continually together. We watch the shadows as if they were alive. We sit by the fire and wonder when the wind will die. Mother Martha never leaves the top of the house now—but I have to watch her, for she creeps up and down the corridor. Once I heard her call out, 'I'm coming, Althea. I'm coming, my lamb.'"

"Keep close to Janet."

"I have to sit with my guardian sometimes—he seems so unhappy. I found him one day with his head buried in his hands, and when I asked him if he were in pain, he answered quite savagely: 'I'll make a bonfire of the whole place some day; it's been a torment and an agony ever since I set foot in it. I've been bound to the wheel of your family, the whole horrible tragedy descended on me. I told him I would release him from his guardianship at once if he wished; then he accused me of being in league with you against him. 'You two are spying on me! I never wanted to bring these teachers here—but you forced my hand, as usual.' 'I saw there was no use, Wilton. I left him to his dark fancies. He doesn't even take any classes now—says the sooner the whole farce is done the better. I dread Christmas!"

"Janet and Arthur are staying?"

"Yes, tuckily."

He saw Arthur next day. The young men discussed the situation at the academy. "He hates you, Wilton, as I suppose a disappointed and by no means noble lover can hate his rival. Remember, this man had known Berenice all her life; you came in and sweep away his little air castle in a moment."

"Thank God!"

"Don't tempt fate! Leave this region—leave Berenice for a time. You can write to each other. He would not surely intercept your letters."

"Oh, wouldn't he!"

"Send them under cover to me."

"That's a good idea! If I ever need to do that."

"Take my advice and get out. I never yet went uninvited into a yard where there were bulldozers," Arthur said philosophically. "Balder is a mean, sulky fellow—and that's the best that can be said of him. I think he would do anything for Haskell, though whether in a rage or devotion it's hard to tell."

"What harm could Balder do me?"

"Don't get in his way—that's all!"

After that the days became a waiting for Berenice in the farmhouse over which the blue-black clouds of winter were now driving. Every day Wilton went to the oak and at last his hand closed on the promised letter. He shut himself in his bedroom to read it:

"Dear Wilton:

"I haven't written before because I have been nursing Mother Martha. She refused to go to bed, poor dear, and died very quietly in her chair this morning. The servants are much afraid. Janet will move up to Mother Martha's room soon, and even Gordon Haskell approves of this. He is afraid I will be nervous, though how he could expect us to be very lively in that huge place I don't know. I have not mourned for dear Mother Martha. She was old and tired and wanted to go. Cook has her usual story—of her waking up in the night and seeing a boat with children in the moonlight—rowing Mother Martha. How can a place prosper under such a reign of superstition?"

Arthur, arriving later, told him the hour of the funeral, and the next day but one he watched the procession from a nearby hill winding a black course through the bleak air. Jerry had gone to be one of the mourners, and spent the rest of the day rather grandly in black, square-looking clothes. "The old place will breathe its last some time, just as Martha did," he said comfortably. "And, oh, Berenice asked me to give you this."

It was another little note, saying that she had gone down to sea memory of her than to satisfy any feeling of my own—those poor symbols are nothing now! Maybe poor Mother Martha has found her charges in that other world. I like to think of them holding out their hands to her. The cook, of course, was dreaming and romancing—but it was a pretty idea—their rowing her across the lake. She went so gently almost as if some one had opened at the door and beckoned her."

Wilton poured out his heart in a long letter—wondering at the inadequacy of words, their nimble, elusive ways of refusing to carry burdens of emotion. On his way to the oak he met Sally Welford, who had been to the funeral.

She nodded brightly to him. "You are still around these parts, Mr Payne?"

"Yes, Sally. You left the academy of your own accord. But I didn't. You see, I am engaged to be married to Miss Bracebridge."

"So I've heard, sir. We're all glad. We wish it could be soon. He might as well give her up first as last."

"I agree with you."

She went on a few paces—turned back. "Mr. Wilton, I wouldn't stay up here too long."

"Why do you say that?"

"Oh—I feel trouble," she answered.

Wilton looked after her wonderingly until the dip of the hill hid her from his sight.

Ord Church Notes

St. John's Lutheran Church. (Missouri Synod) Services in the English language. Bible Class meets Friday evening. William Bray, Pastor.

Christian Church. Next Sunday we will have a chart sermon subject "From Egypt to Canaan". Union service at U. B. church in the evening.

We must all plan for Christian education week and rally day. Also for the demonstration and parade the first Saturday in October.

Do not miss the chart sermons. They are all on vital religious subjects.

Please get your negatives ready for our Beautiful Ord night. We can have a fine set of pictures in spite of the drought.

Methodist Church. Sunday school will be held at ten o'clock. Various classes and departments are making plans for their part in the big Sunday school parade to be held October 6. The Sunday schools in Ord and the surrounding community are taking part.

There will be no preaching service next Sunday, as the pastor is in Lincoln attending the annual conference. Bishop Baker of San Francisco is presiding. He will appoint the Methodist pastors of Nebraska to their various churches probably Tuesday morning.

Our year closes with a good record both financially and in religious accomplishments. Thirty new members have been added to our rolls. A number of families who formerly have been reported "inactive", have changed to the active relation. We look forward to the new year with much hope.

Fall Recovery Crusade. Oct. 6 to Nov. 11. America's false gods and idols have tottered. People must be called back to the house of God. Babson says, "Depressions are cured by moral awaking, by spiritual revival, by a rehabilitation of people in their ways of thinking and living."

The need of today is a spiritual Pentecost. Can we have it? There is a logic in a Pentecost as there is in the producing of a crop of corn. There is the coordination of the divine and human elements, the sunshine and rain and chemical properties in the earth plus man's ploughing, sowing, cultivating and faith, all working together produce the crop so all the members of all of the churches working together in this fall ad-

Presbyterian Church. We are nearing the time of the actual beginning of our Fall Recovery crusade. Simplicity is the keynote of this plan for a recovery crusade. Simple things work when we think of it, our church needs but three things to launch it into a successful year. More of these require a new organization or miraculous outpouring of the spirit of God.

The three things which will do it are these:

1. The conscientious attendance of each member and friend of the church.
2. The pay up of pledges and a faith that will cause you the pledge for the new financial year in such a way that the church may continue its good work.
3. Give a part of your time to the service of your church. Each of these things will reward you with a richer personality here on earth and insure you of God's favor in the life to come.

North Loup News

Mrs. Sarah Wheatcraft, pioneer of this community, passed away at 12:30 P. M. Friday at the home of her step-daughter, Mrs. Della Manchester, where she has been tenderly cared for the past many months during her invalidism.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from the Methodist church with Rev. Warren and Rev. Stephens officiating. Music was furnished by a mixed quartette from both churches and interment in the family lot at North Loup.

Sarah A. Green, daughter of Stillman S. and Esther Wells Green, was born in Potter county, Penn., June 12, 1844 and died Sept. 7, 1934, aged ninety years and nearly three months. At the age of one year her parents moved to Rock River, Wis., where she grew to womanhood. Her college education was received at Milton, she being one of the two or three remaining of this institution's earlier students.

While a girl she joined the Rock River Seventh Day Baptist church. After coming to Davis Creek, Nebr., she joined the United Brethren church of Davis Creek remaining a member until her death. Crede was a matter of indifference to her. It was the manner of life that counted and from this view she was a consistent Christian. January 23, 1864 she married Theodore F. Weed, a Civil War veteran, four children were born to them; Mrs. Myra Thrasher, Inez E. who passed away March 26, 1876, Hubert A. and Thurlow S. all of North Loup. Oct. 31, 1878 Mr. Weed and his family reached the young settlement at North Loup, having made the trip by covered wagon. Later when her father died, they returned to be with her mother for a year. In all they made three overland trips from Wisconsin. Thurlow Weed now occupies the old family home in Mira Valley. In this hard pioneer life, Mrs. Weed proved a neighborhood blessing. Illustrating her goodness of heart her family relate this story:

A family near by were all ill with measles, weather was rainy, the roof of their sod home leaked badly and they could not be made comfortable. Although her own children had not been exposed to the measles, Mrs. Weed took the family into her own comfortable home and cared for them. Mr. Weed died in 1891. In 1898 she married James Wheatcraft, who died twenty years later. Mrs. Wheatcraft was most active even in her sunset years. She sometimes walked the seven and one-half miles from town to the farm. She was a great reader in her years of forced leisure. In 1927 she suffered a stroke of paralysis, since which time she has lived with her children. Assisting in her care have been her daughter, Mrs. Myra Thrasher and a step-daughter, Mrs. Maggie Annayas.

She has been most patient and appreciative through the months of her illness. Her chief concern being for the welfare of others.

Except for three years in Blaine county in the 80's, Valley county has been her home for fifty-six years.

Besides her children she leaves eighteen grandchildren, twenty-three great grandchildren, also one brother, John W. Green of Edgerton, Wis. and a sister, Mrs. Della James of Sibley, Ia.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the presence of about fifty relatives and friends when Miss Ruby Babcock, youngest daughter of Mr. R. O. Babcock became the bride of Mr. Paul Vanhorn of Milton, Wis., son of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Vanhorn of Denver, Colo. The double ring ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. Warren Hurley, just south east of town. With Miss Maxine Johnson at the piano, the bridal couple attended by Roger Johnson and Winnie Hamer, marched to the altar where the marriage lines were spoken. Her brother, Richard sang two selections. The bride a charming and talented young lady was attired in blue silk with accessories to match.

Born and reared in the community, she prepared herself for the teaching profession which she followed for two years after graduating from the Scotia schools in 1928.

Mrs. Vanhorn is a talented soprano as well as an accomplished pianist. This summer she spent with friends at Milton.

Mrs. Vanhorn is a graduate of Milton college and a member of the college faculty this past year. Their home will be in Milton. Following the marriage service and congratulations a luncheon was served. Tuesday at 6 a. m. Miss Babcock was greeted at her home by the choir of her church singing "This Is Your Wedding Morn."

The bride to be was the honoree Monday afternoon at the home of Merle and Doris Davis at a shower of lovely and useful gifts presented with the best wishes of her friends and relatives. The ladies nearly completed a hooked rug as well as other bits of art work during the afternoon. Alarm clocks scattered about the rooms revealed the hiding places of the gifts.

The hostesses served a dainty luncheon at the close.

Miss Marie Thomas second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Thomas of Riverdale and Mr. Russell Williams youngest son of Mrs. Anna Williams of Horace were united in marriage at 10 o'clock Monday evening at the Baptist parsonage in Horace. Rev. Grantham performing the ceremony. Attendees were Henry Stamm of Horace and Miss Eula Shineman of North Loup. A wedding supper was tendered the young couple at the home of Russell's brother, the Harry Williams of Horace. Mr. and Mrs. Williams departed via auto Tuesday morning for the west, their first stop being at Laramie, at the home of a cousin of the groom, Jessie Benson. Congratulations and best wishes are extended this bride and groom.

Marie has taught school near Arcadia the past year and near Horace the previous year, following her graduation from the schools here.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brubaker of Shelton, Ill., Mrs. Rozelle Ingerson and baby who had spent the week at her sister's home in Hastings returned Sunday evening with the North Loup guests.

Mrs. Myra Thrasher expects to leave Oct. 1st for Big Springs, Nebr. to visit her sons and families, thence to Salt Lake City to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Ada Henderson and family.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. V. J. Thomas and Maud were hostesses to the same company of relatives including the father, Rev. Willard Barrow of Hanson and the Claud Thomas family of Riverdale.

The M. B. M. club are enjoying this afternoon at the home of Mrs. B. B. Buten.

Harry Thrasher returned to Big Springs, Monday having come via bus to attend the funeral of his grand mother, Mrs. Wheatcraft.

Visitors last week at the Elvin Barnhart home were Mr. and Mrs. George Helbig and Mrs. Helbig's father, Ed Wilmoth all of Sterling, Colo., who arrived Tuesday afternoon. They brought with them a generous supply of luscious tomatoes, cabbage and other varieties of vegetables from that irrigated country which were very much appreciated. Thursday evening others of the family joined them at the Barnhart home including Mr. and Mrs. Jim Misko and Mabel of Ord and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Helbig of Burwell. The relatives from Sterling departed for their home Friday.

Friday and Saturday, September 14 and 15, in Ord

Proceedings of the County Board

Sept. 4, 1934 at 10:00 o'clock A. M. Meeting called to order by Chairman with supervisors Sorensen, Desmul, Ball, Vasicek, Barber, Johnson and Hansen present upon roll call.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved as read.

Bank balances as of August 31, 1934, read as follows: First National Bank, Ord, $40,277.48; Elyria State Bank, $3,546.74; First National Bank, Arcadia, $16,448.33.

Application petitions of Leon Clemmy by Joe Clemmy, asking for license to conduct a public dance hall and amusement place in Elyria, Nebraska, then came on for consideration, and after considering same, it was moved and seconded that same be rejected and licenses be not issued, and upon roll call, supervisors voted as follows, to-wit: Sorensen-yes, Desmul-yes, Ball-yes, Vasicek-yes, Barber-yes, Johnson-yes, Hansen-yes, none voting "no" the motion was declared carried and said application rejected.

The following communication relating to relocation of present county highway through Section 10-18-14, was read to board, to-wit: Sept. 3, 1934

Ord, Nebr. To the Board of County Supervisors, Gentlemen:

I am objecting to the proposed change of the county highway to the east side of the Boettger ranch, for the following reasons.

First. There are at least 28 farmsteads, south and west of the present highway from which it will require 3/4 of a mile additional travel on every round trip to Ord.

Second. The county engineer has made a careful survey of the proposed route and is in opposition to the project.

Third. To make the proposed road as passable as the present highway will call for an expense of not less than $10,000 and possibly $15,000 or $20,000.

Fourth. The labor from federal relief that is available is inadequate to make even a decent start on the project.

I respectfully request that a copy of these objections be spread on the records.

Yours truly, (signed) S. W. Roe, Moved and seconded that the communication of S. W. Roe, as read be placed on file. Motion carried.

Supervisor Desmul then introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption.

"WHEREAS, on account of the extreme drouth during the year, 1934, the lack of feed during the spring, there appears to be a scarcity of young pheasants in Valley county, Nebraska, and

Whereas, it seems to be the popular opinion of the farmers as well as of residents of the various villages of the County that an open season of pheasants in Valley County, would so reduce the number of pheasants for a season, and that there should be no open season on pheasants in Valley county, during 1934.

A mistake in not obtaining proper treatment for rectal trouble first, is very frequently an expensive experiment, not only in wasted time and money, but as well in needless suffering and other disappointments learned only too late.

You should plan a cure for rectal trouble as you plan other things just as important. You will make no mistake when you select a thirty year old institution like the Dr. Rich Rectal Sanitarium and Clinic at Grand Island, Neb. Definite information for all your needs is yours for the asking. (1)

BE IT RESOLVED that there be no open season on pheasants in Valley County, Nebraska, during the year 1934, and that a copy of this resolution as adopted be certified to the State Department of Game and Fish, by the County Clerk.

(signed) Henry Desmul. Same having been concurred in, motion to adopt was duly seconded, and upon roll call, unanimously adopted by the unanimous vote of the Board of Supervisors.

Kinsey-Bowman
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kinsey received word their daughter, Sarah, was quietly married Saturday evening in Chicago at 9 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Cessna, to Philip Bowman of Chicago. The impressive single ring ceremony was used. The bride was lovely in a yellow lace dress with accessories to match and carried yellow roses. Miss Virginia Garcish, bridesmaid, was attired in a light blue gown with matching accessories and carried pink roses. The groom and his attendant, George Olsen, were dressed in the conventional dark.

Sarah was born and raised in Arcadia, graduating with the class of '29. She then attended college and received her business degree. She worked for the Cudahy Packing company until two years ago when she became the private stenographer for Kline and Company. She is a talented and attractive young lady and numbers her friends by the score. She will always be a favorite among her friends because of her pleasing disposition. The groom is the main staff announcer over radio W. B. B. M. of Chicago. He has never visited here but people have heard so much about him, anyone making his acquaintance could not help but like him.

After the wedding a reception was held at the Cessna home, and about thirty guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Bowman will make their home at 4240 Clarendon Ave., Chicago.

Smith-Spencer
Miss Lola Smith and Clyde Spencer of Loup City were quietly married by County Judge Anderson, Thursday, June 6. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Smith and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Spencer who live ten miles northeast of Loup City. QUIZ PUBLISHER RETURNS TO ORD BY END OF WEEK

Mrs. Burke Able to Travel Soon So Quiz Family Will Leave Cullen Lake for Home.

At Jackpine Lodge on Middle Cullen Lake Near Nisawa, Minn., Sept. 13, 1934.

Dear Quiz Readers: Last week there was so little to write that I neglected my duty and didn't write my usual weekly contribution and I should not write this week for the same reason. There is nothing to write. Our cottage is the only one occupied in camp. When all the dozen cottages are full and dozens of boats are on the lake every day, and other dozens of people are doing things all the time, there is usually something of interest. Why, at one time this summer we counted seventy people in this camp at one time and I guess there were more a little later. Then there were big fish stories; someone caught a monster turtle; others were scared by a porcupine; someone got sick and had to be taken to the hospital; someone got a fish hook in his hand and it had to be cut out; but now all it quiet.

Sunday morning bright and early Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Hallaway and her sister, Mrs. Eisle Callaway arrived from Harlan, Iowa and are spending two weeks with us and are having fun. We don't mind the quiet in camp. We put in long hours fishing and while the fishing is called poor, we manage to catch a nice string every day. I claim that fishing is not poor when I can go out and get my limit of nice black bass, weighing from a pound to four pounds, any day. If Vernie Anderson or "Dutch" Berger or Stanley McLain go to Ericson and fish all day and bring back to Ord a string of fish like we can and do get here every day, half of the population of Valley county would be over there the next day. As a rule it can't be done down there and as a rule fishing is much better here than it is right now. I have been coming to Cullen Lake for thirteen years and I have never seen the bass fishing as good the whole season as it has been this year. On the other hand the walleyes have not done much this whole summer. We caught two today, the first that we have been able to catch on Upper Cullen this fall, in fact we only caught one there while here in the summer. So I am believing that the walleyes are going to be going good in a few days.

Like everyone else, Mr. Hallaway wanted to send a box of fish home. He is employed by one of the big telephone companies, as manager of several western Iowa town systems, while his bosses live in Newton and they must have kidded him, before he came on his vacation, about the lack of fish up here, for he said he just had to send home a box of fish. Well, we went at it Monday morning and in a few hours had a nice string of bass. In the evening we added more and Tuesday morning we got up at 4 o'clock, I made coffee, cooked ham and eggs and with Guide Ray Luther as our guest we had breakfast together and at a quarter to 7 were on our way to Hubert Lake reputed to be the home of monster crappies. It was a drive of 10 miles and it was 5:30 as we pulled out Ray taking his truck and a boat onto the lake. The morning before long strings of the speckled beauties had been caught and the morning after other long strings of them were taken but that particular morning we only got nine. But they were big ones and we felt fairly well repaid for the loss of our morning sleep. We hurried dinner and got out onto our own lake and during the afternoon ad-

Loup City Editor Jailed For Libel

A. E. Brunson, militant editor of the Loup City Peoples Standard, charged with criminal libel against Deputy State Sheriff Otto Duchus, the charge being filed by W. H. Line, Sherman county attorney. Brunson was released on $500 bond signed by Harry MacDonald and Pete Kusek, farmers.

The libel complaint charges that in three issues of his paper Editor Brunson made the charge that Duchus is a former horse thief and has committed other crimes.

Dewey Roseborough Passes In Omaha

Dewey F. Roseborough, 58, husband of the former Mrs. Nellie Wolters of Ord, passed away Sept. 12 of heart disease at his home in Omaha. For thirty years he had been a salesman for the Graybar Electric company and as such was well known in Ord. Funeral services were held at the Burkett mortuary in Omaha Friday and the body taken to Tilden for burial.

Seward Teacher Will Replace Mrs. Stark

Due to illness that has incapacitated her for the past several weeks, Mrs. Marguerite Stark has resigned as principal and instructor of the Ord elementary schools and as a result a partial reorganization of the teaching staff was required. The necessary changes have been made, Miss Inez Swain being appointed principal and Miss Lois Eberspacher, of Seward, being elected to teach the third grade. Miss Swain will keep her present teaching assignment in Room 26, on the ground floor, while Miss Edna Elliott, formerly assigned the third grade, is teaching departmental English, art and penmanship.

Teachers, pupils and patrons of the Ord schools regret the loss of Mrs. Stark and wish her a speedy recovery. A veteran teacher, she has made a fine record in the local school system and given this community much to remember her by.

Sheriff Geo. Round Sued For $300,000

Valley Co. Officer Made Defendant In Huge Damage Suit Filed At Loup City By Burt Sell.

Twenty-three co-defendants, among whom is Sheriff George S. Round of Valley county, are named by Burt Sell, Arcadia farmer and business man, in a suit for $300,000 damages filed Monday in district court at Loup City.

In his suit Sell charges that the 23 defendants conspired to bring about the infliction of serious personal injuries to him in the so-called Loup City "riot" of June 14. He asks $100,000 damages and asks that the amount be tripled under a legal provision for treble the amount where a law enforcement officer unlawfully oppresses or injures any citizen.

Sheriff Round was in Loup City on the day Sell was injured, having been asked to assist in keeping the peace by Sheriff Thrallkill of Sherman county, who also is named in Sell's suit. But he wasn't within sight of Sell when he was hurt, Round says. He characterizes the suit as a "joke."

Besides Round and Thrallkill, defendants include Deputy Sheriff Tracy of Sherman county, Sheriff Blake and Police Chief Franks of Kearney, Postmaster C. F. Beushausen and Joe Thompson, Fairmount Creamery manager, both of Loup City.

Sell has employed Attorneys Dewey Hanson of Omaha and Harry Griminger of Grand Island.

Ord Legion Sponsors Talk on Constitution

Yesterday Ord post of the American Legion sponsored a special convocation in the Ord schools in observance of Constitution week. Clarence M. Davis was the principal speaker, giving a talk on the Constitution of the United States and what it means.

"The Constitution is, perhaps, the closest and most vital thing we have in government," Davis said, in part. "The basis of practically every right and privilege we enjoy is found written in that document. It acts as a protector of our liberty and our property, but we have grown so used to these safeguards that we often forget their source."

He recommended that children study the Constitution that they may realize what an important document it is and what an excellent system of government our forefathers built therein.

Jos. Mawkoski Dies In G. I. Hospital

Davis Creek—(Special)—A large crowd of sorrowing neighbors and friends attended funeral services held at the Methodist church here Monday for Joseph Mawkoski, who passed away at St. Francis hospital in Grand Island on Friday, Sept. 14, after a long period of ill health. Rev. Wanz conducted the obsequies.

Twenty-five years ago the deceased moved to his present farm, which is located just across the line in Sherman county. A good neighbor and a hard-working man as long as his health permitted. Mr. Mawkoski is mourned by his wife and thirteen children of whom 12 are at home. One son, Robert, lives in Montana.

Zabloull Car Wrecked

As they were going on a fishing trip Sunday morning a car driven by Will Zabloull, jr., in which were riding Bill Rasset and Johnnie Debolt, plunged into a ditch near the W. B. Hoyt farm home east of Burwell. The car was wrecked and all three boys were badly bruised and cut, young Debolt also suffering a broken finger. Too much speed at a turn was the reason ascribed for the accident.

—Mrs. Joe Prince is a little improved. She is in the Ord Hospital and it may be some time before she will be able to be moved.

CATHOLIC WOMEN HOLD DISTRICT COUNCIL IN ORD

90 Delegates Attend Fall Session Tuesday; Spalding Woman District Chairman.

Ninety delegates representing Catholic parishes in Elyria, Ord, Greeley and Spalding were here Tuesday attending a meeting of the District Council of Catholic Women, the session being held at the Catholic church. The town of Burwell, O'Walbach, Scotia and O'Connor also hold membership in this Council but did not send delegates.

Mrs. John P. Dunning, Spalding, district chairman, presided at the meeting, which opened with a prayer by Father Lawler of Ord. Then came introduction of delegates and reports of parish chairmen, who included Mrs. Jos. Sobon, Elyria, Mrs. Harry McBeth, Ord, Mrs. James Lanigan, Greeley, and Mrs. Nicholas Fox, Spalding. Musical numbers included a solo by Dr. F. J. Osentowski, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Joe Kokes, and a saxophone solo by Miss Maxine Jablonski, with piano accompaniment by her mother, Mrs. Stephen Jablonski. The Junior Catholic orchestra of Ord, directed by Jerry Puncocchar, played following the meeting and during lunch.

Papers were given by Mrs. L. J. Vandenburg and Mrs. Ira Gormley, Spalding, Mrs. J. M. Lanigan, Greeley, and Mrs. E. L. Vogelanz, Ord. Brief talks were made by Father Murray, Burwell, Father Hinzman, Farwell, Father Ziolkowski, Elyria, and Father Lawler, Ord.

Invitations for the Council to meet at both Burwell and Greeley in February were extended and delegates voted to accept the Burwell invitation.

Tuberculosis Claims Mrs. Chas. McNamee

Funeral services were held at the Christian church Monday for Mrs. Maree Henrietta McNamee, who passed away at Basin, Wyo., on Sept. 13 after an illness of 1-1/2 years with tuberculosis. Rev. W. C. McCarthy was the minister and Harlan T. Frazier was in charge of funeral arrangements. Interment was in Ord cemetery.

Mrs. McNamee was the daughter of H. C. VanSlyke, of Ord, and was born here Nov. 18, 1910. On June 1, 1927 she was married here to Chas. McNamee and with him moved to Cheyenne and later to Basin, Wyo. Two children were born to them, Charlotte Maree and Bobby Deane, who with their father, mourn the untimely death of this tender, loving wife and mother. Also left to mourn are Mrs. McNamee's father, two brothers and two sisters.

Out-of-town relatives at the funeral Monday were Mrs. Thomas Roraback, Midwest, Wyo., and Mrs. H. D. Ackerman, Edgerton, Wyo.

Another CCC Allotment.

Jos. P. Barta has received word that another allotment of CCC boys will be given Valley county early in October. Reference will be given to boys whose families are on the relief rolls. About eight or ten jobs will be available. Boys who wish to register for these CCC jobs should do so at the relief office in the Valley county court house.

FERA May Start Dairy.

A plan to start an FERA dairy in Ord is being contemplated by E. L. Hoyt, local administrator. Excessively high prices and a large quantity of milk is needed daily for families on relief. If suitable milk cows are available and the use of the Valley county fair grounds can be secured the FERA dairy will soon start operating. Hoyt says, Mr. George, special drouth relief worker from Washington, is in Ord this week assisting with this and other relief plans.

Rotary Entertains Teachers.

Men members of the Ord high school faculty were guests of the Ord Rotary club at dinner Monday evening. Two of the faculty, M. D. Bell and J. A. Kovanda, are Rotary members and they brought as their guests the other six men who hold teaching positions. Principal W. D. Cass and the Messrs. Dean Duncan, Walter Lukenbach, W. C. Watkins, Helmut Brockman and B. C. Cowell. The Ord high faculty this year is more predominantly masculine than ever before.

New Service Station Opens.

Harry Patchen and George Finch announce the opening of their new service station on Highway 11 east of the Chevrolet garage will take place Saturday, Sept. 22. Free oil will be given to gasoline purchasers.

—Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Pierce spent Sunday with relatives in Taylor.

Walleyed Pike Bites Cliff Flynn First But Loses Bout

When a dog bites a man it isn't news, but how about a fish? Sunday while fishing in the river on the Mortensen place north of Ord, Cliff Flynn was attacked by a bloodthirsty fish and although he gave Mr. Fish the first bite he came out victorious.

The fish was a walleyed pike, was 25 inches long and weighed 41-2 pounds. First he bit on Flynn's hook and was hooked, then as Flynn was about to land him the hook broke and the fish flopped about on the edge of a sandbar only a few inches from the water. Not willing to see such a flimsy prize escape, Mr. Flynn attempted to land the fish with his bare hands, with the result that the fish got a mouthful of hand. However, he landed the fish and Monday the Flynn family dined on walleyed pike.

As a trophy of his fishing prowess the general manager of the Farmers Grain & Supply company's Ord store was exhibiting a badly bruised and scratched hand to friends the same day.

Mrs. Pokorney, 91, Died September 14

One of Community's Oldest Residents Heeds Final Call; Had Been Ill About a Year.

Mrs. Mary Pokorney, almost 95 years old and one of Valley county's oldest residents, passed away at 9:00 a. m. Friday, Sept. 14 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Burson, after an illness of about a year. Funeral services were held at the Bohemian hall Sunday afternoon with Rev. Willard McCarthy in charge and interment was in the Bohemian National cemetery here. Born in Moravia Nov. 8, 1839, she deceased was united in marriage to John Pokorney in 1859 and with him came to the United States sixty years ago. To them were born ten children, of whom four—Peter, Julia, Josie and Frank—preceded their mother in death. Left to mourn are three sons and three daughters. They are Anton Pokorney, Ord, Charles and John Pokorney, Burwell, Mrs. George Burson and Mrs. Frank Novak, Comstock, and Mrs. Mary Sibal, Ogallala. Mr. Pokorney passed away in 1918.

For the past forty-three years the Pokorney family has lived in Valley county and here most of the children were born. Mr. and Mrs. Pokorney were hard-working, thrifty farmer folk, loved and respected in the community.

At the funeral services Sunday Anton Bartunek made remarks in Bohemian, lauding Mrs. Pokorney highly as an influence for good throughout her long and useful life. A quartet composed of Madams Mark Tolen and E. O. Carlson, Messrs. Ed Mauer and J. B. Stoltz sang, with Mrs. Marlon Cushing at the piano. Pall-bearers were Don Carre, George Baker, Roy Nightengale, George Wilson, Jack Van Cleave and Frank Novak.

Catches 6 1-2 Lb. Bass.

While fishing on Turtle creek one day last week Rev. M. A. Lawler, pastor of the Ord Catholic church, landed a 6-1/2 pound black bass. A few bass have been caught in Turtle creek every year but Father Lawler's fish is by far the largest one ever caught there. The Ord priest loves to fish and almost every day can be found on a river or creek with his fishing tackle.

Jay Cronk Passes Monday In Idaho

Jay Cronk, in former years a well known resident of the Ord community, died Monday at his home in Emmett, Ida., according to a telegram received by his daughter, Mrs. Oscar Hackett, who left at once by train from Grand Island. Early Tuesday morning Mr. and Mrs. Will Cronk, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Timmerman and Lee Cronk left by auto for Idaho, where funeral services will be held.

Floyd Beranek In Accident.

Monday morning Floyd Beranek left by auto for Lincoln to enter the University of Nebraska as a freshman pharmacy student. He was accompanied by Joe Cupl, a sophomore Uni student. About two hours after their departure Ed F. Beranek received a telephone call saying that Floyd's car had been badly smashed up in a collision at the intersection of Highways 16 and 30, near Clark. He left at once for Clark where he learned that nobody was injured but that both Floyd's car and the car which collided with him, which was a new Dodge being driven from Detroit to California, were quite badly wrecked. The driver of the Dodge was on the wrong side of the road, witnesses said, and was responsible for the collision. Floyd and Joe drove Mr. Beranek's car on to Lincoln and the latter drove Floyd's car to Hastings for repairs.

—Mrs. F. A. Barta will be the next hostess to the Jolliffe club.

ORD HIGH SCHOOL ENROLLMENT IS SLIGHTLY LOWER

Grades Above 10-Year Average But Hi School Drops When Non-Residents Can't Come.

The close of the first week of school finds the enrollments somewhat lower than for the same time last year. The ten year grade enrollment is 375 as compared with 382 last year and 373 the ten year average. The school, while slightly lower than last year, is still above the average.

Grade	1934	1933	10-year average
K	35	44	36
1	46	49	44
2	47	51	43
3	47	37	42
4	32	34	36
5	35	38	42
6	38	44	43
7	46	50	44
8	49	35	43
Total	375	382	373

The high school enrollment is four pupils lower than last year. The figures for regular students are 1934, 256; last year, 260; ten year average, 276. The post graduate total this year is ten, only half of the figure for 1933, but still a large class for post-graduates.

The regular local school students number about the normal for the Ord schools, but some ten or fifteen non-resident high school people who have indicated a desire to attend but were unable to do so because of the drouth leaves the high school about 7.5% below average.

Bass Striking at Eyleson.

Bass were striking good on the Cedar river last week and several Ord parties fished with excellent success Wednesday and Thursday. Lawrence Berger, Mike Kosmala and W. L. Blessing caught 19 Wednesday and several other good catches were reported.

Pheasant Season Opens October 12

The seven-day open season on pheasants will start at 7 a. m. Friday, October 12, the Nebraska fish and game commission has decreed, and will end at 6 p. m. Thursday, October 18. All counties except Box Butte, Cass, Cherry, Dawes, Douglas, Gage, Johnson, Lancaster, Nemaha, Otoe, Pawnee, Richardson, Sarpy, Sheridan and Washington will have the open season.

The daily bag limit this year is 4, of which one may be a hen. The possession limit is the same. Evidently the state commission does not intend to heed a protest by the Valley county board against the open season. A similar protest was made in Greeley county, also, it is understood.

The commission said, in announcing the open season: "We are opening the season for seven days this year in spite of a rather general shortage of birds. This is being done because it is felt sportsmen are entitled to this annual recreation in trying times and because it is necessary that we have the dollar you pay for your permit in order to carry on our work. Without this fee we must close our hatcheries, reserves etc., this winter, dispose of our breeding stock, discontinue feeding birds, enforcing the law, etc. And as never before, we must feed our birds."

"We hope and beg that you cooperate with us in saving breeding stock. Please do not shoot birds where they are very scarce and please take small bags. Save hens wherever possible. Let us all work together through the drought calamity."

Simmons Griswold Will Speak In Ord

Robert G. Simmons, republican nominee for United States senator, and Dwight W. Griswold, republican nominee for governor of Nebraska, will speak in Ord in the near future. Simmons will speak on the streets of Ord, using a loud speaker, at 8:00 p. m., Friday, Sept. 21, and Griswold will speak here in the same manner at 4:30 p. m. on Tuesday, Sept. 25.

Mr. Simmons will speak at Arcadia at 3:30 p. m. Sept. 21 and Griswold is to speak at North Loup at 3:30 p. m. Sept. 25.

Night Prowlers Steal $23 from Weekes Seed

Monday night a window in the Weekes Seed Company office here was pried open and the thief stole $23 from a filing cabinet in which the money had been placed for safekeeping the night before by Arlos Thompson, an employee. A locked cash drawer was also pried open but it was empty. Officers have no clue to the identity of the robber.

Ordinarily no money is left in the Weekes office, cash taken in after banking hours being taken home either by W. B. Weekes or Thompson. Monday, however, Thompson took the money out of the cash drawer at closing time and secreted it in the filing cabinet. Somebody must have watched through the window as he hid the money as the other four drawers in the filing cabinet were not disturbed and there was no evidence of a search.

On the same night a prowler gained entrance to the Dickinson Seed House through a basement window but could not get into the office above. Nothing was stolen, Manager Val Pullen told officers.

ORD HIGH GRID STOCK RISING AS NEW MEN DEVELOP

7 Letter Men Back But Must Fight To Keep Jobs Against Wealth of Good Material.

Swinging into their second week of school, the Ord football squad is starting to show promise. Football stock went up with the arrival of Dave Barnhart, letter man of two years ago, and several promising eleven graders. A good crop of last year's reserves, also are showing class and "scraps." The letter men all face real tasks in holding or winning places in the starting line-up.

The opening game with Scotia is one week from Friday and in preparation a heavy schedule of scrimmages is planned for the rest of the week. Coaches Brockman and Cowell are working hard to get the men in condition for the whole ten-game schedule. Taylor was added to the list last week, making a full schedule once the season is under way. Four tentative second team games have been lined up, to season the reserve material.

Letter men reporting back this year are: Backs—Rowhal, Marks, Barnhart; linemen—Wilson, Severson, Michels, Greathouse. Promising new men who are making strong bids are: Backs—Carlson, Haskell, Don Tunnicliff, Bill Tunnicliff; ends—Blessing, Turner; centers—Clark, Rose; guards—Pray, Cetak, R. Stone, Cook, M. Hughes, Dodge; tackles—Zabloull, Koelling, Benson.

Other men reporting regularly, many of whom may still beat out the regulars are: Zulkoski, Johnson, Dale Hughes, Puncocchar, Jack Petty, Sack, Tatlow, Vincent, Rogers, D. Mella, Jones, Fuss, Higgins, Jacobs, Wm. Cook.

From material available Coach Brockman could select a starting line-up that would average 150 pounds in weight but it is likely that lighter but faster men will be used in some positions, probably bringing the team average down to 140 pounds per man.

Fans who have been watching the daily work-outs at Bussell park are prophesying a successful season.

Weller Sales Will Be Held Thursdays

Ever since Colonel E. C. Weller organized the Weller Auction company some years ago and began holding weekly livestock auctions in Ord these sales have been held on Saturdays. Beginning this week, however, the date for these sales has been changed to Thursday and henceforth will be held every week on this day.

Col. Weller has been selected as auctioneer for a number of large cattle sales being held in north-eastern Nebraska and South Dakota this fall and winter, the sales offering scheduled for Saturdays. It was a real compliment to his auctioneering ability to be asked to cry these sales and the proposition was so attractive that Col. Weller dared not refuse, hence the date of his Ord sales has been changed to Thursday.

A big offering of horses, cattle and hogs will be sold today in Ord and every Thursday hereafter.

NO. LOUP PROJECT BOOSTERS VISIT HOLDREGE OCT. 5

Monster Mass Meeting To Be Held With Norris Speaker; Cushing Is Chairman.

Probably a hundred people from Ord and as many more from North Loup, Elyria, Burwell and Taylor will drive to Holdrege on Friday, October 5, to attend the monster mass meeting with Senator George W. Norris as the principal speaker. It is stated this week by Marjorie J. Cushing, who has been selected as chairman of the meeting.

The mass meeting is called at this time to boost federal approval of Nebraska power and irrigation projects which have been given a "dirty deal" by being refused PWA funds.

The program at Holdrege will open at 1:00 p. m. with a parade of boosters from the Middle Loup, North Loup, Tri-County, Blue Creek, Arickaree and Frenchman Valley projects. Each delegation will be accompanied by a band and banners bearing appropriate slogans will be carried.

At 2:00 in the Holdrege auditorium Chairman Cushing will open the meeting and a welcome address will be made by Mayor Frank A. Anderson of Holdrege. C. A. Sorensen, former attorney general, will discuss Senate File 310, under which the PWA projects were organized and which makes it illegal to obligate the land for proposed improvements. J. E. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star and member of the Nebraska PWA advisory board, will discuss the public works program and its significance to Nebraska, and will introduce Senator Norris, whose topic will be "The Importance of Power and Irrigation Development."

It is expected that 25,000 people will visit Holdrege for this important meeting and loud speaker systems are being installed so all may hear the speeches even though they are unable to secure seats in the auditorium. The Hastings Drum Corps, three times winner of state championships at Legion conventions, and bands from the North Loup valley, Artell, Bertrand, Minden and Holdrege will be present.

Directors of the Ord Chamber of Commerce met Friday evening to plan Ord's participation in this important meeting. Val Pullen, Harlan T. Frazier, Ed Mauer and C. A. Hager were selected as a committee to arrange transportation and display banners.

All Ordites who plan to drive cars are requested to register with any member of this committee, showing the number of passengers who will be taken and the amount of room available for additional passengers. All persons who wish to attend the Holdrege meeting may register with this committee and all available transportation will thus be made use of.

This committee will also have charge of the selection and preparation of suitable slogans and banners boosting the North Loup project, these banners to be carried in the monster parade. If you have in mind a good, snappy slogan, tell it to the committee. If you wish to donate the price of material for a banner, also let this committee know.

Glen D. Auhle has been put in charge of arrangements for a North Loup valley band to be composed of musicians from Burwell, Ord and North Loup. The cooperation of the whole North Loup valley is promised to make the Holdrege meeting a success.

Farmers Urged To List Cattle Now

Valley county farmers who still have cattle to sell to the government are urged to list the approximate numbers with their township committeemen at once in order that both the county and state organizations may know about how many more cattle it will be necessary to purchase in the country. If there is to be a big run after the first of October when the pasture season ends the local organization must know it in order that buying days may be scheduled to take care of these cattle. Since the recent rains, the number of cattle coming to these sales has dropped all over the state, and a telegram from State Director Gramlich indicates that the Nebraska quota may be cut to a point where it will not take care of the cattle offered for sale after the first hard freeze comes. In order to avoid this situation, it is necessary that each county determine the number of cattle yet to be bought.

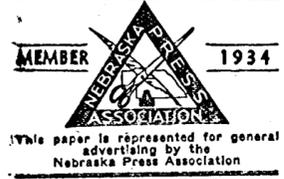

The county drouth committee is not urging any farmer to sell his cattle but if it is going to be necessary to move these cattle, they should be listed, so that the committee know where they stand.

ded a nice string of bass, the Missus getting one that tipped the scales at just 4 pounds. We came in early and I grilled the fish for Lou to ship and he did have a beautiful box of fish. Not very large ones, the 4 pound one was the largest, and no very small ones. The beauty of it was that he caught a lot of them himself. After the fish were shipped Lou said he had never caught but one bass here and he has been here several years. I had not realized that the bass fishing had always been poor when he was here, for he did catch plenty of other fish, including one of the biggest walleyes ever taken in our lake.

Yesterday we got fish hungry and decided to get a mess of bluegills which we had not been able to before, with the halfhearted bluegill fishing we had done. So we left minnows and bass tackle at home and went out on our lake and in a couple of hours had caught forty splendid bluegills. I dressed 20 of them last evening, they were wrapped in waxed paper and laid on top of the ice in the ice box and we are going to have them for supper tonight. Possibly I should have said dinner tonight but we had dinner at noon, and such a dinner. After breakfast this morning we, Mr. and Mrs. Hallaway and the Missus and I drove up to the Wauss landing on Upper Cullen where we keep our motor boat, and spent the forenoon. Mrs. Burke and Mrs. Callaway were to have dinner, a genuine Jiggs dinner, ready at noon. We were 20 minutes late and they were sputtering when we drove in and said the dinner had been set back nearly a half hour before. But it wasn't spoiled, in fact it was a wonderful dinner. Now different people have different ideas of what a Jiggs dinner should contain. You can't say, at breakfast time, "We will have a Jiggs dinner today" and with no preliminary preparation, have it. For a genuine Jiggs dinner you have to prepare at least 4 days ahead, by getting your beef to corn and it takes 4 days to have it just right. I may have told you how before. I always go down to John Perliniski's and pick out the sort of piece of beef that I want. I get about 4 pounds. Then take a quart of water and teacup of plain salt and drop in a piece of saltpeper about the size of a large pea and boil. Let cool and pour over the beef in a jar. Turn it over each morning and the 4th day it is ready to cook. Start it early in the morning and if you have selected wisely and have not been imposed on by your butcher, by noon the beef will be tender enough so you can cut it with the edge of your fork. A Jiggs dinner requires potatoes, cabbage, turnips and carrots. I always want a bowl of the soup that it is cooked in, to pour over my potatoes and bread. A couple of heaping plates of that mixture, with a couple of cups of strong, black coffee and topped off with a large wedge of apple pie, puts one in shape to enjoy his after dinner nap and makes him ready to get out on the lake at 4 p. m. and go after the big ones in earnest. I shall not hesitate to recommend Mrs. Burke and Mrs. Callaway to anyone needing their services to prepare a Jiggs dinner. I got my beef at the Model Market in Brainard where I have been buying my meats while here, for 12 years.

I wanted to write this letter this afternoon and when the folks wanted to go hunting frogs, I told them to go ahead and I would take a plunge in the lake and then write. The sun has been out for a couple of hours and while the water is pretty cold, I enjoyed it after the first plunge. Have been going in almost every day.

Guide Luther had a party over on Gull Lake today after walleyes and I am anxious to find out if they got them. It was reported yesterday that they were striking and if the rumor proves to be well founded we are going to take a trip over there soon. Word also filtered through that northerners were striking on Edwards and we are planning a picnic over there for the whole family and a good fish by the men folks within the next few days. Tomorrow we are going to have a picnic over on the Glissman place (formerly the Bartz place). There is a butternut grove and a lot of pretty white pines over there and Mrs. Burke is the one who suggested it as a good place for a picnic. We have to drive up to the Wauss landing and motor across the east bay.

So by next week I may be able to tell you about a couple of picnics. The frogs just drove in and failed to find the frogs. There is a great scarcity of frogs here this year for some reason.

Care of The County Board Ord, Nebr.

Dear Jake?
Mrs. Grey had gone to bed and gone to sleep. She was suddenly awakened by the mice in her cupboard. "They must be having a democratic convention there," she thought. She glanced at the clock. It was eleven thirty, and Art, her husband, was not home yet. He had gone from the garage to help a wrecked car into town.

"I've about had my fill of mice for one night," she pondered, sitting up. She stretched, arose and padded to the kitchen. She spread butter on a couple slices of bread, and then proceeded to find the poison. She did not find it at first on top of the cupboard where she thought she had placed in a year before. She struck a match, climbed on a chair and stirred the junk around that was there. Just as the light was going out she picked up a can on the very front of the shelf. "Here it is," she murmured. "Who would put it there? Someone might get hold of it by mistake." She opened the can and spread a thin layer on each slice. Then she sprinkled a little sugar on top and placed a very thin slice of cheese on one making a sandwich. Leaving this on the shelf and placing the can on the top, she marched back to bed. "We will just serve them a little lunch at their next convention," she said to herself. She was soon sound asleep again.

In a short time Art came home. He had worked hard ever since supper repairing the wreck so that the tourists could go merrily on their way in the morning. He was hungry. He looked into the cupboard. He saw the sandwich and at once proceeded to eat it and did eat it. "Pretty good sandwich at that," he thought to himself. "A little peculiar taste to it. Perhaps some newwangled salad dressing. Anything will go now days for salad dressing or sandwich spread." He thought kind thoughts of his wife for fixing the lunch for him. He crawled into bed. He reached over kissing her and whispered "pretty nice of you dear, to fix the sandwich for me." She hardly awakened. He was very tired. He was soon sound asleep.

In the course of a few moments she raised up in bed with a start. "Art. What did you say?" Art only grunted. He was sleeping soundly. She sprang from the bed and ran to the cupboard. She knew now what he had said. She grabbed a bottle of milk. She ran back to the bed and shook him violently. She screamed, "Wake up. Art, Art, Wake up. You have eaten the rat poison. There was rat poison in that sandwich. Drink this milk."

Art was awake by this time enough to be mad. The idea of waking him up just as soon as he had fallen asleep. He rolled over. "Sposen I did. I am not a rat anyway. Too late to worry now. Leave me alone. I want to sleep." "Drink this milk while I call the doctor," she ordered.

He grabbed the bottle. "Let the doctor rest," he stormed. "Too late now to worry anyway. I want to sleep while I can." He downed the milk. He was still hungry. The wife was in despair. He had gone to sleep again. He was not such a bad fellow for the most part, but when he laid down orders about himself he meant it. He did very much as he pleased and expected other people to allow him to do it. Further, he was always grouchy when his sleep was disturbed. She did not dare to call the doctor against Art's wishes. If she did he might kick the doctor out of the house.

Not a wink more did she sleep that night. Every breath that Art took, she would imagine was the last or the beginning of a convulsion. She thought of her explanation to the sheriff. She thought of the funeral, the administrators, the pall bearers, the kids and the property. "If I will waken soon and in his misery he will wish he had told me to call for help sooner. What a cruel man he is to sleep there while I stay awake and worry about his life."

She rose at daybreak. She as well get up as to lie there awake. She would straighten the house a little so it would look better when the crowd came. There was one thing that she vowed she would do. She would bury that poison and moreover, never leave any spread on bread around where Art might eat it, or anyone else, either. Automatically she opened the cupboard. The sandwich was gone. The can of poison was on the top shelf where she had laid it. She picked it up. She proceeded to read the label. Instead of poison it read Denver Mud.

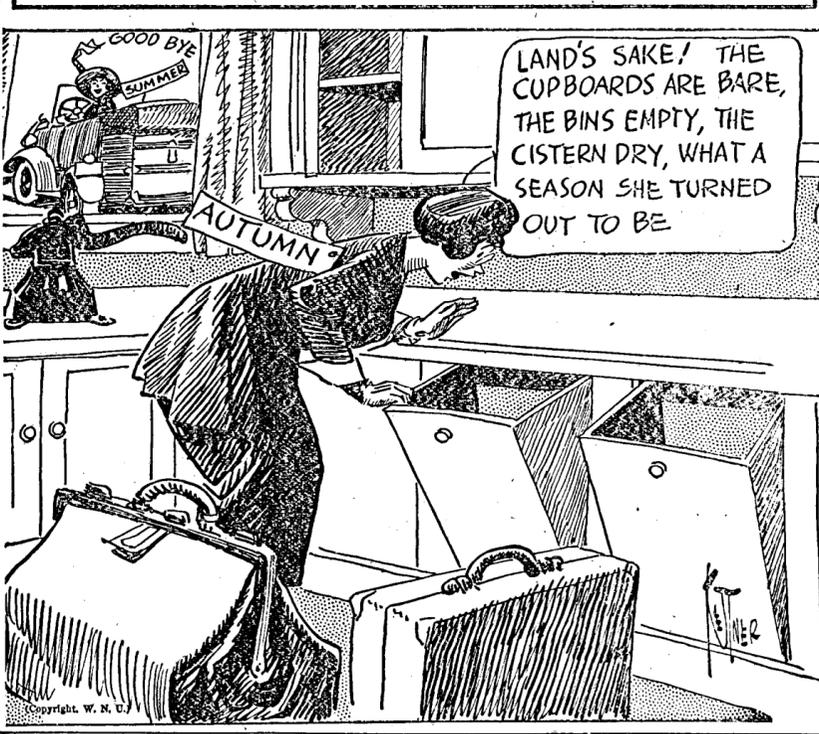

She walked to the bedroom and laid down. Soon she was sound asleep. About eight, Art awoke and dressed. "Guess I will not awaken her. Just go up town to breakfast. It isn't worrying her much now about me eating that poison. I guess I was a little mean to her last night. But what a fool idea to wake a fellow up for." He leaned over and kissed her and left.

Change of Maids

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Cool weather brings renewed interest in cooking and baking once more, and so most housewives will feed their families a little better now than they have been doing. Oven dishes, heavier dishes and the delicacies of fall and winter are again welcome and add new touches of variety to our menus.

Please send in the recipes you are using now. The Quiz needs them. The jelly recipes, recipes for preserving fruit, spicing peaches etc., will be very welcome and will be used in many households. Thank you.

Here is a recipe Mrs. Ferris invented herself, and I tasted a sample of this cake. It is wonderfully good, nothing in the cake line could be better. Try it.

Spiced Angel Food
Add to three cups flour one-fourth cup cornstarch, measured after sifting, also two teaspoons cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, one-half teaspoon cloves and a pinch of salt, sifting them together several times. Then beat frothy the whites of eleven eggs and add one level teaspoon cream of tartar and continue beating until the whites are stiff but not dry. Sift in very slowly, one and one-half cups of sugar which have been sifted several times previously, beating between each addition. Also sift slowly into the cake, a little at a time, the flour and spices, folding into the cake carefully. Bake in a slow oven forty-five minutes to one hour.

Adronck Salad.
Drain one can of peas, add two or three tablespoons chopped onions, two or three tablespoons sweet pickles, two or three tablespoons cheese cut coarsely. Salt well and add a touch of paprika. Mix and add salad dressing.

Cherry Cake.
Combine one cup sugar, three-fourths cup butter, three eggs, two teaspoons baking powder, four tablespoons sour cream, one cup pitted cherries, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, and two and one-half cups flour. If fresh cherries are used, put one teaspoon sugar on them and heap the cup.

Tomato and Cottage Cheese Salad.
Bring one can tomato soup to a boil and add three tablespoons gelatine which have been dissolved in one-half cup cold water. Let set until it begins to congeal. Then add one cup salad dressing part of it whipped cream, one cup cottage cheese and one and one-half cups diced celery, one small bottle of stuffed olives sliced crosswise also one small green pepper and a little onion, if you like. Pour in molds, serve with salad dressing.

Beet Relish.
Combine one quart cooked and chopped beets with one quart of chopped horse radish, one cup grated horseradish, one tablespoon dry mustard, one-half cup sugar, one tablespoon salt, two cups vinegar. This can be cooked but most people prefer to can it cold.

Pepper Relish.
Grind twelve red peppers, twenty-four green peppers, two heads cabbage, twelve onions. After grinding the peppers sprinkle with salt, and let drain, then add the other ground vegetables and one quart sugar, half white and half brown, two tablespoons mustard seed, two tablespoons celery seed. Do not cook. This makes eight or nine pints.

Something DIFFERENT

Flowers are surely a scarce article in Ord this summer, a real luxury. Only those have them who have watered and carefully tended them the whole summer long, and watering flowers this summer meant a real water bill to pay.

And there never were so many dead, bare brown lawns to be seen as Ord possesses this September. I think there will have to be lots of replanting and reseeding before Ord will have green velvet yards galore again.

In fact our lovely green valley, and our pretty Valley county has all turned brown. This beautiful countryside isn't beautiful, in other words.

A man who is getting FERA help asked his doctor: "I've got a chance to get a job Doc, but now I don't want to take it if it will interfere with my getting this FERA Aid. What do you think about it, Doctor?"

At last reports the man wasn't faking any chances. He turned down the job.

One wife says her husband always brings home ice cream whenever he wishes to atone for something he has done that hurts his conscience or displeases her, and she wonders just what quantity of ice cream she would receive if he really committed any grievous offense?

There are lots of kinds of husbands. One localite always hollers as the telephone rings, "If it's my wife I'm not here."

—Vern Robbins of North Loup was a patient Saturday of Dr. Lee Nay.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

25 Years Ago This Week. Although Ord was officially dry, thirsty residents had no trouble in getting liquor enough to get drunk. An enterprising Burwell resident who had been bootlegging in Ord was arrested, thereby stopping one source of supply. Officers were seeking legal means to stop the supply of "tonic bitters" sold by Ord druggists and alleged to be composed principally of whiskey.

Orin Kellison and Miss Ora Rathbun were married at the Rathbun home in Springdale.

The Yankee Robinson circus visited Ord and departed with much money taken from the credulous. Charles Prien purchased an alfalfa huller, the first such machine seen locally. The raising of seed was gradually becoming an important business around Ord.

Miss Lydia Crow had graduated as an osteopath and after visiting friends in Ord left for Pocahontas, Ida., to open an office.

20 Years Ago This Week. Fred Brothwell and Will Whiting were badly injured in a threshing machine accident at the Campbell place in Noble township.

Eldon Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Davis at Ord, won second place in the "Better Babies" contest at the Nebraska state fair.

Warren Draper installed a bread mixer at his bakery and thus got rid of the arduous job of kneading bread by hand.

Leonard Blessing left for Iowa City where he expected to room with his friend, Earl Dorfner, and enter the University of Iowa to study dentistry.

The World War was amonth a long and Germany had failed to break through the English and French lines. German losses were estimated at 200,000 killed and wounded and Allies at about half that much.

Straggettes were announcing a street meeting in Ord with Wm. Suhr of Grand Island as principal speaker.

Considerable rye has been planted after the rains, and dealers have been flooded with requests for seed. Rye is the surest crop of any of the cereals; its use gives the farmer more chance of raising at least something.

Rye is a hardy crop. It makes a fair yield on poor land in any climate. Its drought resisting qualities make it popular in semiarid regions. It grows on sour soils and sandy soils better than other grains. Winter rye thrives in North Dakota and rarely winter-kills in the coldest sections of the United States.

Rye is excellent for pasture during those periods when no other forage stays green. It will furnish grazing longer in autumn, earlier in the spring, and stand tramping in wet weather better than wheat. It will furnish a grain, or green manure crop in addition. Rye will hold soil from blowing if the winter should be dry and open.

Elyria Department

By MRS. WILL DODGE

Maxine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Jablonski met with quite an accident Wednesday while going to school. The horse she was riding slipped in some mud near the Elyria mills and fell on her, injuring her head and an elbow quite badly. She was unconscious for several hours and for a time it was feared that her injuries were much more severe than they were. Fortunately she came out with only bad bruises and Monday she was able to be back in school again.

Monday Anton Swanek trucked a load of lumber to a school in Eureka township where they are building a new school house.

CHARLES CARLSON.
Charles John Carlson was born in Ostergoeland, Sweden, on January 24, 1866 and departed this life after a lingering and painful illness, which he endured with remarkable fortitude, grace and patience at the family home, September 13, 1934 at the age of 68 years, 7 months and 20 days.

In the summer of 1871, Charles with the rest of the family, emigrated from Sweden to America and located near Whitehall, Mich., until 1879, when they came to Nebraska and finally homesteaded at Arcadia.

When an infant he was baptised into the Lutheran church and continued to regard himself as a member of that communion during his entire life as there was no Lutheran church in his community, he attended the Balsora Baptist, and joined in the public worship, his deep bass voice joyously singing the hymns which he loved.

His father, mother, two brothers and one sister preceded him in death. Left to mourn his passing are three sisters, Mrs. Esther Roos and Miss Amanda Carlson of Arcadia, and Mrs. Sophia Clauson of Kearney, numerous other relatives and a host of friends.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. from the house, Rev. H. N. Johnson of Loup City, Balsora Baptist minister, officiating. Interment was in the family plot in the Balsora cemetery.

Miss Florence Shipley was the pianist and Paul Travis of Loup City and Mrs. J. G. Stanley of Arcadia sang.

DUCK HUNTERS MUST BUY $1.00 FEDERAL STAMP

Season Opens Oct. 16th And Lasts 30 Days; Daily Bag Limit Five on Some Kinds.

There will be only a 30-day open season on migratory waterfowl in Nebraska this fall, according to official announcement made last week by the fish and game commission. The open period starts at sunrise Tuesday, October 16 and lasts until sundown Sunday, November 14.

Many new regulations apply to duck and goose shooting this fall. Most important is a new federal law requiring waterfowl hunters to purchase a federal "duck stamp" to be affixed to their regular state license. This provision will be rigidly enforced, both by state and federal game wardens, and any waterfowl hunter found without a "duck stamp" affixed to his license will be liable to a federal charge.

The new duck stamps cost $1.00 each and may be purchased at the postoffice in Ord and all other county seat towns, as well as in all cities with population over 2,500. The stamp is about twice the size of an ordinary postage stamp. It does not take the place of a state license, which must also be purchased for all hunting or fishing, but is required only of waterfowl hunters. Every dollar realized by the sale of duck stamps will be used by the federal government for propagation of waterfowl.

Another important change in shooting provisions is in the time when shooting is permitted. In former years it was legal to shoot one-half hour before sunrise—this fall no shooting is allowed until sunrise. Shooting must stop at sundown as in former years.

The daily bag limit this year is 12 for all species and the possession limit is 24. However, certain species of ducks known to be on the decline are given further protection and not more than 5 of each or in the aggregate of the following species may be killed in any one day: Canvasback, redheads, scaups, ringnecks, bluewinged teal, greenwinged teal, cinnamon teal, gadwalls and spoon-bills. There is no open season on swans, buffleheads, wood ducks and swans.

Four geese or brant may be killed daily and the possession limit is five. The daily limit on coots is 20 and the possession limit is the same. Fifteen Wilson's snipe or jacksnipe may be taken daily.

Although many lakes in northern Nebraska are dry, local duck hunters are looking forward to a fairly good season as it is believed ducks will follow the rivers more closely than in years when the lakes are open to them. Western Nebraska lakes are said to be swarming with ducks now and more ducks than usual are said to have been raised in Minnesota and certain parts of Canada.

CHAPTER VIII

JANET and Arthur had announced their engagement to Berenice, but not to Gordon Haskell, suspecting him of having little sympathy with engagements between young and impecunious people. Mrs. Denver was also admitted to their confidence, and one dark December night the four gathered about the library and talked in whispers, though listeners could not be many. Only one servant remained in the kitchen—the others having yielded to their fears. Mrs. Denver welcomed her own additional duties as an outlet for her pent-up emotions.

To Arthur she confided her suspicions that Haskell was getting ready for some move which should make a radical change in their existence. "I believe he doesn't want the day scholars," she ventured her opinion. "I think he's just as glad they have dropped off. Then the heat of the winter is ahead of us, and many of those boys and girls couldn't come far through the snow anyway. I don't relish the thought of being besieged through the long winter months. Do you think he means to murder us all?"

"He hasn't courage enough for that. Cheer up, Mrs. Denver. There would always be a way of getting out of this place. Maybe he'll send us out as he did poor Wilton."

"Well, I hope it won't be at night—think of waiting at that station at Blade for the down train."

This night the four heard the splashing of heavy rollers against the rocks of the shore, and knew it portended storm. Haskell came to the door once. "There's a door slamming somewhere, Fleming," he said; "if there is anything I abhor it's a slamming door. Won't you go look for it?"

Arthur went obediently. Upstairs and downstairs he went. In the corridor of the basement he saw Balder gazing through the glass peephole.

"Aren't you well enough acquainted with those figures?" Arthur queried.

Balder shambled off. "Now Mother Martha's gone," he muttered. "They might be forgotten."

"Can you locate that slamming door?"

"Yes, top floor—east wing—Mother Martha's—always did slam unless it was bolted."

Arthur went with this information to Haskell. "Lock your door when you come out," Haskell commanded Janet, who now occupied Mother Martha's room. Then he went on down into the basement. From a dark recess Balder stepped suddenly in front of his master, and Haskell started violently.

"Why are you always hanging around? Go to your room; or go out to the barns. You are always under foot."

"I am—am I—well, you'll need old Balder again some day."

"What do you mean?"

"I want some money."

"I haven't any! This mad freak of Miss Bracebridge to revive the school has taken everything."

Balder grinned. "You can always get money, Boss, for Balder."

"Look here, what you do—is on your own responsibility."

"Always on my own responsibility. I'm tough. You're tender! A bit of a scholar, as they say—a white-handed scholar."

Haskell aimed a stinging blow at him; Balder dodged and waved a paw as if a mosquito had come after him. "You'll never get Wilton Payne out of the neighborhood. That man knows what he wants and he means to have it. They have a regular rural free delivery. Miss Bracebridge sends her notes by Mr. Fleming; that old tree near the cross roads. You know her writing well—don't you? You've seen it often enough?"

"Of course I know her writing."

"Well! Can't you put two and two together?"

"You talk more, say less than any human being I know. Get out of here."

"I can keep a secret," Balder avowed suddenly.

"I am not sure of that."

The man shuffled off down the corridor.

"There's only one way to get rid of that brute," Haskell muttered to himself. "Leave this great, rotting pile—and go out into the world! But I can't go without her—I can't. She's all that keeps me sane."

That night Berenice and Janet discussed the future over the fire. Quiz Want Ads get results.

in Berenice's bedroom. They sat there, too conscious of the recent death in the other. They had locked both doors, even secured the windows.

"Do you blame me, Janet, for wanting to marry Wilton at once? After all, what could Mr. Haskell do if I did marry without his consent?"

"What does the will say?"

"Simply that I must have his consent. But, Janet, I don't think my father ever really knew Gordon as we know him—or else he has changed terribly with the years. My father trusted him absolutely. In the event of my death he inherits everything."

"Ah, in the event of your death!"

"Why do you look at me like that, Janet?"

"My dear, I want you to live!"

"Of course! I have everything to live for! Do you feel danger here—?"

"No premeditated, plotted danger, perhaps, but something sudden; the outbreak of a smoldering fire. I believe Gordon Haskell would stop at nothing to force you to marry him."

"It is not the day of marriage by capture. What I am fearing is that he will dismiss Mrs. Denver and you and Arthur suddenly as he did Wilton, and I shall be left here with him—and not even Mother Martha to protect me."

"Berenice, when that day comes you'll go with us. There's something savage in Gordon Haskell's nature. I can quite understand why your high-spirited brothers and sisters resented the man."

Berenice laid a hand on Janet's. "Listen—do you hear some one in the passage? I thought I heard some one breathing at the door."

Janet glanced fearfully toward it. "The wind, probably—what is that bit of white?"

Against the dark sill was outlined a tiny white triangle. Janet cautiously drew it from under the crack—a little three-cornered note without address. "Berenice, it must be for you."

Proceedings of the City Council

September 8, 1934. The Mayor and Council of the City of Ord, Valley County, Nebraska, met in adjourned regular session, pursuant to the adjournment of August 3, 1934, in the City Hall at 8:00 o'clock P. M. Mayor Flagg presided. City Clerk Rex Jewett recorded the proceedings.

The Mayor instructed the Clerk to call the roll. The Clerk called the roll, and the following Councilmen were present: Val Pullen, Anton Bartunek, Frank Serhsen, Guy Burrows, Curt Gudmundsen, Frank Travis.

Whereupon it was moved by Gudmundsen and seconded by Burrows, that the minutes of the proceedings of August 3 be accepted as read. Motion carried.

The report of James B. Ollis, City Treasurer was read and by motion placed on file.

The application of the Z. C. B. J. Lodge for a dance permit was presented and read. Moved by Gudmundsen, seconded by Burrows that the application be granted. Motion carried.

The invitation to attend the Municipal League convention the coming month was read and discussed.

Moved by Bartunek and seconded by Serhsen that Joe Knezacek, Joe Bartos, and Rudolph Kerchal be appointed additional dance supervisors. Motion carried.

The following Certificate of the City Engineer accepting the work in Street Improvement District No. 5 and showing the total amount due the Contractor for the work was read:

CERTIFICATE September 4, 1934 To the Mayor and City Council, Ord, Nebraska.

This is to inform you that the work in Paving District No. 5 has been completed in accordance with the plans, specifications, and general stipulations as stated in the contract entered into between the City of Ord and Peter Kiewit Sons Co., of Omaha, Nebraska, on June 1st, 1934.

The following tabulation shows the quantities of materials used in the District together with the cost:

Table with 2 columns: Item description and Cost. Includes items like concrete pavement, catch basins, lineal feet concrete, etc.

The cost of improvement should be distributed as follows: Paving District No. 5, $7,311.01; City Intersections, 1,279.07; Total, $8,590.08

I certify that the quantities shown above were measured by me, and that the cost of the improvement is correctly represented by the above estimate.

Respectfully submitted, Rollin C. Ayres, City Engineer. It was moved by Councilman Gudmundsen that the above Certificate of the Engineer be accepted. Seconded by Councilman Pullen. The Mayor stated the motion, and instructed the Clerk to call the roll.

The roll call resulted as follows: Yeas: Pullen, Gudmundsen, Travis, Bartunek, Burrows, Serhsen. Nays: None. The result of the vote being 6 Yeas and 0 Nays, the Mayor declared the motion carried.

The following resolution was then presented and read by the Clerk. Resolution Accepting Work And Ordering Plat And Schedule Of Assessments Prepared.

Whereas, on the first day of June, 1934, the City of Ord, Nebraska, entered into a contract with the Peter Kiewit Son's Co., Omaha, Nebraska, for the construction of grading, curbing, guttering, and paving Street Improvement District No. 5, which contract was duly approved by the City Council on the first day of June, 1934, and

Whereas, the contract has been fully completed according to the terms and stipulations of the plans and specifications according to the report of the City Engineer. Now therefore be it resolved, by the Mayor and City Council of the City of Ord, Nebraska, that the report of the Engineer, filed with the Clerk of the City on the 4th of September, 1934, be and the same hereby is approved and adopted and that the improvements constructed under the Contract above referred to be and the same hereby is accepted, and

Be it still further resolved that the City Engineer be and he hereby is instructed and directed to prepare a plat and schedule showing the lots, pieces, or parcels of ground subject to assessment and the cost of this improvement together with the names of the owners and the amount assessed by law against each lot, piece or parcel of ground. Said plat and schedule when completed shall be filed in the office of the City Clerk.

Attest: Rex Jewett, City Clerk. G. B. Flagg, Mayor. It was moved by Councilman Pullen and seconded by Councilman Serhsen that the above Resolution be adopted. The Mayor stated the motion, and instructed the Clerk to call the roll. Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas: Pullen, Burrows, Gudmundsen, Serhsen, Travis, Bartunek. Nays: None. The result of the vote being 6 Yeas and no Nays, the Mayor declared the motion carried, and the resolution adopted.

After considering the proposed plat and assessment filed with the Clerk on the 4th day of September, 1934, it was moved by Councilman Serhsen that it be accepted, and placed on file. Seconded by Councilman Gudmundsen. The Mayor stated the motion, and instructed the Clerk to call the roll. Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas: Travis, Serhsen, Bartunek, Pullen, Burrows, Gudmundsen, Nays: None. The result of the roll call being 6 Yeas and No Nays the Mayor declared the motion carried.

Obituary.

Ruth Biggerstaff Russell, daughter of Wilson and Ruth Holman Biggerstaff, was born on a farm one mile from Plattsburg, Mo., on April 23, 1863.

She was the youngest in a family of eight children. Her mother died when she was eleven months old and she was reared by her father and elder sisters.

She was educated in two private schools, first Miss Pepper's school and later Plattsburg college.

On January 1st, 1884, she was united in marriage to George H. Russell of Salem, Nebr., and went as a bride to Salem where they lived for twenty-five years.

In 1909 the Russell family moved to Ord, Nebr., which has been their home since that time with the exception of several years' residence in Lincoln and a shorter residence in Burwell, Nebr.

Early in life she became a member of the Church of Christ in Plattsburg. Three other church homes knew and benefited by her faithful service, Salem church, Ord Christian church and the First church at Lincoln.

She became a member of the P. E. O. sisterhood in 1912 and was an active member at the time of her death.

Falling health made it necessary for Mrs. Russell to spend the past three years with her daughters. Although never confined to her bed, she gradually weakened and passed away very suddenly on the morning of Sept. 7th in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ramel in Lincoln.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Beulah Ramel of Lincoln and Mrs. Mary Koupal of Ord, two grand children, George Russell Ramel of Lincoln and Ruth Koupal of Ord, also a sister, Mrs. John N. Payne of Plattsburg, Mo.

The funeral services were held in Wadlow's chapel in Lincoln on Monday morning, Sept. 10. Rev. Ray E. Hunt of the First Christian church assisted by Rev. Leslie Smith of Tabernacle Christian church conducted the services. Earl McMunn was the soloist.

Burial in Memorial Park at Lincoln.

Republican Candidates Active!

'DEBTS CAN'T BE REPEALED,' SAYS G. O. P. CANDIDATE

Farmers Pay Recovery Costs 4 Times, Says Bob Simmons In Talk Here Friday.

"You can repeal the NRA, the AAA and all the other alphabetical mixups but you can't repeal the staggering debt burden placed upon us in the past 18 months," declared "Bob" Simmons, republican candidate for United States senator, in an address here Friday evening in which he denounced the wholesale repudiation by the democratic party of its pledges made two years ago.

The fighting candidate, who declares that the hog processing tax is the most brutally unfair tribute ever levied upon any industry, said that estimates show Nebraska's share of the 18 months' deficit under the present administration amounts to $60,000,000.

"Neither you nor I, nor our children," he said, "will see the day when the costs of the 18 months' spending by the New Deal will be paid."

Simmons, who formerly represented the 5th district in Congress and now lives in Lincoln, won the republican nomination to the Senate by a large majority. He is now making a two-fisted, whirlwind campaign that is carrying him into every hamlet, town and city in Nebraska.

"The democratic party two years ago pledged in its platform, a 25 per cent reduction in the cost of government, the lifting of government hands from business, the curbing of monopolies and trusts, halting centralization of power in Washington and stopping the growth of bureaus and commissions. The extent to which these promises has been broken is a matter of public knowledge. The democratic pledge of economy would be a farce, if the staggering debt burden placed upon us in 18 months of wild and unchecked spending wasn't such a staggering blow at our economic well being. All the savings of 10 years of republican economy have been wiped out. And the president says that unless Congress stops its spending the debt will reach 32 billions."

Above is a sample of the language that Simmons speaks. He doesn't mince words, he quotes facts and figures, and the attentive interest shown him by a small crowd that braved Friday night's chilly wind was a tribute to his personality and his eloquence.

"The farmer is paying four times for the New Deal," Simmons charges. "He is paying as a citizen his share of the increased taxes, his share of the increased living charges brought about by the codes, his share of the tribute to price fixing combinations that have been set up as a result of anti-trust law suspension, and on top of all these burdens the farmer is paying the costs of his own recovery out of his own pocket by processing taxes levied upon products of his farm."

The processing tax on hogs alone costs Nebraska farmers $1,950,000 per month, Simmons states, and only a fraction of this great sum is paid back in the form of corn-hog checks. The balance, he charges, goes to pay the salary and mileage expense of an "army of bureaucrats who roam the middle-west meddling in the farmer's business, at his expense."

"People should elect congressmen and senators this year, not to go to Washington to flatterly oppose the President in everything but who will have the courage to tell him frankly where his program is falling," is Simmons' belief. "This of all times is not the period when 'yes men' are needed in Washington. No 'yes man' ever made a constructive suggestion to anybody. The man who offers real help is the man who knows and tells the truth and has the courage to come out against what he knows is wrong."

Candidate Simmons carries with him portable amplifying equipment and various local republican candidates were introduced before the microphone by C. B. Gudmundsen, local chairman of the Young Republicans club, and spoke briefly. Mr. Simmons also spoke in Arcadia, Friday.

Shoe Repair Man Aviator.
C. R. Turnblade, of Lost Springs, Wyo., who leased the Frank Tedrow shoe repair shop last week, is an aviator as well as an expert shoe repair man. He has his own airplane, which he towed to Ord behind his car and now has stored in the flag garage. Mr. Turnblade's wife and son accompanied him to Ord and they are living in rooms in the Jack Brown home.

—Presbyterian Aid met yesterday in the church basement. Mrs. Frank Stara and committee served.

Republicans Will Carry On "School House Campaign"

An old-time "school house campaign," with republican candidates for Valley county offices appearing and speaking at meetings held in rural school houses over the county, is announced by E. C. James, chairman of the Valley county central committee. The campaign will start soon and continue until the general election November 6. A list of dates and places will be announced next week, Chairman James says.

"The republican party has a real message to citizens this fall and to make sure this message is heard by every voter in Valley county we are going to carry it directly to them," James declares. Every republican candidate for county office will take part in these meetings, he says.

Play for Burwell Wranglers.

Two Ord boys, Richard Koupal and Harry James McBeth, gave instrumental selections before the Burwell Wranglers club, at its dinner Monday evening. Richard plays a euphonium and Harry James a saxophone. Mrs. H. J. McBeth played their accompaniments. Principal speaker at the Wranglers meeting Monday was J. M. Lanigan, of Greeley, who talked on the Constitution.

Picnic at Long Beach.

Former residents of Ord and vicinity now living in California will hold their semi-annual picnic in Bixby Park, Long Beach, on Sunday, October 7, according to announcements received from officers of the Ord club, Fred J. Bell and Mrs. R. Sorenson. All are requested to bring their lunch baskets. Free coffee will be provided. Quiz readers who have friends from Valley county who have recently moved to California are asked to communicate their addresses at once to Mrs. Sorenson at 343 Dayman, Long Beach, Calif.

—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williams, of Fruita, Colo., are parents of a baby boy weighing 7 pounds and 7 ounces, born September 20. He has been named William Bryan. Mr. Williams is a graduate of the Ord schools and is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Williams, Ord. At present he is superintendent of a large consolidated school at Fruita.

—Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Milliken and son David came home last Wednesday evening from their eastern trip. They had been in Washington, Chicago, and Baltimore and several other of the large eastern cities. They left James at Severn school, Severn Park near Baltimore.

—Tuesday Dr. Kirby McGrew and his mother, Mrs. C. E. McGrew went to Grand Island and the latter went through the clinic. She has not been at all well lately.

BRYAN TRYING TO NAME SUCCESSOR, SAYS GRISWOLD

Republican Nominee Says Cochran "Hand Picked by Bro. Charlie", In Address Here.

Charging that his opponent, Roy Cochran, is a hand-picked republican candidate and that by bringing about his election as governor Charles W. Bryan seeks to retain control of the government of Nebraska, Dwight Griswold, of Gordon, made a vigorous campaign speech at the Bohemian hall in Ord Tuesday afternoon.

Griswold, the republican nominee, renewed his pledge made two years ago that if elected it is his intention to drive political machine control out of the state house. State employees, he declared, should devote their service to all the people of the state instead of to their political employers.

Hitting at the recent Harry Conklin scandal, he declared that state employees should not be paid salaries for the purpose or in amounts intended to provide for political contributions to the campaign fund, nor should they devote their time to political campaigns.

The Gordon republican declared against any new forms of taxation, for a budget control system for all units of government, for reorganization of the state railway commission, abolition of the office of state land commissioner, a more just handling of relief funds, a housecleaning in the state banking department so that it will operate in the interests of depositors in failed banks, and the building of highways where they are needed rather than on the basis of securing votes.

He was introduced by C. B. Gudmundsen, chairman of the Young Republicans club, and was heard by a good-sized and very attentive crowd. Alvin Blessing and Marjorie J. Cushing, candidates for the state senate and legislature in this district, also spoke briefly.

Mr. Griswold was formerly president of the Nebraska Press association. As republican candidate for governor two years ago he was defeated by only 35,000 votes. Governor Bryan while the state went democratic on the presidential ticket by 158,000. It is generally conceded that had it not been for the national land slide and the party circle that Griswold would be the governor of Nebraska today.

Griswold stated that new forms of taxation always seem to result in becoming additional taxes and that certainly the great need now is for a reduction in those already being levied.

Mr. Griswold showed the need of a budget law for all divisions of government, requiring county boards, city councils, and school boards, as well as the state government, to publish in advance what their expenditures will be and giving the public an opportunity to suggest changes. "If the budget is permanently adopted," said Mr. Griswold, "the governing boards should not be permitted to incur any expense above that provided."

He also brought out the fact that the matter of the N. R. A. codes will be one of the vital problems to be handled by the next governor and legislature, because General Johnson has stated that they plan to ask each legislature to pass a law putting the force of the state government behind the Federal officials. Mr. Griswold is absolutely opposed to this procedure as he feels that the N. R. A. codes have only resulted in higher costs to every business and higher prices for the things which Nebraska people buy. "The NRA," said Mr. Griswold, "has not solved the unemployment problem as we were told that it would. The government has made available a great deal of public work and if it were not for this, there would be more unemployment in this nation today than at any time in its history, showing plainly that the NRA has only resulted in monopolistic and higher prices."

In discussing the activities of the banking department, Mr. Griswold said the creditors of failed banks should have more to say about the management and conduct of them with full publicity being given to the salaries paid to the receivers and to the expenses of liquidation. "Bank depositors," said Mr. Griswold, "are entitled to know what is becoming of their money. We don't need a political machine in the banking department. We need plain business methods and every cent should be saved for those who have lost their money."

Mr. Griswold also described the political conditions which have been uncovered at the state cap-

Corn-Hog Signers May Plant 15 Acres Of Wheat for Feed

Corn-hog contract signers who do not have wheat contracts on their farms and who live in officially designated drought counties may plant up to 15 acres of winter wheat on their contract farms and harvest the wheat for feed in 1935, it was announced this week by W. H. Brokaw, state corn-hog administrator. The new ruling applies to Valley county, says County Agent C. C. Dale.

SUDDEN PASSING OF JUDGE HORTH MOURNED BY ALL

Grand Island Jurist Stricken Saturday Eve; Bryan Will Appoint Successor.

Ralph R. Horth, of Grand Island, district judge in this judicial district for the past four years, passed away Saturday evening at St. Francis hospital, Grand Island, less than an hour after he suffered a sudden heart attack as he was attending a committee meeting. He had previously been in excellent health.

Born in New York state in 1863, Ralph Horth came to Nebraska with his parents in 1872 and was a native of this state thereafter. His early education was secured in Gibbon, Nebr., after which he entered the University of Michigan and graduated with a law degree. He immediately returned to Grand Island and entered the practice of law, becoming associated in 1911 with Charles G. Ryan—a partnership that continued until the latter's death. Shortly thereafter he became senior partner in the firm of Horth, Suhr and Cleary, disposing of his interests to Claude A. Davis of Ord when appointed to the district bench by Governor Bryan, after Bayard H. Paine was elevated to the Supreme court.

Judge Horth's service as district judge was most distinguished and his relations with the other judges in this district, E. P. Clements of Ord, were most harmonious. Few Nebraska districts have been so fortunate as to have men of the calibre of Horth and Clements serving at the same time and Judge Horth's death is a distinct loss to every person in the district.

The deceased judge had extensive business and financial interests, was a stockholder and director in numerous banks and various industries, was a strong member of the Episcopal church for over forty years, was a member of the Masonic, Knights of Pythias and Elks lodges, a director of the Grand Island Chamber of Commerce and always active in all civic affairs there.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss May Castiday, whom he married in 1888, and by two nephews, Ralph C. Brodrick of Laramie, Wyo., and Charles M. Horth of Chicago. Funeral services were held in Grand Island Tuesday.

A successor to Judge Horth will be appointed by Governor Bryan in the near future and will serve the two years remaining in the term for which he was elected.

Re-Elected President.

Mrs. C. E. Goodhand of Ord was re-elected president of the district association of Presbyterian Missionary societies at a meeting held last week in Loup City. Mrs. John Wright, who was for 14 years a missionary in Africa, spoke at the meeting.

—Mrs. Cecil Looftburrow went from Ord to St. Paul to visit relatives of her husband. She had been spending several days in Ord. Last Wednesday she left St. Paul for her home in American Falls, Ida.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Whipple have returned to their home in Huntington Park, Calif. The latter's mother, Mrs. Myrtle Kinmont, did not accompany them to her home, staying here to care for her mother, Mrs. John McLain.

—Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Gould Flagg returned to Ord. Mrs. Flagg's parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Hostetter of Douglass, Nebr., had accompanied them to Chicago and on a trip into Indiana.

—Jack Rashaw is looking for the arrival of his father, O. C. Rashaw of Portland, Ore., who is returning to Ord for a visit. He is 92 years old.

NORRIS SPEECH AT HOLDREGE OCT. 5 TO BLOW UP PWA

Veteran Nebraska Senator Said To Be Disgusted With Treatment Given Local Projects.

That Senator George W. Norris may "blow the lid off the PWA" in his address at Holdrege on Friday, October 5, is being prophesied here this week, for he is known to be absolutely disgusted with the treatment given all Nebraska projects except the politically aided-Sutherland and Columbus. Anyway, North Loup valley people are planning to attend the Holdrege meeting en masse, along with people from the Middle Loup, Tri-County, Frenchman, Blue Creek and Arickaree projects.

Other speakers at Holdrege will include J. E. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star, and C. A. Sorenson, former Nebraska attorney general. Marlon J. Cushing of Ord will be chairman of the mass meeting, which is expected to attract from 15,000 to 25,000 people.

The meeting is called primarily as a protest against rejection of worthy Nebraska projects by PWA officials at Washington. The charge will be freely made that only sufficient political pull can get a project approved by these officials and Senator Norris will be asked to secure a congressional investigation of PWA rottenness.

Burwell, Taylor and North Loup are joining with Ord in sending a huge delegation to the meeting and it is hoped that 100 or more cars from this valley will make the trip. A Loup valley band is being organized by Glen D. Auble and slogan committees are busy preparing banners to be borne in the monster parade at Holdrege. People who expect to drive cars are urged to get in touch with the local committee, which is composed of Val Pullen, Harlan T. Frazier, Ed Mower and C. A. Hager.

Hard Frost Tuesday Night.

Valley county was visited by the second killing frost Tuesday night when mercury in Horace Travis government thermometer descended to 28, four degrees below freezing. About a week previous temperature of 29 was recorded. Ord got about 1-4 inch of rain Sunday and Monday but nearby communities were more fortunate, as much as two inches being reported near Sargent and also near Loup City. Somewhat warmer weather is forecast.

Ships 9 Trucks Cattle.

Truckers Headquarters handled a large shipment of cattle for Fred Dowhower Tuesday, trucking 124 head of corn-fed cattle to the Omaha market. Nine trucks were required to handle the shipment. They were lined up in front of the Service Oil company Tuesday afternoon and a picture taken before the caravan left for Omaha.

Government Cattle Buying Is Resumed

Government cattle buying will be re-opened in Valley county next week with sales at Burwell on Monday, October 1, and at Ord on Friday, October 5. This will be the last government sale to be held in Burwell for Valley county cattle. It will not be necessary to secure permits for these sales, and cattle from any part of the county may be brought to Ord for the Friday sale.

—Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Chris Hansen had been married 25 years and their silver wedding was celebrated in their country home with over one hundred friends and neighbors in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Hansen received some very nice gifts. The Danish Brotherhood gave them a very nice set of dishes and several friends bought a set of silver knives and forks. Mrs. Hansen was formerly Miss Jennie Anderson. The Hansens have two children, Miss Esther Hansen and Cecil Hansen.

—There was a party Monday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Pat Brickner in the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Carlsen. Mr. and Mrs. Brickner are moving to Nampa, Idaho.

—Monday dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Burrows were Dr. and Mrs. Norris and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Shelton.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. B. VanDecar entertained at dinner last Tuesday evening. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cornell, Mr. and Mrs. Marlon Crosby and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Achen.

—Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cummins of Davis Creek were in Ord Saturday. Sunday evening their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Baker, were dinner guests in the Cummins home.

Death Claims 6 Ordites

Church Workers Call At 400 Ord Homes

Last Sunday afternoon 36 people from the Ord churches paired off in visiting teams and made friendly calls at about 400 homes in Ord. The main purpose of the calling was to secure a religious directory of the town. Residents were asked to give their church membership or preference, together with names and ages of the children and others in the home, if any, and these have been turned over to the respective pastors of the churches preferred.

These visitors stressed the coming Go-to-Church movement known as the Fall Recovery Crusade in which the churches are uniting in an attendance campaign. Each church will hold its own Sunday services, but a more or less unified program will be used observing each Sunday of the six weeks period as some special day.

This crusade will start off with a big parade of the Sunday schools on Saturday afternoon, October 6. Each school will have its banners, floats and make whatever plans it may choose. They will all meet at the grade school building at 1:30 of the day named.

This will be followed by Rally Day on Sunday, October 7. All the churches are expecting a record attendance at the Sunday school and morning church services. The six weeks of special Sundays will follow, and will be announced from week to week.

No Work, No Eat Says FERA Director

"If it should come to our attention that any person now receiving FERA aid has been offered work, either temporary or permanent, and has refused it, he will promptly be cut from the FERA rolls and no further relief will be given him," said Frank Kruml, FERA director for Valley county, this week.

Federal relief will be available in all deserving cases but not for men who are given a chance to work and are too lazy to do so, Kruml says. "No work, no eat," will be the FERA policy from now on.

CORNHOG CASH PAYMENTS NOW TOTAL $130,000

$47,000 New Funds Complete 1st Payment, No More Money Til After Nov. 15th.

With the distribution of approximately $37,000 among corn-hog contract signers last week and about $10,000 this week, the total of corn-hog money so far received in Valley county reaches a total of $130,000, which completes the first payment. No more money will be distributed until the second payment is due, which will be Nov. 15.

Several weeks ago $83,000 was received by the local committee and last week $37,000 more came, most of which went to signers in the south townships of this county. Approximately $10,000 coming in this week will go to the tardy contracts—contracts which were held up for landlords' signatures or for other reasons—and which did not go in to Washington until late.

Many township committees are now busily checking compliance of contract signers in preparation for the second payment due on all contracts Nov. 15. The county committee has practically finished its work.

The corn-hog association is planning to hold meetings in every township soon which both contract signers and non-signers will be asked to attend, the purpose being a referendum vote on whether or not corn-hog production will be limited by government control program in 1935.

Two questions will be submitted, the first giving farmers a chance to say whether they favor in 1935 a corn-hog program similar to the 1934 program and the second asking farmers if they favor a permanent control program for all grain and livestock, including beef cattle, starting in 1936.

Secret ballots will be taken on each question and the results sent to federal authorities who are now making plans for 1935 and future years. No voter will be bound by his vote—that is, he may accept or reject contracts later regardless of his vote at this time. Tentative plans call for payment of $3.00 per head on hogs and 40¢ per bushel on corn in 1935, smaller amounts than are being paid this year.

Card Party at Church.

Ladies of the Ord Catholic church will give a card party in the church basement Thursday evening, Oct. 4, at 8:30. Admission 15c. The public is invited.

Grim Reaper Lays Heavy Hand On This Community, Takes Esteemed Residents.

Death laid a heavy hand upon the Ord community this week, taking to the "bourne from which no traveler returns" no less than six esteemed citizens. The dead include J. P. Jameson, J. J. Dlugosh, Frank Sevenker, Mrs. W. W. Looftburrow, H. P. Patchen and Joseph Tondreau.

Not in many years has so heavy a toll been taken in the space of a single week and few are the Ord homes that have not been darkened by the passing of a beloved relative or a close friend among this group.

Messrs. Jameson, Dlugosh and Sevenker were retired farmers who had lived in Ord many years, each having become a familiar figure on the streets of the city; Mrs. Looftburrow was a much-loved housewife whose passing is mourned by the whole town; Mr. Patchen is a former business man known and liked by most Ord people; Mr. Tondreau was a farmer of the Ord community.

The list may be swelled to seven by the time these lines are read for John Danner, another respected Ord man, father of a large family, is reported to be at death's door in a local hospital.

Obituary sketches of all the deceased are not available this week but complete details of their lives and an account of the funerals will be published in the next issue.

FRANK SEVENKER.

Frank Sevenker, 72, was laid to rest yesterday afternoon in the Bohemian National cemetery here after services conducted in the Bohemian hall at 2:00 p. m. by Rev. Philip of Clarkson. Mr. Sevenker passed away at 7:45 a. m. Monday, Sept. 24, at the age of 72. He had been in failing health for the past two years. Left to mourn are his wife and six children, Frank, Will, Ed and Jess Sevenker, Miss Elsie Sevenker and Mrs. Emma Radl, Ord. A complete obituary will be published next week.

DR. W. W. LOOFTBURROW.

Death came Tuesday about 12:00 noon to Mrs. W. W. Looftburrow, 82, esteemed Ord woman who has been in ill health for several months and bedfast for the past four weeks. With her at the last were her husband and three daughters, Madams Jennie Bee and Grace Holman, North Loup, and Mrs. John Chatfield, Ord. There are also two sons, Burchard Looftburrow of New Auburn, Wis., and Cecil Looftburrow, American Falls, Ida., both of whom visited their mother recently.

The Looftburrow family came from Indiana originally and settled in Boone county, Nebraska, 53 years ago, moving to Valley county shortly afterward to live on a farm in Plainview neighborhood. Ord has been the family home for 30 years.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the Methodist church. A more complete obituary will be published next week.

JOSEPH J. DLUGOSII.

Joseph John Dlugosh was born Nov. 27, 1850 in Germany and passed away at his home in Ord at 9:30 p. m., Sept. 20, 1934, aged 83 years and 10 months. Complications incident to old age were the cause of death. Mr. Dlugosh having been bedfast the past two months.

Married in Germany to Miss Frances Kosmider, the deceased emigrated to the United States many years ago. Six children came to bless the union, one daughter, Anna, passing away in 1910. Mrs. Dlugosh died Dec. 31, 1932. Left to mourn their parents are four sons and one daughter, John, Joe and Charles Dlugosh, all of Ord, Frank Dlugosh of Wyoming and Mrs. Ida Hytek, of Lincoln.

For a time the Dlugosh family lived near Stuart, Nebr., but in 1886 they came to Valley county and settled on a farm near Elyria, where Mr. Dlugosh lived until his removal to Ord sixteen years ago. The deceased was a kind father, a good neighbor and a public spirited citizen, serving on school boards in his community and otherwise exerting an influence for good. Mr. Dlugosh was a member of the Catholic church.

Funeral services were held at 9:00 a. m. Monday at the Ord Catholic church with Father Lawler and Father Ziolkowski in charge and interment was in the Catholic cemetery here. Six grandsons served as pallbearers. Orville H. Sowl was the funeral director.

All of the children of this good man were present at the last rites, as well as a host of his neighbors and friends. Out-of-town relatives present, besides his children, included Matt Wiesalek of Wyoming, a cousin, Frost Bros., of Anella, family friends, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Achen. 26-1

Dear Quiz Readers:
This is being written Tuesday but when you read it next week and I will be back at my desk in the front Quiz office. Last week when I wrote it was a beautiful day just like it is today, and that night we had supper on the front porch where we could see the lake only a few feet in front of the cottage. It was warm, no wind and a delightful evening and after we had eaten we sat around the table and visited until someone said, "Why, it is lightning in the south." And sure enough, and black clouds were rolling up and it thundered. After watching the approaching storm for a few moments, we cleared the table and closed that side of the cottage just as the storm struck, wind and rain and a real electric storm and it turned cold as fast as the storm came up, the wind whipped to the northwest and for three days there was little fishing done and little pleasure in being outside. Sunday night there was a heavy frost or freeze, for it froze ice in dishes about the yard, a quarter inch thick. And the weather cleared up, it is plenty warm through the day with a little breeze most of the time. It could not be more delightful if we could make the weather to order.

My old enemy, Mr. Lumbago, almost got a strangle hold on me the past few days, so there was not much pleasure in trying to fish. In fact I gave it up entirely for three days. It happened to be while it was really too cold to fish anyhow and now I am feeling fine again.

Sunday afternoon we went for a drive, taking the road known as the Gull Lake Drive, the road leading clear around Gull Lake. We had never driven it all the way so marked the distance which was 35 miles when we got back to where we first struck the lake road. It was a beautiful drive, would be at any season of the year, but it was doubly so at this fall season when the woods are so beautiful. I have no language to describe the beautiful coloring. A part of the drive around Gull is through a hardwood section of forest where maples predominate and where there are also many elms, basswoods and dogwoods. The maples are pink and bright red, the basswood and elms and ash trees many shades of yellow, the dogwoods are purple and there are enough oaks with blood red leaves and pines with their beautiful green to make a picture never to be forgotten. An artist who could paint this fall scenery so as to preserve it, naturally would find a market for his pictures. I don't think I have ever seen it more beautiful than it is this fall and it is well worth a trip here just to enjoy the beauties of the foliage.

Fishing is not good as yet, like it was in June and July and like I have so often seen it in the fall. Still, we can get plenty of fish. We usually bring in not less than four or five nice fish, bass and walleyes. I forget whether I told you but last week Thursday we got 40 splendid bluegills in the afternoon. We were counting up today and have about 25 bass, walleyes and northern pike in the livebox, besides a nice mess of bluegills. Mr. Hallaway will take a box of them home with him when he goes the latter part of this week. He has been here since or seven days and has never failed to take a nice catch of fish to take back to Iowa. There are some people here from Illinois who fish early and late and always the same, they fish for bass up against the rushes. I have known several times of their getting nice catches and I believe they always get a few. Anyhow, they tell me they are having a wonderful time. Some in the party have been here other falls.

When the Hallaways go home the latter part of this week, we are going to start getting things in shape to leave. Yesterday I bought a cord of split stove wood for five bucks. That means a cord of four foot wood only it has been cut up into cook stove length. It will be here for whoever comes next summer to occupy the Leggett cottage. Sometimes when I remember that my next door neighbor here, Byron Simpson left when we did last fall and is now gone from among us, I wonder how many of us will be gone before another 12 months rolls around but someone will need stove wood in this cottage next summer if I don't and it will be here for them when the time comes. It is piled all snug along one side of the garage. In a few days we will carry the dock and the boat in to rest with it till next June and then lock the garage. In a few more weeks there will no doubt be four feet of snow around the building. They say it was five feet deep last winter, where I drive in every day now. Before we leave we put the porch furniture inside the cottage, nail roofing on the windows under the porch and nail the wooden shutters down over all other windows. These shutters are made of siding like the house and when they are propped up make a sun awning during the summer. We lock our cottage when we leave and in the 12 years since we built it, have always found things just as we left them. Down on the larger lakes where summer homes are more pretentious than ours, many have been broken into and motors and furniture stolen.

I am writing all this because many have told me they liked to read it. I suppose I will be discussing on political subjects and New Deal Matters after this week.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

What do you do with onions when you enter the kitchen?

Are you one of those who curse them, hate everyone who has the faintest suspicion of an oniony breath? Who would never buy them or be caught having them in the house?

Well, unless onions actually make you ill . . . which I doubt . . . you are overlooking a wonderful food, a fine source of variety and zest for your table. Onions rightly used add just the needed bit of flavor to make many otherwise insipid dishes delicious. They certainly peak up the flavor of many a salad. They do magic in many ways, when it comes to cooking. If you do not use them, learn to, you'll be glad you did.

And may we now request some recipes for onions, your best recipes, please? Have you ever tried french fried onions?

Cranberry Salad.
Mix one cup ground cranberries, one cup ground apples, one cup sugar, some chopped celery and nuts, one cup marshmallows, and let stand overnight. Serve on lettuce leaf with or without salad dressing. This is good without the celery and nuts. It is also very good mixed with gelatine.

Mrs. Floyd Clement.
Chocolate Ice Box Cake.
Melt one-fourth pound sweet chocolate, add three-fourths cup powdered sugar and four well beaten eggs. Beat well, add one cup whipped cream and four beaten egg whites. Lastly put in one-half pound of vanilla wafer crumbs. Pour in pan and set over night in the ice box. Serve with whipped cream.

Filled Celery.
Grate one large apple and one medium sized carrot, add three tablespoons finely chopped walnuts and three tablespoons of salad dressing. Mix and stuff into short lengths of celery which have been washed and crisped. Chill and serve.

Mrs. Henry Walkemeyer.
Here are some pickle recipes received long ago and which should have been printed sooner. They travelled to Minnesota and back and were mislaid.

Cucumber Pickle.
Let stand in brine three hours: nine green cucumbers and four onions which have been chopped fine. Drain and add this dressing which has been cooked: one-half cup flour, one-half cup sugar, two tablespoons mustard, a little cayenne, one tablespoon celery seed, nearly one quart of diluted vinegar. Boil all together two or three minutes and can.

Mrs. Frank Erben, Golburn, Sask.
Thousand Island or Watertown Pickles.
Put in layers in a stone jar, salting each layer with coarse salt, two quarts sliced cucumbers, one large onion, one-half green and one-half of a red pepper. Let stand four or five hours, then drain and add other ingredients which have been heated up together: one quart diluted vinegar, one cup sugar, one teaspoon tumeric, one-half teaspoon mustard seed. Can hot. The longer these stand the better they are.

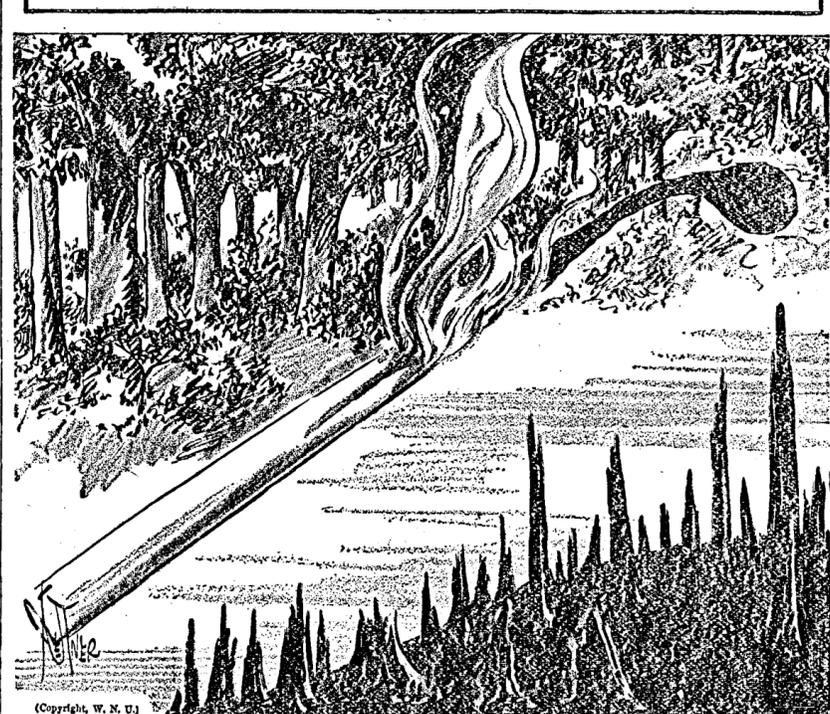

Mrs. Frank Erben.
Best Sweet Pickle.
Use seven pounds of cucumbers, three inches or less in length. Put in a stone jar and cover with brine made of one pint of salt to one gallon of water. Let stand three days. Drain off, and let stand in clear water for three days. Wash and split and put in a kettle with two cups of vinegar and enough water to cover. Add a handful of green grape leaves or horseradish leaves, one rounding teaspoon alum, and simmer for two hours. Do not let them boil or they will be soft. Now drain and put in an open jar again. Heat six cups vinegar and six cups brown sugar, one ounce of whole allspice, one ounce stick cinnamon, pour over the pickles and let stand overnight. Next morning pour off the liquid, bring to a boil and pour over the pickles again, repeating process three times. Now pack the pickles in jars, bring the vinegar mixture to a boil again and pour in the jars hot and seal.

Bessie Stanek.
Republican Caucus.
The Republican caucuses will be held in the several precincts in Valley County on Monday, October 1st. See posted notices in each township for time and place of holding such caucuses.

A Careless Match

(Copyright, W. N. U.)

Dear Jake:
For the most part, my wife and I are as happy, loving and congenial as two little turtle doves, but I have concluded that even in the most tranquil seas of conjugal bliss, there is an occasional rift. As a result of a slight rift in our household I am writing this epistle, or screed, not because I think that it is particularly enlightening, but solely to vent an upset disposition.

It happened like this. I sat down to the table and brought forth the typewriter. A voice from the bedroom rang out, "Don't go to stringing papers around today. I am going to have club tomorrow."

"Can't help it," I remarked. "I must write this strip today or Leggett will fire me."

"You can help it," she fired back. "Take this rug out and beat it and do a good job too."

After the rug was walloped thoroughly, I returned to the house and again sat down to the typewriter. She was sweeping under the bed. "Great Guns woman! What are you doing under there? Do you imagine that those demure club ladies will grovel on the floor just to see if you have cleaned under there?"

"Say George. I haven't time to argue with you. Go and clean the porch."

After I had cleaned the porch, I again sought out the typewriter. The house was nothing short of a pot pourri. "Heavens, Mother. 'George!' she reprimanded. "Think if I would run and clean the barn every time I think someone is coming."

"I will bet that it would need it," she snapped, "but as long as it would take you a week you would probably let it go. Here is a bushel basket full of your old letters. Sort them out and do it now."

That being done, I was commanded to wash the windows, and then mow the lawn, and then patch the front gate, and then patch the screen door. For dinner we ate bread and milk. "Now before you leave, nail up that curtain and put up your old typewriter."

"But what will Leggett say?" I pleaded.

"You heard what I said didn't you," she returned.

When she was cleaning behind the pictures, I played hooky and escaped to the river. I didn't catch any fish, but life was more peaceful.

The next morning early, her two sisters and her mother came, and they all labored dynamically until noon. Reluctantly we all sat down to an ort for dinner. After the repast, they began scurrying to put the finishing touches to the display when the phone rang, and the news was broadcast that a veteran member of the club had died, and that the organization would not meet today. Relaxing, my wife sank in a deep chair exhausted.

"It has been an absolute waste of effort," I exclaimed. "You should have club now even if they all died."

"What's the use? What would you do?" I am not saying that I wish all the club was dead, but if this good lady was determined to go to her reward, I can't see why she could not have done it yesterday and then I could have written a good strip and saved you all this work. "Too bad. Too bad."

"Yes. It is too bad," she agreed. "And I don't believe a one of them has seen our new wall paper yet."

Now Jake I will try to do better next time, but things have been in such a turmoil here that you will have to excuse me.

Respectfully,
Geo. G.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

25 Years Ago This Week.
Frank Bower's cotton patch on his farm near Elyria was creating much comment. Frank lived in the South for several years and brought the seed with him.

The Jake Beehrle residence caught on fire from a defective fuse and the Glover family of carpenters, who were building the Keating residence, put out the fire before the department arrived.

G. T. Hather's wagon upset as he was driving along the edge of the creek, pinned him in the mud and covered him with the wagon.

He was unable to tip the wagon himself so had to lie there four hours until one of John Turner's children found him and gave the alarm.

Kolbaba, the pianist, gave a fine performance at the Bohemian hall. Ora Mutter and Nellie Bradt left for South Dakota to live on a claim which Miss Mutter had filed.

Christian church people were planning several improvements including a large basement.

The old Scott livery barn burned to the ground.

J. E. Wilmouth sold his half section in Mira Valley to a Custer county man for $13,000.

Otto Murschel, democrat nominee for county clerk, resigned and Will Bartlett was named by the county committee in his place.

W. W. Loofturrow, deliveryman for the Dvorak store, had a narrow escape from death when his team ran away, tangling him in the harness and dragging him some distance.

Rev. Chamberlain was returned to the Ord Methodist church by the state conference. Rev. Maynard was sent back to Sargent for a fifth year.

Ord was suffering from a scourge of rats and particularly in the 3rd ward, people were being nearly eaten out of house and home.

Militia headquarters was moved from the Goodhand building to the skating rink. A Military ball given by Captain Clements and his boys to raise money was voted a great success.

Two Arcadia teachers, Miss King and Miss Flint, were hurt while going for a pleasure ride with Clayton Ward and Ruth Nygreen. The car struck a 750-pound hog and all four young people were thrown out, several of them suffering broken bones.

Wm. Heuck was teaching his first year in Dist. 31.

QUIZ FORUM

Why Start Another Dairy?

To the Editor of the Quiz:
I see by last week's Quiz that the FERA is contemplating starting a dairy at the fair grounds in Ord. You state that FERA heads here are fearing excessively high prices and a milk shortage in Ord this winter. I don't just understand why they are doing this. There are four fairly large dairies near Ord, all are well managed and all intend to operate this winter. There are something over 100 cows in the four herds and every dairyman can get more cows if he needs them. The other three dairies—Noll, Stewart and Carson—have plenty of feed and our dairy—Jersey Home—has made arrangements to buy feed, so think there need be no fear of a shortage of milk in Ord this winter. As a matter of fact, we could sell 100 quarts of milk more daily right now and I am told the others could supply more milk if it was in demand.

For several years Ord has had the lowest milk price of anywhere in Nebraska and while we are getting 8c now surrounding towns are paying 10c, so why start a new dairy? Why not buy milk for the people on relief from these established dairies?

We, at Jersey Home Farm are ready to cooperate with Noll and Stewart and Carson and furnish the FERA all the good, wholesome milk needed at prices much cheaper than it will cost to buy cows and equipment and start in business.

I have been in the dairy business 22 years and know what it takes to run a modern, sanitary dairy. Milking cows is not half the job. Milk, to be a wholesome food, must be prepared right. It must be produced in a sanitary barn, which means cement floors and drains and daily washing. Cows must be curried daily and washed often.

The milk must be cooled and separated, bottled at the right temperature and sealed at once. The milk then must be delivered to the customer every day, Sunday and all, in blizzards and rain, in drought and heat. The milk delivery must be in spite of sickness or death as babies must have their milk.

On behalf of all Ord dairymen I am asking the FERA people to deal with Ord's established dairies, which pay taxes here and employ labor who might otherwise be on the relief rolls. We have put a lot of work and no small amount of capital into our herds and our plants and it will be a distinct loss to Ord and Valley county if any of these dairies should have to close. I wish the people in charge would think this over before starting another dairy in Ord and I believe if you do you will conclude to buy the milk needed instead of entering upon the unfair and costly experiment of trying to produce it.

Something DIFFERENT

The Richard O. Johnson now being heard from modestly in Nebraska politics, who has been state senator from his district to our legislature several winters, once told me that if it had not been for my uncle he would still be a machinist in the shops of the Burlington railroad at Havelock. My uncle, who was storekeeper for the Burlington at their big shops in Havelock for many years, was talking to Dick, then only a half grown boy. It was one day after Dick had had a hand badly hurt. He told Dick to get out of the shops, to get an education and he wouldn't have to risk physical injuries to make a living, and that if he were smart enough he would make a much better living than he would at his work, which was full of danger, grease, sweat and dirt and other unattractive factors.

Dick Johnson took this advice. After real struggling he achieved an education and a good one. Ambition and hard work have done a lot for him. Only a young man, he has already been city attorney of Havelock and held other honored positions which show his ability. Now he wants to be attorney general of Nebraska.

It is too bad Mr. Johnson did not arrive in Ord with Robert Simmons a few nights ago to make his scheduled speech. But he will continue to be heard from in politics, if I am even a poor judge.

Many people who are forced to make long cross-country drives dislike to ride alone, so they pick up some of the numerous thumbing travellers for company, though that is often a dangerous thing to do as every one knows.

But the most peculiar way of avoiding a possible hold-up was that used by Hl Anderson several years ago on one of the trips he often makes to Detroit for new cars for his trade. Hl picked up a young fellow, a rather hard-looking egg. They rode along together, and in the course of the conversation the companion produced a big gun. It popped right out of no place almost under Hl's nose, and of course gave him a considerable shock.

Cried Hl enthusiastically: "Boy, that's just the kind of a gun I've been needing on my trips. What'll you take for it?"

"Oh, about four dollars," was the bum's answer. "Sold!" cried Hl, with more enthusiasm than ever as he produced the money and took the gun. "And was I relieved to stow that gun away in a pocket on my side of the car? I was lucky!" exclaimed Hl in telling about it recently. Even now he draws a sigh of relief whenever he thinks about buying the $4 gun.

Jack Peyton, husband of Ord's former daughter, Charlotte Baird, had a similar bad few moments with a picked up passenger on a similar trip to Detroit. A hard tough radical sort of chap, Jack soon discovered from his wild conversation he was down on everything. A sort of communist, he hated capital, money, government, people who worked for a living, and nobody treated him square," he said. Jack got more and more uneasy, so when he reached a filling station where there were several men hanging around, he told the fellow to get out.

The radical then proceeded to display his vocabulary. He called Jack Peyton all kinds of vile names and threatened him lavishly with a number of dire evils. But Jack was more relieved than ever to think he had parted company with the man, and drove off alone very happily.

BRISBANE THIS WEEK

Redskins and Spartans Where Ghosts Creep She Threw No Party New York Needs Money

Mussolini begins military training for Italian boys at the age of eight years, the idea being to "give boys a passion for military life through frequent contact with armed forces."

The red Indians went even further back. They developed a passion for war and scalps in the squaw even before the little fighting papoose was born, providing the females with interesting little stone hammers used to crush in the skulls of surviving enemy warriors as the squaws went carefully over the battlefield at dusk.

Sparta trained her boys for killing, even encouraging them to murder, for practice, unarmed helots, as they went to their work before sunrise.

But Sparta was unimportant compared to intelligent Athens, and a few white Puritans easily disposed of the Indians. Intelligence and justice win wars.

In these days of airplanes and poison gas the warrior with a mere "passion for combat" will soon get more of it than he can digest.

Long ago in Venice was built a fine palace, the "Abbey of St. Gregory." The palace has changed hands and is now being "renovated" with plumbing, bath tubs, showers, electric bells, telephones, radio, that would considerably surprise any ancient abbot.

No "Long Bear" from across the mountains, no roving Hun from beyond the Volga, has appropriated the religious palace to other uses.

The new tenant is a very pretty slender American girl named Barbara Hutton, who brings with her the proceeds of a five and ten cent store system that can quickly change any old abbey into a modern, fashionable "dilatatory domicile."

She brings also a husband, a "Georgian prince," named Mdivani, by-product of the five and ten cent stores, who will know how to make the old abbey "ring with merriment." Strange old ghosts will creep cautiously over highly polished, newly waxed floors, and say to them: "Well, live and learn."

A young lady, christened "Greta Gustafson," known to many by her invented name of Greta Garbo, celebrated her twenty-eighth birthday recently.

As a young girl she worked in a store in Stockholm, Sweden, and here she has made and earned ten thousand dollars a week. Her birthday is mentioned because this queer young lady did not "throw" any great party on the edge of any costly California swimming pool. "Just a quiet evening at home," said she, and stayed at home to think of swiftly passing time. That helps to explain her success. Es blidet en Talent sich in der Stille.

New York city must feed 400,000 and more hungry families, also pay their gas, light and rent bills.

The city has been paying out $17,000,000 a month, or at the rate of $204,000,000 a year, almost half what it cost to run the whole national government before the big war started.

The problem, "How to continue getting the money," has been temporarily solved by a three-cornered agreement between the mayor and board of aldermen. Business in New York city will pay a "relief tax" of one-tenth of 1 per cent. Those that pay income tax to the national government will pay to New York city relief 15 per cent of what they pay the government.

The world's richest city will also organize a public lottery and invite citizens to gamble, profits to help public relief.

Another scientific discovery, most important if it stands the test of cold experiment, is revealed to the American Chemical society by Dr. Eliezer McDonald, director of cancer research laboratories. The kidneys of men and animals produce an enzyme, or biological catalytic, called "phosphotax," that effectively resists the action of cancer. Human beings afflicted with cancer lack the phosphotax in the kidneys and have too much of it in the blood stream. Man's intelligence eventually will conquer all diseases.

Scientists have found what they call the Rosetta stone of heredity. That famous stone, as you know, with the same words cut on its surface in various languages, made possible the reading of the Egyptian hieroglyphics. The heredity Rosetta stone is a giant chromosome, with strings of the queer little genes that control heredity.

Many Americans take Communism in the United States most seriously. Governor Green of Rhode Island even says his state is "facing a Communist uprising." Fortunately, under the worst conditions, the state's militia, backed by the army of the United States and its airplanes, should be able to deal with that situation.

DR. RICH says:

What's in a name should mean everything to those who suffer with rectal trouble and are looking for a satisfactory and guaranteed cure, when the name is Dr. Rich Rectal Specialist of more than thirty years active and continuous experience in one location.

Very few days go by at the Sanitarium without someone coming in for a cure who regrets not having come here first. When it's too late, there's not much to do about that other than to use such an experience for the benefit of others.

For the best, surest and quickest results, see Dr. Rich Rectal Specialist, Grand Island, Nebr.

DEATH CLAIMS SIX ORDITES

Mrs. Riley and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hytrek of Lincoln, grandchildren.

JOSIAH F. JAMESON. Josiah Franklin Jameson, well known resident of Ord for 16 years, passed away at his home here at 12:15 p. m., Sunday, Sept. 23, from the effects of a head injury suffered about three years ago.

Born April 16, 1860 in Johnstown, O., Josiah Jameson grew to manhood in Nebraska, locating near Weeping Water where he engaged in farming, which was his occupation most of his life.

On Nov. 1, 1882 he was married at Nebraska City to Miss Katherine Kamm, who survives him. He also leaves three children, Homer Jameson, of Arcadia, Mrs. James Cook of Ord and Mrs. Clarence Dye of Burwell, as well as eight grandchildren and two great grandchildren. He also leaves three brothers, Samuel of Lincoln, James of Oklahoma and Ernest of Weeping Water, the only ones surviving out of a family of 14 children.

The greater part of Mr. Jameson's life was spent at Weeping Water but in 1918 he moved to Ord and purchased a farm, alternating between his town home and the farm. He lived in this community from 1918 until his death.

Forty-three years ago the deceased became a member of the Methodist church and after moving to Ord was a regular attendant whenever his health permitted. Out-of-town relatives at the funeral Tuesday included Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Jameson, Weeping Water, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hubbard, Taylor, and Mrs. Julia Jameson, Weeping Water.

Harlan T. Frazier was the funeral director who had charge of the obsequies Tuesday afternoon.

HIRAM P. PATCHEN. Hiram Porter Patchen, well known Ord resident and for several years operator of the natural ice plant here, passed away at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday in the home of his son, Harry. He was 78 years old and had been in ill health for several years.

At 3:00 a. m. Wednesday, Sept. 26 occurred the death of Joseph Tondreau, 68-year-old farmer of the Ord community, who had been in ill health for several years. He is survived by his wife and by several relatives at York. No funeral arrangements have been made. The body is at the Sowl funeral parlor.

Friday evening Mrs. Will Carson was a guest in the home of Mrs. Susie Barnes.

Itol, bringing out the fact that he discussed these same things in his campaign fight two years ago and expressed the view at that time that petty politics must be removed from its hold on Nebraska's government. State employees should be selected on the basis of their ability rather than merely for political pull.

He also stated that he would consider it his duty, if elected governor, to cooperate with the national administration and with local officials in assisting those who are needy, due to drought or unemployment. "Politics should not enter into a single phase of this proposition and the relief money should be spent to take care of those who need it and not furnish political jobs for party workers", he said.

"It is also necessary", said Mr. Griswold, "that our state railway commission be reorganized and I feel that in its place we should have a public utilities commission selected on the basis of ability and knowledge. One member should be a capable engineer, one an attorney who specializes in rate matters, and the other a person who is acquainted with the agricultural and industrial needs of Nebraska. The members of this commission should not be permitted, after their service has ended, to accept employment with any utility company or be candidates for public office. This will cause them to be absolutely fair in their decisions."

He stated that he felt this public utilities commission should also furnish a free engineering service to the cities and towns of the state, giving them advice in all disputes with the public utilities. "The power to fix electric light charges should remain in the hands of the city councils but they need this engineering and advisory service to assist them," he said.

Mr. Griswold discussed several other matters of interest to Nebraska people and in closing stated that he did not feel that Nebraska needed a lot of new laws or a lot of fads or "isms" but rather the interest of the state could best be served by a short business session of the legislature, and with greater honesty, decency and common sense in the administration of the state government.

"The principal issue in the campaign for governor", said Mr. Griswold "is whether the present state house political machine shall remain in control of our state capital. The present group of political appointees in the state capital are unanimously opposed to me" he said, "and if you desire a change in the political conditions at Lincoln, I feel that I am entitled to your vote."

"Somé one knows our secret!" she passed the note to Janet, who read: "A tree is not a safe letter box." Is that Mr. Haskell's printing—you can't call it writing!

"I can't tell—it's either Balder's or Gordon Haskell's. But how foolish—and how detestable, Janet, I'm sorry! I've tried for years to feel that Haskell was kind and generous and fine—but I never quite reached the point. Sometimes I almost reached it. Then he would go at once—but it seems cowardly, too, to run away!"

"No more notes! They've probably read everything—not that I care!" "No, dear—why should you care? He's wrong—not you."

While this conversation was in progress, Arthur was at his desk in his own room, resigned at last to his curious noises and creakings. The rustling of his papers sounded very loud in the silence of the room, and he lit his black pipe. "Poor old Wilton," he thought, "out there on the moors with Jerry, and psychology gone to glory. If he takes my advice he'll steal Berenice and run with his prize to Onteaga—the rest of us after him—wild arms out, eyes popping! Lostland behind us like a nightmare! We might have known when we arrived at that station called Blade that something was wrong. Hear that mouse! I wonder what Mrs. Denver is doing?"

As if in answer to his question there came a knock at the door. It was Mrs. Denver with a lamp in her hand. "He and Balder are quarreling again," she whispered. "I heard their voices. I couldn't tell what they said. I felt afraid."

He took the lamp from her hand. "Don't be frightened. We'll move down the corridor a bit, and if we hear anything violent we can go up to protect the girls."

It was cold and draughty in the halls, and even the runner of carpet was lifted and moved by intermittent gusts. Open doors on black bedrooms added to the gloom. They paused and listened. Far off they heard a peal of diabolic laughter, like a man plunging into the night with a jest, or into a cauldron with a quip.

"What is that shadow on the wall?" Mrs. Denver gasped breathlessly. "Just the high-backed chair! Listen! Keep very still."

Again the laughter, which Arthur thought the most unpleasant he had ever heard—a black, dancing cadence of notes; lips leaping up and down and pulling faces at ungodly angles. Another sound from the other quarter of the hall—the rattle of fists on a hard substance.

"Then the laughter died away a far slanted. 'I wouldn't for all the riches in all the banks go down stairs now. Suppose a hand reached out and dragged you...'"

"The pounding continued. 'Maybe somebody is locked out,' she went on. 'I locked in. Go to your room, Mrs. Denver—and lock the door. I'm going down to investigate.'"

"I'll go with you. I'd feel safer." Arthur felt safer himself for her company, and they went cautiously down the main staircase. In the lower hall they paused.

"That pounding comes from the basement." Her voice was faint. "Listen—some one's calling—as if for help."

Muffled imploring sounds reached them. Once they thought they made out the word "Balder."

Inside of the door which guarded the figures. As they neared it—a singular spectacle met their eyes. Gordon Haskell's face, over which the blood was running from a cut on his forehead, was framed in the circular inset of glass. His eyes, wild with fright, glared out at them for an instant. Then he shouted: "Let me out of here."

"Where is the key?" He called directions. Arthur went on to the next room, found the loose brick and the key. Mrs. Denver was close at his heels, very pale, but she said nothing. Arthur unlocked the door and Haskell stepped out panting, growling, wiping the blood from his forehead.

"That brute Balder locked me in here for a practical joke, I suppose. I was looking—for something I dropped here yesterday—and he slammed the door to. I was helpless. One can only open it from inside—with the key. In my haste—I fell—cut myself. Fleming, will you bring that candle?"

Arthur went into the schoolroom. The candlestick stood on the old desk, imparting to the old place the appearance of a school in which the pupils had been kept too late. Mrs. Denver glanced at the figures apprehensively. The golden beads were bent. How terrible if they should look up, all of them! Haskell, in slipping, had evidently hit his head against the iron leg of a desk, for there was blood on the floor close to the feet of the little waxen Isabel.

He had disappeared when they came out—and they heard his footsteps echoing off toward his own quarters. Arthur and Mrs. Denver looked at each other with mutual inquiries as to the significance of this so-called practical joke.

"Why did Balder lock him up?" "To pay him off for something—I suppose."

"Why is he so afraid of the figures?" "Perhaps he didn't treat the Bracebridge children as he should. They certainly hated him. I think the night will be quiet from now on, Mrs. Denver."

CHAPTER IX WILTON had not seen anyone from the academy for several days, and he was all the more anxious because the notes in the old tree had ceased. The end of a morning's impatience was the mite walk to the tree through the nipping air.

"I am on a fruitless errand," he muttered. "If there's no note I am going on to the academy. He couldn't do more than shoot me!"

But there was a note and he opened it greedily. It had neither beginning nor ending—only the few lines: "Meet me Thursday afternoon at three, just above the whirl—on the dangerous side. We're not likely to be followed there."

He went back to tell Jerry that he would be gone all afternoon in case any of his pupils conceived the hobby to be at an end. Jerry, half asleep over the fire, raised himself, viewed his lodger benevolently and nodded again. Wilton went into his bedroom and made ready for a cold afternoon out of doors.

He had to make a long detour around the shores of the lake to reach the entrance to the ravine, but a cart road opened between the pines; and in the heavy silence of the winter landscape he trudged, brushing by evergreen boughs and shaking off their weight of snow in a powdery cloud. He saw the dark waters of the ravine creek between the white banks, and found the path that skirted "the dangerous side" without much difficulty. The wild, lonely gorge was magnificent, iceles hung from monstrous black boulders; the dark water seemed to be churning up ice-like cream. The air stung as if full of invisible frost needles.

More than once he paused to see if she were in sight; to see if she were following him, up the dangerous path which at times measured its width by inches above the ebony water. Here and there a fallen tree sent the foam high where the impetuous current broke against its bulk.

"Poor children," he thought, and then: "If there had been time to get a message to her I would have forbidden this. Dangerous—much too dangerous."

He slipped on a bit of ice and caught himself just in time to save him from going over the bank into the welter of hurrying water. The path had become a mere thread at the bottom of a precipice. The great fall hung just ahead of him.

At its foot the vortex was in full swing. The whirl was dancing a mad defiance of winter; even zero cold could not harness it.

He did not care to gaze at it too long. "What a place! She must never come here again."

Turning too quickly, he slipped, but instantly regained his balance by a violent lurch backward. In the same moment he felt the heavy impact of something against his shoulder—a glancing blow—and wheeled around to find his hands violently and instinctively clutching at the square green base that he knew very well indeed; the base to which was attached the old tree. At the other end of the tree was Balder's dark and angry face, watchful, keen and sly. Wilton had a cinema flash of events converging to and diverging from this encounter. Moving across this screen were figures both familiar and strange—Berenice in her patient beauty; Haskell roaming the old academy, like some were-wolf; the immobile waxen children. That glancing blow on his shoulder—was it an accident? He would soon know—and along the avenues of his mind approached another figure—himself, tragically snared.

Ord Church Notes

Christian Science Services. "Reality" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches for Sunday, September 30.

The Golden Text is from Philippians 4:8: "Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any praise, think on these things."

A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from Isaiah 37:16: "O Lord of hosts, God of Israel, that dwelleth between the cherubims, thou art the God, even thou alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth: thou hast made heaven and earth."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy reads: "There is but one primal cause. Therefore there can be no reality in aught which does not proceed from this great and only cause. . . . The spiritual reality is the scientific fact in all things." (page 207).

Methodist Church. A good increase was noted in our Sunday school last week. Every class is now supplied with an excellent teacher, and plans are being made for the big parade, October 6, and Rally Day following that.

Morning worship at 11. We were pleased to have a number of new members in our congregation. We cordially invite all who have no other church home to worship with us.

A few of the young people met last Sunday evening and talked over plans for reorganizing the Epworth League. They will meet next Sunday night at 6:30, and the young people are invited to attend.

Union evening service at 8 o'clock next Sunday night at the United Brethren church. A reception for the Ord school teachers will be given in the Methodist church tonight (Thursday), sponsored by the Presbyterian and Methodist churches.

Envelopes for the support of the church will be available next Sunday for those who wish them. The financial year begins with the first Sunday in October.

Promotion Day was observed last week in the Sunday school. New teachers who began their service then included Mrs. Stanley McLain, George Pratt, Chester Hackett, and Mrs. Goddard. We have an unusually strong group of officers and teachers in our church school.

Mearl C. Smith, Minister. Presbyterian Church, L. M. Real Minister.

The Fall Recovery Crusade is now getting fast under way. Let us go forward to new discoveries of unsuspected resources of our church in talent, possession and service. Forgetting the anxieties and discouragements of the depression and drought, forgetting the differences, the mistakes, the failures, the defects of the past, look forward, move forward to a deeper, richer, spiritual life, to new experiences of God's grace, to a new realization of the power of the gospel to save to the uttermost the individual soul and the social order. This is the challenge of our church for the coming year.

Study and worship at 10:00 and 10:45. You have the privilege of deciding what your share in the financial obligations of the church for the coming year will be.

Junior Expression club, 2:30. There will be no Young People's meeting Sunday.

Union evening services at the U. B. church, 8:00. Choir practice, Wednesday, 7:30. Missionary circle, Wednesday, 2:30.

Educational council meeting, Thursday, Oct. 4. The Presbyterian church is joining with the M. E. church in giving a reception for the school teachers tonight, 8 o'clock, at the M. E. church.

On Monday last, the "Trail Blazers" organized for the first time with twelve boys making up the roster of the charter membership. Rev. Nye is the Chief, and the boys fill the various tribal offices under his jurisdiction. It is hoped that this organization will fill a long-felt local need. The age limit is no less than 9 years, and no more than 11 years. We exclude denationalism, and all boys of the right ages are urged and cordially invited to join us. The first meeting after organization will be held in the basement of the Methodist parsonage this coming Friday afternoon, immediately as the boys are dismissed from the afternoon session of school.

No Home Life in Russia—Babies Cared For By States, Writes Former Ordite

Cosa Haskell Lindberg Writes Impressions of Soviet Russia and Poland.

Editor's Note—Dr. D. O. N. Lindberg, superintendent of the tuberculosis hospital at Decatur, Ill., and his wife, the former Cosa Dell Haskell, have been on a trip through Europe. The following letter was written by Mrs. Lindberg to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Haskell of Ord, and so interestingly describes conditions in Russia, Poland and other parts of Europe that the Quiz feels grateful at being permitted to reprint it.

Moscow, Russia, August 30. Dear Dad and Mother:

It is surely good of you to write to us at the proper times so that your letters greet us at the principal places visited by us on our long journey. We missed your London letter. Unless your letter was marked to go by some fast boat it had little chance to beat us to London.

We received your letter addressed to Helsingfors, Finland, and at Moscow, but missed your letter at Leningrad. In your London letter you probably wrote more about Dr. Delbert Chapman, (who he is, etc.). We shall try to locate him here and through him may be able to learn more about Russia than from the Russian guides. I remember Florence Chapman, who used to report for the Ord Quiz. No doubt Dr. Chapman is her son.

We are well. Glad you are improving. The Nebraska drought picture you describe is terrible. I hope we can constructively remedy the state of affairs in America. I hate to think that we must sink to the level of present day Russia before we can remedy the conditions at home. Russia, its living conditions and its program for improvement cannot be compared with the conditions in America. One can compare only what Russia is now with what it was ten years ago. So when I write in glowing terms about what is being done here it is in comparison with what Russia was a few years back, not with U. S. A. For instance, our unemployed live much better and on a much higher level and more cleanly than the workers in Russia, and the worker gets the best there is in Russia and the first consideration in all things. But the worker in Russia today lives in luxury compared with his condition a few years ago. Our guide told us yesterday that the Russian in many parts of the country in 1929 were barbarians—fed their dead to the dogs and pigs and did other gruesome things. Ninety percent of the people are illiterate.

Today Dave is in the country inspecting the t. b. hospitals but I chose to stay in Moscow for this is one of the rest days and the trains are crowded.

The workers have every 6th day off—work 5 days and rest one. They have no Sundays and believe in no God. They are very frank, even boastful, in stating their views on religion. The guide in Leningrad (St. Petersburg), Russia took us to one of the old temples or churches, full of paintings and pictures made in mosaic. I tried very hard to get her point of view, and I am convinced by the relics in the church and by what she told me that such religion as they had was mostly superstitions. The masses were ignored and at the mercy of the priests, who were very wealthy and owned many furs. At that time God was pictured as at the head of the government, the Czar was next and almost on a level with the czar were the priests. Down on the ground were the masses. They were taught that what the czar or the priests said was God's commands that the masses must not complain or envy the czar or his favorites, because if the masses worked hard they would be rewarded in heaven, but the rich would be destroyed by fire. This was pictured to them in the paintings and mosaics and by the teachers. The guide told us of the attitude of the church during the revolution and the famine. The church would not use the money for relief during the famine, for it was sacred. Finally the church money was seized by the revolutionists.

There is no home life here. The children belong to the state and are brought up by the state. Everyone in the family over 16 works for the state. But the young people may either go to school or work as they please. The student while going to school is paid a good living wage, more if doing excellent school work.

Today I have seen a worker's home and the public nurseries for young children, under school age. A family of four who are good workers and so are getting pay have a group of rooms in a sort of large tenement house—kitchen, bathroom, toilet, bedroom and sitting room. Their rent depended on how much they earned. The toilet was filthy, the bathroom used for storage. They can get their food at a common kitchen or cook it at home as they wish. There was one bed. How the rest slept I was unable to find out—on the floor or in chairs, I was told unofficially. The nursery reminded me of the orphanages many years ago. Each child is dressed alike, hair clipped, every child in its place in a chair or running about. No outdoor freedom, no cribs under the windows. Babies in screens covered and bodies covered with files. All this I saw, but it is better than at the home, if the mother were caring for it. (so they say) and much better than it. (5 years ago) There is no unemployment—more work than workers. Buildings are being put up by hand, materials being carried up step by step, no pulleys or elevators. A subway is being constructed, into which workers go to work for the state after their own work is done, and ask no pay for it. Their highest ideal is the state. They work for the state. Everything belongs to the state, time, labor, children, etc., etc. At least the workers are being taught unselfishness and patriotism. No one is jealous of another, nor cares for a better job, better clothing, etc., so I am told.

Russians can buy anywhere, but foreigners can buy only at certain stores called "torgsin." They want our American money, but they make change in Russian rubles which have one value to the Russians, but little or no value to foreigners. The workers are allowed to buy more than the employers because they work harder manually and because their work is of more value to the plan of the government. This is socialism.

One feels very helpless in Russia. We bought our tourist tickets at home, which includes every item of travel expense. Their system is very efficiently carried out. Upon alighting from the train at Moscow the tourist interpreter appears and guides you to the hotel. Your meal ticket and room are assigned to you. When starting on a tour a Ford car arrives and the guide conducts the party about and returns you to the hotel. Warsaw, Poland, Sept. 3. We arrived in Warsaw one day ahead of schedule and found your letter here. You certainly were good to us for the news in your letter was about the first we have had from the outside world.

We went to see Dr. Delbert Chapman at the legacy at Moscow. He is not a doctor, he says, but a chief pharmacist mate in the navy. But he has been in the work so long that he takes care of all the ills of the American legation there, calling in a consultant only when that is necessary. While he was gone on a ten-day trip in southern Russia one of the members of the legation was taken sick and could not get a doctor for three days. The doctors in Russia are scarce and of course first take care of the workers. We had an interesting visit with him and he helped round out our information concerning Russia and Russians.

The trains were filthy leaving Moscow and the food worse. I had indigestion and could eat nothing till arriving in Poland. The Russian porters and conductors slept in their clothes and were positively odoriferous. What a relief to cross over the line into Poland! The Polish officers were spick and span, nice clean uniforms, clean faces and hands. The first Polish woman I saw was so clean and neat she looked like a queen and her child was in clean, white clothes. The fields were filled in Poland, plenty of pasture land, grain in shocks and land being plowed. Herds of cattle and sheep grazed on the grass. In Russia, just over the line, one never saw more than one cow at a time and I could not see any activity on any farm land there.

We arrived in Warsaw Monday night, found the hotel clean and the people kind, courteous, clean and smiling. Everyone says that Poland is poor, but, goodness, the contrast with the Russians make the Polish look very prosperous. Russians are courteous, but they are so anxious for foreign coin one has to watch or they will be one's terribly. The stamps to send a postcard to America cost 17 cents. I would not buy their stamps, and anyway I had written things that I thought would not get by the censor so I finished my letter in Poland.

The opening exercises of the international tuberculosis convention were very formal and stately, with music by the Warsaw Philharmonic Quartet, all in the presence of the president of Poland, who stood the service through. I will describe Poland and its customs later.

On Thursday, Lester Norton took Mrs. Bernard Hoyt and children to Columbus for Mrs. Hoyt's husband, who is also in camp there.

Visitors in the Don Harmon home Sunday afternoon were Mrs. R. E. Garnick, Mrs. Leo Nelson, Mrs. Bernard Hoyt and Mrs. J. W. Holman.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Reeves were Friday evening visitors at the Harold Dahlin home.

The ladies of the Catholic church gave a public card party Sunday evening in the Zulkoski hall. It was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hoyt and family were supper guests at the W. B. Hoyt farm home on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Dahlin and family of Ord were visitors in the J. O. Dahlin home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Cienny and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hayek of Lincoln and Kenneth Hoyt were Sunday dinner guests at the Will Dodge home.

Charley Johnson sent about 60 head of hogs to the Omaha market last week. Mr. Goodrich did the trucking.

The United Brethren Ladies Aid society met at the church last Wednesday with Gladys White, Mrs. Wantz and Alta Atkinson acting as hostesses. There were thirty present.

Woodman Hall

Will Moravec made a trip to Scottsbluff a couple of weeks ago. Frank Sestak and Joe Kamarad purchased hay on the Doran ranch near Ericson.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Boro Monday, September 10.

Paul Geneski purchased a truck load of potatoes at Bayard, Nebr., and was selling them in our neighborhood last week.

Paul Vodehnal assisted the hay crew in the sand hills last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Freeman spent Sunday afternoon at the John McCarty home.

The local boys and some that were not so young enjoyed a game of ball at the National hall Sunday afternoon.

About one-fourth of an inch of rain fell here Sunday evening. Much more is reported southeast of here also considerable hail.

Jim Rybin Jr. is helping Chas. Krikac fill a silo with Russian thistles.

The heavy frost of last Thursday and Friday nights completely shattered the hopes of our farmers of a late forage crop for their livestock. A light flurry of snow also was in evidence Thursday afternoon which is rather unusual for the middle of September.

Frank Smolik visited some points in the northeast part of the state in quest of cattle feed.

Mrs. Will Waldmann was quite ill with asthma last week. She is somewhat improved at this writing.

Chas. Wickstrom of Oakland, Nebr., was in our neighborhood looking for cattle to winter, but a high feed bill coupled with transportation charges renders a feeding proposition impractical and most farmers prefer selling their cattle to the government.

Frank Krikac spent several days on the farm last week helping his son Charles fill the silo.

The new house of Joe Moravec is nearing completion and will soon be occupied by his son, Edward, who was married recently.

While driving home the cows last Saturday evening Joe Waldmann met with what might have been a serious accident. Driving along the Anton Novyria place going west Robert Spooner of Sargent came along driving a Ford coupe.

Evidently in passing the cattle and not seeing Joe, who was driving a team and spring wagon, struck the wagon, upsetting it, breaking the reach and neckyoke, fortunately the team being gentle, no great damage was done.

Although both drivers were badly shocked, the car was also slightly damaged.

At a meeting of the members of the German church after mass last Sunday it was decided to hold the annual St. Wendelmas celebration Sunday, September 30. High mass at 10:30. Dinner served by the ladies of the parish at the National hall. A ball game and other sports in the afternoon and a dance in the evening. The John Matuska, Bohemian orchestra of radio station W. N. A. X. will furnish music.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Denning and children visited at the Travis Bros. last week end. They also called at Weekee's Hospital to see the latter's sister, Mrs. Robert Lewis, who underwent a major operation last week. At this writing Mrs. Lewis is getting along fine.

The Jolly Neighbor club met at the home of Mrs. Archie Mason. The delegates for this year are Mrs. Chas. Mason and Mrs. Willard Conner. The lesson was well given, the subject being hats and gloves. They also had an interesting business meeting. The club is sorry to lose several members who have joined a new club at Midvale, which is closer for some of them. Dainty refreshments

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

The menace of bindweed to Nebraska farm land becomes greater each summer. This small, white-flowered species of morning glory frequently reduces land values in half. Valley county is becoming thoroughly infested with it. Little patches start up or creep in on farms, where the weed is first allowed to spread unnoticed, and may later be permitted to take the fields because the price of removal will be too great.

Young bindweed patches should be eradicated at once with sodium chlorate. The latest method is to scatter the dry chemical over the weedy area, either by hand or with a drill. One time of year is about as good as another for applying the chemical. There is no advantage in using it as a spray.

Sodium chlorate sells for around 10 cents a pound, when bought in large quantities. It is impossible to determine in advance how much will be needed; more is required on rich, clayey soils. Two or three pounds per square rod is a common rate of application.

Sodium chlorate is too expensive to use on large patches of weeds. Such areas must be clean fallowed. Cultivators are used that have overlapping duck-foot shovels. Occasional weeds that are skipped, should be hoed off by hand. Ordinary disks and cultivators are unsuited for clean fallow because they permit too many weeds to slip by.

Following against bindweed generally requires about fifteen cultivations the first year, and six or more the next, in order to bring about complete root starvation and eradication of bindweed. Either clean fallow or chemical treatment involves the loss of land for a year or two. But these are the only practical ways of destroying Nebraska's worst weed pest.

Ord Hi Oracle Will Be Weekly Feature

This year the Ord High School Paper, known as the "Oracle," will be published as a special page in The Ord Quiz. The new plan offers many advantages over the mimeographed paper as published the past two years. More news in better newspaper style can be given in the new paper. All the departments and features of The Oracle will be retained as soon as a staff can be organized. The first issues are being rushed to press by a volunteer group from last year. The final organization of the paper will soon be made and a definite policy established. Many more members are needed to properly handle the work; so all persons interested in the paper are urged to hand in their names at once so that they may be assigned a position when the organization is set up for the year.

The Oracle this year may also be made into a yearbook. The plan under consideration is to run off some three or four hundred copies of the Oracle page on separate sheets. These copies will be filed until the end of the year. Then all issues will be bound together in an attractive cover and the result will be a yearbook for the Ord high school at a very low cost. This type of yearbook would be a real account of the happenings of the school and in the order of their occurrence. Special features might be added to make the book meet the more traditional type of annuals.

Tentative plans are to make the weekly issues timely and at the same time authentic records. Special issues will give complete accounts of the season or campaign. For example, the football season will be completely reviewed at the close of the season.

The games will be reviewed and the season high-lights brought out. Individual write-ups of the players and a picture of the team will be included. In this way the weekly paper will be of greater value to the readers and the bound issues equal to any traditional annual ever published. Every school event can be covered just the same as the outline for football if the proper financing can be arranged. The large item of expense, in fact about the only expense, is the pictures. If some class or several of the classes take up the plan, they will be given the honor of sponsoring the yearbook and helping form the Oracle policies as to pictures and feature issues. Ord high school students will be able to have an annual that will cost less than fifty cents if the present plans can be carried out and the student body gets behind the work one hundred percent. Three hundred annuals can be published nearly as cheaply as ten. The cost divided by three hundred is very little. Classes will get more definite information soon and at the same time have an opportunity to express themselves on the plan.

During history class the teacher asked: "What happened in 1483?"

"Luther was born."
"Correct, and what happened in 1487?"

"After a long pause, 'Luther was four years old.'"—Record.

"Can you tell me anything about the great chemists of the seventeenth century?"
"They are all dead, sir."—The Top.

FORTY BOYS ARE OUT FOR FOOTBALL

Prospects Appear Brighter As 7 Lettermen and Much New Material Starts Work.

With over forty boys reporting daily for football practice, seven of whom are letter men, Coach Brockman believes chances are good for a successful season. A heavy ten game schedule will be played this year. Every week will see the Chanticleers in action once they open the season. Seven of the games are Loup Valley Conference contests. The Broken Bow, Ravenna and Ansley games are non-conference.

The schedule: Sept. 28—Scotia at Ord. Oct. 5—St. Paul there. Oct. 12—Broken Bow there. Oct. 19—Burwell there. Oct. 23—North Loup at Ord. Nov. 2—Ravenna at Ord. Nov. 9—Ansley there. Nov. 16—Arcadia at Ord. Nov. 23—Taylor at Ord. Nov. 29—Loup City there.

Post graduates: Bert Boquet, Bernie Zulkoski.

All classes are well represented by the football candidates. There are 10 Seniors, 11 Juniors, 8 Sophomores and 9 Freshmen reporting. The team faces one of its hardest games of the year Friday. Scotia is coming with the definite purpose of keeping up their old record with Ord. The past three years have resulted thus: 1931, 0-0 tie; 1932 Scotia won by a single touchdown 6-0; 1933 Scotia won 33-6. The Ord boys say the books will be turned around this year and that they are going to be on the winning side.

Loup Valley Girls To Enjoy Play Day

The Loup Valley Activity Association accepted the invitation of the local schools to have their Fall Playday at Ord. One hundred and fifty girls from ten towns are expected. The definite date has not been set but it will be sometime in October. The Ord Staff will be in charge of all arrangements. Miss Viola Crouch heads this department and will work out the details within a few days.

The playday idea has gone over well in the Loup Valley. Each year they sponsor two of these days. Ord has entertained several in past years and looks forward to having the girls here again. The playday is a girls' athletic day, but it is all for fun and friendship. Teams are organized in all girls' sports and the girls play all the different games during the day.

The big difference between this and the boys' sports is that the members of the teams are selected from several towns and not all from one town or school. In fact it generally happens that only one girl from each town is on a team. If two girls from the same town are playing in the same game, they most likely will be on opposite sides. The plan is to have the emphasis on good sportsmanship and friendship and not just to win. Girls who have taken part in several of these events can testify as to their value in getting acquainted with the students of other high schools. The pupils of one school find their neighbors are much the same as they are themselves and after all pretty nice people to know. There is little place now-a-days for the provincial minded person who thinks everyone from out-of-town is a crook, poor sport and the like. The high school girls in the Loup Valley have proven the fact that all that is needed to get schools together on a friendly basis is to get acquainted. Once the students know each other, friendly contests will follow.

The first high school orchestra and band practices were held Monday and Thursday evening respectively.

The teachers of the grade school enjoyed a werner roast at the park Tuesday evening.

The public speaking students practiced speaking in the auditorium Wednesday and Thursday.

From the Sidelines!

Next week I'll give you the first string lineup and their official numbers.

Paul Blessing, prospective player for end position has been running around with a cut hand. Nothing serious but lots of bother. Too much Ford.

Two post grads, Bernie Zulkoski and Bert Boquet are helping the Coach in training the "green-horns".

Bill Tunncliff with a sprained leg, proved the first casualty of the season. Bill has thrown away his crutches and is now back battling for a place in the starting lineup.

Did you know that two Ord Grads, "Kate" McGinnis and Bill Garnick appeared in the Nebraska Cornhusker practice game last Saturday. Go to it boys, we are watching you.

Say, where are our tennis players? Those fellows who are going to take the State Championship, had better get some fall practice.

From reports coming in I judge that we have two real kitten ball teams. Beulah McGinnis is a regular home run swatter on the girls' team. On the boys' team, Paul Adamek holds the Babe Ruth honors.

Now listen you brilliant people of Ord High School, I want a name for this column. For instance "Dopebucket," "Silly Slander," "Newsy Nell" or what have you? I want some names submitted at the office, or left in the Oracle Box.

Last Friday the Burwell Pork-eaters trimmed the comparatively light North Loup team 34-0.

The Scotia team, on the same day, walloped Cedar Rapids 54-0. The Editor.

Music Department

Early enrollments indicate that an unusually large number of students are interested in glee club work. Over sixty boys are registered for boys' glee club. They will meet regularly on Tuesdays and Thursdays during the sixth period. The girls' glee club has a total enrollment of 130. This group is divided into two divisions: the variety or senior glee club, composed of thirty contest members of last year and the reserve or intermediate glee club, composed of nearly 100 less experienced singers. Students from the intermediate group will be promoted into the senior group as soon as suitable progress is shown.

Many new instruments have been purchased, which will increase the enrollment of the junior orchestra and band. The senior orchestra starts the year with a membership of forty-one. More will be added according to the instrumentation needed. The senior band is now composed of nearly forty members and many others will be added soon.

The prospects of new uniforms for the band is adding much incentive to the students of musical instruments. It is hoped that there will be a fifty-piece band marching at each home football game.

A complete list of musical students is at this time being prepared which shows that there are over one hundred boys and girls in our school system studying musical instruments. The musical department is looking forward to a fine year and with conscientious effort on the part of each student enrolled, the organization should reach a high standard during the term.

Girl Reserve Officers. The Girl Reserve officers elected to serve this year are: President, Pauline Barta; Vice-President, Ruth Koupal; Secretary, Harriett Hrdy; Treasurer, Maxine Haskell; Program Chairmen, Alma Hansen and Eleanor Keep; Social Chairmen, Evelyn Loft and Beulah McGinnis; Publicity Chairman, Dorothy Auble, Socialist Welfare, Evelyn Jorgensen; Pianist, Wilma Severns; and Music Chairman, Dorothy Allen.

GRADE NOTES

In the kindergarten there are 35 eager and excited pupils who are gradually becoming accustomed to the school and its routine. The first grade boasts a total of 46 pupils and the second grade enrollment exceeds this by one. The classes are divided into three groups, under the instructorship of Miss Hallen, Miss Kosmata, and Miss Wallin.

The third and fourth grades, instructed by Miss Eberspacher, Miss Swain and Miss Rowbal, have an enrollment of 47 and 32 respectively. There are 73 pupils in the fifth and six grades under Miss Elliott, Miss Finley and Miss Gosard.

Three new pupils have entered the grade school during the past week. They are Edward Whalen, first grade, Lesley Van Cleve and Kenneth VanKieek in the fifth grade.

Mrs. Lyle McBeth was a visitor in the first grade Friday.

The long red tables in the kindergarten room have each been cut into four small tables and repainted brown. There are now eight tables with two chairs at each one.

THE STAFF

This week's issue of the Oracle has been prepared by the students listed below. No definite organization has been made, other than the appointment of Miss Bernice Slote as sponsor.

- 1. Darlene Anderson
- 2. Evelyn Jorgensen
- 3. Dorothy Fish
- 4. LaVerne Lakin
- 5. Mildred Smith
- 6. Arvella Benjamin
- 7. Viola Hansen
- 8. Lillian Karty

EDITORIALS

This year, instead of our usual mimeographed paper, space in the Ord Quiz will be devoted each week to high school and grade school news. The Senior class will be asked to sponsor the making of our paper into a yearbook. This book will be a complete file of all the Oracle issues, plus a class roll and several other features. The Oracle staff hopes to cooperate with the Senior class in securing pictures of the various seasonal events of the year. These will add to the attractiveness of the paper and will also make the yearbook a complete record of our school.

The Oracle staff, on behalf of the student body, wishes to extend a cordial welcome to all the new student and faculty members of Ord High and we are, of course, equally glad to see the old students and instructors back again.

Much assistance can be given to the newspaper staff if each organization and class will elect a reporter. Such notes should be given to some member of the staff not later than Thursday of each week.

Football season so close at hand brings to mind this slogan: "A Winner Never Quits and a Quitter Never Wins." A coach at a certain Nebraska high school has adopted this as a slogan for his athletic teams and has it printed in large black letters above the locker room door.

A quitter has no place on an athletic team just as he has no useful place in life. It is the individual who can stand up against hard knocks and has the determination to fight back, who will achieve worthwhile success in life.

We should like to urge any student who feels that he would be interested in the work to try out on our paper staff. This offers an opportunity to learn the fundamentals of news writing and at the same time would be a decided help to us.

SPECIAL CONVOCATIONS

Jack Rank presented to the students of Ord High School, on September 12, one of America's unique productions, "The Vienna Express." The theme for this drama is based on actual happenings which were recorded by Mr. Herbert Dall, noted foreign correspondent, and dramatized by Mr. Rank. The action takes place in Hungary and begins on Wednesday, September tenth in the year 1931.

Mr. Rank portrayed five widely different characters in full costume by means of lightning changes. The characters portrayed were: Plotsky, The Ape Man; Martin Lelpnk, The Translator; Mata, A French Spy; Anastasia, A Dancer; His Excellency, The Prince Palfy-Daun.

A most enjoyable convocation, to stress the importance of constitutional week, was presented to the students of Ord High School on Wednesday, September 19.

The American Legion Chorus sang two selections; "My Nebraska," and a southern tune, "Plantation."

Mr. Clarence M. Davis gave a very interesting talk on "The Constitution of the United States."

How The Oracle Came Into Existence-- A Dedication And An Introduction

It is the desire each year of the Board of Education and the Faculty of the Ord schools to provide students with the facilities for publishing a high school newspaper. It is the desire to issue a yearbook or annual at the close of each school year.

This fall general financial conditions made the cost of anything but a miniature mimeographed newspaper prohibitive and publication of an annual next spring appeared out of the question. However, due to the desire of a group of Ord business and professional men to assist the schools and cooperate with students and because of the generosity of The Quiz in making available a page of space each week, a plan was worked out by which students may have both a newspaper and a yearbook.

To Ord business and professional men whose pictures will appear in this space during succeeding weeks is most of the credit due. They are assisting financially to make this paper possible and they deserve, in turn, the support of Ord high school students and their families.

Each week the Oracle will be sponsored by an Ord business or professional man. His photograph, his biography and a description of his business will appear herein. We believe these weekly articles will prove interesting to all readers of this page and will bring about a spirit of cooperation and loyalty between Ord business interests and the Ord schools.

Students, this is your page but it is available to you through the courtesy of the Ord business men who will act as sponsors. A complete list of sponsors will appear in this space next week. Read the list carefully, then make it your business to get acquainted with each and every sponsor. Show them by your patronage that you appreciate their kindness.

Faculty Has 8 New Members, Fine Spirit of Cooperation Appears to Prevail.

The Ord schools are now well started on the year 1934-35. The faculty has a large number of new members due to last minute resignations. The eight new teachers come from varying colleges and communities.

Mr. H. F. Brockman, new athletic coach, makes his home at Elmwood, Nebraska. He attended the Elmwood grade and high schools and took his college work at Peru. From there he received his A. B. degree. He has taught previously at Valparaiso and Edgar, Nebraska. Mr. Brockman is also instructor in History and Manual Arts.

Miss Carol Roelse is at home at Hastings, Nebraska. She attended the Hastings grade school and high school. Miss Roelse received her A. B. degree from the Hastings College. Since then, she has had additional work in the Universities of California and Wisconsin. Her previous teaching experience has been gained at Elmcrest and Newmau Grove. In the Ord school, Miss Roelse teaches Public Speaking, English and assists with music.

Mr. Burdette Cowel received his elementary education in the Auburn schools. He graduated from Peru College with an A. B. degree. Mr. Cowel is the Social Science and History instructor and is assistant coach. This is Mr. Cowel's first teaching experience.

Miss Bernice Slote received her elementary education at Doma, Texas, Hastings and Firth, Nebraska. Two years of her high school work was spent at Firth and the other two at Hickman, Nebraska. She graduated with her A. B. degree from Nebraska Wesleyan and has had a summer session at the University of Nebraska. Last year, she taught in the high school at Malcolm, Nebraska. Miss Slote will teach a division of the Junior High.

Miss Marjorie LeValley attended the elementary and high school at Dayton, Iowa. She was graduated from the University of Nebraska with a B. Sc. degree. Miss LeValley will teach the kindergarten class. She has had several years experience in teaching primary classes at Greenwood, Nebraska.

Miss Edna Elliott resides at Arcadia, Nebraska. She received her early education in the Harlan county schools. Her high school education was acquired at Regan, Nebraska. She was graduated from the University of Nebraska Teacher's College. Miss Elliott, for the past few years, has been instructing the upper classes at Alma, Nebraska. In the Ord school she will teach the fifth and sixth departmental.

Miss Louise Eberspacher makes her home at Seward, Nebraska. She received her elementary education in the rural schools and graduated from the Millford high school. She attended the Wayne Normal College. Her previous teaching experience has been attained at Sergeant Bluff, Iowa. In the Ord school, Miss Eberspacher is handling the third grade.

Miss Vernie Wallin attended the grade school at Sutherland, Nebraska. Two years of her high school work were spent at Sutherland and the other two at Kearney. She graduated from the Kearney Teachers College with an A. B. degree. Her previous teaching experience has been procured at Scotia. In the grade school, Miss Wallin is teaching the first and second grades.

Besides the above mentioned new instructors we have back again Mr. Millard Bell, Superintendent; Mr. Wilbur Cass, Principal; Mr. Dean Duncan, Music; Mr. Jesse Kovanda, Agriculture; Miss Elizabeth Lukes, Junior High; Miss Mildred Jacobsen, Normal Training; Miss Elva Johnson, English and Foreign Languages; Miss Viola Crouch, Mathematics; Miss Mae Baird, Home Economics; Mr. Walter Luk-enbach, Commercial; Mr. W. the South Sea."

—Thursday Lloyd McGrew came from Scottsbluff and visited his people until Sunday when he went to Lincoln. He will be employed a part of the time and take up some studies in the state university.

—Jos. P. Barta and Miss Pauline and Mrs. C. Fuson drove to Lincoln Sunday morning. Mrs. Barta had been there for a week with her daughter, Miss Martha Mae Barta, who is attending the state university. Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Ford and daughter IdaBelle of Des Moines, Ia., had also gone to Lincoln. They all met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hallock and enjoyed a good visit. The Ord people came home Sunday evening and Dr. Ford and family returned to Des Moines. Miss Martha Mae Barta is making her home with Mr. and Mrs. Hallock while attending the university.

SALT

We have just unloaded a carload of salt and can furnish you with Crushed Rock Salt and Lump Rock at 55c per hundred.

We also have common salt and Michigan Meat Salt all at very low prices. If you can use 10 blocks of gray salt ask for a price on this amount.

HAY

We have some extra choice prairie hay on hand, you will find no rushes, weeds, or sweet clover or old dead hay in this hay that we have. Come in and see it and get a price on it. You will have absolutely no waste on this hay.

POTATOES

We have a truckload of nice Red Triumph potatoes. We will make a special price on ten bags or more. Buy a few bags and put in your cellar, it looks as if potatoes would be high this winter. You will like these Red Triumphs.

POPCORN

For the past few weeks we have had the best market on popcorn. A number of our customers have received 25c to 75c more per hundred here than anyone else would pay for their corn. If you have popcorn to sell, don't sell it without seeing us.
