Mrs. E. J. Babcock Wrote Best Tale Of Pioneer Days

Judges Award $10 Quiz Prize To No. Loup Woman; Honorable Mention to Three.

For her story chronicling the first church services ever held in the Loup valley, published in the Quiz on August 8, 1935, Mrs. E. J. Babcock of North Loup this week was adjudged winner of the Pioneer Days story contest sponsored by this newspaper and has been mailed a $10.00 check by the publisher, H. D. Leggett.

Selection of Mrs. Babcock's story as the best entered in the contest was made by a committee of three judges who read all the stories carefully. Historical accuracy, literary ability and news interest were the principal factors in determining the award, these judges say.

First Services in 1872. More than twenty stories of old-time days in Valley and adjacent counties appeared in the Quiz during 1935. The writer of each was paid for his labors at the rate of 10c per column inch and the $10.00 prize was an additional reward for the best story during the year.

Mrs. Babcock's tale, published under the heading, "Seventh Day Baptists Held First Church Services Among Valley County Settlers," told about the first church services held on May 18, 1872 at a camp east of the present site of North Loup.

Elder Oscar Babcock conducted the services using a rocking chair for a pulpit and Charles Rood led the singing.

Organized First Church.

Two religious services had been held in the Loup valley previously, one by a group of surveyors led by Robert Harvey which occurred on a big island near Ord and another by Rev. George Hillman in Howard county. Neither was held by a group anxious to form a permanent church, however, whereas the S. D. B. services in 1872 led directly to formation of a church there early the following spring, which also was the first church in Valley county.

Mrs. Babcock's prize-winning story also gives historically accurate details of the founding of the North Loup colony and gives names of first settlers.

All Stories Interesting.

Other stories given honorable mention by judges include one by Mrs. Ben Eberhart about the blizzard of 1888 in which Minnie Freeman led her pupils to safety, one by G. W. McNulty dealing with the capture of Doc Middleton, the notorious horse thief, and one by Dr. George R. Gard telling about a terrible blizzard in Loup county in which Charlie Stearns was frozen to death and Joe Leecy lost both of his legs. All the stories proved interesting reading to the judges and they complimented the writers in glowing terms.

Again in 1936 the Quiz will conduct a Pioneer Days story contest and the first prize again will be $10.00. Every story accepted and published will be paid for at the rate of 10c per column inch, as was done last year. It is hoped that enough stories will be submitted so one may be printed each week during the year.

Ord Cage Season Will Open Friday

Opening of Ord high school's 1936 basketball season will take place Friday night with Coach H. F. Brockman's Chanticleers swinging into action against the fast St. Paul quintet. The game will be played in the Ord gymnasium which probably will be crowded, as fans are anxious to see how the 1935 Loup valley champions shape up this year.

Coach Brockman is making no prophecies except that he will have a good team before the season ends. "We may take it on the chin in early games," said M. D. Bell, superintendent of schools, this morning. "Brockman has a lot of material, most of it green, and the starting line-up for tomorrow night's battle will be undetermined until almost game time."

Faul Blessing, who has been used at center in practice games, is the only player sure of a place in the starting line-up. The lanky boy, only regular of last year's championship team who wasn't lost by graduation, may be moved to a forward berth with Dean Barta getting the nod at center. Tunnickoff, Adamek, Haskell and Clark are others who stand a good show of starting the game.

Next Tuesday evening the Ord team plays at Sargent and next Friday Dannebrog comes to Ord.

—Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Collison and sons and Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Collison were in Ord Christmas from Bruning to spend Christmas day with relatives.

Will Make Effort To Plant Artichoke Here

Interest in developing in the matter of raising artichokes in Valley county and an effort will be made to interest a few leading farmers in planting small acreages in the spring of 1936. Local business men who are interested will endeavor to get the local Chamber of Commerce to get behind the movement with their endorsement and support and the matter will be taken up at the first meeting of the organization in the new year. It is hoped that arrangements can be made to have speakers who are familiar with the growing of artichokes and the uses to which they can be put, here at an early date to talk to all interested about the matter. The Quiz will try to keep all interested posted and probably there will be more to say about the matter next week.

200 Couples Attend Dance.

Emil Darges, who manages the Ord dance hall, reports that 200 couples were in attendance at his dance Monday night, the attraction being Jimmy Barnett's orchestra from Yankton, S. D. The Barnett band is one of the best on the road and attracts large crowds wherever it plays. The twelve musicians travel in a specially constructed house trailer fitted with beds, radio and all conveniences.

New Year Brings Better Outlook For The Farmer

Local Supervisor Tells of the Way Resettlement Program Aids Valley Co. Farmer.

"Happy New Year!" This age old saying has a new significance for farmers of Valley county, according to Lores McMIndes, local supervisor of the resettlement administration, with headquarters at Ord.

"1936 will bring new opportunities for farmers in this vicinity," he said. "A chance for deserving farmers to improve the land they live on is one phase of the program. A federal loan under which to purchase necessary seed, feed and equipment is another. Then there is the opportunity to get off relief rolls and win their way back at honest labor. Resettlement is helping them do that through work agreements."

Since the resettlement office has been established in Valley county, Mr. McMIndes said, more than 100 families had been aided by one phase of the program or another. He said the work of the county advisory committee, composed of Dave Arnold, Henry Zikmund and A. W. Cornell and the farm debt adjustment committee, of which Chas. Johnson is chairman, and of C. C. Dale, county agent, had been invaluable in assisting farmers.

"Members of the county advisory committee or the debt adjustment committee, the county agent or myself will be glad to tell the story of resettlement before group meetings," said Mr. McMIndes.

Stan Gross House Ransacked Saturday, Property Was Stolen

Saturday afternoon while Stanley Gross and family, of Vinton, were in Ord, their home was ransacked and much property stolen. The loot included an automatic shotgun, rifle, three fountain pens, three rings, a bracelet, some shirts, shoes and other clothing. The nervous thief also took time to eat part of a cake freshly baked by Mrs. Gross and left on the kitchen table to cool. Sheriff Round is working on the case and believes an arrest will be made soon.

Kruml-Hullinsky.

Tuesday morning Judge John L. Anderson united in marriage Miss Barbara Kruml, 22, daughter of Albert Kruml of Sargent, to Emil Hullinsky, 21, son of Frank Hullinsky, sr., of Burwell. Both are well known and greatly respected in their home communities. They will make their home on a farm.

Burwell Man Is Fined.

Because he drank too much liquor while attending a dance in Ord Monday night, Ramon Walford, a young Burwell farmer, was arrested by Night Marshal Roy Pardue and the next morning in county court was fined $10 and costs by Judge John L. Anderson.

Presbyterian Church.

Begin the New Year by coming to Sunday school and church. Sunday school at 10:00 a. m. Morning worship at 11:00 a. m. Young people's service at 6:30 p. m.

Evening service 7:30 p. m. Missionary society meets Monday, January 13 at 2:30 p. m., with Mrs. C. J. Mortensen with Mrs. Goodhand assisting hostess.

—Miss Lorraine Haas was an overnight guest of Miss Maxine Johnson at the O. E. Johnson home Monday night.

Corn-Hog Program For 1936 to Start Monday, January 6

Will Sign Contracts and Elect Committeemen At A Series Of Community Meetings.

The corn-hog program for 1936 will be started at a series of precinct meetings to be held beginning Monday, January 6, announces C. C. Dale, agricultural agent for Valley county. At these meetings the new contract will be explained first, then applications for contracts will be signed, and following this the election of community committeemen will be held.

It is very essential that there be a good attendance at these meetings as only those who have signed applications will be eligible to vote or to hold office, and with the amount of work which will fall upon the community committeemen it is more necessary than in the past that capable, fair-minded men be elected to the community committees.

It will be the duty of these committeemen to set the corn and hog bases for each farm under contract and every man who intends to sign a contract should be thinking seriously about which men in the precinct are best fitted to do this work. Everyone who is interested at all should also attend these meetings to hear the contract read and discussed so that he can get accurate first hand knowledge of what the contract requires and thus save trouble and misunderstanding later on.

Following is the schedule of precinct meetings:

- Meet First at Michigan Monday, January 6—Michigan, at Fairplay school house, 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, January 7—Noble, at Brick school house, 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, January 8—Elyria, at Town Hall, 8:00 p. m.; Eureka, at District No. 44, 7:30 p. m.; Genesee, at National Hall, 8:00 p. m. Thursday, January 9—North Loup, at Town hall, 2 p. m.; Springdale, at Springdale school house, 7:30 p. m.; Ord, at District Court Room, 2 p. m.; Independence, at Barker school, 7:30 p. m. Friday, January 10—Davis Creek at Davis Creek school, 7:30 p. m.; Vinton, at Cottonwood school, 7:30 p. m. Monday, January 13—Arcadia, at Library, 2 p. m.; Yale, at Hayes Creek school, 7:30 p. m.; Liberty, at Pleasant Valley school, 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, January 14—Enterprise, at District No. 9, 7:30 p. m.

Cold Snap Hit Ord On Christmas Day

Temperatures unofficially reported all the way from 3 to 15 degrees below zero greeted Ord and vicinity early Christmas morning, this being the coldest snap since last winter. A near-blizzard raged Christmas eve but only a light snow fell and Christmas morning dawned clear and cold. The temperature moderated within 24 hours but has dropped well toward the zero mark every night since.

—Madams C. C. Brown and R. O. Hunter returned to Ord last Thursday after spending a few days with the Lloyd and Norris VanWie families at Hastings, and with Mrs. Fern Anthony at Lincoln. From Lincoln they were accompanied by Mrs. Anthony to Tekamah where they visited the Floyd Meguire family before returning to Ord.

—Orville H. Sowl was quite ill and confined to his home several days last week with flu. A daughter, Paula, was also sick.

Busy Ord Matron Given New Duties

No Liquor For WPA Men, Warns Felton

Drinking of intoxicating liquor while at work or reporting for work under the influence of liquor, will not be tolerated on WPA projects, say instructions received last week by H. Dale Park, local supervisor, from D. F. Felton, state administrator.

Park was instructed to see to it that all workers be informed that this drastic penalty will be enforced.

"I do not want the wives and families of relief workers to suffer," said Mr. Felton, "but at the same time we cannot and will not permit workers on the job if intoxicated. The safety of other employees is at stake."

Best Decorated In Loup Valley

Burwell folks who have visited Ord during the holiday season report that city is the most handsomely decorated town in this section of the Loup valley. By generous use of many red and green electric light bulbs has brought out a lighting effect that carries with it the Christmas spirit. The beautiful Valley county court house and square furnish a wonderful background to bring out the lighting effects.—Burwell Tribune.

Ord Schools Reopen.

After a ten-day recess over the Christmas and New Year holidays, the Ord schools reopened this morning. Supt. Millard D. Bell, who had an emergency operation for appendicitis two weeks ago, was back on the job this morning.

Recipe Calendar To Be Issued Within Next Few Days

The Quiz force is busily working on the 1936 edition of the Recipe Calendar and within the next few days a copy of this beautiful book will be mailed to every paid-in-advance subscriber. The Calendar is more beautiful than ever before and subscribers who want them are urged to pay up at once as the edition will be limited.

Mrs. Dick Bradley Dies at No. Platte Of Crash Injuries

Hurt in Collision Thursday And Passed Away Sunday; Her Ord Relatives to Funeral.

Mrs. H. P. "Dick" Bradley, of Madrid, Neb., died early Sunday morning in a hospital at North Platte as result of injuries she received in an auto accident between Grant and Granton last Thursday. Her husband, injured in the same accident, is recovering. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bradley formerly lived in Ord, leaving here about twenty years ago, but have visited here frequently since.

Mrs. Bradley's injuries consisted of a fractured skull, ankle and knee, fractured bones in her hands and internal injuries. Her husband sprained one arm and bruised a knee badly. The auto in which they were riding struck another car which drove onto the highway without warning, Ord relatives were informed.

Rites at No. Platte.

Mrs. O. M. Seerley, of Grand Island, left for North Platte Thursday upon learning of the injury to her daughter. L. W. Seerley and Mrs. George Hubbard, of Ord, brother and sister of Mrs. Bradley, and members of their families, left for North Platte Tuesday to attend the funeral rites.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Bradley is mourned by three sons, all grown to young manhood. Brothers and sisters who survive include, besides the Ord people, Pope Seerley, of Bridgeport, Grace and Lester of Grand Island, Mrs. Rash Bush, of Polk, Mrs. Roy Work, of Loveland, Colo., Mrs. Charles Miller, of McCook, Loyce Seerley, of Kearney, and Trel Seerley, of Grand Island. Her eldest sister, Mrs. Cherry, was killed when the auto in which she was riding hit a train near Polk about 11 years ago.

When Mr. Bradley lived in Ord he operated a real estate business. Later he became a banker at Granton and in recent years has had a cafe at Madrid, also selling real estate.

Mrs. Frank Andersen Given Appointment

Development and supervision of home programs for rehabilitation families will be the work of Mrs. Lucene Andersen, newly appointed rural rehabilitation home supervisor for Valley county, with headquarters at Ord, it was announced this week by the regional offices of the Resettlement Administration, under which rehabilitation work is carried on.

"Production of the major part of their food by rehabilitation families will be of primary importance in my work," said Mrs. Andersen. "We will, of course, take up other home economic phases, such as home sewing and home management, which will include the keeping of systematic accounts."

Mrs. Andersen, who has made her home in Ord for the past several years, is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, where she majored in home economics. She afterwards taught home economics in Geneva and later in Ord. Last year she served as director of the FERA nursery school. She will work in close cooperation with Lores McMIndes, local supervisor of the Resettlement Administration, who also headquarters at Ord.

As To Judgeship.

The Tribune has no axe to grind when it comes to the selection of District Judges from the Eleventh Judicial District but in all fairness to the voters of the District we believe that this end of the district is entitled to one of the members on the bench. It would hardly seem a fair arrangement of affairs to have both of the judges residing in Grand Island. It is frequently a great advantage and saving of time and expense to secure early and immediate hearings in court cases, especially in criminal matters, and this can only be accomplished when one of the judges reside in this end of the district. The heavy end of the vote unquestionably resides in the east end of the district, but that is no good reason for the selection of both judges from there. Grand Island is entitled to one of the judges but one only.—Burwell Tribune.

Card of Thanks.

We take this means of thanking our many friends and neighbors and all who have assisted us in any way during the illness and death of our beloved father and grandfather.

Mrs. Nancy Covert and family.

—Miss Audrey Mella and Harold Sleichta arrived in Ord last week from Vail, Ia., where the Sleichta family are now making their home. Audrey accompanied the family to Iowa about a month ago and had since been a guest in their home.

Is Depression Over? Farm Sells For More Than Mortgage

The depression must finally be ended, believes Alfred Weigardt, clerk of the district court here. Monday, for the first time in the six years he has served as clerk, a farm sold at sheriff's sale for a price greater than the mortgage, interest and costs against it. This was the Thomas E. Deane quarter 1-2 miles north of Arcadia. Mortgage of $2,600, plus $460 interest and costs, was held by Mrs. Laura Hageman, of Broken Bow. Besides the mortgage there were two other bidders Monday, the place being bought by A. S. Blakeslee for $3,120. Joe Hron was the other bidder. The sale was conducted by Sheriff George S. Round.

Chickenpox at Elyria.

Sheriff George S. Round was called to Elyria Tuesday to quarantine six homes for chickenpox, an epidemic of which seems to be raging in that community. The Elyria school, which resumed Monday after the Christmas holiday, has been closed until the disease abates. Most of the cases seem to be a very mild form, doctors say.

Hutton Pleads For Ban On Liquor Sale

Voters Should Prohibit Sale By Drink Next November Says Anti-Saloon Head.

"Ann and Charles Lindbergh are fleeing America today to save their child Jon, even as Mary and Joseph fled Judea to save the Child Jesus; and America blushes for shame, for their flight proclaims that, though modern in machinery, our morality is that of 2000 years ago," said R. P. Hutton, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Nebraska, in a New Year's temperance sermon-address in the Methodist church at North Loup Sunday.

Continuing, he said: "History records that Herod's palace set the people of his kingdom an example of wine-serving. Our White House sets such an example today under an administration whose first prophecy was, 'From this hour the 18th Amendment is doomed,' and whose first performance was to 'bring back beer,' and now under the repeal, 'the racket to end rackets,' that administration sees the nation's best loved young family fleeing from the most brutal of all rackets, and the repeal liquor administrator resigned after confessing that 'rum row is lengthened, rum lawlessness strengthened.'"

"Let the Lindbergh episode move us as christians to hallow New Year with a high resolve that liquor shall be toppled from power in America, and a united and aggressive campaign to accomplish that result, beginning by initiating prohibition of 'sale by drink' here in Nebraska to be voted on at the general election next November."

Dr. Hutton also spoke at Davis Creek and Mira Valley churches while here.

Quiz Is Published Day Late This Week

The Quiz is being published on Thursday this week instead of on Wednesday as usual, this change being made necessary by the New Year holiday that fell on Wednesday. The same arrangement was made last week also. Subscribers who get their papers a day later than usual will thus be informed of the reason. Next week publication will be on Wednesday afternoon at the usual hour.

Shelter Belt Head Is Married In Missouri

F. M. Hestbeck, junior forester in charge of the district shelter belt office located in Ord, was married on Christmas day at Senath, Mo., to Miss Mary F. Douglas, a registered nurse. The ceremony took place at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Douglas. The newlyweds left immediately on a wedding trip to Oklahoma, returning to Ord Sunday. Mr. Hestbeck, who is a graduate of Colorado State university, has been stationed in Ord several months and expects to be here until shelter belt planting next year is completed.

Glenn Larson In Accident.

Glenn Larsen, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Larsen of Davis Creek, lost two fingers when he got his hand caught in an ensilage cutter Saturday. The doctor who attended him said it might be necessary to remove his whole right hand as the skin was torn off and the hand badly mangled.

Notice of Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Nebraska State bank will be held in the banking rooms at 2:00 p. m., Friday, January 31, 1936.

Killer of Parkos Adjudged Insane In Custer County

Committed to Asylum Monday For Fatal Assault Upon Aged Comstock Resident.

Joe Pazderka, who injured James Parkos of Comstock so seriously in a night altercation that he died, Monday was committed to the state asylum for the criminally insane, the hearing taking place before the Custer county insanity commission, in session at Broken Bow. Pazderka had been held in jail there ever since his assault upon Mr. Parkos two weeks before.

James Parkos was one of the early Bohemian settlers of the part of the country, settling in the west part of Valley county. About five years ago he moved to Comstock, his wife died shortly after ward and he lived alone until befriended Pazderka and took him into his home to live.

Pazderka previously had spent about two years in a Nebraska asylum, being discharged March 9, 1921, the Custer County Chief says. He has lived in Comstock most of the time since able to secure work, he is typically destitute when taken to Mr. Parkos.

Died From Assault.

His assault upon Mr. Parkos, who was 78 years old, occurred about the middle of December. Pazderka's story, to which he adhered rigidly ever since the affair, was that he thought some of the boys who had battered him and pestered him in Comstock had gained admittance to the house in which he and Mr. Parkos were sleeping. Arising in the dark he struck and kicked Mr. Parkos so badly, believing Parkos to be a stranger, that Parkos died.

Mr. Parkos remained unconscious from the time of the assault until he died on December 20, so his story never was given to Custer county authorities. He was the father of several children, 21 married. Funeral rites for him were held at Geranium Catholic church on Dec. 23 and interment was in the Catholic cemetery here.

New Ford Wrecked Sunday.

A new Ford car driven by County Superintendent Simes, of field county, in which were Sheriff Johnson, Marshal Uir Bernard Wagner, all of Bu overturned in the ditch early Monday morning. The men escaped without injury. They were crowded into the ditch by a passing car, they stated.

New Year's Eve Is Quietly Celebrated

Ord people, for the most part, observed New Year's eve in a quiet manner and little merry-making was in evidence in public places of the city. Several family and group watch parties were held, whistles and bells sounded as the old year gave way to the new but most people regarded it as "just another evening" and remained quietly at home.

Liquor stores of the city say they had only a normal business Tuesday and officers state that no arrests were made that night.

To Manage Greeley Store.

George Puncocar, brother of Joe and Jerry Puncocar of Ord is the new manager of the Center store at Greeley, transferred there from F. Wm. Sheehan, former manager. Greeley, was transferred from Grand Island store. George Puncocar was visiting in Ord Sunday enroute to his new position.

Goff Hatchery Moves.

This week Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Goff have been busy moving their hatchery equipment from the Bailey building to the Hawkins building which was rebuilt and repainted during the fall. The new location provides more room for the Goff hatchery and is going to be very satisfactory, Mr. Goff believes.

Frank Pelska to Sell.

Frank Pelska, implement dealer at Elyria, is advertising a complete close-out of his stock in today's issue of the Quiz. He is quitting business, he says. Radli & Burdick are his auctioneers and the sale will be held Wednesday, January 8. A few head of hogs and cattle are included in the offering.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

I have taken as many as possible of those in arrears off the list, but was unable to get the job done. It will be finished before another week rolls around. I am mighty sorry to have to do this. I would be glad to keep on carrying who are in arrears if it was able to do so and pay expenses. They would pay me later could keep them on the list. A percent would do like a man did last Saturday. Her paper was out the middle of July. I came in and asked how far behind was, said I should have when it was out, and out of the office. Some will miss their Quiz this week and they won't see this notice. Another 150 will miss it next week. They will read this notice and will know why when their paper fails to show up next week. As I said last week, if you are back, want the paper and will come in, I am sure we can adjust the matter to our mutual satisfaction, in case you cannot pay up. A score have done so and went away happy.

I am reading with much interest Swift & Co's year book sent me by the president of Swift & Co, Mr. G. F. Swift. It is a most attractively printed book and it is full of very interesting information. It gives somewhat of a history of the firm's business of the past year, comparing it with the business of the year. The gross business of the firm for their fiscal year which ended the 31st of October, 1935 was $767,000,000 and this is 18 per cent less than the firm in the previous year. The net was 1.9 cents on each dollar business done, which would not be a large profit. Shareholders got a profit, that is interest on their investment, of 6.7 per cent which is a very good rate of return. Not all of this earnings is stockholders, some being in sinking funds to provide for the payment of obligations.

I was glad to see an Ord man named to head the state assistance board. I. D. Tolson should be and is well qualified for the job. As a matter of fact I don't think he bettered his financial condition much by making the change from deputy secretary of state to secretary of the assistance committee. True he gets between three and four hundred dollars more salary but he will probably get a hundred times more kicks in handling the job. For he will not be able to come anywhere near paying out to the body what they think they should have.

I wish it was possible to disburse this assistance without so much expense. The necessary legislation was passed by the late special session as near as possible by the government wanted it, understanding is that the government is going along with the 50-50 on the deal. Yet the thing that is found necessary when and Deputy Attorney Murphy to fly to Washington, the matter up to the authority. It costs money to do that; it costs a lot of money each day they are in the capital city. It seems to me, after all the trips that Mr. Murphy has already made back there and after the government has had its way about the Nebraska set-up, all that should have been necessary could have been handled by correspondence. Guess I am old fashioned and all out of line.

And that reminds me, a friend came in the other day and said, "Hank, if you don't quit shooting off your mouth about the New Deal you won't get elected next year." Well, that's probably right. But so far I am not running for anything and if I don't accept the filing that has been made no one will have a chance to vote against me. I have not decided, yet, what to do, but I have fully decided one thing and that is that I am going to say on this page, just what I think regardless of votes. And if I go to the campaign I am going to continue to do the same. If I should run and be defeated in the primary I wouldn't lose near as much fishing next summer as I might if I was one of the high men in the primary. If I should decide to run and should be favored with a majority of the votes next November for the best of my disinterested interest. I am sure the people of Valley county and I think the people of the 29th unicameral district generally know that I have been pretty independent in politics from the time that I was a Bullmoose in the days of Theodore Roosevelt down to the present time. I believe the farmers of this and adjoining counties know how I have always stood in regard to them and their troubles. I think a lot of the New Deal acts are mighty good and I think more of them are the bunk and I shall no doubt discuss them more or less in the coming months. There is a space on this page that is free for anyone who wants to discuss the political situation and I welcome contributions to the Quiz Forum any and every week.

A member of the county board was called the other evening to look into conditions at the home of an Ord family. He found no fuel, little to eat, the little kids going to bed cold and hungry. The father is a worthless scamp who spends his money for booze while his children and wife suffer. The authorities who give out the cash assistance tried giving it to the wife but found the brutal father would take it away from her and spend it as he pleased. There is not a liquor dealer in Ord who would think of selling him liquor but he finds someone lowlived enough to take his money and go and buy the stuff for him. Some way should and perhaps will, be found to put him where he belongs and when that time comes the public will rally to the assistance of the wife and children.

Yes, I will be glad to send in the new or renewal subscription for your daily paper or any magazine you may want. It doesn't cost you any more and I am glad to have the small commission which the publisher of the daily allows.

A lot of people will welcome having a chance to subscribe for the Quiz for a distant relative, knowing that it will be stopped when the time is out, unless it is reordered. Make it a gift for 1936.

Lores McMIndes says a widow applied to his department the other day for relief and he asked her how many children she had. She replied, "Two by my first husband, two by my second and three by myself."

Irma had occasion to consult Dr. Weekes the other day and as he started to write a prescription he told her to stick out her tongue, and as she did he kept on writing. When he handed her the prescription she said, Dr. you never looked at my tongue and I had it out all that time. He said, "It wasn't necessary, I just wanted to keep you still while I wrote the prescription."

Statistics show that when the new federal security law gets into full stride it will extract from employers and employees of Nebraska a total of 42 million dollars a year. Nebraska is only one of 48 states, half of them at least having many times the employers and employees that this state has, hence the money extracted from such states as New York, Pennsylvania, and other eastern manufacturing states will be many times what is taken from Nebraska. But multiply the 42 million which Nebraska will have to pay by the 48 states and see what you will get. With the Townsend plan in operation, surely there would be no social security problem to contend with. The crime problem which costs almost countless millions, would be largely solved. Perhaps the savings in these and in many other things which I could mention would provide enough funds so the proposed transaction thing wouldn't bring the cost of the things we have to buy much if any higher than they were in the booming days during and after the great war. I am not now advocating the Townsend plan; I am just musing as I sit at my typewriter.

CARE OF COUNTY BOARD

By George Gowen

Travelogue. Cattlemen are peculiar duffers—a race unto themselves. Dave Brethauer says to feed cattle is a malady, a disease, a tiny bug that works into your system, and when it once becomes well embedded, it never leaves. Threshermen are similar. They vow they will never thresh again, but along comes another summer and the golden grain, and all heavens cannot keep them at home. It is the same with a cattle feeder.

After my bitter experience last year, I told my wife I was done. And more especially this year when the price rebound rose to such heights. "No, I'll get no more steers. It will take twice the number of dollars to buy them this year as it did before. NO. Let the other fellow get rich. I'll stand back and sleep nights."

And then I heard of Ed Lee, and Frank Jackman and Arnold, Herb and Oscar Brethauer and Dick Thompson and the Foth boys and a few others getting steers. The lady bug began to grow. My fever began to rise. I drove over town and counted my money, or the banker's money. I drove home and asked my wife if she wanted to go to Denver with me after cattle.

I might have known she wouldn't with so short a notice. Women must have at least two weeks warning in advance and two months is better. "Oh, I couldn't go this afternoon. And who'd take care of the children? And the chickens? And I'd have to have a new hat, and gloves, and Christmas coming so soon."

"Wear your old hat," I argued. "That's what I'm going to do. I haven't had a new one for three years." But my talk was in vain, so I found a man to milk the cow and put fifty-three things in my grip and boarded the train at four o'clock for the city that is exactly a mile high. I said fifty-three things. They are a clean collar and a deck of cards. We WERE OFF.

A girl boarded the train the same time I did. She had eyes a little too narrow, cheeks and lips a little too red, hair a little too crimped, hat a little too slanted. She smiled and said, "Oh, I'm going to have company I see."

Well, I hadn't thought before about it, but who could resist that smile, and the trusting wife, faithfully at home caring for the chickens would never know.

We visited at Scotia Junction, or at least I did. If this sweet thing had any intention of sharing those thoughts with me. And that is the way with a quiet person. One never knows for sure whether they are positively dumb or know too much. Usually they get the credit for the latter, but if the truth be known—well, I've said enough. This young lady did say however, "Oh yes, it must be hard work to run one of these big trains."

At Scotia I found an excuse to walk out on the platform and the rest of the journey I camped in another seat while the lady friend smoked and I watched the landscape to the east fly past. The valley bordered with hills, and a little patch peppered with cedars. A few cows huddled out of the wind, and a crafty mule, pretending fright, running stiff legged, swinging his head from one side to another to look backward.

At Elba, a little yellow house where a few years ago I saw a sweet young girl come quickly out and meet a stocky young man with a dinner pail, and they walked home with their arms about each others waist. I always think of that when I see the house, and so notice the house again and expect the girl to come out. This time she was taking in the clothes from the line, some of which belonged to a little boy and a little girl, and the girl was the oldest. But that doesn't mean anything. This lady may not be the same person. Surely she was not so pert.

We wait to pass the motor and the conductor tells us the Burwell fair is no good any more, with all that part-mutual betting. On we go but the pictures out the window become hazy, and then curled and a few lights are seen in farm houses, and then the lights are turned on in the train. I eat a little lunch the wife has fixed so I'll save forty cents.

At Saint Paul we wait and wait, while the engine with clanging bell switches, seemingly for no purpose at all. But while we wait, two ladies embark, one short and precise and crumpled in light brown fur coat, the other a little taller, with a wool coat that had seen several winters, and a knit beret. They take a seat across the aisle and one ahead of mine.

I listen to their talk and analyze their features. The first has a big nose and cat like eyes, the other a somber countenance and perfect features. The first chatters and laughs, attempting to make an impression, the later is a school teacher going home for a vacation and has worries that stifles laughter except when there is real humor, of which I heard little. The first would take a Pullman to California, the latter a chair car, and her father who was seventy would meet her at one o'clock for a two-mile walk to where her mother would still be sitting up. And the first had a divorce and was drawing alimony, and I wondered if fine feathers always made fine birds.

We wait in Grand Island at the crossing for a half an hour for no reason at all that we know of or reason to encourage people to ride the buses, and then are jerked behind a switch engine to the depot and a block beyond.

My train should leave at eight-thirty, but it is two hours late. I conclude to take in a show and do so, but have to leave in the middle of the news reel. I could have as well stayed for the train was later yet when I returned.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

25 Years Ago This Week. G. T. Hather, 82, died at his home in Ord. He had lived in Valley county twenty-five years.

A. J. Wise went to Ames, Ia., to take a special course in ice cream making. He was manager of the Ravenna Creamery Company's Ord plant, which was installing an ice cream factory in connection.

Jos. K. Gray was elected venerable consul and Lester Norton worthy adviser of the Modern Woodmen lodge of Elyria.

Nebraska was having one of the worst winters in history and train service to Ord was at a standstill. The B. & M. snow plow reported a drift 2,300 feet long and 12 feet deep near Horace and a rotary plow had to be sent here from Sioux City to open the track.

John Stafford bought the lumber from the old ice house down by the river and was using it to build a garage on the vacant lot by the Warwick shop.

20 Years Ago This Week. Inez Swain quit her job as telephone operator and accepted a position as teacher at Rosevale. Other changes in rural schools included the resignation of Irma Mayfield as Dist. 70 teacher, the job being taken by Leslie Crow, Olive Fuson resigning in the Bailey district and was replaced by Mrs. Lincoln Groat and Lucy Rowbal taking Bessie Wigent's place in Dist. 32.

Plummer's carpenter gang was busy remodeling the Bailey building on the west side of the square, dividing it into two store rooms. One was to be occupied by a Penney store and the other by F. Fafetta & Sons, of Elba. The Penney chain then had 83 stores, with 27 to be opened during 1936. Vice President Mudd, of that company, was in Ord making arrangements for the new store.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Ice box refrigeration has introduced a lot of new possibilities in the line of cooking. Every day delicious new ice box recipes are perfected, and more cooks are learning what a comfort this modern development in cooking can be.

It is surely fine for modern gadget mothers to be able to stir up graham muffins and set them in the ice box, all ready to pop out of the ice box into the oven when supper time is nigh. It is a real aid in holiday entertaining to be able to put a roll of ice box cookie dough away in the bottom of the refrigerator on Monday and on Friday when all the cousins are present, serve crisp, fresh cookies with a few minutes work.

How do you utilize your refrigerator? Does it help you cook? Write the Quiz how you use it.

Ice Box Cookies. Mix two cups brown sugar and one-half cup shortening, put in two eggs, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon cream of tartar, one teaspoon vanilla, one-third teaspoon salt, three cups flour. Shape into a loaf and set in a cool place over night. Slice and bake next morning.

Balsin Drop Cookies. Cream two cups white sugar, one cup lard, add one cup sour milk or buttermilk, four cups flour, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves and allspice, one teaspoon soda and one teaspoon baking powder, sifted together. Grind one cup raisins, one-half cup nuts, and three-fourths cup oatmeal, mix all together, and lastly add three well beaten eggs, then put the mixture in a cold place for at least an hour. Drop from a teaspoon on a greased pan, flatten and bake.

Broiled Grapefruit. Cut grapefruit in halves and remove centers and seeds. Cut the fruit from the skin with a sharp knife, add a teaspoon of butter and one of sugar to each center. Broil in a hot oven until fruits turn a light golden brown. A delicious appetizer or dessert.

Kickshaws. To make the filling, grind one and one-half cups raisins, dates or figs, sweeten a little, add two-thirds cup of water, boil a few minutes, thicken with a little cornstarch and water, let cool. For the kickshaws, mix one-half cup shortening, one cup brown sugar, then one and one-half cups flour with one teaspoon soda sifted in it. Add one and three-fourths cups ground oatmeal, which makes it crumbly. Pat half of this in a shallow pan, put the filling on this, then cover with the rest of the crumbly mixture and bake until done or about twenty-five minutes.

Wholesome Noodle Chilli. Brown one pound ground beef quickly in a tablespoon of hot fat in a heavy skillet. Add one Bermuda onion, sliced. Stir in four ripe tomatoes, peeled and chopped, or one-half can tomatoes. Add two cups of cooked beans and two cups cooked noodles with a cup of the water in which they were boiled. Add one teaspoon sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, and one-half teaspoon chili powder. Cover closely and simmer for an hour. This makes a well balanced one dish meal, one that is equally delicious when reheated.

Something DIFFERENT

On reading in the Quiz that Mrs. C. E. McGrew had won a prize for nice Christmas decorations, a friend, Mrs. Tillie Arnold, decided to go and visit. Approaching the McGrew home she was mystified to see just what the plan of the house decorations was.

Arriving at the McGrew home, Mrs. Arnold found the peculiar effect was caused by the posing of a neighbor's goat in a big wreath on the front steps! Incidentally Mrs. McGrew declares she won just the prize she most coveted, the Westinghouse electric waffle iron. And now is enjoying delicious waffles made on it from the recipe which came with it, which she promises to send to the Quiz soon.

A very brief note from Mr. Coe, creamery manager, says: Note: There WILL NOT be any chicken lot runs in front of the new chicken house.

L. B. Fenner of Burwell is enjoying a story on his wife. He says she retired before he did, and when he came into the bedroom she was groaning and tossing in her sleep. Mr. Fenner threw an arm across his wife, thinking it would quiet her, but instead she began to scream for help in a loud voice indeed.

Mr. Fenner succeeded in waking Mrs. Fenner, who mumbled, "Oh, I thought it was a book agent." It seems her nightmares always take the form of someone prowling in the house, and as she explains it, "That book agent was a terrible fellow!"

When a local organized agricultural day was held in Ord several weeks ago I went to hear the talk on childhood problems, and to my amazement discovered the speaker was an old schoolmate, now Mrs. Angeline Anderson. So I enjoyed the talk for more reasons than one, and for the benefit of some of you mothers who didn't get to attend, I will try to report what Mrs. Anderson had to offer to aid in raising children. She took the discipline phase to discuss that morning. She said children should obey not a person, but a reason, and that of course it was much easier to continue doing the old-fashioned way, the way where a command and to be obeyed, the "because I say so" school. This was the former meaning of obey, but now it is considered that obeying is teaching the child what self control means, giving him the ability to control himself.

Of course, Mrs. Anderson declared, there are temptations too strong for any child, and he should not be exposed to them and then punished; instead, anything overwhelmingly attractive and interesting which he could not reasonably be expected to let alone should be removed. If at all possible she urged that parents provide a room for the child, where things were his, or if not a room, then at least a corner he knew to be his own.

The child is an individual, and has his rights, which should be respected. Mrs. Anderson suggested that if the child playing with his toys or games were given a few minutes notice to finish his play, he would quit without any argument or trouble. This, in contrast to the oft-used method of demanding the child stop instantly, no matter how fascinating his game, to "wash your face and hands and get ready for dinner". Commands which often lead to arguments, punishment and tears.

Get the attention of your little girl before you give her directions to do something. In this way you will save your time and breath and hers also. Be reasonable, was another idea voiced by Mrs. Anderson. Find out the purpose for which Mary Jane is carrying a glass of water before you punish her...perhaps she is bringing it to you!

Be consistent, said the child expert. Mean what you say to your children, fulfill both threats and promises religiously. Lay down a few rules as possible, but stick to them day after day. Show your children you have every expectation they will do the right thing, and they will do it. Show approval, this is a great help. The approval need not be more than a quick smile, but it will prove invaluable. Approval need not take the form of continual praise, she said, but should be given when earned.

Many other ideas were given to the mothers who attended the meeting by Mrs. Anderson. One of the best was that though you might be a good mother to the infant, yet you had to change and learn as he grew and learned. You had to be a good mother to the pre-school age child, to the youngster in grade school, to the adolescent, and to the young wage earner. Not stopping there, Mrs. Anderson stated it was also necessary to learn to be a good grandparent and a good mother-in-law.

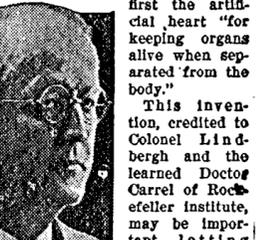

Have I left you with something to think about?

The Greatest Deed The Richest Man 8,000 Planes for England What! the Whole World?

Universal Service lists the "ten greatest scientific achievements in 1935," and puts first the artificial heart "for keeping organs alive when separated from the body."

Arthur Brisbane

This invention, credited to Colonel Lindbergh and the learned Doctor Carrel of Rockefeller institute, may be important, letting scientists study the progress and nature of cancer and other diseases.

But that is not the year's greatest scientific achievement, although it is gratifying to know that Colonel Lindbergh, while so young, with no more "air" to conquer, has turned his concentrated mind toward science.

Vastly more important than any invention for studying human disease is the new 200-inch telescope lens that will enable men to study the universe more intelligently. That universe is more important than any cancer or gland.

The Nizam of Hyderabad, one of the numerous rulers whom the British keep on their thrones, in return for a servility that delivers their subjects to the British, is about to celebrate his silver jubilee as ruler.

He interests Americans, because he is called absolutely the richest man in the world, richer than Rockefeller, Ford or Mellon. His income is put at $50,000,000 a year, which might be possible, although his real fortune bears no interest.

He has 14,000,000 Hindu subjects under his rule, thanks to the toleration of Great Britain, and after England has finished with the 14,000,000, they might well yield an average per year of $4 to the Nizam, which would give him $56,000,000 a year of new money.

The British who realize what airplanes mean, as they study Italy and Ethiopia, have more than 2,000 planes ordered for immediate use, with full equipment and men ready, and, for every plane in the air, England will have three on the ground, ready to replace losses.

Thus, Britain's program is 8,000 planes, compared with our retail buying.

Senator Pittman thinks Japan plans to conquer the United States and the rest of the world. He says Japan will "seize the Philippines as soon as the opportunity offers." That is probable; the Philippines are in Asia.

After the Philippines Japan will take Mexico, then the west coast of the United States, according to Senator Pittman, who wants to know whether this country will withdraw within itself as Japan advances, or make a definite stand somewhere.

The west coast would give him a definite answer about that.

There is an aristocracy even in crime. You read, "Hauptmann sings carols in death house." Five other murderers in the same house sang the carols with him, "Jingle Bells," and also "Heilige Nacht" ("Holy Night"), which must have had a strange sound coming from the throats of murderers.

There are six murderers in the death house, and all sang together, but the other five are merely "also present," no names mentioned. Their murders were not sufficiently interesting.

"Japanese airplanes bomb Kuy-man in China; many killed"—including civilians and soldiers. Japanese ordered China's soldiers to evacuate the city, dropped bombs when they refused.

What will kind-hearted England and the League of Nations do about that? Not much. Premier Baldwin, justifying the sudden decision to carve up Ethiopia to satisfy Italy, reveals the fact that British ships feared to visit Italian ports during the recent unpleasantness. That brings danger too close.

The country has inflation now, with its 59-cent dollar and double the amount of cash circulating compared with prosperous 1929. Inflation is not realized, because bankers, their vaults bulging, do not dare lend.

Mussolini calls those trying to starve his people with sanctions "egotistical, hypocritical," says Italy can go on in spite of them. Tail Queen Elena, the king's wife, prays at the tomb of the Italian Unknown Soldier "for the triumph of Roman civilization in Africa." If it is possible to talk or think in the tomb, that Unknown Soldier may have murmured: "So, they are still at it."

First White Child Born in Valley County, Mrs. Hannah Thomas, Tells of Childhood

I saw the light of day on Sept. 6, 1873 in the Peter Mortensen dug-out (my uncle) on his timber claim now owned by his son Crawford.

I was the first child born in what is now Valley county. The county then had not been organized. My parents were married by Elder Babcock of North Loup in the Dr. Badger dugout.

I was always afraid of Indians and could tell one as far as I could see him. I would run and scream "Indians, Indians!" I can remember Dr. Middleton and his supposed Indian raiders. I was a little past three years when an old Indian squaw came around the corner of the house with her apron full of little pigs, which had drowned during a heavy rain storm. In those days rain came when only a small cloud was visible in the sky. She put her hand on brother Morten's head and said "huh-h, pogachu, pogachu!" I didn't know what she meant, but thought she intended to put brother in her apron with the little pigs. I tell you, I let out a yell and mother came quickly to see what was wrong. Brother and I were also lost in the cornfield. We started to visit uncle George Miller, got lost, and as luck would have it, he was the one who found us, asleep, dirty and tear-stained. George Miller, who lived on the quarter section of the original taken up by father, Jeppe Smith and Peter Mortensen. Chris Frey, the fifth Dane, took land adjoining Jeppe Smith's. They were the five Danes for whom Dane Creek is named, as they camped near its mouth.

Father had the first cow in the county, a bald-face, named Mippen.

As pioneer children we were well remembered for Christmas, as there were quite a number of single men, most of them having worked for father. I shall never forget when we were old enough to doubt whether Santa Claus was real or a myth. I had received for Christmas a lovely wax doll, dressed like a French lady and a kitchen stove and utensils and brother Morton received a real tool chest. We ran out of the house onto the roof and there we saw Santa's foot prints in the snow, for one more year our doubts were lulled.

To get on to the roof you ran up a cellar built onto the house. We used that roof for a lookout for Indians and Dr. Middleton's gang, for you could see for miles in either direction. It was from that same roof that I saw Dr. McKinney's oxen run away. Run they did. Dr. and wife were laying flat in the wagon box, the oxen headed for McKinney canyon and home.

There is one person that I will always remember with pleasure and that was Grandma Rood of North Loup. She was a nurse, a blessing in health and sickness. I was past 7 years at the time of the dreaded diphtheria and scarlet fever epidemic. It was a hot sultry Sunday in July. As was the custom among the Danes to hold church services once a month at some farm home, this Sunday it was at the Jeppe Smith home. His wife had died and he had a housekeeper from Dannebrog. She had brought the diphtheria germs, causing the death of two of his children from diphtheria a few weeks before.

I had been peevish all day. We were expecting father home. Of course we were tickled to see him and when he was doing the chores I was running ahead and dragging my feet through the grass. Father told me to quit that, the grass might be full of snakes. Next morning I was found unconscious on the floor in the grip of the dread diphtheria. It was many a day before I played outside again. There were four of us sick at nearly the same time with no help and father had it too. That is when Uncle George was right there all the time to help mother and do the chores as she more than had her hands full. Uncle Peter's horse, Tam, stood hitched to the buggy for the use of Drs. Coon and McKinney, who made over one hundred and fifty calls, and it cost less than the medicine then and now. Just think what a bill we would have had in this day and age. Our baby sister Marie was sent up to Taylor while the epidemic spent itself, but of no avail, she succumbed to the disease. Dr. McKinney lost all three of his fine children. There was hardly a home in Valley, Howard and Loup counties where the dread reaper did not leave sorrow in its wake.

Those were good old days for sociability, people would bundle up their children with plenty of quilts and good eats and drive to Fort Hartsuff, Goodenow's or some distant pioneer home for a dance and a good time. I can remember the busy fort, the soldiers, trappers and guides, Trappers and guides wore buckskin suits and coonskin caps with tall hanging down their backs. Also Gen. Ord, Capt. Munson and Joe Capron of those early days. Our house was a half-way house for food. Many a person did mother feed in those early days, as a woman's cooking was scarce and mother was a fine cook. It was a red letter day for us youngsters when George Young came to live with us. He was the brother of Mrs. Sam Warner and Mrs. Abe Rowan.

Mrs. Hattie Potter taught me my alphabet. I walked to the Ord school from our place where Peter Anderson now lives. The first three weeks a greyhound belonging to Raymond Gass' father met me every morning and brought me home at night. Childhood days are carefree days, the best of all of our life, if we only knew it. Brother Morten and I graduated from Ord high school in 1893, there were 12 of us. Ettie Haskell, Angie Jones and Otis Paist have since passed to the great beyond. We have lost track of Lena Leach, Carl Harris, Horace Phelps, Morten Andersen, Daisy Westover, Cora Laverty, Ethel Wear, Alta Jones and myself are all living scattered far and wide. I could mention the young folks as well as the older folks of my childhood but they are not forgotten and those few who are living will know that I still remember them.

One day in Ord last October, I stood on a street corner and looked over the square, so few I knew and still less remembered me. It will only be a few short years I too will be remembered with the past.

Hannah Andersen Thomas.

Taxation Funds Are Only 52.3 Per Cent of State University Income, Says Report

L. E. GUNDERSON
Finance Secretary

Lincoln, Nebr.—State support played a slightly smaller part in maintenance of the University of Nebraska during the past fiscal year according to the printed report of Finance Secretary L. E. Gunderson just off the press. With the amount of money practically unchanged, the taxation support decreased from 54.9 per cent to 52.3 per cent, slight increases in student fees due to increased enrollment, and a slight change in the federal funds accounting for the changes.

The report shows an expenditure for the past fiscal year of $3,056,365.95, slightly more than the previous year. Percentage decreases were shown during the past year in salaries and wages, and fixed charges, with increases shown for supplies, materials, parts and repairs for upkeep, equipment, and revolving funds. Percentage expenditures for expense and lands and buildings were unchanged.

Disbursements for instructional purposes accounted for $1,941,507.33, almost two-thirds of the total expenditures, it is shown. These disbursements cover the cost of all colleges and schools, the college of medicine hospital at Omaha, the dental clinic, and also the operation and maintenance of the physical plant. The agricultural experiment stations and the extension work accounted for the next largest total expenditures, 18.9 per cent. A large portion of this money was supplied by the federal government. Special activities, such as the legislative reference bureau and the conservation and survey division took 9 per cent of the money, and commercial activities such as the cafeteria, bookstore and serum plant took 7.6 per cent. Necessary capital additions of books, equipment, etc., took the balance, 1.7 per cent.

Only about half of the revenue to operate the University of Nebraska came from state taxation sources, the report points out, showing that $1,674,090 or 52.3 per cent came from the state. Cash income from student fees, departmental receipts, income from funds, rentals, etc., produced more than a third of the revenue for the past fiscal year. The balance, 9.2 per cent came from federal sources, which had to be matched with state money.

Following are detailed statements of income and disbursements for the past year.

Income.
State funds, $1,674,090, or 52.3 per cent.

Cash funds, $1,233,278.27, or 38.5 per cent; including student fees, $509,100.57; departmental receipts, $681,918.32; and endowment income fund, $41,958.38.

Federal funds, $295,791.97, or 9.2 per cent.

Disbursements.
Instructional cost of all colleges and schools, College of Medicine Hospital and dental clinic; also operation and maintenance of physical plant) $1,941,507.33, or 63.5 per cent.

Agricultural Experiment stations and agricultural extension, $557,957.84, or 18.2 per cent.

Special activities, $274,738.33, or 9 per cent.

Commercial activities, $231,029.22, or 7.6 per cent.

Capital additions, $51,138.23, or 1.7 per cent.

Elyria Department

By MRS. WILL DODGE

Eva Bartuslak of Ord came Christmas eve to spend a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Bartuslak. On Sunday Edith Jones and Florence Lusk of Ord were visitors at the Bartuslak home and Miss Eva returned to Ord with them.

Audrey Hoyt spent several days of last week at the W. B. Hoyt home near Burwell.

Mrs. Elsie Albers and children, who live north of Burwell spent Christmas day at the home of Mrs. Albers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Fischer.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kirby and family and their guest, Verna Mae Vergin were Christmas eve visitors at the George Kirby home.

Miss Mary Moritz, teacher in the Elyria schools, returned Sunday evening from Humphrey where she had spent Christmas vacation with her parents.

Chester Carkoski of Hartington is spending several days vacation with his parents Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Carkoski.

Frank Kuklish returned Thursday to the CCC camp at Pawnee City after spending Christmas day here with relatives.

Mrs. E. M. Johnson of North Loup spent several days of last week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ed Dahlin. She returned to her home Sunday evening.

Christmas day dinner guests at the Will Dodge home were Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hoyt, son Kenneth and Virginia and Viola Carkoski.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Clemny and Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Clemny entertained Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hoyt, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Clemny and daughter and Audrey Hoyt at dinner Christmas day.

Christmas day dinner guests at the J. H. Holman home were Mr. and Mrs. Ellery Bohannon, Mrs. W. J. Holman, Charles and Walter Desch and Mrs. Novak, all of Ord.

Several Elyria children are victims of chicken pox this week.

WE WISH YOU A Happy New Year and a Prosperous 1936

As you know, because we have told you before, we have moved to the former Ford garage and have installed considerable new machinery, necessary in repairing cars. We are as well equipped as any shop in central Nebraska to take care of your car troubles. Our Mr. George Anderson is an expert mechanic who can diagnose your car trouble and tell you what the trouble is, what is needed to fix it and what the expense will be. Up to that point it won't cost you a cent. If you order the job done the price will always be reasonable and the work satisfactory. It will be economy to have your car put in shape now if it needs it. A little work at the right time on a car is just the same as on a human, it saves a lot of trouble and expense later.

And talking about used cars, we have changed several since last week and we don't have as large a list as we did to select from. We do have several good ones, some not so good but well worth more than we are asking for them and two or three real cheap Fords priced worth the money. We have one truck, used but little and priced so you can afford to use it and it is a real buy.

Be Safe...!

There are two items in our line that you may need any day now, in fact it is not safe to be without either one. We mean Chains and Anti-Freeze. It is expensive to neglect them. Be prepared and we will be glad to have you drive in for either.

Christian Science Services.

"God" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches for Sunday, January 5.

The Golden Text is from Psalms 86:8, 10: "A long the gods there is none like unto thee, O Lord; . . . For thou are great, and doest wondrous things: thou art God alone."

A passage from the Bible in the lesson-sermon is from Isaiah 42: 5, 8: "Thus saith God the Lord, he that created the heavens, and stretched them out; he that spread forth the earth, and that which cometh out of it; he that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and spirit to them and walk therein; . . . I am the Lord: that is my name; and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "God is Infinite, the only Life, substance, Spirit, or Soul, the only intelligence of the universe, including man . . . The individuality of Spirit, or in the infinite, is unknown, and thus a knowledge of it is left either to human conjecture or to the revelation of divine Science. (page 330)."

NEW YEAR'S GREETINGS

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

To the Editor of The Quiz:

Joseph Capron is gone, of whom it may be said, Valley county may never know a better citizen, or one more capable or loved than he. Gone, he has gone to join that galaxy of splendid men who were contemporary with him in the early and pioneer days of central Nebraska, they who laid the foundation and contributed so largely to the upbuilding of this great commonwealth. In this list of names of distinguished men, we recall to mind Father Capron, a polished gentleman, loved and respected by all who knew him. Sylvester Haskell, widely known for his generosity, and love of his fellow men. Peter Mortensen who was excelled by none in his love for his beloved Valley county, and the state in general, and who was later rewarded for his honest fidelity, by being chosen Custodian of the Funds of his state. Then there was another fine man, David A. Gard, a man who was known far and near, capable and efficient, one whose word was as good as a gold bond. It was said of him, "If Dave told you this it is all right." Scores of other fine men name and have gone, and their memories are carried by the writer in loving remembrance. There was E. J. Clements, E. M. Coffin, Billy Wentworth, John Wentworth, Benjamin White, Hanson Grimes, H. A. Babcock, Samuel Stacy, Arthur Schaefer, William Haskell, Judge Mosier, Edward Satterlee, H. Westover, D. A. McCord, Z. K. Ferguson, Ralph Staples. All of the above and scores of others, that the writer was proud to know and call friends. These have gone before. Such is the common lot of mankind. Their good deeds remain to testify to their having lived and benefitted their fellow men.

Munn & Norman, Lawyers. NOTICE OF HEARING FOR DETERMINATION OF HEIRSHIP. In the County Court of Valley County, Nebraska. NOTICE OF HEARING. In the Matter of The Estate of Joseph Cunningham, Deceased. The State of Nebraska: To all persons interested in said estate, creditors and heirs take notice, that Joseph J. Roach has filed his petition in said court alleging that Joseph Cunningham died intestate in Madison County, Iowa, on or about November 15th, 1933, being a resident and inhabitant of the State of Iowa and the owner in fee of the following described real estate, to-wit: All of the Northwest Quarter and the North One-Half of the Southwest Quarter of Section Eleven, Township Eighteen North, Range Thirteen West of the Sixth Principal Meridian, Valley County, Nebraska; and an undivided One-Half interest in fee, as a tenant in common, in the Northeast Quarter of Section Ten, Township Eighteen North, Range Thirteen West of the Sixth Principal Meridian, Valley County, Nebraska; leaving as his sole and only heirs at law the following named persons, to-wit: Joseph J. Roach, Martin J. Roach, Jr., Mary M. Roach, Eleanor E. Roach, Daniel Roach and Kieran Roach, his grandchildren.

Witness my hand and seal this 23rd day of December, 1935. JOHN L. ANDERSEN, County Judge. (SEAL) Dec. 26-3t

That said petitioner is a grandson and heir of the Deceased.

Said Petitioner prays for determination of the time of the death of said decedent, determination of the heirs of said decedent, the degree of kinship and the right of descent of the real property belonging to said decedent, for a decree barring claims and demands; that said decedent died intestate; that no application for administration has been made and no Administrator has been appointed in Nebraska and the estate of said decedent has not been administered in the State of Nebraska; and that the heirs at law of said decedent as herein set forth shall be decreed to have succeeded to the ownership in fee simple of the above described real estate.

Said matter has been set for hearing before me on the 14th day of January, A. D., 1936, at the hour of 10 o'clock, A. M., of said day, in the county court room at Ord, Nebraska.

Dated at Ord, Nebraska, this 23rd day of December, A. D., 1935. JOHN L. ANDERSEN, County Judge of Valley County, Nebraska.

SEAL Dec. 26-3t

23 Used Cars for Your Approval

You will not often find such a splendid array of used cars to look over and select from as we are offering this week. Every one of them is priced worth the money. There is one priced to fit the pocketbook of almost anyone. If you are looking for a real good used car—a car practically like new—one that you could not tell from a car just out of the factory, you can find it in this offering. If you want a real cheap one, a car that will take you there and bring you back, but which has some of the varnish knocked off and that wouldn't take a prize in a beauty show, but at a real price, we have that car, too. And we have them all the way between these two extremes. Come and see them. Here is the list:

- 1935 Plymouth Sedan
- 1935 Ford Coach
- 1934 Ford Coach
- 1934 Plymouth Coach
- 1933 Chevrolet Coach
- 1931 Ford Coach
- 1929 Chevrolet Coach
- 1929 DeSoto Sedan
- 1928 Whippet Sedan
- 1931 Chevrolet Coach
- 1931 Chevrolet Truck
- 1932 Chevrolet Coupe
- 1926 Chrysler Coupe
- 1927 Chrysler Coupe
- 1927 Cleveland
- 1926 Buick Sedan
- 1926 Nash Sedan
- 1927 Pontiac Sedan
- 1929 4-door Ford
- 1927 Chrysler Coach
- 1926 International truck complete.

Something Real Special

We have for your consideration one 1935 Plymouth, only about 3,000 miles on it and as clean as a hound's tooth, not run enough as yet to warm it up well, and you couldn't fault it anywhere. We will sell it to you for less than it is worth. It won't stay here long.

We have a 1933 Chevrolet coach that has been taken care of like a baby and you would be proud to own it. It is almost like a new car now, has a real small mileage for the time it has been out and while it has been used it has not been abused.

We have a 1934 Ford coach that is one of the best buys of the winter and you will say so if you come and look at it. We don't need to describe it for it will soon be off the market.

U. S. Supreme Court Knocks Out AAA

Roosevelt Regime Stunned Monday By Court's Ruling

Act Unconstitutional In Toto, Court Says in 6-3 Opinion Read By Roberts.

The AAA met the fate of the NRA Monday in the Supreme court of the United States.

In a momentous 6 to 3 decision, the highest tribunal killed the extraordinary New Deal farm relief plan under which over a billion dollars has been paid to farmers since 1933.

Justice Owen J. Roberts gravely read the majority opinion. The act, even as amended last August, was held an "invasion of states' rights" and its taxes beyond the "general welfare" clause of the constitution upon which the government relied.

Justices Stone, Brandeis and Cardozo, the "liberals" of the court, dissented.

Processing Tax Inseparable. The ruling which brought death to AAA came on a case filed by the Hoosac mills of Massachusetts, protesting collection of processing taxes on cotton. In reading the majority opinion, Justice Roberts reviewed history of the case and said that the processing tax was inseparable from the rest of the act.

President Roosevelt and AAA officials had expected that the court might upset processing taxes but had not anticipated such a sweeping blow at the whole AAA structure.

The court's decision was hailed in varying manner by different sections of the country. In New England and the industrial east the decision apparently was popular, since it will result eventually in a decrease in living costs. In the middle west such organizations as the Farm Union and Farm Holiday association, which have consistently fought the AAA, hailed the decision with delight but the Farm Bureau said it was a great blow to agriculture.

"Revolt" Is Predicted. Gov. Cochran of Nebraska and Gov. Herring of Iowa predicted "revolt" in this part of the country if a substitute is not quickly devised.

Sam R. McKelvie, former republican governor of Nebraska and member of the Hoover farm board, was pleased with the decision. "The AAA was all right as an emergency program but as a continuing program it would have failed of its own purpose," McKelvie said. "It was unsound economically. Anything that puts a tax on the consumption of food and clothing is bound to be injurious to the farmer in the long run."

Nebraska AAA officials say the program has paid farmers of this state about $1,000,000 since its inauguration. Nebraska received the fifth largest amount under the AAA, Iowa, Illinois, Kansas and Texas leading.

Nebraska Short 12 Million. Still due farmers of the nation under 1935 contracts is approximately $500,000,000 which cannot legally be paid since the AAA's death. Of this amount Nebraska farmers are scheduled to receive about $12,000,000. Administration spokesmen said some way would be devised to fulfill these contracts and complete payment, prophesying a direct grant of funds by Congress for this purpose.

Salaries of all AAA officials were stopped as soon as the Supreme court's decision was made and field officers were ordered Monday night by telegraph to halt their activities.

At Lincoln the compliance board for Nebraska halted its operations Tuesday and said no further proofs of compliance with 1935 contracts would be forwarded to Washington.

What effect the ruling will have upon living costs is uncertain. A mad scramble took place in the hog markets Monday and again Tuesday, with prices advancing $1.50 per hundredweight in spite of removal of the $2.25 processing taxes. Hog prices rose yesterday, however. Flour prices broke from $95c to $1.25 a barrel in the east and $1.10 a barrel in Nebraska. Prices of cotton goods are expected to drop at once.

Rev. J. J. Smith Dies. Rev. J. J. Smith passed away at his home at Esparto, Calif., on his eightieth birthday, December 31, 1935, after a long illness of several years. Rev. Smith was one of Nebraska's earliest settlers and made his home in Nebraska until 1905 when he moved to the state of California. Burial services were held Friday, January 3. Rev. Smith is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Frances E. Petersen, of Cotesfield and several grandchildren.

Nick Jacquot Afoul Of Law; Issued Bad Checks in Omaha

N. R. "Nick" Jacquot, former Ord grocer and more recently a Columbus Insurance salesman, was taken into custody at Omaha Monday for questioning in connection with his issuance of seven or eight worthless checks. Police said the checks were given to Omaha business concerns in payment for merchandise.

On Nick's last visit to Ord he is understood to have issued a worthless check here to secure money to pay for the free dances he gave at Ord halls.

Theatre Will Have 'Amateur Nights'

Homer Mauer Wins 1st Contest Friday; Patronage Asked For New Feature.

Homer Mauer, pianist, Virginia Sack, vocalist, and Mrs. A. Long, vocalist and mimic, won first, second and third prizes respectively in a closely contested amateur program at the Ord theatre Friday night.

The program is under the direction of Glenn Martin and the supervision of Mr. Biemond, manager of the theatre. The continuance of this program in conjunction with the regular Friday night features, Mr. Martin says, rests entirely with the people of Ord. "The only way we can tell whether or not the people of Ord and community want this program to continue," Mr. Martin added, "is by the patronage extended it. The real purpose behind all amateur programs is to help young and inexperienced performers to overcome shyness and awkwardness, the two greatest enemies of talent and to make them feel free and easy before an audience."

New Talent Tomorrow. "Ord and community," he continued, "have much excellent talent, and this program can run for several weeks without repetition of contests behind it, thus helping the amateurs besides providing themselves with a different and highly interesting entertainment."

Others on the Friday night program were Lloyd Sack, cornetist, Ruth Aule, tap dancer, Eleanor Jablonski of Elyria, vocalist, Dolores Knecht, four years old, talented tap dancer, and Nanita Long, vocalist.

A new group of contestants will appear Friday night and will be judged by popular applause of the audience. There will be three prizes of $5.00, $3.00 and $2.00. Anyone wishing to appear on this program may do so by getting in touch with Mr. Martin or Mr. Biemond at the theatre.

Mrs. Roy Adams to Sell.

Mrs. Roy Adams is advertising a clean-up sale to be held southwest of Ord on Tuesday, Jan. 14. The offering, advertised elsewhere in this issue, includes three horses, three head of cattle and a large outfit of machinery. Mrs. Adams is leaving the state, she says.

Liquor "Black List" Drawn Up by Council

A list of men to whom neither beer nor hard liquor may be sold in Ord was drawn up Friday evening by the Ord city council, working in conjunction with the county board and WPA officials, and copies of a resolution asking cooperation were distributed to all beer and liquor sellers of the city. Names of five men added to the use of intoxicants to excess form the original list, which may be added to from time to time. All are WPA laborers and all have, in the past, been found guilty of liquor law violations.

Such action is being taken at this time because these men have spent their WPA earnings for beer or hard liquor and let their families go without food, clothing and fuel, explains City Clerk Rex Jewett.

Miss Wallin Resigns, New Teacher Hired

During the Christmas holidays Miss Vernie Wallin resigned as teacher of the 1st and 2nd combination grade in the Ord schools. To replace her the board of education employed Miss Velma Ludlow, of McCook, who began her teaching duties Monday. Miss Ludlow is a graduate of Peru Normal and formerly taught in Salem, Nebr. A faculty tea honoring Miss Wallin was held Friday evening after the basketball game.

Auto Races Will Feature 1936 Fair, Directors Decide

Widen Race Track, Committee Recommends; McClellan, Roe, To State Convention.

Fast auto races again will feature the Valley county fair in 1936, directors of the Loup Valley Agricultural Society decided at a meeting Friday, and the track committee headed by Charles Bals was instructed to get work of widening the track under way as soon as condition of the ground permits next spring.

Directors heard a report from the track committee recommending that the back stretch and both ends of the track be widened and the embankments raised and took favorable action on it.

Auto races have featured the Valley county fair every year it has been held since 1926. From that year until the fair suspended in 1932 auto races held here were generally regarded as the fastest and most exciting in Nebraska, and the Ord track won the reputation of being the state's fastest speedway.

Track Slow Last Fall.

Suspension of the fair in 1932, 1933 and 1934 because of drought and adverse economic conditions made the track slower from disuse, however, and the races last fall were neither as fast nor as interesting as local race fans were accustomed to. Improvement in the newer racing cars was another factor that fair officials had to take into consideration and it was realized that the track here would have to be widened and otherwise improved or else auto races would have to be given up and some other form of entertainment sought.

The decision made Friday to remodel the track is taken as proof that fair directors have decided to retain auto racing as the fair's big feature, even though remodeling will entail considerable expense. It is hoped, and Race Superintendent Clyde Baker is positive that the new track will speed up the races so greatly that they again will attract crowds from all over Nebraska. A system of handicap races also will be adopted next year, it is stated.

Will Choose Dates Soon.

C. W. McClellan, president, and S. W. Roe, secretary of the fair board, were selected as delegates to attend the annual state convention of fair managers to be held in Lincoln this month. They were instructed to decide on dates for 1936 and if possible select such dates as will not interfere with those of neighboring fairs.

The board reports that $300 has been applied on the association's indebtedness to Charles Bals and that the financial condition is very favorable considering the circumstances.

C. C. Dale, Valley county agricultural agent, appeared before the board Friday to report that an assistant county agent, Miss Grace Lee of Orleans, will be appointed to assist him soon. She will assume charge of women's extension club and girls' 4-H club work, as well as kindred activities, and promised improved exhibits in these lines at the 1936 fair. Mr. Dale also stated that all persons interested in pig club and calf club work should report to him as soon as convenient.

Col. Weller Hurt In Auto Collision

Friday morning as he was returning from Fremont, Col. E. C. Weller of Ord was slightly injured and his car was demolished by a collision with a car driven by Dr. O. E. Longacre, of Rising City. The collision occurred at the edge of Rising City and was unavoidable.

Col. Weller's injuries consisted of a lacerated mouth and broken ribs. Dr. Longacre was more badly hurt and later in the day was taken to a hospital at Columbus. When his collision with the Weller car happened he was on an emergency obstetric case. He secured another car, drove into the country and delivered a baby before consenting to go to the hospital. Dr. Longacre formerly lived at Loup City and has several acquaintances in Ord.

Unable to cry his sales for ten days or two weeks, Col. Weller has secured the services of Col. James Webb, of Grand Island.

—Mrs. N. N. Burd of Wymore, Nebr., will spend the past week with Mrs. Willard McCarthy in Ord.

Vodehnal Retires As Honey Men's Head

FRANK M. VODEHNAL. After serving two years as president of the Nebraska Honey Producers' association, Frank M. Vodehnal of Ord retired from the office yesterday at the annual Organized Agriculture session held in Lincoln. Mr. Vodehnal made a splendid record as president of the association. He is one of Valley county's largest producers of honey.

Grace Lee Named To Assist County Agent C. C. Dale

Will Have Charge of Girls and Women's Club Work; Expense Borne by Federal Gov't.

Carl C. Dale, county agricultural agent, last week announced that Miss Grace Lee, an experienced home economics instructor who has taught in the Orleans and Callaway schools, has been appointed assistant Valley county agent and will assume her new duties at once.

Because of the AAA program, work of his office has increased tremendously, making necessary the appointment of a full time assistant, the county agent said.

Increased expense will be borne by the federal government and Valley county will pay no larger share of farm bureau expenses than it has in the past.

Miss Lee will take charge of women's extension club work, girls' 4-H club work and other social aspects of the county agent's office.

C. C. Dale said yesterday that Miss Lee's appointment may be cancelled because of the Supreme court's decision on the AAA.

Decay Of Teeth Is Caused By Saliva, Hansen Discovers

Dr. Harold Hansen, member of the chemistry staff at Northwestern University and son of Mr. and Mrs. S. V. Hansen of Arcadia, is one of three scientists who Saturday announced a discovery that saliva in the human mouth develops acids which are one of the causes of decay of the teeth. Their discovery was explained Saturday to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Saliva taken from persons susceptible to tooth decay revealed that it contained bacteria which transform sugar to lactic acid more rapidly than the saliva of people with naturally sound teeth, Dr. Hansen announced.

The young man was graduated from Arcadia high school, was granted a bachelor of science degree by Nebraska Wesleyan university in 1928, where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, and from Northwestern university he later obtained his master's and doctor's degrees. He spent most of the summer with his parents at Arcadia. His father is chairman of the Valley county board of supervisors.

The discovery announced Saturday by Dr. Hansen and his colleagues was heralded as the of utmost importance by the dental and medical professions.

Community Sale Jan. 16. Frank J. Kokes, as sale manager, is advertising a community sale to be held at his farm east of Ord Thursday, Jan. 16. Eleven horses, eight cattle, some hogs, sheep and much machinery make up the offering.

—Miss Opal Beebe returned to her work at the University of Nebraska by bus Sunday after spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Beebe of Rosevale.

Ex-Convict Held At Tekamah Admits Stan Gross Robbery

Joe Mrkvicka To Be Prosecuted At Grand Island For Auto Theft; Gross Recovers.

Arrested by Sheriff L. G. Phipps of Burt county Saturday, Joe Mrkvicka, an ex-convict, admitted robbing the Stanley Gross farm home south of Ord and confessed to several other thefts, announces Sheriff George S. Round. He probably will be prosecuted at Grand Island for stealing a new Ford car at Wood River.

According to Mrkvicka's confession he was driving through from South Dakota in a stolen Chevrolet and stopped at the Gross home to steal something to eat because he saw the family drive away and was sure the house would be deserted.

Stole Children's Bank. After eating he stole jewelry, guns, clothing and other articles, also taking the Gross children's bank which contained $1.64 in pennies.

From Ord he drove to Wood River, deserted the stolen Chevrolet and stole a Ford, then drove to Ashton and that night robbed a liquor store of liquor valued at $200. Then he drove to Marquette and robbed three places. From there he went to Omaha and sold the stolen property to an establishment on 16th street, representing that he had won the jewelry and guns in a crap game.

At Tekamah, where he went from Omaha, authorities became suspicious of Mrkvicka and he was taken into custody by Sheriff Phipps for questioning. He admitted his guilt of several robberies.

Jewelry Recovered.

Tuesday Mrkvicka was brought to Grand Island by Deputy State Sheriff Manley Davis. Most of the stolen property, recovered with Mrkvicka's assistance, was brought to Grand Island also.

Sheriff Round, accompanied by Stanley Gross, drove to Grand Island Tuesday and Mr. Gross identified most of the property stolen from his home. He recovered the rings and bracelet and expects to get the guns and clothing back also.

To Mrkvicka Sheriff Round said: "Only the lowest kind of a thief would steal a baby's bank!"

Asked Mrkvicka: "How much was in de kids' bank?"

"$1.64, in pennies," answered the Ord sheriff.

Three Times a Convict. Digging into his pocket, in which he had $12.00 which officers had been unable to establish as stolen, the ex-convict brought out $1.65 and gave it to Sheriff Round. "Give the kids back their pennies," he said.

Mrkvicka was sent to the penitentiary three times from Buffalo county on larceny charges. He may be prosecuted at Grand Island as an habitual criminal, in which case he will draw life imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

Urban Having Big Sale.

Probably the biggest clean-up sale being held in the Ord community this winter will be that of Emil Urban next Wednesday, Jan. 15. In the offering are ten exceptionally good work horses, several fine milk cows, forty-eight head of hogs, much machinery, seed, feed and household goods. The Urban family will move to Prague, Okla.

-7 Tuesday Morning Coldest Weather In Ord Since Jan. 1935

Tuesday morning Horace Travis' official government thermometer registered seven degrees below zero, which Mr. Travis says is the coldest weather here since January 23, 1935, when -16 was recorded. It was the second below-zero morning of the present winter season, other such being Christmas day when -6 was recorded.

The 1935 rainfall total was 27.32 inches, somewhat above normal, discloses the moisture record kept by Mr. Travis, wettest month was April when 5.22 inches of rain fell and driest were January and December, each of which brought .26 inches.

Only 1 1-4 inches of snow fell yesterday morning but since there was no wind the ground was well covered with a white blanket and Ord youngsters are enjoying sledding for the first time this winter.

—Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Collins are the parents of an eight pound baby girl born Sunday, January 5.

Epworth League Institute In Ord

Ord is to be host to the Epworth League Institute this winter. The date is Friday and Saturday, Jan. 31 and February 1. More than a hundred young people are expected to attend. They will come from the neighboring towns, Burwell, Ericson, Greeley, Wolbach, Scotia, North Loup, Loup City, Arcadia, Litchfield and Westerville.

All sessions will be held in the Methodist church, beginning Friday evening and closing with a banquet Saturday evening. Dr. A. V. Hunter of Lincoln will be one of the instructors, and he will be assisted by a group of competent men and women who will have charge of different departments.

Entertainment is to be provided for these guests on the "Harvard plan", the homes of Ord furnishing bed and breakfast. The institute has been held here a number of times, always with fine success. The last time was two years ago, when the people of the city generously opened their homes for more than 100 young folks.

Ord Quint Loses To St. Paul But Wallops Sargent

Brockman Must Start at Bottom, Build New Team, First Game Proves to Fans.

Proving again that you can't lose a whole team by graduation one year and start the next season with a winning combination, Ord high school dropped its first basketball game of 1936 to St. Paul on the local court Friday evening, score being 37 to 19. This sound thumping was a disappointment but not a surprise to Ord fans, who have been expecting something of this sort ever since four out of five of Coach Brockman's 1935 Loup valley championship quint left high school ranks last spring.

Brockman used twelve men in a vain attempt to uncover a scoring punch against St. Paul. Blessing, only regular on the Ord team, led in scoring with seven points. Other players participating included Zukoski, Melia, Barta, Tunnick, Adamek, Koelling, Clark, Stone, Marks, Hughes and Haskell.

Pyne, flashy veteran forward, led the St. Paul attack with 13 points, LeGate being close behind with 11. The Apostles are back with a veteran outfit that looks like a cinch to cop the valley title.

Tuesday night against Sargent the Ord fans had more to cheer about with the Ord first team coping 28 to 24 and the Ord reserves edging out the Sargent reserves 20 to 19. Melia, Clark, Blessing, Haskell and Tunnick, made up Ord's starting line-up but Barta, Marks, Hughes and Koelling saw much service also. Blessing was high scorer, tallying 14 points.

Friday evening the Danneberg quintet plays on the Ord court. Perennial rival of Ord and St. Paul for valley leadership in basketball, Danneberg is expected to have its usual fast team.

Rapid development of the Ord squad may be expected, say the local coaches, and by February the Chanticleers should be playing a brand of basketball that will again entitle them to consideration as valley champs.

NERA Agreement Ends.

S. V. Hansen, chairman of the Valley county board of supervisors, has received notice that on Feb. 8 the agreement under which Valley county has been receiving assistance from the Nebraska Emergency Relief Administration will be terminated and thereafter it will be up to the county to provide funds for the care of its own unemployables. Last allotment of federal funds for the period of Jan. 9 to Feb. 8 will be sent this week, the notice said. Nebraska's new "old age" pension and other social security legislation are expected to help with the burden, Hansen says, and employables will continue to get WPA work.

Milford Naprstek Selling. Milford Naprstek, who is going to quit farming, will hold a clean-up sale on the Jos. Bartos farm near Rosevale store next Monday, Jan. 13. He has a good offering, advertised elsewhere in this issue.

Byns Broch Candy Store. Adam Dubas last week became the owner of the Broch candy store in the Ord theatre building, taking possession January 1. Mr. and Mrs. Broch are moving soon to Belle Fourche, S. D., to operate a sheep ranch inherited recently by Mrs. Broch.

Corn-Hog Program Here Abandoned, 5 People Lose Jobs

AAA Has Paid Valley County Farmers $455,000 in 2 Years; $150,000 Still to Come.

Activity was at a standstill Tuesday in the office of County Agent C. C. Dale in the Valley county court house.

The Supreme court's decision Monday voiding the AAA brought to a halt the local machine which has administered corn-hog programs with increasing efficiency in 1934 and 1935 and was preparing to start a similar program for 1936.

County Agent Dale was in Lincoln but returned to Ord Tuesday evening in time to receive a telegraphic order to suspend all AAA activities, dismiss all office help and abandon plans for 1936.

Five Lose Positions.

Members of the allotment committee, S. W. Roe, Arthur Mensing and Charles Veleba, who have been putting in all their time for several weeks preparing proof of compliance with 1935 contracts so Valley county farmers might receive second and final reduction payments quit work immediately. Charles Clark and Dorothy Bequet, full time assistants in AAA work, were dismissed.

Valley county farmers who signed AAA contracts in 1934 and 1935 have been paid approximately $455,000 for reducing acreage, said Dale yesterday. Still due on 1935 contracts is $150,000. Since farmers have fulfilled the contracts they made with the government they probably will receive this money eventually, though the government will have to secure it from sources other than the AAA. Congress may make a direct grant of a half billion dollars so such payments may be made.

Local Farmers Want AAA.

Meetings to accept applications for 1936 corn-hog contracts were scheduled to begin in Valley county Monday evening. The first meeting was held in Michigan township Monday night before the Supreme court's decision became generally known and 25 out of 27 producers present made application for 1936 contracts. Another meeting was held in Noble township Tuesday night at which farmers spent the evening "cussing" the Supreme court and demanding that a substitute AAA act be enacted.

"Even farmers who were lukewarm on corn-hog work before are demanding that the program be continued," County Agent Dale said yesterday. Other corn-hog meetings scheduled for this week will be called off, he states.

May Lose Corn Loans.

Principal work in progress yesterday at his office was filing away the mass of AAA data that has accumulated in the past two years. Where it will be stored or if it will be destroyed has not yet been decided but Dale said he would burn all 1936 forms already sent him. "No use to keep them around," he stated.

Corn loans, as well as the corn-hog and wheat programs, will have to be called off it was prophesied here yesterday. The death of AAA also will have an effect upon the shelter belt and other federal activities as yet undecided.

Theater Leading Ping-Pong League

With a percentage of 686, the Ord Theatre quintet is leading the local ping-pong league after games played Monday night. The Nebraska State paddle wielders are second with 500, the Bakery third with 420 and the First National in the cellar with 300.

In games played Monday the Theatre defeated the Bakery 11 to 3 and Nebraska State beat the Nationals 8 to 6.

Some time in the near future the Grand Island team will be in Ord to play the local champions, which should furnish an interesting match.

Buttermaker Injured In Hatchet Accident

O. E. Carlson, buttermaker at the Ord Cooperative Creamery, cut one finger on his left hand so badly Saturday afternoon that he will have to carry his arm in a sling for the next three weeks. He was using a hatchet to cut a belt lacing, the hatchet slipped and one finger was almost severed. Dr. C. J. Miller had to slit his hand to the wrist in order to replace a severed tendon. The injury has caused Mr. Carlson great pain.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

Two stories in the daily papers the past few days, have attracted my attention. One told of a poor man, sole support of aged parents, who was caught with a gallon of moonshine liquor, down in Tennessee just before prohibition went out and he was sent to a federal prison. The press admits that he is not smart enough to know what it is all about. Anyhow, when the prohibition law was repealed he was turned loose after serving about half of his 4-year sentence. Now the law has grabbed him and put him back in prison to serve the other two years. It is admitted that since his release from prison he has been staying right on the little, poor Tennessee farm and working hard to support himself and his aged parents. It is admitted that he was simply convicted of having in his possession a gallon of corn liquor contrary to law. Now the other story. A Lincoln banker convicted some time ago of forgery in connection with the management of the trust company which he headed, in the crash of which a great many widows and orphans and others lost their all, was finally forced to go to the state penitentiary after fighting the case through the courts for nearly two years. He has served but a small part of the sentence that was given him, still he is asking the pardon board to be released and scores of well known and prominent men have signed his application. I shall be interested to keep track of just what per cent of his time this man serves. The poor, friendless man who manufactured a gallon of liquor contrary to law was given, in the first place, a greater sentence than the Lincoln banker who forged legal documents. The claim that there is justice and equality as between men is all tommyrot and poppycock. The fellow who has the money, no matter how he got it, can get out of most of his crooked deals while the man who has neither money nor friends has to take his medicine.

The reason Col. Weller, H. Anderson and Freeman Haught didn't enter the Jars' contest is because it is strictly for amateurs.

Given the same opportunity and having the same reason for wanting publicity, probably any of us would have prostituted the time honored customs just as President Roosevelt did, the other night when he made one of the best political speeches I have listened to, under the guise of his message to congress.

A lot of us will be unable to figure out why the supreme court couldn't find a way to let the AAA go ahead. It looks as though it was about the same for the farmer that a tariff is for the manufacturer of goods.

It seems silly to me for people to be hollering because the democrat administration spends the relief money with both eyes on the effect it will have on the elections next fall. The republicans would be doing the same thing if they had the spending of it. Human nature is no different in one party or one church or one college than in another.

A west coast oil company gave its employees orders some time ago not to sell gas to drunken drivers. Now a Denver oil company has followed suit. If all oil dealers will do the same thing and then go a little further and order their men not only to refuse to sell to anyone who is under the influence of liquor, but also to at once take the number of the drunken driver's license and at once call the law and report the matter, a lot will be accomplished along safety lines. Something drastic has got to be done to make auto driving less dangerous than war.

R. W. Coakley of the Arcadia neighborhood, while in the office the other day paying for another year of this paper, was kind enough to say that he likes this department and missed it when I was too lazy to write it. He also said he liked Irma's department, that the Back Forty had saved him much more than the price of the paper and that they liked the front page and the pictures. His wife backed up what her husband said, but she was so busy taking care of that fine grandson that she didn't have time to do much of the talking.

I see Hoover is to speak in Lincoln on the farm aid question. Perhaps he will be kinder in his remarks, now that the supreme court has knocked the whole triple A program out. But that doesn't matter. Hoover is the leader of the standpat element of the party and the fact that the Nebraska republican organization has gone to the trouble and expense of bringing him here at this time and for the purpose stated, proves that the organization in this state is standpat and I doubt the wisdom of the move. Until that setup is changed there is no chance for the republican ticket to win in this state. There are many thousands of progressively inclined republicans in this state who would vote for a Landon or a Borah, but who would not vote for a Hoover or a Mills.

Prior to the AAA supreme court decision of Monday, there had been six major New Deal issues passed on by the court, only one of which was upheld and that by a 5-4 decision. That was the gold clause case. In three of the five cases lost all nine of the judges concurred. These were the Frazier-Lempke case, the NRA and the removal of Trade Commissioner Humphrey. The Railroad Pension case lost by a 5-4 decision and the NIRA "Hot Oil" case lost 8 to 1. The sweeping AAA decision of this week was a 6-3 decision. With this kind of a record there would seem to be but one thing to do if this sort of legislation is desired by the people, and that is to change the constitution of the U. S. The nine supreme judges are all eminent lawyers, the best there are in the country. I believe they are following the constitution in these decisions. That is what they are sworn to do when they take their oath of office and that is what every thing man and woman wants them to do, regardless of whether the decisions suit them or not. When the time comes that the supreme court of the United States decides cases contrary to the constitution, the bars will be down for all lesser judges to decide cases according to their personal opinions rather than according to the law in the case.

A score of subscribers have written the past week saying they had not received their calendar. They have not been mailed as yet. The back office promises that they will be ready to mail the latter part of this week and all who are paid in advance should be receiving their calendar by the fore part of next week. It is not necessary to write in. If your subscription is paid up to January 15 or further your calendar will be mailed just as soon as they are ready and it is the finest job of printing we have ever put out on the annual calendar.

I have had to stop a lot of papers this week. Those in arrears who have taken the trouble to write or call and say when they can pay up, are being continued until the time specified. Otherwise they are being taken off the list. I am mighty sorry to do this but I have lost many hundreds of dollars in the past by not doing it and I am all done doing that.

BACK FORTY

In the fourteenth century Europe was devastated by a plague known as the black death. Today our community is menaced by a winged plague, blacker and more virulent in its attack, though less potent than the ancient one. The crow is that public enemy and his ranks are multiplying at an alarming rate.

The crow's destructiveness to crops, livestock, poultry and wild game is well known, and he may also spread diseases dangerous to human health. He is intelligent to a remarkable degree, and may live to be a hundred years old.

The crow annoys farmers the year around. In the spring he is likely to pull sprouted corn. In the summer he steals eggs and chicks from the barnyard or destroys the nests of pheasants. In the fall he likes fruit and vegetables, and at that season of year he has a pernicious habit of pecking hole after hole in melons, until he finds a ripe one. The crow sneaks into feed yards in winter to eat waste grain, and sometimes leaves behind him the germs of such diseases as cholera, or anthrax.

It is true that the crow eats some insects, but not enough. The food habits of this pest are about as follows:

Corn, 38 percent; Insects, 20 percent; Fruits and nuts, 14 percent; Small grains, 12 percent; Other crops, 8 percent; Animals and eggs, 8 percent.

It is important that our crow population be reduced in numbers. Any cooperative plan toward this end should be given whole-hearted support.

By George Gowen

In Grand Island, I slouched down on one of the hard seats in the depot to wait. Many a long hour have I spent there in other years and the memory of those dreadful times came back. Never were there seats any harder or more uncomfortable, and the few winks of sleep salvaged, in college days, on the way home to see my lady love, could hardly have been called restful.

Someone said, "She's here," and sure enough the train had slipped into town like a long, black snake. Great trucks of Christmas mail were tossed into its inward and that was the reason for being late. I was the last of the many passengers aboard and consequently all the seats were taken. I sat down with a Creighton student from North Platte and we visited for several hours.

A few seats ahead was a couple from the same town and my friend called them rather "squidelly". It was sure they were not married. They laid their heads together and smoked their cigarettes, and fell into death clinches repeatedly, all of which was more fun for them than the rest of us.

My friend left me at two. I watched out the window for towns everyone of which were brightly decorated with Christmas bulbs and the scattered street lights blinked as we slid into the stations. I was given a pillow and lopped over and napped in gross discomfort.

In The Morning, I awoke later with a stiff neck and could not go to sleep again. I watched out the window. Dark blotches whirled past and then a telegraph pole and then another, and then some trees, and then the wire could be seen. The train turned south and to the left the first pink flush of dawn (the boost of the sun) and then the copper colored ball. Another day had come.

I glanced across the car and to the west was a big dark cloud, looming high with white thunderheads to the top. I looked again and it was the mountains, of course. The first range dark the second white, and back there in those valleys, and crevices, men live and cattle feed. Long's peak pierces higher than the rest and whiter, more majestic, more treacherous. These huge piles of dirt, and rock, and coal, and gold are like great shelves of the universe filled with tall bottles and seem so near one might reach out and touch one yet they are many miles away.

The train stops and we are there. We walk through cavernous passages and I meet my brother who reprimands me for not notifying him sooner. We go to breakfast and then with him to do some business. And I find this state is lumbered with a sales tax, 2c for every dollar, and tokens to make the change. It is a nuisance but one way to raise money and they say it raises lots of it. My brother says this tax is to pay the politicians for passing the law.

Gold. The crowds in the town town section are like bees on a hot day. Cars are lined for a full block waiting for a signal. We cross the streets only with the lights and then in droves. The stores are equally full and it is nearly impossible to get waited on, especially in the ten cent stores. Three police men direct the traffic on the busy corners.

We drive around town and I sit trembling as my brother cuts corners, slams on his brakes within a few feet of a car ahead and dodges about among the traffic, but everyone seems to go that way. We pass the large new municipal building built in horse shoe shape and the mint where they are building an annex, and past the crow bar hotel (city jail). The mint is storing more gold than any place in the U. S. A man dressed in civilian clothes loiters at the corner of the yard and I am told he is a guard. Some twenty-four keep continual vigilance, just standing around in eight hour shifts. No one is allowed to enter unless on business and then only after the guard has given consent.

Besides the mint there is a colossal custom house, and my brother tells me there are more Federal buildings in Denver than any other city except Washington. This he says, is largely because of the protection the mountains offer. A few men at a few mountain passes could stand off an army of a million from the west.

Politics. The prevailing topic of conversation, wherever one is. New Dealers are very prevalent and point out conditions are far better than three years ago and asks who wants to go back. They give Roosevelt full credit and proclaim him all wise and next to a Deity. They say he is so much smarter than Congress, and thinks so much faster, they dare not even as much as peep against his will.

Another interesting point was that Mrs. Herman Negley said there are not nearly many peddlers this year as last. Last year every day a dozen or more folks would knock at the door selling buttons, pencils, flowers, bakery goods or just begging. Anything to make a few pennies.

In the evening I was taken for a little ride to see the Christmas decorations. The new municipal building was dotted all over with tiny red, green and yellow stars. The small turret in the center was flooded with peacock blue and green lights and a candle (much bigger than it looked) stood in the center. A lighted Christmas tree, a perfect triangle cone, a hundred feet high or more, stood in the center of the yard and I was told it was made instead of grown. Made of a pole and branches. The tall telephone and state capitol were also flooded with green and red lights and stood out by night like giants in a storm.

We returned home and entered into a lively discussion about borrowing money. The prevailing interest rate there is one percent a month and with the fines attached often times more. Recently an investigation was made of some loan sharks and it was found the interest would amount to 30 per cent. The interest is always taken out in advance and a dollar a day fine whenever a payment is past due. I have thought for a long time Nebraska interest rates are high, but it is nothing compared with that.

Sunday was spent in visiting friends and Monday morning, bright and early (eight), I was at the stock yards to buy the steers. (Continued next week).

"Hara-Kiri" Hara-kiri is defined: "A Japanese method of suicide by ripping open the bowels, practiced formerly by daimios and military officers." The word is often incorrectly spelled har-kari and harri-kari.—Literary Digest.

"Piano" of 5,000 B. C. Archeologists recently found near Peking, China, the remains of a piano-like instrument with 11 strings and a sounding-board, possibly dating from as early as 5000 B. C.

Musical Instruments Classified Musical instruments are classified according to the way the sound is produced. There are stringed instruments, wind instruments and percussion instruments.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Cranberries are beginning to find themselves appearing at the dinner table in many strange disguises, most of them very new and very delicious. Not expensive, available in all groceries, they are colorful, tasty and easy to use. Cranberry recipes are often extremely simple, another virtue busy cooks appreciate. May we print your cranberry recipe? Apple and Cranberry Salad.

Boil four cups cranberries with two cups water until the berries stop popping, then put through a fine sieve. Add two cups sugar, stir, then boil rapidly for eight to ten minutes. Add one and one-half tablespoons gelatin dissolved in three tablespoons cold water additional, and let mixture cool. When it begins to thicken add one cup sliced celery, one cup diced apples, and one-half cup walnuts cut fine. Turn into a shallow mold, serve on lettuce when hardened. Pass mayonnaise separately.

Mrs. H. W. Foster, Box 41, Hillsdale, Ore.

Mock Cherry Pie. Place in a saucenpan one-half cup raw cranberries cut in halves, one-half cup raisins, seeded, one cup water. Bring to a boil, then add one and one-half tablespoons cornstarch mixed with one cup sugar. Four into unbaked pastry shell, place strips of pastry over the top and bake in a medium oven until the filling is firm and the pie crust brown.

Mrs. H. M. Grady, Kearney, Scalloped Apples.

Dice three cups bread and saute in butter until brown. Peel four apples and cut very thin. Dredge with three-fourths cup sugar, which has been mixed with one-half teaspoon cinnamon. Cover bottom of a baking dish with bread, add apples and remaining bread in alternate layers, using a few crumbs on top. Bake one-half hour covered and the last fifteen minutes uncovered in a moderate oven. This makes a simple but good dessert.

Mrs. Oscar Bredthauer, Apple Pie.

Make pie crust of one and one-half cups flour, one cup lard or substitute, one-half cup cold water. Line pie pan, then put in one-half cup sugar, and two tablespoons flour. Slice in apples and sprinkle with one tablespoon flour and one-half cup sugar, dot with butter, add one teaspoon lemon extract and one tablespoon water. Put on top crust, brush with milk, sprinkle with sugar and bake in a slow oven.

Mrs. Ross Evens, Apple Pudding.

Pare five medium sized apples, slice or cube and put in a baking dish with one beaten egg, one pint milk and a pinch of salt. Mix and add two tablespoons flour with one cup sugar, and one-half teaspoon cinnamon. Bake in the oven until done. Serve with milk or cream.

Mrs. Louis A. Dohnal, Arcadia, Rt. 3.

Christmas Spice Cake recipe was not printed correctly, the maker writes, and here is the way it should be made:

Christmas Spice Cake.

Cook four minutes one cup sugar, one cup cold water, one-half cup shortening, one cup raisins, one teaspoon each of cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg. When cold add one teaspoon soda, one and three-fourths cup flour, and a pinch of salt.

Mrs. D. Brennick, Snohomish, Wash.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

80 Years Ago This Week—Death of H. B. Kaiser with pneumonia at the age of 83 removed one of Ord's oldest Civil war veterans and best known citizens. "Kaisertown" in east Ord was named after him.

George A. Munn and S. V. Shonka filed for the democratic nomination for Valley county attorney. R. L. Staple, present incumbent, also was expected to file. Jesse Purcell gave a Leap year party at which eight boys and ten girls were present.

A big reception was given at the Peter Mortensen home for his son C. J. and bride, who just returned from a wedding trip to Honolulu.

E. P. Clements, a practicing attorney in Ord for twenty-five years, filed as a candidate for district judge. One of the present judges, Hon. J. N. Paul of St. Paul, declined to make the race again.

Word came to Ord that Dougal McCall, early-day Valley county superintendent, died at his home in Idaho.

Sickness in the Wentworth family caused the Ord opera house to forego its usual run of movies.

The Quiz was privileged to print a letter from Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of Denver, who was a member of the Ford Peace Ship expedition.

25 Years Ago This Week.

H. M. Davis, who had been appointed assistant clerk of the House at Lincoln, was making arrangements to have someone publish his paper during his absence. Because she had never missed a day of school nor been tardy during a five year period, little Emma Vergin was awarded a certificate by Co. Superintendent Schuman.

Mr. Rowell, oldest member of the county board, was elected chairman for 1911.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Johnson moved to Ord and Mr. Johnson was taking over the job of traveling for the Nebraska Mercantile company of St. Paul and Grand Island.

H. L. Steinwart, of Spalding, purchased the Stara meat market and also the Turner property in south Ord where Alva Rockhold was living.

Harry Bailey returned from Chicago where he had shipped three carloads of cattle and got a fancy price for them.

The postmastership in Ord seemed to be settled in favor of Alvin Blessing and Congressman Kinkaid recommended him for the appointment.

Mrs. Carl Johnson went to Omaha to have a pin removed from her throat. She swallowed the pin some time previously and was in quite a serious condition.

Something DIFFERENT

With Christmas over and New Year's past, it will soon be straw hat time again, so if you haven't anything else to worry about, worry about that.

Miss Lena Clements is the envy of all her friends as she wears a new two-piece red boucle suit, crocheted by her own fingers. It is a lovely color, an attractive though simple style, and most flattering to the maker who wears it.

And that reminds me, I learned to make the best looking cord while in Alliance Christmas time, not with crochet hook or knitting needles, it is made with fingers only. It is easy to do, and fun too. (I'm a poet.) And they call it "Idiot's Delight".

Now if Dad hadn't told such a mean story about me last week he could have made some remarks, but as it is I think he must be shut for the season.

The World-Herald says Hollywood is about to make a new horror movie, far worse than anything done there yet.

In the newest ghastly flicker, they will show three bridge players cast up on a desert island who go mad for lack of a fourth!

Then there is the joke about the man whose lawyer told him a divorce from his wife would cost him $30 in fees, etc. His client looked very thoughtful, then announced, "I'll drop the action then . . . there isn't $30 worth of difference in them two women!"

Seeking pictures for the Quiz, Howard Jones went coon hunting with Jim Petska and his coon hounds. Until midnight they tried to find coons. After that they had another hunt to try to find the dogs.

In Ord, as everywhere else, the big snag struck by the AAA on Monday caused walling and much uneasiness.

Over in the court house a lot of clerks, girls and men, wondered how long it would be before their bureaus shut up shop. Jobs are an important item these days.

Keith Lewis, Penney manager, spent Monday evening having vocal fits. He finished taking inventory only a few days ago and his joy was very great for the eye strain of inventorying plus the Christmas rush or something has been causing him to have styes on his eyes. Monday evening he had a wire that inventory must be taken over on all cotton goods, which of course meant an enormous inventory job to do over. And all because of the collapse of the AAA.

Wilson for Earlier War? Prayer Plus Planes New Disease Danger Ethiopian Victory?

Prof. A. M. Arnett of North Carolina university says it was not Wilson that kept this country out of war a while, but the country that kept Wilson out of the war longer than he would have stayed out.

Professor Arnett says he will prove, in a book, that Wilson wanted war in 1916, and was kept out of it by three men—Champ Clark, Congressman Flood and Claude Kitchin, Democratic floor leader of the house.

How deep should we have sunk in our depression if Woodrow Wilson had carried out his alleged plan and started the war one year ahead of time in 1917?

How many millions of Americans would have been killed (they were always honored with front row places)? How many tens of billions would have been added to the public debt and the repudiated debts of Europe?

The archbishop of Canterbury, head of the official Church of England, has invited all European Christian communicants to join in prayer for peace, with resolutions outlawing all war.

While the archbishop takes that desirable step the British government works rapidly on 8,000 airplanes of the fighting kind. Nothing like airplanes to back up eloquent prayer for peace.

Uncle Sam has on his hands the job of preventing the spread of disease throughout the country, and its importation from abroad.

Doctor Curran, in charge of insects for the American Museum of Natural History, warns New York it may be invaded by malaria brought into northern New Jersey by a COO camp worker from the South. The anopheles mosquito, always present, has been spreading the germs. He cannot do that unless he first bites a malaria carrier.

Halle Selassie's fighting Gen. Dejazmatch Hailu Kebede sends cheerful news to his royal master: "We fought and beat the Italians from dawn to dusk; 200 Italian white soldiers, twenty Italian officers, killed. Cannon, bombs and innumerable batteries of machine guns made murderous concert against us, but God protected your humble Christian soldiers, and the Lion of Judah was victorious."

Ethiopians persist in their theory that they are the only Christians involved. They say the Italians are Catholics, therefore not Christians, which would amuse the Italians, if they had time for amusement.

Rome calls the General Dejazmatch dispatch "customary Ethiopian inaccuracy."

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, booked for a big political talk in Washington, D. C., and invited by Mrs. Roosevelt to stop at the White House during his stay in Washington, declines the invitation, explaining that he will have too big a crowd with him.

Petticoats do not think that the only reason, they expect Governor Smith to "cut loose" and say things about the administration that would not come gracefully from a White House guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Triplett of Jenkins, Ky., who have just received from heaven their third set of triplets, say: "We are just tickled to death, but imagine our surprise." Besides nine triplets, the happy couple have one set of twins, all eleven living and all fortunate. The baby born in a family that wants babies is the fortunate child.

For the woman or man who does not want children, the wise thing is not to have them—for the children's sake.

Hitler knows what he wants, tells the rest of the world, and thus far the world has let him help himself.

He wanted an end of the Versailles treaty and got it. He wanted the right to build a strong battle fleet and England consented.

Now he says he must have an air force as strong as that of France, and will proceed to build it. He demands also the return of all colonies taken from Germany.

Austria will pay Uncle Sam on account of debt thirty million schillings, payment in American paper dollars. At the current rate of exchange Uncle Sam will get $5,634,000. Our paper dollars are convenient for Europeans, for they know, although we do not, that our dollar is worth 50 cents.

Ordites May Expect 19.90 Inches of Rain

Agriculturists in the vicinity of Ord as well as those in the other communities of the state can materially improve their economic status if they know the percentage of variability in rainfall to expect each year. Dr. E. E. Lackey of the geography department of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, as a result of his series of rainfall variability maps of Nebraska, now offers some possibilities in this connection. For example, if it is known that a certain crop seldom succeeds with an annual rainfall of less than 20 inches, then the farmer wants to know what proportion of the time he may expect the precipitation to be up to or above this minimum.

The university geographer has figured out that the median annual precipitation at the North Loup station amounts to 23.05 inches, according to its 45 years of rainfall recordings. This means that the agriculturist in this part of the country may expect this amount of moisture or more at least 50 per cent of the time. The chart shows however, that he has few chances for receiving more than the average amount of rain. In other words, the farmer can expect that eight years out of every ten, or 80 per cent of the time, he will receive 19.90 inches or more of precipitation and that two years out of each ten, or 20 per cent of the time, he will get an oversupply amounting to 23.98 inches or more.

While figures seem to indicate that the average median rainfall for the last quarter of a century in Nebraska has not been as high as formerly, the university professor said there was a tendency to boost rainfall records in earlier years and that measuring sticks then in use were crude and contributed to swelling the reports.

"Intelligent long-time planning always takes into account as many factors as possible," states Dr. Lackey. "The most we know about rainfall in the state the better planning we can do. An area with a wide rainfall variability may present fewer hazards if the percentage of variability is known."

Unusual Four-Generation Picture

This photograph was taken recently when Bert Rich's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rich of Edison, visited at the Rich home on Davis creek. Also in the picture are Mr. and Mrs. Bert Rich's daughter, Mrs. Edwin Houtcuyt of North Loup and her two children, making members of four generations shown in this picture.

Who Will Be Elected District Judge?

Next fall we will be called on to elect two district judges in this district. The term of Judge Clements will expire next January after having served us for the past sixteen years. The term of Judge Kroger will expire after serving us for a couple of years by appointment to complete the first term of the late Judge R. R. Horth.

At the present time there are three candidates in the field for the two places on the bench, Judge Clements is candidate to succeed himself, which is right and proper, because he is one of the outstanding district judges of the state and he should be retained on the district bench.

Judge Kroger is seeking a continuation on the bench and of course no one will criticize him for his ambition to continue in a position that is acceptable to him. He has made a good record on the bench too.

O. A. Abbott, for thirty years a court reporter in this district, sixteen years with Judge Hanna and sixteen years with Judge Clements, is also seeking office, which is laudable and proper, as he is qualified to fill that position. That might result in having two district judges from Grand Island, hardly a fair distribution of the judges for the district.

Ever since the Eleventh Judicial district was formed a good many years ago, we have not had more than one district judge living in Grand Island. We believe at one time one of the judges lived in St. Paul and the other from Greeley. But for a good many years Grand Island has had a district judge, and they are entitled to one, as the big end of the legal business in the district is done down there. But we cannot see where they are entitled to both judges. Just how the matter will be settled is for some one to figure out. As we see it every voter in the district should support Judge Clements for the office and then select one of the candidates for the bench from Grand Island.—St. Paul Phonograph.

GEORGE S. ROUND, Sheriff of Valley County, Nebraska.
Jan. 9-5t

Won Supreme Court Case.

Davis & Vogelitz, Ord lawyers, were victorious in a case decided Monday by the Nebraska supreme court. They represented Mrs. Blanche McManus, of Greeley county, one of the children of the late George Farrel. Mrs. Lena Farrel, second wife, had attempted to claim a homestead interest although she had signed an agreement waiving her homestead rights in return for an agreement signed by the children in which they waived personal property rights. Lanigan & Lanigan represented Mrs. Farrel.

North Loup News

On Friday, Dec. 27, in Wenatchee, Wash., occurred the marriage of Thelma Bleach of Burwell to Samuel Sample of Wenatchee. The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock by Rev. Logan of the M. E. church at the parsonage. Mr. Allen Tierney and Miss Rosetta Chappel attended the couple. Mrs. Sample is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Bleach of Burwell. She was graduated from Burwell high school in 1933 and since that time has been a teacher in a school near her home. Samuel is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Sample of North Loup and has lived all of his life in this village until last May when he went to Washington. He was graduated from North Loup high school in 1931 and is employed at Wenatchee in a Texaco station. The young couple are keeping house at the present in a furnished apartment. An interesting incident on their wedding day was a song dedicated to them from the Wenatchee radio station. This had been arranged by Mrs. Betty Sample with the cooperation of Mr. Tierney and was a complete surprise to the bride and groom. Both of these young people have many friends in this part of the country, who join in wishing them a life of happiness.

J. H. Eyerly returned Saturday from Chicago where he has been visiting his son, Dr. Bryan Eyerly.

Daughter of Middle Loup Pioneers Gives Graphic Story of Early Day Prairie Fire

Flames Leaped Dug-Out, Burned Woman's Hair Off, Is Claim; One Man Injured.

By GRACE BALDWIN.

"Looks like we're goin' to have some fallin' weather," called one of George Hicks' neighbors as he passed the farmer's sod residence in Custer county, Nebraska, while on his way home from Broken Bow. His team was fired from having traveled so far that day and walked along slowly, unurged by their driver.

"I think that's smoke. Must be a prairie fire up above the river. Long way off though," shouted Hicks to the other man, as he shut the corral gate on his stock for the night.

"Maybe 'tis," replied the neighbor, now almost out of hearing. Hicks finished his chores and went in to supper. Darkness had settled and the grayish brown haze in the north had changed to a dim illumination in the night sky.

"Is there a fire, Pa?" asked twelve-year-old Emma, looking anxiously at her father as she paused in her work of setting the table.

"One above the river," replied her father as he splashed at the wash basin.

"Will you have to go fight it?" inquired the girl becoming more uneasy.

"Not as long as it is that far away," answered Hicks from the depths of the roller towel.

"I should say not. Let 'em fight their own fires," declared Minta, who was Emma's junior by two years.

"Oh you mustn't say that. It's just as fair for us to fight for others as it is for them to fight for us. Only I do hope they get it put out soon," declared Emma.

Minta tossed her head as though still unconvinced but she made no reply.

Supper was soon ready and the Hicks family sat down to their usual pioneer fare of cornbread, squash, sweetened gravy and coffee.

The grim light in the north looked no worse by ten o'clock that night so the family retired. Once in the night Hicks arose and scrutinized the dim glow in the night sky. The following morning the air was full of smoke. No special column was visible but northward the smoke was denser than in other directions.

Hicks hitched his team to the plow and spent the day opening and burning out his fire guards. It was the only thing he could do at present to protect his premises and stock. Near noon the wind rose a little and the bank in the north became denser.

The Hicks children had been sent to school as usual that morning, but at noon Emma came running home red-faced and panting for breath. She had been unable to study because of nervousness and the teacher had excused her.

"Do you think the fire is comin' here, ma?" she asked as she stripped off her wraps.

"I'm afraid so. George says it'd better do some extra cooking if we may have to feed fire fighters before long."

Mrs. Hicks and Emma spent a busy afternoon cooking. About four o'clock a settler from the south bank of the Middle Loup rode past. He halted and talked a few moments with George Hicks, who was then burning the grass between the guards. After the man was gone Emma ran out and talked to her father, after which she went back and reported to her mother.

"Pa says that fellow told him that the fire is still across the river, but it's ragin' bad and the men up there are afraid the river won't stop it, if the wind raises especially."

That evening the red glow in the north was plainer and more menacing. Hicks loaded his plow, a quantity of heavy old worn-out garments and some barrels of water into his wagon in preparation for fire fighting, if it became necessary. They went to bed early for there was no telling how soon their rest would be broken nor when they would again have the opportunity for repose.

About eleven o'clock George Hicks was awakened by the sound of the wind rising. It came with a rush and a roar. It shook the windows and doors and shrieked around the corners. Mrs. Hicks woke up and the two talked in undertones so as not to waken the children. The clock struck the half hour and still the wind blew. George Hicks rose and scanned the northern sky. The illumination was much brighter. He paced the floor restlessly from bed to window. Nearly a half hour passed.

"Nancy, I think I'll go. If it doesn't jump the river in this wind, no fire."

His words were cut short. A horse's hoofs pounded to a halt near the door and a man's voice shouted above the raging of the wind.

"Hey Hicks! She's a-comin'! She's jumped the river!"

"I'm comin'," called Hicks loudly, as he swung his coat over his head and plunged his arms into the sleeves. The horse outside leaped into stride again and its hoofbeats were drowned by the roaring of the wind. Hicks hitched his team and rattled away into the night to help fight fire.

Mrs. Hicks could not go back to sleep. She watched the illuminated sky from the windows. Sometimes she went outside and watched until the wildness of the wind drove her back into the shelter of the house. The sky grew redder and the air became denser with smoke. At last Mrs. Hicks braved the fury of the wind and climbed to the top of a raise not far from the house. As she had suspected, the fire looked to be no more than a couple of miles away. She could plainly see the leaping flames and the billowing pinkish-yellow smoke.

She hurried back to the house and awakened her two oldest daughters, Sarah and Ora. Unintentionally they awakened Emma. The girl rose and dressed too, her face pale with fear, but no word passing her lips. Silently she followed her mother and sisters and lent a hand wherever it was needed in preparing buckets of water, and wetted old garments or sacks to fight fire with. A long half hour later there came to their ears the sound of running horses and the clatter of lumber wagons. A string of teams and wagons loaded with men and fire-fighting paraphernalia bumped over the fireguards and came to a halt in the yard. Men on horseback swarmed about the wagons. They secured their horses as best they could and grabbed wet rags to be ready for the oncoming enemy. Mrs. Hicks joined the fire-fighting crew but sent Sarah and Ora to the house to get medicine or bandages should there be an accident among the fire fighters.

The clatter and shouting awakened the youngest Hicks girl. She hastily drew on some clothing and ran outside. Near the door she found Emma. They stood awe-struck and trembling at the sight which met their eyes. A leaping wall of flame crowned the ridge to the north and extended to right and left in long wickedly gleaming lines. Smoke billowed skyward, reflecting the radiance of the fire below. A dull roar filled the air and the heat was becoming oppressive. Eyes and lungs smarted from the smoke laden air. As the line of fire swept down into the valley overgrown with tall bluestem, the heat became intense and burning brands were wadded across the firebreak. Men worked frantically now. Emma and Minta crouched in a window nook and covered their faces with their capes. The valley looked like a molten sea. Minutes passed. The fire swept close and swung around each side of the fire guard area. Many burning embers fell inside the firebreaks and all hands were strained to the utmost to keep the new fires from gaining headway. The gale and the current of air created by the fire itself were almost more than the fire fighters could contend with. On around the fireguards raced the fire. Suddenly there came a loud clap of sound as flames slapped together followed by a dull boom, like the distant explosion of a blast. Men started nervously. Horses reared and plunged and required strong muscles and quick hands to control them. Men clung to them in blind determination. Others buried their faces in wet rags with which they had been whipping the fire. The fire had jumped the guards a few rods south of the Hicks buildings and its sundered parts had drawn together again with a bang. A vast column of smoke ascended heavenward, marking the place for a few moments, where the fire had united. Men rushed to the spot to whip out the tail fire so that it could not back up and endanger the Hicks premises. Then darkness swept over them as the light of the onrushing fire was blotted out by smoke. For several moments both men and horses choked and coughed. Then the high wind lifted the smoke pall a little and breathing became easier.

Mrs. Hicks hurried inside to help Sarah and Ora fix food for the weary, hungry fire fighters. Thinking of the two younger children as she entered the house, Mrs. Hicks sent Sarah to look for them. Sarah found their bedroom empty, but after a longer search she found them both in the window nook and both crying with fear and discomfort. She took them inside and after quieting their fears, she lent a hand at serving the famished men. When their appetites had been appeased they all left to fight the sideline fires so that, should the wind change, there would be no chance of a new headfire starting. After all had gone Mrs. Hicks and the girls searched carefully over the premises to see that no smouldering chips or grass embers were lying about. Then they went in to get some rest until morning.

The new day dawned gloomily. As far as they could see in every direction only blackened ground met their gaze. The wind had died down and smoke still hung heavily in the air. The sun resembled a red disc, so nearly obscured that its rays were not strong enough to prevent one from gazing at it steadily.

Mrs. Hicks opened the corral gate and let the three cows out. They wandered listlessly about, sniffing at the burned-over earth and bawling disconsolately. It was late in the forenoon when George Hicks returned. Emma and Minta ran to meet him and climbed into the wagon to ride back.

"Did they get the fire all put out?" inquired Emma hopefully.

"Yes, when the wind died down they got ahead of it. We uns followed the side fires and finally reached the place where men were bringing the head fire under control. With our added help they soon put it out."

"Good!" exclaimed Emma joyfully, a bright smile lighting her dark eyes for the first time since the family had discovered the fire was headed in their direction.

"Huh," sniffed Minta, "whoever set it must have been mighty careless. I hope he has sense enough not to start another."

"It might have been an accident, Minta," remonstrated Emma.

"Accident nothing! Pa doesn't have such accidents. He's careful."

"I know, but—"

"But nothing! Anyone who is so careless should be—"

"Here, here, girls. No more arguing. That doesn't prevent fires nor put them out," said Hicks as he drew his weary team to a halt in front of the stable. He alighted, and with the girls helping, he unhitched, watered and fed the team. Then followed by his, now uncontenting daughters he went to the house where he found a substantial lunch awaiting him.

"How far did the fire get?" inquired Mrs. Hicks.

"About ten miles from here. It sure burned over a big scope of country."

"Any lives lost?" inquired his wife.

"Not that I heard of. One of the men who was fighting fire played out and fell into the flames just before our men arrived. 'Nother fellow dragged him out. He got some bad burns, but not fatal I guess. I did not see him. They had already started him home with another man who was almost exhausted. I came past Powers' on my way home. It was a little out of my way, but knowing that Ed is away working I wanted to see how the family had fared. Things were in pretty bad shape. Mrs. Powers said she did not realize that there was a fire anywhere near until the middle of the night. You know she seldom goes out much. She knew there was a fire above the river but thought it would not reach here. Living in a dugout she did not hear the wind rise in the night. Near midnight she woke up and saw so much light outside she got up and opened the door to see what it was all about. Just as she stuck her head outside a blinding sheet of flame passed over her. She jumped back and slammed the door shut, but not before her hair was all burned off."

"Burned off!" echoed Mrs. Hicks. "Clear off tight?" exclaimed Emma aghast.

"Well, she has a few straggly locks left, but they're pretty badly singed."

"Poor woman. And her there alone with six tiny children."

None of the Hicks children went to school that day for they were all depressed and exhausted by the excitement, fear and violent work of fighting fire the night before.

All day the atmosphere retained a great deal of smoke. The air was rank with the smell and taste of burned grass. In the afternoon a stiff breeze rose. It lifted the light ashes from the prairie and sent them drifting hither and yon, making it very disagreeable for man or beast to be out from under shelter.

Hicks did his chores early and the family retired just as soon as their evening meal was over. During the night a shower came up. It did not endure long but rained quite heavily while it lasted. Then the wind died away. The sun rose radiantly the next morning.

"Come girls. You must go to school today," called Mrs. Hicks as she went kitchenward to start breakfast.

Four sleepy-eyed girls threw back the hand-picked comforts and began to dress.

"Gee, doesn't the sunshine look good!" exclaimed Emma.

"It certainly does," agreed Sarah.

"Hm'mm, yes, and doesn't the ground look beautiful?" remarked Minta. "Ugh, it makes me mad every time I look at it."

The girls found that they did not have to go all the way to school walking through the wet ashes. About half the distance to the school house they came to the edge of the burned-over area. Plowed furrows extended as far to right and left as they could see. How good the unburned prairie looked and smelled after the sight and smell of the blackened earth and wet ashes. It was like stepping into a new world. At school the children all had tales to tell about the fire. One of the older boys reported that several of the cattlemen from north of the Middle Loup and some from south of the river were riding the country looking for some of their stock which had stamped ahead of the fire.

Slowly the people in the burned-over territory became accustomed to their dreary looking surroundings. Weeks passed and winter brought several blankets of white to spread over the black scar on Mother Earth's bosom. Early spring snows thickened the blanket and kept it so for several weeks. Then the warm winds began to blow and the sun bent his smile on the earth. The snow disappeared and lo, the black scar was a bright green brooch nestling in the folds of the brown winter dress which Mother Earth had not yet discarded.

Rectal troubles such as Piles, Pissure and Fistula are almost always neglected. The principal reason for this is that these conditions are often considered not important. Only a very small number who can afford a cure, do so. Waiting too long makes a lot of difference. Improper treatment does too. Get cured quick and get cured right. Fresh Fish and Oysters

The season for fresh and frozen fish and fresh oysters is here and, as usual with everything in the meat market line, we are prepared to supply your needs.

We have on hand nearly every day fresh fish of several varieties, including the popular perch, pike and haddock Tasty-Loins. We also have several kinds of frozen fish, pickled fish, smoked fish, etc.

In oysters we are handling both Standards, Extra Standards and Selects, so whether you want oysters for stews, fried, scalloped or to serve raw you can get them here.

May we serve you?

There Is An Old Saying—

"When the days begin to lengthen The cold begin to strengthen."

And that means that it will be wise to drive in and let us check your radiator. If it should drop to 15 or 20 below a lot of car owners would be caught with too weak a solution and the cost might be considerable. We check your mixture free. If you need more anti-freeze to be safe we will be pleased to supply it.

Our Wrecker Service

We have our wrecker car ready and a phone call to either 9 or 51 will bring us on the run to get your car. We repair all makes of cars. We have on hand most repairs for Chrysler and Plymouth cars and handle only genuine Chrysler manufactured parts. They always fit better, last longer and give better satisfaction than "bootleg" parts.

Elyria News

The Elyria schools were closed on Tuesday for the remainder of the week on account of several of the children having chickenpox. Most cases were very mild. Ira Myers shipped a carload of cattle to the Omaha market on Wednesday of last week.

New Year's day dinner guests at the Bernard Hoyt home were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hoyt, Mr. and Mrs. Germaine Hoyt and Mr. and Mrs. Will Dodge and family.

The Catholic young people's club gave a dance on New Year's evening which was very well attended. The St. Mary's orchestra furnished the music.

On New Year's eve the Jolly Homemaker's club entertained their families at a party at the Cienny hall. Several families were unable to attend on account of being quarantined for chickenpox. The evening was spent playing pinochle. Audrey Hoyt and Chas. Dlugosh won high prizes.

Willard Cornell drove to Brainard on New Year's day for his wife who had gone down the previous week to visit at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Wright. Mrs. Cornell's mother, Mrs. J. S. Collison of Ord, Junior Dodge and Kenneth Hoyt stayed at the Cornell home during their absence. They returned home Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kirby and Henry Kirby of Denver, Colo., and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Walkemeyer were visitors at the Albert Kirby home Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Holub took their daughter Kathryn to Omaha Tuesday. From there she will return to his school work at Columbia, Mo. She had spent a three weeks' vacation with her parents.

A brox of near Ord shelled corn on Monday for Leon Carkoski.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kirby and family were New Year's day visitors at the Chester Kirby home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Piskorski and family of Ord spent Sunday at the Albert Blay home.

Frank Wozniak and Jerry Bartu of near Comstock were overnight guests at the Wm. Wozniak home on Saturday.

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Osentowski entertained a large number of friends at a dancing party.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ferris and family of Ord were New Year's day dinner guests at the Wm. Helleberg home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jablonski had as their guests on Sunday, relatives from St. Libory and Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Jablonski and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Cornell were Sunday evening visitors at the Albert Kirby home.

Visitors at school District No. 2 on Thursday and Friday of last week were Audrey and Kenneth Hoyt and Carol Jean Clemy.

Mr. and Mrs. Germaine Hoyt spent Christmas at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Harold Kemble at Wray, Colo., and say that their son-in-law's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Kemble, who also live at Wray, plan to move to Oregon next spring. The Kemble families are well known to Elyria folks, having lived here many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Zeleski and son and Chas. Turner of Ord spent Sunday at the Wm. Helleberg home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hoyt were dinner guests at the Joe Cienny home on Monday.

Robert Schwaner Dead.
Robert Schwaner, who left Ord twenty-five years ago, passed away recently at his home in Sauk Center, Wis. Ord relatives are informed. His son, George, who has been living in Idaho, was with him when death came. In early days Mr. Schwaner was in the well business here in partnership with his brother, Frank.

—Mr. and Mrs. Lee Chaffield returned to Ord Saturday night after visiting relatives in adjoining towns and remained over night at the home of his mother, Mrs. John Chaffield, before leaving Sunday morning for their home at Sturgis, S. D.

The Only Safe Rules To Follow

Every day some new problem arises in connection with real estate involving litigation. If you wish to purchase realty a DEED, then you are safe in taking the advice of anyone, regardless of his qualification. However, if you actually wish to acquire TITLE to the property described in the Deed, follow these simple rules:

- 1st. DEMAND a complete Abstract of Title prepared only by a thoroughly experienced Abstractor whose financial responsibility cannot be questioned.
- 2nd. Have that abstract examined by the best Title Attorney before you part with any money.
- 3rd. REMEMBER, that money spent for an incomplete abstract, or for incompetent advice or counsel, IS MONEY THROWN AWAY. Anyone who advises you to the contrary is not looking out for your best interests.

We have the only set of Abstract Books in the County, and we solicit your patronage.

500 Auto Licenses Sold in Valley Co.

Sale of 1936 automobile license plates is proceeding a little slower than normally, says George A. Satterfield, Valley county treasurer. Early this week about 500 sets of plates had been sold, he reported. Since the rush usually comes during the last two weeks in January he and his deputy, Clyde Baker, are expecting to be busy during the rest of this month.

The customary number of plates, 3,600 sets, were ordered this year. A new Nebraska law provides that an auto owner, before he may buy his 1936 license, must pay personal taxes on the car he owned in June 30, 1935. The license itself costs $3.00 on light cars and $5.00 on heavier cars, as in the past.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Dale and son Douglas drove to Lincoln Sunday afternoon where Mr. Dale was toastmaster Monday at a banquet of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation. They returned to Ord Tuesday evening.

H. D. Stowell Dies Jan. 10 At Home In Springdale

Come Here In 1891, Was Prominent Farmer, Church Leader; Death Came at Age of 82.

Herman DeValence Stowell was born in Courtland county, N. Y., April 6, 1853, and died at his home near Ord Friday afternoon, January 10, age 82 years, 9 months and 4 days.

He moved with his parents to Crestline, O., in 1857, living there until the age of 15, attending the local school, also the Methodist church and Sunday school. It was during this period that the Civil war took place starting when he was 8, and lasting until he was 12.

H. D. STOWELL.

In 1868 he again moved with his parents, this time to Nevada, O. During his early life as well as in his mature life, religion and the church played an important part with him, and being musical, he found large opportunity for service. Here he attended all the services of the Methodist church and sang in the choir. Later he attended the Second Adventist church and was baptized by Elder Miles Grant, author of the book, "Positive Theology of the Bible."

Mrs. Fr. Penas, Sr. Dies At Age of 80

Eureka Pioneer Passes At Home In Ord Sunday, Laid To Rest In Ord Cemetery.

Mrs. Frances Penas, sr., nee Frances Badalik, was born in Dlouhy, Moravia, Czechoslovakia, Dec. 26, 1855, and passed from this life at her home in Ord early Sunday morning, Jan. 12, at the age of 80.

She was united in marriage to Frank Penas, sr., on Nov. 14, 1877. To this union were born three children, two sons, John of Burwell, Frank jr., of Ord and one daughter, Mrs. Mary Benda of Ord, all of whom are left to mourn her departure. She also leaves to mourn her passing two sisters, Mrs. Antonia Kokes and Mrs. Mary Gross of Burwell, ten grandchildren and three great-grandchildren, besides a host of other relatives and friends. Her husband preceded her in death in February 1932 and her brother John of Milwaukee, Wis., a year ago.

Came In Early 80's.

Mr. and Mrs. Penas left their native country and emigrated to America in the early 80's, first coming to Saunders county and later making their home in Eureka township, Valley county. Here they braved all the hardships of the early pioneer life and through their "In God We Trust" courage, thrift and willingness to work, they lived to enjoy the fruits of their hard labor. Of such stock were the early pioneers and their children live to grace posterity and to call them blessed.

To know her was to love her. She was always doing deeds of kindness for others. In her early youth she was converted in the Christian faith and in this faith she lived to the end of her earthly journey.

Wishing to live nearer to their son John, in 1906 Mr. and Mrs. Penas moved four miles west of Burwell where they resided until 1912 when they retired to Ord to spend their declining years.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. B. A. Filipi of Clarkson at Frazier's chapel Tuesday and interment was made in the Bohemian National cemetery.

The pall-bearers were Robert and Edward Penas, George Benda, Bill Gross, Adolph Kokes and Frank Janicek of Burwell.

Manchester Is Given 1 to 2 Year Sentence

Ralph Manchester was sentenced to serve 1 to 2 years in the state penitentiary Monday morning by Judge E. F. Clements when he appeared in district court and pleaded guilty to selling mortgaged property. Charges of stealing liquor from the Kasson truck, which Manchester had also admitted, were not pressed against him.

According to his statement in court, the young man purchased a car from the Ord Auto Sales Company on the finance plan, drove it to Scottsbluff and sold it. He has been held in jail here several weeks while Garfield and Valley county authorities communicated with federal officials in an attempt to have Mann Act charges filed against Manchester. He is alleged to have taken a Burwell girl to Idaho last summer. Federal officials declined to prosecute, however, so the young man was allowed to plead guilty to the auto charge.

Sheriff Round will take him to Lincoln at once.

Ord Chamber Will Elect Officers At Meeting This Eve

Boxing and Wrestling Matches, Oyster Feed on Program; All Members Expected.

All members of the Ord Chamber of Commerce are expected to attend the annual meeting of that organization, which will be held at 7:30 tonight at the city hall and to provide an interesting program supplementing the business meeting. A committee is arranging for boxing matches, wrestling matches and an oyster stew. The whole program will be free to all members.

Retiring officers of the Chamber are Val Pullen, president, and F. V. Haight, vice-president.

At a meeting of directors Thursday night President Pullen appointed a nominating committee composed of C. C. Dale, chairman, H. T. Frazier and Gould B. Flagg to nominate new officers and directors at the annual meeting tonight. Members may make additional nominations from the floor if desired.

Committee in charge of the program is George Allen and J. Edgar Mauer. Mr. Allen has lined up a program of wrestling matches and boxing bouts. The oyster stew will be served to all members at the close of the program by Mr. Mauer and his assistants.

This is the first such program held by the Chamber of Commerce and it is hoped that it will prove so attractive that a big majority of members will arrange to be present. Don't forget the place—city hall—or the time—7:30—and be present tonight.

Plate Glass Broken.

Saturday afternoon a little girl leaned against one of the big plate glass windows in the Farmers Grain & Supply Company store, the window caved in and the glass broke into a thousand pieces. Workmen quickly boarded up the window and a new plate glass has been ordered by F. J. Dworak, owner of the building.

W. H. Sutton To Sell.

W. H. Sutton, who has been farming the old Tony Guggenmos place north of Ord, is quitting farming because of ill health and is advertising a clean-up sale to be held next Thursday, January 23. His offering is listed elsewhere in today's issue.

Truck, Car, Collide Near Auble Corner Early Sunday Morn

Car Wrecked, Auble Marquise Was Damaged, Young Man Hurt In Freakish Collision.

About 2:00 a. m. Sunday when few cars were abroad a freakish accident occurred on the Auble corner in the Ord business district when a livestock truck driven by "Slim" Webb of Burwell collided with a car driven by Ed Anderson, demolishing the car, injuring its occupants and damaging the marquise over the Auble building.

According to the most reliable information the Quiz can secure, the Webb truck was coming from the south and ran past a stop sign at a speed of about 30 miles per hour just as the Anderson car, coming from the west, reached the same corner. The two vehicles were the only ones in motion within several blocks but apparently neither driver saw the other.

Telephone Man Injured. In the Anderson car were Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Fox and Millard Gass. All escaped with minor bruises except young Gass, a cable splicer for the Nebraska Continental Telephone company, who had deep scalp and facial cuts. He was attended by Dr. Lee C. Nay.

After striking the Anderson car Webb's truck bounced onto the Auble curb and the rack hit the metal awning over the Auble store, causing damage estimated at $100. Mr. Webb and his brothers, who operate a trucking line at Burwell came to Ord Sunday and agreed to pay all damages to the Anderson car and the Auble marquise, as well as the doctor's bill for attending young Gass. No criminal charges have been filed against Webb.

Tale Of Robbery Leads To Arrest

When George Miller appeared at an Ord restaurant about 6:00 Tuesday morning and told a wild story about having been hit on the head and robbed of $40.00, the cafe proprietor believed him and called Night Marshal Roy Pardue to investigate. Pardue wasn't so credulous and took Miller to jail where he was booked on an intoxication charge. Tuesday afternoon in county court he was fined $10 and costs which he has not yet paid.

Ord Theatre Team Wins In Ping-pong

Table tennis players who represent the Ord Theatre were crowned champions of the first half of the Ord league's season Monday when they defeated the First National team 11 to 4. Their season average is 586. In second place is the Nebraska State team which defeated the Bakery 11 to 4 Monday. Three are tied for individual honors, Jorgensen, D. Lashmuth and F. J. Osentowski each having an average of 740. In fourth place is Harry Wolf with 703 and Syl Furtak is fifth with 630.

Mrs. James Weber Dead.

Mrs. James Weber, of Phillips, Wis., passed away Jan. 13 after a short illness. She was formerly Miss Alice Jarusek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jarusek, and was married to James Weber on July 30, 1932. At the time of her death she was 32 years old.

Henry Misko Pleads Guilty To Assault

Upon a charge of assaulting his brother, Will, Henry Misko appeared in county court Friday and pleaded guilty, being fined $5 and costs by Judge John L. Andersen. The assault took place about 7:00 Thursday evening on the C. A. Hager corner across the street from the city hall. Henry Misko was lurking in the darkness and when Will came along carrying a sack of potatoes he leaped upon him, broke his glasses and caused superficial injuries. Marshal L. H. Covert, who was at the city hall, heard Will Misko's cries for help and reached the scene in time to stop the fight before more serious injuries resulted.

Bad blood has existed between the Misko brothers for some time, in fact ever since the death of their father, Frank Misko, over matters connected with his estate. A law suit decided recently in favor of Will Misko provoked him beyond endurance, Henry testified in court Friday.

Supervisors Heed Petition, Elyria Now Incorporated

54 Residents Asked Board Take Such Action; First Trustees Are Appointed.

Heading a petition signed by fifty-four residents of the village of Elyria, the Valley county board of supervisors yesterday took action to incorporate the village and also appointed a board of five trustees to serve until the village's first municipal election is held next May. Elyria has been an unincorporated village ever since it was settled.

Village trustees named Monday include E. A. Holub, Frank T. Zulkoski, Phillip Wentek, Leon Ciemny and Ed Dahlin. State law requires that a village have a population of over 100 before it may become incorporated. Until recently Elyria's population was exactly 100 but is now claimed to be 101, opening the way for incorporation.

Most Willens Signed. Another requirement for incorporation is that a majority of citizens sign the petition and 54, the number of signers to the petition presented to the board yesterday, represent it practically every Elyria citizen instead of a mere majority.

It is claimed that Elyria people will secure electricity at a much lower rate because of this change. They have been paying the Western Public Service company's farm rate and henceforth will pay the rate fixed for municipalities.

Poling the village of Elyria adequately has always been a problem for county authorities and now that the village is incorporated police service will be up to the village itself.

County supervisors voted unanimously to grant the incorporation asked for. Petitioners were represented by Attorneys Clarence M. Davis and E. L. Vogelitzanz.

Dogs Kill Pigs, Huffer.

Arcadia—(Special)—On Christmas night a pack of dogs killed eight head of shoats belonging to Raymond Karchal and last Wednesday killed a heifer belonging to Fred Hunt and devoured half the carcass. Many farmers here are keeping loaded shotguns at hand in hope of sighting these marauders.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Holub of Elyria were Omaha visitors the middle of last week.

Mrs. Orin Mutter^o Claimed By Death After Operation

Comstock Woman Died Saturday In An Ord Hospital; Her Death Shock To Friends.

A terrible shock to family and friends was the death Saturday, Jan. 11, of Mrs. Orin Mutter, of Comstock, who passed away in Hillcrest sanitarium where a few days before she underwent major surgical treatment. The operation was successful and Mrs. Mutter was thought to be on the road to recovery when she suffered a relapse and passed away.

Fannie E. Moore was born in Oregon, Mo., October 15, 1878 and when death claimed her Saturday was 57 years, 2 months and 27 days old.

As a young child she moved with her parents to Custer county in 1884 and they lived on a farm close to Sargent. On November 8, 1900 she was united in marriage to Orin B. Mutter. For seven years they lived at Sargent, then moved to Ord and Mr. Mutter opened a photographic studio here which he conducted until 1930. In that year the family moved to Comstock and that town was Mrs. Mutter's home until her death.

Loved Home and Family.

To Mr. and Mrs. Mutter were born three children, Richard B. Mutter of Newton, Kas., Charles B. Mutter of Comstock and Mrs. Marshall Fuller of Chicago. Also left to mourn are her husband, one grandchild, two brothers, Milo H. Moore of Sargent and Charles J. Moore of Akron, Ia., besides many more distant relatives.

Affiliated with the Presbyterian church, Mrs. Mutter remained a faithful member of that denomination until her departure. She was a woman of fine upright character who took great interest in the welfare of her home and family and also of the community in which she lived. Loved by all whose privilege it was to know her, her death leaves a void in the hearts of friends that can never be filled.

Funeral rites were held at the Presbyterian church in Ord at 2:00 p. m. Tuesday, Rev. A. E. Reudink, of Arcadia, preaching a beautiful sermon. Pallbearers were Frank Johnson and C. J. Mortensen of Ord, Ed Stone, Richard Stone, Stanley Emry and E. J. Crawford of Comstock. Burial was in the Ord cemetery.

Stanley Rutar, 21, Died Tuesday Eve

Stanley A. Rutar, 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Rutar of Ord, passed away at Hillcrest hospital Tuesday eve as result of a heart lesion which developed after the second major operation he had undergone recently.

About two weeks ago the young man was operated on for appendix removal by Dr. C. W. Weekes and recovered satisfactorily, being discharged from the hospital and returning to his own home several days ago. Then a bowel obstruction developed and he had to return to the hospital for a second and more serious operation, Tuesday evening he died of a heart attack.

Stanley has been associated with his father in the management of the Ord Hatchery and was widely known and liked.

The funeral will be held at 9:00 this morning at the Ord Catholic church.

Edward Florian Dies After Brief Illness

A great shock to family, relatives and friends was the untimely death of little Edward Louis Florian, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Florian, which occurred at his home January 11. The lad had been ill with tonsillitis and ear infection and later developed rheumatic trouble. His condition was not considered serious until shortly before his death, which came in spite of all medical aid and loving parental care could do for him.

Besides his parents he is mourned by four brothers, Aldrich, Louis, Jr., Milo and Jerome and two sisters, Mildred and Lillian. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Florian, of Czechoslovakia, also survive.

Funeral rites were held at 9:00 a. m. Monday at the Ord Catholic church, Father Lawler in charge, and interment was in the Catholic cemetery here.

Gebauer Sale Jan. 22.

One of the big clean-up sales of the season will be held on the Paul Gebauer farm south of North Loup next Wednesday, Jan. 22. Both Mr. Gebauer and his son are leaving the state and so are selling all their livestock, machinery and furniture. The large offering can be scanned on page two of this issue.

Mrs. James F. Hrdy Passes Suddenly Of Acute Uremia

Ord Woman Stricken Thursday Eve, Rushed to Hospital and Died Two Hours Later.

Taken suddenly ill as she was coming to town in an auto from the Will Beran country residence Thursday evening, January 9, Mrs. James F. Hrdy was rushed to the Ord hospital where she passed away two hours later. Acute uremia is believed to have been the cause of death although Mrs. Hrdy had never suffered with this ailment and had been in her usual good health until stricken Thursday evening.

Mary, daughter of Matt and Anna Klima, was born in Valley county on Jan. 23, 1882 and grew to womanhood here, being married on Jan. 3, 1898 to James F. Hrdy. Their entire married life was spent on a farm in Geranium township and Mrs. Hrdy moved to Ord after her husband's sudden death on Feb. 28, 1934.

Six Daughters Survive.

To Mr. and Mrs. Hrdy were born six children, all of whom survive. They are Mrs. Helen Kokes, Mrs. Clara Beran, Mrs. Agnes Beran, Mrs. Frieda Vodehnal and the Misses Mildred and Harriet Hrdy, all of the Ord community. Also left to mourn are four grandchildren, one sister, Mrs. Carl Bouda, one brother, Matt Klima, and a half-sister, Mrs. Frank Trvdik.

Funeral rites were held Monday, Jan. 13, at 1:30 p. m. at the Bohemian hall in Ord, conducted by Rev. B. A. Filipi of Clarkson. Pallbearers were John Kokes, sr., Joe Beran, sr., Henry Vodehnal, Joe Saska, Wm. Lukesh, Vencel Krikac. Interment was in the Bohemian cemetery here.

Music was furnished by a quartet composed of Madams Mark Toien and E. O. Carlson, Messrs. Everett Petty and James E. Ollis. The flower committee was made up of Mrs. Joe Pecenka, Mrs. Vincent Kokes and Mrs. Frank Krahulik.

In attendance at the funeral from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Anton Hrdy and son George and Mr. Frank Hrdy, all of Walthill, as well as a host of friends from Sargent, Comstock, Burwell and other communities.

Jacquot Gets 30 Days.

Sheriff George Round received a letter from the Omaha police department Friday stating that Nick Jacquot was sentenced to serve 30 days in the Douglas county jail for passing bad checks in Omaha. A check-up here reveals that he passed three checks totalling $34 with Ord merchants, all being written on a Broken Bow bank in which he had no funds. He probably will not be prosecuted here.

Ord Cagers Wallop Dannebrog, 30 to 19

Coach Brockman's Ord high school basketball team is beginning to hit its stride, as proved by a 30 to 19 victory over Dannebrog on the local floor Friday evening. Since Dannebrog had previously beaten St. Paul, which piled up such a score against Ord two weeks ago, local fans are quite encouraged. Tomorrow night Scotia plays in Ord and there will be two preliminaries, reserve teams of the two schools meeting as well as junior high squads.

Amateur Night Changes.

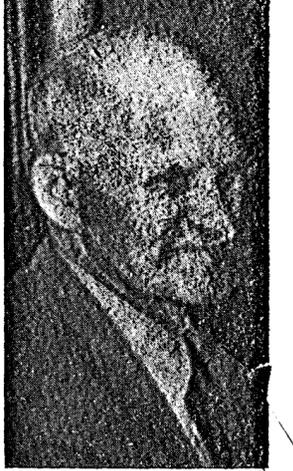

Saturday, instead of Friday, will be amateur night at the Ord Theatre beginning this week, announces Manager M. Blemond.

Supervisors Elect J. A. Barber New Chairman of Board

Veteran North Loup Member Was Chosen Monday on the 1st Ballot of Annual Meet.

Valley county supervisors, holding their annual organization meeting this week, elected J. A. Barber, of North Loup, as their new chairman to succeed S. V. Hansen. His election came on the first ballot by a majority of 4 to 3.

Ellsworth Ball was elected temporary chairman while nominating and voting were in progress. Only nominees were Charles Johnson, of Independent township, and Mr. Barber. After Barber was elected by a 4-3 vote Johnson moved that his election be made unanimous and this was done.

J. A. BARBER.

Tuesday afternoon Chairman Barber announced his committee appointments as follows:

Roads and bridges—Johnson, Jablonski, Hansen.

Buildings and grounds—Zikmund, Ball, Deamul.

Estimates—Ball, Hansen, Johnson.

Settlement with officers—Desmul, Johnson, Jablonski.

Bonds between sessions—Jablonski, Ball, Zikmund.

Claims—Jablonski, Ball, Zikmund.

Strombom Reappointed. Harold Strombom was reappointed as county engineer Tuesday afternoon at the same salary paid him in 1935. Dr. J. G. Kruml was reappointed county physician and Dave Haight was again hired as court house custodian.

Yesterday Chairman Barber announced appointment of Otto Bartz, Clyde Baird and Alfred Weigardt as the soldiers' and sailors' relief commission for Valley county.

The board adjourned last night and will reconvene at 10:00 this morning with prospects good for completion of the annual meeting this afternoon or tomorrow.

Foreman Changes Plea To 'Guilty'

Jack Foreman, arrested with "Toot" Harris two weeks ago on an intoxication complaint and who at that time pleaded not guilty to the charge, appeared in county court last Thursday and changed his plea, paying a fine of $10 and costs of $8.55. Harris, whose case was scheduled to be tried Monday, asked a continuance until February 1, which was granted by Judge John L. Andersen. The case probably will be tried before a jury at that time. He is represented by John P. Misko.

Johanna Buchfinch Dies.

Mrs. Johanna Buchfinch, formerly a resident of Hall county, died at her home at Santa Ana, Calif., on January 7. Funeral services were held at Grand Island the 14th at the English Lutheran church, the Rev. C. B. Harmon officiating. Burial was in the family plot at Grand Island. A son, Fred Buchfinch and wife of Ord were in Grand Island to attend the services.

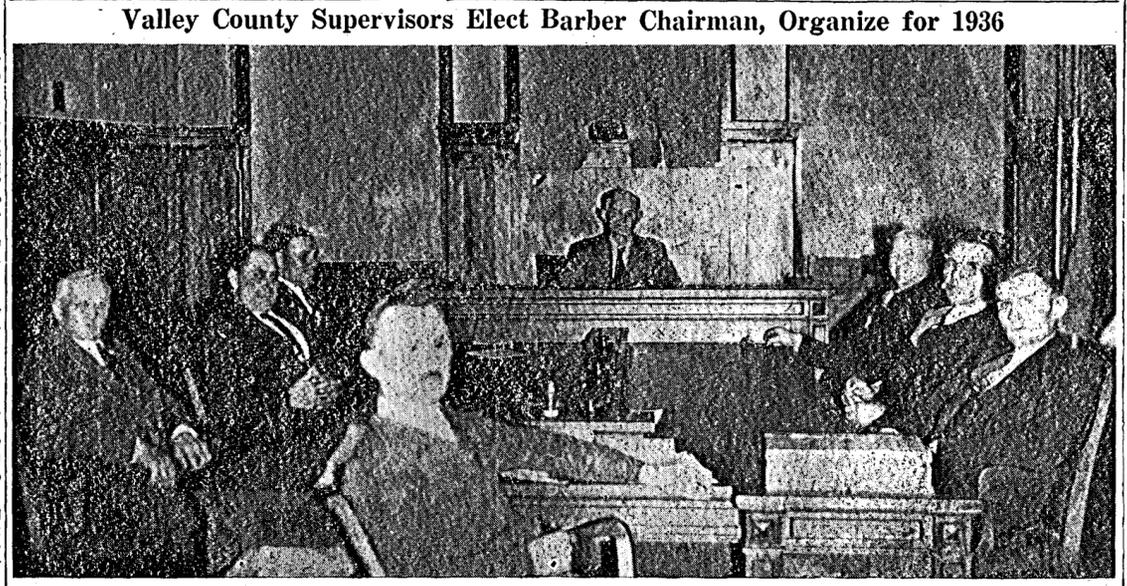

Snow, Colder Weather.

Three inches of snow fell in Ord Tuesday night and was accompanied by a wave of colder weather, third such we have experienced this winter. More snow is indicated by weather forecasts.

Association Piano Tuner.

Charles C. Perry, registered piano tuner of Grand Island, will be in Ord soon. Mr. Perry is able to do all repairing, regulating and voicing which makes your piano like new. Phone orders to Miss Anna Aagaard, No. 6111. 42-11

—Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Lewis left Ord Monday afternoon for a brief trip to Omaha.

Here is shown the Valley county board of supervisors seated around the big desk in the board room Tuesday just after they had elected J. A. Barber chairman and otherwise organized for the new year. In the foreground is seen Ign. Klima, county clerk, on the left side of the desk are Supervisors S. V. Hansen, Henry Desmul and Joseph Jablonski, at the head of the desk is Chairman Barber and on the right side are Supervisors Henry Zikmund, Ellsworth Ball and Charles Johnson. The picture was taken by H. E. Jones, Quiz photographer.

North Loup News

Evelyn Kosch and Carmen Weber were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sayre and Helen last Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Hutchins left Monday for a trip into Iowa and Illinois. Mrs. Hutchins expects to visit her daughter, Mrs. H. V. Fox of Gary, Ind., while her husband attends a convention in Chicago. They will be gone about three weeks.

Mrs. Jennie Anderson spent Thursday with her daughter, Mrs. Florence Hutchins.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wolf are parents of a eleven pound son, born early Saturday morning.

No Lo club officers for next year are Betty Manchester, president, Mary Clark, vice president, Cora Hemphill, secretary, Esther Babcock, treasurer and Eva Johnson, chairman of the program committee.

Chas. Clark and George Hutchins were in Omaha and Lincoln Thursday and Friday.

Marguerite Babcock spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. Martha Babcock. Marguerite has been working at Ord.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cox and sons Lyle and George and Mrs. Sobrina Williams spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Horner in Cotesfield.

The Albert Babcock family were supper guests of the George Hutchins family last Wednesday evening.

Miss Willoughby was hostess to the Fortnightly club on Wednesday of last week. Twenty-two members answered the roll call, "A daily task difficult to accomplish". Guests were Mrs. Mill Colby of Scotia, Mrs. Clyde Willoughby, and after school three of the teachers, Evelyn Kosch, Mary Williams and Phyllis Gordon. Leta Gillespie had charge of the lesson and had arranged a journey to foreign lands, one country being visited each month. Because of lack of time the last three countries were omitted but the first nine were discussed briefly by the following people: Spain, Esther Hurley; Sicily, Merle Zangger; Greece, Elfreda Vodehnal; Palestine, Myra Barber; Africa, Myrtle Sayre; America, Ruth Hudson; Brittany, Lois Redlon; Germany, Josephine Hutchins; and England, Mary Thelin. Miss Gordon, accompanied by Miss Williams, sang two solos, "Your Birthday" and "Ho, Mr. Piper." The hostess served lunch assisted by her daughter Thelma and by Mrs. Clyde Willoughby.

Mr. and Mrs. Stiles stayed at the W. O. Zangger farm while the Zanggers were on a trip to Iowa. Mr. and Mrs. Leland Stillman entertained the Whoopee Bunch at a card party Wednesday evening.

Rev. Hurley Warren is having a vacation from his duties as pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church. Rev. Nichols preached the sermon last Sabbath and Mr. Warren sat in the congregation.

Mrs. Myra Gowen entertained the Woman's Missionary Society of the S. D. B. church Tuesday at the home of Mrs. G. L. Hutchins.

Curley Goodrich underwent a sinus operation in Ord Saturday. He went to Ord again Monday for treatment.

Rev. A. H. Brink

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the North Loup M. E. church for Rev. A. H. Brink. A large congregation attended, including six-four people from Archer and Fairview and many from other points. The service was in charge of Rev. W. H. Stephens. After reading an obituary, Rev. Stephens spoke of the loss sustained by the church and village. Rev. Brink retired from the active ministry at the last conference and he and his wife came to North Loup last fall to make their home with Mrs. Brink's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gray. Mr. Stephens also spoke of Rev. Brink's pastorate in North Loup twenty-five years ago and of the building of the church at that time. At the time of his death Rev. Brink was teacher of an adult Bible class of the Sunday school. The sermon was preached by Dr. B. Johansen who is superintendent of the 18th district. The sermon was based on favorite words of the deceased, "I will never leave thee or forsake thee." The speaker paid touching tribute to the life and labors of Rev. Brink and spoke of his qualities as a pastor, preacher and citizen. The scripture reading was by Rev. Weston of the Evangelical church of Archer and prayer was offered by Rev. J. B. Wylie of the Burwell M. E. church. Two musical numbers were sung by a quartet from Archer and a solo, "Where the Gates Swing Outward Never," by Phyllis Gordon accompanied by Mrs. Arthur Hutchins.

Abram H. Brink, son of John B. and Ann Elizabeth Brink was born at Ansonia, Monroe county, Pennsylvania on Nov. 28, 1863, and died at North Loup, Neb., Jan. 9, 1936, aged 72 years, 1 month and 11 days. He graduated from the Pennington Seminary in June 1898 and on Dec. 28 of the same year he was married to Miss Mabel Grey. Four children were born to them: Edwin D. of Hastings, Neb., Mrs. W. A. Luedke of Paxton and Alvin of Fullerton. A daughter, Dorothy preceded him in death. He is also survived by three brothers, Mahlon S. and Richard E. of Scranton, Pa., Owen of East Stroudsburg, Pa., a sister, Mrs. M. W. Brown of East Stroudsburg and two grandchildren, Dorothy and Russell Luedke of Paxton, Neb.

Rev. and Mrs. Brink came to Nebraska in 1904, entering the West Nebraska conference in 1905. Rev. Brink spent 36 years in the ministry, being retired at the conference session of 1935. During his late pastorate at Archer and Fairview, Rev. Brink, accompanied by Mrs. Brink and Alvin visited the scenes of early life, and had the great satisfaction of greeting such relatives and friends as had survived the years of his absence.

The North Loup high school basketball team has got off to a fine start this year, having won two of the three games played so far. The first team won from Dannebrog at Dannebrog, lost to Taylor in an overtime game with a score of 11-10, and won again Saturday night from Elba on the North Loup floor.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Christensen entertained at a large family dinner Sunday. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Horner, Carmen Weber, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Eglehoff and son, the Roy Horner family, Mr. and Mrs. Don Horner, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Manchester and Connie and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mitchell of Burwell.

The part time class for out of school boys started last Tuesday evening. Mr. Sandy is the teacher of this class which takes up a regular shop program this year. This work was started last year and was considered well worth while.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schudel and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bailey entertained their bridge club last Thursday evening at the Schudel home. High score prize for the ladies was won by Mrs. W. O. Zangger and Roy Hudson was high among the men. Traveling prizes were taken by W. O. Zangger and Zola Schudel. A lunch consisting of open-faced sandwiches, cake and coffee was served at the close of the evening.

Mrs. Emma Greene and Leo came to North Loup Saturday from Poole to spend the day with friends here.

Mrs. Harlan Brennick has been having an attack of tonsillitis but is getting better at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Christensen spent Friday at Arcadia with Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Christensen.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hoepfner and Jane, Jim Bell and Thelma Willoughby went to Grand Island Saturday evening. Jane took the train for Denver where she expects to visit relatives for several weeks.

Mrs. Clody Ingerson and two little daughters went to Hastings last Thursday to spend a few days with relatives.

Russell Kasson of Spalding spent the week end in North Loup with his family.

Mrs. George Maxson entertained the boys of George Jr.'s Sabbath school class Monday evening in honor of Juniors 15th birthday, which occurred on Sunday. Those present as guests were Clair and Darrell Barber, Warren Brannon, George Cox, Albert Babcock, Jr., and Garis Clement. Dorothy Brannon accompanied her brother and spent the evening with Marian. Kenneth Barber, who is the teacher of the class was not able to be present. The evening was spent playing out of door games, after which Mrs. Maxson served refreshments of cake, fruit salad and cocoa.

AAA Is No More Who Will Pay Now? Only 11 Can Run Fast The State of the Union

The Supreme court decision rejecting AAA, the "agricultural adjustment act," affects every American directly.

Arthur Brisbane, who issued just as the President announced his program to balance the national budget within one thousand million dollars, the decision upsets that administration program. Men with large incomes, of whom few survive, may worry, for the decision takes from the government seven hundred million a year of processing taxes that will have to be made good elsewhere. The manufacturers, or processing, tax, handed along to the little people, was, in reality, a sales tax on life's necessities—cotton cloth, flour and meat.

The question is, Who will provide cash promised the farmers, since the Supreme court will not sanction the sales tax, disguised as a "process" tax?

Whence will come the hundreds of millions the government owes to farmers under its AAA promises and has not yet paid? The farmers did their part, the government could hardly fail to do its part by paying.

International News Service sports department shows that out of about 1,800,000,000 human beings on earth only 11 are known that can run a mile at really high speed. Of these not more than four have any chance of beating an individual named Glenn Cunningham of Kansas.

You would think that the billion unknown uncouncted among the so-called "backward races," many with native energy, free of civilization's handicaps, could easily be trained to beat the 11 fast ones, but it is not probable.

The President's address "on the state of the Union" was, like nearly all Presidential speeches, an address on the state of the administration.

Discussing danger of war, if it is true that "85 or 90 per cent of all the people in the world are content with the territorial limits of their respective nations," that would leave only 10 or 15 per cent of the aggressive type.

Lloyd George, playing a little politics with his friend Prime Minister Baldwin, exults in the noble moral uprising of the British, rejecting the terrible, immoral plan to divide Ethiopia and placate Italy. Something "without precedent," Lloyd George calls it.

Where England is concerned, "dividing up" is, indeed, almost without precedent. England's custom as a rule is to swallow things whole, as she did with the Transvaal, India, and other territories that have kept her old fighting flag always in the sunshine.

The Methodist Episcopal church is proud to announce in Nashville, Tenn., that it begins 1936 with 2,783,269 regularly enrolled members, an increase over the preceding year of 31,298, with 21,381 baptized infants not included. This is the reply of the Methodist Episcopalians to the "high church" Episcopalians of the English church that suggests giving up Protestantism altogether as a failure.

Children will learn with pleasure that it is not necessary to eat spinach unless you like it. Other vegetables take the place of spinach with a menacing person called "Pop-Eye."

The government, through WPA, will print a book on what to eat and how to eat it. One well known New York physician ventures the opinion that spinach contains an objectionable amount of "vegetable uric acid."

A twenty-year-old Poughkeepsie girl "from the other side of the track," working for $8 a week, was invited by a young man to get into his automobile. "Want to go somewhere for a drink, baby?" was the invitation formula. In the morning the unfortunate girl was found in the man's car in a garage, dead, horribly mistreated and beaten to death. The excuse for mentioning so dreadful a crime is that it ought to warn all girls foolish enough to accept invitations from unknown men.

New Jersey says the execution of Hauptmann, close at hand, will be no theatrical show. No woman reporter will be allowed to witness Hauptmann's death, an excellent idea, although some young ladies will not think so. Female reporters, let us hope, will have babies later on. Watching a miserable creature writhing in the electric chair would not be good for the babies.

Postoffice Was Discontinued in 1904 When Rural Route Begun, Recalls Old Settler.

By JOHN C. BREMER.

On February 4, 1880 a postoffice was opened in Mira Valley, in a sod house located on the northeast quarter of Sec. 28, Township 18, Range 14. Like most such buildings, the sod house and first postoffice had walls 2 1/2 to 3 feet thick and its doorway was about six feet high. In one corner was a shelf with numerous pockets or pigeonholes where the mail was sorted. A cook stove such as early settlers used stood near the south side of the room. Over the door hung the trusty shotgun. On the walls were various pictures of persons or events of current importance—presidents, governors, prize fighters, etc. There was a table and a nice comfortable arm chair also. Such was Mira Valley's first postoffice.

Four years previously, in 1876, Mr. Asahel Ward, who had served as an officer during the Civil war, had located on this Mira Valley claim. Previously he had lived near St. Paul and had served as the first postmaster of Cotesfield so when early Mira Valley settlers decided they needed a postoffice it was considered that Mr. Ward was well qualified for the position of postmaster and he was appointed by the government.

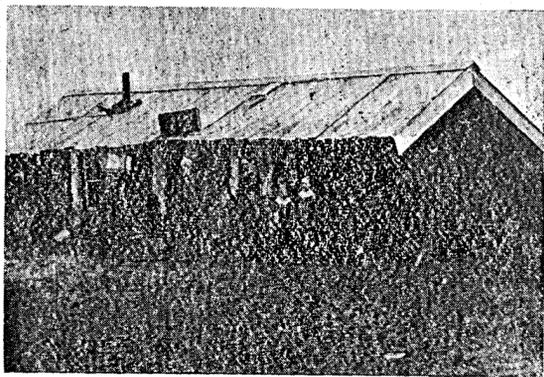

To his modest little sod house settlers came from far and near to get their mail, some on horseback, others afoot and many in their old reliable farm wagons. At first the mail came up the valley but later from Ord.

Among early-day mail carriers were such men as Mr. Kaiser and Charlie Nelson. As the country was without telephones and few received daily papers the early settlers eagerly searched every newspaper for all the news. Such papers and magazines as Youth's Companion, Farm Journal, Golden Days and Saltzer's seed catalogue were all read from cover to cover.

Incidents that happened at this postoffice were soon known to the whole community. One of the early settlers, a Mr. Dillthey, had a sad accident when he went out to shoot a chicken. One of the shot struck the tire of a wagon, glanced and struck a small child in the temple, killing it instantly. Postmaster and Mrs. Ward helped prepare the child for burial and this child is said to be the first person buried in the North Loup cemetery.

Mr. Ward was not only a postmaster but a great hunter and often was found hunting for game, which in the early days was plentiful. The younger generation delighted to hear of his exploits as when he saw his last buffalo and killed his last deer, of encounters with hail storms, prairie fires, etc.

In early days our valley was infested with rattlesnakes and once Postmaster Ward had the misfortune to be bitten by one of these reptiles. He finally recovered, after suffering great agony.

Here's The Postoffice Established at Mira Creek in 1880.

Among the patrons of Mira Valley postoffice were quite a few Germans and it amused Mr. Ward to hear them tell their little stories. He often said "you must take them as they mean, not as they say." As he was a justice of the peace they often came to him with their problems and nearly always went away satisfied. His salary as postmaster was a meager one as he only received the postage on outgoing mail but he never was known to complain about this.

Our postmaster was also much interested in politics and when the Grand Old Party went down to defeat there was no sadder person in the community than Mr. Ward. He delighted to attend the county conventions and at various times was selected as chairman.

Albert Honnold, a brother of Mrs. Ward, took a claim joining Ward's and here Mr. Ward left a living monument in what is now known as Clement's grove, when he assisted in planting those beautiful trees. It is here that most of our people gather for their outdoor celebrations.

For about a quarter of a century our postoffice continued, with some changes, as when the sod house was replaced with a more modern frame dwelling, until in 1902 Mr. Ward sold his farm and moved to Ord. Then the postoffice was moved about two miles south to the home of Rev. R. G. Hellwege who held the position of postmaster for about two years, at which time the postoffice went out of existence, just as it has been established—unheralded and un-sung.

Truman Honnold, another brother of Mrs. Ward, had circulated a petition asking that a mail route be established in Mira Valley. In the summer of 1904 we were notified to procure our mail boxes and soon afterward were delighted when T. J. Nethery brought us our first mail. It was then that we began to forget Mira Creek P. O. and it is now R. F. D. No. 2, Ord, Nebr. For many days, however, we continued to get mail addressed to Mira Creek, Nebr.

We now look upon our mail carriers as sort of substitute postmasters and as I recall them they are Thomas J. Nethery, Sig Milligan, Mac Boydsten, Mr. Clements, Perry Luse and last but not least, our own Jim McCall. There have also been such substitutes as Clate Gilroy, W. A. Anderson, Bert Lemasters, Arlos Thompson, Wes Rawles, Mrs. T. J. Nethery and Mrs. James McCall.

Woodman Hall

The corn-hog meeting was held at the National hall last Wednesday as scheduled and was quite well attended but on account of the supreme court's decision on the AAA no action was taken.

This locality was shocked last Thursday evening when the report reached here of the sudden death of Mrs. James Hrdy. Mrs. Hrdy grew up and lived in our neighborhood all of her life up to two years ago, after the death of her husband, when she retired and moved to Ord with her three youngest daughters.

She was a good neighbor, a kind friend and a very devoted wife and mother. The family have our deepest sympathy of their great loss of both parents in so short a time.

Mrs. Rudolph John and daughter Muriel spent last Wednesday and Thursday at Joe Waldmann's while Mrs. Waldmann was convalescing after an attack of flu.

Mrs. John Veverka returned home the latter part of last week from a visit of her daughter and her husband Mr. and Mrs. Jarolinek at Dorchester and her daughter Frances and husband at Grand Island. She went to Dorchester with Mr. and Mrs. Jarolinek who were here visiting at Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kamarad and family were Sunday visitors at Joe Waldmann's.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Radil spent Sunday afternoon at Thomas Waldmann's.

Johnnie Veverka lost a colt from cornstalk disease last week. This is the first fatality reported here this winter from corn stalks.

Mrs. Joe Kamarad and daughter Doris and son Leonard spent last Saturday and Sunday at Joe Waldmann's.

Paul Veverka returned from Dorchester last week where he was employed for several months.

The bombing we heard near the Woodman hall last week was only Charles Krikac blasting logs for fire wood.

Quite a number from here attended the funeral of Mrs. James Hrdy at Ord Monday afternoon.

Lawrence Waldmann has a horse sick with what the veterinary called sleeping sickness. He is somewhat improved at this writing.

The Marshalls are picking corn for Will Heffernan.

Card of Thanks.

We take this means of thanking friends and neighbors for their many expressions of sympathy and acts of kindness during our great bereavement incident to the death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Mary Hrdy. We especially thank those who sent flowers and who furnished cars.

With a cheery smile and a wave of her hand she, too, has wandered into that unknown land, and left us dreaming how very fair.

It must be, since they both linger there.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Kokes and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Beran and family.

Mildred and Harriet Hrdy.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beran and family.
Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Vodehnal.

Card of Thanks.

In appreciation of the many beautiful flowers and kind acts of relatives and friends during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father.

40th Wedding Anniversary Observed Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Welniak

Joseph Welniak and Mrs. Josephine Washowiak were married at Wysoka, Poland, on January 10, 1896 and Sunday afternoon at their home in Elyria, surrounded by children, grandchildren, other relatives and a host of friends, they celebrated the fortieth anniversary of that happy occasion.

Both dinner and supper were served to large groups in the Welniak home, the table being beautifully decorated with red roses and asters, a gift from their son Stanley, who lives in Omaha. The wedding cake, decorated with forty red and white candles to represent the ruby wedding, was baked by their daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Welniak. The rooms were also decorated in red and white.

Afternoon and evening were spent in dancing and playing cards. As an anniversary gift their children presented Mr. and Mrs. Welniak with a breakfast suite and they also received many beautiful gifts from relatives and friends.

One of the high spots of a happy afternoon came when Mr. and Mrs. Welniak, both of whom enjoy excellent health, recalled incidents of their forty years of married life.

After their marriage in 1896 they lived in Poland for seven years and

THE ORD QUIZ

Ord, Valley County, Nebraska

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

It begins to look as if the DuPont interests are as big if not bigger than the government of the U. S.

I am not a socialist or a red or even a radical, but I am radical enough to believe that no corporation, great or small, should be allowed to make several hundred per cent profit in a year, when the public buys the product of the corporation to make such a profit possible. No one is entitled to make that kind of a profit on his money. If he does then it is right and proper for the government to take 90 per cent of it for the support of the government, in my opinion.

When you read this the Missus and I will probably be down at San Antonio, Texas. It is our plan to leave Lincoln Tuesday morning of this week, go first to San Antonio for a few days, then on down to Corpus Christie and later to Brownville, which, with the exception of Key West, Florida, is the farthest south of any part of the U. S. I am taking one of Howard Jones' best cameras and a bunch of films. Bill Moses and Walt Desch have both asked me to get some pictures of the bathing beauties for them and Charley Stuchler is scared for fear I will catch a bigger fish out of the Gulf of Mexico than he caught out of the Pacific ocean on his recent trip up to Washington and Oregon. Guy Burrows and Dr. Norris have been telling me fish stories about their last trip to the Pacific coast and I just had to take it and do the best I could telling them stories about the Minnesota fishing, but watch me when I get back from south Texas. Those birds won't be able to dispute anything I see fit to tell them. Anyhow, I am going to try to have quite complete stories of our trip, illustrated as far as possible with pictures.

I have always felt like discounting some of the Mae West stories that John Perlinaki told me but after reading an AP news dispatch saying her salary is four times what Edsel Ford gets, I shall believe everything I hear about Mae.

In all of the communications, conversations and conferences between the Nebraska power and irrigation districts at Washington, as to a Nebraska State "Authority" in electricity, there has never been a word said about the Middle or North Loup projects. Was the "approval" of some five or six months ago, merely a "scrap of paper"? It could not have been a lack of money. Twice the amount required for both projects has since been allotted to the Tri-County project. Have these two projects, the most feasible and easiest to liquidate, of all of them, been cast aside by the same "stratospheric" element which has insisted on the diversion of the waters of the Platte regardless of the damage done thereby to the ditch companies above Kearney and the sub-surface irrigation territory between Kearney and Columbus?—Gus Buechler in U. I. Ind. Jan. 4, '36.

I believe we will get our project some day, but the time may not be very soon. It seems easier for the present administration to spend large sums of money on small accounts than to ask for $30 million instead of less than 3 million, right on the start, probably we would have been going fine. As the above editorial indicates, we have the most feasible project of them all and in time it will be built and whether we like it or not we will just have to wait.

I am writing this on Friday, a week before most of you will read it. I am going to Lincoln on Sunday, and on Monday I shall accept the filling which was made for me a month ago, when some seven hundred names of men and women from every part of the 29th unincorporated district was filed with the secretary of state, asking me to become a candidate for the office of member of the first one-house legislature. The people voted by a large majority to try this experiment. I was strongly in favor of it and spent my time and money to secure over 1100 names of Valley county men and women to submit to the voters. The voters of the Valley county, and I believe of the other counties in this district, approved it by large majorities. I am hoping that it proves as great an improvement as we who supported it hope it will. Should I be chosen next November to sit as a member, I shall do my best to make it a success.

When the time comes I shall make a vigorous campaign to be one of the two high men in the primary election which will be held April 14. If I am eliminated then there will be no hard feelings on my part and I shall just as vigorously support my choice of the two nominated. During the primary campaign, and should I be successful then, in the fall camaign, I shall ask any man or woman to vote for me. I will try to tell many of them that I will appreciate their support, and that, if chosen, I will try to do my duty. I have no allusions about my popularity. No man can be in the newspaper business as many years as I have, or in any other business for that matter, without making some enemies. Some will vote against me because they don't like me. Some who don't like me will vote for me in spite of that fact, because they know I will try to do the right thing.

Some will vote against me because I have had a measure of success as a business man. Some will vote for me for the same reason. If I was going to hire a man to work for me, I should try to get one who had been a success, not a failure in his own business and that is the kind of man I think should be chosen to look after the business of the public. They are hard to get because most successful business men do not care to neglect their business to attend to the business of the public and probably be cursed for doing it. And there are always plenty who have not been successful in business, anxious to get a seat at the public trough.

I am sorry indeed that we have not been able to get your cook calendars mailed out as yet. A big rush job of store sale bills for an out of town customer last week end, required the attention of three of the force for nearly three days. But it won't be much longer and I am sure you will be just as glad to get the calendar when it does come, though of course a calendar, like a bus or railroad train, should be on hand.

Something Different

A lady was bemoaning the loss of a string of pearls. Finally a friend got tired of her lamentations and asked her why she didn't advertise for it in the Quiz. "Oh, whoever finds them will just keep them and have a string of pearls to wear," was the reply. "I don't know about that," declared the Quiz friend. "I lost $30 in bills and got it back through a Quiz want ad. I think there are some honest people in the world."

A few days later the phone rang and the Quiz friend hurried to answer it. "Thanks for helping me get my pearls back," was the message. Fuzzled, the lady who heard this said, "But I didn't do anything to help you get the pearls back." "Yes, you did, you told me to put a want ad in the Quiz." "And you got the pearls?" asked the Quiz friend. "Well, I should say I did, I got five strings!" replied the one who advertised, in a most triumphant voice.

Which is on a par with the friend of mine who advertised for a girl to help her and declared indignantly: "I'll never advertise again. I got 23 answers and all I did for two days after the Quiz came out was to answer the phone and the door."

And Jim Patska, who advertised last Thursday that one of his coon hounds was lost (a result of his hunting trip with Howard Jones?) and received the hound before night.

One barbarous custom I hope we outgrow is that of walking past the coffin to see what remains of someone we loved or respected.

What we see isn't what we loved. It isn't the person we liked to hear chuckle, or revered for other reasons. It is the hollow shell, there is nothing there. Why should anyone want that picture to take with him?

If the one who died isn't clearly pictured in your mind not only once but dozens of times, then why did you go to the funeral? If it is someone who meant something to you, you have only to shut your eyes to see him before you. Surely the pictures from life, called up by affection, are far finer than anything the funeral directors can do, no matter how patient and skilled they may be.

An Ord family are retelling their favorite practical joke. It is one they read about a Hollywood movie star, who waits until the poor victim retires to the restroom or comfort station, or whatever you call it, and then punches a button which causes all the walls to fall away from the bathroom. The victim is thus exposed to the laughs of his friends.

I'll bet you never thought of that. Perhaps Orville Sowl or Leonard Blessing have tried it on one another.

Speculation is very, very rife over who will be our next postmaster. Names that have been mentioned as sure to get it are Hip Norman, and Frank Kruml, and Bill Bartlett, and Bill Henck. To say nothing of Joe Kokes, Alphia Hill and Joe Kokes. And there are other deserving demonstrators who are often mentioned.

When I think of the things I have heard of Fanny Mutter I think first of the remark I heard an older Ord lady make years ago. It was about Fanny as a young girl, when she and Orin were going together, or about the time she was married: "She was as pretty a young girl as you ever saw, Fanny Mutter was."

CARE OF COUNTY BOARD

By George Gowen

Night Life.

Perhaps I better back up in my travels to tell of a little touch of night life I saw, although it may not be different than Nebraska cities.

Saturday evening we stopped for a few minutes at a road house. In one end of the establishment was a bar, the only difference in the old time bar that I could see was the presence of women. Next and adjoining that was a small dance hall, and further, booths where the liquor was served.

Cheap music was played in short spasms. Between dances, which were much longer than the dances the guests were supposed to sit down and drink, and don't think they didn't. Pretty girls who didn't drink served. Girls and boys drank, smoked and told obscene stories unabashed and unreserved, and the love making (if it was love) was not postponed for the moonlight and the garden gate.

I guess I am getting old and am an old fogey, but a little of that life goes a long way for me. Perhaps I did not drink enough of the gin to get the spirit of that round-day until four o'clock in the morning. Well that's the result of one law Roosevelt made possible and signed with a dozen pens and one that has not been repealed.

I prefer a good movie, and there are such things, too. My brother and I differ as to our likes. I like a comedy. He likes lots of action. The kind where they have to run an extra shift between scenes to mop up the blood. We compromised and looked in at the night club of which there are so many.

The Stockyards. As we near the stockyards we pass the tallest standpipe I ever saw. It stands alone in a little clearing and I wonder if the builders were not attempting to raise it up above those lurking mountains which might obscure the draft.

A ladder creeps up the side, the lower end locked, but in spite of that, so the story goes, a couple of urchins climbed to the top one day. Upon their arrival they were so scared they dared not climb down, and hung there like bats afraid to move. Firemen had to be called to go after the boys.

The stockyards are small compared with Omaha. A wide boulevard, so to speak, cuts through the center, most of the business being done there. I find my commission man and he says he sent a load last week to Dick Thompson and knows all the Mira Valley men.

There is only one load in the yard that suits me. We differ for them and finally about noon the seller comes to my commission man and tells him what he is bid and he can have them for a very little more. And that is the way we got them. A man from Iowa was the other bidder and he has to go home without cattle or wait over.

The cattle came from Gunnison and out of a foot of snow. Off a narrow gage R. R. three cars of which hold the same as two of the wide gage. In this mild climate, comparatively, these cattle thrive, we think, better than average. Some people argue when a person travels to another country his appetite increases and the same with cattle.

One of the most common sights in the Denver stockyards is an old Jew, with white whiskers, a beakless black fur cap, Congress shoes and riding a fat bay horse. His name is R. Miller and he buys cattle for one of the packing houses. He owns an interest in this packing house and a few million dollars besides.

He is 96 years old that he knows of. He was born in Russia many years ago. He wrote back to find out his exact age and the records were lost but for some reason they know he is 96 at least. He hops on and off his horse spryly and buys in the yards every day.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

Prunes are coming into their own. From their former spurned and lowly place they are gaining favor with the cook and the family too.

Prunes now appear in a number of guises, sometimes in the salad, or the candy, or the dessert. We have printed recipes for prunes used in fowl stuffing, and prunes are often found in cake these days, good cake too.

Prune Cup Cakes. Cream one-third cup butter and one cup sugar, add two well beaten eggs, one cup unswweetened prune juice, two cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon soda, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two teaspoons cinnamon, three-fourths teaspoon cloves, one cup cooked chopped prunes, one-half cup broken nuts. Mix like any cake and bake in cup cake pans.

Theresa Spotanski, Ashton. Meat Loaf. Combine two pounds ground beef, one pound ground pork, one pound smoked ham, ground, with two cups cracker or bread crumbs. Put in two cups milk, two well-beaten eggs, salt, pepper and sage to taste. Mix and shape into loaf and bake. When about half done pour a small can of tomato soup over the loaf and finish baking.

Mrs. Walter Blum, York. Chili Macaroni. Cook one package of macaroni until tender and drain. Fry one pound hamburger in skillet with a little butter until brown, pour in a deep pan. Slice five onions and fry until brown, add to meat. Then put in one large can of tomatoes, one can kidney beans, one chopped green pepper and the cooked macaroni. Season to taste, simmer thirty minutes.

Mrs. Guy Jensen. Mash. Grind six medium sized raw potatoes and one medium sized onion, add to one pound hamburger, salt and pepper to taste. Add enough milk to make smooth, put in a baking dish and bake one and one-half hours.

Mrs. Sam Marks. Suet Pudding. Mix in order one quart flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon cinnamon, a little nutmeg, one tablespoon cocoa, nine small crackers rolled fine, one cup suet chopped fine (I always grind mine). Put in a pinch of salt, one cup ground raisins, one cup ground walnuts, one-half cup sugar, two cups milk. Steam three hours. This is better after it is a week or more old.

Sauce for the pudding: Put one cup sugar, one and one-half pints hot water, a lump of butter, a pinch of salt, one-half teaspoon vanilla or lemon, two tablespoons cornstarch and one tablespoon flour on to boil, remove from the fire and cool. Thin with cream when ready to use. Nutmeg may be used in place of vanilla.

Mrs. Allen M. Jones. There should be enough popcorn for everyone this year, and some left over. In Nebraska the acreage planted last spring was the highest in the history of the state, and, while some yields were poor, the total production is greater than for the four past years all added together.

Year Acres Lbs. Produced
1929 11,000 10,725,000
1930 11,000 13,750,000
1931 5,800 3,770,000
1932 5,200 2,392,000
1933 3,000 1,665,000
1934 17,000 9,690,000

The above figures are accurate, excepting those for 1935, which are preliminary estimates. In 1934 the Nebraska popcorn crop was a failure, and no data is given for that year.

In Iowa the weather was favorable for maturing the popcorn crop and high yields have been reported there this season. The acreage was quite large. An extremely large acreage was planted to popcorn in Kansas. The yields were fair, but the quality of the late-planted popcorn is said to be poor.

Scattered reports from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, and South Dakota indicate that the 1935 commercial acreage of popcorn for these States is more than double the acreage indicated in 1929 (as reported by the U. S. Census). In Michigan, where approximately 2,600 acres of commercial popcorn acreage was harvested in 1935, the average yield was approximately 1,250 pounds per acre. Production was divided about equally between yellow and white varieties. Indiana popcorn acreage is centered largely in Elkhart county, where a large acreage of yellow variety popcorn is now produced. The Indiana acreage has increased substantially during the past two years. Illinois, Ohio and South Dakota have only meager data available for this report.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

McPherson, Kas., Jan. 12, 1936.

Dear Quiz: For several years the Missus and I have planned on taking a trip to the Gulf of Mexico, to get away from some of the cold weather and this winter, after she suffered 3 weeks with bronchitis and couldn't get over it, we decided to try a warmer place for a few weeks. We are driving carefully, lest we arrive at a place that is too warm. We left home at 9 a. m. today and arrived here at 5 p. m. The distance traveled was 307 miles and we did it without mishap and enjoyed the trip.

Of course we had everything packed and ready to load last night. One has to take quite a lot of stuff, at least the Missus does, and she put in a clean shirt, handkerchief and a pair of socks for me. When I woke up about 6 a. m. and heard the wind I thought we might have to delay the start. However, by 8 o'clock the wind was going down and we had a very nice day.

Kansas has had more moisture than it needs. The fields have water standing everywhere and a look up the side roads that are not graded, makes one glad for our hard surfaced roads. Kansas, so far as we have been, is mostly flat. This country looks to be mostly in wheat, which looks green and a good stand.

When we came through Clay Center I noticed Fred Howard prancing down the street, dressed to kill. I suppose he was headed for one of those fashionable afternoon teas. He was wearing a long tailed trowsers, white vest and long grey hat coat, and a plug hat and a chic young lady, probably Miss Lobelia, was hanging onto his other arm. When I went through Geneva I noticed Frank Edgcomb out in the yard directing Mrs. Edgcomb's wood splitting. I can't understand how some of those birds get by with the stuff they do.

McPherson was named after the Civil war general of that name. It is an old, old town, first started, I am told, as a religious colony. During its early days when great herds of Texas longhorns were trailed through here, there was more hell-raising than religion here. The Brethren and Free Methodists have colleges here now. McPherson is now a prosperous place of 6,000. Oil and gas was first found here some eight or nine years ago and there are now two refineries here, the Globe, with a million dollar plant built two years ago, being the largest. They are sending out 12 thousand barrels of gas every 24 hours at present. The oil wells are all around, some as close as five miles from town. The main field, however, has now drifted 30 or 40 miles west of here.

We found a nice modern cabin camp and got a nice place, gas heat, attached garage, for $1 for the night. It was quite cold when we left Ord but I suppose it is around 50 here tonight. We had a nice t-bone steak for supper and will have bacon and eggs for breakfast.

Tomorrow night we will be well down to the Texas border, perhaps in Texas. One of our booklets says the north edge of Texas is closer to Lake Michigan than it is to the Gulf of Mexico, which makes it look like a long trail to me. Our first stop for sight seeing will be San Antonio, but I hear that the best fishing in the world is at Corpus Christie and that will be our next stop and I don't know how long we will stay there. A young man at the filling station here has relatives there and he says they tell him fishing is so good there that it is more like work than play. I think I can stand quite a lot of that kind of work.

H. D. Leggett. Ward Loses 37 Pounds, Is Now a Lightweight.

Ft. Robinson, Nebr., Jan. 12, 1936.

Dear Quiz: After a two weeks' rest, will try to give the Quiz readers some more data on this reduction program. After a strenuous week I hit a new low at 148 pounds, the least I have weighed for 37 years. However I am feeling as well as I could expect and am getting quite a few cards and letters, which I certainly appreciate.

We had an interesting CCC boy here for dental treatment the past week by the name of David. He was talking to him and found out that he was born at Ord when his parents lived there some 18 years ago. He is the youngest son of John S. Davis, well-known blacksmith, preacher and marshal of Ord at about that time.

Then a fellow here from St. Paul by the name of Anderson, a former filling station operator, asked me if I knew Shorty Peterson of Burwell, who used to haul butter and eggs for the Burwell butter factory, and who had a near fatal mixup with said produce between St. Paul and Grand Island on a dark and stormy night one winter. Of course I don't know any such person and told him so.

This is a funny country. The biggest counties in the state are all around us but I write these letters in Sioux county and take them down the street a quarter of a mile and mail them in Dawes county. The best explanation I can give is that the Fort was established years before this part of the state was divided into counties, and the county lines came in last. The principal street doesn't run east and west, but angles somewhat southeast and northwest. It was probably thought that, like Ft. Hartsuff, the life of this outpost would be of short duration and being square with the world would be a matter of little consequence. As a matter of fact, this is as well planned a village as I have ever seen, and in its heyday, when business was brisk and all the buildings were occupied, it must have been an interesting place to live. A conservative estimate shows that there is plenty of room in the buildings here to house the entire village of Burwell, with room to spare.

The population here consists of a remount detachment, men and officers, with their families, the hospital personnel and a varying number of patients, a grand total of perhaps two hundred. One barrack building, with a capacity of more than two hundred is entirely empty. There are at least a dozen other large buildings unoccupied and a number of buildings of from twelve to twenty rooms are tenanted by only one family.

The old 9th and 10th cavalry (colored) were about the first soldiers here and stayed the longest. Aunt Callie, a colored lady of Crawford, widow of one of the 9th cavalry soldiers is a well known character here. She was born a slave and remembers many interesting incidents of Civil war times. The last regular army men, a field artillery company, left here in 1929, being moved because the firing disturbed the horses.

Ed Henderson, who shot Gilo Summers in a quarrel over a card game in the Transit House in Ord nearly 40 years ago, was once in business in Crawford, and was well known here. Another well known old-timer here was Jim Dahman, and one man here tells me he remembers Bob Miller, old-time cowboy, now of Burwell. If any of you readers are thinking of writing me, hop to it. I won't get mad. In fact I rather like it.

Yours truly,
Lightweight bull-throwing contender.

20 Years Ago This Week.

A. Ward, pioneer and the oldest man in this part of Nebraska, died at his home in Ord at the age of 96. He was born and grew to manhood in Ohio, helped to organize the republican party and was a delegate to the convention that nominated Abraham Lincoln to the presidency for his first term. He served as an officer during the Civil war, then came to Nebraska and took up a homestead in Howard county in 1871. With Robert Harvey he helped survey the state, then took up a homestead in Mira valley where he served as postmaster. He was mourned by a wife and three children.

Adjudged to be suffering from senile dementia, Mrs. Narcissa Ablehart, Ord boarding house keeper, was sent to the state hospital at Hastings for treatment.

Ord firemen left in a special car for the annual state convention at Crawford.

Valley county board of supervisors reelected J. H. Capron as chairman. Mather, Gates, Foght, Stacy and Bell were other members.

The Farmers Elevator Co., was so successful in its first year of operation that directors declared a 20 per cent dividend at the annual meeting.

25 Years Ago This Week. As a church social was being held, the Methodist church at North Loup caught fire and was completely destroyed. The fire broke out in the vestibule and people in the church made their escape through the windows. Carpets, seats and other movable objects were saved but a new piano was burned. George Johnson had a narrow escape from death, being trapped in the vestibule as he attempted to throw a sack of flour on the flames.

Mrs. J. E. Tolen died of a paralytic stroke at the age of 54. Mrs. Edna Norton resigned as teacher in District 60.

Peter Mortenson went to Lincoln to institute mandamus proceedings to get the office of railway commissioner, to which he was elected in the fall election. The democratic appointee refused to give up the place.

Ord sport fans were beginning to forget football defeats because of Ord's fine basketball team. A 37 to 14 victory over Wolbach was the latest.

Christian Science Services. "Life" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches for Sunday, January 19.

The Golden Text is from I John 5:11: "This is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son." A passage from the Bible in the lesson-sermon is from Psalms 27: 1. "The Lord is my light and my salvation, whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?" A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "Because Life is God, Life must be eternal, self-existent. Life is the everlasting I AM, the Being who was and is and shall be, whom nothing can erase." (page 290-1).

In Stores Ten Years. Once more he moved west with his parents, locating in Adair county, Iowa and engaged in farming until 1877. Here he was superintendent of a union Sunday school, taught a singing school, and led the singing in a seven weeks revival meeting conducted by Elder Adam Clark. He also conducted a singing school at Arbor Hill.

In 1878 he left the farm and purchased a general merchandise business at Orient, Iowa. After two years he sold this business and bought another store at Farragut, Iowa, where he continued in business for eight years.

He was married in 1882 to Grace L. Slocum. Five children were born to them, three of whom died in infancy.

To Springdale in 1891. In 1891 he moved with his family to Nebraska, purchasing a farm in Springdale near Ord, where he lived until his death. Two years later his wife passed away. In 1896 he was married to Josie Anna Jarusek. Six children were born to them.

He was always happiest in church and Sunday school work. During his early years in Nebraska he was a member of the Presbyterian church but when the Methodists organized a class and built a church near his home in Springdale, he joined with his neighbors and became a Methodist, continuing an active member and supporter of this organization until it disbanded, when he transferred his membership to the Ord Methodist church of which he was a member at the time of his death.

Eight Children Mourn. He leaves to mourn his death his wife, Josie, eight children, ten grandchildren, two sisters, besides the many friends and neighbors who knew and loved him.

His children are Emerson Stowell of Orient, Iowa, and Doane

Publisher Gives Details of Second Day's Trip. Waurika, Oklahoma.

Dear Quiz: We arrived at this town at 5:15 this evening, stopped at Allen's tourist camp, got a splendid cabin for $1, had oil changed and gas tank filled, went three blocks to a grocery and market to get something for supper and it is still 15 minutes to six.

When we got up this a. m., everything was white with frost but it was not cold enough to freeze ice on puddles in the yard. We had bacon, eggs and coffee for breakfast and drove out of camp at 7:30. Our mileage was 333 so you see we didn't drive so hard. We are now 640 miles from home and the man here tells me it is 420 miles to San Antonio, so I know we are not going to get there tomorrow. That makes it 1,060 miles from Ord to San Antonio and still 150 miles to Corpus Christi, where the good fishing is said to be.

The last hundred miles today is a much more interesting country to drive through than the country we went through before. The south part of Kansas and the north part of Oklahoma are flat, wet and uninteresting at this season.

I forgot to mention, last night that we thought, when we passed through Lindberg, Kas., of the time when Floyd Robbins studied music there. The first town of any size that we passed through was Newton, where Adis Zaloudil Nelson lives. We didn't stop for breakfast for two reasons; we already had our breakfast and we didn't know where she lived.

There is a nice camp on the Kansas-Oklahoma line and we were sorry we couldn't try it out, but 9 a. m. was too early to camp. We got to Enid at 11:30, had dinner at a nice cafe, I got shaved and had my shoes cleaned and shined. (They needed it after wading around in the camp at McPherson) and we went on, after an hour of rest. By that time there was a terrific wind from the south. It came from the north the day before. By 4 p. m. most of the wind had died down and it is calm tonight. We recalled that the George Rogers family lived at Enid for many years but we were not sure whether any of the family was still there.

At El Reno we saw our first cotton gin, and there were great bales of cotton piled up beside one of them. As we left the town we saw cotton fields, and in one of them a couple of young men were picking cotton; trailing their long sacks behind them. It didn't look like much of a crop. A picked cotton field looks just like a Nebraska field of wild sunflowers, about 2 feet tall. We saw cotton fields all the way after El Reno.

The next town of any size was Chickasha and I recalled that T. C. Honnold went there from Ord many years ago. The first time I ever saw Tommie Honnold was about 1896 when I took Norris Brown about the county to make political speeches and we held a meeting in the school house near the Honnold place.

After leaving El Reno the soil is as red as brick for many miles. Wheat, corn, cane, cotton and a little alfalfa seem to be the main crops. There are a few very fine farm homes and many small, badly run-down places, with here and there groups of shacks that we surmised were occupied by cotton workers.

There are more trees in the southern part of Oklahoma, and the soil is lighter and more rolling. We saw our first orchards and vineyards around Kingfisher, which, as I recall, was the first good town south of Chickasha and from there on the farmers are in the field plowing and getting ready for spring crops. Most of the men and boys were working in their shirtsleeves this afternoon.

Well, I had to stop for supper, stewed new turnip, pork tenderloin, bread and butter and coffee. We are 18 miles from the Texas line and expect to be on the way by 7:30 again in the morning.

THE ORD QUIZ

THE ORD QUIZ, ORD, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 23, 1936.

VOL. 53 NO. 43

Publisher of Quiz In Southern Texas, Plans Fishing Trip

Austin, Texas, Jan. 14, 1936.
Dear Quiz:

We arrived here a few minutes after 5 p. m., after driving 318 miles, about our usual day's drive. We are 938 miles from home to night, after three days' drive. Not a large mileage, but we are not trying to make a speed record. We are trying to drive safe and see as much as possible. I will tell about this camp later in this story.

When we left Waurika at 7:20 this morning we started on a detour and for the next hour and a half we drove on country roads, all very rough.

We crossed the Red river, the boundary between Oklahoma and Texas at 8 a. m. The Red river at the point where we crossed was about a third of a mile wide, that is, the sand was. There was very little water and it didn't look to be over 6 inches deep any place. There was plenty of evidence however, that at times there is a raging torrent down the valley. For many miles we passed through a purely cattle country, but didn't see many cattle. There were scattering farm homes, mostly very poor looking affairs. We began to see big cactus shortly after crossing the Red river and the country is badly cut up with draws and big washes, with here and there scrub timber. I have always sort of had it in for Gen. William T. Sherman for the mean comparison he made but tonight I don't know as I blame him so much.

We got almost to Fort Worth before we saw any good farming country. As we neared there we ran out of the red, poor looking soil and saw only black soil from there on. Around Ft. Worth many of the farmers were seeding oats with drills. Others were plowing, mostly with tractors, but some with 4-mule teams.

At Waurika where we stayed last night, cotton is the main money crop, with a little feed such as corn, cane and small grain. Cotton is the money crop. A hundred miles further south, the filling station man said it was practically all cotton and corn, little stock being kept there except milk cows.

I have made it a point to ask all with whom I talked, about conditions and so far all have said business was improving. My next question was, "What do the people here think of the Supreme Court decision," and the answer usually is, "Well, some like it and some don't." But they always say most folks are for Roosevelt.

All along through Texas we have been seeing trees with clumps of green among the branches. This proved to be mistletoe. Today we began to see many meadowlarks, so guess they must winter here. Tonight the trees in and around camp are full of mocking birds.

As we drove into Ft. Worth we remembered that Mrs. Olof Olsson was visiting there and thought it would be nice to call on her, so I asked a colored boy who sold me gas, where I could find her. He said he had never seen no lady and when I suggested that he must not be very well acquainted, he said he knew most everyone there, and asked if she had been there long. I told him a couple of weeks and he said that accounted for his not knowing of her whereabouts. Ft. Worth has something over a hundred thousand population.

When we went through Temple, Tex., I kept watch, thinking I might see Miss Lulu Bailey on the street. Temple is a beautiful place, roses blooming in the yards and lawns, where watered, are green.

All through Oklahoma and Texas we have seen such pretty trees covered with yellow berries. We stopped at Grand View, Texas this afternoon so I could take a picture of a yard full of cotton bales and the Missus saw one of the trees with the yellow berries and when the owner of the place came out, probably thinking I was some new sort of government inspector, she asked the name of the tree. He said they were China or umbrella trees. He cut a branch and gave her and we may get it home. He says the robins sometimes eat the berries and get so drunk on them that they can be picked up off the ground. I saw a colored marmite at Grand View that might suit Geo. Anderson. I judge she weighed 300. She was not so fat but just big all over and ought to make a real one. When I told her about George she said to have the gentleman write to her. Her name is Tiny White, but she is neither in fact.

Boys Took Prizes In Amateur Contest

Approximately two hundred and fifty people saw Harold Mella and Ray Gruber take first and second places in the amateur contest held at the Ord theatre Friday night, with Wilma Severns and Mrs. A. Long tying for third prize.

Other contestants were Eleanor Joe Jablonski, Mrs. Glenn Eschliman, Mrs. Elvin Hale, Lillian Kary, Angelina Wachtrle and Edward Puncchoar.

The audience more than doubled that of the previous contest, showing conclusively that amateur contests are a wanted entertainment in Ord. For the convenience of townspeople, the contest has been changed to Saturday nights. A well varied program is arranged for Saturday night, and anyone wishing to enter the contest may do so by applying at the theatre.

Tenancy Increases In Valley County

Lincoln, Nebr., Jan. 23.—Farm tenancy in Valley county has followed the alarming trend shown by Nebraska and the nation in the last five years, Lores McMinds, rehabilitation supervisor for this county, said today. Since 1930 there has been a gain of 87 tenant-operated farms in Valley county as compared with a decrease of nine farms run by full owners, he commented.

National agricultural leaders are seeking federal legislation to help tenant farmers buy land. A bill passed last session by the senate would set up a billion dollar corporation for loans to tenants seeking to buy small tracts. A similar measure will probably be voted on at this session of Congress. The Land Utilization Division of the Resettlement Administration is working now on a study of farm tenancy.

An increase of close to 4,800 farm tenants in Nebraska occurred between 1930 and 1935 as compared with a decrease of 440 full owners, Census of Agriculture figures reveal. At the beginning of the century, only 37 percent of Nebraska's farmers were tenants. Today, virtually 50 percent rent or lease the farms they operate. Tenant-operated farms in the United States have increased from 25 percent of all farms in 1880 to about 43 percent in 1935.

Farm leaders say it is hard to develop satisfactory rural communities in areas dominated by tenants, because the average American tenant farmer moves every four years. Since his interest in the land and farm buildings is temporary, he finds it impractical to build up the land or otherwise improve the property. Schools, churches, cooperatives and other community enterprises suffer as well.

—Rev. Earl Cummings has resigned as pastor of the Pentecostal church and will preach his last sermon Sunday morning. Although their plans are not definite, Rev. and Mrs. Cummings may take up evangelistic work.

Ord Gets 11½ Inch Snow, Temperature Down to 12 Below

Worst Storm in Three Years Hit Wednesday, Extremely Cold Weather Continuing.

Blanketed under 11-12 inches of snow, biggest snow-fall in three winters, Valley county is still suffering from a spell of extremely cold weather that began last Wednesday and brought the mercury down to 12 degrees below zero Sunday and Monday. Another storm will hit today, weather forecasters prophesy.

A light snow fell early last week but not until late Wednesday afternoon did the real storm hit and it continued throughout Thursday and part of Friday. The snow storm was an unusual one in that the wind did not blow during the worst of it but even so country roads were drifted deeply.

Train service was not interrupted and mail carriers succeeded in making their rounds each day, aided by volunteer shoveling gangs in some rural communities. State and county highway departments kept the main roads open throughout the storm but some township roads are still blocked.

Coldest day was Sunday which started with a low mark of 12 below and continued cold throughout the day, 6 above being the highest point reached by thermometer. Monday morning was almost as cold, 11 below, but during the day the temperature raised considerably.

Tuesday was comparatively warm but another cold wave struck Tuesday evening and before morning the temperature again was down to zero, near which point it hovered most of yesterday. A light snow fell in Ord Tuesday night but north of here, in the Swan lake region, a blizzard was reported. The storm traveled southeast and hit Omaha and Lincoln, already buried under from 18 inches to two feet of snow.

Cars Can Park Now.

City authorities sent shoveling gangs into action Saturday and hauled fifty truck loads of snow off the business streets, dumping it in the court house yard where it will provide moisture next summer. The parking problem there by was great facilitated.

Moisture content of the 11-12 inches of snow received here was only .98 of an inch, reports Horace W. Travis, official government weather recorder.

Farmers Meeting Postponed.

The annual meeting of the Farmers Grain & Supply Co., scheduled to be held last week, was postponed because of the snow storm and will be held at 1:30 p. m., Friday, Jan. 24, at the Bohemian hall, in Ord.

James E. Lawrence Will Speak in Ord

J. E. LAWRENCE.

Mr. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star, will be principal speaker at a banquet to be held in Ord Monday, Feb. 10, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary club and Business and Professional Women's club. On the same day "open house" will be held at the Ord municipal light plant and all patrons are invited to see in operation the new diesel engines and other new equipment installed recently.

Alvin Blessing Sinking.

The condition of the Hon. Alvin Blessing, who has been in Hillcrest hospital several weeks suffering with cancer, was said yesterday afternoon to be very poor and grave doubts were held that he would live through the night. He has been unable to take solid food since about Christmas time and for the past several days has even been unable to take liquid nourishment.

Scarlet Fever In Country and City

About a dozen cases of scarlet fever exist in Valley county, health authorities say, and the disease appears to be on the increase but so far every case appears to be of a mild form. Sheriff George Round reports that up to Tuesday night eight rural homes had been quarantined, with two more to be quarantined yesterday. City Physician H. N. Norris says only one Ord home is under quarantine but a few cases of illness are being watched closely for scarlet fever symptoms.

Rysavy Infant Dies.

Wayne John Rysavy, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rysavy, Jr., was born July 12, 1935 and passed away at the home of his parents on Jan. 18, 1936. Funeral services conducted by Frazier's, were held at the Catholic church Tuesday morning. He is mourned by his parents, both grandparents and other relatives.

Will Appoint New Postmast'r Soon To Succeed Clements

Department Issues Notice Of A Vacancy, Applicants To Take Examinations Soon.

To fill the vacancy in the position of postmaster for the city of Ord, which will occur March 10 with the expiration of Edwin Clements' term, the United States civil service commission has announced an open competitive examination to be held soon.

To be eligible for the examination an applicant must be a citizen of the United States, must reside in the Ord community, must have so resided for at least one year preceding the date for closing of receipt of examinations, must be in good physical condition and within the prescribed age limits. Both men and women are admitted.

The civil service commission will certify to the Postmaster General the names of the three highest qualified eligibles, if as many as three are qualified, from whom the Postmaster General may select one for nomination by the president. Confirmation by the Senate is the final action.

Blanks Now Available.

Prospective applicants for the position may secure blanks at the local postoffice and these blanks must be received at Washington before Feb. 4 to qualify applicants for the examination.

Applicants are not required to assemble in an examination room for scholastic tests, but will be rated on their education, business experience and general fitness. The civil service commission will make inquiry among Ord business and professional men and women concerning the experience, ability and character of each applicant and evidence thus secured will be considered in determining the ratings to be assigned applicants.

War Veterans Benefit.

In determining examination grades the commission will base 20 per cent upon educational qualifications, 80 per cent upon business training, character and general fitness. Veterans of the World War who take the examination have an advantage in that to their final grade is added 5 per cent because of war service.

The Ord postmastership pays a salary of $2,400 per year. Postmaster Edwin Clements is completing his third four-year term in the office. As soon as his successor is appointed and qualified Postmaster Clements expects to move to California to enter the lumber business in partnership with his brother, Alan.

A number of Ord democrats are prominently mentioned in connection with the local appointment, among them being A. L. Hill, Jos. P. Barta, Wm. Heuck, Wm. Bartlett, Ign. Kilma, Jr., Alfred Wiegardt, Dale Norman, Jos. Kokes, Frank Kruml and others.

Youthful Gasoline Thieves Victimize Five Ord Stations

Tuesday evening two boys, about 8 or 10 years old, appeared at Freeman Haught's store, told gas a their car had run out of gas and asked that he fill their car, promising to run the car down to the pump in a few minutes and buy a tank full. Haught obliged. The lads walked away with the can full of gas and didn't return.

Soon afterward the same pair visited the Co-op Oil company with the same story and later worked it on Vernon Andersen, A. L. Hill, the Beck-Dugan Oil Company and the Coryell station. Each time they secured a full can of gas for which they paid nothing.

Finally the matter was reported to Sheriff George Round who investigated and learned that the family to which the boys belonged had left town a short time before. They were strangers traveling through and were using a new "gag" to secure means of transportation. Since the loss was small no attempt was made to catch them.

G. I. Ping-Pongers Will Perform Here

Sunday the Grand Island table tennis team is coming to Ord for a return match with Ord's all-star team and the games will be played in the Ord opera house so plenty of room will be available for spectators. Grand Island defeated Ord recently in a tournament at Grand Island, also beating Hastings, Kearney and Aurora teams. The Ord boys have sharpened up their games and expect to give a good account of themselves Sunday.

Firemen's Ball To Be Held Febr. 5th

Wednesday, February 5th is the date of the forty-eighth annual ball given by the Ord volunteer fire department and this week firemen are opening their ticket selling campaign. Mart Beran, Guy Keep and Ed Oetken are the committee in charge. The Dukes of Rhythm, a St. Paul orchestra, will furnish music for the affair. As usual, Ord business men will patronize the ball liberally.

Artichokes Discussed.

F. J. Rieslaud, of Wood River, and George W. Underhill, of Torrington, Wyo., were present and discussed the proposal to introduce Jerusalem artichokes as a Valley county crop. A few farmers were present to hear their proposition and it was very interesting to business men also.

Since the artichoke requires little rainfall to produce an abundant crop and can be grown in practically any soil, it is suggested as an ideal crop for drought years. A movement is now under way to build a commercial alcohol factory in Nebraska, making alcohol from artichokes, and the company is prepared to offer contracts to any farmers interested. More information on this subject will be available later.

Newly elected officers and directors of the Ord chamber of commerce met Tuesday evening, at which time President Misko appointed Alfred Wiegardt to succeed Glen Auble as secretary. Mr. Auble having expressed a desire to retire from the work. He has served efficiently for several years, much of the time without compensation, and directors extended him a vote of thanks for his valuable services. C. J. Mortensen was reappointed treasurer. Committee appointments were announced by President Misko as follows:

Civic Improvement—George Allen, Tom Springer, A. B. Capron, Olof Olsson.

Rural Relations—Fred Coe, J. A. Kovanda, Verne Weller, H. D. Leggett, Kurt Miller.

Nelson Sale Big One.

One hundred and forty head of cattle feature the clean-up sale of L. B. Nelson, which will be held Thursday, Jan. 30 on the Frank Nelson farm east of Davis Creek churches. It is one of the big sales of the winter, the offering also including 14 head of horses, 43 hogs and an extra large offering of machinery.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Crawford of Comstock were Ord business visitors Wednesday.

Deep Snow? Freezing Weather? Who Care's, It's Coasting Season!

Its an ill wind that blows nobody good, and by the same token it is very peculiar weather indeed that isn't relished by some people. You may be complaining about the deep drifts and freezing weather but this is just the kind of a winter that Ord youngsters like. This picture, taken from Weekes Hospital hill by H. E. Jones, shows how Ord boys and girls are enjoying coasting. Already they've had a week of coasting weather and prospects are good for the snow and ice surace that makes sledding so thrilling to remain indefinitely. City authorities are cooperating by blocking off the streets that intersect 20th, thus letting the children coast to their hearts content.

"I put TERRAPLANE first because I put Safety First"

"Go ahead, kids... that car's got BRAKES!"

NO one needs to be reminded that safe driving in winter, more than at any other season, calls for a car that is safe.

Then why not start this new year with the "safest car on today's highways?" Terraplane—with more new and important safety features than any other low priced automobile ever had!

1936 Improvements: Tru-Line Steering and the Rhythmic Ride.

Safer Bodies! Safer Chassis!

The world's first safety engineered chassis is now combined with America's first bodies all of steel, and seamless roof of solid steel.

There is extra safety, too, in Terraplane's record-breaking performance, to take you out of traffic "tight spots." And in the Electric Hand, an optional extra, for easier gear shifting and safer driving.

Drive safely in 1936—in a car that you know to be safe. Drive a new Terraplane.

Bring Safety up to Date!

For safer riding, safer steering, safer stopping, Terraplane brings you Radial Safety Control (patent applied for). Here is a revolutionary principle of front axle and spring design which new owners from coast to coast are hailing as the greatest safety feature in many years.

None but the best brakes are good enough. And no other low priced car but Terraplane meets that demand with Duo-Automatic Hydraulic Brakes (patent applied for). Latest and best hydraulics with a separate safety braking system that takes hold automatically if ever needed.

For added safety on the highway—greater steadiness on curves—two more

(First name in each group is Chairman of such Committee).

The Committee on Roads and Bridges, then presented the following report of its activities during 1935, which read as follows:

We, the Road & Bridge committee take pleasure in submitting the following report of our activities during the past year, we have had work done on 42 bridges of which 14 were new, 1 rebuilt and 27 repaired. This work was accomplished at a cost of $10,073.11. We have kept up maintenance on 149 miles of County roads. In our road program, we have also accomplished 13 miles of cast-in work and 23 miles of blade work. In addition to this, we have done several miles of patchwork and construction with FERA and WPA labor.

Our activities for the month of December are as follows: Dec. 4, inspection of Br. No. 14-18-13 and Br. No. 13-18-13, by Mr. Barber and Engineer. Bridge No. 14-18-13, is in very poor condition. Piling are washed 4 feet below natural ground, and N.W. wing is badly washed. Br. No. 13-18-13, handrail needs repairing. The Sumter river bridge was also inspected. The handrail needed repairing. This was recommended and the work has been done.

Dec. 18, inspection of conditions on Patrol No. 5, made by Mr. Jablonski and Engineer.

Dec. 30, inspection of WPA project No. 315 on Arcadia-Comstock road by Mr. Desmul and Engineer.

Respectfully, Signed, J. A. Barber, Henry Desmul, Joe J. Jablonski.

Resolution Whereas, there has been filed in the office of the County Clerk and presented to the County Board of Valley County, Nebraska, in which the said petitioners reside, a petition praying that they may be incorporated as a village, designating the name they wish to assume as such village to be "Elyria" and fixing the metes and bounds of the proposed village, and whereas, this County Board is satisfied that a majority of the taxable inhabitants of the proposed village has signed such petition, and that inhabitants to the number of 100 or more are actual residents of the territory described in the petition.

Now therefore, Be It Resolved by the County Board of Supervisors of the County of Valley, the State of Nebraska, often known as Valley County, Nebraska, that said board declares the said proposed Village of Elyria, Incorporated, and does hereby enter, and order entered, the incorporation upon the records of this board, and does hereby designate the metes and bounds of said village of "Elyria" as follows, to-wit:

Commencing at a point 42 rods 11 feet, south of the southeast corner of the northeast quarter of Section 26, Township 20 North, of Range 15 West, of the sixth Principal Meridian, in Valley County, Nebraska, thence West 17 rods, thence North to a point 12 rods south of the south line of said northeast quarter, thence West, on a line 12 rods south of and parallel with the south line of said northeast quarter, to a point 12 rods south of the southwest corner of said northeast quarter, thence North along the west line of the southeast quarter of said section 26, to the southwest corner of the northeast quarter of said Section 26, thence East along the south line of the said northeast quarters of said Section 26, 1205 feet, thence north 672.7 feet, thence West to a point on the west line of said northeast quarter of said Section 26, which point is 672.7 feet north of the southwest corner of said Section 26, thence north along the west line of the northeast quarter of said section 26, and the west line of the southeast quarter of section 23, township 20, north of range 15 to a point where said line intersects a line drawn parallel with and 50 feet south and west of the center line of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company right-of-way, which point is located on the west line of the southeast quarter of said section 23, thence east, along the north line of said northeast quarter of section 26, to the northeast corner of said section 26, thence south, along the east side of section 26, to the point of beginning, and further stating there are 100 or more inhabitants who are actual residents of the territory described, and asking County Board to make such finds and orders as are provided by law and suggesting the appointment of E. A. Holub, Frank T. Zulkoski, Philip Wentek, Leon Clemny and Ed Dahlin, as trustees for said village, as provided by Sec. 4225, known as Sec. 17-203, of 1923 statutes.

Supervisor Jablonski, then introduced the following Resolution and moved its adoption as follows, to-wit:

Duties of the Funeral Director

The primary duty of the Funeral Director is to do his utmost in protecting the citizens of his community from contagious or communicable infectious diseases—even at his own personal risk. He is a deputy to the state board of Health.

The secondary duty of the Funeral Director is to so apply himself that the departed one shall appear as near life-like as possible, and to conduct a quiet and dignified service in honor of the deceased and for the family.

There are many other duties too numerous to mention. Frazier's are well aware of their duties.

Cow's Care And Winter Feeding

Winter dictates winter feeding and winter care. To forget about the water heater, to overlook the bedding shed, to try to skimp through on reduced rations is to "kid" yourself. War-time prices for butterfat do not prevail, neither do war-time prices for good protein feeds.

Much importance should be at-tached to the feeding and care of dairy cattle during the winter months. Profitable milk produc-tion depends much on the treat-ment cows receive at this time of the year, and injury may be done by underfeeding or leaving cattle exposed to winter weather.

Year by year the dairy herd im-provement associations tell the same old story. Proper feeding combined with proper care and the use of potentially good cows have made a profit every year for half a century. Cheap feeds fed to good cows will tell the same story next spring.

County Supervisors' Proceedings.

Written applications of all Valley County Banks, duly signed, asking that they and each one of them be designated as depositories for Valley County Funds, for the ensuing year, were considered, after which Supervisor Hansen, introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption, to-wit:

Resolution

Be It Resolved, by this Board of County Supervisors of The County of Valley, The State of Nebraska, in regular session assembled, that the application of each of the following banks, to-wit: The First National Bank, Arcadia, Nebraska State Bank, Ord, and the First National Bank in Ord, asking that they and each one of them be designated as a depository for the deposit of funds and all moneys of and belonging to The County of Valley, The State of Nebraska, be accepted and ordered placed on file.

Be It Further Resolved, that said application be approved and that each one of said Banks be duly designated as such depositories for the deposit of all moneys of and belonging to The County of Valley, The State of Nebraska, for and during the year, 1936, ensuing in accordance with and pursuant to the provisions, conditions, restrictions and limitations provided by law and Sections 3 and 4 of Senate File Number 122 as passed by the Legislature of The State of Nebraska, in regular session in and for 1935. That the deposit of all securities by each of said banks be and the same hereby is approved as, to such securities and the deposit thereof as a pledge with the various trustee banks and-or trust companies, as a pledge to secure deposits of public moneys of this county in said depository banks on condition that said trustee issue its trust receipt therefor, as provided for by law. That said trust receipt when issued by said trustee shall be deposited by said depository bank with the County Clerk of this County in lieu of the deposit of said securities as a pledge to secure the deposit of said moneys in said depository bank. That county will pay $1.00 per annum per thousand, quarterly for safekeeping of said securities.

Be It Further Resolved that the County Treasurer of Valley County, Nebraska, is hereby authorized to deposit funds of said Valley County in said banks in excess of 50% of paid capital and surplus of said banks but not exceeding the capital stock and surplus in any one bank and provided further bond shall be required of all banks for such excess deposit as provided by said Sections 3 and 4 of said Senate File Number 122. A service charge of One per cent based on said average daily deposits and in no event any amount in excess of $1,000.00 may be charged by said depository banks against said county and the County Treasurer of Valley County, Nebraska, is hereby empowered and authorized to enter into agreements in writing with said depository banks authorizing said service charge as is by law provided, copies of said agreement to be filed with the County of Valley County, Nebraska.

Be It Further Resolved that a copy of this Resolution duly certified by the County Clerk of this County be transmitted to each of the depository banks herein designated.

Dated this 16th day of January, 1936.

Signed—S. V. Hansen. Motion to adopt foregoing resolution was seconded by supervisor Ball, and same having been concurred in, roll was called, and all supervisors voted "yes" whereupon Chairman declared motion carried and resolution duly adopted.

Moved and seconded that County Engineer be instructed to invoice all road and bridge material and equipment and supplies and report same at next meeting. Motion carried.

Report of County Engineer and new road and bridge committee, presented following report, and recommendations for the year 1936. Jan. 16, 1936.

The Honorable Board of County Supervisors, Valley County, Nebraska, Gentlemen:

We, the Road and Bridge Committee of Valley County assisted by our Engineer, herewith present a list of recommendations for work that should be done in the near future.

1. Mr. Emil Bonne has requested several times that the County enlarge the bridge or install larger culverts at the southeast corner of section 35, Twp. 19, R. 15.

We feel that we should investigate this matter more thoroughly before recommending any work.

2. The drainage situation north of Arcadia, which affects our road, is a matter that requires attention before the spring rains begin. We would recommend that, in-as-much as the township board of Arcadia township and the village council of Arcadia are willing to cooperate with us a solution to this problem be attempted at an early date.

3. Construction of the North Loup-Ashton road has progressed to the point where it becomes necessary for the county to build it's bridge in order that the work may continue. The building of this bridge would also enable us to direct traffic over the new road if and when the old canyon road becomes impassable in the spring.

We recommend the building of this bridge immediately. We also recommend a channel change at this point, which would eliminate the building of another bridge 400 ft. south of this bridge.

4. The bridges on our new Arcadia-Burwell cut-off are very dilapidated and obsolete. They are of insufficient size to handle their drainage, and are too small and weak to handle the increase in traffic on this road. Although these bridges are in no immediate need, we feel they should be kept in mind when our spring work begins.

In conclusion we wish to show the approximate status of our road fund for the coming year.

We can expect about $7,500.00 from our auto licence fees. Of this amount $2,000.00 has already been spent to meet FERA and WPA obligations. This leaves a balance of about $5,500.00 which when added to our expectations of about $15,000.00 of gas tax money will give us about $20,500.00 which can be spent on roads. A large portion of this will be needed for our WPA projects, so it can readily be seen why retrenchments are necessary in our road program. In addition, the road fund is indebted to the general fund in the amount of $8,000.00 for the past year.

Ord Cagers Resume Ways That Won Them 1935 Championship

The slump is over! All doubts are definitely settled. Coach H. F. Brockman again has a winning cage team. Whether his basket flippers again will succeed in capturing the Loup Valley title remains to be seen but right now the Chanticleers appear to be on a par with any team in the conference. In this picture is seen Dale Mella as he tossed the final basket in the Ord-Loup City game Tuesday night, Ord winning 31 to 19. So tight was Ord's defense in this clash that not until the final quarter could Loup City score a field goal. Coach Brockman substituted freely, still trying to find his strongest combination, and all players showed proficiency both on defense and offense. Last Friday evening Ord defeated Scotia, 46 to 23, in a game that also was played on the Ord floor. Tomorrow evening in the Ord gym the Chanticleers will be opposed by the fast Kearney high school cagers. Last year Kearney was one of the two teams who defeated Ord and fans are promised a lively tussle.

At Waco we saw the first palms growing out of doors and there is a big one just outside the window of our kitchenette here in camp.

This is the nicest camp I ever saw. Our room is, I judge 12x20 with the kitchenette partitioned off with a 4-foot high solid railing, reaching nearly across the room, making the kitchenette 6x12 feet. There is bed, dresser, 2 rockers, smoking stand and gas heater in the front part, sink, gas plate, ice box, built-in cupboard with top as cooking table, dining table hinged to middle partition and 2 benches for seats, in kitchenette, both hot and cold water in sink, toilet and shower bath in small adjoining room on one side and clothes closet on other side. There is a nice rag carpet on the front room floor. Price $1.50 per day. This camp is built entirely of petrified rock brought from Ft. Worth and there are 19 cottages and a filling station, all in a beautiful setting of foliage. I took a couple of pictures which I hope will turn out well.

Austin is the capital of Texas and we will look it over tomorrow. Population is 66,000 people.

San Antonio, Texas, Jan. 15. Dear Quiz:

Well, we are in San Antonio (the natives say "San Tone"). Arrived here at noon today and got a cottage in what is known as the Grande Courte, some fifty cottages and said to be one of the finest in the southwest. It is strictly modern.

But before I tell about our afternoon here, I must tell about our forenoon. As I have written, we were at Austin last night. It was only 82 miles down here, so we didn't get up early or hurry after we did get up. We were leisurely about getting breakfast and drove slowly when we got started.

Across the road and back a ways from our camp is the state capital for the insane also for the blind. Three miles down the road is the famous Texas state capitol, not as fine as Nebraska's but a mighty fine building. We circled it and enjoyed the beautiful grounds. We also saw the state university. Originally Texas owned the land and it gave a number of million acres to a big New York syndicate to get the capitol built. It looked then like a good deal for Texas and a bad deal for the syndicate but it proved otherwise. Possibly the New Yorkers knew that a lot of the land was rich oil land. Anyhow such proved to be the case and while Texas got a fine building, they paid a big price.

It is a beautiful paved road most of the 82 miles down here. Some fifteen or twenty miles we followed the old road, a tarvia affair, the new, straighter pavement not being ready for travel. Workmen are everywhere on the road and the road sides are being planted with trees and shrubs and in a couple of years it is going to be most beautiful.

On the way down we found many Mexican pottery makers at their work and bought a few things. I hope the picture I took of one of the roadside stores with the two little Mexican girls will prove good.

I also took pictures of a field of cactus and of a tree loaded with Spanish moss.

We made arrangements to go, this afternoon, on a bus sight-seeing trip about the city and to the old missions near-by. We spent three hours on the trip, listened with great interest to the man who accompanied and directed the trip, as he explained all the places of interest.

We were surprised to learn that this city has 66 parks, comprising 1900 acres. We saw several of them. Of course the biggest single thing of interest to us was the Alamo. We had half an hour there looking over the old relics and it would take several days if one wanted to read all of the descriptions on them. The Alamo was the first of the old missions established by the early Catholic Padres. It is now owned by the state and it is the only one of the old missions not still owned by the Catholic orders. I am inclosing a picture of the Alamo.

We visited five other old Missions but only stopped to go through one of them, Mission San Jose, picture of which I inclose. All of these old missions still have regular services for the native Mexicans. Mission San Jose is being repaired now, preparatory for the centennial to be held here next year. I am also inclosing a picture of the music stand in the park at the Alamo, a most beautiful place and hope Howard will be able to make cuts of them.

One of the most interesting sights we saw was at the Buckhorn Curko store. In the old days the Buckhorn was a famous saloon right in the center of the business district. Now the strongest you can get there is tea, coffee or beer. It contains the largest collection of native and foreign animal horns in the world. A centerpiece is a native Texas longhorn steer stuffed and mounted. There are wonderful specimens of buffalo herds, wild sheep herds, a great wild boar herd, and literally thousands of animal horns of all kinds. There is also a display of the rattles off ten thousand rattle snakes.

I could write much more about this trip and this city but I fear Eugene won't have room for it. The climate here averages around 56 for the winter months. A South Dakota family in the next cottage to us has spent the past seven winters here and say it suits them better than Florida or California. It was not enough this afternoon that we were glad to have all car windows open. It will be cool enough after sundown so we will light the little gas heater.

Our one regret, on this trip, is that we couldn't have some of our people or friends to share the pleasures of it with us.

Corpus Christi, Texas, Jan. 17 '36 Dear Quiz:

We left "San Tone" at 7:30 this morning and arrived here at 12:30, the distance, 152 miles. When we got up it was cloudy and there was a fog and I thought it sure was going to rain. Asked his opinion, a Mexican boy said he thought there was no danger of rain. It remained cloudy and foggy until 11 o'clock. We stopped at 8:30 at Floresville, for breakfast. I had hot cakes and black coffee, with sorghum syrup and butter for the cakes. The girl who served us was generous with her information and we learned that they had had plenty of rain, didn't want any more because it would ruin their "Popoye Medicine crop", which she said was a wonderful crop. She said they were shipping it by the carload north. She said they had a bumper crop of onions here last year and got a good price for them and she ventured the hope that the onions would be good again this year. I asked if she liked onions and she said she did, but she seldom got a chance to eat them. Asked why, and she said she had too many dates. I said, "Now if I didn't have the Missus along, I would ask for a date," and she blushed and said, "It is too bad." By that time we were done eating and paid our bill and left.

At the next stop we were told that cotton was the big crop, though many vegetables were raised for the northern market. We saw spinach, peas, beans, turnips and beets growing and saw truck loads of them on the road going to market. A little corn and hay is also raised, just enough for feed, and there is very little stock in evidence.

As we neared Corpus Christi we saw several big ranches, big white houses for the owner, as many as 25 shacks where the Mexican laborers live, and corrals and sheds for the mules. One such place, the big house was back 1-3 mile and great rows of palms, 30 feet high lined the drives leading in from the road.

We were not enthusiastic about the country most of the way. Much of it is in brush and cactus, with farms cleared here and there.

20 Years Ago This Week.

Samuel A. Stacy, who came to Valley county in 1876, died at his Ord home at the age of 78. Farmer in Vinton for several years, he later worked in Doc Harter's store in Ord, for B. C. White, James Milford and others and also was a partner in the firm of Stacy & Johnson. For eight years he was Ord postmaster.

A dry organization was formed in Ord with Dr. Chamberlain chairman, John Ward secretary, George Kinsey vice-president and George Johnson treasurer.

Jacob P. Hoffman of Ord was elected president of the Nebraska Volunteer Firemen's association at the convention held in Crawford. Ord was offered the 1917 state convention but had to decline because no suitable meeting place existed in Ord.

Two new stores opened in Ord during the week, the J. C. Penney Co. and P. Fafetta & Sons, both on the west side of the square in the Bailey building.

Miss Ethel Travis invited a few friends to bring their fancy work and spend the evening and the result was organization of the No-Boy club with sixteen members. Young men of the community were threatening to form the N. G. C.

25 Years Ago This Week.

Percy Way, a former Valley county boy, was killed in an explosion in the Keating mine near Helena, Mont. Five other miners were killed also.

The Quiz charged that a "manufactured sentiment" had forced on the community a proposal to buy the electric plant and issue $14,660 in bonds for that purpose. The election was to be held in two weeks.

Harrison Shinn, Ord resident for 17 years, passed away.

Harry Bartley sold his Pantorium to Parks Bros., and the new owners took possession at once.

J. A. Ollis, Jr., was chosen president of the Nebraska Livestock Improvement association.

The play, "Hiawatha," was given by the 9th grade of Ord high school with Carl Moss, Earl Wise, Fred Clark, Roy Hamilton, Winifred Gates, Mamie Smith, Ella Chapman in leading parts.

Vincent Kokes went to Scotia to help close a deal consolidating the two banks there.

Pat Braden, of Arcadia, was kicked by a horse and was in a critical condition.

By George Gowen

I think a gardening project for the youngsters for next summer would be just the thing... using Ord's vacant lots, which would surely look better with rows of corn and turnips than bountifully adorned with weeds. But to make such a project successful calls for a lot of work, and the work has to be done long before the growing season.

You have probably read about the plan that is now replacing the Townsend Old age pension propaganda, thought up somewhere in Iowa, and named the "Retire at Birth" scheme. If you haven't, here it is as explained in the Keith County News:

"Dr. Townsend is a back number. Here is a plan whereby no one would have to work: A 'Retire at Birth' plan has been advanced as a substitute for Dr. Townsend's. Under it, each new born babe would get a $20,000 promissory note. Until he was 20 and could claim the money, his parents would get three per cent interest, or $50 per month. Thus a couple could marry at 20, have $40,000 capital and get $200 a month from the government in addition by raising four children. Then nobody would have to work."

And it might solve the race suicide problem simply, too. Do you suppose someone would have to pay the bill, some day? Just another "dealing in futures" proposition. Sounds just as sensible as a lot of these alphabetical set-ups.

And not to change the subject but that roll recipe of Myra Thorngate Barber's in a Quiz calendar of several years ago... it is scrumptious. Look it up and try it.

The new calendars will be done soon. Unexpected "rush" business kept the calendars from appearing sooner. We always plan to print them in our spare time, of course, so when we don't have any...

This year I'll try to turn the copy over to the printers in the summer time, then you'll be sure to have your calendars to start January off with in just the old-fashioned way.

So send in your prize recipes now. The more and better recipes, the better ones there are to choose from, so the better your cook book is. There are a lot of good cooks represented in those books, and a lot of dandy recipes.

How do you keep your file of Quiz calendars? On a loose leaf notebook ring?

Why wouldn't the hills about Ord be a fine place to ski? If a good course were mapped out from some nearby elevation, down through someone's pasture who was kind enough to loan the unused land?

I would not like to see a ski course laid out down Ord's busiest hill-streets. It isn't safe, which should be reason plenty.

And that reminds me, I think the anti-speed, safety campaigns of the newspapers are excellent things. There are entirely too many automobile deaths, far too much careless driving. The trouble is, we all of us know better but we think, "I am safe because I am too smart to get hurt... it'll be some other fellow."

And by the time we are in a position to know we are the victim of the accident...

CARE OF COUNTY BOARD

The Jews.
A description of either of the Jews would answer for the other. Small, middle aged men, with big noses and one of which was a good deal redder than the others.

I was welcomed to their companionship. They were riding a pass given them by their Jewish friend, R. Miller, and were going to Chicago to spend Christmas (get that) with their children. They had both lived there in younger days and said "Chicago is a nice little town."

When lads they had escaped from Russian persecution (so to speak) for American freedom, by the simple method of bribing the officials at the boundary. After a sojourn in England for a year they continued to United States.

They were tailors by trade and the firm they worked for had just completed 1,000 uniforms for a military academy in the state of Washington. I told them my mother had made suits a few times but always had trouble with the collars. They smiled and answered, "easy if you know how."

They spread a lunch, for the Hot Shot, on which we were riding stops not for feed or water, making the run from Denver to Grand Island in about twelve hours. The passenger trains are side-tracked for it. This repast consisted of a good drink of whiskey as an appetizer, roast duck flavored profusely with garlic, onion and spices, a huge loaf of pumpernickel bread, and cookies made by mixing the whole of beaten egg and flour to a dough (like noodles) and then baking, and the result was a yellow, hard, flat tasting tid-bit that curled like tubes.

About midnight they decided to mince again and started with a quart of whiskey. They ate duck and bread and ended up by dunking their cookies in the whiskey, finishing the quart without the slightest noticeable effect. They insisted on me eating with them. I partook of everything but the whiskey, which they were surprised that I refused. I ate only to save them feeling hurt and not because I cared for the flavor of a single item on their fare which they thought was the most delicious diet on earth. I even chucked a choice morsel of duck under the seat when they weren't looking. All in a man's bringing up.

We visited for several hours. We talked religion, both of us believing in the ten commandments, Sabbath and all, but they not in Christ. They had no use for Hitler and were not slow in saying so. We all told of our life's history but mine seemed like a tame story.

They were fine companions and when we departed at Grand Island we all shook hands and felt sad that good friends must part. They told me the recipe for the cookies and reminded me again so as to tell my wife that she might make some.

Not True to Form.
Irvin Thelin and I talk politics without getting partisan. Believe it or not. Anyway he lays the decision of the Supreme Court to a great measure to the leanings of the Justices, whether they are liberal or conservative.

And he had discovered a rather unusual phenomenon. Harlen Stone, I. J. says, was for years a J. P. Morgan attorney, and J. P. recommended him to Pres. Coolidge for appointment. And still Stone turns out to be one of the most liberal of liberals. Along with him is Brandeis, a Jew from Brooklyn, and Cardozo, a "wop" from New York, and Hughes, quite frequently a liberal from New York.

The remainder of the court are all western men, from out in the sticks so to speak, but all are ultra conservative, so called.

All of which goes to show that these men's origin and previous training is not always as their mind runs.

Careful, Jake.
And this last is for the county board. Congratulations to you, Jake. Let's hope your troubles are few for the coming year.

But here's something right off the bat. In your proceedings it was printed so that from all appearances my mother was getting aid. The fact of the matter is, she is not or was not and she is mad. She says she might come to it and then it will be O. K., but until then she wants her name kept out of the proceedings that might lead to the wrong impression.

The way it came about is that she collects rent from a house that belongs to a lady in Texas, and my mother has leased the house to a family who receive aid. For all this three dollars she rents out of you hard heads, she scalps thirty cents. She says she is either going to give up the job and the thirty cents or you fellows will have to cease printing her name as if she is a pauper. Her commission is not worth it.

Jake, pay a little heed to the women. They're bad when they get started.

was coming from Idaho Springs, to see her. He was middle-aged and quite deaf but a pleasant and smart fellow, and registered disgust that his through train would be side-tracked at North Platte so the Hot Shot on which I was riding could pass and go on ahead.

Some years ago he had farmed near Burwell. He sold out and moved to Sterling where one year he raised more wheat than any one other man in the United States. So in those flush times he trekked off to the mountains and bought some gold mines. Later when the bump came he was left with only the claim on these old mine sites.

He left his farming and went to hard rock mining. He worked hard for a year or so cleaning out old holes barely making enough to live. But things got better until now he has several mines worked by others on commission and one or two by himself. He was delighted with his business and said he never would go back to farming again. A little ore all the time and the prospect always ahead he will strike a good lead that will make him rich. He took a small nugget from his pocket and showed it to me. I liked the feel of it and noticed he did too, for he was constantly fingering it, or tossing it to catch. It was smooth and shiny.

Home and the cattle unloaded, the exact number and the exact ones I bought twenty hours before. Oh yes, they are all very nice curly white-faced steers 48, weighing 540 pounds, costing $8.15 with ten out at a dollar less. Top of the market and you all will say I could have done better at home. He paid too much. Yes, but I wouldn't have had the trip. Or you wouldn't have had the write up either.

One of the chief reasons why a congressional session in an election year drags on longer than usual is because of the publicity value the sessions have for individual representatives and senators. Members of congress discovered a hundred years ago that the chambers of the house and senate constituted splendid sounding boards for the dissemination of political views. There has been increasing use of this potentiality as the years have gone by until now the older members of the house and senate have become very adept in capitalizing on this factor. It takes no stretch of the imagination to discover that a senator or representative, speaking from the floor of his respective chamber, gets much more publicity than his opponent back home who talks only as a private citizen. It is perfectly natural, therefore, that those members seeking re-election want to take full advantage of the publicity vehicle available to them in Washington.

The use of this publicity weapon is available to opponents of the New Deal as well as to its supporters. While the approaching election may be expected to knit the house Democrats more closely into a unified front for the November election, the same condition is not true in the senate. In that body, there are a number of old-line Democrats who do not like the New Deal and who are going to utilize every available opportunity to make their record as Democrats as complete as it is possible to do before they must speak to the home folks in person. It is obvious that such men as Senator Carter Glass of Virginia cannot desert the Democratic ticket and run for re-election independently. So it is to be expected that men of this type will establish for themselves a comprehensive outline of their political beliefs as Democrats while distinguishing their position from that known as the New Deal. They must look to the future when, according to all indications, they feel the party machinery will again be controlled by the Jeffersonian type of Democrat instead of the reform type of Democrat headed by the men and women with the New Deal outlook.

An additional factor operating in the senate is the presence of two Republican Presidential possibilities in the persons of Senator William E. Borah of Idaho and Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan. Senator Borah is actively seeking pledged delegates to the Republican national convention. Senator Vandenberg says he is not a candidate, but the well-known bee is buzzing around and there are many observers who think that Senator Vandenberg is hoping that, in case of a convention stalemate, the assembled delegates may riot and turn to him as the nominee.

Such a condition means, as it has meant before, that these two men will desire to see all of the political issues aired in congressional debates. It is only natural and logical as well that the Republican minority in the house and senate will seek to foment as much debate as possible in order to obtain a record of what the majority party thinks or proposes to do if returned to power.

In all respects, the session will be the most political, therefore, since Mr. Roosevelt took office. His Presidential message on the state of the Union already is being kicked back and forth and picked to pieces in the preliminary campaign gunfire.

In an earlier letter, I reported to you concerning the question of a neutrality policy Congress declared at that time that it was the most important item to come before the current session. It remains so. I believe the situation is even more delicate than in my earlier analysis of this problem and it may well be that congress will stall along in reaching a decision on this policy in order to give foreign developments an opportunity to manifest themselves further. The administration apparently is willing to let congress work out the legislation without much interference but the leaders realize that a decision will be difficult as long as foreign maneuvers continue to present an almost daily change in the scenery.

Reference is made to the neutrality question here because it is one of the things entering into the combination that will cause a longer session than the President wishes. There seems to be no doubt that passage of a bill to pay the soldiers' bonus at an early date will be accomplished in this session. Likewise, there is hardly the shadow of a doubt that if congress passes such legislation and Mr. Roosevelt vetoes it, the bill will be passed over the veto. It is a campaign year and it is not a good time for politicians to antagonize an organization with the vast membership of the American Legion or the other groups of ex-service men. This legislation will not contribute much to the length of the session but in all such cases representatives and senators must make their speeches and be on record as to why they voted for or against a bill.

The Townsend plan cannot get anywhere in the current session. In all probability, also, the current session of congress will be called upon to meet some problems resulting from adverse decisions by the Supreme court of the United States. The court has before it any number of cases involving New Deal policies, including such as the AAA, the TVA, with its Tennessee Valley power yardstick, the attempt to regulate wages and hours of labor under the Guffey coal bill known as the Little NRA, and a half dozen other policy propositions. It seems unlikely, although no one can guess, that all of these measures will be held constitutional. If any are held invalid, naturally the President will ask congress to draft new legislation.

As a sample of the political aspect of the current session, one can cite the furor that was stirred up when President Roosevelt delivered his message on the state of the Union to a night session of congress. Except for one instance, Presidents always have delivered or sent their message to congress at noon of a day after the session has had two or three meetings. Mr. Roosevelt chose to get his message to congress on the very first day of the current session but in order to do it and allow for consummation of the usual routine of the opening day, it was necessary to hold a joint session at night.

The White House announcement of this decision immediately precipitated a biting demand from Henry P. Fletcher, Republican national chairman. Mr. Fletcher charged that since the President's speech was being delivered "out of hours" and was being broadcast to potentially the greatest radio audience ever to listen to a Presidential message of this kind, the broadcasting companies must agree to allocate time for the Republicans to answer it. The Republican chairman asserted that the message was reduced to the "common level of a political speech" and so he demanded for the opposition the right to analyze it from the opposition standpoint through the same number of radio stations and to potentially the same radio audience.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.—President Roosevelt has told congress that he wants it to finish its labors and adjourn in short order. He has figured that about three months ought to give the members sufficient time to mull over the problems that confront them and that they then should return to their several homes. But the President is doomed to disappointment if he sincerely believes that he can get congress out of the Capitol by the end of March. The best guess right now is that congress will be in session at least four months and, it is well within the range of possibilities that it will remain in session almost to the time of the national conventions.

There are a number of factors that make realization of the President's early adjournment wish impossible of realization. Probably the most influential of these is the fact that this is a campaign year. Every member of the house and one-third of the senate, along with Mr. Roosevelt himself, are affected by the election date and politics must have its turn. Every four years this same condition obtains and every four years politicians do about the same things in furtherance of their own political interests. The bulk of the legislation to be considered has its political tinge. Politics even creep into the annual appropriation bills—and usually the result is a swelling of the totals in order that some gears of individual political machines may be oiled just a bit for smooth running in the campaign.

While the appropriation bills are important from a political standpoint, their weight in this session of congress sinks rather below par because there are such things as the bonus for the World War veterans, the Townsend old age pension plan, various New Deal reform measures and such replacement legislation as may be necessary since the Supreme court kicked over New Deal propositions like the Agricultural Adjustment act with its processing taxes and sundry other schemes. However the Roosevelt leaders in congress may desire to act, the machinery of legislation can be run only so fast in an election year.

One of the chief reasons why a congressional session in an election year drags on longer than usual is because of the publicity value the sessions have for individual representatives and senators. Members of congress discovered a hundred years ago that the chambers of the house and senate constituted splendid sounding boards for the dissemination of political views. There has been increasing use of this potentiality as the years have gone by until now the older members of the house and senate have become very adept in capitalizing on this factor. It is perfectly natural, therefore, that those members seeking re-election want to take full advantage of the publicity vehicle available to them in Washington.

The use of this publicity weapon is available to opponents of the New Deal as well as to its supporters. While the approaching election may be expected to knit the house Democrats more closely into a unified front for the November election, the same condition is not true in the senate. In that body, there are a number of old-line Democrats who do not like the New Deal and who are going to utilize every available opportunity to make their record as Democrats as complete as it is possible to do before they must speak to the home folks in person. It is obvious that such men as Senator Carter Glass of Virginia cannot desert the Democratic ticket and run for re-election independently. So it is to be expected that men of this type will establish for themselves a comprehensive outline of their political beliefs as Democrats while distinguishing their position from that known as the New Deal. They must look to the future when, according to all indications, they feel the party machinery will again be controlled by the Jeffersonian type of Democrat instead of the reform type of Democrat headed by the men and women with the New Deal outlook.

An additional factor operating in the senate is the presence of two Republican Presidential possibilities in the persons of Senator William E. Borah of Idaho and Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan. Senator Borah is actively seeking pledged delegates to the Republican national convention. Senator Vandenberg says he is not a candidate, but the well-known bee is buzzing around and there are many observers who think that Senator Vandenberg is hoping that, in case of a convention stalemate, the assembled delegates may riot and turn to him as the nominee.

Such a condition means, as it has meant before, that these two men will desire to see all of the political issues aired in congressional debates. It is only natural and logical as well that the Republican minority in the house and senate will seek to foment as much debate as possible in order to obtain a record of what the majority party thinks or proposes to do if returned to power.

In all respects, the session will be the most political, therefore, since Mr. Roosevelt took office. His Presidential message on the state of the Union already is being kicked back and forth and picked to pieces in the preliminary campaign gunfire.

In an earlier letter, I reported to you concerning the question of a neutrality policy Congress declared at that time that it was the most important item to come before the current session. It remains so. I believe the situation is even more delicate than in my earlier analysis of this problem and it may well be that congress will stall along in reaching a decision on this policy in order to give foreign developments an opportunity to manifest themselves further. The administration apparently is willing to let congress work out the legislation without much interference but the leaders realize that a decision will be difficult as long as foreign maneuvers continue to present an almost daily change in the scenery.

Reference is made to the neutrality question here because it is one of the things entering into the combination that will cause a longer session than the President wishes. There seems to be no doubt that passage of a bill to pay the soldiers' bonus at an early date will be accomplished in this session. Likewise, there is hardly the shadow of a doubt that if congress passes such legislation and Mr. Roosevelt vetoes it, the bill will be passed over the veto. It is a campaign year and it is not a good time for politicians to antagonize an organization with the vast membership of the American Legion or the other groups of ex-service men. This legislation will not contribute much to the length of the session but in all such cases representatives and senators must make their speeches and be on record as to why they voted for or against a bill.

The Townsend plan cannot get anywhere in the current session. In all probability, also, the current session of congress will be called upon to meet some problems resulting from adverse decisions by the Supreme court of the United States. The court has before it any number of cases involving New Deal policies, including such as the AAA, the TVA, with its Tennessee Valley power yardstick, the attempt to regulate wages and hours of labor under the Guffey coal bill known as the Little NRA, and a half dozen other policy propositions. It seems unlikely, although no one can guess, that all of these measures will be held constitutional. If any are held invalid, naturally the President will ask congress to draft new legislation.

As a sample of the political aspect of the current session, one can cite the furor that was stirred up when President Roosevelt delivered his message on the state of the Union to a night session of congress. Except for one instance, Presidents always have delivered or sent their message to congress at noon of a day after the session has had two or three meetings. Mr. Roosevelt chose to get his message to congress on the very first day of the current session but in order to do it and allow for consummation of the usual routine of the opening day, it was necessary to hold a joint session at night.

The White House announcement of this decision immediately precipitated a biting demand from Henry P. Fletcher, Republican national chairman. Mr. Fletcher charged that since the President's speech was being delivered "out of hours" and was being broadcast to potentially the greatest radio audience ever to listen to a Presidential message of this kind, the broadcasting companies must agree to allocate time for the Republicans to answer it. The Republican chairman asserted that the message was reduced to the "common level of a political speech" and so he demanded for the opposition the right to analyze it from the opposition standpoint through the same number of radio stations and to potentially the same radio audience.

Washington Digest
National Topics Interpreted
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.—President Roosevelt has told congress that he wants it to finish its labors and adjourn in short order. He has figured that about three months ought to give the members sufficient time to mull over the problems that confront them and that they then should return to their several homes. But the President is doomed to disappointment if he sincerely believes that he can get congress out of the Capitol by the end of March. The best guess right now is that congress will be in session at least four months and, it is well within the range of possibilities that it will remain in session almost to the time of the national conventions.

There are a number of factors that make realization of the President's early adjournment wish impossible of realization. Probably the most influential of these is the fact that this is a campaign year. Every member of the house and one-third of the senate, along with Mr. Roosevelt himself, are affected by the election date and politics must have its turn. Every four years this same condition obtains and every four years politicians do about the same things in furtherance of their own political interests. The bulk of the legislation to be considered has its political tinge. Politics even creep into the annual appropriation bills—and usually the result is a swelling of the totals in order that some gears of individual political machines may be oiled just a bit for smooth running in the campaign.

It was a good gravel and asphalt road all the way.

When we arrived here we first drove along the waterfront looking for a place to stay. There are dozens of camps and hundreds of cottages, but everywhere a sign was out, "No vacancies". We did finally find one place, $1 a day, dirty, with highway in front and railroad at back, so we declined it.

While in the park at San Tone, sitting in the car watching the animals and birds, two ladies walked past and noticed our Nebraska license, spoke to us. We got to visiting and found one of them was Mary Thompson Haney, a niece of W. A. Anderson. The friend with her had spent a part of last winter here and told us about the Davis rooming house. The Davis' are also from Nebraska. The lady had given us the street address and we soon found the street, then the house. There was just one room vacant and we secured it, a fine location. The house is an old, southern style, 2-story house with balcony across the front. We are on the 2nd floor, and the home stands on the bluff, the front facing east and we are looking out over the bay as we sit on the balcony. It is 5 blocks to the water. The big Plaza hotel is a block south, the government postoffice a block east, we look down the street to the bay between two rows of big hotels, stores, etc.

Today has been hot, unusual weather again. It was 84 at 1 p. m. The weather man, across the street in the government building, says a cold wave is to come tomorrow, with the temperature dropping to 35 by tomorrow evening. I hope that does not happen, but I would be glad to see it a little colder than it has been today. It doesn't often frost here but it has done so, in fact, in fact some years ago it froze so hard that palms and other foliage were all killed, water pipes, laid on top of the ground here, were frozen and burst, and it was a terrible mess, with great loss.

No citrus fruit is raised here, cotton is the main crop, but many vegetables are raised for the northern market.

H. D. Leggett.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

In the winter time we all like to come to the table and see something steaming hot as the main dish. I guess it must be we want a contrast to the chilly outer world. Certainly ice cream isn't quite so attractive on blizzard days.

One dish meals are fine, fine for the cook and fine for the family. Not difficult to prepare, the cook then can go about the washing or some other work and know that when noon comes a piping hot, hearty meal will be all ready to serve.

Good Baked Dish. Put one cup salmon, one cup peas, two cups cooked diced potatoes in layers in a baking dish. Pour over a white sauce made as follows: one cup milk, two tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons butter. Cover the top with buttered bread crumbs.

Woodman, Spare That Tree!

A familiar sight in Nebraska today. The two illustrations show how trees are being cut down and how land is being denuded. They indicate clearly why farmstead tree planting is necessary. Clarke-McNary seedlings are available for such purposes and can be secured through county agricultural agents or the University of Nebraska college of agriculture.

Although tree planting time is weeks away, Nebraska farm people already are showing unusual interest in replacing those trees which now are being cut down by the thousands for a worthy purpose—fuel. Interest in farmstead planting for windbreak and woodlot purposes has increased tremendously thus far with indications pointing to a larger planting in the spring of 1936 than for many years. Thousands of farmers have already secured applications for the Clarke-McNary trees, both broadleaf and evergreen varieties through County Agent Carl G. Dale. The trees will be shipped this spring from the Nebraska National forest at Halsey and from storage at Fremont. Nebraska people would do well to adopt and carry out the motto, "Plant a tree for each one cut down this winter."

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Biggest Hot Spring, Sorensen Claims. Thermopolis, Wyo., Jan. 16, 1936 Dear Mr. Leggett:

Well, it is almost a year since we left Ord and would sure miss the Quiz as it is almost like getting a letter from our friends. The weather has been nice this winter, have had 6 or 7 light snows and it was 12 to 15 below twice. It has been hard on the hay men as there is no hay sale. Alfalfa is about $6 in the stack, barley $1 per hundred, oats $1.15, corn $1.65, wheat $1.65, all per hundred. Grain is sold per hundred instead of per bushel. Good Hereford calves are bringing from $5.75 to $6.00 per hundred, good Hereford cows about $3.00, heifers up to $4.00, poorer grades cheaper. Horses 1200 to 1500 are from $65 to $110.00 per head.

The ranchers are planning a big wild horse round-up in the Honeycombs and will use an airplane to bunch them and drive them out, as they cannot be driven out horseback. There are several hundred head.

Big game was plentiful that is, deer and elk. The deer fed in our field all summer. I could have shot one about 15 rods from the house, but could not get a resident's license. A resident's license costs $5.00 and a non-resident's license $50.00. One must be a resident of the state for 1 year. Now we can buy them at Jackson Hole for $15.00 per head, dressed. Coyote and bobcat are plentiful out here. My neighbor caught 41 so far, and thinks he could have doubled it if the weather had been colder. There are also a few timber wolves and bears, and once in a while they see a mountain lion. There are lots of beavers and other small game.

Give all our Nebraska friends and old neighbors our best regards. Yours truly, H. C. Sorensen. P. S. If you are looking for a hot spring health resort, try Thermopolis, Wyo., as here is as good a one as you can find, the largest hot spring in the world.

Sorry, Those Back Copies Aren't Available. East Bridgewater, Mass. January 15, 1936. Dear Sir: Just can't seem to think of anybody but Will Haskell as the editor of the Quiz, but will get used to it. A friend sent me a copy of your paper dated Jan. 2, 1936. As I have not lived in Ord for more than forty years there is seldom news printed of people I remember. But this certainly was an exception. That is a fine plan, offering a prize for the best story of pioneer days. Please let me know if I can obtain the back numbers of papers containing those 20 stories, and at what price. I want them very much. When I get those my next

I've just come upon a drawing of the Minnie Freeman school house, drawn by my "Uncle Billy Wentworth", mentioned in the letter from Mark Getter printed in the same Jan. 2 Quiz. Could you use that picture in your paper? Then when I read the story written by Hannah Anderson Thomas, a host of memories came flocking and they persist, so perhaps I'll have to send in my story too. Will you print it if I write one half as good as hers? My recollections do not go so far back, as I was born in 1877, the first white child born on Turtle Creek, and I have a newspaper clipping telling of my birth. Can you tell me, please, was it from the Quiz, in 1877? I'd also like to find out where the Sylvester Haskell family came from when they settled in Ord. I had a fine letter from Will Haskell a year or two ago and there were many interesting things I'd hoped to ask him, but I think he was taken sick or in an accident after that so never received another letter. Thanks to your good paper for printing the letter sent you a couple of years ago which was first printed in the Omaha Stockman. Through your paper I found several old school-mates. Mrs. Geo. Twenty-six men attended the Community club supper at the IOOF hall Monday night. The supper, which was served by Mrs. Hawkes, was abundant and appetizing and was doubly enjoyed because of the lateness of the hour, 7:30. During the business meeting it was decided that the club would sponsor a banquet for this year's high school football team. It was also voted to assist with the rural track meet again this spring. Other business matters were discussed and it is planned to go on with the supper indefinitely.

Charles Zangger entertained fifteen of his friends at a coasting party at his home Monday night. Mr. Zangger and Charles had done some work on the hill and had rigged up some toboggans. Thrills were provided in abundance and all had a jolly time. Mrs. Zangger served a hot lunch before the guests went home.

The Baileys and Sandys enjoyed an afternoon of coasting at the Zangger place Sunday afternoon.

Roy McCune of Scotia, who was injured in an automobile accident at fair time, was in North Loup Tuesday for the first time since the accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Knapp and Beverly were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Meyers Monday.

The Clyde Barrett family spent Sunday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Worrell.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schudel and son started on the journey to California Wednesday. They were delayed on account of the storms.

tionary as provided in Section 26-707 of the Compiled Statutes of Nebraska, for 1929, used by the County of Valley for the year 1936, from The Ord Quiz, The Arcadian and the North Loup Loyalist, the only three legal weekly newspapers published in said county, through a purchasing committee of three supervisors to be appointed by the Chairman of the Board dealing with a purchasing agent or committee designated by the aforesaid Valley county printers; a condition of this contract being that prices, quality, workmanship and service on all such books, blanks and stationery shall compare favorably with those obtainable from other sources; and provided that this agreement shall not refer to books, blanks and stationery which any other County officer of said county is by law entitled to purchase by himself. Motion seconded by Jablonski, and upon roll-call supervisors voted as follows: Jablonski, yes; Desmul, yes; Hansen, yes; Zikmund, no; Ball, No; Johnson, yes; Barber, yes. Chairman declared said motion carried.

Moved by Jablonski that all orders for such books, blanks and stationery as provided in an agreement heretofore made this day between Valley county and the printers of Valley county, Nebraska, must be accompanied by a requisition order signed by at least two members of said purchasing committee of Valley county. Motion seconded by Hansen and duly carried.

The Chairman then announced the appointment of supervisors Hansen, Jablonski and Ball, as purchasing committee to do purchasing of books, blanks and stationery and printing supplies, as heretofore referred to.

Upon motion duly carried, meeting recessed until February 4, 1936, at 10:00 A. M.

Moral for the Immoral

WNU Service.

FRANKIE AMORY had never been in love. He did not believe in love. He said there was no such thing. At least, not for him. He was right.

For Frankie, alas, was a professional gentleman, a gigo—a genteel swindler, clever at the precarious art of blackmail.

But Frankie, despite all his wisdom, had erred, and the police were after him. He had made the sad mistake of pretending to make love to a police commissioner's wife, a very wealthy woman. Unfortunately, however, her husband happened to be a remarkably perceptive man and in a short time Frankie was very suddenly leaving the city.

Frankie alighted at a summer resort high in the mountains. He took a room at the leading hotel and slept through most of the day. That night, at a costume masquerade he met Mrs. Winters, a wealthy, middle-aged divorcee. Frankie immediately went to work.

That week-end he was a guest at a house party in the great white castle on the mountainside that was the Winters' mansion. And there he met Stephanie. He had been strolling among the guests with the possessive and almost girlish Mrs. Winters and they had come upon a large group at one end of the drawing room. Mrs. Winters playfully grasped one of the men by the sleeve.

"This is my bad, bad nephew Lyle," she said to Frankie, smiling broadly. "Lyle, this is Mr. Amory."

"Lyle has brought a charming young thing for the week-end," said Mrs. Winters.

Frankie could catch only an occasional glimpse of the shoulder of the girl beyond Lyle. She was almost entirely screened by the men about her. Lyle turned toward her. "Oh, Stephanie..." The girl emerged from the circle smiling. Her eyes met Frankie's.

Frankie gasped. His heart seemed to stand still.

The next morning he sought out Stephanie. "I must talk to you," he implored. "Can't we walk somewhere?"

She nodded eagerly, her eyes very bright, very innocent, very young. "I'll get a jacket—" She touched his arm in a gesture of confidence. "I won't be a moment!"

He watched as she hurried away. She was so sweet!

They followed a little path up the mountainside, and sat for hours in a cleared space overlooking the broad, far valley below.

After dinner they went for a drive. In the gradually gathering darkness they drove slowly up the mountain road. Passing a smooth stretch of gravel Frankie accelerated the car, and the wind whipped about them. Stephanie laughed, moving close to him. He laughed with her. His arm, in an unconscious motion, dropped over her shoulder.

She leaned her head against the soft pad of his coat.

Farther on they stopped and watched the moonlit valley below. They sat there a long while. Once Stephanie said, "Oh, Frankie, isn't it grand! Couldn't you just stay here forever and ever?"

He looked at her. Everything within him seemed to fall away and leave him limp and lifeless. He took her hand. "Stepie," he whispered, "you're adorable!"

She looked shyly up at him. She said nothing, but he could feel her move to him. She held her eyes to his lips. "I like you, too, Frankie..." She came very close to him. The moon's light was silver on her moist, parted lips, luminous from her night-shadowed eyes.

He drew her to him, tight, tight. He could feel her soft fingers over his face, tracing the line of his lips, his chin. His words were lost in the silken cascade of her hair, but she heard them—"I love you, Stevie. I love you..."

Lyle Winters slumped down in a chair with a shrug of resignation. Stephanie came across the room drawing on her gloves. She was a different Stephanie. There was an alien air of icy briskness about her. She spoke calmly to the man in the chair, but her tone was brittle. "Well, did you get the dough from your aunt?"

Winters nodded. He reached into an inside pocket and brought forth a neat parcel of currency. "Got the letters?"

"Yeah," Stephanie opened her hand-bag and produced a packet of envelopes. "Let's have the dough." Envelopes and money changed hands. Winters sighed with relief. "Why the big rush, anyway?" he asked. A horn tooted outside.

The girl nodded toward the window. "The fish are biting."

Winters rose and went to the window. "Amory?"

The girl nodded. "Yeah." She crossed the room and paused by the door. "Well, so long." She smiled. "And say, never write love letters to girls you don't know anything about." And she was gone.

Winters saw Stephanie bend over and kiss Frankie. He watched as the car slid down the driveway. "Well," he murmured, half aloud. "I wonder how much she'll get out of that sucker..."

Supervisors Draft Relief Act Plans, Appoint Director

Kruml To Serve As Temporary Head of New Assistance Program in Valley Co.

The important task of drafting plans for administration of the new assistance act in Valley county was begun Friday by Chairman J. A. Barber, members of the county board of supervisors and George A. Satterfield, county treasurer, who will serve as members of the Valley county assistance committee.

With the FERA going out of existence here February 8 it became necessary to get the new Nebraska program provided for at the recent special session of the legislature into operation in Valley county at once, although much confusion still exists in regard to this program.

Miss Wainner, a representative of the NERA, met with the assistance committee Friday and explained that federal funds will no longer be available for the care of unemployables. She recommended that the committee name some person to have charge of assistance, preferably someone familiar with the work.

Temporary Appointment

Frank Kruml, who has been relief director here under the FERA, was designated by the board for this post but the appointment is only temporary. He will have charge of copying FERA case cards so they may be used under the new set-up and will help the assistance committee in getting the new program started. Later he may be appointed permanent director, should such a position be thought necessary by supervisors.

Estimates of amount of money needed for relief were made by the committee, estimate for the 30-day period beginning Feb. 8 being $2,266. Of this $2,200 must be spent for relief and only $66, or three per cent, for administrative expense.

Valley county's present load of unemployables is 55, Kruml and Miss Wainner explained to supervisors, and there are 40 employables who are being given some work through the WPA. An estimate of five transient relief cases also was made, bringing the relief load up to 100. It was estimated that average cost per case will be $22, bringing the estimated cost for the next month up to $2,200.

Must Fill Out Blanks

For assistance purposes during the first half of the coming biennium Valley county will receive a total of $29,886.62, Clerk Ign. Kilma, jr., has been informed by Irl Tolden, state assistance director. Old age pensions, care of needy children, assistance for blind children, etc., as well as direct relief for unemployables must be taken care of with this sum.

As soon as application blanks are received from the state, which should be within the next few days, all persons who seek relief of any nature, including old age pensions, must appear at certain times and places to be appointed later and fill out the blanks. Probably Director Kruml will spend a day in North Loup and a day in Arcadia to receive applications from people of those communities.

Regardless of whether FERA or WPA application blanks have been filled out, all persons who need relief in future must fill out these new applications as this is required by Nebraska's assistance act, Mr. Kilma explains.

The whole program is still in an indefinite stage but as soon as more complete information is available it will be announced, he says.

Radio Pastor Chosen By Ord Pentecosts

Rev. C. E. Thurmond, formerly radio pastor of station KWTN at Watertown, S. D., was elected by the board of trustees of the Full Gospel church of Ord to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. Earl E. Cummings to go into evangelistic work. Rev. Thurmond and family will assume their new duties Feb. 9.

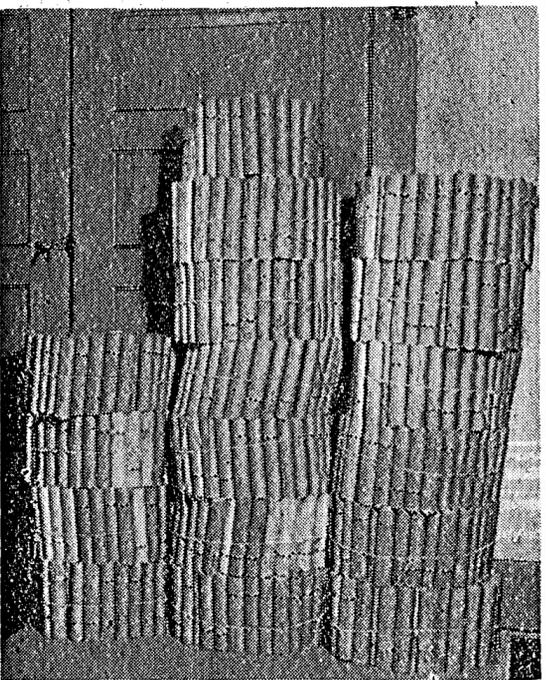

As a radio preacher at Watertown the new Ord pastor enjoyed a successful ministry, it is claimed, building up a large church attendance as well as attracting a radio audience of thousands.

Before entering the ministry he served as a station agent and telegraph operator for the Burlington railroad for eleven years.

Young Democrats to Meet

Young Democrats of Ord were notified yesterday that their fourth annual state convention will be held at Kearney on Feb. 20, 21 and 22 and that Frank Wickham, national president, will attend. The state president, Hobart Blackledge of Kearney, is not a candidate for reelection and George Reinmiller, of Red Cloud, is being prominently mentioned for the post. Several Ord young democrats will attend the meeting, it is claimed.

Big News! Recipe Calendars Mailed Out

Almost 2,000 Quiz recipe calendars in this pile, and they were mailed out Monday to paid-in-advance subscribers, all of whom should have received their calendars by this time. The 1935 cookery calendar is the handsomest the Quiz has ever published. It is illustrated with photographs of Publisher H. D. Leggett and the Quiz office building in Ord, pictures being taken and all engraving work, composition, printing and binding work done by members of the Quiz force.

A limited number of calendars remain for subscribers who were not paid in advance on January 1 and for new subscribers but the edition will soon be exhausted and no more will be printed.

Valley County's World War Vets To Get $150,831

Bonus Bill Passed by Senate Over President's Veto Will Mean Much to Nebraska.

Valley county's veterans of the World War will receive $150,831 within the next few months as result of passage of the bonus bill Monday by the United States senate over the president's veto. The house of representatives had passed the bill previously. Vote in the senate was 76 to 19.

The bill passed by Congress provides for payment of the bonus at once in "baby bonds" of $50 denomination, cashable immediately. Veterans not in need of immediate cash may hold the bonds as an investment if they desire. Total sum involved in the bonus bill is $2,491,000,000 of which World War veterans of Nebraska will get approximately $25,000,000.

Money by June 15th

Immediately after passage of the bill over his veto President Roosevelt called upon the treasury to make arrangements to pay the bonus as soon as possible. "There must be no delay, now that Congress has passed the bill," he warned.

Henry Morgenthau, secretary of the Treasury, said payments would be ready by June 15. He estimated that 38 million separate bonds would have to be printed.

Besides the $150,831 that Valley county war veterans will receive, veterans of near-by counties will receive bonus payments as follows: Greeley, $133,569; Sherman, $144,828; Garfield, $50,741; Wheeler, $36,934; Loup, $28,764; Custer, $18,382.

Ice Harvest Starts With 20 Men Working

Harry Patchen called at the Quiz office yesterday to say that on Friday he began harvesting natural ice at his pond in southeast Ord and that a crew of 20 men is working daily. He will have his ice house filled by Monday if weather allows work to continue, he estimates. The ice is about 14 inches thick and the best quality he has ever put up, Mr. Patchen says. Last winter it was only 11 inches thick and in some winters 8-inch ice has been put up.

Ord Man in Charge Of Most Beautiful Piggly Wiggly Store

Henry J. Pasha, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ignac Pasha, of Ord, who is general manager of all Piggly Wiggly grocery stores in LaFayette, Ind., district, recently planned, developed and opened for business what is heralded by the magazine, Chain Store Age, as the "nation's most beautiful food store."

The new store, pictures of which appear in the magazine, is 45 feet wide and 75 feet deep. It is finished in black and silver inside, fixtures and all, and the floor is covered with embossed silver and black linoleum. It is located in the heart of LaFayette. Mr. Pasha also has opened two other new stores recently in Bloomington and LaFayette but neither is as elaborate as the store described above. Mr. Pasha hopes to spend two or three weeks in Ord next summer, he writes.

Gulf Of Mexico Fishing Is Good, Says H. D. Leggett

Dear Quiz:

Well, we are still her at Corpus Christi and have had a very enjoyable day. It got mighty cold last night, 27 degrees they say and some tender plants such as banana trees, poinsettias and other tender blooming plants and some of the larger palms look pretty sick, but I think it was more the wind perhaps. The same cold is predicted for tonight. The wind, however, has gone down. We did get cold last night in spite of our two big wool blankets and we got up toward morning and lit a couple of gas burners. Tonight I brought up another blanket. We slept late this a. m., had breakfast after 8 and about 1 got the car out and drove around to Aransas Pass, 27 miles, had dinner there. I had a fish dinner. Mamma took good old Nebraska pork. When we got back home we parked on top of the bay overlooking the "turn" which is a deep channel where the big boats come in. There are big docks where the boats unload. There was a big ship unloading iron pipe, such as is used in oil wells, all the afternoon. The cranes on the boat would bring up bundles of a half dozen joints of that big pipe at a time and deposit them on the dock. The shore was lined with fishermen but not many were catching fish. We did see a couple of nice strings of trout. I have arrangements made to go fishing Tuesday. Mr. Davis, our landlord is going with us and a couple from I think he said Oklahoma. Then Wednesday he is going with us around to Aransas Pass and out onto the island and we are going to fish in the gulf. I expect to have a fish store to write home after those trips and I hope, a box of fish of my own catching, to send home. While driving around late this afternoon we stopped at a fruit stand to get fruit for supper. Got 6 large grapefruit for 25c and I mean large too, and they were just as good as they were big. Big, nice oranges, 15c a dozen, tangerines, which I like better than oranges, 15c a dozen. Another fruit, same color as tangerines, a cross between them and the orange, I like best of all. Are we eating fruit. Of course it is all shipped in here. The citrus fruit belt begins to get good about 100 miles south of here. We will leave here for there about Thursday, Brownsville being our next stop, 207 miles south of here and right on the Mexican border. Well, this is a pretty good account of our day's work. (Continued on Page 7.)

Production Credit Ass'n Meets Febr. 3

Fred A. Bates, vice-president of the Broken Bow Production Credit association, announces that the annual meeting of this farmers' organization will be held Monday, Feb. 3 in the Public Service club rooms at Broken Bow, beginning at 10:30 a. m. Several farmer stockholders of Valley county probably will attend.

Marion J. Cushing, of Ord, was president of the association until his accidental death while repairing a telephone line last summer. Election of his successor will be one item of business at the meeting Monday.

Meeting Again Postponed

Because roads were badly drifted and the temperature remained below zero all day the Farmer Grain & Supply company's annual meeting of stockholders scheduled for Friday afternoon was again postponed. It will be held Friday Feb. 14, says General Manager Wm. Heuck.

Plans Progressing For Annual Dinner

Plans for the annual banquet of the Ord chamber of commerce, in conjunction with the Rotary club and the Business and Professional Women's club, are progressing nicely, say committees in charge. The banquet will be held Monday, Feb. 10 at the high school auditorium with J. E. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star, as principal speaker. Banquet tickets will go on sale next week.

The chamber of commerce is conducting a membership drive now and several new members have joined, says F. E. McQuillan, membership chairman. The drive will end on the day of this annual banquet.

Beginning Feb. 10 and continuing all week the Ord municipal electric plant will hold "open house" and patrons may inspect the new machinery, which has been finally approved by engineers and accepted by the city council. A visit to this plant should prove interesting to all Ordites and the week of Feb. 10 will be a convenient time to make the visit, as plant employees will be prepared to guide all visitors and explain operation of the machinery.

Kearney Cage Stars Upset Ord, 26 to 21

By the narrow margin of five points Ord's bid for revenge against Kearney for a defeat suffered last year fell short Friday night and Kearney was again victorious, the score being 26 to 21. The game was the most exciting seen on the Ord court this season, the score being tied 14-14 at half time. Both teams played brilliant basketball in the final periods but Kearney's floor work was slightly superior to that of the Brockman-coached team. It was the second loss for Ord this season. Tomorrow night the Ord squad journeys to Ravenna for another non-conference game.

Annual Institute Of Epworth League Will Open Friday

100 Delegates Expected Despite Snow, Cold Weather; Six Preachers on Faculty.

In spite of snow and cold weather at least 100 delegates are expected to attend the annual mid-winter institute of the Loup valley Epworth League opening in Ord tomorrow, says Rev. Earl C. Smith, institute manager. All delegates will be entertained in Ord homes on the "Harvard plan" which includes lodging and breakfast, he states, and several families outside of the Methodist membership have offered to provide lodging for delegates.

Towns included in this League district are Bartlett, Ericson, Burwell, Greeley, Ord, Wolbach, Cushing, North Loup, Arcadia, Loup City, Litchfield, Westerville and Scotia. At least ten of these will be represented here.

Banquet Saturday Eve.

Faculty will be made up of Dr. Bernard Johansen, superintendent of th Hastings district, Dr. Paul M. Hillman, new superintendent of the Kearney district, Dr. A. V. Hunter, of Nebraska Wesleyan university; Rev. E. R. Peterson, Loup City, Rev. W. H. Stephens, North Loup, and Rev. L. E. Nye, Arcadia. Rev. N. B. Callaway, of Scotia, is dean of the institute and Mrs. M. C. Smith of Ord is registrar.

The program will get under way at 7:00 Friday evening with a worship service, after which Dr. Hunter will give a lecture on "The Christian Choosing a Vocation," which will be followed by various study groups. The evening will close with recreation and organization of a band.

At 8:30 Saturday morning the program continues, the Saturday afternoon session opens at 1:15 and Saturday evening a banquet will be held with Rev. Smith as toastmaster. Dr. Hillman is the principal banquet speaker, his subject being "Choose Your Target."

All sessions will be held at the Methodist church.

Eight Days Since Temp'ature Above The Freezing Point

—18 Coldest By Travis' Official Thermometer; 17 1/2 Inches Of Snow in January.

On only one day since the present cold snap began January 15 has the temperature risen above the freezing point and on nine of the last fifteen days have sub-zero temperatures prevailed, said Horace W. Travis, government weather recorder for Ord and vicinity, yesterday. For the past five consecutive days the mercury has plummeted to minus marks each day.

Coldest weather of the fifteen day period came Sunday when an early hour -13 was recorded. Warmest mark of the day was three degrees below zero. Unofficial thermometers registered the temperature that morning as low as -32.

The lowest January temperature ever recorded in Ord was on January 11, 1913 when -31 was reached. A search of weather records discloses. Present cold spell is probably the longest stretch of freezing and sub-zero weather ever suffered here.

So far in January 17 1-2 inches of snow has fallen. Moisture content is only 1.40 inches.

Warmer weather is predicted for today and the balance of this week but another cold spell is likely to strike early in February, weather forecasters say.

Mr. Travis furnishes the Quiz the following table showing high and low points registered by his thermometer each day since January 15:

	High	Low
January 15	20	13
16	16	10
17	16	6
18	18	—
19	6	—12
20	22	—11
21	38	10
22	20	—11
23	21	7
24	20	6
25	6	—7
26	—	—18

Big Attendance At Ord Firemen's Ball

Committee in charge of ticket selling for the annual firemen's ball to be held in Ord on Wednesday, Feb. 5, report a big sale and predict that attendance will be larger than for several years. The ball will be held at the Bohemian hall with the grand march, led by Chief A. J. Shirley, starting at 11:00. Committee in charge is composed of Guy Keep, Mart Benson and Ed Oetken. Music will be furnished by a St. Paul orchestra known as the Dukes of Rhythm.

Mrs. H. E. Fouk Dies

Mrs. H. E. Fouk, of Ericson, passed away in the Ord hospital Saturday after a week of illness with an infection that developed following tonsillitis. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Butler, of Clayton, Kas., her sister, Mrs. Merle Vanover, of McCook, and her husband were in Ord most of last week during her illness. An operation was performed to drain an abscess in her side but without avail. The body was taken to Ericson Sunday for burial.

Miss Grace Lee Begins Work As Dale's Assistant

Will Supervise Women's Clubs, Assist in 4-H Club Work; 4-H Committee Meeting.

Miss Grace Lee, recently appointed assistant to the Valley county agricultural agent, Carl C. Dale, assumed her work at the court house last week. Capable and efficient, Miss Lee comes to Ord well qualified to handle this work, having taught in the vocational home economics department of the Orleans school for several years. Previous to her work at Orleans, she taught in the high school at Callaway.

Miss Lee will be in charge of the women's extension club work throughout the county and will assist with the 4-H club work. At the court house Tuesday afternoon, Miss Lee conducted the first meeting for leaders of the fifteen women's clubs in Valley county. Each club is represented by two members who receive the lesson and later conduct the same lesson for the benefit of the members of their club.

May Organize Schools

While definite plans have not yet been formulated, Miss Lee states that she later expects to organize leaders' training centers at North Loup and Arcadia for representatives of clubs of these communities, believing that a smaller group is present they will gain more by the lesson and that since it will be closer to home and thus easier to receive the lessons, more clubs will be organized.

This, of course, was not possible with a state representative who had only one day to spend in each county. The lesson conducted Tuesday covered all forms of needlework.

Announcement was made of a meeting of a 4-H club planning committee to be held Friday afternoon. Leaders of 4-H clubs all over the county are asked to be present, the meeting being held for the purpose of planning the 4-H club work throughout the year. The work of the clubs in general is to be a Girls' Room project and this cycle of work is particularly interesting as it covers redecoration, remodeling and beautifying the bedroom.

Miss Lee is anxious to make the acquaintance of Valley county 4-H club leaders and members and hopes that as many as possible will attend the meeting Friday afternoon.

Bredthauer Baby Died January 25th

Robert Oscar, 19 months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bredthauer, passed away Saturday Jan. 25, at the family home near Grand Island after a brief illness. He was born in Valley county on June 16, 1934 and accompanied his parents to Grand Island in December. Funeral rites were held Monday at St. John's Lutheran church of Mira Valley by Rev. A. J. C. Moeller of the Trinity Lutheran church of Grand Island. The choir sang "Asleep in Jesus."

Besides Robert's parents he is mourned by two sisters, Barbara Ann and Elizabeth June, by both grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Bredthauer and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Foth, and many other relatives.

Hon. Alvin Blessing Claimed By Cancer; Funeral Rites Held

Prominent Man in County, State Politics Died Sunday Morning; Respected by Community.

After a long and painful illness with cancer during the last few weeks of which he remained alive only because of his unconquerable spirit, the Honorable Alvin Blessing passed away at 11:15 Sunday, Jan. 26 at Hillcrest Hospital in Ord. Funeral rites were held Tuesday at 2:00 p. m. at the Methodist church. Rev. Harry Hansen, of Holdrege, former pastor of the Ord Presbyterian church, being in charge. Interment was beside his wife in the family lot in Ord cemetery.

HON. ALVIN BLESSING.

Mr. Blessing was for almost fifty years a prominent figure in the business life of Ord and in county and state politics and his death is genuinely mourned by thousands of friends.

Was Born in Michigan

Born in Cass county, Michigan, on Dec. 11, 1871, the third son of Lorenzo and Catherine Blessing, Alvin came to Valley county with his parents at the age of eight and this was his home until his death. On Dec. 25, 1893 he was married to Clemmie J. Hull, who preceded him in death on March 26, 1927. To them three children were born, Dr. F. L. Blessing and Mrs. Catherine Clements, of Ord, and Alvin Earl Blessing, of Lincoln. They, together with a brother, Clarence, and five grandchildren survive.

Mr. Blessing was a member of the Presbyterian church, the Masonic lodge and the Knights of Pythias, all of Ord. He was a man of sterling qualities, a deep thinker, and as a reward for these attributes he was held in the highest esteem and was called to serve in many offices of trust in the city, county and state.

2 Terms As Co. Clerk

After his marriage he taught school for several years, then engaged in the implement and livestock business with his brother, Clarence, and his father-in-law, W. C. Hull. Then he accepted the call of the people to act as county clerk and recorder of deeds for two terms and later was an officer in the First National bank for a time.

A republican from the time he first voted, he was honored by his party by appointment as postmaster of Ord, which position he held two terms. He also served as chief clerk of the house of representatives at Lincoln, was Valley county assessor for one term and served several terms as a county supervisor, being chosen chairman of the board and serving with distinction. He also served as chairman of the republican central committee of Valley county for many years.

A Power in Senate

In November, 1934 he was elected to the state senate from the 23rd senatorial district and served

"Astronomy" was the subject which held the attention of the No Lo club last Tuesday. Mrs. Mary Clement was the hostess, with Ava Johnson as the lesson leader. Nineteen regular members and two honorary members were present. Mrs. Della Sayre and Mrs. Hattie Clement were guests. Lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. Johnson. Fern Maxson and Florence Hutchins were in Ord Wednesday to attend the project leaders meeting of the extension clubs. Leta Gillespie was hostess to the Fortnightly club last Wednesday. Because of the severity of the cold several members were absent. One guest, Miss Viola Everett, was present. The lesson was given by Group I and three papers which were carried over from a previous meeting. Those taking part were Elfreda Vodehnal, Winnie Bartz, Myra Barber, Leta Gillespie, Mary Thelin, Opal Thorpe, Jessie Babcock, Genevieve Hoepfner and Vera Fisher. Plans for the Peace Essay contest are going ahead under the supervision of Genevieve Hoepfner. At the close of the lesson the lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

Erman Barnhart, who has been visiting his brother Ray in Omaha, returned to North Loup. The Women's Missionary society of the S. D. B. church held an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. G. L. Hutchins on Tuesday. In absence of Mrs. Hutchins, Myra Gowen acted as hostess. The Rebekah's installed their new officers at their meeting last Thursday night. Dorothy Gudgel is the new Noble Grand and Bernice King the Vice Grand. The Art Collins family were guests of the Chas. Sayre's at Sunday supper. I. A. Manchester received the news recently that his son Donald had been transferred to Kansas City. Donald is employed by the Jewel Tea company and has been in Aurora, Ill. for several years. The library board met for an all day work meeting last Thursday, all eight members being present. At this time the business meeting was held instead of the regular time which has been the first Monday evening of the month. Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hoepfner were Grand Island visitors Monday. Myron Chadwick and Bill Manchester left Saturday for Oregon. They made the trip with Mrs. Lee and son Harold who have been visiting relatives at Sumner. Joe Chadwick, who came to North Loup with them when they came a few weeks ago, expects to remain here and help put up ice. The Eric and Albert Babcock families spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Babcock. A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ross Portis Tuesday, January 28th. The North Loup high school basketball team won the two games from Arcadia high school at Arcadia, January 21 and took a close one from Ericson on the local floor January 23rd.

Mrs. Velma Tappan is the first person in this neighborhood that we know of, who has eggs setting. She has 900 setting. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Desel and Bill Brennick returned home last Thursday from their trip to Missouri. Mrs. Noyes came out to stay the fore part of the week with the Desel children. Mr. and Mrs. Charley Johnson drove to Lincoln Tuesday taking their daughter Irma and LeRoy home. Mrs. Johnson expects to stay a few weeks, but Charley returned Saturday. Miss Mable Lee who has helped Mrs. Johnson for several weeks went to her brother's Sunday. Lloyd Axthelm did Charley Johnson's chores while the Johnsons were in Lincoln. Monday he went to Elmer Steider's to work. Sleighing is a great sport with the school children these days. In passing the place resembles a sled

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

 Ft. Robinson, Neb., Jan. 26, 1935
 To the Quiz:

I lost out last week again, partly because there was so little to write and mainly because I did not feel like writing at the proper time. I have a guess coming that the big boy with the little knives may get busy before I write again. I sure hope so as this writing policy no longer ceases to become interesting. Monday of this week I received a picture book of Corpus Christi from Senator Leggett, as well as a letter, which same were very much enjoyed.

Nothing that has happened since I came here gave me quite the enjoyment I got out of the article two weeks ago by John G. Bremer in regard to the Mira Creek post-office. It so happens that my picture was in the family group, although I don't show up in the cut. It also happens that the picture don't lack much of being fifty years old and is still good. I think it was taken by W. A. Anderson who always believes in doing things well.

The Quiz and other less important papers including those from Omaha, tell of plenty of snow and cold weather in that part of Nebraska, but that don't worry us up here in the garden of Eden. We haven't had more than two inches of snow on the ground at any one time and most of the time none at all. Last night was the coldest we have had, at 11 below zero. The camp at Minatare has had it colder, with much more snow.

That new Nebraska book, "Old Jules," which should be read by every Nebraskan, is a tale of pioneer days in northwest Nebraska. The hospital records show that the hero of the story was an inmate here in 1884. He died not long ago at Rushville. John Spedfir of Lincoln is the new CC educational adviser, taking the place of E. C. Knott, who died here in December. He was admitted as a patient here the past week and is recovering from an attack of bronchitis. For years he was deputy state superintendent, a position now held by Herbert L. Cushing.

He named over the Ord school superintendents from Hosman to M. D. Bell, and said he was personally acquainted with all of them. He is also very well acquainted with the Frank Johnson family of Burwell, and was a warm friend of J. L. Jenkins and John E. Opp.

Each week the Quiz goes the rounds of the ward and then Johnnie Petersen takes it home for his parents to read.

More later.

Wallace Doe Leaving Soon on Third Trip To Alaska, Tells About Country for Quiz

Wallace Doe, of Arcadia, with huge bear that he killed while visiting Alaska a few months ago. The young man, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy E. Doe, is returning to Alaska soon and will be accompanied by Raymond Murray. Hunting and fishing are great in that country and its climate is not nearly so disagreeable as Nebraska people believe, he claims.

"Very shortly I shall be making my third trip to Alaska by way of Seattle," says Wallace Doe of Arcadia, "and though the route between here and Seattle has become more or less monotonous, the ocean voyage from Seattle to Alaska through the scenic inside passage is always new and interesting."

In '33 Mr. Doe first made the Alaska trip to visit his aunt and uncle at Red Bluff Bay, driving to Clarkston, Wash., then by bus to Seattle, and finally by steamer to Alaska. "It seemed that I had gone a long way when I reached the coast, but that is only two-thirds of the distance," states the Arcadia young man.

In response to request by the Quiz editor, young Doe wrote the following story about his previous trip to Alaska:

Seattle Colorful City.
 "Seattle itself is the most colorful and busy city I have ever seen. It is called 'The Gateway to Alaska' and the name is fitting. Nearly all shipping to Alaska is centered here, as well as to many foreign ports. The Sound is covered with boats at all times. Ferry boats to Port Townsend, Vancouver, Everett, Tacoma and other nearby points go tooting busily across the Sound at regular intervals. Immense freighters from Norway and Sweden lie at times at the various piers, and trans-oceanic passenger steamers come easing into their berths like fat women settling themselves down into not-too-strong chairs.

"Shining white halibut fishing boats on their way to or from the banks in the Bering Sea go plying along with their Diesels rumbling smoothly, salmon trollers, herring fishermen, there's no limit to the variety of shipping in the port.

Fare to Alaska Only $36.
 "Ships of the Alaska Steamship Company leave from Pier Two at the foot of Bell street. My ticket said 'S. S. Alaska, June 12, Sailing at 9 a. m.' so at about 7 a. m. I was on the pier with my baggage. Since that first time I have learned not to expect too much of sailing schedules. You may leave on time, but you're just as likely to wait a whole day or so, especially if you take a 'freighter.' The 'Alaska' is over 300 feet long, twin-screw, electric turbine—one of the fastest boats on the Alaska line. She makes around 16 knots. First class fare to Juneau is $36, which includes meals and stateroom.

"Finally with a hoarse blast of the whistle we swing slowly away from the dock and head northwest for Ketchikan.

"That first day we steamed along the beautiful San Juan Islands, Washington's summer vacation spot, and entered Canadian waters, stopping a short time at the picturesque city of Vancouver. B. C. Leaving Vancouver we entered Georgia Straits formed by Vancouver Island and the mainland of British Columbia.

Dangerous Reef Marked.
 "All this country is very densely

Another 14 below zero Sunday morning with zero or below nearly all last week.

How errors will creep in. No doubt Frank Ptacnik was surprised, if he read our news last week, to read where he nearly met death on the Heffernan hill. We got the story over the telephone and mistook the name Prasek for Ptacnik. It was Mr. Prasek who has been around here for some time soliciting membership for the Z. C. B. I. lodge, on his way to the meeting at the National hall when the near serious accident happened. So we hope that Mr. Ptacnik will pardon us for having him galavanting over rough and slippery roads when he was innocent and no doubt snug at the family fireside that Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Waldmann and sons visited at John Clochon's last Sunday.

We are glad to report that Marlon Lippinsky who was seriously ill last week with pneumonia is somewhat improved at this writing.

Jake Walshowski shelled corn last Tuesday. This was the first corn in this neighborhood to be shelled and reported it to have shelled out better than expected.

Paul and Raymond Waldmann spent Sunday evening at the Mr. and Mrs. Ed Waldmann home.

The township meeting was held at the National hall Tuesday afternoon, and the usual annual business was transacted.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clochon motored to Atkinson, Nebr., a week ago Sunday when they were called by the sudden death of Mrs. John Coufal, a sister of Mrs. Clochon, who suffered a stroke of paralysis and passed away two hours later at her home in Atkinson. The funeral was held Monday. They returned home Tuesday.

Fresh Air Easiest to Heat
 Fresh air heats more quickly than stale air because the former contains a large percentage of oxygen. Fresh air also has a higher thermal conductivity than carbon dioxide, which forms a large proportion of stale air.

Costly Candle Light
 A physiologist points out that 2,000 wax candles were used to light a hall for a Washington's birthday ball, in 1817, at a cost of $150; whereas today the same amount of light could be had for 50 cents and with less damage to vision.

Japanese Renaissance
 Perhaps the world's most astonishing revolution began in 1903, when Japan began recasting her Middle age, feudal empire into a modern nation. Englishmen were brought in to create a navy and build railroads and lighthouses; Frenchmen to recast the laws and train the army; Americans to organize education and the postal service; Germans to train medical men and organize local government.

Ord High School Boys Popularizing New Winter Sport—Skiing

This looks like a scene from the Swiss Alps, but it isn't. H. E. Jones, the Quiz photographer, snapped the picture late Saturday afternoon on the Dr. C. J. Miller hill. Boys in the picture are Lloyd Sack, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Sack, and John, 14, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Rogers. Both boys made their skis in manual training classes at Ord high school and this is the first year they have tried this winter sport but already both are becoming quite proficient. Interest in skiing is expected to extend rapidly among young people of the city; already several have purchased or are making skis.

I. O. O. F. Installs,
District Deputy Grand Master S. L. Westcott and staff of Ericson installed officers of the Burwell, North Loup and Ord I. O. O. F. lodges at Ord on last Thursday evening, January 23.

Ord officers installed were Anthony Thill, noble grand, C. F. O. Schmidt, vice-grand, A. Bartunek, secretary, John Lewis, treasurer, Fred Kemp, warden, Mart Guggenmos, inside guard, and John Collins, chaplain. Melvin Cornell was installed as noble grand of the North Loup lodge and John Harlan of Burwell.

About forty members of the different lodges were present and following the installation services talks were given by S. L. Westcott and several other members. An oyster stew, prepared by a committee composed of C. F. O. Schmidt, Fred Kemp and George Dally, was served.

Royal Neighbors Install.
At their regular meeting at the hall last Friday evening the Royal Neighbors had installation services. Mrs. Ed Holloway was re-installed for a second term as oracle, Mrs. A. J. Shirley was installed as vice-oracle, Mrs. Florence Chapman, chancellor, Mrs. Walter Noll, financial and recording secretary, Mrs. Frank Stara receiver, Mrs. Jud Tedro, marshal, Mrs. Archie Bradt, manager. Two other members, Mrs. Archie Keep and Mrs. William Carlton, were elected to fill the positions of assistant marshal and guardian and will be installed at the next meeting. Following the services lunch was served at Thorne's cafe.

Mrs. Frank Johnson was hostess to members of the Junior Matrons' Kensington club at a dinner at Thorne's Cafe Friday afternoon. Guests were Mrs. Jack Morrison and Mrs. Will Zablouddil.

Skolil-Skala, Skolil-Hrebec Double Wedding

At the Bohemian hall Tuesday night occurred one of the most beautiful and elaborate weddings of the season when Misses Elsie and Elma Skolil, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Skolil, became the brides of William Skala, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Skala, and James Hrebec, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hrebec, sr. County Judge John L. Andersen officiated at the ceremony which was witnessed by countless friends of the two couples.

The brides were attractively gowned in formal white moire taffeta and carried bouquets of red roses and sweetpeas. Attending Miss Elsie were Misses Elaine Skolil, sister of the bride, Lillian Skala, sister of the groom and Evelyn Skala. Flower girls were Evelyn and Lillian Penas, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Will Penas. Attendants of the groom, William Skala, were Fred Skala, jr., a brother, Ernest Parkos and George Radil. Bridesmaids and flower girls were dressed in pink taffeta.

Attending Miss Elma as flower girls were Marie Hrebec and Dorothy Skolil. Bridesmaids were a sister, Miss Viola Skolil and Miss Anna and Helen Hrebec, sisters of the groom. Attending the groom, James Hrebec, were Aldrich Hrebec, Elwin Vodehnal and Ed Kolar. Attendants of the bride were gowned in blue taffeta.

Preceding the wedding, dinner was served to the wedding party at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Skolil. Having lived in this community for a good many years, both young couples are very well liked and have many friends to wish them happiness. The families will locate on farms near Ord this spring.

Imported Bacon Cops City Sales

AAA Was Fairy Godmother To the Farmers—Of Other Countries.

Chicago—Retail meat markets here are advertising bacon imported from Poland for 33 cents a pound, while American bacon must bring a price from 50 to 55 cents a pound, because of the pork shortage caused by the killing of 5,000,000 pigs under the execution sentence of the defunct Agricultural Adjustment Act.

Rapidly increasing sales of pork products imported from Poland and the Free State of Danzig, spurred by the fact that America still likes bacon or ham with its morning eggs, but can no longer afford home products of far superior quality, have caused an unprecedented rise in American imports of these products.

Imports Multiply Rapidly.
During the first ten months of 1935 ham and bacon imports from all countries leaped up 389 per cent over the same period for the preceding year. Imports from Poland were more than nine times what they were in 1934.

Nor was pork the only farm product so affected. During the same span of ten months meat imports as a whole increased by 44,000,000 pounds, or 87 per cent. Beef and veal imports were up 5,613 per cent.

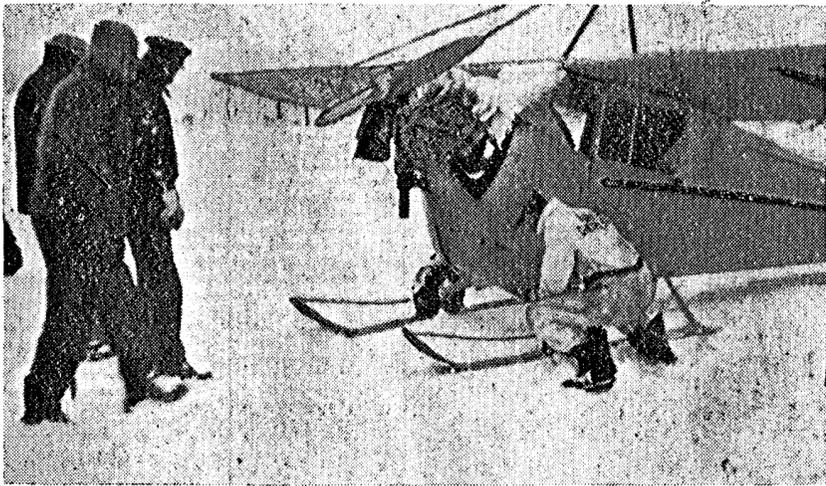

Foreign Grain Prospers.
Imports of wheat more than doubled in that period, while corn imports increased 2,898 per cent.

That Mr. and Mrs. America were not long in "wising up" to the fact that it was not the meat packers, as they had supposed, who were paying the processing tax, is shown by the fact that the American consumption of pork products fell from 6,267,569,000 pounds in 1933 to 4,649,413,000 pounds in 1935—a drop of more than 25 per cent. In reality, the processing tax was in part passed on to the consumer and partly paid by the producer, a pork which sold at 15 cents a pound shortly after the tax was levied cost 30 cents a pound eight months later.

Airplane Stuck in Snow, Jefford Builds Skis, Takes Off

When Jack Jefford, of Broken Bow, brought his airplane down last week in a level field east of Burwell he didn't know how deep the snow was. He found out when he tried to take off again and learned that the tiny airplane wheels couldn't turn in the deep, feathery snow. What to do? First a tractor was used to drag out a runway but the snow drifted so badly that by the time the tractor reached the end of the field the runway had drifted full again. Then Pilot Jefford recalled Arctic flying pictures he had seen, built a pair of skis for his plane and took off without difficulty Friday afternoon, 24 hours after his landing. In this picture taken by Howard Jones on Friday, Pilot Jefford is finishing adjusting the skis and is about ready to go. The temperature stood at 2 degrees below zero. Jefford has a class of student pilots at Burwell and also several at Ord. He recently returned to Broken Bow after "flying weather" for the U. S. government at Tulsa, Okla., for several months.

Chinese Householder Can Pawn Wife in Emergency

When the Chinese householder has pawned all his household effects and still needs money, he has one resource left. He can take his wife along to "Uncle" and pawn her, declares a writer in Answers Magazine.

How much he can raise in this way depends on the lady's age, looks, health, and temper. But when the bargain is struck he can go on his way, knowing that so long as he pays the interest regularly, his wife will be well fed and looked after.

The existence of a number of pawnshops which specialize in wives was discovered in Tientsin as a result of two women refusing to leave the pawnshop when their husbands called with the money to redeem them.

The Chinese are accustomed to financial transactions of this kind. Whenever there is a famine, middlemen tour the districts which are hardest hit, buying young girls from their parents. These girls are afterwards sold as domestic servants in other parts of China. Nobody seems to see anything wrong in this, and when, some years ago, the British authorities set themselves to stamp out domestic slavery in Hong Kong, the reform met with strenuous opposition.

Skeet Shooting
In skeet, as in trapshooting, the expert does not take deliberate aim. He simply looks at the target with both eyes open, concentrates on breaking it, instinctively swings his gun along the line of sight, and at the right instant, without a pause, pulls the trigger. The exact spot to place the shot load can be learned only by experience. Nearly all skeet targets require a slightly different holding and swing, just as rising birds do in actual field shooting experience.

Early Known Islands
The Solomons, 900 miles north-east of Australia, are among the most remote of the Pacific Islands, yet save for the Ladrone and perhaps the Marshalls, they were the earliest found by Europeans. They were discovered, strangely, from Peru, where adventurers, thirsting for more gold, heard rumors of a continent close by to the west. Lost for 200 years, they were rediscovered in 1767.

Lone Star News

Guy Martinson has been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nedbalek.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Hopkins went to Ord Monday.

Marshall Sorenson returned to his home Monday after visiting in the Martinson home.

Mrs. Lloyd Werber went to the Clarence Guggenmos home Tuesday to help do some papering. Lloyd expects to go to the Guggenmos home to do chores as Clarence has been sick.

Rudolph Vasicek called at the Joe Holecsek sr., home Sunday. Mavis VanSlyke was a week end guest of Violet May Guggenmos. Not as large a crowd as was expected attended the Sutton sale on account of the snow blocked roads and cold weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Sevenaker and Ed Leckins were dinner guests in the Dave Guggenmos home Sunday. Lela Guggenmos came home for a few days from the Clarence Guggenmos home while Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Werber are there.

NOTICE

I felt I should answer the statement made about me in the Quiz on January 16, 1936.

How could I have been lurking in the dark under such a strong light as is on the light pole on the corner of the Hager Real Estate office? And how could I have leaped on Will Misko when I actually walked up to him and how could I have broken his glasses when he stepped on them himself when he was looking for them where they had fallen into the snow as Will Misko accidentally knocked them off his face when I stepped up to him and he threw up his arm? And Marshall Covert knows I called his attention to it when Will Misko stepped on his glasses and the assault was nothing more than this: Because I took hold of the lapel of his coat so he would not walk away until I could talk a particular matter over with him that constituted an assault the judge said and I was fined for this. Any person stating that either one of us struck, hit or slapped each other don't know what he is talking about or he is drunk. To any sensible person this affair would amount to nothing yet Leggett made it appear to have been a horrible fight. Because of the wrong impression some people might have gotten, is why I made this reply to Leggett's statement. To all sensible and reasonable citizens, just a little food for thought. Signed: Henry Misko.

Christian Science Services.
"Love" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches for Sunday, February 2.
The Golden Text is: "My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and truth." I John 3:18).
A passage from the Bible used in the lesson-sermon is from I John 4:12, 16: "No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us. And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love, and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God and God in him."

Hi Anderson Says:

We Have Some REAL

and We'll Sell Them Worth the Money!

WE HAVE too many used cars on hand and we have to sell some of them, therefore we are pricing them very low for quick selling. Two months from now you wouldn't be able to look at these cars for within many dollars of the price we are willing to accept now. If you need SURE, DEPENDABLE TRANSPORTATION AT A CHEAP PRICE don't overlook this sale.

1935 Plymouth Coach

Driven only 15,000 miles, just enough to break it in right, this car is practically new but can be bought at a used car price. Maroon color. See it, drive it, compare it with a new car, then compare the cost of a new car with what we ask for this one.

This Week's Hot-Shot

This car has just come out of our shop completely reconditioned and would be a good buy at $50 more than we ask for it. Extra good tires, good paint, upholstery perfect and the motor runs like a new car. A real hot-shot for only $275

2 1930 Model A Coupes

Both of these are good buys for the man who wants a lot of care-free transportation at low cost. They've been through our shop, both have good rubber. If the weather was good they would have been snapped up at higher prices than we are asking now.

1931 Chevrolet Truck

For the man who wants a good truck at a cheap price we recommend this one. Its stood around the garage too long—now we're going to sell it. Somebody will get a bargain. If you need a truck look this one over quick.

Mammoth Sea Serpent Joins University Museum Animals

Lincoln, Neb.—Tylosaurus, giant sea reptile of the dim past, whose presence in the murky Cretaceous waters of Kansas and Nebraska made life a huge game of chance for the sea creatures of that early age, is now the latest attraction in the Morrill hall museum of the University of Nebraska. Actual work in mounting the thirty-three foot monster of the mosasaur family was completed Jan. 9 and as it stands now it is considered the largest and best free mount of an mosasaur displayed in any American museum.

The picture shows the tremendous size of the sea serpent as compared with that of man. Dr. E. H. Barbour, director of the University museum is shown standing behind Henry Reider, who, with Frank Bell and other assistants, mounted the fossil remains. Tylosaurus is now displayed on the north wall of the first floor of Morrill hall and is ready for public inspection.

According to Dr. Barbour, these sea serpents varied in size from eight to as much as forty feet in length. Their jaws were set with a cruel array of conical teeth of which there was a double row in the upper jaw. The lower jaw was so arranged by a series of joints that the mouth could be opened to an extreme degree, and like the snakes to which they are related, they could swallow an object as large or larger than their own diameter.

The giant fish Porthenus, which reached a length of fifteen feet, fell prey to these Cretaceous monsters. But like all the other prehistoric giants, they ran their life cycle and died, their bones settling to the bottom where they were eventually covered with chalk shells. This particular specimen was found in western Kansas. The chalk beds there have raised during the ages until now rains have washed the sod away from these beds leaving the bones exposed in many places.

In the Morrill paleontological collection, two other sea reptiles remain to be mounted, namely, Cylindastes, almost as big as Tylosaurus and Platycarpus, which is somewhat smaller. In addition, states Dr. Barbour, this collection contains several contemporaries of the mosasaurs, as for example, the giant turtle Physostega and the great Plesiosaur with the swan-like neck. These will be mounted as soon as possible.

These giant horrors of the deep lived in the closing days of the age of reptiles when there were about every size, shape and peculiarity of design that could be thought of in the reptilian kingdom. The mosasaurs, however, are perhaps one of the most interesting groups. They started as lizard-like animals on land, which they left for life in the sea, where they learned to swim like a fish. Accordingly their feet were changed to paddles and their tails became flattened into fins.

No creature could hope to free himself from those ragged jaws, once he was caught. As the visitor scans the impressive length of Tylosaurus he will be impressed with the power that these sea giants once possessed.

This specimen was mounted as rapidly as possible in order that visiting high school groups might be able to marvel at the sight.

Jim Hughes of Milburn, Mont., came Monday and will visit relatives around Arcadia for some time.

The ladies' Bible class of the Congregational church will meet for their monthly meeting Friday with Mrs. Cash Routh.

The K. of Y. held its meeting Thursday afternoon. A very short business meeting was held and the remaining time was spent in a spelling ball game. Nearly every one received a stone for keeping their clothes dry while playing out-of-doors. Special numbers were given by Audrey and Jack Koll, who sang songs, accompanied at the piano by Audrey. Our next adventure is to be more careful in our indoor play.

We are very proud of the fact that our attendance has been almost perfect during this cold weather. Among those having perfect attendance for this school term are Leonard John, Calvin Ferris, Jack Koll, Verne and Evelyn Jobst and Lois Zlomke.

Quarterly examinations are now over and we are starting on our sixth school month.

Corpus Christi, Jan. 23, 1936. Dear Quiz:

We have been here a week and so far have not seen the Gulf of Mexico; neither have we caught any big fish, though I have been three afternoons. I have caught some small speckled trout, a few gulf perch and some sand trout. We have had all the fresh fish and oysters we wanted to eat. While this place is on the bay of Corpus Christi, it is some 20 miles out to sea into the big gulf. Ships from all parts of the world come into this port. The other day we saw one from Japan and among other things loaded here was a shipment of 60 tons of shrimp, caught right here in this bay. This is the center of a great oil field and there are usually one or two big oil tank ships loading here. The first few days we were here our greatest pleasure was to drive down to what is called the turning basin, park the car and sit and watch the big ships unloading and the myriad of small craft charging about here and there. There is a great dock where the ships unload and back of it a great warehouse, looks to be a half mile long, where the goods are stored as they come in off the ships and there is a constant stream of trucks driving in and coming out loaded. I got as far as the door and met a sign, "No Admittance Except On Business." I had no business there, apparently, the floor manager, who, seeing me, came out and told me considerable about the business.

This turning basin is dredged out from the bay back to the new 7-million dollar chemical plant, nearly a mile, is about 800 feet wide and 35 feet deep. The docks are on each side. At the entrance a big bridge, used by both the railroads and the highway, several crossings, it tilts up when a big boat comes in or is ready to go out. A great siren whistle like our fire whistle, only larger and noisier, announces the opening of the bridge. At first we thought there was a fire, but soon found out what was meant when we heard it. The banks of this turning basin are always lined with many fishermen. I have seen some nice strings of fish taken, but for the most part they didn't seem to be getting much. So far I have not fished there.

Today the Missus and I drove out to LaQuinta, a few miles north of town around the bay, and fished off the big dock. I got enough trout for supper. LaQuinta is the old Taft plantation. It was occupied by the Chas. P. Taft family and comprised many thousands of acres. Formerly it was the old Sinton plantation. It was left by Mr. Sinton to his daughter, who married Chas. P. Taft, brother of President Taft, who often visited there when he was President of the United States. It is a beautiful place, but its owners are dead, it is now leased as a pleasure resort and is more or less going to ruin.

Yesterday Mr. Davis, our landlord, accompanied us and we went to Rockport, 27 miles north around the shore of the bay. Rockport is famous for its oysters, caught in Capano bay and shipped all over the world. There are many fish houses along the water front. We visited several and were interested in the way they handle the fishing products. Rockport is a small town, about like Ord in population. We fished off a big barge in the harbor at the old ship building yards. When the war came on the U. S. put in a ship yard here and did build a few boats. An artificial harbor was dredged out to get the boats out to deep water and like many other government enterprises then, and for that matter, since the cost was tremendous and the results very small. In 1919 the terrible storm that visited this section, destroyed the government's plant and nothing more has been done with it. There are now acres of ruins. Old steam boilers, great copper cables, many big scows, a few ramshackle buildings, left to show where millions were spent and wasted, in an effort to do something that those in charge didn't know how to do.

Tuesday we tried fishing in the bay at Engleste, but a big o' boat was loading there at the dock and we had no luck. Engleste is a few miles from Corpus around the bay to the north.

Speaking of the big storm here in 1919, I am told that some eleven hundred lives were lost here as Corpus. That was the worst storm they ever had here but every few years there is a blow that does a lot of damage to small craft unless it is gotten off the water front.

The house where we are staying is right on top of the bluff in the center of town and overlooking the bay. It is one of the oldest in town and was built for Governor Davis, the only republican governor Texas ever had. He was appointed by President Abraham Lincoln. It is owned by a man living in San Tone, and is rented by A. N. Davis, our landlord, former Nebraskan who came here for his health eight years ago. We are a stone's throw west of the P. O., a block from the big Plaza hotel, 5 blocks from the waterfront and have a magnificent view of the bay from our front porch. We can see the smoke of the big boats as they come into the bay 20 miles east and as the boats get closer we can see them. We can see scores of sail boats and motor boats all the time out on the bay. When it is clear we can see the great Standard Oil plant out 20 miles on the island where great rows of shiny oil tanks shine in the sun. And the other day as we drove along the water front pavement just above the water, millions of wild ducks swarmed on the bay.

There are many colored people here, also many Mexicans. They claim 40 thousand but the last census showed 34 thousand. There is a lot of building going on and no doubt the town is growing. There is great oil development here, many new wells being brought in all the time and I should say this is destined to be considerable of a place in the next 25 years.

A letter from Eugene this a. m., tells of the snow and cold at Ord and it is hard to believe as I sat in shirtsleeves, fishing this afternoon.

H. D. Leggett.

Corpus Christi 1-24-36.

Dear Quiz: We saw the Gulf of Mexico today for the first time, going around to Aransas Pass, 27 miles out to Harbor Island 8 miles over a causeway, across the island, not large, to the ship channel and across that about a mile on a ferry boat onto the upper end of Mustang Island, then along the east shore of this island for 20 miles to the lower end on the sand beach where the waves of the Gulf could and did lap our car casings all the way. As we went down this a. m., the tide was out. When we came back at 5 p. m., it was nearly high tide and we had to drive several rods further on the beach, the place we drove in the morning being covered with great rollers or waves.

There is a narrow passage through below the lower end of Mustang Island and Padre Island, the next one. This passage, or La Guna De Madre, as they call it, is not very wide, not over a quarter mile and not very deep, but we didn't try to cross. There is a ferry there to take those who wish across. We fished at the opening from the gulf into this pass and on up the shore, making a nice catch, mostly what they call croakers. Mr. Davis landed a large drum fish, 10 or 12 lbs., but it was larger than the law permits us to keep, so we put it back. The causeway, 8 miles long, from the mainland to Harbor Island, is a fill part of the way and bridge most of the way. There is a railroad track across it and the directions at each end are: "Get astride one rail, stay there and step on the gas." We did. We were the first car off the ferry and there were ten in all and we drove 50 all the way. It is a good smooth drive but if one was to plunge off the side probably the results would be unpleasant.

We have been here at Corpus 8 days and leave in the morning for Brownville. It is 207 miles farther south though they say a new road is being planned which will cut off 50 miles. At Brownville we will be only 5 minutes from Old Mexico and will cross the line while there.

This is the 4th fishing trip we took and the first time we got any fish worth mentioning. It was a delightful day, warm enough so we were glad to fish in our shirt sleeves.

They raise lots of garden truck here. One farmer has 100 a. each of onions, radishes and spinach, another 300 a. of radishes. A hundred acre onion field is not unusual and many are larger. Two crops a year are raised, cotton being planted as soon as the vegetables are off. Of course many farmers raise only cotton and they are fitting the ground for it now. One field, several hundred acres, I should say, had 8 4-mule teams going the last time we passed it. This, and a few others, look to be well farmed, but in my judgment what this country needs is a few farmers like John Lunney, Charley Leonard, Bill Hather and farmers of this class. The great majority here are too shiftless to be a howling success. This country, the past season, shipped 90 thousand bales of cotton and 6 thousand cars of winter vegetables.

Well, I must ring off to Eugene won't have room for Geo. Gowen's column.

By George Gowen

Risky Pleasure.

At the river bridge last week was a little stretch of rapid water in the middle of a vast chunk of ice. And there swam and played a merganser duck (saw-bill) unafraid and without concern for me and my big load of hay that rolled along.

It was amusing to watch him as he dove in that frigid water and I feared he might lose himself under the edge of the ice. But he didn't and was still in the height of ecstasy as I trudged on. His amethyst head with the little top notch feathers pointing back would lean far out as he skidded across the fast water and hopped on the ice to the other side.

Rat Story.

Paul Gebauer, who had a sale last week on the south edge of the county said that the rats ate up his pig crop last year.

He said the rats would watch the pigs until one laid down and then Mr. Rat would slip up and bite baby pig on the throat until the blood started and in that way kill the pig. All Paul's farrow was killed.

He said he spent fifty dollars for rat poison but without avail. There were literally thousands of rats on his place. They stayed all spring (until the pigs were gone perhaps) and then left, all of a sudden. In the fall they all returned (every one) and brought all the neighbors rats with them.

Tree Up a Tree.

One of the most unusual incidences I have noted lately is the tree up a tree on the Russell Kasson place west of North Loup.

As I understand it Hubert (Jones) Clement who works for Russell saw a big cottonwood tree off. It fell to the right into the croch of another tall cottonwood. The top fell through and was about the same weight as the trunk and as a result balanced and wedged the whole of that big tree some twenty feet in the air.

Apparently Jones was so disgusted at his wood cutting results he picked up his saw and walked to the house, hitched up a team and drove to town and bought some coal. At least the tree is still up a tree, the trunk parallel with the ground, and Jones is up a tree to know how to get his wood down and into the stove.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

20 Years Ago This Week.

Mr. S. W. Morrow died suddenly after hopes had been held that she would recover from a long illness.

The Gadd stock of groceries was bought by Joe Carsooki.

The Quiz started a campaign to induce the two railroads to rebuild their depots in Ord, both of which were old and long since outgrown.

Interest in a Carnegie library was reawakened in Ord. The Carnegie plan made money for a building available to any community that would provide suitable grounds and vote a five-mill levy for support of the library.

Earl Barnes, taken ill with quincy while attending university, was able to be out of bed for the first time in several weeks.

J. R. Blackburn filed suit against the American Express Company for $276, the value of a fine hog of his that died while enroute from Lincoln to Ord by express.

He alleged that the company let the hog stand in the hot sun at Fremont after he protested and later was placed in a draft, by reason of which the hog took cold and died.

A literary society was organized in Springdale and the first debate was on the topic: "Resolved, that the right of franchise should be granted to American women." For the second meeting the topic was "Resolved, that mall order houses are a detriment to American communities."

A boys' dormitory at Fremont Normal burned and two Ord boys, Marinus Sorensen and Leonard Payzant escaped with burns although Payzant's clothing was destroyed.

W. A. Anderson had a letter in the Quiz Forum recommending adoption of the city manager plan in Ord.

25 Years Ago This Week.

Frank Micin and Lillian Cunningham were married at the W. W. Loofburrow home in Ord.

Mrs. Charlie Partridge went to Fremont and submitted to an operation for bunions on both feet.

Frank Glover and his son, Robert, went skating and skated all the way to Burwell. There Robert was pretty tired so he stayed in the Lavery home until morning but Frank skated all the way home, arriving so tired and cold that it was feared he would be ill.

Alan "Curly" Clements was heralded in the newspapers as the baseball idol of Guanajuato, a city in Mexico where he was employed in a gold mine. His engagement to Miss Frances Perlano, an heiress, was also rumored and it was also claimed that he had bought the only American hostelry in the city.

The four saloon men sued by Mrs. Hattie Yarnell for selling liquor to her husband settled out of court for $1,000.

Mrs. W. J. Hather was very ill with grippe and pneumonia.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM!

One of those tongue twisting titles, like that of the eggless, milkless, butterless cake, is found below. There are many ways to make mince meat, good mince meat, too. Mrs. Barber says she has tried this recipe on some of our county supervisors. It evidently didn't hurt them a bit, as I see the county board is still meeting.

Uncooked Mince Meat Without Meat.

Cream together one and three-fourths cup brown sugar and one cup lard, then add two and one-half cups raisins, one cup currants, three-fourths cup shaved citron, one-fourth cup shaved lemon peel, one-third cup shaved orange peel, four teaspoons cinnamon, one teaspoon each of cloves, allspice nutmeg, salt, and one-half teaspoon ginger. Add one-half cup cider, one tablespoon vinegar and three pounds cooking apples, chopped. Mix well and pack into a crock or hot jars. If it bubbles, it is merely ripening. This keeps two or three weeks, and makes four large or six small pies.

Corn Pudding.

Combine one can corn, two tablespoons sugar, two eggs, two tablespoons butter, one tablespoon flour, one-half teaspoon salt. Bake in a moderate oven. For using this recipe with fresh corn, grate a dozen ears, then season and bake as above.

Corn Bread.

Combine one cup corn meal, yellow preferred, with one cup flour, two eggs, one-half teaspoon salt, one and one-third cups cream, quite thick and sour. Bake in a medium oven for thirty minutes.

Honey Chocolate Fudge.

Combine two cups sugar, two-thirds cup honey, three-fourths cup cream and one square grated chocolate. Cook slowly until a few drops will form a soft ball when tested in cold water. Remove from fire and cool until pan feels comfortably warm to hand. Beat until creamy and quite stiff. Add chopped nuts just before pouring into buttered pans. When almost cold mark in squares.

Mrs. Benjamin Nielsen, Aurora.

Cocoanut Cookies.

To one-half cup butter and lard mixed add one cup sugar and beat to a cream. Add two eggs, one cup cocoanut, one-half teaspoon soda, one teaspoon cream of tartar and one-fourth cup cream. Add enough flour to handle well. Roll thin, cut and bake in a quick oven.

Mrs. Ray Sanders, Valma, Neb.

Next week we will print carrot recipes. Please send in your best carrot recipes today if you would like them printed.

Something DIFFERENT

They say that there has never been anyone who put up such a valiant battle for life as did Alvin Blessing, who passed away Sunday at Hillcrest hospital after weeks of suffering. Through all his illness, Mr. Blessing kept his courage. There were weeks when he had only grape juice and coffee to sip, nothing to eat. Then since Christmas Mr. Blessing had not even liquid nourishment, yet still his will power kept him alive.

Time after time those about him thought him gone, or his attendants declared he would not live through the night. Yet Alvin pulled through, and his children would receive a word or a pressure of the hand next morning to show that he was not only there, but still fighting.

Such grit must teach the rest of us something; it must have been meant for an example.

Little Paula Sowl is ill in a Grand Island hospital. But her hours of convalescence will seem shorter while she reads the dozens of painstakingly printed notes that came to her in one big envelope. Every child in Paula's grade wrote her a get-well-quick letter.

Everyone seems to think this is the coldest winter and the snowiest one for several years back. It seems that way to me, but my memory is highly inaccurate and I don't trust it myself, so why should you?

Anyway I hear the birds need food. The daily papers say the ground has such a blanket of snow all over the country that birds are starving. So if you like birds put a basket of food out on your clothes line, or fix a feeding board some place where cats can't get at it.

The snow means another thing, too. It means sledging and sliding for the children, quite rare of recent years. There have been several winters recently that sleds were hardly moved out of the garage, but stayed inside all winter. It didn't pay to buy a child a sled.

So the children are having jolly times. It doesn't matter to them that the weather is zero or four or five degrees above. They coast happily, oblivious to nipped noses.

There is a man in this town who is, I hear, very blue. But he doesn't need to be, for he has accomplished a lot.

He has raised a big family, and gave them their chance to go to school. He believes in education. Several of the older children have finished high school. He is keeping several younger children in school now. His family are nice looking, pink-cheeked, bright eyed, alert. They have that well-scrubbed appearance.

This man has worked hard. He is honest, he pays his bills. The horror of his life has been that he might some day have to go "on relief". He reads, studies current events. Though not born in this country, still he loves it and its ideals, and he has done his best to be a good citizen.

I hope he reads this and recognizes himself and knows that at least one person does not think he has failed.

I don't feel so sorry for those who have given up, who have gone on relief rolls. I don't think they need sympathy nearly so much as those others who need relief perhaps worse yet, but are so blooming proud they would rather die than let anyone know it. And I think there are a lot of this last-named class, more than anyone realizes.

Loses 24 Hereford Cows.

Walter Gibbons, who lives near Comstock, suffered a serious financial loss last week when 24 head of his nice Hereford cows died from an illness believed to be corn stalk disease. Mr. Gibbons had the cows on winter range but occasionally hauled them a load of oat straw. Last week because of the snow the cattle were driven to the home ranch where they had access to oat straw. The next day several were sick and within two hours thirteen died. Eleven more died before morning. Dr. Hoobler, of Sargent, believes the cows ate corn stalks while being driven to the home ranch and says the oat straw was not responsible. Walter Gibbons is well known to many Quiz readers.

Long Live the King! Edward Makes Promises Real Spending Ahead Tribute to T. R.

King Edward the Eighth, now solemnly proclaimed king, will be remembered as the first king of England that ever flew through the air toward the throne.

He took a separate oath "to respect the Church of Scotland." There is hard fighting ahead for that.

Edward the Eighth will mount the throne for the first time at a joint session of the lords and commons, and solemnly promise to "maintain the true intent of your enactments to the best of my powers."

After his coronation the king must formally declare his adherence to the Protestant church, and his obligation "never to marry a Roman Catholic." That dates back to the Stuarts.

King Edward, who is not supposed to contemplate marriage, is the official head of the churches of England and Scotland, and "defender of the faith."

From all the world, "subjects" of the new king and emperor send greetings. Representatives of diverse power, churches of every religion, Mohammedan, Hindu, Buddhist, Chinese, Christian and Jewish, speed the dead king on his journey and welcome the new ruler.

If the soldiers get their bonus money there will be some quick spending, enough to quicken the pulse of business while it lasts.

Merchants will get more than $600,000,000 owing on past accounts, and the observer will notice many new overcoats, dresses and automobiles.

At the opening of New York's $3,500,000 memorial erected to honor the late Theodore Roosevelt, one speaker praised President Theodore Roosevelt as one who "saw the necessity for keeping both the legislatures and the courts in their proper places."

That perception showed a high split, but if some future Theodore Roosevelt should go too far in that direction it might become necessary for the legislatures and the courts to keep that President in his proper place.

Gen. Robert Lee Bullard says this country expects to escape the next war, but Europe plans to drag us in. Besides air bombing and poison gas, General Bullard expects in the next war attacks with disease germs to spread deadly epidemics in the enemy's country. Bubonic plague, scattered from airplanes, infected rats scattered plentifully, might be helpful.

Sometimes literature pays. Kipling left several millions. In America alone his official publishers have sold 3,500,000 copies of his books. At the time of his death "The Jungle Books" alone paid him ten thousand pounds a year.

When you hear foolish talk about "revolution" and getting rid of the Constitution, a remark made by Washington, as he signed the Constitution, may be recalled: "Should the states reject this excellent Constitution, the probability is that an opportunity will never again offer to cancel another in peace—the next will be drawn in blood."

Mrs. Alinda French of St. Louis, one hundred and four years old, attributes her long life to "hard work in her youth and a dutiful son in her old age." She gets along without spectacles, is "not interested" in politics. "People get over that," says she, "after they reach one hundred."

The human race gets used to everything. Once our ancestors shivered, fell flat on their faces, when lightning flashed and thunder growled. They thought some demon was after them. Now men put up lightning rods, properly grounded.

Once the comet was considered an avenging messenger aimed straight at sinful man. Today its coming and going are understood and predicted, its path marked out.

Something unpleasant is bound to start somewhere on the earth, with all the new theories, new hatreds, new armaments, new deadly weapons. It might start on the border between Russia and Japan's Manchukuo. When you read, "Russia uses force to halt Japanese," you know the explosion might come at any time.

All would regret bloodshed, but it would be historically interesting to see the ancient autocracy of the Mikado at war with the modern autocracy of Stalin. It would be a long fight, probably.

National Topics Interpreted
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington—Headline hunting—a term originated by the distinguished writer, Floyd Gibbons—has long been a senatorial pastime. It is a practice, a game, which has been used by some senators over and over again to obtain for themselves personal publicity, usually at the expense of private interests which always are smeared in senatorial investigations whether justified or not.

Lately, however, headline hunting, as a pastime, took an awful blow on the chin. And when headline hunting was the recipient of a flare-back from its own devices, it caught two well-known senate figures in the whirlpool of the reaction. Probably one of the senators was largely responsible for the terrific explosion that took place and he caught the full force and effect of his own statements as they came in reverse gear.

The incident to which I refer occurred in connection with the investigation of munitions makers and bankers by Senator Nye, Republican, of North Dakota, and the special committee of which he is chairman. This investigation has gone on for some fifteen months and has cost approximately $193,000, $68,000 of which came out of funds appropriated to feed the hungry of New York city. It has disclosed some questionable practices by some of the small dealers in munitions. But as a whole, I believe the consensus in Washington is that Mr. Nye's investigation, called a fishing expedition by many newspaper correspondents, has added little or nothing of a constructive character.

Once before in these columns I reported to you how Senator Nye was proceeding about the country making speeches in which he charged munitions makers and international bankers and even aircraft and shipbuilders with being instrumental in promoting war. Indeed, he asserted numerous times that bankers and munitions makers had forced the United States into the World War. He and investigators, employed by the committee, were constantly engaged in telling capital correspondents of terrible things which the investigators had dug up while they mulled through private files of banks and business houses. These brought plenty of headlines, but now that the munitions investigation is virtually over, one can hardly agree in making a fair appraisal of the committee's work that the charges have been substantiated.

Senator Nye is an advocate of peace and he had many opportunities, therefore, to appear in the roll of a peace leader in speeches before various organizations interested. It developed, however, that he received honoraria, gifts of money or fees, for the speeches.

But to get back to the headline hunting and how it flared back, the climax of the munitions inquiry was the investigation of the gigantic New York financial house of J. P. Morgan and company. It was while the Morgan partners were on the witness stand that the explosion came—and it did not involve Morgan in any way. The incident around which the storm blew hardest came when Senator Clark of Missouri, a son of the distinguished late Speaker Clark, read into the committee record documents showing how President Wilson had diplomatically evaded informing a senate committee of the existence of treaties among the allies by which there would be a division of the colonies of Germany and Austria-Hungary if the allies won the World War. Subsequently, documents showed that Mr. Wilson was aware of those treaties and when this was disclosed, Senator Nye charged in a committee hearing that Mr. Wilson had falsified the records.

There followed the explosion. Word reached the floor of the senate, then in session, and Senator Connolly, Texas Democrat, blew off the lid. He openly accused Senator Nye of besmirching the names of Mr. Wilson and the late Secretary of State Lansing, and charged at the same time that the North Dakota senator was a publicity seeker. Senator Clark was criticized also and the inference was cast out in the vicious senate debate that the Missouri senator was indirectly biased because his father had lost the Presidential nomination to Mr. Wilson in that famous and bitter 1912 Democratic convention. Thus Senator Clark got caught in the mess but not to such an extent as did Senator Nye because Senator Glass, the Virginia Democrat and a leader in the Wilson administration, also took up the cudgels and lambasted the youthful North Dakotan without the benefit of gloves. On top of this, Senator Pope of Idaho, and Senator George of Georgia, both stalwart Democrats, withdrew from the Nye committee proceedings. In doing so they read a statement explaining their position which, though tactful, was none the less direct in expressing their dissatisfaction.

In the meantime, the Morgan partners, headed by J. P. Morgan himself, sat in the witness chairs with nothing to do. They sat for three days with virtually no questions being put to them.

From their standpoint, I believe their climactic appearance as witnesses was quite fitting. The committee that had started out with bales and bales of records from which the investigators were going to prove how terrible was the House of Morgan had found it was giving them a rather clean bill of health. They found that the committee instead of proving that they had brought on the war, was proving for the House of Morgan that it had served the United States government; that its policies were of more value to this country than they ever had been publicly shown to be before and that in the end they had enabled the governments of Great Britain and France to maintain their strength and fight off the Central Powers until the men and money from the United States were brought into play.

Through the long years that J. P. Morgan and company has operated in New York the name has been synonymous with Wall Street. It was synonymous with Wall Street because demagogues and those politicians who profit by baiting big business as a popular sport had created that impression. Always when it was profitable for a representative or senator to conjure up a picture to win votes for himself you could find allusions to the "mighty power of Morgan."

It will be recalled how in recent years two former senators, Brookhart, Republican of Iowa, and Heflin, Democrat of Alabama, made mince meat of the "money changers of Wall Street." Always the "money changers" were headed up by the House of Morgan. I mention these two former senators because their attacks are typical. There are those in the senate today who do the same thing for the same purposes.

The committee investigation of the House of Morgan showed that the institution had profited by acting as commercial agents for the allies and that in handling about three billion dollars in purchases of wheat, cotton, coal, oil, shells and other munitions of war for the allies, a commission of 1 per cent had been paid to the House of Morgan. The inquiry also revealed the extent to which Morgan and company had taken bonds of the French and British governments and had sold them here. Evidence showed that after the United States entered the war, the United States government took over the job of financing those nations whose business and financial transactions had been handled by the House of Morgan prior to April 6, 1917.

So, the munitions investigation, instead of smearing the House of Morgan, apparently has told for the first time the details of how it functioned during a period when the United States government could do nothing, a period when the vast majority of our citizens were proved to have been sympathetic with the allies against the central powers.

At the outset I said this investigation has flared back on its sponsors. Time alone will tell how significant this explosion has been, and time alone disclose whether it will have the effect of reducing the number of senatorial excursions into the affairs of private business.

The senate has vast powers and they are susceptible to abuse. There are many unblinded students of government who hold the conviction that there have been unwarranted investigations by the senate, and that these investigations amount to persecution of private business. Obviously, some inquiries have turned up real dirt. Take the oil scandal that came out of the Harding administration, for example. The facts in that conspiracy probably never would have been disclosed except for the vigorous job done by the late Senator Walsh, Montana Democrat. There are other illustrations of the truth of the statement that some investigations are valuable. On the other hand, it seems to me that headline hunting as such, represents a game somewhat outside of the rules of fair play.

If the bitter feeling that was developed from the situation centering around President Wilson's wartime actions serves as a lesson for the future, I feel sure that there will be fewer senatorial inquiries. It shows, or ought to show, that there should be some basis established before a senate committee goes whole hog after the hides of any business men, large or small.

She was expected home last week but because of the cold weather and the fact that she has been ill and under the care of a doctor with bronchitis prevented her coming. She will stop enroute home at the Willows, Kansas City, to adopt a baby girl.

Gold and War

Gold and the Mexican war made California a part of the United States. Not long after the declaration of war on Mexico American forces in California hoisted the United States flag, and the area was formally ceded to this country on February 2, 1848, under the treaty of peace. Mexico also ceded territory that now includes Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, and part of Colorado, receiving in return a cash payment of $16,250,000.

LeMasters, Anderson, Loofbourrow, And Bahannon Organized 1st Plain Valley School

Jacob LeMasters Was the First Teacher, Writer Recalls; A Tale of Early Days.

My father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lemasters came with their family of eight children from Jay Co., Indiana to Valley Co., Neb., about 53 years ago last March. Father homesteaded and took up a timber claim where Joe Norwood now lives. He bought a team of mules 2 and 3 years old and 5 cows, built a frame house and set to work. He lived with W. A. Anderson while he built his house, Andersons living about 1 mile south of us, and proved to be good neighbors. Father and Bert and Charlie got prairie broke and the rest of the family put in corn and garden stuff on the sod. As the land was raw prairie they raised beans, corn and onions, as well as all kinds of garden stuff.

The cows had to be herded as there was no pasture fence or cash to build one with. This very pleasant job fell to myself and brother Sherman. It sounds easy but try it day after day all summer, but father and mother were good workers and taught all the family the same trait. When winter set in, there were two bushel sacks of dried corn, beans and all other vegetables that could be dried for winter and plenty of corn meal, as well as flour taken to mill early so the winter supply would be ready. When we came here the snow was always deep in winter and rainfall was plentiful.

There was no school and father, W. A. Anderson and I think W. W. Loofbourrow and S. Bohannon got their heads together and organized a district and built the Plain Valley school house. Then the next problem was a teacher. There were none available so my father, being an old experienced teacher, undertook and did the teaching. I think he taught three terms if I remember rightly. All of the children went to school for a term of 6 months then had a vacation of six months. The teacher's salary was $25 per month. Father being a cripple left the boys to do the farming while he taught school.

Things moved along nicely until off in the distance we saw a big smoke that meant the prairie was on fire, which also meant quick work or everything one had would be burned to ashes. In those days the whole country for miles was prairie and a fire with a good wind would go for miles. All hands got pails of water and gunny sacks to fight fire. The boys took teams and plows and plowed guards while the rest of us would string fire and fight as was needed. One fire I well remember came along by W. W. Loofbourrow's and he was out with his team and three girls. The fire came so fast the girls were in danger. He had to leave the team to reach his girls. The fire came in all its fury. The team became frightened and ran right into the fire and were burned so badly they had to be killed. I remember we went up to their place and the fire had passed over his building spot. There were dead chickens all around and nearly everything they had was destroyed. The house, which was frame wasn't burned. I have often wondered about that but think it was an act of Providence that saved the home. There were always great losses of hay when the fires came.

It was interesting to see the buffalo, deer, antelope, jackrabbits and coyotes all run to keep out of the reach of the fire demon.

Father and mother lived on their homestead and raised their family. Father being an educator helped in literary work and in all community welfare work. He always took his family with him and insisted we all take a part. He helped with his own and all other sons and daughters he came in contact with. He was a leader and a good one. Mother was just as useful and important but her work was along different lines always a helper in case of sickness in the early days. Doctors were not so easy to get and a good woman like mother was a valuable asset to a community. I remember a young mother asked her how she managed so many boys and girls, there being nine in the family. Her reply was "I give everyone a job and I see that they do it." This lady told me afterwards that helped her more than anything else in keeping peace in her family. Being taught usefulness was a blessing to mother's family. MRS. C. W. BEBEE

And here is a picture of the modern auction warehouse of today where the same type of leaf tobacco is sold on the open market to the highest bidder.

Outstanding

.. for mildness .. for better taste

There is no substitute for mild, ripe tobacco to make a good cigarette—and there never will be

...and that is the kind we buy for Chesterfield Cigarettes.

In the tobacco buying season Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company buyers will be found at 75 markets where the Bright type of tobacco is sold, and 46 markets where Burley and other types of tobacco are sold.

All these tobacco men are trained in the tobacco business, and are schooled in the Liggett & Myers tradition that only mild, ripe tobacco is good enough for Chesterfield Cigarettes.

Ethiopian Art

In addition, the ritual of the church requires the use of many highly artistic ornaments, such as crosses.

The processional cross carried at the Cathedral of Sts. Peter and Paul in Washington, D. C., is a gift of the emperor of Ethiopia to the bishop of Washington. Religious painting is a matter of craftsmanship handed down from father to son, and many fine examples of biblical pictures are still painted which are startlingly like those of the Byzantine period.

Plato Pre-Freudian

Plato recognized and wrote about repressed desires that submerged themselves in the subconscious of the mind and paraded through the individual's dreams to haunt him.

HOGS 10@15c LOWER

Fat Lambs Generally a Quarter Lower at $9.50@10.00; Feeders Dull $9.00@9.75; Aged Sheep Unevenly Lower.

Union Stock Yards, Omaha, Jan. 28, 1936—Receipts of cattle Monday were 10,500 head. Quality of the offering continues indifferent and while few of the best steers and yearlings moved on a steady basis, the trend of values was lower. Cows and heifers sold in much the same notches as in the latter part of last week and although stockers and feeders ruled dull, there was little change in prices one way or the other.

Hogs 10@15c Lower

Receipts of hogs Monday were 5,000 head. Opening prices for the day and week were generally 10@15c lower than Friday or about on a par with Saturday's uneven market. Bulk of the desirable light and butcher weights hogs moved at $9.50@9.75 with plainer and heavier grades and mixed hogs from $9.50 down, sows selling at $8.50@8.75.

Sheep and Lambs Lower

Receipts of sheep and lambs Monday were 14,000 head. Liberal receipts and lower eastern markets proved a bearish influence on the local trade bids and sales being largely around 25c lower than the close of last week, fat lambs moving at $9.50@10.00 and feeders at $9.00@9.75. GOFF'S HATCHERY

Hon. Alvin Blessing Claimed By Cancer; Funeral Rites Held

His constituents ably at the last regular session of the legislature. His sound advice was accepted by fellow solons in the drafting of many of the most important statutes enacted and he was regarded as one of the most influential members of the senate in spite of the fact that it was his first term.

In ill health for several years, Mr. Blessing went to Chicago last summer upon the close of the legislative session and underwent surgical treatment. From then until his death he was bedfast most of the time, being cared for at first in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Edwin Clements, and for the last few weeks of his life in Hillcrest hospital.

Just before the special session of the legislature last fall he resigned because of his ill health but kept up his interest in the work of that body until his death.

His counsel was sought and heeded by his successor in the office, H. D. Leggett, who was appointed to fill the vacancy.

Such is the brief history of Alvin Blessing, one of the most respected citizens Valley county and the state of Nebraska have ever had. He was a real man, a kindly father and a genuine citizen whose place and station will be hard to fill.

In spite of the snow and bitter weather a large crowd of friends gathered at the church Tuesday afternoon to pay their last respects to Mr. Blessing. Rev. Hansen, who preached the sermon, was assisted by Rev. S. A. Woodruff, pastor of the local church. Pallbearers were Frank Kokes, V. W. Robbins, C. F. Hughes, E. C. James, H. B. VanDecar and James Misko, all long-time friends of the deceased. A quartet composed of Madams E. O. Carlson and Mark D. Tolen, Messrs. Ed Moyer and E. H. Petty, sang two numbers, "Abide With Me" and "No Night There" and Mrs. Tolen gave "I've Done My Work" as a solo. Mrs. H. J. McBeth accompanied at the piano. The flower committee was composed of Madams Frank Fafelta, Jr., and Horace W. Travis.

LeMasters, Anderson, Loofbourrow, And Bahannon Organized 1st Plain Valley School

My father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lemasters came with their family of eight children from Jay Co., Indiana to Valley Co., Nebr., about 53 years ago last March. Father homesteaded and took up a timber claim where Joe Novosad now lives. He bought a team of mules 2 and 3 years old and 5 cows, built a frame house and set to work. He lived with W. A. Anderson while he built his house, Andersons living about 1 mile south of us, and proved to be good neighbors. Father and Bert and Charlie got prairie broke and the rest of the family put in corn and garden stuff on the sod. As the land was raw prairie they raised beans, corn and onions, as well as all kinds of garden sassa.

to reach his girls. The fire came in all its fury. The team became frightened and ran right into the fire and were burned so badly they had to be killed. I remember we went up to their place and the fire had passed over his building spot. There were dead chickens all around and nearly everything they had was destroyed. The house, which was frame wasn't burned. I have often wondered about that but think it was an act of Providence that saved the home. There were always great losses of hay when the fires came.

It was interesting to see the buffalo, deer, antelope, jackrabbits and coyotes all run to keep out of the reach of the fire demon.

Father and mother lived on their homestead and raised their family. Father being an educator helped in literary work and in all community welfare work. He always took his family with him and insisted we all take a part. He helped with his own and all other sons and daughters he came in contact with.

He was a leader and a good one. Mother was just as useful and important but her work was along different lines always a helper in case of sickness in the early days. Doctors were not so easy to get and a good woman like mother was a valuable asset to a community. I remember a young mother asked her how she managed so many boys and girls, there being nine in the family. Her reply was "I give everyone a job and I see that they do it." This lady told me afterwards that helped her more than anything else in keeping peace in her family. Being taught usefulness was a blessing to mother's family. MRS. C. W. BEEBE

Ethiopian art is confined almost entirely to religious art. Most of the churches, which are generally circular in form, are adorned with murals of saints and biblical scenes. In addition, the ritual of the church requires the use of many highly artistic ornaments, such as crosses. The processional cross carried at the Cathedral of Sts. Peter and Paul in Washington, D. C., is a gift of the emperor of Ethiopia to the bishop of Washington. Religious painting is a matter of craftsmanship handed down from father to son, and many fine examples of biblical pictures are still painted which are startlingly like those of the Byzantine period.

Plato Pre-Frendian

Plato recognized and wrote about repressed desires that submerged themselves in the subsurface of the mind and paraded through the individual's dreams to haunt him.
