LET'S STOP THE FLOOD.

The federal government, we note, is spending millions of dollars in the south to stop floods. From the observation of this editor the government is also spending millions of dollars to keep another flood going—the flood of free publicity material that it mails out every day and week to the Quiz and all other newspaper offices throughout the land.

The past week has been normal in respect to free governmental publicity material and we have kept track of the amount coming to our desk. If all the "news" material sent by federal bureaus with requests that it be published in the Quiz had been printed the Quiz would be four pages larger today than it is.

First exhibit is a sheet from the Bureau of Internal Revenue, dealing with income taxes. The sheet is 34 inches long and 18 inches wide, and contains 30 articles about income taxes, each about a half-column in length. It would require two pages of Quiz space to print the entire series.

Other "news" stories arrive from the Treasury department, Navy department, AAA, NRA, FCA, FHA, War department, Postoffice department and a dozen other departments and alphabetical administrations. It must cost the government millions of dollars yearly to print and mimeograph this mass of verbiage, written by high-salaried pseudo-experts. The postoffice department carries it free, which helps add to the fabulous postal deficit.

The government expects newspapers to print this useless dogma free of charge as a patriotic duty yet by selling printed envelopes and by encouraging the use of advertising circulars the government is doing its best to ruin printers financially. Always a great publicity-grabber, the government is worse in this year of 1935, A. R. (after Roosevelt), than ever before.

Yes, flood control work is needed, all right. Let's start on the free publicity flood.

WHOSE DEBT? YOURS!

Do you realize that you owe $224? Don't say you don't owe it, because you do. Regardless of your age, be it 1 or 100, you owe $224 if you are a citizen of the United States even though your house is paid for, you have all your personal and business debts paid and have money in the bank. And in just a few months you'll owe $48 more than you do now.

The $224 that you owe now is your share of the federal debt. As a nation the United States owes a public debt of $28,000,000,000. (Twenty-eight billions of dollars, in case that long string of naughts confuses you.) Within a few months your share of the public debt will increase to $272 because the public debt itself will increase by six billions at the beginning of the next fiscal year. For each billion the public debt increases you will owe $8.00 more.

As a matter of fact you owe considerably more than $224 because that is your share of the federal public debt only and you also owe your proportionate share of the state, county, city, township and school district debts. The aggregate debt of federal, state and local governments in this country is 48 billions so you actually owe in the neighborhood of $385.

Makes you stop to think, doesn't it? Maybe you've been supposing that the public debt hasn't anything to do with you but it has. A public debt really is a collective debt of all the 125 million people in the United States and as long as it exists no man really is debt-free.

When the World War started this country was practically out of debt, as public debts go. We owed only about 1-1/2 billions, or about $10 per capita. During the war our public debt increased to over 26 billions, which was reduced in the prosperous years of 1919 to 1929 until it was only about 8 billions. Then came the depression and the debt has been rising ever since. Evidently it will continue to rise for some time to come.

As a nation we're not so badly off, at that. Great Britain, for instance, has a per capita debt of $991. France and Germany would have immense and unpayable debts had they not devaluated the franc and the mark. Even so their public debts are larger than ours.

There is no immediate cause for worry about our public debt nor about the fact that inevitably it must rise. The United States is the wealthiest nation in the world and when we get this depression licked we can turn our efforts toward licking the public debt.

appropriating billions for public works and to relieve unemployment, build up our army and navy and do a thousand-and-one other things, they are inevitably increasing the debt which we must pay eventually. When our school district votes bonds for a new school house? it is piling up a public debt that we must pay. Nobody will ever pay our public debt but us. Let's not forget that during the orgy of spending that is now going on.

THE 30-HOUR WEEK.

One of the most serious threats to economic recovery in the United States is presented by a 30-hour week bill introduced in Congress on January 6 by Senator Black. This bill, if it becomes law, will cut the working week to 30 hours in every business institution and manufacturing establishment in the country. Business, already overburdened with increased expenses incident to the NRA will be struck a vital blow if the 30-hour week bill is passed by Congress.

Too many people, unaware of the danger, are apathetic toward this dangerous and un-American proposal. They feel that Congress won't seriously consider passing such a law. Yet the danger is very real.

Consider the facts: The 30-hour week bill is already before Congress. It is officially demanded by all the union labor organizations.

Consider the history of this labor movement: The 30-hour week bill is not inspired by the administration but on April 6, 1933, a 30-hour week bill sponsored by Senator Black actually passed the Senate while a similar measure in the House failed to reach a vote only because it was sidetracked for the administration-sponsored NRA. Today, during the 74th session of Congress, the plan is still alive and kicking.

What would the 30-hour week do to business? Well, for example, let's consider its probable effect upon the publishing and printing business. The 30-hour week would impose a payroll increase of $35,000,000 in the 13,368 non-metropolitan establishments of which the Quiz is one. Or, in other words, our payroll would be increased 33-1/3 per cent, for it is proposed to require employers to pay 40-hour-week wages to employees who work only 30 hours. The proposal would bankrupt a large percentage of printing and publishing businesses in Nebraska, as well as in all other states. Wouldn't it have a similar effect upon employers of labor in other manufacturing lines?

What about its effect on the farmer? It is hardly to be expected that union officials who are demanding the 30-hour week expect it to apply to farmers also. Although the farmer would thus not get any more leisure, he would find himself confronted with higher prices for everything he would have to purchase. The rise in prices would affect him both as a producer and as a consumer, as the rise in his operating costs would reduce his money income while the purchasing power of this money income would be sharply curtailed as a result of the rising level of prices.

Since the beginning of the depression, hours of labor have already been reduced 20 per cent by the NRA. The 30-hour week would cut productive time down 40 per cent.

The 30-hour week must not be adopted. The greediness of union labor must be curtailed. An honest week's work for an honest wage must be re-established as the American principle of business is to survive. The Quiz calls upon its readers, both business men and farmers, to awake to the danger before it is too late and file, by letter and telegram, vigorous protests against passage of the 30-hour week with every Nebraska congressman and senator.

CARE OF COUNTY BOARD

By George Gowen

Dear Jake:
To Ord with Nostle Jones aboard Sheldon's oil truck. Stopping at Fred Meyers' to deliver gas, and seeing a dog as large as a bull calf.

Loafing a minute to chin the editor and admiring that slick, good natured, curly brown Chesapeake. Some day I am going to take my Collie and show him off. He has a pedigree too, that resembles a book account, but is a home-loving soul, and seldom ventures far. My wife says I have a dog complex.

Our errands performed, we embarked for home, leaving the city at the same moment the freight was puffing out. Nothing to see but to race the old steamer, and we suspected the engineer caught the spirit too, for the old black horse surely came a-snorting down the track.

"Weather" or Not

lap, to the next crossing, but the train had to stop at Olean to let the motor pass. We won easily.

Well do I recall, once when I was a small boy of eight or ten, how we went to Ord on the train to a celebration. A special was run back to North Loup in the evening to carry us North Loupers home. In my wild hilarity I nearly missed the train, but thanks to Levi Hamilton it waited for me to run madly from the square while the engineer tooted encouragement.

But what I was trying to say, is as we left town, a young fellow named Crawford Mortensen, whose folks were old time friends of my folks, had a new car and for a mile or two out of town he raced the train. The train won easily. How the crowd on the coach stretched their necks out the windows and looked ahead at the young dare-devil, tearing down the road at thirty miles an hour, and I distinctly remember my folks shaking their heads and sadly remarking how he would kill himself some time with that fast driving.

Now he is one of the big bankers. I have been contemplating for several weeks asking him to loan me a few hundred. My security may be a little weak, but I am just going to remind him of the report put out by the government a short time ago as to how the income of the farmers is the largest this year of many past. For some reason I had not discovered that phase of my operations until I read it in the papers. Surely, Crawford ought to loan me money when the government, which is strictly unbiased, assures him of my condition.

A story, the authenticity of which I cannot vouch, is told on one of the Czars. They were planning to build the Siberian Railroad. Some sections were parleying over whether to have it go one way, taking in certain towns, and fertile valleys, or whether to build it another route, accommodating other important centers.

Finally the Czar became a little disgusted. The jangling was interfering with his imperial balls. He grabbed a ruler and laid it out to touch on the map both terminals and taking a pencil he drew a straight mark across country, issuing the ukase, "Make it there."

And there it was made, resulting in the longest straight railroad in the world. Now Jake, what do you suppose recalled that yarn to my mind? Could our present road building system, and more specifically the proposed highway to Mira Valley west of North Loup, have anything to do with it?

Attending the corn-bog meeting at Scotia, I listened avidly every minute I was awake at the speeches, and I concluded the sweetest sounding words in the English vocabulary are "and in conclusion."

One man, Geo. Holt, tearing up the atmosphere injected a few fire works into the gathering by condemning the whole program, and calling the democrats anything but endeavoring sobriquets. I couldn't help but about half agree with the wild speaker who was nearly booted out of the hall except that I feel if the democrats are going to pass out their Christmas presents, I am just fool enough to take them, and if the program does turn out to be our salvation, I hope I am not so biased I will not give them the credit.

We Are Sorry. In the obituary of Mrs. Mary Bower last week it was stated that two children, Mrs. Matilda Mach and John Bower, Jr., preceded her in death. This was an error, as both are living. Mrs. Mach resides in the west part of Valley county and John lives at home. We are sorry about this error.

QUIZ FORUM

Vetos Child Labor Law.

To the Editor of the Quiz: I don't often disagree with the Quiz editor but this time I will have to. From a farmer's standpoint, as I view the question, the Nebraska legislature should not ratify the child labor amendment to the constitution. Conditions vary so much in different states that no law could fit all of them. Why not let every state make its own child labor laws? Our state is far different than New York or the southern states. Uncle Sam is all right to borrow money from when things go wrong, or give us an old age pension, but we don't need him for a father to our children. The editor says farmers are signing petitions against the amendment and I surely hope they are. The editor thinks it won't apply to farmers but if not, then why did the sponsors of this law get so scared when they were asked to cut out the part pertaining to farm child labor? The Grange has declared against ratification of this amendment and so has the Farmers Union. I think Nebraska parents are well qualified to look after their kids without an agent from the U. S. government snooping around to see how it is done. If that passes some government radical can keep our children idle until they are 18 years old. Why take a chance; leave good enough alone. My children have worked with their parents and learned how to run a farm or dairy before they were 18. The labor unions are for this amendment strong. Their idea is to make a shortage of labor which will bring higher labor prices and you know how that hits the farmer. With many other full grown men I worked on the farm and liked it long before I was 18 and was running a farm myself when I was 18 which I think was better than loafing or thinking of cussedness (I found enough of that as I was). Well, brother farmers, I hope you will keep right on signing these petitions and sending them in until our legislature takes notice and turns down the amendment.

Yours truly,
ERNEST S. COATS.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Liver used to be much spurned... the butcher would give it to you with the meat you bought, they tell me, in the olden days. But liver now sells for as much as or more than other meats and is greatly sought after since the many discoveries as to the value of liver in treatment of many illnesses, and its general good effect on health.

Many people do not like liver, find it objectionable. So if you have any recipes for cooking liver that make it more palatable, it would be a great kindness to others if you would send them to the Quiz.

Liver Loaf.

Scald one pound of liver, let it stand in the hot water about ten minutes, grind and add one-half pound pork sausage, one thick slice of bread soaked in one cup of milk, then put in one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, one-half teaspoon allspice, one ground onion. Mix all together, put in a buttered baking dish and bake for one and one-half hours in a moderate oven.

Scalloped Onions.

Peel and slice four large onions. Cook in salted water until nearly done. Put in a buttered baking dish, with a layer of cooked onions, butter, salt, pepper and cracked crumbs. Cover with rich milk, dot with butter and cook like oysters.

Sweet Potatoes and Pineapple.

Mix together two cups mashed, cooked, sweet potatoes, one cup shredded pineapple, two tablespoons brown sugar, two tablespoons butter and bake until slightly brown. Cover the top with marshmallows and return to the oven until they are puffy and slightly brown.

Mrs. Robert Noll. Ginger Snaps.

Combine one cup sugar, one cup butter or lard, one cup sorghum, one tablespoon ginger and cinnamon, one teaspoon soda, one-third cup boiling water, then put in enough flour to make a stiff dough. Pinch off a piece the size of a marble and roll in the palms of your hands. Put in a pan and leave room enough for them to flatten. Bake in a moderate oven. They crack open on top, like houghten ones.

Mrs. Joe Yarra. Apricot Marmalade.

Wash one pound of dried apricots thoroughly and soak overnight. Cook until tender in the same water in which they were soaked. Press through a soup strainer and add two and one-half cups strained appleauce. Meanwhile make a syrup of five cups sugar and one cup water, and when it is quite thick, add the fruit and cook down to the consistency of marmalade.

Mrs. Frank Gross, Albion. Beaver Made Wealth.

Whatever its present status, the beaver may accurately claim he gave to our forebears luxuries and wealth and that his western cousins gave Oregon, Washington, Idaho and part of Montana to the United States.

Fackler, the Grocer, was moving into his new place one door west of his old location, which gave Milford a lot more room for his growing cloak and suit business.

The contemplated trip to Mexico of J. S. Collison and W. Misko failed to materialize when they missed connections in Kansas City. Misko had been visiting Charlie in Valparaiso, Ind., and when he missed Collison in Kansas City he bought a ticket to Ord.

In 1909, 234 farm mortgages totaling $536,000 were filed in Valley county, the clerk's records showed.

H. D. Leggett gave up his job on the road and acquired an interest in the Ord Lumber company, moving his family to Ord.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

20 Years Ago This Week. A sleet and ice storm, accompanied by a heavy wind, struck Valley county and almost every rural telephone line was put out of commission as well as several lines in Ord. This storm was followed by the sixth bad snow storm of the winter.

John and Joseph Carkoski left for New York to visit John's brother, Martin, whom he had last seen 46 years before in Germany. The First National Bank installed a modern bookkeeping machine. George Lovel went a Shetland pony in a voting contest. P. C. Perryman and Jim Milford left for Chicago to attend the style show.

Mrs. Mabel Oliver and Harry Tolen were married. Louis Kokes, member of the hardware firm of Vondracek & Kokes of Sargent, was married by Judge Haggart of St. Paul to Miss Antonia Miller. Their marriage had the distinction of being the first solemnized in the new Howard county court house.

25 Years Ago This Week. Because of ill health Dr. Bamford resigned as pastor of the Ord Methodist church. Rudolph Sorensen and family went to Seward where Rudolph had purchased a store. Conrad Boettger, one of Mira Valley's most prominent farmers, died at the age of 69.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

Pathfinder says that it has been estimated that the share of the world court expense which the United States would have to pay is only about $80,000.00 a year. As there are now something over fifty nations in the court, it looks to me like it was going to be a pretty expensive court to be in. Courting must come high over at the Hague. It is a good thing we stayed out.

If the United States supreme court decides that it is bigger than the government it will probably decide against the government on the gold question. We will see.

Former Vice President Dawes says the depression is practically over. If we could all get a government handout like he did it would be over for us too.

A great majority of those who so strongly favor the Townsend old age pension plan, have never had anything like $200 per month to spend. No doubt in many instances one fourth that amount would keep them in better style than they have ever lived in their whole lives.

Eight of the best handwriting experts in the country swore that Bruno Hauptman wrote the Lindbergh ransom notes. Then defense experts just as emphatically swore that he did not write them. The jury will have to decide. It seems that so-called experts can be hired to prove anything. Their testimony doesn't rate very high with me.

E. A. Cudahy, who just celebrated his 75th birthday, got his first job in the packing business when he was 12 years old and has been at the job ever since. Evidently he did not get a college education, in fact, he could not have even gone through high school, yet he has long been an outstanding success in the world of big business. He is now chairman of the board of the great Cudahy Packing company. I am wondering whether Mr. Cudahy could have made a greater success if he had received a modern education, including all the football, basketball and other trills. Perhaps it would have spoiled him entirely.

As a matter of fact it is my firm belief that a boy who is destined to make a success, one who is willing and anxious to work and does so, will get to the front, regardless. I think the more education he can get the better, provided he is educated to work and not to believe that the world owes him a living at a white collar job with a lot of pay and very little work. Good, common horse sense and plenty of hard work will make up for the lack of a lot of so-called modern education.

Law won't often make us good but it will almost always make us wish we had been more careful.

Fred Howard says if anyone knows any new words that can be used in talking to a balky motor, to please send them in. I heard Freeman Haught using some of the words Fred wants to know the other day, but as I don't have any asbestos paper handy, can't send them in.

I am warned by a friend in Washington that the 30-hour week is likely to become the law of the land. There are 468 hours in every week and if we just work 30 hours, it leaves 138 hours to rest, sleep and raise hell. Most of us get along nicely with 9 hours a day sleep or a total of 63 hours, which still leaves 75 hours a week for rest and recreation. I know one thing, the boss will not be able to make a success of his business with less than double the 30 hours of work.

I see that someone has introduced a bill in the legislature to allow trucks to be built 45 feet long, or ten feet longer than the law now permits. I thought the public believed that trucks were already too large.

Our subscribers have been mighty good lately, paying their subscriptions. Probably those who have not paid, just didn't have the money to spare. I do want them to have a cook calendar though and there are not many left. If you read the ads and take advantage of the specials you can much more than save the price of the Quiz all the time, on just your grocery purchases. I don't want to take a single name off, but there are some that will have to come off unless they get in here. "It takes money to buy whiskey" is an old saying, and it takes money to run a newspaper, too.

A Clay Center man, getting FERA relief, wanted some more coal and the government man told him there was no more coal until next month and advised him to pick up cow chips to burn. The man said he had already been doing that and was told to go home and pick them a little closer. He replied that he couldn't do that without getting kicked.

I believe that some good, aggressive action on the part of local business men and influential farmers, led by the chairman of the democratic central committee and other leading democrats, would land for Ord a farmstead project. Business hereabouts would be improved if we could get the government to purchase a couple of hundred good, level acres near Ord and build on each 10 acres of it a homestead such as it is building in other counties of Nebraska. One thing is reasonably sure, if we don't get it we won't get it. I am believing it is largely a matter of politics.

If the newspaper boys of Nebraska, who are selling their papers for $1, $1.50, in fact, some of them for 75c a year, will spend a few hours, as I did recently, finding out just what it costs over a year period, to produce a paper for each subscriber, they will at once revise their prices upward. No Nebraska weekly newspaper should be sold for less than $2.00 and at that a large slice has to be taken from the commercial printing department, or advertising. I don't believe there is a weekly in Nebraska where the $2 the subscriber pays will meet half the cost of that subscriber's copy of the paper.

Something Different

The Bud Auble's spotted coach dog Pal had a clown-like black ring around one eye which on him by nature, and Elwin decided to help the effect along, so he took some black paint and a brush and painted a ring around the other eye and the nose piece to the glasses, too.

Three shiny new bicycles lean against the rear of the Paul Dueney home quite often, leading to considerable speculation as to why. They look so inviting I am likely to borrow one. Especially on lovely days like these.

Ellen Catherine Satterfield, little lady who was so sick last winter with serious gland complications, now weighs 31 pounds, the most yet. Her throat troubles and lengthy illness made her very frail, but she is slowly fighting her way back to good health.

If you are hard to suit when it comes to food, listen to this tale and be thankful for what you have. This will make you feel like a glutton:

One Ord man, father of a sizeable family, says at his house this winter they are living on two things, bread and fried onions. That is all they have, and they wouldn't have that if a son hadn't raised a garden last summer, out of which all that now remains are plenty of onions. Yes, the father has work, part of the time, but it doesn't pay much and there are many mouths to feed.

Mrs. Molly Partridge is getting to do what lots of middle aged people always want to do but usually can't.

Having settled her daughter comfortably and turned over her business to someone else to run, Mrs. Partridge is able to take a rest. She can quit working, have a change. She can travel a little and see some relatives quite a way from Ord. She can have some fun, and abandon work to those younger and better able to do it.

Most couples, or individuals, go through life, planning, "some day, when I can, I'd like to..." and quite often, Father Time trips them up on these plans, and they are never accomplished. I think it is fine to be able to realize these ambitions, though darned few of us ever get to do it.

The business women deserve a big mass of orchids, or spinach, or something they like, for securing such a big crowd for their benefit. They are a bunch of go-getters. Doing something that long needed doing, they have proved they are no slouches about going to it. The women's room in the court house is going to be furnished soon or they'll know the reason why.

That evening was certainly worth more than 15c to everyone there. I am only sorry the girls didn't charge a lot more. The movies are always 25c, an entertainment of any kind is worth more than that. And beside cards and a chance for a prize, those business girls served some elegant doughnuts and coffee... the lunch was worth 15c.

That score-acquiring basketball team at the high school is tiring up public interest and booting in our city such as has not been known for several seasons. Those long-legged Ordites can do anything with that ball, it seems, but a big share of the time it seems to be flying through that iron hoop that plies the scores one on another.

To bad their first half game against Grand Island wasn't like the superior playing they did the last half, and their string of victories would have been complete.

Ord's ministers are men of wide interests, did that ever occur to you? Among the things they enjoy, and excel at are woodworking, reading widely, working with young people, reading Gaelic and poetry, training dogs and horses to do tricks, following baseball games closely. Then on behalf of one member of this group, I could probably add the usual feminine pursuits of cooking, sewing, house-keeping, fitting tasks for her we think, but they would look queer added to the above sentence if you didn't know we had a lady preacher in our city.

The Work Sheet

By GEORGE GOWAN "The Roving Reporter"

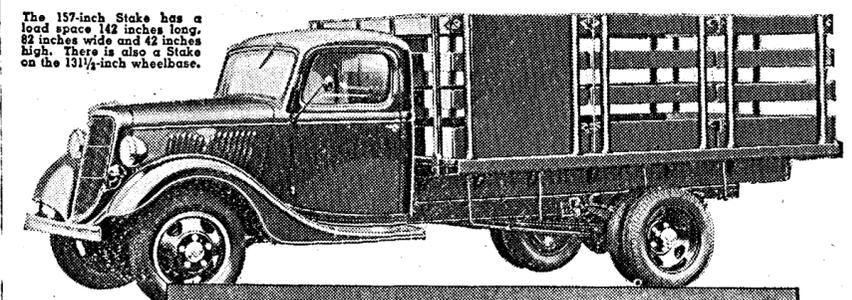

Leaving home at one thirty to attend my devours as chief hand-shaker and investigator for the Quiz. Deciding to attack and practice on my neighbors first. Driving south 1/2 mile to Bill Schudel's. Bill is one of the big corn-hog men in Greeley county, and his wife hailed from the Valley county city. A brand spanking new home, furnished the nicest of any I know. A fine farm and fine equipment. Lucky girl. And Bill not so unfortunate either. They couldn't live without the Quiz. Then east to Claude Thomas'. Ah! ah! I never thought such a fine fellow would be without the paper. He drags the roads with his new rubber tired tractor, and says it hikes along much faster and does not leave the lug marks the old tractor did. He has built a fine shop for his boys to play in, and there they were dismantling an old car, Perhaps better than on the street he thinks. South to Walter Placke's. About a month ago he fell off a wagon and nearly killed himself. Not well yet, but better. Jim Brannon is doing his chores. He says he has read the Quiz for forty years. Read it when there were two papers run by two Haskell Brothers, one the Quiz and one the Blizzard, and they use to say mean things about each other. And the farm! One of the prettiest in the country. Tall cottonwoods arching the driveway, and throwing protecting arms about the buildings on all sides. On south to St Kriewald's. They too are on the list. Tall trees, planted by old man Shepherd (who was not so old then), in 1871, before Ord or North Loup were born. He told me once he carried all the trees from the river in one hand. He has three fine kinds, some nice horses and cattle, but his dogs are fierce and unwelcoming. East and across the road to another old place, the buildings now rented to Ralph Mitchell and he gets his mail at Scotia. Even at that he borrows Placke's Quiz and thinks it is a fine paper. He has three geese, one with red feet and legs and the others with yellow. They insisted on doing the talking and for once in my life I was bested. On east and south to Frank Schudel's. He has a nice new stucco house. A fine fellow whose health handicaps him so that he cannot farm and has to substitute by selling cars. His yard was littered with second hand ones, and I am going to tell him of the good one an ad in the Quiz might do. And too bad, too bad. He has to read his brother's paper or miss one of the joys of life. Turning back toward home it dawned on me that not one of these fine farms are harrassed with a blood-sucking mortgage. To the west, living beside the ever flowing river is Gus Wetzel, the gardener. He and his wife are always tolling and always friendly. It is much more fun to carry there buying vegetables than to grow them in my own garden. Gus has trouble in finding a garden horse that is slow and not clumsy. I told him if he did not feed them so much it might help. Fat horses like Gus's are apt to feel good. On north past my mail box to Alfred Christensen's. Another old place with tall trees. Old man Stewart would turn over in his grave if he knew how they are being cut. Luckily he does not know. Alfred is one of the few fellows in the county who had a field of corn. Grew down on the river. Some corn and a lot of fodder. Put it all in a silo, and he plans to make a little money by keeping a hundred head of cattle over. And a few fine horses too. Offered $170.00 for one mare last year. Not for sale, he says. On north again to Bryan Portis'. Five dandy kids. The last two twins. And one of the best kid Dads I know. Why, you ask? Because he allows them to keep a few pets. A pony, a goat, two old dogs and ten pups. One Dad in a hundred. On north to Albert Brown. The friendliest folks on the road. Never too busy to visit, but their work always done. New subscribers. Just couldn't live without the paper they say. They can trade in any one of the three towns. They consult the papers for the ads, and trade in the town they can do the best. North again to see bachelor Julius Schoning, where he and the parrot greeted me with a smile. His father homesteaded there before North Loup or Ord were heard of. The other men came, took their claims and returned for their reading them once to pay for the paper for the whole year. Pearl has some nice Leghorn hens, which he proceeded to worm and then the hens proceeded to cease laying. He said next time he believed he would let the hens keep the worms. On north to Rolla Babcock's. Another old place with tall cottonwoods. I have always been envious of this farm. Such trees make life so much more worth living. And Rolla raises those pure bred Holsteins, that fill the pall without half trying. Rolla is a fine fellow, and a good judge of stock, but no better judge of stock than he was of women when he picked a bride about a year ago. He, Ray Kearns, and Hank Laylor were cutting ice on the old mill pond back of Rolla's barn. On north to where Bert Craft is building a new home on the identical spot where John Sheldon had his homestead house some sixty-four years ago. Nothing remains except a few mammoth cottonwoods, and Bert thinks if it was a good site then it is now. Bert is building a new house when something like a dozen old ones are standing idle in town, but who would buy a second hand one if there was any possible way of building new. On to town, and to the cheese factory. Art Hutchins said he believed he would have to subscribe for the Quiz for they have given him two very nice write ups lately. Each week he has to borrow his folks' paper to read and that is getting to be an old story. Art has done pretty well with the cheese factory. It is one of the very few in the state that has not gone down with the depression, and this one has made a little money. Harry Meyers, the crack milk hauler who goes up Mira Valley to Arcadia and points beyond said if I would give him a good write up in the paper he would subscribe. I told him we would dedicate a whole week's edition to him if necessary and run his name in headlines. There was something about Harry breaking down out in the country one cold day. So anxious to keep going and make his route, he just took his truck right into a lady's kitchen to fix it. And then his chief assistant and can hauler, Ivan Miller said something about having a girl in Greeley county, but if I am any judge I'd say he has a girl in every port. Mrs. Misko Recovering. —Mrs. Will Misko returned to her home in Ord Sunday evening after undergoing a major operation in St. Elizabeth's hospital, Lincoln. She is recovering nicely.

The 1935 FORD V-8 TRUCK

NOW ON DISPLAY AND READY FOR DELIVERY

For 1935, Ford has added many important improvements to the Ford V-8 Truck. Chief among these is better balanced load distribution. The load-center has been moved farther forward, resulting in less body overhang, better braking and more uniform tire and brake wear. The brakes have been newly designed for quicker, smoother stops with heavy loads. They will not "fade" even when making quick stops in rapid succession. The cast iron brake drums have integral cooling ribs which dissipate heat faster and minimize distortion. The new clutch has a diameter of 11 inches and a larger frictional area. Pedal pressure is lower at idling speeds. Plate pressure increases by centrifugal force as the speed of the engine increases. This is a new type of clutch developed by Ford engineers. Crankcase ventilation has been added to the engine. No other change has been made in this engine, which has proved so economical and reliable in the hands of owners. The cooling system has been improved; the radiator is wider and water pump impellers are larger. Appearance has been materially improved. Fenders are skirled and finished in baked enamel colors that match the hood and cab. The new cab has a sloping windshield. Passenger-car comfort has been provided for the driver. The seat is adjustable, and its width has been increased to 49 inches. Safety Glass is standard equipment throughout. Triple ventilation includes (1) Clear-Vision Ventilation in door windows; (2) Easy-opening windshield; (3) Large screened cowl ventilator. The interior of the cab is completely lined. The roof and dash are insulated. Ask your Ford dealer to arrange an "on-the-job" test with your own loads, over your own routes, with your own driver at the wheel. Prove to yourself how V-8 Performance and Economy will save time and money for you.

WE DON'T HAVE TO SELL YOU ON THE IDEA THAT Meat Is Delicious You know that meat is good and that every member of the family for which you cook likes it better than most any other food. You also know that meat "sticks to the ribs," is vitally necessary because of food elements it contains. That part of our selling job is already done. What we want to do is convince you that you should buy your meat at our market. We want you to know that our market is clean and sanitary, that we buy and butcher only the best of home-fattened beef and pork, that our prices are always the lowest at which quality meats can be sold. Meat prices are higher, we know, so it is important for you to get the worth of every penny when you buy meat. No freight rates to Omaha and back when you buy meat here. Just good meat, sold at honest prices. Pecenka & Perlinski MEAT MARKET

Junior Matrons Have Scavenger Hunt

Sunday evening an unusual and interesting party was given by the Junior Matrons in honor of their husbands. The cocktail course was served in the August Peterson home, after which guests went to the A. J. Auble home for dinner. Guests then were divided into groups of four and a scavenger hunt was staged, all being instructed to report to the Emil Fafetta home not later than 10:15 for dessert. Mrs. A. J. Auble, Mrs. E. L. Vogelanz, Frank Johnson and Orville Sowl composed the winning group, bringing back, in less than an hour, all the articles required, which included a live fish, a button shoe, a fried pork chop, a raw oyster, a car battery and a silk hat. After the dessert course was served at the Fafetta home five members were initiated, Mrs. R. V. Sweet, Mrs. O. H. Sowl, Mrs. J. H. Jirak, Mrs. Ed Whelan and Mrs. E. Fafetta. The Junior Matrons club is one of Ord's oldest social organizations and has entertained at many parties but members feel the party Sunday evening was one of the most enjoyable ever held.

Junior Orchestra Makes Its Debut

The Presbyterian junior orchestra, organized and directed by Edwin P. Clements, made its debut Sunday evening at union services in the Presbyterian church. Members of this orchestra range in age from 11 to 13. The personnel includes: Violins—Marilyn Dale, Eleanor Wolf, Patricia Frazier, Lorene Rose; flute—Jeanette Clements; cornets—Edwin Hitchman, Capron Coe; saxophone—Joe Capron; clarinets—Edward Sweet, Eloise Norris, Martina Blemond, Beverly Real, Lyle Flagg, Everet Petty, Edlon Mouser; drums—David Milliken. Mrs. Edwin Clements is pianist and the orchestra was assisted in its first concert by H. W. Travis, violinist. The concert was greatly enjoyed by a large crowd.

Obituary

Mrs. Ed. M. Tunncliff, mother of A. W. Tunncliff of Ord, passed away at the family home at Burwell Saturday morning, Febr. 2, at the age of 78 years. She was the daughter of Adam and Agnes Oltzer and was born at Elmira, Ill., January 28, 1857. Her parents were members of the original group of Scotch immigrants who came over in 1836 and established the rather extensive Scotch settlement which surrounds Elmira.

Early in life she became a member of the United Presbyterian church of Elmira, later transferring her membership to the Methodist Episcopal church. On November 23, 1883 she was united in marriage to Ed M. Tunncliff of Kewanee, Ill. In 1886 they moved westward to a farm at Harvard, Nebr., where they resided for ten years. In 1896 they came by covered wagon to a ranch in northern Garfield county, moving to Burwell one year later where they remained until April, 1905, when they took up residence at Castle Rock, Colo. After living nine years in Colorado they returned to Burwell in 1914 and have resided there continuously until the time of her passing.

To this union three children were born, one daughter who passed away in infancy and two sons, George T. of Burwell and William of Ord. Besides these two sons she is survived by her husband and seven grandsons.

Out of town attendants at the funeral were her niece, Miss Ruth Oliver of Ord and nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Hunter and son Joseph of Shenandoah, Ia. Funeral services were held at the Mitchell funeral home at 3:00 p. m. Sunday with interment at the Burwell cemetery.

Today the drills of Sinclair oil men have bitten deep into the soil of Oklahoma and tapped that treasure trove of the ages, the Cambro-Ordovician oil pool—the pool that was already old when the age of dinosaurs came upon the world. Piped into the great Sinclair refineries and carefully refined and blended, this oldest of Mid-continent crudes becomes Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil, a product averaging more than 80 million years of Nature's priceless mellowing and filtering. In process of manufacture, Sinclair Opaline is de-waxed and freed from non-lubricating petroleum jelly at as low as 60° F. below zero. Note how Sinclair Opaline lasts in the heat of hard, fast driving—observe at draining time how little oil has been used up. A sure proof of quality! Ask for Sinclair Opaline.

With more bills before it than at any time since the session of 1917, Nebraska's last bicameral legislature entered the final stage of the fiftieth session, that of getting down to work.

When the House hopper closed after a night session—the first of its kind in twelve years to permit solons to toss in last minute legislative ideas—there were 674 measures entered in the lower branch. The law provides that after the twentieth legislative day no bill can be introduced in either branch of the legislature without consent of the governor.

The Senate trailed the House one day, and when its hopper slammed shut there was a total of 362 bills on file. A few of the measures in both houses already have been disposed of through passing or slaying processes, but there still remains much to be done before the trek homeward can be given thought. In fact, the legislative session hardly has begun.

In the House, where the last bill introduced was numbered 674, the only year in which the number was greater of late was 1917, when the total bills introduced numbered 793. The 1935 House had 456 measures introduced. Two years ago the number introduced was 598.

The money situation, so far as Nebraska is concerned, has cleared up rapidly since the opening of the state treasury and the appointment by Governor Cochran of George Hall as state treasurer, an office to which he was legally elected to succeed himself, but to which he had to be appointed to comply with the law.

One million four hundred thousand dollars worth of state warrants were ready to be distributed when the maze of detail entailed in clearing up the treasury mess finally was penetrated, and after being closed from January 3 to January 30, the vaults of the treasury again began to release the flow of cash.

The bonding companies that refused to write Hall's $1,000,000 bond for a premium of $5,000, won their demands for a 100 percent increase in the premium amount, and an appropriation of $10,000 was made for the purpose.

The entanglement that ensued when Treasurer-elect Hall presented himself to take his oath of office January 3, but had failed to post bond as required by law, is almost unprecedented in Nebraska. Attacking the amazing situation from a half-dozen fronts, state officials worked unceasingly night and day to remedy the situation. Suits were started, the supreme court was called upon, the attorney general issued opinions, the governor delivered messages, Hall appeared before the legislature in joint assembly, and all the time this was going on, legislators went without their first $300 of their $800 biennial salaries and railroad fare and employees of the legislature joined with state employees generally in going cashless.

But out of the maze of technicalities, an additional $5,000 was appropriated, certain other conditions were met, and the bond was finally written. It was on Wednesday, "Happy Wednesday" it has been termed, that the flow of money from vaults of one of the wealthiest and best-fixed states financially in the union began to feed debtors of the state.

Along with several other liquor control measures has been added one in which Attorney General Wright presents his views for handling hard liquor in the state. Although six other measures on the same subject were filed earlier in the session, members preferred to hold off committee action until the state officer who made an exhaustive study of control methods in other states could get his ideas incorporated into a measure. Wright's plan does not bear an official administration stamp, but the governor's inaugural message commended it to the legislature for consideration and the nineteen introducers of the measure included the recognized democratic leaders.

The bill provides for licensing sale of liquor by the drink and by the package by private dealers, requires local communities to try out the system for two years before exercising the right of local option. Sale of liquor by the package would be legal all over the state even after the two years of trial, as the local option provision would apply only to the sale of liquor or beer by the drink.

The Nebraska delegation, including chairman of the senate and house finance committees, John Callan, Udell, and George Nickles, Murray, are reported to be favorable to legislation of an additional cent a gallon gasoline tax to be used to supplement relief from federal sources. Another member of the delegation that conferred with Nebraska members of congress and relief officials is Frank D. Troop, chairman of the state relief committee. Conferences were held with Senators Burke and Norris in an effort to learn whether federal relief would be withdrawn if the state legislature in providing an estimated additional $2,000,000 a year for relief, placed restrictions around its use to give the state a larger share of control. Norris was of the opinion that no further funds could be raised by general taxation.

Federal loans to taxpayers to pay local taxes were proposed in the House by Rep. Henry Rock, (D), of David City. Senate confirmation of Charles Eubank, district highway engineer at Lincoln, as member of the board of control was unanimous. Eubank's name was submitted to the senate by Governor Cochran. Eubank will take office July 1, replacing Mrs. Nellie Benson, who was appointed by Governor Weaver. The salary is fixed at $3,200 a year as compared with a salary of $3,180 a year as engineer.

V. B. Kinney of Omaha, editor of a labor union paper, has been appointed state labor commissioner succeeding Cecil Matthews, who served under Governor Bryan.

Total appropriations of $33,056,811, including $11,616,064 to be met with revenue raised from regular taxation and $21,440,747 from other sources, have been recommended by Governor Cochran in his budget message. Two bills embodying expenditure of the money were introduced at the time the message was delivered and sent to committee.

Gross amount of tax income which the governor estimates will be required is $603,897 more than the 1933 legislature provided for the current biennium, but it represents a reduction of $3,627,552 below the total asked by various spending agencies and is $12,000 less than former Governor Bryan recommended in his provisional budget just before he went out of office.

No provision was made by the governor for any part of the $1,000,000 which National Relief Administrator Hopkins has indicated Nebraska must furnish to supplement relief expenditures in the state. Legislator's attention was called to the fact that this matter was a major problem they would be called upon to work out this session.

The budget recommended the following sums: Supreme court, $214,630; district courts $552,500; governor, $33,880; capitol, $150,000; secretary of state $32,730; state sheriff, $50,500; auditor, $63,280; treasurer, $32,280; attorney general, $91,500; state superintendent, $63,160; aid to schools, $216,000; land commissioner, $30,350; agriculture department, $144,000; labor department, $36,500; health department, $38,000; roads and irrigation, $151,525; banking department, $23,000; tax commissioner, $45,000; national guard, $123,400; railway board, $108,280; board of educational lands and funds, $70,360; vocational education, $105,000; pardon board, $13,500; board of agriculture, $113,066; historical society, $17,200; University of Nebraska, $3,355,680; Teachers colleges, $1,198,530; board of control, $3,401,480; improvements at state institutions, $465,300. The governor recommended additional $50,000 from fees for state sheriff but merged highway patrol with sheriff's office.

Rep. Cushing, Ord, republican floor leader, is joined by three republicans and two democrats in introducing the first state income tax bill to hit the House hopper. The measure carries many of the features embodied in Cushing's income tax measure that met defeat in the 1933 session. Exemption of $500 for single persons and $1,000 for married persons and family heads is provided. The bill also gives individuals a $5 reduction from payable tax, $10 to married persons or family heads and $1 reduction for each child under 18 years. The tax scale is fixed at one percent on the first $3,000 income, two percent on the third, three percent on the fourth, and four percent on the fifth and five percent on all income over $5,000. The measure carries a property replacement tax provision, and provides that the state general fund shall receive the revenue from the tax.

A bill carrying a two percent tax on all gross sales and services in the state is on file, sponsored by Nickles, (D), and 14 others of both parties. The measure is reported to be that sponsored by the Nebraska Tax association, and provides that the revenue received shall go to counties to replace free high school tuition fees.

Three republicans and three democrats are introducers of a House bill asking an appropriation of $20,000 from the general fund to finance an audit of the state banking department, particularly the receivership division. The audit would be confined to the years since 1930, and would be conducted by the state auditor. The bill provides that refusal to testify would be punishable by a fine of $500 to $5,000, and the giving of false testimony would bring fines ranging from $1,000 to $5,000. The bill carries the emergency clause. Hyde's bill, appropriating $10,000 for an investigation and audit of the state treasurer's office passed and is in hands of the Senate.

A bill tending to nip the "phantom" United States senator from being a possibility in Nebraska is fostered by Sen. Defoe, (D), Tecumseh, and is reported to have the sanction of Senator George W. Norris. It provides that any United States senator appointed to fill a vacancy shall serve to January 3 after the next general election. The plan would do away with the interim senator holding office and drawing the pay during a period of less than two months following election, although never actually being sworn in or taking his seat.

A commission of 13 members to consider the proposed national parks area on the Oregon and Mormon trails, extending from Bridgeport to old Fort Laramie, Wyoming, has been named by Governor Cochran.

House bills of unusual interest that have been introduced and are enroute to the graveyard through indefinite postponement or action by the lower branch as committee of the whole include: H. R. 328, by Worthington, (D), Omaha, and Doyle (D), Greeley, increases from thirty to ninety days the penalty for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated; H. R. 331, by Schoenrock, (D), Gladstone, provides for destruction by burning of infected bee colonies and equipments, shipments, products and apiaries; H. R. 310, by Sullenberger, (D), Chadron, making it a misdemeanor for persons using the emblem of the American Legion for purposes of individual gain or to obtain aid or assistance unless entitled to wear same; H. R. 311, by Frank, (R), Norman, appropriating $10,000 for improvement of Kearney state park; H. R. 312, by Cone (D), Valley, fixing a schedule in county jails ranging from 25 cents to 60 cents where less than 100 up to 60 cents where less than ten; H. R. 313, by Cone, changing from 5 cents to 4 cents mileage allowances of county officers and deputies, except sheriffs who are out from 8 to 6 cents; H. R. 318, by Weber, (D), Leigh, provides tax on malt beverages containing less than 3.2 percent alcohol of 50 cents a gallon; H. R. 341, by Weber, provides for shooting of antelope under permits from state commission where animals are destroying property; H. R. 417, Bailey (R), Carlton, provides for closing of schools having less than five pupils and instruction in neighboring districts where cost of transportation and tuition is less than in school of residence; H. R. 422, by Obbink, (R), Lincoln, provides for eradication and extermination of vermin and rodents by the department of agriculture in all places where products are made, stored or offered for sale; H. R. 429, by McClellan, (R), Grand Island, appropriating $50,000 for purchase of the Nebraska Baptist college site at Grand Island including all buildings for use of the board of control; H. R. 441, by Dunn, (R), Lincoln, provides for reimbursement from state highway fund of hospital fee for treatment of indigent persons injured in automobile accidents.

A series of Senate bills of unusual interest introduced toward the closing hours include: S. F. 164, by Reynolds, (R), Niobrara, forbids any teachers' employment agency making inquiry into the religious affiliations of persons seeking employment; S. F. 177, by Stewart, (D), Clay Center, requires all motor vehicles used by school districts in transporting children to be painted red, white and blue; S. F. 182 by Van Kirk (R), Lincoln, provides for pensioning state employees after 25 years of service, they to receive one-half their salary when they retire, that pension not to exceed $40 a month; S. F. 183 by Neumann, (D), Oakland, provides the death penalty or life imprisonment for bank robbery; S. F. 314, by Howard, (R), Scottsbluff, requires carriages to carry two white lights in front and a red light behind, on highways at night; S. F. 278, by Brady, (R), Atkinson, Cady, (D), Arlington and Howell, (D), Omaha, provides miscellaneous amendments to game and fish laws, including classification of cottontail rabbits under legal protection, changes opossums and raccoons to classification of fur bearing animals, adopts federal regulation of migratory bird treaty acts as part of state game laws, eliminates special annual fees of $50 for selling game and $25 for selling fish by persons raising them commercially, but leaves such sales under general regulation of state game and park board.

A bill designed to conform with laws in other states relative to trucking and a tax thereon was introduced by McMahon, (D), Omaha. It provides for supervision and inspection of commercial trucks by the state highway department and establishment of stations for that purpose on main highways within fifteen miles of state boundary lines. Truck operators and drivers would be required to stop and register at these stations, and give data on cargo, destination, weight and pay a tax that is graduated depending upon distance traveled and weight.

Rep. Sullenberger, (D), Chadron, is introducer of a bill levying a tax on chain filling stations and on natural or mixed gas transported through mains. Proceeds from the levy of 5 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas would go to schools and old age pensions, as would the tax of $100 to be levied on each filling station operated by a chain organization having five or more stations in the state.

By a vote of 65 to 14, the House joined the Senate in adopting a resolution opposing the United States entering the world court. The United States senate rejected the proposal 52 for to 36 against—short of the necessary two-thirds majority. Senator Burke voted for entry while Senator Norris opposed it.

A joint resolution, fostered by Von Seggern (D), West Point, provides for a constitutional amendment to abolish the land commissioner's office. A similar measure is on file in the senate.

A modified state police bill, fathered by Newman, (D), Alliance, would make all police officers, sheriffs, constables, deputies and marshals ex-officio deputy state sheriffs. A bill by McLellan, (R), Grand Island and others providing a 2 percent retail sales tax to finance old age pensions, to be administered by a state commission, is on file. Forty dollars per person is the maximum pension fixed, or a couple could get $60. The tax would be levied against merchandise, and utility services including publically-owned utilities.

S. S. Kaldahl, pastor.

Christian Church.
Peter at the House of Cornelius will be our sermon subject next Sunday morning. Union evening service at the U. B. church. We will use the model of the Tabernacle as the subject in the evening. Bible school at 10:00 a. m. Mid-week Bible study Wednesday evening.

The Women's Missionary society will meet next week Wednesday with Mrs. J. P. Barta. Of course all are getting ready for that bazaar and rummage sale.

Pentecostal Church Notes.
Sunday School 10:00 a. m. Sunday morning Devotional 11:00 a. m. Sunday evening Evangelistic service 7:45 p. m. Wednesday evening Prayer meeting 7:45 p. m. Friday evening Young People's Christ Ambassador service 7:45 p. m.

Watch our church notes for announcements of our forthcoming revival. Next week we will be able to make definite announcements as to when it will begin.
Earl Cummings, pastor.

United Brethren Church.
By special request of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Willard McCarthy is giving his illustrated message on "The Tabernacle." It is rarely that a local pastor is equipped to so present the Tabernacle and its appointments and we may be sure his message will be highly instructive. United Brethren are spending much time with the Word these days, and both young and old are looking forth eagerly to this service.

The York college quartet will broadcast a short program at KMMJ, Clay Center, Nebr., Sunday, Febr. 10, beginning 2:15 to 2:30 p. m.

Dr. A. P. Vannice, our state superintendent will be with us Febr. 17, both morning and evening.
Mamie J. Young, Pastor.

Methodist Church.
Next Sunday services: 10 a. m. Sunday school. The Primary Department, directed by Mrs. Jirak will occupy the platform during the opening services. They will give one musical number, and two children will give "Pep" talks for the contest.

11 a. m. Morning Worship. Negro spirituals will be rendered in addition to the regular anthem by the choir.

7:30 p. m. A Men's Gospel Team will conduct the entire evening service. A Male quartette will sing, and a group of men will speak on the theme, "What Christ Means to Me." The public is invited.

The attendance contest with Osceola last Sunday resulted in the following numbers: Ord has 175 in Sunday school and 141 in church, while Osceola had 205 in Sunday school and 178 in church. So we are beaten this first Sunday. Let all our people rally to our help. We have some real competition in this contest.

Prof. Cass is the Loyalty Secretary for this attendance contest. Loyalty pledges were presented to each class. A total of 120 signed up last week, pledging attendance at both Sunday school and church. The Institute conducted in Arcadia last week was well attended. Ord had eleven delegates. There were 97 paid registrations and 97 certificates given out. Last year the Institute was in Ord, and there were 107 paid registrations and 107 certificates.
Mearl C. Smith, Minister.

Presbyterian Church.
My church, for before I was born my church gave to my parents ideals of life and love that made my home a place of strength and beauty.

Come with me to my church for Bible study, for a social gathering and for worship next Sunday. Bible study 10:00 a. m. for the adults an interesting study class for all ages. The men's forum holds much interest for the men. Or if you are a man and prefer you may attend the young married Fellowship class or the mixed adult Bible class. The High School students are fortunate in their tutors class to have an able teacher as Mrs. Doris Flagg. The young peoples class taught by Mrs. O. E. Johnson will find in her the best of Christian philosophy. The ladies class taught by Mrs. Charles Goodhand has a leader outstanding in her knowledge of the Bible and ability to teach.

Men, women and children, be on time for Bible study next Sunday—bring a friend.

The Worship service commences at 10:45 a. m. This service during February affords every one an unusual opportunity to hear Rev. L. M. Real discuss the Philosophy of Human Suffering.

Don't forget. Ladies Aid Circle meeting on Wednesday 2:30 p. m. Choir practice Wednesday 7:00 p. m. Educational Council meets Wednesday 8:00 p. m. The Junior Girls will be guests of Mr. Real for a theatre party Saturday afternoon. The girls will meet at the church at 2:15 and will go in a group with the pastor to the show.

About People You Know

—Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ulrich were in St. Paul.

—Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Mason of Garfield county were in Ord Saturday for a short time.

—The Eugene Chipps family has removed to Fremont, where Mr. Chipps has found employment.

—Wilford Werber writes from Buhl, Ida., to have the Quiz sent to him there.

—Mrs. Will Treptow has been ill with a cold and Monday was hardly able to speak above a whisper.

—Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Will Edney of Berwyn were here spending a few hours with the latter's father, J. E. Tolen, who has not been as well as usual this week.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Marks and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Marks and son drove to Sargent Sunday to call upon Mr. and Mrs. Dan Marks, but did not find Dan and Mrs. Marks at home.

—Frank Fafetta Jr., has been able to be around and at his work but he has had a very sore side. Several days ago he fell and fractured a rib. He has been a patient of Dr. Henry Norris.

—Mrs. Alex Long is going to New York City to visit a sister. Mrs. Long is not very well and in New York will consult a doctor and perhaps have an operation. She will be away two months or longer.

—Mr. and Mrs. Nels Jensen and son, Frederick, Frank Koupal and Mrs. Will McLain drove to Sargent last Tuesday and attended the funeral of Chris Jensen, returning to Ord with the funeral procession and attending the burial services at the Ord cemetery.

—Mr. and Mrs. R. N. McAllister and daughter Gertrude were in Grand Island Saturday.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Neldfelt of Grand Island were in the Fred Ulrich home Saturday.

—Ray Mella, who is employed in Spalding, spent Saturday and Sunday with Mrs. Mella in Ord.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Linder, Lushton, who had been visiting their daughter, Mrs. Ed Mauer and family, left Sunday for their home.

—Mrs. M. Collins has had infection in her right hand. She has been a patient of Dr. Henry Norris.

—Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hollingshead recently came from Omaha and spent a short time with their mother, Mrs. J. H. Hollingshead.

—Mr. and Mrs. Albert McMinden of Atkinson were in Ord Saturday, the first time they had made this trip for several weeks.

—Mr. and Mrs. Dean Moser and two daughters were in Ord Friday visiting Mr. Moser's people, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Moser. The Dean Moser family live north of Elyria.

—Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wiegardt and Mrs. Joe Marks and son Lloyd drove to Omaha Friday, returning Sunday. While there Mrs. Marks submitted to a minor operation.

—F. B. Tedrow writes to have his paper changed to Eldorado Springs, Mo., where he is sojourning at present. He says he will be in Ord in March.

—In writing to renew her Quiz, Mrs. Mildred Fales says she is going to send a letter to the Quiz soon for publication. We are sure her many friends in Valley county will be glad to know that.

—Mrs. Emma Hansen, who is making her home with Mrs. Nancy Covert this winter, is spending this week in the home of her niece, Mrs. Joe Kuklish, near Elyria.

—Mrs. Jennie Bell-Squires, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bell of Long Beach, Calif., and Earl Lissner of the same place were married Jan. 25 in Long Beach. After a short honeymoon they will be in their home on Chestnut street, Long Beach. The bride is well known here, having grown to young womanhood and attended the Ord schools for several years.

—Mrs. E. H. Petty has been spending a few days in Omaha with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Staple, and her sister, Miss Mildred Staple. Mrs. Petty made the trip to Omaha with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Capron, who were driving to Chicago. The Caprons will stop for Mrs. Petty on the return trip.

—Miss Mildred Myers and Alvin Travis were guests Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Adams. The Adams family will move soon. They have been living in a property near Mrs. Robert Nay's home. Clarence Fox and family will occupy the house in which Mr. and Mrs. Adams have been living.

—Funeral services were held at Sargent last Wednesday afternoon for A. L. Moulton, who was found dead in his bed a day or two previously. He was the last of four brothers to pass away. His brother, Percy, at one time lived in Ord.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Tunncliff and family were in Burwell Sunday and attended the funeral of Mr. Tunncliff's mother, Mrs. Ed Tunncliff.

—Friday Dr. Henry Norris performed a minor operation, removing a small tumor from Carl Ziegler's forehead.

—John Carson is improving in the Ord Hospital. He has tried a few times to sit up but becomes very dizzy and has to lie down again. His head was injured several weeks ago when he fell on the sidewalk.

—Mrs. Morace Hubbard and two little sons of Lexington have been visiting the George Hubbard family. They accompanied H. G. Bryan and son Lloyd from Lexington to North Loup, and then came to Ord.

—Floyd Megrue returned Thursday to his home in Tekamah. He had been here for several days assisting his mother-in-law, Mrs. C. C. Brown, with affairs incident to the Brown estate.

—Mrs. Jessie Robbins' sale went off fine and things brought fairly good prices. It is reported that one team brought nearly $300. Mr. and Mrs. Robbins are leaving this week for Los Angeles, Calif., where they plan to make their home.

—The George Gharborg family are leaving for Idaho to make their home. Miss Anna, who is teaching, will complete her school term before leaving. Mrs. Gharborg is much improved in health since an operation in Omaha.

—The house of representatives, 329 to 73, gives the President four thousand eight hundred and eighty million dollars, to be spent in accordance with his best judgment to fight depression and unemployment.

—In early days the little, "small change" eighty million dollars, tacked on at the end of the large figure, would have astounded the country, for in those days millions were respectable units. Now our government unit is the billion—one thousand millions. When will the trillion start its career? The printing press could bring it.

—Not content with being reduced from a great empire to a small "backyard" by the last Hapsburg, Austria thinks it wants another emperor and Prince Starbemberg will say when little Prince Otto shall mount the throne. That will mean unhappiness, eventually for the young prince, and a good actor spoiled for Hollywood.

—Gen. William Mitchell, commander of all our flying force in the big war, knows more about national defense than anybody in this country. He writes to a friend seventy years old, as follows:

"During your lifetime have come the electric telegraph and telephone, the gasoline engine with its accompaniment of automotive vehicles, the airplane and submarine. The world is now only one-sixth as large as when you appeared. If this development goes on, it is difficult to say what may take place in the next seventy years. Will the biological supremacy of the yellow races dominate, or will the military supremacy, so far, of the white race be able to maintain our culture and standards? The world is growing so small and so increasingly populated that one or the other will undoubtedly become master."

—Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, whose father collected pictures and other works of art, has decided to sell six pictures. The price asked is said to be $1,500,000. The older J. P. Morgan evidently bought good pictures. Two of the six pictures, already sold to the Metropolitan museum, are a portrait of "Anne of Austria," by Peter Paul Rubens and an altar piece by Filippo Lippi. Nobody knows how much was paid originally for either picture.

—A rare ten-dollar gold piece, that sold at auction for $530, might offer a suggestion for government profit. At that rate, our $3,000,000,000 worth of gold could be changed into $400,000,000,000 worth, nearly all profit. Who could contradict the government if it said that was the value?

—Col. Roscoe Turner, who does all sorts of things with airplanes, plans a real flight around the earth, 25,000 miles, following the equator all the way, starting at Panama.

—This will be the first real "around the world" flight, the others having been flights around the northern end of the world, a flight that grows smaller as you go farther north. Equatorial heat will not bother Colonel Turner. In a plane you can pick out the altitude and the temperature that you want.

A Baby Grows Up Senate's Good News Five Little Girls $4,880,000,000

Fifty-three years ago a good American mother, weak but happy, received in her arms a small baby, with pink face and little hair. That baby now lives in the White House, face bronzed by ocean air, hair thick at fifty-three years of age.

The baby has grown to be Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States.

One hundred and twenty-five million Americans are gratefully to his mother, who, happily, has lived to see her son move up, from the cradle in which she first placed him, to the earth's most important place among men.

Congratulations and thanks, first of all, to President Roosevelt's mother; good wishes, congratulations, and a long life to President Roosevelt.

The people of the United States are to be congratulated that by the decision of the senate they will not be pushed into the back door of the League of Nations through the World court.

Mr. Hull, secretary of state, wanted the United States to go into the World court and submit important matters affecting this country to foreign judges appointed by nations that have swindled this country out of ten thousand million dollars. Why, in heaven's name?

Those marvelous Canadian babies, the Dionne quintuplets, eight months old, are healthy, happy, each one a separate little lady of intense individuality. All pretty, all intelligent, with good foreheads, well-shaped heads. What a wonderful family! It seems almost a pity that they cannot remain babies, now and above, through all eternity.

The house of representatives, 329 to 73, gives the President four thousand eight hundred and eighty million dollars, to be spent in accordance with his best judgment to fight depression and unemployment.

In early days the little, "small change" eighty million dollars, tacked on at the end of the large figure, would have astounded the country, for in those days millions were respectable units. Now our government unit is the billion—one thousand millions. When will the trillion start its career? The printing press could bring it.

Not content with being reduced from a great empire to a small "backyard" by the last Hapsburg, Austria thinks it wants another emperor and Prince Starbemberg will say when little Prince Otto shall mount the throne. That will mean unhappiness, eventually for the young prince, and a good actor spoiled for Hollywood.

BACK FORTY

A rust observatory will be operated near Ord this summer by a vocational agriculture student. It will be the fifth consecutive year for this work in Valley county. Fourteen other similar stations will be established over the state for studying the spore flight of black stem rust, a parasitic disease that travels from barberry bushes to oats, wheat, barley and rye.

The student observers will expose grease-coated microscopic slides to the wind twice a week. When rust spores are in the air, a certain number will stick to the slides. Location and destruction of barberry bushes is one of the primary objectives of the observatory. The studies at Ord show that black stem rust disease is becoming less prevalent each year.

Last summer the work was carried on by Everett Gross, who caught only 10 spores during the entire summer. These were found in May, however, at which time spores can multiply and do great damage to small grain before it ripens.

Two years ago the slide exposures were in charge of Harold Benn. The only spores caught were on one day in early June, when fifteen spores stuck to one square inch of slide glass.

Anthony Kokes started the study of rust spores in 1931, and continued it through 1932. He found considerable rust during the first summer, gathering 4,832 rust spores in a one day's catch on June 11, 1931. These were traced to some barberry bushes near by. The bushes were destroyed with salt.

In 1932, Anthony caught only five spores, less than any other station in Nebraska. The station at Ashland, for instance, caught over 100,000 spores in one day on a single slide. Rust disease is always more destructive in the regions south and east of the North Loup valley.

CHANTICLEER CAGERS WALK OVER RAVENNA BY 65 - 19 SCORE FRIDAY

Blue and White Quint Was No Match for Ord Boys; 2nd Team Wallops Horace.

Taking an early lead and building that lead up throughout the game, the Ord High Chanticleers whitewashed the Ravenna quintet, 65-19.

Greathouse and Michels led the attack for the red and white each contributing a total of 21 points. Blessing donated 9 points, Severson 3, and Tunncliff 5. Peters, at the pivot position, was the leading scorer for Ravenna, making 10 points.

The Chanticleers started the game in a hurry, running up 15 points in the first quarter to Ravenna's 1. The Ravenna quintet woke up in the second quarter and began to "click," the half ending 24-12 with Ord on the long end. The second half was too one-sided to be even interesting, the Ordites collecting 39 points while Ravenna scraped up a meager 6 points.

The second team had a close contest with Horace cagers the first half of the game. The score at the end of the first half being Ord 11, Horace 7. Ord, however, came back and ran up a 24-12 lead in the final period.

Ord will travel to Kearney tomorrow night to play the thus far undefeated Kearney quintet. Kearney has made a very impressive record this year, defeating some of the strongest teams in the state, among them Columbus, North Platte and Grand Island. Grand Island was victor over Ord by a scant three-point margin but was trampled under by a large score by the Kearney team. Should Ord win they will immediately be put in the spotlight as the favored team to win the State Championship. On to victory boys!

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an Order of Sale issued by the Clerk of the District Court of the Eleventh Judicial District of Nebraska, within and for Valley County, in an action wherein the Lincoln Joint Stock Land Bank of Lincoln, Nebraska, is plaintiff, and Orin A. Kellison, widow, and Katie Marks, as defendants, I will at two o'clock, P. M., on the 4th day of March, A. D., 1935, at the west front door of the Court House in Ord, Nebraska, offer for sale at public auction, the following described lands and tenements, to-wit:

Speaking of fussing and primping, I'm sure more of it goes on in front of me than any other mirror. In fact, I know I'm as popular as any of them. Yes, yes, here comes Alma Hansen to fix up a bit. Now Alma's complexion is really attractive and I can't see why she takes up so much of my time. She really must hurry or Barbara Dale will not have time to see that all her curls are in place. Yes, that one looks very sweet, right in the back there. I think it's cunning. My, how time does drag. No one has been near me for nearly half a minute. At last, here comes Charlotte Blessing. Alas! Usually I can depend on her but this morning she only gave me a passing glance. Just the same I would like to tell her that her cheeks look a little redder than usual. But of course, she was only blushing.

Ah! Here comes Edna Loft. She is a regular patron of mine. That nose needs to be powdered a little. No, just a little more on the end. It still shines. Yes, that's much better.

Poor Eleanor! She comes every day and tries to get a glimpse of me but she is so tall it is almost impossible. However, when no one else is around she just leans down and looks at me for two or three minutes.

Ha! Ha! Dorothy Allen has some new earrings and I'm the first to see them. There, they're in just the right position now. They really are stunning. At last, there's the bell. Now for a few hours rest. How you girls do fatigue me. I suppose I ought not to grumble but really, it's terrible to be so popular.

Hi-Y Boys Plan Semester Program

The Hi-Y planned their program for the second semester at a business meeting held last Monday night. The schedule for this division of the school year has not been entirely planned out but the following subjects for the regular meetings have been definitely decided upon: February 11, Hi-Y Initiation, and Pot Luck Supper; February 15, Theatre Party; March 11, Business Meeting; March 25, Waif's Supper at Thomas Cafe; April 8, Business Meeting.

Mr. Lukenbach sponsors the Hi-Y organization and Kenneth Michels is president. Meetings will be held every other week.

Girl Reserves Have Supper

The Girl Reserves had a pot luck supper and hobby meeting Monday evening, February 4. This was the first meeting of the second semester under the new theme topic, "Grandmother's Trunk." "Adventures in the Attic," the general topic for the evening's discussion was led by Virginia Weekes.

The Girl Reserves will have heart sister week from February 11 until the 15.

Elect 2nd Semester Home Room Officers

Home Room officers have been elected for the second semester. In room 20 Dean Barta is president; Willard Cushing, vice-president; Irene Whiting, secretary; Virginia Weekes, cheer leader; Joe Kovarik, sergeant-at-arms. The following hold offices in room 16: President, Laverne Lakin, vice-president, Harold Haskell; secretary, Margaret Lewis; cheer leader, Virginia Klein; sergeant-at-arms, Harold Stone. In home room 24 Jane Ferguson is president; Mary Beranek, vice-president; Opal Miller, secretary; Virud Harkness, cheer leader; and Ed Dumond, sergeant-at-arms. Dale Hughes is president of home room 22; Gwendolyn Cass, vice-president; Vernon Malolepszy, secretary; Ann Jensen and Vernon Malolepszy, cheer leaders. In the junior home room 15, Paul Carlsen is president; Julia Fuss, vice-president; Kenneth Egglehoff, secretary; Frank Pray, sergeant-at-arms; Charlotte Blessing, cheer leader.

The following are the new home room officers in room 15: president, Ronald Rose; vice-president, Ruth Benn; secretary, Delta Marie Flynn; sergeant-at-arms, Dale Melia; cheer leader, Evelyn Loft, and Laverne Hansen.

In home room 3, Arnold Crosley is president; Dean Blessing, vice-president; Edwin Hitchman, secretary; convocation committee members, Marjio Smith, Edward Sweet, and Eugene Puncocchar. Home room 19 has elected the following officers: president Arthur Carlsen; vice-president, Lyle Flagg; secretary, Esther Jensen; Sergeant-at-arms, Cornelius Biemond; convocation committee member, Henry Benda; cheer leader, Joy Loft; assistant cheer leaders, Angelina Wachtrie, and Maxine Fox.

DO YOU KNOW?

The advanced typewriting class has been studying telegrams and letters of confirmation.

In speed development practice during the week the following results have been achieved in fifteen minute tests. Mildred Smith, 74 words per minute with 11 errors. Maxine Johnson, 63 words per minute with 13 errors. Dorothy Fish, 67 words per minute with 8 errors.

In one minute accuracy tests Mildred Smith leads the class with 84 words per minute, Dorothy Fish and Darlene Anderson have a record of 69 words per minute for the week.

The Knighthood of Youth club had a meeting to discuss stones for their group castles. Stones for them are credited for good use of study period, class project, which is a scrapbook, spare time activities, perfect two weeks' attendance and good officer and committee work.

The Public Speaking department have been working on original orations and one-act plays. A one-act play "Moonshine," will be presented for convocation this week. The cast of two characters includes Laverne Hanson and Laverne Nelson.

The Home Economics girls, to put into practice the work they have been studying, stayed home last Friday and did the entire housekeeping, shopping, and cooking for their families.

Edith Hansen, at present taking a beauty course in Lincoln, was the guest at the Girl Reserve meeting Monday night. She will return to her work Wednesday.

The Junior English class has just completed the study of "Canturbury Tales."

The Class A basketball tournament will be held during the week of March 5-9. Sargent and Grand Island have extended invitations to play at those towns.

A School Board meeting was held last Monday night. The enrollment is less this year than last in Ord High School. However the daily attendance average is the same.

There have been a large number of tardies this six weeks—amounting to 316 in all. The stamp book sales are equal to the sales of last semester. They totaled $122.00.

An Indian, who was visiting a trading post in the West heard a white man play a piano for the first time.

The Indian gave a report on the piano: "Paleface, hime punch teeth of big box, big box him holler."

Virginia Weekes says she is going to contract the seven year itch so that she'll always have something to look forward to.

EDITORIALS

The work on the declamatory contest work is starting and every high school student, whether taking Public Speaking or not, is eligible to enter. Students are particularly urged to try out for original orations and extemporaneous speaking as there are fewer entrants in this field than in the dramatic, humorous or prepared orations. The contest play, a one-act, five character comedy entitled "Circumstances Alter Cases" has been selected and tryouts will be held later. Lets have a large number of students out for declamatory work this year and see if we can equal or better the records of last years preceding.

"Oh" said the lady as she walked to the edge of one of the greatest volcanos in the world. "Isn't it cute!" That is, you'll admit one of the ways of describing a volcano, but hardly the best. This lady, we might say, had adjective trouble, a complaint quite common among high school students.

Seriously, there's a satisfaction, a sense of nice fitness in choosing the right word for the right thing. A vocabulary doesn't have to be large. It needs few words of more than three syllables but words that are elastic, accurate, vigorous, honest, and simple. It is possible, of course, to get along on a half dozen. A good many high school students do. Frankly speaking, everything in the world can be described by them as either "darling," "terrible," "neat," or "lousy." Or we could get it down, as many people have, to two—swell or lousy. How easy not to have to choose between more than two words! And how stupid!

We believe that a number of students who are taking up work on new instruments for the betterment of the band and orchestra certainly deserve a big hand. Hats off to Harry McBeth, Angelina Wachtrie, Norma Mae Snell, and Patricia McGrew, who are putting up a gallant fight for mastery of the oboe, bassoon, alto clarinet and cello respectively.

Wise and Otherwise

Following the usual custom, we were bribed not to print any names. First Student: "How are you getting along in school now?" Second Student: "Terrible. Why my grades are so low that I have to stoop to hear them."

Wilma: "How long can a person live without brains?" Harold M.: "I don't know. How old are you?"

This Week's Sponsor is AUBLE MOTORS

Sincere and heartfelt interest in Ord marks the entire Auble clan and L. J. Auble and his family are far from an exception to this statement.

ELWIN AUBLE As the business is called, sells Plymouth and DeSoto automobiles, used cars, Goodyear tires and tubes, Sinclair gasoline and oil, Champion sparkplugs, as well as many more standard brands and articles. Car accessories of every sort are found here, replacement parts of motors, etc., and this firm also builds trailers. Battery charging is done, and they specialize in washing and greasing cars. Mr. Auble and his son retain the agency for Delco light and Frigidaires, and also sell a full line of farm equipment run by Delco light power, such as washing machines, vacuum cleaners, radios, etc. They trade guns, having 25 on hand at this minute. They sell electrical equipment, fans, bulbs, wiring, etc., in fact have a large stock of many things in their display room. When repair work is wanted, Paul Duemey in the rear of the garage is ready to work.

A hardworking, unassuming family that has a big circle of friends, Auble's are also making a similar place for themselves in the business world of Ord. Drop in at the Auble Motor Service and inspect their wares and become acquainted with Bud and "Brother" today, it will pay you in a variety of ways.

Music Festival Is To Be Held in Ord

The Loup Valley Musical festival will be held at Ord on March 21. All the towns in the Loup Valley will be eligible to participate in this contest. The festival will be featured by the appearance of the Nebraska Wesleyan A Capella Male Chorus, who will give the artists program for the evening.

The contest numbers for all large organizations in contest work have been announced and the music has been received for immediate practice. The numbers selected for class B competition are as follows: orchestra, "Sunrise at Sea," by Damarest; band, "Prelude to L'Arlesienne Suite, No. L. by Grieg—Harris and the Boys Glee club, "Gypsy Life," by Scott. Girls Glee club, "In the Boat" by Grieg.

Other companionate numbers are being selected and the musical organizations all march steadily toward the festival at Ord and the district contest at Grand Island.

It is as yet, undecided whether any of the Ord organizations will be entered in the state contest, as this will, of course depend on their standing in the local and district contest.

Kiddies' Column

All of the pupils in the kindergarten room are back in school again. A number had been absent with colds. They are now studying the engineer in this room.

Mrs. Glen Auble and Miss Carrie Hesseltime visited in the first and second grades last week. The first graders are making chalk pictures of children sliding down hill.

Gordon Sorensen and Helen Boyer are back in school after an absence of two weeks. The second grade had a spelling dictation lesson Friday. Twenty-one had perfect scores and earned a gold star.

Richard Long is absent from school because of illness. In the second grade citizenship race between the Fairies and the Brownies, the Fairies are ahead.

Kenneth Canfield of the third grade has moved away. Evelyn Fredericksen and Reva Lincoln have had perfect spelling lessons all year. Mrs. Lincoln was a visitor in the third grade this week.

The third graders have been reading about and drawing pictures of the new train. The fourth grade pupils had a peanut shower on their teachers this week.

In geography class the fifth grade is making maps and booklets of the western states. In arithmetic they are studying multiplication of fractions. Everyone was glad to see LeVern Gross back in school again this week.

Carl Hill is a new pupil in the sixth grade. She had been attending school in District 69 of Custer county before moving to Ord. Phyllis Blood returned with her mother to Ohio last Saturday. The sixth grade will miss Phyllis in many ways.

The fifth and sixth grade English classes have been studying "The Life of Longfellow," and reading many of his poems. The fifth grade memorized "The Children's Hour" and the sixth grade memorized "Excelsior."

Special reports are being given on Tuesdays and Thursday in the sixth grade to teach history through the lives of prominent leaders. Reporters: Patricia Frazier and Clifford Barnes.

"Circumstances Alter Cases" To Be Contest 1-Act Comedy; Both Contests In Ord.

Declamatory work in the various divisions has started. The divisions this year, as usual, are extemporaneous, original or prepared orations, and dramatic or humorous readings. There will be several high school instructors to aid those students, working for the local program, and who are interested in any of these divisions, so that each student may receive as much help as possible.

Everyone who is interested in this type of work is urged to come out for the more who enter, the better will be the local program, and the better the opportunities for a good showing in contest work. Students are particularly urged to try for the original orations and extemporaneous speeches as these sections are not usually over-crowded, and therefore usually a better opportunity. As the public speaking classes have been working the past week on original orations, some of the students already have a good start.

Students giving prepared readings are to do their own selecting, either from those on hand or they may order any desired reading. A list of the readings given in the last four years is posted in the English room. As much as possible, these readings should be avoided, particularly those given in the last two years.

The work on the contest one-act play, "Circumstances Alter Cases" has also started. The scene is in the living room of a modern city apartment. The son is very much opposed to his mothers re-marriage until he meets his prospective step-sister. According to contest rules, this play is a comedy of about twenty-five minutes. There are five characters: the maid, father and daughter, mother and son. Those who are interested are furnished with a copy of the play and are to select a three to five minute section of the play, which is to be memorized and presented with a chosen partner or partners. This method will provide the student with a better opportunity to display his talents and ability for careful work. The tryouts will be held about the middle of February, and work on the play will begin immediately thereafter.

Any high school student is eligible to try out for any section of the declamatory contest. The local program will be presented about the middle of March, and the district contest is scheduled for March 26 and will be held here at Ord.

Convocations

The Junior High presented a convocation last Wednesday, January 30. The program consisted of a baritone solo by Dick Koupal, a clarinet duet by Edward Sweet and Eugene Puncocchar and a play, "The Neighbors," which was enacted by the following members of the Junior High class: Eugene Puncocchar, Joy Loft, Viola Puncocchar, Maxine Fox, Marilyn Dale, Eloise Norris, Irene Knebel, Luella Higgins, Jean Dahlin, Luella Jones, Angelina Wachtrie, Alberta Flynn, Viona Wolfe, and Betty Jane Vogeltanz.

A special convocation was held at 11:00 o'clock last Friday, February 1. Professor Gregg, head of the department of Psychology of Wesleyan university gave a most interesting illustrated lecture on the harm of cigarette smoking. He was assisted by Rodney Stoltz, a 1932 graduate of Ord, who is at present, a student of Wesleyan.

A pep rally was held Friday noon, February 1 in preparation for the Ravenna game Friday evening. A pep band, led by Mr. Duncan played the pep songs and the cheer leaders led the assembly in yells.

DO YOU KNOW?

The advanced typewriting class has been studying telegrams and letters of confirmation.

In speed development practice during the week the following results have been achieved in fifteen minute tests. Mildred Smith, 74 words per minute with 11 errors. Maxine Johnson, 63 words per minute with 13 errors. Dorothy Fish, 67 words per minute with 3 errors.

In one minute accuracy tests Mildred Smith leads the class with 84 words per minute, Dorothy Fish and Darlene Anderson have a record of 69 words per minute for the week.

The Knighthood of Youth club had a meeting to discuss stones for their group castles. Stones will be credited for good use of study period, class project, which is a scrapbook, spare time activities, perfect two weeks' attendance and good officer and committee work.

The Public Speaking department have been working on original orations and one-act plays. A one-act play "Moonshine," will be presented for convocation this week. The cast of two characters includes Laverne Hanson and Laverne Nelson.

The Home Economics girls, to put into practice the work they have been studying, stayed home last Friday and did the entire housekeeping, shopping, and cooking for their families.

Edith Hansen, at present taking a beauty course in Lincoln, was the guest at the Girl Reserve meeting Monday night. She will return to her work Wednesday.

The Junior English class has just completed the study of "Canturbury Tales."

EDITORIALS

The work on the declamatory contest work is starting and every high school student, whether taking Public Speaking or not, is eligible to enter. Students are particularly urged to try out for original orations and extemporaneous speaking as there are fewer entrants in this field than in the dramatic, humorous or prepared orations.

"Oh" said the lady as she walked to the edge of one of the greatest volcanos in the world. "Isn't it cute!" That is, you'll admit one of the ways of describing a volcano, but hardly the best. This lady, we might say, had adjective trouble, a complaint quite common among high school students.

Seriously, there's a satisfaction, a sense of nice fitness in choosing the right word for the right thing. A vocabulary doesn't have to be large. It needs few words of more than three syllables but words that are elastic, accurate, vigorous, honest, and simple. It is possible, of course, to get along on a half dozen. A good many high school students do. Frankly speaking, everything in the world can be described by them as either "darling," "terrible," "neat," or "lousy." Or we could get it down, as many people have, to two—swell or lousy. How easy not to have to choose between more than two words! And how stupid!

We believe that a number of students who are taking up work on new instruments for the betterment of the band and orchestra certainly deserve a big hand. Hats off to Harry McBeth, Angelina Wachtrie, Norma Mae Snell, and Patricia McGrew, who are putting up a gallant fight for mastery of the oboe, bassoon, alto clarinet and cello respectively.

Wise and Otherwise

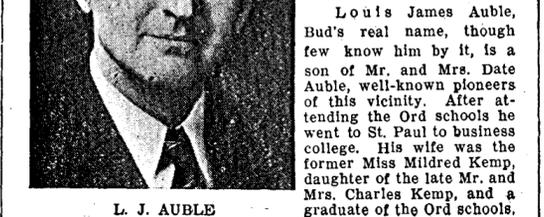

Following the usual custom, we were bribed not to print any names. First Student: "How are you getting along in school now?" Second Student: "Terrible. Why my grades are so low that I have to stoop to hear them."

Wilma: "How long can a person live without brains?" Harold M: "I don't know. Hoy old are you?"

This Week's Sponsor is AUBLE MOTORS

Sincere and heartfelt interest in Ord marks the entire Auble clan and L. J. Auble and his family are far from an exception to this statement. The interest of "Bud" and his family in the Ord schools is accentuated by the lively part always taken by the Auble children in school activities of every sort.

L. J. AUBLE As a young fellow Bud took a stayed to prove up on it and still owns this farm, although he later moved to Ord and worked in the Auble store with Glen and Jay.

Deciding to have another try at farming, Bud took a place out Haskell Creek way, and spent seven years on that farm. Returning to town, Mr. Auble became Delco agent and also sold Frigidaires, then just coming on the market. After four years in this business he bought the former Blaha Brothers garage, and here he and his son Elwin have been busy the past two years.

Auble Motor Service as the business is called, sells Plymouth and DeSoto automobiles, used cars, Goodyear tires and tubes, Sinclair gasoline and oil, Champion sparkplugs, as well as many more standard brands and articles. Car accessories of every sort are found here, replacement parts of motors, etc., and this firm also builds trailers. Battery charging is done, and they specialize in washing and greasing cars.

Mr. Auble and his son retain the agency for Delco light and Frigidaires, and also sell a full line of farm equipment run by Delco light power, such as washing machines, vacuum cleaners, radios, etc. They trade guns, having 25 on hand at this minute. They sell electrical equipment, fans, bulbs, wiring, etc., in fact have a large stock of many things in their display room. When repair work is wanted, Paul Duemey in the rear of the garage is ready to work.

A hardworking, unassuming family that has a big circle of friends, Auble's are also making a similar place for themselves in the business world of Ord. Drop in at the Auble Motor Service and inspect their wares and become acquainted with Bud and "Brother" today, it will pay you in a variety of ways.

The Oracle is made possible by this group of loyal Ord business and professional men and women: Dr. F. L. Blessing, Orville H. Sowl, Ed F. Bernak, J. C. Penney Co., John P. Misko, L. & L. Tire and Battery Station, Auble Motors, Dr. C. W. Weekes, Chas. E. Fogarty, Dr. Glen D. Auble, Nebraska State Bank, A. J. Auble, Stoll's Variety Store, Dr. F. A. Barta, Harlan T. Frazier, Gould B. Flaeg, First National Bank, Protective Savings & Loan Assn., Ord Co-operative Creamery Co., Noll Seed Co., Sack Lumber & Coal Co., Davis & Vogelanz, McLain-Sorensen Drug Co., Brown-Ekberg Co., Dr. George A. Parkins.

DECLAM STUDENTS START PREPARING FOR ANNUAL MEETS HELD IN MARCH

Educational Notes Edison was called the smartest man in the world because he invented the phonograph and radio so people would stay up all night and burn his electric light bulbs.

A deficiency is what you have when you haven't as much as if you had nothing. And Huckleberry is announced as the greatest character the Finns have contributed to the world.

Three R's of education—Rah! Rah! Chemistry: Who made the first nitride? Answer: Paul Revere.

Music Festival Is To Be Held in Ord

The Loup Valley Musical festival will be held at Ord on March 21. All the towns in the Loup Valley will be eligible to participate in this contest. The festival will be featured by the appearance of the Nebraska Wesleyan A Capella Male Chorus, who will give the artists program for the evening.

Professor Sievers, head of the Fine Arts College at Wesleyan will, in all probability, be the critic for the day. The contest numbers for all large organizations in contest work have been announced and the music has been received for immediate practice.

The numbers selected for class B competition are as follows: orchestra, "Sunrise at Sea," by Damarest; band, "Prelude to L'Arlesienne Suite, No. L. by Grieg—Harris and the Boys Glee club, "Gypsy Life," by Scott. Girls Glee club, "In the Boat" by Grieg.

Other companionate numbers are being selected and the musical organizations all march steadily toward the festival at Ord and the district contest at Grand Island.

It is as yet, undecided whether any of the Ord organizations will be entered in the state contest, as this will, of course depend on their standing in the local and district contest.

Kiddies' Column

All of the pupils in the kindergarten room are back in school again. A number had been absent with colds. They are now studying the engineer in this room.

Mrs. Glen Auble and Miss Carrie Hesseltime visited in the first and second grades last week. The first graders are making chalk pictures of children sliding down hill.

Gordon Sorensen and Helen Boyer are back in school after an absence of two weeks. The second grade had a spelling dictation lesson Friday. Twenty-one had perfect scores and earned a gold star.

Richard Long is absent from school because of illness. In the second grade citizenship race between the Fairies and the Brownies, the Fairies are ahead. Kenneth Canfield of the third grade has moved away.

Evelyn Fredericksen and Reva Lincoln have had perfect spelling lessons all year. Mrs. Lincoln was a visitor in the third grade this week.

The third graders have been reading about and drawing pictures of the new train. The fourth grade pupils had a peanut shower on their teachers this week.

In geography class the fifth grade is making maps and booklets of the western states. In arithmetic they are studying multiplication of fractions.

Everyone was glad to see LeVern Gross back in school again this week. Carol Hill is a new pupil in the sixth grade. She had been attending school in District 69 of Custer county before moving to Ord.

Phyllis Blood returned with her mother to Ohio last Saturday. The sixth grade will miss Phyllis in many ways.

The fifth and sixth grade English classes have been studying "The Life of Longfellow," and reading many of his poems. The fifth grade memorized "The Children's Hour" and the sixth grade memorized "Excelsior."

Special reports are being given on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the sixth grade to teach history through the lives of prominent leaders. Reporters: Patricia Frazier and Clifford Barnes.

"Circumstances Alter Cases" To Be Contest 1-Act Comedy; Both Contests In Ord.

Declamatory work in the various divisions has started. The divisions this year, as usual, are extemporaneous, original or prepared orations, and dramatic or humorous readings. There will be several high school instructors to aid those students, working for the local program, and who are interested in any of these divisions, so that each student may receive as much help as possible.

Everyone who is interested in this type of work is urged to come out for the more who enter, the better will be the local program, and the better the opportunities for a good showing in contest work. Students are particularly urged to try for the original orations and extemporaneous speeches as these sections are not usually over-crowded, and therefore afford a better opportunity. As the public speaking classes have been working the past week on original orations, some of the students already have a good start.

Students giving prepared readings are to do their own selecting, either from those on hand or they may order any desired reading. A list of the readings given in the last four years is posted in the English room. As much as possible, these readings should be avoided, particularly those given in the last two years.

The work on the contest one-act play, "Circumstances Alter Cases" has also started. The scene is in the living room of a modern city apartment. The son is very much opposed to his mother's re-marriage until he meets his prospective step-sister. According to contest rules, this play is a comedy of about twenty-five minutes. There are five characters: the maid, father and daughter, mother and son. Those who are interested are furnished with a copy of the play and are to select a three to five minute section of the play, which is to be memorized and presented with a chosen partner or partners. This method will provide the student with a better opportunity to display his talents and ability for careful work. The tryouts will be held about the middle of February, and work on the play will begin immediately thereafter.

Any high school student is eligible to try out for any section of the declamatory contest. The local program will be presented about the middle of March, and the district contest is scheduled for March 26 and will be held here at Ord.

Convocations

The Junior High presented a convocation last Wednesday, January 30. The program consisted of a baritone solo by Dick Koupal, a clarinet duet by Edward Sweet and Eugene Puncocar and a play, "The Neighbors," which was enacted by the following members of the Junior High classes: Eugene Puncocar, Joy Loft, Viola Puncocar, Maxine Fox, Marilyn Dale, Eloise Norris, Irene Knebel, Dolores Higgins, Jean Dahlin, Luella Jones, Angelina Wachtrie, Alberta Flynn, Viona Wolfe, and Betty Jane Vogelanz.

A special convocation was held at 11:00 o'clock last Friday, February 1. Professor Gregg, head of the department of Psychology of Wesleyan university gave a most interesting illustrated lecture on the harm of cigarette smoking. He was assisted by Rodney Stoltz, a 1932 graduate of Ord, who is at present, a student of Wesleyan.

A pep rally was held Friday noon, February 1 in preparation for the Ravenna game Friday evening. A pep band, led by Mr. Duncan played the pep songs and the cheer leaders led the assembly in yells.

BUTTER The Superior Food
for Young and Old

Vitamin D in Butter

Vitamin D, called the antirachitic vitamin, is necessary to the proper calcification of bones and teeth. When present in sufficient amount, the vitamin acts as an adjuster in depositing the minerals, calcium and phosphorus, in the bony tissues of the body. When vitamin D is lacking, these minerals are deposited improperly and faulty bone construction results. Such a condition is known as rickets, and is a disease common to young children.

BUTTER is HIGHER than a YEAR AGO

—but compared to other foods it is still a bargain when you take into consideration the good health that is contained in a pound of it.

Farmers are getting about twice as much for their cream as they did a year ago. Their cream checks are used to buy necessities handled by the merchants of our town. Town and City dwellers serve the farmers and thus share in any increased returns because of higher butter prices.

To Quit Eating Butter is Like Cutting Off Your Nose To Spite Your Face!

For Your Own Best Interests --- EAT BUTTER

We don't care whether you eat Country Butter, our Land of Gold Butter or Butter made in some other town, county or state, just so you EAT BUTTER.

Of course most people prefer to use the best butter on the market and that is why we sell so much butter in Ord and surrounding towns.

THE ORD QUIZ, ORD, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1935.

VOL. 25 NO. 46

CORN-HOG MEN ELECT OFFICERS WED., FEBR. 20TH

Committeemen Chosen At 8:00
P. M.; County Committee To Be Organized February 21.

Community corn-hog elections will be held in all townships in Valley county next week, according to an announcement by C. C. Dale, county secretary. All meetings are scheduled for 8 p. m., Wednesday, February 20.

Meeting places are as follows: Noble—Brick school. Yale—Hayes Creek school. Michigan—Fairplay school, District No. 26. Davis Creek—Davis Creek school.

Liberty—Pleasant Valley school. Ord—district court room. Independent—Barker school. Elyria—town hall. Arcadia—Arcadia library. Springdale—Springdale school house.

Geranium—National hall. Vinton—Cottonwood school. Enterprise—District No. 9 school. Eureka—District No. 49 school. North Loup—Olean school house.

At these meetings three men will be elected to serve as community committeemen. The first man elected will serve as chairman of the community committee and will also be a member of the county committee. The other two members elected will serve as vice-chairman and secretary respectively, of the community committee. These three men will have the responsibility of appraising the corn yields of all farms under contract.

It is essential that men of ability and good judgment be selected for these offices. All community committeemen are to meet at the court house on Thursday, Feb. 21, at 1:30 p. m., at which time they will receive instructions for appraising corn yields. The chairman of all community committees will meet later in the afternoon to complete the county organization by electing officers for 1935.

It is required by the by-laws of the association that all 1934 contract signers and all new signers of 1935 applications be notified of these community meetings. Only men who have signed applications for 1935 contracts however, will be eligible to vote.

Boy Scout Troops May Be Formed Here

Frank Chase, executive secretary of the Boy Scouts of America organization, with headquarters at Lincoln, met with representatives of Ord churches and civic organizations Monday noon at a luncheon in Keeple's cafe and plans for forming several Boy Scout troops in Ord were discussed.

Organizations represented Monday were the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary club, American Legion, Methodist church, Presbyterian church and the Ord schools.

Cost to the community of joining the Boy Scout movement would be $60, Chase explained, this cost providing for troop supplies and supervision by Boy Scout executives. The cost is based on a per capita charge of 3c for cities of 2,000. Boys who join would also have to pay annual dues of 50c each.

Seventy per cent of successful Scout organizations are sponsored by churches, Chase said, and recommended that the Ord churches sponsor troops. It was also suggested Monday that the Legion or the Chamber of Commerce might act as general sponsor with churches sponsoring individual troops.

No decision relative to organizing was made at the luncheon Monday but Chase will return to Ord in about a month for further discussion of the subject.

Golden Rule Store Making Improvements

Extensive remodeling is under way at the Golden Rule store in Ord where a force of carpenters is busy tearing out the balcony and otherwise making changes that will enhance the comfort and convenience of the store. When the improvements are completed, departments will be rearranged. Manager John Goddard says, C. E. Goodhand owns the building and is directing the work.

The Banta Sale. Jim Banta will hold a cleanup sale on Thursday, February 21. He is offering is listed on another page of the Quiz this week. His offering is not so large, but it is good and if you want some good goods or a piece of machinery you want to attend this sale.

Dr. Yannice to Speak. Dr. A. P. Yannice, state superintendent of the United Brethren church, will speak Sunday evening in a union service. The public is invited to attend.

Bookkeeping Machine Purchased By Council

A Burrows bookkeeping machine, bought at a cost of $775, will be installed in the city light and water office in the near future. This machine was purchased last week by the light committee of the council, which is composed of Guy Burrows, Val Pullen and A. Bartanek. The committee had previously been authorized by the council to make the purchase.

Increased work of billing and posting in the office was created when the council authorized a 10 per cent reduction in rates a few weeks ago and it became necessary to install additional equipment or employ another clerk to assist City Clerk Rex Jewett.

The new Burrows machine is the latest type, doing all the work of billing and posting with a single operation, and should speed up book work at the city office materially.

MRS. GEO. EMERY DIED SAT'DAY AT BLESSING HOME

Mother of Ord Woman Passes
After Extended Illness;
Funeral Held Monday.

Mrs. George E. Emery, mother of Mrs. F. L. Blessing of Ord, passed away at 4:55 p. m., Saturday, Feb. 9, at the Blessing home in Ord, after an illness of several weeks. Funeral services were held in Ord Monday afternoon and burial was in Ord cemetery.

Mrs. Emery was born in Bolton, Vt., Aug. 27, 1865, later moving with her parents to Jericho, Vt., where her early education was obtained. She came to Nebraska as a school teacher and here met Mr. Emery, whom she married. Beatrice was the family name for many years but later the Emery family moved to Lincoln, which remained Mrs. Emery's residence until about eight weeks ago when she came to Ord to be with her daughter, Mrs. Blessing.

In Lincoln Mrs. Emery's residence was marked by her church and club activity. She was a prominent member of Holy Trinity Episcopal church for twenty-five years. She was also active in church organizations and was a member of the Tuesday Review club.

Mrs. Emery visited in Ord many times and during her frequent visits made many friends who grieve at her passing. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Blessing, and her husband, Mrs. Emery is survived by two sons, Calvin A., of Hollywood, Calif., and Paul, of Geneva, Neb.; also by three grandchildren, Charlotte Blessing, of Ord, Paul Emery, Jr., of Geneva, and Mary Ellen Emery, of Hollywood.

Rev. H. H. Marsden, of Holy Trinity church, Lincoln, conducted the last rites Monday. He was accompanied to Ord by Miss Olive Seamark, music director of Holy Trinity church, who sang two hymns, "Lead Kindly Light" and "Peace, Perfect Peace." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Kirby McGrew.

Palbearers were Dr. Kirby McGrew, Frank P. O'Neal, William Sack, Edward Holub, Stanley McLain and Emil Fafela.

Many beautiful floral tributes were received and a host of the friends of Mrs. Emery and of the Blessing family gathered to pay final tributes to the deceased.

Out of town people attending the services included Mr. and Mrs. Ed Clark of Edgar, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Doran, of Burwell and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Emery and son of Geneva.

Wellers Remodelling Office.

To call at the Weller Lumber Company office right now, one would think they are tearing the whole place down but such is not the case. It is true that the office building has been completely gutted, partitions are taken out, windows are being closed and the outside of the building will be remodeled and stuccoed, new floors will be laid and when the job is done it will look like a real business office. Manager Vern Weller says he knows business is quiet right now and it is a good time to make the needed improvements and be ready for the good business that is sure to come a little later as conditions improve. We congratulate the company on the improvements being made.

Roads Ass'n. Meets Today. At Keeple's cafe at 12:30 p. m. today, the Valley County Good Roads association is holding a luncheon and annual meeting. Reports will be heard, officers elected and plans made for highway promotion in this county during 1935. All members are urged to attend and bring guests.

Dr. Zeta Nay reports the birth Sunday morning of an 8 1/2 pound daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miska.

ED WEIR WILL BE SPEAKER AT C. OF C. DINNER

All-America Football Star Will Speak, Show Movies, At Feed for New Members.

Edwin Weir, Nebraska's all-America tackle and now assistant coach at the University of Nebraska, will be the principal speaker at a banquet for new members to be held by the Ord Chamber of Commerce late in February. Exact date has not been set but the dinner probably will be held on February 26 or 27.

The Chamber had invited Coach Dana X. Bible to speak here but Coach Bible wrote that he has to be in New York City late this month to attend a football rules conference and therefore would be unable to come to Ord until after spring football practice. He suggested, however, that Assistant Coach Weir would be glad to appear here.

Weir will bring with him a portable moving picture machine and will show movies of many of Nebraska's games, explaining exciting bits of action as the film is shown. J. Edgar Mower, chairman of the Chamber's membership committee, announces that a drive for new members will begin next Monday, ending on the day of the dinner. All old members are also expected to attend, and members are invited to bring their wives.

Exact date and place of the dinner will be announced next week.

Installing New Feed Mill. Arrangements were being made the first of the week to install a new, large grinder in the Noll Seed company place of business to take care of the rapidly growing business of this firm. More and more, people are coming to see the wisdom of having all grain ground and the old equipment is not capable of handling the ever increasing business.

BONUS PAYMENT ADVOCATED BY LEGION OFFICER

District Commander Backs Stand of Nat'l Committee In Talk Here; 130 Present.

About 130 members of Legion posts and Auxiliary chapters in Ord, Burwell, North Loup and Arcadia gathered at the Legion hall in Ord Monday evening to greet district officers, Dr. Wirt and Miss Mabel Meyers, both of York. A covered dish supper, business meetings and a joint program were features of the meeting, which was the most successful Legion get-together ever held here.

In his talk Dr. Wirt, who is district commander of the Legion, advocated full and immediate payment of the face value of Adjusted Service Certificates with cancellation of interest accrued and refund of interest paid, which he said will be accomplished by passage of the so-called Bonus Bill now before Congress.

Dr. Wirt backed the Legion's national committee in its entire 4-point program, other features of which are enactment of an adequate widows' and orphans' pension law, enactment of the Legion's Universal Service plan which includes conscription of capital, industry and man-power in event of war, and immediate strengthening of the nation's army, navy and air forces.

Other speakers included Miss Meyers, district Auxiliary president, Mr. Portlow, commander of the Legion post at York, and Floyd Cooper, adjutant of that post. Cecil S. Clark, commander of the Ord post, presided over the Legion's business meeting and Edwin Clements announced numbers on the program that followed.

A feature of this program was a talk by Rev. Charles F. Wanz, of Midvale, who gave a forceful Legion sermon. Mrs. Ferd Wheeler, of Burwell, gave a reading, the Legion's male chorus sang and several violin-cello duets were played by Orville H. Sowl and Edwin Clements. During the supper hour the Ord high school band, garbed in uniforms purchased with funds raised by the Legion and Auxiliary, gave a concert.

Two Marriages Performed. County Judge John L. Andersen has been called on recently to perform two marriages. On Jan. 31 he united in marriage Agnes E. Ruzicka and Joseph Turek, the ceremony being performed in the home of Mrs. Mike Pesek with Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Bartos as witnesses. On Feb. 7 Judge Andersen united in marriage Miss Eileen Eiste Liberski and Jos. P. Pokorney in his office.

First Hangar Built With Lumber From Ist Hog House

Valley county's first airplane hangar was completed Tuesday and, strange as it may seem, it was constructed of lumber from the hog house in which this county's first Poland China hogs were fattened, C. E. Turnblade, Ord shoe repair expert and amateur aviator, built the hangar on the Joe Gregory farm north of town. On this farm Joe's father, the late J. W. Gregory, raised Valley county's first Poland China hogs in a hog house built when he bought his first pair of Poland Chinas. The hog house was torn down recently and the lumber was used by Turnblade to build his hangar.

Mr. Turnblade, who came to Ord some months ago and purchased Frank Tedrov's shoe shop, is an expert aviator and owns his own plane.

Old Age Commission Does Worthy Work

Funds Limited but 18 Aged People Helped During 1934; May Have More Money This Year.

Although sadly limited by lack of funds the Valley county Old Age Commission, which is composed of Jos. P. Barta, C. J. Morjensen, Fred Coe, L. D. Milliken and A. W. Cornell, is doing a very worthy work. During 1934 only $800 was at the disposal of this commission but 18 aged people were given small pensions during the year. In most cases the pensions were only $4 to $5 per month each but since most of the cases involved had small incomes of their own they were thus enabled to get along without county or FERA aid.

The Nebraska pension law, passed in 1933 by the state legislature, levies a tax of 50c upon every person of voting age and provides that 1/2 of the tax shall be used to pay pensions to persons over 65 years of age who have incomes of less than $300 per year and have no immediate relatives able to assume their support. It is also provided by law that people drawing old age pensions may not receive aid from any other public relief sources.

Last year 42 old people applied for pensions here but since all could not be accommodated the commission decided to take care of "border line cases"; that is, people who had some slight income of their own and would be enabled to get along without other aid by being paid the pensions. Old people who were entirely without means of support were advised to seek county or FERA aid.

Four of the 18 who were given old age pensions in 1934 died during the year. At the present time 20 are receiving pensions.

If all taxes are collected the commission hopes to have at its disposal approximately $1,500 this year, which will permit the work to be extended. It is also considered likely that the state legislature will increase the tax, probably to about $2.00 per month, and that Congress will provide payment of about $15.00 per month to old people, this sum to be matched by an equal amount of state and county funds. When and if such action takes place most of the old people in Valley county can be cared for.

The Valley county commission meets about once a month to consider applications.

Ira Meyers Sells Fine Lot of Cattle

Ira E. Meyers, cattleman of the Elyria vicinity, marketed the finest lot of cattle Saturday that has passed through the Ord sale ring in several years, reports Col. E. C. Weller. There were 94 cattle in the bunch and all were bought by Charles Bals, who paid $8.50 per cwt. for 34 head and from $2.20 to $2.30 for the other 60, which were calves.

Business is improving, Col. Weller says, and receipts of livestock Saturday doubled last fall's run. He looks for steady improvement throughout the spring months.

Evelyn Abernethy Weds. Miss Evelyn Abernethy, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jason L. Abernethy of Flint, was married at Fremont on February 2 to George H. Howard, of Lincoln. Evelyn is an Ord high school graduate and for three years was a successful Valley county school teacher. Mr. Howard manages a filling station in Lincoln, where he and his bride will make their home.

Sunday Chester Frey went to Sargent where he is helper in the B. and M. depot. He has been working for some time under his father, Henry Frey, in the Ord Burlington depot.

DISTRICT CAGE TOURNAMENT TO BE HELD IN ORD

Class B Basketball Teams Coming Here, Class A Teams Play At Gothenburg.

That the annual Class B basketball tournament for this district will be held in Ord during the week of Feb. 25 to March 2 was the announcement made yesterday by Millard D. Bell, superintendent of Ord schools, who received word from the secretary of the Nebraska High School Athletic association. Exact dates have not been set but the tourney probably will take place on Feb. 28 and March 1.

High schools with an average daily attendance of 100 or less are Class B schools so far as basketball competition is concerned and 16 schools of this size will send their teams to Ord for this tournament. Dannebrog, Elba, Scotia, Comstock, Taylor and schools of similar size within a radius of 60 miles of Ord are expected to compete here.

Schools with an average daily enrollment of over 100 are called Class A schools. The district Class A tournament will be held at Gothenburg and since Ord is a Class A school the Chanticleers will play at Gothenburg. The Class A district tournament will be held a week later than the Class B tourney.

Winners in the 16 district Class A tournaments will play in the state tournament at Lincoln about the middle of March. Class B district winners will play in a state tourney at Hastings about the same time.

Next week the Ord team competes in the Loup Valley conference tournament at Arcadia, which they are expected to win handily. St. Paul is Ord's only dangerous competitor in the conference and it is likely that these two teams will meet in the finals.

Tomorrow night the Chanticleers meet the undefeated Ansley team in a regularly scheduled game on the Ord floor. Still smarting under the 28-10 defeat given them by Kearney last Friday, the Ord boys will attempt to stage a comeback at Ansley's expense but the Ansley lads will prove tough competition.

Must Order Seed Before February 18

All farmers who wish to order small grain seed must file their orders by Monday, Feb. 18, at the county agent's office, or if orders are filed with township drouth committeemen they must be filed by Saturday, Feb. 16, the Quiz is asked to announce.

According to word received at the county agent's office today, orders must be received at Minneapolis by February 20, and if counties have not ordered their allotment of seed by that time, the seed will be re-allotted to counties which have ordered more than their allotment.

Many farmers seem to be under the impression that the seed survey cards which they filled out last August were orders for seed, which is not the case. Unless a farmer has filed an order since January 1, either at the county agent's office or with his township committeeman, he will not receive any of the government seed.

Farmers should not wait to make application for a seed loan before ordering. The seed loan bill has been passed by congress but it will be some time before forms for taking applications are available locally. If a man waits for these forms to arrive the seed will all be gone.

Arnold Visits Ord.

F. G. Arnold, of Fullerton, secretary of the state Taxpayers League, was an Ord visitor Tuesday and visited the Quiz office. He is a brother of Rev. Charles Arnold, who in former years was a well known and popular pastor of the local Presbyterian church. Mr. Arnold has promised to come back in the near future and tell us more about the workings of the state organization which he represents. The Quiz believes there is a demand in this state for such an organization, if it can be operated along same lines and we shall await Mr. Arnold's visit with much interest and expect to be able to cooperate with him in forwarding the aims of his organization.

Ernest Smith Quitting.

Ernest Smith is going to hold a cleanup sale and quit farming. He is forced to this move because of his health, which will not permit the hard work necessary to carry on the farm work. His sale offering will be found on another page of the Quiz this week.

The M. S. Vincent family have been living at Minatare, Neb., and write this week to have their Quiz changed to Scottsbluff where they have moved.

Donald L. Umstead Dies at Age of 14

Donald L. Umstead, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Umstead, passed away at his home here at 1:00 p. m. Friday, Feb. 8, after an illness of over a year with diabetes. During his long illness the lad was always thoughtful and was always thoughtful of others.

Donald was born on a farm two miles east of Ord on March 6, 1921. Besides his parents he is mourned by three sisters, Mrs. Doris Scofield, of Burwell, Eya and La Vay, at home; by a grandfather, Melvin Hill, of Denver, a nephew, Irvin Scofield, of Burwell and by a host of friends. One brother, Richard Dean, died in infancy.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 p. m. Sunday, Feb. 10, at the Sowl chapel, Rev. Mable J. Young of the United Brethren church being in charge. Interment was in Cottonwood cemetery, Burwell.

LIBRARY BOARD SEEKS FEDERAL LOAN AND GRANT

$20,000 Building to Be Built If Work Relief Funds Granted
On Ord Application.

Tentative plans for construction of a $20,000 library building in Ord are revealed by the application of the Ord township library board for a federal loan and grant from PWA funds soon to be made available by the government's $4,489,000,000 bill now before congress. Construction of the library depends entirely upon what action is taken by state and federal PWA authorities upon the tentative application filed last week by Jos. P. Barta, secretary-treasurer of the library board.

The application estimated the cost of site and building at $20,000 and stated that the township has between 5 and 6 thousand dollars available. A loan and grant for the balance is asked.

In some cases federal grants up to 50 per cent of the cost of the proposed improvements will be made. PWA regulations state. It is thought that at least 30 per cent of the total cost will be granted under any conditions. Should only 30 per cent, or about $6,000 be given in the form of a grant, the township would have to borrow about $14,000 in order to finance the structure.

As soon as the board's application is acted upon and information is given as to what the PWA will do, the library board will meet and decide whether or not to go ahead. Filing of a tentative application does not bind the board to do anything further unless it is found advantageous to do so and Secretary Barta makes it plain that library building plans will be abandoned unless it is found possible to effect a distinct saving by building at the present time.

New 'Talkie' Machine Installed by Theatre

New sound equipment of the latest type was installed recently in the Ord Theatre at a cost of about $1,400, the Quiz learns from Martine Biemond, owner and manager. The new equipment is of the "wide range" type, having three amplifiers, one for low notes, another for high notes and the third for all intermediate notes. The new machine was installed about two weeks ago by experts from Omaha but Manager Biemond said nothing about the improvement until all adjustments were made and the new "talkie" machine was working perfectly.

People who have attended the theatre in the past week have noted and marveled at the perfection of this apparatus, which is a great improvement over the former single-amplifier machine.

Manager Biemond is determined to spare no expense to give Ord Theatre patrons the finest entertainment possible and this he is able to do with his new sound machine.

Rutur Hatchery Reopening. The Rutur Hatchery, out of business since a fire that damaged the Hawkins building in which it was located, is reopening this week in the Charles Siler building on M street. Much new equipment is being installed.

G. A. R. LADIES HAVE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Andersen have moved into one of Miss Helen Collins' houses southwest of the grade school building on South 18th street. Mr. and Mrs. Andersen have for several months been living with Frank's people, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Andersen.

TEN MILLION IN TAXES COULD BE SAVED - ARNOLD

State Tax League Chief Speaks
Here, Says Legislature Should Pass League's Program.

Frank B. Arnold, of Fullerton, president of the Nebraska Federation of Taxpayers Leagues, addressed the Valley county league, which was holding its annual meeting at the district court room in Ord Tuesday afternoon. League officers did not know he was coming and only a few people were out to hear him.

Ten million dollars in tax money will be saved annually by Nebraska taxpayers if the League's 1935 legislative program is adopted, declared Mr. Arnold. He outlined the 18-point program, explaining and defending each proposal.

Protect investments of permanent school funds. Taxes to be first lien on fire insurance policies covering buildings that have been destroyed by fire. Collect personal taxes on automobiles at time license issued. Reduction in free high school tuition.

Relieve the unequal tax burden on farm lands in city school districts. Limit the power of county boards to contract indebtedness in excess of 85 per cent of the levy. Prohibit the issuance of bonds by counties for any purpose except emergency or refunding bonds.

Remove all general property tax for highway and bridge construction and maintenance. Designate responsibility for handling gasoline and lubricating oil in counties and cities where purchased in large quantities.

Reduction in county officials' salaries. Limitation in bond issues. All bond issues to fall due serially, time limit 25 years. Supervision of sinking funds.

New law requiring proper budgeting, accounting and auditing in all political subdivisions. More equitable allocation of gasoline tax between counties and as between counties and states.

Publication of claims in advance of allowance rather than after. Reduce all mileage of public officials in the state to 4c per mile. Place all municipal profit producing activities on the tax roll.

These proposals, said Arnold, follow generally resolutions adopted at the League's state convention in Central City in December, which he said was the most successful convention the League has ever held. Bills to accomplish each of these reforms have been proposed in the Nebraska legislature and he predicted that many would be passed.

Joe J. Waldmann, Valley county president, presided Tuesday and was re-elected for another term. C. E. Goodhand was re-elected secretary.

Large Turn-out at Benefit.

Thirty-one tables of bridge, pinocle and high five players played at the benefit party held Tuesday evening by Pythian Sisters. Bridge contestants played on the progressive plan, the homes of Mrs. C. A. Anderson, Mrs. W. L. Blessing, Mrs. August Petersen and Miss Daisy Hallen being used, as well as the lounge of the K. of P. hall. Pinocle and high five was played in the ball room of the K. of P. hall. Bridge winners were E. C. Leggett and Mrs. Forrest Johnson, the pinocle winner was J. T. Knezacek and the high five winner was Mrs. E. W. Gruber. A luncheon was served following the evening's play. Pythian Sisters raised the sum of about $19.00.

To the 1935 Graduates.

The Quiz would like to make the name cards which you will send with your announcements. The price is the same as last year, 100 for $1 or 200 for $1.50. We have several kinds of cards to select from, also several kinds of type to set your name in.

Bridge Contest Tonight.

Eight players from St. Paul are driving to Ord tonight to engage a similar number of Ord players in a contract bridge team match, play to take place at Keeple's cafe. On the Ord team will be the following pairs: Dr. F. A. Barta and Lester Norton, John P. Misko and E. C. Leggett, Shirley Norton and J. D. McCann, John Clemons and Archie Clemons. Three weeks ago this same team defeated St. Paul by about 3,000 points. A luncheon will be served following the contest tonight.

Miss Gertrude Hawkins has received word that her nephew, Harry Knudsen, of Omaha, was knocked from his bicycle by a hit-and-run driver and his head was injured. The accident happened in front of the Knudsen home. Harry is about eleven years old. Later word received by Miss Hawkins is that Harry is recovering.

RADIO INTERFERENCE.

A move is one foot in Ord, we understand, to bring about a reduction in the amount of radio interference that has been noted this winter. Radio owners are complaining because during much of the day and evening they are unable to use their machines. Unless steps to clear up this interference are taken by the proper authorities radio fans are threatening to make their own investigation as to causes and resort to court action to force a remedy.

Probably eighty per cent of Ordites own radios. A large sum of money is invested in these machines and to realize a proper return on their investment radio owners are entitled to interference free reception. There is no remedy for static but most man-made interference can be eliminated. It is to be hoped that the trouble may be settled in a reasonable and amicable way.

A VICTORY FOR NORRIS.

Senator George W. Norris performed another public service last week when he introduced in the United States Senate a bill to take the entire postoffice department out of politics. The Norris bill would forbid any postmaster or other official of the postoffice department holding any political office or taking part in any political campaign. It is aimed at Postmaster General Farley, who besides serving in this capacity is also head of the democratic national committee.

Congress will not pass the Norris bill at this session but the fact that it was filed and received nationwide publicity will eventually bring about this reform.

The postoffice department, a federal monopoly furnishing a needed public service, has no place in politics. It should not be used as a political football. Its officials should be appointed because of their ability to serve the public courteously and efficiently, not because they are vote-getters for the national ticket.

Senator Norris, as always, points the way toward better government.

MOTORISTS PAY AGAIN.

Governor Roy Cochran last week called upon the Nebraska legislature to levy an additional 1 cent tax on gasoline to finance state relief expenditures in accordance with FERA requirements. Without doubt the big democratic majority in House and Senate will heed Cochran's wishes and levy the new tax. Again motorists will pay.

The FERA demands that Nebraska raise $2,000,000 annually for the next two years as its share of the relief load; otherwise, federal relief will be withdrawn in this state. Administrator Hopkins has announced.

It is doubtless necessary to raise the amount required for it is unthinkable that Nebraska should allow federal funds to be withdrawn. The money will necessarily have to be raised by some means other than a direct tax on property for property, real and personal, is taxed to the fullest extent possible now.

Why should motorists pay the relief bill?

Already there is a 4c state tax and a 1c federal tax on gasoline. Already motorists pay a federal tax when they buy the car, a personal property tax each year, federal taxes on oil and all accessories and indirect taxes of several kinds. Now they are asked to shoulder the state's entire relief burden by payment of an additional 1c tax.

"Soak the motorist" seems to be the order of the day.

PRESERVE THE SOCIETY.

Clord L. Stewart, state senator from Clay county, has introduced a bill that would, if passed, practically abolish the Nebraska State Historical Society. The bill should be speedily killed, in the opinion of the Quiz.

The Historical Society is almost sixty years old and during all that time it has been of the utmost service to Nebraska. Its cost has been very low. Under the able leadership of Addison E. Sheldon the Historical Society has, in recent years, built up one of the finest state historical libraries in the United States. A complete history of the state might well be written from the files of the newspaper library there, for the Society has almost complete files of every newspaper published in Nebraska from 1891 until the present time. The Stewart bill proposes to abolish the Historical Society and substitute a commission of five members, the Clerk of the Supreme Court, the Librarian of the State University, the head of the American History Department of the State University and two others to be appointed by the Governor. All three of the officers named in the bill say they have no desire to have the bill passed and prefer to work in cooperation with the present Historical Society.

What useful purpose can be served by passage of the Stewart bill? None. It cannot reduce the cost of preserving historical records. It cannot increase the efficiency of doing so. The Stewart bill appears to be one of those useless pieces of legislation that so often introduce to serve personal ends or satisfy personal grudges. There is no sense in changing the functions of government unless economy or efficiency is the end in view.

The Legislature should kill this bill, H. F. 171, as quickly as possible.

COST OF NEWSPAPERS.

Quiz subscribers pay $2.00 per year for this newspaper; are they paying the entire cost of producing it or are they getting a real bargain?

It has long been conceded that subscribers to any newspaper or magazine pay only a fractional part of the production cost and to find out just what the Quiz costs per copy each year the management consulted production records recently and figured it out. The results were somewhat surprising to us and they will be surprising to Quiz readers also.

Our production records prove that the cost of sending a copy of the Quiz to the average subscriber during 1934 was $5.91! Some difference between cost of production and the price the subscriber pays!

During 1934 the average paid circulation of the Quiz was 2,335 copies weekly. More copies than this are printed, some being sent to advertisers, agencies, exchanges, etc., but the average paid circulation weekly was 2,335. During 1934 we paid out for print paper, postage, salaries, ink, electricity, rent, heat and other items that enter into the expense of producing the Quiz, the sum of $13,931.28. Dividing $13,931.28 by 2,335 we learn that the average cost per subscription was $5.91.

The Quiz maintains a commercial printing department as well as publishing a newspaper and it should be explained that the above expense figures were for newspaper expense items only. Expense of producing commercial printing was charged to the job department and does not enter into figures given above.

A bound copy of the fifty-two issues of the Quiz issued in 1934 makes a book of over 500 pages, over two inches thick and weighing almost 10 pounds. Compared with a book of fiction, which usually costs $2.50, the Quiz is a wonderful bargain at $2.00.

Who pays the difference between the production cost and the amount the subscriber pays, you may ask? Why the advertiser, of course. He is paying over two-thirds of the cost of the paper you are reading right now.

Every subscriber owes a duty to the Quiz advertisers, a duty to read their messages and patronize them whenever possible. Such patronage will be mutually profitable.

BLENDED GASOLINE.

At the 1933 session of the Nebraska legislature, if memory serves, a bill was introduced that would have required the blending of a certain percentage of alcohol with every gallon of gasoline sold in this state. The bill failed of passage and therefore no such requirement has been made. Similar bills proposed in other state legislatures likewise failed of passage. This winter if another alcohol-gasoline bill should be introduced at Lincoln our lawmakers should think twice before turning the bill down.

Nebraska produces no gasoline but it does produce a wealth of farm products from which alcohol might be cheaply distilled. Until last year there was a terrific over-production of farm products and it is likely there will again be over-production in future years.

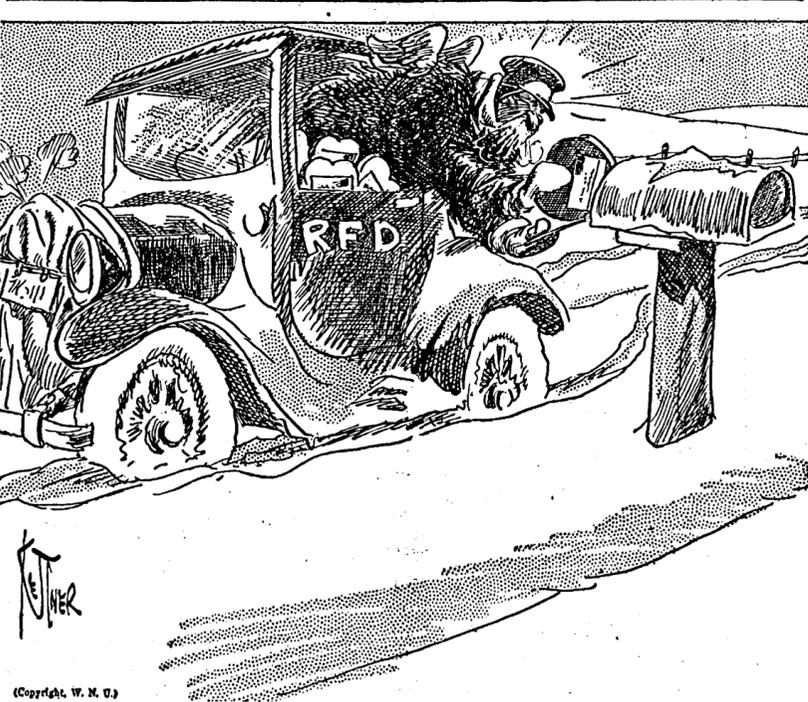

Automobiles, trucks and tractors, although great conveniences, have done much to ruin the agricultural west because, unlike beasts of burden that formerly furnished motive power, they cannot subsist upon the products of the farm. While enriching certain portions of the manufacturing east and the oil producing states, they upset the delicate balance formerly existing between these sections and the agricultural west, to the distinct disadvantage of the latter. This balance might well be restored by making use of alcohol distilled from our own farm products as fuel for our automobiles and other gasoline-propelled vehicles.

Thirty nations already use an alcohol-gasoline blend as motor fuel and it is working out very satisfactorily, from all reports. Chemists in the United States say it will work with equal satisfaction here.

It is claimed that if 10 per cent alcohol were added to all gasoline sold in the United States, based on 1934 consumption, over 630 million bushels of corn or its equivalent of other agricultural products would be consumed annually. Wheat, rye, barley, potatoes, artichokes, sugar beets, cane and many other products could be used for the production of alcohol as well as corn.

In the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post, Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, prophesies that our petroleum resources, or that portion of them that can be easily and cheaply produced, will be exhausted within 30 years. He recommends federal regulation of the petroleum industry to prevent further wastage. Why not also require all gasoline to be blended with alcohol, thus conserving oil resources and aiding agriculture as well?

CARE OF COUNTY BOARD

By George Gowen

Dear Jake:

A little excursion to the city with friend Oscar. He had a few errands. So did I. Each went our way to meet at the Postoffice at two and then to the horse sale. Up into the Masonic building, fifth floor, to see Home Loan officials, who office in all the luxury and splendor of King Solomon's temple. They loan money for the government to folks in distress, who are losing their homes.

Down the elevator and on to the street again. To the south and into the editorial rooms of the G. I. Independent. A large desk littered with papers. A reporter, pounding furiously on a typewriter. His rather wide brimmed hat ceased tight in the center, pulled hard over one eye. A cigar clutched in his teeth pointed up toward the hat. He nodded, his hands still flying. Soon he finished, and working mechanically placed his copy in a basket, reclinched his belt, readjusted his hat, re-lit his cigar, resharpener his pencil, and strolled from the room, more worlds to conquer, more news to write.

Back to the street again. Not yet two. Into the hotel. There a crowd of men watching a negro porter and a professional man shoot the balls in that game of skill. Called skill. Skill in whether to shoot hard or easy. Regardless of the skill the house wins most of the time.

Must go to the postoffice. There I wait in front watching the folks come and go. A young lady with reddish brown hair, with a hat not quite so red and as large as a cookie pan, laying flat-like on the side of her head, drove a new car to the curb, steps out and mimes her way sedately up the steps and drops a letter in the slot.

Two more decorous elderly ladies, with freshly marcelled gray hair, striped fur coats, silk stockings and suede shoes, leading a plump Boston Screwtail, in a harness and blanket, skurry up the steps and down again to mail a letter. On their way to a bridge club, perhaps.

A thin young couple, leading a spindling little boy came hurrying along. The man's whole regalia was smirched with coal dust and his face was blackened. A summer cap was pulled over his ears, worn out oxfords on his feet and a cast-off coat buttoned about the neck. She was equally destitute, with cheap cotton stockings, turned over heels, and the added misfortune of having lost an eye. The dregs of the race we say. They too dropped a letter in the box, and Uncle Sam would do the rest, regardless.

Perhaps they were writing Dad, buying the stamps with the first real money they had earned in many months by that load of coal. Perhaps—but here comes Oscar.

We drive to the sale barn. The sale swarms all the afternoon like a hive of bees. Some men buying, some selling. A straight tall man who wears a big white wide-brimmed hat, so large the swallows might build their nests under the edge, who has straight black hair, small dark eyes and high cheek bones, buys horses. His step is easy and quick. I am glad I do not live in a day when he might accost me with a scalping knife.

We leave for home. At St. Paul we stop for gasoline and a snack. The short, blond waitress greets us with a nod and a "hello." She knows everyone, but not too well, and speaks with the whang of a movie actress. She visits with all the truckers, asking how things are at Greeley, Loup City, Taylor, and beyond. I have heard ones speech adds more to his personality than any other one thing. I like to hear her chat and hold my ear taut for every word. On home to find the folks eating supper. We might have eaten at

By H. D. Leggett

One of the most valuable things that a newspaper can have, that like a quiz, has been in continuous operation for more than fifty years, is its file of the publication. When I bought the Quiz, January 1, 1918, Mr. Haskell had such a file and he had another file, which, since, has proved to be incomplete. He took, among other personal effects, the complete file of the Quiz with him to his home, later removing it to Lincoln when he went there to make his home. It was some years later when I realized that I didn't have a complete file of the Quiz. In the meantime Mr. Haskell became sick. He was preparing to remove to California in the hope that a lower altitude and a warmer climate would restore his health. He must dispose of his personal effects, as another family was to move into his home in Lincoln and such things as a newspaper file would be nothing but trash in their eyes. So a junk man was called and told to load up and haul away a large amount of stuff, among it the Quiz file, which would be worth hundreds of dollars to me now if I could get it. But Mr. Haskell was too sick to even think about what was being sold and later, when he got better and came back and had time to think things over, he couldn't find the junk man or the papers. So now the Quiz is short, many copies from the earlier years that this paper was published. I am preparing to have bound such copies as I have, beginning with 1882 and if anyone has or knows of anyone who has some of those early papers, I would like very much to know it. I would give a good deal to be able to complete my files for those early years. Even the State Historical Society does not have a complete file of the early years.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

20 Years Ago This Week.

The worst blizzard in years struck Ord, blocking both railroads for three days. A party of 16 traveling men were caught here, among them being the famous humorist, Strickland Gillilan, who filled a lecture date in Ord the night the storm struck. He proved the "life of the party" and Ord people became very well acquainted with him during his enforced sojourn.

Albert McLain and Miss Odella Dietrich were married.

S. P. Hager arrived from Pennsylvania to visit his sons, C. A. and John. The old gentleman was enjoying remarkably good health.

H. G. Burson had a bunch of cows and sheep that were responding to demands for increased production in fine style. Within a few weeks his 9 cows gave him 11 calves and his 10 ewes produced 15 lambs.

Merwyn Swainly, an Arcadian and Mona Lacy of Galena, Ill., were married in Lincoln.

Invitations were out for the K. of P. ball, an annual function.

During the terrible storm the roof of a big cow shed on the Jorgen Moller farm caved in and eight purebred cattle were killed. The Moller farm was operated by Holm & Jensen, the owner being in Denmark.

25 Years Ago This Week.

Fire destroyed the new barn of W. G. Athey west of Olean. A horse was burned to death and much harness, feed and hay destroyed.

The Miller boys bought Mrs. Finch's land on Davis Creek and Mrs. Finch bought the J. T. Coon farm south of North Loup.

County Treasurer Paist announced that out of $47,000 personal taxes due in 1929, less than 1 per cent remained unpaid.

L. D. and Clarence Bailey departed on a trip to Mexico, taking advantage of excursion rates.

A report that Dr. Grothan, well known Kearney doctor, had gone insane was denied by the Quiz. The doctor had an argument with his wife and struck her, got mad at the cow and killed her, the Quiz reported, but he wasn't crazy.

J. B. Young returned from Kansas, where he bought a farm, and planned to move his family there within a few weeks.

Home and saved a quarter but what's a quarter more or less in a man's life time.

Received the following letter from Ed Hebig, who owns the Helbig Oil station at Burwell: Mr. Geo. Gowen:

As far as I am concerned you are FIERED as reporter or Quiz roustabout. I caught myself re-reading your write-ups before I read the North Loup news. Then I wished those dogs had done their duty.

Just wanted you to know some people enjoy you so let the good work go on.

As ever your friend, Ed.

Rattlesnakes in Early Life

Rattlesnakes, which are approximately five inches long at birth, will try to rattle and bite almost as soon as they are born. And when they are but five or six inches long they are capable of injecting venom in quantities sufficient to require treatment.

once become a real dictator, don't you think?

Several Quiz readers are going to miss their paper this week. I have just had to take them off the list for non-payment. I believe it is carelessness in every case where a paper has been stopped this week, that the one stopped has not paid. I don't believe there is a single one of them who could not have paid. I am sorry to take your names off the list. If you want the paper I want you to have it. You get for $2.00 what it is costing us about three times that amount to make for you and we just can't send it unless it is paid for.

It looks now as though about four places would be the limit in which we can buy booze, when the new liquor law gets to working. I am wondering if there will be the old brass rail to put our feet on, one at a time of course, as we lounge against the bar, tell smutty stories and drink our liquor. There are a lot of the younger generation who will have to learn to do it right.

It is no doubt in fact that had the foreign countries owing us huge sums paid their obligations, this country would have been in the world court.

Walter Lippman says public sentiment, being stronger than party discipline, kept us out of the world court. That is probably true and it should show the people that all they have to do is get up on their hind legs and howl and they can run this country. And the majority should run the country.

Col. Weller says a $200 a month Townsend hand-out might be all right now but he could have had a lot more fun with it when he was a handsome young buck with a good stomach.

I hate to think that politics is the deciding factor in whether the North Loup valley and especially Valley county, gets any state and federal projects. All over the state, recreation parks have been and are being established. All over the state federal projects of various kinds are being started. Fort Hartwitt would seem to be an ideal place to put a state park and recreation place. Thousands of people up and down the valley have got to be fed and our power-irrigation project would be a useful and worth-while project, giving employment now and leaving something permanent to insure this valley through the years to come, against the dry times which almost every year cuts the crop short and occasionally makes a no-crop year. A reason advanced for our not getting anywhere is that the democrat organization in this county is Bryan-inclined while the powers-that-be are Mullen-controlled. Can it be possible that such is the case? One leading and life-long democrat was asked by one of the high-ups, "What has Valley county done for the present national setup to deserve anything?" And that makes me wonder whether the present unheeded-of and almost unlimited spending of public money is, after all, a purely pork barrel proposition. Is, after all, the new five billion appropriation just a 1936 slush fund?

Guy Case has been connected with the Nebraska Signal, Geneva newspaper published by F. O. Edgemoor, for 30 years. Mr. Case is in charge of the mechanical department and advertising and he is a fine fellow. He must have an angelic disposition, too.

The proposed liquor bill prepared by Attorney General Wright, is said to be the idea of Governor Cochran. I believe the governor is making a mistake in not having a local option clause, effective from the start, inserted in the bill. I think it is an error to tolt saloons upon those communities which have never had a saloon, for a period of two years, in spite of anything they can do. North Loup, for instance, probably would never have a saloon if the people could determine whether or not they should have one. But under the Wright bill as drawn North Loup will have no choice in the matter if someone wants to start a saloon there and if the state liquor board grants the license.

Chicago reports the latest "American type" murder. Thomas E. Maloy, veteran head of Chicago's Motion Picture Operators' union, was killed in the usual way, as he sat at the wheel of his automobile.

The government says Mr. Maloy's career as a "union labor leader" was profitable. He had been indicted and released on bail on a charge of failure to report three hundred and fifty thousand dollars' income before the assassin's "stings" canceled that and other accusations.

If the leader of a motion picture union got that income you wonder how and from whom he got it, also what other motion picture operators who got no such sum think about it.

It was time for somebody to say what Mr. Richberg says now, that he "does not propose to put the interest of the unions above loyalty to his government."

It is a friendly act to remind union labor again that if it wants to know what happens when separate organizations claim the right to run the country they should study conditions in Italy. There are no Italian union leaders collecting millions a year in dues. Former leaders are working with pick and shovel, or tractor, or lathe, according to their mechanical ability.

Idle Acres, Idle Men
The Townsend Plan
Mrs. Roosevelt's Enterprise
Another Slave of Man

Ten million idle men and more in the United States. Ten million idle acres and more on either side of this railroad running along the Atlantic coast from southern Florida to New York. Two of the acres, intensively cultivated, would feed a family. Texas alone, under intensive cultivation, could feed the entire population of the earth as it exists now, and old underneath Texas would run all the automobiles. There is an empire for you, in one single state.

And we talk about "over-population" with so much land not used, and none of it used with full intelligence.

The Townsend plan, $200 a month to everybody sixty years of age, is solemnly discussed by congress, which ought to be passing a sound, reasonable old age pension now. The Townsend plan is an interesting plan in many ways. By taxation on every transaction, on producer, jobber, wholesaler, retailer, manufacturer, buyer, it would practically absorb all available money to turn it over to deserving, or otherwise, persons, aged sixty. It would soon become necessary for some other Townsend to organize a $200-a-month plan for all paupers. There would soon be twice as many paupers as there are people sixty years old.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is meanly criticized, because, having interested herself in providing better homes for poor people, it appears that the undertaking may involve some slight financial loss, trifling in United States finance.

Mrs. Roosevelt caused families to be moved from miserable hovels into comfortable homes.

A woman with children, living last year in two rooms without windows, with nothing but raw carrots for her Christmas dinner, told Mrs. Roosevelt that she did not dare tell her children it was Christmas day.

On this Christmas day, when Mrs. Roosevelt went to see her, the mother, with a new born baby, and her children, all happy, were living in a decent homestead, with modern improvements, including a cellar full of canned goods.

If that did cost a little money, it was money well spent.

Other ladies and gentlemen who have spent money for the United States government have not done so well.

A steel gate, 12 feet thick, weighing 3,000,000 pounds, was closed one day recently and the Colorado river, its water and power, definitely harnessed, made slaves of man.

The stream that had wandered as it pleased for millions of years, through the magnificent mile-deep canyon of the Colorado, through Boulder Canyon and Black Canyon, was now tied fast in Black Canyon. "The Boulder Dam" is a reality. Hereafter the Colorado shall flow as man shall order, lighting cities, irrigating deserts, supplying power far away.

Christian Science Services.
"Soul" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches for Sunday, February 17.

The Golden Text is from I Chronicles 22:19: "Set your heart and your soul to seek the Lord your God."

A passage from the Bible in the lesson-sermon is from Psalms 34:2, 11: "My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the Lord; my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God. . . . For the Lord God is a sun and shield the Lord will give grace and glory; no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "Nothing but Spirit, Soul, can evolve Life, for Spirit is immortal, it does not exist in mortality. . . . Only by losing the false sense of Soul can we gain the eternal unfolding of Life as immortality brought to light." (page 335).

Presbyterian Church.
My church enriched my childhood with the romance and religion and the lessons of life that have been woven into the texture of my soul. Sometimes I seem to have forgotten and then, when else I might surrender to foolish and futile ideals of life, the truth my church taught became radiant, insistent and inescapable.

My church provides for me a grade worship service that is second to none.

Bible study 10:00. There has been a notable increase in interest and number in the past few Sundays.

BACK FORTY

A dozen samples of skimmilk were tested at school recently, for evidences of butterfat. These skimmilk samples had gone through separators of various makes and ages. The Babcock test results indicated that the average farm cream separator, in use locally, is neither very good nor very bad.

The worst sample contained one-tenth of one per cent of butterfat. Skimmilk should not have more butterfat than three-hundredths of one per cent. The farmer who brought in the above sample, is producing about 25,000 pounds of milk annually. He is losing 25 pounds of butterfat a year.

Loss of butterfat in skimmilk may be due to any of the following eight factors:

1. Variation in separator speed. Cream separators are adjusted to operate at a certain speed. Slow running may cause incomplete skimming. Fast running sometimes results in clogging of the cream outlet, and a consequent loss of fat in the skimmilk.

2. Vibration of separator bowl. Any vibration is likely to retard separation and cause a loss of butterfat in the skimmilk. Vibration may be due to an unbalanced bowl, an unsteady separator, a bent spindle, improper adjustments, or worn parts.

3. Temperature of the milk. Separation of cream from milk is most complete at 98 degrees. Cold milk causes a smaller quantity of richer cream.

4. Rate of milk flow into separator bowl. The valve on the supply tank is adjusted with the float to deliver the proper quantity of milk when the supply tank is full. If the valve is partly closed, or the supply tank is not full, some cream will escape with the skimmilk.

5. Adjustment of cream or skimmilk screws. The cream screw when turned farther toward the center of the bowl, produces a smaller quantity of richer cream. The action of the skimmilk screw is exactly opposite.

6. Richness of the milk. The cream and skimmilk screws are set to divide the milk into a definite proportion of cream and skimmilk. When richer milk is separated it will produce cream with a higher butterfat content.

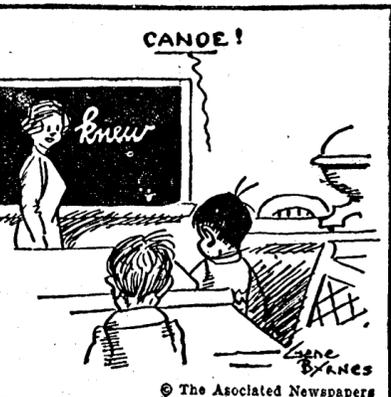

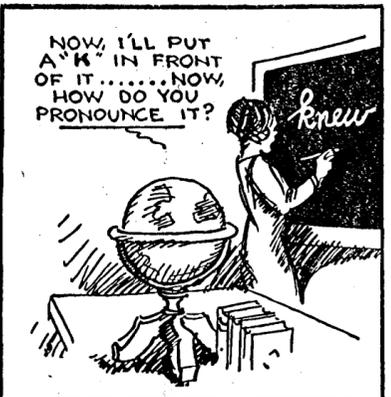

7. Cleanliness of the bowl. If a separator bowl is not thoroughly washed, the cream outlet may become clogged, causing a loss of butterfat in the skimmilk.

8. Quantity of flush water. It is well to run some warm water through the machine after separating. The water should not be allowed to flow into the cream.

England in Napoleonic Wars
It is difficult to make a definite statement as to the largest number of men that England had on the continent during the Napoleonic wars up to 1812. At the end of 1812 Wellington had under his command 68,000 allied troops. At the beginning of 1813 this number was increased to 100,000, 47,000 of these being British.

"REG'LAR FELLERS"

New Idea

By GEORGE GOWAN
"The Roving Reporter"

Wednesday, Febr. 6.
Chores done, lunch in hand, we (Dick and I) left home at ten o'clock. Leaving our eggs at the store, we drove back to the M. E. church and then south, stopping at Hugh Adams' first.

Hugh and I have long been friends, sort-a "board a-trade" friends and nothing for me to do but to come in and visit a while. Toasting our toes by the heat of the furnace, we talked over the cattle business, and I agreed with him on his anti-democratic arguments, while his wife smiled over her quilting. She makes three quilts every winter, she says. It is hard to pull away from such people.

On south to Oscar Bredthauer's. I have mentioned his name so often to Uncle Jake, that I passed him up. His place appears like a stock yards, with cattle, hay, corn in great abundance and what beats them all are his three bright curly-headed youngsters. All the ear-marks of prosperity are in evidence, even in these times of distress. Oscar is not a half bad horseman either, nor a half bad farmer. Not at home. Gone to another sale perhaps.

Across the road to Pete Jensen's. He also was gone. His boy said his Dad would be back later. I told the boy I would stop later, which I didn't do. Pete and his family are untrusting workers, and we all wonder how they do so much. And if, you are in the motion of trading horses, call for Pete. He is in his glory at that business and will not even stop to eat his dinner when he gets started.

On south to Herman Nass's. Herman was gone too. He "hatches" in a great big house, surrounded by many trees and small buildings. What an ideal setting for a detective story. And girls! What an ideal place for a honeymoon. Some lucky dame will pick him up sometime.

On south to Ernest Lee's. Ernest had gone to Grand Island, but his wife chatted a minute on the door step, while we watched a short-haired dog shiver and clatter his teeth. She tried to get him in the house to warm up, but he seemed to enjoy chilling. Ernest has a nearly new barn, and I had to look it over. They wish they had made it different, and that is usually the way when it is too late.

Across the road to Harry Klingingsmith's. Harry had also gone to Grand Island, but Mrs. Harry insisted Dick and I come in and warm up while she explained a little difficulty with her subscription. I must tell the boss about it. She gave Dick an orange and proclaimed we never could leave without eating dinner if Harry was home. Harry and I are also "board a trade" friends. We never tire swapping yarns.

She told me of a time when I was about the size of Dick. I was at their house with my Father, and she explained how they had a Buff Cochon rooster I played with, etc., etc. I left, sorry Harry was gone. His many yards were void of the usual hundreds of head of feeders, only a half a dozen of which wandering around lonesome like, wishing the place would team again as it usually does when Harry has the "fever."

Mac Klingingsmith lives to the east, and so does H. D. Kasson, the son-in-law. I should have gone to those places, but I can't go everywhere in one day. Mac is Harry's right hand man, and Mrs. Klingingsmith says he sees the paper there. Occasionally she sends it over to H. D.'s but she says they want the paper around for the ads, and so, (bulletin board like) she insists all three families come to her place and read it. The paper does treble service.

A little discouraged to find so many people gone, we pressed on south. Leaving the valley, we plunged into the hills on the serpentine road around the canyon. Hooked on to the east bank a small white house and a red barn looked down at us. A thrill ran through my heart, as I slowed up for there was Earl Smith waving at me, one of the best friends I ever had.

We disembarked. I felt a little guilty taking pay from Leggett for visiting here. I am glad to talk with Earl for nothing. After showing me his cattle, horses, and goats, which he is wintering, as he says, on "Democratic Hay," (histles), I must go in the house. I could see insults would be heaped upon him if I did not break bread there.

Earl sold his dray wagon in town last spring and moved onto this farm that nearly stands on edge. Completely drying out, no car, no radio, no telephone and no daily newspaper, he told me he was glad he came.

He and I never get through talking. Each time, as I would arise to leave he would order, "Sit down, Leggett won't know any difference," and we would spin another yarn while his good wife quilted on a baby blanket for an unfortunate girl. Finally, about two, (I think he was beginning to feel a little guilty himself), he took two dollars out of his pocket and paid for another year's subscription, giving me the compliment, that they always read my column first.

Following me to the road, he waved good-bye, as the car circled around another curve going south. Similar to Earl's place is Tony Pawloski's. Planted on the south east bank are a little white house and a red barn. His wife talked to me from the back porch while three white geese cackled in unison. She said they were going to eat one of them. Ah Boy! I tried to dress a goose once, but I didn't tell her about it. I am supposed to only say happy things as I go along. And their kids have made a go-jimmy, and maybe you think there are not some real hills there to coast down.

On east up the canyon to Mike Whalen's. Mike's are old time friends. They used to trade with my Dad in the store in those halcyon days of yore. My father told me that for a long while he made $5,000.00 a year in the store, and he did a lot of advertising, too. But that is off the subject.

Standing on the porch, Mike insisted there was nothing to do but "come in a minute." Drawing the easiest chair to the stove, his wife urged me to sit down and warm up. We talked of old times, and new times, FERA, Gold Clause and Corn-hog contracts. Old friendships renewed. They said they didn't take the Quiz because they were so hard up; that on their 250 acres they never grew a load of hay or an ear of corn last year. They said they took the Loyalist and Pawloski's the Quiz, and they traded papers, but frequently the trade was never made. Mighty nice folks. They just don't make 'em any better.

On south to Eddie Whalen. He was not at home, but his wife talked a minute at the step. She came from Greeley county. If I had known Greeley county had such pretty women, I never would have tarried in Valley county.

As we left, Dickie said, "Dad, this is a helova road, isn't it?" I told him he would think so if it was muddy. A roller coaster, I would say. Shooting nearly straight up and straight down a few times we slammed on the brakes on the top of a hump, crawled out of the car and knocked at the door of Roy Cruzan.

Church friends of ours, we were welcomed into the house, and to the front room. Roy, two sons and charming daughter put their game of anagrams aside to talk with me. I could hardly resist playing them a game. Roy has been a chicken man, and has coops and equipment for many hundred. Unable to make them pay he has quit, and has gone to raising hogs in one coop. Roy has a fine family, something to be proud of, and besides those at home, one boy at college studying for the ministry.

Before we left, we were served with freshly baked cookies, and I am going often if they will just treat me every time to that kind of pastry.

Scouting up hill and down again a few times, we pulled up at Ross Williams'. She was a Whalen girl, and if those hills don't raise anything else, they surely produce pretty women. Ross' folks and mine have been lifelong friends, and so we needed no introduction. She talked with me on the door step and their tiny midget they call Dodee, with freckles on her nose, made friends at once with my boy. Her mother said those freckles don't worry her now. Kids like that is one crop there is no over-production of.

On south to Jess Waller's. Another prince of a fellow who came from Missouri. He has a nice mule there that might have brought him a pretty penny before the fatal smooth mouth arrived.

The day was getting late. I was told Harry Tolen, next stop south, was a subscriber. He might feel hurt. I hurry on. Worth the drive. About the neatest place on the road. He came out of the house and showed me a pair of gentle colts they had that would shake hands with us. We visited a few minutes, and he told me he had taken the Quiz since 1894. And if I had gone a few rods farther south I would be in Sherman county and a mile east and I would be in Greeley county. I wondered if there is a subscriber in Valley county who lives farther from the county seat.

Five o'clock. We hurried home one-half mile west over another rolling, sinuous highway, that the FERA men are attempting to straighten.

Thursday, Febr. 7. Wife along today, driving north to finish Riverdale, the part I missed last week. Going along the county line, where the road forks at the school, we made out first stop at Jim Bantas. Jim gone working, but his wife Essie comes trotting out, glad to see us. She hailed from "Indiana", bringing the twang with her, we all love to hear. They have to move March 1st and have no idea where it shall be to. They did take the Quiz, but their money disappeared with the rain and could not be seen. "We sure missed 'it'", she told us emphasizing the "sure".

On north up the hill and east to John Jenkins'. There my wife tarried, and I nearly had to drive off without her. Why the attraction, you say? A brand new pair of tiny twin boys. John don't take the Quiz. He reads his mother-in-law's paper. Well there is about the best excuse I have heard of for borrowing the paper. Having a pair of twins to support.

Back and north to Anton Uher, who lives beside the river. He can sit in the backyard and fish, but by the looks of the neat place, speckled with chicken coops, bee hives, Muscovy ducks, and tame red turkey gobblers, one would gather he does not fish much.

Back south to John Shultz'. After having lived in Lincoln and worked in an oil station for years, he and his wife have moved here on a farm and say they like it better. A few months before he should have received a pension, he was notified his services were no longer needed. Planning to use their savings, they moved to the farm, but before they cashed their bonds, they were stolen in the Lincoln bank robbery. Mortgaging their home, they came anyway, depositing their money in the North Loup bank that failed soon after. But they do not complain, are the best liked couple in Riverdale. They urge us to linger longer, but we must push on.

To Paul Bartz' where Mrs. Brown assured us Paul is paid in advance. While the women chat a minute Dick and I inspect the pet coop, and later the lad gets a big thrill out of finding a REAL revolver, loaded with REAL shells, on a stand in the dining room. Some of Billie Bartz' trinkets.

That cleans up Riverdale, except Mrs. Jenkins and Gene Brown who live back in the hills. Gene is the sheep man. The Weather Bureau has treated him pretty rough the last few years, but he hangs on, and with a nickle's worth of luck, and his Scotch thrif he will make it.

Mrs. Jenkins and her three daughters, with John's help, farm their land. Some mighty fine looking girls, a little too attractive to stay hidden back there in the hills forever.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Germany Studies Anglo-French Peace Proposals— Labor Rebuked by Roosevelt for Objections to Auto Code—Governor Moodie Ousted From Office.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD Western Newspaper Union.

CONTINENTAL chancellories turned their attention toward a new plan designed to restore Germany to complete equality among European nations and to strengthen the shaking foundations of peace, as conversations ended between Pierre Laval, French foreign minister, and Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary.

Pierre Laval Germany will be offered a promise of repeal of the military clauses of the treaty of Versailles in return for re-entering the League of Nations. Such a concession would seem a victory for Hitler's campaign to restore Germany to its place as a sovereign power in Europe.

Another proposal arising from the negotiations greatly aids France's campaign for security. Regional defense pacts to provide the nations participating with reciprocal assistance in repelling an unprovoked air attack are part of the plan. France and Great Britain are willing to enter into such a series of pacts, and suggest that other European nations be invited to join. This signifies that either nation must rush planes to the aid of the other in the event of attack from the air. The pact will undoubtedly be concluded between Great Britain and France, no matter what action the other nations take, although no formal announcement has been made.

Some European diplomats are not at all certain that Germany and Poland can be persuaded to change the unreciprocated attitude they have so far manifested toward suggestions for their participation in an "eastern Locarno." Germany may be so strongly rearmied by this time that she will not be concerned over legality.

This, however, is only speculation. Dispatches from Germany have indicated the reich's willingness to engage in any conversations proposed by the Franco-British formula, but she must first be assured of complete equality of status. Hitler has previously hinted that Germany would return to the League of Nations when full equality is accorded, and there is some possibility that the reich will participate in mutual aerial assistance against an air aggressor since this would legalize an air fighting force.

SENATOR BORAH of Idaho, always sternly opposed to action that might lead the United States into foreign entanglements, has surprisingly come forward with a demand that congress investigate the alleged religious persecutions in Mexico and persuade our neighbors to the south to cease them. The excuse for such proposed meddling is that some citizens of the United States may be among the "victims." Through its representatives in Washington the Mexican government calmly denies there is any religious persecution down there, and says all who obey the laws are permitted to worship as they please. If the Borah resolution carries, Mexico will tell the United States to mind its own business. Representative Fish of New York follows Borah's lead by introducing in the house a resolution calling upon the President to take diplomatic steps toward abatement of what he declares is growing communism in Mexico. He said the communistic trend was directly connected with the alleged religious persecutions, and that entrenchment of communism in Mexico would seriously affect the United States.

THE much-advertised benefits from Russian recognition have been rather less than satisfactory. Neither the wide expanse of trade which was anticipated, or the satisfactory settlement of debts materialized, and following a conference with Soviet representatives, Secretary Cordell Hull admitted that diplomatic dilly-dallying had come to an end.

Hull issued a curt statement that "certain diplomatic changes" had been ordered in Moscow. The acting naval attaché will be withdrawn, the consulate generalship will be abolished, and further reductions will be made in the personnel of the embassy, he stated.

The United States' action means a period of strained relations between the two countries, although not to the point of the United States government's withdrawing recognition. William C. Bullitt will remain as ambassador, but there is little doubt that the United States will not proceed with construction of an embassy building, and that arrangements for creating consulates in other parts of Russia will be deferred.

RIOTING broke out in England as a protest against the new dole measure, despite an announcement by Minister of Labor Oliver Stanley that recent reductions in unemployment payments would be restored.

Thousands continued their protest campaign, demanding not only the restoration of relief cuts, but an increase over the scale of relief imposed before the advent of the unemployment assistance board last month.

Violent clashes occurred at Sheffield, where a mob of 10,000 battled with mounted police. At Glasgow during a discussion of the new relief concessions two councillors were thrown out of the council chamber and a band of unemployed men and women were also forcibly ejected.

AFTER less than a month in office Gov. Thomas H. Moodie was ousted by the North Dakota Supreme court. The court held Moodie ineligible on the ground that he had voted, and thereby established residence, in Minnesota in 1930. The constitutional provision requires candidates for governor to have lived in the state five consecutive years before election. His successor, Lieut. Gov. Walter H. Welford, will be the fourth governor in seven months. Last June the state Supreme court ordered the removal of William Langer, who had just been convicted of conspiracy to solicit political contributions from federal relief workers. Ole H. Olson, then lieutenant governor, served until Moodie was elected.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT renewed the automobile code, with two changes designed to stabilize employment; but the American Federation of Labor, growing daily more dissatisfied with the government's policy, denounced the code extension, and President William Green said: "We will not accept it, recognize nor yield to it." The federation's executive council bitterly attacked Donald Ritchberg, emergency council director, and Dr. Leo Wolman, chairman of the automobile labor board, as serving the interests of the American Federation of Labor.

Wolman's board not long ago conducted elections in the Detroit area which revealed that less than 10 per cent of the employees were affiliated with the federation, and presumably for this reason Green and his aids were not consulted in the matter of renewal of the code.

The President lost no time in serving notice that labor would not be permitted to dictate administration policies. Extension of the code was welcomed by the Automobile Manufacturers' association, its officers declaring there would be steadier work in their factories and that winter unemployment would be greatly reduced. The changes in the code call for the introduction of new models during a 60-day period before or after October 1, and pay and a half for overtime work.

Two days later the President again fired back at the federation in reply to the federation executive council's demand that S. Clay Williams, administration board chairman, be removed at least until a cigarette code, satisfactory to labor could be approved. Williams had been appointed after careful consideration, the President said, and there was no need for any controversy.

A resolution had been passed by the labor council asking William Green to seek the ouster of Williams as a foe of labor. Before he took the NRA post Williams headed one of the nation's largest tobacco companies.

WILLIAM MACCRACKEN, former assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, will spend ten days in jail, the Supreme court decreed, thus settling the right of the senate to punish for contempt. MacCracken was sentenced to jail by the senate when he failed to produce data requested by the senate air mail investigating committee. The District of Columbia Supreme court held the senate acted within its power, but the District Court of Appeals sided with MacCracken.

ORGANIZED labor in America now gives its full support to the International labor organization in Geneva. It was officially announced in the Swiss city that President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, will be the American member of the body. Leon Jouhaux, French labor leader, in a speech at Geneva, expressed the joy of labor representatives.

ACTING with startling rapidity, the Agricultural Adjustment administration ousted a group of radical New Dealers, which Secretary of Agriculture Wallace said was "for the good of the service." Jerome N. Frank, Lee Pressman and Frank Shea and Gardner Jackson all tendered their resignations. The final fate of Fred C. Howe, Victor Rotnam and Alger Hiss still remains in doubt.

The bloodless purge of the group known as favored proteges of Rexford G. Tugwell, was unexpected. Evidently signals were confused, because President Roosevelt in his press conference stated that he was uninformed of any such action, but later in the day, Secretary Wallace said the President was aware of the action before it was announced.

Agricultural Administrator Davis informed newspaper men that the order was necessary to preserve harmony. "There was mounting difficulty in getting things done," said Administrator Davis. "We believed things would function more smoothly if they were directed by men familiar with farm problems and having a farm background."

Wallace was asked if this statement applied to Tugwell. He hastily replied that Tugwell had an excellent farm background, which may be a distinct surprise to many.

THE first special federal grand jury to be called at Washington since the Teapot Dome oil scandals more than ten years ago, began investigation of the public works scandal involving an alleged conspiracy to use 200 miles of California redwood pipe in a Texas irrigation project that originally called for no pipe at all.

PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes instituted the grand jury action. The plot centers around the $4,853,000 Willacy county (Texas) water control program to irrigate citrus orchards. Ickes claims the money was promised by PWA on the understanding that the Willacy project would be a gravity system requiring no pipe, and that after the papers were signed by PWA the plans were mysteriously altered to make it a pressure system and to use 200 miles of redwood pipe. According to the evidence to be placed before the jury, PWA officials and engineers, Texas politicians and lumbermen were parties to the conspiracy.

When the Willacy county matter has been sifted, the jury may investigate reported irregularities in other PWA projects, and may also start a new investigation of War department contracts.

SPEDDY police action was necessary to avert new bloodshed in Paris on the anniversary of the uprising caused by popular indignation over the Stavinsky scandal disclosures. Thousands of arrests were made as Communists sought to arouse the public to a repetition of the riots of a year ago, when 19 were killed in the Place de la Concorde. Police gave the Reds no chance to carry out their intended maneuvers. The most harmless looking individuals were escorted a few blocks and let go with farewell kicks, while those found carrying weapons were rushed into improvised concentration camps. Premier Flandin was hissed and booed by many fire-eating Nationalists as he attended memorial services in Notre Dame cathedral.

POSTMASTER GENERAL JAMES FARLEY will either have to resign his job as head of the Post Office department, or give up the chairmanship of the Democratic national committee if Senator Norris, Nebraska, succeeds in putting through a bill he introduced in the senate.

Norris would take the post office from Farley down out of partisan politics. The postmaster general would be appointed for ten years, and the present system whereby congressmen have an important voice in the appointment of postmasters would be abolished. All employees would be selected for "merit and efficiency" only. The chances of ever putting such a measure through congress are more than problematical. While Norris asserts that "congressmen ought to be tickled to death to be rid of the job," it is hardly likely that very many congressmen will be anxious to give up the "task" of handing out such political plums as rewards to the "faithful."

The administration moved hastily to introduce a counter bill which would provide that all postmasterships would be brought under civil service, and which would ban political appointments and open most of the jobs only to career employees in the postal service. The measure was introduced by Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, and was said to have the approval of both the President and Farley.

Only civil service employees of the postal system who have served in supervisory capacities or as post office inspectors, postmasters of first-class offices who have had at least four years of actual experience, or executives "of broad experience in private life" would constitute the class from which postmasters would be selected for offices having gross receipts of $1,000,000 or more.

Proposal that the way to meet the appropriation of $2,000,000 per year to care for relief needs in Nebraska is to add another one cent tax on gasoline sold in the state was made by Governor Cochran in a special message delivered to the legislature. House members generally were in accord with the governor's proposal. The proposed tax will raise approximately $2,000,000 annually, and will increase the tax on gasoline from 4 to 5 cents a gallon in Nebraska. The governor pointed out in his message that the collection of this additional tax could be handled at no extra expense, inasmuch as the setup used in the present tax collection could be utilized for the addition.

Members of the legislature heard Frank D. Throop, Lincoln publisher and one of several men who went to Washington to confer on relief needs. He pointed out that in proposing tax for relief, that it would be well for the legislature to recognize the fact that real estate already is overburdened, and advised that whatever the setup, it should be for two years. Throop explained, that because of the drought, 52,000 Nebraska families are on relief rolls.

The federal government, Throop added has been more than liberal in the contribution to this state of about $23,000,000 since July, 1933.

An elaborate state police force of 100 men, headed by a commission consisting of the governor, attorney general and adjutant general, to be financed largely from funds from a $1 wheel tax on motor vehicles owned in Nebraska is provided in a committee bill by the senate judiciary, reported on general file.

The bill is the combination of two or more measures that were introduced, each along a different line. Introducing, Sen. Van Kirk of Lincoln, and Sen. Callan of Odell, cooperated with the committee to work out the combined measure.

The committee action, apparently unanimous, was in contrast to the reception a similar initiative bill, originating some years ago with C. A. Sorenson, then attorney general, received at the hands of the people when it was defeated in a statewide election. Governor Bryan at that time urged opposition by proclaiming it a move to foist an expensive force upon the people.

An effort by automobile associations to steer the means of operating the police force away from automobile wheel tax and shunt it onto a portion of the gasoline tax or beer tax revenue and anticipated hard liquor tax revenue met with unopposed opposition by committee.

The proposed department is to be charged with enforcement of all criminal laws, to pursue and arrest offenders of any law violation, to give first aid and succor to the injured or helpless, to give assistance to motorists, and to have in general the same powers conferred upon sheriffs, police officers and constables, except to serve civil process.

Parl-mutual legislation, first of mandate measures to be given legislative consideration, is well along toward enactment. In the Senate, after the bill had been returned to committee from general file for amendment, it was once more returned to committee of the whole, and advanced to third reading. The bill as it leaped the second Senate hurdle, is virtually in the form prescribed by Ak-Sar-Ben, which fought consistently to have its ideas incorporated into law.

In open hearing sometime before the measure was reported out of committee, Malcolm Baldrige of Omaha its author, led the fight for approval by committee and the opposition was voiced by Rep. Steele, (R), Kimball, author of another bill that differs on many points with Baldrige's proposals, and is said to have been drafted by the Nebraska Fair Managers' association.

The Baldrige bill provides for a system of license fees, ranging from $200 a day to $15 a day, which parl-mutual operators would pay to the state. It also provides for payment of a 15 cent tax on each admission. Steele's plan provides that the parl-mutual operator shall pay 2 percent of the gross amount wagered on the machines to the state.

Federal legislation setting up $3,500,000 for refinancing of farm mortgages was requested by the House when, by unanimous vote, it endorsed a resolution by Weber, (D), Leigh. Low rate of interest and from 10 to 20 years to cancel obligations are recommended, interest at 1 1/2 percent per year with an additional 1/4 percent to be set aside for amortization. The resolution urges that the government issue federal reserve notes to finance the undertaking.

By a vote of 53 to 26 the House voted to take the seven bills on liquor control legislation from the judiciary committee and appoint a special liquor legislation committee. The motion, introduced by Weber, (D), Leigh, prevailed after an unsuccessful attempt was made to saddle the special unicameral committee with the liquor problems. The Senate has a liquor committee, but has only one control measure introduced. The committee on committees named two members from each congressional district and a single member from the state at large to serve on the liquor legislation committee. That gives it a membership of eleven.

By a vote of 56 to 4, the House passed H. R. 131, by Havekost and others, providing for return of excess farm storage fees collected by the railway commission under corn storage on the farms. There were issued 42,979 storage certificates, and expense of administration amounted to $157,770, with an unexpended balance of $131,036. The bill carries the emergency measure. Rep. Finnigan, (D), Lindsay, explained his negative vote by suggesting that the money be used for direct relief purposes. H. R. 122, by Dunn, (R), Lincoln, and Wachler, (D), Omaha, passed the House. It increases penalty for breaking into motor vehicles, where value of articles taken is under $50, to maximum of 6 months and $500.

A probe of the state board of control has been authorized by the House, the investigation to be handled by the lower branch finance committee. The resolution proposing the investigation was introduced by Rep. Worthing, (D), Omaha, who declared, in reply to a question by Cone, (D), Valley, that he had no specific charge to bring in regard to the conduct of the state's 17 institutions by the board.

Worthing stated that the purpose is to encourage a thorough investigation before vast sums are appropriated for operation and maintenance of the institutions. During discussion on the resolution there was a strong sentiment favoring consolidating the two soldiers and sailors homes at Milford and Burkett on the theory that one may be available to relieve congested conditions at certain other institutions.

By a majority of 84 to 6, the House passed H. R. 97, by Hyde, with the emergency clause calling for complete investigation and audit of the state treasury and the board of educational lands and funds back as far as the investigators see fit to go within the scope of their $10,000 appropriation. The audit, according to the bill, shall be under auspices of a joint legislative committee comprising 3 senators and 3 representatives empowered to employ an accountant and other help.

Plans for addition to the self-sufficiency of the state's 17 institutions, which now require a tax appropriation of $2,000,000 annually for their support, has been outlined by Cone, (D), Valley, as chairman of the House state institutions committee. His plan, announced after a visit to several institutions calls for establishment of a state canning factory at the Genoa Indian school, recently acquired by the state, and putting about 640 acres of land there under irrigation to raise foodstuffs for the state's approximately 8,700 wards. He visualized a great canning factory manned by able-bodied wards of the state, processing foodstuffs raised at Genoa and other institutions for their own consumption. Cone declared that the buildings at Genoa were in good condition and said that in his opinion about 1,000 persons can be housed there, instead of 500 as estimated by the board of control and other state officials.

The House refused to impose "gag rule" proposed by Rep. James Buresh, (R), Omaha, to shorten the session. This the House did, un mindful of warnings that the "worst is yet to come."

The move by Buresh was inspired by Rep. Tremore Cone's success in raising bills killed in committee, and proposed to tighten the rules, and limit debate to motions to raise to introducer of the bill and members of the committee. It had few friends. The Omahaan warned that unless something is done to expedite debate on bills, congestion will bring on the sitting committee to go through the general file and weed out the less important measures awaiting action there.

The House has asked the federal government to purchase 30,000 acres of land in Knox county, known as Devil's Nest, to be converted into a national park. The resolution was introduced by Martin Schoreder, minister, of Bloomfield. He made an effective appeal for a natural refuge for bird and other wild life, including buffalo and antelope. The land is cheap, it is pointed out, fit only for grazing or timber and the tax loss would be small. The tract at the nearest point, is within 18 miles of Niobrara.

Probes and investigations into insurance, bond, safety and fidelity companies and state activities likewise command considerable attention, and the number ordered or recommended may establish a record.

One of the most important probing groups that worked long and hard was the Comstock committee named to procure a better bonding proposition for the state treasurer which he apparently was able to obtain for himself. It is generally assumed that the work of this committee hastened settlement of the dispute, sometimes referred to as an argument between Lincoln and Omaha bonding people. The committee's work completed, it has been given its discharge. The Rasdal committee, named to investigate surety and fidelity companies doing business in the state, which carried a $500 appropriation has been discharged without one cent of the appropriation spent, inasmuch as Treasurer Hall was bonded, and is transacting business on the usual basis.

S. F. 110, by Kaspar, who seeks through it to have the party circle returned to election ballots, has been reported out of committee for floor action.

Unicameral legislation will be aired by the special committee that has the several bills on file beginning Feb. 11. Speaker O'Gara, chairman of the House special committee said several sessions probably would be necessary before any one of the measures is sent to the committee of the whole. Another matter that is causing considerable debate among members—ratification of the child labor amendment—is due for open hearing Feb. 11, at an evening session.

Continuous pleading on the part of Speaker O'Gara against the apparent waste of time by representatives has come to be a feature of the House. "Let's quit fooling around and go to work," the speaker admonished members on several occasions, and each time his remarks are greeted by a round of applause. On one occasion he refused to entertain a motion for noon recess until 12:15 o'clock in order that additional bills could be read a third time.

H. R. 147, by committee on medical societies, a bill making uniform the law governing sale of narcotics passed the House 90 to 0. It carries penalty of fine of $2,000, imprisonment up to one year, or both for first offense and to $5,000, two years in the penitentiary or both for each subsequent violation.

Senate measures that are now in the House for consideration include S. F. 32, compelling operators of cars of over seven passenger capacity for hire to carry red flags and flares to establish safety lines when parked on highways; and a measure that permits service in district court civil actions by mail.

Appointees and subordinates of Governor Cochran have been ordered to "attend strictly to business and do no lobbying around the legislature." Personal work among members of the legislature relative to appropriations or other matters concerning their respective departments must be halted, the edict said. The governor, in issuing the order, said that during more than 12 years while he was state engineer he held a record of never being inside the chamber of the legislature while those bodies were in session.

Rep. Putney, who wanted all motor buses used to transport school children, painted red, white and blue, saw his measure indefinitely postponed by the House in committee of the whole. Objection was raised that in cases where children are carried in trucks used for farm work, the trucks, thus painted, could not be suitable for farm purposes. The bill was fostered by a travelers association as a safety measure.

U. S. Senator George W. Norris' advice on setting up the unicameral legislature is sought by the Nebraska legislature. Committees of both branches were appointed to invite the father of the unicameral amendment to address them in joint assembly while in Lincoln February 15 to deliver the University of Nebraska Charter Day address. Norris has adopted a "hands-off" policy toward the work of setting up the system and leaving the job to others.

The "heart balm racket" would be struck a telling blow if H. R. 409, by Rep. Marjorie G. Stark, is enacted. It would prevent the plaintiff in a suit for divorce, to name a co-respondent in alleged misconduct with the plaintiff's name in the pleadings or evidence, except by order of the court. It also would hamper laying the foundation for a subsequent suit for heart balm.

"Sing to the people and not to the legislature," is the edict delivered by the Nebraska house to composers of proposed official state songs. The lower branch voted overwhelmingly against a resolution by Rep. Perigo to hold an audition to select a state song. Rep. John Havekost, dean of the House as well as a leader in fights against similar proposals in the past, declared the House was not competent to judge songs, and it should not legislate songs.

"Let these song writers sing these songs to the people and if the people like one well enough they'll tell us to take that for the state song," Havekost said.

It is apparent that the fiftieth session may establish a record insofar as the House is concerned in the number of resolutions presented. That of the type memorializing congress to take action of a certain nature or refraining from such hold the majority column. Petitions and communications from organizations and single constituents likewise are flowing into hands of members much freer than ever before.

Washington.—Representative Fish, a New York Republican, has renewed his fight against the radicals who are charged with having bored into positions of responsibility. In so doing, the New York house member has stirred up a veritable avalanche of reviews, surveys and explorations of what is going on of a socialistic nature in the government. Mr. Fish charged on the floor of the house that some of the New Dealers were making cash contributions to the "reds" and proceeded to name them.

The house speech of Mr. Fish in a general way called attention to the various movements going on that can properly be described as radical in every respect. His attack directed the attention of observers here to some phases of administration policies that thus far have excited little comment.

For many months, of course, the activities of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration have been subjected to the criticism that they constitute regimentation of the farmers, that is, a general program that holds down good farmers to the level of the haphazard type in the agricultural industry. Likewise there have been attacks on the methods employed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which dominates the affairs of some four thousand banks as a result of loans to them and is gradually expanding its sphere of influence among other industries to which loans have been made.

The senate committee on munitions, headed by Senator Nye of North Dakota, appears to be headed for a recommendation that all munitions and ship yards be government controlled if not government owned, and only a few days ago the congress enacted a law extending for two years the operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation so that it may continue the government influence it has wielded heretofore.

On top of these, Mr. Roosevelt has asked the congress to appropriate almost $5,000,000,000 for his use in the general recovery program and has virtually demanded that this fund be made available to him without strings attached. In other words, the President desires to expend this money as he sees fit, whether it meets with congressional approval or not.

We hear also much discussion of administration policies and legislative proposals providing penalties of a serious character as punishment for those who dare to go contrary to the general recovery laws as advanced by the President. These penalties, fines for the most part, are being described in some quarters as a form of Hitler terrorism. The administration stands on the ground that it must have complete dominance if its schemes are to be successful, but the fact remains that it is prepared by virtue of the punishment available for its use to take away vast sums of money from the industry or individual which objects to government methods. There is arising more and more criticism of the extreme punishment employed in the New Deal legislation and unless I miss my guess badly this feature of the New Deal will flare back upon its sponsors in a manner most unwelcome to the brain trusters.

In connection with the President's plan to have congress provide him with the $5,000,000,000 fund to use in his discretion, opposition has arisen with some new arguments. While the President constantly is repeating his assertion that the administrative branches of the government can accomplish more with a free hand than by having the money earmarked by congress for specific use, critics are charging that the President's proposal means putting the government further into business. For example, the senate appropriations committee uncovered information the other day while considering the $5,000,000,000 bill that indicated the existence of a plan by which the federal government would engage in the distribution and sale of gasoline.

It takes no stretch of the imagination to see how this move links with the previous efforts of Secretary Ickes, as oil administrator, to control the whole oil industry. By the distribution and sale of gasoline, the government can enforce regulations by competition which the Supreme court said were unconstitutional. Its control would be exercised through damming up the stocks of gasoline, and oil companies, privately owned, would find themselves at the mercy of government bureaucrats.

There are many other features of the $5,000,000,000 bill against which fire of the opposition has been directed, but it seems safe to say that congress will yield to the Presidential demand and pass the appro-prations measure rather near the form desired by the Chief Executive.

With respect to the operation of "reds" in the government, as charged by Mr. Fish, Washington long has been deluged with rumors of radical activities. Except for the charges by Dr. William Wirt, the Gary (Ind.) school superintendent, Mr. Fish's accusations are the first to place the finger on names. The New Yorker charged on the floor of the house that Robert Marshall, field director for the bureau of Indian affairs and Gardner Jackson, deputy administrative counsel of the consumers division in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, among others, had made cash contributions to the veterans' rank and file committee. He asserted that these contributions were made "for the purpose of instigating a bonus march of communists on Washington," and it is to be remembered that the great bonus march of three years ago was headed by the veterans' rank and file committee.

Mr. Fish described Mr. Marshall as one of the younger members of the brain trust and asserted that "most of the members" of the brain trust are or have been active in the American civil liberties union.

The representative cited among those in the brain trust who, he said were active in the civil liberties union the following: Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture; Donald R. Richberg, director of the National Emergency Council and the so-called No. 2 man in the administration; Robert Fechner, director of the Civilian Conservation Corps; Prof. Paul H. Douglas, of the National Recovery Administration; Dr. Frederic C. Howe, consumers counsel of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration; Nathan H. Margold, of the Interior Department; James M. Landis, a member of the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission and a former member of the federal trade commission; and John A. Lapp, described as an impartial Presidential representative in the National Recovery Administration.

After some 12 years of consideration, the senate has refused to approve American membership in the World court.

First Big Setback

In rejecting the President's request for ratification of American adherence to that court the upper house of congress gave the administration its first important setback. And it was an important defeat for Mr. Roosevelt because no one can tell now whether the President is going to maintain the firm grip hitherto held on the senate.

Four Presidents—Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover, Republicans, and Roosevelt—have requested senate ratification and four Presidents have had the thing tossed back to them after bitter battles. This time, as heretofore, the senate rejected the proposal on the ground that the United States was being led into the back door of the League of Nations and all will remember how stubbornly the senate resisted entry in to the League of Nations when Woodrow Wilson was President. The same arguments were used as have been used before, namely, that if the United States adhered to the permanent court of international justice (the formal title of the court) the country would be catapulted into the midst of all of Europe's entanglements, jealousies and diplomatic chicanery.

Joseph B. Eastman, federal coordinator of railroads, has proposed to congress a new plan for control of the whole structure of transportation in this country. With the approval of the President, Mr. Eastman has offered bills for federal regulation of motor busses and trucks, for the reorganization of the Interstate Commerce Commission and establishment of a federal coordinator of transportation as a permanent office, compensation for dismissed railroad employees displaced through co-ordination of operation, a revision of the bankruptcy act relating to railroads, provision for the commission to prescribe minimum as well as maximum joint rail and water rates, provision for elimination of alleged benefits or prejudice as to ports and gateways and to limit the right to reparation for damage due to violations of the interstate commerce laws.

The co-ordinator's proposals resulted from a comprehensive study of the general problems relating to transportation. It was probably the most extensive report on these questions that congress ever has received. Certainly, there can be no lack of information available for use by congress if it determines to enact railroad legislation at this session. Whether such legislation will get through is yet problematical.

Something DIFFERENT

I have often thought about this business of the women of various organizations working their heads off to provide a few more dollars for the treasury of their group, and it seems quite silly. From some points of view, certainly.

If the ladies of Bethlehem Local No. 6, let us say, or Little Flower Aid society group want to help with the new carpet for the hall, or the church, or help raise the mortgage, etc., what do they do? They work themselves into a frenzy. They have a bazaar, or a bake sale, or a benefit, etc., or a church supper. For endless hours they cook, or sew, or carry chairs, set tables, grate carrots, bake meat balls or pick the chicken off the bones for the creamed chicken. The big day finds them early setting tables, or perhaps it is trying to satisfy a penurious customer with four big cookies for a nickel in place of six small ones. In other words they work, work and work.

When the bake sale is over, or the card party, it is found that the straining united efforts of probably 23 sisters have yielded a profit, after everything was donated (which of course doesn't count) of about $18.63. "Isn't it wo-o-o-nderful!"

And are those women tired? They have shooed the children out to play, served yesterday's beans twice today, baked early and worked late, all so that 23 women make $18.63.

Now women, stop and think! What would your husbands do if they needed to raise money for a worthy enterprise? You know darned well what they'd do. They wouldn't do extra work to earn that money after business hours, nor decide to mow lawns for it, or save pennies for it, or phone you to do without a fire in the furnace this week to make up for their contribution. . . . no, they wouldn't. You know what they'd do. They would flatly decline to help or else, they would reach into a pocket and say "How much do you need?" and then fork out perhaps a dollar, perhaps a quarter, or possibly five dollars, depending on the cause, how worthy it was, how much needed raising, etc.

And all this raving doesn't mean I don't like to eat good church supper food, buy from their bake sales, attend their benefits, either.

Once more Mr. Haskell has rallied from a near-fatal illness, and is now gaining rapidly. . . . "He looks like he ought to be out," as W. A. Anderson says, and he ought to know, having been an almost daily caller at the Haskell home.

Invalids in that block seem to get better. Recently I wrote about Ellen Catherine Satterfield mending slowly but it is hoped surely. Then on the corner facing the north and west lives Charlie Sticher, who has been very ill with pneumonia, following an operation, but is now glad to be getting out doors and regaining his former hearty health. His cronies are glad to hail him again.

Reading all the discoveries for preventing and curing diseases that are being made from day to day, as reported by the newspapers, makes one feel that children born a hundred years from now will probably have a good chance to live forever, or at least for much longer and a more healthful life. If healthful is the right word.

New cures, toxins, serums are reported by scientists one after another. It seems as if, in a hundred years, there won't be any incurable illnesses or any fatal sicknesses.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

You do not have to serve your family the same old beef and pork dishes day after day unless you want to, for there are new ways and good ways to present these old family favorites. There are lots of unusual meat dishes, don't take it for granted that because you don't know them, you won't like them. Below is one decidedly different, why not try it?

Mock Wild Duck.

Cook one and one-half pounds picked spare ribs in boiling water until tender, remove from bones, chop fine and measure. There should be one cup. Place one large slice of round steak cut thin flat on the tables, spread with two tablespoons wrappings, then put on the steak two tablespoons of prepared mustard, making a thin coat. To two cups fresh bread crumbs add one chopped onion, one cup of chopped apples, one cup cooked prunes chopped, one teaspoon sage, one teaspoon salt, the sparerib meat, one cup sautéed rice, mix thoroughly. Spread on the meat, roll and tie or fasten with toothpicks. Brush with drippings, dust with flour. Place in a baking pan, sear in a hot oven, reduce the heat to 300 degrees, cover and bake until done, about two and one-half hours. Make a gravy from the juices in the pan and serve.

Mrs. George A. Parkins.

Celery Soup.

Use the leaves and rejected stalks, cut fine, add cold water to cover, when it comes to a boil, add two tablespoons rice, let cook until the celery is tender. Then add one large tablespoon butter, salt and pepper to taste, two cups rich milk and six soda crackers. Let boil up and serve. This is delicious and tastes like oyster soup. Try it.

Mrs. Lillian A. Simpson, Omaha.

Tomato Salad.

Cook for ten minutes one-half can of tomatoes with one-half cup celery, one-half bay leaf and small onion cut fine. Put through a coarse sieve and add two tablespoons vinegar and enough water to make a pint, heat to boiling point and pour over one package of lemon gelatine, add a dash of red pepper, salt to taste and pour into individual molds. When firm serve on lettuce with salad dressing.

Mrs. Frances Sorensen.

Sour Cream Chocolate Cake.

Sift together one and one-fourth cups sugar, one and three-fourths cups flour, four tablespoons cocoa and one-fourth teaspoon salt. To the dry ingredients add one and one-half cups sour cream, two tablespoons melted butter, two well beaten eggs, and beat until smooth. Lastly add two teaspoons soda dissolved in four tablespoons boiling water. Bake in layer or oblong pan in a moderate oven, (350 degrees). When cool cover with chocolate or seven minute icing. This cake is delicious and not only inexpensive but easy to make.

Mrs. Joe Vavra.

Veal Birds.

Take veal, cut in pieces of desired size, put about a tablespoon of bread dressing on each piece of meat, turn each piece about half over, pin with a toothpick. Salt and pepper and dredge in flour, fry a nice brown. Put in the oven with tomato gravy made from the fat in the pan, two tablespoons flour, one cup tomatoes, one-half cup water, salt and pepper. Cook until tender.

Mrs. W. L. Grabowski.

Pecan Pie.

Beat two eggs, add one cup sugar, one cup white corn syrup, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon vanilla, two tablespoons melted butter and one cup pecans. Bake this in an unbaked pie shell in a moderate oven for 45 minutes. The filling should then be as firm as a custard of pumpkin pie. Serve cold.

Mrs. Joseph M. Kokes.

Early Symptoms of Heart Disease.

It is of paramount importance for every man or woman to recognize the early symptoms of heart disease. When these symptoms begin to show up, much can be done to allay further damage to an exhausted heart.

The early symptoms of heart disease are shortness of breath, swelling of the ankles, a rapid, palpating or thumping heart, and pain in the heart region.

When you find difficulty in walking several blocks or in going up one or two flights of stairs, when you become short of breath at the slightest exertion it is high time to take a physical inventory to find out what is wrong.

When your ankles swell especially on standing for some time or in the evening when you are tired, it is high time to find out if that heart pump of yours is still carrying on regularly and forcefully.

When that heart of yours goes off on a rampage and starts racing away so that it feels like a rapid, palpating and thumping heart, it is high time to investigate the cause at once. It is well to remember that such symptoms are not found only in heart disease, but also in nervousness, indigestion or anemia.

When you feel a pain in the heart region, especially a severe and vise-like pain, it becomes your personal duty to find out why this peculiar feeling comes from the heart muscle. The causes of heart disease are many. The two chief causes are infections in early childhood, which have left the heart in a damaged condition, and a strenuous life with too few hours for relaxation.

Loss of sleep is an important factor. The heart is allowed to work without sufficient rest. Improper diet is usually overlooked as a serious cause. Over-eating, undereating and an unbalanced diet contribute to the deterioration of the heart. Tobacco and alcohol do their part in rendering the heart less efficient. Worries wear down the strongest of people. Domestic worries, business worries, in fact any worries.

Obituary.

Eugene E. Madison. Final tribute to the memory of Eugene E. Madison, 56, a member of Gordon Granger Post, G. A. R., was paid by a large group of sorrowing friends and relatives Jan. 18, at 2:00 p. m. at rites held at the C. W. Coffey chapel.

Chapel rites were conducted by the Rev. M. L. Pearson and his words of comfort were augmented by solacing messages brought in song by Mrs. Agnes Plater and Mrs. Ethel Clark, who sang "Rock of Ages" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." The singers were accompanied by Miss Leota Ingie.

Serving as pallbearers were six sons of Veterans, Perry Grout, J. R. Moore, E. J. Parker, C. F. Miller, W. I. Davis and S. L. Carpenter.

At Fairhaven Mausoleum, where entombment was made, members of Mary A Logan tent, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war, conducted their beautiful commitment service, then the firing squad of Calumppit camp of Santa Ana fired their salute to a comrade who had died and a bugler sounded taps.

In attendance at the rites were four Gordon Granger post associates of Mr. Madison, Jacob Rush, George W. Hall, Addison Baker and H. C. Plotner, near whom sat two other Civil war veterans, David Williams, of Pennsylvania, and J. W. Davis, of Kansas, who are passing the winter months here.

Following a prolonged illness Mr. Madison passed away Tuesday at his home at 469 South Grand street. He had resided in Orange for the last 15 years and was held in high regard by residents of this community. He was born in Illinois and lived in Ord, Neb., for many years before coming to this city. In February, 1865 he enlisted in Co. A, 153 Regiment of Illinois Volunteers.

Mr. Madison is survived by his widow, Mrs. Andrea Madison, 11 children, Mrs. G. E. Williams, Vernon E. Madison and Mrs. Norris Allen, of Orange, Mrs. Ella Dennis, of San Luis Obispo, Mrs. Inez Johnson, Brownsville, Ore., Hallie Madison, of Greeley, Neb., Ben Madison, of Ord, Neb., Mrs. Mabel Mitchell, of Friend, Neb., Mrs. Flora Ulm, of Comstock, Neb., Mrs. Nellie Ulm, of Hondo, Canada, and Edwin E. Madison of Lake City, Calif.

The Civil war veteran is also survived by 40 grandchildren and two great, great grandchildren.—Orange Daily News.

L. P. Kingston. L. P. Kingston was born at Breedsville, Mich., August 16, 1858, the son of John Willard and Lucinda Kingston, his age being 76 years, 6 months and 15 days at the time of his death Febr. 1, at the Wm. Kingston home, Arcadia. He came with his father a covered wagon from Michigan to York county, Nebraska, in 1870. Here he made his home most of the time through the years, on the homestead that was taken 65 years ago.

Mr. Kingston was a great traveler, spending considerable time in Oklahoma and Oregon, but for the past 27 years has made his home intermittently with relatives. He has spent the past 17 years with his brother William and family.

Last rites were held Sunday afternoon at the Arcadia M. E. church, Rev. Lawrence E. Nye, officiating. Mrs. L. Finney and the church male quartet furnished the music. Interment was in the Loup City cemetery.

Emery Bert Hyatt. Emery Bert Hyatt, son of Abraham and Lorraine Hyatt, was born April 7, 1878 near Yutan, Neb., and departed this life on January 23, 1935 at his home in Arcadia, his age being 56 years, 9 months and 21 days.

He moved to Custer county in 1882. He was united in marriage to Alpa Hattfield in 1907 at Grand Island, Neb., to which union one daughter, Loma was born. The family continued to make their home in the Clear Creek vicinity until the year 1924, when they moved to Colorado Springs, Colo. Here they resided for about 5 years and in 1928 moved to Arcadia where they have since made their home.

He leaves to mourn, his loving wife, his daughter Loma, Mrs. Dean Whitman of Arcadia, two sisters, Mrs. Dema Marsh and Mrs. Nana Crawford, and one brother, John Hyatt, all of Arcady, Neb., besides a host of other relatives and friends.

Services were held at the Methodist church of Arcadia on Wednesday afternoon with the pastor, Rev. Lawrence E. Nye, officiating. Interment was made in the Arcadia cemetery.

Chanticleers Drop Important Game To Kearney Quintet by 28-10 Score

Ord Team Unable to Hit Goal, Lose Heart Breaker To Buffalo County Team.

Ord completed last week's basketball schedule with one victory and one defeat. The Ordites, after keeping the Kearney quintet in check the first half, made a fiasco of the second portion of the game and came out on the bottom of an impressive 28-10 score.

The game was particularly interesting to Ord fans during the first quarter when the Chanticleers played a brand of basketball which had the spectators gasping although the score was tied 5-5 at the end of the quarter. The Ordites seemingly lost their "shooting eyes" in the second quarter. All attempts at sinking baskets were futile—not because of lack of chances but just simply "not hitting them." The score at the half found Ord trailing, 9 to 6. The next half was a complete failure, the Kearney quint scoring almost at will, the third quarter ended 21 to 8. Our defense began to click in the final quarter and Kearney was held down to 7 points, Ord making 11 field goals. The boys were unable to sink even one free throw out of 11 chances.

One of the largest crowds of fans ever to follow an Ord team to the scene of battle trailed the Chanticleers to Kearney and witnessed their defeat.

Saturday evening Ord took three games from North Loup, the first team winning 30-12, the second team winning 23-13 and the Ord Junior high drubbing the North Loup junior high, 10-2.

Chanticleer Sale Will Begin Today

And the mother hen said to the baby chicks, "Cluck, cluck, eat all you can. It will make you grow." Of course that is just a fairy tale but the sale of our annuals is far from a fairy tale. I know that every high school student will want to buy one of these inexpensive annuals. It contains all the activities, basketball, football, G. A. A., F. F. A., H-Y, and what not. Yes, and maybe a few for-get-me-nots. Our salesmen are Richard Severson, Kenneth Michels, Leonard Greathouse, and Billy Tunncliff.

Be a booster for Ord High School and buy an annual. You pay fifty cents down and the balance when you receive your annual. The cost of the annual will probably not exceed seventy-five cents. Oh, yes, before I forget it, I must tell you that the annual will contain pictures of the Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores, and Freshies and I hear that Harry Wolf had his picture taken specially for our annual.

So come on, you students. Let's show him that we appreciate it. Let's make this annual sale something to be put down in history! Eleanor Keep, Annual Editor.

Girl Reserves Have Heart-Sister Week

This week is Girl Reserve Heart Sister. The girls again drew names for a heart sister and every day present her with some small gift. At the end of the week their identity is revealed in some clever way. A Girl Reserve meeting will be held next Monday night. Lydia Dana will lead the meeting. The evening's topic is "Cobwebs and Dust." The membership committee has been busy campaigning for new members as the next Candlelight initiation service will be held February 22. All girls who are not already members are urged to join this active club.

G. A. A. Play Days.

Play—the birthright of ardent youth! Sports—to teach girls to be fair Play Days, we give you a toast, in truth, Here's to the friends we made there. Chance for the girl who is healthy and skilled. Prowess and pep both to spare! Places where hopes and ambitions are filled! Lucky the girls who are there! Playtime for all, no champions there! Fun, for the taking, is rife. Joy in the spirit of play, everywhere. Spring, and the good things of life.

G. A. A. Organization Now Has 43 Members

Officers President—Evelyn Loft Vice-President—Alma Hansen Secretary—Pauline Barta Sponsor—Miss Viola Crouch

The Girl's Athletic association is an organization in which all high school girls may participate. Classes are held on Tuesday and Friday nights from the hours of four to six. The slogan of the G. A. A. is "Cooperation and Sportsmanship."

Sports are classified as organized or unorganized activities. Organized activities are under the direct supervision of the instructor. Sports which are offered include soccer, speed ball, volley ball, basketball, baseball, and other games of a competitive nature. Unorganized activities include hiking, roller skating, bicycling, ice skating, golfing, playing tennis, and other approved activities, which are participated in outside of school supervision.

A letter award may be earned by acquiring a total of 225 points during the year, of which 175 must be class attendance. The remaining 50 points may be earned in unorganized activities.

Twice a year, the girls of the Loup Valley schools meet for a Play Day, where the girls play with, rather than against, each other. The afternoon is divided into periods of different organized games under the direction of instructors. The day is topped off with a social hour and a luncheon.

At the present time there are 43 girls enrolled in G. A. A. They are: Dorothy Allen, Dorothy Aule, Joy Aule, Josephine Ball, Pauline Barta, Arvelia Benjamin, Mary Beranek, Maxine Bossen, Jerrine Burrows, Gwendolyn Cass, Virginia Clark, Marjorie Coe, Mildred Craig, Barbara Dale, Virginia Davis, Frances Duemey, Jane Ferguson, Jean Ferguson, Ruth Haas, Alma Hansen, Maxine Haskell, Ann Jensen, Mary Jones, Eleanor Keep, Virginia Klein, Ruth Koupal, Wilma Krikac, Margaret Larsen, Edna Loft, Evelyn Loft, Evelyn McCall, Lillian McGinnis, Jacqueline Meyer, Elsie Rasmussen, Josephine Romans, Evelyn Sharp, Mickey Shirley, Norma Mae Snell, Marie Viner, Virginia Weekes and Irene Whitting.

DO YOU KNOW?

The faculty members had a professional dinner meeting last Thursday at Thorne's Cafe. The topic for discussion was "School Legislation."

Miss Baird gave a report on the "Child Labor Administration"; Miss Elliott reported on "What other states are doing to raise revenue to Support Schools"; Mr. Cass spoke on "The Effect of Legislation on the Schools," and Mr. Bell reported on the "Organization of the State Teacher's Association."

Mrs. Cass substituted as commercial teacher last week during Mr. Lukenbach's illness.

Kenneth Michels, a beginning typist, wrote at a speed of 51 words a minute in a five minute speed test, with absolute accuracy.

The Science Club meeting was held last Thursday during Home Room period. The meeting was in charge of Alma Jorgensen, who read two very interesting articles on "Flying the Mail" and "Trans-continental and Coast to Coast Flying."

Last Wednesday an unusual one-act comedy entitled "Moonshiners" was presented for convocation. Laverne Nelson played very capably the part of the backwoods moonshiner and Laverne Hansen ably enacted the part of Jim Dunn, a clever revenue officer.

Plans and preparations are advancing rapidly for the coming declamatory contest. Try-outs will be held for the contest play, "Circumstances Alter Cases," soon.

A pep rally was held last Friday in front of the high school building. The basketball boys were on the bus ready to leave for Kearney immediately following the pep rally.

Overheard in the hall. "I wonder how long girls should be courted?" "The same as short ones, of course."

EDITORIALS

All the students are expressing an interest in whether there is to be another carnival this year. The students are all for it, one hundred per cent. But don't ask the janitors if they want one.

The sale of annuals is to begin this week. This inexpensive annual will contain pictures of the classes and the various activities. It will contain every issue of the Oracle, together with pictures, and will thus furnish you with a better memory guide of the weekly events than a much more expensive and elaborate annual would. Be a booster for Ord High by buying an annual.

This issue of the Oracle is a semi-G. A. A. edition, and we would like to take this means of thanking all the G. A. A. members and their sponsor who helped with the material.

This month we celebrate the birthdays of two of the greatest men in history—George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. They owed their success, in part, to the fact that they kept their eyes open, mind alert, and in this way gained something from every day's happenings. Can you do likewise?

In the event that you may have been wondering about all the excitement and hurrying around during the past week, we will enlighten you. It is only the Girl Reserves concealing their heart sister gifts from prying eyes.

A PENNY FOR YOUR THOUGHTS—

This week we asked the following question: "Who is your ideal person, and why?" "Miss Haas, because she's such a grand person."—Dorothy Fish, Virginia Weekes and Company. "Chief Justice Hughes. Because he was once a lawyer and now he's one of the judges of the United States Supreme Court."—Willard Cushing. "Mr. Cowell."—Two thirds of the female population of Ord High School. "Jean Harlow, because she has personality and everything that goes with it."—Louise Petska. "You can guess."—Alma Jorgensen.

"Betsy Ross, because she's a great woman and I'd like to be like her."—Laura Nelson. "William Powell, because I like him in pictures."—Lydia Dana. "Amelia Earhart because she has courage."—Lucille Walbrecht. "Richard Severson. He's a big burly athlete."—Billy Tunncliff. "Tillie the Toller. Cause she's cute and she's America's best dressed girl."—Lois Dowhower. "Ginger Rogers. She's got everything I'd like to have."—Irene Diugosh. "Eldon Rose. He's got everything a girl could desire."—Virginia Fox. "Mrs. Noyce, formerly Miss Hostetter. Because she's an all round good sport."—Maxine Haskell.

A G. A. A. Thought. If by gaining knowledge we destroy our health, we labor for a thing that will be useless in our hands; he that sinks his vessel by overloading it though it be with gold and silver and precious stones, will give its owner but an ill-account of his voyage.

This Week's Sponsor is Sack Lumber & Coal Co.

Among the solid institutions of Ord going quietly through year after year of successful operation and occupying a substantial place in the community, none is better known than the Sack Lumber and Coal company, sponsor of the school page this week. And quiet, solid and substantial also are probably the most suitable adjectives to apply to the man who has had so much to do with the conduct of this firm, William Sack, manager, Ord citizen.

Mr. Sack was a Sutton, Neb. boy, and after attending school there owed an interest in and managed the electric light plant of that town for several years, work which he liked very much. In 1912 in November, the present Sack Lumber yard of Ord was purchased from its owners, Daniel Burke, E. J. Clements, and H. D. Leggett, and one month later young William Sack came to Ord as bookkeeper and three years later became manager. With the exception of part of a year spent in Lincoln, Mr. Sack has been in Ord since that time.

Under the new ownership, the yard has been rebuilt to a considerable extent, and a few years ago a modern brick office building improved the property and the appearance of Ord. Lumber building supplies of all kinds including a good line of Dupont paints, and fuel are the products on sale at Sack's. Lynn Beeghly, an Ord boy, assists in the operation of the business. Since this yard does not do its own delivering, the two men handle the work nicely.

Mr. Sack is married and has three children, the oldest, Harold, now being a freshman at the University of Nebraska, where he is enrolled in the college of Business Administration. Virginia, 13, and Lloyd, 12, are both freshmen in Ord high school. As a member of the school board of this city, Mr. Sack's interest in school activities is thus double, being both that of a board member and a father.

Another position of honor and trust held by William Sack in the recent past is that of Ord councilman, which he occupied for two terms. The Sack family attend the Methodist church, and for a number of years Mr. Sack served as treasurer and was on the board of that church. At present he is a Rotarian and a member of the Chamber of Commerce. And if these various activities are not enough to keep him busy, hunting and fishing are the hobbies to which he turns for enjoyment.

Dependable, hardworking, the manager of the Sack business in Ord is no less dependable than his firm. High school students of today are sure to develop into the customer-friends of tomorrow when they become acquainted with the Sack Lumber and Coal company and the soft-spoken manager, William Sack.

The Oracle is made possible by this group of loyal Ord business and professional men and women:

Public Speaking Classes of Ord High Will Give Public Recital Tonight

A G. A. A. Poem.

We're a pirate crew that's full of pep We are out to kill the blues To join us you must watch your step We are the best of crews.

Throw your troubles to the wind We'll help you drown your sorrow Today's a good time to begin Don't wait until tomorrow.

We sail the good ship G. A. A. For this we're mighty glad 'Tis the best ship, all the people say, For us that could be had.

And when we see a bit of gloom Cross our happy way We blow it on an early tomb For we're the G. A. A.

Miss Crouch is our captain brave Our ensign is a smile We go along with happy song, To make this life worthwhile.

The Student's Twenty-third Slam

The high school professor is my shepherd and I am in dire want; he preventeth me from lying down in my bed; he leadeth me to distraction with his exam questions. He shaketh my resolutions to get a high school degree; he leadeth me to make a fool of myself before my classmates.

Yea, though I burneth my light until my mother howeth; I fear evil; for he is against me.

His policies, his theories, and his rantings frighteneth my wits from me.

He assigneth me extra work as a punishment in the presence of mine enemies; he anointeth my quiz papers with red pencil marks, and my zeros filleteth a whole column.

Surely, theories, exams, and themes will follow me all the days of my school career and I will dwell in the bughouse forever.

Business man: "So you want a job, eh? Do you tell lies?" Joe Krellek: "No sir, but I can learn."

Choral Speaking, 1-Act Plays, Comedy and Dramatic Play Will Be Presented

A Public Speaking class recital will be presented by the public speaking classes Thursday evening, February 14, at 8:00 o'clock.

One of the numbers of the program will be an exhibition of choral speaking in which members of all three classes will participate. They will recite in unison, "Spin, Lasso, Spin," "The Twenty-fourth Psalm" and "The Three Castaways."

The first division of the Public Speaking classes will present five one-act plays, four of which are comedies.

Julia Fuss and Jeanette Hughes will enact "The Acid Test." "Neighbors" will be presented by Alma Masin, Lillian Kirby, Maxine Jones, Myrtle Cornell, Viola Hansen, Harvey Jensen, Ronald Rose, and Evelyn Kokes.

Beulah McGinnis and Louise Petska will present a comedy, "In a Garden." "Love and Cornbees" will be presented by Dale Mella, Ronald Rose, Paul Adamek, Mae Jones, and Jacqueline Meyer.

The last play will be "The Better End" a dramatic play, which will be presented by Mildred Craig, Paul Blessing, and Harlan Wyrick.

To the present time, approximately forty students have shown their interest in declamatory work. A large number of students have tried out for each division with the exception of the extemporaneous work. Those students who are interested in extemporaneous or original orations will be instructed by Mr. Bell while Miss Roels, Miss Slotte and Miss Johnson will be in charge of the humorous and dramatic readings.

Admission to the Public Speaking recital can be obtained only by means of complimentary tickets which can be secured from the public speaking class members.

Kiddies' Column

Jackie Goddard is a new pupil in the nursery school.

The kindergarten children have been building a post office. They are going to mail letters and study new and used stamps. They are planning on taking some excursions soon.

Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Tolen visited in the first grade one afternoon last week.

The first graders are having a valentine box. They are reading a book called "Valentine Day" and are making valentine posters.

Joyce Petty of the second grade has been in Omaha. She has been gone about a week. The pupils in her room wrote letters to her.

Raymond Blomond is back in school after a week of illness.

The third grade is making log cabins in drawing class.

The fourth grade is studying about Lincoln.

The fifth grade is now studying multiplication of fractions.

Mrs. Miller visited Mary's English class last Thursday afternoon.

The sixth grade had a test on France last Wednesday.

The grade school first team was beaten last Wednesday night for the first time by a score of 13-13.

The fifth and sixth grade basketball boys had their pictures taken at the high school on Monday evening.

The English classes are making a special study of the life of Abraham Lincoln.

The fifth and sixth grade boys put on the stunts between halves of the game with Ravenna. Mr. Watkins deserves much credit for the splendid training he is giving the boys.

The art classes had lots of fun cutting free hand silhouettes of Washington and Lincoln. The most of them were very good and made attractive posters.

Project II in English last week was made up of the study of the life of Oliver Wendell Holmes and memorizing "Old Ironsides" in the sixth grade. In the fifth grade the life of Lowell was studied and the class memorized "The First Snowfall."

The children in Miss Hallen's and Miss Wallin's rooms have been studying fire prevention. They visited the Ord fire station one morning last week. Mr. Shirley explained the equipment and apparatus to the children.

Miss Kosmata entertained the grade teachers at a 6:30 dinner last Monday. The evening was spent playing various games. Miss LeValley was awarded the prize for the evening.

Reporters: Raymond Furtak, Bobby Gruber.

Teacher: "Johnny, what is a cannibal?" Johnny: "I don't know." Teacher: "Well, if you ate your father and mother what would you be?" Johnny: An orphan."

Miss Martha Armstrong spent Wednesday night at Burt Trefren's. The card party given for the benefit of the Arcadia Catholic church was given at the Frank Hosesk home Sunday evening. There were six tables of players. The high prizes were won by Mrs. Frank Chliewski and Mrs. Joe Parkos. The low prizes were won by Mrs. Joe Petska and Joe Bonne. Marion and Willard Trefren called at Reimer Bouma's Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Wozniak and son Lavern were Sunday dinner guests at the James Wozniak home. Burt Trefren and daughter Katherine called at R. Bouma's Sunday. John Wozniak and son George were Sunday dinner guests at James Wozniak's.

Marion Trefren called at Anton Samla's Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. John Wolf and Leona and Vencil Sedlacek were callers at John Benben's Thursday night. Bennie Wojtaszek called at Reimer Bouma's Saturday afternoon. Miss Agnes Lehecka spent from Wednesday until Monday at the home of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Zabloull.

School Notes. The seventh and eighth grade History classes have been making "Presidents of the U. S." booklets. Those who received 100 per cent for spelling last week were Verna Twombly, Marion Trefren, Alfred Hosesk, Marguerite Wozniak, and Evelyn Bouma.

Last week we drew names for Valentine's day, February 14th. Friday afternoon we had a free art period. Last week the third and fourth graders, who have studied the poems of Eugene Field wrote invitations to the upper grades, inviting them to help sing the poem, "Little Boy Blue" to the music.

A HORSE STORY. Several well known men are interested in this horse story. One day recently Mr. F. E. Boetscher came down from his ranch near Atkinson and paid E. R. Poth $280 for a stallion colt 2 1/2 years old. It is a beautiful colt, a bright sorrel with silver mane and tail and will make a big, fine horse in another year or two. But let us go back, as several well known men are interested in the story. In the first place Charley Bals imported the great grand sire of the colt just sold, from his native Belgium. W. E. E. Grossnicklaus, living over the line from Valley county in Sherman county, bought a sire from Mr. Bals, later selling a descendant from the horse to Burt Sell of Arcadia. The colt just sold was sired by the Sell horse and when two days old, the neighbor who owned the mother of the colt, went to Mr. Sell and told him about the colt but said he couldn't pay the colt bill and that he was going to knock the little colt in the head, unless Mr. Sell wanted him. Sell said he would take the colt, did so, and the Sell family raised the colt by hand. Of course when Sell got the colt horses were a drug on the market and continued to be so. Ten months ago E. R. Poth, well known and prosperous Mira Valley farmer bought the colt from Mr. Sell for $60. It was not a very prepossessing piece of horse flesh at the time, being shaggy and rough, but Mr. Poth, who has a keen eye for a good horse, saw that a good horse was sure to develop and he gave the care that the colt needed to properly develop. And he made a nice piece of money for his work, too. And he has bought another similar colt almost the same color and of the same breeding, paying more to start with than he did for the first one, because horses are looking up. He says the horse is coming back and that any farmer with a good horse or team to sell for the next few years will be able to get a good price for it. Many Quiz readers know all the men mentioned in this little horse story.

VOL. 25 NO. 46

$1,000 PER DAY IN FEED LOANS FOR 5 MONTHS

550 Valley Co. Farmers Now
On Feed Loan List, More
Ask Aid Daily, Barta Says.

The first comprehensive picture of the terrible effects of the 1934 drought in Valley county is revealed this week by Jos. P. Barta, chairman of the Federal Emergency Feed Loan committee, in his report that for the past five months his committee has made feed loans averaging over $1,000 per day. More than $150,000 has been loaned to Valley county farmers for feed so far this winter, Barta says.

Chairman Barta's office, which hitherto has been in the Protective Savings & Loan association building, may soon have to be moved to the court house because the Protective building does not furnish sufficient room for the work.

There are 550 farmers getting monthly loans at present and from three to five more names are added to the list daily, Barta reports. In addition, about 150 farmers are getting feed through the FERA on the 10-unit plan, paying for the feed by working on roads, so it will be seen that out of Valley county's 1,247 farmers more than half are dependent upon the government for money to buy feed to keep their livestock through the winter.

Loans vary from $25 to $300 per month, depending on the number of livestock the farmer is keeping. When the work started last fall loans were made at the rate of $3.00 per head for both horses and cattle but now, in special cases, the feed loan committee is authorized to loan $4.50 per head per month for feeding cattle and $6.00 per month for feeding work horses.

Unsecured notes due Nov. 1, 1935 are taken from farmers who get feed loans, Barta says. Some borrowers owe as much as $1,600 now, with much of the winter left. In cases where feed loans are sought for cattle mortgaged to banks, the banks are required to sign agreements not to press collection until Jan. 1, 1936.

Inspectors visit the farms of borrowers at regular intervals to see that each borrower has the number of livestock he claims to have. Grover Barnhart, of North Loup, is the only inspector working in Valley county at present.

L. R. Leonard, of Lincoln, is district supervisor of feed loans and visits Ord frequently. The work is organized on a highly efficient basis in Valley county, Supervisor Leonard has assured members of the local committee.

It is now proposed to add seed loans to the work of Chairman Barta and his committee and when seed loan money becomes available it will be necessary to move the office to the court house, where supervisors have placed the county court room at the disposal of the committee. Barta estimates that two-thirds of the farmers in this county will need feed loans this spring. At present Miss Ethel Hower is the only clerk in the feed loan office but when seed loans start five or six more clerks will be needed.

C. B. & Q. Officers On Inspection Trip

A party of C. B. & Q. railway officials, on an inspection tour of branch lines, spent Tuesday night in Hotel Ord. In the group were F. R. Mullen, Lincoln, general superintendent of this division, F. T. Darrow, Lincoln, engineer for lines west of Lincoln, Andy Ibsen, Central City, roadmaster, and E. Potorf, Omaha, engineer of material and maintenance.

Montana Boy Orders Cards.

Even Montana high school students order their graduation name cards from the Quiz. We are printing cards for Franklin G. West, of Hardin, Mont., who read an ad in last week's Quiz and ordered promptly. Franklin is a son of Mrs. Albert West, who is a sister of Jos. P. Barta of Ord.

Ducks Flying North Coming of Spring Is Predicted

An early spring is being predicted by many people who have seen large flocks of ducks flying north during the past week. Most of the ducks are of the mallard and pintail varieties, which usually go north about March 1. It is unusual for them to start their flight before the middle of February as they did this year. Most of the ice is out of the river as result of several days of warm weather.

Sylvester Paplernik, of Elyria, reports a pair of mallards, that stayed here all winter, being seen even on the days when sub-zero temperatures were in force.

Elyria is Scene of Jablonskis 50th Wedding Anniversary Celebration

Well Known Ord Couple Honored
By Hundreds of Friends In Happy Gathering Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Jablonski, long-time residents of the Elyria community but for the past nine years citizens of Ord, were honored Thursday, February 14, when hundreds of friends gathered at St. Mary's hall, Elyria, to help them celebrate the 50th anniversary of their marriage. Included in the gathering were their eleven children, thirty-two grandchildren, one great grandchild and many other relatives, as well as a host of friends.

The day of celebration began with high mass and special services at the Elyria Catholic church by Rev. Leonard Ziolkowski. The altar was decorated with artificial roses of gold and white hues and Mr. and Mrs. Jablonski were escorted to the altar by two of their grandchildren, Norbert Zulkoski and Dolores Jablonski, who carried a white satin pillow on which reposed gold rosaries, the gifts of their sons and daughters. At the same hour mass was offered at the Ord church by Rev. M. A. Lawler.

After church services Mr. and Mrs. Jablonski and their guests went to the St. Mary's club hall where dinner and supper were served. Six granddaughters presided at the tables, the Misses Frances, Pauline and Clara Konkoleski wearing gold smocks and gold ribbon bands in their hair while the Misses Victoria Micek, Florence Jablonski, and Florence Zulkoski wore white smocks and gold and hair ribbons. The tables were centered with two beautiful wedding cakes and glass vases filled with gold roses stood at the end of the tables. An attractive color note of gold and white was introduced in the hall decorations also.

JAKE PAPIERNIK BADLY HURT AS CAR, TRUCK, HIT

Check Cut Open, Ear Severed in Highway Accident Thursday;
Chickens Escape Crates.

Jake Paplernik, of Elyria, head of the Ord Mills, Inc., of Ord, suffered painful injuries when his car collided with a poultry truck on the highway north of Ord about 6:00 p. m. Thursday. His sister, Mrs. Tom Zulkoski, was riding with him but escaped injury.

Paplernik and Mrs. Zulkoski had been to Loup City and were returning to Elyria when the accident occurred. The poultry truck, driven by Walter Schoenecherdt, of Doniphan, a representative of the Grand Island Poultry Co., was coming toward Ord.

The weather was unpleasant Thursday evening and driving was hazardous because of sleet freezing on windshields. Moreover, the truck's headlights were extremely bright and no side-lights were visible, Mr. Paplernik claims.

Truck and car met head-on near the Charles Varzal place. Windshield and side glass broke in the Paplernik sedan and Mr. Paplernik was badly cut by glass, one ear being almost severed and one side of his face being cut from mouth to ear. He was also badly bruised. The truck driver was unhurt and his truck was not greatly damaged, although chicken crates he was carrying were broken by the collision and several chickens escaped.

Fred Ulrich happened along about that time and brought Paplernik to the Ord hospital, where he was attended by Dr. F. A. Barta, who had to take over thirty stitches to close the gash in his face and put his ear in place. Saturday Mr. Paplernik left the hospital and went to his own home but he is still very weak, is unable to talk and can scarcely take nourishment.

After Mr. Paplernik was taken to the hospital the truck driver left for Grand Island but broke down in the chalk hills below Scotia and had to remain there until morning, which gave credence to a report that he had "skipped the country." He got into Grand Island Friday afternoon and at once called Sheriff George S. Round, who had been trying to locate him, and made arrangements to come to Ord yesterday to settle up with Mr. Paplernik, as his failure to carry colored side lights undoubtedly makes him responsible for damages.

Carl Koelling Very Ill.

Carl Koelling, vice-president of the Farmers Grain & Supply Co., is very ill at his farm in Mira Valley. He has been suffering with pneumonia for about two weeks and is being attended by Dr. C. J. Miller, who said yesterday that Mr. Koelling is very ill but that his condition is not dangerous.

—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kasson and Mrs. Lyle McBeth were Grand Island visitors Tuesday.

Kansas Rotarian Will Speak Here

Fred Coulson, of Abilene, Kas., a prominent Rotarian and former 6th district governor of that club, will address Ord Rotarians on Monday, March 25, it is announced by George A. Parkins, president of the local club. Mr. Coulson is secretary and general manager of the United Telephone Co., is vice-president of the United Life Insurance Co., and vice-president of the United Trust Co., all being famous Kansas corporations. As chairman of the vocational service committee of Rotary International for 1934-35, Mr. Coulson is a member of the Aims and Objects committee of Rotary. His coming is being eagerly awaited by Ord Rotarians.

This meeting is in observance of the 10th anniversary of the Ord club.

P. E. O. CHAPTER BUSY PLANNING FOR CONVENTION

Mrs. Cornell Is General Chairman, Names Committees to Plan For Big Meeting Here.

The Ord chapter of P. E. O. meeting Monday in the home of Mrs. Jos. P. Barta, devoted most of its business session to planning for the Nebraska convention of this order which will be entertaining in Ord in May. Mrs. A. W. Cornell is general chairman of the convention and reports of several committees were heard Monday.

Members of committees appointed by Mrs. Cornell to act with her in preparing for this convention, which is expected to attract about 300 delegates to Ord, are as follows:

Entertainment and courtesy—Mrs. L. D. Milliken, chairman; Mrs. Will Ollis, Mrs. Jos. P. Barta, Mrs. Ada Munn, Mrs. George Munn, Miss Daisy Hallen.

Housing—Mrs. C. J. Miller, chairman; Mrs. Orville H. Sowl. Registration—Mrs. C. M. Davis, chairman; Mrs. A. W. Tunnichiff, Miss Gertrude Hawkins.

Transportation—Mrs. Glen D. Auble, chairman; Mrs. Wm. Heuck, Miss Virginia VanDecar.

Printing—Miss Clara McClatchey, chairman; Mrs. C. C. Dale, Mrs. M. D. Bell.

Decorations—Mrs. Gould B. Flagg, chairman; Mrs. James Ollis, Mrs. Alpha Hill.

Banquet—Mrs. G. W. Taylor, chairman; Mrs. A. B. Capron, Mrs. W. D. Casa.

Meals of delegates—Mrs. H. B. VanDecar, chairman; Mrs. George W. W.

Information—Mrs. C. E. Goodhand, chairman; Miss Martha Mae Barta, Mrs. Helen Hill, Miss Winnie Hallen.

Music—Mrs. Mark Tolén, chairman; Mrs. K. C. McGrew, Mrs. J. W. Severns.

Finance—Mrs. A. W. Cornell, chairman; Mrs. Mark Tolén.

Convention sessions will be held in the Methodist church, it is planned, and as many delegates as possible will be entertained in Ord homes during their three-day visit here. Last year the state convention was held in Wayne.

S. S. Missionary At Retirement Age, Is Granted Pension

Rev. A. L. Nordin, missionary in central Nebraska for the American Sunday School Union since 1906, recently reached the retirement age and was granted a pension. Even though he gets a pension Rev. Nordin says he will not quit work "as long as I'm able to Ford it over the hills and through the valleys."

Nordin's district includes ten counties extending north to Wheeler and Garfield and east to Polk and Merrick. During his 29 years of missionary work he has organized 242 Sunday schools. He now has 33 which report to him each week.

Rev. Nordin lives in St. Paul and has many friends in Ord.

J. L. VanNess Will Sell.

J. L. VanNess, who lives on a farm just north of North Loup, is advertising a clean-up sale in this issue of the Quiz. He has a large offering.

GOOD ROADS MEN MEET; BAD ROADS CUT ATTENDANCE

Enthusiasm Shown at Luncheon
And Haywood New Officers.

Had the Valley County Good Roads association been in existence a couple of years longer its luncheon and annual meeting at Keep's Cafe last Thursday would probably have been more widely attended, not only because it would have a larger membership list but also because its program would have resulted in road improvement in this county, which would have permitted a larger number of its members to drive to Ord.

With this roundabout introduction, we mention the fact that attendance at this luncheon was cut considerably by the bad roads that resulted from last Thursday's rainfall. About 20 men were present but what was lacking in numbers was made up for by enthusiasm.

H. B. VanDecar, secretary-treasurer of the association, presided in the absence of William Ramsey, of Arcadia, the president, and after the luncheon Mr. VanDecar gave a report of his recent trip to Lincoln with members of the county board's road committee.

They conferred with A. C. Tilley, state engineer, and with Governor Roy Cochran and were courteously treated, VanDecar reported. State officials promised the utmost consideration to the Good Roads association's 1935 road program, which asks construction and gravel for Ord-Ericson, Ord-Loup City, Ord-Cornstock, Ord-Greeley, Arcadia-Cornstock, Ord-Sargent, Elyria north, North Loup west and other highways.

Other speakers included Bert M. Hardenbrook, Archie Geweke, Gould Flagg, Charles Johnson and S. V. Hansen, all of whom spoke briefly on road matters and pledged their faith in the Good Roads association.

Election of officers was held, resulting in the election of Archie Geweke, of Mira Valley, as president, A. E. Haywood, of Arcadia, as vice-president, and H. B. VanDecar as secretary-treasurer.

The Good Roads association was organized here about six months ago and its object is to work for the improvement of all highways in Valley county, whether they are in the state, county or township systems. Members from North Loup, Arcadia, Ord and several rural communities were present Thursday. The association now has about 45 members and Secretary VanDecar hopes that 100 or more may be enrolled by the end of 1935.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams were married at York, Neb., in 1921 and have three children, LaVonne, 12, Dwain, 10, and Daryl, 7. Until about a year ago they lived on a farm near Arcadia and then moved into this village.

Since August 4, 1934, Williams has resided elsewhere and has failed to pay house rent for his family or to contribute sufficiently to their support, his wife complains. During the same period he has paid attentions to another woman, she alleges.

Besides owning the auction sale barn in Arcadia, Mr. Williams owns a farm in South Dakota and is interested in auction businesses at Broken Bow and Stromsburg. He is capable of earning $200 per month in this kind of times, his wife claims, and she asks custody of their children and an allowance sufficient for their care.

Mr. Williams has not yet filed answer to the suit, which will be heard before District Judge Kroger in the near future.

Submit Details Of Library, Irrigation

Monday Bert M. Hardenbrook, representing the North Loup power and irrigation project, and Mrs. Evet Smith, representing the Ord township library, appeared before the Nebraska planning board, which was holding a meeting in Hastings, and submitted details of the $3,000,000 project and the proposed $20,000 public library. They met with a favorable reception and the state board promised to give consideration to both propositions. The list of projects approved by the board will not be announced for several days.

Why Tax the Entire Cost of RELIEF to the MOTORIST?

In the state legislature a terrific battle is being waged over passage of Governor Cochran's relief bill, which seeks to raise $4,000,000 in two years to match FERA funds by adding an additional cent to the state gasoline tax. Federal authorities have demanded that the State of Nebraska provide means of raising this money before March 1; otherwise, federal funds will stop, they threaten. In the forefront of the battle against passage of the 1-cent gasoline tax is our representative, Marlon J. Cushing. In the opinion of the Quiz, Repr. Cushing should be commended for the valiant work he is doing.

No foe of the people on relief is Mr. Cushing. For them he has an intelligent sympathy; he will insist upon seeing that they are given food and fuel. Cushing's position is a simple one: "Why should the entire cost of relief be taxed to the motorist?"

Governor Cochran admits the unfairness of his bill but the matter is one of expediency, he says. Only by enlarging the gas tax can large sums of money be raised as quickly as is necessary to meet federal requirements, he claims. To this Mr. Cushing answers calmly: "There is a balance of 1-2 million dollars in the state treasury at present; why not draw upon this fund to meet immediate needs while we devise, without undue haste, some system of taxation that will more fairly prorate the cost of emergency relief among taxpayers of Nebraska."

To repeat Mr. Cushing's simple query, why should the motorist shoulder the entire relief burden? Why should the trucker, the traveling man, the man who uses his auto or delivery car in the course of his business, the farmer who uses truck or car for the same purpose, pay the relief burden while the wealthy man who perhaps owns no car, no truck, and uses no gasoline, goes scot-free? What would be the result in Ord, in Valley county, if the Cochran plan be adopted? Who would pay Valley county's share of the cost, who evade it?

The Quiz talked yesterday to a man who uses a light delivery truck in his business. In 1934 this man paid, in state and federal gas taxes, the sum of $128. Addition of a single cent would raise his gas tax bill this year $29. He is not a wealthy man. He needs his truck to make a living. This man has a neighbor who owns many sections of land. This neighbor owns no automobile, no truck; he paid nothing last year in gas tax. Why tax a relief cost of $23 to one man, nothing to his wealthy neighbor?

Multiply this instance by thousands and hundreds of thousands and you see how discriminatory the Cochran plan is. Fortunately our representative sees the unfairness of the Cochran proposal, demands that it not be adopted solely because it is expedient to do so.

The unemployed must be fed, they must be provided with clothes and fuel and the other necessities of life as long as the emergency exists, but the money should be provided by ALL OF US, not by the motorist alone.

All power to Repr. Cushing in his fight.

Dr. Hager Making Good in World's Biggest Hospital

Ord people have a right to feel proud of Dr. Chauncey A. Hager, native Ord boy who returned to New York City this week after a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hager, for Dr. Hager is making good in Bellevue Hospital, New York City, which is said to be the largest hospital in the world.

An honor graduate of Ord high school, Chauncey later attended the University of Nebraska college of medicine, from which he was graduated with honors, and then served a year's internship in St. Francis hospital, Jersey City, N. J. In July, 1931, he was one of about 100 young doctors who sought appointment as internes in Bellevue hospital. He passed the examination with a high grade and was one of the few appointed. The appointment is for two years.

In Bellevue, young Dr. Hager is working with some of the most skillful physicians and surgeons in the United States and his work is said to be highly satisfactory. A brilliant future lies before him in the fields of medicine and surgery.

Truly Ordites may feel proud of Dr. Hager.

ORD HI ATHLETES WILL BE GUESTS AT C. OF C. DINNER

Friday, March 1, Set As Date
For Ed Weir's Appearance;
New Members Signing Up.

Coach Helmut Brockman and members of Ord high school football and basketball teams will be guests of the Chamber of Commerce next Friday, March 1, when Ed Weir, assistant coach at the University of Nebraska and former All-America tackle will speak and show moving pictures of Cornhusker athletics as feature event of the Chamber's annual dinner for new members. The dinner will be served by Catholic ladies in the ball room of the Masonic hall at 6:00 p. m.

Chamber members and their wives are expected to attend, members of the Ord Business and Professional Women's club, and school men here for the Class B basketball tournament are specially invited and it is thought that dinner will be served to almost 200 people.

During the meal music will be furnished by a string quartet composed of Orville Sowl, Dr. F. L. Blessing, Edwin Clements and Horace Travis and there probably will be other musical features. J. Edgar Mouser is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

After dinner John P. Misko will preside as toastmaster at a program which will include, besides Weir's address; brief talks by Coach Brockman and others.

The Chamber's annual membership drive started this week under the leadership of Freeman V. Haught, vice-president and chairman of the membership committee, and it is hoped that 20 new members may be secured.

Each year the Chamber gives a dinner honoring new members and the affair next Friday is expected to be the most interesting and the best attended ever held. Coach Weir, former Cornhusker tackle and probably the greatest football player ever produced at the University of Nebraska, is an interesting speaker and the moving pictures he will show are replete with thrills for every person who enjoys football. Arrangements are being made to have Weir address high school students and tournament athletes in the Ord high school auditorium at 5:00 p. m. Friday.

Tickets for the banquet will be sold in advance and persons who wish to attend are requested to get in touch with Messrs. Mouser or Auble.

Boys Upset, Three Hurt.

While driving to Sargent for a basketball game Tuesday evening, a party of Ord boys in a car driven by Archie Hatfield upset on a sharp turn west of Burwell and three of the boys were slightly hurt, Stephen Cook had a sprained wrist, Paul Carlsen and Archie received cuts and bruises. Other boys escaped injury. Headlights of the car went out suddenly, this being the cause of the accident.

HOPES REVIVED FOR PWA ACTION ON IRRIGATION

Veatch Flies from Washington
For New Data, Thinks Will Have Project Approved.

Hope for quick approval of the North Loup power and irrigation project was revived Tuesday when Bert M. Hardenbrook, president, received a long telegram from N. T. Veatch, Jr., forecasting approval within the next two weeks. Hardenbrook left at once for Lincoln to confer with Veatch, who flew from Washington, D. C., to Kansas City Tuesday, from Kansas City to Lincoln Tuesday night and from Lincoln back to Washington yesterday.

For the past ten days Veatch has been in Washington conferring with PWA officials about the North Loup project and Monday afternoon with Senators Norris and Burke and Congressman Coffee, he was scheduled to take the project directly to President Roosevelt. In his telegram Tuesday Engineer Veatch did not state whether this conference took place but from the hopeful tone of his message it is judged that it did and that President Roosevelt ordered the PWA to work out some way of approving the project.

Veatch's airplane trip to Kansas City and Lincoln was made for the purpose of securing additional data requested by PWA engineers. Mr. Hardenbrook left for Lincoln within a few minutes after receiving the telegram, taking the message with him, so its full text cannot be printed.

It is known, however, that Engineer Veatch stated in his message that he has a definite promise of approval upon certain terms which are not entirely satisfactory but that he has every hope of securing a modification of these terms upon presentation of the additional data secured on his airplane trip.

The project will be developed to give the valley both power and irrigation if Mr. Veatch's hopes are realized, Hardenbrook stated before leaving for Lincoln Tuesday.

The hopes of local people have been raised so many times, only to be dashed to earth later, that officers of the district are taking this encouragement lightly. It is true, however, that the project's present status is very favorable and approval within a few days will not be surprising.

Dance Well Attended.

More than 150 couples attended the old time dance held at the Bohemian hall on Feb. 8 and preparations are being made to take care of an even larger crowd tomorrow night, when the Joe Puncocchar and Ben Janssen old-time orchestra furnishes music. The committee in charge at present consists of Walter Jorgensen, John Koll, Gerald Dye, F. J. L. Benda and Ernest S. Coats.

Mrs. Tondreau Leaving.

Mrs. Joseph Tondreau is leaving Ord and is selling her farm equipment and household furniture at auction tomorrow afternoon, on the old Wilson place west of Bussele park. The offering is listed elsewhere in today's paper.

Moving to Missourl.

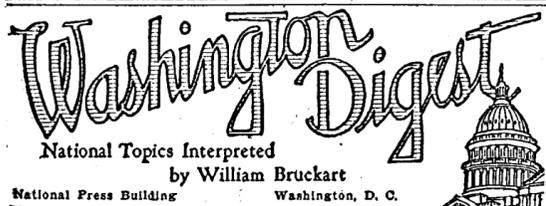

Vincent Kokes, long time resident of the northwest part of Valley county, has disposed of his farm and will move about March 1 to a new farm which he has bought near West Plains, Mo. His son-in-law and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Potl, have also bought an 80-acre farm near West Plains and they, also, will move down there this spring. A man by the name of Holcomb, now living near Arcadia, has bought the Kokes farm and will move there this spring. The Quiz dislikes to see people such as the Kokes and Potl families leave Valley county.

—Relations say that recently Mrs. Irl Tolén of Lincoln has been ill with an attack of gallstones but has recovered.

Butterfly Is Seen, Sign Spring Is On the Way

The first robin, the first dandelion, ducks flying north—all fade into insignificance as signs of spring in comparison with the first butterfly. When the first butterfly is seen, spring surely must be on the way and it was seen in Ord yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Clark found the first butterfly, a small yellow one with black spots, crawling about the floor of their home. Evidently it had just crawled out of a cocoon. To prove that spring can't be far off, Mr. Clark captured the butterfly and was displaying it around town.

Washington.—It begins to appear that the Roosevelt administration has returned from its excursion into Home Affairs its excursion into to the Fore foreign parts and is now ready to engage in rehabilitation of domestic affairs to the exclusion of international problems, except the matter of reciprocal treaties. It is true that Secretary Hull of the Department of State, Secretary Roper of the Department of Commerce, and Senator Borah, in the senate, have talked about foreign affairs in one way or another, but none of them occasioned any observation or suggestions from the White House by their assertions.

Among the occurrences in the recent period that tend to show how the administration again is putting home affairs to the forefront are the new banking bill, the plans for recovery revival under the five billion dollar public works bill, and the determination of house and senate lately, under a White House spur, to clip the wings of, if not wholly eradicate, the so-called holding companies. Attention might be called also to the uprising in the Department of Agriculture where Secretary Wallace, and Agricultural Adjustment Administrator Chester Davis combined a few days ago to eliminate left-wing members of their respective staffs. They did it summarily, but the end is not yet, either as respects plans of Messrs. Wallace and Davis, or the yelps that may be expected from the radicals who were ousted.

The general information is that, in shelving foreign matters, Mr. Roosevelt has determined to lay aside the St. Lawrence waterway controversy until "pressing domestic matters" are disposed of. Almost in the same breath it can be said that new activity has been disclosed on the part of the New Dealers to spread their doctrine into the states and establish, if possible, uniform laws everywhere concerning privately owned utilities such as electricity and gas. While no one will say so, it is the understanding that considerable pressure is being placed behind the effort to get state legislatures to pass uniform public utilities bills, measures which have been drafted in the Public Works administration here.

Probably as important as any legislation that has gone to congress in recent months is the new banking bill. It was transmitted to congress in a most unspectacular manner. There was no out-and-out endorsement by the White House, nor was the sponsoring of the draft made clear. The legislation was dropped into the house hopper the day after Representative Steagall, chairman of the house committee on banking and currency, had given out his own summarization. Chairman Fletcher of the senate committee on banking and currency received the bill the same day as Mr. Steagall and immediately went into a huddle with himself behind closed doors to study the draft. Later he announced with apparent pleasure that it was a great piece of legislation.

Now that the bill has been printed and is available for public inspection, a perfect furor has been aroused. The conservative critics began to squawk immediately that the measure proposes to destroy the Federal Reserve system and concentrate on power of credit and currency expansion or contraction. In the hands of a small group in the Treasury they contend that this amounts to establishment of a central bank and that, under our political system, a central bank would mean an unstable currency. What more could there be then, they ask, to destroy confidence in the currency which we use?

New Dealers, in defense of this new banking legislation, have been given to making wise-cracks about the Old Dealers, who, they assert, desire to see conditions of 1923 and 1929 repeated. They cite, with some justification, it seems to me, that central banks exist in most of the major countries of the world and that their service has not been a bad thing at all. Further, the New Dealers argue that the political capital of the United States is in Washington, and the financial capital has been in New York. Why, they ask, should there be such a division?

In between these two schools of thought are sound money advocates and courageous conservatives who take the position that the bill has many good qualities and that it likewise has many provisions definitely to be avoided.

To summarize the banking legislation—and I think it is of paramount interest to every one because it touches the currency and credit so directly—the real end likely to result from the legislation is a centralized control in Washington of the very nerve center of business, money. The bill proposes to establish what is called an open market committee in Washington and to include as members of this committee three members of the Federal Reserve Board. The two remaining members would come from Federal Reserve banks. From this it is seen that the Reserve board becomes the dominant body. It takes no stretch of the imagination to recognize the possibilities. Members of the Reserve board, while they are appointed for a term of ten years, sometimes resign or die off. It immediately becomes possible, therefore, to make the Federal Reserve board a purely political body dominated by the President of the United States.

The function of the open market committee, as proposed in the bill, is to order the purchase or sale of government securities in the open market. If these securities are bought, the Reserve banks issue currency for them and they increase the amount of money in circulation, thereby easing credit. If the banks sell bonds which they have in their portfolios, the currency paid for those bonds obviously is taken out of circulation and that action results in a contraction or reduction of the amount of credit available.

If, for example, the occupant of the White House at any time happens to be an out-and-out inflationist, it is easy to see how government bonds can be absorbed by the Reserve banks and new currency put in circulation in whatever volume the administration policies require.

Another phase of the bill would allow national banks and state banks that are members of the Federal Reserve system to make loans on real estate for a twenty-year term. Five years is the present limitation. One has only to go back for an examination of causes of hundreds of bank failures in recent years to discover that the five-year limitation probably increased the mortality among otherwise sound banks to a greater extent than any other factor.

There is another section of the measure which I think is worthy of close Federal Examination. It proposes to combine the jobs of governor and agent, and that the bank policies should be executed by the governor who is selected by the bank board of directors.

This provided something of a dual control, a check and balance on the exercise of power. Now, however, the effort is to be made to combine the jobs and make the head of the bank a strictly governmental representative.

That course naturally is in line with the Roosevelt program of extending and expanding federal authority. The President has constantly increased the scope of power and influence exercised from Washington. The current offering is accepted everywhere as bringing under federal domination completely the banking system of this nation. It does so because none can deny that the Federal Reserve banks hold a club over the heads of private bankers wherever they may be.

So I believe it is a fair statement to say that Mr. Roosevelt, or those who are responsible to him, is reaching out to amplify the control of credit from Washington which was initiated through the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the Home Owners' Loan corporation, and other leading agencies. The Federal Reserve system was set up, according to the debate on the measure in congress at that time, to decentralize credit control and break the grip which New York exercised over the volume of credit. Now, apparently, it is all coming back to Washington.

In connection with the administration's attention to domestic affairs and the consequent legislative changes, attention might well be centered on the meaning of some of the moves. One Washington observer wrote in his newspaper the other day that the administration was renewing its notes at the bank. What he referred to was the extension of life of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the pumping of more blood into the veins of the Home Owners' Loan corporation.

Something similar has occurred with respect to the Reconstruction Finance corporation which has been given new life and about $350,000,000 in new money by an act of congress.

Then, President Roosevelt has asked for renewal of the life of the National Recovery administration and for re-enactment of the National Industrial Recovery act, both of which expire next June 16. As a result of these maneuvers a good many observers are of the opinion that the recovery efforts have not been as successful as their optimistic sponsors had predicted a year ago.

Proceedings of the County Board

February 5, 1935, at 10:00 o'clock A. M. Meeting called to order by Chairman with supervisors, Jablonski, Desmull, Ball, Zikmund, Barber, Johnson and Hansen, present upon roll call.

Minutes of last meetings were read and approved with the following corrections, to-wit:

That Minutes of Board proceedings on January 9, 1935, with reference to appointment of County Physician, be changed to show that Kruml received 4 votes, Norris received 2 votes, and Barta received 1 vote, and that upon motion by Desmull, seconded by Jablonski, that Kruml was appointed County Physician.

H. B. VanDecar, as secretary of Good Roads Association, appeared before Board urging that County Board work in coordination with said Association in presenting to State Planning Board, applications and plans for improvements of certain County Roads under the new proposed PWA program, and suggested and recommended the road running north from Elyria, the Ord-Sargent, road, the Ord-Loup City road, the Ord-Greeley road, for improvement and suggested that inasmuch as County Clerk and County Board must O. K. projects, that Board go to Lincoln to meet with State Planning Board, in order that applications can be properly presented by February 11th.

Mr. C. J. Mortensen, representing Kirkpatrick-Pettis-Loomis company, appeared before Board and presented a proposition to refund the present Courthouse and Jail Bonds in the principal amount of $51,000.00, now drawing 3 1/2% upon a new basis of 3% semi-annually, optional 5 years from date of refund, and after considering the saving to be effected, it was moved by Johnson, seconded by Barber, that said bonds be refunded as per proposition made.

It being 12:00 noon, meeting recessed until 1:00 P. M. when meeting again called to order by Chairman with all present upon roll call.

The following official bonds bearing the endorsement of the committee on bonds, were upon motion duly carried, formally approved, and ordered placed on record:

- County Attorney Alvin B. Lee, appeared before Board relative to stenographic assistance after which it was moved by Ball, to reconsider previous motion denying him the assistance, and that he be allowed to employ a stenographer capable of taking court testimony, at a cost to the County not exceeding $25.00 per month from February 5th, 1935. Motion seconded by Desmull and duly carried.

County Highway Patrolmen appeared before Board relative to 1935 wage scale of $55.00, protesting the reduction and the use of their cars with county furnishing gasoline only. No action taken by Board.

Bank balances as of January 31, 1935, read as follows: First National Bank-Ord, $33,481.48; Arcadia State Bank, $15,961.50; Elyria State Bank, $2,666.87; Nebraska State Bank, $23,161.27; First National Bank-Arcadia, $9,252.33. Moved by Johnson, seconded by Zikmund, that Committee on Roads & Bridges, be authorized to purchase all necessary bridge materials, needed at present time. Motion carried.

Upon motion by Johnson, seconded by Barber, the County Board unanimously adopted Resolution submitting and recommending to the State Planning Board of Nebraska, the following as the most practical, feasible and most worthwhile projects, to be completed under the new proposed PWA program, to-wit: North Loup Power and Irrigation Project; the Middle Loup Power and Irrigation Project. Construction and graveling of all county and township roads, particularly the following: County structure and graveling of county road No. 14, between Ord and Loup City, Road No. 10, between Ord and Sargent, Road No. 9, between Ord and Comstock; Elyria Township road north of Elyria to connect with Burwell-Erleson Highway; Road north of Arcadia; Road No. 2, Ord to Greeley; Road No. 12, north of Ord, known as Ord-Haskell creek road; Building and repairing of county bridges with special attention given to replacing old Sumter bridge. Completion of road from Arcadia east to Davis Creek churches in Davis Creek Township, and completion of any and all projects now under construction.

Upon motion by Ball, seconded by Johnson, Board adopted resolution authorizing Nebraska State Bank-Ord, to withdraw $5,000.00 of Ord City Hall Bonds, held in escrow for security of Valley County deposits, and authorize substitution of $5,000.00 of Newman Grove School District Refunding Bonds, therefor.

BACK FORTY

Many permanent pastures were severely damaged by drought last summer. These pastures may be improved by keeping the livestock off, mowing the weeds and seeding grass mixtures into the bare spots next spring.

The following pasture mixture does quite well in this area: Bromegrass 3 pounds Orchard grass 6 pounds Sweet clover 3 pounds Meadow fescue 3 pounds Timothy 3 pounds Total 25 pounds

Crested wheat grass is considered to be the most promising tame grass for this part of the state, and some may be added to the above mixture, or sown alone. The seed is planted on disked ground at the rate of 10 pounds per acre. It is harrowed in.

More temporary pastures are being used to supplement permanent pastures. It is possible to combine fall rye, sudan grass and sweet clover in such a way as to have pasture from April to October.

Sudan grass stands mid-summer drought best. If planted at corn planting time, it can be pastured in five or six weeks. Many farmers plant sudan following rye pasture. Sudan seed containing mixture of sorghums should be avoided, because it may poison livestock. Pure sudan grass is safe.

Sweet clover can be planted early on a light snow for July pasture. Where it is planted with a nurse crop a better stand can be secured by pasturing both, rather than cutting the nurse crop for grain.

Korean lespedeza makes a fair pasture crop on thin, worn out soils.

The Omaha Chamber of Commerce, with several other organizations, will pay big prizes to farmers who make the best pasture improvements during 1935. $25 will go to each county where eight or more contestants compete. Larger awards will be given to district and state winners.

3 Shells Declared Legal

Limit For Scatter Guns

Recently President Roosevelt signed an order which outlaws the use of pump guns or automatic shotguns holding more than three shells for use in hunting migratory game birds. Beginning next fall, any hunter using the ordinary 5 or 6 shell gun will be liable to prosecution on a federal charge.

Most arms manufacturers are making "plugs" or adaptors to fit the magazines of present guns, so the guns may still be used.

Happy Hour club met last Tuesday and enjoyed a covered dish luncheon with Mrs. Peter Hallen.

"REG'LAR FELLERS"

By GEORGE GOWEN "The Roving Reporter"

Wednesday, Febr. 13. Getting away promptly at ten. Making my first stop at Ben Moulton's. No one at home except a little brown pup in a box on the doorstep, and he did his best toward making us welcome. Circling close around the house on the smooth driveway, we bade adieu to the tall wagging pup, or the pup wagging tall, we did not know which. Ben started farming for himself this year, and prospered immensely, in the negative, as most of us did.

Turning in at Floyd Hutchins', Floyd had gone to Scotia where he works, repairing iron horses. Shaking her dust mop to save time, his wife visited a minute and we censured each other that one or the other has not been over for a friendly game of bridge for several weeks. I have heard there is no such thing as a friendly game of bridge, but that is off the subject.

Zig-zagging across the road to Oren Carr's. Oren was in town. The good looking hired girl visited a minute at the door. Oren and his wife have a brand new baby girl, making the third. There is a pretty place, I always thought. Large cottonwoods, nice barns and sheds, in good repair, and cozy home with a large east porch, looking down upon the passers-by. I could not refrain from peeking into the chicken coop either. A hundred and fifty coffee colored Leghorns, with large red combs. A sight for sore eyes. The nests full with hens and some nests doing double duty.

Across the road, and stopping a few minutes to see Oren's father, O. E. Carr. In spite of a drizzle that had begun making my shoes muddy he and his wife insisted I step in and talk a minute. They have an old picture and stand there that took my eye. Carr always has kept a lot of hens, and Mr. Carr insisted I look into his coop. He had fifty hens and more than half of them are laying. A good profit in them, he says. Oren and his Dad are not only good stock men, but there are few men in the country who are better farmers.

Across the road and a little south to Guy and Jake Earnest's. Jake was gone but Guy was there. First we looked at Jake's coon dogs. One, that Jake has had for so long is working his last year. When this season is over the dog will be retired on a pension. The other dog, which is part bull, is one of the best fighters and coon dogs in the country.

Guy has no interest in coon hunting. He lead me off to the east, to a corn crib. (Don't get excited, no drinks) and showed me a shop he is fixing up, with a bench, pit, stove and many tools. He says he gets more kick out of tinkering machinery than coon hunting. Sauntering back toward the house, we saw his small son smiling at us out the window. Guy says it takes a half dozen people to pull him out of mischief, but he is well worth the trouble.

On south and across the road again to Art Stillman's. Art was gone, for which I was disappointed, as we have long been good friends. His daughter and I talked a minute, and I drove on to Hugh Clements'. She was busy cooking meat for dinner, as she expected Hugh and the school kids home to eat it in a few minutes.

Hugo Malottke's next. Hugo gone chopping wood. They had a nice flock of white chickens and a few sheep. Mrs. Malottke reminded me at once that they are subscribers to the paper. She must have known my mission.

Across the road to the north to Joe Veleba's. He lives on the old Ed Helbig place. As I stepped out of the car he greeted me with, "Hello Brisbane." I did not know whether it was a compliment or sarcasm. Nevertheless he was very friendly and we talked for several minutes. I thought things looked pretty neat around there, but he didn't think so and said he had only started repairing to what he is going to do. He has a few sheep and is having good luck with his lamb crop. He gave $1 apiece for the ewes and says their wool is worth more than that. The mist was beginning to gather into nearly a rain, and Joe said he hoped the roads would become so muddy I would get stuck and have to get hauled in before night. My wife told me when I got home that Joe grows gladioli by the acre. He forgot to tell me that.

On south we drove. Seeing the FERA workers on the hill, I could not resist stopping, walking up and inspecting the job. There were some 25 or 30 men there under the foremanship of Clark Roby, and they are doing a wonderful piece of work. Great guns, how those people from the south can fall into town when that job is finished. These men all seemed glad to see the boy, if they weren't me. He was almost one of the crew when they worked on the dam.

The whistle blew. I went to the car and got my lunch. We crawled into the shack and ate our sandwiches and apples with them. A merry bunch, and as far as I ever noticed, a hard working crew. The fact of the matter is, in all the visits I made when these fellows worked on the dam, I never saw a man I thought was not trying to give an honest day's work.

In spite of the rain coming down a little harder, we drove on south and around the bend. Stopping at Wardle Green's old place, we were invited into the house of Francis Backemeyer. He is batching, but not a half bad housekeeper at that. He told me I could just leave his name out of the paper, but I would probably lose my job if I did, and thinking more of my job than him, here are the results.

On a little further to Murray Rich's. They were gone, or asleep, for my knocks brought no results. Casting my eye about a little, I took cognizance of the driveway to their garage. The slope is somewhere between a 45 and a 90 degree angle. Once having driven their car into the shelter, they could surely get it started again, no matter how cold the day, by running it down that incline, that is, if there was any start to the brute. And they have about the prettiest turkeys I have seen in many a day. Francis said Murray's take the paper and he walks all the way down there to read it. Better than taking it home with him at that.

On around another bend, and up one of those "helofa" hills, as Dickie says, we dropped off at Nate Maxon's. Now when I said dropped off I mean dropped off. So steep was the grade I nearly tumbled into the yard. Their house is nestled at the foot of a N. W. bank where the cold gales can get full action. Nate was gone but I talked to his boy a minute. They are church friends of ours, and even if Nate is a little hard-up on account of the drought's bludgeoning, he has a dandy nice family, and the wolves can't take them away from him either. Some of his kids had made a go-jimmy, and I decided, that is one thing the hills are good for anyway. For go-jimmies.

Trying to go south on a snake-like highway, I pulled up to Frank Skibinski's. He had a pack of three ferocious dogs that sounded like a hundred, but he himself was calm and friendly, and he asked me if I wasn't lost. He had been trying to get on the FERA, to earn some groceries, and said he believed doing would be easier. At least he is afraid doing is what is going to happen. We had a good time talking about it anyway, and then he said he thought he had seen me working over on the road. I told him I could not get on the crew either because I have too many debts, and he pretended he thought that was a joke.

I journeyed on south to Will Naeve. Will is sick and has been for a long time. His wife, Osce, chatted with me on the back porch, and said next time I must bring my wife and mother along, and stay a while. It is too bad providence puts such nice fellows as Will on the shelf, and on the other hand allows such bums as I am to run at large. She said Will is sure he is getting better and we all hope he will be on the go again soon.

Across the road to Henry Harris'. I was greeted with a few thin cows and an open air blacksmith shop. His wife visited with us while she stood in the door way. They too had dried out, and she said the feed the government allowed would not do the business. That they were ashamed of their cattle but just couldn't help it. Peeking inside the kitchen, things looked spic and span there.

Back to the road again and nearly getting stuck in the canyon by the school house, while all the kids looked out the windows and cheered.

Another bachelor's shack was the next stop. No one but Nick Whalen. He is an old time friend the same as his brother Mike, and just as good a fellow. Must be related. His first greeting was, "Come on in, George."

We went in and sat by the front room stove and talked of many things. Dick found a picture section of a paper and Nick made him a present of it. Nick has a niche in his heart for kids, and my mother used to think he thought as much of his nephews and nieces as their like thought of them. Staying until I felt a little guilty, we started to leave. But before we parted Nick called his coon dogs and showed them to me. Nick, as well as Jake E., is an insatiable coon hunter. One of the dogs cost $65.00. Nick had been coon hunting most of the night before and caught three 'possums. He said the 'possums are getting to be a regular nuisance to the coon hunters.

On south to Paul Gebauer. He was sick in bed with the asthma. He has my heartfelt sympathy, the same as Will N., and we all hope he will be out and-a-going in short order. It seems like there is enough trouble, without being sick in bed. Their son Harry lives in the west part of the house and his folks in the other. Harry takes the paper and they all read it.

Across the road to Billie Worrell's. Billie was gone to town, but Elgin came out and talked with me a minute in the rain. I knew those folks have a flair for nice horses and I asked to see them. Elgin was ashamed to show them to me because they are so thin, but in spite of that I could see some nice ones. I would like to trade him out of that team of three-year-olds.

Back north and west to Louise Miller's. She was as glad to see me as if I was some celebrity. I discovered that she and I have a sort of kindred spirit, for she is a Quiz correspondent also. She carried the assumption I receive about a dollar a word for this bunk, and I did not tell her any different.

On west to Rube Nolde. The barns and sheds looked pretty well scattered, but he had a square in his hand, and that was a sign he was out for repair business. I asked him why he had his hay rack turned up on its side, and he said to show the cattle he is out of hay, and perhaps they will eat the thistles better.

Still raining, I slipped and slid around a few corners and over a few ridges, and into the yard of Roy Williams. He and some of the neighbors had been sawing wood, but got rained out, or in perhaps. Roy used to work for my Dad when I was a little runt, and he said I used to bawl so as to sit by him at the table. Anyway we never ceased being good friends, and neither did his wife and my mother.

He showed me his mules, which were pretty darned nice ones, but no nicer than a blue roan mare he had there. We visited and "he-hawed" in the barn door, while the rain pitter-pattered on the roof, and while I dreaded to make the final dash for home. He helped me put on my chains and away I went.

At peek-a-boo hill the FERAers were going home also and their truck could hardly make the grade. Walt Paddock and Henry Rich were nearly stuck, but by pushing a little they were sent merrily on their way.

As I passed the Rural school house I realized I had skipped Chas. Cress. He and I have long been jolly good friends, and when he laughs I am reminded of Santa Claus. Too bad I couldn't stop Charley. Too much rain. Have to do it next time.

As I drove into town I tarried a minute where Pete Barnhart and Fred McGowan were butchering a big hog. Pete showed me his goats, which eat and live on tree leaves that Pete had piled into a corn crib. I told him if we have another drought year we will all have to go into the goat business, as tree leaves are the only things I know of that grew last year. Fred is a carpenter by trade, but does many other things, such as helping his neighbors butcher, and caring for a coop full of dandy nice White Leghorn hens which he says are paying a profit.

I might have stopped at Dell Barber's, but I would have had to climb a mountain in the mud, and Dick said, "Ah, we can see him in church."

Arrived home about five.

Mrs. Horace Travis will be hostess Tuesday to the Woman's club.

Something Different

Mr. Sowl's friends have long kidded him about being such a marvel of ingenuity.

First, they declare to him, you have an automatic stoker put in to take care of coaling the furnace, so you won't have to do that. And then you buy an exercising machine and use it religiously every morning in order to get your exercise!

It seems as if the ideal condition would be for Mr. Sowl to hook the exerciser to the stoker, so that his exercising could run the stoker without any motor. Think of the exercise he'd get that way!

Measles has the reputation of being a childish trouble, so grins greeted the announcement a few days ago that three of the high school basketball team were home because of measles!

All over the country measles seem to be breaking out, but in a mild form. University of Nebraska students have them plentifully, reports being that the infirmary is filled and many are being sent home for proper care.

In Ord they are being called "twenty-four hour" measles. I don't know just why, and children are commonly returning to school after only two-day absences with them.

Speaking of ordering new babies, I understand Rosellen Vogelzang ordered a baby for Christmas. She gave her Mama and Daddy nearly a week's notice, but only got a doll and twenty or thirty other things, no baby.

Mrs. Mark Tolen sang at Rotary club a few nights ago, along with other musical selections presented by various groups. While Mrs. Tolen was gone from home that evening Mr. Tolen minded the boys, but spent a good deal of the time explaining to them or trying to, what "Rotary" was.

Next morning little Dickie announced that he knew what Rotary was. "It's a store!" he shouted. "It is not!" contradicted his older and smarter brother Tommy. "It is not!" pronounced Tommy, triumphantly.

Among spring activities which would please Ord's younger generation I would suggest a roller skating contest on the downtown paving some afternoon, sponsored by merchants and with the street roped off for plenty of safety. Then a marble tournament would surely please the lads. Have it supervised by duly chosen referees, or umpires, or whatever the marble game directors should be called. Have it an elimination affair until the winners are all eliminated but probably one or two or three boys of varied ages and classes.

And a dress-up parade always makes a hit with the children. With a pet section, of course, so that dogs and kittens and goats can be dressed up too. And a vehicle section for wagons, bicycles, little cars.

For grown-ups, spring activities I recommend are another more beautiful Ord contest for improving lawns and surroundings in general. With a town flower chosen and planted everywhere, something bright that blooms plenty, and is not expensive.

Gardening contests for children are nice summertime occupations too. Make them into classes. So that little folks with a small flower bed compete in one. And half-grown boys and girls raising a whole lot-full of vegetables are in another.

Taking Beauty Course. —Miss Marie Desmul, who is taking a course in beauty parlor work at Omaha, returned there Monday after spending the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Desmul.

DR. RICH says: You farmers who suffer with rectal trouble, should consider very seriously that your spring work will soon begin, and that if you do not avail yourselves of the present time to get a cure, it will be almost another year before you will have as good an opportunity as now.

Very frequently rectal diseases become worse when neglected or improperly treated. Such troubles demand your best consideration and prompt attention as quickly as possible. I invite you to come to see me for a real cure under pleasant conditions. Dr. Rich, Rectal Specialist, Grand Island, Nebr.

For grown-ups, spring activities I recommend are another more beautiful Ord contest for improving lawns and surroundings in general. With a town flower chosen and planted everywhere, some-

COMPETITIVE SPENDING

Every Ord taxpayer will be interested in the stand of Mayor Flagg, who at a recent meeting of the city planning board served notice that the city of Ord is through "matching dollars" with the federal government in making city improvements. Mayor Flagg's stand is approved by every member of the city council, it should be stated.

In the past two years the city has spent approximately $70,000 on projects designed to furnish employment, Mayor Flagg revealed. The CWA furnished labor for ditching but the city of Ord had to buy pipe and other materials; the PWA paid for paving but the city had to pave intersections; the FERA furnished labor on several city projects but again the city had to buy materials. A feature of the new PWA set-up, so far as advance information indicates, is that states, counties, cities, etc., must again match dollars with the government. If the 5 billion dollar PWA appropriation made by Congress it probably will cost the nation 8 or 9 or 10 billion in reality because of this "dollar matching" policy.

"For three long years the federal government has been on the road toward bankruptcy."

Who made this statement originally, a Hoover-Mellon-Willis republican, dissatisfied with results of the New Deal No, it was made by President Roosevelt in his inaugural speech to Congress in March, 1933. Elected on a platform promising reduction in governmental spending and an immediate balancing of the budget, President Roosevelt in his first speech to Congress reaffirmed these principles. But in the past two years, instead of keeping his promise, President Roosevelt and his administration have unloosed the widest orgy of governmental spending in all history. For two years the government has spent twice as much as it has taken in through taxes and all other revenues. The federal debt has continued to rise until it now stands at 28 billion dollars, an all-time high, with several billions to be added this year. Not only has federal spending increased but the administration has required states and smaller political sub-divisions to spend beyond their means by the "dollar matching" policy. The combined debts of states and other political sub-divisions is now 20 billion dollars.

Of course this competitive spending orgy has been the name of ending the depression but the depression is still with us. As a nation, we will continue to spend with the same hope and probably with the same result. Continued spending cannot last forever. Eventually government expenditures must be reduced drastically and taxes must be increased or wild inflation is the inevitable result, this being the governmental substitute for the bankruptcy that becomes the lot of the individual who spends more than he earns over a long period of time.

The federal government may continue to spend, the state, county and township may continue to "match dollars" to secure federal funds, but the city of Ord is through, our Mayor promises.

If the mayor and council of every city, the governor and legislature of every state, the supervising body of every smaller political unit would adopt a similar attitude, what would be the result? Would a return to sanity be brought about or would a revolution result, as has been freely predicted?

Sooner or later, probably sooner, we will know because the present orgy of competitive spending cannot long continue.

A sad picture of this county's sorry plight as result of the drought is contained in the report made this week by the federal feed loan committee for Valley County. The report shows that more than half of Valley county's 1,247 farmers, about 700 to be exact, are now dependent upon the government for money to buy feed for their livestock. When it is considered that two months or more must elapse before pasturage is available the immediate future looks black indeed.

At that, Valley county is not as hard hit as our neighboring county to the south, Sherman, where over 1,100 farmers out of 1,350 are said to be borrowing to feed their livestock.

For several years our farmers raised plenty of corn, plenty of hay, plenty of everything to eat but prices were low and we all complained about the situation. This year prices are high and we must buy everything. Of the two situations the former is vastly to be preferred. As one farmer said Saturday, "I'll never holler about 20c corn and $3.00 hay again, just so I raise plenty of it."

It is a sad sight to drive out in the country and see fields bare of cornstalks, feed lots and hog sheds empty, farms untenanted, buildings unpainted, thin horses nibbling hopefully at the remains of a straw stack.

Yet most of our people are hopeful. Three years of depression, then the worst drought in history, yet farmers still hold their heads high and make little jokes about a situation that is anything but laughable. Such courage cannot be defeated.

Valley county is down but we are not counted out yet.

POWERS OF PROPAGANDA

The state Senate threw a bad scare into believers in municipal light plant ownership, as well as officers of the various public power and irrigation districts, last Wednesday when they defeated the bill known as S. F. 25 by a vote of 22 to 8. This bill, written by C. A. Sorensen and introduced by Senator McGowan of Norfolk, legalizes the financing of municipal electric plants by pledging future earnings. Its defeat would seriously invalidate revenue bonds already issued by the Sutherland and Columbus projects and would prevent the PWA giving further consideration to other such projects in Nebraska. Fortunately, the Senate realized its mistake in time and revived S. F. 25 by a vote of 30 to 0 the next day and it is assured that the bill will pass by a substantial majority.

The defeat of this bill on the first ballot proves again the power of propaganda, which in this case was circulated by the power trust, it is claimed. As daily newspaper readers know, the state is having difficulty collecting taxes on Diesel engines and other equipment sold to Nebraska municipalities by the Fairbanks-Morse company, who retain ownership of the machinery until it is fully paid for. The power trust, quick to seize opportunity, started a "whispering campaign" to the effect that S. F. 25 was a bill introduced for the sole purpose of enabling Fairbanks-Morse to evade payment of taxes. The fact that C. G. Wallace, a representative of this company and also a great believer in municipal ownership, was active in support of S. F. 25, gave credence to this propaganda and, before out-state people knew what was happening, the Senate had defeated the bill.

All is well that ends well and since the Senate has now recalled its action and replaced S. F. 25 on the active list it looks like this necessary piece of legislation, which will greatly strengthen S. F. 310 under which the North and Middle Loup projects were organized two years ago, is now well on its way to passage.

Our senator, Alvin Blessing, can be counted on to speed its way through the Senate and our representative, Marion Cushing, will do similar work in the House.

CARE OF COUNTY BOARD

By George Gowen

Dear Jake:
A brand new pair of twin boys have come to live in our community, with their headquarters at John Jenkins'. That is the second pair of twins for our neighborhood in the last year and a half, the first pair living at Bryan Portis'.

Only expecting one youngster, Mrs. Jenkins was a little short of clothes. John told his mother over the phone, (We were all rubbering those days) that one fellow was wearing the other fellow's duds and he didn't know which was which, so he had to scamper to town and get some more. Three boys under twenty-months old. Won't they make things hum in a few years?

Although it will be a huge task for the mother for a few years, I warrant she thinks there is not one too many, and wouldn't have it any other way if she could. Most any couple, if they are of a mind to, can have one kid at a time, but it is only one in a hundred that can have twins. I am envious of John, as I always wanted twins.

Brisbane said that Geo. Putnam is proud of his flying wife, Amelia Earhart, but he (G. P.) said he would be prouder if she had a baby. And so it goes. We never have one to spare if they behave themselves, and if they don't, one would be too many.

Visualize for a minute, a year or two hence, those three little boys salting their mother's good shoes in the swill pail, robbing the jam jar, wading on muddy days, or teasing dad for a penny. But they will be worth it all.

And ponder another minute over the fact that the Dionne quintuplets are all creeping now. It may not be so bad. Uncle Henry Davis used to say there is no reason to dread a big family. An old hen can scratch for a dozen just as easily as for one.

A veterinarian was around the other day to test my cattle for tuberculosis free of charge to me. If there is anything to the fact that T. B. can be contracted from cattle and we all grant there is, I think I will have to give the devil his dues and say this testing is one of the most worth while undertakings attempted yet by the administration.

Without question the old method of testing cows was nearly a complete failure. The law read if milk was sold the cows from which it came must be tested. It was quite an expense to test a herd, and very often milk was sold from untested cows. One year I tested one cow, to save expense, thinking I would use and sell her milk, and separate the other, but frequently I would forget which pail I milked her in, and later in the year forgot all about trying to keep it separate.

"I Did It With My Little Hatchet, Uncle"

Repeatedly I have heard men complaining about so-and-so who had not had his cows tested, selling milk. Criticism of untold quantities has been heaped upon the officials for not enforcing the law, but none of the belly-achers that I know of have had the nerve to file a complaint themselves. If they did the proof would be difficult.

This scheme of the Federal and state governments, coming at a time when the bovine population is at a low ebb, ought to go a long way toward eliminating that source of the dreaded disease. No one, and more especially a person who has contracted consumption from an unaccountable source, regrets the cost.

I would suggest to the manager of the Rehabilitation program, that he get some of his men started into the chicken business. It takes less capital to start in the chicken business than any other. I will explain the plan of an old negro, which seems quite feasible.

He borrowed a setting hen of one neighbor and a setting of eggs of another. He set the hen, she hatching and raising fifteen nice biddies. When these chicks were grown, the old ducky kept the hen until she laid enough eggs to return the ones he borrowed, and then he returned the old hen. His debts were paid and he had a nice flock of chickens for his trouble.

This scheme could be worked out without costing the taxpayers a great deal. But saving of money seems to be a minor matter, and I presume also, because the idea originated from a Republican, the bosses will just tip it up no matter how good it is.

In gossiping about a neighbor I overheard a man say that that fellow is of so little interest to me that I will not even rubber when I hear his ring. Well, I will admit that is getting pretty bad.

Another fellow was having trouble with his phone. He found his difficulty in a faulty ground wire. After repairing it he told me now he could get a little satisfaction when he rubbered.

This column sounds sort of editorial like. I will promise not to do it again, leaving that part to the bosses.

In regard to the anonymous letter I received Saturday morning, I will say that I had no intention of offending anyone, and sincerely regret I wrote what I did. It seems impossible for me to catch all these things. I will admit I am not smart enough.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

20 Years Ago This Week.

A broken water main flooded the basements of the Milliken hardware and McComas drug stores. A city investigation disclosed that the main had rusted through in front of the Misko meat market and it was then learned that the city's entire system of water mains had been in service 28 years whereas the pipe was guaranteed for 20 years only. It was feared that the entire system would have to be replaced.

A fire in the garret over Harry Bartley's store did a little damage. It was the third or fourth fire Mr. Bartley had suffered since coming to Ord. Fire Chief Shirley ordered the garret sealed and sent for the state fire inspector, as it was feared that defective city electric wiring was causing the blazes.

Mr. and Mrs. Reinhart Fuss, of York, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary and many Valley county relatives were present. John Ceplecha was planning to leave Valley county for good and take up his home near Phillips, Wis., where he had bought a farm.

Both Mrs. C. H. Cromwell and Mrs. Geo. T. Winter died in Ord during the week. Mrs. W. E. Mattley passed away at Burwell.

The Ord basketball team beat Burwell 51 to 7. In the group that accompanied the team to Burwell were Will Sack, Enos Stewart, Claude Gadd, Bill Heuck, Horace Nay and James Gibson.

25 Years Ago This Week.

Two Lincoln grain firms were negotiating with Charles Bals for the purchase of 6,000 bushels of wheat raised by him during the past summer. He had 200 acres in wheat and harvested 30 bushels to the acre, which was believed to be the largest amount of wheat harvested by any farmer in Nebraska. The price of wheat was around $1 per bushel.

A Syrian living near Burwell, one Esse, suddenly went insane and attempted to kill another Syrian named Salem. He fired at him twice with a shotgun before he was overcome and the gun taken away from him by officers. Salem was not badly injured.

George and Frank Benben departed for Wisconsin, where they had bought land near Stevens Point. Mis Mamie Siler's party returned from a 7-week vacation in the west. Revival meetings were being held at the Christian church under the leadership of Rev. C. L. Organ. Orin Mutter purchased an automobile at Wood River.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

I can see no reason why the government should not loan money to farmers on their land at about the same rate of interest that they loan it to great banks, great railroad companies or great business organizations of other kinds. When they do that the farmers will take heart and we will begin to come back.

We have added several features to the Quiz lately and in order to do so, have had to increase the paper from 8 and 10 pages a week, to 12 pages, making considerable more expense. We want to make the Quiz just as good as it is possible to make it. If you appreciate and like the recent improvements, I would like to know it. If not I will discontinue them. It will not be hard for a few at least to express their ideas on the subject. If you have in mind some other improvement, please mention that also. We will consider it from every angle before rejecting it. I believe the Quiz is recognized as one of the good newspapers of the state but there is always something that could be done to make it better.

One after another lighter than air ships have proved of no account, usually with much loss of life. The Macon now lies at the bottom of the Pacific ocean. It costs several million dollars to build one of these great ships. The contention has been that they were needed for scouting purposes. A great many planes could be built for what one ship like the Macon costs. In the case of actual war any dud with a small airplane could destroy a great ship like the Macon. Perhaps the government and the army will come to the conclusion now that it is a waste of time and money to build such air-ships.

Omaha society people are getting almost as bad as Hollywood picture people when it comes to getting a divorce.

There is a bill before the legislature, which, if made into a law, would prevent dentists from advertising. A physician-legislator wants the bill enlarged to prevent doctors, hospitals, etc., from advertising, on the ground that when they do so they defraud the public. It is a dangerous precedent for this legislator to get established, for it might be extended further and there are a holofoat of doctors who defraud the public whenever they try to practice.

Union labor organizations, up to a certain point, are probably all right, but I am convinced that if the workers would do away with their radical white-collared, so-called leaders, and organize among themselves, and run their own business, they would be infinitely better off.

It is likely that Senator Norris will either run for the senate again next year, or else he will come back to Nebraska and run for governor. If he decides on the latter course he will no doubt make a spirited campaign and his endorsement for someone to take his place in the senate will be a big boost for whoever he endorses. I think it is likely, however, that he will again run for the senate and of course he will be elected.

The time is almost here when the W. C. T. U. must again begin the work so long carried on by that organization. It was a mistake that the W. C. T. U. laid down when the prohibition amendment was finally passed. Wise as were its leaders and members, they should have known, then, that it was time to begin fighting in real earnest. Now a lot of ground has been lost. A lot of educating has got to be done over again. They have got to start over again, where the organization started back in the 90's and I am wondering who, in this community, are going to take the places held by Anna Tappan, Sarah Mason, Mamie Clafflin and half a dozen other leaders, most of whom are now gone.

If your daily paper is about to expire, or if you want a daily paper, let me order it for you. It won't cost you any more, in fact will save you a few cents. I will appreciate the business.

A man who has taken the Quiz and paid for it for several years, but whose time was out some ten months ago, told one of my employees the other day that I should have stopped the paper when the time was out; that he had not ordered it continued. That was truly in a way. He had not specifically ordered it continued. Neither had he done so in former years, either, but he always came in and paid for it. His unfairness makes others who would appreciate having their paper continued until they have the money, suffer. It is the same with the hitch hiker. Now and then one accepts a ride and betrays the trust imposed in him, tunks his benefactor on the head and takes his wallet and car. Other hundreds of honest hitch-hikers have to walk because of the dishonesty of that one. I am convinced that there is just one RIGHT thing to do in running a newspaper and that is to stop all when the time is out.

The power trust gang pulled a fast one on the state senate at Lincoln early last week, but it didn't get them much.

I really don't think we have had a legislature in years, that tried as hard to do just the right thing as is the legislature this winter.

There are a lot of calls for both furnished and unfurnished house-keeping rooms. If you have them it will pay you to use a Quiz classified ad.

And that goes for anything else you have to dispose of or that you want to buy. We guarantee results.

There are a good many localities in Nebraska where there have never been saloons in the past, or where for a long time before prohibition came, a majority of the people were opposed to saloons and there were none, and I believe the new liquor law should have a local option feature to protect such localities. The majority should always rule and if the majority in a town or county prefer not to have hard liquor sold there, their rights should be respected. I also believe that the local authorities in each town or county should control the granting of licenses, rather than have a commission of, say, three members, all drawing large salaries. Handled locally, there will be no added expense. Handled by a commission of three, there will be an expense of not less than 25 thousand dollars a year. If the legislature will now reenact the old Slocum law, that will come the nearest to solving the vexing problem satisfactorily, of anything that can be done.

Hauptman apparently received a fair trial. His trial judge has never been reversed by a higher court, which convinces me that in so important a case he would be very careful. Hauptman admitted his guilt of numerous crimes, proving that he is a confirmed criminal. He was not a citizen of the United States and was here illegally. He is probably guilty of the crime charged against him and I suspect that people, who now contribute cash to help him fight further, will not be over popular, for another trial would mean another million or so of expense for the public to hear.

I just counted their cards and there are a couple of hundred Quiz subscribers who are in arrears. Some not very much; some several months and some a year. Some among them I know are abundantly able to pay their $2 subscription. Others could send in $1. Some of them no doubt would be cramped to even pay 50 cents. All could help some and I need the money. All have had at least one notice; most have had two notices and some have had several and must be stopped unless I hear from them with some kind of a payment. You who are in arrears surely appreciate the courtesy we have extended in keeping your paper coming. Now won't you do your part when we need it?

BRISBANE THIS WEEK

Mussolini Warlike
Supreme Court Power
All Happy There
Learning How to Spend

Mussolini has found the opportunity to show the world what it means when modern "Rome" starts moving.

Arthur Brisbane African colonies, or so much the worse for Ethiopian Selassie, who believes that he is the direct descendant of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba.

Maybe he is, but he will encounter a problem that King Solomon's wisdom could not solve for him when he meets Mussolini's airplanes.

If wise, Selassie will pay the indemnity that Mussolini demands. As a practical business man, Mussolini always asks a little soothing cash. He got some from Greece. Also, Selassie must salute the Italian flag, which costs nothing. Mexico would not do that.

One question may surprise you concerning Supreme court decisions setting aside laws passed by the congress and signed by the President, on the ground that congress, in passing the law, had exceeded its constitutional authority. This is the question: Are those Supreme court decisions in themselves unconstitutional?

When the Supreme court, sometimes by a narrow margin of five to four, declares a law unconstitutional and void, is it exceeding its constitutional authority?

Where in the Constitution of the United States do you find authority for the Supreme court power to overrule congress and the President in the making of laws? This absence of authority is no accident. Those that wrote the Constitution, after long arguing, disputing and many concessions, knew, presumably, what they wanted the Constitution to say. And they did not want it to give the Supreme court the power to veto laws, that it now assumes and exercises.

In London, John Puckering, fifty-eight, apparently dead, was revived after five minutes. Meanwhile, he had gone to heaven. He saw interesting things, came back to tell of them. Souls, evidently, travel more rapidly than light, which takes 900,000,000 years to get outside of the universe as we know it, going 186,000 miles a second. Mr. Puckering says heaven is filled with a "happy crowd."

There were no children. "All were dressed as on earth."

No moths in heaven, of course; no depression, either.

Mayor LaGuardia, consulting with President Roosevelt about loans for New York city improvements, again proves that we have at last learned to spend money. Something over $1,100,000,000 would be the preliminary total, for tunnels, highways, public schools, a $150,000,000 housing program, $232,000,000 to bring a better water supply from the Delaware, extension of Park avenue as a broad highway above the tracks of the New York Central north to the Bronx, elimination of slums and the slum character from the East river shores.

From Ireland comes Jack Doyle, via Mayfair, London, 6 feet 4, handsome face, nice smile, big muscles, telling the truth about himself, whatever the damage to his modesty; "I am not like the usual low-brow fighter. I'll go up and up and up to the very top."

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., head of General Motors, announces that 30,000 employees, under the company's saving and investment plan, will have $11,000,000 cash divided among them. The employee who saves $25 a month, the maximum, $300 a year, gets back his $300, plus $321.50 contributed by the company, including $114 for interest. It is rather difficult to persuade men to "arise, ye prisoners of starvation," and "throw off their chains," when one of the chains is attached to an $11,000,000 melon.

Germany plans an army of 400,000 men, small compared with the Kaiser's army. But the real fighting machine hereafter will be located in the air, and, besides, German recruits for the 400,000 army will serve only one year, instead of four, giving a rapid turn-over of trained fighters. At the end of five years Germany will have 2,000,000 men trained to fight. It is likely, however, that whatever is going to happen will happen long before five years are up.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

One of the good old-fashioned tests of cooking ability is making dumplings. This time honored dish is not so simple as it seems, and to bring to the table a dish of hot, fluffy dumplings is a genuine accomplishment. How are you at making these feathery white things?

Dumplings.
Beat one egg and add three table-spoons melted butter, then put in one cup milk with two cups of flour which have been sifted with three teaspoons baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Drop from a spoon on top of meat and let boil for ten or fifteen minutes. This makes eight large dumplings and they do not fall, never fail.
Della Benson Sheldon.

Cream Cheese Pie.
Make a pastry of one-eighth pound butter, three table-spoons sugar, one egg, one-half teaspoon baking powder, one cup flour. Cream together sugar and butter, add egg, baking powder and flour. Spread in a buttered pie plate, patting it in firmly. For filling, combine two packages of cream cheese, two eggs, three table-spoons sugar, one table-spoon flour, one and one-half cups milk, one-half teaspoon vanilla, the juice of one lemon. Pour on the dough in pie plate, bake in a slow oven, 300° F., for one hour. Serves six.
Mrs. George A. Parkins.

Banana Cream Pie.
Place in a saucepan over a quick fire two cups milk, one-half cup sugar, pinch of salt. When milk is very hot but not boiling, add a mixture of three heaping teaspoons of cornstarch, one-fourth cup cold water which has been mixed smooth with the beaten yolks of three eggs. Stir constantly with a wire beater until thickened. Remove from fire and add vanilla to taste. Cool. Before pouring this mixture into a baked pie crust, spread the crust with sliced bananas. Pour on the custard, spread with a meringue made of the egg whites beaten stiff with sugar, brown slowly in a moderate oven. May Yard, Omaha.

Baked Onions in Tomato Sauce.
Cook six medium sized onions in salt water for ten minutes. Cook one quart of tomatoes, one-half teaspoon of pickling mixture spices for ten minutes. Run through a colander. Blend two table-spoons flour in two table-spoons butter, add the strained tomatoes, salt, and sugar to taste, and two table-spoons vinegar. Cut the onions in half, put in a baking pan, pour the tomato sauce over them and bake one hour.
Mrs. H. T. Walkemeyer.

Macaroni Mousse.
Cook one cup of macaroni in two quarts of boiling salted water for fifteen minutes. Drain. Make a sauce as follows: pour one and one-half cups scalding milk over one cup soft bread crumbs, add one-fourth cup melted butter, one red pimiento chopped fine, one tablespoon chopped parsley, one teaspoon chopped onion, one-half cup grated cheese, and lastly three well beaten eggs. Pour over macaroni. Put in a buttered baking dish, set in a pan of boiling water and bake in a moderate oven. Serve with mushroom sauce if desired. Bake forty minutes at 350° F.

Mushroom Sauce.
Melt four table-spoons butter, add four table-spoons flour and stir until smooth, add two cups of milk gradually, cook ten minutes. Add salt and pepper to taste, one small can of mushrooms and serve with the macaroni mousse.
Mrs. Joseph M. Kokes.

Golka's Sale March 5.
Joe Golka is going to hold a sale of stock and machinery March 5 and his complete announcement will be found in the Quiz next week. Joe and his family have been farming a couple of places the last couple of years, but are giving up those places and will move this spring to one of the home places and they will not need near all the stock they have. Included in the offering will be from 20 to 30 horses. A dozen of them will be heavy work horses, possibly 20 head, as some of the neighbors want to consign some to the sale. The balance of the horses will be lighter, but are young and good. The Golka horses have been well cared for and grained and are in good shape. There will be a few head of cattle and some farm machinery and other stuff. See the complete bill next week. Mr. Golka has arranged to devote a part of his time to work for one of the big machinery companies and his son Elton will have charge of the farm. Their sale is going to be one of the real good offerings of the season.

Christian Church.
Or sermon subject next Sunday will be "A Church Inspected." Union service at the U. B. church in the evening.
Bible school at 10 a. m.
Mid-week Bible study Wednesday evening.
Now all must boost for that bazaar.

Breach Widens Between Administration and Labor—Hauptmann Sentenced to Death—Inquiries Into Causes of Macon Disaster Get Under Way.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT extended no olive branches toward the American Federation of Labor when he signed the cigarette industry code, which labor leaders had declared was "unsatisfactory." The breach between the administration and labor is daily growing wider.

The code, finally signed after months of argument between the administration and labor, calls for a forty-hour week and minimum wages from 25 to 40 cents an hour. Labor leaders also objected to the presence of S. Clay Williams, administration board chairman, who they declare is not in sympathy with labor. The President issued a curt statement informing the federation council that Williams' services had been satisfactory and that he had no intention of removing him without cause.

The executive council of the federation, composed of William Green and presidents of the federation of seventeen international unions, states that some present administration labor policies are bringing increased unrest among workers which may reach the danger point of widespread strikes unless corrected.

Thus far, the President seems to have had the best of the argument. Labor leaders, however, are expected to push the fight for a "prevaling wage" clause in work relief legislation, thus endangering the administration program.

INQUIRIES into the causes of the "quiver" which ripped away the two gas cells and caused the giant dirigible "Macon" to plunge into the Pacific have been started. Even the surviving 81 officers and men of the "Sky Queen" are not certain just what caused the catastrophe, although Lieut. Com. H. V. Wiley, survivor of the Akron disaster and master of the Macon, was said to have "some ideas" about it. His findings will be placed before the board of inquiry.

Some hints were made about structural weakness of the $2,450,000 craft, but naval officers refused to discuss the subject. In Washington President Roosevelt said there would be no immediate move to replace the ship.

Survivors of the crash told a dramatic story of heroism. Cruising along at a speed of 63 knots, the ship twice lowered its elevation to avoid rain squalls. A short jar was felt, the ship began to take a bow-up position, and Commander Wiley received a report that one of the 12 helium gas cells was gone. The Macon then rose rapidly to 4,600 feet, its nose sticking up at a sharp angle and then slowly sank toward the ocean as the crew made frantic efforts to right the lurching craft.

As it hit the ocean the crew slid down ropes or dived into the heavy swells. Men swam through flames where fumes had ignited oil and gasoline, others rescued companions whose lifebelts were lost or broken in long leaps into the sea. The sailors watched the ship crumble under the waves and at last disappear. Only two men were lost. Cruisers rushed to the scene and picked up the survivors.

BRUNO HAUPTMANN will die in the electric chair at Trenton, N. J., during the week of March 18, unless attorneys secure a stay of execution by filing an appeal. The prisoner showed no trace of emotion as the jurors announced their verdict and did not break under the strain until after Justice Trenchard had pronounced sentence, and he was returned to the cell. There, his iron will gave way and he sobbed as he sat on his hard iron cot.

McCarran did not press his amendment in committee when a substitute was offered, but insisted that he will do so on the senate floor. The fight the American Federation of Labor is making on this point is expected to have considerable influence with a number of senators, who fear the wrath of their labor constituents.

The substitute, proposed by Senator Richard B. Russell, and adopted by a vote of 14 to 9, provides that the President shall establish the prevailing rates of pay whenever an investigation discloses that the federal wages of $50 a month are affecting adversely the rates on work of a similar nature. The matter is entirely up to the President, however, and he can take any action or withhold any investigation, just as he sees fit, which may mean much or nothing.

Observers foresee a rocky road ahead for the bill. There is certain to be considerable opposition to it in the senate, although administration leaders claim they have enough votes rounded up to insure victory.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI found Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia is a man not easily frightened. Il Duce's demand for indemnities for Italian colonialists killed on the borders of Italian Somaliland were politely, but firmly, refused. The Ethiopians, undismayed by the vast preparations Italy has been making, declared they would fight to their last drop of blood to preserve their independence, that they would not apologize or make reparations for what they maintain is merely defense of their own country. This puts Mussolini in an embarrassing position. He must either send an expeditionary force against the Ethiopians, or back down after mobilizing troops, and that would be a bitter pill for the Italian dictator to swallow.

CHANCELLOR HITLER emerged from his hermit-like seclusion with a number of counter-proposals which he offered in reply to the Franco-British proposals. Der Fuehrer, a government spokesman stated, would definitely refuse to join any pact guaranteeing Austria's independence unless "the will of the Austrian people is first consulted" by means of a plebiscite to determine whether that nation desires an "anschluss" (union) with the German reich. Hitler will also follow Poland's stand, and will have nothing to do with the French-sponsored eastern securities agreement "if it is to be based on mutual assistance," although he is willing to join an air pact provided it allows Germany an air force equal to Soviet Russia's. Hitler seems particularly anxious to avoid any agreement which would bind Germany to Russia and perhaps result in aiding Russia in event of war between that country and Japan.

From the tone of Hitler's demands, he evidently did not entirely believe that France and Great Britain were not preparing some trap for him. The Hitler reply demands that Germany must be given absolute equality of armaments before anything else can be discussed, and that Germany will negotiate an air pact if her relations with Soviet Russia are considered, and if England, France, Belgium and Italy agree to consult each other before any action is taken. He also insists that the general question of disarmament is allied with the air pact and must be settled at the same time.

When notified that Der Reichsfuehrer would make reservations, official British sources indicated that Germany must either accept or reject the agreement in its entirety, and stated partial acceptance would not be agreeable to Great Britain. All of which may be true, or it may be just the old horse-trading spirit which seems to break out in the best diplomatic circles.

DISPATCHES from Bolivia, which must be taken with several grains of salt, indicate that the Bolivians are meeting with success in defending Villa Montes, their last important stronghold in the disputed Gran Chaco, and that the scissor-like offensive of General Estigarribia, Paraguayan commander in chief, is seriously menaced. It was reported the Bolivians, struggling desperately to relieve the pressure on Villa Montes, had defeated the Paraguayans in the Nancoralza sector "after three days of bitter fighting." This offensive, it was thought, might force Estigarribia's northern wing to retreat.

FRANCIS BIDDLE and his national labor relations board took a hand in the controversy between the administration and the American Federation of Labor by offering a suggestion that section 7-A of the recovery act "should be clarified." William Green and his fellow leaders of the federation have long contended that the clause, guaranteeing employees rights to bargain collectively, should be enlarged to specify that the majority of employees should have the right to choose the spokesmen for all employees, and that company unions should be barred. The national labor board, which submitted a report of its first six months' work, defended the majority rule at length. As is well known, the administration desires section 7-A continued unchanged in the new NRA law which is in the process of making.

MORE trouble looms for the blue eagle, according to Senators McCarran and Nye, who introduced a resolution for a senatorial investigation of NRA officials, whom they charge with widespread violation of law, corruption and graft. The senators requested that it be referred to the commerce committee of which Senator Copeland is chairman and of which Nye is a member. Administration forces, it is said, will put up a fight to have it steered into the hands of the finance committee, which is packed with old line Democrats, and where it would be permitted an early death. The resolution caused considerable flurry among New Dealers. Although Nye has been a constant foe of NRA, McCarran's attack comes as a surprise to the administration forces.

Tear Gas Bomb Proves No World War "Dud"
Cincinnati.—A tear gas bomb a University of Cincinnati student received as a souvenir several years ago from a girl acquaintance with the understanding that it was a "dud" from the World War proved to be "the real thing" here.

Joseph Kalavoda, owner of the bomb, was cleaning his trunk where the "dud" was stored. Robert Hawley, a fraternity brother, asked permission to examine it. He pulled out the fuse. The "dud" exploded. Neither student was injured, but both staggered to windows, their eyes filled with tear gas. The landlady turned in a fire alarm when she saw the smoke.

Rainfall Down 2.64 In. In Past 10 Years, Travis Report Shows

That Valley county's average rainfall during the past 10 years has been 2.64 inches per year, according to a report compiled last week by Horace W. Travis, government weather recorder. The report was issued at the request of Bert M. Hardenbrook, president of the North Loup Valley Public Power and Irrigation district, who was seeking data to bolster the district's new application for PWA funds.

Moisture records have been kept in Ord since 1889, first by G. W. Milford, then by James Milford and in recent years by Horace Travis.

Average rainfall for this 46-year period has been 23.80 inches per year but for the past ten years the average has been only 21.106 inches, indicating that Valley county's rainfall is growing lighter each year.

The wettest year in the entire 46-year period was 1905 when the fabulous amount of 42.30 inches fell. The driest year was 1934 when the total was 10.93 inches. The year 1920, when 33.16 inches fell, was the next to the wettest year and 1894, when 14.17 inches of rain came, has the dubious honor of being next to the driest.

April, 1920, was the wettest month in history. In this month 10.70 inches of rain fell, almost as much as during the entire year of 1934. There have been other months almost as dripping, notably June, 1905, June, 1908, and July, 1889, each of which had slightly over 10 inches.

The Travis report, giving moisture totals by years, follows:

Year	Total
1890	19.31
1891	30.96
1892	22.56
1893	15.46
1894	14.17
1895	23.37
1896	30.37
1897	28.23
1898	16.50
1899	19.92
1900	28.96
1901	26.60
1902	33.36
1903	27.60
1904	21.77
1905	42.30
1906	27.90
1907	17.38
1908	29.33
1909	18.71
1910	21.85
1911	23.24
1912	22.62
1913	26.95
1914	19.43
1915	32.94
1916	19.39
1917	20.59
1918	22.21
1919	19.34
1920	33.16
1921	24.67
1922	28.73
1923	23.73
1924	23.73
1925	20.45
1926	24.35
1927	21.41
1928	19.51
1929	25.05
1930	31.10
1931	16.07
1932	20.80
1933	21.34
1934	10.93

Average rainfall for a period of forty-six years, 23.80 plus. Average rainfall for the last ten years, 21.106.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORHOOD

Fish food, bird seed, bird cage cups, etc. Stoltz Variety Store, 47-11

The Vincent Suchanek family have moved to Ord and are occupying a house near the Danish church.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Litz of Basset were here Monday and Tuesday to see Mrs. Litz' brother, Charles Arnold, who is a patient in Hillcrest. While here Mr. and Mrs. Litz visited the Loree McIndes family and Arnold Bros. in Springdale and with other relatives.

Mrs. Mary Beran received a letter this week that her son John Beran arrived safely at his home in Lubbock, Texas after a stay of six weeks in Ord. His sister-in-law, Miss Bess Krahulik of Ord, has been in Lubbock for several weeks. She likes it fine and says nothing about coming home.

On the way home from Lincoln and Omaha Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hager and Mrs. Lucille Petty stopped in Schuyler to see Mr. and Mrs. John Godell, who was formerly Miss Helen White of Ord. She has not been well for some time but now is improved. The Godells have a prosperous drug store in Schuyler. The Hagers had taken Dr. Chauncey Hager to Lincoln and Omaha. He left yesterday for his work as a physician in a hospital in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhynte Christensen, who left Ord recently and have located in Monmouth, Ore., write about a terrible accident that recently befell a former Ord resident, Frank Skeen, near that place. Mrs. Skeen was killed and Frank is suffering with internal injuries. He is being cared for in the home of his father, with the assistance of his sister, Mrs. D. L. Williams. Rhynte says he likes Oregon very much. Farmers are busy sowing spring grains, some have gardens planted and spuds in, while lawns have been green all winter. He asks to be remembered to his many friends, with whom he will keep in touch through the Quiz.

The evening was spent in dancing and in a social way, several hundred guests being bidden for the event, to all of whom a late luncheon was served. Music for dancing was furnished by the St. Mary's club orchestra, which was organized and trained by Syl Carkoski, a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Jablonski. Three other grandsons, Frank, Sylvester and Edwin Micek, also play in the orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Jablonski were recipients of many nice gifts, among them being a gold spread as a gift from the grandchildren. The honorees were congratulated by hundreds of friends and neighbors during the course of the day.

Married in Farwell on Febr. 15, 1885, Mr. and Mrs. Jablonski soon moved to a farm near Elyria and most of their married life was spent in that community, of which they may truthfully be called pioneer residents. All the hardships incident to pioneer life were encountered by these people but they bore them bravely and choose, now, to remember the pleasures that went along with the troubles of those early days.

Mr. Jablonski, a laughter-loving man, chuckled happily Thursday as he reminisced of the days when horse-drawn conveyances were the only means of travel and a journey to Ord was not one to be undertaken lightly. Much as he and Mrs. Jablonski enjoy their modern home in Ord, they enjoy even more gathering with family and friends as they did Thursday and recalling incidents, both pleasurable and tragic, of their fifty years of married life. Their friends wish for them many years of continued happiness and prosperity.

Do you send your children to Sunday school? It is a bad practice. You should bring them.

Can you remember when you brought some person to church or were instrumental in getting some one to attend our service?

Can you think of a better place to be on Sunday than at church service?

Methodist Church. Special duet at our worship service next Sunday morning will include a vocal duet by Mrs. Tolen and Mr. Aagaard, and an anthem by the choir.

In our attendance contest with Osceola we are gaining in numbers, but are still quite a way behind them. Last week we had 190 and 152, while Osceola had 197 and 163. Can we not have enough new volunteers next week to put us well beyond the 200 mark?

A group of some 25 young people in the League have accepted an invitation to attend a Rally at Scotia tomorrow night (Friday). This organization has recently combined with the high school Sunday school classes, and report a fine interest in starting their work.

Next Thursday night, Febr. 28, at 7:30, Mr. E. Dow Bancroft of Chicago, one of the most famous speakers of the Methodist church, will be the principal speaker at a meeting held in our church.

Delegations of people from the churches in Burwell, Ericson, North Loup and Scotia are to be guests. Dr. Johansen will also be present.

The Ladies Bible Class will occupy the choir platform next Sunday morning and one of their number will furnish the Pep talk for the contest.

Sunday night at 7:30 we begin a series of services on "The Oxford Movement", perhaps the most important religious movement of the present day. Glen Auble will be song leader, and Chester Hackett Discussion Leader. The pastor will speak on "Confession of Sin", discussing methods used in Catholic as well as Protestant churches.

Mearl C. Smith, Minister.

Pentecostal Church Notes. "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled". Matt. 5:6.

We again want to remind you of our revival starting Wednesday, Febr. 20, at the Full Gospel church two blocks west of the square, with the Johnson-Steinle Evangelistic party in charge. These young people bring with them an abundance of food for the soul in messages and music. They are talented musicians and singers. Don't miss a single night of this meeting!

In writing to renew his Quiz subscription, John T. Nelson says everything is fine where they live, with plenty of rain and the grass is all green. They live in northwestern Arkansas. John is worried about what Nebraska farmers are going to do with all the money they are getting from the government. The Nelsons used to live down in Independent and raised the biggest and best Black Langshang chickens in the country. Their many Valley county friends will be glad to know that they like their new home. Ord people who are acquainted with Rev. L. M. Real and know of his love for animals will be interested to read about his Russian wolfhound. A friend of his in Chicago bought the hound when it was 6 months old for $75. There are less than 100 of this breed in the United States but most interesting of all is that Rev. Real now has the hound and the hound has eight pups.

ORD RESUMES WINNING STRIDE WITH 42 - 16 WIN OVER FAST ANSLEY QUINT

Ansley Easy Victims As Ord's Scoring Machine Got Under Way; B. Tournay In Ord.

The Ord High Chanticleers resumed their winning stride again after a defeat at the hands of Kearney by winning over the fast Ansley quint, which has been defeated only once this season, by a decisive 42-16 score. The Ordites and the Ansley men fought on even terms the first quarter; the score being tied 6-6 at the end of the first period. The second period proved to be a different story, Ord pulling away to lead 19-3 the first half. In the second half the Chanticleers enjoyed a nice game of "pass" scoring almost at will. The Chanticleers were on the long end of an impressive 33-9 score at the beginning of the final quarter. Michels and Greathouse were the leading point makers, making 17, 13 points respectively. Blessing, Severson, and Tunncliff also did outstanding work in this game. The second team won from Ansley, winning their game by a lopsided 14-3 score. In the preliminary game the Ord F. F. A. lost a roughly played game to the Sargent F. F. A. team.

Class B Tournament Starts Here Next Week

Ord will be host to all entrants in the Nebraska High School Association Class B Basketball Tournament to be held February 28, March 1 and 2. Pairings of the teams have not been made as yet, but this will be done Wednesday at a meeting held in Arcadia. Elba, who has gone through a season and one tournament undefeated, is highly favored to win this tournament although Farwell, Taylor and North Loup are figured as close rivals.

Sophomores Present Home Room Feature

A convocation, preparatory to the Ansley game, was presented last Friday. Norma Mae Snell was Master of Ceremonies. The skit presented was "Monsieur Athleticus Sportsman's Wax Works." Lester Peterson was the guide and LaVerne Lakin the artist. Greathouse, Severson, Michels, Blessing and Tunncliff were represented by Gerald Clark, Edward Puncoschar, Melvin Ferris, Gerald Goff, and Harold Stone, who assumed statue-like poses. The guests who were inspecting the wax works were portrayed by Margaret Lewis, Boy Holloway, Virginia Klein, Armona Beth Achen, Vere Carson and Ruth Cook. The pall bearers were Harold Haskell, Harold Leonard, Frank Dasher and Lester Peterson.

Normal Trainers In Knighthood of Youth

Our Knighthood of Youth club in Ord High School is made up of the Senior Normal Training class. The purpose of this club is to aid the future teachers in learning how to carry on a Knighthood of Youth club in their schools. Officers and committees are elected each six weeks so that each member will become acquainted with the duties. During the meetings, strict parliamentary form is used. The club is very interesting and is sponsoring several events and programs. We have had a party for some grade pupils, and several for ourselves. We plan to sponsor a convocation in the near future. We try to keep room 15 neat and in good order and trimmed in seasonal decorations. At each meeting we have a short program. We have a group castle in which there are 20 stones. On each stone is some goal which we hope to achieve. When we have succeeded in reaching the goal, the stone is colored. Our present officers are: President, Wauneta Cummins; vice-president, Gerald Turner; secretary, Lela Guggenmos; treasurer, Maxine Bossen. The committees are: Decoration, Harriet Hrdy, Library, Agnes Knebel, Castle, Mildred Timmerman, Program, Gerald Turner, Attendance, Aileen Larsen Maxine Bossen.

Color League Standings

Table with 4 columns: Color, W, L, T, Pct. Gold 3 2 0 66.6, White 3 2 0 66.6, Black 3 2 0 66.6, Red 1 4 0 25.0. Last week scores: Red 17, White 15, Gold 13, Black 9.

Recital By Speaking Class Well Attended

The public speaking classes presented a second recital last Thursday evening. Due to the fact that a number of students were unable to appear because of the measles, the program was considerably shortened. It was necessary for three of the six one-act plays to be cut from the program and several readings were substituted. The program opened with three choral speaking selections, presented by members of all three classes, and led by Miss Roelse. The group spoke in unison, "Spin, Lassie, Spin," "The Twenty-fourth Psalm," and "The Castaways." Myrtle Cornell gave a dramatic reading, "O! Mistus." Dale Melia was the announcer. Following this selection, Joy Auble read a dramatic reading, "Telltale Heart," and Eleanor Verstraete presented a humorous reading, "Little Shaver."

The first of the one-act plays was "The Acid Test," a comedy wherein the life-long friendship of Mrs. Sherman and Mrs. Herrington comes to a speedy end when they begin frankly discussing each other's faults. Julia Fung enacted the part of Mrs. Herrington and Jeanette Hughes portrayed Mrs. Sherman. The second play, a clever comedy, "In A Garden," was presented by Beulah McGinnis and Louise Petska. Beulah McGinnis played the part of the boy and Louise Petska portrayed the girl in this one word dialogue. The last play, "Moonshiners" was the most enjoyable of the group. LaVerne Hansen very capably enacted the part of Jim Dunn, a revenue officer and La Verne Nelson acted with equal ability the part of the backwoods farmer. The story dealt with a revenue officer, who upon being discovered inspecting the stills of the moonshiners, very convincingly told the story of how he had been attempting to get killed in every possible way for a number of years and had as a last resort, sat upon their skill in the hope that they would do the job for him. Thus, by his cleverness and ingenuity, he escaped death before his true identity became known to his captives. Another public speaking recital will be held sometime in the course of the next month and another group of plays will be presented for the public.

DO YOU KNOW?

The manual training classes are just finishing work on the music stands. They will be used for the first time during the music contest. The American history classes are studying "Progress of the Nation to 1860." The Biology classes are completing the study of the "Methods of Preventing Contagious Diseases," which is very appropriate at this time. The Art classes are making border designs. The Seniors and Juniors received the grades from their recent teacher's examinations last week. Harriet Hrdy is the only member of the Senior Normal Training class who is already eligible for her teacher's certificate. The eighth grade Mathematics class is just completing the study of bank discounts. The hygiene class is making a booklet on the sense organs. The Ord F. F. A. chapter basketball team played the Sargent team at Ord last Friday evening. The Sargent chapter has invited the entire Ord F. F. A. group to attend a meeting at Sargent Tuesday evening, February 19. The sale of the 1935 annual was started last Wednesday. At the close of the first days' sale, it was found that forty-five annuals had been sold. Leonard Greathouse, Kenneth Michels, Billy Tunncliff, and Richard Severson are the annual salesmen. Superintendents Mr. Edmier of Scotia, Mr. Molt of Arcadia, and Mr. Bell met to make plans for the academic, Commercial, and declamatory contests. The chairman of this committee will make his reports at the Loup Valley meeting February 22 to be held at Ord. The office is quite busy taking care of the details for the class B state tournament which will be held at Ord. Sixteen teams will be here and the school is trying to get everything organized to care for these one hundred and sixty coaches and boys.

It has been suggested to me that I rename, or perhaps I should say name the editorial column. One suggested name was "Don't Read These," which would, presumably, incite in the reader a curiosity to do just that. Another suggested name was "Across the Editor's Desk" but that's out. At least, until the individuals who borrowed our desk take the time and trouble to return it.

Now that the cast for the contest play has been selected, work on the declamatory program will begin in a big way. Also, students who are expecting to enter in any commercial contest will be practicing and preparing to do their best for the contest which will be held sometime in the near future. Prospects for a prize-winning team in all commercial subjects are brilliant and it is quite probable that Ord's excellent record of last year will be surpassed in this contest.

A large number of high school students have been enjoying a rather brief vacation, thanks to the measles epidemic which has been present for the past two weeks. Although the entire school has been exposed a number of times, quite a large percentage of students have, as yet, escaped the disease. The type of measles, however, is not serious, lasting in most cases no longer than two days, and being accompanied by comparatively little physical discomfort.

The annual sale, which was begun last Wednesday, has been progressing nicely. At the close of the first day's sale, forty-five annuals had been sold. For no more than it would cost to attend two or three shows, you will be able to buy a Chanticleer. See one of the senior salesmen now and become a member of the Chanticleer Chick Club.

Wise and Otherwise

Dorothy A: "I want to return this book I bought, 'Stories for All Occasions.'" Bookseller: "What's the matter with it?" Dorothy: "It's a fake! There's nothing there for a girl to tell her mother when she gets home at 2:00 A. M." Bert: "Thinking of me, darling?" Maxine: "Oh, was I laughing? I'm sorry." Alma H.: "I wouldn't think of marrying such an intellectual monstrosity and physical misfit as you are—you numbskull! Do you get me?" Jack T.: "Well, from the general trend of your conversation, I should judge not."

This Week's Sponsors are Davis & Vogeltanz

Neither member of the law firm of Davis & Vogeltanz needs to be introduced to Ord readers for both are representative citizens who have long evinced an active interest in Ord as a community.

CLARENCE M. DAVIS.

Clarence M. Davis was born in Harrison, Nebr., went to school in Lead, S. D., and attended university and law school in that state after which he practiced law in Salem, S. D., four years. In 1920 Mr. Davis came to Ord and entered practice with his brother, Claude, who left this city to become a member of the Supreme court commission and now is a practicing attorney in Grand Island. Edward L. Vogeltanz was born in Wahoo, Neb., went to school at Ebe, Nebr., later to the business college at Grand Island and then spent two years as stenographer for a prominent David City lawyer, where he secured inspiration to continue his education with three years at Peru Normal, which was followed by three years in the law school of the University of Nebraska. During these busy years he also found time to sandwich in considerable service in the Aviation division of the U. S. army at March Field, California, where it may surprise you to know Mr. Vogeltanz has a hundred or so hours of solo flying to his credit.

E. L. VOGELTANZ.

After securing his law degree Mr. Vogeltanz spent a year or two with a Seward law firm, coming to Ord on Jan. 1, 1920. He acquired the practice of E. P. Clements when the latter was elevated to the district bench and in 1928 entered partnership with Clarence M. Davis, which partnership has continued happily and profitably for both ever since. Both Mr. Vogeltanz and Mr. Davis are active in lodge and civic organizations. The former is a state official of the Knights of Columbus, a member of the Chamber of Commerce and Rotary club and has held several posts in the American Legion. Mr. Davis is a Mason and a past grand master of the grand council of Nebraska, and is a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge. He is also a past president of Rotary and of the Chamber of Commerce. A delegate to national republican conventions in 1924 and 1932, Mr. Davis is also a member of the state republican committee. He is secretary and a director of the Ord Co-op creamery, a director in the Protective Savings and Loan association and has been secretary and a member of the library board for several years. Both of these partners are married, there being three children in the Vogeltanz family and two in the Davis family. The fine records of these two men speak for themselves and invite you to find a friend and confidante where so many others have placed their trust.

Announcements Are Selected By Seniors

Last Tuesday morning representatives of the Senior class, Joe Kricke, Enda Loft, Marvin Wilson, and Alma Hansen met a number of salesmen from whose display they selected a dozen samples. At a special meeting in the auditorium Tuesday afternoon a vote was taken and by a very narrow margin it was voted to secure the announcements from the Seright Publication Bureau of Lincoln, Nebraska. Willard Cushing: "Speak, oh speak, those words that will mean heaven to me." Norma Mae: "Oh, go jump in the lake!"

ABRAHAM LINCOLN PLAYERS OFFER DRAMA AT SPECIAL CONVOCATION

Try-out For Declam Contest Play Is Held

The tryouts for the one-act contest play were held last Friday evening from four until six. The play, "Circumstances Alter Cases" is a light one-act comedy, twenty-five minutes in length, in compliance with the regular contest rules. The play contains five characters; Eva Hamilton, a widow; Don Hamilton, her son; Stephen Everett, Eva's fiancée; Betty Everett, Stephen's daughter; and Maggie, Mrs. Hamilton's maid. In order to insure a full cast in case of illness or incapability on the part of some member, a double cast was selected. Eva Hamilton, the sparkling young widow will be portrayed by Pauline Barta or Charlotte Blessing. Don Hamilton, her seventeen year old prep-school son, will be enacted by Laverne Hansen or Dale Melia. Stephen Everett, Eva's fiancée and Betty's adorable father will be characterized by Laverne Lakin or Darrell Noll. Betty Everett, a pretty vivacious girl of sixteen will be played by Edna Loft or Lillian Kusek. Maggie, Mrs. Hamilton's maid will be enacted by Ruth Koupal or Eleanor Verstraete. The action takes place in Mrs. Hamilton's modern apartment. The play has a clever plot, dealing with the happenings of the Hamilton and Everett families. Don is very decidedly opposed to his mother's remarriage, refusing to even consider it and threatening to make a scene. However, after making the acquaintance of Betty, his prospective step-sister, his opinion is changed and he looks forward to his mother's marriage with eager anticipation. Work on the play will begin immediately and the play promises to give other schools tough competition. Miss Roelse will direct the play.

Life of Martyred President Was Aply Portrayed By Troupe As Stamp-book Feature.

Students of the grade and high schools were present at a special convocation featuring the Abraham Lincoln Players, which was held Monday morning at 10:00 o'clock. The drama is one of the greatest stories of the life of Abraham Lincoln that has ever been presented in the Mid-west Assemblies. The first act dealt with Lincoln's life in Indiana when he was a boy of nineteen. It showed his early training, the development of his honesty and knowledge, and the effect of his wonderful mother on his later life. In this act his love for Anne Rutledge was emphasized. The second act occurred in Springfield, Illinois when Abraham Lincoln was at the height of his political career and at the time of his nomination for the presidency. Although married to Mary Todd Lincoln their marriage was not completely happy and he still grieved over the death of his early sweetheart, Anne Rutledge. The last act took place at the close of the Civil War when Lincoln, tired and worn, was serving his second presidential term, preceding his death at the Ford theater. Following the last act, a tribute was paid to Abraham Lincoln, one of the greatest men of history. Abraham Lincoln was excellently characterized by Francis Brandt, Robert Reade enacted the part of General Grant and Ita Shannon portrayed Anna Rutledge. This cast was supported by a professional group who portrayed also the parts of Mrs. Rush, Judge Belmonte, Mr. Hodgins and other minor characters. This program was made possible by the stamp book holders of Ord High. Another musical program is scheduled for the middle of March.

Kiddies' Column

On Tuesday morning a general convocation was held in commemoration of Lincoln's birthday. The program opened with the Flag salute and the singing of America. Four pupils in Miss Hallen's room sang a Lincoln song and Mary Miller told a story of the boyhood of Lincoln. Reverend Real then gave a talk on "The Salt of the Earth." Five new pupils have enrolled in the nursery school within the last week. They are Jack Godda, Roger McMundes, Phyllis Anderson, Billy Anderson, and Harlan Kometata. The Kindergarten has completed their postoffice. They use it for their play period. February 14, they had a Valentine party at which time the postmaster delivered the valentines. Mrs. Sowl and Mrs. Peterson were visitors in the Kindergarten last week. Mrs. Ed. Kokes and Mrs. Leo Long visited in the first and second grades Friday. The first graders have started reading in their new Elson Book I readers. They are also reading a supplementary book, "Valentine Day." The second grade has a new reader, "New Friends." The third grade has started a new geography entitled, "Around the World with the Children." The fourth grade had perfect attendance last week. Reverend and Mrs. Cummings visited the fourth grade Monday afternoon. The fourth grade geography class is studying Holland. Mrs. Leo Long and Mrs. Jay Auble visited the third grade last week. A Valentine box for the fifth and sixth grades was made by Mary Miller, Beverly Davis, Betty Lambdin, Helen Work and Myrnie Auble. The grade school basketball team was well pleased when they got to play in one quarter against North Loup's Junior H team. The fifth and sixth grade girls, under the direction of Miss Gosard, entertained between halves of the Ord, North Loup game. They presented two folk dances: "Little Man in a Fix" and "The Roman Soldiers." Reporter—Harry James McBeth.

Hi-Y Initiation And Supper Monday Eve

New Hi-Y members were entertained by the old members at a covered dish supper at an initiation meeting Monday. The induction ceremony was held for the following new members: William Goff, LaVerne Deumey, Willard Cushing, LaVerne Hansen, Erwin Dodge, Horace Johnson, Harry Zulkoski, Paul Adamek, Lloyd Richardson, Stephen Cook, Kenneth Egglehoff, Dale Hughes, Ernon Malolepszy, Paul Carlson, Jack Janssen, and Dean Marks. After the supper the purpose, form and the ideals of the Hi-Y organization were explained to the new members by Mr. Lukenbach. Kenneth Michels, president of the club, then conducted a typical meeting to acquaint new members with the Hi-Y ritual. After prayer, led by Mr. Lukenbach, new members were initiated, with some hilarity, through stunts and games. A theatre party is planned for the next regular meeting of the club.

Girl Reserves Hear Legion Male Chorus

The Girl Reserve meeting Monday night was in charge of Lydia Dana. The theme topic for the evening was "Cobwebs and Dust." The program opened with pep songs led by Dorothy Allen. Lydia Dana read a poem on "Gracious in Manner." Following this, several musical selections were presented by the American Legion Male Chorus. Evelyn Jorgensen told a story, "Jesus and the Children," from the New Testament. Pauline Barta talked on the gracious woman of the Old Testament, "Abigail." Maxine Hagkell discussed the topic, "Has the general attitude worn a cobweb over your Brain?" Beulah McGinnis talked on "The Dust in Activities." Elma Rybin discussed "Has the Cobweb of Disrespect Clotted Your Mind?" and Barbara Dale discussed, "Is the Cobweb of Shoddy Word Upon You?"

Loup Valley Tourney Finals To Be Played

Tonight at 8:30 the finals of the Loup Valley basketball tournament will be played in the Arcadia gymnasium. Eleven schools have been participating in the meet during the past week. A free throw contest will receive a plaque and the outstanding free thrower a medal. Referee for the meet is Jack Dyas of Kearney. Supt. Bell of Ord is the official timer, and Supt. Boren of Comstock is the official scorer. General chairman of the tournament arrangements is Supt. Thompson of Arcadia. General admission for the sessions of the tourney is 25c. High school pupils are admitted to the afternoon games for 10c. Pairings for the first round of the tournament were: St. Paul and North Loup; Sargent and Taylor; Scotia and Loup City; Arcadia, Burwell, Dannebrog, Ord and Comstock drew byes.

By FRED J. MINDER

Expressing a hope that the extra one-cent gasoline tax levy for state relief might be terminated at least four and possibly six months before the meeting of the next legislature, Governor Cochran introduced the measure in the House. It provides means of raising $4,000,000 of revenue as the state's relief quota fixed by National Administrator Hopkins.

Cochran said a termination of the additional gasoline tax will be possible by turning into relief channels the surplus receipts from state taxes and license fees on beer and hard liquors, as well as from other sources. He and the sub-committees with which he has been working estimate that a million dollars of revenue will thus be available as miscellaneous income, thus taking that much of the load off motor vehicle owners and users.

Making the extra gas tax expire about the middle of 1936 will prevent the 1937 legislature continuing it by a simple extension act, as is now being attempted with the mortgage moratorium measure passed in 1933, specifically as an emergency measure limited to two years.

Parl-mutuel betting on horse races, first of several mandates delivered to the present legislature by the voters last fall, has successfully passed the Senate. The vote in the upper branch was 23 to 7, a majority sufficient to carry with it the emergency clause. The bill that passed was S. F. 14, by Regan, (D), Columbus, a measure suitable to Ak-Sar-Ben.

Sixteen democrats and six republicans voted for the bill, while four republicans and three democrats opposed it. Four members were absent or not voting.

The bill now rests in the House committee, from whence it starts another trek that eventually means legislation with the likelihood of much amendment.

Under the bill passed by the Senate the race track in Omaha will pay $200 a day for racing and 15 cents per person for attending, while the fee is smaller in cities of less population. Ten percent is to go to the association operating the track and 90 percent to winning bets. The state racing commission is to pay its expenses and the balance goes to the state treasury to be paid out, one-sixth for improving breeds of livestock and five-sixths to be divided equally among the 93 counties having county fairs, 4-H club shows, livestock shows or rodeo shows.

Harness races are to be licensed for one-fourth of the fees paid for running races. It was declared under parl-mutuel racing it is almost impossible to clear any money on harness races and such races may disappear from all parl-mutuel tracks.

The bill was amended in the senate by striking out the proviso that it shall not apply to dog races, which leaves the door open for such races under the regulation of the racing commission.

Speedy divorce is a probability in Nebraska with the enactment by the Senate of S. F. 232 by O'Brien, (D), Omaha, which repeals the six months waiting period before a decree of divorce becomes effective. Some years ago the waiting period was adopted by the legislature as a great step toward reconciliation of divorced people. O'Brien contended divorced folk now go out of the state and marry again and come back and seldom does anyone question the legality of the new marriage. No word of opposition greeted the measure when it was advanced to third reading.

Two hundred persons, drawn from all corners of Nebraska and representing communities deprived of commercial banking facilities, appeared before the House banking committee to explain through spokesmen, advantages of limited banking as carried by cooperative credit associations. Their arrival was unexpected, and the hearing room was swamped.

It was a resolution by Speaker O'Gara directing the banking committee to undertake, in cooperation with the superintendent of banks and the attorney general, an inquiry to determine the best method of providing safe and serviceable banking facilities that brought out the almost unprecedented interest in a single bill. O'Gara's resolution likewise asked the banking committee to ascertain whether or not cooperative associations exceeded their charter powers and what basis of charges and profits have been provided promoters. O'Gara was author, several years ago, of a bill permitting these organizations to exist and declared himself friendly to them.

One of the main spokesmen for the plan was C. A. Sorensen, former attorney general, and attorney for the Union Credit Service association, affiliated with fifty-five of the cooperative credit associations in Nebraska. His remarks were sustained by numerous cooperative members representing all parts of the state.

Rep. Jeppesen, (R), Hubbard, author of H. R. 221, providing that the runnerup in a primary election is eligible for appointment by his party as the candidate for the office for which he ran in case the nominee dies, saw it pass in the House and head for the Senate.

Townsend old age pension advo-

ates suffered a crushing defeat when a resolution, urging Congress to enact the California doctor's $200 a month old-age-pension plan was defeated 52 to 35.

Rep. Cushing, Ord, republican floor leader, while favoring old age pensions, denounced the Townsend plan as "fantastic", and asserted "it would be criminal to give old people false encouragement" by adopting the resolution.

"Why urge Congress to do something it already has refused to do?" Cushing queried. "Give $200 to every person over 60 and you are encouraging waste," the floor leader declared.

"The plan contemplates revenue from sales tax, and to encourage the suggested giving of $200 to each old person holds out a criminal false hope," declared Rep. Cone of Valley.

"What of the people who have never seen that much money—for instance some of the old Negroes of the South? It would put stones in their fingers and in their neckties," Cone added.

Rep. Steele, (R), Kimball, said the plan contemplates the worst type of inflation this or any country ever has known.

"By giving a certain group $200 a month each to spend you'd only raise the standard and cost of living, and what of those younger people with lesser incomes? And what of the old people who? The plan fails which fall it must if ever it were adopted," Steele asked.

Not all members who spoke voiced opposition to some sort of resolution that would indicate to Congress that Nebraska does endorse federal aid for pensions.

Rep. Hyde, (D), Gothenburg, said adoption of the resolution certainly would call to the attention of Congress that Nebraska wants some type of old age pension.

Rep. Sullenberger, (D), Chadron, introducer of the resolution said: "I'm not sure it is right. I do know that we have poverty and want and that something must be done about it. Some of our communities are carrying a greater relief load than they can bear."

Cushing's motion to table the resolution was defeated 39 to 38. Many members were silent at voting time, and Cushing hurled this challenge: "Every member should vote on one side or the other. We are on the spot and should take it."

Then came an end to the smoke of oratory and a vote that smothered the resolution 52 to 35.

Passage of H. R. 130, by Havekost, (D), Hooper, and others, sent the measure into hands of a Senate committee. The measure provides for administration of fees and other phases of the farm warehouse act, and that the state railway commission shall charge for warehouse certificates an amount not in excess of $5 for the first crib or bin inspected and 50 cents for each additional crib or bin included in the same application.

H. R. 183, making federal housing securities legal investments for public funds and private financial institutions, passed the House.

A $10 fine is provided for violating the standard bread loaf regulations in H. R. 182, by Cushing, (R), Ord, which was passed in the House.

The Senate delivered a setback to the establishment of new electric light and power plants and distributing facilities by cities, villages and power districts to be paid out of future earnings when a vote of 20 to 8 against S. F. 25 was recorded. The bill was introduced by Sen. McGowan, (R) Norfolk, and was prepared by former Attorney General Sorensen. It is reported to have had considerable backing from municipal ownership interests. Later the bill was revived by a vote of 30 to 0 and is assured of passage by the Senate, its backers say.

Immediately after putting S. F. 25 to death, the Senate passed S. F. 56, which prohibits cities and villages spending more money for construction, maintenance or improvement of a heating, lighting or ice plant than the amount of bonds specifically authorized for such purposes. The vote was 28 to 1.

Public hearings are planned soon on several of the bills in committee on roads and bridges, according to Rep. Stringfellow, (D), Oakdale, its chairman. Upwards of sixty bills proposing extension of highways are in committee files.

Attorneys flooded House judiciary committee meeting quarters when that committee had under consideration H. R. 213, providing for incorporation or integration of the Nebraska bar.

It was not the first time a bill of this nature had been introduced in Nebraska, and the proponents and opponents were about equally divided among the swarm of lawyers appearing.

Proponents urged that through incorporation the bar could purge or cleanse itself of undesirable elements, among other things, while opponents declared that it would serve to inculcate cliques and blocs and disbarment proceedings would be too easy. A future hearing was found advisable by the committee.

Considerable discussion as to ways and means, but nothing tangible in the way of getting a liquor control bill stopped for action of the House committee of the whole has been the net result of a week of bickering.

First action was appointment by the committee on committees of the House of the special liquor legislation committee authorized by the lower branch as a home for the seven House liquor bills, after tearing them away from the judiciary committee.

Edward Dugan, Omaha lawyer, chairman of the House judiciary from which committee the membership snatched the liquor bills, received vindication at the hands of the committee on committees by being named chairman of the special committee. Personnel of the committee:

Chairman and member-at-large, Edward Dugan, (D), Omaha. First district—Henry Obbink, (R), Lincoln; H. B. Cummins, (D), Seward.

Second district—E. Dinan, (D), Omaha; E. F. Sallander, (R), Omaha. Third district—Otto C. Weber, (D), Leigh; John Havekost, (D), Hooper.

Fourth district—W. M. Burr, (D), Jannita; J. F. Ratcliff, (D), Trenton.

Fifth district—John R. Long, (D), Loup City; J. S. Steele, (R), Kimball.

Omaha suffered but little in the shift from judiciary to special committee. One reason given for the transfer was the presence of four men from Douglas county on judiciary, and none from the Third congressional district. The liquor committee has three Douglas county men, including the chairman.

The republican minority was given a proportionate share of seats in the committee with three places. Two of the three members are dyes, Obbink and Steele.

The next move of the committee was the announcement that public hearings, at least one of which will be open to public discussion, but not to wet and dry speeches. The committeemen are of the opinion that the issue is settled and the only concern now is to look toward the enactment of fair and reasonable legislation. The meetings will be for the purpose of gaining an insight into public opinion.

House members who are dry or lean that way say that re-enactment of the provisions of the old Slocum law is growing in favor. Two reasons why this is so are given, first the fact that the law was sustained by the courts and second that it represented years of experience.

Lobbyists are drawing their lines for the impending battle. Petitions, communications and resolutions from individuals and groups continue to arrive in both House and Senate. The attack generally has been against some of the provisions outlined in the so-called administration liquor control bill drafted by Attorney General Wright with the endorsement, allegedly, of Governor Cochran.

Children of parents sheltered by the government in rural shelter houses are to be the object of an investigation. A resolution by Sen. Schults, (R), Elgin, was adopted and a committee appointed to confer with the state superintendent to see what can be done about paying the expenses of schooling children of parents housed by the federal government in rural shelter areas.

The House passed H. R. 183 by Cushing, repealing the graduated quarterly registration fees on automobiles purchased during the year and reinstating annual and semi-annual fees, while leaving the quarterly fees on trucks. Owners of cars purchased before July 1 would be required to pay 75 percent of the annual fee and 50 percent thereafter.

"A show a night" might well be the billboard advertisement placed outside the capitol building. That is, if a public hearing on some matter of pending legislation could be called a show.

United States senator by providing that appointment to fill a vacancy shall extend to January 3 following the election of state officers.

Carload Seeds

Our carload of Cane, Sudan, Millet, Grohoma, Kaffir Corn, Hegari and Milo arrived this week and you can save money on it if you buy this seed at once.

We also have a good line of home-grown alfalfa and sweet clover seed. All seed is thoroughly re-cleaned and tested and is priced reasonable as compared with prices many are asking this year.

Seed Corn

We have 100 bushel of hand selected hand butted and tipped Red Cob White Seed corn and have a nice lot of Leaming Yellow Dent Corn. On this corn our prices are much more reasonable than most people are asking for their corn and less than it often brings at Public Auction. Another thing any of this seed you buy from us, you can take home and test in any way and if for any reason not satisfactory bring it back and we will refund your money.

Feeds

We have loads of good alfalfa and prairie hay and possibly oats straw this week.

Acid Test for Gold
The usual acid test for gold is to touch it with a glass stopper wetted with nitric acid. This leaves gold untouched but colors base alloys blue from the formation of nitrate of copper. Before testing, the article should be scratched with a knife, sufficiently to penetrate possible gold-plating.

WINTER'S WORST BLIZZARD HITS, ROADS BLOCKED

4-Inch Snow Piled Into Drifts By 50-Mile Gale Sunday; Temperature Hits Zero.

Apparently angered by rumors that he was about to abdicate his throne prematurely in favor of the young man Winter set out to do his worst Saturday night and before another 24 hours had passed people of central Nebraska were willing to concede his success.

Four inches of snow, mixed with almost an equal amount of loose dirt and then piled into deep drifts by a 50-mile-an-hour gale was the bad medicine concocted by King Winter and administered to Valley county Sunday. In some parts of the state he included larger portions of snow in his prescription but nowhere did he prescribe more dust or wind.

The storm was ushered in about 10:00 p. m. Saturday by a strong northwest wind which blew furiously all night, although snow did not start falling until about 4:00 a. m. Sunday.

Country roads, main highways, even city streets were blocked when the storm blew itself out Sunday night. Although the official report made by Horace Travis, government weather observer, showed slightly less than 4 inches of snow had fallen, drifts were many feet deep in places.

Crews of shovelers were rushed into action by city, county and state road officials Monday morning and their efforts were reinforced by snowplows. In rural communities farmers united to open township roads but Ord mail men, without exception, were unable to get entirely around their routes Monday or Tuesday.

Railroads were also hard hit by the storm. The Union Pacific train arrived in Ord about 9:30 a. m. Monday, only about two hours late, but C. B. & Q. service was cancelled pending arrival of a snow plow. Trainmen on the Union Pacific reported the worst drifts between St. Paul and Grand Island. The morning train was very late into St. Paul but made up a little time between there and Ord, they claimed.

EXPECT LARGE ATTENDANCE AT C. OF C. DINNER

Ticket Sales Indicate 200 or More Present Friday Eve; Many New Members Join.

Advance sale of tickets indicates an attendance of 200 or more at the Chamber of Commerce dinner for new members, to be held at 6:00 Friday evening in the basement of the Masonic hall with Coach Ed Weir, of the University of Nebraska, as principal speaker on the program to follow. Tickets are being sold by Edgar Moyer, Glen Auble, Elwin Dunlap and Stanley McLean. These men are making an effort to call on every C. of C. member and people who are unavoidably missed may procure tickets at the Moyer restaurant, the Auble jewelry store or the McLean drug store.

This dinner is an annual affair to honor new members secured in the annual membership drive, which is now being conducted by a committee led by Freeman Haught. About 20 new members have joined.

Besides new members, honor guests at the dinner will be Coach Helmut Brockman and his Ord high school football and basketball players, school men here for the Class B tournament and members of the Ord Business and Professional Women's club. Wives of Chamber members are also expected to attend.

John P. Misko will be toastmaster Friday evening and brief talks will be made by H. D. Leggett, Coach Brockman, Leonard Greathouse, Richard Seversen and Miss Clara L. McClatchey. Coach Weir's address and his moving pictures of athletics at the University will be the feature event. During dinner music will be furnished by a string quartet and the Legion chorus will sing.

The dinner will be served by Catholic ladies and starts promptly at 8:00 p. m. tomorrow.

Many Attending Revival.

Large crowds are attending revival meetings being held each evening in the Pentecost church. The services are under the direction of the Johnson-Steinle Evangelists' party.

C. A. Carlson, who had been a patient in Hillcrest recovering from injuries he received in a fall is about well and was able Thursday to go to his own home.

Mrs. Cecil Means Dies After Giving Birth to Twin Boys

In an Omaha hospital last Wednesday night, two days after she gave birth to healthy twin boys, Mrs. Cecil Means, of Albion, passed away. Her sudden death was a great shock to Ord friends and several from here drove to Albion Friday to attend the funeral services, which were conducted by Dr. C. G. Goman, pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church of Omaha.

In 1930 Miss Helen Cowan, then a teacher in the Albion schools, traveled to Russia alone to wed Mr. Means, who was then employed as a wine expert by the Soviet government. Besides her husband and the twin babies, Mrs. Means is mourned by a two-year-old son, by her father, E. S. Cowan, by one sister, Mrs. Laura Fairchild, and one brother, Harold Cowan.

The Means family lived in Ord for several months, moving back to Albion last fall. Mr. Means is a representative of the federal Farm Credit Administration and has been active in making farm inspections for the federal land bank in Valley and surrounding counties.

Clement Buys Herd Bull.

Clare Clement was down at Cambridge last week to get a new herd bull that he bought some time ago for the Clement Herd herd. The new bull, a yearling, carries more of the famous Prince Domino blood than almost any other bull in America. Mr. Clement says that Mousel Bros., from whom the bull was purchased, had just one bull that he liked better, but they refused to even price it and his third choice in the lot sold for a thousand dollars after he bought his bull last month.

CARL KOELLING CLAIMED SUNDAY BY PNEUMONIA

Mira Valley Resident Since 1881. Passes, Funeral Today; Was Officer in F. G. & S. Co.

Carl W. Koelling, 57, one of the most respected and influential farmers of the Mira Valley community, passed away at his home Sunday, Feb. 24, after a critical illness of about two weeks with pneumonia. Funeral services are being held this afternoon at Zion Evangelical church in Mira Valley.

Born in Rehme, Germany, on Nov. 10, 1877, Carl William Koelling came to the United States with his parents in 1881. The family located at once on a Mira Valley farm and this community was Carl Koelling's home from babyhood until his death Sunday.

On April 6, 1910 he was married at Glenwood, Ia., to Miss Lydia Winters and four children were born to them, two of them dying in infancy. Left to mourn, besides his faithful and devoted wife, are his daughter, Viola 12, and his son, Carl W. 9; also two brothers, Herman and Will, of Mira Valley, and four sisters, Mrs. Augusta Gewele, Mrs. Alvina Lenz and Mrs. Anna Cook, all of Mira Valley, and Mrs. Elsie Shoemaker of Scotia. His parents and one brother preceded him in death.

An active member of the Zion Evangelical church of Mira Valley ever since 1905, Mr. Koelling was a faithful and willing church worker and at the time of his death was serving as a trustee. He was active in community affairs and cooperative enterprises and was a member of the board of directors of the Farmers Grain & Supply Company and the North Loup Cheese Company at the time of his death, also serving as vice-president of the first named.

Mr. Koelling leaves an influence for good that will live long in the memory of his neighbors and friends. His untimely death is genuinely mourned and the community extends sympathy to his widow and children in their bereavement.

Auto Affre on Ord Street.

Ord people almost had an opportunity to hear the city's new fire siren Sunday morning when a Graham-Paige sedan owned by a typewriter salesman from Ainsworth caught afire at the Co-op Oil company corner. Archie Bradt who was on duty at this station, noticed the blaze and grabbing a fire extinguisher, raced across the corner and soon put the fire out. Only minor damage was done. The car was towed to the Auble garage for repairs.

Drive 475 Miles for Operation.

Last week Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Gaylord, of Medicine Bow, Wyo. drove to Ord and Mrs. Gaylord entered the Ord Hospital for an appendix operation. It is quite unusual for a person to drive 475 miles to undergo operative treatment after suffering an attack of acute appendicitis but Mrs. Gaylord is recovering nicely and seems none the worse for her long drive. The Gaylords formerly lived in Ord.

BARTA ACCEPTS GOVT POSITION, WILL LEAVE ORD

Banker, Protective Ass'n Founder, Will Move Family to Lincoln or Omaha in Spring.

Announcement is made this week that Jos. P. Barta, organizer of the Protective Savings and Loan association and its secretary-treasurer for 19 years, has resigned to accept a government position and will leave Ord in the immediate future. R. M. Hauser, receiver of the former Ord State bank, has been appointed Protective secretary to succeed Mr. Barta.

Rumors of a change in the management of the Protective association have been current since Jan. 1 but directors declined to confirm them until this week, when official announcement of Mr. Barta's resignation and Mr. Hauser's appointment was made. Hauser has resigned as Ord State bank receiver and assumed his new duties at once. E. C. James, formerly collector for the Protective, also has resigned and his duties also will be looked after by Mr. Hauser. Mr. James has established an insurance agency in Ord.

Organized 19 years ago, the Protective association prospered under Secretary Barta's management and at its peak had loans of $750,000 in Valley and 12 nearby counties. Activity of the federal Home Owners Loan corporation has since curtailed the business of all building and loan associations, but a recent audit of the Protective discloses that its financial position is strong.

With the exception of this change in secretary, the management of the Protective remains unchanged. Dr. George R. Gard continues as president, L. D. Milliken as vice-president, Clarence M. Davis and C. A. Hager as directors and Davis & Vogeltanz as attorneys.

Yesterday Mr. Barta went to Lincoln to make final arrangements for assuming an executive position in a federal loan agency. He was expected to take over his new job March 1 but has asked for a leave of absence of two or three weeks to get his own affairs in shape, during which time he will continue to look after government feed loans in Valley county and set up the organization for handling of seed loans. Temporarily, his office will be in the court house.

Mr. Barta expects to be stationed either in Omaha or Lincoln and will move his family to one of these cities about June 1, after school is out. His youngest daughter, Miss Pauline, is a member of this year's graduating class of Ord high school.

A resident of Ord all his life, Mr. Barta has always been prominently identified with financial and civic affairs of this community. For 28 years he was associated with the First National bank starting as a bookkeeper and working up to the presidency. He disposed of his interests in this institution about a year ago.

He has been secretary of the Rotary club since its organization, is vice-president of the Ord township library board, chairman of the Valley county Red Cross, secretary of the North Loup Public Power and Irrigation district, chairman of the county FERA, NRA and FHA organizations, secretary of the county old age pension commission and holds numerous other offices of importance.

Mr. Barta's family have had important parts in the church and social life of the community. Mrs. Barta being active in the Christian church, in the P. E. O. and in numerous women's clubs while his daughters, the Misses Martha Mae and Pauline, are popular in the younger set. Miss Martha Mae is now a student at the University of Nebraska and Miss Pauline expects to matriculate there next fall.

The new Protective secretary, Mr. Hauser, has been connected with financial and real estate organizations for 15 years and is thoroughly familiar with all phases of the Protective work. He is succeeded as Ord bank receiver by L. H. Reif, who will make his headquarters at St. Paul and administer the affairs of failed banks at Loup City and Pawnee as well as Ord, Scotia, North Loup and Coteaufield.

Mrs. Tondreau Going to Europe. Mrs. Joe Tondreau says she expects to take a European trip later to visit relatives, but for the present she has moved into Ord and is living at 1219 M street, where she expects to stay and that she will continue giving music lessons. She says the Quiz was in error last week in saying she would leave this community. In telling us that, she meant the community west of town where she had been living. We are glad to make the correction and hope Mrs. Tondreau may have many music pupils. She has been teaching music here for a good many years and her friends will be glad to know she is going to remain in the city.

Ord Golf Club Elects Directors

Members of the Ord Golf club, holding their annual meeting at the American Legion hall Friday evening, elected Dr. F. A. Barta, John P. Misko, J. Edgar Moyer, M. Blemond and Miss Clara McClatchey as directors, voted to suspend the annual membership fee of $5.00 during the month of April this year, and voted to continue dues on the basis of $1.50 per month during the seven months from April to October in 1935. Officers will be elected by the new board of directors at a meeting soon.

Forty-one attended the annual meeting Friday, which began with a covered dish luncheon served by the ladies.

CLASS B CAGE TOURNAMENT OPENS IN ORD TODAY

Milburn, Elba, Scotia, Taylor Seeded Teams, Dyas Referee; First Game Starts 1:00.

Ord, a red-hot basketball center this winter because of the success of Coach Brockman's Chanticleers, will play host this week to sixteen teams from the smaller high schools of this district, who will compete in a Class B tournament starting at 1:00 today and continuing until Saturday night.

Assurance of classy basketball in semi-finals and finals was assured when four teams with the best records were "seeded" in the two brackets. Milburn, Elba, Scotia and Taylor are the four seeded teams. These teams have defeated several Class A schools during the regular playing season.

The tournament schedule for today, as announced by Millard D. Bell, Ord superintendent and tournament director, is as follows:

- 1:00—Milburn vs. Dry Valley. 2:00—North Loup vs. Horace. 3:00—Danneberg vs. Farwell. 4:00—Ashton vs. Scotia. 5:00—Taylor vs. Wiggle Creek. 7:00—Westerville vs. Berwyn. 8:00—Comstock vs. Merna. 9:00—Gates vs. Elba.

Quarter-final and semi-final games will be played Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday evening the finals will be played, with a consolation game between defeated semi-finalists as a preliminary.

Jack Dyas, of Kearney, has been selected as referee for all games and Coach Helmut Brockman of Ord will be floor manager.

This tournament is played under the auspices of the Nebraska High School Athletic association and this body's trophy will be presented to the winning team. An 8-inch basketball statuette will be given to the runners-up by Keep's cafe of Ord.

Friday afternoon at 5:00 Coach Ed Weir of the University of Nebraska will show moving pictures and give a talk to tournament players, this treat being arranged by the Ord Chamber of Commerce.

Visiting school men and tournament officials will be dinner guests of the Chamber that evening. Ord is a Class A school so the Ord Chanticleers do not compete in the tournament being held here this week but instead must play in the Class A district tourney at Gothenburg next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Along with North Platte, Kearney and Broken Bow, the Ord team is "seeded" in this tourney and therefore is conceded an excellent chance to go as far as the semi-finals and an outside chance to win, if its attack "clicks." Last week Ord won the Loup valley conference championship at Arcadia, beating Danneberg and Comstock with ease in early games and then handing a terrific wallop to the St. Paul Apostles in the finals, the score being 42 to 16. Three Ord players, Greathouse, Blessing and Michels, were named on the all-conference team.

Prof. Keim To Give Hints on Pastures

So many requests for help and information on pastures have been received at the office of County Agent C. Dale that arrangements have been made to have Prof. P. O. Keim, of the Department of Agronomy, Nebraska college of agriculture, conduct a meeting in Ord to discuss pastures. Prof. Keim will discuss temporary pastures, the rejuvenation of permanent pastures, the supply of seed and the probable cost of seed this year.

Plans for the Nebraska pasture contest in which $1,500 in prizes is offered will be explained at this meeting and entries taken if anybody is interested. The Keim meeting will be sponsored by the Future Farmers of America organization of Ord high school and will be held at the high school auditorium at 2:00 p. m., Thursday, March 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Rose and Tom Williams of Burwell were Grand Island visitors Tuesday.

ROE NEW HEAD CORN-HOG WORK IN VALLEY CO.

Elected to Succeed Cushing When Committee Organizes; Signing 30 Days Ahead.

S. W. Roe, Enterprise township farmer, Thursday was elected president of the Valley County Corn-Hog Reduction association to succeed Repr. Marion J. Cushing, who had charge of the work last year. Charles E. Veleba has been chosen vice-president, C. C. Dale secretary and H. B. Thompson treasurer.

Arthur Mensing was reelected to membership on the county allotment committee and Fred Meyer was chosen an alternate member. Officers of the association also serve as members of this committee. Fiscal committee members elected Thursday are David D. Arnold and M. B. Cummins.

With formation of the county association, the 1935 corn-hog program will get under way in earnest in a Valley county. Contract signing has been going on for some time and Monday it was announced that so far 876 farmers have signed applications. The work is at least 30 days ahead of last year, as only 950 contracts were signed in 1934 and it is thought that considerably more than this number will be signed this year.

Township corn-hog committees were elected at meetings held in school houses over Valley county last Wednesday evening. Committees are as follows:

- Arcadia—E. F. Thompson, chairman; Fred Russell, U. G. Evans, Davis Creek—M. B. Cummins, chairman; J. J. Skala, R. E. Postel, Enterprise—S. W. Roe, chairman; E. G. Bremer, O. E. Collins, Eureka—Jos. Rousek, chairman; Carl H. Treptow, Joe Masin, Elyria—W. E. Dodge, chairman; Chas. Sobon, Ben Augustak, Genium—Frank Sestak, chairman; J. V. Suchanek, Rudolph Krahulik, Independent—E. O. Schudler, chairman; Murray Rich, Clifford Collins, Liberty—Ed Stone, chairman; Joseph Kamarad, Anton Radl, Michigan—Charles E. Veleba, chairman; Frank Rybin, Raymond Grabowski, Noble—Arthur Mensing, chairman; Anton J. Adamek, Henry Jorgensen, Ord—Evet Smith, chairman; George Nay, George Zikmund, Springfield—David Arnold, chairman; Wm. Ollis, Elmer Vergin, North Loup—Fred Meyer, chairman; G. A. Barnhart, J. P. Jorgensen, Vinton—H. B. Thompson, chairman; Ben W. Mason, J. S. Vodehnal, Yalo—Don Rounds, chairman; Ray Lutz, Ross Evans.

Chairmen of the township committees serve as members of the county committee and they convened in Ord Thursday to elect officers as listed above. The county committee also adopted a budget of $7,950 for 1935, this being about $1,000 less than was spent in administrative work last year. It was decided that committee supervisors and the treasurer shall draw $4.00 per day for their work, the head clerk Charles Clark shall draw $4.00 per day, office assistants shall be paid 30c per hour, contract writers $3.00 per day and the secretary $25 per month.

Farmers who expect to sign 1935 corn-hog contracts are asked to do so at once, so appraisal work by township committees may get under way. Those who did not sign applications at the township meetings may do so at the county agent's office in Ord. A closing date for application signing will be fixed by Washington authorities and applications may be signed up to this date, after which no more will be accepted. It is stressed that no corn loans will be made this year except to contract signers.

Mrs. Stanton's Sale. Mrs. Myrtle Stanton has rented her farm and will hold a cleanup sale of her personal property on Thursday, March 7. A complete list of her offering will be found on another page of this paper. Mrs. Stanton expects to go to Washington and visit her sister, Mrs. Thomas Lancaster, as soon as she gets her business affairs in shape.

Attends Drug Convention. Tuesday morning Ed Beranek drove to Lincoln to attend a convention of druggists of Nebraska. He is also visiting his son, Floyd, a student at the state university, and will return home today.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Michalek and Mrs. Jerry Petaka drove to Grand Island last Tuesday. From there Mr. Michalek went to Omaha and attended a convention of Grunow dealers, returning Thursday. The ladies came home last Tuesday evening, stopping in Coteaufield to see relatives of Mrs. Michalek.

The Golka Sale. Joe Golka, who is advertising a public sale for March 5, has gained considerable of a reputation as a horseman and his sale at this time is largely a horse sale. A complete list of his offering will be found on another page of this paper.

Mrs. F. E. Storer, formerly Miss Nellie Ferguson of Ord, has been spending the winter with her late husband's people in Pomona, Calif. On her return trip to Washington, D. C., she will visit in Omaha and with her sister, Mrs. C. C. Shepard, Ord.

Charles Mostek Is Back in Ingleside After Brief Liberty. Charles Mostek, farmer of the Davis Creek vicinity, was back in Ingleside hospital Saturday after several weeks of liberty. Committed to the state hospital some months ago by the Valley county insanity commission, Mr. Mostek recovered his mental health rapidly and soon was assigned to the dairy farm at the hospital. In January, anxious to see home folk, he took "French leave" but because his condition had improved so markedly Ingleside officials made no immediate effort to cause his return. Last week he suffered another mental attack, drove Mrs. Mostek and their son from the house with his threats, and as a result they appealed to county officers for protection. Friday afternoon Sheriff George Round and Deputy Sheriff Archie Keep brought Mr. Mostek to Ord and communicated with Ingleside attendants, who came after Mostek Saturday.

Dr. Nay to Kirksville. About March 1 Dr. Lee C. Nay and his mother, Mrs. Robert Nay, are leaving for Kirksville, Mo., where Dr. Nay will undergo examination and medical treatment. He has been ill for several months with heart trouble. Later he and his mother plan to go to California for an extended stay. The office of Drs. Nay and Nay is being moved to the Nay residence and Dr. Zeta Nay will remain in charge.

Quiz Reporter For 21 Years Is Resigning. Mrs. Florence Chapman Retires As News Gatherer This Week; Long in Newspaper Work. After being identified with Ord newspapers for almost 40 years and serving as Quiz reporter continuously for the past 21 years, Mrs. Florence Chapman this week severed her connection with the Quiz. She will continue to live in Ord and, relieved of the task of gathering and writing several columns of news items every week, plans to "take life easy."

Mrs. Chapman first became a member of the Quiz staff when only 14 years old, being employed as a typesetter by W. W. Haskell, then the Quiz publisher, in the days before linotypes were known. She learned to set type when she had to stand on a box to reach the type case, Mrs. Chapman recalls. She continued to work for the Quiz while attending high school, using money thus earned for the purchase of books and clothing. Employment with J. H. Capron and Horace M. Davis on other Ord newspapers followed and 21 years ago Mrs. Chapman again was employed by Publisher Haskell, this time as reporter for the Quiz. She has continued in this occupation ever since and her association with Mr. Haskell and his successor, H. D. Leggett, was mutually pleasurable.

For years, before automobiles and busses became the chief methods of travel for Ordites, Mrs. Chapman "made the trains" daily in all kinds of weather. In recent years she has gathered most of the Quiz news by telephone. Few newspapers in Nebraska publish as many local and personal items as the Quiz and practically all such items have been written by Mrs. Chapman.

The management of the Quiz hates to lose Mrs. Chapman and two weeks ago when she announced her intention of resigning every effort was made to dissuade her. She remained firm in her resolve, however, and quits work with today's issue, most of the items in which were written by her. No successor to Mrs. Chapman has been employed as yet and for the present an effort will be made to handle all news through the regular office staff, which was augmented a few weeks ago by Miss Audrey Mella as office girl. Mrs. B. C. Leggett will help with news writing for a few weeks until a new system of news gathering can be developed. Quiz readers will confer a favor upon this newspaper if they will telephone any items they know about to 17, our office number. Some member of the staff will be at the telephone constantly to answer calls and write stories that are telephoned in.

Dr. Elwood Mead, head of the federal reclamation bureau, will visit Nebraska "within two weeks" to make a personal inspection of the proposed North and Middle Loup power and irrigation projects, was the statement made to reporters in Washington, D. C., last Friday by Harry Coffee, 5th district congressman. Nebraska daily newspapers printed Congressman Coffee's statement Saturday but no more definite news of the proposed visit had been received up to yesterday by Bert M. Hardenbrook, president of the North Loup district. Under the reclamation bureau many of the largest irrigation projects in the United States were developed, notably the Pathfinder dam project in western Nebraska, and projects of similar magnitude in Idaho and other states. In Congr. Coffee's statement to the press said that Dr. Mead has recommended appropriation of $10,000 to "study and survey" the two Loup projects. What significance may be attached to Dr. Mead's proposed visit is not exactly clear to local power and irrigation enthusiasts. Ever since the North and Middle Loup projects were proposed an effort has been made to keep them before the PWA and away from the reclamation bureau, as the latter has never developed such projects without demanding issuance of general obligation bonds as security for money advanced. N. T. Veatch, jr., engineer for the North Loup, with whom President Hardenbrook conferred in Lincoln last Wednesday, had no hint of this new development but was very hopeful of securing PWA approval for the North Loup project immediately. He has had two conferences with Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior and head of the PWA, and has an appointment with him on March 1, when he will be accompanied by Senator George W. Norris. Engineer Veatch was hopeful of securing definite approval at this conference. There are so many different angles to the situation and so many political cross-currents that local officials do not know exactly how the project stands at present. What can be accomplished by an inspection by Dr. Mead, when the project has been surveyed by army engineers and by Black & Veatch and inspected by the Nebraska advisory board and by special PWA representatives from Washington, cannot be surmised here. All data resulting from these surveys and inspections is now on file in Washington, President Hardenbrook points out, and no new information can possibly be secured by Dr. Mead or by another survey. North Loup district officials are inclined to place more hope in Engineer Veatch's conference tomorrow with Secretary Ickes and the PWA authorities than in Dr. Mead's proposed visit, even though the latter is known to favor irrigation where power may be developed to share the cost. "Let's wait and see what happens" was the policy of President Hardenbrook and other officials yesterday.

DR. ELWOOD MEAD WILL INSPECT 2 LOUP PROJECTS

Dr. Elwood Mead, head of the federal reclamation bureau, will visit Nebraska "within two weeks" to make a personal inspection of the proposed North and Middle Loup power and irrigation projects, was the statement made to reporters in Washington, D. C., last Friday by Harry Coffee, 5th district congressman. A CHANCE FOR BUECHLER.

After traveling over the so-called highway between Grand Island and St. Paul twice in recent weeks, we can see a golden opportunity for Gus Buechler, a chance for him to devote his energy and ability to a better purpose than lambasting the Tri-County project. Gus, why not put on a campaign to get this highway paved?

While the graveled highway from Ord to St. Paul is usually in pretty good shape it has been several years since the St. Paul-Grand Island link could be considered a good road. Usually it is so rough, so dusty that it is anything but a pleasure to travel it. We're sure Grand Island business interests must lose trade because of this road.

Why not enlist Dave Traill in the fight, Gus, and get busy?

THE SENATE'S MISTAKE.

Certain United States senators mistake the temper of a large majority of people when they insist upon inserting the McCarran amendment providing for payment of "prevailing wage rates" into the gigantic public works appropriation bill. President Roosevelt is right in his stand—this amendment should not be permitted to prevail.

The only excuse for appropriation of 5 billions of dollars to give employment to 10 1/2 million workmen now on relief. They must either be given work or given a dole. The former is to be preferred but the country owes only a decent living wage, not affluence to the unemployed.

Of course the McCarran amendment would not have a harmful effect in communities like this. As we understand it, this amendment would require payment to PWA workers of the wages prevailing in this community for common labor, probably 35c per hour at most. But what about communities where union labor is all-powerful and fixes prevailing wages? In such places should PWA laborers be paid $1.00 per hour or more, as union men are paid?

The rank and file of the country will back President Roosevelt in his stand. The McCarran amendment should be defeated.

THE CHILD LABOR ACT.

Our good friend Ernest Coats sees in the proposed child labor amendment a menace to the farmer. In a letter to the Quiz Forum department a couple of weeks ago, Ernest became eloquent in his defense of a farmer's right to put his sons to work on the farm at an early age and expressed his opinion that ratification of the child labor law will in some mysterious manner prevent him from doing so. He also intimated that, since child labor conditions vary so greatly in the different states, the question should be handled by state rather than by federal legislation.

The editor of the Quiz, after giving considerable study to the proposal, is forced to differ with Mr. Coats in almost every particular. In the first place, the proposed constitutional amendment does not in itself set up any provisions or limitations upon child labor but merely gives Congress power to do so at its discretion. The text of the proposed amendment says:

Section 1. Congress shall have power to limit, regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years of age.

Section 2. The power of the several states is unimpaired by this article except that the operation of state laws shall be suspended to the extent necessary to give effect to legislation enacted by Congress.

It is conceivable that, under the broad authority vested in it by this amendment, Congress would have the power to pass child labor laws that would prevent a farm boy doing chores on his father's farm or a girl washing the dishes or sweeping the floors to help her mother. Many opponents of the amendment pretend to think that Congress would do so but does any sensible person, realizing that Congressmen are elected to do the bidding of their constituents, really believe that these Congressmen would enact legislation that would be so unpopular and intolerable? Such an objection to a humanitarian measure like the child labor amendment is plainly unavailing.

On this phase of the question Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, says: "Coming from an agricultural state I am familiar with the attempts of opponents to arouse farmers against it on the ground that farm boys and girls would no longer be permitted to help with the chores and that the parents' authority over their children would be seriously impaired. Of course this is nonsense and every fair-minded person who knows anything at all about the amendment knows that it is nonsense." President Roosevelt and Senator George W. Norris have spoken similarly.

Mr. Coats' second suggestion, that child labor laws should be the exclusive affair of the several states because conditions vary in those states, also is unsound. Had such an argument been permitted to prevail in 1860, slavery would still be in existence in the southern states and the Civil war would never have been fought.

It is true that several farm organizations are fighting the proposed amendment, mistakenly, the Quiz editor believes. Several influential and patriotic organizations are fighting for it, notably the League of Women Voters, the American Legion, the Federation of Women's Clubs, the National Education association, the W. C. T. U., the Y. M. C. A., the American Federation of Labor, and dozens of others.

Twenty-two states have ratified the child labor amendment. The ratification of 14 more are needed before it becomes a part of the constitution. Nebraska should ratify it, this editor sincerely believes.

Some poultrymen buy commercial chick feed while others mix their own. It is difficult to say which practice is best.

Good commercial chick feeds supply all the necessary nutrients for the young chicks. They are easier to secure, and more convenient to feed than home made rations. The tendency among chick raisers is toward more commercial feeds.

On the other hand, home-mixed feeds are cheaper, and the quality and quantity of their ingredients is known. The saving per bird may be small, since a chick only eats about three pounds during the first two months, but the total savings in large flocks may be considerable.

A simple all mash chick mixture is listed below. It gives excellent results when green feed is added to the ration.

Yellow Cornmeal	4 parts
Shorts	2 parts
Bran	2 parts
Meat scrap or tankage	1 part

The above formula is somewhat better, but more complicated. It may be used for either growing chicks or laying hens.

Cornmeal	390 lbs.
Bran	100 lbs.
Shorts or gr. wheat	200 lbs.
Gr. oats or barley	100 lbs.
Alfalfa meal	50 lbs.
Meat meal	125 lbs.
Dried buttermilk	25 lbs.
Salt	10 lbs.

The mash can be fed alone, but a better practice is to feed some grain with it after the birds get older. Skimmilk may be substituted for the dried buttermilk. Greer feed is important. Cod liver oil, at the rate of one pint to one hundred pounds of mash, is useful in preventing leg weakness, and in promoting health.

CARE OF COUNTY BOARD

By George Gowen

Mr. Leggett was kind enough to mail me an inside sheet of a Northville, Minnesota paper, published in a town, I gathered, of about the same size as Ord. He sent it to show me a column a person by the name of Tergerous Tim wrote, which always has interested Homer, and likewise was interesting to me.

It was a much longer column than this, and dwelt a good deal on politics, prohibition, church and the farmers troubles. I am grateful for anything of the kind that might help me make my strip better.

There was a paragraph that particularly appealed to me. It seems that Huey Long has decreed that a rich man can never enter the Kingdom of Heaven, and he reads Scriptures to prove the point. Our friend Tim then dopes it out with beautiful phrases picturesque and illustrative how all us farmers are hitled without question into the Pearly Gates, for none of us are predestined to ever be rich. And further we can look across the Jordan, or down into the depths of Hell and see all those rich men, who have been twisting the thumb screws down on us so hard, sizzle.

I suppose if he should choose to live on baby chickens and fresh eggs next summer, that would be all right too.

I have been a little reluctant to attempt anything in the editorial or serious line, in the first place not feeling mentally capable, second, thinking that the duty of the editors, and third enjoying more dashing off (what I think) humorous and entertaining paragraphs. However, occasionally, in a moment of profligacy, I burst forth, and try to save the world, and as yet none of these outbursts have been scratched out.

Stark tragedy occurred at our place about six weeks ago. A very nice sleek cat, although at that time no nicer than the seven others, became crippled for life. One cold night, as we were closing the barn door from the outside, the cat jumped on the inside to get out and was caught by one front foot where the top and bottom door fold together.

There he hung all night and was not discovered until morning. When he was liberated he ran and hid and remained in seclusion for several days licking his crushed and frozen paw.

The thought of the accident haunted both Jim the hired man who had actually closed the door, and I. "I would have rather killed the cat," he said. "If he ever comes back I shall kill him to get him out of his misery."

After several days the cat did return. His foot was very sore and he stayed afraid to keep from being bumped. Jim saw him. "There he is," he exclaimed. "The poor devil. I will bet he is hungry." Carefully and caressingly so as not to hurt him more, Jim picked the cat up and carried him to the house.

A soft bed was made in the wood shed low down so he would not have to jump. A dish of warm milk and pancakes was his feast.

"I thought you were going to kill him," I inquired.

"I s'pect I better after while, but I thought I'd give him a good meal so he can go to Heaven on a full stomach."

Every day there was a new excuse for not killing the cat until to-morrow, and every day he received the best food and care. We all became attached to our patient. Sometimes when his foot was bumped he would stand on his hind legs and cry with pain, and still we could not muster courage to end it all.

Now he is a three legged cat, but by all odds the favorite of the feline family. He receives all the special favors granted cats, at our house, such as a few extra squirts of milk on his back to lick, an ex-

I have a gastronomical yearning for lemon pie. So seldom do we have a lemon, or the money to buy one, my wife substitutes the following: 2 cups of buttermilk, 2 egg yolks, scant cup of sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, pinch of salt, teaspoon of lemon extract. This she cooks in a double boiler until the goop thickens and then pours it in a baked pie shell. The egg whites are used to make the froth.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORHOOD

The North Loup Community club elected new officers recently. George Hutchins being elected president to succeed R. H. Knapp. E. C. Hurley vice-president and Wm. Vodehnal secretary. The Hugo Bros. show has been employed to give Saturday night performances in North Loup, starting March 2. By edging out Rockville, 29 to 26, Litchfield won the Sherman county basketball championship recently. Litchfield won last year, also.

Farmers in Sherman and Custer counties last week were just getting their second corn-hog payments. About $90,000 was paid out in Sherman county; about $263,000 in Custer.

Jack Jefford, who recently opened a flying school in Ord, now has three schools in three other towns, Broken Bow, Burwell and St. Paul. He has a total of 29 students in the four towns. One of his Broken Bow students, Ira Headley, made a solo flight last week after having taken only six lessons. This was almost a national record, as nobody ever made his first solo flight with less than five lessons.

Solomon Rickner, 114 years old, celebrated his birthday at St. Paul recently. Rickner is the oldest Nebraskan and is believed to be the oldest man in the United States. His health is excellent. The NBC "cheer" program on the NBC network dedicated its time to him on the morning of his birthday.

My Own Column

Some folks do a lot of worrying because holders of government, railroad and other industrial bonds marked "payable in gold" have to be satisfied with same kind of money that the rest of us have to accept. But they never worry because the farmer has seen his holdings shrink seventy-five percent in value. Sounds silly to me. If the farmers can get on their feet and make money again we will all be able to do some business and make some money, too.

Governor Cochran wants the auto owners of Nebraska to pay all the state's share for extending aid to the unfortunate. Then there is a bill likely to be made into law, foisting upon us a state wide police force which it is admitted will cost at least a half million and it is proposed to have the auto owners pay that expense, also. I am wondering just how much the auto owner can stand.

Sure I think the needy should be cared for, just as good as they have been, better if possible. They must be cared for, but there is just one fair way to do it and that is to divide the cost among all the people according to their wealth. Look Valley county over; make a list of the richest people, the people who have the most property. Some of them don't even own a car and most of them who do, use it very little. On the other hand seventy-five percent of the people who have a car, have very little else. They need the car to use in making their living, yet it is proposed to make them pay all of the cost of extending aid to the needy and most, if not all of the cost of a state wide police force, all because it is easy to get it that way. It is sure-as-hell unfair.

A Burwell man who is ill, got disgusted with his doctor and called a couple of others. They didn't agree with the diagnosis of the first Dr. and when taken to task about it by the patient, the family Dr. replied cheerfully, "Well, never mind, the postmortem will show which is right."

Women used to have to do their washing and cleaning by hand. Now electric appliances do the work, the women having to do little more than press a button; yet I don't see as women are any healthier than they were then.

A legislator told me Friday in Lincoln that he was in favor of the proposed state police because the officers would be under a civil service rule and would not have to campaign all the time for votes, but could do their duty regardless of whose toes were stepped on.

It is going to make a pretty sweet political machine when the new postal legislation is passed and the present administration gets the offices all filled with democrat postmasters under civil service and when the state police bill is made into law and the democrats get the state policemen, all democrats, named and safe for life under a civil service rule. Those with ten or fifteen million, or dole or relief ought to make the country safe for the democrats and a republican, if any, will have to watch his step.

I attended a public hearing in Lincoln the other evening, on the liquor question and heard a college professor bemoan the fact that the proposed liquor law was going to force Lincoln and other dry areas to have saloons whether they wanted them or not. A friend solemnly assured me that good liquor could be purchased by anyone having the price, in most if not all Lincoln drug stores and in many other places. So, Lincoln already has plenty of saloons.

The trend against tobacco is unquestionably the reaction to a series of cigaret advertising, seduction in its appeal to the young, and feminine and the uninformed, but positively abhorrent to men who know the effects of nicotine. The following from the pen of Doyle Buckles, editor of the Alliance Times-Herald and President of the Nebraska Press Association is most timely—Fred Howard in Clay County Sun.

One of the most asinine habits man or woman can acquire is the cigaret habit. As a thief of time it rates with the opium or wormwood habit. Smoking is almost suicidal in the case of the expectant mother as will be revealed in coming generations. . . . and the man who can't draw a breath of God's precious air without mixing it with the carbon monoxide of tobacco is in a pitiable condition. As the smoker rounds 40 he acquires palpitation of the heart, labored breathing, almost complete failure of digestion and as he grows weaker the habit grows stronger until a little attack of flu or pneumonia tips him over and the mourners drop work for an hour to pay a little gesture of respect to a damphool who should have known better.

Thus two authorities speak. Both are prominent and well known among newspaper people over this and a surrounding states. Mr. Buckles is known to many Quiz readers, as a few years ago, he was the editor of an Ord newspaper. Both are constant users of tobacco.

Former president Hoover is hopeful that he will be drafted to run for president by the republicans next year. He won't. In an interview the other day he said that the only thing that would bring back prosperity and employment, would be a return to the gold standard. He seems to forget that we were on the gold standard when he was president and that we got into the present fix while under his administration and the gold standard; that under him and the gold standard we were getting continually worse off while he was saying for two years or more that prosperity was just around the corner, yet we got worse off all the time. Personally I would rather try Huey Long than Hoover if Roosevelt falls.

A pretty girl got onto a loaded Omaha street car the other day, and after hanging onto a strap a moment, she said, "I wish that handsome gentleman would give me his seat. Col. Weller was on the car and was one of a dozen men to hurriedly get up and offer his seat."

I believe this talk about the managed dollar is all bunk. I think the dollar has been managed right along. We all remember a few years ago, we could get all the money we wanted. Anyone could go to the bank and borrow money. The banks could send back east and borrow as much money as they could loan and they did it. We were all going good. Then someone higher up ordered all the country banks to pay their loans. The only way they could do it was to make Tom, Dick and Harry out on the farms and running feed lots, pay their debts. The only way they could pay was by selling the cattle and other chattels they had given as security and they proceeded to do so. This glutted the market and prices for stock tumbled and pretty soon this stock could not be sold for enough to pay the bank. Farm land had been given on the basis of upwards of a hundred dollars an acre. Of course when live stock would no longer sell for enough to pay the mortgage on it, farm lands had to drop and pretty soon the lands would not sell for enough to pay the mortgage for several years. If the men at the top knew enough to be where they were, they should have known just what would happen if they persisted in their course. The trouble apparently was, that it got away from them and went further than was intended. Most of the little fellows at the bottom got wiped out and some of the big boys at the top were spread out so thin that it got them too. If that isn't a managed money I don't know what is.

Herry Geweke asked the waiter at a Grand Island cafe the other day, "Take his baked potatoes and bring him some mashed spuds. He said he wanted to mix them with his peas so they wouldn't roll off his knife so."

I was in Lincoln Friday and I noticed the other diner smiled when I tucked my napkin into the collar of my shirt but some of them got gravy on their ties and I didn't. You just can't make any time with soup and sauce and such things if you got to be careful.

Eugene and I got into Lincoln about 5:30 so we hurried up to Senator Blessing's room and he almost had to ask us to be his guests for supper. You always eat more at the evening meal, so I asked him to have breakfast with me and all he could use was a little cream of wheat and dry toast. The joke is on him.

But if any of you think a legislator is not busy you have got another guess coming. Senator Blessing had two committee meetings the evening I was there and it was late when we got away from the last one and he had to be right on the job the next morning. This is his first term and he is not in the limelight like Representative Cushing is, but he is having a lot of influence just the same. I had a nice visit with Cushing Friday morning but the big excitement in the house came after I had to leave for home. Mr. Cushing is one of the busiest men in the legislature.

outlaying gold as money in the United States and invalidating "gold clauses" in private contracts. The Supreme court's decision is all the more important and gratifying, because every American knows that no consideration outside the letter of the Constitution could have influenced Chief Justice Hughes or his associates.

The Supreme court decision disposes of the statement that President Roosevelt's administration has been proceeding "regardless of the Constitution." The decision will be reassuring to business and the public generally.

From every point of view the beheading of women by Mr. Hitler's government seems to have been a painfully disgusting performance. The women's hands were bound with steel chains—in fear, perhaps, that they might bite through strings or straps. The agile headman, in full dress, cut off both heads in six minutes. The women were beheaded out of doors in the night, just before dawn, with floodlights for the headman's work.

Witnesses of the killings praise the composure of the two women. Each walked to her death erect, wrists chained behind her, showing no sign of fear. An eyewitness said: "They set a good example to our men, whom we usually have to drag to the scaffold."

You have read about "war with germs" in the next great outburst. India proves that it could be done. At Allipore two are condemned to death, convicted of "germ murder." As rich Amarendra Nath Pandey walked along the street he felt a sharp stab. He cried out. A germ poisoner had injected plague germs into his blood. Amarendra died. His murderers were his stepbrother and his doctor. Two other doctors, accused, were acquitted.

A well-organized germ war could be disagreeable, distributing disease germs above great cities and in reservoirs from planes. At Leyden, in Holland, scientists have produced a degree of cold said to approach within one five-hundredth of a degree of absolute zero. A gigantic electro-magnet, in combination with liquid helium, produces the lowest temperature ever known on earth.

The lowest possible degree of cold, the absolute zero, would be minus 273 degrees centigrade, or minus 459.6 Fahrenheit. At least science thinks so. It used to call the atom "smallest fragment of matter."

Science needs "absolute zero" to help in tearing apart the atom, now known to be a miniature solar system.

Doctor Steinhach of Vienna, whose business has been transplanting glands of lower animals to the bodies of men, to prolong youth and extend the years of possible parentage, announces now a "chemical substance" that makes transplanting glands unnecessary. The chemical, called progynon, possibly a compound of "progeny," is available for men or women.

Henry Ford views money philosophically as merely an abstract "indefinite, incoherent homogeneity," as Herbert Spencer might have called it. Mr. Cameron, broadcasting, mentioned casually the fact that Mr. Ford in one year lost $68,000,000.

When this writer asked Henry Ford what was the most money he had lost in any year while "changing type" and reorganizing, he replied: "I didn't lose any money. I only distributed some money."

It has been customary at executions in New Jersey state prison to admit relatives of a murdered man, that they may witness the killing of the murderer; very considerate, if relatives of one murdered really desire to see the murderer as he sits in the chair, straining against the straps and frothing behind the mask. It is safe to predict that Colonel Lindbergh will reject the invitation to see Hauptmann put to death for the kidnaping and murder of his child. That is probably not Colonel Lindbergh's idea of a pleasant sight.

James A. Moffett, federal housing administrator, says the country is out of the depression but does not know it. In the West he "found business conditions definitely improved."

NAPOLEON AND UNCLE ELBY

By CLIFFORD McBRIDE

FOR
AND Honesty

IT HAS become a revered custom on Washington's birthday to take a moment's halt in the rushing tides of modern events and to find fresh inspiration in recalling to mind the ideals, the warnings, the hopes and the visions with which he, in the serenity, the courage, the sincerity of purpose and the unbiased judgment that were characteristic of his public career, launched the newly liberated nation of colonial states in the troubled and uncertain waters upon which it was venturing and delivered it into the custody of his successors in the trust. Clearly beyond the confusions of succeeding political dynasties, observes a writer in the Kansas City Star, stands out the personality of this first President and his utterances of hope and warning seem as significant and potent today.

A great, a solitary figure, a symbol of the cause for which he fought,

Here, with the means of acquiring the liberal knowledge necessary to qualify our citizens for the exigencies of public as well as private life.

"The more I am acquainted with agricultural affairs, the better pleased I am with them. I am led to reflect how much more delightful to an undebauched mind is the task of making improvements on the earth, than in the vain glory which can be acquired from raving it by a career of conquests."

"This government, the offspring of our own choice, uninfluenced and unswayed, adopted upon full investigation and mature deliberation, completely free in its principles, in the distribution of its powers, uniting security with energy, and containing within itself a provision for its own amendment, has a just claim to your confidence and your support."

"Towards the preservation of your government and the permanency of your present happy state, it is requisite, not only that you discountenance oppositions to its acknowledged authority, but also that you resist with care the spirit of innovation upon its principles, however specious the pretexes."

"It is our true policy to steer clear of permanent alliances with any portion of the foreign world; so far, I mean, as we are at liberty to do it; for let me not be understood as capable of patronizing infidelity to existing engagements. I hold the maxim no less applicable to public than to private affairs, that honesty is always the best policy."

"Harmony and a liberal intercourse with all nations are recommended by policy, humanity and interest. But even our commercial policy should hold an impartial hand, neither seeking nor granting exclusive favors or preferences, consulting the natural course of things, diffusing and diversifying, by gentle means, the streams of commerce, but forcing nothing."

"Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports. . . . It is substantially true that virtue or morality is a necessary spring of popular government. The rule, indeed, extends with more or less force to every species of free government."

"Promote then as an object of primary importance institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge. In proportion as the structure of a government gives force to public opinion, it is essential that public opinion should be enlightened."

"As a very important source of strength and security, cherish public credit. One method of preserving it is to use it as sparingly as possible, avoiding occasions of expense by cultivating peace, but remembering also that timely disbursements to prepare for danger frequently prevent much greater disbursements to repel it."

"Observe good faith and justice towards all nations; cultivate peace and harmony with all; religion and morality enjoin this conduct; and can it be that good policy does not equally enjoin it? It will be worthy of a free, enlightened and, at no distant period, a great nation, to give to mankind the magnanimous and too novel example of a people always guided by an exalted justice and benevolence."

He Wrote to His Friend Benjamin Harrison.

a personification of the constitutional foundations upon which he helped to place his conceptions of an ideal democratic government, he stands out at the head of the long line of presidential leaders an enduring inspiration even to the present day.

Let us recall some of his words, midst our world trouble and misunderstandings, written to his friend, Benjamin Harrison:

"My first wish is to see war, this plague to mankind, banished from off the earth."

"Of all the animosities which have existed among mankind, those which are caused by difference of sentiments in religion appear to me the most inveterate and distressing and ought to be deprecated. I was in hopes that the enlightened and liberal policy which has marked the present age would at least have reconciled Christians of every denomination so far that we should never again see their religious disputes carried to such a pitch as to endanger the peace of society."

"It has always been a source of serious reflection and sincere regret to me that the youth of the United States should be sent to foreign countries for the purpose of education. I have greatly wished to see a plan adopted by which the arts, sciences and belles lettres could be taught to their fullest extent

Mrs. Ign. Gzinski and son spent Friday evening at Alfred Jorgensen's.

Florence Palser spent the weekend with home folks, returning to her work at Ben Nelson's, Sunday.

Misses Della and Dora Eglehoff and Mabel Wheatcraft were hostesses Wednesday to the United Brethren ladies aid society at the basement.

Wm. Neuman helped Art Matottke make a wood saw frame last week and they tried it out Friday sawing wood at Art's.

"REG'LAR FELLERS"

The Work Sheet

By GEORGE GOWEN
"The Roving Reporter"

A slight error in geography was made when I said Jess Waller hailed from Missouri. He called to me on the street the other day and told me it was not Missouri but Kentucky. Well, I pondered, "Kentucky is just over the line isn't it?" And he replied scratching over his ear, "The two states just kinda kiss each other is all." But anyway I knew he was from somewhere, by his twang and that somewhere happened to be the state of blue men. They have nothing on Valley county for beautiful women if I do say so.

Seeing Art Lange in the yard I stopped first at his place. He is a subscriber and his wife started to say she had read the Quiz for a million years, and then caught herself, and said for a long time. I thought the two times were more or less synonymous. He has a new truck, but dickers in all sorts of things, and Fafelta says he would say Art is a huckster.

Turning in next at Geo. Maxson's, I found Geo. gone. (Is that correct?) Anyway I found his wife and we sunned ourselves on the back step and talked over all the papers in the universe. Fern always had a little yearning to scribble she says, but never did. I tried to encourage her by saying if I could get paid for writing this kind of junk I couldn't see why she might not sell something that would be worth reading.

Fern was one of our girls, that is, she use to work for my folks in those good old days before the war. On and across the road to Mark McCall's. He has a bunch of Jerseys that eat more than they give milk, Mrs. McCall says. It keeps Mark a humping to get feed for them, but she hopes by spring things will be better. They use to raise a lot of chickens but someone else got the chickens while she and her family slept. She says they could at least identify the cows. Anyway, those Jerseys looked like mighty nice cows, and also looked wistful like as if it is not their fault there is no feed in the country.

On west and turning in at Russell Kasson's. We sat on the east side of the barn and chatted about many things. He says he would sure like to take the Quiz, but hard times have bore down with too much vengeance. They have a dandy flock of B. I. Red chickens, more of a sanguine or mahogany color than red. They had a hundred, but 40 disappeared one dark night, the same as McCall's.

Across the road to Ed Lee's. He had just left to make preparations to shell after dinner. It was a good thing for Ed and I have long been the best of friends, and if he was there I might not get any more calls made that day, or his shelling done. Clarence and I chinned each other a few minutes, and Russell K. came over to drive his wandering calves home. He was too polite to leave while I was at the place.

On west to the top of Watt's hill. Floyd had gone to the river to cut wood, but Mrs. Wetzel was there. They have some fine White Jersey Giant chickens. She said they are all culled and blood tested to sell eggs for setting and it surely was a fine flock. She said they raised 600 chickens last year, (300 pullets) and from this bunch they culled cut and kept only 85. No won-—Saturday Mrs. B. Brickner returned home after several weeks stay with relatives in Ohio and other eastern states.

—Mrs. Cecil Clark and son Arden were ill for a few days. Mrs. Clark could scarcely speak above a whisper.

—Earl C. Brink of Grand Island, a piano tuner, has been in Ord, Burwell and nearby places for a few days. He had been ill and unable for some time to make the trip.

—Mrs. Charles Mayo was visiting in Grand Island and North Loup and in Ord with her daughter, Mrs. Otis Hughes. She spent a few days here last week and then returned to her home near Sargent.

—Mrs. Mamie Wear came home Saturday after a few days visit in Omaha and Council Bluffs, Ia. Before returning to Nebraska she spent several months in Long Beach and other places in California.

—Mrs. Paul Miller and two daughters and Miss Alyce Seerley came from Grand Island Friday. Mr. Miller came to Ord Saturday. The Millers were visiting the Clarence Blessing family and Miss Seerley was a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Seerley.

der they were nice chickens. And Floyd knows his onions too when it comes to judging chickens.

Coasting down the hill and south into the yard of Riley Brannon. He had asked us the day before to plan to be at his place to dinner and bring the wife. We have long been church friends. They were long disappointed that only Dick and I presented ourselves, but my wife's arthritis was howling too hard to enjoy such a hagra.

Riley is a keeper of nice horses, but has had some bad luck with them in that both horses of his best team stepped into wire last year. Even at that he has a two year old there that is a beauty, and he has no intention of selling her. He has the nicest bunch of black faced ewes I have ever seen in a long time. He thinks he will have to sell them because he is short of pasture, and he nearly weeps alligator tears to think of it. He also has W. Giant chickens, and three nice turkeys.

A delicious repast awaited us, and we nearly over-ate. Riley has three of the nicest kids that ever lived, and one of them was sick and couldn't eat any of that whipped cream and cake.

On south to Leland Stillman's, where he and his father were building a new chicken coop. It was slow progress today. Too many boon friends. Art and I had to talk over world, county and city events before I could pull myself away and let them go to work. And the saddest part of it all was, my boy and Leland's boy had struck up a friendship by that time and had gone into the sand hauling business with their little wagon.

A deep mystery is ever on my mind just why those buildings were planted where they are. From their barn one can peek through a crevice of the hills and see the city, but not from the house. Like Topsy perhaps. The buildings just grew.

Back tracking west and across the road to Arnold Bredthauer's farm, where Albert Jacobsen lives and feeds cattle for his boss. Arnold has fixed the place up more livable, with a lot of repairs, new fences, and buildings. And Albert feeds the steers and can make them fat about as quickly as his boss does at home.

Turning south at the corner we scudded on down the grade. Lewis Karr lives off to the right on the old Rob Preston place. I turned in. The road appeared a little dubious. I hesitated a minute, and then tracks showed other cars had been in there. I forgot for a time that mine was the lowest one in the United States.

Straddling the old rods, we drove a few rods. The mud appeared perhaps a little worse ahead. I stopped and decided to back out while I could. As we started in reverse, we slipped, and began to plow, and in a minute were stuck. We worried there for some time.

We shoveled out from under, rocked back and forth, and a few times got to going but each time our car would pull in spite of us, into the soft dirt at the edge of the road.

Several teams drove by, including the road dragger time, each man looking our way, but no one offered to assist. I was a little disgusted and slightly mad, and proclaimed to Dick that they knew I was stuck and they should help me out without asking.

Finally John Boyce came along. He was moving on the Bresley place. With a tired team he yanked me out on terra firma in a minutes time. We struck up an immediate friendship, for we discovered both had long been good friends of Clarence. To show my appreciation I told him I would advance his subscription six months.

Passing up Karr for the day, and resolving not to attempt anything that even looked like mud again, we drove on south to Harold Stewart's. He lives on the McCune place, and works for Rube. He gets to work those fine horses Rube always keeps, and that alone would help a lot if I was looking for a job. Rube and V. W. Robbins frequently have a large number of horses there but they are nearly sold out the lady said.

On south over a hill and down again, and across a pasture to where Edgar Davis lives. Edgar was gone for which I was sorry, but his wife and I talked on the door step for a few minutes. These folks are more church cronies of ours. She was pretty discouraged, but I told her we all were discouraged and were all broke, and perhaps that helped us both a little. Misery loves company.

Becoming entangled in bank debt of an outsider, the debt which has rankled them for several years; getting hauled out year before last and dried out last year; those few troubles alone would sorta bring gloom into a household. In spite of that Edgar and his wife are dandy nice folks, and that is one asset the mortgagees can't take, anyway.

She has some Narragansett turkeys. Something a little different than I ever saw before, and she says the books say this breed are harder than the others.

Back north to the corner and east over a few piles of dirt the Creator neglected to rub down, and swinging to the back door of Arnold Molotke's. About the tiniest brown dog I ever saw greeted us gladly as we knocked at the door. We chatted a minute with Mrs. Arnold while the wind cut capers with the dust around and around the house. I asked her if the wind always blew that hard there and she laughed and replied, "It seems like it." Most assuredly, for the moment we were in the vortex.

Rolling up and down again to the east, we came to a stop at Mrs. Willis Taylor's. Art is trying to take the place of his Dad who died suddenly a month ago. The boy and I talked a few minutes out of the wind by the barn. I was keeping him from hauling manure, but usually when I attack that job I don't mind agents hanging around. They had some nice white hogs in a pen to the east of the house, and as far as I could see, every one was standing on his snoot, tearing up the sub-soil. I have often thought if we could just teach the hogs to harrow the ground afterwards, but that is a subject for Uncle Jake and the County Board.

On east and back south up a long lane that I was a little suspicious of being soft, but which was not, and into the yard of Bill Earnest's. He lives on the John Barnhart place, which was originally my grandfather's timber claim. Bill's three kids had just arrived home from school, and they and my boy struck an immediate friendship. I believe he is a better mixer all-ready than his Dad. Anyway, Mrs. Earnest said they take the sheet, and have been expecting us to come around.

Jim Vogeler was hauling some corn from there. He said he drove by just as I had been pulled out of the mud, and surely he wished he could have done it for the six months subscription, as they didn't take the paper. He said he would have pulled me out for nothing. We visited a minute about the cattle market, both of us weeping because we are sold out now.

Chas. Cress lives to the south and east, across country. Having passed him up last week, I decided now would be a good time to make amends. I should have driven the car around about two miles, and collected for it, as there was no pay offered for going a foot, but I scaled a few fences and hiked over there anyway.

No one seemed to be at home except a friendly dark brown dog that tugged at my tattered coat tail, not diminishing the tatters to any extent. Chas. has a nice place there, tucked back away from the road where agents don't venture quite so often. He has some of those pall-filler Guerneys, and some nice black horses, with white strips in their faces. I was sorry Charles was gone, for we usually have a good time laughing at each other's foolishness.

Hoofing it back to Bill's and hailing the boy into the car, we scurried toward town, meeting several teamsters returning home from their work. They had been earning money to buy feed to keep their few head of stock from starvation. On to town by five thirty, and, picking up a milk can at the cheese factory, we continued over the river and home again.

Stopping at the mail box and discovering a letter from the boss. He says to send in a few subscriptions if I get a chance, charging $2.00 a year, $1.00 for six months and three months for fifty cents.

Several have told me that I wrote up every place except Gowen's. Driving one-half mile east of the N. L. river bridge their home is straight north at the end of the road. A high windmill on a pinnacle to the right pumps water for the house and the many cattle he does not have at this time.

A bird's paradise, consisting of tall trees, redolent blossoms, sandy creeks, velvety blue grass, dark shady nooks, and windless sunny pockets, engraces the homestead to the north and west. A foot bridge spans the chasm between the house and barn. White Leghorns dot the landscape; a pair of strawberry roan mares nicker for a bite of grain; greenish, black whispering ducks hold a pow-wow and the sable and white Collie as a welcome, touches his cold nose to your hand.

No need to write up these folks, they get the paper anyway.

To Real Estate Owners

Since putting notice in the paper last week that the first half of real estate taxes would be delinquent March 1st, the legislature passed a bill making delinquent date May 1st. The first half should be paid before May 1st, the date they become delinquent and start drawing interest.

NEW FORD V-8

The Car Without Experiments

THERE'S never any doubt about value when you buy a Ford car. You know it's all right or Henry Ford wouldn't put it out. One thing that never changes is his policy of dependable transportation at low cost.

That's the biggest feature of the New Ford. The reliability and economy of its V-8 engine have been proved on the road by upwards of 1,400,000 motorists. Owner cost records show definitely that the Ford V-8 is the most economical Ford car ever built.

The Peak of Value . . . In Meat

Quality meat, fairly priced, represents the peak of value in food. In no other food product is found so little waste, so much energy. No other food is so completely digested by the normal individual. No other food is quite so well liked.

Don't let advancing meat prices keep you from eating meat as often as you want it. At this market we are hold prices to the minimum at which good meat can be sold. Meat is still the peak of value.

Temperatures hovered between 5 and 10 above zero during the course of the storm but Sunday night, with cessation of the wind, a drop to the zero mark was noted. Monday dawned fair and warmer, which speeded considerably the work of overcoming damage done by the storm.

Most people were content to remain indoors while the storm was at its height but two Ord physicians, called out by the serious illness of patients were snow-bound for a time. Dr. J. C. Krumi, called to North Loup Sunday evening to minister to Mrs. I. A. Manchester, who had suffered a stroke, had to shovel five miles of road to get through. He was accompanied by Everett Petty. They got to North Loup finally but were unable to return to Ord until almost noon Monday. Dr. H. N. Norris, called to Mira valley to attend Carl Koelling, was snow-bound from 1:00 until 6:00 near the Everett Boettger farm and froze his face and hands slightly when he walked to a farm house for help. He finally had to spend the night in the Boettger home.

When Mr. Koelling died, Orville Sowl's hearse was dispatched to the Koelling home after the body but enroute back to Ord snow sifted into coils in the magneto of the hearse's engine and the hearse was stalled, becoming snowed in before the trouble could be located. Mr. Sowl and his assistant, Jim Mortensen, had to spend the night in the George Boettger home, the body of Mr. Koelling being carried into the Boettger house for the night. A truck-load of shovelers dispatched from Ord to aid Sowl could not get through Sunday night.

Two Ord teachers, Misses Mildred Jacobsen and Pauline Gosard, went to Broken Bow Saturday to visit relatives of the former and had to come home by train Monday, roads between the Bow and Westerville being completely blocked. Another teacher, Miss Velma Crouch, drove back from Central City Sunday night but her ankles were slightly frozen when her car slipped off the road and she had to wade drifts to summon help.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller and their two small children, of Grand Island, had a terrifying experience Sunday night. They had been in Ord visiting Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Blessing, and started home Sunday afternoon. About six miles from Grand Island, blinded by snow, Miller drove his car into a ditch and could not pull out. Unable to see more than a few feet in any direction because of the drifting snow, Mr. and Mrs. Miller carried the children to a nearby school house and spent the night there. They were in the school house almost 14 hours. When skies cleared Monday morning they found they were within 200 yards of a farm house which they could not see Sunday afternoon because of the blinding storm.

The most formidable road blockade in the state was near York, daily newspaper reports say, and there Dr. George A. Parkins, who was enroute home from Lincoln, found himself snow-bound. He finally got back to Ord Tuesday. Earl Smith and family, who drove to Beaver Crossing Saturday, also had trouble near York the next day but finally got as far as St. Paul, where they were snow-bound.

Many other incidents of inconvenience and danger to travelers are reported.

Sunday's storm, while not as serious as some blizzards of former years, was the worst this winter. It presented another grave problem to farmers attempting to winter livestock on a minimum of feed, although fortunately of brief duration.

Moisture content of the snow was less than 1-4 of an inch. Observer Travis reports, so Valley county's winter drouth is still unbroken.

In Memory of James Hrdy

Who died February 28, 1934

The Golden Gates were opened wide,
A gentle voice said "Come!"
And the Angels from the other side,
Welcomed our loved one home.

You cannot say, you must not say,
That he is dead. He is just away,
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand,
He has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming, how very fair,
It needs must be, since he lingers there.

So think of him faring on . . . as dear,
In the love of Thee, as the love of Here . . .
Think of him still as the same . . .
. . . And say, he is not dead, he is just away.

By FRED J. MINDER

House and Senate as committees of the whole, began the big task of passing Governor Cochran's relief fund bill and a measure to set up machinery of administration of a fund in the state.

In the Senate, the bill that would levy an additional 1-cent on gasoline to raise $2,000,000 a year as the state's share to meet demands of the federal relief administration was advanced to third reading. By strict party vote, it was approved by two-thirds of the Senate, this being the majority it had to muster to pass with an emergency clause, so necessary to make it effective before March 1, the deadline date set by Washington officials.

In the House the "machinery" bill was a special order of business. Five democrats lined up with members of the republican faith when the House tabled a republican resolution severely criticizing the one-cent gasoline tax proposed by Cochran for relief purposes, and called upon members to repudiate national "Mr. President-spend-as-you-please" legislation. The vote: To table, 48; not to table, 33; not voting, 19.

Rep. Cone, (D) Valley, rushed to the aid of Republican Floor Leader Cushing, Ord, and principal introducer of the resolution. In explaining his vote, Cone termed the whole affair "sag-rule."

The governor's bill, H. R. 676 and H. R. 676, levying the one-cent gasoline tax to raise $2,000,000 state relief fund and administer it through a state assistance committee, were reported out of committee for general file.

Cushing offered to withdraw the resolution if, he said, democrats would pledge to him their word never to use the great fund in the next campaign, charging that the federal relief organization was used to assist the democratic cause last fall.

Just clearing the barrier, S. F. 74, by Stewart of Clay Center, providing for a constitutional short ballot proposal to be submitted to the voters of Nebraska in 1936, passed in the Senate. The vote: For, 20; against, 12.

A three-fifths majority, or 20 votes, is necessary to pass any measure involving a change in the constitution, and Stewart's bill received just that required number. A call of the Senate was not necessary.

The office of land commissioner is eliminated all together in the amended bill as passed by the Senate. The measure provides that only the governor, lieutenant governor and auditor shall be elected, and empowers the governor to appoint the heads of all other constitutional executive departments.

The legislative confirmation. Increase from two to four years as the official term for the three elective officers is provided, and the governor and the lieutenant governor becomes ineligible for reelection. Citizenship requirements of these two officers is raised from 5 to 10 years, and would become effective with the terms beginning in 1937.

Seven opposition votes were cast by republicans and five by democrats. The affirmative vote cast by 16 democrats and 4 republicans. Land Commissioner Leo Swanson, whose office will be discarded if the amendment carries, is the only republican executive state officer in the capital.

The measure must muster 60 votes in the House. If it should pass there, the series of three amendments, embodied in the bill will be placed on the general election ballot next year. Approval by the governor is not required.

The state officers now elective who would become appointees of the governor if the Stewart proposals are ratified by the electorate are the attorney general, secretary of state, treasurer and state superintendent. The state tax commissioner is already appointive.

Status of the railway commissioners would not change insofar as their election is concerned.

The bill that would have made the 100 members of the House czars of relief in Nebraska, was killed by indefinite postponement.

The measure, H. R. 262, by Soffly, (D), Fremont, would have required the signature of the representatives to all relief vouchers issued in their district, with no appeal over the representatives' head.

The measure was not put to death without protest, particularly by its introducer, Rep. Soffly made a lengthy plea for its salvation on the ground that it would provide a check on relief expenditures. He mustered little support the contentment of many fellow members being that representatives have enough work to do as it is.

By a vote of 54 to 20 the House killed H. R. 307 by Rep. Sullenger, (D) Chadron, authorizing general fund appropriations to reimburse the permanent state school for any losses resulting from a write-down of bonds held by it issued by cities, villages or irrigation districts seeking relief under the recent bankruptcy amendment. The bill would have come to the relief of the Whitney irrigation district, but it would apply to any governmental subdivision taking bankruptcy. The House action indicated that it refused approval of a plan to allow the state board of educational lands and funds to compromise its bond claims against bankrupt political subdivisions. The village of Spencer, with a heavy bonded indebtedness outstanding, as well as perhaps one or two other Nebraska villages have taken bankruptcy under the federal amendment.

At the two and probably only public hearings to be given the measure, the House and Senate special liquor committees are furrowing brows preparing, out of seven major bills, one that will be turned loose for floor action.

As time wears on the all-important mandate is near its doom or ascent, more and more sentiment is being expressed around the great possibilities of the old Stocumb bill, with some amendment, being the salvation for liquor traffic control in the state. At the public hearings and with the House chamber jammed to capacity, Rep. Wachtler, (D), Omaha, submitted one bill for another, the latter embodying the features of the Stocumb law, and on the rostrum, with both proponents of wet and dry causes speaking, there seemed to appear much favoritism toward a re-enactment of that law.

Practically all the speakers, who, as individuals or speaking for organizations espousing temperance, leaned toward the old law, pointing out the fact that it had withstood the rigors of constitutional tests, and could be brought up-to-date with little amendment. Pleas that the counties that voted dry be allowed to continue arid were made, and county and local option was espoused as the only redeeming feature in the pending control measure.

That the seller of liquor should be sufficiently bonded to stand damage accruing from acts by any to whom he sold liquor, the establishment of an institution for drunkards, the appropriation of a fund for education of adults and the youth through schools, the press and radio, and the curtailment of any and all liquor advertisements in any way, shape or form, were "demanded" by dry leaders in their inning before the committee.

The opposing forces, however, were a little more liberal in their "demands" upon the committee. Some features of the Stocumb law they found favorable but there was a consistent trend against the option features. The Cochran-Wright bill, commonly termed "administration measure" was given a thorough going-over by dry speakers, but little mention was made of it by those who spoke on a more liberal plan.

Some sort of liquor bill may be expected to come out of the House committee soon. That it will embody the control by commission phase is believed highly probable, and it also is anticipated that many holes will be shot in the ultimate measure regarding the "administration" proposals on option features.

Senator Norris, in Lincoln to address the Charter Day gathering at the University of Nebraska, likewise faced the state's lawmakers assembled to hear him air his views on some of the minute's important issues.

The senator reiterated a promise that he would not attempt advising the legislature as to the number of men to comprise the one-house legislature—a matter this last bicameral session must decide. He declared that when the work of this session is over he would do his best to defend their action before the people of the state.

When asked why he signaled out the state of Nebraska and not the national government as a field for his uncameral legislature, Norris said a one-house in Washington is impossible, because of population distribution.

Embarrassment of some legislators because of the senator's inference that higher wages for uncameral members will mean better men, one action declared, and Norris said, "We will get better men. You select 1,000 men and compare the list with fifty men selected from the same field at higher pay and man for man you will get better men. I didn't make it that way. God made it."

Answering the request by a republican for a definition of "labor" as used in the proposed child labor amendment that is proving a sticker in this session, this having raised the question of chores on the farm, Senator Norris declared: "Congress might pass the kind of law that would prevent children from doing chores, but you know, I know and God knows that it wouldn't. If the President wanted to get us into trouble he could declare war within a week. There is no great necessity for the amendment insofar as Nebraska is concerned. I am thinking, however, of the millions of boys and girls, crippled physically and mentally, in other states."

When asked if it wasn't true that liquor and the other issues influenced vote on the uncameral legislature and that the latter was not decided strictly on merit, Norris replied: "All I can say is that the proposition was approved by a substantial majority."

One of the little shooting pains that started early in January and has grown into full-fledged headache is the child labor amendment ratification question that has bobbed up at every corner since the session convened. There is an intense public feeling on both sides of the question. Some 30,000 citizens already have petitioned the House alone against ratification. Approximately 1,850 others have written their representatives urging ratification and friends of the amendment have been active submitting petitions, and as a result petitions containing about 20,000 names and representing a score of organizations have been turned over to the House.

The House constitutional amendments committee has reported out for general file the joint resolution after a half-dozen public hearings on the measure.

After voting 20 to 8 against S. F. 25, by McGowan, (R) Norfolk, permitting cities, villages and public power districts to buy or build electric plants and pay for them out of future earnings, the Senate, two days later, completely reversed its action, and voted unanimously to resurrect the bill, and put it back on the third-reading calendar. A second turn of heart by the upper branch came with a reversal of opinion by vote when it rescued the Kaspar bill, S. F. 110, to restore the party circle on the general election ballot. The Senate previously consigned it to the scrap heap. It will be once more considered by committee of the whole.

Taxpayers of Nebraska are given sixty days grace in meeting the first of their obligations to the state and local governments under levies made in 1934.

Governor Cochran signed S. F. 6, which bears the emergency clause and is now in effect. Prior to enactment of the measure, it was up to the owners of real estate to raise 50 percent of their taxes before March 1 or have them put on the delinquent list, which meant additional interest charges. Now everyone is given an extension until May 1 on real estate holdings. For the second 50 percent installment, the deadline has been deferred from August to September 1. An additional occasion for cheer with the signing of the measure is a reduction of the interest rate on delinquent taxes from 9 to 7 percent.

Praised as Nebraska's answer to the eight bank robberies in the state in 1934, S. F. 183, making bank robbery a capital crime, subject to death or life imprisonment for the convicted robber, sped through the Senate by a vote of 24 to 0. It was introduced by a banker-member, Senator Neumann, (D), Oakland, who said it was sponsored by the Nebraska State Bankers' association.

Governor Cochran has appealed to President Roosevelt for lenient terms to farmers for repayment of federal seed loans. A telegram to the nation's executive read: "Important that farmers obtaining seed loans be allowed option to liquidate same by payment in like number of bushels and grade after harvest or in the event of crop failure by labor on approved work projects."

Alined particularly at the former mushroom village of Antloch, H. R. 141, by Rep. Strong of Gordon, providing for sale of all real estate in villages after they have abolished incorporation, was passed by the House. Antloch became a village of importance almost overnight as a potato center during the war, rising from a cow pasture. With the war over, the 3,100 population left, and of it moving to Alliance, and the village site became a maze of empty buildings. It is the purpose to sell the land back for cow pasture purposes that it may be of some value on the tax lists.

A commission of three has been named by Governor Cochran to report boundary line disputes between Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri and possibly South Dakota. The appointees are Senator Neumann, Oakland; Former Senator John W. Cooper, Omaha, and Virgil Fallon, Falls City. The immediate business before the commission is the settling of line dispute between Omaha and Council Bluffs where Carter Lake and other Iowa land is now in Nebraska, occasioning disputes concerning law enforcement and taxation for school purposes. The commissioner's report may be submitted to this legislature or the one of 1937.

S. F. 48 by Bullard, (D), McCook, requiring all governmental agencies to let contracts to low bidder for all supplies or public work, has passed the House. Included in bills signed by Governor Cochran after they were passed by both branches of the legislature were H. R. 125 and H. R. 41, companion bills to permit district judges to enter orders at their home towns instead of traveling to distant points in districts which are quite large in the western and northern parts of the state.

Governor Cochran whose emergency bill to outlaw gold clauses in Nebraska was recently enacted by the legislature and is now in effect was pleased when he heard of the United States supreme court decision holding Congress had power to abrogate that clause so far as it pertains to debtors other than the United States government itself. "I am happy to know that the Supreme court at Washington decided the question before it in a way which fully justifies and supports the action already taken by our legislature," the governor said.

Still maintaining an open-minded attitude on methods of raising Nebraska's relief funds, Governor Cochran asked that the plan's critics be equally as fair. Referring to republican criticism to his proposal to increase the gasoline tax one cent a gallon to raise $3,000,000 by July 1, 1936, the governor said: "From the day this emergency came up, I have welcomed suggestions for meeting it. To this time, I have not received any suggestion as workable and equitable as the one I suggested. I'm always open-minded on these matters and never have taken a dictatorial attitude."

What's In a Name?

By GRACE WORTHINGTON
McClure Newspaper Syndicate,
WNU Service.

SCOTT MORGAN stared at the telegram before him. It was from his assistant, Tom Haddon, dated Washington:

MARRIED THIS MORNING STOP SWELL IDEA STOP WHY DON'T YOU TRY IT STOP NOT INTERFERING WITH MY ASSIGNMENT.

So that was why Haddon had been so anxious for the Washington assignment. He remembered vaguely Tom's girl lived in Washington. There had been a misunderstanding: Tom had gone around scowling for days and smoking countless cigarettes.

Well, thank heavens, that Sylvia Ralston affair had taught him his lesson! His first year in New York, too. He had been mad about her; worshiped her. And all she wanted was his influence as a reporter. Well, he had come through for her. Rotogravures; newspaper and magazine articles glorified her. She got her big break . . . and coldly discarded him. Funny he should be thinking about her now. But how could he help it? Today's papers had chronicled her third marriage.

At least Tom's girl was sincere; she had complained because Tom had taken out another girl when he was engaged to her. It must be wonderful, Scott thought, for a girl to hold an engagement so sacred.

Mary Sanders came back from lunch and hung her hat on the rack just outside his door. He gave her a curt nod; it was almost rude, she thought. She went into her own cubby-hole of an office next to his, banging the door after her.

"All settled," Scott heard her say. "I'm changing my name."

Leslie Miller stopped her type-writing. "But you weren't at all sure you'd do this morning!"

"I know, but Doctor Urbanic convinced me at lunch time."

"You seem pretty unenthusiastic," Leslie observed, "for a girl about to change her name and with it the whole destiny of her life. Don't you like the new name, Mary?"

"No!" There was utter distaste in her voice.

"Then, dear, why do it?"

"Oh, the doctor convinced me that for material and financial reasons—for social success and—"

"So!" Scott Morgan observed.

"So!" Even Mary Sanders would barter her soul for material and financial reasons. Who could a fellow depend on!

Leslie Miller was saying: "But I wouldn't mind, dear, not unless I was entirely satisfied. Hold on to your own name and wait till something better comes along. You'll get a brighter idea one of these days."

"What do you mean wait till I get a brighter idea?" Mary almost cried. "That's all I ever get. Doctor Urbanic says so, too!"

"But what do I get out of it? Not even a raise! Here I plan the whole campaign that gets the new cigarette account from every agency in town—me, a mere girl! And who gets the plums for my bright ideas? Tom Haddon is sent down to Washington to do the publicity stunt that I planned. He gets a raise, too. Scott Morgan brings in the whole lay-out to the president and probably grabs all the credit."

"Mary! Why I thought you liked Scott Morgan!"

At that moment Scott Morgan entered. He was flushed and furious. His red hair seemed even redder.

"I had no intention of eaves-dropping, Miss Sanders." His voice was like cold steel. "But I assure you I received no bonus on your brilliant ideas. If you had been content to wait until tomorrow, the end of the month, you would have seen I recommended you for a sizable increase in salary. As for a girl changing her name for financial reasons . . . social success . . ."

"It is no concern of yours why I change my name!"

"It is my affair when you say you're changing your name because I got a bonus on your ideas. . . ."

"You're insufferable! I loathe you! I've always loathed you! But tears were in her eyes; her hands trembled.

"And I do not exactly admire you, myself, Miss Sanders." Now his voice was a white heat. "I trust your doctor has all the virtues I lack—every advantage that—"

Leslie Miller laughed hysterically. "Mary's not getting married! She's just changing her name numerologically to get new vibrations. Doctor Urbanic is a wonderful numerologist. Why, did you know that Mark Twain never had any luck under his own name of Samuel Clemens? All the movie stars—"

"Not getting married?" Scott Morgan gasped.

"Hardly," Mary announced grimly. "Oh, no," Leslie went on. "There's not even a marriage vibration in her name! Nothing but kindness that's not appreciated, virtue that goes unrewarded, brilliant ideas that—"

"Leslie! Mary's face was flushed. "I'm not exactly tongue-tied, and I didn't give you my confidence to broadcast to the whole office force!"

"I'm not the whole office force," said Scott Morgan with commanding authority. "I'm merely a man so in love with you that he almost went crazy when he thought you were going to marry some one else."

Leslie Miller discreetly withdrew.

ORD BASKETEERS BEAT ST. PAUL, WINTOURNAMENT

Apostles Easy Victims of Brockman Cagers in Tourney Finals; Michels Free Throw Champ.

Ord took all honors in the Loup Valley tournament last week as the Chanticleers defeated Dannebrog 61-14 in the first game and Comstock 33 to 9 in the semi-finals. In the finals Ord tamed the wide-heralded and favored St. Paul Wildcats to the woeiful tune of 42-16.

The Wildcats shot into an 11-4 lead early in the first quarter but the Chanticleers evened it up and the first quarter ended in an 11-11 tie. Ord pulled away to lead 21-13 at the half. The second portion of the contest was just a game of "pass," the Chanticleers scoring almost at will against the fighting St. Paul five. The Ord quint was at the top of a decisive 32-15 score as the final period got under way.

Michels, playing his best game this year, lead the scoring with 14 counters. Greathouse was close behind with a total of 12 points.

Wednesday night each member of the teams participating threw five free-throws. At the end of the contest Day of St. Paul, Michels of Ord, Tunnick of Ord and Chelowsky of Comstock were tied with perfect records. Thursday night the finals of the contest were held with Michels winning. He put in a total of nine out of ten shots and was presented with a small individual trophy.

After the L. V. H. S. tournament the all-valley team was named: Michels, forward; Blessing, forward; Greathouse, center; Day of St. Paul, guard; and Starkey of St. Paul, guard. Because of his outstanding playing in the tournament, Day was named captain of the team.

The Class B tournament will begin today at 1:00 p. m. Eight games; Milburn vs. Dry Valley, North Loup Vs. Horace, Dannebrog vs. Farwell, Ashton vs. Scotia, Taylor vs. Wiggle Creek, Westerville vs. Berwyn, Comstock vs. Merna, and Gates vs. Elba, will be played Thursday afternoon and evening. The finals will be played Saturday evening at 8:00 p. m.

Coach Brockman will be manager of the floor, Sup'l. Bell, director and Jack Dyas will referee the games. The state will give the regular first place trophy and Thorne's cafe will give a trophy for second place.

The Ord High School band will play tonight at 7:30.

DO YOU KNOW?

Last Wednesday, February 20, the public speaking class presented a one-act play entitled "Love and Corned Beef." The cast of characters included Dale Mella, Mae Jones, Jackie Meyers, Paul Adamek, and Ronald Rose. The play was thoroughly enjoyed and was featured by the excellent work of Dale Mella, who portrayed Mike Casey, the corn beef king.

During the week the following records for speed have been made by typists of the beginning class. Joy Auble, 60 words per minute; Kenneth Eglehoff, 47 words per minute; Eva Umstead, 43 words per minute. These records were made in a ten minute test. Dorothy Ann Zikmund leads the class in accuracy, making only four errors in the ten minutes of writing.

Mr. Kovanda talked on Indian relics and showed some of his collection to the Science club, Tuesday, February 19.

The shorthand classes, both beginning and advanced, have been giving special attention to transcription problems. An attempt is being made to increase speed of transcription while at the same time maintaining high accuracy rating.

The senior class had a theater party last Friday night. Following the show, they were served a luncheon at Thorne's cafe.

Bookkeeping students are studying notes receivable and notes payable, with special attention given to the handling of interest on notes. They have also been studying corporation and partnership balance sheets, learning to interpret the information listed on the ordinary type of corporation or partnership statement.

Advanced typing students are beginning introductory work with legal forms. This week they are studying the Agency Contract and Agreement of Lease. Work for next week will include a Proxy and Power of Attorney.

In a five-minute test, the following results were achieved: Mildred Smith wrote 71 words per minute, Maxine Johnson 63 words, and Dorothy Fish wrote 61 a minute. Dorothy Fish leads the class in accuracy making only two errors in the five minutes.

Jackie: "Why did you leave your last position?"

Arvella: "There was no future in it."

Jackie: "Why?"

Arvella: "The boss was already married."

Florence Furtak, after losing her interests in the Yancey hotel, has gone back to California.

Julia Fuss has just completed a non-stop flight around the world.

Wilbur Fuss, after living on a farm all these years declares he likes nothing better. We hear he's in the market for a cook, though.

William Goff has succeeded Harry Wolfe as janitor.

Laverne Hansen is now a traveling salesman for the Ladies Linen company of Omaha.

Viola Hansen enjoys writing Minerva's Mail for the World-Herald.

Jeanette Hughes as yet had made no choice between Haskell Creek and Mira Valley.

Charles Jefferies, a great inventor, is now working on a scheme to make night last all day.

Horace Johnson is running strong competition against Bobby Jones for the golf title.

Seen At The Tournament---

Laverne Lakin, sitting next to a St. Paul lady, and in his excitement crumpling the poor lady's felt hat into a shapeless mass.

Mr. Watkins, in his enthusiasm, almost tipping the scoreboard clear off the stage.

The most disappointed and sullen group of looks ever on record, when Michels got under way and sank two straight.

Willard Cushing thumping the back of poor Norma Mae, who no doubt, was not versed in such masculine mysteries.

Dorothy Ann excitedly counting 1-2-3-4 as Kenneth Michels sank the four baskets which won for him the medal for free throw "champion" of the Loup Valley.

Severns giving blood-curdling war whoop and flinging the old ball almost thru the rafters as the final whistle was blown.

A victory-crazed gang of Ordites almost demolishing two Arcadia restaurants as they paraded through them.

Two or three Ord boys trying to pull up the huge flag located in the center of Arcadia to bring home—just for a souvenir.

This Week's Sponsor is The Brown-McDonald Co., Golden Rule Store

A genial fellow with a cheerful word for everyone is John Goddard, manager of the Brown-McDonald store in Ord, the Golden Rule. Mr. Goddard, an Ingalls, Kans., boy has made good in the merchandising field, after a long and varied business experience.

After high school in Cimarron, Kas., Mr. Goddard farmed four years, ran a general store and grain elevator at Ingalls, then enlisted in the 337th Field Artillery and saw service in France. After his discharge at Fort Dodge, Ia., he worked for firms in Augusta, Kans., Fort Lyon, Colo., travelled on the road a year, then became connected with the Byars company and was sent to Grant, Neb. After two years there, and some time at Curtis, Neb., Mr. Goddard went to Rapid City, S. D., then to Sidney, later to Holdrege, and at last moved to Ord, where he has been for the past five years. Mr. Goddard acquired a wife from Gothenburg and they have three children, the eldest in kindergarten.

Hobbies, aside from Donna Lee, Jackie Lee and Suzanne, are mostly work, with once in a while a little stamp collecting. A member of the American Legion, Mr. Goddard is also a Mason, a member of the Chamber of Commerce, and of Rotary, of which he is a director. The family attend the Methodist church.

The Golden Rule firm was started eighteen years ago by Mr. Brown, Mr. Ekberg joining him a few years later. The two Nebraska citizens soon owned a total of eighteen stores, all in Nebraska except one at Julesburg, Colo., just over the line. Last July Mr. Ekberg sold his interest in the firm to the McDonald brothers, John J. M. and D. M., three thorough-going first-class merchants, two of whom had planned to retire, and had purchased homes in Oakland, Calif., but could not stay away from the fun of working. The third McDonald brother is a buyer in New York City, and the new members of the firm have already made many plans for improving their stores.

The Golden Rule store has been undergoing some changes inside. The balcony has been torn out and the equipment is being rearranged and added to by a busy staff of carpenters. A new building especially planned for the Golden Rule, the store will now be nicer than ever. The policies of course remain the same, those referred to in the title of the store.

The Oracle is made possible by this group of loyal Ord business and professional men and women:

Dr. F. L. Blessing, Orville H. Sowl, Ed. F. Beranek, J. C. Penny Co., John P. Misko, L. & L. Tire and Battery Station, Auble Motors, Dr. C. W. Weekes, Chase's Toggery, Dr. Glen D. 54 MEMBERS IN ORD HI SCHOOL CLASS OF 1936

Dale Mella is President And Miss Jacobsen Sponsor Of Ord Junior Class.

To begin with, we had seventy-one representatives in our freshman class and we began our first year's work with Miss Jacobsen as our sponsor. We selected rose and silver as our class colors and chose the following class officers: President, Joy Auble; Vice-President, Charlotte Blessing; Secretary and Treasurer, Marie Viner; and Student Council member, Ruth Koupal.

We had a masquerade party the first semester in which we awarded a prize for the best costume. Evelyn Loft received the gift for her hula-hula dancing costume. The prize was a weiner. We had a "Treasure Hunt" the latter part of the year which led to Minute Hill. The treasure was a case of pop. Paul Blessing certainly received his share of the treasure.

Our Sophomore year began with sixty-two members and Miss Shaver was chosen as a class sponsor. The officers were: President, Jack Catlin; Vice-President, Jacqueline Meyer; Secretary, Wilma Severns; and Treasurer, Paul Blessing. The student council members were Dale Mella and Charlotte Blessing. We enjoyed a party and a carnival during our sophomore year.

This year, as Juniors, we are again honored to have Miss Jacobsen as our sponsor. There are fifty-four members in the class, fourteen of whom come from two-room schools in the country.

Our class officers are: President, Dale Mella; Vice-president, Eva Umstead; Secretary, Dorothy Ann Zikmund; Treasurer, Joy Auble; and student council members, Jacqueline Meyer, Florence Furtak, and Paul Blessing.

During the first semester our class play "Shirtsleeves" was presented and proved to be a big success.

This year we had nine juniors out for football. Sixty junior girls are G. A. members and fifty juniors are taking Glee club. There are eleven juniors taking a commercial course, nineteen taking a general course, fifteen taking college preparatory and fifteen taking normal training. On Ord's Loup Valley Championship basketball squad there are six juniors: Paul Blessing, Dean Marks, Kenneth Koelling, Paul Adamek, Reuben Cook, and Dale Mella.

North Loup News

Mrs. I. A. Manchester suffered a severe stroke of paralysis about 8:30 Sunday evening at her home here. Because of the prevailing blizzard and with no doctor in town, medical aid was several hours in reaching here. Dr. J. G. Kruml, accompanied by Mrs. Manchester's brother, Everett Petty, of Ord, finally reached the home after great effort in battling the storm. Mrs. Manchester's entire left side is paralyzed, and although she is able only to move her fingers and toes, the family are encouraged with the doctor's present report of her probable recovery. Her mind is clear and she is able to converse distinctly. Mrs. Manchester had been in poor health for the past six weeks. Her many friends are deeply concerned for her recovery.

Mrs. Betty Manchester suffered a second severe attack of gall stones Sunday night. Two weeks ago she was in great distress with the same ailment, with a severe heart attack following. At this writing we are pleased to report Mrs. Manchester is improved.

Miss Carmen Weber with about twenty-five young people of the M. E. church were in attendance at the Epworth League rally held at Scotia, Friday evening. One hundred twenty responded to roll call. Rev. Stephens was a speaker.

Many North Loup folks, friends of Carl Koelling, share with the family in their hour of bereavement. He will be greatly missed not alone in social contacts but in business activities. Mr. Koelling had just recently been re-elected as one of the directors of the North Loup Cooperative Cheese company. Rev. Nichols, his pastor, braved Sunday's storm to reach the home which he did shortly after Mr. Koelling's passing.

Mrs. Sidney Wilson came up on the motor Monday afternoon from St. Francis hospital where she was with a sister-in-law, Mrs. Flower Austin to whom a son was born Sunday. A Caesarian operation having been performed. Mrs. Wilson left her sister doing well. The babe has been christened Kenneth Dwayne.

A 10-14 pound boy was born Tuesday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Glen Leidig of Riverdale. Dr. Royer was in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Banta and family were given a farewell party at their home Friday evening by their Riverdale friends. The Bantas were well pleased with their sale held last Friday. They are moving next week to Scotia which will be their home for a while.

Earl Kriewald has purchased the farm which Banta's are leaving which is known as the old Al Caldwell farm and will take possession soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gillespie received a genuine surprise when about 9:00 o'clock Sunday morning several cars of relatives from points in Nebraska, arrived at their home, bearing happy greetings on the event of their twentieth wedding anniversary, which was Sunday, Feb. 24. The visitors included Mr. Gillespie's parents with Mrs. Gillespie's mother, all of Murdock, several brothers and sisters and their families. Some residing at Hampton and others at Stratton, Nebr. Of course they brought with them delicious baskets of viands leaving their homes in the early hours of the morning. They encountered no trouble driving up but departing about 3:00 p. m. they were forced to remain overnight in St. Paul.

Honoring the birthday of Mrs. Louise Brennick, a company of friends and relatives assembled at her home Thursday evening where a pleasant evening was spent. Those present were George, Arthur and Floyd Hutchins, Chas. Sayres, Geo. Gowens, Albert Babcocks and Ed Christensen's. A covered dish luncheon was a special feature.

Mrs. May Shattuck and Mary Ann Bartz arrived via bus Friday evening from a two months' sojourn in California. Leaving Los Angeles, they traveled via bus over the southern route with an overnight stop at Flagstaff, Ariz., and a trip to the Grand Canyon, one of many delightful pleasure trips of their vacation. A short stop in Denver with former North Loup friends, the Bingham's, climaxed their trip home in a grand surprise to Mary Ann's parents, who were not expecting them for a few days. Honoring Mrs. Bartz' birthday, a company of friends had been invited to the home for a social evening. Invitations having been sent several days previous by the California visitors. The surprise amounted to almost a shock to Mr. and Mrs. Bartz when they spied the travelers as they made their appearance at the back door. Visiting and playing Rook were the evening's pleasures, with a California lunch excepting a birthday cake purchased in Grand Island on their way up, was served to the assembly. California sweet peas graced the tables. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schudel, Mrs. Anna Crandall, Mrs. Buten, Mr. Madsen, Mrs. Christensen, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Helbig of Burwell, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Sample, Clifton and Miss Fannie McClellan. Frank Schudel won high score for men, receiving an Abalone shell filled with dates. Millie Thomas received a jar of orange marmalade for having won ladies' high score. The gifts were tied with real orange blossoms.

A third birthday observance was a family dinner at the E. F. Paddock home Sunday in honor of Donald's 21st birthday and Earl Smith's natal day which was Monday. Guests included were the Earl Smiths of Union Ridge, Mrs. George Eberhart and children, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Van Hoesen and children and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Paddock.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Bailey entertained at bridge at the Odd Fellow's hall Monday evening. High score winners were Wm. Vodehnal and Esther Schudel.

The local legion and auxiliary with their families enjoyed another fellowship meeting and delicious dinner served at the legion hall, Tuesday evening.

The Nellie Shaw missionary society of the Baptist church, held a profitable all day meeting at the home of Mrs. Rolla Babcock yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Watts of Scotia were North Loup callers Monday. Mrs. Watts was a guest of Mrs. Buten while Lester attended a sale at Ord.

Lucille Paddock came up on the motor Monday afternoon from Omaha where she is employed in a private home. She will return to her work following the Paddock public sale March 11.

Ed Hahn of Burwell was a guest at the E. F. Paddock home Tuesday.

Clyde C. Sample. Clyde C. Sample was born to John and Lydia Sample in Lee county, Ia., Dec. 31, 1875, and died at his home in Loup City, Nebr., February 20, 1935. Aged 59 years, one month, and 20 days.

In October 1888 he came to Nebraska with his parents where they made their home on a farm 1 1/2 miles south of the Davis Creek churches in Valley county.

On Dec. 25, 1902 he was united in marriage to Ida Finch of North Loup who passed to the land beyond, April 5, 1906.

On Dec. 3, 1908 he married Leona Curry of North Loup. To this union three children were born.

In April 1913, he and his family moved to Juliaetta, Ida., where they made their home for two years. While in Idaho, one daughter was born and lived to bless the home for the short span of 17 days.

He was in the hardware business in North Loup for five years. He was a carpenter by trade and followed his trade until the spring of 1918 when the family moved to the Sample farm on Davis Creek where they made their home until three years ago. Since then the home has been in Loup City.

The summer before he left the farm, he suffered a slight stroke of paralysis from which he never fully recovered and several succeeding strokes finally caused his death.

He leaves to mourn, his wife, Leona, his son, Perry, his daughter, Elma, and son-in-law, Henry Theide, and small granddaughter, four brothers and a host of relatives and friends.

After short services at the funeral parlors at Loup City, the funeral was held at the Davis Creek M. E. church at 2:30 Thursday, Feb. 21, conducted by Rev. Stephens. Pallbearers were old neighbors and friends. Interment was in the family lot at Davis Creek.

Preparations are going forward for the second annual district club contest which includes both Study and Extension clubs, throughout the vicinities. The local contest will be featured here March 28, the place to be announced later. Mrs. J. A. Barber is general chairman.

The Busy Bee club of Riverdale met with Mrs. Ignatius Pokraka, Wednesday of last week with a lesson on preparing special meat dishes.

North Loup regrets the departure of a number of families who are moving elsewhere, hoping to benefit by so doing. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Collins and sons will move in early March to the Lee Mulligan farm, southwest of town.

Mrs. Sydney Wilson and children will join her husband soon at Scottsbluff, where Sydney is operating a filling station and lunch stand.

Archie Moulton is holding a sale of articles at his shop here Tuesday, March 5.

Pearl Weed is offering his farm machinery and stock southeast of town on Mar. 4. The family is locating in town.

WHEN Fred Lawrence had decided that he would have a party and prove to the boys how much better his home brew was than the pale, anemic liquor they bought over the counters downtown, Bill Hay was the first man he called.

Bill's wife was a hyena about poker playing, and since his marriage, Bill had been forced to go contract. But business is not always business when it keeps a man downtown late, if you know what I mean. Anyway, Bill said:

"Oke, old boy, old boy. I'm dry as a cotton batting camel and lucky is my middle name."
Then Bill called his wife.

DR. RICH says:

Most people who suffer with rectal trouble, have a very poor idea of the importance of such a condition, and generally do the wrong thing to obtain a cure. There is a right way and a wrong way to do anything. Doing the right thing first saves time, money and one's peace of mind.

I have been specializing in the cure of rectal troubles for more than thirty years. I know all about that. It's all I claim to know about sickness. If you come here for your cure, you will get one, quickly, agreeably and guaranteed. Don't wait too long. Come and see me. Dr. Rich Rectal Specialist, Grand Island, Nebr. (1)

"Hello, darling," he said in a voice heavy with business worries. "I just phoned to tell you not to wait dinner. From the way things look now, I won't be able to get away from the office before nine or after."

"I don't believe one word you say, Bill Hay, not one word. I think you're just trying to get out of going to Madge Cook's reception with me tonight."

"No, honestly, darling, I'd forgotten all about the reception. But this thing may break big for me, and I've got to stay with it. And if things turn out as I expect them to I'll buy you the prettiest hat in town."

"Well, of course. . . . But I still think it's queer that you have so much business tonight after saying what you did at breakfast."

"I told you that all of this came up since noon. And I'm going to have plenty of competition, so don't sit up for me, for it may be 'even, even twelve, before I get home."

When Bill got to Fred's house the party was on. And what a party it turned out to be! The home-brew had a kick to it and the cards ran high, wide, and handsome. Kings consorted with kings, and the four Aces clung closer than the Marx brothers. That is except when they were in Bill's hand. Bill had lots of luck, but it was all bad.

They called the party off at four o'clock. Bill was seventy-five dollars in the hole and had a cramp from writing L. O. U.'s. He borrowed twenty-five dollars from Fred to stem the current of his wife's wrath, if the worst happened, and started for home.

When Bill reached his house the moon had called it a night and gone to bed, the sun was shaking out its rays and Mandy the cook was in the kitchen starting her breakfast. Bill gave Mandy one of his borrowed dollars not to tell his wife what time he got home. Then he crept silently up the stairs to bed.

The next thing Bill heard was the clock striking seven. He opened a cautious eye and looked across at his wife's bed. She was gone, the covers were neatly folded back, and the room was warm, the cat was purring on the window seat. Everything sang of peace and amity.

He went whistling down the stairs some ten minutes later and opened the breakfast room door with a bright "Good morning, darling." But the words froze in mid-air. One look at his wife's face told Bill that she knew it all. Bill did his part, but he didn't get anywhere.

"Oh, stop lying to me, Bill Hay. I know exactly where you were and what time you got home," she said.

"I don't see how you know what time I got home," Bill said. "You were sound asleep, snoring loud enough to wake the dead."

"I was not. You're just making that up, for I don't snore. I know what time you got home, because Mandy told me."

"Mandy? What does she know about it?"

"Yes, what does she know about it? She knows that I lay here all night by myself with thigves and murderers running around everywhere, while you were out carousing with that awful Fred Lawrence."

Drinking his vile home-brew and playing poker with that gang of cutthroats he runs with. And telling me it was business! I ought to pack my trunk and go home to mother, that's what I ought to do!"

Bill knew when he was beaten. "Well, to tell the truth," he said, "we did play a few rounds of poker after we got through our business. I was feeling pretty lucky, and I thought you could use a little sugar money."

Bill pushed one of the borrowed tens across the table to his wife. "We eyed it with scorn. With an inward sigh of resignation he fished the other ten out of his pocket. Still hot words and cold looks. Then the telephone jingled. His wife went to answer it, pocketing the two tens before she left the table.

Bill made a bee line for the kitchen. He'd tell that colored Mandy a thing or two. But Mandy had gotten a cheerful little earful through the keyhole and she beat him to the first word by two breaths and a snort.

"Don't you come in here blamin' me, Mistah Bill, 'cause I never told yo' wife what time you'll get home. Hones' to Gawd, I never. She come in here axin' me, and I said, 'No, Mad'am, I don't know nothin' at all 'bout what time Mistah Bill got home—I was too busy gettin' my breakfast ready to look at de clock.'"

Mrs. Brown Surprised. Thursday evening there was a pleasant surprise party for Mrs. C. Brown, the ladies dropping in w/ the Brown home one at a time. There were cakes and a large freezer full of ice cream and other good things to eat. Mrs. Brown was very much surprised. Those in attendance were Madam, Emma Koelling, C. S. Burdick, Jud Tedr-, Ign. Klim, Florence Chapman, R. O. Hunter and Harry Dye.

New Deal Sighs Relief as Supreme Court O. K.'s Gold Laws—President Urges Congress to Extend NRA Two More Years.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT and the New Dealers breathed easier after the United States Supreme court handed down its decision sustaining invalidation of "gold clauses" in private contracts, but not on federal bonds. While it was held that the government must pay out its bonds in gold or its equivalent in devalued currency, another ruling that the Court of Claims had no jurisdiction over such cases means that it would be impossible for holders of federal bonds to collect on their old gold basis. In other words, the holder of a $1,000 federal bond is entitled to a technical value of $1,000, but in reality it would be impractical to make any collection of that amount, since the Court of Claims is the only tribunal before which suits against the government may be taken, and other courts may not entertain such suits without a special act of congress.

President Roosevelt

The court also held that those who held gold certificates had no cause of action and could not sue the government. The power of congress to deal with currency was fully upheld.

Briefly the ruling said:
1. Congress has the power to nullify promises to pay in gold contained in the bonds of private corporations.

2. A gold certificate is worth only its face value in present devalued currency. Congressional power over the currency includes the right to establish circumstances under which gold certificates need not be redeemed in gold or its equivalent.

3. Congress has no authority under the Constitution to abrogate the payment-in-gold clause of government bonds, but, as no actual damage has been done, therefore there is no basis for suit for recovery.

The decision was read by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, who voted with Justices Brandeis, Stone, Roberts and Cardozo in the majority. Dissenters were Justices McReynolds, Van Devanter, Sutherland and Butler, the four so-called conservatives.

Not only this country, but the entire world, awaited what the "nine lonely old men" of the Supreme court had to say about the Roosevelt monetary policies. The decision is ranked with the court's decisions in the Dartmouth college case in 1818 which upheld the sanctity of contract, and in the Dred Scott slavery case in 1857 which had much to do with hastening the outbreak of the Civil war.

Satisfaction within the administration was evident at once. Justice McReynolds was spokesman for the dissenters. He unleashed a scathing attack on the majority views. His voice vibrant, he said:

"The Constitution as we have known it is gone."

"If given effect, the enactments here challenged will bring about confiscation of property rights and repudiation of national obligations."

"Just men regarded spoliation of citizens by their sovereign with abhorrence, but we are asked to affirm that the Constitution has granted power to accomplish both."

"No definite delegation of such a power exists; and we cannot believe the farseeing framers, who labored with hope of establishing justice and securing the blessings of liberty, intended that the expected government should have authority to annihilate its own obligations and destroy the very rights which they were endeavoring to protect."

Notified that Chief Justice Hughes was reading the decision, President Roosevelt went to the cabinet room, where he listened to telephonic reports from an aid. The Chief Executive was prepared to take swift action to protect the credit of the government in case an adverse decision was handed down, but executive orders were unnecessary. The carefully prepared program was not needed.

TWO more years of the NRA, with clarification of policies, more effective enforcement of codes and the granting of "unquestioned power" to the federal government, were urged by the President in a message to congress.

The national recovery act terminates June 16 this year. "Abandonment would be unthinkable," he said, naming the act as "the biggest factor in giving re-employment to approximately 4,000,000 people."

He said congress must maintain the fundamental principles of the act to establish at least a minimum fair trade practice and labor relations standard, pleading that child labor must stay out and that fixing of wages and hours was practical and necessary.

Answering recent protests of labor, he said: "The rights of employees freely to organize for the purpose of collective bargaining should be fully protected."

He urged more strict application of anti-trust laws, condemned monopolies and private price fixing, opposed hindrances to fair competition, and proposed further protection of small enterprises against discrimination and oppression.

His suggestions, if adopted, would keep code violators behind the bars. "The way to enforce laws, codes and regulations relating to industrial practices is not to seek to put people in jail," he said.

Admitting some mistakes, the President was well satisfied that the NRA had done a good job considering its short existence. "Only carping critics and those who seek political advantage and the right again to indulge in unfair practices or exploitation of labor or consumers deliberately seek to quarrel over the obvious fact that a great code of law, of order and of decent business cannot be created in a day or a year," Mr. Roosevelt declared.

All details of the legislation were left to congress. While this is in progress, the senate finance committee proposes to conduct the Nye-McCarran investigation of the NRA administration and codes. The judiciary subcommittee reported no funds available, but the inquiry, which has the President's approval, will be attempted without money.

MORE than 100 men were reported killed or wounded in a skirmish in the "demilitarized" zone which lies between Manchukuo and China north of Tientsin. The clash was between the recently formed Peace Preservation corps and the Lwanchow militia. The Peace Preservation corps, which has the approval of the Chinese government, was receiving money and arms from the Japanese. It was alleged. The militia is supported by local Chinese interests. While the battle was raging, Wang Ching-wel, premier of the Chinese Nationalist government, and Koki Hirota, Japanese foreign minister, expressed themselves as desirous of peace between the two nations.

FINGERPRINT records of every citizen of the United States, on file in Washington, along with those of John Dillinger, Al Capone, and even John D. Rockefeller, Jr., would go far toward ending kidnappings and serious crimes, says Attorney General Homer S. Cummings. He urged that all Americans obtain free fingerprint cards from the fingerprint department, imprint their marks and send the results to Washington.

VICTOR A. CHRISTGAU, demoted from his position of second ranking officer of the AAA in the recent shake-up which involved several alleged radicals, resigned in protest. Chester C. Davis, administrator, had not accepted the resignation and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace was attempting to persuade Christgau to change his mind. Wallace hinted that there had been differences between Christgau and A. H. Lauterbach, chief of the AAA dairy section, over the milk policy. A protégé of Undersecretary Rexford Guy Tugwell, Christgau was also supposed to have encountered "friction" with other members of the department. This gave rise to new rumors that Brain Truster Tugwell will resign before his influence in the AAA is too severely curtailed by the demotion and ouster of his conferees.

Meanwhile amendments to the Agricultural Adjustment act were declared to conceal dangerous, arbitrary and autocratic powers over farmers, manufacturers and distributors of farm products by the legislative committee of the agricultural industries conference in Washington. The committee cited the provision that the AAA may require that a licensed processor purchase only from those who sign contracts. It charges that the amendments make no provision for the farmer to express himself in the matter of licenses, but contain provisions for price control, markets, production and purchasing. Through indirect restriction of the farmer's market, these provisions are equivalent to a licensing of the act to establish at least a minimum fair trade practice and labor relations standard, pleading that child labor must stay out and that fixing of wages and hours was practical and necessary.

Answering recent protests of labor, he said: "The rights of employees freely to organize for the purpose of collective bargaining should be fully protected."

BRUNO RICHARD HAUPTMANN escaped the electric chair at least temporarily when a writ of error filed by defense attorneys earned him a stay of execution sentence which was to be carried out at Trenton, N. J., March 18. The Bronx carpenter's life is safe at least until September or October, since a further appeal can be made to the court of pardons if the court of errors and appeals fails to uphold the writ. Lloyd C. Fisher and Frederick A. Pope presented the appeal after a battle with Chief Defense Counsel Edward J. Reilly, who subsequently threatened that either he or Fisher would have to withdraw from the Hauptmann defense. The hearing will probably take place at the next session of the court, which begins May 21.

Part of the dissension among defense attorneys was thought to exist because Reilly never challenged the assumption that the body of the dead baby was that of Lindbergh's son. George H. Foster, former investigator for the defense, declared that the baby could not have been Lindy's because it was four inches taller than Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.; was in a less identifiable condition than would have been possible in the mild weather following the kidnaping, and was embalmed.

BREAKING the tenth commandment is breaking the law in England. Alexander Frederick Churchill Sim of Cookham Dean, Berkshire, coveted the "perfect" serving maid of his neighbor, Herbert Mercer Stretch, and enticed her away from him. For this the civil court fined Sim $125. It assessed him another $1,250 for asserting in a telegram that Stretch borrowed money from the maid, Edith Saville, whose affairs were the talk of John Bull's island, where perfect serving maids are hard to get and hard to keep. Sim was also forced to pay court costs totaling $2,000.

ON THE heels of the Supreme court's gold ruling, former President Herbert Hoover demanded re-establishment of the gold standard in the United States as the only way "to restore confidence in our currency." This could only be done by making the dollar immediately convertible at the present 59 cents of gold—the modern method of specie payment.

Herbert Hoover

The only living ex-President said that such action would put more of the 12,000,000 unemployed men back to work than any other step. The United States should take the lead in returning to the standard, he said, declaring that, "There is no need to wait for foreign nations before we re-establish the gold standard and restore confidence in our currency. They will be bound to follow some time. They are more afraid of our doing just this than they are of any American 'managed currency.'"

THIRTY-ONE inmates shot and killed a guard in a spectacular break from the Oklahoma state prison at Granite, the only male penal institution administered by a woman warden. Thirteen were captured shortly afterward and a man-hunt is on for the others. The fugitives used two guns which had been smuggled to them, forced a "trusty" turnkey to open up for them, corralled 20 visitors in the visitors' room and, using them for a shield, made their escape. Her prison already the subject of investigation into its moral and managerial standards, the warden, Mrs. O. A. "Mother" Walters, was ordered replaced by a man, Gov. E. W. Marshall declaring that a woman "just can't manage" a prison. Definitely, she refused to clear out until completed investigations had vindicated her.

REALM LEADER HITLER refused to exercise his prerogative of mercy and two Berlin society women were beheaded by the official executioner for divulging military secrets. Another woman and a Polish nobleman were sentenced to life imprisonment at hard work. The execution of the two women was carried out at dawn with such secrecy that it was hours before their exact fate could be learned. The two women went to their death with a calm courage that should be an example for the strongest men, an eye witness reported. The sensational publicity awakened by the execution was expected to induce Hitler to commute the sentences of two men spies scheduled to be beheaded in the same manner soon.

STEPS to curb the inroads of Japanese landholders in the rich hemp growing provinces of Davao are being taken by the Philippine government. Strict application of insular laws governing land holding by aliens will be made, according to Eulogio Rodriguez, secretary of agriculture, who schemes a wholesale cancellation of sales of public lands, which he maintains are illegal. A recent survey, Rodriguez asserts, shows the Japanese control 123,000 acres in the province, and that leases to 64,372 acres are illegally held.

Washington.—Certain signs of transition are appearing in the political picture. Third Party Rumbblings They are becoming clear enough to deserve attention. What they may mean in the ultimate can be made only the subject of a guess—politics being what they are—but interesting circumstances can be noted as of this day and time.

Third party rumbblings are beginning to be heard along the whole political front. This is noteworthy because third party rumbblings usually are confined to a few sectors, some important, some unimportant. The insurgents, radicals, progressives, and independents all seem to be examining the political horizons of 1933. Roughly, these factions enumerated have been classified as the "sons of the wild jackass," an appellation given them by George H. Moses of New Hampshire, when he was filling a Republican seat in the United States senate. The fact that they remain and that Mr. Moses has passed out of the political picture is not the point. It was his description of them that gave the country its first grouping of the political factions that have consistently kicked over the traces of the major political parties.

The fact that these various groups are again examining the potentialities and the possibilities of 1933 brings directly into question the progress made by the New Deal in its program of reformation or revolution, depending on the political perspective from which you consider the New Deal.

It is two years since President Roosevelt carried his New Deal into the White House. Much water has gone over the dam since. Many experiments have been tried and many have failed. Doubtless considerable progress of a satisfactory form has resulted. Yet, the "sons of the wild jackass" are not satisfied. It may be because Mr. Roosevelt has ceased to pull so many white rabbits out of a hat after the fashion of a magician, that has caused unaffiliated factions so much disturbance. Or it may be because the Republicans, as the opposition party at present, have been utterly stymied in their efforts to perform opposition functions that have proved the temptation for the so-called left wingers to capitalize whatever political opportunities remain for exploitation.

I think it is the general conclusion that the New Deal has not come up to expectations of the left wingers. Perhaps, it might be said that nothing that the New Dealers can offer will be quite satisfactory to the left wingers, for they are difficult to satisfy. Their fertile minds are even more productive of experimental ideas than are the minds even of the brain trusters, and no one has ever said a brain trust mind was not fertile. At any rate, the circumstance is cut and dried and an abundance of material for a third party awaits us by that type of politician.

Observers here agree that one cannot consider the outlook for 1935, and the national elections of that time, without considering the influence that these left wingers may wield. I believe it is conceded everywhere that if Mr. Roosevelt succeeds in leading the country through to a higher level of prosperity than now graces our fortunes the Republican chances to defeat him are very, very low.

The progressives, including such men as LaFollette of Wisconsin, Norris of Nebraska, and Wheeler of Montana, to name only three, seem to feel that the New Deal program has about jelled. They know, as all political observers know, that there are a good many hundred thousand votes scattered around waiting to be cast in favor of a program much more radical than that to which Mr. Roosevelt has been willing to agree. But the progressives have a distinct problem of their own. It is an entire absence of an outstanding leader of the hero type who can sound the trumpet and call for the progressives to "follow me." My inquiries among all veins of political opinion have given me no clue to the name of an individual who can head up the movement. As I said above, however, results cannot be predicted now and one must add to that statement also that one cannot guess at the leadership of this new movement because it will have to jell further before that leadership appears on the horizon.

It is even possible that these current third party rumbblings will mean no more than they have in many cases in the past. This is true because there is not a Theodore Roosevelt in sight at the moment and some astute politicians insist there is not one in the country. If a man of the late Teddy's type and qualities should come to the surface, then probably this third party movement would develop into formidable proportions. If one does not show up, I do not see how the Progressives will be any more in 1935 than the scattered fragments of a dozen-odd political philosophies.

That brings us to some of the circumstances in congress at the present time. In previous letters I have reported to you that there were signs indicating difficulties for Mr. Roosevelt in holding his gigantic Democratic majorities together in the house and senate. That condition has become somewhat more aggravated than it appeared when I first commented upon it. There have been minor defections breaking loose from the Democratic majority in the house and in the senate with considerable frequency. On one or two occasions the defections were exceedingly large and, when joined with the Republican minority were almost large enough to constitute the majority strength. The Democratic leadership has wriggled out, thereby saving its skin, but the margin of safety was such as to cause sleepless nights not only in the Capitol, but in high places in the administration.

As one of the signs of this growing discontent, one has only to look back over the continued prodding being given the administration from the Democratic side. The worst phase of this prodding is the apparent willingness of many Democratic representatives and senators to promote investigations.

There is a faction in congress, all claiming to be good Democrats, who are on the trail of

Seek Farley's Scalp
There is another bloc of equally good Democrats who would be quite happy to have Secretary Ickes ousted out of the position of secretary of the interior and who squawked loud and long about giving Mr. Ickes control of the $5,000,000,000 relief appropriation.

Within the last few days a gang has banded together on the trail of Donald Richberg, until recently the man who was closest of any in the administration to the President. To add to Mr. Richberg's troubles, he is on the outs with the American Federation of Labor, and it must be said that the federation can do a great deal with many members of the house and senate. So when the legislation for continuance of the National Recovery Administration gets on the floor of congress I think it is likely this group will tear off some Richberg bark.

Governor Eccles of the Federal Reserve bureau, a rather new New Dealer and a fast thinker, has not helped the administration's situation in congress any by his bank bill. He has antagonized the most virulent fighter in the halls of congress, namely, Senator Glass. Democrat of Virginia, by the banking proposals which he sponsored. Senator Glass has always had a following in the senate and he has it now. Whatever he does, therefore, his leadership will be important because he will have not only his own following but the conservative Republicans as well.

The banking legislation, according to the view in many quarters, may turn out to be the focal point, the issue on which the line of cleavage between the administration New Dealers and the conservatives will be definitely established.

In discussing congressional troubles for the administration no one dares overlook the stocky figure of Senator Huey Long. Huey just does not like Mr. Roosevelt. In fact Huey would like to be President himself. Political ambitions combined with a vitriolic tongue give Huey a broad platform upon which to perform and unless I miss my guess he is willing to be increasingly troublesome to the administration.

Huey knows that the administration is going to overlook no opportunity for harpooning him. Among the executive departments in Washington, one hears hints, and sometimes more than hints, that Huey is vulnerable and that these weaknesses in his armor will be exposed in due course. How much steam the administration can or will turn on is highly problematical. It must be remembered that if, for example, Attorney General Cummings should authorize or direct any action against Huey the Louisiana senator immediately would capitalize those movements as an administration movement to persecute him. In other words the administration is in a spot where it can easily make a martyr out of Huey. The result of that would be to strengthen Huey's position immeasurably. I am told that any fighting back on the part of the administration, in so far as Huey Long is concerned, is going to be given serious consideration because Huey is a political bombshell.

Something DIFFERENT

The E. P. Clements family had some new experiences on their route home last week. As they came across western Nebraska they met what they claim was the worst dirt storm in the world, combined with some swirls of snow.

Judge Clements declares that he drove through town after town without seeing them, because of the blackness outside the car. All cars they passed had headlights burning, but were invisible to each other even when passing except for a small dim light. Of the highway, only the black line down the center of the paving showed, nothing of the ditches or fences.

The Clements report enough spars green grass in California to pasture Nebraska's drouth-thin cattle easily. Also they report good times there, with no depression talk.

An Elyria friend wants to know what conversation was about before we had the depression! And, she asks, what did newspapers write about? What news was there before this depression? "That and the drouth are all you hear now. And what did congress and the senate work on without FEERA, NRA, and all the rest of the A. B. C. organizations? For now it seems like all is public works, federal relief or something similar?"

"Did we all run out of something to talk about and now can't think of anything new so we keep on with the depression?"

I don't know. But talking about it doesn't help the situation a mite. And it does get to be a little boring, doesn't it?

But we all like sympathy, and sometimes it helps to expound our woes to another. Getting it off our chests and hearing of another's burden at least relieves us temporarily, or seems to help.

I am sure all who know Mr. Cecil Means and who hear of his plight will feel deeply for him. With a child a year or so old, Mrs. Means passed away a few days ago leaving new born twin boys. A very fine young woman with a lovely voice, Mrs. Means was highly esteemed in Albion. She hardly lived in Ord long enough to become widely known, but surely our sympathy goes to this bereaved husband with his three little motherless tots.

Mr. Means did federal land bank work in Ord for a year or two, you will remember.

Among the Ord business men who have made a success almost entirely through their own efforts, none has climbed farther nor had a steeper path than Ed Beranek. Mr. Beranek was telling friends, recently, of the long grind he put in to secure a bicycle, as a boy. For two years he emptied and cleaned spittoons from thirteen saloons in the town of Schuyler daily without pay other than the privilege of collecting the tags from a specific brand of chewing tobacco. When he had saved $5,000 of these coupons, Mr. Beranek had earned his bicycle and could take a paper route.

What did you ever work for as long and as hard as that? Quite a record, I think.

Judge and Mrs. L. B. Fenner of Burwell still have plenty of young ideas. In the severe snow storm Sunday night they started from their Burwell home to keep a social engagement in Ord, as bad as the storm was.

No, they didn't make it. They got stuck about midway between the two cities, had to walk half a mile for a team and so returned home to stay warm and comfortable. But no one can say they didn't try.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Eggs are a health food, a protective food that everyone should eat each day, even when they go up in price.

Among the many ways of serving eggs probably none is more used than custard of various types. Custard is an exceptionally good dessert for the children, and most parents like it too.

Below is a variation on the custard theme, a pie with apples in it.

Apple Custard Pie.
Peel sour apples and put on to stew until soft and not much water is left in them. Rub through a colander, beat three eggs for each apple. Use in proportion one cup butter and one cup sugar for each three pies, season with nutmeg, put in a pie shell and bake.

Mrs. C. C. Woolery, Ericson. Lace Cookies.
Sift cake flour, measure one cup, add two and one-half teaspoons baking powder and sift again. Cream together five tablespoons butter or other shortening and add one cup sugar, cream until light. Add the yolks of two eggs, well beaten, then the flour gradually, beating after each addition until smooth. Add one teaspoon vanilla, one cup shredded cocoanut, three cups post toastes and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Drop from a teaspoon on a greased baking sheet, spread thin and bake in a hot oven five to seven minutes. This makes 3 1/2 dozen cookies.

Mrs. Mike Socha. Pineapple Cake.

Mix like any cake, one and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup butter, one teaspoon vanilla, one cup crushed pineapple just as it comes from the can, two and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup cold water, three stiffly beaten egg whites.

Mrs. Charlie Huebner, Dannebrog.

Suet Pudding.
Mix together two cups sugar, two teaspoons soda, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon nutmeg and cinnamon, one tablespoon cocoa, three cups flour. Add one cup chopped suet, one cup chopped raisins and lastly one cup sweet milk and two beaten eggs. Pour into buttered pan with tight lid and steam three hours. A waterless cooker is fine for it with this pudding.

one-half cup white cup brown sugar tablespoons flour, one teaspoon vinegar and one-half or two ing water over the thickened, add butter walnut and one tables, Mrs. A. On Graham Cracker Di. Roll twenty-four grams... ers fine, add twelve marshmallows cut fine, twenty-four dates cut fine, and one-half cup chopped nuts. Moisten with one-half cup sweet cream. Make into a roll and let chill thoroughly before serving. Cut thin slices and serve with sweetened whipped cream.

Marie Lillian Smolk, Sargent.

Sweet Potatoes With Cranberries. Wash four large sweet potatoes and boil in slightly salted water until tender. Peel, cut in two lengthwise and scoop out to form a slightly hollow boat. Place in greased baking dish and fill each boat with cranberries, using one cup of cranberries in all. Melt two teaspoons butter, add one-third cup sugar, one-half cup chopped pecans and one tablespoon lemon juice. Spread over the top of potatoes and cranberries. Bake until a delicate brown.
Mrs. George Hubbard.

KEEPING FIT FOR SUCCESS
By Dr. V. E. Levine, professor of bio-chemistry and nutrition, the Creighton University School of Medicine.

MORTALITY. The greatest number of deaths in this country result from a few diseases—from diseases of the heart, from diseases of the respiratory tract, especially from pneumonia and tuberculosis, from kidney disease, and from accidents.

Up to a few years ago we may state that the infectious diseases were the greatest cause of mortality. Smallpox, yellow fever, the bubonic plague, tuberculosis, pneumonia, diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, typhoid, cholera dysentery and other infections took the greatest toll in human lives.

The medical sciences have accomplished marvels in the direction of developing methods for preventing infections and curing them: Immunization has made it possible for the human being, if he is health-conscious, to prevent death from smallpox, diphtheria, typhoid fever, paratyphoid fever, dysentery, beriberi and scurvy.

Preventive measures for scarlet fever and measles will no doubt soon be perfected. Much research is being done in an effort to produce potent serums for various types of pneumonia. Interesting work is progressing that has an important bearing on the prevention of tuberculosis.

The nutritional diseases, scurvy and beriberi, can be easily prevented. In fact all nutritional disorders can be abolished by attention to proper diet.

If we judge from the scientific progress already made in the matter of preventing or curing disease, we may state with confidence that we may expect within the next thirty or forty years to be able to prevent practically all the infectious diseases that affect the human race and bring about premature death.

While deaths from infectious diseases are already on the decline, we are becoming aware of a new monster in the form of the wear-and-tear diseases or degenerative diseases, the result of the fast and furious pace with which many lead the strenuous life. Year by year the mortality statistics show a decrease due to deaths from infections and a corresponding increase in deaths due to degenerative diseases.

It must also be said that certain afflictions are becoming more common because of the greater age which the individual reaches. Heart disease, arteriosclerosis, high blood pressure, diabetes, kidney diseases, diseases of the liver and gall bladder, and also cancer are generally believed to appear late in life. The great problem of the next generation will be conquest of the degenerative diseases. We must sooner or later find some way of cutting down very materially the death rate for heart disease, high blood pressure, arteriosclerosis, cancer, diabetes, nephritis and other degenerative diseases.

Increasing length of life is not a sufficient ideal in itself. To lengthen we must add depth, health and freedom from economic instability.

WELCOME Newcomers!!

March 1st is here

AND

A large number of Valley County Farms will have new owners or new tenants.

Many of Valley County's GOOD FARMERS have moved to other parts of the country and, although we were sorry to see them leave, we hope that good fortune will smile on them in their new homes. Most of them were patrons of this institution and our employees were their friends. NEW PEOPLE are coming in to take their places and we want you to know that your business will be appreciated here.

WE PAY CASH for CREAM, POULTRY and EGGS. You can depend on correct weights and tests, prompt service and courteous treatment. This Creamery has been in business over eight years and during that time we have paid back to producers over ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS in Patronage Cream Dividends, besides accumulating a surplus fund ample to finance our operations.

This Creamery is owned by farmers and the board of Directors is composed of NINE Land Owners, seven of whom are operating their own farms in this community.

THE ORD CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY CO.

Feeds Seeds

We have a number of cars of good Alfalfa hay, Prairie hay, Oat Straw, and Foxtail hay in the last part of this week. This all good quality hay and straw.

We unloaded our carload of forage seeds last week and as we bought this seed about four months ago, we are prepared to make you a very low price on this seed, and it would be well to get your supply at this time.

NATIONAL FLOWER SHOW

We secured a number of advance tickets for the National Flower Show to be held in Omaha next month and we can furnish them while our supply lasts at 40c each. Call early for these tickets as we have only a limited amount of them.

NOLL Seed Co. Ord

Anniversary Week

This is anniversary week with us and we are making Special Prices on everything in the store. Come in and select the article you want and you will get it at the Special Price. We appreciate very much the nice business that the people of Ord and Community have given us and as we start in on our Eighth year here in Ord we can assure that we will do our best to furnish you with the best possible merchandise at the lowest price. In the past we have not catered to cheap grades of merchandise but have always bought the highest grade available and we plan to continue this policy. We invite all old customers in to see us this week and if you have not been one of our customers come in this week and see the stock of goods we carry and get our prices. We think if you get acquainted with us that you will be back when you need anything in our line.

Auble-Grams Went Over The Top!

When we published our first AUBLE-GRAM last week we hoped that it would meet with public favor but did not anticipate the tremendous interest it created. More than 25 letters, as many phone calls and even more personal calls brought solutions.

Last week's winners were:

1. Dr. Deerickf Ldraon gBleski.
2. rsmeurfrklac.
3. J. O. Miamramzn.

This week's AUBLE-GRAM is a little harder but you'll enjoy working it out. Each combination of letters forms a word when rearranged and the words will form a complete sentence. We offer as prizes to the first people reporting the correct solution:

5 Gal. Sinclair Gas to 1st City Resident
5 Gal. Sinclair Gas to 1st Country Resident.
5 Gal. Sinclair Gas to 2nd Country Resident.
