Farmers Organize To Clean Ditches, Boost Irrigation

Ord-North Loup Canal Work Done in 1 Day; Others Are Being Cleaned Out Now.

Monday evening at the American Legion hall about thirty farmers met for the purpose of organizing to clean out the weeds and trash that has accumulated in the Burwell-Sumter ditch during the past winter and get the ditch in shape for carrying water.

This action was taken because of the fact that no funds are available at the present time to have this work done, and it was felt that a move of this kind on the part of the farmers would prove to the district that they are vitally interested in getting water.

Chairman Geweke and Secretary Dale were present and had charge of the meeting. Frank Blaha and Harry Bresley, members of the executive board for the Burwell-Sumter ditch, were also present. In opening the meeting Mr. Geweke stated briefly the purpose for which it was held.

He pointed out the fact that it is important for some of the farmers to use the water early, since the supply will not be sufficient for all to use it at once at a later date. The meeting then voted to organize for the purpose of cleaning the ditch.

The ditch was divided into sectors and captains appointed for each sector, their duties being to organize the men to work to the best advantage. Blaha and Bresley were to have general supervision of the work, which is to be done today, if weather conditions are favorable.

Divisions were assigned as follows: Spring Creek to Elm Creek, Dick Karre; Elm Creek to the Bresley place, Alfred Bartunek; Bresley place to Gravel Creek, Frank L. Masin and Louie Papierenik; Gravel Creek to Bean Creek, John Lech and Syl Papierenik; Bean Creek to the Clifton Hill, Ed Dubas; and the upper sector, Charles Meyer and R. R. Nightingale.

The first meeting of water users occurred at North Loup Wednesday evening when about seventy users in the territory of the Ord-North Loup ditch met at the town hall for the purpose of organizing. At this meeting President Roy Hudson of the irrigation district was present and gave a short talk, explaining the viewpoint of the board of directors.

The men on the Ord-North Loup ditch went to work Thursday, and had the entire ditch cleaned by night. The work was done under the direction of Committeemen John Guggenmos and Ign. Pokraka, with the assistance of several captains chosen for the several sectors of the ditch.

President Archie Geweke and Secretary C. C. Dale, together with a large number of farmers from the Ord end of the Taylor-Ord ditch went to Burwell Friday evening to attend a meeting of the Taylor-Ord section. The meeting was held at the sale pavilion, and about 125 were in attendance. Roy W. Hudson was also present.

The farmers organized for the purpose of cleaning out the ditch, under the direction of the committeemen, L. A. Butterfield and Ferd Butts. Captains were selected for sections of the ditch about four miles in length, and each of these was to have charge of the work in his sector and to see that it is completed soon.

All farmers present at these meetings agreed to donate their time for the purpose of getting the ditches cleaned at once and the water started. Both Mr. Geweke and Mr. Dale were highly pleased with the response at the meetings, and are certain that water should be starting down the ditches now in a short time.

McAnulty Is Guest of Oil Millionaire

George W. McAnulty, of Scotia, is in Bartlesville, Okla., this week as the personal guest of Frank Phillips, oil millionaire and head of the far flung Phillips Petroleum Company empire. Phillips, who was born in Greeley county, invited McAnulty to be a guest at his Bartlesville estate a few weeks ago when he was in Scotia. Mr. McAnulty found it impossible to go at that time but is now enjoying the hospitality of the oil millionaire.

Two Declam Winners Entertain Rotarians

Two declamatory contest winners from Ord high school, Miss Jeanne Towne and Emanuel Kokes, entertained the Rotary club Monday evening. Emanuel gave a reading, "The Big Game," and Miss Towne gave "Small Town Rehearsal." Both readings were excellent, Miss Towne's being particularly enjoyed.

Next Monday evening the Rotary club will hold its annual election of officers. A nominating committee of three members is to be appointed by the president, Dr. F. A. Barta, to report Monday.

Farmers Make Quick Work of Cleaning Canals

A single day was all the time farmers on the Ord-North Loup canal needed to clean the ditch and get it ready for irrigation, the work being done last Thursday. A group of North Loup business men helped with the work. Russian thistles which blew into the canal during the fall and winter had to be pitched out and burned. Here is seen a group of farmers hard at work near North Loup.—Photo by Birmingham.

Beer Parlor Cashes "April Fool" Check

When a young fellow tendered a $100 check at the Douthitt beer parlor Saturday W. D. Thompson, the bartender, didn't scan him or the check very well but just shoveled out the change required. Nor did Walter Douthitt pay particular attention to the check Monday when he deposited it in the bank. But the banker looked the check over closely and Monday afternoon it was back in Douthitt's hands. It was signed "April Fool."

Supervisors Vote Put All WPA Men on Loup City Road

Priority Rule Disregarded So Can Get Free Gravel on Proposed New Detour.

On a record vote of 5 to 2, with Joe Jablonski and S. V. Hansen voting "no," the Valley county board of supervisors decided Tuesday to temporarily disregard their priority rule on improvement of county highways and put all available WPA labor to work on the Ord-Loup City road with expectation it can be finished ready for graveling within 90 days.

The state highway department expects to build a new highway from Ord to Olean this summer and had offered to gravel about 4 miles of the Ord-Loup City route free, if the county would put it in shape for gravel. Going west from North Loup on the North Loup-Arcadia highway to the Koelling corner and then north to Ord, this route would then be used as a detour while the Ord-Olean highway is under construction.

Most of the work will have to be done on the Beetger hill where a road was once started but never finished. Cost of the work has been variously estimated at from $3,000 to $10,000, people desiring the road making the former estimate and people opposed to the road estimating the high figure. There is much difference of opinion over the advisability of constructing this new route in the territory south of Ord, with delegations appearing before the board for or against the change on several occasions.

Majority of people in the territory affected favor the change, however, as it will shorten the distance to Ord slightly, eliminate some turns and make a better route. When gravelled it also furnishes an all-weather route from the upper Davis Creek and lower Mira Valley communities to this city.

The board's priority rule, if followed, would have entailed completion of the road north from Ord, then graveling of the Springdale road, before the road south from Ord could have been undertaken. Because of the chance to get 4 miles of free gravel, and because of the need for an all-weather detour while the Ord-Olean highway is being built, supervisors decided to deviate temporarily from their former rule.

Mrs. Fred Campbell and son Jackie, and Mrs. Frank Heckling and daughter Patty, all of Minneapolis, arrived Monday evening to spend a week visiting Mrs. Campbell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Round, and other relatives.

Sack Yard Razed, Postoffice Site Is Ready

Bert Needham and Charlie Hunt who bought the old Sack lumber yard buildings, put a big crew of men at work razing them last week and by Saturday the site of Ord's new postoffice was cleared, except for hauling away some of the used lumber. This picture was taken at night Friday and shows the west wall of the yard and some of the uprights standing. By night they had been torn down also and most of the lumber hauled away. Postmaster A. H. Hill has received no further word from the postoffice department as to when work on the new building will start.—Quiz Photo.

Music Festival Will Bring 600 Students to Ord

Annual Loup Valley Event to Be Held Thursday; The Hastings Band Coming.

The annual "music festival" of the Loup Valley High School association will be held in Ord Thursday, April 6 and will attract to this city 600 student participants, as well as other students and school patrons who always attend this musical event. Ten schools—North Loup, Scotia, St. Paul, Dannebrog, Loup City, Arcadia, Comstock, Sargent, Burwell and Ord—will participate.

Beginning at 1:00 and continuing until 4:30, student groups and soloists will give their selections. There will be two sections of the festival this year. Glee clubs, choruses, orchestras and bands will perform in the high school auditorium, while soloists and small groups will appear in the high school library. The two sections will be held simultaneously.

Although the festival is not in any sense a contest, there will be two critics, Prof. James M. King and Prof. Pfeiffer, of Hastings college, and the high school musicians will be given valuable "tips" by these men. Each year the festival has given in advance of the district music contests, not only giving the students opportunity to perform in public but also enabling them to correct faults in their presentation before the contests.

The artists' program tomorrow evening will be presented by the Hastings College band under the direction of Mr. King. The concert will be in three parts, the first consisting of "The Second Norwegian Rhapsody," by Christiansen; "Park Avenue Fantasy," by Malneck; and "Vistas," by Gillette. Second part will include "Three Aces," by Clarke, played by a trumpet trio; followed by Tschalkowsky's famous "Caprice Italienne," and "Nocturne from Midsummer Night's Dream," by Mendelssohn. The third part consists of a violin solo "Zigeunerweisen," played by Lorene Carpenter; ballet music from the opera "Aida," by Verdi; and "Slavonic Dance No. 1," by Anton Dvorak.

This is the ninth annual music festival to be sponsored by the Loup Valley association. Each year an artists' program is given in the evening but never has a finer program been arranged than this year. It will be enjoyed by music lovers from the whole Loup region.

Committee in charge of the festival includes Melvin H. Struve, Burwell; Kenneth Moore, Scotia; and Dean S. Duncan, Ord.

Ord Organizations Send Delegates to Boys State

Two Ord organizations are sending boys to Boys State at Lincoln in June. The Ord Cosmopolitan club looked over the field of available young men and selected Gerald Stoddard as their choice for this honor, and the Ord American Legion post chose Rodney Rathbun.

The boys are both juniors in high school, a necessary qualification. The American Legion sent Don Dahlin as their choice for Ord, but this is the first time the Cosmopolitans have sent a man. The dead line for sending in the names was April 1. Only five are allowed in each district.

Jungman Lodge Gets License to Sell Beer

The application of Edward Hurlinsky, on behalf of the Z. C. B. J. lodge of Jungman hall, to sell beer at the hall, was considered Tuesday by the county board of supervisors, and it was recommended that a license be issued. This will be first beer license in Valley county outside of incorporated towns.

Spelling Champs Wear 'Smiles that Won't Come Off'

When Valley county's eight best spellers had their pictures taken after the contest Friday they all displayed "those smiles that won't come off," as this Quiz photo proves. In the front row, left to right, are Marian Maxson, Joan Barber, Mickey Kokes and Delores Greenwalt; in the back row are Martha Mae Meese, Fern Sims, Eleanor Dlugosh and Billy Novosad.

Will Let Contract Thursday For New Ag Shop Building

School Board to Meet, Open Bids; Estimated Cost Is $7,465; Get PWA Aid.

Bids for the construction of an agricultural shop building north of the Ord high school will be opened and a contract let at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon, says Ralph W. Norman, secretary of the board of education.

Estimated cost of the building, including a 45 per cent grant from the Public Works Administration, is $7,465. McClure & Walker, of Kearney, are the architects.

To date only two contractors, Diamond Construction Co., Grand Island, and C. E. Goodhand, Ord, have indicated to Secretary Norman their intention of filing bids, but other contractors may have secured specifications from the architects, he says. Usually on buildings of this type, bids are not filed until the day of the letting.

It is hoped to get construction under way within a week after the contract is let, Mr. Norman says. The building will be ready for use by agriculture students during the 1939-40 term of school.

Soren Jensen, area engineer for the PWA, will be in Ord tomorrow to attend the letting, as will Mr. McClure, one of the architects.

NYA Will Put in New Lawn at Court House

An NYA project to spade up the court house yard and plant certified grass seed was approved Tuesday, by the county board of supervisors and work is expected to start at once. Drouth of the past few years destroyed the lawn and only a few patches of grass remain.

At their March meeting supervisors voted to approve the project on condition the city of Ord would furnish free water to get the lawn started. The proposal was turned down by the city council at an informal meeting but has not yet been acted on officially. Regardless of what official action the city may take, supervisors decided Tuesday to go ahead with the project.

It may be necessary to fence the lawn this summer to give the blue grass a chance but if the public will cooperate by staying off the lawn this may be avoided.

Valley County Receives First April Rainfall

It might be said that March went out like a lion, snows to a total depth of 7 inches and with a moisture content of .69 of an inch falling on Monday and Wednesday of last week. Saturday evening the first April shower, a mere .04 of an inch, fell, and was followed by .21 of an inch Monday and 1.4 of an inch Tuesday, making a grand total of 1.65 inches.

While the ground is not wet to any great depth, the present moisture has brought badly needed relief to winter wheat, rye and alfalfa, and has put the surface in good condition for farm work. Forecasts call for more and heavier rain on or about April 11. Farmers generally express themselves as well pleased with present prospects.

Ord Senior Boys Win Inter-Class Track Meet

In an inter-class track and field meet held Thursday and Friday, the Ord seniors won handsily with 57 points. The juniors annexed 58 2-3 points for second place, the sophomores 14 1-3 points and the freshmen 11 points. Robert Tunnicliff was outstanding for the freshmen, Christensen for the sophomores, Tatlow and G. Stoddard for the juniors, and Zirkmund and D. Dahlin for the seniors.

Marian Maxson, 12, Wins Spelling Bee 3rd Straight Year

Little North Loup Girl Best in Both Oral and Written; Joan Barber second.

"Pronounceable" was the word given by Miss Clara M. McClatchey, as the annual Valley county spelling bee held Friday afternoon in the Ord high school auditorium drew to a close.

Only two spellers were still in the race, and after a series of difficult words found at the very end of the advanced list—words like "sterilization," "misapprehension," "hyprocritical," "physiological" and "quadrinomial"—the word "pronounceable" seemed quite easy indeed.

But Joan Barber, to whom the word was first given, dropped the "e" and when Marian Maxson spelled the word correctly this little North Loup school girl became Valley county's oral spelling champion for the third consecutive year.

Marian had previously won the written contest, second place going to Mickey Kokes, of District 13, who misspelled only one word, "admittance." Marian spelled all the words correctly. She won the written contest last year also.

Other placings in the written contest were: Third, Joan Barber, North Loup; fourth Eleanor Dlugosh, District 2; fifth, Martha Mae Meese, District 28.

In the oral contest third, fourth and fifth placings went to Delores Greenwalt, District 2; Billy Novosad, District 13; Fern Sims, North Loup.

This was the first time since 1935 that a boy has placed in the top five spellers in either the oral or written contests in Valley county. Sylvester Micek, of District 30, won a fifth place that year and since then girls have dominated the contest.

Little Marian Maxson, who is only 12 years old now, is probably the finest speller developed in the grade schools of this county since Miss McClatchey has been superintendent of schools. In 1937 she won the oral contest, in 1938 she placed first in both oral and written, and this year she repeated again in both events. Her teacher is Miss Dorothy Campbell.

Marian will represent Valley county in the state spelling contest sponsored by the Omaha World Herald and to be held in Omaha on April 29. She also will accompany Joan Barber and Mickey Kokes to Sioux City April 28, where Joan and Mickey will represent this county in the big Interstate contest in which Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota spellers compete.

With two years of state contest experience, Marian Maxson is believed to have a good chance of placing high in the World-Herald's state contest this month. Although she did not win she made an excellent showing there last year. Judges of the Valley county bee were Mrs. A. W. Cornell, Mrs. G. W. Taylor and Mrs. Mark Tolen. Members of the Ord normal training class assisted. Sixty-one spellers participated in the contest.

Mother of Tiny Babe Is Reported Improving

Arcadia—(Special)—Mrs. Ray Holcomb, who on March 23 gave birth to a premature baby that weighed only 26 ounces, was able to sit up Sunday for the first time and is now believed to be on the road to recovery.

At first it was hoped that the tiny babe's life could be saved. The incubator placed in Valley county by the state bureau of child welfare was in use at the time but Dr. J. W. Baird used an oxygen tent and also improvised an incubator until one could be secured from Loup City.

Mrs. Everett Webb, who was the nurse, says the 28-ounce girl had a lusty cry, could yawn and would kick away the cotton from her tiny body. The baby was fed by a medicine dropper. In spite of the best care Dr. Baird and Mrs. Webb could give, the baby died after twenty hours.

Washington Co. Spelling Honors to Eugene Flynn

To Eugene Flynn, 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Flynn who left the Ord vicinity a few years ago to make their home near Blair, went the honor of winning both the oral and written divisions of the Washington county spelling contest held at Blair last week. Eugene, who is said by the Blair Pilot-Tribune to be "small of stature but large of memory," will represent Washington county in both the state and interstate contests at Omaha and Sioux City late in April.

Kokes Fined for Speeding. At the instance of Patrolman Zink, Rudolph Kokes appeared before Judge John L. Andersen Friday and entered a plea of guilty to a speeding charge. He was assessed a fine of $10 and costs of $2.75, which he paid.

Three Babies in 3 Counties in 1 Day Is Doctor's Record

Since Dr. J. G. Kruml began practicing medicine in Ord he has, on two or three occasions delivered three babies in a single day, but Sunday he had the unique experience of delivering three in three different towns located in three different counties.

At 10:45 a. m. Mr. and Mrs. Anton Hultinsky of Ord became parents of a daughter, at 4:00 p. m. the Donald Davis home near Scotia was blessed with a son and at 11:20 p. m. a daughter arrived at the Paul Johnson home at Ericson.

Needless to say, Dr. Kruml had little time to rest during that 12½ hour period.

Burwell Agrees to Temporary Truce; Back on Hi Line

Agreement Satisfactory to All Concerned Drafted; Began to Buy Power Thursday.

After weeks of negotiation with the North Loup district, the village board at Burwell last Thursday morning at 11:30 went back on the electric transmission line under a "temporary truce" signed the day before and since Thursday have been buying power from the district at rates fixed in the contract of August, 1937.

The agreement under which Burwell resumed buying power is believed to protect all the village's rights and also was satisfactory to the district.

Burwell still disputes legality of the 30-year contract signed in August, 1937.

The agreement signed by Mayor C. W. Becker and City Clerk Hallock, on behalf of Burwell, and by Roy W. Hudson on behalf of the district.

Joe Lukesh Orchestra Playing Over KMMJ

Joe Lukesh and his orchestra are now playing regularly over radio station KMMJ at Grand Island, the hours at present being 10:30 to 11:00 a. m. and 1:30 to 2:00 p. m. each. They play mostly Bohemian music, and they seem to be making a decided hit with the public.

The personnel includes Joe, accordion, his two sons Emanuel and Richard, trumpets, Johnnie Lukesh, Comstock, drums, Si Tuma, senior and junior, St. Paul, Clarinet and saxophone, and E. J. Wickler, Palmer, recording bass and piano. Mr. Lukesh plans to move his family to Grand Island soon.

Fourteen Contest For Regent's Scholarship

Monday and Tuesday a group of fourteen young people from the Ord high school were competing for the Regent's Scholarship. The examinations were held at Miss McClatchey's office and under her direction. The papers are sent to Lincoln to be graded, and the results will not be known for a week or more. Subjects were English and algebra and two psychological tests.

Pupils are recommended for this competition each year by the high school faculty. Those taking the tests were Norma Benn, Marilyn Dale, Bonnard Hallock, Charles Edwin Hitchman, Audrey Hoyt, Wilma Kluna, Adeline Kusek, Eldon Mathauer, Laurence Kusek, Fern Miller, Evelyn Ollis, Wilma Richardson, Laurence Volt and Eleanor Wolf.

GOD'S IRRIGATION.

When we figure that a total of more than one and one half million dollars has been spent in the cause of irrigation in the North Loup valley, we are inclined to think that it is a big undertaking, and it is. But, figured from God's point of view, the amount expended and the results attained are a mere drop in the bucket.

Last week two snows fell over the county, containing a total of .69 of an inch of moisture. Not much, perhaps, compared with rains and snows that we have known in the past. In some places in the county four or five inches of water have fallen in a single rain in the good old days, and compared with those deluges, our two snows were very light.

However, when reduced to concrete figures, perhaps those snows really amounted to more than we think. Sixty-nine one hundredths of an inch of rain over the entire county equals not far from four feet of water over the part of the county under irrigation. And a foot of water per acre is the amount the district is supposed to furnish.

So, in two light snows the Lord gave Valley county as much moisture as the ditches can furnish the district in the entire year. Furthermore, it was spread evenly, on the high places as well as the low, on the dry places as well as the wet, on the just as well as on the unjust. It went where it was needed, without any assistance from the landowner.

In nature's scheme of irrigation there is no initial expense, no costly upkeep, no money to be paid out for salaries, no cleaning out of ditches, no wading around in hip boots steering the water in the way you want it to go. Last week's snow, light as it was, was worth a million dollars to Valley county, and it didn't cost anybody a single cent.

If the entire county could raise even a light crop, we would be far better off than for the irrigator to raise the biggest crop possible and the rest go without any crop at all. Had it not been for the continued drought in Central Nebraska we would not have had irrigation, and when normal conditions return it will be difficult to keep the public interested in irrigation.

More than forty years ago the land between Olean and North Loup was under irrigation much as it is today. The water was used for a time, and with good results. But after a few years the rains began to fall once more, and the need for irrigation was no longer felt. The public quit using the water, with the result that the irrigation district went into the hands of the receiver.

This is not written to discourage irrigation. It is a proven fact that irrigation is worth while, even under conditions of normal rainfall. Now that we have irrigation, it must be used, and the farmer who uses the water will be well repaid for his added trouble and expense, regardless of how much rain falls.

But it is also a fact that man is prone to try to get along without whatever he thinks he can get along without and still get by. When the rains fall this spring and summer, some men will doubtless consider the extra expense of irrigation water as wasted. But wait until the harvest is in, and then compare the results with that on land not under the ditch.

The water provided by the Lord, supplemented by that furnished by man, should show surprising results. In a few years one hundred bushel corn should be as common in the valley as fifty bushel corn was in the days of normal rainfall. The average man will have to be content with farming a smaller acreage, but the increased yields should make his efforts just as profitable.

THE ITALO-SPANISH WAR.

The so-called Spanish war came to an end officially last week with the surrender of Madrid and Valencia and the remaining territory still held by the fascist forces. As a matter of fact the result was fore-ordained from the beginning, and any student of international affairs could have had no doubts as to the ultimate outcome.

It is not correct to call it the "Spanish War." It was fought in Spain, but the balance of power for the nationalists was furnished by Italy, with Germany playing a less important part in the furnishing of war materials. Italy did not send in enough man power to win the war in a hurry, for she wanted both sides to be worn out when the end came.

Now Mussolini is in a position to dictate the course that Franco must pursue. The Democratic nations still cling to the hope that Franco will stand on his own feet and avoid coalitions with the central powers of Europe. If he could not achieve victory without the help of Italy, he can hardly hope to establish his government without Italy dictating what he must do.

The end of the bloody conflict was fore-ordained because Italy was the only nation that dared to furnish troops and supplies in quantity sufficient to determine victory. Russia, England, France and even the United States were helping what they could, unofficially, of course, on the side of the loyalists, but the actual results of this assistance were negligible.

The only help sent from the United States went as individual American volunteers, and the number was small. The government invoked the neutrality law, which would have been all right if other countries had all done the same, but with Italy playing the role it, what chance did the loyalist forces have?

The U. S. neutrality law kept either side in the conflict from purchasing or otherwise obtaining ammunition, and in this respect it acted fully as much on the side of fascism as did the armed intervention of Italy. For it kept loyalist Spain from receiving help while the other side of the controversy was getting aid openly.

There is no reason not to believe that Italy had promised the nationalists her help from the beginning, and it is not too far fetched to believe that Italy instigated the war in the first place. Nations since the beginning of time have had this habit of meddling in each others affairs, just as a third dog can't resist the temptation to mix in a two dog fight.

If any war in history should have been a strictly home affair, it should have been our own Civil War. No foreign nations were supposed to have any interest in it, and most of them were separated from us by the Atlantic ocean. Yet a checkup of the facts show that at least two leading nations tried to get a finger in the pie.

All through the conflict English privateers were helping out the cause of the Confederacy, and the English money was helping their finances. Taking advantage of the fact that the United States was busy about its own affairs at that time, France sent Maximilian, archduke of Austria, to Mexico as Emperor, expecting that the South would prevail and recognize his regime.

Strangely enough the two leading Democracies of Europe were the two nations that were against the North in the American Civil War, but since that time they have been strongly for the United States. No war in history has ever been fought between two nations without other nations interfering in some respect, and the only personal quarrel in which the neighbors did not take part was the time that Cain killed Abel.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Crop growers of this state are planting the largest barley acreage and the smallest oats acreage in 35 years. Farmers of Valley county are following the same practice. Some of those who have put in more acres of barley than oats locally are John Mason, W. A. Rogers, E. B. Stewart and G. A. Zlomke of Ord township. Up in Plyria precinct we find barley leading oats on the farms of rank Masin and Mouty Petersen.

A few others who have seeded more barley than oats are Anton Novotny and Frank Zalina of German township, Adolph Kokes in Eureka, Frank Haeckel of Vinton, Stanley Gross of Enterprise precinct, Frank Flynn of Noble and Beryl Miller of Davis Creek.

Why are these farmers quitting oats? Perhaps the biggest reason is the decrease in horses and consequent low price of oats. The development of better barleys is another factor.

Just as tractors have increased their advantage over horses thru mechanical perfection, so has barley been improved more rapidly than oats. New smooth owned types, particularly Spartan can be harvested by the farmer with less danger of him getting scratched by the beards. Spartan also equals oats as a nurse crop.

Oats is liked better for milk cows as it has more bulk and protein. But barley is preferred for sheep, hogs, and beef cattle. Barley is about 90 per cent as good as corn when ground.

Higher yielding barley varieties have been originated. While oats produces more bushels per acre, barley will return more pounds of the same time, since a bushel of barley weighs 48 pounds to 32 for oats. Barley also contains only half as much hull, which makes it a better feed pound for pound.

Another advantage exists in connection with the time of seeding. Barley does not drop off as much in yield as oats if planted late.

Good Idea.

Every able bodied man should be made to work who wants to eat. The only redeeming feature of a fascist government is the compulsory part of it and then we only want it used on the other fellow.—Wahoo Wasp.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

No Scoop Here

Foot Washing Project Why Live

I was informed in no uncertain terms that I did not get a scoop when I mentioned the new proposed community building in this column. Mrs. Hamer said she had the same news in her section a week before I did.

How did I know she had it in her news? I never read it. By the time I have plowed through my own junk I usually am ready to throw the paper across the room wondering why I was such a fool as to write what I did and consequently never get to the good part of the paper. Sorry, Mrs. Hamer. I'll never let that happen again.

Anyway the tentative plans for the new community building are something as follows: The building under consideration is to be 64x128 in size and the planners are considering putting a second floor, and on that floor the Odd Fellows will hold court. This is if the old town hall is to be wrecked along with the community building and the old hotel.

There is to be a basketball floor 40x75 and a stage of 64x24 and a basement for the ladies to have their club meetings.

There is to be a balcony around the basketball floor, and a seating capacity in the balcony of about 1,000, and a general seating on the main floor of 1,700 more.

The talk is there will be no main stairs but just ramps. There is to be a library in one corner.

There is to be a meeting of the brass collars Saturday morning, just a few minutes after I drop this notice in the mail box.

Foot Washing Project.

For the new proposed Community Building, there has been voiced considerable objection to their making a basketball floor, for if they do, many fear the people will all have to remove their shoes before entering, and if it were a hot stuffy evening, that situation might not be so good.

That is the rule held to at the N. L. high school; that is the shoe removing rule. That might be a good idea after all. It seems to me I remember some story in the Bible how everyone removed their shoes and washed their feet on certain occasions. I did not suppose they played basketball in Bible days, but the washing of the feet might be good for many of us and it might be a way to start a habit with some.

Without doubt there is some such noble motive back of the bosses of the high school basketball floor; that is some religious creed or the principal of getting folks to wash their feet oftener, but there are such a few people who ever enter the high school gym, that a great lot of good is not accomplished like it would be at the community hall.

Of course there is another point to be considered. If there is a basketball floor and the shoe removing edict is passed, and then the foot washing too, that would eliminate me from attending most of the time. I wash my feet on Friday nights, unless it is busy season when I sometimes put the ordeal off until Saturday. Other folks may have some other night for this job and it would work out all right for a general rule.

I am a little like I heard some of the N. L. high school students say. They expressed themselves that they would rather have a floor made of bridge planks and then they would not have to save it for basketball alone; that is they could be able to walk right out on it, shoes and all.

Why Live.

Rube McCune saw me the other day and thanked me for the kind things I said about him and his nice team he drove through the street one day. That was surely welcome uncton to my ears after some of the ribbings I get now and then for other things said, that are never intended to cause the agony some people resort to.

Rube offered me a cigar but I refused, and he suggested a glass of beer and then this reminded me of a story a few told me once on the train.

The story was that the man was sick, and fearing he would not live, went to the doctor. The doctor felt his pulse and thumped the patient a few places and then looked over his glasses and asked if he ever smoked.

The patient replied, "No, no, I never smoke." Then the doctor shook his head and asked the patient if he ever drank liquor. Again the reply was, "No, no, I never took a drink in my life." The doctor was slightly baffled by now and asked his patient if he ever took a fling with the wilder sort of women. This shocked the

WHAT I'D SAY-- If I Were Editor

A Guest Editorial written by Guy Lutz. In this Department each week some Loup Valley citizen will contribute his views on a subject of general interest.

BRIGHTER DAYS AHEAD FOR AGRICULTURE.

Even though agriculture in the central west is still languishing in the receding shadows of the devastating drought and the nation's basic industry is almost pulseless at the present time, there are factors appearing on the horizon of the future that indicate much better days ahead. Viewing the situation broadly and on a long range basis there is much that is hopeful.

The first problem at hand is the rehabilitation of our depleted live stock situation on the farms. Essentially, Nebraska's farming industry must be allied with livestock production when we consider that approximately 75 percent of the average farm income is derived from livestock, dairy and poultry. About 90 percent of Nebraska's farm land is used to produce crops that can be utilized most successfully by feeding livestock.

Locally speaking, the great sandhill grazing country of Nebraska, literally lays at our back yard. An area that was known for years as one of the best cattle producing sections of the central west. Year after year, hundreds and thousands of these cattle were sent to neighboring states east, to be fitted for market. With the great irrigation development in progress in Nebraska at the present time it will be the natural order of things for these cattle to be fed for market in the home irrigated areas. These sure-to-come developments will take time. The Scotts Bluff territory has become noted as one of the country's best sheep feeding centers. There is no valid reason why this industry should not be greatly increased.

The irrigation development in Nebraska at the present time, including previous irrigated areas, will do more towards stabilizing the livestock industry than any other factor, also adding a sense of security to the commercial and industrial life of the state.

Some authorities estimate that not more than 5% of our nation's agricultural land is irrigable. Including pump irrigation and projects under construction or actually finished, Nebraska will be artificially watering one million acres when fully developed.

It may be further added, few of our citizens contemplate the fact that the Tri-County Irrigation project is one of the notable jobs that is under way under federal activities at the present time, involving the construction of the second largest earth dam in the world and the longest siphon in existence, seventeen feet in diameter.

Hand in hand with irrigation, is electrical development for the home life of the farm. Probably no single improvement has been introduced in the last half century, that will take the drudgery out of farm life and especially the home as well as electrically. Mile after mile of electric lines are being constructed in the state at the present time for rural electrification. It is to be regretted and is most unfortunate that turbulent controversy waxes warm over the state as well as locally over this issue. New mile stones of progress have often been placed in the face of bitter opposition. Eventually progress has always endured the storms. Likewise the problems now involved in electric development in Nebraska, will be solved and as a result the standard of rural life will be greatly elevated.

When closely analyzed, the agricultural life of the central west is in quite a state of evolution. Within the last decade there has been the transition from the horse powered method to motorized farming on rubber wheels. Corn, the king of grains, is being challenged to the extent of thousands of acres by grain sorghums. Hybrid corn is rapidly being introduced. Alfalfa is almost out of the picture at the present time, locally.

Last May the Farm Chemurgic council met in Detroit. It was a pertinent thing that one thousand scientific men, members of the council, paid honor and recognition to Dr. G. W. Carter, noted 72 year old negro scientist of Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, for his outstanding research work in agricultural crops in the south. Dr. Carter is credited with developing 300 products from the peanut and elevating this crop of little importance commercially to the position of an annual income value of 65 million dollars.

A scientific research spokesman for the large Dupont organization lately stated that in the not far distant future there would be a great evolution in industry. Many new and undeveloped discoveries of manufacturing products from farm crops would cause many industrial concerns to establish factories at the source of raw materials.

Coming back to present day problems, the immediate hour is anything but a happy one for people generally, in the agricultural area. American history records few if any periods where for such a prolonged time the farm population has endured drought and economic depressions to the extent of this present catastrophe.

No one can doubt that present times will change for the better. The very determination and patient fortitude with which men and women of the farm have endured the past grilling years can lead to but one conclusion—brighter days ahead for agriculture.

My Own Column

This is a picture of the Dr. Gelow summer cottage (though it don't look very summery) at Cullen Lake. Victor Wallin is atop a big snow drift and the top of the Gelow cottage with the stovepipe sticking up can be seen in the background.

This is the Judge L. B. Fenner cottage at Cullen, with Oscar Wallin standing at the top of the stone wall, which is six feet high. Oscar stands facing the lake and the snow would bury him if he would jump off into it. The wall does not show, only the little standards at each side of the steps that lead down to the lake.

This is my cottage and the back, or east end of the house is shown and as the eaves of the back porch are over seven feet from the ground, the snow there must be at least six feet deep. It looks like there is still plenty of snow up there.

In a brief letter, Oscar says they have had a week of 60 degree weather and that the roads are clear of snow and the snow has melted off the lake. He says the robins, meadow larks and other birds have already arrived and they are hoping spring will soon come. The pictures were taken on March 19. I assume that the ice on the lake is still a couple of feet thick but Oscar is looking forward to the time when they will be able to have a mess of bluegills and crappies. That means June 21st unless they open the season long enough to get a mess of fish, when the game warden is not looking, and I guess that is sometimes done.

I think they are too particular, wanting the best fish in the lake, when I am well pleased to eat black suckers here in Nebraska. They taste pretty good, and Donald Ward has been very thoughtful to keep me pretty well supplied.

But I am counting the weeks when it will be time to go up and pick out a few of those nice walleyes. May 15 is when the season

Putting higher duties on imports from Germany makes competition with Germany in South America more difficult... Real battle over neutrality legislation looms in congress... Opposition to President's desire for power to settle our whole foreign policy is strong in congress

WASHINGTON.—Action of the administration in putting higher duties against German products curiously enough, makes just that much more difficult the underlying scheme for giving the Reich fierce competition in the South American markets, one important step toward which was taken during the recent visit to Washington of Oswaldo Aranha, Brazil's foreign minister.

Perhaps the best way to illustrate it is to cite the case of Rumania prior to the present threat against her political integrity. Rumania produces wheat and oil in abundance, though not as much of either as Germany needs. Germany is eager to take these products, and has been taking them, paying in aski marks, meaning that Rumania had to take her pay in products bought inside Germany.

Why aski marks? The answer to that is the answer to many other questions involving Germany, and which will continue to be perplexing unless Germany obtains the Ukraine, some of her former colonies, and perhaps some other territory. Only when Germany is economically sufficient within herself—is able to supply all her needs from her own territory—will the need for aski marks, or something to accomplish the same results, be ended.

If world trade were normal today this would not be true. Germany demonstrated, before the outbreak of the World war, that she was very efficient at selling her goods abroad. Today her workers are so underpaid and worked such long hours that she would prove an impossible competitor in manufactured goods with Britain and of course the United States.

Many Quota Restrictions As Well as Higher Tariffs But world trade conditions are not normal. There are all sorts of quota restrictions as well as tariff duties far beyond anything known before the World war. On top of this there has been another growing menace to German exports—the Hull reciprocal trade agreements.

For example, when the United States made its trade agreement with Czechoslovakia some time back, the substantial reductions of duties there applied to every other nation in the world except those on the "most favored nation" list. Under the new agreements with Britain and Canada, this differential against Germany was magnified, for Germany is not on the list.

The result of this trade barrier eliminating program of Cordell Hull, therefore, has been to gradually tighten a strangling grip on Germany's economic throat. Aski marks is one of the devices to meet this threat. Germany wants coffee and cotton from Brazil. And Brazil wants a number of products which Germany can supply, but which she might buy equally well from the United States or Britain. But the United States cannot increase to any extent her consumption of Brazilian coffee, and does not want any of her cotton. So aski marks force Brazil to do that particular buying in Germany.

The complication of the problem just produced by the United States action in boosting the duties on German products is that the German products which have been finding a market in the United States must obviously go elsewhere if Germany is to continue getting the imports which those particular exports have been buying. So she will be forced to redouble her efforts to force them on Latin America.

President Wants Power to Direct Our Foreign Policy A real battle over the neutrality legislation, with both the President and the extreme isolationists wanting to amend the present law in highly conflicting ways, looms on Capitol Hill.

"Der Tag" still waits around the corner. It didn't happen this time. Ethiopia, Spain, Austria, Munich and finally the dissolution of Czechoslovakia, each made its crisis, but each passed, leaving some certainty, that war was coming. Each while scaring the world to death, revived all the old issues and bitterness which were fought over when the original neutrality law was enacted two years ago— isolation versus collective security—trade versus neutrality—national pride versus international peace.

The present act satisfies no one of the special groups and interests involved. A strong minority in congress feels that it gives the President too much power in leaving to his discretion the declaration of a state of war, which declaration determines whether the embargoes and other restrictions become effective, and when.

President Roosevelt maintains the present law ties his hands too closely, thinks he should have the power to pick and choose between belligerents, to embargo a commodity to one fighting nation and not to the other, to have power to determine what articles shall be classified as "war supplies." In short—power to settle our whole foreign policy.

The policy of the administration and of the state department, since 1914 for that matter, regardless of the political label of the occupant of the White House, has been that United States interests are closely akin to those of Britain and France. The President feels keenly that this country's dangers are increased in almost direct ratio as the dangers of the two big western Europe democracies become more menacing. This is a long range view held by many Americans.

Intelligent Solution of Problem Is Not Expected But—congress will not go along with the President on this. It will not importantly increase his discretion in neutrality administration. The little group led by Senators Bennett Champ Clark and Gerald Nye, that wants to deprive him of all discretion, will not make any gains. But neither will the larger group which believes the best interests of the country can be served only by allowing more discretion to the White House. Too many members of congress are convinced that discretionary decisions after the outbreak of a war in Europe must involve side-taking hence may involve the United States in the conflict.

It is argued in defense of discretion for the President that a mandatory law embargoing shipments to belligerents with an even hand in anything but neutral, works a gross injustice. As in Spain against the loyalists.

Washington Stag Dinners Generally Misunderstood

Few things in Washington are so generally misunderstood as some of the big stag dinners which occur at regular intervals—four of them annually, and one twice a year.

For instance the annual "wallow" of the Military Order of the Carabao. The average citizen would never have heard about these "wallows" if it had not been for William Jennings Bryan. When the Commoner was secretary of state he discovered that a line in one of the songs which the Carabao were to sing at their dinner read: "Civilize them with a Krag," meaning of course the rifle which was regular army equipment during the Philippine insurrection.

This gave the country the notion, one it still entertains when it thinks about the Carabao at all, that the members are a bunch of fire-eaters who would like to apply Japanese conquest methods in the islands. Actually the only thing on which the organization seems to be agreed is that the islands its members fought to hold should be retained indefinitely by the United States. That is not an unnatural attitude for men who have passed the prime of life, and are looking backward at the days of their youth and effort. Naturally they do not want that big experience in their lives to count for nothing, and that is the way they would feel if the United States should, as they put it, "scuttle" in the Philippines.

Actually, however, General Aguinaldo has been an honored guest at these "wallows," and so have other insured leaders. More of the blue and gray spirit of Civil war reunions pervades the wallows than any thought of bitterness.

For the last 20 years not a word has been said or sung at a Carabao wallow that would not have been approved at the White House, the state department, or the lobbyists of the Philippine congress. The dinners have been more like college class reunions than anything else.

Correspondents' Dinners Glorified Vaudeville Shows

The White House Correspondents' dinners have become glorified vaudeville shows, with the added eclat for visitors that the President of the United States and most of the cabinet are always present. Actually 98 per cent of the entertainment is provided by professionals, usually provided by the two big broadcasting companies on alternate years. The President merely acknowledges the friendly greeting. This year this enjoyable and relaxing event had to be cancelled because of the hotel strike, affecting all the hotels with dining rooms large enough to accommodate the number present.

The National Press club dinners are but a slight modification of the White House correspondents' save that the dinners are smaller, being limited by the fact that it is held in the Press club auditorium. There is usually a little more amateur talent, but the real load of providing amusement rests on professionals.

The Gridiron dinners are utterly different in that there is no professional talent whatever except the musicians. The skits are performed by amateurs and are written by newspaper men who are members. The whole punch of a Gridiron dinner is to see the President and high officials kidded to their faces, this being one of the few countries where this would be possible.

Bresley Percheron

Auction Successful

The Bresley sale of purebred and grade Percheron horses at the farm north of Ord Thursday was well attended, most of the crowd being from this section. The grade horses offered for sale brought satisfactory prices and the purebreds offered went as high as $300, but due to a lack of buyers for this grade of stock, the owners did not feel justified in trying to sell but a few. Since the sale Mr. Bresley has received a number of letters from prospective buyers in the north part of the state, telling of the heavy snow there, which made it impossible for them to come. Everything considered, he is well pleased with the results.

Comstock Complains Of Electric Service. The following is quoted from the Comstock News of March 30: "We have heard a lot of complaints on the poor electric service during the past few days. It seems as though the lights have been going off nearly every night about one o'clock, and staying out until early morning. People having refrigerators find them defrosted and in many instances the food therein spoiled. Also the village is without street lights during this time, another service the village is paying for and not getting. If the service was this way in Ord and Burwell we do not blame the people for kicking."

MEDICAL FACTS

Sponsored by 4-COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

Tuberculosis is not confined to human beings. Several of our common domestic animals are frequently affected with it. Cattle, hogs and chickens are the best known examples. The germs causing the disease in these animals differ but little from those causing the human variety. In fact, the disease is transferable from the animals to man, and the presence of the disease in cattle especially, is a distinct danger to people.

In the past, tuberculosis of the lymph glands in man, particularly those in the neck, was a fairly common disease in this part of the country. It still occurs frequently in many parts of the United States. This has been called scrofula in the past. Children are more likely to be afflicted with this type of tuberculosis than adults. This form of the disease is usually caused by the germ from cattle. The amount of it present in the population is a good measure of the amount of cattle tuberculosis in a community. Some other varieties of tuberculosis in the human race are also, usually due also to the bovine or cattle strain of this germ. The disease is acquired by the child by drinking infected milk. When infected meat is accidentally eaten it is usually so well cooked that the germs are dead. While one does not relish the thought of eating meat thus diseased and containing these germs, it is harmless if properly cooked.

Some years ago the State of Nebraska began a campaign to eradicate tuberculosis in cattle. This has been carried to a successful end. The cost of this work was over a million dollars and a certain amount of money must continue to be spent yearly in keeping the herds clean. This apparently high cost has been well justified by the saving in human disease, misery, maiming and life itself. It is a matter justifying pride to know how little human tuberculosis is now traceable in our state to infection in cattle, especially when compared to the frequency of this type of disease in other parts of our country and in foreign countries.

In 1937 there were 261 deaths from tuberculosis in Nebraska. It is commonly accepted that there are always about nine living cases for each one that dies of this disease. This means that in 1937 Nebraska had approximately 2,300 active cases of tuberculosis. In 1935 questionnaires were sent out to all physicians and osteopaths in Nebraska in an effort to find out how many known cases there were in the state. According to these returns there were 1,146. This does not represent all the known cases in the state but probably about 55% of them. This proved that only a little over half the cases of tuberculosis in our state were known to the doctors and were, therefore, under some kind of medical care. The other half were not being treated as they should be and because of ignorance of their condition and its dangers to others, were spreading the disease much more widely than should be the case if we could find each and every case and manage it correctly.

Two years ago, when this information was placed before the legislature a small sum of money was appropriated to be used in starting a careful survey of the whole state in regard to tuberculosis. Prior to the appropriation one county had completed such a survey largely through funds raised within the county itself. The work in this county was done by the local county medical society with the aid and advice of the Nebraska State Medical Association, The Nebraska State Tuberculosis Association, The State Health Department, the State Board of Control and the State Planning Board. These same agencies have worked together in carrying out the survey in four other counties during the past two years. This type of work will do for the people of the state what has been done amongst the cattle, providing the necessary funds can be appropriated to carry it along. It will be possible for Nebraska to become one of the first states in the Union to have human tuberculosis entirely under control, if this project can be completed as thoroughly as the problem amongst the livestock has been handled.

Legion Junior Baseball

Making Plans for 1939

The American Legion junior baseball boys are making plans for 1939, and hope for even a better season than last year, when they took second place in the district. All last year's boys will be eligible for the competition with the exception of Don Severson, Don Dahlin, Robert Albers and Charles Keown, who have passed the age limit.

Those still on the list from last year are Wilford Hansen, Jerry Fryzek, Henry Misko, Billy Johnson, Wayne Johnson, Gerald Stoddard, Harold Christensen, Orville Stoddard, Dean Bresley, Ernest Miskorski, Allen Zikmund, and in addition there will be a number of new players on the list. Those born since Jan. 1, 1922 are eligible for 1939.

Wm. Heuck has been selected to manage the team for this year, and will doubtless have the boys out practicing whenever their school duties permit. The games will be played at the fair grounds, there being sufficient space to the southeast of the midget track for the purpose. This will be smoothed off soon and made ready for use.

It Took a Long Time But Finally We Found a Name for Our Fine Quality SILK HOSE

We're "fussy" about silk hosiery—fussier than women who buy them because our job is to provide stockings that are not alone beautiful, but that wear. We have been selling this kind of hosiery for a long time. You can examine it with a microscope and find only perfection. We were "fussy" about a name for this hosiery—a name expressive of sheer, ringless beauty and the way they cling like a shadow to leg and ankle. At last we found a name that clicked—SILHOUETTE! Only the name is new. The hosiery is the same long wearing beautiful stockings that have grown so amazingly in the esteem of our customers. Now—you can ask for them by name.

IN ROMANTIC SPRING COLORS

Powder Gold	Rose Ash	Smart Cinnamon	Satin Wood	May Wine
A shade expressive of the name. Warm sunny tone in full gold finish. Wear it with black, navy or even high shades.	A lovely shade in an effect of rose over gold, or like ash of rose held in a fragile urn.	There is a spicy vigor in its brownish red tone reminiscent of cinnamon bark in grandmother's kitchen.	The rich, coppery glow is slightly deeper in reddish than cinnamon. A grand color for street wear.	A delicate purple tint laid over rose in exquisite softness. Wear it with many varying types of spring outfits.

What "Gauge" and "Strand" Mean

"Gauge" refers to the number of threads in the circumference of the hosiery. Our various gauges have the maximum number of needles. This assures you of quality and the wear you have a right to expect from hosiery properly "gauged."

Silk, from which hosiery is knit, is in single strands. When two of these strands are twisted into a thread, the stocking knit with it is called a 2-strand. The higher the thread count, the heavier the stocking and the longer the wear.

Parity Payment Ruling Not Effective This Year

Since the house recently approved the agricultural appropriations measure without the 250 million dollar parity payment allocation for 1940, a number of farmers have called at the county agent's office asking if this affected 1939, according to County Agent C. C. Dale.

Since the appropriation for 1939 was made last year, the action of the house has no effect on 1939, and this year's program will go forward exactly as planned. The appropriation as passed by the house provides 500 million dollars in conservation payments for 1939.

Municipal League For LB 168 & 170, Against L. B. 185

The League of Nebraska Municipalities, of which C. E. Beals is secretary, this week sent out circular letters explaining the League's support of L. B. 168 and L. B. 170, two bills now before the legislature, and outlining its opposition to L. B. 185, a bill that is being supported by the Nebraska Power company and other utilities. The city of Ord is a member of the League and received copies of the letter.

All three bills relate in a general way to regulation of the public power districts. L. B. 170 provides that if a district buys a power system in a town it shall continue to operate under the franchise of the company from whom it purchased such system, and that if the franchise expires it must obtain a new franchise; in other words, that the public power districts operate, so far as franchises are concerned, the same as private companies. Rates are to be fixed in the franchises, this bill requires.

L. B. 168 provides that districts shall have the power to sell the distribution systems in the municipalities to sell it provides a means for fixing the price. As a further condition to being permitted to buy these properties, the districts are required to continue to pay the same amounts of taxes, including occupation taxes, as had previously been paid by the private utility.

Under the guise of "protecting the municipalities," but really seeking protection for themselves from the public power districts, the Nebraska Power company and other utilities are trying by every means to get L. B. 185 passed by the legislature, the League of Municipalities charges. This bill, if passed, would absolutely prevent the purchase by a public power district of the system of a private company. It would either compel the districts to build competing lines into the territory now being served by a private company or else sell electricity to the company for resale to patrons, so the League charges.

Should L. B. 185 pass, the public power districts before buying the Iowa-Nebraska Light & Power company, for instance, would have to sponsor elections in over 100 towns, and if the election should fall to carry in a single one of those towns the whole deal would fall through. Even if every town voted in favor of the deal there still would be election contests and injunctions to hold the matter up indefinitely.

"This bill is unnecessary, undemocratic and unfair," the League's circular says. "It would force the districts to sell their power to the private companies and deny the benefits of cheap power to the people."

The letter closes with the advice that people write their representatives at once and urge them to vote against L. B. 185.

The Bridgettes will hold their next meeting Monday, April 10.

—Lawrence Shunkweller spent the first of this week in bed and under the doctor's care because of a severe attack of appendicitis.

Middle Loup Began Irrigating April 1, Rules for Use of Water Are Announced

The Middle Loup Public Power and Irrigation district has released the long awaited announcement that irrigation is a reality in the Middle Loup valley.

structure, canal, lateral, or other property of the district. Interference with any part of an irrigation system by an unauthorized person is a violation of the state law, and anyone caught tampering with the district's property will be severely prosecuted.

This work has all been done in spite of a desperate shortage of operating funds and was made possible only by the combined cooperation of the citizens, business men, banks, district employees, etc., in Sargent, Comstock, Arcadia, Loup City, and the adjoining rural districts.

No irrigator will be allowed to waste water, as this is fully covered by existing laws. If reasonable use and control is not made of water requested, or if, in its use, operating rules of the district are violated, riders are instructed to close and lock the turnout gate, after which no further water may be delivered until approval is secured from the Arcadia office.

Gorny's 29 Year Old Automobile Still Runs

S. T. Gorny, who moved from Eureka township in Valley county to Spalding 46 years ago, still has the Buick auto he bought at Belgrade in 1910.

Mr. Gorny now drives a late model car, but keeps the old one in the rear of his blacksmith shop in Spalding.

The collapsible top is still in good condition. There are no front doors, just a place to step in, and the levers are outside, out of the way.

The springs are good and the fenders undented. He never purchased any repairs for the car, and never touched it with a wrench unless it was when the lights were installed.

Must Work Your Way. The squawk that a lot of people finally make is because they thought all along that they could travel the road to success on a free pass.

One of the district's irrigation engineers will call on every farm operator in the valley in the next few weeks and assist them in determining which land should be irrigated first and in what manner; and secure orders for delivery of water.

With 50 miles of canals and 65 miles of laterals to operate it is very evident that a simple yet complete system of operating rules must be established applicable to the entire system, to insure equal water to every irrigator and fairness to all.

Thus close cooperation will be necessary between the irrigators and the watermaster and his riders to secure the best results, and strict observance of the following fundamental rules will be required of irrigators and riders alike:

1. No one but an authorized employee of the district may adjust, operate, or change in any way any

I had a most enjoyable time all last week, entertaining my old enemy, Mr. Lumbago. It was on Tuesday morning, a few moments before seven that he called, just as I hoisted my left foot to stick my leg into my trousers. It had been several years since he paid me a visit and I shall not be sorry if he don't call again very soon. I struggled around a couple of days with the idea of wearing the trouble out, then I went to bed a couple of days. I am back partly on the job today (Saturday) but it is considerable of a struggle and I guess I would have been better off to stay in bed a couple more days. But don't tell the Missus I admitted that, for she wanted me to stay there.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake VanWieren have both been ill the past week, and both confined to their bed. Mrs. VanWieren has been down the past few days again.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bossen and children visited Sunday in Shelton with Mr. and Mrs. Dwain Russell.

Burwell Agrees to Temporary Truce; Back On Hi Line

district, states that Burwell agrees to connect its electric distribution system to the transmission system of the district "forthwith" and purchase electric energy "for the present" at rates provided in the contract of 1937.

The district waives any estoppel or right to claim or plead estoppel against the village's right to question the validity of the 1937 contract, and agrees that all defenses the city had or claimed to have on March 20, 1939 are reserved to the village. Both parties agreed that Burwell's action in going back on the high line did not constitute ratification of the 1937 contract. Burwell is to receive $100 monthly from the district for stand-by service.

In a resolution passed Wednesday afternoon explaining its action in ratifying the agreement, the Burwell board said that there is grave doubt of the 1937 contract's legality and since a law suit to determine this legality would require several months, as would an election to ratify or reject the contract, during which time the district would suffer from lack of funds, it was deemed to the best interests of all concerned that the village go back on the high line temporarily and thus furnish financial assistance to the district.

The resolution further stated that it was the opinion of Glen Runyan, village attorney, that such action will not seriously jeopardize the rights of the village. The agreement was being entered into, the resolution stated, "for the sole purpose of rendering financial assistance to the district until proper provision can be made for approval or rejection by the voters of the purported contract, or the legality of the purported contract determined, or some other contract be legally and properly executed between the two parties."

President Hudson and other officials of the North Loup district said they were pleased at Burwell's action and that it will assist greatly in getting irrigation under way this season.

Emergency Grant List to Be Cut

A considerable number of farm families now receiving emergency grants from the Farm Security Administration in Valley county expect soon to be able to take their names off the grant list, according to Claude C. Davis, county rehabilitation supervisor. These farmers, hard hit by drought and other agricultural misfortunes in recent years, are looking forward to the chance to become self-supporting through rehabilitation processes which they may be able to put into effect with the help of the FSA, said the supervisor.

Every effort is being made by the Farm Security Administration to cooperate with grant receiving farm families in putting "live-at-home" programs into effect, the supervisor announced. Such a program calls for all food and other subsistence needs possible to be produced at home by the family itself.

"Although our grant load is heavier than we had hoped it would be, I don't believe there are many on the list who really want to remain there," said Mr. Davis. "Most of the families express a desire to become entirely self-supporting as soon as possible, and are anxious to cooperate with us in following instructions from the state and regional offices to reduce the grant load as rapidly as is consistent with existing needs of the families."

Mr. Davis said the FSA considers the answer to the grant relief problem is rehabilitation, or placing facilities in hard-hit farmers' hands so they can work out their own rehabilitation. To that end, he said, grant clients are encouraged to put in adequate gardens, increase their farming operations when feasible, plan to conserve food and feed, avail themselves of FSA debt adjustment services, and do whatever is necessary to make them self-supporting.

"The Farm Security Administration is an agency set up to help disadvantaged farmers work their own way to a security type of living," stated Mr. Davis. "The agency also handles emergency grants, but no one considers them in any sense a permanent answer to agricultural lack of security. They do fit into emergencies, but any attempt to make them continue to take the place of earnings or home production of subsistence living defeats rehabilitation. For that reason it is necessary for the FSA to help farmers replace the grants with rehabilitation with all possible promptness."

The supervisor pointed out that approximately $300,000 has been loaned by the FSA to Valley county farmers. These loans have nothing to do with grants, and will be repaid nearly dollar for dollar because they are based on definite plans which include home production of subsistence needs. In fact, Mr. Davis explains, the loans were put in place as a primary purpose of putting well developed farm and home management plans into effect after the borrowers found it impossible to finance their operations from any other source.

Plans will be announced soon, Davis said, providing for grant clients to work out definite home subsistence programs similar to the farm and home management plans which accompany all standard rehabilitation loans.

Petty Quarrel

By R. H. WILKINSON
 Associated Newspapers, WNU Service.

JEFFREY found the newspaper lying as usual beside his plate, and he picked it up, scanned the headlines and read a lead paragraph or two in three of the front page stories. But nothing of what was written there registered on his mind. His thoughts were too occupied, his spirits too low to concentrate and enjoy his usual morning routine.

Jeffrey's eyes were heavy with lack of sleep.

With a definite gesture he laid aside the newspaper.

For the hundredth time he went over the scene again. He saw once more Susan, his wife; saw her standing in their bedroom. Rage, uncontrollable, held her in its grip. "It's the end, Jeffrey! Absolutely the end! I'm leaving—for good this time. I'm—"

"But, Sue, can't we talk it over? Can't we settle the thing without making a mess of our lives?"

"No!"

"Then there's more to it than you pretend." She was silent, and he went on accusingly: "There's someone else. Another man—"

"Jeffrey Gordan, you're a fool!"

He watched her in bitter silence as she flung things into her suitcase. He caught the gleam of costly diamonds, necklaces, brooches, bracelets. Sight of them sickened him. It was so easy to remember that there were no costly jewels, and no quarrels before prosperity smiled on them. There had been nothing but happiness then.

It was all very funny and very tragic. Because both he and Susan had wanted money, were forever planning all the things they could do when eventually it came, as they were sure it would. Perhaps it was the planning that had kept them free of trouble. He hoped it had been more than that.

Jeffrey couldn't tell how or when the trouble had started. It just had, that's all. Petty quarrels that often resulted in angry outbursts. There were days when no word was spoken between them.

"I'm going," said Susan. "Now!" And she slammed shut her suitcase and looked at Jeffrey with flaming eyes.

"Very well," Jeffrey's voice was like ice. "But remember this: If you leave this house, in your present condition, don't ever return."

Her taunting laugh came back to him. Then there was silence, and Jeffrey was alone.

He stood there for some time, a little dazed and bewildered, conscious of an aching pain inside of him, thinking vaguely that Susan had gone, that she had, actually, stopped loving him. This wasn't one of their petty quarrels. It was bigger, had been prompted by something far more serious. His thoughts flashed to dark and handsome Julian Brocke, who had professed friendship for them both . . .

Jeffrey ate his breakfast—all of it—and picked up the newspaper again. He must force himself to read, to get his mind on other things. And so he waded through two whole columns on the first page and turned the sheet in search of something more. Almost instantly his eye fell on a headline near the top. He read, and suddenly felt his heart pounding wildly: "Society Woman Held Up and Robbed." Mrs. Jeffrey Gordan was held up early last night on the lonely Sleepy Hollow road by two masked gunmen, while driving into

N. C. Madsen Dies, Was Blacksmith at No. Loup 36 Years

Funeral Rites Held Saturday for 78-Year-Old Man Who Was Greatly Loved.

Niels Chris Madsen was born April 25, 1861 at Skibsted, Denmark, the son of Niels and Anna Kathrine Madsen, and was the only boy in the family of two sisters and one half-sister. He was born and raised on a farm but much preferred to spend his time at a neighboring blacksmith shop. His mother died when he was sixteen and after working a year for his half-sister, taking care of cattle, he eagerly took the opportunity to attend technical school at Aalborg, here he worked four years with a class of sixteen boys, and thoroughly learned every detail of the blacksmith trade at a time when many of their tools were made by hand. He received his room rent and board (and very poor board, too) but all the money he had for clothes and other expenses was the little he could earn by making horse shoes and nails after work hours.

Some of this time he attended evening school where among other studies he learned mechanical drawing. He was 21 when he finished his training and for a year and a half he followed his trade on steamships and thus gained a good knowledge of the world. One day in 1885 when in Danzig, two of his friends suddenly decided to come to America and he joined them. So many of the workers on the ship were new and seafaring that he was given enough work to pay his passage.

He went right from New York to Gibbon, Nebr., where he had a sister, Mrs. Mary Jensen. Not knowing the language he did not try to work at his trade until he had gained a little knowledge of English, but found a job as section hand on the railroad for a few weeks, then went to Omaha where for ten years he worked in the big shops, mostly Murphy's shop. His specialty was shoeing horses and making horse shoes.

Next he went to Ames, Nebr., where he spent seven years a lucky move for him, for in Fremont, close by, he met Miss Emma From to whom he was married May 23, 1901. Two years later, March 16, 1903, he came to North Loup, having bought the Henry Smith blacksmith shop, and a little later the home. For thirty-six years he has been a stand-by in North Loup business life. Only Wellman Bros., Geo. E. Johnson, G. L. Hutchins and Dr. Hemphill were in business before him. In his work he was industrious and dependable. He paid his honest debts but was lenient with creditors. No one was more respected. He was very sociable and neighborly and never outgrew his boyish love of fun and joking. To the last his conversation was full of dry humor.

In the home he was a model husband and father. Very seldom did he spend an evening away from home except at some social gathering where his wife accompanied him and which he greatly enjoyed. No father could be more devoted to his children or take more delight in their company. His patient training of his son Paul, has made him a worthy successor.

In his youth he was confirmed in the Lutheran church. He never transferred his membership but affiliated with several in America as most convenient. Though a loyal American he kept his love for his native land and always enjoyed talking of old times and old customs in Denmark.

After a short but severe illness when it was supposed he was recovering, he dropped away suddenly Thursday morning, April 6, 1939, lacking but nineteen days of 78 years. He leaves his sorrowing wife, four children, Mrs. Agnes Manchester and Paul of North Loup, Freda of Riverdale and Helen of Sidney, Nebr., one little granddaughter, Donna, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon from the Methodist church conducted by Rev. W. C. Birmingham with the I. O. O. F. lodge, of which order, both Mr. Madsen and Paul are members, in charge. Music was furnished by a quartet, Mrs. Rozella Ingerson, Mrs. H. J. Hoepfner, R. W. Hudson and James Birmingham, with Mrs. M. R. Cornell at the piano Mrs. Hoepfner also sang as a solo. "Some Day We'll Understand." Bearers were Otto Bartz, C. W. McClellan, Frank Johnson, A. G. Springer, J. P. Jorgensen and H. C. Sample. The many beautiful flowers and the large crowd which filled the church were a tribute of respect to Mr. Madsen and his family. All business houses were closed during the services.

The Great Western land roller company has a machine at the Ira D. Fish place, and will start putting down an irrigation well soon. The place, on which Mr. Fish lives near Glen, is practically above the irrigation ditch, but much of it lies well for irrigating.

Mrs. William P. Hoon Dies in South Dakota

At her home in Todd county, S. D., on April 4 occurred the death of Mrs. William P. Hoon, one of the early residents of Valley county. Born Margaret Holmes, she came here from Iowa with her parents in 1886 and in the same year was married here to William Hoon.

To them thirteen children were born, three daughters and ten sons, all of whom are living. They include Robert, John and Harold, at home; Mrs. Jennie Jensen, Coffeyville, Kas.; Mrs. Bessie Morrill, Sage, Ida.; Mrs. Mary Ormsby, Metuchen, N. J.; Pete, Tilley, Alberta, Canada; Joe, East Stanwood, Wash. Lloyd, Glendo, Wyo.; Clarence Morrill, Nebr.; Walter, Arcadia, Glen, Ord; and Ray, St. Paul.

Most of Mrs. Hoon's life was spent in Valley county but in 1926 she moved to Todd county, S. D., where her home had since been. Her husband died in 1929.

Besides her children, Mrs. Hoon is mourned by two sisters, Mrs. Anna Lacey, of Silverton, Ore.; and Mrs. Jennie Blakeslee, of Arcadia; and by four brothers, Frank, Sam and Joe, of Arcadia, and John, of Hines, Minn.

Doyle, of Greeley, and is headed: "Resolution concerning Fort Hartsuff as an historic site for state park and memorial purposes." It sets forth the facts in connection with Ft. Hartsuff and the reasons for the importance of its purchase at this time.

Senator I. M. Howard of Platts is chairman of the committee on public works and to him Senator Doyle spoke briefly, introducing Mr. Davis who gave the principal talk in behalf of the resolution. He was followed by Wiegardt, Ward and Kovanda in turn, all of whom made brief talks.

Hon. A. E. Sheldon, sent for by the Ord committee, then made a very interesting talk on the subject of memorials in general, and Fort Hartsuff in particular, showing how the advantages of the park in the future would far offset the initial expense. The entire time consumed by the hearing was only three quarters of an hour.

Of course, no action was taken that day, and the senators left that evening for the Easter holidays, but the general tone of the entire conference was encouraging. The committee members' apparently were convinced of the importance of the resolution, and if no further action is taken it will be from lack of funds.

Other persons well known here whom the members of the Ord committee met during the day were T. T. Frost, sergeant at arms of the senate, Bill Lumdy, who is official information man and guide in the new capitol, E. M. White, formerly of Barwell, who is clerk of the supreme court, and Judge Carter of the supreme court.

The last office visited was that of Bayard H. Paine, supreme court justice, who rounded out a perfect day for the group by escorting them through all the rooms of the supreme court, and explaining in detail all the ideas that the architect, Bertram Goodhue, embodied in the building of that part of the capitol.

Without exception every person visited expressed himself as interested in the project of the restoration of Ft. Hartsuff. The work may be done now, and it may have to wait until a later date, but it is certain that a long forward step has been made in interesting the members of the Nebraska legislature in the importance of the project.

Mrs. W. D. Negley Dies At Home of Daughter

Mrs. W. D. Negley, 73 years old, died April 10 at the home of a daughter, Mrs. H. A. Schmid, in Broken Bow, and funeral services are being held at the Methodist church in North Loup this afternoon, with interment in the family lot in Hillside cemetery to follow.

She was the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Williams and was born near Randolph, Ia., Sept. 20, 1861, coming to the Loup valley region when 19 years old with her brother James. Her marriage to William D. Negley occurred at Scotia on April 29, 1882, and for many years they lived on a farm near that village. Mrs. Negley moved to North Loup after her husband's death in 1912.

To them ten children were born, of whom eight survive. They are Charles A., of Rising City; Mrs. Venus Thrasher, of Oroville, Wash.; Archie G. of Parkdale, Ore.; Mrs. Dollie B. Dingwell, of Scottsbluff; Herman F., of Denver; Mrs. Lora M. Schmid, of Broken Bow; Loyal L., of Ord; and Merlynn R., of Eureka, U.

Mrs. Negley had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Schmid, since falling health made it impossible for her to live alone in her own home at North Loup.

Receiving and Compiling Assistance Information

The Valley county relief office is now receiving and compiling information relative to all people receiving relief in regard to their plans for 1939. Gardens will be mandatory in 1939, and each assistance client is expected to raise enough garden for the family use and for canning purposes. If the demand is sufficient, arrangements can be made for a market for the surplus. If a crop failure is feared, land can be obtained on the low ground near the river.

Glen Eglehoff trucked hogs to the Omaha market Tuesday.

After his graduation from college in 1904, he entered the grocery business in Broken Bow. Mr. George was very much interested in civic affairs, having served many years as a member of the school board and the city council. He was a charter member of the Public Service club. He had been an active member of the Baptist church all his life.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the Scherlinger and Johnson funeral home at Broken Bow. Besides his widow he leaves to mourn his passing, three daughters, Mrs. E. K. Langevin, and Mrs. M. D. Tolen and Mrs. Archie Mason of Ord.

Fire in Arcadia Movie Theatre During Show

Arcadia—(Special)—People attending the movies at the I. O. O. F. hall Sunday evening had some excitement when a film caught fire and for a few moments a serious blaze threatened. Manager Ed Panowicz attempted to put out the blaze with an extinguisher but the fire department had to be called. They soon extinguished the flames and in a few moments the show continued. Damage was slight.

Legion Yard Work Postponed.

2nd Ward Voters To Hold Informal Caucus Friday Eve

Will Try to Decide Choice for Councilman, Recommend Him to Mayor Cummins.

At the city hall in Ord at 7:30 Friday evening, voters of the 2nd ward will hold an informal caucus and attempt to agree on some resident of that ward for appointment as a member of the city council to succeed Joe L. Dworak, who resigned after he moved to Omaha. Great interest in the proposed caucus is being shown.

Second ward citizens feel they have not had fair representation on the city council this winter. Frank Sershen, one councilman, spent the winter in California, leaving the ward with only one representative, and then Mr. Dworak resigned.

Guy Burrows was elected April 4 to the place held by Sershen, but since Dworak's resignation was not received in time to fill the place at the spring election it now devolves upon Mayor M. B. Cummins and the council to fill the office.

At the city council meeting Friday evening Mayor Cummins sought to appoint James Petska to the vacant 2nd ward position but before the matter could come to a vote on confirmation, Councilman J. W. McGinnis of the 3rd ward stated that a number of 2nd ward voters had come to him asking that the council defer an appointment until an informal caucus could be held. Mayor Cummins then withdrew Mr. Petska's name.

The informal 2nd ward caucus at the city hall Friday evening is expected to attract a large crowd of 2nd ward voters, as interest in the appointment is running high. The irrigation and municipal plant question is a factor in the situation.

Yesterday Mayor Cummins was asked if he will appoint whoever is selected at the caucus. He stated that he will make no definite promise but if the caucus is composed of a representative group of 2nd ward citizens and they agree by a goodly majority on a worthy candidate, he probably will make the appointment. Any appointment he may make, Mayor Cummins emphasizes, is subject to confirmation by the city council.

The final meeting of the present Ord council, which has as members Frank Johnson and M. B. Biondini, in the 1st ward; Joe Rohla and Dr. McGinnis, in the 3rd, and Frank Sershen, in the 2nd, will be held Tuesday, April 25.

Schudel Farm Threatened When Cane Stack Burns

North Loup—(Special)—Fast work by the North Loup fire department and neighbors probably saved the barn and other buildings on the W. H. Schudel farm in Riverdale Tuesday morning when a cane stack caught fire, probably from spontaneous combustion. The stack was northwest of the barn and a brisk wind was blowing. Armed with pitchforks and shovels, and by use of a bucket brigade, the men soon had the fire under control, only loss being a large quantity of feed.

A humorous sidelight came when Melvin Cornell, editor of the Loyalist, dipped a bucket of water to pour on the flames and instead threw it on Paul Madsen, the assistant fire chief.

Ord Bankers Attend Meet at Broken Bow

Ord Pavement Will Be Given Surface Coating

Resurfacing of the old pavement in Ord with an asphalt emulsion was decided on Friday evening by the city council, and the work will get under way when warm weather arrives. A new process will be used and it is thought that the paving, now worn down to the crushed rock base, will last many more years.

Cost to the city will be about $1,700. The WPA will furnish labor and pay $400 toward cost of the materials. City officials plan to employ a Lincoln consulting engineer to supervise the job.

Young Church Group Holds Easter Services

At 5:30 Easter morning a group of 26 young people from the Presbyterian church, together with their sponsors and guests, drove to the prominent hill southeast of the Howard Huff place, where they held a beautiful sunrise service. The service was opened by a prayer by Miss Evelyn Ollis, followed by the singing of "In The Garden," by the entire group.

Following a period of meditation in which all knelt, James Ollis played a cornet solo. The scripture lesson, John 20, 1 to 17, was then read by young people of the society, the audience standing. The Apostles' Creed was then repeated in unison. "Christ The Lord Is Risen Today" was sung by Cornelius Biondini, with the audience humming the lines.

Edwin Hittchman gave a talk on the subject, "The Challenge of Easter." The song "Christ Arose" was sung in unison, after which Miss Marilyn Dale gave a poem, "The Glory Way." Miss Patty Frazier then sang, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth." The service closed by all standing for the benediction.

This artists' program was well attended and was one of the finest musical events Ord has ever had.

Rev. W. A. Alcorn Dies at Hastings

Arcadia—(Special)—Rev. W. A. Alcorn, who was pastor of the Congregational church here from Nov. 1, 1919 until his health failed Sept. 30, 1929, died at his home in Hastings April 5th at the age of 83. Funeral services were held at the home Friday and Rev. Alcorn's body then was taken to Harvard where church services were held and where interment was made. Among the pall bearers were Ray Hill, Fred Russell, C. C. Hawthorne and Kermit Ericson. Winnifred Russell, Miss Betty Meyer of Ord, and John Hawthorne also attended the services.

In 1920, during Rev. Alcorn's pastorate here, the old parsonage was sold and a new one built. A year later men of the church began work on a basement for the church and later the structure was remodeled, the work being completed without debt. During the 10 years Alcorn was here 258 members were received, he officiated at 97 funerals and 20 weddings.

Ord Schools Are Seeking Addresses of Old Graduates

The 50th anniversary of Ord high school will be observed this year by publication of a high school annual, a feature of which will be the name and address of every graduate from the class of 1889 to the class of 1939. Naturally those in charge of publication are having difficulty in securing addresses of many of the old time graduates and some of those who graduated in later years. Here is a list of graduates whose addresses, the school does not have, will anybody who knows the address of any graduate whose name appears on this list, kindly telephone or mail it to Miss Evelyn Ollis, Ord, Nebr., or turn it in at the office of Hastings & Ollis here? This list will be of great value in years to come and the cooperation of Quiz readers is heartily desired.

All Irrigation Ditches to Have Water This Week

Turned Into Ord-No. Loup Canal Sat'day, Repair Work on Other Canals Finished.

Water was turned into the Ord-North Loup canal of the North Loup irrigation district Saturday morning and by the end of this week the Taylor-Ord and Burwell-Sumter canals also will be full of water. It was stated this morning by Charles Wareham, district manager.

Cleaning and minor repair work on the Taylor-Ord and Burwell-Sumter ditches was completed Tuesday and the present plan is to turn water into them today or tomorrow, Mr. Wareham said.

The water was turned into the Ord-North Loup canal slowly so as to give banks a chance to season after being dry all winter, but in a few days the canals will be running bank full. Water had reached a point 11 miles below Ord by Monday evening and it was thought that it had reached the south end of the ditch by this time.

"We are doing the best we can," the manager said, and he indicated the district intends to get water to all irrigators at the earliest date possible. Negotiations with the city of Ord over purchase of electricity are at a standstill. Burwell is buying electricity from the district and apparently is having satisfactory service as no complaints have been heard here.

Cigaret Advertising Banned by Ministers

Disapproval of the cigarette advertising over WOW radio station immediately following Foster May newscasts was expressed by members of the Loup Valley Ministerial association at their meeting in Scotia Monday, and the secretary was instructed to protest to the radio station. Especially objectionable, the ministers decided, is the use of Christian songs and music by the cigarette company.

Another resolution was passed urging the unicameral legislature to pass bills abolishing sale of beer in roadhouses and outside corporate limits of towns. The meeting was held in the home of Rev. W. C. George, other ministers present being A. Langenberg, Scotia; J. A. Adams, North Loup; T. J. Sawyer, Greeley; E. R. Peterson, Loup City; E. A. Smith, Arcadia; J. Bruce Wylie and W. L. Goodell, Burwell; C. E. Austin, Ericson. Their wives also were present. A paper on "The God of Jesus" was read by Rev. Peterson and some enjoyable musical numbers were given.

The next meeting will be the annual picnic at Lake Ericson May 19.

Lakin Sells to Partner.

Ross Lakin, who for many years has been a partner with R. L. Lincoln in the business known as L. & L. Tire and Electric Service, last week sold his interest to Mr. Lincoln and retired from the firm. His future plans are uncertain. Mr. Lakin says, but he will remain in Ord until the end of the school term.

NATURE'S RESOURCES.

A million years or more ago nature began the task that would make this modern world an ideal place in which to live and in which to make a living.

Nothing is quite so evident as the fact that it is much easier to tear down than it is to build up.

This tearing down process would be much more rapid, were it not for the fact that two factors are constantly at work in restoring that which is destroyed.

When our ancestors landed on the eastern shores of the United States, they found much of the land covered with a rank growth of virgin timber.

As time went on, more fields were cleared, until that region that had once been largely forest, was almost entirely denuded.

The soil, deprived of its natural protection of trees and grass, suffered from two sources.

J. Sterling Morton was not the first by any means to preach the subject of reclamation, but he was the first man to start a movement which finally attained national status.

From Nebraska the movement spread to all parts of the United States and to Canada, where Arbor Day comes May 1.

But we have a greater obligation than that. It is our duty to leave this state in as good condition for the coming generation as the past generation left it for us.

Parade of Progress. This week grocery stores all over the country are featuring the Parade of Progress, and it is only fitting in this connection to mention some of the contrasts between merchandising of the old days and those of today.

The door was placed in the center of the front in most cases, with a small amount of window display space on either side.

The lighting was accomplished by means of kerosene lamps, which smoked and stunk up the premises whenever they were used.

Kerosene was something else again. It sold in much greater quantity than gasoline, which was used almost entirely for cleaning clothes and for running an occasional gasoline engine.

The earliest oatmeal and other similar foods came in barrels, and usually with a paper lining.

There were no sanitary wrappings of any kind, for the state food and drug commission had not been invented at that time.

We, who live in the era of better merchandising have much to be thankful for. If it were possible to go back for a single day and try the conditions of pioneer times, we would perhaps be more satisfied with our lot.

Back Forty. New uses for land will be one of the subjects discussed at Feeder's Day, which will be held on Friday, April 21, at the College of Agriculture in Lincoln.

A great deal has been written in regard to the evils of substituting oleomargarine for butter.

For the men, there will be many topics of interest on the Feeder's Day program. Results from the latest livestock feeding tests will be explained.

It happened in Ord. To Mrs. Jerry Petka goes the honor of having the earliest spring flowers, unless some other claimant can prove priority.

Thirty-nine years ago John Wentworth built the F. J. Dvorak home, and he evidently did a real job of it.

One that didn't happen in Ord, but which is worthy of note is the fact that on Good Friday a huge flock of Canadian geese were feeding on the best looking field of winter wheat across the river a few miles east of Grand Island.

Something Different

I am glad Nebraska highways are going to be more beautiful. I like the idea of getting out those young trees here and there at the roadside.

Perhaps we will be abandoning those highways for skyways. That would suit me. I have always looked forward to the day when I might learn to fly, and our family would be able to have a small plane to use in comparative safety.

That reminds me that Ord gets a lot of dandy publicity through the jaunts Miss Evelyn Sharp makes through the air.

Evelyn is not only a good little flyer, a native daughter of Ord, a corking little swimmer, an all-around girl, but a very attractive miss as well.

Many people are looking forward to the day when one good strong Protestant church will be sufficient to each small town.

The city of Ord can well be proud of the new library building now nearing the completion stage.

Bud Beebe of N. L. worked some time ago at Powell, Mont., and was acquainted with the Tarzan man there who was shot.

One day a few years ago the Ord churches of Presbyterian and Methodist faiths almost made such a union, which might have made a fine first step for asking other Protestant churches to join with them.

After the withdrawal of the big irrigation pay roll during the period of construction Ord is bound to go through a time of slow business and readjustment.

The irrigation district is now on its own so to speak, but the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which holds the district bonds is run by fair minded men who will be ready to make readjustment giving to Ord's own individual problem, and this should be done by going to the biggest man on the job.

As war news from Europe comes thick and fast, the radio song always sung by Kate Smith, "God Bless America, Our Home Sweet Home," is in the hearts of millions of Americans.

At that time it took our Swedish neighbors who lived on a farm next to us four weeks to cross from Sweden to the United States. Now its done in that many days by boat and almost that many hours by air.

There have been many changes here in the middle west during that fifty year period.

While our neighbors across the ocean are making faces at each other and can nearly hear the noise of the battles, we here in America are training our boys and girls for a successful future in agriculture and industry.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!

Gone Away a While. Probably there is not a man in this section of the state who is better known than was N. C. (Chris) Madsen, the village blacksmith of N. L., who died last week.

Born and having learned his trade in Denmark, Mr. Madsen came to America in 1834. He worked in Omaha for ten years and for a cattle company at Ames for seven, then moving to North Loup.

New Dealers conducting campaign to aid nomination of Thomas E. Dewey as Republican presidential candidate; the plot being to prevent the nomination of Senator Taft, whom they fear... Backers of bill to take profits out of war really do not want the bill to pass, and it probably won't... Little likelihood of railroad legislation at this session of congress.

WASHINGTON. - New Dealers close to the White House are actually conducting a publicity campaign which would seem calculated to aid the nomination for President by the Republicans next year of a man President Roosevelt cordially dislikes. That man is Thomas E. Dewey.

Not that this publicity campaign is praising Dewey. Quite the contrary, it avoids any reference to Dewey whatever. No, the campaign takes the form of trying to wreck the man who is regarded as Dewey's chief contender for the Republican nomination, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

If any group of 10 T. E. Dewey or more persons is polled as to the man they would name if going into a pool on the Republican nominee, a majority of them will be found to be voting for Dewey. This is by no means to say that a majority of every such group actually favors Dewey—that remains to be demonstrated by polls.

But he is the man a majority of people seem to think has the edge at the present moment. If the same groups are asked to name the man they would give second place in probabilities, Senator Taft is almost invariably the one named. This is not a matter of conjecture, and is not news. It is merely stating the foundation on which the activities of an important group of New Dealers seem to be based.

Every time in the last few months when a group of New Dealers would be at some party or gathering where friendly newspaper men were—especially parties where there could be mixing around and small group conversations, it has been noticed that within a few days attacks on Taft would appear in the newspapers represented by these correspondents. It has happened too many times to be a coincidence.

New Dealers, It Appears, Do Not Like Senator Taft. One explanation, of course, lies in the fact that of all the men who have been prominently mentioned as probabilities for the Republican nomination, Senator Taft is beyond doubt the one whom most ardent New Dealers would dislike most to have as President.

Couple the railroads' proposals as presented to congress in the "committee of six" bill with the opposition of water, highway and air lines, plus the objection of the railroads and their employees to any consolidation to develop more compact operating systems by consolidation and co-ordination, then add the resistance of creditors to accepting losses inevitable in railroad reorganization which offers any prospect of continuing solvency and the chances are slim indeed that congress will be able to grind out a law that is of any more durable value than the transportation act of 1920, or the emergency transportation act of 1935.

In the last year two separate and opposed expeditions into the transportation muddle have set out from the White House. Following the interstate commerce commission's decision last March granting that railroads a 5 per cent increase in rates on their portion for a boost of 15 per cent, President Roosevelt called J. B. Eastman into conference with Commissioners Spawan, Eastman and Mahaffie of the interstate commerce commission, Jesse H. Jones of R. F. C. and other administration officials, Carl R. Gray, vice chairman of Union Pacific, Henry Bruere of the Bowers Savings bank and George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives association. The upshot was a report by the I. C. C. commissioners which the President turned over to congress in April with a message in which he reiterated his opposition to government subsidies and government ownership.

Softball Meeting Monday. A meeting of softball and baseball enthusiasts will be held Monday evening at Syl Partak's shop for the purpose of deciding whether Ord will play ball this summer and whether the game played will be softball or twight baseball. Opinion seems to be about equally divided as to which should prove the more popular, and if you have any wishes either way you are requested to attend this meeting and express your opinion.

There has never been anything approaching a same consideration of the question. But now let us assume that the steel makers of this country clearly see that the United States is bound to be involved in a major war. Under normal circumstances every one of them, with the war and navy department experts prodding them at every turn, would begin getting ready. Before war was declared, unless it came with terrific suddenness, their plants would be ready to start turning out munitions and guns of the precise type needed by the army and navy.

United States Navy Made Good Showing in World War. As a matter of fact, the United States navy made a very good showing in the World War, while Franklin D. Roosevelt was assistant secretary, because Sam McGowan, the paymaster general of the navy, got away with murder in placing orders before the war declaration. That is why the navy was fixed so much better than the army, and why it was so much less criticized.

But under the proposed law any steel manufacturer who spent a penny on the chance that the United States might get into the war would be a traitor to his stockholders, even if he had shown a patriotic spirit.

Why? Because there would not be a chance of his making any money for his stockholders, and there would be the cold certainty that, in addition to not making any money during the war period, he would run into severe losses immediately after the war period.

The history of every munitions-making enterprise in private hands has been that it made big profits during the war, and then took terrific losses after the war, with canceled orders, unused inventories and unneeded expansions of plant. So they just wouldn't.

Answer: Government monopoly of the munitions manufacturing business if the law passes. And the army and navy don't like that. They fear congress would have to be liberal enough in advance to have the nation properly prepared. Unlikely to Be Railroad Legislation at This Session. It is very unlikely that there will be any railroad legislation at this session of congress. Congress has been tussling with legislation to put the railroads back on the track to financial stability almost continuously for the last 20 years. Their condition has been worse instead of better, and no laws will be enacted this session which can be of any significant benefit to them without the prospect of a larger volume of traffic. The very best that congress can do is to help the roads take better advantage of more business when it comes.

The problem resolves itself into an attempt to put a better face on the plain fact that the public demands several transportation services but refuses and probably is actually unable, certainly at times, to support them all adequately—railroads, truck busses, inland and intercoastal waterways, pipe lines, and air lines. What the public as a shipper won't pay has been met to some extent by subsidies but with the idea more of provoking extension of alternative, competitive services than of maintaining them.

Dilemma for Congress to Turn Out Satisfactory Law. Couple the railroads' proposals as presented to congress in the "committee of six" bill with the opposition of water, highway and air lines, plus the objection of the railroads and their employees to any consolidation to develop more compact operating systems by consolidation and co-ordination, then add the resistance of creditors to accepting losses inevitable in railroad reorganization which offers any prospect of continuing solvency and the chances are slim indeed that congress will be able to grind out a law that is of any more durable value than the transportation act of 1920, or the emergency transportation act of 1935.

In the last year two separate and opposed expeditions into the transportation muddle have set out from the White House. Following the interstate commerce commission's decision last March granting that railroads a 5 per cent increase in rates on their portion for a boost of 15 per cent, President Roosevelt called J. B. Eastman into conference with Commissioners Spawan, Eastman and Mahaffie of the interstate commerce commission, Jesse H. Jones of R. F. C. and other administration officials, Carl R. Gray, vice chairman of Union Pacific, Henry Bruere of the Bowers Savings bank and George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives association. The upshot was a report by the I. C. C. commissioners which the President turned over to congress in April with a message in which he reiterated his opposition to government subsidies and government ownership.

Softball Meeting Monday. A meeting of softball and baseball enthusiasts will be held Monday evening at Syl Partak's shop for the purpose of deciding whether Ord will play ball this summer and whether the game played will be softball or twight baseball. Opinion seems to be about equally divided as to which should prove the more popular, and if you have any wishes either way you are requested to attend this meeting and express your opinion.

MEDICAL FACTS

Sponsored by 4-COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

Did you know that the point of a needle may hold more germs than you could count in a life-time. Yes, and you can't even see them without a microscope.

Think what it may mean to stick a needle through the skin! You may not have thought what nature gave you a hide for. Of course it is better looking than leaving all the underlying things exposed to view. It is made of less sensitive and better wearing material than some of the tissues underneath. It acts to rid the body of certain waste materials and altogether has a wonderful lot of uses that I shall not discuss today. Probably one's first thought of the use of the hide, in relation to the germs on the end of a needle, a rusty nail or any other object that pierces the skin, is of its protection against invasion by these germs. The skin covering the surface of the body like the red membrane lining the cavities of the body has, as one of its major uses, the protection of the body against bacterial entrance. A healthy skin kept in good condition will repel practically all harmful germs.

When the skin is broken, punctured or even bruised and part way broken through, when it is burned by heat or chemicals or when it is frost bitten, it loses this power of protection against the entrance of germs. You know from experience that even chafing the skin by clothing that is too tight or fits poorly may lead to an inflammation of the skin itself or of the underlying tissues. The slight injuries of the day's work that are so insignificant they do not call our attention at once, may sometimes be sufficient to admit germs. Likewise, rough foods, hot liquids, chemicals such as we often take as seasoning in food or as drinks may injure the mucous membrane of the digestive tract and admit bacteria.

Fortunately, nature has provided many other defense measures. The skin and mucous membranes might well be compared to the navy and the coast artillery in the defense of our country. We are a lot safer if the invading army never gets past these defenses but we are by no means beaten if they do. We have a good army with many branches such as artillery, infantry and air forces to fall back on. So, in the body we have other means of defense if the skin and mucous membranes are broken through. A good simple example of these other means may be seen when a splinter of wood gets through the skin and we fail to pull it out. In a day or two there is redness and swelling, heat and tenderness around this area. We call this inflammation. Soon the center of this area softens and liquefies, right around the splinter. This soft area is surrounded by a hard thickening of the tissues making a wall between the germs on the splinter and the rest of the body. The skin over the soft spot breaks and the pus, germs, splinter and all are expelled to the outside. The hole heals up from the bottom. Not until the healing is complete does the hard wall of tissue around this infection go away. Nature keeps it there to protect the rest of the body as long as there is any danger from those germs.

This is a simplified description of only one of the many mechanisms nature has provided to protect us from disease. The subject so slightly touched upon here is called the science of immunology. Many whole books have been written about it, yet there is still much left in the field of the unknown.

Ed F. Beranek, Druggist.

They Have to be Good!

Nationally-advertised products "Have to be Good," have to live up to their manufacturers' claims. If they were not satisfactory, they wouldn't be popular—and no manufacturer equipped for national-wide production and distribution could afford to take such a chance.

The very fact that these familiar brand names, which you see and hear advertised in magazines, over the radio and in this newspaper, are so widely and favorably known means that their quality has been found satisfactory by millions of homemakers. Visit your nearest Safeway Store and notice the complete stock of nationally-advertised merchandise, and compare the prices.

Early spring is the time when carp bite best and several Ord fishermen have made big catches of these fish. Here are shown L. J. Auble and J. Ockerson, of Lincoln, with 48 pounds of carp caught Tuesday at Doris Lake, near Sargent. The fish average 3 to 4 pounds each. When caught out of cold, clear water, carp are fairly good eating, it is claimed. THERE are more Ford cars in use today than any other make. And there are more Ford V-8s than any other 8-cylinder car.

The 1939 Ford V-8 represents the broadest experience in building cars any manufacturer ever had. You will find values in it far beyond what any other maker can put into a car at the low Ford price.

Ford performance, traditional for a generation, has reached new heights in the 1939 V-8.

And now Ford style leadership is equally outstanding. "The smartest cars on the road" is the way owners describe their new Fords. Smartest in action. Smartest in appearance. Leaders, as they deserve to be.

Work is getting well under way on the No. 11 highway improvement program. Between Elba and St. Paul new culverts are being put in and grading is being done preparatory to oil mat surfacing work. Between Ord and Olean a new highway will be built to eliminate several curves. And at the bridge over Mira Creek, near the north-west edge of North Loup, piers will be sunk and the bridge thus strengthened to handle heavier traffic. It may be lengthened also.

In this picture a highway gang is sinking test holes preparatory to sinking piers. The bridge has no piers at present. When completed No. 11 highway from Burwell to Grand Island will be one of Nebraska's finest.—Photo by Birmingham.

Caucus Endorses Mayor Cummins' 2nd Ward Choice

80 Citizens Turned Out for Informal Meeting, Voted 52 to 28 for Petska.

By a vote of 52 to 28, eighty second ward citizens who attended the informal caucus held Friday evening endorsed James Petska for appointment to the city council.

The firemen's hall was crowded at this informal meeting Friday, there being at least eight second ward voters present, as well as a dozen or more spectators from other wards.

A. J. Shirley took charge of the meeting as temporary chairman and was duly nominated and elected to the position. He appointed E. C. Leggett as clerk and Frank Norman and Ellsworth Ball as tellers.

A ten minute period for discussion was declared by Chairman Shirley, during which time some hot arguments ensued. John E. Haskell stated that he thought such a caucus unnecessary because what ever might be done would be only an expression of opinion from a small percentage of the second ward's citizens.

Other speakers included Frank Norman, who suggested that the caucus endorse two men and give the mayor his choice; E. C. James, who explained that he was active in arranging the meeting because so many second ward voters had expressed desire to have some voice in selection of a councilman.

By motion of E. C. James, seconded by Chas. Sternecker, the caucus then proceeded to nominations. The name of James Petska was placed in nomination by Frank Krikac and that of Harold Hallen by Harry Wolfe.

Voting was by ballot, and when the ballots were counted it was found that Petska had received 52 votes, Hallen only 28.

Chairman Shirley then called on Mayor Cummins, who was present as a spectator, to make a few remarks and the mayor stated that although he cannot hope to please all the people he will always be entirely sincere in his official acts and will at all times have the best interests of the city, as he sees them, at heart.

Without doubt Mayor Cummins will appoint Mr. Petska to the city council at its next meeting, and the appointment then will be up for confirmation or rejection by members of the council.

New Cafe Beer License Turned Down by Board

Last week the Nebraska liquor commission turned down the New Cafe's application for a license to sell beer, only reason being that Miss Gertrude Knebel, owner of the cafe, is not an American citizen.

It appears that Miss Knebel came to the United States with her parents when three months old and not until recently did she know that she did not automatically become a citizen when her parents became naturalized. She has applied for citizenship papers but the process requires about two years.

Art Larsen Loses Truck By Fire Saturday Night

Art Larsen had the misfortune to lose his truck and a load of hay in a mystery fire on the Sargent road about five miles west of Ord Saturday evening. He had picked up the load of loose hay north of Ord and was on his way to deliver it to a customer.

The fire had a good start when discovered and all that Mr. Larsen could do was to get out of the way and watch it burn. The loss was only partly covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is a mystery as Mr. Larsen does not smoke and it could hardly have started from the exhaust.

Catches Muskelunge In No. Loup River

While seining minnows near Hardenbrook dam Saturday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Burrows were astounded at finding a muskellunge weighing about 4 pounds in their minnow seining.

Guy says he is certain the fish was a muskellunge and not its cousin, the northern pike, a few of which were caught near Burwell last fall. The fish had the bare gill covers and cheeks and the elongated oval marking peculiar to the muskie species.

How a muskellunge got into the Loup river is a mystery. The upper Mississippi contains many muskies and this fish might have come down that river to the Missouri, up the Missouri to the Platte, and thence into the Loup.

Anyway, some hook-and-line fisherman is likely to get the thrill of a lifetime one of these days, if he hooks into Mr. Muskie.

Business Women Give $225 Desk to Library

Members of the Business and Professional Women's club recently decided to purchase a librarian's desk for the new township library, cost to be about $225. The desk will be the circular kind used in all the larger libraries. The first section is being bought by the business women at this time and as funds are available they plan to buy other units until the desk set-up is complete.

Kit and Hugh Carson left for Omaha Tuesday morning to spend a few days looking after business matters there. They expected to return to Ord the first of next week.

May 1 Closing Date for Conservation Program

According to a bulletin received in the county agent's office, farmers will have until May 1 to express their intention of participating in the 1939 agricultural program. No farm will be checked for performance unless a signed farm plan has been filed in the county office by the closing date.

A check-up Friday showed that approximately 80% of all farms in the county are signed up, and the committee expects that 85% of farms will be signed up, including from 90% to 95% of the crop land. Most of the larger units are already signed up.

Mrs. Dorcas Fish Died Thursday As Result of Injuries

Ord woman, 89, who fell and broke bones 2 weeks ago, is laid to rest.

Mrs. Dorcas Fish, 89-year-old Ord woman who was seriously injured on April 4 when she fell and broke her right shoulder and hip, died Thursday, April 13 in the Ord hospital, where she had been cared for after the accident.

At 2:00 p. m. Sunday funeral services were held at the Frazier chapel, Rev. Clarence Jensen conducting, and burial was made in the Ord cemetery.

Mrs. Fish was born in Coshohoccon county, Ohio, on Aug. 27, 1849. When five years old she accompanied her parents to Bear Grove, in Guthrie county, Ia., where she grew to womanhood and where at the age of 19 she was married to John Fish on April 8, 1869. In 1873 they moved to Franklin county, Nebraska, and in 1903 came to Valley county.

For 14 years the Fish home was on a farm in the Olean neighborhood. In 1917 they moved to Ord which was Mrs. Fish's home until the past year, when because of failing health she was cared for in the farm home of a son, Ira D. Fish. Her husband died Nov. 22, 1924.

Left to mourn, besides her son, are seven grandchildren, one sister, Mrs. Jennie Brown, of Omaha; three nephews, Glen Brown, Omaha, Ralph Grubb and Clifford Crooks, Lincoln, and many other more distant relatives and a host of friends.

No Fire Damage Resulted From Alarm Thursday

A fire alarm turned in at 5:30 Thursday evening called the fire department to the Noll Seed company, where smoke was pouring out of the west windows upstairs. The fire had been about extinguished by the firm when the firemen arrived, as only a small amount of peat moss was burning.

The upper room is used to house baby chicks, but only a few were there when the fire occurred, and these were uninjured. What caused the fire is a mystery, but it is supposed that it may have been started by the sun's rays being focused by the glass in the window.

O. C. Rashaw Died At Grand Island

O. C. Rashaw, Civil war veteran and for many years a resident and business man of Ord passed away Tuesday morning, April 18, on his 96th birthday. While not a resident of Ord for some years, Mr. Rashaw might be classed as the last Valley county Civil war veteran because of the many years he lived here.

He was born in Redmond, Vt., was married in Stevens Point, Wis., and came to Valley county in 1877. For many years he engaged in the ice business in Ord, and also ran a butcher shop here at one time. Four children, Robert, Edna, Pearl and Roy, preceded their father in death. Surviving are a son, Jack Rashaw of Ord, a daughter, Mrs. Beulah Franklin of McGrew, Neb., and a number of grandchildren.

Since leaving Ord Mr. Rashaw has lived in Portland, Ore., and in Grand Island. His first wife dying many years ago, he married in 1928, and is survived by his widow. Funeral services will be held in Grand Island Friday.

Project Clubs Will Hold Achievement Day

Members of the women's home economics project clubs will hold their achievement day program at the American Legion hall in Ord on Tuesday, April 25.

A very complete program has been arranged by Miss Dolcie Waterman, county chairman, and Mrs. John Mason, chairman of the Ord group, with all clubs taking part in the program and exhibits.

A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon and the program will begin promptly at 2 p. m. The annual achievement day has become a red letter day for project club members and a large attendance is expected.

Future Farmers Win Four Firsts At State Contest

Dairy Products Team Won, So Did Boyd Rose and Boys Who Displayed Eggs.

Competing in the eleventh annual state high school agricultural contests at North Platte, Ord won 4 first places, 2 seconds, 4 thirds, 3 fourths, and 4 fifth place ribbons last Thursday and Friday.

The Ord dairy products team of Emanuel Smolik, James Flynn, and Frank Zadina brought home the team trophy in judging all dairy products. Ord has been a perennial winner in this event, both at North Platte and at Lincoln.

Boyd Rose won the state championship in farm shop competition. Boyd turned in a score of 98 percent, to defeat the best from 25 other Nebraska high schools. The five winners in this contest were Ord, Imperial, Gothenburg, Grant and North Platte.

Ord took away the sweepstakes prize at the high school egg show. The first place white exhibit was shown by Edward Rousek, while the top brown dozen belonged to Leonard Kokes.

The dairy cattle team from Ord finished well toward the top, losing to Kearney and Sidney by the narrow margin of one point. James Flynn, Lloyd Geweke and Robert Packer were on this team.

The crops judging team was ranked in fifth place. This trio consisted of Richard Masin, Billie Miller and Donald Miller.

Twenty-seven schools were entered in the North Platte division of the state contests. Boys going from Ord were Emanuel Smolik, James Flynn, Frank Zadina, Boyd Rose, Richard Masin, Billie Miller, Donald Miller, Lloyd Geweke, Robert Packer and Carson Rogers.

This completes the boys' judging activities for the year. They have their choice of competing at either North Platte or Lincoln.

Minor Break In Irrigation Canal Repaired Quickly

Joe Dlugosh's Alfalfa Field Flooded When Underdrain Washed Out Monday.

A minor break in the Taylor-Ord canal south of Elyria Monday caused water for L. E. Walford, water master, and his crew of workmen, and flooded an alfalfa field on the Joe Dlugosh farm, but it was repaired quickly and the water in the canal never had to be shut down.

An underdrain washing out was the cause of the trouble, it was said at the irrigation office this morning.

Water in the Taylor-Ord canal is down as far as Bussell park and probably will be turned into the lateral running through the park today, providing irrigation for the trees along the north and east sides of the golf course. Surplus water then will flow into Dane creek near the park bridge.

Headgates at the Burwell dam have been closed, building up the lake again, and today or tomorrow diversion of water into the Burwell-Sumner canal will start.

Irrigating has been under way several days along the Ord-North Loup canal and will start along the other canals soon.

C. Matthauser Commits Suicide

Another suicide, Valley county's second within a five-day period, occurred this morning on the Michael John farm north of Arcadia when Charlie Matthauser, a resident of Sargent, went to a corn crib and hanged himself. He was father-in-law of Mr. John, who found the body a few minutes after Mr. Matthauser's disappearance was noted.

Matthauser formerly conducted an implement business at Comstock and is well known throughout the western part of the county and in Ord.

Valley county officials, John P. Misko, Dr. J. G. Kruml and George S. Round, were called to the John farm about 9:30 this morning to make an investigation. The farm is about one mile from the Custer county line and in the sand flats country north of Arcadia.

Virginia Sack's 4-Octave Voice Wins Her an Audition Before Rose Bampton, Opero Soprano

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sack and Miss Virginia.

Miss Virginia Sack of Ord, mid-mannered University of Nebraska Teachers College freshman, was given the surprise of her life this week when she was invited by Rose Bampton of Metropolitan Opera fame to appear in an audition Friday at Ames, Ia. Miss Bampton is presenting a concert at Iowa State college that day and has expressed a desire to hear the Ord girl sing.

It all came about because Miss Sack has a singing range of four octaves. Her voice ranges from C below middle C to three octaves above. Miss Bampton herself has a four-octave range and she is one of the few great artists today who can claim this distinction.

"It is all such a surprise," says Miss Sack. "Of course I am thrilled and excited. Although several newspapers had carried the story of my four-octave range, I had never expected that it would mean this."

The Teachers College freshman has made singing her hobby. She had intended to keep it as such, but after a year at the University where she has been taking a course in public school music, she has changed her mind, and now intends to teach music in the schools.

Ft. Hartsuff Resolution Cleared First Hurdle

The public works committee of the Nebraska legislature reported out Resolution No. 14, relating to Ft. Hartsuff on Wednesday, April 12. The report was that the preservation of this historic site was a worthy matter of state concern, and that a committee of three be appointed to cooperate with the Ft. Hartsuff committee, with instructions to report back no later than the 85th legislative day.

When this meeting will take place was not indicated, nor whether the legislative committee will come to Valley county, or whether the Ft. Hartsuff committee will be called to Lincoln. In any case the first hurdle has been cleared, and the local committee feels much encouraged by the interest taken by the legislature in the project.

Light Spring Rains Help Spring Work

Three showers falling during the day and evening Saturday brought a total of 7.3 of an inch of rain in Ord, with amounts reported heavier and lighter in different sections of this territory. The rain was much heavier to the south and east, with inches reported from one town in Kansas.

Sunday was clear but cold, with a fairly strong northwest wind. In the night another storm blew up, and most of Monday was damp and disagreeable, with only .06 of an inch of rain reported here. The western part of the state reported a heavy snow Monday, with drifts ten feet deep in places.

The rain, while not sufficient to wet the subsoil, furnished enough moisture to help the growth of winter wheat and other growing crops, and the ground is wet deep enough for spring plowing. With plenty of moisture in western Nebraska it is hoped that the wet weather in central Nebraska will continue.

P. T. A. at North Loup Elects New Officers

North Loup—(Special)—The Parent-Teachers association at its meeting Tuesday evening elected new officers, Mrs. T. J. Hamer being chosen president, Mrs. Albert Babcock vice-president, Miss Ruth Williams secretary and R. H. Houtchens treasurer.

A program on the subject, "Education Developing Personality" was given by the fathers, Albert Babcock being in charge. Talks were made by Roy Hudson, Dewey Regier, W. W. Willis, Ben Nelson and Rev. J. A. Adams.

County Legion Meeting Postponed to April 25

Due to the fact that arrangements could not be made in time to hold the county Legion meeting April 18, as originally planned, the date has been set forward until April 25, at which time representatives of the Ord, North Loup, Arcadia and Burwell posts and their auxiliary units are expected to be in attendance.

Frank V. Parkos Commits Suicide at Farm Saturday

Well-to-Do Farmer Went to the Barn, Hanged Himself; Funeral Held Monday.

Between 10 and 11 o'clock Saturday morning Frank V. Parkos, well-to-do farmer of the Comstock community, went to the barn on his farm, tossed a rope over the rafters, tied one end around his neck, then jumped off a stepladder to commit suicide. He left no statement and no reason for his act has been ascribed.

A nephew, Richard Parkos, found Mr. Parkos' body and notified Sheriff George S. Round, who at once went out to the Parkos farm accompanied by the coroner, County Attorney John P. Misko, and by Dr. J. G. Kruml. The Pearson-Anderson funeral parlors also were notified and sent an ambulance.

Roads in the western part of the county were extremely muddy and the ambulance went off the road and had to be pulled out by a tractor. Sheriff's Round's car also went into the ditch and a team of horses had to be secured to pull it out. The Parkos farm is located 2 miles south and a mile west of the National hall.

A routine investigation at the farm disclosed Mr. Parkos' death a clear case of suicide. The body was still hanging when the officials reached there, and according to Dr. Kruml the man's death occurred at about 11 o'clock or a little before. Richard Parkos did not find the body until almost 12 o'clock.

Mrs. Parkos told officials that her husband had been drinking heavily for the past two weeks and that he has been morose and abusive at times. It is recalled that his brother, Joe Parkos, also committed suicide about four years ago.

Mr. Parkos was 43 years old, having been born in Valley county on May 28, 1896. He is survived by his wife, Barbara, and by six sisters, Mrs. Fred Skala and Mrs. Albert Ptacnik, Comstock; Mrs. Joe Vasicek and Mrs. Joe Lukesch, Ord; Mrs. Anton Uher, North Loup, and Mrs. Joe Polan, Grand Island. There are no children.

The funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Bohemian National Hall, Rev. B. A. Filipi, of Clarkson, having charge. The pallbearers were neighbors—John Pesek, Adolph Pesek, Frank Pesek, Joe Kamarad, Anton Kolar and Frank Sestak. A quartet made up of Robert Noll, Mrs. Mark Tolon, Mrs. O. E. Carlson and J. R. Stoltz sang, with Mrs. Noll at the piano. Interment was in the National cemetery.

Kearney Presbytery Meets Here in 1940

The ladies organization of the Kearney presbytery held their annual meeting Thursday and Friday in the Grand Island Presbyterian church. Mrs. C. E. Goodhand, Mrs. M. Biemond and Mrs. G. B. Flagg were the delegates from Ord. Mrs. C. J. Miller, Mrs. Will Ollis and Mrs. C. C. Dale attended the meeting Friday.

Mrs. G. W. Collipriest of Lexington, formerly of Ord, was installed as president and Mrs. Biemond as vice-president. Mrs. Dan Dunham, Omaha, synodical president, served as installing officer. Mrs. Dunham is a cousin of Mrs. A. W. Tunnichoff of Ord. Ord was selected as the town for the 1940 meeting.

The Grand Island young people had charge of the Thursday evening program. Miss Arlene Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Blessing, sang in the girls' choir, and Miss Jerre Lewis, who visits frequently in Ord, was in the play. The girls' choir sang over KMMJ also.

The guest speaker on Friday afternoon was Miss Emelia Anderson of Hamadan, Iran, formerly called Persia. She gave a very interesting address on her years of work in that country, and a brief outline of the political situation there.

THE BLUE AND THE GRAY

A slate blue cloth, said to be cheaper and more durable than the olive drab now in use, is being tried out for U. S. army uniforms.

Of even more interest, perhaps, is the fact that the use of olive drab cloth was started in the first place. The story behind its adoption is interesting.

At the close of the rebellion the use of gray uniform cloth was dropped for a long time, although it is now used for the mail service.

The reason for the change, as given out at the time, was that it afforded greater protection to the soldiers, whose clothing blended into the landscape and thus rendered them hard to see.

The new slate blue cloth is a compromise shade, a union of blue and gray shades of wool yarn, and is thus a symbol of a great nation once more completely united.

RADIO ADVERTISING

With the coming of the radio, the question of how to finance programs brought out the idea of advertising products over the air and charging enough to finance the entertainment.

If the cases were exactly parallel, there would be no cause for complaint, but there are important differences in the two methods of disseminating information.

When you read the newspaper you read the ads if you care to do so, and if you don't, there is no harm done.

When you receive your daily or weekly paper, you sit down and read whatever you are most interested in first, leaving the less important items until the last.

Perhaps it is not quite so bad when the entertainment programs are interspersed with extravagant claims for some over-advertised article.

No doubt it is necessary to put out this advertising in order to put out any kind of a radio program at all.

There is no doubt that the radio stations, which must be on a paying financial basis or cease to exist.

few have given up their charters because of financial difficulties. There is a wonderful future for the radio station which devises some method of putting out a program without the necessity of pausing every five minutes to advertise something that nobody wants and in which nobody is interested.

It might not be a bad rule to keep a list of all merchandise advertised over the radio—and then buy something else. In a few weeks the same station will be advertising an entirely different brand of the same goods, and claiming in each case that the article is superior to anything in its line on the market.

THE MIDDLEMAN AGAIN

In Carl Stefan's letter from Washington the following pertinent item appears:

"Today's grocery bill shows we are paying 39c a dozen for eggs, 39c a pound for butter, and two pounds of beef cost 86c."

In last week's Quiz the market quotations showed special eggs being bought at 14c, butterfat 18c, and beef is selling across the counter at from 12c to 28c, depending on the cuts.

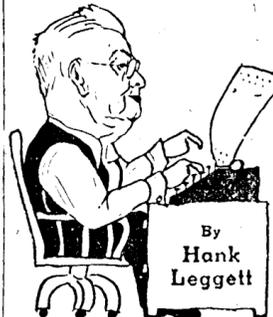

It is thus shown that these commodities cost more than twice as much in our capital city as they do in Ord.

The question that naturally arises, is "What becomes of the difference in price between the producer here, and the consumer there?"

It should not cost ten to twenty cents per pound or dozen to ship these food products from the west to the east.

Somebody, somewhere, the elusive middleman, is reaping a handsome profit from goods that he does not produce, and which he probably does not handle directly.

My Own Column

By Hank Leggett

I am writing this Friday morning, April 14. A week ago this morning we, the Missus and I, loaded our grab basket, a box of eats in cans, a slab of bacon, some bedding, and at 10 o'clock, trekked eastward to Harlan, Ia., where we spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. Lou Hallaway.

When we started on this trip we only had one scheduled stop and that was to be at Kansas City where we were invited, or rather, where we had invited ourselves to have dinner with Mrs. Cora Hoffmaster and family.

As we had already seen a lot of the Ozark country and still wanted to visit the Lake of the Ozarks north of Springfield, we planned to start for there Monday morning.

When we started on this trip we only had one scheduled stop and that was to be at Kansas City where we were invited, or rather, where we had invited ourselves to have dinner with Mrs. Cora Hoffmaster and family.

Spings and that one of the great government fish hatcheries was located there and finding that we could make that city in decent stopping season, we decided to stop there for the night.

When we planned this trip, realizing that business conditions were not the best, we decided to make it an economical trip, so we took a shoe box lunch the first day.

Blue Grass may be planted successfully in the spring or fall. The ground should be fertilized with fine manure (not hay) spaded or plowed deep and then raked smooth and the seed should be sowed thick on the surface, barely covered and then sprinkled.

The secret of blue grass is to keep it wet. Keep the sprinkler going all the time except during rainstorms. As soon as the rain is over start the sprinkler again.

I had a few patches of bluegrass near the trees where I poured water and near the hydrant. I bought a sack of seed and proceeded to spade up the lawn, spading all the killed out patches, and leaving the good. Each day I turned over another patch, raked it and seeded it before I left.

At the S. D. B. church social Mrs. Rolla Babcock gave us the following verse and we were to fill in the blanks with names of flowers.

Blue Grass.
In Bartz' store the other day Eddie Whelan was telling of his experiences in trying to grow a lawn. I told him that my wife read in a magazine how to grow a lawn and I followed the instructions and had good luck last year.

My wife and I hunted through a year or more of the Poultry Tribune where she thought she saw the article but we were unable to find it. Never-the-less, she remembered most of what it said and here it is.

to think about. Here in America at the slightest prospect of destruction, the whole countryside turns out to help save the property. In China and Spain, and perhaps in other countries soon, the big thought is destruction, and all sorts of money spent and effort put forth to blow up and burn up all structures. Ord merchants may expect a call some of these times to help put out a farm fire.

Short Shavings.
Helen Madsen was around collecting some of her father's accounts and she said one man told her he had become so hard up that he had not had a plow lay sharpener for five years.

At Schudel's fire Claud Thomas said that there was the first time he ever saw a Methodist preacher dancing.

It happened there were rats under the fodder that was afire and they were being smoked out. One of these rats, in desperation started to climb up Rev. Birmingham's pants leg. Claud said the preacher was really dancing for a minute.

My daughter learned in her domestic science class that the way to wash glass fruit jars is to clean them, then rinse them in cold water and stand them upside down. That way they will dry clear.

Also my wife learned from a friend that the way to clean the sink is to use the scratcher in place of a rag.

Laura Jean Nelson, of Scotia, a senior, won superior rating in the dramatic contest in her school, then the same honors in the sub-district contest held in Scotia, then the same honors again at the district contest at Gothenburg, and from there went to the state meet at Columbus and won again superior rating there, being one of the two winners. Her reading was entitled "Mary Stewart."

From this contest she should go to the Tri-State contest at Chicago, and should she win there would be entitled to go to a similar meet at Hollywood. But the sad part of it is, as yet, she has not decided to go. Even at that, she is outstanding in this art, and has won honors not coming to every child.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

New Deal Democrats talk about possibility of Republican success in 1940... Probably propaganda... Whatever is done about the cotton situation will probably be wrong... "Appeasement" program apparently profited only two big corporations.

WASHINGTON—It's rather curious that some of our cotton growers hear more talk about Republican victory in 1940 from Democrats, and particularly from New Deal Democrats, than from Republicans.

This is not just a strange situation. There is plenty of logic back of it. Some of it is found on cold reason. But a good deal of it is propaganda.

The answer to why there is not too much talk of Republican victory from the G. O. P. leaders themselves is that they realize their own weakness. Despite the Republican victories last fall in many of the states, which had been held by the Democrats for six years, most of the states are still ruled by the Democratic party.

The importance of this lies in organization. It means that the Democrats have the state house crowd, men on the state payroll who want to stay there, and whose main job next year will be carrying their own states for the Democratic ticket regardless of who is the presidential nominee and what may happen to be written in the platform.

Most politicians believe that control of the county governments is more important than control of the state government when it comes to carrying a state in an election. And by the same token the Democrats are in control of a tremendous majority of the county governments in this country.

Then, too, a careful survey of the 1938 election does not present the bright forecast for Republican success which some seem to think. If the Democrats in 1940 can only hold the states they carried beyond question in 1938, leaving out such doubtful problems as Indiana, Iowa and Colorado, they will have a comfortable margin in the electoral college.

Moreover, the Republicans don't like the idea of getting too enthusiastic until they know who their leader is apt to be. Thomas E. Dewey is way out in front now, but there is plenty of talk about Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, and Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio, and others.

On the Democratic side there is an entirely different situation. Down in their hearts most of the Democrats, especially of the New Deal variety, believe the Democratic party will be successful again—but they would never think of conceding that the party can win with a conservative as the nominee.

For instance, most New Dealers would regard the nomination of a man like Senator Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia, or Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina as little short of a catastrophe, and none of them would throw their hats up in the air over the idea of John Nance Garner being nominated.

So the strategy of these New Dealers at present is to keep the Democrats scared about the next election.

Whatever Is Done About Cotton Is Sure to Be Wrong
Only one thing seems sure about the cotton situation. That is that whatever is done will turn out to be wrong. In fact, economists who have studied the situation, who know about the rest of the world as well as about the United States, and whose judgment is not affected by political considerations, say frankly that not one of the proposals will work in the long run; that all of them would be expensive as well as futile.

With hindsight, the nonpolitical experts say they could have remedied the situation had they started on it in 1928. Now, they are not sure that anything could be done. But as a matter of fact, this hindsight would have been of no practical value, for the simple reason that even if one could have foreseen the future, back in 1928, it is inconceivable that a politically minded government would have taken the proper course. It would have seemed too brutal—too hard on the cotton farmers—at the time.

The year 1928 is picked not because it was the year before the business crash began, but because in a way it marks the starting of Brazil on its path to becoming one of the great cotton producing countries of the world. It was the year before President Hoover began to worry about the farm problem. It was before the farm board of that administration. For there is no doubt whatever that it has been federal interference with the natural course of cotton growing that has raised the present problem.

Let's look at the history of cotton before that. Every now and then there would be a terrible overproduction, the price would go to pot, and the southern statesmen would scream their heads off about the census bureau issuing misleading figures, or the gamblers on the cotton exchange preying on the poor farmers, or something of the sort. Then, another season would see fairly good prices, and everyone in the cotton states would be so happy that no one up north would even hear that the trouble was over. Every time the rest of the country heard about cotton it was the bad news, not the good. Scheme Was Set Up Which Made the Trouble Permanent

With the Hoover farm board in action, however, a scheme was set up which inevitably made the trouble permanent instead of just every few years. For a century before that the British cotton mill owners had been hoping to develop some other section of the world as a cotton producer. They wanted something which would prove a check on high cotton prices in the short-crop years.

Every one interested in cotton could see that, with the starting of this idea of the government doing something for the cotton farmers, the period of occasional low prices for cotton had gone forever—that is the possibility of the United States dumping a cotton surplus at very low prices had passed. This was made even more clear when the United States government started paying farmers not to grow cotton.

that no one up north would even hear that the trouble was over. Every time the rest of the country heard about cotton it was the bad news, not the good. Scheme Was Set Up Which Made the Trouble Permanent

For a century before that the British cotton mill owners had been hoping to develop some other section of the world as a cotton producer. They wanted something which would prove a check on high cotton prices in the short-crop years.

Every one interested in cotton could see that, with the starting of this idea of the government doing something for the cotton farmers, the period of occasional low prices for cotton had gone forever—that is the possibility of the United States dumping a cotton surplus at very low prices had passed. This was made even more clear when the United States government started paying farmers not to grow cotton.

With this "guarantee" of high world prices, development of cotton growing in other areas grew by leaps and bounds. Uncle Sam was holding an umbrella over them. Danger of cheap cotton from the United States in any particular year was averted.

As a result of this Brazil expansion her cotton growing. She found that she could sell cotton at six cents a pound and make money. There has never been a chance since that she would abandon this expansion, for there is not a state east of the Mississippi where cotton can be produced, at a profit, at any such price.

Appeasement Program Helped Only Two Big Corporations
Curiously enough, apparently the only two big corporations in the country which profited from the "appeasement" program—during this short span of life—were the big electric utility holding companies which President Roosevelt is known to dislike so cordially. One of these is Electric Bond and Share. The other is Commonwealth and Southern.

It will be recalled that one of the most convincing steps in the so-called appeasement program was the agreement on the part of TVA to buy out the interests in Chattanooga of the Commonwealth and Southern, and in Memphis of the Electric Bond and Share (this latter held through a subsidiary).

At the time these agreements were made, Harry L. Hopkins had been talking to senators and members of the house as to the necessity of doing something to encourage business.

One of the main reasons for "appeasement" the electric industry was that Hopkins had been thoroughly sold by the arguments of the preceding 18 months by William O. Douglas, now on the Supreme court, that if something could be done to encourage the electric industry, there would be such a flood of spending that it would be almost enough alone and unaided to produce the return of prosperity.

But a far more important part of the appeasement program, and one which affected all business and new investment instead of merely the electric business, was tax revision.

President Intervenes in Fight for Revision of Taxes
Suddenly the President intervened in the fight for tax revision when an ultimatum which seems to have definitely ended all chance for it. This does not apply, of course, to the postponement of the increase in the social security taxes, but to the levies on corporations.

His ultimatum was that if any reduction should be made in the estimated revenues, this must be made up by adding additional taxes somewhere else—but on the corporations. In short, his verdict is that congress may shuffle the present taxes on business in any way it may deem to be helpful, but that the net result—in estimated revenues—must be the same.

What so many of his lieutenants had hoped, and this goes not only for important members of the house and senate but for the treasury department and the department of commerce, was that the government would take a chance—that it would encourage business by reducing taxes on business, hoping that business would thereupon boom, and the actual revenues of the treasury would be increased by the reduction rather than cut.

This phase of the problem the President ignored completely. He still insists that if estimated revenues are reduced, then government spending, for relief or something else, must be reduced to precisely the same amount. He attacks the problem just as though the federal budget were now balanced, and any reduction of the corporation taxes would throw it out of balance.

This has divided business as to the tax revision, will keep it divided unless congress forces the gamble on the President, which does not seem likely.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Recalls Early Day Epsode, St. John, N. D.
To the Editor of the Quiz:
Enclosed you will find a little cash to renew my subscription to the Quiz. I don't want to miss a single issue. We always get the Quiz on Monday and every one of us is always looking forward to that day.

We were all pleased when we got the issue with the pictures of some of the old timers who are still living at Ord and elsewhere, Charles Burdick, Cleg Hughes, Fax Hughes, and many others. I have often wondered what ever became of Fax Hughes. He lived at Olean when I was living there.

I never will forget a little incident that happened one day. There was a line fence and neither one was willing to fix up that fence. I had the land on the west side of that fence into corn and it was good. One day as I was going down to our mail box I saw the owner of the farm coming up the road. As he got closer I could see that he had a gun in one hand. It looked just about like a cannon to me. He told me some cattle had been in our corn and they had shut them up. The owner had sent some one to get them and they had taken a few shots at them, one shot had cut about half the horn off the saddle. That was just luck that it wasn't any closer. Anyway, I said you better throw that gun out in the weeds and forget about it, for you are going to get into plenty of trouble. The next morning I took my team and wagon with some posts and went down to fix that line fence. I hadn't been there long before the owner showed up and asked me what I was fixing that fence for. I told her just to save trouble and save my corn and if he would keep that d-m cannon pointed south I would have everything fixed in a little while and there would be no more trouble.

I'll bet Fax hasn't forgotten that little circumstance. I sure haven't. I see by the Quiz it has been dry and an open winter at Ord. Our winter was late in getting started, about holidays, but when it did start it made up for lost time. It has been snowing for the last three days and is snowing hard now. The ground is still frozen. They have had a hard time to keep the roads open. Snow drifted in many places 8 to 10 feet deep.

Now, Mr. Leggett, before my subscription expires again I am hoping I will be seeing you, as it has been quite a while since we were at Ord. With best regards and good luck to all, I remain
Wm. Stanton

Zlomke, vice president, Donald Sydzyk, secretary, Josephine Pesta, and news reporter, Ted Kravon. The next meeting will be held Saturday evening, April 29, in the county agent's office.

CO-OPERATIVE PRODUCERS
The members of the calf club which was organized two weeks ago under the name of Co-operative Producers, were to have held their second meeting at the court house Saturday afternoon, but a number of the members were kept away by the rain. Officers elected at their first meeting were: Charles Zlomke, president, Dean Veleba, vice president, Bob Miller, secretary, and Billy Miller, news reporter. The next meeting of this club will also be held Saturday evening, April 29, at the county agent's office. G. A. Zlomke is leader of both the calf and the pig club.

She and her sister, Katherine, came last Saturday to visit their parents Mr. and Mrs. George Greenwalt and other relatives, and to attend the wedding of their brother Ambrose at St. Libory. Miss Katherine is remaining here for the present.

—Although the spring "big egg" contest sponsored by The Quiz has officially ended, people occasionally bring in big, small and freak eggs. One of the oddest yet was brought in last week by Everett Wright. Almost wedge shaped, its shell was wrinkled on one side, but it was not a softshell egg as many freak eggs are.

Last week this column was devoted to pointing out briefly the value of the skin and membranous linings of the body cavities as a protection against the entrance of germs. When we said there could be more germs on the point of a needle than one could count in a life time, we did not mean there were always that many, though any object which may penetrate the skin during the course of a day's work is likely to have a great many germs on it and to leave some of these in or under the skin. Fortunately, either the germs left there are harmless and at once destroyed by the body juices and cell or the harmful ones are so few and perhaps weakened by drying on the object that they do not survive because most of the minor punctures, bruises, burns and other injuries to the skin do not cause any visible bad results.

Once in a while, however, serious consequences follow such injuries, especially those that go in rather deeply and leave a small hole. Some of the serious results are the so-called "blood-poisoning," deep abscesses, especially of the hand, and more fearful than these, lockjaw or tetanus as it is known to the doctor. It is this last one, lockjaw that I want to talk about today.

Lockjaw is caused by a special germ called the tetanus bacillus. Now this germ is particular where it lives and is hard to kill. It will only grow where there is little or no oxygen and, of course, where it has the proper moisture, heat and food. It is found in the excreta of animals, apparently growing in their digestive tracts without harming them, so is present about all barnyards. This germ forms an inactive stage known as a spore, which may resist drying, freezing and even high temperatures such as boiling. It may lie dormant in this stage for years then grow again when just the proper conditions are present. This is why old battle fields such as Planders produce so many cases of lockjaw when a new battle is fought over the same ground. It is also why wounds produced by objects having earth on them, especially from old or present barnyards, or from gardens that have been fertilized with manure, lead the physician to take precautions against this disease.

If these germs were introduced into a shallow wound that is wide open and thus exposed to an abundance of oxygen, the chances of their growing and producing lockjaw would be very slight or none. However, if they are carried deep into the tissues especially on an object that leaves a rather small hole, they have all the conditions, including lack of oxygen, that favor their growth and lockjaw may develop.

Whenever a person receives this type of wound he should remember the possibility of this disease. Remember too that lockjaw may be easily prevented but is a terrible disease which is very difficult to cure. The prevention of lockjaw or tetanus is not something you can do yourself, so in case of any doubt go at once to your family physician for the preventive serum.

Subsoil Moisture Lower Than in '34

Moisture tests made by County Agent Dale and Walter Pitts of the agricultural college last week showed that the subsoil in Valley county now contains less moisture than in any of the recent drought years. Since in both 1937 and 1938 very promising corn prospects were ruined by a few days of hot winds, due solely to lack of reserve moisture, this year's prospects for a corn crop are none too bright and many farmers are planning to plant more grain sorghums and less corn in order to assure a supply of feed grain for their livestock.

The ruling that required planting of 80 per cent of a farm's corn or wheat allotment in order to receive the full conservation payment under the Agricultural Conservation program has been eliminated, according to word received this week by the Valley county ACF committee.

They were notified that this change in the regulations of the program was made in accordance with an amendment to the Agricultural Adjustment Act, recently passed by Congress and signed April 11 by President Roosevelt.

Under this amendment a farmer will receive his full conservation payment on the normal yield of his corn or wheat allotment, so long as he is within his allotment, regardless of the acreage he plants to these crops. This applies only to conservation payments and not to parity payments, which require that a farmer plant corn or wheat in 1938 or 1939.

Previously, a farmer who planted less than 50 per cent of his allotment was paid on 125 per cent of the normal yield of the acreage he actually planted.

This ruling will be of special interest to many Valley county farmers who in view of the shortage of subsoil moisture are afraid to bank too heavily on corn and wish to replace a part of their corn acreage with grain sorghums.

Miss Sharlik, who is the speech and English instructor in the high school, is the director.

Miss Dorothy Williams, a teacher in the Norfolk schools, spent the week end in Ord as guest in the C. J. Mortensen and Dr. C. J. Miller homes. She returned to her teaching duties Sunday.

Cosmopolitans Hear Talk by Frank Kruml

The Ord Cosmopolitan club met at the City Cafe Monday evening, with President John Misko in charge of the meeting, and with Dr. F. L. Blessing acting for Secretary Hilding Pearson, who was absent. Max Pearson introduced Clifford Brown, of the J. C. Penney store, who was his guest for the evening.

Dr. F. J. Osentowski, in charge of the program, introduced Frank Kruml, county assistance director, who spoke of the history of public welfare. The necessity for public welfare was first recognized in England in 1601, according to Mr. Kruml, and the idea was brought to America in colonial times. Its first beginning in Nebraska was in 1884.

"Three occasions for an assistance program have developed here," he said, "in the grasshopper plague of the 1880s, the drought of the 1890s, and the development of the CWA in 1933." He then named the various agencies set up by the government in the past few years, and mentioned the fact that Congress is now planning to unite all of them under one head, except the Social Security administration.

He went on to mention the various branches of the public welfare work in Nebraska and the object of each. He spoke of the possibility of securing a CCC camp for Valley county, either through the Ft. Hartsuff project or for soil erosion work.

President Misko suggested in closing the proposition of inviting representative groups from Arcadia and from North Loup to attend meetings of the club in the near future.

Previously, a farmer who planted less than 50 per cent of his allotment was paid on 125 per cent of the normal yield of the acreage he actually planted.

This ruling will be of special interest to many Valley county farmers who in view of the shortage of subsoil moisture are afraid to bank too heavily on corn and wish to replace a part of their corn acreage with grain sorghums.

High Wind Monday Razes Grandstand

The wind Monday, which at times attained a velocity of 45 miles per hour, was too much for the grandstand erected last year at the south side of the midget race track at the fair grounds. First the entire structure, with the exception of a short, low section at the east end, was blown over backwards, and then it folded down to the east. The above photo, taken from the west end, shows how the wreckage looks. The north stands were not damaged, but the fence at the east end was leaned far over to the south.

Funny things can happen in Ord. It even rains sometimes as it did Saturday. And when it rains, other funny things are likely to happen.

For example, Rice had a Saturday sale scheduled, which of course had to be called off, but that afternoon some kids were sailing toy ships on the pond that covered part of the ground, so there was a sail there, after all.

It did not rain hard enough to start water running down the canyon in east Ord, but the water ran down M street and into the canyon, where it actually ran up the canyon fully half a block, instead of down as water is supposed to do.

But the strangest of all freaks happened to certain rain gauges in Ord. Syl Furtak has a gauge in his sign shop, which connects with a tin can on the roof. When he came in after a shower the gauge was full and a lot had run out on the floor. Pretty much the same thing happened to the rain gauge George Benn constructed.

The men have a suspicion that some kids must have been assisting nature with the rainfall.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT (Continued from page two) curring: "You just can't cook and do much else at the same time, Irma, or you'll ruin whatever you try to cook."

Is it always like this when I try to do any writing? No, it isn't. Sometimes the pattern is varied by moving the sprinkler, or trying to keep Kerry resting for an hour after lunch, or it is time to feed Teddy, or to make biscuits, or run mail a letter. I will admit, once in a while I succeed in writing my column when Teddy is asleep, Kerry in school, and left-overs in the ice box threaten an easily prepared lunch.

So, hoping to get beautiful while I type, I cover my face with cold cream and start pecking.

But as you have noticed, perhaps, cold cream usually brings company.

I always enjoy reading George Gowen's column, but I hear people criticize his writing. I like Dad's column, but I see a few lifted eyebrows when he pops out with some of those jokes, sometimes. I like Mr. Ward's editorials, but not quite all. I am rarely ever at all satisfied with my own column, and I often receive panning.

But I have yet to read one of Jesse Kovanda's Back Party's I didn't like. He means business, that fellow, he tells exactly what is necessary and no more. He knows what he is talking about. And I have never yet heard anyone say they didn't like his stuff in the Quiz. If I were a farmer I would clip him and have a dandy scrapbook. Authoritative too.

Dog Tax Due May 1, 115 Dogs Licensed In Ord Last Year

Dutchess... a Great Dane.

Stormy Weather... one of Ord's best known dogs.

Buck... he carries bricks sometimes too

Teresa... always playful

Scottie... a 'flying fool'

Scottie... a 'flying fool'

May 1st is an important date for Ord's dog population, and for the owners of dogs also, for on that day dog tax for the next 12 months comes due and after that date any dog not wearing a tag showing that the tax has been paid is likely to be taken up by the police and killed.

Thanks to more rigid enforcement of the dog taxing ordinance there were 115 dogs in Ord last year on which the tax was paid. The year before there were only 39 and in some years City Clerk Rex Jewett has issued licenses to as few as 15.

A few of Ord's well known dogs, always among the first each year to wear a new metal tag showing that their owners have paid the tax on them, are pictured above.

"Dutchess," only Great Dane in Ord, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Misko. "Stormy Weather" is half pit and half Boston bull and is owned by Mrs. Edith Jewett.

"Buck" is Kerry Leggett's dog, and as in this picture, is usually carrying something. He is a registered Chesapeake retriever. "Teresa" a toy Boston bull, is owned by Stanley Lumbard. "Scottie" is Evelyn Sharp's dog, who likes to fly almost as well as his mistress.

City officials say that the dog ordinance will be more strictly enforced this year than ever before, so dog owners who value their pets should pay the license fee before May 1 or as soon thereafter as possible. The city charges $1 for a male or spayed female dog, $2 for a unspayed female.

—Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Arnold, Floyd Ackles and Miss Viola Cochran were all over to the Ord Twombly farm Sunday to spend the afternoon and evening.

INTRODUCTORY OFFER ON OUR OWN SUGAR CURED

Bacon AND OUR OWN OPEN KETTLE RENDERED Pure Lard

Many of our customers always call for Our Own Cure Bacon and Our Own Open Kettle Rendered Lard, and will have no other. This offer is addressed principally to those who have never tried these products. We think they are as good as any on the market, regardless of price. People who have tried them agree. Buy this week end at these special prices and be convinced.

These Special Prices Effective Only This Week End.

SLICED BACON

These sides of bacon come from choice carefully selected 230 lb. hogs and are not too fat, with plenty of lean strips through them. We carefully sugar cure our bacon after an old formula and smoke it in our own smokehouse. The result is a mild, flavorful bacon. For this week end we will sell it—sliced and with the rind removed—25c for only, per pound.

LARD Lard rendered by the old open kettle method tastes better and goes farther than the steam rendered lard commonly sold today. There is no substitute for top quality lard, for shortening or for frying. You can buy lard that costs less per pound but this is cheaper in the long run and will give better results. For this week end it is priced at, per pound. 10c

SPEAKING OF DOLLARS

Do you know that for every light bill you pay amounting to $3.37 a month you save $1.34 from what most other Nebraska towns pay for light?

Here's the reason: ELECTRICITY is 40% cheaper in Ord than in the average town in Nebraska. A survey conducted by a disinterested person bears out this statement.

Thus, adhering to old maxim of a "Penny saved is a Penny earned," every subscriber to electricity in Ord need not worry about excessive cost in the use of electricity.

Why not take advantage of this service rate and use more electricity? See us about installing an electric range NOW.

Call It Even

By KARL GRAYSON

WNU Service.

SHORTLY after the death of his Uncle Moe, young Kilburn Blake was advised that he had been mentioned in the old gentleman's will. "To my nephew, Kilburn Blake, I bequeath my Wimple automobile . . ."

The news did not set Kilburn's heart a-flutter with palpitations of fondness. The Wimple automobile, to be sure, was a beautiful specimen of machinery. But the cost of owning and operating one was prohibitive, unless a man's yearly stipend was in the five-figure class. Which Kilburn's wasn't. Indeed, on $30 a week one would no more think of buying a Wimple than investing in a $15,000 house.

Kilburn's first thought was to offer the Wimple as down payment on a smaller and less expensive car. Investigation, however, revealed that the trade-in value of Wimples was next to nil, due to their lack of resale value.

It was all rather disheartening. Here he was stuck with a piece of machinery he couldn't use and for which he was paying garage rent and taxes. Why not have the thing stolen and collect the insurance? Well, why not? A noble thought. The premium was paid for six months in advance; the $800 for which the car was insured would buy a new and smaller machine, with money to spare.

Kilburn had all kinds of faith in human nature—so he drove the Wimple up town the next day and left it parked in a vacant lot with the key in the ignition. When he came for it that night—it was still there.

The following evening, Kilburn took his girl to the movies, and left the Wimple, key in lock, on the adjacent side street. Hopefully he returned to the spot after the performance—and not only found that the automobile was present and intact, but a ticket tucked under the windshield wiper, informed him that the side street had parking laws and he'd better show up at the police station. As soon as he was able to buy gasoline again, he drove the vehicle into that section of the city known as the slums, the underworld, the tough district. Parking it before a pool room he strolled away with hopeful nonchalance.

Refusing however, to permit himself to become too optimistic, he remained away from the locale until after midnight. He had read somewhere that crime addicts worked better in the wee small hours. Returning to the pool room at 3 a. m. he discovered to his disgust that nothing had happened to his legacy.

A fortnight later Kilburn drove to the neighboring town of Ridgefield to attend a party. At 12:30 it occurred to him to go home, but upon attempting to put the plan into execution, he met with an obstacle. The Wimple, which he had parked in front of his friend's house, was missing.

At first, Kilburn was elated. Concern, however, followed. There remained the matter of getting back to the city, 18 miles distant. The last bus had gone, the party had broken up and his friend's house was dark. There remained but a single alternative and Kilburn was forced to take it. He located a taxi stand and negotiated for the necessary transportation for a consideration of $7.00. Before leaving, however, he apprised the local police of the loss of his car, and during the ride home he revived his spirits by thinking of the $800 insurance money he would receive.

The next morning he notified the insurance company of the theft, and went joyfully to work. That night the Ridgefield police called and advised him that they had located what was left of the Wimple. "How do you mean, what's left of it?" Kilburn asked. "Someone took it for a joy ride and ran into a stone wall. It's pretty badly demolished."

"Someone took it for a joy ride and ran into a stone wall. It's pretty badly demolished."

"Oh," said Kilburn, and hung up. After a moment's thought he searched the classified section of the telephone directory and presently called a number.

"Is this the Ridgefield junk yard?" he asked.

"Yes."

"My car was smashed up last night on Brant street. How much'll you give me for it for junk?"

"Oil! So it was your car? Well, Oil'll tell you. That car is on my land already. It will cost you $10 for leaving it there."

Kilburn said something under his breath. Aloud: "Now, wait a minute! Do I understand that whoever it was smashed up my car chose your property on which to do the smashing? And you're trying to charge me for storage?"

"Well, Oil'll tell you. We'll call it even. I'll take the car an' charge you not one penny. We'll call it even."

Indignation and anger welled up within Kilburn's breast. But presently it subsided and was replaced by a profound sense of relief, and well being. His mind flashed back, mentally totalling the items of expense caused by his ownership of the Wimple. He sighed.

"Call it even," he said.

Without Interruption

JOHNNY POWERS is a wise guy. A good enough chap, but a wise guy. You can't tell him much, because he knows just about everything. You start to tell him a story when Johnny's around, and when you're half way through he'll grin and say, "Yeah, I've heard this one." And then he'll spring the point. Very annoying.

Johnny doesn't think much of old Enoch Stewart. Enoch is an old-generian and likes to reminisce. He enjoys hearing him, because he has a way of telling a story that grips you.

Johnny Powers sits around twiddling his thumbs while old Enoch unfolds a tale in his slow way, and suddenly he'll jump up and say, "Ha! I get it. So and so married so and so. Nothing clever about that!"

You can see the hurt look and the slow anger gleaming in old Enoch's eyes. You feel sorry for the old boy, and you'd like to punch Johnny in the nose. The best you can do about it is to keep Johnny away when old Enoch is yarning.

We've been pretty successful about doing this; everyone was surprised the night he dropped in on us last week. But Johnny didn't seem to notice that anything was wrong. "Go on," he said to old Enoch. "Go on with your yarn, old timer."

"I was just telling the boys about an experience I had last winter. Maybe it's the kind of story you wouldn't be interested in."

"Uh huh," said Johnny indulgently. "Uh huh. Go ahead."

"Well," said Old Enoch, "it was kind of amusing. One of those brisk January days, cold and invigorating. I was walking along out in the country and I come to a bunch of children who were skating, and stopped to watch them. I tell you it was a pretty picture."

"Well, after a while along comes an old man, near as old as I be, with a pair of skates over his shoulder. He stood watching the youngsters for a while, then sat down and put on his skates and started out. He was a good one, knew how to skate all right. But he wanted to show off, wanted to show them kids how good he was and maybe teach 'em a thing or two."

Old Enoch paused to chuckle, and Johnny, grinning said, "And I suppose he went sprawling first shot out of the box?"

Enoch looked mildly surprised and a trifle hurt. "Why, yes," he said. "Yes. That's exactly what happened. First thing you know the old boy hit a hole and tumbled into it head over heels. It was funny, but at the same time I felt sorry for the old boy."

"Hope he didn't drown," I said, looking sidewise at Johnny.

"Of course he didn't," Johnny said. He stood up. "The youngsters got a rope or a log or something and pulled him out and the old man went home, a sorry looking figure, his dignity having suffered because he'd had to let the children save him. Pretty good story, but old," Johnny laughed tolerantly.

Old Enoch tugged at his moustaches. "You're pretty smart, Johnny. The old boy didn't get himself drowned. Nope. Fact is he didn't even get wet!"

The grin vanished from Johnny's face. He stared, and the rest of us were silent, waiting.

"Now wait a minute," said Johnny. "Let me get this straight. The old man was skating and he fell into a hole, and didn't even get wet?"

"Yeah," said old Enoch, and his eyes began to twinkle. "That's it, Johnny. That's right."

Johnny looked around. He saw us watching him, and he must have sensed the way we felt, because he flushed a little. "Now wait a minute," he said. "There's something wrong here. Something screwy about that yarn."

"No such a thing," said Enoch. "It's a true story, every word. And if you'd listened closely you'd see what I mean."

"All right," he said. "All right. What's the point?"

Enoch chuckled. "You're smart, Johnny. You ought to be able to figure it. You've figured out plenty of 'em before."

The color mounted in Johnny's cheeks. "It's a set-up," he blazed angrily. "I tell you that yarn's cock-eyed! What's the point, anyhow?"

Enoch tugged at his moustaches. For the first time I saw him laugh. Real loud and hearty. He was enjoying this moment. It sort of paid him back for previous humiliations. He laughed, and Johnny grew white, and Enoch said, "Why, Shucks, Johnny, that's easy. Easy. The point is that the children and the old man were roller skating. Get it?"

Which Johnny did, and that's why old Enoch from then on has been able to tell his stories without interference or interruptions.

Early Venezuela
The Venezuelan coast was first sighted by Columbus on August 1, 1498, on his third voyage, and was successively explored by Alonso de Ojeda, Alonso Nino, Amerigo Vespucci, and others. The country at that time was inhabited by about 150 tribes of Indians, speaking 11 different languages and 150 dialects, among which the Caribs and Teques were the most warlike.

Traffic Laws

"JO, THAT'S the last time you'll take the car out alone! I'm tired of getting you out of jams. Sergeant Ryan is tired of it, too. He told me today that he'd let you off for the last time."

"Really, Art, you're getting all excited over the silly business. The car is mine as much as it is yours. Moreover, I intend to drive it. I've got to learn some time."

"Now look here, Jo, I've listened to that story for the last time. It's always the same. In my opinion, women shouldn't be allowed to drive cars anyhow. They don't attach enough importance to it."

Art Phillips went out and slammed the door. Jo, his wife, watched him drive away. Of late Art had been considerate enough to leave the car at home for her use, and ride to work on the bus. But now it looked as if all that was over. Art was really angry.

Jo didn't mind so very much. But the fact that that afternoon she was scheduled to be at a bridge party in the neighboring town of Benton, and had been depending upon the car to transport her there, was annoying.

Jo glanced at her watch. The last bus to Benton for over an hour had left ten minutes ago. She became a little panicky at thoughts of being deprived of the afternoon of bridge.

Then, abruptly, came a thought. Quick action followed. She dashed upstairs, dressed quickly, and ten minutes later was on a bus riding down town. As she had expected, the car was parked at the curb in front of Art's office.

Feeling somewhat like a small boy stealing apples, she climbed into the car and was away. Once beyond the city limits she didn't care a hoot whether Art discovered the theft or not. It would do him good.

Jo arrived back in town just before five. She parked the car in the exact spot where it had stood three hours previous, caught an outgoing bus, and was home by 5:15. She had hardly divested herself of coat and hat when the phone rang. It was Art.

"Hello, honey," he began sweetly. "Sorry I can't be home to dinner. Something happened to the car this afternoon. I brought it to a garage and left it there. They just called and said it wouldn't be ready until seven. Guess I'll wait."

Jo's heart leaped. For a moment she was silent. Then: "What—what time did you say you brought the car to the garage?"

"Oh," Jo hung up without replying. She felt weak and wanted to sit down. So this was why Art had been making excuses to stay out late. Probably carrying on an affair with another woman. And she, Jo, had believed in him implicitly.

She suddenly flung herself on a divan and wept.

A half hour later Jo dried her eyes and went upstairs. Her mind was made up. She'd pack and leave on the 6:30 train. She could never be happy with Art again. She could never trust him, never feel that he was loyal and fine as she had always thought.

Hastily she packed, scribbled a note, briefly explaining that she knew of his deceit, and went downstairs, paused at the foot and stared wide-eyed.

Art, grinning broadly, was studding in the center of the living room floor.

"Going some place?" he asked. "Say, I'm glad I got home in time to see you off. They brought the car around earlier than I expected and . . ."

"Art! Please! I don't care to listen to more of your lies!" She tried to get past him, but Art stepped in her way.

"Don't be foolish, Jo. You'll regret it. Wait till you hear my story."

Jo paused. After all, it was only fair to let him explain. She did love him, and she'd never feel right unless she had given him a chance. "All right. But hurry."

"Then, you do care? You're not really going to run out and leave me flat? I didn't think you would, honey."

"I said I'd listen."

"Jo." Art suddenly swept her into his arms. "Jo, I don't blame you for getting sore. I shouldn't have taken the car, knowing you wanted it this afternoon. But," he paused to grin, "the fact is I saw you drive off from in front of the office. I wanted to teach you a lesson. That's why I hatched up that story about the garage. You see, I went up there this afternoon to make arrangements to have them give you driving lessons. That's what gave me the idea. I was at the garage when I called. And that's why I was so late in getting home."

Jo, both arms about Art's shoulders, reached inside her bag, extracted the note and crumpled it into nothingness.

Rabbits Can Swim

Contrary to general belief, rabbits can and will swim. True enough most of them don't like to . . . and with the exception of the swamp rabbit they swim as little as possible . . . when they have to go into the water to elude pursuit, they usually give a tremendous leap to carry them as far out as possible . . . so they won't have to swim any more than is necessary, says the American Wildlife Institute.

Ord Hi Musicians Pile Up 82 Points to Win at Kearney

9 Superiors, 12 Excellents Rated to Ord by Judges at District Contest.

Winning nine superior and twelve excellent ratings for a total of 82 points, the Ord high school music department placed first in Class B of the district music contest held Friday and Saturday at Kearney.

Superior winners for Ord included the band and orchestra, Angelina Wachtrie, bassoon soloist, Dick Koupal, baritone soloist, Joy Loft, tuba soloist, the clarinet quartet, the woodwind quintet, the boys' octet and the brass sextet.

Given excellent ratings were Jeanne Towne, low voice soloist, Harry J. McBeth, oboe soloist, Eugene Puncocar, B flat clarinet, Eldon Matthauer, alto clarinet, Marilyn Dale, violin, Dean Misko, alto saxophone, the cornet trio, Allen Zikmund, trombone soloist, the boys' glee club and the girls' glee club.

All of Ord's entries were coached by Dean S. Duncan, head of the music department, and Ord's splendid showing is another personal triumph for him, as well as for the students who so ably competed.

Members of the small groups given the superior ratings were: Clarinet quartet: Myrtle Auble, Lyle Flagg, Eldon Matthauer, Eugene Puncocar.

Woodwind quintet: Harry James Melbeth, Eugene Puncocar, Vera Severus, Bette Vogelanz, Angelina Wachtrie.

Boys' octet: Edwin Hitchman, Emil Krikac, Dick Koupal, Dean Misko, James Ollis, Eugene Puncocar, Allen Zikmund, Lloyd Zikmund.

Brass sextet: Gerald Jirak, Dick Koupal, Joy Loft, James Ollis, Lavay Unstead, Allen Zikmund.

The cornet trio, which was rated excellent, is composed of Gerald Jirak, James Ollis and Gerald Stoddard.

In the Ord band, which was finest in the Class B contest, were 64 musicians; the orchestra, rated by judges as best in the contest, and, in the opinion of one judge, the finest he ever heard, had 40 members; the boys' glee club had 36 members and the girls' glee club 38 members.

Judges were Leo Kucinsky, director of music at Morningstar college, Sioux City, Ia.; William Temple, director of voice, University of Nebraska; and Harry Warfel, director of woodwinds, Colorado State college, Greeley, Colo.

The district contest began Friday morning at 8:30 and continued throughout that day and Saturday. The Baptist church, the Presbyterian church, the Junior Hi auditorium and the Kearney College auditorium were scenes of various divisions of the contest.

Soloists and members of small instrumental groups were taken to Kearney Friday by car, with the larger groups going Saturday in two buses and a number of cars. About 2,000 young people from the various schools took part in the district contest.

This will be Ord's last music competition this year, as the state contest has been eliminated and the district national contest in which Ord competed last year, is being held at too distant a point for Ord to compete, although many of the local musicians are eligible for the event.

Judge Clements Grants Divorces to Two Women

In district court Thursday, Judge B. P. Clements granted divorces to two Ord women, Mrs. Anna Holloway and Mrs. Tillie Barnes.

Mrs. Barnes, whose husband did not contest the case, was given custody of two minor sons, Harold and Earl.

Edward V. Holloway sued his wife, Anna, for divorce, but she filed a cross-petition and Judge Clements, after hearing evidence, awarded the divorce to her upon her cross-petition. She was given custody of a minor son, Boyd, and her husband was ordered to pay costs of the action and also pay $25 per month for support of Mrs. Holloway and Boyd until further order of the court.

Will Softball or Night Baseball Be Ord's Summer Sport

Softball and baseball fans of this community are urged to attend a meeting being held at 8:00 p. m., Thursday, April 27 in Syl Futak's paint shop for the purpose of deciding which sport shall be developed in Ord this summer.

A softball league or a night baseball league will be organized, depending on which game is favored by a majority at Thursday's meeting.

Either game can be played under the lights, members of the committee believe, but a decision must be made at once so the playing field may be laid out.

Attend the meeting Thursday evening and boost for your favorite game.

Haskell Creekers Shatter Barker's Five-Year Reign

Win Rural School Track Meet and Scholastics Compet in Ord Saturday.

The Haskell Creek 2-room school, with a girl, Ruth Jorgensen, as star performer, Saturday won the Valley county rural school track and scholastics meet, an annual event, thus ending Barker's school's five-year domination in this event.

Haskell Creek scored 54 points, Davis Creek 51 1/2, Barker 43 1/2, Valleyside 28, and Elyria 23. Two of Valley county's 2-room schools did not enter the meet.

Scholastic events were held Saturday morning in the high school auditorium and the track events in the afternoon at the fair grounds.

As usual Barker took a big lead in the scholastic meet, scoring 33 1/2 points to 23 1/2 for Davis Creek, 13 for Valleyside, 13 for Haskell Creek and 12 for Elyria. Lucienne and Gerald Fisher, brother and sister, accounted for a big share of Barker's scholastic points.

Paced by Ruth Jorgensen, who scored 12 points, Haskell Creek soon took a big lead in the track meet and piled up 41 points, enough to overcome the big advantage Barker and Davis Creek had in the scholastic contest.

The 12-year-old Jorgensen girl competed against boys and won points in the various jumps and in sprint events. Another girl, Therese Hansen, scored many points for Haskell Creek.

A good mark in the running high jump was made by two Davis Creek boys, Orville Leach and Dale Axthelm, who tied at 5 feet 2 inches. Orel Koelling of Valleyside was third. Orville Leach also won the standing high jump with a leap of 3 feet 11 inches.

This is the third year since the event began that Haskell Creek has won the silver trophy given by Miss Clara M. McClatchey, county superintendent, to the 2-room school winning, but it is the first time since 1934 that Barker has been defeated.

Teachers at Haskell Creek are Earl Amrshall and Miss Anna Mortensen.

City Is $12,000.00 Poorer Than a Year Ago, Report Shows

But Engine Bought, Much Graveling Done, Bonds Paid Off During the Year.

Reporting to the city council Tuesday evening, Mayor Cummins demonstrated that Ord is about $12,500 poorer than it was a year ago, but that many substantial improvements have been made during the year. Cash and securities now on hand in all funds, including the electric fund, now total $35,060.52, whereas at this time in 1938 the total was $47,675.56.

Graveling done during the year cost a total of $3,728.79, which included $1,475.44 for labor, $1,508.69 for gravel, $692.41 for repairs and supplies and $52.25 for rock. About $1,500 could have been saved by doing this work as a WPA project, the mayor said, but he stated that contracts had been let before he entered office to do it as a city project.

Rock, 104 loads of which was delivered for use on driveways in the city at a cost of 50¢ per load, was paid for by property owners and every one of the 104, without exception, has reimbursed the city for this expense.

Cost of the big diesel engine bought early last year and installed at the plant was discussed at some length by Mayor Cummins. Total cost of the engine, including cost of remodeling the plant, was $24,391.10, he said. The engine, freight and installation accounted for $23,671.12 of this sum, and building changes cost $719.98.

Street rumors have placed the cost of this engine as high as $40,000, but the exact amount is $24,391.10, the mayor emphasized.

The amount paid for electric current to the North Loup district during the five months the city was on the high-line was $10,465.13. The city also had to install a heating plant at the electric plant while the engines were off, to prevent freezing. When the engines are running an exhaust fume plant takes care of heating. Cost of this heating plant was $488.51 plus about $55 in labor.

During the year, from city funds, $5,000 in delinquent paving district No. 4 bonds was paid off for taxpayers who had not paid the assessments.

As previously stated, the city's total balance on hand in all funds now is $35,060.52, of which the electric fund has $34,392.24.

Total revenue from taxation during the year was $15,903.72, the mayor reported.

From his figures, he told the council that net profit to the city from operation of its own electric plant is about $900 per month, or $11,000 per year. During the period that the city bought electricity from the North Loup district, the electric department's net profit dropped to about $200 per month, he said.

All figures given by Mayor Cummins were secured from City Treasurer James Ollis and from other city departments and are reasonably exact, he told the council.

When the treasurer's annual statement is published the exact standing of all city departments and the balance or debit in each fund will be shown.

Chanticleers Are Mid Six Champs

Nine records fell, four being broken by Allen Zikmund of Ord, in the Mid Six meet at St. Paul Tuesday, which Ord won handily with a point total of 74 to 47 1/2 for Ravenna, their nearest rival. Four other schools divided 33 points.

Zikmund's record breaking day included a heave of 45 feet 8 inches in the shotput, a high jump of 5 feet 7 1/2 inches, a broad jump of 21 feet 1 inch and a discus throw of 134 feet 10 inches. Tatlow set a new record in the half mile with a mark of 2:12 and Dahlin ran the 100 yard low hurdles in record time of 11.4 seconds. Huribert set a new mark of 8.4 seconds in the 60 yard high hurdles. Ravenna won the relay in new time of 1:36.3 and Arnold, of Broken Bow, tossed the javelin 144 feet 2 inches for a new Mid Six mark.

Paced by high scorer George Cetak, who made 24 1/2 points, the Ord junior coasted to an easy victory in the junior division of the Mid-Six meet. Ord made 61 points, Ravenna 39 1/2, St. Paul 14, Broken Bow 8, Arcadia 6 1/2 and Loup City 1.

Cetak set a new record of 5.9 in the 50 yard dash, a new record in the discus and tied in the 100 yard dash. Dudley Huribert set a record of 2:22.5 in the half mile. Of the 12 events they participated in, the Ord juniors took 8 first places.

—Patsy Austin, a daughter of Clarence Austin, was admitted to the Ord hospital Friday as a patient of Drs. C. J. Miller and E. J. Smith and has been very ill.

—Mrs. E. J. Snider, of Arcadia, underwent a major operation Sunday performed by Dr. C. J. Miller and Dr. J. W. Baird.

Pneumonia Cause of Hiram Flock's Death April 20th

Well Known Rosevale Farmer Dies 2 Weeks After His Return from Calif.

Hiram Flock, a well-known resident of the Rosevale neighborhood, passed away at 8 o'clock Thursday morning, April 20. He had returned two weeks previous from California where he had spent the winter with a sister. Immediately after his return he took the flu which later developed into pneumonia and other complications.

Hiram Stewart Flock, son of John and Mary Flock was born May 29, 1880 in Harrison county, Indiana and passed away April 20, 1939 at the age of 59 years, 11 months and 20 days.

He and his parents came to Nebraska and settled in Seward county in 1880.

He was united in marriage to Christina Bradley at Rockport, Mo. Sept. 27, 1900. When a young man he worked in the lumber mills in Oregon and there received an injury to his eyes, which not only impaired his vision but caused considerable suffering which he bore very patiently. In spite of this handicap he was always a hard worker and was considered a successful farmer. Seven years ago he had to give up farming because of failing health.

He was very devoted to his family being an extremely kind, loving, generous husband and father. Although he did not attend church regularly he tried to lead a Christian life as he thought best.

His parents, five brothers, five sisters, a daughter Rosa and a son John preceded him in death. He leaves to mourn his going his wife Christina, two sons, William, of Ericson, and Louis of Bartlett, one daughter, Mrs. Fred Miska of Ericson, two stepdaughters, Mrs. Gus Reick of Cedar Rapids, and Mrs. Charles Alderman of Ericson, a sister, Mrs. Sarah Kasten of California, and a host of other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were conducted at the home of his daughter by Mrs. John Chatfield and at Bartlett by Mrs. Chatfield and Rev. Austin of Ericson. Music was furnished by a group of singers from the Rosevale neighborhood.

Pallbearers were old friends, John Chatfield, Jason Abernethy, Geo. Watts, Geo. Connor, R. Jay Davis and Lars Larsen. Burial was in the Bartlett cemetery beside two brothers.

Middle Loup Gets First Irrigation Water of Season

Hundreds of Farmers Present at Molenaar's Demonstration Held Near Arcadia.

The first spring water, streaming down the Middle Loup Public Power and Irrigation District's irrigation ditches, has enabled farmers owning approximately 15,000 acres to start flooding their fields, according to a report made by Manager H. C. James to Douglas G. Wright, acting chief PWA engineer for Nebraska.

More than 500 of these farmers reviewed the proper method of cutting their laterals Saturday when Aldert Molenaar of the University of Nebraska's agricultural extension college and Molenaar's assistants, including County Agent C. C. Dale, demonstrated on a farm of A. H. Easterbrook, north and east of Arcadia.

In addition to actual irrigation methods, as shown on Easterbrook's cane and alfalfa fields, Molenaar held a demonstration in the late afternoon on the proper methods of making topography maps. And while the irrigation demonstration was taking place, several hundred yards away still another exhibition was taking place to show the proper method of leveling off rolling land. Molenaar and his assistants had "topped" the field Friday afternoon, and the workmen were following his maps.

James told Wright that water would be available to farmers as rapidly as the canals and laterals could be seasoned and tested prudently. Although only 15,000 acres have been prepared for water, James added that other farmers could be furnished water as rapidly as they prepared their acres.

Easterbrook was most enthusiastic over the demonstration. Last year, he planted a large field of alfalfa which, he said, would never grow profitably without supplemental water. Working under the instructions of Molenaar, he ridged his field to permit flood irrigation. Preparing for spring irrigation on his unplanted cane field, he built small, continuous depressions so that water would flow the entire length of the field.

Easterbrook was not the only farmer in the valley who had water Saturday. His neighbors on all sides were swinging shovels as the Middle Loup's "white gold" flowed down the canals.

"There is every indication," said James, "that this will be the valley's most prosperous year for a long time."

G. W. Warford Died Suddenly on Friday

G. W. Warford, well known resident of Ord, passed away suddenly Friday evening at his home here following a blood clot. He had been in good health for a man of his years, and had been up town that afternoon. Toward evening he became suddenly ill, and in spite of all efforts, passed away in a short time.

George Washington Warford was born July 30, 1867, in Clark county, Ia., and departed this life April 21, 1939, being 71 years, 6 months and 21 days of age at the time of his death. He grew to manhood on a farm near Osceola, Ia., with his parents, Abraham and Lydia Warford and his nine sisters and four brothers.

As a young man he came to Nebraska and settled near Albion, Jan. 26, 1890 he was united in marriage to Miss Lottie Edith Bussell. To this union four children were born, Clyde, Luella, Elsie and John. Luella and Elsie died in infancy.

In 1906 he and his family moved to Ord and farmed one year, then moving to McCook for two years. Not liking the western country, they moved back to Ord and then to Scotia, where he farmed and made his home for 25 years. He was always a successful farmer and a good manager. Leaving Scotia he moved to Loup City, and, having decided to retire from farming, moved to Ord three years ago, living here until the time of his death.

He was a loving husband and a kind father, and a wonderful grandfather. He was always hard working and was willing at any time to serve any one who called upon him for aid. Besides his wife, he leaves to mourn his passing his two sons, Clyde and John, one brother Sam of Des Moines, Ia., and four sisters, May of Long Beach, Nettie, Ella and Emma, all of Des Moines, ten grandchildren and a host of other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held in the Scotia Methodist church Monday afternoon at 2:30, Pearson and Anderson of Ord in charge. Rev. W. C. George, pastor of the church, brought the message and conducted the service. The pallbearers were Marius Hansen, Bill Bredthauer, Bill Donkett, Jake Everett, Pete Wittner and Henry Mayer, all (Continued on Page 12)

George Hubbard Is Hurt In Car Wreck

Friday evening George Hubbard was seriously injured and H. B. Van Decar bruised and shaken up when their car left the highway just north of North Loup and upset after the front bumper had been hooked by a passing car. The other car belonging to the Prochaska Service station of St. Paul and carrying three men, stopped at once and brought the men to Ord.

Mr. Hubbard was examined by Dr. C. W. Weekes at the clinic and was found to have suffered a broken breast bone and the vertebrae in his neck were out of alignment and causing him much pain. After being taken care of at the clinic he was taken to his home.

Both cars were traveling south and the wreck occurred when the Prochaska car in passing hooked the front bumper of the Van Decar car, throwing it out of control. The car left the road and turned over on its right side in the ditch, smashing the top and the fenders on the right side and doing other minor damage.

Confirmation of Guy Burrows as one 2nd ward councilman, the refusal of James Petska to serve if appointed and the appointment and confirmation of various city employees were the principal developments at the meeting of the Ord city council Tuesday evening. First the old council met and canvassed ballots cast at the city election April 4th, then Guy Burrows was sworn in and took Frank Sershen's place on the new council, which thereupon held its first meeting.

Appointments of city employees made by Mayor M. B. Cummins, and the salaries they will be paid, follow:

George Allen, light and water commissioner, $200 per month. Rex Jewett, city bookkeeper, $90 per month. Chester Austin, head linesman, $95 per month. Pat Frederick, assistant linesman, $90 per month. Harry Dye, Jis Mortensen and Vern Stark, light plant engineers, $105 per month each. W. H. Barnard, cemetery sexton, $80 per month. Vern Barnard, assistant sexton, $65 per month. L. H. Covert, chief of police and street commissioner, $100 per month. W. E. Lincoln, night police, $75 per month. Nels Hansen, day police, $60 per month.

Maud Thomas of North Loup Dies in Auto Accident

Lost Control of Her Car Near St. Libory Saturday, Was Killed As It Upset.

North Loup—(Special)—Maud Thomas, of this village, was killed Saturday when she lost control of her car on No. 281 highway near St. Libory and it upset, riding her beneath. Four people riding with her suffered only minor injuries.

With Miss Thomas were Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Crumpacker and son and Mr. Bales and son, of Salem, Ore., who had been visiting relatives here since Tuesday. Miss Thomas was taking them to Grand Island to catch a train for Omaha.

Near St. Libory, just as they were coming out of a cut, Miss Thomas tried to pick up her pocketbook and lost control of her car which veered right toward a filling station on the corner, then skidded to the left and overturned, rolling over three times and coming to rest in a ditch.

Two men at the filling station were eye witnesses and say that the first time the car overturned one door flew off on the driver's side and a boy fell out. On the last turn Miss Thomas fell out and the car fell over upon her.

Aside from cuts and bruises none of the passengers was seriously hurt and, added by the men from the filling station, they lifted the car off Miss Thomas, who was unconscious. In a few moments she regained consciousness, asked if the children were hurt, asked that they phone her mother, Mrs. Emma Thomas, and "tell mamma not to worry," and expired.

After the Howard county coroner viewed the wreck Miss Thomas' body was taken to a St. Paul funeral establishment and the other passengers to a doctor.

Rev. Crumpacker had a black eye, bruised chest, Mr. Bales had scalp cuts, one boy had a cut on one ear, Mrs. Crumpacker had a few scratches and the other boy was unscathed.

The strong wind of Saturday, which hit Miss Thomas' car full force as it came out of the cut, is believed to have been a factor contributing to the accident.

Funeral services for the deceased were held here Tuesday afternoon.

Veteran Accorded Military Honors

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the Evans funeral home in Grand Island for Orin C. Rashaw, Civil war veteran. Burial was made in the Soldiers' Home cemetery, with George Thunhorst, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in command of the rites. Ex-service men acted as pallbearers and as members of the firing squad. Mr. Rashaw was one of the last Civil war veterans from this section of Nebraska, as he went to the Soldiers home from Ord.

40 of an Inch Rain Came Monday Evening

Between 5:30 and 6:00 Monday a dashing rain that measured 40 of an inch fell in Ord, accompanied by an electric storm and a high wind. Much of the moisture ran off, so heavily did it fall, but even so the rain was appreciated.

Unseasonable hot weather was the rule here Sunday and Monday. Highest mark registered by Horace Travis' official thermometer came Monday with 90 degrees. Sunday's high was 88, Mr. Travis says. Lowest point registered on the two hot days was 60 degrees.

Another nice rain fell this morning, and at noon had brought 1 1/2 of an inch, according to Mr. Travis.

Burrows Sworn In As Ord Councilman, Jas. Petska Refuses

Council Meets Tuesday Eve, Confirms Appointments; Another Caucus Planned.

Confirmation of Guy Burrows as one 2nd ward councilman, the refusal of James Petska to serve if appointed and the appointment and confirmation of various city employees were the principal developments at the meeting of the Ord city council Tuesday evening. First the old council met and canvassed ballots cast at the city election April 4th, then Guy Burrows was sworn in and took Frank Sershen's place on the new council, which thereupon held its first meeting.

Appointments of city employees made by Mayor M. B. Cummins, and the salaries they will be paid, follow:

George Allen, light and water commissioner, $200 per month. Rex Jewett, city bookkeeper, $90 per month. Chester Austin, head linesman, $95 per month. Pat Frederick, assistant linesman, $90 per month. Harry Dye, Jis Mortensen and Vern Stark, light plant engineers, $105 per month each. W. H. Barnard, cemetery sexton, $80 per month. Vern Barnard, assistant sexton, $65 per month. L. H. Covert, chief of police and street commissioner, $100 per month. W. E. Lincoln, night police, $75 per month. Nels Hansen, day police, $60 per month.

Mayor Cummins also re-appointed Clarence M. Davis as city attorney, Dr. F. A. Barta city physician, John L. Anderson, police judge and A. J. Shirley park police. All appointments were unanimously confirmed by councilmen.

A letter from James Petska, who was the choice of a 2nd ward caucus two weeks ago to succeed J. L. Dworkal, resigned, on the city council, then was read. Mr. Petska stated that due to occurrences since the caucus, of which he had no knowledge when the caucus was held, he would have to refuse to serve as councilman if appointed, and he suggested that 2nd ward voters hold another caucus and select another candidate.

Mayor Cummins told councilmen that he would defer appointment of a councilman until the May 5th meeting to give the 2nd ward opportunity to make another recommendation, and suggested that the 2nd ward hold another caucus in the firemen's hall next Tuesday evening.

Auble have been invited to participate in the "golden spike" celebration being held at Grand Island Thursday in connection with the premier of the movie "Union Pacific." The Grand Island and Central City bands also will play.

This band, says Director Auble, is a new organization, composed of the Burwell community band and graduate players from Ord and North Loup.

A special train from Hollywood bearing Cecil B. DeMille, director of Union Pacific, Joel McCrea, Barbara Stanwyck and other stars from the picture, will arrive at 12:35 and remain about 40 minutes. Grand Island is making great plans for the celebration and attractions will include a stage coach pageant, Indian festival dances, a banquet and a dance.

Cosmopolitans Meet And Entertain Guests

The Ord Cosmopolitan club invited quite a large group of representative business men of Arcadia as their guests at their session on Monday evening at the City Cafe. However, due to the condition of the weather, only one car of men made the trip. Those who came were Otto Baumann, Martin Lewin, Lloyd Bulger and Carl Dietrichs. Following the meal the evening was enlivened by informal talks by all the guests. This is the first of a series of similar meetings planned by the club, in which business men from surrounding towns will be invited as guests.

A CENTURY AND A HALF.

April 30, 1789, George Washington was inaugurated president of the United States, the first man to hold the highest office in our land.

It is apparent that no great effort will be made by any organization or group of organizations to see that the day is properly observed.

Co. "B" Second regiment, Nebraska National Guard was located in Ord at that time, and on April 23, 1889 their commanding officer, Captain S. H. Webster, issued the following order:

"In commemoration of the Centennial of the Inauguration of George Washington as the first president of the United States, it is hereby ordered that company B assemble at the Armory on Tuesday, April 30, 1889, in full dress uniform and under arms, to take part in the general exercises of the day."

"Elsewhere in the paper is printed a program which will be given at the Ord Methodist church at 9 a. m. on that day. In the next issue of the Quiz the following report was printed:

"Tuesday was a red letter day for Ord. The national colors were early flung to the breeze on nearly all business houses. Co. B was out in full colors and straight backs, the band pealed forth martial strains, and business houses were closed in honor of the day.

"The address was an able and eloquent one and called forth a hearty applause. Mr. Stone, reviewed the nation's history, and pointed out the principles upon which the perpetuity of our country must depend. He held the close attention of a packed house.

"It is important to note that 'Mr. Stone pointed out the principles upon which the perpetuity of our country must depend.' Those principles are still in existence, and so is our nation, but we must not lose sight of the fact that the principles and the nation go hand in hand, and that he who strikes at one is also striking at the other.

Changes in government do not come rapidly, although they may seem to do so. The minds of the public undergo a long period of preparation, and then, when the time is ripe, a new regime springs up over night. The only way to prevent that change taking place in the minds of the people is never to lose sight of the basic principles of democratic government.

Economically, educationally and scientifically we have gone far since the day of Washington, but morally and religiously we can hardly be said to have made any progress at all. In education and the sciences we have gone farther in the past fifty years than we did in the first hundred, and we are traveling in these lines at ever increasing speed.

In the hurry of the present let us resolve never to lose sight of the basic principles as laid down by our forefathers. The right of the normal man to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, as guaranteed by the constitution, must not be denied nor abridged. Any infringement upon the rights of the individual is a step in the direction of dictatorship.

OUR BROADENED HORIZONS. In the 135 years following the fall of Yorktown in 1781, it is a remarkable fact that the United States took part in none of the various European conflicts that were going on almost all the time, except when the war was brought to our own doors. We managed to achieve a splendid isolation policy and get away with it.

The war of 1812 was really a hangover from the Revolution, and definitely proved to England that the colonies were free and independent states. The Mexican war was one which belonged to the western hemisphere, and the Civil war was, or should have been, strictly our own conflict. The Spanish-American war was brought on by the destruction of the Maine. In that period of 135 years there was hardly a time when all the greater powers of Europe were at peace, and yet we managed to stay on our own doorstep and let our neighbors do the water settle their own difficulties in their own way. As time went on this isolation policy became increasingly difficult.

In the first hundred years of our national development immigrants were coming to our shores from every country in the world, and we were too busy with our own affairs to worry about what went on elsewhere. In other words, we were largely self-sufficient. When the country became filled with the necessity for foreign trade brought us into more direct contact with European nations.

As our trade interests increased we found it more and more difficult to keep out of foreign difficulties. Our first travel across the continent took nine months; the pony express reduced it to nine weeks; the first railroad cut it to nine days, and now airplanes make the trip in nine hours. Travel across the Atlantic has been reduced in much the same proportion.

In pioneer times neighbors had few difficulties for they were a long distance apart, and there was room for all. But as the population increased and there was a neighbor on every farm, causes for quarreling became more common. While there are still as many miles between Europe and America as ever, modern means of travel has made all nations close neighbors.

Frequently in the past few months we in America have been permitted to listen to the voices of the biggest men of Europe, just as though they lived next door and were talking across the fence, and they, in turn, had the opportunity to listen to the voices of America's ablest statesmen, including the president. Yes, today the whole world is one neighborhood, and as such it must have its neighborhood squabbles.

My Own Column

By Hank Leggett

One of the hard things to do in this country is to have decent lawns. Cooperation of the citizenry would make it easier. Every Tom, Dick and Harry cutting across a lawn makes it much harder to get it and keep it in shape. Thoughtless children are of course the worst offenders but the damage done is not by any means limited to them. Everyone seems to want to take a short-cut, which results in the undoing of the lawn, just as many people wanting to take a short-cut to wealth results in their financial undoing.

I am having to take quite a lot of names off the Quiz list. I dislike to do this, and would not do it if all who are in arrears on their subscription would come in or send in a dollar. Many are doing this, and even if it don't quite pay them up or ahead we will go along with them. When we send notices however, and get no response of any kind, either money or assurance of when they can and will pay, then we have no choice but to take them off the list. If you who are in arrears will cooperate with us we will go along with you on this subscription matter.

I hear stories of various nimrods who go down to the Loup and come home with nice strings of fish and my fishing temperature rises until I just have to go fishing. That happened the other day and I spent an afternoon with Theron Bechrie as guide and neither of us got a nibble. Neither did a dozen other fishermen who were trying their luck. But an afternoon on the river tends to reduce the pressure and it was about as much as an angler would have been had I caught fish. I went down and got a can of sardines for supper.

But I am beginning to count the days until the ice gets out of Cullen Lake and the snowdrifts get melted. Then I plan on going up there to again wet my line in the best fishing lake in Minnesota, bar none. I will have a week's work to do before I can fish anyhow, for the cottages must be cleaned, the batteries set and the light plant got into running order. The season officially opens for pike, bullheads and trout May 15th, but as there will probably still be ice in the lake well into May, the fish will be pretty leggy for a while and it may be close to June before they will really wake up. Some years the pike and pickerel strike good from the time the season opens, but from all reports the season is going to be later than usual up there this year.

"Can't you do something to stop people from borrowing the Quiz?" That is what a Valley county woman said to me the other day. Questioned, she said that for two years her neighbor had borrowed their paper almost every week. "And it is a darned nuisance" she added. You folks, if you knew just how your neighbors feel about it, no matter if they do willingly loan you their copy of the Quiz, you would buy one of your own, for they all resent having to loan theirs. They take it because they want it. Often they only part read it, or one or more members of the family have not had time to read it, before you borrow it. Often you forget to return it or destroy a part of it, or delay returning it until the need of it is past. People should have nerve enough to decline to loan it to you, but most of them hate to refuse a neighbor. So get one of your own and quit putting your neighbor on the spot.

I think everyone should write their congressman and senator and insist that every effort be made to make sure that this country does not get mixed up in the war which is surely coming in Europe. It may come any day. It may be a year or more, but almost all the nations are bending every effort to get ready for a war which they seem to regard as certain to come.

Sometimes I feel that there is a build-up campaign under way in this country right now, preparing the people to demand war. All it will take to fan the flame will be a few bombed American ships, or the killing of a few American citizens abroad. At the end of the next war in which this country is engaged, we will have a depression so bad that the late depression was a holiday in comparison.

Something Different

Brace yourselves, folks, it is time for the annual tall-tales of fishing to start flying about your ears. That's what it means when the weather gets a bit warm, and we get lackadaisical, and the men decide they don't feel well enough to do anything unless it would be go fishing.

I hear Hardenbrook dam is thickly populated with fishpoles, each with a limp man attached to the heaviest end of the pole. Time was when the fishermen had to walk to their fishing, and sometimes the long, dusty hike was enough to make them tired and hot. But now they whiz merrily a-fishing in their cars, fish poles on the side of the machine a dead giveaway to all the world of the pleasure intentions of the men in the car. So I hear Hardenbrook Dam offers has so many cars parked near there that they have trouble getting turned around.

The other day I was told of a fellow who wouldn't live in west Ord for any money, no sir. He wanted to be closer to the river and the dam and the fishing.

Advertising as related to dieting and public psychology tickles me. Since it became so much the vogue to be ever reducing, and practically all our countrymen are working at dieting so much of the time, a big slump has been noticed in the consumption of certain foods.

So now we have advertising campaigns showing how to reduce while eating bread, and some that preach about the necessity of potatoes on any reducing diet. The butter makers duly went to bat for their product, and grapejuice manufacturers continue to show pictures of one-time movie star Irene Rich and insist that you keep slim with their grapejuice.

I love to read the ads but it must be a nightmare to be the person who has to bring forth new ideas for campaigns. For example, there was the big campaign a few years ago for Our Mouthwash felling how it prevented the halitosis which always followed after eating eggs. The advertisements promptly brought forth a big law suit from egg producers associations, and the ads not only had to be withdrawn, but counter-statements published far and wide. I have an idea the poor benighted fellow who thought up those ads has been kept off government relief rolls, if his former employers could manage it!

I wonder when the tag days and sticker sale campaigns will burn themselves out. In our good American way, doing everything bigger and better, we constantly face new Tag Days, new campaigns, even new Weeks.

It is a grand idea to help all those who need it, if we can only do it. No one is more interested in aiding cancer research, or helping the crippled children, those who are tubercular and all the many needy causes than I. But how can this go on? Every week some new drive is launched, perhaps for a home for the Aged Non-Users of Spinach, or possibly to help Flat-footed School Teachers. At any rate, joking aside, the cause is worthy and does need assistance, so we buy a flower, a tag, or a roll of seals.

The United States is so organized, cross-organized, counter-organized, we all have so many interests, work so hard for our own pet list of purposes.

I am glad we have not lost our sense of humor, or what would we do? As long as we have associations that enjoy being known as The Society for the Prevention of Calling Pullman Porters George, the Association for the Study of Rare Epitaphs in Graveyards, Lar's Clubs and many more such, I do not think ideas of anyone similar to Hitler can harm us, do you?

Now let's all get busy and organize a new club!

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT! The Shelter Belt Character Training The Finis

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

The Shelter Belt. Repeating my wife's report of the Inter-County Federation of Women's clubs that met at Arcadia last week, the most outstanding part of the program, she thought, was a talk given by a representative of the shelter belt office in Loup City.

As she understood it, they plan to plant 5,000 miles (of rows) of trees this spring and they now have them nearly half planted. They are also taking few school house grounds to plant trees in.

The plans to be planted, as she understood, are taken in not less than half mile lengths and almost seven rods wide. There are ten rows of trees in each strip and the rows are ten feet apart. The idea of planting these trees is for protection against winds and with a shorter strip than one half mile, the wind would whip around the ends until the value of the shelter would not be worth the cost. These strips of trees are planted on the west and north sides of farms because the prevailing winds are from those directions.

The first row of trees, starting at the north side, is a row of brush to break the wind low down. Plives, chokecherries and Russian Plives are used here. The latter is planted more in low places for this tree does not do so well in higher land.

The second row is a conifer and usually a cedar. A few jack pines and spruce are used, but cedars mostly. The next few rows are the intermediate rows and here are planted trees that do not grow too high, such as the Chinese elm, ash, honey locust, American elm, etc.

The next rows are the dominant trees, the higher ones like the cottonwoods. In front of these again are planted more intermediate trees. The farmer must furnish the land and plow it. He must furnish the material for the fence and agree to keep the livestock away from the trees. He must agree to cultivate the trees. With WPA labor the shelterbelt people furnish the trees and plant them. They also reset the trees that die, and build the fence. It has been estimated that the plan is about a fifty-fifty proposition.

The trees belong to the land owner and he may eventually cut them for fuel or timber or fencing. The farmer may use them as he would his own woodlot with the exception that he cannot sell them, that is he cannot pull them up the next day and sell them for nursery stock.

Character Training. Another interesting part of the program was given under the direction of Mrs. Butts of Burwell when she explained the courtesy and good sportsmanship campaign that is being conducted in that city. The dramatization was of a meeting of the judges.

The observation for winners is carried on for two weeks. Five judges are selected from various organizations of town and each judge presents two names, one for each division, who they consider outstanding. After each judge has presented his candidate, a discussion follows and they make the choice.

Then a short note of award is sent to the one selected informing him or her of the decision and a dollar bill is inclosed with the note. A minimum amount of publicity is given for no one likes to be picked out and held up too high as a winner in this position, but still a person might like a notice in a small way, of the good things he does.

A few of the winners of the past might be interesting. One man's wife was in the hospital, sick unto death. All day folks about town were asking the married man about his wife, but every one, the last and the first, the most important and the most ragged urchin, were given the same polite answer. This man won in that week for courtesy.

Another instance where an award was split was where two boys were competing for the same first honor in a dramatic contest and both boys helped and criticized each other in the training that the other might come nearer winning.

Another lad won a sportsmanship dollar because at a game of marbles he gave his place to a little fellow who could not squeeze into the ring by himself.

The Finis. Besides these two talks, Mrs. Ziegler was president presiding

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Reviewed by CARTER FIELD

Political observers believed Senator Donahey missed a chance of becoming a leading candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination by signing a whitewash report on the TVA. Significance of the gains made by Republicans in the Chicago mayoralty election are being discussed. Need for some plan to revive business is becoming more and more urgent.

WASHINGTON. — Vic Donahey "missed the boat" in the TVA investigation. This is quite a general impression, it can be discovered by questioning political observers in Washington. But the proof lies in the fact that there is simply no discussion of it. One has to bring the subject up, to drag discussion of Donahey in by the ears, so to speak, to obtain opinions. The Ohio senator, so far as Washington is concerned, is the forgotten man.

Now this is an extraordinary situation. It is the case of a man who ignored sen. Donahey one of the easiest avenues to being a real contender for the White House that has presented itself for a generation.

Let's look at the picture. We have President Roosevelt himself, who may be a candidate for a third term, though polls indicate he would not be a strong candidate against a united Republican party. We have Vice President Garner and Secretary of State Cordell Hull, either of whom would be almost ideal if they were a little younger—and Garner just may win despite his 70 years.

Then we have a flock of candidates including Postmaster General James A. Farley, Sen. Champ Bennett Clark of Missouri, and Paul V. McNutt, the Indiana strong man. Farley is a Catholic. Clark is from a state which is generally counted as safely Democratic anyhow, and McNutt, though able and aggressive has lots of enemies in important Democratic delegate gathering circles.

But Donahey is from Ohio! Its 26 electoral votes are vital to Democratic success. Far from being in the bag, it went overwhelmingly Republican last fall, electing Robert A. Taft as senator, John W. Bricker as governor and 15 Republicans as against 9 Democrats to the house.

Donahey Wins Votes in Ohio As No One Else Ever Has. Actually Donahey has demonstrated that he can win votes in Ohio as no other Democrat or Republican ever has. It is not too strong a statement to claim that his runs have never been exceeded, for that matter, in any state in the Union, not even barring the amazing runs of Alfred E. Smith in New York, if one figures proportionately.

Donahey carried Ohio in 1924 by more than 150,000, running on the Democratic ticket. On the same day Calvin Coolidge carried Ohio by more than 690,000. Again, all the power of the Roosevelt administration was not able to nominate Charles West against Donahey for senator in 1934.

Owing nothing to Roosevelt, he refused Jim Farley's demand, made in the presence of half a dozen witnesses, that he accept Roosevelt's nomination at Philadelphia in 1936. Farley just would not stop trying, so Vic finally walked out of the hall.

And on top of all that, as chairman of the TVA investigating committee, Donahey signed an innocuous report by the majority, which is generally regarded as a mere whitewash.

Suppose for a moment that Donahey had made a minority report of his own not agreeing with the three Republican critics on the committee, but insisting that the "yard stick" was a joke. Suppose he had quoted in it what David E. Lilienthal had said about the "advantages" the government enjoyed in producing cheap electricity—low interest, ability to charge off much of the capital cost to navigation, flood control, etc., less cost for taxes, etc.

It would have made front page stories in every newspaper, especially as these statements by Lilienthal never received much attention and were not remembered. Donahey would still be in the limelight.

See Blow to New Deal in Chicago Mayoralty Election. The blow to the New Deal in the Chicago mayoralty election, and its significance with regard to 1940, has not been fully appreciated outside Illinois. It is important not only as indicating the sharp Republican gains that the G. O. P. leaders have been claiming, but as giving the conservative Democrat group considerably more strength.

As far as Republican gains are concerned, it is only necessary to scan the figures for the last few elections in Chicago proper—not including the remainder of Cook county. In 1935 Edward J. Kelly was elected mayor of Chicago by a plurality of 631,954.

In 1936 President Roosevelt rolled up a plurality over Alfred M. Landon in Chicago of 555,886. In 1938 Scott W. Lucas carried Chicago over his Republican senatorial opponent by 255,277. And in 1939 Kelly was re-elected by only 182,410.

Democrats Have Not Kept Pace With Growth of G. O. P. As downstate Illinois is normally Republican, Lucas would have been defeated in 1938 had it not been for his sizable majority in Chicago—it would appear that if the entire state of Illinois had been voting on May 4 there would have been a Republican victory.

This may not mean a thing, but certainly if it does not the statements put out by some Democratic leaders, including the ever optimistic Alben W. Barkley, Democratic leader of the senate, that this spells Democratic victory in 1940, do not either.

It may not mean a thing because no one knows who will be the candidate of either party in 1940, nor precisely what will be the issues. But it is apparent that the Democratic strength in Chicago has not kept pace with the growth of Republican strength since 1935, when it touched high tide.

It is well known among Chicago friends of Kelly in Washington that the mayor expected confidently a majority of not less than 400,000. He was confident that he would make a better showing than Senator Lucas did last fall, though he knew he could not reach his own huge lead in 1935, and he only hoped to approach the Roosevelt 1936 majority.

Need for Some Plan to Revive Business Is Vital. A big, spectacular plan to revive business will be announced by the White House very shortly. Details of what it is to be are being kept closely guarded.

Besides, what is being considered now may not bear much resemblance to the plan when it is finally announced. President Roosevelt has a way of letting his consultants think he is agreeing with them 100 per cent, and then making a decision almost the opposite. So one can never be sure by talking to any particular group that has been urging a plan on the President that their particular plan will be some official. The President may take a plan which was advocated by some other group, or he may work out a compromise from all the plans suggested.

All that is definitely known at the moment, therefore, is that some thing is on the fire, with the object of making business better in the 13 months just ahead. The need for that is vital.

There is no doubt about the President's opinion on this subject. He realizes it is vital. The difficulty does not lie in convincing him of that but in persuading him to agree to moves which are certain to bring about that objective.

Thus the President was thoroughly sold on the idea by Harry L. Hopkins, just before he appointed Hopkins to be secretary of commerce.

Hopkins made no secret of his ideas on the subject, and his intention and plans when he should be secretary of the department which has so much to do with business. He talked frankly and freely to many senators, for example, and his views so expressed were very helpful in bringing about his confirmation by the senate with so little unpleasantness.

Lull in Developments May Be Due to Hopkins' Illness. But Hopkins has been a sick man ever since. Far from overplaying his physical condition, most newspaper accounts have underestimated its seriousness. As this is written it is not at all certain that Hopkins may not have to pay another visit to Rochester.

Whether the lull in developments has been due to the illness of Hopkins, thus giving the left wingers—who do not believe in appeasement though they know the results predicted for it are necessary—a better chance to win the President over, or whether it has been that Hopkins misunderstood the President in the first place about appeasement, no one knows.

But certainly the first step that Hopkins predicted to senators, settlement of the TVA purchases of the privately owned electric properties in Tennessee, came very quickly after he had said he thought it necessary. And right there and then appeasement stopped.

The tax reforms that Hopkins had agreed were necessary were spiked by the President himself. Indignant senators who had talked with Hopkins about it, and then found themselves out on a limb later, have not been able to get a clear understanding of what happened because of Hopkins' illness and absence from Washington.

But one thing is sure. Something new is coming. Whether it will turn the trick, or is even calculated to turn it, remains to be seen.

Furtak, Ord's No. 3, won 2 up from Central City's No. 2 Ayres. Points were: Central City, 4½; Ord 4½. Total score: Central City, 27½; Ord, 27½. TRIPLE-SAFE CONSTRUCTION

FIRESTONE triumphs again! This time with the new Firestone Champion, the tire that sets the safety standards for 1939. This new tire provides a combination of safety features never before built into a tire. It is a completely new achievement in safety engineering.

From the experience gained on the speedways of the world and in the Firestone laboratories, Firestone engineers have developed a revolutionary new type of cord body called Safety-Lock, which provides amazingly greater strength. This outstanding achievement makes possible the use of a thicker, tougher, deeper tread which assures much greater non-skid mileage. Because of this new Safety-Lock Cord body and Gear-Grip tread, the modern streamlined Firestone Champion Tire establishes completely new standards of blowout protection, non-skid safety, silent operation and long mileage.

The Firestone Champion Tire embodies the famous Firestone Triple-Safe construction—you get the exclusive and patented Firestone construction features of Gum-Dipping, two extra layers of Safety-Lock cords under the tread and Gear-Grip tread design. Never in all the history of tire building has there been such a triple-safe combination to protect you against the dangers of blowouts, punctures and skidding.

Faith in the Future...

IN OUR complex economic system the element of faith plays an important part. Workers, farmers, housewives and business men must have faith in their banks when they bring their deposits for safe keeping. Banks must have faith in individuals and enterprises when they advance credit. Business must have faith in the future before it will incur the risks of expansion and development. We believe the renewed faith and sincere cooperation on the part of all classes and groups of people will carry our country to new heights of abundance and well being.

North Loup

Written by Mrs. Ethel Hamer

Thursday the Butter Krust man stopped in North Loup as usual and went across the street to the Ideal Cafe to make a delivery. When he returned to his truck he was surprised to see a pheasant trying to get in the door at the Barz store. He remembered that he had thought he hit a pheasant some distance down the road but saw no more of it. The bird seemed stunned and was caught easily. Mr. Barz put it in a box in the basement and the next day as he went to the country turned it loose again. Watching after his release Mr. Barz says the bird looked surprised, raised his wings and flew as far as he could see. More than likely he was caught on the bumper of the truck but was not hit hard enough to be fatally injured.

When a child of three years, the family moved westward by covered wagon to Valley county, where a farm was purchased near North Loup, a new home established and the family of children raised. Maud attended the school in District 42, finishing, she attended North Loup high school and Peru State Normal, where she prepared herself for teaching, which profession she followed for a number of years, teaching in Sherman and Valley counties and one year in Idaho. In 1900 with her parents and sister, a most unusual summer was spent traveling in a covered wagon drawn and two young males, not drawn and but on pleasant sightseeing trip through the great plains region and the Rocky mountains, enjoying the mountain scenery and touring the Yellowstone Park, visiting relatives on the western slope of Colorado and Idaho. The return was made by train. While teaching near Elyria in Jan., 1911, her father became very ill and she resigned her school, never to return to teaching. She devoted herself to the care of her father, who remained an invalid till his death in 1929 and since his death she has been the constant companion of her aged mother. Responding to the call of Christ when thirteen she united with the Presbyterian church and when the church in North Loup closed, transferred her membership to the Methodist church, remaining in its fellowship till her death. A charter member of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society. For many years secretary of Sunday school, and a member of the official board she was always faithful. Always ready for any act of kindness, her last act was one for someone else which ended in tragedy. A deplorable accident, a few moments of consciousness with her last words of her mother and her spirit was gone forever to be with her Saviour and Redeemer. There remain, her aged mother, her brother, Claud, a sister, Mrs. Isabelle Creager of North Loup, and a sister, Mrs. Florence Holman of Salem, Ore. 27 nieces and nephews, 37 grand nieces and nephews besides a host of other relatives and friends. ## Sound Pictures, Came to Ord 10 Years Ago, New Ord Theatre, Finest in Valley, in 1931

Ord people are proud of the theatre, which is the finest in the Loup valley region and perhaps best in Nebraska for a city of this size.

Ord's first sound pictures came just ten years ago, when Bill Niculand, then manager of the Ord Theaters, advertised them in the Quiz. The first sound picture, or "talkie," shown here was "A Woman of Affairs," with John Gilbert and Greta Garbo. The sound picture industry has gone a long way since that time, and nobody ever sees the silent films any more.

This is a fitting time to go back into the annals of the past and see when this movie proposition first started in Ord, and how it has developed. Some forty years ago we had picture shows, which would compare favorably with the advertising slides shown at the present time. The projector was called a stereopticon, and the average 25c show had about a hundred slides with a lecture to match.

It is difficult to go back in the records and find just when the first motion pictures arrived in Ord, but the early films were composed of reels of about one thousand feet each, which took about 20 minutes to show. Three of these reels comprised a show. Most of the early shows did not run more than a single reel, and sometimes there were two or three subjects on a single reel.

The first motion pictures were put out with a lecture, and a man with a good voice stood up beside the screen and told the spectators what it was all about. The lecture was planned for a voice of average speed, and sometimes the speaker lagged behind, or if he was especially glib of tongue, he often got ahead, and in either case the result was ridiculous.

Thirty years ago the motion picture industry was well grounded in Ord, with one theater busy right along, and another cutting in on the business from time to time. At that time there were no regulations in regard to fireproofing the booth, and when the film caught fire, which it sometimes did, the film, the booth, and sometimes even the building was destroyed.

It was not far from that time that F. J. Bell first made his debut in the motion picture industry. He advertised his shows by the well-known ballyhoo method, driving around the square shouting thru a megaphone: "Three Thousand Feet of Motion Pictures Will be Shown at the Theater Tonight." He often embellished his announcements with preaves of what the show was to be about.

As time went on the serial made its appearance, and also the story that was so long it required several reels to tell all about it. Also the idea of flashing explanatory paragraphs ahead of the pictures was developed. The early habit of having to stop the show while the reels were being changed was overcome by the use of two projection machines.

Those early day machines were turned by hand, and the action could be either fast or slow, depending on the tempo of the operator. If he got tired toward the close of the show he would turn so fast that it was almost impossible to follow the action, and a change of pace made the actions of the actors very ridiculous indeed.

The first shows were run through a single time, and if you got there late, you simply lost out on the early part of the film. After a time it occurred to some smart man to run the pictures through twice and thus increase the income. The earliest types of machines were equipped to use gas for lighting, which of course increased the danger of fire.

In the early twenties sound effects began to be used. Before that time a pianist played in the front of the theater, and on special occasions the owner of the place hired an orchestra. The sound effects were produced mostly by the drummer, who imitated horses trotting and similar sounds by the use of his drumsticks.

The first color films were produced by painting each picture by hand, which was a very slow and expensive process, and it was difficult to produce the true color values. The development of technicolor is the latest outstanding achievement of the motion picture industry and adds greatly to the attractiveness of scenic pictures.

F. J. Bell was not the first man in the motion picture industry in Ord, but it is difficult to find the names of his predecessors. Following in the Gem Theater were Marie Goodhand, Gibson & VanVleet, Lue Larimer, John Ulrich and Joe Sedlacek, Harry McBeth, and M. Biemond. Also connected with the industry in the Wentworth building was W. L. Ramsey, Stanley Bell and others.

at the Congregational church parlor. Immediately after, a very good program was given in the church. Of worth while mention, was two readings given by Mrs. Clara Easterbrook, who is 84 years of age, May 12. One reading was given standing and the other she was seated. She is at present memorizing another, and none of the readings are short. Several other readings were given and enjoyed, vocal solos, a violin duet by Dixie Clark and Helen Vancura, accompanied at the piano by Vivian Pester.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Spencer and Joyce visited his parents in Scotia Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Walford visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Sawyer Sunday.

Mrs. D. O. Hawley and Mrs. Augusta Christiansen were hostesses to the Congregational Aid Thursday afternoon of this week.

The program was presented in the Little Theatre at Hastings Sunday afternoon. Carl has a contract for the Blue Hill school, about 20 miles south of Hastings, as their music instructor.

Achievement Day for the Arcadia home demonstration project clubs was held in the M. E. church building Monday evening, April 24. Mrs. Fred Stone, group chairman, Miss Dolsie Waterman, county chairman. The project year extends from September until April. The program included group singing led by Mrs. Kermit Erickson, Mrs. Harold Weddel, pianist; a musical review, Life's Journey with Music, Mrs. Charles Weddel, reader, was very much enjoyed by all and presented talent and careful arrangement. Charlie McCarthy act, Luella Stone, Reading playlet, Out of the Books we Read, given by members of the six local clubs, and reading by Ura Stone, were good. C. C. Dale, County Agricultural Agent gave a brief history of the project clubs work. Miss Verma Glantz, county extension agent presented the leadership recognition. Demonstration booth exhibits of the six local clubs were well arranged with the year's work, including business procedure a home-maker should know, money management, repair of clothing and household linens, and storage of clothing. The room was crowded with guests and a well spent evening.

Wantz of Orchard, Nebr., former pastor of the bride, officiated. Miss Edith Jeffries, friend of the bride served as bridesmaid, and Marvin Wilson was best man. Mr. Rowbal graduated from the Ord schools, class of 1935, and is at present employed by the Noll Seed company. Mr. and Mrs. Rowbal will be at home in an apartment at 219 South 19 street, Ord. Announcement of the marriage was made at a party Thursday evening, April 20, at the home of the bride's parents. Twenty-four were present and spent the evening playing games. The announcement was made by passing a basket of pink rosettes with scrolls attached. A three tier cake baked by the bride's sister, Mrs. Clyde Baker, with a miniature bride and groom, was the centerpiece for the table, with pink and white candles lighting the room. A lovely bouquet of pink and white carnations added to the color scheme. Delicious refreshments of brick ice cream were served at the close of the evening.

Fourth Birthday.
Miss Sharon Lee Hoyt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hoyt, had her fourth birthday April 22, and in honor of the occasion her mother invited a group of her little friends in to help her celebrate Monday afternoon. Deciding that there would be more room and a better opportunity for enjoyment at the Onyx, they drove to town, where they spent the evening in having a dance and a lunch. Not the least part of the entertainment by any means were several songs sung for the occasion by Joe Turek, whose talent in vocalizing is well known.

A lovely basket supper was served at 6:30, following which V. H. Russell, county commander, called the meeting to order and called upon Mr. Webbert for a talk. He spoke briefly on the high lights of Legion activities, including Boys' State, the arbor day program and grave registration. Dr. Taylor spoke briefly when called upon. Preceding the business session Kendall Wiegardt amused and mystified the group by seemingly impossible tricks of sleight of hand. Since it was Burwell's turn to handle the county convention, it was voted to leave it to the post there to handle the situation, selecting their own county officers from their number.

The Ord Rebekahs met in regular session Tuesday evening. Practice was had on the work for the district meeting at North Loup. One of the typical types of disease results from this invasion of the body by virulent germs that have gotten under the skin, is what the people commonly call "blood poisoning". As a matter of fact this is not a good name for this disease as I shall show you.

BLONDES PREDOMINATED. Nebraska ranchers, say research workers of the Federal Writers' Project, WPA, must have been considered good marital risks in 1904. When an Omaha minister put a little story in the newspaper saying that he wanted to find a bride for a ranchman who had 1,000 acres of land and 3,000 head of cattle, he was swamped with letters from marriageable women.

Modern Nebraskans are used to highly refined flours and meals made by well equipped mills. Early settlers, however, say research workers of the Federal Writers' Project, WPA, got along with simpler machinery and coarser products. Territorial pioneers, who often used coffee grinders to crack corn and wheat, doubtless considered the crudest grist mills an improvement upon their hand operated devices.

Saturday was Arbor Day and everyone was to plant a tree but the boss and son of this ranch have been occupied for some time setting out several hundred cedars, ash, elm, Chinese elm, mulberries, cherries and grapes. On account of insufficient moisture in the soil most of these had to be watered as they were being planted which was quite a task. Several farmers have set out windbreaks the last few years with fair success. Especially Lew Vancura, sr., who has acquired a very nice thrifty little grove of Chinese elm by planting a few each year. The Chinese elm do quite well with small amount of moisture, its worst enemy being the rabbit. Joe Waldmann, Paul and Raymond and Mildred were Sunday afternoon callers at Frank Wegrzyn's. Jos. Holoun, our assessor, was busy at his official work in the township last week. Miss Edith Placnik is staying with her aunt, Mrs. Frank Parkos this week. We have been selling this kind of hosiery for a long time. You can examine it with a microscope and find only perfection. We were "fussy" about a name for this hosiery—a name expressive of sheer, ringless beauty and the way they cling like a shadow to leg and ankle. At last we found a name that clicked—SILHOUETTE! Only the name is new. The hosiery is the same long wearing beautiful stockings that have grown so amazingly in the esteem of our customers. Now—you can ask for them by name. FREE! A lovely shade in an effect of rose overlaid over old gold, or like ashes of roses held in a fragile urn. There is a spark of vigor in its brownish red tone reminiscent of cinnamon bark color in grandmother's kitchen. The rich, coppery glow is slightly deeper in reddish tinge than cinnamon. A grand color for street use. What "Gauge" and "Strand" Mean "Gauge" refers to the number of threads in the circumference of the hosiery. Our various gauges have the maximum number of needles. This assures you of quality and the wear you have a right to expect from hosiery properly "gauged." Silk, from which hosiery is knit, is in single strands. When two of these strands are twisted into a thread, the stocking knit with it is called a 2-strand. The higher the thread count, the heavier the stocking and the longer the wear. Isabella Brown Allen, second child of Matthew and Ida Davis Brown was born at Roseland, Adams County, Nebraska, November 25, 1896, and died at Barnes hospital, St. Louis, Mo., April 18, 1939, her death occurring following the fourth operation for the removal of a brain tumor from which she had been a sufferer for three years. She was 42 years, 4 months and 23 days old at the time of her death. When she was two years of age the family moved to the locally near North Loup known as Davis Creek and there her education began. After completing the eighth grade at Pleasant Hill school she attended the North Loup high school and Milton College, Milton, Wis. She taught successfully a number of years, one year in the North Loup high school. August 9, 1918, just prior to his leaving for service in the World War she was united in marriage to Franklin Allen at North Loup which became the family home, and here the two sons were born, Carroll, a student in Milton

College and Gordon, a junior in the Farina, Ill., high school. The family have resided in Lincoln, where Mr. Allen received his Agricultural course, at Arnold and Litchfield, where he taught and where Mrs. Allen was substitute teacher, for eleven years, and in Farina, Ill., where they moved three years ago. Wherever the family lived Mrs. Allen took an active part in civic and religious activities. She was a member of the Eastern Star, was past president of the American Legion Auxiliary, her membership and service being recognized the day of her funeral by the display of the colors draped over her casket, and an active member of the Woman's Missionary society of the Farina, Ill. Seventh Day Baptist church of which church she was a member at the time of her death. She maintained a lively interest in school work and insisted on attending the class play in which her son Gordon had a part, the night before her departure for her final operation. Prior to the operation which resulted in her death she had suffered an attack of the flu which greatly weakened her resistance and the operation, always accompanied with danger to life, though successful for the first time in that all of the tumor was removed, was too great a shock for her tired body and without recovering from the anesthetic, she quietly slipped away. Preceding her death she had her father, Matthew Brown, and her brother Edmund. Surviving, besides the husband and two sons are her mother, Mrs. Ida Brown, three brothers, Alex, Eugene and Stanley all of North Loup, five nephews, sixteen nieces and many other relatives and friends. Garlic-Parsley an Aid in HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE
Medical reports say that Garlic-Parsley concentrate has a double action in reducing high blood pressure. First, it causes the dilation of arteries. Second, it checks or inhibits decomposition of waste matter in the bowels, a contributory cause of high blood pressure. To get concentrated garlic and parsley in odorous, tasteless form, ask for ALLMIN. These tablets, used at regular intervals, aid in reducing blood pressure and relieving headache and dizziness caused by excessively high readings. To learn what raises your blood pressure and for medical treatment consult your doctor. ALLMIN is for sale by all druggists. Large box, 50c. Special economy size, $1.00.

QUIZ FORUM

Believes in Grain Sorghums.
To the Ord Quiz:
Several people have inquired about the sorghums for dairy feeds. At Jersey Home Farm we gave it a good try-out in the past year. The spring of 1933 we put out 40 acres of sorghum for fodder, planted from 5 to 9 lbs to the acre, with a lister. We tended it the same as corn, had five varieties on the 40 acres, the Sumac and Orange varieties were the best and the stock appeared to like them better than the Atlas or the old time Black Amber. The Grohoma was a joke. The cows produced fairly well on this feed with some cut corn fodder and barley straw for a change, but to get results we had to feed cotton cake or soybean meal to supply the protein. We had a field of grain sorghums besides the 40 acres of fodder. It made three times as much to the acre as the field corn beside it and when fed (it was Sooner Milo) ground to the dairy cows did equally as well as cornmeal. While the cows do not do as well on this feed as they did on alfalfa hay and cornmeal it is a very good substitute, if we can't have the alfalfa, which I can't since 1934 on account of the drouth and hoppers. In the old days before 1934 with sweet clover and alfalfa and cornmeal the cows produced 35 to 45 pounds of milk per day. The daughters of these cows now on our sorghum feed and any kind of pasture, and sometimes not any on account of hoppers, produce about 30 to 40 pounds per day. The hoppers ate all our sweet clover and rye pasture last season. While the sorghum did fairly well for us we can't be sure of them until they have a further trial. But from the past year's experience I think they will help over the drouth and the hopper years until we can again grow alfalfa and sweet clover. I am following out very nearly the same plan for this season as last. I sent for a few pounds of field peas last season and planted them for a trial. The hoppers ate the garbanzo and potatoes and pumpkin and squash vines and all our soybeans but left about one-half the field peas. They looked so good in spite of hopper and drouth I will plant an acre of them this year for an experiment and if they come up to expectations a lot more next season, for they are claimed to take the place of alfalfa in the dairy ration. If they turn out as claimed for them I will tell you about it next season. If they go like most of experiments I won't say anything about them. I hope they will become as popular as sweet clover did. I claimed I was the fellow who brought sweet clover to Central Nebraska. I got enough cussing for it to claim the honor if there is any. I was told I should be jailed and hung for introducing a weed like sweet clover into Valley county. Ten years later three-fourths of the farmers were sowing it. When the wet years came again which they surely will we will likely see a lot of it again, used for pasture and fertilizer.

Water Flows Down Taylor-Ord Canal, Into New Park Lateral Friday, but Underdrain Washes Out

In the upper picture is shown the series of concrete drops constructed at Bassell park as a WPA project with L. Berger as supervisor, this photo being taken Friday afternoon just as water from the Taylor-Ord canal reached the park. A group of city officials and irrigation board employees were on hand to watch the demonstration. But something went wrong a few moments later, as pictured below. An underdrain on No. 11 highway west of the W. H. Barnard home washed out. Here Watermaster Walford and an assistant are shown in an attempt to plug the break with sandbags filled by General Manager Wareham. The attempt was unsuccessful and water had to be shut down above the break. Repairs to the underdrain haven't yet been made so the canal through the park is dry again.
