THE ORD QUIZ, ORD, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1934

VOL. 52 NO. 27

'WE WANT WATER' WILL BE THEME OF HOLDREGE RALLY

Six Nebraska Projects Will Ask Thru Norris Why PWA Said "No" To Irrigation.

"We Want Water" will be the dominant theme of the huge rally in Holdrege, Neb., tomorrow when six Nebraska power and irrigation projects, including the North Loup, will ask through Senator George W. Norris why the federal PWA refused financing for these worthy undertakings. So strong a protest will be made by the 10,000 or more people at the rally that it is expected to reach the ears of Congress and President Roosevelt.

The rally at Holdrege will start shortly after the noon hour and last throughout the afternoon. A mammoth parade in which a dozen bands and file and drum corps, to say nothing of thousands of irrigation boosters carrying banners, will be staged at 1:00, after which a program of speaking will take place at the Holdrege auditorium.

Senator Norris will be the principal speaker but former attorney general C. A. Sorensen, Editor J. E. Lawrence, the mayor of Holdrege and others will take part. Marion J. Cushing will be rally chairman.

Ord, along with dozens of other communities in the six Nebraska projects that have been refused PWA aid, will be represented by a large delegation. Members of the local committee, H. T. Frazier, Val Pullen, C. A. Hager and Ed Meuser, hope that 100 or more will go from here. About as many from Taylor, Burwell and North Loup are expected to make the drive.

Ord has gone "slogan conscious" this week and ten big banners bearing pertinent slogans are now being painted. Dozens of slogans have been submitted but the final choice has not yet been made. Among the suggestions made here and elsewhere in the six projects are such slogans as: "Repeal Our 'Dry' Corn Fields"; "Our Platform is Wet, Too!"; "Private Greed or Public Benefit—Which?"; "Six Projects—Six Refusals—Six Farmers"; "Washington Soaks Others and Socks Us!"; "More Dams Will Stop Our Damns!"; and many others.

No effort will be made to form an Ord caravan tomorrow morning, the local committee says, each car being allowed to make the trip at whatever time and speed the driver desires. However, anybody who is going to have room for extra passengers is asked to come to the west side of the Ord square tomorrow morning, as several have expressed a desire to go who do not have transportation.

At Holdrege the Ord delegation will meet at the corner of Morton Street and 6th Avenue, which point is five blocks west of the north side of the court house, at 12:15 p. m., preparatory to forming in the parade, M. J. Cushing says.

Members of the Loup valley band organized by Glen D. Auble, as well as all North Loup valley people present, will meet at the same place and time.

The parade will be formed at 12:30 and promptly at 1:00 the Holdrege fire whistle will sound as a signal for the parade to move out. All North Loup valley people will march in the parade as a unit, bearing banners and headed by the band.

The speaking program in the Holdrege auditorium starts at 2:00 and the parade will end at the auditorium a few minutes before this time.

Ladies of the Holdrege Presbyterian church will serve dinner between 11:00 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. and many Ord people are planning to dine at this church. Others will eat before reaching Holdrege, because of the congestion that 5,000 or more visitors is bound to cause there.

Every Quiz reader who can possibly do so should drive to Holdrege tomorrow, Friday, Oct. 5, to assist in this vast demonstration. The future of the North and Middle Loup power and irrigation districts may hinge upon the success of the Holdrege rally.

Miss Ella Bond Will Teach Music in Texas

Miss Ella Bond, for many years Ord's foremost music teacher, has accepted a position on the faculty of the Shield of Faith Bible School in Amarillo, Tex., and will leave for Amarillo this week to assume her new duties. She will have charge of vocal and piano instruction in this school, which is operated by the Pentecostal church.

Miss Bond will go by auto, accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Paul Van Kleck of North Loup, whose children attend the Shield of Faith school. The Bond home has been rented to the Bossen family, who are moving to town from the country.

H. T. Frazier's Brother Dead.

P. H. Frazier, 61, of Wood, S. D., a brother of Harlan T. Frazier of Ord, passed away Saturday evening Sept. 29, at his home. The funeral cortege spent Monday night in Ord enroute to Arborville, Neb., where burial took place. Mr. Frazier's wife and both his parents are at rest in this cemetery. Rev. L. M. Real conducted the services at Arborville, Tuesday. The deceased had been a resident of South Dakota since 1909 when he went there for the Tripp county land drawing and liked the country so well that he purchased a farm. He leaves a widow and six children. Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Frazier of Ord accompanied the cortege to Arborville, Tuesday.

GAMBLE STORES AGENCY OPENS IN ORD OCT. 13

F. E. McQuillan, Kearney, Will Own and Manage Store in Goodhand Building.

F. E. McQuillan, of Kearney, Neb., is in Ord this week making arrangements to open a Gamble Store agency in the C. E. Goodhand building, October 13 being the date set for the formal opening. For several months the Goodhand building has been under lease to the Gamble firm, which is a nation-wide chain of stores selling auto accessories, radios, tires, washing machines, electric refrigerators and various hardware specialties. Other Nebraska Gamble stores are located at Omaha, Lincoln, Alliance, Kearney, Wayne, Norfolk and other cities.

There are two types of Gamble stores, one type being owned and operated by the company and the other type owned and managed by individual owners. It is the latter type, designated as a "Gamble Store Agency," that is being opened in Ord by Mr. McQuillan. Gamble Store Agencies, though home owned, buy through the parent organization and thus have the advantage of great purchasing power.

Mr. McQuillan says he will have a complete line of radios and electric refrigerators, as well as all auto accessories, tires, etc. His merchandise is arriving now and on October 13, date of the formal opening, the public will be given the opportunity to inspect and purchase from the most complete stock of such goods ever shown in Ord.

"Before deciding to locate here I investigated the town and its trade territory thoroughly," Mr. McQuillan says, "and believe Ord is an ideal location for a Gamble store. Since moving here we like the town very much and are here to stay."

Mr. McQuillan is married, and he and his wife are living in an apartment on the upper floor of the Dr. A. J. Ferguson residence.

Horse Theft Charge Against Hubt Boyce

A complaint of horse stealing was filed in county court Tuesday by County Attorney George A. Munn against Hubt Boyce, the complainant being sworn to by Fred Boyce, the young man's uncle. Sheriff Round is seeking young Boyce with a warrant for his arrest but he is still at large.

The alleged theft occurred last Thursday when Hubt Boyce borrowed a horse from his uncle with the avowed purpose of leading his own pony to the sale in Ord. Instead, he sold his uncle's horse and with the proceeds made a down payment on a car to the Auble Motor Co., immediately leaving the county in the car. Officers have his license numbers and a description of the car and his arrest is expected soon.

DECEASED ORD MAN WAS NOTED RUNNER IN YOUTH

H. P. Patchen Held World's 50 Yard Dash Record; Also Was Famous As Jockey.

Many were the friends who attended funeral services held at the Frazier chapel at 1:00 p. m. Friday Sept. 28 for Hiram Porter Patchen, long-time Ord resident, but few of them knew that in his youth Mr. Patchen was a famous sprinter and at one time held the world's 50-yard dash record. Yet this was the case.

Born in Wisconsin, January 29, 1856, "Hi" Patchen grew to young manhood there. In his youth he was distinguished by his fleetness of feet and in his early manhood, about 1877, developed into one of the fastest sprinters of the century.

As a young man Patchen traveled all over the country competing against the fastest sprinters and it was his proudest boast that he was never defeated in a foot race.

Never a man to talk about himself or his accomplishments, little is known about his athletic prowess, even by his children. It is known, however, that Mr. Patchen was also a noted jockey in his younger years and it is fairly well established that the famous race horse, "Dan Patch," was named after him. He owned and raced the sire of this famous pacer for several years.

About 1875 the Patchen family emigrated from Wisconsin to Nebraska but Hiram continued his adventurous life of racing and traveled over the entire country. It is known also that for a time he served in the state militia and took part in the sporadic Indian warfare so frequently necessary in the early days of northern and western Nebraska.

At some time in his youth, Mr. Patchen studied veterinary medicine and became a licensed veterinarian. He also managed hotels, was a pioneer sheriff in Furnas county, farmed in various places and otherwise had an active and adventurous life.

On Jan. 28, 1884, Mr. Patchen was married at Valley, Neb., to Miss Lena Oster and five children were born to them, three of whom survive. Mrs. Patchen passed away on Christmas day, 1902.

One of the last homesteads ever taken up in Greeley county was filed on by Mr. Patchen. This homestead was located southwest of Ericson and he lived there several years, moving from there to Ord in 1919. He soon took over the natural ice pond and plant here, which he operated as long as his health permitted.

"He was one of the most kind, loving and patient fathers who ever lived," his children say, "and was both father and mother to all of us."

He is mourned by one daughter, Mrs. Mary Draper of Lewistown, Mont., and by two sons, Onnie Patchen of North Platte and Harry Patchen of Ord, also by two brothers, Frank and Andrew Patchen, both of Casper, Wyo. There are seven grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Rev. Mearl C. Smith conducted the funeral services Friday and the body was taken to Cedar Rapids, Neb., for interment.

Teachers Meeting.

Valley County Teachers Institute will be held at the Ord high school auditorium October 11 and 12. Speakers from outside will include Miss Allura Woodbury, St. Paul, G. L. Anderson, Lincoln, and Miss Mollie Lamb, Omaha. Registration will begin at 9 a. m. Thursday morning. In connection with the institute will be the rural school art exhibit. This exhibit will be open to the public Friday afternoon and Saturday.

Sim W. Morrow Dead.

Sim W. Morrow, an old-time resident of Ord, passed away Sept. 21 at his home in Long Beach, Calif., after a long period of ill health. Mr. Morrow was a brother-in-law of Mrs. A. Sutton, Ord, and left here about 15 years ago. He is mourned by a daughter, Zeila, and by his second wife. The body was sent to Ord for interment but neither his wife nor daughter could come because of illness and no funeral services were held. Mr. Morrow had a host of friends in and around Ord who will be grieved to learn of his death.

Poisonous Spiders Found On Ord Farm

Several of the extremely poisonous "black widow" spiders that have caused so much consternation and suffering in Gering, Chadron and other western Nebraska places were found on his farm in Springdale Saturday by William Fischer. He killed 12 of the insects and caught two alive, which are being exhibited in glass jars in the Beranek and McLain-Sorensen drug stores.

The insects are shiny black in color and appear to have a hard shell, though the Quiz reporter wouldn't hazard touching one to make sure. Even the legs are shiny black. On the belly of each spider is a bright red blotch.

He found the spiders in a cave used for storage of vegetables on the farm he occupies, Fischer says. Others have been found in a cellarway and under flat rocks and lumber in damp, shady places.

These "widow" spiders are said to be cannibalistic and devour the male of the species at certain times of year, which gives them their name. They are extremely poisonous and several western Nebraska people bitten by these insects were near death but recovered after hospital treatment.

Mr. Fischer believes such spiders are present in other caves and earthen cellars and advises extreme care.

John A. Danner Dies Sunday at Hospital

John A. Danner, a laborer in and around Ord for the past 13 years, passed away at 9:00 p. m. Sunday at Hillcrest hospital where he had been taken a few days previously for emergency surgical treatment. He had been ill and bedfast several weeks before being taken to the hospital. Systemic poisoning from a leg abscess was the immediate cause of death.

Mr. Danner was born in Shamokin, Pa., Oct. 6, 1879 and came to Ord 13 years ago, being married soon afterward to May Thompson. To them four children were born, Paul, Bertha, Ruth and David. Mr. Danner also leaves a son by a former marriage, Floyd Danner. His father, August Danner, of Primrose, six brothers and three sisters all survive.

Funeral services were held at Sowl's chapel at 2:00 p. m. yesterday with Elder G. E. Hutches, of Shelton, in charge. Mr. Danner was a 7th Day Adventist and Elder Hutches is a member of this sect.

Out-of-town relatives attending the funeral included Richard Danner and family, Edward Danner, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Danner, R. H. Danner and Miss Lillian Danner, all of Fremont, August Danner and Clarence Danner and daughter, of Primrose, and J. R. Farley, of Belgrade.

Interment was in Ord cemetery.

Gov't Cattle Buying Will End Oct. 12th

The Government cattle buying program is scheduled to close next week, and Valley county will hold two sales, one at Arcadia Monday, Oct. 8, the other at Ord on Friday, Oct. 12. Farmers in the North Loup and Elyria territory who still have cattle to sell to the government should bring them to Ord on the 12th as this will be the clean-up day for the county.

The Valley County Drouth Relief committee wishes to repeat a previous statement that they are not urging anyone to sell cattle to the government but ask farmers to take stock of their feed situation and if they are not going to be able to winter their cattle, they should dispose of their surplus before the buying program ends.

Dr. Miller Returns.

Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Miller expect to return home Friday from Rochester, Minn., where they have been the past several weeks. The doctor has recovered nicely from a major operation performed two weeks ago, and expects to be able to resume his practice in a few days.

Cushing Falls, Breaks Hip.

F. M. Cushing, aged Valley county pioneer and father of Repr. M. J. Cushing, fell last Friday at his son's home and suffered a broken hip. He is reported to be recovering satisfactorily although he will be bedfast for several weeks.

—Mr. and Mrs. Earl Blessing have lately moved to Ansley. The latter and her children had been visiting in Lexington. Her sister, Mrs. Kenneth Draper drove over and spent a few days in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Colliprest while her sister, Mrs. Blessing was there. Earl is still employed on government road work.

—Delpha M. Taylor, formerly of Ord, has been elected president of the Lincoln Business and Professional Women's club. Miss Taylor is secretary to Judge Bayard H. Paine.

AGED COMSTOCK PAIR KILLED BY HIT-RUN DRIVER

John Zimmerman and Wife Were Victims Sunday; Light May Betray Motorist.

The Comstock vicinity was the scene of a tragedy Sunday evening when Mr. and Mrs. John Zimmerman, who lived on a farm two miles west of that village, met instant death when struck by a car as they walked down the road. The driver of the car, whose identity is unknown, fled from the scene.

Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman were walking to the home of a neighbor, Gilbert Emory, when the tragedy occurred. It was shortly after dark but the couple carried a lantern which failed to deter the motorist, who evidently struck them while going at high speed.

The body of Mr. Zimmerman was found on the highway and that of Mrs. Zimmerman was hurled about 200 feet to one side of the road. The accident occurred near the Emory home and was discovered by a passing motorist, Mr. Westlake of Arcadia, who notified Mr. Emory.

Only clue to the death car is a headlight torn off by the impact and found near the scene. Officers are working on the case and hope to establish the identity of the hit-and-run driver.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman were past middle age and resided alone. They were new arrivals in the Comstock community, having moved there last spring.

Woman's Club Year Opens.

Ord Woman's club opened its season with a kensington tea at the home of Mrs. G. W. Taylor. The new president, Mrs. L. D. Milliken, addressed the club and assumed her office. Mrs. J. A. Kovanda entertained the club with a reading, "His Symptoms." At the close of the afternoon refreshments were served, Mrs. W. S. Watkins presiding at the tea table.

Moving To Illinois.

Lloyd Wheeler, of the southeast part of the county, has rented a farm in Illinois and about the first of November, will move to that state to make his home. He is arranging to hold a cleanup public sale at his place on October 19 and next week the Quiz will carry an advertisement listing his complete offering. Be sure and watch for it for Mr. Wheeler has a splendid lot of personal property.

Mr. Wheeler was born and raised in Valley county and this has always been his home and we are sorry to see him leave.

Molzén At Ag. College.

Many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil S. Molzen who lived here three years while Mr. Molzen was athletic coach in Ord high school have asked where the Molzens are now located. The Quiz is informed by Mrs. E. O. Carlson that Mr. Molzen is assistant director of athletics at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture, where he assists in football and will have charge of the freshmen basketball team. He is also helping Dr. Brody of the U. of N. Teachers college and studying for a master's degree.

Lawyers Fall to Endorse.

A meeting of attorneys of this judicial district was held in Grand Island Tuesday evening to discuss the advisability of endorsing some lawyer for appointment to succeed the late Ralph R. Horth as district judge. After much discussion the meeting ended without an endorsement having been made. Ord attorneys present included C. M. Davis, E. L. Vogelanz, Ralph W. Norman and George A. Munn.

Ord S. S. Parade Saturday, Oct. 6th

The parade of Sunday schools in Ord and the surrounding community will take place next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Classes and groups taking part will meet at the grade school building at 1:30 p. m. where each division will be assigned to its proper place. A Sunday school band led by L. J. Auble will lead the parade. Thus with martial music and colors flying, they will march about the business streets of Ord.

The Christian Sunday school will have at least one large elaborate float representing their church. The United Brethren school is making plans for their entire group to take part. The Presbyterians are making plans for groups to appear in costume. The Friendly Indian group will dress in typical style, while the Pioneers will have a covered wagon on with guns and other equipment of the early settlers. Several classes of the Methodists will have floats, costumes, placards, and musical settings.

Thursday will be observed as annual Rally Day in the churches. A large attendance is expected in every Sunday school. The church services will have special features. The Presbyterians are featuring a musical service. The Christians and United Brethren will have special services with sermons appropriate for the day. The Methodists will have an installation of Sunday school officers and teachers.

These exercises are the beginning of six weeks of intensive religious services known as the Fall Recovery Crusade. The public is invited to attend the church of their choice each Sunday of this campaign.

ARCADIA WOMAN NEW PRESIDENT COUNTY W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Finney Elected at Annual Convention Thursday; Mrs. C. Hackett Treasurer.

Mrs. Georgia Finney, Arcadia, was elected president of the Valley county W. C. T. U. last Thursday when that organization held its annual convention in the Methodist church at North Loup. —Saturday a six pound daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gates. Dr. Henry Norris was in attendance.

EARLY SETTLER IN SPRINGDALE DIES ON SEPT. 28

Levi D. Timmerman Came In 1878, Was Pioneer County Officer and Farmer.

Levi D. Timmerman, son of Jonas and Catherine Timmerman was born in Steuben county, N. Y., July 22, 1849 and passed away Sept. 28, 1934 at the age of 85 years, 2 months and 6 days. He was one of a family of nine children all of whom have passed on, with the exception of one brother, H. M. Timmerman, of Ord.

Mr. Timmerman grew to manhood in his native state of New York and was there married to Mary E. Dennis. To them were born three girls, Ethyl, Lura and Mabel, the former passing away in infancy.

While yet a young man, Mr. Timmerman established a reputation as a business man of honesty, integrity and strength of character. Opportunities in his home state were few in those days so he and his brother, Montgomery, came to Nebraska in 1878 and settled near Ord. Those were the days when Indians and buffalo still roamed the prairies. The two brothers bought land from the railroad company even though as yet there was no railroad nearer than Grand Island. They built sod houses and established homes and later in the year returned east to return with their families.

Soon after two other brothers, William and Hosmer, and the sister Stella, with her husband, Herman Eastman came and all five families established their homes on the same section of land.

Those were days which tested the souls of men. Times were hard but Mr. Timmerman had the stern character and perseverance which the early pioneers possessed. Many times he has remarked that those were the happiest days of his life. Everything had to be transported to Ord from Grand Island by ox teams in those days.

Mr. Timmerman stood high among the people of this community and county. He was a charter member of the Masonic lodge at Ord and took a leading part in organizing the lodge there. He held several offices such as school director, assessor, and census taker and later served several years on the county board of supervisors, acting as its chairman for two years.

He took an active part in Sunday school and church work in the rural church in his community for many years and got much pleasure in attending singing schools in those days, he having an excellent bass voice.

In 1906 he removed with his wife to Lincoln where he has lived ever since with the exception of winters spent in Florida. He was a kind neighbor, loving husband and father and leaves a host of good friends who will miss his friendly greetings.

The intense heat of the summer followed later by a fall July 30 were the contributing causes of his recent illness which culminated in his passing at 4:35 p. m., September 28.

His wife passed on in 1921 and in August, 1923 his daughter Mabel Jackson followed, leaving him and an only daughter, Lura Bingaman, who with her children has lived with him continuously.

Surviving are his daughter Lura, eight grandchildren, his only living grandchild, H. M. Timmerman of Ord, along with many cousins, nephews, nieces and other relatives.

Funeral services were held in Lincoln and interment was in a Lincoln cemetery.

Daryl Hardenbrook Hurt.

Daryl K. Hardenbrook suffered painful cuts on one arm and hand Tuesday afternoon when his car rolled over near Genoa, as he was returning to Ord from Fremont. A blow-out was the cause. Ord Church Notes

Christian Church.
Next week is Christian Education week and we will use that thought for our sermon subject next Sunday morning.

Remember the rally day next Sunday and all be out to both Bible school and church.
Bible school at 10 a. m.
Preaching service 11 a. m.
The ladies aid met Wednesday at the church.
The cradle roll party last Friday was more than a success. Have another.

Everyone be ready for the parade Saturday. Be at the grade school building at one thirty.

Pentecostal, Assembly of God.
On the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof there is no death.—Proverbs 12:28.
Remember to come out to our various services.
Tuesday night, prayer meeting at parsonage.
Wednesday night, prayer meeting, 8 p. m.
Friday night, young people's meeting, 8 p. m.
Sunday school Sunday, 10 a. m.
Morning devotion and Communion, 11 a. m.

Evangelical service, 8 p. m.
The public is invited to come out and worship with us.
Earl Cummings, Pastor.

United Brethren Church.
At the United Brethren church the church house will present a festive scene. A warm welcome will be given all new comers. Special recognition will be given Sunday school teachers. Dr. Ellis says "Most Americans are beneficiaries of the unsalaried devotion of Sunday school teachers. . . . The part the Sunday school teacher has played in shaping the character and ideals of nations has never before been formally and publicly recognized."

One of the features of the Rally Day program will be an object talk by the pastor on "The Tree With the Seven Lamps." This will be interesting to young and old alike.
Mamie J. Young, Pastor.

Christian Science Services.
"Unreality" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches for Sunday, October 7.

The Golden Text is from I John 2:16, 17: "All that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever."

A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from Ecclesiastes 1:14: "I have seen all the works that are done under the sun; and, behold, all is vanity and vexation of spirit."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "The conceptions of mortal, erring thought must give way to the ideal of all that is perfect and eternal. Through many generations human beliefs will be attaining divine conceptions, and the immortal and perfect model of God's creation will finally be seen as the only true conception of being." (page 260).

Methodist Church.
Rally Day will be observed in the Sunday school next week. Each class is making elaborate plans for a large attendance. It is expected that a large number of new and former members will be on hand.

At the worship service, 11 o'clock, a special service will be held in recognition of the Sunday school teachers and officers. The annual installation service will be held also.

The big parade will take place Saturday afternoon. All Sunday schools will meet at 1:30 at the grade school building. A number of the classes are providing floats and others have some happy surprises. Don't fail to join the big parade.

The Epworth League had an attendance of 19 last Sunday night. Newly elected officers are: president, Leonard Klima; first vice, Maxine Haskell; second vice, Armona Beth Achen; third vice, Joy Aulsebrook; fourth vice, Edna Loft; secretary, Dorothy Aulsebrook; treasurer, Josie Romans; music, Myrtle Cornell; publicity, Harold Haskell.

Union evening service at the Presbyterian church at 7:30, with sermon by Rev. Willard McCarthy. With next Sunday, the Fall Recovery Crusade of the Ord churches will be in full swing. There will be six Sundays of special services, and it is expected that every person in the community will be in attendance at some church.

Presbyterian Church.
Rally, Rally, Rally is the cry—V-I-C-T-O-R-Y. Rally day next Sunday. Be on time, bring your friends. Let us have a big day in a big way. It is expected that Sunday will bring the largest crowd in the history of our church. Do not fail to do your part, you will find a place for yourself and family. Our school is graded according to age with the idea that youngsters of the same age can worship and study together. Here we are trying to teach the Christian way of life. We can succeed only if our homes co-operate. Young married People's class taught by Mrs. Will Ollis.

Study at 10.
Worship at 10:45. Excellent music, inspiring talk, topic "The Church on the March."
Junior Expression club, 2:30.
6:30, a get-together of all young people of the church. Let's make it a real crowd. This means from the high school age as well as those who are out of high school. Union evening service at our church at 7:30.

Again It's the Season for Big Breakfasts

Toast, coffee and a glass of fruit juice may be an acceptable breakfast when the thermometer is doing daily gyrations between 90 and 115 but when frosty nights appear a breakfast like that doesn't hit the spot. When it's chilly every person needs more energy producing foods. To be brief, for breakfast you want SOMETHING TO EAT.

The season for big breakfasts is here again and will be for several months to come. Bacon and eggs, fried ham, pork chops, fried potatoes, griddle cakes, hot cereals—all of these are proper breakfast ingredients these cool mornings.

We can supply tasty home-cured or packing house bacon and ham at most attractive prices. Everyone knows the quality and economy of our fresh meats. Let us help you get breakfast tomorrow morning.

ECONOMIZE WISELY

GET More LIVE POWER per gallon

The release of extra Live driving energy means that your gasoline money takes you farther—at less cost!

For one thing, this already excellent gasoline now puts at your command more live, driving energy. This is a big economy factor. You go farther at less cost. You'll find, too, that your car can sprint with the best of them; that you can hit and hold high speed with less engine effort. This added Live Power levels off hills remarkably.

Standard Red Crown Superfuel also contains tetraethyl lead. That, as you know, is the finest anti-knock fluid known. Yet Superfuel still sells for the price of "regular."

You get greater value when you stop at the familiar Red Crown for a tankful of more Live Power!

STANDARD RED CROWN SUPERFUEL — more live power per gallon.

Another fine gasoline: RELIANCE—a carefully refined fuel, long on mileage and low in price

The Arcadia Champion

Arcadia 7—Loup City 20.

Playing their first game under lights proved disastrous to Coach Tuning's warriors who returned from Loup City Friday night on the short end of a 20-7 score. Sheer power and deception on the part of the heavy Loup City team gave victory to them for the first time in three seasons, although the score has always been close. The Arcadia squad was outplayed most of the game and seemed to be unable to stop the powerful onslaught of Coach Brown's two backfield stars, Roy and Slominski. The boys displayed at times good football and in some departments outclassed their opponents, especially in the exchange of punts. It is the opinion of those who witnessed the game that before the season is over and the boys profit by experience, Arcadia high school will have a strong team again. This Friday North Loup is to appear on the local gridiron and although North Loup has lost to Burwell they did not play last week and will be ready to give the local boys all they have to offer.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Sawyer are parents of a 12 pound baby girl born Sept. 28. They named the little one Nona Rae. Dr. Langrall was the physician in attendance. Obituary

Jay Harvey Cronk. Jay Harvey Cronk passed away Monday, Sept. 17, 1934 at the age of 72 years, 4 months and 6 days, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lon Phillips at Emmett, Ida.

Mrs. W. W. Looftburrow. Martha J. LeMaster was born in Shelby County, Ohio, June 27, 1852, and died at her home in Ord, Nebraska, Tuesday afternoon, September 25, 1934, aged 82 years, 2 months and 28 days.

She was the daughter of Rev. L. W. LeMaster, a local preacher in the Methodist church, a member of a family of 11 children, 9 of whom reached maturity, and she was the last to go.

Her marriage to W. W. Looftburrow occurred October 13, 1871 in her Indiana home, and for more than 62 years, they shared life's joys and sorrows.

Two years after their marriage they moved to Ohio and engaged in farming. In 1881, lured by prospects of success in the west, they joined the throngs of ambitious young folks and moved to Nebraska, settling on a farm 2 miles south of Cedar Rapids, Nebraska.

Two years later, in 1883, they moved to another farm northeast of Ord, near the post office known as Plain Valley, and for 21 years this was their home. In 1904 they retired from the farm moving to Ord, where she lived a quiet life until her death, enjoying the companionship of her family and many friends, entering into the active work of the church and its various societies.

Six children were born to them, one of whom died in infancy in 1880. She is survived by her husband, W. W. Looftburrow; 5 children, 3 daughters and 2 sons: Mrs. Esther G. Holman of North Loup, Mrs. Bertha J. Bee of North Loup, Mrs. Jessie L. Chaffield of Ord, Rev. Courtney B. Looftburrow of New Auburn, Wisconsin, and William C. Looftburrow of American Falls, Idaho, 17 grandchildren, and 13 great grandchildren.

She was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal church at the age of 16 and for more than 66 years, has been an active and consistent member of the church, having served her church in several capacities. Sunday school teacher, in the Ladies Aid society and various other places.

She was a faithful wife until the end, a devoted mother, and good neighbor.

Frank Sevenker. Frank Sevenker, the son of Nicholas and Mary Sevenker, was born in Cedar Rapids, Ia., January 28, 1862, and passed away Sept. 24, 1934 at 7:45 a. m. in Ord.

In the fall of 1875 he with his parents moved by covered wagon to Council Bluffs, Ia., where they spent the winter. In the spring of 1876 they again struck out west by covered wagon and stopped at Pleasant Hill, Saline county, Neb., where they farmed for three years.

Disposing of their land they again hit the trail for the west and landed in Red Willow county where in 1880 the parents homesteaded and made their home. While still a young man of 18 years, Frank was forced to go out and seek work to help support the family. Thus he landed a job on the first railroad being built from Cambridge, Neb., to Denver, where he worked two years. He continued to work out and support the rest of the family until he grew to manhood. In 1892 he homesteaded in Hayes county, Neb., and in 1893 he was united in marriage to Miss Katherine Hafek. They spent nine years in Hayes county and there three of their children were born, Frank, Will and Emma. In the spring of 1902 they moved to Valley county and spent two years in Ord. They then moved to the Sand Flats community where he farmed for twenty years and where three more children were born, Edward, Jesse and Elsie. In the year of 1925 he retired from farming and with his family moved to Ord, this being his residence until he passed away September 24, 1934. He leaves to mourn his death, his wife and six children, Frank, Will, Edward, Jess Sevenker, Miss Elsie Sevenker and Mrs. Emma Radil.

Burt Sell Tells Inside Story Of Loup City Riot to Omaha Reporter

(Omaha World-Herald)

The name "Arcadia" connotes a region of simple pleasures, rustic innocence and untroubled quiet.

Arcadia, Neb., is the home of Bert Sells, 50, the man who, as a communist, was beaten within a few inches of his life during the Loup City riot on June 14.

That beating was one of the reasons why Sells was in Omaha last week. He was on his way to Chicago to see an ear specialist about his hearing, which seems to be falling. He also planned to attend the second congress of the League Against War and Fascism.

While in Omaha, he revealed that he considers himself 100 per cent American citizen; that he hopes and expects to see a revolution in this country within the next 10 years, but wishes it to come about by ballot, and that he is a 100 per cent Marxian socialist.

Troubles in Arcadia. Karl Marx's beliefs didn't make life a bed of roses for him in Germany, France or Belgium; judging from Burt Sells' experience, they wouldn't have done so in Arcadia, Neb., either. Sells can point back to 26 years as a socialist, climaxed by the Loup City affray and two months in the hospital. His troubles now include: threatened impairment of his hearing; realization that a boycott is about to break his implement and garage business; and pending charges of inciting riot, unlawful assemblage, assault and battery, and resisting an officer. In offset is his suit against the Sherman county sheriff and deputies, asking 300 thousand dollars damages.

Sells is 50 years old. Indirectly the panic of 1907 is responsible for his present position. Leaving a considerable sum of money in an Arcadia bank, he took team and wagon and went to Fort Collins, Colo., that year. When the panic broke he couldn't get back to save his money.

Soap Box Started It. He made the rounds every morning looking for work and in the afternoons he loafed around town. One such afternoon he saw a soap box orator dragged away by a policeman. That night he went and heard the man speak. He paid 25 cents for a book of excerpts of Marxian savings—and that's how it started.

He joined the socialist party in 1908. Ever since, there have been people to regard him with suspicion. For years he was more or less a lone wolf at Arcadia; now there are a few farmers, "more radical than I am," and one or two sympathetic business men.

all of Ord. He also leaves two brothers, John and Wm of Ord, and one half-sister, Mrs. Mary Johns of Kearney, Neb., six grandchildren, also of Ord. Four sisters, Mrs. Flora Benzer, Mrs. Jessie Weir, Miss Anna Sevenker and an infant sister, also one brother, Joseph, preceded him in death.

Mr. Sevenker was a kind and loving husband and father and he will be sadly missed by all who knew him.

There have been times when Sells didn't do so badly under the capitalist system. In 1930 he sold 43 thousand dollars worth of tractors for the John Deere company.

Ostracized by Neighbors. "In a small town, there are always factions," he says. "I stood in pretty good with one of the factions until the Loup City episode. Now I'm ostracized by most Arcadians. I would be broke if it weren't that the people in the community west of Arcadia, where I spent most of my life, have continued to bring their business."

Sells denied that he had ever been in Loup City on any but personal business until the sheriff, on June 13, sent a warning that he wasn't to come there the following day. So he thought he'd better go over and find what it was about.

He went in to ask the sheriff the reason for the warning, and was hustled out right into the arms of a group of "laboring people and farmers." They called a meeting, invited him to speak, and he discussed the "issues of the day" in a 15-minute talk.

"I told them that I was interested in strikes, if strikes were for right causes," he said. "But I thought we should hear the creamery company's side of the story. So we selected a committee of 25. In the meantime, the sheriff made me an apology, and I invited him to go with us."

The fight occurred after the committee returned to make its reports. "We were just ready to leave the courthouse grounds, relate Sells, "when a bunch of young thugs, egged on by the sheriff, the creamery and some business men, moved on us. Seven or eight of them crowded me away from the rest of the group. They intimidated that they were going to kill me, and they nearly did."

Sells has six sons, five of whom were in the fight that day. "It has been rumored that Sells tried to run up a red flag in Arcadia, and in Loup City also. He denies that he has ever seen a communist red flag, and says he wouldn't recognize it if he saw one.

"One time when we had a picnic," he said, "we put up a couple of red flags like the county uses, to mark a narrow culvert which leads to the picnic grounds, and everyone thought I was flaunting the communist flag."

A Champion Value, Men! THE GOLDEN RULE'S NEW Money Bak Overall

Sanforized 8oz. Denim

Guaranteed Shrink Proof

We have sold Money Bak Overalls for seasons past. It was a good overall—the best we could find to sell in its price line. Now we introduce our NEW Money Bak—the grand champion of overalls in its price class. We have had it made of a special 8-oz. white back blue denim instead of the lighter 220 weight. It is guaranteed shrink proof so you can buy your correct size without fear of the overalls coming from the wash tub shrunken and out of shape. The main seams are triple stitched... bar tacks at strain points. True to our policy of giving the greatest values possible the price on our New Money Bak is very low—$1.10 for plain blue, $1.19 for the striped. Note the feature points given in the column to the right. Special introductory display!

Ord Out-Yards Scotia But Loses In Final Minute By Fluke Pass Scotia Player Intercepts, Runs 40 Yards for Touchdown, Just As Game Ends.

Improvement Noted

Brockman Pupils Played Hard And Deserved to Win; Ord Band Parades At Half.

After outplaying its opponents for the greater part of the game, Ord was suddenly defeated in the last forty-five seconds of play in the Ord-Scotia game on the home field Friday afternoon. The 0-0 tie was ended when Taylor of Scotia intercepted a pass and ran 40 yards for the touchdown. They failed to make the extra point. Although both teams were hard fighters, Ord was strong on defense and made greater yardage gains throughout the game. The entire Ord line played a bang-up game and the backfield flashed at times. Rowhal was a consistent ground gainer. Carlson showed real form on those long end runs while Haskell sent off several classy punts. Rother, the Scotia fullback, was a constant threat, until injuries drove him from the game. The crowd, not minding the blazing sun overhead, followed the teams up and down the field play by play. The field was in excellent condition for the first game. The High School band in their white uniforms gave a demonstration of marching during the half and added a real "win that game" spirit to the occasion. Score by quarters: SCOTIA 1st. 2nd. 3rd. 4th. ORD 0 0 0 0. The starting line-up: OR SCOTIA. Carlson, qb. West, qb. Barnhart, hb. J. Murphy, rh. Haskell, hb. Farrell, lh. Rowhal, fb. Rother, rb. Greathouse, re. Acker, re. Wilson, rt. Hall, rt. Pray, rg. Cook, rg. Clark, c. Taylor, c. Koelling, lg. Buffington, lg. Severson, lt. Babcock, lt. Michaels, le. L. Murphy, le. Jack Dyas and his assistants from Kearney handled the game.

Kiddies' Column

The kindergarten children have been studying "Little Black Sambo". One day last week during the thunder storm, one bright student remarked, "Oh, just listen to the tigers roar." The kindergarten pupils have just finished making their houses and furnishings. The second grade pupils have been making bright colored flowers, parrots, and color charts for their "Rainbow Booklets". The fourth grade art class has been drawing and coloring fall scenery. The study of the New England states and the British Empire is being taken up by the fifth and sixth grades. There are twenty-two boys and only nine girls in the third grade. Divisions A and B of the third grade have chosen as their names, "Busy Bees" and "Sunbeams". The kindergarten boasts four left-handed boys and girls. "Wise Old Greek Philosophers" has been the topic for individual reports in the sixth grade History class. The fifth and sixth graders have been creating nature poems this week. Visitors at the grade school this week-end were: Mrs. Albert Dahlin, kindergarten; Mrs. Anton Wegrzyn, fourth grade; Mrs. Jay Aule, third and fourth; and Mrs. James Ollis, first.

Girl Reserves Enjoy 'Looking-glass' Party

The theme for the Girl Reserves this year is centered around the story, "Alice in Wonderland". The first party was held last Friday evening. It was a looking glass party to which all the high school girls were invited in order that they might become better acquainted. Evelyn Loft was the social committee chairman, Beulah McGinnis the refreshment chairman, and Dorothy Allen the music chairman. The first regular Girl Reserve meeting was held last Monday. The topic for the evening was "Down a Rabbit Hole". Visitor—I suppose you know that spinach is good for your health, Willie? Willie—Sure, I've saved myself plenty of spankin's by eaten the stuff! "There's no place in this firm for a loafer." "That's right. How about installing a couple of easy chairs and a davenport?" "So you don't think that was a real cyclone we had up our way last week? I'll bet it was bad enough to lift anything on your old farm."

From the Sidelines!

Br-r-r-r. The football boys are out practicing regularly, in spite of the cold weather. Come on gang! Mr. Watkins has a schedule made out for his inter-mural sport system and he is getting the 1935 team in shape for a tough season. The football boys and their numbers are as follows: Paul Carlson-71, Marks-77, Barnhart-78, Haskell-75, Rowhal-79, Greathouse-54, Wilson-76, Pray-82, Clark-80, Koelling-83, Severson-85, Mickels-72. Bill Garnick played a quarter in the Wyoming-Nebraska game. It looks like Nebraska is off to another championship season. Saturday they walloped the Wyoming Cowboys 50-0. How did you like those information sheets handed out at the football game last Friday? Pretty handy, huh? Judging from the yells taking place in the home rooms, the student body is behind the team one hundred per cent. Hey! I haven't received a single suggestion for this column yet. Come on youse bright guys.

DO YOU KNOW?

Mr. Lumbard presented to the school a framed picture of the senior class of '33 in their caps and gowns. This picture may be seen in the office. A large list of magazines to be purchased has been made out. Each department is represented by at least one or two magazines. All mothers of Ord High School students were given free tickets to see the first football game Friday. All fathers of the football players will be given tickets to see the second home game, played at Ord with North Loup, October 23. The high school band played and marched at the football game last Friday. The 7th and 8th grade arithmetic classes are working on equations and fractions. The animal husbandry class is doing its judging before cold weather begins. The members judged sheep at George Clement's, horses at Henry Koelling's, and hogs at the railroad yards. The crops class has made several trips to study weeds. It is also taking up a brief study of wheat. The public speaking classes, during the past two weeks, have been presenting five-minute talks on topics of current interest. A ping-pong table has been installed in the high school. A ping-pong tournament, sponsored by the Hi-Y, is scheduled for the near future. The convocation committee held their first meeting last Tuesday. Plans for future convocations were discussed. The Junior high English III division, in their study of a unit on news writing, have made a sample mimeographed newspaper. Marge Smith was acting editor and Dick Koupal was news editor. Plans are being made to continue publishing a monthly Junior High paper throughout the year. A faculty picnic was held last Tuesday at Anderson's Island. It was given by the old teachers in honor of the new faculty members. New seating arrangements have been made in several high school rooms. All seats have been placed so that the light is at the student's back. The Juniors are ahead in the sale of activity stamp books with a total of nineteen paid up and seven partially paid up books. Although the senior class has the largest enrollment, it has the least paid up stamp books. Three hundred new fiction books have been purchased for the library. Although the books have not as yet been catalogued, they will soon be ready for the student's use.

NO CLOCK WATCHERS NOW.

What time is it? Wait for the bells; they still ring even if the clocks are not running. Due to the fact that the storage battery is about worn out, it was necessary to throw the circuit that runs the classroom clocks in the North Building. The master clock, the telephones, and the class bells, still operate. The present battery is over three years old and can not carry the full load. Custodians Wolfe and Hatfield first noticed a couple of broken plates and thought that they were causing the trouble. Local battery men found the whole battery in poor condition and not worth repairing. While a new battery will be ordered at once, it is a special type and will take some time before it can be installed. Until the new battery arrives the students and teachers will have to go by the bells or their private time pieces. Arabella—A man proposed to me while he was drunk last night. Agatha—Ho, ho, ho, ha. Pardon me, but it's so funny. A man proposing to an old maid like you. Arabella—Just a minute, Agatha! I'll have you understand that I am no longer an old maid.

EDITORIALS

What did you think of the school spirit displayed at the football game last Friday? If, as the special morning convocation suggested, we thought we were attending the funeral of Scotia, it seems that we were just a little previous with our mourning. At any rate, a few good yells and songs would have livened things up considerably. We have the band to play for us, there are a large number of students to cheer for us and we have cheerleaders who would appreciate a little co-operation on the part of the student body. With all of these, what are we waiting for?

From the noise, we would say that the Girl Reserves enjoyed themselves immensely at their party Friday night. As a matter of fact, it sounded more like an Indian massacre than a young ladies party. Just another little incident which proves that O. H. S. students can yell if they want to.

Do you appreciate the freedom in the halls? We are sure you do and the abuse of this privilege is due mostly to thoughtlessness. We know it's true that you can probably slide down to convocation or to class in one minute flat, but there isn't any fire. And by the way, there is still a great deal of room for improvement in our fire drill practice, don't you think?

The Oracle staff has not, as yet, been definitely organized; so there is still time to put in your application for a position on the staff.

A PENNY FOR YOUR THOUGHTS—

We asked these questions at random. "What do you think of the school spirit displayed at the football game last Friday?" "I don't care to make a statement because I think they will snap out of it."—Beulah McGinnis. "Oh, it's O. K."—Pauline Barta. "Wasn't worth a darn. Couldn't even hear it."—LaVerne Nelson. "It was rotten, terrible. There weren't half enough students there."—Barbara Dale. "Didn't think they cheered half enough."—Alma Hansen. "Couldn't even hear it."—Harold Haskell. "Could have been a hot better but an improvement over last year."—Virginia Weekes. "Sounds pretty good on the other side of the field."—Dorothy Ann Zikmund. "Wasn't any good."—Charles Mella. "Couldn't even hear it half the time."—Lorraine Haas. "The Ord team has more fight than ever before."—Scotia man.

This Week's Sponsor is Dr. Glen D. Aule, O. D.

A man always closely identified with Ord and its schools is Dr. Glen D. Aule, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. D. Aule. He was born in Ord, was graduated from the Ord high school in 1912, and has lived here almost continuously since. Naturally, Dr. Aule has the interests of Ord high school at heart and welcomed the opportunity to co-operate by serving as a sponsor of the Oracle.

GLEN D. AULE, O. D.

As many boys do, Glen Aule graduated from Ord high without knowing exactly what profession he desired to adopt but a brief working interval in a Wolbach drug store showed him that he was very much interested in optometry, so 1914 found him graduating from the Northern Illinois College of Optometry at Chicago with the degree, Doctor of Optics.

His profession has remained a hobby as well as a business with Dr. Aule since that time and he is at present a member of the Central Nebraska Optometric association, the Nebraska Optometric Society and the American Optometric association. For the past four years he has been a member of the Optometric Extension program and has invented and improved a machine for eye treatment. His interest in and rare knowledge of the science of optometry is a vital part of Dr. Aule's life and hundreds of people owe their present excellent eyesight to the glasses he has fitted and the eye treatments and exercises he has prescribed.

After his graduation from college Glen, and also his brother A. J. Aule, were employed for a short time in the W. J. Taylor jewelry store in Ord which they purchased in 1914, it being the forerunner of the present Aule Bros. store. Since that time Dr. Aule has taken an active part in everything contributing to the welfare of Ord. For the past four years he has been secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of this city and as such has labored for Ord and its people faithfully.

Always deeply interested in music, most of Ord citizenry will be surprised to know Dr. Aule has never had a music lesson in his life, although he has long played in the Ord band and also directed it for eleven seasons, as well as taking a leading part in musical circles of our city. He has also directed the Methodist choir for many years, his singing lessons consisting solely of childhood ones from his father and mother. Asked about how he filled such directorial positions without specialized training, he answered: "Just by nerve and awkwardness I guess!"

Another bond with Ord schools was the fact that Dr. Aule married Miss Lillian Jones, daughter of C. S. Jones, superintendent of the Ord schools for a number of years. There are four children, the eldest, Arthur, now being a student at Hastings college after taking a leading part in all high school activities until his graduation last spring, including two years as editor of the high school newspaper. Dorothy is now in high school and is a sophomore this year, while two younger children, Irene and Carolyn, are still in the grades. Those who know Dr. Aule know that under his quiet exterior is concealed the ability to do plenty of hard work, and that he never shirks any task which will end in betterment to Ord, whether it be for our schools, our musical life, our Chamber of Commerce, or something in his own line of business. If you are not acquainted with him, step into his store some day soon. He will be glad to meet you, whether you come with favors or hard work.

Band Uniforms May Come By Thanksgiving

The local American Legion reports much progress in its campaign to raise money to outfit the Ord High School Band. The Legionnaires have been working on this all summer and believe that they see the goal now. It is thought that it may be possible to get every thing cleared up and the uniforms here for the last home football games. There are many other events that will call for the uniformed band throughout the school year and the years to follow. The first active work on the fund started during the summer. An artist program was given the first of August which netted a nice sum and started the movement off in a big way. This program has been reported in detail by the Ord Quiz, but for the high school students a part is repeated. Professor August Molzer of the University of Nebraska, Mrs. Molzer, Professor Harrison, also of the University of Nebraska, Orchestra director Arthur Babich of Lincoln, assisted by pupils and members of their families, combined their talents to make up a real treat for the music lovers. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fuson, music instructors in New York City, were in Ord at the time of the program and kindly assisted with a few numbers. All in all the program presented was something unusual and a rare treat for communities so far from the music schools and metropolitan centers.

Since the first or opening event of the campaign the Legion and the friends of the movement have been working and planning to complete the work in time for the football season. Definite plans for a second program have been made and will soon be announced. Just what this program is to be is still a secret that only those working on the committee know. If it has the Legion backing it the public is assured of something worth while and worth the money. The Ord High School is very fortunate in that the Legion has taken this interest in one of its organizations. It bespeaks a real desire to help the youth of the community. No organization in the entire school needs this boosting more than the band. The spirit behind the move is, however, one of boosting and aiding the entire school and its work. With such cooperation from this and other civic organizations the Ord schools will continue to give the kind of training that every parent would wish his children to have.

Stamp Books Admit To Coming Events

Are you an activity stamp book holder? If you have not as yet purchased a stamp book, just see all the coming programs which you are going to miss. "The Wonders of Liquid Air", a popular scientific demonstration will be given by Mr. James Williams, October 4. Among other things, he will demonstrate the frozen mercury hammer, the liquid air machine, kerosene oil candle, and a spectacular chemical display. On January 14, the Cackle Concert Company, under the personal direction of William Earle Cackle, an Orpheum Vaudeville Artist, will present in the high school auditorium an evening's entertainment consisting of charming melodies, artistic ensembles, popular classics, and fascinating harmonies. John W. Frye, a distinguished artist and magician, will present on January 17 a show of mystery and fun. Shooting through a girl, disappearing doves, and the torture stocks are a few of the many acts which he will perform.

Besides the above mentioned outstanding events, there will be a Junior class play, one-act plays by the public speaking department, inter-city basketball and soccer tournaments, home basketball games, and four more home football games.

"See here, Balder," he tried to speak with friendly indifference. "Be a little more careful when you're throwing rubbish into the whirl. You might hurt somebody."
"What are you in the way for?" The words conveyed more than their obvious meaning, and were accompanied by a sound, half laugh, half snarl. Over Balder's broad, blank countenance something passed like a cloud, obliterating even his purpose; but Wilton instinctively felt that he was in greater danger than he had ever been in his life. Life! It might be measured only in moments now.
Then a terrible fear. Had this man been sent to kill them both—had he already killed Berenice?
He tried to think calmly and to decipher the black shadows on that huge face.
Balder said: "Let go that end. I'll give it another throw."
"You let go your end. I am nearest the stream."
For answer Balder's hand gripped the tree trunk tighter. Wilton noticed the bits of tinzel still wound about one dry stump of a limb.
"It's time that Christmas tree is thrown away," he said, realizing in the same instant that such comments could not but make the situation worse.
"It's my business, not yours. Turn around now."
"What for?" Wilton asked, trying to speak carelessly.
"Do as you're told," Balder roared.
Wilton's thoughts raced on. To make a sudden dart for liberty was impossible. The fellow could overtake him with three swings of his great legs; only strategy availed now.
Balder seated himself on a fallen limb, and, in this position, so steep was the cliff, he seemed almost hanging above Wilton's head. The latter thought best to drop the base; and he let it down gently so as not to jerk the trunk out of Balder's hand.
"Pleasant spot," Wilton remarked, "though it must have looked different the day the Bracebridge children were drowned."
A grunting voice came from above.
"This ain't an easy place to leave!"
"I mean to leave it."
"You do—do you?"
"Certainly. I must get back before dark."
"Suppose you never went back?"
"What do you mean?"
"Suppose you stayed here?"
"I have no intention of staying here." He spoke firmly, but his inner terror revealed to him at last what connection lay between his own imminent danger and a long-ago tragedy. The withered tree was the link—again to be an instrument of death. "Throw in your tree when you choose. I am going home."
Balder's laughter, echoed even above the roar of the fall. "I weigh two hundred and ten pounds. I am six feet three in my socks. My muscle is iron. And you—you are just a schoolroom plant. You don't deserve to live, you don't!"
"And maybe I don't deserve to die any—more than—" he paused, then hurled his boomerang—"the Bracebridge children. Am I to have the same execution?"

He knew he had signed his own death warrant, but at least he could bring for one instant into stark daylight the suspected crime whose shadow lay along the corridors of Lostland academy and haunted its decaying rooms. The great face above him grew quite livid for an instant, but no rebound of denial came from his lips.
"How much is he going to give you for this job?"
The boldness of the question disturbed even Balder's poise. His snarl came slowly, uncertainly. "He don't make no bargains. He ain't open and square like that. He hints—walks all around his design, never comes out bold and free with it. But he pays high for little jobs—moving trunks or books—five hundred for moving his books after—"
"After you struck one of the Bracebridge children with this weapon and cost the lives of the others," Wilton finished deliberately. He knew he had taken away forever his chance for life, but in this last grim hour it was a satisfaction to wring out the truth; and it comforted him to add to the indictment. "Your master, Haskell, never wanted to go with those four young people to protect them, but to steal up behind them as you did. He urged them not to tie themselves together in this Alpine game they were so fond of playing—he urged them—not for their safety; he knew their aversion to him, and knew they'd do exactly the opposite of what he told them."
Balder regarded him with round, ugly eyes in which a tiny gleam of admiration flickered. "You're a psycho—what? Mebbe there's something in it. Mebbe it's gospel truth."
"And maybe it's gospel truth that when Jerry found you in the vegetable garden you had beaten him there by about twenty minutes, I calculate. And maybe it's gospel truth when he said, 'All four drowned,' you knew right away it was children—not sheep! You didn't ask one question!"
"You d-d spy, you! I knew you've been spyin' on us ever since the first afternoon when you walked in the evergreen walk with your cloak flyin'—like a great bat."
"You talk as if the establishment down there wouldn't set anybody spying." The psychologist in him was uppermost now, obliterating even his sense of danger in the effort to track down the curious states of mind of Gordon Haskell and his confederate. "And when I find an old Christmas tree in its stand carefully preserved behind a locked door, I know that fear is back of its being there. You were afraid to burn it! Somebody might be looking on, and you were afraid they would see in your face that this tree is a horrible tree—a tree of death." Oh, a murderer is always seeing trifles as huge signposts. The universe is one great eye, and the eye is on him. You bring it down with its flag on—because you don't dare not to notice it when Jerry is with you. If you're careless toward that tree—if you leave it up here, its very look will tell some passer-by there's something wrong with it."
Balder grunted. "You know a lot—you do!"
"Yes—I know that undiscovered murderers can poison the very air about them. The infection of small-pox would be light in comparison. People weren't afraid of those figures. They were afraid of what they stood for—horror and a strange, hidden killing, and a wrecking of all the joy and innocence of life."
"Ya-ah! You've talked too much! You'll never talk again!" He rose slowly; then, with a spring like a jungle beast, he leaped for his prey. Wilton had already calculated that he had but one chance for life—to face his foe, when he sprang, to dodge him with the hundredth chance of himself hurling Balder into the whirlpool. As the huge creature jumped, Wilton dodged. Balder had over-calculated the width of the ledge and landed on its extreme ice-covered edges. He slipped, and for a fraction of time performed a strange, wild pirouette, his long arms like the huge wings of a sawmill in motion. Then, with a shriek that echoed and re-echoed between the black walls of the gorge, he plunged into the whirl. His great body was swung around and around like a cork for a moment, then disappeared. Shouts at the same moment reverberated above the roar of the fall.
"Wilton! Wilton!"
Wilton had suddenly sunk down on the rock, feeling faint, not really sure that Balder had been gulped down the black, icy throat of the whirl. He turned his head and saw Arthur and Jerry hurrying up.
"Thank God, we're not too late."
"Too late!" he pointed to the whirl. "He's gone—there's no getting him out of there now!"
"You don't want him out, do you?"
"He sprang at me—he meant to throw me in."
"That's plain enough. We saw it all! We came up like mad—nearly fell in ourselves once."
"How on earth did you track me up here?"

CORN-HOG PLAN VOTED DOWN BY BIG MAJORITY

Valley Co. Farmers Don't Want Crop Control in 1935 And Thereafter, They Say.

The United States department of agriculture held a little private election in Valley county Friday to determine whether or not farmers want the present corn-hog control plan continued into 1935 and thereafter, and although only about half of the county's producers voted the result was surprising to officials.

By their votes, Valley county farmers said Friday evening that they don't want corn and hog production limited in future years. They don't want any more of the benefit checks now coming in—all they want is the privilege of raising as much corn and as many hogs as they desire without government interference.

Two questions were voted on, the first being: "Do you favor an adjustment program dealing with corn and hogs in 1935?"

To this 238 farmers voted yes and 363 voted no.

The other question voted on in each township Friday was: "Do you favor a one-contract-per farm adjustment program dealing with grains and livestock, to become effective in 1936?"

Against this the vote was very emphatic, the result being 448 "no" ballots to only 89 who voted "yes."

Both this year's contract signers and non-signers were permitted to vote Friday and both signers and non-signers were emphatically against continuance of the crop control program. On question No. 1, as given above, 225 signers voted "yes" and 311 signers voted "no." The number of non-signers voting "yes" was 13 while 46 non-signers voted "no."

On question No. 2, 85 signers voted "yes" and 412 voted "no." Non-signers to the number of 4 voted "yes" and 48 voted "no."

In every township the vote was conducted by township committees, who first explained the purpose of the meeting and then called for discussion of the questions before taking a ballot. Heated discussion ensued in most meeting places, with a preponderance of argument against continuance of the corn-hog plan.

It is unfortunate that all producers did not attend these meetings Friday evening and vote their preference, for the vote is very inconclusive with less than half of the producers voting. There are at least 1,200 farms in Valley county, with about 900 contract signers, so with fewer than 600 votes being cast on these important questions it is impossible for officials to decide just how the big majority of farmers feel about it.

Many farmers say that the government should continue the corn loan plan but discontinue crop control efforts. This will not be done, according to Chester Davis, federal AAA head, who announced last week that no corn loans will be made by the government in 1935 unless a crop control program is in force. To loan money on corn without controlling production would be to duplicate the failure of the old farm board, Davis said.

All over the middle west sentiment is about evenly divided on whether the corn-hog plan should be continued in 1935. Kansas voted against it while Iowa, Illinois and Minnesota voted "yes" by small majorities. In Nebraska the vote is about even.

Mads Sorensen Dies As Auto Crash Victim

Mads Sorensen, 56-year-old former Ordite, passed away at Seaside hospital, Long Beach, Calif., Wednesday, Oct. 3, from the effects of injuries received three days previously when he was struck by an auto driven by Angelo C. Smith of Bakersfield.

He had been attending the wedding of his niece Myrna Sorensen to Nayville S. Kelliher of Santa Barbara and was crossing American Avenue in Long Beach on foot when the car driven by Smith struck him down. His injuries included a skull fracture, a broken left ankle and internal injuries. The accident was witnessed by his brother, Rudolph Sorensen, who did not know his brother was the victim.

An inquest into the accident was ordered by the Long Beach coroner and the driver of the car was ordered held by police. Besides his brother Rudolph, who also lived here until a few years ago, Mads is survived by four Nebraska brothers, Ulrich Sorensen of Berwyn, Soren Sorensen of fullen, Lawrence Sorensen of finden and J. M. Sorensen of Precont.

—Monday Mr. and Mrs. Ray helton left for their home in Walla Walla, Wash., after spending six weeks here with the latter's sisters, Madams Henry Norris and Guy Burdaws and several her relatives and friends.

Ord Girl Attending Grandma's College

Hastings College, which last year boasted its first grand-daughter among the student body, this year has 37 second generation students and two of the third generation of their family.

These students who were preceded in Hastings College by some member of their immediate families come from 16 different towns in Nebraska including Aurora, Atkinson, Cairo, Cozad, Grand Island, Hastings, Junita, Imperial, Lexington, Maywood, Minetara, Ord, Superior, Stapleton, St. Edward and Venango. Ten of them are seniors, three juniors, thirteen sophomores, and thirteen freshmen.

The two so-called grand-daughters are Miss Eloise Strever of Cozad and Miss Catherine Ollis of Ord. Miss Strever's grandmother, Mrs. Mary Dunton Watt, attended Hastings College in 1887, five years after the college was founded; while the grandmother of Miss Ollis, Mrs. Maude Gray Hastings, who died about a year ago at her home at Ord, attended the college in 1890. Miss Strever is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Strever of Cozad and Miss Ollis is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. M. Ollis of Ord.

Five of the 37 second generation students are so listed because a member of their family formerly attended Bellevue College which has now become merged with Hastings College.

ORD IS APPROVED FOR A FEDERAL NURSERY SCHOOL

Children 2 to 4 Years Old Will Be Eligible; Mrs. Frank An- derson Named Teacher.

Local school authorities have been notified that Ord is approved for a federal nursery school under the new FERA set-up. The complete set-up will be made in a few days. While all the regulations are not known, the general plan is for a fifty-fifty sharing of expense.

The local community must furnish the housing, heat, and equipment. The government pays for the staff, the food and general running expenses. Children from 2 to 4 years are eligible. Anyone having children of these ages should make application at once to Superintendent M. D. Bell for admission. It is hoped that 40 to 50 youngsters will be enrolled and as it will not be possible to take all children of these ages early application will aid in getting your children in.

The program provides play, rest and lunch, all under the best supervision. A nurse will be in constant attendance to safeguard the health of the children. Mrs. Frank Andersen will direct the entire program. Two assistants will assist her in the work. At present Mrs. Andersen is in Lincoln getting special instruction for the work.

This project offers a wonderful opportunity for preschool children. It will be necessary for the community to aid in putting it over if the enterprise is to succeed. As stated above, the equipment, housing and heat must be supplied locally. The board of education is furnishing the place in the south school and the equipment will have to be supplied by the town.

Some of the equipment causing a problem is that of cots and blankets. Anyone having a camp cot not in use or blankets that they can spare are urged to loan them to the school. A stove is also needed. The success of the school hinges on the support of the local community, so if you have any equipment that you can spare, call the superintendent's office and it will be sent for or send it to school with some pupil. All loaned materials will be marked and returned at the end of the school session.

B'well Farmer Found Dead in His Pasture

Monday morning about 3:30 the dead body of Chris Miller, 70-year-old farmer who lived eight miles north of Burwell, was found in his pasture. Mr. Miller had apparently been dead about three days and the body had been mutilated by coyotes and crows. It was found by two neighbors, Julius Sewell and Alfred Craib. The coroner at Burwell examined the body and said death was due to natural causes, therefore no inquest was held.

A highly respected farmer, Mr. Miller is mourned by two sons living in Garfield county, Albert and Elmer, and six children living elsewhere. His wife passed away some years ago.

4 CANDIDATES GET ON BALLOT BY PETITIONS

John Bremer, Anton Adamek, E. F. Thompson and T. Sor- ensen Seeking Offices.

When Valley county voters go to the polls at the general election Nov. 8 they will notice on their ballots the names of four men, aspirants for various county offices, who were not nominated in regular manner at the primary in August. These men are John Bremer, Anton Adamek, E. F. Thompson and Thorwald Sorensen, who have become candidates by petition.

The law provides that, after the primary, candidates for county offices may get their names on the ballot by circulating petitions and securing at least 200 signatures. Each of these men has done this.

Mr. Bremer, prominent Enterprise township farmer, is a "By Petition" candidate for the office of county assessor. His petition, bearing 225 signatures, was filed last week. Though he is normally a republican, no party designation will appear on the ballot after Bremer's name. Instead, according to law, the designation will simply be "By Petition," which applies to the other three petition candidates as well. A. R. Brox is the republican nominee for assessor, A. W. Pierce the democrat.

Anton Adamek has filed a petition bearing over 200 signatures for the office of Valley county supervisor, Dist. No. 1. He is normally a democrat. Joe J. Jablonski is the democrat nominee in this district while Jason Abernethy is the republican nominee.

E. F. Thompson of Arcadia will be a "By Petition" candidate for supervisor, Dist. No. 7, as the result of petitions circulated last week by Burt Sell and others. S. V. Hansen, present chairman of the board, is the republican nominee for this office and J. A. Braden, former supervisor and board chairman, is the democratic choice.

Thorwald Sorensen, of Ord, has filed petitions placing his name on the ballot for the office of county surveyor. The present surveyor, Rollin C. Ayres, is the nominee of both the democratic and republican parties.

Cochran, Coffee Will Hold Meetings in Ord

Roy L. Cochran, democratic candidate for governor, will speak in Ord at 4:00 p. m. Saturday, Oct. 13, under auspices of the Valley county democratic committee. Cochran is making his campaign on a "support Roosevelt" platform and while here will outline the various governmental duties which interlock with federal activities. The meeting will be held in the court house square if weather is suitable.

Harry B. Coffee, democratic candidate for Congress, will speak in Ord at 8:00 p. m., Tuesday, Oct. 16, announces Ralph W. Norman, chairman of the demo central committee. The Bohemian hall will probably be the scene of this meeting.

Republican 'School' Campaign Starting

Republican candidates for Valley county offices opened their "school house campaign" Tuesday evening with a meeting at the National Hall, with a nice attendance of voters of that community present. Candidates who spoke briefly included Marlon Cushing, Fred Swanson, Alvin Blessing, A. R. Brox, George Satterfield, Geo. S. Round, John P. Misko and Harry J. McBeth. They were introduced by Clarence M. Davis, chairman of the county committee. E. C. James, committee chairman, was also present.

Entertainment provided, besides talks by candidates, included Vocal solos by John Misko, J. Edgar Mauer and John Haskel, and an interesting chalk talk by George B. Clement.

Republicans will hold another school house meeting at the Brick school house northeast of Ord tomorrow evening, Friday, Oct. 12. Other meeting dates and places include North Loup, Oct. 16, Davis Creek, Oct. 19, Elyria, Oct. 23, and Arcadia, Oct. 26. The public is invited to attend all these meetings, get acquainted with the candidates and hear discussion on the issues of the coming election.

Fire in McBeth House.
The fire alarm sounded Saturday afternoon and the department was called to the M. McBeth house in west Ord. It has been occupied by the B. J. Peterson family, who were moving out and were burning trash in the furnace. Burning paper lodged on the roof and started a small blaze, which was quickly extinguished.

Joe Cetak Dies Wednesday.
Joe Cetak, long-time employee of the Pecocka & Perlinki meat market, passed away yesterday at an Ord hospital after a long illness. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Johnson, Bass Will Make Talks Here

Richard O. Johnson, republican candidate for attorney general of Nebraska and Dr. T. W. Bass, candidate of the same party for state treasurer, will speak in Ord Wednesday, Oct. 17 at 10:00 a. m., it is announced by E. C. James, county chairman. They are traveling in a loud speaker equipped car and will talk out of doors if the weather is suitable. Johnson and Bass speak at Burwell at 5:00 the same day and go from Ord to Greeley, where they will speak at 11:30.

Ord Hotel Is Leased

Hotel Ord is under new management starting Monday of this week, the new managers being Mr. and Mrs. Richard Teague, of St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. Teague is the former Miss Thelma Partridge, daughter of Mrs. Amollia Partridge, owner of the hotel. Mrs. Teague was associated with her mother in the management of the hotel until her marriage a few months ago. Her husband is a veteran traveling salesman and knows hotel management from the guest's angle. He and his wife have leased the hotel from Mrs. Partridge and it is predicted that they will be eminently successful in pleasing the traveling public.

MRS. G. M'ANULTY DIES OCTOBER 6 AT SCOTIA HOME

Beloved Loup Valley Pioneer To Her Reward; Ord Friends Serve As Pallbearers.

Scotia, Oct. 9.—(Special)—Lillian E. Moore was born February 20, 1860, at Burlingame, Kas., and passed away at her home near Scotia, October 6, 1934, at the age of 74 years, 7 months and 16 days. Her parents were Mr. and Mrs. David H. Moore. Her mother was a direct descendant of Miles Standish.

When one year of age she was taken to Iowa by her parents where they remained until 1873 when they came to this community.

On March 24, 1880, she was married to George W. McAnulty in the house which has been their home for many years. To this union were born four children: Fred M. of Wyoming, Glenn S., who died at the age of four years, John L. of Seattle, Washington and Mrs. Louise Rasmussen of Wyoming. The home was a happy one. For fifty years she glorified in her family. She was a tender and loving mother and wife.

Their home was extended to several young people other than their own. Some remained for several years. They came to know it as their own.

Mrs. McAnulty was present at the organization of the Scotia Methodist church and shortly after she united with the church, for over sixty years remaining an active member. The church was a major interest in her life and her faith helped carry her through the crises of the years. She loved her church and wrote its history. Through her interest a marker was placed on the site of the church's organization. She was also a member of the Eastern Star and for many years was active in the Woman's club.

Her death leaves behind a loving husband, three children, one brother, Dr. Milan S. Moore of Los Angeles, Calif., and one grandson, Keith McAnulty of Seattle, Washington. There are many other relatives and a host of friends.

The Scotia community loses a pioneer, the church its oldest member in years of membership, the home a precious wife and mother. The rich heritage of a noble Christian personality is ours, and Heaven receives a Saint.

Funeral services were held from the Scotia Methodist church here Monday afternoon, with Rev. L. A. Moore in charge, assisted by Rev. G. A. Randall, former pastor here, of Ravenna. Interment was in Mt. Hope cemetery here. Pallbearers were Crawford Mortensen, Ord; Claude Kennedy, Burwell; A. L. Hepp, Greeley; W. B. Weekes, Ord; A. H. Babcock, North Loup; B. W. Ammerman, Scotia.

J. C. Hayes Is Dead.
J. C. Hayes, for many years a livestock dealer and horse buyer in Ord, passed away last Thursday in Long Beach, Calif. He is mourned by his widow and three children, Wilmer Hayes, Seattle, Wash., Alpha Hayes, Modesto, Calif., and Mrs. Arthur Kaiser, Oids, Canada. When the Hayes family lived in Ord they occupied the building where the Quiz office is located now.

Attend Highway Convention.
A convention of the Nebraska Good Roads association was held yesterday at the Clark hotel in Hastings. Delegates from the Valley county association included Henry Geweke, Charles Faudt, Ellsworth Ball, Gould B. Flagg and Rollin C. Ayres.

F. M. CUSHING, 86, ONE OF COUNTY'S REAL PIONEERS

Father of State Representative Died October 3 As Result Of a Fractured Hip.

F. M. Cushing, 86 years old and one of the real pioneers of central Nebraska, passed away last Wednesday evening, October 3, 1934, at the farm home of his son, Rep. Marlon J. Cushing, east of Ord. Mr. Cushing had enjoyed remarkably good health for a man his age but two days before his death he suffered a broken hip and it was the shock of this injury that caused his death.

Born Dec. 7, 1847 on a farm near Ulysses, Potter county, Pennsylvania Francis Marlon Cushing grew to manhood there and came to Nebraska in 1872, taking up a homestead two miles north of Ord. With a dug-out for his bachelor home he spent the first few years of his stay hunting, trapping and assisting some of the pioneer ranchers.

In 1876 he went to the Black Hills of South Dakota, locating at Custer where he was engaged by the North brothers, Major Frank and Captain Lute, to assist in some of their various business enterprises. Later with Abe Baker, Josh Eaton and Buckskin Charlie White, gold mining operations were carried out on Potato Gulch, 15 miles north of Spearfish. The 3-mile ditch which they laboriously dug in order to lead the water from Beaver Creek over to their sluiceway may still be seen.

In 1881 he returned to the old home near Ulysses, Pa., and it was there that on Dec. 13, 1883 he was united in marriage to Kate A. Bassett. They began housekeeping in Ord where the family resided until 1903, when they moved to the farm east of Ord. There are three sons, Frank L., Marlon Jay and Herbert Lewis. Marlon is state representative in this, the 77th Nebraska legislative district, and Herbert L. has the honor to be deputy state superintendent of schools and lives at Lincoln.

Mr. Cushing was a carpenter by trade and worked for a number of years with the bridge building firm of Means & Tully, which built many of the first bridges in central Nebraska. While working as a bridge builder Mr. Cushing was employed in the construction of the first wooden bridge over the Niobrara river at Valentine, a structure which was used by the Chicago & Northwestern railway until replaced by a steel bridge a few years ago.

He held throughout his life a philosophy that "each must do his share lest some of the group be required to do more than their share" and this it was that until almost the day of his passing he found some little task about the farm at which he might busy himself.

Mr. Cushing had a large part in the organization of the First Baptist church of Ord and served for many years as a deacon and trustee. He also served as treasurer of the church. He took an intense interest in public affairs, although never aspiring to hold office. He held very definite opinions on moral questions and fought without compromise for the things in which he believed. He was deeply religious and his rugged championing of his principles to which he adhered won the respect and admiration of all who knew him.

Funeral services were held at 10:00 a. m. Saturday morning at the Sowl chapel in Ord, Rev. L. M. Real of the First Presbyterian church being the minister in charge. Music was furnished by a male quartet composed of E. H. Petty, J. R. Stoltz, James B. Ollis and J. Edgar Mauer, with Mrs. Ollis at the piano. Pallbearers were Oscar Collins, Royal Bailey, Frank Johnson, C. J. Mortensen, Archie Cook and Leo Long, all sons of pioneer friends and neighbors of the deceased. Interment was in Ord cemetery.

Pheasant Season To Open Friday; Duck Season October 16

Valley county scattergun enthusiasts enter into their annual period of glory tomorrow when the pheasant season opens, closely followed by the waterfowl season which opens next Tuesday morning. But the pheasants are scarce and reports from the north indicate that the duck crop is much below normal also.

There is scarcely a cornfield in Valley county so pheasant hunters will have to take to the river bottoms and the hilly canyons for their sport. Only the most energetic hunters will succeed this year, for birds are far from plentiful.

The pheasant season opens at 7:00 a. m. Friday, October 12 and the duck season at Sunrise Tuesday, October 16. Duck hunters must buy federal stamps from postoffices at a cost of $1.00 each, besides having the usual state license.

Co. Agent Question On Ballot Nov. 6th

Whether Valley county will have a county farm bureau in years to come will be determined at the general election Nov. 6 when voters will have the opportunity of saying "yes" or "no" to the question: "Shall an appropriation be made annually from the general funds of Valley county for support of agricultural extension work?"

Assurance that the question will go on the ballot was given last week when petitions bearing over 800 signatures were filed with County Clerk Kilma. The law requires the signatures of 20 per cent of farm operators in the county to get the question on the ballot. Since there are approximately 1,200 farm operators in Valley county, many more signed the petition than were needed.

If a majority votes "no" at the election it will mean discontinuance of all women's project work, 4-H club work, vaccinating, poultry culling, and other activities of the farm bureau. There will continue to be an agricultural extension office, however, for administration of crop control programs, and other federal agriculture activities.

S. S. Parade Sat'day Seen By Thousands

Several thousand people were seen on Saturday afternoon to see the big parade of Sunday for several weeks. The weather was ideal and one of the largest crowds of the season lined the streets for blocks as the parade passed. While business houses did not close for the event it is safe to say that most people were on the sidewalks while the parade was going by.

Members of the Sunday schools, estimated at about 500, met at the grade school building at 1:30 and began to form in line. A group of high school students from the school band led the parade. The band was drum major and took the parade in a most creditable manner. The parade was halted at each of the four corners of the square while the band entertained the people with music.

Five Sunday schools officially took part. The Evangelical school of Miles Valley had several floats and carloads of people. One of their floats which caused much favorable comment had several persons presenting a tableau, depicting the Bible story of the Good Samaritan.

The United Brethren school had several classes taking part. One interesting group was the primary classes wearing crowns and streamers.

The Presbyterian school had a large number of floats. The Friendly Indian class had one displaying an Indian wigwam with several Indians standing or sitting about it. A white preacher was teaching them from the Bible. The Pioneer class, composed of junior high girls and boys, had a covered wagon, their members equipped with dogs and guns and dressed in typical pioneer garb. Other classes had equally interesting floats.

One of the most impressive floats was furnished by the Christian school. There was a huge cross made from trunks of trees. A young lady dressed in a long, flowing, white robe was clinging to the cross. A placard read, "Simply to Thy Cross I Cling."

The Methodist school was well represented with floats and classes walking or riding horses, depicting the spirit of Sunday schools and churches. One department carried banners representing the books of the Bible. A class of Junior High girls paraded in a large float of farmers, ranging in age from old folks to the baby in her buggy. They were on the way to Sunday school and carried a large banner which read, "We Can Go to Sunday School, Why Can't You?" One float represented "Ye Old Time Choir." Another, a group of church people gathered around a small organ which was played and religious songs were sung.

The parade which extended about six blocks was said to have been the largest and best of its kind ever given by the Ord Sunday schools. The next day, Sunday, was Rally Day, and all the churches report a large increase in attendance. This is the first event of the Fall Recovery Crusade put on by the churches, which continues for six weeks.

Married at Bartlett

Mr. and Mrs. Gus P. Wetzel, of North Loup, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Neva M., to Greeley L. Gebhardt, a son of Mrs. Mary Gebhardt of Scotia. The marriage took place at Bartlett Sept. 1. Mr. Gebhardt served three years in the U. S. Marines, being stationed in the Philippines until Jan. 1, 1934. He and his bride will move onto a farm next spring.

—Mr. and Mrs. M. McBeth of Spalding were in Ord Monday. The latter came over Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Guy LeMasters. Mr. and Mrs. McBeth left Monday for the western part of the state.

HOLDREGE WA RALLY ATTEN BY 20 THOUS

Big No. Loup Valley Dele Hears Norris Say Nebra Treated Unfairly.

More than 20,000 people whom several hundred were the North Loup valley, at the monster mass meeting here Holdrege last Friday to protest against PWA disallowance power and irrigation projects in Nebraska. Principal speaker included Senator George W. Norris and J. E. Lawrence.

A parade more than two long was the first feature of day. Each of the six Nebraska projects disapproved by the PWA first came the Tri-County delegation, then the North Loup, an other four projects—Middle Blue Creek, Frenchman and Arickaree—were well represented.

About 100 people from the Loup valley marched in this parade four abreast, headed by a in uniform and bearing a calling upon Senator Norris to induce PWA officials to approve project. All North Loup wore red hat-bands and the gator made a very pleasing appearance.

The parade marched past a viewing stand upon which Senator Norris and other dignitaries were seated and wound up at Holdrege auditorium, where mass meeting was held. This auditorium seats 3,000 people it is estimated that at least heard the addresses, as the seats were utilized, and all standing was filled. A loud speaker broadcast the addresses crowd of several thousand at ing outside the auditorium.

Marlon J. Cushing, of Ord, scheduled to act as chairman because of the death of his father the place was filled by Paul laugh, of Hastings. The speaker was Mayor Anderson Holdrege, who welcomed guests, after which C. A. So sen, former attorney general, explained the provisions of S. F. the law under which power irrigation districts are organized. James E. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star, made a wonderful talk in which he reaffirmed faith in Nebraska and its people and explained our great need irrigation and power development. Always a great orator, Mr. Lawrence made the best speech of career at Holdrege, say the people who heard him.

Principal speaker was, course, Senator Norris, Nebraska senior senator at Washington. Senator Norris said that Nebraska has been unfairly treated by PWA. When the public program was first decided Senator Norris said, he believed PWA board would be absolutely impartial but since then he had to change his mind. Members are engineers who worked all their lives for public trust companies and they are influenced by the power trust an entrenched capital, which is reason no projects in Nebraska have been approved except the lumbus and Sutherland, which popularly thought to be contrary by the power trust even though they are being built with public money.

In no uncertain terms, Sen Norris promised to do all he could to bring about approval of the projects repressed at Holdrege and said that he might demand a congressional investigation of the PWA.

The entire Holdrege mee was a powerful demonstration power and irrigation development in Nebraska and is bound to the eyes of Congress, President Roosevelt and the nation conditions existing here. No Loup project officials are pleased at the success of the meeting and believe it will ultimately result in approval of our project.

Again It's the Season for Big Breakfasts

Toast, coffee and a glass of fruit juice may be an acceptable breakfast when the thermometer is doing daily gyrations between 90 and 115 but when frosty nights appear a breakfast like that doesn't hit the spot. When it's chilly every person needs more energy producing foods. To be brief, for breakfast you want SOMETHING TO EAT.

The season for big breakfasts is here again and will be for several months to come. Bacon and eggs, fried ham, pork chops, fried potatoes, griddle cakes, hot cereals—all of these are proper breakfast ingredients these cool mornings.

We can supply tasty home-cured or packing house bacon and ham at most attractive prices. Everyone knows the quality and economy of our fresh meats. Let us help you get breakfast tomorrow morning.

meetings beginning Sunday, Oct. 14 under the leadership of Rev. W. W. Underkofler, well known evangelist of Lincoln, Neb. Rev. Underkofler has had wide experience in both the pastorate and in the evangelic field. He conducted a meeting in this community seven years ago. Meetings will be held in the Zion Evangelical church. Sunday services will begin at 10:45 a. m. and 8:00 p. m., each week night at 7:45 except Saturday night.

For the first fifteen minutes of each week night service, stereoscopic slides will be shown. These slides will illustrate religious subjects, cartoons, and hymns.

The whole Christian church to-day is confronted with and challenged by a crisis in which the whole of civilization is deeply involved. The crises is not only economic and political but spiritual.

We believe that the church has an answer to the challenge of the world's tragic needs; hence the spiritual crusade in our own community. Plan to attend as many of the services as possible, you will find them helpful.

Rev. C. Wantz, pastor of the United Brethren church.

Rev. C. E. Nichols, pastor of the Evangelical church.

North Loup News

A number of North Loup folks, early settlers and friends of the McAnulty family were in attendance Monday afternoon at the funeral of Mrs. McAnulty at the M. E. church in Scotia. Attending were Chas. Rood, Ruth Creager, who was at one time employed in the McAnulty home, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Babcock, Mrs. Jessie Babcock and Mrs. A. L. Willoughby and Thelma.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Thomas accompanied a load of young people to the Epworth Rally at Arcadia Friday evening.

Old settlers of Riverdale attended the funeral of Mrs. McAnulty at Scotia.

Rev. and Mrs. Stephens entertained very pleasantly at an Epworth League social in the parlors of the M. E. church Monday evening. Eighteen young people were present. Preceding the social hour the League elected its new cabinet for the year. Miss Carmen Weber, grade school teacher here, will act as president, Melvin Cornell, first vice-president, Berdine Ingerson, second vice-president, Everett Catlin, third vice president, Kathryn Chadwick fourth; La Vern Noyes, secretary-treasurer; Helen Marie Shineman, pianist, Mrs. Stephens served a dainty luncheon.

Parents and friends of the North Loup schools should make a special effort to be present at the second meeting of P. T. A. at the high school auditorium next Tuesday evening. The program which sounds very interesting is in charge of the school faculty. Among the numbers presented will be a one act play, a book review by Coach Thorpe, two violin numbers by Miss Winifred Pettit. Reserve Tuesday night for P. T. A.

Mrs. Florence Hutchins was hostess on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 3 to the Fortnightly Study Club. Nearly a full attendance answered to roll call which comprised each lady's preference of a visit to a foreign country. Australia with its varied peculiarities of animal and vegetable life, its people and their government etc., was the subject of study. A piano solo was rendered by LaVern Hutchins, small son of the hostess. Guests were Madams Gladys Christensen, Fern Maxson and Louise Brennick. Dainty refreshments were served at the social hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hurley with a grandson of Milton, Wis., were week end guests of Mr. Hurley's sister and his niece, aunt Mary Clement and Clara C. Holmes. They were enroute to Riverside, Cal., where they will spend the winter with a son, Rev. Loy Hurley and family. Rev. Hurley is pastor of the Baptist church there.

Accompanying Valley county's band to the irrigation project meeting at Holdrege Friday were Chas. Glen and Dell Barber, Harry Gillespie, Merrill and Ivan Anderson and Samuel Sample.

The public demonstration of this city's Sabbath school in a parade Saturday evening was both novel and interesting. It was a beautiful October evening and afforded a nice opportunity for social contact. Revs. Stephens and Warren gave their large crowd of listeners some timely talks and the singing was refreshing and inspiring.

It has been learned that the elderly couple, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Simmerman, who were killed by a hit and run driver recently near Comstock were an aunt and uncle of Lewis Van Ness of District 42. Every pupil receives a perfect attendance stamp, besides a monthly stamp for special duties.

This month the stamps are given to pupils who stand in class when reciting.

The third and fourth grades are finishing the study of "The Duel." They are going to make calico cats and singing dogs which are going to be stuffed.

The 5th and 6th language class are memorizing "Excelsior" by Longfellow.

Each pupil has an individual sheet with a boy or girl pasted on, with strings extending. For every excellent reading lesson a red balloon is pasted on, for a good lesson a yellow one, and for a poor lesson a black one.

A large cardboard with small cars along one side for each pupil has been made. Every time a perfect spelling lesson is had a mile is pasted on. A race is on.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

The full extent of drought damage to trees, bushes and vines will not be known until next spring. A dry winter will kill many trees that are now alive, unless they are given water.

Winter protection for raspberries, blackberries, grapes and other fruits is easier to provide. Such fruits are covered with dirt, straw, or coarse manure. The canes are bent over in one direction and held down with clods. A plowed furrow is then thrown over them. This is best done before the ground is frozen, yet after all danger of warm weather is past.

Grapes are pruned, bent over, pegged down, and covered with a few inches of soil. Protection from drying out seems to be more important with grapes than avoidance of low winter temperatures. Grapes are severely damaged every year, unless given this protection.

Black raspberries and blackberries are more resistant to cold than other cane fruits. Black raspberries can be raised in three years out of five without any protection other than that afforded by a wind-break. Hardy blackberries can withstand temperatures of 30 degrees below zero.

Other kinds need to be covered. Strawberries should be mulched just after the first hard freeze, to prevent drying and heaving of the soil. The covering should be removed in the spring.

Young trees will be gnawed this winter by rabbits and mice. Mechanical protection can be used, as well as repellents. A coating of sulfured oil will keep rodents away from tree trunks. It is made by adding sulfur to boiling linseed oil until 3 ounces have been added to each quart of oil.

After hearing several protests and objectors to the abandonment of certain portions of the present County Road system in Arcadia Township, supervisor Ellsworth Ball Jr., introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption to-wit:-

RESOLUTION

Whereas on the 15th day of June, 1934, the Board of Supervisors of the County of Valley, The State of Nebraska, in regular session, unanimously adopted a Resolution proposing to abandon certain portions of present County Roads, in Arcadia Township, such portions being described as follows: to-wit:-

Commencing at the southwest corner of section 30, and running along section line to the southeast corner of section 29, in township 17 north, range 16 west, of the 6th P. M., and also commencing at the southwest corner of northwest quarter of section 28, in township 17 north, range 16 west of the 6th P. M., and running thence east along half-section line for a distance of approximately four-fifths of one mile, thence in a north-easterly direction to a point where said road intersects with present State Highway, to be abandoned as a County Road and turned back to Arcadia Township to become a township road, as provided by law, and

Whereas due and legal notice of hearing upon same on this 2nd day of October, 1934, at 11:00 o'clock A. M., in the Supervisors Room in the County Court House, was given by publication of notice in "The Arcadian" a legal weekly newspaper of general circulation published at Arcadia, Nebraska, in said County, as provided by law, and

Whereas at this time it appears that it is necessary that that portion of the above road, commencing at the southeast corner of section 30, and running along section line to the southeast corner of section 29, in Township 17 north, range 16 west of the 6th P. M., be retained and maintained as a County Road.

Therefore, be it resolved, that that portion of County Road described as commencing at the southwest corner of northwest quarter of section 28, in township 17 north, range 16 west of the 6th P. M., and running thence east along half-section line for a distance of approximately four-fifths of one mile, thence in a north-easterly direction to a point where said road intersects with present State Highway, be and the same is hereby abandoned as a County Road and turned back to Arcadia Township to become a township road as provided by Law.

(Signed) Ellsworth Ball Jr., Supervisor.

Motion to adopt was seconded by supervisor Desmul, and upon roll-call, supervisors voted as follows: Sorensen, "no"; Desmul, yes; Ball, yes; Vasicek, yes; Barber, yes; Johnson, "not voting"; Hansen, yes. Having received the affirmative vote of a majority of the board, chairman declared said motion carried and said resolution duly adopted.

Members of Elyria Township Board appeared before Board requesting that the line of Road No. 162, beginning at quarter corner on the south side of the SE 1/4 of section 23-20-15 and running thence North on the quarter line to the river be surveyed and marked so that same can be opened for travel, whereupon it was moved, seconded and carried that request be granted.

Supervisor Barber then introduced the following resolution (after Division Engineer Bauman had appeared before the board,) and moved its adoption, to-wit:-

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS the Nebraska State Department of Public Works is about to commence the construction and grading of the road running west of North Loup, Nebraska, to intersect with Ord-Arcadia State Highway, and known as State Road No. 172, upon certain conditions outlined to this Board of Supervisors in session, at this time, therefore

BE IT RESOLVED by this Board of Supervisors in regular session assembled, that in order to meet such conditions and the proposition of the State Department, that Valley County procure all necessary right-of-ways for borrow dirt, corners or highway as or where same may be slightly relocated, bear the expense of and pay all State Tax upon all fuel or petroleum products used on said project, and allow the State Department the use of Valley County's road building equipment as may be necessary in the construction of above road to meet State specifications.

(Signed) J. A. Barber, Motion to adopt resolution was seconded by Johnson, and upon roll-call, supervisors voted as follows: Sorensen, yes; Desmul, yes; Ball, yes; Vasicek, yes; Barber, yes; Johnson, yes; Hansen, yes. Having received the affirmative vote of all members of Board, motion was declared by the Chairman to have been carried and said resolution adopted.

Road petition of Arnold Brethauer, et al, asking for the establishment of road commencing at southeast corner of NW 1/4 of Sec. 15, and running thence West along quarter line to intersect and connect with present public road, as now traveled along said quarter line. Also commencing at a point at or near the center of Section 15, and running thence north along quarter line to a point north of the center of section 10, thence in a north-westerly direction for a distance of approximately 80 rods to intersect with present highway as now established and traveled, all being in township 18 north of range 14 west 6th P. M., said road to be 4 rods wide, then came on for consideration, after which it was moved by Ball and seconded by Johnson, that the petition be granted and road established as petitioned for, and damages be awarded as follows: E. Boettger, $1.00; Henry Misko, $1.00 and Lincoln Joint Stock Land Bank $1.00, and upon roll call, supervisors voted as follows: Sorensen, yes; Desmul "Not voting"; Ball, yes; Vasicek, yes; Barber, yes; Johnson, yes; Hansen, yes. Having received the affirmative vote of a majority of the Board, Chairman declared motion carried and road established as asked for.

The matter of rental of County Fair Association buildings for housing county road equipment came on for consideration, after which it was moved that present arrangement and rental be continued until August 1, 1935. Motion was seconded and carried.

Mrs. Anna Parkos, appeared before Board asking for monthly allowance for the support of self and three small children, and after considering her case, it was moved and seconded she be allowed $15.00 per month from September 1, 1934, until further orders of this Board. Motion carried.

MONEY COMING TO NEBRASKA

Reports compiled recently in Washington show that the payments to be made by the federal government in connection with its 1934-1935 crop reduction program in Nebraska will reach a total of $113,000. Of this amount only $5,133,000 has been paid up to August 1 of this year. This leaves $38,347,000 yet to be paid in this state. It is expected that this full amount will have been paid out by next March. A large part is being distributed now and will be during the next two months. The figures given here do not include drouth and other relief payments.

There has been a general impression that large part of the money to be paid out by the government in connection with its crop reduction program has already been distributed and there has been a feeling of disappointment that these payments have not had a more beneficial effect upon business conditions. It is probable that when discussing this matter with your townsmen, suggesting that the crop payments should be bringing an improvement in your community, they have come back with the statement that they have not as yet been able to see much improvement that they could trace to that source.

The answer to this is provided by the figures given above. Crop reduction payments to farmers have had comparatively little effect on local business conditions in Nebraska because very little money has been paid out so far in this state. When Nebraskans are advised that of the total amount to be paid to farmers in this state only a little more than 18 per cent has been distributed up to August 1 and that $38,347,000 is yet to be paid, less what has been paid since August 1. They may be expected to take a different view of the situation, and be more inclined to consider taking on some expense for the purpose of improving their businesses and putting themselves in a better position to take care of the business brought about by the additional money that is being placed in circulation in their communities.

Crop reduction payments in all states for 1934-1935 are expected to total not less than $773,402,000 not including drouth or other relief payments. Of this total only $248,093,339 had been paid on August 1. Most of this money went into nine southern states which together with Kansas, Iowa and North Dakota, received 76.6 per cent of the total.

It is generally known that the conditions in the south have been much better this year than in other sections of the country which gives us a good slant on what we may expect in Nebraska in the near future.—Western Newspaper Union.

Apostles Wallop Red and White Team In Hard-fought Game on St. Paul Field

Last Quarter Touchdown Spells Doom for Brockman Boys; Score Was 14 to 7.

Marks Ord Scorer

Halfback Runs 45 Yards On a Clever Fake Play; Ord's Line Functions Well.

After a thrilling and hard fought battle the St. Paul team, playing on their own field, beat the red and white Ord team by a score of 14-7. The first marker was chalked up when Day of St. Paul received a long pass on the 5 yard line and ran for a touchdown. The try for extra point was successful. In the second quarter, the Ord team made a clever play which enabled Marks, halfback, to run 45 yards for a touchdown. The try for extra point was good.

In the third quarter Ord came back and by sheer power, drove down to the St. Paul twelve yard line. With 4 plays Ord was unable to break through the St. Paul defense. The entire Ord line was very powerful, both on defense and offense. In the backfield, Greathouse performed very nicely, considering that he had only played in full-back position 4 days before the game. Although several passes were completed because of unwatchfulness in the backfield, the boys played a wonderful game. Marks was the spark plug of the whole team making one touchdown, completing two passes and making many tackles. Day and Roe of St. Paul showed up very well. It was a cool night and the crowd was large. The St. Paul school band was out and gave a display of school spirit. A large delegation of Ord fans accompanied the team to St. Paul and displayed real loyalty to the team.

16 Students Taking Post-Graduate Work

There are sixteen post-graduates taking commercial work in Ord High school this year. They are Burnes Zulkoski, Archie Hatfield, Raymond Cronk, Guy Keep, Manfred Steinwart, Eleanor Perlinki, Evelyn Coe, Mary Beth Hitchman, Olga Lukes, Jessamine Meyer, Maxine Johnson, Kate Romans, Virginia VanDecar, Frances Peterson, Bert Boquet, and Lorraine Haas. With the exception of Jessamine Meyer, Virginia VanDecar, Evelyn Coe and Mary Beth Hitchman, the post-graduates passed the twelfth grade last year. Jessamine Meyer graduated in 1933, Virginia VanDecar in 1932, Evelyn Coe in 1931, and Mary Beth Hitchman graduated from Blair, Nebraska in 1931.

Liquid Air Program Astounds Students

A popular scientific demonstration, showing the wonders of liquid air, was given in the high school auditorium, Thursday evening, Oct. 4, by Mr. James Williams. Mr. Williams proved that with the aid of liquid air, which is 312 degrees below zero, a tea kettle will boil while sitting on ice; cranberries will become as hard as marbles; a sponge rubber ball will become so hard that it will break into many pieces when an attempt is made to bounce it; alcohol and kerosene will become solids; a rose may be crumpled to dust when saturated with liquid air; a cloth, after being dipped in it, will tear like paper and the smallest spark, coming into contact with it will burst into flame.

A demonstration of the explosive features of liquid air concluded the program. Liquid air properly handled is harmless but is extremely dangerous to one not familiar with it.

Wouldn't It Be Funny Charles Jones would prepare his Public Speaking talk before he came to class.

Half of the students could open their combination locks half of the time, at the first attempt. Everybody could remember just what seat he was supposed to occupy in study hall without asking six or eight people.

Charles Melia came to school on time at least three mornings a week.

The Junior-High girls would know what to do the next time the fire gong rings when they are taking their showers.

Kiddies' Column

The kindergartners have been studying fall scenes in their art and music classes. They have made several field trips.

Donald Atkinson and his sister have left school to go west during the best season.

The third and fourth graders have their sand table so arranged and decorated as to represent an African jungle.

The first sixth grade girl's gym class was held last Monday.

Irene Vincent has returned after three weeks absence because of illness. A new spelling chart is being used by the second grade pupils. For every perfect paper they receive a gold star; if they have one error, they are given a blue star; and with two errors, they receive a red star.

Visitors at the grade school this week were Mrs. Zlomke, Mrs. Lola, Mrs. Orville Sowl, Mrs. W. A. Anderson, Mrs. Kenneth Draper, Mrs. Carl Sorenson, Mrs. Chet Carlson, Mrs. Ed Mason and, Mrs. Lyle McBeth.

DO YOU KNOW?

Arthur Auble visited Ord classes and students Monday morning. He returned to his work at Hastings college that afternoon.

The seventh grade art class is studying lettering.

Would-be salesmen are trying out their ability in the English II class.

The Spanish class, for fifteen minutes each Friday, speak nothing but Spanish in their class.

A talk on football made up the program of each home room last Monday, October 1. Paul Blessing spoke to the students of the freshmen class, Mr. Brockman spoke to the junior class, Mr. Bell spoke to the sophomores, and Mr. Cowell and Leonard Greathouse spoke to the two junior high home rooms.

The first Loup Valley Girls' Play Day will be held at Ord, October 31.

A large number of the instructors were out of town last week end. Miss Johnson visited at Nehawka, Miss LeValley at Lincoln, Mr. Cowell at Nebraska City, Miss Crouch at Central City, Mr. Lukenbach at Albion, and Miss Baird at Arcadia. Miss Wallin attended the Wesleyan-Kearney football game at Kearney last Friday.

A convocation and pep rally made up last Friday's convocation. The band played several numbers and the cheer leaders led the student body in the school yells and songs.

Dr. Parkins Advises Seating Be Changed

"Where do I sit?" "Hey, will you get out of my seat?" Such phrases could be heard in every room in the schoolhouse at the beginning of last week. The teachers, attempting to shout loud enough to be heard above the buzzing and roaring and still preserve their voices, urged students to stop arguing and quiet down. After about ten minutes, the din subsided a little and there was a semblance of order comparing quite favorably with that at a football game. Those best friends, who had been discreetly placed at an unobtainable distance apart were again sitting side by side. After the seating was arranged and the seating charts again made, it was time for the bell to ring.

The teachers may have suffered, the students may have been unable to get their lessons, for which there was no mourning you may be assured, but it was the janitors who really received the worst end of the bargain. They did the actual work and it no small job.

You see, it all began when Mr. Bell and the School Board consulted Dr. Parkins as to the lighting effects of the school room. Mr. Parkins advised that all the seats be so changed that the light would fall directly over the backs of the students, thus greatly lessening eye strain.

That explains the mystery, and it is a simple explanation for such a terrible mix up.

Inebriate—Believe it or not, of-fisher, I'm huntin' fr parkin' plashe!

Officer—But you haven't got an automobile.

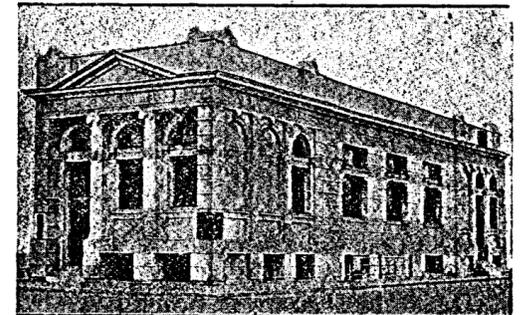

Inebriate—Oh, yesh I have. Itsh in the parkin' plashe I'm huntin' fr!

EDITORIALS Never take chances with fire. This week, from October 7 to 13, the anniversary of the great Chicago fire of 1871, is observed throughout the United States. This is the starting point of a campaign that should last throughout the year: the time to build and strengthen the three lines of fire defense—first, prevention; second, elimination; and third, preparation for fires. There was such a decided improvement in the cheering last Friday before the game that I am sure everyone noticed it. However, don't become satisfied with the results yet. There is still room for more improvement. The gloomy, depressed look on about 60, 63 to be exact, faces during the past two weeks has had something to do with five-minute talks on current topics for Public Speaking. Walk down the halls any morning about two or three minutes before the bell rings and you will see one or two students frantically trying to unlock the combination lock before the tardy bell rings. In their haste, they usually have to make three or four attempts before they finally get it opened. I have always felt that the time spent in opening the locker seven or eight times a day might be more valuable than anything usually kept in them.

A PENNY FOR YOUR THOUGHTS... We asked this question of the first students we chanced to meet in the halls. "What type of program would you like to have for convocation?" "Skits or something like that. Something real good."—Louise Pet-ska. "I don't care what they have just so they have two convocations a week."—Everett Gross. "No speakers, please. We want plays."—Joe Krcleik. "How about a little equality? It would be an excellent idea if the faculty members would present two or three convocations a year."—Anonymous. "Just good ones. I like popular music."—Maxine Haskell. "I like convocations that are really exciting."—Oleta Rose. "I like to hear a good speaker talk."—Dorothy Allen. "Something that you can really laugh at. Good and funny."—Char-lotte Blessing. "Something real good. For example, a talk by Mr. Cowell on girls or somep'n."—Julia Fuss. "I like plays or good readings."—Mildred Craig. "The left out ones. They're all pretty good."—Ralph Hatfield. "The kind that take the longest."—Irene Rashaw.

This Week's Sponsor is First National Bank ORD, NEBRASKA

Among Ord business institutions that take a real interest in the Ord schools is the First National Bank, a banking house established in 1882 and with a record of 52 years of service to Ord and the community. In this bank many Ord high students and graduates have begun with small savings accounts which grew into comfortable funds as the years went by. Many of Ord's present business men owe their financial security to small savings accounts started in the First National when they were boys. Many home owners trace their present thrift and social security to habits of saving inculcated in them by parents who were also depositors in this bank. Now, as always, the First National welcomes the savings accounts of undergraduates. Officers and directors of this bank know that the habit of saving money must be formed in youth and a special effort is made to serve young people opening their first bank accounts. The young man or woman who needs financial advice or aid will find First National officers glad to be of assistance to a young person just starting on the road to prosperity and happiness.

The First National, with deposits of $531,268.52, is one of the largest banks in the North Loup valley, as well as one of the oldest. It is a member of the Federal Reserve System and also of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, which guarantees deposits up to $5,000 for each depositor.

With Frank P. O'Neal as president, Wencel Misko as vice-president, James Petzka, Jr., as cashier, H. W. Travis as assistant cashier and C. B. Gudmundsen as bookkeeper, and with a board of directors that includes Miss Maude Goodenow, Frank Koupal and R. G. Wicks, as well as Messrs. O'Neal and Misko, it is soundly and conservatively managed.

The history of the First National is one of continued progress, of continuous success. Founded March 16, 1882 as the Ord City Bank, it occupied for the first few years a small frame structure where the Co-op Oil company's service station now stands. In 1885 the Ord City Bank became a national bank, assuming its present name, and in 1887 it moved into a new building, the structure now occupied by the Tony Shoe Store. It was in 1908 that the bank moved into its present modern, commodious home.

Many Ord high school graduates have found employment on the bank's staff during its lifetime and at present four bank employees—Horace Travis, C. B. Gudmundsen, Ralph Misko and Miss Delma Palmatier—are Ord high graduates.

The First National bank is a friendly bank. It invites your patronage, students of Ord high.

The Oracle is made possible by this group of Loyal Ord business and professional men and women—give them your support and patronage: Dr. F. L. Blessing, Orville H. Sowl, Ed. F. Beranek, J. C. Penney Co., John P. Misko, L. & L. Tire and Battery Station, Auble Motors, Dr. C. W. Weekes, Chase's Toggery, Dr. Glen D. Auble, Nebraska State Bank, A. J. Auble, Stoltz Variety Store, Dr. F. A. HARRY B. COFFEE MAKES PLEA FOR WORLD MARKETS

Necessary For Agricultural Prosperity, Says Candidate; He Favors Irrigation.

Efforts of the Roosevelt administration to restore agriculture to a paying basis were discussed last night by Harry B. Coffee, democratic candidate for congress in the big fifth district, before a large crowd at the Bohemian hall. Mr. Coffee has been spending this week in the eastern part of the district.

He declared himself in favor of the North and Middle Loup river power and irrigation projects, saying that Nebraska's only genuine resources consist of soil and water and that these should be developed to their fullest measure.

"World markets must be opened up before American agricultural prosperity can be completely restored," Coffee pointed out. "In 1930 the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill was passed over the protests of the economists throughout the nation. However, the industrial barons and international bankers were dominating the policies of the republican administration, and their influence over congress was sufficient to have this bill passed."

"The inevitable results followed. Foreign countries retaliated, placing high tariff walls, trade restrictions, and quota against our exports, with the result that the value of exports dropped from $5,000,000,000 in 1929 to $1,000,000,000 in 1932. The farmer faced disaster because of the loss of this foreign outlet, which in turn piled up agricultural surpluses in this country."

Mr. Coffee said hopes of increasing production at a fair price will depend to a large extent upon the success in making trade agreements with foreign countries under the reciprocal tariff act, which was passed at the closing session of congress. This act, he said, authorizes the president for a period of three years to make reciprocal trade agreements with foreign countries. He is authorized to raise or lower the tariff 50 per cent, thus giving him the bargaining power which many countries have been using to our disadvantage the last few years.

"He has assured us that he would not lower the tariff on agricultural products which would compete with the American farmer. It opens the way for tariff concessions on certain products from foreign countries in consideration of the reduction of tariffs and restrictions against our surplus agricultural products in those countries," Coffee said.

"Farmers have always been forced to sell their surplus crops at the world level, and buy on a protected market. Wheat is today receiving benefit of the 42 cents a bushel tariff which normally has been of no benefit because the surplus was disposed of at the world price. It shouldn't be necessary to have a shortage in this country to make the tariff effective on the domestic consumption."

"I have confidence in President Roosevelt and in the ultimate success of his program for recovery. If I am elected to congress I pledge my co-operation and support in all phases not adversely affecting the people of this district. I can assure you that if I am elected I will be able to view legislation, not through the eyes of a banker, but through the eyes of a borrower. I feel that more can be accomplished for this district by sending a member of the majority party to Washington who is sympathetic and will work constructively with the administration," he concluded.

Goodhand Awarded Ord Paving Contract

State Engineer A. T. Lobdell announced Tuesday at Lincoln that C. E. Goodhand, Ord contractor, was the low bidder on three-tenths of a mile of paving to be laid in Ord this fall and has been awarded the contract. His bid was $7,942. This paving will join paving laid on L street this summer and extend west and north along the west edge of Bussell park. City Engineer Ayres and his assistants were surveying the highway and setting stakes Monday and Tuesday.

Bouda To Quit Farming.
Vencil Bouda will hold a clean-up sale of all his personal property on Monday, October 29, on the place known as the old Blessing place, ten miles west and one mile north of Ord. Watch the Quiz next week for a complete list of his offering. Mr. Bouda will quit farming for the present.

A number of young people from St. Paul came to Ord Sunday evening and attended the young people's meeting in the basement of the Presbyterian church. A 6:30 lunch was served. There were about thirty young people in attendance.

Ord Firemen Send Big Delegation To Omaha Convention

A delegation of nineteen members of the Ord Volunteer Fire Department, headed by Chief A. J. Shirley, left early Tuesday morning for the annual state convention which is being held in Omaha this year. Other members of the delegation included Jacob Hoffman, George Jensen, Archie Bradt, Mark Tolen, Archie Keep, Johnnie Lewis, C. B. Gudmundsen, Cecil Clark, John Perliniski, Alvin Jensen, Ernest Woolery, W. E. Lincoln, Alfred Alberts, Lawrence Berger, Alfred Geneski, Ed Lukesh, Loes McMinde and George Anderson.

Several delegates were accompanied by their wives, who expected to spend their time shopping and attending theatres while firemen were at their various business sessions.

Has Wild Airplane Ride.

Monday Col. E. C. Weller of Ord cried a cattle sale in Winner, S. D., and Tuesday he was due in Atkinson, Nebr., for a sale. Winner and Atkinson are 100 miles apart and Monday night a rain of 2.41 inches fell at Winner, making roads impassable. To get to Atkinson on time Col. Weller chartered an airplane and says he had the wildest ride of his career. A terrific wind was blowing and several times the plane hit air pockets and fell 200 feet or more. The 100 miles to Atkinson were covered in just 27 minutes.

ABIS. PACKER LAIID TO REST

Former Ord Woman Died Oct. 9 At Central City As Result Of Paralytic Stroke.

Mrs. Abis S. Packer, 77-year-old former Ord woman, was laid to rest in Ord cemetery last Thursday, October 11, after brief funeral services held at the Sowl chapel. She passed away at her home in Central City two days before as the result of a stroke of paralysis suffered Sept. 25, from the effects of which she never rallied. Her husband, Israel Packer, who died Nov. 24, 1927, is also buried in the Ord cemetery.

Mrs. Packer was born June 20, 1857 at Harrisville, O., and after her marriage lived for many years in the Ord community. She leaves to mourn seven sons and two daughters. They are W. T. Packer, Akron, O., M. E. Packer, Cedar Rapids, Ia., C. E. Packer, Kearney, N. B. Packer, New Plymouth, Ida., H. A. Packer, Lake City, Ia., H. R. Packer, Ord, Ira A. Packer, Central City, Mrs. Bertha Olkjer, Elbert, Colo., and Mrs. Elizabeth Harris, Long Beach, Calif. There are also 27 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren.

The family wish to express their appreciation to Ord friends for their expressions of kindness and sympathy.

Gamble Store Agency Opens Here Saturday

Ord's new authorized Gamble Store Agency located next to Golden Rule and Safeway, opened Saturday, May 13. F. E. McQuillian, owner and manager, has been busily engaged for some time getting the store set up for the opening. New, modern fixtures were installed.

Everything was in readiness Saturday when the people of this community had their first opportunity to inspect the extensive lines of merchandise handled by this new store. This merchandise consists, in part, of automotive supplies, featuring tires and batteries, paint, radios, and household necessities.

All stores bearing the "Authorized Agency Gamble Stores" sign are owned by the man operating the store. These merchants are in business for themselves. The investment is theirs, they do their own ordering, they place their own advertising. It is their business. Yet the vast resources of Gamble Stores are behind them. A Gamble Agency Store sells Gamble's merchandise at Gamble's regular low prices. Thus, even a store in a small town can meet mail order and big city prices, rendering a time and money-saving service. Every item handled in a regular Gamble Store is available to the consumer through Gamble Agency Stores.

This new Gamble Store Agency is one of the 1,000 Gamble Stores and Gamble Agency Stores now operating in the middlewest.

Carpenter Will Speak.

THREE KILLED AS AUTO OVERTURNS ENROUTE TO ORD

Parents of Mrs. Frank Kruml In Fatal Car Crash Sat'day; Loose Gravel Cause.

Frank Mestecky and Joseph Whealy were instantly killed, Mrs. Frank Mestecky was fatally injured, Mrs. Joseph Whealy and Herbert Beck were seriously hurt when an automobile in which they were riding struck a cottonwood tree near Central City late Saturday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Mestecky were parents of Mrs. Frank Kruml, Ord, and Mrs. Joseph Whealy is her sister. They live in Omaha and were enroute to Ord to visit Mrs. Kruml when the accident occurred.

The Omaha party was riding in a new Ford car which was being driven at a speed of about 60 miles an hour, witnesses said. As they passed a truck the right front wheel of the car struck loose gravel, which threw the car into the ditch. It careened along the ditch for about fifty yards and then struck a huge tree.

"The car folded up like an accordion," said a man who was fixing snow fence near by and saw the accident.

Mr. Mestecky was killed instantly and Whealy lived only a short time. Mrs. Mestecky and Mrs. Whealy suffered skull fractures and other injuries. Beck suffered a broken hip and a compound fracture of the right ankle.

The dead were taken to a Central City mortuary, Mrs. Mestecky and Mrs. Whealy were taken to a Central City hospital and Beck was removed to a hospital in Omaha. Mrs. Mestecky died Monday.

Notified of the tragedy, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kruml went to Central City Sunday. They returned to Ord Monday to get their children and left for Omaha at once, where funeral services were held yesterday for Mr. and Mrs. Mestecky. Mrs. Whealy will recover, the doctors say. She has not yet been told about the death of her parents and her husband.

Frank Kruml is director of FERA work in Valley county.

Cochran And Wright Heard by Hundreds

Roy L. Cochran, the democratic nominee for governor, and William H. Wright, candidate of the same party for attorney general, were Ord visitors Saturday and spoke before a crowd of several hundred in the court house square. They were introduced by Ralph W. Norman.

Messrs. Cochran and Wright were met in Ansley by a group of local democrats that included P. J. Mella, A. W. Pierce, Alvin B. Lee and A. L. Hill.

Mr. Cochran, who has for several years been head of the state department of roads and irrigation, pledged his support to President Roosevelt's program in all its phases. He cited his record of past efficiency and promised, if elected, to extend this efficiency to every department of the state government. He also cited his past record of supporting the North Loup power and irrigation project and expressed himself as being heartily in favor of its being carried out.

New Roof for City Hall.
Ray Bissell and his employees from Kearney, Nebr., began work last week reroofing the city hall. The roof was cleaned thoroughly first, then roofing paper was applied and finally a coat of tar or asphalt material will be applied, making the roof entirely leak-proof. Mr. Bissell formerly lived in Burwell and has done considerable roofing work here in former years.

Corn-Hog Signers Favor Continuance

Nebraska corn-hog contract signers, by the narrow margin of 754, favor a 1935 program of controlled production, it was announced Saturday by W. H. Brokaw, state AAA administrator. The vote among signers was 27,326 for and 26,572 against. Non-signers voted 9,514 to 2,168 against the proposal.

The second question in the government's referendum vote dealing with a one-contract-per-farm program in 1936 and thereafter was defeated more than 2 to 1 by present signers and about 8 to 1 by non-signers.

In Valley county the official vote of signers was 225 for and 131 against on the first question and 313 for and 46 against among non-signers. On the second question signers voted against by 412 to 35 while non-signers voted against it 46 to 4.

Catholic Card Party.
The Catholic ladies will give another of their enjoyable card parties at the basement of their church this, Thursday, evening, October 18, to which the public is invited. Refreshments will be served.

J. Petska Forgets Wife, Leaves Her In Grand Island

Everybody has heard of men who forget themselves when their wives aren't along but how often does a man forget his wife when she is along? Yet that's just what Jerry Petska did last Friday.

Accompanied by Mrs. Petska, Jerry drove to Grand Island and while Jerry transacted business his wife did some shopping. Jerry finished his business and promptly started home. About half way home he suddenly awoke to the fact that he had taken Mrs. Petska to Grand Island with him, so another trip to the island was required.

Jerry has plenty of excuse for forgetting, though, for several times weekly he makes trips to Omaha, Grand Island and other cities to buy furniture and groceries for his busy Ord store. Very seldom does his wife accompany him so he can easily be forgiven for forgetting that she did so this time. But between Mrs. Petska's reproaches and the friendly jokes of friends who heard about it, we'll bet Jerry's memory doesn't play any more tricks.

ORGANIZATION TO FIGHT REPEAL IS FORMED TUESDAY

M. B. Cummins Named President Of County-Wide Club; First Meeting Here Sat'day.

A meeting was held in Ord Tuesday of people interested in preventing if possible the voting out of the prohibition law at the coming election. M. B. Cummins of Davis Creek was chosen president and Mrs. C. E. Goodhand of Ord was named as secretary. Arrangements were made to hold meetings in all parts of the county between now and election to explain the situation to the voters. President Cummins says it is his desire that everyone be fully posted and asked to vote his or her conscience in the matter. He hopes everyone will vote one way or the other and he says he is willing the majority shall rule.

The following ministers of the county were present: Stevens and Warren of North Loup, Wantz of Mira Valley and Smith, Young and Real of Ord. These pastors expressed willingness, to assist wherever needed in the pre-election campaign. Meetings have been arranged as follows: North Loup, October 28, Ord, November 4th, Rosevale, Haskell Creek and Joint on the afternoon of Sunday the 21st, Davis Creek on October 30. There will be meetings at Arcadia, Mira Valley and Elyria, dates to be set later and announced next week when the speakers will also be named.

The first meeting of this anti-repeal campaign will be held on the streets of Ord Saturday, October 20, at 1:00 p. m. Speakers will include Elmer E. Thomas, Olaf W. Gemes, Mary Lee Sbert and others. This "flying squadron" will be equipped with microphones and loud speakers so all may hear.

Legion Minstrel Show Early In November

Early in November the Ord post, American Legion, will sponsor another entertainment at the high school auditorium to raise money for the band uniform fund. High school students will present a one-act comedy, the high school orchestra will play and the Legion male chorus will offer a 45-minute program of blackface minstrel entertainment. The date of this program will be announced next week.

Samples of several band uniforms are being displayed this week in a window of the Fafetta Grocery. The Legion, assisted by the Auxiliary, hopes to raise enough money to purchase uniforms for every member of the high school band. At present the fund is around $200 and it is hoped that sufficient more money will be raised at the November program to complete the amount needed. The Legion has undertaken the work of raising this fund as a means of community service and deserve the interest and support of all Ord people.

Plan to attend the fine program early in November and thus help the Legion and the Ord high school band.

New Teacher in Dist. 16.
Miss Julia Meyers, teacher in Valley county Dist. 16, resigned last week and her place is being filled by Miss Martha Armstrong, of Arcadia. Miss Meyers has employment organizing Burke-Cochran clubs in Valley and near-by counties.

Senator Norris Coming to Ord Oct. 31 To Explain One-House Legislature Plan

GEORGE W. NORRIS

George W. Norris, Nebraska's beloved United States senator, will pay his first visit to Ord on Wednesday, Oct. 31. He comes at this time to explain to voters the unicameral, or one-house legislature and its advantages. Senator Norris is the principal sponsor of the unicameral legislation, which will be voted on in Nebraska Nov. 6.

Senator Norris' talk will be made either in the high school auditorium or in the Bohemian hall, the exact place to be announced next week. He is making only a few speeches in support of this proposal and Ord is honored at having the privilege of entertaining him.

Duck, Pheasant Season Open But Birds Are Scarce

Although hundreds of hunters, both localities and men from away, fared forth last Friday to hunt the elusive pheasant, only a few reports of limit shooting have come in and since opening day the long-tails have seemed ever scarcer. Nimrods who chose river bottom brakes and fields for their opening morning sport fared the best. It seems certain that, due to the drought, not one bird is found now where a hundred were found in former years. How serious the open season will diminish next year's crop is uncertain but in the opinion of most Ord sportsmen the state fish and game commission would have been well advised to heed the request of the Valley county board of supervisors and close the season this year.

Tuesday morning the duck season opened but only a few migrators were killed on the North Loup river, probably because of the balmy weather which had prevailed for several weeks. Tuesday night brought colder weather and duck hunting is expected to improve. Ord men who went to the Cedar and Calamus rivers Tuesday brought back goodly bags of ducks.

The 7-day pheasant season closes at sundown tonight but duck hunting will continue until November 14. Postmaster Edwin Clements reports that many duck stamps have been sold but it seems certain that some hunters are shooting ducks without having purchased the federal permits, which is a dangerous practice as a federal charge will be filed against any duck hunter arrested without the required duck stamp affixed to his state hunting license. Federal duck stamps cost only $1.00, they may be bought at any postoffice and every penny resulting from their sale will be used to buy game reserves and in other measures designed to improve duck hunting in future years.

Another Public Sale.
H. C. Sorensen will hold a clean-up sale on the Nels Sorensen farm, nine miles northwest of Ord and five miles southwest of Elyria on Wednesday, October 31. There will be a complete announcement of his offering in the Quiz next week. Watch for it and see his sale bills. Mr. Sorensen is quitting the farm and will move to a new location.

NURSERY SCHOOL OPENS TODAY, 20 CHILDR'N ENROLL

Ord's Newest FERA Activity Will Be Headed by Mrs. Andersen; 14 Schools in State.

Ord's FERA nursery school opened this morning with an enrollment of twenty. Mrs. Frank Andersen returned from a week's intensive study in nursery school procedure Sunday, and the forefront of this week has been used in getting the rooms in readiness for the children. Superintendent Bell the nursery school staff, and the work division of the local FERA have been cooperating in making the rooms suitable for the needs of the children.

Mrs. Frank Andersen is the nursery school teacher, Miss May Helberg is her assistant, Mrs. Ella Hughes will be the nurse and Mrs. Wes Dally the housekeeper and cook.

Due to the fact that nursery schools are not desirous of consuming local funds, and yet the housing and equipment used are not furnished by federal funds, it is necessary to ask for donations in the way of minor equipment to help make the children happier. In some towns wagons, tricycles, etc., are gifts from church organizations, fraternal organizations, etc. Some of the things which people in Ord may have discarded and which would be welcome contributions to the nursery are as follows: Dolls (unbreakable), spoons of all sizes, boxes, small and large, clothespins, blocks, books, rag rugs, balls (soft rubber), kitchen utensils (usable), old kitchen utensils for the sand pile, wagons, kiddie cars, tricycles, wooden beads for stringing.

Several more army coats are needed. Anyone having these things to loan or give to the nursery may call Mr. Bell or Mrs. Frank Andersen and they will be called for, if it's impossible to bring them to the school.

Ord is especially fortunate in having a part of the $22,000 that the federal government allows to Nebraska for nursery schools to carry on this important work. Many towns of much greater population are on the waiting list, but cannot be included until the government sees fit to allow more money for extending the work. The fourteen schools now operating in Nebraska are located as follows: Two in Omaha, three in Lincoln, one each in Scottsbluff, Cambridge, Aurora, Nebraska City, Blair, South Sioux City, Superior, Albion and Ord.

The staff hopes for the wholehearted support of all loyal Ordites in making this a worthwhile project.

Johnson And Bass Are Ord Speakers

Richard O. Johnson, republican candidate for attorney general, and Dr. T. W. Bass, nominee of the same party for state treasurer, were Ord visitors yesterday, speaking from their microphone-equipped car to a fair sized crowd. Dr. Bass is well known here, having campaigned on former occasions, but Mr. Johnson was a stranger to most Ord people. He is a young man of pleasing personality and has practiced law in Lincoln for the past 12 or 14 years. By working as a mechanic in the Burlington shops at Havelock he earned money for his university education and he is being quite generally endorsed by the Law party. He served several terms as city attorney at Havelock, is a former state representative and appears very well qualified for the important office he seeks.

Our Best Advertisement

Quiz readers know that for several years every issue of this newspaper has carried our invitation to the public to trade at our market. Many new customers, we think, have come to our market because they have seen our ads in the Quiz.

Of course we always want new customers but, after all, it is the steady, day-after-day patrons who form the backbone of any business. And people don't return again and again unless they are fairly treated. That's why our new customers soon become steady patrons. We sell them quality meat, fairly priced, and give honest weight and quick, courteous service. That's why we say "satisfied customers are our best advertisement."

DWIGHT GRISWOLD, THE MAN.

Friends and supporters of Dwight Griswold, 200 strong, gathered at the Lindell hotel in Lincoln Saturday to make plans that it is hoped will culminate in the election of Mr. Griswold to the office of Governor of Nebraska.

Dwight Griswold is a candidate who provokes strong loyalties. He has always been such a candidate. Two years ago, when Nebraska was giving Franklin D. Roosevelt a majority of 157,000, Griswold was defeated by only about 28,000 votes.

It was the same in the August primary. Facing strong and divided opposition, Dwight Griswold was elected by a majority of over 2 to 1.

Dwight Griswold is a small town man, a western Nebraska man and he is entitled to the support of western-republican and democratic alike—in this part of the state.

Not a miracle worker, not a politician, just a hard-working, sensible small town publisher and farm owner who has served in city, school and county offices, has been state senator, commander of the American Legion in Nebraska and president of the Nebraska Press Association, Dwight Griswold will be the choice of Valley county voters at the November election.

Dear Jake: North Loup, Nebr. Oct. 19, 1934.

From all appearances the government feels that a man with no one depending on him does not experience any pain from hunger and cold.

In 1900 a survey showed that there were 130 thousand rural churches in the United States. A similar survey in 1932 showed that there were only 90 thousand rural churches, a loss of 40 thousand.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

There are still dealers in merchandise, I won't call them merchants for they are not, who claim to believe that newspaper advertising does not pay.

I am charged with being bitter against the democratic party. The charge only comes from men who are so ignorant that they fail to recognize that every Jeffersonian principle is being raped by men who have no business fighting under the democratic banners.

It seems to me that it hadn't ought to be very hard for any voter to decide what is the best thing for him to do when it comes to voting for congressman and senator.

Alvin Blessing is the republican candidate for state senator. The democratic candidate is from Custer county. Without saying a word in favor or against either one, Blessing should get every vote in Valley county.

But Alvin Blessing is qualified for the job. He has served in other public positions. As county clerk of Valley county he was a faithful servant.

Now that the federal government is going to take the kiddies from two years of age out of the homes and hire nurses and cooks and instructors, the mothers won't have anything to do but play bridge.

Deal moves are fine. It would have been funny if some mistakes had not crept in. Almost every democrat got a job and most of them do and mean well.

Alvin Blessing is the republican candidate for state senator. The democratic candidate is from Custer county. Without saying a word in favor or against either one, Blessing should get every vote in Valley county.

But Alvin Blessing is qualified for the job. He has served in other public positions. As county clerk of Valley county he was a faithful servant.

Necessarily the Chamber of Commerce is made up of Ord business men. If the FERA establishes a dairy here, how long will it be before they will also establish a store and ship in and sell goods that the people receiving aid, need?

I don't know Roy Cochran personally but believe I would like him if I did. Friends tell me he is a fine fellow. But when I vote for a governor I want to vote for a man who will be governor himself, not for one who, if elected, will take orders from the former governor.

Rumor says that the local American Legion post is endorsing the move for a FERA dairy. Several members tell me that this is not true; that the Legion has not voted to endorse the plan and is not likely to do so.

This is my own (and only) column in the Quiz and I write in it what I please. It is just my own ideas, no one else has a thing to do with it.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

25 Years Ago This Week.

The Ed Walker home south of North Loup burned to the ground. Rollin Bond, who was serving as traveling manager for the Schubert musical comedy, "Going Some," was visiting Ord relatives.

The chain that has served for many years as a hitching rack along the west side of the court house lawn was removed and placed east of the Bachelor Steps.

G. H. Kinsey passed through Ord enroute to Arcadia with a fine new Cadillac car.

Frank Kipling had a good sale preparatory to moving to Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Drake celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Funeral services were held for Fred Clement, who passed away very suddenly.

20 Years Ago This Week.

Mrs. Lee Lockridge, a former Ord woman, was murdered in San Diego.

R. B. Howell, republican candidate for governor, was to speak in Ord. He was campaigning on a platform of irrigation and water power development.

Rev. Oscar Babcock, earliest of North Loup settlers, passed away. While hunting on the river, Carl Oliver was accidentally shot in the leg by his companion, Duane Collins.

Harry Bartley had added to the equipment of his Sultorium a newfangled machine that pressed clothes by steam much faster and better than it could be done by hand.

F. J. Vopat, Bill Timm, T. M. Trindle and Oscar Nary were Ord members of a party hunting on Goose creek, northwest of Burwell. They reported fine shooting on both prairie chickens and ducks.

S. Shindo, Japanese restaurant man at Grand Island, was married to Evadna Mitchell, an American girl who had often visited friends in Ord.

Something Different

I think the little school girl who works for her board and room at our house deserves some credit.

Darlene, who is young for her class, is a senior, and the name of Darlene Anderson has been on practically all honor rolls since she entered high school.

This year, in addition to being busy in the Leggett home, and continuing her eager interest in her studies, Darlene is editor in chief of the high school paper, the Oracle, which occupies a page in the Quiz each week.

Ambitious, anxious to read and learn, Darlene spends still more hours poring over books she wants to read but has little time to devote to them.

Even before she entered high school Darlene won high honors. She was once sent to Omaha by the Quiz, along with Everett Gross, as winner of a local spelling contest, and there the two of them tried for state spelling honors but did not win them.

There are many interesting life stories in our vicinity, and right here in Ord, but we don't know them.

Surely few men had a more adventurous life than Hi Patchen, said to have been able to run faster than any other man who ever lived. Said to have had the very famous race horse, Dan Patch, named after him.

It is certainly top bad that more accurate records of his exciting career are not available. I am sure his family are sorry that he was so modest and reserved about himself.

Then F. L. Cushing had a typical pioneer life, with his quota and then some of trials and cares. Little things like drouths . . . you've heard of them . . . grasshoppers, prairie fires, Indians, and all the hardships that go to make up first settling in a new country, however lovely.

Mr. Cushing liked to reminisce about those early days, and the yarns he spun were far from boring. He was one of the earliest settlers in this valley. I think the Trail of the Loup—history book of those days of privation and hard work, would be found to name him among the first dozen at least, who came to this fertile new land to take his chances on fame and fortune.

A cheery little soul who now has a broken wrist, Mrs. Hattie Shepherd, is another Ordite who has a real life story to tell. A thin, chipper little person with quick, bird-like ways, Mrs. Shepard was Canadian born, and has surely had a life of adventure and hard work.

If all the hit-and-run drivers in the country were laid end to end it would be a darn good idea if they stayed that way.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

The season for hot, nourishing soups, kettle dinners, oven dinners and one-dish meals is again with us, and snappy fall days make your family glad to sit down to such a promising dinner.

One nice thing about this kind of a dinner is that there are so many old-fashioned favorites and so many new fangled ones that there are sure to be a number of them that your folks welcome with glee.

Here is a new one that came from Iowa to Quiz readers:

French Hunter's Dinner. Cook one bunch of chopped celery with four chopped onions in two tablespoons fat, then add one and one-half pounds of pork steak, ground, and cook until done.

Mrs. L. T. Holloway, Harlan, Ia.

Combine one and one-half pounds ground beef, one-half pound ground pork, one-half cup uncooked rice, two tablespoons pimientos, chopped, one small chopped onion, two tablespoons chopped green pepper, one teaspoon sage, one-half cup milk, salt to taste.

Carefully beat together three eggs, one cup sugar, one pint sweet milk and cream mixed about half and half, a pinch of salt, nutmeg to suit your taste and enough flour to make the spoon stand upright in the mixture.

Grate one large apple and one medium sized carrot, and three tablespoons of finely chopped walnuts and three tablespoons salad dressing. Mix and fill celery. Chill and serve.

Mrs. H. T. Walkemeyer.

Mix together one-half cup cream, two cups finely chopped chicken, two tablespoons butter, two hard boiled eggs chopped, and place in a baking dish. Sprinkle bread crumbs over the top and brown in the oven. Enough onion for flavor is a desirable addition.

Marle Boyce.

Mix one-half cup white sugar, one-half cup brown sugar, two beaten eggs, one-half cup creamed butter, one cup sour milk, two cups flour, one-half cup raisins, one-half cup nuts, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon nutmeg, one teaspoon cinnamon.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

A new plan of production control may be substituted for the present system of controlling wheat, corn, hogs, cotton and other commodities.

The idea which the AAA is considering, would work like this: Each farmer who cared to, could sign one simple farm contract, agreeing to remove from production a certain number of acres.

Complexity has been one of the bad features of the AAA programs. Some farmers have signed four different contracts, and may unwittingly violate one of them because of overlapping requirements.

Give the AAA credit for sincerely trying to help farmers, and for making some progress, especially in the wheat program.

Urged on by the belief that Upton Sinclair will be elected governor of California, and proceed to give every old man a pension of $30 a month for the rest of his life, many $50 and $25 second-hand automobiles, fully loaded, are said to be on the way to California.

Senator Norris and Nebraska's Water Program

By J. E. Lawrence in the Lincoln Star.

This amazing bit of venom appeared in the Omaha World-Herald Tuesday morning in commenting upon the remarkable rally staged by more than 15,000 people interested in Nebraska's irrigation projects in the lower Platte valley.

The 15,000 who marched on Holdrege were fired with a great zeal. Unfortunately there marched with them a few leaders who apparently were more interested in airing old grudges, in raising an

Another Royal Murder Mr. Rockefeller Starts Propaganda Work

King Alexander of Yugoslavia, landing at Marseilles, beginning of a "good will" tour of France, was killed by an assassin, and Louis Barthou, foreign minister of France, who had gone to Marseilles to meet the king, was shot down at the same moment and died later from loss of blood.

As a result of the king's assassination on foreign soil it might have been feared that another war would be precipitated. The great war started with the murder of the Austrian archduke. Vienna published rumors that the Yugoslavian government had ordered mobilization of its army on the Italian and Hungarian frontiers.

It happens, however, that the murderer in this case is a certain Petrus Kalemam, thirty-five-year-old Yugoslav, one of King Alexander's own subjects, so that no international complication is suggested.

Kalemam, captured after firing the shots which killed Barthou and Alexander, attempted suicide by shooting himself in the mouth, but was cut down by police sabers and died from the deep gashes inflicted and from police bullet wounds.

John D. Rockefeller, not delaying this year, has started for Florida accompanied by his son, John D., Jr. There is longer life in sunshine. Some day swift air transportation will make it possible for millions of old men and women and young children that now fight cold and colds in the northern winter to spend that winter somewhere in the United States' sun parlor, that stretches from Florida on the east, west along the gulf coast, and north along the Pacific ocean.

Los Angeles reports industrious "reds" trying to corrupt sailors of the United States navy. One plan seeks out young, attractive university girls that have not been elected to sororities. They take advantage of their hurt state of feelings to make Communists of them and send them to make Communists of sailors. Propaganda work is also done in high schools by Communists. One newspaper urges negro students to "rise and demand colored teachers in the high schools." Special attention is paid to young college graduates lacking jobs that have enlisted in the navy. Their feelings also were hurt and they are expected to respond to the song, "Arise, Ye Prisoners of Starvation," although men in the navy are well fed.

Mussolini, talking with "amplifiers" to 500,000 Italians in the Cathedral Square of Milan, remarked, "Relations between Italy and France are notably improved," and winked as he said it.

The huge Italian crowd roared with laughter.

Mussolini says the corpse of disarmament can never be resurrected, which means that European nations will continue arming against each other more and more extravagantly.

Trouble continues in Spain, with troops guarding the parliament and inconceivably savage outrages reported in the war against religion. A priest and two civil guards are said to have been burned alive and a Catholic orphanage dynamited in an outburst of terrorism and religious hatred in northern Spain.

Urged on by the belief that Upton Sinclair will be elected governor of California, and proceed to give every old man a pension of $30 a month for the rest of his life, many $50 and $25 second-hand automobiles, fully loaded, are said to be on the way to California.

This is written to advise those gentlemen to turn around, go back and enjoy their newly bought cars nearer home. You cannot "give everybody past sixty $50 a month" unless you have the $50 to give. And with the kindest feelings for Upton Sinclair, based on long acquaintance, it is only fair to say that if he is elected governor of California and undertakes to carry out his ideas there will be $50 a month for very few people past sixty, and considerable difficulty in getting money in California even by working for it.

The bureau of agricultural economics tells you to prepare for a change in diet. It will be made necessary by the drouth for all but the "predatory rich" and the fairly well off.

Custer, Garfield, Valley
Loup and Blaine

No! No!
WE DIDN'T SAY THAT

• Somebody said we claimed Mohawk Tires would run forever. We didn't. And we don't know. We won't live that long. We said, and still say, that you can search the surface of the earth, pay a million dollars cash, still you won't find better tires than...

MOHAWK TIRES

• Now, as for over 20 years past, Mohawks are superbly beautiful, safe as tires can be made, and take plenty of their good own time to wear out.

—Albert McLain of York was here over the week end. Mrs. McLain came as far as Scotia where she visited a sister and her family.

V-8 PERFORMANCE
WITH PROVED 4-CYLINDER ECONOMY

FORD V-8 TRUCKS
SAVE YOU MONEY AND SERVE YOU WELL!

TIMES have changed . . . and so have truck requirements. Hand-to-mouth buying has brought about the need for lighter loads and faster, more frequent trips. Today, truck operators demand a dependable truck that will get places fast, that has plenty of reserve power and costs less to operate per ton-mile.

Hundreds of truck owners who never owned Fords before are changing to the Ford V-8 Truck . . . and saving money in first cost and in up-keep. They are getting the speed, power and smoothness of V-8 performance. And they are sending in records of economy that definitely prove the Ford V-8 uses no more fuel than a "four."

No matter what you demand of your truck, investigate the Ford. Go to your nearest Ford dealer and read the records of owners. Try the Ford V-8 Truck on your own job, over your own routes, with your own driver at the wheel and see for yourself how it saves you money and serves you well.

Ord Teachers Will Go to North Platte

Ord educators will have a prominent part in the programs and committee activities when District 4 of the Nebraska State Teachers Association convenes in North Platte, October 24 to 26. Supt. Millard D. Bell is secretary of the district organization. He will also be the presiding officer when District 4 of the Nebraska High School Athletic Association holds its meetings Thursday afternoon of convention week. Miss Clara McClatchey, superintendent of schools in Valley county, is listed for an address at the first meeting of the Rural Division on Thursday afternoon. She has selected as her topic, "Grading in Rural Schools." Miss McClatchey will be the presiding officer at the second conference of this group, on Friday afternoon.

Miss Inez Swain, also of the Ord staff, will participate in the Art section program as secretary of the group. Prin. W. D. Cass of Ord high school is scheduled to present an address at the conference of the Superintendents and Principals section on Friday afternoon of convention week. J. A. Kovanda holds office as secretary of the Vocational Agriculture Section which convenes on Friday afternoon. Another secretaryship is held by Miss Elva Johnson, instructor in foreign language. Miss Johnson is to have charge of the meeting of the Foreign Language section on Friday afternoon.

Some of the prominent leaders whom teachers attending this convention will hear, include Stuart Chase, famous author and economist of New York City; Dr. Thomas W. Gosling, director of the American Junior Red Cross; Chancellor E. H. Lindley of the University of Kansas; Dr. L. V. Koos of the University of Chicago; Secretary L. H. Dennis of the American Vocational Association of Washington, D. C.; Prof. Ella V. Dobbs of the University of Missouri; and Miss Geraldine Tracwell of the Denver public schools staff.

13 as House Number Was Unlucky for This Family

Tilbury, England.—Attached to a large number plate was a note. It read: "Herewith goes No. 13. For 18 years we have been stricken with the accursed thing."

The sign was received by the local council, when the number of the house was changed to 115, after being 13 for 18 years.

Its occupant is Mrs. H. Kane, and this is the "luck" she has had during that time. Her husband died soon after they moved in. Then her son was invalided out of the army with shell-shock.

Since then they have had to live on his dole and Mrs. Kane's pension, for he has only done three months' work in the last two and a half years. Once they threw the number plate away, but somebody brought it back.

Ord Church Notes

Methodist Church.
Morning worship at 11 o'clock next Sunday. The chorus choir will sing "O Clap Your Hands Together," by Turner, with tenor solo by Mr. Glen Auble. Aldergate Sunday, an important day in Methodism, will be observed.

The Epworth League will have a Spanish Tea at 6 o'clock. Each member is entitled to invite one guest. Special music and greetings to new members.

A family Fireside Service will be held at 7:30 p. m. Sunday evening. The public is invited to attend. These services were popular last year and it is expected that the congregation will enjoy them equally this season.

Tuesday night at 7:30 a workers conference for the teachers of the Junior and Intermediate departments of the Sunday school will be held.

Christian Science Services.
The subject of the lesson-lesson in all Christian Science churches for Sunday, October 21, is "Doctrine of Atonement." The Golden Text is from Mark 10:14: "The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life for the ransom of many."

A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from John 10:1, 2: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber. But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "Our Heavenly Father, divine Love, demands that all men should follow the example of our Master and his apostles and not merely worship his personality. It is said that the phrase 'divine service' has come so generally to mean public worship instead of daily deeds."

Presbyterian Church.
"Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for such is the kingdom of heaven."

Next Sunday is Cradle Roll Day. Services at 10:45.

There will be the administration of baptism to infants. Parents desiring to have their children baptized should notify the cradle roll superintendent, Mrs. E. H. Petty.

Rev. L. M. Real has christened sixty-one babies during his pastorate here. He would like for the parents of these children to make a special effort to bring their children and be present at our annual cradle roll day next Sunday.

Bible study at 10.

The Junior club will not meet next Sunday.

Young people's meeting 6:30. Union church services at 7:30.

Aid Circle meeting Wednesday, 2:30.

Choir practice Wednesday 7:30.

The Home Art Circle is largely indebted to Auctioneer Cook for the splendid success of their box social of last Friday.

The Junior girls enjoyed a nature hike and camp dinner last Saturday at the Mortensen's farm.

The Junior boys will meet Friday at 5 p. m. with lunch in hand and their dog on the leash for another rabbit round up.

The Deacon board is sponsoring a rifle club for boys from the ages of 14 to 23. If you are interested in joining get in touch with Mr. Real.

The young people enjoyed a social and business meeting at the church last Saturday. The new officers elected were Miss Barbara Dale, president; Arden Clark, vice president; Oteta Rose, second vice president and Arvella Benjamin, third vice president.

United Brethren.

On next Sunday morning a special offering will be given to our Seminary at Dayton, Ohio.

Sunday school 10 o'clock. An increased interest is noted in this department.

The morning worship at 11 o'clock.

Christian Endeavor at 6:30. leader, Ruth Collins.

Union services at the Presbyterian church, 7:30.

Prayer and Bible study Wednesday evening 7:30 o'clock.

The Woman's Aid met with Mrs. Ralph Hatfield Wednesday.

The Woman's Missionary society meets with Mrs. Dessie Needham Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Archie Waterman is leader.

There was a large attendance of girls at the Otterbein Guild which met with Margaret Keller last Friday evening.

Archie Hatfield was quite completely surprised by members of the Willing Workers and Busy Bee Sunday School classes Monday evening, it being his birthday anniversary.

Morning House Meetings.
There was a fine response on the part of the women in the matter of attendance and participation in morning prayer services last week even though it meant leaving the laundry tub and the varied household tasks for this half hour retreat.

Three meetings were in session, one in each ward at the same hour. The largest attendance was to average and at any one meeting was in Ward 3, the record attendance being 21 women beside the children accompanying their mothers.

Ward 2 followed with a close average. The total attendance was 175. Ward 3 continues these meetings each Thursday at 9:30 o'clock. The meeting this week is with Mrs. Dick Long.

Study Centers Are Being Organized

The Extension Department of the University of Nebraska announces that Relief Study Centers will be sponsored again this year. Only a limited number, however, will be approved. There will be two terms, a winter of seven or eight weeks and a spring session of six or seven weeks.

Regular college work may be secured through this plan which is really an extension of the University by correspondence courses. The hours earned are accepted by all colleges and universities. A student may earn from six to eight hours in each session or a total of twelve to fifteen hours which is equivalent to one-half year of college work.

The only cost to the student is books and paper and the postage used in sending the lessons back and forth.

Last year Ord had a study center but due to getting a late start the enrollment was not very large. The Board of Education will be glad to sponsor the move again this year by furnishing a room, reference books, if enough people are interested. Anyone who is unemployed and desires high school or college work is eligible. At least fifteen students are necessary to secure the approval of the project. All persons interested are requested to call the County Superintendent, Miss McClatchey or city Superintendent, Mr. Bell for further information and tentative registration.

The advantages of this training are: That it enables young people who are unable to attend college to continue their education; people who wish training in some special field can secure it at home; special preparations for trades or vocations can be secured; and unemployed young people are given something worthwhile and of lasting value to do.

Obituary.

Talbot Rockhold.

Talbot Rockhold passed away at Stockton, Cal., October 5, 1934 at the age of 83 years, 1 month and 16 days. Mr. Rockhold (Tom, as he was generally known) was one of the early settlers of Valley county.

The family came to North Loup from Iowa the year before the Union Pacific railroad was extended to Ord and Mr. Rockhold drove the stage coach from North Loup to Ord for about a year.

When the railroad was extended to Ord the family moved to that place which was their home until twelve years ago, when for the benefit of his wife's health they moved to Stockton, Cal., where their daughter, Mrs. Hazel Bowden, resides.

He figured in much of the early history of Ord and served in the campaign against the Indians in 1875-76 under Capt. Leo McDonough of Ord.

Mr. Rockhold suffered a broken hip early in May and had been confined in a hospital ever since.

He is survived by his wife and four children, Ed of Lead, S. D., Hazel of Stockton, Cal., John of Comstock, Neb., and Mrs. Mary Thelin of North Loup, Neb., and ten grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted by the Odd Fellow Lodge at the Wallace chapel and burial was in Park View Cemetery at Stockton.

Joseph Cetak.

Joseph Cetak was born June 10, 1885 in Bohemia and passed away at 2:15 p. m. Oct. 10, 1934 at Hillcrest hospital, Ord, Neb., after a long illness. Mr. Cetak came to the United States in 1909 and was married in Omaha in 1914 to Miss Mary Smerda. They went immediately to Custer county, where they lived on a farm for eight years, and in 1922 moved to Ord where Mr. Cetak was a laborer until incapacitated by his fatal illness.

Eight children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Cetak, one daughter, Ann, dying in infancy. Left to mourn are two daughters and five sons. They are Mrs. Mary Adams, Joe, James, Charles, Zola, George and Eldon Cetak, all of Ord.

Funeral services were held at the Sowl chapel at 2:30 p. m. Friday, Oct. 12, Rev. L. M. Real officiating. Pallbearers included Raymond Gass, Frank Rybin, John Perlinski, Jerry Petska, John Sebesta and James Misko. Music was furnished by a quartet composed of Madams A. S. Koupal and Jos. P. Barta, Messrs. James Ollis and John Haskell with Mrs. M. J. Cushing at the organ. Interment was in Ord cemetery.

An honest, hard-working man all his life, the deceased was generally respected in the Ord community and sympathy is extended to his grief-stricken widow and family.

"It may be a strange sentiment," Wilton remarked, "but I have a distinct aversion to Berenice's knowing that her brothers and sisters were killed—the added dreadfulness of realizing that their murderer was her father's confidant—her trusted guardian! We want him to give her up. Yet if we have a weapon strong enough to make him relinquish her, we have one which reacts on our own conscience. We have to accuse him publicly."

There was no gainsaying this. "It's like looking at a murder out of the tail of one's eye—isn't it?" remarked Arthur. "Knowing someone has passed a window—when you half see him." He glanced through the window, looked again with a blank expression that gradually changed to distinct horror.

Bratt-Jensen Nuptials Friday Morning Most Charming Wedding of the Season

Popular Ord Young Lady Becomes Bride of Blair Man; To Live at West Point.

At a wedding ceremony at 11:00 Friday morning at the home of her parents, Miss Frances Lucille Bratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bratt of Ord, became the bride of Soren K. Jensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Jensen of Blair, Nebr.

The bride and groom were attended by Miss Ruth J. Bratt of Hastings, as maid-of-honor, and John P. Jensen of Kearney as best man.

Preceding the ceremony Orville Sowl played "Thais" by J. Massenet, a violin solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Sowl, after which the bridal party took their places before an improvised altar formed of an arch of autumn leaves with baskets of yellow chrysanthemums at the base and a background of ferns.

Then Miss Dorothy Jensen of Blair sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Eldred Larson of Sioux Falls, S. D., both sisters of the groom.

Rev. Mearl C. Smith, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Ord, performed the wedding, using the single ring ceremony.

The gown worn by the bride was of dark brown oatmeal crepe, made with very full sleeves and high neckline, the only trimming being a jabot of white linen and lace. Brown suede slippers of the same shade as the gown were worn. The bouquet carried by the bride was of white roses with baby's breath.

The dress worn by the maid-of-honor was Carlock crepe with high, shirred neckline, and overskirt of the same material as the dress. Her crepe slippers were the same shade as her dress. Miss Bratt's bouquet was of tallman roses.

Immediately after the ceremony a three-course wedding breakfast was served at the Bratt home under the direction of Misses Roberta Chase and Margaret Frazier, intimate friends of the bride. A centerpiece of yellow and white roses was used on the table seating the bridal party and yellow roses were used at each of the several smaller tables. The double-tiered wedding cake of white decorated with yellow was served on a cake stand which was a wedding gift presented to the bride's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Peterson of Ord, at their wedding almost fifty-one years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Jensen left immediately after the wedding breakfast on their wedding trip. Mrs. Jensen's traveling suit was dark blue wool crepe worn with a blouse of plaid satin. Her accessories were all of dark blue. Mr. and Mrs. Jensen are to make their home at West Point, Nebr.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mrs. J. P. Jensen of Blair, mother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jensen, Blair; Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Larson, Sioux Falls, S. D.; John Jensen, Kearney; Otis Drevsen, Bassett; and Miss Ruth J. Bratt of Hastings.

The improvised altar, and all floral decorations were arranged by the bride's other sister, Mrs. Lorea McMinder of Ord.

Mrs. Jensen is a popular young lady of this city, born and reared here. Since her graduation from Ord high school she has been an efficient employee of the Nebraska State bank. Her husband is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and is at present employed by the state highway department.

John Carmody.
Funeral services for John Carmody, one of Arcadia's oldest citizens, were held at the Catholic church Friday morning at nine o'clock, conducted by the priest from Loup City. Music was furnished by the Catholic choir and interment was made in the Arcadia cemetery.

John Carmody was born in Gloucestershire, England, Sept. 25, 1852, and passed away at midnight at his home in Arcadia the evening of October 9th, at the age of 82 years and 14 days. He came to this country when five years old, settling at Freeport, Illinois, and moving to Nebraska at the age of 8 years where he resided the remainder of his life. He was united in marriage in 1880 to Miss Mary Folsom and to this union twelve children were born, nine of whom are living. They are Mrs. U. B. Cogle of Greenfield, Mo., Mrs. J. D. Cook of Morrill, Nebr., John J. Carmody of Iowa, Jim and Tom Carmody of Wenatchee, Wash., Mrs. Jack Scott of Greeley, Nebr., Mrs. Alvin Bradell of Green Bay, Wis., and Almon and Alvin Carmody of Scottsbluff, Nebr. Those departed are Catherine, who passed away in infancy, Mrs. Frank Bryan, who passed away March 5, 1931 and Isaac Melvin, who passed away April 21, 1929. Mr. Carmody is mourned by his widow and surviving children.

QUIZ FORUM

We Want Irrigation. Loup Valley, Sept. 1, 1934 My dear Uncle Sam:

I would like to grasp you firmly by that long flowing beard and lead you out by a telephone pole (we have no hitching posts any more for they have been used for fire wood long ago) where you will find two cow ponies, not too fat. Better see that those straps which hold your trousers' down are fastened securely, for if the ponies give out we may have to walk, and the straps would be fine to keep the cactus from crawling up your pant leg. You know cactus is about all we have raised in this drouth of 1934. Better discard that stove-pipe hat for one of the ten-gallon kind. Somehow they seem to split the wind better in the land to which we are going. That white collar will be rather dusty and uncomfortable as we bounce along over hard roads and up and down hills. Bounce you will, being unused to this mode of travel. Your swallow tails may interfere with getting best results from the spurs you are fastening about your ankles, otherwise we ought to jog along pretty well. True, the weather is very changeable. All summer has been extremely hot, then cool days, near frost. Only today we saw a flock of brant hurrying to get out of the way of a northerner.

We will start on the trail of the Loup, at the little city of North Loup, on the North Loup river. Do you know the meaning of "Loup"? It is an Indian word for wolf. As we travel through the country, if you watch closely you will see occasionally a coyote or its den, high on a hill where it has a good view of the surroundings. We are going up the valley, and into the great sand hill country about it.

It was here not so many years ago, Indians roamed the prairie and found the rich hunting ground abounding with buffalo, deer, elk, all kinds of feathered fowl and fish, besides numerous small fur bearing animals all so precious to the lives of those people. Here, between fifty and sixty years ago, our sturdy pioneer mothers and fathers pushed forward from the more thickly populated districts east of the Mississippi river. They experienced many hardships and privations, to break the land, build homes, churches, schools and villages, to rear families to the high type of man and womanhood. Too, they founded the great herds of cattle that have produced meat for the millions of our nation.

These people had faith in God, faith in the land, and faith in the government, were willing to risk all, believing that in the future this vast territory would enjoy all the comforts and privileges of its eastern neighbors.

Today this is one of the most beautiful valleys of the United States. Dotted with clean-looking towns, farms and occasionally a ranch where formerly hundreds of fat cattle and hogs lay lazily about feed bunks filled to overflowing with Nebraska corn and hay, with an abundance of pure fresh water pumped from our endless underground supply by the ever-ready windmill.

But all this is past. Good roads are about all that is left of prosperity. You notice those fine cars passing us? When they stop in those nifty filling stations, just look inside. There are no farmers at the wheels. Do you see that queer looking, horse-drawn vehicle? It seems to have automobile wheels, an auto cushion on top of a board across a box made of rough, unpainted boards. That is a "New Deal Special, 1934 Model". It is this that is taking the farmers for a ride these days. There are not so many now, but gas is going up, money is scarcer than ever and the number of "Specials" is steadily increasing. It is late afternoon. There comes a farmer in his contraction. Shall we follow him to his home? It is rather in need of repairs, a little paint, a few nails here and there, and maybe a little cement, lumber or posts would work wonders, but there is no money to buy. The family greet him at the door—not the happy homecoming of yore, but a sort of sad air and hush over all. No new print dress for mother, silk hose for sister, overalls for Buddie, nothing tasty for the appetite, only the bare necessities to keep them alive and slaves to the farm.

Do you know, Uncle Sam, that river we're approaching is the North Loup? Geologists tell us it is one of the greatest in these United States for irrigation and power. In fact there is only one better in the world and that is in Africa. This river they tell us, is fed by sheet water as much as four hundred feet deep in some places, under the sand hills. There is always a steady supply of water to make it ideal for this purpose. This river never over-flows and due to the natural fall or slope of the land seldom freezes entirely over. Our soil is of the finest silt loam—no rock, no worry of soil erosion, no stumps or trees to interfere with the tilling of the soil, except close to the steams and along the river bottoms.

Each year, until now, we produced crops, usually enough to carry us through the winter but at some period each summer our crop is cut short by a dry spell. We must farm too many acres with too much high-priced machinery, and through too many poor years to make it profitable so that we can get ahead. The past three years have been partial drouths, and this year of 1934, being one of complete crop failure puts us in a sorry plight indeed.

We were all highly elated about a year ago when word came to us that the PWA was going to make it possible to secure loans for power and irrigation. We were confident that we had all the good qualities to be considered, and raised several thousands of dollars for the preliminary survey, and for engineers to figure costs and construct plans to present our project to Washington, known as the "North Loup power and irrigation project". Remember, we were not asking for a gift, but for a loan at a reasonable rate, to enable us to pay for it over a period of years, and in the meantime be able to live and procure a few of the necessities we are at present doing without.

Night is here. Do you see the lights in the farm houses? They are rather dim. Yes, there are the old-fashioned coal oil lamps. We must use them. See that little white house at the rear of the dwelling. Each in turn must travel this way several times daily, through heat, cold and blizzard, often when we are utterly exhausted by the altogether too many steps we have taken during the day. Water is carried in buckets from the well at the windmill often too far from the house because it must be accessible to the livestock. Had we power these are some of the first things we would receive.

We are coming to a little town. We will put our ponies up for the night, get our supper at a little restaurant and find a place to sleep until morning. You will notice at each of these towns an elevator, sometimes several, and a stockyard. The elevator is vacant looking with a few sickly weeds growing about the approaches. Maybe an elevator man is sitting in the door way smoking a pipe (No need for Camels, for there is no hurry nor work to do). The stockyards show signs of recent use. At the restaurant we will have a good substantial meal at moderate prices. What delicious potatoes, vegetables and fruits are served. We did not see any in the fields as we passed through. No, these are brought in by trucks from irrigated districts. We farmers cannot have them this year, but we will have them when we have irrigation, for in years past, when rains fell, we have raised potatoes and vegetables that have no superior. In fact we can raise almost anything except cotton.

We will have a good night's rest, for this air is surely bracing, like mountain air. The altitude is high and the mornings and evenings are delightful and the sunsets and sunrises are beautiful.

In the morning we will continue through this wonderful of fertile valley surrounded by the great sandhill country. The hills are very productive in good years. Thousands of cattle and horses graze through the summer and thousands of tons of hay are put up for winter.

We will go directly into the hills. Often you will notice a grove of trees and a windmill, usually in a sheltered spot. Each marks the home of a family, some very modest and others more pretentious, but most of them shelter hearts that are heavy with fear and anxiety. All along the way whole families have been at work gathering the too pitiful results of our extreme summer. Often whole sections of farm lands have not a ear of corn, nor even a tassel, and the fodder they are cutting is dry and withered. From six to eighteen inches high. It is too small to cut with a binder and when mowed and raked is too full of dirt and old stalks and dirt to be very good for cattle and horses.

The government is buying our cattle to keep them from starving. There will be very few dairy and beef herds left by the time winter is here. Uncle, do you know your agents are getting these cattle at prices that are a mere hold-up? Many are herds that have taken years to build. True, the government is paying more than cattle buyers or commission houses will pay. Buyers can stand by at the yards and buy the pick of these herds as they are run through by the thousands for but fifty cents more than your agents offer. They are leaving by great train loads, never to return, for we will not be able to get them back in the spring. We are selling cows that cost us ninety and a hundred dollars a few years ago for twenty dollars a head, and their calves for from four to fourteen dollars. We are forced to sell at a price below production. If we should wish to keep our cows, hay would cost us from fifteen to twenty dollars a ton and cotton cake fifty-two dollars.

Our cream and poultry checks have bought our food and clothing for many years. We always figure that it takes the rest of the income to pay taxes, insurance, interest and upkeep, but usually it falls far short so that most of the cattle money is spent before we get it. Yes, we have our first government reduction checks, but how much will we have by the time we have paid the administrative costs to an army of employees for nearly a year, from the amounts extracted from our allotments? When we produced an abundance the price was low and now that we have nothing to sell of what benefit will high prices of corn, hay and hogs be to us? How can we live through the winter with no cream check? What will we put in our pastures next spring? Coal costs from twelve to fifteen dollars a ton. We have no corn cobs, hay or timber to burn. During the last few winters we have cut nearly all of the available wood. How are we to keep warm? One by one we are giving up our daily papers, telephones, radios, autos, churches and schools. Our churches cannot pay the clergy. Our schools that formerly paid from eighty to a hundred dollars per month for rural teachers are now paying from thirty-five to forty dollars. I heard one teacher remark that she was to get thirty-five dollars this year and know of another girl with a four years teaching course and a graduate from the University of Nebraska who is glad to teach a rural school for forty dollars a month. Is this prosperity or a new deal for the farmers? Is it square?

This is purely an agricultural community. We have no mines, timber, oil wells or factories to work in. When we are deprived of the cow and the hen we have lost our all.

Can the FERA take care of us? We are opposed to those rehabilitation schemes. We have struggled here to clear the land and to build our homes after our own plans. We have reared our children here and love the places and our neighbors; all are a part of us. Just give us the project we ask for and you will see great developments in this region, and create a great demand for not food and clothing alone, but for all kinds of building material and plumbing and electrical equipment. But no, we are denied the project because Uncle Sam, your men at Washington tell us it is not feasible; their loan is not secure enough. At the same time they are planning a great tree-planting project extending from North Dakota to Texas. What will make these trees grow better than trees we have planted? Each year we plant thousands of trees and each year thousands die from hot winds and lack of moisture. Conservation of water is our greatest need, then we will have trees.

Just how careful have our officials been in loaning our money to foreign countries? Why isn't it paid back? We paid billions for war besides losing thousands of our best men. Perhaps it was necessary, but it is doubtful, nevertheless. It would be much better to risk a smaller amount to help return prosperity to our country, both for our generation and the ones to follow. Our project would put the people of this community to work and create a demand for manufactured goods, and best of all, make us self-supporting. All we want is a chance. Without it, God alone knows the outcome.

Uncle Sam, we have filled your storehouses to overflowing with our products at too great a sacrifice for us to endure, and now that we have failed to produce crops; through no fault of our own, must we go without the things we need? We are not radical, but seeing our homes going by mortgage (very few of us were granted loans) our crops burned by drouth and our herds leaving has dazed us.

Must we, too, go the way of the Indian and the buffalo? Are we like our red brother who has gone before, at the end of the trail?

Perhaps you are hungry. You may become accustomed to it and not mind it. I know I won't for I have tried it. We have travelled far and were we to travel miles and miles further over thousands of acres we would find conditions similar to these. If you are tired and weary, jump down from the saddle and stay as long as you like or get out the best way you can as we must all do very soon.

Very Truly, a Rural Niece, and we too are bearing the nail-prints of persecution in our hands.

tended the reception at the U. B. church on Davis Creek for Ty Cummings and wife last Friday night.

About sixty friends and relatives of the Lloyd Wheeler family enjoyed a party at the Wheeler home last Friday night.

Jesse Waller, Carl Wolf and Wester went to the sand hills last Tuesday morning and expect to bring their horses home with them this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Nolde and family were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fisher in Burwell last Sunday.

School Notes.

The seventh and eighth grades had tests in arithmetic, history and geography last week. The ninth and tenth grades had tests in geometry and history.

Cletus Nolde, Herman and Roy Maxon, Edward Pawleski, Lois Manchester, Lois Wheeler and Avona Nolde had had perfect attendance for six weeks.

Lyde Smith and Roy Maxon are on the honor roll in spelling.

Roberta Maxon visited high school Friday afternoon.

Pupils absent last week were, Doris Wetzel on Wednesday, Donald Naeve, Wednesday and Thursday, Merlyn and Doris Tolen and Clyde Copley on Friday and Marvin Harris on Monday.

The eighth grade pupils are making up a play about Priscilla, John Alden and Miles Standish.

Dorphone, Delma, Frances and Cecil George Kennedy were absent Tuesday because of the death of their grandfather.

Miss Wolf and Mrs. Gudel will attend the teacher's convention, October 25 and 26.

Cattle Reduction Falls.

Harry Williams, a well-known Greeley county farmer, was greatly surprised last week when he returned from the worlds fair to find two strange calves in his barn. He later learned that they were his own twin calves, having arrived during his absence. This makes the second pair within the year and the fourth pair during his eleven years of farming. He has successfully raised three pairs. Strange as it may seem, each pair have had a different mother. Mr. Williams' attempts to reduce his number of cattle have not been so successful he thinks.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Waterman attended a birthday surprise party at Ralph Hatfield's Monday evening. The occasion was Archie Hatfield's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Sedlacek were Sunday afternoon guests at the Rudolph Kokes country home while Miss Anna Zalina attended lodge in Ord.

So and Sew are meeting this afternoon with Mrs. Gould Flagg.

long as you can. We'll slip out and go down to the academy, and see if everything is all right there. Keep him talking until we get a start."

"You bet I will! In there with you!"

Behind the door they listened, holding their very breaths in the suspense of the moment. At last came two short raps and Haskell's voice, quite thin and hollow and weary.

"You all alone?"

"Here I am all alone in the old kitchen." Jerry evaded with his usual hatred of a lie. "What's the matter, Haskell? You look as if you'd seen a ghost."

"I'm worn out! I've been hunting Balder. Do you know where he is?"

"Do I know where Balder is? How should I know where he is?"

"I thought he might be up here, passing the time of day."

"He is not—where did you see him last?"

"He told me he was going up the ravine to look for an ax he left up there—and he hasn't come back! And I need him!"

"That's a pity," Jerry said dryly. "Maybe he is still up in the ravine. Maybe he thought he'd camp there for the night."

"Are you mad?" they heard Haskell say. "Don't talk folly."

"Other people have camped up there—little camps with flagpoles close to the whirl."

"What are you driving at?"

"Nothing! Take a seat and warm yourself."

"I'm quite warm—the fact is, I've been having a bonfire burning up rubbish back of the old church. Several things that ought to have been burned long ago. They're gone now, thank heaven. Jerry I've broken the will; I've burned the four wax figures."

"When did you do that?"

"This evening—I had them carried down back of the church; the old man who drives for me helped I did right, Jerry. They've been too long a blight over the old house. New they're gone, maybe the pupils will come back. It will be a relief to walk down that corridor in the dim light and know they're not in that room, and wake up in the morning and know they are not at their eternal study. Always studying! Now that's over."

"Doctor Bracebridge may not like this," Jerry said.

"Why do you speak of him as if he were here?"

"Don't be nervous, Haskell. I suppose you done what your conscience told you to. After all, they was only wax figures—wasn't like killin' human beings."

"They heard confused sounds—then, 'Get me water, quick—it's my heart.'"

The dipper splashed in the water pail. "I'm better," came a murmur. "But I'll rest here, Jerry. I am very tired. Life comes to an end suddenly. All you worked for is like a rope of sand falling from you with every turn you make. It's bleak in the hills, Jerry—and that old academy is like a prison! I'll rest awhile, if you don't mind."

"Rest all you want. The night's long."

In the next room Arthur and Wilton looked at each other and knew the moment had come.

"Does that window go up easy?" Arthur whispered.

For answer Wilton raised it. Arthur stepped through and Wilton followed, reclosing the window softly. Once in the road they breathed more freely.

"You heard him say he has burnt the figures?"

"Yes—what do you think that means?"

"I believe he couldn't stand them another moment. He doesn't know what's happened up in the ravine—and he's nervous, naturally; wanders around as people do when they are nervous."

"Shall we tell Berenice and Janet about Balder?" Arthur asked.

"Not tonight—anyway. If we can manage, I am for taking the three women up to Jerry's tonight."

They were approaching the old church. The remains of the bonfire lay like a great red eye sinking into the earth—throwing a light on the stark wall of the building.

"Let us warm ourselves a moment."

"Not at that fire."

But they paused by it, nevertheless, their faces taking on the crimson glow, their weary bodies drooping a little. Ground wind fanned a few twigs into temporary life, and the whirling, wild little sparks went by them—went out. "What's this?"

Arthur stooped over. "A bit of blue sash! Here—I'll poke it into the embers. I feel as if I had been witnessing a holocaust of innocence. Let's get away from this horrible place."

"With all my heart. I believe there's wax sticking to my shoes."

They hurried up the hill. As usual, two lights burned on the gate posts of the great entrance gate. This they found securely locked. With the aid of a rill from a nearby fence they scaled the wall, kicking the rail down as they went. "Some one is in the drawing room. Look in, Wilton."

"All three are there—Mrs. Denver and Berenice and Janet. That's fortunate."

Arthur came to the window—and, viewing the picture inside, felt its contrast to the wild events of the afternoon and evening. The two girls were seated by the fire, close together, as if for mutual comfort.

"Ring and knock, both, Wilton. There! They've heard you. Mrs. Denver rises! Good! I hope our revered schoolmaster is still quailing under Jerry's arrows."

The girls ran into the hall—Berenice straight to Wilton—delighted, alarmed, all concern for him.

"You shouldn't be here! He'll be very angry—but I am so glad to see you. Are you very cold? Come in by the fire. I only got up today."

"Janet Mercer, you look adorable in white. Are you two playing a party?" Arthur asked.

"Very weary of this dusky house and the strange doings; Berenice ordered a fire in the drawing room, and we made this attempt to lift our spirits from the dust. Really we must have had some premonition that you were both coming."

"We know where Mr. Haskell is," said Arthur. "Calling on Jerry. It's very fine and cheerful, Janet, but I don't think Wilton should be so clearly stewed from the porch out there. Mr. Haskell may be back any moment."

They stood irresolute. "Why don't you go down in the kitchen?" Mrs. Denver suggested. "I'll keep watch. The basement door is open. Mr. Payne could slip out that way."

"You won't be afraid—alone on this floor?"

"I am only afraid of Balder."

Wilton went closer to her and whispered: "Do not speak of it—Balder was drowned in the whirl this afternoon. Mr. Haskell will be told in the morning when we send men to look for the body."

She gazed at him—for the moment speechless. "How did it happen?"

"He lost his footing."

"So the whirl got him," she murmured, "the whirl got him."

"Why do you say that?"

"He was always saying in the kitchen that the whirl would get him some day. He liked to talk of it. 'But it'll get others first,' he used to add."

"Well, it nearly did." He lingered a little longer to tell her of the burning of the figures. Then he followed the others into the kitchen, and Berenice related the strange contradictions of the academy life since Wilton's going—her guardian's frequent changes of mood—of impulses, his bitterness, his incalculable actions. "Like a distraught creature. I was sad and ill myself. These last days I could not even write to you."

"My dear—this must end—you must soon be free!"

"But how?"

"We'll plan something. We'll hammer it out some way. But we must act together—we four. Janet! Arthur! Have you any plans that may help Berenice and me?"

Janet answered from her shadowy corner. "We'll have to leave, whether we want to or not. He told me this afternoon he was sending Arthur away soon. He might keep me a little while because of Berenice—but not long."

"I cannot be left here," Berenice said tragically. "What would I do? I know my father would not want me to stay on in this strange, unhappy place—if he could know!"

"Of course he would not," Berenice exclaimed. "You can follow the paths of destiny too long and too abjectly. The sure road must open to you if you demand it. We four must go together. It's the inevitable thing!"

"But how am I to cut this chain? He's always watching me!"

"Why not come away tonight? After your guardian has gone his usual rounds, you and Janet and Mrs. Denver could come downstairs, and Arthur and I will join you. How about it, Arthur?"

"I'm agreed. It's now or never! Once you're out of the place it won't be too easy to get you back. Pack your trunks and lock them; then put in handbags what you'll need for a day or two. In the morning Wilton and I will come down here, say that you are at Jerry's and demand the trunks. I don't think your guardian will refuse to give them up."

Berenice put her hand on Wilton's arm. "Somehow I think we'd better face it out here; I hate that kind of leaving, not for his sake, but for all the memories. The place is sad—tragic—but Wilton, I feel that I must leave it in triumph—openly."

"Perhaps we can."

"Really she shouldn't go tonight," Janet interposed. "We can manage for a day or two. I can demand notice. He certainly wouldn't put us out in the snow."

They heard the heavy closing of a door upstairs. "Quick, Wilton," Fleming said. He extinguished the light in the kitchen, and they all went softly down the passage; but when they reached the basement door they found it locked and the key gone. They could hear Haskell talking to Mrs. Denver, and then his footsteps starting down the basement stairs.

"There's one room safe," Payne whispered to the panic-stricken three. "Your key, Berenice."

He had it in an instant and was opening the door. Berenice uttered a little cry. "They're gone—but they're gone!"

"Never mind; sit there in their places quick!"

He closed the door. "We can unlock it from this side."

They groped their way to the desks, and scarcely realizing from what instinct of self-preservation, they seated themselves, and Janet and Berenice bent their heads over the desks, as did Wilton and Arthur.

"He probably will go straight down the corridor. No need to look in here tonight." They could see a faint radiance in the hall which slowly moved toward them, as apparently he looked in one room after another.

ORD FARM YOUTH WILL BE HONORED AT KANSAS CITY

Harold Benn Chosen Nebraska's
American Farmer to Climax
His F. F. of A. Career.

To 19-year-old Harold Benn, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Benn of Ord, will come the highest honor that can be paid a farm youth when he is elected an "American Farmer" this week at the national convention of the Future Farmers of America being held in Kansas City. Harold has already been named as Nebraska's candidate, which is equivalent to election.

Each year the F. F. A., which organization is supervised in high schools by Smith-Hughes agriculture instructors, selects an outstanding member in each state, these boys being given the degree "American Farmer" at the national convention. It was given $100 by the Kansas City Star but Nebraska was eliminated this year so Harold will not get this award. However, he will be eligible to compete with other state winners for a cash prize of $1,000 given by the Star to the best farm boy in the United States.

J. A. Kovanda, the Smith-Hughes instructor and F. F. A. director in Ord, says Harold is one of the most brilliant students he has ever had. Harold was graduated from Ord high school in 1932 and recently completed a two-year farm operator's short course at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture.

The honor of being named an "American Farmer" is based entirely upon activity in vocational agriculture work and has nothing to do with 4-H club work, in which Harold has also been active. In fact, activity in 4-H work is somewhat of a handicap and though Harold was eligible last year he was not chosen because too many of his records were based on 4-H club work. Boys are eligible for three years after graduating from high school and this was Harold's last chance to win the coveted degree.

In high school here Harold was an honor student and graduated with a scholastic average of 94.8. He has carried on Smith-Hughes project work since 1929 and has sent in eight neat and errorless record books. In high school he was a member of various judging teams and won honors at the district convention in North Platte on several occasions.

One of the greatest distinctions Harold ever had, although it did not count toward winning the "American Farmer" award, was when he was a member of County Agent C. O. Dale's Nebraska and United States championship 4-H club crops judging team. In 1933 he competed in the world's grain conference show at Regina, Canada, and placed ninth in individual scoring. In 1932 he was president of the Valley county junior fair. Now he is a member of the county 4-H committee and belongs to a farmers' social club.

Harold left by auto for Kansas City early this week to receive the "American Farmer" award and attend the national F. F. A. convention. His picture and long stories about him have appeared in all the state papers this week. Valley county has had one "American Farmer" before, Charles Barnhart of North Loup receiving the award a few years ago. Seven Nebraska farm boys have been named "American Farmers" since the award was established.

Prehistoric Relics Are Found by Workmen

An important discovery of grinding stones, fleshing stones, flint arrow heads, bones and the ashes of a pre-historic camp-fire are reported by E. L. Hoyt, director of FERA work relief, on the Roy Hudson farm near North Loup. FERA workmen who are constructing a dam to prevent soil erosion made the find, Hoyt says.

The stones were found eight or ten feet below the surface as men were digging with spades. Since then other relics have been found at a greater depth.

Largest of the two grinding stones is about 8x14 inches and is slightly hollowed in the center. A smaller stone was evidently used to grind the grain by crushing it against the other stones. Sharp-edged stones, evidently used to remove flesh from bones were also found.

Director Hoyt and Mr. Hudson believe that a prehistoric hunting party camped at this place because pieces of hard baked clay, cinders and wood ashes were found, as well as many bones. It is hoped that more relics may be found as the work progresses.

An exhibit of the relics found can be seen at the Johnson lumber yard in North Loup. Mr. Hudson has notified university authorities and hopes a state geologist may come to inspect the site and identify the relics.

The Hudson farm is occupied by Alfred Christensen.

Legion Minstrel Show Thurs'dy, November 1

Thursday, November 1 is the date set for the American Legion's minstrel show and fun program, which is being given to help raise money for the high school band uniform fund. A one-act play by high school students, various new songs, acts, jokes, a novelty fan dance and a 45-minute program by the "Seventeen Minstrels" will comprise the evening's entertainment.

The program will be given at the high school auditorium starting at 8:00 p. m. Members of the high school band are selling tickets in advance as their contribution toward enlarging the Legion band uniform fund.

Nominal admission prices of 10c for children and 25c for adults will be charged.

BRYAN APPOINTS ERNEST KROGER DISTRICT JUDGE

Grand Island Attorney Named
To Succeed Judge Horth;
Appointment Popular.

Ernest G. Kroger, a practicing attorney in Grand Island for 25 years, last Friday was appointed by Governor Bryan as successor to the late Judge R. R. Horth. The appointment of Mr. Kroger meets with the approval of members of the Ord bar.

In appointing Mr. Kroger, Governor Bryan characterized him as one of the outstanding lawyers of central Nebraska and said he was so recommended by members of the bar. Kroger was not an applicant for the appointment but consented to stand as a candidate when urged by other members of the Grand Island bar.

ERNEST G. KROGER

Bryan said there were few applicants and that for some time it appeared he would be unable to induce any leading lawyer to accept the appointment. He said the large district which makes traveling necessary and the reduction of salaries were the chief factors.

Other attorneys strongly endorsed Bryan said, were P. J. Barrett of Greeley, W. A. Prince of Grand Island, W. F. Spikes of St. Paul and Ralph W. Norman of Ord. He said all were recognized as men of ability which made a selection difficult.

Judge Kroger was born in Saunders county, Feb. 15, 1883 and graduated from the University of Nebraska law school in 1909. In September, 1909 he went to Grand Island and entered a partnership with the late Arthur Joseph. Ten years later he became a partner of Arthur C. Mayer, a partnership that prevails until the present time.

Kroger will assume the duties of his new office as soon as he can dispose of his present law practice.

Judge E. P. Clements of Ord, Kroger's colleague on the bench of this district, characterizes him as one of the finest attorneys in the district. He predicts that Judge Kroger will be eminently satisfactory as a jurist.

Mrs. Samla Gets Divorced.
Mrs. Mary Samla of Garfield county was granted a divorce last week at Burwell by District Judge E. P. Clements. Her husband, James Samla, is serving a term in the state penitentiary for burglary, having been sentenced here some months ago.

Fred Andersen Speaks.
Fred W. Andersen of Cozad, defeated in the race for the democratic nomination for congressman, will speak at the court house here tonight in behalf of the democratic ticket.

United Brethren Missionary society met Thursday with Mrs. Bert Needham. There was the usual attendance.

ARTHUR CAPRON ELECTED HEAD OF NEBR. TITLE MEN

Abstractors Association Chooses
Ord Man for President At Meeting in Columbus.

Arthur B. Capron of Ord was elected president of the Nebraska Title association Saturday at the organization's annual convention in Columbus. W. B. Hanson of Fremont was chosen vice-president and Guy E. Johnson of Wahoo was elected secretary-treasurer. Members of the board of directors include W. C. Weitzel of Abilene, retiring president, George M. Lathrop, Nebraska City, E. E. McKee, Alma, Leo Crosby, Omaha, and Archie M. Smith, Pender.

Mr. Capron, of the Capron Agency has been a member of the title association since 1919. He was appointed one of five vice-presidents in 1932 and last year was appointed to the executive committee. His elevation to the presidency this year is a great honor.

Bringing the presidency of the title association to Ord will mean that at least two regional conventions of abstractors and examining attorneys of the 5th congressional district will be held here during the coming year, Mr. Capron says, in addition to a number of closed meetings for the officers and board of directors.

"During the past year regional meetings have been well attended, with practically every county represented, and with proper cooperation from Ord's fine bunch of attorneys I feel that these meetings can be made even better this year," declares President Capron.

One of the first tasks that will confront the Ord man will be appointment of executive, legislative and legal advisory committees. Next year's convention will be held either in Omaha or Lincoln.

The Nebraska Title association was organized in 1907 and J. H. Capron of Ord, Arthur's father, was one of the charter members and held his membership continually until his retirement in 1932. He was vice-president one year and at various times was a member of important committees.

Edward R. Burke Coming Nov. 1st

Congressman Edward R. Burke, the democratic nominee for United States senator, will speak in Ord at 2:00 p. m., Thursday, Nov. 1, under the auspices of the local democratic committee. His speech here will be the only one he will make in Valley county.

Burke is very critical of the campaign being conducted by his republican opponent, Mr. Simmons and will score Simmons' denunciation of the administration very severely.

Mr. Burke will come to Ord from Burwell, where he speaks Thursday morning, and will go from here to Greeley.

Mrs. Alice Sterner Dies.
Mrs. Alice Sterner, of Brighton, Colo., passed away last Thursday, Oct. 18, in a hospital at Norfolk, Neb. Just a few weeks ago Mrs. Sterner accompanied the body of her husband to Brunswick, Neb., for burial and shortly afterward was herself taken ill while visiting a daughter in Elgin. Another daughter, Mrs. Alvin Mazac of Ord, spent several days with her mother in Norfolk, but returned home leaving her mother improving, only to be called back to Norfolk by word of Mrs. Sterner's death. Burial was in the Brunswick cemetery.

Loup City Truck Burns.
A truck owned by Peterson Bros. of Loup City and its cargo of five tons of hay burned on the highway near the A. J. Ferris farm last Friday evening. Some thing went wrong with the steering device and he could not make a turn, which resulted in the truck overturning in a ditch, the driver said. Sparks from the exhaust ignited the hay and a complete burn-up resulted, only metal parts of the truck remaining.

Rev. McCarthy Returning.
Rev. and Mrs. Willard McCarthy who were called to Michigan by the death of a relative, are expected back in Ord today and the regular services will be held Sunday at the Ord Christian church.

Press Meeting Postponed.
A meeting of the Loup Valley Press association originally scheduled to be held in Ord tomorrow has been postponed until Nov. 17. Most editors preferred the change as they are busy with election supplies and ballot work this week end.

Rotary Anns Entertained.
Members of the Ord Rotary club entertained their wives at dinner Monday evening, after which all were guests of Rotarian M. Blemond at the Ord Theatre.

Abernethy Requests Voters to Ignore His Candidacy

A new wrinkle in politics makes its appearance here this week—Jason Abernethy's request that voters of Supervisor Dist. No. 1 ignore his candidacy. In a paid advertisement in today's Quiz, Mr. Abernethy asks voters to cast their ballots for one or the other of his opponents.

At the primary election republican voters of Dist. 1 nominated Abernethy while democratic voters were nominating Joe J. Jablonski, who defeated the present supervisor, Morris Sorenson. A few weeks ago petitions were circulated to put the name of Anton J. Adamek on the ballot also. Mr. Adamek lives in the east end of Dist. 1, as does Mr. Abernethy.

In his ad this week Abernethy says he believes a three-cornered fight will endanger the best interests of Dist. 1 and he accordingly attempted to withdraw his name from the ballot only to learn that the law provides that candidates who wish to withdraw must do so at least three days before election.

Although Jason Abernethy's name will appear on the ballot, he asks voters to ignore it and cast their ballots for Jablonski or Adamek.

SUPT. C. TAYLOR WILL DEDICATE VINTON SCHOOL

Dist. 23's New $2,500 Building
To Be Dedicated Nov. 1st; Public Invited.

Charles W. Taylor, state superintendent of schools, will deliver the dedicatory address next Thursday evening, Nov. 1, when the new $2,500 school building in District 23, Vinton, is formally put into use. The program starts at 8:00 p. m. Besides the talk by Taylor a concert will be given by the Aulsebrook orchestra. Miss Oletha Williams is the Dist. 23 teacher.

John Ambros Is Dead.

John Ambros, 77-year-old resident of Ravenna, passed away at his home there last Friday. He was one of the real old-time residents of Ravenna and is survived by his wife, three sons and two daughters. John W. (Kelly) Ambros of Ord is his son and he and Mrs. Ambros drove to Ravenna for the funeral services.

MRS. J. McLAIN PASSES TUESDAY

Ord Woman's Long and Painful
Illness Ends in Death; Funeral at 10:00 Today.

At 10:00 this morning at the Sowl chapel funeral services will be held for Mrs. John McLain, who passed away at her home in Ord at 6:10 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 23, after an illness of 2 1/2 months. During all this period Mrs. McLain was bedfast and suffered terribly, and death came to her as a welcome release. Rev. Mearl Smith will conduct the final rites this morning and interment will be in Ord cemetery.

Delia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Holman, was born in Canada Sept. 10, 1862 and came to Valley county, Nebraska with her parents in 1880. In 1881 she was married in Ord to Fred Hather and to them six children were born, all of whom survive. They are: Ernest G. Hather, Chicago; Mrs. Jack Somers, Arcadia; Mrs. Myrtle Kinmont, Huntington Park, Calif.; Mrs. Mable Kear, Casper, Wyo.; Melvin J. Hather, Burwell; Mrs. Sidney Pechota, Omaha. The husband and father, Fred Hather, passed away in 1928 and was laid to rest in the Ord cemetery.

In 1929 Mrs. Hather was married here to John W. McLain, who with her children and a number of grandchildren and other relatives, is left to mourn.

Mrs. McLain was a member of the Methodist church and always attended services and took part in all church activities when her health permitted. She was widely known and will be genuinely mourned by a vast number of friends.

Republicans to Meet at Arcadia.
The republican candidates, who have been holding school house meetings over the county will hold another of their meetings tomorrow night, Friday, October 26 in Arcadia. Next Tuesday evening the same group will meet at the Davis Creek school house.

GRISWOLD, BURKE, COFFEE, LEAD IN ORD STRAW VOTE

Informal Voting Favors Norris
Amendment, Repeal and Betting on Horse Races.

Burke will defeat Simmons for senator after a close race, Dwight Griswold will be elected governor of Nebraska, Harry B. Coffee will be our next congressman, the Norris one-house legislature will go into effect and Nebraskans will soon have legal liquor and may legally gamble on horse racing if a straw vote taken here Monday proves a true indication as to the voting at the general election November 6.

Monday 220 ballots were distributed at random on the streets of Ord by Dr. F. A. Barta. Every person whom he met all day was asked to mark a ballot and the ballots were then dropped into a sealed box. Yesterday the box was opened and the votes tabulated, with the following result.

For senator—Edward R. Burke, democrat, 109; Robert G. Simmons, republican, 98.

For governor—Dwight Griswold, republican, 110; Roy Cochran, democrat, 95.

For Congressman, 5th district—Harry B. Coffee, democrat, 99; A. N. Mathers, republican, 89; written in, Clarence M. Davis 5.

Norris 1-house legislature—Yes, 95; no, 72.

Do you favor repeal of state's prohibition law—Yes, 140; no, 65.

Are you in favor of legalized pari-mutuel horse racing in Nebraska—yes, 113; no, 67.

Did you vote for Roosevelt in 1932?—Yes, 139; no, 66.

Ambrose-Ulrich Nuptials.
In front of the church, on October 22 occurred the marriage of Miss Ambrose, of Elba, to Joe Ulrich, a son of Vencil Ulrich of Ord. The single ring ceremony was performed by Judge Baird. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Ambrose of Elba and is a graduate of St. Paul high school. Mr. Ulrich was graduated from Ord high school in 1931 and farms with his father north of Ord. He and his bride went to Chicago on their wedding trip and will visit in Omaha before returning to Ord to make their home.

Dry Organization Announces Meetings

A series of meetings to fight repeal of the prohibition amendment in Nebraska is announced today by the Valley county dry organization formed recently.

The first meeting will be held Sunday, Oct. 28 at North Loup with Bert M. Hardenbrook as speaker. On Monday, Oct. 29, a meeting will be held in Mira Valley with Rev. Nye of Arcadia as speaker. On Tuesday, Oct. 30, Rev. Nichols will address a meeting in the Davis Creek M. E. church. On Sunday, Nov. 4, the Ord churches will hold a union meeting in the Christian church with Mr. Hardenbrook as speaker. On Monday, Nov. 5, Rev. Wantz will address a meeting in the Arcadia M. E. church.

A group of speakers sent out by the Nebraska dry organization visited Ord Saturday, speaking to an attentive crowd in the court house square. Every effort will be made to inform Valley county how catastrophic repeal of prohibition will be, says M. E. Cummins, president of the Valley county organization.

Asa Leonard Dies Tuesday Morning

Asa Leonard, pioneer Mira Valley resident and one of the most respected farmers of that community, passed away at his home Tuesday morning after a protracted period of ill health. He was 67 years old.

Mr. Leonard is survived by his widow and four children, Vere Leonard, Leslie Leonard, Mrs. Melvin Koelling and Miss Pearl Leonard.

Services will be held at the home at 1:15 p. m. today and at 2:00 p. m. rites conducted by Rev. Charles Wantz and Rev. C. Nichols will take place at the Mira Valley Evangelical church. Interment will be in Ord cemetery.

ONE-HOUSE PLAN TO BE DISCUSSED BY SEN. NORRIS

Ord to Have Distinguished Man
As Guest Oct. 31; 2,500 Expected to Hear Him.

George W. Norris, Nebraska's senator United States senator, is scheduled to speak in Ord at 8:00 next Wednesday evening, Oct. 31, at the high school auditorium. This is his first visit to Ord and he appears at this time to explain and advocate adoption of the unicameral legislature, which is to be voted on at the general election next month.

Senator Norris has advocated this change from two legislative bodies to one for several years and through his efforts the petitions necessary to put the constitutional amendment on the ballot were secured. He is not taking part in the present political campaign, preferring to devote his entire efforts to the legislative amendment, and his appearance here has no political significance.

GEORGE W. NORRIS.

The senator is a recognized power in the United States senate and is said to wield more influence on any question he throws his support into than any other member of that body. He has had a wonderful support in Valley county in many campaigns of the past and is admired for the continuous fight he has made for the things he has believed to be right, regardless of party ties.

Senator Norris will be welcomed by Ord and Valley county as a distinguished visitor and no doubt will be given one of the largest audiences that has greeted any speaker here in many years. The high school auditorium will seat about 1,200 but because a crowd of at least 2,500 is expected arrangements have been made for a loud speaker system and Senator Norris' speech will be clearly audible to the overflow crowd in the corridors and outside the building.

People, regardless of whether or not they favor his non-political constitutional amendment, will want to hear it discussed by Senator Norris. Every person is urged to maintain an open mind in regard to the one-house plan until after hearing it discussed by the senator.

Local Norris supporters, in admiration of his thirty years as a member of Congress and in gratitude for his valiant fight for approval of the North Loup irrigation project, are making great plans to entertain him Wednesday. He will be met at Broken Bow, where he speaks the previous day, and will be taken on a tour of the North Loup valley during the day. At 6:00 he will be the honored guest at a dinner in Thorne's cafe. At 7:15 he will be serenaded by the Ord high school band, which will then parade to the high school building and play several selections at the entrance.

Every Quiz reader should plan to hear Senator Norris in Ord next Wednesday evening.

Chicken Supper & Bazaar.
The ladies aid of the Davis Creek U. B. church will hold a chicken supper and bazaar at their church on the evening of November 1st. The charge for the chicken supper will be 25c and the ladies will be mad if you don't eat plenty.

Friday Jos. P. Barta, L. D. Milliken and Clarence Davis made a business trip to Loup City.

SHELTER BELT TO COVER MOST OF VALLEY CO.

Gov't Men Here Now to Start
Getting Right-of-way; Tree
Planting Next Spring.

That almost all of Valley county will be included in the government's $75,000,000 shelter belt program was the information given the Quiz yesterday by Alva A. Simpson, regional engineer for the enormous undertaking, who heads a party of men who are here getting information on land values preparatory to leasing right-of-way. Right-of-way will be acquired within the next two or three months and tree planting will start next spring, says Mr. Simpson.

Other members of the party who came to Ord yesterday are Frank R. Beers and James J. Rellly, the latter being a government forestry expert.

The shelter belt will extend from the Canadian line to the Gulf of Mexico, a distance of over 1,000 miles. The belt will vary in width from 50 to 200 miles.

All of Valley county except the southeast corner will be included in the belt, which will also take in most of Garfield county, all of Custer county and about half of Greeley and Wheeler counties. Above Burwell the belt narrows to about 50 miles but here it will be about 100 miles wide.

From land owners the government will lease right-of-way for the shelter belt for a ten year period with option to purchase at the end of that time.

Belts of trees eight rods in width on an average of a mile apart will be planted. On each farm these belts will be planted in the particular location that fits that farm the best and may run either east and west or north and south. Each farmer will have quite a voice in determining where the belt will be located. The belts will be continuous in length, generally speaking.

Simpson, Beers and Rellly are now busy collecting information to be used in determining what will be paid for right-of-way. The value of land in each community, going prices of crops and the land's productivity will be factors that determine how much the government will pay for each lease.

The government will assume all responsibility for preparing the ground, planting trees and maintenance afterward, Simpson says. Local labor will be employed to do the work.

Varieties of trees that will be planted in Nebraska are hackberry, American elm, honey locust, burr oak, cottonwood, green ash, Chinese elm, black walnut, osage orange, mulberry, cedar, yellow pine and Austrian pine.

As many trees as are available will be planted in the spring of 1935, Simpson says, but most of the planting will necessarily be held up until 1936 and 1937 as only a limited number of trees are now available. The government expects to purchase the entire stock of every private nursery in the country for use in this shelter belt project to contract with nurseries for as many trees as they can grow in 1935 and 1936 and expect also to start government nurseries to grow additional trees for shelter belt planting.

The purpose of this shelter belt is to reduce wind velocity and soil erosion due to wind, Simpson says. Shelter belt experts do not claim that the belt will cause more precipitation but they do claim wind velocity and soil erosion will be lessened and moisture will be conserved.

No material amount of employment will be made available locally for at least two or three months, Simpson says.

Heavy Rain Fell At North Loup, Burwell

A heavy rain that ranged from 2 to 5 inches in different places fell last Friday afternoon and evening between Elyria and Burwell, near North Loup, at Cotesfield and other places but only a sprinkle fell in the Ord community. Hall accompanied the rain in some places.

Between Elyria and Burwell the rain assumed cloudburst proportions, over 3 inches falling in less than an hour. Creeks were bank full and the North Loup river was the highest it has been in several months.

Our Best Advertisement

Quiz readers know that for several years every issue of this newspaper has carried our invitation to the public to trade at our market. Many new customers, we think, have come to our market because they have seen our ads in the Quiz.

Of course we always want new customers but, after all, it is the steady, day-after-day patrons who form the backbone of any business. And people don't return again and again unless they are fairly treated. That's why our new customers soon become steady patrons. We sell them quality meat, fairly priced, and give honest weight and quick, courteous service. That's why we say "satisfied customers are our best advertisement."

DWIGHT GRISWOLD
Republican Candidate for GOVERNOR

DWIGHT GRISWOLD'S RECORD

Dwight Griswold knows Nebraska's problems. He is the son of pioneer homesteaders, who located in Sioux County in the very northwest corner of the state 49 years ago—arriving there even before the railroad. He now lives at Gordon, in Sheridan County, a small town in the middle of a great agricultural section, where he is editor of the Gordon Journal.

OUT WITH THE POLITICAL MACHINE

VOTE—For GOVERNOR

☒ DWIGHT GRISWOLD

In the 1932 campaign Dwight Griswold assured the voters of Nebraska that, if elected, he would clean the political machine out of the State Capitol. Due to the Democratic landslide, he was defeated and the same machine is still operating. He now makes the same promise, and this year he must, and will, be elected.

He is clean, able, experienced and energetic, and living, as he does, in a farming and stock-raising community, HE KNOWS THE PROBLEMS OF THE FARMERS AND THE SMALL TOWNS.

Dwight Griswold's Program

No new forms of state taxation. They always mean additional taxes. We need tax reduction.—A strict budget law for every governmental unit.—Elimination of unnecessary state employees.—No bond issues or property tax levies for highways.—Return to Nebraska farmers the surplus Corn Loan inspection fees.—

Operate the State Highway Department upon an engineering basis and not upon a vote-getting basis. Spend the money for roads and labor—and less for traveling expenses.—

Handle relief work without political considerations—give the relief to those who need it and not to political friends. Cooperate fully with the federal and local officials.—

Develop Nebraska's water and other natural resources on the basis of fact and merit and not upon the basis of political consideration. Defend Nebraska's irrigation rights against encroachment from other states.—

Reorganize and clean up the State Banking Department.—Remove politics from the Game and Park Commission, and insist that the funds raised from hunting and fishing permits be used entirely to support that work.—Abolish the office of Land Commissioner.—No boss control in Nebraska. No Governor should select his own successor.—

Control telephone and electric light rates by providing for a public utility commission in place of the State Railway Commission. This commission should be selected on the basis of ability and knowledge, and it should furnish advice and engineering service to the people of the state in the adjustment of telephone and electric light rates.

Very few new laws—and a short session of the Legislature. Remove the Bryan Political Machine from its control of our State Capitol.

Haskell Creek

Haskell Creek has received quite a bit of moisture during the past week, some directly and a great deal second hand. Some rain fell the earlier part of the week and Friday the community was apparently in the edge of the storm. Some large hail fell but not enough to do any damage. It rained hard for just a few minutes. A twister struck at the Henry Jorgensen farm doing considerable damage to buildings. About an hour after the storm here the flood from the storm northwest of here swept down Haskell Creek over flowing the banks and taking fences with it. Nearly everyone spent Saturday morning fixing pasture fences.

The Happy Circle club met Thursday with Mrs. Frank Flynn; the ladies spent a profitable afternoon tying a quilt and pulling and carding wool while visiting. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Henry Jorgensen on Nov. 8. Mrs. Elmer Steider, Mrs. Elliot Clement, Mrs. Frank Flynn and Ilda Howerton will serve.

VALLEY COUNTY SHOE SERVICE
 C. R. Turnblade

TO VALLEY COUNTY VOTERS:

As your County Superintendent I have tried to conduct the business in office in an efficient manner. If my work has been satisfactory, why change?

I am myself a product of the Valley County schools. I have lived in the county practically all my life. Since the death of my parents, I have maintained a home in Ord. I pay both real estate and personal tax. Naturally I am interested in the economical management of school and county business so long as it is consistent with good quality. If I am reelected I will continue to make this my home and work for the best interests of Valley County children.

If I could, I would call upon every voter in the county and try to show my appreciation for the cooperation and support that has already been given me. But since this is impossible, I hope all those whom I have not seen will accept this in place of a personal call and a request for favorable consideration at the general election, November 6th.

Griswold Makes But 1 Promise to Voters

Campaigning for Governor of Nebraska, Dwight Griswold is making but one promise to the voters of the state and that is he will serve honestly and efficiently and with the common sense with which nature has endowed him. He concedes that the people of the state are tired of political promises which they know are impossible of fulfillment.

Making his campaign alone except for the aid of his friends, Mr. Griswold is visiting practically every town of the state. "His speeches," according to the Lincoln Journal, "move along at a fast pace, proceeding from point to point without delay. He has no time for political flourishes. He has some important points to cover and he does so with dispatch. Mr. Griswold is honest and clean cut."

Coming from one of the smaller towns of the state, Mr. Griswold knows the needs of the state as viewed by the average citizen. His training has been along public lines and his four terms in the state legislature have made him valuable to the state.

His home senatorial district, Northwest Nebraska, has long been known to have progressive tendencies, and it is interesting to know that Mr. Griswold was returned to the Senate in three successive terms, each time by a larger majority.

Western Nebraska piled up an imposing vote for Griswold at the primary and Democrats and Republicans alike have promised to make it pretty near unanimous November 6th.

—Thursday Mrs. Inez Edwards came from Grand Island and is visiting her son John Edwards and her daughter Mrs. Carl Sorenson.

For Unexpired Term

He has had legislative experience, serving two terms in the Nebraska State Senate, the last term was elected president of that body.
His chief interest is in farms, farming, and stock raising, and during the past ten years has given most of his time to such interests.
In Mr. Kemp's opinion the processing tax is working a hardship on both the producer and consumer; that in the final analysis, the NRA will work to the benefit of the big industries of the east, and to the detriment of the agricultural west, permitting the massing of huge fortunes under the Code System, virtually giving the big industries a government monopoly, while those engaged in agriculture and stock raising will be operating at a loss.

Burwell-Ord Game Played on Slippery Field Friday, Ends in Scoreless Tie

Chanticleers Balked by Lack of Goal Line Punch; Loughorn Passing Attack Fails.

On a soggy, slippery field before a large victory-thirsty crowd, Coach Brockman's Ord Hi Chanticleers slid in a 0-0 tie against Burwell Long Horns on the Burwell field last Friday afternoon.

The game was fast as a whole despite the condition of the field precisely-executed plays and thrilling runs were scattered here and there throughout the game. The two teams were about evenly matched in both weight and fighting spirit. Consequently they played a very close and hard fought game.

In the first half, Ord all but submerged the Burwell lads and only failed to score because of that final scoring punch so necessary to a team when it gets on the ten-yard line. The second half saw the Ord team come back with determination on their faces while the Burwell team had resolved to win or else.

The third quarter was fought between the 20-yard lines and several long runs and beautiful punts were featured in this quarter. When the third quarter ended the score was still, Ord 0-Burwell 0. Late in the fourth quarter the noted Burwell passing machine began to click and they drove deep into Ord territory. About this time the Ord team woke up and besides keeping the Burwell team from making a touchdown, they actually pushed the Long Horns back for a large yardage loss. A few moments later, the game was ended, Ord 0-Burwell 0.

The most thrilling moment of the game was when Marks, Ord halfback flash, broke loose and ran for over thirty yards before he was brought down with a flying tackle by a desperate Burwell man.

Before the game was ended the rain fell in torrents, and sheets of water ran over the football field. The crowd walked unheedingly up and down the field watching the game closely, play by play. A very large delegation of Ord rooters accompanied the team on the trip including the Ord High Band. The Ord cheer leaders kept the team constantly informed of the schools loyalty with cheering songs and yells which would equal any college pep section.

The starting line up: ORD BURWELL Michels, r. e. Wagenen, r. e. Severson, r. t. Webb, r. t. Pray, r. g. Graber, r. g. Rose, c. Rose, c. Koelling, l. g. Doran, l. g. Wilson, l. t. Chamber, l. t. Blessing, l. e. Eberle, l. e. Marks, l. h. Messenger, l. h. Haskell, r. h. Anderson, r. h. Carlson, q. Hoppes, q. Greathouse, f. b. Snyder, f.

Wow! I wish we had a motion picture of that Burwell-Ord game. Then everybody could see our team in action and see for themselves what actually goes on inside a real football game.

In non-conference games the Loup Valley has come out ahead, taking 7 victories and 4 defeats. Two of these defeats at the hands of the fast Broken Bow eleven.

The Nebraska Huskers, although they haven't such a wonderful team as last year, still are powerful enough to go through the Big Six Conference with flying colors. The Huskers walloped the Oklahoma Sooners 6-0 in the remaining few minutes of the game played at Norman, last Saturday.

The Ord fans sure missed "Bud" Shirley's restraining line at the Ord-Burwell game Friday afternoon. Half of the time the spectators were in the middle of the field. Pretty dangerous in that game! And how!

The papers report that Ross is hunting a return battle with Conzoneri, which will be fought in Chicago. Ross wants to show off in front of the home folks and Conzoneri is the only worthy opponent at hand.

Whoopee! Here's the dope on the Loup Valley Conference as it has been played so far:

Miss Roelse (in Public Speaking) William, have you read "Freckles"? William: No, just plain ordinary brown ones.

What's this we hear of Mr. Watkins sitting down just outside of room 21 to tie his shoe?

Junior Class Will Give 'Shirtsleeves'

"Shirtsleeves" is the name of the class play which the Juniors will present this year. It has a cast of eighteen members.

The play is an outstanding one as is proved more fully by this article printed in the "Lagnappe" regarding it: "In the annual survey which Players Magazine makes each year to determine the plays most frequently mentioned in reports from producers throughout the United States, 'Shirtsleeves' received high honors among high schools for the second consecutive year."

Tryouts for the play are to be held on October 29. Any member of the Junior class is eligible to try out.

Kiddies' Column

The citizenship contest of the Fairies and Brownies, divisions of the first grade, is in narrow margins with the Brownies one point ahead.

Several fifth and sixth grad students have given reports on the Black Spider.

The African Jungle, a booklet made by the fourth grade, is now in Miss Rowbal's room.

Billy Long has returned to school after a weeks illness. Eleanor Stowell has moved to California.

Elizabeth and Keith Kovanda brought some very interesting Indian Relics to school and explained them to the grade rooms.

Visitors this week at the grade school were Mrs. Will Kokes, Mrs. Rolland Ayres, Maude Clements, Pearley Shirley, Mrs. Cahill, Mrs. Horace Travis, Mrs. Laklin and Mrs. Stanley McLain.

The nursery school opened last Thursday with an attendance of 16. At the present time there are twenty enrolled and it is hoped that in a few weeks the enrollment will total forty or fifty.

The general schedule is this: The children come to school at 8:30 or 9:00 in the morning. First they are given a daily medical examination of the eyes, throat and ears. If the weather is favorable they then have a thirty or forty minute play period out of doors. At ten they are served tomato juice and cod liver oil, followed by a half hour indoor play period. At noon they are served their regular meal. They are then taken to the dormitory for an hour of rest. They are allowed another thirty or forty minute play period followed by a milk and cracker lunch. They are dismissed at three for the afternoon.

Play Day in Ord Wed., October 31

Ord will be host to all the schools in the Loup Valley at the play day to be held here October 31 at one o'clock. Every school may send fifteen girls and their sponsor.

The afternoon program will be opened with thirty minutes of entertainment furnished by the Ord organizations. Evelyn Loft, Girls Athletic president, will give the welcoming address and this will be followed by a response from some member of an adjoining school. Musical numbers will be provided by the musical department under the direction of Mr. Duncan.

The games that will be played during the course of the day are kittenball, basket ball, speed ball, volley ball and a miscellaneous group of games. The afternoon will be divided into five, twenty-five minute periods with five minute intermissions, and has been so arranged that each group will play each game during the course of the afternoon.

At four o'clock a lunch will be served by members of the Home Ec class under Miss Baird's supervision.

G. R. Candy Stand Open in Corridor

Have you ever walked down the hall and noticed someone munching contentedly on a luscious looking candy bar? Of course, and doesn't it make our mouths water? All right then, you don't have to stand and envy others just because you haven't a bar of candy in your fist and your mouth full from teeth to tonsils. Just take out one of those hoarded nickels and step up to the candy stand and purchase your favorite bar. This booth is open for a half hour each noon and evening.

The stand is operated by the Girl Reserves and they are assisted by the Hit-Y boys at football games. Patronize this school stand, because it is a part of O. H. S.

Editor: We cant accept this poem. It's terrible, no verse at all. Why, it's merely an escape of gas.

Laverne Lakin: Oh, I see. Something wrong with the meter.

EDITORIALS

Isn't it grand to have the clocks in running order again? I had almost overcome the habit of looking at the clock every five or ten minutes. I overheard a teacher say the other day that at least the students could not shut up their books five minutes before the bell rang and prepare to dash at the first suspicion of a sound. That's all true but most of the students sat without studying for fifteen minutes in expectation of the bells ringing before they were repaired.

I have found, much to my surprise, that some students do not even know that there are 300 new books in the school library. The librarian reported that there have been but very few books checked from the library by the students and those only because they were required for English book reports. These books were purchased for the students' use and we can best show our appreciation by reading them.

One never knows just how much he doesn't know until he takes a test. I found this to be true and after listening to such exclamations as "Wasn't that test terrible," "I never even heard of the Zenger Case before," and many others, I know that others feel the same way.

Report Card Time already, unfortunately. It seems impossible that six weeks have already slipped by. The first week was spent in getting used to school, the second in getting adjusted and the third of the six weeks in really getting started. Then we really begin to settle down to the routine school work. But only three weeks out of six spent in actual work does not, as you have no doubt discovered, make for an A grade.

A PENNY FOR YOUR THOUGHTS

We asked this question of the students this week, "What improvements would you like to see made in the school?"

We'd like to have high school dances held in the auditorium, properly conducted and chaperoned by the instructors.—Pauline Barta and Maxine Haskell.

I'd like to see more respect for the appearance of the halls.—Miss Johnson.

This Week's Sponsor is JOHN P. MISKO

John P. Misko, who sponsors this issue of the Oracle, is a young Ord attorney in whom every student of Ord High feels a personal interest and pride because he is peculiarly an Ord product.

Born in Ord October 12, 1904, Mr. Misko has just turned thirty years old yet is one of the foremost members of the Valley county bar. He was educated in the Ord schools and was graduated from Ord High in 1921 after a brilliant career in athletics and in student activities. He played center on the Ord football teams of 1919 and 1920 and was a forward on the basketball teams of those years. He served as class president, was a member of the student council and all during his high school career was active in Hi-Y work and in other activities.

Mr. Misko's university education was very complete. When he first entered Wesleyan University in the fall of 1921 he had fixed medicine as his future career and studied several years with this in view, attending two years at Wesleyan, then transferring to the University of Nebraska where he spent two years in the Arts and Science college and then attending the University of Nebraska school of medicine at Omaha for two years.

During his second year in medical college, however, John found the study of medicine less and less attractive and found himself more and more interested in being a lawyer so, in 1927, he wisely decided to abandon a profession that was becoming of little interest to him and enroll in law college. This he did, graduating from the University of Nebraska law college in 1930 with high honors. But John does not feel that his study of medicine was wasted for many times he has found his medical knowledge of value to him in the practice of law.

After graduating from law school Mr. Misko went to Holdrege and practiced for a time, coming to Ord about Jan. 1, 1932 to enter a law partnership with Bert M. Hardenbrook. This partnership continued until a few months ago and Messrs. Hardenbrook and Misko still have their offices together and are the best of friends, although the partnership has been dissolved. John Misko is now the republican nominee for Valley county attorney and it is confidently predicted that he will be elected next month.

A young man of varied talents is John Misko. As an amateur actor he has displayed marked ability and has played the lead in several home-talent plays. He is noted as a public speaker and several times has addressed the Ord high student body as well as appearing on other public programs. He possesses an excellent voice and is now a prominent member of the American Legion chorus, which is devoting so much time and effort to raising money for the band uniform fund.

Mr. Misko is married and has two handsome sons, Jimmie and Jackie. Both he and his wife are regular attendants at the Ord Presbyterian church.

Football and basketball fan, amateur actor, public speaker, musician—yes, John Misko is all of these but he is, above all, a thoroughly competent lawyer. He has practiced successfully in county court, district court and in the Supreme court since coming to Ord and has been highly complimented by rival attorneys and by judges before whom he has practiced.

Interested as he is in all Ord high school activities, Mr. Misko welcomed the chance to help by becoming one of the Oracle sponsors. It is too bad students cannot vote at the coming election, for John would poll almost 100 per cent of the votes among his friends in Ord high.

The Oracle is made possible by this group of Loyal Ord business and professional men and women—give them your support and patronage:

Dr. F. L. Blessing, Orville H. Sowl, Ed. F. Beranek, J. C. Penney Co., John P. Misko, L. & L. Tire and Battery Station, Auble Motors, Dr. C. W. Weekes, Chase's Toggery, Dr. Glen D. Oct. 31, Wednesday—Girls' Play Day at Ord.
Nov. 2, Friday—Football, Ravenna here.
Nov. 9, Friday—Football at Ansley.
Nov. 5-11, American Education Week.
Nov. 23-24, Press Convention at Lincoln.
Nov. 29-30, Thanksgiving Vacation.
December 7—Junior Play.

Nov. 1 Is Date Set for Legion Program; Students To Give 1-Act Play, "Veneer"

What the American Legion hopes to be the final drive for the band uniform fund will be a Minstrel show, with its many jokes and wisecracks, presented by the American Legion Male chorus at the high school building, November 1. Although the minstrels will be the feature of the evening, "Veneer", a clever one-act comedy directed by Miss Carol Roelse, will be given by several high school members. The high school orchestra will provide music between acts.

DO YOU KNOW?

The Public Speaking classes have been giving individual and group pantomimes during the past week.

A convocation and pep rally were held last Friday. Several numbers were played by the band, yells were led by the high school cheer leaders and a short skit, a comic portrayal of "Young Loch-Invar", in keeping with the game to be played at Burwell, was given by Edna Loft, LaVerne Lakin, William Goff and Virginia Weekes.

Mr. Cowel went to Peru to attend the home coming game over the week end.

Arthur Auble is the editor of a humor column, "Bronc-Itis", on the Hastings Collegian Newspaper staff.

Miss Slotte's Civics class is making a class scrap book which contains pictures, clippings, papers, and illustrative material on the different branches of government. Julia Fuss is general chairman, with Maxine Bossen and Mildred Craig as assistants. Wilma Severson and Laura Nelson act as chairmen of the other committees.

School was dismissed at Wednesday noon this week so that the Ord instructors might attend the Teachers' Conventions at North Platte, and Lincoln.

As a result of competitive try-outs, Rodney Stoltz, junior at Nebraska Wesleyan University, has been elected to the Wesleyan Men's Glee Club. He was one of thirty-two selected from fifty who competed for membership in the club. He has also been named business manager for the group.

A grade school teachers meeting was held last Thursday night at the high school.

Bulletins were prepared and sent out to the patrons explaining and concerning health examinations last week.

The Cal-Hi Junior Play, "He's My Pal", will be given November 8 in the Fort Calhoun City Hall.

Ord Students Given Physical Check-up

Each year the public schools are required by law to give the pupils a physical examination. In order to make more clear just what is done in this examination, letters have been sent to the parents outlining the work in a brief way. Anyone wishing to know more about the examination or the schools health program is urged to call at the office and those in charge will be pleased to explain more fully.

Preliminary work is done by the teachers and includes checking weight, testing the hearing, observing the pupils for symptoms of various physical handicaps and checking on posture and carriage. It has taken several weeks to collect this data, and the work was done during hygiene classes, study periods or whenever it did not interrupt the regular program.

The special eye, teeth, and medical examination is done by local optometrists, dentists and physicians. The eye examination is extended over a period of several days, while the dental and medical examinations are completed in one day, with all physicians and dentists of the city assisting.

The final recording is done after all these reports are completed. The results of the examinations are sent to the parents as an aid in protecting the health of the student. The parents are urged to cooperate with the school and can aid by returning the notification cards as soon as the necessary treatments have been taken.

Faculty Attending Dist. Conventions

Due to the fact that the teachers are attending the Teachers' Convention at North Platte, school was dismissed Wednesday morning and will not begin until Monday.

The Ord educators will have a prominent part in the program when District 4 of the Nebraska State Teachers Association convenes at North Platte, October 24-26.

Several of the teachers will attend the convention in Lincoln and in the next issue of the Oracle will bring the news of the activities at both District 4 and 1.

Organizations

The Future Farmers of America held their first meeting last Tuesday to elect officers for the coming year. Archie Hatfield was elected president, Leonard Kilma, vice-president, Dale Mella, secretary, Richard Rowbal treasurer, Walter Anderson, sergeant-at-arms, and Lester Peterson, reporter.

The Girl Reserves met at the high school Monday, October 15, for their second regular meeting of the year. Eleanor Keep was in charge of the program.

Dorothy Allen, music chairman, led the group in singing. Mrs. Mearle Smith sang a pleasing solo. Her daughter, Marge Jean, played her accompaniment. The topic for the evening was "The Caucus Race." After a general discussion of the topic by the girls present, Charlotte Blessing spoke on "The Green Eyed Monster, Envy." Miss Jacobsen discussed "Snobs and Cliques." The girls then retired to the auditorium for a third of a series of Alice in Wonderland adventures, "The Caucus Race."

Knighthood of Youth Club. By Mildred Timmerman. October fifth the Senior Normal Training Class organized a Knighthood of Youth Club under the direction of Miss Mildred Jacobsen.

The purposes of this organization are: First, The development of personality; Second, The encouragement of individual participation in the activities program of the school; Third, The training of Normal Training students in methods of conducting similar clubs in rural schools and Fourth, The development of a specific program of character education for the rural school and community.

The officers elected and committees appointed are as follows: Chairman, Laura Nelson; vice chairman, Elma Rybin; secretary, Isabelle Suchanek; treasurer and reporter, Mildred Timmerman; library committee, Wauweta Cummins; program committee, Maxine Bossen; attendance committee, Leonard Greathouse; scholarship committee, Gertrude Packer and castle committee, Gerald Turner.

A Halloween party for a number of the pupils in the grade school is now being planned.

Convocation Committee. The convocation committee with Mr. Cass as sponsor, Joy Auble as chairman and Norma Mae Snell as secretary, are busy planning many interesting programs for convocation.

Those who serve on the convocation committee are Darlene Anderson from room 25; Joy Auble, room 14; Harold Koelling, room 15; Virginia Weekes, room 20; Norma Mae Snell, room 16; Virginia Sack, room 22; Jack Petty, room 24; Beverly Reel, room 19; Robert Malolepsky, room 5, and Robert Albers, room 3.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Friend Leggett:

Several of the boys at the community dance asked me to write up some dope on the affair. As the communities around Ord were all represented as well as Ord itself they thought it would make interesting reading. I will run the ad every two weeks just the same so this is not done to save a dollar.

Several weeks ago the country and town people asked me to start a community dance at the Bohemian hall in Ord. I was agreeable, provided they selected me a live committee to help, so Walter Jorgensen, John Koll, Gerald Dye, F. J. L. Benda, and myself tackled the job of putting on the old time community dance every two weeks. The first dance was held October 5th. Eighty couples came out and had a good time. Paddocks North Loup band furnished the music. Besides the 80 couples there were several single ladies (you old bachelors take notice). The first dance was a success. No drunks, no rowdies, just a general good time. The storm of October 19th kept a lot away from our second dance, but there were 50 couples and some extra ladies (they are not as timid as the men bachelors). Paul Hughes and family furnished the music. Paul can play anything except the flying Dutchman. When the crowd called for that Paul said nothing doing. I think Paul is Irish so that didn't appeal to him. Charley Burdick showed us some fancy steps in the first dance, but I guess he got a Charley Horse or something for he did not show up at the second dance. There was a great storm all over the north and east of Valley county so it kept all of those neighborhoods away. Henry and Walter Jorgensen had a cyclone that did a lot of damage and the creek got its back up so they couldn't come and Gerald Dye said the storm was too much for him but he said he would be on the job the next time. I had John Koll stay away to give the Vinton bachelors a chance, then they did not come. Frank and Jessie Jobst braved the storm and were at the dance. Gene and Lila Chipps got scared out but promised to be there next time. Abe Lincoln heard it thunder so thought the farmers would stay home and see it rain so lost out on the last dance. Our official broadcast man for the square dances, Ernest Foster was sick so Allie Pierce and Sam Bricker called the swing 'em around dances. Will Misko and wife braved the storm and danced the old time dances with the rest of us. Will Nelson was also in the storm area. He had a big crowd of relatives and neighbors lined up to come but the roads were under water and beat us out of some good company. I listened in on some of the visits but didn't hear anyone bragging on their big corn yields.

When it came to the Davis Polka Joe Bartos and wife were voted the best dancers with Rudolph Kerchal and wife a close second. The co-operative creamery was represented by the bookkeeper, Ed Kerchal. Ed will be a good old timer by the time he is as old as the rest of us, but Ed is not alone, as there are quite a number of young people who attend our dances. We are glad to have them and in honor of them the management has some new time dances mixed in with the old. H. D. Leggett tells me he is going to come down some evening to the dance and show us old timers some fancy steps. H. D. danced in the days of the hoop skirts and bustles when there was plenty of room and he says he did not tramp on the ladies toes like we do nowadays. George Greenwalt and band will play for the next dance. Look for our ad in the Quiz next week. This is a community dance. That means town people as well as us farmers, anyone who wishes a good, clean dance with lots of fun. A fellow don't have to get drunk to have fun at a dance. Come over next week and have fun with us.

Ernest S. Coats, one of the old-timers.

Albert N. Mathers, republican nominee for Congress, was advertised to give an address in Ord last evening but because of the early hour at which the Quiz goes to press it is impossible to carry an account of it in this issue.

THE ORD QUIZ

Ord, Valley County, Nebraska
The Quiz is $2.00 a year.

H. D. LEGGETT . . . PUBLISHER
E. C. LEGGETT . . . EDITOR
H. J. MCBETH . . . FOREMAN

Entered at the Postoffice at Ord, Nebraska, as Second Class Matter Under Act of March 3, 1879.

THE FERA DAIRY.

The Quiz has been asked to publish a full and complete explanation of the proposed FERA dairy, which seems to be a bone of contention in Ord just at present. An investigation has been made and we hereby offer as fully as possible details of the plan, who originated it, who is sponsoring it, the arguments pro and con and the project's present status.

Alfred Weigardt, clerk of the district court and former CWA director for Valley county, apparently worked out the plan of establishing a FERA dairy here, though he modestly gives credit to John Haskell for suggesting the idea to him. Anyway, Mr. Weigardt suggested the plan to E. L. Hoyt, director of the work division of the FERA in Valley, Greeley and Nance counties, and is still its principal sponsor. The plan, as worked out by Weigardt, is substantially as follows:

Using government funds the FERA would purchase from farmers 50 head or more of dairy cattle that might otherwise have to be sold as drouth-stricken animals. FERA funds would be used to lease a suitable place for a dairy, the Valley county fair grounds being suggested. FERA funds would be used to purchase feed, hire labor to care for and milk the cows, install sanitary dairy equipment, bottling equipment, etc., and for the transportation of milk to other towns of the county. The milk would be distributed gratis to families on the relief rolls.

Having originated the dairy plan, Mr. Weigardt took it to the recent state American Legion convention in Grand Island and secured the approval of the Relief committee of that organization. Legion relief officers took the matter up with state FERA heads and secured their approval and it was decided to use Ord as a "proving ground" for an FERA dairy. It was figured that the project if tried here would have the enthusiastic support of its sponsor, Mr. Weigardt, and would be under the authority of Mr. Hoyt, who was already familiar with the plan.

Ord dairymen, however, fought the plan from its inception. If the FERA had money available to buy cows, buy equipment, lease buildings, buy feed and hire labor all for the purpose of producing milk, it had sufficient money to buy the milk from established dairies instead, they argued. Why not help local dairies, which are already producing more milk than they can sell, instead of starting a new dairy, they asked? And many farmers and Ord business men, familiar with the high cost and wasted money of anything the government operates, sided with the dairymen.

The Valley county committee has as its chairman Jos. P. Barta of Ord. Other members are Charles Johnson of Davis Creek, representing the county board of supervisors, Mrs. W. J. Hemphill of North Loup and Wm. Ramsey of Arcadia. Chairman Barta and Mr. Johnson are completely opposed to the FERA dairy plan and the other two members are said to be undecided. Asked to sign a formal application for an FERA dairy to be established here, this committee is said to have refused.

Dairymen, most of whom are stockholders in the fair association, approached officers and directors of this organization and claim to have secured their promises that the fair grounds will not be leased to the FERA for the purpose of starting a dairy.

At a recent meeting of the American Legion Mr. Weigardt, who is still strongly in favor of the dairy, told Legionnaires that the project is at a standstill and the strong and active support of the Legion is necessary to push it across. A lively debate then ensued with a majority of Legionnaires present apparently being against the Legion having anything further to do with the dairy project. Some Legionnaires, among them Commander Cecil S. Clark, still favor the project strongly. Others feel that starting it will work a hardship on established dairies and serve no good end, since the FERA can surely buy milk as cheap if not cheaper than it can produce it.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, in session last Thursday evening, went on record as individuals as opposing the dairy but declined to put the entire organization on record against it pending a vote at a general session.

Sentiment among Ord business people seems to be about 85 per cent against the dairy; farmers interviewed are almost 100 per cent against it.

There are 238 families now on relief in Valley county and it is estimated that an average of 2 quarts of milk daily would be needed by these families. Only 15 per cent of relief families are now getting milk, Director Hoyt claims. Budgets fixed by the state are not large enough to allow of the purchase of milk for the other 85 per cent, he claims.

Director Hoyt says he believes the FERA can produce milk cheaper than milk can be bought. He says that by buying dairy cattle now, feeding them through the winter and distributing milk to people on relief the FERA can actually save money, because next spring it will be necessary to buy the cows anyway for rehabilitation purposes and they are sure to be higher next spring than now. He does not believe an FERA dairy would conflict to any great extent with local dairymen because relief families are not now buying milk. Relief families will have to be kept this winter anyway, whether work is available for them or not, and the dairy would provide a means of giving work to the heads of many families. Many projects cannot be kept going during the winter months but a dairy could, he says.

Ord dairymen, it is understood, have offered to sell their surplus milk to the FERA for 5c per quart. There are 238 families now on relief and an average of 2 quarts daily would probably be needed. If the FERA should elect to buy milk it would cost about $24 per day or approximately $4,320 from Nov. 1 until May 1. If the FERA should elect to buy cattle and start a dairy it would cost at least $25 per head, or $1,250 for 50 head. The cost of feed would be at least $60 per head for the winter, or another $3,000. Several hundred dollars would necessarily have to be spent for equipment, probably several thousands of dollars for labor and to an outsider it would seem that the total cost of establishing a dairy capable of producing 500 quarts of milk daily and operating it until May 1 would be $8,000 as a minimum figure and $10,000 or more as a very possible cost.

A little matter like a deficit of 3 or 4 thousand dollars will not cause any worry to Uncle Sam, Mr. Weigardt or Mr. Hoyt, but it should be of interest to taxpayers who will ultimately have to foot the bill.

The Quiz believes milk should be provided, if possible, for the 238 families on relief but we also believe it should be provided in the most economical manner possible. It would seem that it is more economical to buy milk than to start a dairy.

MARION CUSHING'S RECORD
For the past four years the 77th Nebraska legislative district, made up of Valley and Garfield counties, has been most efficiently represented at Lincoln and when citizens go to the polls November 6th they will have the opportunity of voting to continue that efficient representation for the next two years. No doubt a large majority will do so.

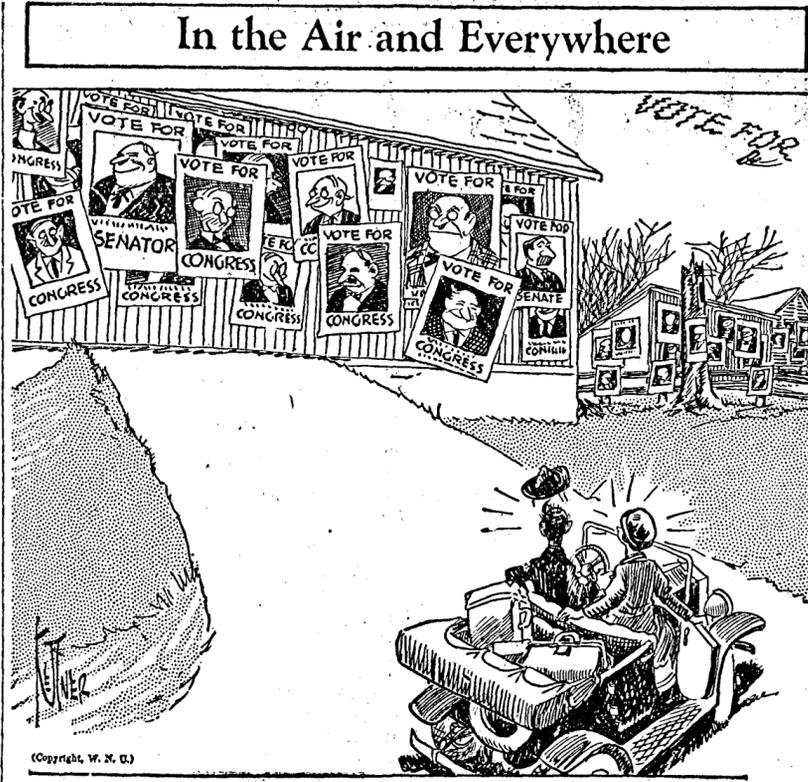

In the person of Marion J. Cushing the 77th district has had the honor of sending to the legislature one of the really strong men of the lower house. How highly he is regarded by his republican colleagues is well known but that his democratic confederates regard him quite as highly is attested by an interview with Tremore Cone, of Valley, veteran democratic legislator, printed in the Omaha World-Herald, a democratic newspaper. Mr. Cone said:

"Democrats in the next house of representatives at Lincoln should combine with a few republicans and elect some man like M. J. Cushing of Ord, a republican, for speaker. Cushing's votes in the past have shown him a true representative of the people."

And Will Maupin, formerly a writer on the Bee-News and now democratic nominee for the railway commission, wrote last winter about Mr. Cushing:

"Although a member of the house minority, Marion J. Cushing of Valley county is admittedly a powerful figure in legislative circles.

He is another legislator who represents the county in which he was born, for he first saw the light of day in Ord, when it was little more than a wide place in the road. Now it is a live city of about 2,300.

ponent, we believe the interests of Valley and Garfield counties can best be served by electing a representative who is qualified by experience and personal prestige, as is Mr. Cushing.

Something DIFFERENT

The Ord public learned an object lesson in the advantages of buying from local people recently, and learned it in the most telling and painful way . . . the hurt being via the pocket.

A big truck drove into town and parked on Tony's corner. In the back of the truck were many bushel baskets of apples, nice big, juicy looking Jonathans, I think they were. Exceptionally large and perfect, and sold at a very low price, the trucker soon disposed of the entire load and drove away.

And he didn't depart much too soon, either. For in a few minutes after he left, his once satisfied customers began to return and they didn't look very happy. They had explored their purchases and found in the lower half of the basket, where it didn't show with superficial examination, little old potatoes, windfall apples and other such stuff . . . anything, apparently to fill up the basket.

The Keith Lewis home was recently the scene of a big scramble. The whole family took part, and queerly enough, they were all armed with insect powders and sprays and things thataway.

The cause was the discovery of one of those Black Widow Spiders made so famous by recent publicity in the prints. Only this one didn't happen to be a Black Widow, but a Black Widow's husband.

Let's see, before the Black Widow's husband is dead she wouldn't be a widow, she'd be a Wife. So then, the Black Wife's Husband—is that it?

An old fellow entered the post office recently to buy a money order for five dollars. To the postal clerk's surprise, the man presented a piece of stage currency pay for the money order. In all sincerity he declared the money was good, and tried to get the post office to take it.

Perhaps he really thought so, since this man did not read the English language very easily. Perhaps someone really took advantage of him to the tune of five dollars. But the postal employees couldn't help but laugh, for one side of the would-be currency bore the legend "Five Dollars Stage Money" and the opposite side flippantly cried: "Five Smackers!"

The Business and Professional Women's group decided to dine at a church supper out at Davis Creek Friday evening, and some of the young ladies who made the muddy trip will not forget it soon. Eunice Chase will remember it because she had to get out and push several times, and to save a nice new pair of shoes she did this chore in her stocking feet. Marie Hall will remember it because she thought she had to be forcibly hauled . . . her car had to be, I mean . . . out of ditches, etc., two or three times that evening, and after several hours of such strenuous rainy night driving and struggling to get a few miles, she arrived home exhausted at eleven o'clock, with practically all the beneficial and delightful effects and remembrances of the church supper gone away.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

25 Years Ago This Week. While Mr. Tyrdik of Poplar Grove was loading hay in the haymow he became tangled in the rope and was drawn up ten feet, from where he dropped, sustaining painful injuries.

August Molzer, concert violinist, was advertised to play at the Bohemian hall.

The two-year-old son of Rev. and Mrs. E. H. Maynard created a sensation when he walked into a tea being given his mother, carrying a blue racer snake by the neck. The women immediately dashed out of doors but Mrs. Maynard returned and succeeded in separating her son from the snake.

Bess Clements accepted a job as bookkeeper in the Quiz office. The first serious automobile accident in the Ord vicinity occurred when a car driven by D. B. Huff and having as other passengers J. C. Boyd, owner, Ed Timm and Jewey Roseborough, a traveling man, rolled off a bridge into Dane Creek. Boyd, Timm and Roseborough suffered broken bones but Huff was only shaken up.

A big bunch of fellows swiped a keg of beer from the gang working on the Misko ice pond and drove down across the Coombs bridge in a wagon to enjoy it. Coming back, Pat Crow got the idea that it would be a good joke to throw the empty keg into Dane creek, which he did. However, the team became frightened and ran away, dumping the whole bunch into the water.

20 Years Ago This Week. A big republican rally was held with speeches by Senators Kemp and Hoagland. R. B. Howell, candidate for governor, was supposed to talk but was called to Omaha.

Archie Boyce suffered a broken leg while coasting near the Bailey school.

O. S. Smith took R. G. Desch, the cigar man, to Ashton but enroute their car tipped over and Desch was pinned beneath. Joe and Mike Carkoski were attending a wedding at a farm house near the accident and helped right the car and Mike volunteered to run the machine back to Ord, only to have it tip over a second time and pin him underneath. Neither Desch nor Mike Carkoski was badly hurt.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

I made a mistake last week and left out a whole box of cooked spaghetti in the French Hunter's Dinner. I am sorry and here is the corrected recipe:

French Hunter's Dinner.
Cook one bunch chopped celery and four chopped onions in two tablespoons fat. Add one and one-half pounds ground pork steak and cook until done. Then put in one box of spaghetti which has been cooked in boiling water, one can of mushrooms, one large can of lima beans, one large can of tomatoes. Cook until blended.

Mrs. L. T. Holloway, Harlan, Ia. If you tried the above recipe, I have an idea it was very good without the spaghetti, but now you will want to try it over the right way.

What do you do with macaroni and spaghetti at your house? If you have some interesting dishes that your folks like a lot made with these ingredients as base, please send them in. This Quiz cooking column cannot be a good one without help from all of you, so please do not shirk your duty! I doubt if there is a home in Valley county that has not tried some recipe from this paper by this time. If so, I think your neighborly instincts should tell you to owe one to the other cooks, so send it along, please.

Sour Cream Chocolate Cake.
Beat one and one-half cups sour cream and two eggs together until thoroughly blended. Sift together one cup white sugar, one and three-fourths cups flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon soda, and five rounding teaspoons cocoa. On the last sifting add to eggs and cream. Beat thoroughly and add one teaspoon vanilla. Bake in a greased pan in a moderate oven from twenty to twenty-five minutes.

Ella Lange, Ord.
Tomato Soup Cake.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

The highway situation is getting very serious for ordinary passenger autos because of the trucks, many of them a real menace to autolists. These great trucks, hauling ten or more tons of stock or merchandise, do not dare get far from the center of the highway and the car that meets them or has to pass them has to take a soft shoulder in order to pass. And the trucks drive at almost motor car speed, making the autolists go at an excessive speed to pass. One hates to drive very far right behind a great load of stock or goods, as the road in front is shut off to view and often it is unsafe to pass. Many truckers are nice about it and many, like many autolists, are mighty mean. If the present rate of accidents between trucks and autos keeps up, something will have to be done about it.

"Baptist youths advised to live in high plane" says a news headline. But what about the poor Methodist youths who have no plane?

I noticed that Gus Buechler took a fall out of Dwight Griswold the other day in the Grand Island Independent. Is it possible that Cochran is the choice of the power trust for governor?

With all the accidents we are having on the roads now from drunken drivers, won't it be just a hell of a mess when the prohibition law is repealed and there are a dozen places in Ord where hard liquor is sold, for that is what is likely to happen.

Are the people who are getting government money ALL going to vote the democrat ticket? Some of them at least are going to have to pay taxes to repay all that money and those MAY decide that they do not want the debt to pile up much higher. It is likely that most of those who never pay taxes and don't ever expect to do so will vote the democrat ticket.

I don't want to have a thing to do with lawyers if I can help it but if I do have to hire a lawyer I want the one who has had the most experience, the best lawyer available.

State Relief Administrator Haynes says there is absolutely no politics in Nebraska relief work. I am glad to hear that. Now if anyone thinks there is politics in it, all he or she has to do is write Mr. Haynes and tell him about it and have the matter straightened out immediately.

Only a few years ago the slogan "He kept us out of war" won the election for President Woodrow Wilson, but almost immediately he got us into war, the worst thing that ever happened to this country. I am wondering if "The New Deal" will be as unpopular in a few years from now.

It is said that a chemist has invented an ink that writes red but that turns to black in a few weeks. I wish my banker would get a supply of that ink to use in making up my account.

Attorneys and banks use a good deal of blank boxed paper. I will appreciate having the people of Ord who need that kind of paper buy it from the Quiz rather than from traveling salesmen. I carry a very good stock for your convenience all the time.

A California man by the name of Browning has devised an old age pension plan, described briefly as follows: The national government shall enact legislation providing that all citizens of the U. S., both men and women, shall get a pension of $200.00 a month after the age of 60 years. There are a few provisions. One is that after the pension starts they shall not engage in any gainful occupation; they shall spend every cent of the $200.00 within 30 days; they shall be free from any criminal record. The money has to be spent within the United States. The fund for the purpose of paying the pensions shall be raised by a special sales tax. The Missus and I could have a good time on $400.00 a month and I am in favor of the plan. Naturally we will have to pay a stiff sales tax on everything we spend the $400.00 for but since we can have a good time now on less than a quarter of the amount, we can afford to pay the tax. And look at the goods the manufacturers will have to make. Everyone under 60 years will have a job. Estimates show 8 million people 60 or over who are eligible to the pension. It is said every such person would provide a job for someone unemployed, or 8 million now unemployed and that would just about take care of the unemployment problem. Now don't laugh for something of the kind is coming.

I am wondering how many people in Valley county, have not met or seen W. M. Maupin, democrat candidate for railway commissioner. I know hundreds of them have met him and heard him speak. "Bill" Maupin, as all the newspaper boys and most of his friends call him, has been writing helpful things about Nebraska for more than fifty years. He has served in reporting and editorial work on all Omaha newspapers and many other Nebraska papers and has had and run several papers for himself. He has visited Valley county many times and has written many columns of interesting stories about and boosting this county. Mr. Maupin is not like an Indian. People say there is only one kind of good

Indian, a dead one. Some rank republicans think the same about democrats but there are some good democrats, strange as it may seem, and Bill Maupin is one of them and I am going to vote for him just as many times as the election officials will let me, on November 6. It is my judgment that there is no better posted man in Nebraska, on the needs of the common people than Mr. Maupin and if you vote for him and he is elected you won't be sorry afterwards.

I was counting up the other day and there are several hundred Quiz subscribers who are in arrears, some not much, some several months. All who are in arrears have been notified by postcard, so if they miss the paper I can't be blamed. It costs so much postage nowadays that I just can't afford to keep sending statements. If you can't pay all you owe me or a year in advance you can pay some.

I got six daily paper subscriptions last Saturday. You know, folks, I don't cost you any more to let me have that business than it does to send your own in, in fact it saves you a few cents postage.

And when you pose your pencil on November 6 and look down the line of candidates on the state ticket, you won't make any mistake if you make a cross before the name of Harry Swanson for secretary of state. Sure he is a democrat, but like Bill Maupin he is a good one and I am going to vote for him. I believe he has been looking after the interests of all the people during his first term in office and I think he is entitled to another term.

The most serious objections I have heard to Jake Barber who is running for re-election as county commissioner in the North Loup-Springdale district was from a man who pays no taxes, or very little. He said "Jake is too damned penurious in spending county money." That is something for people who have something left and have hard work to pay their taxes.

I have heard a few people say they had no use for Norris or his one house plan. I know a man who is such a rank republican that he don't think there can be either an honest democrat or a dishonest republican. I don't think people should be so biased. I believe we should have an open mind. One man who has always opposed Senator Norris, heard him at Omaha the other day in a radio address and is convinced that Norris is right and says he is going to vote for the plan. I have heard the Senator discuss his plan, both in public and in private and I am anxious to see it tried and shall vote for it. If you don't believe in it, at any rate come and hear Mr. Norris next week Wednesday evening. If you get there early you can get a seat and if you don't you will have to listen to him over the public address system without seeing him in action. Senator Norris is one of the outstanding public men of the United States. He is the most prominent man who has come to Ord in a long time and who will come in a long time and you can afford to make a little effort to see and hear him.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. KOVANDA

Some small nubbins of corn are being gathered in the lowlands. In a few protected spots along the river, local corn is yielding 25 bu. per acre, or better. This scrubby corn may make the best seed in 1935, and most of it is being saved for that purpose.

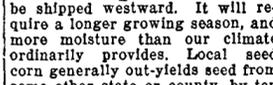

All other seed will be of questionable quality. It will come from the old 1933 crop, or from seed corn that is shipped in.

The old seed corn will probably grow satisfactorily, but there will be some risk in using it. One danger is that it may not germinate. A greater danger is that, although it may sprout in warm test-tubes, it may not have enough vitality to produce strong plants out in the cold ground. Seed corn deteriorates rapidly after two years, and, of course, never improves with age.

Two year old, home grown seed corn is usually preferable to imported seed. Corn cannot be moved westward as well as to the east; this year's corn crop lies to the north and east, and seed corn will be shipped westward. It will require a longer growing season, and more moisture than our climate ordinarily provides. Local seed corn generally out-yields seed from some other state or county, by ten bushels per acre.

In view of the coming seed corn shortage, the AAA is planning for optional purchase of certain selected quantities of sealed corn at $1 a bushel. Advance payments will be made, and the owners may sell the corn to the government, or to private individuals, for seed only.

Care of The County Board Ord, Nebr.

Dear Jake:

While W. T. Hutchins and I were trekking westward from Lakeside toward Alliance a few weeks ago, we discovered in front of us a car with a 47-license plate. Curiosity impelled us to hurry on and as W. T. pulled up alongside, I poked my head out of the window and waved a glad hello to someone from home. The passengers happened to be five beautiful ladies. It was not until that moment it dawned on me there was not a face there that was familiar, and the abashment was mutual. They returned my salutations however by reluctantly waving in return as W. T. and I sped on, leaving them to wonder what sort of crazy gals we were. Perhaps they thought, "just a couple of drunks."

We drove to Harrison the first day. Every place, the land spoke of a dry hot summer, desolate and God-forsaken, of empty bins and gaunt cattle. We journeyed on west to Douglas, Wyo., and back south and east along the Platte. Irrigation begins west of Torrington and from there east until we turned north at Gothenburg, compared with our barren fields, their land looks like the Garden of Eden. Besides that we were told that they only have half a crop. Everywhere there are beets and hay and potatoes and men by the dozens working on every farm. At Cozad, the stacks of hay look like cities of thatched-roof houses or in the distance like hay that is cocked instead of stacked. This land yields five or six tons of hay per acre and it is selling $15.00 per ton. Many of the men are paying off their mortgages this year.

What is more than this, they do not have a river that is any better than ours nor a valley that will irrigate any nicer. And then the democrats have the nerve to come to our county this year and ask for votes, after turning our proposition down, and in the place of it spending millions of dollars in building mosquito holes and planting trees to make it rain. My grandmother use to tell me of the rainmakers, but it was not the government then.

There is one thing more that I cannot quite understand. That is why the irrigationists picked a man to represent them at Washington of the republican faith. There are plenty of good democrats. There are Munn and Norman of Ord and then there are Clem and Julia Meyers of North Loup that are all democratic wheel horses and they could have at least spoken the same language as Farley and Ickes.

A very dear aunt of mine wrote me the other day from Lincoln, and in concluding her letter she said, "Yes I really prefer the Lord to Wallace and trust him a million times more." Jake, just why do you suppose she said that? Respectfully,
Geo. G.

Senator George W. NORRIS

Will Deliver A Public Address At The High School Auditorium, Ord, Nebr.

Wednesday, Oct. 31
8:00 p. m.

He will discuss and explain in detail the One-House Legislature

AN AMENDMENT PROVIDING FOR WHICH IS TO BE VOTED ON IN NEBRASKA NOV. 6, 1934

Loud Speakers

The Ord High School Auditorium will seat 1200 people, but since 2500 or more are expected to hear Senator Norris, a public address system is being installed and will make his speech clearly audible in the corridors and outside the building.

Band Concert

The Ord High School Band, Dean S. Duncan, director, will give a 15 minute concert in Senator Norris' honor at 7:15 p. m., in the downtown district, Ord, Nebr., after which the band will parade to the high school building and play several selections.

Senator Norris has fought for our Power and Irrigation Projects at Washington. You owe it to him to come with an open mind to hear his explanation of the amendment.

Hear Senator Norris!
