Mother 'Kidnapped' 5 Children, Father Finds Them In Ord

Earl Roach Recovers Loved Ones Monday; Had Been Living at Olean.

A long search which started August 31, 1936 ended Monday morning when Earl Roach, of Mundelein, Ill., located his five "kidnapped" children with their mother, his divorced wife, on a farm near Olean.

When Mr. and Mrs. Roach were divorced in Illinois their five children were, by court order, given into the custody of Mr. Roach who was to have full jurisdiction over them.

While Roach was away from home on August 31 his divorced wife, who had married a man named Layton Severance, went to the Roach home and took the children, thereby making herself liable to a kidnapping charge under Illinois law. Kidnaping in that state is punishable by life imprisonment.

Soon afterward Mr. and Mrs. Severance, with the five children, came to Valley county and have been living in a tenant house on the W. O. Zanger farm near Olean. They have one child of their own, born since they came to Valley county.

Mr. Roach had been searching for his children ever since their disappearance on the last day of August. Hearing that the Severance family had gone to Michigan he drove there and searched for them in several communities, and also followed other false leads before he learned they were living near Ord.

Sunday he came here, with credentials from Illinois authorities, and secured the assistance of Sheriff George S. Round and County Attorney Alvin B. Lee in recovering his children.

Accompanied by Sheriff Round, he drove to the Severance home Monday morning and the children's mother finally agreed to give them up, Mr. Roach deciding to let the kidnapping charge drop as the thing he was most anxious about was to get the children back.

Had Mrs. Severance refused to give the children up to their father she would have been arrested and held in jail here for the Illinois authorities, the sheriff says. No doubt she would then have been returned to Illinois to face kidnapping charges. Giving up the children was an easy way out for Mr. and Mrs. Severance.

Mr. Roach is said to be a substantial farmer at Mundelein, Ill., while the Severances are impoverished and unable to give proper care to the children. Various relief agencies including the Red Cross have been assisting them since they came here, it is claimed.

The children are Douglas, 12, Donald, 10, Harold, 9, Dennis, 5, and Dorothy, 2. They left with their father for Illinois Monday afternoon.

Denver Man Praises Ord Christmas Spirit

J. F. Kamm of Denver, who was in Ord for a few days last week visiting his sister, Mrs. Catherine Jameson, took the trouble to call at the Quiz office and ask us to put him on record as saying that in all his experience he never saw a finer display of Christmas decorations than he found in Ord. A few years ago he happened to pass through Lamora, Colo., during the Christmas season, and found that each business place had a Christmas tree out in front, and that while the business places varied in size, the Christmas trees were all the same.

He inquired the cause and was told that the commercial club had enough influence that they told each man what to do and they all did what they were told. He decided that there must be some power behind the movement here, and rightly credited it to the Ord Chamber of Commerce. He was loud in his praise of the Santa Claus idea, and said that the man who designed it must be a real artist. So Syl Furtak gets some credit outside of Ord for his work.

Mr. Kamm lived at Nebraska City 45 years ago, and had not been back since 1924. He had not seen his sister here for 45 years. He is in the sales department of a Denver bedding and mattress company, and had to hurry home to get back on the road.

Two Sales Next Week.

Two public sales are being advertised in the Quiz for next week, the Wm. Vasicek sale coming Monday, Jan. 11 and the Ed. Jefferies sale Tuesday, Jan. 12. Both have large offerings, the Vasicek ad listing 14 horses, 26 cattle and listing machinery and the Jefferies ad 6 horses, 37 cattle, a great line of machinery and miscellaneous household goods, hay and grain. Next week Mrs. Marion Cushing will advertise a sale to be held Wednesday, Jan. 20.

Chris Beiers New John Deere Dealer

Chris Beiers, who has been in the implement business in his present location on South 16 St. for the past five years, during which time he has built up a good business and a reputation for promptness and dependability second to none, now announces that he is taking over the John Deere agency. In the past Chris has been handling the Minneapolis-Moline line, and has always kept on hand a very complete line of repairs. This is one of the important adjuncts to the implement game, as when a man needs repairs, he usually needs them at once.

It is Mr. Beiers plan to continue this service in his old line, and also to keep on hand a full line of John Deere repairs at all times. That this service is appreciated is shown by the constantly increasing business he has been handling. With business looking up along other lines, it looks as though the implement game should be in line for a boost in 1937.

Mr. Beiers has secured the picture, "John Deere Centennial Day," by special arrangement with the John Deere company, and this will be shown to the public on Wednesday, January 13. The picture for the most part is a true story of life in the infancy of the implement business. It shows the making of the first steel plow after pioneers had found that the cast plows would not scour in the heavy soil of the midwest. Many of the actors in the picture are headliners in Hollywood, and the picture has great historic value.

Quiz To Sponsor Picture Contests

Will Pay $1 Weekly For the Best Kodak Shot and Cartoon Submitted.

To secure interesting feature material for publication and also to furnish an incentive toward the development of amateur talent in Valley county, The Ord Quiz this week announces two contests, each of which will be in effect eight weeks, with a prize of $1.00 per week to the winner of each contest.

For the best kodak picture submitted and accepted each week, The Quiz will pay $1.00. Each picture submitted must have the name and address of the person submitting it plainly written in ink on the back. Each picture also must be accompanied by a letter describing the picture.

Photo-engravings will be made of all winning pictures and they will be printed in the Quiz, with credit given to the amateur photographers taking them. Any pictures submitted, whether they win prizes or not, will be the property of the Quiz, to print or not as the editor decides. Any used but not given a cash prize will be given 1st, 2nd or 3rd honorable mention.

Choice of subjects is entirely up to the photographer but it is suggested that winter or snow scenes, pictures of wild animals or birds, pictures of well known people in informal poses, or unusual pictures of any kind are most likely to win prizes.

The contest is open to anybody in Valley county except professional photographers and employees of the Quiz, who are barred from competing. In developing snapshots, light, glossy prints should be made, as these lend themselves most perfectly to good photo-engraving.

In case no pictures deemed worthy of publication are submitted in any week, the Quiz reserves the right to reject all pictures and withhold payment of a prize.

To encourage people with artistic ability along cartooning lines, the Quiz also will pay $1.00 per week for the best cartoon accepted and printed. Cartoons should be drawn on white paper about 9x12 in size, using black India ink. This contest is announced in the hope that a future McManus or Williams may be uncovered. It is limited to Valley county residents only.

Sherman Co. Added To Ord NRS District

Addition of Sherman county to the National Reemployment Service district whose affairs are administered from the Ord office is announced by Richard H. Mills, district manager. Counties now included in the district are Greeley, Loup, Wheeler, Valley and Sherman.

Five people, including Mills, work in the office here. Others are Miss Alice Mikkelsen, of Ord, Claris Bellingier, of Arcadia, Dallas Berney, of Bartlett, and Miss Helen Hilton, of Broken Bow.

Ord people needing permanent or temporary help including snow shoveling, are invited to telephone the Reemployment Service office in the court house. The office has on its rolls men and women fitted for almost every kind of work, Manager Mills says.

Kasson Baby 1st In Valley County, Wins Many Prizes

Fine Boy Born at Hillcrest Saturday First in 1937; Third in Family.

James Alton, 8 pound son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kasson of Ord, is Valley county's first 1937 baby, or at least the first one reported in accordance with rules prescribed by Ord merchants, and he will receive the twelve gifts offered in last week's Quiz by twelve Ord business firms.

This fine boy was born at 1:25 p. m. on Saturday, January 2, and his birth was reported to the Quiz just nine minutes later. Dr. C. W. Weekes was the attending physician.

James Alton is the third boy in the Charles Kasson family, his older brothers being Charles, 5, and Henry, 4, better known as "Chucky" and "Hanky". Both are enthusiastic about their new brother and already are speaking of him as "Jimmie".

Mrs. Kasson did not go to Hillcrest until Saturday morning and then, because of the drifted condition of the roads, it was feared that the stork might arrive before she reached the hospital. Her brother-in-law, Lyle McBeth, started to take her to Hillcrest in his car but the car became stalled. A wrecker was called but it was stalled also. A second wrecker finally pulled the McBeth car up the hill to the hospital and the stork obligingly waited until early afternoon before he arrived with James Alton.

Stores offering gifts to Valley county's first 1937 baby included The Brown-McDonald store, Chase's Toggery, Auble Bros., Springer's, Ed Beranek, Stoltz Variety, Sorensen Drug, Frazier's, L. V. Kokes, The Capron Agency, Frank Piskorski and Russell's Pharmacy.

Gifts included a complete layette, a wool shawl baby powder, soap, oil, a savings account starter, hosiery, a ring, hot water bottle, baby record book, bath set, high chair, ice cream, fresh frozen strawberries and other gifts.

Frank Piskorski, the Phillips 66 dealer, gave to parents of the first baby two gallons of Fairmont ice cream and six pints of strawberries, and offered to double it in case the first arrivals were twins. He also is giving ice cream and strawberries to the attending physician, Dr. Weekes.

The Quiz will issue a letter of credentials to Mr. and Mrs. Kasson, enabling them to claim the gifts for James Alton whenever they desire.

Greetings to Valley county's first 1937 baby.

Jesse Sevenker Funeral Monday

Jesse D. Sevenker was born March 12, 1906, fourteen miles northeast of Ord, and passed away at Ord, Dec. 31, 1936 at 1:15 p. m., being 30 years, 9 months and 19 days of age at the time of his death. He grew to manhood in Noble township, and received his education in the school there, in Dist. 71. He was married April 10, 1923 at Ord, to Miss Hattie Lancia. The past few years he had been farming just across the line in Garfield county, north of Ord, until the condition of his health compelled him to retire.

Surviving are his wife, his mother, Mrs. Frank Sevenker, two brothers Frank Jr., and Edward, and two sisters, Mrs. Anton Radil and Elsie Sevenker. Funeral services were held from Sowl's chapel, Jan. 4, at 10 o'clock a. m. Rev. B. A. Filipp had charge of the services. The pall bearers were Edward Adamek, Alfred Babka, Bill Adamek, Jr., Ernest Risan, Dave Guggenmos and Paul DeLashmutt. The music was furnished by a quartet composed of Mrs. J. P. Barta, Mrs. Anthony Koupal, Dr. F. L. Blessing and John R. Haskell. Burial was made in the Ord cemetery.

In the spring of 1936 he was forced to seek medical attention in Omaha, returning home three weeks later. Returning to Omaha again last September, he remained there until Nov. 10, 1936. Two weeks before his death he was again taken to Omaha, but was brought back home again, as the doctors decided that nothing more could be done for him. He was a man of sterling character, loved and respected by all who had the honor to know him.

Little Glenn Allen Pray, 3 years old, who had the pneumonia about two weeks ago and was well on the road to recovery, has taken a backset, and had to go back to bed for a while. His mother probably caught the same trouble, and is now in bed with a severe cold. At this time they are both improving.

Unicameral Names Mrs. Ruth Cushing Its Postmistress

Nebraska's new unicameral legislature, holding its first meeting at noon Tuesday, turned to an Ord woman, Mrs. Ruth O. Cushing, for its official postmistress. Wife of the late Martin J. Cushing, who was republican floor leader in the lower house of the old legislature, Mrs. Cushing now is living in Lincoln. She assumed her new duties at once.

Lieutenant Governor Jurgensen will be presiding officer of the unicameral, Charles Warner of Waverly was chosen speaker, Hugo Srb of Dodge creek, F. A. Mueller of Kearney assistant clerk, W. J. "Bill" Lundy of Sargent sergeant-at-arms, George Santo of Lincoln doorkeeper and Rev. W. B. Zimmerman of St. Paul chaplain. Senator George W. Norris, "father" of the unicameral system, attended the first session and gave a short address.

First bill introduced was a proposal by W. F. Haycock, of Callaway, to speed collection of delinquent taxes by cancelling interest and penalties.

Louie Fuss Funeral Was Held Monday

Louie Fuss, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Fuss of Grand Island, was born Nov. 16, 1893, and passed away at the Weekes hospital in Ord, Dec. 30, 1936, being 43 years, 1 month and 14 days of age at the time of his death. He was born in York county but came to Valley county at an early age with the family, and spent the greater part of his life here. He was married April 18, 1917 to Rose Bredthauer and is survived by three children, Wilbur, Mildred and Dean, another child, Laverne died a few years ago.

Other relatives are his brothers, Will, Walter and Martin, and three sisters, Mrs. A. Hallwee, Mrs. Walter Roth and Mrs. Walter Blum of York, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Fuss, of Grand Island, and many other relatives and friends. The funeral services were held from the Praelzer Funeral Parlors Monday afternoon, with his pastor, Rev. Wm. Bahr, having the services in charge. Interment was made in the Scotch cemetery.

The pall bearers were his three brothers, Will, Walter and Martin, and his three brothers-in-law, Arnold, Herbert and Oscar Bredthauer. Mr. and Mrs. James Bremer and Ava Bremer had the flowers. Those in attendance from a distance included Mr. and Mrs. R. Fuss, Mr. Ted Heyden, Mr. and Mrs. Blum and Alta Blum, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fuss, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Blum, Arthur Fuss and Arnold Fuss, all of York, Nebr.

Louie Fuss spent all his life in this county in Mira Valley, where he attended school for a time and after his marriage went on a farm where he managed his work well, and was known and loved by all who came to know him. A good conscientious man is gone, and he will long be missed by his associates.

Notice to Correspondents.

During the 1937 the Quiz wishes to publish more rural community news than ever before and all of the rural reporters are asked to cooperate. Many of you have become inactive and we ask you, if you no longer care to write the news of your communities, to inform us so we may secure others in your places. We also are anxious to add new correspondents in communities not now represented. A newsy department from every section of Valley county every week is our desire. May we have your cooperation?

Kosmicki's Beer License Revoked

Monday at Lincoln the beer license of Albert Kosmicki of Ord was revoked by order of the state liquor commission after hearing testimony from the applicant. He had appealed from a revocation ordered by the city council after Kosmicki had pleaded guilty to selling to minors.

At the state hearing City Attorney Ralph Norman and Mayor Gould Flagg appeared for the city of Ord, and Olaf Olsson for Kosmicki, who also appeared in his own behalf. Ord authorities are issuing a warning that others will also be prosecuted if the law regulating the sale of beer is not more strictly adhered to.

Postmaster Hill reports that the new 1c army and 1c navy stamps are now available, as they arrived Monday. They were released on Dec. 15 at Washington, and arrived here nineteen days after release. Doubtless they have been on sale at other places before this, depending upon when the requisition went in. A requisition is in for the 2c stamps, which should arrive now at almost any time.

Bert Hardenbrook Reelected Head of No. Loup District

Hudson, Barta, Doran Also Chosen Again; Will Let More Contracts Soon.

Meeting yesterday at the office of their president, Bert M. Hardenbrook directors of the North Loup power and irrigation district reelected Mr. Hardenbrook as president for the coming year. Other officers reelected were Roy Hudson, vice-president, Jos. P. Barta, secretary, and Harry Doran, treasurer.

President Hardenbrook has been in ill health several months and confined to bed the past ten days. His condition yesterday was somewhat improved, though he was unable to attend the meeting.

Because of sub-zero weather and drifted roads, the directors met in the afternoon instead of in the evening.

N. T. Veatch, jr., head of the firm of Black & Veatch, engineers on the project, met with the board and announced that his firm has plans ready for cross drainage structures and that work on them can be started at once. It was Veatch's first visit to Ord since the project was approved late last summer. A. V. Ferry is project engineer for the Black & Veatch firm.

Engineer-Manager Dummire says advertising for bids on cross drainage structures will be started next week, with the contract letting scheduled for the last of January or the fore part of February. Concrete tiling necessary for cross drains will be manufactured in Ord, thereby providing considerable labor. Estimated cost is about $50,000.

District officials are expecting daily to receive permission from the Public Works Administration to issue revenue bonds, thus allowing full construction to get underway. Construction started so far has been done with grant money only.

The PWA has simplified the procedure necessary for issuance of revenue bonds by the North Loup district by doing away with mortgage indentures and trustee's charges on previous projects in this state. Several thousand dollars and considerable time will be saved by slashing red tape in this manner, officers of the district claim.

Aside from election of officers, only routine business was transacted by directors at their annual meeting yesterday.

Uni Experts Will Teach Irrigation

An irrigation meeting will be held at the American Legion hall, in Ord on Thursday, Jan. 14, beginning at 1:30 p. m. The meeting is sponsored by the Valley County Farm Bureau in the belief that farmers of this county should begin now to prepare for irrigation in 1938.

The meeting will be addressed by Ivan D. Wood, and P. H. Stewart of the College of Agriculture, Stewart, who is extension agronomist at the college, will discuss cropping conditions under irrigation, soil fertility and special crops. Wood, an agricultural engineer, will discuss land preparation, leveling and other engineering problems which the farmer will face when water becomes available.

Farmers whose land will come under either the North or Middle Loup irrigation projects should attend this meeting, because irrigation will bring a great change in farming methods in river valleys, and the man who will profit most from the water is the one who begins to plan and prepare for irrigation now. It is not expected that farmers will learn all about irrigation at this meeting, but they will be able to get some pointers which will be valuable.

Mrs. Harvey Parks fell in her home and broke her left elbow New Year's day. She has the arm in a brace and is carrying it in a sling, and no permanent damage is anticipated.

Roads Blocked When Mrs. Bert Rich Stricken, Men Shovel to Get Doctor

Davis Creek—(Special)—Roads here were blocked deeply with snow Sunday when word went out over the telephone line that Mrs. Bert Rich was seriously ill and needed the services of a doctor. At once men all along the line to North Loup went out with shovels and worked all day, going without their dinner, to open the road so Dr. W. J. Hemphill could reach the Rich home.

When Dr. Hemphill got through about 5:30 he found Mrs. Rich in a serious condition with surgical

Kelly Ambrose Is Caught In Own Trap

J. W. Ambrose, as everybody knows, is in the fuel oil business, and in this capacity he installed an oil tank for Jerry Patska last fall. The pipe leading into the tank was set just inside the garage door, so that the oil truck could back up to the door to unload into the tank. A few days ago Kelly drove down to Patska's with a load of oil. Seeing that the garage was open and empty, he drove into the garage to unload. When the load was all off and he started to back out he found that the springs had raised the cab so that he could not get out. After trying several experiments without success, he finally had to let all the air out of the truck tires. Even then the top of the cab scraped the doorway.

Doyle Protests Seating of Frost

John F. Doyle, of Greeley, who was defeated by Tracy T. Frost of St. Paul for 29th district unicameral representative, Tuesday filed a protest with the secretary of state against Frost being seated. At the time Frost filed, all during the campaign and at the time he was elected Frost was serving as assistance director in Howard county, Doyle charged. Nebraska law prohibits holding both federal and state offices at the same time. The secretary of state transmitted Doyle's protest to the legislature but no action has been taken as yet. Should Frost be ruled ineligible it will have the effect of making Doyle this district's representative.

Joseph Sternecker, of St. Paul, is spending this week in the Ord home of his brother, Charles. Their mother, a patient in the Ord hospital is critically ill with pneumonia and not expected to recover. Visitors in the Sternecker home on New Year's day were Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Rabourn, of Des Moines, and Mrs. Rabourn's father, Chris Leth, of St. Paul.

Dope Addicts Had Prison Records

It is expected that the arrest of more than a week ago by Sheriff Round of two dope addicts who had been doing some shop lifting in North Loup and Burwell may lead to important consequences. When they had paid up for the goods they had taken in North Loup the sheriff ordered them out of town. They left on highway No. 11. Round called Sheriff Johnson of Burwell, who notified the authorities at Sargent when they went on west instead of driving into Burwell. They were held at Sargent and two suits of clothing found in their possession which they had not had when searched in Ord.

They claimed one of the suits had been taken from the Golden Rule store in Ord, but apparently this was not true. They were taken over to Broken Bow and their finger prints sent to Lincoln for comparison. It was found that one of them had served two terms in state penitentiaries and one in federal prison. The other, whose name was Wilson, had a Nebraska pen term on his record. After they were held in Broken Bow for a time they were taken over to North Platte, where they are being investigated further. Very important developments are expected.

Harlan Tully Dies; Burial At Elyria

Mrs. Lewis C. Brown, of 415 N. 28 St., Omaha, notified Orville Sowl that her brother, Harlan Tully, had passed away at his home at Didsbury, Alberta, Canada, and that the body was being shipped to Ord for burial in the Elyria cemetery. In all probability the funeral services will be held from Sowl's chapel Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. Mr. Tully was member of the Tully family which lived a generation ago on Turtle creek near Elyria. Other members of the family are his brothers John, Frank and Ed, and his sisters, Edith, Cecil, Bashie and Bernice.

Roads Blocked When Mrs. Bert Rich Stricken, Men Shovel to Get Doctor

attention necessary. She was taken to Hillcrest hospital in Ord and an operation performed at once but her case was hopeless from the start and she passed away at 7:00 Tuesday evening. Mrs. Rich was 46 years old and the mother of two children, Donald of Ravenna, and Mrs. Edwin Honeycutt, of Wyoming. Arrangements for the funeral await word from Mrs. Honeycutt but the services probably will be held at the Methodist church in North Loup Friday afternoon.

Jan. 1st Blizzard Paralyzes Traffic; 4 Below Coldest

8 1/2 Inch Snow Whipped Into Drifts by Strong Wind; Roads Opened Sunday.

Six inches of snow fell in Ord on January 1 and, whipped into drifts by a 30-mile-per-hour wind from the northwest, soon blocked the C. B. & Q. tracks, all and township roads and all highways, leaving the Union Pacific tracks, which remained open, Ord's only link with the outside world until Sunday. Other Valley county communities fared similarly.

In suddenness and intensity, though not in duration, the storm Friday and Saturday was the worst this section of Nebraska has seen in many years. All northeast and central portions of the state suffered, more snow falling in some sections than fell in Valley county.

There already was a 2 1/2 inch blanket of light, fluffy snow on the ground when Friday's storm began and as the wind throughout the day drifted. Not until midday did the blizzard rattle but when Saturday soon realized that the deep drifts were a menacing job.

Streets of Ord were almost without exception, and few automobiles were in operation. Drifts four and five deep along the west side of square and at main corners of the business men as they struggled their stores Saturday. Undried wind down late that a no attempt was made, pathways.

Sunday the city put four and a big gang of men to hauling snow from the square piling it in the court house yard, as was done last winter, city, county and state maintainers went to work opening main streets and highways.

No. 11 highway to Burwell remained open but south of it was closed until 4:00 p. m. to Arcadia was opened late Sunday afternoon but most county roads were blocked until Monday. Shoveling gangs made up of WPA laborers and farmers worked throughout Sunday and Monday on main roads and still are working to open less needed arteries of travel.

"It's the worst highway condition we ever had here," commented R. N. McAllister, state maintenance chief here. Drifts were far worse than any time last winter, he says, and the north and south roads were almost as badly drifted as east-west roads.

The Union Pacific train was only two hours late Saturday morning and after that arrived on schedule but the Burlington suspended its trains Saturday. A Burlington snowplow pushed by two steam engines opened that branch line from Palmer to Burwell Sunday and a Burlington train got through about noon.

P. C. T. Stage Line buses did not travel Saturday but Sunday after No. 11 was opened a bus went through to Grand Island taking a big load of Ord students on their way back to universities and colleges after the holiday recess. Many Ord teachers returned the bus that evening.

Mail service on Ord rural routes was suspended Saturday, carrier being unable to get beyond the city limits, but Monday the carriers reached most patrons of the Ord routes and Tuesday service was almost back to normal, although carriers frequently had to drive long distances around to reach boxes still isolated by drifted cross-roads.

During the storm the temperature hovered just above the zero mark, reports Horace Travis, but Sunday morning it dropped to four degrees below zero.

Another cold wave hit Ord Tuesday, with a strong wind springing up in the night, and yesterday the temperature was 5 below zero. It was the coldest day so far this winter, staying below zero all day.

Only a light snow fell Tuesday night but at noon yesterday the Ord-North Loup highway was blocked with drifts near Olean and by mid-afternoon the Ord-Arcadia highway was blocked.

No. 11 near Olean was opened about 6:00 last night by a state snowplow, aided by a caterpillar tractor with plow attached which first opened the Ord-Arcadia road, then went down No. 11 highway to meet the snowplow, which was laboring through deeper drifts.

It was feared by Mr. McAllister last night that these highways might be blocked again, as the wind continued to blow.

John Sebesta has been quite ill for several days. He is able to be about the house, but is not able to get out doors at all.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

W. E. (Billy) Nesselhaus, famous Omaha sportsman, died late Saturday at a Rochester, Minnesota hospital. He was 70 years old and had lived in Omaha for fifty years. He was a partner of the Tom Dennison. Both were gamblers. Mr. Nesselhaus was wealthy, having his fortune invested in stocks and bonds and in Omaha real estate. Trying to speak as kindly as possible of him, Omaha newspapers speak of him as a sportsman. He evidently went on the theory that the world owed him a living and that it didn't matter how he got it. It is said of him that he was used to sitting in games where there was no limit and that he usually won. That is not possible in a game that is a real game of chance. But Mr. Nesselhaus had a lot of good qualities, also. It is said of him that he was always looking for a chance to help some down-outer, which, in the final analysis, he weighed against his own common acceptance of the world. He had no regard for money but with a delicacy than himself his money by gambled that were perfect, a most likeable man perfectly. It is said of him that the world will be improved by his going, no doubt.

I am wondering how many rest there are on the highway through Ord east and west. The owners would cooperate in a movement to buy and plant a Christmas tree in the yard next December. A nice and the necessary string of lights would probably cost $150. A uniform size of tree should be used. Possibly the city would furnish a man to make the necessary connections if all would get ready at the same time. This should be done at a given time, and that time could be made a real event for the city. It is easy to visualize the beauty, if one could stand at the corner of the highway at the laundry corner and look either way, south or west and see a row of lighted Christmas trees on each side of the street. Hundreds of people, driving through, would carry the story of Ord's progress to the far corners of the state and much further. Is the idea worth thinking any more about? Will the Chamber of Commerce get organized and push the idea?

While I was reading Ase Woods' column the other day in his fine Gering Courier, I got to thinking how lucky me and Ase are in having each a son capable and willing to grab hold and take the brunt of running the business, just when the load was getting to be a little more than we could muck up any longer. It is sure a grand and glorious feeling to be able to stay off the job for days or weeks at a time if we feel like it; to stay in bed in the morning if we want to and know that the young man will be right on the job, even if we must admit that just as like as not, if we should suddenly ruffle off, the boys would continue the business with greater success than is possible with us doddering around on the job a part of the time. But Ase and I are not the only lucky publishers in the state. There is Dan Webster, got himself appointed postmaster at St. Paul and all he has to do is sit in the office and look wise and draw a big salary and his son runs the Phonograph and is doing a fine job of it. And Charley Beushausen of Loup City pulled the same stunt and the paper has been getting better ever since. And twenty years ago Ol' Gus Buechler fired a couple of reporters who celebrated too much when they should have been writing news, and gave their jobs to his son and during late years I always find Boola working and never have seen Gus do a tap since. And down at Wahoo Old Man Ludl still claims to be the whole cheese but those in the know say he shows up at the office some days and lights a good cigar, puts his feet on the desk and reads while his sons do the work. And there are a lot more of us fortunate publishers in Nebraska who are lucky in having a son who has taken over most of the hard work and left us to claim the honor of getting out a good newspaper, but I can't remember all of them now.

The cook calendars are all printed, assembled and partly bound; the wrappers are all addressed, and just as fast as we can get them stapled and bound they will be mailed out. Some of them will be mailed out the last of this week. If you don't get yours and if you are paid up, you may rest assured that you will get one very soon now.

Asa Anderson had a birthday this week and was the recipient of a baby dog as a birthday gift. His storm and strife mildly objected upon the ground that their home was small and the dog might become a nuisance. She was told that the previous owner of the said dog had cuffed it so much for its misdeeds that it now went over frequently and sat on the mop and it is said to be a very well behaved dog.

Twenty people allowed me to send in their daily paper renewals during December. I make a small commission on this business and it saves you postage and stationery. I will appreciate having your business in the daily paper line. If anything is wrong I am right here to straighten it out. Not so if you give it to a stranger. Do I get the business

There are something like six hundred Quiz subscriptions expiring in January. You will get a notice in a day or two now. I will appreciate a renewal promptly.

I have heard stories of old fire wagon horses, in the days before fire trucks, that would always snort and try to go to the fire when the siren sounded, and John Ward is something like that. New Year's eve he was sleeping soundly in his nice, warm bed when the city whistle sounded the new year in. Seconds later he was rushing up the street with scant clothing but clasping his notebook and pencil and yelling, "Here goes for the first 1937 story," but never thinking, until Spot Johnson, just going home, stopped him and explained that there was no fire.

Something Different

It does not seem possible that Mr. Hager has gone away. Always so quiet, with a pleasant word for each one he met, Mr. Hager went about his business without a bit of fuss or blather. Hardly anyone knew he was ill, seeing him casually. He slipped away to the hospital, then came the shocking news of his death.

And since he is gone I have heard so many kind things about him, so many small stories of his early career and how hard he worked to get a start. His life story would have inspired Horatio Alger to write another of his famous books.

Raised a gentleman, Mr. Hager did not come of a poor family. But he came from Pennsylvania out to this new country to establish himself, and was determined not to ask any help from his people. But the independent young Mr. Hager, it was said, vowed he wouldn't ask his father for financial aid until he had made $10,000. By that time of course, he didn't need his father's assistance.

Many a farming friend of Mr. Hager tells of receiving a visit from him at four or five o'clock in the morning, miles away from Ord. To the end of his days Mr. Hager believed in rising early, getting a lot of work done while the other fellow slept. So he would climb out of bed at three or four o'clock, go out to sell his stock food, insurance or whatever he happened to have to sell.

In those early days, saving pennies desperately in order to get a start, Mr. Hager, I have heard it told, would only buy for cash. So if he only had money for two oranges and a quarter pound of tea, that is what he would buy, and no more. Most of us now days aren't bothered that way. We charge blissfully on.

And another nice thing I heard said by a friend of the Hager family was: "And no one ever knew Mr. Hager to raise his voice."

The children who got skis for Christmas are happy, with all the snow, all the hills. And the ice pleases those who drew skates when Santa stopped.

Everyone has enjoyed the lighted picture atop the court house, and the decorations around the square. Next year I hope the town will look still more attractive, with many residences also ornamented with Christmas trimmings. Maybe there will be a contest again, to give home decoration some inspiration.

There is a buzz of amazed conversation about the government shipping carloads of grapefruit into the state to give to those on relief. And much expressed disgust.

As one prominent grocer who has been in business here for many years remarked: "I don't want to see anyone go hungry, but there is considerable difference between feeding the poor plenty of rice and beans and bread and butter to keep them comfortable, and buying them grapefruit. Why, it hasn't been but a few years since grapefruit were a dining car luxury!"

And then there's the little tot who brightly observed to her assembled relatives at the Christmas tree: "But mother, if the dolly is from you and the buggy from daddy, and . . . (so forth and so forth) . . . what did Santa Claus bring me?"

CARE OF COUNTY BOARD

By George Gowen

Heavy Stuff.
Rolla Babcock tells me that a few days ago while pitching alfalfa hay from a stack he discovered a little pile of alfalfa seed. It was such a nice little pile that he walked to the house and found a container and gathered up all he could of it. There was a good quart and a half.

More than that the seed was hulled and as clean and sweet as any seed he ever saw. He has no way to account for it unless a rodent of some kind cached it there, saving it against a cold spell in the winter. It was interesting to say the least.

It was quite interesting to me the reasons given why some people trade cars. One of my friends last summer traded for a new one. He said he really shouldn't have traded—that his old one ran good yet but the trouble with it was that the gas tank should be where the oil pan was and the oil pan where the gas tank was. In other words the capacity of each one should be reversed.

And then another of my friends traded for a new car and I was surprised for his old one was not old at all. Upon inquiry I found the alleged reason. His wife had been pestering him to wash the car. He dreaded washing his car about the most of any job. One day he came into the house and said, "Mother, I've traded for a new car." He hesitated, searching perhaps for an excuse and then he added, "Now I won't have to wash the old one anyway."

The story is told by one of our men of the village. He was traveling with his wife and daughter and while passing through a city the daughter made the remark that she would like to have a new dress before she arrived at her destination.

They were in a hurry, but at that our hero became magnanimous and said to his daughter, "All right, I'll stop a few minutes and you run into a store and buy a new dress. I'll pay for it but you must hurry. I can't wait only a half an hour."

The story goes there was a little argument. The daughter insisted she couldn't possibly buy a new dress in so short a time, she needed a half a day at least, and the father said, buy it in thirty minutes or not at all. It takes no difficult guessing, so the father explained afterwards, whether the girl got the dress or not. But he added, "I'd like to have someone offer to buy me a new suit if I'd pick it out in thirty minutes."

A recent ad in a local paper gave the rules for establishing good credit. It was as follows: "Borrow $10 and pay it back. Then $50 and pay it back. Then $100 and pay it back." By that time your credit is established and, I presume) you can borrow any amount.

That is fine advice but the advertisement failed to inform us of the most important part. That is, what to say to the banker to get him to loan you the first ten.

Two people last week dropped $20 on the streets of North Loup, namely Vesta Thorngate and Leighton Severance. Vesta's money was found by Cecil Barrett and was returned, thanks to his honesty.

It seems quite tragic of Leighton, for he was very hard up, the wolf nearly in the door, and this was money earned, it was told, while working on relief. His money was dropped at a sale, so the story goes, and was in several bills.

It is quite a temptation to keep money or articles found that cannot be identified and if we do find such an article and discover the true owner it is a test of our honesty whether we give it up or not. There are very few of us who would not return a $20 coat were it mislaid, but it is just a little different with a $20 bill that cannot be identified.

Pop Corn Days, September 17 and 18, there was written on Bartz store building with chalk a sign advertising the bill of fare of the S. D. B. dining hall. As yet there has not been moisture enough to wash that sign off. Only a few days ago a stranger asked where they were serving the chicken dinner for a quarter. Many of us are wondering how much longer that sign will be readable from across the street, wondering if the society can use the same sign next year.

And here is a point for discussion in Sunday school classes, missionary societies and league meetings. A man said to me the other day, "The Bible says you should love your neighbor as yourself. Well, sometimes I hate myself, so I guess it is all right to hate at least one of my neighbors."

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM

The cook's job is one that never finishes, for before she has one meal ready for the table perhaps tasks involving the next one need to be done. The family must be served what they like at a price that can be afforded, food that the cook knows how to fix, and when the task is for 365 days times three we will all admit the cook has a real chore to do.

Cooks, have you ever tried writing your menus on cards, filling them away for reference? This is a helpful system, a time saver. Meals that made a great hit with the family can be repeated.

Harvard Beets.
Mix one-half cup sugar, one tablespoon cornstarch, one teaspoon salt, add one-half cup vinegar and let this sauce boil for five minutes, stirring constantly. Add two tablespoons butter, pour the sauce over two and one-fourths cups diced or small whole cooked beets. Let stand for a few minutes to absorb the flavor.

Mrs. Frank Gross.
We would like to print more meat loaf recipes. Do you have some good ones, not too expensive? Please send the Quiz your formula.

Yeast.
Scald one pint buttermilk and add enough cornmeal to make a thick mush. Cook until done. Cool to lukewarm and add one yeast cake that has been soaked in a little warm water for an hour. Let rise overnight, then add one cup flour and enough cornmeal to roll. Cut in cakes and dry. Be sure to have them good and dry before storing away.

Mrs. Walter Coats.
Marshmallow Custard.
Beat two eggs slightly, add two tablespoons sugar, two cups of thin cream and one-half teaspoon vanilla. Combine thoroughly. Place a marshmallow in the bottom of six custard cups and pour the custard mixture over them. place custards in a pan of hot water. Bake at 325 degrees for forty minutes. Place in refrigerator to cool and serve in the cups.

Mrs. H. M. Grady.
Dream Bars.
Mix like pie crust, one-half cup brown sugar, one-half cup butter, one cup flour. Spread flat in a pan. Bake ten minutes at 375 degrees F. Then spread with the following: beat together two eggs, spoons flour, one teaspoon baking powder, pinch of salt, one cup chopped nuts, one and one-half cups cocoanut, one teaspoon vanilla. Bake in a rectangular pan one-half hour at 375 degrees F.

When cool cut in bars.
Mrs. E. L. Yates, Omaha.
And please send in your meat loaf recipes. We would like to run a column of meat loaf recipes next week, if you will help.

BULLETS OF JUSTICE

By REX COLLIER
Copyright, 1936, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.

"PRETTY BOY" FLOYD

CHARLES "PRETTY BOY" FLOYD, who notched his watch ten times to keep tab on his killings, feared death in the electric chair far more than he did bullets of the G-men.

He weighed the prospects of both—and chose the latter. The result was inevitable, under the circumstances. Federal bureau of investigation agents have been accused of shooting him in the back, in "cold blood."

There were rumors among critics of the bureau that Floyd fell on his knees and begged for mercy as ruthless agents poured lead into his body.

It has been reported Floyd repeatedly offered to surrender before G-men caught up with him, but that J. Edgar Hoover rejected the offers and ordered his men to "kill Floyd on sight."

There is no doubt there was considerable sympathy in scattered places for this notorious outlaw and killer from the Cookson hills.

Yet this was the man who coolly turned a "tommy" gun on F. B. I. agents and police in the Kansas City union station massacre, and then cut four more notches on his "lucky piece" for kidnap and watch; and who killed, fobnaped and plundered his way to the top of the list of public enemies.

The record of Floyd's crimes provides a gory chapter in the books of the federal bureau of investigation. Finis was written to that story when a squad of F. B. I. agents and police shot Floyd fatally in an Ohio corn field on the afternoon of October 22, 1934.

The true details of that shooting and the events immediately preceding it have been unfolded to me by the F. B. I., so that the public may judge whether Floyd's death was "justified."

Hoover's men began their hunt for "Pretty Boy" after the ambushing of four officers and their prisoner, Frank Nash, early on the morning of June 17, 1933, as they arrived in Kansas City, Mo., from Hot Springs, Ark., where they had captured Nash.

When the officers started to get into waiting automobiles in front of the station, three men opened fire with machine guns, killing Special Agent Raymond Caffrey, Chief of Police Otto Reed of McAlester, Okla., and Detectives Hermanson and Grooms of the Kansas City police. Nash was killed also, in the cross-fire.

Eyewitnesses picked a photograph of Floyd as that of one of the killers. It was learned, moreover, that Floyd and his pal, Adam Richetti, had driven into Kansas City the previous night in the car of a salesman whom they had kidnaped, after abandoning a stolen car in which they had kidnaped the Sheriff of Bolivar, Mo.

Co-operation of police in various parts of the country was enlisted in the hunt for Floyd and Richetti.

Months passed. Floyd was reported in nearly all parts of the country—often at the same time. All tips and leads, however minor, were run down by the tireless agents.

Here are the facts on Floyd's offers to surrender.

An emissary of Floyd relayed to Hoover what he claimed was a message from the fugitive, the emissary explained he did not know where Floyd was, but that "Pretty Boy" was willing to "consider" giving himself up if the government would promise not to send him to the electric chair.

Hoover sent word back to Floyd that such a proposition was out of the question, that he and his men intended to make Floyd, sooner or later, pay the full penalty of the law for the merciless massacre at Kansas City.

Hoover ordered his men to intensify their hunt for Floyd and Richetti, but it can be said definitely that at no time were "shoot on sight" or "shoot to kill" orders issued to G-men by Hoover.

During this time, Floyd and Richetti, with two girls who had been in shooting scrapes with them in Ohio in years past, had been hiding out in a respectable apartment house in Buffalo, N. Y. The men seldom ventured out of the apartment. Neighbors afterward said they often heard someone walking up and down the floor at night, as though pacing restlessly.

After staying in Buffalo more than a year, the pair grew increasingly restless and decided to venture back to their native Oklahoma hills with the girls they set out from Buffalo about the middle of October, 1934, in a newly-purchased car.

They headed first for Ohio, where Richetti's "connections" lived. Floyd and Richetti alternated at the wheel.

Floyd was driving through a rain-storm on the outskirts of Wellsville, Ohio, early on the morning of October 20, when the car skidded into a telephone pole. Floyd and Richetti took their guns and baggage out of the car and sent the girls into Wellsville to have repairs made to the car, which was not seriously damaged.

A resident of the community several hours later saw Floyd and Richetti lying on the grass in a field not far from the scene of the accident. He thought they were tramps, and telephoned to police headquarters at Wellsville.

When the police officers appeared, in civilian clothes, Richetti was asleep on the grass and Floyd was seated near him. Floyd jumped up, leveled a pistol at the officer and ordered the latter to "stick 'em up." The police officer pretended he was a workman en route to a nearby factory, but Floyd refused to accept the explanation and called to Richetti, who had awakened, to "let him have it."

A brief gun battle ensued, with Richetti and Floyd running down a hill. None of the bullets took effect, but Richetti, having emptied his gun, surrendered. Floyd escaped into the woods.

Still believing his captive was a tramp, the officer took Richetti to the police station, where he gave a fictitious name and identified Floyd as "Joe Warren," of Toledo.

Sheriff Long, of Steubenville, who had become familiar with Richetti's appearance through photographs supplied by the G-men, dropped in the Wellsville police station on another matter while Richetti was being questioned. He recognized him immediately and called him by name. Richetti thereupon admitted his identity. The Wellsville officer then identified Richetti's companion as Floyd.

Sheriff Long notified the Cincinnati office of the F. B. I. and the federal forces promptly swung into action. Inspector Samuel P. Cowley was in the vicinity in connection with the Stoll kidnaping investigation. Special agents proceeded to the East Liverpool airport by plane, where Sheriff Long met them. East Liverpool police were enlisted in the manhunt. Woods were searched and roads blocked.

Learning that a man answering Floyd's description had asked for lunch at a farmhouse near East Liverpool, the F. B. I. agents and East Liverpool officers proceeded to the farm. About 4 p. m. Monday, October 22, 1934, as this squad was making a systematic search of farms in that vicinity, Floyd was seen in an automobile which a farmer was starting to drive from behind a corn crib, on the farm of Mrs. Ellen Conkie. He had asked to be driven to Youngstown.

When Floyd spied the officers he ordered the farmer to back the car up behind the crib. Floyd jumped from the car as it backed up, dashed past an outbuilding, across an open field and over a ridge toward nearby woods.

The agents and police pursued him and commanded him to surrender.

Floyd's response was a gesture of defiance. He may have been thinking of that electric chair.

Instead of stopping he whipped out a .45 caliber automatic pistol—he was carrying two—and chose to fight it out.

The agents fired at Floyd. He was running to seek protection of a dense woods. With his head and shoulders turned toward the officers, he flourished his gun. The agents paused and aimed their guns. They knew that to permit him to gain the woods would give him an advantage which doubtless would result in the loss of the lives of several agents.

He fell, mortally wounded, with his pistol, fully loaded, still in his hand. The other pistol, a .45 caliber automatic, was in his belt. An extra clip was in his pocket.

Floyd was shot at 4:10 p. m. and he died in the Conkie house at 4:25 p. m. He admitted his identity just before he breathed his last. He refused to answer further questions. With his dying words he cursed his captors.

Ord Men Returned Christmas Day From Airplane Trip to Florida

Two Ord young men, Ed Kull and Eddie Peterson, left Ord at 10:30 a. m. Dec. 3 on what proved to be one of the most remarkable trips in the history of aviation. It was remarkable in that it was planned as a mass airplane flight from Cincinnati, O., to Miami, Fla., and return. Nearly three hundred airplane owners participated in the trip, the expenses from Cincinnati and return being paid by the Aeronca aircraft corporation. Ed Kull bought a used Aeronca and he and Peterson put it in first class condition before starting the flight. They got as far as Centerville, Ia., the first night, and because of lack of an airport, set the machine down in a cow pasture there and remained in the town until morning. The second night they were to have made it into Cincinnati, but it got dark too soon for them, and they stopped in a field near the little village of Rising Sun and stayed with a farmer until morning. Next morning when they got to Cincinnati they found that the flight had left without them, so they set out on the trail. They caught up with some of the fleet at Smiths Grove, Ky., after which it was easier to follow the course, as there were some along who had flown it before. They set down at Manchester, Ga., when they ran into a fog, and remained there over night. It rained until the next day. The next day they went to Macon, Ga. The next stop after they left Macon they got off the course and landed in an oat field. Here they hired a colored man to take them to town after gas in his old model T. With three stops in between they went on to Orlando, Fla., where they arrived a day late. Their flight before they got to Orlando was by far the most exciting of the trip, as they flew over swamps where it would have been impossible to land safely, and if they had landed, they would have been eaten by alligators or crocodiles, of which there are a great many. At Orlando they were joined by a dozen Taylor Cub planes, and there were 21 already in the flight, so that from here on they had plenty of company. They arrived at the airport at Miami at 1 p. m. on Dec. 11 and saw the air races on Dec. 11 and 12. They put up at the Floridian Hotel, the usual rates for a suite being $25.00 per day. Ed says they didn't buy a suite, just the vest. A special correspondent took pictures of the flight as they came in, and they also inspected the Pan-American air lines base at Miami. On Dec. 14 Ed and several others went out ocean fishing and caught a lot of fish, the names of which he didn't remember. However, he knows they caught one blowfish, one barracuda and one fish that was not an eel, but which looked very much like a snake. They left Miami on the morning of Dec. 15, passing over and stopping at several lovely places, one of the finest being Avon Park. Everywhere there are orange and grapefruit farms, and cattle ranches. They flew across the bay after leaving Tampa and landed at St. Petersburg, also called the sunshine city. The city had a big banquet for them with plenty of eats and speeches, and a dance afterward. At St. Petersburg Eddie Peterson took part in a spot landing contest, taking second place for high wing planes. On the way back they made stops at Ocala, Lake City, Waycross, Jasper, McRae and finally Macon, Ga., again. They went on to Atlanta and to Chattanooga, Tenn., where they ran into fog and had to remain over night. The next day the high wing planes started out first and got away all right, but the fog befuddled the low wing boys, and they had to spend a second night at Chattanooga. The rest of them landed in a field near Smith's Grove, Ky., and went back 14 miles to Bowling Green to stay over night. From Bowling Green they went to Louisville, then to Cincinnati, where Ed spent two days visiting with Ord's first plot to win fame, Earl Barnes. He is with the Aeronca corporation and is holding a responsible position. He sent his best regards to all his Ord friends. When they started for home they ran into plenty of trouble, as the air was foggy. At Oakland, Ill., they landed in a stubble field where they remained several hours while the weather cleared a little. Again at Ottumwa, Ia., they were forced to land because of the fog, and the next day they flew through fog to Lincoln. On the way up from Lincoln they again hit fog, and set the plane down east of St. Paul for a while. From there they came on to Ord, arriving home at about one o'clock Christmas day. Peterson stayed home just long enough to eat Christmas dinner and get caught up on sleep, then he went to Grand Island after a Curtis pusher plane, which he brought up to Ord, later going on to Broken Bow. The plane was to be delivered to a man at North Platte to use in hunting coyotes. Eddie will be at Broken bow for the time being, as he is now employed by Jack Jeffords. Kull is still on the farm, when he isn't up in the air. He says some people get married, but he bought an airplane instead. He has noticed that married men are up in the air most of the time anyway. The first veterinary cooperative in the country is being organized among the farmers of Livingston County, Mich.

Seventy stockmen have banded together, each paying a five dollar membership fee. The money will be used for hiring one or more veterinary surgeons.

These veterinarians will agree to visit the farm of each member once a month. They will render such services as dehorning, castrating, docking, vaccinating, giving feeding advice, and arresting incipient diseases before they have reached an acute stage.

In addition to this, the veterinarians will give two emergency calls per year and will render additional calls at a reduced price. Veterinarians will furnish all medicines except vaccines, serums, and other very expensive preparations, and these will be supplied at cost.

The farmers will pay for vaccines and serums. They will also remit an additional 50 cents per year for each productive animal unit. An animal unit is one horse, one cow, two calves, five hogs, seven sheep, or one hundred chickens.

The veterinary cooperative has been organized by the Resettlement Administration and the extension division of the state agricultural college.

Quite a Long Holdover. Cribbed high and dry for 18 years, 1,600 bushels of corn owned by Calvin and Jake Dively of Unadilla, was sold recently for 96 cents a bushel at Kansas City. The brothers think they have established some sort of a record for storing grain. Stored in a crib well above ground, the 1918 corn crop was only slightly discolored. Instructors at the Nebraska agricultural college said the case showed the practicability of holding grain in the cribs for several years with no great deterioration. — Benkleman Post.

Camera Records Results of Winter Storm

'Twas indeed a cold, wintry day when the Quiz photographer, Lavern Duemey, loaded up his camera and set out to snap a group of pictures showing snow-covered Valley county in all its glory.

As usual, with the coming of ponderous snowfall, cars were stalled in snow drifts, citizens were kept busy keeping the drifting snow off their sidewalks (or pouring hot water on the car motor), and wreckers did a big business. Trains, equipped with snow plows, were behind schedule and buses could not get through on the Grand Island-Ord route for several days.

Picture description: Top, left: The Valley county courthouse made an excellent camera study. Santa Claus, still on his lofty perch, had a smile on his face despite the biting winds which blew around him last Saturday. The huge piles of snow being placed upon the courthouse lawn by relief workers are shown clearly.

Top, right: "Where's the scoop, boys" And it certainly looks like several scoops would be needed to get this car out of its present "cold storage." This car parked in front of Kokes Hardware last Saturday belongs to Dillo Troyer and was one of many cars to be covered up by the snow.

Lower, left: Kent Ferris dug out the old camera and took this picture, showing Edgar Roe's car in a nice position on one of the snow-drifted roads. Driving as far as he could through the big drifts, Mr. Roe finally gave up, climbed out and stayed at a nearby farmhouse for the night. Help was secured in the morning and he resumed his way.

Lower, right: Twenty-five or thirty relief workers and three large trucks were employed by the city in taking snow off city streets Saturday. Tons of snow were removed from the streets and dumped on the courthouse lawn, where it is expected to melt and provide plenty of moisture for the lawn when it comes up this spring.

For Bookworms Only

In the Ord library is a new book, "Man, the Unknown", by an eminent doctor and scientist, Dr. Alexis Carrel. A much discussed book, in which Dr. Carrel tries to tell us what makes our wheels go 'round; you will enjoy reading "Man, the Unknown". Alexis uses only simple language, explodes a number of modern theories, tries to point out some of the errors in to which we are falling the direction in which we must go. He thinks our young are not so well equipped for life as they might be asks such questions as why are not girls given better training for home making, raising a family? Pioneers will be interested to see that Alexis believes in less pampering, a rigorous climate to live in, a hardy existence. You will want to read this book for yourself. It was chosen for the library by the Business and Professional club advisory members of the library group.

Three Advertisers In Quiz 50 Years Ago Alive Today

First Issue In 1887 Shows Many Changes In Newspaper and in City.

Through the courtesy of Kent Ferris, who has the propensity of finding anything around the Quiz building, we are able to give a comparative summary of the Ord Quiz of fifty years ago, and that of today, with which you are all familiar. Many changes have taken place in the time, and with the exception of the name of the paper of that day would not be recognized as the ancestor of this issue.

Fifty years ago the Quiz was a nine, 26 inch column paper of four pages. The columns were 13 picas wide. Today the Quiz is putting out a seven, 20 inch column paper of twelve pages. The columns are 12 picas wide. W. W. Haskell was the editor and publisher of the Quiz at that time and the price was $1.50 per year. Local and want ad rates were the same as they are today, while no data is obtainable for space ad rates.

The entire front page was devoted to general news, doings of the senate, and market reports. All the local news was to be found on the inside pages. South Dakota was trying her best to win statehood, according to one article. The story of a Texas lynching and the lynching of two negroes in Arkansas were told on the front page. Today the chances for national anti-lynching law are more than good.

A Berlin dispatch says that Von Moltke does not fear war. He later took a prominent part in the World War, dying in 1916. Levi P. Morton was reputed to be worth $7,000,000.00. That don't mean anything today. George Bancroft historian, was very old, but still active. (He died in 1891.) Buffalo Bill was a champion of the rights of dumb animals. George W. Childs, philanthropist, was always giving away something, and the Knights of Labor forerunner of the present labor unions, was disorganized in St. Louis.

The market prices quoted in Omaha should prove interesting. They were, wheat 60c, barley 42c, rye 34c, corn 25c, oats 20c, butter creamery, 25c, and dairy, 18c. Eggs quoted at 24c per dozen. Hens and springs were sold by the dozen at $2.00 to $2.50. Lemons were $7.00 per box and oranges $5.50 per box. Apples sold at $2.50 per barrel. Beans were $1.25 per bushel. Onions $1.00 per bushel and potatoes 60c. Honey was 15c per pound. Baled hay sold at $8.00 per ton and loose hay at 9.00. It cost them a dollar a ton in those days to bale hay. Hogs $3.85 per cwt., cattle $3.50, and sheep, $2.25.

For the size of the paper, the Quiz had a large amount of advertising fifty years ago. Prominent among the advertisers was the Nebraska State Journal, which sold daily at $10.00 per year, and weekly at $1.00. C. B. Coffin was proprietor of the Ord Jewelry and Music store. Wentworth Bros. were carpenters and builders. Wollworth and Reed sold lumber. H. McLean also sold lumber. W. A. Anderson ran the Ord Art Gallery. G. W. Milford had a stocking ad. Cleveland Bros., sold shoes. F. W. Weaver was advertising his hardware, on the south side of the square. J. W. Messenger had an ad in for the Ord-Strohli stage line, with a regular time in and out of Burwell, Kent and Taylor in between, much the same as the bus lines are advertised today. Mrs. S. A. Young sold hats and dresses, and also made them. Bohne and Brown ran a hardware in North Loup.

There was the Ord Loan and Trust company, W. H. Williams, Pres., J. K. McConnell, vice-pres., J. L. McDonough, treas., and D. B. Jenckes, secy. C. B. White ran the west side drygoods store. C. F. Way advertised percheron stallions. J. C. Work had a blacksmith shop. O. S. Haskell advertised real estate. E. J. Clements had money to loan on real estate. A. M. Daniels was advertising coffins, not caskets, and nothing was said about undertaking.

There were a large number of professional cards. The various attorneys at law were Bean and Newman, Westover and Provin, Robbins and Witherspoon, and E. J. Clements. There was a Dr. J. Janss, Deutscher Arzt, of North Loup, Nebr. F. D. Haldeman was one of the physicians and surgeons advertising from Ord. The other was Dr. T. C. Coon. Dr. J. B. Dowling advertised dentistry. Frank Misko was in the harness business. G. H. Ray was a well digger, a job that has gone out of our modern lives entirely.

Frank Barta was a merchant tailor. We still have a Frank Barta, but he is a doctor. Heddie Bros. were in the real estate business. R. B. Tyler ran the Merchants Hotel at North Loup. The Taylor House, Taylor, Nebr., was advertised by Cottrell and Drey. Ole Severson was in the painting and decorating game. Killburn and Denton ran the Loup Valley Roller Mills. Then there was the First National Bank, with officers as follows: J. H. Bell, pres., H. A. Babcock, vice-pres., George A. Percival, cashier and Peter Mortensen, assistant cashier. There were also sixteen different branches of the Farmers Alliance advertised as holding regular meetings throughout the county.

Of all the advertisers whose names appear in the advertising of the fifty year old Quiz, only three are alive today. They are W. A. Anderson and Ole Severson, both of Ord, and J. W. Messenger of Burwell. Of these, Mr. Messenger is the only one still actively engaged in business. He still has his factory in Burwell and every year gets out some of his well known Messenger hay stackers, the merits of which are too well known among the farmers of the Loup valley to require further comment. Mr. Anderson is doing a worth while service for the public in his declining years in the writing of his "Reminiscences of Early Days" which will be of inestimable value to posterity. Mr. Severson has been in feeble health for some time.

Card of Thanks. We wish to express our sincere gratitude to our friends and neighbors for their kindly help and sympathy during the illness and after the death of our husband and father, also for the beautiful flowers. Mrs. Lou Fuss and children. Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Fuss and family.

Kearney Hi To Be Or'ds Toughest Foe

Chanticleers To Travel There Friday Eve, Are Rated As Under-Dogs.

Coach Helmut Brockman's Ord high school cagers will advance another step into the 1937 cage season tomorrow night as the Chanticleers move camp to Kearney where they meet Coach Harlan Wyant's basketballers. The game is to start at eight o'clock and is to be played in the new junior high school auditorium.

This contest will be the second of the season for the Chanticleers and the third struggle for the Kearney Bearcats. Coach Wyant's crew opened the season about three weeks ago. In addition to playing numerous practice games, the Bearcats snowed under Loup City 34 to 4 and knocked Holdrege cold with a 30 to 20 score.

Chanticleers Are Ready.

With two squads on hand—one just as good as the other—Coach Brockman feels that the Chanticleers will be able to give the Kearney quint a proverbial "run for their money." Although not having as much experience as Kearney, the Red and White came out of the opener of the season with Sargent high in good shape and will be at full power for the clash with the Buffalo county lads Friday night.

Coach Brockman will have at his disposal Friday night six lettermen returning from last year's squad plus some excellent reserve material which has been showing up exceptionally well in the daily workouts. Starters for the Ord squad will probably include Gerald Clark and Dale Hughes at guards; Harry Zulkoski, Don Tunncliff or Alford Haskell at forwards; and Dean Barta at center position.

Reserve material who will probably make the trip to Kearney include Don Severson, forward; Don Dahlin, forward; Edwin Hitchman, guard; Elmo Zikmund, forward; and Charles Cetak, forward-center.

Ord Is Underdog.

Scanning scores of past Ord-Kearney games we find that Kearney has always managed to have that little extra "push" which is so necessary to get those extra points in an extremely close game. Ord and Kearney have met in district tournaments several times in the last two or three years, Ord always being defeated after a valiant struggle. Comparative scores, more game experience, and extremely powerful reserve strength serve to give the Bearcats the edge over the Chanticleers.

The Kearney crew this year has a world of power behind it, having about three teams of equal strength. In games thus far this season the Bearcat mentor has used 15 or more performers per contest and is depending on the reserve strength of the squad to down Kearney opponents.

In the Kearney-Loup City tilt Coach Brown's quint were completely bewildered by the fast moving Kearney team. Kearney's victory over the recognized Holdrege high school team made other state teams perk up their ears and take notice. Following are the names of the Kearney squad: DeWolf, Mitchell, Austine, Samp, Tollefson, Finch, Nelson, Sim, Johnson, Samp, Hollison and Kayton. Sim was high point man for the Bearcats in the Loup City game leading the field with 12 points to his credit. Mitchell with 4, Finch with 7, and Johnson with 4 followed in the scoring.

Fans Will Follow.

Weather and road conditions permitting, a large number of Ord fans are planning to follow the Chanticleers to the battlefield, intending to see exactly what the Red and White can do when put under the pressure of playing one of the better teams of Nebraska.

Complete Plans For L. V. A. Meeting

Plans have all been completed at the high school this week for the annual Loup Valley High School Activities Association meeting which will be held this year in Ord. The meeting will be held in the Ord high school building and will be an all-day session, Saturday, Jan. 9.

High school instructors and representatives from all over the Loup Valley will be in Ord Saturday to attend this big meeting. It will be at this meeting that dates and places for such activities as the Loup Valley basketball tourney, girls' play day, Loup Valley music festival, and Loup Valley track meet will be decided.

Sec. O. L. Webb, of the state activities organization, will be included among the many good speakers to appear on the day's program. Each different educational group, such as the dramatic, commercial and athletic will have its own meeting place and room to hold discussions.

Officers of the Loup Valley High School Activities Association at the present time are: H. C. Eb-meler, Scotia, president; Supt. Bailey of North Loup, vice-president and E. G. Lightbody of Sargent, secretary-treasurer.

This large "convention" will start off Saturday morning with a combined meeting to be held in the high school library at 10:00 A. M. Divisional meetings will be held starting at 10:30.

Coach Brown of Loup City, assisted by Helmut Brockman of Ord, is in charge of the boys physical education section. At this meeting Sec. Webb will discuss basketball rules. Helen L. Myers, Ord girls athletic association director, is in charge of the girls' physical education division. Miss Andrews of Burwell will speak on the topic "Methods of Teaching Sportsmanship." Miss Williams of Scotia will talk on "Basketball for Girls" and Miss Anderson of Sargent will direct the G. A. A. round table discussion.

Dean S. Duncan, supervisor of music in Ord public schools, will take charge of the music section. Included in this division will be a discussion of the Loup Valley music festival, reports on the use of radio in school, a number of musical selections by the Ord music department, an exchange of ideas received at the recent Nebraska state teachers conventions, and further business interesting to the music groups. Supt. W. D. Bailey of North Loup is in charge of the English and dramatics section and has worked out an interesting program which will cover this division of education thoroughly. At 11:30 divisional reports will be given and at 12:00 the groups will dismiss for luncheon.

A combined meeting with a discussion of reports of committees will be held at 1:00 P. M. Sectional meetings will be started at 2:00 o'clock. New officers will be elected, dates and places for activities will be made, and other business will be discussed at the superintendent and principals' meeting. Sec. O. L. Webb will discuss problems in regard to the state G. A. A. at a girls physical education meeting. Moving pictures of basketball and demonstrations of rules will be the big features at the boys physical education meeting. The English and dramatic sections will meet again with Supt. Bailey in charge and the music section will convene under the direction of Dean Duncan.

The last meeting of the day will be held at 3:00 P. M. After a general meeting at which dates and places for Loup Valley activities will be designated, the association will adjourn the meeting.

Loup Valley Quints Opened 1937 Season For Keeps Tuesday

Nebraska high schools start playing basketball for "keeps" this week. Games scheduled this week complete the first full program of the season and include a number of top-notch attractions.

Games this week which were played too late to be given a detailed description in the Quiz, included Merna at Broken Bow, Loup City at Scotia, Mason City at Arcadia, Ashton at Elba, Boelus at Dannebrog, and Ravenna at Kearney.

Tonight the North Loup quint journeys to Comstock for a game. Coach Wills' North Loup five is reported as being pretty hot on the floor and the Comstock-North Loup clash is expected to be a bum-dinger.

Loup Valley basketball will really get under way in earnest tomorrow night as two official Mid Six conference basketball games are played, a host of other games are also on Friday night's schedule. After playing the Kearney five Tuesday, Ravenna faces the St. Paul quint on the Apostle court in a Mid Six contest. Ravenna, with her strong showing against Grand Island high school several weeks ago, requires more than a little respect from Mid Six schools.

In the remaining game of the week (Mid Six Conference Broken Bow travels to Loup City to tangle with Coach Brown's men. Thus far in the season Loup City has shown very little in the way of basketball and with the quality of basketball always played by a Metx-coached outfit, Broken Bow rates the nod over Loup City. In the Loup Valley conference Scotia meets Arcadia on the Arcadia court.

Four Mid Six schools will see action next Tuesday against non-conference opponents. Arcadia meets Taylor, Broken Bow meets Cozad, Loup City takes on Rockville and Litchfield meets Ravenna.

Games played the week of Jan. 4-8 include:

Tuesday: Sargent at Ord, Merna at Broken Bow, Loup City at Scotia, Mason City at Arcadia, Ashton at Elba, Boelus at Dannebrog.

Wednesday: Ravenna at Kearney.

Thursday: North Loup at Comstock.

Friday: Ord at Kearney, Merna at Ansley, Elba at Palmer, Ashton at Farwell, Scotia at Arcadia, Ravenna at St. Paul, Arnold at Sargent, Clarks at Central City, Grand Island at Hastings, Lexington at Gothenburg, Broken Bow at Loup City, Litchfield at A. O. Thomas (Kearney).

Ord Cagers Lose To Alumni 27-19 In New Year Tilt

By Kendall Wiegardt.

Although they played some pretty rugged basketball in doing it, the Ord high school alumni team eked out a 27 to 19 victory over Coach Brockman's Ord high school cagers in a New Year's practice tilt played last Friday in the high school auditorium.

The alumni team was composed of some of the best of Ord high school "greats" on the basketball court. They all showed signs of a little rustiness in their passing and shooting attacks but nevertheless clicked in fine style once they got going.

Evidences of the "rugged" playing on the parts of both teams is shown by the fact that several men left the game because of too many personal fouls. Coach Brockman's outfit looked perhaps a little "green" from lack of actual game experience, but promise to be a great team before the season draws to an ending.

The first quarter was a bit slow, neither team being able to hit the basket. The footwork of the Alumni was poor, especially that of McGinnis. Nevertheless, they managed to hold the high school to six points and scored four themselves.

The second quarter was not much better. The Alumni still couldn't seem to drop the ball through the hoop. Half their points for the first half were scored by Blessing on free-throws. The high school was doing a bit better. Haskell made three field goals and a free-throw in the first half. Clark sunk a sensational long shot from near the mid-stripe close to the end of the half and the high school still led 11 to 9 at the half.

In the third quarter Benda entered the game for the Alumni and pepped them up. The Alumni took the tip-off and with a series of neat passes, maneuvered the ball to just below the basket from whence Benda tipped it in. The teams still clinched but the Alumni slipped past and led at the end of the third quarter by a score of 13 to 12.

Steinwart got into the game in the last quarter, grabbed the ball, dribbled down to the basket and made a basket. Then the Alumni went places and trampled the high school under in their stampede. At the end of the game the Alumni downed the High School by a score of 27 to 19.

All in all, it was quite a game. The Alumni couldn't seem to get going until the second half when Benda and Steinwart got into the game but then they really stepped on it. The high scorer was Greathouse who chinked up 13 points. Blessing was next with 10. And by the way, it was a pretty rough game. Three players went out on fouls, namely, McGinnis, Blessing and Don Tunncliff. The teams were: High School: Haskell, Hughes, Barta, Zulkoski, Don Tunncliff, Clark, Dahlin, and Don Severson. Alumni: Richard Severson, Paul Blessing, Greathouse, Bill Tunncliff, Charles Mella, Bert Boquet, Benda and Steinwart.

All Teachers Back In Classes Monday In Spite of Storm

Although considerable difficulty was encountered by a few Ord high school teachers in getting back to Ord in time for school Monday because of the blocked roads, they were all on hand Monday morning to hold their regular classes. A large number of students were absent from school Monday because of bad road conditions.

Among the teachers who spent their Christmas vacation away from Ord were:

Burdett Cowel, who visited at the home of his mother, Mrs. Maude E. Cowel at Auburn, Nebr. Mr. Cowel returned Sunday afternoon, having no difficulty in getting through.

Jesse Kovanda and family made a trip to Peru, Table Rock and into Iowa visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Thompson spent their two weeks' vacation at the home of Mrs. Thompson's folks, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jeary at Seward.

Helmut Brockman and family spent several days of their vacation visiting friends and relatives at Valparaiso, Lincoln and Elmwood, Nebr. They visited the George Oeschger family at Valparaiso, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fisher at Lincoln and Mrs. Minnie Brockman at Elmwood.

Frank Lee spent part of his vacation at his home in Hastings, returning to Ord on Dec. 30.

Miss Elva Johnson visited with friends at Nehawka, returning to Ord Sunday accompanied by Miss Bernice Slote and Miss Eberbacher who were vacationing at Lincoln.

Miss Olivia Hansen visited in her mother's home, Mrs. Anna Hansen at Lindsey, Nebr.

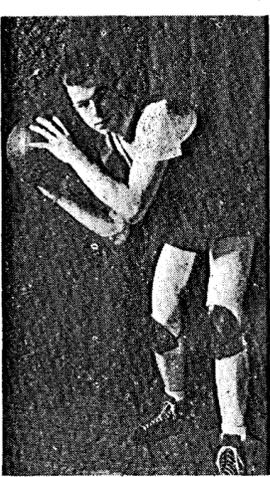

Miss Ellen Servine visited at her home in Lincoln, returning to Ord Jan. 2.

Wise Words

"Opinions never kept anything worth while from succeeding," said Uncle Eben. "Some people don't like flowers, but, thank de good Lord, de flowers don't care."

Clark Will Pilot Chanticleers Friday

"Bud" Clark, Ord high school basketball ace, who has three years of basketball experience behind him, will captain the Chanticleers in their game with the Kearney Bearcats tomorrow night.

Gerald tips the scales at 172 pounds, is 5 foot 11 inches tall, and in past years has done a wonderful job at his running guard position on the Chanticleer basketball quint.

Sport Shorts

Who sez there ain't no fun to be had on these cold blizzardy afternoons? Bob Schmidt, Jean Ferguson and Don Tunncliff were having plenty of fun last Saturday putting a car on the square in "cold storage". After covering the car with snow, the conspirators next used it for a ski slide! Ask "Skinny" Wilson for details.

Defeat of Louisiana State by Santa Clara in the New Orleans Sugar Bowl last Friday left the University of Alabama's Crimson Tide the nation's only unbeaten major football team.

George Sauer, All American football selection from Nebraska several years ago, scored all three touchdowns as the Green Bay Packers, national professional football champions, rolled over the Brooklyn Dodgers in a New Year's day exhibition game. Which is greatest—Francis or Sauer?

Almost all the towns in the Loup Valley boast a town basketball team. Why couldn't one be organized here in Ord? There's plenty of the old timers around here would like nothing better than to show their stuff on the court once again.

My nomination for the best known laugh in Ord: Bert Boquet. You can tell his laugh anywhere.

An intercity basketball league has been organized at Arcadia and play started Monday of this week. Four teams comprise the circuit, the Engineers managed by Murphy, Reds by Balfr, Whites by Lewin, and Blues by Bulger.

Greeley's first amateur boxing show went over big with Greeley fans last week. In the main event Leslie Lyons of Grand Island was given the decision over Ted Henningston of Primrose.

Dr. C. G. Amick of Loup City killed a large coyote near Wiggle Creek, while driving at night. The coyote was evidently blinded by the car lights and running into the road, was struck and killed.

Ord Reserves Edge Out Sargent, 20-18

Staging a terrific fourth quarter rally the Ord high school second stringers won their first game of the season Tuesday night, edging out Sargent 20 to 18.

The game was a rather slow, listless affair until the last half of the third quarter when the Red and White broke loose to run rampant over the Bulldogs. The Sargent team however, soon got the spirit and whittled down the Ord lead to the final 20-18 verdict.

Severson, crack forward performer on the Ord squad, led the scoring for the Chanticleers, checking in a total of 14 counters. Arden Clark with 4 points and Russell Rose with 2 points followed.

Bor score:

Ord (20)		Sargent (18)
fg.	ft. f. tp.	fg.	ft. f. tp.
Dahlin	0 0 4	Emerson	2 3 7
Severson	6 2 14	Hale	2 0 4

A. Clark	2 0 4	Johnson	0 0 0
Hitchman	0 0 1	Goble	1 2 4

Junior High Cagers Play G. I. Juniors

Coach Frank Lee's Ord junior high cagers will open the 1937 basketball schedule on the Ord court next Tuesday evening when they meet Ted Page's Barr junior high team of Grand Island.

The junior high team has been holding daily workouts in the grade school gymnasium for several weeks and with plenty of drill work behind them are prepared to give the Grand Island team a stiff game.

The starting line-up for the Ord squad will probably see Arthur Carlsen at forward, Henry Misko at forward, Ray Hurlbert at center, Richard Piskorski at guard, and Cliff Barnes at a guard position. Other squad members who will undoubtedly see action are Robert Dean Tunncliff, Dean Misko, and Gerald Stoddard as well as Romans.

Chanticleers Win Opener Tuesday Against Bulldogs

Displaying a passing attack that was almost as dazzling as their new satin sweat suits, the Ord high Chanticleers fought their way to a 24-21 win over the Sargent Bulldogs in the opening game of the season played on the Ord court Tuesday eve.

Time and time again the Ord team would pass its way within scoring range, and would fall to make their set-up shots or short follow-through shots. Many proclaimed the team that appeared on the floor as one of the best working teams that ever graced the courts for Ord high school, and says that after several more games it will be one of the best in the valley.

Harold Haskell Flashes.

Chanticleer play was dominated by a fighting, hard-passing, and fast shooting player who is familiar to all fans who followed Chanticleer football this fall—Harold Haskell. Harry Zulkoski was substituted for Haskell at various times during the game but because he has been ill for some time, he failed to play the quality of ball that Haskell was issuing. Scoring was divided evenly among the Chanticleer team members, Haskell swishing six counters through the basket, Tunncliff six, Zulkoski four, Clark three and Hughes three.

All Veteran Line-Up.

Coach Brockman had on the floor an all veteran line-up made up of Don Tunncliff at forward, Harold Haskell and Harry Zulkoski at forward, Dean Barta at center, Gerald Clark and Dale Hughes at guards, Clark and Hughes at their guard positions played a very subtle quality of ball, playing excellent defensive ball and clicking on the offensive at critical moments in the game. Tunncliff, with only a few wild passes to mark against his playing, played a very commendable game of ball. Dean Barta, the eagle-eye of the team, did some nice shooting at times during the game but failed to turn several set-ups into scores.

Petit Sargent Ace.

Petit, Sargent center, was the best show for the Sargent five. Playing fast, snappy basketball, Petit came through for the Bulldogs to toss in 10 of the 21 points chalked up by the Sargentites. Maulin at forward was next in the scoring for the Bulldogs, snapping in two field goals. The Sargent team presented a smooth working and good shooting outfit which is destined to be heard of in a big way at the Loup Valley tournament this year. Chalupa and Abbott deserve mention for their fine guarding abilities.

Game Summary.

The Chanticleers led off in the first quarter with Haskell doing a big share of the scoring. The Bulldogs rallied before the end of the initial period to bring the score up to 6 to 5 in Ord's favor as the whistle ended the first quarter.

Although playing hard, the Chanticleers missed nearly all their shots as they tried to increase the distance between them and the close 6-5 score. Coach Brockman substituted Zikmund for Barta. The Chanticleers were unable to break away from the Bulldogs with their stout defense and half time found the score Ord 9, Sargent 8.

Coming back after the half with the original line-up on the floor, the Chanticleers again tried to surge ahead but bad shots combined with a few bad passes held them up. The Sargent team, with the aid of several free throws, managed to creep up on the Red and White and tie the score 11-11 in the middle of the third quarter. With the score tied the game developed into a nip and tuck affair with Sargent leading 16 to 15 at the end of the quarter.

Starting off the fourth quarter with a beautiful corner shot by Tunncliff, the Chanticleers stuck out their tongues and began to pile in scores so fast that the Bulldogs were unable to head them off. In the dying minutes of the game, the Sargent team rallied to bring the final score up to 24-21.

Christian Science Services.

The subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches for Sunday, January 10, is "Sacrament."

The Golden Text is from Psalms 23:5: "Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies."

A passage from the Bible in the lesson-sermon is from John 21:5, 6: "Then Jesus said unto them, Children, have ye any meat? They answered him, No. And he said unto them, Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore and now they were not able to draw in for the multitude of fishes."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "The spiritual meeting with our Lord in the dawn of a new light is the morning meal which Christian Scientists commemorate. They bow before Christ, Truth, to receive more of his reappearing and silently to commune with the divine Principle, Love." (page 35).

Some Changes 50 Years Have Wrought

By JOHN L. WARD.

With the coming of the new year, with several years of depression behind and doubtless more ahead, a lot of people are probably thinking, "What's the use?" Our only possible way of judging the future is by the past and that is usually unsatisfactory. However, because of the thoughtfulness of the late W. W. Haskell, who kept copies of the Quiz on file through all those years, and likewise the care of the Quiz county and city clerks, who kept records that are available and easily readable, it is possible to go back to the days of fifty years ago and reconstruct a picture of Ord in those days. By comparison we may find that we are not as bad off as we thought.

A few words about county organization at that time. Valley county was then under the commissioner system, and had a total of ten precincts, divided into three commissioner districts, exactly as Garfield county is today. They were named Jones, Calamus, Eureka, Liberty, Vinton, Ord, Arcadia, Hayes Creek, Mira Creek and North Loup. Jones was probably Noble and Springdale, Calamus comprised most of Elyria, Hayes Creek doubtless included the present Yale, Mira Creek included Enterprise and Davis Creek, and others roughly included their present boundaries and some of the surrounding country.

The county officials mentioned in the records have all passed on, but some of the names will be remembered. A. H. Schaefer was county clerk at the time, just elected for his second term of two years. In a like manner A. D. Robinson had just succeeded himself for his second term as county treasurer. A. A. Laverly, a name much better recalled, was county judge. The well remembered name of E. J. Clements appears as county attorney, succeeding E. M. Coffin, who held the position before him. W. B. Johnson, by appointment, was sheriff at the time. Dr. F. D. Haldeman whom hundreds will recall, was county physician, and J. J. Hamlin was county coroner. The county board for 1886 was L. N. Swan, D. P. Davis and J. J. Hamlin. With the coming of 1887 Mr. Swan dropped out and J. A. Ollis, Jr., took his place. This is I believe the first place where Mr. Ollis' name appears as a county board member, but it held a prominent place for about two decades afterward.

Some of the names of precinct officials might be of interest. James A. Patton was assessor of Arcadia precinct. He later became county clerk. Jacob LeMasters, father of Bert LeMasters, was justice of the peace in Jones precinct. L. L. Blessing was justice of the peace in Liberty precinct. Later he was elected county superintendent. Parley Round, brother of present Sheriff Round, was constable of Hayes Creek precinct. William Hunt, father of Charley and Ray Hunt was road overseer in old Dist. No. 4. Christian Hecker, father of Will Hecker and Mrs. Henry Marks, was overseer in Road Dist. No. 13.

Asahel Ward, father of the writer and Mrs. S. W. Roe, was assessor in Mira Creek precinct. H. W. F. Marks, father of Henry and Joe Marks, was road overseer in Dist. No. 10. Harrison E. Davis was road overseer in Dist. No. 2, probably North Loup. O. C. Rashaw, father of Jack Rashaw, was overseer in Dist. No. 22. L. D. Timmerman, an uncle of Herwin and Clayton Timmerman, was assessor in what became Springdale about that time. N. H. Redlon, well known name around North Loup, was assessor in North Loup precinct. John Beran whom most of us recall, was the Ord assessor. John Bell, still living, was road overseer of Dist. No. 8. Charles Rich, still living, was justice of the peace of North Loup precinct. M. L. Fries, living but bedfast, was justice of the peace of Arcadia precinct. David Wigent was road overseer in Dist. No. 3. He was a distant cousin of William Wigent, who was road overseer, constable, county commissioner and postmaster of Springdale, all more than fifty years ago. At the beginning of 1887 there were twenty-three road overseer districts in Valley county, which number was increased early that year by the division of one of them, making 24. From the county clerk's annual report made to the county commissioners in January, 1887, the following expenses for the year 1886 are listed. Commissioners salaries, $479.21. County clerk's salary, extra work and postage, $376.80. Clerk of district court, $35.31. County attorney's salary and fees, $148.88. County superintendent's salary, $341.75. Sheriff's and deputy's fees, $303.15. Assessors, 10 precincts, $747.90. County printing, books and stationery, $492.15. Support of paupers, $960.92. Judge and justice fees, $30.25.

Issuing delinquent tax receipts by county treasurer, $349.56. Rent of offices to June 1886, $115.00. Petit jury, April term, 1886, mileage and meals for same $291.10. Election expenses for 1885, $90.50. Office furniture, fixtures, and fuel for county offices, $326.30. Expenses on court house, including steel jail, $1,691.30. Coroners fees, $25.25. From the above it may be noted that, even in those early days, the people did not always pay their taxes. In justice to later county officials it must be stated that all of these officials worked on a part time basis, having some other means of adding to their cash income. It will also be noted that with the new court house not yet ready for occupancy in 1886, offices had to be rented.

The item above relative to expenses on courthouse refers to the new court house which was finished in 1886 and ready for occupancy early in 1887, possibly late in 1886. This was not the court house of yesterday that many of us remember, but that same building before the brick veneer had been put around the outside of it. The building was put up by O. S. Haskell, who was the best known of the early day carpenters. The only court house prior to that time in Ord was the building that was moved down to Bussell park several years ago, and now stands just east of the foot bridge. A picture of it is shown herewith.

Several items of interest are shown in the county board proceedings of that time. One of them is that in 1887 H. A. Babcock, older brother of Art Babcock and the late Ed Babcock of North Loup, was auditor of public accounts for Nebraska and in that capacity made an audit of the records in the various county offices, a complete resume of which is given in the commissioners' record.

Of special interest also is that Volume 2 of the Valley County Commissioners Record started just fifty years ago, and the first meeting recorded in it was that of January 3, 1887. Among the first bills allowed that year, according to the records were that of J. H. Capron for the county printing and stationery in the sum of $134.75. W. W. McMichael, who recently died in Arcadia, had a four dollar bill allowed for services as deputy sheriff. John W. Kates, who, by the way, was county superintendent at the time, was allowed $6.40 for postage and express. A claim of Wentworth Bros for lumber and work on the court house was also allowed. A claim of S. S. Haskell for $9.20 is spoken of as being laid over.

A notice of adoption was the first item of business in 1887. It referred to a bond election late in 1886 for the purpose of issuing bonds in the sum of $3,200.00 to aid in the construction of an extension of the Omaha and Republican Valley Rail Road from North Loup to Ord. No. it wasn't the Union Pacific in those days. It is also apparent that the railroad came into Ord at a date not far from fifty years ago, as the bonds to aid in its construction were voted in Dec. 1886.

Another item shows that former county treasurer, Peter Mortensen, at the time of his settlement with the board, paid in one hundred dollars more than the records show he should have paid, and the present treasurer (at that time) was instructed to refund the amount to him.

An agreement was entered into between the county and John A. Wentworth under the terms of which he was to rent the courtroom in the then new building to religious bodies, lodges and others for theatrical and other entertainments, the county to receive half of the proceeds. A part of the agreement was that Mr. Wentworth was to build a stage in size not less than 240 square feet. Those who remember the old court house will recall this platform, which was in the middle of the south side of the courtroom, and many of us not so old can remember some of the plays and shows that were put on there. I remember that the first demonstration of wireless was put on there, in the spring of 1902, I believe.

In conclusion, permit me to say that while the records form the foundation of this article, I may be wrong in some details, and if I am, I hope some of the old timers will set me right. I know they like early day memoirs, and they want them to be correct, and so do I. So don't fail to speak up if I happen to be wrong. Other similar stories will appear from time to time.

1937 Stork Contest Awakens Inquiries

Now that the 1937 stork derby is on and by the time this is printed will be over officially, it awakens the curiosity of the writer and I want to ask a few questions relative to events of the same nature on former years. However, in the first place, the idea does not appeal to me. I consider it as class legislation or something of that sort. It is a contest open only to a select few, and was announced only a day in advance, whereas anybody knows it requires long preparation. Like the various work propositions that have been carried on by the government in the past, the married people get the preference. Of course the government set the example, but at that it is carrying this class idea too far.

However, this is what I would like to know. Who was the first baby born in 1936? The first baby born ten years ago, 1927? The first in 1917, 1907, 1897 and 1887? There is a wealth of material here for some good stories in the Quiz and if you can help, please do so. There is no prize offered, but the public would doubtless enjoy reading about these primal youngsters of former years, and I would enjoy writing about them.

As a matter of speculation, the youngster of a year ago should be toddling around today, and just looking to say a word or two. The ten year old should be in about the fifth grade in school. The twenty year old is doubtless through high school and either attending college or employed either in the home, on the farm or in some store in town. The thirty year old probably is married and has a flock of growing youngsters, or has chosen single blessedness and a career instead. The forty year old probably has children in high school, or has settled down to single blessedness. And finally, the fifty year old baby is doubtless a grandparent by now.

The possibilities of the proposition are almost endless. Of course we have the files of the Quiz for assistance, but they are not entirely dependable. It is always possible that the very first baby in any one year was not reported, in which case the list cannot be depended upon. But doubtless you all have some curiosity as to who these people are, where they are and what they are doing. With your cooperation these facts should be found out. Give us even a hint, and we will get the rest. The boss says that we will get a picture in each case where possible, and print them also.

Hunting Cottontails

The cottontail rabbit and his bigger, less toothsome brother, the long-lop jack, are paying for the sorry waterfowl campaign of 1936.

Hunters who got few ducks and many pains out of the 30-day duck season are turning to the rabbit sport to blow off steam generated during that hopeful-waiting period before the duck and goose season opened up.

Hardly any of the nitrods had ample opportunity to satisfy their gunning appetites on the migrators; so the steam found no outlet. Now the poor bunnies are providing the valve.

Luckily, rabbits are more plentiful this year, both cottontails and jacks. And while most of us sniff disdainfully at the mere thought of a jackrabbit stammering in the pot, a young jack, properly prepared, makes fairly good eating. Of course the cottontail is in a class of its own, from the knife and fork viewpoint.

Even the novice cook can't go far wrong for the flesh is sweet and tender. And in the hands of an expert, the served-up cottontail is a mouth-watering delicacy. Given an even chance in the kitchen maneuvers, bunny becomes as tasty a dish as you could wish.

While the prolonged drouth of last year was a severe blow to the farmers, it was a boon to the rabbits. Whereas other wild life suffers in time of drouth, rabbits can live on grasses, roots and other edibles which are not sustaining to so many of our furred and feathered friends of wood and fell.

There's less of a tinge to hunting rabbits, it's true, for the chief requisites are physical fitness and quick shooting. To get together a sizable bag, the hunter must do his share of walking and to make his kills he must be ready to bear down on a jumpy bunny at all times.

Rabbit hunting is not like duck hunting, where patience is the watchword. When after a war-got to be ready for the shot.

Even, then it isn't so simple, as the bunnies can dash away like Jesse Owens. Unlike the Olympic champ however, the rabbit does not think that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points and is apt to go kiting away in a crazy, zig-zag pattern.

These gyrations fall to land any help to the hunter in making a hit.

Increased Production. After reading accounts in the Chief of some mammoth hen's eggs that have been produced, Marmion Pederson, living just east of Broken Bow gave his hens a lecture and told them that they should not let other hens outdo them in the production of freak eggs. As a result, he recently found an egg that measured 9 1/2 inches in circumference in one direction and seven and one-half inches in the other. He brought the egg to the Chief office to prove that his statement is correct.—Custer County Chief.

What Other Editors Are Saying

This Boy a Big Bully.
They say that when a dog bites a man it isn't news, but we believe that when a boy chokes a coon it is news.

That is exactly what happened last Saturday. Roger Roth, Russell and Dean Eilersick and Geo. Hokek were hunting along the Middle Loup river and spied a coon to which they immediately gave chase. After a hard run the coon decided to take to the water and the boys all stopped with the exception of George, who was not to be outdone by Mr. Coon. He also took to the icy water, caught the coon and choked it to death. Geo. was bitten a couple of times, but the $8.50 he received for the fur made the pain small. Kentucky may have its Daniel Boone, but Comstock has its Geo. Hokek.—Comstock News.

Yeller Journalism.
While we have mentioned this birth in a recent issue, a friend of the parents have sent this for publication:

A New Model.
John Burgett, designing engineer Dorothy Burgett, production manager, both of Dunning, Nebr. Dr. Burnham of Arnold, technical assistant, announce the new 1936 model baby boy, Model No. 1, released at 8 P. M. Nov. 20, 1936, weight 8 lbs. Two lung power, free squealing, individual knee-action streamlined body, self-take manifold, economical feed, exhaust discharge, (hidden quart) changeable seat covers, now on display. The management assures the public there will be no new models during the balance of the year.—Blaine County Booster.—Loup Valley Queen.

A Real Job For Boys.
The road of adventure and a job had led two Ravenna young men to the wilds of California and we don't mean the Hollywood night clubs.

Dan Fowler and Dommlie Zoucha, lately of athletic prowess in high school left Ravenna, last spring for any destination in the west.

They landed in Watsonville, Calif., near Salinas, the seat of the big lettuce strike. They worked most of the summer; at good wages, replacing some of the men. This winter they have moved up into the California mountains, at Old Station, where they are trapping for a living.—Ravenna News.

Arrest Man for Stealing Furs.
Chris Wunderlich, Erlcross, was arrested at Grand Island Friday on charges of stealing furs, valued at $25, from Ed Frenzen and Robert Mason, Fullerton trappers. County Attorney Carroll Thompson and Sheriff A. R. Johnson went to Grand Island Friday night and took Wunderlich into their custody.

Wunderlich pleaded guilty in county court Saturday to stealing the furs, which had been taken from the side of the barn on the Frenzen place. Two Fullerton men had identified three of four furs sold at the Lindsay Hide and Fur company, Grand Island, as the ones stolen. County Judge G. F. Robinson fined Wunderlich $25 and costs. Upon payment of his fine and upon making restitution for the furs he was dismissed from custody.—Nance County Journal.

Domestic Animal Trained.
DeLoss Wilke, young farmer living north of Kearney, although he has had no previous experience training animals, now has a trained cow which is attracting nationwide attention. Wilke took the cow, a pure white, shorthorn milch cow to Grand Island for a New Year's Eve show at the Capital Theater there. The animal dances to music, takes bows, balances on small boxes, crosses front or back feet, teeter-totters, sits down and smokes a cigar. Lies down and snores upon command and performs a dozen other tricks.

Wilke and his cow have made few theatre appearances, but his manager, Eddie Forrester at Grand Island has placed Wilke and bossy under contract for three years and is now arranging to star Wilke and "Queenie" in two-reel comedies in Hollywood.—Kearney Hub.

Decorations Take the Eye.

Light bulbs have been known to explode but to have one on a string not connected, blow up is something else again. While taking down Christmas decorations at the light office Monday, Bob Mullison laid a string of Christmas lights on Walt Johnson's desk. Ruby Beasley then picked them up to pack away in a box, and as she lifted them one exploded, and hit Johnson in the eye. He was not injured badly, but did get a slight cut on the eyeball, but none of the glass could be found any place. Another funny thing about the whole affair is the fact that this bulb was "dead" when the string was turned on. If you are good at figures put your pencil on this one.—Hamburg Reporter.

Flu Epidemic Is 'Not Alarming,' Say Kruml and Norris

Advise Victims Go to Bed With First Symptoms; Some Pneumonia.

Admitting that influenza, more familiarly known as "flu," is prevalent in mild epidemic form, County Physician J. G. Kruml, City Physician H. N. Norris and other Ord doctors unite in saying that so far the situation is "not alarming" and that no special measures are being planned to curb the disease. Percentage of cases is no higher in Valley county than elsewhere throughout the nation, doctors believe.

An accurate estimate of cases in Ord or in the county cannot be made because so many people, afflicted with mild cases, have failed to call a doctor. There probably are 100 or more cases in Ord, however, and this percentage in all likelihood applies to other towns and rural areas as well. The disease as it is being felt now is closer to the old 1918 flu than anything seen since, believes Dr. H. N. Norris, city physician, but does not approach that epidemic in severity. Only one death, that of Mrs. W. A. Anderson, has been attributed to pneumonia following flu and since Mrs. Anderson was 83 years old and had long suffered with heart trouble it is thought likely that these complications were factors in her death.

There are a number of cases of pneumonia in Ord but all are responding to treatment, doctors report. First symptoms of flu, 1937 version, seem to be a cough and high fever. In some instances the fever rises to 104. An aching sensation in the head and throughout the body also is felt, though this is not so marked as in the variety of flu that swept the country in 1918.

"When you feel the first symptoms of flu go home, go to bed and stay there as long as the fever continues," is the advice given by Dr. Norris. The federal health service supplements this advice by instructions that no food be eaten during the fever's progress. Orange juice, tea and milk toast may be given and the patient should drink water copiously, is the advice of federal doctors. To avoid the flu stay away from public gatherings, is another bit of advice from Ord's city physician. Flu is communicated by direct contact with a person having it. It is very unlikely that it will be necessary to close schools or prohibit public gatherings as result of the present mild epidemic.

Round Robin Meet Getting Under Way

Coach Eddy, in charge of all grade school sports, announces that the grade school round robin basketball tourney is getting under way this week in big style. Two leagues known as the American and the National leagues have been formed with four teams making up each league. The two leagues added together make up a total of over 50 boys competing in the tourney.

Initial games of the tourney were played Tuesday night with the Reds eking out the Orange 4-3 and the Green piling it on the Blacks by a 6 to 2 score. This was in the National league and play in the American league started Thursday evening.

Teams and their captains in the National league are as follows: Orange, Bob Schneider; Black, Bob McBeth; Green, Gerald Johnson; and Red, Alvin Stewart. American teams and captains are: Green, Paul Covert; Red, Frank Misko; Orange, Raymond Vogel; and Black, Milo Rose.

Games are played each Tuesday and Thursday evenings with the winner of the tourney being decided by a percentage standing. Starting next week, official standings and percentages will be published in the Quiz.

Irrigation Meeting To Be Held Today

Beginning at 1:30 p. m. today at the American Legion hall in Ord, two irrigation experts from the University of Nebraska college of agriculture will hold an "irrigation school," the meeting being sponsored by the Valley county farm bureau. Ivan D. Wood and P. H. Stewart are the speakers and topics to be discussed include land preparation, leveling, cropping conditions, soil fertility and relative advantages of growing special crops. North and Middle Loup farmers whose land will lie under the ditches should attend this meeting, even though they may not get water until 1938.

E. W. Gruber was ill with influenza last week, and this week his son-in-law, Frank Fafelita, is sick with the same complaint.

Shooting Pheasants Cost $41 and Shotgun

Angry because pheasants invaded his feed lot and were eating corn for which he had paid $1.30 per bushel, Joe Korbelle seized his shotgun last Friday, rushed outside and shot two of the birds. Unfortunately for him, Game Warden Wolf and Lind happened to be driving past the farm at the time and Korbelle, who lives on the Mrs. Vincent Kokes farm near Sumter, was at once taken into custody.

In Judge John L. Andersen's court Korbelle pleaded guilty to shooting pheasants out of season and Judge Andersen assessed the fine provided by statute, $25, with damages of $10 for the second pheasant and costs of $6.00. Korbelle's shotgun also was confiscated by the state.

While expressing sympathy for the offender, Judge Andersen stated that the statute made it mandatory upon him to assess the fine, damages and costs, in cases where the offender pleads guilty.

Artichoke Company Buys $50,000 Building

According to a letter received by the local representative, L. J. Aulsebrook, from the head office of the United Artichoke company in Hastings, they have just closed a deal whereby they purchase the former Ravenna creamery company's buildings at Ravenna. This was at one time the head office of the Ravenna creamery, and is figured to be worth $50,000.00.

Members of the board of directors met in Hastings recently with Fred Johnson, president of the company. The other officers of the company are E. J. Riesland, Wood River, vice-president, and Ernest W. Johnson, Scottsbluff, general manager and treasurer. The members of the board are Dr. G. R. Wood, Campbell, C. F. Fisher, Ravenna, L. A. Ringsby, Gering, J. J. Jones, St. Paul, Minn., and George Underhill and Russell Darnell, both of Torrington, Wyo. Fisher and Ringsby are new members on the board.

On display at the offices of the company in the Y. W. C. A. building in Hastings were samples of artichoke syrup in various forms of refinement, pastry made with flour from artichokes, and a vial of insulin, also taken from the plant. There were also samples of the ground dried feed for use as stock feed. Aulsebrook and a number of Mira Valley farmers went over to Ravenna a few days ago while the examiner was in the field which was grown northeast of town. This field happened to be in the path of a late shower, which made the crop much better than at most places in this section, and a test showed that the crop would be not less than nine tons per acre.

Columbus Project Described by Cita

Joseph F. Cita, engineer-inspector on the North Loup power and irrigation project, addressed the Ord Rotary club Monday evening, his topic being the big Columbus hydro-electric project on which he served as inspector before being transferred to Ord by the PWA. Magnitude of this $10,000,000 project is almost unbelievable to people who haven't seen the works, said Mr. Cita. When completed it will generate 60,000 horsepower and will be the largest electric plant in Nebraska, the Nebraska Power company's 47,000 horsepower plant at Omaha being next largest. The Loup rivers are dammed and their entire flow diverted into a 35-mile canal to furnish water power for generation of electric energy. The canal is 72 feet wide at the bottom and will carry 20 feet of water. A 2,400 acre lake known as Lake Babcock, after a former Valley county man, is part of the project. A party of Ord men is planning a trip to Columbus to inspect this project in the near future as result of Mr. Cita's graphic description, which was much enjoyed by Rotarians.

Affairs of State Bank Are Finished

Clements signed an order discharging the receiver for the old State Bank of Ord, thereby taking the final step in winding up the affairs of this defunct bank. Depositors were paid 77.9 per cent of their deposits, the final statement shows. There will be no more payments.

Pneumonia Claims Mrs. W.A. Anderson As Victim; Was 83

Well Known Ord Lady Died Saturday After Brief Illness With Flu.

The death of Mrs. W. A. Anderson Saturday came as a terrible shock to her neighbors and many friends. She had been critically ill but a very few days.

Sarah O. Snodgrass was born at Centralia, Dubuque county, Iowa, November 26, 1852 and departed this life at her home in Ord on the 9th day of January, 1937, being at the time of her death, 83 years 1 month and 13 days of age. Her people were pioneers, coming to Iowa from Kentucky in 1843. The slavery question was a leading question in those days and her people, being strongly against it, decided to seek a home in a place that they thought would be free from that evil. Sarah was one of 12 children born to them and she grew to womanhood in the new Iowa home. She was converted and joined the Methodist church when a child and for more than 70 years remained a faithful member of that church and her last spoken words before death claimed her was that God would take care of her.

She was united in marriage to W. A. Anderson July 25, 1893 and they came directly to Ord where she helped him make a home for his two motherless children by a former marriage, and this has been her home since.

Mrs. Anderson, as long as she was able, attended her church and such affiliated organizations as she found time to work with, but for the most part preferred to remain at home and attend to her duties there. Always a hard worker she enjoyed her flowers, her garden and perhaps most of all, her flock of fine chickens. She was often seen about her neighborhood, remembering one here or there who was sick, with some delicacy, or extending help and sympathy to some one in trouble and she was dearly loved by all who knew her. Being until recent years, a well, strong woman, she has nursed Mr. Anderson through several serious illnesses with the tenderest of care and it is he who will suffer most from her going. She will be greatly missed by her daughter, the grandchildren and also great grandchildren, and by her near neighbors who knew her best.

Mrs. Anderson suffered with a heart ailment which caused her much suffering for some months past and made it necessary, much of the time, for her to desist from all work. She contracted a cold a few days ago and this swiftly developed into pneumonia, the complication with her heart trouble being more than she could stand and Friday evening she became unconscious and passed away at noon on Saturday, January 9.

She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Laura Patrick of Chatsworth, Ia., and by one brother, Frank Snodgrass of Redondo Beach, Calif., besides her husband, daughter Mrs. Mable Abernethy, and by five grandchildren and five great grandchildren. Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. Monday at the home, her pastor, Rev. Mearl C. Smith, officiating and interment was in the Ord cemetery. Familiar hymns loved by deceased were sung by Mrs. Mark D. Tolen, with Mrs. Robert Noll at the organ. Pallbearers were Leo Long, A. J. Shirley, C. E. McGrew, Howard Barnes, Andrew Nielsen and H. D. Leggett.

On behalf of Mr. Anderson and the members of the family, we are extending heartfelt appreciation to all who in any way assisted them during the illness and after the death of Mrs. Anderson and assure them that their kindnesses will never be forgotten by the family.

Thespian Club Will Give Mystery Play

Thrills, chills, and a laugh a minute—these are guaranteed to all who attend the three-act mystery farce "Spooky Tavern" to be presented by the Ord Thespian club on Friday, January 29.

Thespian President Laverne Lakin announces that through special arrangements, "Spooky Tavern" will be presented to the general public entirely free of charge.

"Spooky Tavern" written by Jas. Tobias, is one of the outstanding mystery-farces playing on the stage today. The story deals with a haunted tavern, surrounded by weird tides, in which two young college girls are forced to stay all night. Consequences which follow are interesting to say the least! Characters for this well known mystery thriller have not yet been announced by Ellen Servino, Thespian sponsor, but will appear in the Quiz next week.

Corn Increase For Nebraska Farmers In New Gov't. Plan

Actual work on the 1937 agricultural conservation program began in Valley county last week as the county committee and Agricultural Agent C. C. Dale attended a district conference at O'Neill where they conferred with state administrators and mapped out plans for the new program.

Holding of the district conference indicated that the 1937 program will be far ahead of other federal farm plans since they were initiated in 1933. The Valley county board of directors, will hold their annual meeting about February 1, and immediately thereafter community reorganization meetings will be held for the county conservation association.

Statistical procedure on the farm program is expected to be finished by March 1 which will also be far ahead of recent years. Individual farm bases are expected to be available to farmers before spring planting time.

The county committee was informed at the district meeting that the corn acreage limitation under the new program will not work a hardship on producers. The state as a whole will probably be allowed a slight increase over the 1936 acreage. Individual farmer corn limits are to be established by the county committee while the state committee will fix the county limits.

C. of C. Will Elect Officers Jan. 21st At Annual Meeting

Members Urged to Turn Out Next Thursday Evening; Lunch Will Be Served.

The Ord chamber of commerce will hold its annual meeting for all members at 8:00 next Thursday evening, Jan. 21, at the Knights of Pythias hall. Officers will be elected, reports of old officers given, plans for the year discussed and a lunch served.

Plans for the annual meeting were made by directors Tuesday evening when they met in the office of the chamber president, John P. Misko. The city's commercial organization now has 91 paid-up members and it is hoped most of them will find it possible to attend the annual meeting next Thursday.

Secretary Alfred Wiegardt was instructed to secure from directors of the power and irrigation project an authoritative statement as to when funds raised by local donors to boost the project will be returned. E. H. Dummire, manager of the project, will be invited to address the meeting.

Officers to be elected include the president, vice-president and three directors. Whether to continue on the present quarterly dues basis or adopt a budget system and attempt to employ a full-time secretary will come up for discussion.

Lincoln Bank Signs Right-of-Way Land

Accepts No. Loup District's Offer, Signs 15 Tracts; Construction Stops.

Acceptance by the Lincoln Joint Stock-Land bank of the North Loup irrigation district's offer for right-of-way through 15 tracts of land, principally on the Taylor Ord canal, is the chief development in regard to the project this week. The Lincoln bank was one of the principal holdouts and E. H. Dummire, engineer-manager, is pleased at their decision to accept the district's figures.

Originally the Lincoln bank refused to sell right-of-way through the fifteen farms they own because, they claimed, the district did not offer them enough money per acre.

They sent an appraiser here to re-appraise the land and when his appraisals were about the same as those made by appraisers for the district they at once agreed to sell right-of-way, thus removing all chance of condemnation suits so far as their properties are concerned.

Dummire, vice-president Hudson and other district officials drove to Lincoln last week for a conference with President Barkley, of the bank, and options to sell the right-of-way were signed by bank officials. Freezing weather and deep drifts have forced construction on the Ord-North Loup canal to stop but surveyors continue to work getting field data and drafting detailed plans so construction on all canals may progress rapidly when weather permits.

First Baby Doing Nicely, Thank You!

"Both mother and baby are doing nicely," is the report of Dr. C. W. Weekes regarding Mrs. Charles Kasson and her 8 pound son, James Alton, who was born in Hillcrest hospital on January 2, thereby becoming Valley county's first 1937 baby. The Quiz photographer, Lavern Dummire, invaded hospital premises Saturday and got this unusual photo of Mrs. Kasson and baby to confirm Dr. Weekes' report. Mrs. Kasson and baby left the hospital Monday afternoon and are at the home of Mrs. Kasson's sister, Mrs. Lyle McBeth.

Elba Woman Dies In Ord Hospital

Ill for a month with pneumonia and complications, Mrs. Clara Sterneckner, 85, of Elba, passed away in the Ord hospital Sunday morning and was laid to rest in the Elba cemetery yesterday after a prayer service at the Keating funeral home and services at St. Joseph's church in Elba. Mrs. Sterneckner was a long time farm resident of Howard county, moving to Elba after her husband's death.

Two sons mourn her departure. They are Charles Sterneckner, of Ord, in whose home Mrs. Sterneckner was tenderly cared for until taken to the hospital, and Joseph Sterneckner, of St. Paul.

Ord Juniors Lose 44-28 to G. I. Boys

The score was Barr 44, Ord 28, but that tells only half the story. Starting from the opening whistle Coach Frank Lee's Ord Junior high cagers played a variety of basketball the first half that made the Third City team look like a bunch of sheepherders.

Piskorski started the scoring for the Ordites early in the first quarter by tossing in a free throw. Using this lead, the small Ordsters dug in and with excellent shooting and many conversions of Grand Island's wild passes into scores, the Ord quint was leading the Barr team by a 14-3 margin at the end of the first half.

A fiasco was made by the Ord team in the final half. The Barr quint, using a deadly fast break, scored almost at ease, bringing the score up to 31 to 20 at the end of the third period. During the fourth quarter the Ord team slowed down the lofty Islanders, and clicked together once in a while to bring their score up to a 44-28 decision at the final whistle.

Regardless of the fact that the Ord team lost their opening game by a rather large score they still remain one of the best teams of the lower grades that has appeared on the Ord court for some time. The starting line-up of Carlson, Misko, Hulbert, Piskorski and Barnes reinforced by Stoddard, Romans and Tunnell forms a fast-passing, hard fighting combination that all of their opponents will find hard to handle.

Piskorski and Hulbert tied for scoring honors on the Ord team, each tossing in a total of 9 points. Carlson did a nice piece of work in collecting six points with Barnes and Tunnell following with 2 each. Coates, at forward led the Island team with a collection of some 18 points. He was followed by Hardin at guard, who swished in 12 counters.

A large group of Ord fans and students were out for this opening game of the season for the Ord junior team and a pep band under the direction of student-director Eugene Puncocchar provided music for the occasion.

Brother Visits After 8 Years

Last week Mrs. Jim Larsen enjoyed a visit from her brother, Hans Nielsen, of St. Paul, Minn. Mrs. Larsen had not seen her brother for more than eight years, in fact, since he was last here in November, 1928. She wrote him a number of times after he left, but either he failed to answer, or the letters failed to reach him. Imagine her surprise and delight when the long missing man walked into their home in Ord Wednesday evening.

He and a friend had motored down to Omaha, partly on business, and also to visit relatives there. Mr. Nielsen came on up to Ord on the train. Another brother, Niels Nielsen of Bradshaw, was notified, and he drove up, arriving Thursday afternoon. They at once went on up to Taylor to visit another sister, Mrs. Joe Hawley. Friday afternoon Hans returned to Bradshaw with Niels, where he will visit a day or two. From there he will go back to Omaha to visit other relatives, and then he and his friend will drive back to St. Paul.

Hans has lived in and around St. Paul for the past 22 years, and in his travels has been all over the state of Minnesota. He can talk with authority on conditions in any part of the state, and is a very interesting speaker. At the present time he is employed at Chili George's restaurant, a well known and popular place in St. Paul, although he has spent some time in northern Minnesota, which he pictures as one of nature's loveliest spots. He says that the government is planting trees here all the time in an effort to make up for the loss by forest fires, which in the past few years has been appalling.

Along the chain of lakes in north St. Louis county there is a stretch of territory 58 miles long which is solid forest, without a break anywhere, except that produced by the forest fires. The only kind of habitation in this section is the shelters for the forest rangers. In it there are a number of lookout posts, from the top of which the rangers keep a constant lookout for fires. In spite of these precautions the fires get started, and are very difficult to put out, as in places even the ground itself burns.

51 Students Took Eighth Grade Exams

In spite of sub-zero weather and snow-blocked roads, 51 of the 112 rural 8th graders supposed to take examinations last Friday appeared in Ord, North Loup and wrote their examination papers. Miss Clara McClatchey, county superintendent, was extremely pleased because such a large number of 8th graders appeared under the conditions. Students unable to take the exams last week will take them at a date to be fixed later.

Syl Furtak Moves Shop. Sylvester Furtak, Ord's sign painter de luxe, has moved into a new office this week, the east room of the Haskell building formerly occupied by the Petska & Michalek liquor store. Mr. Furtak has formed a connection with a neon sign company and henceforth will sell and install neon signs as well as doing regular sign painting and decorating work.

Supervisors Elect Hansen Chairman To Succeed Barber

Veteran Arcadia Man Back In Chair After Year Absence; Session Ends Today.

S. V. Hansen, of Arcadia, veteran member and former chairman of the Valley county board of supervisors, Tuesday was elected 1937 chairman at the annual organization meeting of the board. He served as chairman in 1934 and 1935, was succeeded in 1936 by J. A. Barber, of North Loup, and now takes office again for the coming twelve months.

First business taken up by supervisors Tuesday was the seating of two new members, John G. Bremer, who succeeded Charles Johnson, and J. V. Suchanek, who succeeded Henry Desmull. Both were sworn in early Tuesday morning and at once took their places at the board table.

When nominations for chairmen were called for three supervisors were nominated by ballot, S. V. Hansen receiving four votes, J. A. Barber two and Ellisworth Hall 1. It was then moved, seconded and passed that Mr. Hansen's election be made unanimous, which was done.

First official act of the new chairman was appointment of committees, which he announced as follows:

- On roads and bridges—Jablonski, Bremer, Suchanek.
- On buildings and grounds—Ball, Bremer, Zikmund.
- On estimates—Barber, Jablonski, Suchanek.
- On settlement with officers—Zikmund, Barber, Suchanek.
- On bonds between sessions—Suchanek, Ball, Barber.
- On claims—Bremer, Ball, Jablonski.

On purchasing printing and supplies—Jablonski, Ball, Bremer. Two applications for appointment as county physician, those of Dr. J. G. Kruml and Dr. H. N. Norris, were heard and upon motion the board voted unanimously Tuesday to reappoint Dr. Kruml.

The Valley county farm bureau submitted its budget of $2,000 for 1937, this being the same amount as the county appropriated for farm bureau purposes in 1936. The budget was allowed by the board, upon motion.

Tuesday a soldiers and sailors relief commission was appointed, the members being Alfred Wiegardt, Fred Barz and Clyde Baird.

Yesterday supervisors spent the whole day checking reports of county officers. Today they will hear the county engineer's report and take up other last minute business, with adjournment scheduled for this evening.

Birthday Ball May Be Held Jan. 30th

Plans are being made to hold a "President's Birthday Ball" in Ord on Saturday, Jan. 30, natal day of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, announces Ign. Klima, Jr., who has been appointed general chairman by the national committee. Each year such events are held in ten thousand cities and villages throughout the country for the purpose of raising funds to help stamp out infantile paralysis. Seventy per cent of funds raised are retained locally and used for aiding local sufferers and thirty per cent goes to the national committee, to be presented to the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation, leading institution in the nation-wide fight against infantile paralysis. Chairman Klima will welcome cooperation of everybody who wishes to aid in this worthy cause.

PWA Pictures Are Creating Interest

A display of Public Works Administration pictures in the first floor lobby of the Valley county court house is attracting much attention this week. Sponsored by the chamber of commerce, the eight large panels of pictures went on display Tuesday morning and will be there until tonight when they will be packed up and shipped to some other Nebraska town.

Many of the PWA projects in Nebraska are shown by these pictures, including many views of the Sutherland, Columbus and Tri-County hydro-electric and irrigation projects. The Missouri river bridge at Omaha, many school houses, city water projects and others being built with federal aid are portrayed in picture form in this exhibit.

Everybody who goes to the court house and inspects the display is glad that he did so; it is well worth your while to see these pictures today before they are removed. —Will Kokes has ordered the Quiz sent to his sister, Lenora in Washington, D. C., where she is employed.

My Own Column By H. D. Leggett

I want you Quiz subscribers to take notice. I mean you Quiz subscribers who are "IN THE RED" on your subscription. You are going to have to come through with some mazzuma. Many of you have promised to pay long before this I have depended on what you told me. If you can't pay a full year, or all that you owe right now, send me a dollar bill and do it now. Most of you have one or more of my postage free envelopes. Use one of them and be sure to put your name on the envelope so I will know who sent the money. That is all that is necessary, your name on the outside of one of those pink or yellow postage free envelopes and one or two dollar bills inside, sealed and mailed and by return mail you will get a postal card acknowledgment showing just when it pays you to and your Quiz will keep on coming. Not hearing, a lot of them are going to stop.

"Get thee behind me Satan." With me trying to take off three or four pounds to regain a youthful figure suffering under the evil influence of too good food during the holidays, Hank Leggett starts writing stories of old fashioned buckwheat cakes and country made sausage. I don't mind being tantalized all summer with tales of Walleed Pike fresh from the lake, cooked to a beautiful brown and served with French fried potatoes. I can stand Hank's enthusiastic descriptions of pie made from freshly gathered blueberries and some of the other palate teasing diversion he is able to enjoy, but buckwheats, old style, with country sausage, the kind with a bit of sage in it, and plenty of Michigan or Pennsylvania pure maple syrup—Have mercy, Hank, have mercy.

Thus spake Fred Howard, sage of Clay Center, Nebraska and father of Sunbeams, As Unrestricted as a Child at Play—As Unconventional as Your Own Thoughts—As Modern as 1937.

Here is another that Fred got off last week:

"The story is told of an editor who failed to get a man's conversation over the phone and said to him, 'Will you kindly repeat,' being shocked by the reply, 'Not on your life. One pair of twins is enough for any one family.'"

I am surprised that Fred has not sprung the story now going the rounds about the three men who won fame. Perhaps he hasn't heard it yet.

The two offers made on the Quiz front page last week, are bearing fruit already. This is being written on Sunday the 10th and one cartoon is already in and three more promised and we already have some pictures. I hope we may be able to uncover a cartoonist in Valley county who will be able to furnish us a cartoon each week and who will eventually gain world fame.

Anyone who reads the daily papers is forced to the belief that the whole world is a seething caldron of political intrigue. I wonder if the U. S. is as deeply embroiled as are Asiatic and European countries. I see that President Roosevelt has just given the go ahead order on a couple of great war ships to cost 50 million dollars each. It will take four years to complete them and from present indications the whole world will be fighting before many months.

Martin "Farmer" Burns was buried Saturday at his home, Ontario, Ia. Seventy-six years old, he was a professional wrestler for fifty years. He wrestled more than six thousand times and was thrown only seven times. Always an exponent of clean sport, and attributing his own success to the fact that he lived a clean life personally, he said that it is a shame to degrade such a fine sport as wrestling as modern day wrestling does.

Visitors to California are hearing the old, familiar tune of "Unusual weather" these days. A Los Angeles dispatch says it got down to 18 and that the loss to citrus growers will be millions. There are a lot of disagreeable things about Nebraska climate but just remember that there is no Utopia anywhere. No matter where you go you will find some drawbacks and when you get done investigating all the places you will come back and be ready to agree that this country, everything considered, averages up pretty well after all.

CARE OF COUNTY BOARD

A Dour Outlook.
The outlook for the farmers in this section is the most dour of any time in many years. I dare say five out of six of the farmers are in a quandary to know whether to sell out or try another year. They are in a further quandary to know, if they do farm again, where to get the seed, feed and where-with-all to operate.

The land has been so dry this fall that most of the wheat, if it was planted at all, and the rye have been killed out or never started. This will mean an extra acreage to be planted to oats, barley, or corn. Seed will be high at the best and most men do not have enough seed on hand to plant their farm.

The high price of grain and hay has been a big talking point of the administration and prosperity howlers during the last year. Such prosperity has only worked to a disadvantage to most farmers for they were buyers in place of sellers.

For the last two years many farmers had reserves saved up that now for the most part are gone. Many borrowed of the government for feed loans and seed loans and these in many instances are not paid yet. It might be expected that some of these loans would be a loss to the investor but the general delinquency in payment only reflects the lack of prosperity of the country.

Many of the farmers were on relief work before election and getting along. For this reason many people voted the democratic ticket thinking they knew what the men in power would do but not what a new bunch would do. They have been let down to be sure. The Republicans at least made promises and that is more than the democrats can say.

I presume it is a question on the part of the government whether to make more loans to impoverished farmers or let them sell out and a new bunch take their place. Many men would gladly sell out if they had any idea where to go or what to do to make a living. They might be forced on relief and cost as much for the government to support as it would to help them farm again.

Some men would gladly sell out if they thought they could pay their debts by doing so, and then take their chances on making a living from then on. But they know if their personal property does not pay out they never could pay working by the day. One good crop would pay many debts.

It seems imperative that the government come to the relief of this great group of people again in the form of seed and feed loans as it has done before, with even less stringent security, with less opportunity for alleged graft on the part of officials, and do it very promptly. One year of good crops would do wonders for this land. It would be like a warm rain in May.

Experience—No Benefit.
I was talking the other day with a man who had been quite a successful teacher a few years back, had quit that work for another job and from that went into business for himself. He is something like forty years now and has a family. He was talking of his business and I made the remark that he might do better teaching if he went back to that again.

"No," he said, "I doubt if I could get a job any more. I am getting too old. They want younger men for teachers."

Very true this is with this profession. Here is a man with much experience, as the head of a family, as an employee, as a business man, a man probably better qualified than he ever was before or many younger men, who is placed aside for youth. It would have been easier for him to get a job as teacher at the age of twenty-five with no experience than at the age of forty. And we want to remember this job as superintendent of schools is one of the most important, if not the most, in every vicinity.

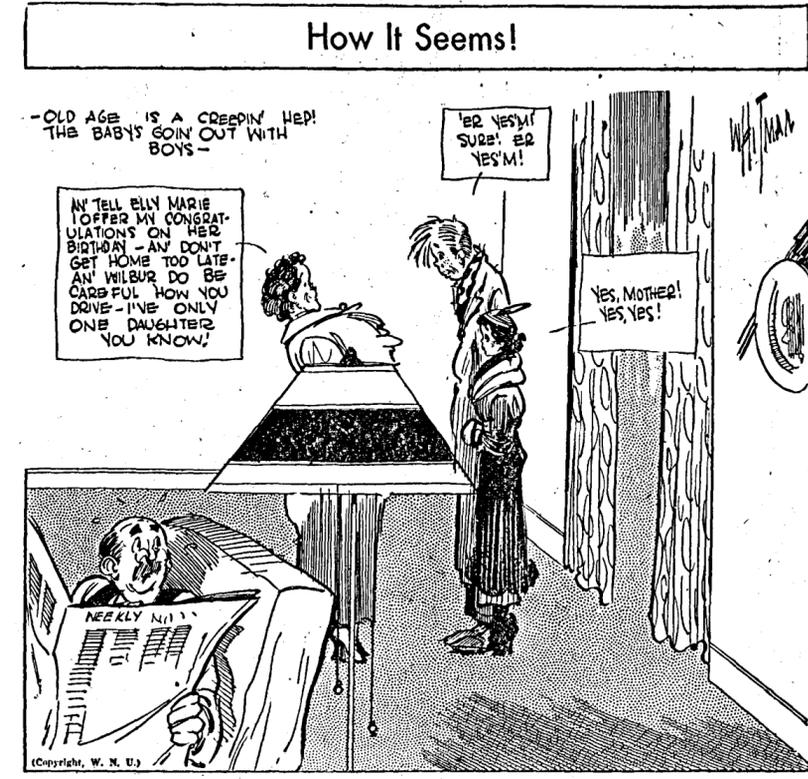

Many Mortgages.
In making the map for the North Loup Community Calendar Irvy Sheldon said to make it real interesting one should list all the mortgages on the land as well as the owners name. "Then," he said, "We would have something popular."

Upon looking the names of different land owners in the County Clerk's office I found surprisingly few pieces of land that were not mortgaged. It was surprising in more ways than one. Surprising to find so many mortgages, and surprising that folks who were supposed to be very well off had mortgages against their land.

Lloyd Rusk, while I was working in the County Clerk's office, told me that once he did make a list of every piece of land in Valley county and the mortgages recorded, when they were made and when due and who held them. He made it for the loan companies and he said it was a big job to be sure.

Scoop Both Ways.
The story is told of Bill Cox, while attempting to deliver his mail in the snow storm, drove east from the river bridge, on that half a mile stretch toward St. Krifswalt's. He had little more than started than he discovered a drift the entire distance.

He was wedged into the drift before he discovered its length and could not back out or turn around so he proceeded to shovel his way out to the corner east. There was enough room there to turn around so he decided to go home fearing to go further but found the path he had scooped out had blown full again and he had to shovel his way back.

Like the fellow who paddled his girl up the river and then paddled her back.

Mr. Leggett spoke last week about knowing a family that had moved off the highway because they were afraid to live there with cars coming around the curve from Burwell so fast.

Tubby Tolen has long been afraid for his two boys to play in the front yard, for the same reason.

Certainly Ord officials should do something to curb speedy driving when they have learned by sad experience. The little Rogers girl might be alive today had speed laws been enforced in Ord, and drivers aware of that enforcement. I know there is a modern idea that it is all right to speed through a town at fifty miles an hour on a highway, a feeling that highways are speedways.

The big snow made lots of inconveniences. Milkmen, some of them, had a terrible time, weren't able to deliver until the second day following the storm. Out west of Ord it is said there are drifts twelve feet high where snow was piled when the road was cleared, and that another storm would isolate some of those farmers until spring.

In Ord it also made travelling difficult. Many streets were blocked, most of them slippery and only open in a beaten track for several days after the snow. Those who lived on the hill had not much chance to get cars out, or to bring them back. Maybe Ord needs some more snow plows or graders or whatever such work is done with.

Many sick folk who lived in the country had a terrible time getting a doctor's attention. For instance, had a sick boy, wanted Dr. Barta to attend to his son. He called a time or two, but Dr. Barta assured him it would be impossible to get out to the Florian home through the heavy snow. Finally Mr. Florian decided to come to Ord, consult the doctor and get a prescription or something for his boy.

Calling at the Barta office, Mr. Florian learned Dr. Barta had left town about five minutes before on a business trip to a nearby city. Irony!

I am also like Mr. H. D. Leggett . . . (you can easily tell I read his column) . . . why praise anyone who is dead unless we mean it. Because they have gone is no sign they were perfect. Unless we can speak the truth about them, let's just skip saying anything at all.

You remember that story of the no-good who at long last did his family the favor of dying. He had drunk up all the money, beat them, starved them, wouldn't work, had practically nary a virtue. Came the day of the funeral and the widow and many children sat and listened to a eulogy of the dead. According to the speaker of the day, the deceased was a kind, indulgent father, an ideal husband, industrious, hard-working, honest, admirable in every way. At last the woman could stand it no longer. She had been growing more and more suspicious.

"Liz," she whispered to a little girl beside her, "just sneak up there and look in the casket and see if that's really Paw they're talkin' about."

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM

Gelatin continues to be found in more and more cooking recipes, as new dishes are invented for it every day. It is now found in pie fillings that do not need cooking, a new location for gelatin. It assists in many ice box ice cream recipes, and of course is always a help for salads, desserts, candies.

Cheese Salad.
This makes an especially nice first course or appetizer.

Juice from one can of sliced pineapple, add enough water to make one cup, mix with one package of gelatin. When cooled a very little add one five ounce jar of pimento cream cheese spread, stir until smooth. When this is very cool put in one cup of whipped cream. Mold in the can that the pineapple came in. When ready to serve, place a slice of pineapple on lettuce, then on top of it put a slice of the cheese salad of equal thickness. Top with a dab of salad dressing.

Mrs. R. E. Teague, Stromsburg, Pineapple Salad.
Combine one package of gelatin with water as directed on the package. When it begins to set whip real stiff and fold in one cup of pineapple and one-half cup whipped cream. Add a bit of sugar if desired.

Mrs. J. D. Moul, Peanut Butter Cookies.
Cream one-fourth cup butter, add one-half cup brown sugar and one-half cup white sugar and one-half cup peanut butter. Put in one egg, then one teaspoon soda and one cup flour which have been sifted together. Roll one-half teaspoon of dough in the hands into a small ball and place on a greased cookie sheet. Press flat with a fork, bake ten minutes in the oven.

Mrs. George Nass, Old-Fashioned Apple Pie.
Cream one-fourth pound butter with one-half cup brown sugar. Sift three-fourths cup white sugar and one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg with one-fourth cup flour and a pinch of salt. Mix with four cups of sliced, peeled apples is a large bowl until all are well coated. Place in a pastry lined pan, cover with a top crust. Bake at 350 degrees for thirty minutes or until the apples are tender.

Mrs. E. L. Yates.
This column limps along with a very few recipes. I wish every housewife who receives one of the new Quiz calendars would sit down now and copy off two of her best recipes and mail or leave them at the Quiz office for this column. And thank you, if you will.

We Stand Corrected.
To Dr. G. W. Taylor goes the credit of finding the first mistake in the early days story of last week. It appears that the writer was in error in supposing that the building at the park was the first Valley county courthouse. This building formerly belonged to the old Ord gun club, and Dr. Taylor was one of its members. So far as can be learned the old court house building was used up in the construction of the new building that occupies the same site on the east side of the square. Thanks for the correction, Doctor!

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Mrs. J. C. Cornell Writes.
Barber, Arkansas, Dec. 6, 1936.
Ord Quiz and friends in Valley County:

I have been asked by many to write the Quiz when we got located somewhere, so will try now to tell about our trip and the country here as we have been here nearly six months.

We left valley county, August 12, 1936, during the hottest part of the summer, as you all know, drove through Kansas the hottest day they had and the day through Oklahoma was not much better, but we drove a lot at night, had to lay up in the day a while. We never had a bit of trouble all the way, not even a flat tire and pulled a big trailer behind a little Model A Ford coupe. It was a great relief to get near Arkansas and the mountains as it was much cooler, at least at night. We have a home on a mountain ridge. This is a very beautiful country if anyone likes hills or mountains.

The mountains do not seem to be much higher than Nebraska hills and now you can drive over most of them, on the highways, without changing gears, as all main roads are paved or of crushed rock. The side roads are not even worked, so one does well to go 10 miles per on them, as they dodge trees and rocks, follow valleys, ford creeks in places and on the higher places follow the top of the mountains. But then off from the highways people either drive mules or walk, or catch rides, so of course, don't do much work on the roads.

All the mountains are heavily timbered here and everyone burns wood. Almost no one burns dead trees. They cut the green ones, as more grow soon and green wood holds fire better in the fireplaces. All, or most all homes, have a fireplace. We are not that lucky as this house was built by an outlander several years ago.

Nearly all kinds of trees grow here, several kinds of oaks, cedars, white pines, hickory, and I cannot commence to name nearly all. I have not seen a boxelder or cottonwood since I have been here so they must not be native trees. Post oak are very plentiful, the split post selling from 2 1/2 to 5 cents each, if you can sell them, but well worth more than that to get them out into posts. Saw mills are many but a lot of them shut down at present for some reason. Coal is cheap here, $2.50 per ton at the mine, while at nearby cities it is $4.50 delivered. There are lots of mines in this part of Arkansas.

Soil here is a red sandy loam that will raise anything the first few years it is broken, but like all other has to be fertilized heavily after a time as they usually raise two crops per year of some kind. Farm land is in small pieces, both in the valleys and on the higher land, as there are rock ridges and creeks everywhere. A little alfalfa is raised, although not much, while natural grass in the lower lands makes heavy hay. Cornstalks, hay and everything stock will eat is put under shelter, the long rainy seasons with warm weather most of the time, makes feed left outside rot. Most of the stock is pastured the year around, with some bran, cottonseed, rice meal or shorts fed to help out for milch cows. The average family has from 2 to 6 cows, something less than 100 chickens, only enough hogs to make meat for the family as a rule, and one team. Everybody raises a big garden, or rather two, as garden is planted about March 1, and again when the summer rains start about August 1. This year not much fall garden was planted as the rains didn't come until in September. More garden sassa and more kind are raised here than I ever saw or heard of any where. Our neighbor east has lived on this mountain 51 years and says it was dryer in 1936 than in all that time, but we had more rain in October than the average and it has been raining ever since, so it looks like 1937 will be all in favor of the farmer in this section. The ground is so wet here there are springs running every where. Water seeps through the ground on every side hill and some places near the top and still isn't muddy. We never wear rubbers or use chains on a car. And then the old timers tell us it isn't wet until you step on a rock and the water shoots up and you have your shoe full. Yes, it rains here at least some, or has since October 1. I do not know how much as we did not keep any account. It gets cold here too, as it is damp, so a fire feels good most of the time, even with the doors open to dry things out. I have a notebook with paper clips on some of the pages. The other day they were starting to rust fast from the dampness.

This seems to be a very healthy place to live, just the same. The state tuberculosis hospital is at Booneville, 12 miles away, and another is near, on Wildcat mountain, Fort Smith, Ark., about 30 miles northwest of here. It is the big market for this section, a city as large or larger than Grand Island, Nebr., with lots of factories, etc., there. There are furniture, glass and steel works there, besides a packing house, canneries, iron smelters, casket factory and I can't remember all of them. Most or all of the material used is raised or comes from the state, including iron, and cotton of a course, as that is the cash crop here.

The highest mountain in the Mississippi valley is in plain sight from our home and still is about 40 miles away, although it looks only 5 or 6 miles away on sunny days. They are making a big state park there now with WPA work. About every man here in the country worked on WPA in the last year as this county and the one or two more in northwest Arkansas were in the drought district. Now they are putting them on small places on a government resettlement program with 40 years to pay for the land. The plan was by a Dr. Tugwell from this state and will keep people from the cities and they will not be able to make the last payment until the 40 years are up, so they will take care of the land and have some inducement to put out fruit etc., as it can all be raised here.

People ask us what we think of this as a place to live. Great, so far. No long winters, no dirt storms, not so terribly hot in the summer, lots of garden. One can raise everything to eat, or about, if not the few cows and chickens will. It looks like it is one of the greatest dairy cattle layouts in the country. Cream prices are good here, while milk in F. Smith sells at 12c and 14c per quart, and the best is the pasture for cows the year around, or not more than 2 months to feed heay, at the most, while stock cattle and young stock live the year around in pasture. Water is gotten from springs mostly.

Also, everybody in the country here are about equal and the happiest people I ever saw in general. There is Sunday school and singing every week. And I find there are lots of people live here too, now that the leaves are gone from the trees, about every 40 acres there is a home of some kind, while before you could not see any, only a road or trail leading off this way or that, and maybe hear someone singing or a cow bell jingle.

Schools here are all consolidated, with busses to carry the youngsters. The higher the grade the farther away they are it seems. Our Happy walks a mile down the mountain to the bus, then goes past 2 grade schools to junior high, 12 miles. The big drawback is that the ones far away have to leave so early in the morning and are so late getting in at night. Happy leaves at 7 or 7:15 a. m., and gets back about 6 p. m., and it is dark, but all can go to high school who will. Lots of children here never go beyond the 3d or 4th grades and I know some who have gone only one term and they are now 12 years or so old. Pupils have had to furnish their own books before, but the term commencing in 1937 will have free books, so they can expect a big increase in students September 1. Students of the average are older according to grades than in Nebraska and states where they have better school laws. They are kept out of school here, fall and spring to work in the fields as so much of the work is done with a hoe and cotton takes a lot of hoe work, and the cotton is all picked by hand of course.

There are no colored people for several miles either way, a zone here, where they are not allowed, but Fort Smith has a great many of them. They have their own schools, hospitals, etc., there or near there.

The Ord coon and 'possum hunters would have been in hunters' heaven here during open season. They would have needed a guide, though, as one tree and draw looks like another after night. Could bear them all over the mountains every way for a while but think the season must be closed now as we haven't heard any since the first of the year.

Well Irma, you haven't anything on me, I haven't ever seen a Shirley Temple picture either.

Enough of Arkansas for now. I could write all day and a whole paper on the country, the things to see and do, as it is so much different than the plains country. Turnips but of the garden for dinner today, radishes for Christmas dinner and more when we want them. The ground has frozen a few times but it doesn't seem to do much harm. A good place here to live the simple life, draw water with a rope and bucket, wash on a board, heat the water in a pot out doors, go to bed early and get up early and if you go calling, walk within 1 mile or 5, doesn't make much difference when you get used to it, and as quick to go across lots as around.

Well, I hope 1937 uses Nebraska better than 1936 did.

Yours truly,
Winnie Coats Cornell.

P. S. It rained most of the day New Year's and nearly every day or night since, with two real cold days that froze the ground a little, rained most of Wednesday night and is still at it this morning.

PERSONALS

—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rahmeyer learn from a nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Steuber of Washington, D. C., that they often see the president, and saw his family at church with him Christmas morning. They admired him very much, and state that he makes a fine impression wherever he goes. The Steubers have visited here, the last time about four years ago.

—Mr. and Mrs. William Sack left Friday for Sutton where funeral services were held for his father, Jacob Sack, on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Sack passed away Wednesday evening, and was 86 years old at the time of his death. He had not been in robust health this winter, though his death came as a shock.

—Joe McDonald, alias James O'Leary of Detroit is being held in the city jail at Lincoln, Nebr., and has been implicated as the man who stole ten shotguns and a supply of ammunition from a hardware at Brainard, Nebr. The same night he entered the Wright Bros. Milling company, but apparently found nothing he could use, as he took nothing.

The Cost of a Funeral

The cost of a Funeral Service at Frazier's is entirely a matter of our patrons desire. We have services for those of lesser means, and also for those who can afford the finest.

Frazier's never over-sell a patron. It is our policy to at no time, induce the family to buy a Funeral entailing more expense than they wish. What salesmanship we do exercise is devoted to aiding those we serve in making a selection within their means.

Picture of the Week

This fine snapshot taken by Selma Robbins and submitted in the Quiz Photo Contest wins the $1.00 prize as "picture of the week." Showing the water tower at North Loup, it might have been taken during the current cold snap but actually as taken a year ago. To prevent water in the tower from freezing solid, the tank was allowed to overflow and soon was sheathed with ice as the picture shows. Some of the ice, breaking off, broke the top out of a tree directly across the road. The east and west street passing the tank was blocked off because of danger of falling ice.

motion made on June 7 was carried to sell the jail at public auction to the highest bidder on 6 months time at 10% interest. S. S. Haskell bought the jail for $41.50.

A motion was carried June 21 to have the bell, presumably the fire bell, repaired. August 6 a bill of A. V. Bradt was allowed. On Sept. 20 George W. Hall was village clerk pro tem. An ordinance was made to prevent minors from loitering about the premises of the Union Pacific railroad and catch-onto moving cars, engines and trains. J. M. Klinker, who seemed to be always objecting to something, objected to the granting of a license to Charles A. Hosier to sell liquor. Of course he lost out, as Ord had a wet majority in those days.

An ordinance for the licensing of peddlers and hawkers and the sale of bankrupt stocks was passed. A motion was carried Nov. 12 that three good, substantial pumps be put in the wells around the square. At that time Ord's only fire protection was four wells, one at each corner of the square, so one realizes the importance of good pumps. There was a second reading of the ordinance prohibiting persons catching on moving trains that was not employed by the railroad company. Ambiguous, to say the least.

On Nov. 23 the council approved the action of the marshal in having complaint filed against C. F. Way for leaving the streets to look unsightly. Dec. 2 D. N. McCord moved out of the village limits and Henry C. Wolf was chosen to take his place on the board. A Rowan was allowed $1.25 for repairing town pump, probably the 4th pump, as three new ones were bought. J. D. Wilson and John Trester complained that parties were violating the dray ordinance. The marshal was ordered to take action.

The Ord National Bank was referred to on Dec. 16. Provision was made by ordinance for a $5.00 fine for crossing sidewalks at other places than regular crossings. It should be remembered that all crossings were made of lumber at that time. Feb. 22 it was decided to have a night watchman from 9:00 p. m. to 5:00 a. m. It is not shown anywhere who got the job. On March 24 a bill of J. C. Heddle for $2.00 for use of jack screws on a bridge was allowed. This same bill was rejected as shown by the county records because the bridge was inside the village limits. The rejection took place in January.

An estimate of expenses for the year 1886, made before the board meeting of June 7, contains the following items: Officers salaries $525.00; Printing, $75.00; Election, $25.00; Incidentals, $100.00; Streets, alleys and bridges, $1500.00; Fire, $500.00, or a total of $2,725.00. The estimate for the present year was $41,500.00 of which $13,000.00 was interest on bonds and sinking fund, making a net actual expense of $28,500.00, or about 8 1/2 times as much as for fifty years ago. While the expense is higher, it is doubtful if anyone would care to go back to the horse and buggy days of fifty years ago.

In those days the principal topic of conversation both in the council proceedings and on the street was the question of wet and dry, a question that was bitterly fought out at every spring election. Some one was always objecting to granting a license to whoever wanted to run a saloon, but in most cases the objections were over ruled. In those days the hitching racks stood around the square and for block out along each street. Pumps were the only means of fire protection, and each store or home did its lighting with kerosene lamps. It was the hey-day of livery barns and blacksmith shops. There was no paving, and mud was six inches deep in the streets after every rain. Yet those were the good old days we like to look back at and long for.

City Expenses Now 8 1/2 Times Greater Than 50 Years Ago

Through the courtesy of George H. Allen, city light and water commissioner, the Quiz reporter was able to look through the records of the Village of Ord for the fiscal year beginning May 1, 1886, and concluding May 1, 1887, or the year fifty years ago. Considering that in those days many of the modern facilities for keeping records were lacking, the records were kept remarkably well, in fact, painstakingly so. This can be laid to the credit of one James F. Colby, who was village clerk for the greater part of the year, succeeding C. B. Coffin, who was appointed to the job until Mr. Colby was properly qualified.

Beginning with April 26, 1886, it appears that the village trustees were E. K. Harris, J. C. Work, F. Misko, B. C. White and D. N. McCord. M. E. Getter was appointed marshal and street commissioner. First the motion was lost 2 to 3, and immediately afterward it was carried 4 to 1. No reason was assigned for the sudden change. By a vote of 4 to 1 E. M. Coffin was chosen as village attorney. The salary of the village clerk was set at $75.00 per year.

A motion was made that the salary of the marshal be $25.00 per month. This motion was amended to read that his salary be $12.00 per year. The amended motion was carried, and the records show that Getter did actually serve as marshal during the year for that salary. The salary of the village treasurer was fixed at $25.00 per year. Two motions, one to make the salary of the village attorney $50.00 per year, the other to make it $140.00 per year, were lost, and then one to make it $100.00 per year was carried.

A remonstrance filed by W. W. Haskell asking a hearing before the board was tabled, and was not acted upon during the year. It does not appear in the record just what the remonstrance was about. Committees of two members each were appointed by the mayor, although it is not shown just who was mayor at the time. Throughout the year an acting mayor was voted on at each meeting of the board. The committees were streets and alleys, fire, health, and judiciary and finance.

Saloon licenses were granted to N. M. Vedder and Joseph Slobodny. Drays and vehicles licensed for hire had to pay an annual license fee of $25.00. A. S. Martin was appointed village treasurer. On June 3, 96 people petitioned that the dog license be made just and equitable. The price was finally set at $1. Bills of A. G. Post, M. E. Getter, J. C. Work, D. N. McCord, J. H. Capron and E. S. Capron for various amounts were allowed.

—Mrs. William Koelling has had the flu but is better now.
 —Albert Mach of Sargent joined the Quiz family this week.
 —John Ward was ill the first of the week and confined to his home.
 —C. J. Mortensen and Charles Bals shipped cattle to Omaha Sunday, both men accompanying the trainload to the market, returning home a day or two later.

Muddy Streets, Telephone Poles, Stand Out In Ord Pictures Taken 25 Years Ago

Above are shown two snapshots of the Ord business district, taken 25 or more years ago by John L. Ward. Comparing these pictures with the square as it looks today, one first notices the mud which vehicles had to navigate before pavement was laid. Also, the telephone poles stand out. When the two offices were consolidated over twenty years ago telephone wires in the business district were put in underground conduits. Another difference noted at a glance is the replacement of many old-style cloth awnings, which often were tattered and torn, with modern metal marquees. It will be noted that these snapshots were taken before the Nebraska State bank building was built. The old Bailey building, which burned down, also is shown. Compare these views with the square as it looks today.

20 Years Ago This Week. Fred Ragan, Nate Sinkler and Harold Tedro again took up their work in the 8th grade; Russell Hill of North Loup entered the 9th grade; other new pupils included Harold Canfield, Earl Bebee, Mabel Clements and Otto Cerny; a high school orchestra was formed, members being Wm. Thomas Borovka sold his large farm near Comstock and bought the Lyle Craig 80 near Ord. To efface the three balls painted by Halloween's pranksters over the county treasurer's office, as well as other legends such as "the pride of Valley county," Janitor Sherman mixed cement and water, applied it with an old broom and the legends which had aroused so much comment were removed.

The newly elected sheriff, Wilson Bell, moved in from the farm and was living with the George Gahagen family.

Hearing that city dads contemplated further improvement to the electric system, the Quiz editor complained that since Ord was financially busted it was like a hobo advertising for bids for a battleship.

The Protective association earned 9 per cent on installment stock, the secretary reported. C. A. Hager and A. J. Firkins were re-elected directors.

25 Years Ago This Week. While playing checkers with his brother-in-law, M. Coombs, A. Rowell fell over dead.

On a morning when the temperature was 33 below zero, the water front in Dr. G. W. Taylor's kitchen range exploded. Fortunately nobody was in the kitchen at the time and no fire started.

A typhoid epidemic was raging in Lincoln and Minnie Hawkins, an Ord student at the state university, was ill with the disease.

Arthur and Ernest Easterbrook and Mrs. Pierson, of Arcadia, were ill from breathing the fumes of an oil stove left lighted over night. In another Arcadia mishap, A. Fowler's team and buggy were struck by a train, one horse being killed and the buggy demolished. Mr. Fowler was thrown clear and was not greatly hurt.

Weather Postpones Ord-Kearney Clash, St. Paul Coming

Although blocked roads cheated the Chanticleers out of last week's game with the Kearney Bearcats, a severe-lusting crowd of Red and White players will get going again as they meet Coach Fred Weeks' St. Paul Apostles on the Ord floor tomorrow night. The game is set for the usual eight o'clock starting time with a preliminary game between the second stringers of both teams which starts promptly at seven o'clock.

This game is expected to be a hot contest with the Chanticleers seeking revenge for a 37-19 defeat pitted on their heads last year by the Apostles in a seasonal game. The smarting Chanticleers also have a little score to settle over the Loup Valley championship which was won by the St. Paul team last year by the narrow margin of two points. This will be the second contest of the season for the Chanticleers and the fifth for the Apostles. It will be the first game for the Red and White quint in the new Mid Six conference, St. Paul playing Ravenna last Friday for their first Mid Six encounter.

Apostles Hold Edge

The 1936 Loup Valley basketball championship St. Paul team holds an edge over the Chanticleers in this game, chiefly because of more game experience piled up by the Apostles. Starting in the middle of December, Fred Weeks' quintet has played Dannebrog, Elba, Ravenna and the Grand Island teams. Brockman's Chanticleers have played only one scheduled game this season and have had besides that only two practice games.

The Ord team is expected to be weak in this game because three of the regulars and several of the reserves have been sick during the past week. All will be on hand Friday night, but all are only in fair shape for the game. Coach Brockman will undoubtedly throw against the Apostles his regular all veteran team composed of Barta at center; Tunncliff, Zulkoski, or Haskell, forwards; and Hughes and Clark at guards. To back up this veteran machine,

Brockman has at his disposal an excellent reserve forward, Don Severson; Edwin Hitchman, who has been showing up remarkably well at his guard position; Eino Zikmund, forward; Don Dahlin, forward; Arden Clark, forward; and Charles Cetak, center.

Pyne to Be In Lineup. Coach Weeks' team has been having just a "so, so" season thus far chiefly because of the failure of Pyne, veteran player, to appear in the St. Paul line-up. Pyne, "Dead Eye Dick" to Ord fans, has been out of the game since the first practice game of the season because of an ankle injury. The injury is now O. K. and he is "rarin' to go." To all Ordites who saw this man perform last year, you will know what Pyne means when he says that he is "rarin' to go."

The St. Paul school will be represented on the court by an all-veteran outfit which differs very little from the team that copped the Loup Valley championship in 1936. The starting line-up is expected to include Pyne at forward; G. Lynch at center; Maravec at forward; LeGate, guard; and Davis at guard. This combination is minus only one man from the '36 team, that being the tall center, Griffin.

Ord vs. Burwell Tuesday. Coach Helmut Brockman's five is expected to roll rough-shod over the Burwell quintet in the third game of the season for the Chanticleers next Tuesday night. Fans are expecting the Chanticleers to chase the Wranglers around the court in fine style because of the results of an earlier practice tilt played with the Burwell team this year. Although no official score was kept, fans were counting in the fifties for the Ord team before the game was finished.

The game is to be played in the high school gym starting at eight o'clock, with probably a preliminary game being played beforehand, starting at 7 o'clock.

G. A. A. Plays Basketball

Under the supervision of Helen Myers, supervisor of girls athletics in Ord high school, a girls basketball round robin tournament is to be held soon. Two G. A. A. teams and two gym class teams will compete in this tournament, the winner of which is to receive a "basketball feed" from the losers.

2 Mid-Six Games On Week's Schedule

Looking over the week's schedule of basketball in the Loup Valley one sees that games are played almost every night of the week. Games this week will be played on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights.

Games played this week on Tuesday—too late to be given a detailed description in the Quiz, included three Loup Valley games, three non-conference clashes, and no Mid Six encounters. In the Loup Valley league Arcadia played at Taylor North Loup took on Scotia on the Scotia court, and Sargent tore into Comstock on the Comstock maples. Broken Bow and Ravenna were the lone Mid Six schools to see action of any form, the Indians playing Cozad on the Cozad floor, and Coach Johnson's Ravensnites played Litchfield on the home lot. Ansley played Mason City in a non-conference game.

One Mid Six Game. Only one Mid Six fight appears on the schedule this week, that being the Ord-St. Paul match to be held on the Ord court Friday night. Other games appearing on the Friday slate include Ansley at Loup City, G. I. Reserves at Elba, Comstock at Arcadia, Sargent playing at Broken Bow, Elm Creek at Ravenna.

On Tuesday, Jan. 19 another Mid Six conference game is to be played. In this game Ravenna will tangle with Coach Brown's Loup City crew. North Loup will play at Arcadia and Burwell will take on Ord on the Chanticleer court.

Games to be played the week of Jan. 11 to 15 include: Tuesday: Loup City at Rockville, Arcadia at Taylor, North Loup at Scotia, Sargent at Comstock, Litchfield at Ravenna, Broken Bow at Cozad, Ansley at Mason City.

Friday: St. Paul at Ord, Ansley at Loup City, G. I. reserves at Elba, Comstock at Arcadia, Sargent at Broken Bow, Elm Creek at Ravenna.

Tuesday, Jan. 19: North Loup at Arcadia, Ravenna at Loup City, and Burwell at Ord.

Ravenna Eleven Has Eleven Games

Although most of the Nebraska schools are talking basketball Ravenna high school has been arranging their 1937 football schedule. Additional contests may be arranged with Ansley, Central City or Gibbon.

Schedule: Sept. 23—Shelton, there. Oct. 1—Litchfield, there. Oct. 8—St. Paul, there. Oct. 15—Broken Bow, here. Oct. 22—Arcadia, there. Nov. 5—Loup City, here. Nov. 12—Open. Nov. 19—Ord, here. Nov. 25—Open.

Taylor High Has Four Lettermen

Billie Sears captains the Taylor high school basketball squad and heads four lettermen. Promising candidates for the team include: Sears, Satterfield, Stone, Helmkamp, Campbell, Corrick, Naab, and Fleming. The schedule: Jan. 12—Arcadia at Taylor. Jan. 15—Burwell at Taylor. Jan. 19—Comstock at Taylor. Jan. 22—Taylor at Sargent. Jan. 26—Mason City at Taylor. Jan. 29—Anselmo at Taylor. Feb. 2—Taylor at Burwell. Feb. 5—Taylor at Scotia. Feb. 9—Taylor at Sargent. Feb. 23—Taylor at Mason City.

Broken Bow Wins From Loup City

The Broken Bow Indians won from Loup City at Loup City Friday evening by the score of 29 to 18, giving the Metz-coached lads two wins out of three starts, they having lost to Anselmo and won from Merna. This is the first Mid Six conference game to be won by the Indians thus far in the season. Tuesday the Broken Bow team played Cozad at Cozad and on Friday night both the first and second Indian squads play Sargent high teams on the Bow court.

Sport Shorts

Basketball is some game the way girls play it. Yesterday drop around to the high school auditorium some Friday night after four o'clock and see this game. No tip off by the centers, no dribbling, and hardly any scoring! No matter how bad the 1937 waterfowl shooting, it can't be any more wretched than the 1936 campaign. A concentrated fight should be put up by hunters to secure an earlier season. If nature is kind and provides sufficient moisture a bumper crop of pheasants seems assured for next year. With the restocking program in full swing, fishing in Nebraska is bound to improve—1937 may see plumper game bags and happier hunters and fishers. Let us hope!

Two Bowling Teams from St. Paul

Two bowling teams from St. Paul are entered in the Grand Island city bowling league. The St. Paul teams are tied for fourth place in the ten team league.

The buying habits of readers of outdoor magazines have been surveyed. These readers own almost four guns apiece, they have more than three fishing rods and more than three reels apiece. Ninety-three per cent of them own dogs. One in three has a rowboat. One in five has an outboard motor. They have an average investment of more than four hundred dollars in sporting equipment. No wonder business is interested in conservation programs and wild life in America.

Here, in my opinion is the best All-American team given this year. These selections were made by Liberty magazine in a poll of coaches and players throughout the nation. Sam Francis was given the highest rating, 96.85 per cent of the 11 players selected for the Liberty All-America grid team for 1936.

All-Selections include the following: End—Lawrence Kelley, Yale. Tackle—Marcel Chesbro, Colgate. Guard—Stephen Reid, Northwestern. Center—Michael Basrak, Duquesne. Guard—Joseph Routt, Texas A. & M. Tackle—Edwin Widsath, Minnesota. End—Gaynell Tinsley, Louisiana State. Quarterback—Clarence Parker, Duke. Half—Ray Buivid, Marquette. Half—James Cain, Washington. Fullback—Sam Francis, Nebraska.

Ready for Good Season. North Loup high school is looking forward to one of its most successful basketball seasons in recent years as Coach Willis gets his quint in shape to slash through the '37 campaign. The tentative schedule is as follows: Jan. 9—Comstock, there. Jan. 12—Scotia, there. Jan. 14—Arcadia, here. Jan. 30—Elba, there. Feb. 9—Loup City, here. Feb. 16-17-18, L. V. H. S. tournament. Feb. 20—Scotia, here.

Arcadia Trims Mason City. Both of the Arcadia basketball teams opened up the 1937 cage season last Tuesday evening. The Ravensnites won from the Arcadia Juniors by a score of 19 to 10, while the Arcadia regulars trimmed Mason City 14 to 17. While Arcadia held an 11 to 3 advantage at the halftime, Mason City crept up during the second half, due to the fact that Bob Weddel had an ankle injury.

All Stars Win. By the score of 55 to 21 the Loup City All Stars defeated the Ashton town team on the Loup floor last Tuesday evening. Phil Janulewicz was the outstanding player for the Loup City team, tossing in eleven baskets and a free throw for a total of 23 of the 55 Loup City points.

Basketball Scores. Kearney 24, Ravenna 16. Ansley 16, Merna 12. Dannebrog 24, Boelus 22.

A few days ago the telephone at our market rang:

"My husband is out of town, the children are sick with the flu and I need some soup meat. I wonder if you'd send it up," said the lady on the other end of the wire.

Although drifts were deep, walks hadn't been shoveled, the weather was several degrees below zero and the order was small we cheerfully said that "it would be right up" and within a few minutes the soup meat was on its way.

Although we don't claim to run a delivery service on meat the circumstances were such that it seemed our duty to deliver in this instance. We go out of our way—always—to give good service. You can count on that, when you trade at this market.

News from the State Capitol

BY FRED J. MINDER.

Three years ago the word "unicameral" began to be used more or less frequently by Nebraska citizens with relation to legislative matters, and so small portions of it were carried to dictionaries to find out just what it was all about. Nebraska realized their duty to legislate and published definitions of "unicameral" and "bicameral".

As the milling throng sought view, preliminary activities were disposed of. Each step was taken cautiously and without discord. The unicameral legislature has no

Ord Girl Works Three Weeks On Book, Wins Second in National Contest

Erna Larsen, first year commercial student in Ord high school, and instructor, Miss Olivia Hansen.

Miss Erna Larsen, 17-year-old Ord high school student, has been announced as second place winner in the national bookkeeping contest conducted throughout the United States during the month of November. The results of the November contest have just been released, the final results showing that a high school girl in Winthrop, Me., won first place in the high school division.

Only one other Nebraska girl besides Miss Larsen placed in the contest, Doris Weaver of Hebron College receiving honorable mention. Eighty-six students received honorable mention awards while only eight pupils in the United States were given a Superior Merit rating as was Erna Larsen. The contest was conducted through the "Business Education World" magazine.

precedent upon which to rely and must, like the cumbersome walking-tractor, lay its own path as it goes.

The 43 members occupy the ornate room formerly occupied by the House 100 members. Across the vast tiled expanse in the room formerly occupied by the 33 Senators when Nebraska was under two-house rule, quite another scene was being enacted. The seats formerly occupied by the "upper house" were at that moment being used by a group of people taking cosmologist tests. At the front of the elaborate room were pictures of Lincoln and Washington; the clock was still; the electric voting board dark. It was a contrasting scene.

But in the legislative chamber being used there sat as spectators several university professors, some of whom have long instigated the plan of what now was a reality and who had a part in redistricting the state into 43 instead of 100 districts where legislative representatives were concerned.

As an example of what probable burdens rest on the shoulders of this small group of men, one of them, Allen A. Strong, representing the 40th unicameral district, has more territory under his jurisdiction than there is in all of Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Jersey combined.

The opening session was featured by a short address by Senator Norris. He warned the solons of the "dangers" from "special interests" that lurked by the wayside seeking to discredit their every act and admonished them not to attempt to cure all ills but to stay by passage of necessary laws, remembering, of course, that although a nation watched, their first interests were to Nebraska. Norris and his wife departed shortly after the address for Washington where the senator starts another six-year term.

Max Adams, former legislator and now secretary of the state liquor control commission, was borrowed for the occasion to serve as temporary clerk. Hugo Srb of Dodge, a former legislator, was elected secretary of the assembly and Adams retired his post.

Charles J. Warner, Lancaster county farmer and a legislator off and on since the turn of the century was signally honored by being elected speaker of the assembly. Two years ago he was one of the two republicans among the senate's 33 members and was titled minority floor leader.

R. C. (Dick) Regan of Platte county, oldest member in age and long time democratic leader in legislative circles was named chairman of the committee on committees, one of the luscious legislative posts.

Secretary Srb is democratic, so possibly in the spirit of non-partisanship, Fred Mueller of Kearney, a republican, was named assistant clerk. Mueller is an ex-representative. William Lundy, formerly of Sargent, now of Lincoln, ex-legislator and many times sergeant-at-arms in the House, is at that post for the session and George L. Santo, Lincoln, one-time secretary to Congressman Morehead, later candidate for congress, is assistant to Lundy. Mrs. Marion Cushing, of Ord, wife of the late popular legislator, was elected postmistress, and W. B. Zimmerman of St. Paul was selected as assembly chaplain.

Combined were the outgoing and incoming messages of Governor R. L. Cochran who took the oath for his second term in his private office, then proceeded to address the assembly.

Eight recommendations were specified by the chief executive for legislative consideration. They were:

1. Amendment of the automobile drivers' license law, providing for renewal every two years with the revenue thus collected going to expand the traffic and criminal law enforcement work of the state sheriff.

2. Authorization of the board of educational lands and funds to appoint a secretary or clerk, other than a board member, and empowering the board to perform all duties formerly charged to the land commissioner.

3. Extension of the mortgage moratorium.

4. Placement of the custodianship of the capitol with the department of roads and irrigation, coincident with the abolition of the land commissioner's office.

5. Reduction from $3 to $2 fees paid by cosmologists.

6. Licensing of engineers and architects.

7. Refunding of $237,300 worth of debenture bonds issued by the state fair board in 1929 for construction of the fair grounds grandstand.

8. Re-enactment, if possible, of the state bonding fund act held invalid by the state supreme court. The decision was handed down the day the legislature met.

Two oppositions were stressed by Governor Cochran in his inaugural message. They were:

1. Opposition to any general sales or income taxes.

2. Opposition to any state legislation for birdweed eradication.

In explaining his opposition to birdweed legislation the governor said the whole situation should be included in the federal soil conservation program. He said he didn't believe any legislation granting state supervision should extend beyond provision for a weed commissioner. He added that it was obvious that the use of state funds in any considerable amount would be more than the state could stand at this time.

Cochran declared the state is in no financial condition to contemplate an extensive building program at this time. He recommended, however, an appropriation for construction of a ward building at the Hastings State Hospital, terming it as an emergency and suggesting that the funds might be made available by a direct appropriation or a special levy. No doubt exists that other state buildings are needed along with repairs, the executive said.

Cochran also advised the legislators to enact an unemployment insurance measure to comply with federal requirements and make provisions to continue social security in about the same proportions it now has. He also recommended a moderate increase in highway department funds and a slight change in the financing program for social security.

Three constitutional amendments were recommended by Governor Cochran to the solons in his inaugural message.

One dealt with the making of the superintendent of public instruction a member of the board of educational lands and funds in place of the land commissioner, whose office was abolished at the last election. Another would provide for appointment by the governor of the attorney general who heretofore has been elected.

The third would make state railway commissioners appointees of the governor subject to approval of the legislature instead of elective.

When Chief Justice Goss of the supreme court prepared to administer the oath of office to elective state officers, Leo Swanson appeared and asked to be sworn in as commissioner of public lands and buildings. Swanson was re-elected to that post at the same election the voters voted to abolish the office. Said the attorney general, the office ceased with the election. Swanson contended he was elected and should serve two years more. He has suit to that effect pending before the state supreme court.

Unanimous was the expression of the legislature to a resolution memorializing congress to increase and supplement forthwith the WPA allotments of federal funds for present emergency needs in Nebraska. Introducers suggested that the present public health and safety of the state, counties, and towns are being imperiled by existing and threatened deprivations of a considerable number of their inhabitants of the necessities of life owing to destructive droughts which have blighted large areas during the past five years.

With a mild epidemic of influenza and pneumonia raging, the state health director advised against the usual public reception that heretofore has been a part of inauguration day ceremonies. Dispensed with likewise was the inaugural ball.

At least one event, possibly a record, has been rung up for the unicameral legislature. Before a single bill had been introduced for pay of the legislators, for their mileage, supplies, etc., it had taken in a bit of money.

Ed. F. Luszenski of Columbus, former representative, sent the legislature a check for $27.20 representing excess mileage at the last session.

The check went to the state treasury.

Grand Island Lady Would Buy Reindeer

The idea of decorations on top of the court house, originated by Chester Austin last year and elaborated upon by Syl Furtak this year, has caught the public fancy, and if Syl wishes to do so he could go into the Santa Claus manufacturing business. The Santa and reindeer took the eye of a lady from Grand Island, who saw them when she happened to be in Ord one evening, with the result that she wrote the following letter:

Grand Island, Nebr., Dec. 30, 1936.

Chamber of Commerce, Ord, Nebr.
Gentlemen:—I was in your city Sunday and happened to see your Santa Claus and reindeer on top of the court house. I was wondering if you would give me the address of the firm from which you got this Santa Claus and reindeer? Or if you have these for sale what would you ask for them?
Yours truly,

Alfred Wiegardt, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, wrote the lady and told her that the coveted Santa and reindeer was the work of Syl Furtak and suggested that she get in touch with him. To date Syl has not heard from her, or at least he claims he hasn't.

BULLETS OF JUSTICE

By REX COLLIER

Diagram of Battleground Between G-Men, Nelson, His Wife and Chase.

"BABY FACE" NELSON

THAT the gangster always has the advantage over the law enforcement officer in the matter of gun-play is illustrated perfectly by the case of George ("Baby Face") Nelson—christened Lester E. Gillis—who murdered three G-men before they ended his kill-crazy career at the "Battle of Barrington."

Some critics of J. Edgar Hoover's special agents have claimed "the sharp-shooting F. B. I. men "executed" some members of the Dillinger gang without giving them "a chance."

If there can be any just criticism of the agents in the Nelson case, it is that they gave "Baby Face" too much chance.

This thrice-paroled gangster shot down special Agent W. Carter Baum near the Little Bohemia inn, Mercer, Wis., in the most cold-blooded fashion. Baum, the F. B. I. files show, did not have any opportunity to defend himself.

Nelson ordered John Paul Chase to open fire with an automatic rifle on two F. B. I. agents whose official status he only suspected. That was just before the fatal Barrington battle.

He turned a machine gun on Inspector Samuel P. Cowley and Special Agent H. E. Hollis as they were getting out of their car to demand his surrender, after having overtaken him near Barrington, Ill.

It was only after the deadly bullets from Nelson's and Chase's guns were pumping into his body that Cowley turned his own machine gun on them—fatally wounding Nelson.

During the 70-mile-an-hour chase which immediately preceded this battle, Inspector Cowley had ample opportunity to fire his machine gun at Nelson's car.

Cowley apparently thought of the possibility that the man and woman with Nelson were innocent citizens, kidnaped by Nelson in his flight.

The inside story of gunplay in the Nelson case goes back to the cold night of April 22, 1934, when Agent Baum, Agent J. C. Newman and Constable Carl Christensen left the raided Little Bohemia inn to investigate a "disturbance" reported from a nearby farm.

The officers drove to the farm and pulled alongside an automobile, parked without lights in the driveway. The constable had recognized the car as one belonging to a resident of the community.

As the agents' car stopped, a man, later identified as Nelson, jumped out of the parked automobile and ordered the officers out. Without waiting for them to comply, Nelson began firing at them point-blank with an automatic pistol.

Baum was killed instantly. Newman was knocked unconscious by a bullet that grazed his forehead. Christensen also was rendered unconscious by a serious bullet wound.

Newman recovered his senses in time to fire several futile shots at Nelson, who disappeared in the darkness.

Hoover assigned Inspector Cowley, one of his most trusted aides, to the job of hunting down Dillinger, "Baby Face" Nelson and other members of their gang.

In the course of this investigation, a hotel keeper at Lake Geneva, Wis., told F. B. I. agents he suspected that some previous guests at his hotel were members of the Dillinger gang.

Cowley, with the co-operation of the hotel man, assigned two agents to take a room in the hotel keeper's home and await the return of Nelson and Chase. He stationed other agents in and about the hotel, disguised as employees. The surveillance continued uneventfully for weeks.

Then, on the afternoon of November 27, 1934, in the absence of the hotel man, the agents at the house saw a V-8 sedan stop in front of the house. Two men and a woman were in it. The visitors, whose identities could not be determined by the agents, left quickly after getting no immediate response to their knock.

The agents telephoned the Chicago office of the F. B. I. about the mysterious visitors, giving the license number of their car—Ill. 639-578.

As the car containing this trio passed through Lake Geneva a few moments later, an agent on assignment there recognized Nelson in the driver's seat and also noted the tag numbers. He, too, phoned to Chicago.

Immediately upon receipt of this second call, Cowley got in touch by telephone with two agents who were on a special assignment on the outskirts of Chicago, directing them to proceed at once toward Lake Geneva over the Northwest highway and to keep close watch for a V-8 sedan containing two men and a woman and bearing Illinois tags, number 639-578. Cowley said he and Agent Hollis would follow at once, with machine gun and shotgun, and would endeavor to overtake them on the highway.

The first pair of agents were armed only with pistols. They were in a decrepit coupe they had been using in their under-cover assignment.

About five miles east of Barrington, Ill., these agents saw headed toward them a V-8 sedan containing two men and a woman and bearing Illinois tags, only the last three numbers of which they were able to "catch." The numbers were—578. They turned around in the road sharply in order to follow this car and identify the tags definitely.

As they wheeled, Nelson became suspicious that he was being followed and he, too, turned around in the highway, heading back toward Lake Geneva. Satisfied, apparently, that he was the object of curiosity by the men in the coupe, Nelson suddenly swerved completely around once more, sped up and sought to compel the coupe to pull up at the side of the road.

The agents found themselves looking down the muzzle of an automatic rifle, held by Chase, who was seated in the back of Nelson's car.

Instead of obeying Nelson's simultaneous demand that they halt, the agents sped up and swerved down the highway. As they started away, Chase began firing at them through the windshield of Nelson's car.

Shortly after this encounter Cowley and Hollis, proceeding from Chicago, met Nelson's car on the highway. They turned around and took up the pursuit.

Nelson immediately stepped on the gas and tried to outdistance Cowley's car, which was a high-powered sedan. After a short and furious chase, during which Nelson's car began to overheat badly from loss of water, Nelson jammed on the brakes and veered into a driveway of the North side park in Barrington.

Cowley's car skidded to a stop about 200 feet ahead.

In the meantime, Nelson, Chase and Mrs. Nelson had jumped out of their car, the latter running and throwing herself into a ditch. Nelson and Chase got behind their car and leveled an automatic rifle and a machine gun over the hood.

As Cowley and Hollis emerged from their car—Cowley with a machine gun and Hollis with a shotgun—Nelson and Chase turned loose a deadly barrage of lead.

Hollis leaped behind a pole and returned the fire with his shotgun. He was killed instantly by a shot in the head as he aimed his shotgun.

Cowley, although hit several times by machine gun slugs, and while sinking to the ground from his wounds, managed to empty his machine gun at his assailants. Mortally wounded, he crumpled to the ground.

Nelson and Chase ran over to Cowley's car and started off in it.

Cowley identified himself to persons who soon rushed to the scene. Taken to a hospital, he asked that agents be rushed to him from the Chicago office. His chief concern was to confirm to his men before he died that it was "Baby Face" Nelson with whom he had battled. He died several hours after gasping his story to his grim-faced agents.

A telephone call to an undertaker, made by a mysterious woman, who hung up quickly, led Cowley's men to a ditch near a cemetery in Niles Center, near Chicago, where the remains of "Baby Face" Nelson were found—nude and torn by 17 bullets.

Another gangster had been crossed off the list—at the cost of the lives of three G-men.

Boy Chokes Coon With Bare Hands

They say that when a dog bites a man it isn't news, but we believe that when a boy chokes a coon it is news.

That is exactly what happened when Roger Roth, Russell and Dean Eilersick and Geo. Hosesk were hunting along the Middle Loup river and spied a coon, to which they immediately gave chase. After a hard run the coon decided to take to the water and the boys all stopped, with the exception of George, who was not to be outdone by Mr. Coon. He also took to the icy water, caught the coon and choked it to death. George was bitten a couple of times, but the $8.50 he received for the fur made the pain small.

Kentucky may have its Daniel Boone, but Comstock has its George Hosesk—Comstock News.

Greetings to Farmers

We surely are glad to see farmers receive all possible for their produce for 1936 and also larger rebates for your cream. Local prices for cream have been from 8c to 6c per pound more than you have received following the Nebraska cream price for several years.

It pays to have competition in that line. What became of it in the past few years? Our motto is to pay all possible at all times with a small handling charge at all times. We thank each and every one for their patronage in 1936 and hope 1937 will be a greater success.

William A. Bartlett, Former Postmaster Is Claimed By Death

Pneumonia After Flu Caused Death of Former Mayor at Ord Hospital Sunday.

Citizens of Ord were immeasurably shocked when word was passed on the street Sunday morning that William A. Bartlett had passed away shortly after midnight. Even when he was stricken with the flu early in the week no fear was felt for him, as he seemed to be holding his own against the disease. Mrs. Bartlett was also ill with the flu, but as late as Friday both of them seemed to be getting somewhat better.

Saturday about noon, due to the difficulty of obtaining help to do the work, Mr. Bartlett was persuaded to go to the Ord hospital, but even then he seemed no worse than before. Saturday night, however, he rapidly grew worse until the end came. The flu, a pneumonia development, and a heart weakness were all contributing factors to his death. An injury suffered last spring in an auto accident doubtless also, had an effect.

William Allen Bartlett was born at Montour, Iowa, Nov. 4, 1872, the son of Daniel Simpson Bartlett and Hannah Miranda Ford. The family came to Ord when he was six years of age, and his father had much to do with the social life of the village of Ord in the early days. In addition to his schooling at Montour and Ord, W. A. Bartlett attended the Lincoln Business college.

He spent nine years of his life, part of the time being before his marriage, in teaching in the schools of Valley county. Together with C. W. Bebee, now of Garfield county, he shared the honor of being the highest paid teachers in the county.

On Nov. 10, 1897 he was married to Susan Una Hull, at Ord, and to this union four children were born, all of whom survive. They are, Blanche Gilmore, Lincoln, Neb., Helen Nelson, Omaha, Neb., Muriel Zikmund, Lincoln, Neb., and Daniel C. Bartlett, of Ontario, Ore. Other near relatives include a sister, Ida M. Cox of Huntington Park, Calif., and 7 grandchildren.

Mr. Bartlett's natural inclination was to be of public service, and he was called by the public in four different capacities in the latter years of his life. In November 1912 he was elected county assessor of Valley county by a large majority. He held this position with credit to himself until 1914 when Otto Murschel dropped out of the race for county clerk. Mr. Bartlett was chosen to fill the vacancy and at the next general election was elected county clerk. Again in 1916 he was chosen by a large majority for a second term.

In 1920 Mr. Bartlett entered the contest for postmaster of Ord, and as high man in the examinations he was appointed to the position, which he held with greatest of success until succeeded by Edwin Clements March 10, 1924. Perhaps even more credit should be given him for his four years service as mayor of Ord, from May 1926 until May 1930. His work in this capacity was outstanding. It was under his administration that the city water purification plant was built.

For many years Mr. Bartlett was a member of Ord Lodge No. 86, Knights of Pythias, and in this capacity he held the position of Chancellor-commander, the highest position in the local lodge. He was also a member of the Ord Presbyterian church.

Funeral services were conducted from the Sowl chapel Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, the minister of the Presbyterian church, Rev. S. A. Woodruff, jr., having charge, and interment was made in the Ord cemetery. The pallbearers were Mark Tolon, Guy LeMasters, A. W. Pierce, Carl Sorensen, Ed Vogeltanz, Clarence Davis, Horace Travis and Curt Gudmundsen. A quartet consisting of Mrs. J. P. Barta, Mrs. Anthony Koupal, John Haskell and James Ollis sang, with Mrs. H. J. McBeth at the organ. The flower committee were Mrs. Joe Puncocar and Mrs. Guy LeMasters.

Those who were in attendance from a distance were the Gilmore family, of Lincoln, the Nelson family, of Omaha, Dan Bartlett, of Ontario, Ore., Foster Hull, of Victor, Ia., and Ross Hull, of Goshen, Neb. The youngest daughter, Muriel Zikmund, was unable to attend because of illness. Also here for the funeral were Arthur and Ferd Wheeler, of Burwell and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Creemen, of Arcadia. Due to serious illness from the flu, Mrs. Bartlett was unable to attend her husband's funeral. Other relatives unable to come were his step-mother, Kate Bartlett, of Grinnell, Ia., and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Myrtle Bartlett, of Lewistown, Ida.

First Mail Of Year Arrived On Jan. 15

Richard Reck of near Horace shoveled his way through to the outside world Saturday and was the first man from his immediate neighborhood to get to town in 1937. He lives in the section that is a problem for the Burlington road every time the wind blows and fills the cuts with snow. He did not stay long, as he said that a hard wind might fill the cuts again before he got back home. Because of unusual weather conditions it was impossible for the mail man to make his full route, and the first mail on that part of it, arrived Friday, Jan. 15. However, no one was suffering, as they were prepared for just such an emergency.

Highways Open, Is McAllister Report

Traffic is going through on all highways in his maintenance district, the Quiz was told yesterday by R. N. McAllister, state maintenance chief. No. 11 is open from Burwell to Grand Island, No. 57 from Ord to Arcadia is open and a snowplow crew opened the road from Loup City to Midway yesterday afternoon.

About two inches of snow fell in Ord Tuesday night and was blown into drifts by a strong north wind but regular maintenance crews, by working long hours, were able to keep traffic moving on state highways throughout the storm.

The temperature was 4 above zero in Ord early Wednesday morning but by noon had descended to zero, where it stayed most of the day.

Corn Yield Under Irrigation May Be 60 Bu.-Stewart

65 Farmers Braved Sub-Zero Weather to Hear Ag Men Discuss Problems.

Although last Thursday was a cold, disagreeable day about 65 interested farmers were present at the irrigation meeting conducted by the Valley county farm bureau at the American Legion hall. Ivan D. Wood, agricultural engineer who was to have talked on the engineering phases of land preparation and use of water was ill with influenza and unable to take part in the program. A. V. Ferry of Black & Veach substituted and answered questions in regard to engineering problems.

P. H. Stewart, agronomist of the agricultural college made the principal talk and brought out many facts of interest to those who will undertake farming under irrigation. To begin, Mr. Stewart told the farmers who are under the project that when water becomes available they will in effect move out of Nebraska into Indiana. The average rainfall in Valley county is 24 inches per year over a period of years. Add to this 12 inches of water available under irrigation and you have 36 inches of water annually, which is comparable to the annual rainfall in Indiana.

A farmer leaving this county and moving to Indiana would not expect to farm as he had in Nebraska and neither can the farmer whose land is under irrigation expect to farm as he has in the past.

One of the big problems to be faced will be that of keeping up soil fertility. It does not pay to go to the expense and labor involved in irrigation, upon soil which is not high in fertility making high yields possible. With water available there is not the danger of building fertility so high that crops will burn as they do under dry land farming.

Experimental data on irrigation at the North Platte station shows that corn will yield 60 bushel per acre under irrigation on the average compared to fifteen bushels on dry land. Figuring the cost of irrigation at $10 per acre, the extra 45 bushels of corn produced by irrigation is made at a cost of 22c per bushel. On land on which the fertility is not kept at a high state the increase would be perhaps only 20 bushels per acre and this increase would be produced at a cost of 50c per bushel and in many years the corn produced would not sell for as much as 50c per bushel.

Another interesting fact was brought out in regard to the importance of subsoil moisture. Experiments show that when the subsoil is wet to a depth of 4 feet at planting time, the chances are nine to one that a good crop will be harvested. With the subsoil wet only one foot at planting time, the chances are over three to one that a good crop will not be harvested.

This fact is especially important, said Mr. Stewart, because under the project water will not be available at all times exactly when the farmer wants it. He can in a large way forestall any deterioration of crops due to lack of moisture, by thoroughly soaking the soil when water is available. Spring and fall irrigation to store water in the soil should be an important part of irrigation practices in this region.

No one can foresee what crops will ultimately be grown in Valley county under irrigation in the future but in the first few years irrigation will probably be used largely on corn and alfalfa, and livestock feeding will develop in a big way. With proper preparation and planning Mr. Stewart, predicts a bright future for farming under irrigation in this county.

The farm bureau plans on having Mr. Wood return to the county at a later date to demonstrate the use of machinery for leveling the land, the use of farm levels, and other engineering phases which the farmer must learn in order to properly prepare his land for irrigation.

Services Friday For Harlan Tully

Funeral services for Harlan Tully, who died not long ago at Didsbury, Alberta, Canada, will be held at Sowl's chapel Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, burial being made in the cemetery at Elyria. Unusual weather conditions and interrupted train service made a postponement of the services necessary.

Chanticleers Were Not Impressive In Defeating Burwell

Won 41-16 But Team Work Poor; Cowell's Reserves Also Won, 16 to 14.

Helmut Brockman's Chanticleers made it their third consecutive victory of the 1937 season Tuesday night as they rolled over Burwell to the tune of 41 to 16, but although they won by quite an impressive score, the Redshirts showed little flashiness in doing so. The Red and White team failed to click in their usual manner throughout the game, the best offensive work being done in the third quarter when the Chanticleers brought the score up to a 35 to 12 lead over the Wranglers.

Starters for the game included Cetak, Dahlin, Zikmund, Severson and Haskell. With this combination Dahlin showed up well by tossing in three field goals and three free throws. Severson and Haskell aided in the scoring the first quarter which ended 14 to 8 in favor of Ord.

During the second period Ord was represented on the floor by its first string line-up which included Tunnicliff and Zulkoski at forwards, Barta at center, Clark and Hughes at guards. This quarter was very dull, the Chanticleers failing to connect with the basket and displaying poor teamwork. At the half time the score was 22 to 8 in favor of the Ordites.

It was in the third quarter that the Ord machine shone at its best. Tunnicliff broke loose in this period, to bring the score up to 35 to 12 at the finale of the third stanza.

Much substitution and varied combinations were tried by the Ord mentor in the final period, with the first stringers doing a majority of the work.

Tunnicliff with a total of 16 counters to his credit carried away

Markets 20 Hogs Fed On Artichokes Made Nice Profit

On the 17th day of November, 1936, Wm. H. Schudel, a farmer at North Loup, Nebraska weighed in 20 pigs that averaged 134 pounds each and began feeding them Jerusalem artichokes, corn and water. He sold these pigs December 30, 1936 when they weighed 205 pounds each, having made a net gain of 71 pounds each in 43 days. These pigs were fed 2 pounds of corn and an average of 15 pounds of artichoke tubers per head per day. They consumed 31 bushels of corn at $1.20 per bushel, total cost for same $37.20, and 12,900 pounds of artichokes at $14.50 per ton, total cost of same $186.52, making the total feed bill $130.72. The pigs were worth $6.50 per hundred when weighed in, making their total cost $174.20, and the total cost of feed being $130.72, the total investment was $304.92. The pigs sold on December 30, 1936 at $9.65 per hundred which brought a total of $395.65 which left a nice profit of $90.73 to Mr. Schudel after paying himself $14.50 per ton for the artichokes. This was done in 43 days on 20 pigs.

It is conceded that 10 bushels of corn will produce 100 pounds of pork when fed with some other supplemental feed, therefore it was assumed in this feeding test the 86 pounds of corn fed each pig produced about 15 pounds of the 71 pounds gained on that pig, and the remaining 56 pounds was put on by artichokes and water, in other words it took 5 6-10 pounds of corn to make one pound of pork, which means there are about 175 pounds of pork in one ton of artichokes. In that locality it is claimed that farmers can easily raise an average of 6 tons of artichokes per acre when corn is almost a failure and that would mean 1,050 pounds of pork per acre in a bad year and if they only received 5c per pound for the pork they would make $52.50 per acre.

If Mr. Schudel had paid the same price for the pigs per hundred pounds as he sold them for he would still have received $14.50 per ton for his artichokes and had $6.33 net profit above that.

Mr. Schudel ground up the artichoke tops for forage and fed that to his calves which they ate and relished even though good alfalfa was provided for them at the same time.

Aldrich Janicek from across the river northeast of Burwell was down to the Lloyd Manchester sale below North Loup Tuesday. He said he figured he would find himself among strangers, but when he got there he ran across a number of his own neighbors. This goes to show that it pays to advertise public sales.

Entries Welcomed In Picture Contest

Many more entries are welcomed in the Quiz "picture of the week" contest, which was announced two weeks ago. In this contest the Quiz will pay $1.00 in cash for the best snapshot submitted each week by an amateur photographer of Valley county. Last week's $1.00 prize was awarded to Selma Robbins, of North Loup, and this week the prize goes to Mrs. Otto Turck of Comstock.

To win prizes pictures should show some local people or local scene and should have been taken recently. "Kodak as you go" and win a prize in this weekly contest.

Jensen Returns To Reopen Studio Here

George Jensen, Ord young man who has been manager of the Dollar Studio in Scottsbluff for the past year, returned to Ord Tuesday morning and is reopening his studio, known as the Jensen Photo Service, and will again specialize in all forms of home portraiture, kodak finishing, etc. Mr. Jensen purchased some of the Dollar Studio's equipment to help him in his work here.

John Deere Picture Seen By Big Crowd

Chris Beiers, new local John Deere dealer, reports that the picture show put on January 13 at the Ord theater proved very popular, there being nearly five hundred farmers and others in attendance. This picture was sponsored by Mr. Beiers and the film furnished by the John Deere company as a part of its Centennial celebration.

It depicts the plight of the farmer who first tried to plow in the heavy soil of the middle west, using the cast plows that were in common use in the lighter soils of the east. No matter how hard they tried the plow would not scour. It shows how John Deere conceived the idea of a steel plow from seeing the highly polished surface of a broken circular saw. In fact his first plow was made from an old saw.

The leading parts in the play were carried out by some of the best known of Hollywood actors and the entire film was very interesting and instructive. The presentation of this interesting bit of history meant no small amount of trouble to Mr. Beiers and also considerable expense, but he feels that its cordial reception by the public made it well worth while.

Distributed Good Cheer At Christmas

From the following report, kindly turned in by Mrs. Minnie Carlton, it will appear that the Red Cross and other activities were not dormant during the holiday season just past. The report says that 100 dinners were delivered by the good people of Ord during Christmas time, bringing Christmas cheer to approximately 333 children as well as grownups. Toys, fruit and candy were included with each.

Other articles distributed by the Red Cross are as follows: Shoes, used, 22 pair, new, 3 pair, boots, 2 pair. Underwear, used, 14, new, 4. Overshoes, used, 2 pair, new, 1 pair. First Nighthale Reported In 1937

Maybe one swallow does not make a spring, and likewise perhaps a nighthale cannot be classed as a first robin, but nevertheless the first Nighthale for 1937 was reported from Burwell this week. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Nighthale, are as well known in Ord as in Burwell. The young lady arrived Thursday morning at 3:00 at the Cram hospital in Burwell, and mother and baby are doing fine. This is the second child in the family, the other a daughter, being Gladys, now nearly 18 years of age.

Omaha Concern Low Was Lowest Bidder

Arcadia-(Special)—Dobson & Humphrey, well known Omaha contractors, were low bidders Friday on the job of constructing three canals for the Middle Loup project and were awarded the contract. Their bid was $108,980. Work is expected to start as soon as the contract is approved by the PWA and weather conditions make it possible.

At the annual town meeting Tuesday morning Clarence M. Davis was elected for another year as a member of the library board

M. Fries, Foremost Citizen of Arcadia Died On Saturday

Was Wealthy Lumberman, Land Owner, Active In G. O. P. Politics.

After a lingering illness with cancer, Martin L. Fries, 80, one of Valley county's most influential and respected citizens, died at 9:00 a. m. Saturday, Jan. 16, at the Arcadia home of his daughter, Mrs. Inez F. Lewin. Mr. Fries was a wealthy lumberman and owner of farm land and throughout his life was active in state, national and local politics, serving his fellow citizens in many offices of responsibility. He was laid to rest in Arcadia cemetery Monday afternoon after funeral rites at the home.

Martin Luther Fries was born on a farm at Winchester, Va., on Oct. 15, 1856, the thirteenth and youngest child of Martin and Elizabeth Ann Fries. His father died before he was born and amidst poor surroundings and circumstances his mother labored hard and faithfully to raise her family. She passed away before Martin reached manhood and during his early boyhood days in Virginia he did his share toward keeping the family in meager food, a duty that was made increasingly difficult by movements of the union and Confederate armies during the Civil war.

When Martin was 12 years old the family moved to Jasper county, Missouri, where he spent the winters in country schools and also was able to spend a year in Carthage high school. Determined to get an education, he worked hard, saved his earnings and by working his way was graduated from the Northern Indiana Normal school. He then taught school for a few years in Indiana and Illinois.

His health demanding a change of climate, he went to California and from 1881 to 1885 was head of Sierra College, in Auburn, Calif. Then for a year he was associated with a business college in San Francisco.

In 1886 Mr. Fries located at Arcadia and established a lumber business which became increasingly successful and prosperous. Becoming one of Nebraska's best known lumbermen, Mr. Fries served several terms as president of the Nebraska Lumber Dealers' association.

He was always interested in politics and was a bulwark of strength to the republican party in his locality. He was a Valley county supervisor several terms, was twice elected state senator in 1903 and in 1907, was a McKinley presidential elector in 1896 and served again in that capacity for Hoover in 1928, was a delegate to the republican convention at Philadelphia in 1900.

Throughout his residence in Arcadia Mr. Fries was an outstanding citizen whose counsel and leadership were of great worth. He gave both of time and money to community enterprises, and always interested in the progress of the village, could always be found in the midst of plans for benefiting his fellow citizens.

He was an extensive owner of farm land both in Valley and Custer county, for several years was president and principal owner of the First National bank of Arcadia, was a thirty-second degree Mason and a Shriner.

On July 18, 1883 he was married to Cora Anderson and this companionship was not broken until in February, 1929 Mrs. Fries passed away. One daughter, now Mrs. N. A. Lewin, was born to them and Mr. Fries also is mourned by three grandchildren, Martin F. Fries, Coalyun Christ, Elizabeth A. Lewin, and one great granddaughter, Jo Ann Christ. There also is a nephew, Clarence W. Starr. Mr. Fries also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Lude F. Hinkle, of Santa Cruz, Calif., and Mrs. Lenzie Starr, of Lyons, Kas., as well as many more distant relatives.

The funeral services were conducted from the home Monday at 2:00 p. m. with Rev. Lawrence E. Nye officiating, assisted by Rev. R. B. Howell. Rev. Nye and Max Wall each sang solos, with Mrs. Wall at the piano. Pallbearers were E. C. Baird, Charles Weddel, P. W. Round, Ray Hill, James Cooper and Ray Lutz. Interment was in the Arcadia cemetery beside his wife.

Gerald Ray McNamee.

Gerald Ray McNamee, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur McNamee, was born Aug. 28, 1936, and died at the Ord hospital Jan. 13, where he had been taken, suffering with pneumonia. His age was 4 months and 16 days. Besides his parents he leaves a sister, Ellen Fay, aged 3; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Parker Cook, and a number of other near relatives. One brother, Wilbur passed away in 1932.

Rev. Merle C. Smith had charge of the services, which were held from the Sowl chapel Friday afternoon.

My Own Column By H. D. Leggett

Here is a tragic tale in four lines by some unknown student of neighborhood life:
Beneath this stone lies Murphy
They buried him today
He lived the life of Riley
When Riley was away.

The national urge seems to be speed. You will see a man drive down the street like the devil was after him and wonder if he is going to a fire or after the doctor and if you watch he will park his car and saunter into Spot's and start playing the ball machine and spend an hour there perhaps. A couple of minutes longer in getting there would have made the streets much safer for him and everyone else. And a lot of the people who have been killed recently in airplane crashes could probably have taken a train just as well and there are almost no train accidents these days.

Fred Howard, Clay Center editor, writes me to ask if he would be allowed to enter in the Valley county stork derby. Sure Fred, I am sure it won't work any hard-ship on Valley county people for you to enter.

That story that Winnie Coats Cornell sent us last week gave me as much enjoyment as anything I have read in a long time and I am believing that many of you also enjoyed it. Now wouldn't it be great if more of our absent friends would do something like that?

A recent news local in the Spalding paper says that Mr. and Mrs. William Buzzard of Chadron visited her mother, Mrs. Lottie Flock, which I would say makes quite a flock of buzzards.

The improvement in the stock and service in the Pecaska market since Mr. Otto Pecaska became the manager is marked. New items are being constantly added and one of the outstanding additions is his cheese department. I counted ten varieties one evening, that he had in stock. Most of the time he probably don't have that many but he could have forty kinds if there was sufficient demand. There are many kinds of cheese on the market. Mr. Pecaska thinks that his advertising in this paper is a real means for getting business. The Pecaska market has had a nice advertisement in this paper every week for a number of years.

My old friend John Pokraka got back on the Quiz list this week. John is running a tourist camp out in or near Denver and doing a nice business and the first time I can find an excuse for going that way I am going to visit him and use some of his camp while I look over the interesting things to be seen in that vicinity.

How do you folks who have received the new cook calendar like it? The little girl is my granddaughter Cora Lee Anderson. The black Scottie dog is named Heatherwood Laddie on his pedigree but we call him Jock and those little girls think he is a wonderful pet. The kitten is named Pete through who she should be named that is a mystery to me. Jock is four times the size of Pete and he takes her through and around the house just as long as Pete enjoys it but when ever she gets sick of it and turns the dog Jock at once loses interest. If any of you who read this have not received your calendar it is because you were back of January 1937 on your subscription. We have a few of the calendars left, in case you want to pay up and get yours.

The merry war goes on in the state railway commission and there is only one way, apparently, to stop it and that is to do away with the commission entirely. They act like a bunch of school kids.

It always peevs me to see a man who tells me he is unable to pay his subscription, wasting his nickels and dimes on a slot or ball machine. All such machines are sucker bait and only people with money that they can afford to throw away, should ever patronize them.

KMMJ has bought Fred Howard's Clay Center Sun for $20,000.00 and Nebraska weekly newspaper loses from its ranks one of its outstanding members. Editor Howard is one of the old school printers and newspaper men who has kept abreast of the times. He has printed eight pages each week never varying the number as do most weekly newspapers, and by so doing, probably he has made more money than has the average newspaperman who kept help enough to get out 12 or 14 or 16 pages and worked hard to do so and much of the time had to be content with 8 and 10 pages. The Clay County Sun always reminded me of a well groomed man who was particular to have his shoes shined, his mustache waxed, his hair carefully combed and his clothes properly pressed with a rose in the buttonhole of the coat. What I mean is that it was always letter perfect, beautifully printed, perfectly folded, never the hurried effect that an extra 2 or 4 pages would have caused. The advertisements were always beautifully set and he used a little better, smoother grade of paper than the others of us generally used. The outstanding feature was his personal column which of late years he has called Sunbeams. I have never dared to clip and print the whole column. Some items usually had to be cut out and I have always wondered how Fred got away with some of the things he printed. The one crumb of comfort in the announcement for me is the statement that Mr. Howard will continue to write his Sunbeams column. I hope he may gain wider fame in whatever he undertakes from now on, be it high finance or columning or what have you.

You can sometimes call a man a damned fool and get away with it, but it is seldom that you can make him like it.

Something Different

Newspaper people over the state will all hate it that Fred Howard has sold his paper, the Clay County Sun. But they can bear up considerably better, since Fred will continue to write that sunshiny column of his about the sunbeams.

There ain't no other such column, it is the first thing everyone grabs his paper to read. The goings-on of Miss Lobella and her crew are more than entertaining, they are priceless.

Though once in a while I am a bit surprised Fred didn't have to print on asbestos paper

Newspaper people aren't used to compliments, but are quite accustomed to hearing "what you got wrong", etc.

So I had to put a stinger in the sentences above, so that Mr. Howard would feel at home.

It is too bad we don't have more skiing around Ord. There are some dandy hills, not too high, close to town, too. The youngsters and all those who feel young could have more fun than a little. I don't know how to ski or how to make a ski run, or a thing about it. Doesn't someone? Maybe we could learn it out of a book; that is what Bud Shirley did when he began the golf business in Ord.

A few winters like this and we might be able to make Ord a famous winter resort and skiing center. They wouldn't need to go out to that new spot, in Idaho, isn't it? . . . where movie stars and would-be celebrities have been flocking. Going chiefly for the reason, I understand, that the word has been well circulated that it costs $48 a day to stay there. They probably want everyone to think they can afford it!

Jock Anderson, little black pal dog of Shirley and Coralee Anderson, is a Scottie, and he isn't very tall. When the Andersons first got Jockie, that smart-cracking Harry McBeth announced to Flora May Leggett Anderson, "I believe you've got a good suit against the city, Flora."

Flora was mystified. "Why" she bit.

"For building the sidewalks too close to your dog, haha," laughed Harry.

Someone played a practical joke on Hash McGrew the other day . . . did you hear it over the radio? The Ord boys sent in a letter testifying to the virtues of some product advertised over the radio, signing it Herschel McGrew, vowing that he and his wife had used it for years. Quite a shock to Hash, probably, containing as it did the first that he knew he had a wife!

Dr. Blessing had some fun the other day, too. He sent a telegram to Jim McCall, rural mail carrier, who was vacationing in California with his wife, containing this message: "Ten feet of snow, wish you were here."

Back came an answer from the literary-minded and poetical Mr. McCall: "Her hair is redolent with the perfume of many flowers." But Mr. McCall couldn't resist the pleasure of trying to deliver mail over impassable roads piled high with snow, so in a few days, sure enough, he was "here".

Potatoes in some form are used on our tables every day in the year, and there are so many delicious ways to fix them that they need not be served the same way twice in several weeks.

Potato pancakes, a rich, nourishing meal in themselves, are a dish that I think came from Germany originally. But they have become a favorite wherever they appeared. If you haven't tried them on your family you will want to use this recipe:

Potato Pancakes.
Grind about six rather large potatoes with the small knife of a meat grinder. Add three well beaten eggs and three rounding tablespoons of flour. Put in salt and pepper to taste. This batter should be thin. Fry in lard so hot it is nearly smoking.

Mrs. Ernest Rahlmeyer. With potato pancakes Mrs. Rahlmeyer says they have discovered that nothing goes so well as home made pickled pigs feet.

Pickled Pigs Feet.
See to it that the feet are thoroughly cleaned and claws removed. Boil in seasoned water, salt and pepper until tender. The water should nearly cover them. Boil two cups of vinegar, three tablespoons of sugar and one tablespoon pickling spices tied up in a sack for five minutes, then pour over the pigs feet and mix well. Serve when cold.

Mrs. Ernest Rahlmeyer. Vegetable Meat Loaf.
Mix two tablespoons flour with one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-half cup drained cooked spinach, one-half cup grated or ground raw carrots, one-fourth cup tomatoes, one pound ground beef. Stir in one beaten egg, form into a loaf. Place in a pan with two teaspoons meat drippings and bake one hour at 400 degrees F.

Mrs. K. C. Lewis. Stuffed Meat Loaf.
Mix one and one-half pounds ground beef, one-half pound ground pork, four slices bread which have been soaked in warm water and drained. Put in one finely chopped onion, one tablespoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, two eggs. Then two tablespoons butter or lard, mixing in the order given. Line the bottom and sides of a loaf pan. Fill with onion stuffing; chop three large onions, chopped fine, one-fourth cup lard, one and one-half cups soft bread crumbs, one teaspoon sage, one-half teaspoon water. Cover the top of the stuffing with more meat loaf, pour over a mixture of one-half cup water, one-half cup chili sauce.

Mrs. O. E. Wesenberg. Eggless Fruit Cake.
One cup sugar mixed with one-half cup shortening, one cup sour milk, one teaspoon of soda dissolved in the milk, one teaspoon nutmeg, one teaspoon mace, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves, one-half teaspoon allspice. Sift together two cups flour with one teaspoon baking powder and add last.

"A rain will make the topsoil of a corn field muddy, but the earth may be dry five or six feet below the surface where the crop roots are feeding." This remark was advanced by Paul Stewart, extension agronomist, to emphasize the value of irrigation for renewing subsoil moisture, badly depleted by recent droughts.

Stewart, in his talk at Ord last Thursday, also stressed the need for greater soil fertility. "A lot of irrigated land in Nebraska is only yielding 35 bushels per acre because its supply of plant food is low," he asserted. "You men, whose farms are under the ditch, are moving from Nebraska to Ohio, so far as moisture and fertility are concerned." Stewart declared that large yields are imperative, if irrigated farming is to be profitable.

When asked what the expense of irrigating in the Loup valley would amount to, Stewart replied that it would be $2.50 per acre, plus the cost of ditching, plus the cost of leveling, plus the labor of irrigating. At the North Platte state experiment farm it costs ten dollars per acre to irrigate from a well. In the past ten years the irrigated corn has yielded 56 bushels per acre the dry land corn has produced 18 bushels per acre, and the cost for each bushel of increased production has been 29 cents. Potatoes have been more profitable at North Platte; the irrigated crop has averaged 330 bushels, as compared with 99 bushels to the acre from natural rainfall. The cost of each bushel of increased potato production has been less than 7 cents.

The farmers were advised to start leveling their land at an early date. Stewart suggested that many fields would have to be broken up into smaller patches, with the rows running in various directions, according to the contour of the ground. Early application of water was also recommended.

"Irrigation farming has the advantage of stability," Stewart stated. "The farmer knows about what he is going to raise when he plants his crop. He explained how western farmers can determine the approximate yields of winter wheat before seeding time by measuring the amount of moisture in the soil. Stewart believes that irrigation will make the Loup valley a great livestock feeding center.

Sixty interested farmers listened to the agronomist and asked questions. The meeting was sponsored by C. C. Dale, who promised to bring another irrigation expert to this community in the near future.

CARE OF COUNTY BOARD

By George Gowen

Children's Reading.
Most all children, sooner or later, have a penchant for reading. At that time they get their noses in books and all other activity takes second place. Great pains, if it is possible, should be taken, when that stage in their life occurs, to provide the proper literature.

There are great quantities of good reading. Most boys and girls magazines print proper stories, stories of dependable heroes, who obey the laws and make good. The attempt is made by the editors, and they usually succeed, to have the villain or law breaker brought to punishment.

Boy Scout books and even Alger stories are fine reading for small boys. True enough these are not of the highest type of literature, but the stories are always clean and inspirational of better behavior.

Such classics as Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn are notorious and pleasant reading for grown folks but surely not the type for youngsters. The heroes are young hellions, running away from home, swearing, lazy and unmindful of their parents' requests. Amusing to be sure but far from what we want our children to pattern after.

In the history of North Loup there has been no less than three escapades by young boys, quite serious too, and all three were laid directly to the fact that these boys had been reading Tom Sawyer. In one case some small boys ran away from home trying to pattern after their hero in that book.

Treasure Island was written especially for children and it too is a famous book full of murder, drinking, and anything but uplifting influence. Even Old Silver, the worst murderer of the lot comes out in the end with part of the fortune. I have seen these last three books mentioned many times as books recommended for child's reading.

Many of the so-called better magazines surely could not be recommended for youthful minds. Many of the ladies magazines run mostly to triangle stories, with drinking and smoking as perfectly proper for everyone. They have the ultra-modern, sophisticated stories that speak too plainly to be read aloud or in silence without blushing and portray lives anything but what we want our children to lead.

In a recent ladies magazine was a love story, the heroine of which had three ardent beaux. These men fought over her, stole her cigarettes, drank her wine, and finally she went to sleep in one of the men's arms and slept until morning. I told my wife that I would hate to have my daughter read that but I thought it was good for us. After reading that we would learn to better appreciate the other stories.

We must remember that it is the text that the child's mind reads and not the fine literary qualities displayed.

Remindful.
And speaking of magazines, when I read some of them I am reminded of the song books in church.

Some smart young intellectual has taken a good number of them and taken the pains to run through a long series of pages saying, "Please look on page 56." When you look there it says "Please look on page 20". You keep looking back and forth in the book to a dozen or more "please looks" and in the end it says, "Now see what you have found" or some other fool remark.

Foolish as all this is I never failed to run one through. It passes quite a little time away, but more than that the American people like to be fooled and I claim to be an American. And I have mentioned the fact to others and yet have failed to find a person who does not "please look."

But I said some magazines reminded me of that. Well, by the time I have read through the "continued on page 6," and 10, and then 5, I begin to think I am in church for sure.

The Low Down.
Ed Lee had a scientific turn of mind the other day and fell to discussing television. Someone thought we would have television in ten years. Ed didn't hardly believe that. He maintained that it might be possible between towns like Scotia and North Loup but not as far as New York.

The arguments piled up pretty hard against Ed and he finally had to concede a little more. He thought we might have television in ten years but if we did it would be in Heaven.

I asked him what he thought about the other place, that's where probably most of us will be, and Ed thought there would be television there too, but we would have our minds so taken up we wouldn't care.

Anyway it's nice to have the low-down on some of these things.

Paying for a Funeral

Frazier's realize that death frequently follows a long and expensive illness. This being the case, it often happens that the family has little, or no, money available at the time the Services are ordered.

Our Services are priced at the lowest possible figure, and if the family can make payment in a short while we appreciate it.

However—when immediate payment is not possible, Frazier's are always ready to treat their patron fair and extend such terms that meet the patron's ability to pay. We never wish to work hardships on a bereaved family.

Apostles Guilty of Rough Tactics But Ord Wins, 40 to 21

Zulkoski, Barta, Stars in Ord Scoring Spree; Four Apostles Leave Floor.

Flashing a brilliant third quarter rally, Coach Helmut Brockman's Ord high Chanticleers registered their second consecutive win of the season and their first Mid Six conference victory by beating St. Paul 40 to 21 Friday evening. The St. Paul team was minus the services of two regulars, LeGate and Moravec, but never-the-less played a bang-up game of ball the first half, which time the Chanticleers were leading by the small margin of 15 to 12.

As a whole, the game was of the rapid, fast-moving type. The Apostle team was on the defensive throughout the entire game, never getting a chance to show their offensive talents. Throughout the fourth quarter the St. Paul team was represented on the floor by only four men, the other five being removed because of personal fouls. After the first half the Apostle quint turned to strictly underdog tactics, fouling the Ord players at every opportunity. Seventeen personals were called on the St. Paul team with the Chanticleers receiving eleven.

Zulkoski Was "Hot". Harry Zulkoski, who has been on the sick list ever since the season opened, served notice to Ord fans that he would be on the Chanticleer team in a really big way before the season progresses much further. Dean Barta, a senior letterman at the center position, also showed up in fine style and proved that he is the best shot on the Ord squad by sinking seven free throws and tossing in four field goals to take top scoring honors for the evening. Zulkoski was next in line on the scoring list with a total of 10 counters to his credit, Tunnick followed close behind with nine points.

Game Summary. With a beautiful side shot by Zulkoski in the first thirty seconds of the game, the Chanticleers started off the first quarter. The Ord quint continuously drove into scoring position, only to miss their short shots or set-ups. With the Chanticleers always on the offensive, the Apostles took time out. The time out seemed to strengthen the Blue and Gold team, the Apostles trailing behind the Chanticleers by a 6 to 4 margin at the end of the first quarter. Ord-6, St. Paul-4. It was in the second quarter that Zulkoski strutted his stuff. Sinking a long shot, the Apostles tied up the score 6-6. With some neat passing on the part of his teammates Zulkoski tipped in three field goals, Barta one, to bring the score up to a close 15-12 verdict at the half time. Coming back after the half the Tunnick-Zulkoski-Barta combination ran wild. Slipping in field goals from every corner of the court, the Ord team made the Apostles look very poor indeed. With this orgy of scoring the Chanticleers were leading 35 to 13 at the end of the third period. In the final period Brockman substituted his second stringers for the first squad and gave them a trial against the St. Paul five. It was then that the St. Paul team resorted to cave-man methods. Seeing that it was impossible to win the Apostles decided they would do away with as many Red-shirts as possible. The final perlod was not a basketball game—it was a farce-comedy. The determined little second team held the St. Paulites scoreless almost the entire quarter, spoiling every attempt made by the Apostles to score, the Ord fans howling with glee. The hilarity drew to a close in the final minutes of the game when the first five again made their appearance. Although playing a smoother brand of ball, it was not until the first team was put into the game late in the fourth quarter that the St. Paul team was able to score.

Comstock Defeated Sargent High Team

Coach Samuelson's Comstock high hoopers came through last week to hand defeats to both the Sargent first and second teams, nearly doubling the score on their opponents in each game.

Flashing a point-getting offense, the Comstock quint took the lead in both games and were never in any great danger. The second team game ended 27 to 14, and the first team contest was won 24 to 13.

Litchfield Spanked By Ravenna, 20-11

Old Man Jinx took a tallspin from the Ravenna athletic camp when Coach Stan Johnson's basketballers won from Litchfield high last week by a score of 21 to 11. In the preliminary Ravenna 2nds nosed out the Litchfield 2nds 11 to 10 in the final moment of play.

This was the first win for Ravenna in either basketball or football since the close of last basketball season. The Ravenna football squad lost every game on the schedule in 1936 and the basketball team opened the season with three consecutive losses.

Farmers At Scotia Have 'Hunting Bee'

A new game for farmers was given a trial at Scotia, recently. About twenty-five farmers gathered themselves together in the Scotia community for a huge "hunting bee." Rules which were made for the game included: A cottontail would count five points; a jack-rabbit, ten points; a crow, twenty-five points. Also the losing team would honor the winners with an oyster supper sometime in the near future.

After three hours of hunting, the hunting teams returned to the starting point to determine the winner. The winning team piled up 375 points, this team killing 37 jackrabbits and one cottontail. Another team scored 350 points, bagging 31 jackrabbits and 8 cottontails.

North Loup Wins 2nd Straight Game

In a game that was featured by much roughness and close-play, the North Loup cagers aided by the long-range shooting of Manchester scored its second victory of the season, winning from Ericson 28 to 14.

The North Loup quint with quite a disadvantage in height, had trouble getting into scoring position at the start of the game. Ericson broke the ice with a field goal and a free throw before Bartz was able to score under the basket for North Loup. At the end of the first quarter, Ericson led 7-5. At the half time North Loup was in the lead by a close 10-9 margin.

In the final four minutes of the contest, Manchester, with several brilliant long range shots, boosted the score to the final 24 to 14 decision.

Dannebrog Wins Eighth. Dannebrog chalked up their eighth consecutive win last Friday as the first string Dannebrog squad outscored Wood River 31 to 17 and the reserves edged out the Wood River seconds, 21 to 18. D. Hansen was high scorer for the Dannebrog team, tipping in a total of 18 points.

Ord Juniors to Play In Ravenna Tourney

Ord, Litchfield, Loup City, Mason City, Cairo and Ravenna have entered junior high basketball teams in the tournament which is to be held at Ravenna on Feb. 5 and 6. This tourney will be conducted in regulation manner with trophies awarded to the first and second place winners.

Several other teams in this section have been invited to attend the Ravenna tournament but only two more teams will be admitted as officials are planning for only an 8-team tournament.

Present plans call for four preliminary games on Friday night, Feb. 5, with the balance of the games on Saturday afternoon and night, Feb. 6.

The Ravenna juniors, figured as strong contenders for the trophy defeated the Arcadia juniors 19-10 in a game at Arcadia last week. "Chick O'Neil made 10 points while Kelso tallied 5. It is reported that "Chick O'Neil, ace of the Ravenna junior high school athletics, will not be able to participate in athletics the remainder of the year. He was taken to the St. Francis hospital in Grand Island for an appendectomy. Loss of "Chick" will seriously handicap the Ravenna juniors in their basketball schedule this year.

Blues Head Arcadia Basketball League

With their win over the Whites the Blue team captained by Dr. Kibbie head the Arcadia city basketball league with two wins and no losses.

Don Moody, George White and Roy Buck lead in the scoring for the Blues with three field goals each. Denton lead the White team with four field goals.

In the second game played last week the Reds won over the Engineers when Jess Waddel dropped in six field goals to lead all individual scoring for the evening. Elliott made three goals and two free throws. On the Engineer team Bierlein made three, Tarcea two, and Peral two field goals.

Hunters Bag One Coyote.

About 25 hunters joined a coyote hunt near Palmer recently. Rounding up a patch of brush near the river, they surrounded three or four coyotes. They killed one and with a few more men in the lines would probably have gotten all of them. One huge coyote tried to escape across the river, running out on the ice and plunging into the open current. The coyote made several lunges among the large chunks of floating ice, and changing his mind, swam back to shore, shook off the icy water. He escaped before the men nearest him could reload their guns—Palmer Journal.

2 Mid Six Games On Week's Schedule

Basketball in both the Loup Valley and Mid Six conferences keeps up a steady hum this week as a total of ten games appear on the schedule.

Loup City took on a fighting Ravenna crew on the Ravenna court on Tuesday of this week, too late to be given a detailed account in the Quiz. Other games played Tuesday included Sargent at Anselmo, Comstock at Taylor, Arcadia at North Loup, Dannebrog at Palmer and Burwell at Ord.

On Wednesday night the Scotia five traveled to Dannebrog where they met the fast traveling Dannebrog quintet, which is playing excellent brand of basketball this season.

Two Mid Six Games.

Friday night will see two hot basketball contests, these being Mid Six Conference clashes. Loup City will journey to St. Paul for a game with the Apostle outfit while Coach Brockman takes his Red and White men to Broken Bow in an official conference game with the Indians. Only one Loup Valley conference game is on tap, Taylor moving against Sargent on the Sargent maples.

Sport Shorts

Ord ekes out a 24-21 win over Sargent. Comstock wins handily over the Copeland-coached Sargentites by a score of 24-14. There's a nigger in the woodpile—or sumptin'. Here's what the Comstock News has to say, "Ord just succeeded in winning from Sargent a couple of weeks ago. Last week Sargent snowed Arcadia under, so it looks as though Comstock has a mighty good chance for the Loup Valley championship." Maybe so—maybe so—we'll wait and see.

The junior high basketball tourney which will be held at Ravenna on Febr. 5 and 6 is the first of its kind to be held in this region for a long, long time. Palmer, Nebr., has a grade school tournament nearly every year.

The St. Paul quint can sure pull the "doity" work when it wants to! By actual count, 12 personal fouls were called on the Apostle team in the fourth quarter of the Ord-St. Paul encounter. Two Paulites had nary a mark against them until the fourth quarter and then left the game on personals!

Frank B. O'Connell, chief state conservation officer, said many pheasants died during the recent cold spell because ice froze over their nostrils, suffocating the birds.

The Burwell G. A. A. girls are playing volleyball. They have been playing with the Sophomores against the Seniors, Juniors, and Freshmen. This makes the sides quite evenly matched. The girls have enjoyed playing chain tag to warm-up before starting volleyball.

Egad, Alvin! I believe we have at last discovered a solution for the lopsided win scored by Comstock over Sargent. The Sargent Leader remarks: "Because of so much grip, flu, or whatever you choose to call it, only eleven players went from here on the two teams. Two regulars and three second stringers were missing from the line-up. Coach Leland Copeland was sick and was unable to accompany his team. Supt. E. G. Lightbody went with the boys to Comstock." Oh, oh—Oscar says that that sickness ailment goes for the St. Paul team too. I'm still thinking about that group of half-sick players that Coach Brockman was forced to take over to the Loup Valley basketball tourney last year. So what?

Until this year Loup City has had no place in which to play basketball to advantage and for that reason it has not been a very good basketball town. Today the scene has changed. Loup City has a new gymnasium and enthusiasm is bubbling over. Last Friday night they had a regular basketball treat. Five basketball games were played on the same floor in one evening! Loup City has a grade school team, a junior high team, high school second team, high school first team, and a town team.

Dannebrog Wins, 13 to 10. The Dannebrog quintet defeated the Shelton high school hoopers in a basketball thriller played on the Shelton floor last week. One of the tightest defenses in this section of the state was displayed by these two teams, the final score being 12-10 in favor of Dannebrog. In the preliminary contest the Shelton Reserves defeated the Dannebrog reserves 13-9.

BASKETBALL SCORES. North Loup 24, Ericson 14. Kearney 26, Lexington 16. Comstock 24, Sargent 14. N. Platte 30, Gothenburg 9. Dannebrog 12, Shelton 10. Ord 40, St. Paul 21. B. Bow 28, Cozad 18. B. Bow Res. 20, Cozad Res. 14. Ravenna 20, Litchfield 11. B. Bow 29, L. City 19. Spalding 31, Palmer 29. North Loup 40, Scotia 18. Rockville 30, Loup City 19.

Will Play York. In an unscheduled game this Friday the Dannebrog high school cagers will go against the York high school five. Although York is a much larger school a close game is assured because of the fact that the Dannebrog five is as yet undefeated this season.

Broken Bow Next Chanticleer Foe; Spalding Jan. 26

Backed up by two victories, the Chanticleers stride further into the 1937 season as they meet Coach Metz's Broken Bow quintet Friday and the highly touted Spalding five on Tuesday, Jan. 26. Both first and second Chanticleer teams will see action in these two games.

Local fans are giving the Chanticleers more than a chance to place victory number three on the list when they play Broken Bow but are a little dubious when it comes to predicting a victory over the Spalding Bluejays.

Broken Bow Is Weak. If the number of experienced men to be found on a team should count in placing the odds, the Chanticleers should be given a unanimous vote to beat the Indian crew. Coach Metz's outfit has pary a letterman, having lost them all in the graduating services last year.

Coach Metz will probably put on the home floor against the Chanticleers a quintet selected from Arnd, Critchfield, Wilson, Smith, Dean, Fox, Tockey, Haddor or Itale.

Spalding On Tuesday. On Tuesday night, Jan. 26 the Chanticleers meet a team that has scored more points per game than any other quintet in Nebraska. In the first five games of the season the Spalding machine slung up 314 points to their opponents 46. This makes an average of 63 points per game.

In their last game the Spalding Bluejays showed up rather poorly however, eking out a half-breath 31 to 29 victory over Palmer high school. Running and Ringlein are the two eagle-eyed forwards on the Spalding quint and are really "hot" when it comes to swishing 'em through the hoop. The second-stringers of the Spalding team are also good. In the Palmer game, after trailing all the way—by nine points at the third quarter—they went into a dazzling formation that brought them victory, 20 to 19.

But we knew that in this winter's Standard Red Crown we had a gasoline which would back up that promise to the limit. It has done that. Thousands of Nebraska motorists have been using this fast-starting Standard Red Crown right through the coldest weather. Obituary.

Alexander Fillmore Alder was born in Smithville, West Virginia, August 1, 1856 and passed away at his home in Burwell, Nebr., January 14, 1937 at the age of 80 years, 5 months and 14 days.

In the year 1860 his family moved to Bethany, Mo., from there to Springfield, Minn., and in 1862 to Waterloo, Ia., where they resided during the Civil War in which his father was a soldier. They returned to Bethany, Mo., in 1865.

He was united in marriage on September 28, 1879 to Amanda E. Butcher and to this union were born 7 children. Four of the children passed away in infancy and a daughter, Bertha, passed away in 1891 at the age of 18 years.

In April 1886 he brought his family to Cherry county, Nebraska near Merriman, where he took a homestead and resided there until 1899 when he moved to Burwell, Nebr., where he has since resided. At the age of 40 years he united with the Methodist church near Merriman and has always been a very faithful worker in the church. He took a great deal of interest in the work of a country Sunday school in Cherry county, where he taught a class for several years. Later he taught a class in the county Sunday schools near Burwell.

He was a very kind and loving father, always devoting his time not only to his own family but was always ready to help others in times of sickness. It can be truthfully said that he played the part of a good Samaritan.

He leaves to mourn his passing, his wife, one daughter, Mrs. W. P. Johnson of Trumbull, Nebr., one son, Roy E. Alder of Burwell, one brother and one sister, both re-

Winter Sports Keep Younsters Busy

Youngsters of Ord approve the kind of a winter we're having this year, even though their parents do complain about it because of coal bills and the high cost of warm winter clothing. Skiing and bobsledding are being enjoyed more this month than ever before because of the heavy blanket of ice and snow that has covered hillsides since Christmas. In the upper picture are seen a group of boys aboard a bobsled, about to take off down hospital hill in southwest Ord. In the lower picture two exponents of skiing demonstrate how its done. Lawrence Duemey took the pictures.

residence in San Francisco, since moving from Ord. He was a member of Ord Lodge No. 103, A. F. and A. M., having joined in 1898. Mr. Way retired from active work in 1932, returning here from San Francisco.

He is survived by his wife, Charlotte; three sons, C. T. of Lincoln, Ellsworth of Centralia, Wash., and Earl of Los Angeles; two brothers B. C. of Hayward, Calif., and S. B. of Salem, Ore.; and a sister, Mrs. Theodore Reynolds of Kirksville, Mo. Another brother, D. C. Way, who was well known in Ord forty to fifty years ago, is deceased.

C. F. Way had a right to be classed among the early day settlers in Ord. The first official reference to his residence here is made in the proceedings of the village trustees for March 5, 1885, at which meeting he was appointed marshal to fill a vacancy, the appointment being made by the chairman, Henry W. Nelson, with the approval of the rest of the board. He held the position only two months, receiving $30.00 for the first month, and only $10.00 for the second which was probably the cause of his resignation.

Other activities while a resident of Ord included running a livery barn and buying livestock. He was a great promoter, and at various times sold almost every kind of insurance. When the Ben Hur lodge was at the height of its popularity, Mr. Way was a deputy Supreme Chief, operating out of Lincoln, and engineered a membership contest which netted 175 new members. At that time he brought the Lincoln degree team here to exemplify the work.

He was also Valley county's first Standard Stock Food agent, and the late C. A. Hager was appointed agent for the same line by him.

work in securing high point honors of the evening by piling in a total of 11 of the total 16 counts. Scoring was divided evenly amongst the Burwell squad Sorenson, Billy Beat, Anderson and Shaffer all being good for 3 points each.

The game was rather a rough affair, roughness being displayed by both sides. Severson and Tunnicliff refereed the game in professional manner that was agreeable to both teams.

IF YOU WANT A CROWD OF BUYERS AT YOUR CLEAN-UP SALE ADVERTISE IN THE QUIZ

2,400 SUBSCRIBERS

And Over Half of Them Live on Farms in Valley and Adjoining Counties

Advertising in this newspaper reaches a greater audience—both in town and on the farm—than is possible to reach in any other manner, in Valley and adjoining counties. If you want a crowd of buyers at your sale, want it to be successful, you should advertise in the Quiz. This newspaper is the one medium read by people all over Valley county and well into Sherman, Custer, Garfield, Loup, Wheeler and Greeley counties as well.

We invite you to reserve dates for late January and February sales on our Sale Calendar. Reserve them well in advance, for auctioneers and banks tell us there will be many clean-up sales in the next six weeks.

QUIZ ADVERTISING RATES ARE LOW!

Our advertising rate is only 30c per column inch, only a few cents more than charged by other newspapers having only a fourth the circulation of the Quiz. It really is cheap advertising. For instance, an ad this size will cost you only $9.00. If you sent a postcard to every subscriber on the Quiz list your cost for postage alone would be $24.00. If you mailed your cards only to farmers on the Quiz list your postage cost would be $14.00. If you want bills we will reprint them from the ad at very low cost. Unless you have a very large sale your total advertising cost should not exceed $11.00.

This is the actual number of Quiz subscribers but your message, placed in the Quiz, will be read by many more families than 2,400, since many non-subscribers borrow and read the paper each week.

Streamlined? Not Cars of 25 Years Ago

Such terms as "streamlined" and "wind resistance" weren't known to automobile manufacturers of 25 and 30 years ago, as the pictures above prove. They were taken by John L. Ward. Other people in the picture are not known to the editor. The lower picture shows cars parked on the Ord square and probably was taken two or three years later than the picture at Bussell Park.

Free Play Will Be Given By Thespians

If plans of the Ord high school Thespians Club are successful, you will indeed laugh, scream, shudder, on the night of Jan. 29. On this night the modern mystery-farce "Spooky Tavern", is to be presented in the high school auditorium by the Thespians. "Free to Everybody!" That's the unique feature of this Thespians presentation. This will mark the first time in the history of the local school system that a complete three-act play, over two and one-half hours in length, has been given to the public free of charge. Not unlike beavers are the Thespians members as they hold rehearsals in the high school auditorium each week day evening. A special crew is working hard on light and sound effects while the property committee is busy finding enough revolvers and pistols in the community for the cast! A large cast which represents the best of dramatic talent in the Ord schools, is working hard on the play and expect to make the play a "smashing success." The cast includes: Virginia Sack, Laverne Lakin, Wilma Krikac, Leonard Sobon, Lavern Duemey, Irene Whiting, Dorothy Auble, Robert Williamson, Jack Janssen, Dick Koupal and Evelyn Johnson.

Storz, Master Brewer, Fetes 85th Birthday

Gottlieb Storz, prominent Omaha brewer is 85 years old today. In good health, he is the active head of the brewery he started in Omaha 61 years ago. Mr. Storz goes to his office daily, taking a keen interest in all phases of his business. "It is work that keeps me 'eeeling so young," he says. "Work is fun. It keeps you going. It doesn't give me time to grow old." Gottlieb Storz received his training as brewmaster in one of the famous old European breweries at Wurtemberg, Germany. In those days many young Germans were coming to the United States and Mr. Storz came with them. He decided on Omaha as an ideal place to settle. Omaha was "a place where he could grow with the country." His brewing skill stood him in good stead in his adopted home. The growth of the brewery he started in Omaha in 1876 was rapid. Today it is one of the largest and best equipped breweries in the west. Four times Storz beer won the world's championship in international competition. Not even in prohibition days was the Storz brewery closed down. Mr. Storz kept his equip-

Should Feed Game Birds This Winter

What is the prospect for wild game in this section of the country. Reports of pheasants, weakened by the cold weather and lack of food, and a remembrance of their scarcity the past two hunting seasons, brings up this question. In order to have a supply of wild game, it must be hatched and grown in the territory where it is hunted. No game farm could possibly raise enough birds to supply game for the guns, with the funds which could be available for that purpose. The farm can furnish birds for "seed," start new species, such as quail and partridges, and can do much good, but the hunters will come home empty handed, or nearly so, unless the birds are grown under natural conditions, and in large numbers. It has been suggested that farmers consider game as a "cash crop" taking care to provide cover and feed for the birds and charging for the privilege of hunting. It might be that this method could be developed and most hunters would be willing to pay for the privilege of hunting where game is plentiful. However, the "scrip plan" used a few years ago, did not seem popular, and was abandoned. It may be that with the return of seasons of plenty, with the growth of plenty of feed, and corn to be left standing in the fields, that the hardy pheasants will get another foothold and will again be plentiful. At least there will be a much better chance, if the pheasants can find a few ears of corn above the snow, and be thus strengthened to endure the terrifically cold weather sometimes experienced. There is no future unless the birds we have now are fed and protected, and enabled to survive this winter. The CCC camp has built shelters, and will put whatever feed they may receive in these shelters. This is only a small start. Every sportsman should make some effort to feed a few pheasants, to provide shelter for them, and see that as many as possible be kept as breeding stock for next season.

News from the State Capitol

BY FRED J. MINDER.

The decision to call the one house legislature the Senate and its members Senators, the agreement to borrow some cash from a bank to defray cost of stamps and the working arrangement to pay the Senators were the outstanding bits of action that came from the 52nd Nebraska legislature as it wended its way cautiously through the second week.

Preliminary activities occupied much of the time. Rules committee, headed by Senator John N. Norton, ex-congressman, worked long and hard in a hotel room to draft the working arrangement for the new organization, and when mimeographed copies of the net results were laid on senators' desks, every indication pointed to the fact that the first major scrimmage of the session would result. The rules committee through its labors sought to cover all phases that might come under its jurisdiction, but it was evident when the results were brought into the light of the senate chamber, some senators had ideas quite different and much more thorough. The debating of these contentions likely furnished the first fireworks that have been so patiently awaited by the gallery through that is ever present.

The adoption of the name Senate and the title Senator for the body and its members was done by resolution. The resolution superceded a legislative bill to that effect introduced during the opening days of the session. There were several witticisms bantered back and forth, particularly among members of the "second house"—the lobby. One that was in general accord seemed to imply the title "Norrismen" would be a good title for the unicameralists. The name carried that of Senator Norris, generally conceded to be "grandpappy" of the one-house setup in Nebraska.

Over considerable opposition a majority of the senate prevailed in the idea of borrowing $1,000 from some Lincoln bank to defray the cost of stamps. The body earlier had agreed that each member be allotted stamps in the amount of $1 each legislative day.

What indicated the unsound foundation upon which the early days of the session endeavored to function came when, almost unanimously, the senators agreed to pay themselves $500 of their $872 per year salary. Those members whose duty it is to check on the ways and means of reticulated with fact that the machinery for this action could not function until it was properly set up. This threw the session into general confusion over the particular point of how much and when the senator should receive his pay. One of the interesting points brought out was the means to be taken in event a member dies after he has been paid in full for his senatorial services. The committee in charge took the matter in hand, hastily drafted necessary legislation and reported it back.

In prior bicameral legislatures the first bills to hit the hopper generally were those taking care of members and the employees pay.

A brief clash over the appointment of Bernard McNeny, Red Cloud attorney, as a member of the state normal board afforded temporary excitement for the gallery. The appointment, one of several proposed by Governor R. L. Cochran was opposed strenuously by Senator Earl W. Carpenter of Guide Rock—the senator who normally would move the confirmation since McNeny is from his district.

"I vote no," Carpenter declared, "for the reason that I feel the member of the board should be in closer contact with the teaching profession." The senator went on to say that McNeny is a "corporation attorney and a criminal lawyer," and that he felt "the board is exercising control over the teachers."

In a post-session discussion of the matter Senator Carpenter said that he is registered as a democrat and that McNeny also is a member of that party. He said, however, that McNeny "is Ed Burke's right-hand man down there." Carpenter declared he was opposed to Burke and "all machine politics."

Thirty senators voted for confirmation, three opposed and ten did not vote. McNeny's term is for six years and is a re-appointment.

Four other appointees of the governor were approved by 39 yeas. The other four senators were not present.

The appointees are J. B. Douglas of Tecumseh to the game, forestation and park commission; W. H. Smith, Seward, tax commissioner; Guy R. Spencer, Omaha, game, forestation and parks commission and E. D. Crites, Chadron, to the state normal board.

A high school class from Syracuse bears the distinction of being the first of its kind to witness the unicameral legislature in session. Twenty-five students were present to watch proceedings. It was part of their course of study.

Contrary to the usual activity in the vicinity of the bill hopper in former legislative years, this year found a vast majority of the senate steering clear of that region of the chamber. More than a thousand bills found their way to the hopper during the first 20 legislative days of the last bicameral session, but eight legislative days of this, the first unicameral session found less than a score on file. For the sake of convenience, the tentative laws are being called Legislative Bills. It is indicated the title Senate File may be attached inasmuch as the body has agreed to call itself the senate. In other years the title House Roll and Senate File were affixed to the introduced legislation.

Constitutionality of laws drafted and particularly those enacted seems to be the hue and cry of the session. To that end three attorneys, L. J. TePeol, Creighton law school dean, has been recommended as bill drafter and Milton Murphy and Robert Van Pel, attorneys, as advisors to committees. The recommendation carried a tentative agreement of $25 per session day for each member of the counsel committee. This setup is independent of the legislative reference bureau that is maintained throughout the session and for months prior to it. Two years ago George Price, Lincoln attorney was adviser. His reappointment this session was not confirmed.

Much of the work being done by Senators to date has been in committee. The completion or organization and inauguration of state officers brought a decided lull in activity on the senator floor and for many days the body would assemble at 10 a. m., only to adjourn an hour or an hour and a half later until the next day.

Until such time as senators can agree upon permanent rules for the senate, temporary rules of procedure have been adopted. Much as were those of the usual bicameral session, the day proceeds with prayer, roll call, journal corrections, petitions and memorials, standing committee reports, select committee reports, resolutions, introduction of bills, first, second and third reading, reconsideration of business, special order, consideration of bills on general file, unfinished business, and miscellaneous business. That this procedure will be followed almost entirely in the permanent rules recommendation was indicated by members of the rules committee.

Bills having to do with taxes and moratoriums were among the first dozen to reach the hopper. LB 1, introduced by Senator Haycock and others, proposes cancellation of interest and penalties on delinquent taxes when paid in full in lump sum. LB 4 by Senator Regan and others proposed to extend mortgage moratorium until March 1, 1939.

Present at the inauguration of President Roosevelt in Washington will be Governor and Mrs. R. L. Cochran of Nebraska. Primary importance is attached to the governor's budget message that he indicated would be delivered just as the fifteen legislative days he is permitted to take draws near a close.

The periodical legislative bill having to do with fees paid sheriffs for feeding prisoners has appeared early in the session. LB 15 by Senator Ashmore of Fallsdale would change to 75 cents per day the compensation allowed to sheriffs in cities of the first class for care of each prisoner, providing the average is less than 25 prisoners per day. The present law allows 15 cents for lodging and 15 cents for each meal.

Senator Harry Ganz of Alliance has his name attached to LB 16 which if enacted, will allow voters of school districts to choose school sites by majority vote, provided the site is within three-fourths of a mile of the geographical center of the district, and requires a four-fifths vote of all legally registered voters present at the meeting if the site is not within three-fourths of a mile of the center of the district.

A legislative bill, LB 6, by Senator Schultz proposes to authorize counties to add to state levy a tax sufficient to pay for the care of their indigent insane, feeble minded and tubercular patients in state hospitals. If enacted the law would in effect, make the statute the same as it was before changed by the 1935 legislature.

The first bill introduced pertaining to automobiles came early and bears number LB 6. Senator Carpenter would fix penalties for failure to exhibit auto plates, $10 to $50 for the first offense and $50 to $500 for second offense. The existing statute carries no penalties.

LB 5, introduced by Senator Regan and others, proposes to remove the $200 limit per year on salary of county physicians.

The initial highway bill is titled LB 9 and has Senator Nuenberger as its sponsor. It would add to the state highway system road 203 beginning at Federal highway No. 6 at or near Laurel, thence east following the route of abandoned part of No. 20, north of Dixon through Allen and connecting with No. 20 at Waterbury.

Walter Fowler.
Walter A. Fowler was born at Arcadia, Neb., on November 8th, 1898, and passed from this life on January 14, 1937. His age at death was 38 years, 2 months, 6 days. He passed away at the home of his sister, Mrs. Earl Snodgrass, with whom he has made his home for the past eleven years. He has lived practically all of his life, near Arcadia, with the exception of seven years which he spent in Texas with his parents. His father, mother and one brother have preceded him in death. Those left to mourn his departure are two sisters, Mrs. Earl Snodgrass of Arcadia, Mrs. Arthur Fisher of Hemingford; four brothers, Floyd, Edgar and Earl of Stapleton and Morris of Milburn, besides many other relatives and a host of friends.
Walter was known as "Shorty" among his friends whom he knew best. This typified the very spirit and philosophy which he lived, in spite of affliction which he was compelled to suffer. He had a perpetual smile and jolly spirit for everyone, and very few realized that he had knowledge that his days in this land were numbered. His health has been failing for several years, but his presence among his friends was not that of a defeatist, but of a victorious personality, who has won out over uncounted physical difficulties, and he refused to whimper to the world. Such a spirit will make him all the more missed in the home of his sister, and in the circles of his other relatives and friends.
The services were held at the Methodist church Saturday, January 16, 1937. Rev. Lawrence E. Nye was in charge. Interment in the Arcadia cemetery. The pallbearers were Arthur Pierson, Don Moody, Merle Moody, Chancy Smith, Jr., and Roy Buck.

Inquisition of Eight.
If the above heading doesn't mean a thing to you, don't bother to read it until you have read the rest of this article, provided the editor does not throw it away. Monday the writer got off the job and into bed with the flu, with his mind full of the usual flurry of first of the week news. Thereafter for three days and nights every minute of sleep was enlivened with the weirdest dreams possible to imagine, and all heading about one subject, the getting out of news.
Always there was the taking of notes, notes, notes, and packing them in every pocket, only to wake up later and find that the pockets were not there. In its incipient form the idea called for the writing of a special article on some indefinite subject, the gist of which was never definitely determined. Of course a special item requires a heading, and the Quiz heads of that caliber have a limit of 17 letters.
From the Lord knows where the above words came, and the mania to use them persisted. They apparently had a very definite meaning in connection with the article supposed to be written, but they don't mean a thing now. The first word indicates an official questioning, which is a part of the reporter's business, but why stop with eight? As a matter of fact, the number actually questioned in those nocturnal rambles was nearer eight hundred.
Later on the idea seemed to change a little, and a new meaning developed for that word eight. It was no longer a number, but an old Spanish coin of the early days. This idea smacked of buried treasure, the finding of which would mean a real scoop for the paper, but some rival concern was determined not to let the secret get out. That meant more and more questioning, more and more notes, with no more results than before.
It would have been amusing if it had not been so tiresome. I got so that I really dreaded going to sleep, because I knew definitely I would begin taking notes at once. However Wednesday night, probably because the paper was locked up and no more notes necessary, the dreaming stopped—for two nights. I saw the paper in the interim, and noted the interesting cartoon that had been published.
This gave a different slant to the dreams that came back Friday night. It then appeared that a budding cartoonist had sent in a drawing of a duck, which he had named "QUAK DUK". In many respects this duck was like the rest of the family, but in the first cartoon the artist had put his legs too far to the front so when he tried to walk his rear elevation dragged on the ground. This was a distressing condition, but in the second cartoon the situation was remedied by putting a two wheeled cart under said elevation.
The thills of the cart passed under the wings of the duck, thus enabling him to travel by wheeling the cart after him. However, in the third and final cartoon a second distressing condition arose, for when the duck sat down to warm his feet, a habit ducks have, his posterior portion was elevated at a ridiculous angle. Those cartoons were really good, and so vivid that I could draw them if I had the knack.
The moral is, when the flu gets you, forget all you ever knew and dream of absolutely nothing until you are well over it.

Seeing Things In Iowa.
Beer Imbibers in Madden's Cigar Store Tuesday night checked and double checked themselves to ascertain whether or not they were really seeing things. The 58 degree temperature of the evening, although gaining outside, permitted the store door to stand ajar for ventilation. Suddenly there crossed the threshold of the door a six-inch spotted lizard. It crawled over the floor in a active manner. Men scurried to get out of its way. One man ventured to capture the animal and it was placed in a cigar box for inspection and exhibition.—Red Oak Express.

That in addition to the regular float charge the County Board agrees to pay the actual cost of collection and exchange sustained by the depository banks that may be charged against them for the collection of checks and drafts drawn on out-of-town banks that do not pay such items at par, an itemized statement of these charges to be submitted monthly to the County Board for payment.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the County Treasurer of Valley County, Nebraska, is hereby authorized to deposit funds of said Valley County in said banks in excess of fifty per cent of paid capital and surplus of said banks but not exceeding the capital stock and provided further bond shall be required of all banks for such excess deposit as provided by said sections 3 and 4 of said senate file No. 122.

This little pig finally went to market but before he was big enough to sell Mrs. Otto Turek fed him for days with a teaspoon, then with a bottle and nipple. He was the runt of the litter when born but was a fat 150-pounder when he went to market. This picture was submitted by Mrs. Turek in the "Picture of the Week" contest.

ances at meetings on three separate days before they could be adopted. The first ordinances were passed on Nov. 10, 1881. Ordinance No. 1 was to provide for regular meeting of the board. Ordinance No. 2 read as follows when first inscribed in the minutes: "An ordinance to provide for the escape and the spreading of fire in the village of Ord." Clerk Westover must have noticed his mistake in putting down the ordinance later, for he then partially erased the word "provide", and wrote over it the word "prevent."

Ordinance No. 3 was in regard to the licensing of hawkers and peddlers in the village of Ord. Ordinance No. 4 was to provide for the licensing of dogs, etc. Then, having taken care of peddlers and dogs, Ordinance No. 5 was read but not passed until Dec. 1, 1881. This was Ord's first liquor ordinance, and provided for the licensed sale of liquor. This ordinance was passed with only three members of the board present, all three voting for it. They were Rogers, Nelson and White.

In regard to the members of the board spoken of above, H. G. Rogers was a relative of E. J. Clements, a brother-in-law of Judge Clements, and none of the family live here now, so far as known. B. C. White was another early day character, and has no living descendants here now. H. W. Nelson was a brother of former County Surveyor, Charles J. Nelson, who will be remembered by nearly everybody.

S. S. Haskell was the father of W. W. Haskell, who in turn was father of the Ord Quiz. His great grandson, Harold Haskell, son of John R. Haskell, is still making athletic history in Ord high school. Of all the names mentioned in these early records, the name of Haskell appears to be the only one on the active list today. The other board member, G. W. Milford, is still a familiar name despite the fact that he and his sons, James and Bert have passed to their reward these many years.

One of the writer's earliest recollections as a boy is of the slogan, "Wear Milford Shoes," which used to adorn the newspapers, the buildings, fences, in almost every available space around Ord. The building at the southwest corner of the square was put there about the time that the village of Ord was incorporated, and was the finest building in the village then. Some time it will probably be torn down to make room for a new and better building.

But a new building, no new proprietor, can possibly mean as much to a newer and better Ord than that old building did to the Ord of fifty years ago. Old timers tell of early day dances held on the second floor of the building with a young and sprightly fellow named Ole Severson pulling more tunes out of the wreck of some old violin than the maker put there in the first place. Yes, that building was the social center of the little town, and the writer has seen to it that the building will be kept for the future, in pictures.

New Enterprise at Palmer. L. J. Walters and W. D. Bingham, two enterprising young men from Ericson, have made arrangements to open a regular moving picture theatre in Palmer soon. They are leasing the Palmer opera house for the purpose. Mr. Walters will be chiefly in charge of the show here. He says he plans to show four nights a week; Tuesday and Wednesday and Friday and Saturday. High class pictures are to be shown.

Walters and Bingham established a picture show some time ago in Ericson, town less than half as big as Palmer, and have met with good success and they believe they will be able to make a success of it here which they should be able to do with the community backing them up with a reasonable support.

They plan to give the opening show Friday and Saturday nights of next week.—Palmer Journal.

Ord Incorporated As Village In 1881

The year of 1881 was momentous in many ways, not the least of these being the obvious fact that the date can be read right side up, up side down or backward, and still be the same thing. The Lord knows when if ever we will see another year like it in this respect. Apparently our forebears thought little of this strange fact, for they proceeded to have the articles of incorporation drawn up and the village of Ord was launched in due form on June 23, 1881. The minutes of the first meeting of the village trustees is given verbatim.

Minutes of Board meeting July 6, 1881. Board of trustees of the village of Ord met at Westover's law office on the 6th day of July, 1881. Present, H. G. Rogers, B. C. White, H. W. Nelson, and S. S. Haskell. Upon motion of B. C. White, H. G. Rogers was chosen chairman, and upon motion Herman Westover was duly appointed village clerk and W. E. Freeman, treasurer of said village. Upon motion Board adjourned to meet July 25, 1881 at 7:00 P. M. Herman Westover, Clerk.

Thus, four days after the nation had been stirred by the shooting of President Garfield, although it is possible that the news had not yet reached Ord at the time, the first meeting of village trustees was consummated. In the minutes appears a characteristic of Westover's that perhaps others may recall. He had his own spelling for certain words, among them adjourn, which he never spelled with the official d in front of the j.

The meeting scheduled for July 25 did not materialize as only three members were on hand, and it was "adjourned" to Oct. 6. When they met at that time the name of Milford is added to the trustees present. No initials are given, but it must have been G. W. "Boss" Milford. At this meeting E. M. Coffin was appointed village attorney. A plan was voted which did away with the necessity of reading ordinances at meetings on three separate days before they could be adopted.

After tussling around with the flu for more than a week, during which time a lot of his friends took turns waiting on him, Theron Beehr reports that he has decided to stick around for a while, and plans to do some real fishing, and also some real telling about it, next spring.

Chester Austin and baby Jerome have both been on the sick list, but are reported better. Mrs. John Haskell has been taking care of them.

Miss Mildred Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eret Smith, was home over the holidays from her duties as a student in the Chilli-cothe business college. She returned to her work recently, and the Quiz is keeping her informed of local happenings.

After spending two weeks visiting their cousins, Mrs. Otto Radli, Mrs. Ed Zikmund and Mrs. Alfred Jorgensen, Frank and Anna Steuka left a short time ago for their home in St. Paul, Minn., by train. They reported delay along the route because of the storm, and that when they arrived at home it was 22 below zero. Frank had visited here twelve years ago, but this was his sister's first trip to Ord. While they were here the Radli's also enjoyed a visit from Jackie Benda, of Dallas, Tex., for four days.

Dr. Glen Auble reports the following clients in for examination and fitting of glasses: Mrs. Nellie Jones, Burwell; Erna Ruzicka, Burwell; Mrs. Roy Jacobs, North Loup; Mrs. Adolph Stepanek, Taylor; Wayne Meyers, Burwell and Mrs. William Schudel, North Loup.

About Basketball
By Laverne Lakin

(Editors note: This article dealing with better basketball will appear from week to week in the Quiz. Follow it weekly and learn more about this game of basketball—the king of winter sports.)

Undoubtedly, the game of basketball is the fastest and most exciting of all team games. In no other major sport can things happen so quickly as in a hotly contested basketball game. It is as interesting to spectators as it is to players. Because of the high degree of co-operation and teamwork required, basketball serves a dual purpose—it is a splendid social as well as athletic training.

A Strenuous Game.
Being the fastest of all sports, basketball is also the most strenuous game. A player must learn the mechanics of shooting, passing, dribbling and teamwork, besides the task of acquiring speed. A premium on physical condition and skill in handling the ball are placed upon players of this game. The young player strives for two things, to develop his body and then to condition it for endurance.

With newcomers to the game there is a temptation to play too hard too early in the season, to practice too long, and to play more than one practice game in a row. Indeed this is an error. A thoughtful training program and the exercising of rigid self-control will make possible many more hours of play by the individual later in the season.

When the player has got himself in condition he must apply himself to the basic principles of the game.

Getting Into Shape.
The young football player who goes out for basketball at the close of the football season will be in excellent condition to begin serious practice. The boy who goes out for basketball and has not played football should take it easy, getting into shape before the season starts by working in a gym class, holding workouts at home, or some other method of developing endurance and co-ordination of the muscles. A player should give much attention to the development of new muscles and strength. Of course a player will learn to run faster, dodge more expertly, and jump higher by practicing during the season but the fellow who has the proper size and quality of muscles to begin with, progresses further and faster.

Proper exercises that should make up the early workouts include: push-ups, abdominal raises, squats, raising of the toes and jumping for height of reach. Special emphasis should be given to leg exercises and development. Walk around with the knees stiff; twenty to 100 yards as the legs grow stronger.

When a young man came to Wayne the last of the week and began retailing postage stamps at special bargain prices, officers were notified and search was begun to locate him. But the youth evidently also heard that he was wanted and left the city. It was evident that the stamps had been stolen and were being converted into cash at less than their value. The man has been identified and officers are sure they will soon locate the man.—Wayne Herald.

Mail Fills Postoffice.

Because of the storm and heavy snow drifts Saturday, none of the rural carriers were able to go their rounds. Since Friday was a holiday, by Monday the back part of the postoffice was nearly filled with mail. On Monday, however, the carriers started out and by taking to fields, and going as far as possible one way, returning and going another way much of the territory was covered. Several people desiring to know the happenings in the world about them, came to the office for their mail.

London (UP)—A new drug called benzadrine, which raises the blood pressure and thus cures depression and shyness, is described in the current issue of the Lancet.

After a dose of benzadrine, even the most depressed patients are able to overcome their shyness and talk spontaneously. They feel unusually full of energy and self-confident.

Tests for the mental ability of patient after taking the drug show that they are able to concentrate better and can work out problems faster and more accurately than before.—W. P. Dispatch.

Crow Trap a Success. Crows may be a delicacy in some places but to George W. Fagot, living north of Lexington, they are just a nuisance. From plans furnished by the Nebraska Farmer he constructed a crow trap and on Christmas morning was rewarded with a catch of over one hundred crows.

Mr. Fagot states that the crows go into the trap better when the snow is on the ground and feed is scarce. However it is not uncommon for him to get from fifteen to thirty crows daily.

Plans for building a crow trap may be obtained from the Farm Bureau office in Lexington.—Holdrege Citizen.

Saturday Sale

at the Sale Ring in Ord
Saturday, January 23rd
One o'clock

More people are consigning their livestock to our auction ranging from Cotesfield to Taylor.

The hog market last Saturday was exceptionally strong, the 36 head belonging to Frank Satterfield brought 2 1/2 cents above Omaha top. The organization feels that this was an excessive top and we do not expect that top again. But, we do feel that if you want to sell your hogs at an auction, we have one of the best markets in the state.

We would like to start our fat hog sale at one o'clock sharp, so bring in your hogs if possible before noon, so we can sort and yard them properly, this will all help the auction.

Our steer market wasn't quite as strong as it was the week previous. The top on the Hager steers being $7.25 1/2.

The report from the buyers who reshipped the steff to central markets was that the market was not as strong as it was here.

If you don't want to consign your stock, call our buyers. We would like to see the stock in our trade territory go through our market before it goes someplace else. The horse buyers will be here every Saturday from now on, so if you have some good horses to sell, bring them in. We will have a good market.

We have to offer this week
125 Cattle, 200 to 250 Hogs, 15 Horses.

VOL. 53

Bert Hardenbrook, 'Father of No. Loup', Is Claimed Monday

Community Leader Was Laid To Rest Yesterday; Had Homage, Respect of All.

Bert M. Hardenbrook, 62, president of the North Loup power and irrigation district and often referred to as "father" of the project because he first suggested it and worked indefatigably for it until it was approved, died at 10:00 Monday evening, Jan. 26, at his home in Ord, after a long fight against ill health.

Almost three years ago Mr. Hardenbrook's health began to fail but he refused to relax his efforts to bring about Public Works Administration approval of the project and in the minds of his friends there is no doubt that his unremitting efforts in its behalf shortened his life.

Was Happy Last August. On at least four occasions he made trips to Washington, D. C., to plead for the project, only to meet with discouragement and disappointment. When the PWA announced approval of the North Loup development in August nobody was happier than he, and even though his illness had become more painful by that time and he was bedfast much of the time he assisted greatly in organization of the district and getting construction started quickly.

Mr. Hardenbrook's whole adult life was one of public service.

He was born in Albia, Ia., on July 20, 1874, the son of John C. and Mary Hardenbrook, both of whose families were old and honored ones, originating in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, respectively, and migrating to Ohio, later to Iowa and finally to Fremont, Nebr. To Arcadia in 1918.

Bert's boyhood was spent in Albia and Fremont and his education was gained in the common and high schools of Fremont and later in Fremont Normal, now Midland College. After his graduation from college he went to South Dakota where for twelve years he followed the teaching profession, also studying law. Admitted to the bar in 1906, he practiced law in Marion, S. D., and Linton, N. D., for several years, returning in 1912 to Fremont, Nebr., for a short period, being engaged in the lumber business.

In 1913 he moved to Arcadia, Nebr., to practice law and from that time until his death Valley county was his home. At Arcadia he built up a large and lucrative practice and in 1918 was elected to the office of Valley county attorney, at which time he moved his family to Ord. He served two terms in this capacity, returning to private practice in 1926.

Manasil Will Make District Abstracts

Directors of the North Loup power and irrigation district met Tuesday to consider bids for furnishing abstracts on 103 tracts of land within the district in Valley county. With a bid of $1,442 for all the work, W. F. Manasil, young Burwell attorney, was much the lowest of the six bidders and will be given a contract. For making the abstracts in Garfield county L. B. Fenner's bid of $599 was low.

Evelyn Sharp to Omaha. Miss Evelyn Sharp, Ord's young aviatrix, will fly to Omaha this Saturday where she will attend a meeting of all Nebraska women pilots. The meeting is being held to organize a chapter of the nationally known "99ers" club, an honorary aviation society for women.

111 Was Hottest -24 Coldest In '36, Say Gov't Records

Rainfall Last Year Was 8 Inches Below Normal, Is Travis' Report.

Due to the courtesy of Horace Travis, local weather man, who furnished the records for the past year, the following resume of the weather for 1936 is available. January 1936 was unusually cold, with a total of 13 days when the minimum temperature went below zero. The coldest was -18 on the 24th, and the warmest 52 on the 11th. There was .95 inches of rain, and 12 1/2 inches of snow.

February broke all records with a continuous run of 21 days when the mercury went below zero. The coldest was -24 on the 5th, and the warmest 57 on the 23rd. The first 21 days of February and the last 10 of January all showed a below zero reading for a total of 31 days of continuous zero weather. January had one day and February eight days when the reading did not rise above zero.

March had a high reading of 73 on the 9th, and a low of 13 on the 31st, with 26 days below freezing. There was 1.11 inches of rain, and 9 1/2 inches of snow. April had a maximum of 86 on the 13th, and -6 on the 3rd, with 9 days below freezing. There was 1.26 inches of rain and 1 inch of snow. May had a maximum of 92 on the 5th, a low of 40 on the 2nd, with 2.57 inches of rain and no snow.

June hit a high of 106 on the 25th, a low of 44 on the 3rd, with a total of 4.37 inches of rain, and two days above 100 degrees. July maximum was 111 on the 17th, the low 58 on the 29th, and .29 inches of rain. July had a total of 16 days above 100 degrees, five of them being in a row. August showed a high of 107 on the 17th, a low of 51 on the 29th, with a total of .96 inches of rain. August also had seven days above 100 degrees.

September had a high of 98 on the 11th, and a low of 38 on the 17th. There was 1.47 inches of rain, and no frost. October had a high of 79 on the 18th, and a low of 41 on the 22nd, .47 inches of rain, and ten days below freezing. November showed a high of 65 on the 13th and 20th, a low of 5 on the 8th, a rainfall of .02 inches, and 24 days below the freezing point. December had a high of 56 on the 23rd, a low of -6 on the 6th, .76 inches of rain and 7 inches of snow, with only one day below zero.

The summary for the year shows that there was a total of 15.06 inches of rain and 43 inches of snow. There was a total of 36 days when the thermometer registered below zero, or about 10% of the entire year. There were 25 days with a reading above 100 degrees or about 7%. There were 182 clear days during the year, or 50%. 113 days were partly cloudy, and 71 cloudy. The rainfall for the year was about 8 inches below normal.

New Ford Garage Will Open Saturday

Through the columns of the Quiz today the new Ford dealers, Richmyer & Butler, announce opening of their new garage in Ord for Saturday, January 30, and invite the general public to visit them that day. Their garage in the Travis building formerly occupied by the P. C. T. Stage Lines has been remodeled and redecorated and presents a very neat appearance. For their formal opening Saturday Richmyer & Butler will show Ford talkies, have cutaway engines on display, give demonstrations in the 1937 model V8s and award several free prizes to visitors.

Settled First in Middle Loup Area; Known and Loved by Hundreds.

Wherever talk turns to the settlers of the county in the early days it is commonly conceded that those who came to stay arrived not earlier than the year 1872. Therefore Mingerson Coombs can be classed among the county's earliest settlers, as he arrived in 1873. He was born in Michigan, visited in Iowa, and in 1873 came out to Nebraska.

Somewhere along the main line he bought a horse and saddle, and rode up into the Loup valleys. In some way he got further to the west than most of the settlers who came that year or the year before, and landed eventually in the middle Loup valley near where the village of Arcadia now stands. The land there suited him exactly, and he not only filed on a homestead of 160 acres, but he also took a timber claim for the same acreage.

Mr. Coombs had to return to Grand Island to file on his land. He visited with the Porter Brown family, who were his neighbors before he left. Mrs. Brown apparently did not have a very high opinion of his staying qualities, as she told her husband after Coombs had left "You needn't expect to see that dude back here again." However the dude was back right on time and ready to go through with his land deal.

The requirements for a homestead required living on the land for a period of five years, and the timber claim required the planting of forty acres of timber. Mr. Coombs took care of these details and in a short time forty acres of land was planted to cottonwood and willow trees. In the years since that time those trees have grown to large size, and the grove is one of the best known in the Middle Loup valley.

While the land is well timbered now, it would be hard for the average person to look it over and realize that in the early days there was practically nothing that could be used for fuel. True there was some timber to be had in certain sections, but it was a real problem to get the wood, as it had to be hauled many miles. Furthermore, much of the wood had to be used in the erecting of buildings.

The buildings on the Coombs place were of the simplest sort. His first place of abode, if such it could be called, was merely a hole dug in the side of a knoll and roofed over with poles and hay. In fact it was a typical dugout such as many of the early settlers lived in until they were able to build a more substantial abode. As time went on he was able to put up better buildings and surround himself with some of the comforts of life.

John Bouma Dies In Hospital Here

John Bouma, only son of Reimer and Mae Bouma, of Arcadia, passed away at the Ord hospital Tuesday, the cause of his death being kidney trouble of long standing aggravated by an attack of the flu. He was 18 years of age and leaves also two sisters Evelyn and Irene, both at home. His final illness first started in the latter part of December, and he grew gradually worse until the end came.

In addition to the above named relatives he leaves two aunts, Mrs. John L. Andersen and family of Ord and Mrs. Porter Dunlap and husband and son Clayton and daughter Delores, and grandmother, Mrs. J. Van Wieren, all of Arcadia; two cousins, Elwin Dunlap of Ord, and Graydon Dunlap, now at Richmond, Calif.; also three uncles, Namen Bouma of Westerville, Martin Bouma, of Belva, Okla., and Oba Bouma who is in New Mexico.

Funeral services will be held this Thursday afternoon, from the Sowl funeral chapel, at two o'clock.

Meeting On Rural Electrification Here

A meeting on rural electrification will be held in Ord next Tuesday, according to information given us by Carl C. Dale, county agent. The speaker for the occasion will be Wayne E. Thurman of the engineering department of the college of agriculture. He will explain the steps necessary for the formation of a rural electrification district, under the government setup. It is not contemplated that any action along that line will be taken at this time, but the meeting is informative and will give the public valuable ideas for future use. The location of the meeting has not yet been determined, but it can be obtained by seeing Mr. Dale any time the latter part of the week.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Misko and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Sowl left Friday for Omaha, where they heard Jascha Heifetz play on Saturday evening. The Ord people returned home Sunday afternoon.

Chamber Members Not In Favor Of Hiring Secretary

Also Voted Down Proposal To Raise Dues; Misko, Springer Elected.

At a well attended meeting of the Ord Chamber of Commerce held in the K. of P. hall Thursday evening, John P. Misko was chosen to succeed himself as head of the organization for 1937. Tom Springer was chosen vice-president and Val Pullen, Dwight Keyes and William Sack were named as the three new directors to serve for two years.

There are about ninety members of the Chamber of Commerce and 35 of them were present when the meeting was called to order shortly after 8 o'clock by President Misko. Secretary Wiegard read the minutes of the last meeting, of the last annual meeting and the reports of the secretary and treasurer. His financial report showed that the club treasury had about $78.00 at the beginning of the year that some six hundred dollars was collected in dues during the year, that more than four hundred dollars was spent promoting irrigation during the year, that several other causes were helped and that there was in the treasury at the beginning of 1937 about $175.00.

Irrigation In 1937. E. H. Dummire was present and gave a nice talk. Mr. Dummire told the members present that he expected to become a member of the club if he was eligible to do so. He told them about the progress that had so far been made with the work on the new irrigation system and assured those present that he believed a number of thousand acres would be watered from the Ord-North Loup ditch this season.

Replying to the remark of some member, who had said that the club should wait another year before thinking about a paid secretary or before expanding, he likened the club to an athlete, who, before he could go out and do his best, had to put in a lot of time training. The thought that Mr. Dummire tried to convey was that 1937 would see, as with a whole valley under irrigation and with lots of things to be done to see that Ord got its share of the good things that would surely come to the valley as a result, and that in order to do so we should be getting a solid foundation of preparation laid during 1937. Mr. Dummire said he was going to do everything in his power to assist the farmers who would be tackling a new job with irrigation, in fact he said he planned on getting a piece of ground under the ditch and close to Ord for experimental purposes which he would conduct at his own expense.

No Paid Secretary Now. President Misko said that there had been some agitation regarding the employment of a paid full time secretary and asked for the judgment of those present. Some were in favor of going ahead in an effort to develop the idea right away, some thought it would be better to wait a year and others believed that six months from now might be a better time to launch might be a better time to launch the paid secretary project. The matter was finally left by adopting a motion that the president appoint a committee of three to make a careful survey to determine what amount could be raised for the purpose; also to find out what the probable cost of such a secretary as we would want would be, said committee to report in six months.

Will Meet Monthly. There was a proposal to increase the dues from $1.50 a quarter to $2.50 a quarter, and after discussion, a secret written ballot showed 13 in favor of the idea and 17 against it.

There was some discussion regarding a meeting place for the club and it was suggested that an arrangement might be made with the KP lodge to have room in their hall, which was originally the home of the club.

There was some discussion as to whether monthly meetings should be held or whether less frequent meetings should be called and the majority expression of those present seemed to be for monthly meetings and the president announced that the club would try to hold meetings monthly.

Following the business meeting coffee, sandwiches and cookies were served.

Two Sales Next Week. Two clean-up sales are advertised in the Quiz this week. One is Bill McMinder's sale, which comes Tuesday, Feb. 2 and the other is a joint clean-up advertised by Harold Nelson and Sam Guggenmos, which will be held Wednesday, Feb. 3. Large offerings feature both sales. Look up the ads in this issue and plan to attend.

Mrs. Rosa Thomas, 76, mother of Mrs. E. L. Achen, passed away at the home of her daughter in Ord at 8:00 Tuesday evening. Her body will be taken to Chester, Neb., for burial. Her death was due to a paralytic stroke suffered about two weeks ago.

Floods Wreak Havoc in 12 States

Fast-rising waters, ciming behind heavy rain and mild weather, have brought flood disaster to portions of twelve states, leaving an estimated million people homeless. Government observers said it is the second time in history that the entire 1,000 miles of the Ohio river was flooded. Above, a family is shown after rescuers reached them in the inundated east end section of Cincinnati. In many cities drinking water has been contaminated and fear of pestilence is added to that of famine. Freezing temperatures and heavy snow followed the flood in some sections and thousands of homeless people face death from cold. The Red Cross has issued an appeal for relief funds, in which the Valley county chapter will cooperate, and the federal government is providing funds for relief also.

Ign. Klima Attends Meeting At Lincoln

Ign. Klima, Jr., secretary of the state association of county clerks and registers of deeds and chairman of the legislative committee of the same organization, was down to Lincoln last week to a committee meeting. The committee met for the purpose of getting a number of bills before the legislature. Among them the most important perhaps is the "pay as you go" plan, as it is called. This is receiving favorable consideration at the hands of the law makers, and will doubtless become a law. Another of special interest is the election of all county officers on a non-political ballot. The trend over the country has been in this direction for some time, and it is likely that this too will soon become a law. They were also sponsoring a law calling for a uniform system of auditing and accounting in all counties of the state. This law would make it practically impossible for county officials to falsify their accounts as the checkup would be close enough to prevent any large defalcations at any time. They also went on records as favoring the system of the state taking care of insane patients instead of saddling this expense on the county. Another provision would be that state criminals when caught committing depredations in any one county, should be tried at the expense of the state. This to apply for instance in the case of bank robbers, who are likely to strike in almost any county in the state, and as they are a general menace the expense should be borne by the general public.

Return Sunday From Chubbuck Funeral

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brush and son Bernard and Geraldine Chubbuck, of Ord, returned Sunday from Janesville, Wis., where they had come to attend the funeral of Mrs. Brush's brother, Frank Chubbuck. He was also an uncle of Mrs. Hohn and Miss Chubbuck.

Frank Chubbuck was born May 2, 1871 at Lawrence, Wis., and came to Valley county with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Chubbuck, where he lived in Springdale until 17 years of age. He then went to make his home with an aunt, Mrs. Lela Reeder, at Janesville, Wis., who had recently lost her husband. He lived there until the three children were grown to maturity. He then left the farm and went to work in the court house in Rock county, Wis., where he worked for nine years.

He had to leave this work on account of his health and seek outside employment. He went back to the farm, working for Mrs. Florak Stokes until he was stricken with cancer last May. He went to the home of his aunt where he was cared for until the time of his death, Jan. 15, 1937. He joined the I. O. O. F. and remained a member until the time of his death. He was also a member of the Rebekah lodge. He was buried in the Emerald Grove cemetery at Avlon, Wis.

—Writing from Anacortes, Wash., Wm. Gross asks that his name be entered on the Quiz subscription list for one year.

THE ORD QUIZ

Ord, Valley County, Nebraska
The Quiz is $2.00 a year.

H. D. LEGGETT PUBLISHER
E. C. LEGGETT EDITOR
H. J. McBETH FOREMAN

Entered at the Postoffice at Ord, Nebraska, as Second Class Matter Under Act of March 3, 1879.

My Own Column By H. D. Leggett

Since I told you, just last week, about the little dog on the cook calendar, I must now tell you that before any of you got a chance to read the story, Jock was killed, struck down by a car driver rapidly up the street. His little short legs could not get him out of the way quick enough and the driver of the car didn't care enough about it to even look back. The fact that he had almost broken the hearts of two little girls probably didn't bother him a bit. He could scarcely have failed to see the little black dog on the white snow. And probably his business was not so urgent but what he could have slowed up a bit, rather than kill a valuable animal. But some folks seem to take real pleasure in hitting a pig or a hen or even a dog in the road as they drive along. I have heard them brag of swerving their car to do so. Jock was about the smartest little dog that I ever saw. The Hi Anderson and Leggett families have felt his loss greatly.

I have got to reduce the number of those in arrears on the Quiz and I cannot afford to pay postage to send statements. There are over a hundred January 15 expirations. You all know, who owe them, for you have been notified by U. S. postcard. You who are further in arrears, also know it for you have all been notified. I am going to take the names of all who have not treated me fairly in the past, off the list. The subscription cards show who they are. So, if you want the paper continued, please come in at once.

A little girl bought a Quiz the other day and asked for a calendar. I had to refuse. For two reasons. First, the cook calendars are manufactured as an inducement for being a paid up subscriber. Second, we never give them out to children under any circumstances. We prefer to pay postage and be sure the person the calendar is intended for, gets there. The parents of this particular child buy a paper every week and I have no doubt, feel aggrieved that I did not send them a calendar. In a way I feel that they are entitled to one, too. But I don't want to encourage selling papers one at a time. What I want is a list that can be counted in my annual audit. Weekly buyers are not counted; it is weekly nuisance to sell the copies that way and we would much rather have them on the list. For 50 cents they can buy the paper 3 months and save money. People who never miss a football or basketball game and who attend the picture show frequently, can, if they wish, raise 50 cents at a time to become a Quiz subscriber. Then they will have a calendar automatically. This applies to a dozen or more Ord families. Sometimes some of them have been disappointed because we were sold out of papers when they called. I am now inviting them all to become regular subscribers.

There are four time honored ways to serve spuds, boiled, baked, mashed and fried and that, it seems to me, is ways enough. Instead of making them better, I think it spoils them to mix them up with a lot of other junk and call them some bifalutin name. Probably like chicken cooked a la king, they got further mixed with a lot of other junk, but it is because folks don't like them so well and usually spuds are cheap enough so it is not necessary to be cheap about their use.

I am not one who would give Andrew Mellon a halo because he has offered to give the government a lot of paintings which are said to be very valuable. Andrew is getting old and is going to shuffle off pretty soon. He may even have a guilty conscience, for he had a monopoly on aluminum for many years and when the government, during the world war, had to have great quantities of it, Mellon charged them ten times what it was worth and had the fun of buying the paintings with the money. Now it is no more than right that he make amends. Probably the actual cash would be a lot more useful to Uncle Sam at this time, than the alleged works of art.

I honestly believe that it will really pay, in dollars and cents, every business man in Ord, to get behind a movement, if and when the opportunity offers, to have the Chamber of Commerce employ a practical, experienced secretary. I mean a man who has had considerable experience in such work; who knows how to go about contacting the right people to get for Ord, some businesses that will not only give employment to a good many people but that will at the same time use up a good deal of the product of the soil. It is at the same time, a man can be secured who has had experience in an irrigated country, so much the better. This matter was discussed briefly at the annual Chamber of Commerce last week. I felt, after listening to the debate, that all or practically all, were in favor of the movement, but some believed the time was not yet ripe for it. I was somewhat discouraged about it when the meeting voted down a proposition to increase the annual dues by a dollar a quarter, because if we are ever to have such a secretary the present dues is going to be chicken feed to what we will have to dig up. It is going to cost real money for what we will have to have in the way of a secretary and when his salary is paid he should have as much more to work with. I hope that every member of the club will be giving this matter thought and that all will be seeking information about it. The better we get posted the sooner we will be ready to take the plunge.

Something Different

Dr. Weekes almost laughed himself sick a few days ago, though lots of people would not be able to laugh at something so likely to ruin their own property.

Hi Anderson had been getting the doctor's car into first class shape at his garage, after another car struck it. The big Chrysler was in prime condition again, not a dent nor a mar on it, so the garage man drove it up to Hillcrest to turn it over to the owner. He sat outside the hospital about ten minutes, then since no one seemed to be free to come and get it, set the brake and climbed out of the car to go inside and report delivery.

Just as he went up the steps, Mr. Anderson happened to glance around. He was just in time to see the car slipping down the hill, already half a block away.

Hi took off with speed. His long legs flew over the ground as he tore down that hill after the runaway car. Dr. Weekes swore that the sprinter's coat tails stood straight out behind him as he ran. The doctor laughed and laughed at the sight.

Yes, the car was captured without any mishap. . . . but Dr. Weekes, cringes think he would have been able to laugh and consider it a joke even if the car had been caught by a telephone post or some other obstacle. A real sense of humor!

I don't know whether Mr. Van Decar laughed or not, when his wife recently spurned his medical attentions.

Mrs. VanDecar had a cold, the flu, sore throat, or something. Mr. VanDecar announced he knew how to help her throat, and would, himself, in person, put together some medicine that would stop her cough. So he combined some whiskey, some rock candy, some horehound from the drug store.

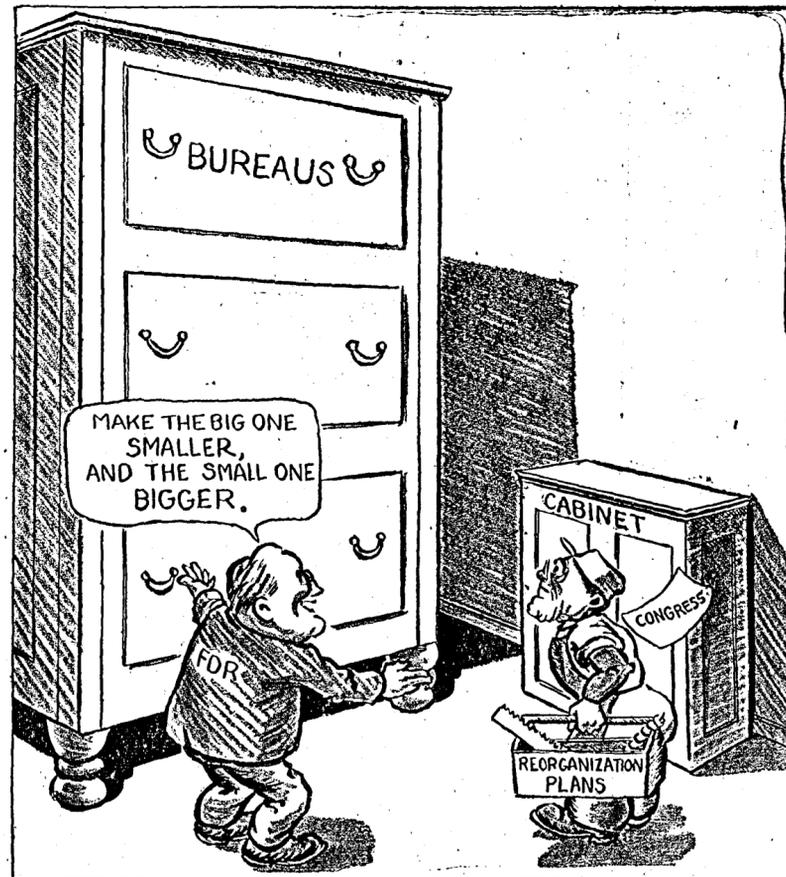

"Ugh, it was nasty, I just took one swallow," laughed Mrs. VanDecar. I guess that one swallow must have cured her.

That reminds me. Lots of people must be trying to make home-made cough syrup. I understand Ord liquor stores have been enjoying a run on Rock and Rye whiskey, are well sold out.

Time was long ago when whiskey and rock candy were a household remedy as standard as "greasing up" the children's chests and heads was for a bad cold. . . . in the days of goose grease.

And I guess that was in the days when some of the little boys and girls had to wear smelly ass, fetid bags around their necks to ward off something or other. . . . what in thunder was it they were ward off?

I guess that was in the days when Mamas used to wrap girls' hair around one long "rag" and wind it about with a longer "rag" and the next day the little girls would have long curls. Sometimes they were pretty, sometimes corkscrew. That was in the days when dipping the ends of the curls of the little girl sitting in the seat in front of yours in your ink well was great sport. The same days that little boys used to snowball little girls as they ran all the way home. The same days that we used to like to walk on all the thin ice, jumping ahead just as it cracked under our feet.

CARE OF COUNTY BOARD

By George Gowen

The Leap. The eighth grade examinations will soon be at hand. It is an eventful leap from infancy to manhood and womanhood. It marks a point when children are apt to cast off their childish ways, ways of indifference, of toys and playthings, for a little more seriousness, for manhood and womanhood, for thoughts of accomplishing things and studying for their own endeavor in place of the forced discipline of former years. One teacher told me that in high school he could appeal to the students' manhood but not in the grades.

More than that it marks a point for the child to strive. To pass those dreaded and horrifying examinations. I remember yet the nights I lay awake worrying over them, and the more nights I would awaken out of my sleep wondering if I passed. Perhaps this experience tends to make the child study harder.

But it is a question of many if the eighth grade graduation and jump is worth the cost. Years ago, my father had a very good friend, a man who lived in Omaha by the name of John Rap (and he was a millionaire so we heard) and he told us that he did not believe in eighth grade graduations, but since that I have agreed with him. It not only sets a time in the child's life but it marks a stopping place for many that might otherwise continue on for more education. And if the high school education is worth the cost surely children should not be encouraged to dispense with it.

There are two fine, smart young men in my neighborhood who quit school recently at the eighth grade. Every neighborhood has them. Their parents question the worth of high school education and they have reason to when we see so many successful men that did not have it and so many failures among those who do. But granting that high school education is worth the cost and trouble, many people think that the change from the grades to high school should be so gradual that the student hardly knows when he leaves one to enter another. We hear of few children quitting school in the 7th or 8th grade. Without doubt the reason is, it is not a convenient place to stop. There is not a junction there—not a graduation. In country schools where there is a junior high most of the children go on through the tenth grade.

In a sense children in cities are an illustration of my point, and especially cities where there are universities, and most cities have colleges of some kind. I lived in Lincoln a few years and my sister along with others in her class, moved unceremoniously from grade school to high school, apparently without a flutter. Of course there were graduations but the principal difference to her was the change of buildings. She moved from the Lincoln High to the university hardly noticing or thinking of the change. Her course of study was not complete until she had graduated from that institution. She was continually with her classmates all that time. It is the stopping place, the rests, the intermissions, that are so apt to encourage children to not take up the work again.

It is also maintained by pedagogues that children who are not smart enough are winnowed back at that point and probably kept away from the high school training altogether. It has always been a question to me how children would even get to the eighth grade if they were dumb. But it is the truth, sure enough, that it is the duller children who need the education most. The smart one will get along anyway. Providing of course, the education they get is worth the effort.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

20 Years Ago This Week.

Stanley Dworak retired from the firm of F. J. Dworak & Son and announced his intention of going west to find a new opening. Sergeant Edwin Clements came home on furlough but expected to return to Fort Crook to be mustered out with the rest of his company, after Mexican border service. Ored Olsson, of Noble township, got a telegram announcing the death of his brother, Nils, who lived in Oklahoma. The Ord basketball team composed of Haldeman, Bailey, Woods, Peterson and Batle beat Wolbach 23 to 15. Sam Fackler sold his residence on west Main street to George Gard, who in turn traded it to John Perlinski for some Burwell property.

The Quiz suggestion that Ord should have a hospital was meeting with plenty of response. Charles Masin's home northeast of Ord was destroyed by fire. The occupant of the place was Joe Panowicz.

25 Years Ago This Week.

W. J. Hather went to Illinois and purchased Dictator, the greatest American-bred stallion in the world. Dictator was 21 months old and had won first prizes at the International Livestock show and a great many state fairs. Mr. Hather wouldn't say what he cost but it was plenty. Mr. Aden sold his interest in the Elite Cafe to Mr. Seager, his former partner. J. D. Tedro, who had been in very ill health for a long time, was taken to Nebraska Methodist hospital. There was thought to be very little hope for the old gentleman. Miss Miska Miss was taken ill with scarlet fever. During her illness her father and the other children were staying at the hotel. Mrs. Scott, mother of Ord's well known telephone man, died very suddenly.

More News. I want to call attention to John Ward that he should give space, along with the checker tournaments and bridge games, to the games won and lost at the marble shooting in the bakery. Every time I am in town I see a group of big-wigs deeply involved in the game.

Snow Shovelling Philosophy. Bryan Fortis said he wouldn't have such a thing as a thermometer. He never would get any work done. He'd be watching it all the time and in the winter it would be too cold to work and in the summer too hot. Without one he goes right on. And Glen Lydig said about all we get out of this world is a place to stay, and then I insisted that some people got a lot better staying than others. And we all agreed that Greeley county is the bunk because they won't pay to shovel snow. Just expect us to stay at home until spring.

Sheriff Loses License Plates. Sheriff Fox was driving down the street Saturday morning when he observed a light delivery truck ahead of him. Lo and behold, the license plate on the truck was the 1936 plate recently discarded by the sheriff himself. He immediately overhauled the truck which was in service for the Kelly Laundry, driven by Milo Bates accompanied by L. T. Sterling. Charges of operating a car with improper license were placed against the two in county court. Judge Miller assessed a fine of $10.00 and costs against each, remitting the fine of Sterling. Bates paid his fine and costs and both men were released.—Custer County Chief.

THE COOK'S COL-YUM, YUM

Most of the recipes sent to this department are for desserts of various kinds, particularly for cakes. It seems that housewives must be especially proud of their they so often fall in their idea of the best white cake, the best chocolate cake, or some other standby.

There are so many new desserts constantly advertised and displayed in the magazines and newspapers, beautifully illustrated in color. It is no wonder cooks will try new dishes, even with a family that hollers for the old favorites.

Of course there are reasons for new desserts being created. Electric refrigeration is responsible for many ice box recipes, though all these recipes may be used by any housewife who will set a covered dish where winter temperatures will chill it. Manufacturers set whole corps of cooks to work to create new dishes using their products, then spend a lot of money popularizing the recipes.

Delicious Torte. Line a pan with crushed wafers. Then cream one-half cup butter and one-half cup sugar, add two unbeaten eggs, one small can of crushed pineapple, blend well. Fill in the wafer lined pan with the mixture. Then top with one-half pint of whipped cream, cover with more crushed wafers. Allow to stand at least twelve hours before serving, either in a refrigerator or a cool place.

Mrs. R. E. Teague, Stromsburg, Cold Water Cake. Cream one cup sugar with one-fourth cup butter, add three well beaten egg yolks. Sift two and one-half cups flour with one-half teaspoon salt, two and one-half teaspoons baking powder, then add alternately with one cup cold water to the cake batter, just a little at a time. Put in lastly the stiffly beaten egg whites, folding carefully. Bake in a moderate oven.

Mrs. H. M. Grady, Kearney, Burned Sugar Cake. Beat together one-half cup butter, one and one-half cups sugar, beat five minutes after the two are thoroughly creamed. Then add three egg yolks, one cup water, two cups of flour, beating until smooth after each addition. Put in five teaspoons caramel syrup, one teaspoon vanilla, then one-half cup flour which has been sifted with two teaspoons baking powder, beat well. Beat three egg whites until stiff, add to the cake.

Neutrality Issue Proves Popular One in National Capital

BY SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON—The bill placing an embargo on shipment of arms, ammunition, and implements of war to Spain, which was jammed through in the opening week of Congress, will be followed by permanent neutrality legislation later in the session.

There has never been a more popular issue in Washington, and seldom if ever a more marked division of thought within Congress and official circles.

Some members, chiefly Senators Bennett Champ Clark, Gerald P. Nye and Arthur H. Vandenberg, and Representative Maury Maverick, want a law which will make it impossible to export arms and implements of war, or to sell anything on credit or to make loans to any foreign country engaged in civil or international war.

They are willing to let Americans sell ordinary commodities to belligerents only on a cash-and-carry basis. Dissenting in the case of "hard and fast neutrality" are those who say that we cannot possibly foresee the endangering circumstances that will arise in other people's wars and provide against them in advance.

The existing neutrality law neglects to say what should be done in case of a foreign civil war, so it was considered necessary to supplement it with the recently passed embargo on shipments to Spain.

Another argument is that if the United States refuses to supply both combatants, whether one is the aggressor or the victim, whether one established government or the insurgent force, it will the effect of placing the weaker and better equipped at a position of great advantage over the weaker army.

This, it is argued, is no neutrality, but an act of hostility to the less fortunate adversary. Implicit in any law for datory neutrality is the concession that this government not be allowed to play favorites. Broad legislation of this kind would include Great Britain, which has long been the accepted ally of one substantial section of this country would suffer or later.

The point has been raised in this particular battle of proposals that only if the president had discretionary powers quick action could be kept out of foreign complications might when Congress is not in session.

Probably the most serious argument that has been in Washington against tory legislation to keep of war is that if all the lauded, signed, and sealed the emblem of peace love and good will had been passed wouldn't have kept this out of the fight in 1917.

The administration, charged, took sides and its "side" to win. Perhaps next major conflict, which is between Fascism and democracy and ship, or whatever, we sides again.

The question is whether American sympathies for a foreign country at war: can munitions, credit, f soldiers can be kept at last. To make the caramel brown one cup sugar in pouring in a cup of when it smokes. Boil to syrup.

Jesus the Guiding Light

International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Feb. 7
Text: John 8:12, 31-33; 9:1-11
BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance
OFTEN typified as the bread of life and the living water, Jesus in this lesson is symbolized as the all-illuminating Light of the world. Whosoever shall find and follow the Christ shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.

The representation of Jesus as the Light Giver has its physical counterpart in the story of the restoration of sight to the man who was born blind. It is a moving story, in which we are thrust suddenly into the mystery of sin and suffering, and the deeper mystery of the reason why men so insistently associate suffering with sin.

Mingerson Coombs Among the Countys Earliest Settlers

It is not my purpose to tell of the Mingerson Coombs of those early days, and the above is merely an introduction of the man who hundreds of middle aged people of the Ord territory knew and loved. From this humble setting came a man known and esteemed by all. A man whose character was above reproach and the mention of whose name in almost every home in Ord recalls pleasant memories of by-gone days.

Mingerson Coombs was not a man to care for public affairs. His interest was with the individual rather than the general public. Yet on two occasions he was called to public office. Some time in the late seventies he was county superintendent, and in the eighties he held the office of mayor of Ord. Had he chosen to do so, he could doubtless have held almost any office within the gift of the people.

In 1882 Mr. Coombs returned from Iowa, bringing with him his bride, Nellie Rowell, whom he had known when he formerly visited in Iowa, and who had been teaching school there until his return. When they came back they made their home in Ord, and Mrs. Coombs still lives here. While her sight has become impaired through the passing of the years, her intellect is as keen as ever, and she loves to talk of the grand old days.

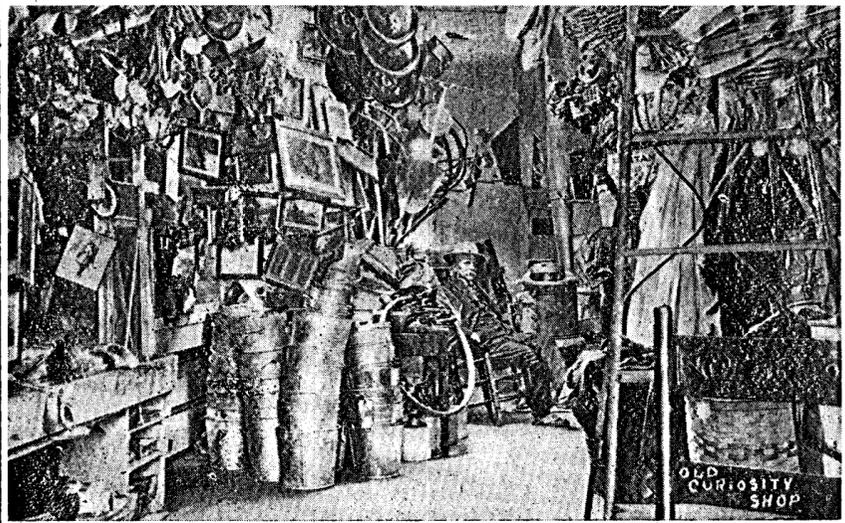

The Mingerson Coombs that most of us remember as the man who ran what he chose to call a "dingbat shop". I first recall this as being located near the southeast corner of the square. On Saturdays the proprietor would have a lot of his goods carried out to a position on the edge of the street just east of the Safeway store, and hold an auction.

Possessed of a remarkably clear and penetrating tenor voice, Mr. Coombs could make himself heard to all corners of the square, and soon a large crowd would surround his wares. The bidding was always brisk, and he always sold every article put up for sale, whether it brought what it was worth or not. It was in the conducting of these sales that the man really surpassed himself.

Shortly after this time, though I cannot recall the exact year, Mr. Coombs located in the building on the east side of the square now occupied by the Russell Pharmacy. Perhaps I should say on that site, as the building now there was built later. He located in the old building, and bought anything offered for sale, if the price suited the customer.

Goods both new and old accumu-

"Ding-Bat Shop," As Mr. Coombs Called His Second Hand Store, Was Famous Institution of Ord for Many Years

In this picture taken about thirty years ago Mingerson Coombs can be seen seated in a rocking chair in the rear, his usual resting place and the haunt of cronies who liked the game of checkers. The whole store was filled with an assortment of used furniture, tinware and all forms of second hand merchandise, as the picture proves. The "ding-bat shop," as its owner loved to refer to it, was unique even in its period; it would be positively startling today.

ulated from year to year, until it finally became Mr. Coombs' boast that he had everything in stock. Once when told that he did not have an automobile, he said that he did, and proved it. This was a car that Art and Will Kaiser had tried to build in the early days of the automobile. It failed to work principally because the engine was not powerful enough to run it. Mr. Coombs had bought it, and thus really had an automobile at a time when they were practically unknown.

He bought new goods from several different wholesale companies, and also bought most of the used goods offered for sale. When the upstairs got too full, he moved part of it into the basement, until in time the basement was filled to the limit. Then when there was no more room on the floor or on the shelves, he screwed innumerable hooks into the ceiling, and hung quantities of small articles from these hooks.

It was the delight of the younger generation, and of many not so young to go into Coombs store when they went to town just to look over the stock by the hour, and in the end to buy a few articles, always sold at a lower price than they could be bought for elsewhere. A man could spend half a day in the store and not see half of the articles on display. Yet in spite of the apparent confusion the proprietor could usually find the article you wanted to buy.

Mr. Coombs kept no books, and worked on a cash basis. This habit of keeping no records worked against him, as since he was scrupulously honest himself, he figured everyone else to be the same. It would be impossible to figure out just how much was taken out of legislative sessions the limit was 20 legislative days; standing committees shall hold a public hearing on each bill; bills shall remain in a standing committee for 5 legislative days before being reported out subsequently must remain in committee on enrollment and review for 5 legislative days; must remain in general file 2 days, and in printed form before the senate one day; by suspension of the rules a bill may be passed in 5 days; the senate may request a report from any standing committee on any bill 10 legislative days after the measure is referred to the committee.

It took the one-house legislature 2 weeks to organize and adopt rules. Much of two days were occupied in open session, besides days, weeks and months of some members in private framing a long set of rules. But down at the bottom of one of the pages containing the rules appears the single but significant sentence: "These rules may be suspended by a two-thirds majority vote of the elected members."

And it is extremely likely that this one sentence will be the means of much such activity during this and subsequent one-house sessions. In other words, it took two weeks to formulate rules and it can take, under favorable conditions, two minutes to suspend them. The rules can be ignored, rules of other legislatures have in the past, particularly when the rush comes and salaries have been spent and the warm breezes of spring lure members homeward, some of them to the good earth.

This, despite the elaborate, pains takingly drafted batch of rules, so laboriously and methodically prepared, debated and finally adopted, the motion "I move to suspend the rules" and do so and so, will be heard all too frequently.

Although it is a bit early for elected legislators to declare, a bit timidly perhaps, that they have an eye on the governors chair or some other choice political post, such as congressman or even United States senator, it is evident in the manipulation of affairs thus far in this legislature that no less than two senators may be "gubernatorial timber" and may so announce soon.

The "build-up" given the senator from Polk, John N. Norton, once congressman, leads many political allies to the assertion: "You'll hear from Norton." He'll be candidate for governor." Of course, Mr. Norton has not said a word one way or another on this matter, publicly, at least. He is of democratic faith and many of the majority party leaders in Nebraska now feel that he'll be heard from later in more of a capacity than state senator.

The republican brethren of the state, looking back at the three attempts to elect the Gordon editor, Dwight Griswold, as governor plus the statement purportedly coming from the thrice-defeated candidate that he would not run again leads to the belief that probably Charles Warner, oldest ranking member of the senate in years of legislative service and upon whose shoulders has fallen the toga of speaker of this epochal session may be the standard bearer in 1938. Like Norton, Warner, who comes from Waverly in Lancaster county, who has served off and on in the legislature of Nebraska since the turn of the century and is acclaimed one of the wisest prognosticators in politics in Nebraska today has not acceded to an approach on the matter. But close friends to the tall grey-haired senator say he is gubernatorial timber, and mean it. Thus, out of the first one-house legislature in Nebraska in history and the only one in the United States in more than a century may come the means for a party to elect a senator, governor. Only time will tell.

When two senators, Strong of Gordon and Gantz of Alliance, introduced a bill straightening out the law with reference to drunken driving penalties, it became apparent that there is at present nothing on the Nebraska statute books which makes drunken driving an offense, despite the fact people have paid fines and been jailed for just that thing. The pending straightening-out legislation is to make it clear that trial judges shall order guilty drivers not to operate motor vehicles for certain periods.

The courts have dwelt largely upon the "intent" of the legislature in the past in sentencing drunken or doped drivers, Senator Gantz averred. Also many cases are prosecuted under county and city laws.

The bill on file along with the existing state statute makes it clear that the trial judge shall order the guilty driver not to operate a car for one year on first offense; two years on second offense it would provide that any person whether intoxicated or not, driving a car in violation of the motor vehicle act, shall be deprived of driving a car for 2 years if his violation results in serious injury or death to any person or persons and provides that drunken or doped drivers shall be ordered not to drive a car for three years if causing accidents resulting in serious injury or death. All these penalties are in addition to those already provided by law. The bill, known as LB 38 carried the emergency clause.

What would create a non-paid, non-political commission of 7 members to study tax methods of Nebraska and its subdivisions and recommend changes is embodied in a bill introduced by Senator Gantz of Alliance. Four of the commission members would be gubernatorial appointees and the speaker of the senate, with senatorial approval would appoint the other three.

Under terms of the bill, within 30 days after the act is passed, an organization meeting is provided and the commission would proceed to study taxation. Not later than December 1, 1938 the commission is called upon to report its findings and recommendations to the governor who, in turn, is to present the recommendations at the next legislative session.

The bill carries an appropriation of $15,000 to cover expenses of the commission, this fund to be under care of the tax commissioner. The report of the commission is to be published. The study is said to be designed, to correct the existing statutes relating to both state and local taxation.

The commissioners have within their power to hold public meetings if they deem it necessary, but the bill does provide that advice of personal and corporate taxpayers be sought by the commissioners.

The introduction of a bill for unemployment insurance in Nebraska is expected momentarily, and word from the commission leads to the belief it will probably include every employer of one or more persons under its provisions. Material for the bill has been procured from his store that was never paid for. There is not the slightest doubt that many a person took advantage of him and carried off goods that they could easily hide.

One of the most beautiful views in the whole North Loup valley is shown in this picture, submitted in the Quiz "picture of the week" contest by Mrs. Van J. Creager, of North Loup, and awarded the $1.00 prize. It was taken from Happy Jack's peak, just above the End of the Trail cabin near Scotia, and shows view of the valley looking down the river. There are many beauty spots like this in the Loup region. Why go to Colorado for beautiful scenery?

One of the chief pleasures of his later years was playing checkers, a pastime that he enjoyed more perhaps than any man who played against him in those days. He became so fond of the game that at times he would rather continue the game than to wait on a customer. But as a rule the customers were willing to wait until the game was over before being waited on.

In his more active days he used to execute some dance steps which were unusual, to say the least, and resembled the highland fling as much as anything else. He did this, not so much for his own amusement as for the entertainment of any small children who might happen to be present. He took the keenest delight in amusing them and told stories or propounded riddles that were the source of much merriment.

He possessed a remarkably good singing voice and had a number of songs that he rendered on occasion. The one I remember best went something like this:

"O, I'm right from old Virginia with my head full of knowledge, And I've never been to high school or any other college.

Walk 'e in the parlor, walk 'e in I say;

Walk 'e in the parlor and hear the banjo play.

Walk 'e in the kitchen and hear the nigger sing;

Watch a nigger's finger as he picks upon the string.

Walk 'e in, hello, and I'll be a friend;

It's a long road to travel not a playcan to spend."

He passed into the great beyond in 1915, shortly after he had sold the store that brought him fame, not only at home but among visitors from afar. But the passage of more than twenty years has not faded the picture of the remarkable man and his equally remarkable store from my memory. I hope that a lot of people may enjoy looking at the accompanying picture, and may enjoy reading this story as much as I have enjoyed writing it.

News from the State Capitol

BY FRED J. MINDER.

With final approval of the rules of procedure that took nearly two weeks to draft, the way finally was paved for enactment of law which of course, is the primary purpose of a legislature. Debate of orderly fashion resulted when the rules committee recommendations were placed before the senators, and it is on these finally adopted rules of procedure that many states seek information before drafting bills for unicameral legislature.

Many primary rules are outlined as approved by the senate as a whole affording but minute change from the rules committee recommendations.

They include: Retention of the committee of the whole; senate sessions at 9 a. m.; committee meetings at 2 p. m. every day but Saturday and Sunday; session to adjourn not later than 1 p. m. daily on every regular meeting day; standing committees shall incorporate both a majority and a minority report on all bills reported out; committee member selected at large to the committee on committees shall be chairman of that group; members of standing committees shall choose their own chairman. Under former procedure the committee on committees named the standing committee chairmanships; no secret sessions; thirty-day limit on introduction of bills. Under the old rules of bi-

During the World war Mr. Hardenbrook served as chairman of the Valley County Council of Defense and was government appeal agent for this county.

Leaves Widow, 3 Children.

His first marriage occurred on August 20, 1899 in South Dakota to Lorinda Kinkaid and to them four children were born, one son, Samuel, preceding his parents in death. Three other children survive, Mrs. Forrest Johnson, Dora K. Hardenbrook and Miss Nona Norene Hardenbrook, all residents of Ord. In 1918 during the flu epidemic Mrs. Hardenbrook passed away.

On April 7, 1920 Mr. Hardenbrook was married to Miss Minnie V. Smith, and their almost seventeen years of life together were spent very happily.

Cancer was the disease which caused the death of Ord's honored citizen Monday and although the ailment was recognized as such in its early stages and Mr. Hardenbrook submitted to medical and surgical treatment at the hands of the best medical men in Ord, Omaha, Rochester, Minn., and other cities the treatment proved unavailing and he gradually grew worse. For the two months before his death he was bedfast continually, given tender care constantly by his loving wife and daughters, and for several days he was unconscious. Although it is greatly to be regretted that a man of Mr. Hardenbrook's great ability had to be taken at the height of his powers it must be recognized that his death came as a release from intense suffering and must have been welcomed by him as such.

Many Honors Were His.

Mr. Hardenbrook was a member of the Methodist church, of the I. O. O. F. lodge, of the Masonic lodge, of the Valley County Bar Association, the Nebraska Bar Association and the American Bar Association, being active and honored in the activities of all.

Many honors were bestowed upon him by coworkers and fellow citizens. While Valley county attorney he was twice elected president of the Nebraska Association of County Attorneys. He was a trustee of his church. He served as president of the Ord chamber of commerce. He was greatly in demand as a public speaker. He was active in republican politics, three times being a candidate for Nebraska railway commissioner and twice as a candidate for attorney general of Nebraska. He was a federal conciliation commissioner for this area under the Frazier-Lemke act. Few Valley county citizens enjoyed a wider acquaintance over Nebraska and the nation than did Mr. Hardenbrook.

Probably the honor in which he took most pride, and it was one that he richly deserved, was his election to the presidency of the North Loup power and irrigation district when it was first organized in 1933. His election as a director was confirmed again by voters in 1934 and 1935 and each time his fellow directors reelected him to presidency of the district.

Wanted to See Completion.

It was Mr. Hardenbrook's greatest joy that he lived to see the North Loup project approved and under construction; it was his greatest tragedy that he could not live to see it completed and the valley take its rightful place as one of the United States' most fruitful agricultural regions.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 p. m. yesterday at the Methodist church here, Rev. Mearl C. Smith of Ord officiating. All business places in Ord were closed during the rites and almost without exception the business men and their employees attended the funeral. Officers and directors of the North Loup project, their wives, employees of the district and of Engineers Black & Veatch attended in a body, as did the staff of the Ord Quiz. Interment was in the Ord cemetery.

Besides his widow and three children, Mr. Hardenbrook is mourned by one sister, Mrs. Frank McClellan, of Fremont, the only other near relative surviving, and by a great group of friends that includes nearly all who ever knew him. His death constitutes an irreparable loss to this city and state.

Flu Situation Is Serious In Places

According to the St. Paul Phonograph influenza is epidemic there. A large number of cases are reported, and quite a few of them are serious. Two babies have succumbed to the disease, and several have pleurisy and mastoid trouble, which are kindred ailments. The flu and cold epidemic at Loup City caused the officials to close the schools there last Wednesday. At that time there were about one hundred pupils out of school because of illness, according to the Sherman County Times. Supt. Archerd and Miss Fox, mathematics teacher, are also ill. The Scotia Register says that scarcely a family in that section has escaped the flu, and that to publish a complete list of the victims would be impossible. The Spalding Enterprise tells of four children who are receiving treatment for pneumonia following the flu. At Hartington the Herald tells of four deaths last week due to either the flu or pneumonia. Further away the Platte County Record of Wheatland, Wyo., reports two deaths from flu followed by pneumonia. A number of other papers report at least one death from the same cause. The number of deaths as compared with the number of cases is comparatively low, and most fatalities are due to complications.

Valley County Red Cross Asks Funds For Flood Relief

It is hoped that the $275 quota may be equalled or exceeded before Saturday night of this week, says Mrs. Mortensen.

$125 Raised So Far.

Horace Travis has been appointed treasurer of the flood relief fund and at 11:00 a. m. yesterday he reported $125 in donations, including $82 given by local organizations. A list of donations reported to him at that time follows and next week a complete list, including rural, North Loup, Arcadia and Elyria donations, will be printed:

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bals, $10; K. of C. lodge, $10; Grace E. Weekes, $2; Ord Quiz, $5; Mrs. Vincent Kokes, $5; Catholic Ladies club, $15; P. E. O. chapter, $5; Harold Taylor, $1; Pythian Sisters, $2; Chamber of Commerce, $50; Nebraska State bank, $10; First National bank, $10.

The great Ohio flood now is ravaging river bottom areas in 12 states. More than 150 people are dead, latest estimates of homeless are near the million mark and hundreds of millions of dollars in property damage has resulted. Almost half of Louisville, Ky., is under water, the entire city of Portsmouth, O., is flooded, Cincinnati and St. Louis are greatly affected as well as dozens of smaller cities.

Emergency Proclaimed.

The flood was caused by heavy unseasonal rains in the Ohio river area and it is feared that damage may be even greater as raging flood waters proceed down the Ohio river and into the Mississippi, which is already at flood stage. It is without doubt the greatest disaster in the nation's history.

Just before noon yesterday over the radio came the most startling flood message of all: President Roosevelt's order evacuating the entire Mississippi valley from Cairo to New Orleans. This order will mean that hundreds of thousands more people must leave their homes until the flood menace passes, which may be days or weeks.

Valley county people must give to the Red Cross as generously as they are able, give till it hurts, as they did in World war days.

—Graydon Dunlap of Ord accompanied Dr. Earl Wise on his recent trip to California. He writes that he enjoyed the trip very much, and that it was like going from winter directly into summer. When going up the mountains they would run into heavy snows which fell straight down. In places they found cars that had been abandoned with as much as five feet of snow over the top of them. On the ways down out of the mountains the change to warm weather was fully as abrupt. In fact, they felt lucky to get through with no more trouble than they had. The entire trip to Richmond, Calif., took only 23 hours driving time, which is a record for any kind of weather. Mr. Dunlap is staying with Leonard Klma at Richmond, and looking for work, which he will doubtless find.

Coal Miner Lewis Now Labor's Leader

John L. Lewis, the coal miner, union leader, will no doubt go down in history as one of the outstanding figures of the year 1937. He is today making a place for himself in the hall of fame in his leadership of the crisis in the automobile industry. He is the head of the Committee for Industrial Organization. His C. I. O. consists of a dozen unions intent on organizing millions of workers in the mass production industries in the one vast, closely knit body. The automobile field offers a fertile place for such an organization.

The dominant personality of the 215 pound battling John Llewellyn Lewis played across the scene from the first gun. In Detroit Homer Martin, head of the striking United Automobile Workers of America, directed the offensive from the front lines. Backing him was John Brophy, chief organizer of the C. I. O. But back in Washington was the real leader, coal miner Lewis. It was Lewis who issued the sharply worded commands. And it was Lewis who simultaneously directed a series of delicate maneuvers behind the scenes in steel, glass, aluminum and allied industries.

Lewis' record is 26 years of labor leadership. Son of a coal miner, coal miner himself, he rose steadily in power until today he rules with an iron hand the 540,000 members of the United Mine Workers of America. John L. as a strapping youth of 17, went down into the coal mines with his father in Lucas county, Iowa. In the next ten years he worked in coal and metal mines throughout the west. Then, at 26, he returned to Lucas county and became delegate to the United Mine Workers national convention.

From this early beginning he has grown steadily in stature until today his is the dominant figure in Industrial Organization. He became field representative of the American Federation of Labor in 1920, and about the same time was made president of the United Mine Workers, which position he has held ever since. In 1933 the NRA seemed the answer to the ills afflicting the coal mining industry, but this was overruled by the supreme court. Likewise the Guffey coal bill failed. The new offensive, started in 1936 seeks to unite 1,500,000 workers on an industry wide scale. Big things perhaps, for a man of 56, but John L. Lewis is admittedly one of the biggest men in the nation today.

Unbeaten Spalding Quintet Humbled By Brockman Boys

Game Very Rough, Almost a Riot at Finish; Ord 2nd Team Won Also.

In a torrid game on the Ord floor Tuesday night, Coach Helmut Brockman's Ord high school hoopers chalked up victory number five as they whitewashed a touted Spalding five by a wide 27 to 12 score.

From the opening whistle the game was a fight, both teams playing the fastest basketball in their power. This non-conference clash was the first defeat headed the high scoring Spalding eleven this year and they took their licking in bitter manner. During the final quarter play became so rough that it nearly ended in a riot. Despite the fouling committed by the desperately fighting Spalding quint, the game remained the best that has been played on the local floor for some time.

A large crowd of Ord fans were on hand to see the Chanticleers take the Bluejays to camp and howled with glee as the Red and White quint humbled the team that has averaged nearly 60 points per game this season. The Ord Pep band under the direction of student-director Eugene Puncocar played.

Second Team Won Too. Averaging about seven points per quarter, Coach Burdette Cowler's Ord high second stringers chalked up their fourth win of the season as they shellacked the Spalding seconds with a heavy 28 to 11 score in a preliminary to the Ord-Spalding game Tuesday eve.

Chanticleers Scalp Indians 36 to 12, 2nd Mid-Six Win

Haskell Star Performer In Ord Victory Friday; Ord's Defense Superlative.

Staging a first half scoring spree, Coach Brockman's Chanticleers scalped the Broken Bow Indians in grand style last Friday night as the Ord team took its fourth straight victory with a 36 to 12 score. This was also the second Mid Six win of the season for the Ord quint.

Good shooting and superb guarding were the big features displayed by the Chanticleers in this contest. Ord fans were almost ready to give Broken Bow the nod over the Chanticleers when they marched into the Bow gym and saw how small it was. However, the size of floor seemed to make no difference to the Ordites unless it was to make them play a faster and more accurate game of ball.

Game Was Fast.

Both teams played at top speed the first half, with the ball changing hands so fast it could hardly be followed by the eye. The deciding factor of the game proved to be that the Chanticleers could hit the basket when they had a chance while the Indians could not. Plenty of scoring opportunities were given to the Indians the first half, but the Bow team was evidently not "hot" and could not hit the bucket.

It was in the first half that the Redshirts really won the game. In the final half the Indians stuck up such a stout defense that the Chanticleers were allowed to score only 12 points as compared with 24 the first half. The Bow defense was put to shame however by the defense put up by the Red and White team, the Ord machine permitting the Indians to score only two field goals during the entire game.

Haskell Gets Away.

Harold Haskell, the lad who showed up so well in the Sargent game several weeks ago and then did a fadeaway, was back in form Friday night and "went to town" in a big way. During the first half Haskell poured in 3 field goals, topping them off with three free throws. In the second half he added two more field goals and two free shots. Right behind Haskell were three other Ord performers—Barta, Zulkoski and Tunncliff. Barta did his part by sinking two field goals and a couple of free shots while Tunncliff slipped in two field goals and Zulkoski two free shots and a field goal. At the half the score stood 24 to 5.

Bow Tightened Defense.

In the second half Broken Bow played a tighter game of ball, the game progressing a little slower than did the first half. Haskell again led the scoring for the Chanticleers by swishing in a total of six points. The rest of the Ord squad were tied down, Barta being held scoreless, Zulkoski getting in only one field goal and Tunncliff getting only one free shot.

Broken Bow cashed in on a number of free throws in this period, the Indian squad making a total of seven points in this period on free shots.

Fouling was about the same on both teams, 15 fouls being called on the Chanticleers while 13 were called on the Bow quint.

Harold Haskell was the high scoring champ for the evening making twice as many points as any other team member. A total of 15 points were chalked up to his credit. Tunncliff, with 5 points, Barta with 6, and Zulkoski with 6, were other Ord scorers.

Tunncliff, Barta, Are High Scorers

DON TUNNICLIFF.

Don Tunncliff, veteran forward, is leading Chanticleer scorers this season with 36 points, playing his third year of basketball for Ord.

DEAN BARTA.

And here's the fellow who takes care of the center position on the Chanticleer team. Dean Barta is known as the "eagle eye" of the team and when he gets hot—opponents watch out! This is Dean's second year in basketball, he is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 145 pounds.

Other Chanticleer scorers: Haskell, 24 points; Zulkoski, 18 points; Dale Hughes, 9 points; Don Dahlin, 9 points; Gerald Clark, 7 points; Severson, 6 points; Zikmund, 2 points.

Wills' Cagers Hand Scotia 40-18 Wallop

North Loup hung up their third consecutive victory of the 1937 season as they soared over Scotia 40 to 18.

During the first quarter the score remained nearly equal, both sides missing many of their set-ups. In the second quarter the North Loup quint began to click and at the half time were leading 17-8.

The second half saw the North Loup team become alive with better passing, team work and more accurate basket shooting. Carroll Annays, who was held scoreless the first half, broke loose to ring up five field goals. C. Annays was high point man with ten counters, while Bartz and Green were second with 8 points each. In the preliminary game between the North Loup and Scotia second teams, the Colonel Corns pulled out a 20 to 14 victory.

Loup Valley Teams Play Every Night

Every night in the week except Wednesday—that's how busy the Loup Valley and Mid Six Conference basketball squads are this week. There are plenty of non-conference clashes appearing on the schedule to provide thrills galore. Teams in both conferences are slowly getting into shape, after being hampered for several weeks by the influenza epidemic.

Monday.

Monday night of this week the fast stepping Dannebrog quint took on the Cairo team on the Cairo floor. Dannebrog has been going through their games like a house afire and are figured to go more than a little way in the Loup Valley basketball tourney.

Tuesday.

Tuesday night one Mid Six Conference game was played, this contest being between the St. Paul and Arcadia quintets. On the same evening Eiba played at Scotia, Spalding traveled to Ord, Loup City met Sargent on the Bulldog's floor, Shelton journeyed to Ravenna to meet a Mid Six team in a non-conference contest, Ansley played Broken Bow on the Indians court in a non-conference game.

Thursday.

Tonight one Loup Valley conference game appears on the schedule, Comstock meeting Burwell on the Burwell court. Comstock also has been going good thus far this season and is expected to roll over the Wranglers with ease.

According to the schedule Burwell will be kept rather busy, for after keeping company with Comstock Thursday night they play host to Sargent Friday night. Coach Brown's Loup City crew will probably take another licking as they meet powerful Lexington on the Loup City court. Arcadia, with a rather weak team, will probably get set down in fine shape by the flashy Dannebrog quint as they meet the Arcadians on the Arcadia floor. Taylor plays on its home court as they meet A. S. I. M. O. Grand Island plays Kearney in the "big time" league.

Two Mid Six Conference games are on tap Friday night. St. Paul goes to Broken Bow in what appears to be another defeat piled on the heads of the Indians and Ord meets Ravenna on the Ravenna floor.

Tuesday.

Fans are expecting Ord to soar over Arcadia as the two teams meet on Feb. 2 on the Arcadia floor in a Mid Six game. Dannebrog will have it out with Loup City on the Loup floor, St. Paul will undoubtedly pile up a nice score on Scotia as they meet on the Scotia floor and Broken Bow goes to Calloway.

Sport Shorts

It's always supthin' ain't it? This influenza, flu, grip, or whatever you call it, has sure raised heck with basketball in the Loup Valley. No one can tell the strength of any of the teams. Why? Hardly any of the teams have been able to play a game with their first five on the floor. The game that was to be played Jan. 19 between the North Loup and Arcadia teams was postponed because the entire Arcadia team had the flu. The game will be played Jan. 28.

It was decided at the meeting of Loup Valley coaches and teachers last Saturday that teams would be seeded in the Loup Valley basketball tourney to be held in Loup City this year. Four teams will be seeded—that is placed in different brackets so that they won't meet until the semi or finals. This is the first time that this method has been used in the Loup Valley tournament, but it is undoubtedly a good step. Remember last year when the "finals" were played in the semi-finals? With this new system this will be done away with.

What teams are the best in the Valley? It's a tough question, without a doubt. Four teams are to be seeded, now just what teams will they be? At the present time it seems that there are six good strong teams in the Valley. In my opinion, the strongest teams are as follows: Ord, St. Paul, Dannebrog, North Loup, Comstock and Sargent. You pick the best four.

Something to look forward to—how much do you think we can hold Hastings down to? Forty points? Thus far, Coach Dwight Thomas' Hastings crew has zoomed over all of their opponents and were the first team to stop Creighton Prep, this season. No wonder Hastings is looking forward to the state championship!

40 Grade School Boys in Cage Sport

Yes sir, they're really havin' fun over at the Ord grade school—at least the group of boys shown here are. Over forty grade school boys are participating in a round robin basketball tourney under the general supervision of Coach Eddy. All of the boys weren't on hand the night Quiz Photographer Duemey came on the scene but here is a good share of them. Fans are urged to come over to the grade school any Tuesday or Thursday night and see any of the eight teams in action.

Ravenna Loses In Overtime Battle

Coach Brown had his Loup City quint in good working order last week, as they nipped Ravenna 19-17 in a contest which went into an overtime period. At the half the score was tied 8-8. Maca and Anderson were high point scorers for Loup City, each getting seven points. The win over Ravenna gives Loup City a percentage of .500 in the Mid Six, having lost only to Broken Bow. The Loup second stringers won out by a close 12 to 10 score. Loup City lost out by a narrow 12 to 11 margin at the hands of Ansley's quintet last Friday. The Loup second team also lost, losing by a 21-5 decision.

Henry Misko Stars For Junior Hi Team

With Henry Misko tipping in six field goals, Coach Frank Lee's Ord junior high school cagers chalked up their first win in the 1937 season by wallowing Broken Bow 23 to 16.

At the half time the score stood at 12-9 giving Ord a 3-point advantage. Coming back after the half, the rest of the team members besides Misko got hot to add on a total of 11 points in the final half. Henry Misko, at forward, was high point man of the evening, scoring over half the total 23 Ord counters. Coble, Broken Bow forward was next in line for scoring honors, swishing in 10 points.

Although most of the Ord followers are sure that the Red and White will do away with Ravenna with little effort, Ravenna may turn the tables on the Chanticleers.

After starting the season with a bang, the Ravensites have slumped. In their first game Coach Stan Johnson's quint scared the North Island quint out of their shoes, losing to the Islanders in the final half by a four point margin.

Not unlike the rest of the Mid Six and Loup Valley teams, the Ravenna quint has been struck by the influenza epidemic and has been having a tough time getting back in shape. Ravenna's only victory this year on the court has been a 20 to 11 win over the Litchfield five two weeks ago.

Majors, Smaha and Svanda make up the offensive attack for the Ravenna team. Ravenna recently lost to Elm Creek 21 to 18 and in an overtime period lost to Loup City by a close 19 to 17 verdict. In the Loup City contest Jack Majors and Smaha played a fine game, doing most of the offensive work for the Ravenna crew. Tommy Svanda, another Ravenna ace, was slowed down because of recent illness. Other Ravenna players who will appear in the lineup include Hamilton and Meek at guards. The Ravenna team, unless illness places several of them on the sick list, will be made entirely of lettermen.

Arcadia, with a list of players on the sick list a mile long, will probably go down under the Chanticleers' attack easily. At one time this season every player on the Arcadia squad was in bed with the flu, this causing numerous games to be forfeited or postponed. The Arcadia team is just coming out of its daze of sickness and if they have gotten back in shape may give the Chanticleers a little trouble.

The Arcadia-Ord tussle will be the fourth Mid Six conference contest for the Chanticleers in the 1937 season.

About Basketball By Laverne Lakin

Next to proper time limits on strenuous participation, the greatest essential of proper training is rest. A basketball player will need from one to two hours more sleep during the playing season than at other times. An athlete should watch his weight carefully. A growing boy, not overweight, should not lose weight during any sport season. Of course there will probably be slight losses of weight in the first few days of practice but weight lost should be gained back by the time the third week of drill work has rolled by. Should a boy lose consistently, the only remedy is rest.

Diet too is an important factor in the building up of a rigid body. Lunch, should be eaten at least two hours before the beginning of a game or practice period. Stimulating drinks such as coffee should be entirely eliminated from the athlete's course. A player's pep should depend upon abundant energy rather than a "kick" induced artificially. Strenuous exertion gives the body the serious problem of making a delicate adjustment; it should be left alone to the adjustment in its own way.

During the playing season very little or no sweets or pastry should be eaten by players. Do not drink milk on the day of an important game, but on all other days a growing boy needs from one and a half to two pints of milk. Ice cream is good for an athlete. A glass of milk just before bedtime is satisfactory. Cocoa is an excellent drink for any meal. Unfortunately it is sometimes difficult to secure fruits and vegetables during the winter. Apples and oranges are all right, these being available usually. Second best is canned fruit.

In a practice a player who has had a comparatively light lunch will do better. Especially if the lunch consisted chiefly of fruits, vegetables, and dairy products. A hearty breakfast is always advisable. Yolks of eggs are especially nutritious and digestible. Cereals provide energy.

Broiled or fried steak, lean and absolutely well done, is an excellent main course for the evening meal. This should be a substantial meal, containing both meat and vegetables. The meal should be eaten slowly, not gulped down. No intelligent participant in any sport will, seriously and in perfect good faith, defend and endorse smoking for an athlete.

Arcadia Quintet Has Tough Luck

Arcadia's high school basketball team is having a difficult time in winning games. Its difficulty not only lies in losing games but also in having the regulars on the injured or sick list. The whole squad or what is regarded as the first string has not appeared together on the court in any game yet. Up to date the Arcadia team has won a single game out of four. They defeated Mason City but were beaten by Sargent, Taylor and Comstock.

The Arcadia Hotel team headed by Dr. Kibbie were finally defeated last Monday night when an inspired team headed by "swede" Sell won 12 to 10. In the second game of the evening the Whites won from the Engineers 28 to 18, when the Engineers were unable to stop Denton who made seven baskets for the Whites.

Remaining Arcadia basketball schedule:

- Jan. 29—Dannebrog at Dannebrog.
- Feb. 2—Ord at Arcadia.
- Feb. 5—Loup City at Loup City.
- Feb. 9—Ansley at Ansley.
- Feb. 12—Broken Bow at Arcadia.
- Feb. 16-18—Loup Valley Tourney.

Comstock Cagers Defeated Arcadia

Comstock added another scalp to their collection of victories as they snowed under Arcadia with a heavy 22 to 7 score. The game was slow throughout with the score at the end of the first quarter standing at 3 to 2 in favor of Comstock. The Pirates came to life in the second period and scored eleven points, leaving the score 14 to 4 at the half. During the last half Arcadia made three points while Comstock succeeded in getting 8, making the final count 22 to 7 in favor of Comstock.

Comstock has only four more games to play in the 1937 season except tournament games. Games left include Mason City there, on Feb. 2; Ansley, at Comstock, Feb. 5; Anselmo at Comstock, Feb. 12; tentative game with Ord.

Ord Assn't Coach Resigns Position

Burdett Cowel, who for the past three years has held the position of assistant coach at Ord high school, announced this week that he has resigned his position on the Ord coaching staff and will take a position as head coach at Minatare. He will leave his duties here on January 30 and will immediately take over the position at Minatare. The school board has as yet not named a successor to Cowel.

Mr. Cowel attended the grade high schools in his home town of Auburn, Nebr. He was active in high athletics, playing for two years as guard on the high school team and participating in track events for three years. He was selected as captain of the Auburn track team in his senior year at school in 1929. He did not attend school the year following his graduation but entered the Peru State Teachers College in 1930 from which he graduated in 1934.

Equally active in college sports and activities, Cowel played for four years as end on the Inter-Collegiate football team. As a sophomore he was chosen as All State end. He lettered in track for four years and was the captain of the track team. As a sophomore he was chosen an Alltime, the holder of the Nebraska inter-collegiate track records in the 100 yard dash, the high hurdles and the broad jump. He also made enviable records in the high jumping, relay running and pole vaulting events.

Cowel was a member of the Letter Men's Fraternity, the Manual Arts Honorary Fraternity, the Y. M. C. A. and the P. Club, a letterman's association of which he was secretary and treasurer. Graduating in 1934, his first teaching experience has been gained in Ord high school.

While in Ord during the past three years, Coach Cowel and Brockman have developed a reign of supreme honors for Ord athletic team. Fans, students, and faculty members are sorry to see Mr. Cowel leave his duties here in Ord but wish him the best of success at his new position in Minatare.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Poultrymen are starting to haul eggs to hatcheries. Eggs for hatching purposes should be packed with the large ends up. When handled in this manner the eggs are less apt to be broken, and they will hatch better.

The safest place to haul eggs in an automobile is where there is the least vibration. If hatching eggs are transported in trucks or wagons, the bed should be matted with straw to absorb shocks. The eggs may be placed in the incubators immediately on arrival. The idea that they need to rest first is erroneous.

Eggs for early hatching must be gathered often as they cannot be allowed to chill. They store best at a temperature of fifty to sixty degrees Fahrenheit. A frost-proof cellar or basement is an excellent storage place. Here they should be kept large end up.

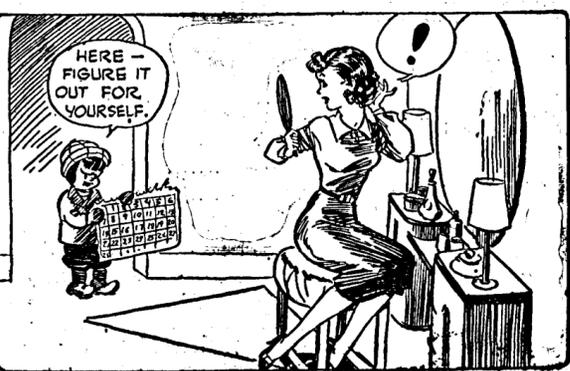

Each normal egg has an air cell at the big end. It is necessary that the tissue separating the inner portion of the egg from the shell membrane neither be broken nor shaken loose. Eggs with tremulous air cells hatch poorly. Packing with large ends up removes the pressure from the inner membrane.

Tests have also shown that hatching eggs ought not be held longer than a week or ten days before delivery to the hatchery.

Freshmen Hold "Backwards" Party

Fun galore was had by the freshman class as they held a "backward" party in the high school building last Thursday. Guests wore at least one article of their clothing backwards. When coming into the school assembly they came in backwards, they played games in backward fashion, and even ate their refreshments in a backward manner.

Mrs. J. J. Waldmann Writer Forty Years

Mrs. J. J. Waldmann, Quiz correspondent for the past forty years, has just passed her 60th milestone of life, and unlike most women, she is willing to admit it. She says that she has been a resident of Valley county and Geranium township for the past 54 years, which also is some record. She has lived all that time within one mile of the homestead where she first settled with her parents and four brothers.

As a matter of fact, although she probably cannot recall it, there was no Geranium township 54 years ago, nor any township, for that matter, as the county was under precinct organization at that time. I wonder if any one recalls what precinct comprised that part of the county in 1882 or thereabouts. She has written news for the Quiz for forty years, and wonders if any other writer can boast as long a record.
The writer of this article first wrote for the Quiz some forty years ago, but has not kept it up all that time. Mrs. Waldmann's items first appeared under the heading, "Poplar Grove News", named after the school. Later the district was divided and the school house moved away. The grove which a number of us old timers can remember died, and the locality became known as Woodman hall, after the hall built 37 years ago by Camp No. 5406, Modern Woodman of America.

The Quiz was then published by W. W. Haskell. Ord was not the city it is today, and the Woodman hall items were written in a little two room soddy. Mrs. Waldmann says that we could not then sit in our little homes and listen to the inauguration of our chief executive, hear the rain drops patter in Washington, and a few minutes later hear comments on the address from people in Seattle, London, Paris or Honolulu.

She wonders what the next fifty years will bring, and prophesies that writing as a means of communication will have become a lost art, like the spinning wheel and the family loom has today, and that people will converse with their friends far and near over the air waves. Perhaps she is right, but it would be difficult to conceive of a world without a newspaper, or a city of Ord without the Ord Quiz. May Mrs. Waldmann live to furnish the Woodman hall news for a great many years to come.

Begin Work For Spring Contests

As the time for annual spring contests approaches the various Ord high school departments are settling down to a steady hum as work gets under way in earnest.
In the music department work on solos is being developed, with the large music groups meeting once or twice weekly. This year 17 soloists are working in hopes of being chosen to represent Ord in the district contest which will be held at Kearney this year. Soloists working at the present time include: Dick Koupal, Dorothy Aulse, LaVerne Lakin, Eugene Puncocar, Boyd Holloway, Leonard Sobon, Virginia Sack, Simon Dancek, Barbara Dale, Lloyd Sack, Opal Miller, Vernon Malolepszy, Marilyn Dale, Lillian Karty, Marjorie Smith, and Norma Mae Snell.
The required numbers for the Class B schools for the 1937 contest are: Boys glee club, "Dance My Comrades" by Bennett; Girls glee club, "Fairy Pipes," by Brewer; Mixed chorus, "Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal" by Thlman; Orchestra, "Cool Fan Tutti" by Mozart; Band, "Daphnis Overture" by Holmes.
Right behind the music department comes the dramatic department who are rushing plans so they may compete in an invitational speech meet to be held at Hastings College early in February. There are nineteen contestants working for the local declamatory contest. Six are taking dramatic readings, Mae Klein, Wilma Krikac, Armona Achen, Eleanore Wolf, Valasta Vodehnal and Lucille Lakin. Thirteen are scheduled to present humorous readings, Lillian Karty, Sylvia Iwaniski, Vera Severns, Joy Loft, Irene Whitting, Lloyd Sack, Mildred Kianecky, Dorothy Ferris, Audrey

Turner, Norma Hall, Marjorie Nauenburg, Kristina Kominek and Helen Warford.
At the present time Miss Ellen Servino, drama director, is planning to enter a debate team, readers, speakers, and one-act play in the Hastings Invitational tourney which will be held February 11-13.

WEEKLY STATE CAPITOL NEWS LETTER.

(Continued from Page 8.) The federal social security board. The federal unemployment insurance plan includes only employers of eight or more persons. Rumored around hotel rooms is the probability that an attempt may be made to outlaw radios from automobiles operated in Nebraska, law enforcement cars excepted.

Delivery by Governor Cochran of his budget message Monday struck but few unexpected notes. Previous to his trip to Washington for the second inauguration of President Roosevelt, Cochran had hinted through the press and by radio that many state needs and a limited pocketbook makes Nebraska's budget problem unusually difficult.

Senators, with copies of the message to study generally agreed with the governor. It is from the recommendations of the executive that the all-important appropriation bills are drafted.

Another measure that at least one senator is reflecting upon is that introduced in the Iowa legislature prohibiting the exhibiting to anyone under age a movie depicting characters who are divorced.

Writers of checks who have insufficient funds to cover them are affected materially by the pending bill, LB 26, introduced by Senator Gantz. The tentative law would strike from insufficient fund check law the provision it must be done "with intent to defraud" and provides if the sum involved does not exceed $35 the offending party shall make twofold restitution and pay fine of $5 to $100 or be jailed for 90 days or both and where the sum exceeds $35 penalties are a fine of $100 to $5,000 or imprisonment not exceeding 7 years.

Car Accidents For Week.

During the week ending Jan. 28, 311 accidents were recorded by the State Press association, with 161 injuries, one permanent disability and seven deaths. Automobile accidents were second in number to "Other Public Accidents"; but the 148 "Other Public Accidents" carried only 59 injuries and no deaths, as compared with the 54 injuries and four deaths for the 79 motor vehicle accidents. Fifty "home" accidents ranked third in injuries but first in death, in proportion to their number—19 injuries and 3 deaths. "Safety first" must always be borne in mind if there is to be a decimation of these losses. Can the number be reduced? Of the 79 motor accidents 13 were caused by striking obstructions, 11 by skidding, 11 by collision, 11 miscellaneous and 9 by striking parked cars. The rest were made up by striking pedestrian, mechanical defect, lost control, ditched by passing car, driver intoxicated, blinding lights, reckless driving and railroad crossing.—Press Report.

They Feed Peanuts to Monkeys. "Sutton will have some paying early in the spring. And if there could be whatever it takes to make the city water fit to use, there would be real rejoicing in households. Eliminate the rust." Well, well, and a prominent friend citizen recently told me that Friend was the only town in the state where rust could be found in the water. At any rate people in Sutton seem to live to ripe old ages. Perhaps it is the Russian peanuts that gives them good health.—Sutton Register.

Jots in Jest THE six assistants "with a passion for anonymity" whom President Roosevelt wants added to the White House staff will probably be vice presidents. A quart of milk equals three-quarters of a pound of beef-steak, 6 1/2 oranges, and two pounds of potatoes, except in Germany, where it equals about one cannonball.

Eugene Talmadge, ex-governor of Georgia, said, "You can't get people to do something by fighting; you have to love them into it." With the exception of divorce. The Extension Club of Elk Creek, Mo., has as its motto, "Make Something Out of Nothing." It probably all started over the holes in doughnuts. Students at Punahou Academy, Honolulu, are making their own chairs. Probably preparing for a strike.

Quiz Adding Many New Features As Result of Survey

Sunday School Lesson and Comic Strip, Patterns, Wanted By Readers.

As result of a survey made three weeks ago by printing a "Readers' Preferential Ballot", on which readers were asked to indicate new features they would like to have printed in the Quiz, this newspaper in today's issue offers a number of new departments which will be continued throughout 1937 and as long as they prove popular with subscribers.

One feature checked on their ballots by many subscribers was a standard weekly Sunday school lesson. The first such lesson, written by Dr. Wm. E. Gilroy, editor of Advance, will be found on page 2. Another feature generally desired was a Washington News Letter and this always will be found on the editorial page, beginning with today's issue.

Another department added that should prove popular with feminine readers is a pattern section. Each week a new dress or other garment will be illustrated and described and readers may secure from the Quiz Pattern Bureau any pattern printed, at very nominal cost.

"Mac," an interesting cartoon strip, will appear weekly, as will a new editorial page cartoon drawn by one of America's leading artists. Another famous cartoon, "The Great American Home," will likewise be a weekly feature.

From time to time sport articles by Philip Martin, of the NEA service, will appear, and national news pictures will find places in the news columns.

These various features have been added at considerable expense by the publisher but their addition does not mean that regular departments such as local news pictures will be discontinued, in fact the Quiz hopes to print more of these in 1937 than ever before. In future old-time stories, which are desired by many readers, will be written by John L. Ward, of the Quiz staff, who will delve into city or county records or into the memoirs of pioneer residents for suitable story material each week.

The "Cartoon of the Week" contest announced recently is proving very popular and several cartoons are in the hands of the photo-engraving department now, for publication in coming issues. This week's $1.00 prize goes to Homer Jones, farmer living near Ord. It will be found on page 4.

"Picture of the Week" prize of $1.00 goes today to Mrs. Van J. Creager, of North Loup, for a fine view taken from Happy Jack's Peak near Scotia. More pictures of interesting local scenes, people or happenings are wanted. Real "news pictures" stand the best chance of winning prizes, so keep your kodaks handy, amateurs, and should the opportunity present, snap an auto accident picture, freak of the weather, well known person in unusual pose or other news event and rush it to the Quiz office.

Thespians Present Play Friday Eve

The Ord high school Thespian Club was organized with a main purpose of giving to advanced speech students a chance to "try their wings." They will do so publicly on Friday, Jan. 29 when they stage a three-act mystery farce "Spooky Tavern"—all by themselves—it will be a student production.

If you could suddenly be a small mouse back of the curtain at 8 o'clock, Jan. 29 you would find Barbara Dale directing the Thespian crew instead of Miss Ellen Servine in her well-known stage smock. Clay Nelson will be found at the rigging, he knows the ropes and according to Miss Servine is the best stage manager she ever had. Kendall Wiegardt—well, it can't be stated as to what he actually does—but Kendall has a lot to do with all the noise off stage.

No one will be able to identify the cast, each cast member is responsible for his own make-up the night of the play and they're all hoping and praying that they won't get something in the wrong place!

The public is invited to attend this exhibition of "what we learned at school" and those who attend are also requested to remember it is a student production, staged, directed, enacted solely by Ord high school students. Don't miss it! Admission is entirely free.

Ord and Burwell Men Are Honored

The past week was the occasion of the state meeting of fair board members at Lincoln, and a good delegation was in attendance both from the Valley county fair and races, and Nebraska's big rodeo. Those who went from Ord were S. W. Roe, Henry Enger and Emil Fafetta. Those who attended from Burwell were Harry Doran, A. R. McMillans, F. W. Manasil and C. J. Bleach.

Boyd of Kearney, second vice-president, and E. R. Purcell of Broken Bow, treasurer. Perry Reed was re-elected secretary for his fourth term.

Members of the state fair management board were Gates Lilley, Papillion; J. B. Golder, Oakland; E. J. Millie, Loretto, and A. A. Russell, Geneva. Elected to the state board were, first district, J. F. Shubert, Shubert, Erie Smiley, Seward, and Dr. C. A. Anderson, Beatrice; second district, E. P. Noyes, Valley; third district, Charles Graff, Bancroft, Henry F. Kuhl, Plainview, and E. J. Millie, Loretto.

Since his boyhood days Mr. Clement has been interested in the Valley county fair, first as an exhibitor of Hereford cattle and Poland China hogs, and later as a member of the board. He has played a vitally important part in the work of putting the fair over for a number of years. His many friends will be highly pleased at the recognition he has received.

Harry Doran has been arena director of Nebraska's big rodeo since its organization. He was vice-president for several years, and for the past two years has been president. He has devoted a great deal of time to the work of handling the big show all through its existence, and is capable of handling any work connected with his new job. These men are to be congratulated, as it is a signal honor to be named on the state board.

North Loup News

Peter Petersen.
Peter Petersen, one of two children born to Peter and Christine Larsen Petersen was born May 9, 1865 in Denmark, and died at the home of his son, Rasmussen Petersen near North Loup, Nebraska, January 21, 1937, at the age of 71 years, eight months and twelve days. When about twelve years of age he was confirmed in the Danish Lutheran church, and while a resident of Denmark served two years in the Danish army.

As one of a colony of twelve he came to the United States in 1878 and settled in Grand Island. Here he took out naturalization papers and as soon as possible became a citizen of the land of his adoption. The year following his arrival in America he was united in marriage with Miss Christine Rasmussen, who was herself, a native of Denmark, and a member of the colony with which her husband came to America, and to this union eight children were born. Three of the children and the mother preceded him in death. The family moved to Dannebrog in 1880 and the following year moved to Valley county, and in 1885 they moved to a homestead in Howard county, six miles south of Scotia, Nebr. While undergoing the rigors of homestead life, the hardships were augmented by the death of the wife and mother, which left the husband with the care of the family of small children. Seeking to relieve the father of the care and responsibility that had been thrust upon him by the death of his companion, friends and neighbors offered to adopt the smaller children, but he steadfastly refused, preferring rather to regard the request of the mother that he keep the family together, no matter what sacrifices on his part it might require. His children remember him today as a good and kind father who made a home for them, and who did what he could to make life comfortable and happy for them. Following the breaking up of his home by the marriage of his children, he has lived among them, and when his son Rasmus was married he went to live with him, and for the past 20 years has made this home his home. His surviving children are Marie, Maggie, Mattie, Rasmussen and Chris. He is also survived by ten grandchildren and twenty-five great grandchildren, and by a large acquaintance of friends and neighbors.

Funeral services were held at the Rasmus Petersen home Saturday afternoon. Rev. C. L. Hill conducted the service and music was furnished by Mrs. Harold Hoepfner and Mrs. Glen Johnson. The three musical selections were "Does Jesus Care?", "End of a Perfect Day", and "Going Down the Valley". Pall bearers were Owen Portis, Orville Noyes, Harlon Brennick, Robert Brennick, Boyd Mulligan, Ed Greene. The body was taken to Dannevirke for burial.

George Mayo and Mrs. Grace Rood were in Grand Island Monday. Jim Bell, who had been visiting relatives and friends over the week end accompanied them, going on from there to Hastings where he is employed.

Art Babcock has returned to his work in Lincoln after spending a week with his mother, Mrs. Jessie T. Babcock.

The chemical squad of the North Loup fire department was called to Scotia Friday to assist in putting out a fire. The Scotia department found their hose had been improperly drained and was frozen up. The fire, a residence, had grown to such proportions by the time the North Loup men got there that all they could do was stand by and watch it burn.

James Stoval, who is with the U. S. militia located at Fort Douglas in Utah, is visiting friends in North Loup.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist church Saturday morning for Mrs. Alice Trimble who passed away in Arizona. Rev. W. H. Stephens conducted the services. Music was furnished by a mixed quartet, Mrs. Harold Hoepfner, Mrs. Winnie Bartz, Melvin Cornell and Albert Babcock.

Mr. and Mrs. James Trimble of Omaha and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Trimble of Swink, Colo., were in North Loup to attend the funeral of their mother, Mrs. Alice Trimble.

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Thein returned last Tuesday from Gothenburg where they had been called by the illness of his mother. The latter, Mrs. Elizabeth Thein passed away Friday, Jan. 15, and her son and his wife remained there until after the funeral.

The Lawrence Mitchells who have been staying at the William Preston home for several weeks returned to their home last Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Negley are staying with the Mitchells to help with the work. Mr. Mitchell's infected hand is much improved and although Mrs. Mitchell still suffers with inflammatory rheumatism she is able to be up part of the time.

Mrs. Hugh Clement has been in Ord off and on for the past week helping to care for her father, Ed Milligan, who has been having the flu.

Rest had come! His tasks were ended
Calm was written on his brow
Father's life was big and splendid
And we understand it now.

God in heaven sent an angel
To relieve her of all care
For he knew her kind of sorrow
Was far more than she could bear
She was waited home to heaven
To the mansions of the blessed
Where her sad heart knows no aching
And her weary soul's at rest.

Another Correction Duly Acknowledged

Writing from Lincoln under date of January 23, Delpha M. Taylor sets the writer right in regard to a mistake made in the recent write-up of the death of Charles F. Way. The writer assumed that the information given in the Lincoln paper was correct, and it spoke of a brother, B. C. Way, of Hayworth, Calif. As no D. C. Way was accounted for, it naturally followed that he must be dead. The brother mentioned above should have been D. C. Way, whose address is 25728 Saklan Road, Hayward, Calif. This is the same D. C. Way who will be remembered by the old timers as having lived here from forty to fifty years ago. Miss Taylor says that she had the pleasure of visiting Mr. and Mrs. Way at Hayward in August, 1935. She also visited their daughter, Della Way Gemmer, at Palo Alto.

—Supt. W. D. Bailey and wife of North Loup were in Ord Saturday where they attended a teachers meeting. They spent the night at the home of Judge and Mrs. John L. Andersen.

—Miss Evelyn Anderson, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claus Koll, is visiting her relatives here. This week she is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Edgar Roe and family. She lives at Craig, Nebr.
