MATHERS SAYS STRONG FOR LOUP DEVELOPMENTS

Congress Candidate Heard By Big Crowd Wednesday Eve; Pledges His Support.

"I have already given some study to the Loup river projects, both of them, and if elected will welcome the opportunity to forward their progress at Washington," said A. N. Mathers, republican candidate for Congress, 5th district. In the course of an address on the court house steps in Ord last Wednesday evening.

"The water supply is dependable. The soil is productive, the growing season is long, land is already improved and crops grown are in constant demand. The acreage is close to market. General construction is inexpensive and every condition ideal for quick and satisfactory irrigation of these projects under government construction, with government funds. Many people are confident that my many years of experience in irrigation and reclamation development will be of great help and advantage to people of the Loup valleys," he declared.

The Gering man, who was nominated by a huge majority in August, was heard by a large and attentive crowd. He was introduced by Clarence M. Davis, who ran second to Mathers in the primary race.

Mr. Mathers impressed his republican and democratic listeners alike with his frankness, his apparent determination, if elected, to follow the dictates of his belief, i.e., to serve all of the people in his district alike, regardless of party affiliations; to vote with the administration just as long as the interests of his constituency are at stake; to be guided by the principles of America before party; to remain free from any machine or group dictation; to refuse to become merely a "rubber stamp" congressman.

"Should I be elected let me assure you that I will serve the entire district, without partiality, democrats and republicans alike," the speaker stated by way of introduction, "and I make no apologies for the brand of republicanism for which I stand, namely, 'service before politics,'" he added.

The speaker did not ramble along through a maze of political sidestepping or promising, but declared himself on subjects discussed, for or against, leaving no doubt in the minds of his listeners. "I have a definite program of my own, not that laid down by any political machine," he stated, "and am standing by it. My campaign is uninfluenced by anyone and I pay my own campaign expenses."

Mr. Mathers declared himself emphatically as favoring a sound money program and for a high tariff on products of the farm.

"Should I be your choice for congressman from this district I will feel it my duty to support the Roosevelt administration insofar as his program is, in my opinion, beneficial to the congressional district which I am serving. I shall not oppose legislation simply because it happens to be democratic in origin, if, in my opinion, it is beneficial to my district, my state or my country as a whole," he continued emphatically.

In conclusion the speaker stated that above all things restoration of confidence in government is needed and he raised the point as to whether that is possible as long as the government is going into debt at a rate of $7,690 per minute. "I don't believe you can restore confidence that way," he added.

"There are some things about the new deal which, in my opinion are commendable, but provisions made for the relief of agriculture, to date, are far from satisfactory," he concluded.

Vinton Dedication Tonight. Formal dedication of the new school house in Dist. 23, Vinton, will take place at 8:00 this evening, Thursday, Nov. 1. Principal speaker will be Charles W. Taylor, state superintendent of schools. Music will be furnished by the Auble orchestra. The public is invited to attend these exercises.

Lew Jobst Clean-Up Sale. Lew Jobst, sr., is planning to hold a clean-up sale on Thursday, Nov. 16. Watch next week's Quiz for a complete list of the offering.

Mrs. Will Misko's mother, Mrs. George Kuehnle of Nora Springs, Ia., was honored by the Jolly Sitters club last Tuesday afternoon in the country home of Mrs. I. C. Clark. It was Mrs. Kuehnle's birthday. She received a handkerchief shower and a birthday cake was served in honor of the day.

Clifford Kohl Sent To State Penitentiary

Clifford Kohl, a former Ord funeral director, last week was sentenced to serve 2 to 7 years in the state penitentiary on a charge of embezzlement. The charge was filed by the Kotz Pharmacy, of Exeter, by whom Kohl was previously employed, and trial took place in district court at Geneva. Kohl confessed to embezzling $300. Some years ago Kohl purchased the Ord undertaking establishment owned by W. T. McLain and moved his family here from Madison, Nebr. His wife died while living here. Later Kohl was married to Miss Velma Benson, whom he deserted soon after their little daughter was born. Sheriff George Round of Valley county has had a warrant for Kohl on a charge of wife desertion for several months. Kohl was arrested last week at Greeley, Colo., and returned to Geneva for trial on the embezzlement charges.

ARMY CLEARED OF SHOOTING AT AT BIG RODEO

Long Investigation Shows Bullets Not Fired From Army Service Rifles.

Burwell, Neb., Oct. 29, (Special) — After three months of investigation by some of the most capable men in the United States army, during which time every possible angle was thoroughly looked into, it has been definitely decided that the men of the cavalry troop who participated in the combat exercises at Nebraska's Big Rodeo this summer at the time the fatal shooting occurred could not have fired the fatal shots. This simply corroborates the opinion of those connected with the affair at the time, and leaves the incident as great a mystery as ever. Guy Laverty, in charge of the investigation here, received the following letter which is self explanatory:

Fort Riley, Kas., Oct. 19, 1934.
"Guy Laverty, county attorney, Garfield county, Nebraska.

"Dear Sir:

"I beg to advise that I am just informed by the president of the board of officers convened by me to investigate the unfortunate occurrence at Burwell during your rodeo there in August, that this occurrence was not the result of any act on the part of military personnel participating in your fair. This conclusion was reached by this board of officers because it had before it, among other things, the report of the ballistic expert who examined the bullets recovered immediately after the incident above referred to. The expert to whom I refer is Prof. Charles O. Gunther, Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, New Jersey. In this report Prof. Gunther advises that the bullets in question show that they were not fired from a service rifle. Since this fact is established I naturally feel relieved, but wish to assure you that if any evidence is uncovered which you feel indicates that this conclusion is incorrect, I will appreciate your so advising me at once."

"Yours truly,
A. G. Lott, brigadier-general U. S. A.—Commandant."

ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM NOV. 12

Legion and School Students To Parade' to Square; Cushing Will Speak Briefly.

Because Armistice Day, Nov. 11, falls on Sunday this year, the Ord post, American Legion, will sponsor a parade and program on Monday, Nov. 12, instead.

At 10:30 a. m. a parade led by the high school band will form at the high school building and march to the court house square. In the parade will be Legion members and other ex-service men and the entire student body of Ord high school.

The program on the court house steps will include several selections by the band and a brief talk by Rep. Marion J. Cushing.

Ord Legionnaires invite all ex-service men of the Ord vicinity to cooperate in this program.

—Mrs. and Mrs. James Colliprest have welcomed a little son born Monday in Kearney. He has been named James Edwin Jr. Mr. Colliprest was with the mother and baby, passing through Ord Tuesday evening. He was returning to his work in O'Neill.

Prebyterian church Rummage and Bake sale at Milford building, Saturday, Nov. 3.

WILL TRY MAKE FORT HARTSUFF FEDERAL PARK

Organizations Formed at Grand Island, North Loup; Norris Views Proposed Site.

Another attempt to create a federal park at the site of old Fort Hartsuff north of Elyria has been started, this time with more prospect of success than ever before. A. H. Crandall, pioneer North Loup resident, is a moving spirit in the Round of Valley county has had a warrant for Kohl on a charge of wife desertion for several months. Kohl was arrested last week at Greeley, Colo., and returned to Geneva for trial on the embezzlement charges.

At North Loup an organization known as "Trail of the Loup Historical Society" has been formed with Mrs. W. G. Rood as president and Mrs. C. J. Babcock secretary-treasurer with the sole purpose of boosting the Fort Hartsuff project.

At Grand Island the Daughters of the American Revolution are interested and have pledged support, as have civic organizations. The Ord Chamber of Commerce, Burwell Wranglers and the Commercial clubs at Scotia and Taylor will be asked to help.

Senator W. H. Thompson, of Grand Island, is greatly interested and has promised his assistance and yesterday Senator George W. Norris was taken to view the site.

It is thought that the government may be induced to buy the site and that it may be restored by means of FERA labor. There is no federal park in this part of the country. Fort Hartsuff is the only relic of Indian-fighting days hereabouts and should be preserved in memory of the pioneers.

Efforts to create a state or federal park at Fort Hartsuff in former years met with failure but the present attempt starts with much interest and under much more favorable conditions and it is likely it will succeed if citizens of the valley become interested and cooperate in every possible way.

LEGION MINSTREL SHOW PRESENTED IN ORD TONIGHT

Program to Raise Cash for Band Uniform Fund Expected to Be Largely Attended.

The black-face minstrel show and program to be presented at the Ord high school auditorium at 8:00 this evening under the auspices of the American Legion is expected to be largely attended. A clever and interesting program has been arranged and the fact that the show is being given for a worthy cause—notably, to raise money for the high school band uniform fund—is prompting people to purchase tickets quite generally.

The feature number, of course, is the 45-minute program of black-face minstrels. Everybody loves a good minstrel show with its jokes, dances and songs and the cast of the minstrel performance tonight indicates its excellence. John P. Misko will be interlocutor, endmen will be Emil Fafeita, Mark Tolen, Kirby McGrew and Ed Moyer, and other members of the Legion chorus will take part.

The Legion chorus will also sing several numbers, among them a new arrangement of "Deep River," a negro spiritual, the popular song, "Sleepy Head," and several others. Dean S. Duncan directs the chorus.

A clever one-act comedy, "Veneer," will be presented by a high school cast that includes Edna Loft, Harvey Jensen, Bert Boquet and Joe Krilek. Miss Carol Roelke is director.

Several individual dance, song and instrumental numbers are scheduled and the high school orchestra will provide music between acts.

By all means plan to attend the Legion minstrel show and program at the high school auditorium tonight. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the high school band or at the door of the auditorium.

Catholic Supper and Dance. The Catholic ladies will serve one of their delightful suppers at the Bohemian hall Saturday evening, November 3, followed by a meeting for next Thursday.

Ord Legionnaires invite all ex-service men of the Ord vicinity to cooperate in this program.

—Ladies of the G. A. R. enjoyed a covered dish dinner at 6:30 last Wednesday in the Legion hall. Guests of honor were department president, Mrs. Bessie Ridgon and department secretary, Miss Nan Miller, from Seward, Nebr. There were twenty ladies in attendance. Mrs. Will Zabludoff presented two very pretty bouquets. The hall was decorated in Halloween colors. The visitors and Ord ladies report a very pleasant time.

"Balder, I say—Balder—where the devil is that fellow hiding? Balder, I say. Come on out, now! You'll play this trick on me once too often—you great bulking coward. Balder, I say, I want your news. You were to bring me news, and you've never come with it."

"I hope Haskell will give up the search soon," Arthur remarked dryly. "I am inclined to think it's waste of time."

"Do you know where the figures are, Arthur?"

"Yes, Berenice—he burned them." He heard her sigh in the darkness. "You are not sorry, my dear?" Wilton whispered.

"Arthur, I think he's coming back."

"Balder! You'll pay for this!" they heard Haskell's voice trembling with anger. He was returning down the corridor, a fact attested by the crescent brightness of reflected light thrown on the wall of the schoolroom. In the hall outside its advancing circle spread to a wider arc. "Keep your heads down. Bend over the desks," Wilton commanded. "He may not look in—but if he does—" he did not finish the sentence.

The light was now opposite the circular inset of glass. They could hear Haskell muttering and talking to himself.

A pause a silence as if destiny herself had ceased to breathe, then a strange muffled cry reached their ears, guttural with pain, terror and violent anguish. The light was suddenly jerked away. They heard rapid footsteps; then deep stillness; then far off the slamming of a door.

"He's gone," Berenice whispered. They waited several minutes in utter silence, instinctively keeping their positions; then another light appeared and a woman's voice weakly calling:

"Janet! Berenice! Where are you?"

Not to frighten Mrs. Denver by a sudden appearance from that shunned door, Wilton waited until the light had passed the door and the footsteps indicated that she was far down the passage; then unlocking the door, he stepped out and called her name softly.

She turned, holding her lamp out to see him better. "Mr. Payne—I'm so frightened! Something terrible—" her voice faltered.

"Is he in the house?"

"No."

"Is he coming back?"

"I don't know."

"Did he say where he was going?"

The look of fright came again into her eyes as she whispered, "Yes."

The others stole out of the schoolroom. They waited, standing close together in the dim passageway, while the rising wind echoed about the ancient place, and an old, yellowed map on the wall near them oscillated in the draft. They waited, but did not speak—and did not look at each other. At last Arthur moved restlessly.

"He didn't find us," he whispered to Mrs. Denver.

"But he did find you. You were all in this room." She pointed fearfully to the empty schoolroom. "You sat at the desks," she went on, her voice trembling.

"Yes."

"You didn't raise your heads?"

"No—but of course we saw us."

"He did, indeed—and he thought—"

"Yes," Wilton interrupted, not looking at Berenice, "in that dim light."

"We'd better go upstairs," she whispered. They followed her silently through the hall into the drawing room. She put down her lamp on the marble-topped table and said, "Sit down. I think it is safe now."

"What happened?" Berenice asked.

"I heard him coming up the stairs like a man pursued, and yet he was walking only a little quicker than usual; but he was ghastly pale. 'Mrs. Denver,' he said as I came out of the drawing room. 'They're all down there!'

"My heart was in my mouth, for I felt then he had discovered you, and he looked so wild and dreadful that I did not know what he meant to do next. 'All of them,' he went on. 'All?' I asked. 'Yes, the four figures.' He was getting into his overcoat. 'They've driven me out at last.' 'Where are you going?' I said. 'You dreamed you saw them. You burned them.' Who told you?" he asked, frowning. 'I know you burned them,' I added him. 'They've come back,' he said.

"'Where are you going?'

"Up the ravine—to look for Balder, and he was off before I could answer him."

"If he's gone—you do not have to go," Berenice said to Wilton.

"No—we'd better all sit here and wait," Payne answered her; but he had a curious instinct that Gordon Haskell would never re-enter the old academy.

They talked in low whispers, softly, happily, with a feeling all shared of release, freedom, the very enchantment of freedom. The old place grew quieter, settled into profound peace; even the wind went down, ceased to harass the casements and to whisper along the empty corridors. After another hour, Wilton proposed that Berenice, Janet and Mrs. Denver should go to their rooms. He and Arthur would watch all night.

They divided their night; then at last both slept in their chairs before the dying fire. They were awakened by a pounding and ringing at the front door.

Jerry stood there. "Two bodies have been washed down," he announced solemnly. "And here I am again, after thirteen years, to tell of a drownin'. A woodman found 'em as he was crossin' the ravine near the mouth. Balder—"

"And Haskell," Payne finished.

"How did you know?"

"He said he was going up the ravine to look for Balder."

"When?"

"About 10:30 last night."

"What sent him up at that hour?"

"He wanted to get away from this house."

"I should think he would," Jerry commented. "But she need never know."

"Berenice need never know anything—of the real facts," Wilton answered, his voice softening. "When this is all over I think—I hope—that she will be very happy!"

School Notes.

Every pupil in District 52 except Mildred Cope received four stamps for one month's perfect attendance. Our attendance this month was better than in September.

The following pupils have been neither absent nor tardy since the opening of school: Vencil, Jerry and Marian Skala, and Winnifred Cornell.

The pupils were very much interested in the Weekly Readers which Mr. Hlavinka brought to school one day last week. Each pupil received a copy; the copies were suited for each pupil's grade.

Some of the pupils have already brought their money to subscribe for these interesting papers.

For language period Friday, the pupils wrote individual letters of thanks to Mrs. Mottle who gave us some house plants for our school room.

Why YOU Should Vote FOR LEGALIZED PARI-MUTUEL RACING

- 1 It will mean greater development of the live stock and horse-breeding industry—more cattle and more horses to eat the hay and grain produced by Nebraska farmers. More support for 4-H clubs.
- 2 Racing will be taxed by the state—an important source of revenue we do not have now.
- 3 Ak-Sar-Ben will share its receipts with ALL county fairs in the state.

Every penny that Ak-Sar-Ben has ever received has always been spent for the development of Nebraska and the midwest. Every penny it receives from racing will be spent in the same manner! Ak-Sar-Ben is a non-profit organization composed of Nebraska's leading business men.

Here is how the ballot will look—

Proposed by Initiative Petition

- Yes An amendment of Section 24, Article III, of the Constitution of Nebraska, providing that the Legislature may authorize, license and regulate wagering on the results of horse races by the pari-mutuel or certificate method."
- No

Parl-mutuel horse-racing means a new source of tax money and it will not cost you once cent. Vote "YES" on Amendment No. 882.

NOTICE
To All Voters

There is being mailed you a wonderful two page paper, fully illustrated.

You will be delighted with this true story of Mr. Mathers and his private and public record.

Watch mails for your copy. See that you get it.

MATHERS

A proven fighter for the people's rights.

Attention VOTERS!

The undersigned representative farmers of Valley County wish to call the attention to the fact that the question of whether or not Valley County is to retain its County Agent will appear on the ballot.

It is absolutely necessary under the present conditions that we have a County Agent. If the voters of this county vote the office out, the government will send a man here to take over the duties of County Agent. How will this Government Official be paid?

He will be paid from relief funds as Director of Drouth Relief, and from the payments which come to signers of Wheat and Corn and Hog contracts, as representative of the AAA.

Will the taxpayer save any money? NO. The funds for support of the County Agent's office come from the General Fund. The levy for next year for the General Fund has already been made. If past experience is any guide that money will be spent for something else. Then when a government representative is sent in here he will also be paid and the taxpayer will pay twice for this service.

This county has been ravaged by drouth, and the County Agent is our contact man with the Government in the making of Feed and Seed Loans, in all drouth relief cases, in the cattle buying program, the Corn-Hog and Wheat programs. He has worked heart and soul for the interests of the unfortunate drouth distressed people of the County. The logical thing to do is to keep the man here who is working for our interests, who knows the people and their needs, and not get an outsider sent in here by the government.

The County Agent's office will by the end of the year have disbursed approximately $550,000.00 from the various Government programs to the farmers of Valley County.

This office took the lead in organizing a feed buying association to bring feed into the county at the lowest possible cost.

Next spring the office will be handling seed grains which the Government is buying for drouth distressed farmers.

It is absolutely essential that we keep a man on the job to supervise these activities.

We appeal to all voters, both farmers and town residents to vote for the good of the county and for their own good by voting to keep the office of County Agent.

The question on the ballot will be stated as follows: "Shall an appropriation be made annually from the General Fund of the County for the support of Agricultural Extension Work?" Vote YES on this question.

Yours truly,

ture as all members would be elected on the basis of population and the rural sections would have the same proportional representation that they now have.

"Omaha politicians are trying to make the farmers and people of western Nebraska believe that if this proposal is adopted it will take power away from them and place it in the hands of the Omaha politicians," he said. "If this were true do you think these politicians would be opposing this plan?"

He described the passage of a measure through the present two-house legislature and the procedure followed when an important bill is referred to a conference committee.

The fate of much important legislation is determined by a conference committee composed of members of both houses," he said. "It meets in secret and no record is kept of its deliberations. It is only necessary for special interests to control two or three men to control a conference committee and thereby kill good legislation. There could be no conference committees in a one house legislature."

Senator Norris said the fear that popular government would be hampered by a one-house legislature was unfounded, because the members of the legislature would be more directly responsible to the voters and their every act and vote would be made public.

NOTICE!

Have You Sore or Tender Feet

Many people have found shoes that fit one of the easiest ways to keep their feet in condition. Your shoes encase one-fourth of all the bones in your body; many bones mean many joints. As you walk these joints move back and forth, up and down and from side to side, working the soft filling between the outside and the insole into bumps. Feel in your shoe and see. These bumps should be smoothed out and repacked, making the shoe smooth so the expansion and contraction of the muscles will not continue to wear the tissues of the feet into a tender condition which later will turn into callouses.

The shoe press will do the shaping and smoothing, also invisible soles without nails or stitches and it will leave the bottoms smooth.

All paving assessments may be paid in full to the City Treasurer, James B. Ollis, on or before Saturday, December 8, 1934. Those wishing to save interest charges may do this. Otherwise, the assessments are collected in installments over a nine year period, one-tenth falling due in fifty days from the 15th of October, 1934, and one-tenth falling due each year thereafter until all is paid. All installments draw interest at the rate of 7 per cent unless they are permitted to become delinquent, when they draw interest at the rate of 9 per cent. It is to the financial interest of property owners to pay their fees by the 8th of December if possible, in order to save interest charges.

Dola Flynn Wed To Emanuel Vodehnal

The marriage of Miss Dola Flynn, daughter of Frank Flynn, to Emanuel Vodehnal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Vodehnal was solemnized last evening at 7 o'clock in the Presbyterian manse. Rev. L. M. Real, pastor of the Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony. Merrill Flynn, brother of the bride, and Miss Hazel Ralsbach, were the attendants.

The bride was very attractive in an afternoon gown of brown silk. Her accessories also were of brown and she carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid wore a gown of blue silk and her bouquet was white chrysanthemums. After the ceremony the young people left for Grand Island where the wedding dinner was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Vodehnal are both graduates from the Ord high school, he with the class of 1927 and she with the class of 1932. For the time being their home will be in Burwell. Just now Mr. Vodehnal is employed as a gravel pumper by the highway department. Later they plan to live on a farm.

These two young people are well known here. Mrs. Vodehnal was born and reared in Ord and since she was a small child has made her home with her grandmother, Mrs. M. Flynn. After graduating Emanuel took up special work in the state university.

Mathers Favors Loup Valley Irrigation

I have already given some study to the Loup River Projects, all of them. The water supply is dependable. The soil is productive, the growing season is long. Land already improved. Type of crops in constant demand. Close to market. General construction inexpensive. Every condition ideal for quick and satisfactory irrigation of these projects under government construction with government funds and eventually without interest. Many people are confident that my many years of experience in irrigation and reclamation development will be of great help and advantage to the people of the Loup River Valleys. I shall welcome the opportunity in Congress to prove my sincerity and determination. This development should and will go forward without further delay if proper organization is set up in Washington. My support of President Roosevelt in all matters beneficial to the 5th Congressional district and my personal acquaintance with President Roosevelt and with the Interior Department and Departments of Irrigation and Reclamation will make it possible for me to get full and immediate consideration for the Loup River Irrigation projects.

BRISBANE

THIS WEEK

Mr. Van Loon Says
We Build Good Planes
Ford Sees Light
Why Pedro Jumped

Mr. Van Loon, able writer, who is "Dutch" and proud of it, doesn't want anybody to call him a Netherlander, or anything but just plain "Dutchman"—wishes this fact made clear.

The two Dutchmen that followed so closely behind the British winners of the 11,000-mile air race were really demonstrating serious flying. They did not fly any made-to-order racing machine. They piloted a regular commercial plane and they carried passengers, as airplanes should do.

British aviators, interested in making flying pay for itself, say that the Dutch flyers' American machine, a Douglas air liner, with Wright Cyclone motors, and the United States Boeing transport plane in which Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn were trailing for third place, are "straight stock commercial planes."

The British race winner is a "bulldog-like racer."

This doesn't take away from the credit of the plucky Englishmen, or diminish in any way their marvelous performance in cutting the flying time from London to Australia by 100 hours. They made the flight to Darwin in 52 hours. But the race does show that private enterprise in the United States is able to build useful commercial planes.

Henry Ford, who even now pays out hundreds of millions of dollars directly and indirectly, for well paid labor, sees "light in the darkness," and says our "Santa Claus methods" of handing out money have "made soles of many Americans."

But, in President Roosevelt's apparent determination to encourage independence and allow business men to run their own businesses, Mr. Ford sees great hope. He thinks we are crawling up over the top.

Here is a sidebar story, brand new. Pedro Cirecito, fisherman of the island of Cerrajal, found a pearl weighing 100 carats, thought it was worth $100,000. When, at La Paz, Lower California, dealers would give him only $1,000 for his pearl, Pedro hurled his pearl into the ocean, jumped in after it, was torn to pieces by sharks.

Moralists would have convinced him that $100,000, if he had got the money, would have done him no good. He did not wait.

President Roosevelt possesses, among other agreeable and unusual qualities, that of giving full credit to others.

Receiving an honorary degree of doctor of laws, and speaking at William and Mary college, where Thomas Jefferson, Patrick Henry, John Marshall, James Monroe and John Tyler were students in the old Virginia days, the President gave full and generous credit to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for his patriotic work in restoring to its colonial condition Virginia's ancient city, Williamsburg, "the cradle of American liberty."

Wherever there is trouble in the human body there is, not far away, some remedy for that trouble. Surgeons have always dreaded peritonitis, a widespread, dangerous inflammation that sometimes accompanies surgical operations.

Now science has discovered that a certain "amniotic fluid," always present in the child-bearing period of human beings and animals, supplies a vaccine that prevents peritonitis.

Doctors extract the amniotic fluid from cows, use it on their patients, and have reduced from 50 per cent to 2 per cent the mortality caused by peritonitis following operations on the bowels. This discovery will prevent many deaths from intestinal gunshot wounds and other typical American injuries.

Patrick Mulligan, of New York, unemployed chauffeur, penniless, learned just before midnight that his wife, Cecilia, aged twenty-five, had given birth to three boys and one girl in the Lincoln hospital, first quadruplets born in that hospital in more than 50 years.

The four babies, total weight only ten pounds, lived only four hours. Perhaps that illustrates the difference between the life chance of babies born in the city and babies born in the country air, as were the still living Dionne Canadian quintuplets.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, back from Germany, where he saw Hitler and Schacht, says that discrimination against the Jews is diminishing in Germany, the attitude of the Nazis being considerably modified.

The really surprising news, which might be listed under "Irony of Fate," is that Germany's export business is seriously crippled in all directions, except in one country, and that country—you would not guess it—is Palestine.

NO. LOUP TEAM DEFEATED 35-0 BY ORD TEAM

Field Soft After Rains But Ord
Backs Run Wild; 2nd Team
Beats Burwell, 13 to 6.

On a soft field, as the result of recent rains, the Ord Chanteliers showed their superiority over the North Loup team by defeating them to the tune of 35-0.

The entire Ord first and second teams saw action in the game except Rowbal, who is nursing an injured leg. The first touchdown was made early in the first quarter when Ord recovered a North Loup fumble on the 10 yard line. Ord quickly drove over for a touchdown. From this point in the game to the time the final whistle was blown, Ord took complete charge of the game. Ord was penalized throughout the game and the fumbles on both teams were many. In the first quarter North Loup marched down the field several times only to be taken back by a fumble or blocked punt. After the first quarter the Loup men lost their stride and did not regain it again during the rest of the game. The Ord line clicked in fine style and the backfield was continually slipping through the line for long yardage gains.

The outstanding run of the evening was when Greathouse, Ord fullback, received a lateral pass and tucked the ball under his arm, flashed through mid-field for over 35 yards before being brought down by a North Loup man. Marks also was a consistent ground gainer, at one time making 30 yards in three plays. Greathouse Marks and Haskell put over the touchdowns. It was nipping cold night but a large crowd was present. The Ord Band was out and furnished music which kept the crowd constantly full of pep and well, all the dope.

The Nebraska Cornhuskers seem to enjoy playing close games. They have just barely beat their opponents out, Oklahoma 6-0 and Iowa 7-6.

Say boys, just because the Halloween spooks and Goblins come around this week, you don't need to be afraid of Ravenna. No sirree!

Early dawn finds many a high school boy in his favorite duck blind with his trusty musket at his side. And what's more, I hear the high school boys usually out-shoot even the old timers.

The second team certainly showed real fight last week against Burwell. Although Burwell scored first, Ord came right back and smacked 'em down.

Quite a few boys got in time on their football letters in the North Loup game last week.

How did you like the 6 man game played in the intermission of the North Loup-Ord game? The two teams were composed of Junior High athletes with Dick Koupal and Boyd Rose as captains. The final score was 6-0 in favor of Koupal's team. There will be a game between the Junior Hi Midgets and the grade school first team tonight on the high school practice grounds. Can they fight? Yes! Yes!

AND DON'T FORGET THE ORD-RAVENNA GAME. This game is to be fought on the Ord field, under the lights starting promptly at 8 o'clock.

From Our Exchanges

Large blue banners with a white and black Y were distributed to the York merchants for display on home game days. The banners hanging from the ten foot standards make sharp contrast to the white and gray of the town and give a festive appearance to the street. The townspeople will know now that when the banners are flown, the Panthers will play at home.

At Fort Calhoun, the junior class will present their three-act junior class play, "He's My Pal," on Friday evening, November 9 at the city hall. A matinee performance will be given for grade pupils Friday afternoon.

At Crete High School Gloom-Chasers club has been organized. As a part of this club, a pep band has been started under the careful direction of Raymond Reed. The purpose of this band is to "fire-up" the football players and to keep the spectators awake.

The costume of this club is a white cap with white pants or skirts. The band is composed of forty members of various sizes, but regardless of size, each can make an equal amount of noise.

Wise and Otherwise

Mr. Watkins in science class: The gas in that cylinder is deadly poison. What steps would you take if any of it escaped?

Dale Hughes: Long ones.

We're curious as to how Mr. Cowell is progressing with his Typing lessons.

Mr. Brockman: Where was the Declaration of Independence signed?

Joe Krelle: At the bottom, I suppose.

Miss Roelse: Compare bad. Faye Rashaw: Bad, worse, dead.

Hughes, Zulkski, Mell, Tunnicliff, Jacobs, Stone.

From the Sidelines!

Flash! Plans are developing for taking the Ord Hi football team to see the Nebraska-Missouri game at Lincoln.

ORD	RAVENNA
1926 19	1926 0
1927 12	1927 0
1928 6	1928 19
1929 14	1929 14
1930 7	1930 8
1931 No game	1931 No game
1932 No game	1932 No game
1933 0	1933 45

Or in these seven years has won 2, lost 4 and tied one. So come to this game expecting a close game.

Have you seen those large posters telling about the Ord-Ravenna game? A picture of the Ord team, a description of both teams, and—well, all the dope.

The Nebraska Cornhuskers seem to enjoy playing close games. They have just barely beat their opponents out, Oklahoma 6-0 and Iowa 7-6.

A Penny For Your Thoughts

We asked this question at random, "Do you think that it is necessary to work if you really expect to succeed in school and in later life?"

"Yes, it is because you have to have ability to do things successfully."—Dorothy Ann Zikmund.

"No, it isn't if you choose an easy career."—Mildred Campbell.

"Yes, it would be for me because I can't think of enough ways to bluff people."—Julia Fuss.

"Yes, because to do anything well requires hard work."—Miss Jacobsen.

"Yes, because if you can't work you won't get along in life."—Hope Bartunek.

"Yes, if you really expect to get anywhere."—Virginia Fox.

"It all depends upon the brain matter you possess."—Mildred Craig.

"Yes, because if you lay around waiting for the other fellow you will never get anywhere."—Dale Melia.

"If you don't work you will only get on the county."—Dave Barnhart.

"You will never be anything but a flop if you don't work."—Charles Keown.

"Well, I haven't and I have passed so far."—Charles Jones.

Lost—One Collar
Button
By BOYCE COLLINS

WNU Service.

ROBERT WEBER was dressing to go out for the evening. Whether he would go to a first night at the theater or to one of the popular hotels where he could dine and dance the evening away, he hadn't decided.

"D—n!" he exclaimed suddenly when his collar button eluded him in the traditional manner just as he was carefully fastening on his collar. Robert spread the evening newspaper painstakingly on the floor and started his search for the missing button. Under the radiator he found dust, some burnt matches and nothing else. After further research he found a square opening around the base of the steam pipe where it entered the room. This half-inch space was exactly where a lost collar button might be hiding.

And there was something gleaming in the shallow hole. Robert fished around with a knife blade. He brought the gleaming object to the surface and carefully carried it to the bureau. "I'll be d—d!" Robert uttered out loud. But it wasn't his missing collar button that he had found.

Instead it was a diamond ring that Robert had unearthed from a dusty setting. It was a woman's ring.

"Now for the collar button and I'll be satisfied," murmured Robert as he went back to his excavating. But before he had stooped to a squatting position his foot hit something. He turned around and there was the collar button smashed flat. Robert didn't mind altering his plans. He put a business suit on instead of his tuxedo.

He knocked at the landlady's door before he left the house.

"I was just wondering, Mrs. Turnbull, who lived in my room before I moved in," said Robert. "I found a book there—" he had a book under his arm, a modern novel.

"Oh, that Miss Blossom must have left it—I don't believe she wanted it. She was always losing things—she lost her diamond ring right there in the room the very day she moved out."

"I suppose she left her new address," ventured Robert.

"Well, yes, she did. She couldn't afford to pay the rent here so she got a cheaper room with a Miss King on Amsterdam avenue."

With this information, Robert decided to dine by himself. After a sumptuous meal he proceeded to the new home of Miss Blossom.

"Miss Blossom, yes, sir. She lives here. Here's a gentleman to see you, Miss Blossom," the maid said and led him to a small living room where some one was playing the piano. The playing stopped. A woman arose and said to Robert, "I'm Miss Blossom."

"I came to inquire about a diamond ring that you had lost."

"I never talk to reporters," snapped Miss Blossom. "And besides I found my diamond ring in my trunk when I unpacked here."

"Well, do you happen to know who occupied the room before you took it? I found a diamond ring there last night and I'm anxious to return it to the owner."

"A Miss Towers had the room—Miss Elsie Towers—and she works in the Uptown Savings bank."

The Uptown Savings bank—is his own place of employment! And Miss Towers was secretary to the president!

As he left Miss Blossom's home, Robert decided to forego pleasure and return to his room for a good night's sleep. The next morning the alarm clock awakened him an hour earlier than usual. Robert jumped out of bed and spent the extra time making sure that he would look his best at the bank that day. In hopes that Miss Elsie Towers breakfasted at Mrs. Turnbull's, he was in the dining room by seven-thirty. Half an hour later in came the one girl he was looking for, and she appeared more beautiful than ever.

As soon as he finished his breakfast he mustered up courage and joined Miss Towers at her table. He asked her tactfully if she had lost a ring. She was surprised and said that she had—a diamond ring that her father had sent her for Christmas last year. She didn't know what could have happened to it. It had vanished and she had been greatly upset about it.

That was Robert's chance and he took advantage of it.

Mrs. Turnbull from the cashier's desk noticed the pair intent in conversation. She didn't miss anything. "Those young folks beat Old Harry," she told a friend later. "Strangers one day and engaged the next. Giving her a ring so soon!" So the elderly matron wasn't surprised a few months later when Elsie displayed a large solitaire diamond set in platinum and she dined at the boarding house with Robert Weber. But she was curious about something that Robert took from his pocket and showed to Elsie. What was it that made them laugh and then suddenly appear so devoted to each other? If Mrs. Turnbull's eyesight had been a little better she would have noticed that the minute object which Robert took such good care of was a flattened collar button—the one thing that had been responsible for his romance with Elsie.

It's easy and pleasant to iron with a Coleman. It saves your strength. You do better ironing easier and quicker at less cost. This modern Coleman Iron lights instantly... no generating with match or torch... no waiting. Saves you more time and work than a $100 washing machine. Do a whole ironing with one iron.

The evenly heated double pointed base irons garments with fewer strokes. Ironing time is reduced one-third. Heats itself... use it anywhere. Makes and burns its own gas. Economical, too... costs only $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ an hour to operate. Come in and see it demonstrated.

GIVE THE TAXES TO Nebraska INSTEAD OF TO BOOTLEGGERS

If Nebraska remains dry it will be a roosting place for gangsters, hoodlums and racketeers. They will continue to make big profits from their illicit liquor dealings. These undesirables will also deprive the state of a tremendous amount of TAXES which rightfully belong to Nebraska. Too, it will cost untold sums of money to enforce the dry law, due to the fact that our sister states are WET!

And not only that--
YOU MAY LOSE YOUR

BEER

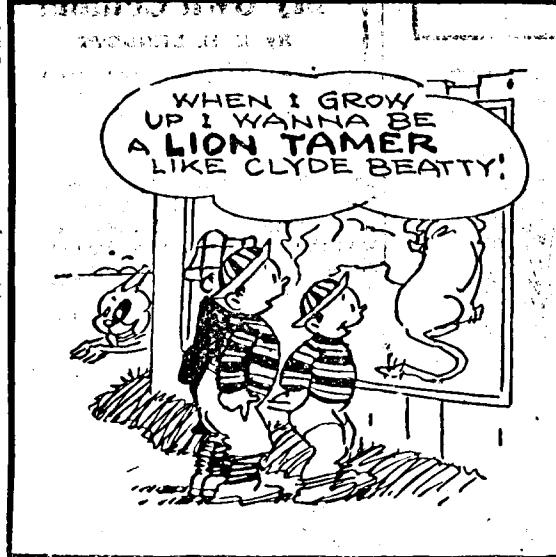

If REPEAL does not carry, there is a great possibility that the 3.2 Beer Law will be held unconstitutional AND YOU WILL LOSE YOUR BEER, TOO!

Let's be sure to keep BEER in Nebraska. Give the TAXES to Nebraska instead of to bootleggers.

If elected he pledges himself to administer his office economically and with absolute fairness to all. Valley county needs a new Sheriff and "Abe" Lincoln is the man for the job. Vote for Lincoln Nov. 6.

Judging by the vote at the primary election Aug. 14, 1934, when Mr. Klima was nominated with a vote of 1,105 to 273 cast for his opponent, he is in no danger of defeat for re-election next Tuesday. But because we, friends and admirers of County Clerk Klima, believe so strongly that he should be re-elected, we cite the following reasons which we urge upon voters for their careful consideration.

1. The office of County Clerk is more closely connected with the people than any of the other county offices. He is called on to perform a multitude of duties for those having county business to attend to. Ever since he has been Valley County Clerk, Mr. Klima has given courteous and immediate attention to every request and whenever he has furnished information it has been of a dependable nature. No matter what your business in the county clerk's office is, you can always be sure of Mr. Klima's interested and efficient help.

2. He never plays politics with the taxpayer's money. Although Ign. Klima, jr., bears the label of the democratic party his service to Valley county is that of a non-partisan official. Whether you are a democrat or a republican, a communist or a socialist, you are given the same fair treatment by Ign. Klima.

3. Although the business handled by the county clerk's office has doubled and trebled in recent years, particularly since the stringent economic conditions known as "the depression" set in, Mr. Klima has continued to employ but one deputy. His deputy Mr. Rusk, is as capable and efficient in the work as is Mr. Klima himself and the business is kept up to date; delays are not permitted.

4. Throughout the campaign period, while his opponent has had ample leisure time to stump the county asking your vote, Ign. Klima, jr., has stayed in his office, fulfilling the duties you elected him to do. His record bespeaks his re-election.

TO SUM UP, MR. KLIMA IS A FRIENDLY, LIKEABLE, EFFICIENT COUNTY OFFICER; HE HAS CONDUCTED HIS OFFICE WITH ECONOMY; HE HAS NEVER PLAYED POLITICS WITH THE TAXPAYERS' MONEY; HE IS FITTED BY EDUCATION, TEMPERAMENT AND EXPERIENCE.

For the above reasons, we urge you to re-elect

Ign. Klima, jr.

Broken Engagements

 CAMILLA came running into the house where her fragile little aunt sat alone in a sunny window, her fingers busy with some dainty needlework. Agatha Andrews lifted her quiet gray eyes and saw the dark sparkling beauty of the girl. "Auntie, I've had a darling time!" cried Camilla breathlessly whirling into a chair. "Guess who was there—and I met him!" she ended ecstatically.

Agatha Andrews turned her fair face and looked out into the flower garden which seemed to waver uncertainly before her hurt eyes; all the blossoms seemed to nod their heads and say, "I told you so—I told you so—some day—"

"You are not listening!" reproached the girl, for this aunt was mother and father to her and had been for many years since a fatal accident had deprived the child of both parents. "You haven't heard a word—I met such an important person at the garden party—we made heaps of money for the hospital—and he looked and looked at me until he seemed to realize that he was being rude; then Andy introduced him to me! Auntie, I have made a real conquest!"

"Goose," smiled Agatha. "Behold—the governor's future lady!"

"Camilla!" Miss Andrews had risen and was staring at her niece with wide, startled eyes in her white face. "What do you mean?" "Nothing but my foolishness, dear," explained Camilla contritely. "I really did meet the governor himself and he was charming to me. He is coming to call tomorrow afternoon, and we must have tea in the garden."

"Of course—" faltered Agatha. "He asked after you, auntie, said he knew you years ago, when you were my age; he said there was a resemblance. Andy was frightfully jealous of him. Isn't he distinguished looking, and so calm and reserved with the twinkly look in his blue eyes. I adore him!"

"You mustn't hurt Andy's feelings, Camilla," advised Agatha.

"He seems so young and immature beside Governor Frayne. I told him so," she ended frankly.

"Told—Andy?"

"Yes," carelessly "on the way home. He was quite like a bear about it—so we are no longer engaged!"

"Oh!" cried the older woman sharply; then, as if collecting her scattered forces, she added quietly, "I am sorry, dear, Andy is young, but that is a fault we all get over some day!"

Camilla laughed and kissed her warmly, but the slim finger where Andy's diamond had proudly gleamed was quite bare.

The next afternoon Camilla made preparations for serving tea in the rose-bordered veranda. Miss Andrews had silently helped her, making a loaf of very special pound cake that her mother used to bake. She gave the girl carte blanche where the china closet was concerned, Agatha, dressed in a soft gray silk, with her graying hair pinned in a knot at her neck, looked like some pompadour figurine as she wandered restlessly about the garden. It was not until she heard voices at the house that she slowly went back to face the past.

There was Andy McDonald, stubbornly faithful in spite of his broken engagement, playing with Camilla's cat; and there was Camilla, radiating glorious youth, her dark bobbed hair blowing in the sweet evening breezes, her awed eyes lifted to Gilbert Frayne's face.

"Here she is at last!" cried Camilla, and the governor whirled around to stare for a moment at the slim figure coming slowly across the grass. The tea kettle bubbled furiously just then, and Andy and Camilla flew to subdue it, the governor went to meet Agatha, his blue eyes keen like a boy's.

"Agatha," he said simply as he took her hand in his, "you told me once upon a time to go away—you never wanted to see me again—"

"Yes," gasped Agatha faintly, her eyes seeking her refuge, the garden. "But one says so many foolish things—"

"Yes—and they hurt all through the years. What a young fool I was in those days not to come back to you."

"Yes," agreed Agatha softly. "There is such a lot to explain—when I saw the child yesterday I was fascinated; I told myself it was either your daughter or a near relative—so I came."

"I am glad—you have been so successful," said Agatha, regaining her poise somewhat.

"Yes—in a measure," he said patiently, "but I came to find out today whether I shall be the only bachelor governor the state has ever known or—"

"They have gone into the rose garden," said Camilla indignantly. "Why not? They were engaged to be married and quarreled twenty years ago—great scott, he's kissing your Aunt Agatha!" Andy turned his head away from the rose garden and encountered Camilla's brimming eyes.

"Where's—my ring?" she asked.

North Loup, Nebr.
Nov. 2, 1934.

In a few days it will all be over. Politics is a funny thing. It is true that one of you will have to take a trouncing. Very frequently a man is beaten, not because he is not a good man, but because he is the opponent is a little more popular. As far as I am concerned, Chas. is a nice fellow, but I have heard some awful things about him lately. And come to think about it, I have heard a few eye-openers about you too. No place but politics are such skeletons dug up. For every grievance, the constituent thinks to himself, "We will show him when election comes." If you are determined to get into politics, you must expect the inevitable. Luck to both of you.

Here is a little advice. A little friendly counsel in the event that you make the grade. Just try, Jake, to run the county business on the same honest and frugal basis that you have always run your own. If you can talk those other bozos that work with you into that notion, we tax-payers will not need to worry much. Also, with the money that you do give away, try to get us our share.

The grand old man of my district in Greeley county, Commissioner Tellmann, will soon be retired. Never has this district had a commissioner who has done more for us than he. Going into office with the funds far in the rear, he has pulled us out of the mire of insolvency, and at the same time built us highways that we never dreamed of before. He always has funds on hand to repair the roads and bridges. In the case of emergency while his two colleagues have continually floundered with red ink and warrants, it haunts me a little to think of our condition before the Danish commission took the helm and the possibilities that may eventuate in the hands of a new man. And Tellmann is a democrat at that.

The story is told of him, soon after he took office, in hiring a tree removed from the center of the road. Upon the completion of the work a bill was presented for fifty-seven dollars. That price would have been a customary charge. The answer to the bill was only a laugh from the doughty commissioner. The workmen offered to take fifty. Finally, after considerable parley, a fair price was paid on the basis of the time put in and the clerk was instructed to give the man a check for seven dollars.

I cannot help but feel, that if our government business all along the line, (Federal, State, County, School and Precinct) was run as a good successful business man would run his own business, our taxes would not be oppressive.

Respectfully,
Geo. G.

P. S. In Douglas, Wyo., I noticed a plade of business familiar to olden days. I entered. It was a bar and as far as I could see, it was the same as days of old. The same, not only in appearance, but the bar was lined with men, two of which were about equal to three sheets in the wind. I suppose that was nobody's business but their own, if they were not like the fellow who owes me $50.00. He was a fine fellow in most ways, but it come to the point he either had to give up drinking or quit paying rent. I finally had the sheriff move him and his family into the street, and then the county paid the rent. I suppose that was none of mine, or his family's, or the county's business if he wanted to drink.

I was surprised at the remark of a friend of mine. At his luncheons he frequently takes beer. We were returning from Omaha, and a few minutes before, had seen a trucker take a long drag at a bottle before starting a haul.

"How are you going to vote on the prohibition amendment?" I asked.

"Against it," he exclaimed.

"Things are bad enough now, without making them any worse."

WHAT OTHER Editors Are Saying

Thus Speaketh "King Arthur."

As much as we dislike "dirty politics," we are glad that at last "King Arthur" Mullen has come out in the open and finally let the people of Nebraska know who it is that is trying to dictate the policies of the Democratic party in Nebraska.

We had hoped that both major parties in the state would put on a constructive campaign toward the rebuilding of the state of Nebraska and we must admit that we are sorely disappointed. Mr. Mullen's speech at Seward Wednesday evening merely muddled the waters and certainly does not make it any easier for the people of Nebraska to know what they are voting for.

Robert G. Simmons has insisted from the start that Mr. Mullen was the real candidate for the Senate, although Mr. Burke's name will appear on the ballot. Even though we felt Mr. Simmons might be partially right we did not like these statements as it was our feeling that Mr. Simmons should bring before the people of Nebraska his own platform and not worry about the Democratic party. However, Mr. Mullen's speech in Seward bears out everything that Mr. Simmons has said and now it is time for the people of Nebraska to awaken and demand men in office who are going to be interested in the welfare of our state, the rebuilding of our institutions and in the building of a solid foundation for agriculture.

Mr. Mullen (speaking in behalf of Mr. Burke) offers nothing constructive, but merely tries to stir up racial antagonism within the state, at a time when he is in a position to know we should all be working together instead of pulling apart.

The foreign language bill which Mr. Mullen refers to was brought out shortly after the war at a time that a majority of the people of the state of Nebraska were insisting that every one be 100 per cent Americans or else go back to the country from which they came.

It was undoubtedly due to this feeling that the foreign language bill was proposed. At the present time it has been forgotten and undoubtedly will never be revived until a foreign power attacks the United States, and then you will

Expected To Win

DWIGHT GRISWOLD

Mr. Griswold, the Republican candidate for Governor, has made an intensive campaign and it is generally expected that he will be elected next Tuesday.

He favors the development of the water resources of Nebraska, and living, as he does, in the western part of the state, he is expected to receive a large vote in this community.

see the same demands made upon our legislators.

At the close of his speech Mr. Mullen is quoted as saying, "Down in Omaha we will show them something about elections before we are through."

Mr. Mullen is now in the "fall" of life but before he reaches old age he is apt to find that the people of Nebraska are getting tired of the brand of politics he refers to and are likely to show Omaha something about elections before they are through.

The result of the Seward meeting would seem to be the best recommendation that Robert Simmons and Dwight Griswold have thus far received.

Mr. Mullen refers to the Republican candidates as "Head Hunters." We think that Mr. Mullen has furnished a very good title for an organization which is needed in the state of Nebraska. An organization which would present a solid front in behalf of Nebraska's agriculture, could have no better title than "HEAD HUNTERS," and the heads that we should go after would be those resting on the shoulders of politicians like Mr. Mullen who are disrupting the state instead of building up the cooperation which we need.—Kearney Daily Hub.

Trends of the Times.

Through the ether the well-known voice of Senator Norris, of Nebraska—the radio makes the voices of our leaders as familiar as their faces—telling what, in the light of his 30 years experience as a legislator, a model State legislature would be like.

All of our States, copying from the forefathers, have bicameral legislatures. They think they have bicameral legislatures, but that is a mistake. Instead of two houses, Senator Norris points out, there are three.

There is the house of representatives, always the largest branch of the legislature. Then there is the more exclusive senate. Where does the third branch come in?

It comes in when house and senate have done their work. One of the two houses passes a bill. It goes to the other, where almost invariably amendments of various sorts are attached. The house has passed one bill; the senate another. The law must agree with itself. What is to be done?

The answer brings into being the third and, commonly, most important branch of all, the conference committee.

Each house appoints conferees. The conferees of the two houses make up the conference committee. This committee, usually in secret session, puts the two bills together, fixes up a bill of its own. The conference bill then goes back to house and senate. They must take it as it comes or throw it out as it comes. Usually they feel obliged to take it. The law as passed is then not the law as framed by the house and senate, but the law as framed by that powerful third branch of the legislature, the conference committee.

It is in conference frequently that the jokers attach themselves to the law.

There is also a fourth branch of the legislature, an unofficial branch. It's called the lobby...

Out of these 4-branched legislatures, the vast confusion which we know as lawmaking.

The Senator who wrote the twentieth amendment to the National Constitution, which the country now unanimously approves, would change this complicated legislative scene. It is in this jungle of a 3- or 4-branched law-making body that the political reptiles hide, he thinks. He would clear it up.

He would reduce the legislature of many branches to a legislature of one branch. Then he would make that branch small—small enough to be highly visible, highly responsible. He would pay them enough to permit them to give their time to their job.

In his own State of Nebraska he would have a 1-house legislature of about 30 members. He would elect them for 4 years. He would elect them without a party name or sign. What a State legislator believes about national affairs has nothing to do, Senator Norris says, with his fitness to direct a State. He would have his legislators elected on their own merits, not on the merits of their political ancestors.

These 20 legislators would be few enough to function effectively as a deliberative body. They would have time to familiarize themselves with affairs of the State. They would become too well informed to be easily fooled by the lobby folk whose trade is fooling legislators.

A hundred legislators are fooled into doing the wrong thing, the veteran Senator says, to one who is bought into doing the wrong thing. Most legislators are honest, but not all of them are smart, and the larger the legislative body, the less able the members are to know what is going on, the more certain they are to be fooled.

Our great-great-grandfathers, who threaded forest paths on horseback with a clean shirt and a plug of chewing tobacco in their saddle bags, found the 2-branched legislature of their great-great-grandparents good enough for them. We ride in airplanes, but the 2-branched legislature is with us yet.

When representative government took its beginning, the peoples were divided rigidly into castes. In the English-speaking world the people were divided, for political purposes, into humble commons and exalted lords. The lords could not think of sitting with the commoners. Besides, they had special privileges of their own to preserve.

So they had a legislative branch of their own, the House of Lords. And the commons had a house of their own, the House of Commons; and the two branches were independent of each other and, to keep the people from ruling too completely, the lords could veto the commons as the Senate can veto the House.

Good nutrition induces a state of perfection in bones and teeth. More than seventy-five per cent of our people have dental defects. Rickets is a disease which is still more common than it should be.

Good nutrition increases our ability to resist infection. We have among us too many cases of infection, both major and minor.

The common cold, the sinus infection, tonsillitis, influenza, bronchitis, tuberculosis and pneumonia are far too prevalent among us.

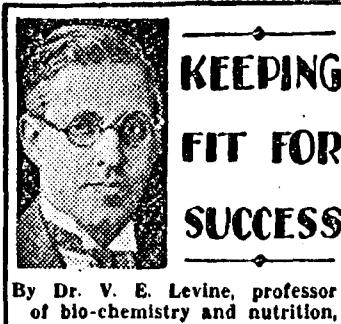

Good nutrition gives us the opportunity to reach advanced age without ailing and without being worn out and dilapidated.

If we judge from these five criteria or indices of proper nutrition, we must conclude that the diet of the American people is far from being well-balanced. It is short in many nutritional factors, among which may be mentioned superior protein, calcium and several of the vitamins.

Milk enriches the American diet with superior protein, calcium and two vitamins, vitamin A and vitamin B2, also known as vitamin G.

CITY DISCOUNTS ELECTRIC RATES BY 20 PER CENT

Reduction Will Save Ordites 6 to 7 Thousand Dollars Yearly, Effective December 1st.

Effective December 1, a reduction of 20 per cent on all electric light, heat and power rates will be made in Ord, Mayor Gould B. Flagg and the city council decided Friday evening. The reduction will result in a saving of 6 to 7 thousand dollars yearly to Ord electricity users.

To secure the reduction users must pay their bills by the 10th of December and each month thereafter, otherwise the present rate applies. Any consumer now in arrears will be required to pay the present rate but the 20 per cent reduction will be applied on his bill in arrears, thus enabling him to retire the old bill from his savings on future consumption.

The reduction is a temporary measure but will be continued for an indefinite period and may become permanent, says George Allen, manager of the city light and water plants.

It should be clearly understood that the 20 per cent reduction authorized by Mayor Flagg and the council Friday evening does not put into effect a new scale of rates, which could be done only by passing a new ordinance. It is merely a reduction of 20 per cent off the present rate scale.

Ord's present rate scale is as follows:

Domestic Rate—First 30 KWH, 8c per KWH; next 50 KWH, 4c per KWH; all over 80 KWH, 3c per KWH.

Commercial Rate—First 50 KWH, 7c per KWH; next 50 KWH, 6c per KWH; 100 to 300 KWH, 5c per KWH; 300 to 500 KWH, 4c per KWH; all over 500 KWH, 3c per KWH.

Heating Rate—First 50 KWH, 4c per KWH; all above 50 KWH, 3c per KWH.

Under the reduction, Ord people who buy electric energy in all rate classes will be charged 20 per cent less than rates quoted above, providing their bills are paid by the 10th of each month. The minimum charge of $1.00 per month will also be reduced by 20 per cent, making it only 80c.

The city of Ord has a surplus of approximately $60,000 in its electric fund and under present rates has been making a profit of from $6,000 to $10,000 per year. Believing there is no necessity for piling up a larger surplus than now exists, Mayor Flagg and the members of the council decided to authorize a 20 per cent reduction even though it may have the effect of putting the plant on a non-profit basis for the time being. As consumption of electric energy increases, which always happens when rates are reduced, profits will again start to accrue, it is thought. It is likely that in the near future the city will conduct a campaign to increase electric consumption by urging purchase of stoves and other appliances by families who now use other fuel for cooking and who are getting along without needed electric servants.

Ord, always noted for its low electric rates, now goes to the forefront among Nebraska cities. Few towns in Nebraska have as low rates as Ord, a tribute to the efficient administration of the Ord plant by Manager Allen and his immediate predecessors.

The 20 per cent reduction going into effect December 1 may not be permanent but if Ord people respond by using more electric energy, which they can well afford to do now that the price is cheaper, permanently lower rates are certain to result. It is probable, however, that this will be the last reduction possible until new equipment is added to the Ord plant as energy is now being produced at the lowest cost possible with steam equipment. Should Diesel equipment be purchased from the plant's present large surplus fund, or if the North Loup power and irrigation project should be developed in future, further reductions are extremely likely.

Cronk Quits Farming.

W. H. Cronk will hold a cleanup sale at his place a few miles northeast of Ord on Tuesday, November 13. A complete list of his large offering will be found on another page this week.

Mrs. Frank Krum and children came from Omaha Saturday evening with Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Krum. Mrs. Frank Krum had spent several weeks in Omaha so as to be near her sister who was seriously injured in an auto accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Leonard were visiting Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rashaw.

Mrs. John Heffernan Passed Away Sat'day

Mrs. John Heffernan, 85, passed away Saturday evening in the Ord home of Mrs. W. E. Carlton, where she had been cared for during several weeks of illness. She leaves two children, Will Heffernan of Valley county and Mrs. Nellie Irwin of Alliance.

Funeral services were held at 10:30 a.m. Monday at the Geranium church and interment was in Geranium cemetery where her husband is also buried.

Jobst Ill, Will Sell.

On another page will be found the sale advertising of Lou Jobst. Mr. Jobst is in the Ord hospital suffering with a heart attack and is forced to quit farming for the coming year. Mr. Jobst has a large offering of real good personal property.

FAIR DIRECTORS TOLD TO REFUSE GROUNDS TO FERA

Hoyt Explains Dairy Proposition But Stockholders Opposed; Officers Re-elected.

Stockholders of the Loup Valley Agricultural Society in annual session Monday instructed officers and directors of the association to refuse to lease any portion of the fair grounds in Ord to the Federal Emergency Relief Administration for use as a dairy. Stockholders present were unanimously opposed to the dairy project.

E. L. Hoyt, FERA director, was asked to explain the plan to fair stockholders, which he did briefly. The dairy project is more or less dormant at present, he said, and is in the hands of state FERA officials for final approval or rejection. If approved, Hoyt explained, the FERA would hope to lease the fair grounds or some other suitable place near Ord.

President C. W. McClellan, presiding officer, called for a vote after Hoyt finished his explanation and a unanimous vote against the dairy was recorded.

The question of holding a fair in 1935 was discussed at some length but decision was postponed until next spring. If crop conditions appear favorable next May it is planned to call another meeting of stockholders to consider the question again.

Three directors whose terms had expired, C. W. McClellan, J. W. McGinnis and Charles Bals, were re-elected for three year terms. After the meeting of stockholders adjourned directors met and re-elected Mr. McClellan president, S. W. Roe vice-president, J. W. McGinnis secretary and Emil Fafeita treasurer.

Miss Olive Rahmeyer Weds Ogallala Man

An attractive wedding took place Thursday, Nov. 1, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rahmeyer, in Mira Valley, when their daughter, Miss Olive, became the bride of Virgil L. Mayden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Mayden of Ogallala, Nebr.

At high noon as the strains of the Mendelsohn wedding march was played by Mrs. Earl Cummings, the bridal party took their places, unattended, under a beautiful gold arch trimmed with autumn leaves and tiny Japanese lanterns with a background of ferns and begonias.

The bride was attired in a brown triple sheer dress with chiffon velvet sleeves and brown suede slippers and carried a beautiful bouquet of Talisman roses with plumes tied with Talisman chiffon bow. The groom wore brown of the same shade as the bride.

The bride graduated from the Ord high school in 1928, later taking a stenographic course in the Lincoln School of Commerce, after which she held a position there for some time. Later she attended Bible school at York and helped Rev. Stanley broadcast in singing and religious programs over the air. The groom is a telegrapher of Ogallala.

The beautiful and impressive single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Earl Cummings while Mrs. Cummings played softly "I Love You Truly." After congratulations a bountiful wedding dinner was served, such as Mrs. Rahmeyer is capable of preparing. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received. The only out-of-town guest was Mrs. Lewis Mayden, mother of the groom, of Ogallala.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Tippin of Winchester, Kas., left Saturday evening for the home of their daughter, Mrs. Carroll Templeton, Hastings, Nebr. While here Mrs. Tippin visited Mrs. Will Bartlett. They had been in Hastings and came to Ord to spend a few hours in their old home town.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Leonard were visiting Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rashaw.

MIKE SOCHA HURT AS PRESS'RETANK BREAKS MONDAY

Ord Man Has Possible Fractured Skull, Crushed Nose But Is Expected to Live.

Mike Socha, Ord painter and carpenter, suffered terrible injuries Monday afternoon when an oxy-acetylene welding outfit exploded as he was working with it in his shop on the Mrs. Marie Kusek place in north Ord. The bridge of his nose was crushed, he was painfully bruised about the body and he suffered a possible skull fracture. Socha's condition is serious but he will probably live.

The accident happened about 5:00 Monday afternoon. Socha, alone in his shop, was preparing to do a job of welding with the portable oxy-acetylene outfit. Evidently as a result of too great pressure, the carbide generator tank exploded, throwing pieces of metal all over the shop with terrific force.

One large piece of metal struck Socha on the bridge of his nose, crushing it terribly, and other pieces hit him in the body. The blow on his nose also produced the possible skull fracture.

Neighbors heard the explosion but did not know the cause and Socha laid on the floor of his shop, bleeding and unable to summon help, for about an hour after being hurt. He was found by Mrs. Gross, mother of Mrs. Kusek, and she called Frank Sershen, who carried Socha to his own home about a block away. Dr. J. G. Krum was summoned and is attending the injured man.

Dr. Krum believes there is every likelihood Socha will recover, although his injuries are painful and dangerous. His recovery depends in large measure upon whether or not his skull is fractured, which has not yet been definitely determined. Socha may be disfigured for life by the crushed nasal bridge. He is conscious and has been ever since the accident but is very restless and at times has to be held in bed.

The explosion in his shop Monday was not followed by fire, which usually occurs in such accidents.

Bob Cushing Wins In Grain Judging

Robert Cushing, Ord, won second place in identification in the grain judging contest held in connection with the American Royal Livestock show at Kansas City late in October. He was sixth as an individual in the entire contest which included identification, grading and also judging. The team, composed of Bob, Roland Welbel, Dewitt, and Roland Nelson, Mead, and coached by Elmer Heyne and Philip Henderson of the agronomy department, was second in the contest. They were beaten only by Iowa State college.

Monday evening a benefit dance sponsored by the Legion will take place at the Bohemian hall, music to be furnished by the Joe Puncochar orchestra.

Carl Knecht Victim Of Hit-Run Driver

Tuesday evening about 11:00 Carl Knecht was the victim of a drunken hit-and-run driver, his injuries consisting of a dislocated hip and gash on his forehead.

The driver, W. H. Herzog, of Grand Island, and his companion, Tony Grabowski of Ord, were arrested.

The accident happened on the Auble garage corner in Ord. According to the story told by Elwin Auble, who was an eye-witness, the car driven by Herzog whizzed around the Auble corner and headed northward without stopping at the state highway stop sign. Knecht, who was driving a Model T Ford owned by Don Miller, was proceeding southward on the street west of the Auble garage and was well over on his own side of the street. Herzog swung his car wide as he rounded the Auble corner and crashed into Knecht, the force of the collision throwing Knecht's car across the sidewalk. Knecht was thrown clear of the car and was unconscious when picked up by Auble.

Herzog and Grabowski did not stop after the accident but instead drove to the Grabowski home where officers found them sitting in the car, which was in the garage. Both men were intoxicated, officers claim. They were jailed. Knecht, taken to the Ord hospital by Sheriff Round, was attended by Dr. Lee C. Nay, who replaced his dislocated hip. For a time it was feared Knecht's back was broken but this proved untrue.

Charges had not yet been filed against Herzog and Grabowski when the Quiz went to press Wednesday afternoon. Driving while intoxicated, running past a stop sign and failing to stop after an accident are the charges that may be filed.

—While Kirk Lewis was recently visiting in Broken Bow his aunt, Mrs. H. A. Chase entertained at a children's party at the Northside park, complimenting her nephew. The children played games and their lunch was cooked over an outdoor oven. Kirk claims he had a fine time.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gaster and daughter visited relatives in St. Paul and Farwell.

Lindsey to California. Accompanied by his daughter, Miss Frances, Ira Lindsey left yesterday morning for California where two of his sons reside. He will spend the winter there and it is possible both he and Miss Frances may locate there permanently. For 12 years Mr. Lindsey has been janitor of the Knights of Pythias hall, he has been janitor of the Nebraska State bank for 12 years and 9 months and has been city hall janitor for eight years. Mr. Lindsey and his daughter will be greatly missed here.

"Tiny" Little Draws Crowd. The "tiny" little dance orchestra played for a public dance at the Ord opera house Monday night and attracted a very large crowd. Dancers were present from as far away as Grand Island and Kearney. The little orchestra is probably the best traveling orchestra that plays in Nebraska and Emil Darges, dance manager, is to be recommended for bringing an orchestra of this calibre to Ord.

By overwhelming majorities in most instances, Valley county voters Tuesday placed their stamp of approval upon the efficiency of present county officers, re-electing Ign. Klima, Jr., county clerk, George Satterfield county treasurer, Alfred Weigardt clerk of the district court, George Round sheriff, Rollin C. Ayres surveyor and Clara McClatchey county superintendent. The only close battle was between Ayres and his "by petition" opponent, Thorwald Sorenson.

A race of great interest to most voters was that between Alvin B. Lee, Arcadia democrat, and John B. Misko, Ord republican, for county attorney to succeed George Munro. The Arcadia man was elected by a majority of about 450, holding his own in Ord, North Loup and the northern townships and sliding into office by the substantial majority given him in Arcadia and the southern townships.

Lee led by 100 votes with all precincts except Arcadia having reported. The Arcadia vote, last to come in, swelled his majority greatly.

The race between Mr. Klima and Fred Swanson for county clerk was never in doubt, nor was the contest of Alfred Weigardt and Harry J. McBeth. Both Klima and Weigardt took substantial leads in the first returns and increased them as returns continued to come in.

Early returns indicated a close race between George Round, present sheriff, and W. E. Lincoln, his democratic opponent, but an early lead secured by Lincoln in Ord township was soon lost and Round continued to pile up an impressive majority.

The battle between Clara McClatchey and Erna Malottke for county superintendent was another that elicited much attention. Miss McClatchey ran strongly in Ord, Arcadia and North Loup, Miss Malottke holding her own in most of the rural townships.

Arthur Mensing, democrat, did not run as strongly as expected in his campaign against George A. Satterfield for treasurer and the latter piled up a vote of about 2,800 and led the entire ticket.

The three-cornered race for county assessor between A. R. Brox, A. W. Pierce and John Bremer was won by Brox, republican, who received a substantial majority.

The battle between R. C. Ayres and T. Sorensen for surveyor was a nip-and-tuck affair throughout but Ayres overcame early setbacks and was re-elected.

Races for county supervisor resulted as follows: 1st district—Joe J. Jablonski, 245; Jason L. Abernethy, 43; Anton J. Adamek, 234; 3rd district—Henry A. Zikmund, 424; L. D. Milliken, 241; 5th district—J. A. Barber, 385; Chas. A. Faust, 202; 7th district—S. V. Hansen, 320; J. A. Braden, 117; E. F. Thompson, 92.

Removal of the party circle from this year's ballot made results difficult to predict, even after early returns came in, for voters apparently were casting their ballots for the man without regard for party. Round, Satterfield, Ayres, Barber and Hansen were elected as republicans, Klima, Weigardt, Jablonski and Zikmund as democrats in the county election.

The new school house in Vinton is standard in every respect, has a full basement with furnace heat, is built with a library alcove and is one of the finest rural school buildings in Valley county. C. E. Goodhand was the contractor.

Members of the building committee in Dist. 23 included E. O. Hackel, Will Hansen, Mrs. Archie Mason, Emil Kokes and Henry Williams. The school board consists of E. O. Hackel, director, E. J. Lange, moderator, and Mrs. Ethel Hansen, treasurer. Miss Oletha Williams is teacher this year and 11 pupils are enrolled.

Mr. Cushing was introduced Thursday evening by Miss Clara L. McClatchey, county superintendent, and made his usual excellent address. Mr. Cushing is a former Valley county superintendent, has taught in the rural schools of this county and served as superintendent of Ord schools before being appointed state deputy by Mr. Taylor a few years ago.

Another feature of the dedicatory program in Dist. 23 Thursday eve was music by the Auble orchestra and community singing led by Glen D. Auble. A large crowd of patrons attended.

John Ward Elected.

John Ward, former Ord man, was elected county assessor in Garfield county Tuesday, defeating R. B. Miller. Two other former Ordites were defeated, Joe Holecek losing to Jesse Pearl for county treasurer and Guy Laverty to Glen Runyan for county attorney.

—Eastern Star met Friday evening in their hall. Madams A. W. Tunnicliff, H. G. Frey and R. J. Stoltz served.

—George Round Jr. of Lincoln was in Ord Tuesday and went to Burwell on business. He stayed with his parents for a short time and Tuesday cast his vote for his father as sheriff of Valley county.

—Methodist ladies are planning a supper and rummage sale in the near future.

Democratic Party Sweeps Nebraska

LEE BEATS MISKO, ALL CO. OFFICERS ARE RE-ELECTED

Repeal and 1-House Legislature Approved

Prohibition was repealed in Nebraska, parimutuel racing was sanctioned and the unicameral amendment sponsored by Senator Norris was adopted, late radio reports indicate. The vote on repeal at 2:00 p.m. yesterday was 171,000 for and 117,000 against; parimutuel racing was approved by a slightly smaller margin and the 1-house legislature was certain of adoption, having a lead of 40,000 or more.

In Valley county the vote on repeal and racing was close. The number of voters favoring repeal was 1956 while 1965 voted against. 1421 voted for parimutuel racing, 1606 against.

This county voted strongly in favor of the 1-house legislature, the majority being almost 2 to 1. The vote was 2238 for and 1199 against.

Co. Agent Retained By Vote Of People

A vote of confidence in the value of the agricultural extension office was cast Tuesday by Valley county voters, who voted by a margin of 1914 to 1878 to retain the office, the majority in favor being 38. The question as phrased on the ballot was: Shall an appropriation be made annually from the General Fund of the county for the support of Agricultural Extension Work?

Balloons marked "yes" counted in favor of continuing the office while balloons marked "no" counted against.

In most rural districts the vote on this question was close but in Ord a nice majority was cast in favor of continuing the office. The vote was so close that the final result may be changed by the "by mail" votes, of which there are 68 to be counted.

North Loup News

Mr. and Mrs. Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Jackman were Friday dinner guests at the D. S. Bohrer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Taylor and little daughter with Mr. Taylor's mother, Mrs. F. N. Taylor of Fairfield, Nebr., were guests of Mrs. Amy Taylor from Friday until Sunday.

Dwaine Schultz left last week for Flagstaff, Ariz., where he hoped to find employment. At present he is at the home of his sister, Olive and family, the Dan Malcom's.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bartz and Muriel visited at the Henry Stevens home near Cotesfield, Sunday afternoon. Dorothy Meyers accompanied them.

Donald Baker drove to Grand Island, Wednesday evening taking Miss Frances Lindsay and her father, Ira Lindsay of Ord, from which place they left for San Diego, where they will spend the winter.

The Glen Barbers were well pleased with their placement at Ak-Sar-Ben this year, being 8th in twenty-five entries.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Preston have moved to the residence just vacated by Mrs. Lucy Currie.

Madams Chas. Sayre, Agnes Manchester, Ruth Hutchins and Miss Beulah Willoughby accompanied Mrs. Arthur Collins to Grand Island, Saturday.

Mrs. Ed. Gray and sister Miss Florence Gray both of Greeley, were weekend guests of Mrs. and Mrs. Robert Preston. The Prestons accompanied them home Sunday spending the day with Mrs. Preston's father, James McCoy.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Preston and sons, Robert and David were Hastings visitors Thursday calling on Mrs. Roy Doane at Ingleside.

The Ernest Lees drove to Grand Island Tuesday taking Mrs. Martha Otto to her home following a visit of three weeks with her people here.

Very pleasing and most worthwhile was the Father and Son banquet held in the basement of the Baptist church on Sunday evening.

At this time ninety-one fathers and sons were so honored. The tables were very pretty with fall flowers consisting of pink and white chrysanthemums, the decorations and table service being in charge of Madams Gladys Christensen and Louise Brennick. Following the delicious two-course dinner the assembly enjoyed a program full of varied interests, the keyword of which was "Pals". Vernon D. Williams acted as toastmaster, Albert Babcock spoke on "Partners", Roderick Moulton on Achievement. A young ladies trio consisting of Virginia Moulton, Maxine Johnson and Margaret Sayre entertained with vocal selections. George Maxson Jr. then spoke on "Life" and R. O. Babcock on "Service". Music was then furnished by a male quartette and soprano obligato composed of Richard Babcock, Archie Moulton, Claude Barber, Dell Barber and Miss Virginia Moulton. A Father and Son address by Mr. W. E. Thomas, Boys' Work secretary of Nebraska Y. M. C. A. of Omaha was a splendid climax for the evening's program. The assembly was dismissed after the singing of one verse of "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

Dr. W. J. Hemphill returned Thursday evening from Omaha where he attended a medical convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Goodrich, Dorothy and Doris drove to Omaha Friday being guests at Ak-Sar-Ben. They returned Sunday evening.

Clifford Hawkes and Floyd Redlon arrived Friday from Denver with a load of apples which they disposed of here. Sunday morning they with Mrs. Redlon and her mother, Mrs. Abney, started on their return trip. The families reside at Derby, Colo., a suburb of Denver. Mrs. Redlon hopes to have employment in a Denver store where she formerly worked a few years ago.

Mrs. Cecile Coleman is employed at the Farmers Store here taking the place left vacant by the resignation of Lois Redlon.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Rupert called on neighborhood friends here Friday afternoon, Mrs. Rupert having accompanied her husband the past week on his travels over the state for the Nebraska Securities company. The Ruperts are now stationed in Omaha.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill McClellan departed over the southern route Wednesday morning, via auto, for Covina, Cal., where they will spend the winter. Miss Fannie McClellan accompanied them for a month's visit with other relatives and friends in California points. Mrs. B. B. Barten will assist with the housekeeping during Miss McClellan's absence.

Roy Lewis accompanied W. G. Hutchins to Denver last week. Mr. Lewis enjoyed the week visiting a number of his former North Loup relatives and friends while Mr. Hutchins attended to his aermotor duties. They returned Thursday.

Eleven ladies of the Fortnightly Study club drove to Rockville, Thursday being present at the district convention of Women's clubs. They report a most profitable session. Two North Loup ladies received special literary honors, Mrs. J. A. Barber placed 1st with her one-act play, "It's Morning" and 2nd with her short story, while Mrs. Jessie Babcock of the North Loup club placed 2nd in a trio from the club. Madams Jo Hutchins, Ruth Babcock and Genevieve Hoeppler pleased the assembly with a vocal selection accompanied by Mrs. Florence Hutchins.

Mrs. Esther Schueler was hostess Wednesday, Oct. 31 to the Fortnightly club. The lesson on Cookery in charge of Mrs. Genevieve Hoeppler was interesting and helpful. A favorite recipe was given in response to roll call. Mrs. Katherine Dunham was a guest. The delicious luncheon featured the Halloween season.

Mr. and Mrs. Burgess of Larchwood, Ia., are here the guests of their daughter and family, the W. O. Zanggers.

A jolly afternoon was spent by the pupils at Olean school Oct. 31, when their teacher, Mrs. Dorothy Knapp sponsored a Halloween party for them. The affair was in masquerade style with games and lunch in keeping with the occasion.

Mrs. Madsen received announcement Monday of the birth of a daughter, Connie Norma, on Friday, Nov. 2 to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Collison of Bruning, Nebr. Mrs. Collison was formerly Agnes Christensen of Ord and made her home with the Madsens when she taught here two years ago.

Mrs. Amy Taylor was hostess Thursday afternoon to the November meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society. The lesson lead by Mrs. Stella Kerr dealt with Japanese women as leaders. Madams Pearl and Winnie Bartz were in charge of the newly formed membership contest. Guests were Madames May Shottuck, Chas. Gray, Melva Worth, Gladys Watts, Cloyd Ingerson, and Miss Nora White. The mystery questions were featured on a halloween hint cut out.

Madame Lulu Manchester and Betty Sample were hostesses Wednesday afternoon in the M. E. church parlours at the Ladies' Aid kensington and tea.

Miss LeNore Vanhorn, who has been employed for the past several weeks at the Dr. McGraw home in Tryon, has returned home. The Dr. and her husband accompanied LeNore here Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen and sons of Litchfield were week-end guests of relatives. Mr. Allen and the boys were present at the Father and Son banquet Sunday evening.

Art Watt arrived Thursday night via bus from St. Chas., Ill., and will be here with his children for an indefinite time. Tuesday he was the guest of his brother and family, the Lester Watts of Scotia.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Gray returned to their home at Archer, Sunday afternoon following a few days visit with friends. Mrs. they make their home, drove over after them.

Woodman Hall

Mrs. John Heffernan, aged about 84 years and the last early settler of this community, departed this life Saturday evening at Ord, at the home of Mrs. Will Carlton, where she was taken about a month ago.

The funeral was held from the Geranium Catholic church Monday morning where she was laid to rest by the side of her husband and daughters, Margaret, Jennie and Marie, who preceded her in death. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Nellie Irwin of Alliance, Nebr., a son, Will, residing at home in whose care she has been since the death of her husband, five grandchildren, three nieces and a sister in Italy.

Mrs. Charles Krikac and sons, Gerald and Paul returned home last Wednesday after spending about six weeks in Los Angeles, during the sickness and death of the former's father, Theodore Hovis. Charles Krikac met them at Grand Island from where they journeyed the remaining part of the journey by car.

The next card party sponsored by the ladies of the Geranium Catholic church will be held at the home of Mrs. Jos. Waldmann, Friday evening, November 16 instead of at the home of Mrs. Lew Smolik as was formerly planned.

Donald Waldmann spent Wednesday evening at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe, Waldmann.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Blaha and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blaha of St. Paul visited relatives in our community last Sunday.

"Yes, I'm leaving the cast for a while. I'm going to Paris for some clothes."

"Did you just remember where you left them?"

Christian Science Services.
"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science Churches for Sunday, November 11.

The Golden Text is from John 3:11: "He that cometh from above is above all; he that is of the earth is earthly, and speaketh of the earth."

A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from Romans 8:1: "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "The belief that life can be in matter or soul in body, and that man springs from dust or from an egg, is the result of the mortal error which Christ, or Truth, destroys by fulfilling the spiritual law of being, in which man is perfect, even as the Father in heaven is perfect." (page 485).

Methodist Church.
Next Sunday will be Rural Day at the morning services. All farmers and their families will be guests of honor. The choir will sing "To Thee O Country" by Elchberg. A mens chorus will render DeKovens "Recessional" Sermon topic, "Folks are like sheep."

The subject Sunday night will be "Why some people don't go to church." A questionnaire will be conducted by John Haskell. You are invited to join our happy family on Sunday nights for these informal meetings.

The Christian Advocate is making a special offer to cut the price in half provided the number of subscriptions will equal one-tenth of our church membership. So if we can get 34 subscriptions in Ord, we get them for a dollar a year. Sample copies will be given out next Sunday.

There will be friendly rivalry between the farmers and the town people the next two Sundays. Nov. 11 is Rural Day and Nov. 18 is Business House Day. Congregations will be counted each day. We wonder which day will bring the larger number?

New members will be received the first Sunday morning in December. We will be glad to send for your church letter if you are a member elsewhere, or receive you by profession of faith.

Mearl C. Smith, Minister.

The Government at Washington has ruled that gasoline containing tetraethyl must be distinguished from gasoline lacking this valuable fluid by a metal plaque on the pump reading, "Contains lead (tetraethyl)." Motorists are urged to look for that plaque.

It is their guarantee that they are getting gasoline containing the finest anti-knock fluid known, the very same fluid which in larger quantity goes into premium-priced gasoline! All Standard Red Crown pumps carry the tetraethyl plaque. And that's one reason why Standard Red Crown has more LIVE POWER per gallon, though it costs no more than "regular" gasoline!

ELECTRIC IRON

THE Coleman Automatic Iron *saves $2 to $5 a year on electric current.

When it reaches the temperature at which the thermostat is set, the current is automatically cut off. It "coasts" or "free wheels" on stored heat. 40% of the time it is in use it consumes no electricity. This saving on your electric bill goes on year after year as long as you use your Coleman! This same automatic action of the thermostat eliminates fire danger and scorching of clothes. Saves work... does more than the ironing.

The Coleman is beautifully designed and finished in super-chromium. Has long tapering point, button bevel and glass-smooth ironing surface.

Come in and see this beautiful iron. Let us prove our statements about the money it saves you.

Sun Spots and Wars
No Toy Pistol, Money
Plain Language Needed
Why Revive Sparta?

The Abbe Moreaux, looking through his telescope in Bourges observatory, says, "Beware of 1936 and 1937." Sun spots will increase violently in those two years, according to the abbe, and when sun spots increase "we have wars and social disruption."

On the other hand, according to the reverend observer, when the sun is calm, "the world usually has been at peace."

Others believe that "spots" causing war, international and individual hatreds, are not sun spots, but spots on the human brain.

Many "spots" will have to be removed from the human brain before war can end.

Indiana is investigating two officials connected with the prison from which the late Mr. Dillinger escaped, supposed to have frightened his jailers with a toy pistol.

New evidence indicates that, instead of frightening somebody with a wooden pistol, he bribed somebody with good real money.

Half the success and immunity of the usually dull-minded criminal is based on the corruption of public officials, and criminal lawyers ready to accept criminal money.

The New York Times quotes "one of the most distinguished of all British diplomats" as follows: "Anglo-American relations have never been in such a grave condition since the war."

There is talk of Japan having a navy as big as England or America, with England's consent, England building 70 cruisers, etc.

Some Americans would like to know why Uncle Sam does not say to Japan and England: "Build what ships and make what new secret treaties you do—please. We shall do as we please." We have had in America men that would send such a message to any group of treacherous "friends."

Home reports that Mussolini, determined to make Italy a really militant country, ready to fight anybody at the drop of any hat, plans a "New Italy" with the motto, "Back to the glory of the Caesars, A revival of Sparta."

All right about the Caesars, but Sparta did not work out well. Where is Sparta now? Where is the ancient glory?

Fighting will be done hereafter by scientists, chemists with poison gases and explosive gases; engineers with fast planes, deadly air torpedoes. Fighting will be in the air and under water. No need to make a whole nation parade and drill.

An oasis of cheerfulness in this world of gloom is Leontine M. Tolokonski, Russian consul general in New York. Many things make him happy, including the fact that Russia can produce everything she needs, "except bananas and coffee." She is growing fine grapefruit now, can worry along without any bananas and drink tea, instead of coffee, as she always has done. Russian coffee never was very good, anyhow.

The late Australian general, Sir John Monash, described in "Lloyd George's memoirs as the "only general on the British side who could have successfully replaced the late Field Marshal Earl Haig as commander in chief of the British forces," was of Jewish descent.

Fighting ability in that race surprises nobody, for some of the greatest fighters in history, including Hannibal and his father, were of the Semitic race.

A well-known actor, Lou Tellegen, who used to play "perfect lover" parts, and married four ladies, including Geraldine Farrar, lost his popularity and has killed himself after telling his friends "there is no place in Hollywood for a has-been."

There is no place anywhere for a has-been, but, fortunately, there is no need to remain a has-been forever.

San Francisco rejoices in completion, after twenty years of work, of the great Hetch Hetchy project, a $100,000,000 "undertaking" that brings pure water 150 miles from the high Sierras to Yosemite National park.

A great bridge is building over the beautiful Golden Gate that leads in from the Pacific ocean, and soon San Francisco will be connected by road with the great city of Oakland, across the bay.

Veterans demand their bonus now, without shilly-shallying or tergiversation.

It is said that the President will propose with all his strength any effort in congress to pay the bonus now.

Veterans need the money now while times are hard and their children are young.

Ord Tramples Undefeated Ravenna Hi, Wins Handily Friday Eve by 13-0 Count

Fullback Greathouse Big Factor
In Chanticleer Victory;
First Score on Pass.

A revenge-seeking Ord team proved its superiority over a powerful Ravenna team on the Ord field Friday evening by a deciding 13-0 score.

Although the Ord team was outweighed by the orange-clad Ravenna men, Ord outsmarted and outplayed them throughout the game.

The first touchdown was chalked up in the first quarter when Greathouse flipped a pass to Blessing, who snatched the ball out of the air and went over for a touchdown standing up. Ord failed to convert for extra point and the score was Ord 6, Ravenna 0.

In the second quarter Ravenna determined to change the present one-house legislature stated, "The idea was and still is, to place the responsibility on a less number of individuals, thus requiring them to exercise their legislative power more fully."

Wednesday evening Senator Norris addressed a meeting in the High School auditorium, attended by the citizens of this community. Senator Norris outlined his reasons for advocating a one-house legislature.

A dinner was served in his honor Wednesday evening and following this he was escorted to the school house by the band. In addition to the address given here, he spoke also at Taylor and Burwell in the morning and early afternoon.

When the final whistle was blown in the fourth quarter it found Ord on the Ravenna 10 yard line and threatening to go over for another touchdown which they undoubtedly would have done if a few more minutes of play had remained.

The entire Ord team played a wonderful game. In the backfield, Haskell got off some punts which were proclaimed by many as the best seen in the Loup Valley this year. Greathouse, as fullback did a wonderful job at both passing and line plugging. Carlson and Marks gave the Ravenna men plenty of worry when they started on one of those long, sweeping end runs. Barnhart substituted for Haskell in the third quarter and immediately broke away for over a 30 yard run which seemed to spur the team on to a touchdown in the third quarter.

One of the largest crowds for Ord football games this year was out, despite the fact that drizzling sleet fell throughout the game.

DO YOU KNOW?

A Girl Reserve candlelight initiation service will be held Monday evening, November 2. All old members and other girls who have attended two meetings and one party are invited to attend.

Band members were measured for their uniforms last week. The uniforms will be presented to the band members on Armistice day.

The Sophomore Home Ec. class made over 300 doughnuts to serve the Girls' Athletic group at their play day last week.

The one-act play, "Veneer", given at the American Legion program was repeated Friday for convocation. Following this a pep rally was held for the Friday evening game with Ravenna.

Each student in high school had his eyes examined last week by Dr. George Parkins and Dr. Glen Auble. The Senior Normal Trainers assisted them.

The Civics class held a debate last week. The topic for debate was: "Resolved: We should adopt the One-House Legislature". Maxine Bosen, Alleen Larsen and Evelyn Koken debated in the negative and Mildred Craig, Julia Fuss and Laura Sobon in the affirmative.

Sophomores Vote On Favorite Magazines

The Sophomore English department in finishing their magazine unit, took a class vote on the different types of magazines. They were classed as fiction, Current Event, Juvenile, Special Interest, and Special.

Among the fiction group, the Cosmopolitan and the Red Book received the largest number of votes. Time was by far the most popular of the Current Event magazines. The boys, as their favorite Juvenile magazine chose the Boys' Life and the girls voted unanimously for the American Girl. As a magazine of special interest, the boys chose the Popular Mechanics and the girls Better Homes and Gardens. By far the most popular of the Special magazines was the American.

EDITORIALS

I wasn't even aware of the fact that there was a "We Will Win" football club in existence until we received those colorful sheets last Monday. In spite of all of my attempts to find out, I am still in the dark as to whom the editor was. Does he deserve a vote of thanks? Perhaps the spirited paper helped us beat Ravenna!

What do you think of the Beta Pi Gamma (the Science Club to us)? I don't know why the new name but I do know that Science Club is much easier to say.

This week is American education week and from the Illinois we take this message to parents:

Roads or bridges can be built tomorrow but the education of children cannot be postponed. Your child cannot grow up twice. Your child's school is your ally. Every day it does something for your child. Let us cherish and improve our schools.

You can interrupt the improving of a road and ten years later go on with it about where you left off, but if you interrupt decent care for children and ten years later begin to feel responsible for them, you can by no means begin where you left off. You find them irreparably grown up, and grown wrong — enemies and liabilities of their community rather than friends and assets.—Dorothy Canfield Fisher.

A PENNY FOR YOUR THOUGHTS...

This week we asked this question of the students. "How much time do you spend in daily preparation of your lessons?"

"I spend too much."—Joy Auble. "As much as I need to get my work thoroughly."—Ruth Benn.

"I study in school—most of the time. That's enough for me."—William Goff.

"Me? Do you think I study?"—Joe Krilek.

"I have two study periods and I think I spend maybe an hour studying."—Julia Fuss.

"It would be easier to tell you how much time I don't study."—LaVerne Nelson.

"About the first five minutes before the class recitation begins."—Irene Dugosh.

This Week's Sponsor is PROTECTIVE Savings & Loan Ass'n.

JOS. P. BARTA, Secretary

Ord has an institution in the Protective Savings and Loan Association which has found a way to become a part of the financial life of a great many graduates of the Ord high school, and hopes to pursue a similar part in the careers of the students now in Ord classes.

This organization began life in 1916, and two of the men who were charter members are still actively interested and are now directors of the association. These two men are Dr. George R. Gard and Joseph P. Barta, who has been secretary, treasurer, and managing officer since the first day of business and is still right on the job every day in the year, early and late.

Directors of this business are Dr. Gard, president, L. D. Milliken, vice president, Jos. P. Barta, Sec'y, O. A. Hager, and C. M. Davis.

It so happens that each of these men, responsible and long established business and professional men of our city, have now or have had in recent years children in the Ord schools themselves. Naturally they harbor a very warm friendly feeling for young Ord students, and will be glad to help in any way possible to give a boost to a worthy or deserving young person whether the help can be proffered as individuals or as a thriving business concern of our city.

The Protective Savings and Loan Association numbers at the present time over 1,200 saving stockholders, making this the largest financial institution in Valley County. Of course this large number of stockholders are principally Ord and Valley county parents, so a great many high school students hear about the Protective Savings and Loan Association at home, and are well aware of the esteem and high regard in which their parents hold this loan association.

Assets now consist of trust mortgages on 300 improved homes or other property in Ord and vicinity, and assets of this firm also include $100,000 of government bonds. The Protective Savings and Loan association is now making new loans on new homes and also is loaning money for repairing and improving homes of older vintage.

This firm also offers a good way to save money, a safe way. It is surprising what satisfactory sums may be accumulated within a few years by systematically depositing a small amount each month. Many parents utilize this scheme to have money ready and waiting when their boy or girl is ready for college, and this method has the advantage of being practically painless since a small amount regularly set aside does not make itself felt much at any time. Just for example, if you save about $4.25 per month and get five percent interest for it from the time your child is born until he is 18 years of age, there will be $1500 ready for college expenses, a help indeed.

Joseph Barta, manager, graduated from the Ord high school in 1900. Miss Marie Hall, his very capable assistant, is also an Ord graduate. All the directors of this firm, in fact, are Ord residents, Valley county people, thus making the firm 100 percent interested in local problems and people. The business of the firm is local, all the capital is local, all the personnel is local.

The Oracle is made possible by this group of Loyal Ord business and professional men and women.

Nationally Sponsored by Amer. Legion American Education Week Observed

Cast Selected For Junior Class Play

Special Programs All Week In Ord Grade and Hi School;
See the Exhibits.

Tryouts were held for the Junior Class play last week and the following cast has been selected.

Charlotte Blessing enacts the part of Diana Rand, the eldest daughter of the Rand family. She is a snobbish, young lady who wishes her own way in everything.

The American Education Week is a national move sponsored by the American Legion. The National Teachers Association, Parent-Teachers association and the Women's clubs cooperate with the American Legion in making the move a success. The American Legion is very much interested in the schools and education. This Education Week is just one of their many ways to promote and stimulate a feeling for a better and higher education among the young people of America.

American Education Week has been observed since the close of the World War in 1918, and has been growing greatly in popularity during the past few years.

Special programs will be held each Monday, Tuesday, and Friday in the home rooms. On Wednesday, Rev. McCarthy will speak at the convocation. The topic of his talk will be "Continuing Education Throughout Life." Friday, the American Legion will assist in the convocation. Besides the presentation of the Band uniforms, John Misko will give a talk on "Quicken the Sense of Civic Responsibility."

LaVerne Hanson portrays Donald Rand, the well-groomed, gentlemanly and admirable head of the household. Ruth Koupal portrays Julia Rand, the mistress of the house. She is a very spoiled woman used to a life of great ease and comfort. Ruth Benn portrays Kitty, the maid of all work but the life of the party. Jacqueline Meyer and Mildred Campbell play the part of Clarissa and Midge Waring. Just a couple of girls—plenty of twitters and little else.

LaVerne Hanson portrays Donald Rand. He is hardly his father or mother's child—rather an individual but good at heart and loyal.

Harlan Wylick enacts the part of Richard Crandall. Smooth but hard faker, it is revealed.

William Goff plays the part of Elmer. He's very dynamic, speaks little but does enormous things.

Eleanor Verstrate and Marie Viner portray Alpha and Omega, two chattering old maids who know everyone's business.

Florence Kurtak portrays Margie Scanlan, a brave girl whose life has been one of constant struggle.

Paul Carlson and Paul Blessing enact the part of two baggagemen.

Two understudies are being rehearsed in case they are needed. They are Eva Umstead and Virginia Fox.

The date for the play has been temporarily set for Dec. 7. An excellent program is in store for the evening.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

Anyhow, I know now that Ol' Gus Buechler reads this kolumn.

And now the torture of office seeking is over for a while, at least for a part of the candidates and those beaten will soon forget it and most of them will say they are glad of it. Some of them will mean it, too.

When the next great war comes, and it is surely coming, it won't be necessary to call millions of young men together and train them as infantry and cavalry. Enough to man the airplanes and the submarines will be all that is really necessary and probably the job won't last long. And the country with the best air force will win the war.

Now that election is over it is time to begin to think about Christmas and there is nothing nicer that you can send to an absent loved one, than the Quiz for a year.

And another thing that want you to remember, I can send in any club offered with a daily paper, at the same price you would pay the paper. Because you want to take advantage of some clubbing offer is no reason for sending the subscription direct. You save a little by letting me have the business.

The Grand Island Independent has turned out to be a pretty good democrat newspaper this year.

Fred Howard of the Clay County Sun has got up-to-the-minute ideas on irrigation matters as evidenced by the following from his always interesting column of last week:

"We are unable to find any reputable source willing to assume responsibility for the report that the National Administration has authorized the purchase with R. F. C. funds of a million dogs at $3 each to be used in an irrigation project in the first years of the great tree planting scheme for altering weather conditions. Nothing more practical has yet emanated from the brain bust, but until a National Director, with a million local helpers (one for each pup) has been appointed definite information will not be available. Canineographs will soon appear in the metropolitan press. County Supervisors will be asking for bids on car lots of dog biscuits and mange curé and the County Farm Agent will be announcing Dog Days as he now does Cattle Days."

Now that election is over, let's all get busy and make way with all the campaign cards that are posted about town. Let's forget the late unpleasantness as soon as possible. The next episode will start in a few months and we must have a little rest.

Irma has the copy just about finished for the 1935 Cook Calendar and I have secured the cut to make the picture on the front cover. There was such a demand that my picture be on the front of this next calendar that I almost yielded, but my extreme modesty finally won and my picture will not appear this time. We are going to have the calendars all ready this year, so they can be mailed out before the first of January and one will be sent, postpaid to everyone who is paid up on the Quiz. As the record stands now there are a lot of people who won't get one. We just cannot send the calendar to unpaid subscribers and we can't afford to print enough for all who may pay up later or subscribe later. Better send in a payment right soon.

I don't know how many of the editors of the Loup Valley read this column but I want to remind you that Saturday, November 17 is the date for the fall district convention of the Loup Valley Editorial Association and it will be held at Ord. The program, already arranged, will be given. I hope there will be a large attendance and that all will be on hand for the opening session at 10 a.m. The meeting will be held in the basement of the Masonic hall. Dinner will be served just a half block south in the dining room of the M. E. church. There will be a picture show matinee in the afternoon for the ladies who do not wish to attend the press meeting, so be sure and bring the Misses along with you. Fred Howard has promised to bring Miss Lobelia, which will insure Doyle Buckles being here.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

25 Years Ago This Week

Valley county went republican again by a tidy margin, every local republican candidate except Hagemer for county clerk being elected. Late Paist was high man with a majority of 651 for treasurer, Otto Murschell was elected clerk, Judge H. Gudmundsen was reelected and A. Sutton was reelected sheriff.

Ign. Klima, Jr., of Poplar Grove, who was paralyzed by the spinal meningitis, was slowly recovering but yet unable to walk.

Gregory Shotkoski father of Mrs. Charles Augustyn, died suddenly at the Augustyn home at the age of 104. A native of Austria, Mr. Shotkoski had lived with his daughter's family 13 years.

Charles R. Trim, of York, bought W. J. Hather's 160-acre home place, the price being $90 per acre.

E. C. Gifford bought the old Nethery 80 from Hugh McEachron, paying $5,500 for it.

The Misses Ora Mutter and Nellie Bratt were having a fine time on the former's claim in South Dakota. They had their shack all fixed up to defy winter blizzards.

A reception was held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Fletcher, who were planning to move to Lincoln.

A party of Ord sports, H. M. Davis, Dr. G. W. Taylor, W. D. Stevens and W. E. Chaplin, went up country to spend several days hunting ducks and geese.

Young farmers of Valley county held a corn show and exhibit.

Prizes on various kinds of corn were won by Carl Schmidt, John Meese, Harry Bresley and Joe Kokes. Rosa Koll won first prize on white bread, Ruth Knott on corn bread, Edna Smith on cookies and Lillian Breman on aprons.

20 Years Ago This Week

Tuesday proved to be a democratic day in Valley county, most officers elected being democrats. A. Sutton, sheriff, was the only republican elected.

Miss Shuman was defeated by Staven, Hager lost for treasurer, Staples beat Berry

BACK FORTY

A few farmers were gathering fallen tree leaves around town recently. They hauled the leaves home and are feeding them to livestock. The practice is so unusual that it has aroused the interest and curiosity of many by-standers. They wonder how good a feed such leaves are for livestock.

According to authorities on animal nutrition, the feeding value of fallen tree leaves is exceedingly low. It is not believed that they contain any nutrients after the work of digestion has been taken out of the total nutrients. An animal would starve to death on feed of this kind in a very short time.

It is true that livestock will eat leaves, even though they have plenty of other feed available. This is more of a browsing process, it being the nature of cattle to pick at many things which are neither particularly tasty nor nutritious. It does not indicate that they have any feeding value.

Although leaves are even lower in energy supply than wheat straw, they may be of some value as a roughage feed, when fed in connection with grain, and a protein supplement such as cottonseed meal. Any roughage aids an animal in digestion and in obtaining vitamins and minerals.

Young green tree leaves are higher in food value, as are all plants in the earlier stages of growth. The old woody leaves are difficult for any animal to digest, with the possible exception of the goat—the only animal that can digest wood.

Indignant Customer—The first time I took a deep breath, all the been beaten thoroughly with one cup sweet milk, and two tablespoons melted fat. Bake in hot greased gem pans for 25 minutes in moderately hot oven.

Mrs. Sam Marks.

Pineapple Taploca Cream.

Add one-third cup quick cooking tapioca to one cup brown sugar and one-fourth teaspoon salt, put in two cups pineapple juice and cook in a double boiler fifteen minutes or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Pour over broken pineapple slices and serve with whipped cream.

Mildred C. Van Slyke.

Midnight Snack.

Cut peeled bananas into one and one-half inch pieces, roll a strip of bacon around each piece and pin in place with a toothpick.

Broil in the oven until the bacon is crisp and crinkly. Serve sizzling hot.

Mrs. Lester Shipley.

Pumpkin Nut Pie.

Mix together one and one-half cups brown sugar, one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg, one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons flour. Add to one cup prepared pumpkin which has been sieved, then stir in two beaten eggs, two cups milk, one-half cup cocoanut, one-half cup crushed nuts, beat well. Pour into deep pie plate lined with pastry which has been glazed with white of an egg. Bake at once.

(I have made this using carrots in place of the pumpkin, serving it to people who declared they didn't like carrots. They thought they were eating pumpkin pie.)

Mabel Nichols Brittin.

Scotch Eggs.

Cook one-half cup crumbs in two-thirds cup milk until thick; add salt and pepper and one cup minced chicken or other cooked meat, mix all to form a stiff paste. Take a portion of this and press around each of six hard cooked eggs smoothly with the hands. Take a raw egg and one tablespoon water, beat lightly. Dip each covered egg in this then into crumbs and fry in deep, hot fat until golden brown. Cut in half, place cut side up and serve with gravy or mayonnaise.

Guess who?

The Scotch Eggs lady is very modest, doesn't want her name in, so we'll have a guessing contest. She is smallish, darkish, has a pert, happy disposition, helps her husband sell flowers, seeds, bulbs.

And say, if you would like a recipe in the Quiz calendar for this year, you have just a day or two to make connections. Mail it or bring it in at once.

Muffins.

Sift together two cups of sifted flour, two level teaspoons baking powder, one-half tablespoon sugar or more, one-half level teaspoon salt. Add to one egg which has

“I'm happy because I've just killed a saxophone player.”

“Sleep.”

We Thank You, Meat Buyers

Since we announced our candidacy for your meat business last week on the Quality and Economy Ticket we have been most gratified at the many expressions of approval we have received. Meat buyers were practically unanimous in approving our candidacy, their approval taking the form of substantial orders for beef, pork, smoked meats, fish, cheese and the other items we sell.

The polls were crowded Friday and Saturday and again Monday and Tuesday and most people were so kind as to say we are true representatives of the Quality and Economy party, and that our party will have the support of every meat buyer during these trying economic times.

Again we thank you for your support during the election period and hope to be favored by its continuance throughout our term of office.

Talk by Misko Features Special Convocation Sponsored By the American Legion.

American Education Week, a national event that was observed in the Ord schools from November 5 to 11, came to a close Friday with a special convocation in the Ord high school auditorium sponsored by the American Legion at which John P. Misko, Ord attorney, was the principal speaker. His topic was "Quicken the Sense of Civic Responsibility," and the address was pronounced one of the finest and most thought-provoking ever given in Ord high school.

The entire Education Week this year was of high calibre. Special programs were given Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in each of the home rooms, exhibits and displays were posted in the various class rooms, and many parents and school patrons visited the various rooms during the week.

On Wednesday a special convocation was held, Rev. Willard McCarthy giving fine talk on the subject, "Continuing Education Throughout Life." The program sponsored by the Legion Friday was the final event of the week.

Special features of this program, besides Mr. Misko's talk, were selections by the Legion chorus, a patriotic poem by Evelyn Jorgensen, singing of "America" by the student body, and a pep rally in preparation for the Ord-Ansley football game Friday night.

In his talk Mr. Misko said, in part:

"This is 'American Education Week' and each day has a topic of its own. Today's topic is 'quicken the sense of civic responsibility.' Day after tomorrow is Armistice day and this convocation may well include both for they are closely related. Surely we were led to believe that our part in the World war was to make the world safe for democracy and certainly that is closely aligned with quickening the sense of civic responsibility."

"The subject of civic responsibility is so large that it would surely include your duty to the churches, schools, Chamber of Commerce, fellow townsmen and so on but I have restricted my talk to only one phase of it and that is your responsibility in matters of city, state and national government."

"We have, just recently, concluded an election in which the people of our state discarded our time-tested two house legislature and adopted a form which operates under only one house. That is not an important statement to you now. Undoubtedly some of you are informed on the question of whether or not it was a good change. Others of you are unconcerned and have not the slightest interest in the reform and that is the unfortunate state of affairs in which we find a vast number of our people today. The time may come when you as voters will be asked either to place your stamp of approval upon that system or discard it. Now is the time to begin seeking knowledge on the subject to enable you when the opportunity comes to vote intelligently. That is one isolated case. There are hundreds of others equally as important and commanding an equal amount of your consideration."

"National prohibition has just been voted from our Constitution. Beyond a doubt, there will come a time in the future when you will have your opportunity to vote on that issue. Will you vote according to your personal needs and desires or will you cast aside such petty reasons and vote for the good of the people? Unless you begin now to seek knowledge on the question, the time of voting will come upon you when you are unprepared to vote other than the way the masses vote."

"Our national government has taken bold steps in the past two years toward control of the people. It will be for you to determine in the future whether that control shall be continued, enlarged or dispensed with. Will you be intelligent on the subject and cast an intelligent ballot or will you grope in the darkness for the correct answer?"

"Old men seldom change governments—it is the young ones who see the errors and misdeeds of the old system and bring about our reforms. Elderly people are accustomed to the old system, content to follow it if it has served them well. Young men see the need for changes and their habits are not so firmly imbedded that they cannot be altered."

"You will be young voters a few years hence. Upon your shoulders

Rev. Wantz Believes In Big Army, Navy

An unusual attitude for a minister of the Gospel to take was revealed by Rev. C. F. Wantz, pastor of the Lutheran church in Mira Valley, in the course of an Armistice day talk to Ord Rotarians Monday eve. He believes in a big army and a big navy as the best assurance of peace, Rev. Wantz says. The United States can be trusted with a great war machine, he believes, whereas other countries might not be so trustworthy. The history of this country shows we have never embarked upon a war of aggression, merely wars of defense.

Rev. Wantz served eighteen months in the United States army during the World war.

Addressees Optometrists.

Dr. Glen D. Auble, of Ord, was one of the speakers at a meeting of the Central Nebraska Optometric association held Sunday at Hastings. His subject was the similarity of eye defects in twins, 76 per cent of whom are found to have identical eye defects even though their general facial appearance may be different.

KOTOUC CHOSEN PRESIDENT BY NEBR. BANKERS

Humboldt Man Who Married Ord Girl Elected; Sorenson Chairman Executive Com.

Otto Kotouc, president of the Home State bank of Humboldt, was elected president of the Nebraska Bankers association at the closing session of the annual convention in Lincoln Friday. He succeeds E. E. Placek of Wahoo.

Mr. Kotouc is known by many Ordites, having married Miss Camille Cernik, of this city. Mrs. Kotouc is a daughter of Mrs. Joe Cernik. She and her husband often visit here.

Another man well known in Ord was chosen by Nebraska bankers as chairman of their executive committee. He is J. Merlinus Sorenson, of Fremont.

In their resolutions, bankers of the state urged banks to expose little cash on counters and delay opening of time locks in order to reduce robbery losses; protested taxes upon preferred stock issued to the RFC; and urged legislation defining the proper field of cooperative credit associations.

Ord people present at the two-day convention included Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mortenson and Mr. and Mrs. F. P. O'Neal, Alvin Haywood and George Hastings, of Arcadia, also were present.

Two Weddings In E. C. James Family

Two weddings have occurred during the past week in the family of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. James of Ord, the first being solemnized in Oakland, Calif., Friday Nov. 9, when their eldest son, Ralph, was united in marriage to Miss Josephine Wixson of Oakland. Both young people are graduates of the University of California and have been engaged for six years but decided to finish their university work before marrying. They will live in Berkeley where Ralph is employed in the Department of Entomology, Bureau of Eradication of Disease.

At Lincoln Sunday, Nov. 11, occurred the marriage of Miss Edith James to Robert Skinner of Herman, Nebr., the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Nye of Lincoln in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. R. A. Fell. Miss James, sister of the bride, was her attendant and William Skinner, brother of the groom, was best man.

The wedding march was played by Roland Wachter, of Lincoln, and Miss Virginia VanDecar of Ord sang "At Dawn" and "I Love You Truly." The bride was eggshell satin, made in princess style, and she wore a veil and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaid wore a blue silk gown and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Mrs. Skinner was born in Ord and attended the public schools, graduating with the class of 1931, after which she took two years' course at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln. Her husband is a respected and prosperous young farmer and has made a home for his bride on his farm near Herman.

After the ceremony Sunday dainty refreshments were served, guests being immediate relatives of the contracting parties.

Eight Belles met Tuesday evening with Miss Roberta Chase in the home of Mrs. Keith Lewis. Dinner was served in Mrs. Leonard Parks' home.

MAIL VOTE PUTS VALLEY COUNTY IN REPEAL COLUMN

State Votes Wet by Over 50,000 Majority; Legislature Will Pass Control Statute.

By a majority of over 80,000 votes, Nebraska last week joined other states in endorsing repeal of the 18th Amendment and as soon as the Legislature convenes this winter a statute will be passed permitting and controlling the sale of hard liquor in this state.

Valley county entered the repeal column by the narrow margin of 12 votes and this only as a result of the "by mail" vote which was overwhelmingly wet. The vote of local residents was 1,955 for repeal, 1,956 against but 35 out of 57 mail votes cast were in favor of repeal so the final result stood 1,990 for repeal and 1,978 against.

A comparison of the way Valley county voted on this question in 1916, when the state prohibition amendment was passed, and in 1934 is very interesting. In 1916 only 2,409 votes were cast on this question and 1,830 voters favored prohibition to 817 against. More than 1 1/2 times as many ballots were voted in 1934, the total for and against being 3,968.

A comparison by voting precincts shows the change in sentiment from 1916 to 1934.

Herzog, Grabowski Face Liquor Charge

W. H. Herzog, Grand Island, an International Harvester Company agent, and Tony Grabowski, Ord garage man, paid fines of $35 and $30 respectively when they appeared before County Judge John L. Andersen late last Wednesday afternoon to face intoxication charges filed by George A. Munn, County attorney. Costs were also assessed against them.

The wedding march was played by Roland Wachter, of Lincoln,

Farm Bureau Safe, Official Canvassing

The Valley County Farm Bureau with Carl C. Dale as county agricultural agent will continue to serve people of this county, as a result of the election last week. The proposition carried by a margin of 39 votes.

The unofficial total gave 1914 votes in favor of keeping the farm bureau and 1878 against. When the mail vote was counted and an official canvass of the entire vote made, the result was a majority of 99 for the farm bureau.

A tabulation of the vote cast on this question in every voting precinct will be found on another page.

Wells Holding Sale.

John W. Wells will hold a cleanup sale on the 21st, a full list of the offering appearing in this week's paper. Mr. Wells has lived in the western part of the county for some years and March 1st will move to a farm owned by his mother near Cotesfield.

ABSTRACTORS OF FEDER'L SHELTER BELT AREA MEET

A. B. Capron, President of State Title Men, Calls Session In Ord Monday.

Abstractors from the east half of the area to be included in the proposed government shelter belt or tree planting project met in Ord Monday at the call of Arthur B. Capron, president of the Nebraska Title association, to discuss the form of certificate to be written in guaranteeing title of land leased or purchased by the government for tree planting use.

Twenty-two men representing 14 counties were present. Next week a similar meeting for the west half of the area will be held either at Arcadia or Oshkosh, which Mr. Capron will attend.

Most of central Nebraska, in fact most of the territory between Oshkosh and Arcadia on the west, on the east and the south edge of the shelter belt, with the exception of a few purely sand hill counties such as Thomas.

The plan of the belt was explained in the Quiz three weeks ago when Alva A. Simpson, head of the project, visited Ord.

By January 1 the government proposed to start leasing land, in each instance taking also an option to buy at the expiration of the lease period. Naturally a clear title is necessary, which will mean much work for abstractors in the area.

Forestry surveyors are working now in four Nebraska counties—Boyd, Garden, Box Butte and Sheridan—Mr. Capron is informed, and in about two weeks it is thought that surveyors will be at work in Valley county.

At their meeting Tuesday the abstractors determined the form of certificate to be given and also decided on what charge each abstractor should make for examining each title. A committee composed of Mr. Capron, Robert Mathew of Loup City and Verne Hedge of Lincoln was named to confer with Director Simpson in Lincoln today and early this morning Mr. Capron left for Lincoln to attend this conference.

Observe 87th Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Bartlett entertained Friday evening in observance of their 37th wedding anniversary, honored guests being Mr. and Mrs. H. B. VanDecar, who had been married 34 years. Mr. and Mrs. VanDecar presented Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett with a lovely bouquet of chrysanthemums. Miss Virginia VanDecar gave each couple a wedding cake, a miniature bride and groom topper and places of honor on the top of each cake. Guests were three tables of bridge players. Others besides Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett and Mr. and Mrs. VanDecar were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sorensen, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Achen, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Crosby, Alvin Blessing and Misses Bess Krahulik and Muriel Bartlett.

The Sydzyk Sale.

Mrs. Sophie Sydzyk of the Arcadia territory is going to leave the farm and will hold a cleanup sale on Monday, November 26. She has a fine offering of personal property, among it a nice bunch of extra good milk cows. There will be a complete list of the offering in the Quiz next week and you should watch for it.

Mrs. Bert LeMasters was ill Saturday but was improved the first of this week.

HEART ATTACK PROVES FATAL TO JOS. FAJMON

Jungman Hall Farmer Stricken At Choke Hour Friday, Died a Few Moments Later.

Suddenly taken ill as he was doing his evening chores last Friday, Nov. 8, Joseph Fajmon at Jungman hall neighborhood passed away a few moments later. Death was attributed to heart disease. Mr. Fajmon was born in Saunders county, Nebraska, November 1, 1872 and died at the age of 62 years and 8 days.

On January 3, 1899 he was united in marriage to Marie Kolousek at Burwell, Nebraska and to this union 10 children were born, all of whom survived him with the exception of Emily who passed away in infancy.

When nine years of age he moved with his parents to this community where he has since resided. When but a young man he was united with the Z. C. B. J. Lodge Number 161 at the Jungman Hall and has carried membership with this Order ever since. Mr. Fajmon's friends were numbered by those who knew him, and he was loved and respected by all.

Surviving him besides his wife, Mrs. Marie Fajmon are his nine children. They

A Union Service under the auspices of the Legion and Auxiliary was held at the M. E. church Sunday evening. A large congregation listened with grave interest to the program commemorating Armistice day, which was in charge of Mrs. J. A. Barber, president of the Auxiliary here. Following the usual Legion ritual a group of Miss Thelin's first primaries, trained as soldiers and red cross nurses impressed the assembly in a drill. A solo by Albert Babcock was much appreciated. Very effective was the series of pantomimes with original readings by Mrs. Barber who was the author also of the pantomimes depicting the consequences of war.

A repetition of the latter was presented before the entire school on Monday afternoon in the auditorium. In connection with the program presented at the school auditorium were the reading of the prize winning essays on Citizenship, which had been prepared by the grade children. Muriel Barts of the 8th grade being 1st prize winner, LaVern Hutchins 2nd and Bernice Wilson 3rd both of the 7th grade.

At an all day session of the Library board on Thursday, one hundred and two books were repaired.

Mr. Will Wetzel is again confined to his bed with another heart attack. He is being cared for by his daughter, Mrs. Laura Robbins.

Chas. Finley of Pleasant Hill, who has been in failing health for a long while is reported to be very ill.

Donald Fisher of Berwyn spent the week end with his people.

I've been caught in three blizzards

And in three cyclones too
I've been in tight places
But always pulled through.

I've felt the dread earthquake
Seen grasshoppers swarm
Burned tons of dry cow chips
To try and keep warm.
I've lived in a dug-out
And been covered so
I had to dig tunnels
Through big drifts of snow.

That I have been lucky
I cannot deny
I've had close escapes
That still make me sigh.

But I never once dreamed
That I would find time
To puzzle my brain with
The writing of rhyme.

"No fool like an old fool"
And that sure means me
I can only write nonsense
To kill time you see.

When we get old and feeble
Then what can we do
I'll be darned if I know
How is it with you?

I've been racking my brain
To work out a plan
But I will not worry
Just do what I can.

I have made no remarks
On my first birthday yet
But I'll do it now
Before I forget.

They say when I landed
I was in for a scrap
And they gave me my nickname
Which you well know is "Snap."

A social occasion of much interest to old settlers of the community was the celebration of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Moody of Horace which was held on Tuesday evening at the church in Horace. The building was prettily decorated in gold and white and with the dainty luncheon of fruit salad, cake and coffee the color scheme was observed. A pleasing program of music and reading and tributes to this fine old couple who are among Greeley county's most industrious pioneers, was enjoyed by numbers of old time friends as well as those of the community today.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sayre entertained a few friends at their home Saturday evening.

A number of North Loup ladies attended a shower at the home of Mrs. Flynn in Ord, Thursday afternoon honoring her grand daughter, Mrs. Dola Flynn Vodehnal.

They included Madams Nellie and Neva Fisher, Edna Post, Betty Sample, Mrs. Tappan, Lizzie and Dorothy Knapp.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bingham are holding a sale of their stock and household goods at the farm southeast of town tomorrow. Earl and Winnie are moving to Colorado to be nearer their children all of whom live in Denver. They expect to operate a truck farm near Denver.

Relatives here have received word of the belated announcement of the marriage of Keith Davis, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Orsen Davis of Denver to Miss Margaret McCartney of Colorado Springs, who has just recently completed her nurse's training course at the Presbyterian hospital in Denver. The couple were married May 27. They will reside in Denver.

The building housing the Loyalist office and Dr. Hemphill's office is being refinished within as well as without.

The sale sponsored by Knapp brothers last week brought patronage from miles away terminating Thursday evening. Mrs. Dollie Clark held the lucky number which won for her a lovely $25.00 mattress.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schulte attended the Cronk sale on Elm Creek Tuesday.

Mr. Murray, vocational agriculture instructor here, was elected secretary of the association at the convention in North Platte.

The above named Defendants will take notice that they have been sued by David Z. Mummert, Plaintiff, in the District Court of Valley County, Nebraska, who filed his petition in said Court on October 25, 1934, the object and prayer whereof being for the foreclosure of certain Tax Sale Certificates and other equitable relief set forth in the Petition including general equitable relief.

That due Order for Service by Publication has been made by said Court; that the above named Defendants are required to answer said Petition on or before Monday, December 10, 1934.

Dated this 29 day of October, 1934.

David Z. Mummert, Plaintiff.
By Bert M. Hardenbrook,
His Attorney.

Bert M. Hardenbrook, Attorney.
In the County Court of Valley County, Nebraska.

NOTICE OF HEARING

In the matter of the estate of Joseph Perda, Deceased.

The State of Nebraska:—To all persons interested in said Estate, creditors and heirs, take notice that Frank Swanek has filed his Petition in said Court alleging that Joseph Perda died intestate in Valley County, Nebraska, on or about the _____ day of July, 1890, being a resident and inhabitant of Valley County, Nebraska, and the owner in fee of the following described real estate, to-wit:

South One-half of the South-west Quarter and the South-one-half of the Southeast Quarter of Section 23, Township 20 North, Range 16 West of the Sixth Principal Meridian, in Valley County, Nebraska, leaving as his sole and only heirs at law the following named persons, to-wit: Agnes Perda, his widow, John Perda, a son, Bronislaw Perda, a daughter, and Stanislaw Perda, a son.

That said Petitioner is the present owner of said real estate and praying for determination of the time of the death of the said Decedent, determination of the heirs of said Decedent, Decree of kinship and the right of descent of the real property belonging to said Decedent, for Decree barring claims and demands; that said Decedent died intestate; that no application for administration of the Estate of said Decedent has been made and the Estate of the said Decedent has not been administered in the State of Nebraska, and that the heirs at law of said Decedent as herein set forth shall be decreed to have succeeded to the ownership in fee simple of the above described real estate. That said matter has been set down for hearing before me the 22nd day of November, 1934, at the hour of Ten o'clock A. M. of said day at the County Court room in the City of Ord, Nebraska.

Dated this 27th day of October, 1934.

MOTHER'S SUICIDE REVEALS MAN NUDE FOR SEVEN YEARS

Worry Over Finances and Care of Son Thought Cause of Act.

Waterloo, Iowa.—Seven long strange years of life which he lived in seclusion at the home, or his mother ended here recently for Harry Hamilton, thirty-five, when he unlocked the doors of his carefully guarded house to admit physicians who had come to investigate the death of his mother, Mrs. Cora Norton, fifty-eight, who committed suicide by hanging herself in the woodshed at her home.

For seven years Hamilton had talked to no one but his mother. During this period he lived in almost a complete state of nudity. Only a few of the closest friends of the family were aware that the modest and neat appearing home of Mrs. Norton housed this recluse who had shut himself off from his fellow townsmen since 1927.

Not until three days after he had found his mother's body did the recluse notify the authorities.

Hair Long and Unkempt.

His long matted hair extended half way down his back. His kinky and matted beard reached far down his chest, rolled in tangled mats. This was the scene that faced Dr. Benjamin O. Shook of Spencerville, De Kalb county coroner, and Dr. John Showalter of Waterloo as they entered the house.

At first Hamilton was reluctant to discuss the strange event with Doctor Shook and Doctor Showalter. Finally Doctor Shook won the confidence of the man. Then he told how he had gone in search of his mother when some one knocked on the door, as he never answered the door himself. When he failed to find her in the house he walked to the woodshed which adjoins the house. There he found his mother's body suspended from a beam.

Hamilton looked at her for a few minutes and then cut down the body. He dragged her from the woodshed into the house and through two rooms to the stairway. He wanted to carry her to her bed, he said, but was unable to carry the body up the stairs so he left it face downward on the floor. He cut the rope from her neck.

For two days he remained with the body. He said he was studying "what there is to this thing." It was because of his strange beliefs, his apparent inability to accept death as final, that Hamilton failed to call physicians or authorities. He said he did not know what to do, so he waited.

Hamilton presented a strange and uncanny sight when he finally unlocked the door and admitted Doctor Showalter. When the Waterloo physician saw what had occurred in the house he immediately called Doctor Shook. Together they returned to the house.

Prized Pajamas Gone.
Hamilton wore no clothes. Around his shoulders was draped a scarf that extended to his hips. Around his waist was buckled a narrow leather belt to which was fastened a small apron that extended about to his knees. That comprised his complete wardrobe.

An attempt was made to learn why Hamilton did not wear clothes. The only explanation he made was that seven years ago he had a pair of decorated pajamas which he admired. They finally were worn out and since that time he has worn nothing but his scarf and apron. His body was unkempt and dirty.

Hamilton said that during the seven years he had shut himself off from his fellow men that he had done nothing but study "what this is all about." He referred to life and death.

Hamilton formerly was a teller at the First National bank in Fort Wayne. He left that city to become a teller in the Leas bank here in 1920. He also was employed in a drug store here, having been graduated from the school of pharmacy at the University of Michigan.

Doctor Shook said that apparently worry over financial difficulties, coupled with the strain of seven years of devotion to her son's care probably led Mrs. Norton to end her life. He pointed to the extreme lengths to which she had gone to hide his condition, even his presence, from the outside world.

Childhood Sweethearts, Aged Couple Are Married

Hanford, Calif.—Two childhood sweethearts were reunited the other day when Herbert Hill, seventy-eight, and Mrs. Emma Case, seventy-five, of Kingsburg, Calif., were married here.

The aged couple, sweethearts when they were children on adjoining farms in North Dakota, were separated, married other persons, had children, and were bereaved.

Recently they resumed correspondence, and Hill came here to wed Mrs. Case. They will make their home on the Case ranch.

She's 35 Years Old.
Dedham, Mass.—At eighty-six, Samuel H. Capen is still on the job. He has been sheriff of Norfolk county for 35 years. For 21 years before that he was deputy sheriff.

ORD WILL SEND TWO DELEGATES TO STATE PRESS MEETING IN LINCOLN

Students Will Publish Issue of Daily Nebraskan, See Nebr. Play Missouri Team.

Ord High School will send two delegates to the Seventh Annual Press Convention of the Nebraska High School Press Association to be held November 23 and 24 at Lincoln.

Among the outstanding features of the convention will be the Annual Home Coming football game Saturday afternoon in the Memorial Stadium of the University. The University will be host to the delegations at this Missouri-Nebraska game.

There will be the annual news-writing contest Friday morning in which two pupils from each school, a boy and a girl, will be eligible to enter.

A special edition of the Daily Nebraskan, the official student publication of the University, will be written and published by the guest reporters from the high schools of the state.

The annual banquet of the Association will be held Friday evening, November 23, at the Lindell Hotel with Oz Black, Nebraska's favorite cartoonist, in a series of crayon sketches of convention celebrities, and Ray Ramsay, secretary of the Nebraska Alumni Association, one of Nebraska's most enjoyable after-dinner speakers.

Round-table discussions will be held on a wide range of subjects: School Publication Finances, Editorials, Sports, Make-Up and Typography, Features, The Year-book, the Mimeograph Publication, and several others.

The visiting delegates will be guided on an inspection tour of the Capitol, a bus tour of the City, and to several Lincoln Newspaper Publishing plants. The official delegations and their sponsors will be entertained by the University at a luncheon Friday.

DO YOU KNOW?

Special home room programs were arranged last week in keeping with National Education Week.

Talks were given in the various home rooms on the old fashioned school and the choice of a future occupation.

Next Saturday John Frye, the magician, will present a program at the high school. This will be an activity event.

The band will play in full costume for the Arcadia game next Friday.

The Junior High mathematics classes have been having a special work in taxation.

The hygiene class has been studying the physical and mental effects of exercise upon the body.

The Public Speaking classes are studying the Shakespearian play, "Twelfth Night." They will soon begin the dramatization of one-act plays.

The eleventh grade English class is studying the "Tale of Two Cities."

Thursday the sophomore home room was the guests of the seniors for a home room program. Miss McClatchey spoke on "The Continuation of Education throughout life."

The Girl Reserve Candlelight service was held Monday, November 12. Ten girls: Delta Marie Flynn, Mildred Craig, Evelyn Kokes, Mae Jones, Lillian Kusek, Virginia Sack, Lillian Kirby, Jane Ferguson, Jerrine Burrows, and Virginia Davis became new Girl Reserve members.

The Spanish class had a mock dinner last week. They entered a restaurant, and speaking nothing but Spanish, they ordered a meal.

Physical examinations of the head, throat and heart began Tuesday morning. The Ord city physicians were in charge of the examinations.

The Knighthood of Youth Club met November ninth in room fifteen.

Each member of the club answered roll call by giving a nursery rhyme.

Crucifixions of the Halloween party were discussed.

The class medians for the hygiene classes were 90. The boy's class still leads in the highest scores. The topic discussed last week was, "Training for Athletics and Health."

Mrs. G. Flagg, Mrs. E. Achen, Mrs. L. Covert, Mrs. M. Biemond, and Mrs. Ed. Mason were visitors in room 5 last week.

John Frye To Give Performance in Ord

John W. Frye, a distinguished artist and magician will present a show of mystery and fun at the high school auditorium, November 17, at 8:00 p. m.

Some of the features of Mr. Frye's act are his super mystery, the bowl of fire, trunk mystery, shooting thru a girl, disappearing doves, and the torture stock.

Admission will be 25 cents or a stamp book.

Strong Ansley Team Beat Ord, 14 to 7

The Ord High Chanticleers were defeated 14-7 by a strong Ansley team Friday night on the Ansley field.

The game was a rough affair and the injuries were many. Penalties were laid heavily on both teams, which stopped several touchdowns from being made.

In the first quarter both teams scored. Ord's touchdown was made by an off tackle smash with Marks carrying the ball. The second quarter was filled with thrills and chills. Both teams saw-sawed back and forth between the ten yard lines. In the third quarter the teams fought bitterly to break up the 7-7 score. The finish saw the Ansley team come through to tally another touchdown. The touchdown was made by a perfectly executed pass play.

The Ord line held the Ansley team like a stone wall on defense, while on offense the linemen repeatedly cleared a path for the ball carriers. In the backfield, Carlson was noted for his sensational return of punts. Marks, playing one of the best games in the season, was continually breaking away for gains of ten, fifteen, and twenty yards.

The night was ideal for football and the crowd witnessed a real rough and tumble football game.

Score by quarters:

ORD 7 0 0 0: 7
ANSLEY 7 0 0 7: 14

Farm-Shop Requirements

Vocational agricultural students spend two days out of five in the shop, according to the Nebraska plan. First and second year agriculture courses are being taught this year, the second and third year courses being offered during alternate terms.

First year shop consists of a study of tool fundamentals, the making of small wood appliances, soldering, and rope work. Furniture making is discouraged as much as possible, because it is impractical.

Second year shop consists of a variety of enterprises, with requirements under each enterprise. The things each boy has to do are listed below: 1) Soldering—Tin a soldering iron, make a tin cup, funnel, chick trough, and feed scope. Fix a leaky pall; Leather— Sew a hame strap, make a waxed thread, clean and oil a bridle or harness, and lace a belt; Glazing—Cut a window pane to correct size, fasten and putty it in; Refinishing—Refinish at least one article brought from home; Wool-work—One large or two small farm appliances; Forging—Upsetting; welding a ring, welding two pieces of iron, making a gate hook; making and tempering chisel and punch; Cold Metal—Drilling, riveting, threading a bolt, making footscraper irons; Concrete—Making a footscraper, making a hog-trough or electric project. Handle fitting—Replace one handle on some tool brought from home; Tool sharpening—Sharpen a cross-cut saw or ripsaw, a plane blade, a knife, an axe, a hatchet or hoe; Rope work—Short splice, long splice, rope halter, whipped end, crowning, eye-splice, and various other knots.

The band will play in full costume for the Arcadia game next Friday.

The Junior High mathematics classes have been having a special work in taxation.

Crucifixions of the Halloween party were discussed.

The class medians for the hygiene classes were 90. The boy's class still leads in the highest scores. The topic discussed last week was, "Training for Athletics and Health."

Mrs. G. Flagg, Mrs. E. Achen, Mrs. L. Covert, Mrs. M. Biemond, and Mrs. Ed. Mason were visitors in room 5 last week.

From the Sidelines!

The grade school is a jump ahead of the high school. They have started their basketball practice in preparation for a tough season.

The defeat of Nebraska Saturday by Pittsburgh was the most severe beating the Cornhuskers have ever taken on their home field.

The ping-pong players have advanced into the second round of the ping-pong tournament.

Mr. Watkins proclaims that his junior high 1940 football team spills plenty of blood in their practices. Just too bad for their opponents.

Well, here's some of the results of the Loup Valley games in the past week:

Arcadia 27 Burwell 7
Comstock 0 Anselmo 0
Wolbach 7 Scotia 0
Loup City 25 Ravenna 6

DON'T FORGET THE ORD-ARCADIA GAME. In the past the scores have been:

ORD ARCADIA
1930—0 6
1931—13 13
1932—13 14
1933—6 7

Arcadia has barely edged Ord out of 3 games, so come expecting a thriller!

Oracle Staff Has Party.

The Oracle Staff held a party in the high school auditorium November 17. Darlene Anderson, Dorothy Fish, and LaVerne Lakin were in charge of arrangements. Refreshments were served at the close of the party.

You have all heard the phrase, "How time does fly." For Ord High School students this old saying really came true last week when the clocks which had stopped at about six o'clock were reset at their correct time.

The band members received their uniforms Monday and they will display them in all their splendor at the Arcadia-Ord football game. Watch for them next Friday night.

From the student question this week we find that the most of the students are agreed on one thing: that geometry is of the least value of any subject taught in school.

I wonder how many students noticed that huge poster on the bulletin board last week. Even if you did, its well worth repeating. It stated: "The only thing which can be achieved without effort is failure." Let's watch the bulletin board.

The favorite exercise of some people seems to be jumping at conclusions. If you are an individual who takes his daily dozen in such a fashion, I'd advise that you try jumping rope. It's much more effective, you'll find.

I have heard of teachers slapping pupils before but its something new when a student slaps a teacher, as was the case with a certain junior girl last week. Fortunately, perhaps, it was an accident. While walking down the hall she noticed someone following directly behind her and thinking it was another classmate, she whirled around, slapped first and looked afterwards. To her great surprise and extreme embarrassment it was a faculty member. I once read a story which reminded me of this while in the grades. The idea gathered from the story was, "Look before you leap, the water may be deep." This particular story was about frogs but with a little alteration, might well apply to this case.

My Own Column

By H. D. LEGGETT

I was doing sorting and cleaning the other day in my filing cabinet and finding a file marked "Ole Buck", was about to throw it away, as of no further use, for I was remembering that I went to Lincoln several years ago to attend his funeral. Then I took the file over to my desk and after supper came down stairs and spent a whole evening reading the dozens of letters which he wrote me during 1928, 1929 and 1930. Then I took the file and put it away in the filing case. I got a lot of good out of reading those old letters, was homesick for a couple of days afterwards as I thought of the fine friend I had lost. But I got an inspiration from those letters to go to work harder than ever to make the Quiz the sort of newspaper it should be. I realized that, partly because of not feeling as well physically as formerly, I have been laying down on the job and I know Ole would not like that. Nebraska newspaper men, and newspaper men of the nation for that matter, never had a better or more helpful friend than was Ole Buck. From the time I first got acquainted with him I had confidence in his advice and often, very often, wrote him regarding problems that bothered me. Usually his advice helped me to work out of the difficulties.

Last week an Ord young man, driving on his own side of the street, was badly injured when struck by a hit and run drunken driver who had just run through a stop sign, rounded a corner on two wheels. When hard liquor is on sale in Ord and North Loup and Arcadia in several places, as it surely will be, there will be plenty of accidents like occurred in Ord last Tuesday evening. Tom Lambdin says that the only safe way to travel, then, will be across lots through the hills on foot.

I always intend to have enough papers to supply those who want to buy one, but sometimes something happens to make us short. Last week parties placed an order for all we could spare and about a dozen people who always depend on buying a paper, were disappointed. Several times during recent months the blamed old folder got its back up about something and spoiled a lot of papers as we folded them and those who wanted to buy one were disappointed. We always print enough for the regular subscribers and some extra. We allow you to pay as small an amount as 50¢ for 3 months and you will be sure to have a paper and get the year rate of $2. When you buy it each week it costs you $2.60 a year if you get one each week. We would very much prefer to have you on the list anyhow because you can then be counted in our annual audit. If you want the Quiz, please try to get onto the list as a regular subscriber.

Last Saturday I sent a postcard notice to all Quiz subscribers who are in arrears. I regret the necessity of either collecting some from all subscribers or taking their names off the list. Probably some cannot pay all they owe but I believe all can send some and unless I hear from them I can do but one thing, take the name off the list.

I also sent postcard notices to those whose subscriptions will expire today and I suggest that those of you who want the paper send a remittance at once.

Thirty-three has been suggested as a mighty good number for the new one house legislature. There are, of course reasons both for and against that number, but one good reason for it, is that we already have a very fair division of the state into 33 senatorial districts. Whenever the legislature starts to re-district the state into some other number, there is going to be a long, hard fight and the result may not be any better than this suggestion.

I notice that my friend Coats has a few suggestions this week for our state representative and senator elect. They may be good suggestions and they may not. I don't know. But I am wondering what sort of plan it would be for these two gentlemen to announce that they would be at the district court room in Ord all day on some certain day, in say early December, ready to meet any taxpayer of the county and talk things over, let any taxpayer with a suggestion present it, then give it some argument. Mr. Cushing would do the same thing in Garfield county and Mr. Blessing would go to each county in his district for a day and do the same and perhaps when they had finished they would have a pretty good idea of what the voters in the various counties want. The Quiz will freely advertise such a meeting in this county.

If you don't like the Cook Calendar front cover picture this year don't blame me. I have been fighting for several years against putting my own picture on the calendar. I am at a loss to know why there is such a demand for it. The only reason I know is because I am such a good cook. I have steadfastly refused to put my handsome picture on the calendar but when the demand gets so strong that I am liable to lose a lot of subscribers if I don't comply—well, what would you do? Anyhow the cut for the front of the calendar is here; Irma has her copy all prepared; Harry ordered the paper stock last week and it has arrived, and I am sure the calendars will be ready to mail out during December.

Care of The County Board Ord, Nebr.

Dear Jake:

At the kind hospitality of Mr. Leggett, a group of us more or less important fellows (I was one of the less) ate dinner with Senator Norris. I have always been an admirer of our veteran Senator and his talk to us that evening was well delivered and informational. However, there were a few things that evening that were not entirely conventional. I was not where I could see his table manners without stretching my neck, but I am sure he grabbed a fork of salad at the improper moment and I was almost positive he performed the atrocity of eating the lettuce leaf. I presume we shouldn't hold that against him when it comes to voting, for I imagine he is not accustomed to mingling with elite society like we folks.

I was a little worried that a scandal might be started about Mrs. Rood and myself, as we went together to the banquet and the address, but she said not to get excited, "They will just think I am your mother."

Arriving in Omaha about one-thirty the other night, and while walking to a hotel, Arnold and I found ourselves, standing on tiptoes in front of a tavern, peering through the lattice windows at the antics of the amorous and sinuous strumpets. A small orchestra squeaked doleful music. These women danced, drank and made love with the tavern's trade. Occasionally, as an extra impetus of their fervor, they would perform elaborate pelvic contortions. Celebrating the repeal of the amendment, I presume. As we stood there enjoying the shock to our modesty of long training, along came Everett Boettger. We asked him how he happened to be hanging around a place like that and he had some feeble excuse about looking for someone, and something more about having been on the street all evening. He said more yet about us fellows explaining our presence, but you know, Jake, we are like Caesar's wife, beyond reproach. It sure looks bad for Everett. Mums the word, for if his wife found it out, that would sure be his last trip to Omaha.

Someone asked me if the election turned out to suit me. I told him, "I guess so. I voted for one man that was elected." Ed Kokes and I were at a loss to know what the Senate Chamber in the new State House could be used for and then it dawned on us it would be a fine office for Arthur Mullen. I do not know as it is any worse for Mullen to be our political boss than for Simmons, at that. A cattle feeder on the train told me that he was going to feed hogs. Asking why not cattle he said, "No the government has gone into the cattle feeding business. I can't compete against them." Hugh Clement said now that the democrats are re-elected, we are guaranteed two more years of prosperity. An elevator man at Millerton seemed anxious to talk politics. I asked what the people there thought of the new deal. He said that some of the fellows who were the worst off are getting better, and are feeling worse. Like the sick baby. It is a good sign when they get cross. And in the spick and span office was the sign, KWITCHURBELAKEN.

Yours truly,
Geo. G.

Hello Stranger!

(Copyright, W. N. C.)

and everyone on the list who is paid up will have one mailed to them. Anyone sending the Quiz as a Christmas gift to a loved one, inside or outside Valley county, will have one of the 1935 cook calendars mailed to that loved one also, and will they treasure it! So if you want a calendar be sure you are in good standing on the Quiz list. I look well fed and my picture on the cook calendar will be an incentive for your Misus to do her best to give you good cooking.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

In the winter time, dates are one of the delicacies that cooks depend on to give flavor to salads and uniqueness to cookies and desserts of various kinds. A little expensive, still they go a long way, and are full of richness and goodness, having much natural sugar of their own. Children love dates, and dates are good for them, so why not serve them often?

Date Salad.

Chop or cut finely one-half pound marshmallows, one-half pounds dates, one cup nuts, three bananas, one large apple, one cup or more of whipped cream.

sweetened and flavored to taste. The cream may be mixed with salad dressing if desired.

Marie Lillian Smolik.
Liver Pudding.

Combine two cups bread crumbs with one-half pound chopped liver, five ounces of chopped suet, two slices of bacon, cut fine, one chopped onion, one egg beaten with a little milk. Mix well, season to taste, put the mixture in a greased basin for two hours' steaming.

Flavia Twombley Schwartzel,

Meadville, Pa.

Corn Muffins.

Beat two eggs, add one-half cup sugar, three tablespoons butter, one cup sweet milk, one cup flour, two cups cornmeal, two teaspoons baking powder. These are very good. Bake in muffin tins.

Mrs. Charlie Huebner, Rt. 2, Nesselrod Pudding.

Soak one-half envelope Knox gelatine in one-half cup cold water. Heat one pint milk to boiling point, add five egg yolks which have been beaten with three-fourths cup sugar and a pinch of salt, stirring until the milk and egg mixture forms a custard. Add the dissolved gelatine, remove to a cooler part of the range and add one-fourth pound crushed vanilla wafers, one cup raisins, one cup chopped walnuts. Stir until the wafers are dissolved, add one teaspoon vanilla. Fold in five stiffly beaten egg whites, pour into a mold and let set over night. Serve with whipped cream. Mrs. Slot.

Corn Apple Gems.

Scald one and one-half cups milk, add four tablespoons butter and pour over one cup yellow cornmeal. Add three-fourths cup sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one beaten egg. Sift one cup flour with two teaspoons baking powder, add to the first mixture and lastly add one and one-half cups chopped apples. Mix well and bake. These are nice for the lunch box as they do not dry out quickly.

Mrs. H. Walkemeyer, Arcadia Tomato Deluxe

Combine one and one-half cups tomatoes, two cups milk, one-fourth teaspoon soda, salt and pepper to taste. Let heat, then stir in a tablespoon butter and two tablespoons flour, chop the whites of two hard cooked eggs. Pour into a heated platter or dish, garnish with the grated yolks of the two eggs, two slices of bread which have been toasted and cut in quarters, and the green vegetable of your choice. Swell!

Mrs. Robert Noll.

I apologize for putting Mrs. Noll's signature on her recipes when she is so modest, but they are too good to let be printed without giving credit.

It would be stupid if Fort Hartsuff became a state or federal park. Our territory is singularly free from a quiet, green, well-kept spot having interest because of its beauty or history, and it seems to me as though Fort Hartsuff could become such a place. A show place, a spot where relics of those early days might be viewed, and a pretty park.

However, we likely will not get this park unless we holler for it, and that loudly and in unison. Shall we holler?

QUIZ FORUM

Wants Laws Changed.

To the Editor of the Quiz:

Election is over and Valley county elected two very able men for our next legislature, Marion Cushing and Alvin Blessing. Marion has had a lot of experience in the legislature and by the big vote he got it proves that we expect something in the future. Blessing gets what he goes after, I have often heard and also noticed, so we expect him to go after something for Valley county and get it too. Now this is what I would like these gentlemen to get for Valley county and the rest of Nebraska: Get the law repealed compelling the heirs of an estate to hire a lawyer to settle it. If the county judge doesn't know enough to settle an estate properly without the heirs paying out a big fee for a lawyer, let him, the judge, hire a lawyer (or ask some former judge how it is done). It's no joke. I know of an estate where the party left an estate of $30,000.00 and the heirs were compelled to pay a lawyer $500.00. The will left it to be divided among six heirs, property to be sold and proceeds divided equally among the six heirs who were all satisfied with the provisions in the will. That's just one example of the way estates are settled. Now repeal the law and make one so it's optional with the heirs whether they employ a lawyer. The present plan is too expensive.

One other law that needs fixing up to my notion, is the mileage paid to county officers. Fix the salary for all of them without mileage. I won't say there is any graft on mileage but there is a mighty good chance to be and get some more of the tax money. County and state officers salaries need reducing. There is no sense in paying a man who is worth or can only earn $1000.00 a year in a private job, $2000.00 a year when he gets a public or tax-paying job. Or a state officer who earns $2000.00 a year in his private job, $4000.00 on a state job.

No, this won't interest the average farmer but the dairymen over the state should be interested. A man comes up here from Lincoln to inspect our dairy. He looks it over, says it's fine and dandy, gives it his O. K. So far so good. Then he says "$2.00 please. You haven't paid your license fee for this year." And I says, "How come?" The other dairymen don't pay any license around here." He says, "Dig up, you have over 25 cows in your dairy. The others that have less than 25 cows in their milking herd don't have to have a license." It looks like all the racketeers are not in New York $2 is not much but it is something these days. That law should be repealed or made to be paid by all dairymen, so much on a cow from one up. I am not objecting to the state inspection of dairies. That is necessary, but if it is for the good of the public let the public pay for it, or if it is to come out of the dairymen make it so much per cow head. It really looks funny why we have to have a license to sell milk in Ord. The fellow who sells eggs or poultry is not required to have a license. But look out, the racketeers have got it on the dairymen if he has over 25 cows. He may get it onto you too if you have over one hundred laying hens.

Well, if everyone asks Cushing and Blessing to do as much as I have they will be worn out by March 1st. And then if they cut out the mileage on state officers as well as county officers they will have to walk home, for I think if they get anywhere with their making laws they won't have any of their salaries left to ride home on.

By Ernest S. Coats,
Vinton Farmer.

Thanksgiving and Christmas approach rapidly. All those busy, clever fingered people who are going to make Christmas gifts with hat personal touch are busily planning. Everything from crocheted bedspreads to finger towels and doorstops made of Sears, Roebuck's best catalog.

I will be glad when the Christmas display is put out. I have looked everywhere for a drum for our son Kerry, who will be a year old in a few days. But not a drum can I find. Maybe drums are old-fashioned, and not given to modern children. But I still want a drum, anyway.

Those who suffer with rectal trouble should buy a cure with the same thoughtful regard of what they expect to get for their money they exercise when they buy anything else needed, necessary and important.

A lifetime guaranteed cure if one's case is still curable for a sensible price, treatment under pleasant conditions and circumstances as quickly as possible—that's what you will get at the Dr. Rich Rectal Sanitarium and Clinic in active business for more than thirty years in Grand Island. (1)

This town does need a lot of good fires. In nearly every block there is an old, unused tumble-down barn or building of some kind standing there falling to pieces. How much better our pretty city would look if the council would stroll about and put a big yellow chalk X on each of these, marking it for condemnation.

Victor S. Gordon.

Victor S. Gordon, at one time a resident of Arcadia passed away Nov. 6th at Fort Dodge, Ia., of tetanus, an infection following an operation for gall bladder trouble. He was 41 years, 7 months and 17 days old. He graduated from the Arcadia high school and then engaged in farming for one year. He moved to Elkhart, Ind., in 1924 and was employed as car inspector by the N. Y. C. railroad until the fore part of 1933. In 1915 he was married to Selma Truxel of Elkhart, Ind., and to this union were born three sons. Surviving, in addition to his wife and three sons, is a nephew, who has made his home with them since childhood, his parents and three sisters and one brother, all who were former residents of Arcadia. He was buried in Elkhart, Ind.

Bartlett-Downing.

Mrs. Margaret Cole Bartlett, youngest daughter of W. A. Cole of Omaha, and Charles H. Downing Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Downing, were married Thursday, November 1, at Rock Island, Ill. From there they motored to Chicago where they spent several days at the World's fair. On their return trip they visited Mrs. B. M. Leffler of Omaha and Mrs. Downing's two sisters, returning to Arcadia Sunday and leaving Wednesday for Lexington to visit with friends and relatives. These young people are very popular here, Mrs. Downing having been editor of the Arcadian for a number of years and Mr. Downing was born and reared here.

The Congregational Ladies Aid meets on Thursday this week, at the church basement, everyone bringing lunch.

Mrs. Claude Mathers expects to accompany Mrs. Olive Bellinger to Ogallala the middle of the week and assist her with her moving back to Arcadia.

Gerald A. Bellinger.

Gerald Alfred, son of Harry and Lola Bellinger was born at Arcadia, June 27, 1904 and passed away at Ogallala, early Wednesday morning, Nov. 7, 1934 after an illness of ten days, at the age of 30 years, 4 months and 9 days. He grew to manhood in Arcadia and graduated from Broken Bow high school in 1923. He was united in marriage to Olive Woody on May 28th, 1928 at Glenwood, Ia. They left immediately for California where they resided for two years and where their little daughter, Barbara came to bless their home. In 1930 they returned to Arcadia where they lived for three years. In Oct. 1933 they moved to Ogallala, living until the time of his death. When twelve years of age he united with the M. E. church of Arcadia. He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife and little daughter, Barbara, his father, mother and one brother, Claris Bellinger, all of Arcadia, besides many other relatives and a host of friends. Gerald had an ever-widening circle of acquaintances as to know him was to love him and appreciate more fully the splendid qualities of his character. As husband, father and friend, he was a man of highest ideals, always considerate of others and four-square in his dealings. Coming as it did his death was a severe shock to his many relatives and friends, Rev. Hendrikson of Berwyn delivered the message. Pall bearers were Messrs Dan Bartlett, Roy Anderson, Ora Russell, Alvin Lee, Joe Baird and Arnold Tuning. The male quartet rendered "Abide With Me" and "Peace, Wonderful Peace." They were Messrs Harold Weddel, Rev. Nye, Carl Easterbrook and Lowell Finey. His niece Katherine sang, "Beautiful Isle of Some-where."

Harlow H. Freeman.

Harlow H. Freeman, son of Parish and Mary Freeman, born at Brady, Mich., July 16, 1858 and died Nov. 7, 1934. He was married to Fanny Hall in 1881. To this union were born five children, Walter and Nellie are the only remaining children. His wife preceded him in death six years ago. There are six grandchildren, three brothers, Charley, Edward and Willis and one sister, Mrs. F. Thompson. Mr. Freeman homesteaded in Lee Park in 1878, there he remained until 1894 when he moved to Barnum, Wyo. In the passing of Mr. Freeman an old-time landmark has passed away. Very few of these pioneers are left. Rev. Burleigh had charge of the services and burial was made in the Lee Park cemetery.

Ryan-Cunningham.

Miss Lucile Ryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ryan and Mr. Verne Cunningham were united in marriage by assistant county judge Miller of Broken Bow, Monday morning. The groom's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cunningham were in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ackles entertained Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Ackles and family and Ralph Ackles and family for Sunday dinner in honor of Donnie's ninth birthday.

Miss Kellison and pupils of old Yale district are giving a program and pie social Thursday night and extend a cordial invitation to all those who wish to attend.

Miss Wilma Anderson, Lloyd Anderson and Carl Hurst of Holstein were weekend guests in the Ross Evans home.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Creemee and children were entertained at dinner Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bonsal. Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Armstrong and family, Mr. and Mrs. Don Moody and Gene and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Armstrong were all dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Moody and family.

Mr. Willis Waite and daughter, Alice were Sunday afternoon visitors at Mrs. Waite's brother's of Loup City, County Treasurer, F. A. Grow and family and Jim Grow and family. Mrs. Waite reports that Mrs. Jim Grow is quite seriously ill in the Loup City hospital and is not allowed company.

William Landon, who is attending school at Kearney, spent Saturday and Sunday with home folks.

The Mixed Grove ladies aid bazaar and supper which was held last Friday netted them $31.70.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Landon gave a party for the Mixed Grove Young People Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Fenster spent Sunday evening at Mr. and Mrs. Willis Waite's.

Mrs. Blanche Wyman and Leona Freeman of Lincoln and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Thompson and Vivian of Aurora were at Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hollingshead's for supper Sunday evening.

Maynard McClarey, who is attending school at Peru, came home Thursday to attend the funeral of his cousin, Gerald Bellinger. Maynard returned Friday to resume his studies.

Mr. Harry Bellinger, Mrs. Lillie Bly, Mrs. Olive Bellinger, Miss Evelyn Hyatt, Mr. Donald Murray and Mr. Fred Whitman drove to Hastings on business Monday. Mr. Whitman stopping in Grand Island to consult a doctor in regard to his health.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Waite and daughter Alice were Ord visitors Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Nelson were Grand Island shoppers, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Sloggett and children drove to Hazard, Sunday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Herbert.

Snake Leers at Cat; Rattles His Last!

Los Angeles.—One-round Tommie, formerly Popeye, an orange Persian tom cat, basked lazily in the sunshine at the home of his mistress, Mrs. Mary Welch. He had just dined on rattle snake steak and a vanilla milk shake.

A four-footed diamond back rattler invaded Tommie's back yard, and leered sassily at Tommie.

Tommie's back arched. His eyes arched. Swiftly he sprang, sank his teeth into the snake's neck, and held on until death released the rattler.

Then Tommie emptied a saucer filled with vanilla flavored milk—hitherto his favorite dish—and calmly curled up and went to sleep.

CRASHING WALLS THIS MAN'S JOBMotor Cycle Racer Is Famous for Daring Stunts.

Washington.—Crashing through walls at a speed of 75 miles an hour has brought fame and fortune to Clark Townsend, former amateur motor cycle racer.

Townsend, a native of Lisbon Falls, Maine, received from $50 to $100 for riding a motor cycle through a 36 square foot wooden wall, one inch thick. He is one of five men in America who can accomplish this feat.

A motor cycle wall crasher for three years, he has suffered few minor injuries in more than 70 exhibitions.

Townsend fell heir to the profession in 1931. In 1931, as explained, while riding 70 miles an hour down a highway, his motor cycle left the road and crashed through a rail fence. He escaped uninjured. It then occurred to him that he might make money by crashing through walls for audiences.

The New Englander performs on dirt tracks at fairs and motor cycle races. He circles the track, gathering speed, and then plows through the wall. Force of the impact, Townsend declared, throws the front wheel in the air and failure to crash through would prove fatal.

He is equipped with a crash proof helmet, shatter-proof goggles, hockey gloves padded with rubber sponges, felt enforced with leather caps for his knees, leather puttees high shoes, leather jacket, heavy sweater and tightly wound tape about his neck. The motor cycle has break-proof tires, steel bumpers, special handlebars and a high speed motor.

Danger From Lightning

The number of persons killed by lightning is very small in comparison with the total number of fatalities due to accidents. In the United States, the census reports show an annual average of about 500 lightning fatalities, while in a recent year there were more than 90,000 fatal accidents of all kinds. The actual danger from lightning is, in general, very slight, except under certain circumstances of exposure out of doors, which, as a rule, can be avoided. Within buildings of considerable size and dwelling houses of modern construction cases of death or injury by lightning are relatively rare.

Low Temperature for Seeds

Scientific experiments with the germination of seeds have brought to light a number of interesting facts. It has been found, says Nature Magazine, that many seeds have to undergo a period of low temperature, or even of freezing, before they will germinate satisfactorily. Many shrub and tree seeds have definite periods of aging—corresponding to the gestation period in animals—before they will sprout. Others can be made to germinate at definite temperatures.

"Sea Porcupine"

The "sea porcupine" has a peculiar system of locomotion. It has literally thousands of sucker-like feet, which are hollow and attached to tubes within its shell. It moves by forcing water through the tubes and into the particular "feet" which it wishes to use. When they are out of use they are contracted by withdrawing the water. Being a radically symmetrical animal, the creature can move with equal ease in any direction. It has no head—that is, the development of its nervous system and the direction of its locomotion is not set in a forward direction, as is the case with vertebrates and insects.

Founder of Homeopathic System

Samuel Christian Hahnemann was the founder of the homeopathic system. This German physician was born at Meissen, Germany, April 10, 1755, and died at Paris, July 2, 1843. In 1775 he went to Leipzig and studied medicine. At a later period he went to Vienna. After some years he returned and completed his studies at Arleson. He afterward practiced medicine at different places. He remained at Hofrath until 1833, when he proceeded to Paris.

EDITORIALS

Did you happen to be a spectator at the free-for-all fight down in the freshmen hall last week? I didn't but heard about it first hand. Who were the two lady participants? You guess.

I wonder—did I make a mistake when I used the word "lady" in the preceding paragraph?

Whether we won the Ord-Arcadia game or not, it was worth going to just to see the band in uniform. Didn't they look grand?

I would suppose that the football boys would appreciate very much the opportunity to go to Lincoln for the Nebraska-Missouri game next Saturday. At any rate, they certainly should.

The staff would certainly be appreciative if the wise and witty students of Ord High school would turn in some of their best jokes and bright sayings to the editor for publication.

In case you hadn't thought of it, there are only thirty-two more days until Christmas vacation. And that means only twenty-one more school days. Oh, yes, and we get out of school a day or two for Thanksgiving and you can be thankful for that if for nothing else. Perhaps we shall be able to endure the lessons, tests and study halls for nineteen or twenty more days.

Mr. Webster erred a little when he stated in his dictionary that sponges come from the sea. I know some sponges and they didn't live in the sea, but I think I am not the only one who wishes that they did. I mean those students who make a daily practice of borrowing typing paper, a pencil, eraser, and a dozen other things.

I learned last week that if you want people to read your paper, all you need to do is print something about them. One person who had previously informed me that he never read the Oracle, was very much concerned because he had not received his copy. He even stopped in the hall to inquire about it and was somewhat disgusted when he was informed that he probably wouldn't receive it until Monday.

Wise and Otherwise

Mr. Cowel: Mendon 12 animals of the polar region?

Lowell Jones: Two seals and ten polar bears.

Do you know of anyone who can teach you to read your own writing? Call or inquire of Pauline Barta.

Alma H.: You know, Jack, I always speak what I think.

Jack T.: Yes, only much oftener.

In a recent Commercial geography test the following question was asked: "What does Nebraska produce which is used for the manufacture of automobiles?"

Paul Carlson received a medal for answering in this manner: "Wind for windshields."

This Week's Sponsor is F. L. Blessing, D. D. S.

One of the North Loup valley region's foremost dentists, Dr. F. L. Blessing, sponsors this issue of the Oracle.

Born 12 miles west of Ord in 1885, the son of pioneer parents who had come to Valley county about 1880, Dr. Blessing is really an Ord product as he moved to this city with his parents when six years of age and has lived here ever since, with the exception of the years he was attending dental college.

"Leonard," as he was known to his intimates, attended the Ord schools, played on high school basketball and football teams and was graduated from Ord high school in the spring of 1913. He played end on Ord's undefeated and un-scored-upon team in the fall of 1912, among his teammates being Earl Wise, Charles Hawkins, John Haskell, Edwin Clements, Alfred Sorensen, Les Flynn, Floyd Collins and others well known to Quiz readers.

This was the first year that Ord high employed a coach. He was Mr. Simms, who was here only one year, being replaced in the fall of 1913 by Mr. Darling. After working in the postoffice for a year following his graduation, Leonard Blessing matriculated in the autumn of 1915 at the University of Iowa, at Iowa City, and was graduated in the spring of 1918 a full-fledged dentist. Since then he has taken considerable post-graduate work at Rochester, Minn., and elsewhere.

After his graduation Dr. Blessing was enrolled in the Medical Reserve Corps and was stationed at Lincoln until the Armistice was signed, after which he returned to Ord and for two years was associated with Dr. George R. Gard in the practice of dentistry. Then he opened his own office in the Nebraska State bank building, remaining there until he moved to his present palatial suite in the new Masonic building, which rooms were especially designed and arranged for his use. His present office is one of the finest and most convenient dental offices in the Loup valley and his equipment is modern in every respect.

In 1918 Dr. Blessing was married to Miss Margaret Emory of Lincoln and they have one daughter, Miss Charlotte, who is a junior in Ord high school.

Dr. Blessing is a member of the American Legion and the Masonic lodge, as well as the Ord fire department, and in addition has been active in musical and dramatic circles.

A member of the Board of Education, Dr. Blessing has a deep personal interest in the Ord schools and was happy to sponsor this issue of the Oracle, believing the opportunity of editing a high school paper to be of great value to students and to the schools.

The Oracle is made possible by this group of loyal Ord business and professional men and women:

Dr. F. L. Blessing, Orrville H. Sowl, Ed F. Beranek, J. C. Penney Co., John P. Misko, L & L Tire and Battery Station, Auble Motors, Dr. C. W. Weekes, Chase's Toggery, Dr. Glen Auble, Nebraska State Bank, A. J. Auble, Stoltz Variety Store, Dr. F. A. Barta, Harlan T. Frazier, Gould B. Flagg, First National Bank, Protective Savings & Loan Ass'n., Ord Co-operative Creamery Co., Noll Seed Co., Sack Lumber & Coal Co., Davis & Vogelzang, McLain-Sorensen Drug Co., Brown-Eckberg Co., Dr. George A. Parkins.

Maxine Haskell: Beautiful but dumb, are we? Want me to tell you why nature made us that way?

Bill Tunnicliff: Yes, why?

Maxine: Beautiful so the men would love us and dumb so we could love them.

Alma Hansen: I'll bet you don't know how you get down off of an elephant.

Edna Loft: Well, how do you learn in school today?

Harold Mella: How to whisper without moving my lips.

Darlene Anderson, LaVerne Lakin, Miss Sloane to Attend Lincoln Press ConferenceDO YOU KNOW?

The 8th grade social science class is having a map study.

Thirty-one Normal Trainees took state examinations here last Saturday.

The Freshman English classes are studying short stories.

Tuesday the Normal Training Review class attended a drill lesson in Miss Kosmata's room at the grade school.

The professional class in the Normal Training group visited Miss Eberspacher's class today for a demonstration of lesson plans.

The mathematics classes are studying budgets, measurements and are checking habits of accuracy.

The junior play cast have learned the first and second acts of their play and are beginning work on the third.

The senior English class is finishing their short story contract and the Juniors are reading the concluding chapters of a "Tale of Two Cities."

The Girl Reserves are planning to prepare a basket dinner to be presented to some needy family for Thanksgiving.

Anna Glarborg, a 1934 graduate, began teaching in a country school last Monday.

The public speaking classes are studying one act plays to be presented later in the year. The names of the play being learned are, "Not Quite Such a Goose," "The Boy Comes Home," "The Burglary," and "The Mouse Trap."

Physical examinations were finished last week. All the data has been filed and reports have been sent to the parents of children who need physical attention.

The senior class is making arrangements to have a class party soon.

The crops students have been judging corn and small grain.

The Agriculture boys in Animal Husbandry have taken several livestock judging trips to the stock yards and sale barn in the past two weeks.

Girl Reserves Enjoy A Pot-Luck Supper

Last Monday evening the Girl Reserves Cabinet and the Mothers' Counsel consisting of Mrs. Verstraete, Mrs. Haskell, Mrs. Koupa, Mrs. McGinnis, and Mrs. Barta had a pot luck supper at the J. P. Barts home.

Following the supper the topic, "How the Mothers' Counsel could be of help to the Girl Reserves," was discussed.

Physical EducationBy Millard D. Bell.

One of the basic principles in the modern philosophy of education is to train young people to care for their health and physical well-being. This is readily accepted, by all people as a worthy aim of education and as one of the big tasks of the modern school.

In the early days of the public school, this phase of education needed little attention. The youth of those times had to walk everywhere they went, their home tasks or chores were many, while knowledge of health laws was simple, due to the lack of information on health matters. But as progress has been made, home tasks, travel and all the modern conveniences have changed, the life of modern youth is entirely different. Likewise the science of medicine has made great advances, and now provides real guidance in building and keeping healthy bodies.

The term physical education covers the training given in building stronger bodies, in keeping well and the general instruction in hygiene. The Ord schools carry on the work in the following manner.

First, the lower grades teach good health practices. Through inspection, clubs, etc., an attempt is made to fix good health habits. Play ground activities and games are provided to give the pupils exercise and muscular coordination.

As the pupils advance in the grades, more formal lessons in health or hygiene appear on the program. Very little or no time is given to physiology, such as the names of the bones, but the stress is on right living habits. Regular periods are also given in gymnastics or directed exercises. This work not only supplies the pupils with exercise, which many are missing, but also gives corrective work for general physical weaknesses or defects. The "gym" period is an important period for all children but especially for those who are inclined not to be interested in athletics or physical activity.

The high school continues the program of the grades, but on an optional basis. That is the pupils are not required to take the "gym" work. However, the majority of the students take a year or more of gym or athletic work. The girls in high school take gym or G. A. A. (a girls athletic club) or both.

Red heads because I need some one with a temper to match my own.

Blondes—they are so scarce that you have to put up a real fight.

Blondes every time. I like them tall, dark and handsome.

Will Hear Noted Speakers At Banquet and Attend Uni Football Game Sat'day.

Darlene Anderson and LaVerne Lakin, with Miss Sloane as sponsor will go to Lincoln Thursday to attend the seventh annual convention of the Nebraska High School Press association to be held in Lincoln, Friday and Saturday of this week.

At 8:00 Friday morning the registration will be held in University Hall. The news writing contest will be held at 9:00 o'clock. One boy and one girl from each school are eligible. At 10:00 the delegates will be taken on a bus tour of Lincoln, including trips to the Lincoln newspapers, the new state capitol, the college of agriculture, and other interesting part of the city.

The sponsors and instructors will have a meeting at 10:30 at which time reports will be given on the national scholastic press association convention.

Friday afternoon at 12:30 a luncheon will be held at the Chamber of Commerce. At 2:00 a general session will be held with Miss Mary Nichols of Kearney high school, presiding. An address of welcome will be given by Dr. T. J. Thompson of the university. Genia Rob of the Hearst newspaper, New York, will give an address on "New Furrows for Newspapers."

Mrs. Marie Weekes, former editor of the Norfolk Press, will give an address.

The editor of the Lincoln Star, J. E. Lawrence, will speak on "The Newspaper of Tomorrow."

Proceedings of the County Board

November 13, 1934, at 10 o'clock, A. M. Meeting called to order by Chairman with supervisors Sorenson, Desmul, Ball, Vasicek, Barber, Johnson and Hansen present upon roll call.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved as read.

Bank balances as of October 31, 1934, read as follows: First National Bank, Arcadia, $15,759.93; Elyria State Bank, $3,558.00.

Report of Andrew Kapustka, et al, asking County Board to designate a County Road, that road commencing at the southwest corner of northwest quarter of Section 1, in township 18, range 16 west, of 6th P. M., and running thence north along section line for a distance of three and one-half miles to the southwest corner of section 13, in township 19 north of range 16 west, of the 6th P. M., to connect with already designated county roads, and afford a direct and convenient county road between Arcadia, Nebraska and Burwell, Nebraska, was read and considered, and after delegation from Arcadia, Nebraska and vicinity, appearing before the Board in support of said petition, was heard, supervisor Vasicek introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

Resolution.

WHEREAS Section 39-227 of the 1933 compiled statutes of Nebraska, provides that the Board of Supervisors of each County shall after taking effect of this Act select and designate from the laid out and platted Public Roads within the County, certain roads to be known as County Roads which shall be direct highways leading to and from rural schools, also highways connecting cities, villages and market centers and shall be main traveled roads, and

WHEREAS, there is now on file before this Board of Supervisors a petition signed by Andrew Kapustka and fifty-seven other voters, residents and/or taxpayers of Liberty Township and Geranium Township asking that this County Board of Supervisors of Valley County, Nebraska, duly designate as County Road, that road commencing at the southwest corner of Northwest quarter of Section 1, in Township 18 Range 16 West, of the 6th P. M., and running thence north along section line for a distance of three and one-half miles to the southwest corner of section 13, in township 19 north of range 16 west, of the 6th P. M., to connect with already designated and present County Roads, and afford a direct and convenient county road between Arcadia, Nebraska, and Burwell, Nebraska.

THEREFORE, be it resolved by the Board of Supervisors of Valley County, Nebraska, that necessary proceedings be had in accordance with the provisions of said law, to designate said above described road as a County Road.

(Signed) Joseph Vasicek, Supervisor.

Motion to adopt foregoing resolution was seconded by Ball, and same having been concurred in, upon roll call, all supervisors voted "yes", none voting "no". Chairman declared said motion carried and foregoing resolution duly adopted.

Official Bond of Eugene Chipp, Township road overseer for east half of Vinton Township, bearing the endorsement of committee on official bonds, was duly approved upon motion, seconded and carried.

Iva Lakin, by her attorney, then presented her written and duly verified application to the Board, stating among other things, that she is the owner of Lot 3, in Block 24 Original Townsite of Ord, Nebraska, as a subsequent purchaser, which real estate was authorized to be sold by the County of Valley, pursuant to an election held 2, 1880, and asking for a good and sufficient deed from the County of Valley, in accordance with the provisions of Section 26-

107 of the Compiled Statutes of Nebraska for 1929, after which it was moved by Sorenson, seconded by Johnson, that the allegations of the application of Iva Lakin be found true, that the request of said application be granted and that a Deed to the premises therein described from the County of Valley, The State of Nebraska, by its Board of Supervisors, issue to her, without cost, as is provided by law. Motion duly carried.

CROSBY HARDWAREWINS GOLDEN PLY SILVERTOWN AGENCY*Local Firm Named by Goodrich to sell their New LIFE-SAVING TIRE

THE B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company has appointed us dealers for the new Goodrich Safety Silvertown Tire. This is the tire with the Life-Saver Golden Ply, the remarkable Goodrich invention that prevents blowouts. Today's high speeds—40, 50, 60 and 70 miles an hour generate terrific heat inside your tires. This heat causes rubber and fabric to separate. A blister starts... and grows... bigger and bigger—until BANG—a blow-out! And what happens then isn't pleasant to think about.

How New Invention Prevents Blow-outs

The new Goodrich Life-Saver Golden Ply is designed to overcome this hazard. It resists the most terrific internal heat. Rubber and fabric don't separate. Thus blisters don't form inside the tire. Blow-outs are prevented by overcoming their CAUSE.

FREE...

This handsome Safety Emblem which can be attached to protect you if your tall light goes out. No obligation—no cost—just join the Silvertown Safety League at our store.

THESE TIRES COST THE SAME
... BUT THIS ONE IS 3 TIMES SAFER!

No extra charge for
Goodrich Silvertown blow-out protection is free.

North Loup News

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Babcock are enjoying a visit from their daughter, Ruth and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sporleder of Albuquerque, N. M. The parents met them in Kearney, Sunday. Mr. Sporleder will be here until about Dec. 1st when he returns to his work at U. S. Biological Surveyor at that place. Mrs. Sporleder will remain for a longer visit. This is Ruth's first visit home since her marriage more than a year ago.

Mrs. Katherine Dunham departed Wednesday morning for her home at Rapid City, S. D., following a visit here of several weeks. Geo. Johnson took her as far as Broken Bow.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Swanson are disposing of their household goods and leaving in the near future for another location. They expect to go first to Yakima, Wash., but as to a permanent location they have nothing definite in view. North Loup folks do indeed regret the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Swanson and their charming little daughter, Rose Mary, and wish for them success and happiness where ever they locate.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 14 from the Bohrer undertaking parlors for Mattie Maxson, pioneer and for many years one of Valley county's most successful teachers who passed away Tuesday at 4 o'clock, Nov. 13 at the home of her niece, Mrs. Lela Green, with whom she resided. Although Miss Maxson was nearly eighty seven years old, the immediate cause of her death was due to a fractured hip which she sustained in a fall a few months ago. Martha Maxson, daughter of Thomas and Roxy Ann Burdick Maxson was born near Derwyter, N. Y., Nov. 24, 1847. At the age of two years she moved with her parents to Dakota, Wis., where she was raised. At the age of fifteen she began teaching which vocation she followed for forty-three years. Three of her Wisconsin pupils were Mary Rood Davis and Genia Rood Crandall and their brother, Charlie, all of this city. She also taught in Minnesota and Illinois. In 1883 she came to North Loup, her first school here was at Springdale. She also taught in Barker district and in the primary and grammar departments of the North Loup schools.

Many of this vicinity knew and loved Miss Maxson as a teacher and friend. For eighteen years she was a resident of Boulder, Colo., returning in 1918 with a sister, Mrs. Nettie Swan whom she helped to care for until her death. She was the last to survive of six brothers and sister. Besides Mrs. Green another niece, Mrs. Cora Alberry, who assisted with her care, resides here. Services were in charge of Rev. Warren of the Baptist church of which denomination she had been a member for many years. Music was furnished by a mixed quartet composed of Madame Esther Babcock and Ava Johnson, Messrs A. D. Moulton and Albert Babcock. Pall bearers were H. H. Thorngate, L. L. Lewis, I. L. Sheldon, C. W. McClellan, T. S. Weed and Lester Watts all of whom except Mr. Thorngate were former pupils of Miss Maxson. Interment was in North Loup cemetery.

Parents and friends of the North Loup schools were treated to an especially interesting program presented by P. T. A. Tuesday evening by the Fathers and Sons. The program was in charge of J. Sterling Manchester. A play by the vocational agriculture boys under their supervisor, Mr. Murray, was most entertaining. Musical numbers consisted of cornet solo by Roderick Moulton, a vocal solo by Mr. Albert Babcock, vocal numbers by a quartet and instrumental numbers by Edwin Schudel and son, Harold of Barker district.

What Brought the Crisis.
The republican party was once decidedly progressive. It became so, it has become more and more apparent as the years have passed, by accident.

Theodore Roosevelt had become a progressive republican governor of New York. The boss of Gothams G. O. P., at the time, Tom Platt, so manipulated the national republican convention of 1900 that after McKinley had been nominated for president there was an organized demand to nominate Roosevelt for vice president against his will. The objective was to shelf Mr. Roosevelt. The indomitable "Teddy" roared and fumed about it. He didn't want to be "bottled up". But neither did he want to give up to his party. He finally accepted. On Sept. 6th, 1901, McKinley was shot, the wound proving fatal Sept. 14th of the same year. Vice-President Roosevelt was thus placed in the executive chair. In 1904 he had no real opposition and in 1908 refused to stand for reelection because of the precedent against two terms. Throughout the seven years of his progressive administration the republican party was strongly entrenched in the hearts and minds of the people.

President Roosevelt's recommendation of Judge Taft, for president, nominated and elected the latter, in 1908. Unfortunately, after his election, President Taft swerved toward conservatism. The progressives of the party became estranged. They followed their leader in a bolt, four years later, enabling the democrats to elect Woodrow Wilson. The war, and two terms for President Wilson intervened.

In 1920 the progressive element of the party again was active. It employed the progressive idea of a presidential primary. This had been established in 14 states. These primaries clearly showed Senator Hiram Johnson to be the popular choice. But the primary states were largely western and midwestern. This primary manner of finding a candidate, strongly entrenched in the hearts and minds of the rank and file, was nevertheless anathema to the republican Old Guard, now generally referred to as the "Old Dealers". They opposed Johnson bitterly. General Leonard Wood, second choice of the republican primaries, was proposed as a compromise. He refused to make certain concessions to the oil interests. After a "hot-back-room" conference Senator Harding was proposed, was nominated and elected. Again were the progressives repulsed.

They were down but not out.

The infamous scandals of Daugherty, Harding's attorney general, Senator Fall, Jesse W. Smith, Sinclair, et al, followed. In Harding's cabinet were both Coolidge (as vice president) and Hoover. The progressives demanded investigations and resignations. The Old Guard opposed as long as they could. Following Harding's death Mr. Coolidge became president. Following the Coolidge presidency came the Hoover. Always the dominating New England Old Guard remained in control—so absolutely that when, early in his first term, Mr. Hoover seemed really to desire to do something to restore parity for the agricultural industry of the west, the New England industrial and financial interests strenuously opposed and President Hoover supinely capitulated.

Always did the progressives maintain a fighting nucleus in Senators LaFollette, Norris, Johnson, Howell and several others, frequently including Borah. Always, however, have the New England interests controlled. Two years ago Smoot and several others went down for the count. The progressive strength remained. Senator Johnson, rejected in 1920 by the Old Guard, the Old Dealers, was this year, on the other hand, again re-elected—and without opposition at that. What would the history of that party have been had the progressive choice, the choice of the rank and file, been respected in 1920—had the decision of the primaries. Senator Johnson rather than the decision reached in that historic back room of a hotel, been adopted?

And this year three other prominent Old Guards are permanently put on the shelf—Fess of Ohio, Robinson of Indiana, and Reed of Pennsylvania. All of which is merely set forth today as a background in the consideration of the following New York dispatch:

The job of reorganizing the republican party... will begin without delay... Leaders were said to realize that the democratic landslide and the victories of the progressives and farmer-laborites in Wisconsin and Minnesota, threatened the very existence of their party unless they successfully meet the crisis.

Will they finally recognize human rights in place of special privilege and the agricultural midwest and west?—Gus Buechler in G. I. Independent.

25 Years Ago This Week.
A complaint was sworn out by Father Augustyn, priest at Elyria, declaring that his housekeeper, Mary Galaski, had become violently insane. She was brought before the Valley county insanity board, which recommended she be kept under observation for a month before pronouncement on her condition was made.

The Ramel Jewelry store was bought by George Parkins and Mr. Ramel expected to open a store in some other town.

J. Abrahamsen bought a farm in Jackson county, Minnesota and expected to move there in the spring. He paid $75 per acre. Walker Bros. shipped two bulls to an Idaho customer. They went express, by the buyer's orders, and it was expected he would have some bill to pay when he received the animals.

Mr. Powell, depot agent at Elyria, had curiosity in the shape of a bed of pansies pushing their heads up through a thick blanket of snow.

20 Years Ago This Week.
Emma, wife of Arthur V. Mensing, Jr., died at her home in Noble township, after eight years of married life. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nay.

Claire Gilroy had a broken arm as result of cranking a friend's Ford car.

The Ord high football team had no difficulty in trouncing Loup City 33 to 0. Runs by Gering Chamberlain featured. Sorensen, Maritz and Detweller also did stellar work for Ord.

J. K. Jensen completed the job of moving the Kaisler house to the Silo lots. Moving this tall structure worked havoc with electric and telephone wires.

Horace Davis was appointed deputy state auditor.

W. H. Firkins shipped his stuff to Howard, Colo., where he planned to locate on a ranch.

Eldon Davis and Evelyn Haught placed highest in Ord's Better Baby show. Other babies with high ranking included Leroy Lambdin, Virginia Flint, William Garnick, Rolland Haught, Edward Bartta, Robert Bell, Morris Blackburn and Lloyd Young.

Bert Rockwell and Miss Ada Auble were married.

L. F. Jobst was very ill with an attack of appendicitis and neighbors held a husking bee for him.

KEEPING FIT FOR SUCCESS

By Dr. V. E. Levine, professor of bio-chemistry and nutrition, the Creighton University School of Medicine.

HELPFUL HINTS.

1. Live out-of-doors as much as possible. Man was intended by the Creator to be an outdoor being. The common cold, influenza, bronchitis, pneumonia, and tuberculosis are house diseases.

2. Eat an abundance of good food—dairy products, meat and fish, fruits and vegetables, and whole wheat products. Avoid overeating and undereating.

3. Keep your body clean on the inside by abundant water-drinking, and on the outside by bathing.

4. Have the bowels move once a day.

5. Do some manual work every day.

The human being has energy that must find its outlet in physical exercise and work.

6. Eliminate worry.

Do right and fear no man and no consequences.

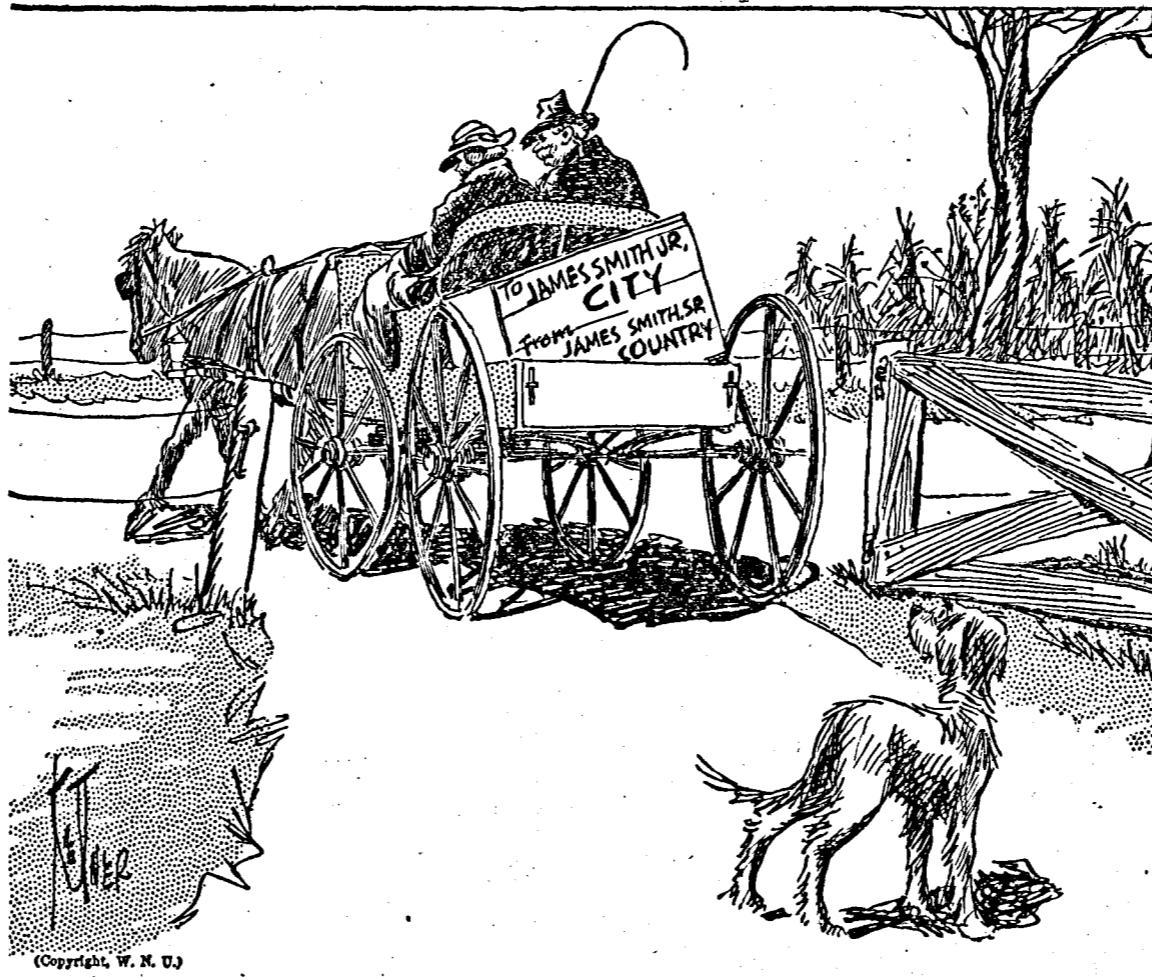

7. Secure as much rest and relaxation as your body demands. Rest in its broadest sense implies physical, mental and emotional rest. An individual may be in bed all day and secure physical rest, yet not enjoy complete rest because of mental occupation or emotional states.

8. Have confidence in yourself. The victory in the battle of life does not often go to the wise or to the strong, but to the one who enters the field with confidence.

9. Be solicitous about your health and personal progress as you are about the spark plugs or the carburetor in your automobile.

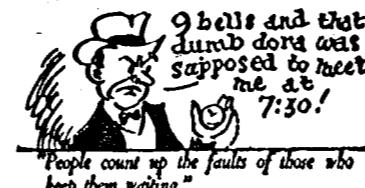

10. Be master of yourself. Do not allow yourself to be a slave to your business, to your money, to your friends and relatives, or to some trifling habit.

Two or three local hostesses whose homes are habitually too cool for the comfort of their guests, even though the thermometer on the wall shows a supposedly satisfactory 72 degrees Fahrenheit have solved the mystery.

The thermometers are hung at eye level or higher...which is not the level of the room much occupied in most homes.

I have decided there are styles in toys, the same as in other everyday objects. I told a week or two ago I couldn't find a drum for our important Baby, whose birthday, incidentally, is today, Nov. 19, Kerry being one year old today.

I found another toy that is not modern, I guess. In this machine age boys are supposed to want automobiles, automobiles, trucks and automobiles. Because Kerrys Grandmas Leggett wanted to buy him one of those little rocking horses or rocking chairs with a horse for an arm on each side, and although she has looked everywhere, they just aren't in any catalogs or toy departments any more.

Steamed Pudding.
Mix well the following: one-half cup sorghum, one-half cup syrup, one-half cup sugar, one cup chopped suet, one cup sour milk, two teaspoons cloves, one-half teaspoon salt, one scant cup chopped nuts, one scant cup dates. Pour into mold and steam three hours. This mixture fills a three pound coffee can. Serve hot with this sauce: Mix one tablespoon flour with one tablespoon butter until smooth, add one-half cup sugar, a pinch of salt, pour in one cup boiling water, add the grated rind and juice of one lemon.

Mrs. Lester Shipley.

Fried Cakes Like Mother Used To Make.
Carefully combine one cup sugar, two eggs, a scant half cup of shortening, one teaspoon soda, one cup sour milk, with enough flour to make a dough that will roll out. Cut in rings. Have your lard very hot, and put in it a peeled potato to keep it from burning. Drop in your cakes, they will come to the top when light. Fry a dark brown. When turned and done on both sides, take them out and sprinkle sugar over them.

This department would like to give credit for the above recipe that the lady will come forward who sent it in.

But dolls nowadays aren't like that. They are more elaborate and expensive every year. In place of the china faced doll with black hair painted on, with a lanky cloth body, which my aunt gave to me as the handed down treasure of her childhood, the dolls now have hair, eyelashes, they talk and sleep, and walk.

I even saw one advertised in an Omaha paper a few days ago which would drink water and then need her pants changed!

Chairman Fletcher of the Republican national committee is quoted in the daily press as saying that there will be no changes in the policies of the republican party. No, and just so long as there are no changes the more progressive democrat party will continue to control the country. I am wondering if the Fletchers, Mellons, Hoovers and Mills would rather see the democrats remain in control than to turn the party over to more progressive and younger men.

I am convinced that business conditions are improving because for a long time there was a lack of bidders from business firms and they are beginning to come again.

Many years ago my good friend Jim Misko demonstrated to me that he was a mighty good judge of corn and its products, and all along down through the years he has proved to me that he was a master hand at curing meats. No one ever equalled him, in Ord, for the curing of meats, and I say that with all due respect to the present crop of meat curers. They are good of course but they are not in class with Jim Misko. In my judgment there is no breakfast dish quite as good as good home made sausage and nice pancakes. I like to use a liberal helping of sausage gravy on the cakes and top both cakes and gravy off with syrup. I am just like another old friend, long since gone to his reward. I was at the Brockus home some 38 years ago and they made ice cream and served it in big, old-fashioned coffee saucers. John had eaten seven heaped up saucers and Mother Brockus asked him if he would have some more and he replied, "No, mother, I am no hawg for ice cream." I am that way about sausage and pancakes. Fifteen or twenty pancakes, if not too small, are about as many as I can handle at one breakfast and I don't care for over a couple of pounds of sausage, even the kind I have been enjoying the past few mornings. My friend Misko brought it to me.

Fred Howard, upon hearing that a way to make synthetic whiskey and other necessary beverages had been found, wonders how long the age old and eminently satisfactory method of acquiring a family will be allowed to continue and how soon a new, synthetic way will be found.

It seems to me that if this administration would grant us the money needed to put our power and irrigation project across and see that Loup valley labor did the work, the unemployed problem in the valley would be solved. If this is not done I believe the government will spend as much, keeping the unemployed as the grant part of the money asked for amounts to. The building of the project would guarantee more than double the present population of the valley which in turn would assure commercial interests and ever increasing business. It would also insure the prosperity of the adjoining sandhill pasture area to the north for there would be an abundance of feed right at their south door to finish the stock raised on the ranches. Why those at the top in this administration cannot see all this is a mystery to those on the ground who know the possibilities of this fertile valley, once moisture is applied in abundance.

Fred Howard, upon hearing that a way to make synthetic whiskey and other necessary beverages had been found, wonders how long the age old and eminently satisfactory method of acquiring a family will be allowed to continue and how soon a new, synthetic way will be found.

QUIZ FORUM

About the Ord Parks.

To the Editor of the Quiz:
The end of the season when parks are most essential has arrived and only for the football and kittenball games that may yet be played the season is over. No year since Ord has had parks has seen them more generally used and appreciated than this past season.

At times during the hottest part of the season one could almost imagine most of the younger generation were at the park at the river or Bussell park on picnic or meeting of some club. While other towns, many of them, are without such facilities, Ord is to be congratulated on having as fine parks as any city of its size in the state. If the spirit of Mr. Bussell still persists he surely must be pleased with the results of his kind donation of this park to the city. The season has been severe on the trees in Ord and in the park also. Only for the constant effort of the superintendent in care of the trees and in pumping almost night and day during the long dry period most of the trees would have succumbed to the continued drought. As it is few trees were lost and it is hoped that such another dry season may not occur for at least another century. Ord is to be congratulated on having for a superintendent of parks a man whose whole soul is wrapped up in the parks and their care. Being a lover of flowers and trees, his love for them is manifest in his constant effort to beautify the parks and add to their natural attractions. There are not many who realize that Bud has been almost night and day as well as Sunday on the job and practically with no vacation in ten long years. One who has never had experience along that line can hardly comprehend the insults and annoyances a superintendent has to put up with in trying to induce some people to observe rules laid down by the Park Board and for the benefit of the entire public. Very seldom has Bud been out of sound of the fire siren unless at a state firemen's meet. Sometimes it is hoped Bussell park will have a lake as was planned by him while living. That can be easily accomplished if our hoped for irrigation plans are passed on favorably by those who pass upon its feasibility.

With the return of legal liquor in Nebraska, I am wondering if we will have the same old annual fight at the spring election, as to whether liquor shall be sold in Ord. We still have the referendum law and a petition with the proper number of signers will get the matter on the ballot at the spring election and the people can vote whether we shall have saloons in Ord or not. Perhaps this will not be resorted to as in the past but it can be.

At last week's election Thayer county decided by a majority of 233 votes to abolish the office of county assessor. Automatically the county clerk becomes county assessor ex-officio. Fillmore county took that step some years ago.—Geneva Signal.

The newspapers often say something to the effect that the fight which Senator George W. Norris made for his one-house legislature will be his last big fight. It is his last big fight to date. I heard the senator say several times that it might be his last big fight. I never heard him say it would be his last big fight. As long as Senator Norris lives and Spalding Man Kills Bobcat.

Bernard Gilroy, a farmer living near Spalding, last week shot and killed a bobcat on the John Berndt farm, after chasing the animal over two miles. The bobcat took refuge in a tree when cornered by Gilroy. The animal is believed to be the cause of the mysterious disappearance of pigs, goats and young calves in that neighborhood for the past six or seven years. The bobcat will be mounted and added to the collection of trophies belonging to Dr. Sullivan of Spalding.

Thanksgiving

LET US GIVE THANKS

At this thanksgiving season we express our thanks for numerous blessings that have been ours this past year. In spite of drouth and other unfavorable conditions provision has been made that none need go hungry in our land. We thank our many customers and friends for support given to us this past year. May the coming year bring better things to all is our wish.

Biscuits in the oven
And cider on the shelf,
Pass your plates for seconds
Or pitch in and help yourself,
Pipes and easy chairs,
Nuts and popcorn by the fire,
Turkey hash tomorrow, folks,

Arcadia News

Thursday several friends surprised Al Fagan's mother, Mrs. Bridget Fagan, on her 85th birthday by bringing a covered dish lunch and spending the afternoon. The Up-To-Date club gave a play "These Husband's of Ours" at their regular meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. C. C. Thompson. Those who helped to portray the parts were; Mesdames Carl Dietrick, Edith Bossen, Deilla Nelson, Lilian Thompson, Pauline Mott, and Misses Elaine Hawthorne and Alberta Russell. This playlet was greatly enjoyed by the club and all took their parts well.

Mrs. Ray Lutz held an all day quilting at her home Wednesday. About twenty ladies attended. A lovely dinner was served at noon.

Mrs. Wm. Ramsey is in Omaha visiting and attending to some business in regard to the store this week.

Dr. Christ, who has a government position is now located at Pine Dale, Wyo. On his way to his new location he stopped at Cheyenne where he visited with former Arcadians, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bauman. Their son, Earl, is now attending university at Laramie, having graduated last year with honors and received a scholarship.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Braden entertained Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Arnold and Mr. and Mrs. Jameson at dinner Sunday.

Miss Irene Downing spent the week-end visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Downing.

Mrs. Bert Braden entertained six ladies at a sewing bee Monday. They were Mesdames Ed Burrows, George Burke, Lem Knapp, Ed Arnold, Leslie Arnold and Miss Evelyn Knapp.

Miss Kellison, Yale teacher, is boarding at the Ross Evans home now that Henry Creemee's are quarantined for scarlet fever.

Mrs. Georgia Mills entertained the Liberty Aid Wednesday. The day was spent in quilting for the hostess. At the close of the afternoon a covered dish luncheon was served.

The Oak Creek Rook club held its regular meeting Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Larson. Mrs. Alonzo Quartz won high score for the ladies and Ernest Johnson won high score for the men. The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Peterson.

Some time ago Sears Roebuck and company sponsored a national contest and the 31-2 year old daughter, Rita Mae, of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bensen, won silver cup prize for being one of the prettiest babies whose pictures were sent to them.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Komsak, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rohman of St. Paul were Sunday guests at the George Burke home.

DIESEL ENGINES MAY BE BOUGHT FOR LIGHT PLANT

Ord Officials In Minnesota To View Rare Bargain In Oil Burning Equipment.

A strong possibility that Diesel engines and equipment may be purchased by the city council to replace the present steam plant is seen in the visit of Mayor Gould B. Flagg, Light and Water Commissioner George Allen and Councilmen Guy Burrows and Frank Sershen to Crosby, Minn. The city officials left Sunday morning and were expected back either last night or early this morning.

The Ord men went to Minnesota for the purpose of viewing a Diesel plant that has been offered for sale at a bargain price and Saturday Mayor Flagg told a Quiz reporter that if the plant is in as good shape as the owners claim it is extremely likely that it will be bought for use in Ord, as a majority of councilmen appear to favor such a move.

The cost of the plant, complete, is $39,000, which amount includes freight to Ord and installation in the plant here. Included are two Diesel engines, one 440 horse-power; and the other 330 horse-power; also oil storage tanks with capacity for 24,000 gallons of fuel, a new switchboard and all supplemental equipment.

This plant is the property of an iron mining company at Crosby and has been in use only 3 1/2 years. The mine has closed down and is in receivership, hence moveable equipment is being offered at extremely low prices. It is claimed that the cost of the Diesel equipment at Crosby, if purchased new and installed here, would be close to $100,000.

The Diesel engines at Crosby were manufactured by the Ingalls-Rand company, one of the largest and best in the business, and a representative of this company was to meet Mayor Flagg and his party in Crosby and tear down the engines for their inspection. This company will guarantee the engines the same as if they were new, Ord officials say, and all parts that show any signs of wear will be replaced.

As stated before, the cost of $39,000 will include shipment to Ord and installation here but some remodeling will have to be done at the Ord plant. It is thought that the cost of excavating and remodeling can be defrayed with funds derived from the sale of the present steam equipment, with a tidy balance left over, so after the change is made it is likely that the city will not have over $35,000 invested in new equipment.

Best part of the deal is that only $10,000 in cash has to be paid, balance of the purchase price being in installments at a very low rate of interest. It is figured that the saving in fuel cost will more than meet the payments each year and will permit of further reduction in rates also.

With a surplus fund of $60,000 built up of plant earnings for the express purpose of making replacements as they become necessary, the Ord electric plant is in a very enviable position financially. Expenditure of a portion of the surplus for more modern equipment seems a natural and logical step, especially if the job of transforming Ord's steam plant into a Diesel plant can be accomplished at such a comparatively low cost.

Holmes Boy Lost, Found. Richard Holmes, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Holmes of near Arcadia, became lost in the severe fog Sunday night while returning from the home of his brother. Confused in his directions, the boy wandered toward Ord and late that night was found and returned to his own home.

There were sixteen tables of players Thursday evening at the Catholic card party. Miss Muri Bartlett won the bridge prize, Mrs. Frank Blaha sr., the prize for pinochle and Mrs. Charles Sterneczek the high five prize. Serving committee were Madams Will Kokes, George Wachirle, Joe Ostentowski, Stanley Absalon and E. Sedlacek.

Sunday dinner guests in the home of Mrs. Edgina Koelling were Madams Winnie Finley and Katie Marks and Miss Katie Romans. Miss Dorothy Jobst had been an invited guest but had to leave before dinner as her father was ill.

W. W. Haskell, who has been seriously ill, was reported Wednesday morning to be considerably improved.

Miss Lillian Dana of Buhl, Ida., who is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kokes and other relatives, plans on staying here until after the Christmas holidays.

Wallace Doe Writes About Alaska Storm, Says Wind Velocity Was 80 Miles an Hour

Wallace Doe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy E. Doe of Arcadia, is spending the winter at Red Bluff Bay, Alaska, where he is studying, hunting and trapping this winter, and writes the following account of an Alaska storm. The mail boat weathered the storm safely, as this account was mailed at Barrow, Alaska on Nov. 14 and reached here Nov. 25. Mr. Doe writes:

"We had the worst storm today in ten years. It struck about 9 while we were still in bed. The wind must have reached a seventy or eighty mile velocity, as it was making the water in the bay smoke like a prairie fire—shook the house continually—and before we could get up it had torn loose the float to which our gas-boat and three skiffs were tied. Vic and I had to hop out, climb down a pile and jump for the float, but made it okay and finally got the boat and the float lashed to the fish tanks with rope.

"The wind was so strong it tore twelve-foot planks out of the dock and scattered them. Trees all around were whipping back and forth, while the wind picked up water right out of the Bay and slammed it against the buildings. Surf was breaking twenty to thirty feet high.

"However, the worst of the storm blew itself out in three hours, and no great damage was done. Surely a great sight, and wish I could have taken a picture, but was too busy to think of that.

"We canined venison last night until 1:30 A. M. and are all tired and sleepy today.

"Hope our mail boat didn't sink. She is supposed to be on her way here now and is not a very good sea boat."

McCall and Norton Win G. I. Turney

J. D. McCall and Shirley Norton, of Ord, were victorious in the invitation contract bridge tournament held at the Elks' club in Grand Island Sunday, winning top place in the final round with a total of 122 out of a possible 210 match points. They were awarded a cash prize of $10 for their victory.

Many of the best bridge players in Nebraska competed in this tournament and the victory of McCall and Norton against such strong competition shows that expert bridge is played by Ord card players.

Five pairs of Ordites were among the 88 players who competed at Grand Island Sunday. The delegation included McCall and Norton, Dr. F. A. Barta and Mrs. K. C. Lewis, John P. Misko and Eugene Leggett, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mortensen, Lester Norton and Mrs. Eugene Leggett. The first three pairs survived the afternoon qualifying round and won their way to the finals. All but 32 players were eliminated in the qualifying round.

In the finals McCall and Norton placed first, the Misko-Leggett pair placed second and Dr. Barta and Mrs. Lewis placed twelfth. Second place went to a Grand Island pair, V. M. Johnson and Buck Belzer, who were awarded a $5.00 cash prize.

Players from Fremont, Columbus, Albion, Kearney, Central City, St. Paul, Ord and Grand Island were entered. The tournament was directed by John C. McManam, Columbus, and Mrs. Allan Palmer, Omaha, nationally known players and teachers.

Frank L. Sevenker Sold Liquor, Fined

Appearing in county court Tuesday morning on a charge of selling intoxicating liquor, Frank L. Sevenker of Ord was fined $100 and costs of $15.25, all of which he paid in cash. Sevenker plead guilty to the charge filed by County Attorney Munn.

He was taken into custody Monday evening by Sheriff George Round, who caught him in the act of selling a pint bottle of government-sealed alcohol to a customer. Officers have been checking up on Sevenker for some time but this is his first arrest. A search of the Sevenker home later Monday night failed to reveal any additional liquor.

Carkoski Cleanup Sale. Mrs. Frank Carkoski will quit farming and the family will remove to another state, so a cleanup sale will be held at the farm between Ord and Elyria on December 12. Watch this paper next week for a complete list of the offering and for bills advertising the sale.

Road Being Regraveled. Fred Ulrich was the successful bidder on the Elyria-Ord regraveled project and began last week. His pump is located in the Joe Jablonski pasture north of the Elyria bridge and he has a crew working there and with the trucks that are hauling gravel onto the highway.

Frank Satterfield of Taylor has 80 to 90 tons of alfalfa and is having it baled so he can move it easily. He will truck it to the place where he is wintering his cattle in the Gracie creek country. Mr. Satterfield is the father of George Satterfield of Ord.

A letter from Mrs. Mamie Wear, Long Beach, Calif., informs Ord friends she is having a nice visit with her son Lawrence Wear and family. He has a new house and is nicely settled. When Mrs. Wear went to California she thought she would stay until spring.

Mrs. Tom Williams writes Ord friends that she is thinking of home and she and Mr. Williams may return around Christmas time. For several weeks Mr. and Mrs. Williams have been with a daughter in Nemaha county,

Miss Lillian Dana of Buhl, Ida., who is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kokes and other relatives, plans on staying here until after the Christmas holidays.

ORD GRIDSTERS SEE UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL GAME

33 Members of Squad in Stands As Nebraska Beat Tigers At Lincoln Saturday.

As a reward for faithful attendance at practice and for the fighting spirit displayed in games, the entire football squad of Ord high school, 33 in number, were taken to the Nebraska-Missouri football game at Memorial stadium in Lincoln Saturday, and watched the Cornhuskers beat the Tigers 13 to 6. It was the first time many of the boys had ever seen a college football game and they enjoyed it greatly.

The squad was escorted by Coach Brockman, Assistant Coach Cowell, Superintendent of Schools Bell, Principal Cass and Messrs. Lukenbach and Watkins, members of the faculty. The group made the trip to Lincoln in cars driven by P. J. Melka, Archie Kepp, Lloyd Rusk, R. C. Ayres, W. D. Cass, M. D. Bell, A. W. Tunnicliff, Robert Stone and W. D. Lukenbach.

Besides attending the game the boys enjoyed trips through the state capital building, university coliseum, the museum, and other places of interest.

Last week Bill received the bid for national honors in the form of a letter from John Prisoff, sports editor of the Enakopravost in Cleveland. The letter said:

"Dear Mr. Gornik: You have been selected on our Yugoslav All-American team, published annually in our paper and many others throughout the nation. Before we release the team, it is important that we have your answers to questions enclosed and also a picture of yourself, preferably in uniform."

Gornik answered, revealing the correct spelling of his name and the fact that he is not a Yugoslavian, so it is assumed that some other football player will replace him on Enakopravost's "all" team.

Mrs. A. P. Jensen Was Found Dead Tuesday

Mrs. A. P. Jensen, who lived near the Ord mill and was past eighty years old, was found dead in her home Tuesday afternoon and the body is now in the Sow funeral parlors awaiting arrival of Mrs. Jensen's daughter, Mrs. Franzen, who lives in Montana. She is expected to arrive in Ord today, after which the time of the funeral will be decided.

The death of Mrs. Jensen was discovered when a friend, Mrs. Hans Bossen, went to visit her Tuesday and found the door locked. Mrs. Bossen summoned a neighbor, Mrs. Jim Hansen, and the two forced the door and entered.

Mrs. Jensen was a sister of A. M. L. Petersen, Mrs. Amelia Johnson and Mrs. Jens Aagaard, all of whom live north of Ord. She had enjoyed extremely good health for a woman of her advanced years and only a couple of days before her death attended a meeting of the Danish Brotherhood aid society.

Mrs. Mary Sedlacek Dead. The funeral of Mrs. Mary Sedlacek was held Thursday morning in the Geranium Catholic church. Mrs. Sedlacek passed away Nov. 9 in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Stanley Bicek, in Woods' Park. She was 81 years, 3 months and 27 days of age. She was buried five miles east of Comstock. She leaves five children, James, John and George Sedlacek, Mrs. Stanley Bicek and Miss Anna Sedlacek. Several relatives who live near Ord went to the funeral.

Mrs. J. D. Holloway has been ill in the country home of her daughter, Mrs. Clifford Goff. Her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Holloway of Garfield county, were calling upon her Sunday.

Last Thursday Mrs. Hans Andersen went to Grand Island and in a hospital there underwent an operation for the removal of one eye.

Arthur Aruble, who is attending Hastings college writes that they do not have vacation on Friday so he will not be at home for Thanksgiving. If the weather is fair his people may drive to Hastings and spend a few hours with Arthur today.

William Zabloudil returned home last Wednesday from Newton, Kas., where he had spent a few days visiting a sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Capron and sons are driving to Omaha and will spend Thanksgiving day with Mrs. Capron's relatives.

Mrs. Charles Bals will be hostess tomorrow to the D. D. O.

Newpapering in the Loup Valley Fifty Years Ago

Written by W. W. Haskell and Read Before The Loup Valley Press Association, Saturday, November 17.

The call has gone from the rich and prosperous publishers of 1884 to have a report from the pioneer publishers of the Loup Valley, most of whom are now dead. Possibly the call was made for the purpose of keeping the record straight and for preserving the past for the benefit of the present and the future. But a vague suspicion remains that the purpose of the call was made to enhance the glory of the present by contrast with the humble beginning. Being chosen to answer this call, I shall proceed to describe my experiences and observations in the North Loup Valley being sure that they will be typical of the whole field.

I came to Valley county in the fall of 1881 bringing my young wife and an ambition to publish a paper. I came as most of the pioneer editors did, with no experience in newspaper work, not even being a real-to-goodness printer. I brought with me a blind belief, born in my boyhood, that I could make the thing go. "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread." But by some hook or crook I did make it go. That was not, however, without hard work and hard knocks.

Two papers were being published in Ord then. The Valley County Journal by J. H. Capron, a very excellent frontier paper, and The Independent by R. H. Clayton. The latter paper was a fiery sheet, but I saw its end was near, so awaited its removal to Scotia in January of 1882. I immediately ordered a printing outfit costing $500, for all of which I had to go in debt. The press was a 13x19 old style Gordon without a throw off. With the assistance of some printers about as proficient as myself the type was laid, the press set up, and the work of starting a paper was begun. We planned to have the paper appear Thursday morning, April 6, 1882, but when night came the printers were fagged and went to bed, leaving only two pages of the paper printed. With some misgivings I asked my wife if she would help me get the paper out during the night. She did not fail me and she never has failed me in the nearly 53 years since then.

There was not enough display type to set all the ads on the 4 little home print pages, so I had to throw in the ads on the two pages already printed and set the ads and make up and print the remaining two pages. As I have said the pages were printed one at a time. The paper was folded once so the sheets were twice the size of the single pages and were hard to feed. I fed the sheets and my "helpmate" took them from the tympan, doing her bit at kicking the press. She quickly learned to do this and we were proud to show the printers, when they returned to the shop Friday morning, that the paper was ready to be mailed. To my certain knowledge that is the latest The Quiz ever appeared after it was due and of course never failed to appear—a pretty good record for 53 years.

I had not chosen a name for the paper till after the outfit was on the way to Ord. I could not bear the stilted names, but luck favored me. The word Quiz was practically unspoken at that time and I had never seen the word till I happened to run across it in some printed page. I knew by the context what it meant and at once seized upon it for the name of my paper. One of the most valuable things I sold to Mr. Leggett 36 years later, if you ask me, was the name The Ord Quiz.

Having crossed my Rubicon it was up to me to make the paper pay its way. The field was well occupied by Mr. Capron's paper. He was an experienced printer. He had the backing of the office holders and the business men. My paper was no match for his in appearance. His style of writing was terse and pointed. With all these odds against me, how was I to get a hold? I could discover but two openings for me. Mr. Capron handled the news with skill but all public matters he handled with soft gloves. I decided to rip things up a bit. My other opening was to get out after the subscriptions. I had paid my way at the Northwestern University by selling maps during vacations, so I knew the game.

Nearly every week after the paper was out I set out into the country and solicited subscriptions. I met with success from the start and soon had the lead, a proud position which the Quiz has never lost. Fifty years ago Ord was a wide open town, so they said. The saloon was in the saddle, gambling and other evils were said to be rampant. But let me tell you that there was a great majority who were against such things. I am sure that in that dark age bank robberies were rare and kidnappings unheard of. Now and

L. F. Jobst, sr., who underwent a major operation at the Ord Hospital some time ago and recovered sufficiently to be allowed to go home, is back in the hospital this week. He has a severe case of pneumonia and is said to be in dangerous condition.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Thill and Mrs. Martha Mutter and Mrs. Will McLain were calling upon friends and relatives in Burton.

Mrs. E. O. Carlson will be hostess to the next meeting of the G. E. club.

SANTA CLAUS TO BE ORD VISITOR SATURDAY P. M.

Will Register Children Under 19, Give Them Treats; Turkey Chase Was Success.

Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, direct from their home in the far north, will be Ord visitors Saturday afternoon and want to greet all the children of this community at 2:00 p. m. on the steps of the Valley county court house. All children under the age of 10 will be asked to register and will be given treats by Santa.

These distinguished visitors are brought to Ord by the Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the Silver Strike committee. Another Silver Strike drawing similar to the one held last Saturday will take place in conjunction with Santa's visit.

The Silver Strike committee and the Chamber of Commerce are planning a program for every Saturday afternoon between now and Christmas and each Saturday something different in the way of free entertainment will be offered.

The turkey chase last Saturday was an immense success. Twelve large turkeys were released from the top of the court house with a crowd of about 2,000 people watching. Most of the birds sought refuge in tops of trees but this provided exercise for a number of small boys and entertainment for the crowd.

Most Ord stores are beginning to assume the holiday aspect and by Saturday nearly every place of business will have donned Christmas garb. Ord will be a real Christmas shopping center this year and with the Chamber of Commerce and Silver Strike committee bending every effort to provide pleasant and profitable entertainment for children and adults it is likely that big crowds will visit Ord throughout the holiday season.

The Sevens Sale. Lloyd Sevens will hold a cleanup sale on December 5th. His large announcement will be found on another page of this week's paper. He has a fine offering, especially the milk cows which are outstanding.

2-Inch Snow Fell In Tuesday Flurry

Two inches of snow fell over most of Valley and adjacent counties Tuesday, this being the first snow storm of the winter. A drizzling rain fell most of Monday night and Tuesday morning in Ord but in the western part of Valley county more snow was reported than in Ord. Tuesday's rain and snow had a total moisture content of .36 of an inch, reports Horace Travis. The low temperature Tuesday night was 24 degrees.

Country roads are in bad condition and between Scotia and St. Paul the state highway is said to be almost impassable. The Williams bus got only as far as Elba Tuesday night and many trucks were reported stuck on this stretch of road.

The Davis Creek M. E. Ladies Aid will hold an oyster supper and auction sale of fancy work Friday evening, Dec. 7, at the Davis Creek school house. Supper 25c and 15c.

Thursday a two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Clements caught her hand in the spring on a day bed. The thumb on her left hand was nearly torn off. Dr. Henry Norris sewed it but it is doubtful if the thumb can be saved.

Dear Jake:

Abe Lincoln said something to the effect that the Lord must love the poor people for he made so many of them. That thought seems reasonable enough, but from the profuse vocabulary displayed by some of the FERAers one would gather they might not love the Lord in return.

These FERAers are paid with script, upon which is listed the articles they may purchase at the stores. Only things necessary to sustenance of life are supposed to be listed. Now Jake, I wish you would make a recommendation to the designers of this script, to have some provisions for these FERAers to get tonsorial work done. Some of these fellows are beginning to resemble Edgar Howard and William Jennings Bryan already, and soon will be tripping themselves on their whiskers. I do not know as this trimming business is absolutely necessary to sustain life, but it might save the government having to finance a divorce suit among their employees, and then there should be a little mercy for us taxpayers. We have to look at those Harry Chins.

We have a very progressive FERA down here. The members have organized themselves into a union and already have held one or more protest meetings. The protest is afloat, the organization meets frequently in secret sessions and lays plans for concerted action. At one meeting some of the strikers refused to make over old clothes, and demanded new ones. Upon another occasion one woman whose husband is more or less a spokesman demanded some new shoes for her kids, with the threat if the shoes were not forthcoming her husband would not work any more. I can see nothing wrong with that action. The right to strike, and of collective bargaining has been the main protection of the laboring man throughout our history. Picketing has not been resorted to yet.

I have been trying to drum up some scheme whereby I could work for the government. One single fellow sold his cattle and horses to his brother and is now working out a feed loan. In the spring he can buy his stock back. Another fellow purchased a few pigs and is now working for their feed. Goats have come into a great demand lately so as to make more units. One FERAer has a bunch of coon dogs. Do you suppose he is getting a feed loan on them? Every idea that I have heard of has some hitch that bars me from work. It is not that I am not poor enough. I have too many debts. So as a result, all I can find to do now days is to write letters to you.

The reasons why I would like to join the FERA are many. One grocer has made the remark the FERAers live the best of anyone who trade there. And then if I belonged I would get invited to the FERA dances held here regularly. And then there is the point of freedom from worry over feeding the kids.

I asked a neighbor why he didn't get a feed loan for his hungry stock. He didn't want to for he said there had to be someone left to pay taxes. Something was said about big families and I remarked that I didn't know what I would do if my family increased like Dionne's. The answer was that I would be in somewhat the same trouble as the government.

The promptness of supplying aid to the distressed has been a marvel to all of us. The marvel is that the distressed can hold out as long as they do. We have one lady down here who is without means. She has lived here for many years, but for the last year or two she has been sojourning in another county, with relatives. The question arises whether the other county, the relatives or Valley county shall support her. It is an interesting scrap, requiring much correspondence and time, and perhaps a suit at law. The controversy is causing a great deal of pondering, exercise and contention, which would be pleasant to relate, but the point I am getting at is, I am afraid in the melee, you supervisors have forgotten all about the poor hungry lady. Perhaps it would be a good idea if you fellows would have the county engineer figure out just how long a distressed person can live under these conditions.

Yours respectfully,
 George G.

My Own Column
By H. D. LEGGETT

A newspaper story says that a human skeleton has been found at Clay Center. I hope it is not the one that Fred Howard has in his closet.

A Burwell man writes me for advice. He says his wife insists that they occupy separate rooms and he says he can't understand it and wants me to tell him what the matter is. He admits that he has grown fat as the years have passed, but says he is just as vigorous as ever. The only thing I can think of as being the trouble, is that he has taken to snoring. If that idea, upon investigation, does not answer his question, then the best authority I know of for him to write to is Fred Howard.

If anyone tells you that business is not picking up, just put them down as either republicans or crazy. Usually Eugene is hounding me, up till noon Wednesday, to get in more advertising copy. Last week he told me the first thing Wednesday morning to lay off, as he had all he could handle and several Ord business men missed having an ad because I didn't jog their memory. Three of them called me down for my neglect. The moral is, "Get your copy in Tuesday at the latest."

I guess I have said it before, but I want to repeat that no Christmas gift you could send one of the children who is away at school or whose home is in another town or county or state, would be of as much use or give as much pleasure as would a year's subscription to the Quiz. And we will also send a copy of the 1935 cook calendar to all such subscribers, too.

I like Brisbane's articles; I like to read what David Lawrence writes and what many other writers of the day say, but I think William Randolph Hearst hits the nail right on the head more often than any of them.

I am wondering what the effect would be on the present democrat administration if a European war should break out, as seems likely, with curtailment of crops in this country and a world demand for meat and grain and instead of a surplus, a shortage should be found, due to crop curtailment at the order of the administration. Just what would the people do to the administration at the first opportunity? Your guess is as good as mine.

Edward C. Hunter of Omaha was elected U. S. senator to fill an alleged vacancy, at the recent election. He knew when he filed for the office, that the only chance he would have to sit in the senate would be if an extra session was called before January 1. Senator Thompson of Grand Island was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of Senator Howell. Edward R. Burke of Omaha will take his seat January 1. Now Senator-elect Hunter has gone to Washington, has employed a stenographer, a first assistant secretary, a second assistant secretary, his wife is to be named third assistant secretary and he is allowed to appoint two office building guards. He cannot be sworn in until the senate meets in January, but it is said he will draw his salary after Nov. 6. All those people he appoints will also draw their salaries and mileage from Nebraska to Washington D. C. Say folks, don't you think it is time the people start raising a little hell about that kind of doings?

Already there are numerous statements being made by prominent men regarding the great expense incident to distributing the relief which the government is trying to get to the people in need. And as time goes on there will be more criticism, perhaps serious scandals will develop. That will not be strange. It is not at all strange that it costs so much to administer the relief. It is being done, largely, not only by inexperienced people, inexperienced in handling such a volume of business as they are called upon to handle, but in many cases, perhaps in most cases, it is being done by people who have made a failure of their own much smaller businesses. It is not even reasonable to suppose that a man who has made a failure of his own business could make a success of a larger public business. The plan, however, was to give employment so the government, to be consistent, had to pick managers who were without employment. Of course no group of business men, starting a new business, would pick a manager who had been a failure in his own business but it is different with the government, so how could anything but ultimate failure be expected?

I see that one college professor wants the coming legislature to set up a new outfit of judicial machinery to handle juvenile cases and another man, a state senator-elect, wants a state police system provided to catch the bank robbers and enforce other state laws. No doubt many other plans could be evolved that would take men or women to fill positions, but all these additional so-called improvements will cost a lot of money. Instead of planning for things that will cost more money I believe we should begin to plan ways and means to cut expenses.

Day of Thanksgiving

We already have more taxes than we can pay.

Foreman Harry McBeth, in the back shop, is working all the time he has to spare from other work, on the new cook calendars and from samples of work he has shown me I know it is going to be the best calendar we have ever produced. This will be the 5th cook calendar the Quiz has given to its readers. We are determined to have them completed in time to mail out before Christmas and every subscriber not in arrears will get one through the mail postage prepaid by the Quiz.

When You And I
Were Young
Maggie

25 Years Ago This Week.
 T. Lickly had the concrete foundation and floors laid for a large new hog house he expected to build during the winter. Other improvements in the Ash Grove neighborhood included a new corn crib and granary on the Wm. Aldrich farm and a new barn at Jonas VanWie's.

Mary Galaski, housekeeper in the parish house at Elyria, who was being cared for by Mrs. Finley while under scrutiny by the insanity commission, escaped from her room and later was found near the river, half frozen. She later was committed to the state asylum.

Ulrich Sorenson, Ord aviator, took out a marriage license in Omaha and announced he would retire from the flying business, as it was too dangerous.

Henry Vodehalm lost four of his best horses from cornstalk disease.

The Schwander boys, Date Auble and Wes Rawles left for South Dakota to look over the country with the idea of locating there.

Dramatic attractions of the week in Ord included the plays "Arkansas Traveler" and "East Lynne," given by traveling companies. The Kirksmith Opera company was also to give a musical program.

20 Years Ago This Week.

The question of who would get the postmastership in Ord after January 1 was causing much comment. Rumored candidates included H. M. Davis, Otto Murschel, Will Moses, A. J. Firkins, J. B. Nay and J. A. Ollis. The appointment was to be made by Senator Hitchcock.

The old Ord fire bell, unused for several years, was loaned to the village of North Loup.

The U. P. motor struck an automobile on the Scotia bridge but luckily nobody was hurt.

L. C. Hunter, Ord resident and former member of the original "Michigan settlement" west of town, passed away. Other deaths of the week were Anton Laczka, Joseph Bartos sr., and Dora Buss Hughes.

By defeating Iowa, the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers under Captain Vic Halligan had an undisputed claim to the Missouri valley championship.

THE COOK'S
COL-YUM, YUM!

It is time again to stuff turkeys, make fruit cakes, bake pumpkin pies, stir up the cranberry sauce, syrup, jelly or whatever you make and they like at your house. How do you do it? The Quiz would like to know. Please send in your method if you think it a good one.

Several cooks have sent in similar recipes lately. These cookies must be very good and quite the rage:

Peanut Butter Cookies.

Mix in the order given one cup white sugar one cup brown sugar, one-half cup butter, one-half cup lard, two eggs, one cup peanut butter, one teaspoon vanilla, one teaspoon soda, three cups flour, one-half teaspoon salt. Form into small balls and flatten with a fork. This makes about four dozen cookies.

Mrs. Sam Brickner.

Economy Bread.

At noon soak one cake of yeast, the dry kind, in three cups lukewarm water until soft, then make a soft dough, and let rise in a covered dish until evening, in the evening soak about six slices of dry bread in one gallon of lukewarm water until soft, then add the yeast, a handful of salt, one-half cup sugar, a little lard, and make a soft sponge. Let rise until morning, then stiffen by adding a small amount of flour at a time. This makes eight large loaves of good bread.

Mrs. Herman Koelling.

One Egg Spice Cake.

Rub together one-third cup shortening, one cup sugar, one egg, add one-half teaspoon soda, two-thirds cup sour milk, one and one-fourth cups flour, one-half teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon cloves, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon vanilla.

Mrs. Ben Waterman, Fremont.

Chicken Cutlets.

Mix one pint coarsely chopped chicken, one tablespoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, four tablespoons mushrooms, one teaspoon chopped parsley, one-half teaspoon onion juice, one tablespoon lemon juice. Pour one cup cream into a large frying pan and when it begins to boil stir into it one tablespoon flour and three tablespoons butter which have been rubbed together until smooth. Stir until it boils again, next add the chicken and cook for three minutes. Stir into this two eggs beaten light, take from the fire at once and pour into a flat dish and set in a cold place for an hour, or longer time is better. Shape into cutlets and sprinkle both sides with crumbs. Dip in egg, then in crumbs again. Put in a frying basket and cook in boiling fat for two minutes. Serve with mushroom sauce. Cook the chicken the day before.

Mrs. Alfred Bartunek.

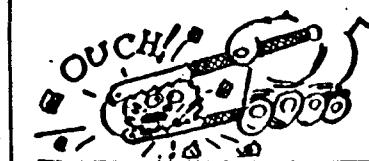

The above recipe makes eighteen cutlets, and Mrs. Bartunek writes they are very nice for winter lunches.

Melcherettes.

Cook together until thick one well beaten egg, one cup sweet milk, three-fourths cup sugar, one-fourth cup butter, four level tablespoons flour and one-half pound chopped dates and figs. Let this mixture cool and spread between graham crackers. These are fine to accompany simple canned or fresh fruit for a home luncheon or dinner.

Mrs. O. M. McClure, Denver.

BACK FORTY

Turkey will be served at many tables during the holiday season.

Prices of other meats have risen, but turkeys are selling for about the same as last year. Twelve and a half cents a pound was the farmers' average selling price for turkey last month. Ord prices have ranged from 13 to 16 cents twice as much back in 1920.

Retail prices of turkey have gone down too. 50 or 60 cents a pound was a common figure a few years ago. The big drop came in January 1933, when turkeys dropped to 10 cents a pound live-weight, less than chicken. This year the price of plucked birds has been in the 20's. There may be some price increase, but no big jump is likely to come.

Turkey supplies are keeping up well this season, in spite of drought which made them much more expensive to feed. A dry season is a good season for baby turkeys. Dampness is bad for them. There will be from 5 to 10 percent fewer turkeys this year than last, but still the turkey supply is above the five year average.

More and larger flocks of turkeys have been raised in recent years. Turkey production has been taken to a stronger hold in this country. Farmers have lately adopted better methods of rearing turkeys. They have found out that turkeys must be kept separate from chickens on account of disease. They have learned to raise turkeys under confinement in sanitary grained yards. Farmers made money in recent years on cheap turkeys because of depression feed prices. They are now getting somewhat better prices by going into the grading and marketing business for themselves on a cooperative basis.

Also the many blanketed figures at football games, for the night games are nippy ones for toes and fingers. Girls in pants at the same place. And the gridiron heroes themselves with cold bare legs, shivering around until they get warmed up. Out of a football huddle it is easy to pick the subs who just went in by this last method: try it, they are the ones who are dancing up and down.

JR. CLASS PLAY 'SHIRTSLEEVES' TO BE GIVEN DEC. 7TH

Domestic Comedy With Fine
Cast Is Junior Offering; Tickets
At Beranek's.

The Junior class play, "Shirtsleeves" will be presented in the high school auditorium Friday evening, December 7.

"Shirtsleeves" is a true domestic comedy. More truly and succinctly than a whole volume of contemporary sociology, it explains the timeliness of the obstacles and the haziness of the ill-defined boundaries between the three estates in American society, and makes clear the ease with which these boundaries are crossed either upward or downward.

The Rand family is the hub of the play. It consists of Franklin and Julia Rand and their four children, Donald, Diana, Theodore and Esther, ranging in age from twenty to fifteen years. Having inherited his modest fortune Franklin Rand, and those dependent upon him, have never realized what economy and teamwork mean to the average family. A bank failure precipitates disaster to the Rand publishing business, and almost over night the family is brought face to face with poverty. The first reaction is that of incredulity, followed by open rebellion on the part of Julia, Donald and Diana. Theodore and Esther as interesting and resourceful a pair of twins as ever graced a home, fight to the last ditch for the despairing father, and are in no small measure responsible for the change of attitude exhibited eventually by the remainder of the family.

To add to their troubles, Donald the social rebel, marries Margie Scanlon, the daughter of a notorious law breaker. Into the maelstrom of disorder and bickering comes Margie, fitted through a life of combat to add new blood to a weakened family organism.

Against overwhelming odds she turns the tide against Richard Crandall, a suave, rascally politician, who would take advantage of the Rand misfortunes to make a tool of Franklin, and finally succeeds in planting the family fortunes on firm ground at the close of the play. This is accomplished in no tailor-made fashion, to pamper the tastes of a public which hankers for a happy ending, but the results are gratifyingly consistent with the materials on hand with which to work.

The cast is as follows: Esther, Evelyn Loft; Theodore, Darrell Noll; Diana, Charlotte Blessing; Norman, Adam Dubas; Franklin, Wilbur Fuss; Julia, Ruth Koupal; Kitty, Ruth Benn; Elmer, William Goff; Donald, LaVerne Hansen; Richard Crandall, Harlan Wyckoff; Margie, Florence Furuk; Midge, Mildred Campbell; Clarissa, Jacqueline Meyers; Omege, Marie Viner; Alpha, Eleanor Verstraete; baggage men, Paul Carlson and Paul Blessing.

Kiddies' Column

The nursery school enrollment has increased to twenty-seven children. The new members are Betty and Sharon Boyce, Carl Carlson, Dean Kokes and Barbara Anderson.

Marilyn Ollis and Edward Whalen treated the first grade class to lollipops in honor of their birthdays last week.

Dean Misko received a perfect score in his self-testing Arithmetic examination.

The normal trainers visited the third grades Thursday morning.

The third grade geography class is studying corn. Several corn products are on exhibit in their rooms.

The second grade had a spelling review test including thirty-two words last Friday. The following students received a perfect score: Marie Boyer, George Sedlacek, Dick Satterfield, Harriet Mazac, Darlene Puncochar, Carolyn Auble, Mary Jane Higgins, Phyllis Anderson, Dorothy Haas, Barbara Parks, Vivian Zikmund and Alice May Hill.

Four new books, "The Little Wooden Farmer," "The White Kitchen," "The Blue Plate" and "Spunky" have been received for the second grade reading table.

Wise and Otherwise

Harold Haskell: Have I any mail?

Postmaster: What is your name?

Harold: Oh, you'll find it on the envelope.

Harry Zukoski: Why do they have knots in the ocean instead of miles?

Mr. Brockman: Well, you see, they couldn't have the ocean tide if there were no knots.

"I've been waiting a whole hour for you to make this sandwich." "What would like on it?"

"My teeth."

Basketball Rules Conference In Ord

O. L. Webb, secretary of the Nebraska High School Athletic association, has designated Ord as a center for a basketball rules conference. The meeting will be held Tuesday evening, December 11, at 7:30 p. m. at Ord high school.

All coaches, school men, players and especially officials are invited to attend.

The basketball meeting will follow the same general plan used in the football conferences. All the new rules, new interpretations, and special suggestions will be explained.

This service is offered by the N. H. S. A. A. in an effort to better serve the schools and the officials.

Court Scene Shown In Ord Convocation

"Order! Order in the court, I say!" shouted Judge LaVerne Lakin as he appeared before convocation last Wednesday, November 21. "The first case to be tried today is that of Miss Dorothy Allen. If she is in the assembly will she please come forward and take the stand?" After being duly sworn in by Balliff Dorothy Fish, the judge continued:

"Miss Allen, you are charged with oversleeping and being late for school. What plausible excuse have you to offer?" After explanation she was sentenced to take the contents of a sack with a glass of water before retiring and she would be positively assured of awakening in time to go to school. The sack contained an alarm clock.

The next culprit to be called to the stand was Darlene Anderson, who was charged with being too obedient and who was sentenced to read a shorthand letter explaining Faye Rashaw's reason for not keeping an appointment, which, incidentally, occurred because Mr. Cass had invited her to spend a seventh period with him in Room 21 because of tardiness.

Virginia Weekes was next called to the stand for stubbing her toe and was sentenced to give a geometry theorem. Evelyn Jorgenson was called to the stand for the petty offense of not being able to sing high "G" in glee club. As a result, her sentence was to sing a song comparing the gum chewing girl and the cud chewing cow.

"Case dismissed for the day. The judge hears his bed calling and he must get his beauty sleep," and so ended one of the most enjoyable convocations of the year.

From the Sidelines!

The Ord Reserves played Scotia last Friday at Ord, the score being 7-0 in Scotia's favor. The Ord boys are planning sweet revenge on the Scotia team when they play them at Scotia Thanksgiving day.

The ping-pong craze is sweeping the school like a house afire. As this paper goes to press the Hi-Y is making arrangements to have the finals of the tournament played before the student body in a convocation.

The students are anxiously waiting for Jack Frost to freeze over the ponds, creeks and rivers so they may enjoy their favorite sport—skating. Will we have our school ice skating rink again this year?

Beware, Loup City! The Chanicleers have been splashing through the mud all week searching for a play that will upset the Loup City team. Because of the hairbreadth wins in the past and the bitter games that are always fought between these two teams, the fans are not giving Loup City even a slight edge over Ord.

Scores in the past have been:

Ord L. C.	Ord L. C.
1924 13 13	1929 7 27
1925 6 0	1930 0 6
1926 6 6	1931 No game
1927 12 13	1932 0 6
1928 No game	1933 14 13

Ord has won two, tied two and lost four games in the past eight games which were played in the last decade. Winning this game would put Ord in the 600 percent class.

Here's the standings in the Loup Valley for this week:

	w. 1. tie 1. pct.
St. Paul	4 1 0 .750
Scotia	4 2 0 .667
Loup City	2 1 0 .667
Arcadia	3 1 500
Taylor	2 2 1 500
ORD	2 2 2 500
Comstock	1 2 1 333
Sargent	0 2 0 0 0
North Loup	0 5 0 0 0

NOTE: Here is a proposed menu for Coach Brockman's team on Turkey Day:

Taters
Apple Salad
Kraft cheese
Eggs
Lemonade
Upside down cake
Pumpkin pie
Cranberries
Ice cream
Tapioca
Yams

EDITORIALS

This week we celebrate another Thanksgiving and many a growl of "What have we to be thankful for" will reverberate up, down and across the continent. There is, of course, much for which to be thankful. The Pilgrims of Plymouth gave thanks for very little in the face of terrible winter, hostile Indians, sickness and death. They were thankful for life and enough to sustain life until spring and to get that little it was work or die. They were so intent upon working hard that they had no time for the petty annoyances that trouble the American people. The pilgrims, however, enjoyed some blessings that are pests to us. They had no money problems, no tariff problems, no political parties, no labor troubles, no gangsters, no kidnapers, no liquor question, no changing styles, no night clubs and no questionable movies.

To my mind, one of the most enjoyable events of the convention occurred at the Missouri-Nebraska game Saturday. Directly in front of our seats was Father Flannigan's band. It was led by a fine appearing negro boy, not more than ten, who was proudly clad in a red silk suit adorned with silver buttons. He was entirely unmindful of the fact that over on the other side of the field was the R. O. T. C. band, but led his band with a confidence and self-assurance that few people possess. The band played when the trick, the sports world would take a severe jolt and the Husker's usual scarlet would turn to a grayish pink." But the last quarter found the Cornhuskers back into the game, working in their usual manner and the balloons, or what had not already soared upward had occasion to ascend in the first of the fourth.

In Ord there is a quiet, modest, hardworking business man who is always interested in every worthwhile project, yet manages to take unto himself very little glory or credit, staying unobtrusively in the background, yet always right there when called on to do his share. This man was named Jacob Roy Stoltz by his parents, and is called variously by his many friends. Sometimes they call him Jake, sometimes they call him Roy. By any title, he continues to work steadily, and accomplish many tasks.

Mr. Stoltz is of Michigan stock, and so is his wife, Alice. He was born and educated there, went to business college, learning to keep books and then kept them for a living. He went to Seattle and worked out there six years, then dropped down to San Francisco and worked there three years and after that tried the variety business in Stanton five years. He came to Ord in 1920 and opened a variety store, and this has been his work since that time, also that of his wife, who helps him daily at the store.

Mrs. Stoltz came to Nebraska as a small girl, living near Silver Creek. Having secured an education, she taught a while, a few years elsewhere and then year or two in Ord. Mr. and Mrs. Stoltz were married in Ord, and finally came back here to settle down. They have one son, Rodney, who was keen student in high school, entering into many activities from football, basketball, and dramatics to the school annual. Rodney is now pursuing his third year's study at Nebraska Wesleyan university in Lincoln, where he is continuing the fine record he made in Ord high school.

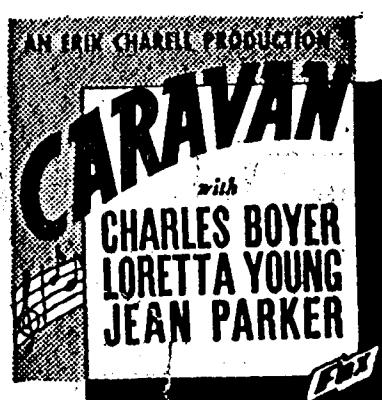

Always a dependable friend of the Ord school, Mr. Stoltz served on the school board a number of terms, and as member of the board of education aided in the construction of the fine high school Ord students now enjoy. Such a time entails a great deal of work, work at no fee, too, but the members of this board, and Mr. Stoltz were happy because of the results they achieved.

A charter member of the Ord Rotary club, Mr. Stoltz has been a faithful attendant at meetings and a wholehearted booster of both that organization and the town in general whenever he had a chance. He has tried to improve our city through another channel, also that of the Chamber of Commerce to which he belongs, taking his responsibilities seriously. He belongs to the Masonic Lodge, and here again he may be depended upon for a lot of hard work and very little conversation about it.

Mrs. Martha Mutter and Mrs. Will McLain are in Burwell today as guests in the W. C. Parsons home.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Clark were visiting Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sinkler near North Loup.

VICTOR FEED
Next week we will have another car of Victor Dairy Feed, Cattle Nuggets and Horse Feed. Come in and take a look at this feed and get the prices. We have many satisfied customers and they are getting more for their money than most of the feed being sold.

LAYING MASH
We have a good Laying Mash that we make and it is really cheaper than you can buy the ingredients and make the Mash yourselves. Pullets and Hens should be fed a Laying Mash at this time of the year.

FLOWER SHOW
Read our other ad for an invitation to our Flower Show next Tuesday. We want to be your guest.

SILVER STRIKE
We give Silver Strike tickets. Ask for details.

ALTHOUGH MASONRY SILOS ABOVE THE GROUND ARE ATTRACTIVE, THERE WAS NEITHER THE TIME NOR MONEY LAST SUMMER IN THIS STATE TO BUILD SUCH STRUCTURES. SO THE QUICK AND CHEAP TRENCH WAS DRAINED INTO THE PICTURE, AND BEFORE WINTER IS OVER IT WILL HAVE MADE A PLACE FOR ITSELF IN HELPING NEBRASKA KEEP BETTER LIVESTOCK FOR THE FUTURE.

Trench Silos Are Popular This Year

Lincoln, Nebr., Drought has joined with the college of agriculture in a campaign to have Nebraska farmers use the cheap and easily built trench silo. Because these silos will keep feed in good shape without a great outlay of money their number has more than doubled in the state since the dry weather burned the crops.

Such silos are quickly and cheaply constructed. They can be dug at a cost of 10 to 12 cents for each ton of capacity. In many places last summer farmers used their own tractors or teams to dig the trenches at practically no direct cost.

By storing feed in this kind of silo it is free from all danger of weather spoilage. If only part of it should be used, the rest can be held over for several years without hurting the quality of the ensilage.

Some five years ago the college of agriculture built two trench silos, and has experimented with them since. The professors and workers have issued a thorough bulletin on the subject, and encouraged such units to the extent of asking for an extra trench silo on every farm. They believe if this silo could be kept full for emergency years, it would be the best kind of insurance for a farmer against drought feed shortage.

Trench silos are simply holes in the ground. They are usually about 10 feet deep, 12 to 14 feet wide at the top, and 2 or 3 feet narrower at the bottom. Their length may be only 40 feet or may be 300 feet, depending on the storage capacity desired. Most silos of this kind hold 100 tons of ensilage, though those at the University will store 300 tons each.

Citizens of Nebraska on Sunday driven this fall may notice long mounds of earth, like great mole burrows. They may know that nearby is a supply of good ensilage stored for future use on that farm. Up to 1934 there were supposed to be about 4,000 trench silos in Nebraska, but during the few months just passed that number has grown twice as large.

Cuming county seems to lead the list with an increase of 500 such units; while Cedar county has 200 new ones. Late summer found 150 silos of this nature in Hamilton county filled with Russian thistle ensilage. Even the University had added another huge trench to its storage for reserve feed.

As a cover for the silo, straw or low-grade hay is often used. The University agricultural experiments have shown, however, that dirt is the cover par excellence. Three or four inches of it over the top does a complete job of sealing and eliminates practically all waste.

Although masonry silos above the ground are attractive, there was neither the time nor money last summer in this state to build such structures. So the quick and cheap trench was drafted into the picture, and before winter is over it will have made a place for itself in helping Nebraska keep better livestock for the future.
