'Camel Crops' Will Be Stressed in 1938 Farm Bureau Plans

Don Round Reelected Head at Meeting Friday; Resume of Year's Work Given.

At the annual meeting of the Valley county farm bureau held at the American Legion hall last Friday afternoon officers for the 1938 term were elected as follows: Don Rounds, Arcadia, president; E. O. Schudel, North Loup, vice-president; Mrs. Leo Nelson, secretary-treasurer. These officers in addition to Dave Arnold and Mrs. Seaton Hanson will make up the board of directors for 1938. All officers of 1937 were re-elected with the exception of Joe Rousek whose position of vice-president was taken by Ed Schudel of North Loup.

Following election of officers a business meeting was held in which the farm bureau's program for 1938 was outlined. The 1938 term will stress the growing of drought resistant crops such as grain sorghums, soil and moisture conservation, contour farming, preparation of land for irrigation, promotion of boys and girls 4-H club work and women's project club work.

County Agent C. C. Dale in his report to the bureau made a summary of project work during the year of 1937, it read as follows.

To meet the seed corn situation, a show and exchange was held in March with fifty-one samples of seed corn entered. Three hundred farmers attended and $25.00 in prizes given. This show accomplished the purpose of bringing the farmer who needed seed in contact with the farmer who had seed for sale. Eighty-two samples of seed contested for germination.

3,600 lbs. of grain sorghum seed of recommended varieties were shipped in and distributed to farmers at cost in order to test them in this county. 268 samples of alfalfa and sweet clover seed tested for germination and purity.

Two irrigation schools were held, with a total attendance of 275 farmers. Problems which will need to be met when irrigation is developed in the county were taken up at these schools.

Thirty-one farmers secured 7,700 trees for spring planting at a cost of $1.00 per hundred under the Clarke-McNary Act.

One rural electrification meeting held to explain the terms and conditions of the rural electrification set-up.

Size Of Laterals Modified As C. of C., PWA, Recommend

Committee Report Tuesday Eve Heard by Business Men; Barta Asked to Resign.

Size of laterals in the North Loup irrigation system, designed originally by engineers to carry 6 second feet of water for each 100 acres of land to be irrigated, have been modified to carry 1 1/2 second feet of water in accordance with PWA insistence, Chamber of Commerce members were told Tuesday evening by E. H. Dunham, engineer-manager of the project.

A few moments earlier Chamber members had heard their investigating committee composed of John P. Misko, Ign. Klima, Jr., and Fred W. Coe recommend that this very thing be done. Laterals 1 1/2 feet in size are large enough, the committee insisted after consulting independent engineers and practical irrigators. This position has been held by the PWA since September but has been resisted by North Loup project engineers and officials, which is one reason the project has been at a standstill so long.

Upon recommendation of the committee, members of the Chamber Tuesday evening passed a resolution calling upon Joseph P. Barta, to resign as a director of the district. He is not actually a resident of this city at present and Chamber members feel that the community is not adequately represented during his absence. Directors of the district are asked to fill the vacancy by appointment of an Ord resident.

Another resolution recommended by the committee, calling for appointment of a permanent committee to work with the district to bring about early completion of the project, also was passed and President Verne Weller appointed Val Pullen, Wm. Sack and Dr. J. W. McGinnis to serve as such committee. Directors of the North Loup project were, by resolution, memorialized to furnish complete information to this committee at all times.

The report of the Chamber's investigating committee is printed in full on page 5 of this issue.

Farmers Elect Three Directors at Meeting

William Koelling, Henry Benn and John Vodehnal were elected to serve three year terms on the board of directors at a meeting of the Farmers Grain & Supply Company last week.

Koelling and Benn were re-elected to their positions on the board while John Vodehnal will fill the unexpired term of Obris Nielsen. Other members of the board of directors include Joe Vasicek, John Bremer, Arthur Mensing, and Ed Lee.

Officers will be chosen by the board of directors at a special meeting which is expected to be called next week.

New members of the Ord Rotary club who attended a club meeting for the first time Monday evening are H. T. Frazier, C. A. Anderson, Wilmer Anderson and William Darges. These members will be given the Rotary charge at an early meeting.

City Warns May Cancel Contract To Buy Energy

Resolution Passed Sunday at Special Session Charges Misrepresentations.

Biggest surprise of the mass meeting at which K. Sewell Wingfield spoke in Ord Monday evening—in fact the only discordant note in a meeting that proceeded as harmoniously as PWA officials had wished—came when Gould B. Flagg, mayor of Ord, asked permission for Ralph W. Norman, city attorney to read a resolution.

That the Ord city council had held a special session Sunday and passed such a resolution was a surprise to most people, but the text of the resolution itself was an even greater surprise, for it warned in unmistakable terms that the city of Ord, unless promises made in August are carried out immediately, may be forced to take legal steps to terminate its contract to buy electric energy from the North Loup project.

Questioned after the meeting Mayor Flagg said that the resolution does not in itself terminate the contract but merely serves notice that the city is thinking of doing so and no doubt will do so unless representations made as an inducement to contract signing are honestly adhered to by PWA and North Loup district.

Believing all Ord residents will be interested in the text of the resolution it is published here in full:

"On August 11th, 1937, the City of Ord entered into a contract with the North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation District whereby they agreed to buy electrical energy at the maximum rates and under certain definite conditions set out in the contract and under numerous implied inducements held out to the City at that time.

"The Mayor and Council were well aware that by purchasing electrical energy from the District the City was being penalized a large amount each year but, because of promises not embodied in the contract, and being anxious to do all in their power to speed up the completion of the irrigation project, they entered into the contract.

"We were told definitely by PWA and North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation District officials that both the North and Middle Loup projects would have to contract for the sale of electrical energy by September 1, 1937, or they would receive no more money. This was not according to the facts as we have since been informed.

Cash For Infantile Paralysis Is Raised

A. A. Wiegardt, county chairman of the committee for raising funds to aid in carrying on the campaign against infantile paralysis, announces that the number of theater tickets sold in Ord was 401, and that the amount of cash cleared for Ord is about $27.00. Arcadia has not yet reported, but Mr. Wiegardt understands that they raised practically as much there. North Loup is still to report, and the total amount for the county should be from $60.00 to $75.00. The committee appreciates the efforts of those who made the undertaking a success, and thanks the public for their generous response in the purchase of tickets. They especially thank Mr. Blemond for the privilege of selling the tickets on a commission basis, and for furnishing a special feature for the three-night show.

Marriage License Issued.

John L. Andersen, county judge, issued a marriage license Monday to Elery W. King, farmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. King of Scotia, and Iva, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stillman of North Loup.

Rudolph Sorensen Claimed By Death In Long Beach Cal.

Was County Clerk, Later City Official Here; 66 Years Old As Death Came.

Word was received by Ord relatives Thursday that Rudolph Sorensen had passed away at 12:30 that morning at his home in Long Beach. He had been in poor health for some time, his death being due to cancer. He was born Dec. 9, 1871, at Tisted, in Jutland, Denmark, a son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Sorensen. As a boy of 9 years he came with the family to America and settled on a farm on Turtle Creek, where he grew to manhood, and obtained his education in the school there.

In the late nineties he came to Ord and was employed for a number of years in the hardware of his uncle, Hans Sorensen. Later when this business was bought out by Lon Firkens and Bert Russell and run as the Ord Hardware Company Rudolph Sorensen remained in the employ of the new owners. It was at that time that he was married to Miss Mary Jensen, daughter of A. P. Jensen, mason who did a lot of work in Ord, including work on the First National bank.

After leaving the Ord Hardware he ran an implement business of his own at the northwest corner of the square. While he owned this business he was elected county clerk of Valley county in 1905, being the only democrat to be elected that year, the moral republican majority being nearly two to one. After holding the position four years he dropped out of the race, refusing to run for a third term, as he frankly stated that he had had his share of public office.

For some time following this he was manager of the Ord Gas Co. Shortly before the United States entered the World War Mr. Sorensen was elected light and water commissioner for Ord, which position he held with credit for several years. Two things characterized his dealing with the public, his unwavering honesty, and his determination to give to his employers the best he had.

Six children were born to the Sorensens, all of whom, with Mrs. Sorensen, survive him. They are: Norris, Russell, Alice, Merna and Grace. He also leaves four brothers, Soren of Mullen, Ulric of Berwyn, Lawrence of Litchfield and Marenus of Fremont; three sisters, Mrs. Anna Hull who was helping to take care of him at the time of his death, the former Mrs. Harry Ward, now remarried, and Gladys Sorensen, who married when the family moved to California.

There are also a number of cousins most of whom are known here. Carl and Soren Sorensen, Mrs. Charles Romans and Mrs. Bert Whiting of Ord; J. O. Sorensen of Ainsworth; Albert Sorensen of Iowa, Chris Sorensen and Mrs. Marie Oddie of Thermopolis, Wyo.; and Thorvald and L. B. Sorensen, Misses Dorothy and Annie Sorensen and an aunt, Mrs. Wiegardt, all of California.

About twenty years ago Mr. Sorensen moved to Long Beach, Calif., and entered the employ of the municipal gas department as an engineer, retiring about a year ago when stricken with ill health.

Funeral services were held Saturday at the Patterson & McQuillin chapel in Long Beach, with most of the Ord colony now living in and near Long Beach in attendance. Entombment was in Angeles Abbey.

We were told definitely by PWA and North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation District officials that both the North and Middle Loup projects would have to contract for the sale of electrical energy by September 1, 1937, or they would receive no more money. Saturday Was Busy Day at Court House

The treasurer's office was a scene of great activity Saturday afternoon, when a last Saturday rush of car number buyers crowded the office and overflowed into the hall. The above photo was taken in the midst of the rush and shows 17 prospective buyers lined up out in the hall. At the time there were 3 more in the office, making a total of 25 to 1980, which is approximately 400 more than were sold at this same time last year.

In the office Treasurer George Satterfield, Deputy Clyde Baker and Alma Baker were as busy as they could be all afternoon, and when the excitement died away they found that they had issued 225 licenses. This with those sold Monday, the final day, brought the total for 1938 to 1980, which is approximately 400 more than were sold at this same time last year.

Of course there are a number who do not buy their licenses until spring, but this year no one will be permitted to drive a car after Feb. 1 on a 1937 license.

AND THE FARMER.

Two pieces of legislation up for consideration by the congress of the United States are of vital interest to the farmer. One of them is vital to him because it is aimed directly at him and the other is fully as important because it does not affect him personally at all. The first of these is the fantastic idea of some so-called statesmen that they can control the crop by crop legislation, and the second is the wages and hours bill.

What the farmer thinks of the crop control idea is well shown by the emphatic way it has been turned down by various groups voting on it here in Nebraska. No farmer cares to have some one who knows nothing about the complex art of farming come to his farm and tell him what he can do, how much he can do and when he can do it. When conditions are such that our most successful farmers of normal times are falling behind how can a government efficiency expert hope to succeed?

The object of the crop control bill is misunderstood in many cases. It is not farm legislation to meet an emergency, but a permanent program that is being sought. Under war conditions twenty years ago we had a number of emergency rules in force, especially in regard to the eating of wheat products and meat. It was not what the public wanted, but what the public had to do, and as soon as the need was removed, the rules were repealed and we went back to normal.

Compulsory destruction of crops, compulsory killing of little pigs, compulsory cutting down of acreage, have no place in the rural scheme of a democracy. There is no repealing of the old law that "supply and demand made the price." The intelligence of the farmer in America has done much to make this the great nation it has been, and it will take the same intelligence to preserve our nation. It is an insult to agriculture to inculcate that the farmer is not capable of handling his own affairs.

The problem confronting the farmer and the nation is not one of crop control, but of crop distribution. If and when there is a surplus of foodstuffs in one part of the country, that surplus belongs in the stomachs of millions of children who are undernourished, and who are growing up subject to epidemics and prone to commit crime to satisfy the craving for foods that are going to waste elsewhere.

Instead of seeking to destroy God-given crops, it would be far better to plan some means of distribution so that those who need may have their cravings satisfied without resorting to crime. The gain in reduced lawlessness and the reduction of inmates for our hospitals and sanitaria will do much to take care of the added expense. Feed a child and he is human. Starve him and he becomes an animal.

Let us now look at the Wages and Hours bill as it affects the farmer. The man who is operating his own farm is the only laborer who cannot be reached by such legislation. No man nor group of men can state to the farmers that his wages will be ten dollars per day and that his working hours will be ten per day. There are times when he must work sixteen hours or more per day, and there are times, like the present, when he must operate at a loss.

The only possible way in which the law can affect the farmer is to set the price he must pay his hired help, and the hours he must work. This is one thing that organized labor has been trying to do.

for years, and if it is ever done, the farmer will be shackled just as capital is today. He will be compelled to pay his help probably not less than $5.00 per day, and work him only eight hours. The richest farmers in Nebraska today could not afford to hire help on that basis.

This must be twin year in Ord. Look out every one, two pairs have arrived already, one to the former Lucinda Thorne and her husband, Clayton Gilroy. And another pair of nice big babies at the Ed Zadina home. And then Mr. Anderson is just as proud of his new son, Tommy, as though he were twins . . . or triplets.

Several Ord business men have got around to reading "How to Win Friends and Influence People," the best-seller book written by Dale Carnegie. And now the said business men are very busy being friendly, flattering those they meet and avoiding the expression of their own opinions until learning the other fellow's.

Be pretty funny when two of them meet, won't it? I would like to be a mouse in a corner.

How many different ways there are of becoming famous. And two of my ex-schoolmates have made the grade recently. First a friend in Lincoln wins a fine new house worth $8,000.

And now John Allison over in China gets his face slapped by a Jap. And gets on all the front pages. And I believe he graduated from university in 1926 too.

Only thing I've done to get famous this winter was to have an operation. But it seems other people have had operations too so I'll have to think up something better than that.

January Weather.

January was an exceptionally dry month in Valley county, only three different periods of precipitation being recorded, two of which were rain. The total moisture for the month was .32 of an inch. The feature of the month was the fact that rain fell on two different occasions, which is an exceptional occurrence for January in Nebraska.

The average high temperature for the month was 37 degrees, with six low days during the final week and one Jan. 7 to lower the average several degrees.

In January last year the high average was 18.4 degrees with the lowest high temperature any one day being 4 above Jan. 12. There were only three days when the temperature rose above the freezing point.

The average low temperature for January, 1938, was 17.3 degrees, with the last three days showing sub-zero of 8, 9 and 8 degrees below zero, twenty-eight days showing above zero readings. January, 1937, showed an average low of four tenths of a degree below zero for the entire month, with 16 days showing below zero readings.

I might have been peed at Fred Coe last week when he candled out bad egg from a heap of fine local argument the minute the story was read. Flaws were immediately picked in the driving of every nominee of the Ord law officers selection.

It just goes to show that eggs should be candled in the winter as well as the summer," Fred said.

"Strange things happen inside a hen as well as any other mechanism. Accidents do happen."

Fred found the egg. It was a fine looking one. Then he put it under a heat lamp and it showed. It was shaded. Then he took a card board and broke the egg on it. It was a terrible looking thing, all bloody and reptile.

"Should a housewife buy that egg, expecting a good one, paying for top quality, it would spoil her as a customer ever after," Fred said.

"And it would spoil her breakfast too," Chas. Sayre added.

And so when I was through watching the lady sort my case of eggs I was better satisfied and went on my way with a bigger check than I would have got had the store bought the case, bad egg and all.

But we carried in the office a minute. I am one of these fellows who manages to either say too much or go to the other extreme and not say enough. In the office was a short chatty man, good natured to be sure and he looked at me as if I was a long lost friend.

He was apparently cold for his coat collar was pulled high and his cap pulled low. For the life of me I could not think who he was, the clothing obscuring the view as it did.

I gave him a wave and hurried on, and as I passed out of sight it dawned on me it was no one but Johnnie Prieur. I hastened back to give him the glad hand but he was gone, thinking me a slob of course, but that was not it. I was in reality dumb. I was ashamed too for once Johnnie took me in his house and treated me, along with his wife and kiddies, to a mid-day lunch, and I was a happier man afterwards.

That is one man's idea of it, a graduate from the university and a man whose acquaintance over the state is as extensive as anyone I ever knew.

Even Business Favors Federal Spending to Defeat Recession

BY SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON.—No matter how much similarity observers find in Roosevelt's second-term war on the "recession" and Hoover's attempts through "stabilization conferences" to halt the decline of business in 1929-30, many important differences can be discovered by comparisons.

Private industry made big promises of big spending when Hoover turned to Wall Street for support eight years ago. Public utility executives came to the White House and announced a $2,000,000,000 spending program for 1930. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company planned to spend $700,000,000 and U.S. Steel was to spend $250,000,000.

Encouraged by the announcements that corporations would contribute so heavily to the fight to up the curve of business, Hoover was confident early in December, 1929, that the depression was licked and told Congress so.

Ord Township Library.

A book of more than ordinary interest is "Of Human Bondage" by W. Somerset Maugham. In the words of the author, it is not an autobiography, but an autobiographical novel. First published in 1915 while the world was in the throes of a great war, it filled an immediate and pressing need.

Do you remember one of the most loved, and most esteemed women in Valley county, Mrs. Eva Hill?

Do you remember one of the best horsemen in Valley county, Joseph Glaspie?

Do you remember the man who kept grocery store down the valley, and would not sell whiskey but would sell a darned good mixture, as he called it, Dr. Harter?

Do you remember that Rev. Smith and Barney Crowell partook too freely of that mixture, and that the mules ran away, and spilled Barney and the Rev. Smith?

Do you remember when Uncle Johnny Case and the Potter boys went up the valley on a hunting trip, and how Uncle Johnny swore when he bit into the soda biscuits?

Do you remember when George McNulty married the Lilly of the Valley, Lillie Moore?

Do you remember who asked and urged Peter Mortensen to become a candidate for the office of state treasurer? Modesty forbids naming him.

Do you remember who organized and marshalled the voters in several counties in that territory to re-elect an incompetent congressman? Geo. W. E. Dorbins.

Do you remember the first man elected to the state senate from Valley county, and who was offered five thousand dollars to vote for the Newberry bill, and that he turned the offer down? A. M. Robins.

Do you remember what he gave as his reason, what he said in the senate chamber, "It is not in the interest of my people."

Do you remember that when he came home from his service in the Senate poison tongues whispered around that he had sold out? The poor misguided fellows did not know whereof they were speaking.

Do you remember that Sylvester Haskell was one of the noblest men in Valley county?

There was no date on the letter or the postmark so it is hard to tell when it was written.

Report of Committee Appointed To Investigate And Report On Status Of North Loup River Public Power And Irrigation District:

Your committee after ten days of investigation and interviews with officials of the P.W.A. and independent sources, has the following to report upon the controversies existing between the local district and P.W.A. and also on the financial condition of the district. Limited time has made it impossible to report in detail many of the things which can be learned by a minute inspection of the books of the district such as specific things for which certain items of money were spent.

We submit the following report however, in the belief that it is all that is necessary to show the committee's findings:

Laterals

The committee, upon investigation, found that there was a controversy existing between the district and P.W.A. as to the size of laterals necessary to adequately serve the land under the ditch. The engineers employed by the district maintain the view that they designed the lateral system upon advice of the district and Engineer Manager as to the irrigating calendar that the district wished to put into operation in the Valley. Accordingly the laterals were designed to carry six second feet to every hundred acres being serviced by the lateral. Laterals so designed were approved by the P.W.A. on the Ord-North Loup canal and a letting of the contract was attempted. The contract was not let at that time because the bids received from the contractors were in excess of the engineers' estimate.

The district was then advised that there was not sufficient money to construct laterals of that size and a new P.W.A. Engineer stated that a lateral carrying one and one-half second feet per hundred acres was sufficient. At this point the district and P.W.A. came to a standstill in negotiations because of the insistence of the district that they would need to design laterals carrying six second feet per hundred acres while the P.W.A. maintained the position that laterals carrying one and one-half second feet were adequate.

Your committee made a trip to Lincoln in an effort to learn P.W.A.'s position and to secure unbiased opinions on the size of a lateral necessary to properly irrigate the land. After such investigation your committee reports that it feels that the P.W.A. figures are adequate and that a lateral designed to carry six second feet per hundred acres would not only be unnecessary but a waste of money and land.

While your committee feels that a lateral carrying one and one-half second feet would be adequate, we feel that if the size of the laterals can be increased without jeopardizing the chances of finishing the project, we would recommend as a margin of safety that the laterals be constructed to carry two to two and one-half second feet per hundred acres. The district still insists that a ditch carrying six second feet is necessary. They maintain that a redesigning of the ditches will cost additional engineering fees and take a considerable length of time.

The above opinion reached by your committee is based upon competent advice from men of long experience in irrigating and men who were disinterested in the project.

(Editor's Note—No 2 portion of the committee's report dealt with the control estimate showing amounts drawn, expended and balances on hand of the North Loup district. Because the figures are in tabular form and are very involved, no attempt will be made to print them in full here. Suffice it to say that original cost of the project was to be $1,665,000, that amount of cash received is $1,021,250, that the amount due is $43,750, that the amount expended is $902,463.20 and the balance on hand is $118,756.80.

The second portion of No. 2, also in tabular form, deals with amount of money drawn by members of the board of directors for appraising and optioning, fees for attending director's meetings, and for services in getting water contracts signed. Each of these three divisions, is divided into three divisions, salary, travel and subsistence, and the report is somewhat involved.

Assurance of the District and P.W.A. has been given that immediate advertisement for bids on the construction of the turn-outs or headgates will be started by the second week in February. It will be necessary to advertise for bids for the period of twenty-one days so the contract should be let about the first of March.

Recommendations.

Your committee after full investigation and deliberation has the following recommendations to make to create a greater feeling of harmony between the North Loup District and citizens of this Valley:

1. That a full Board of Directors be maintained at all times and be composed of persons who have their actual residence within the district as well as their legal residence.

2. That the administrative and overhead expenses be curtailed as much as possible and in accordance with good business practices so that a sufficient amount will remain to administer the project to its completion. In other words that the cash made available for administration and overhead be conserved as much as possible so that the district will not find itself in a position where it is unable to pay its ordinary overhead and administration charges before the operating revenue is forthcoming.

power would be transported to the North Loup Valley by a private power company and thus eliminate the necessity of building a transmission line by the district. This would make funds available for the completion of the irrigation part of the project. The P.W.A. office in Lincoln assured the committee that it would render all assistance possible to secure a transfer of the funds from that set aside for the development of power, to the fund for irrigation, if and when the necessity for building a power line was obviated by a contract with a private power company.

A new factor entering into the contract of the North Loup District with the private power company, is the fact that the Sutherland District which was going to supply power to the North Loup District, now sees the opportunity of making additional revenue for their project by delivering the power to the North Loup District at the price originally agreed to sell it to the North Loup District plus the cost the North Loup District would have to expend in bringing the power into the North Loup District, the Sutherland project believing that it can make a more favorable contract with the private power company than the North Loup District would be able to do.

Stated in another way, the Sutherland project now believes that by delivering power to the North Loup District at Olean instead of delivering it at Grand Island or Elm Creek, the Sutherland district can realize a profit from such a change, whereas the North Loup District would not be required to pay more for its power. The Sutherland District, for this reason, wishes to abrogate its contract with the North Loup District and enter into a new one. The details of this negotiation are so recent and undeveloped that there is no definite report to make upon it.

A second method would be to secure additional funds. This, the P.W.A. office advises, would be practically impossible without a separate act of Congress, for the reason that the money available to P.W.A. has all been allotted. If it were possible to secure additional funds from P.W.A. it would have to be secured on the basis of a new loan and your committee was advised that an additional loan would put this project in the position where it could not be self-liquidating and under such circumstances P.W.A. would not make the loan. Further than that the time necessary to secure such loan would be detrimental to the project.

There is another method which might be used. That is an alteration of the contract itself between the district and the P.W.A. Your committee was advised that an alteration of the contract could only be had in very rare cases and a very pressing need or emergency was necessary to so change a contract. It has been brought to the attention of the P.W.A. that the water rights secured from the State expire after the term of three years if the water has not been used for the purposes for which it was granted or if there has been an abandonment of the water rights. The water rights on the North Loup River District were secured in 1936. Application therefore was made in 1933 and a check was posted to maintain those rights. However, the date at which they were actually issued was 1936, under which the water rights of the District would not expire until some time in the fall of 1939. There appears no need for concern over this matter at this time but is a very forcible argument that may be used in securing an alteration of the contract with P.W.A. and may lead to a release of funds from the power part of the project to the irrigation part of the project if P.W.A. can be brought to feel concerned about maintaining the water rights for the North Loup District.

As a last resort, P.W.A. can only suggest that none of the above methods are successful and additional funds are not secured with which to build the lateral system, that the burden of building the lateral system would fall upon the farmers in the Valley or any other interested persons who cared to do the work without remuneration. The opinion of your committee is that the project will be completed in some manner but no assurance of the completion date can be given.

Assurance of the District and P.W.A. has been given that immediate advertisement for bids on the construction of the turn-outs or headgates will be started by the second week in February. It will be necessary to advertise for bids for the period of twenty-one days so the contract should be let about the first of March.

Possibility of Completion.

The committee found upon investigation that originally the district agreed in its contract with P.W.A. to keep constant a certain sum of money to make electricity available to the district for purposes of resale. This amount of money has never been changed and it was insisted upon by the P.W.A. that this money be used for that purpose for the reason that they maintain the project would not be self-liquidating without electricity or power. Without additional funds for the irrigation part of the project, the project cannot be completed unless the laterals are dug by the farmers or other interested persons in the Valley. It is then a question of obtaining money by one of two methods—either an alteration of the contract itself or securing additional funds from P.W.A.

There is now in the process of negotiation a contract whereby

Chanticleers Trip Ravenna 24-10 In Rough and Tumble Mid Six Game

Harry Zulkoski Cops Scoring Honors As Ord Quintet Wins 6th Clash.

In a rough and tumble Mid Six conference game on the local floor, Coach Helmuth Brockman's Ord high quintet tripped Ravenna 24 to 10 Friday night. It was the sixth win of the season for the Chanticleers.

Coach Keith Wolfe's Ord junior high squad gained revenge for a defeat served them last fall on the gridiron as they gave the Ravenna Juniors a 31-16 walloping.

Referee John Marrow of Kearney called a total of 16 fouls during the game, a good share of them being in the second quarter.

Harry Zulkoski, forward, got "hot" Friday night to take scoring honors for the game as he tipped in a total of eight counters. Tunnicliff followed close behind with six points. Capellen, Ravenna center, did the greater share of the scoring for his team as he dropped in four free shots and one field goal for six points.

During the first half both teams played a tight defensive game of ball, each team resorting to caverman tactics to prevent the other from scoring. Fans were expecting a free-for-all to break out any minute in the second quarter, when play resembled football more than it did basketball.

Ord held a 3-2 margin at the end of the initial quarter, Tunnicliff tossing in a free throw and a field goal for the lead.

L. Larson, Ravenna guard, was "put among the sweet peas" for a few minutes in the latter part of the second quarter when he was at the bottom of a pile-up under the basket. Coach Stan Johnson's Ravenna crew held a slight advantage at the end of this round, the Ravennaites leading 7 to 5 at the halftime.

Ord's style of play was much different in the second half as Forward Zulkoski snapped the ball through the hoop from every corner of the court to put Ord ahead 12-7 at the end of the third stanza.

Brockman inserted the second team in the fourth quarter and the showing which they made is to be commended. Hurlburt, forward, scored three points before he was in the game thirty seconds. Although they tried hard enough, the Ravenna quint was unable to break through the tight Ord defense in the second half and as a consequence scored only three points in the last two quarters.

Licenses Not Needed.

According to the Ravenna News, S. E. Ling, state game warden, was a member of a coyote hunt held at Ravenna recently. He volunteered the information that a hunter needs no state license on an organized hunt and may shoot any of the common pests. He cannot shoot game birds, bush rabbits, or other protected game, nor can he hunt outside the organized party.

Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Peterson went down to Lincoln Monday for a two or three days visit.

Hunters Seek 45-Day Open Season on Ducks, Use of Live Decoys

A large delegation of northeast Nebraska hunters attended a meeting at Norfolk last week and passed a resolution urging that the migratory waterfowl season be extended to forty-five days, shooting permitted at 6:30 a. m. Instead of 7, and the use of a reasonable number of live decoys as "a true conservation measure" be allowed.

Frank B. O'Connell, secretary of the Nebraska game commission, was present and recommended the hunters ask for a 45-day hunting season, suggesting the dates as Oct. 15 to Nov. 30. Ninety-nine out of 100 hunters would be satisfied with these dates, he said. O'Connell stated that three years ago there was an acute situation in the duck population but it does not exist today.

Chanticleers to Meet Broken Bow Tuesday In Last Home Game

Ord fans will see the Chanticleers in action on the Ord court, for the last time this season Tuesday night when the Ord quint meets Broken Bow in a Mid Six conference game.

Broken Bow has practically the same team as they had last season. The bow five has developed itself through the season and now has a good ball club which will give the Chanticleers all the "fight" they can handle. The squad is made up of five lettermen, all of them fast, accurate shooting ball players.

This Friday night the Chanticleers will pack up their old kit bags and gallop off to St. Paul for a Mid Six clash with Coach Fred for Weeks St. Paul squad.

Ord should win the St. Paul contest without straining themselves to the breaking point. St. Paul has been unable to get under way all season and have been defeated by a majority of their Loup Valley and Mid Six opponents.

Last Friday lost out to Broken Bow, 30 to 21. Recently they lost to Loup City, 29 to 20 and won over Central City, 10 to 9.

The Apostle line-up Friday night will probably include: E. Nielsen, forward; W. Nielsen, forward; Lynch, center; Hanisch, guard; Southard, guard; Stone and Davis will substitute at the two forward positions if necessary.

North Loup Took All-Stars, 23 to 21

Ord's All Stars took it on the chin once more last Wednesday night as they went down to defeat by a 23-21 margin at the hands of the North Loup town team on the Loup court.

Nels Jorgensen was the worry of the Ord second stringers in the preliminary game, as he sank baskets from every corner of the court. North Loup held a slight advantage throughout the game, winning out by a 2-point margin at the final.

Sorahan was outstanding for the Ordsters as he slipped in 15 points. Frank Lee took scoring honors for the evening in the first team game as he tipped in 10 points for Ord. Barrett did the heavy scoring for the Louopers as he collected 5 counters.

Last Friday night the Ord All Star quint traveled to Kearney where they met the Kearney State Teachers College "B" team. After leading for three quarters, the Ordsters let down in the final period to lose, 32 to 28.

Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Peterson went down to Lincoln Monday for a two or three days visit.

Ed Kruml Injured In Car Accident

Ord's "up and at 'em" wrestler, Ed Kruml, met with a serious accident while enroute from Minneapolis to Omaha last Monday. He received bad cuts on his head and was taken care of at Jackson, Minn., where the accident occurred.

He arrived in Ord Friday, and his bandaged head is the source of much kidding from his friends here. Everyone seems to think he was thrown out of the ring and took a couple of posts with him on the way. We hope this little article will stop some of those embarrassing questions, Ed.

"We were told that the electric contracts with the cities of Ord and Burwell were the last steps need and that if we signed, the Ord-North Loup canal and laterals would be completed and land under the canal would be irrigated by late fall of 1937 or early spring of 1938. This also was not in accordance with the facts.

"We were told that the sale of electrical energy in the District was to produce some $25,000 in profits each year which sum was set up as a separate item to be used to take care of a deficit in the cost of irrigation. Our information now is that the sale of energy by the District will produce little, if any, profit for the district. Again the promises made in 1937 are not coming true.

"We were told that energy was to be supplied immediately and later were notified that it would be available on or about January 1, 1938. Today we see no building of lines and all indications are that it will be months before any energy is delivered. Again the City has been misled.

"Work on this project has not been speeded up since September 1, 1937. In fact no new work has been started in the last seven months. No laterals have been constructed, no contracts for laterals have been let and irrigation beside the east part of town.

"The City believing that the contract would be completed within a reasonable time and relying on the promises of the District that electrical energy would be available about January 1, 1938, sold one unit in its generating plant and now finds that because of the District's failure to supply energy as promised, it must sign a large sum to purchase additional equipment for its light plant.

"In view of the unsatisfactory status of the whole project and to save the District any further expense in constructing transmission lines and to protect the City of Ord whom we represent and on advice of our attorneys, we now notify the District that because of the failure of the District to comply with the express and implied conditions of the contract, the City will be forced to terminate the contract entered into on August 11th, 1937."

There was considerable applause from the large crowd when City Attorney Norman finished reading the resolution.

Roy Hudson, North Loup project president, immediately leaped to his feet and explained that contracts for construction of a power line have been let and he called upon E. H. Dunnire who explained that John Kerns Co., of Omaha, who hold the contract, were notified five days ago to get materials on the ground and start work of construction at once.

Quizzed by a Quiz reporter as to the effect this resolution will have on the North Loup project, K. Sewell Wingfield said:

"I held my breath while he was reading it, thinking 'here goes the whole project' but it wasn't so bad after all."

He had feared that the resolution constituted formal cancellation of the contract, but such is not the case.

It is generally agreed by attorneys that only after a legal battle could the city cancel its contract in any event, as breach of contract provisions by the North Loup district would have to be proved in court. City Attorney Ralph Norman, and others from whom the Quiz sought information, believe the city has sufficient grounds to break the contract should it care to do so.

If construction of laterals gets under way within a reasonable time there is every likelihood that the city of Ord will make no attempt to break the contract, in spite of the strongly worded resolution passed Sunday. If the PWA continues to "play horse with us" as one councilman phrased it, the city no doubt will try to be released from the obligation.

Ord Electric Users Pay $1.60 For 30 Kilowatts, Average of 130 Towns $2.63

The individual living in Ord paid an average net monthly electric bill last year of $1.60 if he used 30 kilowatt hours, $1.87 for 40 kilowatt hours and $2.13 if he used an average of 50 kilowatt hours during the month. If he consumed between 500 and 3,000 gallons during the month he paid an average bill from 50 to 66 cents, for 5,000 gallons his average bill amounted to 99¢ and for 10,000 gallons it was $1.69.

This data is to be found in an exhaustive report of the publicly owned water and electric utilities of Nebraska, which was recently compiled under the direction of Dr. C. E. McNeill, professor of economics at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, who in completing this WPA educational project has furnished the people of the state with one of the few scientific analyses of the water and light utilities to be found anywhere in the country.

While the Ord resident paid an average electric bill of $1.60 for 30 kilowatt hours, the net monthly bill for an equal amount of current in 130 towns in the state averaged $2.63. Using a consumption of 5,000 gallons a month as a basis the average charge made by most of the municipally owned plants in 1936 was about 28 cents per thousand gallons.

The university report shows that the Ord electric utility was established in 1916 and the town's water works in 1887. The city's municipally owned electric plant had in 1937 a total generating capacity of 820 kilowatts as compared with an average capacity of 668 kilowatts for towns of similar size. While the report does not show the operating costs and revenues for individual towns, it does reveal the averages for the various groups of communities according to their size, Ord being included in group II towns, those 1,000 to 5,000.

Operating revenues per kilowatt hour distributed were 4.09 cents; operating expenses were 3.31 cents for this group of communities, net operating income was .78 cents, while the total return reported by publicly owned electric plants in group II towns was 1.02 cents per kilowatt hour as compared with a figure of 1.13 cents for towns 500 to 1,000.

The University of Nebraska report also reveals that the local water plant is capable of pumping a total of 1,000 gallons a minute, if necessary, as compared with an average pumping capacity of 823 gallons per minute for group II towns.

An average statistician found that water bills are about half those of electric bills. For example an average electric bill in towns of group II size would be $.21 for 30 kilowatt hours as compared with an average water bill of $1.29 for 5,000 gallons.

"That the water and light utilities are among the major industries of the state is evidenced by the fact that two years ago subscribers to all municipally owned electric plants used about 100 million kilowatt hours and an estimated 26,400,000 gallons of water," says Dr. McNeill. "Actually the Nebraska public paid into the treasuries of publicly owned electric plants in the state in 1935 about $3,000,000 and about an equal amount to the home-owned water works."

"It might be interesting to know that nearly half of the water sold in Nebraska in 1935 was produced by the Omaha plant. Nebraska's largest city has a plant capable of pumping 253,600 gallons a minute, while Lincoln's pumping capacity is approximately 36,000 gallons a minute."

Briefly, are listed 16 of the more important conclusions outlined by Dr. McNeill of the state university and his assistants:

(1) There were 173 home-owned light plants in Nebraska in 1936, 74 of them generating their own current.

(2) Residents living in towns of less than 500 population who used less than 30 kilowatt hours per month paid nearly 83 per cent more for their current than did the people living in towns of 5,000 or over.

(3) Average revenue for 88 electric plants was approximately 3.40 cents per kilowatt hour distributed.

(4) Making allowance for depreciation as an expense the average unit cost of current was 2.71 cents per kilowatt hour.

(5) The average return upon investments in the case of electric works, including the value of free service as a part of the return was 6.45 per cent.

(6) The use of an electric stove or refrigerator in the small communities cost about 110 per cent more than it did in the larger cities.

(7) Publicly owned electric works in general earned a margin of nearly 2 per cent above their average interest rate on bonds.

(8) Towns served by home-owned electric plants average 35 customers per 100 people.

(9) A major economic benefit of a municipal electric work plant in the very small town is the free service that it provides the community.

(10) A year ago there were 379 municipal water plants in the state and the Omaha and Lincoln plants serving 21 per cent of the population of the state.

(11) Omaha and Lincoln water works together furnish about half of the total amount of water distributed, collect 60 per cent of the revenue, incur over 50 per cent of the expense and earn 80 per cent of the net operating income.

(12) The total revenue of 203 water plants averaged 12.6 cents per thousand gallons during the year 1935.

(13) The total operating expense of this same number of plants averaged 10 cents a thousand gallons.

(14) Making due allowance for depreciation as an expense and for the value of free service, the return on investment of water plants averages 2.92 per cent.

(15) The highest per capita use of water by consumers was in Omaha with 100 gallons per capita a day; whereas the average consumption of the smallest towns was about 40 gallons per capita per day.

(16) In spite of the depression most of the publicly owned utilities in Nebraska (towns above 1,000), both electric and water plants, have not been seriously threatened with deficits.

Ed Kallal Is World Wheat Raising Champ

Ed Kallal, resident of Ord more than 30 years ago, made the Quiz office a pleasant call Saturday morning, and talked over the old days. He has gained forty pounds since he lived here, and is looking and feeling fine. He likes the climate and general conditions at Tofield, Alberta, Canada, where he has been for the past 30 years, and where he is engaged in farming.

He has made a notable success, his wheat the past year winning fifth prize at the World Grain Show at Regina. This is the biggest affair of its kind in the world, and it is a high honor to place there. Following Mr. Kallal's success the Tofield board of trade sponsored a banquet at The Royal Alexandra Hotel, at which he was the guest of honor.

Speaker of the evening was Major Strang, a former world wheat champion. A toast to Mr. and Mrs. Kallal was proposed by Mayor Bruce, who said he thought Mrs. Kallal should be included, as she doubtless had some part in her husband's success. Included in the banquet honors were Charlie and Joe Kallal, who had won honors in a recent calf show.

The county was represented by its attorney, Alvin Lee, who claimed it was not necessary to file a claim because taxes become a first lien on all property owned by the deceased at the time of his death. Judge Andersen took the case under advisement until Thursday. Wednesday he handed down a decision that taxes are a first lien on property, and that it is the duty of an administrator to inquire at the treasurer's office in regard to personal tax, which is a matter of record. For this reason he allowed the claim for taxes. The case presented many interesting and unusual features.

Rules Fowler Estate Must Pay Up Taxes

A hearing of more than usual interest was held in county court Saturday, Jan. 22. It was that of a claim of Valley county for taxes against the Walter Fowler estate. The estate is insolvent. A hearing for claims was held last July and all later claims barred. The administrator, Earl Snodgrass was ready to close the estate when County Treasurer George Satterfield filed a claim against the estate for $5.00 taxes and interest.

The administrator, through his attorney, H. B. VanDecar, objected to paying the claim on account of the order barring claims, because of the statute stating how personal tax should be collected, because the administrator knew nothing of it, and because the estate was insolvent.

Then there is Hip Norman, who still thinks he might have been chosen as one of the safest drivers if he had not run into the side of the night marshal's car.

But, great as the controversy over the driver proposition is, it is nothing to the squabble they are having as to who is to have the fishing rights this summer in Dunmire Lake. The committee is now thinking of calling for sealed bids, each to be accompanied by a check equal to the value of the fish to be caught.

Unless there is extremely bad weather during the next few weeks, the Quiz will continue to broadcast each Saturday afternoon from Auble's jewelry store.

Auble Bros. say that their public address system was only partly on Saturday and from now on they will open it up so that everyone may hear, no matter where they are at the time of the broadcast, three o'clock.

Ord Electric Users Pay $1.60 For 30 Kilowatts, Average of 130 Towns $2.63

The individual living in Ord paid an average net monthly electric bill last year of $1.60 if he used 30 kilowatt hours, $1.87 for 40 kilowatt hours and $2.13 if he used an average of 50 kilowatt hours during the month. His water bill was considerable less. If he consumed between 500 and 3,000 gallons during the month he paid an average bill from $0 to 66 cents, for 5,000 gallons his average bill amounted to 99¢ and for 10,000 gallons it was $1.69.

This data is to be found in an exhaustive report of the publicly owned water and electric utilities of Nebraska, which was recently compiled under the direction of Dr. G. E. The city's municipally owned electric plant had in 1937 a total generating capacity of 820 kilowatts as compared with an average capacity of 663 kilowatts for towns of similar size. The University of Nebraska report also reveals that the local water plant is capable of pumping a total of 1,000 gallons a minute, if necessary, as compared with an average pumping capacity of 823 gallons per minute for group II towns.

On an average statisticians found that water bills are about half those of electric bills. For example an average electric bill in towns of group II size would be $2.19 for 30 kilowatt hours as compared with an average water bill of $1.29 for 5,000 gallons.

"That the water and light utilities are among the major industries of the state is evidenced by the fact that two years ago subscribers to all municipally owned electric plants used about 100 million kilowatt hours and an estimated 26,400,000 gallons of water," says Dr. McNeill. "Actually the Nebraska public paid into the treasures of publicly owned electric plants in the state in 1935 about $3,000,000 and about an equal amount to the home-owned water works."

"It might be interesting to know that nearly half of the water sold in Nebraska in 1935 was produced by the Omaha plant. Nebraska's largest city has a plant capable of pumping 253,600 gallons a minute, while Lincoln's pumping capacity is approximately 36,000 gallons a minute."

THE PRICE OF GLORY

FIRST MARRIAGE IN VALLEY COUNTY

WAS IN 1873, JUDGE'S RECORDS REVEAL

Perhaps no part of the early records of Valley county is of more interest than that of the county judge's office. An old white bound cloth volume contains the marriage records of that office from the time the first marriage was recorded in 1873 until January, 1883, or approximately ten years. This was during the formative period of the county and even as late as 1883 the only railroad town in the county was North Loup.

The first marriage recorded in Valley county was that of William A. Hobson, 27, a native of Maine, to Miss Emily C. Bancroft, a native of Iowa. The affidavit and license were made out Aug. 9, 1873, by W. D. Long, probate judge. The marriage was performed at the Bancroft home in Springdale the following day by Ira S. Bristol, a minister of the gospel, with the bride's parents, R. W. Bancroft and Mary S. Bancroft, as witnesses.

Of special interest is the list of men who acted in the capacity of county judge during the above period. The first two, W. D. Long and Oscar Babcock were probate judges in the years 1873 and 1875 respectively. The duly elected county judges were T. C. Tracy, 1876; Herman Westover, 1878; S. L. R. Maine, 1880; John Mosher, 1882. During the year 1882 E. M. Coffin and H. M. Grimes, both notaries public, acted for Judge Mosher in his absence.

Of special interest to Ordites is an entry of April 7, 1878. On that date Ole Severson, 22, and Minnie Kaiser, 19, were granted a marriage license. The affidavit and license were made out by Herman Westover, county judge. The marriage was performed by Justice of Peace S. H. Haskell at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kalser, April 27, 1878, 60 years ago next April.

Before a new book was bought the county ran out of a place to put the marriage records, and on the back leaf of the old book Elder Oscar Babcock wrote out in his characteristic hand a certificate of the marriage of Herbert L. Green and Emma L. Bruce, which he performed at North Loup March 8, 1883, with George Larkin and Elecata Larkin as witnesses. This oldest marriage record book is in a good state of repair.

During the first decade of county history 140 marriages were performed in the county, and by no less than 41 different persons. Judge Mainie headed the list with a total of 36. Elder Oscar Babcock headed the list of ministers with a total of 18. Judge Westover was next in line with 7. Ministers Wesley Wilson and M. B. True followed with 6 and 5 each. Lorenzo Blessing led the justices with 4 marriages.

TO NEW YORK CITY IN 15 HOURS

By air mail, a letter from Ord now will reach either the Atlantic or Pacific coasts in less time than it takes a letter to go by ordinary channels to Taylor, said Postmaster A. L. Hill Monday, in explaining recent changes and improvements made in air mail service.

In the Quiz photo above, Trell Seeler is handing an air mail letter addressed to a New York City concern to Assistant Postmaster Guy Lemasters. Leaving Ord at 8:45 a. m., the letter will reach New York City at 11:45 p. m., only 15 hours later. Had the letter been addressed to someone in Los Angeles, it would reach there 17 hours after leaving Ord.

Ord business men and other people may make use of the air mail service profitably, believes Postmaster Hill.

President Weller Names Committees To Serve in 1938

C. of C. Directors Hold 1st Meeting, Reappoint Mortensen, Wiehardt.

Alfred A. Wiehardt was re-appointed secretary and C. J. Mortensen treasurer, and President V. H. Weller named standing committees to serve during 1938 at a meeting of directors of the Ord Chamber of Commerce held Thursday evening.

Committees named by Weller are as follows:

Retall—Keith Lewis, J. R. Stoltz, Fred Cahill, Ed Michalek, Glen D. Auble.

Membership—Wm. Darges, LeRoy Frazier, Ross Lakin.

Entertainment—Tom Springer, Joe Puncochar, V. W. Russell.

Roads—Ign. Klima, Ralph W. Norman, Dr. F. L. Blessing.

Irrigation—Val Pullen, William Sack, Dr. J. W. McGinnis.

Publicity—E. C. Leggett.

Civic Improvements—Alfred Hill, George Allen, M. Biemond.

The first named member shall serve as chairman, in each instance, instructed President Weller, and each committee chairman will be asked to report activity of his committee, and suggest work it might undertake, at each monthly meeting of the Chamber.

A tentative plan to be followed by the Chamber during 1938 was outlined by directors Thursday evening. Encouragement of the practice of buying at home will receive much attention throughout the year, in campaigns to be undertaken from time to time. First campaign will be to aid the management of the Ord bakery in popularizing home-baked products, and President Weller appointed a committee composed of Tom Springer and E. C. Leggett to map out such a campaign and present it at the next meeting of directors.

Improvement of roads, particularly "feeder" roads, will receive attention from the Chamber throughout the year, and every effort will be made to bring about construction of a federal building in Ord. A campaign to advertise the North Loup valley's agricultural and industrial advantages, in cooperation with the state's "White Spot" advertising, also will be undertaken.

Mrs. Clarence Fox Is Asking Divorce

By her attorney, John P. Misko, Mrs. Cecile Fox has made application for divorce from her husband, Clarence Fox, whom she married June 22, 1916. She asks the custody of the seven children ranging in age from 20 to the twins, aged six. She also asks such other and further relief as may be just and equitable. The action was filed in the district court Feb. 7, 1938, and alleges cruelty as a principal cause.

Middle Loup Men Want New Road

A delegation of citizens from Sargent, Comstock, Arcadia and Loup City were in Ord Tuesday afternoon to meet with the Valley county board with reference to a road which they wish to have improved, connecting Comstock with highway No. 57 to the south, and forming a connecting link in the route up and down the Middle Loup. The part in which Valley county is interested is that extending north from highway No. 57 along the west county line.

The plan is to have this road run north to the Burlington right-of-way, and then along the right-of-way in Custer County to Comstock. While this would not be a perfect highway by any means, it is the best that could be made under present conditions, and would greatly expedite travel up and down the valley. The delegation was headed by Publisher S. B. Warden of the Arcadian, and by Mr. Abbott of Sargent.

The boards of three townships along the right-of-way were in the delegation, as well as a number of former Ord men, including Lester Bly of Arcadia, and O. B. Mutter and John Rockhold of Comstock. The men made very firm presentations to the board Tuesday and they stated that they expected to stay with the proposition until they got a Comstock-Arcadia highway.

Mrs. Arvin Dye Hurt. While assisting her husband uproot dead orchard trees with a team Monday afternoon, Mrs. Arvin Dye had the misfortune to be struck by a falling tree, breaking both bones in her left limb below the knee. She was brought to Ord and to Dr. J. G. Krum's office where the fracture was reduced, and she is being cared for at the Niels Nielsen home in Ord. Except for having to spend a long time in bed, it is not believed that she will suffer any permanent injury from the accident.

Rudolph Rutar Will Sell.

Rudolph Rutar, who lives seven miles northeast of Arcadia, is leaving the state and will hold a cleanup sale on Thursday, Feb. 17. His offering includes 5 horses, 18 cattle and a wide assortment of farm machinery, household goods, etc. See his ad in today's Quiz.

Heavy Dust Clouds Arrive Here Monday

Driven by a strong south wind heavy clouds of dust drifted across Valley county skies Monday. The dust was high in the air, but so thick that it almost obscured the sun at mid day, and the sun completely disappeared long before sundown. During Monday night a large amount of dust settled on the walks, and was quite noticeable Tuesday morning. This is the second time dust has appeared this winter, the first time being much lighter. The appearance of dust clouds so early in the year is unique. In the past they have not usually appeared before the latter part of March. They are indicative of very dry conditions in the dust bowl country.

Bruha Boy, 2, Passes.

Albert Louis Bruha, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wencel Bruha of near Comstock, passed away at the Cram hospital in Burwell Saturday evening, Feb. 5, at the age of 2 years, 5 months and 8 days. A short funeral service was held at the Pearson-Anderson chapel in Ord at 1:15 p. m. Monday, and a longer service at the Bohemian National hall at 2:00 p. m., both services being conducted by Rev. D. A. Filipi of Clarkson, and burial was made in the Bohemian National cemetery.

Besides his parents he leaves to mourn his passing two brothers, Wencel, 12, and Frank, 9, and two sisters, Emily, 7, and Evelyn, 5, and a large number of other relatives.

Prank Results In Damage to 3 Cars

A prank indulged in by four young people Saturday evening resulted in damage to three cars, and might easily have been much more serious. Harry Zukoski, Wayne Johnson, Jane Ferguson and Harold Williams, when called in and questioned by Chief of Police L. H. Covert and Sheriff George Round Monday morning, admitted the following facts: At about six o'clock Saturday Jim Guggenmos told them he was looking for a way to get home. They told him that if he would take their car around to the filling station and check the tires, they would come over and drive him home.

They pointed out a car belonging to Joe Polak and told him it was theirs. Guggenmos got the car over to the station without trouble. Young Johnson followed him over and told him that he had another man's car and he had better get it back at once, or he might get into trouble. He drove back to the original parking place in front of the Farmers Store, but in trying to get in he saw he could not make it, and backed out, bumping into the car of Fred Ulrich, who was driving past, and damaging the fenders.

Guggenmos is a poor driver at best, and he then became so flushed that he drove ahead, catching the Henry Zikmund car and pulling it along part way up on the sidewalk. The Polak car went almost into the windows of the Penny store before he got it stopped. Bystanders then took a hand and got affairs straightened out. After a good lecture, the young people were told that nothing further would be done if they paid the damage to the cars, which they agreed to do.

Ord Meets Taylor In First Game Of Loup Valley Tourney

Ord high's basketball squad will meet Taylor in the first game of the Loup Valley tourney which starts on Tuesday, Feb. 15. Officials released pairings for the tournament this week, and games to be played the first day are listed below. The tournament is being held Feb. 15, 16 and 17 in the Burwell high school gymnasium.

Ord vs. Taylor, 2 p. m. Tuesday; Scotia vs. Dannebrog, 3 p. m. Tuesday; Burwell vs. Loup City, 4 p. m. Tuesday; Arcadia vs. North Loup, 7 p. m. Tuesday. St. Paul will play the winner of the Ord-Taylor game and Comstock will meet the winner of the Scotia-Dannebrog contest.

Four teams, Ord, Dannebrog, Loup City, and Arcadia were seeded. Fans are predicting that Ord and Arcadia will go into the finals, although the Arcadia and Dannebrog teams seem to be nearly equal in strength.

If Ord goes through the Loup Valley tournament successfully, the team will then go to the district tournament to be held at Lexington, March 2 to 5. The winner and runner-up in the Lexington Class A tourney are eligible to compete in the state tournament to be held in Lincoln.

Rudolph Rutar Will Sell.

Rudolph Rutar, who lives seven miles northeast of Arcadia, is leaving the state and will hold a cleanup sale on Thursday, Feb. 17. His offering includes 5 horses, 18 cattle and a wide assortment of farm machinery, household goods, etc. See his ad in today's Quiz.

District's Contract To Get Electricity Is Up for Approval

O. K. Within Week Is Hope of No Loup Officials; Committee Named.

That the North Loup district's contract for use of the lines of the Western Public Service company has been submitted to the PWA and eastern officials of the company for final approval, is the statement made this week by district officials. Approval should be received within a week, it is hoped.

This contract contemplates purchase of electricity by the district from the North Platte (Sutherland) district, and the use of the Western Public Service company's lines only for carrying this energy to the district. No electricity is to be purchased from the Western Public Service company.

The John Kerns Co., of Omaha, contractor for electric transmission lines from Olean to Burwell, has notified the district that material for these lines has been shipped, so district officials are expecting work to start at once.

At a meeting held last week, directors of the district appointed a committee on public relations, to cooperate with newspapers and the Ord Chamber of Commerce committee recently appointed, in seeing that the public is adequately informed as to affairs connected with the big project.

According to a press release from this committee, the lateral system is now being redesigned in accordance with PWA instructions in January, 1938, and bids will be sought the latter part of this week on the main canal turnouts. Plans for the complete lateral system will be revised as speedily as possible with hopes of having a letting at an early date.

Other construction is practically complete. Diversion works at the head of all three canals are fully completed, as is the work of excavating main line canals except leveling some of the spoil banks. Drainage structures and canal conduits are complete. Flumes to carry water across deep canyons are finished except a few closing-in sections which have to be made special and which are now being prepared by the contractor for assembly in March. Highway bridges and farm crossings are all built except a few scattering structures which should be finished by the end of February.

Heart Ailment Claims Bowers

Charles A. Bowers, 47, secretary of the Nebraska State Teachers Association for the past six years and once superintendent of Ord schools, died unexpectedly Saturday morning at his home in Lincoln, death being due to a heart ailment.

He had complained of not feeling well all week, say news dispatches from Lincoln, but apparently did not realize the ailment was so serious. Saturday he phoned his office to say he would not be down and died a few moments later.

Mr. Bowers was born at Beatrice in 1890, attended the York schools and was graduated from York college in 1913, and then entered the teaching field, being superintendent of schools at Cowles, Exeter, Ord and Holdrege before taking over work of the state association. He attended several summer sessions of the University of Nebraska and was an instructor at that school.

While living in Ord he was president of the Rotary club, commander of the Legion post and was active in all community affairs. Under his guidance, plans for Ord's new high school building were made.

His wife and four children, Jack, Jean, Bobby and Gretchen, survive.

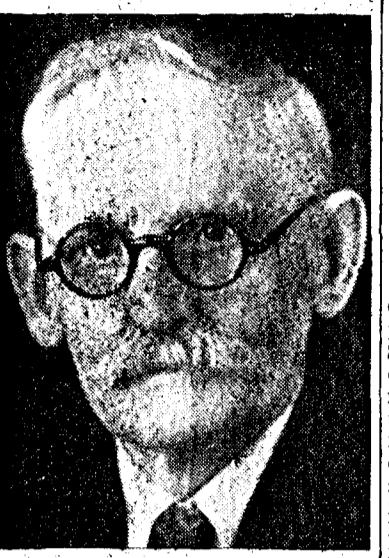

Ten Days in Jail For No-Fund Check

Last week Virgil Severson was bailed in to Judge John L. Anderson's court on the charge of having issued a no fund check in the sum of $4.00 to the Food Center store on Jan. 15. This was a second offense, the first having occurred Aug. 24, 1936. In view of this the judge sentenced him to ten days hard labor, and to pay the costs of $8.00. He also warned him against taking the chance of a third offense, stating that in that case the sentence would be much more severe.

The Nebraska region fire school is being held this week, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at Grand Island, and under the auspices of the Grand Island fire department. A number of Ord firemen are in attendance. The school is for the purpose of demonstrating the latest ideas in fire fighting, and is so important that the Ord city council voted a sum to help defray the expenses of those attending.

Those who went down Monday were Fire Chief C. W. Clark, and firemen Archie Keep, Alvin Jensen, Mark Tolen, Mart Beran, Harry Wolf, Warren Lincoln, Charles Lemasters and Curt Gudmundsen. Tuesday Clark, Keep, Jensen and George Anderson went down. They report more than two hundred fire fighters registered for the meet.

The program included registration, assembly, the fire school, in which fire prevention was demonstrated by J. Burr Taylor of Chicago; modern training and class assignments by Chief Harry K. Rogers of Chicago; hose and ladder evolutions; first aid, life saving and gas masks; fire department inspections; ventilating; fire stream hydraulics; salvage; public relations and minor equipment.

Tuesday evening a buffet supper was served free by the wives of the Grand Island firemen. A fire truck, suitable for country as well as city work was demonstrated during the three day's session. This is the first meeting of its kind to be held in the state, and is proving so popular that it will no doubt become a permanent institution.

Mrs. Joe Klanckey spent Monday night at the Ord hospital following injuries received in a fall.

E. E. Morgan Co. Complete Contract Machinery Will Be Shipped Elsewhere

The E. E. Morgan company of Jackson, Miss., which has been employed the greater part of the year in digging the Taylor-Ord and Burwell-Sumter ditches, as well as finishing the lower six miles of the Ord-North Loup ditch, will move its machinery ready for shipment to the next contract.

Bids were called for in December on the various canals, the total being divided into several separate sections to give bidders an opportunity to bid on all or part of the work, as they preferred. Thirty bids were submitted, and the Morgan company was found to be the low bidder on the total 68 miles of ditch, at a price of $100,650.04.

The bid was of course according to the plans and specifications on file in the engineer's office, which called for the removal of 1,437,000 cubic yards of dirt. It was found when the work progressed for some time that the original estimate was entirely too low, there being about 700,000 cubic yards more than specified. Arrangements were made with the company to complete the work, which has now been done.

Tuesday, March 23, the dirt moving machinery arrived in Ord over the Burlington on four cars, with J. E. Morgan superintendent in charge. There were two drag lines one 2½ cubic yard capacity with a 65 foot boom, and the other 3 yard capacity with a 90 foot boom. A short time later the small drag line was shipped to Olean to complete the six miles left on the Ord-North Loup ditch.

In the meantime the boom on the big drag line was shortened and the capacity of the bucket enlarged at the Work welding shop until it would move four cubic yards at a time. This line was put to work on the lower end of the Taylor-Ord ditch, about two miles northwest of Ord. When the ditch at North Loup was finished the small drag line was shipped to Sunter, where the Burwell-Sumter ditch was started.

Mr. Morgan found the work difficult because of the extremely dry weather, which made the dirt much more difficult to handle, but steady progress has been made, and he believes that the work has been done as fast as any company could have handled it. He has made many warm friends while here, and thinks the people of the valley as fine as any he has ever had the pleasure of working with.

J. E. Morgan, who superintended all the work here, has spent all his life in engineering work. For 15 years he was superintendent of construction with United States engineers, and he also spent 12 years in construction work with the Burlington railroad. The results of his ability and experience will doubtless be apparent when the water is actually flowing in the ditches.

Ord Firemen Have Fought Many Spectacular Fires in 50 Years

Since organization of the Ord volunteer fire department fifty years ago, firemen have been called upon to fight many spectacular fires which will go down in history.

From the standpoint of property damage, worst was the Bailey-Beranek fire in 1918, when financial loss was $100,000, but there have been many other disastrous blazes.

Among those of the earliest days perhaps none stands out as does the fire of between 45 and 50 years ago that completely destroyed the McCord Hotel. This was Ord's leading hotel at the time, and was the only hotel building ever to be destroyed by fire in Ord.

Another fire that is still remembered is that in which the Moore property on the hill in southwest Ord was completely destroyed. Due to the position of the property, high on the hill, and the fact that the fire had made much headway when discovered, firemen were unable to cope with it. But the firemen's rule of never giving up was strictly adhered to, and the water was kept running on the ruins until all the fire was put out.

The Scott barn fire on the site of the present Ord Co-operative Creamery is perhaps as well remembered as any, and the name is familiar because two different barns owned by the same man were burned on that site. After the first was burned the owner built a second, which was burned a few years later. After the second fire he refused to tempt fate a third time and the corner remained vacant for a number of years.

One of Ord's most spectacular fires was the first Bailey fire in March, 1911, when a fire started in the back part of the basement of the store, and when discovered it had the entire building full of smoke. The fire was a difficult one to fight, but the firemen finally got it under control after several hours' battle. It was a pleasant spring day, and the fire was watched by hundreds of people, many of whom insisted on getting in the way of the fire fighters.

Ord's most destructive fire occurred Jan. 23, 1918, just 20 years ago, when the entire Bailey block and the Beranek drug store were destroyed with a loss estimated at $100,000.00. It started in the basement of the building occupied by the Farmers Store and spread each way, taking the Golden Rule store to the north and the Beranek Drug Store to the south. It was soon seen that it was impossible to save those buildings, and the firemen confined their attention to saving the rest of the block.

The Rockhold barn on North 15th street owned by Ed Milligan was burned down Dec. 11, 1919. The Hejsek barn, south of the Koupal and Barstow Lumber office, owned by Blessing Bros., burned down June 11, 1920. It was a total loss. The original Weeks Seed House burned down April 18, 1923, the loss being $20,000.00. The Johnson and Petersen elevator burned down July 27, 1926 with an estimated loss of $25,000 on the buildings and $9,000.00 on the grain.

On April 19, 1930 the Koupal and Barta store, located on the present site of the Ord Theater, caught fire, and was eventually almost completely destroyed with a loss of $38,000.00. It was one of the most stubborn fires the fire department was ever called upon to fight. Time after time it seemed that the fire was under control, only to have it break out in a new place.

The finish of the Milford Store as a place of business came July 22, 1932, when the building caught fire. Mr. Milford had sold his stock to another party, and had retired. The firemen finally managed to save the building, but the estimated loss to the building and goods was $12,500.00. The chief effect of the fire was to put the leading business location entirely

Present Chief Fireman For Past 26 Years

CECIL W. CLARK.

Elected chief of the Ord Fire Department in 1937, Mr. Clark has been a member for the past 26 years, having joined in 1912. He was made president of the organization first in 1931, and held this responsible position 6 years. Again elected in 1937, he resigned because he was elected chief, and preferred to give his undivided attention to the work.

He was one of Ord's best known drymen when he first joined the fire department in 1912, and has been employed in that line of work ever since, except the time he was in the service of Uncle Sam on the Mexican Border and during the World War. It was his reliability and thoroughness in his work that induced his fellow firemen to choose him as chief, and they are more than pleased with results.

out of business, and it could not be rebuilt for use without making it fireproof, which has never been done.

No one needs to be reminded of the fire of just one year ago today, when the Weeks hospital caught fire and burned to the ground, largely because the firemen were unable to handle the fire without adequate water pressure. The loss was figured at $33,000.00. This fire had one good after effect. It brought the public to the realization that more adequate protection was needed for buildings on the hill, and resulted in the city council taking steps for the purchase of our new fire equipment.

Gudmundsen Is Man of Long Fire Experience

Curt Gudmundsen, foreman of the Hook and Ladder company, is a fireman of experience, although still young in years. He has been in his present position two years and his work has been very satisfactory. Like all Ord's fire fighters, he is right on the job whenever the fire whistle blows, and stays right there until the chief says it is over.

Warren Lincoln New President of Firemen

Warren Lincoln was elected president of the Ord Fire Department a year ago, succeeding C. W. Clark. He has been a member of the department for a long term of years, and his name first appears as an official in 1927-1928, when he was foreman of the chemical company. When the alarm sounds he is always on the job and usually drives a truck.

Ord Firemen Rank High In Efficiency

Since the beginning Ord's fire fighters have ranked high in their ability to get to the fire in a hurry, and also to get into action quickly when on the job. In the early days of man pulled carts this hasty business was of greatest importance, and firemen were chosen as much for their speed as for any other qualification.

With the passing of time and the addition of motorized equipment this ability is not stressed as it formerly was, and today we find a number of men still on the active list who cannot run as they did twenty or thirty years ago, but who have older heads on their shoulders and more weight to hold the nozzle in place.

In spite of the fact that running is not so essential, today's Ord firemen manage to get to the fire hall in a hurry when the alarm sounds. They were timed when an alarm was sounded not long ago, and from the time the first whistle sounded until they drove out on their way to the fire was less than two minutes.

Talk About Speed!

When the electric siren sounds to herald a fire, Ord's volunteer firemen drop everything and run.

Rex Jewett, city clerk, has made a hobby out of checking up on the time it takes Ord firemen to arrive at the city fire department and part in their modern truck to the scene of the fire.

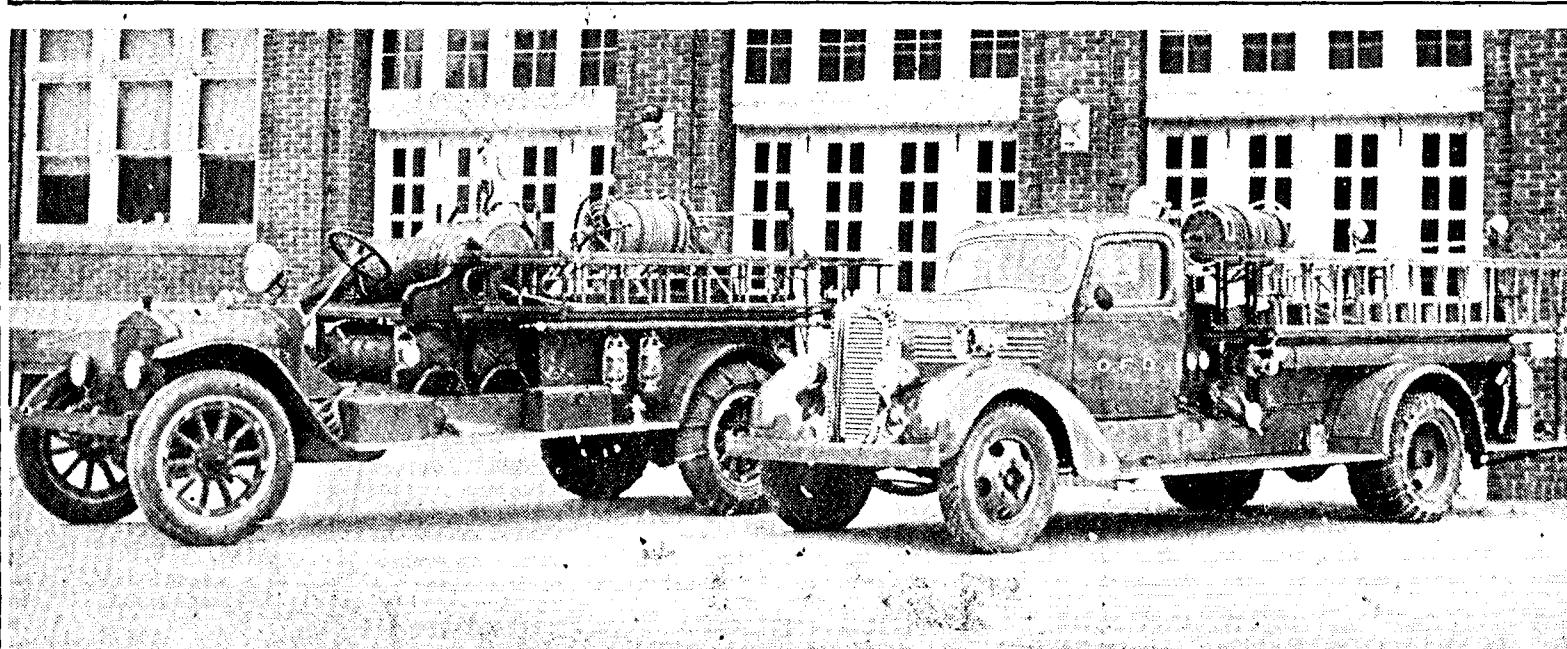

One of the fastest times yet recorded by Jewett was made only recently when both trucks were rushing to the fire in exactly two minutes and ten seconds. Firemen are timed from the time the siren first sounds until the trucks have left the city department.

Never has the time gone over the three minute mark. This is remarkably fast time for a volunteer fire department, considering the fact that firemen must leave their places of business and run to the city department. Both trucks are usually taken and both leave the city department almost simultaneously.

ORD'S MOTOR EQUIPMENT UNSURPASSED IN NEBRASKA

Few volunteer fire departments can equal, and surely none can surpass, the motorized fire equipment with which Ord's department now is prepared to fight blazes. At right is seen the new fire truck with booster pump, bought in 1937 after the disastrous Hillcrest Hospital fire made its need apparent. At left is seen the older but still serviceable fire truck used since 1921. Hose carts and hook and ladder equipment, not shown in picture, reinforce the department's fire fighting paraphernalia. All department equipment is housed in the city hall.

Jensen Fire Fighter Of Second Generation

Alvin Jensen comes by his fire fighting naturally, as his father, John K. Jensen was a fireman before him and he and two of his brothers have been members of the fire department. Like the other young fire official, Gudmundsen, Jensen was first promoted in 1936, and for the past two years has been foreman of the hose company. Jensen's name first appears in the official records back in 1924.

Fire Department Was Organized February 4, 1888

Consisted of Hose Company Only at First; History Of Department Given.

The Ord Fire Department, which last week observed its 50th anniversary, was officially organized Feb. 4, 1888. A few of the faithful had met a month or two before and taken the necessary preliminary steps for the formation of the department, but the official date of Ord's efficient fire fighting organization begins just fifty years ago. When first organized the company consisted of one hose company.

The records of the time were kept as well as could be expected for a new organization, and a number of years later Jacob P. Hoffman, then secretary, as he is today, went over all the old records and copied them, putting them into a much more compact and convenient form, and also insuring against their loss.

From his records we find that the members of Ord's original Fire Department were as follows: A. D. Robinson, J. F. Colby, W. H. Carr, H. C. Wolf, James Wida, sr., O. W. Yeager, J. G. Sharpe, Fred L. Harris, Frank Stewart, H. C. McCord, Warren Prentiss, J. C. Work, C. B. Coffin, F. J. Ayers, H. C. Briggs, M. J. Coffin, A. J. Shirley, F. E. Glover, John A. Wentworth and T. Rockhold.

Of these only two are still alive and both of these, A. J. Shirley and Frank Glover, are still living in Ord. Mr. Glover has been on the retired list for a number of years, but still takes an active interest in anything that concerns the good of the fire department. To A. J. Shirley goes the honor of still being on the job whenever the fire whistle blows, having now rounded out an active service of fifty years.

In the fall of 1891 a Hook and Ladder company was added to the fire fighting force, and on Sept. 9, 1891 the department was divided into Hose Company No. 1, and Hook and Ladder Company No. 1.

In the winter of 1896 an additional hose company was added, and Feb. 1, 1896 the department consisted of Hose Companies No. 1 and 2, and Hook and Ladder Company No. 1. In 1921 a combination hose and chemical motor truck was added to the equipment of the department and Hose Company No. 1 was changed to Chemical Company, Hose Company No. 2 to Hose Company, and Hook and Ladder Company No. 1 remained the same. In 1937 an additional Fire Motor Truck was added to the department and the Chemical Company was made Fire Company No. 1, the Hose Company was made Fire Company No. 2, and Hook and Ladder Company remained the same.

Since its organization and up to 25 years ago the following names of people still living in Ord have been added to the honor roll: In 1891, Frank Koupal and George R. Gard; in 1900, Marion Crosby and Anthony Koupal; in 1902, Guy Burrows; in 1903, Archie Bradt and Jacob Hoffman; in 1904, Frank Serhen; in 1905, Charles Hunt; in 1906, Joe Serhen.

In 1907, John J. Jensen; in 1909, L. R. Mason; in 1911, Andrew Nielsen, Archie Keep, Harry G. Dye and Frank Norman; and in 1912, C. J. Mortensen, Seth Mason and Lawrence Burger. A large number of names have been added since that time, and the earlier list includes the names of a large number who have moved away or are deceased. The honor roll of the Ord Fire Department is a list of names of which none need be ashamed.

The officers for that first year, 1888, were J. C. Work, chief; Fred L. Harris, treasurer; J. F. Colby, secretary; A. D. Robinson, foreman; J. G. Sharpe, assistant foreman. Ten years later, in 1898, the officers were H. D. Leggett, president; Frank Koupal, secretary; E. N. Mitchell, treasurer; A. J. Shirley, chief; J. L. Claffin, foreman Hose Co. No. 1; A. M. Conrod, foreman of Hose Company No. 2; J. L. McDonough, foreman of Hook and Ladder company.

Officers in 1908 were James Miford, president; O. P. Cromwell, secretary; F. E. Glover, treasurer; A. J. Shirley, chief; Archie Bradt, foreman Hose Company No. 1; Ed Bannister, foreman of Hose Company No. 2; Howard Stennett, foreman of Hook and Ladder company. Ten years later, in 1918, O. B. Mutter, president; J. P. Hoffman, secretary; Martin Costello, treasurer; A. J. Shirley, chief; Henry Misiko, foreman No. 1; H. G. Dye, foreman No. 2; Walter Bundy, foreman Hook and Ladder.

In 1928 the officers were W. E. Wolters, president; J. P. Hoffman, secretary and treasurer; A. J. Shirley, chief; W. E. Lincoln, foreman chemical company; E. T. Wooley, foreman Hose Company; John K. Jensen, foreman Hook and Ladder. This year the officers will not be chosen until next week, as it is not possible to give the personnel at this time.

The present personnel of the companies, as given by the secretary, J. P. Hoffman are as follows: Fire Co. No. 1; A. J. Shirley, Jacob P. Hoffman, Cecil Clark, W. E. Lincoln, Archie Bradt, Henry Misiko, Archie Keep, foreman, Jens Mansen, Sam J. Marks, Lawrence Burger and George Anderson. Fire Co. No. 2: W. E. Blessing, Alvin Jensen, foreman, Charles Lewis, Irvin Merrill, Mart Beran, A. W. Albers, George Jensen, Vernon Andersen, Rollin Dye, C. R. Turnblad, E. R. Horner, Ed Oetken and Chet Austin.

The Hook and Ladder company consists of Joe Rowbal, Len H. Covert, Mark Tolson, C. B. Gudmundsen, foreman, Paul Duemeyer, Ed V. Lukesh, Julius Jensen, F. V. Haught, E. E. Parkos, Chris Belchers, Charles LeMasters, Harry Wolf, L. W. Shunkweller. This makes 11 in Company No. 1, 13 in Company No. 2, and 13 in the Hook and Ladder company, or 37 in all.

3 Former Chiefs Now Live in Ord

Two of the men who founded Ord's first Fire Department fifty years ago are still with us. In 1897 he was first elected chief and from then until 1937 he was chief every year with the exception of the years 1903 and 1904, when Ord's other old timer, Frank Glover, held the position, and in 1926, when Guy Burrows was chief.

He retired in the spring of 1937, but remained on the active list. March 12, 1937 he collaborated with J. P. Hoffman and C. B. Gudmundsen in revising the constitution and by-laws of the Ord Fire Department. In the fifty years he has been a member he has never missed a fire except when he was out of town, or physically unable to be present, and that has been seldom.

It is not only as a member of the fire department that Shirley has served the City of Ord. More than fifty years ago he and his father were running a dray line, and the records show that they drew pay for this service from the city as early as 1887. The first claim under Bud's name appears in July, 1888 for services rendered in June, but he drew pay through his father before that time.

Bud continued the dray business most of the time until his duties as custodian of the city's parks required all his attention. The city records are not all available, but it is a known fact that Shirley was elected to the office of city clerk on numerous occasions, and that nomination practically meant election. He was also precinct assessor a great many times.

In 1914 he received his first monthly pay from the city for his work at Bussell park and he has spent most of his working hours there ever since. In

THE FAITHFUL MAN.

This is to be a parable: a parable of the man who had faith in his own home town, his own country, his own state and his own nation. It applies in particular to the man, and there are many of him, who came to the community in the early days of its history, and is now waiting for the old man with the scythe to call him to new fields of pioneering.

He came here first because he had faith in the country, and believed it would be a good place to live, to make a home for the girl he chose for a wife, a good place to rear his children in the fear of God and the esteem of man. He found the country a boundless prairie, with here and there a dug-out or hastily built shack that was home of those who came before him.

Filled with hope for the future he selected the piece of land upon which to make his home, hitched the oxen to the breaking plow and prepared a part of the land for crops. He knew the soil was so rich it would produce in typical Biblical abundance. The only fear he felt was that of marauding bands of Indians, and he had faith in the government's ability to cope with them.

He thought little of the storms of winter, although he knew that they must come, but spent his time in preparing so the blizzards would not find him without food and fuel. These were dangers that he knew must come and he prepared against them. But there were other hazards of which he knew nothing, or to which he gave little thought, and these were coming to test his soul.

The greatest and most unexpected disaster came in 1874 when locusts darkened the sun in their flights, and devoured every growing thing in their path. Imagine the scene of desolation when these insects had eaten their fill and had gone on to other pastures. Men of less hardy mould would have gathered up the wrecks of their hopes and driven on to other fields, or returned whence they came.

But the pioneer was made of the same clay of which all heroes are made. Obstacles were made only to be overcome. The grasshoppers would not come again. The years to come would soon hide the damage they had done. So the man remained, gathered what he could to keep him and his through the winter, and made plans to sow again in the spring. But all unknown to him, another peril was in the offing.

Following a few years in which the few acres he had broke produced abundantly, there came a summer which was comparatively dry, and as before, almost out of clear sky a new menace appeared. To the west dense clouds of brown smoke appeared, driven by a heavy wind. Before his preparations were complete that other scavenger of the plains, the prairie fire, rolled across his domain, leaving ruin in its wake.

A few seized the excuse to go back to their homes in the east, but not the hardy pioneer. Like the wife of his bosom, he took the land for better or for worse and he stayed. Hail storms, chinook bugs, drouth, searing hot winds could not shake his faith. He stayed through them all. As time went on the older men were gathered to their fathers, but the young pioneer struggled on.

Today the pioneer is represented here and there by men whose locks are gray and whose forms are bent with the weight of years. Perhaps one of them is your neighbor. If so, test his faith. Ask him what he thinks of this country in which we live, and then hang your head in shame. For you who are of little faith will find that the pioneer's faith in the land is as great today as it ever was. Perhaps he is foolish. But if he is, would to God that more of us were fools!

POINTLESS PARAGRAPHS.

The town of Sweden, N. Y., with a population of 1,100 people reports just one baby born in 1937. At this rate the population would decrease one half in less than twenty years, and there would hardly be enough to count in 40 years. That town is doomed to an early death unless the people change their ways.

But up at Burwell, a town near the same size, Philip McKenzie, local registrar, says the doctors delivered a total of 116 babies in 1937 about 50% of which should be counted as town babies. Unless a lot of people move out during the year, a town like Burwell should grow. At that rate, if kept up, the population should double in thirty years.

An exchange asks: "What has become of the old fashioned man who spent a certain amount of time each day exercising with dumbbells and Indian clubs?" His place has been taken by the young man who rides around in a car with a bunch of dumbbells and spends a certain amount of time each night running around to night clubs.

About the best definition heard of this week came from the Montreal Star, which states: A gossip is one who talks to you about others; a bore is one who talks to you about himself; a brilliant conversationalist is one who talks to you about yourself. But the best talker of all is the man who knows when to keep still, and does it.

The year 1938 will be another year of political speeches by candidates for every office in the gift of the people. Half of these promises will not be fulfilled, because the men who made them will be defeated. The other half will never be fulfilled because the men who made them had no intention of making good on their promises, win or lose.

Also this year considerable time will be taken up by politicians broadcasting political bunkum over a number of broadcasting stations. The only way to be sure of not wasting your time listening to them is to cross all the stations that permit it off your radio log. An even safer way would be to disconnect the radio until after election.

On the other hand, while politics is bunk, it is probably no worse than to listen to a long winded discourse on some patent, medicine, some special brand of beer, the virtues of cigarettes or to listen to the so-called music of some of the $3.00 a day radio artists that some of the stations inflict upon the public.

How Buster Earnest Got Police Job
About Dog Parties.
Should Have Burned*Twice Told Tale.

Milt Ernest, who is visiting here from LaMesa, Calif., was telling me yesterday of his son, Lester, (Buster) and how he happened to get on the police force out there, which is quite a good job and Buster likes it very well. Milt insisted the story had been in the papers here but if it was most of us have forgotten it and it will bear repeating in any event.

The grocery store which Milt owned and in which Buster worked was straight across the street from the American National bank. It was an open front store and Buster and another man who worked for them were busy on the walk caring for their business when across the street they saw a man and woman come running out of the bank, the woman screaming at the top of her voice and hanging desperately to the man.

For an instant Buster and the helper could not understand it. Then they noticed the lady was bleeding about the face and so the two thought it was an accident and started across the street to help. They had gone only a few yards when they saw the man had a gun and he was hitting the lady with a gun. As soon as they saw the gun they realized it was a hold up and the helper high-tailed it back to the store, not wanting to be a dead hero.

Buster had no notion of turning back any more than he ever did playing football in the old days. He plowed right into the man and downed him. The lady helped and another man standing near jumped in and helped too and in an instant they had the bandit conquered. It was only a few minutes until the police came and helped too and only a few minutes more until the newspaper men came and in less than two hours special editions were out all over the country telling of it. But Buster went back to the store and would not let his picture go into the papers, and that, Milt thinks, was one reason he was later offered the job on the force.

We Have Parties Too.

In the Sunday World-Journal of a week ago a whole page was given over to a dog party held in Omaha. Invitations were sent to each dog with the request that they bring their masters along and for them to R.S.V.P. This they all did and signed their names, (the dog's name) by placing the paw on the acceptance. Every one (that is every dog) attended and a happy time was had and the lunch was in the form of a lap supper.

You don't understand? Well, it was lap in two ways. Many of the dogs were held on the laps of their mistress, and then when it came to the soup—oh excuse me! You read it too!

I was a little amused at it all. We have dog parties out in this country every night or two, and to my knowledge, this column is the only one that ever mentions it.

And never yet to my knowledge has the Ord Quiz (and who said it is not as good a paper as the W.H.) printed a dozen pictures and given a whole page for one dog party.

Now I must retrace and tell of the whole affair. There were three bandits. One went behind the cage, and one stood in front, one stayed in the car outside.

While the man in front was scooping up the money a lady came up and laid down $600.00 to deposit and the bandit grabbed it along with the other and pushed it into the bag.

The lady when she saw what it was all about, was not of the notion of losing her six hundred so easily. She nearly went hysterical and scrambled right onto the bandit outside the cage.

This attracted the attention of the bandit in the cage and the banker saw he was unaware, and position for several years before his death.

And Mr. Cushing is making a dandy head man for Kearney normal, following years in which he was the deputy and main bulwark of the state superintendent of schools at Lincoln while his boss, Charles Taylor, was ill.

AAA Officials' Advice Not Wanted
as Congress Writes Own Farm Bill

BY SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON—For the first time since 1933 Congress will vote on a farm bill of its own writing. It has served unofficial notice to Department of Agriculture officials and AAA chiefs that their advice is not wanted. The AAA and the department don't like this a bit.

What's more the farm bill is the only measure which Congress shows any serious intention of passing.

Its mulishness about the farm bill is bringing cheer to those who have been exhorting the two Houses to make some pretense of independence. "Cut the lines to the White House" is an old cry which passage of the farm bill should silence at least temporarily.

MARVIN JONES chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, and Senator John Bankhead of Alabama are the conference chiefs and they knew what they wanted at the outset.

It wasn't thought necessary to approach even Secretary Wallace for words of advice or encouragement. As a result department and AAA bigwigs are certain the bill will be unworkable. They are publicly washing their hands of the whole affair.

That's why lobbyists keep up the old refrain: "What could be sweeter than a sugar bill?"

Man's Use of the Sabbath

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Feb. 13

Text: Mark 2:23-36

BIGOTRY and prejudice, rather than vital and intelligent convictions, are likely to result when our observance of a principle becomes formal and conventional. Even sound principles and worthwhile customs lose something of their reality under such circumstances.

A distinctive institution of Judaism in the days of Jesus was the Sabbath. It was a noble institution based upon a fine conception and a sense of human need. It was the precursor of the Christian Sunday, which many Christians prefer to call the Sabbath, linking it with the Jewish institution rather than with the pagan derivation from which the word "Sunday" comes.

There is no doubt whatever that Jesus, as a sincere and devout Jew, highly regarded the Sabbath; but He found this noble institution given over in the minds of many people to purely formal observance, and to mere observance of a sort that utterly disregarded all sense of deeper human need and of higher human values.

When He healed a man upon the Sabbath Day, instead of rebuking that a fellow mortal had found health, the narrow people for whom observance of the Sabbath had become a matter of prejudice and bigotry found fault because the man had been healed on the Sabbath Day.

Our lesson tells how the disciples, as they went through the grain fields on the Sabbath Day and were hungry, plucked the ears and began to eat the wheat, just as many of us, when we were boys, have done. With these disciples it was a matter of sheer hunger.

Why should they not have taken the food that was near at hand and required no work in the palm of the hand and winnowing it? Yet the bigots complained that these disciples were breaking the Sabbath.

It was under these circumstances that Jesus asserted in the plainest way that "the Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath." That is a principle that we might establish and practice in the whole range of customs and observances.

When customs and observances become exalted to a place where they supplant human values and human needs, it is time to protest in the name of humanity, and it is sound to protest in the name of God.

In our modern world, of course, the whole matter is in a measure reversed. We tend today to have lost all sense of sanctity concerning a day of rest, to say nothing of the Jewish or Christian Sabbath.

It will be recognized that in our modern complex world it would be impossible to arrange everything on a basis of old-fashioned or strict observance of Sunday. It would mean that vast numbers of people would be subjected to great inconvenience, and possibly even to hunger and distress. We could not stop and paralyze our whole mechanism of life at certain hours.

Nevertheless, it is not for the good of humanity or for the world that we have so far abandoned the possible observance of Sunday as a day of rest, and above all, the spirit of the institution.

If Jesus were in our cities today, I think possibly He might put the emphasis on a different place. We might think of Him as saying, "The Sabbath was made for man. Why doesn't man make better use of it?"

Blizzard Survivors Of Dist. 47 Hold Reunion

Six blizzard survivors of Dist. No. 47 on upper Davis Creek held a reunion at the George Houtby home Tuesday. They were M. D. and C. O. Ernest, now of LaMesa, Calif.; George Houtby, Mrs. Billings Clark of North Loup; Mrs. Blanche Leonard and Mrs. Walter Cummins. These and Walter Cummins, were guests for dinner at the Houtby home.

In 1888 the school was held in a sod house 1½ miles northwest of the present location. The house had been built by a settler who went off and left it, and was located on the Jake Earnest homestead. As the pupils recalled it, the building was about ten by fourteen feet inside with a window on each side and a door in one end.

The teacher was Miss Mollie Newcomer, who later married Sam Upright, and who still lives in Lincoln. At the height of the storm three men, Ed Houtby, Pat Braden and A. Sutton, came to the school house and took the children to the Houtby home, one mile away where they were taken care of until after the storm.

Ord's 2-Year Reign In Mid Six Circuit Broken By Indians

Custer County Team Edged Out Chanticleers Tuesday Eve, Score Was 26 to 23.

Inability to make free throws cost Ord high's basketball team their lead in the 1938 Mid Six basketball race Tuesday night. In a sizzling hot game on the Ord floor, the scrappy, fast-breaking Broken Bow squad floored the Ordsters, 26 to 23.

One of the largest crowds to witness an Ord high basketball game on the local floor turned out for the Tuesday night game. Officials state that over 400 people were present, gate receipts reaching the $65 mark.

Their defeat at the hands of Broken Bow brought Ord high school's two year reign of the Mid Six athletic conference to an abrupt end.

It wasn't because they didn't try that the Chanticleers went down to defeat, as the game was battle from start to finish. At the end of the third quarter the Ordsters were trailing 18 to 22. Plenty of scoring opportunities were offered in the final quarter but the Ord offensive machine had blown "higher than a kite."

Out of 12 free shots the Ordsters made only seven as compared with the ten opportunities given Broken Bow, eight of which they made. At the half the Metz-coached Bow squad held a 16-14 advantage over Ord. Zulkoski and Severson tipped two through the hoop early in the third stanza and it looked as though the Chanticleers were about to stage one of their well-known third quarter rallies. A tiny but mighty Bow forward, Dean, soon quelled the Chanticleer attack however as he put three through the basket in quick succession.

Tockey and Dean, Broken Bow forwards, took scoring honors with eight points each. Zulkoski led the Chanticleers with seven counters, followed closely by Severson with six. Tunnicliff, Ord's old "stand-by" when it comes to scoring, made a sensational long shot in the first few moments of play and then closed up like a clam for the remainder of the game.

In the preliminary contest, Ord junior high whitewashed the Broken Bow Juniors, 26 to 9. Barnes, Misko and Tunnicliff did heavy scoring for the Ordites, while Hatch and Prescott were the only Bow players to sink baskets during the entire game.

Ord All-Stars Will Play the Eaton Oilers

What promises to be a "battle royal" will take place in the Ord opera house Sunday afternoon when the Ord All Stars tangle with the Eaton Oilers of Ravenna.

Horace Farmer Creates Home-Made Tractor

Lacking the funds to purchase a factory-built tractor, Dan Vogel, farmer near Horace, has constructed his own tractor. The tractor is powered by a 1929 Chevrolet six cylinder motor and attains speeds of as high as 25 miles per hour. Dan Vogel, right and his son Edward Vogel are standing beside their completed tractor.

Tractor Has Power, Cheap To Operate

When interested spectators scan Don Vogel's home-made tractor, they all express the opinion that he's "got something there."

In constructing the tractor, which took about two weeks of actual labor, Vogel used the radiator from a Nash, the motor from a Chevrolet, and the rear end from an old Ford truck.

In his blacksmithing shop, Vogel forged necessary joints together, cut threads where needed, and built the axle for the front wheels. The tractor has a double transmission system and the two gear shift levers may be glimpsed in the picture.

Every necessary accessory is to be found on the tractor, including brakes and headlights for working in the field at night. Dual wheels are fitted on the rear of the tractor and if needed a third wheel on each side may be added to improve traction. When using the tractor in the field, several blocks of cement are placed on the rear to weight down the wheels and gain more traction.

Vogel says that his tractor will pull an 8-foot binder out of half as much fuel oil as a manufactured machine will use. In a trial test the tractor hit a top speed of 25 miles per hour.

Before turning to farming as an occupation Vogel was a mechanic. For a long period of years he was employed in one of the leading automobile repair shops in Lincoln.

Chanticleers Come Back In Second Half To Trample Apostles, 30 to 17

It's getting to be an old tradition in the Chanticleer basketball camp—this coming back in the second half to snare a victory. As long as the Chanticleers don't forget to rally in the second half of every game, it is a fine thing.

With the Ordsters leading 13 to 12 at the half, Coach Brockman's lads staged a second half rally Friday night to topple the St. Paul Apostles, 30 to 17, in a Mid Six conference game on the St. Paul floor.

During the first half, Tunnicliff, Dahlin and Cetak carried the brunt of the Chanticleer attack while Zulcoski and Hughes led the Ordsters during the final half. Only five points were scored by the Apostles during the last half, while the Ord quint rolled in 17 plunkers.

Don Tunnicliff was high point man, scoring nine counters. Dahlin followed close behind with eight. W. Nelson was the big show for the Apostles as he dumped in a total of eight points for Paulites. The box score:

Murphy-Did-Its Will Play in Ord

League officials announced this week that a game between the crack Murphy-Did-It basketball team of Omaha and the Ord All Stars will be played on the Ord floor late in February. Considerable trouble is being experienced by managers of both teams in securing a playing date that does not conflict with other activities.

The Murphy-Did-It quint is the top team in the Omaha inter-city conference and has not a single defeat against their record thus far this year. Seven players make up the squad and all are over six foot in height. Included in their line-up are several Creighton and Univ. of Nebraska basketball stars.

Four games are all that remain on the All Star schedule for this season, however there are several open dates which will undoubtedly be filled in a short time. Definitely arranged games include: Feb. 7, Ravenna CCC; Feb. 9, Palmer; Feb. 11, Arnold; Feb. 27, G. I. Wolbachs.

Jr. High Basketball Tourney To Be Held

In Ord On Feb. 18-19

Ord high school officials announced this week that an invitational junior high basketball tournament will be held at Ord on Feb. 18-19, directly after the Loup Valley tournament is held at Burwell.

Schools to whom invitations have been sent include St. Paul, Broken Bow, Ravenna, Arcadia, Loup City, Burwell, Sargent and North Loup. If any of these schools fail to accept the invitation, other schools will be asked to attend. Eight schools will be entered and pairings for the tourney will be announced soon.

Boy Scout Week Being Celebrated

This is Boy Scout Week, and as such is being celebrated wherever Boy Scouts are to be found. The week has special significance in Ord, as a Boy Scout troop is now in the process of development here. Ralph Misko is the scoutmaster, and his assistants are Ed Whelan and Wilmer Anderson.

A great deal of interest is being shown in the movement here, and there will be plenty of Scouts, if all who are interested actually join. One of the things Boy Scouts are constantly working for, and especially during Boy Scout Week, is a campaign for safety driving. It is notable fact that in towns where the Boy Scouts are active, the loss of life and injury from car accidents is less than in other towns of similar size.

The Boy Scouts of America was incorporated Febr. 8, 1910, and chartered by Act of Congress, June 15, 1916. The movement is to furnish a wholesome outlet for the activities of young boys by cultivating outdoor sports under wise leadership, and at the same time instill moral principles that will make them upright men and good citizens.

As an organization the Scouts rendered sterling service to the government during the World War. They were a valuable factor in the Liberty Loan campaigns. They assisted in dozens of other activities. There are now more than half a million boys in the organization which has for its significant motto, "Be Prepared."

What Other Editors Are Saying

The Palmer Journal.—The Palmer town basketball team plays Ord here Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. This promises to be one of the best games Palmer has on its schedule. Ord is one of the three teams that have beaten Palmer this year so far.

Spalding Enterprise.—Mr. and Mrs. M. McBeth came home Tuesday from a visit at Joplin, Mo., with her sister. Mrs. Jerry Puncchar and son Edward were in Grand Island Friday to consult the doctor as to the latter's health. He found Edward improving nicely.

The Scotts Register.—Tuesday J. V. Maddox assumed ownership of the Loup Theatre having purchased it from the group of Scotts men of which he was one, the others being Henry Brethauer, Dan Sautter, C. A. Krebs, J. M. Fox and R. A. Lincoln, who purchased it last summer from Jack R. Hepp.

This comparison shows that on the average taxes are lighter in Nebraska in spite of the fact that all the states used in the comparison have special taxes that are not included in the above tabulation. Add to this the fact that Nebraska does not have and never did have, any bonded indebtedness, and the fact is the more remarkable.

In writing to the Quiz a short time since a writer called the public's attention to the fact that if money for taxes was not raised by one means it must be raised by another, and that the lack of special taxes would indicate that the Nebraska taxpayers are paying more than their just share of the tax. The above figures show that he is not paying more, but less, per capita, than his neighbors.

Cold Storage Plant Ablaze, Damages Of $3,000.00 Estimated

Ord Firemen Fought Stubborn Blaze for 2 Hours; the Freezing Plant Unhurt.

Damages estimated at from $2,500 to $3,000 resulted last Wednesday evening when the Ord Cold Storage plant owned by Frank Piskorski caught fire at about 7:45 and kept Ord firemen busy for two hours before the blaze was conquered. It was one of the most stubborn fires the department here has ever combated, says Chief Cecil Clark.

Confined to the south wall, the roof and the space above the false ceiling of the big building formerly owned by the Ravenna Creamery company, the fire broke into the open time and time again though tons of water were poured on it.

Rooms housing cold storage lockers were not affected by the blaze, in fact temperature of the freezing room stood at 20 above zero, or 12 degrees below freezing point, when the fire in the south half of the building was extinguished. Meat and other food products stored in the plant were not damaged.

The fire apparently was caused by an overheated stove pipe and started in a wall of the building, near the office. Bill Sowers, a plant employee, discovered the blaze, and shouted the news to Richard Piskorski, who was in the office and who immediately called the fire department. Jim Cetak, another employee, also was in the office.

Both fire trucks reached the scene within three minutes after the alarm sounded. The new fire truck was parked near the Guy Burrows service station and a hydrant on that corner was used. The booster pump on the truck worked

Loup Valley Cage Meet Under Way, Ord Quint Wins 2

Burwell Upsets Loup City in First Round, 27-18; Semifinals Are Tonight.

Burwell—(Special)—First round of play in the Loup Valley tournament got under way here Tuesday afternoon with "red hot" basketball games featuring the afternoon and evening performances.

Ord high school's quintet, favored to win the tourney, experienced no trouble in dispensing with their first two opponents, halting Taylor, 33-10 and blasting St. Paul, 47-18. Tonight Ord will play Burwell in the semi-finals.

Coach Riggs' Burwell five provided the big upset in the first round of play as the Burwell team plastered a decisive 27 to 18 defeat on the touted and much-favored Loup City squad.

North Loup's cagers came near providing a second upset as they played Arcadia neck-and-neck until the last minute of play when Arcadia cashed in on a field goal for a 27 to 26 win. Coach Wills' Loupers played an excellent brand of basketball but were unable to forge ahead of the Arcadians.

Dannebrog coasted along easily in their lower bracket position, scalping Scotia, 30-16, and spilling Constock, 35 to 29. Dannebrog's easy route will come to an end tonight however as the Dines come up against Arcadia in the semi-finals of the tournament. Both teams appear to be about equal in strength and there is much interest in the game between the two teams.

Examiners Here Tomorrow.

7½ Inches Snow On Ground This Morning—Travis

When Valley county people woke Tuesday morning they had the first sight of winter they have had in 1938. One and one half inches of snow had fallen in the night, according to weather man Horace Travis, and he predicted that, as much more would probably fall during the day. The early morning temperature was 18 above, but during the forenoon the wind turned to the north and the mercury fell steadily most of the day. The snow continued through most of the night and some was still falling this morning. The amount this morning was 7½ inches, with a moisture content of .70 of an inch. The coldest temperature during the night was 4 above zero. Warmer weather is in prospect for this afternoon and Thursday.

W. Gail Gifford Dies of Sarcoma

Weeks of Suffering End for Pretty Ord Young Woman; Funeral Was Friday.

After many months of suffering with sarcoma, Gail Gifford, 26, died Feb. 9, at the Ord hospital, where she has been tenderly cared for the past two months. Gail was born April 5, 1911 at Ord, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gifford. Most of her life has been spent in Ord and Burwell. She attended grade school in Burwell and Malden Valley, graduating from the Ord high school in 1929.

Following her graduation she taught two years in the rural schools of Valley county, one year each at No. 54 and No. 51. She gave up her teaching in order to care for her mother, who was suffering from cancer. Her mother passed away in June, 1935. Following her mother's death her home was broken up and she acted as companion to Mrs. H. E. Sides of Lincoln until the time she was stricken with her fatal illness. All that medical skill could do was tried, but to no avail.

Gail was of an honest, generous nature, loving the beautiful. She had pleasure in giving to her friends and relatives, especially at Christmas time. She was an intense reader and even until a few days before her passing she enjoyed reading and the radio. Her last days were made as pleasant as could be by the countless remembrances and kindnesses of friends and relatives.

She leaves to mourn her passing her father, Frank Gifford of Nampa, Idaho, her brother, Thurston Gifford of Boulder, Colo., two uncles, Roscoe Garnick of Elyria, and Dale Garnick of Boulder, Colo., a number of cousins and a great many friends. Funeral services were conducted from Frazer's Chapel at 2:00 p. m. Friday, with Rev. Mearl C. Smith of the Ord Methodist church in charge and interment was made in the Ord cemetery.

Auto Number Sales Ahead of Last Year

A checkup Saturday showed that a total of 2361 auto, truck and trailer numbers had been issued at that time, as compared with 2036 for the same period last year. This is partly accounted for, of course, by the open winter. However, a difference of 325, or more than 15%, is quite noticeable. Ninety of the first one hundred numbers are taken, and 796 out of the first one thousand. A large per cent of the numbers remaining will be taken by car owners who do not buy their licenses until spring.

Six Coyotes That'll Never Kill Chickens Again—and Some of the Crowd that Killed Them

"Most fun I ever had in my life," was the comment made by one of the many Ord men who took part in a big coyote hunt near North Loup Friday morning. Forty-nine sections of land were covered, and when the round-up was made six coyotes were killed. Here is shown a portion of the crowd of 400 that took part in the hunt, and also the coyotes.—Quiz Photo.

400 Hunters Kill 6 Coyotes in Hunt West of No. Loup

Animals Brought $2.50 to $5 Each When Auctioned Off; Another Hunt Planned.

One of the largest and most successful coyote hunts ever staged in Valley county took place Friday under the leadership of Will Vogeler of North Loup. Six coyotes were killed by the four hundred hunters, who came from Scotia, North Loup, Ord, Horace and many farm communities.

Forty-nine sections of land east of North Loup were covered by the hunters, the territory lying between North Loup and the Ord-Loup City highway. Final round-up took place on the Frazer-Muligan section, which was located directly in the center of the seven mile square taken in by the hunters. This section made an ideal spot for a round-up as there are roads on all sides of it. When the lines reached the roads they were stopped. At a given signal all of the lines surged in to the center at once, making it impossible for the cornered coyotes to sneak away through open spots in the lines.

Captains did fine work in keeping their lines together and must be given a portion of the credit for the success of the hunt. Captains included Ed Lange, Andy Glenn, Jim Vogeler and James Bremer. All who took part in the hunt were careful with their shooting and not an accident was reported.

After the round-up the coyotes were auctioned off to the highest bidders, bringing from $2.50 to $5.00 each. The hunt started at 10:00 Friday morning and was completed shortly after 12:00 that noon. Lunch was served by the North Loup Rebekahs from a lunch counter in a building on the old John Miller place, near the scene of the final round-up.

Great numbers of Ord hunters were on hand for the Friday hunt and were so enthusiastic over the success of the hunt that another is being planned for this Friday. Three coyotes escaped through the lines on the North Loup hunt and an effort will be made to capture these as well as any others that may be lurking about.

Firemen Hold Annual Election of Officers

Friday evening was the date for the Ord firemen to hold their annual election of officers. A good attendance and active interest helped complete the work in quick time. W. E. Lincoln was re-elected president and Mark Tolen was elected secretary-treasurer to replace Jacob Hoffman, who figured he had done his full share with 18 years service and refused to consider another term.

Cecil Clark was re-elected chief, and appointed Archie Bradt as assistant chief. Archie Bradt was re-elected foreman of No. 1 company and Warren Lincoln trustee; Mart Beran was elected foreman of No. 2 company and Charles Lewis trustee; C. B. Gudmundsen was re-elected foreman of the hook and ladder company and Harry Wolf trustee.

Value of Grain Sorghum As Hog Feed Will Be Shown at St. Paul

Valley county farmers will have an opportunity at St. Paul on February 26 to personally inspect two lots of hogs fed sorghum and corn. The event will be a district sorghum livestock field day.

The hogs will come direct from the Franklin county test wherein locally produced grain sorghum is being compared to corn. A truck load of the animals, some from each of the two lots, will be on display at the meeting which is to be an afternoon session. Exact comparisons between the quality of the animals fed on the two grains can be made there.

The afternoon session will be given over to the discussion of the feeding value of grain sorghums for not only hogs but also other classes of livestock. Walter Tolman, extension animal husbandman from the College of Agriculture, will point out differences in the Franklin test which is to be completed February 22 and will also report upon other experimental work being conducted at the Nebraska experiment station and elsewhere.

Farmers intending to plant sorghums in 1938 will have an opportunity to get the latest information on varieties and cultural practices also at this gathering. Elvin F. Frolik, assistant extension agronomist, is to be present to explain this phase of the production of sorghums. He will lay special emphasis on the adaptability of various varieties and make recommendations as to cultural practices.

Details also on the pasture-forage-livestock program are to be divulged at the farm meeting also which is a district affair. County Agricultural Agent C. C. Dale intends to take a delegation of farmers to the meeting. Further details as to the time and place will be published next week.

Taxpayers League Will Make Survey In County Offices

State Organization Solicited Funds Here; Comparative Cost To Be Shown.

Cost of county government in Valley county as compared to costs in other Nebraska counties of similar size will be revealed by a survey to be conducted here this spring, said Frank G. Arnold, president of the Federation of Nebraska Taxpayers Leagues late last week.

The audit, or survey, will be made by Federation auditors who will start work here in 60 to 90 days, as soon as they complete a similar survey to be made in Custer county.

Last week Edwin F. Myers, of Broken Bow, a director of the Federation, was in Ord soliciting funds to defray expense of making the Valley county survey, and Saturday it was announced by President Arnold, from his office at Fullerton, that enough money had been pledged or was in prospect to assure the survey being made.

Auditors employed by the Federation, thoroughly experienced through their work in other counties, will go through records of every Valley county office to find out how much this county pays for all supplies purchased, how salaries, wages and other items of expense in Valley county compare with other counties, and go into all receipts and expenditures over a period of years to determine how efficiently business of the county has been and is being conducted.

"Today when taxes are taking such a large part of the taxpayer's income, it is necessary in the interest of good government that there should be available an accurate

Fair Board To Hold Meeting Friday Eve

Directors of the Valley county fair association will hold a meeting Friday evening and at that time decide tentatively whether or not a fair will be held this year and what form of entertainment should be offered, in case a fair is held. Any decision they make will be dependent on crop conditions in mid-summer, probably.

It already has been decided to hold the 1938 fair at a later date than usual, if one is held, and the week of September 12 has been tentatively decided on.

Considerable sentiment exists for abandonment of auto racing as the main attraction and substitution of some other form of entertainment, or holding auto races only one day and use some other form of entertainment the other two days. The question of a free gate also is to be discussed.

Farm Security Staff To Lincoln Meeting

The local Farm Security staff, including Albin Novy, county supervisor, J. Marvin Brokaw, assistant supervisor, and Mrs. Vera Andersen, clerk, attended a conference Thursday and Friday, February 10 and 11 which was held at the Cornhusker Hotel at Lincoln. This conference was the first of its kind, including the entire Farm Security office staffs of this state. Various phases of the rehabilitation program were discussed by L. A. White, state director, Cal A. Ward, regional director and Milo Perkins, assistant administrator.

One of the major changes to take place in this program is the delegation of more authority to local supervisors thus eliminating delay in the regional office. The local staff reported a very successful and inspirational meeting.

Tom Springer Rents Store. Tom Springer has leased the Bailey store building on the west side of the square, occupied for many years by the Crosby Hardware, and this week painters and carpenters started work of redecorating in preparation for its occupancy by the Springer Variety Store.

On the first ballot the vote was as follows: Norman 37; Fafeita 33; Miller 34; Pullen 36; Dale 12; Heuck 14; Sack 13; Barla 8. Then another written ballot was taken on the four receiving the most votes, result being: Norman 37; Fafeita 13; Miller 14; Pullen 33.

A motion was made, seconded and passed that Norman and Pullen, who had received the highest vote, be the unanimous choice of the caucus and be urged to file for directorships. Both men were present and each spoke briefly, thanking the group for its expression of confidence and agreeing to get into the race and, if elected, to represent Ord and the district to the best of their ability.

On suggestion of Ign. Klima, Jr., it was decided to make the caucus permanent organization to function until after election, and Chairman Misko was directed by motion to appoint a committee to further candidates of Hather, Norman and Pullen, and also that of Brownell if he files for reelection.

Ord people attending the caucus Monday evening are regarded as representative of this community as a whole, and it is the hope of the group that the whole community will join in supporting the men endorsed in this public manner Monday, to the end that Ord may have the best representation on the board of directors in 1939 and thereafter.

Valley County Receives Allotment For Sewing

Included among them was one allotting $6,830 to Ord to operate sewing rooms in Valley county.

Caucus of Citizens Endorses Four For Irrigation Board

Hather, Norman and Pullen Agree to File At once; Names of 11 Voted On.

About fifty people, most of them Ord business men, attended a meeting held Monday evening in the Legion hall, purpose of which was to suggest and endorse for election to the board of directors of the North Loup irrigation district, men who will adequately represent the interests of this city and community.

The terms of four present members expire this year, and the vacancies thus resulting must be filled by reelection of the same four men or their replacement by others. R. E. Brownell, of Burwell, R. C. Bailey, W. O. Zanger and Dr. F. A. Barta, are the directors whose terms expire.

After taking a series of ballots Monday evening, the caucus endorsed the candidacy of Ralph Brownell, and directed that a letter urging him to file for reelection be transmitted to him; endorsed W. J. Hather as farmer-member of the board, and endorsed Ralph W. Norman and Val Pullen as other board members. Hather, Norman and Pullen will file for offices at once, it is understood.

Tom W. Springer, vice-president of the Ord Chamber of Commerce, called the meeting to order Monday evening, and John P. Misko was chosen permanent chairman and Alfred A. Wiegardt secretary.

First matter to be discussed was that of Mr. Brownell. Various speakers pointed out that the community of Ord should not attempt to "hog" directorships, that Brownell has been an able member, and that since he is a resident of Burwell, that community should have the right to reelect him or elect a member to succeed him, should he not file for reelection.

On motion of Gould B. Flagg, seconded by George Allen, unanimous endorsement of Brownell's work as an irrigation director was given and a letter urging him to file and pledging the support of the caucus to his candidacy was directed to be mailed.

LOCAL NEWS

Pranksters are finding all kinds of employment in Ord.

The night of the Firemen's Ball, Hash McGrew and his cohorts, Barbers Shunkweller and Martin, had a good time, did not get to bed very early. So next morning the barber shop did not open very early either.

Friends, seeing the shop locked up, thought to have a little fun. They took some beer cases, empty whiskey bottles and other such paraphernalia, stacked them in front of the shop. Crowning the pile they stuck a sign reading "Open at 2:00 P.M." or something similar, and considered it a grand practical joke.

The barbers were duly impressed when they came to work.

So were the owners of the building, who either saw the evidence or heard about it, for they requested possession of their rooms now used by the barber shop. Repercussions of the work of the jokesters were a little more severe than they planned. But maybe the stern edict of the owners was countermanded when explanations were made as anyway, Hash's shop hasn't moved.

May Drill For Oil

Near Calamus River

Quest for oil in Nebraska may be attempted soon near Taylor. Definite decision on whether or not a well will be sunk depends on the report of J. F. Norton, a Lincoln geologist, who is making a study of the land at the present time.

Fifteen thousand acres of Loup county land are under lease to the Homestead company, it has been reported.

Testing will be carried out along the Calamus river north of Taylor following reports that oil had been noted in river water for some time during high water periods.

Thesplans Present Program.

Wednesday evening, the Thesplans Dramatic club of Ord high school, presented an evening of entertainment for the purpose of raising money to send the declamatory contestants to the district contest at Gothenburg. This entertainment consisted of two one-act plays, "On Vengeance Height," and "The Maker of Dreams," a fantasy. A large crowd attended this program. Special musical numbers were given by the music department. These were the cornet trio, composed of James Ollis, Gerald Stoddard and Gerald Jirak, and the string quartet composed of Margie Jean Smith, Wilma Ollis, Marilyn Dale and Emil Krikac. Before the performance the senior high school orchestra played several selections.

H. Losee Writes.

Writing to the Quiz from Chico, Calif., where he now lives, H. Losee says he reads in the Nebraska papers where the school teachers here are getting about as much as the paupers are in California, and says he believes the only remedy for this condition is a high protective tariff. He believes that instead of taking off the tariff as has been done in many cases, the remedy is to put more on. He says that a real protective tariff would exclude foreign goods for local competition, especially meats and butter from the Argentine, which are wrecking the farmer's markets for these products. He writes that Mrs. Losee has been in the hospital ten months with a broken hip. He and his wife are both 83 years old. He formerly farmed in Geranum township, and his wife once taught school in Ord.

Garfield County

Plaintiff in Case

District Judge E. G. Kroger Thursday took under advisement ruling on a demurrer filed in the district court of Garfield county in which the county is plaintiff and the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance company and Jesse L. Pearl, county treasurer, are defendants. Garfield county is seeking to determine whether the defendant bonding company, carriers of County Treasurer Pearl's bond, are liable for collection of funds in two Garfield county banks which closed while the county had funds approximating $22,000 on deposit.

According to allegations in the suit, the banks had not given the title of security for the deposits which the statute requires, but had pledged certain customers' notes as security, and the procedure had been approved by the Garfield county board. The question which the court was asked to decide concerned whether the approval of the securities by the county board released the county treasurer and the bonding company from liability.

curate and dependable source of information for the protection of both the taxpayer and efficient public officials," says Mr. Arnold, the Federation head.

"The mere fact that money has been legally raised and records legally kept as regards its expenditure is not enough. Not only by comparisons of year by year costs but by comparison of costs with other counties approximately the same in area, population and topography, can a fair and accurate analysis be made of the value received for the taxpayer's dollar."

"It should be remembered that any department of local government which spends the taxpayer's money in a wasteful and inefficient manner is not only working a hardship upon the taxpayer, but is likewise placing at a disadvantage those departments of government which are operating in an economical and efficient manner in the same county."

"Therefore these audit-surveys are primarily in the interest and for the protection of god government."

A large proportion of Ord business men, all county officers except one and several Arcadia business men have contributed to the cost of making a survey here, said Mr. Myers before he left the county Friday. He will return later for a day to see a few Ord men who were out of town last week, and to call on North Loup people and give them a chance to contribute toward the survey."

R. J. Clark quietly celebrated his 74th birthday Sunday. Due to the illness of Mrs. C. W. Clark no family celebration was planned, but Mr. and Mrs. Robert Noll took him and Ansel, who is here visiting from Colorado, to the Thorne Cafe for dinner. Mr. Clark can qualify as one of the few remaining earliest settlers, as the family came to the valley in 1872, when R. J. was eight years of age, and he has spent 66 years here. He has some vivid recollections of blizzards, prairie fires, grasshoppers and similar catastrophes.

splendidly and gave firemen all the pressure they could ask for.

The fire made great headway in sawdust-insulated walls of the building and just before firemen arrived it broke into the open and could be seen from all parts of town. It seemed at that stage that the whole building was doomed but firemen soon had two streams of water playing into the interior, one from a north window and another from a window on the west side, and flames soon gave way to dense clouds of smoke and steam.

The building has a galvanized tin roof, which held the fire under cover. Long after fire in the lower part of the building had been put out, flames could still be seen in the cupola showing that the roof beneath its tin covering was still ablaze. Finally Mart Beran and George Anderson climbed precariously to the top of the big building and with axes chopped the cupola away, permitting the use of water where remaining flames were seen. By 10 o'clock the fire was out and fire trucks left the scene, though a guard was kept there throughout the night. A little later an incipient blaze started at one place in the roof but it was easily extinguished.

To members of the fire department the owner, Mr. Piskorski, gives full credit for saving the building. Had they not responded to the alarm so quickly and worked so ably under the difficulty of freezing temperatures, the building would have burned, he believes.

Damages are estimated at from $2,500 to $3,000 by Piskorski, who says it was partly covered by insurance.

The building was remodeled for use as a cold storage plant only a few months ago at heavy expense, and Mr. Piskorski feels lucky that the damage was no greater.

Repairs will be made at once, he says, and in the meantime the plant will continue in operation as before the fire, since freezing apparatus was not damaged.

Thursday morning electricians replaced wiring that burned out and the electric motors that operate freezing units were operating within a short time.

The Hit Paraders' Ord's newest band, furnished music for the 200 dancers who were present. The hall was beautifully decorated in accordance with the Valentine theme.

Junior Hi Tourney To Open Friday, Ord Is Favored

Seven schools have definitely stated that their junior high teams will play in the invitational junior high basketball tournament which will get under way in the Ord high gymnasium Friday afternoon.

The best teams in the Mid Six and Loup Valley conferences are entered in the two-day tourney including St. Paul, Ravenna, Burwell, Sargent, Broken Bow, Arcaida, Loup City and North Loup.

Four games will be played Friday afternoon and another four will be played Friday night. Finals of the meet will be played on Saturday night. The consolation bout will start at eight o'clock.

Because of their fine record in the Mid Six round-robin basket tournament the Ord team is favored to cop honors in the open tournament. However, there are several teams who have improved rapidly since the start of the season and will give the Ordsters a run for their money. Ravenna has a top-notch junior high squad which may turn the tables on the Ord quint.

Drawings for the tourney had not been made when the Quiz went to press this week. It is understood that the pairings will be made by school officials when they meet at the Loup Valley tourna-

Ord's junior high squad is made up of several outstanding performers including three accurate shooting players who are "sure-death" whenever they get within scoring range. Dean Misko, C. Barnes and Tunnicliff make up a combination that is hard to beat with Romans and Flagg doing fine work at the remaining two positions.

All Stars Run Wild, Wallop Scotia 72-21

Ord's All Star basketball squad went on a scoring spree Sunday afternoon, flattening the Scotia town team by a wide 72 to 21 count. Paul Blessing, Ord's elongated center, ran wild as he zipped 31 points through the hoop for the Ordsters. Steinwart trailed along behind Blessing with 15 counters. At the half, the score stood at 36-9 in favor of the All-Stars.

Chanticleers Eke Out a Slender Win Over Ansley Quint

Bobbles on Free Tosses Well Nigh Cost Brockman Clan Friday Eve Conflict.

Inability to convert free scoring opportunities almost cost Coach Brockman's Chanticleers another game Friday night, but a field goal by Tunnicliff with only 30 seconds to play enabled Ord to eke out a slender 15 to 13 win over Ansley on the Ansley court.

Out of 13 free tosses the Chanticleers cashed in on only two, in contrast to the Ansley quintet who made 5 out of 10 chances good.

The game was slow and unexciting, with Ansley out in front most of the time. Ansley led, 10 to 6, at half-time and 10 to 8 when the third period closed. With 2 minutes to play in the final period and Ansley leading 13 to 12, Charlie Cetak dropped 1 of 2 gift tosses through the hoop to tie the score. An overtime period loomed but with seconds to go Tunnicliff put the game on ice with a side shot that went squarely through the netting.

Tunnicliff, with 5 points, led in scoring for Ord while Watts scored the same number for Ansley. The work of Bubbles Hughes at guard was outstanding.

In a preliminary game the Ord Reserves dropped a close game to the Ansley second team, score being 15 to 12. On the Ord roster appeared Misko, Tatlow, Carlson, Hurlbert, Malopezy and Piskorski.

Box score of the Ord-Ansley clash:

Nebraska Champions To Play All Stars

The Waco basketball team, Nebraska amateur champions and sponsored by the Woodmen Accident Company of Lincoln, will meet the Ord All Stars in a game to be played in the Ord high school auditorium Wednesday night, Feb. 23.

Made up of ex-university and high school stars, the Waco team is a colorful aggregation that has been playing together for several years. In 1937 this team won the Midwestern A. A. U. championship and were Nebraska and Lincoln City champions.

Ord will be at full strength next Wednesday night and a game well worth seeing is promised.

District Toursneys

Held At Sargent

Two district tournaments have been assigned to Sargent. Class B tournament will be held the first week in March and schools who will participate include Arcadia, Mervin, Callaway, Mason City, Merna, Burwell, Sargent and Taylor. Winner of the Class B tournament will be entitled to enter the state basketball tourney to be held at Lincoln the second week in March. A Class C tournament will also be staged at Sargent, this being held the last week in February. Nine schools are entered in the Class C contest.

A. A. U. Basketball Tourney in Omaha

The Midwestern A. A. U. basketball tournament will be held in Omaha, March 7-9. Sponsored by the Omaha World-Herald, the tournament is open to all college, league and independent teams in Nebraska, Iowa, and South Dakota. Winning team of the A. A. U. meet at Omaha will be sent to the national tourney in Denver, all expenses paid. Managers of teams who desire to enter the tournament should apply to the World Herald for registration blanks.

A large coyote hunt was held Sunday afternoon northeast of Greeley. The area covered by the hunters included nine quarters of land.

Sport Shorts

At last it has snowed! Now those skis which have been packed away since Christmas are coming out of dusty corners and are being put to use. Some of the young lads can really handle themselves on those polished sticks of wood.

Every paper in the district came out last week with declarations that Ord would win the Loup Valley tournament "hands down". Maybe so, but we predict plenty of trouble for the Chanticleers before they're through the tournament.

Don't see why some of the league and independent basketball teams in this section don't enter the Midwestern A. A. U. tournament which is to be held in Omaha early in March.

Richard "Buck" Severson, that lanky accurate-shooting Ordite who is now attending Peru college is greatly missed on the All-Star squad here in Ord. Why doncha come back and see us sometime, Buck?

How do you like this? From a write-up on the Ord-Broken Bow game printed in the Custer County Chief last week we re-print the following paragraph:

"The Broken Bow team and fans seemed to be the target of much razzing from the spectators' stands. The game was marked by slow officiating and was unusually rough."

Those Broken Bow fans should howl about the razzing they received here at Ord! At least, the Ord coach didn't sit on the sidelines and razz the players of the opposing team. Perhaps Cetak should have socked that fellow who was razzing him. It was the first time in many moons that "boooing" has been heard in the Ord gymnasium. The Bow lads started it, the Ordsters finished it. All in all, both sides should feel a little sheepish over their conduct.

We've lost the Mid Six basketball trophy, but here's hoping that Ord high comes through the Loup Valley tourney and snags at least one of the trophies.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Barber.

The Seventh Day Baptist church

was the scene of a pretty wedding at 9:30 Saturday morning when about one hundred guests witnessed the marriage of Maxine Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson, to Kenneth Barber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Barber.

Mrs. Ava Johnson at the piano and Mrs. Louise Brennick at the organ played "At Dawnning" and "Oh Promise Me", and Mrs. Merton Barber sang "I Love You Truly" while the couple took their places unadorned under the large white bell that formed the center of an archway in the center aisle of the church where Rev. C. L. Hill performed the ceremony, using the single ring service.

Sheldon Vanhorn and Menzo Fuller acted as ushers. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion by Mrs. Fern Maxson, using a white picket fence banked with ferns and flowers and a white archway with a large white bell that was used at the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Barber thirty years ago. The bride was charming in a floor length white crepe dress with a corsage of rust roses.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Barber were born and reared in North Loup and are graduates of North Loup high school. Mrs. Barber is a talented musician and has used her talent to the advantage of the community as well as her church. She was crowned queen of Pop Corn Days in 1937 and her husband was king of Pop Corn Days in 1935. They will be at home on a farm in Malden Valley where Mr. Barber will work for Clare Clement. The immediate families and Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Hill were guests at a wedding dinner at the home of the bride's parents after the morning church services. Mr. and Mrs. Barber accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Vanhorn to Grand Island in the afternoon where they spent the evening.

Saturday morning members of the S. D. B. choir went to the Johnson home and awakened the bride by singing the Bridal Chorus. Mrs. Barber has been leader of the choir for several months.—Quiz Photo.

Big Demand For Baby Buggy, Bed

How big an audience the Quiz Want Ads command was demonstrated to one Ord woman who a couple of weeks ago advertised a baby buggy, high chair and baby bed for sale. She had several answers to the ad and sold all the articles at good prices. A Burwell woman bought the buggy, a North Loup woman bought the high chair and bed. And she had calls from other communities as well as from Ord.

Maybe you have some used furniture you'd like to sell? Price it right, describe it fully in a Quiz Want Ad—and you'll sell it.

Look into the attic today; maybe somebody needs the very article that is collecting dust up there.

Quiz Want Ads cost only 5¢ per line; they get results.

Will Transplant
Hackberry Trees

Ernest VanBuskirk and son Fred arrived in Ord Wednesday evening enroute from Beatrice to Chadron. They are the two men who met with an accident on the way into Ord in January, resulting in the older man staying in the hospital for several days. He says that he is not yet fully recovered, but hoped to be able to go to work when they got to Chadron.

They are in the employ of the government and expect to transplant a large number of hackberry trees that are reported to be growing in two canyons east of Chadron. If they find them as reported and the ground is not frozen too hard, they will dig them up and take them to designated points in the eastern part of the state for replanting.

The hackberry and the buffalo berry trees are the kind the government is most interested in at this time, as they have shown extraordinary resistance to the drought.

Smoke Cured
is Better!

There are many faster ways of curing bacon these days than the old-fashioned, slow-cure way of using real wood smoke in a smoke house, but we're still using the old-fashioned method; maybe that's why so many people express a preference for our home made bacon.

No smoke salts, no chemicals of any kind, are used in making our bacon. Instead the slabs, properly salt pickled, go into our smoke house and stay there from 30 to 60 days, until they are thoroughly impregnated with the real smoke flavor.

There are families in Ord who have been eating Pecenka bacon for many years and will have no other kind. Try a pound or two, or a slab, of our bacon today. We think it will please your palate.

Junior Hi Tourney To Open Friday, Ord Is Favored

Seven schools have definitely stated that their junior high teams will play in the invitational junior high basketball tournament which will get under way in the Ord high gymnasium Friday afternoon.

The best teams in the Mid Six and Loup Valley conferences are entered in the two-day tourney including St. Paul, Ravenna, Burwell, Sargent, Broken Bow, Arcaida, Loup City and North Loup.

Four games will be played Friday afternoon and another four will be played Friday night. Finals of the meet will be played on Saturday night. The consolation bout will start at eight o'clock.

Because of their fine record in the Mid Six round-robin basket tournament the Ord team is favored to cop honors in the open tournament. However, there are several teams who have improved rapidly since the start of the season and will give the Ordsters a run for their money. Ravenna has a top-notch junior high squad which may turn the tables on the Ord quint.

Drawings for the tourney had not been made when the Quiz went to press this week. It is understood that the pairings will be made by school officials when they meet at the Loup Valley tournament.

Ord's junior high squad is made up of several outstanding performers including three accurate shooting players who are "sure-death" whenever they get within scoring range. Dean Misko, C. Barnes and Tunnicliff make up a combination that is hard to beat with Romans and Flagg doing fine work at the remaining two positions.

All Stars Run Wild, Wallop Scotia 72-21

Ord's All Star basketball squad went on a scoring spree Sunday afternoon, flattening the Scotia town team by a wide 72 to 21 count. Paul Blessing, Ord's elongated center, ran wild as he zipped 31 points through the hoop for the Ordsters. Stewart trailed along behind Blessing with 15 counters.

At the half, the score stood at 36-9 in favor of the All-Stars.

Nebraska Champions To Play All Stars

The Waco basketball team, Nebraska amateur champions and sponsored by the Woodmen Accident Company of Lincoln, will meet the Ord All Stars in a game to be played in the Ord high school auditorium Wednesday night, Feb. 23.

Made up of ex-university and high school stars, the Waco team is a colorful aggregation that has been playing together for several years. In 1937 this team won the Midwestern A. A. U. championship and were Nebraska and Lincoln City champions.

Ord will be at full strength next Wednesday night and a game well worth seeing is promised.

District Tournaments Held At Sargent

Two district tournaments have been assigned to Sargent. Class B tournament will be held the first week in March and schools who will participate include Arcadia, Ansley, Callaway, Mason City, Merna, Burwell, Sargent and Taylor.

Winner of the Class B tournament will be entitled to enter the state basketball tourney to be held at Lincoln the second week in March.

A Class C tournament will also be staged at Sargent, this being held the last week in February. Nine schools are entered in the Class C contest.

A. A. Basketball Tournament in Omaha

The Midwestern A. A. U. basketball tournament will be held in Omaha, March 7-8-9. Sponsored by the Omaha World-Herald, the tournament is open to all college, league and independent teams in Nebraska, Iowa, and South Dakota.

Winning team of the A. A. U. meet at Omaha will be sent to the national tourney in Denver, all expenses paid. Managers of teams who desire to enter the tournament should apply to the World Herald for registration blanks.

Coyote Hunt At Greeley.

A large coyote hunt was held Sunday afternoon northeast of Greeley. The area covered by the hunters included nine quarters of land.

Sport Shorts

At last it has snowed! Now those skis which have been packed away since Christmas are coming out of dusty corners and are being put to use. Some of the young lads can really handle themselves on those polished sticks of wood.

Every paper in the district came out last week with declarations that Ord would win the Loup Valley tournament "hands down". Maybe so, but we predict plenty of trouble for the Chanticleers before they're through the tournament.

Don't see why some of the league and independent basketball teams in this section don't enter the Midwestern A. A. U. tournament which is to be held in Omaha early in March.

Richard "Buck" Severson, that lanky accurate-shooting Ordite who is now attending Peru college is greatly missed on the All-Star squad here in Ord. Why doncha come back and see us some time, Buck?

How do you like this? From a write-up of the Ord-Broken Bow game printed in the Custer County Chief last week we re-print the following paragraph:

"The Broken Bow team and fans seemed to be the target of much razzing from the spectators stands. The game was marked by slow officiating and was unusually rough."

Those Broken Bow fans should howl about the razzing they received here at Ord! At least, the Ord coach didn't sit on the sidelines and razz the players of the opposing team. Perhaps Cetak should have socked that fellow who was razzing him. It was the first time in many moons that "boozing" has been heard in the Ord gymnasium. The Bow lads started it, the Ordsters finished it. All in all, both sides should feel a little sheepish over their conduct.

We've lost the Mid Six basketball trophy, but here's hoping that Ord high comes through the Loup Valley tourney and snags at least one of the trophies.

No More Delays Expected By District

2 Days Auto Races WHO Revues, Will Be Fair Features

Board Met Friday, Chose Dates in September for the Valley County Fair.

The regular meeting of the Loup Valley fair board was held Friday evening at the office of the secretary, Edward Kokes. Those in attendance were R. Clark Clement, Henry Jorgensen, Dave Arnold, Dr. J. W. McGinnis, Henry Enger, Val Pullen and Mr. Kokes. The president, C. W. McClellan, was absent on account of sickness, and Don Round was also absent.

There were also present two representatives of the WHO Artists Bureau, a branch of station WHO of Des Moines. These two gentlemen showed a very attractive line of entertainment, which they were able to offer at a very attractive price if the board could hold the fair on the first three days of the week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 12, 13 and 14.

The reason for the attractive rates was that the same show is billed for the last three days of the week at Mitchell, Nebr., and the three days would otherwise be wasted. It was an opportunity not to be passed up, and the board signed an agreement whereby one of the best programs ever brought to Ord will be available this year.

The program as tentatively lined up and subject to changes, brings a horse show, one of the best, here for the afternoon show Monday, with free acts between. In the evening there will be a big revue number. Tuesday will be the first day of the auto races, which will be on the competitive basis, as heretofore, except that there will be two days only.

There will also be free acts in the afternoon and the big revue in the evening. Wednesday will be the final day of auto racing. For the free acts there will be skits from the WHO Barn Dance, which will be the big show for the evening. All arrangements are subject to alteration and a number of changes may be made before the program is finally complete.

The WHO Artists Bureau is a comparatively new organization, but they played a few cities in Nebraska last year, and without exception they have been signed for return dates with more complete equipment. Not to be overlooked is the fact that radio station WHO will publicize the fair and dates for some time before it begins, thus giving a large amount of valuable advertising free.

J. Marvin Brokaw Goes to Kearney Resettlement Job

J. Marvin Brokaw, who came to Ord to work in the re-settlement office several months ago, was called to Kearney to accept a position in the office there. He left for his new duties Sunday. Carries On 'As Usual' Despite Broken Wrist

MRS. WILLIAM CARLTON.

A little thing like a broken wrist won't stop Mrs. Wm. Carlton from "carrying on as usual" her many activities in relief, Red Cross and church work, she said yesterday.

Saturday evening Mrs. Carlton slipped on the walk near the Safeway store and her left wrist was fractured. She arose, walked up the street and met Mr. Carlton and asked him to carry home the groceries, after which she went to the office of Dr. F. A. Barta who reduced the fracture.

Mrs. Carlton is one of Ord's busiest and best loved women. In spite of being well along in years she anticipates no trouble from the broken wrist and says she hopes to be able to "carry on."

Underberg Baby Has 13 Grandparents, Is 22nd Occupant of This Family Cradle

An eight pound daughter named Connie Joy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Underberg Thursday morning. An event of this kind is of special interest at any time, but it is not often that a little girl is ushered into the world with so large an assortment of ancestors alive and ready to wish her the best there is in life.

First there are Grandpa and Grandma Jay Auble of Ord, and Grandpa and Grandma R. C. Underberg of Madison, Nebr. This accounts in full for the grandparents. Going back to the next generation we have the great grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dayt. Auble of Ord, P. C. Hansen of San Diego, Calif., Mrs. Otto Underberg and Mrs. Ben Davis, both of Madison.

It may be unlucky to have thirteen grandparents living, but that hoodoo does not worry this young lady in the least, as she is reposing calmly in a crib which her grandfather Auble made for her mother.

There are, all twenty-two of them, and the crib still looks good for another decade or more. Little did the maker dream of the busy, busy life that crib would lead. Who knows? It may continue its period of usefulness unto the third generation.

Daily Dimes Pay For Girl Baby

A new method of paying the medical expense connecting with a baby was that used by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark, who last Wednesday became parents of a 7 pound girl, their first child. Months ago they began saving a dime a day, and Wednesday for his fee Dr. F. A. Barta was presented with a fruit jar containing 200 dimes.

Mother, baby and the attending physician are all doing well and since Mr. Clark has no medical expense to worry about he is reported as doing well also.

Leonard Furtak Purchases Leo Johnson Barber Shop

A deal was entered into Thursday by which Leonard Furtak took over the Leo Johnson barber shop on the south side of the square about two weeks ago. Mrs. Burnt Beck bought out the Johnson Beauty Shop and Mr. Johnson was open for an offer on the barber shop. The Johnsons shipped the greater part of their belongings to Wellfleet some time ago, and followed with the rest Thursday evening, asking that the Quiz be sent to the Wellfleet address until further notice.

Mr. Furtak is a barber of several years' experience, most of it in Ord, and is known as a capable and careful workman. As soon as possible he expects to install his own fixtures, and he also plans to have the entire interior redecorated as soon as possible, after which he will have his formal opening. In the meanwhile he is open for business and is enjoying a nice patronage.

Moratorium Law Is Ruled Invalid By Supreme Court

Thirty-four in Valley County Will Lose Farms After 40-Day Period.

The Nebraska mortgage moratorium law, under which thousands of property owners have stayed off foreclosure of their homes and farms since 1933, was held unconstitutional by the Supreme court at Lincoln Tuesday.

It was the first time the court had ruled directly on validity of the original law or its extension a year ago by the legislature.

Attorneys and loan company officials predicted the decision will result in sheriffs' offices throughout the state being flooded with requests for sales under decrees that have been held up by the law.

This will be delayed, however, until after the 40 day period during which a rehearing may be asked.

Losses of property by original owners will be less than a third what it might have been a year ago, it was explained. In Valley county at present moratorium rent is being collected on only 34 pieces of property, as compared with a high of 63 a couple of years ago, a check-up made by Alfred Wiegard, clerk of the district court, reveals. Farm foreclosures in Valley county to date total 76 and in 1935 there were 123 on file here.

The Supreme court's decision Tuesday was supported by six of the seven justices, only Judge Bayard H. Paine dissenting.

Arsonist Kamerad, 80, Pays All Court Costs

An incident which deserves a place in the "believe it or not's" for Valley county occurred Friday, when Clerk of the District Court A. A. Wiegard received from Frank Kamerad, 80, a full payment of the fine spot for the privilege of having his name appear on the Republican ballot for sheriff. This is the first time Clarence has applied for office, but the name is familiar to his father, Lorenzo Blessing holding the office of county superintendent for several terms, and his late brother, Alvin, holding positions as county board member, county clerk and member of the Nebraska legislature.

While not an aspirant for office, Mr. Kamerad was practically drafted when his name was approved by a caucus of citizens held at the American Legion hall last Monday evening. It was the opinion of the meeting that Mr. Kamerad would make a good representative of the farmers for the office of director of the North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation District for the short term. As Wm. Sack and W. O. Zangher had already filed this makes three to date that have filed for the directorships.

Grain Sorghum Meeting At St. Paul Saturday

The meeting at St. Paul which was announced last week will be held at the American Legion hall starting promptly at 1:00 p. m. on Saturday, February 26th.

At this meeting farmers will have a chance to see and compare two lots of hogs, one fed corn and the other fed on grain sorghum in an experiment conducted at Franklin.

Speakers from the agricultural college will discuss the results of this and other feeding experiments which have been carried on this year for the purpose of establishing a comparison between corn and grain sorghums as a finishing feed for livestock.

Quite a number of Valley county farmers have indicated their intention of attending this meeting.

Ben Morris Arrested

Upon complaint of his wife Ben Morris was arrested Thursday on a charge of assault and battery. He was brought before Judge John L. Andersen the same day and entered a plea of guilty as charged. He was fined $4.00 and costs of $2.00. After laying out $4.00 of the amount he paid the fine was released.

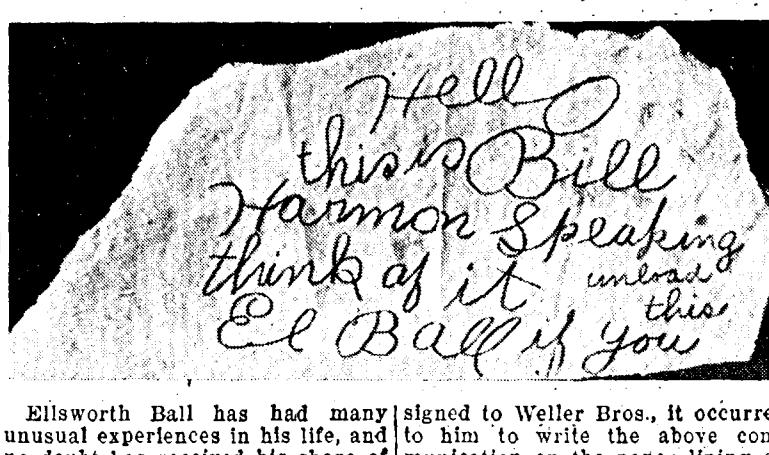

Will Prin Is Fined.

Monday morning Will Prin was brought into Judge John L. Andersen's court on charge of intoxication Saturday evening. He entered a plea of guilty and drew a fine of $10.00 and costs of $8.00, all of which he paid and was released.

Take Wincharger Agency.

Last week L. J. Auble and Elwin Auble drove to Sioux City and signed a contract with the Wincharger Corporation of America by which they will sell the Grant Wincharger in 6 central Nebraska counties. Already they have taken orders for 7 of these Winchargers, which are said to be a great improvement on anything previously sold here in this line.

Ellsworth Ball Gets Letter From Old Friend—Was Written on Wall of Box Car

Ellsworth Ball has had many unusual experiences in his life, and no doubt has received his share of peculiar letters, but the limit was reached on Washington's birthday when he received the above communication from his friend Bill Harmon, who is working in a lumber camp at Selma, Wash.

A lot of Valley county people will remember Bill, who lived for a long time up in the Joint community. Later the family moved to Canada, but Bill came back, and worked for a time in North Loup. Several years ago he went out to Washington, where he has been employed in the lumber business.

In loading a car of lumber contracted to Weller Bros., it occurred to him to write the above communication on the paper lining on the inside of the box car, in hope that Bill might happen to unload it. Bill did not but his brother-in-law, Henry Petersen and Axel Jorgenson did, and they delivered the letter.

It is nothing unusual to find all kinds of notes, letters and addresses written inside box cars, but this is the first time in all his draying experience that Ball has received a communication intended for him personally.

HARRY HUGHES' HOUNDS HAVE SYSTEM IN CATCHING THE ELUSIVE COYOTE

In the first picture shown above three of Harry Hughes fine coyote hounds are giving a demonstration of just how easy, or how difficult it is to catch a coyote on the run. Hughes lives 3 1/2 miles southwest of Burwell, and has some of the best hounds in the country. The first picture is shown how they catch the coyote by the rear end. The coyote is turning his head in an effort to snap at the dogs, but one of the dogs once takes the opportunity to get the coyote by the throat, and it is all over. One of the first things the dog must learn is to keep out of the way of the coyote's deadly fangs.

The lower picture shows the dogs making the kill, which is a simple thing when a dog gets him by the throat. Here are shown two of the dogs at the coyote's throat while the other holds on to the rear end. This is the 24th coyote these dogs have caught during the fall and winter. Mr. Hughes has a right to be proud of these dogs, and his neighbors are truly thankful for the protection they give to their chickens and livestock. Incidentally it was some feat to get the above action photos, but Lewis Moore, Burwell's expert photographer, was equal to the occasion.

What is so Rare as a Balanced Budget? Nebraska Has One ★ Industry recognizes the economic wisdom of balanced governmental budgets and the people of Nebraska have always insisted that state expenses be limited by state income. ★ NEBRASKA'S BUDGET IS ALWAYS BALANCED. The state never borrows, for "emergencies" or for public works. In fact, its state constitution forbids borrowing. Nebraska meets all such needs out of tax receipts, paying as it goes. It levies no extra taxes to conceal the cost of government. ★ By maintaining a balanced budget through thrift, Nebraska came through the depression years without burdening its people, and without piling up debt for future years. ★ This policy may be old-fashioned but Nebraskans have rejected every plea to change it. They know that "the salvation of the state is watchfulness in the citizen." CITIZENS AND GOVERNMENT WORK TOGETHER TO PROTECT THE WAGE-EARNER, THE FARMER AND THE BUSINESS MAN AGAINST PUBLIC WASTE. ★ No punitive taxes cripple Nebraska's industry. No nuisance levies hamper Nebraska citizens. National attention is directed to the expanding opportunities of this state... a stable market, excellent transportation, a co-operative labor relationship, cheap power and fuel, abundant raw materials. Write for informative booklet.

Nebraska's constitution prohibits state bonds. Moreover, 77 of 93 counties have no bonds. Municipal debts are low, and steadily declining.

Something Different

And why do they make such a fuss over the Dionne quintuplets? The Mama and Papa shall own-ed by Mr. and Mrs. John Andersen had a family a week or two ago, and produced not five offspring but 157 baby snails. And didn't even get their picture in the paper.

Depressed days of the modern era have seen many families going back to barter for what they needed to buy, trading all sort of unlikely things for needed objects. And saving in unlikely ways.

Dr. F. A. Barta had an unusual experience a few days ago. He delivered a nice new baby to a family. And the down payment on the baby was a heavy package. It contained $20 saved in dimes for just that purpose.

Won't we all be glad, though, when the movies quit having these double features? Such a long session of sitting is difficult for anyone. Perhaps if the movies were like plays and operas, with a breathing spell between times so that we could all go out and stretch and walk about, we wouldn't mind them so much. Honest now, don't you feel like Old Rockin' Chair's Got You for sure, after a long three to four hour "set"?

And surely the movie theater owners will be glad, for they can then buy one good movie in place of trying to find two that are cheap enough so they can be bought to run together, or one sufficiently inexpensive to trail with a dandy, high-powered number.

Another good idea: Mr. Blemond, may we have the starting time, figured down to within a few minutes for accuracy, printed in the advertisements or posted before your theater? The time each feature begins?

I notice some city theaters display such time schedules in their newspaper ads, and it seems like a fine idea.

Many of us want to see one picture but not two. As it is, we walk in, taking our own chances. Perhaps we find we have to sit through a show we decided do not want to attend, for the sake of seeing a favorite star in the feature we wanted to see.

If the show times were posted or advertised we would clutter up the theater with our presence only as long as necessary.

Eldon K. Langevin, brother-in-law of Mrs. Mark Tolson, World-Herald photographer, is constantly becoming better known. A fine photographer, Mr. Langevin recently had a signed story on the front page of the World-Herald about the hair-curling trial and stuff out at North Platte.

One of the three pretty daughters of the Art Meyer family had her picture broadcast to the world from the pages of the Sunday World-Herald a week or two ago, about the hair-curling trial and stuff out at North Platte.

And last Sunday, a week ago, all those rotogravure pictures of the coyote hunt in the World-Herald were credited to Ord's Laverne Lakin, did you notice?

I heard Laverne broadcasting from the Auble corner window-studio Saturday afternoon, and was surprised at two things about it. One of them was how surprisingly pleasant Laverne's voice is over the air waves, his speaking voice. And the other was, how many people were listening to the news broadcast of local and near-local events. All the idlers stepped out of stores to stand on the curb and listen, shoppers crowded about the window, everyone could and did hear it, on every side of the square. It came loud and clear, to a big audience.

he has worked his way around the alphabet and is down to D on the second trip. Maybe that is where the guinea pigs got the idea.There is a movement afoot in some circles to compel the Indians to take back the lands in the middle west which have been hit so hard in the recent drought. The Indians are willing to take Nebraska, but don't care to have the states surrounding the "White Spot" at any price. Which proves they are not so dumb, after all.NATURALIZATION AND THE INDIAN.When Columbus first discovered the islands in the Caribbean sea he found the Indians there before him.
When other discoverers followed in his footsteps and made settlements on the main land of North America, they found that the Indians had been there for centuries. This should prove definitely that the Indians are the only true Americans.The Indians welcomed the foreigners to their shores and gave them the privilege of establishing their homes in the new land. So long as they were treated fairly they treated the newcomers with fairness. They did not ask that these foreigners take out naturalization papers, but accorded them equal rights with the natives so long as they were friendly.But soon overt acts of the white invader caused trouble and brought on war, which could only end in the defeat of the Indians who were not as well prepared as their visitors.
The Indians were driven out of the land they owned by right of settlement and driven ever westward, while the invaders took the choicest land they could find.In time an independent government arose, the settlers declaring themselves owners of the land, and insisting that all who desired to come in must be naturalized. This applied only to immigrants from Europe. In dealing with the Indians they added insult to injury by even denying them the right of citizenship.Thus it came about that the original owners of the land lost the right of franchise and the immigrants declared themselves the only real Americans. The laws they made outlawed the Indians and took away from them not only the right to vote, but the privilege of owning property, as well as the truly American privilege of getting drunk.The Civil war was fought to give the negro his freedom, and later a constitutional amendment was adopted to give him the right to vote and to hold property. Yet for years following the enfranchise-ment of the negro the Indians were not permitted to vote. When some of them finally were, certain literacy tests were required, although no such test has ever been required of the native born population in most states.In 1930 the Cherokee Indians of North Carolina were given the right to citizenship, provided they could meet the educational and other tests. In 1934 the Metlakatla Indians of Alaska were given citizenship by special act of congress. Today in America we find there are thousands of original Americans who are not classed as American citizens, and are not privileged to exercise the right of franchise.Puritan Ice Cream

The grandmother who darned her husband's socks now has a granddaughter who is married and socks her darned husband. And then there is the story of the man who said he never raised his hand against his own children except in self defense.The story is told of the publicity agent for a Young Democrat's club who had to pay 3¢ postage on a letter the club received from Postmaster General Jim Farley. Noting strange about that? What are the clubs for if it is not to pay the expenses?A leather salesman well up in the sixties was stepping out with a dizzy blond down in a Missouri city. They met up with another young woman who was also doing little stepping with a couple of young men. None of the four young folks bore good reputations.
Neither did the leather salesman or he wouldn't have been mixed up with them. But they all had many drinks. The blond ran out on the salesman taking some of his money. A few hours later the salesman was found along the road, his head cut open with an axe. A few days later his car and the other three young people were found in eastern Nebraska with some of the money, goods from the car and watch of the salesman was on the young people caught.
All in their early twenties they face long prison terms and if the salesman dies they face worse than prison. The families of all of them face sorrow and mental suffering for the balance of their lives.And from 25 to 50 just such things can be found in the morning paper any day of the week.
What is the cause of it? Many people guess but no one really knows. One thing is sure however and that is that there is a general breaking down of moral fibre in the American people. Probably many things have caused it. Forty years ago everyone expected as a matter of course to work. The World War came along and almost everyone had so much money or made it so fast and easy that they had an unreasonable amount of luxuries. Young people who before that expected to work for their parents, decided that their parents should give them everything they wanted without work. The automobile came along and made transportation quick and easy.
Hard times followed and used to have all kinds of luxuries young people who lacked the stamina to take it, took the easiest way to get the things wanted. This is proved by the fact that most of the criminals of today are under 25; many of them under 20. Things are in a bad way. It almost seems that they are constantly getting worse.I am much gratified to the response to our offer of the Quiz and six splendid magazines all one year for $3. It is a wonderful offer.If you don't get your Quiz it is your own fault. Now that's what I always try to be fair and considerate.
If your paper has been stopped when out it is either an error on our part or you have not treated us fairly in the past. If you have always treated us fairly your paper will be continued after it is out, at least for a reasonable time. It should not be a hard job, if your paper expires and you can't spare a dollar, to either see us or drop a card and say when you can pay. Then you will have no trouble.There is no one in business in this community to whom the welfare and prosperity of the farmer is more important than to the Quiz.
If the farmer has good crops and gets good prices for them then he pays his subscription in advance and does some advertising and has stationery printed and has us send for his favorite daily paper. That's why I am interested in the new farm bill which congress has just passed and which the president has just signed. It will be put into operation as fast as possible.
Frankly I am fearful of the results. Some farmers are also fearful of the results. I believe and some farmers fear that we are all going to be more and more regimented as the years pass.
Everything points in that direction.

Thanks to Mother Nature, Bethany Luther League staged a sleigh ride party Sunday afternoon. About 25 gathered out south of town and partook of their favorite sport, whether it was tobogganing, skating, sledding or rolling. Most of them enjoyed a coolish bath without the trouble of removing their clothes. About 4:00 all returned to the parsonage, where the drying-out process took place. Mrs. Clarence Jensen served a most fitting and delicious lunch to all. The sentiment generally expressed was that it was a most enjoyable afternoon.

M. A. O. Project Club.

The M. A. O. Project club met Thursday afternoon at the Presbyterian manse, with Mrs. Robert Hall and Mrs. S. A. Woodruff acting as hostesses. It proved the "noisiest" meeting of the season and required strong, stanch nerves for the afternoon's routine, which was the making of decorative objects for the home. Some of the ladies wielded tinsnips and hammers in superb fashion.

Others of the more demure type contented themselves with weaving baskets and making small objects from crepe and serpentine paper. It was a valuable lesson given under the leadership of Mrs. Evert Smith and Mrs. Cash Rathbun. A pleasant social chat including a little snack concluded the afternoon's gayety.

Cash Rathbun earned the honor of being the "Mr. George" of the evening while Mrs. Leo Nelson received the title of "Martha" because of her skill. The losers proved to be the stepchildren.

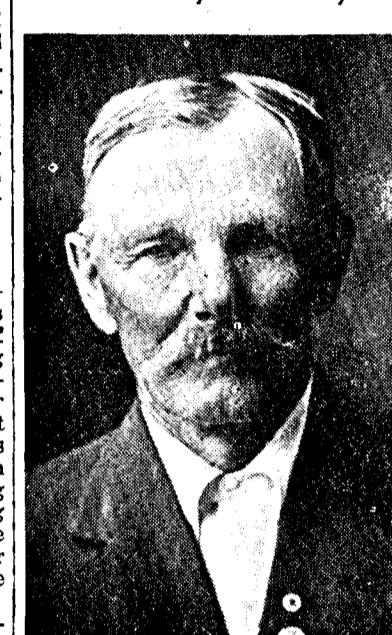

Light refreshments, with patriotic motif, were served by the committee at the close of the evening's merriment.

Ord Cagers Cop Two Tournaments

Chanticleers Edge Out Dannebrog, 29 to 28, Win Loup Valley Honors

Opening up in the third quarter with a torrid brand of basketball, Coach Helmut Brockman's Ord high cage team annexed their fourth Loup Valley basketball championship in six years Thursday night as the Chanticleers scored a sizzling 29 to 28 victory over Dannebrog in the tournament finals at Burwell. Another honor went to the Ordsters as the Ord quint, was awarded the team free throwing championship of the Loup Valley conference.

Burwell Is "Dark Horse".

Burwell's fast-moving squad proved to be the dark horse of the tourney as the Wranglers upset two seeded teams, Loup City and Arcadia. Consolation honors went to Burwell as they defeated the Arcadians, 27 to 21 in the consolation match. Leonard Hansen, Dannebrog's scoring ace, did remarkable work to win the individual free throwing championship of the conference.

Ord Wins Easily.

Throughout the tournament Coach Brockman used plenty of his reserves. Ord's first game was the opening game of the tournament, the Chanticleers meeting Taylor. Taylor put up a determined fight but was unable to cope with the Ordsters and went down to defeat, 33 to 10.

Ord chalked up their second win when they blasted St. Paul 47 to 18. First half of the Ord-St. Paul conflict was very close, St. Paul holding the Ordsters down to an almost even score. In the second half however the Apostles wailed off a torrid Chanticleer offensive and the Ordsters scored almost at will.

Burwell Improved.

In the semi-finals, Ord came up against the vastly improved Burwell quint. Although the Burwell cagers put up a game fight, the outcome of the battle was at no time in doubt, the Chanticleers winning out easily, 29 to 18. Coach Brockman substituted freely in the Burwell game, attempting to save his first string crew for the final round of the tournament.

Hansen Is "Hot Shot".

Leonard Hansen was the big source of trouble for the Ord boys when they met Dannebrog in the finals. Hansen, a "Dead-End Dick" if there ever was one, scored 16 of the 28 points made by Dannebrog against Ord. Zulkoski and Tunnicliff both clamped down on the eagle-eyed Dane in the last half however and he was unable to do any scoring except free shots.

Ord Nearly Loses.

At the end of the initial period Ord lead the Dames, 9 to 4. Hansen broke loose in the second period to boost the score up to a 13 to 13 deadlock at the halftime. A rally in the third stanza gave Ord a 22-15 margin at the end of the third quarter.

Ord's crew of ball shooters cooled off in the final period and as a result they came near defeat. Early in the final quarter the score was tied, 26-26. Zulkoski broke this up with a free shot. Fed by Tunnicliff Dahlin sank a beautiful set-up shot late in the last period to put the Ordsters ahead for the final 29-28 win.

Warning To Coyote Hunter—Don't Try This Method

A crack coyote hunter at Morrill, Nebr., tried a new method of bagging his game last week, but it failed.

Harry Reinhorn, the hunter, wounded an animal which fled to a water tank. Finding his ammunition exhausted the hunter tried to club the animal to death but failed. He grabbed the coyote's tail but it came off in his hand and the frightened animal fled. A rifle shot had all but severed the tail from the coyote.

Pairings for the Class A district tournament to be held at Holdrege

Feb. 25 and 26 were announced this week by school officials.

In getting to the finals the Ord

cagers defeated Ravenna 30 to 18 and muffed Arcadia by the close margin of 28 to 26. Misko,

Flagg and Tunnicliff were at their best for the Ordsters with Barnes and Piskorski zipping in under the basket on very frequent occasions.

As only seven teams entered the tournament, Ord entered their "B"

squad, junior high second stringers,

to make up the full eight team

schedule. Led by Furtak, Lakin and McBeth the "B's" displayed

plenty of good basketball, dropping

Burwell 25 to 8 in the opening round of play.

St. Paul was no match for Sargent in the consolation match, the Sargent lads pouring an 18 to 8 defeat on top of the Apostles.

Ravenna, with their much heralded junior high team, failed to get going, and as a result they were handled easily by the Ordsters.

Ravenna was put on a par with Ord by the doppers to win the tournament. The Ravenna boys suffered a 23 to 16 beating at the hands of St. Paul and lost out to Ord by a wide 30 to 18 count.

Ord's "B" squad went out of the tournament in the second round of play when they came up against a far more talented and experienced

Loup City team. Outclassed from start to finish the "B's" were pushed out by a score of 17 to 8. The Louperers had a little trouble with the "B's" the first quarter but after the initial quarter it was smooth sailing to the final 17 to 8 win.

Closest game of the tournament was the Ord-Arcadia clash in the semi-final round. By the margin of a single field goal, 28-26, the Ordsters won this crucial game.

Tunnicliff and Misko did consistently scoring over the Ordsters in this contest to keep a small lead over the Arcadians through most of the game.

Alvin "Peanuts" Jensen officiated all tournament games and did a job satisfactory to everyone.

About 25 gathered out south of town and partook of their favorite sport, whether it was tobogganing, skiing, sledding or rolling. Most of them enjoyed a coolish bath without the trouble of removing their clothes. About 4:00 all returned to the parsonage where the drying-out process took place. Mrs. Clarence Jensen served a most fitting and delicious lunch to all. The sentiment generally expressed was that it was a most enjoyable afternoon.

M. A. O. Project Club.

The M. A. O. Project club met Thursday afternoon at the Presbyterian manse, with Mrs. Robert Hall and Mrs. S. A. Woodruff acting as hostesses. It proved the "holiest" meeting of the season and required strong, staunch nerves for the afternoon's routine, which was the making of decorative objects for the home. Some of the ladies wielded hatchets and hammers in superb fashion.

Others of the more demure type contented themselves with weaving baskets and making small objects from crepe and serpentines paper. It was a valuable lesson given under the leadership of Mrs. Everett Smith and Mrs. Cash Rathbun. A pleasant social chat including a little snack concluded the afternoon's gayety.

Ord Youngsters Change Sports Quickly

With every change of the weather, Ord youngsters make a change in their sports program. A few days before our last snowfall, the "kids," big and little, were busily engaged with the business of playing basketball. In the top photo the Quiz camera caught a group of the boys as they were in the midst of a hotly contested basketball game on one of the outside "courts" located in east Ord. Bottom photo was taken after the heavy snow last week. For real fun there is nothing like building snowmen, as these grade school children will testify.—Quiz Photo.

Valley County's First Docket Of Interest

In the county judge's office is a worn but well preserved book. It is the first civil docket of Valley county, and, incidentally, it contains some criminal actions also, as it was the only book in which to record them. All the records of those days were written in pen and ink, and the skill of the writer, as well as the quality of ink used, had much to do with the legibility of the actions.

The first court action on record in the county was held before Judge T. C. Tracy, Febr. 3, 1876. George H. Thummel, Grand Island was attorney for the plaintiffs, W. V. Morse and Owen J. Lewis, and Wm. H. Mitchell was attorney for the defendant, W. J. Holliday, whose residence is recorded as Calamus, although it is known that his store was at Ft. Hartuff two years before.

The plaintiffs were asking judgment on a certain bill of exchange for $217.24, accepted by the defendant at Grand Island Aug. 7, 1875. Below is written the following: Grand Island, Nebr., Jan. 11, 1877. Received of W. J. Holliday 1 span mares valued at $200 part judgments staged by said Holliday in county court of Valley county. Marginal notes record the payment of the balance in two installments.

The name of W. J. Holliday appears as defendant in the first six civil actions recorded in the book, and the suit was always brought by some firm, probably from Grand Island, for purchasing goods on a time basis and failing to pay. The answer is obvious. Holliday apparently bought on time and sold to the settlers on time. The settlers could not pay when they expected to, and left Holliday holding the sack for the time being.

It is evident that he got his pay from them later, for he was always able to come back and continue in business.

It is further apparent that the grasshopper year of 1874 left the settlers without funds or the means of obtaining funds. They had to live through the next year until they raised a crop, and the post trader, Holliday, stated to him, doubtless in some cases to his own loss. But such were the conditions of pioneer life.

Valley county's first criminal action appears in the same book, under date of April 3, 1876, before Judge T. C. Tracy, but it nowhere appears just what the charge was against the three men, C. M. Horn, John Gesser and James Prosser, who were haled into court. The jurors were John Case, L. W. Stevens, M. R. Potter, Charles E. Potter, David Potter and W. R. Jensen. The defendants were found not guilty of whatever crime it was, and the county paid costs of $24.25. Oct. 5, 1876, A. S. Adams made oath that the crime of selling intoxicating liquors without a county license had been committed by E. S. Harter. Johnson Cary, A. T. Stacy, H. Thurston and George Miller were called as witnesses on behalf of the state. The defendant pleaded guilty to the charges preferred, and was ordered to give bond in the sum of $100.00 for his appearance in district court. E. D. McKinney and A. T. Stacy were his bondsmen.

In County Judge Herman Westover's court Jan. 3, 1879, Frank Gardner was found guilty of stealing a load of wood, value $3.00, from H. A. Babcock. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $5.00, costs of $16.30, and to pay to Babcock $6.00, twice the value of the wood stolen. This was strictly in accord with scriptural injunction, as he replaced the amount twofold. However, it doubtless cost the owner of the wood more to prosecute the case than the value of the wood amounted to.

Before County Judge S. L. Maine, Febr. 9, 1880 appeared Anthony Rusko asking a temporary injunction restraining Peter Mortensen, Valley county treasurer, and A. V. Bradt, W. B. Keown and B. H. Johnson, county commissioners from collecting taxes levied against the property of citizens in Taylor (now Loup) county. While not specifically so stated, it is presumed that the citizens had plans of starting a county of their own, and that such taxes should be collected by that county.

Febr. 21, 1880, School Dist. No. 4

asked a temporary injunction against Mortensen, Bradt, Keown and Johnson, to prevent the collection of taxes on a certain bond issued by the district, and prevent the levying of future taxes. The smallest sum sued for in the record was in Feb. 1880, when E. S. Harter sued Ed Taylor for a $4.65 book account, which cost him more than ten dollars to collect. About 90% of all suits in the early records were for debts of this kind.

Upholds Conservation Program.

To the Editor of the Quiz:
An article which appeared in the Quiz of February 16th, it seems to me calls for some comment by one upon whom the writer cast several aspersions. I refer to the article in which Mr. H. D. Leggett took time off from writing about his favorite breakfasts and other intimate details of the Leggett family life and that of their near relatives, to question the intelligence of the farmers who are participating in the Agricultural Conservation program and the local officers whom they have elected to administer the program and whom he brands as "government agents" apparently believing that this attaches some sort of stigma to them.

The officers of the Valley County Agricultural Conservation association are not government agents but are elected by the farmers of the county who are participating in the program, to represent them in their dealings with the government. Mr. Leggett then proceeds to insult the intelligence of these farmers by saying that they have no chance of being able to understand the new Agricultural Adjustment Act because the well known political writer, Mark Sullivan says he does not understand the law. On what grounds then does Mark Sullivan base his opposition to the law? Is he opposed to it because he does not understand it? How can he comment intelligently on a law which he admits he does not understand? Why did Mr. Sullivan in this same article attempt to explain just how farmers will be controlled and regimented, if he does not understand the law?

Does Mr. Leggett oppose the law and question its operation simply because he does not understand it or does he also oppose it for political reasons just as Mark Sullivan and the unnamed member of Congress whom he quotes are opposing it?

The bill was introduced in the Senate by Senators Pope and McGill after hearings which were held all over the country last fall. The bill received the support of such men as Senators Capper of Kansas and Norris of Nebraska who are known to be friends of agriculture and was opposed by the same men who have always opposed any laws which would favor the farmer but who are strong for any legislation which is of benefit to big business and the vested interests.

At the hearings conducted last fall a large percent of the farmers who testified before the senate subcommittee were in favor of legislation of this type and the packers, grain traders, and others who make their living handling the farmers products were all opposed to any such legislation. Perhaps any legislation which is to be passed should originate with the packers, the members of the Board of Trade and political writers of the Mark Sullivan stripe instead of originating with the farmers themselves, and their organizations which have been backing the bill which recently became a law.

Perhaps the farmers should be guided by the counsels of small time politicians such as those who have been conducting meetings in eastern Nebraska in opposition to the bill, and who have told the farmers all about the terrible compulsory features of the law, neglecting to inform them that under the provisions of the law, two-thirds of the producers of any commodity must vote in favor of establishing marketing quotas and loans on stored grain before the secretary of agriculture can establish marketing quotas and loans on stored grains. These same politicians told farmers that they would be forced to plant exactly as some government agent told them to plant. Nothing is further from the truth, which these men knew at the time they were making the statements.

The 1938 Agricultural Conservation program will soon be offered to the farmers of Valley county. The poor, ignorant government agents who were elected by the local farmers will again go out and try to explain the provisions of the program. If the program appeals to the farmers they may sign agreements to cooperate and if it does not appeal to them they need not sign these agreements, and can plant all their land to corn in 1938, which in view of present conditions would be about as poor a farming practice as could be followed.

If an overproduction of corn or wheat results in 1938, the producers of these commodities will have a chance to vote on whether or not they want the secretary of agriculture to establish marketing quotas, and loans on grains stored on the farm. If more than one-third of the producers of these commodities who take the trouble to vote will vote against the establishment of such quotas and loans they will not be established. It is left to the producers themselves to decide and the man who did not cooperate in the conservation program will be eligible to receive these loans although at a lower rate than the cooperator if a two-thirds majority vote in favor of the plan.

As a farmer, I do not want anyone dictating to me about how I shall run my farm. But on the other hand so long as the government maintains a tariff to protect the manufacturer, so long as legislation is in force to protect labor from being exploited by capital, so long as railroads are protected by law against hauling my products at a rate which will not return them a fair rate on their investment and so long as Board of Trade members are permitted to make their living by speculating in the products which the farmer produces, then the farmer surely has a right to some governmental aid to prevent others from exploiting him. I would prefer that farm legislation be written by men who have some understanding of farm conditions than by the packers, the grain traders and political writers like Mark Sullivan.

I wish to assure the farmers who cooperate in the program this next year that the local office will be conducted solely for the purpose of obtaining all possible benefits for Valley county and that the local officers are not government agents dictating to the farmers of this county as to what they shall plant and how they shall run their farms.

University of Nebraska Study Reveals Correlation Between Auto Horsepower and Deaths

Lincoln, Nebr.—The above graph plotted by Prof. W. F. Welland of the department of mechanical engineering of the University of Nebraska emphasizes in a few words the high degree of correlation between the increase in engine horsepower and the mounting automobile death toll for the country as a whole. The solid line represents the actual increase of horsepower on the highway for the period from 1925 to 1937. It also takes into account the increased size of the power plant and the increase in registration, while the dotted line represents the increase in automobile fatalities for the same period. Figures for 1937 are estimated.

After weeks of research spent in going over data issued by the automobile industry, Professor Welland is able to show that the increase in engine horse power does go hand in hand with the increase in the number of highway deaths. Says the University of Nebraska engineer: "At a speed of 20 miles an hour driving tests show that the motorist's car will travel 20 feet while the driver is 'waking up'—at 60 miles an hour, 60 feet. Even after brakes are applied the car will glide another 20 feet before coming to a complete stop when traveling at a speed of 20 miles an hour and at 60 miles an hour it will skid on for 160 feet. Suppose the individual is traveling 60 miles an hour. If he stops in the average distance of 220 feet, he is requiring more than two-thirds of a city block to bring his car to a halt. The total time required for a complete stop, then, will average from 4½ seconds, under ideal conditions, to 7½ seconds under good conditions."

Figures now show that deaths in the rural districts and on the open road make up 68 per cent of the total motor vehicle deaths. In 1925 the death total on the open road was more than 54 per cent, which is increased along with engine power to the previous figure. Motor registration increased 31 per cent from 1925 to 1937.

"In spite of our efforts to reduce the highway deaths, the fact still remains that automobile power plants are becoming larger each year and more people are being killed," says Professor Welland. "I would suggest two solutions, namely, the use of a governor on the engine to control the maximum speed, and, even more important, a reduction of engine horsepower. Who, may we ask, has demanded a 32 per cent increase in engine power the last ten years? Human nature cannot be changed. If speed and power are there, there are many who will want to use it. What the public really demands is safety and then economy—40 miles per hour and 30 miles to the gallon. It can be done."
