Chanticleers Show Good Improvement But Lose to Aggies

Curtis Invaders Cop Twice at Ord's Expense; Kearney Next Ord Opponent.

Although both games were closely contested, Ord high's Chanticleers dropped two games to the Curtis Aggies on the Ord floor Friday and Saturday night.

In the first game, Curtis edged the Ordsters 29 to 23. The second game was even closer than the first, the Aggies coming out of the shuffle on top of a 22 to 20 count.

Don Severson, Ord forward, led the scoring for the Chanticleers in the first game as he scored a total of 11 points. In the second contest Severson was placed under careful guard by the Aggies and was able to push only one field goal through the hoop. Dahlin took over the scoring honors in the second game as he came through with 10 points.

Ord wilted in the second half Friday night or they would have scored a triumph over the Aggies. At the half Ord was leading by a comfortable 16 to 9 margin. The Chanticleer offense and defense bogged down in the second half.

Saturday night's game was a different story from the Friday night affair. Coach Brockman's quint was trailing 11 to 6 at the halftime but came back in the second half to sink 14 counters. Late in the third stanza the Ordsters were leading the Aggies by a one point margin.

The Ord basketballers have shown great improvement in the past three games and with much valuable experience behind them are expected to give Kearney a run for their money as the two teams meet on the Kearney floor this Friday night.

One of the acts of the Nebraska unicameral legislature when it convened for a brief period Tuesday morning was to select Mrs. Ruth Cushing as its postmistress for the second time. Mrs. Cushing filled out the unexpired term of her husband in the legislature three years ago, and served with distinction as postmistress of the first unicameral. The members also confirmed the appointment of Hugo Srb, former legislator, as chief clerk for the second term, and appointed Tracy T. Frost of St. Paul, assistant sergeant-at-arms. Wm. H. Dies, of Gresham, was chosen speaker and L. B. Murphy, of Scottsbluff, chairman of the committee on committees.

Effective Jan. 2, Nebraska railroads were authorized by the railway commission to cut freight rates on less-than-carload shipments between points in Nebraska, and both Henry Frey, Burlington agent, and O. E. Johnson, Union Pacific agent, announced that morning that their rates are now competitive with those being charged by trucks.

Between Ord and Omaha the 1st class freight rate is now 91c, the intermediate rate 64c, the 4th class rate 50c and the column 45 rate is 41c. Ord to Lincoln rates are 84c, 59c, 46c and 35c, in the same classes. Similar reductions also went into effect Tuesday between Ord and other Nebraska points.

Burglary, Car Theft Charges Face D. Hill

Young Hill is Wanted in Valley County for Questioning in Connection with a Burglary at North Loup

Dwight "Spike" Hill, alias Lloyd DeLaine Wilson, is being held under $2,000 bond at Bloomington, Ill., and must face charges of burglary and car theft, according to Sheriff George S. Round, Hill, former Ord and North Loup boy, gave his name as Wilson when arrested but was identified by the P. B. L. by his fingerprints.

Young Hill is wanted in Valley county for questioning in connection with a burglary at North Loup about two years ago. Two men arrested for the robbery implicated Hill in their confessions as the man who planned the affair.

Should he be convicted of the Bloomington charges the Valley county charge probably will not be pressed but it released there he will be brought back to Nebraska. Hill has served time in county jail and the state reformatory for various criminal acts.

Ord's Christmas Lights Taken Down This Week

Ord's Christmas decorations, which have added much to the holiday spirit for the past thirty days, were taken down this week and stored away for use next year. Despite the fact that there was no snow, and very little cold weather, the beauty of Ord's Christmas lights was commented upon by many visitors during the time they were lighted. It is certain that little real Christmas weather would have heightened the effect.

W. L. D. Auble Dies Friday at Age 81; 50-Year Resident

Paralytic Stroke 5 Years Ago Brought Ill Health; the Funeral Held Sunday.

After five years of ill health from results of a paralytic stroke, William Lewis Dayton Auble, better known to a horde of friends as "Dayt", died at his home in Ord on Friday, Dec. 30, at the age of 81. He had been a resident of Valley county fifty years.

Mr. Auble was born Nov. 25, 1857 to Charlotte and James Auble at Newton, N. J., and when ten years of age moved with them to a farm near Bushnell, Ill., where he grew to manhood. In 1882 he came to Nebraska and settled near Eagle, in Cass county, and a year later at Lincoln occurred his marriage to Martha Peterson who was his devoted companion and helpmate for 55 years and who survives him.

In 1885 the family moved to Garfield county and took a homestead and three years later to Valley county, where they lived for many years on the farm now owned by E. S. Coats in Vinton township. Moving to Ord, Mr. Auble operated the old Blue Barn, a community landmark for many years, and also engaged in dairying and in the breeding and training of fine horses, which was his hobby throughout life. He trained and drove at county fairs many fine trotting horses, including the famous "Dandy A."

Owner of a farm north of Winster, S. D., the Auble family spent their summers there for seven years but maintained the home in Ord. Except for these summers and one year spent in California, Ord and Valley county were the family home for fifty years.

"Dayt" Auble was one of the sturdy, sacrificing pioneers who helped to settle Valley county and who used his talents to do the most good for everyone. He loved to sing and play the violin and for years he and Mrs. Auble were depended on to sing for funerals and community gatherings in the Vinton neighborhood. They also conducted singing schools at neighboring school houses for many years.

In brief, Mr. Auble's life story is that of an honorable and useful man who was spared to the upbuilding of the community over a long period of years. It is a story of privations on the frontier and of a highly esteemed family reared to manhood and womanhood to carry on the services their father and mother rendered.

Besides his widow, Mr. Auble is survived by five children, Mrs. Lou Schwamer, of Scottsbluff, Mrs. J. W. Severson, Glen, A. J., and L. J. Auble.

Nebraska Auto Deaths 223 For Past Year

That the state patrol system cut down the number of auto fatalities in Nebraska is evidenced by the statistical report released at Lincoln Dec. 31. The record shows a death total for the year over the entire state of 223, which is 99 less than that of 1937. Thirty-four counties had no fatalities the past year, compared with 20 in 1937. Thirteen counties had no auto fatalities in either year.

Counties with no fatalities in either year are: Arthur, Banner, Brown, Grant, Greeley, Harlan, Hayes, Hooker, Howard, Logan, McPherson, Thomas and Wheeler. Those having no fatalities in 1937 were: Arthur, Banner, Box Butte, Boyd, Brown, Dundy, Frontier, Grant, Greeley, Harlan, Hayes, Hitchcock, Hooker, Logan, Howard, McPherson, Rock, Saline, Thomas and Wheeler.

Valley joins the perfect list for 1938, which includes: Antelope, Arthur, Banner, Blaine, Brown, Burt, Garfield, Gosper, Grant, Greeley, Harlan, Hayes, Hooker, Howard, Johnson, Kearney, Keya Paha, Knox, Logan, Loup, McPherson, Nemaha, Pawnee, Perkins, Polk, Sherman, Sioux, Stanton, Thayer, Thomas, Valley, Wayne, Wheeler.

-11 Was Coldest 105 Hottest in '38, by Official Record

The weather report for 1938, as shown by the records kept by Horace Travis, reveals some rather interesting facts. Whereas the usual coldest weather comes in January, it came in February last year, 11 below zero being the coldest day of that month and also of the entire year. Instead of the hottest weather coming in July as is customary it came last year in August, 105 being the highest temperature of the year.

The first two months of the year were very dry, with a good average rainfall for the rest of the year except August, October, November and December. The high and low readings for each month of the year follow:

Month	High	Low	Rainfall
January	59	-9	.77
February	61	-11	.32
March	75	15	1.78
April	80	20	1.88
May	82	31	4.34
June	96	55	2.36
July	101	52	3.75
August	105	54	.88
September	92	31	2.43
October	91	18	.05
November	71	0	.88
December	61	-6	.03
	81	21	19.47

The rainfall for last year was 2.20 inches more than that for 1937, when 17.27 inches was reported, distributed as follows: Jan., .54; Feb., .07; March, .89; April, .93; May, 3.44; June, 2.10; July, 3.47; Aug., 2.07; Sept., 1.42; Oct., 2.05; Nov., .12; and Dec., .17. It will be noted from the above record that the rain started too late in 1937, and quit too soon in 1938.

It is now a full fifty years since the official records were started in Ord, Jan. 1, 1889. In that time several persons had charge of the records, among them W. A. Anderson, James Milford and Mr. Travis, who has kept them for the past ten years. The average rainfall for the 50 year period is 23.46 inches, and for the past ten years, 20.67 inches, showing a definite reason for the drought.

The 50 year record shows that the heaviest rainfall was in 1905, when 42.30 inches fell, and the lightest was in 1934, only 10.98 inches. The heaviest month's rainfall during the period were as follows: January, 1891, 2.51 inches; February, 1912, 6.60 inches; March, 1927, 3.80 inches; April, 1920, 10.70 inches; May, 1923, 9.03 inches; June, 1905, 10.17 inches; July, 1889, 10.37 inches; August, 1923, 8.55 inches; September, 1901, 5.34 inches; October, 1904, 4.92 inches; November, 1913, 4.13 inches; December, 1913, 5.19 inches.

Ord's Jobless Filed Claims Tuesday for Unemployment Compensation Under New Law

A number of jobless Ord men variously estimated at from 50 to 100 crowded the lower corridor of the Valley county court house Tuesday morning when Claris Bellingher, unemployment compensation representative for this area, appeared in Ord to accept benefit claims for the first time. Actual number of claims filed could not be learned because Bellingher was in Ord only between 9 and 11 a. m. and was so busy during that period he could not be interviewed by a Quiz reporter. He will be in Ord each Tuesday hereafter during the same hours.

Under Nebraska's new unemployment compensation law, jobless men who worked for an employer operating under the law for at least eight weeks between Jan. 1 and Oct. 1, 1938 were eligible to file claims starting Tuesday. Applicants were required to

Electric Service Poor Regardless of Who to Blame

Fisher's Denial that Service Unsatisfactory Resented by Ord, Burwell Users.

Regardless of what agency is to blame, electric service being furnished to the cities of Ord and Burwell is definitely unsatisfactory and people here are expressing resentment at the denial of poor service made Friday by C. H. Fisher, president of the Platte Valley power and irrigation district, as published in state papers.

Fisher asserted that North Platte that the cause of failures or "outages" in current furnished Ord, Burwell and other municipalities is not the fault of hydro-electric districts but the lines of the Western Public Service company which carry energy from the Platte Valley's station at Elm Creek to the North Loup's substation at Olean.

"I do not mean to criticize the utility," Fisher said, "but since negotiations have been under way for the purchase of state utilities, the system has not been adequately maintained."

Fisher asserted "cooperation" of the cities of the North Platte district, the districts and the private utilities is needed.

A few weeks ago the Ord council passed a resolution denouncing "poor service" being done to this city, and the resolution provoked President Fisher's denial.

The light and power situation in Ord was somewhat better than usual for the month of December until Christmas night, when some trouble on the line between Loup City and Ansley, the nature of which has not been disclosed, caused a large number of outages. The total number for the month, as shown by the Stark Enumerator, was 75.

There was one interruption Dec. 1st, at 6:10 p. m. Dec. 8, the city ran by request from 8:00 a. m. to 6:15 p. m., while some work was being done on the high line. The trouble Christmas night began shortly before midnight there being 3 interruptions on Dec. 25. From midnight until 8:35 a. m., when the city picked up the load, 71 breaks were recorded.

The city plant carried the load on Dec. 26 from 8:35 a. m., until 5:45 p. m., when the high line current came on once more. The interruptions during Christmas night varied from what the company calls dips of a second or two to some of several minutes. The chart for that time shows so many lines running from 120 watts down to zero and back again that it is impossible to count all of them. The counting machine, however, gives an accurate record.

A strong north wind was responsible for failure of high line to deliver continuous service. If such a wind, accompanied by snow, should last several days, presumably high line service would be interrupted for the entire period. So far the winter has been an open one with little bad weather but a stormy period is overdue and operation of the municipal plant will be Ord's only recourse during such periods, unless the high line is put in proper condition and maintained so as to furnish continuous service.

Regardless of whether the North Loup's lines, the Western Public Service company's lines or the hydro-electric plants are to blame, service being furnished to Ord and also to Burwell is definitely unsatisfactory and all the denials President Fisher or other officials can make will not change that condition.

Ord and Burwell are paying a high price for energy because they want to help the local district, not through any desire to help the Western Public Service company or improve the financial condition of the "white elephant" Columbus and Platte Valley projects. It is regretted here that a large portion of the money paid by Ord and Burwell goes to the Western Public and the hydro-electric projects only a small portion staying in the valley to help pay off cost of the North Loup district. People here agree with President Fisher that "cooperation" is needed but not the kind of "cooperation" that demands everything from Ord and Burwell electric users and gives nothing in return, as has been the case to date.

Death Saturday of Henry Marks Shock to Friends

Long Time Ord Resident Became Ill at Livestock Sale, Went Home, Died Soon.

Not in many months has the sudden passing of an Ordite shocked the community as did the death Saturday afternoon of Henry Marks 70, who died at his home here after a sudden seizure with heart disease.

He attended the livestock auction that afternoon, felt suddenly ill and left the sale to consult a doctor, then went to his home. A few minutes later he dropped over dead.

Mr. Marks was born in Madison, Wis., on Feb. 24, 1868 and in 1879 came with his parents, Henry and Frederika Marks, to Mira Valley, where his parents homesteaded what is now known as the Will Koeling farm. There his boyhood and young manhood were spent and there on June 15, 1933 he was united in marriage at the parental home to Miss Lizzie Hecker.

Soon afterward the Marks family moved to Ord which has since been the family home. For a time Mr. Marks engaged in the implement and livestock business but after ten years sold the implement business. In partnership with his son, Samuel, he continued buying and selling livestock up to the time of his death.

He was active in civic affairs, serving several terms on the city council, and was deputy sheriff eight years. He was a member of the Modern Woodmen lodge 44 years and an active member of the Masonic lodge 42 years, receiving the Jordan medal two years ago for being the oldest Mason in years of service in the Masonic lodge of Ord. He was a kind and loving husband and father, a great home lover and a man of personal integrity and honor.

To Mr. and Mrs. Marks three children were born, who with the widow mourn Mr. Marks' going. They are Daniel Henry Marks, of Sargent; Samuel Joseph Marks, of Ord; and Mrs. Ella Mae Reimer, of Cleveland. Also left to mourn are two sisters, Anna Louisa Marks, of Ord, and Mrs. Wilhelmina Lyon, of Idaho Falls, Ida.; one brother, Joseph Z. Marks, of Ord; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Methodist church, Rev. C. G. Robberson being in charge. The Masonic lodge conducted their ritualistic service also. Interment was in the Ord cemetery.

John Perkins Dies At Mitchell, Nebr.

Word has been received in Ord of the recent death of John Perkins. Mr. Perkins, son of S. L. Perkins, lived in Valley county 35 or more years ago, and was well known by residents of that time. For the past thirty years he has lived near Mitchell, Nebr., and was a successful farmer in the irrigation district there. Not long ago he sold out on account of his health, and planned to spend some time in travel. The cause of his death was heart trouble.

Asks Dismissal of Misko Contest

In a motion filed Saturday, County Attorney Alvin B. Lee asks that the county court dismiss John P. Misko's contest action on the grounds that bond for costs filed by Misko is not in accordance with statutes and that sureties therein are not justified as required by law. County Judge Andersen will hold a hearing on Lee's motion some time today or Thursday.

Seek to Learn Who Influenced Woman

A hearing in the Mrs. Reade will case will be held in county court today on a motion filed by Munn & Norman, attorneys for the estate, who seek to learn identity of the persons "not of kin" who are claimed to have exerted undue influence on Mrs. Reade. Such undue influence was claimed in the action to break the will filed by Mrs. Mable Potter, one of the heirs, through her attorney, O. B. Clark of Lincoln. Names of the persons were not given in the action. The case originally was scheduled for hearing Jan. 10.

Marriage Total Slightly Below 15 Year Average

Figures furnished by John L. Andersen, county judge, show that there were 58 marriage licenses issued in Valley county for 1938. January was the high month in number with 9. The number in the other months were: Febr., 6; March, 2; April, 3; May, 3; June, 7; July, 4; Aug., 3; Sept., 5; Oct., 7; Nov., 6; and Dec., 3. June did fairly well, but the old adage about December being a month of marriages failed to work out.

The average number of licenses issued for the past 15 years was 62, the highest being in 1928 with 75 and the lowest in 1932, which had only 45. Of the 1938 marriages, 21 were married by the county judge, at least one couple receiving his blessing in each month of the year.

The Valley county board of supervisors will hold its annual organization meeting next Tuesday, Jan. 1, beginning with election of a chairman and appointment of committees, and continuing with auditing of offices and the other usual duties. The session is expected to last three days.

Stockholders of the Nebraska State bank will hold their annual meeting on Jan. 21, at which time directors will be elected and other business transacted. Quarterly statement of the bank, copy for which is now in the printer's hands, will be published next week. The Nebraska State had a good year, adding $1,800 to its surplus fund and retiring $7,000 in preferred stock. Local loans are $400,000 higher than last year, President Mortensen reports.

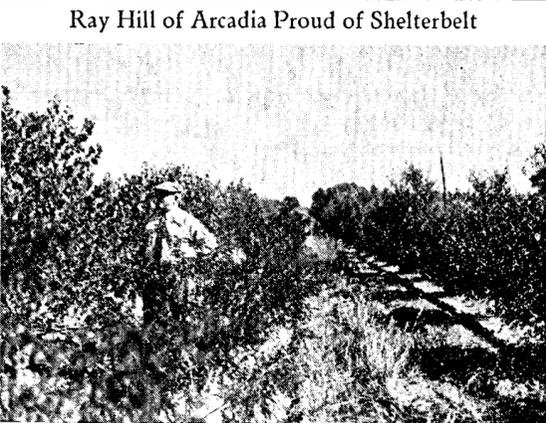

REMARKABLE WEATHER.

The first three days of January could have passed for the first three of October or April with warm readings of about 60 above each day, and a cool of slightly above the freezing point at night. This morning brought a light rain which quickly froze to a glare of ice. Snow and colder weather is likely.

(Continued from Page 1.) more than $15 weekly compensation since this is the maximum allowed. It also is stated that any man drawing compensation checks may not earn more than $3 weekly at outside employment, under penalty of losing his compensation. Most of the jobless who filed claims with Bellingier Tuesday were employed by the Inland Construction Company on the North Loup project during 1938. Some have been unemployed since Inland quit work on timber bridges last March, while others found other employment for varying periods.

In Lincoln Tuesday it was stated by Robert T. Malone, director of the unemployment compensation division of the state employment service, that his division is prepared to process benefit claims as soon as they are received at state headquarters, and to determine the validity of each claim. "Our aim is to pay benefits as promptly and accurately as careful attention to each individual claim will permit," Malone said. "We must also inform each employer of the claim filed by his former employee."

Malone said a two weeks' waiting period must follow filing of a claim for benefits. Then the applicant must serve an additional week of full unemployment, known as his first compensable week. He said those filing claims this week might reasonably expect their first checks by mail some time between Jan. 25 and Febr. 1. Funds to pay the benefits are derived from a special 2.7 cent payroll tax levied on all firms employing 8 or more workmen.

Last Monday morning we were notified by a passing truckman of a fire in our field near the highway, consuming the county snow fence. Hurrying out to investigate we found a fire had been started in the rubbish along the fence, piled up high during the recent high winds. Considerable damage was done to the fence, a telephone pole and the county snow fence. Evidently a passing motorist had discarded a cigarette stub. Had the fire been discovered later or the wind stronger, much more damage would have been the result.

Ord Seed & Grain Co.

In Former WEEKS SEED CO. BUILDING

We handle all kinds of seed and grain, also do custom grinding.

We have a good supply of Sweet Lassy feed. Also potatoes and new crop popcorn, both kinds, that really pops good.

We handle Mellow D Flour. Give us a chance to serve you.

Some Apples. If you need Ash fire wood, we have it. We are in the market for some Evergreen and Country Gentleman Sweet Corn.

Poultry

WE WANT TO BUY a lot of Poultry this week and are willing to pay good high prices. If you don't think these are good prices, consult your Omaha or Lincoln papers.

This poultry is to be shipped to the west coast which is a good market at certain times of the year for heavy breed chickens. There is an abundance of leghorns in California, therefore we have nothing special to offer on leghorns at this time.

WE WILL NOT have a car on the track but will pay the following prices all this week at the Creamery:

Heavy Breed Hens, all sizes 13c
HEAVY BREED SPRINGS, all sizes.....12c
(This includes stags and our advice is to sell them before the price goes to 10c per pound)
HEAVY BREED OLD ROOSTERS..... 7c
Leghorn Cox 5c, Leghorn Hens 9c, Leghorn Springs 8c
We will not buy culls or sick chickens at any price

Let us know if you have any Turkeys.

We have been informed by packer buyers that Ord is paying more for Poultry than any place in the state and that the price should be reduced to 11c on hens. Also that 10c is plenty high for Springs because they are nearly all Stags.

The ABOVE PRICE LIST is our answer and it holds good all this week.

We pay more for good eggs than you can get elsewhere.

We want to buy more cream. Producers are beginning to realize that no Dividend would be paid in Ord if this Creamery were not here.

We invite your patronage and assure you honest weights and tests, fair treatment and appreciation.

We want to thank all those of you who have patronized this Creamery during 1938.

It would be impossible for the employees to make a success of this business without your good will, your patronage and cooperation.

SO WE SAY THANKS AND Wish You Success in 1939 Ord Coop. Creamery Co.

Resolve to Make Your Meat Dollars Go Farther in 1939

Most housewives buy their meat on a pretty limited budget nowadays and of course they want to get the most meat possible for their money. And we want to help them. In buying meat we ask you to remember:

1. That meat selling for 1c or 2c per pound less at one market may actually be more expensive than at the other market, if it is sold "untrimmed" and has to be trimmed at home. (We always trim waste materials closely and the meat you buy here is ready to cook.)
2. That cheaper cuts of meat contain fully as many calories and vitamins as the more expensive cuts. (Our market cooperates gladly in helping you select tasty, inexpensive cuts of meat.)
3. That grade for grade and pound for pound, no market under sells us on meat.
4. That no market in the Loup valley region has a finer or larger stock of meats than ours.
5. That our facilities for butchering, preparing and refrigerating meats properly are unsurpassed.

We invite the patronage of economical housewives during 1939.

WITH publication of this section the Quiz realizes a long standing ambition, and the Quiz staff hopes these photos will prove interesting to readers.

On this page and on the two which follow are presented photographs of and brief biographical data about all Valley county students who are attending institutions of higher learning. We say "all," because a sincere effort was made to obtain the picture of every Valley county boy and girl now enrolled in a college, university or school of nursing, but it is possible that some were missed. If any Quiz reader knows of a boy or girl whose picture should have appeared in this department but was omitted we will appreciate hearing about it and will attempt to present the picture in next week's issue.

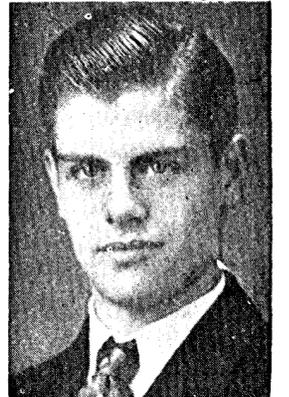

Surprising it is that an agricultural county, hard hit by depression and the drought as Valley county has been, should send more than 100 of its young people to institutions of higher learning. Many are attending because of real sacrifices made by their parents; others because, though their parents were unable to help, they had the intense urge for a better education that makes them cheerfully undergo the hard, drudging tasks over long hours necessary in "working their way through."

To Valley county's college students and their parents this issue is dedicated.

OUR AGRICULTURAL OUTLOOK.

Note: This editorial is a condensed resume of a longer article compiled by C. C. Dale, county agent, and furnished committee of the Agricultural Program.

Until recently farming in this country has been considered a sound business, a business in which a man could, by hard work and application of business sense accumulate enough to keep himself comfortably in his later years.

The prosperity of the farmer in the past was brought about more by the increase in the value of the land he owned than by the crops he raised. He made a comfortable living while he lived on the farm, and by selling at the increased price, was able to retire in comfort.

He was helped in this by the lower standard of living and by the fact that all members of the family worked hard from morning until night. Should the farmer of today be content with that kind of a life, or should he have a car, a radio, attend a movie occasionally, and live in general the kind of life that is lived in the city?

The days of free land have gone forever, and the farmer of today is faced with problems far different from those which faced his father or grandfather.

In the past the farmer prided himself upon his independence, and now that independence may lead to his downfall. Industry and labor have tied themselves together for their own protection. The farmer stands alone.

The question that faces the farmer in this, can he continue to farm profitably under these changed conditions? Can he continue paying industry and labor the price they demand for their product, and accept from them whatever they will pay for what he produces? When prices drop below the cost of production, then what will happen?

We hear talk of repealing the AAA and letting the farmer again be free. Can the unprotected farmer prosper under our changed condition, while industry and labor have their many protective laws? We in the drouth areas made the high price of corn in 1934 and 1936, but prosperity which is based on the misfortunes of other farmers cannot last.

The cattle market is good now because farmers are restocking their farms. When they again put cattle on the market, what will happen to the price? Our export trade was lost before farm programs were started to protect the farmer. We can never expect to get it back as it once was, for most foreign nations are learning to be self-supporting.

We are twitted about cutting down corn acreage and at the same time helping to show farmers that hybrid corn will produce higher yields. If it will produce higher yields it lowers the cost of production. The normal corn acreage of the United States is nearly 100,000,000 acres. Perhaps by growing hybrid corn we can raise enough to supply the demand on seventy million acres.

Reducing this at a farm figure, we will say that the normal for your farm is 100 acres. If you can raise enough on 70 acres by using hybrid, why use your horse power and machinery and your time planting, cultivating and harvesting 100 acres, when 70 will do the job? Why not follow a soil conservation program by seeding down the 30 acres, holding the soil and building up its fertility? Why not go fishing instead of working that extra 30 acres??

FEDERAL JURY LIST.

Last Tuesday at Grand Island fifty men were named for jury service when the federal court holds its annual jury term in the post-office building beginning Jan. 9. Each year a list of fifty is named and they report for duty, but some years there are no cases for them to pass judgment upon, and they are paid their salary and expenses and sent back home.

It would seem that there should be some method whereby it could be determined ahead of time whether or not a jury is needed and the expense of a jury saved in years when it is not used. This is an item that should be called to the attention of the Taxpayers' League as there is no object in wasting the time of fifty men unless their services are actually needed.

In the matter of towns, Burwell leads with six names; Loup City, Kearney and Dunning each have four; Wood River, Ravenna and Grand Island each have three; Broken Bow, North Loup, Greeley, Litchfield, Hyannis, Taylor, Palmer and Theford each have two; while St. Paul, Amherst, Elba, Mullen, Central City, Ansley and Callaway drew one each.

Buffalo leads the counties with a representation of eight; Garfield, Hall and Sherman counties each have six; Custer and Blaine counties each have four; Merrick county has three; Howard, Valley, Greeley, Grant, Loup and Thomas counties each have two; Hooker county has one.

What method is used for the selection of names is not known, but it is certain that they are not drawn by lot or they would be more evenly distributed.

However, this is not so serious as the fact that the list from which the names are selected is entirely out of date. For example, the name of L. J. Hummel, of Burwell, who died three years ago, is included in the list; that of P. O. Petersen, who moved from Burwell to Callaway two years ago, appears from Burwell; while the name of Chas. Frease, who moved to Burwell nearly two years ago, appears from Ravenna.

There are doubtless others, unknown to the writer, who have died or have moved elsewhere since the list was compiled. The jury certainly could be selected from a more up-to-date list, or it could be ascertained if those selected are available and necessary additions made before the list is published. This is written in the spirit of constructive criticism, and the Quiz hopes that the present system may be improved.

QUESTIONABLE HONOR.

According to the newspapers, the Duchess of Windsor is no longer the best dressed woman in the world, an honor that she has held for several years. The first place is now given to a Spanish princess, with the Duchess of Windsor in second place, and her sister-in-law, the Duchess of Kent, in third place.

This is great news, we hope, for somebody, but after all, who cares? To aspire to be the best dressed person in the world means that the aspirant cannot do any work of any kind, must spend all her time in making herself presentable, and must have unlimited funds to spend for clothes. There is a world of difference between being well dressed and in being the best dressed in the world, and that difference is vital.

American business women, if their business is managing a home or working in an office, contrive to dress neatly and fashionably, and in most cases they earn their own living and must dress within their means. They do not aspire to be the best dressed woman in the world, but dress simply, neatly and in good taste. They are the foundation of democratic government.

Any contestant for "best dressed" honors must of necessity belong to the aristocracy and have nothing in the world to do except to be a fashion plate. She must spend more for clothes than the entire living expenses of several families, and that to no worth while end. Her example merely inspires a lot of poorer people to live beyond their means in the matter of clothes.

Fine clothes are a mark of quality, of the clothes, but not necessarily of the people who wear them. Often times the finest quality goods come in plain packages. The well dressed stranger may make more of an impression, but we like our friends regardless of the clothes they may happen to be wearing. In fact, we feel more at home with them if they are plainly dressed.

Don't measure your friends by the clothes they wear. There are more true noblemen in overalls in America today than in fancy clothes. If you are selecting a friend who will stay with you thru the years, select him from the working class. The man with social aspirations will turn to the first new friends who can give him a lift in the direction he is going, but your friend in working clothes will never let you down.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD.

Among the unusual and interesting facts concerning Ord is one of which many people are unaware, in the Deacon and Clint shop Ord has two very unusual names coupled together in one enterprise. They are Virgil McBurney and Quentin Witherwax. Virgil says they call each other Deacon and Clint because half the time they can't remember what their names are.

Now that the holiday season is about over, it is about time to admit that Ord merchants certainly did a fine job of dressing up their windows this year. People came to Ord from a long distance on shopping trips, and not a few of them remarked at the enterprise shown by Ord's business men in making such a fine display. They will come to trade in Ord again.

Among the most attractive of the Christmas decorations were the Santa Claus atop the Mortensen residence and the Nativity in the M. Blomond yard. They were both the work of Syl Furtak, who, as everybody knows, was the builder of the Santa Claus and reindeer that have graced the top of the court house for the past few years. The display on top of the city hall was designed a few years ago by Mrs. Bud Martin.

Five Star Feature.

W. H. Plourd of the Nance County Journal is a modest man. He uses five stars to separate his editorials, while the most optimistic picture reviewers never use more than four stars. They are good editorials at that.

Signs of Insanity.

The nearest thing to lunacy that the New Dealers have come to yet is the proposition of loaning money to China and South America so that they could buy goods from us. Killing pigs and plowing up crops was lunacy.—Vahoo Wasp.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT! The Xmas Present Short Shavings

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

The Christmas Present. Two weeks ago, as a Christmas present, the Scotia Cooperative Creamery paid its rebate or dividend of 3c per pound. In the last thirteen years of the factory's existence, this creamery has paid out $90,000.00 in rebates. The Ord Cooperative Creamery has paid similar rebates at Christmas and so has the Burwell Creamery, and to meet competition, big cooperative creameries have also paid rebates.

One man said, "it is a racket." Another farmer and cooperater, answered, "if it's a racket, let's have more of them." Had this Scotia creamery been privately owned, that owner would have made $90,000.00 in the short span of thirteen years. Instead that money has gone back to the producers, besides paying the manager a very good salary.

The cream business has come to the point, that in most instances there is little competition among the buyers as to the price paid. It is not difficult to determine the price to pay for cream, judging by the market price of butter. This price is determined, then two or three cents taken from that to pay the dividend at Christmas time and make the producer happy—happy that the creamery has saved that money for him, off the price he should have received on the spot. It is one of the cleverest advertising schemes ever devised, next to bank night.

Had the Scotia creamery been privately owned, the situation would have been no different, had the owner been able to have gotten the same volume. This owner would have had to pay the $90,000 in rebates, to meet the competition of other creameries, or he would have failed to get the business. How many of us are fooled on that point? In the past, several creameries have failed to pay their dividends. Their business immediately fell off and in many instances those institutions failed the following year.

There is no other line of cooperation in this country that has been able to pay the rebates that the creameries have paid. In most instances the cooperators have had to get together to hold together against privately owned competition. Some cooperators have failed to do this, this being due to the fact that it is hard to hire a manager that is as efficient as a privately owned institution. In fact on one score, the privately owned creameries have been more profitable in the last few years, because a cooperative that is properly organized, has been exempt from paying many taxes (income taxes) that the privately owned institutions have to pay. This item alone helps pay that rebate.

Another point to consider in the rebate question, is that on cream buying and only cream buying, are the rebates paid. This is grossly unfair, for cream buying is not, by a quite a little, the only enterprise entered into by most of these institutions. Almost all of them buy poultry and eggs and the Burwell creamery does an extensive oil business.

It was told at Scotia the reason rebates were not paid on the poultry business was that the business was done on such a close margin there was no profit there. This may be true, and if it is why then do the big firms buy poultry, and why do not the cooperators drop that unprofitable line? Why is not the cream business done on as close a margin? Why not pay more on the spot for cream if the profit is large?

Let us forget the fact that in the poultry business there is no profit. It is not human that these people would be so anxious to do this work without at least the hope of a profit. Scattered all over the country are men who sell more poultry products than cream. One man down in these parts sells two to six cases of eggs a week; his gross income from his poultry, running well over a thousand dollars a year. He sells entirely to cooperatives, and the profit from that man goes entirely to the other man (the cream producer), the poultryman only keeping two cows. The same may be said of the Burwell creamery and its oil business.

Or does the profit go to the other man? No, it really doesn't. If it were not for this system of rebates established, perhaps the cooperative creameries would pay two to five cents more for the cream as they go along, and the profit from that business would be like the poultry or the oil business, if there is competition there.

Under the present system of rebates, the cream is bought on the same close margin as other lines, only the creameries hold back a portion of your money so as to make you a Christmas present without costing them anything. It is a clever idea; makes the cream producers happy at a happy time of year; makes a fine advertising scheme. It is too bad there are not more such rackets or is it?

OUR AGRICULTURAL OUTLOOK.

Note: This editorial is a condensed resume of a longer article compiled by C. C. Dale, county agent, and furnished committee of the Agricultural Program.

"Until recently farming in this country has been considered a sound business, a business in which a man could, by hard work and application of business sense accumulate enough to keep himself comfortably in his later years.

The prosperity of the farmer in the past was brought about more by the increase in the value of the land he owned than by the crops he raised.

He made a comfortable living while he lived on the farm, and by selling at the increased price, was able to retire in comfort.

He was helped in this by the lower standard of living and by the fact that all members of the family worked hard from morning until night.

Should the farmer of today be content with that kind of a life, or should he have a car, a radio, attend a movie occasionally, and live in general the kind of life that is lived in the city.

The days of free land have gone forever, and the farmer of today is faced with problems far different from those which faced his father or grandfather.

In the past the farmer prided himself upon his independence, and now that independence may lead to his downfall.

Industry and labor have tied themselves together for their own protection. The farmer stands alone.

The question that faces the farmer in this, can he continue to farm profitably under these changed conditions? Can he continue paying industry and labor the price they demand for their product, and accept from them whatever they will pay for what he produces?

When prices drop below the cost of production, then what will happen?

We hear talk of repealing the AAA and letting the farmer again be free. Can the unprotected farmer prosper under our changed condition, while industry and labor have their many protective laws?

We in the drouth areas made the high price of corn in 1934 and 1936, but prosperity which is based on the misfortunes of other farmers cannot last.

The cattle market is good now because farmers are restocking their farms. When they again put cattle on the market, what will happen to the price? Our export trade was lost before farm programs were started to protect the farmer.

We can never expect to get it back as it once was, for most foreign nations are learning to be self-supporting.

"We are twitted about cutting down corn acreage and at the same time helping to show farmers that Hybrid corn will produce higher yields. If it will produce higher yields it lowers the cost of production. The normal corn acreage of the United States is nearly 100,000,000 acres.

Perhaps by growing hybrid corn we can raise enough to supply the demand on seventy million acres.

Reducing this at a farm figure, we will say that the normal for your farm is 100 acres. If you can raise enough on 70 acres by using hybrid, why use your horse power and machinery and your time planting, cultivating and harvesting 100 acres, when 70 will do the job? Why not follow a soil conservation program by seeding down the 30 acres, holding the soil and building up its fertility? Why not go fishing instead of working that extra 30 acres?"

FEDERAL JURY LIST.

Last Tuesday at Grand Island fifty men were named for jury service when the federal court holds its annual jury term in the post-office building beginning Jan. 9.

Each year a list of fifty is named and they report for duty, but some years there are no cases for them to pass judgment upon, and they are paid their salary and expenses and sent back home.

It would seem that there should be some method whereby it could be determined ahead of time whether or not a jury is needed and the expense of a jury saved in years when it is not used.

This is an item that should be called to the attention of the Taxpayers' League as there is no object in wasting the time of fifty men unless their services are actually needed.

In the matter of towns, Burwell leads with six names; Loup City, Kearney and Dunning, each have four; Wood River, Ravenna and Grand Island each have three; Broken Bow, North Loup, Greeley, Litchfield, Hyannis, Taylor, Palmer and Theford each have two; while St. Paul, Amherst, Elba, Mullen, Central City, Ansley and Callaway drew one each.

Buffalo leads the counties with a representation of eight; Garfield, Hall and Sherman counties each have six; Custer and Blaine counties each have four; Merrick county has three; Howard, Valley, Greeley, Grant, Loup and Thomas counties each have two; Hooker county has one.

What method is used for the selection of names is not known, but it is certain that they are not drawn by lot or they would be more evenly distributed.

However, this is not so serious as the fact that the list from which the names are selected is entirely out of date. For example, the name of L. J. Hummel, of Burwell, who died three years ago, is included in the list; that of P. O. Petersen, who moved from Burwell to Callaway two years ago, appears from Burwell; while the name of Chas. Frease, who moved to Burwell nearly two years ago, appears from Ravenna.

There are doubtless others, unknown to the writer, who have died or have moved elsewhere since the list was compiled. The jury certainly could be selected from a more up-to-date list, or it could be ascertained if those selected are available and necessary additions made before the list is published.

This is written in the spirit of constructive criticism, and the Quiz hopes that the present system may be improved.

QUESTIONABLE HONOR.

According to the newspapers, the Duchess of Windsor is no longer the best dressed woman in the world, an honor that she has held for several years.

The first place is now given to a Spanish princess, with the Duchess of Windsor in second place, and her sister-in-law, the Duchess of Kent, in third place.

This is great news, we hope, for somebody, but after all, who cares? To aspire to be the best dressed person in the world means that the aspirant cannot do any work of any kind, must spend all her time in making herself presentable, and must have unlimited funds to spend for clothes.

There is a world of difference between being well dressed and in being the best dressed in the world, and that difference is vital.

American business women, if their business is managing a home or working in an office, contrive to dress neatly and fashionably, and in most cases they earn their own living and must dress within their means.

They do not aspire to be the best dressed woman in the world, but dress simply, neatly and in good taste. They are the foundation of democratic government.

Any contestant for "best dressed" honors must of necessity belong to the aristocracy and have nothing in the world to do except to be a fashion plate. She must spend more for clothes than the entire living expenses of several families, and that to no worth while end.

Her example merely inspires a lot of poorer people to live beyond their means in the matter of clothes.

Fine clothes are a mark of quality, of the clothes, but not necessarily of the people who wear them. Often times the finest quality goods come in plain packages. The well dressed stranger may make more of an impression, but we like our friends regardless of the clothes they may happen to be wearing.

In fact, we feel more at home with them if they are plainly dressed.

Don't measure your friends by the clothes they wear. There are many true noblemen in overalls in America today, than in fancy clothes. If you are selecting a friend who will stay with you thru the years, select him from the working class.

The man with social aspirations will turn to the first new friends who can give him a lift in the direction he is going, but your friend in working clothes will never let you down.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD.

Among the unusual and interesting facts concerning Ord is one of which many people are unaware. In the Deacon and Clint shop Ord has two very unusual names coupled together in one enterprise. They are Virgil McBurney and Quentin Witherwax.

Virgil says they call each other Deacon and Clint because half the time they can't remember what their names are.

Now that the holiday season is about over, it is about time to admit that Ord merchants certainly did a fine job of dressing up their windows this year.

People came to Ord from a long distance on shopping trips, and not a few of them remarked at the enterprise shown by Ord's business men in making such a fine display. They will come to trade in Ord again.

Among the most attractive of the Christmas decorations were the Santa Claus atop the Mortensen residence and the Nativity in the M. Biemond yard. They were both the work of Syl Furtak, who, as everybody knows, was the builder of the Santa Claus and reindeer that have graced the top of the court house for the past few years.

The display on top of the city hall was designed a few years ago by Mrs. Bud Martin.

Five Star Feature.

W. H. Plourd of the Nance County Journal is a modest man. He uses five stars to separate his editorials, while the most optimistic picture reviewers never use more than four stars. They are good editorials at that.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT! The Xmas Present Short Shavings

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

The Christmas Present. Two weeks ago, as a Christmas present, the Scotia Cooperative Creamery paid its rebate or dividend of 3c per pound. In the last thirteen years of the factory's existence, this creamery has paid out $90,000.00 in rebates. The Ord Cooperative Creamery has paid similar rebates at Christmas and so has the Burwell Creamery, and to meet competition, big cooperative creameries have also paid rebates.

One man said, "It is a racket." Another farmer and cooper, answered, "If it's a racket, let's have more of them." Had this Scotia creamery been privately owned, that owner would have made $90,000.00 in the short span of thirteen years. Instead that money has gone back to the producers, besides paying the manager a very good salary.

The cream business has come to the point, that in most instances there is little competition among the buyers as to the price paid. It is not difficult to determine the price to pay for cream, judging by the market price of butter. This price is determined, then two or three cents taken from that to pay the dividend at Christmas time and make the producer happy—happy that the creamery has saved that money for him, off the price he should have received on the spot. It is one of the cleverest advertising schemes ever devised, next to bank night.

Had the Scotia creamery been privately owned, the situation would have been no different, had the owner been able to have gotten the same volume. This owner would have had to pay the $90,000.00 in rebates, to meet the competition of other creameries, or he would have failed to get the business. How many of us are fooled on that point? In the past, several creameries have failed to pay their dividend. Their business immediately fell off and in many instances those institutions failed the following year.

There is no other line of cooperation in this country that has been able to pay the rebates that the creameries have paid. In most instances the cooperators have had tough sledding to hold together against privately owned competition. Some creameries have failed too, this being due to the fact that it is hard to hire a manager that is as efficient as a privately owned institution. In fact on one score, the privately owned creameries have been more profitable in the last few years, because a cooperative that is properly organized, has been exempt from paying many taxes (income taxes) that the privately owned institutions have to pay. This item alone helps pay that rebate.

Another point to consider in the rebate question, is that on cream buying and only cream buying, are the rebates paid. This is grossly unfair, for cream buying is not, by a quite a little, the only enterprise entered into by most of these institutions. Almost all of them buy poultry and eggs and the Burwell creamery does an extensive oil business.

It was told at Scotia the reason rebates were not paid on the poultry business was that the business was done on such a close margin there was no profit there. This may be true, and if it is why then do the big firms buy poultry, and why do not the cooperators drop that unprofitable line? Why is not the cream business done on as close a margin? Why not pay more on the spot for cream if the profit is large?

Let us forget the fact that in the poultry business there is no profit. It is not human that these people would be so anxious to do this work without at least the hope of a profit. Scattered all over the country are men who sell more poultry products than cream. One man down in these parts sells two to six cases of eggs a week; his gross income from his poultry, running well over a thousand dollars a year. He sells entirely to cooperatives, and the profit from that man goes entirely to the other man (the cream producer), the poultryman only keeping two cows. The same may be said of the Burwell creamery and its oil business.

Does the profit go to the other man? No, it really doesn't. If it were not for this system of rebates established, perhaps the cooperative creameries would pay two to five cents more for the cream as they go along, and the profit from that business would be like the poultry or the oil business, if there is competition there.

Under the present system of rebates, the cream is bought on the same close margin as other lines, only the creameries hold back a portion of your money so as to make you a Christmas present without costing them anything. It is a clever idea; makes the cream producers happy at a happy time of year; makes a fine advertising scheme. It is too bad there are not more such rackets or is it?

Short Shavings.

All those who attended the Xmas program at Scotia the evening of the 21st, agree that the music manufactured by the senior chorus there was something quite a little above the average in this section of the country.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

How much moisture will fall in 1939? The average farmer would like to know that more than anything else.

The occurrence of three dry years, one right after another, has happened four times in our county rainfall records.

Whether this cycle will repeat itself in the future, or not, is highly speculative. Data on our county rainfall during the past fifty years show that 20 of those 50 years were wet years.

The annual rainfall for Valley county during the past half century has averaged about 23.5 inches. During the past eight years it has averaged but 18.5 inches.

One year ago it was predicted in this column that 1938 would be slightly wetter than 1936 or 1937, because a somewhat wetter year always followed two subnormal ones.

Will history repeat itself and bring another arid summer in 1939? We hope not.

Red Cross Juniors Close Successful Year

The Valley county Junior Red Cross has completed a very promising year and a most interesting Christmas season, according to Mrs. E. L. Kokes, county chairman.

In the past 12 months a total of 533 new members, all school students up to 8th grade, have been added to the county junior chapter. Where at the beginning of the previous school year the organization was practically unknown, at present it has many enthusiastic teachers carrying out its purpose and their students eagerly looking forward to each issue of the handsome national magazine "Junior News."

It is the policy of the organization to let each teacher and her room do only such Junior Red Cross work as is chosen by that group. Almost every school enrolled has requested that some project be assigned them to perform along with and as a part of the school work.

There were 100 scrapbooks made by the kindergarten, first and second grade students of the Ord grade school under supervision of Misses Ludlow, Swanson, Hallen and Buckley; by District 56, Miss Grace Hall, teacher; by District 34, Miss Ila Ackles, teacher; by District 57, Mrs. Lois Peterson, teacher.

The third to sixth grades of the Ord grade school with the assistance of Misses Swain, Rowbal, Eberspacher, Schneider, and Finley prepared 140 menu covers to be used at Christmas tables of some United States army or navy post. Those from Ord were used at Fort Harrison, near Helena, Mont., and acknowledgment of their receipt comes from the field director there.

Nearly every school enrolled in Valley county has asked for an assignment and in the course of the past 12 months has performed some service to others along with the Junior Red Cross stress put upon first aid and health instruction.

All projects are worked into some regular class work, usually art, English, history or penmanship. Two albums have been sent off to start a foreign correspondence. More will probably be ready by the end of the school year.

Perhaps the most enthusiastic individual teacher in Valley county the past year has been Miss Ila Ackles. She enrolled her district No. 58 last January and undertook some projects there. In the fall she promptly enrolled District No. 34 where she is teaching now and she completed a Christmas assignment.

Requests now being made for Valentine and spring projects are being sent in now and such teachers as are interested may get the assignment in the near future.

Mrs. George Walker, former well known resident of this community, but who has lived at New Haymer, Colo., for some years, asks that her Quiz be sent to her at Benkman, Nebr., for a time. She is visiting a son there.

High Line Trouble.

The Dannebrog News tells of the Middle Loup river washing away the bank and causing the high line poles to fall into the water, causing three breaks in the power service there, beginning a week ago Saturday. The Phonograph tells of a loss of three hours a week ago Wednesday, making the paper late getting out.

Blood Will Tell.

Three blood transfusions were necessary to save a patient's life in a hospital. A brawny Scotchman offered his blood. The patient gave him $50 for the first pint, $25 for the second pint, but the third time he had so much Scotch blood in him that he only thanked him.—U. S. S. Minneapolis North Star.

Around the Corner.

Let's just assume that things are going to be better; let us imagine that someone has cornered that "corner" we have been looking for the past eight years, and who knows, but we will have passed it in our search for better things and times.—Joe Leedom in Gordon Journal.

Strictly Neutral.

Under the neutrality law, United States cannot loan money to belligerents. It is because war was not declared that Morganthau can loan China $25,000,000, or is such sum so insignificant nobody should care that the Chief Executive pays no attention to the wishes of congress?

Mr. and Mrs. Joyce Kemper were called back to Omaha Jan. 2 upon the sudden death of his father, Rev. Jesse Kemper and the funeral was held at Newcastle Wednesday, where they had been living with a daughter. Some relatives from here could not get to the funeral because of the icy roads. Mr. and Mrs. Kemper returned Thursday evening. Mr. DeLarm looked after the store during their absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Westcott and Mr. and Mrs. Irving Westcott met with quite a bad accident last Wednesday, Jan. 4, while trying to get to Newcastle, Neb., to the funeral of Rev. Jesse Kemper. They were using Sylvester Westcott's car and the roads were very icy that morning in some places and at times here was some snow blowing. Near Neligh as they went over the north slope on the viaduct they struck ice and could not control the car and so struck about five guard posts, breaking them, but the cable held them from going over the bank. It threw the car violently to the opposite side and hit the other side guard posts and cable. The fenders and running boards on both sides were about demolished but no one was hurt. They had to return home and not go to the funeral. They were very fortunate that it was no worse.

THIS WEEK WE WANT TO TALK ABOUT—HOME-BUTCHERED
FRESH PORK

We have been in the meat business for a great many years and it is the honest opinion of everyone ever connected with this firm that fresh, home-butchered pork is much superior to pork butchered in packing houses and then shipped out to be retailed in markets located many hundreds of miles away.

When we butcher pork it is properly cooled out, cut up, then goes right into our modern refrigerators where it is kept at one constant temperature until sold to the consumer. Packing house pork, on the contrary, often stays for weeks in refrigeration, then is shipped under varying temperature conditions to a retailer, who in turn puts the meat under refrigeration at another different temperature.

It is our firm conclusion that home-butchered pork is tenderer, tastier and safer, no matter whether you buy it in the form of chops, roasts, steaks, sausage or any other cut.

If you've been buying packing-house pork, try some of our fresh home-butchered pork today. Taste the difference for yourself.

Recalls Celebration. Although he was only eight years old, Frank J. Burkley, now 83 and head of an Omaha printing company bearing his name, vividly recalls the celebration of the breaking of ground in Omaha seventy-five years ago last Saturday for the building of the Union Pacific railroad.

Visiting today at his printing plant, where he still devotes his mornings, Mr. Burkley was found scanning a copy of "The Faded Frontier," a book which he published in 1935 in memory of his parents, who were pioneer residents of Omaha. In this book he related considerable early history of the Union Pacific railroad.

"The breaking of ground for the Union Pacific took place at the ferry landing which was then near the foot of Capitol Avenue and about a block north and a little east of where the smelting works now are," Mr. Burkley said.

He recalled that in those days the landing place of the ferry frequently changed owing to the formation of said bars and small islands in the Missouri river and it was moved from time to time on this account along a distance extending from Harney street to Davenport street.

"However, at the time of the ground-breaking, the landing place was near the east end of Capitol avenue. Council Bluffs participated largely in the celebration in fact, it was a joint celebration of Omaha and Council Bluffs and large numbers came over on the ferry from Council Bluffs to take part."

"I remember that a cannon on each side of the river was fired alternately, groups from both Omaha and Council Bluffs participating."

"Ground was broken by Governor Alvin Saunders, after which followed a number of speeches, including those of the governor, Mayor B. E. B. Kennedy of Omaha, Mayor Palmer of Council Bluffs, and Augustus Kountze of Omaha who was then a director of the Union Pacific railroad."

All business houses, Mr. Burkley said, closed while the celebration was in progress and he remembers how brilliant the town was that night with all buildings, both private and public, illuminated. He remembers that in the evening a supper was served to about 150 persons at the old Herndon House, followed by a ball.

Mr. Burkley says it is difficult for present day Omahans to appreciate the intense interest which was taken for many years as to the "initial point" of the Union Pacific railway—whether the road should be built from Council Bluffs or Omaha.

Mr. Burkley recalls that the Civil War was then at its height, how manpower was then scarce, and of the difficulties encountered in bringing heavy materials to Omaha with which to lay the track. Consequently, the pioneer Omahans remembers it was July 10, 1865 before the first rail was actually laid in Omaha. By the end of 1866, however, Mr. Burkley says that the Union Pacific track covered more than half of the present state of Nebraska.

Contrasting today's cross country travel in two days and three nights, Mr. Burkley said it required early travelers from the Atlantic to the Pacific sea board seven days and seven nights to complete the journey.

There will be a supper at the M. E. church basement Saturday, January 21, to which the public is invited.

Convictions

By STANLEY CORDELL Associated Newspapers. WNU Service.

THIS is one of the many stories told me by Warden Lucius Dayton of the Hawkins state prison.

"Folks really haven't much idea about the duties of a warden," he said, smiling, "or the extent of his responsibility. Being in charge of a prison isn't like it used to be. A warden has to be something of a psychologist, has to know and understand human nature."

"Oh, we've had our share of difficult situations and difficult characters. I recall particularly the case of Rus Julian."

"He was only a young fellow when he came here to begin a seven to ten stretch. Young and full of bitterness and resentment. He'd lost his job a year or so before, and had difficulty in getting another. In fact, he didn't get another. He tried a couple of places and was turned down, and gave up trying. Instead, he got in with the wrong crowd. Within six months Rus was arrested twice for participating in riots."

"In prison or out it didn't make any difference to Rus. He was still pretty sore at the world, arrogant and contemptuous. In less than a week's time he had won himself a form in solitary for starting a disturbance over in B section."

"Two weeks later he saw the solitary cell a second time. After his third offense I sent for him, having in mind to talk to the boy, try and help him if I could."

"I learned a few new things about human nature as a result of that talk with Rus. Not that what I said or the way I acted helped or changed him any."

"I sent him away after awhile and everyone thought my talking to him had helped matters a lot. Six months passed and we had no more trouble from Rus. I was congratulated and complimented for my obvious ability to reason with and show a man the folly of his ways. But I knew they were wrong. I knew I had made no more impression on Rus than nothing at all. He had merely become smart. He had realized that a prison is no place for a man to assert himself, because his keepers hold the trump cards."

"My suspicions of what was going on were verified when a guard came to me on the morning of May 1 and said he'd heard rumors of a break over in section B. No one had any idea who was behind the movement—not a soul suspected Rus. He had turned out to be quite a model prisoner."

"I took the usual precautions and did the only thing that a warden could do under such circumstances: resigned myself to watchful waiting."

"A certain atmosphere of tenseness and expectancy existed at the prison. The guards were nervous and jittery."

"I had not put my suspicions of Rus into words, hoping that someone might volunteer a hazard that he was behind the rumors and thereby confirming my own ideas. But no one did and this caused me to hesitate. Fortunately I didn't hesitate quite long enough. Two days before the planned break—I later learned it had been scheduled for the twenty-ninth—I called Rus into my office and had another talk with him. The results were the same, but it was because of my own reaction that I decided to take the chance. When the interview was over I stood up and said: 'Rus, your mother is ill. She's asked that you be allowed to visit her, and I've granted her request.'

"Rus' jaw fell open and he stared. 'You mean I can go down and see—ma—myself?'"

"Yes. Of course, I'll expect you to report here. I'm putting you on your honor to do so."

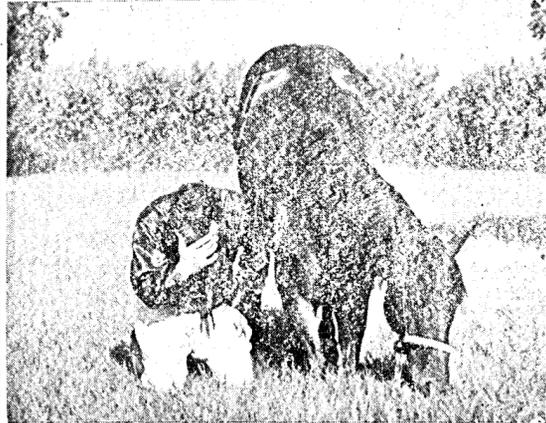

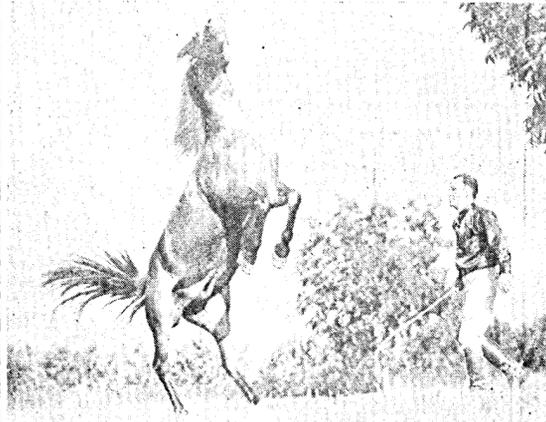

"Perhaps you can guess how it all turned out. Rus went home to see his mother, with whom I had previously talked, securing her promise to co-operate, and three days later he was back. The point is here: I wasn't altogether right. Rus was due back the next day. He stayed away two days longer than I had told him he could. I had spread enough net to get alarmed, to spread the news of his escape. And instead of punishing him when he came back, I made him a trusty."

"No, there was no break or attempted break. Rus had been at the bottom of it all. Two years later he was pardoned, and his mother, with my help, had a job waiting for him when he got out."

"You see, the thing I had learned from Rus was this: He had had convictions, convictions to which he adhered even though it meant three times in solitary. I had had convictions, too—I was convinced that Rus was the type who, if placed on his honor, would not break a trust. But my convictions were not as strong as his—I lacked the courage to abide by them until, almost before it was too late, I took a chance that day and sent him home to his mother. Thank heaven he taught me the lesson that when you believe strongly enough that you are right it's best to adhere to that belief."

Lover of Italy. On the outside walls of the Rezonigo palace on the Grand canal in Venice, where Robert Browning once lived, are to be seen the following words from one of his poems: 'Opora my heart and you will see Graved inside of it, Italy!'"

Rev. L. M. Real Continues His Work With Horses Since Going to Tennessee Pastorate

When Rev. L. M. Real served as pastor of the Presbyterian church of Ord his interest in horses was well known and he did an excellent job of training several riding horses owned by Ord people. When he went to Greenfield, Tenn., as pastor of the First Presbyterian church, his interest in the schooling and training of horses continued, as these pictures prove, and Rev. BOB looked at her with troubled eyes. "Well, it's come, Ellen." He twirled a letter in his hand. She smiled at his gloomy face. "What has?"

He shook the letter. "Remember, I told you—when you marry me, you take Dad in the bargain; and believe me, he is a fearful old crab."

"Why, dear, what a way to talk of your father!" she said a bit shocked.

"But that's what he is! I love him in spite of it, but I hate to tangle you up with him. He wants me to bring you out to the house, probably to decide whether you will make a fit wife for me or not. It's none of his business, but it's very much his way. Now, will you go?"

"Why, of course, I'll go," she said laughing.

Ellen in the days following before their departure had her moments of serious doubt and worry. Suppose Bob's father should take a dislike to her? The real reason for Bob's worry was his fear that the father he really loved would not care for the girl he loved.

"Well, there's nothing to do but go and be myself," Ellen advised herself.

It was a pleasant trip to the old village where Mr. Oakes had made his home, and Ellen, in spite of a bit of fear that broke through her happiness, enjoyed the journey.

When, hours later and a little weary, she came to the house set back far from the village street, it did look a bit dark and forbidding.

"Joyous place, isn't it? While mother was alive she made him have it painted, but now—nothing doing!" Bob said.

When they reached the door, it opened, and Ellen caught her breath, for the gray-headed man who appeared in it was bigger than Bob, and she had often felt that Bob was big enough.

"Well, here you are! Come in!" Mr. Oakes said shortly in a heavy voice.

Bob introduced her, and she looked far up into cold, commanding eyes in which there was no light of cordiality. Ellen shivered inside.

Then a quaint, kindly old lady advanced, and Ellen met "Ma" Burton as Bob called her.

Then began a series of discoveries for Ellen. The house was in, fearful shape—dusty in every corner; and the supper that night was ill-prepared.

"Well, can you stand it?" Bob asked her later, when he had lured her out into the quiet village for a stroll.

"I am not afraid of your father, but what a looking house!"

He chuckled. "Right, but 'Ma' is easy-going. It didn't look that way when mother was alive. He's growing old, you know, and—well, maybe something went out of him when mother died."

"Mrs. Burton told me while we were gossiping that one of her sisters was very ill. Can't you arrange it so she can get away and give me a chance at that house?"

He drew a long breath, his quick mind sensing her plan. "She'll go if I have to abduct her!"

How Bob worked it Ellen did not know, but the next day, not without some misgivings, she took charge. Bob enticed his father away to visit some distant property belonging to him, and Ellen "pitched in."

It was dusk before Bob and his father returned, but by that time she had the principal rooms in shape and supper prepared—with a bountiful supply of griddle-cakes which "Ma" had said Mr. Oakes loved but which she did not have the knack of making to suit him.

She heard them in the living room, then some one went into the library, then into the den on what was, she imagined, a tour of inspection.

"Pooh! Why he so nervous?" she warned herself. "If it doesn't seem like home to him, it does to me; and the old house needed it."

When she called them to supper, Mr. Oakes entered first, his strong old face showing no emotion and Bob, behind her, looked anxious though he winked at her.

When the griddle-cakes appeared, Mr. Oakes eyed them sourly as if with memories of griddle-cakes of the past. He tried one doubtfully, then another, and the scowl went—as did the cakes.

The climax came so quickly it took Ellen's breath. Mr. Oakes lifted his gray head, and he was smiling. "Now, you young fellow, let's talk things over. When are you going to be married?"

Where Quicksilver Comes From

Quicksilver, or mercury, occurs in nature in a free state, both in lodes and placer deposits, but only in very small quantities. Commercial mercury is obtained chiefly from cinnabar ore, the sulphide of quicksilver, from which the pure mercury is extracted by subjecting it to high temperature and then condensing the vapor. The largest and richest deposit of mercury ore is at Almaden in central Spain. It has been worked since the time of the Romans.

Work of Game Commission Described by Dr. Sullivan

Dr. M. M. Sullivan, of Spalding, a member of the Nebraska fish, game and reforestation commission, was a guest and principal speaker at the Ord Rotary club's dinner Monday evening, his talk dealing with work of the commission. Conservation and propagation must go hand in hand if Nebraska is to enjoy good fishing and hunting in future years, Dr. Sullivan said, and he told how the commission is raising and liberating 20,000 pheasants each year, introducing chukkar partridges throughout the state, planting trout and other game fish and in general building up the state's natural resources. Nebraska has the least expensive fishing and hunting license of any state in the country, Dr. Sullivan said, and he predicted that the present legislature will increase its price, possibly charging $1.00 for a fishing license and $1.00 for a hunting license. More money is needed to make the commission's work effective, especially since drouth conditions have ruined many of Nebraska's best fishing lakes and they must be restocked, Dr. Sullivan stated. Other guests of the Rotary club Monday were Ed Curran, of Greeley, a deputy internal revenue collector, Rex Jewett, new scoutmaster of the Boy Scout troop sponsored by the Rotary club, and Chas. R. Wareham, new irrigation district manager.

Well Known Editors Retired Last Week

Effective January 1, the ownership and management of the Kearney Daily Hub passed from the hands of the Brown regime and into the control of three new owners, Ormond P. Hill, Alfred G. Hill and Dwight King, Hugh R. Brown, who released the paper after fifty years ownership in the same family, will confine his activities to commercial printing and the management of radio station KFGW, of which he is the owner.

Another surprise announcement was that of A. F. Buechler, who is retiring from the editorship of the Grand Island Independent. He has reached the age of 70 years, and retires at his own request after a lifetime of service. These two men have done much to mould opinion during the long years they have served the public, and it will be no easy task to keep the papers up to the high standard they maintained.

—Mrs. Rae Johnson departed Tuesday morning for Brawley, Calif., after a four weeks' visit with her mother, Mrs. Anna Hurlbert.

RAMBLINGS OF THE YOUNG 'UNS

By Lillian Karty

Street Chatter: It's funny how some people get the wrong ideas. For full information see Frank Robberson, Loren Meese, or Beverly Davis. They seem to forget that there are other people who have the same first names. And after that nice speech Frank presented to me in detail, and then to find out that he wasn't the person. (Time to laugh!) Well, now that all the college guys and gals have left us until next summer, we can go back to our usual slow, easy-going routine. Latest reports tell me that this college crowd is a little too fast.

Things I'd like to know: Why they call Dean Adams, "Windy"? (I don't get it.) Why so many people are taking an interest in the girl who is trying to break up Eugene and Ruthie. Why Capron Cox calls Patsy Frazier and Mary Miller what he does. (For information, see him.) Why Maxine Severns of Ericson and Harold Pray always break up and then get together again.

Three cheers for: The Burwell girl who is going to write a book called, "What to Call Your Boy Friend When He Is Ten Minutes Late—or—How to Swear in Ten Easy Lessons."

More chatter: Yours Truly is holding the stakes in a twenty-five dollar bet between two North Loup boys. It seems as if James Birmingham bet George Cox twenty-five dollars that if he could get Eleanor Wolfe away from Dick Koupal, George couldn't get Eleanor away from James. In other words, James Birmingham is viddy confident that once he gets hold of Eleanor, he'll keep her. (All right, go ahead and sue me.)

Latest reports from Fullerton are that a certain red headed girl thinks Vernon Malolepszy is the one and only. (Paging Robert Ripley.) To use my own expression, she thinks Vernie is an Ord eyefull. (A North Loup druggist says the word is eyesore.)

Add wisecracks: A certain young lady, who recently announced her engagement, when asked what she and her future husband intended to do, punned, "Well as long as Roosevelt is president, and we have a WPA and all the rest of these government projects, I guess we can make it pretty easily."

POINTLESS PARAGRAPHS.
The ancient Greeks had two words for boiled water. When it was a light color they called it "zoop" and when it was darker it was "Kawfee."

Ord very nearly had a twin in the census of 1930. Ord's population at that time was 2,226, while that of West Point was 2,225. Thirty years before West Point had 1,990, while Ord had only 1,371, a difference of 519.

That idea of starting out to the advanced Red Cross class on Friday the thirteenth, might not be so bad, after all. On a date like that it would seem that they might have cases to practice on.

It is about time to spring that one about the Ord mother who sent her young hopeful to the neighbors last summer to borrow a glass cutter. He came back in a short time with the lawn mower, and when his mother protested, he said, "I thought you told me grass cutter."

IT HAPPENED IN ORD.
It happened some time ago, but it is worth mentioning just the same. The Quiz has it on good authority that four Ord men went out to the links New Year's day and shot a foursome of gold. For further information on the subject we refer you to H. G. Frey, Gould Flagg, M. Biemond or Mark Tolen.

It so happened that no less than four Loup Valley editors and their wives attended the show at the Ord Theater Sunday afternoon. They were Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Warden of the Arcadian, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Williams of the Scotia Register, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Cornell of the North Loup Loyalist and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Leggett of the Quiz.

The grasshoppers were plentiful if you looked for them Sunday, and several crickets were seen during the day. A small flock of meadow larks is in evidence down along the river. H. Anderson saw a number of bees out scouting for honey, and housewives were kept busy killing big green flies. Indian summer started in September, and has lasted into January.

Recipe For Peace.
I am convinced we cannot have lasting prosperity in America—nor peace throughout the world—until we have a rebirth of character, a revival of unselfishness, a renewal of our love for our fellow men. When this takes place we will have truly "Happy New Years."—Wahoo Democrat.

G. H. Club Tuesday.

Auble, warden; Mrs. Henry Stara, sentinel; Mrs. George Allen, organist; Mrs. Mark Tolen, Adah; Mrs. Frank Johnson, Ruth; Mrs. Joe Knezacek, Martha; Miss Anna Marks, Electra.

Young Couple Honored.

Tuesday evening, Jan. 3, a reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Cook was held in the Ed Cook home with about eighty being present. Mrs. Harry Foth had charge of entertainment, which was a pageant picturing the past, present and future of the bride and groom. A number of beautiful and useful gifts were received and refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Cook were married June 13, 1933 at Julesburg, Colo., by Rev. Harry Graham of the Christian church. Mrs. Cook is the former Wilma Severns. Both she and her husband are graduates of Ord high school in the class of 1936.

Miss Kokes to Wed.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. John Kokes announced the coming marriage of their daughter, Miss Florence, to Ernest Sights, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sights, of Fremont. The wedding date has been set for Sunday, Jan. 14 and the ceremony will take place at St. Mary's Cathedral in Lincoln at 9:00 a. m., with Rev. Clarence Riordan officiating. The bride's sister, Miss Helen Kokes of Omaha, will be maid of honor. Best man will be Vernon Larsen, of Fremont. A wedding breakfast will be served after the ceremony. After a honeymoon, the couple will make their home in Lincoln where Mr. Sights, who is a graduate of the University of Nebraska in civil engineering, is employed by the state highway department. Miss Kokes has been employed in Lincoln for some time by the Personal Finance company. Mr. and Mrs. John Kokes and other relatives will go to Lincoln for the wedding.

Give Us Water!

We see where two different weather prophets have given out the word that 1939 will be a wet year. We don't know how they get their information, but they've got the right idea and we're for "em"—Nance County Journal.

Santa's Whiskers.

By extending its cotton loans the government now holds ten million bales of the staple. This is enough to make whiskers for all the Santa Clauses the New Deal can possibly use in the next century.—Schuyler Sun.

They Mean Business.
About the best news the writer has heard lately is that thirty-two of the state's 43 senators were in attendance at a recent meeting of the Nebraska Federation of County Taxpayers leagues. They seem to be a pretty able and earnest bunch, and it will do no harm to give consideration to their views.—Central City Nonpareil, Dad's Corner.

Famous Nicknames.

Nicknames arise in a number of ways. Some are colorful, some not, but most of them spring from the life of the times, reflecting the character of outstanding people. Research workers of the Federal Writers' Project, WPA, find this especially true of nicknames applied to characters on the Nebraska plains when the west was the "Flaming West."

Billy the Bear (L. J. F. Iager): Was an early day cowhand around Ogallala, who later joined Buffalo Bill's troupe. So badly had Iager been frozen while riding in Wyoming that a part of both legs and the fingers of both hands had to be amputated. He acquired his nickname while playing the part of a grizzly bear in Buffalo Bill's show. He later became clerk of the district court at Chadron, and secretary and treasurer of the Old Time Cowboys' Association of Nebraska.

Buffalo Bill (William Cody): Was a buffalo hunter and showman, who did most of his buffalo hunting while employed by the Kansas Pacific railroad in 1867-1868. Having contracted with one of the road managers to furnish 25 buffalo a day to the camp, he killed 4,280 buffalo in 18 months. The "Paddys" employed on the road grew tired of buffalo meat. When they saw him coming they would say, "Here comes Buffalo Bill; sharpen up your grinders." He soon became known along the entire Kansas Pacific line as Buffalo Bill.

Calamity Jane (Martha Jane Canary): Was a quarrelsome and rowdy frontier character. She was said to cause some sort of trouble wherever she went; she was quick to become angered, and, being always armed, she shot numerous persons. Eleven of her twelve husbands were supposed to have met untimely deaths at her hands.

California Joe (Moses Embree Milner): Was a well known hunter and scout on the plains in the days of Buffalo Bill, Doc Carver, Buffalo Curley, and others. He died at Fort Robinson, Nebraska, in 1876. While panning for gold near Virginia City, Mont., he killed three claim jumpers who had tried to take his cabin from him. Later he met four men he suspected of being friends of the men he had killed, and when these men asked what his name was, he replied that it was "Joe", and that he was from California. The four thereafter called him California Joe, a nickname by which he soon became popularly known.

Doc Carver (Dr. W. F. Carver): Was a buffalo hunter and showman. He was considered the world's greatest rifle shot. In 1873, in a contest with Jack McCall (Buffalo Curley, who later assassinated Wild Bill Hickok in a Deadwood saloon) Carver rode his old white horse "Surprise" behind a fleeing buffalo herd and killed 160 of them before his horse dropped exhausted beneath him. For this he won the title Champion Buffalo Hunter of the Plains. His rifle and one of his saddles is now in the collection of Charles Nordin, Omaha. Besides the familiar "Doc", by which he was known to the whites, he was called by the Indians "The Evil Spirit of the Plains," because of his phenomenal accuracy with a rifle.

Idaho Bill (Barney Pearson): Was a mountain lion hunter in various parts of the Rocky Mountain and a horse-breaker in Idaho before he came to Nebraska. He is now living in Hastings, Nebraska.

Little Bat (Baptiste Garnier): Was a scout and interpreter in government employ, who, after being killed by a bar-keeper in Crawford, was buried in the Fort Robinson cemetery. The soldiers at Fort Robinson contracted his name to Bat, and called him Little Bat to distinguish him from Big Bat, Baptiste Pourier, an older scout in the government service.

Little Curly Hair (Eva Raymond): Was said to be one of the two most beautiful women who ever rode the plains. A daredevil horsewoman, she was first of a racing throng to congratulate Doc Carver when he won the title "Champion Buffalo Hunter of the Plains" from Buffalo Curley on the Frenchman in 1873. Her name Little Curly Hair was the "paheminneminsh" of the Medicine.

Parson Bob (Philip Robert Landon): Was a Custer scout during the Indian wars and the foster father of Calamity Jane. He later became a lecturer at Dana College, Blair, Nebraska. "When a man died in his boots, I was called upon to preach, and that is the way I got my name," he said. He first became an impromptu preacher at the burial of Calamity Jane's mother, when he was the only man in camp who could remember the Lord's prayer.

Red Jacket (Mary Woodward): Was a town character of Chadron, Nebraska, and had a claim along the White River in Dawes county. Possessed of a Winchester and a violent temper, she was often dangerous. She died impoverished by defending herself from a murder charge. She got her nickname when, as an attractive young woman "running" the Mississippi River, she always wore a red jacket; the name remained with her the rest of her life.

Wild Bill Hickok (James B. Hickok): Was a wagon-master who won great notoriety for the McCanles murder at the Rock Creek Station July 12, 1861. According to one account, he claimed to have gone crazy after the McCanles affair, slashing about him wildly with his knife, from which incident he took his name. By another account he got his name when he intimidated a gang in a saloon in Independence, Missouri, by drawing his pistols and threatening the entire crowd. At this time an unknown woman called him "Wild Bill." He was also called "Prince of Pistoliers."

MEDICAL FACTS

Sponsored by
4-COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

From time to time we have stated in this column that many cancers are curable if treated early and by the proper methods. By "early" is meant just as soon as the diagnosis can be made. By "proper methods" we mean the three measures that have been found by careful and long study to be the only effective ways of curing cancer; these are, surgery, radium and x-ray, used singly or in combination as the given case may demand.

Doctors George Pack and James Gallo recently made a study of one thousand cases taken at random from the records of the Memorial Hospital in New York and the Lendrum Tumor Clinic of the Patter-son General Hospital, N. J. Their object was to see how many of these cases delayed the treatment of their cancers and why they did so. They found that only two hundred seven of the thousand did not delay treatment but that seven hundred ninety-three did delay it.

The patient himself was responsible for the delay in three hundred fifty-one instances or nearly half the cases of delay. Various reasons were given for putting off the treatment. These included ignorance of the seriousness of the first symptoms, fear, unwillingness to face the truth and financial difficulties. Much of this delay happened before going to the first doctor about the illness.

In only seventeen per cent was the first physician consulted responsible for delay. This was usually because too long a time was used in making a diagnosis. Doctors Pack and Gallo believe one month should be long enough to permit an accurate diagnosis.

In about an equal number of cases the physician and patient were thought to share the responsibility of delay in about equal degrees, due to various combinations of the above reasons.

It is a known fact that more people are dying of cancer of the lungs than ever before. There is a definite tendency amongst those who are studying this phase of cancer to attribute it to increased smoking of tobacco. This is by no means proved but the increase in lung cancer has taken place during the same period when tobacco smoking has increased very markedly. Somewhere near eighty per cent of the people in our country are now smokers. The inhalation of tobacco smoke is undoubtedly irritating to the mucous membrane lining the bronchial tubes. Chronic irritation is known to favor the development of cancer. It seems logical to believe, therefore, that this impression may be the truth.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Dear Mr. Leggett: Enclosed find $2.00 for my renewal subscription to the Ord Quiz. Looking back across the years I realize this January marks 53 consecutive years that we have taken the Quiz. I still enjoy it and look forward to its coming, for it is the connecting link that keeps me in touch with the past and present life of Ord. Best regards and a happy New Year to all friends. Mrs. Allan M. Daniels, Denver, Colo.

Dear Friend Leggett: My sister Mrs. Easterbrook of Arcadia, sends me a Quiz quite often, so I hear of some of the old times and it seems good, but how fast they are passing on. I passed my 70th milestone the 12th of December, but I am still going strong. We now have 17 grandchildren and one great grandchild. I suppose you are aware that those good times we read about are still just around the corner. Too bad the corner can't be moved ahead, what? Please give our kindest regards to the best half and keep a goodly slice for yourself. A happy and prosperous New Year to you. I. E. Foster, Kendrick, Ida.

Dear Quiz: I wonder how many readers ever heard of the Winchester House. It is the largest dwelling house in the world. It is located 4 miles west of San Jose, Calif., and was planned and built by the late Sarah L. Winchester of Winchester rifle fame. This house was under construction 36 years and cost six million dollars. Many art windows are valued at $1,000 each, and the front doors at $2,000 each.

It has 160 rooms and thousands of doors and windows, its own lighting and heating. There are three elevators, 40 stairways, most of them with 13 steps, and 47 fireplaces. There are many stairways that lead nowhere, blind chimneys and many doors to closets that open into blank walls. All the turned posts about the mystery house are installed upside down. There are 13 bathrooms, some with glass doors, others with screen doors. Chandeliers have 13 lights, there are rooms with 13 windows, and 13 panels in the ceiling.

The house also contains many articles of beauty, and store rooms contain a great assortment of materials of all kinds needed for keeping up her continuous building program. Mrs. Winchester claimed the spirits were guiding her and that so long as she kept building, she would never die. The Mystery house is open every day and there are guides to conduct visitors thru the house. P. S. Will say that Mrs. Winchester passed beyond with the house unfinished. Respectfully yours, Walter S. Smith, Modesto, Calif.

230 Lime Avenue, Long Beach, Calif.

I am writing you to tell you how we are enjoying California sunshine. It surely is nice here. I have just been down to see the high tide come in, as we live only three blocks from the ocean. We go to the beach often. In East Long Beach the water came up and washed some houses away and sometimes it gets dangerous here as we are only 31 feet above sea level. I saw Mr. Pafetta this morning and invited him and wife here to play cribbage tonight. Once in a while I see others of the Ord people. Hoping this finds you all enjoying the cold Nebraska weather. We do not have to freeze here. Yours as ever, E. T. Woolery and family.

Ord Man's Nephew Is Portland Master Diver

Fred Devine, whose family lived in Ord many years and who is a nephew of W. J. Hather, follows an unusual occupation. He is a master diver at Portland, Ore., and is paid $20 for about two hours' work under water daily. Only last year Mr. Devine helped salvage valuables from a Spanish ship sunk during the World war. He visited in Ord last May where he bought a new car. A clipping from the Portland Oregonian received this week by Ord relatives shows pictures of Mr. Devine assisting the mayor of Portland in the latter's personal investigation of river flood. Under Devine's expert tutelage, the mayor donned a diver's suit and took a stroll on the bottom of the Willamette river near the Sellwood bridge in Portland.

North Loup May Have Another Village Well

The North Loup village board is contemplating the necessity of constructing a new and larger well for the town water supply. In order to sense the feeling among the citizens relative to this proposition the Loyalist last week published a ballot to give them an opportunity to register their reaction to the new well. Of course the ballot is not official, but merely gives the public a chance to express itself, and the board an idea of what the people desire.

On The Loose.

The Harlem Hottentots are on the loose again in Nebraska. We wonder if they will make an effort to keep their dates this year.

ORD AND BURWELL GO OFF HIGH LINE

$90,200 Estimated By Supervisors As County's 1939 Costs

But Budget to Be Adopted in July Real Measure of the County's Tax Needs.

Amount of money Valley county will need for budgetary purposes in 1939 is estimated at $90,200 in the report prepared by Supervisors J. V. Suchanek, Ellsworth Ball and John G. Bremer, committee on estimates, and adopted by the Valley county board of supervisors at their annual meeting last week. The estimate is identical with that made for 1938.

Since statutes require that no more money may be collected in taxes than is estimated by supervisors in January, it is the custom always to make the estimate high enough to take care of all emergencies, so the $90,200 estimate does not necessarily mean that amount will be collected by tax levy, County Clerk Ign. Klima, Jr., explains.

The budget to be adopted next July will be the real indicator as to amount of tax money to be levied for county purposes, he says.

Estimate adopted by the county board is as follows:

County general fund	$43,000.00
County road fund	15,000.00
County bridge fund	10,000.00
Courthouse bonds and interest fund	5,500.00
County fair fund	2,000.00
Unemployment relief fund	13,500.00
Mothers pension fund	1,000.00
Soldiers and Sailors relief fund	700.00
Amount actually budgeted and levied by the Valley county board last year	$64,480.00

Other business taken care of by the board at their annual meeting included appointment of Dr. J. G. Kruml as county physician; D. C. Haught as courthouse custodian; T. B. Hamilton as highway commissioner; Frank Kruml as assistant director; Fred J. Cohen as deputy sheriff; Alfred Wiegardt as a member of the soldiers' and sailors' relief commission for a 3-year term; and Ign. Klima, Jr., as budget making authority for the county.

Jury men for the first half of 1939 were named; The Ord Quiz was designated official newspaper for the county; a wage scale for road and bridge workmen was adopted, being the same as in 1938; some road matters were discussed and other routine business taken care of.

Complete proceedings of the annual meeting will appear in next week's issue.

Lincoln Banker To Be Speaker

Stanley Maly, an official in the First National bank of Lincoln, will be principal speaker at the Chamber of Commerce smoker to be held Thursday, Jan. 26, in the K. of P. club rooms starting at 8:00. President J. A. Kovanda said this morning. Mr. Maly was born near Cedar Rapids, is well acquainted with central Nebraska and its problems, and is a noted speaker, so his talk should prove of great interest to Ord men.

This will be a general meeting of the Ord Chamber and new members will be introduced. Each member is asked to invite a farmer friend to attend the smoker with him, as Mr. Maly's talk will be of particular interest to farmers.

Mrs. Herb Mason Died Early Today

Following several months of ill health during which time she grew gradually weaker, Mrs. Herbert E. Mason passed away quietly at her home in southeast Ord at 4:00 a. m., today, the chief cause of her death being heart trouble. Bertha Louise Cole was born Febr. 9, 1870, and came to Ord from Cresco, Ia., thirty-five years ago.

She was married to Herbert E. Mason 33 years ago, and to this union were born two children, Edwin and Mrs. George Watson, both of Ord. Besides her husband and children, she is survived by two grandchildren, and two sisters and a brother, Ed and Lizzie Cole, and Mrs. Fanny Fuller, all of Cresco, Ia.

While all plans for the funeral services are not complete, they will be held from the Frazier chapel tomorrow or Friday. A more complete account of Mrs. Mason's life will be given next week.

Abrahams Recovering From Leg Amputation

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nedbalek and Dave Guggenmos returned Tuesday morning from Lincoln with news that Guy Abrahams' condition is much improved since he underwent amputation of a leg on Jan. 6 and that he will soon be strong enough for surgeons to amputate the other leg without jeopardizing his life. Doctors at the Veterans' hospital express confidence that Mr. Abrahams will make a complete recovery.

He was seriously hurt in an airplane crash on the Martinson farm north of Ord in September, 1937, in which his brother John was instantly killed. Mrs. Fred Martinson is a sister of Guy Abrahams and Mrs. Nedbalek is his niece.

Benjamin F. Ulm, Garfield County Homesteader, Dies

Death Came Suddenly Sunday to Well Known Burwell Man; Funeral Today.

Burwell—(Special)—Another early day resident of the North Loup valley went to his reward in the sudden passing Sunday of Benjamin F. Ulm at his home here. Mr. Ulm came to Valley county more than a half century ago, and knew the hardships of pioneer life. Uncle Ben, as he was familiarly known to his many friends, will be greatly missed because of his neighborly kindness and friendship.

He was in quite good health until about a month ago, when he was taken ill, but seemed to recover. Early Sunday he passed away so suddenly that none of his children were with him when the end came.

Funeral services are being held from the Burwell Methodist church this Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Dickinson of the Ord Pentecostal church is in charge of the services, and a number of Ord friends and relatives are planning to attend.

Benjamin F. Ulm was born Nov. 3, 1861 at Bloomington, Ill., and departed this life Jan. 15 at Burwell, Nebr., at the age of 77 years, 2 months and 12 days. When he was a young man he moved with his parents to Nebraska. For a short time they resided at Hastings then moved to Valley county where he took a homestead. He with his family made this their home until eight years ago when they moved to Burwell.

He was married to Emma J. Wilde March 8, 1888. To this union nine children were born, six boys and three girls; Walter, Jr., of Brownsville, Ore.; Mrs. Ben Madison of Costa Mesa, Calif.; Arthur H. of Hondo, Alberta, Can.; Roy E. of Burwell; Mrs. J. A. Brown of Ord; Mrs. J. W. Owens of Lamar, Colo.; Clarence L. of Belman, Nebr.; and Charley T. of Lemoyne, Nebr. His wife and one son, John W. preceded him in death.

Besides his eight children there are 26 grandchildren, 3 great grandchildren, one brother, L. P. Ulm of Ord, one half sister, Mrs. Tom Shelton of Burwell, a number of nieces and nephews and a host of other relatives and friends.

Ord Boy Scouts Took First Hike Saturday

Scoutmaster Rex Jewett took his Boy Scouts on their first hike of the new year Saturday afternoon. There were fifteen in the group which left at 1:30 and hiked out to the creek bottom on the Henry Zikmund place. Those who had not already passed the fire starting test tried starting a fire with two matches. In spite of the dampness most of them succeeded in starting a fire with one match.

Two of the boys passed the cooking test, one the first test and the other the second test. Several passed the knife and hatchet or handcraft test. They then built a big campfire and sat around it and talked until the storm started, when Rex decided it was time to bring them home. Wilmer Anderson, assistant scoutmaster, was with them a part of the time and helped them with the tests.

Loup Valley School Executives Meeting

Loup Valley School executives held a meeting at Burwell Wednesday evening. The meeting was held at the school building and was preceded by a dinner. The meeting was addressed by Charles F. Diest, deputy state superintendent. Those in attendance from Ord were Mr. Thompson, Mr. Stoddard, Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Miller, Ralph W. Norman and Horace Travis.

Wm. Heuck Is New Member No. Loup Irrigation Board

Chosen Tuesday Eve in Place of Jos. P. Barta; Name a Power Committee.

At their meeting Tuesday evening, directors of the North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation district named Wm. Heuck, of Ord, as a director to succeed Jos. P. Barta, who resigned recently. Mr. Barta also was secretary of the district but last week the board appointed Guy Lavery to this position so Mr. Heuck will serve only as a director.

Choice of Heuck as a director is being acclaimed by Ord people as he is a man with many years experience in business, knows farming and its problems, and has lived in this city all his life.

Another matter taken up by directors Tuesday was appointment of a power committee to negotiate with Ord and Burwell when and if such negotiation is necessary. President Roy Hudson is chairman of this committee and other members include Roy Bailey, Dr. F. A. Barta, Herman Grunkemeyer and Harry Doran.

NYA Boys Clean Up Anderson Island Park

Ord people who remember Anderson Island Park as a mass of tall grass, weeds and tangled underbrush should pay a visit to it now that it has been cleaned up by a group of NYA boys, in a project in which tools and materials were furnished by the city and labor by the National Youth Administration, of which Leland Barrett is area supervisor.

Dead trees have been cut down, all underbrush cut out, grass and matted leaves burned, new toilets installed and the island now is ideal for use as a picnic ground clear to the south end.

Several years ago the island was donated to the city by W. A. Anderson for park use. In the summer it is popular with swimming and picnicking parties and in future will be more popular than ever.

Narrowly Escapes Traffic Accident

The driver of the Gressley truck from Broken Bow had a narrow escape from accident Tuesday noon when he failed to make the turn at the corner of 14th and M streets. He was coming from the south at a fair rate of speed and the brakes locked the hind wheels and his front tires slid on the ice and refused to make the turn. The truck slid across the street and the front wheels climbed upon the curb in front of the Ord Auto Sales company, just missing the corner lamp post. Had the truck been traveling at a high rate of speed it would have crashed into the plate glass window.

Arcadia Legionnaires Consider Building Hall

Arcadia—(Special)—At a meeting held Saturday evening, the American Legion post of this village tentatively decided to build a community hall and committees were appointed to handle various phases of the undertaking. At the meeting reports on probable cost of a circular building similar to the Wichman pavilion in Loup City were heard.

To legalize building of a community hall of this type within the fire limits, Arcadia's present ordinance prohibiting wooden construction must be repealed. A petition asking the town board to repeal the ordinance has been circulated and signed by most of the business men.

Dugan Oil Co. Show Was Well Attended

The free show put on by the Dugan Oil company at the Ord opera house Wednesday afternoon was well attended, 130 being present. Talks were shown demonstrating Mobil grease, oil and gas, and a demonstration of the quality of greases and oils was put on by the Socony-Vacuum demonstrator, Walter Johnson of Norfolk. A lunch of coffee and sandwiches was served at the close of the program by Mrs. Freeman Haught, Mrs. Clark Anderson and Mrs. E. O. Carlson. Six door prizes were given, as follows: Earl Hansen, first; Charles Radil, second; Mrs. Walter Hoon, third; Lloyd Marks, fourth; Roy Melia, fifth; and Ed Janus, sixth.

Work Now Started on Ord Township Library

The Diamond Engineering company of Grand Island constructed forms for the foundation for the new Ord Township Library building Monday of this week, and Tuesday they started mixing the concrete. Architect J. F. Reynolds of Lincoln was in Ord Monday conferring with the company. The weather at the present time is sufficiently warm to permit the use of concrete, and the company is taking due precautions to prevent freezing.

Judge Overrules Alvin Lee's Motion

Valley county's big election contest, in which John P. Misko is challenging the election of Alvin B. Lee for the office of county attorney, moved a step nearer solution this morning after a hearing was held on the matter Tuesday in county court.

The hearing concerned Mr. Lee's motion to strike, filed about ten days ago after County Judge Andersen overruled Lee's objection to the bond put up by Misko. After hearing verbal arguments on the motion to strike, Judge Andersen directed the two attorneys to submit written briefs embodying their arguments which he wanted to study before making a ruling on the motion.

About 10:00 this morning he overruled the Lee motion and ordered Mr. Lee to file a pleading by 5:00 p. m., Thursday.

Report Prepared by Co. Clerk Shows 1938 Valuation Was 13½ Million Dollars.

An interesting report showing the amount of taxes levied in Valley county in 1938 by the various governmental subdivisions upon real estate and tangible property has been prepared by Ign. Klima, Jr., county clerk, and any taxpayer interested may secure a copy of the statement from him.

He will be glad to give further information relative to tax matters to any taxpayer at any time, the county clerk states.

Gets Good Newspaper Job.

Laverne Lakin, Ord young man who is a freshman student at the University of Nebraska, has been employed as a reporter-photographer by the Lincoln bureau of the Omaha World-Herald and has been kept busy lately covering the photographic end of the legislature's opening, as well as taking pictures and writing stories about all high school basketball games played in Lincoln. He covered the Peru Normal-Nebraska "B" game Friday night and watched Leonard Greathouse, of Ord, "get hot" and win the game for Peru Normal in the closing moments. A large delegation of former Ordites now living in Lincoln were present to watch Greathouse perform.

U. coeds recently selected to vie for 1938-39 Cornhusker Beauty Queen honors. This photo by Laverne Lakin appeared on the front page of the Omaha World-Herald Tuesday.

Progress Reported on Fort Hartsuff Firemen of Loup Valley to Meet, Organize, in Ord

January 7 the Old Settler's committee secured an option on the Ft. Hartsuff property, in accordance with an agreement reached at a committee meeting. Clarence M. Davis, acting in behalf of the committee, prepared resolutions which were mailed to the Congress of the United States and to the Nebraska state legislature.

In addition to this he wrote letters in regard to the resolutions to Governor Roy L. Cochran, Lieut. Gov. Johnson, and to Senators Doyle and Van Diest, who represent this section of Nebraska. He sent letters also to the president, to U. S. senators Burke and Norris, and to Congressmen Coffee and Stefan.

He also wrote letters telling of the action that had been taken and sent them to the chambers of commerce or community clubs at St. Paul, Scotia, Loup City, Greeley, Broken Bow, Sargent, Constock, Arcadia, O'Neill, Bassett and Atkinson and various clubs in Hastings, Omaha, Lincoln, Grand Island and Kearney.

As a result, the resolutions were read before the state legislature Friday, and comment was made upon them in Saturday's Lincoln papers. Mr. Davis has received a number of letters from those to whom he wrote, and it seems that some action is possible. He also wrote to the Nebraska State Historical society asking for their cooperation.

It is suggested that all persons interested in seeing Fort Hartsuff become a park write to your senators and congressmen, as well as the members of the state legislature, and urge that some definite action be taken. If it can be shown that there is a general interest in the project, the committee has every reason to hope that favorable action will be taken.

Will Produce Own Electricity During New Negotiations

Resolutions to Discontinue Buying Juice Cause Big Sensation Over State.

There is no "water" in the electric energy being used in Ord and Burwell today.

Both municipal plants are in operation, making electricity for portions of the two cities, and all connections with the high line owned by the North Loup district over which energy produced in the hydro-electric plant at Sutherland has been transported, were severed this morning.

At 5:30 the diesel engines in the Ord plant were started and at 6:00 this city's connection with the North Loup district's line was broken, the city plant taking over the entire load. At 6:15 the Burwell plant went into operation.

For the first time since August 1 the two municipal plants are strictly "on their own," and they will remain so, say city officials, until negotiations with the North Loup district looking toward a new and more favorable contract are completed or the present contract is upheld by the courts.

Ord's decision to discontinue buying power from the district came Monday night during a joint session of the Ord city council and the village board of Burwell. The matter has been under discussion for some time.

After a series of secret ballots Monday evening, which showed the Ord council divided 3 and 2 on the question, with Councilman Frank Sershen absent, Councilman J. W. McGinnis introduced a resolution calling for severance of the city's connection with the district's high line within three days. On a roll call vote, all of the five councilmen present voted unanimously for the resolution.

The resolution was made contingent upon a similar resolution being passed by the Burwell board, which could not take official action while in Ord. This contingency was satisfied Tuesday evening when, meeting in their own board room at Burwell, the Burwell officials voted unanimously to go along with Ord in the matter.

Text of the resolution follows: Be it resolved by the Mayor and City Council of the City of Ord, Nebraska, that

Whereas, the Village of Burwell, Nebraska, and the City of Ord, Nebraska, are now purchasing electric energy from the North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation District, and, whereas, the Village of Burwell appears to favor taking the same action set forth herein after in the resolution, now,

Therefore, be it resolved that the Light and Water Commissioner of this city be instructed to start the operation of the electric generating plant of said city as soon as convenient and within three days from January 16, 1939, and to cease to use electric energy furnished by the said North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation District, and

Be it further resolved that the City Attorney be instructed to serve a notice upon said district of the action of the said City setting forth certain of the reasons and causes for said action, which reasons have been read and discussed at this meeting of the Mayor and City Council of this City.

Be it further resolved that the Mayor forthwith appoint a committee of two members of the City Council, the City Attorney and the Light and Water Commissioner to negotiate with said district particularly in regard to the possibility of the sale of electric energy by this City to said district at or about the price said electric energy is now costing said district.

Provided, however, that in the event the said Village of Burwell does not take similar action within two days from January 16, 1939, that said Light and Water Commissioner delay said operation of said plant until further action of the Mayor and City Council of said City.

ATTEST: Rex Jewett, City Clerk. M. B. Cummins, Mayor.

Going off the high line and starting operation of the Ord and Burwell plants this morning was only a routine matter once authority was given George Allen and E. Hansen, light commissioners in the two towns, as both plants are diesel-equipped and ready to pull the load at a moment's notice.

News of the action taken by Ord and Burwell caused a sensation (Continued on Page 12.)

OUR STANDARDS ARE HIGH.

Despite all assertions to the contrary, the economic life of the average man in America today is on a higher level than any place else in the world.

Not only are the youth of today on a higher plane than those of other lands, but they are also on a higher plane than were the youth of forty years or more ago.

Forty years ago every student in high school took the same course as every other student, for only one course was taught.

Whatever the intention, in the years of prosperity the younger generation was raised and taught to spend, just as their parents were taught to save.

The issue that is paramount with too many today is not where the next meal is coming from, but rather, the money for the gasoline, the cigarettes, the liquor and the dance.

After all, the problem of making a budget and keeping within it is for the coming generation to solve, and they will work it out after their own plan.

While it is true a large number of businesses have failed since the start of the depression some eight years ago, there is a brighter and more interesting side to consider.

BUSINESS THAT SURVIVES.

It is so in life. A hall storm hits a community and it looks as though all the crops are ruined.

A disease becomes epidemic in a community, and for a time it seems as though all the people will be swept away by the scourge.

The laws of nature are broad, but merciful, and chief among them is that age old law of survival of the fittest.

All honor to the men who have done their utmost in the past, and in spite of their efforts have gone down. Like the captain at sea who goes down with his ship, they have gone down with their business.

Who fought their way through the depression, and who are still afloat. Old timers will agree that it took little business acumen to make a success of any business in the formative period of our country.

Old timers will agree that it took little business acumen to make a success of any business in the formative period of our country.

Sales did not have to be as large then to pay the daily expense as they must be now.

It can be said of Ord that today we have the finest group of business men that the town has ever known.

It is an honor to be a citizen of Ord and to know intimately the men who are making it the town it is today.

IN AN ARTICLE by Edward Morrow in last Wednesday's World-Herald, the interesting fact was brought out that it costs exactly the same to ship oranges from California to New York as it does to ship them to Omaha.

The reason for this discrepancy is the fact that boats can carry these same oranges around by way of the Panama Canal and to New York for 80c to 90c per cwt.

The railroads apparently proved to the I. C. C. that they could make money on the long haul at the low rate.

Just why we of the middle west should have to pay a premium on our fresh fruit from California is not clear, but it is apparent that we are doing so.

This is not the only instance in which high freight rates work against the state of Nebraska.

To date no cheap and practical substitute has been found for lumber in construction work in Nebraska, and in many cases it costs fully as much to deliver the lumber to Nebraska as it does to buy it where it is sawed and finished.

What the people of the middle west need is a lower price on the necessities of life and protection from foreign competition on the products of the farm.

Unusual Winter Job. Add to your data on Florida weather in Nebraska during the winter, right after the note on a many hour drizzle that did not turn into sleet and snow, this one from Laurel: Farmer Harry Johnson threshed his sorghum the first week of the new year.

Horse and Buggy Days. The Journal office went back to the good old horse and buggy days last Thursday when the press motor went bad about ten minutes after the weekly press run began.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

Fellow came in yesterday and asked me if I could send in his renewal for Capper's Farmer.

It is really laughable to see the way Omaha politicians go after gambling every once in a while, yet they never get it cleaned up.

A new farm bill has been introduced in both houses of congress. It is said to be nonpartisan, which is indicated by the fact that it is being sponsored by both republicans and democrats.

Mr. came in Saturday and said he noticed my little paragraph in this department recently telling subscribers to look on the address on the paper to see when their paper was out.

One of the best things that readers of this item could do would be to scan the newspapers carefully, find out what the legislature and the congress is doing, study any proposed new legislation, and then write your representative and senators your ideas about the matter.

A protest from all over the state has been made regarding the compulsory checking of all automobiles. Did it have any effect? You bet it did.

There are a number of important matters which will be introduced into the legislature shortly and which Valley county people should watch and keep informed about.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD. From the appearance of one Ord building it would seem at first glance that Hugos Shows were getting their advertising out early, as the windows are plastered with their bills.

Friday the Thirteenth did not mean so much in Ord. Aside from Ben Janssen coming down town without his keys and having to go back for them, no major casualties are reported.

Last week Vernon Andersen's son took his dad's watch to school and lost it. Vernie inserted a want ad in the Quiz, and the watch was promptly returned to him.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

Aftermath. Archie Geweke hailed me at the sale the other day and said, "You are wrong about the cooperative creamery business. You're all wet."

Among the other things that Archie told me was to give the co-ops their dues. "Where would we have been had they not entered the field? We farmers would still be getting the small end of the profit, the co-ops have at least established a competitor."

What I did intend to say was that the rebate, under its present set up is unfair and misleading. I still believe that. I shall repeat, if the rebate were paid on all the business done in place of just on the cream business, it might be better.

In the discussion that followed at the sale the other day, there seems to be a few points that are grossly misunderstood by many.

Also the Ord Co-op did something last summer that is seldom done. They raised the price of cream in this territory when the butter market justified the raise.

August Kriewald - A Lifesaver. To August Kriewald must be given the credit, or the blame, that I am still on this earth in place of some other.

I was late at that notorious meeting and the board was so happy about it they gave me a last minute reprieve.

At the Christmas program in Scotia school a few weeks ago, there was a one act play directed by the English teacher, Miss Kathleen Hassler.

At the Christmas program in Scotia school a few weeks ago, there was a one act play directed by the English teacher, Miss Kathleen Hassler.

But my disgust was soon changed to admiration. I nudged my wife again and says, "I was wrong. That was fine. I am afraid, had I have been doing this acting here in place of the lad, I would have flattered and not done half as well for the actress kissed me really quite pretty."

Short Shavings. Mrs. George Clement has just returned from a visit in Milton, Wis. She says up there she could at least go out doors without getting dust on her shoes.

Dick Dought, who lived on the corner one mile west of the Horace corner, has lived on that same place and rented it of the same man for 33 years.

Aftermath. A Lifesaver. Fine Acting. Short Shavings.

Just to demonstrate how accommodating folks are down the N. L. way, Will Cook had recently had his teeth out and the question arose over eating peanuts, so Dutch Manchester took out his store teeth and offered to loan them to Will.

The speed limit of Scotia is 256 miles per hour. At least the sign at the west edge of town says that. And the speed limit might be anything in Ord.

Item to Ernest Woolery in California: Please do not smirk at the idea of Nebraska and its freezing weather, for we have had a grand winter. What is called an open winter, with many pleasant, enjoyable days.

Something Different

Nebraska needs to toot her own horn. I know it. Newspapers now are full of Idaho advertisements, notice it? They are busily creating a demand for Idaho onions and Idaho potatoes, and I think the ads are going to get the job done, you watch and see if you don't suddenly feel potatoes and onions must be from Idaho when they grace your table for company.

And still the public raves about the placement of the library building back to the west of the lot, behind the firing station. That it would not be visible from the highway from Arcadia into Ord, that it would be placed so it would not landscape well, that it will look like an adjunct of the filling station are only a few of the remarks.

Some wag had a bit of fun recently. Excavation for the library has already begun, and a tarpaper tool shed erected, a tiny house suggestive of another kind of building. Along came the wag and parked a sign "Ord's new library", on the toolshed! Vernie Andersen is being accused but nothing has been done about it.

I am sure we were all more than interested in the short Mr. Biemond's theater ran Sunday and Monday, showing the inner workings of Father Flanagan's home.

It is only regrettable that Father Flanagan cannot accept all the stray boys who wish to come under his care. He turns away more than he is able to take, did you know that? I think we should all do what we can to help this priest build citizens.

It looks as though the United States is going to need some staunch citizens in the years to come, some honest men. And I don't mean for cannon fodder, if the only way to balance our national budget is to enter a war, I am again balancing the budget.

Someone was recalling a remark Monica Jean Gnaeter made a year or two ago. Dr. Krums had a fine new baby at their house, and when little Monica was told about it, she sniffed and superiorly replied: "Why shouldn't Dr. Krum's have nice babies, he gets his prick, doesn't he?" -Irma.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Some recent discoveries about sleeping sickness of horses, or encephalomyelitis, have been announced by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

The disease affects horses, cattle, sheep, goats, dogs, rats, mice, gophers, chickens, ducks, pigeons, and vultures. It also affects man. Virus from human victims of sleeping sickness will cause encephalomyelitis in horses.

The belief that mosquitoes spread sleeping sickness is generally accepted. The fact that the disease occurs during the insect season and subsides after killing frosts, and that no cases occur until the following insect season, brings up the question of how encephalomyelitis is carried over from one summer to the next.

There is evidence that some animal, other than the horse carries the disease over winter and serves as a reservoir of infection from which insects pick up the disease and spread it the following year. This carrier may be the pheasant, wild duck, domestic poultry, or some other creature.

There are two kinds of sleeping sickness. One is caused by the eastern virus, the other by the western virus. An animal recovered from eastern sleeping sickness is immune to the eastern virus but will develop the malady again if inoculated with western virus. That same thing is true with the western virus.

An improved vaccine, called "chick" vaccine, has been developed. Chick embryos are inoculated with the virus and then destroyed by formalin. Vaccine produced by this process will make a horse immune from encephalomyelitis for at least six months.

What Happened to Charlie? Charlie Veleba arrived for duty at the court house Tuesday morning in a more or less damaged condition, with a cut or bruise in the palm of his left hand and another on the back of his left wrist. He admitted meeting with an accident, but did not divulge its nature, and suggested that we make it into a guessing contest. One suggestion is that he got out of a window too fast, and another is that he had an encounter with a huge dog, and bears the marks of its teeth. One guess is as good as another, but the Quiz is discounting the theory that he bit himself, on the ground that he would only do so in self defense.

Ord Cagers Cop 3 From Sargent

Ord basketball teams made a clean sweep of their series with Sargent Tuesday evening, the Chanticleer 1st team winning 34 to 17, the reserves 24 to 23 and the junior high 16 to 11. As the score indicates, the game between Ord and Sargent reserves was the best of the evening, only one point separating the two teams much of the way. All games were played on the Ord floor.

Coach Brockman's first team turned in its best performance of the year in beating Sargent 34 to 17 and by doing so kept their conference record unscathed.

Last Friday evening, also on the Ord floor, junior high cagers won 21 to 10 over Arcadia juniors, while two grade school teams, the Blacks and Greens, played a fast preliminary which the Blacks won, 8 to 6.

Friday, Jan. 26, Loup City engages the Chanticleers in Ord, this being both a Mid Six and Loup Valley conference game.

A letter from H. G. Rhodes of San Diego, Calif., to his daughter, Mrs. Grant Cruikshank, speaks of the floods and the damages they have done. Mr. Rhodes went to Ocean Beach to see the damage which was of great extent. Large buildings torn from their foundations and some were wrecked entirely. He states the Beach is a lovely place to visit when everything is nice, and usually is, but when the tide is very high and the surf, rolling wave upon wave, is one of the most dangerous elements on earth. Mr. Rhodes states he likes to watch it when most angry as it displays a strength that cannot be overcome, but would not care to live there. GOTTLIEB STORZ

Brewer of Nebraska's Most Popular Beer Celebrates His 87th Birthday

Gottlieb Storz was 87 this week. The years have been good to him. He is still keen and active, head of the successful brewing business he started 63 years ago.

Omaha was then a pioneer town and he was a young brewing expert who had learned his art in some of the foremost breweries of Europe. The people of the west liked the beer he made for them and he grew with the country.

Mr. Storz has been steadfast through the years in his policy of keeping his beer the very finest. All Storz Beer is all-grain beer and is slow-aged in the way that gives the smoothest and most delicious flavor. Making good beer is his hobby and nothing delights him more than to lead the field in sales year after year. As long as he can do that, he says, 87 years is not so old.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

January 17, 1929. The C. W. Barber family of North Loup thought they were seeing things when they saw a cardinal in the yard. The cardinal is a bird that very seldom is seen in cold weather.

Rev. E. H. Maynard was suffering with a severe case of tonsillitis and was confined to his home. There was a strong movement toward the conservation of natural resources, especially water power.

GEO. A. PARKINS O. D. OPTOMETRIST. Only office in the Loup Valley devoted exclusively to the care of your eyes. Office in the Bailey building over Springer's Variety. PHONE 90

January 18, 1939. Sheriff Nichols picked up John Slungshot and Frank Bingo at Arcadia on a charge of horse stealing. Slungshot admitted the stealing and claimed Bingo aided him, but Bingo said he had never seen Slungshot until a day or two before and that he had never seen the horse in question. They were being held in jail at Ord. The horse belonged to Peter Bartusiak. New businesses mentioned included a barber shop known as the West Side barber shop run by a Mr. Wixon and a man from Palmer named G. W. Herring; E. J. Foght had opened a hardware store in the east side room now occupied by the McGrew barber shop. The other room in the Oddfellow block was then the Ord postoffice. Sig Milligan had an encounter with two bearded men as he was returning to Ord at night from the C. W. Parks place. They looked him over and soon decided he was not the man they were looking for and let him go. They were looking for a man supposed to have a large sum of money. The Springfield writer said: "Mr. Wm. Hawkins from up the river, is now in Springfield." "Mr. Lou Pierce, who has been in the east on a visit for some time, returned last Thursday with a wife." M. A. Showers was president of the Valley County Agricultural society and C. F. Way was secretary. The members of the executive committee were: C. W. Parks, M. S. Collins, Milton Cooper, M. B. Goodenow, Henry Wilde, Frank Smith, C. E. Cox, Adam Smith, E. C. Loomis, E. W. Waterman, S. McClellan, M. L. Fries, Robert Johnson and W. H. Beagle. The annual meeting of the Ord Building and Loan association was held. The following were elected: D. N. McCord, president; J. L. McDonough, vice president; E. K. Harris, treasurer; J. H. Capron, secretary; and M. Coombs, P. Mortensen, C. B. Coffin, W. D. Ogden, J. F. Barron, A. J. Smith and A. S. Martin, directors. The carpenters were putting on the finishing touches in the interior of the Ord National Bank building, the present Hotel Ord. The bank was to occupy the corner room, and the other front room was to be the hotel office. Back of the office was the dining room, kitchen, etc., and the two stories above were arranged for sleeping rooms. A barber shop was to occupy a part of the basement. From the Omaha Herald: "Miss Lou Royce, the heroine of last year's blizzard, is now attending Cornell college at Mt. Vernon, Ia. She has discarded crutches and walks with utmost ease on her artificial limbs." August Vogeler was advertising that he was wanting to buy chickens, ducks and turkeys. Some citizens of New Mexico were protesting against the admission of that territory as a state. Earned Their Salary. The county commissioners report that Sheridan county officials did a fine job last year by staying within the budget laid down for them at the beginning of the period. They deserve congratulations for their efforts.—Gordon Journal. Recipe For Health. Furnishing mid-forenoon nourishment in the way of milk to the children of the public school is a definite contribution to health and sturdiness. Children cannot be healthy nor can they apply themselves to study if they are undernourished.—Wayne Herald. He Uses Hypnotism. We see where a professor says that Hitler hypnotizes his hearers; some of these days somebody is going to leave Der Fuehrer unconscious. Hitler intimates the Jews in Germany are being treated as well as Negroes in the U. S., but there is no rush of Negroes to get into Germany.—Ravenna News.

Beauty and Usefulness of Anderson Island Increased by NYA Clean-up

In these pictures are shown some of the NYA workers who have been busy for the past month cleaning up Anderson Island Park. From a tangled mass of underbrush like the background in the photo at upper right, the NYA boys have transformed the southern half of the island into a beautiful park and picnic grounds. Northern half of the island was cleared of underbrush some year ago but here too the boys have been busy removing dead trees, building rustic benches and otherwise improving appearance of the island.

Wiegardts Return From Western Trip

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Wiegardt, son Kendall and daughter Betty returned Tuesday evening, Jan. 10 from their month's trip to California. They left Ord by auto Dec. 7, making the trip directly to Oakland in three days. They spent three weeks there visiting his mother, Mrs. Elsie Wiegardt, sisters, Dorothy Sorensen and Mrs. Morris Sorensen and husband, and brother Lauritz Sorensen.

Morris Sorensen, who left here some three years ago, has a good job as deck hand on the Southern Pacific ferry plying between San Francisco and Oakland. He has been on this job for more than two years. The railroad will suspend all passenger ferries after Jan. 15 as that is the date that train service will begin across Oakland bridge. It is stated that 1,040 trains will roll across this bridge daily.

Friends here will remember Lauritz Sorensen, who is a disabled World War veteran, having seen a great deal of service in France and later being held in a German prison camp. Alfred gathered a large number of newspaper clippings relative to the Oakland and Golden Gate bridges, both of which are open for traffic. The Golden Gate bridge was built by private enterprise and started before the Oakland bridge.

He says that reading about it can give no idea of the immensity of the Oakland bridge, or the beauty of Treasure Island, where the exposition is scheduled to open soon. The bridge is a double deck affair, with a six lane highway for cars above and tracks for four trains, two each way, below, besides a two lane highway for trucks. From the bridge a splendid view of Treasure Island and San Francisco Bay can be obtained.

The Wiegardts also visited Chris Bossen and family in Oakland, and drove out to San Leandro to visit Mrs. Carl Holm and son Henry. They saw Don Tunnell and Harry Zukoski and went to visit Junior James, but did not find him at home. Leaving Oakland they drove to Huntington Beach to visit another brother, Henry Wiegardt, formerly well known here and at Burwell, but who has been living there now for 15 years.

At Los Angeles it rained all the time, and they did not get much enjoyment out of their stay there. They drove to Glendale and saw George Kellison, who is a carpenter-contractor, and has a job building motion picture sets for studios. Their next stop was at Ontario for a visit with the Allan and Edwin Clements families, and also with the Judge Clements family, visiting there at the time.

They drove from Ontario to Boulder Dam, and made a complete tour of inspection. This impressed them as the most remarkable feature of their entire trip, not only because of its immensity, but also because it is equipped with elevators, passageways, rest rooms and other features on a par with those in the finest hotels.

From there they started home, but ran into a blizzard in New Mexico, which continued all the way across Arizona and into Colorado. The storm made travel difficult in the mountains, but whenever they hit the valleys summerlike weather prevailed. Near Las Vegas, N. M., they ran into a stretch of road where the snow drifted in faster than the snow plow could get it out of the way.

They saw cars in the ditch and wrecked in a number of places and saw two that had met in a head-on collision. Wiegardt admits that he drove at a snail's pace until he hit good roads again, and that he can think of a number of sports more to his liking than guiding a car along a slippery mountain highway. They had two cameras with them, and brought home a large number of fine pictures to remind them of the trip in years to come.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Fred Wants Addresses. Long Beach, Calif., Jan. 9th, 1939.

To the Editor of the Quiz: I wish you would put a piece in your paper notifying the people that were not in attendance at the last picnic here in Long Beach to send me their address so I will be able to send them a card of notification of the next one. We will be having another picnic soon, and I will be glad to know of anybody that is out here that has not attended one of our picnics yet.

By the way; we received a Xmas card from Merritt H. Fuson, 2547 Northwest Northrup St., Portland Ore. I thought Pat was mad at me for I accused him of taking my ladder on Halow'e'en night. I know that they accused him of putting a cow in the school house and bringing all the little "ticket offices" and putting them in the public square, and on one of them was a sign, reading, "JIM MISKO'S WILD CAT SAUSAGES," and another one read, "George Gard EXTRAC-TIONS," and another one read, "Orin Mutters PHOTO ME STUDIO" and also about 16 feet up on the court house, a sign showing "Three Ball Pawn Shop," but Jim Misko said he didn't believe that Pat done all that work, but found out afterwards that Jim wanted that ladder of mine, and also that Charley Urban wanted to use it too. I found out there was more people laid claims to that ladder, and come to figure it out, I didn't know that there were that many ladders in town, and after I received this Xmas card from Pat, am going to forgive him, as he said nice things on this Xmas card, so I am sending you a copy of what he wrote on the card.

"Dear Friends Fred and Susie: Now that I come to think of it again, I guess it is about time for me to tell you that you have always been a couple of my favorite people. No particular reason for me waiting this long to tell you excepting that I thought you knew it. Best regards to the rest of the family and any of my old friends from the old home town whom you happen to see. Sincerely yours, PAT"

Hope to see you and your wife out here at the next picnic we have. I am sending you under separate cover a copy of "Ham & Eggs Paper." You can see by the picture in the back sheet of the paper the amount of oranges destroyed in California along with the pigs and the cotton destroyed, and it is my opinion that it is about time that we had a change of weather back in Washington. Yours truly, Fred J. Bell

These were cured and smoked the real old-fashioned way in which no whit of ham flavor is sacrificed. Newer methods, while they tenderize the ham, do not preserve the flavor as well as the older, slower method.

when it became known over the state Tuesday. All radio stations broadcasting news featured the item at their noon and evening broadcasts Tuesday and telephone bells jangled constantly in Ord and Burwell as individuals, wire services and PWA officials sought confirmation of the sensational item. Omaha and Lincoln newspapers featured the story in their editions Tuesday and Wednesday.

Official notice of the city's action, with reasons for it, this morning was served on the North Loup district by City Attorney Clarence M. Davis who was directed in Councilman McGinnis' resolution to prepare and serve such a notice and it will be printed in full in the Quiz next week, a copy being secured too late this morning to get it in type for today's issue.

There is no secret about the reasons—city officials are dissatisfied, as the rank and file of electric users are, with the type of service that has been given since August 1 when the high line connection went into effect. Moreover, they regard as inequitable the arrangement made by the North Loup district with the Platte Valley district which manufactures the juice and with the Western Public Service company over whose lines the energy is transported from Elm Creek to Olean.

Under these arrangements, out of an average of $3,000 paid monthly to the North Loup district by Ord and Burwell, the district pays approximately $1,000 monthly to Western Public Service company and $1,300 to $1,500 to the Platte Valley district, leaving only $500 to $700 gross profit to help pay off the district's indebtedness, city officials claim. The district's net profit is much below this figure, the claim.

There is no desire on the part of Ord and Burwell officials to injure the North Loup district, in the claim.

Quiz feels sure after extensive conference with several concerned. In a few days the cities will join in presenting a plan to the district by which electricity manufactured locally will be sold to the district at approximately the price they now pay and bought back by Ord and Burwell at approximately the rate provided in their present contract. Such an arrangement, if accepted by the district, would provide the district with a larger net profit than it gets at present, would give better service to Ord and Burwell patrons, would provide more employment in both cities, and would allow the two cities to keep their municipal plants in operation profitably. Details of the plan have not been definitely worked out.

A committee composed of Light Commissioners Allen and Hansen, Attorneys Davis and Runyan, Councilmen McGinnis and Johnson, and two Burwell board members yet to be appointed, will negotiate with the district on behalf of the two cities.

The North Loup district has appointed a similar committee composed of Directors Bailey, Barta, Grunkemeyer, Doran and Hudson, the latter being chairman.

Mr. Hudson, who is president of the North Loup district, said this morning that he has no comment to make at present on the action taken by Ord and Burwell.

"Nothing official" has been received by the irrigation board, he said, and no statement will be issued until the matter is "properly presented" and considered by the board.

Asked over the telephone by an Associated Press reporter Tuesday as to whether Ord and Burwell could legally terminate their contracts, President Hudson is quoted as saying:

"I suppose that's a legal question. The city has entered into a 30-year contract with the district. It's a matter of legal opinion but my thought would be it is a binding contract."

M. B. Cummins, mayor of Ord, withheld comment also, saying he preferred to wait and see what turn events of the next few days may take. While the mayor is not legally entitled to vote on questions before the city council unless a tie vote develops, Mayor Cummins made no secret of the fact that he heartily approves the McGinnis resolution passed Tuesday eve and the city's severance with the high line this morning.

Annual Ord Township Meeting Held Thursday

The annual meeting of Ord township was held at the courtroom Tuesday and several items of interest were disposed of. Chief among them was the lowering of the library levy in the sum of $700 per year, as the amount in the building fund at present is sufficient to take care of the township's share of the new building. A. R. Brox acted as chairman. The board recommended the re-appointment of Mrs. G. W. Taylor as a member of the library board.

Hitchman Lost His Hat.

C. H. Hitchman had an experience with some real winter weather on the road between Norden and Bassett Saturday. The wind was blowing a gale and piling the snow so deep it was necessary at times to get out and work his way through. On one of these occasions a gust of wind took his hat and carried it so far that he was unable to find it and had to go without a hat until he reached the next town. We had a light touch of winter in Ord Saturday, but it was not that serious.

Lee, Misko, Told to Stop Quibbling by County Judge

Will Overrule Motions Filed to Delay Election Contest, He Told Lawyers.

Rapid settlement of the John P. Misko-Alvin B. Lee election contest is forecast by County Judge John L. Andersen's warning to the contesting parties Saturday that he will quickly overrule any future motions filed by either party simply for the purpose of delaying the recount.

Attorney Misko, republican candidate who was one vote behind County Attorney Lee when the mail vote was counted soon after the Nov. 8 election, was given until 5:00 p. m. Tuesday to "make more definite and certain" two sections of his contest pleading. Lee had filed a motion to compel such action but Saturday Judge Andersen overruled the motion except as it applied to two sections.

Lee has until tomorrow to file objections to whatever amended petition Misko may file, Judge Andersen ruled, and then will be given a short period to file an answer to the original petition. Any future papers he may file that would have the effect of further delaying the recount will "probably be overruled quickly," Judge Andersen warned Saturday.

Counting will be under way within two weeks, possibly sooner, it was prophesied Monday, and the election contest will be settled by Febr. 1 in all probability.

High School To Have Another Solo Day

About seventy-five music students of Ord high school will participate in the solo day program to be presented on Tuesday, Febr. 21. The solo day originated last year, and was met with such approval that it was decided to have another this year.

Critics for the day will be Prof. William G. Tempel, choral instructor, and Prof. Don R. Lentz, director of instrumental music at the University School of Music. Last year's critics were from Hastings College.

Besides vocal and instrumental solos, the boys' and girls' glee clubs and small instrumental groups will also appear on the program.

Auto Number Sales Behind Last Year

Checking up on the sales of auto numbers at 3:00 p. m., Jan. 20, the record showed that 1,034 had been sold for Valley county at that time according to Clyde Baker and Mrs. Baker, who is assisting with the county treasurer's office.

This shows a slight decline of the same day and hour of last year, when the number of 1,075. The sales were ahead of last year until the first of the week, when for some reason they began to lag. It means that the coming week will be a very busy one at the treasurer's office, as the limit for 1938 numbers is Febr. 1.

Last year a total of 3,446 licenses were issued during the entire year, and the number at the dead line, Febr. 1, was 1,951. To equal this record numbers must be sold during the last ten days of January at the rate of about 90 per day, or about 12 per hour. This means crowding a lot of business into a period of ten days.

Irrigation School In Ord Jan. 31st

An irrigation school will be held in Ord on Tuesday, Jan. 31, at the district court room, announces Co. Agent C. C. Dale. A. Moleaar, assistant agricultural engineer and Walter Fitts, agronomist with the extension service, will conduct the meeting. Moleaar will discuss land preparation and use of water and Fitts will talk on cropping systems under irrigation.

All farmers who are interested are requested to attend this meeting, which will start promptly at 10:00 a. m.

Henry Lee Sells Febr. 2

Henry Lee, who lives 4 miles west of North Loup, will farm less acreage and is advertising a reduction sale to be held Thursday, Febr. 2. Mr. Lee has some mules, some good milch cows and an extra big lot of farm machinery. Another sale booked this week is that of Hubert Hayes, who will sell on Tuesday, Febr. 7. Other farmers who plan to hold auctions during February are advised to claim their dates on the Quiz sale calendar soon, as the auctioneers report many such sales will be held.

McGrew Barber Shop Was Robbed Sunday Evening

Some time in the night Sunday the back door of the McGrew barber shop was broken open, the cash register was opened and the metal cover of the cash drawer was pried off. The key to the drawer was lying in the compartment for bills, but was overlooked, as the thief doubtless worked in the light furnished by the street lamps.

The only loss aside from the damaged register was $2.20 in change left in the drawer for use the next morning. The back door would not remain closed, so the intruder put some paper in the crack of the door to wedge it shut. There is no doubt that the job was the work of local talent, and it is hoped something definite may develop in a few days.

To the above might be added the fact that the Farmers elevator was entered one night a short time ago, a wooden drawer pried open and some 35 pennies taken. It is known that this was the work of some youngster or possibly more than one, as the elevator owners had just laid some cement the day before and the tracks on this showed plainly enough to prove that they were small.

According to the manager, I. W. Eschliman, some one made an attempt to get into the office of the Ord Seed and Grain company, the same night the Farmers elevator was entered. The north window of the office had been pried open, but the intruder was apparently frightened away before he got inside, probably by some one passing by. An old file was left there, and was doubtless the tool used to open the window.

Hotel Ord Leased by Mrs. Partridge

Beginning Febr. 1st, Hotel Ord will be under new management, a deal having been completed this week by which Mrs. Amollia Partridge leased the building for a term of years to Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Teague and also sold them the furniture and fixtures. Mrs. Partridge has leased one of the Lewis apartments which will be her headquarters in future, although she plans to spend part of her time traveling and visiting relatives and friends elsewhere.

Ever since 1901, with the exception of 1 1/2 years, the Partridge family has been connected with Hotel Ord and will remain so in future, inasmuch as Mrs. Teague is a daughter of Mrs. Partridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Partridge came to Ord in 1901 and for a time were employed at the hotel, later assuming management of it. For 1 1/2 years they operated a hotel at Hastings but in 1903 purchased Hotel Ord. Mr. Partridge died in 1921 and his widow has operated the hotel since, except for the winter of 1934-35 when she took a trip to California and left the Teagues in charge.

The new owners are experienced in hotel work, Mrs. Teague having learned the business under her parents' tutelage. She and her husband managed a hotel at Stromsburg, Nebr., for 1 1/2 years, returning to Ord a few months ago. Mr. Teague is a traveling salesman but will retire from the road and devote all his time to hotel work, beginning next week.

Mrs. Partridge said yesterday, while reminiscing about her many years of hotel experience in Ord, that the loyalty and support of business people of Ord has been a big factor in Hotel Ord's success and she wishes to thank people of this city.

No changes are planned for the immediate future by the new owners but eventually they hope to enlarge the hotel by an addition on the north end of the building, Mrs. Teague states.

Former Ordite Dies At Winner, Jan. 11

Rasmus P. Petersen, who was in the laundry business in Ord many years ago, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. E. Goodwin, at Winner, S. D., Jan. 11. His home was in Omaha, and the body was taken there for burial. The Petersens had three children, L. V. Petersen and Mrs. Goodwin, who live in Winner, and Helena Dulaney of Omaha.

Mr. Petersen came to Omaha in 1881, and engaged in the laundry business there. Later he worked in the same line of business at St. Paul and at Ord. The older generation will remember them and the son-in-law, Goodwin, who was also in business in Ord. Besides his children, he is survived by his wife who makes her home with her daughters.

Mrs. John Sershen was a bus passenger to Grand Island Wednesday morning, going down to spend the day.

Greeley Man 1st President of New Firemen's Group

District Association is Formed at Meeting Held Friday in City Hall in Ord.

At a meeting held at the city hall Friday evening visiting firemen met with the members of the Ord fire department as hosts, and formed an organization to be known as the Loup Valley Firemen's association. Officers elected were Jesse L. Scott, Greeley, president; Freeman Haught, Ord, secretary, and M. O. VanKirk, Scotia, treasurer.

Towns included in the district are Taylor, Burwell, Sargent, Comstock, Arcadia, Ansley, Broken Bow, St. Paul, Boelus, Elba, Ashton, North Loup, Greeley, Fairwell, Loup City, Dannebrog, Scotia, Wolbach, Erickson, Spalding and Ord. A committee of organization comprising Chiefs Cecil Clark of Ord, Clifford Anderson of Burwell and Roy Shoemaker, Scotia, was also selected.

An afternoon and an evening meeting were scheduled, but many of the visitors did not arrive until the evening meeting. In the afternoon members of the Grand Island fire department demonstrated various methods of fire prevention, as well as latest approved methods of fire fighting. For late comers a demonstration was also given at a late hour that night.

Horace M. Davis, state fire marshal, arrived at about 2:00 p. m., and was present for the afternoon session. In the evening he delivered a very interesting and practical talk on various phases of the fire problem. He is not only an able speaker, but is an authority on the subject of fire prevention. The business session followed, and as a fitting close, the ladies of the Ord fire department served a lunch in the hall.

The names of those who signed the register were: From Grand Island, Clyde Campbell, William Rounklett and Roy Westphal; from Greeley, Sherman L. Boyden, Dr. E. A. Doyle, John J. Snell, Jesse L. Scott, P. J. Kerrigan, Roy S. Clark, and Patrick McNellis; from Spalding, A. H. Kveimer and Genet V. Tyler; from Erickson, S. S. Westcott, Jack Harris and Frank Pierce from Scotia, Roy Shoemaker, Elvin J. Voocher, Ralph Beck, Walter Beck, M. O. VanKirk and George A. Hernimeyer.

From North Loup, M. E. Wellman and Paul Madsen; from Elba, Raymond Panowicz, Jerry Linson, M. J. Panowicz and Carl Koborg; from Burwell, Clifford Anderson, Ferd B. Wheeler, Lewis Moore, Otto Clausen, Walter V. Peterson and Floyd E. Demaree; from Coteseff, Theodore H. Fadsen, Geo. A. Tatlow and R. J. Berners; from St. Paul, Harry T. Jacobs and Edward J. Prochaska.

The Ord firemen are well pleased with the attendance and interest shown in this, the first district fire convention, although all towns in the district were not represented. The object of the district organization is to supplement and not supplant the state conventions, and it is believed that the district meetings will be found more workable for individuals who have problems upon which they want information.

Grasshoppers Will Be Plentiful Next Summer, Poisoning Best Bet

Valley county will probably have a heavy grasshopper infestation again this year according to O. S. Bare, state extension entomologist under whose direction grasshopper egg survey was conducted last fall. Although the state as a whole showed a considerable reduction in the number of eggs laid as compared to 1937, the survey in Valley county showed only a slight reduction.

In a letter accompanying his report, Bare stated that in some counties campaigns had been organized for burning out fence rows and waste places in the mistaken idea that this would destroy grasshopper eggs. Grasshopper eggs are so deeply imbedded in the ground that burning has virtually no effect except to make them hatch earlier in the spring. It may kill large numbers of beetles which are enemies of the grasshopper.

Bare points out that one county in South Dakota carried on an extensive burning campaign for three years and the fourth year, experienced the worst grasshopper infestation in its history. He states that the only hope of control is in a well organized poison bait spreading program in each infested county.

Clyde McKenzie, John Wiberg and Alfred Graber of Burwell were in Ord Tuesday evening.

10-Year-Old Elyria Boy Dies Thursday

Bernard John, ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kusek of Elyria died Thursday evening after a lingering illness of several months. The funeral was held Saturday morning at nine-thirty in the Elyria Catholic church. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. C. Shumski.

Pallbearers for the funeral were Ralph Zulkoski, Adrian Jablonski, Leonard Suminski, Fred Dubas, Harold Kusek, and Floyd Iwanski. Burial was in the Elyria Catholic cemetery.

Out-of-town relatives attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Leo Sokol, Albert Zuba, and Mrs. Mateja of Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. John Kusek and Florence, Louis Zuba, and Mrs. Jarecki of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. John Augustyn and family of Loup City, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kaminski and family of Arcadia.

No 1939 Increase in Loup Valley's Acreage of Beets

Government Cut Allotment to Grand Island Area; Will Work for 1940 Increase.

In spite of the fact that farmers of the North Loup district are insisting on a larger sugar beet allotment for the valley, it is stated upon good authority that the acreage in the Grand Island district will be less this year than last, according to the statement of A. J. Denman, who is manager of the Grand Island Beet Sugar factory.

O. W. Johnson of Burwell, who has taken an active interest in the sugar beet situation in the valley since the certainty of irrigation, says that the acreage allotment for the Grand Island district last year was 12,328 acres, the greater part of which is located in the Platte valley, the district extending as far west as Cozad or farther.

He gives the figures for the North Loup district last year as 332 acres in the vicinity of North Loup, and 329 acres near Burwell, and says that, while every effort is being made to have the acreage increased here, it is doubtful if anything can be done in time for the 1939 crop. He says that even if nothing is accomplished before 1940, the benefit of increased acreage at that time will be well worth the effort.

The 1939 acreage will be restricted to those who raised beets last year, which is only good judgment, since these men are better equipped by experience and most of them have an investment in tools for beet culture as well as in the leveling of their land. Every man in the valley who raised beets last year expects to continue the program this year, it is understood.

Charles Meyer, who raised 50 acres east of Burwell last year, expects to plant the same field this year if he is given permission to do so, and does not believe his acreage will be reduced. His crop last year amounted to 16 tons per acre and proved to be a profitable investment. General opinion is that the acreage in this valley will be left as it was last year and the reductions made elsewhere, as the acreage here is small at the best.

James Petska, accompanied by Frank Kruml and Buster Petska, went up the river above Elyria Friday evening with his coon dogs, and succeeded in bringing back a 26 pound coon. The meat is in storage, and a coon dinner is planned for some time soon.

Monday's Snow Brought Winter's First Sledding to Ord Youngsters

Racing down the hill on South 21st street, their faces tingling with the cold but aglow with excitement were this group of youngsters when photographed by the Quiz speed camera Tuesday. Monday's 3 1/2 inch snowfall brought the first sledding of this winter to Ord and city officials obliged by roping off the hospital hill paving so youngsters could enjoy the sport to the utmost.

All Farmers Invited to Attend Chamber Meeting, Hear Maly

Coffee, Doughnuts, Smokes for All Guests at K. of P. Hall Thursday Eve.

An invitation to all farmers of the Ord community to attend the general meeting of the Ord Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening and hear the address to be made by Stanley Maly, well known Lincoln banker, is extended this week. The meeting will be held at 8:00 at the Knights of Pythias hall.

Originally it was planned to have each member of the Chamber invite a farmer friend, but since there is room in the K. of P. hall for 400 or more people and such a plan would bring out only about 200 if all Chamber members attended and each brought a friend, it was decided instead to issue a general invitation to farmers.

Mr. Maly, who is president of the First National bank of Lincoln, is an exceptionally able speaker and is as familiar as any man in Nebraska with the needs and problems of agricultural communities. His topic will be "The Farm Problem."

Remember, farmers, you need no other invitation than this to be present at the meeting and you will be heartily welcomed by Ord business men. Coffee and doughnuts will be served and there will be smokes for everybody, says President J. A. Kovanda.

Ign. Klima Chairman of Legislative Committee

Ign. Klima, chairman of the legislative committee of the association of county clerks and registers of county clerks and registers of deeds, and A. R. Brox, a member of the legislative committee of the association of county assessors, went to Lincoln Friday to look over the legislative situation in the unicameral relative to matters of interest to them in their respective offices.

It seems that the original budget law as passed by the legislature two years ago has quite a number of related bills, and that many of these are in conflict with each other or with parts of the main budget law. Klima and others tried to explain this to the county government, but the county government and revenues committee looked upon them with suspicion at that time.

This time Chairman Von Seggern of the committee realized the true purpose of the committee on going to Lincoln, and he was in a very receptive mood. He asked Mr. Klima to make any suggestions relative to the law that he thought advisable, and said that he would be called to Lincoln again to check over the law before it was presented for passage, probably the latter part of this week.

The new law provides for a fiscal year beginning Jan. 1 and running until the following Jan. 1, the budget to be drawn up in December and to go into effect in January. As soon as it is in effect, warrants may be drawn against it up to 50% of the amount until the appropriation is made. Counties on a cash basis, which are very much in the minority, are opposed to the budget law.

A number of amendments will also be made to the present election laws, there being a number of places where the provisions of the present laws are in conflict. The committee hopes to so clarify all points of the law that in the future it will be unnecessary to resort to the courts to settle points of difference, as it is in many cases at the present time.

Hybl's Brother Killed In Hunting Accident

Saturday evening Joe Hybl of Plain Valley received by telephone the sad news of the death of his brother Frank, who was killed in an accident while hunting rabbits near his home at Clarissa, Minn. The Hybls left early Monday morning in Ed Kerchal's car, in order to be there for the funeral, which was to be held Tuesday. Frank was Joe's younger brother and was about 35 years of age. He had never lived here, being a native of Minnesota, but had visited here on several occasions.

Two Couples Married by Co. Judge John Andersen

Ray Finley, son of Fred Finley of Sargent, and Miss Inez Uhlman beauty operator of Taylor, were granted a marriage license by Judge John Andersen Saturday, and were later married by the judge with Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Moon of Sargent as witnesses.

Charles Hulinski and Miss Emma Wolf, both of Burwell, who were granted a marriage license earlier in the month, were married by County Judge Andersen Tuesday, the witnesses being Albert Hulinski and Miss Mary Bruha, both of Burwell.

In addition to these marriages, the judge issued a license Jan. 21 to Edward Iwanski, son of Alex Iwanski, and Elsie Noha, daughter of Mike Noha, who were married at Elyria Monday.

Mrs. J. Papiernik Dies Tuesday Noon

Following months of suffering, during which time everything was done for her, Mrs. Jake Papiernik passed away at the home northeast of Elyria at noon Tuesday. She was the youngest of the Furtak sisters. The other members of the family are Mrs. Grabowski of Ashton; Mrs. Fried Dowhower, Mrs. Peter Bartusiak and Mrs. Mary Genski of Elyria; and Clement Furtak, of Ord.

Besides her husband she leaves to mourn her passing six children, Helen of Central City, and Louis, Steve, Chester, Anna and Sylvester, all of whom live in Valley county. Funeral services for Mrs. Papiernik will be held from the Elyria Catholic church Thursday, at 9:30 a. m. A more complete story of her life will appear in the Quiz next week.

3 1/2 Inches of Snow Fell. Heaviest of the Winter

Heaviest snowfall of the winter so far as Ord and vicinity are concerned came Monday, when 3 1/2 inches fell between 4:00 a. m., and the noon hour. The snow contained 32 of an inch of moisture, according to Horace Travis' official figures. There was no wind that day and the snow did not drift at all.

Coldest temperature registered this week was 6 above zero at an early hour Sunday morning, Mr. Travis reports. Below freezing temperatures prevailed all that day but by Monday noon the snow was melting and it has been going off rapidly since.

Townsend Meet Well Attended.

There was a very good attendance Friday evening when the Townsend club met at the I. O. O. F. Hall. Several new members were added, bringing the total to 97, most of whom have joined since election. With the exception of V. E. Kessler, who succeeds Bert LeMasters, the officers were installed as elected. The ladies brought pie, chicken and other good things to eat, and a splendid time is reported.

Will Sell Energy at 1.19c, Buy Back at 1.59c, Is Offer

Two Alternate Propositions Made Tuesday by Ord-Burwell Committee on Power.

Another chapter in the electric dispute between the cities of Ord and Burwell and the North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation district was written Tuesday when the cities, through their special committee on power, submitted three proposals to Roy W. Hudson, district president.

First of these propositions was an offer to sell electric energy manufactured in the Ord and Burwell plants to the district at a flat price of 1.19c per kilowatt hour and repurchase it at 1.59c per kilowatt hour, the 4 mill spread forming a "subsidy" to the district.

On basis of present use of electricity by Ord and Burwell people, acceptance of this proposal would assure the North Loup district of an annual net profit of $8,000 to $10,000, a member of the cities' special power committee said this morning. As population and consumption of energy increase, the district's annual profit would increase, they said.

The second proposal states that if the North Loup district is able to buy energy more advantageously elsewhere—from one of the state's hydro districts, it is assumed—Ord and Burwell will buy such energy from the district at a new scale of rates as follows: First 15 kilowatt hours per month, 2c; 2nd 15 kilowatt hours per capita per month, 1 1/2c; 3rd 15 kilowatt hours per capita per month, 1c; all over said amount, 9 mills per kilowatt hour.

Under the old contract, repudiated Jan. 18 by Ord and Burwell when they went off the district's transmission line and resumed operation of their own plants, the rates paid were the same as provided above but the blocks were based on consumption of 25 kilowatt hours per capita monthly. Therefore, should the district accept the second proposal, the average rate paid by Ord and Burwell would be considerably lower than under the old contract.

In December, the average price paid by Ord for electricity was about 1.71c. Under proposal 2, as outlined above, average cost of the same amount would be about 1.43c. To net as much money on resale as the 4 mills provided in the first proposal, the district would have to buy juice from the hydros very much cheaper than it is now doing, probably at about .9c delivered at Olean.

The third alternate proposal made Tuesday is that the two cities, instead of buying electricity from the district, would pay it a flat sum of $750 per month, of which $500 would be paid by Ord and $250 by Burwell from light plant earnings. Such amounts, it is claimed by the cities' power committee, total more than the district has been making on electricity heretofore furnished.

In all three propositions Ord and Burwell admit their moral obligation to help the North Loup district pay off its indebtedness but deny that they or the district owe any obligation "to any external parties," notably the state's hydro districts.

Cosmopolitans Enjoyed Pictures Monday Eve

The meeting of the Ord Cosmopolitan club Monday evening at the City Cafe was well attended. Following the meal and the usual order of business Ed Gnaster, in charge of the program, introduced H. L. McKeller of Grand Island, who is factory representative of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, and, in addition, an excellent entertainer, as it proved.

Mr. McKeller brought with him his own motion picture projector and showed a large number of scenes taken by himself, as well as some that were furnished him by the factory, interspersing the pictures with a very entertaining monolog as to where they were taken and what was represented. The members were highly pleased with his program.

Morris Dale Kirby Dies. Morris Dale Kirby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kirby, was born Dec. 23, 1938, and passed away Jan. 23 at the age of four weeks. Funeral services were held from the Pearson and Anderson chapel on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Miss Mamie Young, pastor of the United Brethren church, in charge. Mrs. Mark Tolson sang, accompanied by Mrs. Robert Noll at the organ, and the body was laid to rest in the Ord cemetery.

SCORE FOR SEVEN YEARS.

A writer in the New York Sun draws a startling comparison of the financial condition of England and America during the past seven years, and the results that are being attained in an effort to get out of debt.

England's income was lowest in 1932, while that of the United States was lowest in 1933. From the low point England's income had increased 101% by 1937, while that of the United States had increased only 49%.

England did not attempt to spend itself out of the depression. From 1932 to 1933 the British budget shows a surplus of about $400,000,000, which means that sum was the amount of tax revenues remaining after government spending.

Reducing these staggering figures to terms of the individual, we find that from 1932 to 1933 each person living in England got more out of debt to the amount of nearly $9 while each individual in the United States went deeper in debt by nearly $160.

In 1929 the average yearly income figure in England was $420, while in the United States it was $610. In 1932 the per person figure in England was $260 and in the United States it was $356.

Checking over the budgets of the two nations for the years 1929 to 1938, we find that England went behind $30,000,000 in 1933, and $125,000,000 in 1938, but the 1938 deficit was caused by a defense loan of more than twice that amount.

MAN'S MEASURE OF MAN. (Editor's note: Before throwing this article away in disgust, the reader is requested to read through to the end. There may be more truth to it than you think.)

Man is a peculiar animal, and, because he is, his measure of his fellow men is affected largely by his position in life, his social surroundings, or the kind of work in which he engages.

It is interesting to see how the man who is down in the life frequently has a greater depth of view than the man in the high places.

The editor, for example, if he is nothing more than an editor, looks upon every person he meets as a potential subscriber or advertiser or as a possible source of news.

The banker has a different angle, if he is merely a banker. Men come into his place of business for one of two general reasons. They may have money to deposit, or they may want to borrow money.

is a depository for funds. The banker's measure of a man who wants to borrow is his ability to pay.

The lawyer sees in the people he meets parties to litigation of some kind, for it would be a drear world for him if nobody ever had any trouble that got into the courts.

Luckily, life is not strictly a business proposition. In whatever walk of life a man's work may be, he is a friend first, a business man afterward.

DAN V. STEPHENS. Friday, Jan. 13, meant a share of bad luck for Nebraska in general and Fremont in particular, for it was on that day that death came to one of the state's outstanding citizens and perhaps the most notable figure that Fremont has produced.

Often named Fremont's foremost citizen, he was also one of Nebraska's outstanding political leaders and in that respect attained national stature.

In January, 1888, at the age of 19 years, he had his first thrilling experience. He was teaching school near Fremont and showed his sense of responsibility and his clear headedness in the emergency by leading his thirty-five pupils to safety in a farm house through the famous blizzard.

However, like most other really great men, fame came to him slowly and over a long period of years. He became interested in banking, publishing and authorship, besides taking an interest in the state's politics.

He was perhaps best known as the head of the publishing house of Hammond and Stephens, which published supplies for schools and superintendents.

Checking over the budgets of the two nations for the years 1929 to 1938, we find that England went behind $30,000,000 in 1933, and $125,000,000 in 1938, but the 1938 deficit was caused by a defense loan of more than twice that amount.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

The farmer who is looking for something different to plant, may find soybeans profitable. Soybeans are not new to Valley county. They have been grown with fair success by W. O. Zauggner, on his farm at Olean.

The acre yield of soybeans in Nebraska compares favorably with that of other states. The figures below give a thirty year average at Lincoln, and a five year average for other states.

Illinois-18 bushels.
Indiana-17 bushels.
Iowa-15.5 bushels.
Nebraska-15.2 bushels.

Soybean production has been much higher in neighboring states partly because they cannot grow alfalfa well, and must use soybeans for hay. Alfalfa yields about 50 percent more than soybeans. Following are some state soybean averages:

Illinois-2,600,000 acres.
Indiana-300,000 acres.
Iowa-700,000 acres.
Missouri-400,000 acres.
Kansas-40,000 acres.
Nebraska-4,000 acres.

The U. S. soybean acreage has been expanded from two million to seven million acres during the past 14 years. This has depressed the market somewhat, recent prices of soybeans around $4 cents a bushel.

Soybeans did not produce as much grain as other crops over a 30-year period at Lincoln. Comparative yields are as follows:
Oats-44 bushels.
Corn-35 bushels.

Barley-30 bushels.
Wheat-29 bushels.
Soybeans-15 bushels.
There are other drawbacks to soybeans. They do not respond to irrigation especially well. They are not as drought resistant as sorghums. On rolling land they invite erosion. They do not compare with clover or alfalfa as a soil builder. The seed must be inoculated before planting. The beans may shatter and crack during the harvesting process. The crop is apt to be destroyed by weeds in eastern Nebraska, or by jackrabbits in western Nebraska.

Soybeans are planted around June first, in rows three feet apart, or with a grain drill. Cultivation is necessary with either method. A combine, blunder, or mower is used for harvesting.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

In a message to congress last week urging an extension of social security benefits President Roosevelt made it perfectly plain that he is opposed to the Townsend, or any other similar plan of social security.

Merritt Fuson, in writing to have his farm changed to a new temporary address in Oregon, directly threatens us and that is always a challenge. "Pat" says if John Ward doesn't get busy and write some more old time stuff that he, himself, will, figuratively speaking, take the gentleman ox by the horns and write some himself, in other words I suppose horn in on John's work. And then we will hear some more about their pants. Go to it Pat and do your worst and see if we care.

If the present session of the legislature passes proposed legislation, old age assistance will be fixed at $30.00 per month in Nebraska and that amount will be paid each one entitled to it in full unless property in the shape of a home and worth more than two thousand dollars, is owned. The plans as laid contemplate doing away with about ninety per cent of the present cost of operation of the present old age assistance department. If those entitled to receive old age assistance can be sure of getting their $30.00 each month at a certain time they can budget their needs and make their plans and it will be a great improvement over present methods.

We have been somewhat behind in the work of getting all stencils cut to show subscription payments and some subscribers may be wondering why their new dates did not show on their paper or on the wrapper in which it is mailed. The work has been caught up now and if you will all take a look, and if you have not been properly credited, if you will drop us a card, corrections will be made. We believe that we have now credited on the address stencil all payments and if not it is an error which we wish to correct.

Again I want to remind you that I will appreciate having your daily paper subscriptions or renewals. I make a small commission which you can not get if you send it in direct or give it to some traveling salesman, so why not give me the business. I have always gone on the theory that anything worth having is worth asking for, so I am asking you for this little business. And you make a little saving besides.

There are two things which have not been prominently mentioned in connection with the controversy between the city of Ord and the irrigation people. One is the damage that was done to motors and light bulbs by the severe jolting given them when the power went off and on continually. I have had a number of people tell me that they never had so many light bulbs broken before and they finally figured out that it was because of the severe strain on them by the frequent going off and on of the current. Another thing is the loss to Ord of several families that lost jobs when the city started buying juice from the district. For the city to have to pay more than it could produce the juice for; to have to suffer the loss of several families and to have to stand for the damage to equipment which we were having, sure does sound silly business. Especially when the government justifies its expenditure of about $60,000,000 on Nebraska hydro projects by telling how much cheaper electricity is going to be in this state.

Anyhow, we can't have as much winter as we could, had it started when winter is supposed to start. And isn't it a good joke on those dreaders of cold winter who have been shivering in the cold, damp California weather for the past two months and who will probably get back to God's country just about in time to shiver, here, in the cold March and April winds. So far this winter has had California, Texas and Florida cheated, but our luck just can't last always.

I knew it. Bill Jones came in Saturday mad as a hatter because I stopped his paper, but he was back three months and I had to do it. He cooled off quite a bit though when I showed him his card and how, two years ago I had to stop it before he would come in and pay up and then back five years when I had to do the same thing. He said, "Well, I seem to have gotten the habit, don't I?" I told him, had his record been better I would not have stopped his paper. And

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT! Made Good in City Lesson in Numbers Two Mysteries Short Shavings

Made Good in the City.

Many of us remember Ralph Comstock, who lived in and near North Loup for many years, farming, carpentering, and dairying. Some few years ago he moved back to St. Charles, Ill., and after a year got a job as gardener for the estate of a man named Babson, who sells the Melotte separators, Serge milkers and other things advertised in our national farm papers. Mr. Babson has since died but Ralph has continued his job for the widow.

This farm or estate on which Ralph works has been made, so they say, into a wild flower reserve. Ralph spends all his time transplanting and caring for wild flowers and wild life and has spent so much time at it that he has become an authority and expert in the flower and especially wild flower business. He has written several articles for magazines and has been planning a book on that subject.

It is interesting to hear people tell of the man, people who have visited him enroute further east, for if one even stops to half a hello to Ralph, he must stay longer. One man arrived at eight o'clock in the evening, but Ralph got a lantern and insisted they go out to a bridge he had made and see some certain point of interest, and it was eleven before they returned. Another party was to leave at nine but it was noon before the flowers had all been seen.

Those who remember Ralph remember him as somewhat of a politician and a well read and well thought as well as humor. They say now he scarcely reads the papers any more at all or anything else except seed catalogues and books referring to wild life and wild flowers. We old friends can not believe he has lost his humor, although he and I write letters to each other occasionally and his letters will be ten or a dozen big pages written on both sides, and entirely of his work.

Well, Ralph has gone places, we might say. He has a well paid job in a work that makes him happy and that's about all there is to it anyway. It is the specialist that makes it now days; not the smart man in many lines.

A Lesson in Numbers.

My daughter was having a little difficulty one evening in solving the following problem: A number of two digits is equal to seven times the sum of its digits. If the digits are reversed, the resulting number is 36 less than the original number. What is the number?

She came to her Pa for help, thinking he should know everything, which is very nice for the girl to think whether it is true or not. I hated to disappoint her so I attempted to solve the problem that she might get a better grade. One way I had of getting my mathematics when a kid. I never quite recovered from it. I would find the answer, then proceed to work the problem. So I started to try and find what number of two digits, where if their digits were reversed, that number would be 36 less than the original number.

I discovered there could only be four numbers used in the ten digit column, for that had to be bigger than the units column, to make the 36 less. I finally found 95 and 59 would work. Thinking the rest would be easy I proceeded but the sum of 5 and 9 (14) times seven did not equal 95.

Undaunted I continued to cut and try and I found there are four combinations that the difference would be 36. 95-59; 84-48; 73-37; 82-26. Discouraged by then, I went ahead and helped the girl solve the problem without the answer as I should have done in the first place, forty-eight being the one answer of the four.

Two Mysteries.

There is no organization in the country that has the loyalty of support of the Ladies clubs. One of the oldest ladies clubs in the country is the Noto (an abbreviation of North Loup) club of North Loup. I have heard it said, were the town tumbling in fire, these women would not miss a meeting. It is true that all other meetings in the vicinity must be set aside for that, (or at least the ladies will not attend the other) and women have been known to come home from distant trips, planning their journey so as to arrive in time for the next club meeting.

The reason for all this eagerness to attend these meetings has never been fully explained. Surely it is not the lesson, for even members will admit that sometimes they are "not so hot." There is always a feed, which helps some, and if there are any new clothes, that's the place they are worn first. It cannot be gossip that attracts, for the members will swear on all that's Holy no such pastime is indulged in.

I give up. I will not venture to guess the reason anymore than I will try to tell why men like to go to Bill Jones wasn't his name, either, but it is a true story. And I have quite a lot of cards where he paid for his stop it shortly if not paid for. I wish every Quiz subscriber would try to clear that kind of a record. It is not the people who are hardest up who have such records.

Mrs. Hemphill says that she finally has become engaged to the doctor. For Christmas he gave her a nice diamond ring and the first one she ever had. Before they were married, and even a few years after, she says they could not buy an engagement ring or a wedding ring—not even a ten cent store diamond. She says too, that at least in this case, those wedding vows held as well as if there had been all kinds of jewelry to bind the bargain.

One prominent business man of N. L., who deals all over the country says he thinks the people living in the section of northwest Greeley county are the poorest of anywhere in the United States. That is taking in lots of territory, but most of us will admit some sections of Greeley county about take the cake.

In S. O. S., the discussion arose as to whether two could live as cheaply as one. Ira Manchester said he was not convinced about that but he was sure two could starve as cheaply as one.

Adolph Hellewege has about 350 hens and is picking up over 200 eggs a day from them. He mixes his own mash, costing him, he says about a dollar a hundred, also feeding them a little whole corn as scratch feed in the evening. He has lights too, turning on the switch about five so as to rout the chickens out and give them more time to lay eggs. He says he has the light switch handy so his wife can turn it on without hardly waking up. As far as he is concerned he don't need to get up so early.

Upon my joking my wife about spending so much care in getting herself ready for Ladies club, she says women are more particular how they look to women than to men. Women are more critical of each other she thinks.

Coach Keith Wolfe's Junior High Chautauqueurs won their 4th consecutive game when they defeated Coach Reynolds' Loup City Juniors on the Ord floor Friday night by a score of 16 to 5. At no time did the Loup City team threaten to defeat the Ord basketeers. The score at the half was 13 to 1. Other games played by the junior high and won were Kearney, Sargent and Arcadia.

On Friday and Saturday, Jan. 27th and 28th, the junior high team will participate in an invitational tournament to be held at Arcadia. About ten other teams will attend this tournament.

Subsidy Price for Silver Causes Many Red Faces

There are a good many red faces as the result of the continuance of the present subsidy price for silver mined in the United States. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., is among those who believe that the price should be reduced, and expected it would be.

Senator John Townsend of Delaware has introduced a resolution providing for an inquiry into the whole silver policy. The natural inference would be that this would be shelved, but there are several senators, even on the pro-silver side, who would like nothing better than to have a thorough public airing and discussion of the government's silver policy.

Actually, of course, the treasury, with the approval of the President, has flagrantly ignored the law. It is a crazy law, and this writer believes that the President and Mr. Morgenthau should be commended for not obeying it. But it should be repealed if it is not to be obeyed. As a matter of fact it would have to be repealed very shortly if the treasury should make a really conscientious effort to obey it. However, the proceedings would cost the taxpayers of this country a good many billion dollars before the repeal would ensue.

The point is that the law directs the treasury to keep on buying silver until the amount of silver held is one-fourth of the value of all the gold and silver held by the government—or until the price of silver shall reach one dollar and twenty-nine cents an ounce.

President Roosevelt makes clear the real battle facing the New Deal is the fight for the control of the 1940 convention... Inquiry into whole silver policy is demanded... Roosevelt jolts "peace at any price" lobby.

Washington.—The real battle confronting the New Deal, as President Roosevelt made crystal clear in his Jackson Day speech, lies in the fight for control of the 1940 Democratic convention. It seems a long time off, to those not accustomed to get interested in politics until the closing days of a campaign. But the convention is just one year from June, the selection of delegates begins one year hence, and the scheming to pick and control those delegates is already under way.

Most of the fire in Roosevelt's Jackson Day speech, it will be noted, was against the outside elements that have infiltrated the Democratic party and are now seeking to control it. He wants all the Tweedledes to go join their Republican brethren, the Tweedledums, and let the New Dealers run the Democratic party.

But there were a great many men and women in the audience at the Mayflower hotel, some of whom show in the photographs taken of the President—they were so close to him—who are not going to cooperate on the side of the New Dealers in that battle.

Leaving entirely aside those whose opinions are clearly known on this matter, one might speculate as to which side of the battle will include James A. Farley, who is shortly to retire as postmaster general but who is to continue, probably right up to the convening of that convention, as the chairman of the Democratic National committee, and as chairman of the New York State Democratic committee.

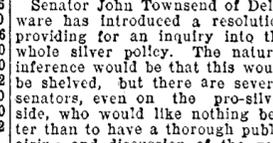

Farley's Influence Blocks Candidacy of Jackson. It must be recalled, to grasp the importance of this, that it was largely Farley's influence that prevented what would have been the most spectacular step toward picking a New Deal successor for Roosevelt. It was Farley, against Roosevelt's strong desire, who stopped the nomination for governor of New York of Robert H. Jackson. It so happens that this step now turns out not to have been very important, as far as Democratic presidential candidacies are concerned. For it is the consensus of political judgment that if Jackson had been nominated Thomas E. Dewey would now be governor of New York. It would have been only by getting elected governor of New York, and making a fair record at Albany, that Jackson could have obtained the support toward the White House desired for him by so many New Dealers, including the President himself.

The blocking of Jackson's nomination—assuming that Dewey would have beaten nearly any one except Herbert H. Lehman—is that Farley was willing to oppose the President's plan for building up a 100 per cent New Dealer for the presidency, and that he could find sufficient strength, even against the desires of the President, to make that objection stand. It would seem reasonable to suppose, therefore, that Farley, with much the same backing he had last summer, will be able to prevent the selection of delegates from New York who could be swung solidly to any other out-and-out New Dealer. For instance, Harry L. Hopkins.

Perfect Alibi to Hand to Pacifists Back Home. When they are reproached by the pacifists back home—and most often have peace at any price elements in their districts and states—they can point out that not to vote for big army and navy appropriations is to endanger religious freedom in this country. Most of them intended to do just that anyhow, but now they can do it with considerably less worry. In fact they think the President's address may still in advance a lot of the opposition they might otherwise have had from the good folks who believe in the virtue of non-resistance. And how it does help them with future speeches. The President has already harrowed the ground for them. He had provided a theme for letters to constituents which will—or so the boys now think—remove a lot of rocks from the path to their own renomination and re-election.

ver until the amount of silver held is one-fourth of the value of all the gold and silver held by the government—or until the price of silver shall reach one dollar and twenty-nine cents an ounce.

The law was passed back in 1933. Very shortly the treasury started buying silver, on the world market. When it began the world price of silver was forty-five cents an ounce by prodigious buying, and with many speculators all over the world convinced that the U. S. treasury would be able to do just that to the world price, the asking price gradually advanced. It went above eighty cents.

Only Persons to Profit Have Been Foreigners. Then the treasury abruptly stopped the tremendous speculation. The only persons to profit, to any extent, had been foreigners. In the first place all silver then above ground in the United States had been nationalized and was bought by the government at fifty cents an ounce. In the second if an American bought silver in some foreign market—and some did—some of his profit. This was a special tax on the transaction, and of course was in addition to any income tax. Incidentally an investigation was started to discover who was speculating in silver. Names of wives of senators and all sorts of bigwigs were discovered. The investigation was dropped.

Without treasury bidding up, the price of silver promptly dropped back to where it had been before the buying campaign started. In fact it went below that, and is now hovering around forty-three cents. So that the treasury not only has a tremendous loss on all the silver it bought abroad during the buying spree, but has a loss of seven cents an ounce on all the silver it took over from American citizens.

This huge loss, augmented by the subsidy price paid for silver mined inside the United States, which has just been continued until next June when the law expires, does not show on the treasury books. The treasury does not admit the loss.

"Peace at Any Price" Lobby Is Jolted by President. President Roosevelt jolted the old "peace at any price" lobby considerably with the first part of his message. It so happens that the extreme pacifist movement in this country has always been rather closely associated with religion—or rather with church organizations.

One line in the Bible which this group never liked to hear quoted—though it has been thrown at them many times by irate members of the senate and house naval and military committees, not to mention sundry generals and admirals—is Christ's statement that "He came not to bring peace, but a sword." Roosevelt, some researchers assert is the first important public official in 1900 years who made a public statement supporting that particular statement of the Savior.

But the President makes a strong and rather convincing case for the argument that religious freedom, in fact religion itself, is dependent upon democracy, and goes right on from there to prove that democracy is dependent upon defensive armament. It is a queer and, to the peace at any price crowd, a very annoying argument. They prefer texts like "turning the other cheek" and "the meek shall inherit the earth" and others glorifying the virtues, and efficiency, of non-resistance. They prefer the attitude of the early Christian martyrs, who died in physical agony but spiritual exaltation to the thought of a bright and shining sword to defend their religious freedom.

On Capital Hill, however, there is no doubt about the outcome. Lots of senators and representatives who are politically, or personally, or economically against the President are taking off their hats to him on the deeply religious note of his message. Not so much because the President brought forth response from their religious souls as because he provided them with what they regard as a perfect alibi for the next campaign.

Perfect Alibi to Hand to Pacifists Back Home. When they are reproached by the pacifists back home—and most often have peace at any price elements in their districts and states—they can point out that not to vote for big army and navy appropriations is to endanger religious freedom in this country. Most of them intended to do just that anyhow, but now they can do it with considerably less worry. In fact they think the President's address may still in advance a lot of the opposition they might otherwise have had from the good folks who believe in the virtue of non-resistance. And how it does help them with future speeches. The President has already harrowed the ground for them. He had provided a theme for letters to constituents which will—or so the boys now think—remove a lot of rocks from the path to their own renomination and re-election.

'Swing' on Its Way Out, Prophecies Tiny Little, Leader of Popular Traveling Dance Orchestra

By Lillian Karty.
"The style of dancing," says Tiny Little, "changes from year to year." And, Tiny Little, who has led the same dance orchestra for thirteen years, should know something about the styles of dancing. Tuesday evening his orchestra played in Ord, attracting an enormous crowd as it always does.

"Tiny", whose name tells you nothing of his description, is the leader of one of the most popular dance orchestras in the Ord territory. The orchestra books from Worthington, Minn., and most of the members live in that town. People, who gaze on his huge bulk and height wrinkle their foreheads in amazement and try to figure out just why in thunder anyone ever named this person "Tiny." But Tiny just smiles at this and says, "My name has that name ever since I was a kid. I s'pose they called me that on account of I was so big."

When I asked just what he thought of the different styles of music, Tiny replied, "Sweet music will always last. Hot bands come and go." "Swing," he said, "is not new. It may be called syncopation, jazz or swing but the rhythm is basically the same.

"What," I asked, "do you think of jitterbugs?" Before Tiny had a chance to answer, Johnny Norskog, the drummer, broke in with, "I think they're crazy. Jitterbugs are ruining public dances. They don't make any room for anyone else to dance." Deciding to investigate this matter further, I asked the rest of the orchestra members what they thought of jitterbugs. Paul Brizenden, the organist, said, "It looks like a gym class to me." Other opinions were, "It's the younger generation's idea of having a good time." "It's on the way out. They have gone the limit and can't go any farther. The waltz will soon come back."

Six of the ten orchestra members have played in the orchestra with Tiny for thirteen years. They travel through fourteen states a year and give a dance every night. As to the effect on health, Tiny says, "Every man who ever joined my band got fat." There is a good future in music, he says, "if you can deliver the goods."

MEDICAL FACTS

Sponsored by 4-COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

Recently in this column we gave some statistics on the prevalence of cancer in Nebraska. We related that in 1932, fourteen hundred twenty-four persons in our state died of this disease. This means a death every six hours and ten minutes from this scourge. It was also pointed out that there are three living cases for each death, or a constant cancer population of approximately forty-two hundred people in our state that year. It may be interesting to consider briefly the kind and location of these various cancers. This might make us all a little more conscious of the possibilities when we have certain symptoms related to certain organs or systems of organs, because, as we have repeatedly stated, the curability of our cancers depends to a large extent on finding out about them early and getting them treated properly right away.

In the first place, over half of these fourteen hundred forty-two cancers were in females. This is usually the case. The respective numbers in that year were, males, six hundred eighty-two and females, seven hundred forty-two. This tendency on the part of the female to more frequent development of cancer is because certain organs peculiar to this sex are among the common seats of this disease. We will speak of this more explicitly another time.

Of the total fourteen hundred twenty-four cases, forty-seven originated in the mouth or pharynx. This includes chiefly the tongue, gums and tonsils. It constitutes only 3.3 per cent of the total. On the other hand, eight hundred fourteen or 57.3 per cent began in the rest of the digestive tract; that is, the esophagus, stomach and intestines. These two together, which really make up the whole digestive tract, add up to 60.6 per cent of all the cancers. Later, we will tell you more about what parts the digestive tract are most often involved, and what symptoms to expect, because some parts are very much more often the seat of cancer than others.

Of the remaining five hundred sixty-three cases, almost exactly half (two hundred eighty-four) started in the organs peculiar to the female. The figures on these are as follows: Uterus (womb), one hundred thirty cases, or 9.1 per cent of the total, other female generative organs, twenty-nine, or 2.1 per cent; and the breast, one hundred twenty-five, or 8 per cent. Men, on the other hand only had one hundred two cases of cancer involving the male generative and urinary organs. This is only 7.2 per cent of all the cases.

The remaining seventy-seven cases were divided between the respiratory tract or organs of breathing which has forty, or 2.8 per cent; the skin, eighteen cases, or 1.2 per cent and "other or unspecified organs", one hundred nineteen cases or 3.3 per cent.

From this we see that the digestive tract and the female generative organs including the breast are by far the most important seats of cancer and merit most attention during the years of life beyond the "Great Divide" of thirty-five.

Young Garfield Co. Farmer Uses Pistol To Take Own Life

Love for Woman Thought to Be Cause of Bill Pishna's Suicide Thursday Eve.

Using a .22 calibre revolver to fire a bullet through his heart, Bill Pishna, 27-year-old Garfield county farmer, committed suicide on the Milford Naprstek farm across the river east of Ord about midnight Thursday.

The Naprsteks have no telephone and first news of the fatality was brought to town by Mr. Naprstek and Lee Cronk, who drove into Ord and notified Sheriff George S. I. Found a few moments after Pishna's self-inflicted death.

The sheriff, accompanied by Dr. J. G. Kruml, county physician, drove at once to the Naprstek place, which formerly was occupied by James Lee and was the scene of the "Hiner" boy's slaying a few months ago.

In the yard they found Mr. Pishna's body, shot through the heart with one bullet from a 7-shot .22-calibre revolver. The position of the body and the weapon were such that there could be no doubt that he had killed himself. He was lying a short distance from his car, which he had driven into the yard a short time before. Apparently the shot caused instant death as he died without a struggle.

According to the story told by Mr. Naprstek, and corroborated by Cronk, Pishna had driven down from Garfield county that evening accompanied by Mrs. Bernice Moore and daughter, of Texas. Mrs. Moore is a sister of Mrs. Naprstek and daughter of the late Wesley Bartos. All of them visited for a time that evening, Pishna planning to remain there over night and in the morning take Mrs. Moore and daughter to Ord to leave on the bus for their home in Texas.

At a late hour Naprstek and Cronk went upstairs to bed, leaving Pishna conversing with Madams Naprstek and Moore. After a while they heard him go out to his car, and in a few minutes come back in, say a few words to the women and go out of the house again. Almost immediately, said Naprstek, he and Cronk heard a shot and, rushing out of the house, they found Pishna's body lying in the yard where it was later viewed by the Valley county officials.

On a box in the house was found a letter written by Pishna, evidently before he left his Garfield county home that evening since he had written no message while at the Naprstek farm. In this letter, says Sheriff Round, young Pishna stated that unrequited love for Mrs. Moore was responsible for the act he was about to perform. County Attorney Alvin B. Lee took charge of the letter and denied a Quiz reporter access to it, stating that the letter was an official paper and could not be made public.

It seems definitely established that the high regard Pishna had for Mrs. Moore was a factor in his decision to commit suicide. The latter was reared in the neighborhood where Pishna lived and the two played together as children. Mrs. Moore has been separated from her husband for some time, it is claimed.

Financial reverses suffered recently by Mr. Pishna also are thought by officers to have been a reason for his rash act. Possibly he was mentally deranged when he committed suicide, as he had been talking somewhat strangely, though the letter written by him showed that he had planned the act in advance.

Food Center to Open New Store Saturday

Formal opening of the new Ord store of Food Centers, Inc., is announced for Saturday, Jan. 14. Goodhand, interior finishing was done by E. Hower and John Rohde and the Fryzeks had charge of the painting. Electric work was done by Harold Hallen. Manager of the store will be Joe Puncocchar while the old Food Center store will be managed by Jerry Puncocchar.

Man's Finger Amputated.

Burwell—(Special)—Monday Dr. Roy S. Cram amputated one finger from Harold Petersen's right hand, the amputation becoming necessary because of the hand being mangled in a hammer mill on Nov. 1. It has been a painful injury for Mr. Petersen.

First Motion Denied, Lee Files a New One

Acting upon a motion to dismiss the case wherein John P. Misko is contesting the election of Alvin Lee as county attorney, County Judge John L. Andersen overruled the motion Saturday. Lee at once filed a new motion, asking that each of the ten causes for action mentioned in the Misko complaint, or parts thereof, be stricken from the complaint.

The reasons given in each case were, "that same is frivolous, irrelevant, redundant, surplussage, and a conclusion of law." No definite time has been set for the hearing, but Misko will be given time to check up on the motion to strike originated by Lee. In all probability the county judge will hand down a ruling on the motion some time this week.

Rev. C. Shumski To Be Installed At Elyria January 15

Has Been Serving the Parish as Administrator; Bishop Bona Appoints Him Pastor.

Installation of Rev. C. Shumski as pastor of St. Mary's church of Elyria will take place at 7:30 Sunday evening, Jan. 15, during the devotions, it is announced this week. As one of his first official acts in 1939, the Most Rev. S. V. Bona, D. D., bishop of the Grand Island diocese, announced appointment of Rev. Shumski as pastor of this church. He has been serving as administrator more than a year.

REV. C. SHUMSKI.

Since 1929 the Elyria parish hasn't had a regular pastor, being under the charge of administrators. First Rev. Thomas Murray of Burwell served in this capacity, then came Rev. Leonard Ziolkowski and then Rev. Constantine Shumski, who now is confirmed in the pastorate.

The Rev. Shumski was ordained June 9, 1935 in the Roman Catholic priesthood by the late Bishop M. J. Gallagher, D. D., of Detroit, and celebrated his first solemn mass in Sacred Heart of Jesus church at Dupont, Pa., this being the church in which he received his first religious training.

The young priest's early education was gained at the Sacred Heart parochial school, Pittston high school, St. Mary's college and S. S. Cyril and Methodius Seminary at Orchard Lake, Mich. He came to the Grand Island diocese on July 18, 1935 and his first appointment was as an assistant to Rev. Al Szewkowski at Loup City. After a month he was named administrator at Ashton during the illness of Rev. Szewkowski and upon the latter's resignation was made administrator at Loup City until Rev. Ziolkowski, who was then administrator at Elyria, was named pastor at Loup City. Rev. Shumski followed him at Elyria as administrator and has served in that capacity since.

Elyria people are gratified at Bishop Bona's action in appointing Rev. Shumski pastor of St. Mary's parish, as Rev. Shumski is very popular there.

Central Nebraska Postal Employees Enjoy Ord Meeting

Banquet, Floor Show, Business Meeting Held Tuesday Eve at the K. of P. Hall.

Postmasters and postal employees from ten central Nebraska counties, more than 100 in number, came to Ord Tuesday evening for a regular meeting and it was one of the most successful held since the association was organized. The Knights of Pythias hall was the scene of the meeting.

Presiding at the business session were Mrs. Irene Barrett, of Greeley, district president, and Harold Hoepfner, of North Loup, district secretary. Postal employees from the towns of Valley, Greeley, Howard, Sherman, Hall, Merrick, Boone, Nance, Wheeler and Garfield counties were present.

A fried chicken dinner served by the Onyx club was followed by a floor show of an hour's duration given by Grand Island people, the entertainers including the Lechner Brothers Trio, xylophone players, and a troupe of dancers trained by Miss Lucille Engstrom. Ballet, serpentine, toe and tap dances were given by this troupe of young women. Dale Norman served as master of ceremonies.

After the business meeting dancing and card playing were enjoyed. Postmaster A. L. Hill and employees of the Ord postoffice had charge of the program and did a remarkably fine job of it, winning the thanks of the association for their efforts.

Option Secured For Ft. Hartsuff Property

The most recent development in the plan for the purchase of Ft. Hartsuff broke the past week when Clarence M. Davis acting for the committee of the Old Settlers association secured an option on the property owned by Ben and Tom Augustyn, consisting of 610 acres and including all the area included in the original fort.

This option is already in force, and will continue until March 1, 1940, and is effective only if the premises are to be made into a public park or monument. It was necessary to secure this option as a working base upon which to approach governmental agencies for assistance in securing the site as a public park.

Petitions are in the process of preparation and will be presented to the Nebraska state legislature now in session, as well as to Congress. It is not known for what specific purpose the property will be used if purchased, but it is an ideal location for a game refuge, not only for wild fowl, but for game of all kinds.

Ord Townsend Club Makes Nominations

At a meeting held at the American Legion hall Friday evening, the Ord Townsend club nominated officers for the year 1939. By agreement two were nominated, the one receiving the highest vote at the election to be president, and the other vice president. Those nominated were Herman Rice and Mrs. J. A. Brown.

For secretary the candidates were Bert LeMasters and W. E. Kessler, while J. A. Brown and Mrs. Sarah Adams were nominated for treasurer. The next meeting will be held Friday evening, Jan. 20, at the I. O. O. F. hall, at which time the officers will be elected. About fifty new members have been secured in a contest between the men and the ladies. The men won, so the ladies are furnishing the supper for the coming meeting.

Ord's Conference Cage Record Clean

Defeated in every non-conference game so far this season, the Chanticleers kept their Loup Valley conference record clean Tuesday night with a 19 to 15 victory over Arcadia. Coach Brockman's second team defeated the Arcadia reserves 19 to 15 also.

Last Friday night at Kearney the Chanticleers went down to defeat 22 to 11. In previous non-conference clashes they bowed to North Platte and Curtis Aggies. Only previous victory entered on the Chanticleer score sheet was over Comstock, which team forfeited 2 to 0 to Ord after leading most of the way through the game.

Next Tuesday, Jan. 17, Sargent plays on the Ord floor.

Opening Office in Lincoln.

E. H. Dummire, who served as engineer-manager of the North Loup project during the construction period, packed his belongings last week and Thursday shipped them to Lincoln, where he is opening an office as a private consulting engineer. Mr. Dummire met with the irrigation board last week to discuss possibility of a rural electrification project in this valley.

Records Show Rainfall In 1938 Very Uneven

Exchanges reported the rainfall for 1938 in Sherman and Howard counties, and the amount they varied materially from that in Valley county. Sherman county received only 16.52 inches for the year, which was 2.95 inches less than in Valley county, and Howard county reported 21.97 inches, or 2.50 inches more than Valley county. The three counties adjoin, but the divergence in rainfall is remarkable, the difference between Sherman and Howard counties being 5.45 inches.

35 Horses at Auction.

Thirty-five head of good work horses and other livestock and farm equipment will be sold at auction next Monday, Jan. 16, on the Guy Jensen farm south of North Loup by R. C. Burrows and others, and the list of the offering appears in today's Quiz.

Milliken Just Made It.

James Milliken spent the holidays in Ord with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Milliken. His fur-rough expired at 6:00 p. m., the day he was returning. He arrived in Washington by plane shortly after 4:00 p. m., with 31 miles yet to go, and was back at the barracks with seconds to spare. Being late is inexcusable in the navy.

Valley County Supervisors Reelect S. V. Hansen as Board Chairman

First order of business for the Valley county board of supervisors at their annual meeting, which started Tuesday, was election of a chairman. Names of S. V. Hansen, 1938 chairman, and Henry Zikmund were placed in nomination and on the first ballot Hansen was reelected by a vote of 4 to 3. Chairman Hansen reappointed the same committees that served in 1938 and these committees have been busy with routine duties since noon Tuesday.

In the picture above is shown the board as it went into session Tuesday morning. In the foreground is County Clerk Klima, who serves as board secretary, and on the left are John Bremer, J. V. Suchanek and Joe Jablonski. At the right of the table are Henry Zikmund, Ellsworth Ball and J. A. Barber. Chairman Hansen occupies the presiding officer's chair at the end.—Quiz Photo.

City Officials Of Ord, Burwell Meet

A joint session of the Ord city council and the village board of Burwell, with City Attorney Clarence M. Davis and Village Attorney Glen Runyan, as well as Light Commissioners George Allen and E. Hansen present, was held in the Ord city hall Friday evening. The power question was the occasion of the meeting, and it was discussed at great length.

Should the city of Ord decide to institute proceedings to cancel their contract with the North Loup district, it is likely that Burwell will take similar action. No decision has been reached as yet, the Quiz understands.

A conference between the mayors, city attorneys and plant superintendents of Ord and Burwell is slated for Thursday, at which the electric question will again be under discussion.

Has Leg Amputated At Veterans' Hospital

At the Veterans' hospital in Lincoln last week, Guy Abrahams underwent an operation for the amputation of one of his legs. As soon as his condition is such that he can stand the operation, his other leg will have to be amputated also.

Mr. Abrahams, a former Ord man, was seriously injured in an airplane crash northeast of Ord on Sept. 2, 1937. His back was broken and for a time he hovered between life and death at the Ord hospital. Taken to Lincoln in an ambulance, he has been in the Veterans' hospital much of the time since.

His sister, Mrs. Fred Martinsen and husband and their son Martin went to Lincoln to be with him during the operation, returning to Ord Monday evening. Mr. Abrahams' condition was quite satisfactory when she left, Mrs. Martinsen says.

Ole Severson, 81, Died Monday Eve

In the passing of Ole Severson Monday evening, Ord loses another of its oldest and most highly respected citizens. Mr. Severson and his wife who passed on Nov. 25 enjoyed the distinction of being Ord's oldest married couple. On April 27 last they quietly celebrated the 60th anniversary of their marriage, nearly all of which time was spent in Ord.

Ole Severson, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Severson, was born at Bergen, Norway, July 14, 1857, and came with his parents to Madison, Wis., at the age of 5 years. At the age of 19 he came to Valley county with an older sister, who died many years ago. April 27, 1878, he was married to Miss Minnie Kaiser, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kaiser, the ceremony being performed by O. S. Haskell, justice of the peace.

To them were born eight children, the eldest dying in infancy. Left to mourn are three sons and four daughters: Herbert Severson of Scottsbluff; Roy, Louis, Ada Mason and Addie Raiston, all of Ord; Mrs. Ollie Farrell of Gering; and Mrs. Hazel Smith of Janesville, Wis. There are also nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren and a host of friends.

As a house painter and decorator, Mr. Severson contributed much during his lifetime to the civic beauty of Ord and with his violin, of which he was a master, he added to the gaiety of many an early day gathering. In one capacity or another his services were always in demand and he was thus enabled to earn a living for his family and provide them with a home. He served during the Spanish-American war as a member of Co. B under Capt. H. Gudmundsen.

Funeral services are to be held from the Pearson and Anderson chapel Thursday afternoon at 2:00, with Rev. G. C. Roberson in charge, and burial is to be made in the Ord cemetery. Pall bearers are to be Joe and John Rowbal, Jess Sershen, Clayton Gilroy, J. P. Hoffmann and Henry Misko. Music will be furnished by a quartet.

John Prince Was Hurt In Automobile Accident

Joe Prince is in receipt of the sad news of the serious injury of his brother, John Prince, in a car accident in Los Angeles the last day of 1938. His car had stalled, and he had a mechanic working on it. A number of cars had passed when one of them hit him, throwing him to the pavement with great force, breaking one leg in two places, breaking several ribs and causing serious head injuries. He is still in a serious condition in a Los Angeles hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Prince spent a month here visiting relatives last summer, and are quite well known here.

A total of 47 were enrolled, of which 14 will remain at Ravenna, while the remainder will be sent to Custer, S. D. The Ord boys expected to go to Custer.

Joe Barta Resigns, Laverty Is Named Secretary of Board

New Director Will Be Chosen by Board Soon; Hudson Is Reelected President.

Jos. P. Barta, of Lincoln, who has been secretary and a director of the North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation District ever since it was organized, handed in his resignation last week and it was accepted by the board Monday evening. Mr. Barta was a resident of Ord until about a year ago.

Successor to Barta as secretary will be Guy Laverty, of Burwell, attorney for the district, who was appointed by the board Monday. Mr. Laverty also will continue to serve the district as attorney.

A new director to succeed Joe Barta will be appointed by the board soon, possibly at their next meeting January 18. Roy Hudson has been reelected president of the district, Charles Newbecker of Taylor vice-president and Dr. F. A. Barta has been chosen treasurer to succeed Harry Doran.

County Judge Rules Waterman is Elected

At a hearing held before John L. Andersen, county judge, Saturday, in the case wherein Archie Waterman was contesting the selection by lot of Ed Shoemaker for the position of road overseer of Dist. No. 22, the judge ruled that Shoemaker had received 15 votes to Waterman's 13, and was therefore duly elected. Shoemaker may file an appeal from the ruling if he cares to do so.

According to the count of the votes as originally given, each man received 13 votes. Saturday, Nov. 26, a drawing was held for the place, and Shoemaker won. Wednesday, Nov. 30, Waterman filed a contest by his attorneys, Davis and Vogeltanz, asking that the election of Shoemaker be set aside and that Waterman be declared elected.

Heirs Agree, Readle Will Is Admitted to Probate

By virtue of an agreement by all the heirs of the Readle estate, the will of Mrs. Anna K. Readle was admitted to probate in Judge John L. Andersen's court Friday. Attorney O. B. Clark of Lincoln was present and represented all the heirs at the hearing.

Munn and Norman were appointed to represent the estate at the instance of J. T. Knezacek, named executor in the will. Knezacek turned in his renunciation as executor, and Munn and Norman withdrew as attorneys. L. D. Milliken was then appointed administrator with the will annexed, all in accordance with the agreement reached by the heirs.

Most Valley County Officials Hold Over

Many Quiz exchanges are reporting a number of changes in the personnel of the courthouse with the coming of the new year, but this cannot be said of Valley county. With the single exception of the county surveyor, there will be no change in any of the offices.

When Harold Strombom left a year ago, the county board appointed Walter Thorgate county surveyor until the next regular election. Mr. Thorgate did not file for the office, and Emanuel Petska's name was written in by enough voters to award him the office.

The officials for 1939 are: Ign. Klima, county clerk; Lloyd Rusk, deputy; George Satterfield, county treasurer; Clyde Baker, deputy; George Round, county sheriff; F. J. Cohen, deputy; A. R. Brox, county assessor; Miss Clara McClatchey, county superintendent; John L. Andersen, county judge; A. A. Wiegardt, clerk of court.

Members of the county board are Dist. 1, Joe Jablonski; Dist. 2, J. V. Suchanek; Dist. 3, Henry Zikmund; Dist. 4, Ellsworth Ball; Dist. 5, J. A. Barber; Dist. 6, John Bremer; and Dist. 7, S. V. Hansen, chairman for the past year. The county agent and county physician are appointive offices.

Lou Bodyfield Chosen County Commissioner

An unusual condition prevailed in Garfield county last week when three newly elected officers, John Beynon, county treasurer; W. S. Green, county clerk; and W. F. Manasil, county attorney, met to select a successor for the late Vic Johns as county commissioner. Usually at least one officer holds over, but in this case all were new.

There were several applicants for the position, and the group chose Lou Bodyfield, prominent farmer living in the territory west of Ericson. Mr. Bodyfield is a well known farmer and stockman, a long time resident of the district, and deservedly popular with his neighbors. The board is to be congratulated on securing a worthy successor to Vic Johns.

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS.

The futility of New Year's resolutions, in so far as many people is concerned is shown in the fact that they have to get and raise the deuce all New Year's eve and wake up with a hangover the next morning in order to be in the frame of mind to make resolutions.

It may be estimated that at least fifty million people in the United States adopted some resolutions this New Year. It may be further estimated that 50% of that number fell off the wagon the first day, 50% of the remainder the second day, 50% of the remainder the third day, and so on.

Of those who do make good, we may as well discount all who indulge largely at New Year's parties. It is doubtful if any of them ever make good. Instead of adopting a never-say-die attitude, they go into the proposition with the question in their minds, "How long can I hold out?"

NEW CUSTOMS AND OLD.

There is nothing new under the sun. Some of the habits and customs of the human race today have survived, with variations from similar habits and customs of the earliest races.

When a lady uses clay to beautify her skin, or arranges her hair in the particular style of the moment, she is doing nothing more than savage belles did since time immemorial. They, too, have a beauty mud, but they use it to dress their hair instead of spreading it all over their faces, and they leave it on instead of taking it off in the morning.

Perhaps about that same time the discovery was made that properly groomed hair could be held in place by using thorns from the trees or sharp pieces of bone, and thus the first hair pins came into use. We know this for in some places in the world these same devices are in use for hair ornamentation today.

Other ideas, supposedly modern, are of very ancient vintage. The rolled stocking top bears a remarkable resemblance to the rings of brass or iron often worn by savage tribes. The Indians painted their faces to inspire awe and respect in those they met.

revert to the days when at savage tribes held their ceremonial dances. Instead of advancing, the designers of modern dance, as well as modern rhythm, simply stole a page from ancient history.

The women are not alone in this reversion to the primordial. That supposedly modern dictator, Mussolini, probably thought he was designing something unique when he devised the fascist salute. It is nothing more than the greeting ancient man used.

And so it goes. Practically no habit of the human race with which we are familiar but has its counterpart in the early life of mankind. We pride ourselves upon our advances we have made, but our thin veneer of civilization is founded upon thousands of years of savagery.

SECRET OF SUCCESS.

A man who for two decades stood far above his fellow farmers in Valley county had an unusual recipe for his success. He very seldom told it, but when he found a man whom he thought might profit by his advice he gave the basis upon which his success was founded. It went something like this:

The majority of men under similar conditions see and act alike. Thus, if one man decides that winter wheat should be a good crop to raise the coming year, others will do the same. The result is that there will be a surplus of that crop, and the price will go down.

Likewise, if a few men of influence announce that they are going into the hog raising business, the chances are that there will be an oversupply of hogs, and the price will hardly pay for the trouble of feeding them.

This man, instead of doing the popular thing, made it his business to find out what the majority of his neighbors intended to do, and then did the opposite. On one occasion when they were going in for corn in a big way, he planted a large acreage of wheat, and sold it all well above the dollar mark, making far more than his neighbors did.

Again, when a number of farmers decided to plow under their alfalfa, he left his 60 acre field, harvested four tons per acre, all of which he sold in the field at $16.00 per ton. He raised 40 acres of potatoes in what happened to be an off year for potato acreage, and he realized a splendid return on his investment.

It takes little effort to drift with the tide, but so long as you drift, you are going down hill. Now with another seed time approaching, it might be well to take stock. The great things in this world have always been done by men who went counter to public opinion.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

Cleg Hughes told me that he resolved the first of the year, to be the boss in his own home during 1939. I noticed he is spending quite a lot of time down on the farm, and you noticed the big neck he wore over one eye for a couple of weeks. I suppose it is fair that we draw our own conclusions about how he is getting along being boss.

There is damned little honesty or sincerity in politics. In his Jackson day dinner speech Saturday night, Governor Cochran said that he felt sincerely that it was wrong for a candidate to buy votes with his money, and doubly wrong to buy votes with the people's money, yet everyone knows that during the late campaign the governor had practically every state employee out working day and night for his re-election to a third term, and neglecting the work for which they were being paid state money.

M. McBeth was in my office Saturday and said when he read something that I wrote about soy beans he recalled talking with a prosperous farmer from Illinois. This farmer started raising soy beans some years ago and found them a profitable crop. He was so pleased with the results and talked the crop so much that he came to be called Soy Bean Kendall (if Kendall was his name), and when the government sent bags of the seed to the farmers in that section they were not interested and all gave him the seed. Now he says that they are all raising soy beans.

Verne Weller returned to Ord Thursday after spending the Christmas and New Year's holidays in California where his mother resides. He left Ord for the coast on the Sunday before Christmas and had a most pleasant trip.

WOOD FOR TODAY - BUT WHAT OF TOMORROW

This time of the year "making wood" is one of the major jobs on the farm. Nearly every wood lot is the scene of active cutting and behind the farm homes the mounting piles of Ash, Elm, and Cottonwood show that the wood harvest is on.

While a great deal of wood is being cut, what, if anything, is being done to replace it? Wood lots do not last forever. When they are cut over they rarely come back. Replanting done this next spring will insure a supply of wood as well as crop and farmhome protection for the coming generation.

Applications are being taken now for Shelterbelt plantings under the Prairie States Forestry Project. Applications with all the information printed on them can be secured at the County Agent's office or at the First National Bank in Ord. Brennan Davis, subdistrict officer for the U. S. Forest Service, residence at 509 So. 18th St., Ord will be glad to furnish further information or assist in the location of shelterbelts on your farm.

Down in Omaha they are getting after the people who have large sums of cash in banks and who do not report it for taxation under the intangible schedule. If this gets to be the style all over a lot of cash now laying idle will be put to work, for people won't pay taxes on money that they get very little interest or perhaps none, very long. They will put that money to work in some way.

Something Different

I think it is grand that there is a time of year we may depend on hearing from our friends, i. e., as we do at Christmas. Though we have lost touch and no longer write, nearly always at the Yuletide we get a greeting from them, no matter how far away they may be. Yet, I am always sorry to find no scribble on a card, to find it beautifully austere just as it came from the printer's office. I am hoping to find a note of some kind, even two or three words, but a message that is personal.

Christmas has become such an organized racket, so commercialized in so many ways. And yet we could never do without it, for it means so many things.

One of the loveliest phases is the reunion of families for a few hours or days.

Anyway, to get back to Christmas cards, I have decided to send mine out for the Fourth of July, or some other time of the year. So the recipients will know for certain we sent them a card. At Christmas, when they get such stacks, how can they remember mine for sure? But I'll bet a Fourth of July greeting would be noticed. Don't you?

Another thing, I don't think it should be necessary to wait for New Year's day to make good resolutions. If the resolutions are worth making, why not make them at once? Why wait for any specific day?

And now the springtime scourge of radio listeners has begun: the sale of (1) baby chicks and (2) plants and shrubs.

All newspaper people who know him or who read his writings will be sorry to learn Editor Buechler of the Grand Island Independent is going to retire from the chair he has held so long and so ably. In this sophisticated day of slick super salesmen and this age of "getting by," Mr. Buechler was a rock to cling to, for he has always been an honest man with the courage to write his true convictions. He battled nobly for what he deemed right, regardless of "policy" and his friends and readers knew this, and respected him accordingly.

Dan Webster, editor of the St. Paul Phonograph, has been ill, but we hope is better now. Mr. Webster is the father of Mrs. Ed Gnaster of Ord, to identify him to you. To his many friends throughout the Midwest newspaper world, he needs no such identification. I am sure Mr. Webster is receiving get-well-quick thoughts over lanes of mental telephony from all these friends.

And did you hear about the spider who was reading the newspaper? He was looking for a nice quiet home, a place where his web would be undisturbed, and he thought if he could find out which merchant did not advertise in the paper he would surely know where to spin his web.

And then did you hear about the Ord youngster who got a dandy band instrument for Christmas? "It is swell," said the boy. Then added, "It must be swell, because it cost so much it is my Christmas present for two years and my birthday present for two years!" -Irma.

The Quiz Forum

Now It's 'Hydrophobia' Power. To the Editor of the Quiz: Must say how splendid weather we are having, which we appreciate, and to hell with our hydro or hydrophobia power. You look down the line of street lights and each light gives about as much light as a yellow dog in the dark. Even the barber hair clippers have an uneven motion. Boys, hook up our reliable dependable power plant and give us service. We want it. ALBERT R. LUKESH.

Loan Cancellation Movement. Reported to be Progressing. To the Editor of the Quiz: A good many Valley county people are asking what has become of our feed and seed loan cancellation movement so I will write what little I know about it. The movement has progressed, as Kansas and Colorado people write that they are organizing. They sent here for our plans. Other people in the drought district of Nebraska are circulating petitions to be sent to their respective congressmen.

The Valley county committee met Saturday, members being Jake Beehrle, Anton Guggenmos and Yours Truly. We counted over 2,000 signers on petitions from Valley and neighboring counties and they are still coming in. An organizer was here from Saunders county Saturday. He says we beat them to it but they are still coming in with a lot of names as the 1934 feed loans are not paid there and their government collector is hard boiled.

I heard there was a bill introduced in the U. S. senate along the line we are working. Our petitions went to Congressman Coffee so they will help out in the House of Representatives when the bill hits there. I received a flood of letters from all over the drought district of Nebraska and have summed up their wants—they want the feed and seed loan debts cancelled, the slats wiped clean, and if any farmer needs help to get feed and seed for his next crop let him pay it back bushel for bushel and no more money loans.

In 1935 the farmer borrowed money for feed and seed, paying $1 to $2 per bushel and had to sell his grain at harvest at one-fourth that price. Farmers don't want any more of that.

We expected anywhere from 5,000 to 10,000 names on the cancellation petitions but now it looks like it will beat that figure. I wish to thank the people of Valley county, also H. D. Leggett of the Quiz for his help in putting this over. We have done our part, now it's up to congress. If you want to help some more, write a personal letter to our congressman and senator. Tell them what we in this drought district are up against. It will help a lot. ERNEST S. COATS.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT! Let 'em Fight Pie Recipe More or Less Personal

Years ago it was found that it was not the best policy to allow the railroads to enter into business in any capacity except that of the common carrier. Should a railroad, with all its capital and warehouses, go into the coal business, for example, it would easily put many if not all the local coal dealers over the country out of business. The railroad could get the coal at the mines, ship it in closed cars to different points and have their agents sell it out, and all the money they would need to get would be their hauling charge. They could undersell the local man until, perhaps, our whole economic system would be under control of the railroads.

The railroads were as full of tricks in the old days as individuals are now days. The railroads were forbidden also to make preferential rates to big haulers, enabling them to get more business at competitive points. As a result a man who shipped one car of mixed cattle got the same rate as the big feeder who had ten cars of fat steers. These laws and regulations along with many others, still exist, and should a railroad violate them, they are subject to heavy fines and penalties. These laws were made in the days when there was no competition in the carrier business, when we took the service they offered or went afoot; when the public needed to fight back to save their very necks.

Today the whole situation has changed. The railroads have competition of the fiercest kind—the trucks. The need of a railway commission to protect the people's interest is not now so manifest. It seems to many that this commission has changed its role from that of protecting the people to that of protecting the railroads.

In some of the ways mentioned, this competition is doing the very thing the railroads are prohibited from doing. Gypsy truckers, so called, travel the width and breadth of the land, carrying fruit, coal, grain, salt, oil and what not, buying and selling the produce, in most instances for the sole purpose of getting the haul charge. In a way, it is better for the people, in that they can buy these things at a cheaper price, but it is doing the very thing that was feared would happen if the railroads, years ago, were allowed to do it. It is crowding out a lot of small dealers.

Although the railroad commission has laid out rates for the truckers, a great many of them do not abide. The penalty for not obeying can be applied to both the shipper and the trucker. As a result, should a trucker haul a load for less than regular rates, the shipper would not squeal just to get himself tossed in gaol along with the trucker.

Perhaps we, in this land, have come to the point where we can get along without the railroads. Some of the old timers who fought with the railroads in early days, have little sympathy with them and as soon see them beaten. Many others would like to see them given an equal chance by the R. R. commission to survive along with the truckers. Just recently the R. R. commission has granted the right of the railroads to lower their rates on some classes of hauling. One trucker said, "It won't hurt. The railroads have lost all their business anyway."

A few years more will tell the tale. If the railroads can make rates that will bankrupt the trucker, they may still stand and run their trains; if not, they are surely doomed.

Pie Recipe. Here is the "makings" of a pie Mrs. John Schultz served to my family and me the other evening and we thought it very fine.

1 c. crushed pineapple, 1 c. cold water, 1 c. sugar, one-eighth t. salt, 2 1/2 T. cornstarch, 3 egg whites, 1 c. cream, 1/2 c. chopped nut meats. Combine pineapple, water, salt, and sugar. Place in double boiler and when mixture reached boiling point, add cornstarch which has been dissolved in a little cold water. When cornstarch is thoroughly cooked, set aside to cool. When cold, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites, put in baked pie crust shell, cover with cream which has been beaten stiff, sprinkle over with chopped nuts and cool until ready to serve. Now this is called Angel Food Pie. She surely picked the right food for our family.

More or Less Personal. My daughter was trying to play a big horn with the Scotia band. Lacking wind capacity to toot the thing properly, she went to Supt. Ebmeier to ask to play some other instrument.

"Not enough umph," he said, puffing out his cheeks. "Should get a little more of it from your dad." Lou Schwaner's from Scottsbluffs, visiting Wm. Schudel's last week, asked as they stood on the porch, who lived in the different houses about. When my name was mentioned, he said, "Is that the fellow who writes for the Quiz? Well, I'll be gosh darned." That's all he said and I've been wondering ever since.

There has been a lot of alligator tears shed over my impending electrocution next week by the county board. Mid Garner offered to send me down an old arm pistol that he said would do the trick much easier and quicker. Hugh Clement has taken an active interest and asked if the ministry has been laboring with me yet. The common theory is now that the board plans to electrocute and hang me both, and if that doesn't do the trick, a firing squad will be on hand.

Myra Thorngate Barber said something in the Fortnightly club last week about how people in New York liked to be mentioned in Walter Winchell's column, and around here in this one. They may like it, but some of them have a darned strange way of telling me about it if they do.

—Mr. and Mrs. Perry Bell, of Long Beach, Calif., who had been visiting here, left Thursday evening for Greeley and spent the night with Mrs. Bell's sister, Mrs. Lloyd Lammers and husband. From there they drove to Omaha to spend a short time with friends and from there left for their home in California, planning to stop at Denver enroute to visit Mrs. Bell's sister, Mrs. Dair Shirley and family. While in Ord the Bells were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Anderson and were entertained by a number of Ord relatives and friends, among them being the Joe Rowlands, the Jud Pedros, the J. W. Ambrose's, the Lester Norton's, the E. C. Leggetts and others.

Buildings at Old Fort Hartsuff Still in Fair Condition, Could Be Restored at Nominal Cost

Since a movement is under way by the Loup Valley Old Settlers association to bring about restoration of old Fort Hartsuff, north of Elyria, refuge and Congress and the Nebraska legislature have been memorialized to provide $40,000.00 for that account of the present condition of buildings at the old fort built in Indian days. The photo above shows the irrigation flume and ditch in foreground—Quiz Photo.

The general plan of the fort is in the form of a square, set diagonally facing the west-southwest, with the parade ground in the center and the buildings around the outside. The headquarters building, now the farm house, is on the southeast corner, the post-office and canteen on the southwest corner, and the hospital and the commandant's residence on the east side.

On the south side is the original dining hall, kitchen and laundry and near it the blacksmith shop. The only building on the west side is the guard house. On the north side, starting at the northwest corner, is the barracks, and east of it is the armory and quarter-master building. Further north and well separated from the other buildings is the stable.

Except where otherwise specified, the buildings are of solid concrete with walls a foot or more in thickness, and still in an excellent state of preservation. Materials used in the walls, as well as timbers used for dimension material and in some cases finishing lumber were largely of native origin, gravel coming from the river, lime from the chalk hills near Scotia, and red cedar from the hills east and northeast of Burwell being cut by saw mills in the valley.

The guard house is a building with a peak gable roof, 40 by 27 feet in size with 8 foot walls. It originally was divided into three rooms, one at each end for prisoners and the center one for the guard. The windows in the latter rooms had heavy square bars outside the sash, and iron bars on the inside. One of the windows is still so equipped. An interesting feature is fourteen narrow ventilating slits in the wall, too small for anyone to crawl through. This building is still in good condition.

The barracks building is in the worst condition of all, the north wall having fallen outward, and most of the roof fallen in. This building is 30 feet wide, 80 feet long, with 8 foot walls. It was divided into five sections, each with its own outside doors, one on each side. Each room also had two doors. The three walls standing are in perfect condition, and the material of the north wall still lies where it fell.

The armory is 30 feet wide, 102 feet long, with ten foot walls and is still in good condition. It is the largest and most substantial of all the buildings, the walls being heavier, probably because of their greater height. Indications are that it was designed to be the point of final defense in case the garrison were overpowered by numbers.

The stable is 32 by 63 feet in size, with walls ten feet high at one end and eight feet at the other. The original foundation was built twice as long and can still be located. For some reason the plans were changed after construction had begun. The stable contains a harness room in the southwest corner, 8 by 16 feet in size, with a separate ceiling.

The hospital is built in the form of a T, the main building being 32 by 46 feet in size, with a room to the east of it 21 by 25 feet. A feature of the building is the huge chimney located in the center wall between the two rooms of the main building, and the fireplace in the larger room, still in good condition. Part of the concrete floor of this room is still in place. The hospital walls are ten feet high.

The commandant's house was destroyed by fire a long time ago, but its walls still remain. Unlike the other buildings, it has brick walls. It was a two story affair with a basement, in which trees have grown until some of them are higher than the walls. The main building is 32 feet square and the kitchen at the rear, 20 by 20 feet. The walls of this building are the best of any in the group.

The headquarters building, now used as a residence, is in an excellent state of preservation. It, too, is in the form of a T, the main building being 45 by 32 feet in size, with a porch nine feet wide across the front. The rear part is 32 by 27 feet, with a large chimney for a fireplace. The original shutters are on some of the windows, and all the iron work was done in the fort shop. This building is all two story, with 14 foot walls.

This shop is 12 by 16 feet in size and stands out a short distance in front of the headquarters building. Unlike the others, it stands out in the parade ground. It is still in use as a shop. The building, with the exception of the shingles, is built entirely of red cedar. The bellows once used in the shop is still there, but it is no longer in use.

The mess hall is a low rambling affair, built in the shape of an L. The mess hall is in front and is 82 by 31 feet in size, with 12 foot walls. It originally had a porch across the front, but this long since disappeared. The kitchen and laundry are behind it, extending back 63 feet, and 24 feet in width. It is still in good condition, with most of the original plaster still on the walls.

Last comes the postoffice, a building 32 by 28 feet in size, and in the best state of preservation of any of the buildings. There are two rooms on each side with a hall between. Indications are that one side was used as a postoffice, and the other as a canteen, since the building is too large for post-office alone. This building will still last for many years with very little expense for repairs.

The chief item of expense on all the buildings would be new shingles on the roofs. All the buildings were put together with cut nails, and it is easy to tell what is original and what has been changed by the type of nails used. Trees were planted by the soldiers, and these lend much natural beauty to the place, especially the huge pines in front of the headquarters building.

The irrigation ditch passes just behind the buildings, and the flume across Bean Creek is about a quarter of a mile to the northwest. It would be possible to build an earth dam across this creek just above the flume and form a large lake, making an ideal refuge for wild fowl. The hills are similar to those at Halsey, and could soon be covered with a fine growth of cedar and pine. The level land lies well for irrigation.

This is written for the information of those who are not personally aware of the present condition of Ft. Hartsuff, or of the opportunities it offers in the making of a worthwhile public park or monument. It is suggested that you visit the fort yourself, check up on all the above statements and then, if you are convinced that this project is worth consideration, write your Congressmen, legislators, or others in authority, and thus do your part to make this dream become a reality.

Federal Government So Huge Few Can Grasp Its Magnitude

Multiplicity of Bureaus and Agencies Demanding Reports of All Kinds Places Tremendous Burden on Business; Many Agencies Covering Same Lines.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART

WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON—Many times in these columns I have written expressions of fear about the size of this thing we call the federal government. It is so huge that few persons grasp the magnitude of the machinery. And it can not be explained satisfactorily. Certainly one can not say that it is just "so big," and measure it by extended arms. On the other hand, incidents or actions of a unit of the federal government may furnish an indication of the size of the whole by comparison. Such an incident came in the news recently and, unfortunately, very little attention was paid to it in daily newspapers of the nation.

Here is the basis of comparison, and it tells its own story as to the size of our national governmental machine:

As of July 1, 1938, the director of the census estimated there were 130,215,000 persons living within the continental United States.

During the year 1938, citizens and corporations within the United States were compelled by law or regulation or special orders to file with the federal government agencies a total of 135,000,000 reports, information forms, questionnaires, statistical facts and other required statements.

That total is the official calculation by Chairman Stuart A. Rice of the central statistical board, who had made a survey of all federal agencies upon orders of President Roosevelt. The President wanted to know whether there was a real basis for the thousands of complaints and editorial criticisms that have been placed upon every kind of business, including individuals, by their government. The Rice conclusions, however, have demonstrated in an understanding way just what an octopus our national government has become, and it may be—indeed, it is likely—that Mr. Rice has performed a chore here which will mark the beginning of the end of federal government expansion. His findings ought to have that effect, in any event.

Then Began an Expansion Of the Federal Government

Shortly after the World war ended and the federal government got back to normal in the matter of size and the functions it was performing, there was a time when the population raised loud shouts because their government was spending a billion dollars a year. There were some hard times along in 1919 and 1920 and a year or so more, and there was the call of the suffering for help from their national government. There were too, numerous ideas being formed and allowed to ferment. Each one contemplated something new in the way of government functions. Well each one contemplated some additional federal expense.

In this way, there began an expansion of the federal government that has carried on with an ever-accelerating pace until the New Deal took over, six years ago. Then, we really went to town in expanding the number of arms and legs and eyes and ears of the federal government. Yes, and with that expansion there came additional expense—expense, not in millions, but in billions. Recently, you know, President Roosevelt asked congress to appropriate more than $9,000,000,000 for the government year beginning July 1, 1939. That total is not all. There will be other and additional sums called for as each one of these agencies, or many of them, fails to live within its appropriation and goes back to congress to ask for more money. The relief administration came in a few weeks ago and asked for $75,000,000 more to run it until July 1 when congress believed in May, 1938, that it was voting enough funds to meet the needs of relief until the coming July.

But to get back to Mr. Rice's survey. I am not informed as to details, or whether the figures have been segregated to show how many of these 135,000,000 reports are filed with each of the several agencies. Certain of the great offenders in the matter of demanding reports can be enumerated, however, to show the trend. It is necessary obviously in some cases for an agency of the government to have all details of businesses over which it has supervision; yet, I can not help wondering whether it is necessary to have such supervision in the first instance.

How Many of These Agencies Can We Get Along Without? Hence, the Rice survey calls attention to something much deeper than just the burden that government places on its citizens. It suggests the question: how many of these governmental agencies and their functions can we do without? How many can be abandoned with benefit, both in the matter of sound government and in the elimination of useless expense to the taxpayers and the individuals or corporations required to meet government demands? My guess is that at least a third of our present government structure is of no value; that at least that portion could be eliminated and everyone would be happier, and that if a large chunk of these functions were forgotten, living wouldn't be so complicated and certainly not so costly. It must be remembered that every time cost of government is increased, there is more than the outlay for government expense involved. Every time a government agency gets slimy fingers into business just then does there arise an added cost of living.

It is not hearsay with me when I say that high pressure groups force additional government expenses upon the nation. I have watched their operation year after year. I have sat in the galleries of congress and observed the operation of lobbyists who have checked and rechecked their lists of members; I have seen their propaganda, their threats of dire consequences at the polls and I have seen cowardly senators and representatives capitulate to the pressure. A million or so, or several hundred millions, are voted; a new federal agency is created and starts spending money. The personnel that gets on the payroll at the start begins immediately to look for ways to keep its job and the agency establishes a "liaison" with congress in order that congress can be "informed."

There are 20 or 30 boards and bureaus and commissions in the government today that were created for "temporary" purposes, but which continue to convince members of congress that unless the agency is continued thousands of persons will suffer—maybe die. Too Much Burden Placed On Every Kind of Business Surely, Mr. Rice has corroborated the contention that government is placing too much of a burden on every kind of business by demanding and obtaining all of these reports—daily, weekly, monthly, annually. Of my knowledge, I can point to a hundred small businesses that have had to hire extra accountants and other experts to do nothing but make out reports to the federal government—and answer correspondence from some squint here in Washington who tells them they have not filled in the proper items on line 87, etc. It has happened to me, personally, more than once, and all there is to my office is myself and my secretary.

I imagine that farmers got a taste of this business of reporting to Washington in connection with the agricultural adjustment program. In wandering around the department of agriculture I have seen hundreds of persons checking and rechecking farm contracts, reports of agents and inspectors, county committees, etc. Those farmers who did not encounter demands for statements about this, that or the other still have some things to which they can look forward, because they will get such demands sooner or later.

Like the government machine itself, I can not help puzzling as to what 135,000,000 reports mean. Of course it can be said that it is one report for every man, woman and child in the nation, but it is not a true perspective. There are, of course, many millions of persons who make no reports to the government in Washington. That means others must make many reports.

Why So Many Different Agencies Doing Same Work? From the standpoint of effective administration assuming that many of the government activities are proper—why is it necessary for the government to have 11 different agencies interested in housing? Why should the departments of commerce, labor, and agriculture, as another example, be asking the same business man to make reports to each one on the same subject? Why should there be a federal deposit insurance company, a board of governors of the federal reserve system and a comptroller of the currency all concerned with one industry—banking? Why should each of these agencies have examiners or investigators, doing very much the same thing, making investigations and examinations and reports to their respective agencies? And I forgot this one: the securities and exchange commission also horns into bank management every now and then!

Aside from these types, there is the every-present taxing authority. Now, there must be taxes and they must be collected and it must be admitted that not all taxpayers are honest. But hundreds of tax investigators are going around and around and undoubtedly they get their feet tangled up with other investigators and examiners. One wonders where the end is.

The Ord fire department was called twice in one day, with the thermometer hovering around the zero mark. The first call was to the Hager Agency, where steam was mistaken for smoke and an alarm sent in. The other was to the Jerry Petska home, where the shingles were scorched by sparks from the chimney. A fire at the collision farm caused by sparks from the chimney did $150 damage in burning up feed.

Williams place southeast of Ord, bought the Sechman quarter, 2 1/2 miles north of North Loup at what was considered a bargain price, $75 per acre.

Frank Dworak, jr., returned to New York to join his ship after spending nearly a month visiting with the home folks. After having trouble with his head and nose for some time, and after his parents and the doctor had almost decided an operation was necessary, Dan Bartlett solved the trouble by blowing a large button out of his nose. It had apparently been there for a long time.

The joint Councils of Ord and Burwell then conferred concerning the matter discussed at last Council meeting, said matter being the feasibility of severing connections with the power line that at present furnishes the two towns with electrical energy. The matter was discussed for some hours, both pro and con, several informal ballots being taken on several different propositions. These secret and informal ballots showed the Councils to be divided on the matter. After much deliberation it was moved by McGinnis and seconded by Johnson that the following resolution be adopted:

Complete Text of Electric Proposals Submitted Tuesday by Ord and Burwell to No. Loup District

January 24, 1939

TO
 North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation District, Ord, Nebraska.

Dear Sirs:
 We submit herewith three tentative propositions in regard to the possible sale or purchase of electricity to or from your district. Nothing herein shall be considered as an admission or a waiver or estoppel of any claim, right or demand of the City of Ord or Village of Burwell but is offered solely in the nature of a compromise of any conflicting claims or demands and in a spirit of good will.

We feel that your district should most seriously consider the acceptance of the first tentative buy and sell proposition for many reasons such as the following:

1. The district was started by people of Ord, Burwell and other nearby communities and farmers adjacent thereto and the citizens and light customers of said municipalities constitute most of the citizens and voters of said district.

2. A large portion of the money donated or loaned to help secure approval of the district's loan and grant came from the citizens of Ord and Burwell.

3. The said Village and City donated a large amount of money to said district for the same purpose, which came from money made by their light and water plants.

4. The City and Village and its officers owe a duty to the City and its citizens and customers and also to the district, of which they are a part, and the same thing applies to the district and those in authority in said district since most of the citizens of the district are largely also citizens of either said City or Village and also because of the active financial and other assistance given freely by said City and Village and their citizens.

5. To date said City and Village are the only municipalities in this valley who have helped, or tried to help, financially by purchasing electricity from said district at much more than it was costing said Village and City to manufacture the same.

6. The electric plants of said towns, both located in said district, were both organized and grew in said towns, have furnished very low rates to its citizens and customers and were out of debt and had surpluses when they commenced purchasing electricity from said district, all being done without any subsidies or grants from the government. They fill an important place in these communities, have furnished employment here, purchase and use local commodities and have rendered excellent service at low rates.

7. These plants should not be junked in whole or in part, by the district purchasing electricity from some government subsidized concern located far from this valley and which never donated a cent to get this district's project allowed and which hasn't a single citizen who is also a citizen of your district. This is true, we insist, even if its rates were less than offered by these local plants or are made less than they are now, at least partly, due to the complaints of this City and Village. To the best of our knowledge, there was little, if any, talk of a decrease in rates or improvement of service until after complaints were made by these towns.

8. This proposition will help the district carry its burdens without ruining these local plants.

9. We believe the district owes no duty to any external parties to buy electricity through or from it unless their offers are very much better than these local plants can offer and also can give at least as good service.

10. Admittedly the local plants can furnish better continuity of service.

11. The district would not be liable for penalties caused by outages under this arrangement; it would lower operation costs of the district and increase its net revenue.

12. The preference should be given to the said City and Village under anywhere near an even bid. This bid is much lower than you are now buying electricity for and would encourage the growth of the electric business of the district and also of said City and Village.

We believe that your board appreciates our position and will endeavor to cooperate as far as you can for the good of the district and its inhabitants and water users and the said municipalities and their citizens and electrical customers.

The Committees of the City of Ord, Nebraska, and Village of Burwell, Nebraska, appointed to negotiate with your district in regard to the sale or purchase of electricity, do hereby make the following tentative propositions, subject to the approval of said City and Village and the ironing out of any details and with the express statement and understanding that the same is in the nature of a compromise and nothing herein shall be considered as any admission on the part of said City or Village or any waiver or estoppel of any claim, right or contention of said City or Village.

Whereas, the said City and Village have been purchasing electricity since August 1, 1938, except since January 18, 1939, and except during part of the outages of service furnished by said district, and whereas, said electrical energy is costing said City and Village a much larger amount each month than it had been costing said Village and City to manufacture said energy in their own plants, and whereas, under the present set up, your said district is not making any profit on the basis of the actual manufacturing cost of said energy by said municipalities, nor even making nearly as much as said City and Village are paying extra for said energy over their regular manufacturing cost and

Whereas, the present rate charged said Village and City is too high to properly encourage extension of the use of electrical energy in said Village and City, so it is proposed that the said City and Village agree to furnish electrical energy to said district at a price of 1.19 cents per Kw-Hr and repurchase the same at a price of 1.59 cents per Kw-Hr for a period of twenty-nine and one-half years from February 1, 1939, but said contract would be subject to arriving at a satisfactory adjustment of rates at or prior to the end of four and one-half years from February 1, 1939, and, if no satisfactory arrangement is then arrived at as to rates, said contract would then terminate, said contract would also be subject to similar future adjustments each five years thereafter, during the term thereof; that one of said prices is much lower than the said district has been paying for such energy and the other is also less than the district has been charging said City for such energy; that your district's contract with Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District also provides for an adjustment of rates each five years; that it is understood that the Village of Burwell will only furnish energy for the use of said Village and the district's pumping station near Burwell, Nebraska. Any other energy furnished would come from the Ord plant. Separate contracts would be made by Ord and Burwell with said district.

As an alternate tentative proposition, said Village and City will purchase electricity from said district at the following basis metered on the boards of the said City and Village: (Based on last U. S. population census)

First 15 Kw-Hrs per capita per month 2c per Kw-Hr.
 Next 15 Kw-Hrs. per capita per month 1 1/2c per Kw-Hr.
 Next 15 Kw-Hrs per capita per month 1c per Kw-Hr.
 All over said amount 9 mills per Kw-Hr.

The City and Village would have to be satisfied that proper arrangements had been made to transmit said energy to said City and Village in an adequate quantity and of a merchantable and satisfactory quality and without many outages and should reserve the right to disconnect said service, if such service is unsatisfactory, said contract should provide for penalties for interrupted service and the Ord and Burwell contracts should each contain a provision substantially as follows:

(a) For failure of continuous supply of electric energy to the light plant of the City for intervals exceeding two (2) hours, the District subsequently shall deliver 1.5 Kw-Hrs. of electric energy for each Kw-Hr. which is necessary for the City to supply, or 1.5 times the average kilowatt hours taken by the City at the same hours during the previous ten days as determined by the meter equipment at the substation.

(b) Under like conditions for intervals between fifteen (15) minutes and two (2) hours, the amount of energy to be delivered by the District to the City shall be 1.25 times that as determined above.

(c) Under like conditions for intervals of fifteen (15) minutes or less no penalties shall be assessed.

Said contract would be subject to satisfactory adjustments of rates on or before August 1, 1943, and each five years thereafter and if no mutually satisfactory rates can be agreed to, at such times, said contracts would terminate, otherwise to run until August, 1965.

As a third alternative tentative proposition, the said City of Ord would pay to the said district $500.00 a month for four and one-half years, commencing February 1, 1939, and would be under no obligation to ever purchase from or sell to said district any electricity for use in the said City of Ord or by the customers of said City. The said Village of Burwell would similarly pay said district $250.00 a month for said term and under the same circumstances. That said amounts total much more per month than said district has been making on furnishing electricity to said Village and City. The said City of Ord and Village will also, if requested, name a price at which it would furnish electricity to any other customer of said district or for its own use. Under any of these propositions the district must concede that the purported contracts of said City and Village and said district are at an end and that there is no liability upon said City or Village thereunder.

This Village and City have the interest of its citizens and customers, the district, its officers, citizens and water customers at heart and make these suggested tentative proposals with the earnest hope and desire that the same may be for the best interests of all of said persons, firms and corporations, both private and public.

Respectfully submitted,

as determined by the meter equipment at the substation.

(b) Under like conditions for intervals between fifteen (15) minutes and two (2) hours, the amount of energy to be delivered by the District to the City shall be 1.25 times that as determined above.

Said contract would be subject to satisfactory adjustments of rates on or before August 1, 1943, and each five years thereafter and if no mutually satisfactory rates can be agreed to, at such times, said contracts would terminate, otherwise to run until August, 1965.

The said Village of Burwell would similarly pay said district $250.00 a month for said term and under the same circumstances. That said amounts total much more per month than said district has been making on furnishing electricity to said Village and City. The said City of Ord and Village will also, if requested, name a price at which it would furnish electricity to any other customer of said district or for its own use. Under any of these propositions the district must concede that the purported contracts of said City and Village and said district are at an end and that there is no liability upon said City or Village thereunder.

This Village and City have the interest of its citizens and customers, the district, its officers, citizens and water customers at heart and make these suggested tentative proposals with the earnest hope and desire that the same may be for the best interests of all of said persons, firms and corporations, both private and public.

Respectfully submitted,
 Special Committees of the Ord Council and Burwell Board of Trustees.

North Loup Team Loses Two Games to Danneberg

The Danes continued their championship march Tuesday evening by running rough-shod over the North Loup team on the Danneberg court. The North Loup boys put up a game fight, but were badly outclassed. The first team game ended 31 to 11 for Danneberg, and Coach Wills said the second team score was so one sided that he lost count entirely. The fact that Danneberg does not play football gives them a much earlier start in basketball, and practically every boy in school gets out for practice.

LeMasters' Glass Replaced.

On Jan. 4 the Quiz told of some glass being stolen from an old bus body Guy LeMasters has at his garden across the river. Whether it was the article in the paper or the fact that Guy was doing some sleuthing on his own, when he went down to the garden Saturday morning the glass had been put back in place and fastened there with the original cleats. It seems that the offender couldn't stand Quiz publicity.

HYBRID CORN

Nebraska Grown

We have Iowa, Pfisters, Funks, Cornhusker and Rob-See-Co. All Nebraska grown. There may be a scarcity of Nebraska grown hybrids before planting time; as we are unable to furnish any of the Funks hybrids in flat grade that is Nebraska grown.

These hybrids have been planted in Valley county and have proven to be adapted for this section. They are all produced by old established reliable firms and as near as we can find out there are no other large well established firms producing hybrid seed corn in Nebraska.

We are in position to furnish you with hybrid suitable for your farm; whether under irrigation or on dry land.

STARTING MASH

We have just completed a contract with the G. E. Conkey Co., whereby we are able to put Conkey's Y-O in all our Poultry Mashies.

We now have in stock Starting Mash containing Y-O and all our feeds made after Febr. 1st will contain Y-O.

There is no ingredient that we have been able to find to put in our feeds that will add as many vitamins as Y-O. While this Y-O is a very expensive ingredient we will be able to sell our Mashies at a very low price. Before buying your Starting Mash this year come down and ask about this Y-O Starter and see the feed and get the price.

MEAT SALT.
 We have genuine Michigan Meat Salt. This salt is much better to use in curing meat than other salt.

Chas. Meyer Sale Was Best Held This Year

The big Meyer reduction sale which was held at the farm 4 1/2 miles east of Burwell Wednesday, Jan. 18, was one of the best held in this section for several years. A perfect day, a huge crowd, and a stock, combined to make the bidding spirited and the prices more than satisfactory.

E. C. Weller and Roy Alder were the auctioneers and Charley Burdick the ring man. A team of mares brought $282; a span of 2 year old mules brought $255; one 3 year old mule brought $157; a pair of 4 year old geldings sold for $226; a weanling mule brought $80, and several yearling mules went at prices ranging from $75 to $110.

The real feature of the sale, however, was the dispersion sale of the well known Meyer milk herd of Holsteins and Ayrshires. A Mr. Hinkle of Norfolk was the most active bidder for cows, and another buyer was Mr. Adams of Emerson, Nebr. The best price of the sale was a cow which brought $100, but a number of others sold at prices from $92.50 to $100.

This sale was the first for a long time to be announced over WJAG from this section. Leading buyer of mules was Bill Foth, who brought a number of the best ones home with him. Mr. Meyer was a generous user of space in the Quiz, and he is emphatic in his opinion that the paper is widely distributed and just as widely read.

Tells About Boulder Dam.
 Alfred Wiegardt, clerk of the district court and member of the Cosmopolitan club, who recently returned from a month's visit to California, was the guest-speaker at the Rotary club's Monday evening meeting. He gave an interesting description of the big Boulder Dam and his impressions of the west coast.

Something Different

Of all the changes in the world, in the course of the past two hundred years, few have been more drastic than the lot of the child.

If you don't believe me, remember Elsie Dinsmore... the model of a well-raised child fifty or seventy years ago.

There was a time when children's clothes were small duplicates of their elders. Remember Godey's ladies' books?

Do you remember in "Little Women" how misfit Jo seemed amid the ladylike, mild-mannered females of those days?

And now... foods strained for babies; foods chopped for the babies' next step in eating; menus planned for families with children where everyone eats what is good for the children.

Life insurance ads, their appeal directed toward your solicitude for your young, their education, safety, future.

Schools and teachers, higher education, all stressed because of the children. Mothers and fathers every advantage whether it is good for them or not.

Time was when work was done for the living of the family, for the good of the family as a group.

Thousands of toys flood the market, sapping money from the budgets of parents who can ill afford it.

It seems to me we have swung from one extreme to the other.

From being little automatons, children are now elevated to the status of little czars.

This seems to be the Children's Age. Which reminds me I once read that America was the land where men worked not for themselves but for their children.

Burwell News

Written by REV. W. L. GOODELL

Floyd Rowse had a harrowing experience Thursday, Jan. 19, when his truck loaded with mules caught fire east of the intersection of highways 16 and 30 south of Clarks and was nearly a total loss. Mr. Rowse was in the lead and was followed by Orville Wilson, who was also hauling a truck load of mules and horses. Henry Bonsall, who was riding with Wilson, noticed a stream of fire pouring out from under the Rowse truck, caused from burning gasoline that was leaking from one of the large supply tanks on the Rowse truck. The three men worked frantically to get the mules out of the burning truck. Mr. Bonsall grabbed a pair of pliers and made good use of them cutting the cross chains on the rack in order to force the mules out of the back end of the truck. These mules and horses had been sold at the Chas. Meyer stock sale on Wednesday and were being delivered to the purchaser, John Leach at Adams. After Mr. Wilson delivered the load on his truck he came back to Clarks and picked up the mules that had been in the Rowse truck and delivered them.

One of the most successful surprise parties of the winter was held Thursday, Jan. 19 at the Herman Timmerman farm east of Ord when this group of friends and relatives gathered to honor Mrs. Timmerman, whose birthday it was. Not until the autos began to drive into the yard and discharge a stream of friends and neighbors carrying viands for the proposed feast did Mrs. Timmerman realize what was happening.

The ladies at once took possession of the kitchen, giving Mrs. Timmerman the place of honor as an on-looker, while the men and elderly ladies were given the living room where discussed on such questions as irrigation and taxation were carried on, as well as a great deal of informal visiting and reminiscing.

By noon the ladies had a dinner ready that could not be excelled anywhere and to it full justice was done by the forty people present, all but a half dozen of whom are related by family ties. All ages were represented from the pioneers of the 70's and early 80's to the fourth generation of great grandchildren. The afternoon was spent in visiting and along about mid-afternoon the picture above was taken. As one person present said: "Such meeting as this will be long remembered and should be held often during the ideal winter weather. Something is now needed to take the place of the old fashioned singing school and spelling schools of our grandparents' days. Such gatherings add much to the joy of life."—Quiz Photo.

Frank Phillips Visits Birthplace Near Scotia

The old Phillips homestead in Greeley county last week was the object of a search by the man who is claimed by some to be the first white child born in that county, Frank Phillips, oil millionaire of Bartlesville, Okla. Mr. Phillips made the trip to Scotia by plane, which is some contrast to the way he left it with his family, in 1874, when he was one year old.

His father, Lewis F. Phillips, was the first judge of Greeley county, and Frank is supposed to have been born in the court house, which at that time was located near, if not on, the present site of Scotia. The first courthouse was the Phillips sod house, and the first court was held there. Shortly after the grasshopper plague destroyed their living, and the family moved away.

They moved to Creston, Ia., where Frank grew up, learned the barber trade and eventually owned every barber shop in the city. He later sold the barber shops, bought an interest in a local bank and married the banker's daughter. He went to Bartlesville at the time of the big oil strike in 1903, and thus got in on the ground floor in the oil business.

Mr. Phillips had a very high opinion of the Grand Island airport, which he says is better than those of many of the larger cities. Monday night he flew to Lincoln, where he was the guest of Gov. R. L. Cochran, and on Tuesday evening he addressed a meeting of the Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce. He was accompanied by R. C. Jopling, vice-president of the company, and Dor McBride of Omaha, division manager.

It is reported by good authority that Scotia is about to get a new $10,000 building, the gift of Frank Phillips. The fact that he made the trip to Scotia last week lends color to the story that he is planning on thus honoring the town which has grown up in the vicinity of his old birthplace.

Beaver on Turtle Creek

Are Becoming a Nuisance

About two years ago the Quiz published a series of pictures showing the work of the beaver at the mouth of Turtle Creek. Since then their numbers have increased, and they are doing a lot of damage to the timber along the creek, according to Soren Sorenson, who was in Ord Tuesday. He does not wish to deal harshly with the industrious little animals, but it is a question whether they are worth the damage they are doing.

They not only cut down trees at the edge of the water to build dams across the stream, but they cut down other trees further back of which they can make no practical use. The dams cause the water to back up and flood the low ground, which is something Mr. Sorenson objects to. He has tried crotching the trees, but they then start work on a part of the tree that has not been treated.
