ORD - OVERTON CLASH TODAY IN DISTRICT MEET

Ord Seeded in Top Bracket At Gothenburg, Must Beat North Platte to Reach Finals.

Nine Ord high school basketball players, accompanied by Coach Helmut Brockman and Supt. M. D. Bell, left this morning for Gothenburg where the Chanticleers are competing in the Class A district tournament. Their first game is against Overton at 5:00 p. m. today and since Overton has had an indifferent season the Ord team should win without difficulty.

Seeded in the top bracket, Ord has an excellent chance to go to the semi-finals where they will probably meet North Platte, also a seeded team. To reach the semi-finals Ord must beat Overton in the first game and Elm Creek, which drew a bye, in the second conflict Friday evening. North Platte plays Burwell in the opening round and the winner of the Lexington-Ogallala game in the second round.

Tougher competition exists in the lower bracket than in the top. Teams in this bracket include Kearney, Grant, Cozad, Arnold, Ansley, Gothenburg and Broken Bow. Kearney is favored to win in this bracket and will meet either North Platte or Ord in the finals, unless some upset occurs.

During the regular playing season the Chanticleers beat both Ansley and Broken Bow by lopsided scores but lost to Kearney by the margin of 28 to 10. Other teams entered in the district tourney have not been met, with the exception of Burwell.

Only a few fans accompanied the Ord team to Gothenburg this morning but should the Chanticleers win against Overton and Elm Creek a large delegation is planning to go there to boost for victory in the Ord-North Platte clash at 2:00 p. m. Saturday. Ord in this game will put Ord into the finals at 9:15 p. m. Saturday and victory in this clash would give the Chanticleers their first district championship and entitle them to play in the state tournament at Lincoln next week.

L. O. Breternitz, Gothenburg superintendent of schools, is tournament director and officials are C. H. Hare, of Nebraska Wesleyan, and E. B. Karr, of Arkansas. Admission charges are 25c for first round games, 35c at quarter finals, 40c at semi-finals and 50c at finals, or a season ticket may be bought for $1.25. The Ord team shares in tournament receipts.

Albert Sherbarth Critically Injured

Albert Sherbarth, who lives eight miles northwest of Burwell, was critically injured last Friday. He was hauling clay for highway work and his team became frightened, knocking him down and pulling the loaded wagon over him. All the ribs in his right side were torn loose from the backbone. He is still alive and has a fair chance for recovery. Mr. Sherbarth is well known in the Mira Valley community.

Rain, Snow, Bring Promise of Crops

Prophesies that plenty of moisture will come this spring and 1935 will be a good crop year are being heard as a result of about 1-1/2 inch of moisture that has fallen so far in March. Sunday a drizzling rain fell all day, bringing about 1-1/2 inch of moisture, and yesterday a three-inch snow fell. The snow was not accompanied by wind and the ground was completely covered with a blanket of white for the first time this winter. Other snows have drifted badly and have failed to provide much benefit. The snow yesterday contained about 1-2 inch of moisture it is thought. More rain or snow is prophesied for the balance of this week.

Hog Processing Tax.

In answer to a letter regarding the collection of processing tax on hogs purchased and slaughtered by the purchaser for his own use, Mr. O'Malley, collector of Internal Revenue replied as follows:

"Kindly be advised that under date of February 27, 1935, this office received a carbon copy of a letter from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C., in which letter the Commissioner rules that in the case of a person purchasing a live hog, then processing or slaughtering it, using the pork products in his home for consumption of himself and family, that there is no tax due, provided that the individual makes a bona fide purchase of the live hog and uses all of the products that the individual makes a of the products are sold or otherwise disposed of, then the individual becomes liable for tax on the entire live weight of the hog."

Earthquake Shock Was Felt in Ord

A light earthquake which shook four states and apparently centered in the southeast corner of Nebraska at an early hour last Friday morning was felt in Ord. There were two shocks, the first at 5:00 and the second at 5:04. Each lasted but few seconds. No damage was done although Lincoln residents reported pictures were shaken askew and buildings swayed perceptibly.

In Ord the shocks were felt by Miss Iola Mae Williams, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Williams, who was awakened by them. "The first shock almost knocked me out of bed and when the second came I could see the bureau shake," Miss Williams reported. She lived in California for some time and knew what was happening at once, unlike other Ord people who thought an explosion had occurred somewhere in the city. Ben Eberhart, of the Maiden Valley vicinity, reports feeling the tremor there.

Geologists at the University of Nebraska stated Friday that people of the middlewest need have no fear of a severe quake. Minor earthquakes may be expected occasionally but the geological bed rock of this country is stable, they said.

SET MARCH 23 AS FINAL DATES FOR CORN-HOG

Some Now Coming Into State But Valley Co. Distributors Must First File Bonds.

Slowness of distributors authorized to handle government barley and oats seed in Valley county in filling the required bonds may delay shipment of seed somewhat but it will arrive well in advance of planting requirements, County Agent C. C. Dale estimated yesterday. About 200,000 bushels of Nebraska's quota of 300,000 has already reached the state, he said.

For distribution in Valley county 26,000 pounds of seed, oats and 10,000 pounds of seed barley were ordered. These amounts will supplement the supply available through farmers and private dealers and will provide ample for this county, it is figured.

Authorized distributors are Farmers Grain & Supply company in Ord and North Loup and Roy Clark in Arcadia. The Farmers company must file bond of $5,000 at the federal district office in Minneapolis and Clark must file bond of $2,000 before the seed will be shipped here. Both dealers are said to be making arrangements to file the required bonds. Arrangements to make federal seed loans available to Valley county farmers are going forward but necessary supplies have not yet been received, it was claimed yesterday. Jos. P. Barta, chairman of the feed loan committee, will also handle seed loans.

61st Anniversary Of House Building

Truman Freeland, old Indian scout and one of the first settlers in the Loup valley region, attended the Charlie Meyers farm sale south of Burwell Monday. Mr. Freeland rarely ventures away from home because of his advanced years and told people at the sale that his presence was due to the fact that Monday, March 4, was the 61st anniversary of the day Seth Wadco Scoville hauled the first load of logs to build a cabin on the present Meyers farm. At that time the farm was located in Taylor county and comprised the present Wheeler, Garfield and Loup counties.

No trace of the log cabin built by Scoville remains but Mr. Freeland celebrated his remembrance of it anyway.

To Lincoln Sanitarium.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Sutton have gone to Bailey's sanitarium, Green Gables in Lincoln, for care and treatment. Neither one has been at all well this winter. Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Chase and Dr. W. S. Waite came to help their relatives close the house and make the trip.

Enjoy Visit with Daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. James have been enjoying a visit with their daughters. Mrs. Edith Skinner of Herman has been here for a few days, and Miss Ruth James, having completed her course in the Lincoln Business college came home to make her parents a brief visit. She will return to Lincoln soon to make her home with Mrs. William Selck, formerly Miss Marianne James.

CHAMBER HONORS 25 NEW MEMBERS AT DINNER FRID'Y

High School Athletic Teams Also Guests, Ed Weir As Speaker; Catholic Ladies Served.

The most successful membership drive in the annals of the Ord Chamber of Commerce was concluded last Friday evening with a banquet served in the basement of the Masonic hall by ladies of the Catholic church, new Chamber members being honored guests along with Coach Helmut Brockman and his Ord athletic team. Ed Weir, assistant coach at the University of Nebraska, was principal speaker.

Freeman Haught, vice-president of the Chamber and head of its membership committee, led the drive that added 25 members to the rolls and gave Ord's business organization impetus for 1935.

About 225 people were seated at long tables in the Masonic basement Friday as the banquet, a two-course affair, got under way. As guests did justice to the delicious meal a string quartet composed of Orville Sowl, Dr. F. L. Blessing, Horace Travis and Edwin Clements, furnished music. Mrs. Sowl, at the piano, accompanied the orchestra.

H. D. Leggett, substituting for President Val Pullen, introduced John P. Misko as toastmaster and Mr. Misko in turn introduced Coach Brockman, Leonard Great-house and Kenneth Michels, who spoke on behalf of the Ord schools and the basketball and football teams.

Miss Clara L. McClatchey, as head of the Business and Professional Women's club which was meeting jointly with the Chamber of Commerce, spoke briefly. Three selections were given by the American Legion's male chorus of 14 voices, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Kirby McGrew.

When the conference was arranged for March 1 it was expected that Congress would immediately pass the PWA bill but a bitter fight for insertion of McCarran's "prevailing wage" resolution caused the bill to be sent back to committee. What action will be taken by the Senate on the next vote remains to be seen, some senators advocating cutting the new appropriation down to about 2 billion dollars to be used for relief purposes only and others favoring the plan outlined by President Roosevelt which would open the way for development of projects like the North and Middle Loups.

Pasture Meeting At High School Today

At 2:00 this afternoon at the Ord high school auditorium, Professor F. O. Keim of the University of Nebraska college of agriculture will lead a discussion on temporary and permanent pastures, his talk being sponsored by the F. F. A. organization of Ord high school. The Keim meeting will be attended by a large crowd of farmers.

Sadie Collison Wed To Willard Cornell

Miss Sadie Collison became the bride of Willard Cornell at seven o'clock Sunday morning at a quiet ceremony performed by Rev. Willard McCarthy of the Christian church. Only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mason.

The bride was becomingly clad in a dark blue silk ensemble with velvet ribbon trim, and a large blue hat to accessories. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Collison, and is a graduate of Ord high school and has for several years been cashier in the Golden Rule store. The groom is also a local citizen, the son of A. W. Cornell. Both young people are popular and have the heartiest wishes of their friends for a long and happy wedded career.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Cornell left for Brainerd and other places where they will visit for a week. After that they will be at home on the old Tully farm about four miles north of Ord.

Fined for Intoxication.

Arrested in the west end of town by Sheriff George Round Monday evening, Edward Peterson, 20, paid a fine of $20 and costs when he appeared in county court on a charge of intoxication Tuesday.

Spent Week in Ord with Father.

Mrs. Robert Oliver of Onawa, Ia., left last Wednesday morning after spending a week with her father, Dr. C. W. Weekes. She went from Ord to Tekamah to see her mother, Mrs. Stipp, who had been there looking after business matters for about three weeks.

Jensen Will Move Huge Building At Weller Yard

Next Monday John K. Jensen and his house moving crew will tackle what is probably the biggest building moving job of their long career when they move a central lumber shed at the Weller Lumber Company yard in Ord. This building, which is 140 feet long and 40 feet wide, will be moved west about 40 feet.

Extensive remodeling is under way at the Weller yard. The office has been rebuilt and is being redecorated and many changes are being made in the yard also.

Verne Weller, who came to Ord a few weeks ago and became secretary of the Weller Lumber Co., Inc., when it was reorganized with F. M. Weller, of Greeley, Colo., as president, is directing the extensions and improvements. He likes Ord very much, Mr. Weller says.

VEATCH'S TALK WITH ICKES HAS BEEN POSTPONED

Failure of New PWA Bill To Pass Immediately Will Hold Up All New Projects.

Announcing that approval of new projects would have to await passage of President Roosevelt's $4,880,000,000 public works bill, Harold L. Ickes, head of the PWA, last Friday postponed indefinitely his scheduled conference with N. T. Veatch, Jr., engineer for the North Loup power and irrigation project, according to word received by Bert M. Hardenbrook from Senators Burke and Norris.

When the conference was arranged for March 1 it was expected that Congress would immediately pass the PWA bill but a bitter fight for insertion of McCarran's "prevailing wage" resolution caused the bill to be sent back to committee. What action will be taken by the Senate on the next vote remains to be seen, some senators advocating cutting the new appropriation down to about 2 billion dollars to be used for relief purposes only and others favoring the plan outlined by President Roosevelt which would open the way for development of projects like the North and Middle Loups.

No further word concerning the coming of Dr. Elwood Mead, head of the federal reclamation bureau, has been received by local officials.

Both the North and Middle Loup projects have received approval from the Nebraska planning board, appointed recently to submit meritorious projects to Washington officials for consideration in the new PWA program. Approval by this board was considered necessary to secure for these projects favorable reconsideration at Washington.

Legion Observing 16th Anniversary

The American Legion will celebrate its 16th anniversary Saturday evening, March 16, with a nation-wide broadcast over the facilities of the NBC. The program will be heard from 5 to 6 o'clock here. Speakers include Frank N. Belgrano, Jr., Legion commander, Mrs. A. C. Carlson, Auxiliary president, John D. Crowley, head of the Forty and Eight, and others. Varied musical and entertainment features will be given.

Nebraska Legislat're Took Spring Recess

The Nebraska legislature took its regular spring adjournment Feb. 27, reconvening yesterday, and during the six-day recess Senator Alvin Blessing and Rep. Marlon J. Cushing were in Ord interviewing their constituents to learn what action people want before the law-making body.

Before adjourning the legislature passed the governor's relief measures, including the special 1c gasoline tax for relief purposes which went into effect March 1 having been passed with the emergency clause. Legislation extending the moratorium on farm mortgage foreclosures also went into effect immediately after passage.

Arcadia Infant in Hillcrest.

Eugene, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Parker of Arcadia, has been very ill the past week. He is in Hillcrest under the care of Dr. C. W. Weekes, suffering with appendicitis and pneumonia.

FREIGHT STOLEN FROM PETERSON TRUCK IS FOUND

State Senator Arrested at Wahoo As Receiver Solen Property When Omahan Confesses.

When Roy J. Smith, 21-year-old desperado, was arrested at Omaha last week on a charge of murdering a police officer, a chain of circumstances was forged that resulted in the recovery of about $1,000 worth of freight high-jacked last summer from a truck owned by Kenneth Peterson, of Burwell. Additional results include the arrest of Dr. Joseph Kaspar, of Prague, on charges of receiving stolen property.

On June 6, 1934, the Peterson truck with Lloyd Werber as driver was proceeding toward Ord with a cargo of freight consigned to Ord and Burwell firms. Near Columbus it was high-jacked, Werber was set afoot and the robbers drove off with the truck. Later the empty truck was found but what became of its contents remained a mystery until the arrest of young Smith in Omaha.

Smith, who killed R. E. Wolfe, an Omaha officer, and was captured, confessed his entire career of crime including the high-jacking of the Peterson truck. In his confession he involved Dr. Kaspar, who is a state senator now serving in the upper house of the Nebraska legislature.

After Smith's confession Saunders county officers searched the farm of Thomas Novotny, near Colon, Neb., which is owned by Dr. Kaspar, and there found a windmill, a washing machine, some canned goods and other merchandise allegedly included in the load of freight high-jacked from the Peterson truck.

In Wahoo last Thursday Dr. Kaspar was arraigned in justice' court on four warrants and complaints charging him with receiving loot from a hold-up of the Elks club in Omaha and from the Peterson high-jacking, with concealing the car used by Smith and his companions in the Omaha shooting and with harboring criminals. He pleaded not guilty and was released on $20,000 bail furnished by Emil Placek and John Vanek, of Wahoo. Novotny, his tenant, was released on $5,000 bond.

Most of the Prague and Wahoo men concerned in this case are well known in Valley county and some of them have relatives here. Truckman Peterson has been subpoenaed to testify at a preliminary hearing in the Kaspar case at Wahoo tomorrow morning.

Buy's Farm Near Arcadia.

Dean Gray, of Hastings, general manager of Food Centers, Inc., owners of stores in Ord and Arcadia, last week purchased Mrs. George Johnson's farm east of Arcadia and is looking for a tenant. He bought the farm as an investment, Mr. Gray says.

First Clement Sale Wednesday, Mar. 13

R. Clare Clement this week is advertising a combination sale of livestock and machinery to be held at the farm of Mrs. G. G. Clement and sons south of Ord next Wednesday, March 13. The offering includes thirteen head of work horses, four good milk cows and an exceptionally large line of machinery. E. C. Weller is the auctioneer.

First 'Baby' Bonds Go On Sale In Ord

A supply of the new "baby" government bonds was received last week by the Ord postoffice for sale to the general public. These bonds are in denominations of $25, $50, $100, $500 and $1,000 and run for a period of ten years. A bond worth $25 at maturity costs $18.75, a $50 bond costs $37.50, a $100 bond costs $75, a $500 bond costs $375, and a $1,000 bond costs $750.

These bonds are fine investments for people of moderate means. Protection against loss or destruction is afforded by registering the purchaser's name on the books of the United States treasury, or the government will hold the bond in safekeeping for the owner.

Postmaster Edwin Clements said Monday that one $500 bond has already been sold here.

Interest Shown in Bill Garnick.

At the Chamber of Commerce banquet Friday evening in the movie reels shown by Ed Weir of the University of Nebraska was a picture of Bill Garnick in football working harness. A good round of applause showed the interest of home folks in Bill and his career at Lincoln.

County Judge Gives Report of Business

John L. Andersen, Valley county judge, this week compiled a report of activities of his office during the first two years of his incumbency, showing that he has been kept busy by the variety of different legal matters that a county judge must care for. In the years 1933 and 1934 there have been 65 estates probated, 10 guardianship matters handled, 4 adoptions, 2 commitments to the Nebraska home for feeble-minded, 1 mother's pension case, 119 civil cases, 119 marriage licenses issued and 69 criminal matters heard.

Cushing Is Speaker.

Herbert L. Cushing, former Ord school superintendent who is now serving as deputy state superintendent of schools at Lincoln, Sunday afternoon addressed the Y. M. C. A. men's forum at Lincoln. He expressed fear that federal aid for state education might eventually mean national control of our school system. He pointed out that all possible aid to schools should come from the state government, thus tending to minimize danger of federal interference.

EXPECT GOVT BARLEY, OATS, FOR SEED SOON

AAA Rules All Contracts Must Be Signed in Next 2 Weeks; Appraisals To Start.

Saturday, March 23, has been fixed by AAA officials as the closing date for signing corn-hog applications in Valley county, announced County Agent C. C. Dale yesterday and with only two weeks remaining farmers who expect to sign contracts are urged to do so at once. So far 925 applications have been signed.

Appraisal work will be started by township committees next week. Committees are instructed to visit all non-signers as well as signers and whenever a non-signer indicates that he intends to sign before March 23 a corn yield appraisal of his farm will be made. If appraisals must be made after the township committees have finished their rounds of the townships, it will be necessary for late signers to pay expenses of such appraisals.

Ord Seniors to Try For Uni Scholarships

Ord high school seniors will again have an opportunity this spring to compete for 250 tuition scholarships to the University of Nebraska offered by its board of regents. Students in the upper fourth of their graduating class may be entered by the superintendent or principal for the contest April 11, 12, 13. Entries must be at the University by March 23.

Winners of scholarships for the first semester of next year will be announced in time for the graduation exercises in the spring. Examinations will be held in the local high school on April 11, 12 and 13, in at least five subjects. There will be English and algebra classification tests for all contestants and at least three other academic examinations based upon the student's high school work and the field he intends to follow at the University of Nebraska. Scholarships are available for all undergraduate colleges.

In addition to the winners, a number of alternates will be named who may be granted scholarships if the winners do not claim all the 250 awards. These scholarships are made for the first semester of the school year, and renewed if the student's work justifies it.

Since the first state contest was held in 1932 some 400 students have attended the University of Nebraska on such tuition grants. Of the number won last year, 165 are now being used by students in school.

Winners of regents' scholarships rank well above the average in school work at the University, a survey made recently by the extension division shows. Among the upperclassmen now enrolled who won such awards for the freshman year, more than 60 per cent rank over 80 in grades. About half the former scholarship holders have average grades over 85; and only one is below 75 per cent.

Joint School Redecorated.

Work of redecorating the interior of Joint school house was completed recently, adding greatly to the appearance of the building. The grounds also were leveled, all work being done by FERA workmen so the district had little expense.

Able to Leave Hospital.

MILBURN BEATS ELBA, 32-30, TO WIN IN CLASS B

Tiny Custer Co. School Sends Best Cage Team to Tourney In Ord Last Week.

By the narrow margin of 2 points, a tiny school in Custer county—Milburn, which has a total enrollment of 23, including only 11 boys—last week won the Class B basketball championship in the district tournament held in Ord. Milburn's victim, Elba, had been favored to win the tourney but the Custer county quintet played bang-up basketball throughout the three-day meet and Saturday evening edged out Elba in a thriller, the final score being 32 to 30.

The tournament, all games of which were played in the high school auditorium, began at 1:00 p. m. Thursday and play continued every afternoon and evening until Saturday.

Sixteen teams were entered but one school, Gates, forfeited its first round game to Elba. Other first round results were: Milburn 34, Dry Valley 19; North Loup 34, Horace 5; Farwell 32, Dannebrog 28; Scotia 27, Ashton 25; Taylor 27, Wiggle Creek 24; Westerville 23, Berwyn 13; Comstock 19, Merna 17.

North Loup, the only Valley county school entered, lost to the championship Milburn team in the quarter-finals Friday, the count being 24 to 19. Coach Jesse Thorpe's team put up a valiant battle but the larger Milburn lads played too much basketball for them. Other quarter-final results were: Scotia 39, Farwell 33; Taylor 27, Westerville 18; Elba 27, Comstock 13.

In the semi-finals Saturday afternoon Elba and Milburn won the right to play for the championship in the evening, Elba eliminating Taylor, 37 to 18, and Milburn disposing of Scotia without much difficulty, 43 to 29.

Several thrilling clashes occurred during the tourney but the finale Saturday evening had spectators gasping for breath much of the time. Milburn took an early lead and held it until in the third quarter, when Elba went ahead momentarily. Elba challenged throughout, however.

Tourney stars were Longren, Milburn forward, and Zeig, Elba's big center. Kimber also played a nice game at forward for Elba. Tournament officials made no attempt to choose an "all" team as sometimes done.

Attendance throughout the tournament was unsatisfactory, reports Millard D. Bell, director. Officials were pleased with the number of fans who attended but many of the teams entered was accompanied to Ord by any considerable number of fans.

Hazel Railsback, Merrill Flynn, Wed

A surprise to the many friends of the young couple was the announcement of the marriage of Miss Hazel Railsback to Merrill Flynn, which took place in Sharon Springs, Kas., on May 25, 1934 and had been kept secret until a few days ago. A big wedding dance Friday evening proved the esteem in which this popular pair are held. Mrs. Flynn is a Una, Colo. girl who has been teaching high school subjects in the Haskell Creek school for the past few years. Mr. Flynn is a son of Frank Flynn.

Mrs. Flynn plans to complete her term of school this year, and after that the newlyweds will reside on the Misko farm on the Arcadia highway which the groom is farming. At present they are very busy accepting congratulations.

Will Build Walks As FERA Project

Walks will be built around the court yard as an FERA project, according to plans made by Valley county supervisors at their March meeting Tuesday. Materials will be furnished by the county and all labor done by FERA workers. The buildings and grounds committee is now getting estimates of the cost of two kinds of walks, gravel and cement, and the work will start in the near future.

Friends of the vicinity will be sorry to learn of the death of Mrs. Everett Jacobson, wife of a former Davis Creek pastor. Mrs. Jacobson was killed instantly in an auto collision near Vermillion, S. D., about three weeks ago. Rev. Jacobson, with his three children accompanied by John Williams of Davis Creek with whom the family have been visiting, were Saturday evening callers at the Ed Post home.

Kenneth Vanhorn left via train Monday morning for Farina, Ill., where he has secured employment on a farm with relatives of his father.

Mrs. Mary Davis came up from Grant, Nebr., Friday with her grandson, Ainslie Davis of Plattville, Colo., who is visiting at the Clark hotel home in Scotia. The visitors returned to their respective homes, Tuesday.

The Standard Bearers, a group of mission study girls were entertained Tuesday evening, Feb. 26, at the home of Miss Berdine Ingerson. Preceding the social hour a review of a portion of the Study book Typhoons in Japan, was given by their leaders, Madams Stella Kerr and Tillie Barnhart.

Frank Johnson, Rev. and Mrs. Stephens and Mrs. Fred Bartz attended a Stewardship service of Methodist churches delivered by a layman, Mr. E. Dow Bancroft of Chicago, at the M. E. church in Ord. Representatives were present from Burwell and Scotia. The message was vital and most thought provoking. The ladies of the church served a lunch of coffee and cookies following the address.

At the regular monthly meeting of the school board Monday evening, Mr. Jesse Thorpe was re-elected to the third and fourth grades and Miss Hall (again) to Rural. Lloyd Ingerson was again elected janitor. Owing to the late hour, no further elections were made at this meeting.

Sup't. W. D. Bailey presided over a special meeting of superintendents and other school boards held at Arcadia Wednesday last week, the primary object being to advocate substitution of a sales tax in preference to the present real estate tax burden. Others attending from North Loup were: Ford Eyrely, Cloyd Ingerson and Mrs. W. D. Bailey.

Mrs. Agnes Manchester with her pupils at district 42, featured a little party at the school house Friday afternoon, honoring two of their students, who were moving away. Mary Van Ness, who with her parents and sister Edith left Monday morning via auto for their new location in Oklahoma. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Van Ness and family have been residents of district 42 for a number of years and will be greatly missed by their many friends of this community. The Cliff Klingler family of Gothenburg are moving onto the Van Ness farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Banta and two children have established their residence in North Loup for the present. They had formerly expected to locate in Scotia.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Preston write from California where they have been enjoying a sojourn for the past two months that they are slowly wending their way homeward, coming via the southern Always a dumping ground for inferior seeds and feeds, Nebraska has recently been made the unloading place for an inferior grain sorghum called Hegari. Some outside dealers have shipped in this unadapted forage crop and sold it as Atlas Sorgo.

This misrepresentation has been made easy because of the shortage of seed of that popular new crop, Atlas Sorgo, together with the enormous demand for it. Fraudulent dealers are given many opportunities to substitute the cheaper Hegari at a clean profit of about two hundred percent. Complications are added by the fact that none of the real Atlas Sorgo raised last year in Nebraska was strictly pure.

The questionable Hegari comes from the irrigated sections of Arizona. Our state has received the worst dose of this poor substitute because of our lax regulations, and nearness to Arizona. A Nebraska middleman recently sold to a Kansas City company, 30,000 pounds of Hegari under the name of Atlas Sorgo. Two other Kan-

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Raisins are a product that you need not sneer at and fail to consider in planning your menus. Raisins are full of fruit sugar, of valuable minerals, especially iron. They are good for every member of the family, children too. They are available the year around and quickly add a flavorsome, parried touch to simple puddings and cakes. They are good in cookies, in pies, or in sauces to serve with meats. Don't neglect to use them.

Orange-Raisin Cake.
Mix and let stand the juice of one large orange and one cup of sugar. This is the frosting part of the cake. Combine for the cake one cup sugar, one-half cup shortening, two eggs, one teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt, one cup sour milk, two cups flour, one teaspoon vanilla, one cup of ground raisins, the rind of the orange, also ground. I use dates and nuts when desired to make a richer cake. Mix as any cake and bake in a moderate oven. When about done, spread the sugar and orange juice over evenly, and finish baking.

Myra Thorngate Barber. Prune Conservé.
Soak one and one-half pounds prunes for twenty-four hours. Simmer one hour. Seed and chop fine, the result should be three cups. Add one cup chopped raisins, two whole oranges which have been ground, two cups sugar, and one and one-half cups of the juice in which the prunes were cooked. Cook one-half hour or until thick stirring constantly. Very good if you like prunes.

Mrs. Jesse Manchester. Quick Puffball Doughnuts.
Mix one cup sugar and one cup warm mashed potatoes until smooth. (If you use left-over mashed potatoes omit salt from this recipe). Add two well-beaten eggs, then one cup milk, and seasonings. A variety of flavors may be obtained by using one or more of the following: one-half teaspoon nutmeg, or one teaspoon vanilla, or three tablespoons cocoa (sifted into the flour) or one-half cup chopped nuts or one-half cup chopped raisins or dates. Next add two and one-fourth cups flour sifted with two teaspoons baking powder, and one-fourth teaspoon salt. The dough should be thick but somewhat softer than for rolled doughnuts. Drop from a teaspoon into fat hot enough to brown a cube of bread in one minute. Drain on brown paper. These doughnuts take hardly any time to make and do not absorb the fat in frying.

milk, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon nutmeg, one teaspoon soda, three and one-half cups flour, one cup chopped nuts, one pound raisins. Dissolve one teaspoon soda in a little hot water, add the beaten whites of three eggs last.

Mrs. Ernest Johnson, R. 1, North Loup.

Apple Sauce Drop Cookies.
Cream together one-half cup shortening, one cup sugar added gradually, then one and one-half cups unsweetened applesauce, one-half cup chopped nuts, one cup raisins, and mix well. Drop from a spoon on greased cookie sheet and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) twenty-five to thirty minutes.

Mrs. O. M. McClure, 2651 Java, Denver, Colo.

Mallobets.
Melt twenty-five marshmallows in one cup hot milk, allow to cool. Add the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs and one cup of cream beaten stiff, blending until smooth after each addition. Add one teaspoon vanilla. For tutti fruiti add a small can of crushed pineapple, one-half cup chopped maraschino cherries and one-half cup chopped nuts. Freeze one-half hour, then stir, freezing about three hours in all.

PALPITATION.

In health we are unconscious of the action of the heart. Under unusual conditions, however, there may develop an irregular or forcible action of the heart perceptible to the individual. This action on the part of the heart is known as palpitation.

The chief symptoms of the irritable heart is palpitation with great frequency of the pulse on exertion, dyspnea or shortness of breath, and a variable amount of cardiac pain. The heart beats violently, pulsating visibly against the chest wall. The arteries throb forcibly, and there is a sense of great distress. The skin may appear flushed.

Palpitation may be associated with organic diseases of the heart involving the myocardium or the heart muscle itself or the valves of the heart.

Palpitation may be a sequence of acute fevers.

Palpitation may result from the action upon the heart of certain substances, such as tobacco or alcohol. Persons who are sensitive to coffee may develop cardiac palpitation when partaking of this beverage.

Palpitations most often occur with neurotic or hysterical people. In normal people it very often occurs as a result of fright. As a rule, palpitation seems to be a purely nervous phenomenon seldom associated with organic diseases of the heart.

Females are more liable to develop palpitation than males.

The irritable heart producing the effects of palpitation was very common among the young soldiers during the Civil War and was frequently met with among soldiers in the World War.

People having an irritable or nervous heart should avoid overwork and excitement. They should learn to look upon life in a sensible way so as not to be profoundly perturbed by every little wind that blows.

People suffering from an irritable or nervous heart should go to their dentist to have all dental abnormalities corrected and to their physician to have all physical defects corrected. Special importance should be attached to the curing of anemia, however mild, and to the bringing up of the diet to its maximum of nutritional efficiency.

People suffering from an irritable heart should avoid tobacco and alcohol.

Wednesday morning. The roads having been shoveled out yesterday, we began our weekly pilgrimage by stopping first at Frank Segal's. He is a new man, having just moved on to the old Jay VanHorn place from the Sterneck farm east of Sumter. The boy came out of the house and talked a few minutes, about farming, and drouth, which is an easy subject nowadays to start off on. He said his father was shoveling snow. Three husky shepherd dogs greeted me lustily into and out of the yard, and also our visit was intercepted now and then with the din.

Across the road to the tenant house on the Nebr. Security feed yards. Lloyd VanHorn lives there. Lloyd was away, but his wife chatted a minute. She said they could hardly get enough money to feed their seven kids, to say nothing of buying papers. But the kids are a dandy nice bunch at that. I know, for I give them a ride toward school and church frequently. Many people much poorer than these folk take the sheet, and deem it indispensable to life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. They had a pair of little white dogs that did not seem to be overly in love with us.

On east to the quondam Nebr. Security feed yard headquarters, where Ed Christensen lives. He was gone, also shoveling roads. Gee, but I am glad I have a good job so I can get out of that snow heaving business. Anyway his wife, Dick and I visited a minute, and talked over the intricacies of a developing surprise party we were both invited to that evening. Ed is going into the turkey business this summer along with his many other tasks. The turkeys sauntered around close by, the gobbler strutting his limit and thumping now and then for good measure.

On south and west to Jim Johnson's. Jim was far out in the field making fence, and I, naturally being exceedingly lazy and enjoying watching the other fellow work, hurried at the back door step and chinned the women. Dick became industrious and pumped a pall of water, which demonstrated one trait he did not get from his pa. Anyway we discussed the affairs of the universe. We also talked over the chicken business, in which Jim and Nina are involved and which is paying a profit even in these hard times. White Rocks is their breed.

Not venturing to the by-ways for fear of bad roads, I retraced our course back north and pulled to a halt at the old Byron Johnson place, where now resides Bill Graff. They are new people in the vicinity, and new people at the farming business. Everything was spic and span about the yard. A tiny white pup raced back and forth, and I saw you in his gladness to see us and play with the boy. Bill was gone, but his smiling wife said they did not know anyone around here and the paper would be just like reading so much Greek to them. I suggested it might be a good way to get acquainted, but my sales talk seemed to take no effect.

I have heard it said that the best farms in the county are in this neighborhood. That is taking in a lot of territory, but anyway this old Byron Johnson place, along with a few others I am coming to are crowding the wire. Even the best are not much good in drouths like last year.

Across the road to the Louis VanEss place. There I found some of the husbands of the women I had been visiting. They were getting ready for Louis' sale to be held Thursday. Louis had some mighty fine stuff there, but that is past history now. Cliff Klinger is moving there soon, and Louis is moving to Oklahoma, so I hear. Louis has been one of the crack horsemen in the country and a mighty good farmer too. He has also been a good member on the 42 school board, and township board. Everything is always neat around that place.

On north to Ign. Pokraka's. Another prize farm, some proclaiming it to be the best in the country. The car was gone, and so were they as far as I could see, at least they did not answer my knock. As I sauntered back to the car, Dick pointed to a sign I had failed to see, "No Agents." "You better hurry," he yelled. "They might take a shotgun to you." Anyway I escaped safely. Ig and his wife are nice folks and I can't believe they would have hurt me very much. Mrs. Pokraka always raises some very early chickens, and she now has some several lows who have nice horses. Leon also has an equine flair. He had a pair of blacks that would make most anyone sit up and take notice. He said he was feeding his horses on a diet, but they didn't look like but what they will make it until grass.

On south to Edgar Stillman's. The place was vacated, as far as people were concerned, but I noticed another nice team of blacks in his yard. Good horses, good farms, good fences and good farmers are apt to go hand in hand. Pretty muddy in the yard here. One of the mysteries of mysteries to me has always been why the lowest spot on the farm was picked out as a building spot. Someone blundered, and for years to come someone else, perhaps, must pay the price.

A little east to Grover Barnhart's. He and his boy were cutting and splitting elm, and they had a real job Grover said the worst thing about the drouth was the many trees it had taken for its onslaught. Grover works for Uncle Sam when the roads are passable, and when they are not he starves. He is also on the township corn-hog committee and that might indicate he has a few friends at least. I would say he has a lot of them.

Back to the highway again and down the road to Chas. Fuller's. Charles was gone shoveling snow, but his wife, Madge, and I chatted for a minute. They are church friends of ours, and naturally we needed no introduction. Charles keeps a few of the nicest milk cows in the country, but she said they were mostly dry now, and that was not so good. Across the road to Glen (Doug) Barber's. They live in what appears to be "The tumbled down shack". It is an old log house, the logs coming originally from the cedar canyons, when the land was new. It was a dandy house at one time. The owner of the farm will not repair the buildings, and consequently they get nearer the ground every year.

Doug is having a hard time of it. He aspires to go into the dairy business. He has the cows, but their milk will not pay for the feed, and he has no money to replenish the shortage. If he can just get them to grass, he thinks, after that there is a chance to get into a nice business. Pretty hard on the cows though, and we all are hoping for an early spring. Doug has a nice family anyway, and that is something to be thankful for.

On south to Cliff and Fanny McClellan's. A couple dogs and a score (more or less) of cats greeted me at the door step. Although all their land is not so level and tillable as that back north, I have thought all my life that this place is my choice of all I know of in the country. A spotlessly large white home, overlooking the village; snug warm stables entrenched in the south bank; well protected yards filled with red and white cattle and shiny jet hogs; a tall windmill furiously spinning, pouring water into a large cement reservoir, old tall trees guarding off the winter's gale and summer's heat; the serpentine Mira Creek, splitting broad meadows and green pastures; a small irrigation plant to give a drink to a fertile field; a dam spilling a lazy waterfall; a bridge; a fishing pond in summer; a skating pond in winter; lonely paths and shady nooks. A lover's paradise, a child's delight, and still these fine folks remain single.

I did not have to call here. Many of my early days were spent at this place, skating, fishing, picnicking, as all the other kids of our hamlet have done, and no doubt will continue to do.

I told Cliff it was an outrage to call him up from his dinner just to ask if he was a member of the fold. In fact he told me he took the sheet before I asked, and I hurried on to town for a snack, before the sale.

I decided after it was all over, there are two things there is no shortage of in the land, and that is dogs and cats.

WHAT A DOLLAR BUYS.

Owners of Liberty bonds who are bemoaning the Supreme court's recent gold decision, in which the needs of the moment were considered more important to the nation than the exact letter of the law, are invited to take a pencil and the current commodity price index and see just how badly they were really hurt by this decision.

Suppose you bought a $100 Liberty bond in 1918. If you sell it now you can get $100 in greenbacks, or $59 in gold. In 1918 you could have got $100 in gold for it, had you insisted.

Suppose that you sold this bond in 1918 and got your $100 in gold and immediately spent the money for food, clothing, etc. Taking the 1926 prices as normal or 100 per cent, which is commonly done, you would have received in 1918 only $76 worth of food and clothing.

Today, if you sold the bond and received one hundred dollars, using the same 1926 prices as standard and using the present price index in conjunction, you can buy $133 worth of food and clothing. In other words, the purchasing power of your 100 "devalued" dollars is $57 greater than it was when you bought the bond.

Doesn't sound like the Supreme court's decision is so unfair to holders of Liberty bonds after all.

LESS GOVERNMENT NEEDED

"Well, if Iowa is 17 million in arrears let's have $17,000,000 less government this year."—Iowa newspaper.

There, expressed in a few words, is the perfect philosophy for a tax-riden people. If we have too much government, too costly government, the only way to balance the budget is to adopt a policy of having less government.

Unfortunately the trend is the other way—toward more government instead of less. We are adopting new and costlier experiments in government and will continue to do so until the day of sad awakening when we discover that our combined incomes are not large enough to pay the tax bill and still permit us to exist.

Everybody is familiar with the increase in federal experiments by which the United States seeks to regulate about everything there is to regulate. Encroachment upon state's rights will continue and the tax cost will continue to mount.

Here in Nebraska we are adopting more government also in the form of a costly state highway police system, as well as in other ways. Every state, most counties, townships and cities are doing the same.

Meanwhile, when we reflect upon constantly mounting tax costs, all we can do is grin and bear them.

VICIOUS PROPAGANDA

More misunderstanding exists regarding the child labor amendment than about any proposal that has been before the Nebraska legislature in the past twenty years, the Quiz believes. This misunderstanding exists because of vicious propaganda against the act—propaganda sponsored and financed by eastern manufacturers and southern textile mill owners who will benefit financially by being permitted to continue their exploitation of child labor.

Nebraska farmers in large numbers have been fooled into believing that ratification of this federal constitutional amendment will prohibit their children doing chores and helping with the housework; would call into existence an army of federal investigators who would visit every farm and snoop into the farm family's regulation of its minor children.

Nothing could be farther from the truth. The amendment merely gives to Congress a constitutional right to regulate the labor of children under the age of 18.

Anybody who believes Congress would misuse this power to the extent of prohibiting farm children from helping their parents is uninformed or else too easily frightened. Congress now has, in other instances, sufficient authority to embarrass and ruin the nation and it does not use it. President Roosevelt now has, under the NRA act, more authority than the child labor amendment will confer upon Congress and so far no parent has been told that he may not put his boys to work at milking cows or his girls at washing dishes.

So far as Nebraska itself is concerned there is no necessity of having a federal child labor law, but for the protection of manufacturers and employers of states like Nebraska, required to sell goods in competition with manufacturers in states where vicious exploitation of children is permitted, a child labor law is vitally necessary. For the welfare of thousands of overworked and underpaid children of a half-dozen eastern and southern states the amendment also should be adopted.

Today Nebraska legislators are voting on the child labor amendment. If it is rejected another victory for vicious propaganda will have been scored.

AN OPPORTUNITY LOST.

We wonder how many people clearly realize or even faintly suspect what is happening to the doctrine of states' rights?

This principle, over which a terrible war was fought and thousands slain, is almost forgotten because of the economic emergency created by the depression and its aftermath of unemployment and human woe. Faced with the necessity of providing food, fuel and clothing for thousands of unemployed, the various states—Nebraska included—have subserviently permitted the federal government to dictate and domineer in matters that should be entirely the state's own affairs. In the opinion of informed observers states are in process of being obliterated except as to name, form and geographical lines.

Witness Nebraska's case in recent weeks. Informed by federal authorities that Nebraska must raise $4,000,000 per year for two years with the threat that federal relief funds would be withdrawn unless the federal requirement was met, our governor and our state legislators supinely added an extra cent to the gasoline tax and passed the bill with the emergency clause. Then the governor hurried to sign the act before March 1, the date set by federal authorities for withdrawal of funds if the federal demand was not met.

In other states even more flagrant examples of federal domination are reported, relief authorities even going to such lengths as to dictate appointments in New York and elsewhere. In Connecticut they demanded passage of a rehabilitation bill exactly as written by federal attorneys—a bill which provided no safeguards for the state. In Kentucky it was demanded that democrats nominate at a primary instead of in convention. The list of federal demands is well-nigh endless and in each the sword held over the head of governors and legislatures was the threat of withdrawing federal relief funds.

The United States is a nation founded upon the principle of local self-government. When this principle is flouted, as federal authorities are flouting it without opposition from the states, our whole future as a republic is endangered. Each state loses its traditional independence, its right to make and enforce its own laws, to levy its own taxes, to choose its own officials.

Few states are in a position to defy the federal government because they are so heavily in debt they cannot support their own relief burdens. Nebraska, with no debts, is one of the few states that might have done so. Of course our relief burden would be doubled as besides caring for our own unemployed we would have to pay federal taxes to care for the unemployed of other states without getting a share of the money in return. It would not be expedient to refuse to accept federal dictation but it might revive a spirit of independence in other states.

The federal government might discipline one or a few states if they refused to do its bidding but it could not effectively discipline all 48 states. But the opportunity is lost—Nebraska has chosen to sacrifice a part of its independence and as time goes on more and more parts will be sacrificed until the whole is lost.

If President Roosevelt is able to abolish the doctrine of states' rights and make every state like it with the money now at his disposal, what can he not do with $4,850,000,000 to play with?

SIGNING THE PLEDGE

A newspaper down in Independence, Kas., has worked out a unique system for handling publication of local intoxication cases, the paper becoming a protector of public morals while solving one of its own most vexing problems.

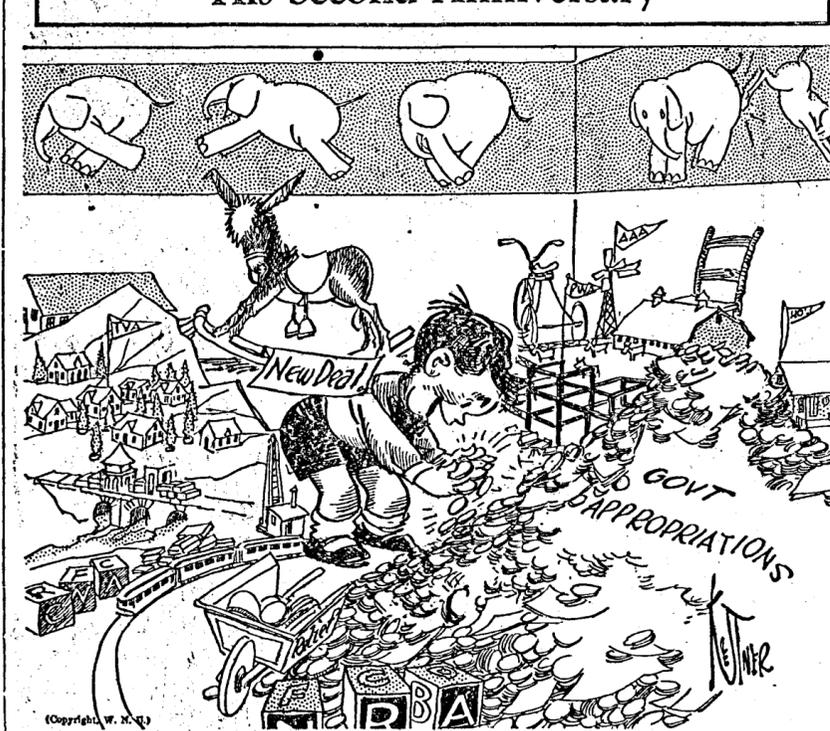

As all newspapermen know, publication of police news is a source of embarrassment in small towns. Quite frequently, a man arrested for drunkenness will visit the Quiz office as soon as he has paid his fine and request that we refrain from publishing the news of his arrest. As we try to publish all the news, such requests must necessarily be refused. We believe this policy is general on all good newspapers.

To handle this embarrassing situation the Independence paper hit upon a fairly successful plan. If it agrees to such requests, a pledge of future sobriety must be signed by the culprit, if the case is one of a first offender. The pledge is not considered an exceptionally impossible one to keep, its wording being such as to make the signer agree to do his best to keep away from liquor in future, with the understanding that in event he should break the pledge the newspaper is released from any further obligation to refrain from publishing his name.

Out of slightly more than 100 signers of the pledge only 3 have broken it, the Independence publisher says, and he believes he has hit upon a plan that is of assistance to men inclined to be too sorely tempted by liquor and at the same time has saved his newspaper from many annoying requests.

Wonder if such a system would be of value in Ord? We are tempted to try it the next time a man arrested for drunkenness asks us to "please leave his name out of the paper."

Something Different

*****

Mrs. Sam Marks sends in a unique recipe which does not belong in the cooking column, it seems to me. She doesn't say she used this recipe herself, but I presume she did.

Lovers Wedding Cake.
Put four pounds flour of love, one-half pound good looks, one-half pound sweet temper into a well furnished house, beat one-half pound butter of youth to a cream. Mix together one-half pound blindfolded wit, one-half pound powdered wit, one-half ounce dry humor into two tablespoons sweet argument, and add to the above. Pour in one-half pint of gently rippling laughter, and one-half winglass of common sense. Work together until well mixed. Bake genially forever.

Recipes like the above used to be frequently encountered in newspapers forty years ago, but are quite rare now. Perhaps there might be one or two in Hill's Manual, or some other such long ago parlor decoration.

And Hill's Manual is lots of fun to read, even yet. I still remember what a sad, weepish effect "Over the Hill to the Poorhouse" by Will Carleton had on me the time I first encountered it in that big thick book.

But I don't believe that was as much entertainment as the doctor books at that. After reading a page or two one was sure to feel every symptom of practically every ailment. Not to mention the horror of the illustrations caused!

So many people write in and say they like the Quiz, can't live without it, etc., that we really should run a testimonial column, I think. Although George Gowen's fascinating new department nearly fills this need, or does with the people he calls upon, certainly.

The Work Sheet of his is crackling good reading. I don't know most of those people he writes about but like to read it anyway. Try it, if you haven't already become a devotee of this new Quiz columnist.

Help! Please call phone number one seven and tell us what you have been doing. We want to know when you have house guests, a party, an illness, or take a trip. We would also like to be informed about such mere trifles as new babies, cars and houses. In fact we are pretty nosy, and want to know a good deal about your comings and goings.

You will have to help us some, now that Mrs. Chapman is no longer a sturdy aid of this newspaper.

Incidentally, Mrs. Chapman has earned her retirement. I am sure she will say so too, when she recalls the way her feet have ached on many a scorching summer day, or (going to the opposite extreme) her nose has tingled on those frosty early morning trips to the train, etc. I think she must feel quite relieved to sit back and rest. And not have to worry about that Wednesday noon deadline of The Ord Quiz any more.

Is Ord going to have a More Beautiful Ord contest this summer? Stir yourselves up, people, get some ambition! What we need is action and plenty of it.

Ira Lindsay feels thoroughly at home in Ord, once more.

For the reason that he has his old room back to reside in, the finishing touch of his return to Ord.

Surprised on his birthday, Emil Fafelia was doubly surprised to open a "gift" from those present which revealed itself as a string of "baloney". But when the gift was put up as the prize of the evening for the men's card game, it was most appropriately won back by its donor, John Misko.

Speaking of the John Misko family, did you know that both the husband and wife of this pair are so near sighted they can not recognize a friend across the street?—Irma.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORHOOD

L. A. Megrue and Art Miller, of Scotia, have contracted with the United Mineral Products company of Omaha to mine lime rock from the Chalk Hills south of Scotia and shipped the first carload last Wednesday. The rock will be used in making paint, putty, calcarbo and other products. Megrue and Miller plan to construct an 80-foot crib on the Weekes' spur shortly and operate on a large scale.

R. G. Wicks, of Burwell, who is wintering in the west, writes to the Burwell Tribune about a recent trip he and his son Robert took into the Mojave desert to inspect some gold claims owned by an old prospector. They were in Death Valley, crossed the Panamints and the Funeral range and spent a night on the desert. The Wicks family will return to Burwell for the summer.

Earl Upton and family of Burwell, well known in Ord, have moved to a farm near Union, Nebr. Their daughter, Miss Betty, will complete her term of school northwest of Burwell before joining her parents.

At Broken Bow recently occurred a marriage 13,000 feet in the air. A couple from Big Springs were taken up by Pilot Jack Jefford, along with County Judge Miller and a witness. At 13,000 feet Jefford cut the motor and started to glide downward while Judge Miller read the marriage rite.

Cliff Thompson, a farmer west of Greeley, may lose the sight of his left eye as result of an accident. He was driving a bolt when he was using lodged in his eye. Rushing to Greeley for medical treatment, he was taken to Grand Island and then to Lincoln where a giant magnet for removing steel splinters is installed in one of the hospitals. So far the magnet has failed to draw out the splinter and doctors say if infection sets in the eye will have to be removed.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

Some college professor says the average woman has only eight hundred words in her vocabulary. He failed to say anything about the rapid turnover, however.

I notice from reading the daily press, that there is what is described as a scramble for place on village and city ballots this spring. I am at a loss to know why people would be so anxious to hold city office.

John Misko tries all his jokes on his wife first and if she laughs, he feels safe in springing them on a crowd.

John Haskell thinks that the earth would never have been made in six days if it had been a government relief project.

It seems funny to me for a man who is paying four or five dollars a quart for mighty poor hard liquor, to come into the Quiz office and haggle over the price of five hundred envelopes.

Your business is not as good as it used to be, and neither is mine. So that is the reason I keep asking you for your daily paper renewals. It doesn't cost you a cent and I make a little commission. Sometimes it is convenient for you to phone me to send in your renewal and pay me when you come to town next. I appreciate the business.

While our government is going into all kinds of business and trying to regulate the business of everyone, why wouldn't it be a good plan for it to devise means of getting the products of the soil to the people of the country without so much spread between what the producers get and the consumers pay? I don't like the idea of having just enough oranges and grapefruit picked, packed and shipped to supply the needs of those people who are able to pay any old price, while really poor people must go without, everyone along the selling line making a big profit. I mention those items just as an illustration. I believe as a rule, the producer gets less profit than anyone else, in fact much of the time the producer doesn't get a profit at all. If the government would devote the same effort to guaranteeing the farmer a profit that it does to seeing that the railroad, the big power company, the manufacturer and other big business gets a profit above cost of production, the other various handlers all along the line would have to take less or the cost to the consumer would be greatly increased.

Those of you whose subscription expires March 15 will get a postcard reminder this week. I hope you all want to continue getting the Quiz and that you will renew before your time is out. I know people who want the paper, don't want to miss a single issue. I heard Eugene cussing yesterday because his World-Herald stopped. He forgot to renew and had to miss several copies.

Every Valley county reader of the Quiz, is overlooking a good bet by not using the classified columns more. No matter what you want to buy or sell or do, you will get results. Even if you want to get married, a 25c classified ad will do the business. If you want to adopt a baby, you can find one by advertising. Yes, we guarantee results.

There might be a hint in the above item for Bill Hekeler. If Bill wants to advertise for a life companion, we will do it free of charge.

Irma is a real diplomat. She was telling me the other day that she hadn't been invited out for some time and was wondering who she could write a story about, where there was a good prospect of an invite. Then I noticed that she had a fine story telling what a good cook Mrs. Parkins is and next I knew, she and Eugene were invited to the Parkins home for dinner. I am going to try that deal myself and I am trying to think up a victim right now.

I hope the barbers and beauty operators don't come to blows. The barbers are trying to stop the beauty operators from cutting hair. One barber was telling me that the beauty operators didn't know how to cut hair and I replied that about half of the barbers didn't either and he admitted that I had said a mouthful.

Ernest Coats is opposed to the idea of taking the old fellows over 60 out of actual business. He says they are too old to be any fun and they just as well stay home and work. Ernest should see Fred Howard and me down at the press meeting this week end (provided the Missus stays home).

I see where my sidekick, George Gowen, got so bolsterous that he knocked the plastering all off of one room in a home he visited and no doubt I shall get a bill for repairs.

Nebraska has got to raise four million dollars to match a like amount which the government will furnish, for relief over the next two years. If I a gallon tax will do this, I believe it would be better to put 2c on and run our own show. Under the present setup the government runs the whole business and we pay half the money. We could do it a lot cheaper if we were to run it ourselves. I don't like the idea of having Washington send their white collars out here to run our business. And the same goes for the whole works. Pretty soon we are all going to be regimented from Washington. None of us is going to be able to say how his own business shall be run. We don't have much to say about it now any more.

What possible objection can teachers in Nebraska have to taking an oath of allegiance to the constitution of the state and of the United States?

CARE OF COUNTY BOARD

By George Gowen

Dear Jake:

Again I hear the rumor that they (whoever they are) are trying to get a road straight through east of Sterneckers' place, coming out at the Reed school house from Ord to Greeley. Surely that would make a straight shoot between the two towns, if the people in those two towns are the only ones on the map worth considering, and if expense is no item. Four and one half miles could be saved.

Already we have a graded road from Greeley to the Butell corner and hill, accommodating Ord, Scotia, North Loup, Horace, and a lot of homes. Should they (whoever they are) be determined to spend money, a road might be pounded straight west of the Butell hill, coming out at the Riverdale school house, and then north to Ord and south to North Loup. That would save two miles on the speedometer between Ord and Greeley, and furnish improvement to the river road, which accommodates a score of homes and a mail route.

By following the canyon road as it now is there would be a far better and more direct route for the central highway. Then the river road might be improved and save a mile or more. Of course we folks over here are in favor of this plan. This canyon road is already graded, and with the exception of a couple hills, is a very good highway.

About the best way to travel from Sterneckers east, is with a flying machine or on horse back. The horse would be tired by the time he had made the trip. It is just one large hill after another, and through pastures, where few people ever venture. To make a road through there would be a big expense, and be very rough.

And then as a summary, I would like to ask why a highway, graded and maintained, is run east from the river road to the one place of Sterneckers' and no work is done south along the river, which is a much traveled road besides a mail route?

At times this road along the river is barely passable. It is seldom, if ever worked. Living in the extreme neck of the county, the folks there think they are sadly neglected. They say the commissioner (and I suppose that means Uncle Jake) comes driving around there once in a while in dry weather, but he knows better than attempt it after a little rain.

Arthur Hutchins, manager of the N. L. cheese factory says this is always the time when milk tests fall off. In spite of the feed the tests drop when the cow sheds her hair. Just why this is he does not know. He wrote the agriculture college and asked if it was true, and they said it was and they could not tell why.

He also told me that the packing plant where he sells eggs, told him two days beforehand that eggs would drop two or three cents on Saturday. Art immediately scratched his price down. Many egg dealers lost money on the drop. But what I am getting at is, how does it happen the packers know about it all several days in advance?

I have been tempted upon divers occasions since Mr. Coats has his letter against the Child Labor Amendment, to answer it. Each time I exercised my self-control, until the editor burst forth and gave Ernest thunder. Anyway, in my short span of years, and in this advanced agriculture civilization of ours, I have seen young kids worked too hard on the farm by their fathers. At least such was the consensus of opinion of all the neighbors. And many times I have seen kids taken out of school to work at home, even before the eighth grade and the sixteenth year.

The excuse given by the parents is that at school the kids do not learn anything but devilment, and they will learn more at home. Either these men are wrong or there is something radically wrong with our educational system.

Some of the fellows were complaining that the government waited until we had wintered these tubercular cattle, and then test them out. They proclaim it to be foolishness of the administration in doing things backward.

I think these fellows are all unjust in their criticism. There is method in the madness of our government officials. By waiting until spring this way, allowing the t. b. cattle to eat all winter, the "huge surplus" of corn and hay is reduced.

I have been asked why I did not scratch the Bob Simmons and Robert Griswold stickers from the window of my car. I did plan on it for a while, and then the idea dawned on me that soon the time would be at hand for another campaign, and as it is, I am all prepared. These men will no doubt be on the ticket. They have been ever since I can remember.

The newly organized Farmers Grain & Supply Company made a very fortunate deal in buying from the Omaha Elevator Co. their elevator in Ord. The consideration was $2,600 and the elevator was said to be worth twice that much. John H. Luke, homesteader near North Loup and later marshal in Ord, died in the Soldiers' Home at Leavenworth.

Homer Jones, young Mira Valley inventor, was called a genius by the Quiz. He had invented a way of manufacturing "presto" gas, the kind of gas used for automobile lights then. Jones almost lost his life when his tank exploded but later invented a safety device to prevent another such occurrence.

Claiming that the carbonate of lime, magnesia, marl and other careaceous substances in Ord's city water were sending an average of one person per week to hospitals, the L. D. Milliken hardware was advertising home-type stills for distilling and purifying water. Ord's water was then obtained from deep wells.

R. C. Bailey moved his family into his fine new house on Main street.

After working for a year in Longmont, Colo., Cecil Clark returned home for a visit.

Presbyterian Church. Regular services will be held next Sabbath morning, and the Union service at 7:30 in the evening. The morning worship will be in charge of a Gospel Team, consisting of a group of young men from Hastings college, who will bring a message in word and song. It is hoped that every member of the church as well as friends who do not go elsewhere will come to hear these young men. Let us each do our part to keep up attendance during Rev. Real's absence.

QUIZ FORUM

Don't Sign Petitions. To the Editor of the Quiz: I wish to explain a few facts and inform citizens of the western part of Valley county of the road proposition that is confronting us at the present time. Several years ago the county officials and business people of Ord thought it necessary to lay out a road west from Ord to meet the Sargent highway in Custer county. At that time I was appointed one of the committee to meet the Sargent committee half way, which we did. The road was laid out as it is today which is being developed, graded, bridges built etc. Later this community requested a 3-mile extension, one mile south and two miles west of the Ed Waldmann corner, which would connect up with the Custer county road to Comstock, which was finally agreed to if Geranium township went in 50-50 in building that connection which was done and now is being maintained by the county. Two or three years ago another move was started to switch the road from the National hall two miles north and then west to meet the Sargent road in Custer county. A petition was circulated to that effect and then a remonstrance. After due consideration about eighty per cent of the signers signed the remonstrance and the matter died a natural death. After conferring with the proper authorities we found they saw no cause for a change, first because they already had more miles than one maintainer could maintain. Second, because that would place the two highways only two miles apart, part of the way which would be impractical and no doubt the one mile running west along the National hall would have to be abandoned. Much money has already been spent in developing this highway for grading, culverts and corners and making a good connection of Ord, Comstock and Sargent. Now we are informed the agitators are again renewing the contemplated change. If we are not satisfied with the county's plans and can't agree on a definite plan, we will be left out and the money will be left out and the money will be left elsewhere. We wish to call attention of our people, when confronted with a petition, to consider the matter seriously before signing. When we need any improvements and changes of any kind, let us meet and study such propositions and find out what's best for the community in general. Let us not be guilty of signing petitions unless we know what we want and what we are doing so the county board or state board know that we are competent to know what we need. Let us develop further what we have started as we have been informed the state expects to take this highway over and the better condition is in the better our chance will be. Much has been accomplished in the fifty years we have lived here but of late, either through selfishness or politics, much of the former achievements have been undone. I am not dictating to others what they should or should not do but let's consider well before we jump at conclusions. Your Truly, Jos. J. Waldmann.

SOCIETY

For Founder's Day.

Founder's day will be appropriately commemorated this afternoon by the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church. The ladies will give a Japanese tea at the home of Mrs. B. M. Hardenbrook, with Mrs. Carson as co-hostess. Mrs. Chester Hackett is in charge of the lesson, Mrs. Smith in charge of the mystery question box. Mrs. Orville Sowl will give a reading, Mrs. Hardenbrook and Miss Mamie Smith will sing a duet. Several members plan to bring guests.

Honor Two Birthdays.

Honoring the birthdays of Madams R. O. Hunter and Guy Burrows, Madams C. C. Brown and Jack Morrison arranged a covered dish supper as a surprise party Friday evening. The affair was held at the Hunter home, and those present included Madams Jud Tedro, Olof Olsson, Henry Koelling, Harry Dye, Florence Chapman, Ign. Kilma, D. S. Weare, R. V. Sweet and her mother, Mrs. Wilkinson. The two honor guests received some nice remembrances.

Mr. Fafetta's Birthday.

Mrs. Emil Fafetta arranged a surprise party for her husband's birthday Thursday and Messrs. and Madams Ed Holub, Frank Fafetta, Jr., Will Sack, Edwin Clements, Orville Sowl and John Misko came to spend the evening. After cards the hostess served a midnight supper. The group presented Emil with a new case for his fishing rod in honor of the day.

Club Dances Cease.

One of the enjoyable fortnightly club dances was held last Wednesday evening, taking the form of a box supper and questionnaire party. Each lady was given a typed question, to which a man had the typed answer, and the jokes occasioned much merriment. No more of these dances will be held until after Lent.

Women's Club Meets.

Women's club met Tuesday with Mrs. R. C. Bailey as hostess and election of officers for the coming year was the order of the day. The lesson was a four-minute talk by each member of group one. Each lady brought an interesting relic for the roll call.

Honoring Mrs. Cornell.

Mrs. Charles Mason, Mrs. Fritz Kuehl and Miss Mena Jorgensen were hostesses Wednesday evening at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Sadie Collison, who became the bride of Willard Cornell Sunday morning. Mrs. Cornell received lovely gifts from those present, who were Misses Dorothy Roman, Leah Hathes, Mable Misko, Grayce Pullen, Henrietta Koll, Madams Charles Hather, Clayton Gilroy, Roy Severson, John Koll, John Collison, mother of the bride, the honoree and the hostesses. The party was held in the Kuehl home in the country, where the unique table decorations caused much comment when a late supper was served.

Elect Officers in P. E. O.

P. E. O. ladies held their annual election of officers Monday evening at the Dale home, resulting in the re-election of Mrs. A. S. Koupal as president, Mrs. L. D. Milliken was chosen vice president, Mrs. Millard Bell recording secretary, Mrs. Wilbur Cass, corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mark Tolen, treasurer, Mrs. Joseph P. Barta guard, and Mrs. J. W. Severson, pianist. Madams Orville Sowl, Clarence Davis, James Ollis compose the program committee for next year. Delegates elected to represent the Ord chapter in the state convention are Mrs. Koupal and Mrs. A. W. Cornell. Ord will again send a delegate to the national convention, which will be in Yellowstone Park in September, Mrs. Koupal, the president.

For Mrs. Soren Jensen.

Honoring Mrs. Soren Jensen, formerly Miss Frances Bradt, the following young ladies met at Bradt's Thursday night: Madams Lorea McMinder, Kenneth Draper, Vernon Andersen, Misses Roberta Chase, Garnette Jackman, Dorothy Boquet, Margaret Frazier, Ellen Andersen, Norene Hardenbrook, Zola Barta. Mamie Siler Writes. Long Beach, Calif., Mar. 1. Dear Mrs. Chapman:

On behalf of our Ord-Long Beach Ladies Luncheon club I am instructed to send you some information.

The club met with me yesterday, February 28, with the following ladies present: Madams Fred Bell, J. W. Harbert, Jennie Bell-Liston, Roy Hamilton, Emma Bailey-Roberts, Doll Level, E. R. Brown, Jeanette Brown, George Turner, Gladys Baker, Jess Horton, Billings Brown-Daggett, Perry Bell, Roy Hayes, Alpha Hayes, Carl Coonrod, Frank Dworak, jr., Frank Fafetta sr., Frank Kull, Paul Hanson, Rudolph Sorenson, George Mickelwait, Cecile Siler Hall, and of course the old lady—that's me!

We were supposed to have pot luck, but I proposed six dishes on the side, too. We had such a nice time and surely enjoyed the late comers from Ord.

Last month our club gave Jennie Bell-Liston a kitchen shower at the Roberts home and put on a dandy mock wedding, very complete. Stanley Bell was the parson, Mamie Siler the bride, Niema Bell the groom, Mrs. Harbert the little flower girl, Roy Hamilton and Doll Level the villains, Roy's daughter the train bearer, Doll Level and Grace Hamilton the crying relatives of the bride and groom. We invited guests, there were 51 present, all old Ordites. The men got in on this too. The last day of this month Mary Sorenson is to entertain us, but it won't be pot luck, it will be a house-warming, as Sorenson's have been modernizing their home.

We surely have a lot of fun when we get together. Our picnic is the first part of April so the Ord visitors can come. Say, you old mid-westerners, how about California being the only quality country, how did you like it? Write me a line, I would like to hear from several.

Cecil, my sister, has such a nice son. He has three kiddies now. The oldest one has been in the Shriner's hospital in Houston for two years with septic hip, but he will be out this month and won't be crippled and he only had one chance in a thousand of ever getting well.

I would love to visit Ord and hope to some of these days, but even at that I do believe I know more Ord people here than I do in Ord any more. There are now nearly 400 who attend our semi-annual picnics. With greetings to all,

Mamie Siler.

JUDGE GROVE'S glance betrayed no sign of alarm at his visitor's ashen face and sunken eyes, portents of a malignant illness. His own pink rubicund face was wreathed in a happy smile as he rose alertly and led her to a chair.

"Well, well, Maria," he boomed cheerily, "haven't seen you since—?"

"Not since Will's funeral," she agreed wearily, tugging at a well-worn glove. "I've been living with my boy Harry, in New York the past year. After Will died, well—you see—"

The judge saw very clearly; Will Brooks—careless, happy-go-lucky Will Brooks, had died a year ago, leaving what was left of his coal business—ashes—ashes of debt—little else. No insurance.

"Then Harry lost his job," the widow droned on. "He kept worrying over me. After six months he joined the navy. He sends me all he can out of his meager pay but it isn't enough, with doctor's bills and all. I—I decided to come back here with Jenny for a while." Her voice broke and she dabbed a handkerchief at her eyes. "Judge, can't the law make a daughter support her needy mother?"

"Unfortunately," he advised her slowly, "your absence has made you a nonresident. But good gosh, Maria, surely Jennie hasn't turned you away—her own mother."

"She was furious when I went there this morning,"

"Sh-h-h!" the judge soothed her, thinking fast. "Now, you listen to me. Bill Potter's still running the Potter house and he'll board you awhile for nothing." In confidence, mind ye, he's been owing' me a bill for years, and can't pay. So we'll work part of it out in trade. I'll give you a note."

"But I can't let you—" she started to protest.

"Hush!" he scribbled furiously, then, rising, put the note in her shaking hand and helped her to her feet. "Run along now and leave everything to me. But mind, nothing of this to Jennie, understand?"

"Judge, how could you?" his secretary rebuked him gently. "You know Mr. Potter owes you nothing. Suppose she tells him—"

"Now you hush!" His eyes gleamed mischievously as he reached for his hat.

"I hear your mother's at the Potter house, Jennie." Marked cordiality masked the judge's inner feelings as he met the younger woman's amorous look. "Suppose she came back to settle your dad's estate, huh?"

"Are you trying to be funny?" she demanded sharply.

"Seems to me," he said blandly ignoring her impertinence and wagging a long strip of paper in his hand, "that your father was canner than you give him credit for. This list seems to prove it."

"What list is that?" she asked.

"A list of judgments," he told her smoothly. "Court judgments assigned to your dad which total the tidy sum of ninety-seven hundred and forty-nine dollars and sixty cents."

Cupidity vied with incredulity in her tone. "All that—my father's?"

"Seems so," he replied blandly. "Guess when these people were sued, your father'd step in, pay what they owed and then hold the judgments against 'em to get their coal business."

"And we're the heirs?" she asked avidly. "We get the money?"

"Easy, easy there!" admonished the judge sternly. "Your father left a will, y'know. Your mother has first claim on these judgment debts if we collect 'em. Guess I'd better see her and ask if she wants me to round 'em up."

"Please, I'd rather you wouldn't just now." Her expression changed swiftly. "Dear mother, you see, is rather ill." The judge's poker face revealed nothing. "She's coming to live with me. Hadn't you better—that is—couldn't you—let them stand awhile longer? Even say nothing about them to her now?"

"We—we're so anxious to make her last days peaceful!"

"Humph-h! mebbe we could manage it. But won't your mother—er—need some money?"

"While I'm living?" demanded the woman dramatically. "Indeed not. Remember, she's my mother!"

"Darned if she ain't!" he agreed as if the discovery were startling. "Well, g'd-day!"

"Judge," asked his secretary, "when that poor woman was here yesterday, why didn't you tell her about all those judgments?"

"Jean, I'm reminded of King Lear. Remember? 'How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child.' That Jennie hussy reminded me of a serpent's jaws trying to gobble up those judgments."

"But you're not going to let her have them?"

"Why not?" grinned the judge. "I got 'em for her. Spent all day yesterday seen' clients of mine and gettin' 'em to dig up all the old worthless, totally uncollectible judgments they had and assign 'em with back dates to Will Brooks. They ain't even good scrap paper. Only value they've got is 't' raise false hopes in a false daughter 'n' bring peace to her tired old mother."

Flowery Language

JIM BANNING flipped dual copy for the Morning Sentinel from his typewriter and looked wearily at the clock. Midnight.

Bill Kilwino, at the next desk, threw down his eye-shade and addressed the office at large. "What I need is some night life of a different variety. What say?"

Jim paid no attention but listened warily. What would his answer be when the gang asked, as it had formed a habit of doing lately, "Coming, Jim?"

These midnight sallies into gay places were causing trouble between him and Nancy. She was jealous of Vina Martineau, and had an idea—ridiculous little Puritan—that a woman didn't love his wife if he went to a few impromptu parties without her.

"Impromptu!" she had cried, blue eyes wet with angry tears. "When you've done this a dozen times and never once phoned me to come along! When we haven't been married a year!"

Across the city room, Jim watched tawny-haired Vina put away her lipstick.

"Of course Jim's coming. Aren't you, Jim?"

Yes, he was coming. Just to teach Nancy the lesson she had to learn, though his head did ache and bed, offered greater invitation.

Most of the staff were working through until two o'clock. So it was just the Kilwines—Bill's wife was society editor—and Jim and Vina who went.

The Ace of Clubs was jammed, and almost opaque with smoke. An unctuous master of ceremonies announced novelty numbers—"In honor, la-dees and gentlemen, of the first anniversary of the state's most famous night club. To show its appreciation of your splendid patronage, the management presents . . ."

Across the room Jim's eye caught sight of Sport Conley, coarse-mouthed gentleman of chance who was always postering the sports department. With him was a bleached and lacquered blond, drinking too rapidly from a small amber glass. Jim looked away in revulsion.

"Mad at me?" Vina whispered.

He turned from her, looked across at Sport Conley, who gave him a slow, leering wink.

Half an hour later he tiptoed into the kitchen of his apartment. He shortened the stem of a huge, creamy rose, found an olive bottle for a vase.

He clicked off the light and felt his way into the bedroom. Rays from a street lamp faintly illuminated it, falling across the four-poster bed with its neat spread of candlewick. Across a bed that was smooth and unoccupied!

My God! Jim prayed unintelligibly as he felt for the electric button. Prayed harder as he yanked open the closet door. But every dress, every small, dainty shoe was gone.

He was still telling himself the next afternoon that she would be back, that she was just trying to frighten him.

When his telephone rang, he answered gruffly.

"Jim!" The voice was throaty, trembling.

A flood of warmth spread through his whole being. "Nance—darling—I've been crazy . . ."

"Then you did care—enough to worry?"

"Care! You dear little nut—where are you?"

"I'm home—now, sweetheart. You see, I called the office last night—when you didn't come. You'd left at twelve—and I couldn't bear it. I mean your wanting some one else—"

"Nobody else, dear. I've just been stubborn."

"I stayed at the Y. W. I had to think. And I meant to take the afternoon train home—to mother and dad. But I'd forgotten my watch, so I waited until you went to work this afternoon—"

"Yes?"

"But I couldn't go—when I saw the rose."

"Saw what?"

"The rose! It looked so dear and pathetic, drooping from that old bottle. Men fix flowers so funny."

"Listen, hon, throw out that Scotch bouquet. All right for an emergency message, but you're getting a fat love letter from the nearest florist—special delivery! . . . I'll be home early!"

Jim laughed until half the staff turned to look. Laughed triumphantly, derisively, in the direction of Vina . . .

. . . to show its appreciation . . . the management presents each of you ladies with one of these magnificent roses. And to you, gentlemen . . ."

Vina had laughed at her memento, just as she laughed at everything. Then she had placed it in Jim's lapel, from which the long stem dangled ridiculously.

"Take this to Nancy," she had said, and might just as well have added, "since I have you, old dear."

In his obsession to show Nancy how sorry he was, it had not entered his stupid, aching head that he should have pitched the tainted flower into the gutter!

National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart

Washington.—Although it has been several weeks since the Supreme court of the United States rendered its history-making decision in the gold cases, there is no slackening in the disturbance from the effects of the administration's gold policies, even in the light of the court ruling. While the court held that congress had no power to enact legislation invalidating the gold clause in government bonds, it said in the same breath that collection from the government by a bond holder was another story. Since the government has taken gold out of circulation, collection appears virtually impossible but the appearance is not going to stop bond holders from seeking what they regard as justice.

It is now apparent that the government's action is going to be regarded both here and abroad as repudiation. That is a nasty word when applied to governments and its repercussions likely will be heard for a good many years. While the repudiation of the gold payments will affect comparatively few people directly, the significance of the action in a political way is becoming more and more apparent. The repudiation in its effect on the bond holders may be only temporary, but its effect politically will be far-flung.

I think it is generally considered now that the gold question will become a paramount issue in the next political campaign and it is not impossible that it will continue to be an issue over a period of years. This is so because, admittedly, actual damage has been done to American prestige in foreign lands. It is made to appear, therefore, that there will be a combination of international and domestic influences at work henceforth with respect to this government's gold policies.

Domestically, the issue was born in the presentation in congress of two bills designed to restore, partially at least, the status of the devalued dollar. Simultaneously, former President Herbert Hoover, in one of the few expressions made since retiring from office, declared his belief that the return of gold payments was necessary and vital to stabilizing conditions and re-establishing the United States in world favor.

Of course, with the abundant Democratic majority in congress, the gold bills will get nowhere very fast. Likewise, Mr. Hoover's expression can and will result only in providing ammunition for New Deal supporters, whose answer to criticism usually is a question whether it is desired to return to the conditions that caused the depression. Nevertheless, I hear considerable discussion to the effect that these ripples must be considered as only the beginning. They will have the effect of causing many people to think about the problem. Discussions will take place in the homes and in the shops. There will be those who contend for sound money of the old style. Equally vehement defenders of the New Deal will arise. Thus, the issue becomes joined and it is not outside the realm of possibility that monetary questions will become as important in 1936 as they were in the Bryan free silver days.

New as to the practical operation of the gold rulings: There can be no doubt that the United States Constitution gives congress power to coin money and regulate its value. The Supreme court always has sustained this power. So, when congress, by resolution, allowed President Roosevelt to seize all of the gold in this country and hold it in the treasury, it accomplished indirectly that which it could not do directly. In this way it forced the invalidation of thousands of private contracts wherein one party promised to make payments in gold. Congress made such payments impossible and those who were to be paid had nothing left but disillusionment. As to the gold payment clause in the government bonds the Supreme court said that congress had no right to enact legislation the effect of which was to void that payment. It would seem, therefore, that some way should be found to force the government to make good. That way lies only through the Court of Claims of the United States, and when that court is denied jurisdiction in suits to recover, the bond holder is left with a right, but that right is unenforceable since the government can be sued only with its permission.

On top of these circumstances, and as a long range proposition, considerable attention has been directed to the relationship between the gold clause decisions and inflation. There is a direct link. This link, without doubt, should be watched by all of those who think of the future of this nation. Inflation of the credit has been going on continuously since Mr. Roosevelt took office. The federal government has set no limit to the borrowing which it will undertake in its program for recovery. The Supreme court has said directly that government securities are worth whatever the administration and congress determine them to be worth because the dollar can be valued up or down as circumstances warrant.

But the value which the President and congress place upon the dollar may differ materially from the value which the public places upon the currency. The public will view the dollar in terms of its purchasing power. Public confidence in the currency, therefore, becomes an absolute necessity and once it is shaken, if history means anything, it takes a long hard pull to get it back. So, if congress shows a willingness to repudiate obligations as it has shown already, the public sooner or later begins to wonder what the end will be.

Throughout history, wherever and whenever such a condition has arisen, the public seeks to convert this doubtful currency into material things, those of a utilitarian value, which it may use. Money, being inedible, is sought to be exchanged for things to eat, to wear, to sustain life and comfort. This is what is meant in expressions "the flight from the dollars," or "the flight" from any other currency about which we have heard so much since the World war.

The situation in congress in the last few weeks has provided a test for President Roosevelt's political acumen. It has been far more a test of his skill than otherwise would have been the case because for almost two years he has had a congress so obedient to his command as to merit the description of a rubber stamp legislative body. Now, however, the President is faced with the necessity for political maneuvers of the highest order and upon the results of his tactics much will depend. He can cement the links of the Democratic party or he can cause them to disintegrate by the courses he follows.

Some curiosity has been aroused by the fact that for the first time since he became President, Mr. Roosevelt omitted in several instances lately to send administration drafts of bills for congressional consideration. His practice hitherto has been to have the bills drafted by executive departments and submitted with a recommendation that they be enacted in that form. Until some of the factions in congress began to feel their oats this plan worked very well. A change has come over some of them, however, and they are now insisting upon preparation of the legislation themselves.

Another significant development—and this links to circumstances of several months ago—was the presentation by Senator Wagner of New York of a bill to settle labor disputes. This bill does not have administration approval. Indeed, it is quite contrary in some of its phases to the policy which Mr. Roosevelt has sponsored in his dealings with organized labor. It seems important, therefore, that Senator Wagner, who for so long was regarded as Mr. Roosevelt's alter ego in the senate, should deliberately offer legislation to which the administration has not agreed. With further reference to Senator Wagner, who comes from the President's home state of New York, it is interesting, even if unimportant, that Senator Wagner did not support the President in the latter's efforts to force the $5,000,000,000 work relief bill through the senate.

It will be recalled that in asking for an extension of the national industrial recovery act for a period of two years, President Roosevelt merely outlined in his message the fundamentals of the plan he was recommending. He carefully avoided reference to any draft of such a bill. It occasioned some surprise that this was so, but closer analysis of the situation should have developed reasons therefor. Most of these reasons are traceable directly to the circumstances I mentioned above, namely, the necessity for tactical skill in maneuvering the political strength available to the President.

Observers here generally are agreed that Mr. Roosevelt can turn on full steam and hold a powerful majority in both house and senate. But, the question is whether this is the wiser course from a political standpoint. In this connection the expression has been heard several times lately among Democrats who have been regarded as among the leaders that it might not be well to prod stubborn mules too far.

DICK TAPPITT put down his glass of applejack and looked across at Garrison with eyes that shone. "Maybe you've heard of grander, crazier guys than Sam," he said; "I never have."

"And you mean to tell me," the publicity man asked, "that he deliberately broke his leg so you and Mollie would take this job? Man, what a story!"

"Good! This is something I'd really like to see played up. It might help Sam get a better break, and that's what I want more than anything else. He's the best honest-to-Pete pal a man ever had, and I—well, I feel as if I'd given him kind of a raw deal."

"You see, Sam, and I've been hoofing together for about three years—five-day routine on the small time back East. Six months ago we met Mollie; she was on the same bill with us in St. Joe, Well, right away Sam wanted her to join, so after the show he looked her up, they had a talk, and next day we were rehearsing a new trio song-and-dance act."

"Mollie did worlds for us," he went on; "she added the sex appeal and the touch of class o'r stuff had been needing. What's more, we all got along well together. In a way, though, that was the rub; before long both Sam and I were nuts about Mollie."

"She wasn't the sort of a girl to bust things up by being partial, so she handled us with kid gloves. Still, Sam could guess what I knew; that Mollie really cared for me. Understand, I'm not taking anything for granted; Sam talked to me and offered best wishes the day before we left to come out here."

He lit a cigarette, rose, and commenced to walk about the room. It was evident the situation affected him deeply. Garrison wore a look of encouraging interest and kept pencil poised above paper. This, he knew, was first-rate material on a subject worthy of attention. Mollie Hoppe and Dick Tappitt were certain to become as famous as any dancing team in pictures. The screen test of them he'd seen today established that.

"We were getting up in the game," Dick resumed; "making a hit on the bigger circuits. But we all knew there wasn't much further to go; vaudeville's a very sick business these days. So we pooled our dough, bought a 'diver, and steamed West. We had some fancy ideas about what we'd do when we hit Hollywood; but a month of pounding the pavements and chasing agents after we got here cured those."

"That was when Sam began to do his stuff. First he took an usher's job to keep us going, then he landed Mollie and me a tryout in a cabaret down at the beach. And a now—now he's pulled this. What a d—n fool—and what a prince!"

"Just how did this leg-breaking business happen?" asked Garrison. The dancer grinned to hide his emotion.

"Well, when we clicked in the beach job, we wanted to have Sam back with us, but he stalled and said he guessed he'd stick with what he had. Of course I knew the answer; by that time Mollie and I weren't hiding our feelings much, and Sam thought he'd be in the way."

"Poor guy—he sure had the wrong slant! Mollie felt bad about it, and naturally I did too. I mean, after losing her to me and then with all he'd done for us, it seemed just plain lousy to have him cut out of the act. That's why when this offer came along, we said nothing different unless Sam's included. It was Mollie's idea, and I backed her up strong."

"Well, sir, Sam goes out to the ABC plant, tells 'em he's an experienced stunt man, and gets on as a parachute jumper. They sent him up to ball out at a thousand feet, and he on purpose doesn't pull the cord until he's two hundred feet from ground. See the scheme? He knew if he had an accident that laid him up, we'd sign on here."

"Mollie went over to the hospital to visit him; that's why she's late for this conference. I wanted to go along, but—Gee, what can you say to a bird like that? First I let him support me, then I glauze onto all the good breaks, and finally I grab off the girl he loves—and this is how he hits back! Lord, it sure gets me!"

As he dropped down on the divan again, a bell rang. Garrison picked up the phone at his elbow, said: "Yes?"

"McSweeney of the Journal," a crisp voice announced; "what's the lowdown on this thing the dancer you were raising over just pulled?"

"I haven't," said Louis after an instant. "The cockeyed notion who or what you're talking about."

"Come on—cut it, will ya? You know d—n well what I mean. That Mollie Hopp you claim is due to be a wop phoned the license bureau from Good Samaritan hospital ten minutes ago; she wants to file notice of intention with some bird named Sam Trotter. One of my boys called her and asked for details, but all she said was she'd just found out how close sympathy is to love. Now what's the angle?"

WOODMAN HALL. A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parkos Saturday, Feb. 23. Mrs. Parkos' mother, Mrs. Hasek, took care of the mother and baby.

About 1/4 inch of rain fell here Sunday. We had no school last Monday and Tuesday on account of the drifted roads. There was no school in district 29, Monday on account of the teacher's illness.

A number of relatives and friends took Mr. and Mrs. Anton Nevrlka, by surprise last Wednesday evening, giving them a farewell party. They moved the next day. On account of the rain there was no card party held Sunday night at the home of Mrs. Chas. Krikac. Only four players arrived.

Last week was moving week and more than the usual amount of moving is being done this year. Jim Hrebec moved into the Joe Zaldina place vacated by Anton Nevrlka. Thomas Waldmann moved on the Joe Kosmata place vacated by Will Lukesh last fall. John Garner moved on the Tony Kosmata place. John Boro is moving on Mrs. Mike Pesek's place vacated by Kupka, who is moving northeast of Sargent.

Noble Echoes

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kasper and family spent Friday evening at the Joe Korbelic home. Lorraine Duda, who is attending high school, is sick with the measles.

Mr. and Mrs. John Janac and family were Sunday dinner guests at Frank Shotoski's. Joe Korbelic drove to Ord Wednesday and had his car repaired.

Mr. Frank Shotoski returned home last Wednesday after helping care for her father, who is ill. Mrs. V. J. Desmul returned home Sunday after spending a week at the Hector Van Dael's home. There was school Saturday to make up a day they missed during the storm.

Joe Korbelic helped Will Adamek butcher, Monday. Robert and Billie Miller visited school Saturday.

Leonard Fuxa is moving on the Frank Hoesek place vacated by Thos. Waldmann. Lew Winklemann moved from the Stone place to a farm west of Sargent. John Wells is moving this week to Elba and the place will be occupied by Anton Kolar.

Frank Konvalin is living on the Lewin place in Woods park. Several farmers from here attended the tractor demonstration held at the Farmers Union at Comstock last Saturday.

Chas. Krikac cut wood for Otto Radl a couple of days last week with his brush cutting machine. This machine does fine work in cutting small brush in three and four inch lengths, making dandy fuel which would be quite a tedious job if done by hand.

Rosie and Marie Hrebec were on the sick list several days last week.

Public Notice is hereby given that the Mayor and City Council of the City of Ord in the County of Valley, State of Nebraska, by resolution duly passed and entered in the minutes of their proceedings in accordance with Article VI, Chapter 11 of the Compiled Statutes of the State of Nebraska, for 1929, directed that public notice be given stating that Intersection Paying Bonds amounting to the principal sum of $11,000, dated December 1, 1926, which were authorized by Ordinance No. 59 passed by the City Council at a meeting held on the 4th day of February, 1927 and bearing interest at the rate of 4% per cent per annum, are outstanding and unpaid; that Water Bonds amounting to the principal sum of $29,000, dated July 1, 1928, which were voted at a special election held June 26, 1928 and authorized by Ordinance No. 68 passed by the City Council at a meeting held on the 24th day of July, 1928 and bearing interest at the rate of 4% per cent per annum, are outstanding and unpaid; that Intersection Paying Bonds amounting to the principal sum of $5,000 dated January 1, 1930, which were authorized by Ordinance No. 72 passed by the City Council at a meeting held on the 7th day of February, 1930 and bearing interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, are outstanding and unpaid; that the rate of interest since the issuance of these bonds has so declined in the market that by taking up and paying off such bonds by an issue of "Refunding Bonds" as provided by law, a substantial saving in the amount of yearly running interest will be made to said City; that the said outstanding bonds are sought to be taken up and paid off by means of "Refunding Bonds" of said City, in the principal amount of $45,000 bearing interest at the rate of four per centum (4%) per annum, payable semi-annually, which the Mayor and City Council of said City propose to issue.

Public Notice is hereby given that any taxpayer of the City of Ord may file objections to such proposed action with Rex Jewett, City Clerk of said City, at his office in said City, on the 23rd day of March, 1935, between the hours of 9:00 o'clock A. M. and 5:00 o'clock P. M., or during business hours of any day prior to said day.

Rex Jewett, City Clerk.

What Is Ahead? Muscles Soon Old The Moon Pulls Us To Toughen Your Legs

In 1914, as the world gradually moved toward war, no one in Europe realized what was happening or going to happen.

Arthur Brisbane

In 1835, as this country moves toward the result of various theories, experiments and efforts, nobody has the vaguest idea of what is really about to happen.

Almost anything might happen. It is possible, and fortunately probable, that what has happened before will happen again, that business and industry will gradually find their way back to normal, and, with officially shortened hours making labor scarce, the slogan may change from "Let the government support me" to "Give me a chance to work and climb to the top."

That may come, and something very different may come. Once in so often it is necessary for nations and individuals to learn wisdom through first-class failure. That may be on the program for this country at this moment. The wise man will make his arrangements.

Time passes quickly; age comes soon if you depend for success on muscles, legs, arms or eyes. Fifteen years ago Babe Ruth, "home run king," was bought by "the Yankees" for $125,000, highest price ever paid up to that time for a baseball player. Now, only forty-one years old, he is released and goes to the "Boston Braves," who are not asked to pay even a penny for the man that has drawn millions of men and dollars to the club that "owned" him.

As we go around the sun, with the moon circling round our little earth, and our sun doubtless revolving around some other great central star unknown to us, the moon is always pulling at the earth, as a child pulls at its mother's skirt. That pull gradually causes the earth to "slow down" in speed, turning on its axis.

Doctor Nicholson, astronomer at Wilson observatory, says this constant pull of the moon will eventually make the earth turn so slowly that its day will be 47 days long instead of 24 hours.

"Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings."

Jack Dempsey, who really seemed to like fighting, apart from the profit, in his championship days, discussing other fighters in his "sweat and yellow leaf" at forty, says men that refuse to do "road work" should know that "you can't toughen your legs in a chair or posing for pictures."

Legs are not important, but brains are. Young gentlemen should know that you cannot toughen your brains, or make them work better, without thinking.

Chancellor Hitler orders every man in Germany, young or old, to take physical training and be ready to fight. The Spartans trained men early, even taught the young to murder working slaves for practice. They did not last long.

In New York a boy of fifteen, his father "on relief," leaves home and a message saying: "I am going to get a job of my own and help myself."

That expresses the feeling of millions of Americans compelled to be on the dole or relief against their will. It is to be hoped that depression, relief and dole will end before too many Americans lose the habit of work and the desire for it.

Senator Carter Glass, who takes money seriously, says, "We are on a fiat money basis." Possibly, but we seem to be doing better than when we were on a gold basis.

Do you notice much difference? Is money more plentiful, are prices lower? Is not money scarce, is not everything dearer, on the contrary? Who knows anything about money? Nobody.

Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, for instance, says the United States is still "on the gold basis." Former President Hoover wants to go back to the gold basis, even if we have to be content with a 50-cent dollar, based on the new kind of "expensive gold."

Wiley Post failed in his effort to fly the continent in eight hours because of a mechanical accident. His plan was to travel 40,000 feet up in the stratosphere, where slight atmospheric resistance makes high speed possible. He will try it again. American flyers fortunately are not easily discouraged. If they were, the flying machine would not have been invented here.

Class A Tournament Will Be Played At Gothenburg Beginning March 8th

14 Teams Entered, Ord To Play Overton in First Round; Must Beat North Platte.

Gothenburg Pairings. Upper bracket: North Platte vs. Burwell; Lexington vs. Ogallala; Elm Creek bye, Overton vs. Ord. Lower bracket: Kearney vs. Grant; Cozad vs. Arnold; Ansley bye; Gothenburg vs. Broken Bow.

Ord will meet Overton in the first round of the Class A Tournament to be held at Gothenburg, Nebraska. The Gothenburg tournament will be a three day event, starting Thursday, March 7.

The Kearney and North Platte quintets were both seeded in the pairings for the tournament. Kearney and North Platte, although not having such a long string of wins as the Ordites, have played against greater competition than have the Chanticleers. The 28-10 drubbing handed the team in a mid-season game at Kearney does not help the rating of Ord as a possible winner of the tournament. North Platte defeated Kearney quite badly on the North Platte floor but things may be different on a neutral floor. The same is applicable to Ord and Kearney; the Chanticleers may even things up on a neutral floor.

Broken Bow, North Platte, Kearney and Ord loom as favorites in this tournament, but the lists contain several other teams who may loom as "dark horses."

Fourteen teams will compete in the meet. C. H. Hare of Nebraska Wesleyan and E. B. Karr of Arkansas will officiate.

Ord finished a highly successful basketball season on the home court Tuesday by defeating Burwell 70-3.

All members of the squad saw at least a few minutes action in this last game, the second team playing slightly over a quarter of the game. Blessing turned in a star scoring performance, making a total of 28 points.

Ord Athletes Were Banquet Guests Of Cham. of Commerce

Friday evening at 6:00 o'clock, Coach Brockman, and members of the Ord High School football and basketball teams were guests of the Chamber of Commerce at a dinner which was served in the Masonic Temple. Ed Weir, Assistant Coach at the University of Nebraska was the principal speaker. Mr. Weir showed moving pictures of Cornhusker athletics as the feature event of the evening. Brief talks were also given by Mr. H. D. Leggett, Miss Clara McClatchey, Mr. Helmut Brockman, Leonard Greathouse and Kenneth Michels. Mr. John Misko was Toastmaster. Previous to the dinner, Mr. Weir addressed and showed pictures to the high school students and members of the Class B. basketball teams who were guests of the high school.

This address was made possible through the courtesy of the Chamber of Commerce.

Junior Hi Drops Game to Sargent

The Ord Junior High in a return engagement with the Sargent Bulldogs, lost the second in a series of games although great improvement was noted in the Ordites playing. The boys played good straight basketball but Lady Luck had seemingly deserted them. Several times in the game a basket was certain—when control of the ball was lost or the ball would circle dizzily around the hoop and finally roll off the edge.

Members of the Ord team were: Forwards, Puncocchar, Severson, Sweet, Piskorski; Centers, Dahlin, Rose; Guards, Hitchman and Koupal.

Color League Teams Play Close Games

The four intermural teams played a pair of close games last week. One more game is to be played to determine the winner of the round robin tournament.

On Tuesday evening the Golds, led by Lakin, scored a 19-16 triumph over the hard fighting Red quintet. The Blacks, on the same evening, defeated the fast White quint by a decisive 13-5 score. These teams are under the direction of Asst. Coach Cowell.

The standings are as follows:

Table with 4 columns: Team, W, L, Tie, Pct. Gold 4 2 0 666, Black 4 2 0 666, White 3 3 0 500, Red 1 5 0 166

Mother: "I've tried hard to make you a good child, Mary, and yet in spite of all my efforts you are still naughty." Mary Beranek: "What a failure you are as a parent, aren't you, mother?" Louise Petska says, "When I marry I'll pick a man with money to burn. He'll find I'm a good match."

Class B. Tourney Won By Milburn

The Class B. Tournament, held at Ord the 1st of March ended last Saturday with Milburn winning the Class B. Championship.

The final game of the tournament was played Saturday evening at 8:30. A hard fought battle ensued all during the game between Elba and Milburn. Both teams played an excellent game, Milburn eventually winning by a narrow margin of two points, the score being 32-30.

The scores of the 16 games follow: First Bracket: Milburn 34, Dry Creek 19; North Loup 34, Horace 5; Dannebrog 28, Farwell 32; Ashton 25, Scotia 27; Taylor 27, Wiggie Creek 24; Westerville 23, Berwyn 13; Comstock 19, Merna 17; Gates, O, Elba 2.

The quarter finals played Friday ended: Milburn 24, North Loup 19; Farwell 33, Scotia 39; Taylor 27, Westerville 19; and Comstock 13, Elba 27. The semifinals, played Saturday afternoon ended Milburn 43, Scotia 29; and Taylor 18, Elba 37.

Elba and Milburn entered the finals Saturday evening, Milburn defeating Elba 32-30.

DO YOU KNOW?

Miss Alice Howells of the University of Nebraska has again been secured as judge of the district declamatory contest to be held here March 26.

The school board members were guests of honor at a Loup Valley high school meeting which was held in Arcadia last week. Four members of the Ord board were able to attend. Mr. Ralph Kiplinger of Holdrege, Nebraska was the principal speaker of the evening.

An agricultural contest in Crops and Livestock will be held at Ord during Spring Vacation. Twelve other schools, having the same subjects will enter the contest.

The Public Speaking classes have discontinued their work on one-act plays and are now working on readings. At the present time they are concentrating on "The Charlotte Race" from Ben Hur.

The eighth graders finished with their English unit on "American Legends." They made drawings and soap carvings to complete the project.

The English classes are having lessons in the proper use of the library.

The seventh and eighth grade art classes finished their Indian designs this week.

The advanced Shorthand class has been centering their efforts on rapid dictation and transcription. The American History classes are beginning their study of the Civil war.

The Bookkeeping class is studying Commercial drafts.

The Junior English class has completed the study of Shakespeare's "The Tragedy of McBeth." The Spanish class is studying the subjunctive mode and its uses. They are also stressing transcription of Spanish forms.

Clubs of O. H. S.

Girl Reserves. A Girl Reserve candlelight service was held last Monday evening and three girls went through the ceremony which made them full-fledged members of the Girl Reserve organization. The three girls who became members were Ruth Benn, Evelyn Kokes and Opal Miller.

A regular meeting was held last Monday evening, March 4. The topic was "Faded Old Love Letters" and the meeting was led by Barbara Dale. Mrs. Gould Flagg was a featured speaker of the evening.

Science Club. Current events were given by the members of the science club at their last meeting, Tuesday. Beulah McGinnis, the club president, was the leader.

Knighthood of Youth. At the last meeting of the Knighthood of Youth club the following new officers were elected: President, Isabelle Suchanek; vice-president, Gertrude Packer; secretary, Emma Smith and treasurer and reporter, Alma Jorgensen.

Hi-Y. The Hi-Y theater party has been postponed to March 11, when members of the club will see "The White Parade."

Barbara Dale (from next door): "Mrs. Jones, may I use your telephone?" Mrs. Jones: "Certainly, Barbara. Is yours out of order?" Barbara: "Well not exactly, but Sis is using it to hold up the window. Mother is cutting biscuits with the mousetrap and baby is teething the cord."

Jean: "Jane, I saw the milkman kiss you this morning. Hereafter, I'll get the milk." Jane: "Wouldn't be no use, Jean. He's promised never to kiss any other woman but me."

EDITORIALS

A large number of high school students were present last Tuesday evening to see the boys put the finishing touches to an extremely successful basketball season by defeating the Burwell team by the one-sided score of seventy to eight. Students are eagerly looking forward to the regional tournament, where they are sure the basketball squad will be at their best, and bring home more honors for Ord High School.

Blair junior and senior high school students did this week what their teachers have always done to them. Given mimeographed rating sheets, the pupils checked their instructors from the standpoints of personal appearance, methods of teaching, speech, assignments, knowledge of subject matter and their manner of conducting classes. The papers were then collected and turned over to the teachers without being read by anyone but the subject of the papers.

Sounds to us like an excellent idea and would certainly be a means of revenge for the many tests which we are given.

"I would like to but I haven't the time." Does that phrase sound familiar? You no doubt hear it from some source or another at least ten times a day. But will you ever get more time? Twenty-four hours a day is everybody's maximum. The clock can't be stretched. J. P. Morgan is no wealthier in time than you. In fact, being older, he's also poorer. You have a great many 24-hour bills to invest. They represent capital that a good many people would trade their stocks and bonds for.

Practice thrift in the use of your time. Most students are required to watch their expenditures closely, yet they never realize that the saving of time might be equally important. Watch those minutes and make the most of each one.

A PENNY FOR YOUR THOUGHTS—

This week the following question was asked of the students: "What is your favorite food and why?" "My favorite food is banana ice cream because, it's delicious, healthful and all the rest of the adjectives used to describe good food."—Mildred Smith. "Spinach, when it's fixed like my mother's, because it's good for you as well as good."—Louise Gross. "Ice cream, because it cools you off."—Ardis Zikmund. "Sauerkraut and welters because it gives me pep, vim, and vitality."—Maxine Haskell. "Jello—jus' cause."—Pauline Barta. "Coffee, because I'm a Dane."—Alma Hansen. "Catsup, because I'm always behind and I like spioe."—Beulah McGinnis. "Chicken and dumplings—it's easy to slide down when you're in a hurry."—Lillian Kirby.

"Pretzels, because I like what goes with them."—Joe Kriclek. "Candy. I suppose it's because I know it isn't good for me."—Irene Dlugosh. "I could live on noodles, cause it's fun to eat 'em. Almost as much work as a puzzle."—Lois Dwyer. "Liver and bacon cause it's good."—Dorothy Allen.

Wise and Otherwise

Dean Marks: "Where do the jelly fish get their jelly?" Mr. Watkins: "From the ocean currents, I believe." The boy friend (calling up his girl): "Hello dear, would you like to have dinner with me tonight?" Dorothy Ann Z: "I'd love to." Kenneth M.: "Well, tell your mother I'll be right over."

This Week's Sponsor is Flagg Motor Co.

Mayor Gould Flagg is certainly one Ord citizen with whom all Ord school students should become acquainted. A forceful man, one who is sincere, he cuts straight through red-tape to the kernel in its shell, and when once he has intelligently taken a stand on an issue, he is not one to vacillate or conceal his position. He is positive in his likes and dislikes, fearless, a man's man.

And Mayor Flagg has a most interesting background. Born in Shanghai, China in 1895, he was the son of the first white captain to pilot his boat up the Yang-tse, a feat calling for some courage. At 72, when he died, Captain A. E. Flagg was still commanding, still sea-going, though he had changed from a sailing ship to a steam vessel. After her husband's death Mrs. Flagg came to Maine with her children. That was in 1910 when Gould was 15, so of course he has some vivid pictures of his childhood days in the picturesque Chinese metropolises.

After more school days in Maine, Mr. Flagg went to work for a railroad, then to Boston to work in the office of a large plate glass concern. In 1914 he came to Burwell to go into the bank in which his uncle, Elias Blay, was concerned. Here he met his wife, then a Burwell teacher, and in 1920 they were married. Three years later they moved to Ord and Mr. Flagg and A. W. Tunnick purchased the garage owned by Charles Finley.

This garage Mr. Flagg still operates, having bought out the interest of his partner in 1931. An up-to-date brick building amply houses all departments. Here Fords are the featured car, and also sold by this Ord concern are Ford trucks, parts and repairs for Fords, Firestone tires, and a Texaco filling station and bulk plant is operated. In the back room any and all repair jobs are done and a wrecker is on call. Employed in this business are a number of men, Mart Beran, Ralph Haas, Charles LeMasters, Jean Romans, George Burrows and John Burrows.

Mr. Flagg took 22 months out of his career to work for Uncle Sam in the capacity of a marine. Seeing service on the Pacific, he was among the troops sent to Vladivostock, Russia, the expeditionary force to the east.

A Mason, Mr. Flagg also is past commander of the American Legion at Burwell, belongs to the Ord Chamber of Commerce, has served four years on the Ord school board, and has been mayor of Ord, the highest honor his townsmen can bestow, for the past year or so. He served as president of the board of trustees in Burwell, also. Golf is his chief hobby after business hours, which are practically 24 hours a day.

There are three children in the Flagg family, Bailey who is in the fifth grade, Lyle, who is in his first year at junior high, and Priscilla, a fourth grade student. Active, athletic, and good students, the children are typical of the interest their parents feel in Ord young people in general. The family is an influential one in Ord affairs and one you are sure to enjoy knowing.

Local Declamatory Contest Will Be Held March 12; Sub-District March 26

Music Festival At Ord March 21

The annual music festival will be held March 21 in the Ord high school auditorium with all the schools of the Loup Valley taking part. Ord appears last on the program at 5:00 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

As a special feature of the evening, the Wesleyan male capella chorus will sing several selections. There will, also be a massed chorus, formed from members of the various clubs in the valley, which will sing two selections, "Loves Old Sweet Song" and "America the Beautiful." Every town is asked to do its part in making this a success.

There is a new low rate ticket this year. Fifty cents for adults and thirty cents for students will purchase tickets which will admit the holder to the morning, afternoon and evening programs.

Plans and preparations are rapidly being made for the district music contest which is to be held this year in Grand Island.

4th Public Speaking Recital Was Monday

The last of a series of four public speaking recitals was presented in the high school auditorium on Monday evening, March 4, at 8:15 P. M.

Five one-act plays, "Stuffed Owls," "Such Taking Ways," "Catesby," "The Bitter End," and "Little Prison," were presented. The first play, "Stuffed Owls" concerned the activities of the Minerva club, a society organization for women. The cast included Mrs. Mullin, a wealthy society lady, Charlotte Blessing. Other club members were Mrs. Porter, Ruth Benn; Mrs. Lovejoy, Faye Rashaw; Mrs. Foster, Hope Bartunek; Mrs. Judd, Dorothy Philbrick, and Miss Sally Hobbs, Arvella Benjamin.

The cast for "Such Taking Ways" included Margaret Keller, who portrayed a nicely dressed, typical film actress, Oralla Flicker. Marie Timmerman enacted the part of Lena, her German maid. Charles Melia portrayed Snitch, a young, nice-looking burglar who "takes things easy." Charles Jones enacted a double role. He portrayed "Bugs", Snitch's helper, and "Pinchmans", a German policeman. The play was a clever comedy with an unexpected romantic ending.

"Catesby", a clever two character romance, was presented by Evelyn Loft and Darrell Noll. Evelyn Loft enacted the role of a young and very attractive western girl and Darrell Noll played the part of a young New York man.

"The Bitter End", a dramatic play was enacted by Mildred Craig, the elderly mother, Paul Blessing who portrayed Samuel, her son and Harlan Wyrick, who enacted the part of William.

The last play scheduled for the evening was "Little Prison". The cast included Mildred Smith, Oleta Rose, Marie Viner, Marie Gross and Eleanor Keep. This play was of a different type and was widely enjoyed.

Convocations

A special convocation was held Monday, Febr. 25, in honor of the basketball squad, who won the Loup Valley Tournament.

Following Mr. Cass's announcement, Mr. Brockman offered his appreciation for the spirit and loyalty of the students and for the good work and sportsmanship of the squad members. Kenneth Michels expressed his pleasure at being able to present his free throw trophy to the school. Bill Tunnick, on behalf of the team, gave to the school the Loup Valley Championship trophy.

Jaqueline Meyer, as president of the student council, received these trophies in behalf of Ord High School.

A one-act comedy entitled "Between Trains" was presented by students from the third period public speaking class at a convocation last Wednesday. The cast of characters included Mrs. Flaherty, a big-hearted, middle-aged Irish woman, Agnes Moudry; Judge Martha Mowbrey, a capable, commanding judge, Evelyn Jorgensen; Gloria, an attractive, gay young lady, Lydia Dana; and Anne, a pretty, eighteen year old Miss, Dorothy Fish.

The play was swift moving, beginning with a near death and ending with a telephone marriage. Darlene Anderson was master of ceremonies.

The minutes had dragged away into hours until it was now nearly mid-night.

Julia F.: "What would you do if you had money?" Leonard G.: "Travel." She slipped her hand into his and left the room. When he opened it he found a nickel.

Beulah: "Miss Crouch had an epidermatoid growth removed today." Eleanor: "Poor woman! Was it serious?" Beulah: "No—only a haircut."

Many Ord Students Are Working On Readings in Humorous and Dramatic Classes.

A large number of students are, at the present time, working on numbers for the local declamatory contest which is to be held in Ord on March 12. The students will be assisted with their readings by Miss Roelse, Miss Johnson, and Miss Slose.

Students who are being directed by Miss Johnson include Mildred Smith, Evelyn Kokes, Myrtle Cornell, Mae Jones, Edna Loft and Lillian Karty. Mildred Smith will give the dramatic reading, "Daddy Doc"; Evelyn Kokes will give a humorous reading entitled, "Going to the Movies"; Myrtle Cornell will read the dramatic selection, "Life Boat, Number 5"; Edna Loft will present a dramatic reading, "Unseen Witness"; Mae Jones will dramatize the humorous reading, "The Other Cheek"; and Lillian Karty will give a humorous reading, "Romeo and Juliet".

Miss Roelse's group include Alma Maslin, who is working on the oration, "Is Punishment for Crime Futile?"; Dorothy Fish, who will read a humorous selection entitled, "When Ma Rodgers Broke Loose"; Evelyn Loft, who is studying the dramatic reading, "Swamp Spirit"; Ruth Benn, who will give a humorous selection entitled, "China Blue Eyes"; and Oleta Rose, who will give an oration, "Simple Fools".

Miss Slose will instruct Arvella Benjamin, who is working on a dramatic reading, "The Going of the White Swan"; Louise Petska, who will read the humorous selection, "Over the Bannisters"; Eleanor Verstrate, who will read a humorous selection, "Little Shaver"; and Vernon Malepysz, who is working on a humorous selection entitled, "Boy About Town".

The sub-district declamatory contest, in which the winners in the various divisions of the local contest will participate, is to be held March 26 at Ord.

Kiddies' Column

Mr. Tojen was a visitor in Miss Hallen's room last week.

The kindergarten room is starting to make a grocery store. They plan to visit a store and then make theirs as much like it as they can.

Visitors last week in the kindergarten room were: Mrs. Goddard, Mrs. Fafetta, Mrs. Duncan, Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Sowl and her mother.

Marilyn O'Neal had the measles last week.

The fourth grade finished studying about Holland and are now reading "Hans Brinker or the Silver Skates."

Lavinia Higgins and Paul Covert had birthday parties last week.

The second graders are making airplane booklets.

The first graders are enjoying their weekly readers.

Kenneth Van Kleck was in North Loup over the week end and was unable to get back to school until Wednesday.

Wayne Manchester is in school again after an absence of over a week caused from having the flu.

Mrs. Wachtrie was a visitor in the fifth grade last week.

The fifth and sixth grades have taken six week's exams in Arithmetic.

In the sixth grade, Margaret Ann Petska, Lyle Norman, Dean Misko, Virginia Moon, Billy Long and Lavern Gross have had the measles.

The sixth grade English class wrote stories about the history of Ord one day last week. Some of them were very interesting. They found the book, "The Trail of the Loup" a most helpful reference book in this work.

The G. A. R. is sponsoring a contest and will award a prize to the boy or girl in the sixth grade that can write the best history of Nebraska. Everyone is working on this project in English class and some very fine work is being done. They hope to be able to publish the winning story.

The sixth graders have been going in groups to the high school building this week to use the library. Here, Mrs. Burrows has been helping them find material for their Nebraska stories.

Reverend Smith gave a most interesting talk on the life of George Washington to the grade school students last Friday morning. We enjoyed it so much that we hope Mr. Smith will come back to talk to us again. Before Mr. Smith's talk a number of exercises, songs, and readings were given by the different rooms.

Reporters: Everett Petty, Clarence Romans.

Two senior boys, who were very much interested in the movie which they were attending, had stood the chattering of two young ladies in the front seat as long as they could. "Pardon me, girls, but my friend and I can't hear what is said," vntuated one of the boys. "Well, you're not supposed to retorted Virginia Weekes. "This is a private conversation."

By FRED J. MINDER

With two strokes of his pen, Governor Cochran signed two relief bills, one appropriating $4,000,000 to meet federal relief demands and a second authorizing a one-cent additional tax on gasoline to help pay the state's share of the emergency relief money.

Fervish work on the part of both branches of the legislature brought to a culmination the work on the governor's relief measures, and their passage with emergency clauses was considered by administration followers to be Governor Cochran's initial major victory in the legislature, despite the fact that two-thirds of both branches are of the same political faith as the governor—democratic.

Immediately after the business of learning that the bills had been signed, solons recessed for a week, to meet again March 6. A vast majority of the legislators trekked homeward to transact private business coming with the opening of a new fiscal year for agriculturists, and to learn from the constituency just what the reaction has been to the results of eight weeks' labor.

Some few members remained in Lincoln. Chairman Dugan, (D), Omaha, of the House liquor legislation committee asked that members of that division remain over so final touches could be given the liquor control measure that is expected to reach general file in the lower branch immediately after the legislature reconvenes.

The child labor amendment ratification fight is scheduled for early disposal as is the House action on the pari-mutuel bill, already over the hurdles in the Senate.

By steering through the legislative shoals and finally signing his relief measures, Governor Cochran has complied with demands of the federal government to pledge state and county funds in return for millions which may be coming into Nebraska for relief if Congress gives the president the billions he seeks.

Passage did not come easily. Republican opposition was flanked by several democrats. Resolution followed resolution into both branches condemning the purpose for which the appropriation was asked, opposing a new burden on automobile owners and drivers and providing other ways to raise the money.

Democratic members were startled when Tremore Cone, (D), Valley, sought to balk the raising of funds through additional gasoline taxes by seeking to change the source to a tax on life insurance, corporation bonds, cigarettes, etc. Minority Leader Cushing, Ord, would have had legislators utilize some million and a half dollars in the general fund for the purpose of relief; another proposal was to utilize some $200,000 unexpended balance in the capitol building fund; liquor taxes and revenue, beer taxes and revenue, in fact virtually every known means of creating new dollars with the possible exception of hiking real estate taxes, was proposed.

At midnight February 28, the new tax became effective, and will continue so for 16 months, until July 1, 1935. To the fund thus raised will be supplemented additional revenue secured principally from beer and liquor revenues. Included in HR 675, the appropriation measure was the means of setting up machinery for dispensing state and federal relief through a state assistance committee and county boards, with the state board of educational lands and funds in charge of handing out the funds to the state assistance committee.

By a vote of 59 to 20, the House refused to relieve financially able persons from the responsibility of caring for their poor relatives. HR 489, by Havekost of Hooper, seeking to repeal the state pauper laws, under which children may be taxed $10 per week for the support of their indigent parents, grandparents, children and grandchildren, was the bill killed in committee of the whole.

The Senate, after one attempt, resulting in a recall of the resolution, finally re-passed a concurrent resolution for a legislative joint committee of five members to investigate teaching staff conditions at the Wayne state teachers college. The measure was previously passed by the upper house as a "joint and concurrent resolution" but was recalled the following day when it was discovered that Nebraska's constitution prohibits the introduction of such proposals after the twentieth legislative day. The House must concur in the Senate's action before the probe can be made.

Senate judiciary committee has reported SF 139, the chain store tax bill, by Stewart and eight others for general file. Three of the ten committeemen were reported as opposing the measure. Senators Bullard and Van Kirk, it developed, have a constitutional amendment before the senate which they say, can be amended so as to permit a vote of the people on the matter of taxing or not taxing chain stores.

The Senate judiciary also placed on general file SF 206 authorizing the state labor commissioner to establish a free employment agency and SF 219, creating a workmen's compensation court of three members, and SF 207, forbidding employers to blacklist an employee discharged.

Unicameral and liquor legislation, a pair of public mandates, have not yet been taken from the committee shelf, but they are being brushed up for House appearance soon.

Rep. Dugan of Omaha, chairman of the special liquor control committee, said the bill upon which his committee is working, and which will embody features from several of the seven in hands of his committee, will be ready for general file right after the Spring vacation.

It was indicated that the bill, when it is reported out will not have wandered far from the attorney general's setup in a measure commonly called "administration liquor bill."

Although there have been two public and several private hearings held on the question of liquor control, it was indicated that little had been learned by the committee as to the public desires. The idea that something nearly approaching the old saloon, appears to be spreading.

One of the bitter battles on the bill will have to do with county and local option. Advocates of the state distilleries and state distribution systems with the retailing of liquor in private hands continue to be heard from.

Two additional investigations have been authorized by the legislature. Senator Callan, Odell, introduced a resolution calling for an investigation of the state railway commission to enable the Senate to intelligently appropriate funds for the use of that body. The resolution alleges "disagreement and discord of members" of the commission has caused criticism of a state department" that has been aired and should be investigated.

The resolution was introduced after the three commissioners had written Senators, one, Bollen, opposing an amendment to HR 131, the farm storage refunding bill, placing in the hands of the railway commission the distribution of some $125,000 excess inspection fees collected on corn warehousing, and two, Drake and Maupin, both democrats, scoring Bollen's stand, and seeking to reimburse the fund with "speed and economy."

Bollen had advised the Senate he did not want to have a part in the responsibility of refunding the money. Drake, in taking exception to Bollen's attitude, stated that he and Maupin would gladly have the commission handle the fund, for it could do so with speed and economy. The method which they have proposed, Drake wrote, would save at least three months' time and at least $1,000 in expenses. Maupin listed reasons why the railway commission could properly handle return of the money and says in his letter to Senators: "There is nothing in the constitution or laws of Nebraska to prevent a man from making a jackass of himself, which commission, my colleague, Mr. Bollen, takes advantage of at every opportunity."

Reasons listed by Maupin for commission handling of the fund included: "It affords a method of speedy restitution of overcharges. It saves more than $1,000 of expenses, which means that much savings to the fee payers. It is perfectly safe because it is triple checked by the commission, the state treasurer and the disbursing bank and it avoids endless red tape."

Senator Howell, (D), Omaha, introduced a resolution for a joint investigation of the state historical society. It was adopted in the Senate without discussion.

HR 1, by Rep. Cone, extending the moratorium on mortgages and notes another two years, slightly amended over the form in which it was passed in 1933 as an emergency measure, made the grade in both legislative branches, was signed by Governor Cochran and became effective March 7.

One important change in the amended extended measure permits suits on notes up to judgment with a stay of execution for nine months upon request of debtor within 20 days after judgment. If no request is made the sale shall be ordered under execution, unless for cause the court on hearing stays the action until March 1, 1937, or so long as the act shall be in effect.

Struck out in conference report were all exemptions granted in the House bill to mortgages insured or amortized by the United States through the federal housing act or other federal agencies or held by these activities as security.

Cone, introducer of the original bill in the 1933 session, and father of the extension this session fought at times with his back to the wall to get through his bill.

Arguments pro and con on SF 137, creating a two percent sales tax and higher old age pensions were expressed at a public hearing on the measure before the Senate judiciary committee. Sen. A. C. O'Brien of Grand Island and three others introduced the measure. It fixes pension benefits at $40 a month for single persons and $60 for married couples over 60 years of age. It would be financed by a general sales tax of two percent, administration of the pension to be placed in the hands of a state old age pension commissioner and non-paid county boards.

Proponents of the measure stressed the need for higher pensions for the aged, and taking the distribution of benefits from county commissioners and welfare organizations.

Opponents declared the pension too high and that administration should be left with county commissioners. W. C. Frampton, of Lincoln, an opponent, outlined a bill he is sponsoring in the House, which transfers existing funds to a general fund, plus additional funds created by a one-mill levy on property.

Governor Cochran has signed S. F. 48, by Bullard (D), McCook, calling upon all public bodies to call for bids at a specific time, to be opened and closed at a definite time specified in advance, so that changes in bids may not be made subsequently. It is alleged this bill is directed by its supporters to the attention particularly of the state board of control and other bodies in the state.

Senae banking committee placed on general file SF 163, which lowers attendance requirements at building and loan association meetings from 50 members to 25 to permit voting of proxies, and SF 123, authorizing state banks, trust companies or receivers to take advantage of FDIC or other federal agencies and provides that examinations made by federal agencies shall be accepted by the state banking department.

A bill extending powers of cooperative credit and loan associations and reducing their required membership from 15 to 10 and maintain a 25 percent reserve, introduced by Sen. Henry Pederson of Guide Rock, was fought over in public hearing. Opposition developed on the grounds that it would be putting cooperative associations in the banking business. Those favoring the bill said it meets the need for stabilization of cooperative associations was a matter of sound financial practice and insurance to depositors.

HR 566, by Sullenberger, Chadron, a bill for a central telephone exchange in the capitol to serve all offices, was killed.

Constitutional amendments committee put to death HR 161, proposed amendment providing for appointment instead of election of judges of the supreme court and district courts, supreme court judges to be named by districts and hold office 12 years and district judges to serve 10 years.

HR 135, Rep. Perigo's administrative intangible tax measure, which, in its current form, would rate cash on a basis of 5 mills and book accounts at 10 mills, was reported for general file by House committee on revenue and taxation. The committee also acted favorably on HR 120, measure authorizing counties to continue a half-mill levy for relief. In its present form, it probably permits cities to levy this maximum for like purposes.

Rep. Sullenberger's HR 306, which would empower the governor to approve codes drawn by business groups or recognized existing national codes as state laws was killed by House commerce committee, thus handing defeat to advocates of a state NRA. A similar measure is in the hands of the Senator labor committee.

Rep. Cushing's anti-trading stamp bill, HR 455, is on general file. It places a permit fee of $4,000 annually on merchants using the stamps in smaller towns graduated up to $10,000 in cities like Lincoln and Omaha.

At least the proposition of disbursing the $200,000 balance in the capitol levy fund will have its inning in committee of the whole of the House.

House finance committee placed on general file Rep. John McLellan's measure to apportion the fund back to the counties, and provides that the dividend shall be used for relief purposes.

The fund figures in the debate on the governor's relief program, opponents of the additional 1-cent gasoline tax urging apportionment of the capitol balance to ease the burden on automobile drivers.

Former Governor Bryan and Governor Cochran have urged expenditure of the balance for improving the Lincoln street approaching the capitol.

Requests for $2,455,000 of the federal projects fund for three new University of Nebraska buildings and for experimental farm and campus improvements have been submitted to the state planning board by Chancellor E. A. Burnett, with approval of the board of regents.

Immediately after adjournment for the spring vacation, Speaker O'Gara and Senator Green left by train for Omaha and by plane for Washington to attend meetings of the National Legislative association. They propose to urge uniform laws as between the several states. Conferences with Relief Director Hopkins and others are planned, and a modified acreage program in Nebraska which will permit farmers to extend their corn operations in view of promised failure of fall wheat, will be sought.

Included in bills passed by the House is HR 392, bi-partisan measure, providing a thorough audit of the state banking department, with particular reference to the receivership division. The vote on passage was 84 to 10. The measure as passed carries an appropriation of $20,000 to finance the audit to be conducted by the state auditor.

The measure, HR 520, that authorizes the federal government to plant tree shelter belts on state school land at the expense of the government, was passed by the House with the emergency clause, 87 to 10.

Hurt by Falling Tree. Virgil Connelly, son of a farmer living near Spalding, died last week from injuries received when he was caught under a falling tree on his father's farm. The tree was cut down by his brother, Emmett, who saw that it was falling on his brother and shouted at him to get out of the way. Instead he became confused and rushed into the path of the tree.

DR. RICH SAYS: During the week beginning February 25 several people came to the Sanitarium for examination who have had improper treatment for rectal trouble. They wasted their time and money and did not get a cure. One of them had a cancer that could have been easily recognized years ago. Like a great many others, they wish now they had come to me first.

It does seem very foolish when the trouble can get a decent cure for a sensible price, neglect such an opportunity, and slight an important disease without any consideration. I tell you the truth and guarantee my work. Come and see me. Dr. Rich, Rectal Specialist, Grand Island, Nebr. (1)

President Returns From Vacation to Face Critical Test of His Administration Policies as Foes Stand Firm on Prevailing Wage Clause.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

Western Newspaper Union.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT ended his vacation at Hyde Park and for Washington where his administration faces serious trouble involving the prestige of the White House, Capitol Hill is full of lively curiosity over the President's program, and whether he will fight the present congressional defiance of his leadership and go before the people with one of his famed fireside talks, or whether he will agree to a compromise. Mr. Roosevelt at the end of his second year in office faces a predicament in his relations to congress similar to that which confronted Mr. Hoover in 1931.

Unless he regains control his entire program is likely to bog down. The fight hinges on the $4,890,000,000 work-relief program, the first item in the President's budget message and the principal mainstay of his program. Secret conferences at which slices of pork were reported to have been dangled before the avid eyes of revolting senators were said to have been held. A few supporters of the McCarran prevailing wage amendment which wrecked the bill and forced its recommission to the appropriations committee were said to be wavering under the pressure. Senator Robert F. Wagner, who voted for the amendment, acted as peacemaker. He intimated the possibility of a compromise by paying more than the so-called security wage of $50 a month, but still lower than the prevailing rates. Other leaders declared they would not budge from their positions.

Secretary Ickes has been no help to the President in quelling the revolt. In his recent testimony, Ickes was reluctant to tell a senate committee about allocation of $238,000,000 for a naval shipbuilding program. The senators finally pried out information which would indicate that the navy and the speculators knew all about the appropriation, but none of the members of congress knew about it. The money was to be spent at executive discretion, and senators feel this does not auger well for the proposal to hand Mr. Roosevelt unlimited power in spending the proposed $5,000,000,000 appropriation.

Since next year will bring another Presidential election, a third of the senators will be up for re-election, and all of the house members. They are watching closely the present situation because, if the President is slipping, they want their own record back home in good order.

MUSSOLINI has sent 5,000 more Italian troops to east Africa, making 10,000 that have been dispatched for the possible war with the empire of Ethiopia. With the latest contingent went Gen. Rodolfo Graziani, who will be in command of the expeditionary army. The soldiers were given a fine send-off at Naples, Crown Prince Humbert being present.

Mussolini has set European governments buzzing in a speech in which he roared defiance at Italy's foes, asserting that he could put eight million armed men in the field if necessary. Newspapers during the past few weeks have openly referred to the possibility of a war between Italy and Germany over Austria, and it was thought that Duce's speech was made to impress upon the Nazis that he was prepared to defend Brenner pass, although a part of the troops are being used in Ethiopia.

Britain is keeping a close watch on Ethiopian developments, Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, told the house of commons. Simon said that the agreement of 1908 between Italy, France and Great Britain to preserve the political and territorial status in Ethiopia still is in force and that Britain has drawn Italy's attention to this fact. He added, that the whole trouble is over the frontier between Ethiopia and Italian Somaliland, which has never been properly defined.

THE Blue Eagle lost another tall feather the other day, when Federal Judge Nields at Wilmington, Del., held that the collective bargaining provision of NIRA is unconstitutional when applied to companies not engaged in interstate commerce. The administration and organized labor immediately joined in a fight to preserve the validity of Section 7-A, and announced that an immediate appeal would be taken before the United States Supreme court.

The Wagner labor relations bill making Section 7-A the law of the land and outlawing company unions may have to be revised, if Judge

Nields is upheld by the high court. The ruling also gives support to opposition now forming in congress against extension of NIRA unless it is reorganized.

Judge Nields' ruling was on an injunction suit brought by the government against the Weirton Steel Company to enjoin the steel firm from alleged violations of Section 7-A of NIRA and the labor section of the fair competition code of the iron and steel industry. He upheld the right of employees to form company unions for collective bargaining, thus upsetting the claim of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, that the company intimidated employees and dominated the company union. The court held that the company is primarily engaged in interstate commerce, which congress is not empowered to regulate. Judge Nields stated: "Power to enact Section 7-A was not conferred upon congress by the 'general welfare' recital in the preamble of the Constitution, nor by the welfare clause, Article I, Section 8, of the Constitution."

Unless the Supreme court reverses Judge Nields, the decision will prevent the New Deal from interfering with employee-employer relationships of a vast majority of American business. New Deal policies received another jolt the same day when Judge Charles L. Dawson on application of 35 western Kentucky coal operators issued a writ enjoining the bituminous coal code, reaffirming an earlier decision that the national industrial recovery act was unconstitutional. Judge Dawson declared that the coal mining is an interstate business, and beyond the power of congress to regulate.

He had previously issued a temporary writ on petition of the operators on the ground of invalidity of the code, but the court of appeal remanded the case for a finding of fact on the question of irreparable injury. "When the government unconstitutionally interferes with the right of a citizen to do business in his own way, then the interference constitutes an injury to the property rights of the citizen," said Judge Dawson, who labeled as fallacious the government lawyers' contention that gains resulting from the coal codes should offset losses.

INTERNAL troubles continue to rock Cuba, and President Carlos Mendicta's regime appears tottering. Manuel Despaigne, the only member of Mendicta's cabinet who was in office, has resigned as secretary, completing the rout of the ministry brought about by the school strike. And twelve assistant cabinet secretaries have also deserted the administration.

The cabinet resignations began over differences of opinion as to proposed methods of dealing with the strike of several hundred thousand students and teachers which has developed into a national movement to oust the Mendicta administration. Communist-led labor organizations are ready to throw their strength behind a revolutionary general strike, and the situation is becoming critical. Although armed forces are being held in readiness to quell disorders, there is some doubt as to their loyalty to the president. Col. Fulgencio Batista, army chief of staff, was reported ready to throw his support to Dr. Carlos Manuel de la Cruz for president if the Mendicta government falls, but leaders of the anti-Mendicta movement have indicated Batista's choice would not be acceptable to them.

Terrorism continues rampant. Bombing has become general, railroads have been blown up, and Havana has suffered considerable damage to property.

FEDERAL JUDGE W. I. GRUBB of Alabama gave the New Deal a sharp rap that threatens the great electric power development in the Tennessee valley. He ruled that the Tennessee Valley Authority has no legal authority to dispose of surplus power generated at hydro-electric plants on the Tennessee river. The administration is depending on this enterprise to bring about the lowering of private power plant rates, and it was believed there would be an immediate appeal from the decision.

In Washington special note was taken of the fact that Judge Grubb made permanent an injunction restraining 14 north Alabama cities and towns from negotiating with the Public Works administration for loans to build electric distribution systems.

DETERMINED not to accept the McCarran-Federation of Labor prevailing wage amendment, the administration forces in the senate sent the work relief bill back to the committee. What will happen now to the President's big program is problematical. Senator Byrnes of South Carolina, one of the administration men declared the measure had met its death.

Senator Huey Long expressing his own belief and not talking for the President, Byrnes said, "There is no prospect of reviving the work program and 'The committee probably will do nothing about it.'"

"The President stated that if the McCarran amendment were adopted he would not sign the bill," Byrnes said. "The senate adopted it, therefore, so far as the work part is concerned, the bill is gone." He expressed the thought the committee would report out an appropriation of $300,000,000 or $1,890,000,000 to carry out the present relief program for six months or a year.

The general opinion in Washington seemed to be that the latter part of Byrnes' statement was correct, and that the committee would delay reporting the public works part of the bill until the states and municipalities which would largely benefit from it could bring pressure to bear on their senators.

Adoption of the McCarran amendment by the senate was brought about only after a hard fight and by means of a rather tricky shifting of pairs in which Huey Long took a leading part. It won by a margin of one vote, whereupon Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, moved that the bill be sent back to the committee. This was done, Senator Glass expressing the hope that the committee would report out a bill "that will not be quite so controversial."

Senator Long, who loses no opportunity to pester the administration and to display his political shrewdness, has started a movement for the specification of $2,500,000,000 of the work relief measure's total for the purpose of highway construction. Highway commissions in every state were asked by him to indorse this plan. Long said he had discussed it with some other senators and that they liked it.

A SWEEPING investigation of NRA and charges of graft and corruption was started by the senate when it passed the Nye-McCarran resolution for a finance committee inquiry after a series of floor conferences between the sponsors, administration leaders, liberal Democrats, and western progressives. Sponsors of the bill originally demanded a special committee to investigate NRA, but finally agreed to the finance committee handling the inquiry. Since the finance committee is headed by Senator Pat Harrison, administration follower, this may mean little. However, it is understood that Harrison agreed that counsel and professional investigators be employed, and also yielded to demands that the committee confer with McCarran and Nye in planning the investigation. If Harrison attempts to "whitewash" the NRA, it is rumored that Nye will take the floor to demand that the inquiry be placed in the hands of the judicial committee.

THE irrepressible Huey Long announced in Baton Rouge that he will be a candidate for governor of Louisiana in 1936. That may be just more Kingfish conversation. However, it is known that Long has not preferred the office he now holds, and there is some possibility that he may seek the chief executive's chair of his state. When asked what would become of his candidacy for the Presidency, he said that being elected governor and being a candidate for President would not interfere with each other.

THE Saarland after fifteen years under League of Nations rule returned to Germany. Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italian chairman of the League's Saar committee, took over the reins from Col. Geoffrey Knox, British chairman of the territorial governing commission. The next day, Aloisi formally surrendered the Saar to Germany, and the German flag was hoisted over the territory for the first time since the World war.

CHANCELLOR HITLER has been forced to abandon his intensive campaign against the Jews. Economic pressure has caused Der Fuehrer to give up public manifestations of his cherished anti-Semitic policy, speeches at a meeting of political leaders and Nazi party members indicated. Boycotts, foreign exchange difficulties and other troubles cannot be risked by the reich at the present moment.

CELEBRATING the seventeenth anniversary of the establishment of its army of 900,000 men, Soviet Russia renewed its defiance of "imperialistic" nations. All over the country there were fetes, and the speakers took occasion not only to glorify the Red warriors but also to attack Germany and Japan.

Three o'Clock— Wednesday

By PAUL M. VEST
WNU Service.

"WHAT time is it, Sally?"

"Ten minutes to three, Miss Helen."

"Very well, you may go now, but be back promptly at five. Dinner will be at seven tonight."

"Yes, Miss Helen."

The fragile and palpably lovely figure before the Louis Quinze dressing table sat chin cupped in one slender hand as she looked into the crystal depths of the mirror.

About her was an air of tense expectancy. Unconsciously she glanced down at the toe of one small satin mule peeping out from the trailing green folds of her negligee.

She looked nervously about the expensively simple bedroom.

She got up and adjusted the white Venetian blinds to soften the light filtering through.

For half a moment she peeped between two of the little white slats to catch a fleeting glimpse of Central park many dizzy floors below.

She walked a few steps back into the room and stood still; she seemed to be listening intently.

There was no sound in the apartment.

She picked up a sparkling crystal of perfume from the dressing table, and delicately applied a little glass rod to her hair, the lobe of each ear.

Fretfully she glanced at the red morocco leather clock on the writing desk.

Out in the apartment a doorknob clicked.

The figure in green chiffon started slightly.

Hurriedly she picked up a chiffon handkerchief from the dressing table.

She walked a few steps toward the door, paused and came back to the dressing table where she sat down.

In the softly shaded mirror she saw the tall figure of a man appear in the bedroom behind her.

"Why, dearest!" she exclaimed—there was a nervous catch in her voice—"What on earth are you doing home at this time in the afternoon?" She seemed to be very busy with her cosmetics.

"It's Framingham," the man in the doorway said, "he refused to follow out my plan. Won't co-operate. We had a directors' meeting this afternoon. I blew up and walked out."

"Oh, darling, I'm so sorry." She picked up a comb, but her hand trembled so violently that she had to put it back. Her body was tense, quivering. With wide, staring eyes, she glanced desperately at the clock. The man in the doorway looked at the timepiece also.

"Three o'clock," he said. Was there just the trace of strain in his voice, or did she imagine it?

"Where is Sally?" he asked.

"I let her have a few hours off. You know we are having dinner at seven tonight. She wanted to see her brother or something."

"Oh," he selected a cigarette from the rich brown leather box on the writing desk, and lighted it with the lighter she had given him for Christmas.

She got up. The room seemed very unsteady. She swayed slightly. The man in the doorway didn't notice—or did he? She crossed to the writing table. The little red morocco leather clock ticked with a vengeance—five minutes past three. She wanted to scream.

"Guess I'll take a shower," the man said. "Awfully warm for this time of year."

"Why don't you, dear? It will rest your nerves. I'll lay out your things for you." Her voice trembled. She leaned against the table to steady herself.

Suddenly the telephone jingled loudly. She jumped and muffled a cry in her handkerchief. "I'll get it, dear," she managed to say. "Oh, hello, Marie, darling. . . . Yes, of course, I've been expecting you. . . . Surely. . . . Surely, I understand, Bill just came in from the office. . . . Trouble of some sort. Of course, we'll make it another afternoon. . . ."

A great wave of relief swept over her, leaving her unbelievably weak. Somehow she got the receiver back on its hook. "It was Marie Jaynes, dear," she explained to the broad back turned toward her. "She was going to drop by but couldn't make it."

"Umm-m," he mumbled. "Help me get this dang tie off, will you?"

Water was splashing merrily in the bathroom. Weakly she commenced to pick up his clothes from where he had flung them on a chair. A single sheet of note paper dropped from his coat pocket. It read:

"Would it interest you to know that your wife is having an affair with one of the boys about town? Drop in at your apartment three o'clock Wednesday afternoon."

"A Sympathetic Friend."

With trembling fingers she replaced the note. The blood had drained from her face. She looked fondly at the diamond bracelets on her slender wrists and the diamond rings on her long, tapering fingers.

A moment later, at her writing desk, she very deliberately and completely erased from a tiny red leather notebook the name "Raoul Desmond, 44 Central Park West—CE 55515."

Hay and Feeds

We have about 50 tons of extra nice prairie hay coming next week and we have a number of tons of cheaper prairie hay. If you are going to need prairie hay for horse feed this Spring it will be a good plan to lay in a supply of this hay at once.

We will have a couple of cars of good green alfalfa hay the latter part of this week and the first of next week. This alfalfa is extra good quality, nice color and leafy. This hay has not been piled out in open and full of snow and water but is all strictly first class dry alfalfa hay.

We have full stocks of bran, shorts, tankage, molasses feed, cotton cake, oil meal, oyster shell, calcarbo. In fact we have everything in the feed line.

Come in and ask for prices, we feel sure that we can furnish you with anything in feed and save you money on your feed needs.

Chick Starter

Start your chicks on Noll's Chick Starter this year and you will save money and have the nicest lot of chicks that you have ever grown.

Our Starter is made from only pure clean grains and concentrates. We use no moldy grain mill sweepings in feeds.

Our Starter contains Cod Liver Oil, Meat Bone Meal, Fish Meal, Dried Buttermilk, Short Bran, Yellow Corn Meal, Alfalfa Meal and Fin Ground Oats. This Starter is prepared by the Nebraska Consolidated Mills Co. at Grand Island, Nebr.

We have used this same formula for three years and it has given the best satisfaction. This feed has been fed against some of the highest priced feed sold in this territory and has given better gains and far less loss from death. In this formula we use considerable dried Buttermilk, Meat Scrap, Fish Meal and Alfalfa Meal and we use only the highest grade of Cod Liver Oil. This Cod Liver Oil will not turn rancid.

VOL. 52 NO. 50

KEIM EXPLAINS 1935 NEBRASKA PASTURE CONT'ST

Ag College Expert Gives Hints On Pastures in Talk Here; $1,500 Prizes Offered.

Prof. F. O. Keim, of the agronomy department, College of Agriculture, University of Nebraska, addressed an interested group of farmers at the Ord high school auditorium last Thursday, his topic being the pasture situation in Nebraska. Keim's talk was sponsored by the F. F. A. organization of Ord high school.

Among topics discussed by Prof. Keim were the supply of various grass seeds and their cost this year, types of seeds and adaptation, temporary pastures and rejuvenation of permanent pastures.

The agronomy expert also explained the 1935 Nebraska pasture contest being sponsored by the college of agriculture, the Nebraska Crop Growers' association and the Omaha Chamber of Commerce, in which $1,500 in prizes is offered. Contestants will keep records during the period from April 1 to October 15. Entries were taken Thursday of those interested.

There will be three divisions in the 1935 pasture contest, a temporary pasture division, a permanent pasture improvement division and a new permanent pasture division. The latter contest will be started this year but will not be scored or completed until the fall of 1936.

The temporary pasture division of the contest requires contestants to enter 10 acres or more of land on which temporary pasture crops such as rye, sweet clover, small grains, sudan grass, lespedeza and similar crops are grown, the contestant being permitted to choose any of these crops he pleases. In order to qualify, the contestant must have a plan of so using these crops as to make a full season of pasture. The entering of a field of sudan, rye or similar crops on a single field will not qualify the contestant. Rye and sweet clover already seeded may be used in the pasture scheme.

The division relating to improvement of old permanent pastures involves the rejuvenation of old pastures which are now in poor condition due to drouth, overgrazing, weeds, grubs or for other reasons. Improvement will be by means of seeding in, reducing grazing, top coating with manure, clipping weeds and by other means that the contestant may choose.

The new permanent pasture division, which will not be completed until the fall of 1936, is confined to new pastures seeded to permanent grasses in 1935. Such grasses as bromes, orchard meadow, fescue, redtop, blue grass, red clover, alfalfa, sweet clover, created wheat grass, shall constitute mixtures for this phase of the contest. The College of Agriculture agrees to assist entrants in this division to work out desirable mixtures to fit the field to be seeded, recommend seed methods to fit the locality and help secure good grade seed at a special price.

A state committee composed of P. H. Stewart, F. O. Keim, C. Y. Thompson, Val Kuska, E. C. Schneidlenhelm, W. W. Derrick and K. C. Fouts will act in an advisory capacity on contest details and procedure. Complete information as to rules and method of awarding prizes may be secured from County Agent C. C. Dale, who will also accept entries for any division of the contest.

Kittenball Players Asked to Register

All men of the Ord community who plan to participate in kittenball league games in Ord this summer are asked to register with John L. Andersen, county judge, within the next two weeks, at the end of which time all players will be assigned to teams and a league schedule will be formulated. There is no fixed entry fee this year, each player being asked to donate whatever amount he can afford toward league expenses.

Bridge Tourney at St. Paul.

An invitation contract bridge tournament will be held at the K. of C. hall in St. Paul on Sunday, March 24, and all bridge players in central Nebraska are invited to enter, according to the tournament director, Alvin Matousek.

Brink Falls, Breaks Hip.

Earl C. Brink, 75-year-old Grand Island piano tuner who is well known in Ord, suffered a fractured hip Sunday when he fell down a stairway at his home. Mr. Brink said he believed he was walking in his sleep as he had no recollection of being up or of approaching the stairway. He awakened as he fell. Taken to St. Francis hospital for treatment, his condition yesterday was reported to be fair.

Tuesday Mrs. Edwin Clements and Mrs. H. Hohn drove to St. Paul to see Miss Wilma Slavicek who is enrolled in the St. Paul business college.

Dr. Barta Taking Postgraduate Work

Dr. F. A. Barta left yesterday for Omaha where he expects to spend about two weeks taking postgraduate work under Dr. Judd, one of the most eminent eye specialists in the middle west. From Omaha Dr. Barta will go to Chicago for several days' special work in the Chicago Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat hospital.

After completing these postgraduate courses Dr. Barta plans to go to Detroit to get a new Chrysler auto which he is purchasing from C. A. Anderson. He has driven his present Chrysler for six years with great satisfaction. E. L. Vogelzanz, who is buying a new Chevrolet, will join Dr. Barta in Detroit early in April and the two will drive their new cars back together.

Judge Marries Niece.

County Judge John Andersen performed a wedding ceremony last Wednesday, Mar. 6, which united a niece, Miss Rachel Bouma, in wedlock to Carl Olson of Monte Vista, Colo. Mrs. Olson had been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Andersen, in Ord for several weeks. The young couple left shortly for Colorado, where they will live on a farm.

12 HIGH SCHOOLS TO PARTICIPATE IN A CONTEST

Ord F. F. A. Group Sponsoring Crops, Livestock Meet in Ord Saturday, March 23rd.

Twelve high schools of Central Nebraska have been invited to compete in a livestock and crops judging contest to be held in Ord Saturday, March 23, under the sponsorship of the Future Farmers of America organization of Ord high school. Six schools, North Loup, Sargent, Scotia, Burwell, Broken Bow and Ord have already filed entries.

The crops contest will be held in the high school auditorium with Harold Benn, who was Nebraska's "American Farmer" last year, in charge. Young Benn is an expert judge in agronomy work.

County Agent McKinley, of Garfield county, has consented to act as head livestock judge. A member of a former University of Nebraska livestock judging team, McKinley is exceptionally well qualified to conduct this feature of the contest.

Eight rings of livestock will be placed in the morning, announces J. A. Kovanda, Smith-Hughes agriculture instructor in Ord high school and sponsor of the Ord F. F. A. group. There will be two classes of Jersey cows at the farm of E. S. Coats & Son, two classes of Herefords at the R. Clare Clement farm, a class of Oxford sheep and a class of Poland China brood sows at the George B. Clement farm; a class of Percheron mares at the Harry Bresley farm and a class of fat barrows at the Ord stockyards.

During the afternoon, students entered will meet at the school house to give oral reasons on all breeding classes judged.

Ribbons awards for both crops and livestock judging contest winners are being supplied by the Ord Chamber of Commerce.

O. E. S. Honor Guest.

Ladies of the Eastern Star are entertaining Mrs. Muriel Smith, who is here for yearly inspection of the chapter. Mrs. Smith is supervisor of District 10 and comes from Omaha. She will be entertained at a one o'clock luncheon at Thorne's cafe Friday, will give the local members instruction Friday afternoon, and will be present at regular session Friday evening in their lodge rooms in the Masonic temple. Mrs. Smith will be the guest of Mrs. Stanley McLain, matron of the Ord chapter of the Eastern Star this year, while staying in Ord.

Diesel Engines Will Arrive Last of Week

Ord's two new Diesel engines and supplemental equipment, bought by the city council January 14 from Butler Bros. of St. Paul, Minn., at a cost of $39,000, will arrive by freight the last of this week, it was stated at the city light and water office yesterday. Foundations to receive them have already been constructed at the light plant and the work of installation is expected to proceed rapidly. It is hoped that Ord's oil-burning equipment may be in use by April 1 or soon thereafter.

Tuesday night George Allen, city light and water commissioner, returned from Kansas City where he conferred with Black & Veatch engineers employed by the city to superintend the purchase and installation of the new Diesel engines.

Mrs. A. J. Ferris this week received a box of fruit containing extra large oranges, lemons, grapefruit and tangerines, from her aunt, Mrs. Sid Housel, of Riverside, Calif.

RAY SEERLEY IN TROUBLE AGAIN; BEAT HIS WIFE

Old Offender Sentenced to 40 Days in County Jail and Is Beaten by Wife's Cousin.

For Ray Seerley, 25-year-old Ord man, life is just one brush with the law after another. During the past ten years he has twice been sentenced to the state industrial school, once to the state reformatory and several times has been in county jail. Monday night he was back in jail again.

Young Seerley's offense this time was that Sunday he lost his temper and gave a brutal beating to his wife, who is an expectant mother and is in delicate health. Fortunately for Mrs. Seerley her cousin, Paul Meves of Burwell, appeared while the beating was going on and gave Seerley a big dose of his own medicine. Then Mrs. Seerley and Meves called county officers and Seerley was taken into custody by Sheriff George Round and Marshal L. H. Covert.

Appearing in county court Monday afternoon, young Seerley pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery filed by County Attorney Lee upon Mrs. Seerley's complaint and told a story that might have won him a minor sentence had not his wife and her cousin been present to give their version of the affair.

Seerley's story was that Sunday his wife sought to take a letter and some papers from his pocket and when he objected, she seized his hat and tore it to shreds. He lost his temper and gave her a hard push, Seerley claimed, but his wife fell to the floor in a faint. He picked her up, laid her on the bed and was trying to restore her to consciousness when the cousin burst into the room.

The story told by Mrs. Seerley was considerably different. According to her, her husband struck her in the mouth with his fist, threw her across the bed, grasped her by the throat with one hand and was raining blows upon her face with the other when Meves came into the house and intervened in her behalf. Seerley has frequently beaten her before, she charged.

Meves' story agreed with Mrs. Seerley's in all details and he also admitted knocking Seerley down, kicking him out of the house and knocking him down again. He might have whipped him even worse had not Seerley taken to flight, Meves told the court.

County Judge John L. Andersen heard the case and then sentenced Seerley to serve 40 days in county jail. "If you ever come before me again on any charge I'll give you the limit," he told Seerley. The young man concerned in this case has been employed by the FERA for over a year. Ingratiating himself with E. L. Hoyt, former FERA work director here, he secured a responsible position and has been in charge of work gangs on road and erosion dam construction. The fact that Seerley has apparently been favored by FERA heads while men with fine records as citizens were passed up has created no little dissension in the ranks of FERA employees.

Ord Woman Heads District Auxiliary

Mrs. C. J. Mortensen was chosen district head of the American Legion Auxiliary at the convention in Central City of Legionnaires and their ladies, held Friday. This honor is distinctly one with responsibility attached, as this district comprises some of the larger cities of the state, Kearney, Grand Island, Columbus, etc., as well as many smaller ones. Mrs. Mortensen has been state chairman of radio publicity for the organization for the past three years, and before that was chairman of the child welfare department for the state of Nebraska for the same group, so she comes to her new office with suitable experience. Next year's state convention will be at Ravenna.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Clark and Mrs. Warren E. Lincoln accompanied Mrs. Mortensen to Central City to the meetings.

Attend Conventions.

Among the many Grand Island visitors who went to the Third City Tuesday to the Nash-Pinch food demonstration at the Yancey hotel were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Petelska, John Perliniski, and Joe Dworak. About 600 were in attendance. F. E. McQuillan of the local Gamble store and Ed Michalek were in Grand Island the same day attending an electrical exposition and convention.

Gilroy Suffers Stroke.

Sam Gilroy suffered a heart attack Monday afternoon about four o'clock and is now under the care of Dr. J. G. Kruml. He is 77 years old, one reason for considering his illness to be quite serious.

D. D. O. will not meet again until April 5, when Mrs. H. T. Frazer will be hostess to these ladies.

Booms Cushing As Possibility For Nebr. Governor

Arthur Evans Wilcox, of Lincoln, widely known political writer whose column about legislative doings is published in many newspapers has the following to say last week about an Ord man:

"When Cushing, of Valley, republican floor leader, took the lead of the opposition to the governor's relief measure, it required the pouring of a lot of starch into democratic backbones to keep them from following the Valley leader. A master in debate, and as shrewd as they make political leaders these days, Cushing made a magnificent fight against desperate odds and might have won under almost any other circumstances. There's a young man who will bear watching if you are interested in candidates for governor."

CITY CAUCUSES WILL BE HELD FRIDAY NIGHT

Ord Voters to Name Candidates For Council, School Board And Other Offices.

City caucuses for the purpose of naming candidates to be voted on at the annual city election Tuesday, April 2, will be held in Ord at 7:30 p. m. Friday, March 15. As usual the Citizens' party will hold its caucus in the district court room and the Good Government party will meet in the city hall.

Candidates to be nominated include one city councilman from each ward, two members of the school board and one member of the park board.

City councilmen whose terms expire are Frank Travis, 1st ward, Frank Seerley, 2nd ward, and A. Bartunek, 3rd ward. The terms of Ralph W. Norman and Will Saek as school board members expire. Instead of electing park board members this year, as has been the custom, they will be appointed by the mayor, which is the manner prescribed by law.

The committee appointed last spring to arrange for the Citizens' party caucus is composed of Ralph W. Norman, E. C. Leggett and Archie Bradt, Clarence M. Davis and Fred Coe are members of a similar committee for the Good Government party.

Zimmerman Sells Ben Franklin Store To Kansas Cityan

Tom Springer, of Kansas City, is the new owner of the Ben Franklin variety store in Ord, purchasing the store Tuesday from O. J. Zimmerman, who established it in Ord about a year ago. Mr. Springer has been in Ord all week and expects to take possession at once. He has owned similar stores in the past and expects to conduct the Ord store on lines similar to those carried out by Mr. Zimmerman. Mr. Springer was accompanied to Ord by his brother, George Springer, of Seneca, Kas., also owner of a variety store.

The new owner is married and has two children. He expects to move his family to Ord in the near future.

Mr. Zimmerman's plans for the future are uncertain, he told a Quiz reporter Tuesday. Before coming to Ord Mr. Zimmerman was a resident of Lincoln.

Personals

Special for Saturday: Whipped cream chocolates, 15c lb. Stoltz Variety Store. 50-1t

L. J. Auble left Monday for Winner, S. D., to look after his farm near that place. He expected to be gone two or three days.

Bake sale, lunch and coffee will be served by Lutheran Ladies Aid at Fafetta's Grocery on Saturday, March 16. 50-1t

Mrs. Joe Beranek of Sargent came Monday evening to see her daughter, Mrs. Leonard Furtak and family for a few days.

Lee Chatfield, officer in a CCC camp at Custer, S. D., and his wife were in Lincoln Saturday visiting with his brother Dale.

Mrs. Clarence Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Woolery left Sunday for her home in Stromsburg. Mrs. Anderson has been here for the past five weeks.

J. E. Tolen is not quite so well at present. His daughter Grace came from Cotesfield a day or two ago, and will stay two or three weeks with her sister Maggie and father.

Mrs. Rollin Ayres and daughter Jo Carol, Mrs. Joseph Barta and daughter Pauline drove to Lincoln Saturday and returned home that evening. Mrs. Horace Travis accompanied them home.

VEATCH COMING, HAS PROMISE OF PWA APPROVAL

No. Loup Engineer Will Confer With Valley Officials on Condition to Be Met.

That PWA officials at Washington have given him assurance that the North Loup power and irrigation project will be approved if certain conditions are met is the statement made by N. T. Veatch, Jr., engineer for the project, in a letter received this week by Bert M. Hardenbrook, president of the district.

Mr. Veatch returned to Kansas City Sunday from Washington, where he has been conferring with PWA heads for several weeks. He will be in Ord either Monday or Tuesday next week and officers of the district, members of the board of trustees at Burwell, Mayor G. B. Flagg and members of the Ord city council and others interested will confer with him.

Just what conditions are required by the PWA were not fully explained by Engineer Veatch in his brief letter. He did say, however, that present plans contemplate expenditure of about $2,000,000 instead of the $3,900,000 originally planned. A system of ditches to irrigate the entire valley on both sides of the river is included.

Power production in the new set-up will be limited to about nine million kilowatt hours per year, to be produced by a single power plant at the Sioux Creek site between Burwell and Taylor. This amount of power would more than care for present and future needs of the whole North Loup valley, with a considerable amount left over for sale to other communities.

President Hardenbrook, upon Veatch's request, thought it best yesterday not to reveal the full text of the letter for publication, but said that Mr. Veatch would explain the situation at the meeting with valley officials next week, after which the whole matter will be made public. Farmers of the valley and people of the towns involved probably will be asked to make the final decision as to whether the PWA's present offer will be accepted.

In a telephone conversation Sunday evening, Engineer Veatch said that the PWA has agreed to accept revenue bonds as security for a $2,000,000 loan to the district and has agreed to an amortization period of 30 years.

Passage of President Roosevelt's 5 billion dollar work relief measure by Congress is not a factor, there being funds available from the last appropriation, officers of the district are informed by the engineer.

Albers' Observe 50th Anniversary

Tuesday, March 12 was the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Albers, who were married at Hallam, Neb., 50 years ago, and many friends and relatives called at their beautiful country home about four miles north of Ord that day to wish them happiness. The day passed pleasantly with visiting, playing cards, and banqueting.

Centerpiece of the attractive table was a large wedding cake, decorated in gold and white, the creation of Mrs. Lena Meyers, a daughter, and Mrs. Margaret Harding. There were many nice gifts, mostly from the family, as guests were requested not to bring gifts.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reiss and daughter of Wilcox, Neb., boyhood and girlhood friends of Mr. and Mrs. Albers. Other guests were the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Albers, Mrs. Lena Meyers, Richard Albers and Oscar Albers, all of this vicinity, Mr. and Mrs. George Benn, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Benn, Mr. and Mrs. Louie Arthelm and family, Mr. and Mrs. Mason and family, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes and family, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Christensen and son, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Vanslyke and son, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Harding, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Johnson and daughter, Mrs. Amelia Johnson and Marie.

Also present were James Petelska, Alvin Travis and Ed Kull, Mr. Fuss and Mr. and Mrs. Gus Albers. A grandson, Loyal Meyers, came from CCC camp at Albion to help celebrate the occasion. There were about 55 or 60 present in all, who wished Mr. and Mrs. Albers many happy returns of their fiftieth anniversary.

Mrs. Martha Mutter missed the bottom step on her way down cellar Monday and took a bad fall, suffering plenty of bruises. Having celebrated her 81st birthday last September, Mrs. Mutter considers herself very lucky no bones were broken. Her daughter, Mrs. Will McLain is with her now.

No Shelter Belt Planting Planned For Valley County

No shelter belt planting is planned for Valley county during 1935, said Paul H. Roberts, of Lincoln, acting director for Nebraska, in a letter received by the Quiz yesterday. Nebraska counties where planting will be done this spring are Red Willow, Frontier, Custer, Antelope and Holt. Planting is also planned in certain counties in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, South Dakota and North Dakota.

Shortage of planting stock is a factor in the comparatively small program for this summer. Lack of rainfall last summer and snowfall this winter in certain areas also makes it necessary to delay planting until more favorable conditions exist.

Valley county is still in the shelter belt zone and planting may be expected to start here not later than 1936.

NO. LOUP WOMAN CLAIMED TUESDAY BY THIRD STROKE

Mrs. I. A. Manchester, 69, Passed Tuesday; Leaves Husband, 6 Sons, Sister, 3 Brothers.

Mrs. I. A. Manchester passed away Tuesday evening at about eight o'clock at the family home in North Loup, at the age of 69 years. Death was hastened by three recent strokes of apoplexy, one about two weeks ago and two lesser ones Saturday.

Born in Pittsburg, Pa., Mrs. Manchester was the daughter of Elizabeth J. and George M. Petty, early day pioneers of this country, who came to Nebraska in 1880, owning the first frame house in Mira Valley. Married to I. A. Manchester, to this couple were born six sons, only one of whom lives in this vicinity, Sterling of North Loup. The other boys are Robert, of Los Angeles, Calif., Kent, of Montrose, Colo., Harold, of Milwaukee, Wis., Reeve, who is in Utah, and Donald, of Peoria, Ill.

Surviving to mourn also is the husband, a sister, Mrs. Bud Bell, three brothers, Everett H. Petty of Ord, John M. of Camden, N. J., W. B. of Ord. Two sisters, Grace M. and Lovelady, as well as a brother, Ormsby, preceded Mrs. Manchester in death.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, awaiting word from the son in Los Angeles. A good woman, honored friend of many, Mrs. Manchester will be sincerely mourned.

Attending State Convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coe and daughter Evelyn and A. W. Cornell went to Lincoln Monday, where Mr. Coe wanted to attend the Nebraska Cooperative Creamery association's annual convention. Tuesday afternoon E. O. Carlson went to the same city to attend buttermakers' convention. They will return some time Friday to Ord.

Ravenna Man Heads Neb. Press Ass'n

Lyman P. Cass, editor of the Ravenna News, last Friday was elected president of the Nebraska Press association at the annual convention held at the Lincoln Hotel in Lincoln. He succeeds a former Ord man, Doyle Buckles, who once owned the Ord Journal and is editor of the Alliance Times-Herald at present.

The new Press association chief is a son of the late C. B. Cass, who once was employed as a printer on the Quiz by W. W. Haskell. Mr. Cass founded the Ravenna News and edited it for years. Since his death it has been ably edited by Lyman Cass.

Other Press association officers elected Friday are W. H. Plourde, of Fullerton, vice-president, Fred J. Minder, of Lincoln, secretary, and Frank O. Edgecombe, of Geneva, treasurer.

Attending the convention from Ord were Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Leggett and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Leggett, of the Quiz staff. H. D. Leggett was appointed a member of the nominating committee and also was chosen to present at the past president's pin to the retiring president, Mr. Buckles. E. C. Leggett also had a part on the program Saturday morning.

O. J. Hurlbert Will Sell. Having rented his farm, O. J. Hurlbert of the Rosevale community has decided to hold a clean-up sale Monday, March 18 and is advertising it in today's Quiz. See his ad on page eight.

KEARNEY QUINT OUTPOINTS ORD IN TOURNAMENT

Chanticleers Win Way To Finals But Lose Sat'day Eve By Meagre Score, 26-22.

Two Ord Players On All Star Team

Greathouse, Severson Named Best in District; Overton, Elm Creek, North Platte Beaten.

Just four little points but how large they looked to Ord players and fans Saturday night! By that scanty margin the Ord Chanticleers were defeated by Kearney in the finals of the Class A district basketball tournament held last Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Gothenburg. The final score was 26 to 22. About 100 Ord fans made the long trip to Gothenburg to see the game.

Before succumbing to the Kearney attack Coach Brockman's team had trounced Overton, 49 to 18 in the first round, overwhelmed Elm Creek 57 to 21 in the quarter-finals and overcame a hard-fighting North Platte team 29 to 25 in the semi-finals.

Jaded by their hard battle with North Platte in the afternoon, the Chanticleers dropped out the big Gothenburg floor Saturday evening with the odds against them but resolved to do their best to bring the district championship home to Ord and win for themselves the right to compete against Nebraska's best in the state tournament at Lincoln this week. How nearly they succeeded is written in the running score of that encounter.

Little Michels, the Ord forward whose flashy work has distinguished the Chanticleer attack all season, scored three points before the game was a half-minute old but "Wesley" Wolcott, Kearney's candidate for all-state honors, soon tied the score and from then on the first half was a see-saw affair, with not more than three points separating the two teams at any time. Greathouse did a beautiful job at center, getting the tip-off almost every time, but Kearney's great pair of guards held down the Ord score and the half ended 15 to 14 in Kearney's favor.

After the intermission the Chanticleers flashed into a brief lead, after which Kearney again went ahead and the tiring Ord squad was unable to overcome the margin. That game against North Platte in the afternoon had taken too much out of them, had taken the springiness out of their legs and turned their arms to lead.

The Ord replacements, D. Tunncliff, Marks, and Adamek saw some service but the quintet that has played together all season bore the brunt of the work. Blessing, Michels, Greathouse, Severson and Bill Tunncliff were the heroes of the game and of the tournament.

Although the Ord team failed to win they were presented with a beautiful trophy for being runners-up and two Chanticleers, Greathouse and Severson, were chosen on the all-star team picked by officials from all players entered. Other members of the "all" team were Wolcott and Anderson, of Kearney, and Roe, of North Platte. Greathouse was high scorer of the tourney with 59 points in four games.

Ord's 1935 basketball team has been the most successful of any team in the past ten years. Undeafated in valley competition, the Ordites won the Loup valley conference championship and placed three men on the All-Valley team. Only teams to beat Ord this season have been Grand Island and Kearney. In 19 games the locals have scored 830 points to 355 for their opponents.

This week at Lincoln the state championship is being decided, 16 district winners competing. Teams entered include Benson, Fremont, Norfolk, Hastings, Crete, Falls City, Piller, Benkleman, Columbus, Alliance, Kearney, Chappell, Bethany, Creighton Prep, Jackson and York.

James Opening Office.

E. C. James has leased the Alvin Blessing building south of the postoffice and this week is opening an insurance office. He has taken the Ord agency for several of the largest and best known insurance companies in the United States and will write every known kind of insurance, Mr. James says.

Food Center Announces Sale.

Extraordinary values in groceries and meats are announced by the Food Center this week. Their sale starts tomorrow and continues until Saturday, March 23. Manager Joe Puncocar has ordered extra quantities of all items advertised and is expecting an enormous business.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Chocolate cakes are great favorites in most households, seeming for some reason to be better liked by men than lighter colored cakes. And devil's food cake has an especially large number of admirers. Below are three different ways to make it so you have a good choice of good recipes:

One Egg Devil's Food Cake.
Cook in a small saucepan over water one-half cup shaved bitter chocolate, one-fourth cup of milk and the yolk of an egg. When like custard stand aside to cool. Have ready one cup sugar creamed with two tablespoons butter. Stir in the chocolate custard, add stiffly beaten white of one egg and mix well before adding three-fourths cup milk in which dissolve one teaspoon soda. Stir in one and one-fourth cups sifted flour. Bake in a shallow pan and cover the cake with eggless frosting made by moistening powdered sugar to spreading consistency with milk or cream, adding one teaspoon butter and flavoring with vanilla.

Louise Misko Branting. Red Devil's Food.
Beat two eggs until lemon colored, add a little at a time one and one-fourth cup sugar, beat well and then add one-half cup cocoa which has been filled up with boiling water, one cup sour cream. Put in one and one-half cups flour and a pinch of salt, vanilla to taste. Beat after each addition. This is best as a loaf cake.

Mrs. Walter Hoon, Arcadia, R. 3. Mrs. Hoon also says: "A cake isn't so apt to fall if you just grease the bottom of the cake pan and dredge well with flour."

Devil's Food.
Pour one-half cup boiling water over one-half cup of cocoa, let it stand. Take separately two cups of sugar and one-half cup butter, mix well. Add two well beaten eggs, one cup sweet milk, two level teaspoons soda, one teaspoon vanilla. Pour in cocoa, add three cups of flour in which the soda has been sifted and bake in two layers.

Mrs. Sam Marks. Mahogany Cake.
Cream together one and one-half cups sugar, one cup shortening (butter or lard mixed), add three whole eggs and beat thoroughly. Next put in one cup sour cream in which one teaspoon soda has been dissolved, then two cups of flour which has been sifted with one teaspoon baking powder, and lastly one cup chocolate dissolved in hot water and stirred until smooth and thick. One fourth teaspoon of salt will be needed if lard alone is used. Bake in three layers or in a loaf pan. You may use this icing:

Seven Minute Icing.
Boil together one and one-half cups sugar, one cup sour or sweet cream, removing from the fire when it forms a very soft ball. Add one cup chopped nuts, one-half teaspoon vanilla. Let cool, beat hard and spread between layers or over top of cake.

Mrs. George Hubbard. Cocoa Cream Roll.
Sift together one-half cup powdered sugar, two and one-half tablespoons cocoa, three tablespoons flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one-eighth teaspoon salt. Beat the yolks of three eggs until light and thick, adding the sifted ingredients slowly. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Put into a greased shallow pan, spread out about one-fourth inch thick. Bake fifteen minutes in a moderate oven, 30 degrees, turn out immediately on a slightly damp cloth sprinkled with powdered sugar. Trim off the crusty edges with a sharp knife. Spread with one cup whipped cream sweetened with powdered sugar and flavored with vanilla. Roll up. Serve in one and one-half inch slices, sprinkled with powdered sugar.

The Work Sheet

"The Rovng Reporter"

The snow having ceased to fall, we hastily grabbed a few swigs of soup as a lunch and departed on our pilgrimage. It was pretty cold, but I felt I better go, for when it warmed up the roads would be again impassable. The day proved to be the best kind, for everyone was home, with nothing to do but entertain their honored guest, Ahem.

After depositing the milk can at the cheese factory and visiting with J. Thelin for a few minutes in the depot about life insurance, investments, farm conditions, politics, supreme court, gold clauses and a few other odd subjects, we drove south to the highway and then east.

The first stop was at Will Van Horn's. They were reading by the kitchen stove, too poor they said to fire up the front room. There is one thing about being poor nowadays. The Lord made a lot of us, and we like sympathy, so Will and his wife and I got along fine. He said his four cows had been bringing them in $25 a month and that $25.00 was the one thing that kept the wolf from bursting right in the house.

Dick makes a business of seeking out all the dogs, guns and clocks, and before I noticed it he was slyly whispering into my ear and pointing to an old clock on the mantle, tick tocking away as merrily as if we, all of us had plenty of money. It was thirty five years old, they said. They further told that the thing for years would not strike. And then in the middle of the night, on last Christmas eve, the thing started to ring the hour. Every one in the house vowed they had not touched the clock, so the ultimate conclusion must be that Santa Claus touched it with his magic scepter.

On east to Ford Eyerly's. He smiled as he opened the door and asked us in by the fire. We visited about many things and finally wound up on school board affairs, he being one of the members of the board. His wife was there too. She is another one of our so-called girls, as she worked for us a long time in the store before she went to working for Ford, or Ford for her, or for each other. Anyway you like. Be that as it may, she was one of the best clerks (don't care to say the best) that we ever had or anyone else ever had, either. Everything seemed to be slick as a band box in the house, and I wondered if folks were calling ahead, spreading the news of my approach.

Across the road to where Nels Baker's were encamped temporarily. I gathered from her discouraged countenance and talk that the depression was bearing down on them with intense ferocity. Their cows were in the sand hills. When they get them home, Mrs. Baker hopes for better times. Anyway she said they were so hard up they didn't take any paper at all. Encouraging her a mite, I told her I would send her a sample copy of the Quiz, and there would be enough reading in it to last one week at least, and maybe the millennium would come by that time, and it wouldn't matter after that.

On east to Will Cook's. He was repairing a horse collar by the kitchen fire. Gladly he and his wife asked us in and we sat there and spun yarns for quite a spell. He and I went to Omaha together in a truck once. A trip down there and back will either make you love or hate your companion. No half way about it.

Will was on the shelf last summer, and little hope was held out but that he would go to the Elysium Fields for sure. But he scrambled out of it and is suffering the depression's scourge like all us sinners. He told me he is all well and "ornery" as ever. Will and his family are workers, and will struggle on top of the heap somehow.

Back west and south to Harry Barber's. Harry and his chief assistant, Milford Goodrich, had been repairing a well. I told Harry as cold as it is this ought to be a fine day for a job like that. He has a dandy pair of colts there, and some nice milking Shorthorn cattle, but Harry's long suit is raising corn. Usually when the price is up, he and his father, who is no one but "Uncle Jake" have a few thousand bushels to sell. Corn is not a bad thing to have sticking around at that. The lad yelling "come on Dad," I sauntered off, driving east again.

The next stop was Carl Stude's. Carl and I, as well as his wife and mine, have long been boon friends, and there never lived a nicer couple than they, either, outside of you and me of course. We just had to go inside for a while. Carl, a few years ago, had visited me, and now I was returning the call. They have two big kids and two little kids, and all four are something to be proud of. Carl pleads poverty like everyone, but he did say he grew some corn fodder last year, and that is better than most of us have done. He showed me his sheep and their frolicking lambskins, "dragging their tails behind them."

On east to Chris Stude's. Chris was doing chores, and he showed me his chickens. He has a nearly new coop, and in it a couple hundred buff and brown Leghorn hens with large red combs. The coop needed cleaning, he said, but compared with mine at home I thought it looked pretty good. They have some ducks and geese, some black pigs and some more ewes with "lambies". Chris also has some Jersey cows that are all dry now, he says, except one heifer. She gives about enough for the breakfast food and coffee. That's better than some folks who have to eat canned milk.

Retracing my tracks, I drove west to the highway and stopped at Clint Beck's. He lives south of North Loup, at the very edge of the highway in a little square brown house that goes whizzing by as we speed along. He was at the barn trying to find some feed for his horses, a trick that puzzles the most of us now days. I asked him if he took the Ord paper, and he replied, "Hell no. We don't take any paper." That they didn't have anything to read in the house except sale bills he picked up now and then, and they didn't help much without any money to buy with. I made his heart glad by telling that we would send them a sample copy, and to show his appreciation he lead Dick to a tiny shetland pony he has, and demonstrated how it would kick and buck, delighting the youngster immediately.

Again we took the road and pulled in at John Tucker's. He was chopping kindling, but he was glad to stop and visit with me for a minute. Who wouldn't be glad to stop that kind of a job to talk to almost anyone? I did not tarry there, as night was drawing nigh, and the cold air was beginning to nip around the edges. John's two little kids were playing here, but the older ones were galloping somewhere, so John said, and I was sorry about that, for I would like to have chinned them a minute or two. As I have said before, there is no surplus of families like that.

Stopping on the way home to call a minute on Will Wetzel, who is convalescing from a recent attack of heart flutters. Will worked for my Dad for fifteen years while I was one of the young hellions of town, and consequently we too are life-long pals.

Will lives on one of the best eighties in the valley, if not the best. He has been sowing his corn now for several years, thinking that a better way to save his money than in a deflunk bank. He has accumulated some five or six thousand bushels. Lately he has been selling it out at around a dollar a bushel and has bought a farm. Not so dumb I'd say. He says he reads Robbins' Quiz all the time so as to see what his foster kid has to say.

This seems like a waste of time running around for new subscribers. Everyone who has money he can steal, beg or borrow, takes the paper, and those unfortunate ones who cannot raise the money in one of these noble ways either borrow or plan to join the fold just as soon as possible.

I feel I should be fair in all my reports to you. A party complained to me the other day about your paper, and although it is seldom I hear adverse criticism, I deem it no more than fair to report everything.

It happens there is one lady way up north of Horace who managed to save enough money from other years to be a paid subscriber, and she receives the paper regularly. Times are tough up there and those people do all manner of conning to save a nickel. When she has read and reread the paper she gives it to her daughter to digest. After the daughter and her husband have gone over the thing and their eight kids have also inhaled the contents, one of them puts it in the dinner pail and presents it to the school teacher, who scans the headlines and more too, as the pupils jingle off the multiplication tables.

It is the duty of the school marm to be a pony express, so to speak, and drop the sheet at a sister-in-law, where that family of a man wife, ten kids and a hired man give it a once over. From there it is sent to Greeley, and at that point of the story it goes clear out of the family. A friend gets it this time, and when that couple, and the baby, and the grandmother are through with it, a sister happens along, and carries it home. She studies the thing several days, and when it is handy she sends it to her brother-in-law. This time the paper is journeying back west again into the Horace neighborhood. And when these folks and their friends have read it from "kiver to kiver" it is sent west a second time through the canyon, nearly to North Loup, where Claud Thomas and his family come into possession and delightfully digest the contents. Claud told me he is going to send it over to his mother at North Loup to read, perhaps for the last time.

But I have almost forgotten to tell you the criticism that the most of these folks are complaining of, and that is the thing is not printed on good enough paper. Claud told me the last issue he has received told about Oscar and I going to Atkinson. Claud said that some of it he could hardly read, and he didn't know but he would have to quit taking the Quiz if they don't make that improvement.

The Human Engine.
In this age of science and machinery we are apt to talk of the wonders and the efficiency of the modern machine. Thus far no machine has ever been constructed that is anywhere as wonderful, as complex and as efficient as the human being himself.

The human heart is a perfect pump. Where can we find a pump as enduring as the human heart? If the owner treats it with care and consideration, it remains on the job for more than six hundred thousand hours. Its work is so huge that in the course of an hour it makes four thousand three hundred and twenty strokes and pumps fifteen gallons of blood.

Our nervous system is far more complicated and more serviceable than the best telegraphic mechanism. The spinal cord as a switchboard compares more favorably with any electric switchboard.

The voice of the human being is more beautiful than the artificial voice of the phonograph record or of the radio.

The human eye is keener and more discriminating than the best man-made camera. The lungs and the skin constitute a ventilating system more efficient than any constructed by any engineer.

The human engine, a marvelous mechanism, should be given the best care and should command the highest respect of its owner. The more sensitive, the more complex and the more efficient a mechanism, the more prone it is to get out of order.

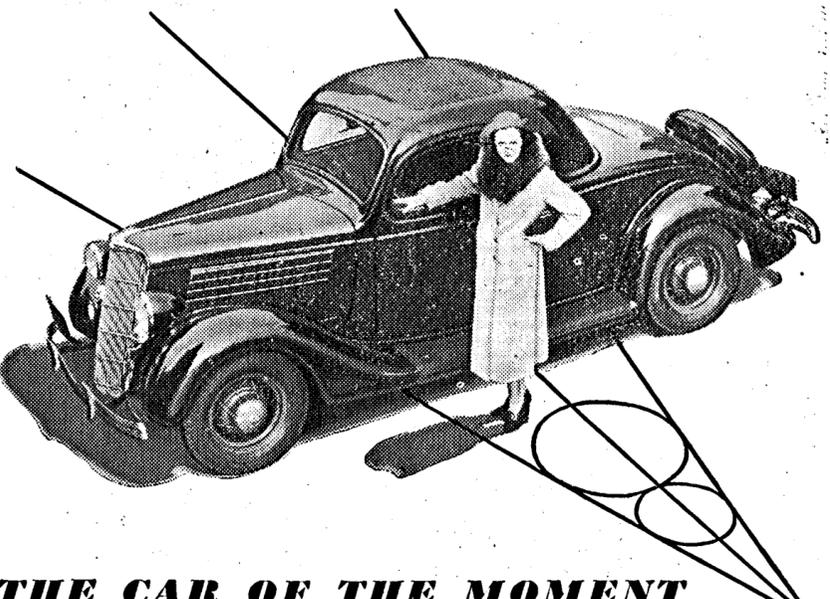

Are you giving your earnest attention to the care of the wonderful body which is yours and which you occupy during your life time?

THE CAR OF THE MOMENT AS WELL AS THE YEAR

In this dazzlingly modern and beautiful car is seen another flash of that genius which gave the world the now famous Ford V-8 engine.

Here is that elusive something called "Style," presented in an exciting silhouette and harmony of smooth-flowing lines—the essence of perfect streamlining without a suggestion of the freakish or bizarre.

Here is that exquisite riding ease heretofore exclusive with expensive, long-wheelbase cars—back-seat comfort that leaves no one envious of front-seat passengers.

Here are deep, soft-sprung cushions and de luxe upholstery materials that invite you to sit in the lap of luxury.

Let's not talk of engineering or equipment details now. Go see this truly surprising car at the nearest Ford dealer's showroom. Take it out on the road. Drive it, and the 1935 Ford V-8 will be your next car.

ANOTHER BROKEN PLEDGE.

The breaking of platform pledges means little to political parties in this modern age and so far we have not heard of a blushing mantling the countenance of a single democratic legislator after the big democratic majority steam-rollered through Governor Cochran's 1c gasoline tax to raise money for relief purposes. The fact that it is a new tax and that the democratic platform succinctly promised that no new taxes would be levied is being minimized by the democratic press.

Democratic editors, some of them, are attempting to argue that this is not a new tax. The theory of gasoline taxes to raise money for the express purpose of building roads is well understood and not only accepted but when Governor Cochran and his "train seals" in the legislature attempt to argue that taxing gasoline to raise money for relief is not a new tax they have quite a job on their hands.

If ever an unfair tax was levied this was surely it. Why motorists should bear the entire burden of relief is difficult to understand but bear it the motorist must in Nebraska, at least until July 1, 1936.

A QUESTION OF "ETHICS."

We wonder how much interested the people of Nebraska are in the quarrel between advertising doctors and dentists and non-advertising members of the same professions? Are they sufficiently interested in discriminating against the latter in favor of the former to have our state legislature spend many days at a cost of hundreds of dollars per day in discussion of a proposed state law that would perpetrate grave injustice upon many professional men and might prove a serious embarrassment to the public it professes to serve?

The proposed law referred to above is S. F. 100, better known as the "professional ethics" bill. Originally sponsored by so-called "ethical" dentists to restrict activity of their advertising colleagues, the bill was later redrawn by Dr. Joseph Kaspar's committee to restrict advertising by practitioners of all other healing arts, including surgery, chiropractic, osteopathy, pharmacy, nursing, chiropody, optometry, embalming and veterinary medicine and surgery.

By this bill members of these professions would definitely be debarred from advertising professional superiority or prices for professional services, advertising by means of large display or glaring lights or by illustrating any part of the human body or a substitute for any part of the human body, advertising free professional work or free examination, or making use of any advertising statements of a character to solicit business of any of the healing arts.

In spite of the dangers inherent in this bill it has been advanced to third reading in the state senate and there is an excellent chance that it will pass that body.

Should this bill become a law our Ord druggists would have to tear down their electric signs, which are explicitly forbidden; our optometrists would have to refrain hereafter from mentioning in their advertisements the fact that they make free eye examinations; no dentist would be permitted to quote a price publicly for pulling teeth or furnishing false plates; no mortuary would be allowed to advertise the merits of its service.

A CZAR FOR AGRICULTURE?

Many people are beginning to wonder just how far the Department of Agriculture will go in its efforts to secure absolute control of the growing, marketing and processing of all agricultural commodities, if given a free hand in the making of our laws. Henry A. Wallace, secretary of this department, has repeatedly denied that there is anything compulsory about the Agricultural Adjustment Act (better known as the AAA), but present efforts to amend the Act seem to belie his words.

About a year ago the United States Senate defeated a number of proposed amendments to the Act on the ground that they gave to the secretary of agriculture dictatorial powers in all matters pertaining to agriculture. They affected not only farmers but all who handled agricultural products in any form. Today officials of the AAA are again before Congress demanding even greater power than was contemplated in the amendments defeated last year.

Amendments proposed at present, and on which both houses of Congress are now holding hearings, are even more objectionable in that while the Secretary of Agriculture would be given all the authority sought a year ago he would be able to widen the scope of his activities to include every person or unit engaged in the handling of any and every agricultural commodity or product thereof. His authority to enforce departmental orders would also be greatly strengthened.

The first amendment sought provides that the Secretary may substitute commodity payments for the present cash payments to farmers in settlement for their crop reductions. Farmers who have corn-hog contracts might legally be paid hereafter with cotton or wheat, if the amendment is adopted, or with whatever commodity the Secretary has in greater quantity or finds the most difficulty in marketing. Possibility of being given a bale of cotton instead of a cash payment will not appeal to Valley county farmers.

Although the AAA is presumably based upon voluntary cooperation of the farmer with the government, there will be little left of the voluntary idea if amendments proposed at present are made a part of the law. Farmers who do not sign crop contracts might easily find themselves without a market if these amendments pass, because the bill as written gives to the Secretary of Agriculture power to enforce a license upon "processors, associations of producers and others engaged in handling any agricultural commodity," which might easily be construed to mean truckers, elevator operators, handlers and even the farmers themselves. He would also be empowered at all times to inspect the books, contracts and correspondence of all license holders and to eliminate whatever he might consider unfair charges and practices. Such trade restraint might easily result in lower prices for the producer and must necessarily greatly reduce opportunity for competitive marketing.

If the farmers and business men of America feel that such departmental despotism, controlled and enforced by federal political appointees, is preferable to self control, it may be adopted as the plan for the future. If, however, our people prefer to retain a few of their liberties of deciding what to produce and to whom and at what price to sell their produce, it might be well to get busy and let our Senators and Congressmen know how we feel about it.

A THREE-RING CIRCUS.

Railway commissioners of Nebraska have, ever since about Jan. 1, been putting on in Lincoln a three-ring circus. In the two largest rings Commissioners Maupin and Bollen preside as chief clown and Hugh Drake contorts in the center ring, which is slightly smaller than the others only because Commissioner Drake lacks the "color" and dramatic sense of his colleagues. While the antics of these three performers are ludicrous and undignified in the extreme they are not exactly amusing to taxpayers who are putting up about $50,000 a year to support this sideshow.

The trouble all started when Commissioner Maupin, newly elected, chose to support for chairman the republican member, Mr. Drake, in preference to his democratic colleague, Floyd Bollen. Drake was elected by a vote of 2 to 1 and ever since the three commissioners have been bickering among themselves. Worst of all, their quarrels have overflowed into the public prints and have made the railway commission so disgusting in the eyes of Nebraska that a resolution to investigate the commission has been adopted in the state senate.

Who is right and who is wrong the Quiz is not attempting to say. We have always held Floyd L. Bollen to be an honest man. Our respect for Bill Maupin has been considerable. Hugh Drake's actions in regard to Ord's telephone case a couple of years ago did not exactly endear him to this newspaper nor do his political and business affiliations. But when Maupin calls Bollen a "jackass" and other opprobrious terms and Bollen retaliates with most serious charges of corruption domination against both Maupin and Drake the matter becomes the immediate concern of every taxpayer in the state.

What the Senate investigation will reveal and what can be done about it afterward is questionable. Certain it is, however, that the charges made by Bollen should be sifted to the bottom. If Maupin's primary campaign actually was financed by a utility corporation dependent upon the public is entitled to know it. If Drake has used his official position to favor business friends the public should know that, too. If there is found to be foundation for the charges made by Bollen both Maupin and Drake should be impeached. If these charges are disproved Commissioner Bollen should be severely reprimanded.

Taxpayers of Nebraska are tired of supporting a railway commission that is a laughing-stock if nothing worse.

Something Different

I tried to get a story out of Magdalene Ambrose about her business career, but she modestly wouldn't say anything about it.

"Oh, I just began to work for Mamie Siler and worked for her until that store ended," stated Magdalene, "then I went to work for the People's Store and worked for them until the end, then I began to work at the Golden Rule and worked there until now!" said she. "And that's all there was to it."

Another result of the depression! "Do you know any news? Have you had any company queried I, a la Mrs. Chapman."

"No, we haven't had any company, don't want any company—can't afford to keep 'em!" shot back the Ord business man.

But I didn't take Mr. Crosby too seriously, knowing how many Ordites had dined at their heavily laden table on Mrs. Crosby's elegant cookery.

Earl Dean, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gould was very fond of cake. So when at a party he refused several kinds, his mother anxiously inquired if he didn't like cake any more?

"Yes, I do," was the response, "but I want some of that kind with hay on it!" His mother, astonished, looked to see . . . he wanted some cake with cocoonant on top.

BACK FORTY

A new commercial product that stops diseases of small grains is being recommended by various agricultural experiment stations.

This drug is especially desirable for treating barley. It has the advantage over formaldehyde or copper carbonate, of controlling barley stripe, seedling blight, and other diseases, in addition to smut.

Rye and spring wheat can be treated, either with this mercury compound, or by using copper carbonate dust. Copper carbonate is applied at the rate of 2 or 3 ounces per bushel of grain.

Seed treatment usually increases small grain yields from 2 to 5 bushels per acre in Nebraska. Treated grain is poisonous if fed to stock.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

20 Years Ago This Week. For the second time that winter, Ord was completely blocked by snow. Railroad traffic was paralyzed and all roads impassable.

Dr. E. M. McComas, father of the Ord druggist, died at Brownsville at the ripe old age of 88.

Practical jokers decided to get one on Dr. Vinnege so they stole a baby pig he was planning to fatten, butchered it and had it roasted at the Star Cafe, the idea being to invite Vinnege to the feast and after he had partaken of roasted pig disclose where it came from.

25 Years Ago This Week. The mammoth cottonwood tree standing on the corner of the Odd Fellows property on the east side of the square, under whose branches thousands of people had walked and rested, suddenly let drop one of its heavy branches across the sidewalk.

William Aldrick, who dropped a huge cake of ice on his toe, was reported to be recovering.

A lot of the friends of Charles Hather visited Cedar Lawn farm, pulled the young man out of bed and made him celebrate his birthday.

W. Z. Todd, pioneer Burwell newspaperman, decided to locate at Lawrence and purchased the Tribune there. A few months before he sold the Burwell paper to Curt Parsons.

Thompson Kipling and family, accompanied by the families of Ed and Frank Kipling, left for their new homes in Canada.

Rev. P. A. Davies, of Stamford, was expected to arrive within the week to assume the pastorate of the Ord Presbyterian church.

CARE OF COUNTY BOARD

By George Gowen
Dear Jake:
The phone buzzed, two longs and a short. Our ring, "Hello", my wife answered. And turning to me "Keep that typewriter still a minute. I can hardly hear." And to the phone again. "Yes. Yes. He plans on going. Oscar is going to start a little earlier. George will be right over."

I chuck my papers. I change my clothes and am off, as she waves a handkerchief and admonishes, "Don't have any accidents."

Changing cars in town, from mine to the truck. Sliding along smoothly, the wind out of our back, visiting continually, of this and that. Nearly there without an item of note. To the right is a small, square red-roofed house where Culberson shot his wife. And the front door, the glass of which has been replaced, through which the shotgun boomed its fatal note. The murderer bought some white turkeys of me once. Thought he was a fine fellow then. Never pass without a fey shudder.

Rolling into town west over the B. & M. tracks, then south over the U. P. tracks, and to the garage. A little repair to be done during the noon hour. As we started to leave, an elderly man, very straight and precise, with a cane, a Scotch cap, a shiny well pressed suit, a white shirt, and a celluloid collar, many sizes too big, mimes his step into the door. At once a couple mechanics ask his wants. That's all. Oscar was way ahead. I hurry to catch him. But why that celluloid collar?

Dinner. Then stopping at the pet store to while a few minutes. Inspect the gold fish, the canary birds, and the Mexican Cardinal. Canaries four and five dollars. I offered a lady two big hens for a singer the other day, arguing the deal by explaining how much more eating there would be in the two hens. Foolishly, I proclaimed then, she would not trade.

Parting company, Oscar back to the garage, and I to my devils. Among other places to the Grand Island Independent office. At the busy time of day. Before going to press. Everyone on tap. Phones ringing, typewriters clattering, linotypes steaming, their long arms reaching up and down automaton like. Reporters running in and out. A machine in the second room typewriting events from Lincoln and Washington D. C. I read the latest about the Hauptman trial, as the keys pound out the news. The first man in Grand Island to know it. I must buy a paper to see if it is the same. An employe with long shears clips off the sheets, to correct and take to the linotypes.

Sauntering toward the sale barn window shopping as I trudge along, I spy a display of antiques. I tarry a minute. A sign flaunts the trade. "Furniture Doctor, Forty years in the Business." Business of making antiques new again.

Find Oscar in the sale typhoon. We climb the steep steps and down again seating ourselves for the cattle sale. He studies and watches closely for bargains. I relax, my mind wandering.

My eyes fall glued to the ringman's saddle horse. Fat as a mole and groomed like a co-ed. Sorrel with a white foot and the eye of a sage. Moves like a machine, not too fast or too slow. Stands to perfect distance for opening the gate. Seems to keep step with the auctioneer's crying. "Sure like to have that horse!" I remark. "As well try to buy the barn," Oscar replies, his thoughts still on the cattle.

On the top row of seats is an elderly man, with short white whiskers, parted at his chin point, like George Bernard Shaw. His coat is swallow tail, of many winters, and of a greenish black. Perhaps his wedding coat, salvaged from quondam years when money was lush. One saving account that did not fail.

Sale over. Dave, Oscar's father comes up. Looking over the purchases. Aftermath as to the worth. While Oscar pays his bill, Dave and I talk over the times, and the cattle mart. He tells me he has fed over 1300 head this year, and made plenty of money. Strange words in these times of distress. He apologizes for having to leave so soon, before the stores close. Why should stores close so early, interfering with visits of such boon friends?

We load our steers. We start for home. We buy a dozen doughnuts to munch as we skim along. Looking out the west window we see "The Sunset," glowing crimson and marigold, and "Evening star," a brighter red, "and after that the dark." We flip on the lights.

A crescent moon, as if drawn with a widening swoop of a pen, sails close to Venus, the evening star. Some deep secret to reveal. Planets coniving perhaps. In between, a tiny tag-along, Mercury, tries to eavesdrop and shine with the others, but is nearly crowded out. Disgusted, perhaps, they all go scurrying off, and sink below the hills. Sunset always brings slight touches of nostalgia. I wonder if the wind blew today? Might the folks be out of water? Suppose the steers have rubbed the gate open? I wonder if the kids fed the chickens. The youngsters may be getting ready for bed now. Or are they peering out the window looking for a light in the lane? Oscar treats the accelerator a little harder.

We replenish our fuel supply at the truck city in St. Paul. We hurry on. A cluster of twinkles far ahead. The twinkles become brighter and brighter, and we speed through them into the darkness again. On we hum. We see another group of twinkles, ahead. Through them and past, then another cluster to the right across the river and another ahead is our town. They sparkle a trifle brighter to us.

On home. The kids come dancing to the door, in their pajamas, while the good wife smiles in accord, and they all exclaim, "What did you bring us, Daddy?"
George G.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett
A newspaper office down at York was robbed. That isn't news, but the robber got $190, that is news. Any newspaper office that harbors $190 all at one time should expect to be robbed.—David City Banner.

Yes, and it ought to be robbed. What business would an editor have with that much money?
I believe anyone reading the daily paper editorial pages of all shades of political belief, must conclude that the political mess down at Washington is getting into a worse condition all the time. Unless the administration can get things straightened out soon, most anything can happen in 1936.

A stock exchange is said to be a place where people exchange money for experience.

When I look over the style sheets in the Meyer-Both advertising book which we have for the use of our advertisers I wonder why it is, in making style pictures for us to use in the advertisements of the merchants, there are none for the plump women (I wouldn't dare say fat). When I go to church or the fair, or on the street Saturday, there are more plump women than slim janes, but the slim janes are the only ones ever shown in the coat and dress ads. Funny I think. And the same goes for men, too.

When I was a kid they used to make cloth story and picture books for the kids to play with and after reading George Gowen's story this week, there seems to be but one right thing to do and that is to print the Quiz on cloth for those subscribers who are called upon to mail or give it to many neighbors after they, the real subscribers, have read it. And I will arrange to do this if those "loaning" subscribers will send in their names. Naturally I don't want to print any more cloth editions than is necessary, for the cloth is going to be more expensive than the class of paper now used. At that it might slow up the loaning business, for after reading the "paper" the reading could be washed out and the cloth used for dildes for the baby or dish towels for the kitchen.

One lady who met Fred Howard for the first time down at the press meeting at Lincoln, said, "I supposed Fred Howard was a terrible map, but surely that old fellow couldn't do any harm." And she didn't have Fred confused with Edgar either.

At the banquet the other evening I noticed that Dan Webster ate his cocktail with his spoon (or rather one of his spoons) when he should have used the tiny fork that had been provided. And did the waitress look disgusted when she carefully laid the used spoon off the plate that contained his cocktail glass and gathered up the unused little fork. I hope Dan didn't notice that I did the same thing.

I shall not be surprised if George Round, Jr., is governor some day. I believe he was the best known man around the Lincoln hotel lobby.

I am wondering why members of the legislature felt that it was necessary to talk for 2 1/2 days on the child labor bill when it was admitted by everyone, even its strongest supporters, that it was going to be defeated this year by a large majority. Was it just because the house members like to hear themselves talk? The cost to the people was several thousand dollars, all for nothing. Then we wonder why state government is so expensive.

The evidence is piling up that the state railway commission should be abolished and the sooner the better.

Now friends, as business improves, don't go to extremes in anything. Keep conservative. We want a steady and continuous improvement and should all help to get it, but we do not want a boom period followed by a worse crash than we have had so far. Stop, look and listen—to reason.

I heard it hinted at Lincoln last week that there are some state senators who have not yet been arrested, and probably some representatives, too, who are guilty of worse things than Senator Kaspar has been arrested for, and his offense is bad enough.

"Who steals my kolum steals trash," shouted Fred Howard, after going through a dozen of his exchanges, everyone of which had purloined from one to a dozen of his smuttles items of the week before, without giving credit.

A young spendthrift of Ord was telling his girl friend that he just spent one nickel after another till his whole darned dime was gone. (Continued on Page 10).

Heavy Fighting Reported as Greek Government Seeks to Put Down Insurrection—Senator Robinson Scores Huey Long in Heated Senate Session.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union.

THE Greek government is making a grim effort to stamp out the fast growing revolt which started in Crete and has spread to the mainland. Greek government planes bombed the home in Crete of former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, and also struck at five naval vessels manned by rebels standing off the shore of Crete. Venizelos is openly heading the forces of sedition, and reports say, has seized $1,000,000 from the Canea treasury to finance the revolt.

The rebellion has been plotted for a whole year, and broke when 20 naval officers, both active and retired, seized the Salamis arsenal. As the revolt spread, rebels boarded the five warships while the crews were ignorant of the plan, and put under steam. Government planes were dispatched to the scene and urged the rebel ships down the Aegean sea. The cruiser Averoff was struck by an aerial bomb while the vessel lay in Souda bay, near Crete, and the two other ships were reported to have been overtaken and bombed near the island of Cythera with undetermined damage.

Martial law prevailed throughout the country; rail, telephone and telegraphic communications have been cut off and normal activities suspended.

Heavy fighting with serious losses on both sides have been reported in the Struma valley, and in the Macedonian city of Kavalla. Fear has been expressed that the country will be plunged into a factional civil war of unestimated proportions. The government has offered amnesty to the rebel troops if they capitulate peacefully.

Saloniki harbor has been heavily mined in preparation for an attack by the rebel fleet, and land batteries have been reinforced by heavy caliber naval guns. Eight additional classes have been called to the colors as wounded troops pour into Saloniki from the battlefield. The government claims 100,000 loyal troops, 60 airplanes and a quantity of heavy motorized artillery are ready, although good part of this equipment is said to be old and defective.

A report from Alexandria claims that Venizelos has abandoned Crete and fled toward Egypt.

MINUTIVE King Prajadhipok of Siam has renounced his throne, relinquished his claims to being known as "brother of the moon and possessor of 24 umbrellas," assuming the simpler, if still unpronounceable name of Prince Sukhodaya, and retired to the simple life of an English country gentleman. By his action, the ex-monarch set a record, for it is probably the first time in history that a ruler has abandoned power because his government rejected his demands for greater freedom and democratic control for his people. "My intention that the people should have a real voice in the policy of the government has been ineffective," the ex-king wrote in his message of abdication. "Since I realize that now there is no longer any way of my assisting or protecting the people in the future, I hereby renounce all rights which I had as king or rights of succession, but I reserve the rights which I formerly enjoyed before accession to the throne."

Prince Ananda, nephew of Prajadhipok, has accepted the throne, reports state. The prince, now eleven years old, is attending school at Lausanne.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, jurist, scholar, soldier and gentleman, is dead. Two days before his ninety-fourth birthday, the beloved "great dissenter" succumbed to the ravages of pneumonia. The next day in the somber Supreme court chamber, the court led by Chief Justice Hughes paid tribute to the man whose career, he said, had been one of "unique distinction." Justice Hughes' voice choked as he spoke. The grid of legislation and the disputes of the day were forgotten in congress as both the house and senate paused while glowing words were said in memory of the retired justice. Funeral services were held in Washington, attended by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and members of the Supreme court. After the ceremony, Holmes was given military burial in Arlington National cemetery, as befitted one who had served his nation so gallantly. Justice Holmes was born in Boston, the son of the noted American poet of the same name. He entered Harvard and was in his senior year when the Civil war began. He enlisted as a lieutenant, was promoted to a captaincy and retired with the rank of colonel. He was wounded three times. After the war he returned to school and obtained his law degree. In 1882, Holmes was elevated to the Supreme court of Massachusetts, and in 1902, President Roosevelt appointed him to the United States Supreme court. On October 4, 1923, when he was eighty-seven years old, he became the oldest man ever to sit on the bench of the Supreme court. He retired in January, 1932.

SENATE administration leaders have decided to virtually abolish NRA when it expires in June, and set up in its place a plan of self-government in business, eliminating present coercive measures and giving over administrative functions of the new program to the federal trade commission. This would end one of the administration's most spectacular and far-reaching experiments. In its general form, the plan calls for permission to join in voluntary codes regulating trade practices and eliminating unfair competition. Price fixing will be outlawed. Business and industry will agree to minimum wages and maximum hours, and only when these standards are violated, can the government apply compulsory codes.

At the same time United States District Judge W. G. Borah, in New Orleans, denied a government petition to compel a box manufacturer to comply with the maximum hour and minimum wage provisions of the national industrial recovery act is unconstitutional. The ruling is expected to bring before the United States Supreme court the constitutionality of the interstate commerce clause of the lumber code.

THAT "ancient repository of dignity," the senate, has been treated to an exhibition of personalities, vituperation, barely avoided fistful encounters and general uproar centering about Senator Long that should set a record for even that august body. Goal of action by the almost daily trades of Louisiana's Kingfish, majority leader Joe Robinson, while with rage, and let loose a castigation designed to blast the irrepressible Long into submission. Robinson appealed to the senate to assert itself and put Long, whom he called "a madman," in his place. Vice President Garner and more than a dozen senators shook hands with Robinson when he closed, and galleries applauded until the chair threatened to clear them. It had no perceptible effect on Long other than to cause him to rush back to the senate chamber, and renew his attack on Robinson.

The next day Huey precipitated another verbal free-for-all when he resumed his one-man campaign against Postmaster Farley and the New Deal in general. Long charged that Farley was instrumental in quashing an indictment against a bank in which Norman Davis, "ambassador at large," was interested. For his trouble Kingfish received a liberal supply of ridicule. He also sent to the senate post office committee a letter in which the accusation was made that Farley is "profiting" from 25 business concerns in New York city, involving violation of four criminal statutes. When questioned, Farley said he had no statement to make.

CHANCELLOR HITLER was not pleased with announcement that Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, would visit him to discuss the proposed Anglo-British pact. He sent word that he had a "cold" and could not see Sir John. Officials in London derided Hitler's cold, and attribute it to the fact that Hitler is determined to say that the visit will be acceptable. High sources in Germany have intimated that Hitler will not welcome Sir John unless Britain recognizes Germany's equality.

ITALIAN government officials state that nearly 1,000 aviators and several squadrons of planes have sailed for East Africa, and that a second wave of troops has been started to join the 20,000 already massed in Somaliland. General Graziana has been named governor of Somaliland and commander of the troops.

MONEY markets of the world reacted violently after President Roosevelt declared his administration would seek further jacking up of commodity prices. Stocks rallied in New York, government bonds sagged, and the falling British pound rose four cents. The President hurriedly issued another statement explaining that his advocacy of higher prices did not mean further devaluation of the dollar, at least not for the present. The first statement was made by the President at a press conference when he was asked if he believed prices had now risen sufficiently to warrant stabilization. He replied that they had not; that they were still too low in relation to debts.

KOKI HIROTA, Japanese foreign minister, sees in the dispute over settlement of Japanese farmers in Arizona, a spark which may ignite flames of discontent and cause regrettable consequences between Japan and the United States, he told the lower house of the Japanese diet. He expressed extreme regret that American authorities had not been able to settle the matter, and said he was pressing for an early solution. Exclusion of the Japanese has been asked under the alien land ownership law, and it is probable that no fundamental solution can be arrived at until the exclusion clause of the immigration act, which has been hanging fire since 1924, has been settled.

DONALD RICHBERG, executive director of the National Emergency council, and one of the closest advisers of the President, "guaranteed" that there would be no monetary inflation as long as Franklin D. Roosevelt is President. His statement came in answer to a questioner at a lecture in Boston.

"If we are to assume that President Roosevelt will be President for the next six years, I can tell you this: I can guarantee there will be no inflation while Franklin D. Roosevelt is President," Richberg said.

He dodged further discussion of the subject, and refused to comment as to what was being done by the government internationally and nationally on monetary policies. However, Richberg did touch on the Townsend plan for payment of $200 monthly to all persons over sixty. He said:

"If everybody over sixty is to get $200 a month, you can be certain it is going to come out of the pockets of everybody between eighteen and sixty."

"When those under sixty have arrived at the unselfish attitude where they are ready to dig to pay every body over sixty the $200 a month, there will have been a tremendous spread of real Christianity. But the government can't get the money out of thin air."

THERE seems to be no doubt about the "pink slip" clause in the income tax law being repealed. Overwhelming sentiment for its abolition has been expressed in both houses of congress, and the house ways and means committee has already approved the resolution offered by Chairman Doughton. Polls taken disclose a heavy majority in the senate favor repeal, and both Democratic and Republican house leaders are pledged to lend their strength to prompt passage of the measure. Congressional decision on the "pink slips" must be registered before March 15, the date for filing tax returns, if it is to serve its intended purpose.

S. CLAY WILLIAMS, head of the S. NRA, tendered his resignation to the President, starting what is expected to be a wholesale house-cleaning of the recovery administration's high command. Chairman Williams explained his action by saying that he had to return to his job as head of one of the country's largest tobacco companies. Three of the four remaining members of the board, Arthur D. Whiteside, Walton Hamilton, and Sidney Hillman, are known to have their resignations ready. Rumors say that the President will not fill the vacancies, but will return the NRA to a one-man command.

By a vote of 23 to 1 the house approved the Vinson bonus bill, and gave the rival Patman bill a possible edge. The committee instructed Chairman Doughton to ask a wide open rule permitting inflationists to move the Patman measure as a substitute on the floor. Patman supporters claim the house will pass the first bonus bill brought up, but conservatives are working to jockey the "printing press money" measure out of preferred position. The Vinson bill is favored by the American Legion.

FACING its third "revolutionary general strike" in fourteen months, President Carlos Mendietta's government turned the situation over to Fulgencio Batista, army commander in chief, who will try to bring some order out of the Cuban chaos. Nearly all government employees have joined the general strike, as have those working in the Havana municipal government.

Ord Church Notes

Christian Church.
Next Sunday morning our sermon subject will be "A New Song". Union service at the Presbyterian church. Mr. McCarthy will preach. Subject: "The Bible the Word of God." Illustrated by chart.
Mid-week Bible study Wednesday evening.
Bible school at 10 A. M.

Presbyterian Church.
Regular services will be held next Sabbath at the usual hours. Mr. M. B. Cummins, who has long been identified with the work of the Valley County Sunday School Association will be the speaker. He will address the Junior Service at 10:00 at the Legion Hall, his subject being "The Necessity of Sunday School Training", and the adult service at 10:45 at the church on "The Responsibility of Parents and Adults Toward the Sunday School of Today."

Christian Endeavor at 6:30.
Leader, Paul Carlson. Subject: Marcus Whitman.
The Home Art Circle will meet Wednesday, March 20, at the home of Mrs. Clarence Christensen. Election of officers and other matters of interest.

Christian Science Services.
The subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches for Sunday, March 17, is "Substance".
The Golden Text is from Ecclesiastes 3:14: "Whatsoever God doeth, it shall be forever."
A passage from the Bible in the lesson sermon is from Psalms 145: 5, 13: "I will speak of the glorious honor of thy majesty, and of thy wondrous works. Thy kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and thy dominion endureth throughout all generations."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "The substance, Life, intelligence, Truth, and Love, which constitute Deity, are reflected by His creation; and when we subordinate the false testimony of the corporeal senses to the facts of Science, we shall see this true likeness and reflection everywhere." (page 516).

Pentecostal Church Notes.
We again want to invited you to our revival campaign now in progress at the Full Gospel Pentecostal church. We are having good spiritual meetings and God is blessing. We invite you to come and hear the Full Gospel preached just as it is in the Word of God.
Services at 7:45 each night with the Johnson Steidle Evangelists in charge.
Special music and songs at each service.
Special prayer meetings each afternoon at 2 o'clock at the church.
Sermon topics for the remainder of the week are: Thursday night—"Should a Christian Dance?" Friday night—"Signs of the Times"; Saturday night—"Divine Healing"; Sunday night—"Second Coming of the Lord."

Bring your Bibles and get the scriptures on these subjects. If all of these subjects are not scriptural we earnestly invite you to show us in the Bible where we are wrong.
Sunday school, Sunday, 10 a. m. Morning Devotional 11 a. m. Earl Cummings, Pastor.

Methodist Church.
Contest figures for last week were: Ord, 192 and 172; Osceola 185 and 148. This is the second Sunday we have beaten them. We are now only 73 points behind. Let's catch up completely next week.
The class of junior girls taught by Sylvia Cornell has been added to the list of 100% loyalty classes.
The "little man" cards announcing the contest were given out last week. Our slogan is, "Put a little man in every home." If you did not get one, ask for it.
Sunday evening services with discussion of plans of the "Oxford Movement" continue with much interest. Next week the subject will be "Divine guidance". George Pratt will be song leader and Mrs. Mearl Smith discussion leader.
Mr. Bell's class had 29 present last week, the record of any class for several months. It was their day to give the Pep program.
The Wesleyan Glee club will appear at the high school next week, Thursday night for the Music Festival. Our church is assisting the school in finding homes to entertain the boys. The committee are Mrs. Stoltz and Mrs. Hardenbrook.

Springdale 4-H Club.
The Springdale 4-H club met Saturday, March ninth, with Mrs. Leo Nelson, the former leader. She was showered with several tea towels, embroidered with 4-H emblems.
At this time new officers were elected for the summer 4-H club which will be a girls' room project. The leader, Marie Timmerman, took charge of the meeting. The following new officers were elected: Mildred Timmerman, president; Irene Hansen, vice-president; Viola Hansen, secretary; and Ruth Cook, news reporter.
The party enjoyed a light luncheon brought by the guests. At this time, Irene Hansen favored the girls with a very attractive cake, frosted with white icing, decorated with a 4-H design in green.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORHOOD

William W. Egger and Chas. E. Wyant, who were arrested at Burwell a few weeks ago as they were driving through in a new Ford delivery car with a load of liquor, had their preliminary hearing last week at Burwell. Egger was fined $100 and costs, his car was ordered confiscated and the liquor was ordered destroyed. He filed notice of appeal and the case will be heard in district court in May. Egger was said to be transporting the liquor to Valentine when he was arrested. Since his new car is valued at $850 and the load of liquor at $1,000, Egger is sure to suffer financially if the district court case goes against him.

Edgar G. Lightbody recently was reelected superintendent of schools at Sargent, his salary to be $1,800 per year, an increase of $100.

Rev. Michael McDaid, of Chap-pell, will be the new pastor of the Catholic church at O'Connor, succeeding the late Rev. T. J. O'Byrne. As a boy at North Platte Father McDaid was employed by the Union Pacific railroad as a call boy and later in the shops. He was educated in Little Rock, Ark., for the Grand Island diocese and received his first assignment about 10 years ago as assistant to his brother, Rev. Patrick McDaid of North Platte.

Prices were considerably higher at the annual Hereford sale held in Broken Bow last week. Bulls averaged $115 each with the highest bull bringing $205.

Frank Kokes sr., Has Birthday.
Friday was the birthday of Frank Kokes, sr., so several of his children surprised him with a visit. Frank, Joe and Rudolph and their families and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Komsak of near St. Paul came to help celebrate the occasion with a big dinner and an enjoyable visit at home.

Mrs. Anderson Honored.
In honor of Mrs. Albert Anderson's fifty-ninth birthday a number of ladies surprised her Wednesday evening at her home. Invited to call by Miss Florence Anderson and Mrs. William Carlton. Others present included Mrs. Ed Wilcox, Mrs. Peter Darges, Mrs. Herb Mason, Mrs. Lawrence Mason, Mrs. Noble Ralston, Mrs. John Mason, Miss Bertha Bremer, Mrs. Caroline Hellwege, Mrs. Ed Hansen, Mrs. N. J. Peterson and Mrs. Cecil Clark. After a pleasant sociable time a nice supper was served.

Home Art Circle Busy.
A special meeting of the Home Art circle of the Presbyterian church was held Friday evening at the Edgar Mower home, so that the ladies might catch up on the many sewing orders they have received. Mrs. Olof Olsson is president of this group, which is now planning to serve dinner to one hundred young entrants in the music festival at the high school next Thursday.

Honoring Lee Nay.
As a farewell courtesy to Dr. Lee Nay, who has gone to California for the next few months, several hosts have entertained. Wednesday evening Dr. Nay and Mrs. Nay and her mother, Mrs. Margaret Pratt of Washington, Ia., were dinner guests at Olof Olsson's; Thursday night the Nay family were invited to the Stanton Finley home for dinner and Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Finley were other guests. Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Ed Michalek and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Petska were entertained in the home of Dr. Nay.

Give Two Evening Parties.
Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sorenson entertained six tables at bridge Monday evening at the Johnson home. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Clements won the prize offered to the man and wife having highest combined score. Friday evening the same hosts will give a similar party.

The Japanese tea given by Methodist ladies at the home of Mrs. Bert Hardenbrook Thursday was a great success. Mrs. Orville Sowl gave a reading, while four ladies dressed in Japanese costume enacted the play, Madams Mearl Smith, Glen Auble, E. O. Carlson, and Miss Mamie Smith. Mrs. Hardenbrook and Miss Mamie Smith sang a duet, and Mrs. Mearl Smith presented a clever play.

Bartlett Pinochle Party.
Madams Frank Sershen and William Bartlett were hostesses Tuesday afternoon in the Bartlett home to sixteen ladies. Pinochle was the diversion offered, and Mrs. Joe Sedlacek won first prize.

Many New Members Join.

The "Keystone State"
On the Fourth of July, 1774, the Continental congress convened in Philadelphia to vote upon adoption of the Declaration of Independence and thus decide whether the thirteen colonies should secede from the British empire. Before the Pennsylvania delegation arrived, notes G. R. Turner in the Kansas City Times, twelve states had voted, with the result that six were in favor of independence and six were opposed to separation from the mother country. When the Pennsylvanians came in, John Morton cast the deciding vote for independence. Thus Pennsylvania, by its vote, decided the great issue and rightly earned the popular name of "the Keystone State."

The wide apprehension over the increased cost of food and the prediction by Secretary Wallace of AAA...

There can be no doubt that the New Deal program for raising prices has had its fullest effect on the food prices and therein lies the basis for the trouble now brewing.

There are two sides of the problem from the political standpoint. One of them relates directly to the plans for providing food and affects directly those persons whose employment has been small and who have only limited amounts of money with which to maintain life.

Connected with the latter phase, and likely to suffer from hard-riding politicians, is the movement within the AAA to broaden its power.

It will be recalled that last year Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell, under-secretary of agriculture and a leading brain trustee, sought to force through congress a series of amendments to the adjustment act which in the view of many observers, would make the regimentation of farmers a compulsory instead of a voluntary proposition as it now is.

While it is yet too early to hazard a guess concerning the results of this battle, attention may be called at this time to some of the potentialities of such a legislative fight.

The danger is to be observed in this direction: Those who criticize the Tugwell amendments, though they do not now bear his name, are not going to confine their verbal fire to those proposals. They will go, as they did last year, considerably beyond the scope of the proposed legislation.

I have heard considerable comment to the effect that if the brain trusters who are now promoting the new or revised AAA amendments would use good political judgment, they would not press for action on their proposals at this time.

It is to be remembered with respect to the legislative situation that there will be opposition, as indeed there already has been opposition developed from among the processors.

Proceedings of the County Board

March 5, 1935, at 10:00 o'clock, A. M. Meeting called to order by Chairman with supervisors Jablonski, Desmul, Ball, Zikmund, Barber, Johnson and Hansen present upon roll call.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved, providing following corrections be made. Moved by Johnson, seconded by Ball, that record of last meeting be changed and corrected to show the Johnson Resolution designating a group of PWA projects to be submitted to the State Planning Board, in matter and form as same was originally adopted, at the same meeting to-wit: "RESOLUTION"

"WHEREAS, the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works is desirous of obtaining from each county or community a list of any or all useful Public Projects which can advantageously be worked out at this time; And whereas no definite plans, specifications or detailed estimates of costs are desired to accompany said lists of projects so submitted it being merely the desire of the Planning Board of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works to get before them as many feasible projects as possible from which to make their final selections of improvements to be undertaken at this time;

"Therefore we, The County Board of Supervisors of the County of Valley, State of Nebraska, expressing, as we believe, the needed projects of this community and County submit the following list of Public Improvements—all of which could properly be undertaken at this time or in the reasonably near future if financing were available.

First: The North Loup Irrigation Project which this community has been trying to get for some time past.

Second: The Middle Loup Irrigation Project which this community has likewise been trying for some time past to obtain.

Third: Construction and Graveling projects as follows: 1st, The Ord-Loup City Road, Road construction and graveling; 2nd, The Ord-Sargent Road, Construction and graveling; 3, The Ord-Comstock Road, Construction and graveling; 4, Road north of Elyria, mostly construction; 5, Road north of Arcadia, construction and graveling;

Fourth: Building and repaving of all County Bridges with special attention given to the old bridge known as "Sumter Bridge" across the North Loup river.

Fifth: Completion of all projects now under construction.

Sixth: Incompleted road from Arcadia East to Davis Creek churches.

"Signed Charles E. Johnson." Motion to correct, duly carried. J. A. Janus appeared before the Board relative to a cattle-pass causeway provided for in original petition establishing the Ord-Sargent road in 1919, and after some discussion of the matter, it was moved by Zikmund and seconded by Ball, that the matter be referred to the Roads & Bridges Committee for investigation and report with recommendation. Motion carried.

Moved by Johnson, seconded by Ball, that County Engineer be instructed to survey the line of the Ord-Loup City County Road as established through the hills south of Ord, with a view of constructing and improving said road as soon as labor is available. Motion carried.

Bank balances as of February 28, 1935, read as follows: First National Bank, Arcadia, $9,654.07; Arcadia State Bank, $16,582.26; First National Bank, Ord, $33,481.48; Nebraska State Bank, Ord, $24,811.36; Elyria State Bank, $2,823.34.

Being 12:00 o'clock Noon meeting recessed until 1:00 P. M., when again called to order by Chairman with all members present.

County Attorney Alvin B. Lee, appeared before Board relative to legal assistance in defending the suit of Klinginsmith, et al vs. County of Valley, after which it was moved that since it appears that Geo. A. Munn, as former County Attorney of Valley County, and Ralph W. Norman, as former Deputy County Attorney, have been associated and acquainted with the case of H. L. Klinginsmith, et al, vs. County of Valley, et al, now pending in District Court of Valley County, Nebraska, that the County Attorney be authorized to employ the law firm of Munn & Norman to assist in the defense of said suit, for defendants County of Valley, Board of County Supervisors and Board of Equalization of Valley County, Nebraska. Motion made by Ball, seconded by Zikmund, and duly carried.

The following official bonds bearing the endorsement of committee on bonds, were formally approved upon motion duly carried.

Find Comfort in Greece The British Wake Up New Civilization? Fremont Older

Arthur Brisbane

Ancient names taking you back to school days are scattered through Greek civil war reports. Venizelos, a true Greek patriot, supporting the revolution, dwells on the little island of Crete, where the Minotaur, half human, half bull, used to live and devour youths and maidens from Athens.

In this world of trouble, something must explode somewhere.

Ramsay MacDonald tells the commons that Germany's military activity compels Britain to extend her boundaries of "imperial air protection" to the banks of the Rhine. Armies of men mean nothing. Floating ships mean little. A while ago Lord Rothermere, warning his country usefully, as his brother, Lord Northcliffe, did in the big war, was telling the British that they must have at least 5,000 fighting planes. His advice, at first ridiculed, is now taken seriously and Britain will have the planes.

Old American methods that have built up this country, such as it is, are called out of date by leading minds in Washington.

Mr. Richberg, supposed to be closest to the President in thought, tells a Miami audience "the World war marked the passing of a civilization." What kind of civilization will take its place?

With all possible respect for professors and reformers, you wonder if they can, offhand, manufacture a better one.

The death at seventy-eight of Fremont Older, for more than fifty years a courageous fighting newspaper man in California, recalls Victor Hugo's words: "The death of the just man is like the end of a beautiful day."

Fremont Older's life, character and work were worthy of his impressive stature and benign expression. It may be said of him, as was said of Gladstone, that "his heart was ever with the weak and miserable poor." Every good cause found a defender in him; the most miserable convict, released from prison, might find a friend in him. There is a heaven, of course, and Fremont Older is there. If there were no heaven, his character and merit would "make it necessary to invent one."

Alabama voted dry, stands with Kansas, one of the two dry states of the Union. Northern racketeers and bootleggers must not hastily conclude that Alabama offers a paradise of profit. First, Alabama knows how to make corn whiskey at a price per gallon that would discourage any bootlegger; second, the men of Alabama are not as long suffering as men of New York. Racketeers would find Alabama is bad climate for their health.

Paris and American dressmakers tell woman that she must now dress in a fashion "revealing the outlines and curves of the human form." To know exactly what the outlines of the human form are, take a walk through the streets of Miami near public or private bathing beaches. You will see strolling to their homes, as free from care or self-consciousness as little birds, hundreds of ladies, some tall and thin, a majority short and fat, with literally nothing on from the waist up that could not be replaced by two half coconut shells fastened to the chest with a string around the back of the neck, and below the waist a wisp of material that would make Eve's skirt of leaves look like a ball dress.

Such costumes are unwise "salesmanship." The old-fashioned muslin dress down to the ankle, up to the neck, aroused romantic interest and uncertainty.

On an island in the Pearl river, inhabitants of a Chinese fishing village dreaded and disliked a small settlement where 24 lepers lived nearby. A dispatch from Hongkong says the villagers have solved their problem by a massacre of the 24 lepers, followed by the destruction and burning of their settlement.

That shocks us now, but such barbarity was once the rule. The old were killed and sometimes eaten in primitive days.

Chanticleers Lose Class A Tourney To Kearney Saturday by 26-22 Count

Ord Team Wins Right to Play In Finals by Beating Overton, Elm Creek, North Platte.

The Ord High Chanticleers after chalking up lopsided wins over Elm Creek and Overton, then pushing the Southwest Conference Champion—North Platte out of the running, lost their final game to Kearney High, 22-26.

Ord went through the first round with a 49-18 win over the Overton quint. The entire team scored in the game, Greathouse being high with 12 points. The second round was an easy affair for the Chanticleers whitewashing the Elm Creek Squad 57-21.

North Platte, heavily favored to get into the finals, was the next victim for the red and white team, the Chanticleers pasing a 29-24 defeat on the Platters. Each member of the squad got a hand into the bumping off of the Southwest champs, Greathouse coming through for ten points and Blessing nine.

The finals, Ord versus Kearney, was a battle from start to finish, with not a moment's slack in pace. Michels opened up the scoring for the Ordites, scoring three points in the first thirty seconds of play. Greathouse soon got under way and the half ended 15-14 with Ord trailing by the one-point margin. Immediately after the half Ord hopped into a short lived 17-18 lead. The breath taking pace of the game began to tell on the Chanticleers and the Kearney men flashed into a lead, which Ord was unable to overcome in the few remaining moments of the game. "Westy" Wolcott of the Kearney quint took game honors with a total of thirteen points. Greathouse pressed close behind with ten counts.

The hard game with North Platte in the afternoon was undoubtedly a large factor in the "running down" of the team. Kearney on the same afternoon coasted along to take a 35-20 decision from Broken Bow. A runner-up trophy was presented to Coach Brockman and the team after the final game.

The largest amount of interest ever put into a basketball team was centered around the Chanticleer squad during this tournament. At the Gothenburg finals, over one hundred fifty miles distant, at least thirty cars jammed to the brim with loyal fans were present. The team this year has made one of the finest records in this section of the country playing nineteen games, winning sixteen and losing three of the contests. A total of 830 points were chalked up on the Ord side giving the opponents 355. This makes Ord an average of over 43 points per game.

From the Sidelines

If you don't think that Gothenburg was tough listen to this article taken from the Omaha World Herald: "The Gothenburg tournament is one of the most evenly matched in the state. The field includes, North Platte, Southwest conference champion, Ord, king of the Loup Valley; Kearney, a leading team in the Mid-State loop, and Broken Bow, Custer county champion.

Well, we sure took the Southwest conference champions for a ride, anyway! St. Paul dropped all chances of getting basketball recognition this year by losing to Blue Hill 38-10 in the first round of the Hastings' class A tournament.

That color league game the other night to decide the championship was a rough 'em up, knock 'em down, and drag 'em out affair, and how!

Everyone's wondering whether our wrestling team goes to the state tournament this year. They certainly deserve it and with some of the best wrestlers in the Valley right on hand—say, we ought to take quite a few titles in the state meet.

The Lincoln papers report Kenneth McGinnis is showing up well at guard on the first Husker spring football practice. Go to it, Kate!

Note of Thanks

We wish to thank both the student body and the city fans for their telegrams and loyal support not only during the tournament but throughout the entire playing season.

Coach Brockman and the Basketball Squad.

Glee Club, Orchestra Present Convocation

At the convocation which was presented last week, the glee clubs sang two selections which were selected as the contest numbers for class B schools at the music festival. The first was "In a Boat", and the second number was "Recessional."

The orchestra played three selections. The first was "Sunrise at Sea" by Demarest, the second was "Poem" by Febich, and the last was "Sleeping Beauty" by Tschalkowski.

The music department will also present one or two convocations this week.

Gold Team Winner Color League Title

The color league round robin tournament was brought to a close last Thursday evening, the Golds running over the Blacks by a decisive 13-7 score. The game was a rough affair with three men being retired to the sidelines on personal. The score was a 6-6 draw at the opening of the final quarter, when the Blacks were weakened by the removal of two regulars on fouls. The Golds immediately opened up and ran up the winning 13-6 score.

Office News

The trophies have arrived for the sub-district declamatory contest which will be held at Ord, April 26.

Sweepstakes and one-act play medals will be the same as last, first prize is a gold medal, second a bronze medal, and third will be honorable mention.

The annual superintendents' and principals' meeting is March 29 and 30 at Lincoln. A plan for an activity association containing all inter-school activities will be voted upon.

The state university is sponsoring a special coach clinic with D. X. Bible giving one day to football, Coach Harold Browne, one day to basketball, and Coach Henry F. Schulte giving one day to track. This is free to all coaches of the state including lectures; actual demonstrations, and answers to any questions. This is the second year for a short course and is very popular. The university expects at least a 90 per cent attendance of high school coaches.

Professor Kelm speaks. Dr. F. D. Kelm, head of the Crops Department of the University of Nebraska, spoke to the F. F. A. students, part-time pupils, and a few farmers at the high school auditorium Thursday afternoon of last week. The subject upon which Dr. Kelm spoke was, "Pasture Crops." Forty young men attended the meeting.

EDITORIALS

There is no doubt but that the students are sorry to see the basketball season draw to a close. Of course, all the students regret exceedingly that the team was not quite able to defeat the strong fighting Kearney quint, but I am sure that they are well satisfied with the winnings of the team throughout the season. Only by teams which in previous years have been far superior to valley teams were they defeated and then only by a narrow margin.

The next issue of the Oracle will be dedicated to the basketball squad and will contain their picture along with an individual writeup of each member. Following that edition will be a freshman issue and the other organizations will be allowed to sponsor their edition shortly after.

There is small doubt in the minds of the staff as to what section of the paper is most widely read. All that was necessary to make this known to us, was to omit the Penny for Your Thoughts in one edition. About fifty students swarmed around with the question, "Why wasn't there any Penny For Your Thoughts" in last week's paper?

The Oracle staff receives a large number of exchanges from other schools and we should like to invite anyone who is interested in other schools and their activities to read them. For the convenience of students who would be interested in their contents, the exchanges will be placed in the library next week.

A PENNY FOR YOUR THOUGHTS—

The question asked this week was "What trait do you think most desirable in a girl or boy friend? Why?" Honesty—because I hate two-faced people.—Joy Auble. Sincerity—you can confide in them and know that they will be true to their word.—Dorothy Allen. To be fun-loving and respect the rights of others.—Norma Mae Snell. Truthfulness—because you hardly ever find one that is true.—Paul Carlson. Loyalty—because you can always use it.—Louise Petska. Truthfulness—what's the use of making a fool of one another?—Lydia Dana. Loyalty—why? Because the school needs those kind for a good basketball team.—Dorothy Ann Zikmund. Companionship—so you can have a good time together.—Alma Jorgensen. Sense of humor and a good nature.—Lorraine Kusek.

DO YOU KNOW?

The normal trainers have completed a very interesting poster showing the ideal rural school. The Freshman home economics class have started their supper unit. The Sophomore sewing class has begun work on their spring dress unit. The seventh grade art class have been making original Indian designs. There is a group on exhibit in Miss Slose's room. Last week the Freshman English class studied the correct use of the library. To complete this project they visited the library and learned all about the various uses of the card index and other conveniences. The home management class is starting on a unit entitled, "The Furnishment of the Home." The junior high home room 5, sponsored by Miss Lukes, presented a convocation to the other home rooms of the junior high last week. The junior high Math III class is working on income tax. The hygiene classes of the junior high are taking up the study of clothing. Two new students have entered the junior high in the past week. They are Fernie Miller, from district 13 and Harold Barnes from Sherman county. During the preceding week, Billy and Mildred Bouda of district 30 entered the Ord junior high. The public speaking classes are studying correct pronunciation and proper diction. Members of the Hi-Y and Girl Reserve clubs are having a joint party Friday night. The Hi-Y club enjoyed a theatre party last Monday night. They saw "The White Parade." The next G. R. meeting will be in charge of Alma Jorgensen. The topic for the evening's discussion will be "Ideals." Lives of some folks do remind us. We can strive to do our best, and departing leave behind us. Notebooks that will help the rest.

The Oracle is made possible by this group of loyal Ord business and professional men and women: Dr. F. L. Blessing, Orville H. Sowl, Ed. F. Beranek, J. C. Penney Co., John P. Misko, L & L Tire and Battery Station, Auble Motors, Dr. C. W. Weekes, Chase's Toggery, Dr. Glen D. Auble, Nebraska State Bank, A. J. Auble, Stolts Variety Store, Harlan T. Frazier, Gould B. Flagg, First National Bank, Protective Savings & Loan Ass'n, Ord Co-operative Creamery Co., Noll Seed Co., Sack Lumber & Coal Co., Davis & Vogelstans, McLain-Sorensen Drug Co., Brown-Ekberg Co., Dr. George A. Parkins.

District 4's Fifth Annual Music Festival To Be in Ord March 21

Scholarship Unused. For the second consecutive year, nobody in the Vocational Agriculture department wanted the $100 scholarship offered annually by the U. P. railroad, so it went "begging."

Next year the Ord Home Economics girls and the North Loup Future Farmers will also be eligible to receive this scholarship. It is hoped that someone can take advantage of this offer of $100 cash toward any of the expenses in connection with an Agricultural College or Home Economics course. Free transportation to college is also provided by the Union Pacific railway in all counties through which it runs.

Commercial Contest At Kearney March 29

The district four commercial contest will be held in Kearney at the Junior High School building, beginning at one o'clock Friday afternoon, March 29. The entries in the contest are limited to six individuals and two teams in each subject or division of the contest.

The afternoons contest will be run off as follows: Spelling, 1:00-1:30; Novice Typewriting, 1:45-2:10; Champion Typewriting, 2:10-2:40; Bookkeeping, 2:40-3:20; Shorthand Dictation, 3:20-4:00; Shorthand Transcription, 4:00-4:30.

Although it has not been definitely decided as to whether or not Ord Commercial students will participate in the district contest, a number of commercial students are being considered for entry. From the following group under consideration, two teams of three people will be selected for each subject: Typewriting II; Kenneth Michels, Paul Blessing, Darrell Noll, Virginia DeHart, Maxine Jones, Harold Stone, Elizabeth Smith, Joy Auble, Kenneth Egglehoff, Ruth Koupal, Evelyn Loft, Alma Masin, Dale Mella, Eva Umstead, Marie Viner, and Dorothy Ann Zikmund. Typewriting IV: Darlene Anderson, Lydia Dana, Dorothy Fish, Louise Gross, Maxine Haskell, DeEtta Brickner, Eleanor Keep, Joe Krickle, Byrnee Leach, Darlene Mason, and Mildred Smith. Shorthand II: Joy Auble, Adam Dubas, Kenneth Egglehoff, Louise Gross, Maxine Haskell, Maxine Jones, Eva Umstead, and Dorothy Ann Zikmund. Shorthand IV: Darlene Anderson, Mildred Smith, Dorothy Fish, Byrnee Leach, Joe Krickle, DeEtta Brickner, Lydia Dana, Eleanor Keep, and Faye Rashaw. Bookkeeping: John Burrows, Lydia Dana, Kenneth Egglehoff, Dorothy Fish, Laverne Nelson, Eleanor Keep, Lillian Kovarik, Dale Mella, Agnes Moudry, Oleta Rose, Richard Severson and Marie Timmerman.

The spelling contestants will be selected from those who make teams in one or more of the other subjects as required by the rules. The group of prospective entrants is unusually large this year and Ord would again have an excellent chance of winning a number of the divisions of the district contest. It has been decided that there will be no local academic and commercial contests such as were held last year.

Eleven Towns Will Participate In Meet; A Capella Choir On Evening Program.

At a meeting of the music committee in Ord on February 23, it was decided that the Loup Valley High School music festival would be held in Ord on Thursday, March 21. Since the festival is in its fifth year, and so well established, few changes were deemed necessary.

One new event of this festival will be a massed chorus, composed of all the vocal groups of the Valley. Two songs, "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "America the Beautiful" were selected for the group singing. The critic for the day will be guest director for this group.

As in previous years each school will be allotted forty minutes to present any groups and any musical selections they so desire. Professor Albert Sievers, Dean of the Fine Arts College of Wesleyan University will act as critic for the day.

Eleven valley schools will participate in the order following: North Loup, 9:00-9:40; Scotia, 9:40-10:20; Comstock, 10:20-11:00; Taylor, 11:00-11:40; Sargent, 1:00-1:40; Dannebrog, 1:40-2:20; Loup City, 2:20-3:00; Burwell, 3:00-3:40; St. Paul, 3:40-4:20; Arcadia, 4:20-5:00; and Ord, 5:00-5:40.

The evening program begins at 7:30. The first event of the evening will be two numbers by the massed chorus. Following this a few of the outstanding numbers of the day's program will be repeated. At 8:15, the Nebraska Wesleyan University's Acapella Male Chorus will present a number of selections. The committee in charge of the festival arrangements included Winifred Pettit of North Loup, Thomas E. Cain of Burwell, and Dean S. Duncan of Ord, who acted as chairman.

The Ord schools will furnish music stands, tympani, bass viol and other equipment to any one who wishes to use it. Local arrangements will be in charge of the Ord high school student council with Wilbur D. Cass acting as advisor.

The general admission will be twenty-five and fifteen cents to each session. There will be a special all day ticket at fifty and thirty cents. This ticket will enable the holder to see the artists' program in the evening as well as all the daytime sessions. All students participating in the festival will receive passes good for the entire day.

Kiddies' Column

Janice Blessing from Fairmont is a new pupil in the nursery school. The nursery school has a new sand table and they have painted some of their chairs and tables red. A new-comer this week in the kindergarten is Jimmie Blessing. Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Williams, and Mrs. Gnaster visited Miss Hailen's room; last week. The first graders have been studying Holland and have been making windmills and kites. Ernest Christofferson is a new pupil in the first grade. The name of the new first grade reader is, "The Fun Book." Darlene Puncochar, Norma Dean Holt, Phillis Anderson, and Patty Achen in the second grade have perfect attendance records for this year. Seven pupils in the third grade had perfect attendance records this six weeks. They are Jean Covert, George Fryzek, Floyd Hiner, Gertrude McAllister, Max McLain, Milo Rose, and Eddie Tunncliff. Wayne Newton, Marilyn Long, and Hilda Lola have had perfect attendance since school started. The fourth graders have finished a very interesting project on Holland. Their sand table is most attractive. The sixth graders were sorry to lose one of their pupils, Ernest Ulrich, who moved to the country. In the fifth English class health rhymes are being made and used on posters. The fifth grade Arithmetic classes are going to study division of fractions. Harold Christensen, Lilly Christofferson, and Maxine Miller are new pupils in the sixth grade. All have formerly attended rural schools in the county. Mrs. Watkins has been substituting for Miss Finley, who has been sick with flu. The sixth grade organized a syllable club last Friday morning. Only those who are interested in music and who can sing and read syllables are eligible for membership. They have thirteen "charter" members. Helen Katherine Work was elected president and Harry James McBeth is secretary. Joy Auble (gazing at a set of false teeth in a dentist's showcase): "Those are the kind of teeth I'm going to get when I get big." Mother: "Joy how many times have I told you not to pick your teeth in public!"

The attempt of Rep. Cone (D), Valley, to outline the procedure under which the unicameral legislature should operate was voted down by the House, when HR 410 the unicameral committee's bill revising the statutes to conform with the Norris amendment was advanced to third reading.

Cone's proposal was to allow the unicameral legislature meeting two years hence to reconvene under its own power thirty days after adjournment and consider bills vetoed by the governor after the lawmakers go home.

Rep. Cushing, (R), Ord, advanced the suggestion that the legislature hereafter recess five days, instead of adjourning sine die and be ready to act on any bills vetoed in the constitutional period given the governor for consideration of legislative acts. No action was taken on the proposal.

Another move to tell future legislators what they can or cannot do was lost when the House defeated an amendment by Rep. Martin-Schroeder, Bloomfield, a minister, prohibiting the unicameral house from engaging a chaplain. There was no support to the idea, several members contending that the chaplain is one of the most important officials of the legislature.

Finance committee of the House intently to plan for industrial establishments at the state penitentiary outlined by members of the board of control.

Recommendations of the board include a cotton mill, weaving, spinning and tailoring plants to make garments for prisoners and inmates of sixteen other state institutions. An equipment fund of $260,000 and a revolving fund of $25,000 is sought for this purpose.

No recommendation about prison industries was made by Governor Cochran in his budget message, but he has commended the idea to the legislature for its consideration.

Favor of the plan was expressed by some committee members, while others dissented. Rep. Diers of Gresham warned that mill equipment becomes obsolete in a few years and the program might be costly to maintain. He suggested an alternative that a packing plant to supply meat for all the state institutions might be installed at the penitentiary.

Rep. Baily of Carleton advised committee members to go slow in setting up new industries in the penitentiary and urged a thorough investigation of the matter from a strictly business standpoint before taking action.

While the liquor committees have worked long and hard, and have something to offer members of both branches, some members predict that in the final analysis, a liquor bill along the line of the old Slocumb law, but perhaps a shade more liberal, will prevail. They contend it will be a battle between the conservatives and liberals in both branches, and that each group will have to yield something here and there along the line if the bill ever is to receive the two-thirds vote to sustain the emergency clause. Local option and county option features are considered treacherous toward tranquil enactment.

In session during the Spring vacation, members of the House finance committee report considerable progress in their work of digesting the requests of various money-spending agencies for the coming two years.

At one hearing appeared Dr. Spencer of the Union Stock Yards at Omaha, R. H. Smith, formerly of the university, now representing the Chicago stock yards, and Dr. A. H. Francis, now doing emergency tuberculosis eradication work in Nebraska for the federal government, and Dr. Anderson, state veterinarian.

Smith explained to the committee how the cattle tuberculosis eradication program was being carried out, with no cost to cattle owners or to the counties, the state paying no cost except to furnish some veterinarians and in paying some indemnity not exceeding $10 a head.

Explaining that the state had only $14,718 left out of its $55,000 eradication fund, he said it would be necessary to have appropriated $30,000 as emergency money for use to July 1 to cooperate in this work and that it will need $150,000 for the work during the next two years.

When legislators returned to their tasks after a week's Spring vacation that for most of them brought a billiard of major proportions and a majority an earthquake of mild intensity, the following record was behind them:

The Senate: Days in session, 38; bills passed, 68; The House: Days in session, 42; bills passed, 79; Number of laws enacted up to the time of vacation adjournment numbered 19.

It is just another bill, this HR 410, but it is a lengthy mass of detail over which the House, in committee of the whole has spent much time, and will spend much more before it is passed on to the Senate. HR 410 is a unicameral bill amending numerous sections of the statutes to pave the way two years hence for the one-house legislature.

Both House and Senate liquor control committees showed aside the lure of vacation and worked through the week's adjournment on the all important liquor control legislative measure.

As a result of House committee efforts, when the session reconvened, there was on general file a measure out of which that branch hopes to set up the machinery for control of liquor in Nebraska as made mandatory upon this legislature by the vote of the people last November, when repeal carried by some 110,000 votes.

The bill, while following closely the program embodied in the liquor bill written by Attorney General Wright, and known as the "administration measure" takes, in small part at least, something from practically all of the seven major bills introduced on the subject early in the session.

It was indicated that the House Committee of the whole would open up on the measure sometime during the week of March 11.

The bill came after two public committee hearings and scores of private sessions where opinions, more or less private, were aired. The bill finally settled on by the House Committee is called HR 128, borrowed from Steele's state distillery bill. The state is given the monopoly on the wholesaling of liquor and herein is presented the chief variation from the attorney general's administration bill.

Wright's bill called for local option at the end of two years, but the amended committee bill shortens it to one year, there being no option for 12 months.

A commission of five, one from each congressional district, at a salary of $4,000 a year is to administer the act, under terms of the bill reported out. Other minor changes over the Wright measure are for the sake of conformity.

It was understood that the committee tossed in the sponge after reaching a point bordering on hostilities among its members, and with things pretty well split up, it was decided to toss the measure onto the floor for action by the members of committee of the whole. It was indicated that the surprise might be anticipated if some of the liquor committee members who tossed out the "model" bill do not openly oppose sections of it when it is debated.

While the bill as amended, provides that liquor licenses shall be issued by the state commission, applicants from the several communities must have local approval though revocation will be a right retained by the commission.

Drug stores can handle liquor only on prescription basis, which probably is satisfactory in view of action taken by the state association. Hotels must, if licensed, serve in separate rooms or guest rooms and not in dining rooms.

Liquor and beer licenses may be combined or separate under terms of the amended bill. The intent of the committee is to permit one licensee holder to have on-sale and off-sale both for beer and liquor if he so desires. Separate permits may be granted for beer. It is also the proposal of the committee to permit the state to distill and blend liquor as well as wholesale it if this be the desire, distilling and blending being optional features.

Shades of the old Slocumb law crept into the picture when the committee amended the Wright bill by providing that in rooms where hard liquor is disposed there shall be no booths, tables or chairs. The committee also made it specific and definite that no hard liquor shall be sold on Sunday. Wright's bill provided that no premises for the sale at retail of intoxicating liquor shall be open for such sale after 2 a. m. or on any Sunday. The committee shoved the time up to mid-night.

One of the sections stricken from the Wright measure was one which provided that malt beverages containing one-half of one percent alcohol, known as near beer, shall not be sold by any persons other than those licensed and permitted under the act and that all such beverages shall be subjected to the same tax as other malt beverages.

An almost friendless potato inspection bill was put to death in House committee of the whole.

Rep. Cramer, one of the introducers forsook the child, dumping it directly into the lap of Rep. Steele, the other introducer. Cramer explained that after he had signed the bill as co-introducer, he learned from potato growers they are not ready for the legislation. Steele contended it will mean a better market and better prices to the grower.

The bill required compulsory federal and state inspection on carlots and quantities of more than 1,000 pounds, not preventing, however, growers from transporting potatoes of their own production to markets within a radius of fifty miles.

The primary law bogey is to be attacked by political foes, working on common ground.

Recommendations of primary law revisions will be outlined to legislators by members of both democratic and republican state central committees. According to tentative plans, republicans and democrats will work out revision recommendations separately, then confer together, and finally discuss any proposals for change with state lawmakers.

One branch of Nebraska's legislature—the Senate—is faced with another unusual if not unprecedented situation that will require attention.

Possible suspension of Senator Joseph F. Kaspar of Prague, against whom criminal charges have been filed is to be considered at a caucus of Democratic senators shortly after the session reconvened after Spring vacation. It was during the vacation period that Senator Kaspar was arrested and released on bond after his plea of not guilty to charges of having received stolen property.

Kaspar has declared he will not resign as a member of the Senate. Charges were filed against him after officers said he was implicated in the crimes of alleged confessions of Roy James Smith. Smith is charged with first degree murder as the result of the death of R. E. Wolfe, policeman, in a running gun battle in Omaha. Smith's partner, Roland Welch was killed.

Kaspar is a prominent Prague physician and surgeon. He has his name on six bills in the lawmaking diet, one of which has already passed the Senate and the others are pending there in different stages.

With five other senators, Kaspar is joint introducer of SF 127, a bill backed by the state nurses' association to transfer the licensing and examining of registered nurses to the joint control of the state superintendent and governor, leaving the general administration in the hands of the state nurse board. This measure was passed by the Senate February 1, and now is in the hands of the medical committee of the House.

One bill, SF 110, to repeal the 1933 act which took the party circle off the election ballot, is Kaspar's own personal bill. It was once killed by the Senate on third reading, but he succeeded in having new life infused, and getting it back on the upper branch's general file.

Kaspar's SF 189, to make primary and general election days legal holidays in Nebraska also is on Senate's general file, while three of his proposals still are in committees of the Senate. They are: SF 188, to make compensation laws cover employees going to work from their home and returning thereto; SF 282, requiring district and county judges to be regularly admitted members of the bar and SF 309, which was introduced jointly with seven other senators, permitting organization and operation of community finance concerns under licenses by the county board and subject to its supervision.

It was indicated that some members of the Senate prefer to continue calling Kaspar absent, but this plan would involve complications in event it were necessary to make a call of the Senate, at which time it would be necessary for the sergeant-at-arms to get Kaspar to respond.

Friends indicated he could have taken advantage of the law which provides immunity from arrest except on certain charges including murder and high treason, but not including the crime for which Kaspar is charged for fifteen days prior to, during the fifteen days following legislative adjournment. Kaspar is at liberty under bond.

Old world tradition and custom is drawn upon by Rep. Cone in preparation of a liquor control plan he declares will be introduced in the House as HR 653, a skeleton control bill introduced by him the last day for filing bills. The ideas incorporated in the measure are reported to be those which fell on deaf ears when Cone appeared before liquor committees of both the House and Senate. His plan will be offered as a substitute to the bill offered by the House committee, he said.

Highlights of the bill include a proposal to license the premises where liquor is sold rather than the individual, at a nominal fee of $1, setting up a five-man commission with dictatorial powers to promulgate whatever regulations it deems fit to control the traffic, grant licenses and revoke them and with absolute authority to say when and where liquor may be sold. The only regulatory provision in the measure is a provision limiting the number of retail stores to not more than 1 to each 3,000 population. State would have a monopoly on wholesaling, the commission having authority to acquire or build and operate distilleries as a club to keep liquor manufacturers in line.

Licensing the premises instead of the individual is an European measure which has worked successfully for centuries, Cone said. Padlocking of the premises would immediately follow violation of the commission's regulations. Cone would clothe the commission with absolute power to say where and how liquor is sold as a substitute for local option.

To raise revenue to replace property taxation, Cone's bill would place a tax on liquor of 30 per cent of the wholesale price, the revenue going to the general fund. The state would sell to retailers on a collect on delivery basis only, orders for liquor being accompanied by check. To insure against low quality and short measure, Cone's bill would require a commission's certificate on each container setting forth the quantity and quality of the contents. All liquor would be tested at a state laboratory.

HR 315, the Dugan-Owens measure, authorizing counties to levy a one-half mill tax for minimum $30 monthly pensions for indigent blind, has been sent to the Senate through House passage. The measure also provides that the counties may spend up to $100 where surgery could restore sight and take the pensioner off the rolls.

North Loup News

Friends were grieved when the report came Saturday of the changed condition of Mrs. Rhoda Manchester. Hopes for her complete recovery had been held since she had steadily improved following a paralytic stroke suffered Sunday evening, Febr. 24. At this writing Mrs. Manchester is very low, doctors holding no hope for her recovery. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Manchester arrived from Aurora, Ill., Monday in answer to a message by telegraph.

Kent arrived early Tuesday morning from Montrose, Colo., where he has been employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Manchester are expected to come and perhaps Robert from California. Word was received from Reeve in Idaho that he would be unable to come at this time. Mr. Jesse Thorpe was a visitor in Waco, last week end. Supt. W. D. Bailey accompanied him, going on to Lincoln to visit his father, who is receiving medical aid at Bryan Memorial hospital. Mr. Thorpe's brother-in-law, Rex Carter, returned with them.

A delegation of business men from Scotia and Ericson with Geo. Hutchins of North Loup drove to Lincoln Monday to interview Horace Davy concerning a proposed park which would include the property of Mrs. Mary Davis located southeast of town. Mr. Davis being out of town, the party listened in on a legislative session at the capitol and on their return met Mr. Davis in Grand Island. The latter is executor of his mother's estate. Nothing definite however, as to the decided establishment of a park has been made.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Noyes are the parents of a 6 1/2 pound daughter born Sunday, Mar. 3, at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Rasmus Peterson in Barker district.

Mrs. Flynn of Ord, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Knapp, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Knapp and baby and Ed Knapp were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Merwin Scott at Fish Creek, Sunday. Mrs. Scott's mother, Mrs. Lizzie Knapp has been at her daughter's home during the latter's convalescence.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest and children with Mrs. Amy Taylor were visitors at Archer, Sunday. The Lees being guests at the Chas. Glouise home while Mrs. Taylor visited former North Loup folks, the Grays, at the home of Rev. Brink. Mr. Gray is especially in very poor health.

Mrs. Josephine Hutchins is the newly elected president who will serve the Fortnightly club when its fall sessions open. Mrs. Neva Fisher was elected vice-president, Mrs. Zola Schudel secretary and Mrs. Leta Gillespie, treasurer. The business session held Wednesday afternoon, Mar. 6, preceded three minute talks on famous people and places or events by each member of the club, proving most interesting. The program committee for the new year, namely Neva Fisher, Merle Zangger, and Merle Sayre presented a portion of next year's work. Mrs. Hutchins was hostess and served a delicious luncheon. Mr. and Mrs. J. Hoopner entertained at bridge Monday evening. Lunch and decorations were in keeping with St. Patrick's day.

Founders Day of the Womens Foreign Missionary society was observed Thursday afternoon at the M. E. parsonage, Mrs. Stephens being hostess to seventeen members and visitors. The lesson in charge of Mrs. Winnie Bartz consisted of tributes to Japanese women leaders in public and home service. Adding to the reality of a Japanese setting, Misses Hazel Holman and Bernice King posed as visitors from Japan, a demonstration featuring "The Friend," the society's magazine was given by Madams Millie Thomas and Pearl Bartz. Roll call was responded to by stating facts concerning Founders Day. Mrs. May Shattuck, a visitor, told of having visited the church on Fremont street in Boston where the W. F. M. S., the largest women's organization in the world was founded on Mar. 23, 1869, when eight women assembled in a rain storm to start a great movement. Mrs. Stephens broke the rules of the society in serving lunch.

The Loup Valley ministerial association convened at the Baptist church Monday.

International Prayer Day was observed with a union service at the Baptist church Friday evening. A goodly number were present. The meeting was led by Mrs. Rolla Babcock with a united choir offering special music.

Madams Leta Gillespie and Ruth Hudson were hostesses at the ladies aid quilting in the M. E. church parlours Wednesday.

Church Loyalty Day is being observed Sunday at the M. E. church. All members and friends are urged to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Collins, Dean and Russell moved to the Lee Mulligan farm in Barker district Tuesday which will be their home for this year.

The George Eberhart family have established their home in the residence south of Roy Hudson's.

Mrs. Lewis Stillman and daughter, Lucille, were guests last week of Mrs. Stillman's mother, Mrs. Louise Eberhart. The Stillmans who have been Grand Island residents for several years are locating at San Diego, Calif. Mrs. Stillman, Paul and Lucille are leaving for their new home Saturday. Lewis and Ralph will go a few weeks later.

Latest word to her mother, Mrs. Eberhart, Miss Bessie writes from Blair of her reelection to the Blair schools, for the ensuing year. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Post entertained at their home Tuesday at a 'cousins' party, the occasion being the wedding anniversary of this bride and groom of thirty-five years. Present among those present. The ladies quilled while they conversed over the joys and sorrows of the past years and of course the men did their share of visiting minus the quilting.

Mr. and Mrs. Erlow Babcock and two children left Monday morning for Scottsbluff where Mr. Babcock has employment. Friends regret to see this good family leave but are pleased for them in having secured work.

Miss Lucille Paddock returned Tuesday morning to her work in Omaha.

The Otis White family drove over from Loup City, Sunday and spent the day with their sisters and brother. Mrs. Fannie Cox, Miss Nora White and Owen.

The Otto Bartz family with Mrs. May Shattuck and Mrs. Hazel Houtby, were dinner guests Sunday afternoon the party drove to Burwell calling at the Ed Helbig home where Mrs. Shattuck remained for a few days visit.

P. T. A. will be observed at the high school auditorium Tugday, Mar. 19, with a special program, being a demonstration of school work enacted by the children of all the grades and those of the high school also. All parents should be present.

Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kriewald and family were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Placke, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Stude and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Miller. Mrs. Kriewald reports they are enjoying their new home in Riverdale and are grateful to be nearer school. Earl, who was seriously ill and bedfast for months, is now able to walk without the aid of crutches. This is good news to friends of the family.

Donald Baker drove to Scotia after his sister, Miss Irene Saturday and together they autoed to Grand Island, spending the evening and until Sunday morning with Miss Ruth Baker, returning in time for Irene to teach her Sunday school class at the Scotia M. E. church.

Since many Wheeler county folks are Quiz readers, the following item would be of special interest:

Word came to me yesterday thru a letter from my people at Ericson, of the serious illness of Mrs. Ed Wyman, wife of the late Mr. Wyman, County Treasurer of Wheeler county, whose wife was elected to fill his place following her husband's death. Left with eight children, the youngest, about 8 months old, died Saturday, Mar. 2, of pneumonia.

Davis & Vogeltanz, Attorneys. NOTICE OF AMENDMENT OF ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION

Notice is hereby given that the Articles of Incorporation of Koupal & Barstow Lumber Company were duly amended on March 12, 1935, at a special meeting of the stockholders of said corporation, so that Article 4 of said Articles of Incorporation was amended to read as follows: "4. The existence of said corporation shall commence on the date of the signing of these Articles, and shall continue until April 5, 1935, unless otherwise terminated according to the laws of the State of Nebraska." Dated at Ord, Nebraska, March 12th, 1935.

W. T. Barstow, President. (CORPORATE SEAL) Frank Koupal, Secretary. March 14-4t

Beri M. Hardenbrook, Attorney. Order and Notice for Appointment Administrator. In the County Court of Valley County, Nebraska (STATE OF NEBRASKA.) ss.

Valley County. Whereas, Anna Klanecky of said county, has filed in my office a petition praying that letters of administration upon the estate of Joseph F. Smolik, deceased, late

Davis & Vogeltanz, Attorneys. NOTICE OF SHERIFF'S SALE.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an Order of Sale issued by the Clerk of the District Court of Valley County, Nebraska, and to me directed, upon a decree rendered therein on May 28, 1934, in an action pending in said court wherein The Lincoln Joint Stock Land Bank of Lincoln, Nebraska, is plaintiff, and Charles E. Goodhand and wife, Laura Goodhand, Pete Welniak and Mary Welniak, his wife, are defendants, wherein the said plaintiff recovered a decree of foreclosure in the sum of $5,508.00, with interest thereon at the rate of 5 1/2% per annum from May 28, 1934, which was decreed to be a first lien upon The East half of Section fourteen (14), Township twenty (20), North of Range fourteen (14), West of the sixth Principal Meridian, in Valley County, Nebraska, and where-in I was directed to advertise and sell said real estate for the payment of said decree, with interest and costs, now, notice is hereby given that I will, on Monday, April 15, 1935, at two o'clock P. M. at the West front door of the Court House in Ord, Valley County, Nebraska, sell the said real estate at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash, to satisfy the amount due on said decree, costs and accruing costs. Dated this 11th day of March, 1935.

GEORGE S. ROUND, Sheriff of Valley County, Nebraska. March 14-5t

NOLL Seed Co. Ord

Official weight for Blue Grass is 14 lbs. per bu. and we handle the very best grade and it weighs 24 lbs. per bushel. It pays to buy the best lawn seed. Many times you hear of blue grass seed being sold at 10c and 15c lower than the ordinary prices. Whenever you see seed priced unreasonably low you can rest assured that it is of inferior quality and probably of low germination. We have in stock pure Blue Grass, White Clover and a mixture of quick growing grasses to use when you are anxious to get a lawn in a hurry. For the use of our customers we have a lawn seeder that is very convenient to use. We recommend Vigoro and Sheepo for fertilizer. BULK GARDEN SEED We have in our new stock of fresh garden seeds. We always buy new crop seed although it is a little higher in price than seed one year old or older. In looking over some of the catalogs of mail order seed houses we find our prices to be lower on many of the articles. Make out your garden seed list and let us figure on it. This is a good time to reseed old lawns and make new ones. Many of the lawns were badly damaged last year and will require both seed and fertilizer.

P. E. O. MEMBERS ENTERTAIN TWO STATE OFFICERS

Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Mead Here This Week Help Ord Chapter Plan Convention.

Ord members of P. E. O., chapter BB, were very busy Monday and Tuesday entertaining Mrs. Ruth Kennedy, of Brownsville, and Mrs. Ada Mead, of Omaha. Mrs. Kennedy is state president and Mrs. Mead is organizer. Each P. E. O. chapter is inspected every two years, Ord last being inspected two years ago by Mrs. Anna Loutzenheiser of Gothenburg, who is now vice president of the state board. Mrs. A. S. Koupal, president, presided at the regular business session held Monday evening at 7:45 o'clock for the benefit of the state organizer. Following the business session Mrs. Kennedy talked, her subject being the coming state P. E. O. convention to be held in Ord.

Following Mrs. Kennedy's remarks, Mrs. Mead offered constructive criticism on the work of the local chapter, commending the officers for their work and expressing her surprise that so small a chapter would attempt to entertain a state convention. After this she gave a brief inspirational talk upon the meaning of P. E. O.

Ord will be the last small city in the state to entertain the convention as after this year chapters will be grouped and the convention will be held in larger cities of the state. Nebraska has 127 P. E. O. chapters, each of which sends two delegates, which with the state and national officers and guests brings the convention attendance to 300 or 400 ladies, it is conservatively estimated.

Mrs. Kennedy met Tuesday with the special committees who have been appointed for the convention, and Tuesday evening a general meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Joseph P. Barta.

Mrs. C. J. Miller was hostess to P. E. O. members and the honor guests at a six o'clock dinner Monday evening, preceding the usual chapter meeting, also held at her home. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. L. D. Milliken and Miss Daisy Hallen, with all but one member present.

Thompson Quitting Weekes To Manage Omaha Cold Plant

After serving 8 1-2 years as office manager of the Weekes Seed Co., Arlos Thompson resigned last week to become manager of a new Omaha Cold Storage Company plant in Ord. This company has leased the old Ravenna Creamery Company building and under Thompson's management will operate a branch poultry, egg and cream buying plant here. Besides buying direct from farmers, the branch plant will send a truck to near-by towns and also will buy eggs from Ord merchants. A full line of Pillsbury flour and feeds will be handled by Mr. Thompson.

Wallace Nelson, an experienced produce man from Ravenna, will assist Manager Thompson in the plant. Nelson has rented the house west of R. C. Bailey's home on M street and is moving his family to Ord this week.

Paul Pierce Winner In Ft. Worth, Tex.

Paul Pierce, Ord, was the third high individual in the inter-collegiate livestock judging contest held in connection with the southwest fat stock show at Ft. Worth, Texas, Saturday. He competed on the University of Nebraska college of agriculture junior judging team which placed second out of a field of nine teams. The Nebraska team was but 18 points behind the winner, Texas Tech.

Competing with the Ord young man on the Cornhusker squad were Burr Ross, Rosalie; Lawrence Condon, Aurora; Vincent Arnaud, Cambridge; and Raymond McCartney, Lincoln. Prof. R. R. Thalmann of the animal husbandry department at the college of agriculture in Lincoln coached the team which made the trip to Texas on the Burlington Zephyr, crack stream-lined train.

Paul is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Pierce and is a graduate of Ord high school.

ATTENTION.
I will be gone from my office March 25 to 29 attending a special clinic in Marshalltown, Ia., concerning the cause, prevention and correction of cataracts. 51-11

Ross Frey Makes Hole - In - One on Ord Golf Course

Ross Frey, junior in Ord high school, is the latest member of Ord's Hole-in-One club. His ace was made Friday evening on the short hill hole, No. 8. Ross was playing with his mother, Mrs. Henry Frey, and with several school friends so he has plenty of witnesses to prove his hole-in-one was of the genuine, dyed-in-the-wool variety.

The Frey family live near the park and all are golfers. Three members of the family, Henry, Mrs. Frey and now Ross, have made a hole-in-one on the Ord course. Chester, the oldest son, plays golf but so far hasn't an ace to his credit.

Ross Frey is developing into one of the finest golfers in Ord. He shoots in near-par figures regularly even in winter. Friday when he made his ace his total for the round was 37.

GOV'T SEED LOAN FUNDS HELD UP BY FIGHT ON PWA

Banks Will Cooperate To Enable Farmers Do Spring Planting, Agent Dale Is Promised.

Funds for government seed loans have been delayed by the fight in Congress on President Roosevelt's 5 billion dollar relief appropriation bill and it now seems certain that funds will not be available until late in the planting season, said County Agent C. C. Dale yesterday.

The seed loan bill was passed by Congress and signed by the president in February but funds were not appropriated in this bill. Instead, they were included in the lump sum appropriation bill for all relief purposes, which Congress has been debating for several weeks.

Last week a separate bill appropriating funds for seed loans was passed by the House and it probably will be passed by the Senate this week. However, it may be several weeks before the machinery for making loans is set up and supplies sent to the Valley county loaning agency.

To enable farmers to do spring planting at the proper time, Valley county banks have assured County Agent Dale that they will cooperate to the best of their ability by extending temporary credit accommodations, Dale said yesterday. He advises all farmers who are going to need seed loans to contact their bankers at once and make arrangements for short-time loans to be repaid with money received from federal loans when the money becomes available.

"Don't wait for a government loan if you can get the money elsewhere," is Dale's advice to farmers.

Big Task Awaits District Judge At Term Next Week

The spring equity term of district court will convene in Ord next Wednesday, March 27, and because the 1935 Nebraska legislature passed a new 2-year moratorium law a big task awaits Judge E. P. Clements, who will occupy the bench at this session.

There are 162 foreclosure cases on the docket in Valley county, about 140 of which were under the 1933 moratorium law, which expired March 1. Defendants in most of these cases will seek continuance of moratorium under the new law, which will make it necessary for the court to approve new terms of rental, etc., in each case.

Originally scheduled for only one day, the spring equity term will probably occupy the time of the judge and court officials for several days this year.

There are no jury cases to be tried at this session, says Alfred Weigardt, clerk of the district court. The spring jury term comes in June but only two or three jury cases are scheduled for trial.

Clare Clement Is Chosen Secretary By Hereford Men

R. Clare Clement, well known Valley county Hereford breeder, recently was honored by being chosen secretary and treasurer of the Nebraska Hereford Breeders association. Mr. Clement has been interested in association work for many years and his great familiarity with all phases of Hereford breeding makes him admirably fitted for this responsible position.

BURLINGTON R. R. SEEKS TO CLOSE ELYRIA STATION

Railway Commissioner in Ord For Hearing Friday; Elyria Men Protest the Closing.

The C. B. & Q. railway company has applied to the Nebraska railway commission for permission to close the station at Elyria, substituting a janitor for the depot agent and telegraph operator who has been maintained there in the past. Friday afternoon Will Maupin, a member of the commission, held a public hearing in the district court room in Ord. He was accompanied by a stenographer, Mrs. Virginia Nelson Stewart.

Witnesses included F. R. Mullen, of Lincoln, general superintendent of the railroad, who explained the decrease in business at the Elyria station which prompts his company to close it. Expense of maintaining an agent there is not justified by the business, he said. An attorney, Mr. Loomis, also appeared for the railroad.

A delegation of Elyria business men including E. A. Holub, Leon Cienny, Otto Pecenka and Stanley Jurczenski protested against the station being closed, as did an attorney, E. M. Mosier, of Chicago, who represented the Brotherhood of Railway Telegraphers.

If the railway commission grants permission, no business representative will be maintained at Elyria in future, officials explained. A custodian will be hired to build fires in winter and keep the waiting room clean. Passengers will buy tickets from train conductors and all freight and express business will be handled through either the Ord or Burwell offices.

There are 45 other small stations in Nebraska that the Burlington will ask permission to discontinue in the near future, it is claimed. Many have already been discontinued.

Commissioner Maupin stated Friday evening that a transcript of the testimony given here will be considered by the commission, after which an order will be issued permitting the Burlington to close the Elyria station or instructing them to keep it open.

May Cut Freight Service to 3 Days Per Week

In response to a rumor that the C. B. & Q. plans to discontinue daily freight service on the Ord-Burwell branch, substituting 3-day-per-week service, the Burwell chamber of commerce last week filed a protest against such a change with the state railway commission. The railway company has not yet asked permission to make such a change but officials do not deny that such a course is being considered.

Mrs. Wm. Frungel Is Laid To Rest

Respected Ord Woman Died After Stroke of Paralysis; Was 84; Funeral Yesterday.

Funeral services were held at the Ord Christian church at 2:00 p. m. yesterday for Mrs. Wm. Frungel, 84-year-old Ord woman who died at her home in Ord Thursday, March 14, after a stroke of paralysis. Rev. Willard McCarthy, her pastor for many years, conducted the last rites and interment was in Ord cemetery. Many out-of-town relatives, as well as a host of Ord friends, attended the services.

Catherine Lefferts Frungel was born at Edinburg, Indiana, on July 12, 1851, and most of her married life was spent in Nebraska. She lived in Dodge and Cumming counties for many years and all but one of her children were born in these counties. Her husband, Wm. Frungel, died at Ord March 8, 1928.

She leaves to mourn her death nine children, S. E. Young, Ringgold, Neb.; Mrs. R. V. Mann, Longmont, Colo.; Mrs. Frank Romine, Ford Smith, Ark.; R. L. Long, Ord, P. D. Long, Ringgold, Neb.; Joe Long, Burwell, D. A. Long, Chicago, Mrs. Fred Butts, Abilene, Tex.; and L. E. Long; also two sisters, Maggie Jennings, Hamburg, Ia., and Lydia Halstead, Hiawatha, Kas., and a granddaughter, Alta Hull Cannon, of Abilene, Tex., who grew to womanhood in the Ord home of her grandparents. She is one of fifty grandchildren. Two daughters preceded Mrs. Frungel in death.

Mrs. Frungel's many friends will long remember her cheerful manner and she will be greatly missed.

—Mrs. Mike Kosmata, accompanied by Miss Anna and Marie Kosmata went to Grand Island Friday to shop. The dirt storm caught them at North Loup and they were forced to spend the night in the neighboring town.

Dunnire To Meet Heads of No. Loup Project This Evening

E. H. Dunnire, one of the engineers for the North Loup power and irrigation project, will be in Ord tonight to meet with officers and directors of the district, said a telegram received yesterday by Bert M. Hardenbrook. N. T. Veach, Jr., who was expected earlier this week, was prevented from coming by other business engagements.

Tomorrow night Engineer Dunnire plans to meet with city council members of Ord and Burwell to explain what the government is asking in the way of power consumption before approving the project.

Neither meeting is open to the public, President Hardenbrook says, but public explanation of the present status of the project will probably be made after the meetings.

Hits Manhole, Is Hurt.

Arthur Jensen, a son of Pete Jensen, was hurt Tuesday morning when his car struck a manhole on the pavement near the Corvett filling station. An ambulance was called and he was taken to the Ord Hospital. His back was injured but no bones were broken and he was soon able to be taken home.

DUST STORM IS CALLED WORST IN NEBR. HISTORY

Reached Peak Friday Night But Is Still Raging; Damage To Farm Land Heavy.

Another year seems fated to take its toll in Nebraska history along with 1888, the year of the great blizzard, 1894 and 1934, the years of terrible drought. 1935 already is well on its way to fame as the year of terrific dirt storms.

The dust storm that began last Friday evening and is still raging is thought to be the worst such storm in history.

After two of the warmest and most beautiful March days Nebraska has ever seen, the great dust storm began about 6:30 p. m. Friday. A heavy black cloud extending to the earth from high in the air was seen approaching from the north. At first a tornado was feared but when it struck Ord it was soon found that the black cloud was nothing but dust, blinding dust so thick that even the street lights could not be seen more than a few feet.

The wind attained a velocity of over 60 miles per hour at times Friday night, weather observers at Grand Island and other Nebraska cities report. The storm was general throughout the state but was worst in central Nebraska.

Belated travelers had to stop and take refuge for the night, so heavy was the wind and so opaque was the wall of dust. A few accidents are reported by car drivers who tried to keep on going only to miss corners or go off grades but no serious injuries occurred. The engines of many cars were stalled by dirt sifting into gasoline lines.

Saturday night snow began falling but it was a dry snow and the dust kept right on blowing. With exception of Tuesday, when the wind died down, the dust storm has continued and yesterday was almost as bad as Friday night.

Thousands of tons of Nebraska dirt are on the move and damage to farm lands is estimated in the millions of dollars. In western Nebraska winter wheat is said to be practically ruined. Kansas has the same story to tell. Little grain was planted in Valley county last fall so crop damage here is negligible.

The present storm is about the most disagreeable variety of weather Nebraska has ever been up against. Until heavy rains fall throughout the middle west the storm seems fated to continue.

California Picnic Sunday, March 31st

Former residents of Ord and Valley county who now live in California or are visiting on the west coast this winter are invited to attend the semi-annual picnic of former Ordites to be held at Bixby Park, Long Beach. All are requested to bring baskets of lunch but coffee will be provided. Fred J. Bell is president and Mrs. Rudolph Sorenson vice-president of the organization sponsoring the picnic.

Performs Two Marriages.
Miss Norma Joyce Morrow, age 19, became the bride of Nelson Timmons, 32, on Friday, March 15 in Judge Andersen's office. The young couple are residents of Rose, Nebraska.
The following day he performed the marriage of Gilbert Babcock, 21, and Miss Ardyce Leon Stevens, 19, both of Ord. Mrs. Babcock is well known in Ord, having graduated with the class of 1933.

ORD CLUB PLANS TO HOLD PUBLIC RELATIONS DINNER

Business and Professional Women's Club Announce Program For Affair March 28.

Members of the Business and Professional Women's club are making elaborate plans for the big event of their year, the Public Relations dinner which they will give next Thursday evening, Mar. 28, at the Methodist church. Two or more representatives of each civic organization and lodge of Ord have been asked to attend the dinner, that the community may be thoroughly represented at the banquet. Miss Erma Gossard, as chairman of the public relations committee, is in charge of the event.

This is the first time such a dinner has been given in Ord, the local club being too new last year to get it organized properly, so Ord representatives went to Grand Island to the dinner given by the Grand Island Business and Professional club.

The program arranged to follow the dinner will be as follows:

After NRA What?—Ralph W. Norman.
Golden Rule and Your Business—George A. Parkins.
Playgo solo—Elsie Pecenka.
Education—the Basis of Our Future Welfare—M. D. Bell.
Opportunities for Women in Public Administration—Mrs. R. E. Teague.
Vocal solo—Carol Roelke.
Shall Our Community Advance or Retrograde?—Eugene C. Leggett.

Address of the evening—Rev. A. E. Reudink of Arcadia.
An orchestra of high school students, led by Dean S. Duncan, will provide music for the evening. Ladies of the Methodist church will serve the dinner at 6:30 o'clock.

The Ord Business and Professional Women's club has 25 members. Husbands of members will attend, and with the addition of speakers and guests from other clubs, make the dinner one of the season's largest affairs. Miss Clara McClatchey, Valley county superintendent of schools, is president of this organization.

Anyone who is interested in the program offered at the dinner, or in the betterment of Ord is welcome to attend. The only stipulation made by the club is that a ticket must be spoken for by Saturday. Anyone wishing reservations notify Miss Marie Hall at the Protective Savings and Loan office.

Mike Kosmata Heads Kittenball League

At a meeting of members of the Ord Kittenball league Tuesday evening in the county judge's office, Mike Kosmata was chosen president and Alfred A. Weigardt secretary-treasurer. Officers have set Saturday, April 20, as the deadline for the league this summer. All men or boys who wish to play kittenball this year are requested to sign up with Secretary Weigardt at once, or at least in advance of April 20. There is no fixed membership fee but signers may contribute a small sum to the league treasury if they desire.

As soon as the sign-up is completed teams will be selected, captains chosen and play will start the last week in April or the first week in May.

Ord Butter Wins Second Place At State Convention

Butter manufactured by the Ord Cooperative Creamery company won second place in a contest held in connection with the ninth annual session of cooperative creameries of Nebraska at Lincoln last week. A fountain pen desk set was awarded as a prize to E. O. Carlson, buttermaker at the local plant. First place went to the Battle Creek Cooperative creamery.

Contest butter was packed in ten pound tubs and was judged by E. O. Stovick of Albert Lea, Minn., a nationally known butter judge, assisted by E. L. Richard and P. A. Downs of the University of Nebraska college of agriculture. This is the second time Ord butter has won second place at the state convention and Manager Fred Coe, Buttermaker Carlson and the other creamery employees say they are going to keep on trying until they land at the top.

In a butter judging contest open to all creamery employees last week, Mr. Carlson won first place and a cash prize of $5.00. This contest has been won several times in former years by Manager Coe, so apparently the local men know good butter when they see it, as well as knowing how to make it.

Present at the convention from Ord were A. W. Cornell, president of the local company, Manager Coe and Mr. Carlson.

Bass Were Striking At Ericson Before Big Dust Storm

Mrs. Edith Jones and Miss Gertrude Knebel want it known that they are telling the first fish tale of the spring fishing season. Last Thursday they drove to Ericson and caught a fine string of bass, about twelve in all, the largest pair weighing 2 3/4 pounds each.

Inspired by this thrilling fish story, Hans Andersen and son, Frank drove to Ericson next day to fish. They caught not a fish and had the extreme pleasure of driving home in the dirt storm, a job that took them some hours.

ANNUAL MUSIC FESTIVAL BEING HELD HERE TODAY

11 High Schools Send Musicians To Big Event; Wesleyan Male Choir on Artists' Program.

Vocal and instrumental musicians from eleven high schools holding membership in the Loup Valley High School Association are gathering in Ord today for the fifth annual music festival. Beginning at 9:00 this morning, the program continues throughout the day, concluding this evening with an artists' program by the Wesleyan University a capella male chorus, with Oscar Bennett as director.

Towns participating are Arcadia, Burwell, Comstock, Dannebrog, Loup City, North Loup, Ord, St. Paul, Sargent, Scotia and Taylor. Scotia and Ord are the only schools that will enter bands but almost every school will be represented by glee clubs, choruses, quartets, sextettes and solo numbers. Ord is the only school to enter an orchestra.

North Loup, Scotia, Comstock and Taylor musicians appear on the morning program. Sargent, Dannebrog, Loup City, Burwell, St. Paul, Arcadia and Ord this afternoon. The Ord program, which includes three selections by the orchestra, two by the girls' glee club, two by the boys' glee club, a piano solo by Gwendolyn Cass, a vocal solo by Reuben Cook and three selections by the band, will be given from 5:00 to 5:40.

First event of this evening's program is a concert by a massed chorus made up of singers from every school in the valley. This will take place at 7:30. Later will come repetition of special numbers selected from the day's program and at 8:15 the a capella chorus concert will begin.

The committee in charge of this music festival is made up of Miss Winifred Pettit, North Loup; Thomas E. Cain, Burwell; and Dean S. Duncan, Ord. Albert Seivers, dean of the fine arts college of Nebraska Wesleyan university, will be critic.

Attendance Small At City Caucuses

Light Vote at City Election On April 2 Is Forecast; Only 1 Office Contested.

Only a few voters braved the dust storm Friday night to attend city caucuses being held at the court house and city hall and names placed in nomination at these gatherings were, in most instances, the men whose present terms expire this spring.

The Citizens party, meeting at the court house, nominated Frank Travis for councilman, 1st ward, Frank Sershen for councilman, 2nd ward, and Joe Rohla for councilman, 3rd ward. Ralph W. Norman and William Sack were nominated for school board members. The Good Government party nominated A. J. Auble for councilman, 1st ward, Frank Sershen for councilman, 2nd ward, and Anton Bartunek for councilman, 3rd ward. This party also endorsed Norman and Sack for school board membership.

Officers of the Citizens party caucus were Ralph W. Norman, chairman, and C. B. Gudmundsen, secretary. A. J. "Bud" Shirley, who has served as caucus chairman for so many years that nobody can remember the exact number, has been ill and was unable to attend.

Good Government party caucus officers were Clarence M. Davis, chairman, and A. J. Auble, secretary. These men and Bert Hardenbrook were delegated to fill vacancies and arrange for next year's caucus. Members of a similar committee for the Citizens party are Frank Sershen, C. B. Gudmundsen and Ed Koken.

The city election will be held Tuesday, April 2, and a light vote is forecast.

GREATLY LOVED COMSTOCK WOMAN PASSES IN ORD

Mrs. Ed Panowicz Dies After Operation; Huge Concourse At Funeral Monday.

Mrs. Ed. T. Panowicz, greatly loved Comstock matron who was born and reared in the Ord community and lived here much of her life, passed away at an Ord hospital Friday evening, March 15, a few days after a major surgical operation which was resorted to in a last effort to save her life. Her death was a great shock to relatives and friends in Ord, Comstock and many other central Nebraska communities.

Sophia Marie Zikmund was born on a farm about sixteen miles west of Ord on May 24, 1891 and at the time of her death was 43 years, 9 months and 21 days of age. She was a daughter of Anton and Mary Zikmund, one of the early pioneer families who settled in the western part of Valley county. Being one of a family of twelve children whose father passed away before the family was matured early in life she assumed her share in helping her mother in her responsibilities of maintaining the home, and for a number of her youthful years was employed at the L. D. Bailey store in Ord.

It was while so employed that she met Edward T. Panowicz. The acquaintance ripened into deep friendship and on November 24, 1909 they were taking place in the wedding church in Ord. To this union was born two children, one daughter and one son, both of whom survive her.

Shortly after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Panowicz went to Spokane, Wash., residing there for two years. Returning to Ord they established a home here for five years during which time the husband was employed at the Bailey store. The next three years were spent in Columbus where Mr. Panowicz occupied a bank position, removing then to North Loup where he assumed the management of the Farmers Co-operative store, and almost a year was spent there. It was while residing in North Loup that the opportunity came to purchase a mercantile store in Comstock and the family removed there, where the deceased then resided until her death, ably assisting her husband in the building up of one of the leading business institutions of the community and the establishment of a home noted for its hospitality and friendliness. Of this home she was passionately fond and loved to make and to keep spotlessly clean and homelike for her loved ones, and this ministry was accomplished in such a loving manner that all were made happier thereby.

While residing at Comstock Mrs. Panowicz became associated with the Community Methodist Episcopal church, being an active member of the Ladies Circle and unselfishly devoting much time and effort to that organization. She was also active in many other charitable and benevolent activities of the community, never backward nor hesitant to assume her full share of responsibility and duties and it is in these respects that she established for herself a niche of identity from which she will be sorely missed nor is it probable that another will ever enter the community and occupy it.

For several months prior to her death Mrs. Panowicz was in failing health, at times suffering considerably, yet she bore her afflictions in such courageous and uncomplaining manner that even

Attend Corn-Hog Meeting.

County Agent Carl Dale went to Grand Island Wednesday to a meeting of corn-hog committees from all over Nebraska. He was accompanied by S. W. Roe, Arthur Mensing and Charles Veleba, fellow committee men, also by Charles Clark, chief clerk in the Valley county office. Several other men from Valley county were present at the meeting.

Corn-Hog Closing Date Is Extended

The closing date for signing corn-hog contracts has been extended to April 1. It was announced yesterday by E. W. Roe, president of the Valley county corn-hog allotment committee. Farmers who expect to sign 1935 contracts positively must do so before that date; no contracts will be accepted after April 1, he said.

Attention, Farmers!

Directors of the Valley County Feed and Produce association will meet at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, March 23, in the district court room and there will be a mass meeting of members at the same place at 2:30. Everybody attend, please.

Henry Vodehnal, treasurer.

TOO MUCH BAD MONEY.

Merchants and bankers in every city and hamlet in the country are being asked by the government to scrutinize carefully every piece of currency proffered by customers in payment for merchandise. These unusual precautions are being taken because there is a flood of counterfeit money in the United States at the present time—more than a million dollars' worth in circulation, it is estimated.

Last week's nation-wide raid by federal men was designed to stop counterfeiting, as well as illegal sale of booze and narcotics, and several large counterfeiting plants were found and destroyed.

The counterfeit bills are usually of small denominations, $1, $5 and $10. Most of them are manufactured in eastern cities and sold by the counterfeiter to any crook who has real money to pay for them at 30c on the dollar. The crook, with a supply of counterfeit bills, then sets out on a tour of the country, making small purchases of merchandise in each town he visits, proffering the counterfeit bills in payment and taking his change in legal money.

Merchants are asked to scrutinize especially bills given them by strangers. So far as the Quiz has shown up in Ord but no towns is immune from a visit by a party passing out bills that look and feel almost like real money.

THE PEOPLE HAVE SPOKEN.
The will of the people is very dear to some politicians, when it happens to coincide with their own ideas, but how quickly these same politicians can forget what the people want when their own desires run along different lines.

The bill to establish a state police force now before the Nebraska legislature is a case in point. In 1932, by over 100,000 majority, Nebraska citizens voted against this proposition. It was proposed by C. A. Sorensen and many observers believe that Sorensen was defeated for attorney-general in 1932 and for governor in 1934 principally because he backed this unpopular proposition.

Now it looks as though the 1935 legislature would go exactly contrary to the wishes of the people as expressed in 1932 and 1934 and enact a law establishing a state police force, putting an additional tax on motor vehicles to pay for it.

Perhaps such a force would have certain advantages but the Quiz submits that the people should be allowed to rule. Certain it is that sentiment in Nebraska is overwhelmingly against spending a half-million dollars per year to maintain such a force.

The people have spoken. Legislators should hear and obey.

JUST A "LOVE-FEAST."
At Lincoln recently was held a gathering of prominent republican politicians to commemorate Founder's Day. It was heralded as a meeting to consummate the rebirth of the republican party in Nebraska. From newspaper accounts it was just a "love-feast."

A "love-feast" is a banquet where politicians get together, pat each other on the back, assure each other that victory is certain at the next election and then depart their several ways, having accomplished nothing.

If the republican party was re-born in Lincoln last Friday there is a mistake somewhere for the new party looks suspiciously like the old. There was Sam McKelvie, who perhaps at one time was an asset but has been a liability through several campaigns, right in the forefront. In fact the delegates of the new party were entrusted to him. Bob Simmons was there, as well as his friends that all he has to do is offer himself as a candidate again and next time is sure to be elected. Representing the national party were Arthur Hyde, secretary of agriculture under Hoover, and Hanford McMiller, secretary of agriculture under Hoover. Telegrams from Hoover and from Henry Fletcher, the national chairman, whose name is anathema to progressive republicans, were read.

The answer is "No," to all questions. In general, the same interests that perpetrated the Grocer Norris case remain firmly in the saddle. To a voter who cannot conscientiously follow the republican banner so long as the party is bound hand-and-foot and delivered over to reactionary leadership, who finds much to applaud in the New Deal but who cannot stomach the Rooseveltian policies of governmental extravagance, the political picture in Nebraska offers little hope.

Perhaps a new party will arise, offering a haven for Jeffersonian democrats and Bull Moose republicans. If it does not the future looks black indeed. The man without a country was in a little worse condition than the man without a party.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

Ernest Coats tells me that if it doesn't rain this spring he is going to be up against it for enough milk. He comes to town every day anyhow, why can't he haul a supply of Loup river water home with him. We are used to that and it would taste just as good as rain water.

There is one thing that the legislature should never allow to be done, neither do I believe it will, and that thing is for the liquor lobby to write the new liquor bill.

What we need most is an inflation of business and a deflation of politicians.

These notes are being written in bed. My doctor and nurse (the Missus) pronounce my trouble flu. This is the fourth day in bed and I am feeling a lot better or I wouldn't be writing. Boss says one day in bed after the fever is gone. That was a sort of rule good old Dr. Shepard always laid down during the years he doctored my family.

I didn't care much about the cats the first few days but it seems to me now the Missus is getting a bit Scotch. Soup and lettuce leaves and sweetened wind (jello) are not so filling. She says it won't hurt me to reduce and I wanted to hand that right back but thought it might be best to defer that retort till I get so I don't need quite so much waiting on.

When I suggested that it might be a good thing to get me a nurse the Missus said she didn't think I was that bad off and that I had best forget about the nurse. I wouldn't have thought about the nurse but Fred Howard is always telling about his pretty nurses when he is in the hospital. Probably one has to go to a hospital to get the best results from nurses.

A lot of people who have always hesitated about having their picture printed in the paper for fear it will break the press, will hesitate no longer after they see the picture which we are going to print of George Gowen.

The house refused to pass an amendment to the liquor bill, lowering the sales tax of the five thousand dollars a year, to three thousand. I will bet three thousand is more than most of them are now earning or can earn.

If believing that individual wealth should be limited makes one a socialist, then I must be one, for I surely believe that no man should be allowed to accumulate two hundred million dollars and keep it. I would be reasonable in the amount of profit a man should be allowed to make in any year, but surely an income of three or four million would be enough for anyone. Beyond that the government should take it and thus relieve the burden of the poorer people.

Someone asked me the other day, how long it had been since the Quiz used "patent insiders." And why we didn't. It has been a good many years surely not since I have owned it. Why don't we? That's what I want to go into the paper. We could buy "patents" for a fraction of what it costs to get writers like George Gowen, Mrs. Bartz, Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. Dodge, Mrs. Eugene Leggett and others to write their stories, but those readers who want the whole news of Valley county wouldn't buy the Quiz if we filled it with commonplace boilerplate stuff. Added to our staff of more than forty Valley county editors, we buy such articles as Brisbane's, the highest priced writer in the world, the Lincoln news letter each week, the Washington letter, the world news review, then to make it complete I throw in this wonderful kolm, which has no equal. In fact there is nothing like it anywhere. The Quiz is all printed on the Quiz press each week, on fresh white paper, bought at several cents a time. One may say this week that he don't see how we can give so much newspaper for two dollars a year. We can't, but we do. It does cost us several times what you pay for it. The advertisers have to make up what you don't pay, so it is up to you readers to show the Quiz advertisers all the consideration you can. Give them the breaks.

I am beginning to get suspicious of George Gowen. He finds so many of the men away from home and always makes it good and plain that he stands out in the yard and talks with the women, on the back porch. You women should invite George in these cold days and give him a little home brew, even if the men are away. I think his Missus is keeping an eye on him too, for I notice that Dick always goes along.

By the way, don't be bashful about paying your subscription to George if you want to do so. He gets a little commission out of it, and I don't pay him enough so but what he needs it. New or renewals, just as well pay him. I will get it and will mail you a receipt. George always sends in his news and any money he has collected, Saturday night.

I was a nonpartisan leaguer when that organization was going strong and I believe in the principals of the organization yet. I know that big business is always nonpartisan. Big business always supports the political party it believes will best serve its interests. When all farmers and little business learn to do the same way, well, then we will be able to have more to say about how the business of the country is run. By being organized, big business has usually been able to prosper while little business, unorganized, took what was left after most of the best bunches of grapes had been picked.

Andrew Mellon, honored by the republican party several times, is said to be worth two hundred million dollars. He owns some of the largest distilleries in the world. His companies control the aluminum business of the world. That is the way he made his money. While you or your sons or brothers were being drafted and taken across the seas to face enemy bullets at a dollar a day and keep (and might you keep sometimes) Mr. Mellon was allowed to sell the country the aluminum it needed at several hundred per cent profit. If, as now proposed, his money is drafted as well as the young men, for the next war, there just won't be any next war.

Representative Cone will soon be known as the "Kingfish" of the Nebraska legislature. He already has to have a bodyguard.

Can we learn anything about long life from the records of persons who have reached a very old age? To answer this question, Raymond Pearl, professor of biology at Johns Hopkins University studied two thousand authentic cases of men and women who have lived to be ninety-five years or older.

This scientific study of the lives of these very old people brings out the fact that those who live long have long lived ancestors. Pearl cites the case of a woman hale and hearty and a nonagenarian. Her father died at the age of 78 years and her mother at ninety-one. Her paternal grandfather died at the age of 99 years and six months and his wife at the age of 78. The grandmother on her mother's side lived 94 years.

Next to having parents and grandparents who have lived to an extremely old age, we must have the proper temperament. The tranquil-hearted and the calm and contented type have a very much better chance to reach advanced age than the type who is irritable, fretful and who enjoys worry.

The evidence also shows that it is dangerous indeed to live the strenuous life. People after 40 should avoid strenuous exercise and heavy muscular labor.

The evidence also shows that few persons who have lived past ninety have ever had a major surgical operation performed upon them. It is evident that the people who live to be ninety or more are the kind of people in whom conditions do not arise which necessitate surgical intervention.

The old age records, strange to say, contain a fairly large number of persons who have enjoyed poor health, who have been frail, sickly or semi-invalid. This fact verifies the statement that morbidity and mortality do not run parallel.

It is very interesting to learn that heart disease does not produce the greatest number of deaths among the very old-lived. Heart disease accounted for twenty-four per cent of all the deaths and diseases of the arteries about ten per cent of the total deaths.

BACK FORTY

Dipping of seed potatoes before planting is a great aid in controlling certain diseases that may otherwise reduce yields, stunt vines, and affect the quality of the tubers.

The new acid-mercury dip seems to be the most effective, and is also the least troublesome to apply. Directions for this treatment are as follows: Dissolve six ounces of mercuric chloride in one pint of commercial muriatic acid. These materials can be secured at any drug store. Measure twenty-five gallons of water in a barrel, or a tub that is not made of metal. Pour the acid solution into the water and thoroughly mix, after which it is ready for use.

Beat It!

cut and planted immediately. Twenty-five gallons of acid-mercury dip is enough to treat forty bushels. The formula can be cut down for smaller quantities of potatoes. Mercuric chloride is extremely poisonous if taken internally. It can, however, be handled freely without fear of injury to the skin.

LONG LIFE.

Except for a few cases of sex linked heredity, such as color blindness and Gower's disease, in which sons inherit directly from the mother, there are no evidences that heredity differs between the sexes.

CARE OF COUNTY BOARD

By George Gowen

Dear Jake:

Delving into history we read avidly of how the fellows then were put in stocks. Should one of them beat his wife a little too hard, become a little too gay on moonshine and shoot up the town, or fall to attend church some bright Sabbath morning, this gross offender of the peace and tranquility was placed into a rack where his head or his hands were fastened securely. There, in that ungodly position he must take the jeers, laughter and abuse of the kids and passers-by. Who would ever think we are reverting to such things?

The story is told on John Kriewald. He went down cellar through the outside entrance, but for some reason decided to come into the house by the route of a steep stairs and a trap door through the floor.

He pushed up the door from the bottom, peeking through at the same moment his wife started tramping across and the door came down ca-bang, catching John's head with his chin on the floor. For the moment he was realizing the predicament those old time guys were in when their heads were put in stocks. To make matters worse, Mrs. Kriewald tripped, fell and floundered, eventually rolling off the door.

Thinking perhaps John had gone down cellar and set a block of wood on the cellar way, Mrs. John scrambled up, her temper very wrought up. She promenaaded around with the thought in mind to give that chunk of wood a hard swift kick and teach that husband of hers a thing or two about setting things there and tripping anyone who happened to walk over the cellar door.

As she was preparing her hefty foot for a drop kick when she went the door. Along about that time John decided a safer method of entering the house would be from the level. He backed tracked. Entering the kitchen, his wife still in a berserk attitude, she gave him a little talking to, including the necessary adjectives and adverbs. Concluding her little speech, she exclaimed with shaking head and pointed finger, "Don't you ever set anything in that cellar door again. Someone might get hurt."

Of course love and kisses soon reigned in the household and carresses of liniment and bandages were put into action.

This all reminds me of another little incident Ira (Dutch) Manchester tells on himself. He had a very nice gentle old sow. Dutch had been scratching her back of the ear with a comb until she had become what is known as a pet pig. And for the information of those who do not know, I will say a pet pig is one of the most affectionate animals of the kingdom.

Well, Dutch discovered one bright day that Old Rainbow was terribly busy, paying little heed to even the endearing words of her master. She was going "Grunt, grunt, grunt," and nearly trotting around yard, gathering all the bits of straw on the place, and totting it hurriedly to a corner of the barn. Then with her front foot she was pawing the whole thing into a nice round pile.

Dutch at once went to the back of the barn and found a new gate he had made. This he nailed across the corner, leaving Old Rainbow to herself. Dutch mused off up town, returning in the evening.

He was a little curious to know the results of all that performance of his pet pig. The gate was too high to peek over. It was made of cypress inch boards, nailed about six inches apart. By twisting his head sideways, exactly in the right position, Dutch just managed to squeeze it through the crack. As his ears passed and the boards came to his neck, he turned his head and discovered ten of the nicest little shiny black pigs one could imagine. Each had a pure white belt. Every one was scrambling for its supper, tumbling over one another in their haste.

To be sure it was a sight to behold. Dutch drank in the affair with the height of pleasure, painting vivid pictures of how his bank account would swell when those ten tiny porkers were fat and sold. And just at that moment a couple of swears got in a little difficulty over which plate of slop belonged to which, and that little difficulty led to a real fight, considering the size of the beasts, and their voices rose in lusty resonance.

Sensing trouble o'er the land, Old Rainbow blinked her dreamy eyes, perked her languid ears, raised her sharp snout, questioned, "grunt, grunt," and sprang to her feet. As she arose, she stepped on another little pig's tiny toe, and another screeching squeak burst forth.

Another short second and she saw Dutch's head. For some strange reason she forgot how nice a fellow Dutch was, and how lovingly he had scratched her behind the ear so many times. Swinging on him with mouth open and bristles raising, she proclaimed, "Woo! woo! woo! woo!"

Now Dutch interpreted those wool words to be anything but terms of love, and something to the effect that he had better be scampering away. But his head was fast and in his haste he couldn't turn it at exactly the right angle.

Well, there was no particular damage done, except that two perfectly good cypress boards on that gate were broken and had to be patched.

Something DIFFERENT

Several weeks ago when Coach Brockman had his boys in Kearney for a basketball tournament, they stayed at a Kearney hotel for a couple of nights while the games were played.

Coach Brockman made no stringent rules about the conduct of his boys. He did not ask them to be quiet, talk quietly, not to romp or holler, etc.

But when the Ord boys and their mentor got ready to check out of the hotel, the manager came to them with a small trophy, saying that he wanted to give it to them, that the Ord boys were the quietest, most mannerly group he had ever had stay in his hotel. And to show his appreciation of the fact that they did not engage in a lot of loud horseplay in the lobby or elsewhere and that they behaved in general as models of good conduct, he of his own free will wished to tell them how fine this spirit was which they manifested.

County Agent Carl Dale had some puzzling problems connected with corn-hog and relief work—some problems he could not seem to solve. He consulted local heads of various government emergency measures, with not a bit of light forthcoming.

Finally he decided to take the matter up in Lincoln. Going to his superiors in corn-hog work, he got no help. To the relief bureau, where he got still less. He searched out various departments, sought here and there, no one knew the answer to his question.

Then said the head of the federal credit program in Nebraska: "But wait a minute. The head of this work is here today from Washington, I'll send him out to talk to you. Maybe he can help."

Mr. Dale stood there, waiting. Turned around when someone entered the room, and the greetings went something like "Why hello, Carl, you old horse-thief!" "Hi, there, Lewie, how are you, haven't seen you for fifteen years"

And that was just the way it was. The man was none other than Lew Christensen, brother to about four well-known Valley county Christensen, who left Ord shortly after the World war.

When Christensen left Ord, he went to Wheatland, Wyo., where he did well. Mr. Dale had never heard of the advance in life of his former friend, so the meeting was joyful all around.

Could Mr. Christensen help Mr. Dale with his troubles? Did I hear you ask? No, he couldn't. County Agent Dale still faces them, there isn't any right answer.

I see so many Ord and Valley county names duplicated in other Nebraska papers.

We have a Mrs. C. C. Shepard, have had for many years. In Omaha papers this name is frequently in the society columns—an Omaha lady has that name too.

Not long ago a Mrs. Osha Albers got into trouble in Omaha—Ord's Rose Albers doesn't get into troubles, or perhaps only into ones like cakes falling, soot on the wash, etc.

Hi Anderson and family were recently having trouble with their mail, getting letters from people they had never heard of, etc., etc., and the solution was a second Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Anderson, who had come to Ord to visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Woolery.

There is even a second Eugene Leggett—a famous red-headed newspaper correspondent in Washington, D. C.

I think our inhabitants need to get Ord-conscious. I heard that phrase a few days ago, and it stuck to me.

We need to pull together, to boost our town. We need to pat a couple of ourselves. Buy in Ord in place of elsewhere. Live and let live. Give a fair profit to one another, in place of sending to Grand Island for our groceries, Lincoln for our candy, going to Omaha for our clothes.

It is high time we patronize the furniture dealer for home furnishings, in place of having, let us say for example, the variety store man order it for us "wholesale and ten per cent." Let the Ord furniture man then go to the Ord ready-to-wear store for his wife's clothes, in place of getting them wholesale out of a Chicago catalog. Pay retail for your ice box when you buy it, in place of having your brother's wife's third cousin get it for you wholesale somewhere else.

Buy at home, pay home prices. Have one price for all, a fair price, quit ordering wholesale through a firm that does not handle your needed commodity. Help your neighbors to live and in return let them help you. This town certainly needs this lecture, needs to pull together instead of one hundred different ways, "every man for himself," as it now is. We all do it. Let's all quit! No other step would so increase Ord prosperity.

the column, "A Penny For Your Thoughts," the most interesting part of the whole paper. I usually read it first, "Something Different" or "My Own Column" next, the editorials are scanned, then if I have time I read the news. I seldom if ever read "To the County Board" or "The Work Sheet" after it is published.

Atlas Sorgo Makes Good Drouth Forage

LINCOLN, Neb. — Sorghums have proved their value for feed in such emergencies as the drouth of last summer, say grain experts at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture. For nine years Dr. T. A. Klesselbach and his agronomy men at the University have been experimenting and comparing 25 varieties of forage crops. Atlas sorgo was superior among the crops tested.

Now the college of agriculture, however, is having to advise farmers to plant Hegari sorghum. This is because the Atlas sorghum is a forage crop primarily, and did not produce much seed in the drouth. Sections of the country which ordinarily furnish it failed last season; and Dr. Klesselbach finds that seed houses report it almost impossible to get.

Not to permanently replace Atlas sorgo, but for use in the present emergency the University grain men recommend Hegari. The Hegari sorghum has long been established in the South as a grain crop, and the United States department of agriculture recommends it as forage. Produced in Texas, it is an earlier ripening variety and adapted to this section.

"Sorghums are drouth resisting crops, and have an excellent feeding value either as ensilage or fodder," says Dr. Klesselbach. "While the intense heat of mid-summer in Nebraska often checks or prematurely ripens the corn plant, sorghums stay green and develop big tonnage of highly palatable feed after the late summer rains. 'Last season,' the agronomy man recalls, 'most of the corn stopped growing about August 31, while canes and other such crops were green, and produced feed where late rains came.'

These crops may be planted in cultivated rows, broadcast, or drilled in solidly over the field. While the cultivation method saves seed and adds work. The University recommends about 12 pounds of seed to the acre for this method. If drilled, 90 pounds to the acre have been found to produce a high grade, fine stemmed crop with little waste. Western farmers should reduce somewhat the amount sowed.

"Special attention of farmers should be given to the seed shortage this year in sorghum crops," says Dr. Klesselbach. "For future years we must see to this matter of increasing the supply."

Frank Sestak, Joe Suchanek and Rudolph Krahulik, our township committeemen for corn-hog reduction, were busy in our neighborhood last week on the allotment program.

The scientists had figured the many thousands of tons of Oklahoma and Kansas soil that was deposited in Nebraska in a recent wind storm. But O' Boy they sure got it back last Friday with good measure.

Never did we experience such a dirt storm as the one that struck last Friday evening about 6 o'clock. Many people, who were caught away from home suffered terribly before reaching a place of safety.

Among others was Father These of Sargent, who arrived at the German church for Lenten services. When the storm struck he proceeded home but driving against the blinding storm when on the hill east of Ed Waldmann's, his car went in the ditch. Not being able to get back in the road and not knowing where he was, he abandoned the car and walked back about a mile to Albert Ptacnik's where he stayed over night.

The next morning the dirt storm changed to a snow storm and was still raging. Albert Ptacnik took Father These in search of his car, which had been blown full of dirt and snow and would not start. Ed Waldmann was called and with his help and the aid of a team of horses, the car was pulled out of the snow bank. After considerable difficulty in trying to start the car, Ed Waldmann took Father These to Sargent. Later the boys repaired the stranded vehicle and Paul Waldmann drove it to Sargent.

Frank Smolik also had a thrilling experience, he and his family will never forget. Doing some road work with his tractor in the John Kamarad neighborhood, when the storm struck, Frank proceeded home against the blinding, beating storm, not able to go further, he left his machine and sought refuge at Chas.

Tvrdik's. Fearing for the safety of his wife and children, who were to meet him, he had Mr. Tvrdik take him home. When near the Frank Jarousek place, they found Frank's car without a driver with the two children in it. Mrs. Smolik accompanied by her three small children set out to meet her husband. When near the Jarousek place the car stopped and would go no further. Mrs. Smolik leaving the children in the car went to the Jarousek place for help. After she left the car, Eldon, oldest of the trio, a husky boy of about 9 years, decided to follow his mother and the wonder is he did not get lost in the terrible storm which was more than an adult could endure very long. Mr. Tvrdik then took the family home.

A Historical Sketch of Nebraska

By EVA ZIKMUND.

The earliest records of Nebraska are the rocks and the soil. These indicate that this part of the planet has at times been the bottom of a sea and at other times has been elevated above the water; that at one time the region had a climate of tropical warmth and at a later time was covered in part by a thick sheet of ice. The remains of former plants and animals which testify to these conditions are abundant within the state.

Recent investigations indicate the presence of prehistoric men in Nebraska at a period several hundred, perhaps thousands, of years ago. The remains and implements of these people have been found at many places along the Missouri river and in the Bad Lands. Study of these remains now being carried on promises in the near future a far greater knowledge of these people than we now possess.

The Otoe, Omaha, Ponca, Pawnee, Sioux, Cheyenne and Arapahoe tribes of Indians were found in Nebraska by the first explorers. These numbered altogether about 40,000 people and lived chiefly by hunting, partly by primitive agriculture. War was the normal condition existing between these tribes. The traditions of these Indians indicate that they had migrated to the Nebraska region within a few hundred years of the time they were found by the first explorers.

Francisco Vasquez Coronado and his party of thirty Spanish cavaliers were the first white men to visit this region. Their visit was in the summer of 1541. French fur traders and trappers began to venture up the Missouri river about the year 1700. In 1739 the Mallet brothers, with a party of eight Frenchmen, named the Platte river and traveled nearly the entire length of the state on a journey from the Missouri river to Santa Fe. They were followed by many other French fur traders during the next sixty years.

Spain, France and England all claimed the Nebraska region at different times, basing their claims upon discoveries and explorations. In 1763 at the close of the Seven years war, France ceded all her claims east of the Missouri river to England and west of the Mississippi to Spain. Nebraska was thus a part of the Spanish province of Louisiana from 1763 until 1801, when Napoleon bought back the region from Spain and in 1803 sold the entire region to the United States.

Lewis and Clark were the commanders of the first American expedition to visit Nebraska in the years 1804-1806. In the year 1811 the Hunt party of Astorians skirted the Nebraska shores on their way to Oregon and in 1812 seven of the party crossed the mountains and followed the North Platte down to its junction with the Missouri. In 1819 Major Long with a party of twenty men traveled from the Missouri river up the Platte to the head waters of its south fork near Denver. During the years 1807-1820 Manuel Lisa, of Spanish descent, but a citizen of the United States, became the leading fur trader and explorer of the Nebraska region.

Fort Atkinson was established in the years 1819 and 1820 and abandoned in 1827. It was upon the site of the present village of Fort Calhoun in Washington county, 16 miles above Omaha. It had a population of over 1,000 people and was the site of the first school, the first library, the first brick-yard, the first sawmill, the first grist mill and the first extensive farming by white men within the state.

Moses Merrill and his wife, Eliza Wilcox were the first missionaries to the Nebraska Indians. They arrived in Bellevue in 1833 and continued their work as missionaries and teachers until Mr. Merrill died in 1840. Rev. Samuel Allis and John Dunbar arrived at Bellevue in 1834 and continued as Eva Zikmund, little sixth grader, daughter of Mrs. Louise Zikmund, was awarded the $1 prize offered by the ladies of the Ord G. A. R. for the best history of Nebraska. Below is Eva's entry in the contest.

Said Mrs. Cecil Clark of Eva's history: "It was so good. Why, I learned lots of things about Nebraska I never knew before from Eva's prize winning history! So I thought maybe others might like to read it too."

missionaries to the Pawnee tribe for the next twelve years. Father DeSmet, a Catholic missionary, first came to Nebraska in 1838 and for the next thirty-five years gave his services to the Indians west of the Missouri river.

On April 10, 1830, Sublette and Jackson, with ten wagons and one milk cow, started from St. Louis for the Wind River mountains in Wyoming and returned in the fall of 1832. Nathaniel I. Wyeth went over the same road to Oregon. Their route was up the valley of the Little Blue and Platte rivers and made the beginning of the Oregon trail which for the next forty years was the greatest wagon road the world has seen. Other trails across Nebraska were the California trail, starting from Bellevue or Omaha and traveling up the northern bank of the Platte; the Denver trail from the Missouri river to Denver and the "steam wagon road" or Nebraska City cut-off from Nebraska city up the west Blue to the Platte and on to Denver. These trails were traveled by thousands of wagons every year until the construction of the Pacific railroads.

The Western Engineer which brought Major Long's party on its exploring expedition in September 1819, was the first steam vessel to navigate Nebraska waters. Other steamboats took part in the Astor expedition in 1823. In 1832 the steamboat Yellowstone began the first regular annual fur trading voyages up the Missouri river, stopping at points on the Nebraska coast. From 1850 to 1860 steamboat navigation along the Nebraska shore was at its height, forty or fifty different steamboats. Business rapidly fell off until now only a few ferry boats and one or two steamboats a year navigate the Missouri along the Nebraska shores.

Frontier conditions of the most rugged nature ruled in Nebraska between these years. A few steamboats plied the Missouri river between St. Louis and the head of navigation. The overland trails from the Missouri river to the mountains and Pacific coast were traveled by caravans of emigrants and freighting wagons each summer. A little group of Christian missionaries and teachers were laboring among the Nebraska Indians. A few white fur traders and buffalo hunters followed the streams and crossed the prairies. Fort Kearney, on the Platte river, opposite the present city of Kearney and Bellevue, on the Missouri river were the only two white settlements of any size within the present state. The dominant figures in the Nebraska landscape were the buffalo, the coyote, the prairie dog and the Indian.

The Nebraska region was part of the territory of Indiana from October 1, 1804, to July 4, 1805. From July 4, 1805 to December 7, 1812, it was part of the territory of Louisiana with its capitol at St. Louis. It then became a part of the territory of Missouri until the year 1821 when Missouri was made a state and Nebraska became a part of the unorganized region commonly called the "Indian country." By the act of June 30, 1834, Congress defined the boundaries of the Indian country and enacted laws excluding white men and regulating relations with the Indians. The Indian superintendent at St. Louis was made governor over the "Indian country."

The name "Nebraska" first appears in literature about the year

1842. Lieutenant John C. Fremont explored the plains and mountains in that year. His report speaks of the "Nebraska river," the Otoe Indian name for the Platte, from the Otoe word "Ne-brathka," meaning "Flat Water." Secretary of War William Wilkins, in his report of November 30, 1844, says, "The Platte or Nebraska river being the central stream would very properly furnish a name to the (proposed) territory." The first bill to organize the new Nebraska territory was introduced in congress December 17, 1844, by Stephen A. Douglas of Illinois. This bill failed to pass. In 1848 Douglas introduced a second bill, which also failed. In 1853 a third bill was fourthly defeated. In 1854 a fourth Nebraska bill, now called the "Nebraska-Kansas bill," was passed after a prolonged and bitter struggle and signed by President Franklin Pierce on May 30, 1854. This prolonged struggle between the slave states and the free states for dominance in the Nebraska region led to the organization of the new Republican party and the border conflicts which hastened the Civil war.

Francis Burt of South Carolina, was the first governor of Nebraska territory. He arrived at Bellevue October 7, 1854 and died there October 18. Thomas B. Cuming became the acting governor. A struggle between the new town of Omaha and the old town of Bellevue for the territory capitol was determined in favor of Omaha by Governor Cuming who called the first session of the territorial legislature to meet there January 16, 1855.

The questions of most interest in early territorial Nebraska days were the settlement of the country, the laws relating to land and currency, the proposed Pacific railroad, the rivalry between north and south Platte regions, the organization of the Republican party in 1858, as a rival of the Democratic party, the defeat of the first effort to make Nebraska a state. The population grew slowly from 2,732 in November, 1854 to 28,341 in 1860.

The election of Abraham Lincoln for president in 1860, the Civil war which followed and the appointment of Alvin Saunders as governor of Nebraska territory by President Lincoln in 1861, constitute a dividing period in Nebraska territorial history. The chief events in this later period were the raising of the First Nebraska regiment under Colonel John M. Thayer for service in the union army; the enactment of the free homestead law, taking effect January 1, 1863; the beginning of construction upon the Union Pacific railway in 1865; the fierce war with the Sioux and Cheyenne Indians on the plains which broke out in August, 1864; the passage of the enabling act by congress on April 19, 1869, permitting Nebraska to become a state and the fight over statehood between the Republican and Democratic parties centering in the election of June 2, 1868, where victory was won for statehood by the close vote of 3,938 for, to 3,838 against.

This is the formative period of the new state. Among its principal events were the relocation of the capitol at Lincoln, July 29, 1867, the impeachment of Governor David Butler in 1871, the first period of railway construction including the completion of the Pacific railroad into the region, the entrance of the Burlington and Northwestern railroads into the region, the hard times and grasshopper period beginning in 1873, the establishment of the state university and agricultural college February 15, 1869, and the first great wave of homesteading immigrants who settled most of the desirable land in the eastern half of the state and sent adventurous pioneers into the remotest parts.

This period is marked by the complete settlement of all parts of the state except a few million acres of sand hills; by a rising demand for railroad regulation and political conflicts with railroad companies; by the removal of the Sioux, Pawnee, Ponca and Otoe Indians from their old Nebraska homes to new locations in Oklahoma and South Dakota; by continuing conflicts between the grangers and the cattlemen for possession of the land in western Nebraska; by the beginning of the world-wide struggle between organized wage earners exemplified by strikes in the city of Omaha in 1882 and the great Burlington strike in 1888; and finally by the organization of the Farmers Alliance, its entrance into the political field, first victory in the election of 1890 and the social revolution which has followed.

In this period two dominant notes of Nebraska life sometimes blend in discord—the first one the great growth of industrial wealth; the application of new machines and methods to the production of that wealth; the second—the rising spirit of democracy with its demand for reconstruction of industrial institutions and government and the extension of direct political power to the people. Some of the events which illustrate these two contemporaneous movements in the state have been the drought and hard times from 1891 to 1897 with the extension of the state aid to the drought stricken regions; the development of alfalfa and winter wheat and sugar beets as Nebraska crops; the application of the sulky plow, the twine binder, the steam thresher, the tractor, the cream separator, the silo and motor engine as machines for the production of physical wealth from the farms; the development of irrigation and soil culture as new methods in farming; the creation of the South Omaha stock yards as a great public market and the large increase in home manufacturers for the conversion of raw into refined farms of wealth; the growth of co-operative unions among farmers, the organization of manufacturers' associations and the closer organization in all lines of business interests; the enactment of democratic laws, such as Australian ballot, the direct primary, the initiative and referendum, commission form of city government; public ownership of school textbooks and guaranty of bank deposits, the rapid rise in the price of land, the growth of tenant farming, the great increase in bank capital and deposits and the present conflict of rival theories and plans for distribution characterize the spirit of the present time.

On April 6, 1917, the Congress of the United States declared that a state of war existed between this country and Germany. The Nebraska legislature on February 3rd of that year, anticipating that war was near, had already pledged its unanimous support to President Wilson. Nebraska furnished 47,801 men for the war. She also furnished General John J. Pershing, whose home is in Lincoln, as commander-in-chief of all the American armies in Europe. For the various war causes, the purchase of United States bonds, the Red Cross and others, Nebraska furnished nearly $300,000,000. About one thousand Nebraska soldiers died in ships of service and her men fought in all the great battles in Europe and served in ships in every part of the world. The greatest contribution Nebraska made to the war was, perhaps the food supply. The surplus food which supplied the allies and the American soldiers was produced in which Nebraska was one. Nebraska furnished Base Hospital 49, consisting of 400 men and women stationed at Aljory, France. This hospital made the best record of any of the American hospitals in Europe and cared for many thousands of the badly wounded during the last campaign of the war.

Samuel R. McKelvie was elected governor of Nebraska in November, 1918, and re-elected in November, 1920. Among the principal events of his administration have been these: the adoption of a Civil Code commission consolidating about twenty separate branches of the state government under six heads appointed by the governor, a public highway system which has expended about $10,000,000 of state and federal aid funds in creating about ninety principle public highways over the state; an act which provides for the re-districting of all counties into new school districts; the appropriation of $5,000,000 for the erection of a new state capitol.

A constitutional convention met in December, 1919, and after a session of several months proposed forty-one amendments to the state constitution. All of these were adopted at a special election held September 21, 1920. The Nebraska state legislatures called in special session on July 31, 1919, unanimously ratified an amendment to the federal constitution permitting women to vote in all states of the union on equal terms with men. In addition to this Nebraska placed woman suffrage in her own state constitution by vote September 21, 1920.

Gen. Dawes Sees Joy

It is pleasant to read a Washington dispatch saying that the government will establish a great airport in Hawaii near Fort Kamehameha, named for the last king of Hawaii. The idea is to keep enough bombing planes there to take care of unwelcome flyers or surface ships arriving from Asia.

Arthur Brisbane

It will be more pleasant to read, as you may do later, that the government plans to establish a powerful air base on the island of Guam, which we are free to fortify, now that the Washington conference agreements have been repudiated and our silly pledge not to fortify Guam is wiped out.

Thanks to airplanes, the Greek rebellion is crushed. The old Greek patriot, Venizelos, leading the revolt at the age of seventy-two, fled from his home on the island of Crete across the Aegean sea to an Italian island for refuge.

Weeping, the old man vowed that he would never again set foot on Greek soil. A rebel cruiser took Venizelos to the protection of the Italian flag. Then, last of the fleet that had rebelled, the cruiser Averoff surrendered to the government.

Max Schmeling, German heavyweight prize fighter, beat Mr. Hammas with ease and says, "Now we get Baer." Baer, you know, is the world's heavyweight champion. The fact that he is a Jew, and not a blue-eyed Nordic, with the back of his head as straight up and down as a board fence, is said to annoy Mr. Hitler.

It will interest Hitler and others. A hard-hitting "Nordic" meets Max Baer, a tall young Jew, who laughs while he fights. The meeting will settle nothing. Racial supremacy does not depend on the fist. But in New York city it ought to draw a crowd, gigantic, and a "gate" of about one million dollars.

General Dawes, once Vice President, always busy, now visiting General Pershing at Tucson, Ariz., says: "America is on the verge of real economic recovery. Its natural force, and human nature, are definitely working for recovery, and in May of this year, positively not later than July, the nation will know the depression is over." Well, it is a pleasure to have somebody at least say so, even though they may have to say it over and over year after year.

The California assembly votes 58 to 17 in favor of the Townsend plan. The state senate, however, revolted and defeated the resolution calling on congress to enact the old age pension bill. It is not possible for the United States to pay twenty-four thousand million dollars every year, the total cost of giving $200 per month to every man past sixty.

H. G. Wells is in America to write about the New Deal. He will find some good applicable descriptive copy in his book, written long ago, "Doctor Moreau's Island."

Doctor Moreau performs some strange and horribly cruel operations in the effort to make animals speak and otherwise act like human beings.

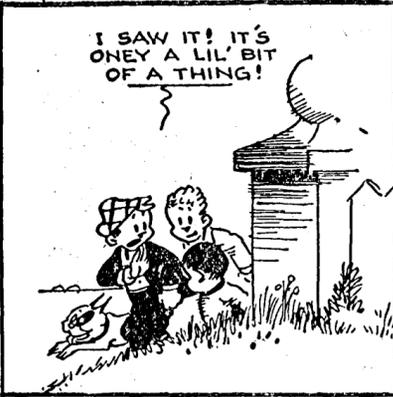

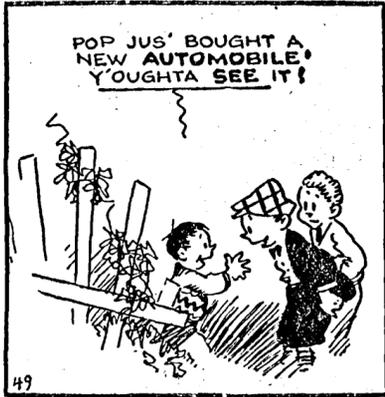

New Yorkers are told that all workers pay in taxes in various ways the earnings of one day every week. The man who has $5,000 a year pays $1,000 toward the support of government. Some men with bigger incomes, busy just now borrowing money with which to pay taxes, could tell a more interesting story.

When watches were first made a Frenchman said it was strange that man, with genius and intelligence enough to make a watch, should be superstitious enough to believe in ghosts. It's more strange that the human race with sufficient intellect and will to fly, travel underneath the ocean, and talk around the world, without wires, should be feeble and foolish enough to believe in permanent depression. The belief in ghosts is slowly disappearing. Let's hope and believe the depression will disappear more rapidly.

The national ladies' hairdressers' convention, gathered in Toronto, is informed that platinum blonds are on the wane and red-haired women, politely called "titian," are rising in favor. The platinum blond is a modern invention, a passing thing, whereas the woman with red hair antedates all the governments and civilization that we know, and may outlast them.

The Work Sheet

"The Roving Reporter"

The day being bright, I left home about ten for my roving job. Through town and on west past the city of the dead, stopping first at Elmer Kirk's. Elmer was gone. His wife talked a few minutes on the front porch. They had some nice R. I. Red hens scratching around a tiny coop, but were not bothered with any roosters awaking them in those soporific hours at the first faint flush of dawn. As far as I am concerned, the crisp morning, at rising time, is by all odds the most perfect time to snooze. Why couldn't the chanticleers burst forth in song at nine in place of five?

Elmer was telling in town the other day he heard someone say they wondered if G. G. G. was not a little off. "A little off," Elmer ejaculated. "No, he is not a little off. He is all off."

On west to Jim Vogeler's. Jim was also gone, he really leaving the country. He was in Iowa. Dessie, her nose red with a bad cold, stood on the back door step and we talked of the long long ago, "when you and I were young, Maggie." She and I were school kids together. A nice blue roan team and a few more horses were waiting for spring work to start, a calico cat was taking his morning bath and a bright yellow canary hopped lively in his cage in the window.

Back and a half mile north, and east again to Will Steffins'. He was also away, but I sauntered to the house and his wife and I also chatted a minute, while Dick investigated and put in motion a hand power washing machine. They have a flock of the deepest reddest Rhode Island Reds I have seen in any of my wanderings. Without much enthusiasm she admitted the chickens were nice enough if they had anything to eat. Steffins' has a pretty place when one finally gets there, hidden back out of sight by the side of Mira creek. She said few people ventured in, and she seemed even glad to see an agent like myself.

Back south past the school house where the school kids gave us a glad hand and pulling in at the yard of Harry Meyers and Ward Goodrich. Mrs. Goodrich and her vivacious daughters were doing the washing. The girls were singing while they rubbed, and if a person can sing while involved in doing out a family laundry, they surely must be blessed with a happy nature. While the boy climbed on top of the chicken coop and took cognizance of the kids' playhouse, Harry and I talked over the cattle and hog market.

On west to Lee Mulligan's. Lee was hauling straw somewhere. A couple of dandy tiny kids were playing on the step. The dog barked suspiciously at us, the little girl cried frantically and ran for safety. The smiling little boy with the tinest coat and vest I ever saw, was glad to see us and warned his mother of our approach. She also smiled when she saw us and said she just thought the other day that it was getting about their turn to take their medicine, meaning this write-up of course. The little girl recovered from her fright and the kids were all soon acquainted and playing with the dogs. Lena told me to bring the wife along next time, as we went to leave.

On west to Boyd (Deacon) Mulligan's. They have a relatively new place and everything looked spic and span around there. A nice front yard, but she said the blue grass had entirely killed out in the last year's drouth. Boyd is one of the best hog men in the country. Otto Hill used to say he was by all odds the best. Too bad the profit has been on the wrong side of the ledger the last few years. They have some tiny squealers already trying to make hogs of themselves before the price breaks next fall.

Back north and a little west to Will McDermott's. Bill was burning weeds, but he gladly stopped to visit a minute with me. He told me he took the Loyalist and Frank the Quiz and they traded papers, but the worst of that was they only managed to get them traded about once a year. He showed me some Hereford hogs he and Frank have. A new breed to me, but he thinks they are about the best hogs he ever had. They looked like mighty nice hogs to me too, if such a thing is possible—a nice looking hog. At any rate, they enjoyed a mud hole the same as any other kind of swine. Bill and I have long been good friends, but I couldn't tarry there forever at that. West a way and finding Frank McDermott and Paul Lee burning whistles by the road. We talked a few minutes there and then they climbed in the car and I took them home for dinner. Frank showed me his Hereford hogs, and said they are the best breed of hogs he ever raised. We stood by the car and talked over all the papers of the country, he thinking the Quiz the one indispensable sheet and also so that he could not understand how they can put out so much paper for the money. He said he read the whole thing, not excepting this bunk of mine. I hated to leave there too, but I cannot stay too long at one place.

West a little farther to Paul Matlock's. Paul came out of the house picking his teeth. He showed me some nice heifers, but nearly all of Paul's fine Shorthorns are temporarily removed to some other part of the state where feed is more abundant. Paul has a nice place there, with good barns, strong fences and the best of livestock when they are home. The house, although not new, appears to be in excellent repair, and everything indicated prosperity had dawned on those folks at some time or another. Dick and I ate our lunch, tossing the crumbs to some pet turkeys, while Paul talked over the times with me with as much avidity as if I really did amount to something.

Retracing my steps east and west I pulled up to Everett (Deacon) Hornickel's. More than one "deacon" in these parts. Their house sets at the end of the road as we go west from N. L. The new highway will turn south one-half mile there and then west again.

The front yard was engraced with tall conifers. Scaling a wren wire fence because I could spy no other mode of entrance I knocked at the door. The cop Mrs. Hornickel in her Dutch cap arrived on the scene. This is surely a day for the women folks. Diffidently she told me that Everett was gone trucking, and that they were members of the Quiz club, so I took my leave. As I hopped back over the fence and was boosting over the lad, I noticed Arnold and Oscar in their trucks sailing by.

"I will just drive over there while Arnold is home", I thought. "So hard to find him there." I was reminded of the poem, "Around the corner I have a friend In this great city that has no end; Yet days go by and weeks rush on, And before I know it the year is gone And I never see the old friend's face For life is a swift and terrible race," etc.

As I leave Everett's yard I notice a leaning barn I have read many times of the leaning tower of Pisa. Perhaps Everett is attempting a little competition on this score. I drive into Arnold Bredtrucker's yard closely behind the two trucks loaded with corn. I am at once invited in to dinner. The missus is slightly chagrined by the unexpected diners. I assured her we had eaten, but they insisted we sit up and eat a bite of fish, and partake of a drink of coffee. This we did although a second dinner so closely on the first was too much for my capacity, and the coffee was all I could manage. The young eight-months-old heir apparent sat up to the table also and smiled at Dick throughout the repast. After we left Dick asked, "Dad, why can't we have a nice baby like that?"

Arnold and his hired man, August Vodehnal, unloaded the corn in the elevator. Dick had to investigate the whole establishment from cellar to garret, climbing to the top of the thing a dozen or more times, and watching the cups go flying by. After that Arnold showed me a pair of silver trimmed colts he had recently bought, and they are so nice you don't see their like every day in the week. I glanced over his many yards of cattle. The place is a little city in itself. Arnold and August followed us to the car, and we visited there a few minutes longer. It is a darned outrage I stop at such good friends and while a few hours and then charge the boss up for it. I would have gladly done it without pay. I left Arnold asking me to bring the wife over next time.

I should have stopped at August Vodehnal's place but I had already seen him. I wasn't sure his wife wanted to see me anyway, we being entire strangers. I took no chances and sailed on. I turned in at Hillis Coleman's, making a figure eight, or nearly so around the garage, and then up to the back porch. No one was at home except a friendly white dog, and so I did not tarry long. They had a few sheep on yonder hill nipping rye, a pure white cow with an ivory colored nose, some buff chickens, and that is all I saw without snooping and I hate to do that, for folks might come home just at the wrong minute, and then no telling what would happen.

Retracing the figure eight or some figure, we hurried on and set our brakes at Henry Lee's. Mrs. Lee was very friendly, and invited me into the house so she could pay me a dollar on her subscription and get the receipt. If she saves this paper she will have a duplicate. Anyway she gave Dick a whirling toy to play with, and she and I also talked of many things. She told me of her daughters who teach and go to the University, but I have heard before that her kids are the kind not to be ashamed of. She wondered if going to the university paid. I hated to discourage her in that line of noble endeavor. She did not know that I was a victim of that school and I was very careful not to mention myself as an example of their output. I was in a quandary as to what to say. As we parted she asked about my sister in California and her welfare.

On north to Will Vogeler's. Sheep. Sheep. Sheep. Five hundred head of old ones, and a thousand babies more or less. Sometimes I think sheep are smarter than us mortals. I would like to see five hundred mothers, with a thousand babies a week old (rather large crop perhaps) and mix them all up like we do our livestock, and then see if the mothers and kids would all know which belonged to which.

That's letting my mind wander a little off the subject. I promise never to do it again. Will was gone, so I visited a few minutes with the hired men, and then a few minutes longer with Will's sister Alice, while she shivered on the back porch. She apologized because her porch had not been mopped that day, but compared with some I see (not mentioning any names) I thought her's was immaculate. In spite of her shivers, she was too polite to deliberately walk off and leave me as she might have done. Squinting off toward the barn I noticed some nice horses and colts meandering around.

I would have gone over to Dell Barber's, but Alice said he was not at home and there was another place I was not sure the wife wanted to see me. I would have had to crawl up and down three or four hills, and open a few more rates, so I again took Dick's advice, and decided to see him in church.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Spring may be here, but there are still plenty of cold days when the smell of a hot, nourishing meat dish will cause the family more delight than nearly any other, when they come trooping in from school or work, tired and hungry. Meat is going up in price, so economical housewives use it in many ways that stretch out the quantity, and so decrease the price per serving. Each family has a few favorite dishes of this type, some using potatoes and a crust, some with spaghetti, some with assorted vegetables in layers with the meat... all of them good. How do you fix it at your house?

Steak en Casserole. Cut one and one-half pounds of steak into pieces for serving, add salt, pepper and roll it in flour. Lay the pieces in an earthen baking dish. Sprinkle lightly with flour between the layers. Add two large onions, peeled and sliced, distributing it evenly over the layers. Cover with cold water and bake two hours, keeping the dish covered tightly. This is a delicious dish, the meat is tender, well flavored and the gravy of the right consistency to serve at once. Mrs. Lyle McBeth.

Baked Spaghetti. Boil one box of spaghetti until soft in salted water. Place in a casserole with two cups of ground meat, a small onion cut fine, one quart tomatoes, salt and pepper to taste, a lump of butter. Cover with cracker crumbs and bake one to two hours. Selma Robbins.

Chili Soup. Grind one and one-half pounds beef and pork, fry in one tablespoon fat until separated thoroughly, do not let brown. Add one quart water, one quart tomatoes, two large onions chopped fine, one tablespoon chili powder, two teaspoons salt, two tablespoons barley. Let simmer for one hour. Add one can of kidney beans and let cook fifteen minutes. If too thick add more water. Mrs. Ernest Johnson, R. 1, North Loup.

Layer Loaf Sandwich Cake. Remove crusts from a sandwich loaf, cut in five lengthwise slices. Make this filling for the first layer: chop sweet pickles with parsley, moisten with salad dressing. Second layer, chopped whites of hard boiled eggs, mixed with cream cheese and dressing; third layer, hard cooked egg yolk mixed to spread with soft butter; fourth layer, finely chopped boiled ham or tongue or smoked beef with dressing. Press layers together firmly, then with soft cream cheese spread or cream cheese softened with cream and tinted if you wish, frost the loaf. A pastry tube used to ice it will give a highly decorated effect. Make 12 hours before serving and set in ice box. Slice when ready to serve. LaRetta Pawloski, 123 S 53 St., Omaha.

Sandwich Filling. Run through the food chopper one-fourth pound dried beef, one-fourth pound cheese, one small onion. Put one-fourth pound butter in a frying pan, add two raw eggs and one cup tomatoes, the beef, cheese and onion and two chopped hard cooked eggs. Cook slowly ten minutes and use. Barbara Spotanski, Ashton.

Baked Asparagus. Put in layers in a casserole, using asparagus, sliced hard cooked eggs, cheese, buttered crumbs and white sauce until you have used one bunch asparagus, one cup soft bread crumbs, one-third cup of dried cheese, one-fourth cup grated cheese, two tablespoons butter, four hard cooked eggs, salt and pepper to taste. The dry crumbs are to be buttered and used on top. Bake one hour. Mrs. George Hubbard.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORHOOD

At the spring election April 2 voters of Greeley will vote on a bond issue of $10,000 to extend and repair the city water system. LeRoy Brennan, a Kansas horse-buyer who was well known in Ord, died last week at the Burlington hotel in Broken Bow. Heart trouble was the cause. Brennan was 50 years old. Norman Peterson, a Farwell boy, will try out with the Omaha Packers baseball team this spring. He is an infielder and a heavy hitter.

Jesse L. Pearl, treasurer of Garfield county, was married by Rev. Willard McCarthy of Ord last week to Miss Alta Belle Carlson, also of Burwell. Mrs. Pearl is FERA nurse for Garfield county. The Western Public Service company last week announced a reduction of light and power rates in several near-by towns, among them Arcadia, Loup City, Taylor, Anselmo, Merna and Berwyn.

A new newspaper made its appearance at Loup City last week, the new publication being known as the Loup City Leader. It formerly was the People's Standard, which was purchased a few months ago by R. W. Sexty, of St. Paul. The new Leader is a well printed and ably edited publication and is a credit to Editor Sexty and to the town of Loup City. Half of the town of Purdum, in the sand hills north of Brewster, was wiped out by fire last Thursday. The fire started in the basement of the Moody general store and soon destroyed four of the town's six business buildings. A fire truck was rushed from the Halsey national forest and two buildings, the hotel and a garage, were saved. Buildings destroyed included the Purdum State Bank, Moody machine shop and store and the postoffice building. All property destroyed was owned by Jack Moody.

All business houses in Greeley closed last Friday when funeral services were held for Paul R. Brennan, 22, who died two days before from double pneumonia. 10 Millions Spent on Puzzles. During the jigsaw puzzle boom 8,000,000 puzzles were being manufactured weekly. Nearly $10,000,000 was spent in these puzzles.

When Economy Is a Factor, Remember That Our Market Sells Better Meat For Less Money

All kinds of meat are higher now, we know, which means that economy in meat buying is more important than ever before. More than ever it will pay you to buy from a market you can trust; a market that has a reputation to uphold; a market with hundreds of day-after-day customers who wouldn't think of going elsewhere to make a single meat purchase. Our market is that kind of a market. If you want the best meat for less money, come here.

The 13 ladies of the circle will serve the meal in the Presbyterian church basement. Mrs. Olof Olsson is head of this group.

G. A. R. Gives Benefit.
Ladies of the Ord post of G. A. R. were hostesses at a benefit card party Monday evening at their lodge rooms. About 40 attended, and prizes were awarded for high score as follows: at bridge, Mrs. E. L. Vogelzanz; at pitch, Mrs. Anna Madsen; at pinocle, Kent Ferris; at rook, Lloyd Hunt. The ladies made only about $5 but they plan for another bigger and better card party in the near future, probably within two or three weeks.

House Party at Pullen's.
Miss Beulah Pullen will arrive Friday from Superior, where she teaches, bringing with her five other teachers who will be entertained in the Val Pullen home over the week-end. The teachers expect to return to their duties in Superior Monday morning.

Entertains at Mrs. McBeth's.

Friday Study club gave a most enjoyable achievement program and party Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Lyle McBeth. Mrs. E. O. Carlson sang and her two little daughters, Jean and Darlene, played a piano duet. Little Jackie McBeth and his cousin, Marilyn McBeth, sang a duet. Mrs. Harry McBeth was official accompanist. Three papers were read, one by Mrs. Wendell Hather on sewing, one by Dr. Zeta Nay on economy in food buying for the home, one on meat and meat cookery by Mrs. C. A. Anderson, after which the hostess served a dainty lunch. Each member had invited a guest to attend the party.

Madams Capron and Coe Hostesses
Entertained at seven o'clock dinner Wednesday evening in the J. H. Capron home were the following: Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hager, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Vandecar, Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Capron, Mr. and Mrs. Orville H. Sowl, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Milliken, Mrs. Josephine Milliken and Mrs. Kate Rogers, both of Fremont, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry McMullen, sr., of Burwell. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Capron and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coe were hosts for the occasion. A pleasant informal evening followed the dinner.

Madams Carl Sorenson and Forrest Johnson entertained four tables of bridge players Friday evening in the Johnson home, despite the dust storm. Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Kosmata received the prize, being the family with the highest total score.

Strictly for relatives and a two-table affair was the duplicate bridge play at the home of Judge E. P. Clements Wednesday evening of last week. Present were Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Clements, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. H. J. McBeth, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Anderson, playing with Judge Clements and his daughter, Miss Lena.

Women's club met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. C. C. Shepard at her home. The lesson on Mary, Queen of Scots was read by Mrs. John P. Misko, assisted by Madams Edward Kokes and Mark Tolen, and greatly enjoyed by the club ladies.

Tuxis class of the Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Gould Plagg is sponsor, met at the Plagg home Thursday evening for a party. The young people had a rare good time playing games and pulling taffy.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Andersen entertained all the Andersen family at dinner at their home Sunday evening. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Hans Andersen and daughter Ellen, Judge and Mrs. John Andersen and Barbara and Donnie, Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Andersen and Betty Lou and Richard.

Mrs. Orville Sowl entertained Monday morning at breakfast at seven o'clock. The very informal affair was for her husband, whose birthday it was. Those invited were Messrs. and Madams Glen Auble, Jay Auble, William Sack.

Miss Dorothy Boquet was hostess to Eight Belles Tuesday evening at her home, following dinner in the New Cafe. Bridge was the amusement of the evening, and results of the contract playing awarded first prize to Garnette Jackman and second prize to Ellen Andersen.

Serving were the following ladies: Madms Stanley Rutar, Frank Benda, Albert Volf, John Viner, Anton Radil, and Antonia Lukesh.

State President of P. E. O. Is Ord Visitor

Mrs. Ruth C. Kennedy, state president of P. E. O., lives on a farm between Brownville and Peru. She and her husband, G. Cassius Kennedy, have three children, Bond, a student in Auburn high school, and Betty and Clay, who attend a rural grade school. Mrs. Kennedy was raised on a farm near Beaver City, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Courtright.

After high school in Beaver City she attended Normal at Peru and then taught school in Nebraska and Montana several years. During the war she volunteered for service overseas and served as a canteen worker both before and after the Armistice, paying her own expenses and using the money given her by her local Red Cross chapter for relief work in France. She is a Methodist.

Such is the interesting background of the busy young woman who will come to Ord this week and who will come to Ord to preside at the state P. E. O. convention to be held here this spring.

Mrs. C. C. Dale entertained at luncheon Tuesday at her home the visiting P. E. O. officers, Madams Ruth Kennedy and Ada Mead, and the local president of that organization and the hostess of those ladies, Mrs. A. S. Koupal.

Members of the A. E. Chase family congregated in Loup City Sunday to honor the birthday of their father, Monday Mrs. H. D. Maxwell of Alliance and son Gary accompanied by Mrs. A. E. Chase, jr., and her son Paul, came to Ord to spend a few hours shopping and visiting relatives.

H. O. A. club met last Friday with Mrs. R. N. Rose at her home. Mrs. Chester Hackett presented a lesson on "Safety in the Home" as it was given the project leaders by the state project teacher from Lincoln. Mrs. Ed Mason assisted Mrs. Rose at the serving hour. This club has a membership of about twelve ladies.

Young people of the Presbyterian church are holding a convention in Central City Saturday of this week. Those to go to the meeting of the eastern presbytery from Ord are Arden Clark, Willard Cushing, Oleta Rose, Roland Rose, Mary Hitchman, Barbara Dale, Jerrine Burrows, Charlotte Blessing and Harold Haskell. Mrs. Gould Plagg and Mrs. Guy Burrows are driving their cars.

Philathea Sunday school class of the Presbyterian church held a party last Thursday evening in the church basement. Husbands were invited for the occasion, and a covered dish supper preceded the party. Mrs. Willard Cornell, a new bride, was given a miscellaneous shower. Mrs. Cornell is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Collier of Ord.

Bid-a-lot club was entertained at the August Petersen home Tuesday evening. First prize was won by Emil Fafetta. This was the last meeting of the round, and losers are announced to be Madams Forrest Johnson, Stanley McLain, Carl Sorenson, Mark Tolen, Messrs. Carl Sorenson and Emil Fafetta. They will give a party for the others soon.

Madams Joe Pecenka and Joe Puncocchar entertained sixteen ladies at a pinocle party Tuesday afternoon at the home of the former. Those present were Madams Frank Sershen, Will Bartlett, Joe Rohla, Frank Benda, Frank Blaha, E. L. Vogelzanz, Will Misko, James Wachrie, Lloyd Benjamin, Joe Knezacek, Joe Sedlacek, John Ulrich, Rudolph Kerchal, Will Kokes. First prize went to Mrs. Misko, second prize was awarded to Mrs. Kerchal. A dainty lunch was served at the close of the afternoon.

At the William Sack home last Wednesday afternoon about fifty ladies were present at a meeting of the Kensington division of the M. E. church. The program included a piano duet by Misses Virginia Sack and Virginia Davis, a solo by Mrs. Mark Tolen, a reading by Mrs. Jesse Kovanda, a piano solo by Gwendolyn Cass, after which the hostesses, Madams Sack, Jay Auble, F. P. O'Neal and A. W. Tunnicliff served refreshments.

Alta Carlsen And Jesse L. Pearl Wed

Burwell, Neb., Mar. 16—(Special)—A social event of more than usual interest to Garfield county people occurred Tuesday when Alta B. Carlsen became the bride of Jesse L. Pearl. The ceremony was performed at the Christian parsonage at Ord, the pastor, Willard McCarthy, officiating. They are now at home to their friends in the O. J. Miller property in southeast Burwell which the groom had prepared for his bride.

Alta Carlsen is a Nebraska product, having spent her entire life in Valley and Garfield counties. She is a graduate of the Burwell high school class of 1923 and a graduate nurse of the Nebraska University nursing school, from which she received her diploma last September. Upon graduation she immediately took up a position as county nurse in Garfield county.

J. L. Pearl is also a Nebraskan, a graduate of the Burwell schools, class of 1923. He also attended the Nebraska state university 1925 to 1929. In 1930 he was elected treasurer of Garfield county, and was re-elected for a second term last November, by one of the largest majorities ever given a candidate in the county.—Grand Island Independent.

The funeral rites were held at 2:00 p. m. Monday at the Methodist church in Ord, which was crowded to overflowing with a vast concourse of friends from Comstock, Sargent, Broken Bow, Loup City, Arcadia and many other communities.

Rev. Walter S. Morris, of Callaway, formerly a Methodist pastor at Comstock, conducted the obsequies with the assistance of Rev. Mearl C. Smith, pastor of the Ord church.

A quartet composed of Dr. F. L. Blessing, J. Edgar Mauer, Edwin Clements and E. H. Petty, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Kirby McGrew, sang appropriate hymns. Pall-bearers were E. G. Stone, R. H. Lewi, Ray Wait, M. F. Henderson, E. J. Crawford and W. E. Gibbons, all close friends of the deceased.

Interment was in the Bohemian National cemetery in Ord.

GREATLY LOVED COMSTOCK WOMAN PASSES IN ORD

many of her close associates and friends never realized the seriousness of her condition and even in her last illness her concern was not for the relief of her own physical suffering but for the welfare and comfort of her loved ones.

She leaves to mourn her departure a bereaved husband, Dr. T. Panowicz; one daughter, Mrs. Donald L. Myers of Comstock, and one son, Edward, 13, at home; four brothers and five sisters; Mrs. Henry Vodehnal, Mrs. Joseph Polak, Mrs. Ed Beranek, Mrs. Raymond Christensen, Ed Zikmund, Emil Zikmund, Will Zikmund and Henry Zikmund, all of Ord, and Mrs. Harry Christensen, of Neligh. Her parents, one brother, Adolph, and one sister, Mrs. Jennie Misko, of the family of twelve, preceded her in death.

Enjoy Life With Jimmie, Pudd'nhead And 'Reg'lar Fellers'

A critic once stated that "Zip," "Bloody" and "Blam" were the essence of American humor if the comic strips were taken as a criterion.

Perhaps that's the reason "Reg'lar Fellers" is so refreshingly different. Slapstick has not been made a poor substitute for real humor, and that may be why this comic strip is today one of the newspaper world's outstanding features.

In "Reg'lar Fellers," Gene Byrnes has created a beautifully drawn strip, true to life, with a chuckle in the action and a laugh in every "balloon." Popularity tests conducted by some of the nation's largest newspapers show that "Reg'lar Fellers" leads all other comics in popularity.

You'll enjoy the humorous antics of Aggie Riley, the snub-nosed, saucy reigning belle of the gang, and the sweetheart of Jimmie Dugan, a real boy, a tough man at bat with the bases full, and a lad with a heart of gold. He and his dog Bullseye are pals of Pudd'nhead, the terror of the dining room table, who is ready at the drop of a stick to lick his weight in strawberry shortcake.

Pudd'nhead's only trouble in life is the kid brother, Pinhead, who dreams of how many jelly beans he could buy if he had a million dollars, and whose castles in Spain are always made of ice cream, surrounded by a moat of chocolate soda water.

Another member of the gang is Bump Hudson, a diamond in the rough, whose worries are less than nothing, and whose embarrassment in the presence of ladies is only exceeded by his need for a haircut.

All these and others disport themselves every week in this paper. Begin this week to get the habit of reading "Reg'lar Fellers." It's sure cure for falling markets, ingrown disposition, or receding humor-line.

The House definitely disposed of Nebraska's part in the federal child labor amendment question when by a vote of 27 to 68 it defeated HR 123, a joint resolution for ratification.

The vote came after three days of debate and was the fourth defeat administered to advocates of the amendment in Nebraska in ten years. Ratification went farther toward enactment in 1925 the first time it was submitted, when it met with approval by the Senate, but met defeat in the House which previously had killed its own bill on the same subject. In 1927, ratificationists lost out in committee in the House, but the measure reached the House floor on a motion to raise the measure. No issue along that line was presented to the legislatures of 1931 or 1933.

Although a resolution of similar nature reposes in Senate committee, ultimate defeat is anticipated in view of the overwhelming vote against the House measure. Thirty-seven speeches were delivered on the subject before a vote was taken. When the vote was tallied, the curtain went down on the most petitioned bill, not excepting liquor measures, of the present session. Conservative estimates place the number at 50,000 of persons who expressed their views on the matter by either letter, telegram or petition. By far the larger majority of constituents making themselves heard opposed ratification.

HR 123 which started the rocky road to enactment early in the session, has been a virtual story teller. Open hearings were held and it brought Arthur F. Miller to the legislature as an opponent to the bill.

Heated words, lacking in virtually every other debate, came during discussion of the measure. On one occasion Rep. Marjorie G. Stark, Norfolk housewife and democrat, while making a plea for adoption of the measure, was interrupted by Tremore Cone. She whirled around and fired at Cone: "Shut up."

On another occasion, while debating the measure, Cone, opposing the measure, broke under the nervous strain of his lengthy plea for state's rights and a protest against a move leading to "a monarchy, a dictator or some institution" foreign to representative government.

One of the leaders for ratification was Rep. Marion Cushing, republican floor leader.

There were no party lines drawn as the vote is analyzed. Ten republicans joined 17 democrats in support of the measure.

A resolution carrying in part the words "It has full and complete confidence in Senator Kaspar," was adopted by the Senate when Kaspar returned to his seat to answer roll call for the first time following his arrest on criminal charges in connection with receiving stolen property. It was necessary to invoke a call of the house to get the necessary two-thirds vote to adopt the resolution. Twenty-four votes for and none against the resolution were recorded.

Governor Cochran's signature to the Senate's perimutuel betting bill made law of the first mandate upon this legislature to be passed upon by both branches. The Senate bill passed in the House 79 to 12, and as it carries the emergency clause, became law immediately upon being signed by the governor.

Radio broadcasting of debate on the House liquor bill was barred by vote of the membership, and as a result, one Lincoln radio station made an attempt to arouse the constituency to the point of writing or wiring their representatives regarding the matter. Two years ago when the beer bill was being considered, a microphone was installed in the House. Veteran legislators estimated that because wordage of representatives went out over the air, adoption of the measure was delayed as much as four or five days through the wrangling, much of it nonsensical, of certain House members. In the interests of the speed, a majority of House members voted to bar the radio, and sentiment from the other side of the rostrum, the Senate, indicated that similar action would be taken there.

In order to expedite consideration of the mass of bills on House general file, gag rule, the rules committee's proposal to limit debate to five minutes unless lifted by a majority vote, was voted 72 to 9.

Immediate payment of the remainder of the 1934 wheat and corn-bog benefit payments is urged in a resolution directed to President Roosevelt, AAA officials and the state's congressional delegation, presented by Rep. Bentzen, (R), Naper, and adopted unanimously by the House. The resolution urged the immediate release to needy farmers of government-owned seed and that they be allowed to repay seed loans in kind, bushel for bushel.

The enactment of a liquor control bill will create more than the usual tranquility so much sought in a legislative session was apparent when the issue settled down to no consideration of the several measures before it. Forty representatives expressed their views on control provisions when given the first opportunity, and at a time when merits of bill contents was not even under consideration. It was during discussion on a question of which of two bills—HR 448, the control bill drafted by Attorney General Wright or HR 128, a liquor control committee measure—should be given prior consideration—that the flood of oratory broke loose and, under the five minute gag rule adopted by the House a few days prior, permitted several members to air their views before a vote on the decision as to prior measure for special consideration was taken.

A record vote disclosed 50 to 38 members in favor of considering the committee measure—HR 128—before the Wright bill.

This action on the part of the House was considered by many to be a direct slap at the Wright bill, commonly termed the "administration measure." Others contend that HR 128 will be so much amended if and when it is passed by the House that about all remaining will be the title and enacting clause. So it was with this sort of diversified opinion that the 100 members began consideration of the mandatory measure.

There are two important changes over the Wright bill incorporated in the committee-drafted bill, those dealing with putting the state into the liquor wholesaling and distilling business and a second concerning option provisions.

The Wright measure avoided any reference to the state entering the liquor business; the committee bill vests authority in its liquor control commission to manufacture, blend or make liquor if it so desires, and declares that the state shall have the wholesaling business within the state. The Wright bill places a ban on local option vote for a period of two years; the committee measure cuts that length of time to one year.

Aside from several other minor changes with reference to regulation, the bills were similar in nature. Both bills encompass largely the contents of the old Slocumb law that prevailed in Nebraska prior to the advent of prohibition.

Rep. Wachtler, (D), Omaha, attempted to muddy the legislative liquor control waters a bit when he introduced a resolution to have his substitute bill, a direct reprint of the Slocumb law, placed on general file. He charged members of the House liquor committee gave him no opportunity to discuss the merits of his measure. Some little support to the young representative's side was mustered, but the resolution was defeated 39 to 32.

The most interesting highlight of the discussion of the liquor bill came when Rep. Rasdal, one of the members who voted to keep the radio out of the House chamber, seized a radio announcer by the coat collar, dragged him from the floor and was restrained by other members while the announcer pled for release. It was the first indication of violence manifest thus far this session.

The highly controversial bill insofar as members of the state railway commission are concerned, HR 131, providing refunding of excess inspection fees to farmers who had their corn cribs sealed for federal loans, has passed the Senate. It is amended so that the state railway commission shall draw $131,036 from the state treasurer on one voucher and pay it out in checks to farmers to refund to them all in excess of $3.80 fees collected under the farm warehousing act for corn stored on which federal loans were received.

It was over this bill that ensued a heated letter-writing controversy between the republican member of the commission, Drake, and the two democratic members, Bollen and Maupin, and resulted, indirectly, in adoption of a Senate resolution for an investigation of the commission with reference to alleged discord among members.

Advocates of a sales tax in Nebraska advanced another step in their march to victory when the House committee on constitutional amendments reported for general file a bill proposing a one percent limit on all Nebraska property taxes.

Proponents of the measure seek to submit the proposition to the voters as an amendment to the constitution in 1936. The amendment would permit cities and counties to increase taxes above this limit by a majority vote of the people.

It was the same committee that killed bills exempting homesteads valued at up to $5,000 from taxation.

Sterilization of feeble minded persons received favorable action at the hands of the house committee on state institutions when companion measures, HR 218 and HR 219 were reported to general file. One bill provides for creation of a state commission for control of feeble minded and the other provides for a sub-commission with power to order sterilization of any feeble minded person found, who is of an age capable of procreation.

Opposition developed to a tax of $1 for each motor vehicle in the state to finance a state police department of 200 or more men when Senate members considered SF 77, Callans' state police bill, and after hours of debate, it was referred back to committee to be amended, the $1 tax per vehicle being reduced to 50 cents. Another proposal was that the 435 state and national banks in Nebraska be taxed $10 a year each for protection.

Another investigation, this time into the activities of lobbyists for and against the ratification of the child labor amendment recently killed in House, was authorized by House in resolution by Rep. Bock, (D), David City.

Postponed again was the hearing on Sen. Bullard's S. F. 1, for compulsory broadcasting of state university football games. The last postponement came when the chairman of the committee had other matters to attend, at a time when Coach Dana X. Bible of Nebraska University sought a hearing. The measure, once reported to general file was returned to committee when various university athletic authorities said they had an opportunity to present their objections.

Slaughter by judiciary committee of six House bills, all pet of Cone, (D), Valley, in his fight to champion the cause of the debtor drew fire from the veteran legislator in form of a motion to override the committee's action. Bills thus slain include measures giving all judgment debtors a two-year moratorium; reducing interest rates, setting up new methods for appraising lands sold on execution and prohibiting sale of land under execution for less than two thirds of its appraised valuation.

With the House general file calendar jammed to overflow and standing committees still plugging away grinding out other measures as committee of the whole fodder, the old legislative bugaboo, Mr. Sifting Committee, has been mentioned as a possible unwelcome entrant upon the already hectic scene of activity in that branch.

There seems to be little opportunity to clear away many of the bills with the House deeply engrossed in the business of setting up machinery to handle liquor in the state. After liquor will come the unicameral setup and then there is the general appropriation bill to be considered.

As has been past history, usually when appropriations measures are out of the way, the solons begin to clamor for adjournment as thoughts turn homeward, and the masses, be they legislators or not, are hard to control under these circumstances.

The business of a sifting committee is to pick from the long waiting list, bills which are considered by the sifters to hold some importance. One objection to the process is the alleged favoritism shown at times by members of the all-important committee to bills of their own creation.

With hearings about completed, the House appropriation committee let it be known that after a final checkup, the all-important ways and means bill will be ready to report to general file. It was generally conceded that the appropriation measure as it comes from committee will not be far away from the recommendations of Governor Cochran. It may be ready to report out next week, according to Chairman Nickles of the House committee.

An appropriation of $1,000 to permit a four-year audit of the secretary of State's office was granted the House committee appointed to investigate records of that office.

Otto C. Webber, head of the special committee said that a brief examination has indicated irregularities in the past and present administrations in the office of secretary of state. Declaring they were not charging overt acts, members of the committee added they did not believe that records have been kept and business conducted as provided by law with a resultant loss to the state.

An audit and revision of manner of transacting the business of the office would result in $5,000 to $10,000 increased revenue to the state in collection of fees for registration of cattle brands, taxes on corporations and other similar matters handled by the office, in the opinion of Rep. Hayekost, of Hooper, and Rep. Steele of Kimball, other members of the committee.

HR 245, intended to eliminate in a few counties the $5 a day now received by county commissioners for acting as road commissioners, was passed by the House and is in a Senate committee.

The Senate passed SF 215, requiring county inheritance tax funds to be used for relief purposes during 1935 and 1936, which extends the provisions of an emergency measure enacted in 1933.

Senate claims and deficiencies committee has acted favorably on Scotts Bluff county's claim against the state for $56,000 as reimbursement for half the cost of building three bridges across the North Platte river ten years ago. The county now has a suit pending against the state for the money.

Rats multiply so rapidly when unchecked that it is estimated a single pair would have about 15,000,000 progeny in six years.

'Toot-Toot, Tootles!'

By CHET GRANT. © McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service.

THE hour was close to midnight when Georgie Blake turned the corner of the street where Mabel Porter lived.

Georgie walked as one in a trance, his ukulele tucked securely under his arm. Mabel's house was in darkness. Her bedroom window faced the street and was close to the fireplace chimney. It was Georgie's plan to stand in the shadow of the chimney and pour forth his heart. He knelt outside the hedge that bordered the lawn and was startled to see a figure looming in his chosen spot. Suddenly the still night air was broken by the melodious tones of an alto saxophone.

"Tootles Walsh!" Georgie growled. "Why—"

"Tootles could play a saxophone and he did a commendable piece of work on the 'Blue Danube.' Mabel's golden head appeared at the window sill and her arm gleamed momentarily in the moonlight. A flower dropped into Tootles' anxious hand.

Mabel and Tootles began to whisper. Georgie, in his eagerness to hear them, crept further along behind the hedge. His hand touched something that began to squish, an unidentified garden product lost from a grocer's wagon many days previous. Tootles moved carelessly into the moonlight, his face uplifted to catch Mabel's slightest word. A dark object sped swiftly across the face of the moon and descended with accuracy upon his head.

At this precise moment the awful figure of Mabel's father charged around the corner of the house. Tootles, letting out another yelp, scuttled around the opposite corner and could be heard clanking over the back fence. While Georgie, no less startled and upset by Mr. Porter's stark avenging figure, leaped out to the middle of the street and raced away.

Georgie expected that he had heard the last of the troubadour incident, but he soon learned otherwise. He found it was difficult to make a date with Mabel. Tootles Walsh was the lucky boy. No, Mabel didn't know when she could give Georgie a date. In fact, she was rather choice of her company. "People who threw over-ripe tomatoes at unsuspecting persons were not her kind, thank you."

"You're welcome," Georgie rejoined shortly. "What is your kind?" he demanded. "The intelligentsia," Mabel answered haughtily.

"That must be Tootles and his bunch," Georgie snapped. "I suppose they're smarter'n garage mechanics!"

"Well, they don't throw vegetables at people!"

One Sunday morning the pastor announced that on the coming Wednesday evening at eight o'clock sharp the Ladies' Aid would hold its annual ice cream social. Music would be furnished by Mr. Frederick Walsh, accompanied at the piano by Miss Mabel Porter. Georgie saw here and there the nodding heads and the knowing glances. Tootles and Mabel. They were a dear pair. Georgie felt ill.

"The Blue Danube," the pastor said, finishing his announcement. A hush settled over the audience. Tootles stepped to the front of the platform. He nodded confidently to Mabel and set his lips to the saxophone. He blew.

"Moo-o-o!" blurted the instrument nasally. Tootles looked surprised. He snapped the stops and nodded again. "Moo-hoo!" It sounded so funny people had to laugh. Georgie hugged himself when somebody yelled, "Give that calf more rope!" Tootles turned a brick red. He seemed to wilt under the merciless storm of laughter. Then he peered into the ball of the saxophone. He thrust in his hand and pulled out a long chain of frankfurters. He grinned sheepishly and mumbled something about the horn of plenty.

The audience thought it was an act, and after Mabel and Tootles finished their repertoire it crowded about the platform to congratulate them. Georgie was not there. Somehow luck was not with him in regard to Tootles Walsh. He hurried out to the church lawn and went directly to a spot in the hedge where he had hidden his ukulele. Tucking it under his arm he started up the lonely street.

The click-clickety-click of high heels on the cement walk behind him made Georgie turn. It was Mabel. She was coming to accuse him no doubt of putting those frankfurters in Tootles' horn. He started to burry, but she caught up with him. "Georgie,"

"Uh-huh?"

"You mad with me, Georgie?"

"No."

"I'm sorry that snob Tootles played so well."

"What!" Georgie stopped abruptly.

"I stuffed his old horn full of frankfurters," Mabel confessed. "He's stupid," she added furiously. "Intelligentsia! Fiddlesticks!"

"Amen," Georgie said solemnly. He began to pick dreamily on the ukulele strings. Mabel hummed the tune, a simple lilting tune that seemed to blend perfectly with the young summer's night that surrounded them.

DISTRICT JUDGING CONTEST IN ORD SAT'DAY, MAR. 23

12 Towns Will Send 6 Entrants Each to Voc. Ag. Livestock and Crops Judging Meet.

The contest in livestock judging, crops judging and identification held annually by District 5 of the Nebraska Vocational Agriculture Association will be held at Ord on Saturday, March 23. The entry limits are six contestants per school in each contest.

The livestock judging tour will take the contestants first to Coats and Sons' Jersey Home Dairy where they will judge two classes of Jersey milk cows. From there they will drive to Clara Clement's Hereford ranch where they will judge two beef breeding classes. Following, they will drive to George Clement's for one class of Poland China gilts and one class of breeding ewes. They will then go to the Harry Bresley farm where they will judge Percheron mares and then back to Ord for a class of fat barrows at the Peterson stockyards.

The oral livestock reasons will start in the afternoon at 1:30, on one class of each kind of breeding stock. Judges will designate reason classes. An outstanding talker from each school will be asked to give a demonstration set of reasons before the group.

The Ord entrants who will participate in the crops division are: Erwin Dodge, Leonard Klima, Harlan Wyrick, Robert Jacobs, Robert Stone and Edgar Barnes. The Livestock contest entrants will be: Wilbur Fuss, Kenneth Koelling, Gerald Goff, Reuben Cook, Milo Bresley, and Harold Mella.

Among the towns competing are Broken Bow, Calloway, Litchfield, Kearney, Gandy, Stapleton, Burwell, Sargent, Scotia, North Loup, Anselmo, and Ord. The judges for the day's contests will be F. F. O. members, county agents and teachers as designated. The first and second ribbon awards will be furnished by the Ord Chamber of Commerce at the close of the contest.

Hi-Y Girl Reserve Party. Sixty Hi-Y and Girl Reserve members were present at the St. Patrick's party which was held last Friday evening, March 15. Beulah McGinnis was in general charge of the program. Mr. Duncan sang a solo, "When Irish Eyes are Smiling." Dorothy Allen sang a selection entitled, "Mother McCree." Following this the group sang a number of selections, led by Dorothy Allen. After a number of other games had been played, a delightful lunch of ice cream and cookies was served.

From the Sidelines

After summing up the results of the Gothenburg tourney I find that Greathouse had quite a few more points to his credit than did Wolcott of the Kearney quint—Wolcott was first choice for center position in the Mid-State loop.

The tennis players all want to play tennis—BUT, just one peep at the tennis court and they all give a groan of agony. Think of the hours that'll have to be spent raking and rolling that court! Aw well, you tennis players, brace up! Reports come drifting in to the writer that Charlie Jones certainly is springing up the dirt in the first spring football practices.

It looked for a while like that Falls City gang was going to take Prep but zowie!—Creighton went through them just like that! The way some of the boys are talking I'm just a little afraid that some of those Loup Valley track records are going to be broken. Wouldn't it be nice to take the Loup Valley track meet at Burwell? The track trophy would look mighty fine alongside the two basketball trophies.

Our friend Severson may receive a present from St. Paul for those nice remarks "Sevie" gave him. I wouldn't doubt but what the present would be—a box of dynamite, rotten eggs, or what have you?

The spring footballers must have quite a quartet or sump'n' because terrible sounds certainly issue from those shower doors about 5:30 every night.

Contest Play Given At Hi Convocation

At a convocation presented Tuesday, the contest play, "Circumstances Alter Cases" was given before the assembly. The cast of characters was:

Eve Hamilton, a young widow—Pauline Barta. Stephen Everett, her fiancée—Darrall Noll. Don Hamilton, Eve's college son—LaVerne Hansen. Betty Everett, Stephen's daughter—Edna Loft. Maggie, Eve's maid—Ruth Koupal. Oleta Rose presented her oration, "Simple Fools" and Alma Masin gave her oration, "Is Punishment for Crime Futile?"

Ord Students Win Right To Compete In Declam Contest

The local declamatory contest was held last Tuesday evening, March 12, and from the group participating two students were selected from each division to continue work on their reading, thus better preparing themselves to compete in the sub-district declamatory contest to be held in Ord, Tuesday, March 26. High schools from the following counties are eligible to enter: Greeley, Garfield, Loup, Valley, and Wheeler. Winners in this sub-district are entitled to enter the district contest the first week in April.

The divisions which will be participated in are: Extemporaneous, original orations, prepared orations, humorous, dramatic, and one-act plays. From the try-outs at the local declamatory contest, the following will compete in the different divisions: Orations, "Simple Fools"—Oleta Rose; "Is Punishment for Crime Futile"—Alma Masin. Dramatic: "The Swamp Spirit"—Evelyn Loft; "The Unseen Witness"—Edna Loft. Humorous: "Little Shaver"—Eleanor Verstraete, "Going to the Movies"—Evelyn Kokes. The following students tried-out in dramatic: Myrtle Cornell, Mildred Smith, Edna and Evelyn Loft; humorous, Dorothy Fish, Mae Jones, Louise Petka, Eleanor Verstraete, and Evelyn Kokes.

The one-act comedy "Circumstances Alter Cases" will be presented by the following cast: Eve, a young attractive widow, Pauline Barta; Con, her son who attends college, La Verne Hansen; Stephen Everett, Eve's fiancée, Darrall Noll; Betty Everett, Stephen's daughter, Edna Loft; Maggie, Eve's maid, Ruth Koupal.

The admission to the annual sub-district three declamatory contest will be: morning and afternoon 10c and 20c; evening 15c and 25c; and all day tickets 25c and 45c. Miss H. Alice Howell, head of the department of speech and dramatic art, of the University of Nebraska will be the judge of the declamatory events.

DO YOU KNOW?

The Valley County spelling contest will be held at Ord, March 29. Students from any country school may enter as well as students from the Ord Junior High.

The six members who will represent Ord in the Advanced typing division of the commercial contest which is to be held at Kearney on March 29 are: First team, Mildred Smith, Darlene Anderson and Dorothy Fish. Second team, Byrnee Leach, Louise Gross, and Maxine Haskell.

The agriculture class had a debate in class Thursday morning. The topic of debate was: Resolved: The Horse is more useful than the Tractor.

The vocational classes are beginning a unit on Home Making. The Sociology class has been giving interesting reports on current education. They are working on the unit of Rural Schools.

The Spanish class is divided into groups. Each group is working on a short play.

The first week in April the Senior Normal Trainers will practice teaching.

The biology classes are studying Mushrooms and Molds.

The Related Science classes have started their projects on telling how much cotton is in woolen goods and how much rayon is in silk.

The seniors are making arrangements for ordering their caps and gowns.

Coach Brockman attended the Class A Tournament at Lincoln Thursday and Friday of last week. For the period ending March first, only three high school students; Kendall Wiegard, Florence Vergin and Wauneta Cummins have had perfect attendance. In the junior high, Alberta Flynn, Mildred Moudry, Jean Dahlin, Viola Puncocchar, Eugene Puncocchar, and Emil Krikac have had perfect attendance.

Cockle Concert Co. Gave Fine Program

Last Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 the Cockle Concert Company gave a program in the high school auditorium. This was another of the programs made possible through the Mid-West Assemblies Production Company and the program was entirely musical, featuring charming melodies, artists ensemble, popular classics, and fascinating harmonies. The program was presented free to high school students and any adults who wished to attend.

Miss Slote was telling her class little stories in natural history and she asked if anyone could tell her what a ground hog was. Up went Emil Krikac's hand, waving frantically. "Well Emil, you may tell us what a ground hog is."

Traffic Cop: "Don't you know you can't turn around in the middle of the block?" Virginia Weekes: "Oh, officer, I've done it before. Just watch me."

EDITORIALS

As spring approaches, it is perfectly natural for the student with an abundance of energy to become restless in the schoolroom. How could anyone with an average supply of enthusiasm and energy be content to sit indoors and study on such grand days as we have been having recently?

However, we must remember that there is a time for play and that time is not during the school period. Work while you work and you'll have more fun when you do play.

What is wit? Webster defines it as the power to perceive the incongruous and to phrase it in an unexpected and amusing way. According to him, true wit is an art to be acquired. The popular type of wit found around this school is the kind employed by a number of high school boys whose names we will not mention. To them wit is the ability to make people laugh at every crack they make, no matter how dry. Is this true wit or does it take training to develop a gift for smart repartee on any subject?

We certainly think that students of the Grand Island and Barr Junior High Schools should be highly complimented on the excellent mimeographed papers which they publish. The art work, typing and mimeographing are excellent and far surpass the papers edited by a large number of high schools.

Have you ever learned to be alone? If you haven't you ought to begin right now. You won't find any courses on it in the school and it is unlikely that anyone will be able to give you much help toward mastering the subject, yet the capacity to be happy alone is one of the most valuable assets which can be acquired. Of course, it is fun to spend time with your friends, but each student should acquire the trait of being happy when alone as well.

A PENNY FOR YOUR THOUGHTS—

The question asked of the students this week was, "What do you intend to do during spring vacation?"

Get rid of my cold and take a nap.—Eleanor Verstraete.

Sleep.—Joy Auble.

Go swimming if its nice weather.—Maxine Haskell.

Raise cane if Mother will let me.—Dorothy Ann Zikmund.

I want to take a trip.—Virginia Weekes.

Can't never tell what I will do.—Paul Carlson.

Thursday I'm going to sing and the rest of the time I'm going to raise whoopee.—Dorothy Allen.

Doctor my cold and then go on a hike.—Virginia DeHart.

Seem's as how its spring I'll sleep and when I'm not sleeping I'll eat.—Richard Rowbal.

I'll go fishing.—Adam Dubas.

I don't know.—John Burrows.

Clean house after the dust storm.—Florence Furtak.

Go on hikes.—Evelyn Loft.

Sew.—Alma Jorgensen.

I'm going to sleep and sleep and sleep and then I'm going to take a nap.—Don Tunncliff.

Celebrate in the hospital.—Jeanette Hughes.

Take life easy.—Marie Gross.

Nothing.—Dean Barta.

The old-fashioned girl who used to be on the "square" has been superseded by the girl who is on the "blaz"—you know—"Buy us this"—"Buy us that."

We always knew Charles Mella was inclined to be sleepy. He went into a restaurant and gave an order and while waiting, fell asleep. He awakened to hear the waitress asking: "Did you order this sundae?" "Good heavens!" exclaimed Charles. "What day is this?"

Customer: "Have you any camel's hair brushes?"

Eleanor Keep: "Of course not. Nobody keeps a camel around this town."

Horace: "Good heavens, I smell something burning."

Eleanor: "Yes, its the ple, but according to the cook book I can't take it out for fifteen minutes yet."

Joy: "I have skin trouble."

Dale: "What are you taking for it?"

Joy: "Well, how much will you give me?"

Frank P.—"You know, last year the doctor told me if I didn't stop smoking I'd be feeble-minded."

Jackie—"Well, why didn't you stop?"

Paul A: "They say bread contains alcohol."

Paul C: "Is that so? Well, let's drink a little toast."

Wise is he who kicks only the things that can't kick back.

Things you can't explain are generally none of your business, anyway.

Virginia F: "My names Virginia, you know. Why do you call me Olive?"

Kenneth E: "Because I'm learning to like you."

Summed up, the milk problem is:

To The Farmer: Too much milk, too low prices, too small income.

To The Consumer: Not enough milk, too high prices, too small income.

Wise and Otherwise

Dale Mella: "Why did you fall down? He didn't hit you?"

Harold Mella: "No, but I read his thoughts."

Forty Candidates Out for Football

The sports schedule for Ord high this spring will be one of the most complete schedules ever held in Ord. The various sports included in this spring list includes spring football, track, kittenball, tennis and possibly a small amount of baseball.

Spring football will be the first event on the athletic program, followed closely by the track season. Approximately forty candidates turned out for the first spring football practice. The spring football practice is to act as a "primer" for the track season. Coach Brockman explains, besides acting as an agent for teaching football fundamentals.

Kittenball interest will run high this year in the school because of a system developed whereby everyone will get a chance to "do his stuff". The boys coming out for kittenball will be divided into various teams, these teams playing in an intra-mural league. The best of these teams will play outside competition.

The track team this year will be composed of new material, only one letterman, Greathouse, returning. Some of the prospective boys for this squad are Clark, Marks, Koelling, B. Tunncliff, Greathouse, and Blessing.

Kiddies' Column

Two of the second graders, Phyllis and Jean Anderson are moving. Mrs. Sedlacek, Mrs. Ollis, and Mrs. Miller visited the first grade this week.

The children of the first and second grades, under the direction of Miss Wallin and Miss Hallen, visited the Ord Cooperative Creamery Tuesday morning. They were very much interested in seeing how butter is made. The employees of the creamery very kindly demonstrated the wrapping, packing, and cooling of the butter. Before leaving, each child was weighed. In the afternoon the children churned butter at school. Mr. Piskorski donated the cream.

Mrs. Blemond and Mrs. Kominek visited school last week. Joan Blemond brought the pupils of the first and second grades some pretty tulips for their room. She also brought some wooden shoes, dishes, and came from Holland.

Mrs. Covert visited the third and fourth grades last week.

Virginia Thompson treated the third graders to candy bars on her birthday.

The third grade has a new health chart in their room. Each child has his name printed on a tulip. If the child does not come up to the health standards in the morning inspection his tulip is turned down for the day.

Mildred Capek entered Miss Rowbal's room from District 52.

Mrs. Lakin visited in the fourth grade Thursday afternoon.

There are seven new pupils in the nursery school: Betty Clements, Bobby Furtak, Eddie Furtak, Beverly Burrows, Betty and Bobby Keese, Norma June Manchester, and Kenneth Adams. There is now an enrollment of 39 pupils.

President's Proposal to Eliminate Utility Holding Companies Brings Storm of Criticism—Treasury Seeks to Simplify Nation's Currency Structure.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union

THE President's special message calling for abolition of utility holding companies stirred up a storm that probably surprised even such an astute politician as Mr. Roosevelt. The President urged legislation to abolish those holding companies which were unable to show they were operated in the public interest. Representative Bertrand H. Snell, Republican leader, immediately attacked the message, claiming the President had denounced propaganda against the proposed legislation, and was himself propagandizing for it. Utility companies also swung into the battle, and thousands of investors in utility stocks are reported to have sent in protests to congress.

Senator Norris, Nebraska Republican, offered a resolution calling upon the federal trade commission to investigate propaganda regarding the legislation. The senate approved without debate. Charges were made by utility companies that because of the administration's campaign against public utilities "the value of utility securities has declined by three and one-half billion dollars since 1933." Enactment of legislation to halt holding companies will cause enormous loss to the American family, one power official testified before the house interstate commerce committee.

GREECE is mopping up the loose ends of the revolt. Some fighting is reported near the Bulgarian border where one regiment, part of the rebellious Fourth army corps, has declined to surrender, but the revolution is definitely over. Eleutherios Venizelos, ex-premier, and leader of the futile revolt, was reported a refugee at Rhodes, the tiny island where Julius Caesar was interned by pirates some 2,500 years ago. Venizelos was transferred there by the Italian government after he had been landed in Italy by one of the rebel warships. Gen. George Karmenos, rebel commander, is safe in Bulgaria, where officials have refused extradition. Rebel prisoners are being concentrated in camps, and courts martial are functioning in Saloniki, Kavala and Larissa, and military trials have begun in Athens. It is believed that only a few of the most flagrant rebels will suffer the death penalty. Venizelos is almost certain to be court-martialed in absentia, and banished forever. His valuable library have already been confiscated and will likely be converted to public use. Italy has refused to extradite him, although it is possible that new demands will be made by the Greek government, who will claim that he took funds from a bank in Crete. Unless he is surrendered, he will probably move to Paris where his two sons now reside.

THE senate smacked down Senator Huey Long for his filibustering tactics and his efforts to amend the administration's $4,880,000,000 work relief measure. The Kingfish had demanded alterations in the work relief bill which would take $100,000,000 away from the $600,000,000 earmarked for CCC work and allot it to students in colleges and universities. Long's amendment was defeated by a vote of 53 to 27. To prove that old adage of "politics makes strange bedfellows," Long was aided by Senator Hiram Johnson of California, who declared that the senate should have something to say about methods for spending the huge sum sought by the President. Johnson has heretofore been considered a supporter of the President. Long's amendment brought forth other proposed changes which should keep the senators busy arguing for several days. The bonus bill may be dragged in and an attempt made to make it a rider to the relief measure, and inflationists and leaders of their "ists" will insist on having their say.

ALL outstanding first Liberty loan bonds have been called for redemption by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. The $2,000,000,000 outstanding has been called for June 15, before which time the treasury will likely offer lower interest-bearing securities in exchange for the first Liberties, saving the government some $14,000,000 in annual interest charges.

NEW Deal policies took two more batterings as Federal courts held both the AAA and NRA unconstitutional as regards intrastate business. The administration might find some consolation in another ruling which held the radical Frazier-

Lenke farm mortgage bill was valid. Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis, at Kansas City, declared the Frazier-Lenke law was constitutional, "although unwise in many of its provisions and almost incomprehensible matter." Judge Otis said his ruling was not the first in which the act was upheld, and that an appeal was already before the United States Supreme court and a decision might be expected shortly. The AAA was declared invalid as regards intrastate business by Federal Judge Ira Lloyd Letts at Providence, R. I., who issued an injunction restraining Secretary of Agriculture Wallace from enforcing the act against three Rhode Island retail milk dealers, on the grounds that their business was conducted entirely within the state, and the national government had no right to interfere. At Newark, N. J., Federal Judge Guy L. Fike ruled the national recovery act unconstitutional as applied to intrastate commerce "because it attempts an unlawful delegation of legislative authority." The latter decision agrees with that handed down by Federal Judge Nields in the controversial Weirton steel dispute.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MORGENTHAU revealed plans to dip into profits from gold seizure to retire $674,625,630 of the national debt through the use of gold certificates. Potentially inflationary, it will deprive national banks of the power to issue currency, and save the government an annual interest charge of $13,500,000. Questions on inflationary implications were avoided by the treasury officials, but they admitted the plan would "put gold back to work which can be expanded."

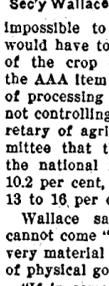

The maneuver will place in the hands of the federal reserve banks $674,625,630 of gold certificates, which must be used as backing for issue of the same sum in federal reserve notes to retire the bonds. Note issue against the bonds could be expanded if currency demands warranted, to about $1,637,500,000, since a federal reserve note need not be backed by more than 40 per cent of gold or gold certificates in like percentage. What will happen will be the immediate simplification of our currency system. The treasury and federal reserve banks will have all the authority to issue money. The plan involves retirement on August 1 of $674,625,630 of 2 per cent federal securities and substitution of federal reserve notes for $637,937,080 of outstanding national bank currency. These bonds will be retired with surplus funds created by devaluing the Roosevelt dollar from 100 cents to 59.03 cents, gold. The total profit was $2,812,000,000.

National bank notes issued by national banks against federal securities represent more than one-tenth of the nation's circulating currency. The administration's program likely means the permanent abandonment of the national bank note which has been used since the Civil war. The circulation privileges expire on all bonds deposited by banks and held in trust by the treasury on July 22, 1935, except on two issues. By calling for redemption, the treasury will retire all securities bearing "circulation privileges" and national banks will no longer have suitable security for issuance of their own notes.

COMPLETE collapse of the administration's long battle to regulate prices in the steel industry is seen in an NRA offer to give up, and in charges by the federal trade commission of a fiasco of collusion. The trade commission insists that price-fixing be scrapped, and no prosecution of steel companies under the anti-trust laws. The trade commission charges that under the code the steel companies have fixed and raised prices on government contract, in defiance of competitive bidding requirements. Bids were identical, and then steel executives slapped fines of $10 a ton on members who let the government have steel cheaper, the commission says.

DR. ANTON RINTELEN, former Austrian minister to Italy, has been sentenced to life imprisonment in connection with the Nazi putsch of last summer. Rintelen was the man who was announced over the radio as the "new chancellor" at almost the same moment Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss was assassinated. The defendant denied the charges of high treason, but admitted he was in sympathy with a policy of reconciliation with Germany.

THE house appropriations committee favorably reported out the Department of Agriculture appropriations bill for the 1935 fiscal year. A cut of $513,878,768 was due largely to a $111,022,428 slash in the AAA item. The total bill calls for $653,278,768, of which $570,000,000 would go to the Agriculture Adjustment Administration activities. At committee hearings it was explained that it is impossible to estimate how much would have to be obligated because of the crop control program, but the AAA item was a rough estimate of processing tax collections and is not controlling. Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, told the committee that the farmers' share of the national income is now about 10.2 per cent, and that it should be 13 to 16 per cent.

Wallace said "true prosperity" cannot come "until there has been a very material increase in the output of physical goods, industrial goods." "If in some way it were possible to turn out 50 per cent more industrial goods at a price definitely lower than the present price," the secretary testified, "the result would be to make it possible for agriculture to buy more with the agricultural dollar and there would be more factory workers to be fed in the cities."

EVEN though the senate will not act immediately on the "pink slip" bill to repeal income tax publicity, income tax figures will not be available to the public for six months, according to internal revenue officials. While it is likely the act will be repealed, the house having so voted, it is not anticipated that the senate will act on the measure for some time. Even though the latter might not act favorably, there remains considerable work to be done before the figures can be made public, and income tax payers may be confident that prying neighbors cannot have immediate access to such information. In the senate a drive has been started for higher federal income and corporation taxes. Senator LaFollette offered an amendment proposing a new scale of income taxes to yield $200,000,000.

FRENCH courts have formally indicted 19 persons, including Mrs. Stavisky, for the Stavisky scandal that rocked the government after the financial debacle, which caused losses of millions of francs to investors, had broken. Stavisky, known as "Handsome Alex," died from a gunshot wound as police tried to arrest him in January, 1934.

CHANCELLOR ADOLPH HITLER'S "diplomatic" cold is over, and he will welcome Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, to a conference beginning March 24. Accompanying Sir John will be Capt. Anthony Eden, lord privy seal, and disarmament authority. After the Berlin visit Eden will go to Moscow to talk with Soviet leaders. The Berlin conferences will discuss legalization of Germany's rearmament in exchange for an air loan pact with Great Britain, France, Italy, and Belgium, and an eastern security pact with Poland and Russia. Limitation of armament by all nations will also be taken up. The visit is complicated by a recent announcement that Germany possesses military aviation in violation of the Versailles treaty. Because of this, France may invoke the Rome accord with Italy and Franco-British declaration at London in support of its move to keep the Reich from giving the air force official sanction.

AFTER twenty months of bargaining, the documents conveying full title to the Chinese Eastern railway to Manchukuo were initiated in Tokyo, thus eliminating Russia as a factor in Manchukuo. The written approval of the agreements was signed by Koki Hirota, Japanese foreign minister; Dr. Constantine Yourenoff, Soviet ambassador to Japan; and by Gen. Ting Shih-Yuan, Manchukuoan minister of finance. The consideration was 140,000,000 yen, or about $39,900,000. The documents require that all three governments approve them before their formal signing about March 23. This is ended forty years of Russo-Japanese contention.

SAMUEL INSULL, former utilities czar, was acquitted in a Chicago criminal court of charge of embezzling $68,000 from the treasury of one of his former companies to use in supporting a brokerage account by his brother, Martin Insull was "delighted," since it probably is the end of the Insull prosecutions, although another charge of embezzling $104,000 is pending. Further, Insull faces a charge of violating the federal bankruptcy laws, but it is believed that the verdict in the criminal courts case will discourage efforts to try him.

THREE Illinois farmers refused to tell the government census takers how much their farms were worth and how heavily they were mortgaged, claiming such information was none of the government's business. The trio were arrested and held for a grand jury, charged with violating the census act.

National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart
National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Washington.—Most observers and thinking citizens have been inclined to take little stock in the talks of Senator Long and Father Coughlin, the radio priest, concerning plans for redistribution of wealth. The consensus has been that their plans sooner or later would fall of their own weight. But it can be denied no longer that Long and Coughlin have developed a gigantic following of people who lack information as to the fallacies of the arguments, however logical they sound, that have been spread by these politically smart showmen.

One reason that serious attention to their proposals is now necessary is that some of their arguments are being advanced from high places in the federal government. I refer specifically to the testimony before the house committee on banking and currency by Marriner S. Eccles, governor of the Federal Reserve board and as such the titular head of the nation's banking system. Mr. Eccles did not quite take a leaf out of Huey Long's book. He approached the position of the Louisiana senator, however, when he proposed a redistribution of income, whereas Senator Long has urged a redistribution of wealth.

Mr. Eccles suggested in his testimony in effect that it would be all right for a man with say ten million dollars in capital to keep that sum, provided his income was redistributed. Mr. Eccles went back to the days immediately following the World War to illustrate his argument and showed that at the top of the post-war boom "one tenth of one per cent of the families at the top of the income received as much as 42 per cent of the families at the bottom of the list." Furthermore, he said that the single average family in the big income class got as much as four hundred families at the bottom of the income list.

"This one-tenth of 1 per cent was unable to use all the income in consumption," he continued. "They therefore had to find an outlet in the investment field. As a result, the capacity to produce increased out of all proportion to the capacity to consume." So Mr. Eccles took the position that a solution of the depression was a redistribution of this income with the idea that it would increase purchasing power in the lower brackets. The governor offered no explanation of how those in the lower income class were going to obtain possession of the redistributed income of the rich because his argument stopped at the point where the government would take money by taxation.

That is the recognized weakness of the programs advanced by Senator Long and Father Coughlin, and governor Eccles showed no ability to solve the problem.

On top of the outbursts by Long and Coughlin and the serious testimony by Governor Eccles comes Senator Nye, the North Dakota Progressive, with a bill in the senate to create a central bank. Senator Nye's action has caused many humorous expressions. Here we have a senator who has fostered, even boasted about, progressive ideas and has called himself a liberal. It is necessary only to recall that the father of the central bank idea was the ultra-conservative Alexander Hamilton, the first secretary of the treasury.

Senator Nye advances a bill with the thought that the central bank would avoid hamstringing of credit. I think financial experts all agree that this is true. The thing which Senator Nye overlooked, however, is that Mr. Hamilton's central bank collapsed and brought ruin and grief to thousands. The reason it collapsed was because in removing control of the banking facilities from experienced bankers, the whole thing had been turned over to the control of politicians who, generally speaking, are experienced only in politics. It seems paradoxical that the North Dakota senator should advance as a liberal scheme the creation of a central bank which was the height of conservatism.

The Nye legislation was offered in the same week that Governor Eccles had proposed in his testimony on the banking bill in the house that the Federal Reserve board should have complete control of the credit expansion and contraction in this country. I believe most persons will have difficulty in considering the two schemes as separate and distinct.

It is to be noted that there are at least ninety-nine radical members of the house of representatives who are convinced that the federal reserve system has failed of its purposes. Most of them have been repeating without rhyme or reason the accusation that bankers are "refusing" to make loans. They think, therefore, that if there is a central bank or if credit control is placed in the reserve board and taken away from the federal reserve banks where it now reposes there will be additional loans forced out of the commercial banks. History indicates, however, that this is fallacious. No business is going to borrow money when it doesn't need it and neither is any person in his right mind going to make a loan unless he has at least reasonable assurances of repayment.

It will be recalled that President Roosevelt at one time spoke disparagingly of the "refusal" of the bankers to make loans. The President subsequently learned that attempts to pump money out of banks must fail for lack of borrowers. I think everyone acquainted with conditions must agree that the Eccles idea and the Nye legislation means absolutely nothing in the way of recovery aids, for it has always been true, you can lead a horse to water but you cannot make him drink.

The fallacies being put forward by Senator Long and Father Coughlin, and now being nibbled at by Governor Eccles and Senator Nye obviously have been accepted by thousands of people. Senator Long claims that at least six million persons are supporting his scheme. It would seem to be the time, therefore, for citizens to begin to analyze the trend of events, if they are influenced by such leadership.

In connection with this trend, it is interesting to observe how much trouble Senator Long and Father Coughlin already have caused for the administration. It must be said frankly, Mr. Roosevelt and his advisers thus far have not found a way to deal with it. They have tried fighting back and each time they have succeeded only in furnishing fresh ammunition for the Long-Coughlin team. Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader in the senate, made one of his greatest speeches of criticism of Senator Long's schemes, but the result was only a fresh outburst by the Louisiana senator who took Robinson's own words and converted them to his use.

I reported to you previously that the administration had prepared at one time to take action against Senator Long on income tax questions. But apparently the powers that be have decided that such a course, instead of putting Long back in his place, would make a martyr of him. Among the observers here the belief prevails that the only way Long's attacks can be stopped and his tactics broken up is by ridicule.

The administration has told congress that it wants to keep the NRA. Through Donald R. Richberg, sometimes called the assistant president, the administration's position was laid before the senate committee on finance the other day with the suggestion that the proposed new NRA should be confined to matters of interstate commerce. That is, the administration proposes that in extending the NRA for two years from the coming June 6 expiration date, it would apply only to industry endeavor in lines of commerce and endeavor that carries across some state lines. By the same token, the proposal would eliminate the codes of fair practices from application to the so-called service industry and could not, therefore, apply even to hours and wages in those local plants now under codes.

Mr. Richberg's statement immediately provoked discussion which certainly can be expected to increase in volume because it is in the nature of protests from those who claim to speak for labor. Sidney Hillman, of the NRA high command, immediately protested as did William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. Each of these individuals contended that the NRA would be a worse failure than it is now if it were confined to the narrow definition of interstate commerce and applied only to those industries. Mr. Hillman, who is labor's representative on the National Industrial Recovery board, when he learned of Mr. Richberg's statement promptly struck back with an emphatic observation that the country would not permit such action.

"It is unthinkable," he said, "that congress will withdraw the only protection that the three million or four million underpaid, overworked and helpless workers in the service trades now have. Some of them as a result of the NRA are for the first time in their lives getting one day of rest a week and something a little better than the coolie wages they have been paid in the past."

"I am not interpreting the Constitution. I leave that to the Supreme Court of the United States. But I have been impressed by opinions given by outstanding members of the bar that a condition of keeping millions of workers at starvation wage levels does affect interstate commerce."

"I am not interpreting the Constitution. I leave that to the Supreme Court of the United States. But I have been impressed by opinions given by outstanding members of the bar that a condition of keeping millions of workers at starvation wage levels does affect interstate commerce."

—Ed F. Beranek returned home from Lincoln last Wednesday, where he was called by an accident to his son, Floyd, who is a student at University of Nebraska. It will be remembered by Quiz readers that several years ago Floyd injured his leg and sarcoma developed, necessitating the amputation of the limb. This operation was performed by Dr. C. W. Weekes in Hillcrest hospital and Floyd soon recovered his general health, completed his high school course and last fall entered university. About two weeks ago he slipped and fell, injuring his other knee, and because a sore spot above the knee persisted he submitted early last week to an x-ray examination, which disclosed a spot on the bone. Eight Lincoln doctors agree that a recurrence of sarcoma is to be feared and it has been decided to give x-ray treatments, followed by an exploratory operation and then resort to radium if the operation reveals that the trouble really is sarcoma. Floyd's general health is excellent and it is hoped that even should the trouble prove to be sarcoma it can be cured by this course of treatment. Floyd's host of friends are hoping that the spot discovered on his leg by doctors will prove to be a result of his fall rather than the dreaded sarcoma and if it proves to be the latter they will pray for his recovery. An honor student in high school, Floyd has been making a wonderful scholastic record at the university.

PWA Approval Sought For North Loup Project

ORD & BURWELL AGREE TO ACCEPT FEDERAL TERMS

Municipalities Will Buy Power From District, Farmers To Get Irrigation Water.

2 Million Dollar Project Is Planned

Veatch Enroute to Washington To Present Revised Application; Approval By April 10.

MORE FAVORABLE NEWS.
Yesterday Bert M. Hardenbrook received a telegram from Black & Veatch stating that they have been instructed by the PWA to use wage scales and material costs prevailing in Sutherland project contracts let recently as a basis for estimating cost of the North Loup project. While these instructions may delay the project three or four days the message is regarded as indicating that the PWA is taking the North Loup project seriously and wants the amended contract in shape for immediate approval.

After more than two years' delay the North Loup power and irrigation project looms as a definite possibility as result of action taken at two important meetings in Ord Thursday and Friday evenings. If everything progresses satisfactorily it is believed that PWA approval will be forthcoming by April 10.

A revised application for PWA funds is now being made up in the Omaha office of John Letensner, PWA engineer for Nebraska, and tomorrow it will be taken to Washington by N. T. Veatch, Jr. Since it embodies terms stipulated by PWA authorities the engineers have every reason to hope for quick approval.

E. H. Dunmire, an engineer in the employ of Black & Veatch, Kansas City, who are engineers for the project, was in Ord last week and explained the project's present status to directors of the district at a meeting in Bert M. Hardenbrook's office Thursday evening.

The substance of Engineer Dunmire's report is as follows:

The PWA has informally offered a loan and grant totalling $2,000,000 to the North Loup district for construction of a power and irrigation system, providing certain terms are met. Included in this total will be a loan of $1,372,000, which the district will have to repay, and a grant of $828,000, which need not be repaid, being an outright gift from the government.

The loan of $1,372,000 is to draw 4 per cent interest and must be amortized over a period of 30 years.

As security for this loan the PWA requires that the district sign up 30,000 acres of land for irrigation at a price of $3.00 per acre per year, this price including both water and maintenance expense. The PWA further requires that the municipalities of Ord and Burwell purchase from the district each year $75,000 worth of electric energy, Ord to buy $50,000 worth and Burwell $25,000 worth, at a price of 1c per kilowatt hour delivered on the board in each town.

The irrigation system contemplated under the revised plan is substantially the same as was proposed by Black & Veatch upon completion of their survey of the valley two years ago. A diversion dam will be built a few miles above Taylor, a concrete dam is to be built across the river at Burwell to divert water to irrigate the north side of the river from Burwell to Sumter, and a diversion dam will be constructed below Ord to supply the irrigation needs of the valley between Ord and North Loup.

Only one power plant, that located at Sioux Creek, is contemplated in present plans, but this one plant will produce a maximum of 16 million kilowatt hours per year, with a load factor of at least 40 per cent. Should expansion of population in future years make more power production necessary additional hydro-electric plants might be installed at the Fort Hartuff site and south of Ord at slight extra expense.

Included in the $2,000,000 loan and grant offered by the PWA are funds for water rights and to pay for right-of-way, also funds to pay interest on the loan during the 12 to 18 months the project is under construction. While financing details have not been definitely arranged it is thought that for three years after completion of the project the district will be required to pay interest only, beginning to repay the principal at the beginning of the fourth year. Such arrangements would give cities plenty of time to build up consumption and sale of electric energy so as to use profitably the large amounts required by their contracts; also would permit farmers to put their land under irrigation over a three-year period, thus giving them a chance to level their land, construct laterals and learn the business of irrigating.

Engineer Dunmire made it plain in his report Thursday evening that acceptance of this PWA proposition offers the final hope of securing approval. Terms are not as acceptable as had been hoped but the PWA absolutely refuses to approve the project unless assured by contracts with farmers to take water and with municipalities in the valley to use electric energy that the loan will be repaid.

He pointed out, also, that it will cost the district nothing at this time to agree to PWA terms and secure a formal approval, which will hinge upon fulfillment of the district's agreement to secure the necessary acreage and the agreement by municipalities to sign contracts to buy the amount of electricity required.

"As soon as we get our formal approval from the PWA we can go to the people of the valley, show them the proposition and the requirements that must be met before we can get the money, and then if they don't want it we're not any worse off than we are now," Dunmire explained.

The same statement applies to action taken by the city councils of Ord and Burwell. Any contracts entered into with the PWA by them must be ratified by a majority vote of the people of the two cities at special elections, he explained.

FEED ASS'N DID $12,000 BUSINESS WITHOUT CAPIT'L

Carried On Through Feed Crisis Is Disbanded Saturday; Was Non-Profit Organized.

A cooperative farmers organization that was started without capital, did a total business of over $12,000 during the six months it functioned and was an effective agency in combating the feed shortage was disbanded Saturday when directors of the Valley County Feed and Produce Association met at the court house, heard the report of Treasurer Henry Vodehnal and voted to close the affairs of the association.

This organization was formed on Sept. 8, 1934 when the great feed shortage and consequent high feed prices became apparent. A little group of farmers met and decided to cooperate in buying feed, the work later being extended to serve other farmers on a no-profit basis.

Treasurer Vodehnal's report shows that in its six months of existence the association trucked in 743 tons of corn fodder, shipped in 22 railway carloads of other feeds, a total of 263 tons, and sold 56 tons of alfalfa hay and 7 tons of prairie hay, the total tonnage sold being 1,069.

Receipts from sale of feeds totalled $12,238.80 and the amount paid out for feed was $12,244.75. When the books of the association were closed Saturday accounts collectable were $101.71 and outstanding bills were $38.45, so when all accounts are paid in full the association will have a profit of $63.26 on the winter's activities. The number of different farmers served during the winter was 176.

Directors of the association were Bert Cummins, Henry Jorgensen, Joe Anderson, Sam Roe and Ray Lutz, all of whom cooperated with Treasurer Vodehnal and share in the credit that is surely due for the efficient management of this organization.

Bridge Tournament In Ord April 14th

Tentative plans to hold the annual Loup Valley invitation contract bridge tournament in Ord on Sunday, April 14, were revealed this week by local contract enthusiasts. Play probably will take place at the Knights of Pythias hall, qualifying round in the afternoon and finals in the evening. John McMahon, bridge teacher at Columbus, Neb., will be secured to direct the tournament, which is open to bridge players all over central Nebraska. Several Grand Island, St. Paul, Mason City and Callaway couples already have agreed to enter, and a large entry list of local players is expected.

REV. L. M. REAL RESIGNING, WILL GO TO TENNESSEE

Popular Presbyterian Pastor Has Accepted Call to Southern Church; Leaves April 15.

Rev. L. M. Real, popular pastor of the Ord Presbyterian church for the past 4 1/2 years, will present his resignation to the board of trustees on April 4 and ten days later expects to leave for Greenfield, Tenn., where he has accepted a position as pastor. Rev. Real will preach his last sermon in Ord on Sunday, April 14, he told the Quiz yesterday.

Last Thursday Rev. Real returned from an extended vacation in Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky and immediately upon his return announced his impending resignation.

He plans to dispose of his household goods by selling them at auction April 13, Rev. Real says, and after preaching his final sermon he and his family will leave for their new home in Tennessee by auto.

In his 4 1/2 years in Ord Rev. Real has built up the membership of the Presbyterian church from 108 to 240 and the church is now in good financial condition. Through adoption of the system of graded worship the attention of young people was enlisted and the Sunday school system has been greatly enlarged. Rev. Real has been particularly active in boys' work and each summer has taken a large group of boys to Lake Pibel, in Greeley county, for an outing. He has cooperated in all community activities, has been a member of the Chamber of Commerce and in recent weeks has been actively promoting a Boy Scout organization.

His new pastorate in Greenfield, Tenn., is the largest Presbyterian church in the western half of that state. Although Greenfield is a town of only about 2,000 people a large brick church has been erected and about 400 people attend every Sunday. There were 100 applicants for the pastorate and Rev. Real's selection from this number is a great compliment to his ability and reputation.

Rev. Real's family consists of his wife and three children, Beverly, 11, Dale, 4, and Roberta, 2. All have been popular in the community and their departure will be greatly regretted.

Belief that a more moderate climate will prove beneficial to his health is the primary motive in prompting this change, Rev. Real says. He has long suffered from bronchial and sinus trouble, has had several operations and the rigorous climate of Nebraska is believed to have prevented his complete recovery.

The Presbyterian board of trustees does not plan to replace Rev. Real immediately but arrangements will be made to have supply pastors conduct regular services for the present.

Board Re-elects All Ord Teachers

The Ord board of education at a meeting last Wednesday evening re-elected all teachers of the Ord grade and high school with a single exception—Miss Carol Roelke, instructor of English and dramatics in the high school, who does not plan to teach next year and asked that her name not be brought up for reelection.

Teachers reelected were: W. D. Cass, principal Ord high school. Mae Baird, home economics. Helmut Brockman, manual arts. B. C. Cowel, social science. Viola Crouch, mathematics and phys. ed. Dean S. Duncan, music. Mildred Jacobsen, English and normal training. Elva Johnson, language and English. J. A. Kovanda, vocational agriculture.

Elizabeth Lukesh, mathematics. Walter Lukenbach, commercial. Elizabeth Shaver, social science. Bernice Sote, English. W. S. Watkins, mathematics and science. Louise Eberspacher, 3rd grade. Edna Elliott, 5th and 6th grade. Lois Finley, 5th and 6th grade. Erma Gossard, 5th and 6th grade. Daisy Hallen, 1st grade. Marjorie LeValle, kindergarten. Lucy Rowbal, 4th grade. Inez Swain, 3rd and 4th grade. Vernie Wallin, 1st and 2nd grade. Adeline Kosmata, 2nd grade. Miss Elizabeth Shaver, a teacher in the Ord schools in 1933-34 who is attending the University of Nebraska this year on a leave of absence, will return to her duties next fall, taking over a portion of the duties being handled this year by Miss Roelke. A reassignment of duties will see Miss Sote handling dramatics and public speaking classes.

Valley Co. Spelling Contest Is Tomorrow

The Valley county spelling contest will be held in Ord tomorrow, Friday, Mar. 29 at the high school building, beginning at 1:30 p. m. A great many entrants are expected to try to spell-down their neighbors for the honor of being grand champion speller of this county, or perhaps winner of either the written or the oral contest. Interest is especially great this year because of the 19 cash prizes offered by the Omaha World-Herald in their state spelling contest.

Miss Clara McClatchey, county superintendent, announced that Valley county will send a champion speller will be sent to Omaha to the World-Herald contest. The grand champion will be the student who places highest in both the local contests.

The two expert spellers who win the oral and the written meets will go to Sioux Falls, S. D., to compete in the interstate spelling contest. Six or eight neighboring states will send their champion spellers to the Sioux Falls contest. Judges in the local contest Friday will be Mrs. A. W. Cornell and Mrs. G. W. Taylor.

SCOTIA AG BOYS 'DARK HORSES' OF JUDGING CONTEST

Beat Sargent's State Champions And Broken Bow Tri-State Champs in Meet Here.

Scotia high school placed first team and first individual in the livestock judging competition held in Ord Saturday, under the auspices of the F. F. A. Chapter here, thereby proving to be the "dark horse" of the contest. In winning the livestock event, they outjudged members of Sargent's state champion team and heavy scorers at the national contest held in connection with the Kansas City Royal last winter. By defeating Broken Bow, the Scotia farm boys outscored a tri-state champion, as Broken Bow won the big Curtis contest two weeks ago by a decisive margin. Indications are that Scotia, state champions in 1932, and winners at the national that year is all set to repeat in 1935.

Ord's contestants placed well toward the top, but lacked the experience necessary to win. Reuben Cook, Kenneth Koelling, Gerald Goff, Milo Bresley, Harold Melia and Wilbur Fuss were the Ord judges.

Individual high scorers in judging all livestock were as follows: First—William Cook, Scotia. Second—Reuben Cook, Ord. Third—Ivan Cook, Sargent. Winners in the various classes were:

First on hogs—Ivan Cook, Sargent. First on beef—Kenneth Koelling, Ord. First on horses—Harold Schudel, North Loup.

First on sheep—Clarence Smith, Broken Bow. First on dairy—William Cook, Scotia.

Judges for the contest were Ray Murray of Broken Bow, A. E. McKinley of Burwell, Mervin Hankins of Sargent, Carl Dale and Harold Koelling of Ord. The crops judging contest was turned into a practice session, when no opponents showed up to compete against the Ord agronomists. Archie Hatfield, president of the F. F. A. organization, had charge of this event. It was won by Erwin Dodge, Harlan Wyrick ranked second, and Robert Stone placed third. These three lads will try to win the third leg of the Nebraska Crop Growers' Ass'n trophy, at the state contest next month, and bring it to Ord for keeps.

Was Badly Burned In Hayrack Blaze

Davis Creek—(Special)—As Will Caddy was helping Elwood Van Horn move his household goods Friday the loaded hayrack he was driving caught fire. Caddy did not know of the fire until someone told him and then, in attempting to get out of the rack, his foot slipped through a hole and he fell in such a position that he could not get up without assistance. Both Mr. Caddy and Martin Mawkoski, who helped him, received bad burns. Monday Mr. Caddy was still in bed and although Mawkoski was out of bed he was limping from the pain of his injured leg. The hayrack and everything except three chairs, three blankets and a few dishes were destroyed by flames. Most of the VanHorn bedding was in this load so the loss was a severe one.

Edward Johnson and Mrs. Raymond Dunham, both of Los Angeles, who have been in North Loup attending the golden wedding of George Johnson, were dinner guests last Tuesday in the George A. Parkins home.

Water Level Rising, Ponds Filling Up, Loup River Higher

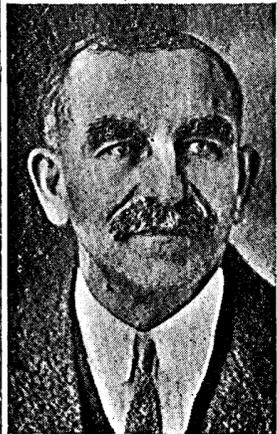

In spite of the excessively dry winter and spring the earth of his farm is very moist eighteen inches below the surface, Kingsbury Huff discovered last week. Investigation discloses that others have discovered the same condition. Apparently water levels are rising from some cause not connected with rainfall, for there has been none in central or western Nebraska for several weeks.

Thomas Borovka reports that a ditch on his Springdale farm has been dry all winter and now is filled with water; the Arnold swamp has much open water after being dry all fall and winter; ponds on the Long farms east of Ord resemble lakes and pot-holes along the river are full of water.

Will Moon, veteran fisherman and river observer, reports that the North Loup river has been gradually rising for several weeks. Bars that were dry all winter became moist and then were covered with water, he says.

From the sandhills north of Burwell come reports that ponds dry for years now contain water. Swan lake is said to be filling up. Only one explanation for this curious condition has been advanced. A few years ago, it is claimed, the water level shifted westward and sandhill lakes in western Nebraska were bank-full while similar lakes in the central part of the state dried up. The water level may now be shifting back eastward, many believe.

Otto Pecenka Will Succeed Father In Ord Meat Market

JOE PECENKA.

OTTO PECENKA.

Mr. Pecenka, who came to Ord forty years ago and entered the employ of James Misko in the Misko meat market, remaining in this market as employe and part-owner all the years since, last week announced his intention of retiring because of failing health. His place in the market will be taken by his son, Otto, who has been cashier of the Elyria State bank for a number of years. Mr. Pecenka has been in Lincoln this week making arrangements to sever his connection with the bank.

The present Pecenka & Perlinki market was established by James Misko and Frank Stara in 1889. Later Misko bought out Stara's interest and operated the market until 1920, when he sold it to his long-time employe, Joe Pecenka, and John Perlinki, who then operated a rival market. It has been continued under this management ever since.

Women's Dinner Tonight.
The public relations dinner sponsored by the Ord Business and Professional Women's club will be held in the Methodist church basement this evening. A large attendance is expected, as other business and civic organizations have been invited to send representatives.

Joe Barta to Omaha.
Tuesday Jos. P. Barta left for Omaha to familiarize himself with details of the executive position in the Farm Credit Administration to which he has been appointed. Mr. Barta expected to be back in Ord this week-end but probably will be located in Omaha permanently beginning next week. The Barta family will not move to Omaha before spring and possibly not until next fall.

—A daughter, Mrs. Don Meyers and her husband have moved to the Ed Panowicz home in Comstock and will live there and make a home for Mr. Panowicz and his young son, Edward, Jr., who is 13 years old. The mother, Mrs. Ed Panowicz, passed away a few days ago.

SIX IRRIGATION WELLS GOING IN

Farmers Tired of Waiting For Ditch, Resort to Wells To Defeat the Drouth.

Six irrigation wells are being put in this spring on farms near Ord and several more are in prospect unless the ditch project is approved soon, the Quiz learns. Wells are already in operation or are being drilled on the farms of John Lickly, Ed Timmerman, Leo Long, Ed Zikmund, Joe Sedlacek and Ben Augustyn.

The Lickly well, first to be completed, is located on the J. R. Stoltz eighty in Springdale, which is adjacent to the Lickly farm and is owned by Mr. Lickly. It was finished about the first of the year and already a thorough soaking has been given to about 45 acres.

Leo Long's well is being completed this week by Butterfield and Johnson, of Burwell, and pumping will start next Monday. It is a little over 100 feet deep and Mr. Long plans to irrigate 80 acres. Concrete casing was used. Anybody interested is invited to visit the Long place Monday when the pump is started.

The Zikmund well was put in by Frank Sears, of Callaway, and is also about 100 feet deep. Gravel was struck at 65 feet. Steel casing has been put in place and the pump will be put in at once.

Dave Palmer is drilling Joe Sedlacek's well now. At 20 feet they struck heavy gravel, which continued to a forty foot depth. At 90 feet a 4-inch limestone formation was struck and the well is being drilled deeper now. Mr. Sedlacek plans to install concrete casing and will irrigate 60 to 70 acres.

Ed Timmerman's well, started last summer, was not entirely successful at the depth reached and is being drilled deeper this spring. A field of rye on the Timmerman farm, irrigated last fall, is a sight to behold this spring.

A flow of 1,800 to 2,500 gallons is confidently expected in all these wells. Tractors will furnish motive power for pumping in most instances. Cost runs from $1,200 to $2,000 depending on depth and type of casing and pump used.

Should the North Loup power and irrigation district be approved it is likely that some of these irrigators will abandon their pumps and take water from the ditch but since the project cannot be completed until late in the season of 1936, even if approval comes quickly, the wells will pay for themselves before the ditch comes in. Other farmers who have been considering installation of pumps are said to be waiting to see what the PWA does about the ditch.

SEED LOANS WILL BE READY SOON, MYERS PROMISES

Maximum $500, Minimum $10, In New Set-Up; Security Is First Lien on Crops.

Emergency crop and feed loans from the $60,000,000 fund just appropriated by Congress will be available within a week or two to farmers in Iowa, South Dakota, Nebraska and Wyoming, according to an announcement by William I. Myers, of the Farm Credit Administration, Omaha. Governor Myers said the emergency loans will be made only to farmers who are unable to obtain elsewhere, supplies, feed, or the necessary credit to purchase such items, and not to any applicant who can obtain credit from any other sources, including production credit associations.

Proceeds of loans will be disbursed by the regional Emergency Crop and Feed loan office in Omaha. Rules and regulations governing 1935 emergency loans have just been received by M. E. Welsh, Jr., regional manager.

As in the past, applications for

10TH BIRTHDAY OF ORD ROTARY CLUB OBSERVED

Loup City, Ansley, Gr'd Island, Men Guests Monday Eve; Speaker from Kansas.

The Ord Rotary club, which was organized on March 26, 1925, celebrated its tenth birthday anniversary Monday evening with a special dinner and program at Thorne's cafe, guests including Rotarians from Loup City, Ansley and Grand Island. Clarence M. Davis, first president of the local club, presided at a program following the dinner.

Principal speaker Monday evening was Fred Coulson, of Abilene, Kas., former district governor of Rotary International and prominent in Rotary affairs for 25 years. Last winter Mr. Coulson visited England, France, Belgium and other European countries as a special representative of Rotary International and his account of incidents of this trip were most interesting. An inspiring speaker, Coulson kept his hearers enthralled for almost an hour.

Other features of the program Monday eve included brief talks by Rotary representatives from the Ansley, Loup City and Grand Island clubs and a one-act play, "Circumstances Alter Cases," presented by students of Ord high school under the direction of Miss Carol Roelke. Dr. George R. Gard led the singing before dinner and President George Parkins opened the program with introduction of Mr. Davis as the club's first president.

When Rotary was organized here ten years ago charter members were C. M. Davis, Irl Tolen, Dr. P. G. Howes, H. D. Leggett, Jos. P. Barta, James Milford, Dr. C. W. Weekes, W. E. Wolters, Roy C. Collison, J. R. Stoltz, Forrest Johnson, C. A. Hager, Will McLean, Wm. Heuck, R. E. Flagg, and Dr. George R. Gard. Of this little group of fifteen men, six are still members of the club—Davis, Barta, Weekes, Stoltz, Johnson and Gard. Two charter members, Wolters and Milford, are dead and others of the original group have left Ord or resigned their memberships.

Present members of Rotary, besides the six remaining charter members, include Ed F. Beranek, Dr. George Parkins, George Allen, E. C. Leggett, Wm. Sack, August Petersen, John Goddard, Keith Lewis, M. D. Bell, J. A. Kovanda, Walter Lukenbach, R. E. Teague, M. F. Crosby, Orville H. Sowl, E. L. Vogeltanz, Edward Kokes, L. D. Milliken, Dr. F. A. Barta, James Misko and M. Blomond.

First officers were Mr. Davis, who was president, Dr. Gard, vice president, Mr. Barta, secretary, and Dr. Howes, treasurer. This year officers include Dr. Parkins, president, Ed Beranek, vice president, Joe Barta, secretary, and J. R. Stoltz, treasurer.

Job of Installing Diesels Will Take Six to Eight Weeks

The first carload of Diesel engine equipment purchased for the Ord municipal light plant by the city council a few weeks ago arrived Monday from Ironton, Minn., and Tuesday two engine experts from Ironton, the Messrs. Langevin and Cochran, arrived to superintend the work of installing them. Another carload of equipment is expected in a few days.

Local labor will be employed to assist the Minnesota men and it is estimated that the job of installation will take from six to eight weeks. Light plant service will not be interrupted while the work is in progress, says George Allen, light and water commissioner.

When installation is completed Mr. Lutz, electrical engineer from Kansas City, will come to Ord to make a test run to see that engines perform satisfactorily. He is employed by the city to protect Ord's interests.

Observes 89th Birthday.
John Carson was eighty-nine years old Saturday and celebrated the day at the Ord hospital, where he makes his home. He was remembered with many gifts and visits on that day. A son Kit, from Omaha, came to spend the week-end, bringing his son Hugh, whose home is in California. The two stayed until Monday and enjoyed a nice visit with Mr. Carson, who was up and in good health for one of his years.

—Ord relatives of Frank Erben have received word that he has been taken home from St. Theresa's hospital at Tisdale, Sask., Canada, where he has been a patient for the last eight weeks. His home is at Goldberg, Sask.

Horse Falls Into Deep Crevice In Field Starves

Arcadia—(Special)—Some time ago Richard Zelger, of Pleasant Valley, missed one of his horses. He searched for the animal repeatedly without avail, and advertised, with no results. Five weeks later he found the horse—dead of starvation.

During the hot, dry weather last summer deep crevices appeared in Zelger's alfalfa field and in the deepest of these crevices he found the horse. It had wandered into the field, fallen into the crack and, unable to get out, had starved. Only the horse's head was visible above the surface of the ground.

Mrs. Abe Hagey. Judith Adolphine Johnson was born in Stockholm, Sweden, Nov. 6, 1879, and passed away at her home in Arcadia, Nebr., March 23, 1935. She came with her parents to Nebraska in 1889 and located near Albion, where she resided until her marriage to Herman Lindell in 1897 at Stanton, Nebr. To this union were born three children, Mrs. Helen Jacobsen, Ann Lindell and Leonard Lindell. In 1906 she married Abraham Hagey at Ord, Nebr. To this union were born two children, Mrs. Elsie Myers and Mrs. Marie Sanders. She has made her home in and around Arcadia until the time of her death. She was an industrious, home-loving woman and a devoted wife and mother. Although a constant sufferer of ill health, for the past eleven years she never complained, trying hard to be a help to her loved ones, and setting a beautiful example to those around her. Her going leaves an aching void in her home that will never be filled. She leaves to mourn her passing her husband, and five children. Her aged mother and one sister and brother. Seven grand children and a host of other relatives and friends. Interment was made in the Arcadia cemetery. Funeral services were held in the Methodist church in charge of Rev. Hendrickson of Berwyn, Nebr.

Mrs. Albert Strathdee and Dorothy spent Wednesday in Ord.

National President Will Come to Ord

MISS MABEL DOWD.

Ord members of P. E. O. are quite jubilant over the news that their national president, Miss Mabel Davenport Doud of Chicago, Ill., will be able to come to Ord for the state convention which will be held here this spring.

Miss Dowd is an Iowa girl who has made good in banking, insurance and investment circles, and at present is associated with an Episcopalian school for girls in Davenport, Ia. She has been actively engaged in business for some twenty years, and her pleasing personality undoubtedly has contributed to her success in business as well as to her popularity in P. E. O. circles.

COOPERATIVE CANNING.

Over in Toledo, Ia., farmers who raise sweet corn have formed a cooperative cannery, financed by a $15,000 loan from the Omaha Bank for Cooperatives, a subsidiary of the Federal farm credit administration. A pointer to farmers of the North Loup valley can be found in this item. Should the irrigation project be approved Ord would be a logical place for a cannery to be located. No farm land in the wide world is better adapted to production of sweet corn than our own valley, given plentiful moisture. If private capital cannot be interested the method of financing used by this Iowa cooperative might be used here.

WELL DESERVED PRAISE.

The relief authorities, Federal Credit Administration and other government agencies who have so efficiently handled the crisis caused in Valley and surrounding counties by the 1934 drought are deserving of praise. Their quickness in realizing the situation and the bold cutting of red tape that brought relief to this part of Nebraska early last fall and continued throughout the winter cannot be praised too highly. What suffering would have resulted had the government failed to step in is almost unthinkable. Too large a problem for the county or the state to handle, the United States government tackled it and carried it through successfully. As spring arrives farmers are suffering under the heaviest burden of debt in history, true, but most of them still have their foundation livestock and are ready to go ahead.

Conversely governmental delay in making seed loans available early in the spring requires censure. At least another two weeks must elapse before any loans can be made here and many farmers will be unable to make credit arrangements that will permit them to begin spring planting until then.

Had the same efficiency been used in handling seed loans that existed in the relief and feed loan agencies the government's record of alleviating a critical situation successfully would be unmarred.

A HINT TO CATTLE OWNERS.

Owners of cattle being wintered outside of Valley county should heed the statement published by Valley county assessor in a recent issue of the Quiz. This statement said, in part:

"The following ruling was made at the state convention of county assessors: 'All livestock being wintered outside of a drought-stricken county may be assessed in the county where the owner resides, providing, 1st, that all such livestock must be listed either with your local precinct assessor or at the office of the county assessor not later than April 10, and 2nd, that such livestock must be assessed on a separate schedule so that a duplicate may be mailed to the county assessor of the county where such stock is being wintered.'

According to law, and in the usual course of events, all livestock would have to be assessed in the county where it is located at assessment time, April 1. Special courtesies granted to drought-stricken counties like Valley, as mentioned above, exist solely as result of a "gentleman's agreement" adopted by Nebraska assessors at their recent state convention. The Valley county assessor was instrumental in inducing other assessors to make this agreement.

It is distinctly to the interests of Valley county that our stock that has been wintered in the sandhill or hay regions of the state be assessed and taxes paid in Valley county. Taxes will have to be paid on these cattle somewhere and since this is true it is surely an advantage to the tax-paying public of Valley county, including owners of the cattle, to have taxes paid in this county.

At first thought this might seem a small item but a check-up indicates that between three and four thousand head of Valley county cattle are being wintered elsewhere. These cattle comprise the best breeding stock and therefore are valuable and will be assessed in the highest classification. Several thousands of dollars in taxes will be saved to Valley county if owners of these cattle have them assessed at home.

By all means, Valley county cattle owners, list your cattle with your township assessor or with County Assessor Box. Be sure to do so before April 10th. Be sure they are assessed on a separate schedule. The result will be a saving in taxes to you and to every other taxpayer in this county.

LIBERALISM NEEDED.

To William E. Borah, senior senator from Idaho, the nation is indebted for a definition of liberalism that all should read and heed. "A liberal," said Senator Borah, "is a person who realizes that new conditions have given rise to new problems that require new solutions. The republican party needs more liberals like Senator Borah."

Arthur Brisbane aptly illustrates the present attitude of the republican party when he compares it to a pair of elephants seen on a San Diego circus lot. "How well they represent the republican party, standing with its back toward the ocean of new facts, waiting for old times to come back," Columnist Brisbane says.

There are in the ranks of the republican party men qualified to assume its leadership and offer new solutions for the new problems that have arisen. Senator George W. Norris is one, Senator LaFollette is another, Senator Johnson of California is a third and there are others among the little block of liberal republicans in Congress. In Nebraska, Valley county's own Marlon J. Cushing is qualified for leadership.

Is it to such men that old leaders of the party are turning for guidance? No, they keep control in their own hands and continue to mouth the same old slogans that have succeeded in former campaigns. It appears inevitable that republican liberals will be forced into the ranks of another party. And the republican party cannot again become a dominant factor in politics without them.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

"Administration hopes to keep out of European trouble," says a headline in a daily paper. Well, why in heck shouldn't we keep out of European trouble. Why does this country need to have anything to do or say about the wars in Europe?

When I was a boy there was very little said by the people, against anything the veterans of the civil war did. Perhaps that is the reason more is not said regarding the paying of the bonus at this time.

Everyone is kicking about the dust storms but nobody is doing anything about it.

Governor Alf Landon of Kansas is asking President Roosevelt to help, in some way, to stop the dust from blowing. How silly.

There is just one thing that will stop the dust blowing and that one thing is a general, soaking rain over several states. If we don't get that we are sunk.

The federal government is a funny animal. It is apparently doing all it can to put the newspapers out of business, yet it expects the newspapers to furnish it with almost unlimited space to tell about its fool and other experiments.

On another page will be found a display advertisement, quite sizable, which tells of a number of lines of merchandise which the Quiz sells, some of them new lines advertised by us for the first time. I hope you will read it.

Col. Weller says that since the art of sending pictures by telegraph has been perfected, he never sees of sagging wire that he doesn't wonder if a picture of Kate Smith is going over the wire.

What the people want is for the lawmakers to cut the cost of government instead of increasing it. If the people could have a chance to vote on the state police bill they would show the lawmakers where they stand. The trouble is, that the lawmakers forget that they are the servants, chosen to do the will of the people, and go ahead doing exactly opposite what the people have said they want done.

Something funny happened to me the other day. A man came into my office and wanted an envelope to send in a daily paper subscription. He had his letter written. He has been a reader of the Quiz, but said the women folks did most of the reading for the family. He was very glad to have me send in his subscription for the daily and said he didn't know I wanted that business. I wonder how many Quiz readers there are who don't know that I am sending daily paper subscriptions for a lot of people year after year. Don't cost you any more and I make a little commission.

It is quite amusing to note the regularity with which the various power companies are reducing rates in the small towns where they operate in this part of Nebraska. They must see the handwriting on the wall.

They say bustles are coming back. If you never saw how they make the women look, get the old album out and look over the pictures of 50 years ago. If everyone would do that the bustle wouldn't come back.

The best joke I have heard lately was when John Klein got his foot case powder and the white powder which he puts on his store teeth to hold his plate in, mixed. He couldn't get his shoes off for 3 days but he said the teeth felt very loose and comfortable, his only objection being to the taste.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

By H. D. Leggett

20 Years Ago This Week. Harry Bartley had another fire, the sixth within two years, and damage of several thousands of dollars was done to his store building and to Dr. Haldeman's office adjoining.

D. H. Rathbun, prominent Springdale pioneer, died after a brief illness with cancer. After being retired for two years because no place for it was provided in the new church, the old Methodist bell was back in service. A bell tower 60 feet high was erected at the rear of the church.

Chess Chinn resigned as the Good Government nominee for 1st ward councilman and his place was filled by George R. Gard. Rev. Tipton, Baptist preacher who had been filling the Ord pastorate temporarily, received a permanent appointment and moved his family to Ord.

H. P. Malden, early Mira Valley pioneer who moved from Valley county to Canada 14 years before, was visiting in Ord. His health was poor and he was enroute to Corpus Christi, Tex., in hope a change of climate would give him relief.

Jim Brannon fell from a scaffold while working on the new North Loup church and fractured a collarbone.

25 Years Ago This Week. A. Weigard, Elyria blacksmith who had leased his shop to Frank Hewitt, took his family and went to Denmark for a visit. While driving Gruber's team Frank Redja had a runaway and was pretty badly hurt.

A. M. Robbins suffered a stroke of apoplexy while visiting the post-office.

The new owners of the silica mine near Sumter appeared on the scene, closely followed by a group of B. & M. surveyors who were mapping out a proposed railway line to the mine site. It was planned to ship silica out by the train load when the mine went into operation.

Ernest Johnson hauled a load of hogs to town that brought him just $220.40, a record price at that time.

Montgomery-Dobberstine. The marriage of Miss Opal Marie Montgomery of Taylor and David Arnold Dobberstine was solemnized at 6 o'clock Thursday evening, March 21, at the United Brethren parsonage when Miss Mamie J. Young, pastor, received their pledged troth and sealed their marriage vows. They were attended by Miss Lucille Stepanek of Taylor and Raymond Hulbert of Ord. Mrs. Gus Dobberstine, Miss Marjory Behrendts of Taylor and Mrs. Myrtle Fox of Miller also witnessed the ceremony. A wedding dinner was served at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gustaf Dobberstine. For the present they will make their home in Ord.

People who have rectal trouble should know, that next to cancer, a rectal fistula is a serious and can easily become, unless quickly and properly cured, a dangerous problem. If you do not believe this, let me tell you all I have seen in thirty years.
A rectal fistula requires the most skillful treatment and understanding. Some cases become incurable when not understood and neglected. You are invited to come and see me for examination and my opinion. Dr. Rich, Rectal Specialist, Grand Island, Nebr. (1)

KEEPING FIT FOR SUCCESS

By Dr. V. E. Levine, professor of bio-chemistry and nutrition, the Creighton University School of Medicine.

What An Intelligent Person Should Know About Health.

1. He should know the types and amounts of proportions of the various food elements essential to the proper nurture of his body.
2. He should have an acquaintance with the principles of normal mental action and the conditions underlying the more common variations from the normal state of mind.
3. He should have a general understanding of the sex instinct in man, its stages of development, its normal expression, and the values and penalties attaching to it.
4. He should have a knowledge of the factors determining infection and resistance and of the principles of artificial immunization in the case of certain of the common infectious diseases.
5. He should have enough knowledge of the causes and prevention of the degenerative diseases to offer a prospect of passing through middle life without a breakdown.
6. He should know and therefore be armed against health hazards lurking in the environment, such as polluted water and milk supply, congestion in housing, poisonous dusts of certain industries, infected soil, etc.
7. He should appreciate the necessity for frequent medical and dental examinations.
8. He should have an intelligent basis for choosing his medical and dental adviser, and for recognizing that modern medical practice is grounded on science, not on mystery, fancy and tradition.
9. He should have a knowledge of the important health problems facing the community, of the methods of attacking these problems, and of the results to be expected from intelligent community action in the field of public health.

Something DIFFERENT

I think it is queer that in Ord we have no woman member on our school board.

Women are in most cases more actively interested in the work of the teachers and schools than the men in the family. It is the mother who visits the schools usually, and generally it is mother, too, who has the job of getting Bobby to do his practicing, or his homework. Of course I know Father often helps with the arithmetic problems, but still, Mother is the one who carries the brunt of the prodding, etc., in many families.

Surely the school board is a logical place for a woman to be considered. Many of the teachers hired if not most are women. Many of the problems crop up are matters of discipline, of which Mother should know plenty. or comfort, and here too Mother should know something relevant. When it comes to economy, Mother is quite used to considering this important matter, she being the one who customarily pinches the pennies.

Often Mother is an ex-teacher, which would help her to understand administration problems of the school from another angle. I suggest two women members and four men members, as a good ratio to do efficient business.

I even have a candidate in mind for this job.

I think Mrs. Gould Flagg would be an excellent choice for member of the school board.

Of all the winds and all the dirt in Nebraska, surely this has been the dirtiest, the windiest winter. Housewives are about to go crazy. And who could blame them?

Said Mrs. Mike Kosmata "I cleaned all morning, dirt blew all afternoon... you ought to see my house now."

Said Mrs. Forrest Johnson "I started to clean house this morning. The dirt began to blow in an hour or so, so I just gave it up."

This has been a most peculiar winter. Weather has been extreme. Either it has been lovely weather, June-like; or it has been bitterly cold, a few spells. Or lately, it has been dirty, so dirty that sky and horizon and ground all blended into one color, a dirty dirt color.

Judge John Andersen has developed a pastime that is surely something different. He has been spending recent Sunday afternoons snail hunting!

The dignified Ord Judge has been ably assisted by his young son, Donnie, on these expeditions. The father and son do not report any vicious snails encountered to date, most Valley county snails appearing quite mild mannered.

Peculiar, certainly, was the fact that high places in the livestock judging contest in Ord last Saturday were awarded as follows: first place William Cook of Scotia; second place, Rueben Cook of Ord; third place, Ivan Cook of Sargent. Cook's day, evidently.

The chief speaker at the Rotary dinner Monday evening declared that in his opinion it was a great mistake for middle-west newspapers to play up in their columns the tales of dust pneumonia deaths in this section. He said that in his judgment it would eventually cost our people millions of dollars of eastern capital that would decline to invest in such a region. He thought such things were much better managed in England.

In England, stated Mr. Coulson, news stories of the U. S. A. tell only less desirable tales. Gangster murders, scandals from Hollywood, stories of hardship and drought are featured, so that the workman of that country, 40% lower paid than his American duplicate, feels himself lucky to be living in old England. No stories are played up in the papers that do not add to his sense of security and good fortune in living where he does when he does.

—Oo—

Dust pneumonia is a myth, anyway, so they say. Some doctor said it might be a factor to be considered, someone snatched at the tale like someone always does, featured it, and it became generally wide spread and popular. Just the kind of a story the California papers print repeatedly to make people from other places happy they are living in that state on the coast. Smart psychology isn't it? And punk on our part.

—Irma.

CARE OF COUNTY BOARD

By George Gowen

Dear Jake:

The day beclouded with dust, the day turned out to be more enjoyable in the hall than out doors riding a disc. Had not the seats been too close together, causing us to jack-knife our legs first one way and then another, and had not the speakers been a little too long-winded, the meeting would have been quite a success.

Elton Lux, of the extension department made the best speech, by simply introducing Brokaw. Lux and I attended the Uni at the same time and were boon friends then. He stayed away from the farm and seems to amount to a little something. Anyway he wears a nice suit and rubs shoulders with the big wigs. I came back to the farm.

Claud Wickard is head of the Corn-hog division of the Triple A. He is a short stubby fellow, a trifle bald, a round, round smiling face and I would swear not a day over thirty if he had not said he had run a corn planter every year for the last twenty years. His talk was a trifle long but a little humor intermingled with his pleasant smile helped while the tedious. He said they were attempting to make that it would be continued regardless of the administration. He said in planting corn, to get a straight row, one should look far ahead at some ultimate point, and drive to that, and not get excited over the small kinks of the work as you go along. The same would apply to the program.

Brokaw gave a few bits of advice while we all were anxious to depart. I think even his talk might have been quite interesting if those darned seats hadn't been too close.

The best part of it all was, I heard no razzing of the republicans, nor no lauding of the democrats.

Ed Christensen has it figured out he does not care whether he raises anything or not, or even farms or not. He says he will get over four hundred dollars from the government in reduction contracts, (better than a dollar a day) and he can live on that. On a farm, with his lights, water and rent without charge, and a few cows and chickens, I presume the four hundred dollars would be better than many folks have.

I am just Socialist enough so that I cannot quite see the justice in giving one man so much more than others. Simply because of the fact that one fellow is lucky and has a farm that grows sixty bushels an acre, the government gives that man many more dollars than the fellow back in the hills who does well to grow twenty. The Iowa farmers no doubt receive more pay than the Nebraska fellows. It is all a Christmas present anyway. And still the pre-amble reads something to the effect that "all men are created free and equal."

Every week the papers blossom out with a few more foreclosure sales, and the delinquent tax lists grow longer with every publication. And still the economists proclaim regularly that the farm income is greater than ever. Some inconsistency there somewhere.

I have been approached several times lately to write a rip-snorter in regard to prohibition. I shrink from plunging into these scrapes regardless of my own sentiments. And who would pay any heed to my advice should I blurt forth in wild exclamations.

I never yet have known of anyone being benefited the least iota by drinking the stuff. I have known a good number of pusillanimous nincompoops who were ruined by over-indulgence. I being a pusillanimous nincompoop myself, and inclined to going to excess in many things, I deem it better to stay on the wagon and in any of my rambles I never have yet been embarrassed by refusing.

In case you do not know the meaning of pusillanimous, the dictionary says, "destitute of manly strength and firmness of mind. Weakness of spirit." And nincompoop means in simple language, a "fool".

In regard to my picture, the kids were delighted with it. They thought it a dandy but said further it didn't look much like me. I didn't know whether I was better looking or worse. It is a sign of a good artist, to make the picture that it is better looking than the model. And I recommended that the fellow who drew it was a good artist.

I looked at the picture for several minutes. I concluded there was one thing that was natural and I was sure of that. And that was the legs of the table. They were perfect.

All you readers will know what I'm talking about when you see the picture in the Quiz next week.

Suddenly Polite
Why? He Is Prepared
Thought for Atheists
Strange Hangings

How politely Germany is treated, suddenly, by the "victorious allies"!

Recently Germany was kicked around, all her money taken by the allies, French and English soldiers camping on her territory at her expense, the Versailles treaty sternly enforced.

What a change now! England sends a clever statesman to talk it over with Hitler the moment he throws the Versailles treaty on to the rubbish heap.

France is almost polite in messages to Germany. No more threats; no more "Do as we say!"

You know what causes this. Hitler lets it be known that he has been preparing for a war in case anybody wants one; that Germany has a well drilled army of half a million men and an enormous fleet of commercial airplanes that could drop explosive bombs and poison gas most conveniently.

In other words, Germany is prepared, willing, ready and able to fight if anybody insists on it.

So nobody insists. There may be a lesson there for this country, that, if attacked, could only throw a few lumps of gold at the enemy and plead: "Please be nice."

Flying is like human life in this, you do not see what it is that pulls you along through the upper air.

You look at the three engines, sticking out into space ahead of you, and see no sign of power, nothing to explain the speed and climbing power or what it is that keeps you aloft.

The propellers move at a speed that makes them invisible. You know that you move, but do not see what moves you.

A clergyman might find a text for atheists in that. Your atheist, or gentleman from Senegambia, would say: "Do not talk to me of a trinity of propellers that haul me to my destination and my destiny. If there were any such propellers I should see them."

In Austria, Nazis are supposed to have murdered the Austrian chancellor, Dollfuss. Now the government that succeeds Dollfuss will hang 17 Nazis as a start. There is nothing novel in that. Where you have dictatorship you have wholesale killings. They go together.

The interesting thing is the method of hanging in Austria. They have no "drop" which causes the criminal to break his neck by the jerk of his own weight. A noose is put around the criminal's neck, and as he hangs "assistant executioners" pull at his feet until he chokes to death. It must be a disagreeable spectacle, even for the "assistant executioners."

Learned professors tell you the saying "beautiful but dumb" is silly, untrue. On the contrary, beauty and intelligence go together. Also, there is no intelligence that is not beautiful in itself.

Convicts at work in a California county road camp, in Elizabeth canyon, rebelled "because they had no hashed-brown potatoes" for breakfast. It was a substantial breakfast—prunes, cereals, griddle cakes, but no hashed-brown potatoes.

Men change. When Parmentier, for whom the excellent potato soup, potage Parmentier, is named, brought the first potatoes to France, nobody would eat them.

An intelligent king ordered the nobles at court to wear potato blossoms in their buttonholes in the spring. Immediately the common people said, "Potatoes must be good," and ate them.

The name suggested for a new state, that would be number forty-nine, is "Absaroka," a name and state to be created by putting together western North Dakota, the northern third of Wyoming and one row of counties along the southern border of Montana.

The dreadful name chosen for this forty-ninth state, "Absaroka," is the name of the Crow nation.

As long as it is to be one of the United States, why not select a United States name, Lincoln, Edison, or some other with a meaning?

Two Americans, Mr. and Mrs. Switz from East Orange, N. J., with twenty alleged accomplices, accused of spying for Russia, will be tried in Paris within a few days. The Switzes and others are accused of informing "a foreign power" of French secrets concerning high explosives, planes built to fly through the stratosphere and across the Atlantic in six hours, and "chemical warfare secrets," which means recipes for more deadly gases.

ORD & BURWELL AGREE TO ACCEPT FEDERAL TERMS

After listening to the engineer's exposition of the project and asking a multitude of questions, directors of the district passed the following resolution:

"The Board of Directors of the North Loup river public power and Irrigation District hereby pledge and agree to secure signed contracts from the land owners for the irrigation of 30,000 acres of land under the ditch at $3.00 per acre upon such terms as may be acceptable to said Public Works Administration when and if such amended application is approved."

The board, elected at the November election, is made up of Bert Hardenbrook, Roy Hudson, Ralph Brownell, J. M. F. Barta, Harry Doran, Luther Pierce, Herman Grunkemeyer, W. O. Zanger, R. C. Bailey, E. A. Holub and Charles Newbaker. A unanimous vote favoring passage of this resolution was recorded by the secretary.

Another resolution was passed by the board requesting the mayor and city council of Ord and the board of trustees of Burwell to cooperate by passing resolutions agreeing to purchase power from the district, as stipulated by PWA officials.

Friday evening at the city hall in Ord another important session was held, people present being Light Commissioner Hanson and Trustees Helbig, Meyers, Walker, Hallock and Williams, of Burwell, Mayor Flagg, Commissioners Pullen, Bartunek, Gudmundsen, Ser-shen, Travis and Burrows, Light Commissioner Allen and City Attorney Norman, all of Ord. President Hardenbrook and most members of the irrigation district board of directors also were present.

Engineer Dunmire again explained the project at great length, meeting with a sympathetic hearing from these officials who have demonstrated repeatedly their desire to see the North Loup developed for power and irrigation.

Upon assurance by attorneys present that any resolutions they might adopt at this time would have to be ratified by a majority vote of the people of both towns at special elections, the Burwell board of trustees and the Ord city council passed the following resolution:

"Whereas, the North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation District contemplates filing an amended application with the Public Works Administration for allocation of funds for construction of a power and irrigation project in the North Loup valley, and

"Whereas the board of directors of said district has requested the City of Ord (Village of Burwell) to agree to purchase electrical energy from said district,

"Now therefore be it resolved that the mayor and city council (chairman and board of trustees) of the City of Ord (Village of Burwell) hereby agree to enter into a contract with said district, whereby said City of Ord (Village of Burwell) agrees to purchase from said district electrical energy at such prices as may hereafter be agreed upon, the cost of which shall not exceed the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars (Twenty-five Thousand Dollars) per annum or so much thereof as shall be necessary to meet the requirements of the Public Works Administration. Said contract shall be in such form as shall be approved by the Public Works Administration and acceptable to said district and city."

Although neither Ord nor Burwell at present uses as much electricity as they are required to buy if contracts for which the way is paved by the above resolution are ratified by people of the two cities, it is believed that natural increase in population brought about by the project, plus sales to farmers, will enable both cities to use profitably the entire consumption of the Sioux Creek power plant. Excess electric energy may be sold to other communities having municipal plants, it is thought.

Events are expected to march quickly now that conditions imposed by the PWA as the price of approval have been met. Saturday Engineer Dunmire left for Kansas City to complete the task of amending the district's application. About the middle of this week N. T. Veatch was expected to take the amended application to Omaha, where he will be met by President Hardenbrook. The two men will file the application with Latenser and carry out any formalities necessary and about tomorrow Mr. Veatch is expected to leave for Washington by airplane with the amended application.

Since the amended application embodies all the requirements imposed by PWA officials, it is thought, although two weeks ago they gave Engineer Veatch only an informal assurance that such would be the case. District officers have expected approval before, only to have it withdrawn at the last moment, so there is still a possibility that "red tape" will be encountered to hold up the project. Veatch and Dunmire are confident, however, that this time the PWA

1935 CAGE SQUAD BROUGHT FAME TO ORD SCHOOLS

Won Loup Valley Tournament And Runner-up in District 4; Prospects Good for 1936.

Leonard Greathouse. Leonard, a senior this year, was a most spectacular center on the team. Always taking advantage of the tip-off and having an eye for the basket, he was high point man in a large number of the games. Leonard towers six foot two, and has played on the basketball team three years, lettering each year. He has also lettered in football, baseball, and track.

Richard Severson. Richard Severson, a senior has played his last basketball game for Ord high school. He has lettered in both basketball and football for two years. Severson's work at guard this year has been outstanding, gaining him honorable mention on the Loup Valley team and a position on the All Class A Tournament team. Severson is another of Coach Brockman's six foot two men. Richard has always been active in high school athletics and has, at the same time, maintained a high standing in his class work.

Kenneth Michels. Kenneth is a senior this year and played his last game of high school competition at Gothenburg. The only first squad member under six feet, Kenneth measures five feet nine and a half inches, but what he lacked in height he made up in fight, quickness and accuracy. Because of his skill in throwing baskets from every angle, Kenneth always had a high point rating. Kenneth held the position at forward most capably. He has lettered one year in football and this year in basketball. Kenneth was chosen Captain of the basketball team and was selected as forward on the All Loup Valley team. Kenneth also is the free-throw champion of the Loup Valley and received honorable mention at the district tournament at Gothenburg.

Bill, a six foot player on the squad this year, is a senior in school and played his fourth year in high school competition. Bill has lettered two years in basketball. Bill, playing guard, always put up a good strong fight and made it plenty tough for his opponents. Bill received honors as 1935 Captain and also honorable mention in the Loup Valley.

Paul Blessing. Playing his first year as a regular, Paul was a real blessing to the team as his consistent work indicates. Paul, because of his ability to play "heads-up basketball" all the time, was chosen as an All-Valley forward and was given honorable mention at the Class A Tournament at Gothenburg. Paul is just a junior so he still has one more year to "do his stuff" for Ord High. Besides lettering in basketball, Paul has been a letterman in football and in tennis.

Dean Marks. Dean, a substitute guard on the squad, proved that he knows his basketball by fighting valiantly every moment he was in the game. As a reward for his excellent playing in the Loup Valley Tournament, he was chosen as a substitute on the All Valley team. Dean, a junior, has lettered in football, wrestling, baseball, and basketball.

Don Tunnelliff. Don, a freshman this year, played his first year of basketball. Don measures five foot eight and is every inch a fighter and a fine sportsman. Don holds the position of forward, and was the only freshman to earn a letter in basketball this year.

Gerald Clark. Bud, as he is known, proved to be a reliable substitute for the pivot position held down by Greathouse. He was a fine sport as is proven by his treatment of his opponents. Besides lettering in basketball, Bud has lettered in football. Clark is a sophomore and will be in there fighting for the center position next year.

Kenneth Koelling. Kenneth, a farmer lad, played his first year of basketball at guard and has already proven that he will be in line fighting for a position on the team next fall. Kenneth is a junior, and has lettered in football.

Harold Stone. Harold, a sophomore, was always ready to go in for a regular, and he proved his fine sportsmanship and ability thoroughly. He was a substitute forward and one who a coach would like. As he is only a sophomore, we shall see and hear more about his basketball ability in the next two years.

Dean Barta. Dean plays center on the squad and certainly has shown that he has basketball ability. Dean has lettered in tennis. We shall see more of Dean in future years as he is in his sophomore year.

Paul Adamek. Paul, a small man but a big help, measures five foot eight and shows a very promising future in basketball. Paul has also lettered one year in baseball. This is his first year on the squad but he was chosen as a sub on the Loup Valley Championship team.

Valley Champions Runners-Up in District!

First row: Cowel, Zulkoski, D. Hughes, Adamek, Cook, Koelling, H. Stone, Barta, D. Mella. 2nd row: Coach Brockman, D. Tunnelliff Michels, B. Tunnelliff, Greathouse, Severson, Blessing, Marks, Clark.

Dale Hughes. Dale is a freshman this year, and because of his fight and spirit, he soon earned for himself the position of guard on the squad. Dale lacked only two quarters of receiving a letter in basketball this year, but he says he will be right there to collect his letter next year.

Harold Haskell. Harold is a sophomore, playing his first year on the squad. He measures five feet nine and plays guard. Harold didn't make his letter in basketball but he has lettered in football, wrestling and baseball.

Dale Mella. Dale, a junior in high school this year, is five foot seven inches tall. He holds the position of forward. This is Dale's first year on the squad, but not his last. Dale has lettered previously in baseball.

Harry Zulkoski. Harry, who is a freshman this year, played his first year of high school basketball at the position of forward. Harry promises to be back fighting hard next year.

Horace Johnson. Horace, a junior, who measures five foot seven, is another forward that made the team this year for the first time. Horace shows prospects however, and may be one of first five next year.

Reuben Cook. Reuben, a six footer, is a junior. This is his first year in Ord High, and necessarily his first year on the basketball squad. Reuben plays in the pivot position.

23 Ord Commercial Students to Kearney

Twenty-three Ord Commercial students will go by bus tomorrow to compete in the district commercial contest which is again held at Kearney. Two teams of three students will be entered in each of the six divisions of the contest and although the rules also permit the entering of six individuals in each major subject, such contestants will be entered only in Novice Typewriting. In the other subjects, members of the teams will also be entered as individual participants.

The contest begins promptly at 1:00 while the Spelling which continues until 1:30. From 1:45 until 2:10 will be the novice typewriting. From 2:10 to 2:40 the champion typewriting contest will be held. From 2:40 until 3:30 students will participate in the book-keeping test and from 3:20 until 4:30 the shorthand dictation and shorthand transcription for both novice and championship students will take place.

Ord students entering in the novice typewriting are: Dorothy Ann Zikmund, Ruth Koupal, Marie Viner, Alma Masin, Darrell Noll, Virginia DeHart, Joy Aube, Kenneth Egglehoff, Eva Umstead and Dale Mella.

Novice Shorthand contestants are Eva Umstead, Maxine Haskell, Dorothy Ann Zikmund, Louise Gross, Maxine Jones, and Joy Aube.

Bookkeeping entrants are: Dorothy Fish, Richard Severson, Lillian Kovarik, Dale Mella, Kenneth Egglehoff, and John Burrows.

Advanced typewriting entrants are: Mildred Smith, Darlene Anderson, Dorothy Fish, Louise Gross, Maxine Haskell, and Byrnee Leach.

The advanced shorthand participants are: Mildred Smith, Darlene Anderson, Joe Krellek, Dorothy Fish, De Etta Brickner, and Byrnee Leach.

EDITORIALS

At last we have the promised basketball edition. We had planned to have it last week but through an oversight were unable to. Better late than never though, we are told. We would like to extend our thanks to Richard Severson, Joe Krellek, and Darrell Fish who helped prepare the basketball copy.

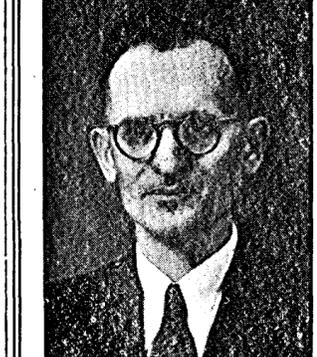

To everyone's regret, spring vacation is over. Although the usual moaning and groaning filled the air at the thought of returning to books and school, the return was brightened somewhat by the prospect it will probably continue for a good many more years. The commercial, declamatory and music contests.

The music festival last week was a huge success and was widely attended. The master's program in the evening was much enjoyed as were also the morning and afternoon sessions. This was the fifth annual music festival and this event has grown so in popularity that part of the coming events. Students will again resume work for Tomorrow morning the commercial students will leave for Kearney to do their best in the district commercial contest. Ord students, in previous years, have won more than their share of the awards and the chances this year are even better than in other years. Anyway we are sure they will do their best work and we wish them luck.

Advertisement for A. J. AUBLE, Partner in the firm of Auble Bros. Text: 'This Week's Sponsor is A. J. AUBLE Partner in the firm of Auble Bros.'

Jay Auble is one of the Ord men who stay in the background, seem unobtrusive, and yet is constantly full of good ideas for the benefit of his home city, constantly plugging wherever he is needed the most. Talks little but does a lot. In other words he is a dependable booster and worker for his home city, the kind of business man Ord needs more of in order to achieve constant progress.

Mr. Auble is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. D. Auble. He was born on the Auble place seven miles southwest of Ord, now the E. S. Coats farm. After attending country school he came to Ord, went to high school and shortly after entered the Schwamer Brothers store as an apprentice. This store was located on the same corner where Auble Brothers now conduct their business.

After learning something of watch repairing and the jewelry business, Jay bought a store in Wolbach and moved to that city. After a year or two in Wolbach, he traded that store to Schwamer Brothers for part of their store in Ord. In the meantime, his brother Glen had been studying optometry, and the two Aubles decided to enter business together. That was in 1914.

One valuable possession acquired by Mr. Auble during his sojourn in Wolbach was his wife. They have three children. Leota, the eldest, is now studying nursing at Nebraska Methodist hospital in Omaha, having graduated from high school in Ord two years ago. Joy, second daughter of the house, is now a junior in high school, and Don, the young son, is in the third grade. All three of the children have been very active in their classrooms, much interested in school doings of all kinds.

The Jay Auble family attend the Methodist church, and for that church, as for Ord and the schools, they work consistently. Mr. Auble belongs to the Chamber of Commerce, and is a Mason. His hobbies are golfing and music. He is a good golfer and a good violinist, enjoying both pastimes very much.

The Auble Brothers store, located in a fine brick building on a prominent corner in Ord, specializes in music, musical equipment, pianos, radios, and in addition carries a line of jewelry and watches, gifts, etc. Dr. Glen D. Auble's optometry office occupies modern offices in the store. An up-to-date establishment, it is one in which students are certain to be interested and certain to be welcome.

The Oracle is made possible by this group of loyal Ord business and professional men and women: Dr. F. L. Blessing, Orville H. Sowl, Ed. F. Beranek, J. C. Penney Co., John P. Misko, L & L Tire and Battery Station, Auble Motors, Dr. C. W. Weekes, Chase's Toggery, Dr. Glen D. Auble, Nebraska State Bank, A. J. Auble, Stoltz Variety Store, Harlan T. Frazier, Gould B. Flagg, First National Bank, Protective Savings & Loan Ass'n, Ord Co-operative Creamery Co., Noll Seed Co., Sack Lumber & Coal Co., Davis & Vogelitz, McLain-Sorenson Drug Co., Brown-McDonald Co., Dr. George A. Parkins.

1,000 Present At Music Festival

The fifth annual music festival sponsored by the Loup Valley High School association was held in the High School Auditorium last Thursday, March 21, 1935.

The morning's program was presented by North Loup, Scotta, Comstock, and Taylor, each town being allowed forty minutes for the presentation of their numbers. Sargent, Dannebrog, Loup City, Burwell, St. Paul, Arcadia, Ord were scheduled for the afternoon's program.

The entire days program was widely enjoyed by the large group in attendance. Many fine numbers and selections were presented by the various groups. Mr. Albert Stevers, Dean of Fine Arts College of the Nebraska Wesleyan University was the critic for the day.

All the Ord musical organizations, under the capable direction of Mr. Duncan, gave a fine performance. The band, however, was the favorite of the Ord organizations and was asked to repeat its performance in the evening with several other numbers.

The music supervisors who are instructors in the various schools are: Mildred Rife, Arcadia; Audrey Harwood, Burwell; Doris Steeves, Comstock; Ivan C. Caldwell, Dannebrog; Alice I. Brown, Loup City; Winifred Pettit, North Loup; Dean S. Duncan, Ord; M. D. Hudelson, St. Paul; Dorothy G. Park, Sargent; Don McGaffey, Scotta; C. J. Probasco, Taylor.

Over a thousand individuals filled to capacity the high school auditorium to hear and appreciate the evening's program. The program opened with the singing of two selections, "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "America the Beautiful." Over three hundred students, directed by Mrs. Oscar Bennett, participated and gave an exceptionally fine performance considering that no previous rehearsals had been possible.

Seven special numbers were selected from the day's program and these made up the second section of the evening's program. The numbers repeated were: a vocal solo by Richard Babcock of Scotta; a selection by a girl's octette from Scotta, a selection by the girl's glee club of Taylor, a number by a girl's sextette from Sargent, a selection by the Loup City mixed quartette, a number by an Arcadia mixed quartette and two selections by the Ord band.

The Nebraska Wesleyan A Cappella Male Chorus, under the direction of Oscar Bennett, presented the feature program of the evening. This was composed of a number of group selections, vocal solos and readings. Seldom has an Ord audience been privileged to attend such an enjoyable and complete musical program.

Work will be continued in the musical departments preparatory to entertaining the district contest at Grand Island, April 12 and 13.

'Volunteer Wif' Is Senior Class Play

"The Volunteer Wife", a three-act comedy, by Gardner Hunting and Edward C. Marsh, has been selected as the senior class play for 1935.

The play, which is of a swift moving, laughable type, has ten characters, they are: Helga, a Swedish maid; Mrs. Minch, a boarding house keeper; Patricia Loring, an attractive young writer; Jon, a Swedish servant; Garrett Spencer, a wealthy young aristocrat; Mrs. Spencer, his mother; Bishop Garner and Jessica Royce, friends of the Spencers; Brock, a newspaper man; and Sarah, a maid.

The first scene takes place in Patricia's studio and the second and third scenes occur in the Spencer home. Books have arrived and tryouts for the play will be held in two or three weeks.

May 10 has been definitely set as the date of the presentation of this play.

A Penny for Your Thoughts

The question for this week is: "What is your idea of the laziest person in the world?" A man who puts coffee in his mustache and drinks hot water so that he won't have to make coffee—Eva Umstead.

A person who pinches the baby to make it holler so that the neighbors will come running in to see what the matter is and they tramp down the snow and then he doesn't have to shovel it off of the sidewalk.—Evelyn Jorgensen.

A man who puts pop corn in his pancakes so that he doesn't have to turn them.—Alma Hansen.

Someone who just sits around.—Charlotte Blessing.

Charles Jones because he is just one of the Jones boys.—Paul Blessing.

Just a man.—Florence Furtak.

A man who owns an alarm clock that goes off in the morning and starts the fire, and has the coffee and everything ready for breakfast when he makes one leap into his clothes and is ready to eat.—William Goff.

One who drags his feet, not mentioning any names of course.—Laura Sobon.

One something like me.—Delta Marie Flynn.

ORD WON 18 AND LOST 3, AVERAGED 43 PTS. PER GAME

Most Successful Season in Many Years Is Concluded; 903 Points Were Scored.

About thirty-eight players answered Coach Brockman's call for basketball candidates. With only three letter men back, it was evident that the team would be handicapped by lack of experience. Not even the most optimistic followers would predict any better than an average season.

A squad of eighteen was picked and a first and second team was made up of these players. After two weeks of practice, Ericson played a practice game with Ord. It was then that a powerful offense and a tight defense were shown by the Chanticleers. Ord won 64-13. The following week Burwell was defeated by a similar score. With two decisive victories behind them, the team started to point for St. Paul. After trailing the Apostles 18-15 at the half, the Chanticleers came back to win 34-30.

The following week the Ord five ran wild, defeating Sargent 62-18. On Friday of the same week they trounced the Dannebrog quint 49-9.

The Chanticleers found Taylor a bit tougher than the two previous victims but came through with a 30-7 win. The scalps of Scotta and Loup City were the next to be added to the Chanticleer's belts by scores of 55-12 and 55-8 respectively.

Ord made it seven straight wins by taking a highly plaudited Broken Bow team into camp by a 40-24 count.

On the following evening Grand Island was the opponent. The first half was all Grand Island. After trailing 27-14 at the half, the Chanticleers made a desperate rally but the Islanders managed to hand Ord—its first defeat by a 37-34 score.

Comstock fell next 30-5 and Ravenna, one of Ord's bitterest rivals was snowed under 65-19. Against the Kearney Bearcats Ord started out strong but was unable to hold the pace and consequently came out on the short end of a 28-10 score.

North Loup was defeated 30-12 in a dull game and a strong Ansley quintet was beaten 42-16.

The Ord cagers next participated in the Loup Valley tournament at Arcadia. In the first game they won handily from Dannebrog 61-14 and in the second they defeated Comstock 33 to 9 to go into the finals. In the championship game with St. Paul they copped the Loup Valley title by a 42-18 score.

In the last home game of the season the new champions handed Burwell a 70-8 drubbing.

Ord defeated Overton 49-13 in the first game of the Class A regional tournament at Gothenburg. On the following day they handed Elm Creek a similar drubbing, the score being 57-21. North Platte offered Ord its first serious opposition but Ord came through to a 29-24 win. On the same night the Chanticleers were defeated by Kearney 26-22. In this contest the lead constantly changed hands.

The Kearney game wound up one of the most successful seasons that an Ord high team has ever enjoyed. The Chanticleers lost only three out of a total of eighteen games.

In 21 games the Chanticleers scored 906 points for an average of 43 points per game. Their opponents scored 358 points for an average of 17 points per game.

DO YOU KNOW?

A special board meeting was held last Wednesday. All the present instructors were reelected for the following year.

Ord students and instructors were sorry to learn of the death of Mr. Watkin's father who passed away last Saturday.

A meeting of the superintendents and principals will be held Saturday, at Lincoln. Ord will be represented.

The county fair association board has granted the school the privilege of using the fair grounds for the spring sports.

The tennis court backstops have been rebuilt making the playing space ten feet longer than previously.

Only two students, Richard Severson and Mildred Smith have registered for the Regents' Scholarship. Charlie Garborg won one of the scholarship offers last year.

Miss Wallin was absent from her work in the grade school last Monday, due to the death of an aunt.

Many band and music students have been confined with the measles and this has retarded the progress of the musical organizations.

During the past week the Public Speaking classes have been having mock banquets. Each class was divided into groups and this group was allowed to choose the type of banquet which they desired to have.

By FRED J. MINDER

Work of the Houses in wading through nearly a third of the liquor committee's control bill which occupied members' time for nearly a week may come to naught as the result of Governor Cochran's opposition to features of the bill which would put the state in the liquor business.

Appearing before the lower branch, the governor outlined a plan which provides that the state shall have nothing to do with the dispensing of liquor, provides for local option immediately, and permits sale by package in all parts of the state so sanctioning except Omaha where sale by the glass also would be permitted.

House members faced four alternatives following the governor's message. They can continue consideration of the committee's bill, H. R. 128, with control stricken, give consideration as special order of business to the Wright administration bill, H. R. 48, now on general file, give specific instructions to the liquor committee to draft a new bill embodying the governor's recommendations, or substitute the old Slocum law as a foundation upon which to build.

House members had labored hard four days on the committee's bill when the Governor expressed disapproval in a press statement. He was invited to express his views to House members, which he did.

The fight on liquor control was one of the bitterest encountered on the floor thus far this session, and found many a sharp fight on certain major phases of the bill. There seems to be no disagreement on a control commission between members and the executive.

It was apparent that in order to pass the bill with the emergency clause, many concessions will be made by opposing factions. Cochran, say many, will not sign any bill that does not meet his approval as to control, and unless the emergency clause can be voted in, there remains a big possibility that repeal will be delayed months and possibly years if a referendum is called by oppositionists to liquor.

A total of $129,000 now reposing in the state treasury was made available to about 37,000 farmers or owners of corn stored on farms on which the owners had paid a fee of at least $5 under the state farm warehousing law in order to qualify to obtain a loan from the federal government. Governor Cochran signed H. R. 131, making available the funds.

Chairman Bollen of the railway commission to which the refunding operation was authorized, said the bill refunds all fees in excess of $3.80. As the minimum fee paid by farmers was $5, each claimant will at least receive $1.20 refund. Those who paid fees of $10 will receive the difference between that amount and $3.80.

Probably 40,000 checks or certificates for refund are really called for under the refund law, but as some claimants are entitled to four or five certificates and the commission which is to issue checks will be able to cover the claim in a single check, the number of checks to be written in the refunding operation may number about 37,000.

Senate killed H. R. 97, which the House had previously passed, the putting a stoppage to the appropriation of $10,000 for a special audit and investigation of the state treasurer's office.

Action of the upper branch brought sharp retort from State Treasurer Hall who declared in part: "I am disappointed that the legislature doesn't deem it important enough to authorize any inquiry into how this office has been run either while I have been in charge or when it was under Bass or Stebbins. I want to thank the Senate for its compliment to me and the confidence it seems to have in all previous state treasurers by taking the position, as it has done, that no checkup on the financial transactions of the department which receives and pays out all funds of the state government, totalling about $24,000,000 a year is needed."

Governor Cochran has introduced two skeleton bills, one fixing the number of legislators for the one-house legislature in 1937 and a second providing for redistricting of the counties, at the request of the Senate, which plans to start work on the mandatory measure this week.

With the House engrossed in passing liquor control legislation which must pass to the upper branch, the latter decided, in order to hurry adjournment, it could start the ball rolling on another and the final mandatory measure, Parimutuel, which with liquor prohibition repeal and provision for a one-house legislature were the three mandatory measures thrust upon this legislature. Parimutuel betting has been disposed of and is now a law.

One bill, S. F. 64, by Green, fixing the number of legislators in the one-house at fifty is not broad enough in title to permit redistricting in the same bill, so two bills are considered necessary.

With the last $200 of their $800 salary pocketed, Nebraska legislators began to feel the urge to go home. Although the major issues of liquor, budget and uncameral redistricting remain, a survey showed a third of more than the thousand bills introduced this session have been acted upon.

Expressing the belief that Governor Cochran has "tried to be liberal" with the institution of Chancellor E. A. Burnett of the University of Nebraska told the House and Senate finance committees that the University will be satisfied with the governor's recommendation of $3,543,100 from tax monies. The University asked for an appropriation of $4,164,000.

All hearings on the all-important appropriation measure have been completed, and final completion will be completed so the bill can be dumped into House committee of the whole within a few days.

When asked by Rep. Moline, democrat, Kearney, what was the University attitude toward broadcasting the Nebraska football games, Chancellor Burnett stated that the athletic department is of the opinion that broadcasting of the games would cut materially into receipts and endanger the security pledged to payment of bonds on the university stadium and coliseum. Rep. Moline stated that the constituents had requested that the games go over the air. S. F. 1, by Sen. Bullard and others provides for broadcasting of all university games, broadcasting to be handled by a firm submitting the highest bid for the privilege.

Although horse racing with parimutuel betting now is legal in Nebraska, the House committee has turned thumbs down on dog racing. A bill to legalize dog racing was killed by the House miscellaneous subjects committee, headed by Rep. McKim (D), Omaha, one of the leaders for successful passage of the Ak-Sar-Ben horse racing measure in the House. Rep. Barnes, (D), Doughboy fostered the dog racing measure.

Legalization of slot machines in Nebraska is provided in S. F. 264 by Sen. O'Brien, (D), Grand Island, reported on general file by Senate committee on miscellaneous subjects. It provides for legalization of operation and licensing of slot machines throughout the state, through which a considerable sum of money would be issued by the department of agriculture which will collect annual taxes ranging from $5 for the first 25 penny machines owned by one concern to $200 for from 800 to 2,000 machines. Tags would be attached to machines upon which licensing tax has been paid.

Twenty thousands of dollars have been handed State Auditor Price to conduct an investigation of the state banking department through passage by the legislature and signing by Governor Cochran of H. R. 392, passed with the emergency clause and effective immediately.

Under terms of the bill, the state auditor is authorized to make all appointments including a chief examiner, auditors, public accountants, clerks and employees and fix their salaries. The bill authorized the auditor to hold inquiries and take evidence in general to aid in the work and to institute prosecutions if violations of the law are discovered.

Under former Governor Shallenberger an inquiry into the banking department was conducted during Governor Weaver's term, and for this purpose $150,000 was appropriated and mostly spent. No fraud was uncovered.

When Martin Schroeder, Bloomfield minister of the gospel, consented to revision of his resolution urging that the United States senate hurry along the president's big work relief bill that Nebraska farmers may have seed to plant, several objectionable features in the form of wordage had been slashed from it.

In the initial draft, Rep. Schroeder charged criminal negligence on the part of the United States senate which he accused of making a political football of "The misery of thousands of people." The resolution, with objectionable part deleted, and bearing the endorsement of several members, was adopted.

A proposal to forgive interest charges on all delinquent taxes if the principal is paid by September 1, 1936, has received favorable consideration by House committee on revenue and taxation. It is a measure designed to speed tax collections by giving delinquent taxpayers an incentive for paying up before the 1936 deadline. Delinquent taxes for 1933 and prior years are included, and although no official figures are available, it is estimated that several millions of dollars would be wiped from the taxpayers' burden if the bill is enacted.

By signing H. R. 290, Governor Cochran extended the retirement age of the adjutant general from 64 to 70 years. The bill permits Adjutant General Paul to serve until he reaches 70. Otherwise he would have to retire in 1937.

Favorable action by state institutions committee set on House general file H. R. 844, providing that no soldier's widow shall be admitted to the state home unless she shall have been married to a decedent at least 5 years prior to his death.

Carrying many of the same provisions as did the county officers' salary reduction bill passed by the 1933 legislature and vetoed by Governor Bryan, after adjournment, H. R. 285, by Rep. Charles Vogt, Jr., (D), Liberty, was placed on general file.

Vogt proposes to get in so far under the wire that if the bill again passes and a governor again vetoes, it will be before adjournment sine die.

Senators Stewart and Callan will serve with three House members as a committee to investigate the discord alleged to exist in the faculty at the Wayne normal school.

Authorization of the trip with traveling and hotel expenses to be paid from legislative funds was given Senator Brady, (R), Atkinson and Dean Burr of the state college of agriculture to attend a conference at Washington looking toward legislation for eradication of the bindweed pest.

A wire to President Roosevelt and air mail letters to congressmen notifying them of the Senate's resolution asking for $60,000,000 to be loaned by the government to farmers to buy seed, were authorized by Senate.

H. R. 308, establishing a state recovery act to continue for two years, was killed by House committee on manufacturing and commerce. Farmer members have been particularly hostile to the measure which has been star attraction at several public hearings. Much opposition to the bill has come from small towns. Price control has been a big objection.

S. F. 260, the plumbers' examination and licensing bill, applying to every city in Nebraska having a water system, is on Senate general file. It provides for an appointive plumbers' board in each city, comprising a health officer, one journeyman and one master plumber, salaries to be fixed by council. Fees and provisions whereby plumbers' licenses are granted are provided.

On Senate calendar is S. F. 356, the bill which takes from district judges the power to direct a verdict by the jury for the plaintiff or defendant in a suit.

Senator Callan's state police bill, by vote of 21 to 6, passed the Senate and went into House committee. As passed, it provides for a curtailed force over the originally planned 100 men, and reduced the tax from $1 to 50 cents on automobiles in the state to finance the bill.

Mrs. Cochran, wife of the governor, supported two bills placed on Senate general file. They are S. F. 273, for reorganization of state library commission with an appropriation of $25,000 and S. F. 272, the county library system bill, with a maximum levy of 1 mill tax on the dollar valuation.

H. R. 91, abolishing the $1 registration fee for state normal graduates which now goes into the county institute fund, has been placed on senate general file.

means business and they are hopeful that before April 10 the formal approval will be granted.

The next step, according to President Hardenbrook, will be to call special elections in both Ord and Burwell to ascertain whether people of the two cities want the project constructed and will ratify contracts to purchase electricity. Since the project will employ 1,000 or more men for several months of construction and will mean permanent work and more opportunities for the entire population of the valley, it is thought that both cities will vote to ratify. About 30 days must elapse between the time these elections are called and the time they may legally be held, and officials of the district plan to use this period for an intensive drive to get 30,000 acres of land signed up for irrigation. Exact details of the contract farmers will be asked to sign or the number of years they must agree to take water is not yet known, but it is thought lenient terms will be allowed by the PWA. Since there are about 47,000 acres of irrigable land in the district it should not be difficult to sign up 30,000 acres, it is believed.

Should voters of Ord or Burwell disapprove the project at these special elections or should the district fail to secure 30,000 acres of land, the North Loup valley's final chance to secure the project will be gone.

"This is the North Loup valley's only hope; we must not fail to fulfill the terms if they are economically feasible and possible of fulfillment," President Hardenbrook said yesterday.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Pie has long contended to be the typical American dessert. It is certain that a pie is one of the most filling and nourishing last courses it is possible to serve. Also that nothing is better than a well made pie with crispy crust and perfect filling.

Every day someone thinks up a new pie filling that is delicious, decidedly different. Some of the modern ones do not require any cooking at all. Some of the combinations sound incredible, but turn out to be most eatable and likeable.

Pineapple Pie. Boil until thick one cup sugar, one-half cup flour or cornstarch, one generous cup hot water, two beaten egg yolks, one heaping tablespoon butter, a pinch of salt, the juice of one-half lemon. When thick remove from the fire, let cool. Add one cup crushed pineapple and pour into a baked pie shell. Beat the two egg whites stiff with a little sugar, spread over the top. Brown delicately. Selma Robbins, North Loup, Cocomat Caramel Pie.

Combine three-fourths cup sugar, five tablespoons flour and one-fourth teaspoon salt in the top of a double boiler, add two cups of milk and three slightly beaten egg yolks. Mix thoroughly, place over boiling water and cook ten minutes. Stir constantly. Remove from fire but leave over the hot water. Carmelize one-third cup sugar by putting in an iron skillet over a medium flame, stir constantly until melted and straw colored. Add at once to thickened mixture, stirring until blended.

Add one tablespoon butter and one-half teaspoon vanilla, cool and pour into a baked nine-inch pie shell. Garnish with a ring of one-half cup whipped cream sprinkling the cream with cocoanut. Mrs. Leon Sperling, North Loup. Mrs. J. W. Gregory, sr., sends these pie hints from Muleshoe, Tex.

"Apple and raisins combine for a nice pie. Dried apricots well cooked and mixed with canned apples cook into an excellent pie." Fruit Cake. Combine two cups sugar, one cup shortening, butter and lard mixed, two cups unsweetened apple sauce, one cup raisins, four cups flour, two level teaspoons soda in a little warm water, one tablespoon cocoa, one-half cup nuts, cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg to taste. Add a little fruit juice or water if the dough seems too stiff. This makes two ordinary cakes.

Mrs. Ivan Botts. Combine one-half cup butter, scant with one cup sugar, one cup prune juice, one level teaspoon soda dissolved in juice, two beaten eggs, two cups flour, one cup prunes cut up, one-half cup chopped nuts. For icing, I use two tablespoons prune juice, one-fourth cup prunes cut up fine, one-half cup nuts, with powdered sugar until it is stiff enough to spread.

Mrs. Arnold Breadthauer. Homemade Cheese. Heat three gallons sour separated milk to 115 degrees or until you can just bear your hand in it. Set on the back of the stove and keep hot thirty minutes. Drain through cloth, squeezing all the whey out. This is important. Next mix with one-half tablespoon soda and one-half cup butter and let stand two hours. Put in one cup sour cream, melt in a flat-bottomed kettle placed in a pan of boiling water. Keep the water boiling and stir the mixture until free from lumps. Then add one-half cup sour cream into which one teaspoon butter coloring has been stirred. Add one tablespoon salt and stir until evenly colored. Pour into a buttered bowl, cover and let ripen five days. If not used at the end of another five days cover with paraffin.

Very sincerely yours, Minnie E. Lukes. 1011 N. 9th St., Boise, Idaho P. S. I am deeply concerned about how the Quiz force, the train passengers, the people contacted for news, and Mrs. Chapman herself, are getting along in the absence of her pleasant reporter's calls.

Rotary Celebrates 10th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Johnson celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home Friday, March 22. At noon they were reunited by Rev. Stephens. Dora Dunham played the Lohrengren wedding march by Wagner and Edward Johnson sang, "Through the Years" by Yoemans. Immediately following this service was the family dinner. An important feature of the dinner was the triple-deck wedding cake, baked by a daughter, Mrs. Merlyn Mayo. The place cards were made and contributed by Mrs. Dale Van Horn. Each card had an appropriate verse and was decorated in one corner by a yellow bell. For the decorations and refreshments the yellow and green color scheme was used. In the afternoon from 3:00 to 5:00 and in the evening, the couple held open house for their friends. A large number of friends and relatives called during these hours to offer congratulations and good wishes. Yellow brick ice cream with green bells in the center and cup cakes with green frosting and a yellow "50" on top, were served to the guests. The house was decorated with roses, snapdragons and flowering plants contributed by friends. Those who were present during the later hours were favored with vocal and instrumental music as were also others during the afternoon. One selection contributed was "My Own Home Town" sung by Edward Johnson, their son from Los Angeles, who used to live in North Loup.

Mrs. Lillie Miller called on Myra Hutchins Monday afternoon.

Legion Post Entertains For Delbert Chapman.

American Legion members entertained Thursday evening for Delbert Chapman, an Ord man who still belongs to the local post though he is rarely in attendance. A steak dinner began the party, after which the 35 friends visited informally with Mr. Chapman, a son of Mrs. Florence Chapman, who has been stationed in Soviet Russia for several months past. He had not been in Ord for some four years.

In the course of the evening Mr. Chapman told his friends many fascinating facts about the country in which he was the ranking medical officer of the United States marines stationed at the embassy. The government of that country is all powerful, he said, and permits must be had for even such trifles as filling the gasoline tank on one's car or putting a one-foot length of pipe on the plumbing, etc. Beds are quite likely to be occupied by one worker during the day and another worker during the night, for living accommodations are crowded as all sizes of families are granted quarters of equal size.

American money is at a premium. Russians are glad to trade for it, as it will buy many items unlawful to sell for rubles or Russian money. But if either Russians or Americans are found with the money of the other nation on their persons, penalties are very severe. Automobiles made in that country are poor makeshift affairs, fall to pieces in a couple of years, he said. The spy system continues, everything is reported to the government. If you do not give information against your mother to the government when she makes an untimely remark, perhaps your brother will and you will die, so will your mother. Everyone spies on everyone else.

The people have a great deal of dysentery, due to impure water and insufficient vegetables, etc., in the diet. All water must be boiled to be fit to drink, said Mr. Chapman. All in all, he did not like Russia as well as some other countries and stated Finland as his idea of a foreign country in which to live if a choice were to be made.

From Ord Mr. Chapman left Friday afternoon to go to San Francisco, where his headquarters will be hereafter though he may not be in that city much of the time himself.

An offering of $35 was received in the special envelopes for the roof fund, this in addition to the money previously subscribed. Easter Sunday comes April 21st. There will be a baptismal service for both children and adults. Members will be received both by letter and profession of faith. Those wishing small children baptized or who expect to join the church will please notify the minister as early as convenient.

Mamie J. Young, Pastor.

Christlan Science Services.

"Reality" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches for Sunday, Mar. 31.

The Golden Text is from Psalms 102:12: "Thou, O Lord, shalt endure forever; and thy remembrance to all generations."

A passage from the Bible in the lesson-sermon is from Philippians 4:8: "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "The conceptions of mortal, erring thought must give way to the ideal of all that is perfect and eternal. Through many generations human beliefs will be attaining diviner conceptions, and the mortal and perfect model of God's creation will finally be seen as the only true conception of being." (page 266).

Presbyterian Church.

When my steps have slipped and I have known the bitterness of sin. My church has believed in me and woefully she has called me back to live within the heights of myself.

Bible study 10:00. Worship service 10:45. Young People's meeting 6:30.

The American Legion male chorus will render special music at our union service 7:30.

An important meeting of all three boards will be held tonight, 7:30.

The annual congregational meeting will be held next Thursday, 7:30.

The pastor has received a call to become the minister of the First Presbyterian church, Greenfield, Tenn. Because of his health he expects to accept the call and will offer his household goods at private sale to anyone who is interested.

SEED LOANS WILL BE READY SOON, MYERS PROMISES

emergency crop loans will be made to county crop loan committees.

Governor Myers announced that the maximum amount of an emergency crop loan this year is $500, the minimum $10. Nebraska farmers seeking loans of more than $200 must first get a rejection from the local PCA. Otherwise they may apply directly to the county committee or the county agent.

Loans will be made only to applicants who are cooperating directly with the production control program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration or who are not proposing to increase their 1935 production in a way detrimental to the success of the program. A statement to this effect is contained in each loan application.

Although the maximum emergency crop loan to one farmer is $500, no loan for the growing or harvesting of crops may be made in an amount greater than is actually needed in each case to purchase seed and fertilizer necessary for production, Myers said. The fund is appropriated specifically for emergency purposes and must be used to assist the maximum number of such needs, he added.

He also pointed out that a considerable part of the funds must be used to assist farmers whose operating resources have been depleted temporarily as a result of the drought last summer. Consequently, these farmers are now in need of emergency loans to begin the new crop year.

Loans also will be made for fallowing and for production and purchase of feed for livestock, but not for the purpose of purchasing live stock or machinery, or for the payment of taxes, debts, or interest on debts. The allowance for summer fallowing may not exceed $1 per acre.

As in the case of loans for crop production those for the purpose of growing or purchasing feed for live stock must correspond to the actual cash producing or purchasing cost, with due consideration to prevailing costs of feed, seed, fertilizers or other items in the section in which the loan is made.

Loans for production or purchase of live stock feed will be limited to the amounts required until the time when the borrower's pasturage, forage, or grain crops are available; and may not exceed $10 per head per month for horses and mules; $4.50 for cattle, 50 cents for sheep, 35 cents for goats, $1 for hogs, and $1 per acre for forage crops.

Where farmers applying for emergency crop loans are tenants of a private landowner or concern, the maximum amount of loans to the tenants of one land owner in one county may not exceed $1,000, or $2,500 in counties or states designated as primary drought areas. The maximum amount of loans to members of one household who are occupants of the same farm or tenants of the same land owner, is $500, unless otherwise approved by the manager of the regional emergency crop and feed loan office.

Security for emergency crop loans will consist of a first lien on the crops financed or on the live stock to be fed. Tenants must obtain a waiver from the land owner subordinating his interest in the crops grown with loan proceeds, but the land owner is in no way obligated for repayment of such loan.

Borrowers who obtain loans of

Ord 1-Act Play Is Adjudged Finest; Greeley Is Winner

The annual declamatory contest of sub-district three of the Central Nebraska Declamatory union was held in the Ord high school auditorium Tuesday evening, March 26, with Miss H. Alice Howell of the University of Nebraska speech department as judge. The meet lasted all day and evening.

Opening at 10:00 a. m., with the oratorical section Oleta Rose of Ord spoke first. Followed a Wolbach entry, then John VanHouten of Taylor, Florentina Karty of Burwell, Edith Sautter of Scotia, Roderick Moulton of North Loup, and Ward Marrs of Greeley. First place was given to North Loup, second to Greeley and third to Burwell.

Other types of oratory followed. In the extemporaneous section Junior Winchell of Greeley won first place, and his opponent, William Cook of Scotia next place. In the original orations division Ray Gillham of Greeley won first place, with a composition on "What Price War?" and Charles Zanger of North Loup second with "Statesmen, a Minus Quantity", no other entries being made under this heading.

The afternoon program opened at 1:30 with dramatic readings. First came Paul Jones of North Loup, next Betty Rawlings of Wolbach, Mildred Satterfield of Taylor, Evelyn Loft of Ord, Marcelle Lammers of Greeley, Nina Nickells of Burwell, Blanche Roe of Scotia. First place was awarded Wolbach, second Taylor and third to Ord.

Humorous selections came next, Mildred Town of Taylor being first, then Donna Ward of Burwell, Mary Jeanne Marlowe of Greeley, Fay Mitchell of Scotia, Eleanor Verstraete of Ord, Dorothy Hurst of Wolbach, Beth Williams of North Loup. First place was given to Greeley, second to Burwell and third to Scotia.

In the evening a number of one-act plays were presented by several towns, there being entries from Wolbach, Ord, North Loup, Taylor, Horace, Scotia, Burwell. First place was given to Ord, second to North Loup, and third to Burwell.

Awards for all classes were made at the close of the evening program. Sweepstakes were won by Greeley with 13 points, North Loup second with 8 points. In the sweepstakes, one-act plays were not counted. First place means five points awarded, second place three points, and third place one point. Winners in the contest are entitled to represent this sub-district in the district contest at Kearney the first part of April. With the exception of the oratorical divisions—only one class being in the district meet—the judge of the sub-district meet will designate which oratorical class winner shall go.

National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart

Washington.—Air pilots use an expression that I want to appropriate in connection with a discussion of the country's economic situation and its relation to the administration policies and plans.

Government agencies by the dozen have been issuing rapid fire reports in recent weeks showing how industrial production is improved, how the price level has shown signs pleasing to industry, if not to the consumers, and how the volume of bank clearings is progressing upward.

The treasury has been pursuing what is regarded as orthodox financial policies and a good many other agencies appear to be veering away from the leftists' course that so long dominated Roosevelt policies.

I have sought answers to this puzzle in many quarters and I have had many different explanations. It is made to appear, however, from the weight of opinion that I have gathered that the relief rolls are the cause of this lack of faith.

Perhaps it is a lack of understanding on the part of business that prompts it to keep its pen in its pocket and its check-book closed under these conditions.

Washington correspondents were startled in the President's press conference the other day when he let it be known that he plans four additional messages to congress this session, not including his recent bitter denunciation of the holding companies when he asked that action be had on that bill.

After that information came out of the White House there was a noticeable sinking in the optimism of a great many men who count for something in the country's business structure.

Added to the circumstances I have just mentioned, one should remember how congress normally is unpopular with the business community. In many years past I have heard the plaint of business representatives in Washington asking or urging for adjournment.

men normally feel that the less work congress gets done and the sooner it leaves the halls of the Capitol, the better conditions will be. The same is true now, only more so.

It may as well be admitted that the current session of congress is here for a considerable number of weeks. This is true for several reasons. In the first instance, many of the members feel that they want to be legislators and not rubber stamps any longer.

Feeling their independence again, members of the house and senate have begun to press for action on legislation carrying out their own ideas. Much of this runs counter to administration ideas on legislation.

It is not strange, therefore, that business as a whole is worried about congress. The business leaders themselves insist that it is not strange that they are worried about the secrecy which surrounds the President's plans.

While the Democrats, the party in power, are floundering, the Republicans lie wholly dormant. Seldom in my experience in Washington has the opposition party been as useless as the Republicans now seem to be.

I have heard expressions lately to the effect that Mr. Fletcher has a golden opportunity at hand. He is in the enviable position of being able every time he is criticized by his own partisans to point out that the help they are giving him is worse than all that criticism under such a circumstance does not become them.

Early in the Roosevelt administration the Republican policy was to avoid criticism of the Democratic leadership at all times. They declared, and openly announced their views, that if they criticized Mr. Roosevelt and his New Deal they would be criticized as obstructionists.

As the administration gets its hands on fresh supplies of money, a strong demand has set up for more concrete highways. There seems to be almost a propaganda in favor of constructing concrete highways here, there and everywhere, including two or three or four transcontinental, high speed roadways.

The new public works bill carries a considerable sum for highway construction and it is quite natural that dealers in road materials and equipment want to get hold of it.

Added to the circumstances I have just mentioned, one should remember how congress normally is unpopular with the business community. In many years past I have heard the plaint of business representatives in Washington asking or urging for adjournment.

ORDINANCE NO. 98 OF THE CITY OF ORD, NEBRASKA.

"AN ORDINANCE AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF REFUNDING BONDS OF THE CITY OF ORD, IN THE PRINCIPAL SUM OF FORTY-FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS ($45,000.00) AND PROVIDING FOR THE LEVY AND COLLECTION OF TAXES FOR THE PAYMENT OF THE SAME."

Section 1. The Mayor and the City Council of the City of Ord find and determine: That the Intersection Paving Bonds of the City of Ord in the principal sum of $11,000.00 are outstanding and unpaid and are the valid, interest bearing obligations of said City; that the Water Bonds of the City of Ord in the principal sum of $29,000.00 are outstanding and unpaid and are the valid, interest bearing obligations of said City; that the Intersection Paving Bonds of the City of Ord in the principal sum of $5,000.00 are outstanding and unpaid and are the valid, interest bearing obligations of said City; and that the City has no other funds accumulated for the payment of said outstanding bonds and that the rate of interest since the issuance of said bonds has so declined in the markets that by taking up and paying off such bonds by the issuance of bonds as hereinafter provided, a substantial saving in the amount of yearly running interest will be made to the City; that notice that the City seeks to take up and pay off said bonds by means of "Refunding Bonds" of the City of Ord, in the sum of $45,000.00, and bearing interest at the rate of four per centum (4%) per annum, as provided in the resolution heretofore passed by the Mayor and City Council was duly published as required by Statute for two weeks in the Ord Quiz, a legal newspaper printed and of general circulation in the City of Ord, and the due proof of said publication has been made by the affidavits of the publisher of said newspaper, filed with the City Clerk; that said notice was duly posted upon the building in which the Mayor and City Council hold their meetings for more than two weeks before the date fixed in said notice on which any taxpayer might file objections to said action; that no objections have been filed as to the amount of said bonds and indebtedness or against the validity of such bonds and indebtedness and the date fixed in said notice on which any taxpayer of said City might file objections to such proposed action is passed and the time for filing such objections has expired.

Section 2. For the purpose of taking up and paying off the aforesaid outstanding bonds, there shall be and there are hereby ordered issued negotiable bonds of the City of Ord to be known as "Refunding Bonds" of the principal amount of Forty Five Thousand Dollars ($45,000.00) consisting of forty five bonds, numbered 1 to 45 inclusive being in the denomination of $1,000 each, dated the first day of April, 1935, bearing interest at the rate of four per centum (4%) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of April and October of each year, and the principal of said bonds shall become due as follows:

Bonds 1 to 5 Inc.—$5000.00—due April 1, 1941. Bonds 6 to 10 Inc.—$5000.00—due April 1, 1942. Bonds 11 to 15 Inc.—$5000.00—due April 1, 1943. Bonds 16 to 20 Inc.—$5000.00—due April 1, 1944. Bonds 21 to 25 Inc.—$5000.00—due April 1, 1945. Bonds 26 to 30 Inc.—$5000.00—due April 1, 1946. Bonds 31 to 35 Inc.—$5000.00—due April 1, 1947. Bonds 36 to 40 Inc.—$5000.00—due April 1, 1948. Bonds 41 to 45 Inc.—$5000.00—due April 1, 1949.

All of the above bonds to be optional on any interest date after April 1, 1945. Section 3. The lowest rate of interest at which the Refunding Bonds of said City of Ord in the principal amount of $45,000.00 dated April 1, 1935, and authorized by this Ordinance, can be disposed of at par is 4% per annum, payable semi-annually.

Section 4. Said bonds shall be executed on behalf of the City by being signed by the Mayor and the City Clerk and by affixing the City Seal thereto. The interest coupons shall be executed on behalf of the City by being signed by the Mayor and the City Clerk either by their own proper signatures on each coupon, or by causing their engraved facsimile signatures to be affixed to each coupon.

Section 5. Said bonds shall be substantially the following form: COUNTY OF VALLEY, STATE OF NEBRASKA. REFUNDING BOND OF THE CITY OF ORD. No. _____ $1000.00. KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS: That the City of Ord in the County of Valley, State of Nebraska, hereby acknowledges itself to owe and for value received promise to pay to bearer the sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) in lawful money of the United States of America, on the first day of April, 19____, with interest thereon from the date hereof until paid at the rate of four per centum (4%) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of April and October of each year, upon presentation and surrender of the interest coupons hereto attached as they severally become due. Both principal and interest of this bond are payable at the office of the County Treasurer of Valley County, in the City of Ord, Nebraska. For the prompt payment of this bond, both principal and interest, at maturity, the full faith, credit and resources of this City are hereby irrevocably pledged.

This bond is redeemable by the City on any interest date after April 1, 1945.

Attest: Rex Jewett, City Clerk. SEAL

This bond is one of a series of forty-five bonds, numbered from one to forty-five, both inclusive, and being in the denomination of One Thousand Dollars each ($1,000.00) of a total principal amount of Forty Five Thousand Dollars ($45,000.00) of like date and tenor herewith issued by said City for the purpose of taking up and paying off its valid outstanding interest bearing bonds; Water Bonds, and Intersection Paving Bonds of the principal amount of Forty Five Thousand Dollars ($45,000.00) and in full compliance with the provisions of Article VI, Chapter II, of the Compiled Statutes of Nebraska for 1929, and pursuant to proceedings duly had and ordinances duly passed by the Mayor and City Council of said City.

It is hereby certified and recited that all conditions, acts and things required by law to exist or to be done, precedent to and in the issuance of this bond, and of the bonds refunded thereby, did exist, did happen and were done and performed in regular and due form and time as required by law, and that the indebtedness of said City, including this bond and the indebtedness hereby refunded, does not now and did not at the time of the incurring of the original indebtedness, exceed any limitation imposed by law, and that provision has been made for the levy and collection of taxes annually in sufficient amount to pay principal and interest of this bond when due.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, the City of Ord, by its Mayor and City Council, has caused this bond to be executed in its behalf by being signed by its Mayor and attested by its City Clerk and its corporate seal to be hereto affixed, and has caused the interest coupons hereto attached to be signed by its Mayor and City Clerk by their respective facsimile signatures, and said officers do and for their own proper signatures, their respective facsimile signatures appearing on said coupons.

Dated this first day of April, 1935. CITY OF ORD, NEBRASKA. By Gould B. Flagg, Mayor.

Chancellor Hitler's Defiance of Treaty Provisions Alarms Europe; Drouth Threat Causes Wallace to Lift Restrictions on Spring Wheat Planting.

Chancellor Hitler

GERMANY, having recently boldly announced that she was now possessed of a military air force in violation of the Treaty of Versailles, still more boldly declares she is no longer bound by the obligations of that pact and proposes to build up an army of about 480,000 men, comprising 12 corps of three divisions each. This was the decision of the cabinet, which decreed compulsory military training throughout the Reich.

The exact number of men in the army will be determined by a law to be enacted later. This was Chancellor Hitler's reply to the action of France's chamber of deputies in accepting Premier Flandin's plan to increase the term of conscript service in the French army to 18 months and subsequently to two years. Germany considered that France was "dealing the last blow to disarmament," and Hitler, rushing to Berlin from Berchtesgaden, directed the action of the cabinet and issued to the German nation a rousing appeal for full support. He declared that the failure of other nations to reduce armament as called for in the Versailles treaty had released Germany from all treaty obligations, and that while the Reich had only peaceful intentions, it must re-arm to protect its territorial integrity and maintain the respect of the world as a co-guarantor of European peace.

France is in no mood to take Hitler's defiance "lying down." An appeal was sent to the League of Nations to convene an extraordinary council to deal with Germany's violation of the Versailles pact. The note hinted at the possibilities of economic sanctions (penalties) against Germany which might result in a boycott. An attempt is being made to force Britain into an alliance with France, and the mission of Sir John Simon, British foreign minister, to bring Germany back into the comity of European nations is regarded as seriously compromised. France and Italy insist that Simon go to Berlin as spokesman of the three powers, and not as the representative of Britain alone. Premier Mussolini is said to be backing France, and is alleged to be the prime mover in a scheme to revive the pre-war policy of encircling Germany with a ring of steel.

President Roosevelt expressed his hope that his "good neighbor" policy might be extended to Europe as a basis for peaceful settlement of the tense situation. Just how the President expects to prevail upon those traditional enemies to become "good neighbors" was not fully explained. He declined to say whether this government will send a note to Germany protesting abrogation of military provisions of the separate treaty with this country. Although the United States is not a signatory to the Versailles pact, the separate peace treaty negotiated with Germany includes the military phases of the Versailles treaty. Many people in this country feel that United States intervention in the European dispute is neither necessary nor advisable.

GOV. MARTIN L. DAVEY of Ohio, charged by Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins with "corruption" in Ohio relief, went before the state senate and demanded a thorough investigation. He defied Hopkins to come to Ohio for trial on a warrant he had secured charging Hopkins with criminal libel. Hopkins had alleged in a letter that he has proof of "corruption" of relief administration in Ohio including soliciting of funds for campaign purposes from firms that sold relief materials. Hopkins, through C. C. Stillman, FERA regional officer, has taken over administration of Ohio relief. Department of Justice attorneys in Washington declare they stand ready to defend Hopkins, but that there was no indication that Hopkins would go to Ohio, although he may change his mind. The spectacular blowup is said to have had its inception in the 1934 political campaign. Davey made campaign speeches charging that Ohio relief was mismanaged, and particularly aimed his barbs at Cleveland. This irked Cleveland leaders since relief there had been administered through a non-political group, which later became the official Cuyahoga county relief administration. Hopkins often took note of the fact that Cleveland's relief committee was "one of the best in the country." Later Davey pledged himself not to touch the Cleveland organization, but is said to have ousted several members, and repeated old charges. Cleveland leaders took the fight to Washington.

Ohio Democrats stand firmly behind Davey. The Democratic delegation to the Ohio legislature appealed to President Roosevelt "to do right the wrong which had been done our governor" and Francis W. Poulson, Democratic state chairman, summoned to appear before the grand jury, delivered a scathing attack on Hopkins. Poulson charged that Republicans in high government offices "have betrayed the President," and named Hopkins as "one who could be expected to tear down the Democratic party."

CLARENCE DARROW, foe of NRA, and author of the famous report which attacked NRA more than a year ago, assailed the administration's economic theories, including the national recovery act, in his testimony before the senate finance committee. The famous lawyer whose sharp speech and fiery courtroom tactics have made him famous, denounced NRA as playing into the hands of big business the destruction of the "little fellow." He argued that NRA attacked the problem from the wrong angle and that the real trouble lay in faulty distribution, thus assailing the theory of scarcity. Darrow swept aside statements that NRA had helped organized labor, reduced unemployment and abolished child labor, with an assertion that it would have happened anyway. "The panic put an end to child labor," he said. "There wasn't any room for it while fathers and mothers were out of work."

"There is no question that small business has suffered under the NRA," Darrow continued. "It has suffered more than it would have suffered otherwise."

RESTRICTIONS on planting spring wheat have been removed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, who fears the effect of another widespread drouth. The year's first crop report showing that farmers intend to plant 17,847,000 acres of spring wheat is said to be responsible for Wallace's about face. Last year the acreage was 18,521,000 acres. The administration is convinced that the government and farmers have a duty to protect consumers against a wheat shortage, he said. Farmers will plan an additional 900,000 to 2,300,000 acres as a result of the new order, and will harvest between ten and thirty million bushels more, Wallace estimates. Spring wheat normally constitutes about one-fourth of the nation's crop. He denied that the European situation pointing to a possibility of increased sales had anything to do with the new decision. Farmers under contract who plant their full spring wheat acreage will receive full benefit payments, but in return will be required to agree to reduce production in 1936 by the amount asked in next year's contract plus the amount they would have reduced this year. There is no indication that the corn acreage control program for 1935 will be altered.

BY a vote of 202 to 191, the house voted to substitute the Patman currency expansion bill for payment of the soldiers' bonus for the "sound money" plan of Representative Vinson. A bolterous house thus defied President Roosevelt's warning that he will veto immediate payment of the adjusted compensation certificates. The administration is counting on the senate sustaining the veto.

DONALD R. RICHBERG was named by the President to lead a reorganized NRA board, taking the place of S. Clay Williams, resigned. At the same time the President increased the group governing the Blue Eagle agency from five to seven. A White House statement emphasized the change was made to accelerate the drive to push extension of the NRA through congress.

THE federal tree planting project will get under way in North Dakota on April 15. The project has already been started in other states, but the major development of the program will be centered in North Dakota this year. The state has been assigned a quota of 600,000 trees for a belt 35 miles long. This is only a part of the operations which envisage a 100-mile wide belt of trees extending from near the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico. The work started March 15 in Texas and Oklahoma, and March 15 in Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota projects will be started at the same time as that in North Dakota.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is looking ahead to 1936. Authoritative word has reached the Capital that he wants all controversial administration legislation cleared away at this session, so that congress can meet for a short and harmonious session prior to the 1936 Presidential campaign. Besides the relief bill, Mr. Roosevelt is said to be specially anxious to have congress pass his social security program; utility holding company legislation; a bill continuing NRA for two years; transportation regulation coordination; banking legislation; ship subsidy and increase in the capital of the Home Owners Loan corporation. If this can be cleared from the calendar, it may prevent any serious party squabbles that might interfere with plans to bring about Roosevelt's re-election. The White House is seriously concerned over rumors that congress may scrap a good part of the administration's controversial legislation.

MUSSOLINI'S answer to the latest note on the Abyssinian situation postpones approval of the proposal that differences be decided by an international commission on conciliations "at least until the fulfillment of direct negotiations has been proved." Il Duce made a counter proposal suggesting that the Italian minister to Abyssinia and the Ethiopian foreign minister get together for a series of personal conferences, go over all the data, and attempt to settle the dispute without the necessity of conciliation under the direction of the League of Nations. Direct negotiations are said to have the approval of both the French and British governments.

SPRING arrived in the West with a stifling dust storm which shrouded the country from eastern New Mexico to the Great Lakes. Powdered soil whipped up from the drouth-scoured prairies hid the sun, and beat relentlessly upon the senses. A dozen deaths were reported, due to suffocations, dust-induced pneumonia and traffic accidents. Freight trains were rolled to sidings, and passenger trains were closed in a number of communities in western states. Wheat prices jumped from 2 to 3 1/2 cents a bushel as winds cut into the dry Southwest, and Governor Landon of Kansas appealed to President Roosevelt for aid.

PLANS to reduce American money to a single class—possibly federal reserve notes—are being considered by the administration, thus simplifying the nation's monetary structure and making it easier to control. Before this could be established it is necessary to make widespread changes in existing laws, and this will undoubtedly be undertaken when more immediate stages of the recovery drive are completed. According to a high government official, one class of money must be established in order that the government may effectively control issuance of money. Under this plan treasury notes and United States notes would be retired. The silver certificates backed by bullion now held in the treasury might be withdrawn from circulation and transferred to the federal reserve banks as was done with the gold certificates.

COMPROMISE and White House pressure brought about the defeat of the McCarran "prevailing wage" amendment to the work relief bill in the senate, and administration leaders were confident that the measure would be laid before the President for signature within a few days. The deadlock over the amendment was broken when Senator Richard B. Russell, Jr., of Georgia, proposed a substitute which leaves the President free to pay "security wages," officially estimated at $5.0 a month, provided they do not adversely affect the wage scale in private industry; and providing that the prevailing wage must be paid on all permanent federal building projects. This way out, which had been approved by the White House, was accepted by the senate by a vote of 83 to 2, after the McCarran amendment had been defeated, 50 to 38. The two votes against the compromise were cast by Metcalfe of Rhode Island and Hale of Maine, both Republicans. Before the vote on the McCarran amendment was taken Senator Glass announced he was authorized to say that if it prevailed President Roosevelt would veto the measure.

Senate action finally developed into a race to pass the measure before Huey Long returned from Louisiana. Administration forces defeated three attempts to slash the bill, and overrode protests of old line Democrats that the bill imperiled the nation's credit. Senator Glass, chairman of the appropriations committee in charge of the bill, solemnly asserted: "I stand on my prediction that this tremendous appropriation will impair the credit of the United States."
