Fair Association Deficit of $5,700 Discussed Monday

New Directors Chosen, Will Try to Borrow Money,
Pay Off All Debts.

That the Loup Valley Agricultural Society now owes approximately $5,700, of which $3,500 is a deficit from the fair and auto races given in August, was revealed to stockholders at their annual meeting held Monday afternoon in the district court room in Ord with barely a quorum present. How to raise money to pay off debts incurred by the 1937 show was the principal topic of discussion but no decision was reached.

Prior to this summer's fair, the association owed $2,200 to Charles Bals, secured by a mortgage on the fair grounds. Expense of the 1937 show exceeded revenue by about $3,500, raising the association's indebtedness to the $5,700 figure.

Deductible from this total will be about $1,800 which the association will receive from Valley country as taxes are paid, but most of this money will not come in for almost a year.

C. W. McClellan, of North Loup, president of the association, presided at the meeting Monday and first order of business was reading of minutes, after which stockholders heard the reports of S. W. Roe, secretary, and Horace W. Travis, treasurer, both of which were duly accepted and made a matter of record.

Next order of business was selection of three directors for 3-year terms and the written ballot brought out the names of Chas. Bals, Dr. J. W. McGinnis, Val Pulley, W. C. H. Noll, Chris Belers, Walter Jorgensen and a few others who got one vote each. McGinnis, Bals and McClellan were the high men. Both Bals and McClellan

Hold Unemployment Census This Month

Mark Tolen of the Ord postoffice has been designated as checker for an unemployment census which the government will take beginning Nov. 16 and continuing until Nov. 20, inclusive. The postoffice department has agreed to cooperate with the administrator of the national unemployment census in a registration of the unemployed and partly unemployed to be made during the period above mentioned.

The morning of Nov. 16 blank URC forms will be sent out by the local postoffice to every person in this territory. All blanks in these forms must be filled out correctly and the forms returned not later than Nov. 20. This registration is intended for: (1) Persons who are totally unemployed, able to work and want work; (2) Persons who are partly employed and want more work; (3) Persons who are working on a WPA or any other emergency-work project supported by public funds.

Unemployment forms shall be delivered to each dwelling or place of abode, throughout the entire United States, including the Hawaiian Islands and Alaska, on Tuesday, Nov. 16. Every city and village carrier shall deliver one URC form to each dwelling on his route on that date. If he has reason to believe that there may be more than one person, who is unemployed or partly unemployed, residing at address, he should supply forms accordingly. He shall also supply forms on request.

Mr. Tolen prefers that these forms be returned to the Ord postoffice in person, in order that any mistakes in making out may be checked and corrected. It is highly important that every unemployed or partly unemployed person fill out one of these forms. It is also important that every patron render every assistance possible. The local postoffice force is cooperating with Mr. Tolen in this work without any extra compensation, and this should be appreciated.

Opens Meat Market In Mazac Building

Anton Stepanek is very busy this week getting the Mazac building on the north side of the square in shape for the opening of his new meat market Saturday. A new floor has been laid in the front end of the building and all the fixtures have been cleaned and overhauled. Mr. Stepanek has been conducting a butcher shop in Taylor for a number of years, and states that he has been connected with the business in one way and another all his life. He expects to continue his shop in Taylor as usual, but will spend the major part of his time looking after the new business in Ord. He may either sell out the Ord shop in case a suitable opportunity comes, or he may sell the Taylor shop and keep the one in Ord if the business develops as it should. He extends the public a cordial invitation to attend his opening Saturday.

Evelyn 'Flunks' Transport Exam, Will Try Again in Three Months

Highly Technical Questions
'Too Tough' for Ord Gal,
Who Is Only 18.

Evelyn Sharp returned to Ord Sunday from nearly a full week's stay in Lincoln. She hadn't passed her government transport pilot's examination. She had flunked. Disappointed? Not a bit of it! Already she is making plans to receive further instruction in the technical branches of aviation. Evelyn is no quitter—she still has high hopes of becoming the youngest girl transport pilot in the United States. She will take the examination again in three months.

When confronted by reporters in Lincoln, Evelyn told them point-blank that she had "flunked" her written examination.

Quoting the Associated Press: "But I can take it again in three months," the pretty Ord girl explained. "Am I? You're telling me, I am. I didn't have enough instruction, I guess. But I'll get more."

Even with the loss of three months, Evelyn still has a chance to be the nation's youngest girl transport pilot if she can pass the 40-question examination next time. Experienced airmen who hoped that Evelyn would pass the tests, said that they weren't surprised when she failed. Even the "old-timers" in the field of aviation confess that the government test for a transport license is a "plenty tough" examination.

Can you answer this one? "Give five reasons why a motor might backfire through the carburetor EVELYN SHARP, and tell why with explanations." That is an example of the 40 test questions which Ord's young aviator was to answer.

Evelyn did not take the flight test. There was no use in taking this section of the examination after it had been found that the written test had been unsatisfactory. One part of the flight test which she would have taken if the written test had been passed successfully, was to ball out of an airplane by the use of a parachute.

Chicago Physician To Lecture in Ord On Pre-Natal Care

At 2:30 p. m. on Tuesday, Nov. 9, in the high school auditorium at Ord, there will be a lecture on "Significance of Pre-Natal Care," which should be of interest to every woman who has or ever expects to raise children. Dr. Fall, of the department of obstetrics, University of Illinois, is the lecturer, and his visit to Ord is made possible by the cooperative effort of the Nebraska medical society and the Nebraska Department of Health, with funds provided in part by the Children's Bureau, of Washington.

This is a lecture for the general public and it is free. Also, a large amount of literature on maternal and child welfare will be distributed at the lecture. Women from other towns are especially invited to visit Ord and hear Dr. Fall, who is nationally known for his work in the field of obstetrics.

Tuesday evening at 7:00 there will be a meeting of physicians and a dinner in Dr. Fall's honor to which all physicians are invited.

Purpose of Dr. Fall's lecture tour is to lower the mortality of childbirth and infant life and it is hoped every woman in this vicinity will take advantage of the opportunity to hear the Chicago man.

Mrs. Mike Kaczka Dies at Age of 52

Mary Kapustka, 4th child of a family of 7 children, was born to John Kapustka and Regina Velgus at Ewing, Nebr., March 15, 1885, and passed away at the age of 52 years at her farm home nine miles west of Ord, after being bedfast for two months due to an infected spleen. At an early age she moved with her parents to Valley county, where she resided until her death.

She was united in marriage to Michael Kaczka at Boleszyn church. To this union three children were born: Leona Knopik, Anna Sobon, and Carl, all of Elyria. Also surviving are two grandsons, Dennis Knopik and Ronald Sobon. She also leaves to mourn her passing, two sisters, Mrs. Sophie Setlik and Mrs. Anna Boro of Comstock; four brothers, Joe of Elyria, Tom and Andrew of Arcadia, and Pete of Ord and a host of other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held at St. Mary's church at Elyria at nine o'clock Tuesday morning, and interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery. Six nephews served as pall bearers. They were Michael Setlik, Bill Kapustka, Steve Kapustka, Dolish Kapustka, Sylvester Boro and Edward Kapustka.

Farmer Cashes In On Old Corn Cobs

Chris Thomsen is one of a very few Valley county farmers who are cashing in a little foresightedness used several years ago.

About ten years ago, corn cobs were almost a drug on the market—hardly worth the trouble of hauling them to town.

Mr. Thomsen must have had an inkling of the approaching drought, for he stored his cobs under a roof and took care of them for several years. During the past few months he has sold twelve loads of cobs at $5.00 per load, thus having a source of income that is not available to his neighbors. The cobs he is now selling are 12 years old, and are just as good as ever.

3 Fined for Speeding.

The past week three men were fined in Police Judge John L. Anderson's court on charges of speeding. Bud Lashmett paid $5.00 and $4.50 costs Oct. 27. C. R. Stock was fined $7.00 and $4.50 costs Oct. 27. Max Sabate paid $5.00 and $4.50 costs Oct. 29. Stock drew an extra $2.00 on his fine because of the attitude he took while in court.

Quiet Hallowe'en in Ord, Say Officers

Ord law officials reported Monday that Sunday evening, Hallowe'en night, was a quiet affair in Ord. A special squad of officers kept watch all night and all reported little trouble.

There was the usual number of Hallowe'en parties given at private homes.

Early in the evening the city streets were cluttered with small tots carrying jack-o'-lanterns and attired in old bed sheets—all of them on their way to their friends homes where they planned to give them a "good scare."

Prominent Taylor Matron Passes In Dentist's Office

Mrs. Helmcamp Has Heart Attack, Dies, After Extraction of Tooth.

Taylor—(Special)—Mrs. William Helmcamp, 64, a pioneer resident of this community, died Friday evening in the office of a dentist at Sargent soon after having a tooth extracted. A heart attack, possibly brought on by the shock and pain of the tooth extraction, caused her sudden death.

Mrs. Helmcamp had accompanied her husband, Chester Helmcamp, Mrs. Howard Helmcamp and Mrs. Maude Vinnedge, her sister to Sargent in the afternoon and the group visited in the home of a relative, L. D. Robyler. Before returning to Taylor Mrs. Helmcamp decided to have the tooth extracted, as it had pained her greatly for some time. A few moments later she was dead.

Friends, relatives and neighbors were shocked and grieved when news of Mrs. Helmcamp's demise was brought to Taylor. She was one of this community's most respected women.

When she was only seven years old, Marion Elizabeth Robyler came to the upper North Loup valley with her parents and in the year 1879 the homesteaded near Almeria where they endured the hardships common to all pioneers. Her marriage to Wm. Helmcamp occurred in 1895 and they had three sons and one daughter, all of whom survive.

Funeral services were held at the Evangelical church at 2:00 p. m. Sunday, with Rev. L. L. Patterson in charge and interment was in the Taylor cemetery.

Quiz Broadcasts News Saturday P. M.

Added and abetted by Auble Bros., the Ord Quiz put out the first of a series of broadcasts of local news over the Auble public address system at 3:00 Saturday afternoon. A large crowd was present to listen to the program, which consisted of local items of interest which had occurred since the Quiz went to press Wednesday afternoon.

This first broadcast was done mainly on the spur of the moment but the effort met with public approval. It was Reporter Lakin's first broadcast, but he made good with a bang. His voice is remarkably smooth and well modulated, and the public heard every word he said.

This feature will be continued each Saturday afternoon at three o'clock until further notice, the idea being to bring to the public items of interesting news that have occurred after the Quiz went to press. It is especially desired to get hold of country news of interest for this broadcast. If you know news of interest please phone it in before 2:00 p. m. Saturday, if possible.

Mons Monsen Was 80 Years Old Saturday

MONS MONSEN.

Saturday, Oct. 30, was Mons Monsen's 80th birthday. In the afternoon Mrs. N. D. Nielsen prepared a party for him. Over thirty relatives and friends were present. Those who came were

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mogensen and family, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hansen and family; Mrs. John Rowhala; Mrs. Jim Larsen and family; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hansen and family; Mr. and Mrs. Pete Rasnussen and family; Mrs. H. P. Hansen and son Martin.

The only near relative he had in this country was the late Nels Mogensen, who passed away 7 years ago, but

Mr. Mogensen's children still have a very high regard for Mr. Monsen, as do the hundreds of friends he has made during his long residence in this community. He came to Valley county 49 years and 7 months ago and in that time has made hundreds of acquaintances.

In spite of his years, Mr. Monsen is still quite active, and enjoys good health.

Rotarians, Anns, Hear About France

German Rotarians Needed Hitler O. K. To Attend Meeting

Few Attended Rotary Session
in France, Says Speaker; Showed Movies.

Before German members of Rotary International could attend the annual convention in Nice, France, last spring they had to secure special permission from Dictator Adolf Hitler. Ord Rotarians were told by District Governor Charles N. Cadwallader, of Lincoln, in the course of his speech here Tuesday evening.

Hitler is trying to disband all Rotary clubs in Germany, the Lincoln man said, and only a few German Rotarians were present at the Nice convention. Rotary International has been growing in Germany and many strong clubs are in existence there. Whether the Hitler move will result in Rotary leaving Germany entirely has not yet been decided.

Governor Cadwallader made an extremely interesting talk in Ord Tuesday, illustrating it with movies taken in France. He was heard by a group of about 50 Rotarians and their wives, as well as a few guests. He was accompanied to Ord by Mrs. Cadwallader.

The governor's Ord trip is part of his regular inspection of all Rotary clubs in the Nebraska district. He visited the Ansley and Loup City clubs before coming to Ord.

Tuesday afternoon Governor Cadwallader met with E. L. Vogelzang, local president, and directors of the Ord organization, and made many suggestions for strengthening the Ord club's program. He urged that the club sponsor a Boy Scout troop as one means of service to the community.

Plans are practically complete for the annual membership drive of the Valley County Red Cross, says Mrs. E. C. Whelan, county roll call chairman. The drive will get under way on Armistice day, Nov. 11, and continue until Thanksgiving. Last year's drive set a new record both for numbers and total money given, and Mrs. Whelan is hopeful that the 1937 drive will be even more successful.

In Ord she will be assisted by Mrs. Mark Tolen, who will solicit members in the downtown district; Mrs. C. J. Mortenson in the 1st ward; Mrs. Frank Fafeita in the 2nd ward; and Mrs. Wm. Carlson in the 3rd ward. In Arcadia Mrs. Clyde Baird will head the roll call and in North Loup H. H. Thorngate has charge of the work. Mrs. A. W. Cornell will solicit members in Vinton and Enterprise townships. Mrs. Chas. Dugosh has been named chairman for Elyria. Other assistants will be appointed by Mrs. Whelan to take charge of roll call work in rural communities.

Arthur Woodruff, of St. Louis, a representative of the national Red Cross, will visit Ord next Tuesday to help organize the 1937 roll call. Mrs. Whelan is inviting sub-chairmen to a tea at her home, at which instructions

Coach Brockman Uses Speed To Down Third Mid Six Opponent

Barnes, Zulkoski, Scintillate As Chanticleers Outclass Ravenna, 26 to 0.

Coach Brockman's Ord high Chanticleers completely outclassed Ravenna last Wednesday night as the Red and White came through to win another Mid Six contest, 26-0.

Much credit for the victory must be given to the Ord line which functioned perfectly, especially on defense. The Ravenna eleven crossed the mid-stripe into Ord territory only five times during the entire game.

Barnes and Zulkoski, those two Ord backfield speedsters, were faster than ever before. When it came to cracking through the middle of the line the Ord eleven was held to a standstill, and end runs were the big feature of the evening.

A generous number of Ord grid fans were on hand to witness the Chanticleer victory. Sponsored by the Ravenna chamber of commerce, the game was attended by an exceptionally large crowd of Buffalo county people. Loup City fans, anxious to see Ord's 1937 grid machine in action, were very much in evidence on the sidelines.

A summary of the Ord win is as follows: Ravenna kicked off and the Ordsters, with the aid of a lateral pass, returned to the Ravenna 49. On the next play, Barnes, on an end run, carried the ball to the 20. Zulkoski picked up six yards and Barnes pushed over a touchdown in five more tries. The conversion was good and the score read, Ord, 7, Ravenna 0.

Ord footballers got their hands on the ball once more in the first quarter but fumbled on Ravenna's 35, losing the ball. At the start of the second quarter, Ravenna punted and tunnelfield flashed down the field for a return of 34 yards, placing the pigskin on the Ravenna 28. Two plays brought them to the 17. Zulkoski slipped through to the one yard line and a center plunge zipped the ball over for the second touchdown. Try for point was not good, leaving the score 13-0.

Ravenna kicked off at the start of the second half and Ord soon crossed the mid-stripe. Ord punted and Ravenna fumbled, Ord recovering on the Ravenna 17. Zulkoski crashed through on the next play to send the score up to a 19-0 verdict. Near the end of the third quarter, the Ravenna-ites again fumbled with the wide-awake Chanticleers recovering. On the first play of the fourth quarter Barnes took the ball from the 14-yard line and galloped over for a touchdown. A short pass into the end zone made the try for extra point good.

Ted Page, the former Nebraska basketball center, and a well-known referee of Ord basketball games, turns up with one of the better officiating tales:

In a football game one of the teams completed a pass. The opposing captain came rushing up to claim a backfield-in-motion foul. The referee said it didn't matter as the passer wasn't five yards back. The headlinesman came in to nullify this with the news that the team had been off-side, anyhow, and the umpire jumped in to say the pass was not

Chanticleers Ready For C. C. Bisons

"Down with Central City!" That's the hue and cry which has been getting louder and louder in the football camp of the Ord Chanticleers and which will break forth in a mighty effort this Friday night as the blackclad Ordsters meet the Central City Bison on the Central field in a non-conference game under the lights.

Unless something turns up the Chanticleers shouldn't worry too much about this game. The Bison have a good team this year but thus far they have displayed little in the form of outstandingly brilliant football. The Bison team has been going by "spurts" all season. Only recently the Central City crew held the touted Albion team down to a 0-0 tie. A note of danger may be sounded to the Ordsters in this type of play. They don't know what they're going to come up against. Indeed the Bison would like to spoil the string of victories which the Chanticleers have been building up for a period of two years.

This will be the second meeting of the two teams, fulfilling a contract which the two schools signed last year. Last year the Bison played on the Ord field. Although the weather was below the zero mark, both teams played good football with the Chanticleers winning out, 12-0.

Last week's football results show that while the Red and White was pounding Ravenna, 26-0, the Central City crew was losing a tough one to Schuyler, 14 to 7. This will be the sixth football encounter of the 1937 grid season for the Chanticleers.

Praise For Smith.

More praise was piled upon Smith, Arcadia's fleet-footed quarterback, last week by H. E. Hosch of the Scotia Register in regard to the Scotia-Arcadia game. He says, "Smith, Arcadia's quarterback, was easily the outstanding player in Tuesday night's contest. He accounted for two touchdowns and tossed a long forward pass for the other Arcadia score. Weighing 155 pounds, he is a triple-threat and is the greatest back that the Tigers have faced so far this season."

good because the receiver had caught the ball out of bounds.

You'll have to agree that there wasn't much chance to make any gain on that play.

Week Filled With Non-Conference Football Games

Only one Mid Six and one Loup Valley football contest appear on the schedule this week but the state is filled to capacity with non-conference games.

In the Mid Six clash of the week Ord City takes on Ravenna at Ravenna. Unless the Ravenna lads display much more than they did last weekend against the Ord eleven, Coach Brown's Loup City crew should have little trouble in gaining another Mid Six victory.

In Loup Valley play, the only contest will be the meeting of Arcadia and Burwell on the Burwell field. This should be a classic. Both the teams have shown considerable power at times during the season and if both are going strong this Friday—beware!

There are a host of non-conference games on tap including: Comstock at Ansley, Ansley at Sargent, Calloway at Broken Bow, Ord at Central City, Mason City at Taylor, North Loup at Grand Island (Res.), St. Paul at Shelton and Scotia at Wolbach.

It is hoped by showing the above scores that Ord fans as to how many games have been won by Ord grid teams in the past three years will be settled. In 1934, the first year that the Chanticleers were under Brockman supervision, the Ordsters placed sixth in the Loup Valley conference, winning 3, losing 5, and tying 2.

The schedule for this year is not yet completed, however a check-up of the past two years of play and games played thus far this season show: Won—18; Lost—0; Tied—4. Opponents scored 12 points while the Chanticleers amassed 331 counters.

5 TO 9 VS. 9 TO 5.

For nearly a decade we have been getting nowhere and traveling fast. Master minds have pondered over the problem, and have given many and diverse reasons for the state of affairs, but to date no one has seemed to be able to do anything about it. The government has been striving since 1932 to bring out a new order of affairs, to lead the American Israelites into the promised land, but today we seem to be farther away than ever.

One of the leading causes has been overlooked. Thirty years or more ago the farmer as well as many men in other lines of endeavor, was attending to his work from 5:00 in the morning until 9:00 at night. He put in long hours, but he was getting somewhere. Many of the older generation are still doing that very thing, and most of them are still getting along.

The trouble is that the later generation in some manner got the figures confused, and instead of working from 5:00 to 9:00, they are putting in their time from 9:00 to 5:00. With a fairly large percent of the people use of the word work is obsolete. They manage to put in their time, but they do not know the meaning of work. Work means the accomplishment of a definite objective. Too many do not accomplish anything.

Check over the men who are engaged in the various forms of constructive enterprise in Ord, and you will get the surprise of your life.

We have a number of carpenters, but most of them are men old enough to retire if they could afford to. A few are middle aged, but we know of no young carpenters. This same analysis will apply to other trades. The only trade that seems to apply to the young man is that of auto mechanic, and yet most of them are middle aged.

The answer is simple. The new generation does not intend to make a living the way the old generation did. They practically all are obtaining high school educations, and many are going to college. They hope to make a living without hard work, or without work at all. They are all pointing for the easy jobs, when common sense tells them that the proportion of hard and easy jobs is about the same as it has always been.

The older generation is in a measure to blame for this attitude. "I don't want my children to work as hard as I had to," is back of it all in many cases. The incessant call of labor organizations for shorter hours and higher wages also has its effect. The president's idea for everyone to live more fully and the government's attitude of refusing to assist any man who insists on helping himself are contributing factors.

But back of it all still stands the command of God, "By the Sweat of Thy Brow Thou Shalt Eat Bread." It is one law that has never been repealed, and the only way that America can again get upon its feet is to get up in the morning and work later in the evening. Check up the men who are still in good financial condition today, and you'll find that they are working as hard as they ever did.

Read history and you will find that this nation was not built on an eight hour day and a five day week. Check up your own community again, and you will find that quite a large percent of the work is being done by men now old enough to retire. What we need to do is to put this younger generation to work and give those who have borne the brunt of the battle for the past fifty years a chance to rest.

IT IS DIFFERENT NOW.

Thirty or forty years ago in most of the agricultural states a man had to have an engineer's license to operate a traction engine. This engine was so geared that it traveled at the terrific speed of $\frac{3}{4}$ miles per hour. The engine developed from twenty to thirty horse power. If anything went wrong he fixed it himself or took off the damaged part and took it to a machine shop. In those days a man entrusted with the care of an engine of that type had to be a person of responsibility. He also was a man of mature years.

Today all over the United States all a kid sixteen years old or a man or woman eighty years old needs to operate a car is a driver's license. And with due respect to the recently enacted examination law, if his eyesight is good enough he can get the license. The vehicle he drives is so geared that it travels twenty times as fast as the old traction engine did, and the engine develops from three to five times the power. He doesn't have to know anything about his engine, the garages and filling stations do the work for him.

If you have been wondering how it happens that so many are killed and maimed in car accidents, read the above paragraphs over again and then wonder how it happens that we are not all killed or crippled. We tolerate this condition of affairs, because, to borrow a presidential phrase, we want to "live largely". We want to drive to Hellenback before dark. We figure rightly that we have never yet been killed, and therefore we never will be. Nobody can bluff us. We have as much right to the middle of the road as the other fellow has, and we will take up just as much space in the cemetery as he will.

METEORITES-$1.00 PER LB.

John Hrubby who lives north of Arcadia in Liberty township must have read an article in a recent copy of the Quiz relative to the paucity of mineral wealth in Nebraska. Recently he ran into a meteorite while plowing in a field. Digging it up he found forty pounds of mineral wealth worth a dollar a pound. Mr. Hrubby sold the rock to a gentleman from Denver named H. H. Nininger, who makes a business of buying meteorites at a set rate of one dollar per pound.

Meteorites are very valuable to scientists who use them to study the compositions of worlds other than our own. As they are doubtless fragments of some world that was broken up ages ago through some cataclysm of nature, their composition determines the composition of the world of which they were a part. Examination of the fragments has never yet revealed any substance not known on the earth.

I am awful sorry, for I will always take a chance on a definite promise.

"Meanwhile the United States were authorized to fire in self defense on any airplane attacking them or noncombatants in their sector of the international settlement."

I was shocked when I read that paragraph in an AP news story in the daily press last Thursday. It was in an account of the Japanese taking Chapel and the battle was raging around the international settlement. The AP story said, further, that the order for the marines to fire was given by Admiral Yarnell, in command of the United States Asiatic fleet, close by.

This Japanese-Chinese war has been raging for months now and what I can't understand, is why the United States has not told its subjects to come away from the war zone or else stay there at their own risk, and then order the United States fleet home or far enough away so we would not be involved.

Suppose it becomes necessary for the marines to fire on either Japs or Chinks, won't we be into the war at once?

It is bad business for any man to afford it. He liquor up, it injures his health and disgusts his friends and family and the public generally, but surely there is no excuse for a man who is on relief; who can't support himself and family; who depends upon his neighbors who pay taxes to support him, to spend his meagre wages for any kind of booze. No such man is liable to be punished more than he deserves.

I had the honor to serve in the state senate when this state adopted or accepted our present social security law and the government sent representatives out to Lincoln to tell us what to do and how and where to do it and to assure us, and that was often and loudly done that the money paid in by clerks and printers and employees generally, and their employers, under this law, would be held intact for the purpose for which it was raised. Now I see that the government, hard up and out of money, has used a billion of this sacred trust fund for common, every day government spending. That may be all right but we were assured that it would not be done.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Big declines in all livestock prices have been recorded during the past two weeks. Perhaps the most unexpected of these was the slump in hog prices. While the hog market normally starts falling off at this season, it was not anticipated that the drop would be so sudden or early. There are several reasons for the setback in hog prices.

Importations of canned pork are flooding the eastern United States. They come largely from Poland and other European nations whose peasants can produce swine more cheaply than the American farmer.

Tariffs on pork and lard shipped to this country are only $\frac{1}{2}$ and 3 cents; the rate experts apparently thought we would never import such products. By way of direct comparison with the inadequate pork rate, our tariff is 6 cents a pound on beef, 7 cents on lamb, and 10 cents on dressed poultry.

Another cause of cheaper hog prices is the south's bumper cotton crop.

Large quantities of inexpensive cottonseed oil are being made into vegetable shortenings, direct competitors of lard.

Other factors affecting hog prices are the stock market crash, meat strikes and the new corn crop.

Both farmers and packers will want more hogs in the future. Farmers will need them when they get a corn crop. Packers must have pork to sell beef, as eastern buyers generally desire a carload of meat to include beef, pork and mutton.

Swine production is shifting to the cotton belt. Nebraska has only 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ million hogs this year as compared with 5 1-2 million in

It is a rather queer feeling to regain consciousness and find out you have been practically dead and didn't know a thing about it. I always knew some day I would die, but never gave a thought to the fact that I might be vulnerable in 1937. I thought I was too tough to kill. And now I feel a little as though I were living on borrowed time, and had to behave particularly well to make up for it.

But I soon found out the Ordeal by Operation hadn't changed me much. I might be travelling around with new blood from a doctor and a nurse in my veins, but my tongue regrettably seems just as sharp and catty. I seem to have recovered only to have the same old faults.

It is a rather peculiar incident occurred in the real estate sale a few weeks ago when Jim Coleman purchased the small house in the village. Jim bid $475 and decided to quit. There was another bid of $480 and the auctioneer turned back to Jim.

Jim did not shake his head "no", and still he did not wink or nod and he says he did not bid at all. He had decided to quit but the auctioneer took his bid for $455. Jim did not yell out that he did not bid but even the auctioneer admitted afterward that he did not. The auctioneer just took the chance and Jim bought the place. Jim knew he had been worked a little but he didn't object for he said he could not tell within five dollars to what a place was worth.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

James Roosevelt Into Major Role in the President's 'Little Cabinet'

BY SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON.—Much of the comment that has been excited by the appointment of Jimmy Roosevelt as White House "co-ordinator" would seem to be superfluous if it is conceded that it is proper for him to be on the federal payroll as one of his father's secretaries.

There are many reasons for creating such a job, and also there are reasons for the selection of Jimmy to handle it.

There has been up to now no filter to keep the President's time free for big problems. Trivialities have reached his desk and often in meetings with his cabinet matters of less than major importance were brought to him directly.

A need existed to end the bickering of those who complained "That fellow got in and I didn't" and "The President doesn't understand our problems." The plan now is for Jimmy to consult for half an hour each week with heads of each agency. His job will be to decide what should be carried to the inner office, and to return from the inner office advice and instructions to the administrators.

He will not be given the responsibility of finding answers for any of the big problems. He may be able to settle some of the minor disputes, but such big shots as Governor Eccles of Federal Reserve, Harry Hopkins of WPA, Chairman Bill Douglas of SEC, will not tarry long at Jimmy's desk.

JIMMY'S talents have not been proved, and it may be that someone else could do a better job in the same position. But there are several advantages already apparent in the appointment. For one thing, there will be no official jealousy because of the close father and son relationship.

It is fairly certain that among the six there will be one lawyer, and Thomas G. Corcoran may be the President's selection. Corcoran serves now as an unofficial presidential secretary and liaison man, though he is attached to the RFC as assistant general counsel. Undersecretary of the Interior Charles West, who is Roosevelt's chief liaison man on Capitol Hill, is another possible choice.

The President actually hasn't decided on any individual yet.

It is not in desiring that which we can not attain, but rather in being satisfied with what lies within our reach. The successful man is concerned with earning his salary, while the failure wastes his time planning how to spend what he makes.

Whether a mink coat is a good thing to give your wife depends on the point of view. For her and for you it may seem all right, but what about the poor pink? And what about the fellow men you have to skin to get the money to buy the coat?

The ratio of what the successful man achieves is to that of his unsuccessful competitor as the square of their abilities. If no man were a failure no man would be a success for it takes failures to balance successes.

Modern man does not live in trees as did his remote ancestors, for most of us poor nuts need protection from the squirrels. A nut is a man who does not agree with us, and when he insists on talking about it, he is just plain crazy.

Christian Peace and Character

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 7.

Text: Colossians 3:1-17.

THE subject over which the entire world shows the greatest concern today, is peace. It is obvious that nations, even though they be fully-armed and outwardly preparing for war, want to avoid it.

A hundred things have happened during the last few years that prior to the World War would have quickly brought declarations of war and put nations in deadly conflicts. The World War revealed in some measure what modern warfare means, and no nation welcomes it, particularly if it involves attack or defense against a formidable foe.

But our lesson enforces instant and persistent questions. Can nations that think war, that talk war, and that are armed to the teeth, secure and maintain peace? Can mankind be free from strife among nations if there be strife and warfare among individuals? Is world peace a desirable condition of blessedness that comes through talking about it, through the machinery of treaties and World Courts and Leagues of Nations, or is world peace something that depends fundamentally on men of peace and good will?

It is not difficult to answer these questions. In fact, they are answered in the history of the world and in the course of daily life. If we would attain real peace, it must come through better relationships among men and through the casting out from human life of the things that make for war. What are these things? They are things that are associated with evil in general: covetousness, and worldly ambition for wealth and power, greed and selfishness, disregard of the rights and liberties of others, angry and passionate tempers, the spirit of malice, lack of forbearance and consideration for others; these are things that make for strife in communities, in nations, and among the nations, in a world that has increasingly become one community.

If the peace of Christ ruled in the hearts of men, these things could not be so. If the word of Christ dwelt in us all, we could not live upon a plane of violence.

BUT some one will say, "Have not Christian nations been among the worst offenders? Do not Christian preachers and teachers sanction and bless wars in which their country happens to be engaged?"

Yes, this is true. Sadly one must confess it; nor can we here discuss the citizen's practical duty when his nation is attacked or is at war. Situations arise that are complex and difficult, but one thing is certain: the spirit of Christ and of Christian teaching is opposed to the spirit of war and violence.

We must see, too, that we do not sanction such things in the name of Christ. If there have been so-called "holy wars," it was not war that was holy, but the unselfish devotion to some high cause and the willingness of those who championed it to suffer or die for it.

We should go a long step toward ending war if we took from it the tinsel and the glory, and the blessing of the church. Even if we could conceive of war to be under certain circumstances unavoidable, it would make a great difference if we regarded it as a matter of stern and terrible necessity rather than anything inherently right or noble, or in any sense holy.

Sounds Good.

The editor of this paper has kept faith with us all while away on his European trip. We this week received a postcard from Brussels, Belgium, in which he states "one interesting fact is that you can't tell Brussels from London, Paris, Rome, New York or Chicago. The people dress alike and the stores look alike. King George sent a "Cheerio" to you—Dwight." We believe all but the latter but we will argue that out when Mr. Griswold gets home.—Gordon Journal.

Taylor, the big little town which is the capital of Loup county, is beautifully located on the south bank of the North Loup river, and it has been beautified by nature, assisted by man. This is attested by the many huge cottonwood trees for which the locality is famous. These stand all about the town, and form a lovely park a couple of blocks west of the public square, which is also a park, although its trees are younger and not so large.

The Quiz delegation dropped in to Taylor Friday afternoon and found everybody happy to meet us, a characteristic peculiar to all towns on the border of the sand hill country. Our first visit was with Thurman A. Smith, publisher of the Taylor Clarion, who has been in Taylor 16 years last July, although he was in the Loup Valley at the time the Ord Quiz was started in 1882. His father, E. B. Smith and uncle, A. J. Smith, are well remembered in Ord. More about him and the Clarion anon.

The next call was on Robert Rusho, president of the Bank of Taylor. He came to the Loup Valley when he was born at Ft. Hartsuff in September, and moved with his parents to Taylor in March, 1877. He has been connected with the business interests of Taylor for the past forty years.

His first ventures were the implement business and a general store, but for the past 31 years he has been in the bank. When the family came to Loup county there was no Taylor and very little Kent, there was nobody higher up the river at the time.

We next met F. B. Hubbard on the streets. He has been a resident of Taylor for 17 years and in the county 34 years. First he was on a ranch, after which he was highway commissioner for the county.

For ten years he worked for the state as chief patrolman and did a good job of it until the increasing work made him feel that he had better give way for a younger man. He was working Friday as usual, and was in his work clothes when the picture was taken.

The next visit was to the home of Rev. L. L. Patterson, pastor of the Evangelical church, which was built some eleven years ago through the personal efforts of Rev. F. F. Cook, formerly of Mira Valley. This gentleman is a general handy man, as he not only takes care of his church duties, but also is scoutmaster of a group of boy scouts, which organization is sponsored by the church. He is examiner for auto license candidates for Loup county.

Mr. Vinnedge and Mrs. R. C. Rose motored to Broken Bow Wednesday and spent the day with Mrs. Vinnedge's sister, Mrs. Jennie Andrews and her sister, Mrs. Mary McCown of Curtis who is visiting at the Andrews home.

stated that they were not candidates for reelection, as each has served the association for a long time, and each stated that he would like to be relieved from further duty on the board.

The first formal ballot taken resulted in 14 votes for Dr. McGinnis, 12 for McClellan, 9 for Bals, 9 for Pulien, 6 for Belers, 6 for Jorgenson and 4 for Noll, with a few scattering. Mr. Bals then arose and told stockholders that he positively would not serve longer and another ballot was taken, which resulted in 8 votes for Pulien, 5 for Jorgenson and 4 for Belers. This made Dr. McGinnis, C. W. McClellan and Val Pulien new members for 3-year terms.

When Henry Jorgenson resigned from the board a year ago to go to another county Dave Arnold was appointed in his place to serve until the next regular meeting. Upon a ballot being taken Mr. Arnold was elected to succeed himself on the board.

At this stage S. W. Roe, long-time board member and secretary, handed in his resignation, and stockholders proceeded to choose a successor to fill out his term. The vote resulted in 7 votes for Henry Jorgenson, 6 for Chris Belers and 4 for Walter Noll, and upon formal ballot Jorgenson was declared elected. After little further discussion the meeting was adjourned.

Reports of the officers showed that attendance at the 1937 fair was not what it should be nor what it would have to be to make the fair a success, cause of the light attendance probably being the drouth and general money stringency.

Usually, at the conclusion of the Loup Valley Agricultural Society's annual meeting, the new board of directors meets, elects officers and makes plans for the coming year. The board met Monday but the time was devoted solely to a discussion of the fair's financial problems. Adjournment then took place and the board will meet later at the call of President McClellan, who will serve until his successor is chosen.

In the meantime board members will make a more careful study of the situation, see whether it may be possible to borrow enough money on mortgage to pay off exhibitors and other creditors of the 1937 fair and otherwise get straightened out financially. This meeting probably will be called in two or three weeks.

A Pheasant Yarn.

While hunters were scouring the country for the scarce and elusive pheasant last Sunday, the Journal editor who is no hunter and doesn't even own a gun, almost had to kill one in self defense. While driving along Sunday afternoon a big cock pheasant flew from the roadside and almost crashed into our windshield. If our car window had been open we could almost have reached out and grabbed the bright colored bird. It was the only pheasant we saw during the entire afternoon.—Palmer Journal.

Red Cross Notes.

That nearly 5,000,000 persons are Red Cross members is evidence of their faith in the organization. However, why each of these individuals joined is equally significant. To some the Red Cross disaster relief stands out while to others its health, or safety, or Junior program meets a community's particular need. Still others recognize the faithfulness the Red Cross has shown in dealing with the claims or other problems of war veterans or their families or with enlisted men.

The three major broadcasting chains, always generous with their allotment of time to the Red Cross, have again scheduled dramatic presentations with professional casts and music. You will enjoy listening to the stirring programs: Nov. 4, Mutual Broadcasting System from 5:45 to 6:00 P. M.; Nov. 7, Sunday, N. B. C., 9:30 to 10:00 P. M.; Nov. 11, Armistice Day, Columbia Broadcasting Co., 9:30 to 10:00 P. M.

"What happens to my Red Cross Dollar?" is what every thinking American should know. Roll Call time that annual Red Cross membership drive to raise funds for next year's activities—is almost here. It opens on Armistice Day, and the quota for the local chapter is 400 memberships.

The American National Red Cross is an organization to which any citizen or resident of the United States may belong. There are six classes of memberships: annual at $1.00 or more; contributing at $25; life at $50; patron at $50, sustaining at $100; support-$100. The important thing to understand about them is that only 50¢ of each membership is sent to headquarters for the national work. The local chapter retains the remainder.

The half dollar per membership which is sent to headquarters—what becomes of that? The organization's funds are used for flood relief, health, safety, and general field work. The national Red Cross is constantly organized for disaster—it has been called upon to give assistance to victims following 128 disasters this past year. Millions of persons were helped by this great agency. Under direction of the national staff the Red Cross Public Health nurses

Like Alexander.

Although I can hardly believe China can win against the Japs, my sympathy is entirely with the Chinks. It all seems like an outrage, Japan stooping to the level of Alexander, and Napoleon. He it is not our business anymore than it is our business if a band of cut-throats would jump on to our neighbor who is weak and unable to protect himself and destroy his property and kill his family.

Looking at it from another light, perhaps it is no more wrong for Japan to take China over for her own profit than it is for England to take and hold India.

And from another light yet, we might say China had it coming. For centuries she had had no stable government, sometimes one leader and sometimes more, always fighting among themselves. They are backward and superstitious. They were an easy mark, it seemed to any onlooker. But perhaps Japan will not find it so easy. The shear numbers in China alone may make it hard.

Anyway, if China can only hang on until the league starts functioning, the bache will cease imprompto.

Many have found if they wish to keep the pheasant hunters off it is better not to post their place. When a hunter sees a sign he thinks there are birds there unshot and he proceeds at once, saying if he is caught that he did not see the sign. It is a settled fact that no hunting signs do not keep the hunters off your place. They seem to attract.

Late Charles Nelson Saved Newspapers, Books and Maps for Seventy-five Years

In these days when papers of all kinds have little value when read, it seems strange that anyone should save every paper and later have them bound into a volume.

It is not done much now, but 75 years ago it was different. Both money and papers were scarce, and what literature the young people of that day had access to was appreciated. Likewise school books were given the best of care, for the same books sometimes had to serve the needs of all the children in a family.

In the year 1862, 75 years ago, an immigrant family arrived in Omaha from Sweden, a family that was destined to have some part in the affairs of Ord and Valley county. Old timers recall the three Nelson brother, Charley, Henry and Alfred, and their sisters, Mrs. Nels Nygren, Mrs. John Monroe and Dora. This story has to do with Charles especially.

When the family arrived in Omaha Charles was 12 years of age. He and Henry started to school at once, and also formed the habit of attending Sunday school. The boys were given the Sunday school papers of those days, which were no doubt very wonderful to them. Charles collected the papers from week to week, over a period of seven years, and later on had them bound into the two volumes shown in the picture above.

The smaller volume contains the

70 Ord Seniors Will Be Assigned To Work in Stores

B. & P.W.C. Club Sponsoring
Move As Part of American Education Week.

Seventy Ord high school seniors were looking forward to next Monday with eagerness this week. Next week there will be no school for these seniors, at least not in the schoolrooms. All will hold positions in prominent Ord business houses learning as much as they can about their particular business.

Again the project is being sponsored by the Ord Business and Professional Women's club. It is planned to conduct the project in a manner similar to that of last year.

A committee composed of Miss Bernice Slote, Miss Viola Crouch and Miss Barbara Hansen will place each senior in some business house or office, where he is to work from nine until four o'clock Monday until Friday.

The student is under school discipline and will be recalled for unsatisfactory conduct or work. The employer will grade students working under his direction on the quality of their work and their attitude. Each senior will present to the committee a written report of his reaction to the project.

Last year the project attracted the attention of many educators. As an activity for American Education Week, it serves to give the business men and women of Ord a share in the education of the town's children, promoting mutual understanding of the school and its patrons. Considered as research in the field of vocational education, this trial may be of additional value.

Wednesday noon the committee in charge announced that they are making rapid progress in getting students placed in business houses and it is believed that all of the students will be definitely located by this Friday.

Some of the students who have already been placed are: Robert Jablonski, Harvey Krahulik, Eldon Turner, Leroy Zirkmund, at the railroad round-house; Edgar Barnes, Safeway; Ernest James, Ord municipal light plant; Don Tunnelcliff, Golden Rule; Everett Williams, Coryell station; Frances Denney, typist, county attorney's office.

Duck Season Ends Sunday; Was 'Bust'

Very disappointing! A "bust"! are comments from a couple of Ord duck hunters regarding the open season on migratory water fowl which began on October 9 and will close Sunday, Nov. 7. Warm, clear weather and lack of precipitation are blamed for the shortage of ducks and geese which has been so apparent for the last three weeks.

Apparently there are more waterfowl this season than for many years but the northern migrants haven't started their flight for sunny climes as yet, because of unseasonably warm weather which extends through the Dakotas, Minnesota and up into Canada.

A few ducks, mostly of native raising, have been killed on the Loup rivers, the Cedar and Calamus, but the Quiz has heard of no hunters who have been able to get the limit.

There are four days of the season left and colder weather might produce a flight of ducks satisfactory to hunters. If warm weather continues the season of 1937 seems fated to go down in history as the poorest in many years for numbers of central Nebraska.

Boy Injured Sunday; Thrown From Horse

Wilmer Pugh, adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jacobitz, was thrown from a horse Sunday afternoon and quite badly hurt. The Jacobitz's live on the Mogenen place, but the accident occurred at the John Miller place, where Pugh and the Miller boys were driving cattle out into the cornstalks. Pugh was riding rapidly and ran his horse into a wire gate which he thought was down. The horse turned a complete somersault, the boy landing upon his head and shoulders on the ground. It was thought at first he might have suffered a brain concussion, but he is now improving rapidly. His left ankle is badly swollen, but this too shows signs of improvement. He was kept at the John Miller home until Monday evening, when Dr. F. A. Barta, who has charge of the case, decided that it was safe to move him home.

NOTICE Cream Producers

In compliance with the new CREAM GRADING LAW all cream buyers are required to pay for Cream according to the way it grades.

The law specifies three grades of Cream, with a spread of one cent per pound between 1st grade and 2nd grade. Third grade cream is classed as illegal and we are prohibited from buying it.

If cream producers will exercise a little care there should be no No. 3 cream in Valley county.

By keeping separators clean, using clean pails, proper strainers and cooling cream with water as soon as separated, we should be able to put practically all our cream in the Number One Class which will bring the top price.

This will mean more money for the producers, because good butter sells for more money than poor butter.

Feed and weed flavors will not give much trouble this winter but if we have another dry spring and summer we will have them to contend with in 1938.

During cold weather cream should not be kept in warm kitchens, neither should it be allowed to freeze as freezing is harmful to cream quality.

We ask for the cooperation of Cream Producers and assure you that we will help in any way that we can for we are all interested and want Valley County Cream Producers to get the top price for their butter-fat.

VOL. 54 NO. 34

No. 11 Relocation Must Come Ahead Of Paving-Klima

Co. Clerk Tells Chamber of Commerce 11 May Become Important Short Cut.

That the Ord chamber of commerce and Rotary club, the Valley county board of supervisors and interested civic groups in other cities on No. 11 highway should bend their efforts toward securing relocation of the highway between Ord and North Loup instead of toward hard surfacing for the route was the suggestion of Ign. Klima Jr., county clerk, at a meeting of the Ord chamber of commerce Wednesday evening.

He praised efforts of these organizations on the No. 11 paving plan but said his own contacts with the state highway officials led him to believe that a route paralleling the Union Pacific tracks between Ord and North Loup will have to be established before the state highway department will consent to discuss paving for No. 11.

Federal aid funds have been earmarked at Lincoln for use in grading and surfacing a new route along the tracks and for railroad crossing elimination, said Klima, and he believes concerted pressure brought to bear on State Engineer Tilley at the present time should bring results.

Within the next two or possibly three years the state will designate an important north-south highway connecting Nos. 20 and 16, said the county clerk, and cities along the No. 11 route should work toward having No. 11 designated as this connecting link. Paving of the road will follow naturally once this designation is made, he believes.

No. 20 highway into Sioux City and No. 16 highway into Omaha are important east-west arterials and a hard surfaced north-south link between them is becoming greatly needed, according to traffic counts made lately. Greatest competitor of No. 11 highway for this link will be No. 281 running north from St. Paul, Klima believes.

Two surveys of the proposed route between Ord and North Loup have been made, one within the past few weeks. The present road has eight turns most of them sharp ones, and two railroad crossings, in the 14 miles which separate the two towns. All could be eliminated by a new route paralleling the Union Pacific track on the south side. Balance of No. 11 from Burwell to St. Paul is satisfactory as to grade, turns and railway crossings.

Before hearing Klima the chamber of commerce had passed a resolution in support of hard surfacing for No. 11 and this will be sent to Governor Cochran and the state highway department, chamber of commerce officials indicate.

At the December meeting of the Valley county board of supervisors the chamber's road committee will seek assistance in the matter of relocating No. 11 between Ord and North Loup and similar help will be sought from civic groups in other towns on the highway. A large delegation probably will go to Lincoln early in 1938 to recommend such a change to the highway department.

$100 Fine, 90 Days In Jail, Is Penalty Under License Law

Valley county drivers have only until Dec. 1 to obtain their drivers' licenses as any person driving a car after that date without a license will be liable to a fine of $100 or 90 days in jail, or both.

Deadline for obtaining a license through the bureau headed by A. W. Pierce in Ord is set for Nov. 30 and drivers must have their licenses by that date or wait until an examiner or state patrolman comes to give the test, in the meantime removing their car from service.

About 2,750 of Valley county's approximately 5,000 drivers have taken out licenses so far, says Mr. Pierce. Ord people are slowest to secure licenses, possibly because they count on getting them at the last minute. Rush of applicants the last few days may be so great his office can't handle them, says Pierce, in which event some drivers may be disappointed.

Better get your license at once.

70 Ord Seniors Back in School

Seventy Ord high school seniors begrudgingly trod their weary ways back to classrooms on Monday of this week. For the entire week 70 of them had worked in Ord business houses—and liked it.

Business men were pleased with the plan. During the coming "rush" season, a number of students will have at least part time employment as a direct result of the educational experiment conducted last week under the sponsorship of the Ord Business and Professional Woman's club.

Dr. Wise Movies Enjoyed Wednesday

Ord Woman, 78, and Boulder, Colo., Woman, 50, Laid to Rest Here Sunday.

Mrs. Niels Jorgensen.

Hannah Worm was born in Jutland, Denmark, Jan. 28, 1859, and passed away at her home in Ord Nov. 11, 1937, at the age of 78 years, 9 months and 14 days. She had been in ill health for the past three months. She received her education in the schools of her home country. At the age of 14 years she was confirmed in the Lutheran faith, to which she remained steadfast throughout her life.

In 1884 she came to America and on August 11 of that year was married to Niels Jorgensen at Yankton, S. D. They spent the first years of their married life in Holt county, coming to Valley county in 1892. For 17 years they lived north of Ord on Haskell creek and in the fall of 1915 moved to her home in Ord.

Five children, sixteen grandchildren and one great grandchild with several nieces and nephews and a host of friends mourn her departure. The children are William of Minden, Nebr., Henry, Walter and Mena of Ord and Mrs. Nora Collison of Bruning, Nebr.

She was preceded in death by her husband, June 6, 1931 and by a brother, Casper Worm, Aug. 13, 1936. Mrs. Jorgensen was a cheerful home-loving mother and was faithful and devoted to those she loved.

Funeral services were held from the Ord Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 2:00, with Rev. Clarence Jensen of the Ord Danish Lutheran church in charge. The pallbearers were Chris Nielsen, William Nelson, Carl Sorensen, Henry Enger, Chris Hansen, and Reinhold Rose. The singers were James Ollis, John Haskell, Mrs. Mark Tolen and Mrs. E. O. Carlson, with Mrs. Robert Noll at the piano. Burial was made in the Ord cemetery.

Mrs. James D. Garnick.

Cora Belle Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Stewart, was born in Ord, Nebr., Oct. 18, 1887, and died at a hospital in Boulder, Colo., Wednesday night, Nov. 10, at the age of 50 years and 23 days. Her early life was spent at the farm home in Valley county. In 1909 she graduated from the Ord high school, and taught school in the county for three years.

Her marriage to James D. Garnick occurred Nov. 6, 1912. They made their home on a farm south of Ord until September, 1934, when they moved to Boulder, Colo. Mrs. Garnick's death was the first in a family of 11 children, all of whom reached maturity. All but one brother, Enos, were present for the services. Her mother died six years ago.

She is survived by her husband, James D. Garnick of Boulder, Colo., her father William J. Stewart of Ord, and by four brothers and six sisters. They are, Enos N. Stewart of Riverside, Calif., William Ray Stewart of Ord, Faye A. Stewart of Ord, Donald A. Stewart of California, Mrs. Ora Dickason of Denver, a twin sister, Alta M. Stewart, Estelle M. Stewart, Mrs. Hazel M. Meese, and Aloa Stewart, all of Ord and Mrs. Ruth Stewart Grady of Kearney; also a number of nephews and nieces.

Funeral services were held from Sow's chapel Sunday afternoon at 3:00 conducted by Rev. Mearl C. Smith of the Ord Methodist church. The pallbearers were Archie and Spencer Waterman, Earl Smith, P. E. Pocock, S. L. Willard and Ivan Botts. A quartet consisting of James Ollis, John Haskell, Mrs. Mark Tolen and Mrs. E. O. Carlson sang, with Mrs. Robert Noll at the piano. Interment was made in the Ord cemetery.

Finds Left Handed Breaking Plow Six Feet Under Ground

From Burwell comes the story of Julius Gross and his unusual find. Recently while working on the road near his place about six miles west of Burwell on the Taylor highway, he plowed into a very unusual relic. It was unusual in many ways than one, as it was not only an old time breaking plow, but it was a left handed one at that. Very few of the younger generation have ever seen an old time breaker, but even the most sophisticated cannot recall ever having seen a left handed one.

Then, to make the find more unusual, it was found beneath six feet of soil. Julius lives in the vicinity of Kent, which was a flourishing village before either Burwell or Taylor were thought of. It is supposed that this plow had outlived its usefulness in the late 70's or early 80's and was abandoned. Mr. Gross tried to claim it, but the patrolman thought it belonged to the state and took it to Ainsworth.

414 Working Now On No. Loup Job, Mills Reports

Assenmacher Will Finish By Christmas, Others Will Work Until Spring.

That a total of 414 men are still working on various phases of the North Loup project construction is the report submitted yesterday by Richard H. Mills, head of the re-employment office in Ord. Number employed by the various contractors is given by Mills as follows: Bushman Construction Co., 53; Inland Construction Co., 104; W. J. Assenmacher, 112; J. E. Morgan Co., 53; Western Asphalt Paving Corp., 100.

If weather permits continuation of work the Assenmacher company will complete its contract by Christmas, says Mills, but other contractors continue work throughout the winter, weather permitting and finish up some time next spring.

Figures above are for all project work being done in Loup and Garfield counties, as well as in Valley county. The Ord reemployment office has charge of reemployment work for these counties as well.

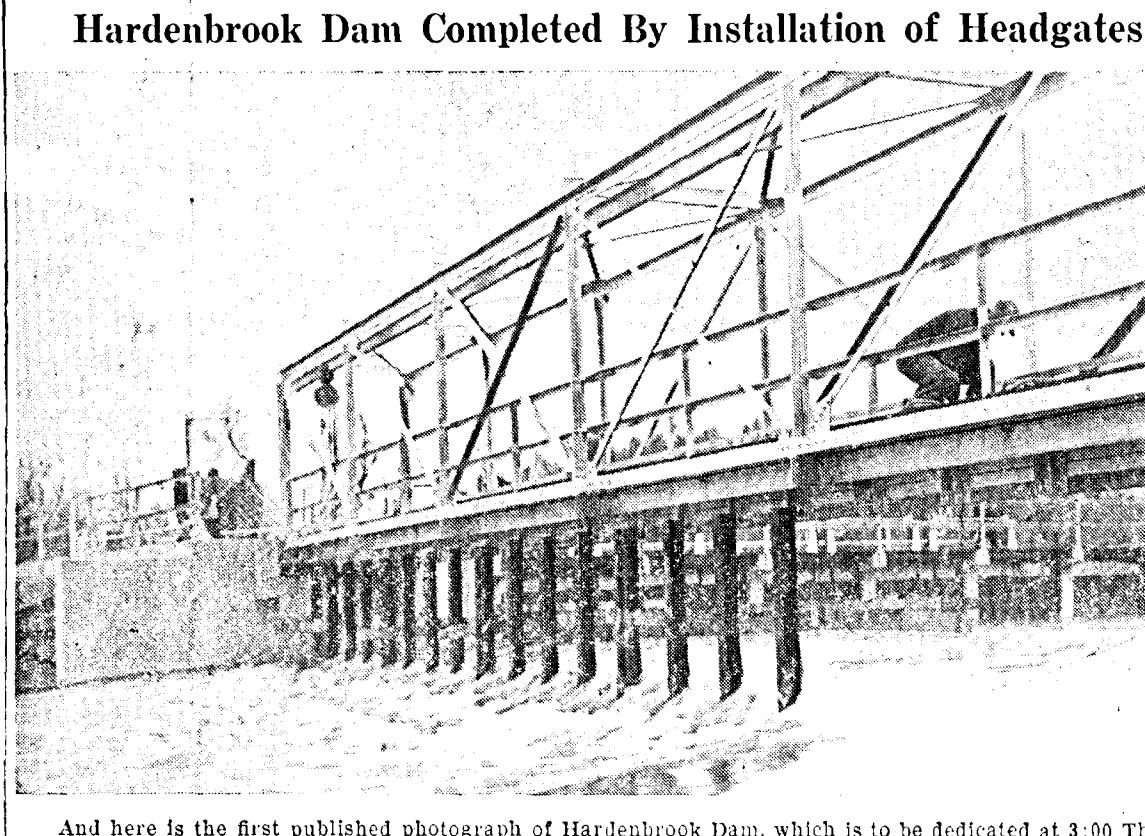

According to Director Mills, his work is complicated right now by the fact that many men who have spent the summer at farm work, on ice trucks and in other private employment are going back on relief rolls during the winter. Under government regulations, men on relief are given first chance at PWA jobs, which means he must certify them for work on the North Loup project in preference to men not on relief. A few good men have lost project jobs to relief workers because of this rule and some good men who would otherwise have got project employment have not received jobs because relief workers were available.

Charles Urban Will Sell.

Hardenbrook Dam Completed By Installation of Headgates

And here is the first published photograph of Hardenbrook Dam, which is to be dedicated at 3:00 Thursday, Nov. 18. Early this week workmen were putting finishing touches to the dam by installing steel headgates, which were only partially in place Tuesday when this picture was taken by LaVern Dueaney, Quiz photographer. The willow-mat dam which extends from the east side of the river to this steel-and-concrete structure is not shown, but in the background can be seen part of the desilting basin. At 3:00 tomorrow headgates of this dam will be closed, water will flow through the desilting basin and into a concrete canal, and through this will be diverted into the earthen Ord-North Loup canal.

Welfare Office Will Close 3 Days Weekly

Due to increased amount of work the Valley county assistance board has approved a change in the office hours of the welfare office for Valley county. The office will be closed all day every Wednesday Thursday and Saturday. No interviews will be accepted on these days except those made by appointment from the office. This is to permit the office staff to do the necessary field work on those days without inconveniencing the public coming in and not being able to see anybody in the office after possibly driving a long distance.

The office will be open on Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays and the staff will be on hand on those days to take care of any work or answer any questions that may come up. Frank Krum, county assistance director, asks that the people cooperate in coming in only on the days that the office is open, so as to give the local staff time to do the necessary office work and field work on the days the office is closed to the public.

Brother Attacks Wm. Moses Will

Charges Former Ord Mayor Unduly Influenced By Step-son, A. W. Pierce.

The mental competency of the late Wm. Moses to make a will is attacked by his brother, Clarence Moses, of Davenport, Ia., in a petition filed Tuesday in county court.

The Iowa man is seeking to have the former Ord mayor's last will and testament set aside on the premise that he was mentally incompetent when he signed the will; also that he was unduly influenced by his step-son and principal beneficiary, A. W. Pierce.

Speakers at the dedication rites will include "Red" Lane, local manager for the Western Asphalt Paving Corporation, of Sioux City, who built Hardenbrook Dam and other structures in the project; R. V. Ferry, project engineer in charge for Black & Veatch, of Kansas City; and J. E. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star. Roy Hudson, president of the North Loup project, will serve as master of ceremonies and introduce the speakers.

At 6:30 Thursday evening at the high school auditorium a public banquet will be given at which the late Bert M. Hardenbrook, first president of the project, will be honored and completion of the dam which bears his name will be celebrated.

Following the dinner a program of speaking will take place with E. H. Dunnire, engineer-manager of the North Loup project, as toastmaster.

Brief talks will be made by E. L. Vogeltanz, president of the Ord Rotary club; John P. Misko, president of the Ord chamber of commerce; Mrs. Bert M. Hardenbrook; Mrs. J. E. Lawrence; and possibly by K. Sewell Wingfield, PWA expeditor for Nebraska, who has been invited to be present. Principal address will be made by Editor "Jimmy" Lawrence who has spoken to Ord audiences several times and is one of Nebraska's foremost public speakers.

Several musical specialties are planned during the dinner and the whole afternoon and evening Thursday should comprise an affair long to be remembered.

Everybody who wishes to attend the banquet is cordially invited to do so and it is thought 200 or more will be present. Tickets are now on sale at 50¢ each at the Beranek, Sorenson and Russell drug stores, at the irrigation office in Ord and at points in Elyria, North Loup, Burwell and Taylor.

Directors of the project and their wives will attend in a body and many out-of-town visitors are expected.

Buechler's Charge Of 'Pressure' Was Sensation to State

Grand Island Editor Quits As Sutherland Director, Turns Guns on PWA.

Ord and Burwell residents awoke Tuesday morning to find the names of their cities plastered all over the front pages of the state's daily newspapers, all because of something that is an old story to the aforesaid residents.

In the Monday evening Grand Island Independent, A. F. Buechler, editor of that newspaper, charged that city officials of Ord and Burwell were forced to sign contracts for the purchase of hydro power from the North Loup district by government pressure.

Immediately long distance telephones started ringing, telegraph keys clicked, as newspapers and wire associations in Lincoln and Omaha sought to secure from city officials of Ord and Burwell and from heads of the North Loup project, confirmation or denial of Buechler's charges.

Major Gould Flagg, over the telephone to the Omaha World-Herald confirmed the Independent's charge but wondered why so much fuss was being made over it. He said:

"We were given to understand that unless we signed, the money would not be advanced on the bonds covering 55 per cent of the cost of our irrigation project."

"We were given two weeks to think it over—with a hammer over our heads. Of course we signed—it couldn't let the irrigation work stop."

Major Flagg explained further: "We knew we would be paying more for electricity than it costs us to produce it but we figured the extra expense as Ord's donation toward getting the irrigation project. That seemed to be the payment of a majority of Ord citizens."

On behalf of the village of Burwell, L. R. Williams, treasurer of the village, confirmed the Independent's charges, saying:

"Both E. H. Dunnire, manager, and Guy Laverly, attorney for the North Loup project, said we cannot get any bond money until Ord and Burwell sign on the dotted line."

Attempts of the Associated Press to secure a statement from Engineer-Manager Dunnire regarding Buechler's charges proved futile. He refused to comment but did say, in answer to Buechler's assertion that Ord is being forced to pay more for electric energy than it costs to manufacture it in our municipal plant:

"If the people of Ord take into consideration depreciation and interest items, they must admit that cost of electricity under our contract with them will actually be lower than cost of production in their municipal plant."

Breaks Halt Work On Dam at Burwell

Burwell, Nebr.—(Special)—Progress on the embankment at the west end of the Burwell dam was halted when the ball on the bucket of the dragline broke at about 6:00 p.m. Tuesday. The work of driving the piling across the river has been completed and the dragline was throwing up the embankment on the west side when the break occurred. It was caused by the vibration of the bucket digging into the shale rock which abounds in the vicinity of the dam. The Western Asphalt Paving corporation had the contract for this work, but sublet riprap work and the sand fill to Morrison-Knudson, who are completing the work. Last Wednesday the river current washed out a part of the dam and a rush call was sent out for men to help

Construction Work on Burwell Diversion Dam Progresses Rapidly

Unlike the Ord and Taylor diversion dam, the dam located at Burwell will raise the water six feet, this being necessary in order to give the water enough force to go into the canal which reaches from Burwell to Suamico.

This dam is built on a much larger and heavier scale than the Ord and Taylor dams. Work at the present time is being carried on at break-neck pace in order to have it completed before the "real" winter of central Nebraska sets in. Moore Photo.

Buechler's Charge Of 'Pressure' Was Sensation to State

Under a sliding scale provided in the contract, Ord on the basis of present consumption will pay the North Loup district 1.67c per kilowatt hour for energy, which is expected to scale down to 1.20c within five years because of increased use.

At the time the contract was under discussion, and before it was signed August 11, figures submitted by George Allen, Ord light and water commissioner, showed cost of production in the Ord plant to be 1.1c per kilowatt hour without taking into consideration depreciation or interest on investment.

In his statement to the Omaha World-Herald Monday, Mayor Flagg explained that Ord will pay about the same price for power that it now costs to manufacture it but will have to maintain its lines and keep up its stand-by plant in addition.

The whole controversy into which Ord and Burwell have been brought grew out of Editor A. F. Buechler's resignation as a director of the Sutherland project.

Harry A. Williams, president of the Sutherland, also resigned, as did Donald Price, chief engineer, and E. H. Evans, chief counsel. Buechler charged that Price's resignation was forced by the PWA; that the government is seeking to control through absolute dictatorship all public works projects in Nebraska.

More sensational charges than those relating to Ord and Burwell were made by Buechler, notably that the power house at Columbus has settled so badly on one side that the Loup project is not in condition to produce or sell power. Harold Kramer, general manager of the Loup project, said the charge was "without foundation" but the independent repeated it.

Since energy bought by the North Loup district for re-sale to Ord and Burwell is expected to come from the Loup project, this charge in particular was of foremost interest locally.

So far as the rest of the controversy is concerned, no information new to Ord and Burwell people has been revealed. People of these communities knew from the time the North Loup project was approved at Washington that they would have to help it along by buying power, probably at slightly higher expense than it would cost to produce locally. The fact that contract signing was done under "pressure" from the PWA, while resented to a certain extent, had been expected throughout.

Right now local people chiefly want to know: "Will contracts for laterals be let in time so they may be finished by irrigating time next summer?" To this there has not yet come a satisfactory answer.

How's This For A Real Football Team

For several years Ord has had a real football team, and they are entitled to a lot of credit for the showing they have made. But due credit to the sports writer, the team given below would doubtless be one of the most remarkable that Ord has ever seen, that is if it were possible to get them all on the field at the same time.

For center, what about Dave Haught? He spends much of his time in the center of the square, the town, the county, the state and the nation, and so should play the position with ease. At the guard positions there is Dr. George A. Gard, a guard in name, and Clarence M. Davis, a lawyer who like all lawyers should be always on his guard. For tackles that peerless pair, Jerry Petska and Dr. Lee Nay would take up a lot of space on any team.

For the end positions there are the two speedsters, John R. Haskell and Joe Jirak, who would be difficult to stop after they got started, and hard to move when they were standing still. At Quarterback Mark Tolen, the midget of the team, would be right in his element, and the halfbacks, Dr. Earl Wise and Dr. F. A. Barto should carry the ball skillfully, as they are accustomed to going places in a hurry carrying a small satchel about the size of a foot ball.

For the fullback position there is C. J. Mortensen, who is tall enough to break up the opponents' passes and heavy enough to hold down his end of the field. The Boss wanted to be considered for waterboy, but after due consideration the position must be given to Herb Mason, who has been playing on the bench for a number of years. John Sharp, Allie Pierce, Carl Sorensen, Freeman Haught and others may feel slighted, but a team of this caliber is no place for kids.

—John L. Ward.

Ord Has One, Too.

Theodore Anderson, past president of the Nebraska Blacksmiths association, stated that 38 blacksmiths of Danish extraction were present at the recent Omaha meeting. It seems that the trade of iron working is one that Danes like, if the foregoing is typical of the entire country. Ord has one and a good one, too. We all know Jim Hansen.

Married at Ord.

Lew Bivens, 67, lunch room proprietor at Sargent, and Mrs. Ora House, seamstress by occupation and 43 years of age, came to Ord Tuesday afternoon and received the necessary license from his honor John L. Andersen, who then performed the marriage ceremony. The bride gave her address as Sioux City. The ceremony was witnessed by Charles E. Rice, Delta I Rice and W. W. Pedrick, all of Sargent.

Mr. Ord Merchant:

Are You Getting Your Share of the New Customers Being Brought to Ord Stores by Our

"Expansion Program"

We haven't been saying much about it, but quietly for several months we've been building up circulation in near-by towns that are potential sources of business for Ord merchants. Our "expansion program" has been successful and we are now pleased to announce that the circulation of The Quiz is

2,800... Largest Circulation
an Ord Newspaper Has Ever Had

Increased circulation has been principally in the communities of Burwell, Taylor, Arcadia, North Loup and Scotia, in each of which towns we now have live-wire dealers selling single copies and soliciting mail subscriptions. We also have established agents in Sargent and Coatesfield; are working toward the establishment of agents in Ericson, Comstock and other towns.

400 New Families Reading the Quiz...
But No Increase—Yet—in our Advertising Rates

Regular advertisers tell us they notice the difference in the amount of business they are getting since our circulation has increased so greatly. You, too, can add steady customers from out-of-town points if you advertise in The Quiz.

The Quiz Blankets Ord and Valley County,
Laps Over the Edges Into Garfield,
Loup, Custer, Wheeler

Practically every family in Ord is a Quiz mail subscriber, others buy it from news boys or dealers. We cover Ord 95 per cent, a coverage that we also have on Ord rural routes. Arcadia, North Loup and Elyria are covered almost as completely, as well as the rural routes out of those towns.

A Bargain in Advertising....

At the present advertising rate of The Quiz, space in this publication is a real bargain. Where else can you reach so many customers and prospective customers at such low cost? What kind of an advertisement could you send them that would be read so thoroughly as an ad in The Quiz, which is read from "kiver to kiver" by people who buy it and pay for it because they want it and like it?

Business Goes Where It Is Invited, Nowadays

You have to tell 'em if you want to sell 'em, is a present day trade axiom. Maybe you have been in business in Ord for years, maybe the quality of your merchandise IS high, perhaps your prices ARE low, but if you don't tell 'em and keep telling 'em they'll keep on trading with somebody who does.

Free... Cut and Copy Service

At a considerable expense, the Quiz purchases for the use of its advertisers a bang-up cut and copy service. We can illustrate your ad, no matter what you want to advertise. And a capable advertising man on our staff will help you prepare an ad, this week, any week or every week. Our telephone number is 17... we are always at your service.

A Correction.

Last week our writer got into a mixup of names, with the result that we gave the name of the groom in the Kolar-Skoll wedding as Eldon, when it should have been Edward F., also one of the grooms' attendants should have been Alvin Skoll and we called him Alvin Kolar. To add to the confusion the picture of the wedding in this week's paper and the attending lines were printed before we were informed of the mistake of last week, so the same mistake was made again. We are sorry.

Butterfield Raises 15 to 22 Tons Beets Per Acre. Says Soy Beans Good Crop Too

Loren A. Butterfield, Burwell farmer who has been pump irrigating since 1930 and has been raising sugar beets since 1933, was the speaker at the Rotary club's weekly program Monday, telling Rotarians that sugar beets have been a profitable crop for him and he believes they will have an important place in the North Loup valley's crop picture once ditch irrigation comes to pass.

In 1933 he planted a test plot of 4 acres of sugar beets, Butterfield said, and they averaged 22 tons per acre. The next year he raised an average of 15 tons per acre on 8 acres and the next year 15 tons per acre on 15 acres, he said.

The first year he thinned the beet plants so they were fully 20 inches apart, and he believes this accounted in large part for the heavy yield although sugar company officials recommend that beets be planted 12 inches apart. His beets 12 inches apart produced only 15 tons per acre, he said.

This year a summer hail storm damaged his sugar beets but the tonnage still was about 15 tons per acre on the Butterfield farm.

At better than $5 per ton, the price

he was paid at Grand Island, he thinks sugar beets a profitable crop.

Beet tops are a valuable feed and about 3 tons of tops per acre were produced. Most of them he sells to his milk cows and other stock but last week he sold 2 1/2 tons of them at $3.50 per ton, so it can readily be seen that the tops have a good cash value. Their value as feed is greater than the cost of toping the beets, thinks

Mr. Butterfield.

Pump Irrigated corn and potato toes also have been profitable crops on the Butterfield farm, as has alfalfa. He recommends alternating alfalfa and sugar beets on the same land for best results. This year the Burwell farmer planted a plot to soy beans, which yielded enormously and he thinks soy beans will come to be an important crop in the North Loup valley. His cattle relish soy beans as feed, he said, because the soy beans are high in protein content.

Mr. Butterfield's talk to Ord Rotarians was arranged by the rural-urban committee, of which Ed Kokes is chairman, and was one of the most enjoyed programs of the year.

comes. Trees are getting scarce, and more care must be given this crop if there is to be timber here in the future.

Rabbits are plentiful this year, and will do damage to trees and shrubbery when heavy snows come. The girdling of young saplings can be avoided by painting the trunks with some repellent.

A mixture of linseed oil and resin will keep away rabbits effectively all winter. It is prepared by melting the resin and adding the oil on an outdoor stove. Five parts of oil are used to one part resin. The liquid should be applied with a brush while warm, and a portable heater of some kind is needed.

Sulfonated oil is another inexpensive and permanent repellent. His wash is made by heating linseed oil over an outdoor fire, and adding sulphur as it boils. Three ounces of sulphur are used per quart of oil.

A gall of blood saved from butchering and smeared on tree trunks has kept away rabbits all winter. Tar, creosote, or axle grease are effective against rabbits, but may injure the trees. Lime sulphur solution is a good repellent, but won't last all season.

Screen wire protectors are sometimes fastened around tree trunks. If placed below the ground they will also stop damage from mice, gophers and other rodents.

Fewer rabbits will be killed this winter, since hunters can only shoot five a day. The rabbits have little to feed on, and are already starting to gnaw bark.

About fifty people partook of the supper served by the Legion Auxiliary Thursday night to celebrate Armistice day. Mrs. Jessie T. Babcock and Mrs. Paul Jones were hostesses. Spanish-American war veterans were invited guests. Mashed potatoes, beef and noodles beside the covered dishes brought by the guests were enjoyed by all.

His lecture was illustrated with beautiful pictures of forest and animal life as well as phases of the soil conservation and shelter belt program. He urges that a tree be planted for every one that is cut. 13,700,000 head of stock graze every year in the national forest reserve and of every dollar paid for grazing all but thirty-five cents is spent for upkeep of the local reserve. Dr. Wheeler thinks that Nebraska sand hills are ideal for tree planting.

Alert Chanticleers Play "Heads Up" Football, Whitewash Arcadia 23-0

Crowd of 1,500 Sees Barnes Star As Ord Plunges, Passes to Victory.

An alert Chanticleer team played "heads-up" football Friday night to take advantage of every break in the game and to whitewash their old rivals, Arcadia, by the overwhelming score of 23 to 0. This made the fourth Mid Six win for the Ordites and advanced them another notch in the Loup Valley standings.

Nearly 1500 people turned out for the game, which was played under the lights on the Arcadia gridiron. The flashy Ord 60-piece band made the trip and filled the air with martial music throughout the evening. It is estimated that over 300 Ord fans made the trip to Arcadia and watched the Chanticleers win over the Arcadians.

Coach Tuning's men fumbled themselves to a defeat. During the first half the Arcadians played good ball, it was in the second half that the Tuning men lost their heads as well as the ball on every opportunity given them.

The black-clad Chanticleers were "clicking" in grand style Friday night, their plays being run off to perfection. Again Barnes, the plunging Ord halfback, attracted considerable attention by the brilliant manner in which he "hit the line." Ord's line must be given recognition for their fine work on the defensive, the Chanticleers broke through the Arcadia front wall as if it were paper. Members of the backfield force must also be commended on for their fine work on both the offensive and the defensive.

In the first quarter the only scoring done was a safety which gave Ord a lead of 2-0 at the end of the initial quarter. In a steady drive down the field early in the second period, with Zulkoski doing some fine work, the ball was carried over for the first touchdown of the game. The try for point was no good. An exchange of punts was carried on between the two teams, with the Chanticleers finally securing the ball and carrying it down to the one foot line. With the ball resting on the one foot line and four downs to go, the half came to an end, thus cutting short a scoring opportunity for the Red and White and leaving the score at 8 to 0.

Arcadia played hectic ball in the third quarter, "fumbleitis" having stricken them very badly during the half-time. At the latter end of the third quarter the Chanticleers snatched the ball and rushed it over for a 15-0 lead. Barnes intercepted a pass as the quarter was about to end and "zig-zagged" his way down the field to boost the

C. of C. to Sponsor Football Banquet, Invite 'Biff' Jones

Ord Team Will Be Honored Early in December; Public To Be Invited.

Early in December the Ord chamber of commerce will sponsor a public banquet to honor the victorious 1937 football team of Ord high school and, if plans carry, the principal speaker will be Head Coach Lawrence "Biff" Jones of the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers.

Decision to sponsor the affair and invite Jones was made by members of the chamber at their monthly meeting Wednesday evening.

Whole Ord squad and the entire coaching staff will be guests, according to plans. Ord people who want to attend may do so upon the purchase of tickets, which will be available through the drug stores.

Two remaining games on the Chanticleer schedule, Coach Brockman's team has had a remarkably successful season. To date they are unbeaten and unscorched on and this is the third straight season in which they have had an all-victorious record.

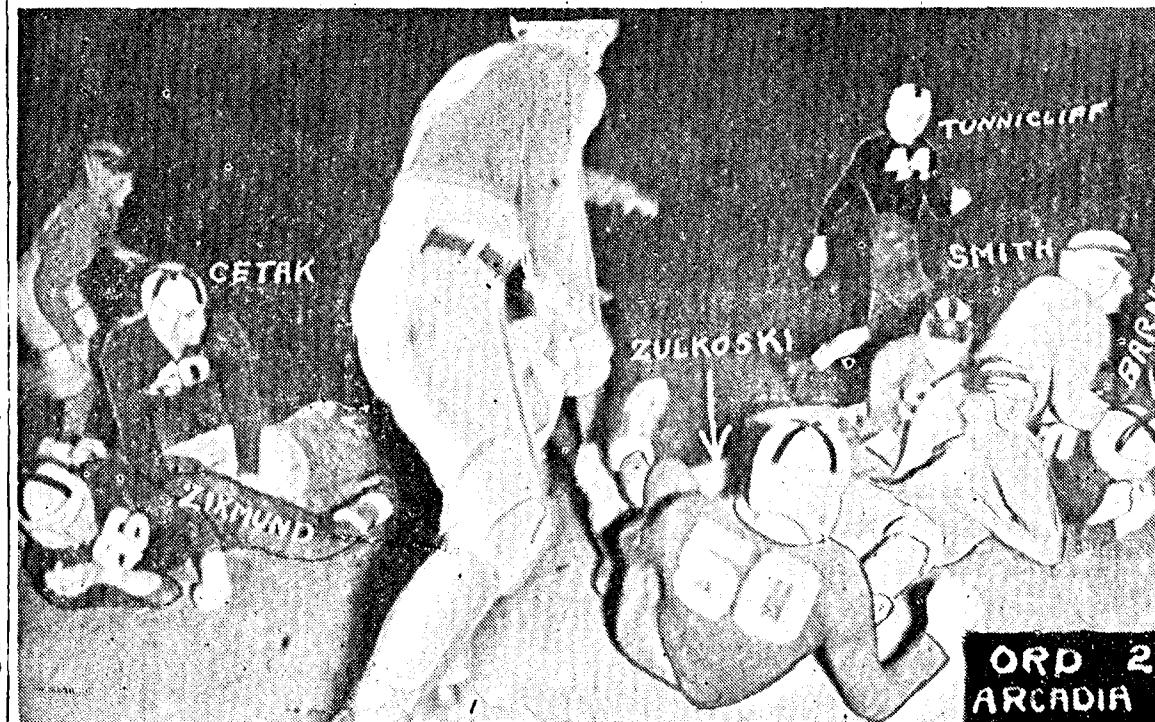

Last December the Ord chamber sponsored a banquet honoring, jointly, the Ord football team and Kenneth McGinnis, Ord boy who was a regular player on the 1936 Cornhusker team. Coach Bible was invited to attend but could not do so because of previous commitments.

Exact date of this winter's banquet will be determined when word from Coach "Biff" Jones is received. He also will be invited to bring an assistant and show movies of Nebraska games.

First Football Casualty.

Vernon VanSlyke, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack VanSlyke is the first serious casualty of the Valley county football season. While playing football at school Monday, Nov. 8, he broke his right arm in a fall when tackled while carrying the ball. Both bones of the forearm were broken a few inches below the elbow. Dr. J. G. Krumel set the arm, and the lad is getting along fine at the present time.

Barnes Is Tackled by Smith But Still Goes Over for Touchdown

It was a fighting, vicious group of Ord Chanticleers who tumbled their old rivals, Arcadia, by the score of 23 to 0 Friday night. Although tackled by Smith, Barnes charged ahead for nearly ten yards on this play in the third quarter, going over for a touchdown and making the score 15-0.—Quiz photo by Lavern Duemey.

Sock Sargent' Is Ord's Password

"Sock Sargent!" That's the password in the Chanticleer football camp this week, as the Brockman pupils dig into their practice session preparing to meet the touted Sargent high school football team this Friday night in a Loup Valley contest under the lights on the Ord gridiron.

Although the Sargent team looked only fairly good at the start of the season, the Bulldogs have made a great advancement in the past two weeks and as a result have pulled several unexpected victories out of the football handbag.

Recently Coach Copeland's crew served the fast Ansley eleven a 7 to 2 defeat. The Ansley team has been running rough-shod over Central Nebraska teams all season, the Ansley gridsters handing Coach Brown's Loup City crew a terrific beating at the start of the season. There is one game however, which the fans cannot find the key to—Taylor held the Sargent lads to a 0 to 0 tie on the Sargent home grounds.

Fans will remember the 1936 Sargent-Ord grid battle played on the Sargent field. Coach Brockman's eleven had a tough time that night in taking over a final 6 to 0 verdict.

Coach Copeland has built his 1937 grid machine around eight returning lettermen: Ames, Campbell, Coslor, Dreiler, Gibson, Haumont, Johnson and Mason. Haumont is Sargent's speed merchant of the backfield being an excellent punter and an outstanding man on defense. Coslor, Sargent quarter, has completed some fine work for his team this season and is regarded as a dangerous man. Chalupa holds down the right end position on the Bulldog team and is a superior player on both offense and defense.

One thing is certain—the Ord team will not secure much yardage Friday night by the use of an aerial attack. Not if the Sargent team plays its regular game. The Bulldogs have a defense against passing plays that is exceptionally hard to penetrate. In the Ansley game, the Ansley backs could not get the ball out of their hands before the Sargent front wall closed in on them.

Only two more hurdles remain for the Ordsters and if they jump them successfully, the Mid Six and Loup Valley football crowns will again come into their possession. Sargent plays here Nov. 19th and Loup City will meet the Chanticleers in the feature game of the season on Thanksgiving day, Thursday, Nov. 25.

Loup City Buys Fire Truck. Loup City recently purchased a new fire truck. It is of the latest design and puts Loup City in the first rank in the matter of fire equipment. Citizens will receive lower insurance rates by the purchase of this new equipment.

Much Interest in Ord-Loup City Game

If old man weather will only keep a smile on his face on Nov. 25, the date of the annual Ord-Loup City gridiron battle, fans will believe that 2000 people will turn out for the feature tilt of the season.

Football enthusiasts throughout the Loup Valley and Mid Six territory are already making plans to attend the contest on Nov. 25. Loup City has a heavy team this year while Ord has a light, speedy eleven. The question of whether a team should have weight or speed (or both) will be decided at the Turkey Day game.

As usual, the Thanksgiving game will not take place under the lights but will be played in the afternoon, the only day game of the year on the Chanticleers schedule. Although the official starting time has not been decided, officials say that it will not start before 2 o'clock.

Football Schedule Has 2 Weeks to Go

With only two more weeks remaining on the Nebraska high school football calendar, Loup Valley and Mid Six football teams will be "shooting the works" in an effort to close the season with a pair of victories.

Among the games listed this week for teams in the Loup Valley and Mid Six sector are: Arcadia at St. Paul; Loup City at Burwell; Greeley at Scotia, North Loup at Comstock, and Sargent at Ord.

Don't Forget the Movies.

Whether members of the Ord football team will ever be movie stars or not is a problem yet to be solved but a good start towards finding the solution will be made on the nights of Nov. 23 and 24.

On these dates individual pictures of the members of the Ord grid team will be flashed on the screen at the Ord theatre. Patrons will also see pictures of the members of the Loup City team, the team which will battle the Chanticleers on Thanksgiving on the Ord gridiron.

Buffalo Pulls Wagon.
Pleasanton.—While driving from Odessa to Kearney late Monday afternoon, Frank Grammer and Roy Johnson overtook a shiny new covered wagon. "It must have just come from the factory," said Roy and rubbed his eyes to take a second look, for the wagon was pulled by a big black buffalo, ambling merrily along in horse's harness.

Husked His Corn.
Joe Yukl, farmer residing between Traer and Lincoln, Ia., made fast work of gathering his corn this year, according to a dispatch in the Waterloo (Ia.) Courier.

With the assistance of two men he picked and cribbed 4,000 bushels of corn in three days. The yield of corn was better than 80 bushels per acre, and the men averaged better than 33 wagon loads a day. And here is how it was done—a two-row mechanical picker was used in harvesting the crop.—Schuyler Sun.

A Surprise For Sonny.
When Sonny Dunovan's tonsils had just been removed, he took a childish notion he wanted a slice of bread and butter with peanut butter on top. Lying in bed he took just one mouthful, swallowed it with surprise, and finished the transaction by remarking, "I'll just lay it on my pillow and smell it."—Central City Nonpareil.

THANKSGIVING!

Q Just living is a mighty keen pleasure 'long about the last Thursday in November—and it's always seemed to us that the Pilgrim fathers were very wise in selecting that day for Thanksgiving. When the sky is blue late in November, it's really blue . . . the haze of Indian summer is gone and the trees are stripped bare. There's a bright sharpness to everything—even the sunshine—and a five minute stroll will put a razor edge on your appetite.

Q Even an ordinary meal tastes mighty good; no wonder the thought of roast turkey, candied sweets, cranberries, home baked biscuits, cold apple cider and hot mince pie is enough to make a body feel sorry for the richest duke or earl in some country where they don't have Thanksgiving.

Q That's why this bank, which has been serving the banking needs of the Loup Valley country for over 50 years, hopes your feast day will be an enjoyable one.

Q Most of us still have a lot to be thankful for, even if the elements haven't been as favorable as we wanted them to be and as we hope they'll be next year.

Q So when we pull up to the table next Thursday, for what we have let's express our heart felt thanks. That's what the day is—a day of true Thanksgiving.

LIVE ADVENTUROUSLY.

The lads of today, like their fathers before them, lament the fact that the Wild West is a thing of the past; that no more the redskins bite the dust; that rangers no longer fight with the rustlers, nor sheepmen with the cattlemen; or, putting it more broadly, that there are no more frontiers.

It is true that the geographic frontiers are a thing of the past. But greater and more fascinating frontiers are before us and are opening up greater vistas day by day than were dreamed of in our history. Columbus discovered a new world. Magellan circumnavigated the globe. Cortez and Pizarro each conquered a civilization more developed in the ways of peace than their own.

These were all great men, and earned places in the ranks of the world's immortals. Yet they are mere pikers compared with the adventurers of today, who span the leagues of ether to bring in the messages of wireless and radio; who "take the wings of morning and pierce the Barcan wilderness" as free as the birds of the air; who revel in the mysteries of science and learn of new diseases and their cures—diseases of which those early explorers did not even dream the existence.

In medieval times it took a man a lifetime to prepare for and carry out a voyage of exploration. Frequently, as in the case of Magellan and DeSoto, they died before the object of their quest had been completed. Due to the prevalence of disease and the lack of scientific knowledge of how to combat it, the span of life was 20 years shorter than it is today.

With our present educational facilities a man of 21 or slightly older is equipped with the necessary mental paraphernalia to enter into adventures greater than those early days explorers ever dare to dream about. The laboratories of our nation are the frontier for scientific research that has already revolutionized every walk of life, and that will bring about new wonders daily as time goes on.

The young people of today should not feel that the last frontiers are conquered, for in the scientific world, the greatest frontier of all, exploration has barely begun. Scientists tell us greater wonders are in store for us in the immediate future than the world has ever known, and these discoveries await the modern explorer with the will to dare and to do.

The first 37 years of the 19th century have shown more advancement along scientific lines than the entire century preceding them. Children now living will see greater marvels than we now know and appreciate. Whether you are in the van, doing your part to make these wonders materialize, or whether you are like those who scoffed at Columbus when the great discoverer talked of a new world, is up to you.

THE NEW YORK ELECTION. The recent New York election has been hailed all over the United States as a victory for the common people, as well as for honesty in politics. New York is trying a new idea this time, called "proportional representation." The complicated system of tallying the votes is costing the city of New York $20,000 per day, and the canvass may not be completed before Thanksgiving, but the results show that it is worth it.

Some of the situations that have arisen are given in newspaper reports as follows: In the Bronx there already have been found 4500 votes that showed evidence of having been changed by canvassers, and these votes have been furnished by the acting district attorney. In Manhattan detectives were placed by one faction to try to catch the altering of ballots by the canvassers. In Brooklyn one man was attending law school and at the same time receiving $10.00 per day acting as a counter.

With such evidence of fraud coming to the surface, it certainly is time some kind of reform was instituted. New York machine politicians has thwarted the will of the people for years, and it is time that what little rights they are entitled to should be returned to them. East side New Yorkers long ago lost the right to fresh air and health giving sunshine, but they are entitled to the right to vote untrammeled. In view of the unsavory conditions that are being grieved, we are glad we are living in the United States instead of New York.

POINTLESS PARAGRAPHS. The Hudson Motor car company's plant at Detroit is temporarily closed because of labor difficulties in the paint department. When and if the difficulty is adjusted, Hudson motor cars will cost the buyer fifty to one hundred dollars more. The consumer always has and always will pay the piper when the manufacturers and the workers hold a dance.

That greatest of modern Scotchmen, J. Ramsay McDonald, who rose through labor's ranks from poverty to become thrice prime minister of Great Britain, has answered the call of the grim reaper. Of the World war he said, "People who seek safety by arms are like seeking safety under trees in a thunder storm. They are the point which is first to be struck when the storm breaks."

Nature is now hitting the Japanese in the rear, burying four hundred copper miners in a landslide and rendering the mine unworkable at a time when they need all the copper they can get. The Spanish war seems to be having a breathing spell, which may be broken before this is printed. But the war between William Green and John L. Lewis goes merrily on, and the rank and file are footling the bill, as usual.

Some darn fool, with a siren on his wreath of a car, made the night hideous for Ordites Thursday evening, driving around with his whistle going full tilt. Men who don't have brains enough to go to bed when they should at least should have a little respect for the rest of us who have to work for a living. The only reason the bird's name is not included in this article is that we don't know for certain who it was.

Ed Windsor appears to be easily hurt. Someone said something he didn't like and he decided to stay away from America. Then a minister expressed a wish that he stay away from Armistice day services, and he did. It is too bad that John L. Lewis isn't that thin skinned. If he were, somebody could stick out his tongue at him and he'd flee to foreign ports.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

I don't know what the contract which the Union Pacific railroad holds with the government for carrying the mail between Grand Island and Ord, provides. It should provide that the railroad be not required to deliver the mail on time when storms or other things over which it has no control, prevents prompt service. A good many times the past few weeks the morning train has come in one or two or more hours late. It was a couple of hours late last Thursday morning and it was reported that the delay was caused by the spreading of cinders on the track. This would not seem to me to be a valid excuse for delaying the U.S. mail two hours. It seems to me the government should require the railroad to spread its cinders at such times that the regular mail trains would not be delayed. If the weather fits the hunting dates then, I still think the hunting season is 15 or 20 days too early in starting unless it is planned not to allow anyone to get any birds. The boys will soon get disgusted and refuse to buy duck stamps or even hunting licenses.

I haven't seen George Gowen lately and don't suppose he will have nerve enough to show himself in the usual haunts of men, since Mr. Wills swatted him yesterweek. George must feel pretty cheap.

I have heard several mentions of Christmas already, and people were wondering what to give. One of the best suggestions I know of is to send a copy of the Quiz to your absent loved one for a year. Another suggestion is to send a nice magazine, one of the many popular ones. I will be glad to look after the detail of sending in the subscription and it is none too early to do it now if you want it to start with the December number.

With this week a lot of Quiz subscriptions expire and will be stopped. All such have been notified three weeks and more in advance so there should be no excuse of you missing your paper next week. I wish it was possible to send the paper indefinitely, as we used to do, but it just can't be done. If you can't send or bring us $2. for a year or $1. for six months in advance, ten cents to one you couldn't bring or send $2. or $4. or $6. when it was that much behind and we can't stand it to lose that amount. If you have neglected it till you read this and don't want it stopped please send it right away.

More and more are having us send for their favorite daily paper. We like to make the small commission that these orders pay us and it saves you some time and postage expense; then, if an error occurs it is easier to find us and get the matter adjusted than it is to find some traveling salesman. We will send for the paper of your choice; it doesn't matter to us. Nebraska has as good daily papers as any state in the union. The good old conservative State Journal costs less than the World-Herald because it is smaller, has less news and pictures, but it is a mighty good paper and worth the price asked. The World-Herald is one of the most progressive daily papers in the nation. It is big, full of news, features and pictures and when you get used to it you will like it. But let us send for the one you want. You are going to have lots of time to read the next eight months.

I like wild ducks and I feel that I have been cheated, for we have had just one mess of them this season. Eugene is the hunter of the family and morning after morning he got up at 4 o'clock, got a hurried cup of coffee and toast and was up the river in the blind, waiting for the opening of the day's hunting. Mostly no birds were flying. The 1937 hunting season, now history, was a big disappointment to most of the local numbers. It was too warm and the weather was too good. The boys prayed for cold, stormy weather and it stayed nice and warm with temperatures of around 50 and 60. This is being written November 11 and a letter just received from Ray Luther who lives on Culver Lake, says it is 60 degrees there when he was writing on Nov. 9, and that the duck hunting there has also been punk. The fact is, it is warm clear up into Canada and the Canadian ducks have not yet started on their trip to their winter home in the far south. The southern hunters will get the shooting this year. Perhaps it will mean still more ducks for next year, if the weather fits the hunting dates then.

I still think the hunting season is 15 or 20 days too early in starting unless it is planned not to allow anyone to get any birds. The boys will soon get disgusted and refuse to buy duck stamps or even hunting licenses.

I haven't seen George Gowen lately and don't suppose he will have nerve enough to show himself in the usual haunts of men, since Mr. Wills swatted him yesterweek. George must feel pretty cheap.

I have heard several mentions of Christmas already, and people were wondering what to give. One of the best suggestions I know of is to send a copy of the Quiz to your absent loved one for a year. Another suggestion is to send a nice magazine, one of the many popular ones. I will be glad to look after the detail of sending in the subscription and it is none too early to do it now if you want it to start with the December number.

Without doubt he has become a successful musician, earning his living at that trade and giving a service to the community. This accomplishment has been done against odds, he tells me. He feels that music was not easy or natural for him. He says as a boy he could not tell if his violin was in tune or if he was playing discord. But he liked music and persistently stayed by the task until he accomplished the art, his ability now being far above the average musician. In fact, he says, he never learned any subject easily.

The history of any successful man is interesting. Almost all of them have gone through a period of trial and struggle. But this one example, along with hundreds of others, only shows what almost any of us may do if we only apply ourselves.

I recently read where some successful man said that anyone of average intelligence can become an expert in most any line by applying his odd time, his waste time, the time he spends at foolishness, to one subject. It is illustrated repeatedly, continually. Last week my wife had as her club lesson the peace organizations of the world. For a month or more she has been giving all her spare time to that subject. One phase of it brings in another. It is never ending, but the Sabbath school lesson last week (Armistice Day) was a peace lesson and the teacher asked my wife to talk. We were all surprised at the extensive knowledge she had of the subject, and I knew she had not been at it more than two months.

I told her if she would continue that study for a year or two she could be asked to talk the country over on the subject. I'm not sure she shall do that.

The same might be said of Will Schubel and the turkey business. In three years, by applying himself, he has become an expert. Floyd Hutchins in a few years is a dairyman. Joe Veleba can talk gladiolas and flowers until one is dizzy and astounded at his knowledge. Bud Knapp is a seed expert. Claire Clement knows the Hereford cattle the same. There are hundreds of examples.

There is a little more to success than the constant application. It is the love of the work. An editor of a national magazine wrote once that the only writer who ever succeeds is the one that writes for the fun of it. If he does not write stories because it is fun for him he will never make it. The apprenticeship is too long and hard and too unprofitable.

Oscar McIntyre said that he never saw a man yet who loved his work who was not a success. Perhaps he was not a millionaire, but who can say Joe Veleba is not a success with the garden of flowers that lie in front of his house. He's not robbing banks while those "glads" are blooming or when they need cultivating. He is not thinking ill of his neighbor when he is picking a bouquet for a friend or a church. There is something more than his salary involved when Delmer teaches a class of youngsters to do something that will be a pleasure to them throughout their lives.

The idea of service also enters into the secret of success and happiness. Along with the fact of making a living for ourselves which is necessary, one should do something that he feels is a service to his fellow man. It fills out his life for our own accumulations cannot be taken with us. All our earthly possessions are only loaned to us while we live. When we are gone on to glory we should leave something more, or strive to, than a mess of junk to be quarreled over. Who quarrels over the free gratis work one rendered to unfortunate friends? No one, but it would be a hard world without them.

It is of prime importance for instructors and parents to watch continually, as several of the large universities including the U. of N. are doing, the children and urge them into a line of work that they enjoy doing. Their chances of success and the pleasures as they go along, will be many fold greater.

At Hallowe'en time we hear considerable about putting a stop to the pranks of the youngsters, keeping them in line, keeping them from damaging property, and other mischiefs.

Very little is said, however, about restraining grown-ups from Hallowe'en pranks, and perhaps this is an error that should be remedied.

All Hallowe'en Eve four very eminent and dignified Ord citizens gave that same dignity a good toss and wound themselves in sheets. They then rang the doorbells of a number of friends, enjoying the shrieks and confusion with which they were greeted. You would never guess who wore those sheets unless I told you; it was, I hear, Mr. and Mrs. William Sack and their accomplices, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Springer.

But the climax to an evening of innocent fun was the stop at the Forrest Johnson home. Lights had just gone off there, but the revellers thought to knock anyway. The lights sprang on, Mrs. Johnson opened the door and . . . fainted dead away!

I don't know what it proves, unless it is that small-towners can have a lot of fun usually denied to their big-city relatives.

Ice cream socials, bazaars, church suppers, numberless entertainments are peculiar to the small towns any more.

Most noticeable difference in life as it is lived in suburban and rural areas like ours is that of the children, I think. Children playing in

Wage-Hour Legislation Remains Major Task of Special Session

BY SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

Washington.—Of a multitude of pro's to which Congress will address itself when it reconvenes here in special session this month, perhaps the most important is the administration's proposal for a new wage-hour law. The wage-hour bill sponsored by the administration in the last session was hardly recognizable in the form in which the Senate finally allowed it to pass.

The House Labor Committee made further changes in the bill before it was approved. Southern Democrats and Republicans on the Rules Committee combined to pigeon-hole it, but House leaders promised they would bring it onto the floor early in the next session.

The House bill would create a labor standards board with the power to fix maximum hours not lower than 40 a week, and minimum wages not higher than 10 cents an hour.

These standards would be set or industries which have traffic in interstate commerce. Sympathetic as most people profess to be with the objectives of wage-hour legislation, there is much difference of opinion over the best method of getting higher wages for the exploited and post poorly paid laboring classes, and the elimination of child labor.

If the administration continues to favor the House bill, it must get the signatures of 218 congressmen before the bill will be discharged by the Rules Committee, barring the possibility that rebellious southern Democrats and northern Republicans on that committee relent their bitter opposition.

Our streets are very much safer than they would be on a city street. And we come so much nearer knowing what our children are up to than do those city mothers, unless they are most efficient Mamas.

Being an efficient Mama these days is quite different than was the same job a generation or two ago. Decisions must be made on such varied matters as permanents for the first grade little girl, whether to let the twelve-year-old girl have "dates" and lip-stick, whether to allow Johnny to wear overalls to school in place of suits, "because none of the other boys have to wear pants", at what age may they start going to the movies. Also how many nights a week can they be gone from home for student activities, how much allowance do they get a week and does it include activities and Sunday school and movie money, and probably biggest argument of all, what time do they have to be in bed?

Birthdays were a real occasion, said she, because on those days the only cakes of the year were served, and because on birthday mornings the honored child received two eggs in place of one to eat for breakfast.

Christmas trees at their house were created by the children from a likely looking bare branch trimmed with all the gay bits of paper saved throughout the year. This because food was too expensive to waste on a tree, and had to be saved to eat.

Good citizens came out of that home, too. This lady is a good cook, competent housekeeper and takes her part in community activities.

Could it be that spinach, orange juice, cod liver oil, permanent waves and $25 dogs are not necessary to the raising of a baby into a good supporter of Mr. Roosevelt?

Tasks for Christian Workers

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 21.

Text: 1 Corinthians 3:10-15;
Galatians 6:8-10

OF utmost importance in the great work of building the house of faith and the Kingdom of God, the ordinary church member has as important a part as the ordained minister. In fact the strength and power of the ministry depends upon the church of which the minister is a part.

Paul, who valued very highly his apostleship, and who was in some respects very insistent upon his place and status, recognized this importance of the individual church member.

"We are members one with another," he wrote, and he pictured the church through the symbol of the body, in which every member had its proper function, and in which even the lowliest organ had as essential a part in a well-working organism as the most important organ.

The head could not say to the hand or foot, "I have no need of thee." The strength of the body was in the compactness that every joint and part supplied.

HERE in this lesson upon Christian workers, Paul lays stress upon the same thing in a different figure, the figure of the building of the house in which the master builder makes the plan and lays the foundation, but in which the strength and beauty of the structure depend upon every man's work.

Paul had a keen sense of judgment. There was a proving and a testing time for every man's work. Even good intentions and of propaganda aimed at destroying an effective measure.

One point of disagreement between those who honestly want wage-hour legislation but cannot decide just how it could be made most effective is over the question whether a board with discretionary powers should be set up, or whether it would be better to write into the law an inflexible wage-hour standard.

THE new Congress will convene in the middle of a business slump and when wage-hour legislation comes up there will be much discussion of how industry may be affected. The pending bill requires that the board it would set up must find out in advance of each order issued what the effects will be on the particular industry for which the ruling is made.

But that will not satisfy some of the objectors who complain that the compulsion to pay higher wages is bad medicine for slowly recovering business. Roosevelt and those who go along with his economic theories hold that however discouraging wage-hour legislation may seem

WORLD WAR VETERANS COMMENT ON SIGNING OF THE ARMISTICE

F. J. L. BENDA.

AXEL FREDERICKSEN.

ALFRED L. HILL.

ALFRED A. WIEGARDT.

FRANK KASAL.

EMIL FAFEITA.

JAMES IWANSKI.

Interviewed by a Quiz reporter Saturday were seven veterans of the World war, all of whom were in actual service overseas at the time of the signing of the Armistice.

All of the veterans were asked: "Where were you and what were you doing at the time of the signing of the Armistice?" Also, "When did you learn that the Armistice had been signed?" Here are their comments:

Frank Benda—"I was warned beforehand that the Armistice was to be signed. Resting near the officers' dugout, I overheard the day before it was actually signed that the event was to happen. As soon as I heard this welcome news I immediately told my buddies, but they all laughed at me. You can imagine their astonishment the next day at 11 o'clock—the exact time that I had told them—a runner appeared saying that all hostilities were to cease at once I was a bugler in Co. E-355.

Axel Fredrickson—"It was indeed a lucky thing that the Armistice was signed when it was. Eighteen divisions, one of which I was a member, were just ready to start out for an attack against Metz, the famous German stronghold, when a runner appeared with the message that the Armistice had been signed and that the war was over. A strange coincidence it may seem, but the Armistice was signed on my birthday. I was member of Co. C-4th Infantry, a first class private and we were located near Tanots, France."

A. L. Hill—"One-half hour before the Armistice was signed our company was under unusually heavy fire from the Germans. A runner appeared five minutes before eleven o'clock saying that the war was over, the Armistice had been signed. A few minutes later the Germans came out from their trenches from the other side of the river, bands began playing, and it was all over. Frank Benda was in my company and we were stationed on the Sauer River near Stenay, France. I held the rank of first sergeant."

Alfred Wiegardt—"At the time of the signing of the Armistice I was located near St. Jean De Mons along the Bay of Biscay in southwest France. I was working in the machine gun division of the aviation department, training to be a gunner. We did not learn that the Armistice had been signed until two days after it had happened. Newspapers carried no stories about it for some time."

Frank Kasal—"Men in our company heard reports that the Armistice had been signed several times before it actually occurred. It was first reported to happen on Oct. 11, then Nov. 7, and finally Nov. 11. I was a first class private and a member of the 4th Infantry, 3rd Division."

Emil Fafeita—"The morning of the signing of the Armistice we crossed the Meuse river on pontoon boats and captured Pouilly including 110 prisoners. After this we found a huge dugout and all went to sleep. Upon being awakened about 12 o'clock that noon I was told that the war was over. There was no celebrating in our company for a while because we really over. I was a member of Co. I-355 Infantry 89th Division."

James Iwanski—"My company was marching back to the rest station, our places being taken by French soldiers, when French soldier rode up and announced that the Armistice had been signed. I spent 18 months overseas and fought on seven American fronts. Was a member of Co. F-3rd Division, 4th Infantry.

Pibel Lake Being Drained, All Carp Removed

Probably the most satisfactory way of ridding a lake of destructive carp is to drain it dry, and that is the method state fish and game commission experts have chosen to clear Pibel lake, near Spalding, of coarse fish.

Right now flow from several artesian wells which provide water for the lake has been diverted and a small creek which flows into Pibel has been dammed. When the lake drains down to its channel seining will begin and all bass and other game fish will be removed and placed in a small un-named lake just north of Pibel.

With all inflowing water stopped, the lake will drain dry and its bed will remain dry all winter, freezes being counted on to kill off any carp or buffalo fish left after the seining work is done.

Next spring the artesian wells will again flow into Pibel and the dam across the creek will be removed, allowing it to fill with water. With the creek water will come game fish placed in the small lake north of Pibel, and Pibel should again be a fine fishing resort.

Last week two truck loads of adult bass were placed by the state in the small lake north of Pibel, and will find their way into Pibel before spawning time next spring.

Hundreds of Thanksgiving Dinners Here

No, this picture isn't upside down. Look closely and you will begin to realize what your eyes are seeing. This is only a small portion of the 250 dressed turkeys now in the cold storage room of the Ord Cooperative Creamery. These turkeys will not be sold in this territory but will be shipped to the eastern markets in such cities as Chicago and New York.

Ord Creamery Goes Into New Business —Dressing Turkeys

Will Ship 400 During Season,
Plan to Dress Thousands
In Season of 1938.

In the past four days, 15 pickers working at the Ord Co-operative Creamery have dressed over 400 turkeys which will soon grace many Thanksgiving dinner tables in the eastern United States.

This is the first year that the local creamery has entered into the business, although the Burwell butter factory has been engaged in dressing and shipping turkeys for several years.

In an interview with Fred Coe, manager, on Wednesday morning, he stated that his crew of pickers will continue dressing the fowls from the present time until about a week before Christmas. Next year the creamery will enter into the business on a bigger scale, planning to handle two or three thousand turkeys during the season.

Most of the turkeys have been secured in the local territory, buying from North Loup, Ord, Arcadia, Ericson, and Burwell farmers. Many of the fowls were purchased in the sand hill regions to the north. There is an unusually heavy supply of turkeys in the sand hills this year.

There should be more turkey raising in this section," said Manager Coe. "Each year Minnesota farmers raise thousands of turkeys which flood the market at this time of the year." Coe points out that Nebraska has a much better climate for turkey raising than Minnesota, the climate being far too "wet".

One of the most successful turkey-raisers in this section of Nebraska is Will Schudel of North Loup, who raises them in a thoroughly scientific manner. It is reported that Schudel produced over 1500 turkeys this season.

A sandy soil is the best place to raise turkeys, generally agree the experts. Turkeys are very susceptible to diseases and they seem to do better on sandy soil.

Another point brought out by Coe, is the great value of the turkey to the farmer because of his grasshopper-eating ability. Many farmers in this territory report that their turkeys lived throughout the summer without any other form of feed other than the grasshoppers they ate. A medium size flock of turkeys can keep a 160 acre tract of land very clean of grasshoppers.

Dressed turkeys from the local dressing station are shipped via rail, being packed in barrels, about 200 lbs. of turkey in each container. For the past two weeks the creamery has been paying 16 cents per pound for good number one turkeys.

In District Court.

District Judge E. G. Kroger is being asked to rule on the interpretation of a part of the contract entered into between the North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation District and The Inland Construction company of Omaha, in court in Ord today. The company claims that they are entitled to additional compensation for driving piling, while the district contends that this work was included in the contract. Attorney Guy Lavery of Burwell and Bert Alder of Taylor are representing the district, while Attorney Speier and vice-president H. Q. Hossack of the Inland Construction company are here from Omaha representing the Inland. The case is still being heard as the Quiz goes to press.

In County Court.
Ora Spence was brought into court Tuesday on charge of beating a board bill at the Sharp Cafe, and was fined $5.00 and costs of $6.00, which he paid as well as the bill of $4.50.

Westminster Guild.

The Westminster Guild met Friday night at the Presbyterian church, entertaining the Ladies Missionary Society. Installation of officers and initiation of new members followed by a playlet and refreshments was the program for the evening.

Nebraska Slow in Beginning Eye Tests Before Issuance of License to Drive

By Dr. George A. Parkins.

Realizing the importance of good vision as a factor in safety in driving a car, the last legislature passed Nebraska's first law requiring a visual test before the granting of a driver's license. Nebraska was rather late, since most of the other states have had visual tests in operation for a number of years, the only visual requirement in the Nebraska law being that you should be able to see letters at twenty feet that are visible to the normal eye at forty feet.

Other states are more severe—some requiring 20-30 vision, or that you be able to see a letter at twenty feet that you should be able to see at thirty feet.

It may be of interest to note that the standard of normal vision was established by Euclid, 300 B.C., who estimated the limit of visual acuity of the normal eye was one minute of a circle. The present letter charts, known as the Snellen's Sight Test Charts, were designed by Snellen in 1862 and are based on the same values discovered by Euclid. Each of these letters, as a whole, subtend an angle of five minutes of a circle for the particular distance for which they are to be read. The stems of the letters are one minute broad and the white spaces, or apertures, are one minute broad. Both Euclid and Snellen considered that we should have standard day-light illumination which runs from 100 to 1,000 candle-foot power. Modern practice seems to indicate that less illumination is practical.

The majority of states require many further visual tests to be made. In fact, most of them require a rough test of the field of vision. It is possible that a full field of vision contributes more to driving safety than actual visual acuity of itself, since this test does measure your ability to recognize objects at the side of the road when you are looking directly ahead. You can make this test roughly for yourself. In the morning, or when you are rested, you should be able to see your thumbs while looking directly ahead with your arms extended fully horizontally. After a full days work, if your eyes are normal, you will find that you need to move the arms forward about five degrees. Should you need to move your arms forward further than this, at any time of day, you should use great care in crossing side roads, railroad tracks, etc.

Another test quite generally used is for color vision; especially, the red, yellow and green, since these colors are customarily used for traffic signals. Most certainly, you would not care to risk your car and your life in city traffic if you did have some way of interpreting the traffic signals.

Still another test required in many states is the reaction test, or the time it requires you to apply the brakes on your car at the given signal. This is generally spoken of as eye and foot coordination.

It is quite possible that these, and other visual tests, will be required in Nebraska in the future.

Several states are now experimenting with limited licenses. In one state in particular, if the field of vision is narrow, they grant a license to drive at twenty-five miles per hour and place a distinguishing sticker on your windshield which enables the patrolmen to know your license limitations. Other qualified licensees are granted up to where the person with normal vision, normal fields, and normal eye and foot coordination, is granted a fifty mile license. It often happens in this particular state, that a man will be arrested for driving thirty miles an hour, while at the same time a man passing him at fifty miles an hour is well within his legal rights.

Automobile manufacturers are greatly concerned over traffic accidents and are issuing a great number of scholarships in traffic engineering which can be obtained through the various universities.

The factories realize that if they are to continue selling a great number of cars, traffic accidents must be held to the lowest number possible.

Should you find that glasses will not give you sufficient vision to obtain an automobile license, you should not give up hope entirely, but consult other eye specialists, since there are now different treatment procedures that are effectual in improving the vision other than by use of glasses.

Result of Childish Habits.

She wand wandering 'round the museum with her grandson when they came to the usual statue of Venus De Milo, with half an arm cut away on the other. "There ye are, my lad," pronounced the old lady, wagging her finger toward the youngster, "That's what comes o' bitin' yer finger nails." —Palmer Journal.

Then He Lost His Temper.
"You are charged" said the judge "with beating this government inspector. What have you to say?" "Nothing," replied the grocer. "I am guilty. I lost my head. All morning I held my temper while government agents inspected my scales, tasted my butter, smelled my meat, graded my gasoline. In addition, your honor, I had just answered three federal questionnaires. Then this bird comes along and he wants to take moving pictures of my cheese, so I pasted him in the eye." —Hutchinson, Minn., Banner.

VOL. 54 NO. 33

Mrs. Frank Koupal 71, Died Thursday At Her Home In Ord

Wife of Ord Lumberman Had Been Ill Only A Few Days; Rites Monday.

Mrs. Frank Koupal, 71, wife of the prominent Ord lumberman, was born in Sedlovice, Bohemia on November 9, 1865 and died at Ord on November 4, 1937. She had been in ill health for a long time but was critically ill only a few days.

She came to this country with her parents, Andrew and Marie John, when she was 16 years of age. The family settled in the western part of Valley county on the virgin prairie where their home was established and where the family was raised.

On November 11, 1885 she was married to Frank Koupal who provided a home for her on his father's farm where they started life together in a comfortable sod house, in which two of their three children were born. They lived here for three years, moving to Ord in the fall of 1888, where they have since resided.

In her early life, she experienced all of the trials and hardships common to the pioneer, but sturdy in purpose and strong of character, she became the companion and helpmate of a devoted husband and gave of her untiring efforts to the building of her home. A cheerful, home loving wife and mother, she dedicated her life to her home where she worshipped at the shrine of her children. She was faithful and devoted to those she loved and gave of her cheerfulness to those she met. She was born of a family of nine children, three of whom have preceded her in death.

She is survived by her husband and two daughters, Mrs. Irl D. Tolen of Lincoln and Mary, residing at home, and one son Rudolph of Ord, and one adopted daughter, Mrs. Edward Wegrzyn of Columbus, and three grandchildren, Adrian W. and Ruth Tolen of Lincoln and Richard Koupal of Ord. She has four surviving brothers and one sister, Joseph John of Eugene, Ore.; John and Jacob John of Ord; James John of Omaha and Mrs. Frank Kosmata of Central City.

Services were held from the Z. C. B. J. hall Monday afternoon at 2:00, Rev. B. A. Filipi of Clarkston delivering the messages in Bohemian, and Rev. S. A. Woodruff, Jr., of the Ord Presbyterian church speaking in English. The pall bearers were Rudolph John, Ed Waldmann, William Zikmund, John Neverka, Joe John and Frank John, all of whom were nephews of Mrs. Koupal. A quartet consisting of Mrs. Glen Auble, Mrs. E. O. Carlson, James Ollis and John Haskell sang, with Mrs. Robert Noll at the piano. Interment was made in the Ord cemetery.

Omaha Firm Bids $64,988, Will Get No. Loup Contract

Kerns' Bid on Transmission Lines 15 Per Cent Under Engineer's Estimate.

Transmission lines through the North Loup power and irrigation district and sub-stations at Ord and Burwell will be built by the John F. Kerns Construction company, of Omaha. It was announced this week by E. H. Dunnire, engineer-manager for the district. The Kerns company's bid of $64,988.20 was the lowest of four opened at the letting Thursday.

Although directors of the district did not officially award the contract to the Omaha firm, pending approval of a new control estimate by PWA officials, but Mr. Dunnire said Tuesday that the North Loup project hopes to make the award this week.

Kerns' bid was 15 per cent below an estimate of cost made by Black & Veatch engineers and Mr. Dunnire commented that it was "a very satisfactory bid." Reduction Nov. 1 in the cost of copper made the low bid possible he explained.

Transmission lines to be built traverse the district from a point near North Loup to a point near Taylor, connecting with Western Public Service company lines at both ends. The district has an agreement with this company by which they will transmit electric energy over their lines and deliver it to the district at its boundaries for re-sale to the cities of Ord and Burwell.

Grand Island Jr. C. of C. Endorses Paving Proposal

Rotary Plan to Pave No. 11 Highway Being Endorsed By Civic Groups.

Whole hearted support from business groups up and down the North Loup valley for the Ord Rotary club's movement to secure hard surfacing for No. 11 highway, reported by E. L. Vogeltanz, Rotary president. The Junior Chamber of Commerce at Grand Island passed a resolution in support of the proposal Friday, mailing copies to Governor R. L. Cochran and State Engineer Tilley, and Monday evening the Wranglers club of Burwell took similar action. Tonight the Ord Chamber of Commerce is expected to endorse the movement and civic groups at Elyria, North Loup, Scotts, St. Paul and other towns on the highway have promised to pass resolutions at their first meetings.

Support from Taylor, O'Neill, Atkinson and other towns not on the No. 11 route but who would benefit from having the road paved is being solicited by President Vogeltanz.

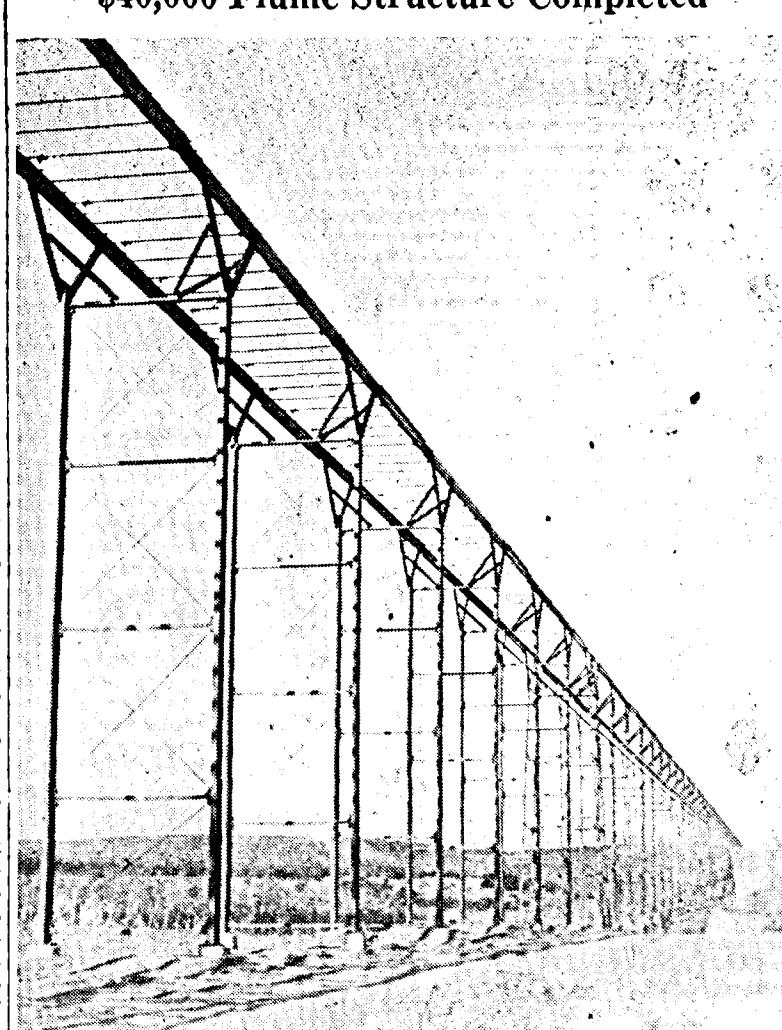

Ralph Norman, chairman of the Valley county democratic central committee, expressed himself Tuesday as being greatly in favor of the new road and promised to write letters to Cochran and Tilley. The Valley county board of supervisors will be asked to take similar action at their next session.

$40,000 Flume Structure Completed

Requiring over 30 days of work and costing $40,000 to build, the sub-structure for the Turtle Creek flume which is located five miles north of Ord has been completed.

When laid in place, the concrete flume will be elevated over 50 foot above the ground by this structure. This immense steel framework measures 1590 feet in length and the flume which will rest on this base will be put in place within a few weeks. Flumes are "half-moon" in shape, being open at the top, acting as "troughs" for the water from the ditches to pass through.

In the entire North Loup project a total of 21 flumes will be constructed so that water may pass over deep canyons. The Turtle Creek structure is both the highest and the longest of any in the project. One flume on the Ord-North Loup canal six miles southeast of Ord has been completed and the Mira Valley flume is near completion.—Photo by Laverne Lakin.

Manchester waived preliminary hearing and plead "not guilty." He was remanded to the custody of the sheriff until his trial can be held in district court.

Irrigation Expert Gives Advice To Farmers of the Two Loup Projects

2 Inches Fall to 100 Feet Ideal, Wood Says; Fer-tility Built Up.

By Ivan D. Wood,
Extension Agricultural Engineer,
Nebraska College of Agriculture

Another year of dry weather and hot winds has brought great interest in irrigation in all parts of Nebraska. Those portions of the state which will be irrigated from the North Loup river are particularly fortunate in that the water supply will be practically assured. The North Loup rises in the sand hills which is the greatest source of underground water in the middle west. The North Loup flows a steady, uninterrupted stream throughout the year in contrast to those rivers which have violent flood stages in the spring and then go dry at other times.

My first impression of the North Loup Irrigation project was very favorable. In the first place, the bottom lands upon which the water will be used are very fertile and underlaid with gravel which practically insures that seepage will be very little of a problem. The region is adapted to the growing of almost all crops. It is close enough to Grand Island and its sugar beet factory to make the growing of sugar beets feasible. The irrigated area lies just at the edge of the sand hills which will permit operators to buy feeder cattle, finish them out with corn grown under irrigation and ship them on to the Omaha market.

In the past years, I have watched irrigation come into a number of new sections of Nebraska. There are some important problems to be solved. It has always seemed to me that farmers who are undertaking irrigation for the first time should know some of the pitfalls which may be found along the road side.

Not so long ago, I visited an irrigation farmer in central Nebraska who, when I found him, was riding a horse with a shovel over his shoulder and wearing a pair of hip boots. He was chasing irrigation water from one place to another over his farm and attempting to keep it in control. When he finally had time to talk to me he said he was disgusted with irrigation and hoped that he could sell out and move to another territory. The whole trouble was that he had not properly prepared his land so the water could be handled with any degree of satisfaction. One of the first lessons to be learned is that land be carefully surveyed and mapped from which the operator will know the location of all of his ditches as well as the direction which all rows should run for proper handling of water. In running water down rows, I have found that a fall of much more than 1 foot to the 100 feet is too steep and will cause trouble. The ideal fall is probably somewhere near 2 inches per 100 feet or less.

The prospective irrigator will find that the so-called irrigation drag for leveling ground is a good investment. These drags operate exactly as a plane does upon a piece of plank. They cut off the high spots and fill in the low ones.

Another important lesson has to do with the fertility of the soil. Under irrigation, the natural fertility of the soil is seldom high enough to sustain high yields. In an old irrigated country, farmers learn to grow more alfalfa and legumes and to haul out more manure.

In the past, Nebraska farmers have been too much inclined to wait on rainfall. This year quite a number of pump irrigators lost their entire corn crop in the Platte valley. They imagined that because the top soil was wet, there was a reserve of moisture which was not the case. The subsoil was dry after the first few inches and when the hot winds came, the entire crop folded up before water could be applied. I should say that the intelligent use of water is the most important thing to be learned about irrigation.

No doubt many land owners will discover that they are not able to handle as much land under irrigation as they were under dry land methods. The application of water requires a certain amount of hard work. Perhaps it is difficult to get a farm in shape so that water handles easily. There is a good reward, however, for those who follow through and learn to handle irrigation water correctly.

Perhaps we should look upon irrigation as a crop insurance. During the past years many farmers have had to sell all their livestock because of the shortage of feed. It would seem that the farmers situated in the North Loup Project should be in a very enviable position so far as the future is concerned. The addition of 12 inches of supplemental water should remove a large part of the elemental risk in his farming operations.

READY, WILLING AND ABLE.

The modern trend of our language has brought out a slogan which fits conditions today. It is "Ready, Willing and Able." Perhaps you may not get the connection at once, but you will. In times of prosperity everybody prospers, because it does not require very much ability or willingness to get by when everybody is making money. When times are good all men look alike, for they are all making money, and the world judges people by their ability to accumulate.

But when the going gets tough it is a different story. The weaker begin to fall by the wayside. As times grow worse the number who continue grows less. We are now going through the most severe test to which the people of the nation have ever been subjected. As we travel down the path of the years we find more and more dropping out of the contest. They stay with the game as long as it is humanly possible to stay, and eventually reach the breaking point.

Here is where the importance of the ready, willing and able idea shows itself. No man who has only one of these three essentials can hope to win over present conditions. No man with two of them can hope to cope successfully with conditions that may arise in the near future. It will take a man who has all these essentials in a high degree to hold his own in the years immediately ahead of us.

The word "Ready," as used in this article, is synonymous with "Prepared." The word is applicable to the person who is prepared to take advantage of the opportunities that may come his way, or make an opportunity should any fail to materialize. He must have the necessary technical knowledge to handle the job, or his place will be taken by some person who has that knowledge.

"Willing" implies the desire to work at the job, whatever it may be. Too many in these times are inclined to give up and say, "What is the use?", when the common sense thing to do is to work harder. The man who would get anywhere cannot stop because his path leads up the hill. And the steeper the hill, the more he must apply himself if he would note satisfactory progress at the end of the day.

"Able" is a synonym of ability, and must not be confused with preparation. All the preparation possible will not make a success of a man in a field in which he has no natural ability. It is this type of preparation that fills the world with misfits, and strenuous times invariably weeds them out. The willing man who is prepared along the line of his natural ability need have no fears of the future, for his future is assured.

THE AUTOMOBILE EXPENSIVE. In a recent article the Fremont Tribune gives the figures on the expense of cars, including gas, parts and accessories, tires, lubrication, and taxes, and the total is nearly eight billion dollars per year. The present value of all cars, trucks and busses in the United States is more than three billion dollars. These figures are almost beyond belief, but they are given out by the vice-president of the Automobile Manufacturers' association and are doubtless correct.

The above figures mean an average cost of more than sixty dollars per capita for the upkeep of cars in the United States, and an average value of twenty-three dollars.

JOTS IN JEST

MEXICAN bandits are causing trouble on the Texas border again. Which gives United States reason to annex Mexico if the Japanese procedure is to be followed.

Carmel, Calif., note its colony of artists is st lars for cars owned. These are items of expense of which the world knew nothing and cared less 40 years ago. Any man who is really looking for one of the chief contributing causes of economic conditions today would do well to give the above figures serious consideration.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

When I have sent several notices to a person who is delinquent on his subscription and don't see him or hear from him, I feel justified in stopping his paper. I feel that, if he wants the paper and wants more credit, he would drop in and tell me and give some idea when he can pay up. No one who does that will have any trouble with me.

Last week I suggested a candidate for the republican nomination for president and several people have commended the suggestion to me. This week I am suggesting another good prospect, as a result of the New York City election, Mayor LaGuardia. I don't think he will meet with the approval of such stand-pat republicans as Hoover because he is a real comoner. But he has proved that he is not only smart and honest, but that he is independent. His record is that he is always for the underdogs, as the saying is.

I don't know just why Governor Cochran is making speeches here, here, there and yonder all over the United States. It seems to me he has been pretty well over the United States in the last year or two. Perhaps he is being groomed and is grooming himself for some national office. He has been mentioned as a presidential candidate which is a big joke of course. Anyhow, he is drawing a fairly good salary for being governor of Nebraska and it seems to me he should stay home a part of the time at least, and attend to his duties.

A California subscriber writes to renew, says he didn't get last week's paper and wants me to write him and tell him when I am going to stop sending his paper, as he doesn't want to miss. All he has to do is look on his paper, for the date is there right after his name every week and if he sends a renewal before his subscription expires he will never miss a copy. It is impossible for us to keep sending those distant papers after the time paid for expires. The cost is too great.

One of the biggest lumber mills on the western coast has been closed down, the reason given being that the new treaty with Canada negotiated by Roosevelt to let Canadian lumber come in at much lower tariffs, makes it impossible for American mills to compete. The Canadian wage scale is much lower. It is said that many western mills will be closed. This may make it tough for a lot of people who are rushing to the northwest. Conditions may be just as bad there as they are here, soon, and those who are going there may be glad to get back here where they at least have friends.

We kick about the ever increasing cost of government—or would it be better to say lack of government? Anyhow it takes more and more people all the time to do what passes for government. Every time a half dozen people meet they resolve to have a new board of some kind appointed. Now a weed control commission of three men has been named and while nothing will be done no doubt it will be a good thing for the board of three. And so it goes all the time from bad to worse. People can't pay their taxes now but the powers that be will keep right on appointing more people to positions where salaries and expenses must be paid. And in many, many cases very little is done to earn the salaries.

Valley Co. Sends Four to Hastings

Representing Valley county this fall in the largest enrollment at Hastings College since 1929 are three boys and one girl, Arthur Auble, Donald Williamson, Dorothy Auble, and Charles Zanger who are among the 518 collegians participating in campus activities.

Three of the Valley county students are from Ord and one from North Loup. Arthur Auble of Ord, senior, is a member of the Gamma Gamma Gamma social society and is the president of Pi Kappa Delta, a national honorary forensic group. Auble, a French horn player in the band, is a prominent member of the men's debate squad. He is studying toward government and are doubtless correct.

The above figures mean an average cost of more than sixty dollars per capita for the upkeep of cars in the United States, and an average value of twenty-three dollars.

Something DIFFERENT

I suppose you read in the Quiz of the marriage of Miss Leota Auble to a young soldier, I think his name was Marvin Underberg or something very similar. At Nebraska Methodist hospital in Omaha where I recently spent several weeks, I heard some of the inside dope on their romance, principally from my little nurse, who with her husband was a boon companion of Leota and her husband.

Since the groom was a soldier and the bride at that time was still an undergraduate nurse, the wedding was kept very quiet. So quiet that when it came time for Leota to graduate a few weeks later, Jay Auble of Ord had not yet made the acquaintance of his brand new son-in-law.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Auble had gone to Omaha in May to attend the ceremonies at the graduation of Leota. Jay, who was perhaps a little tired of the parlor of the nurses' home, decided to step out in front for a little walk. So he paced to the corner, turned back just as a street car discharged a young man passenger beside him.

Jay and the young man started back up the walk together. Then they turned in at the walk to the nurses' home, when the young man asked rather curiously "Oh, are you going in here too?"

The Ord man said that he was, as his daughter was to be a graduate at the exercises. The young man was at once interested. "Well, I know most of these girls, what is your daughter's name?" he inquired, and was answered: "Leota Auble."

"Well, then, I guess I must be your new son-in-law," said the young man, putting out his hand, and that is the story of how Leota's husband and father met for the first time.

Arcadia News

Celebrate Golden Wedding.
Mr. and Mrs. Walter N. Woody, well known and highly respected citizens of Arcadia celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday, Nov. 7 at their home. Open house from 2 to 5 o'clock was a pleasant event to their many friends when about 90 called to extend their best wishes and congratulations to this most esteemed couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Woody were among the first settlers and have been honest, hard working people. Catherine Hekeler, daughter of Christian and Barbara Heckler of Mira Valley and Walter Newton Woody, son of Joseph and Liza Woody of Monroe, Ia., were married at Ord by County Judge A. A. Laverly, Nov. 7, 1887. The ceremony was witnessed by E. J. Clements and Herman Westover. Mrs. Woody was born in New York on Nov. 9, 1868 and Mr. Woody was born in Minnesota, July 27, 1862. About 53 years ago Mr. Woody homesteaded on what is known as the Wibbles farm near the northwest corner of the city limits where he and his wife farmed until about 19 years ago when they moved to a smaller farm where Dr. Crist now resides. Later, about eight years ago they bought their little home where they now reside. Mr. and Mrs. Woody are both quite well and believe work, which they both enjoy, is the prescription for long and healthy lives. Mr. Woody arises early mornings, and attends to his chores and milking and for many years has never missed delivering the milk to his customers. They have known hardships and sorrow, but also have fond memories to recall. Keeping the tasks of the home and outdoor duties accomplished, they both are a busy couple, seldom finding time for an outing or vacation. Four years ago Mr. Woody accompanied relatives to Iowa to visit two brothers and their families for the first time being away from home in many years. Saturday he and his wife with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Woody of Cheyenne, motored to Columbus and Kearney for the day. Mr. Woody has a splendid memory and has recited long poems learned when a boy at church entertainments. He has been a diligent worker in the Masonic lodge of Arcadia for years.

Mr. and Mrs. Woody are the parents of eight children, Mrs. Claud Mather of Arcadia, Alvin of Columbus, Earl of Lewiston, Mont., Carl of Cheyenne, Wyo., Paul of Arcadia, Mrs. Emil Hansen of Fresno, Calif., and Olive, wife of Gerald Bellinger who passed away three years ago and brings a sad memory as his loss occurred on the Woody's wedding anniversary and was buried on Mrs. Woody's birthday. One child died in infancy. They have eight grandchildren. Three sons served in the World war, Alvin who served overseas, Carl on a submarine and Paul who was stationed in a camp within the states.

Mrs. Hansen sent many beautiful flowers picked from her garden in California. She was unable to be present but had visited her parents a few months before. Olive, who is a trained nurse in a Fresno, Calif., hospital was also unable to be present. Out-of-town guests in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Woody, of Cheyenne, Wyo., Alvin Woody of Columbus, Neb., Mrs. Woody's only sister, Mrs. H. C. Marks of Ord, and Mrs. Samuel Marks of Ord, Mrs. N. G. Clement and Mrs. Ava Johnson of North Loup, Mrs. D. O. Hawley and Miss Ada Russell made a gorgeous 4-tier angel food cake beautifully decorated in white and yellow as a centerpiece on the dining room table under a canopy covering from the ceiling made of yellow and white crepe paper.

This is the 9th golden wedding celebration where couples are living in Arcadia at the present time. A family dinner was enjoyed at the Woody home Tuesday Nov. 9. The occasion was to celebrate her 69th birthday and Mrs. Carl Woody's birthday of Thursday. Mr. Woody is 75 years of age. Christian Hekeler, father of Mrs. Woody, homesteaded 1 1/2 miles south of the German Evangelical church in Mira Valley and one bachelor brother resides on the old home place. Mr. Hekeler has taken the Ord Quiz since its first publication. Mr. and Mrs. Woody are also subscribers and she says if they only could take one paper it would be the Quiz.

Shower of Catsup One Hazard Faced By Ord High School's Working Seniors

By Lillian Karty.

Showers! Showers! Showers!

You've heard of showers of confetti and showers of rice, but who ever heard of a shower of catsup?

Surely not the group of Ord high school seniors who are working this week in the Food Center store, but they discovered, while filling a shelf with bottles of catsup, that such showers are hazards of the work-a-day world.

As Quiz readers have been told in previous issues, the seniors of

Ord high school are working this week in stores and business offices around town, abandoning classes to gain a glimpse of actual work under actual conditions.

This project, sponsored by the

Ord Business and Professional

Women's club, is being put on as a feature of American Education Week.

Most seniors enjoy their work for the experience they get, others for the change, but the majority express their liking for work because they get out of school. Employers also seem to enjoy having the seniors with them.

When asked their opinion of Education Week, a few of the employers commented as follows:

"Fine!" said Ed F. Beranek.

"Suits me all right," said Miss

Eunice Chase.

"Very interesting," said Joe Puncochar.

While students expressed their opinions thus:

Farm Bureau Will Train 25 Men In Irrigation Work

Realizing the necessity of training in land preparation and leveling, handling of water, and irrigation equipment and methods for farmers whose farms are included in irrigation projects, the Valley County Farm Bureau in cooperation with the State Agricultural College has arranged for a training school for men who are interested in this work. The school will be five days, one day each month for five months beginning December. Each day's school will take up a different phase of irrigation, partly classroom and partly work in the field. It will be impossible to take care of all men who wish to take this work as the enrollment will be limited to twenty-five. It is intended that the men selected shall be scattered about through the districts so that they in turn will be able to advise their neighbors with their irrigation problems.

The school will be conducted by members of the engineering and agronomy departments of the Agricultural Extension Service. Farmers who are interested in attending this school should make application at the county agent's office. They must certify their intention of attending all the meetings in order to learn all the phases which are to be discussed as a different phase of the work will be taken up at each meeting. This school will give farmers a chance to learn a lot about irrigation and avoid the many mistakes which are commonly made by beginners.

Another accomplishment of the Farm Bureau which will be of great assistance to irrigation is the promise that the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the State Agricultural College will jointly employ an irrigation engineer who will be stationed in this territory to work with the farmers of the North Loup and Middle Loup projects.

Ord's Undefeated Team Marches On As They Win 7 to 0 Over Central City

Barnes Scores Ord's Only Touchdown, Runs Over For Extra Point.

It was a long evening for the Ord Chanticleers last Friday night as they met the Central City Bison in a non-conference game under the lights, but the Red and White squad came out of the ordeal in fine condition as they "brought home the bacon" in the form of a 7 to 0 win over the Central City.

At several points during the game the Bison were backed up to their goal where they put up a strong defense and punted out of danger. Playing for the breaks, Ord finally got one in the third quarter when they picked up a first down on the Central City five yard line. From there Barnes ploughed over for the only touch-down.

The Chanticleer line functioned perfectly, allowing only four first downs, two of which were gained on passes and one on a penalty. The Ord backfield used speed to secure large gains, but many end runs were broken up by the Central City left end. It was only during the last half that the Chanticleers were able to run a few plays past this alert player.

Both teams were equally matched for weight and speed. Few trick plays were used by either team but many passes were tried, most of them incomplete. One pass by Central City was intercepted by Barnes. Both lines were veritable stone walls although the Ord squad held a slight advantage throughout the game. The Bison's offensive was not exactly brilliant, but they kept the Chanticleers off their toes to hold them back.

There was a strong east wind that was great advantage to the team with it behind them. Early in the first quarter the Central City gridsters rode the wind and the breaks far down into Ord territory but were held off by the for extra point he galloped across standing up and score read, Ord 7, Central City 0.

The Bison fought harder than ever in the fourth period, but to no avail. The Chanticleers were determined to hold their lead. The Central City team began to concentrate on passes and completed one for twenty-five yards. In the final minute of play, Barnes intercepted a pass and the game ended with the ball on the mid-field stripe.

Ord Footballers To Make Debut On Screen

Ord gridsters will make their first appearance on the silver screen at the Ord Theater on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 18, 19, and 20. Individual pictures of the boys were taken Monday evening this week by a Loup City photographer. These pictures will be made into slides and thrown on the screen. Beneath each photo will appear the player's name, position, weight and height.

Similar pictures have been taken of the Loup City football squad and they will also be flashed on the screen. Pictures of the teams will be shown first in Ord and will then be taken to Loup City where they will be shown on Nov. 21 and 22.

M. Blomond, manager of both the Ord and Loup City theaters announces that the above dates and lighter players on the Brownie eleven.

Ord Athletes Are Good Scholars, Win "N Club" Plaque

A scholarship trophy was received by Ord high school Tuesday being presented to the school by the N Club of the University of Nebraska. The plaque was awarded for the fine scholarship record made by Ord athletes last year.

Ten of these trophies are presented to high schools in Nebraska each year. Ord ranks in class C which includes schools whose enrollment is between three and six hundred. The three winners in this class were Jackson of Lincoln, Ord, and Plattsburgh.

It is a great honor for any school to receive one of these trophies, which is a plaque with an "N" upon it, as it is extremely difficult to win in this contest. Grades for the entire high school are averaged and compared with the average of all athletic lettermen.

The school whose average for athletes comes nearest to that of the school is the winner and all lettermen whose average is above that of the school receive a small replica of the plaque. Those receiving the replicas in Ord are Dean Barta, Edwin Hitchman, Ernest James, Gerald Jones, Dick Koopal and Allen Zikmund.

Competition in this contest was started by Coach Henry F. Schultz in 1926. The N club scholarship committee this year includes Elmer Dohrmann, Lester Pankonin and Fred Shirey. The scholarship contest is held each year in the hope that it will build better scholarship in general.

"Arcadia or Bust" Is Ord Battle Cry On Eve Of Conflict

Game Friday Eve Will Have Important Bearing in 2 Conference Races.

"Arcadia or bust!" That seems to be the general feeling of Ord grid fans over the Ord-Arcadia game to be played this Friday night under the lights on the Arcadia gridiron.

Early this week fans began to form themselves into "parties", all of them planning to make the trip to Arcadia Friday night for the game. Ord's 60-piece band will make the trip and will fill the air with pep tunes throughout the contest. Decked out in brilliant red and white uniforms, the Chanticleer music-making organization will demonstrate their marching ability to the crowd between halves of the game.

Both teams are virtually straining at the leash and are ready to tear at each other's throats. The Arcadians are not only ready but eager for the fray which will be a deciding factor in determining the Loup Valley and Mid Six football championships.

Rivalry which exists between the Arcadia and Ord teams always makes this game a classic. Looking over this year's scores it is discovered that Arcadia walloped the Burwell Wranglers 26-7, while the best that the Chanticleers could do was a meager 8-0 win. Again—Ord smashed Ravenna 26 to 0 and Arcadia received only an 8 to 6 decision.

Coach Tuning of Arcadia has been pointing his team for the Ord game since the beginning of the season, but fans still predict an Ord victory. The Chanticleers will go the limit to keep their undefeated record from being broken.

Taylor Boys at Kearney. Two Taylor boys are listed as members of the Kearney State College football squad. They are Dale Fahey and Vernon Hyatt. Both boys were brilliant players during their high school years.

L. C. 'Beef' Trust' Pointing for Ord

If "beef" makes a football team—Ord is certainly going down to defeat on Nov. 23 in the annual Loup City-Ord gridiron battle.

Coach Brown has two heavyweights on his grid squad this year and he is grooming them to fit the shoes of Ed Augustyn and Harold Maclejewski, two fine tackles who are serving their last year at Loup City.

The two "big fellas" shown here are Bob Dick Spells, left, and Everett Wichman, extreme right. Each of these boys tip the scales at 215 and they would add a lot of poundage to any team. The two boys in the center are Clements Janulewicz and Bill Pritchard, two of the younger (and lighter) players on the Brownie eleven.

Loup City Drops Out of Top Rank With 13-13 Tie

Coach Johnson's Ravenna Team Confronts Brownies With Deadlock.

Ord's Chanticleers gained a permanent hold on the top rung of the Mid Six football conference last Friday when Coach Stan Johnson's Ravenna eleven turned on the heat to tie the much lauded Loup City grid team by a 13-13 score.

Loup City and Ord have been tied with one thousand percent all season, however the tie game with Ravenna gently lowers Loup City into second position with a percentage of .850.

The Ravenna team now holds fourth place in the Mid Six and has been suffering from the defeats handed to them by Ord and Arcadia, 26-10 and 10-0 respectively. In the first half of the Ravenna-Loup City game, the Brownies looked very good, having little trouble in running up a 13-0 lead the first half. It was in the second half that the fireworks really started. Coach Johnson's team made the heavy Brownies look very poor indeed as the Ravenna team piled up two touchdowns and an extra point to tie up the game, 13 to 13.

Fans have come to the conclusion that anything can happen in this game called football. Loup City took Arcadia 20-7. Arcadia downed Ravenna, 10-0. Ravenna, the underdog, came to the top and matched one of the leading teams in the conference, point for point.

Ord Gridders Get State Recognition

During the past week the Ord grid team has been receiving statewide recognition. The Associated Press has lauded the Ord team several times on their fine record and in Monday evening's Grand Island Independent appeared the following A. P. story: "Tucked away beside the Loup river in north central Nebraska, the 2,226 north odd citizens of Ord are watching establishment of a high school football record that has few if any equals in the state. Last week Coach H. F. Brockman's eleven, undefeated in the last two and a half seasons, cleared another hurdle on its way for a third clean slate by defeating Central City 7-0. The victory boosted the Ord point total to 109 for this season, left its goal line uncrossed."

In Tuesday morning's edition of the Omaha World Herald appeared a picture of the Ord backfield. Four players were shown including Don Tunnicliff, Harry Zulkoski, Edgar Barnes and Charles Catark. A story appeared beneath the picture telling about the fine record being compiled by Ord grid teams.

Marshal Covert has just about concluded there ain't no justice.
For some time now he has spent his spare time digging out the stumps outside the walk north of his place on east M street. He dug out three of them and then moved several tons of dirt that had piled up higher than the sidewalk. When he thought he had his work about completed he found another big stump which had been covered for years by the dirt, and so he has another tough job ahead of him.

Cold, Wet Weather Needed to Control Late 'Hopper Hatch'

Destructive Species Are Still
Laying Eggs, Says State
Entomologist Swenk.

On October 31 Ernest S. Coats, of Vinton, noted thousands of little grasshoppers that he estimated to be about three days old, appearing in great numbers in a field of fall rye, and to find out whether the grasshopper troubles of Valley county farmers might be eased in 1938 by the winter-killing of this hatch, Mr. Coats wrote to Myron H. Swenk, entomologist in the college of agriculture at Lincoln, for information. Mr. Swenk answered as follows:

"The kind of grasshoppers that are hatching out are one of our most destructive species, known as the lesser migratory grasshopper. Ordinarily, this species lays its eggs in the summer and fall, these eggs overwinter and hatch the next spring, producing adult winged grasshoppers of the next generation the following June and July, thus having but a single generation in a year. This season, however, the overwintered eggs hatched early and the grasshoppers reached maturity early, and those that became mature in June and early July laid a large number of eggs promptly, which eggs have been hatching all along through the late summer and fall. Some of the first of these to hatch produced adult grasshoppers in October and these have been laying eggs ever since. The swarms of young hoppers that you noticed on October 31 are some of the last eggs laid by this extra generation of the hoppers, and, as you have surmised, their hatching has been induced by the unusually warm weather of the latter part of October. Of course, as you say, these will get frozen and will not be able to reach maturity before winter sets in, but the same warm weather that is bringing out these young hoppers to be destroyed by the winter is lengthening the life of the adult hoppers and they are still laying eggs, which eggs will undoubtedly get through the winter and hatch out next spring to continue the grasshopper scourge in 1938. If we could get immediately a period of cold, wet weather to kill off the young hoppers that hatched in late October and check further egg-laying by the adult lesser migratory grasshoppers still alive, it would be all to our advantage. A continuation of the mild weather through November will mean increased grasshoppers for 1938."

A meeting of the district post office employees was held at St. Paul Tuesday evening. Those in attendance from the Ord office were Postmaster A. Hill, carrier J. H. McCall, city carrier Dale Norman, assistant postmaster Mark Tolson, and railway mail clerk L. W. Wilkerson. This was the first regular meeting since the district was organized at Greeley two weeks ago.

North Loup Items

Dorothy Jean, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Earnest, had a narrow escape from serious injury Tuesday morning when her father was backing the car out of the garage to take her to school. The garage is built beside a corn crib and the car in coming out pushed the garage door against the side of the crib, squeezing the little girl between them. She seemed to be quite badly hurt at the time. Dr. W. J. Henphill was called and made an examination but found no broken bones. Wednesday morning the doctor reported that she had rested well during the night, and should recover rapidly, barring complications.

John Lee turned over in his car near the fair grounds Monday night as he was driving home from Ord. No one was injured but the top of the car is badly mashed and is at Clement's garage for repair. Mr. and Mrs. Almond Stillman

Tea Co. Salesman Found Guilty, $50 Fine Was Imposed

Made Improper Advances to Ord Lady Who Summoned Officer, Filed Charge.

Ralph Ellis, salesman for the Jewel Tea company, got himself into hot water Thursday when he was arrested by Marshal L. H. Covert at the instance of an Ord lady on a charge of using obscene language. At a hearing in Judge John L. Andersen's court in which the lady, Mrs. Charles Svoboda, appeared against him, he tried to put his actions and words into a more harmless light, but since what he admitted was practically the same as he was charged with, he was found guilty as charged and sentenced to pay a fine of $50.00 and costs of $8.30.

The specific charge is that he "did then and there utter, use and speak obscene and lascivious language" in the presence of the plaintiff. The fact that Ellis claimed that this was a usual build-up in his sales talk did his cause more harm than good, for it appeared that if he had been in the habit of using the tactics he admitted in order to make sales, it was time he should be deterred from the practice.

While this is the first complaint against him that has resulted in his arrest, from numerous stories that have been coming to light since his arrest it would seem that he should and would have been arrested before if other women had had the courage to make the charge and face him in court. His procedure in the case of Thursday, as well as in others has been to knock at the door, and when the lady of the house opened the door, to step inside before she had a chance to prevent it.

Mrs. Svoboda stated that at her home she simply pushed her out of the way and walked in, and failing to make a sale, made indecent proposals, which she resented, but which she was unable to prevent him from saying. However, she finally succeeded in getting him out of the house, and at once called the authorities with the result given above. At first Ellis was unable to raise money to pay his fine, and was held in jail until Monday morning, when he was released upon payment of the money by his attorney, C. M. Davis. The money for his release arrived Sunday, but he had to remain in jail until the judge arrived Monday morning.

The problem of itinerant grocery peddlers, as well as agents for any kind of proposition, can be settled in a very simple way, and by the housewives of Ord. Two things should be kept in mind. Traveling salesmen have nothing to sell that you cannot obtain through regular channels, and they do not save you money, no matter what they claim. A product that requires a house to house canvass to sell it, is not worth purchasing and the outfit that has to offer prizes to obtain customers is questionable. The authorities are to be commended for the stand they have taken in this case to protect the womanhood of Ord from imposition and insult.

Weekly Library Report.

The report of the Ord Township Library for the week ending Nov. 22, shows the following new books have been received: Rumbin Galleries, by Booth Tarkington; The Life of Pasteur, by René Valery-Radot; Remember the Day, by Kenneth Horan; China Quest, by Elizabeth Forman Lewis; Practical Amateur Photography, by William S. Davis; Decorative Draperies and Upholstery, by Edward Thorne and Henry W. Frohne. For the younger generation the library presents the following new books: Vinny Applegay, by Edith Parton; Barefoot Days, by Anna Rose Wright; Honey Chile, by Anna Braune; Ludwig Bengelmann's The Castle No. 9; A Child's Story of the World, by Donald Cuross Peattie; and Hans Christian of Elsinore, by Eva M. Christoffersen. Mrs. Cecil Hanseu, the librarian, states that several of the above books are of unusual interest.

Unfair Practices Act Is Now In Force

Last April 23 Governor Cochran signed L. B. 137, the Nebraska "Unfair Practices Act," which at once became a law of the state, as it carried an emergency clause. Retailers have no choice in the matter. They must refrain from selling any article for less than cost plus the cost of doing business, which cannot be figured less than six per cent.

This is not written in criticism of Ord merchants, who, so far as known, are doing their best to comply with the law, which was meant for their protection in order to cut out unfair competition. The next time some traveling merchant offers you a special bargain at less than you know the goods to be worth, remember he is offering you goods contrary to law.

River Bottom Farm Yields 40 Bu. Corn

Dress 5,500 Turkeys.

Burwell, — (Special) — The Burwell butter factory is having the largest run on turkeys this year of any year since its organization. One carload of dressed birds was shipped to New York on Nov. 15 and another one on Nov. 20 for the Chicago markets. From the 8th to the 22nd of November 5,500 turkeys were dressed, graded and packed ready for shipment. Twenty people have been employed to pick these birds and eight men are engaged in grading and packing. These turkeys have been hauled to Burwell from a large area, some coming from the territory 23 miles northwest of Brewster.

Two Divorces Were Granted, 1 Denied By District Judge

Must Come Into Court With Clean Hands," Kroger Tells One Plaintiff.

Judge E. G. Kroger's session of district court held in Ord Wednesday, Nov. 18, developed into a court of domestic relations with the hearing of three divorce cases, a near-record for a single day here.

In the two cases, those of Esther Manchester vs. Clarence Manchester and Dorothy Wetzel vs. A. J. Wetzel, the Grand Island judge granted divorce decrees to the plaintiffs, but in the case of Dorothy Manchester vs. Ralph "Toughy" Manchester he denied a divorce to the plaintiff, stating that to secure a divorce a person must come into court "with clean hands."

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Manchester were married in 1927 and have four children. Evidence showed they have not lived together for five years, nor has Manchester contributed to the support of his family in that length of time. Divorce was granted to Mrs. Manchester, who also was given custody of the children, and her husband was ordered to pay $30 monthly toward their support, in addition to court costs and at attorney's fees.

Cruelty was alleged in Mrs. Wetzel's petition for divorce from A. J. Wetzel, which was granted. Custody of their children, 2 and 4 years old, was given to Mrs. Wetzel, and her husband was ordered to pay $15 monthly toward their support, along with costs of the case.

In the Dorothy Manchester vs. Ralph Manchester case, evidence brought in by the plaintiff showed that Ralph has served sentences in the state industrial school and the penitentiary but other evidence was admitted to the affect that since the divorce petition was filed, Mrs. Manchester pled guilty to using a room for immoral purposes and served a short sentence on that charge. Therefore, Judge Kroger denied her petition but continued the case insofar as custody of their minor child is concerned. Efforts are being made to find a better home for the little girl, or she may be committed to a state institution.

Liquor, Newspapers, Big Pay Load on Alaska Lines

From Pilot Jack Jefford, well known here, who now is flying a 1,000 mile passenger and freight airplane route between Juneau and Nome, Alaska, Elwin Dunlap received an interesting letter this week. Jefford carries eight passengers and 1½ tons of freight on each trip, he writes, and biggest items in the freight load are bottled liquors and 2-weeks-old newspapers. On this run he flies a huge Lockheed plane.

Between Juneau-to-Nome flights, Jefford is flying a freight airplane between Nome and Point Barrow far northern point, hauling 10,000 gallons of gasoline to the Russian expedition encamped north of there. He hauls about 100 gallons to a load.

Jefford was Evelyn Sharp's flying instructor when he managed the air field at Broken Bow. Several other Ord and Burwell young people took instruction from him also.

Old Transit House Brings $505 at Tax Sale Held Tuesday

Mrs. B. J. Jones Was Buyer; All Lots Sold Cheap, City Bid Many In.

Sale of the Boquet Hotel buildings and lot to Mrs. B. J. Jones for a price of $505 featured the tax sale held Tuesday, in which the city of Ord sought to dispose of 32 properties confiscated because of tax delinquency. In buying the Boquet Hotel, better known to generations of Ord people as the old Transit House, Mrs. Jones assumed liability for $258.15 owing taxes and $128.56 in 1936 general taxes. It is understood that yet, it is understood that an appeal will be taken. The period during which action can be taken is 30 days.

To Hastings Hospital.

The Valley county insanity commission, composed of Alfred Weigand, Dr. F. A. Barta and Clarence M. Davis, held a hearing Monday evening and committed Ann Novotny to the state hospital at Ingleside. Since the death of her parents she has become mentally unbalanced, the evidence showed. Sheriff Round took her to Ingleside this morning.

Other developments of interest at the tax sale included the purchase by M. Blomond of the vacant lot west of the Kull building, formerly owned by C. J. Mortenson, for $800, plus paying taxes of about $100. Mr. Blomond also bought the east two lots of the E. M. Williams tract on the hillside for $45 each while Ign. Klima, Jr., bought the west two lots for $35 each.

Wm. Zabloudil purchased the vacant lot east of the Sinclair filling station, formerly property of Dr. C. J. Miller, for $300, while E. C. Weller bought the house occupied by Ed Milligan north of the sale barn for $400.

One of the cheapest properties actually sold was a cow pasture west of the former Hillcrest hospital, comprising about four lots, which City Attorney Ralph W. Norman bought for just $200. Ed Michalek bought a lot south of the Frank Glover home for $20. Mrs. Tamar Gruber bought a lot in west town, formerly the property of Mrs. Bossen, for $25, and Fred Coe bought two lots in the canyon east of the Mrs. J. H. Carpon residence for $200. Another canyon lot was bought by L. H. Covert for $200. Frank Brubah bought a strip near the Burlington railway tracks in north Ord for $5.00 and Rudolph Karchall purchased a triangular plot east of the city light plant for $200.

Many of the 32 properties were bid in by the city of Ord and will be sold privately later. One such was the business lot near the Chris Beiers implement building, which the city secured on a bid of $150, and another was a splendid building lot on the hill, formerly owned by Mrs. J. W. Ambrose, on which the city's bid of $25 was high. Many smaller properties around town were bid in by the city at prices ranging from $1 to $15, when no buyers appeared.

Trucker Pays Fine For Overloading

Arthur Jones, trucker who was hauling shelled corn from Fremont to the Jones elevator in Ord, met with difficulty last week. On Wednesday he brought up a load of 13 tons on his semi-trailer rig. As he had only a 7-ton license, he was brought into Judge John L. Andersen's court and paid a fine of $10.00 and $7.00 costs. He bought an extra three-ton license on his return home, and then loaded up within what he understood was the legal limit.

However, the treasurer from whom he had bought the license had not made its limitations clear to him. Even then he might have got by had he not crowded the limit too close. When the load was weighed in Ord it appeared that the scales over which the load was weighed first must have been off, as the load here was too heavy by several hundred pounds. So again Friday he was brought into court on an overloading charge. Due to the misunderstanding the judge made his fine $10.00 again, and this with costs of $8.00, he paid.

— From the Wheeler County Independent the Quiz learns that their linotype operator, Clare Berry, met with a serious accident, Nov. 18, putting his left forefinger caught in the machine and losing the digit. This will doubtless prove a great handicap to a young man in his line of work.

Late Bert M. Hardenbrook Honored As Dam Bearing His Name Is Dedicated

Will of W. M. Moses Admitted to Probate

Friday the case of the will of W. M. Moses, which was being contested by attorneys Davis and Vogelzang in behalf of their client, Clarence Moses of Davenport, Ia., was heard in County Judge John L. Andersen's court. After weighing the evidence in the case the judge admitted the will to probate. While no such action is taken as yet, it is understood that an appeal will be taken. The period during which action can be taken is 30 days.

To Hastings Hospital.

The Valley county insanity commission, composed of Alfred Weigand, Dr. F. A. Barta and Clarence M. Davis, held a hearing Monday evening and committed Ann Novotny to the state hospital at Ingleside. Since the death of her parents she has become mentally unbalanced, the evidence showed. Sheriff Round took her to Ingleside this morning.

Two Day "Farmers Fair" To Be Held In Ord Dec. 14-15

What Livestock Feeds This County Should Raise Will Be Theme of Meeting.

Central Nebraska's need to change methods of farming because of present drought conditions will be the theme of 2-day "farmers fair" to be held in Ord on Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 14 and 15, under the auspices of the Valley county farm bureau and the Ord chamber of commerce. Farmers from all over this section are invited to attend the sessions, which will be held morning and afternoon on both days.

To prosper this area must raise and market livestock and since it seems certain that semi-drought conditions are here to stay, agricultural experts recommend a change in farming methods. Latest discoveries in drought resistant crops, the various grain sorghums and their feeding values, renewal of pastures, soil and moisture conservation methods, are a few of the topics to be outlined at the Ord meetings.

Experts from the University of Nebraska college of agriculture will speak, as will a few local farmers who have raised the new sorghums and who have tried new moisture conservation methods successfully. A complete program will be available in a few days.

A free lunch to all farmers attending will be served each noon and many prizes will be given away daily. A new cream separator is one of these prizes.

Committee in charge includes County Agent C. C. Dale, directors of the farm bureau and the following Ord business men: Fred Coe, Verne Weller, E. S. Murray, Joe Puncochar and Glen Auble.

Dr. Finch Speaks In Ord Sunday

Dr. F. I. Finch of Lincoln will speak at the Methodist church next Sunday on the theme of Sunday school work. Dr. Finch is state secretary of religious education for the Methodist church and is in demand as a speaker in the churches doing progressive work in this field. This service is for the public and everyone is cordially invited.

Besides preaching at the morning service, Rev. Finch will hold workers' conferences Saturday night, Sunday afternoon and Sunday evening. Sunday school teachers and officers and any others interested are invited to attend.

Lee Calm on Eve Of Murder Trial; Is 'Always Hungry'

Melon Patch Shooter Thinks Jury Will Acquit Him; Trial Open Monday.

"A model prisoner" is Sheriff George S. Round's description of James Lee, who has been held in the Valley county jail since late September awaiting trial on a charge of murder in connection with the melon patch death of Gail Hinier, 14.

He spends some of his time reading, most of it "just sitting," says the sheriff. Lee has a good appetite; he's always ready to eat," was Sheriff Round's word for it.

Apparently the 55-year-old farmer and WPA worker feels he will be acquitted at the hands of a district court jury, in his trial for murder which will get under way next Monday, Nov. 29, for he appears calm and unworried at all times.

County Attorney Alvin B. Lee and co-counsel for the state, George A. Mann and Ralph W. Norman, have filed a list of witnesses whom they will call in an attempt to prove Lee's guilt and all the witnesses have been subpoenaed. The list includes Melvin Moore, Arlie Worm, John Dugosh, Charles Meyers, Ollie Whitford, Roy Pardue, L. H. Covert, Geo. S. Round, F. J. Cohen, Dr. C. J. Miller, Dr. F. A. Barta, John Jelinek, Vere Peckham, Bud Wilson, Guy Keep, Ernest Woolery, Emory Thomesen, Henry Hinier, Bessie Hinier, Orville H. Sowl, C. F. O. Schmidt and Frank Kamerad.

Defense attorneys, Clarence M. Davis and E. L. Vogelzang, will file their list of witnesses Monday when the trial starts. Asked by the Quiz what the defense testimony will take, Attorney Vogelzang said yesterday that he has no comment to make at this time.

Search of the records discloses that this will be the first murder trial in the history of the district court in Valley county. About 1873 an indictment for first degree murder was returned but no records exist to show that a trial was ever held.

Interest in the Lee trial is running high and without doubt the court room will be crowded at all sessions. Work of empaneling a jury will start Monday morning and may take some time, as the defense has the privilege of 12 peremptory challenges as well as an unlimited number of challenges for cause, while the prosecution has 10 peremptory challenges. To find 12 jurors who have not formed an opinion of the guilt or innocence of Lee may require considerable time, but the trial should get under way in earnest by Monday afternoon or Tuesday morning.

Many Beating Bills; Judge Hopes to Stop Practice in Future

In the past week so many have been brought before Judge John L. Andersen on charge of beating board bills that it is getting monotonous. The judge is now serving notice that he will make it more severe for persons who appear before him on this charge in the future. No less than three were brought into court in two days last week and fined for this offense.

Eugene Murray paid a total of $10.97 in county court Saturday on a charge of beating a board bill, the amount including the fine, costs and board bill. Ora Spence paid a fine, costs and bill for a total of $15.50 in Judge Andersen's court Tuesday. Clifford Carver was brought in on a similar charge and at a hearing held Saturday was assessed a fine, costs and bill for a total of $3.45.

In all cases the bills were of long standing, the one for which Carver was arrested dating back to June 25. In every case the men were employed in some phase of the irrigation project and there is no reason to suppose that they could not have paid these bills promptly. The fact that they found funds to pay them when brought into court, as well as the additional fines and costs, indicates that they would have been able to pay at any time.

45th Birthday Observed.

Sunday was the birthday of Charles Alderman, who lives across the Garfield county line north of Ord. In honor of the occasion a number of relatives and friends arrived at the farm Saturday evening, bringing with them R. R. Nightingale and John Fitzgerald of Burwell, who furnished the music for a g. d. old time dance. Our informant is not certain, but is of the opinion that it was Charley's 45th anniversary.

TWO GREAT INDUSTRIES.

Sixty years ago was the year of the great railroad strike. The first telephone switchboard was installed in Boston. The first bicycle factory was built. This in brief summarizes the great events of the year 1877. Railway strikes have come and gone since that day, but the first one will always be remembered because of its far-reaching effects on industry at the time.

It is hardly necessary to comment on the telephone industry, which since the installation in Boston sixty years ago, has grown to a point where the telephone is so much a part of our American life as to be indispensable. The amount of travel and inconvenience the telephone saves the citizens of America today is beyond comprehension.

Other countries have taken to this American invention of one of our greatest Americans much more slowly than have we. Today more telephones are in use in the United States alone than in all the rest of the world put together. In many countries the phone service is limited to official channels, the general public having to use the mail or telegraph route in case they do not care to travel themselves.

Bicycles had been built prior to 1877, but they were cumbersome and unwieldy, and the general public did not take to them with open arms. It took a real man to ride the early day wheels. The first type had a big wheel in front and a little one behind, and the man who rode one was really getting up in the world. The first model weighed more than 100 pounds, and was a dangerous vehicle, not only to the pedestrian but also to the rider himself.

The bicycle finally came into its own with the invention of the modern type of safety bicycle, and the invention of pneumatic tires and ball bearings. A few modern touches have been added in the past forty years, but the big changes came earlier in the industry. The building of bicycles boomed in the late nineties and reached its height not far from the turn of the century. In 1909 the business was at its lowest ebb, but since has been steadily increasing. Today they build a million bicycles a year.

POINTLESS PARAGRAPHS.

Two years ago Ord had a "Go to Church" week and just about everybody attended. Recently a certain Ord man bought a hat at a church rummage sale and found it was one two years ago.

The last time Abe Lincoln went to Detroit to drive out a Chrysler for the Anderson Motor Co., he got into the city Monday morning and went to a hotel. Asked by the clerk if he wanted a room with bath, Abe said no, as he didn't think he would be there till Saturday.

There is no reason to get excited about a lot of the strikes that are being called all over the country. A lot of them are the result of a lack of business. The owners of the business are glad of an excuse to shut down until there is a prospect of some business.

Fellow told me the other day that he didn't think we little fellows should express an opinion as to whether the U. S. should send its soldiers ashore in China war zones or its war ships to the far east, because we didn't know anything about such things. Well, probably we don't know much about it, but we have got some ideas about this country keeping out of foreign wars. It is usually the little fellows, as this friend says, who have to go as cannon fodder in case of war, and the big guys who he thinks know all about it, also know how to get the soft snaps that pay well and are safe. My guess is that the next time this country starts out to get the young men of the country to go to some foreign country to fight, that there will be a revolt and the young men will refuse to go.

I must remind you again that the best Christmas gift you can send an absent son or daughter is a copy of the Quiz and it is none too early to make the arrangement.

Senator Burke is making himself very obnoxious to the Roosevelt administration and everything that the said administration can do to defeat him, when he runs again, will be done. It will be well for a lot of us who still believe in our popular democratic form of government and who are opposed to a dictatorship form of government, to keep this in mind.

What is a dictatorship? Isn't it when the government tells us that we can't make our own electric lights when we can do it cheaper than we can buy juice from the government controlled power companies? Isn't it when the government tells the farmers what they can raise, how many acres of each crop, when and for what price they can sell it, etc.? Perhaps it will be a fine thing to control production of all food crops. Manufacturers of clothing and shoes and machinery have long organized among themselves in order to be able to hold the amount of production somewhere near the demand so that there won't be a disastrous price war on these goods. And I have long advocated such organization among the farmers. But for the government at Washington to take over the job of telling them every move they can make, that is something different and may not be relished.

Excellent pickles and jellies and garnishes are ready to buy, butters and relishes and sauces galore... think of the hours of grinding and sleaving and hot work the home-maker once put in on such delicacies. And the biggest cooking help of all probably... we buy our bread ready-made. Imagine how your great grandmother's eyes would bug out at that remark.

Electric grinders and beaters and peelers make the cooking simpler if you do like to struggle with more of your own work. Sweepers take lint from the carpet, suck out the dirt, drag it from inaccessible places. The good old topsy-turvy days of housecleaning, spring and fall, are gradually disappearing when homemakers have such helps.

So then we have hours of leisure older generations never knew, and what do we do with these hours? Hours that perhaps once meant spinning, dyeing, sewing, canning, or raising up large families of children. Clothes are ready-made now, families are skimpy or small. Well, we play bridge. Hundreds of hours a week are spent at card games by women released from the home work by energy-savers of this age. In smaller cities, kensingtons still prevail, and many women meet to greet and stitch. And we join clubs and clubs and clubs. We organize into divisions, and groups and state and national groups, and go to conventions and come home again. We "arrange" teas, and parties and lunches and banquets.

We spend a lot of time at the movies eyeing the antics of some Hollywood half-wit. We read in spare moments, radio much of the day, garden a little.

I think we run around a good deal like the little red squirrels Jimmy Luther of Minnesota had in a tiny treadmill last summer. We start and can't stop. What's it all about? I don't know, do you?

Can-openers have probably been one of the biggest helps in providing leisure. No longer do women spend long summer hours in the heat of stove, "putting up" hundreds of quarts and pints of this and that. CARE OF COUNTY BOARD

He Made 'Em Pay.

I stopped out to Floyd Hutchins the other day and he showed me his small dairy that he has established on his small tract south of town. He has made his chicken coop into a cow barn, having little use for hens. He has established a milk route in town, he and his boys doing the work after and before school and his hours at his job.

He has kept a journal of all his expenses for the year except his own labor and the expense of delivery. He did not add to the receipts the milk and butter used by his own family, which he says was a good bit and he felt the delivery expense would about off set the home consumption.

Farm Problem Puzzles Congress, Drafting New Crop Control Bill

BY SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

Processing taxes on cotton and wheat undoubtedly will be revived, for Roosevelt insists that the increased cost of the new farm program over and above $500,000,000 a year which finances the current program, must come out of new revenue.

Secretary Wallace is of the opinion that new processing taxes are the answer. But the House Agriculture Committee has turned this problem over to the Ways and Means Committee which will probably not be in sympathy with administration recommendations on this point. A majority of its members are known to be opposed to processing taxes.

SECRETARY WALLACE will run into a lot of opposition in Congress to his "ever normal granary" plan, which he defends by saying some form of compulsory control could be imposed to keep reserves of surpluses from growing to unhealthy abundance.

Others, including Chairman Marvin Jones of the House Agriculture Committee, contend that our farmers will suffer in the export markets if control is compulsory, and that voluntary control as under the old AAA is sufficient to our needs.

Those involved in reconciling the differences of farmer groups, those interested in farmer purchasing power, and blocs for and against the administration farm plan in Congress, do not seem to give a thought to the fate of proposed farm legislation if it is referred to the Supreme Court.

If many of the features which Congress is being encouraged to incorporate into the new farm bill find their way into the final draft, then the Supreme Court must completely reverse itself to declare the law constitutional.

Southern Democratic leaders in Congress will use the farm bill fight as a lever in their attempt to pry party leadership from Roosevelt.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Perhaps all farmers would favor some sort of ever-normal granary. Many schemes for bringing about that ideal condition have been advocated during the past twenty-five years. There have been nearly as many different theories as proponents.

Latest of these is a plan suggested by the president's committee on crop insurance. The program as it pertains to wheat, and as it may be administered in 1938, is summarized below.

A farmer would pay his insurance premiums in bushels of wheat. He would get back indemnities in bushels of wheat during bad years. The government would foot the bill for all overhead administrative expenses and storage costs.

Under this arrangement for crop insurance, the coverage and premium rates would vary from farm to farm. No county average could be used, because good farms would be paying too highly for their protection, while the poor farms would be getting bargain rates.

An actual farm with an average yield of 15 bushels per acre might be assessed a yearly premium of 2 bushels. Annually the farmer would pay 2 bushels of wheat to the government. When crop failure came the government would return him enough wheat to make up his average yield of 15 bushels.

If the farmer planted 40 acres and raised only 200 bushels, the government would give him 400 bushels to add to this production, thus bringing it up to the average of 600 bushels.

The ever-normal granary plan will probably be tied up with some method of soil conservation and crop control.</p

Irrigation Banquet In Ord Brilliant Affair

Two hundred and fifty people attended the irrigation banquet held at the high school auditorium Thursday evening, occasion being the dedication that afternoon of Hardenbrook Dam, first major structure to be finished in the North Loup power and irrigation project.

Guests, many of whom came from Burwell, Taylor and North Loup, were seated at long tables running east and west, with speakers and other honored guests including directors and irrigation district officials and their wives, seated at the north table, near the stage.

During the banquet music was furnished by a high school orchestra led by Dean S. Duncan, and special vocal and instrumental numbers were furnished by members of the group. Many compliments came from guests on the quality of music produced by these high school musicians, a girls' trio and boys' quartet getting a large share of the plaudits.

A dinner in which turkey was featured was served by Thorne's cafe, after which a program of speaking with E. H. Dumire as toastmaster was given.

E. L. Vogeltanz, on behalf of the Rotary club, and John P. Misko, on behalf of the chamber of commerce greeted guests, and the response was made by Guy Lawver, attorney for the North Loup district. Then came brief talks by Mrs. Bert M. Hardenbrook and Mrs. J. E. Lawrence, of Lincoln.

Principal addresses on the program were made by K. Sewell Wingfield, chief PWA engineer in Nebraska, and by James E. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star.

In his talk Wingfield defended power policies of the Public Works Administration. Delivering a prepared address he said, in part:

"Don't be misled by all the front-page publicity now being given to power in the newspapers. Public power development is a controversial subject — colorful, sometimes vitriolic — but with great reader appeal; it has many bitter enemies and many staunch supporters, as well as some who fight against it while publicly professing friendship for it."

"Don't be misled into thinking that officers of the public power and irrigation districts of Nebraska, or the PWA, are putting the greatest emphasis on power when it should be on water. Such is not the case."

"Development of the power market in this district, as well as every other district in the state, is a vital factor in making possible cheap water for irrigation. Every person in this valley who is interested in irrigation should be a strong supporter of the power phases of these projects, as cost of irrigation, when coupled with public power developments, brings water to your land at a price you can afford to pay."

Editor Lawrence, whose address climaxed the program, made his usual sometimes witty, always-interesting extemporaneous talk. Part of it he devoted to praise of the late Bert M. Hardenbrook, with whom he visited Washington on three occasions to praise the merits of the North Loup project to the PWA. A great admirer of the North Loup's first president, "Jimmy" spoke of his honesty, his devotion to his own people in the most glowing phrases.

Attendance at this banquet was much larger than had been expected and applause was frequent as various speakers brought out the fact that irrigation soon will come to pass in this valley.

Sub-District Meeting.

A meeting of the American Legion and Ladies Auxiliary was held at the Legion hall Monday evening. The ladies brought a covered dish dinner which was served in the dining hall at 7 o'clock. Following the dinner the men met for their meeting at which members of the posts of Ord, North Loup, Arcadia and Burwell were supposed to be present. Ord had a fine representation, with two members from Arcadia and none from North Loup or Burwell. Neither county commander R. W. Wood nor county adjutant Glenn E. Runyan of Burwell were present, and the records were not sent. A meeting was held with Carl Dietrichs as commander and Lloyd

Wahoo Couple Observe 50th Anniversary

Nov. 15 was the occasion of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Polak, of Wahoo, Nebr. It was celebrated in an appropriate manner at their home, with all their children, seven daughters and one son, present. This even is of especial interest to Ord people, since Mrs. E. L. Vogeltanz is one of the daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. Polak have frequently visited here. In speaking of the event the Wahoo Democrat, which kindly furnished the above cut, has the following paragraph:

"Following the breakfast, E. L. Vogeltanz, a son-in-law, extended to the jubilarians on behalf of their six sons-in-law, their best wishes and congratulations. He then called for expressions from Mary Smazl, their oldest daughter, John V. Polak, only son, Dr. Stanley Smazl, the eldest grandson, William Glavine, the youngest son-in-law, Cyril Swoboda, a brother-in-law, and Rev. Beranek and Rt. Rev. Msgr. Nemec, each responding with very appropriate remarks."

Rotarians Entertain Senior Football Boys

Senior members of the Ord high school football team, eleven in number and Coaches Brockman and Lee were guests of the Ord Rotary club at dinner Monday evening, it being an annual custom of Rotarians to entertain football boys late in November. Talks were made by E. L. Vogeltanz, Dr. F. A. Barta, team physician, and by the coaching staff. Football boys were introduced to the crowd individually. The Ord team has a remarkable record, not having been defeated in 27 games. They close their season Thursday with a game against Loup City.

Invited to Loup City.

Ord Rotarians and their wives have been invited to Loup City Tuesday evening, Nov. 30, for an inter-city meeting with the Loup City club. Other clubs invited include Broken Bow and Ansley and attendance of about 150 is expected.

Reserve Team Says Can Lick Varsity

The Quiz picked out what we considered one of the best football teams it was possible to pick from the available material in Ord last week, and the selection met with unanimous approval in most places. However, a few mighty good men were left out, and at their request we are this week selecting a second team that should be able to lick that first team any day of the week.

John Sharp was somewhat peeved for being left out, so he goes in at center on this second team and if he don't make good he will have to play the bench. Joe Cita and E. L. Vogelzang are eminently fitted for guards, while Frank Piskorski and George Bell would make a fine pair of tackles. At the end positions there is nothing the matter with Jess Kovanda and Carl Dale. Charley Bals should make a good quarterback with Dr. Taylor and Ken Peterson for halfbacks and Sam Marks at the fullback position.

Sam was a plunging demon in his day if ever there was one, and played four years without having time taken out on his account except the time he went over right tackle for a touchdown and dived head foremost into the goalpost, which in those days was set on the goal line. It dazed him for a moment or two and then he jumped up and offered to fight the fellow who hit him. Next week will be given another interesting football story.

Ord and Loup City Again Meet In Turkey Classic; 2 Titles at Stake

Eleven Seniors Will Play Their Last Game
For Ord To-Morrow; Loupers Hurt by Injuries and Ineligibility of Augustyn.

Thanksgiving—and again the Ord and Loup City football eleven will battle to decide the Loup Valley and Mid Six conference championships.

Eleven Ord football men will close their high school playing careers with the Loup City game. Seniors include Edgar Barnes, Charles Cetak, Dale Hughes, Don Tunncliff, Harry Zulkoski, LeRoy Zikmund, Ernest James, Robert Jablonski, Gerald Jones, Jack Petty and Everett Williams.

Two thousand central Nebraska sport followers are expected to be in Ord Thursday afternoon to witness the game. Game time has been set for 2:30 o'clock, sharp.

Early this week school officials announced that every arrangement had been made for the football classic of the season. Officials will be: Neal Gallant, coach of York college, referee; Walter Hansen, Seward, umpire; B. A. Higginbotham, Seward, head linesman.

Speed Against Weight.

Once again the question arises—should a team have speed or weight? Loup City's squad will represent the team with the weight as not a man on the eleven tips the scales at anything lower than 170 pounds. Ord's shifty team will take on the role of the speedsters, a light team.

Early this week Loup City fans were howling as if they had had all their teeth extracted at once—Ed Augustyn, veteran 200 pound tackle, will be ineligible for the Ord game.

On Nov. 20 he became twenty years of age, making him ineligible for further high school athlete competition. It is not a "too serious" plight for the Loupers however, as four other tackles of the same weight have been holding places on the bench all season waiting for a chance to fill Augustyn's shoes.

Chanticleers All Set.

Coach Brockman continued to drive his players through practice sessions this week as usual. The team seemed to be functioning in perfect manner, an ill token for the Brownies.

Several of the first string men were nursing minor cuts and bruises which they received in last week's contest with Sargent, but all expressed the opinion that they were "set to go, and ready to tear 'em to pieces."

Despite the heavy team which Loup City boasts, a high percentage of the fans are giving Ord the edge to whip the Brownies. Comparing scores: Loup City 30, St. Paul 13; Ord 19, St. Paul 0. Ord 26, Ravenna 0; Loup City 13, Ravenna 13. Ord 8, Burwell 0; Loup City 6, Burwell 0.

As the day for the game comes nearer reports drift into Ord saying that almost the entire Loup City team was "laid up" as a result of the Burwell game last week. Local fans believe that these reports are nothing but "bear dope."

Shift Line-Up.
Much shifting in the Loup City line-up took place this week as a

Angling Season Closes Nov. 30

Frank B. O'Connell, chief state conservation officer, warns Nebraska fishermen they must do their angling before Nov. 30. The season on fish in all state lakes will close on this date.

Taylor and Burwell, traditional Thanksgiving Day foes, will tear into each other on the Wranglers home field. Coach Riggs has been grooming his Longhorns all season and unless the Taylorites uncork something very startling they will go down to defeat.

Ausley and Broken Bow tangle with each other on the Indian gridiron in a Custer county conference contest. Greeley meets Wolbach at Wolbach in another central Nebraska game.

Cornhuskers Turn On Power, Win 28-0

In their last home game of the 1937 season Saturday, Coach "Biff" Jones' Cornhuskers made their best offensive showing in walloping Iowa by a score of 28 to 0. Four times scarlet-clad ball carriers crossed the Iowa goal line, twice in the first seven minutes of play, and each time the extra point was converted. Running of Jack Dodd and Marvin Plock and the pass-throwing of Thurston Phelps featured the Nebraska offense. The victory was Nebraska's third over Big 10 opponents this year, Minnesota and Indiana also going down to defeat in Memorial stadium. Now at the top of their own conference, the Big 6, the Cornhuskers must beat Kansas State at Manhattan tomorrow to win the championship.

Largest Ord crowd of the year saw Iowa-Nebraska clash Saturday in spite of the cold, since Ord high school football players and band members were guests at the game. The Ord contingent numbered about one hundred.

Chanticleers Down Sargent By 13 to 0

Another step forward in the Loup Valley Conference football standings was made Friday night as the Ord Chanticleers gunned in to a 13 to 0 win over Sargent.

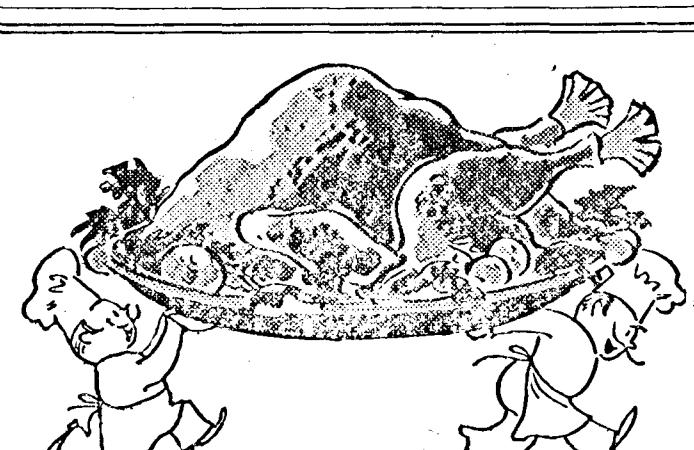

Although the intense cold was expected to make a rather deep dent in the attendance, a much larger crowd than was expected turned out for the game which was played under the lights on the Ord field.

Coach Copeland's lads played good football but were no match for the Chanticleers. Scoring by the Ordites was done in the second and third quarters, when the Chanticleer offensive really began to "click".

Coach Brockman's Ord eleven played strong defensive football, zealously guarding the unbeaten, unscorched on record they have built up this year. Not once did the Sargent squad come within dangerous territory, the Copeland boys usually getting no further than the 50 yard marker.

Don Tunncliff, Ord quarter, did an outstandingly good job in the Sargent game while Emerson of Sargent exhibited some fine punting.

W. Weeks, who had been a guest in the Oliver home while convalescing from an attack of sleeping sickness which he suffered early this fall. He is greatly improved in health.

—Col. E. C. Weller, of Atkinson, was an Ord visitor a couple of days last week. Weller, who has built up a wonderful auction business in Atkinson since he left Ord a couple of years ago, has been suffering with stomach trouble for some time and says that this week he and Mrs. Weller will go to Rochester, Minn., where he will seek relief. Upon their return from Rochester they plan a trip to California for a month or six weeks' rest and while there hope to see many old Ord friends. Col. Weller secured from the Quiz a list of former Ordites now living on the coast, with their addresses, and said if his time permitted he would look up a number of them.

A drayman at Wolbach recently was driving down the main street, when suddenly both horses of his team fell dead in their traces while pulling a load of coal. The veterinarian was called and could find no reason for their death in such a manner. Bystanders immediately began to offer all sorts of explanations for the coincidental deaths. Local speculation was stopped later when it was found that the horses had been electrocuted due to wet ground and poor grounding of a 2300 volt line.—Wolbach Messenger.
