No Answer Yet On Cities' Offer to Sell Energy

District Directors at Meeting Tonight Will Consider the Ord-Burwell Proposals.

Although the three proposals for sale and purchase of electric energy to the North Loup district have had some consideration by the district's power committee they have not yet been discussed by the board...

Ord Woman Dies in Kansas City

While enroute to a cancer specialist in Little Rock, Ark., Mrs. Charles Sterneck, of Ord, died Monday in Kansas City, Kas., and the body will be brought to Ord for burial...

Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Sterneck and their daughter left for Little Rock where it was hoped that an operation might relieve Mrs. Sterneck's condition...

By the time they had reached Kansas City, Mrs. Sterneck's condition had become so much worse that it was thought unwise to continue as she was taken to Providence hospital there where she passed away at 12:20 p. m. Monday.

Hattie E. Frost was born in Elba on Nov. 29, 1885, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cashmere Frost, and at St. Paul on Jan. 17, 1908 was married to Chas. B. Sterneck.

Besides her husband and daughter, Mrs. Sterneck is mourned by three sisters and two brothers. They are Mrs. Maggie Moore of Dannebrog, Mrs. Lena Schreier of Ansley, Mrs. John Walbran, of Farwell, Wm. Frost of Elba, and Frank Frost, of Minneapolis, Minn.

Coe Speaks in Favor of Present Creamery Laws

F. W. Coe, manager of the Ord Cooperative Creamery, was requested to come to Lincoln Thursday afternoon and appear before the legislature in behalf of the present creamery law.

The present law as introduced would practically destroy the present dairy law and would be a blow to the cream quality program so badly needed in Nebraska.

Fire Department Called Out. Hot ashes piled against a wood shed in back of the Glen Holloway home resulted in a fire about 11:00 last Saturday morning and the fire department was called to extinguish the blaze.

Rev. and Mrs. Claude Hill of North Loup were Sunday dinner guests at the Gould Flagg home.

51st Firemen's Ball Is Coming Attraction

The members of the Ord fire department are making preparations for their 51st annual ball, which is scheduled for next Wednesday evening, Feb. 8, at the Bohemian hall.

Russell Pharmacy Is Robbed Saturday

Another of the series of petty robberies that have been plaguing Ord business men lately occurred Saturday night when a thief broke into the Russell pharmacy and stole $10.10 from two cash registers, also taking a small quantity of morphine from an unlocked safe.

Although the robber first broke a pane of glass in the door, then reached through and pried off a bar on the inside, and then almost broke the door down before he gained entrance, nobody heard the noise his efforts must have made.

The robber passed up a large quantity of cigars and cigars, did not touch other merchandise and even overlooked quite a sum of small change in a lower drawer of the cash register.

Sheriff George S. Round and L. H. Covert, chief of Ord police, are working on the case and federal authorities were notified because of the morphine being taken.

Andrew Nielsen Escapes Injury in Car Accident

Andrew Nielsen escaped serious injury Friday evening when his Ford went into the creek southwest of Elyria. He had been working at the Nels Knudsen place and started home at about 8:00 p. m.

Hubert Hayes' Sale Febr. 7.

The Hubert Hayes' clean-up sale will be held Febr. 7 and the offering is listed in this issue, including a big lot of good horses and cattle, as well as machinery, hogs, etc.

Seven Boy Scouts of Ord Are Honored

Seven Boy Scouts from the Ord troop drove to Loup City Monday evening to receive their first and second class scout awards. They were accompanied by Scoutmaster Rex Jewett, his assistant, Wilmer Anderson, and the local scout commissioner, George Allen, sr.

The Court of Honor at which the awards were presented was held at 8:30 in the school auditorium with about 200 people in attendance.

Maly Scores Gov't Policies As Cause of Farmer Plight

Lincoln Banker Tells Crowd in Ord that Spending Must Stop if Business to Revive.

A drastic curtailment in government spending and immediate reform of government "soak business" policies must take place if business is to revive or farm prices reach a steady, profitable level, an audience of Ord business men and farmers was told Thursday evening by Stanley Maly, vice-president of the First National Bank of Lincoln.

"After seven years we have learned our lesson—that we can't spend our way back to prosperity," was the theme of Mr. Maly's remarks, and he constantly used quotations, statistics and government reports in proof of his various contentions.

Invited to speak on the subject, "The Farm Problem," by officers of the Ord business organization, Mr. Maly skirted this subject briefly but devoted most time to condemnation of the New Deal's economic policies, illustrating various points with humorous stories that brought waves of laughter from a crowd that hadn't expected a semi-political talk.

"Economic anemia and political epilepsy," was Maly's characterization of the New Deal, as he pounded home facts regarding the present national debt of forty billions of dollars, half of which has been incurred by New Deal spending.

Prompt reform of the Social Security bill, which proposes to pull 47 billions of dollars out of American business by taxation between now and 1950 was demanded as a necessity for revival of business by Mr. Maly. Business cannot stand such a tremendous sum being taken from it; furthermore, there is no need of a fund of this size being accumulated for this purpose, he contended.

The excess profits tax and the capital gains tax also drew the ire of the speaker, and the Wagner Relations Act was claimed by him to be the most dangerous and harmful piece of legislation enacted by Congress since the United States became a nation.

Ed Holloway Is Seeking Divorce

Saturday afternoon in district court here Ed Holloway filed suit for a divorce from his wife, Anna Holloway, extreme cruelty being the reason cited in the petition. Mr. and Mrs. Holloway were married in Ord on April 30, 1902 and have four children, only one of whom lives at home.

Seven Boy Scouts of Ord Are Honored

Preliminary to the Court of Honor the Scouts had to take examinations to ascertain whether or not they were fitted to become first or second class Scouts. The second class exam covered the knowledge of the oath, fire building, signaling, cooking, swimming, tracking, hiking, use of the knife and the hatchet, and a practical knowledge of the first aid.

Y. V. Elliott of Lincoln, state Cornhusker council official, was present and Judge E. M. Mochner of Loup City presided over the court.

Sugar Beet Situation Not Definite As Yet

"We are not in position as yet to give fully definite information regarding the acreage of sugar beets for the North and Middle Loup valleys for 1939," the Quiz is advised this week by A. J. Denman, manager of the American Crystal Sugar company's factory at Grand Island.

All sugar factories, says Mr. Denman, are operating this season under a fixed government allotment of planted acreage and each factory, as well as the growers or producers to whom acreage is allotted, will be divided into three classes, old growers on old lands, old growers on new lands, and new growers on new lands.

The quota allowed the Grand Island factory should produce, concludes Manager Denman, all the tonnage of beets the factory can handle and for this reason there seems little possibility of having the present government quota increased.

Only 29.2% of Farms in Valley County Owner-Operated

50% Farmed by Owners in 1935; Non-Resident Ownership on the Increase.

That only 29.2% of the 1,576 farms in Valley county are operated by their owners, while 40.7% are owned by landlords who live in the county, 13.3% by corporations and 16.8% by non-resident individuals are striking facts revealed in a survey made by the Valley County Soil Conservation association of which County Agent C. C. Dale is secretary.

Most striking is the decrease in owner-operation since 1935, in which year a government farm census revealed 50 per cent of farms operated by their owners.

Number of owner operated farms at present is 460 while 642 farms are owned by landlords who live in Ord, North Loup, Arcadia or Elyria, but rent the land, while 260 are owned by non-resident landlords and 208 by non-resident corporations.

Geranium and Enterprise townships have the highest percentage of owner-operators, 40% of farms in each township being farmed by their owners. Liberty, with 37% is next, while Elyria, with 34%, Michigan with 33.6%, Yale with 33%, Arcadia with 29%, Noble with 27.5%, Davis Creek with 26% and Springdale with 25% follow in order.

Independent has the smallest percentage of owner-operated farms, 13%, while North Loup has 13.7%. Out of 146 farms in North Loup township only 20 are owner-operated, the figures compiled by Mr. Dale reveal, while independent with 108 farms has only 14 operated by their owners.

However, 58% of the farms in North Loup township are owned by resident landlords, making 71.7% of the farm land in that township "home owned," this being a very high percentage.

Independent has the largest number of corporation-owned farms, 33 while North Loup township is runner-up with 24, and Eureka township has the fewest, 5.

One factor not taken into consideration in the survey above is farms now in process of foreclosure. A great many foreclosure cases are on file in the district court, and when completed, will further increase percentage of corporation and non-resident ownership and still further decrease the number of owner-operated farms.

A table showing number of farms operated by owner, owned by resident, non-resident and corporation landlords appears on another page of this issue so it may be studied by anybody interested.

Lee Asks Andersen Overrule Contest, Confirm Election

Co. Attorney Files Final Answer to Misko's Contest; Judge Will Rule Friday.

Monday of this week Alvin B. Lee filed an answer to the complaint of John P. Misko. A demurrer was filed ahead of the answer. In his answer Mr. Lee claims that the complaint and bond filed by Misko did not comply with the requirements of the statutes, and that the sureties to the bond were not justified as required by law.

The contestee further denies each and every statement in the complaint, except such as are expressly admitted in the answer. He claims that he is now in the office and that he holds a certificate of election to office for the term commencing Jan. 5, 1939, duly issued by the county clerk.

In Eureka, Elyria, Noble, Michigan, Ord, first ward, Ord, third ward, Ord, Springdale, Liberty, Vinton, Enterprise, North Loup, Arcadia, Yale, Davis Creek, Independent and Geranium Lee claims that persons unknown to him at present were permitted to vote who were not legally entitled to vote for the reason that they were not in the precinct, county or state the time required by law.

He further claims that the contestant ran a conveyance for the purpose of getting votes to the polls in all of the three wards in Ord. That illegal votes were cast for the contestant and legal votes were not counted for the contestant.

Library Starts Soon If Weather Permits

Adolph Voss superintendent of construction for the Diamond Engineering company of Grand Island, is in Ord and stated Tuesday morning that the work of laying brick on the new township library building will commence as soon as weather conditions permit.

The crew of men was busy Monday and Tuesday taking the forms away from the concrete foundation and getting everything lined up for the brick work to follow.

Work to Start Soon on Irrigation Work Shop

Contracts have been let by the North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation district for construction of a work shop and garage 62x28 feet in size on lots north of the Ord Cold Storage and construction is expected to start in about two weeks. Total cost will be $2,583.15.

Ord Wins, Loses, To Albion Teams Tuesday

At Albion Tuesday evening the Ord first team ran up against one of the best basketball teams they have met this season, losing by a score of 38 to 28. The score at the half was 14 to 8 in favor of Albion.

The Ord second team held up their reputation of being a hard team to down. At the half the score was 6 to 2 in favor of Albion, but the Ord boys ran wild all the second half, making the final score 16 to 8, the Albion team being able to score only two points during the entire first half.

Shirley Rotary Club Speaker. A. J. "Bud" Shirley, veteran fireman and many years chief of the Ord fire department, was a guest and principal speaker at the club's meeting Monday evening, giving an interesting account of early days in Ord, particularly with reference to the city's water system at that time and later and fires suffered by the town during his years as head of the department.

Mrs. Keith Wolfe returned on the bus Tuesday evening from a two weeks visit to her parents in Bradshaw, Neb.

21 Outages on the High Line Since Ord, Burwell Went Off

Light Commissioner George Allen and other electric department employees upon whom devolves the duty of supplying Ord people with satisfactory electric service are counting themselves fortunate that the city has not been on the high line during most of January, for since Ord started using its own electric plant on Jan. 18 there have been 21 outages on the high line.

Although Ord is no longer using Platte Valley juice, the line still runs into the plant and outages are still recorded there. From 11:30 to 1:00 p. m. yesterday there were 15 outages, the Stark indicator shows, and from Jan. 15 up to yesterday there had been 4. There also were 4 outages between Jan. 1 and 18, the record shows. Also juice was off twice today, once soon after midnight and again this morning.

Miss Clara McClatchey Heads Superintendents

At the state convention of county superintendents held at Lincoln last week Miss Clara McClatchey was honored by being selected president for 1939. This signal honor came to her because of her outstanding work in education as well for her attendance and assistance in the state meetings.

CLARA M. McCLATCHEY.

Miss McClatchey went to Lincoln Monday. The meetings were held partly in the old senate chamber in the Capitol building, and partly in the Lincoln Hotel. There were about 85 county superintendents in attendance.

Dr. Helen McIntosh of the office of education in Washington was present on the study of reading. Two luncheons and one dinner were given during the week. The first luncheon was held Tuesday afternoon at the Student Union building, and was addressed by Dr. R. W. Shumate, his subject being, "Study of the Tax Situation in Nebraska." Another speaker well known here was Judge Bayard H. Paine, who talked Tuesday afternoon on a subject dear to his heart, "Making the Constitution Real."

The dinner was held Wednesday evening at the YWCA and all superintendents who had taken part in the Christmas Seal sale were eligible to attend. This session was addressed by R. H. McCann of the McCook schools, on "Education, the Safeguard of Democracy."

Herman Mattley Died in Lincoln Wednesday

Herman Mattley, 60-year-old Lincoln attorney and son-in-law of Mrs. W. W. Haskell, of Ord, died at 2:00 a. m. Jan. 25 at his home in Lincoln. Funeral services were held there Saturday and burial was in Wyuka cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. John R. Haskell and Mrs. W. W. Haskell drove down Friday to attend the rites.

Mr. Mattley was born in Missouri and came to Garfield county with his parents as a youth. He was graduated from Ord high school and then attended the University of Nebraska college of law, the rest of his life being spent in practice of that profession at Lincoln. In 1916 he was married to Miss Winifred Haskell, of Ord.

Besides his widow, he is mourned by three children, Theodore, Chyles and Dorothy.

Loup Co. Farmer Held in Jail Here to Avoid Lynching

Feeling High at Taylor Against Ash, Who Admitted Rape of Two Stepdaughters.

Geru Ash, 51-year-old rancher who lives 15 miles north of Taylor was brought to the Valley county jail Saturday evening by Sheriff George Brock of Loup county to forestall a possible lynching after he allegedly admitted statutory offenses against his two stepdaughters, 12 and 14 years old.

Feeling was running high among Ash's neighbors in the Calamus river neighborhood after Ash's arrest, Loup county officers told Sheriff George S. Round, and since the Loup county jail would not protect a prisoner from a mob, should one form, it was deemed best to put Ash in a stronger jail for safe keeping.

Ash spent Saturday night and Sunday in the Valley county jail. Monday morning he was taken back to Taylor by Sheriff Brock and in county court there pleaded guilty to a charge of rape filed by Mr. Alder, the Loup county attorney. Immediately after the brief hearing he was brought back to the jail here.

Yesterday Ash was taken to Grand Island and in a hearing before Judge E. G. Kroger was formally sentenced to serve 10 years in the state penitentiary.

Wilson and Gross Buy Out Jones Livestock Co.

Last week a deal was completed by which A. C. Wilson and Stanley Gross, as partners, purchased the livestock and feed business of Albert K. Jones and leased building and yards for a long period of time. They took charge immediately and will continue the business along the lines followed by previous owners, buying hogs and selling feeds. Mr. Wilson was employed by August Peterson, previous owner of the business, for many years and is thoroughly familiar with the work. Mr. Gross, a respected farmer of the Brace school community, knows livestock values and has a wide acquaintance among farmers so it is not difficult for the Quiz to predict success for Messrs. Wilson and Gross in their new undertaking.

Cosmopolitan Club Plans Soap Box Derby for Ord

At their meeting Monday evening the Ord Cosmopolitan club made preliminary arrangements for holding a soap box derby here in the spring probably shortly after the close of school. The announcement is made early to give all prospective contestants plenty of time to build their racing cars and get them in shape for the big event.

At a later meeting a committee will be appointed to make further plans and lay down the specifications for both cars and drivers. The paving on 21st street will in all probability be the scene of the contests, as this is well located and has plenty of pitch to give the racing cars the necessary speed.

Gasoline Prices Drop As "War" Breaks Out Again

Ord has a war of its own to cope with this week, but far from being alarmed about the situation people of this trade territory are hoping the war will continue and in the meantime are filling their cars with gasoline at greatly reduced prices.

The "gas war" flared up Saturday morning when Forrest Watson posted prices of 16.9c on first grade gas and 15.9c on competitive grade, these prices being 2c lower than have been charged recently by all stations. The same old cause—secret rebates to favored customers by a competing station—is assigned.

Independent stations met the Watson price immediately and some cut under it, so by Saturday evening it was possible to buy first grade gasoline for as low as 14c per gallon and competitive grade at 13c. Other stations had prices of 13 1/2 and 14 1/2, others 15.9 and 16.9, and some of the company-owned stations were not given permission to cut and still were selling at 17.9 and 18.9.

The "war" is still going on and one station operator predicted yesterday it will continue for some time with prices possibly being cut another cent or two.

Mrs. Gibson Very Ill. Mrs. Will Ramsey yesterday received word that Mrs. Margaret Gibson, former well known Ord woman, is very ill at Shelton, Wash., where she makes her home with her daughter Gladys, now Mrs. Miller. Her son James, who is employed in Elizabethtown, Tenn., is with her. Very little hope is held for her recovery, Mrs. Ramsey was informed.

The group then returned to the high school where they played Chinese checkers and bingo. The Tri-S is an honorary commercial club, whose membership is limited only to those students taking a straight high school commercial course. The sponsor of the club is Miss Emma Steele. New members initiated were Donadale O'Neal, Angelina Wachtrle, Lyle Plagg, Rodney Rathbun, Christina Peterson, and Don Severson.

Volf-Hulinsky.

Miss Emma Volf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Volf, became the bride of Charles Hulinsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hulinsky, at 10:00 a. m. Tuesday, Jan. 24, in a ceremony performed by John L. Andersen, county judge of Ord. The bride was dressed in a white silk lace gown of floor length with a long train veil and carried a bouquet of roses and fern leaves. The maid-of-honor, Miss Marie Bruha, cousin of the bride, wore a gold taffeta floor length gown and her bouquet was of roses and sweet peas. Miss Helen Hulinsky, cousin of the groom, was bridesmaid, also wearing a gold taffeta gown and carrying a bouquet of roses and sweetpeas. Irene Hulinsky and Dorothy Volf, both gowned in pink taffeta were flower girls. Albert Hulinsky and Edward Bruha were the bridesmaids' attendants. Following the wedding dinner and supper were served to the wedding party at the home of the bride's parents, guests including only members of the two families. A big wedding cake baked by Mrs. Glenn Lilienthal, cousin of the groom, decorated the center of the table. That evening a big dance was given at the Jungman hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Hulinsky, the wedding party entering to the strains of "Farewell March" with the flower girls in the lead strewn rose petals in the path of the bride and groom. After a trip to Mitchell, Nebr., and through Wyoming and Colorado, Mr. and Mrs. Hulinsky will make their home on a farm south of Burwell. They have the best wishes of a host of friends.

OBITUARY

MRS. JACOB F. PAPIERNIK.

Funeral services were held on Thursday, Jan. 26, at the St. Mary's church in Elyria, Rev. C. Shumski in charge, for Mrs. J. F. Papiernik, who died at her home east of Elyria at noon Tuesday, Jan. 24, at the age of 58. Mrs. Papiernik had suffered almost a year with gallstones and cancer.

Anna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Furtak, was born Aug. 15, 1881 and came to the United States with her parents two years later. The family homesteaded a place west of Elyria, where on Sept. 3, 1900 Anna became the bride of Jacob F. Papiernik.

Seven children were born to them, of whom six survive their mother. They are Mrs. Elmer Fuehrer, of Central City, Louis, Steve, Chester, Sylvester and Ann, all of Ord. One son, Henry, died in 1919 at birth. Mrs. Papiernik also is mourned by her husband, by four sisters, Mrs. Kate Grabowski, of Ashton; Mrs. Mary Geneski, of Elyria; Mrs. Stacy Bartuslak, of Elyria; and Mrs. Lena Dowhower, of Ord; and by one brother, Clemens Furtak, of Ord. There are numerous more distant relatives and a host of friends who also mourn her departure.

After their marriage the Papierniks lived seven years on a farm west of Ord but the remainder of their married life except 15 months spent in California, was lived on the farm northeast of Elyria, across the river. Mrs. Papiernik was a prominent worker in the Altar society of St. Mary's church and was loved by her neighbors and generally respected by all who knew her.

Pallbearers at her funeral Thursday were six nephews, Theodore Geneski, of Canada, Richard Dowhower, Adam Bartuslak and Syl Furtak of Ord; Andrew Grabowski, of Ashton, and Paul Geneski of Elyria. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery at Elyria.

Chanticleers Show Vast Improvement in Beating Ravenna

Brockman Serves Notice Is In with Another Contender for Valley Honors.

Beating Ravenna 32 to 28 on their own floor Friday night, Coach Brockman's up-and-coming Chanticleers served notice on other central Nebraska schools that Ord will again be the "team to beat" in Loup Valley and district tournaments next month. Their present strength is in decided contrast to the drab showing made in early season games.

Not only did the Chanticleers win against Ravenna but the Ord reserves defeated Ravenna second team 18 to 16, in an overtime period rally, and the Junior Hi team beat Ravenna's Junior Hi outfit also by a very close score.

H. Misko with 9 points led scoring for the Chanticleers Friday but Severson, with 8, and Center Dahlin, with 7, were not far behind. Tatlow's work at guard also was outstanding. For Ravenna Knammack and Capellan were leading scorers.

The fact that Ravenna previously had beaten Holdrege and that team conquered Kearney, who toyed with the Ord team early in the season, shows how far the Chanticleers have progressed.

Last night Ord invaded Alton for the first basketball game in many years between the two schools. Friday night the Burwell quint meets Ord on the local court in a conference game.

St. Paul Winner of Junior Hi Tournament

Coach Keith Wolfe's junior high basketball team was eliminated by St. Paul in the second round of the invitational tournament held at Arcadia Friday and Saturday. The Ord basketballers won their first game from Ravenna by a close margin of 15 to 14. Other scores in the first round were St. Paul, 22, Broken Bow, 7; Burwell, 13, Arcadia, 9; Sargent, 20, Comstock, 10.

In the second round, St. Paul defeated Ord by a score of 15 to 10. The Ord boys had drawn a hard team in the first round, while St. Paul's game with Broken Bow was an easy one.

St. Paul defeated Burwell by a score of 20 to 11 in the finals. Ravenna defeated Arcadia in the consolation game.

Ten Ord boys who made the trip with Coach Wolfe were: Guild Flagg, Jerry Fryzek, Cetak, Billy Johnson, Eddie Tunniff, Freeman Johnson, Orle Hurlbert, Elton Walker, Junior Lakin and Henry Adams.

The eight schools participating in this tournament were Arcadia, Burwell, Ravenna, Comstock, Sargent, St. Paul, Broken Bow and Ord.

Theory of Spending Ourselves Out Of Depression Seen Unwise Course

Evidence in Congress of Definite Determination to Cut Down on Appropriations; Sound Sense of American People Always Finds Answers to Our Problems.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART

WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—It always has been my conviction that the American people will find a sound answer to every national problem, if they are given the facts and the time to figure out what those facts mean.

They are demonstrating these things as a fact, again. There is no doubt about it. For five or six years, a considerable majority of the nation's citizenry was following the theory of spending ourselves out of the depression.

It was an unsound course, obviously, but money was made to do a lot of talking—as money in billions of dollars will talk. Lately, however, hardy American thinking has been carrying the majority back to normal understanding, and the influence of spending by the federal government is sagging, distinctly.

Opposition to Philosophy of Spending Breaks Loose

It will be recalled how the opponents of President Roosevelt's philosophy of spending showed their mettle in the house of representatives when that body voted to cut $150,000,000 off of the deficiency relief appropriation. Mr. Roosevelt asked for $375,000,000. The cut was accomplished despite some hair-raising stories from official sources in the administration that elimination of any of the requested funds would mean suffering, maybe starvation, maybe quick death, for many thousands of persons.

Well, the house members (or a majority of them) did not believe those stories, and thus they made a start at cutting governmental spending. They gave an indication at the same time that there must be a general revision of the federal government's machinery for relief of the unemployed.

Notwithstanding the statements, frequently heard from Republican sources, that "you can't beat Santa Claus" or the variation that "you can't beat $4,000,000,000," there is plenty of evidence to show that there is quite a definite determination to quit that sort of thing. That is, there is a determination in most places outside of the so-called inner circle of New Dealers.

Immediately after the house was through with the relief bill, the opponents of spending in the senate started after the appropriation. There were many in that body who wanted to appropriate only for two months proposing that in the meantime there should be a brand new relief setup devised. But the ma-majority sentiment was swayed by the general argument that, whatever the shortcomings of the Harry Hopkins relief methods, the poor people should not be made the scapegoats; it was no fault of the unemployed who needed help that Mr. Hopkins, now the secretary of commerce, had made a mess of the relief program.

Beginning Only Foretaste Of What Is Coming

While it seems that a cut of $150,000,000—which is about one-fifth of the amount asked—represents something substantial, this beginning is only a foretaste of what is coming. The spenders have had their innings for five or six years, or since Mr. Roosevelt's "economy act" of 1933 was abandoned as a pattern of government. They have used various names and descriptions, such as "pump priming" and "spending to restore prosperity," etc. It appears now, however, that their days are numbered. I do not mean that everything in the way of government cash sop is going to be thrown out of the window at once. I believe I can see, however, that curtailment of federal waste has begun; that the national belt is going to be pulled tighter by a couple of notches and that, sooner or later even the beneficiaries of the federal cash will note the stigma and slacken their demands.

One of the leaders in this direction has been Sen. Harry Byrd, the Virginia Democrat, who is just as hard boiled in preserving a sound national government as his senior, the redoubtable Carter Glass. Through thick and thin, Senator Byrd has been attacking the spending policies, calling attention to the dangers of an increasing national debt and the certainty that the country as a whole must bear the burden of added taxation. He did this the while administration sharpshooters were firing one broadside after another at his head or hide.

The other night, Senator Byrd got on the radio and told the country again what was happening. He had some new facts and figures about the situation. The Virginian asked some rather pertinent questions, too, about the situation in England. He pointed out that England has not been running deficit after deficit and that, as a matter of cold fact while the United States was adding more than $21,000,000,000 to its national debt, England was balancing its budget and making some headway in reducing its national debt.

States Take Heed and Start Cutting Expenses

Due largely, the senator thought, to the fact that England had tried to live within its income as an individual would do, that nation had a national income in 1937 that was 118 per cent of its income in 1929. Which is to say that it was more prosperous than in 1929. Senator Byrd pointed out that this had happened while our government was running from a billion or so to five or six billions into debt each year. He suggested, moreover, that if the United States had done as well this country's national income would now be $88,000,000,000 instead of the $60,000,000,000 which was estimated for 1938. The thought was then advanced that England had not tried to "harry and frighten business" which was employing people who wanted work, not charity.

There are other things happening besides the Byrd attacks and the congressional action on relief appropriations to indicate the growing strength of those who believe spending borrowed money has been, and is, unwise. Word has come through to Washington of the action of several governors who are insisting that their states avoid getting into the hole. Governor Cochran of Nebraska, a Democrat, and Governor Brickner of Ohio, a Republican, each has put their respective state legislatures on notice that expenditures are to be pared to the bone. There are others who could be named, but from the information we have here in Washington, Governors Cochran and Brickner are the outstanding examples.

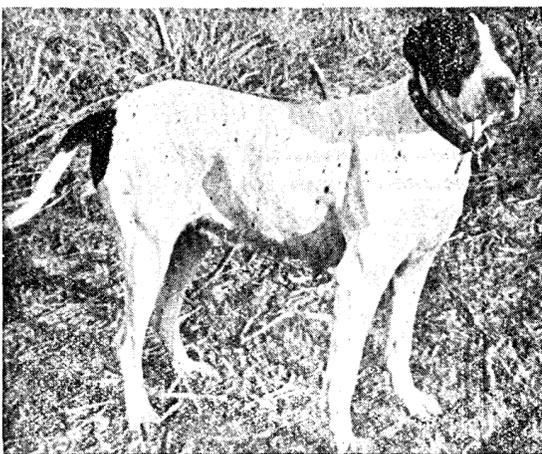

It might be said that these refer only to states and not to national policies. Very well. No state executive could get away with such a program unless he had the backing of a majority of his own people. If they believe that way about the state affairs, there is no reason to think they will take a contrary view concerning the national treasury and funds which it must borrow to spend.

'Pump Priming' Gifts to States Force Them to Borrow

Further, nearly all of the federal appropriations for "pump priming," when granted to states on lesser jurisdictions, are offered on condition that the state, or city or county, must put up an equal amount. In hundreds of cases in the last six years, this policy has resulted in states or lesser subdivisions of government being forced to borrow on its own bonds in order to get hold of the federal cash. The result; new debt. It becomes clear, therefore, that if the state executives insist on reduced expenditure, they are unlikely to accept these federal gifts because of the probable added debt burden.

Abney's English Pointer is Nebraska's Best

"The trophy to the best shooting dog bred and owned in Nebraska was won by Patty-Lou, pure bred English pointer belonging to Lyle Abney, of North Loup, and handled by Don Barber, of Omaha."—Omaha World-Herald.

This brief description of Patty-Lou's victory in the shooting dog trials at Omaha is not all the story, either.

A few years ago a man near Omaha had an English pointer bitch and Mr. Abney, who has a farm near Sumter, that if he would keep her until she whelped and raise the pups he would give Lyle his pick of the litter. Lyle took the bitch under that bargain and consequently got his pup, which he named Patty-Lou, for nothing. Her subsequent success proves that Lyle knows how to pick the right pup from a litter.

In 1937 at the shooting dog trials near Omaha, Patty-Lou won second prize in the puppy class. This year, in the field trials sponsored by the Missouri Valley Hunt club and held on pheasants near Ashland, Patty-Lou was the best Nebraska-bred dog in the meet. She out-classed anything on the grounds for fine hunting and obedience, said the judges, Ruth Stewart, a writer for the World-Herald, and Archie Welch, of Milwaukie.

Patty-Lou not only is a fine hunter and an excellent pet but also she raised six pups last year that Mr. Abney sold for $25 each, which beats farming, her owner says. One of her puppies, six months old, won second in this year's puppy trials at Ashland, proving that Patty-Lou's fine nose is transmitted to her descendants.

some of the states is added taxes. The state legislatures are due for an awakening as to the actual condition of their state finances. Some may dodge it this year, but facts will have to be faced. When new taxes come, what a howl there will be. That howl will be heard in congress, too, both concerning state and county and city taxes on the one hand and national taxes on the other hand. It appears to me that taxes will prove to be the best antidote for the poison of borrowing to spend that can be found.

The Ord Cooperative Creamery deserves to be commended for bringing in these excellent bulls, and also for shipping in 105 dairy calves at cost to their patrons. If more effort was expended in improving established practices such as dairying, rather than in agitating for new enterprises, greater good might be accomplished.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Help is in sight for local dairymen who want to build up their herds. Five purchased Holstein sires have been purchased by the Ord Cooperative Creamery for its patrons. Manager Fred Coe states that they plan to buy two more. These seven sires will head the seven blocks of a cooperative bull association.

Two dozen farmers gathered in the Ord high school agriculture room last week to set up the association. The group was organized by Fred Coe, with Earl Smith presiding. Directors and caretakers were elected for each block, and association rules were drawn up.

The bulls will be kept on the caretakers' farms in specially constructed pens. Members in each block will bring their cows to the caretakers' place to be serviced. A $1.00 breeding fee will be charged, half of which goes to the caretaker. Bulls will be moved from one block to another every second year to avoid inbreeding.

The bull in Springdale block has been used since June 7, 1938. There are 77 cows signed up for servicing in this unit, which has W. H. Stowell for director, and Ed Timmerman as caretaker. It is known as block 1.

Block 2 is at Spring Creek, with R. G. Desmull as director. Their bull has been in service on the Ben Maly place, but may later be transferred to McLain brothers' farm.

Sires for three other blocks are being assigned. Block 3 is at Oleam, with Ivan Robertson as director. Block 4 is directed by H. H. Hohn, living west of Ord. Director of Block 5 is Jake Severns of Elyria.

Blocks 6 and 7 will be established at Mira Valley and Davis Creek. Walter Linke is the Davis Creek director. Bulls for these units will be supplied in the near future.

The writer has examined five of the sires. They are splendid individuals, out of dams with annual records of 600 pounds butterfat or more. They come from the highest producing herds in the middle west, and are about the best that money could buy.

The cooperative bull association makes superior sires available for less money. The idea will be to develop better cows rather than more cows. Farmers who wish to have cows bred should get in touch with their nearest director.

Hidden Taxes Take $270,504, Report Shows

Families of Valley county and vicinity pay $270,504 in hidden taxes annually on their retail purchases alone, according to a survey announced today by the National Consumers Tax Commission. This burden, the report stated, is paid through increased prices of food, clothing, fuel, medicine and other daily purchases. The analysis, directed from the NCTC headquarters in Chicago, was based on total retail sales in Valley county of $1,734,000, as reported by the U. S. Bureau of the Census.

Today's Shivers

English peasants shivered under Charles the Second because he levied an over-burdening tax on hearthstones and stoves. The modern version, says the National Consumers Tax Commission, is America's 37 hidden taxes, state, local and national, which increase the price of coal 13.7 percent.

AT OUR MARKET THIS IS "HOME MADE SAUSAGE" WEEK

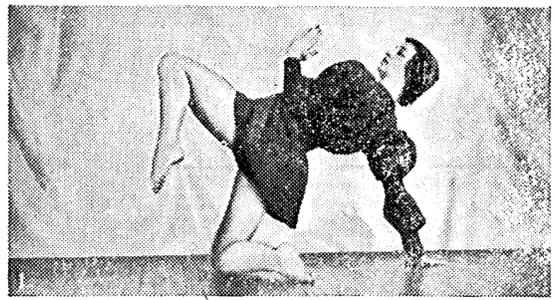

To introduce our pure home-made pork sausage to more people, we are designating this as "Home-Made Sausage" Week at our market and will make extra quantities of sausage so everybody who wants to buy some and try it may be accommodated.

Pure pork sausage is one of our finest products. To make the best pork sausage we use tender, lean pork from young pigs—no filler or meat substitute of any kind. Pork for our sausage is kept constantly cold; it is ground and into it go the best and purest spices that money can buy, mixed from a 50-year-old formula. We make our pork sausage in small batches so it is always fresh.

With pancakes for breakfast or as the meat dish at any meal you'll enjoy this pure pork product. We make it in three forms—in bulk, in casings and smoked in casings like ham or bacon.

If you like pure pork sausage—not too fat, not too lean, no filler added, nothing but pure pork—try ours.

PUBLIC AUCTIONS.

That good old institution, the public auction, is of much older origin than is usually thought. In varying forms, it has come down to us from the early days of our nation, and even back to Colonial times.

We are all familiar with the American method of putting up articles for sale and knocking them down to the highest bidder. Generations ago the art of auctioneering became recognized as a business in itself, and men were trained to carry on that work, which is in many ways one of the most exacting tasks in which a person can engage.

The modern auctioneer must have a large and varied command of the English language, and a working knowledge of other languages does not come amiss, especially in a crowd where more than one language is spoken or understood. He must be a man of culture, for the public soon tires of listening to the conversation of a man who is either profane or obscene.

He must be a man of personality, a man who commands attention and respect, not so much for what he does as for what he is. He must be a man of tact and be able to adjudicate any disputes that may arise over the price or the quality of any article sold. He must be a man of strong voice and constitution, for the crying of auctions out of doors in all kinds of weather is a severe strain, both physical and mental.

There are three essentials for a successful auction: First, a good auctioneer; second, an offering of good quality merchandise; and third a buying crowd. In the days of the free lunch, it was often estimated that as many as half of those who attended came for the lunch and the opportunity of visiting with their neighbors than for the purpose of bidding. One hundred bona fide buyers are worth more to a sale than 500 who come out of curiosity.

Good quality merchandise always insures a good sale, for it attracts the real buyers, and produces plenty of competition. Another important factor in the success of an auction is the weather. The condition of the weather may affect a sale as much as ten to twenty percent. The time of year, too, has a definite effect on prices. For example, ice boxes sell better in the spring, and heating stoves sell better in the fall.

Just how long ago the custom of serving a free lunch at noon originated is not known, and it flourished for several decades in Nebraska, and perhaps longer elsewhere. The idea of doing away with it was discussed for a number of years before it was actually abolished, for every man holding a sale felt that it would ruin the sale not to have the free lunch. Twenty years or less ago the lunch idea went out of style.

The public auction is a valuable institution, in that it broadens its patrons. Men from different parts of the county meet and exchange ideas. The crowd changes with each new auction, and new acquaintances are made at all of them. When valuable merchandise for example, pure bred cattle, is on the bill, men may even come from other states. Yes, the auction is one of the greatest broadening influences in America today.

THE HEN AND THE DOORKNOB.

(Reprinted after 30 years)
Once upon a time there was a fool hen who sat on a china doorknob for three weeks expecting to get a FAMILY, but the only thing she got was EXPERIENCE.

The advertising field is FULL of "china doorknob propositions" - examples of merchants who expect GOOD NEWSPAPERS to hatch money out of BAD EGG BUSINESS or who put SOUND nest eggs under the WRONG "advertising hen."

There are three principles to follow in an advertising campaign: First of all, find a BUSINESS that will STAND advertising; secondly find the NEWSPAPER that will make the advertising PAY; thirdly, give the newspaper TIME to pay. You can't start in to breed dollars in LESS TIME than it takes to HATCH them any more than you can pull a hen off the nest before she has had a chance to incubate. In both cases you simply WASTE what has been invested. If you stop too soon you will get a ROTTEN EGG instead of a CHICKEN.

Advertise something out of which you may reasonably expect RETURNS and when you have found out WHAT TO ADVERTISE, take care that you place your copy in a NEWSPAPER that can turn the trick. Don't delude yourself with a china doorknob, and don't confuse a "rooster newspaper," which spends its time cock-a-loruming, for a "hen newspaper," that is too busy hatching out dollars to strut about crowing.

POWER OF THE PRESS.

An Associated Press dispatch from Columbus, O., states that Gov. John W. Brickner has left his door open to the press, calling on newspapermen to aid him in administering good government. Proclaiming the press the "most potent force in the molding of public opinion," the new republican governor told members of the Ohio Newspaper association he felt they were as much interested as he in good government.

It is a notable fact that newly elected executives who are mapping out a campaign of reform almost invariably call upon the press to assist them in the work. Administrations which have become corrupt shut newspaper publicity, for they realize that all good newspapers have a habit of printing the truth when and if they can get it, and the truth is the one thing they are most anxious to avoid.

A few years ago another Ohio man, the militant editor of a newspaper, was shot down right at a time when he was waging a campaign against crime in his city. The criminal element realized that he was felling the truth, but they were so determined to prevent that they resorted to murder to accomplish their purpose. But others picked up the torch, and the fight went on. Men may be killed, but not the power of the press.

Two years ago social disease was not mentioned under its correct name of syphilis. Custom decreed that it be mentioned, if at all, in evasive and devious ways. About that time an editor decided that it was about time to tear the mask from this greatest bugaboo of the human race, to call a spade a spade. He took a long chance, but he found the public in a receptive mood.

To lay the war against this plague was waged openly, fearlessly and in two short years a long strike has been taken toward the eradication of the disease. We are on the way toward a new social security, if you please, and the power of the press of the United States is behind us. Any proposition that cannot stand the test of publicity is not good for the public.

When the late W. W. Haskell started the Quiz back in April 1882, one of his principles was unalterable opposition to liquor. At the time he started this campaign, which was to continue for nearly 36 years, he had few in the state who dared to give him support. It took him a lifetime of ceaseless effort, but only two years after he sold the Quiz, he had the satisfaction of seeing liquor outlawed.

Another example of the power of the press, but of a controlled press is in dictator nations, where the papers are permitted to print only what is approved by the party in control. While it is impossible to know just what the people in these countries are thinking, it is evident that years of a controlled press will bring them to think as the government thinks.

A free press is one of the greatest bulwarks of democracy, and any attempt to curtail this freedom is a direct attack at the privileges granted us by the constitution. The free press is nothing more than free speech in print, and it stands to reason that whatever is done to curtail the freedom of the press must apply to free speech as well.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

It is just a little bit laughable when you stop to think that a few years ago some Valley county people were having a heck of a time because, as some said, we were saddled with a county agent sent out by the state and the government to tell us what to do and how to farm, etc., and it took several hard fights to keep the county agent from being voted out. Well, the county agent is still on the job and in addition there is C. C. Davis, county supervisor, Joe Ramaker, assistant supervisor and Miss Redfern, home economics supervisor, yes, and at least fifteen others if one was to check all the offices, vaults, etc., in the courthouse, and we have got so we like it, at least we don't hear any squawks like we used to hear about Carl Dale when he was driving over the county day and night almost, trying to reach all the farmers who wanted his services and advice. Had you stopped to think about it?

I told in this column recently, a story about soy beans and have had many comments and inquiries as a result. I was visiting the other day with Charley Brickner and he laughingly said that he thought soy beans were the best grasshopper feed on earth, and went on to say that he bought a hundred pounds of the seed last year and planted it, got a beautiful stand, had cultivated it twice just as he did his corn and was greatly pleased with the outlook for a crop. Then one day as he was near the field, he went over to inspect his beans and was surprised to find that the hoppers had eaten it up, not even leaving a stub of a stem. But he says he is going to try it again this year with several times as much seed, and hopes the hoppers will be less numerous. He says his inquiries convince him that it is going to be a great crop for this country. I would appreciate it if someone or several who have raised soy beans would report for this newspaper their experiences.

Out in Maullia, 1,300 sugar workers have gone on strike for higher wages. They are now getting 50c a day and want an increase of 20% or 60c a day. Their employers say an increase is impossible under present prices of sugar. Sugar is shipped via water at a very low rate and sells here in competition with beet sugar. Workers who produce beet sugar get several times as much in wages. Can anyone explain why higher wages cannot be paid over there?

Every week comes a large release of mats and stories from the Golden Gate International Exposition management. The one just received contained a full page of pictures and enough stories to fill another page. It costs a lot of money to produce that material and high power writers are paid for preparing it; the people who furnish the material for the mats and the paper for the printed copy are paid for their work; the factory which manufactures the mats gets paid for the work, but the country newspaper man from Maine to California, and from Minnesota to Texas is supposed to be glad and anxious to run the stuff free. The money spent for each batch of such material would buy and pay for quite a nice little story in each paper but as it is now handled it mostly goes into the waste paper basket. And the offender mentioned at the beginning of this paragraph is only one of hundreds who are trying to graft free publicity all the time. They would soon quit it if all the newspapers would do as the Quiz does, throw it into the waste basket.

The Grand Island Daily Independent printed our entire story from last week about the electric light and power situation in Ord, giving this paper full credit, but there are papers that lift stories word for word and forget to give credit. We figure that they don't know what newspaper courtesy is in such matters.

We always appreciate the courtesy of a phone call if there is a really important news picture that we should have. We will always go and get it if it is all possible for our photographer to get away when the phone call comes in.

Few days pass that I don't hear someone deplore the high taxes but I almost never hear anyone suggest the right remedy. Really there is only one remedy and that is to spend less for everything. That might not be true if the consumer didn't have to pay all the tax anyhow, but he does. I heard a small farmer the other day advocating the proposed income tax. A bill has been introduced into the legislature or will be, to tax all incomes. I am of the opinion that such a tax would be the best possible tax if it wouldn't be just another tax, just another means of getting more money to spend and all other taxes will remain just as they were before. At least that is the history in several adjoining and surrounding states where such an income tax law has been put into effect. It has added another arm of employees and has put that much more tax burden on those still able to pay taxes. If people would just stop and think, they would realize that the grocer, the publisher, the clothier, the barber, everyone, has no way of paying taxes except to get the money by adding the tax to the goods sold or the service rendered. If another tax is added it will have to be added to the price of goods and finally paid by the consumer of the goods or the service. If a proposal is made to cut down somewhat on the building of roads; to lop off a teacher of some least important subject in school; to get along with the parks we have; to dispense with a deputy somewhere so a saving in cost of government expense can be made, a hue and cry goes up and those who have the matter in hand are scared off and the saving is not made. That is the reason we are going to go on having more and higher taxes. We can't have less taxes and go on increasing our spending. We can't have less taxes by doing away with some of the things that cost tax money. And to make much of a cut in taxes we will have to do away with a lot of the things that now cost tax money.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD. Last week it looked as though the nazis had opened an attack on Jews in Ord. Wednesday evening people viewing Jeweler Muncy's sign from the east were amazed and amused to note that the first three letters in the neon sign had ceased to function. In other words some one had knocked Jew out of Jeweler. A stray snowball had done the damage.

Tooke Harris is using his spare time working on a new and worth while idea. He is making sewing cabinets for the ladies out of old victrola cabinets. He makes two drawers out of the record compartment and four smaller drawers out of the space above. He converts the space above into a tray for various small articles. This is making something worth while out of an article that has become so much junk in most homes.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

Really Did Make Good. The people of Scotia were highly honored and delighted, Monday of last week, by having a visit of a celebrity, Frank Phillips, a multi-millionaire, banker and chairman of the board of directors of the Phillips Petroleum Co., commonly known as Phillips 66. The purpose of the visit was principally to see the place of his birth, which was Greeley county in those early days of 1873.

After surveying the Vorhees farm and locating the spot where the little dugout sat on that eventful day long ago, Mr. Phillips was taken back to town and given a banquet in the school house. This was ably prepared by Miss Schlichtman and her domestic science classes.

All sorts of stories are told of this man's income, but is far in excess of any of our poor people's imagination. It has been told with a good deal of credence that his income is $40,000.00 a day, and a fourth of it must be paid for income taxes. He left Greeley county when a year old, living in Iowa, later moving to Oklahoma where he got into the oil and banking business. He not only owns extensive oil properties, but banks in many states. He has 40,000 employees, his daily pay roll running over a half million dollars.

He rides in his own private airplane, but in spite of his immense wealth, everyone who met him said he was as friendly and unpretentious as if his lifetime had been spent on the farm south of Scotia in place of far fields. He enjoyed a great deal his visit to the Scotia school and gave the children a talk while there. He has little use for the state of affairs as they are being administered by our present government and his talk was largely along that line.

It was told that he was the first white child born in Greeley county. This is not true for a brother of Rolla Babcock (Walter) was born in Aug. 1872 (later dying) and Horace Davis was born in Sept. 1873, while Mr. Phillips was born in Nov. 1873. Nevertheless, Mr. Phillips was among the first and that is worth remembering. His father was the first judge and first assessor of Greeley county. This is the first time since leaving in 1874 that the younger Phillips has been back.

George McAnully, was one of the official greeters of the guest. Mr. McAnully's wife was a second cousin of Mr. Phillips. In his talk to the school children Mr. Phillips said he had found it more difficult to give his money away properly than it was to make it. He went from Scotia to Lincoln where he was a guest of the Commercial club there and while in that place he gave the state $50,000 to be used in character development for the youth of Nebraska, Mrs. Cochran being chairman of the committee to distribute the money.

Short Shavings. Frank Miller of Scotia won a new Chevrolet car by buying a ticket for a dollar in the lottery of the dance at O'Conner. Although they gave him a new car, it was a car with no accessories, and not the model that Frank wanted. So he traded in his old car and this just about paid for the extra equipment that he received. As a result, for a dollar and his old car he owns now a fine new "automobile."

People who remember Jerry Hill, second son of Rev. Hill of North Loup, will be interested to know that he is an expert archer. He lives in Boise, Ida., and from a clipping recently sent to his father, it was learned that Jerry won all the prizes and medals awarded in the Idaho state contest held in that city. Rev. Hill said also that at another time, Jerry contested on a golf field against a champion golfer Jerry shooting arrows while the golfer hit golf balls, and Jerry won in that match too. In place of dropping the arrow in the hole, Jerry shot it through a ring on a stick.

It has come to a pretty pass when they will get into your yard, load up your cattle and drive away. This very thing is what happened to Edgar Stillman a few weeks ago. At least two of his small cattle and one belonging to Dell Barber that was visiting there disappeared one evening when Edgar had gone to a party, and nothing has been heard or seen of the cattle since.

There were car tracks about the yard the next morning, Edgar lives on the highway at a handy place and that is all Edgar knows except he knows for sure the cattle are gone. Earl Kriewald has purchased the Whiting farm in Springdale and plans to build a house and perhaps move there this spring. Claude Thomas and Chas. White spent a couple of hours auditing the books of the telephone company Monday afternoon. These men are really speedy when it comes to auditing.

It is said there are going to be his way home he usually angles from the south edge of the courtyard, and saves as many steps as possible the rest of the way home. If he averages four trips per day for 300 days in the year, and saves 100 feet or more each trip, he saves about 24 miles per year, or 240 miles for the ten years, which means that he has saved himself a long trip on foot in that time, besides the waste of time it involves.

Really Did Make Good. After panning everyone who is or has been trying to do anything and being able to offer no solution except to take off all tariff barriers, Stanley Maly at the Commercial club last week concluded his talk with the following story: Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Lindbergh, Mrs. Mussolini, and Wally Simpson Windsor sat down for a game of bridge. To start the game they decided to draw for the deal. Mrs. Lindbergh drew an ace, Mrs. Mussolini drew a deuce, Mrs. Wally Simpson drew a king. Then Mrs. Roosevelt taking her card drew the joker, but upon looking at it said something was wrong and she demanded a New Deal.

President urged to adopt strong course of action that its proponents believe would bring collapse of Fascist and Nazi regimes... Preparedness comes first in this plan, to be followed by a trade war on the totalitarian states... Would undersell these states in South American market.

WASHINGTON.—A very strong course of action is being urged on President Roosevelt with a view to resisting the aggrandizements of Germany and Italy, particularly in Latin America, though the course recommended would eventually, its backers believe, bring about a collapse of the Fascist and Nazi regimes, and remove their perpetual war scare in Europe.

The first essential step of the proposed program is for the United States to be ready to fight if necessary. To this part of the program the President has yielded considerably, as shown in his preparedness message to congress.

The next step not to be taken until after the United States is so strong that this next move would not provoke a war, would be to start what would amount to a trade war on the totalitarian states. This would mean the selling of American goods at a loss, when our own wage and labor conditions are considered, and it would involve permitting payment for these goods by taking the exports of the nations to the south of us.

One of the advocates of this plan illustrated the idea with Mexican oil. "I think," he said, "that the Mexican government has the right to take over foreign-owned oil wells. That is within their power. Of course they should pay us for the property so taken. But let's consider what is probably going to happen unless we do a little strong-arm work, so to speak. Mexico will have to sell that oil to Germany, Italy and Japan. It will take in payment for that oil the goods made by what, according to our labor conditions, is virtually slave labor.

Must Sell Goods Cheaper Than Totalitarian States. "Now we simply cannot afford to let that happen. It will mean a strengthening of Japan, Italy and Germany which we cannot contemplate with equanimity if we are hopeful for world peace. As a matter of fact, the progress of this sort of thing will eventually prevent us from either maintaining our standards of living or maintaining peace, no matter how much we may be willing to endure in order to preserve peace. There will come a time when it will be impossible.

"So we must buy that Mexican oil, and we must pay for it with goods sold as cheaply or more cheaply than Japan, Italy and Germany can deliver them. "We must do that every time any thing of the sort happens. Does any one believe that other big investments in Latin America will continue to be safe when every politician getting away with it? "But the important thing for us is to prevent that sort of thing, threatening our future by preventing the totalitarian states from taking advantage of it.

"We should have a thorough understanding with France and Great Britain, and the other democracies, and we should go after world trade with a big stick. To do that we must be armed sufficiently to prevent the possibility of trouble. We must subsidize exports to a slightly greater extent than Germany or Italy or Japan. And we must buy the products of these countries. "It will cost us a lot of money, but it will be cheap in the long run. And the cost will be offset to a surprising extent by the stepping up of production in this country, which will relieve unemployment.

Buy South American Goods But Don't Lend Them Money. Economists agree that the same thing for the United States to do, in the present anxiety to do something for South America economically, is not to lend them any more money, but to take more of their goods. If we would agree to take enough products from the South American countries, they would eagerly buy the goods we are so anxious to export.

More important, taking their goods would be a much firmer and surer step toward continued friendship and mutual esteem than lending them money, which will just spell more crises when the time for payment comes. "But it's the old tariff problem all over again. Louisiana and Florida, which produce cane sugar, and the nearly 20 states which grow sugar beets, do not want any concessions on Cuban sugar, although Cuba owes the United States tremendous sums and can pay of course only in goods. "What the domestic sugar producers are most worried about now is not the amount of sugar that may come in, because that is at present restricted by a quota. They are worried lest the new duty still remain on the books at some future time when the quota system may lapse.

Starvation of the army and navy, so far as new material is concerned began in the Hoover administration, when poor business cut tax returns and pinched the federal exchequer. This has gone on until, with little or no purchasing of new arms, new guns, new ammunition, and even new explosives, there developed a situation which high officials admit might easily have been tragic had some emergency arisen under which the army and navy would have had to fight.

The simplest illustration is that explosives deteriorate. This is true despite the occasional tragic accident when some old shell explodes, as when it is plowed into on a battlefield. But long range firing by big guns is a matter of infinite calculation. When naval or coast defense gunners are trying to hit a hostile ship 10 or more miles away, the quality of the explosives that propels the shell they fire is of tremendous importance.

Incidentally it is usually the explosive in a "dud" shell that hurts someone in an accident. This is not the explosive that propelled that shell. It is the charge that should have detonated when the shell hit its mark. This is also an important charge, of course, but when it comes to hitting the enemy in battle it is the propelling charge that is vital. A slight deterioration could make a difference of a half mile, more or less, in where the shell landed.

Supply of Explosives Is Allowed to Grow Stale. It would easily make the difference between winning or losing an important naval battle. Present-day naval strategy gives the victory to the first fleet to land a salvo on the target. That is the reason the superior optical instruments of the Germans in the World War made their other inferior fleet such a menace—which made the losses of the British so heavy at Jutland. Not only has the explosive supply of the United States army and navy been allowed to grow stale and risk its being inculcated for accurate firing in battle, but actually to this day there is not an adequate factory source for its supply.

Machinery is now in preparation for such a supply, and the fact that it is makes an extraordinary revelation of the desperate nature of the picture. About a year ago this machinery was ordered without the sanction of congress and without publicity, at a cost of $3,300,000. The orders were made possible by a private individual, who guaranteed the orders. In short he would have been obliged either to take over the machinery himself or to lose his money, if congress should not later legalize the operation.

But the amazing part of the whole story is that these needs were realized in 1933, and that certain army officers obtained enactment by congress, in the first $4,400,000 relief bill (which included NRA) for the mechanization and motorization of the army. But this effort was wasted. Not a cent of the huge relief fund was so spent.

There are those who think there would have been no Munch if it had been. Modification of Cuban Sugar Treaty Itales Stir. Maine potatoes seem a far cry from Cuban sugar, but not more remote than some of the ramifications which are combining to make trouble for the reciprocal trade agreement policy of Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Half a dozen senators are already clamoring for a full investigation of the proposed modification of the Cuban treaty, which would reduce the rate of duty on Cuban sugar, but not change the quota Cuba is now permitted to ship into the United States.

One of the most outspoken critics of the agreement is Rep. Ralph O. Brewster of Maine. Brewster says that of every $50,000,000 that Cuba gets or might get from the United States $49,000,000 goes to Wall Street! This attack by the sugar producing state congressmen, and others interested in knocking out various items in the reciprocal trade agreements, illustrates also the difficulty involved in any sane consideration of loans to Latin America, or for that matter any foreign loans.

The trouble is when the time comes to pay, either principal or interest. A foreign country can pay a debt, or interest on the debt, only in two ways. It can ship gold, or it can ship goods. We don't want the gold. We have a great deal more than we want now. We don't want the goods, or rather there are various elements in the country which don't want each particular type of goods, for the simple reason that this element wants to produce that type of goods itself, and enjoy the full advantage of the domestic market in the United States without foreign competition.

More important, taking their goods would be a much firmer and surer step toward continued friendship and mutual esteem than lending them money, which will just spell more crises when the time for payment comes. "But it's the old tariff problem all over again. Louisiana and Florida, which produce cane sugar, and the nearly 20 states which grow sugar beets, do not want any concessions on Cuban sugar, although Cuba owes the United States tremendous sums and can pay of course only in goods. "What the domestic sugar producers are most worried about now is not the amount of sugar that may come in, because that is at present restricted by a quota. They are worried lest the new duty still remain on the books at some future time when the quota system may lapse.

Dear Quiz: An enclosing the price of the Quiz for another year. I am always glad when the Quiz comes for I always liked Ord and the people that lived there. The weather here in Alberta has been just fine all winter. Had only one week of zero weather. The weather today is 30 above. Roads were good and open all winter for cars to travel, so everything is OK. A great winter for livestock for they run out all winter. Wishing you health and success. I am as ever, your friend, E. R. Valley Co. Men Express Opinions on Car Test Law

This week the Quiz is starting a new department which might be called a "man on the street" program. The idea is for the reporter to approach a number of people and ask their opinion on some subject of interest. This week the question asked was: "What do you think of the car testing law?" Here are some of the answers, together with candid photographs of the persons who expressed them.

FRED ZLOMKE. "They ought to screw the brakes down on the new cars, and let the old cars alone."

JOHN CONNER. "It's the high rate of speed that causes all the trouble. The Model Ts are all right."

JOHN KOLL. "I don't think very much of the law as it is. If they would make it convenient for a fellow to test his car, it would be all right."

IRA MASTERS. "In the cities they need their cars tested more than we do here, and we should not have to live under restrictions."

W. F. HALE. "The only thing we need here is good brakes and lights. The cars that have the accidents are the news cars and not the Model Ts."

ALFRED TRUE. "It don't seem to me necessary to have farmers' cars tested. It would make it hard on some of them, who couldn't drive their cars at all."

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Jensen and baby son visited at the Raymond Burrows home Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Marks and family spent Wednesday evening at Edgar Roe's.

Sunday was the occasion of Ellis Carson's 26th birthday and in his honor his mother, Mrs. Fern Carson, arranged a birthday dinner for him at the W. J. Hather home. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Carson, brother Vere and son Duane, and Mr. Hather. Unexpected guests were Mr. and Mrs. Guy Strong and sons Elmo and Jerry, who drove over from Callaway.

Twin Girls Honored.

The twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Zalina, who were one year old on Jan. 23, were honored that evening when a group of relatives and friends gathered for a party at the Zalina home. In the group were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zalina and Frankie, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Zalina, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Novotny, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Zalina, Stanley Seda and family, of Arnold, Mrs. Anna Parkos, Eleanor and Evelyn, and Thelma Nelson.

Women's Club.

The Women's Club of Ord held its last meeting at the home of Mrs. J. A. Kovanda, the subject for discussion being, "The Unfamiliar Meets". The leaders were Mrs. H. F. Brockman and Mrs. Horace Travis. Mrs. Brockman discussed the characteristics of the Unfamiliar legislature. Mrs. Travis talked on the bills that will be considered. A program committee, Mrs. Harold Taylor, Mrs. Ralph Misko and Mrs. L. D. Milliken, were elected. The next meeting will be Feb. 7, with Mrs. Milliken.

Young Peoples Day.

Sunday, Jan. 29 was National Young Peoples Day in the Presbyterian church. The services in the Ord Presbyterian church were conducted entirely by young people. Lyle Flagg was in charge of the services and he was assisted by David Milliken, Edwin Hitchman and Evelyn Ollis. Miss Marilyn Dale sang a vocal solo, "When I Behold the King." She was accompanied by Patricia Frazier on the violin and Mary Miller at the piano. The choir furnished special music for the occasion.

Club Activities.

Members of the Ord Business and Professional Women's club have been active the past week in meetings that occurred outside the town. Sunday Misses Viola Crouch, Clara McClatchey and Eunice Chase drove to Grand Island to attend a meeting of the state board which met there in an all day session. The morning meeting occurred at 9:30 a. m., a luncheon was had at noon, and another meeting at 1:30 p. m., all at the Yancey Hotel. Last Tuesday Miss Crouch, Miss Ruth Kernodle, Miss Aldean Swanson and Mrs. C. W. Weekes drove to Grand Island to attend a meeting of the Grand Island Business and Professional Women's club. The first vice-president of the national organization was there from Des Moines, Ia., and spoke at the meeting, which was held in the Y. W. C. A. building. The state president, Lois Van Valkenburg of Lincoln, will be in Ord Feb. 9, and the Ord ladies are looking forward to a meeting of special interest.

What Other Editors Are Saying

Are Protecting Themselves. The cities of Ord and Burwell are certainly having a sorry experience with federal bureaucratic control of power in Nebraska, to the extent that such control has gained a foothold. Several years ago when the North and Middle Loup Power and Irrigation districts were organized, they pledged themselves to contract for power from the Loup or Platte valley, or Tri-County districts. While construction of the irrigation system was in progress, Loup district power became available. The time had come to shut down their own municipal plants and contract for hydro power at a higher rate. To the latter—the higher rate—they objected. But—sign up, or no more money for irrigation was the answer. They signed under considerable informal protest.

ERICSON NEWS

Misses Kuska, Figart and Hanhart, high school teachers went to their respective homes over last week end. Miss Florence Cheney drove back from Aurora Saturday and is spending a few days looking after property interests of the family. The Swett family from Spalding is moving into the Cheney property at the east edge of town.

What Other Editors Are Saying

For about six months they tried to get along with the unfirm, unreliable, hydro power. But history repeated itself. What private companies—and elsewhere—had ascertained to their loss, was again proven. At Fullerton, the Iowa-Nebraska has a hydro plant which it doesn't use, but on which it is compelled to pay taxes. At Boelus the Central Power is trying to salvage as much as possible by dump power use. In other words Ord and Burwell found so many "failures" of service, some for hours, that finally they gave up in disgust. By unanimous vote of the authorities of both cities the irrigation district was notified that the cities were compelled to restore their municipal plants and for reasons of non-fulfillment, to cancel the contract until a new one could be entered into.

What Other Editors Are Saying

Negotiations are on for a new one. But, it appears, to be certain of power these must include the operation and maintenance of the municipal plants. As an alternative the two cities, in order to carry out their promise in good faith, may directly subsidize the Loup dist. to the extent of $500 per month for Ord and $250 for Burwell—a total of $750 per year. It's a costly experience. It is an experience which scores of cities are trying to guard themselves against by protective legislation, which the highly salaried groups of all the federal "Little TVA" set-up are vigorously fighting.

Mary Catherine Young has been helping at the central office some lately in the evenings. Another high school basketball game is billed for this Wednesday evening between Ericson and Bartlett high schools at the McGuire hall. The women's club met last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Peter Hansen. A number of friends held a birthday surprise last Thursday evening on John Hendricks. There was a coyote hunt last Sunday afternoon out in the Clear-creek precinct. Rev. and Mrs. Austin went to Bartlett Monday evening to the regular Monday evening meeting of the young people. But Rev. Austin was not able to speak out loud so Mrs. Austin gave them a very interesting address. After this the young people enjoyed a social evening. There were forty present.

BARKER NEWS

Kokes and Clement Attend Agriculture Board Meeting

Secretary E. L. Kokes and R. Claire Clement were members of the Valley county fair board who attended the meeting of the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture at Lincoln last week. Two meetings of this group were held at the Cornhusker Hotel in one of the smaller dining rooms, one on Tuesday afternoon, and the other Wednesday forenoon. The principal item of interest was the fight that was made this year to elect a new secretary of the state organization. Perry Reed of Henderson, has been secretary for a long time of years, and many were of the opinion that it was time to make a change. Ed Millie of Loretto was nominated in opposition to him, and the final vote showed that Reed had received 34 votes, while Millie received 32. Mr. Millie is already a member of the board of managers.

What Other Editors Are Saying

A number of changes were made in the big board, of which Clement and Harry Doran of Burwell are members. Andy Welch of Milford takes the place of Erle Smiley, deceased. M. Bozart takes the place of D. VanDecar, both being from Beatrice. Charles Graf of Bancroft resigned and Ervina E. Pont of Stanton was elected in his place. Lewis Hostert of Shelby replaces Charles Newman of Osceola. A. C. Styer was elected in place of R. Noyes.

What Other Editors Are Saying

Both Valley county men attended the meeting of county fair secretaries, which followed the board meeting, and, while a number of propositions of interest were discussed, not much of interest to this section was brought up. The Valley county men returned home convinced that the trip was well worth while.

Maly Scores Gov't Policies as Cause of Farmers Plight

While in general praising reciprocal trade treaties enacted by Secretary Cordell Hull, Mr. Maly condemned present importation of farm products and cited figures purporting to show the increase in import of farm products and decrease in their export under the New Deal.

Business in 1939 will be little better than in 1938 and not as good as in 1936 and 1937, Maly predicted, on the basis of a consensus of predictions made by four government economists "the more reliable one" he emphasized.

The Lincoln banker handled a highly controversial subject in a most skillful manner, and while many of his statements regarding the farm program are challenged by local men familiar with its workings, it is agreed that Mr. Maly's talk was an excellent one in general and provided food for much local thought and argument.

After the program, Chamber of Commerce members were hosts to their farmer-guests at a lunch, principle ingredients being doughnuts and coffee. More such meetings will be held in future, it is now planned.

Weather For January

January, 1939, was one of the mildest winter months this section has had for some years the lowest recorded reading being on Jan. 22, with 4 above. The highest was on New Year's day, when the reading was 60. The average high for the month was 41 degrees and the average low 22, making the general average 31 1/2 degrees, just a shade under freezing point.

There were 13 clear days, 10 partly cloudy and 8 cloudy. There was a trace of moisture Jan. 12, 1/2 inch of snow Jan. 14 another 1/2 inch Jan. 16 and 3/4 inches Jan. 21. The total moisture content of the snow for the month was 37 of an inch. The snow which fell Tuesday night is counted for February, Mr. Travis states.

The record for former Januaries is as follows:

Year	high	low	ave.
1936	54	-14	20
1931	66	0	33
1930	64	21	21

Molenaar, Fitts, Conduct Irrigation School In Ord

Tuesday, One Hundred Farmers Were Present

Through arrangements made by C. C. Dale, county agent, an irrigation school was held in the district court room in Ord Jan. 31, and was well attended. About one hundred farmers, most of them having land under irrigation were present for the morning and afternoon sessions.

The meetings were addressed by A. Molenaar, assistant agricultural engineer, and Walter Fitts, agronomist with the extension service. A demonstration was arranged in the morning showing just how moisture penetrates various types of soils, and how long it takes.

In the afternoon Mr. Molenaar spoke of various kinds of crops, and their roots, and said that sweet clover was one of the best soil improvement crops because of the number of roots and their general distribution. He spoke of three types of alkali to be found in soils, all of which are detrimental to crops when found in too great quantities.

He talked on the relative effect of manure and alfalfa in crop rotation of potatoes, oats and beets, and the difference in the yield with manure and without. He also had a chart showing the yield of crops when alfalfa was raised for three years in a 6 year rotation plan.

Mr. Fitts talked of sorghum as a forage crop, mentioned a number of types of sorghum that are especially fitted for our climatic and soil conditions and told of crops which raised as high as 150 bushels of seed per acre. All figures mentioned on crops were taken from the records compiled at the Scott's Bluff experiment station.

C. C. Dale spoke of the tests made with hybrid corn in Valley county last year, in which no less than 34 different kinds were given a try-out. Of these four kinds are certified in Nebraska at the present time. They are Nebr. 110, Iowa 939, Nebr. 252 and Nebr. 238.

Of these Nebr. 110 showed the best results under irrigation.

However, this kind is not thought to be suitable for planting on dry land. For this use the Iowa 939 is considered more drought resisting. The calculated yields of these varieties was Nebr. 110, 72 bushels; Iowa 939, 71 bushels; Nebr. 252, 55 bushels, and Nebr. 238, 49 bushels.

J. A. Kovania had his agriculture boys present for the meeting and they all took a great interest in the demonstrations. A great variety of questions were asked, both in regard to irrigation itself, and also in regard to the type of crops most suitable for this section. Those who attended felt that they were well repaid for their time.

Carl Dale Organized Nebraska's 1st Baby Beef Club; Has Trained 2 Teams of National Champs

Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Dale have a vivid recollection of their first night in Ord twenty years ago. They arrived here on Jan. 29, and stayed that night at the Hotel Ord. Shortly before midnight the fire alarm sounded, and they sat up for some time watching the biggest fire in Ord's history, when the Bailey building and Beranek drug store were completely destroyed. It was an experience they will never forget.

C. C. DALE.

Mr. Dale came here to succeed County Agent Roberts. He had returned from the war shortly before, and his first assignment was work in Dodge and Gage counties in January. The farm bureau has their choice of the man, and the extension service furnishes the men from which to choose, and the selection of Dale for Valley county, proved a happy choice.

When he came to Valley county, the office was located where the Protective Savings and Loan association is today. That was before the building of the county's new courthouse, and there was no room in the old one for the farm bureau. Mr. Roberts had been in charge several years and Dale took over the office Febr. 1st, twenty years ago today.

The first big job the office tackled was in the fall of 1919 and in 1920. At that time Valley county had a plentiful supply of alfalfa hay, and the farm bureau, with the cooperation of county agents residing in the grazing areas of Montana and North Dakota, arranged for the sale of 100 carloads of hay, the price being about $25.00 per ton, F. O. B. Ord.

The first baby beef club in Nebraska was started in Valley county in 1920. Seven baby beves from the county comprised the entire exhibit at the state fair that fall. Now hundreds of calves from every county in the state are exhibited each year. To have the credit of organizing the first club in the state is no small honor.

The first woman's project club was organized in 1923, and Mr. Dale recalls that the extension service sent in a woman who gave a lesson on millinery in the home. Fifteen women were present. At the present time there are 22 extension clubs in the county, with a total enrollment of 350.

He is proudest of the fact that two of his crop judging teams followed up winning first at the state fair by winning the national championship at the international stock show in Chicago. In 1933 these boys were chosen to represent Nebraska at the World's Grain show at Regina, Sask., Canada. They were classed there as intermediates and juniors, and the intermediate team was given the highest ranking outside of Canada.

The personnel of the 1930 team was: Bill Garnick, Harold Benn and Anthony Kokes; that of 1932, Charles Barnhart, Valerian Ciochon and Bud Brickner. The work at first was largely a matter of personal service, and a large number of cattle and hogs were vaccinated.

Now the work is largely with organizations and groups.

At present there is an enrollment of 300 4-H club members in Valley county. About 60 dairy calves and 40 baby beves are being developed by these members. The bureau is trying to work out a plan to finance 50 brood sows. The outlook for club work at the present time is the best that it ever has been. They are doing a great work in the rehabilitation of livestock.

The program the bureau is following and which it expects to follow is to increase the numbers of cattle and hogs. Cattle at present are only about half the normal amount prior to 1934, and hogs only about one fourth. Sorghums are being introduced to give an insurance of feed. Valley county is a natural livestock county, and the only hope of the farmers lies in the livestock field.

In normal crop years this is a county of cheap feed. If and when there is a surplus, the transportation cost is great, which makes feed cheaper here. With cheaper feed the county should produce the feed and marketable livestock cheaper than can the competing states east of us.

The raising of hybrid corn is one of the important developments of the farm bureau, especially with the coming of irrigation. The first experiment was made in 1930, but on account of the drought nothing further was done until the past year. The agronomist at the state farm says that several varieties have been developed that yield well on dry land, and these will be tried out in 1939.

In 1938 a ten acre plot was used for experimental purposes on the Ed Timmerman place in Springdale. This was irrigated, and the results were highly satisfactory. An irrigated plot will also be used in 1939. The records of independent farmers over the state prove that the man who produces higher yields of corn per acre, who has better livestock and better dairy cattle is the one who is making a success of farming.

The individual farmer, through better methods and more efficient production is working himself out of his difficulties. Some better varieties of grain have been introduced by the farm bureau. These include the well known Spartan Barley. Kanred wheat was introduced many years ago and it did well for a time, as it was rust-proof. But a new type of rust developed, and ruined the wheat in time.

Mr. Dale is the oldest in point of service in one county of any agent in Nebraska except one. In conclusion he says he has had some disappointments, but that the satisfaction far outweighs the disappointments. That, though he came here a stranger, Valley county now seems like home. In spite of the difficulties of drought he still has a world of faith in Valley county and its people.

Spring-Planted Rye May Help Dairymen Avoid Weed Flavors

South Dakota State College is courageously taking cognizance of the fact that the presence of noxious weedy flavors, particularly pepper-grass, in the butter of that state has caused buyers to regard it with suspicion and, in some cases openly discriminate against it.

This is a tough situation for South Dakota creamerymen to face. It is not entirely fair that they should have to face it. For one thing, by no means all South Dakota butter contains weedy flavors and then only during the spring months, for the most part. For another, buyers are prone to be extremely critical and to score down off-flavors much more severely when the butter comes from South Dakota than when its origin is in some other state.

Nevertheless, there is a reason for all this suspicion and that reason is, of course, that too large a percentage of South Dakota's butter crop does contain peppergrass, French weed and wild onion flavor. Peppergrass, particularly, seems to be regarded as being a South Dakota shortcoming, although it is by no means a stranger to other states. But however unjustly buyers may discriminate against the Sunshine State, little is to be gained by grouching about it. South Dakota has a problem which it must face.

The solution is by no means an easy one. About the only cure is to keep cows off weedy pastures, and that means supplying them with some other kind of pasture during the spring months. Especially recommended is fall rye, because it will give the earliest pasture of any crop and enable farmers to keep cows off other pastures until the first of June. But rye also imparts a flavor to milk; however, it is not a particularly serious one and can be avoided by keeping the cows off the rye pastures several hours before they are milked.

Here, incidentally, is another evidence of this most neglected of all farm crops—pastures. It is the most valuable crop on the dairy farm but the one which gets the least attention. Fortunately, there are indications that farmers are being awakened to this fact, and there is hope that within another decade the pasture situation will have entirely changed.—Hoard's Dairyman.

(Note: While South Dakota is the state mentioned in the above, everything in the article applies to Nebraska as well. Spring-sown rye as pasture is a recommended practice and since pastures are bound to be weedy it is advisable for dairymen who have no fall rye to sow some this spring for early pasture.)

Corn Shelling Comes Back in Style

The above picture was taken at the V. J. Dobrovsky place at the south edge of Ord, where a crib of about 400 bushels of corn was being shelled Thursday morning. The sheller is the property of A. R. Brox, who has been at this work with this and a similar outfit for eight years. He made both outfits himself, mounting a sheller on the back of a truck and running it with the truck engine. The outfit shown is a John Deere cylinder sheller mounted on a Chevrolet truck. The corn is of fair quality, and was raised on the Dobrovsky place in Garfield county. In the picture are seen Mr. Dobrovsky and sons Joseph and Albin, Mr. Brox, George Wozniak, Lud Gross and son LaVern.—Quiz Photo.

TAYLOR NEWS

Mrs. Bohy Entertains Quality Quilters Club. Members of the Quality Quilters club were delightfully entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. H. C. Bohy at her lovely country home east of Taylor. The afternoon was pleasantly spent quilting for the hostess, after which draperies were drawn and guests were admitted into a room charmingly decorated to suggest a home in Old Mexico where they were served a delicious Mexican luncheon. A prettily decorated birthday cake was placed in front of the honored guest of the month, Mrs. Vera Kraus, and also a box containing a gift from her "secret sister," Mrs. Chris Brockman, all of this being a great surprise to Mrs. Kraus. In addition to those mentioned, guests included Madams J. W. Lewis, Robert Lewis, Everett Satterfield, Britton Peters, P. C. Bohy, E. J. Bohy and Ernest Bohy. The hostess was assisted by Miss Ardath Bohy. The town basketball team played North Loup there Monday night, Jan. 23. Taylor won 40 to 38. Rev. and Mrs. George of Scotia were guests Tuesday evening of their son and wife, Coach and Mrs. Walden George. Roland Britton injured the arch of a foot while playing basketball and had to walk on crutches for several days. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bunner and family who lived some time in Minnesota are back to this vicinity where they plan to make their home. The fifth and sixth grade girls and boys are now taking gym at the noon hour. The girls play one day under the supervision of Mrs. Ava George and the boys the next under the supervision of Coach Walden George. Pete Vanhouten who has been in Cram's hospital at Burwell for several days was able to return home Monday. He got his arm badly burned one day last week and suffered with blood poisoning. Mrs. Elmer Coleman, jr., spent Saturday night at the Ernie Sears home near Almeria.

The Junior Girls Sunday school class held a bake sale at the Cash store Saturday, Jan. 28. Mrs. Sam Garber is the teacher. The proceeds will go for Bibles and pins for the girls. Mrs. Carol Bohy and daughter Carolyn visited Mrs. Bohy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Garrison Hyde and family over the week end. Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Roblyer and son Dick motored to Lincoln Thursday, to visit Mrs. Roblyer's sister, Mrs. Jim Christian and family. They also visited another sister, Mrs. Henry Hyde and family in Grand Island. Keith Brown, who is attending Hastings college spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Brown. The Ladies Aid held their regular meeting Thursday afternoon, Jan. 26 at the home of Mrs. Chas. Wellington with Mrs. Cora Brown, co-hostess. Those present were eleven members and eleven children and the following visitors, Rev. Light of Burwell, Mrs. Martha Starke, Miss Leona Fleming, Mrs. Helen Smith, Mrs. Ed Lockyer, Mrs. Vera Bridges and Mrs. George Brock. The latter four joined the Aid. The afternoon was spent trying a comfort and picing on a quilt. At 4:30 a delicious lunch was served. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Frank Hubbard. Coach Walden George fell off a ladder and broke a bone in his wrist Tuesday and was unable to attend school Wednesday and Thursday forenoon. The Taylor Hot Shots played the junior high team. The Hot Shots played a very nice game but lost by a score of 17 to 7. The Taylor Wildcats met the Burwell squad on the home floor, Tuesday, Jan. 24. Burwell's DeLashmuit made most of Burwell's points. Doshier of Taylor was high point man for the Wildcats. Burwell won 26 to 7. Mr. and Mrs. Zack Walford of Ord called on Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Roblyer at the H. R. Brown home. Mrs. C. O. Fleming and daughter Leona were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Roblyer at Almeria Tuesday. North Loup's town team met the Taylor town team here Friday, Jan. 27. Taylor won by a score of 59 to 9.

Supt. and Mrs. John Ward had as guests Wednesday evening for supper, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Roblyer of Carlin, Nev., and Mr. and Mrs. Miles Ferguson.

Electric Dispute May Raise Water Cost To $4, Is Wingfield Warning

Receivership Seen If District Can't Meet Obligations

Project Belongs to People of Valley Now, They Must Support It, PWA Man Says.

K. Sewell Wingfield, chief PWA project engineer (Neb.) in Ord Tuesday for an official inspection of the North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation district, said he would report to Washington that he had made a detailed inspection of construction and had found every section was in excellent condition after the many months of testing and use.

Judging from this, he said the project showed every indication of performing excellently during the coming years. With the usual careful maintenance, as planned by the district, none other than routine repairs should be necessary.

Mr. Wingfield was accompanied on his trip over the district by President Roy W. Hudson, General Manager Charles R. Wareham, and also by Guy Lavery, attorney and secretary, Harry Doran, director, and Herman Grunke, director, all of the district; Douglas G. Wright, chief hydraulic engineer, in direct supervision for PWA of the North Loup project, and Joseph Cita, resident PWA engineer-inspector during construction.

Asked by President Hudson of the position PWA may take on the Ord-Burwell power difficulties and the possibility of obtaining operating funds should these difficulties continue, Wingfield said:

"I gave you the answer more than a year ago in a speech I delivered before an Ord mass meeting. The PWA is not interested in local differences. Since this project is completed, and it will soon be on an operating basis, the only interest PWA has is that it be successful and that the government's loan be repaid."

Hudson suggested that many people are saying now that the government has made it possible through loans and grants for the district to construct the project, it will not stand idly by and refuse additional assistance to keep the irrigation portion in operation.

"You may quote me as saying officially," said Wingfield, "that I have no indication that the federal government will furnish financial assistance to the district for the operation of the project after the docket is closed. The people of your valley erected this project, pledged themselves to its support; and now it is absolutely their own. In event the district is unable to operate and pay its obligations the project will undoubtedly be put into receivership, but consider what that means.

"In the first place, your farmers rightly hope to receive water at $2.50 per acre per year. This price depends upon administrative assistance from its power customers. But in receivership everything is under direction of the court and any receiver without power revenues will find himself obligated, in order to pay out the project, to call in all contracts and establish a rate which may be $3.00 or $3.50 and probably exceed $4.00 per acre and probably insist that this be paid in advance."

He was reminded that most farmers of the valley have suffered so many crop failures that they do not have the money to pay in advance.

"The valley residents must have known this all along," he answered. "While PWA is naturally anxious to see the district succeed, a bargain is a bargain, and I know of no funds available for operation. It is now absolutely up to the people of the valley. If the city officials of Ord and Burwell wish to take another attitude, I am indeed sorry and I am as sorry for the citizens of Ord and Burwell as I am for the farmers of the Valley. It has always impressed me as being strange that city folks, directly dependent upon farm trade for prosperity, should rhetorically, cut off their own noses.

"But as for additional federal aid to assist in a difference of this sort, the answer, in my opinion, will undoubtedly be, 'No'."

Temperature -13 This Morning; Cold May Not Last Long

Until Tuesday the weather for the year has been remarkable for its mildness, but Tuesday morning the radio reported a change coming. It struck at about 11 a. m. and from that time the temperature dropped until it reached a low at 7 a. m. today of 13 below zero. Twenty-four hours earlier the reading had been 23 above, making a change of 36 degrees in that time. All that was lacking for a first class blizzard was the snow. However it is predicted that the present cold wave will not last long.

Loup Valley Cage Tournament Next Big Event for Ord

Comstock, Danneberg, Ord and St. Paul Favored; Tourney Comes Febr. 14, 15, 16.

Next big athletic event for Ord is the annual Loup Valley basketball tournament, which will be held here on February 14, 15 and 16 with ten schools entered, and the fastest meet in history is predicted.

Cage teams of this conference are more evenly matched than ever before, said Coach H. F. Brockman of Ord Monday, and it will be no surprise if a "dark horse" cops the championship although Ord, St. Paul, Danneberg and Comstock are the favored teams.

Because of the fine record these four schools have they were seeded in the tournament, two in each bracket. By the luck of the draw Comstock and Ord are in the top bracket and Danneberg and St. Paul in the lower bracket.

The tournament will get under way at 2:00 p. m., Tuesday, Febr. 14, at which time North Loup and St. Paul play. At 3:00 comes the Comstock-Scotia battle and at 4:00 Loup City and Ord meet. That evening Danneberg and Arcadia meet at 7:00. Taylor meets the winner of the North Loup-St. Paul game at 8:00 and Burwell meets the winner of the Comstock-Scotia game at 9:00. Semi-final games are to be played Wednesday and the finals Thursday.

Admission prices will be held to popular levels, 25c and 15c for Tuesday and Wednesday games and 35c and 20c for the finals. All games are to be played in the Ord gymnasium.

This is the first time in several years that the Loup Valley tournament has been played in Ord. Attendance of several hundred people is expected daily.

Mrs. M. Michalek Dies at Hastings

Funeral rites are being held at 1:30 this afternoon at Frazier's chapel for Mrs. Martin Michalek, who died Sunday at Hastings where she had been cared for at the state hospital during a long illness. Rev. G. C. Roberson, pastor of the Ord Methodist church, conducted the services and interment was in Burwell cemetery.

Rose Bell was born Aug. 17, 1880 at Audubon, Ia., coming to Cherry county, Nebraska at the age of 8 with her parents and living there until 1897, when she accompanied them to Burwell. Two years later she was married to Wm. H. Tiff, of Burwell, and to them were born two children, John, of Burwell, and Mrs. Ben Morris, of Ord. In 1913 she was married to Martin Michalek, of Burwell.

Surviving, besides her children, are two sisters, Mrs. Mary Cronan, of Ralston, Neb., and Mrs. Fanny Hansen, of Ericson; and three brothers, Fred Bell, of Long Beach, Calif., Will Bell, of Cambridge, Ia., and George Bell, of Alliance. There also are seven grandchildren.

Frank Valasek to Sell

Frank Valasek is advertising a clean-up sale of his personal property to be held Wednesday, Febr. 15, on his farm in Springdale, and several of his neighbors are taking advantage of the opportunity to consign livestock and other property to the sale, making the offering a big one. Frank is moving to town and will be employed at the creamery. See the ad. elsewhere in this issue.

Ord Mayor Denies Shut-off of Power Hurting Irrigation

Cities Have Offered Proposal to Net District $9,600 a Year, Await Answer.

Denial that the action taken by Ord and Burwell to bring about a show-down on the electric situation will prove harmful to irrigation or be the cause of raising its cost to farmers was made this morning by M. B. Cummins, mayor of Ord, when informed of the statement made by K. Sewell Wingfield. "The Public Works Administration itself is at fault in this matter," Mayor Cummins said. "When they denied the North Loup district funds to build its own high-line, and instead practically forced the district to enter into a disadvantageous contract with Western Public Service company, they sowed the seeds of this whole trouble," he stated.

"Under the arrangement in effect from Aug. 1 until we went off the high-line on Jan. 18, the extra money we were paying for electricity—supposedly to help the district—was being paid to the Western Public Service company, and the North Loup district was actually having to dig into its own funds to carry the overhead, instead of making a big profit from selling energy to us.

"We have offered the district a proposition by which it will net $9,600 a year from selling power to Ord and Burwell, and that profit will be net to the district, too—not most of it going to some other district or to a privately owned company."

Mayor Cummins says he bases his estimate of $9,600 profit on the 4 mills proposition offered the district by Ord and Burwell a few weeks ago, and on consumption of 200,000 kilowatt hours monthly by the two cities. As population increases, the district will make still more profit, he contends.

The district's power committee has summoned the Ord-Burwell power committee to a meeting this evening, Mayor Cummins states. "Maybe we'll get this trouble partly ironed out tonight," the mayor said. "Anyway, we want farmers to know that Ord and Burwell now are, and always have been doing everything we can to help them get water at low cost."

Mrs. R. W. Coakley Takes Poison, Dies

Bought Strychnine at Broken Bow, Found Dead in the City Park There.

Arcadia—(Special)—Mrs. R. W. Coakley, 45, of this village was found dead Thursday in the city park at Broken Bow, apparently as a result of strychnine self-administration.

Earlier in the day she had been taken to Broken Bow by her husband and was planning to leave on a train for the west to visit a sister and other relatives. She purchased the poison at a drug store in Broken Bow, an investigation by Custer county officials disclosed, and then walked to the city park where she took the strychnine and thus ended her own life. On two or three previous occasions Mrs. Coakley had made suicide attempts, it is claimed. She has been in ill health and suffered intensely from headaches at times.

Mrs. Margaret Applegarth was born at Springfield, Mo., on May 7, 1894 and her girlhood was spent near that place. When she was 12 years old her mother died and for many years she helped her father make a home for her five younger brothers and sisters.

Adopted by the Burt Pinkins family, of near Broken Bow, she spent three years with her foster parents, then found employment until she was 18, at which time she was married to Elmer J. Leudtke, and they lived on a farm near Arcadia until Mr. Leudtke's death during the first influenza epidemic. Four children were born to them, all of whom are living.

After her husband's death, Mrs. Leudtke moved to Arcadia but less than a year later moved back to the farm where for seven years she cared for her family alone. Then came her marriage to R. W. Coakley and two children were born to them.

Left to mourn, besides her husband, are five daughters, Beulah Mae Leudtke, Blanch Irene (Leudtke) Coakley, Mrs. Cloe Sawyer, Mildred Myrtle Leudtke, and Alta Arlene Coakley; also three sons, Alvin Leudtke, LeRoy Coakley and Dale L. Coakley.

Wheatcraft House In Flames, Girl Rescued

Davis Creek—(Special)—About 7:00 a. m. Thursday just as Mr. and Mrs. Will Wheatcraft were finishing their morning chores they noticed their house was on fire and that flames were shooting from the roof near an upstairs room in which their little niece, Betty Stichter, was asleep. They rushed into the house and carried the little girl to safety, then went to the telephone and summoned help. In a very short time neighbors were coming from every direction and soon furniture in the lower rooms was carried into the yard. Water was carried and put on the flames and soon the men had the fire under control. A hole about eight feet square in the room was burned. The Wheatcrafts greatly appreciate the timely assistance of neighbors, which made possible saving their home.

Farmers Will Hold Smoker Thursday, Invite Business Men

Ed Catterson to Explain the Farm Program and Lunch Will Be Served to All.

Business and professional men of Ord are invited by farmers of the county to attend a smoker at the K. of P. club rooms on Thursday, Febr. 9, at 8:00 p. m., at which the principal speaker will be E. B. Catterson, a farmer and rancher of Ainsworth who is at present employed as district extension agent by the Agricultural Extension Service of the Nebraska college of agriculture.

The background, aims and objects of the farm program will be Mr. Catterson's topic and purpose of the meeting is to try to bring to the business men a better understanding of what farmers are trying to accomplish through the present federal program. They believe the problem is economic rather than political and that it should be treated as such.

Charles Veleba, chairman of the soil conservation program in Valley county, points out that the present program is the result of recommendations of organized farmers, speaking through their organizations, and did not originate as a brainstorm of some political theorist. Farmers, says Mr. Veleba, believe their problem should be considered and studied from an economic standpoint free from partisan politics and that since in this section of the country agriculture and business must go hand in hand if both are to prosper, every effort should be made to have the two work together rather than to be pulling in opposite directions.

A lunch will be served after Mr. Catterson's speech and the committee cordially invites all Ord business men and farmers of this community to attend the meeting. Chamber of Commerce members are especially invited to attend.

Misko-Lee Recount To Decide Election Contest Under Way

County Judge Orders Count to Start 9:00 A. M. Today, Will Hurry It Through.

At 2:15, as the Quiz goes to press, the recount of Arcadia township was completed and gave Lee 329 votes and Misko 121, with 1 vote objected to but not yet ruled on by Judge Andersen. The official vote after canvassing on Nov. 11 gave Lee 392, Misko 121.

The long-awaited recount of votes cast for county attorney in the general election Nov. 8th began in county court this morning, and at 1:00 p. m. about one-half of Arcadia township had been completed, Judge John L. Andersen said.

Edward Zikmund and Tom Springer were appointed by Judge Andersen to count the ballots. Watching the recount are the contestants, Alvin B. Lee and John P. Misko. Each has an attorney to assist him. Lee being represented by his brother, Miles Lee of Broken Bow, and Misko by a friend, John Sheldahl, of Lincoln. Admissibility of certain ballots may be contested by any of these men, when irregularities are apparent.

Starting of the recount got under way at 11:00 a. m., after a preliminary skirmish in which County Attorney Lee objected to the Arcadia ballots being recounted on the grounds it was possible they could have been tampered with after they were delivered to the county clerk. A. E. Hayward, of Arcadia, was put on the witness stand and questioned and then Judge Andersen overruled Lee's objection, ordering the recount to start.

At the rate of progress being made at the start, it may take two or three days to complete the recount.

North Loup District Says Will Hold Ord, Burwell, to Electric Contract

Rotary Club Will Sponsor Pig Club, Buy 50 Bred Gilts

4-H or Voc. Ag Boys and Girls Eligible for Membership; Financing Completed.

A plan by which the Rotary club of Ord will finance purchase of 50 bred gilts and distribute them, one apiece, to boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 20, was decided upon Monday evening by Rotarians and applications for the bred gilts will be accepted at once by C. C. Dale, county agricultural agent and member of the Rotary committee having the matter in charge.

Boys or girls who live on farms where there are no pigs, or few pigs, at present, will be given preference, it was stated by Mr. Dale. The Rotary club's purpose is to aid in restocking Valley county with hogs, as well as helping worthy boys and girls get into the swine business.

Either 4-H club members or vocational agriculture students are eligible, it is stated. To receive a pig a boy or girl must be able to show that feed is available and that proper housing can be provided. Applicants are asked to state what breed of hogs they prefer, and gilts will be good grade although not necessarily purebred.

The Rotary club will underwrite the project financially and boys and girls who apply for and take gilts will be asked to give a mortgage on the gilt, payable Oct. 1, for 10 per cent more than cost price of the gilt, this extra 10 per cent to form an "insurance fund" to take care of any losses incurred at farrowing time. At completion of the program, any money remaining in this "insurance fund" will be pro-rated among the boys who take gilts. Parents or guardians will be asked to sign the mortgage along with the boy.

The 50 young people who take gilts will join 4-H pig clubs and a feature of the plan will be a 4-H club swine show held in connection with the Valley county fair next August, or separately if no fair is held.

Since gilts bred to farrow not later than April 1 are being purchased, it is thought that the program can easily be completed and be loans paid off by boys out of the increase by Oct. 1.

Member of the Rotary committee having this program in charge include E. L. Kokes, chairman, C. J. Dale, E. C. Leggett, F. P. O'Neal, Wm. Sack and C. J. Mortenson. Boys and girls interested may secure further information and apply for the gilts at Mr. Dale's office in the court house.

Marion Ciemny Killed at Mitchell CCC Camp

Burwell—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ciemny received word of the accidental death of their son, Marion Ciemny, at Scottsbluff Monday night at 10:05. He had been stationed in the Mitchell CCC camp and at the time of the accident was riding in a truck with other members of the camp. The body was brought to Burwell Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Tillie Barnes Suing for Divorce

Mrs. Tillie Barnes started suit for divorce from her husband, Chester Barnes, in district court Tuesday. She sets forth the fact that they were married March 12, 1917; that there are three minor children, Edgar, 20, Harold 18, and Earl, 16; that her reasons for the action are cruelty and neglect. She is asking alimony and maintenance for herself and support for her children. Mr. Barnes is believed to be in Rawlins, Wyo., at the present time.

Boy Scouts Seeking Fund for Nat'l Dues

The week of February 8th to the 14th is National Boy Scout Week. To the 25 boys in the Ord Boy Scout troop, this week presents a serious problem. It is not only National Boy Scout Week, but it is also the week that the annual dues of $80 are to be sent in to the national headquarters.

On Friday and Saturday of this week members of the Scout troop will call on all business men and ask donations of 60c or more. Previously, the Rotary club sponsored the troop but the boys feel that they would rather be sponsored by the entire community.

Scoutmaster Rex Jewett and his assistant, Wilmer Anderson, are asking that all the business men help support these boys. The boys have been working hard for advancements, and will continue to work.

Chanticleers Must Beat St. Paul to Tie in the Mid Six

To tie for the championship of the Mid-Six conference, Coach H. F. Brockman's basketball team must win from St. Paul in a game to be played on the Ord floor Friday evening. A loss will put the Chanticleers out of the running.

When the Ord team went to Broken Bow Tuesday they had a chance to "cop the title" by beating the Indians and then repeating Friday against St. Paul. Their loss to Broken Bow 31 to 29 in an overtime period destroyed their opportunity for a clear claim to the title, regardless of how Friday night's game comes out.

Ravenna, with 4 victories and 1 defeat, has finished its Mid-Six season and will be declared champion unless Ord ties with Ravenna by beating St. Paul here Friday night. Ord is the only team that has beaten Ravenna.

City Tractor Goes On Rampage, Hits Window of Garage

Covert Falls Off, Is Hurt, and Tractor Does $500 Damage in Unusual Accident.

Damage totalling several hundred dollars was done to the brick front, the plate glass window and merchandise displayed in the window of the Auble Garage, and Chief of Police L. H. Covert was painfully injured when the tractor used for maintenance of city streets went on a rampage early Monday morning.

The unusual accident happened about 8:30 a. m., when Covert drove the tractor to the garage to have its tank filled with gasoline. With a heavy road drag hitched on behind he first drove to the west pump, stopped the tractor engine, got off the seat and removed the cap from the gas tank.

About that time Elwin Auble came out of the garage and informed Covert that he would have to drive up to the east pump, as the west pump was out of order.

Mr. Covert cranked the tractor, got back on the seat and started to drive up to the east pump but at that instant the gas tank cap, which had been removed and was lying on the radiator hood, started to fall to the ground. Covert leaped forward to pick it up, his foot slipped off the clutch and the tractor climbed the curb and crashed into the plate glass window.

When the tractor struck the curb Covert was thrown off the seat and fell beneath the left rear wheel, which passed over his shoulder. His shirt was torn to ribbons and his face, head and shoulder badly bruised.

Elwin Auble took Covert to the Ord Hospital where an examination disclosed that no bones were broken. He then was taken to his own home.

The tractor rammed right through the brickwork below the plate glass window of the garage, breaking the glass and twisting the metal frame out of shape, and when its momentum finally stopped it was half in the garage and half protruding onto the sidewalk. Two sewing machines, a radio, an electric refrigerator and other merchandise in the window was considerably damaged.

It was stated at the city hall this morning that the city compensation insurance to protect the city should any of its employees be hurt, which will defray expense of Chief of Police Covert's injuries, and also liability insurance to cover injury to other persons, but that property damage is not covered. The city no doubt will be liable for damage to Mr. Auble's property.

Brennan Davis Addresses Cosmopolitans Monday

Brennan Davis of the forestry service, who is in charge of the shelter belt work for this area of Nebraska, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Ord Cosmopolitan club Monday evening. He explained in detail the origin and general plan of the shelter belt, told what has been accomplished in this line of work, and what the plans are for the future. Mr. Davis is a very pleasing speaker, with a thorough knowledge of this subject, and his address was highly appreciated.

Cities Held Liable for Damages, State District Directors

Resolution Passed Wednesday Is Reply to Cities' Action in Shutting Off Power.

The North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation district's reply to the action taken by Ord and Burwell in discontinuing purchase of electricity from the district was delivered Thursday, following a meeting of directors the previous evening, and took the form of a resolution in which it was stated that the district will hold Ord and Burwell to their contracts and make these municipalities responsible for any damages caused the district by their action.

A certified copy of the resolution was delivered Thursday to Mayor M. B. Cummins, of Ord, and C. W. Becker, chairman of the Burwell village board, by C. R. Wareham, general manager of the district, upon instructions of directors.

The district's resolution was discussed at some length Friday evening by the Ord councilmen at their regular February meeting but no answer to it was made.

"The next move is still up to the district," Mayor Cummins commented Monday. "We're still waiting for their acceptance or rejection of the proposition we made them."

Although the statement could not be confirmed, the Quiz was informed this week that the North Loup district is tentatively considering building its own transmission line from St. Paul to Olean so as to bring Platte Valley power here without making use of the Western Public Service company's line, which has caused most of the unsatisfactory service. Such a line would cost $50,000 to $60,000.

A Rural Electrification project in Howard county already has in operation a transmission line running from St. Paul to the Platte Valley's sub-station at Grand Island and arrangements could be made, the Quiz's informant says, for use of this line to bring Platte Valley power from Grand Island to the proposed North Loup district high line.

With a hook-up like that we could put hydro-power on the board at a price Ord and Burwell couldn't touch," said the man who told the Quiz about this proposal. Another usually reliable informant, who also would not permit his name to be used, states that the district has under consideration

Nels C. Christensen Passes In Oregon

At Salem, Ore., on Febr. 1 occurred the death of a prominent and highly respected Ord man, Nels C. Christensen, who went to Oregon early in October with intention of spending the winter with his son, Rhyline. Mr. Christensen was 51 years of age and in late years his health had not been the best. Complications incident to old age caused his death, it is thought, though it was at first believed that pneumonia was responsible.

For a great many years Mr. Christensen lived on a farm in the Haskell Creek neighborhood and later lived in Ord. He is mourned by ten children.

The body is being brought to Ord for burial and funeral services will be held at 2:00 p. m. Thursday at the Frazier chapel, followed by interment in Ord cemetery.

W. J. Newton, Former Ord Man Passes Away

W. J. Newton, for many years manager of an Ord elevator, passed away at his home at Goehner, Neb. Thursday and was buried at Seward Saturday. From Ord he was transferred to Polk about 1890, from there to Tamora and then to Goehner. He suffered for some time with heart trouble, and his son Robert looked after the elevator in recent months.

The Newton family lived in Ord for nearly a quarter of a century, and were very well known here, the children attending school and a part of them graduating here. Mr. Newton was a member of the Ord volunteer fire department and a member of the band.

Left to mourn his passing besides his widow are five sons, Robert, Edgar, Arthur, Delvin and Donald; five daughters, Mrs. Don Winship, Mrs. Orif Moomy, Edna Mae, who is also married, and Betty and Garlah Leah, who are at home.

EQUALITY OF LAW.

Under the caption of "Radio Comedian Finds Breaking Law is Costly," a United Press dispatch tells of the fating of George Burns...

The first fact brought out in the article was that Burns draws $11,000 per week salary. His weekly salary is twenty times as much as the average teacher's salary per year in Nebraska.

Burns was found guilty on his own admission of buying $4,835 worth of smuggled rings and bracelets from Albert N. Chaperau, confessed professional smuggler...

It is this habit, no doubt, that gave him the reputation of being able to forecast the weather. Just why this superstition should have spread to a part of the country where there are no woodchucks is not clear.

People who now live in Ord still swear by the groundhog theory, and in case we have a late spring, some of them will be reminding us later that we had plenty of sunshine on groundhog day.

Then, there is that age old joke of a suspended sentence. Actually it does not mean a thing. He does not have to bear the disgrace of spending a single hour behind the bars.

But how does the sentence he deserved compare with the one he actually drew? The maximum sentence under the law would have been imprisonment for 18 years and a fine of $42,000.

Smuggling is just another form of tax evasion. Whatever is not taken in import duties must be made up from general taxation.

Many an ordinary Valley county man has paid more than two weeks pay or spent time behind the bars for a minor infraction of the law.

If Burns had been a poor man, out of work and had stolen to keep his family from going hungry, he would have spent a month or two in jail for this history of such cases.

BEWARE EASY GOING. If you find the going too easy, beware. You are not getting anywhere. The only travel that is easy is down hill.

All this talk about shorter hours and higher wages is the bunk. No man ever rose to the heights in any line of endeavor by working short hours.

All about you are men of the east-going type, fine fellows, the salt of the earth. But you can rest assured that they will never get any higher in the world than they are today.

More to be pitted than blamed are that group of men who have held their own for a time, but are finding themselves baffled by circumstances over which they have no control.

For the old and even for the middle aged improvement is often impossible. But the young man who finds the going easy and sees that he is merely holding his own, should find himself before it is too late.

Were not I flayed by sudden flight, But they, while their companions sleep, Were tolling upward through the night.

GROUND HOG'S SHADOW. The woodchuck, correct name for ground hog, is a thickest mammal found in the northeastern part of the United States and Canada.

The woodchuck is one of the many animals that hibernate for a least a part of the winter. He does not actually go to sleep and get along without eating entirely, but he does hole up for the winter, and eats sparingly of the food that he has laid away for that period of time.

It is this habit, no doubt, that gave him the reputation of being able to forecast the weather. Just why this superstition should have spread to a part of the country where there are no woodchucks is not clear.

People who now live in Ord still swear by the groundhog theory, and in case we have a late spring, some of them will be reminding us later that we had plenty of sunshine on groundhog day.

There is a superstition about planting potatoes on Good Friday, but it is founded upon scientific fact. It is usually conceded that it is better to plant them in the waning of the moon, and a good Friday always follows the full moon, and is a good time of the year to plant them in most parts of the United States.

The superstition about black cats is almost as old as history itself. It may have started in ancient Egypt, where the cat was worshipped as a God.

The breaking of a mirror as a token of bad luck does not go back so far in history, as breakable mirrors are of comparatively modern origin. A mirror presents the image of a person, and image-breaking is considered as bad luck, so it would seem that in the past somebody substituted the shadow for the substance.

The greatest mystery of all, perhaps, is why the number seven is always considered lucky, and thirteen unlucky. It is claimed that the unlucky thirteen idea started from the Lord's Supper, but research has placed its origin much further back than that.

A. C. Tilley Honored. The Tuesday evening papers carried the story of the meeting of the Missouri Valley Conference of State Engineers held in Chicago, and the fact that A. C. Tilley, state engineer of Nebraska, was elected president of the organization for 1939.

Sickly Religion. A negro preacher asked Liza if Rastus had religion. She replied: "Rastus dun gets religion every time he gets de bellyache." -York Republican.

Too Much of This. I heard a broadcasting braggadocio, telling of the merits of "Scroggin's Kipped Kod Fish," a "one-man chorus," and heard a duet in a laughing obligato, at the opera Thursday night. -Clay Center Sun.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

It seems to me that this administration and all administrations in the future, would do well not to appoint "lame ducks" to high positions. Once the people by their ballots have repudiated a would-be or was, statesman, I believe it would be best for the appointing power to take that as a mandate to leave that statesman in private life and name some man who, at least, does not have the handicap of the opposition of more than half of the people.

I fear that some critics of the president are jumping the gun in making their criticisms. However, that may be, someone is in a bad hole due to the recent episode of the statements made by someone who quoted the president as saying the front lines of defense of America are in r'fance. Allegedly the statement was made at a secret meeting of an important government committee, not aware that the president bound the members of the committee to secrecy, or tried to do so.

In looking over a list of those who are in arrears to the Quiz, I am sure that a large majority of them could have paid us at any time. Some of them are among the best to do people of Valley county and they were continued because I knew that fact. I don't like to think, let alone say, that some of them are taking advantage of that fact.

I believe one of the important matters coming before the legislature this winter is the matter of an income tax in this state. Do we or do we not, want an income tax? If a large number of Valley county workers would express their opinions to Senator John F. Doyle by letter right away, he would be governed in his vote by their wishes.

The highest court in the United States, next to the supreme court, is the circuit court of appeals. A judge of that court, after serving for 23 years, has just been forced to resign. He was charged with having accepted "loans" of over four hundred thousand dollars from litigants in his court, most of which loans have not been repaid.

From D. E. Spindle of Grand Island I learned that oleo is largely a foreign product. Much of it is produced in Egypt, he claims, and then is shipped to the Philippines where it is stored for 30 days. After that length of time, the stuff is allowed to come into the U. S. duty free and as a result only a small tax is levied on it.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fisher returned Wednesday morning, Feb. 7, from California where they had been visiting for five weeks. In their haste to leave Mrs. Fisher forgot and left the window in the pantry open an inch and in the room sat a sack of potatoes that she had forgotten to place in the cellar. But nothing took harm. The potatoes had not been frozen during the absence.

Myra Thorngate Barber called me and said that a lady in purple gave a very fine talk on China in the Fortnightly club Wednesday. That was nice of Mrs. Barber, but I had heard the same talk before she had held the stop watch and looked at the yearn I was reading.

One year at an inter-county club meet, this same lady in purple was giving a talk and the presiding officer rang the bell when there were less than a hundred words yet to tell to conclude her talk. She had timed that talk too, at home, but it had run a minute over, and she was not too happy about it all.

When his temper boils, he lowers it by target practice with rifle or pistol. He frankly disagrees with many orthodox medical ideas. For instance, he thinks medical training entirely too lengthy. He also thinks doctors have brought threat on themselves by too high fees, too high hospital costs, and he does not hesitate to call his fellow practitioners stupid if he decides they are. Thus Dr. Hertzler sneers at the practice of tying a sterile towel at the rear belt of the operating surgeon, pointedly stating that never yet has he sat on a patient!

Don't you think this middle western, this commonsensical, practical, honest Kansas doctor would make a good president? As honestly as Lincoln, he is built like him, looks like him. He does not look nor act like a statesman. But maybe he doesn't need a statesman or a handsome man or a "career" background, we have just had those you know. Perhaps it is time for this second Lincoln to come from Kansas, and blow a lusty western breath into the stream-lined political situation.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

A Suggestion. On the Whiting place, east of Ord, near Sumter, is an old log house. It was built in 1873 or before, the logs having been cut north of Burwell, and has been in continual use almost ever since.

Earl Kriewald has recently bought the place and plans to build another and new house there. This log house sets now where the water runs during a rain and consequently is of little value as a building. I asked Earl what he plans to do with the old house. Earl is laboring under a little difficulty.

Here's a suggestion. As long as the historic sentiment in the county has gained such a high pitch in regard to other points of interest, why would it not be a good idea to take up another plan on a smaller scale—one that is within our possibilities of achievement? Why not the Old Timers' society, or the city of Ord, or some other worthy organization arrange to purchase this house, move it to the city park of Ord and fix it up for a museum? With proper foundation it would stand and last for another eighty-six years.

I'll give a dollar toward it any time. Oleo or Butter. In the World-Herald, in the column by Carlyle Hodgkin, last week he discussed the dairy situation, and it was all good enough except that he failed to mention the butter substitutes used and their effect on the butter market.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fisher returned Wednesday morning, Feb. 7, from California where they had been visiting for five weeks. In their haste to leave Mrs. Fisher forgot and left the window in the pantry open an inch and in the room sat a sack of potatoes that she had forgotten to place in the cellar. But nothing took harm. The potatoes had not been frozen during the absence.

Myra Thorngate Barber called me and said that a lady in purple gave a very fine talk on China in the Fortnightly club Wednesday. That was nice of Mrs. Barber, but I had heard the same talk before she had held the stop watch and looked at the yearn I was reading.

One year at an inter-county club meet, this same lady in purple was giving a talk and the presiding officer rang the bell when there were less than a hundred words yet to tell to conclude her talk. She had timed that talk too, at home, but it had run a minute over, and she was not too happy about it all.

When his temper boils, he lowers it by target practice with rifle or pistol. He frankly disagrees with many orthodox medical ideas. For instance, he thinks medical training entirely too lengthy. He also thinks doctors have brought threat on themselves by too high fees, too high hospital costs, and he does not hesitate to call his fellow practitioners stupid if he decides they are. Thus Dr. Hertzler sneers at the practice of tying a sterile towel at the rear belt of the operating surgeon, pointedly stating that never yet has he sat on a patient!

Don't you think this middle western, this commonsensical, practical, honest Kansas doctor would make a good president? As honestly as Lincoln, he is built like him, looks like him. He does not look nor act like a statesman. But maybe he doesn't need a statesman or a handsome man or a "career" background, we have just had those you know. Perhaps it is time for this second Lincoln to come from Kansas, and blow a lusty western breath into the stream-lined political situation.

A Suggestion

Oleo or Butter

ere, although they are reluctant to tell it for fear it will make their farmer trade mad, know well enough that many, many of their cream patrons take home oleo to eat on their table. This practice is even more prevalent among the patrons of the cheese factory and whole milk dairymen. These farmers do not have cream to churn and consequently buy butter and save the difference in the price and labor of churning.

But even many cream men eat oleo. One creamery man said he thought with some, it was resentment or retaliation, they feeling perhaps they were spiting the cream buyers or creameries because of the low price of butterfat. It is problematical what the effect on the market would be should the farmers use butter in place of substitutes, but it seems they should be willing to use their own products.

There is to be a bill introduced in the legislature to put a 15c tax on all butter substitutes. There are now petitions being circulated to be signed. In nineteen states there is a similar tax and Nebraska is one of the states that does not have a tax.

Just what effect on the price of butterfat this tax will make no one knows for sure, but creamery men claim that should such a tax be made, the price of butterfat would raise at least ten cents a pound. It needs to raise that much, and then it would be none too high to pay for the exercise involved in draining the cows and grinding the cream from the milk, to say nothing of the feed they eat. Surely the dairy situation is in a dolorous condition.

Poultry Feeding. A salesman for a feed mill was in the elevator the other day the same time I was and explained to me a system of feeding laying hens that, he says, has proven to be very successful in all instances where poultrymen have followed it properly.

He said in the coop there should be at least two feeders. One of these is filled with whole oats and the hens have free access to them at all times. He said it had been found that a laying hen needs the fiber in the oats as part of their diet for egg production.

He said that the other feeder should be filled with mash and the hens given free access to that at all times. Of course he was trying to sell his mash, but I assumed any good mash, even home mixed if the formula was proper, would be O. K.

At night a small feed of shelled corn is given the hens, feed enough so they will clean it up in about fifteen minutes. He said that if hens were given free access to corn they frequently ate too much, for hens are very fond of whole corn.

He said it was not necessary to wet the mash. Sometimes men wet it to get the hens started to eating a little sooner, but sometimes too, wet mash gave the hens bowel trouble.

All of this is simple enough so most any one could follow it. Short Shavings. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fisher returned Wednesday morning, Feb. 7, from California where they had been visiting for five weeks.

No chance for Joseph P. Kennedy to succeed Henry Morgenthau Jr., as secretary of the treasury... Mr. Kennedy, it seems, is all washed up... Big insurance companies next concern to be investigated... Vermont governor stirs up New Deal over flood control.

WASHINGTON.—Joseph P. Kennedy will not be secretary of the Treasury while Franklin D. Roosevelt is President. This will remain true whether Henry Morgenthau, Jr., retires or not. In the language of the ward politicians, Kennedy is washed up so far as this administration is concerned. Morgenthau is just as strong as at any time in the last few years. If he retires at all it will be of his own volition.

The driving force behind the move to get Morgenthau out of the treasury does not come from the White House. It comes from Henry Morgenthau Sr., father of the secretary. The elder Morgenthau thinks Henry has given enough of his time to the government. He is proud of his son.

Although the secretary of the treasury has never made any public statements which seemed to disapprove of any New Deal policies, always was extremely loyal to the President, and carried out the White House orders to the utmost of his ability, nevertheless he has stood out as one of the sound apples in the New Deal barrel. As one or two New Deal critics have put it, he has seemed to be a sane man entirely surrounded by crackpots.

In most of the battles waged inside the New Deal on spending, pump priming, relief, taxation and harassing of business, Morgenthau has always been on the conservative side fighting as long as there was a chance, but loyally obeying the decision, once F. D. R. made it.

On Side of Orthodoxy in Fights on Fiscal Affairs. Most important of all, the news of these encounters, these fights of Morgenthau on the side of orthodoxy in fiscal affairs—as for example budget balancing—never came from Morgenthau. It is very probable that Morgenthau's battles inside the New Deal would never have become known had it not been for his opponents in these battles, who fed the stories out to sympathetic newspaper men while they were still hot with indignation against Morgenthau's stubborn arguments in favor of the old-fashioned thrift theory of economics.

Incidentally, Morgenthau has been almost a lone wolf. Even some of those who agreed with his economics, for example Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, have not liked him overmuch.

But through it all Morgenthau has remained the close friend of the President. Mrs. Morgenthau has been the close friend of Mrs. Roosevelt, and of their loyalty and devotion there is no question whatever.

Mr. Kennedy, curiously enough, has not seemed to realize in what a whispering gallery he was living. This is strange, for he was obliged to listen to volumes of advice of the dangers of what he might say while the State department was giving him the college course in diplomacy to which it subjects all political appointees in the diplomatic service before permitting them to call for foreign capitals.

Kennedy, it is very reliably reported, has made some very pointed remarks about the New Deal to certain American friends. And these, with extraordinary promptness, have been repeated to F.D.R. by gentlemen who would be pleased to have Kennedy's foot slip.

Big Insurance Companies Soon to Be Investigated. Very shortly the monopoly investigating committee will turn its attention to the big insurance companies. Ever since there has been a New Deal there has been an eagerness on the part of the left wingers to get after these huge financial institutions.

The two things that will be gone into very thoroughly, according to the frank statements of those interested, will be the investment policy of the managements of these companies, and the loans that the companies make on policies. A bitter battle is expected here, for the insurance companies have a good deal of the pride of authorship or achievement, and they feel very strongly against liberalizing their policy loan system.

This last can be dismissed so briefly that it will be stated first. Insurance officials usually favor a 6 per cent interest rate on such loans. There are two major considerations. One is to make the loans easy to obtain. That is for the policy holder's benefit and to make the holding of policies an advantage. But the other is to make the interest rate high, so that the borrower will have an incentive to pay off the loan, thereby clearing his policy, and thus maintain the maximum of insurance protection, which of course is the main object of the policy and the main business of the company.

New Dealers do not like the high rate, because one of the objectives of New Deal economics is to put interest rates down. This policy has already hurt the insurance companies enormously. It has reduced the interest rate on bonds which formerly paid much greater sums into the insurance company treasuries. As a natural result, this has reduced very heavily the dividends paid to policy holders, or credited on their policies in the form of additional insurance.

Terrific Falling Off of Investment in Utilities. Not only has New Deal policy reduced the rate of interest on government bonds, but it has reduced the interest on the bonds of private corporations. This phase was "planned" that way. But another phase was not. Yet as a result of government competition with the electric industry there was a terrific falling off of new investment in the utilities, and as a result of S. E. C. restrictions and other New Deal activities, private corporations issued so few new bonds that it became a problem for the insurance companies, or for that matter any investors, to place their funds.

As a result, bonds already outstanding, which were known to be good, advanced in price, thus lowering the return on any new purchases that the insurance companies might make.

Alken Stirs Bitterness Inside New Deal Circles. There is more bitterness inside New Deal circles over the stand taken by Gov. George D. Aiken of Vermont on the flood control and power situation than is generally realized. The real tip-off of the feeling is revealed in the outburst on the floor of the house, just after Aiken took his stand, by Rep. John E. Rankin of Mississippi.

Rankin charged that Aiken was making a bid for the Republican presidential nomination, with the backing of the "new England power trust."

Rep. Charles A. Plumley of Vermont defended his governor's attitude, saying that it was a question of whether the federal government had a right to take state property without the state's consent.

Actually neither presented the whole picture, and the White House is not giving it either. Boiled down, New England has a serious flood problem. It is bigger than any one state. Headwaters in both New Hampshire and Vermont pour into rivers, particularly the Connecticut, which flood out territory in Massachusetts and Connecticut.

Hence there is plenty of reason for regarding this whole Connecticut valley as one problem, and a federal problem, rather than a problem for the individual states concerned. Actually there would be no dispute about this if it were not for the power angle.

Would Make Connecticut Valley Miniature T. V. A. But the New Deal would like to make a miniature TVA of the Connecticut valley. Whether it goes for or not, it is determined to control the power situation involved in any dam construction for the purpose of flood relief. The purposes of the administration are perfectly simple. It wants to handle that power. It wants to fix rates somewhat comparable to TVA rates.

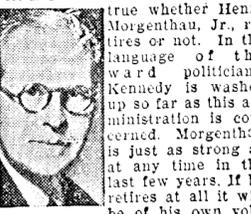

It is not surprising that the White House and public power advocates "do not understand this situation. On the surface it would seem as if most of the New England states, and particularly the Vermont consumers, would be a danger for cheaper electric rates as the people of the Tennessee valley towns. But for some reason there is very little evidence of this, despite the allegation that the electric rates in Vermont are much higher than those charged by the private companies in the Tennessee valley prior to TVA.

But an extraordinary states' rights feeling has developed in Vermont. They will do their own regulating, they seem to say. It may be recalled that a while back Governor Aiken was hailed in many quarters as a new type of Republican, a member of a progressive group which was going to lead the G. O. P. out of its reactionary morass. In fact he was frequently mentioned as a presidential possibility.

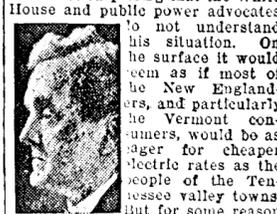

So the fact that he is attacking the New Deal on the electric power question, which is one of the very first among the many "progressive" issues, is very annoying to the White House, to Sen. George W. Norris, who himself was once regarded as the liberal White Hope of the Republican party, and to John Rankin, leader of the utility baiters in the house.

CAUGHT... ON THE RUN

A "Man-on-the-Street" Feature in which People You Know express their opinions about Issues of the Day. All Photos by the Quiz Camera.

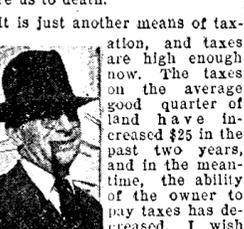

The question of the Quiz "man on the street" program Saturday was: "Are you in favor of a state income tax?" and a number of allied questions were asked to bring out various angles. Because of the fact that comparatively few people ever have paid any form of income tax, most of those approached had not made a study of the question.

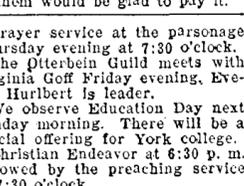

Henry Stara. "If it is used right, we ought to have an income tax, and these rich people ought to pay it. If I ever made a thousand dollars I would give it back. It has been a long time since I made a thousand dollars. I think the $2,000 limit is low enough. If we had more money, I would be glad to pay it."

J. F. Earnest. "It is just another means of taxation, and taxes are high enough now. The taxes on the average good quarter of land have increased $25 in the past two years, and in the meantime, the ability of the owner to pay taxes has decreased. I wish it were possible for every man to pay income tax, and I believe all of them would be glad to pay it."

E. S. Murray. "I am absolutely in favor of cutting down the limit from what it is now, as it is going to have to be done. From the federal point of view, I am in favor of taxing all tax free bonds and having senators and all government employees pay income tax. I think it is perfectly fair that they should pay. They get their money from the government, they should pay some of it back."

Thurlow Weed. "I always did think an income tax was all right above a certain amount. Where a man makes more than a mere living, he should pay it. As a farmer, if I could net a profit of $1,000 per year, I would be glad to pay income tax. Income tax is painless, it doesn't bunch up on you like other taxes."

MARY ANN BUYS THE TICKETS

It's nice to have extra money for amusements and special occasions and it is easy to have it, if you spend wisely when buying your foods. Mary Ann has learned that she saves more money when she watches what she pays for ALL of her foods instead of just comparing a few features.

(February 10 and 11, in Ord, Nebraska)

GET ACQUAINTED WITH OUR PIES IN NEXT TUESDAY'S "SPECIAL"

Quite a number of people are buying pies regularly at our bakery and say they are "just like mother used to make." Its cheaper to buy pies than to bake them, and although we realize that different people have different tastes in pies, we believe you will like ours. Anyway, next Tuesday's "Special" is a good chance to get acquainted. Here it is:

PIES, your choice of lemon, apple, banana, cherry or chocolate, reg. price... 25c
1 dozen TEA ROLLS, reg. price... 10c
1 COFFEE CAKE, reg. price... 15c
For Tuesday, Feb. 21 only, ALL FOR... 30c

Fifty cents worth of bakery-fresh goods for only 30c; where else can you get such food value?

Mrs. Ray Shutt nee, Alice Miller, at the Cran hospital was reported quite serious Saturday night following the birth of a boy Jan 25 and her husband and parents were called here. There was considerable anxiety over her Sunday but the latest reports are much better.

Rev. C. E. Austin was confined to the house most of last week with the flu.

The Sunday school class of Mrs. Myrtle Erickson had a very enjoyable party at the social rooms of the church last Friday night.

Three basketball teams went to O'Connor Monday night to meet in deadly combat. The second teams had a lively game resulting in a score of 7 to 1 in favor of O'Connor. The town team is reported to have given O'Connor a hard game. They had to play two overtime periods in order to decide the winner. The result was a score for O'Connor 16 to 14, just the luck of one basket. The high school teams played a good game too, but it seemed that the Ericson team could not come up to the O'Connor team. We have inquired as to the score and the boys seem to have a sudden spell of forgetfulness as to just what the score was and they even left their score book down there, but it is reported that the score was 30 to something in favor of O'Connor. Cheer up boys, that isn't as bad as it might be.

Those in the play cast of Mrs. Irving Wescott's Sunday school class met at Mrs. Wescott's for practice Friday evening with Miss Diana Reber as director.

Some of the neighbors of H. H. VanCleave came in and gave him a surprise last Friday evening in honor of his birthday.

Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Austin attended the monthly Loup Valley ministerial association at the parsonage of Rev. and Mrs. Adams in North Loup Monday. Rev. Adams is pastor of the Mira Valley Evangelical church. The ministers and their wives of most of the towns of all denominations, down as far as Cotesfield, were present. A male quartet from the Mira Valley church sang several times and Rev. Light of the Congregational church at Burwell gave a paper on social questions giving the background of the New Year, Is, Maytag strike. All enjoyed a very fine dinner together. The next meeting will be at Taylor.

The regular Saturday stock sale was well attended again last Saturday. The annual horse sale will take place here Febr. 18.

USED CLOTHING WANTED.

The local Red Cross chapter can use more contributions of second-hand clothing, shoes, cotton materials or bedding. All the contributions made during the drive in November have been or are being put to good use. The response at that time when the Boy Scouts and Junior Red Cross boys gathered these was splendid. The clothing was repaired or fitted to size needed and much of the contributions could be used as they came. Between 250 and 300 magazines were also contributed and put to use.

Anyone having clothing outgrown or unwanted and still serviceable is asked to call 371 or leave in a box with Mrs. John Misko. Good magazines or newspapers' magazine sections are also appreciated.

HOW ABOUT YOUR EYES

BUTTER IS A CONCENTRATED SOURCE OF VITAMIN A

"The cow performs a most important service in bringing vitamin A values from the bulky and fibrous plant tissues into the fat of her milk which is readily utilized as human food."

— Dr. Henry C. Sherman in Food and Health Macmillan Co., N. Y.

When the existence of vitamins was first discovered not even the discoverers knew what a vitamin was—like Columbus discovering America without having any idea of the size, shape, or even the location of this continent. However, in the years since then, a great deal has been learned about these "little things."

One of the important facts known about vitamin A (necessary for health at all ages and for growth of children) is that animals can eat green leaves and miraculously transform the carotene content of such vegetable foods into vitamin A. The cow's capacity for eating and digesting huge amounts of bulky food gives butterfat a vitamin A value higher per gram than that of any other food except green leaves themselves and liver.

Dr. Sherman has said that "any substitution of other fats for butterfat in foods is dubious economy so far as it tends to lower the vitamin A value of the dietary." This was shown dramatically, and tragically, in Denmark during the World War. This dairying country exported too much of its butterfat to other countries during that period and thus deprived a large part of the population of its usual source of vitamin A. The incidence of the eye disease, xerophthalmia, which is due to vitamin A deficiency increased steadily until 1918. At this time the German blockade prevented the export of butter. It therefore became available to the Danish people and the disease was suddenly checked.

Bud Shirley, 50 Years a Member of the Ord Fire Department, Reminisces About Early Year Events

Fifty years is a long time for any man to remain at one job and when it comes to fighting fires, half that length of time is too much for most of them. Twenty years ago on the night of Jan. 29, 1919, occurred Ord's most destructive fire. The chief who led the fight against that fire was A. J. (Bud) Shirley, who had already had his name on the roster of firemen more than 30 years, twenty of them as chief.

Bud Shirley first came to Ord with his father in 1883, in August, at the age of 20. He filed on a claim, the northwest quarter of section 19, township 19, range 14 west, two miles west of the park, where he now does most of his work. He was not old enough to hold the claim, so his uncle held it for him until he was old enough to file legally. He filled out the necessary requirements, made a dugout, and broke some prairie.

For a time he lived and worked with his father, J. P. Shirley. He worked for a time on the Union Pacific railroad when it was building into Ord. The men were told that they could quit work as soon as the road was built to the corporate limits of Ord, and celebrate. They hit the edge of town at what is now L street on July 4th, 1886, and everybody dropped their tools and hit for town. Bud says that was the wildest July 4th ever seen in Ord, and he should know.

As soon as the slide tracks were completed a large number of cars of lumber came in consigned to the Chicago Lumber company, which was located where the Weller yard now is. Bud and his father hauled lumber for the yard for a time, and then the manager, Harry Cox, hired him to run the yard, which he did for two years, but quit because he did not like to work for a man who was drinking all the time.

He began draying in the spring of 1888, and continued in that line of work continuously until he began to work at Bussell Park in 1919. As a drayman Bud helped to handle much of the material that went into dozens of Ord's business and residence places, as well as houses out in the country. A small line was the hauling of the mail from the depot, which he did as long as he kept in the dray business.

Bud and his brother were well known early day ball players, and he played ball over a period of twenty years or more. His last playing was done at the time Hoffmeister was pitching and when Frank Malloy was managing the team. The most interesting ball game was played against Loup City in that town at a July 4th celebration. Ord won the game and plenty of money, and that night there were plenty of free-for-all fights over it.

In his day Shirley was a famous blue rock shot, and could hold his own with the best of them. He traveled all around the country shooting against the best of them, and won most of his matches. The top of his career in this sport came when he went to Denver and shot in the Western Handicap, being high man over a field of 450 contestants from all over the west.

Bud was and still is, a good penman, and he was elected and appointed city clerk for a period of eight years. He also served as assessor of Ord and Ord township for a period of nine years. He assessed the entire town and all of Ord township, made out his own recapitulation and met with the board of equalization for several days, and drew but little more than is paid now for assessing a single ward.

He is the only active fireman left of the group who organized the original fire department on Febr. 4, 1888. Frank Glover is still living, but retired. He says the hottest fire Ord ever had was when the McCord Hotel burned at the northwest corner of the square in about 1889, he believes. There was little wind, but the heat was so great that siding and shingles raised in the air and were scattered clear into the hills south of town.

When Bud first hit town the only fire protection they had was a well at the northwest corner of the square and another at the southeast each of which had a double hand-pumped on which half a dozen men could pump at once. This was used until the water works was put in in 1887, and in a few months the first hose company was organized.

B. H. Alvord was the first man to carry mail up on a hand cart, or at times even carried it on his back. Bud took over the job in 1888, and the horses he drove soon learned the route and could go over it without any assistance from Bud. His best known horse, Duke, would go home from any part of town from which Bud might send him.

In closing, it might be well to say that Bud did not want to give this story, but did so reluctantly after much urging. Those who have known him long will realize that all of it is true and more, and that while he has been drawing pay from the city for more than fifty years, he never drew a dollar he did not earn. They are wishing for him that he may live many more years to continue his work for Ord.

Not the least of Bud's accomplishments is that of golfer. He has played golf practically ever since the first course was laid out, has had much to do with the laying out of the links, has kept the grounds in first class condition in his capacity of park superintendent. Bud does not always win his matches, but the fellow he plays against knows he has been in a contest. Today he shoots a better game than most people of fifty.

Mr. and Mrs. Emery Petersen of the Diner feel a deep interest in the unfortunate accident that took the life of 12 year old Donald Sidel of near Palmer, Neb., Friday morning, as they are well acquainted with the family and with Pete Leth, owner of the car which ran the boy down. The boy was riding his wheel to school and apparently lost control of it when the Leth car was about to pass him, swinging directly in front of the car.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kesler have received word from their son, Leo, of Craig, Colo., to the effect that he has been unable to work since the first of January due to some ailment similar to rheumatism that has the doctors puzzled. For the past two weeks he and Mrs. Kesler have been staying at Hot Sulphur Springs, and the treatments there seem to be helping him. He is in the employ of the Comet Motor company, and his job is waiting for him as soon as he is able to work.

Mrs. H. C. Koll says that she recently received a letter from their daughter Frieda, Mrs. Emil L. Anderson, of Craig, Neb., in which she states that they are getting back to normal with respect to stock, as they now have 118 head of cattle on the farm, 260 head of hogs, and a supply of corn to feed them out. It sounds like the days when such farms as this were the rule, and not exception, as they are today.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

In the interest of economy the Quiz is adopting a new policy as to discontinuing subscriptions. It has been our policy to continue sending the paper to those who have always treated us fairly for a considerable time without payment. Doing so necessitates sending numerous notices which costs much during the year. Hereafter no paper will be sent more than six months after it is out and if it is continued that long it will be automatically stopped. There are comparatively few on our list that are back that much or more and all such will be discontinued within 30 days from this date. The subscriber's name and date are on the paper each week so he may always know when his time is out and it is our belief that all can pay some when the paper is out or shortly after. We are going to great expense to make the Quiz the best weekly paper in all Nebraska and we must cut overhead expense where it is possible to do so. Look at your date right now and if you are in arrears and want the paper, send in some subscription money. If your paper is stopped you will miss at least one issue and perhaps two before it can be put back on the list. If you let it lapse, then ask us to send back copies we have to put stamps on them, which is an unnecessary expense. Please cooperate with us.

MEDICAL FACTS

Sponsored by 4-COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

On November 7, 1867, a baby girl was born in Warsaw, Poland. Her father's name was Sklodowska, and the baby was named Marie. The father was a teacher of science at a high school in Warsaw and the mother was the head of a girls' school. Under the guidance of these parents the little girl was started on the road to become a scientist.

Early in life she went to Paris to escape the Russian oppression in Poland. Here she continued her study in physical sciences and mathematics at the Sorbonne, the noted university in Paris. After graduation she began research work under professor Lippmann. Her researches were in the field of chemistry. During much of this time she had to support herself by ordinary labor and her life held but few, if any, of the ordinary pleasures or luxuries. In 1895 she married her instructor in physics, Dr. Pierre Curie, and together they carried on their researches in the School of Physics and Chemistry at the University of Paris.

In 1896, Henri Becquerel announced the discovery that a chemical substance called uranium, gave off radiations which would pass through a black paper and act on a photographic plate somewhat like light, and had other qualities much like the "X" ray which had then just recently been discovered by Professor Roentgen. Madame Marie Curie and her husband, Pierre, then took up the study of these rays and began to investigate other salts and metals to see which ones might be found to have this same quality. In July, 1898, the Curies announced the discovery of a new radioactive substance found in pitchblend. This was, later in the year, announced under the name of radium.

Together, Marie and her husband Pierre, went ahead with the study of radium, she in the purification and other chemical investigations and he in its physical qualities and actions. In 1906, Professor Pierre Curie was run down and killed by a truck. Madame Marie took his place as Professor of Physics at the University. She continued the studies they had begun together. In 1912 a new institution called the Radium Institute, was formed in Paris. Here Madame Curie had charge of the work on radium. Her older daughter worked with her. She continued her active work until a few weeks before her death.

Twice, during her life, Madame Curie received the Nobel prize; the first time, in 1903, with her husband and Henri Becquerel and the second, in 1911, alone. She set up the standard of radium activity now used internationally and was honored by having the unit of radiation named a "curie." Madame Curie had no interest in money or the light pleasures of life. All that came to her in a financial way, through her work, excepting what she needed for the necessities of life, she turned over to institutions for the study of radium. She died of severe anemia due to a life-long exposure to her radioactive substances, at the age of 66 years.

The dedication of this woman's life to the study of radium has given the world one of its most powerful weapons in the fight to control and cure cancer. Radium, surgery and x-ray constitute the only proven methods of treating this disease.

It's the Season for— Bologna & Wieners Nowhere will you find better, tastier, bologna and wieners than those manufactured in our plant. Into our bologna goes pure ground beef and spices—nothing else. We use no filler or meat substitute in our bologna. Tender pork and beef are ground together and spiced properly to form the stuffing for our wieners. The recipe used is one popular with Ord people for a half century. Other casing specialties produced by our market include Polish sausage, a beef-pork combination made tasty and rich with garlic and other spices; fresh liverwurst, a delicious liver sausage; bloodwurst, liked by many families; and of course our famous pure pork casing sausage, either fresh or smoked. Genuine Strain Being Placed Upon Administration Control of Senate

President's Appointments to Public Office Upsetting to Some Followers; Roper Virtually Forced Out as Secretary of Commerce to Make Room for Hopkins.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt's followers in the senate of the United States are finding it increasingly difficult these days to stay off of a hot seat. Indeed, if I read the signs rightly, they are getting rather restive and there is a genuine strain being placed upon the administration control in that body of congress.

The new developments have come and are continuing to come, from what some believe to be an unwise course on the President's part in the matter of nominations to public office—appointments that must have approval of the senate.

An editorial in the Quiz proposed the annexation of Canada to the United States, and gave a number of pertinent reasons for so doing. It was a topic much talked about at the time, but of course nothing came of it.

Henry D. Price, who had been employed by C. E. Paist in his One Horse Grocery, accepted a job as traveling salesman, leaving J. C. Wilson the only clerk in the store except the proprietor.

Rev. Ferguson had been conducting a series of revival meetings at the Vinton church and there had been fifteen conversions as a result of his efforts.

The Presbyterian church had been without a pastor for some time, and a Rev. Pearce was coming to try the job, and if satisfactory, to remain.

Jonathan Crow of St. Paul had rented the Jaques ranch (now the Bals ranch) and expected to move here soon. He had raised 12,000 bushels of corn the year before.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nay, Sr., gave a dinner to a large number of friends at their home on Elm Creek.

The supervisors met for the February meeting with the following present: J. A. Ollis, Jacob LeMaster, Peter Mortensen, B. H. Johnson, J. L. Coop, J. P. Braden, M. L. Pries, Wm. Butler and D. H. Rathbun. Ollis was elected chairman.

With a single exception, those names have all become famous in the records of the county. The bridge committee, headed by LeMaster, recommended the building of a bridge 313 feet long across the North Loup river at Elyria.

The salary of the county superintendent for 1939 was fixed at $500. The contract for furnishing supplies for the year was awarded to W. W. Haskell.

Dr. James of North Loup received the appointment as county physician. Out of a list of 75 names mentioned in the county board proceedings the following persons are the only ones still known to be alive after fifty years: C. W. Noll, Frank Glover, C. H. Leonard and M. E. Getter.

Vandenberg, the Michigan Republican, said he voted against the nomination because "the issues were the same as in Michigan's election last fall when Mr. Murphy was repudiated."

When it gets to cases like the Allred appointment, for Texas judge and the Roberts' appointment in Virginia, there simply is no explanation available—unless as I said, the "inner circle" is leading Mr. Roosevelt into a morass.

The proposition thus settles down to only one possible answer. Since the last election removed the rubber stamp from the hands of the New Dealers and the congress has shown a disposition to assert its independence of the unselected "inner circle," they are resorting to a new strategy.

The strategy may work. It may put into numerous governmental posts and judicial positions men who will continue to execute New Deal plans. That, of course, is a brilliant move if it works.

But all of these appointments now seem to have been only a build up to a climax. They were to be followed by an appointment that caught the senators in the ribs.

There is a very real possibility—although not conclusive—that the senate will reject the Amlele appointment. The pressure against him is quite unusual.

Whatever virtues Mr. Amlele may have his qualifications to be a member of the interstate commerce commission cannot be numbered in that list. He knows nothing about transportation; he is not an economist, and if his record as a member of the house of representatives here is a proper criterion, he is a lacking in judicial characteristics.

Shortly thereafter, Mr. Roosevelt named Floyd Roberts to a federal judgeship in Virginia. Now apparently, Mr. Roberts is about as well equipped to be a judge as I would be—if we are to believe the public statements of Senators Harry Byrd and Carter Glass, both Democrats and both acquainted with the life and record of Judge Roberts.

One never can tell what trades may be made within the great club known as the senate, but surely Mr. Amlele will be discussed fully before he is confirmed. And as I said above, he may not be approved at all. The appointment may be the straw that breaks the camel's back.

When Mr. Roosevelt began making appointments three or four months ago that were upsetting to some of his followers, they had to decide between their loyalty to him and their convictions. The bulk of them stood by him. He was the head of the Democratic party; party unity was, and is, essential, and they justified the votes in confirmation in various ways.

There has been a change in the philosophy of senators that cabinet job are intimate associations with the President. He is entitled, therefore, to have whom he desires to sit with him at the cabinet session and to advise him when he seeks advice. I think there was an inclination to accept Mr. Murphy, too, because it was known he wanted to crush the sit-down strikes at their inception and was confronted with White House refusal of support.

There has been other appointments mixed in here and there, some important, some just run-of-the-mine jobs, and they have not met unanimity. Even the selection of Professor Felix Frankfurter as a justice of the Supreme court of the United States did not arouse enthusiasm among the senators who voted approval of the nomination. I, personally, heard several senators remark that the Frank-

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Janssen drove to Hastings Sunday morning to see Mr. Janssen's mother, who is seriously ill. They returned Monday noon, with the report that she is still in a very grave condition.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

There is much local enthusiasm about winter oats—perhaps too much. Winter oats, which also goes by the name of Kanota or Fulghum, was outstanding in yield here last season. Will it continue to produce heavily over a period of years? Its past record would not indicate so.

Winter oats has given satisfactory results when planted extremely early in the spring. It is a bit more cold resistant than ordinary spring oats. But, if seeding is delayed, winter oats drops off in yield more rapidly than other varieties. Its average production over a 14 year period was slightly less than common Kherson in state tests.

While winter oats weighs out well, it is more apt to lodge than some kinds, and it is also susceptible to rust. Kanota yielded the lowest of seven varieties tried by the Nebraska station in various counties during 1937.

The nearest of these tests was in Howard county, near St. Paul, where the following results were obtained:

Variety	Bu. per Acre
Brunker	18.6
Burt 520	11.4
Burt 529	11.4
Kanota Winter Oats	4.7

The agronomists are suggesting Iogold as the best oats for this region. It has not done so well during the last few dry, hot seasons, being slightly late maturing. But Iogold is stiff strawed, very rust resistant, and has excelled Kherson by 7 percent over a 9-year period.

The agronomists are also recommending Spartan barley as one of the most promising for this section.

1,000 Passengers Since Aug. 1st Is Record of Ord Girl, Who Just Completed 4 Years Flying

... for Evelyn Sharp, a birthday cake!

Miss Evelyn Sharp, Ord's famous young aviatrix, celebrated her fourth anniversary of flying Saturday. Evelyn, who is 19 years old, took her first flying lesson on February 4, 1935, from Jack Jefford, who is now flying for Pan American Airways in Alaska.

Evelyn has the distinction of being the youngest licensed transport pilot in the United States. She received her transport license on May 11, 1938. Being eligible for a license is no easy matter. The pilot first must pass difficult flight tests, and much more difficult written tests. All Evelyn's tests were given by Harold Montee of Grand Island. The first she was required to have was an amateur license. She obtained this license on June 3, 1938 after taking a flight test. After this came the private license which she received on Nov. 9, 1938. On Nov. 9, 1937 this license had to be renewed.

Evelyn has had three other instructors besides Jack Jefford. They were Irv Erxleben, who now manages the Des Moines, Ia., airport; Stover Deats, manager of Arrasmith field at Grand Island, and Myron Larkin, instructor at the Lincoln Flying School.

During these four years she has to her credit 417 hours of flying. The first year she only flew twelve hours. This makes an average of 135 hours a year for the other three years. Before August 1, 1938 she had carried 700 passengers. Since then, she has carried over a thousand in her Curtiss Robin plane.

Although she has never had an accident in the air, she has made several forced landings. These were mostly due to rain, wind, and dust storms. One of the most interesting of these was just after she had received her new Taylor Cub. Evelyn, and her father, John Sharp, were returning to Ord from Omaha. There was a severe rain storm and they had to make a forced landing near Bradshaw. After a few hours the rain stopped, and they went on. However, the storm became so severe again that they had to make another landing near Aurora. They decided to spend the remainder of that night sleeping in the plane. Across the road was a cemetery and every time the lightning flashed, it gave the place a weird aspect. Every time the rain stopped, the mosquitoes began biting. Evelyn said that was the most restless night she has ever spent.

Evelyn's dog "Scottie", who is her constant companion, is an air-minded dog. His favorite sleeping place is in the plane. Whenever "Scottie" is refused permission to go in the plane with Evelyn, he grieves about it the whole day. Whenever Evelyn's plane flies over town, Scottie rushes outside and sits watching until it is completely out of sight.

Evelyn has flown 14 different types of planes. The Curtiss Robin which she now flies, weighs 2200 pounds and can carry three passengers. It has a top speed of 95 mph and cruises at 90 mph. The plane consumes nine gallons of gas an hour.

She has landed in 31 different towns. Last year she went on 23 barnstorming tours. She says that stunt flying is much more fascinating than safe flying. "But," she added, "if you once get started stunt flying, you can't stop. And then, you're very likely to get your neck broken."

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Brannon's baby is real sick with double pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Honeycutt and Gordon and Mike Honeycutt drove to O'Neill Saturday evening to visit the John Honeycutt family returning home Sunday evening.

Roy Horner of Scotia was a supper guest of Everett Wright's Friday evening.

—Walt Cummings of Independent township is having a serious time with his eyes, which have been giving him trouble for the past six weeks. He has been having them treated, and they are showing some improvement at this time.

—Bud Clark is the new clerk in Larsen's Grocery, taking the place of Everett Lashmett, who is now selling aluminum. Saturday W. W. Brown was helping in the grocery also, as Clark is new to the business and more help was needed.

—Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gnaster drove to Lincoln Friday to visit her father, J. F. Webster, who is in the Veterans' hospital there. They picked up Mrs. Art O'Neill at Ravenna, and Miss Cathryn Webster in Grand Island, and took them along. The party returned home the same evening.

—George Jensen is keeping his left hand carefully bandaged at the present time and feeling thankful it is no worse. About ten days ago he got the back of the big finger too close to a buzz saw while cutting wood at home, and laid the back of the finger open. It is healing nicely and will soon be as good as ever.

—I. W. Eschliman's oldest brother, Frank, of Greeley, has been in the hospital at Grand Island for the past two weeks, and probably will have to remain as much longer. Mr. and Mrs. Eschliman drove to Greeley last Sunday to visit relatives and to find out how Frank was getting along.

A pre-nuptial shower was given at the home of Mrs. Charles Weddel Tuesday afternoon in honor of Miss Marjorie McMichael, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Win McMichael, who will become the bride of Bruce Petersen, son of Mrs. Ord Twombly, Febr. 25. In the large dining room, yellow crepe paper streamers hung from the chandelier to the table, lighted by four yellow candles with a large cake in the center, a miniature bride and groom forming a portion of the decoration. Beth Piney assisted at the piano by her mother, Mrs. Lowell Piney, sang "Umbrella Man." The smaller gifts were then presented to the bride-to-be in a large umbrella by Beth, fairy-like, in attraction. Assisting with the shower were Mrs. C. C. Weddel, Mrs. F. H. Christ, Mrs. H. D. Weddel, Mrs. Wesley Aufrecht, Mrs. Glen Deaver, Mrs. Arthur Aufrecht, Mrs. Lyle Lutz, Mrs. Otto Lueck. Home made ice cream with chocolate dip, white and yellow cake were served the guests, 35 in number. Miss McMichael received a lovely assortment of gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Claris Bellinger entertained four tables of friends at a pinocle party Thursday evening at their home. Mrs. Darr Evans received high score, Dean Whitman received low.

Gerald Murray, who went to Ft. Collins and entered as a college student, returned home Thursday. He expects to go to Kearney where he has previously taken college work.

Doris Cremeen is in Ord at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Festus Williams, helping with house work. Mrs. Williams, who has been ill, is improving in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Ross and family visited Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jensen.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartman and two children moved to Colorado Monday. Mr. Hartman and family have lived in Arcadia for more than a year, as he has been connected with the irrigation project.

Orvis Hill went to Palmer Thursday to visit his wife who is with her sister for a vacation. Mr. Hill will return Wednesday. His wife will visit other relatives before returning.

Local 430 Farmers Union met in the Congregational church parlor Friday for an oyster stew and covered dish dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Shires of Sargent were present. Mr. Shires is manager of the Farmers Union. Officers as follows were elected: Brady Masters, president; Henry Cremeen, secretary-treasurer; George Greenland was elected as a delegate for Arcadia, Henry Cremeen as delegate for Sargent Oil Company, Mark Parker, delegate for Mason City, and all left Sunday for Omaha where they will attend a four-day Farmers Union convention.

Mrs. Glen Dockhorn entertained the Leo Park Friendship Aid on Thursday, Febr. 2, at her home for an all day meeting. The ladies' husbands were invited and a picnic dinner served at noon. The ladies tied comforters for the hostess. About 50 attended.

Postmaster and Mrs. Lloyd Bulger entertained Sunday evening at dinner Dr. and Mrs. Joe Baird, Mr. and Mrs. Claris Bellinger, Mr. and Mrs. George Hastings, jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bossen.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD.

It seems that the thief who broke into the Russell Pharmacy last week had an ulterior motive. In addition to the ten dollars and the morphine, a copy of the Ord Quiz is reported missing. He evidently broke in to get the Quiz, and the taking of the other items was incidental.

A friend asked Mr. Russell just what his ad on the front page of the Quiz last week cost him, and he said: "If you read the story you must agree that it cost me ten dollars. It wasn't advertising though. It was publicity, and there is a world of difference in the two words."

Saw a couple of men looking at the big grader that was parked last week east of the Anderson Motor company. The name Austin appears in big letters on both sides of it. One of them said: "I've seen Austins before, but that is the biggest one I ever saw in my life."

Walter Besch came up town Saturday morning and reported that he had seen a robin and a cardinal hopping about in the trees on the way up. His statement was corroborated by others during the day. Seeing these birds Febr. 4 is very unusual, but this time they have been with us all winter.

Everett White who sustained a broken back last June when he fell from a stack of alfalfa, has been able to be in Arcadia and walks on crutches by the aid of his wife John White, his father, and wife will move to the farm before long and Mr. and Mrs. Everett White expect to move in town in his father's house.

Mrs. Albert Strathdee, Mrs. Chas. Downing and Mr. and Mrs. John White were Thursday evening visitors at the D. O. Hawley home.

Mrs. Grant Cruikshank and Mrs. Edith Bossen were hostesses to the Congregational Aid Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Horatio Masters was hostess to the H. O. A. club this week, Wednesday, for an all day meeting. The ladies worked on quilt blocks for the hostess.

Mrs. Donald Murray entertained the Kill Kare Club at a 1:30 o'clock dessert luncheon Friday afternoon. Mrs. Barbour won high score, Mrs. Harry Kinsey, low.

Mrs. Lee Woodworth exhibited a lemon Saturday night which Albert Johnson brought from his fruit orchard in McAllen, Tex., which measured 17½x15¼ inches and weighed 2 pounds. Another of his lemons measured 17x19 inches and weighed 3½ pounds.

A Farmers Day meeting will be held in the Methodist church basement Thursday, Febr. 16 and everyone is cordially invited to attend. The program will open at 10:00 o'clock. Mary Ellen Brown, head of domestic science in extension project work, will entertain the ladies at the church while D. L. Gross will entertain the men at another meeting. At eleven o'clock M. L. Plack will discuss dairying. At the noon hour a covered dish dinner will be served to all present. Bread, butter and coffee will be furnished, so please bring some covered dish food to help with the dinner. This is all arranged by the Community club, who extend a hearty invitation. At 1:30 J. R. Redditt will talk on poultry and at 2:30 W. H. Brokaw will give a good spirit lecture.

Ord Cagesters Win Two from Burwell

Two Burwell basketball teams invaded Ord Friday evening and both went down to defeat, the Chanticleers defeating their Burwell opponents 23 to 19 and the Ord Junior High team walloping a similar team from Burwell 34 to 9.
 The first team game was a hard-fought encounter, Burwell getting the jump early in the game and leading throughout the first half. Paced by Anderson, a flashy forward, and Sizemore, a stalwart guard, the Burwell boys played a hard, clean game that kept the Chanticleers on their mettle throughout. Dahlin was the leading Ord scorer with 8 points.
 A number of comments were heard on the sportsmanship of the delegation of Burwell student rooters who accompanied their teams to Ord. These students cheered almost as often for the Ord team as for their own, were quick to applaud good playing on the part of Ord boys as well as on Burwell's part, and when the Ord band played Ord high school songs it was noticed that the Burwell young people knew the words and sang the song with the band, just as Ord students did. Such a spirit makes for friendlier athletic rivalry between the two schools and is bound to be reflected in friendlier relationship between Ord and Burwell in other ways.
 Friday night on the local floor the Chanticleers meet the St. Paul aggregation in what should be the season's best conference encounter. Both teams have aspirations for Mid-Six and Loup Valley honors. The box score of the Burwell-Ord game follows:

Robbery At North Loup Now Solved

Sheriff George Round received a letter from the United States marshal at Springfield, Ill., Thursday conveying the information that Dwight (Spike) Hill, who is confined in prison there, had confessed that he was the man who pulled the burglary of Knapp's Hardware at North Loup on Sept. 19, last. He was known to be the leader of the gang that robbed the Farmers Store there the morning of July 19, 1936.
 The records show that entrance was gained into the Farmers Store that morning through a rear window, and about $1,000 worth of merchandise, cash and checks loaded into an Omaha truck and hauled away. The safe was found later near Clarks, where it had been thrown out after being opened and rifled.
 The Omaha men, Frank Langhorst and Sam Biase, were later caught for the robbery and sentenced, the former to 2 years, the latter 3, in the Nebraska state penitentiary. They both implicated Hill as the head of the gang and the man who planned the robbery. In spite of a constant watch kept by officers no trace of Hill was found until recently.
 Last Sept. 19, $200 worth of merchandise was stolen from Knapp Bros. Hardware at North Loup. The loot included suitcases, flashlights, radios, shotguns, a rifle, several clocks and watches and some shotgun shells. Sheriff Round expressed the opinion that the robbery was pulled by some one who knew where to find what they wanted. It now appears he was right.
 About the first of this year Dwight (Spike) Hill, alias Lloyd DeLaine Wilson, was being held under $2,000 bond at Bloomington, Ill., on charges of burglary and car theft. When confronted with the

HYBRID CHICKS

Hybrid chicks are new in this section but in many places they are very popular. They make early broilers and come into egg production at a very early age.
 We would like to see several flocks tried out here at Ord and will give 25 lbs. of Noll's Y-O Starter with each 100 hybrid chicks we sell during February at regular prices. Come in and ask about Hybrid Chicks and get prices.

Noll's Y-O STARTER
 This year we have added Conkey's Y-O to our starting mash. This Y-O is a heavy carrier of vitamins and although expensive we do not expect to make any extra charge for our starting mash. Try it and you will be surprised at results.

Stockholders to Meet.
 Stockholders of the Farmers Grain & Supply company will hold their annual meeting at 2:00 p. m., Thursday at the Bohemian hall in Ord. The yearly report of Wm. Heuck, general manager, will show that the company had a highly successful year in 1938.

Sent to Ingleside.
 At a hearing Friday Joseph Kovarik, 18 year old son of John Kovarik, was adjudged insane, and was taken to Ingleside for treatment Saturday by Sheriff George Round. Joseph attended the Ord high school, graduating with the class of 1937. Just what is the cause of his mental condition is not known, but he has been brooding for some time. He was not violent, but it is hoped that treatment at the state hospital may prove beneficial.

Saturday Sale

AT THE SALE RING IN ORD
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 11
 SALE STARTS AT 1:00 O'CLOCK

We had an exceptionally good horse sale last Saturday under our new system, selling 14 head, at very fair prices. We probably have more buyers here at this market for your horses than any place that you could take them. And, we have made arrangements for buyers to be here, and we think we can give you a satisfactory market, during the horse sale season this spring.

The pig market was not quite as strong last week, but the cattle market was steady, on the better classes, but lower on the medium and cheaper grades. But, with a strong demand, for more stock than we can get.

In next Saturday's sale: It looks like 125 head of cattle and 1 black Aberdeen Angus bull 1 year old, extra good. 150 head of hogs. 16 horses, 7 of these are consigned by one man, and are a splendid offering. If you want to purchase some good work horses, be at this sale.

More Than a Year Required to Solve the Farm Problem

Ainsworth Man Explains A. A. Program, Says Progress Is Being Made.

In spite of the severe cold and stormy weather, about 65 business men and farmers gathered at the K. of P. hall Friday evening to hear E. B. Catterson of Ainsworth discuss the farm program. Mr. Catterson made it plain at the beginning that he wanted to speak simply as a farmer who owns and operates his farm in Rock county.

He asked the business men to try to understand the farm problem as something which would require more than a year or two of normal rainfall and normal crops to solve. He quoted figures to show that in spite of normal crops in Iowa the past few years, only 24% of Iowa's farms are owner-operated as compared to 30% in Valley county which has been hard hit by drouth and 40% for Nebraska as a whole. He brought out the fact that during the war period about 40 million acres of new land was broken up to supply food to Europe, and that since that period, the change to tractor farming had dumped the grain production of many more millions of acres formerly required for horse feed, onto the market. Immediately following the war, the United States loaned billions of dollars to Europe much of which was spent for American farm products, which enabled the farmer to sell on a fairly good market up until 1929 when we ceased loans to Europe because they could not repay their loans. Then it was that the farmers plight became acute because he was left with the products of those extra millions of acres to dump onto the American market, which promptly collapsed.

Numerous farm programs were offered including the McNary-Haugen bill which was passed by Congress and vetoed by President Coolidge and the act establishing the Federal Farm Board which was put into operation under President Hoover and later discarded, because it tried to regulate prices with unlimited production and necessarily failed.

These were honest attempts to solve the problem, he stated, and did not draw any particular political fire. The present farm act, he said, has three purposes: 1. To regulate production in line with demand for farm products; 2. To conserve the soil; 3. To provide loans for the storage of surplus on the farms to be held there as a guarantee against shortage. He asked what it is that critics can find which is so terribly wrong with such a program? He stated that there are many flaws in the act itself but that efforts should be made to perfect the law rather than to throw it overboard and try something else. As to the so-called regimentation of farmers under this act, he showed that the compulsory features in regard to marketing quotas could be put into effect only by a favorable vote of two-thirds of the producers of the commodity affected. He further stated that if anyone wanted to see real regimentation they should have visited, as he did, a large wheat farm in South Dakota taken over by a corporation, where the previous owners were working as share croppers and where the manager for the corporation cracks the whip, and the farmers farm exactly as they are told to farm, or else—and it is this type of

Burwell Ends Season

Burwell entertained Taylor on the local floor Friday night, three games being played. The Burwell junior high lost the first game 10 to 8. The second team went to Burwell by a score of 24 to 14, while the first team won for Burwell by a score of 39 to 21.

Poultry Roost Robbed

North Loup—(Special)—While the Martin Mrkivicka family were in town Saturday night someone took 20 of their best heavy hens. The dogs were making a fuss when the Mrkivicka's returned home but the loss was not discovered until the next day. More than likely the thieves would have taken more chickens had they not been frightened away, as Mrs. Mrkivicka cares for about 200 heavy hens and also has a big flock of Leghorns.

Divorce Petition Filed

A petition was filed in the office of the clerk of the district court this morning in which Caroline V. Anderson is asking a divorce from Charles J. Anderson. The parties live near Arcadia, and were married Dec. 15, 1936. They first separated July 20, 1938, and again tried living together Nov. 13, 1938. Grounds given are cruelty, faultfinding with her and her 15 year old daughter, Bertha, also the use of profane language and intoxicating liquor. She asks that her maiden name of Caroline V. Catlin be restored.

Sugar Beet Allotments Explained to Committee

Fred S. Wallace, chairman of the Nebraska Agricultural Conservation committee, in a letter sent to the county committees, explains in detail the sugar beet situation in Nebraska, especially in regard to allotments of acreage. In order that sugar beet producers may be able to get required acreages in 1939, it is suggested that beet producers contact their factory district for the acreage they feel is necessary for their plantings for 1939.

Producers intending to apply for Sugar Act payments under the 1939 sugar beet program must remain within their acreage allotments, which will be established in the near future by the special sugar beet committees of Nebraska. Due to the unusually large sugar beet crop for 1938, the production of sugar beets has exceeded the quota as set up by the Sugar Act of 1937, making it necessary for acreage allotments to be established for each farm in 1939. The members of the committee for the Grand Island factory district, of which the North Loup valley is a part, are as follows: Carl W. Kjar, Lexington; Ray J. Francis, Gibbon; Herman Scheff, Grand Island; and L. A. Butterfield, Burwell. The request for allotments will be made by the sugar beet farmer to the sugar company for which he is growing beets, and the above named committee has entire charge of the allotments.

Leon Bresley, 61, Was Buried Sunday

Leon Bresley, 61 years old and a resident of Colome, S. D., for almost thirty years since he left the Ord community, died Friday evening at Broken Bow. The body was brought to Ord and funeral services were held Sunday at Frazier's chapel, followed by burial in the Ord cemetery. Mr. Bresley, a Ford dealer at Colome, had been in ill health for a long time and had been at Colorado Springs for his health. His condition becoming worse, relatives decided to take him home and, traveling by auto, had reached Broken Bow and decided to spend Friday night there. Mr. Bresley became acutely ill there and died. He was a highly respected resident of the South Dakota community in which he lived and six teen car loads of members of the Masonic lodge, and other friends from Colome, came to Ord for the funeral Sunday. He is mourned by his widow and one son.

Many Applications for Rotary Pig Club

More than a dozen applications from boys and girls who want to participate in the Ord Rotary club's pig club program were received Friday and Saturday, reports Carl C. Dale, who has general supervision of the plan, and since then several more applications have come in. There will be no shortage of boys and girls to receive the 50 bred gilts purchased by the Rotary club, he believes.

Any 4-H or Voc. agriculture boy or girl is eligible to membership in the Rotary-sponsored pig club, says Dale. The age limit is 10 to 20 years. To each person accepted as a member, one bred gilt will be turned over, cost of the gilt to be repaid the Rotary club next October 1. The boy or girl who wishes a gilt must show that feed and housing facilities are available. Mr. Dale will be happy to explain all phases of the Rotary plan to any young person interested. It is a real chance for any boy or girl to get into the pig business without investing any money except for feed.

Co-Op Oil Meeting Today

Stockholders of the Ord Co-operative Oil company are holding their annual meeting at the American Legion hall at 2:30 p. m. today. This is the 10th year of successful operation for the concern.

Volunteer Firemen Elect Archie Bratt Department Chief

Defeats C. W. Clark By One Vote; George Anderson Is the New President.

A new chief of the Ord volunteer fire department was elected Friday evening in the person of Archie Bratt, veteran member, who received one more vote for the office than did Cecil Clark, who has served as chief since the retirement of Bud Shirley. Mr. Bratt received 11 votes, Clark 10.

ARCHIE BRATT.

A general shake-up of fire department officers took place, only survivor being Mark Tolen who was reelected secretary-treasurer. New president of the department is George Anderson, who was elected to succeed W. L. Lincoln, who in turn was chosen assistant chief by ballot. This ordinarily is an appointive office but at the request of Chief Bratt it was made elective this year.

New trustees are Rollin Dye, Ernest Horner and Alvin Jensen. C. B. Gudmundsen is chief of Hook and Ladder Company No. 1, George Anderson is chief of Hose Company No. 1 and Vernie Andersen is chief of Hose Company No. 2. At the annual firemen's ball last Wednesday evening a profit of $51.50 was realized, Secretary Tolen states. This is in line with the amount usually netted at this dance, although in 1938 about $90 was made. Cold weather Wednesday evening cut attendance although there was a big crowd and the occasion was enjoyable.

Boy Scouts Raise Funds By Popular Subscription

Deciding that it would be better to finance themselves if possible, the Ord Boy Scouts hit upon the popular subscription plan, and gave it a tryout Saturday. Under the general direction of Scoutmaster Rex Jewett, every member had his part in soliciting funds. The goal was set at $80 and Monday morning $81.60 had been turned in. This means that the boys can pay their own dues this year, and be sponsored by the community as a whole instead of one organization. The boys were sponsored by the Rotary club last year, but felt that by using the present method the burden would be more evenly divided. They wish to thank the business men and all others who contributed in any way to make the drive a success.

—Superintendent and Mrs. C. C. Thompson drove to Ellis Sunday, where they visited Superintendent Thompson's mother, Mrs. Emma Carpenter, who is very ill. They returned to Ord early Monday morning.

Conferences on Power Question Continuing

Considerable work has been done on legal aspects of the question and more conferences held between the Ord-Burwell power committee and the committee representing the North Loup district, said Clarence M. Davis, city attorney of Ord, this morning, but no agreement has been reached as yet. The various interests involved are working harmoniously toward a solution of the question, he said.

Crop and Feed Loans May Be Applied For

Applications for emergency crop and feed loans for 1939 are now being received at the court house in Ord by Charles M. Haller, field supervisor of the emergency crop and feed loan section of the Farm Credit Administration. As in the past, loans will be made only to farmers whose cash requirements are small and who cannot obtain credit from any other source. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's actual and immediate cash needs for growing his 1939 crops or for the purchase of feed for livestock.

Farm Conservation Committees Meet

All the committee members, both county and township, of the soil conservation program, met for an all day session at the American Legion hall Friday. Ed Catterson, field man for the extension service, was present to assist in giving instructions for the filling out of two forms. Form 303 is a map of the farm, and form 303a is called a computation sheet and shows the maximum payment for each farm in 1939. The payments for 1939 will not be guessed on, as in the past. This week meetings are being held in the different townships for the purpose of passing this information on to the farmers. However, they do not need to be present, as the township committee members will contact each farmer and explain the 1939 setup.

Nat'l Legion Chaplain to Speak in St. Paul

On Friday evening, Feb. 17, the national chaplain of the American Legion, Rev. Jerome L. Fritschl, will speak in the Legion auditorium at St. Paul, and since it is seldom that communities this size have the opportunity to hear speakers of the Rev. Fritschl's national fame, the Carl Mogensson post is extending an invitation to Legion and Auxiliary members of all central Nebraska communities and the general public as well to attend the meeting. Several Ord members of the American Legion are expecting to make the St. Paul trip Friday evening to hear Mr. Fritschl.

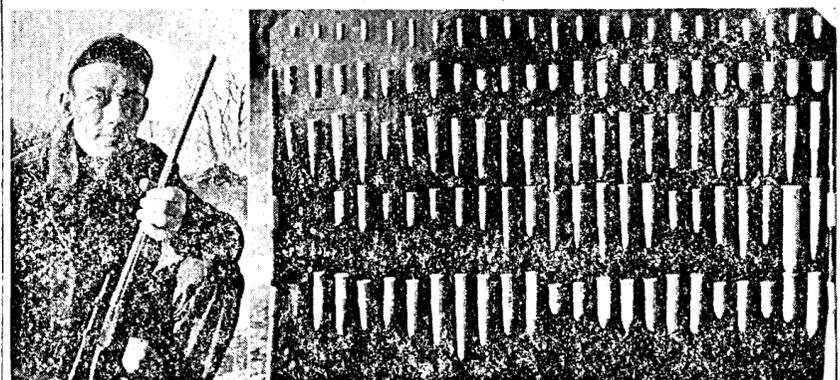

Cosmopolitan Club Hears Rev. Lawler Tuesday Eve

Rev. M. A. Lawler of the Ord Catholic church was the guest speaker at the Monday night meeting of the Cosmopolitan club at the City Cafe. He told the members of the manner in which the new pope would be chosen when the cardinals meet for the election. He is perhaps one of the best informed men on a topic of this kind, and his address was very interesting. In conclusion he said that one of the troubles with the world today is that we are not raising our children to think. They are all taught to follow the leader and not to think for themselves. "Every man has unalienable rights that even a state cannot take away from him," said Rev. Lawler.

Farmers Meeting Postponed

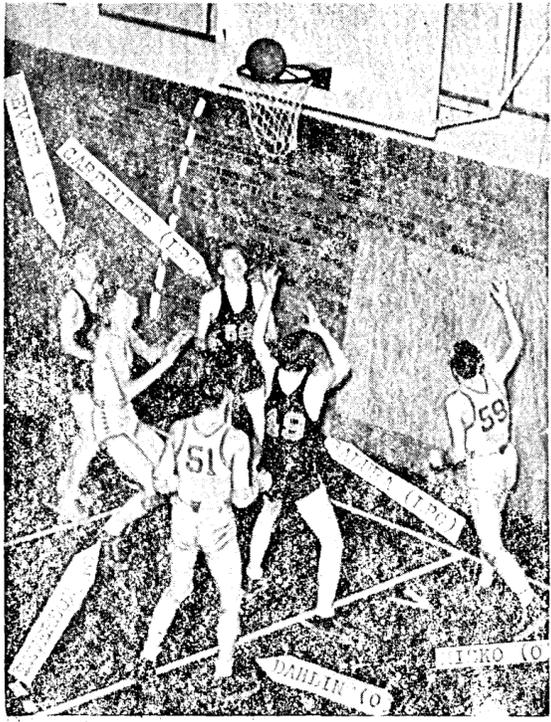

The meeting of the Farmers Grain & Supply Co., scheduled for last Thursday, was postponed until tomorrow, Thursday, February 16.

Richard Albers And His Collection of 120 Cartridges

Above are shown Richard Albers of Ord and his collection of 120 cartridges of all kinds which he has been collecting since he was 13 years of age. The cartridges range in caliber from a 22 caliber BB to a 65 caliber. They are worth from 2 cents up to $1.50. He has been working on the collection more or less for the past five years. He built the rack for them four years ago. The oldest one was made in 1866. It was a 57-70 from one of the first breech loading army guns. Cartridges of the sizes of these will kill anything from a sparrow to an elephant. There are about 39 kinds in existence. Twenty-five of the above collection are army cartridges. Mr. Albers is holding a Savage 25-25 rifle which has a recently mounted telescope sight.—Quiz Photo.

Ord Setting Hot Pace in Valley Tournament

Coach Brockman's "eagle eyes" got off to a fast start in the Loup Valley cage tournament being played in Ord when they walloped Loup City 57 to 15 Tuesday. Here Severson, Ord center, is getting the Chanvellers off to a good start in the first quarter with a short field goal that hit the rim, then dropped through the netting. Misko and Dahlin stand by to help if needed.—Quiz Photo.

4 Seeded Teams To Semi-Finals of Cage Tourney

Comstock and Ord, St. Paul and Dannebrog, Play Tonight to Decide Finalists.

For once sports writers and high school officials were right. With the first two rounds of the Loup Valley basketball tourney completed there have been no upsets, no "dark horse" has appeared, and the four teams seeded in the two brackets have come through to play in the semi-finals tonight.

Comstock, Ord, St. Paul and Dannebrog were the four teams seeded by tournament officials, and all came through Tuesday with ease to win their way to the semi-finals. In yesterday's first clash St. Paul easily defeated North Loup, the count being 31 to 4. Comstock waded through Scotia, without difficulty, by a score of 44 to 22. Ord went the honor of piling up the day's highest score, and the result was Ord 57, Loup City 15. Dannebrog beat Arcadia, 32 to 22. St. Paul beat Taylor, 46-19, and Comstock eliminated Burwell, 30 to 14, in the quarter-finals, in which Ord drew a bye.

The Dannebrog-Arcadia clash probably was Tuesday's best game, although the Danes took the lead early and were never headed. In the second quarter the Arcadia boys pulled up close to the Danes, the period ending 14 to 10, but Dannebrog turned on the heat in the third period, which closed 23 to 16, and pulled out with a 32-22 victory. Harding and Gregory looked best for Arcadia while Adams and Christiansen were high scorers for the Danes.

To Nielsen, of St. Paul, went the honor of being high scorer of the day. In the game with Taylor he piled up 20 points. Teaming with Lynch, Nielsen was very effective against both Taylor and North Loup. The pair made 53 points in the two games. Coach Brockman used two complete teams against Loup City and all the boys were "hot," a condition that Ord fans are hoping will continue tonight. Dahlin and Misko made 10 points each.

The tournament is being played in the Ord high school auditorium and Tuesday school was dismissed in the afternoon so students might attend the games. A large crowd of fans was present from out of town also and the auditorium was crowded, particularly in the evening. In the free throw contest being held in connection with the tournament, Arcadia, Ord and Loup City are tied for first place. Each team selects five men to participate in this contest, and each player is allowed ten shots. Out of the possible 50 points, the boys representing Ord, Arcadia and Loup City piled up 32 points for each school. Other results were: Dannebrog, 30; Taylor, 27; Comstock, 27; St. Paul, 25; Scotia, 23; Burwell, 23; North Loup 21. This tie will be thrown off between halves of the final game Thursday evening.

Recount of Votes Gives John Misko Lead of 3 Over Lee

Final County Court Hearing in Election Contest Will Be Held Thursday Morning.

John P. Misko, 1,728; Alvin B. Lee, 1,725.

That was the standing of contestants in the Misko-Lee contest for county attorney of Valley county after the counting, Tom Springer and George Zirkmund, had finished their work Friday and ballots objected to during the recount had been ruled on by County Judge John L. Andersen Saturday. The recount gave Misko a majority of 3 instead of Lee being 1 ahead as reported in the official canvass made after the election November 8. On the basis of this recount it would seem that Mr. Misko was elected county attorney but until after a hearing to be held in county court Thursday morning the issue remains in doubt. It may remain doubtful for a longer period, should appeal proceedings be started by either of the contesting parties after the hearing tomorrow.

During the recount, which started Wednesday morning and ended Friday evening, the counting board recounted all ballots cast Nov. 8 except the mail vote, which by mutual consent was not recounted. Of the 3,615 votes cast, exclusive of the mail vote, it was found that Misko had received 1,637 votes and Lee 1,695 votes, while 165 were thrown out because voters had not voted for either candidate for county attorney, and 42 were laid aside upon the objection of either Misko or Lee.

Arguments on the 42 to which objections were entered were heard Friday afternoon and concluded Saturday. Of these votes 16 were finally rejected, 8 being Lee's votes and 8 Misko's, while 15 were counted for Misko and 11 for Lee, upon rulings by the judge following arguments by the contestants. With these votes included, Misko had 1,702 and Lee 1,706, and when the official canvass of the mail vote was admitted and the votes therein added, the final result gave Misko 1,728 votes and Lee, 1,725.

In only six voting precincts of Valley county—Davis Creek, Germanium, Vinton, Yale, Independent and Michigan—was the official count as reported by election officials free from errors, the men doing the recounting found. In other townships a few errors in the count were discovered and 42 ballots laid aside for various reasons, of which 16 were later rejected entirely. The fact that 8 of these ballots appeared to have been cast for Lee and 8 for Misko, although in some cases intent of the voter was not plain, is commented on by Judge Andersen as evidence that all errors were due to carelessness or ignorance on the part of voters or election officials and that nowhere was there intent to commit fraud.

At the hearing tomorrow, the final one to be held in county court on this election contest, Mr. Lee's answer to Misko's original petition will be taken up. In this answer Lee maintains that Misko's bond was not sufficient; that in each voting precinct people not qualified to vote because of non-residence did vote for the contestant; that in every precinct legal voters were rejected who would have voted for the contestant (Lee) had they been permitted to vote; that votes were cast illegally by absent and disabled voters; and that the contestant ran a conveyance illegally for the purpose of taking voters, not sick or disabled, to the polls in Ord city. All of these are technical points upon which Judge Andersen will hear evidence and arguments before ruling but it is likely that the election contest, unless appealed to district court, will be disposed of and the legally elected county attorney determined by Thursday night.

Howard Barnes Busy on Grave Registration Work

Howard Barnes is busy at present on a project sponsored by the American Legion in which he is obtaining records of all deceased veterans. It is known as a grave registration project, and its object is to find all possible data relative to the veterans for purposes of reference. He worked a week on the project some time ago, and was ordered to stop for the time being. He resumed work this week and figures it will take some time to finish, as he must check all the cemeteries in Valley county. He finds the records kept in the past very incomplete in many cases.

Free Movie Tickets With Nash's Coffee Again Are Offered

Six independent grocery stores in Ord again have the privilege this week of giving away free movie tickets with all sales of Nash's Toasted Coffee. Stores at which movie tickets may be secured are Langer's, Draper's, Petka's, the North Side Market, the Farmers' Store and Hans Larsen's.

There are no strings to the offer—with each purchase of a 1 lb. can of Nash's Coffee a free children's ticket, value 10c, is given; with each purchase of a 2 lb. can an adult ticket, value 25c, is given. Both tickets are given free with purchase of a 3 lb. can. Nash's Toasted Coffee also is available in glass jars at no increase in price. Nash's is one of the best coffees sold in America, comparable in quality to other vacuum packed coffees hitherto sold in Ord. In the east, west and north it has long been a best selling coffee. Desire to introduce Nash's in new territory is the reason for the free movie ticket offer now in effect here.

The movie tickets may be used at the Ord Theatre on any night except Sunday or Monday.

Work on Ord Library Making Fine Progress

Working only when the weather is warm enough to make it safe, the crew of men working on the Ord township library is making satisfactory progress. The frames for the front door and front windows are in place, and the walls are being built around them. Tuesday was a favorable day and quite a showing was made.

3 Clean-Up Sales Are Booked for Next Week

Next week will be a busy one for sale-goers of the Loup valley for there are three clean-up sales booked, those of Charles Sobon, Arthur Simoons and Wm. Vogeler. The Sobon sale on Monday, Feb. 20, will feature a good offering including 18 head of cattle, 6 horses and an extra-good lot of machinery, tools, etc. The Simoons sale on Tuesday, Feb. 21, offers 6 horses and 18 cattle also, as well as a few young pigs, machinery, etc. Mr. Simoons' milk cows are better than average.

Wm. Vogeler's sale Thursday, Feb. 23 will be one of the season's biggest ones. Unusual is the fact that 207 head of livestock are to be sold, the list including 18 horses, 73 head of cattle, 38 hogs and 82 sheep. As everybody knows, Mr. Vogeler has been a big operator so he will have much more machinery, feed, grain and miscellaneous articles, including small buildings, than usually is sold at a farm auction. See these three sale ads in today's Quiz.

—Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Dye are parents of a baby girl born Wednesday, Feb. 8 with D. J. N. Round in attendance. This is the second girl in the Dye household.

WE, THE PEOPLE

With the above words the makers of our constitution instituted that greatest of all documents ever written by man and inspired in the mind of man.

That principle was established in the North Loup valley in the early seventies and infractions of the laws that the people had established to govern themselves were punished then as they are today.

Because occasional instances were found in which the rights of the people had not been fully protected, amendments have been made to our constitution from time to time.

In the present power controversy, it seems that one important item has been overlooked. The city of Ord and the village of Burwell were required to take power from the irrigation district and both of them did so, but there is nothing on record to show that the wishes of the people were consulted.

The paying out of $2,400 per month by the city of Ord is certainly a major expenditure, and the people should be permitted to give their approval if they wish to do so.

THE CHANGING WORLD. The experience of the past few thousand years of civilization has brought out one fact, and that is that the only changeless thing about this world of ours is the God who created it.

Considered with the measure of a man's lifetime, changes on the face of the world seem to come very slowly, but a constant change is taking place.

For example, the deltas of the Mississippi, the Nile and many other rivers have been built much farther out into the ocean than they were a few thousand years ago.

Gibraltar and flooded all that section now known as the Mediterranean Sea.

Evidence has been found from time to time to prove that before this great cataclysm the fertile valleys now covered by the Mediterranean were thickly populated, and probably by some of the most civilized peoples living in the world at the time.

Phoenician, Egyptian, Greek and Roman civilizations in turn used this great waterway to develop their commerce, and Greece and Rome to develop their vast empires.

The countries of Middle Europe have fought through the centuries to obtain and to maintain a foothold on the Mediterranean, and those who have done so have dominated history.

Today many European countries have valuable possessions along the coast of the Mediterranean, or in the islands within its boundaries.

Greece also owns a long coast line and many islands, the most important of which is Crete. Great Britain owns Gibraltar in the west, Malta in the middle, and Cyprus in the east, to say nothing of Egypt, dominance over the Suez Canal and the Holy Land.

Maps of Europe made just one year ago are useless today, for in that time important changes have been made in the boundaries of Germany, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Hungary, and Austria has been assimilated by Germany.

REDUCE TAXES. If there is any one thing that characterizes the actions of both congress and the Nebraska state legislature, it is the efforts that are being made in both law-making bodies to effect economies and thus cut down the tax burden, if possible.

Governor Cochran stressed this point when he delivered his budget recommendations to the legislature Jan. 23. His budget calls for a reduction of one and one quarter millions from the amount asked two years ago for the biennium of 1937-1938.

This means the expenditure of approximately $40 for each inhabitant of the state of Nebraska, which seems like a lot of money to take care of the costs of government.

On top of this congress is spending for the expenses of the United States that much and more every year, and the president is recommending large expenditures for the re-armament program, and of a large number of other plans which he considers essential.

A man who owns a good quarter section of land in Valley county states that he could not have bought a good wheelbarrow with the amount of the first taxes levied against the land, but that he could buy a first class used car with the amount of the taxes today.

A farm that will not pay its owner a good yearly salary and on top of that net at least 6% on the investment, is not a profitable enterprise.

The public is agreed on one thing, and that is that taxes, the cost of government, must be reduced. While we are not all agreed on the method, we are agreed that this result must be attained, and each should do all in his power to bring about this reduction.

—Ira Mattley returned Monday evening from the University hospital in Omaha to his home near Burwell. He went there not long ago to have a cataract removed from his right eye.

Out in lower California they are having some unusual weather too, temperatures dropping as low as 25 degrees in citrus growing districts around Los Angeles.

My Own Column

By Hank Leggett

There is an old saying, "Whom the Gods would destroy they first make mad." Apparently President Roosevelt is getting mad because he can't have his own way in everything any longer.

While we are worrying over the persecution of the Jews in Germany all of which is bad, enough, the thought occurs to me of the phrase that Elsworth Ball uses so glibly now and then.

The negro is the last man hired and the first fired. In many many jobs the negro is not considered at all, and it is almost out of the question of a negro ever being advanced to anything good, no matter how faithful and dependable he may be.

I don't agree to that plan of George Gowen's to move the old 85-year old log house on the Whiting (now the Kriewald farm) to the city park in Ord.

I have always believed that anything that was worth having was worth asking for. For that reason I am asking you to allow us to send in your daily paper subscriptions.

My brother writes from California, "They are saying around here there are only 45 states left in the union. Arkansas and Oklahoma have gone to California and the latter has gone to hell."

Alex Brown tells of a bachelor he knew who was a good cook. He debated the question of getting married. Each time after making biscuits he would throw in the corner the same number of biscuits as he ate, or the number a wife Again let me suggest that, after you pay your subscription, you watch the date after the address on your paper and if the date is not corrected in two weeks after you pay, phone 17, the Quiz business office, or in some way call our attention to the matter.

So far only a little gesture has been made, either in the state or in congress, toward curtailing the spending. It is agreed by all, that spending must be cut down or we will all be ruined.

Although the greater percentage of our population at the present time live in towns and cities, almost two-thirds of the children are born in rural areas.

It is therefore doubly important that those of us who are interested in the future of our country be deeply concerned with the problems of our rural young people.

No greater calamity could befall us as a nation than to bring up our young people with no hope for the future except for a career on WPA or on some other form of relief or government assistance, necessary as these things may be at present.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!

A Bit of History

In my last letter to my mother in California I enclosed the historical picture from the World-Herald telling of early characters in Valley county, one of which was a picture of General Ord.

"This General Ord came to North Loup in early days and stopped at our house. We had a cedar log house but with a dirt floor, so father, who was always fixing up things as nice as he could, (old timers will remember he was a widower with four little children) took his scythe and mowed some nice fresh grass and put on the floor.

We had a few good things that we brought from Wisconsin, and father polished them as best he could, too. When General Ord got ready to leave he said, "If this were a palace, Elder Babcock, it could not be more attractive."

Our Own Ears Dirty. While we are worrying over the persecution of the Jews in Germany all of which is bad, enough, the thought occurs to me of the phrase that Elsworth Ball uses so glibly now and then.

The negro is the last man hired and the first fired. In many many jobs the negro is not considered at all, and it is almost out of the question of a negro ever being advanced to anything good, no matter how faithful and dependable he may be.

I have lived in the city upon several occasions and at those times became acquainted with several negroes, and I dare say that a few of them were of the nicest men I ever knew.

Yes, when we are worrying about the Jews, a race with money, prestige, intelligence and power, "let us wash behind our own ears," in regard to a part of our citizenry that has been persecuted for more than a hundred and fifty years, as bad as the Jews ever were.

Short Shavings. My brother writes from California, "They are saying around here there are only 45 states left in the union. Arkansas and Oklahoma have gone to California and the latter has gone to hell."

A fine specimen of a bald eagle with a wingspread of 7 feet was shot Saturday afternoon by Aldis Galloway in the John Keller pasture.—Nance County Journal.

More Interest in Young People Needed. The Rotary club of Ord is sponsoring an outstanding service to the community in making it possible for farm boys and girls whose parents are financially unable to back them, to secure well bred girls to re-establish herds of hogs on Valley county farms.

Although the greater percentage of our population at the present time live in towns and cities, almost two-thirds of the children are born in rural areas. This means that not only must our farms produce the young people who will eventually be the farmers of the nation, but we must also produce the human replacements for our cities, where the birth rate is low.

It is therefore doubly important that those of us who are interested in the future of our country be deeply concerned with the problems of our rural young people. This is especially true here at the present time when the accumulated effects of drought and depression have made the farm outlook dark, and have caused many of our farm families to view the future with little hope of ever attaining the financial security from their labors which we have always considered the American birthright.

No greater calamity could befall us as a nation than to bring up our young people with no hope for the future except for a career on WPA or on some other form of relief or government assistance, necessary as these things may be at present.

A salute to the Rotarians of Ord for their recognition of some of the needs of the young people of our farms, and may other organizations take heed of this great problem, and follow their example in working for the betterment of the young people in whose hands the future of our country rests.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Movements of congress to be slow until political future of the Democratic party and the New Deal is clarified. See opening wedge of fight against third term in the action on relief money. Congress to be tightwad when it comes to opening up new public works.

WASHINGTON.—The whole picture of why this congress is going to be smalllike in its movements until the political future of the Democratic party in general and the New Deal in particular is clarified is disclosed in that amazing speech of Sen. John H. Bankhead of Alabama—brother of the speaker of the house—denying that there had been any "issue" between President Roosevelt and Vice President John Nance Garner over the amount of money voted in the relief bill.

Even the Associated Press could not let that speech pass without including in the account of it the fact that the day before when Sen. Alva B. Adams, of Colorado, had been asked if he appreciated the help Garner had given his side, he had said, "Yes, I do."

As a matter of fact everybody interested knew that the White House made a terrific fight to win that roll call, and that the opposition strained every nerve to beat the White House. The "issue" was not relief at all. Most of the senators who had lined up against the President will be perfectly willing, and said so, to vote more money later if the President will declare an emergency exists.

The issue was clearly to trim a little of the President's powers. It was not clear-cut. Many senators were frightened into it. Sen. Alva B. Adams, of Colorado, had been asked if he appreciated the help Garner had given his side, he had said, "Yes, I do."

Opening Wedge of Fight Aimed Against Third Term. But doling out the relief money to the President—forcing him to come again with a declaration of emergency if he wants any more—restricts by a good deal the blanket power he has exercised over relief spending, and by the same token tends to trim his political power to just that extent.

Make no mistake about it, that fight was the opening wedge of the battle which is really aimed at preventing a Roosevelt third term, and preventing the choice of any out-and-out New Dealer as Roosevelt's successor in the 1940 convention. Specifically it was aimed at the "spenders" in the New Deal.

Mr. Eccles is not worried about the deficits, or the mounting national debt. Congress by that vote on relief, first in the house and second in the senate, showed that it is.

But some of the Southern senators and other leaders are not willing yet to admit that they are really fighting continued Roosevelt mastery. They want to watch a few developments first, to determine just how safe it is to be against him. They want to leave a few bridges unburned, so they can rejoin him, if he should prove unbeatable.

Down underneath, most of them hope he will be succeeded by someone with economic views much further to the right. It will be noticed in Senator Bankhead's very cagey remarks that he left open doors leading in every direction. The speech fooled no one in the White House crowd. But it pleased them just the same. It tended to soften the blow.

Congress Is Set Against Giving New Deal Free Hand. If that suggestion about setting up another TVA in southern Illinois, which would generate power from the coal deposits there instead of from water power, had been made four years ago, or even last year, it would have frightened the utilities to death.

Now they are hoping that nothing will happen because congress is set against giving the New Deal a free hand on spending, is willing to be liberal when it comes to danger of people starving or freezing, but is inclined to be a tightwad when it comes to new public works. As for example Passamaquoddy and the Florida canal, both of which seem doomed to remain sidetracked.

Besides, and this is really the funny part of the situation, there is not the popular appeal in developing electricity from coal that there is from water power. Down underneath the New Deal is all for it. President Roosevelt is just as unfriendly to the privately owned utilities as ever. But this is no time to be agitating this particular point—certainly until the Supreme court has clarified it in the TVA case.

Best opinions here as to the future of public ownership of big power developments is that they will be confined, for a time at least, to water power. The answer is simple. In the first place, there is the popular notion that power produced from water power is the cheapest power in the world—almost free. Second, there is the popular idea that water power is one of our great national resources, belonging not to the few people who happen to own the land adjacent to the most favorable spot for developing it, but to all the people.

Cost of Producing Electric Current Is Very Small. Actually of course the cost of producing electric current is so small that it does not make much difference which method is used. But if you insist on going into decimals coal is cheaper than water power.

The city of Washington offers an excellent illustration. Sen. George W. Norris has long advocated the development of water power at Great Falls on the Potomac, a few miles above Washington. As an engineering proposition it is perfectly sound. It is now being pressed in the house by Rep. John B. Rankin of Mississippi, Nemes's of the private utilities and leader of the public power bloc. Rankin would set up a "Potomac Valley authority" modeled after his beloved TVA.

But engineers are agreed that such a development would not produce current any more cheaply than the private company does now. And the company uses a cheap grade of anthracite which has to be hauled down from northeastern Pennsylvania! Actually power is produced from this coal at a cost of only three mills per kilowatt at the switchboard.

Of course the government could take that same steam plant and produce electricity at something less than the three mills it costs the company, assuming that it operated as efficiently as the company does now. There is an item of taxes, which includes local property assessments and federal income taxes, in that three mills.

Yet it would be sort of tough on the coal miners in Pennsylvania to try to effect this economy! Expect No Speed From This Session of Congress. There is no use expecting any speed from this session of congress. It simply is not in the mood. Senators and representatives have their ears to the ground, their eyes strained for the most likely bandwagon, their brains concentrated on the most important question of the ages: "What is best for me?"

But doling out the relief money to the President—forcing him to come again with a declaration of emergency if he wants any more—restricts by a good deal the blanket power he has exercised over relief spending, and by the same token tends to trim his political power to just that extent.

Make no mistake about it, that fight was the opening wedge of the battle which is really aimed at preventing a Roosevelt third term, and preventing the choice of any out-and-out New Dealer as Roosevelt's successor in the 1940 convention. Specifically it was aimed at the "spenders" in the New Deal.

Charley Bals was conversing with a Quiz representative on the north side of the square when a Burwell lady came past, glanced at Charley and said: "How do you do, Mr. Misko." Mr. Bals says that this often happens, although the two men do not look much alike.

The cold weather last week discouraged the window artists about town, and the result was that not a single store in town had those big signs painted on the show windows announcing the bargains that were to be found inside.

This winter weather brings about a peculiar situation, almost every morning the windows of the Safeway store are frosted, while those of Jerry Petska next door are clear. There is no mystery about it. The difference is in the type of heating plant.

Len Covert must be a tough old rooster. Last week he lost only a day and a half from his police duties after being run over by a tractor, and in just a week he was back running the tractor again. Len used to be a pretty good wrestler, and he still keeps himself in good physical condition.

That Jesse James picture is due to appear in Ord in a few days now, and E. C. (Jesse) James is bragging that he is to make a personal appearance at the Ord Theater. He says he saw the picture when in Omaha, and made a personal appearance there.

Tuffy, the Tunncliff dog, came past the Beranek Drug store Monday while the broadcast advertising tobacco was being carried on from the window. It had him puzzled and he decided that the proper thing to do was to bark whenever the man in the window talked. He kept it up until he got so hoarse he could not be heard more than a few feet.

St. Paul Topples Ord in Mid-Six, Ravenna Champ

Suffering defeat from the St. Paul Wildcats Friday evening, by a score of 36 to 30, the Ord Chanticleers went down to third place in the Mid-Six conference, giving the Mid-Six basketball trophy to Ravenna. Had Ord defeated St. Paul the Chanticleers would have tied with Ravenna. In this event, the championship would belong to Ord, because Ord had already defeated Ravenna. Ravenna's only loss in the Mid-Six conference this year was to Ord. Ord was defeated by Broken Bow and St. Paul.

The Chanticleers were the first to score in Friday's game. However, the Wildcats then took the lead and kept it throughout the rest of the game. In the last minutes of the second quarter it seemed as though Ord would be able to gain the lead but the half ended with St. Paul still ahead by a score of 19 to 15.

In the second half, the Ord boys couldn't seem to hit the basket, and a large number of fouls kept them from scoring. The game ended in St. Paul's favor with a score of 36 to 30.

Ord Juniors Win Mid-Six Championship

Led by Billy Johnson, high point man, the Ord juniors copped a 17 to 9 win over the St. Paul team Friday evening. This victory, their fifth consecutive win, gave to Ord the Junior high Mid-Six basketball championship. At the half, the Ord team held an 11 to 3 lead over the St. Paul Wildcats. At no time during the entire game, did the St. Paul team threaten to take the lead.

State President Visits Ord Business Club

The Business and Professional Women's club met at Thorne's Cafe Thursday evening. The tables were attractively decorated in the valentine motif. Misses Daisy Hallen, Thelma Ludlow, and Aldean Swanson were in charge of the meeting and music was furnished by a high school quartette composed of Edwin Hitchman, Allen Zikmund, Dick Koupal and Eugene Punochar. Miss Angelina Wachtrie accompanied the quartette. Eugene Punochar also played a clarinet solo.

LOIS VAN VALKENBURGH.

The feature of the evening was a talk given by Miss Lois Van Valkenburgh, state president of the Business and Professional Women's clubs on her trip to Budapest, Hungary, where she attended an international congress of business and professional women last summer. The tour was in charge of Mrs. Nettie Simms of Hastings. Twenty-six countries were represented at the convention. Germany has no such clubs, because Hitler refuses such organizations in the country and Italian delegates were not present. Later the congressional delegates learned that Mussolini had issued an order that no Italian woman be sold a railroad ticket to Budapest. Miss Van Valkenburgh was impressed by the fact that the European countries do not think of our country as the United States. They think we are greedy, selfish, and partly responsible for the world conditions of today. She feels that these international congresses will help to do away with this feeling. The two languages used during the sessions were French and English.

The American delegates stopped in England on their way to Hungary. Miss Van Valkenburgh was most impressed by the attractive farm houses and the lovely profusion of flowers. She was rather amused by the English custom of eating six times a day. The delegation also traveled through France, Switzerland, Germany, Austria and Italy.

Feeling of Unrest in Europe Reaches Our Side of Atlantic

Permeates Administration and, to Some Extent, Congress; Result Is Great and Increasing Mystery; President's Secrecy Approved; Facts About Plane Sales.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON—The feeling that has obsessed Europeans for weeks—that they are approaching toward some international crisis—seems to have spread to our side of the Atlantic. Right out of the air, so to speak, we are made to feel that great questions are about to take shape and that we, in this country, must be ready to decide them. The germ, or whatever it is, has taken up its domicile within our administration and, to some extent, in congress, and the result is great and increasing mystery.

Most sources in Washington did not believe that the so-called settlement of the European crisis at Munich last September was, in fact, more than a stop-gap, as I reported to you at that time. The Munich failure has become more and more evident and the very atmosphere is charged again with exactly the same type of bated expectancy.

In a general way, of course, we all know that the worldwide difference between the democratic forms of government and the dictatorships is at the bottom of the whole thing. We know, as well, that Hitler and Mussolini have challenged the European democracies by the boldness of their dictatorship actions in taking practically what they want in the way of additions to their empires. We know, further, that the end decidedly is not yet insofar as the Hitler and Mussolini ambitions are to be considered. And wrapped up in all of this is the genuine friendship that the United States has for France and England.

Beneath the surface, things have been going on in our own government. The President, the department of state and the military and naval services know what is taking place in Europe and they are advised as to what may be expected. Plans were being formed and developed so that steps could be taken here at the proper time. All of this was done in more or less secrecy, as it always has to be done since public discussion of such delicate matters could tilt us very easily from the frying pan into the fire.

Genuine Danger of War, But Not Immediately

Because of the necessity for avoiding wrong impressions which is a vital thing in international relations, President Roosevelt told the military affairs committee of the senate confidentially something of the inside story. I believe he did right in shielding those facts from general knowledge for no one knows how they could, or would, be distorted in German or Italian newspapers.

But this air of mystery has backfired in a curious way. It has aroused certain portions of the country into a veritable frenzy—particularly, some members of congress—and they have seized upon a relatively unimportant thing as their weapon in striking at Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy. They have jumped all over the President's neck about the sale of airplanes to France, airplanes that were manufactured and are being manufactured by private plane builders and which are being sold for cash to the French government.

It is made to appear that this is a terrible thing. The howlers are saying that Mr. Roosevelt has violated the spirit of the neutrality act and that he should never have given permission for the sale of the planes. There are other charges flying about, also, but they are unimportant here.

I have dug into the situation as far as is possible, I believe, and I fall to get very much excited about the whole thing. There is, of course the genuine danger of war, although I am not convinced that Europe is going to break out tomorrow. Sometime, probably, but not immediately. Such a clash of the hopes and convictions and traditions and faith as obviously occurs between the philosophies of dictatorships and democracies is bound to lead to use of force but I think there is the probability that it is further away than this jittery feeling of the world now indicates.

France's Purchase of American-Made Airplanes

To get back to this airplane thing I should like to set out some of the facts. France is buying American-made airplanes—several hundred of them. She is doing this because her own airplane production has stalled and France has sufficient cash to buy them elsewhere. The French military service must have them in case there is that outbreak of force that seems so imminent on the surface for the reason that Germany and Italy are superior to France in the air.

The contracts were let in this country after Mr. Roosevelt had talked over the whole question with his cabinet and then with the war and navy departments and certain leaders of the airplane industry. They were authorized after Ambassador Bullitt, in his reports from Paris, had laid bare the whole situation.

I am told that Mr. Bullitt advised Mr. Roosevelt to treat the matter as a routine, that to talk much about it would excite people unduly. Well, the Bullitt idea was working until the unfortunate accident out near Los Angeles when a big bombing plane fell, injuring a member of the French mission that is in this country buying the planes. Then, out popped the secret and out came the critics of the Roosevelt foreign policy.

It is not within my power to say whether Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy is right or wrong. I do not believe anyone can tell yet. Any foreign policy is something of a gamble. If it works, the author is a hero; if it fails, the author of the policy promptly is termed a sap.

But of this phase, I can write: why should the howlers now arise and denounce the President's foreign policy on the basis of sales of planes to France, when more than a year ago the British government began buying planes from our manufacturers? Why is it wrong to let the French buy and right to let the British buy? Or, to state the matter affirmatively, it seems to me that we cannot well differentiate between two nations with whom we have friendly relations.

Foreign Policy Opposition Making Itself Foolish

I do not regularly burn incense at the Roosevelt dais, but when I believe his opposition is making itself look foolish, I believe they ought to be called what they are, if they can show where the present foreign policies are ridiculous, now is their opportunity.

If this criticism of Mr. Roosevelt were directed at his actions with respect to Spain or Japan, perhaps there would be something worth considering. It will be recalled that the President persuaded plane manufacturers and many others as well to discontinue sales to the Japanese for use against China. It will be recalled also that indirect assistance was given the so-called "loyalists" in Spain, aid that surely must be looked upon—if done honestly—as help to the military forces for those who suffered back of the lines. All of this was done while we have a neutrality act through which congress believed it was taking away certain powers from the Chief Executive.

So, I repeat that there is cause, it appears for criticism of some of the President's foreign policies, but it does not seem that critics have joined issue with the Chief Executive on any sound basis.

I always have felt that there is too much secrecy in general governmental administration. Unimportant squibs, holding unimportant jobs, are forever and ever taking themselves seriously to the point where they would not admit it was pouring down rain if it were raining cats and dogs. From that level of officialdom on up and down the line, one finds that sort of thing in our government. I saw a congressional committee chairman refuse, just the other day, to let the newspaper men see a statement that he was inserting in the committee record, a record that is as public as the light of day. It was silly, but it was typical.

President Has Authority To Shape of Foreign Policy

When it comes to foreign relations, however, the situation is entirely different. The constitution, wisely enough, provides that such matters must be dealt with by the President. It allows him the power of negotiation but it curbs that power by requiring him to ask congress for a declaration of war. In other words, the President is provided with authority to shape and conduct the foreign policy, the dealings with foreign nations, but he must have the approval of congress, which represents the people, when the concluding phases of those negotiations are reached and the nation is about to be bound.

That condition was arranged at the outset of our nation's history. It has worked well. The rights of the people are amply protected. Think for a moment what the situation would be if our foreign policies were in the hands of adulated demagogues in the house or the senate! I hazard a guess that some of them would talk as long as Hitler did the other day and create just as much grief.

So, I firmly believe there should be some secrecy about our foreign policy and that the President should have some liberties in working out arrangements with other governments. After all, any program that he has must eventually be published and debated by congress.

New Books are Announced By Ord Township Library

Miss Elsie Wiberg, librarian, announces the following books now available at the Ord Township Library. There are four of the famous Jaina books by Mazo de la Roche in the White Oak Edition: Jaina's Fortune, White Oaks of Jaina, Young Renny, and The Master of Jaina. With the exception of the first, these books have been on the market some time, but not the new edition.

Koungsmark, by A. E. W. Mason is a delightful story of German life with a touch of French and English thrown in for good measure. A Puritan in Babylon, by William Allen White, the Sage of Emporia, is the story of Calvin Coolidge by one who knew him well. Three Harbors, by T. Van Wyck Mason, is a tale of colonial times in America, told as a book of fiction, but with close adherence to historical fact.

Son of Years, by our own Bess Streeter Aldrich, is a book of Iowa in its formative period, with just a touch of politics which adds to the interest. Alone, by Richard E. Byrd, needs no introduction here, as the book and its author have been well advertised. It is an experience so personal that the author waited four years to write it. The Customs of Mankind, by Lillian Eichler, is a valuable book, 500 pages, well illustrated, with many of the pictures in color.

Same Most Everywhere Lyons (Kas.) News. Some months ago a Lyons man was in a Missouri town about 40 miles from Kansas City. Several business rooms were vacant. The best one still had a bakery sign on the window. In a drive about the town the Lyons man saw a big house in complete disrepair. He asked who it belonged to and was told that it was the property of a former baker. Then this conversation ensued:

"Where's the baker?"
"In California."
"Why did he quit?"
"Bakery wagons from Kansas City ruined his business."
"Didn't he make good bread?"
"Yes."
"Didn't the folks here like him?"
"Sure, he was a fine fellow. Paid plenty of taxes, contributed to everything, at one time was employing folks from five families."
"Why did folks buy the corporation bread instead of their friend's bread?"
"It was easier to get, right along with the groceries."
"Who lives in the big old house now?"
"Two families—both on relief."
"Why didn't you all stand by the baker?"
"Don't exactly know. Just thoughtless I guess—until it was too late."

Burwell Man Was Welcome Visitor at Vatican

L. B. Fenner . . . in the Pope's garden.

Interest in this picture of L. B. Fenner, a well known Burwell man, photographed Jan. 10, 1919, in the Vatican at Rome, is enhanced this week by the ceremonies at the Vatican because of the death and burial of Pope Pius XI, and the impending election of a new Pope by the college of cardinals.

Mr. Fenner was in Rome as an officer of the American Red Cross during the World war. His interpreter, Madam Bernescourt, a noblewoman of much influence in Italy and in the Catholic church, applied on his behalf for permission for this photograph to be taken. She was greatly surprised, says Mr. Fenner, when permission was granted, and said it was the first time in her experience that a picture of a foreigner was taken in the private precincts of the Pope. All cameras are barred from the Vatican. Only recently Life Magazine published a series of pictures of the Vatican with the claim that it was the first time photographs had ever been taken with permission in its precincts.

This picture of Mr. Fenner was taken at the fountain in the private garden of the Pope. The house in the distance is the home of Signor Marconi, inventor of wireless telegraphy. Mr. Fenner mailed the photograph to his wife from Rome soon after his visit to the Vatican and she found it this week while looking through some old pictures and letters.

regimentation that our farmers really have to fear.

As to exports and imports, Mr. Catterson stated that the imports of grain about which so much has been said were caused by the drought and not by reduction, as was shown by the fact that imports were highest in 1936 and when there was no limit on grain crops under the conservation program and that now with crop limits in effect we are again on an export basis having exported 147 million bushels of corn in 1938 and 86 million bushels of wheat and practically none has been imported. When prices of farm products are high in the U. S., there will always be some imports, he said, and when farm prices here are low there will be practically none.

"In 1932 we imported no pork and exported a considerable quantity," he said, "and I sold hogs that summer at $1.75 per hundred. If I have to sell hogs at that price in order that we can have an export market, I will quit raising hogs." He further pointed out that foreign countries in retaliation against the Smoot-Hawley tariff law had raised tariffs to a point where it is impossible to ship to them and quoted the figures showing a tariff of $8.00 per hundred in Germany on U. S. pork and wheat tariffs of France and Italy which were as much as $2.75 per bushel. If the nations will get together and reduce these absurd tariffs the American farmer will raise the food supplies, but until they do the farmer will have to protect his own interests by trying to get a decent price for what he raises.

Those who criticize the present AAA, he stated, claimed two years ago that we were trying to starve people in this country and now they claim that the act is a failure because we have too much cotton and too much wheat and prices have dropped, and added, "I wish they would make up their minds one way or the other." A number of those who attend, both farmers and business men commented very favorably on the plain, logical manner in which Mr. Catterson presented his subject.

Tied for first place in the individual free throw contest were Dahlin, of Ord, Vincent, of Loup City, and Doshier, of Taylor, each of whom scored 9 of the 10 possible points.

Tonight's semi-finals should attract a huge crowd, because natural rivals are brought together. Ord and Comstock clash in one game, St. Paul and Dannebrog in the other. Early in the season Comstock and Ord played and the latter's coach was leading the Chautauqueurs by a safe margin when their coach objected to a decision of the referee and took his team off the floor, the game therefore going into the record books as a forfeit in Ord's favor. Practically the whole town of Comstock will be in Ord tonight to see this game, according to last week's Comstock News.

Similar rivalry exists between St. Paul and Dannebrog. A week ago on the St. Paul floor, the Apostles beat the Danes 31 to 20 but Dannebrog feels sure of revenge in a game played on a neutral floor. Many rooters from the two towns will be in Ord tonight to find out.

Winners tonight will play for the Loup Valley championship Thursday night, while tonight's losers will meet tomorrow in the consolation game.

MEN! Ask for Details ABOUT OUR $30 MADE-TO-MEASURE Suit Club

This week, in cooperation with the Royal Tailoring Co., we are organizing a "Suit Club." The first 25 men who desire to join will be welcomed as members. The plan is simple: Each member will pay into the Club $2.00 per week for 15 weeks or until he is awarded a suit. Each two weeks some member of the club will get a suit. Every member of the Club will get a suit. Its a Club where every member gets his money's worth and some get more than their money's worth.

Every Suit A $30 Value... No Member Pays Over $30

Everybody knows the Royal Tailoring Co. and the fine made-to-measure suits they make. Each member of our Club may select his own material from the big box of sample fabrics; we take the measurements carefully here; your suit is tailored to your own measurement by Royal.

Remember—the regular price of these suits is $30 and that's the most any Suit Club member will pay under this plan. You may be one of the fortunate individuals who will get a suit for only $4, $8, etc.

Come in, see the Royal fabrics and ask for details of our Suit Club plan.

Join the Club today and get a spring suit.

North Loup

Written by Mrs. Ethel Hamer

Miss Margaret Bloomencamp went to her home at Lincoln on the Friday afternoon bus.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hamer returned to their home at Pawnee City on the Thursday morning bus.

Mrs. C. B. Clark arrived home from Madison on the Saturday evening motor. She had gone over earlier in the week for a visit with her daughter, Miss Nettie, who teaches at Madison and they had planned to drive over Friday evening but the bad weather made the trip seem inadvisable and Mrs. Clark came by bus to Grand Island.

Quick action by Miss Bloomencamp with a fire extinguisher prevented what might have been a serious fire at the school house Friday afternoon. A wick on one of the oil stoves in use by the home economics class ran up too high and caused the trouble. The alarm was given and the building quickly emptied, most of the pupils thinking they were just having fire drill on a cold day. Except for smoke no damage was done.

Jim Meston of Cotestield who has been making his home with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wells for the past two months has returned to Cotestield.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Severance and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Williams were Saturday dinner guests in the Henry Williams home in Mira Valley.

Charles Mayo came down from Ord on the Saturday morning bus to consult Dr. Hemphill.

Mrs. Agnes Manchester and Donna and Miss Ruth Williams were Wednesday evening supper guests in the Erlo Babcock home.

The Wm. Geist home in Kearney suffered damage amounting to about $500.00 from fire caused by an overheated stove last Wednesday night. The Geist children were unable to attend school the next day because their clothing was burned. Mrs. Geist is the former Leto Hurley of North Loup.

Mrs. Reva Redlon was a Sunday dinner guest in the Earl Smith home.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stine Friday evening. They were celebrating Mr. Stine's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Sims entertained their pinocchlo club Wednesday night. Mrs. Ross Portis and C. J. Goodrich won high scores.

The Bryan Portis family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Portis. Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Klingensmith and the Ross Portis family were there for the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Medton and Mr. and Mrs. L. Gilles were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Abney of Sumner.

Mrs. Lyle Abney of Sumner and Mrs. Clarence Bresley were over from Comstock Saturday.

Calvin Bresley and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Bresley of Ravenna were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arley Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Arley Street and Mr. and Mrs. Clark Roby were in Ord Sunday afternoon to attend the funeral of Mrs. Street's uncle, Leon Bresley.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Barnhart and son David of Oshkosh were Saturday night guests of Mrs. Alta Barnhart. In company with Mrs. Barnhart and the Greeley Gehart family they had Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Wetzel.

Mrs. Rachel Crandall who lives with her son Devillo on the farm in Barker celebrated her ninety-first birthday Sunday, Febr. 12. Mrs. Crandall enjoys good health for one of her years. Her eyesight is poor and her hearing bad but she does the most of her household work.

Annabelle McMIndes entertained a number of her friends at her home Friday evening. Chinese Checkers were played.

Nine of Lyle McMIndes' little friends helped him celebrate his seventh birthday Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Albert McMIndes and daughter Gladys of Atkinson spent Sunday in the A. L. McMIndes home.

Grace and Harriett Manchester entertained about twenty young people at their home Saturday evening. Refreshments of ice cream and cak were served.

Word from I. A. Manchester who went to Turlock, Calif., last Tuesday for an indefinite stay with his son Reeve and family says he reached his destination all right and found that Kent Manchester had arrived from Montrose, Colo., and would also spend some time there.

Mrs. W. W. Wills with Mrs. Mills Hill as assistant hostess entertained at a bridge party Friday afternoon, there being four tables of players present. Mrs. W. H. Voehl won high score and Mrs. Roy Stine the traveling prize. Table decorations and refreshments carried out the valentine idea.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hudson entertained their dinner bridge club Friday night. Mrs. Floyd Redlon and W. O. Zanger won high score.

The February church social was held Sunday night in the basement of the Seventh Day Baptist church with about fifty attending. The committee in charge, Mr. and Mrs. George Gowen, Mrs. Edgar Still and Mrs. Harry Barber made coffee and scalloped potatoes and each family took a covered dish and sandwiches. The tables were decorated with red streamers and hearts. The program and games were in charge of Mrs. Edgar Davis. A table decorated for the ones having birthdays in February had five people who sat at it and cut the angel food cake provided for the occasion.

Jack Craft, oldest son of Bert Craft, was taken to Ord by Dr. Hemphill Friday night where he submitted to an emergency operation for appendicitis.

Five carloads of cattle were shipped out on the Saturday freight bound for Chicago. Three were Archie Geweke's and two were Will Poth's. Mr. Geweke and Mr. Poth accompanied the shipment.

Ed Green and Doug Barber each took a truck load of cattle to Omaha for V. W. Robbins Sunday night. Mr. Robbins drove down to be there when they were sold.

W. B. Barrows, father of Mrs. Cloyd Ingerson who is visiting here and H. T. Frazier of Ord entertained a group of friends with some travelogue pictures at the school house Wednesday night. Mr. Barrows' pictures were taken at the reunion of the Barrows family held last summer in Montana and some of the reels were taken in Yellowstone Park. Mr. Frazier's pictures were taken by his son in Florida and by himself in the vicinity of Ord and Woodman Hall.

The Highway View club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Adolph Hellwege.

Ann Johnson returned Friday from Kearney where she had spent a week with her children.

Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Lincoln and Mrs. Josie Kasal drove to Omaha. They were called there by the news of the death of Mrs. Kasal's sister, Mrs. Vodka. The funeral was set for Tuesday morning, and they expected to return that afternoon or Wednesday.

North Loup

Written by Mrs. ETHEL HAMER

When Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Portis were in Oklahoma for Christmas they spent two days at the 6,000 acre ranch, Woolaroo, owned by Frank Phillips of the Phillips 66 oil company. Mr. Phillips recently visited Scotia, his birthplace and it is rumored that Scotia is to have a memorial of some kind due to his benevolence. Woolaroo is not an Indian name but is taken from a combination of Wood-Lake-Rock, there being a large number of each found within the boundaries of the ranch and which with the wild life, Mr. Phillips is trying to preserve. The dining room in Woolaroo lodge is a replica of the home of Mr. Phillips' father, where Frank Phillips was born and where his father presided as Greeley county judge. There is a museum on the ranch which is constructed of native stone procured on the ranch and in the museum are many wonderful exhibits. Mrs. Portis says the time spent at Woolaroo was one of the bright spots of their trip.

CUMMINS, BURDICK & CUMMINS, Aucts. NEBRASKA STATE BANK, Clerk

Proceedings of the County Board

Regular meeting called to order by Chairman with Supervisors Jablonski, Suchanek, Bremer, Zikmund, Ball, Barber and Hansen present upon roll call.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved as read. The following balances as of January 31, 1939, were read, to-wit: First National Bank, Ord, $11,785.05; Nebraska State Bank, Ord, $55,484.79; and First National Bank, Arcadia, $16,258.18.

Report of $747.85, Direct Relief Expenditures, by Frank Kruml, County Assistance Director, during January, 1939, was accepted and ordered placed on file upon motion duly carried.

Upon motion duly carried, Frank Kruml, Relief Director, was authorized to make expenditures for direct relief during month of February, 1939, not in excess of $900.00.

Being noon, meeting recessed until 1:00 o'clock P. M., at which time again called to order with all supervisors present.

Moved that County Treasurer be directed to file proper claims against estate of Eliza H. Dumond, deceased, for $54.23, to cover total payments received by her for Old Age Assistance, under provisions of Sec. 12, of H. R. 17, passed by the 1935 Legislature. Motion duly seconded and carried.

Moved that County Treasurer be directed to file proper claims against estate of Lawrence Anderson, deceased, for $318.55, to cover total payments received by him for Old Age Assistance, under provisions of Sec. 12, of H. R. 17, passed by the 1935 Legislature. Motion duly seconded and carried.

The following official bonds bearing the endorsement of the Committee on Bonds, to-wit: Archie Waterman, Dist. No. 22 road overseer, $500.00; Mike Gregorski, Dist. No. 32 road overseer, $500.00; Cecil VanHoosen, Independent township clerk, $500.00; R. H. Petersen, Dist. No. 21 road overseer, $500.00; Fred B. Stone, Arcadia township constable, $300.00; Howard Cook, Dist. No. 13 road overseer, $500.00; Frank Kruml, County relief director, $2000.00; T. B. Hamilton, County highway commissioner, $1000.00.

Upon motion duly carried, damages to fences between NW 1/4-1-17-15 and SW 1/4-36-18-15, on account of the establishment of a public road, were awarded as follows, to-wit: to Frank Koupal, $25.00 and to Frank J. Hackel, $25.00.

Legislative Bill No. 189, now pending before the legislature, then came on to be read and discussed, after which supervisor Ball introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption, to-wit:

WHEREAS, Legislative Bill No. 189, now pending before the fifty-third session of the legislature of Nebraska, proposes to obtain central purchasing for county governments in the purchase of all supplies, materials, equipment and machinery, and establish procedure for purchase by the tax commissioner for and at the request of county boards or officers, of any and all supplies and materials and equipment, for and on behalf of the respective counties, in amount in excess of fifty dollars, and

WHEREAS, after reading and studying the provisions of said bill we have concluded and believe that the said bill is an encroachment upon and usurpation of duties, powers and responsibilities of the County Supervisors, Commissioners and Officers, elected by the people in their respective counties, to administer the affairs of their county government. That the provisions of said bill is a tendency toward the centralization of power and authority, by transferring the power and authority from regularly elected persons, bonded and responsible to their constituents, to a single appointed individual or group in the State Capitol, and makes absolutely no provision for or fixes any responsibility upon such appointed person, (the tax commissioner to the County.) That the provisions of said Legislative Bill No. 189, would prove to be uneconomical by increasing printing and publication costs to the county, provide no better methods of advertising for and buying upon bids, and would open up avenues for unfair trade practices in the purchase of such supplies and equipment for all counties of this state. We further believe it is an affront and robbery to the citizens of this state, to infer by the provisions of said bill that the persons whom they chose and elected to administer the affairs of their local and representative government are unfit and incapable of making a purchase for their county in amounts exceeding $50.00, therefore

BE IT RESOLVED, by the County Board of Supervisors of Valley County, Nebraska, in regular session assembled this seventh day of February, 1939, that after serious deliberation, and consideration of its provisions, we do consider Legislative Bill No. 189, as dangerous, unjust, ill advised, and not conducive to a good, representative form of government, and that we consider it a bad bill and are against it.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that a copy of this resolution be transmitted by the County Clerk, to Governor R. L. Cochran, to the Chairman of the Government Committee of the Legislature and to Senator John Doyle.

Motion to adopt was seconded by Supervisor Jablonski, and upon unanimous vote of all supervisors, the motion was carried and said resolution duly adopted.

BUTTER -- THE PROTECTIVE FOOD

Long Research Ends in Evidence of Vitamine Value Warning Off Colds and Pneumonia—Butter, Best Available Source in Adequate Amount.

The most startling statement which has come to the attention of the reading public recently concerning the possible danger of a food supply which is deficient in Vitamine A is found in an article in "Food & Health," the National Health Journal published by the Review and Herald Publishing Association, Takoma Park, D. C., for February, 1939.

This article is entitled "Relation of Diet to Colds and Pneumonia." The statement in question is as follows:

What, then does this observation mean—that pneumonia was reduced to the vanishing point by mere changes in food? The observation was carried on under the eye of one of the world's foremost scientists and in one of the world's greatest laboratories of medical research.

Other scientists have observed this relation of food to pneumonia one of the most notable being Dr. Robert McCarrison, who has spent many years in the study of foods and in research into the relationship of food to health and disease.

One of his latest reports was written in 1931 after two and one-fourth years of experimentation into the effects of chilled man's diet on the health of laboratory animals. In thousands of animals, fed the foods of civilized peoples, he found pneumonia occurring, along with numerous other diseases. On the other hand, in those fed a scientifically balanced and complete diet there was no pneumonia at all.

Of the common fare, that which he found to be the worst in producing diseases of the lungs was white bread, margarine, tea, sugar, jam, preserved meats, and scanty, over-cooked vegetables. What is there about such food and the so-called standard diet that allows pneumonia to develop? Numerous investigators have found it to be due, chiefly, to the lack or deficiency of vitamin A in the food. Dr. S. B. Wolbach, of Boston, in a recent paper (January, 1937) says: "The early effect of the deficiency on the respiratory mucosa (lining of respiratory tract) is a satisfactory explanation of the frequency, severity, and persistency of the pneumonias that have been in most instances responsible for death in vitamin-A-deficient infants."

The article continues at length too great for reproduction here, and in detail explains the physiological effect of adequate Vitamine A in the diet on the cells forming the mucous membranes which line the respiratory passages and other parts of the body in which the living, active cells, when promoted by proper amount of this Vitamine, are the guards of the body against the entrance of germs into the tissues. Lack of the Vitamine cause this safeguard to be reduced, resulting in liability to disease infections.

Oleomargarine, unless adequately reinforced, is deficient in Vitamine A.

Ed and Gerald Manchester, Leonard DeNoyer and Naevie Bros. filled their ice houses last week.

Mrs. Frank Flynn of Ord came down to her stepdaughter's, Mrs. Anthony Cummins' Saturday to help care for the baby and Geraldine. Mrs. Anna Tappan also spent the week end there. The baby was reported a little better this morning, Monday. We sure hope for a change for the better soon.

FACTS TO BE REMEMBERED ABOUT OLEOMARGARINE AND BUTTER.

Oleomargarine is inferior substitute for butter. It is sold only as an imitation.

In food value oleomargarine is not quite as high as lard or lard substitutes. It is entirely inferior to butter because of the low content (absence in most cases) of vitamins.

A pound of oleomargarine, used in place of butter, replaces a sale of 21 pounds of milk. Every 250 pounds of oleomargarine replaces one dairy cow.

Every (average) dairy cow sent to slaughter leaves unconsumed 1 1/2 tons of hay, 750 lbs. of corn, 500 lbs. of oats, 250 lbs. of bran and 250 lbs. of cottonseed cake each year.

Sold in the United States last year were 382,732,021 pounds of oleomargarine. To have produced this quantity of butter would have required the milk from 1,600,000 dairy cows better than average and made a market for hay and grain from millions of acres of land now considered as "surplus."

Oleomargarine is made entirely from by-product fats. The price of oleomargarine ingredients is fixed in a market noted for its low price levels. Soap fats, imitation lard fats and oleomargarine fats are sold in the same markets. The price range the past year has been from 5 1/2 to 12 cents a pound.

The "Dairyman's Pledge" sent out by the Ohio Dairy Stabilization Committee in its merchandising campaign to move surplus butter, contains the following significant line:

"I will not use substitutes in place of butter."

Bruce Copeland Commits Suicide At Home Friday

North Loup Farmer Cuts His Throat with Razor; Love for Dead Child Cause.

North Loup—(Special)—Bruce Copeland, 64-year-old farmer who lived south of this village, committed suicide Friday.

Domestic trouble and the fact that he always had brooded over the death four years ago of a favorite daughter, Dorothy, are blamed for his act.

About noon Friday he told Mrs. Copeland that he was going to "end it all." She went to the R. O. Babcock home, their nearest neighbor, and told Mrs. Babcock what he had said. Soon afterward Mr. Babcock and Bert Craft went to the Copeland home and, receiving no response to their knock, entered and found Mr. Copeland dead.

He had cut his throat with a razor and indications were that he had been there for a time in a chair under the picture of his dead daughter. Then he had cut arteries in his arms, had gone to the bedroom where he took a strip from a bedsheet and formed a noose that he tied about his neck with the other end attached to a bedpost, and had laid down to die.

Greely county officials made a routine investigation and pronounced his death a clear case of suicide.

Mr. Copeland was born at Hastings on May 20, 1874 and at the age of 13 came with his parents to live on a Davis Creek farm which was for many years the family home.

On May 14, 1916 he was married to Miss Ada VonMeter and to them five children were born, Marlan, Dorothy, Erma, Jean and a child who died in infancy. Mr. Copeland seemed to have special love and concern for Dorothy, a child who was never strong from birth. To this love and devotion the child responded with a like sincerity and admiration. Her death four years ago was a great shock to her father and other members of the family noticed a change in his attitude toward life from that time.

Mr. Copeland was a good husband and father, a good neighbor and a friend who could be trusted. He was a man of good habits, highly respected in communities where he lived.

Surviving besides the widow and children are four brothers, Jesse, Bates, Joe and Leon, and one sister, Mrs. Maggie Honeycutt.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at the home with Rev. L. Hill, pastor of the S. D. B. church in charge, assisted by Rev. W. C. Birmingham, of the Methodist church. Burial was in the Scotia cemetery by the side of his daughter Dorothy.

Ord Co-op Oil Company Held Meeting Wednesday

The Ord Co-operative Oil company held its annual meeting at the American Legion hall Wednesday afternoon. There was a good attendance and much interest was shown. Twenty-five names were selected from the list of those attending, and each received 5 gallons of gas.

Emmett Sallee of Kansas City, Mo., fieldman for the Consumers' Co-operative association, of which the Ord Co-op is a member, was present and gave a fine talk on co-operation, bringing home to his hearers by quoting figures and facts that co-operation pays.

In spite of hard times the organization made some money, as is shown by the fact that a dividend of 4% was paid on all purchases, besides the usual 6% interest on all stock. The Ord Co-operative Oil company was first founded in 1928, and has been a success each year.

In the business session two directors were to be chosen and because of their outstanding work W. H. C. Noll, president, and James G. Hastings, secretary, were chosen to succeed themselves. Mr. Noll has been a director for some time and Mr. Hastings is the only member of the board who has been a director since the organization of the company.

Farm Program Compliance Well Ahead of Last Year

According to information given out by Chairman Charles Veleba of the county committee Monday, a total of 406 Valley county farmers had signed compliances in the ten precincts in which meetings had been held. The committeemen were unable to handle all those who wished to sign up at the meetings, but a member of the precinct committee will visit all those who are interested in the near future.

At the present rate it is believed that at least 600 will sign in the first sign-up, and others will follow later. This is far ahead of 1938, and the committee is well pleased with the interest and co-operation shown in all the precincts in which they had held meetings.

Janssens Are Unhurt In Auto Collision Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Janssen had a narrow escape from injury Sunday when their car crashed into another car which drove out into the highway in front of them at the Elms roadhouse three miles south of Grand Island. They were returning from Hastings where they had been to visit his mother, who was ill in a hospital there.

As they were passing the roadhouse a car belonging to the Cummings garage drove out in front of them and the collision was unavoidable. The front axle and steering gear were bent, the front bumper torn off and a fender crumpled. The garage took the blame for the wreck and made all the necessary repairs. Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Janssen was injured.

Coach Brockman Taken Ill During Tournament

Taken seriously ill with hemorrhagic ulcers of the stomach during the night last Wednesday, Coach Helmut F. Brockman of the Ord schools was rushed to the Ord hospital by ambulance at 7:30 Thursday morning, where he is still under the care of doctors. It is a pleasure to report that Coach Brockman's condition is greatly improved.

He has suffered for a long time with stomach ulcers and the attack Wednesday night is the first serious one he has had. Nervous strain incident to the basketball season and the Loup Valley tournament are to blame for the severity of the attack. He had lost a large amount of blood when taken to the hospital and at first it was thought blood transfusions might be necessary. Alvin Jensen volunteered as a blood donor and his blood was found to be of the proper type.

Dr. Miller said yesterday that he would probably give Mr. Brockman a blood transfusion in order to speed his recovery. The Chanticleer cagers had just won their way to the finals of the Loup Valley tournament last Wednesday night when Brockman was taken ill. Thursday, under Assistant Coach Frank Lee's direction, they beat out St. Paul 20 to 19 for the conference title and their victory cheered Coach Brockman greatly.

In the five years he has been athletic mentor here his basketball teams have won the Loup Valley championship four times, losing only in 1936. In football, his Ord team lost in 1934 but has won the Loup Valley championship every year since. Since the Mid-Six conference was formed, Brockman-coached football teams have won every year and his basketball teams won the championship once.

In football, Ord teams have gone undefeated in their last 36 games. Coach Brockman's record in athletics is the most remarkable in Nebraska. Doctors now believe it will be possible to control Coach Brockman's ailment by means of diet and that an operation will not be necessary. He will be in the hospital several days.

Highway No. 16 Now Changed to No. 92

Highway No. 16, the short-cut route that many people of the upper Loup valleys follow when going to Omaha through St. Paul has been renumbered, its new number being No. 92. Markers are now being installed along the entire route of old No. 16 from Chicago to North Platte.

Among the advantages claimed for the Nebraska portion of No. 92 are that it is the shortest and most direct route from Omaha west to the state line, that it has the lowest number of curves, fewest "slow order" miles, fewest viaducts and underpasses of any east-west highway crossing the state.

McQuillan Sells Grill To Ben Clark of Rapid City

F. E. McQuillan closed a deal the past week whereby Mr. and Mrs. Ben Clark of Rapid City, S. D., become the proprietors of Mac's Grill. The Clarks came here about a week ago and made preliminary arrangements for the purchase. They returned Thursday and rented the Dr. C. J. Miller property at 1813 O street, into which they moved at once.

An inventory was taken Sunday and Mr. and Mrs. Clark took over the business Monday. Mr. Clark says that the present help will be retained and the business carried on much the same as it has been in the past. He has had experience in this line of work before. Read Mr. Clark's announcement in this week's Quiz.

Coyote Hunt Febr. 26th.
A coyote hunt covering several sections in both Valley and Greely counties is being planned for Sunday, Febr. 26 by the Wagner boys. Any hunters who wish to take part are asked to meet at the Emil Babcock farm at 1:00 that day and the hunt will start immediately. Coyotes are plentiful there, it is claimed.

Chanticleers Edge Out St. Paul, Win Loup Valley Title

Ord Boys Fight Hard to Cheer Ailing Coach, Win by a Score of 20 to 19.

Fighting their heads off for Coach Brockman, who is seriously ill in the hospital, the Ord Chanticleers gave to basketball fans and spectators one of the most thrilling basketball games of the season, as they downed St. Paul Wildcats by a score of 20 to 19, in the finals of the Loup Valley basketball tournament Thursday evening. The game was one of the closest ever played on the Ord floor. Ord was out for revenge for the 36 to 30 defeat inflicted upon them the Friday before by the St. Paul team.

St. Paul started the scoring with a free throw, made by Lynch. Immediately afterwards, Lynch completed a field goal and the score read 3 to 0. The first quarter ended in a 6 to 6 deadlock.

At the end of the quarter, both teams came back fighting valiantly to break the tie. In spite of all their efforts the half ended 11 to 11. In the third quarter, Ord failed to make a score and the quarter ended with a 4 point lead for St. Paul, 15 to 11. Ord came back strong in the last quarter and tied the score 19 to 19. In the last two minutes of the game, Severson, who was fouled by Hansich of St. Paul, made good his free throw and gave Ord their one-point lead. St. Paul was unable to score and the game ended 20 to 19 in favor of the Chanticleers. Dahlin of Ord, and Nielsen of St. Paul were high point men for their teams. The Ord team was directed by Assistant Coach Frank Lee.

In the preliminary game, Burwell neatly upset the Arcadia team by a 30 to 13 score. This was one of the big surprises of the evening, as Arcadia came the nearest to being the "dark horse" of the tourney in their game with Danneberg. In Wednesday night's games, Ord upset their old rival, Comstock, by a 28 to 22 score. At no time during the entire game did the Comstock Pirates threaten to take the lead. St. Paul, who had previously defeated Danneberg by a 31 to 30 score on the St. Paul floor, took a decisive victory over the Hanes by a 25 to 22 score. The Hanes were overtaken by the Wildcats when three of their best men, Hansen, Adams, and K. Thompson went out of the game on fouls.

Ord to Play Nelson in Class A Tourney

By their victory over St. Paul in the Loup Valley tournament last Thursday, the Ord Chanticleers are eligible and will enter the district Class A tournament at Hastings, which begins March 1. Ord's first game will be with Nelson on the first day of the tourney at 8 o'clock in the evening. Nelson, which has a smaller school than Ord, has played twelve games in their conference and lost one. Should the Chanticleers defeat Nelson, they will then meet Red Cloud. And, if they defeat Red Cloud, they will meet Hastings in the semi-finals, providing that Hastings wins all their games. Hastings' first game is with St. Paul.

Sports writers have chosen the four seeded teams as Hastings, York, Grand Island and Ord. Other teams entered are Central City, Minden, Aurora, Superior, Red Cloud, Nelson, St. Paul and Sutton.

Debates Will be Broadcast.

Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio will take part in 13 broadcasts on "Foundations of Democracy" beginning Febr. 21. The participation will be in the form of a debate with Congressman T. V. Smith, Illinois New Dealer. The debates will come over the Columbia broadcasting system, each Tuesday evening at from 7:30 to 8:00, Central Standard Time. The opening topic, discussed Tuesday evening, was, "The American Way of Life."

Mira Valley Young People Oppose War

At a meeting Sunday evening led by Elmer Horvickel, young people of the Evangelical church of Mira Valley took a plebiscite and voted solidly in opposition to the United States engaging in war.

In case of armed conflict our government should prohibit shipment of munitions to countries at war, 95 per cent of the young people voted. 100 per cent voted against selling war materials to countries at war. When war threatens the United States should act with other nations to prevent it, the group decided, and only in case of invasion would they take up arms.

Saturday Is Deadline For Beet Allotments

Persons who desire to produce sugar beets are warned that application for acreage for 1939 must be made before Saturday, Febr. 25. This may be done by mailing a written request to the district sugar beet committee, in care of the American Crystal Sugar company, of Grand Island.

One qualification for payment is that the marketing of sugar beets shall not exceed the production of the number of acres allotted to the farming unit. This qualification was exempt for the 1937 crop, and was not effective on the 1938 crop, but becomes necessary for 1939 because of the exceptional 1938 production.

Distribution of acreage will be in accordance with procedure established under the terms of the sugar act, which provide for consideration of history of production and ability to produce sugar beets. The district allotment committee is composed of Carl W. Kjar, Lexington; Ray J. Francis, Gibbon; Herman Scheel, Grand Island; and L. A. Butterfield, Burwell.

Damage Results When Cars Crash

Both cars were damaged when a car driven by Frank Beran hit the left side of one driven by Elmer Christoffersen at the intersection of 18th and K streets at 9:45 Saturday morning. In addition, Mr. Beran suffered a cut on the head from the broken glass and was badly shaken up. He was taken to the Ord hospital for examination but released shortly afterward.

Mr. Christoffersen was driving east on K street at a slow rate of speed and Mr. Beran was driving north on 18th street at somewhat greater speed, according to witnesses. The Beran car hit the Christoffersen car near the left rear wheel, swung it to the northeast and into the ditch at the corner. The Beran car also went to the northeast, climbed the curb and came to a stop in the John Andersen yard.

The Christoffersen car had the body bent in, glass broken, a front wheel and front fender damaged and the frame sprung. The Beran car had glass broken out, the bumper broken loose and a tire blown out. Mr. Christoffersen escaped without injury.

Mrs. Emily Burrows Will Be 92 Friday

One of Ord's oldest residents is Mrs. Emily Burrows, who will observe her 92nd birthday Friday, Febr. 24. Although she is almost blind, Mrs. Burrows' health is otherwise excellent. She has a remarkable memory and delights in telling of incidents of pioneer life. Her husband, Smith Burrows, died many years ago. Her three sons, Raymond, Guy and John Burrows, all live in or near Ord, and there are ten grandchildren and eight great grandchildren, with all of whom Mrs. Burrows is a great favorite.

MRS. EMILY BURROWS. Mrs. Burrows was born in Norway on Febr. 24, 1847 and came to the United States at the age of 12.

Ord High School Students Entertain Cosmopolitans

At the meeting of the Ord Cosmopolitan club Monday evening at the City Cafe, Kenneth Draper was introduced as a new member. Mark Tolson was present as the guest of Hilding Pearson. At the close of the meal three solo day aspirants entertained the members. Dick Kouppal played a baritone solo, Harvey Dahlin sang a tenor solo and Eugene Puncoschar played a clarinet solo.

Farmers Store to Meet.

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Farmers Grain & Supply Co., twice postponed because of snow and cold weather, will be held Thursday, Febr. 23 at the Bohemian hall. A quorum of stockholders regardless of weather is the desire of Wm. Heuck, general manager.

C. S. Jones Dies At Hayes Center Sunday at Age 77

Veteran Nebraska Educator in Ill Health 2 Months; Funeral Here Friday.

At the home of his daughter Mrs. Kirby McGrew in Hayes Center, Neb., Sunday morning, occurred the death of C. S. Jones, 77, former Nebraska educator and school superintendent of the Ord schools. His body is being brought to Ord tomorrow and the funeral services will be held at 3:30 Friday afternoon in the Methodist church, with burial to be in the Ord cemetery.

C. S. JONES.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones had been living in Clarkson since they left Ord about 18 years ago. Mr. Jones enjoyed fairly good health until two months ago, when he became bedfast. About a week ago his wife, who taught in the Clarkson schools, resigned her position to devote all her time to the care of her husband. His condition became worse, however, and Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Glen Auble, of Ord, and Mrs. Kirby McGrew, of Hayes Center, went to Clarkson and it was decided to take Mr. Jones to Hayes Center so he could be under Dr. McGrew's care.

The Jones family came to Ord in 1910 from Clarkson, Neb., and Mr. Jones assumed superintendency of the Ord schools, a position he held 10 years, being succeeded by Herbert L. Cushing.

Other Nebraska cities in which he served as school superintendent were Sargent, Auburn, Crawford, Clark and Clarkson. He was an instructor of real talent and an executive of ability. Thousands of Nebraska's best citizens today testify by their character and achievements the thorough training they received as children in schools headed by Superintendent Jones.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Glen D. Auble, of Ord, Mrs. Kirby McGrew, of Hayes Center, and one son, H. E. Jones of Hood River, Ore.

Board of Education Reelects All Teachers

All instructors in the Ord schools were reelected by the board of education at a special meeting Monday evening, ten being given increases in their salaries, it was reported today by Ralph W. Norman, secretary.

Superintendent C. C. Thompson was given a 3-year contract last year so his name did not come up for discussion Monday. Coach H. F. Brockman and Dean S. Duncan, director of music, each was given a salary increase of $100, their new stipends being $1,700 per year. Increases of $100 for Principal Stoddard and B. A. Eddy also were voted. Keith Wolfe, junior high instructor, received a $75 raise and Frank Lee a $50 raise. Four other teachers got $25 and $50 increases also.

World War Veteran Passes in Florida

Edward Klima, World war veteran, passed away at 4:00 a. m. Sunday at a veteran's hospital in Florida, where he has been several years. The body is being brought to Ord, where funeral services will be held from the Ord Methodist church Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The relatives will meet at the Pearson and Anderson chapel before the services. Rev. Mearl C. Smith, former pastor of the church, will have charge of the services. The body will be taken to the National cemetery for burial, and the American Legion will have charge of the services at the grave. A full obituary will be printed next week.

Two Sales for Next Week.

Two public sales are advertised to be held next week in the Ord territory. Anton Swoboda's clean-up is Monday, Febr. 27, and A. J. Adamek's auction is Wednesday, March 1. Both men are quitting farming and will dispose of everything. See their ads in this paper.

Kearney Symphony Orchestra to Play in Ord March 2nd

Music lovers of Ord and vicinity take note that on Thursday, March 2 the 74-piece Kearney symphony orchestra under the direction of Harold Cerny will play at the high school auditorium, their appearance being sponsored by the music department of the schools.

The Kearney orchestra is one of the few symphony orchestras in Nebraska having complete instrumentation. Mr. Cerny, the conductor, is a graduate of the University of Iowa, was an instructor at that university several years, and played first violin in the Denver and Fort Worth symphony orchestras two seasons.

Gavin Doughty, pianist and organist of note, appears as soloist with the Kearney orchestra.

Compositions to be included in the concert next Thursday are "The Roman Carnival Overture," by Berlioz, Saint-Saens "Concerto in G Minor," the "Symphony in E Minor" by Antonin Dvorak and the "Polovetsian Dances" from the opera Prince Igor by Borodin.

Papers Made Out for Ord Postoffice Site

Another chapter was written in the history of Ord's new postoffice building Tuesday when the necessary papers were made out for the transfer of the southwest part of Block 12, original townsite of Ord to the United States by the Sack Lumber and Coal company upon the payment of the sum of $8,500.

The plot of ground is specifically described as commencing at the southwest corner of Block 12, running north 18 1/2 feet, thence east 102 feet, thence south 18 1/2 feet, thence west 102 feet to the place of beginning and includes all that part of the company's holdings lying west of the office.

Mr. Sack took the papers with him to Omaha today, and the transfer will take place officially immediately upon receipt of the money by him. However, it is stipulated that he has 30 days in which to remove his buildings and building material from the lots, and if he is not done at the end of that time, he is to pay a reasonable rental.

Ord Hi's Solo Day To Be Held Thursday

The annual solo day presented by the music department of Ord high school will be held Thursday afternoon and evening. Over 75 students will participate in this event under the supervision of Prof. Dean S. Duncan.

Critics are to be Professor Lenz, band director, and Professor Tempel, choral director from the University school of music at Lincoln.

March 6th New Date of Election Hearing

The final county court hearing in the Misko-Lee election contest case has again been postponed, this time to Monday, March 6, it was stated by Judge John L. Andersen yesterday.

Loses Tip of Finger.

Mrs. Carl Sorenson lost the tip of a little finger Monday evening in an unusual accident. She was talking over the telephone and was resting her hand on the edge of a door. Not noticing her hand there, Mrs. Sorenson closed the door and the tip of her finger was pinched off. She was attended by Dr. C. W. Weekes.

Tuberculosis Address To Be Given March 3

Sponsored by the Speakers' Bureau of the Educational Committee, a department of the Nebraska State Medical association, a talk on the subject of tuberculosis will be given in the auditorium at the Ord high school on the evening of March 3. The name of the speaker for that date has not as yet been announced, but will be available next week.

Dr. F. A. Barba has been selected as chairman of the movement to enlist the interest of all civic, religious and fraternal organizations in this important meeting. All are requested to use every means possible to publicize the meeting and get out as large an attendance as possible.

More Favorable Proposal Made By Ord, Burwell

Would Give No. Loup District 6 Mill Spread First Year to Assist Irrigation.

A new and more favorable offer for the sale and repurchase of electric energy was made Friday to the North Loup district by the city of Ord and the village of Burwell, after a meeting of their special power committee.

To help the district in its financing problems, Ord and Burwell offered the district a sliding scale proposition which would net the district $13,000 the first year, on the basis of present consumption.

Revenue from sale of water for irrigation will be smallest the first year and increase as more land is leveled and goes under the ditch, district officials have claimed. Acceptance of the latest proposal made by Ord and Burwell would give the district more money from sale of electricity the first year, less each year as irrigation revenue increases.

On the first 25 kilowatt hours per capita per month, Ord and Burwell would pay the district 2c per kwh., on the next 25 would pay 1 1/2c per kwh., on the next 25 would pay 1c per kwh., and on all over that amount would pay 9 mills per kwh. This proposal to buy was conditioned upon the North Loup district buying electricity from Ord and Burwell at a rate of 6 mills in each bracket less than each municipality paid the district, during the first year; 5 mills less the second year; 4 mills less the third year; and 3 mills less the fourth and fifth years.

"This would amount to a payment or subsidy toward insuring irrigation for farmers of the North Loup valley," the proposal frankly stated.

As an alternate proposition, Ord and Burwell are willing to furnish power to the district for its pumping operations at a price of 8 mills, it was stated, and will if requested submit an offer to sell juice to the district for resale to other customers.

"Ord and Burwell have been endeavoring to cooperate with the district in seeking a solution of any and all differences and will continue to do so as long as the same spirit of cooperation is shown by the district, but any attempted pressure by anyone upon any of the parties now negotiating might tend to make it more difficult, or even impossible, to reach an amicable settlement," the resolution warned.

Duemy Cut About Head When Auto Hits Bridge

Paul Duemy met with a car accident Tuesday afternoon when a fire blew out as he drove upon the Dane Creek bridge west of Bussell Park, throwing the car against the east railing. He was traveling north at the time, and his head was cut in two places by glass from the broken windshield.

Damage to the car, while extensive, was superficial and easily repaired. It included the lamp, fender and right front tire, and the windshield. Dr. Lee Nay checked Mr. Duemy over and stated that he will be all right as soon as the cuts heal.

J. F. Webster Dies at Knoxville Hospital

Several Ord people went to St. Paul Tuesday morning to attend the funeral of J. F. (Dan) Webster, postmaster of that city and owner of the St. Paul Phonograph, who died Saturday at a war veterans' hospital in Knoxville, Ia. He had been ill since Dec. 15.

Mr. Webster was one of the North Loup valley's most prominent citizens, interested in amateur athletics and active throughout his life in every movement for the betterment of his community or the state.

He had served as president of the Nebraska Press association and at the time of his death was president of the Nebraska Postmasters' association.

Mrs. Ed Gnaetzer, of Ord, is a daughter of the late Mr. Webster. He was very well known in Ord, having been here many times to civic meetings, to baseball and football games and to play in bridge contests. The community of Ord extends sympathy to its neighboring city of St. Paul in its loss of so beloved a citizen.

Ben Janssen's Mother Dies.

Ben Janssen was called to Hastings very early Tuesday morning by the information that his mother Mrs. A. L. Volz, was very low. He left at once, but did not arrive until after she had passed away at 5:15 a. m. Mrs. Volz was 73 years of age, and is survived by three children, Ben of Ord, Mrs. Lester Coulter of Hastings, and Mrs. Ray Damerell of Hastings. Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at Hastings.

—World Day of Prayer at U. B. church 2:00 p. m., Friday, Febr. 24 instead of at Methodist church.

OUR TWO GREAT MEN.

February, the shortest month of the year, has the honor of containing the birthdays of our nation's two greatest men, Washington and Lincoln. Lincoln was born ten days before and 77 years after the Father of his Country. About equally great in the esteem of the nation, these men were individually almost as different as day and night.

Washington was born in comparative wealth, and, with the exception of a few years during the Revolution, did not know the meaning of the word poverty. Lincoln was born on the frontier, in a log house, and in poverty. Throughout nearly all his life he had to struggle against the encroachments of poverty and debt, and died a poor man.

Washington had the advantages of such schooling as the times had to offer and was a man of polish and refinement. He was trained to carry on various enterprises in his early years, and because of these advantages became a leader in time of war. Lincoln picked up his education wherever he could find it, but developed a very retentive memory.

Opportunity knocked early at Washington's door, and at the age of sixteen he was surveying the lands of Lord Fairfax in Virginia. He was an adjutant general of militia before he became of age. He was a success at whatever he tried throughout his life, and many were the honors heaped upon him for his successes in varying fields of endeavor.

In marked contrast, Lincoln waited long before opportunity came, and even then, he was doomed to a hundred disappointments before he became a success. Had Lincoln died ten years before he did, his name would not have occupied a very large space in history. In fact it might seem that he lived fifty years building the foundation for the final six years that people know best.

Washington lived to see the ambitions of his life realized, served the new nation eight years as its first president, and was retired from active life at the time of his death. Lincoln served as president through more than four years of the momentous time in the nation's history, and was swept into eternity by an assassin's bullet at the height of his career.

In one respect these two great men might be said to be alike, and that was in physical strength. Even in this there was a vast difference, for while both were powerful men, and took delight in feats of strength, Washington had the smoothness of the well-trained athlete, while Lincoln was at all times awkward and ungainly.

Washington had far more opportunities than Lincoln, but failed to take full advantage of them. He was an indifferent scholar, a poor speller, and only fair on composition. He excelled only in those things for which he took a liking, but made a remarkable success in them. He learned easily but did not have the retentive memory that made Lincoln notable.

Lincoln found it difficult to learn, but by constant study improved himself in this respect. What he learned he never forgot. It was this that made the great man he was in the closing years of his life. He became truly great by always finding time for the little things in life.

There is no parallel in history of two men being so radically different in so many respects, yet so equally dividing the homage and respect of their fellow men. This fact should lend encouragement to young people in all walks of life, for it proves that the mere incident of birth or social environment has little to do with success in life in America. The opportunity is here. It is for us to take advantage of it.

NEBRASKA MINERALS.

Nebraska is listed as one of the few states in the nation practically devoid of mineral wealth. It is a well-established fact that there is not enough coal in Nebraska to mention as a mineral asset. Coal, to be of any value to a state, must be found in sufficient quantity and of high enough quality to give coal from other states some competition.

The presence of coal in Nebraska is of little value except as a geological fact, but there may be coal of greater value even than coal lying far beneath the surface. At times in the past oil companies have leased lands in different sections of Nebraska with the intention of putting down oil wells, but have failed to go farther, probably because they were unable under the state law to lease the mineral rights for a period longer than five years.

Oil leases in states where longer leases are permitted, are made for a fixed term of years and as long thereafter as oil can be produced in paying quantities. Under this type of lease oil companies have no hesitation in going into the oil production business in a big way, as soon as it is proven that petroleum can be obtained in paying quantities.

Before this can be learned it is necessary to drill a test well, and it would probably take at least two years to put down such a well. All structures during this period would be of a temporary nature, but as soon as the presence of oil was determined more substantial buildings would be built, and preparations made for a long stay.

Bills under consideration in the legislature of Nebraska at present which would broaden the present law and permit the granting of leases for ten years and as long thereafter as oil could be produced in paying quantities. This is the same as the mineral law in most states, while some have no restrictions. If we want the big companies to spend their money looking for oil in Nebraska, we must give them the same chance as elsewhere.

The short time lease law does not apply to domestic capital, but the trouble is that nobody in Nebraska is actively engaged in the production of oil, and does not have the necessary financial backing to put down a test well. Thus the law which was designed to protect home capital, is preventing development in Nebraska by the only people who would do so.

There are some mineral mines in Nebraska which are being worked, such as the chalk hills mine near Scotia, upon which the G. H. Nelson Paint company of Omaha has a lease. This material is used by them to make more than fifty different articles, chief of which is an ingredient for paint. Similar quarries have been worked in a number of places in the state over a period of years.

A small deposit of a powdery substance in a hill about three miles north of Burwell is of interest. It seems to have many of the qualities necessary in a high grade metal polish, and is used to a great deal there for that purpose. It is in the form of a light solid rock when first found but disintegrates upon exposure to the air. The only reason it could not be worked profitably is that there is not enough of it to last long.

Nebraska's chief mineral wealth, if it can be so called, lies in the unlimited quantity of high grade gravel and building sand that can be found over the greater part of the state. There is also an unlimited amount of clay which can be used in the making of brick, and for the surfacing of sandy roads. Some day an economical method of extracting aluminum will be found, and Nebraska has a sufficient supply to furnish the world its aluminum for a long time to come.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Farmers are wondering which would be the best hybrid corn to try here. There are many kinds on the market, and some are better adapted to our climate than others.

Four corn hybrids have been certified by the Nebraska Crop Growers' Association. They are Iowa 939, Nebr. 238, Nebr. 110, and Nebr. 252. A fifth one, Nebr. 463, may be added in the near future.

Of these certified hybrids, Iowa 939 has been the highest average yielder in trials over the state during the past six years. This variety has averaged 22 per cent above ordinary corn. It is medium early, adjusts itself to either upland or lowland, and does well under irrigation. Iowa 939 seems to be a good bet for the North Loup valley. It ranked second in the 1935 Valley county tests.

Nebr. 238 is a medium early type, and is suited for either dry land or irrigation. Its six-year average production is 17 per cent higher than standard open pollinated corn.

Nebr. 110 outyielded all other hybrids last fall in the Valley county experiments. It has produced 14 per cent better than ordinary corn in state trials over the six year period. Being medium late, Nebr. 110 is best fitted for irrigated fields or lowlands.

Nebr. 252 has a six-year yield average of 16 per cent more than ordinary corn. It is medium early and thought to be quite well adapted here.

Many other hybrids are being sold locally. Some of these will probably turn out to be just as good, or even better than the ones named above. But farmers ought not to plant a large acreage to some hybrid with which they are not familiar. No hybrid has been tried enough here to know its merits over a period of years under local conditions.

Chosen Alumni President. Merrill E. My Own Column

The hardest thing this administration has to explain is the fact that there are still about the same number of unemployed as there were when Hoover quit. In 1932 the democrats said the republicans were to blame for the fact that between ten and twelve million people were unemployed. They refused to admit that a world wide depression, undoubtedly resulting from the world war, was the cause. Now after six years, when there are just about the same number unemployed, naturally they have trouble explaining the fact. Of course they won't admit that the party in power is to blame. No one knows what conditions would have been by now if this administration hadn't spent something like twenty billions of the people's money to make work and give relief.

And now President Roosevelt has got the job of appointing another member of the U. S. supreme court to fill the place of Justice Brandeis, resigned. Judge Brandeis was a progressive in the general acceptance of the term. The president will no doubt appoint another progressive. I hope he does. We need progressives in every office and every business. I don't mean red dyed fanatics. I have no doubt the president will look for a man whom he thinks will uphold the New Deal. I have confidence to believe that any man with the ability and experience necessary to hold such a position will perform the duties of the office with satisfaction to the great majority of the American people. The loyalty and love of country of that kind of a man will place him above the dictates of petty politics. Any other man, chosen with an eye solely to the upholding of the personal ideals of the president will, I believe, be rejected by the senate. Five years ago such a man might have been confirmed with little thought of his fitness but that time is now past.

In talking with my neighbors I find plenty of them who believe that the President intends to try to run for a third term. Some of them fear that he will and others hope that he will. But I do not hold that belief. He may be forced into running again; perhaps he would do so rather than see a man of whom he does not approve get the nomination. If he would then it simply means that he would rather see his party defeated in 1940, than to see what he calls the stand-pat branch of the party get control of it. He knows that neither he nor any other American can be elected for the third consecutive term as president.

I liked that editorial that Carl Dale wrote for the guest editor column last week. I am glad Eugene decided to institute that new department. I think a lot of good can come from such a department if those invited to do so, will give the matter thoughtful attention, as did Mr. Dale. John L. Ward is doing a good job of writing editorials. Many years of much reading peculiarly fits him to do so, but his work can be supplemented by more than fifty thinking citizens of Valley and adjoining counties in a year's time if they will cooperate when asked.

We of the Quiz management are always looking for new things that will be of interest to our readers. For some time we have known that not as many of our readers as formerly were taking a daily paper and we have felt that we should try to meet that condition by printing more outside news. At this time, and the same condition is going to continue for the next year and a half at least, much important news comes out of Washington. So, a few weeks ago we bought a couple of services from the national capitol and now I am wondering if you are reading them and enjoying them. We are all glad if you like them. They are non-partisan, written by some of the best commentators, and purport to give conditions just as they are. If they are not appreciated we would be glad to know it, as we could save the money they cost. If they are liked and wanted we hope to continue them.

I sure do appreciate that new picture of me which the boys are putting at the top of this department. Duemey made it from a pen drawing made by Ilene Weller, his assistant in the engraving department, and er-er, well, guess that is all I can say about that combination at this time.

Mrs. Bill Wianski spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of her parents near Arcadia. Mr. and Mrs. Ign. Nevriy.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT! The Good Old Days Good Time to Sell Short Shavings

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

The Good Old Days. At Scotia the other day, in one of the school buses, the seniors held a sneak day, absconding with one or more of the teachers to Omaha and other points of interest. While gone on these treks, the students take in many points of interest and of educational value that they might never get an opportunity to see again on another time. This event was kept a profound secret from everyone except the members of the senior class and the teachers and the parents of the seniors and the bus driver and the brothers and sisters of the seniors and a few of the best friends of the seniors and these few friends were told not to tell anyone except perhaps their best friend.

I well remember when I was a small hellion in high school and I remember too our sneak day, and if I do say it, not with a sense of bragging either, but it was a sneak day that was a sneak day. For weeks ahead of the date set we planned the event. Some of the more angelic girls demurred a trifle, fearing dire consequences, but finally consented provided it was unanimous. On the day set we swiped, by some excuse, a few sandwiches and met at the depot. A few told their folks they needed to carry their dinner that day.

We boarded the train clandestinely and journeyed all the way to Scotia Junction. There we hurried off to the wilds of the chalk hills for a round of games and pleasure. In the afternoon, some of us walked the track to Scotia and took in the town. I remember well the saloon there (there being none in N. L.) and how we peeped in the window as we hurried by. We were at the water tank when the train came back from G. I., in the evening. To pass time waiting for it, we boys hurried rocks up into the water spout and when it was let down a ton of rocks more or less rained down into the water tank. I remember yet the little sermon the engineer administered.

We arrived home tired and happy, meeting the folks at the supper table none too happy over the experience. The teachers, too, the next day, were sour and surly. They talked of expelling the whole class and cutting each of our grades ten per cent and of making the whole class stay in after school enough nights to make up the time.

It was only talk, however. It was out of the question to expel us all; ridiculous to make the brilliant ones make up the time; almost impossible to do anything but keep mum about it all. It was a thrilling experience for we members of the class, and one of the first to start this sneak day institution so well established now days.

Good Time To Sell. "The one thing that is the trouble with the cattle feeding business this year," Vera Robbins said, "is that no one had enough of them." Everyone is making money. It is the same with the hogs and as a result everyone, or nearly everyone, is getting back into the hog business. Many people think that beginning about next September the hog market will start to slip and then there will be the headaches.

With hogs the price they are now everyone seems to forget that it was only a few years ago we were selling them for $2.50 a hundred, and for sows less. Ivan Kendrick said he sold a few big 400 pound sows for $6.00 each. C. Mortensen has it doped out that it takes nine months to get back into the hog business. It takes longer for the cattle, but the price will break sometime sure as the devil. And it will be the devil when it does too. In my young life I have sold fat steers for a nickel and bought good feeders for four and five cents. That price would make plenty of head-aches for these men who are buying nine cent feeders today to carry over to another year.

Wherever we hear the hue and cry to get back into the livestock business, banks are urged to loan money for stock purchases and clubs are sponsoring such movements for boys. It is all a noble undertaking but I remember my father telling in 1917 or there about (please excuse the personal reference) "that this is not the time to stock up, but the time to sell and pay debts."

The time to get into the hog and cattle business was last year. Alfred Christensen has been having a land office business selling brood sows at fancy prices. But now it is too late to grab the apples from last year's business. Perhaps the time of prosperity with livestock will hang on another year. We hope so.

Short Shavings. In hard times, they say the sales increase on the three following articles: Neckties, canned goods and coffee. Neckties sales always increase, and the reason is, people think, because the buyer has not the money for a new suit and he thinks the new tie will be a poor substitute. Canned goods are thought to be a lot of good food for a small amount of money. Coffee is drunk in place of something more expensive and stronger.

In spite of the fact that the oil station men say they are losing money (which none of us take very much at heart) these gas wars that are put on so regularly in Ord do a lot toward attracting people to that town to trade. In the domestic science class my daughter has been learning to make soup. I said I knew how to do that. How is it you say? Why, boil up the dish rag, of course. And then there is the story of the city chap, the pheasant hunter, perhaps, who said to the dried out farmer, "I don't see how you make a living here. Why there's no corn crop or anything here."

WHAT I'D SAY -- If I Were Editor

A Guest Editorial written by Rev. C. L. Hill. In this Department each week some Valley County citizen will contribute his views on a subject of general interest. I have never had editorial ambitions, however for a period of eight or nine years I did contribute weekly to a paper published at Farina, Ill., and was given the front column on the front page, and wrote under the heading "Thoughts of a Seventh Day Baptist Minister." I write in the same vein here.

In such a time as this I should caution people not to be hasty in forming opinions, and should advise against malicious propaganda, used for no other purpose than to distract thought and make it practically impossible for one to come to any clear conclusion regarding the great issues at stake.

I should advise as best I could that there are some things neglected now by great masses of the people, that are of infinitely greater value than many of the things that are today sapping our vitality as citizens of the greatest country on earth. The times are difficult but in difficult times the greater the need of putting the first things first, and relegating to greater obscurity lesser important things.

I should continually remind Americans that while much of the past has become obsolete, the past held truths, great truths, that will never be outgrown, among which is the great democracy that we have inherited. Not many of us have made any worth while contribution to the country we call our own—we accept it as a heritage. The question should be asked over and over, What am I doing to influence, not so much the present, but the future. What am I, and are we, handing to the generation to come? How we answer that question will make for the weal or woe of the coming days.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Reviewed by CARTER FIELD

Mr. Field gives a vivid picture of how the various issues between congress and the White House appear to him... Electric industry on the spot to prove or disprove the charge that its delayed spending has been important factor in holding back prosperity.

WASHINGTON.—Sentiment on a number of issues between the White House and congress is crystallizing. The lines are not based on the relief appropriation battle. Some of the President's supporters on that will desert him on other fights, and vice versa. Sometimes he will have a majority. Sometimes a minority. The big point of the relief fight was not the amount of money, it was loss of face and prestige by the President. It ended the six years of utter confidence in his direction and faith in his administration so far as the spending is concerned.

Here is the way the issues look now: Devaluation—The President will win. Congress will continue his present power to cut the gold value of the dollar down to 50 per cent of its pre-Roosevelt status. Silver state senators swing the balance here in combination with the loyal bloc. The price of their votes will be extension of subsidy for domestic silver.

Neutrality—Congress will not interfere with the sale of planes to France. It is impressed with necessity of strengthening France and Britain as surest means of preventing war. But sentiment is also strong against increasing amount of discretion to the President in enforcing the neutrality law. The belief is vigorous that changes of rules after war starts means overt acts, hence endangers dragging U. S. in. Congressional sentiment is not quite "peace at any price," but almost.

Wagner Act—Congress is set on modifying act along lines of A. F. and L. amendments introduced by Senator Walsh. President would like to dictate changes but will probably accept inevitable to avoid further loss of prestige.

Congress is Opposed to President's Tax Ideas. Taxes—Congressional sentiment is so strong against Roosevelt's wish to restore original tax on undistributed corporation earnings and capital gains taxes that he may abandon fight. The President must ask for more revenue. Congress is definitely set on boosting rates on incomes from $10,000 to $50,000, just as definitely against boosting higher levies—because of law of diminishing returns—and doubtful about reducing exemptions. The President will have plenty of chance to study the situation before making any recommendations.

Social Security—Congress will not go as hogwild on old age payments as campaign pledges of successful candidates might indicate. It will boost them advance date on which they go into effect. It will not reduce payroll taxes, but may force the treasury to contribute to the kitty. The President will oppose the last vigorously.

Government Reorganization—The President will not get the power he really wants to revamp government agencies and departments. Congress will not consent to turning I. C. C. civil service commission, etc. into mere administration underlings. Senator Byrd will continue to annoy the administration considerably by insisting on real economy.

Relief—Senate votes cutting politics out of federal payrolls, though partially nullified by the house, point the way to more trouble for the New Deal in reorganization of the WPA set-up and control of the appropriation for relief in the fiscal year beginning July 1, next.

Electric Industry on Spot As to Delaying Prosperity. The electric industry will shortly give a demonstration of the truth or falsity of the often made charge that its delayed spending has been one of the most important factors in holding back prosperity. Usually, of course, investors in the electric industry may wait a little, to see if the logical steps which might be expected to follow the purchase of the Tennessee Electric properties by TVA are followed up. For example, to see if there will be some assurance that the government will not extend its competition to new areas, and to see if the government will treat fairly other units it buys to avoid duplication and to avoid competition between public and private operation.

But no such problem confronts the public. It can take it for granted that peace is coming, and will spread. The investor might wait to be sure that the Tennessee deal is not just a trap for him. But to the outsider it is unthinkable that the administration would have gone so far as it did in the Tennessee Electric deal with Wendell L. Wilkie if it did not intend to go further, and do whatever was necessary to encourage utility spending.

The point is that if one assumes that the hate which has characterized the administration's treatment of the electric industry previously is still in effect, there would have been no earthly reason for paying

The Commonwealth and Southern so much. For the plain fact is that TVA did not have to pay anything like so much. It could have acquired the properties eventually at second hand junk values, the course so consistently advocated by TVA's chief backer in the house of representatives, John Rankin of Mississippi.

The Supreme Court had just thrown out the main legal hope of the privately owned utilities. True, the high court has never held the TVA's venture into the electric business to be constitutional. But it is also true that the utilities would have been at their wits' end to find some other method of getting the court to pass on this question. When a majority of the high court held that the privately owned utilities could not claim damages because none of their franchises guaranteed them against competition, the door was rather effectually closed.

Sudden Change of Policy Ordered From White House. TVA could have pressed on, with its strangling competition, with rates which did not return a yield even on the part of its cost which was not allocated to flood control or navigation and free PWA grants on the local systems.

The answer is that there was a sudden change of policy, ordered from the White House. There was a right-about face of the course which David E. Lilienthal had been pursuing. There was an utter repudiation of the policies of George Norris and John Rankin so far as treatment of the electric industry is concerned.

The only rational explanation is that the administration wants something more important, and that something is not difficult to see. As a matter of fact W. E. Douglas, chairman of the S. E. C., has been telling the President for a long time—more than a year now—that the utilities have been lagging at the rate of about a billion dollars a year in their spending. It would seem apparent that the President has decided to see if utility spending, dammed up for four years now according to Douglas' calculations, will not break the business log-jam and revive prosperity in this country.

If it works, as some friends of the President see the future, business will boom from now until November, 1940; the New Deal will go marching on for the four years to follow. If business continues bad for the next 18 months, a reactionary government may sit in Washington.

Congress Goes Along With President on Preparedness. In actual appropriations for ships and guns, munitions and planes, and training for preparedness generally President Roosevelt will get all he wants from congress. Capitol Hill is much impressed with the notion that the surest way to preserve peace is to be so strong that it would be folly for any foreign country to drag us into war.

But congress does not see eye to eye with the President on some of the purposes of increased national defense spending. It will not go along with him toward possible sanctions against aggressor nations. There is tremendous sentiment for minding our own business and not giving even too much tongue-lashing to the nations that are doing things of which we cordially disapprove.

There is a strong minority, headed by Key Pittman, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, which is for strong economic action against Japan. Senator Pittman is convinced that this country could punish Japan for its action in closing the door of Chinese trade to this country, and could do so without risk of provoking a war between Japan and the United States.

There is another strong minority which favors boycotting of Germany, partly because of Germany's treatment of the Jews, and partly because of her aggressions on Austria, Czechoslovakia, and her keeping Europe constantly in a war scare. A much smaller minority feels the same way toward Italy.

Japan Cuts Purchases of Cotton From United States. In the cotton growing states there is still deadly fear that if the United States should boycott Japan's silk, the price of cotton would drop out of sight. As a matter of fact, Japan has been cutting her purchases of cotton from the United States and increasing her purchases of this staple from Brazil and China. But the fear is still there.

The great majority in congress still has the attitude "Keep out of Entangling Alliances." It is also vigorously against any overt word or act which might force Germany, Japan, or any other nation to pick up Uncle Sam's gauntlet. Part of this is honest reasoning on the part of the senators and representatives themselves. Part of it, perhaps most of it, is from emphatic protests from the folks back home.

Instead of the reaction the White House expected from the emphasis on the necessity of protecting democracy so that religion would be safe, there is a tremendous fear, judging by the mail pouring in on Capitol Hill, that the President may be taking such a militant attitude involving this country in some European quarrel.

Bingo Party.
A bingo party was held at the Malden Valley school house Thursday evening. A large number of neighbors were in attendance, and a very pleasant time is reported.

Entertained Saturday Eve.
Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Anderson were hosts to three couples, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mortensen, Mr. and Mrs. Olof Olsson and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Leggett, at dinner Saturday evening at the Onyx cafe.

Birthday Saturday.
Mrs. Bob Hughes gave a party for her daughter, Kay Elaine, Saturday, in honor of her third birthday. The children attending were Joyce Dye, Carolyn Romans, Sharon Lee Heuck, and Ronnie Romans.

Charivari Young Couple.
A large number of neighbors and friends held a charivari for Mr. and Mrs. Herman Nass, who have been married since last September. The charivari was at the home of Mrs. Hulda Nass. Mrs. Herman Nass before her marriage was Miss Florence Vergin.

At Contract Bridge.
Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mortensen entertained the Contract club at dinner Sunday evening, with bridge following. Due to the absence of Judge and Mrs. E. P. Clements and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Vogeltanz there were only three tables. Miss Eunice Chase was a guest, playing in the place of Dr. R. A. Barta, who also was out of the city.

Entertain at Pinochle.
Mr. and Mrs. George Houtly entertained a number of friends at a pinochle party at their home Friday night. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bresley and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Warford and family, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Beranek, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Karre and family, Bruce Sinkler, Miss Bessie Absolon, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Karty and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Sevensker.

Sunday Visitors.
Sunday the various families of the Horner clan met for dinner at the Alfred Christensen home, near North Loup. Those in attendance were the Carl Webers, Stanley Mitchells and Spencer Horners and Billy Grunkemeyer, all of Burwell; the Ernest and William Horners and Elwin Auble, all of Ord; the Don Horners and Lloyd Manchesters, all of North Loup and Don Horner of Scotia.

RICHARD JOE FRYZEK.
Richard was born Aug. 9, 1938, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fryzek, who are employed on the E. B. Stewart farm in Springdale. He was 3 1/2 months old when this picture was taken.

Something Different

We live in such a fast age, in such strange ways. For instance, our news is "old" now after we have heard it on the air at one hour, and we do not care to hear a repetition two or three hours later. Where news once traveled as fast as a stagecoach could go, now it is tapped out on a teletype and read as it is written some thousands of miles away.

And songs... once, a pretty ballad took years to become popular, and so it lasted to become a folk song and general favorite. Now it is heard dozens of times daily over the radio, until after a few weeks we say we like it, "but I'm sick of hearing it all the time."

And so the poor song writers have nervous breakdowns trying to turn out tunes and words fast enough for us.

Cole Porter is the only genuinely original song writer of our times. The way he slings words together makes even this dizzy age totter, and his rhymes are cause for nightmares.

Though probably not more so than Walter Winchell's word-coining, so much of which catches the public fancy and becomes part of the modern vocabulary. Stop and think of the many fancy phrases he has added. "blessed eventing" is your first thought, I'll wager.

It seems to me the hill for Ord young to slide down is not the steep one to the north, past the Lewis, McBeth, Mortensen and Blemond homes, but the more gradual, longer slope to the east. From the former site of Hillcrest east past the Sack, Davis and Bratt homes is a longer slide, an easier one and so better for the small fry, and I don't believe the children are in quite such danger of ending their slide on the highway.

The north slide is too steep, has bruised and cut even some adults quite badly. The east side is an easier slope, would provide a nice ride for the children with less danger. I am in favor of blocking off traffic on the pavement down to the east from that hilltop. All in favor say aye.

Not just the high school athletes but dozens of older friends and admirers too were saddened by Coach Helmut Brockman's sudden illness, and are happy to hear that he is now mending. The sensational string of football victories piled up by the Ord Brockmen caught attention far and wide, gained Mr. Brockman a genuine hero-worship in Ord.

'Tis said that the victory of Ord the last night of the basketball tournament did the sick coach more good than all the medications and tender nursing he had received at the hospital, with no disrespect whatever to the doctors and nurses in charge.

I heard one Ord father of a five-year-old wish that Mr. Brockman could still be in charge of Ord's athletic high school boys when the little five-year-old reached that stage. And the little five year old is a kindergarten scholar this year. The father thought the fine influence Mr. Brockman had had on the Ord boys one of the best character building influences he had ever seen, and the present crop of Ord high school boys consequently one of the choicest, with all the boys striving to emulate their quiet hero, Coach Brockman.

Have you ever heard a nicer compliment for a man than this Ord father voiced about Mr. Brockman?

Family Dinner

A birthday celebration and family dinner was held at the Joe L. Dworak home Sunday. Those in attendance were Mrs. Frank Dworak of Independence, Ore., Mr. and Mrs. George Dworak and son from Bellwood, Nebr., Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnson and Vernon of Burwell, and Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Dworak of Ord. It was a celebration of the birthdays of F. J. Dworak, Jack Johnson, Joe L. Dworak and Joe's son Bobbie, all of which occur during the month of February.

At Chow Mein Supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Randolph and Mr. and Mrs. Olof Olsson entertained several friends at a chow mein supper Monday evening at the Randolph home after which the group attended the club dance in the Masonic hall. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fafelta, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. R. Wareham, and C. J. Mortensen.

In attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Anton Novotny and son, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Severson, Mr. and Mrs. John Valasek, Mr. and Mrs. Will Ptaenik, son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Zadina, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Zikmund, Mr. and Mrs. Ign. Kilma, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stara. High scores were held by Mrs. Zadina and Anton Novotny, and low by Mrs. Valasek and Eugene Novotny.

THIS IS THE NOTICE THAT ALL WHO ARE BACK ON THEIR SUBSCRIPTION SIX MONTHS OR MORE WILL GET NEXT WEEK.

We have notified you prominently in the Quiz for four weeks that at the end of this month all in arrears on subscription more than six months would be dropped from the list unless we heard from them with a payment to bring their subscription up, or with some money on account and a promise of when we could expect more. We have heard from a good many who were in arrears and credited what they paid and made notation on their cards of when they could pay more. But WE HAVE NOT HEARD FROM YOU SO THE PAPER BEING MAILED THIS WEEK IS THE LAST YOU WILL GET UNTIL WE DO HEAR FROM YOU. We hate to take your name off. If you want the paper surely you can send us some on account and tell us on the back of this card when you will likely be able to pay more. If you do write be sure to have your name on this card. It costs you nothing to return this envelope for we pay the postage when it comes to us. You will be safe in sending currency.

Big Egg at Alliance.
Box Butte county hens seem to be trying to outdo each other in the size of eggs they lay. Many big eggs have been brought to the Times-Herald office, largest being an egg that measured 7 1/2 inches around the long way and 6 1/2 inches around the other way. This note is printed in the hope that Valley county hens will get jealous and try to lay bigger eggs than the hens of Box Butte county. The Quiz wants a picture of the biggest egg and of the hen that laid it.

Better Knock on Wood.
We might brag a little about the mild elements prevailing in Nebraska at the time a blizzard swept Chicago and areas east of there if there were not a possibility our turn would come next.—Wayne Herald.

—Saturday evening supper guests at the Mark Gyger home were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reed.

LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Sam Brickner, who has had a four weeks' visit in Horace and in Grand Island, returned to Ord Friday morning. Mrs. Alice Dodd returned to Burwell on the bus Wednesday evening after visiting a week with a daughter and family in Lincoln. Mr. and Mrs. Bud Brickner and son of Lexington arrived in Ord Friday to visit at the Sam Brickner home. They left Saturday evening. L. H. Martin, Skel-gas sales and service man of Valentine, Nebr., stopped in Ord on business Friday afternoon on his way home from a trip to Grand Island. Mr. and Mrs. Clement Furtak received a box of oranges from California the past week. They were a gift from Miss Rosa Pytlewski, who was here with Mrs. Roy Harris, the former Florence Furtak, early in January. They are much better than the best sold in stores. H. T. Klopff, of Houston, Tex., representative of the Union company of New York City, was in Ord looking after business Friday. He is a typical southerner, and was much interested when told about the Co. "1" boys stopping in Houston on the way to the border in 1918. M. E. Cadwallader, of Oxford, Nebr., trustee of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation, was in Burwell three days last week meeting with the local manager, Ralph Douglas, and holding meetings in each of the three county seats of the area, Taylor, Burwell and at Bartlett. He passed through Ord on the bus Friday morning. Miss Clara McClatchey received a letter from her sister, Mrs. Gladys Walters, of Washington, D. C., in which she spoke of seeing a copy of the Quiz with Miss McClatchey's picture in it. She commented on the high quality of the Quiz and that every one who sees it comments favorably on its appearance.

Ord Chanticleers Make Clean Sweep of Loup Valley Conference Trophies

After the final game of the Loup Valley conference basketball tournament Thursday evening, trophies were presented to the winners and this fine photograph shows that Ord made a clean sweep of conference honors for the year 1938-39. In this picture C. C. Thompson, Ord school head and conference official, is shown presenting the trophy emblematic of the free throw team championship to Don Severson, as representative of the winning Ord team. Next to him Don Dahlin, game captain, is holding the trophy presented to the Chanticleers as Loup Valley basketball champions for 1938-39. Derry, of St. Paul, holds the runner-up trophy that went to the St. Paul team. At the extreme right Charles Keown and Charles Hitchman, co-captains of the 1938 Chanticleer football team, hold the trophy emblematic of the Loup Valley football championship, also won by Ord.—Quiz Photo.

Mrs. Edward Johnson went to Omaha Monday for a brief stay. Anton Gaster came from Farwell Saturday to visit in Ord, returning home Sunday. Mrs. Adam Dubas left Saturday for Columbus where she visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Mimick. She returned to Ord Tuesday. Miss Veva Kearns, who is employed in the regional FSA office in Kearney, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Kearns. Gilbert and Miss Winsome Meyers, Postmaster Frank Johnson, Henry Prien and Homer C. Sample all were North Loup visitors in Ord Saturday.

Auble 25th Anniversary Show Well Attended

Two thousand free tickets were given out by Auble Bros. for the free show they gave at the Ord Theater last week in celebration of their twenty-fifth anniversary in business in Ord. The theater was filled to capacity both nights and for both shows each night, and the crowds appeared to get a great deal of enjoyment out of the feature entitled "The Sisters." The Auble brothers, Glen and A. J., are highly pleased with the response to their anniversary sale. A quarter of a century is a long time to be in the same business in the same location, and not very many business men of Ord can boast of such a record. Some businesses have been going longer than that, and some business men have been in business for that long, but the Koptal and Barstow have been in business at the same location for the past 35 years, and Jake Hoffman has been with them 34 years. Jens Hansen has been pounding iron in his present location for 26 years. The Misko brothers, Will and Henry, were both employed in their father's shop more than 25 years ago, and both are still in the same business, but in different locations.

The First National and Nebraska State banks have both been in business more than 25 years, and also the Peckenka market, but the personnel has changed. Anton Bartunek has been in business more than 25 years, but not always in the same business or the same location. Some of our dentists and doctors have been on the job here for 25 years. Auble Bros., are now in the prime of life and should add another 25 years to their record.

RIVERDALE NEWS

Valentine day was appropriately observed in Riverdale school last Tuesday afternoon when Miss Elizabeth Williams gave her pupils, their mothers, Mrs. Schultz and Wilma Schoening, a Valentine party. Valentine tablecloths and napkins were used and the hostess served cup cakes and jello, using place cards and clever bleeding heart favors. The Merry Jane club met at the home of Mrs. Geo. Bartz Thursday afternoon. Six members were present and one guest, Miss Elizabeth Williams. Sketches of Lincoln's and Washington's lives were read for roll call, also Valentine history. Mrs. Schultz led an interesting lesson on transportation. A Valentine lunch was served by the hostess. Club adjourned to meet with Mrs. Alfred Christensen on March 16. Miss Elizabeth Williams attended the community supper given on Thursday evening in Dist. 42. The school in which Hazel Stevens is teacher. Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Thomas and Carrol spent Wednesday evening at Vernon Thomas'. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Babcock were guests at an aluminum supper given at Lloyd Weed's on Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Thomas were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. V. J. Thomas and Maude. Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Thomas entertained in honor of Carrol Thomas' birthday Friday evening, Chas. and August Kriewald, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Babcock and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Thomas. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Christensen entertained Sunday in honor of Ruth Haas who is visiting relatives here from Ogden, U. The guests were Stanley Mitchell's, Spencer Horner's, Weber's, from Burwell; Roy and Ernest Horner's, Donald Horner's, Lloyd Manchester's, Glen Exlehoff's and Mr. and Mrs. Will Horner and Edwin Auble from Ord and Billie Grunkemeyer of Burwell. Mr. and Mrs. Will Horner are spending this week visiting in the Alfred Christensen and Lloyd Manchester homes. Richard Gowen played with Walter Thorngate Saturday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Jake Barber visited at Walter Thorngate's Saturday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Will Schudel were guests of L. J. Auble's in Ord Sunday. Miss Wilma Schoening has had a week's vacation on account of the spinal meningitis case in the district. She plans on teaching Monday.

Two North Loup Couples Observe Anniversaries

Monday, Feb. 20, marked the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Jackman of North Loup which took place in Fremont in the office of the county judge. The first year of their married life they lived on a farm near Ames, Neb., and came to Valley county in the spring of '90, Mrs. Jackman's parents, the Marshall Mayo's, having moved here the year before.

After spending three years on farms near North Loup they went to Grant, Neb., where they homesteaded, living there till the end of the seventh year when Mr. Jackman sold his homestead and bought a farm in Butler county that proved to be very hilly. Having never farmed hills before, one year of that was enough, and they came back to Valley county and bought the place they now own north of North Loup, where they lived for 35 years, farming, feeding cattle and hogs and contributing their share toward the life of the community. Four years ago they moved to North Loup, retiring from active farming, but still busy.

Mr. Jackman recalls one fall, while living in Grant, they went to North Platte with a quantity of butter made into prints, and arriving there found Buffalo Bill was in town with his wild west show. They sold the butter and bought tickets to the show.

In the winter of '96, having no crop at Grant, they came to North Loup in a covered wagon. Mr. Jackman picked corn for H. D. Kasson for two cents a bushel. Corn sold that year for nine cents. That was the year Bryan and McKinley ran for president and he remembers he was wearing a Bryan button which he found it wise to keep in his pocket till he learned the politics of his host as they stopped at the farm houses for the night.

The Jackmans have four daughters, Mrs. Lulu Manchester of North Loup, Mrs. Maud Gies of El Centro, Calif., Mrs. May Tolon of Cheyenne, Wyo., and Garnet Jackman of Ord. Plans to celebrate the anniversary have been postponed till Mrs. Jackman is rested after the trip home from Excelsior Springs, Mo., where she has been taking treatments for arthritis.

Wednesday, Feb. 22 marks the 40th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Will Preston which took place at the home of Mrs. Preston's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Mayo on the farm where Joe Veleba now lives. Rev. Oliver Frazier performed the ceremony which was witnessed by a number of friends and relatives, among them the Gilroys who drove down from Burwell in spite of a raging blizzard.

Most of their lives has been spent on the farm south of North Loup which Mr. Preston improved and broke up. Eight years ago the house on the place burned and they moved to North Loup. Mrs. Preston's health has failed and much of his time he is bedfast. They hope to have their children's families with them for the day, Wednesday.

Mrs. Jackman and Mrs. Preston are sisters and it is a remarkable coincidence that Mrs. Jackman has a birthday Feb. 2, Mr. Jackman and Mrs. Preston the 16th and Mr. Preston the 11th.

A Dancing Party Held.

Several relatives and friends of Jim Nelson gathered at his home Saturday evening at a welcome party. The evening was spent dancing. Lunch was served at midnight.

THE BURROWS Service Station

Nebraska Great Fruit Growing Area Since '71

Although it was once thought that Nebraska soil and climate were incapable of producing fruit, say research workers of the Federal Writers' Project WPA, the young state soon disproved this theory.

In fact, by 1871, a meeting of the American Pomological Society at Richmond, Va., awarded Nebraska first premium for the best collection of fruits of any state in the Union.

A few years later Nebraska fruit received more recognition when products from all parts of the globe were sent to the Philadelphia Centennial of 1876. Coming after expositions at London, Paris and Vienna, the Centennial surpassed them all. Almost ten million persons saw the 50,000 exhibits. Expert judges awarded medals and diplomas to 13,104 exhibitors, 7,032 of them being foreign.

Nebraska's fine pears and large collection of apples excited much comment and were given high awards at the Centennial. Robert Burnet, president of the Fruit Grower's association of Ontario, Canada, a famous fruit region, praised Nebraska's exhibit. He said: "There was powerful competition at the Centennial. First, and we believe foremost, was Nebraska. The apple display of this important state in the Union was grand and remarkable; the fruit the fairest we have ever seen, the color the highest. California's fruits were superb, but to our mind they stood second to those of Nebraska." R. W. Furnas, one of Nebraska's pioneer agriculturists, considered this the highest compliment ever paid the state.

The Anderson Motor company sold a four door deluxe Plymouth sedan to Harvey Thousen of Springdale Tuesday.

"I'm not so poor as you think," the farmer replied smiling. "I don't own the place. It is the landlord that's getting the hell." Hugh Clement has been working a few times lately for Eric Babcock in the latter's garage. It reminds us a little of the story of the farmer and his hired man. One year the farmer owns the outfit and hires the hired man. The latter saves his money and buys the farmer out the next year and in return hires the farmer back who saves his salary and the third year the farmer buy back the farm, et cetera.

We might recall that a few years back Hugh was working for Art Babcock in the garage and after working for him a time, he bought out the garage and was the manager and owner himself for a long period.

My mother writes in her letter from California in regard to her two small grandchildren there, "Both the boys sing in the church choir for children, each with their own age. They wear white robes, march in and sing once, then go back to their seats with their parents."

At another place she said, "The boys saw a very little frost or dew on the grass the other morning and thought it wonderful. They do wish they lived where there was snow and I tell them I expect Dick would like to live near the ocean. We always want what we can't have."

Burwell News

Written by REV. W. L. GOODELL

At a recent business meeting of the "Gold Coast" club the following officers were elected: Bob Anderson, president; Gene Johnson, vice pres.; Junior Anderson, treasurer; Junior Flint, secy.; Bill Simpson and Wesley Frederick guards; Bill Beck, carpenter, and Peas Anderson and Junior Schreier, fire tender and janitor. There are nine members in the club which was organized the first of January. A club house was built on the Chet Johnson premises in the west part of Burwell. A radio was presented to the club by the parents of one of the boys. Most of the furniture used in the club house has been made by the members. This is a very worthwhile undertaking for the boys. They meet sometime each day, usually after school and have read several good books.

The New Century club met at the home of Mrs. Jessie Anderson Wednesday afternoon, Febr. 15 with 18 members present. A report was made by Mrs. Fay Livermore, Mrs. W. L. McMullen, Jr., and Mrs. Raymond Johnson who attended a farm bureau meeting earlier in the afternoon. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Johnson. The next meeting will be with Mrs. M. Helmkamp Wednesday, Mar. 1.

OBITUARY

N. C. CHRISTENSEN. N. C. Christensen, 81, was born Oct. 21, 1857, in Denmark, and passed away at the home of his son Rhynie in Salem, Ore., Feb. 1, 1939.

LEON EDGAR BRESLEY. Leon Edgar Bresley, son of James Edgar and Frances Bresley, was born Dec. 21, 1877 in VanBuren, Mich., and died at Broken Bow, Nebr., on the evening of Feb. 10, 1939, being 62 years, 1 month and 20 days of age.

Mr. Bresley can truly be considered a pioneer of Nebraska, having been brought as an infant in a covered wagon to Valley county, where his parents settled on a farm near Ord.

Because of having friends in the Rosebud territory he went to Dallas, S. D., the latter part of 1911 and in 1912 to Colome where he opened an auto repair shop.

On July 16, 1923 Mr. Bresley married Miss Esther Grove, of Fairfield, Ia., a member of the teaching staff of Colome high school and their hospitable home was the scene of many happy gatherings until the past three years when Mr. Bresley's health began to decline.

The body was brought to Ord and funeral rites held Sunday, Feb. 12 at the Frazier Chapel with Rev. Alfred C. Haines, Episcopal rector, of Winner, S. D., conducting.

In its account of Mr. Bresley's death and burial the Colome Times said: "We are all going to miss Leon Bresley, he was always ready to work for the good of Colome, in the old Chautauqua days his was one of the first names as guarantor, in the efforts to promote good for our town he was one of the outstanding citizens to speak his voice. Colome owes much to his efforts and the whole town and countryside mourn with the family the loss of a truly Christian gentleman. He was not only a Nebraska pioneer but South Dakota and in particular of "the Rosebud".

JAMES M. SAMPLE.

James McKowen Sample, third son of John and Lydia Sample was born Nov. 16, 1871 in Lee County, Iowa, and passed away from his home in Valley county, Nebraska, Feb. 16, 1939, aged 67 years and 3 months.

He was united in marriage with Susie B. Miller, Jan. 27, 1896, who proved a real helpmate, tenderly caring for him in his invalidism. To them 8 children were born, seven of whom survive to hold precious the memory of a loving father. They are Mrs. Clara Bays, Crawford, Nebr., Nelson Sample, Crawford, Guy Sample, Ord, Mrs. Lula Needles, Crawford, Clifford Sample, Ord, Mrs. Mae Davis, Alliance and Irene at home.

Mr. Sample was a pioneer of the frontier and the plagues of grasshoppers, drought and hail were endured and the land brought under cultivation. James was 13 years of age when he came to this community which except for a few years in North Loup has been his home for more than half a century.

Relatives and friends will long remember him as one of the sturdy old pioneers who helped settle this region. His body will be tenderly laid to its final resting place beside the grave of his son, Ralph, who died at the age of 22 in 1926. Following a brief home service, the funeral was conducted at the Davis Creek Methodist church by the pastor, Rev. W. C. Birmingham Sunday afternoon. Music was by Harry Johnson, with Mrs. Athey, pianist. Burial was made in Davis Creek cemetery, Harlan T. Frazier directing.

Age-Old Fight Between President And Senate in Vicious Revival

Current Squabble, Involving Senators Glass and Byrd, Invited by President Himself; Mr. Roosevelt's Attempt to Discipline Senate a Political Mistake.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART

WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—Through nearly all of our nation's history, there has been a continuing controversy concerning the respective rights and prerogatives of the President of the United States and the senate. It has alternately smoldered and burst into flame. It has been characterized by vicious outbursts from one side or the other at various times and it has made or destroyed the political fortunes of a great many men.

Washington has been regaled with a fresh revival of the controversy in the last several weeks. The fundamental differences are the same as they always have been. There are, however, new names and new faces and obviously the political fortunes of individuals who have entered upon the public stage in recent years are bound up in the boiling kettle. Like the earlier embitterments over these rights, this one will prove nothing in the way of a tangible solution.

The current fight must be said to have been invited by President Roosevelt. Perhaps, his course of action was urged by some of the "inner circle," which so often has wrongly advised him lately, men who do not know politics and who ignore political history—but the fact remains that the President carried the fight to the senate, and there are more than a few observers who expect that he will come off a bad loser.

Mr. Roosevelt, as I have reported in these columns earlier, was insisting upon his own selection for political appointments where the senators from a particular state were not receiving his smiles. The procedure was not pleasant but there was no sensational outcry from the senators concerned until the nomination of Judge Floyd Roberts to a United States district judgeship, was sent to the senate. Mr. Roberts was picked without consultation—even over others recommended—with Senators Glass and Byrd of Virginia. It proved to be the signal for a riot.

Advisers Reckoned Not With Senatorial Courtesy After the manner of senate procedure, Senators Glass and Byrd rose in their places in the senate and pronounced Judge Roberts "personally offensive" to them. That was enough. The senate, as it has done so many times before, promptly rejected the Roberts nomination by the terrific jolt of 72 to 9. It was such a slap that even the Virginia senators were surprised at its overwhelming character. It surely made the fact abundantly clear that Mr. Roosevelt could not get away with his theory namely, that a President can pick nominees without "the advice and consent of the senate" as the Constitution specifies. But it did not have that effect.

And here was where the President made a great political mistake. He sought to discipline the senate by publication of a letter to Judge Roberts in explanation of the senate's action. He scored Senator Glass and he tarred Senator Byrd. They were almost guilty of conduct unbecoming gentlemen.

It was rumored that the strategy of the "inner circle" was to have Mr. Roosevelt smear the two senators and thus create a serious defection in their own political machines in their native Virginia—which any one acquainted with Virginia politics will tell you is much easier said than done. It was reported even that Mr. Roosevelt would send up another name without consulting the two senators and if that were rejected to send up still others. That, believed the "inner circle," would slowly force disintegration of the Glass-Byrd support.

But the President and his untrained political advisers reckoned not with senatorial courtesy. Now, senatorial courtesy is an intangible thing. No one ever has been able to define or describe it. One simply has to say that it exists and let time prove the statement. The proof always can be found and the action of the senate on the Roberts nomination, and since, certainly seems to demonstrate that the senators will fight for their rights, or what they believe to be their rights, on a collective basis. Each sticks by the others; none knows when he may need the same kind of help.

Senate Is Thoroughly Embittered at Roosevelt Thus, after several weeks of this lashing back and forth—because Senators Glass and Byrd did not fail to tell the country what they thought of Mr. Roosevelt's action—we find the senate thoroughly embittered at Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Roosevelt saying, repeatedly, that the senate is trying to usurp the powers of the Chief Executive. As I said, that fundamental difference has existed since the formation of our government. It is going to continue to exist because of the form of our government, its system of checks and balances, and it will exist as long as our system of political parties obtains.

Coldly and without bias, it must be said that each side to the battle predicated its conclusions and conception of its rights upon a thirst for more power. Mr. Roosevelt, as President, conceives that he should be boss; the senators, as representatives of sovereign states, conceive that they are elected representatives and they are not going to have a single individual, even though it be the President of the United States, dehorn them on the strength that an election by popular vote gives them.

Moreover, the President must do political knitting. He must keep the weave as free of knots as is possible. In the case of the present incumbent, it is quite apparent that he desires to be complete boss of his political structure. He had a taste—indeed, a full meal—of it for five years when a subservient congress vastly earned the sobriquet of rubber stamps. I imagine that he liked it; anyone would, if that person is really human. When some of his rubber stamps became blurred and did not print clearly what he said they should print, Mr. Roosevelt, like any other ruthless politician, was going to get rid of them. He tried that in the "purge" during the last campaign, and failed. Many persons are sure that the present flame is intended to destroy this type of opposition.

Old Line Democrats Seek To Regain Early Control

Nor are the senators, not just Glass and Byrd alone, but all of them, blameless, if one desires to turn purist. The senators have their political machines. They seek always to keep those machines well oiled, smooth running. Upon the functioning of the machines depends whether the senators can be re-elected time after time; upon that machine depends the retention or the loss of the power which every politician loves. I imagine they can not be blamed for that, any more than the President can be blamed for wanting to keep his hand on the throttle. That is politics.

Selection of the men to judicial jobs, or to any other political post in the nature of a plum, is vital to maintenance of machines. Politicians continue as leaders, only so long as they can dominate the scene and get for their followers the things their followers want.

But in the current battle there is somewhat deeper disagreement between the senate and the President. It is too well known to warrant more than mere reference here that old line Democrats are determined to regain control of the Democratic party label. They have had more than enough unpractical direction from the regiment of college professors, crackpots and long haired dreamers without political training. Many of them will tell unhesitatingly that continuation of Democratic party control in the hands of such men will be destruction of the party and its conversion into a vehicle guided by socialists, communists and a complete rainbow of colors. Naturally, they want to adhere to Democratic doctrines and Democratic principles. And that is the line of cleavage.

The result? I doubt that Mr. Roosevelt can win over the senate. Wants Judges Who Will Be Friendly to New Deal

The other phase of the differences is less clear. I can report it only as the belief of quite a few senators. Some of them believe it, definitely. I give it here simply as a subject for thought.

By insisting upon his own choice of nominees for judgeships in the federal courts, Mr. Roosevelt is attempting to place men in the judiciary who will be friendly to all of the New Deal laws, or so some members of the senate and the house firmly believe. That is to say, the belief is held that Mr. Roosevelt is seeking to do by use of the appointive power that which the congress refused him the power to do when it killed off his scheme to pack the Supreme court of the United States with six new justices. By filling the judiciary—the federal district courts and the circuit courts of appeal—with men known to be favorable to new deal laws, insurance against adverse decisions is provided for years to come, or so some of the senators and representatives will tell you. It would be only incidental, if the above analysis is correct, that Mr. Roosevelt would build a fresh political machine completely subservient to him. It would be only incidental but it would be a fact.

AMERICAN BOY MAGAZINE COMPANION TO THOUSANDS

Hundreds of thousands of boys and young men read THE AMERICAN BOY magazine every month and consider it more as a living companion than as a magazine. "It's as much a buddy to me as my neighborhood chum," writes one high school senior. "THE AMERICAN BOY seems to understand a boy's problems and considers them in such a sympathetic and helpful way. It gives advice and entertaining reading on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. It is particularly helpful in sports. I made our school basketball team because of playing tips I read in THE AMERICAN BOY."

Many famous athletes in all sports credit much of their success to helpful suggestions received from sports articles carried in THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine. Virtually every issue offers advice from a famous coach or player. Football, basketball, track, tennis, in fact every major sport is covered in fiction and fact articles.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boys clubs also recommend THE AMERICAN BOY enthusiastically. They have found that as a general rule regular readers of THE AMERICAN BOY advance more rapidly and develop more worthwhile characteristics than do boys who do not read it.

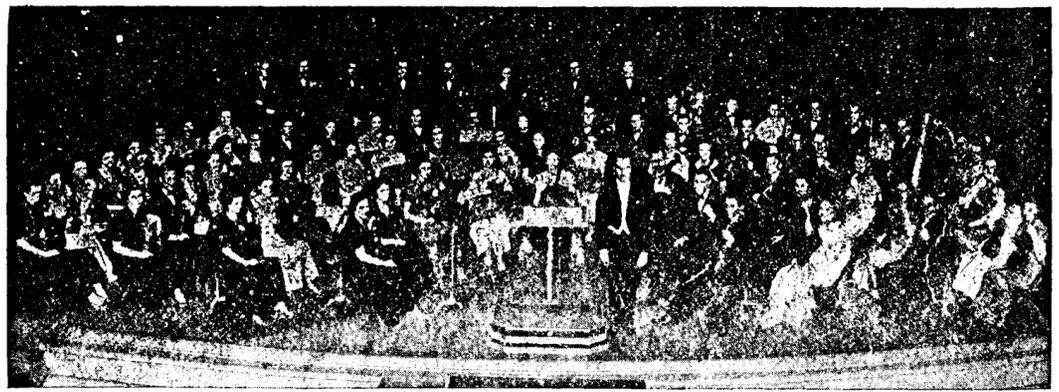

Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in THE AMERICAN BOY, the sort of reading matter boys like best.

THE AMERICAN BOY sells on most newsstands at 15c a copy. Subscription prices are $1.50 for one year or $3.00 for three years. Foreign rates 50c a year extra. To subscribe simply send your name, address and remittance direct to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.
