Allen Zikmund Sets Two New Records at Central City Meet Last Friday.

Coach H. F. Brockman's Ord high athletes walked away with major honors at Central City Friday as Allen Zikmund broke two of the existing records and the relay team of Zikmund, Stoddard, Dahlin and Hurlbert established another. It was the occasion of the Nebraska Central college invitational meet and nineteen teams were in the competition.

For Ord Zikmund collected a total of 24 1/2 points to outpoint the two teams, McCool Junction and Bradshaw, each of which made 15 points to tie for second place. Lord, McCool's one man team, or rather, the only man on his team that placed in competition, took second individual honors with 13 points. Central City took fourth place with 13 1/2 points.

It was the best showing Ord has made this spring, with her athletes taking more points than the teams in second, third and fourth place made all together. The meet was sponsored jointly by the college and the Central City Commercial club, and was sanctioned by the N.H.S.A., making it a qualifying meet for state championships.

18 Tractors Plow in Single Field on Thead Miller Farm

Arcadia—(Special)—The unusual sight of eighteen tractors plowing in a single field was seen on the Thead Miller farm near here Friday. Neighbors gathered and plowed eighty acres of land for Mr. Miller, who has been ill with cancer of the throat. After treatment in an Omaha hospital he is at home but is still unable to eat solid food.

Plowing was done in three fields but at one time all eighteen machines were working in one field.

The ladies served a bountiful dinner for the tractor drivers at the noon hour.

Barbara Stanwyck, Cecil DeMille, Greet Crowds

At least 200 Ordites, and many more than that number from adjacent communities, were in the crowd of 30,000 that greeted the movie special trail at Golden Spike day at Grand Island last Thursday. Here Barbara Stanwyck, film star, is shown waving to the big crowd from the back of the train. Behind her stands Cecil DeMille, the famous director. The Ord high school band and the Loup Valley band played for the Grand Island celebration.

Valley County Spellers Attend Regional Contest

Miss Clara McClatchey and Miss Dorothy Campbell, North Loup teacher, took Misses Marian Maxson and Joan Barber of North Loup and Miss Mickey Kokes of Ord to the inter-state contest at Sioux City Friday, May 28. They left Ord Thursday noon.

About 200 spellers were in the competition there, which was a severe test for the spellers. Miss Maxson made a very good showing, missing only two words out of the first two hundred in written competition. However, this was enough to put her out of the running for the final competition. Miss Kokes was also in this contest.

The words Miss Maxson missed were "indelible" which she spelled with two "i"s, and "sardonic," which she misunderstood and spelled "sardonix." From Sioux City they went to Omaha Saturday, where Miss Barber entered the World-Herald contest in competition with 140 other spellers.

In this contest the high 19 were awarded prizes, and it was Miss Barber's hard luck to land in twentieth place, just outside the winning column. However, she realized her two ambitions in Omaha, to see Joslyn Memorial and to see Poster May's "Man On The Street."

She hoped to get to talk with him, but she got in line just too late.

Ord Boy Scouts Went On Over Night Hike

A group of Boy Scouts under the direction of Scoutmaster Rex Jewett went on an over night hike Friday evening, returning early Saturday morning. They went out to the Mortensen place north of Ord, where the boys passed a number of scout tests, including cooking and fire building.

The boys in attendance were Elton Walker, Warren Allen, Paul Covert, Henry Adams, Richard Hoyt, Bob Haught and David Milliken. The boys are making plans for the public court of honor, that is to be held in Ord at the high school auditorium Monday, May 15 at 8 p. m. There will be a fine program and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Alvin Spelts Hurt In Fishing Accident

Alvin Spelts of Loup City, well known in Ord and Burwell, met with a serious accident when he fell off the Loup river bridge near St. Paul last Tuesday while fishing. With Mr. Spelts was his cousin Art Spelts, who did not see him fall but heard the splash when he hit the water, and fished him out of the river.

Alvin had apparently struck the bridge in falling, and was unconscious when taken out of the water. He was taken to St. Paul for medical attention. It was at first thought he had some broken ribs, but it was disclosed later that he was only badly bruised. He was taken home where he spent several days in bed recuperating.

Judge Overrules Lee's Motions

Judge E. P. Clements, at a brief hearing in district court Tuesday morning, overruled a motion filed by Alvin B. Lee in the Lee-Misko election contest. Mr. Lee had asked that the entire case be dismissed on the ground that Misko's bond, filed in county court, was faulty because sureties were not justified. Judge Clements ruled no justification necessary.

The case will now go to trial on the basis of evidence, but no date has been set since Judge Clements is getting a judge from another district to hear the case and his convenience will be consulted.

Irrigation Will Be Demonstrated On Geweke Farm

A. Molenaar to Be Here Next Tuesday for Another of the Irrigation Schools.

C. C. Dale, county agent, announces that arrangements have been completed for an irrigation demonstration on the Archie Geweke farm one mile north and one mile west from the corner of Bussell park, Tuesday, May 9. This is the farm formerly known as the Pete Andersen place.

The demonstration will be under the direction of A. Molenaar of the agricultural extension service. Mr. Molenaar has conducted irrigation schools in Valley county in the past, and is quite well known here. His ability along the line of irrigation is unquestioned.

One feature of the demonstration will be the border method of irrigation for alfalfa. Mr. Geweke will have the borders prepared and the ground ready for seeding. Experience has proven this the only practical method of irrigating for alfalfa.

Another method of irrigation to be demonstrated will be the furrow method in land that has been blank listed in preparation for planting to corn. This method is recommended where subsoil moisture is low in order that the plants may develop a proper root system, which is necessary for high yields.

Most plants use moisture to a depth of 5 or 6 feet, and unless there is moisture present at this depth a complete root system will not be developed, since plants do not develop roots in dry soil. The demonstration will be in progress the entire day, and visitors will be welcomed at any time.

Three Fine Ord Boys Were Rotary Guests

Three of the finest and most accomplished of Ord high school boys were guests of the Ord Rotary club Monday evening, the three being Eugene Puncocar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Puncocar, Dick Koupal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Koupal, and Allen Zikmund, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zikmund.

Eugene and Dick, both of whom won high ratings at the district music contest recently, played solos Eugene performing on the clarinet with piano accompaniment by Dick, and Dick performing on the baritone horn with Eugene playing his accompaniment. They also were quizzed by Dr. F. A. Barta, club president, about their future plans and ambitions. Allen, who won the Central City track meet for Ord last week by scoring 24 1/2 points, more than were scored by any of the 22 other teams competing, also was questioned by Dr. Barta. Eugene and Dick expect to study music at college next year while Allen will enter university with the idea of becoming a coach.

Other features on the Rotary club's program Monday were reports on the district conference held at Grand Island last week, Dr. Barta and E. C. Leggett giving the reports.

Wilbur Fuss From Future Farmer to State Farmer

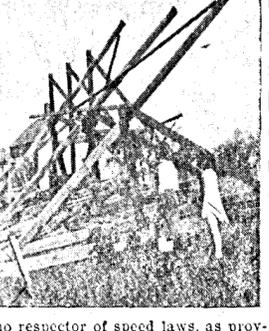

Twenty six young Nebraska farmers were advanced Friday from the rank of Nebraska Future Farmers of America to State Farmer. These awards are given annually at the Future Farmers organization meeting on the basis of scholastic averages, extra curricular activities, knowledge of agricultural subjects and farm work projects.

Wilbur Fuss, son of Mrs. Louie Fuss of Mira Valley, is farming on the farm of his grandfather, Dave Bredthauer, south of North Loup, and is doing a mighty good job of it. He graduated from the Ord high school two years ago. It gives the quiz great pleasure to be able to announce that Mr. Fuss was one of the 26 young men chosen to be State Farmer.

Blessing New Head Board of Education

Ord's new board of education met last week and organized for the coming year, Dr. F. L. Blessing being elected president to succeed Dr. C. J. Miller, whose place on the board is taken by O. E. Johnson. The new vice-president is L. D. Milliken and Ralph W. Norman was reelected secretary.

Big Wind No Respector of No. Loup Speed Law

The big wind of last week was no respecter of speed laws, as proved by this picture at North Loup. Swooping into town at an estimated 40 miles an hour it tore down a big sign on the west outskirts of the village, even though a state speed sign adjacent to it clearly specified 20 miles per hour as the legal limit.—Birmingham photo.

Two Ord Students to National Music Contest

Old Settlers Will Picnic At Burwell Park, June 18

The Loup Valley Historical society at a meeting held at Burwell recently extended an invitation to the old settlers of the valley to hold their annual picnic at Burwell this year. The committee of the Old Settlers' association, favor the acceptance of the invitation, and so the annual meeting will be held there, June 18.

This is a tentative arrangement and subject to alterations if such should prove expedient, but the time and place will be determined definitely and announced in the papers of the North Loup valley soon. It was voted two years ago to meet permanently at Ord, but the committee feels that there is no good reason for not accepting the above invitation.

Ord Legionnaires Plant Trees in Cemetery Plot

Due to the fact that the trees were not available on Arbor Day, and also to the fact that the season is late this spring, the Ord Legion post did not do their planting at the usual time. The trees were available Monday and a group of men went to the cemetery plot and replaced the dead trees there with new ones.

Jim Gilbert, C. D. Wardrop and Joe Gregory were the committee in charge of the work, and they were assisted by a group of Legion men who were able to get away from their other duties. Twenty fine Chinese elm trees were planted, and if the season is favorable, it is hoped that they will all live and make a fine growth this season.

Opera Star Praises Virginia Sack's Voice

Lincoln, Neb.—Describing Miss Virginia Sack's ability to sing high notes as "a precious gift that should be well trained," Rose Hampton, Metropolitan Opera star, who gave the Ord girl an audition at Ames, Ia., recently, requested that she keep in touch with her this summer. The University of Nebraska Teachers College freshman was given the audition because she possesses the rare talent of a four-octave range.

The New York artist encouraged Miss Sack to study with the best of teachers, and asked the Ord girl to let her know with whom she expects to study. For her audition Miss Sack sang Schubert's "Ave Maria." Following her concert program at Ames, Miss Hampton spent considerable time with the University coed. Besides listening to the Nebraska girl sing, Miss Hampton played some of her accompaniments and sang with her.

Mrs. Haller came for him and they left Ord shortly before noon Wednesday. The cause of the accident is not known here, but it is known that Mr. Haller suffered a crushed chest and other injuries and is in a very serious condition.

United Front For Methodist Church

April 26 at Kansas City, Mo., the Methodist Uniting Conference began the task of setting up administrative machinery for a church of nearly 8,000,000 members. It was estimated that the task would take about three weeks. The conference is the first official gathering of the union of the Methodist Episcopal, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant churches under the name "The Methodist Church."

The new church is divided into six jurisdictional conferences, five of them based on geographical regions and the sixth including all Negro conferences and overlapping the others geographically. The bishops at work in foreign lands, four in number, will be continued in their present work until the General Conference meets.

The groups which formed the Methodist Protestant church separated officially from the Methodist Episcopal church in 1828 in protest over alleged autocratic power of the bishops. The Methodist Episcopal Church, South was formed in 1845 after a split in 1844 over the question of slavery. For over 70 years unification has been talked and urged, the last vote being in 1924. The vote in May 1938, carried by large majorities in all three branches.

94 Inch of Rain Fell Tuesday Eve

Following a long period of dry weather, and two days of strong east wind, this section was visited by a fine rain last night in which 94 of an inch of rain fell at Ord. Reports from other places show that the rain was fairly general, although all other places report a lighter fall than here.

Burwell reported .19 of an inch, Elyria slightly less than 1/2 inch, and North Loup .60 of an inch. Cuckler Bros., who went to Broken Bow last night, report a three hour rain there, and a rain fully as heavy as at Ord all the way along the road. The rain was also heavy in the Turtle Creek section and the sand flats to the northeast.

No hail was reported anywhere and no damaging winds, although the wind blew quite hard at times. Reports show that the soil is wet to a depth of as much as six inches in places.

The radio today noon carried the story of a rainfall of five inches at Danneberg last night. Turkey Creek was out of its banks, and many of the basements in Danneberg were flooded. It was noted by observers last night that heavy lightning continued in that direction for fully two hours after the rain had ceased here.

JOHN MATZNER DEAD

Dave Haught received a telegram Tuesday telling him of the death of his uncle, John Matzner, who had been living for some years at Ivanhoe, Minn. Hawthorne of Arcadia was in to visit him Sunday. The Hawthornes were in Ord that day visiting at the A. J. Meyer home.

Flynn and Hansen Selected Tuesday at Second Caucus

Rainy Night Cut Attendance but About 35 Voters at 2nd Ward Caucus.

Clifford Flynn and Jim Hansen were the choice of about 35 voters of Ord's second ward at a caucus held Tuesday evening in the city hall, and their names were submitted to Mayor M. B. Cummins for appointment to the city council. By the terms of a motion adopted by the caucus, Mayor Cummins may appoint either one he prefers and, if that man is not confirmed by the council, may appoint the other man recommended.

The heavy rain of Tuesday evening cut attendance at the caucus greatly. E. L. Vogeltanz served as chairman and appointed Miss Eunice Chase secretary.

There were three nominees, Hansen, Flynn and Harold Hallen. On the first ballot, with citizens voting for two, Flynn received 17 votes, Hansen 15 and Hallen 8. On the next ballot, with citizens voting only for one, Flynn got 14 and Hansen 6.

At the next council meeting an attempt will be made to seat another second ward councilman to succeed Joe L. Dworak, resigned.

Mrs. McBeth Granted Temporary Alimony

At a district court hearing held Thursday with Judge E. G. Kroger presiding, in the divorce action of Mrs. Rosalie McBeth v. Lyle McBeth, the defendant was ordered to pay his wife temporary alimony in the amount of $60 monthly, until the case comes up for trial. Mr. McBeth also was ordered to keep up the payments on the $35 per month, and confirmed Mrs. McBeth in possession of the home for the present.

Judge Kroger inquired quite extensively into the salary Mr. McBeth earns as a mail carrier, and the expense of operating his car, before fixing the temporary alimony.

Group in NYA Project Reseeds Courthouse Lawn

Plans were recently completed for the reseeding of the courthouse lawn through the NYA by the area director, Leland Barrett, and for the past week a group of young men have been busy in this work. At the present time the work is well advanced and will soon be completed.

Due to the fact that in the past few years the public has been permitted to walk across the lawn during band concerts and at other times, the habit will doubtless be hard to break when the concerts start this year. However, a little thoughtfulness on the part of the public should protect the growing lawn from damage.

Farmers Guests Of Chamber on May 11

In accordance with plans made at the last meeting, the Ord chamber of commerce will invite the farmers as guests May 11, at which time sand films furnished by the state fish and game commission will be shown. A. J. Kovanda has made necessary arrangements, and the films will be available at that time. A more complete program will appear next week.

Bert Boquet Hopes to Hear Lukesh Play "2 Canaries"

Some time ago B. C. Boquet wrote Joe Lukesh at Grand Island requesting that the orchestra play a popular Bohemian piece called "Two Canaries." He did not hear his selection dedicated, so Monday he took more drastic action. He got a carton about two feet high and 1 1/2 feet square which he prepared with the greatest care.

He put on labels saying "Do Not Crush" and "This End Up," and put directions on the top in Yiddish, Bohemian, Polish and Slovak, all reading the same, "Drink More Water." In Chinese he had written, "See Directions Inside." In large letters across the top he wrote the words "Musical Instruments" and addressed it to Joe Lukesh, Orchestra, KMMJ, at Grand Island, Neb.

Inside the box was a neat little bird cage fastened to a square of cardboard, and in this cage were the "Two Canaries" each on a perch of its own, with bird seed in a container on the side. On the roof of the cage is written in Bohemian, "This is the song that is requested." The package was mailed to Joe Monday afternoon, and the piece may be played before this is printed.

TRANSIENT POPULATION.

This idea of traveling about the country, making your home wherever you may happen to be when night overtakes you, is as old as mankind. In earliest Bible times we find that this mode of life was a matter of necessity, since many earned their livelihood as shepherds and found it necessary to move about to find pasture for their flocks.

We find the same idea prevailed to a greater or less extent among all primitive peoples who were so located that they had a large extent of country over which to roam. In America the Indians were a typical example, as they traveled over a large territory, most of them having a more permanent location for their camps in winter.

It is easy to understand why the less civilized races should take to this mode of life. They had to keep moving about to follow their flocks or to find a supply of wild game. Because they had very few personal belongings, it was a simple matter for them to prepare for a journey. Also, people who did not depend upon farming for a living did not have to wait for the crops to mature.

Perhaps the most remarkable nomadic tribes in the world both in the past and the present are the gypsies, who have roamed the lands of Europe almost since the dawn of history, and who still continue to do so. Transplanted to America and to other lands, they continued their nomadic habits, and their tribal customs and manner of dress has not changed materially with the passage of time.

That primitive impulse inherent in the human race keeps cropping out from time to time. For example, it was that desire to roam that brought our forebears to the western country in their covered wagons drawn by sturdy oxen. In this it served a useful purpose, since the western trend of civilization would have been much slower if the people had waited for more convenient methods of reaching the west.

With the coming of the auto, and especially with the invention of the trailer, the nomad has again come into his own. The car and trailer method solves the problem of traveling about and seeing America without too much expense. Today a man may buy a good car and a deluxe trailer for about what a good car sold for twenty years ago, and he achieves a saving in rent.

The present depression has done more to make the American public trailer conscious than any one other cause. Many a man, faced with the necessity of moving to some other part of the country in search of work, found that his only method of traveling and taking them all into a car and trailer and start out down the highway.

No town of any size today is complete without a trailer camp, and during the fair weather they are liberally patronized. The modern trailer comes equipped with everything to be desired, and the only thing necessary is to connect up with city light to have all the light, heat and power needed in the model trailer home.

The appeal of the trailer life is so strong that there are many families in America today where the children know no other home than the trailer. Whether this is the better mode of life or not, it is certain that it is the healthier. As time goes on the number of trailer families increase, making new and different problems with which the authorities must cope.

There seems to be no end to the possibilities of trailer existence. It has been estimated that, if the number of trailer families continues to increase, in a short time fully ten percent of the people of the United States will have no settled place of abode, but will be traveling about the country wherever the exigency of circumstances takes them. With ten percent of the people escaping taxation the other nine tenths will have to dig that much deeper to make up the deficit.

THE FEAR OF WAR.

It is not the purpose of this editorial to criticize the speech made by Adolph Hitler Thursday morning, since the text of the speech has been made public and it must stand on its own merits. But in that speech a number of points stand out which are of vital interest to the world, and they are certainly important enough to be enlarged upon.

In his reply Hitler said: 'In reply to this it must be said that the fear of war has existed among mankind from time immemorial, and justifiably so.' We of the western hemisphere, especially of North America, cannot understand what it means to live under the constant threat of war, as do the peoples of Europe.

Those of our people who came from Europe understand this condition, and many of those who came were actuated as much by the hope of getting away from the threat of war as they were by the opportunities offered in the western hemisphere. It is the desire of all men to live at peace, and, paradoxically, that desire for peace is the cause of most wars.

It is the fear of war that causes a nation to arm against aggression, but it is the fear of defeat in case of war that causes the excessive arming that is the direct cause of war. No nation in history ever started a war when that nation was unprepared for war. The chief trouble with the world is that nations cannot distinguish between arming for peace and arming for war.

Another statement that gives food for thought is that history does not consider the means so much as the end. This is just another way of saying that nothing succeeds so much as success. If, for example, Japan at length succeeds in conquering China and modernizing that nation, the next generation will accept it all as a matter of course, and will consider that Japan was justified by the results.

A century or so ago Africa was the unknown continent, and would still be today if the nations of Europe had not sent their explorers and their troops there to conquer and civilize the natives. In spite of the efforts of the missionaries, who did their utmost to bring the better things of civilization to the negroes, the methods of several nations were brutal in the extreme.

Today Africa is almost as well known as any other continent, and civilization has come to the black man. The world has forgotten the methods used, looks at the results and calls it good. Most men who climb high on the ladder of success are admired because of the place they occupy, and not for the means used in getting there.

Mr. Hitler made another pertinent statement when he said that no great world problem had ever been settled around the conference table. Minor questions are frequently settled that way, but it seems that mankind has not yet learned to settle its vital problems without resort to arms. And, equivocally, war never settles anything.

The greatest war of all times was fought a little more than 20 years ago to 'make the world safe for democracy,' and today we find democracy is menaced just as much as it was then. There is no justification for war, but it is inherent in the human system and each new generation cannot take the lessons taught by history. It must learn for itself.

My Own Column

John Frank has been disappointed in not raising bumper crops in recent years and in casting about for a more lucrative field of endeavor, decided to try poetry. This week he sends in the following as a starter: 'My boy he went a fishing. The day was clear and bright, The fish all had the toothache And so they wouldn't bite.'

And that reminds me that I took the Missus and our guests for an auto ride Sunday and finally drove into the Conger resort at Lake Ericson. Some Grand Island boys were just leaving with their mornings catch of black bass, eight of them that weighed between 36 and 33 pounds, which I think is a pretty good string of bass. Another man had a nice catch of big crappies. There were scores of fishermen, it being the last of the bass season until June 15th. Years ago I bought a nice lot on the north shore of the lake and as I drove down part of it I wished that I had some sort of small cottage there. It would be a nice place to spend week ends. I recall spending ten days on the lake there a good many years ago and that during the 10-day period we caught about 75 bass, besides many pan fish. I believe there are many more fish in the lake now than ever before and it is a nice body of water.

A friend was telling me the other day, that a tree surgeon told him that many people were going to lose their trees yet unless special efforts were made to save them. He claimed that most all trees had been so weakened by lack of moisture in recent years that they were unable to live. In his own work the tree surgeon was drilling one or more six inch holes with a post auger, down five or six feet, out a few feet from large trees and keeping these holes filled with water and thus gradually getting the sub-soil soaked up in a good sized radius around the trees. He said to insure trees plenty of moisture the next two or three years was the only way to save many beautiful trees.

When I was 18 I thought a man 50 years old was almost at the end of the trip. Now that I am 63 I am looking forward to a lot more years of fishing and having a good time and doing as little work as possible. And to prove it I look at Andy Purcell. I saw him pick up a bundle of shingles, hoist it to his shoulder and scamper up a 20-foot ladder to a steep roof; I see Judge Clements, 80, driving his car all over the country and attending to his business all the time; I had a letter from a Michigan uncle, 85, who is spading his garden, going fishing and a year or two ago I heard about his doing cement work, and I could keep right on adding to this list. I guess it is a fact that people live longer than they did fifty years ago and I know they live faster. I guess we are as old or as young as we feel; I think most of us injure our health more by overeating than by overworking and that will be automatically remedied unless business improves.

Jos. F. Lukesh and his KMMJ band gave me a lot of pleasure recently while I was on a trip. Joe and his boys are a bunch of real musicians and are making a great hit since they have been employed by KMMJ.

But who does the fighting, who gets killed, maimed, blinded, gassed, crippled? It is the poor devil who holds no grudge against the foreigner except in that he is schooled to it by propaganda. Thinking of the Germans and the terrible things said of them during the last war, one seems silly to think that he even believed in that. I see and talk with Rudolf and Will Plate, with Frank Lehanthal, with Otto Bartz, men who were born in Germany, of their folks were, and it haunts one to think of going out with the sole purpose to shoot down such fine men.

But the killing of one another is not all of it. The destruction of property that has taken sweat and tax money of centuries to build up is too ridiculous for somber thought and let us be reminded of the terrible time we had getting funds to build our small frigate canal, but this whole system might be destroyed in a day's time during war, and the amount of money spent on it would be only a pittance when compared to the cost of war.

One Crop, No Over-production. There is one crop that may be grown in this valley under irrigation that there is no over production of and that is beets. A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

Lest We Forget.

And let us not forget to write our representative in Washington to do everything in his power to keep us out of war. Lest we forget, lest we become excited over propaganda that must precede every war in this country, we might turn back the leaf and remind ourselves of the futility of all this war business.

In the past, there has been no good reason for most of the wars. In the great majority of cases, wars were instigated and brought about by one or a few men who wanted to make themselves 'more' immortal. Many think that was the reason Wilson urged us into the last conflict. Surely the sinking of the few ships by the Germans was not cause enough for the sacrifice.

No one knows yet the why of the last World war, only that one man, the Kaiser, wanted to do something. He did and he got whipped. We all know why Napoleon, Alexander, The Emperor of Japan, Hitler, Mussolini and others want war. To glorify themselves of course. There is no other principle to it.

There are a few other reasons, and that is of business. It was proven beyond doubt that munition manufacturers made immense fortunes during war times, and it was proven that some of these men sold to both armies, furnishing both with ammunition to kill each other off. Not only munition works, but hundreds of other industries, war rich from government money to conduct a war. This is one more reason for the propaganda for war, that seems to some, is started right today in our land.

But who does the fighting, who gets killed, maimed, blinded, gassed, crippled? It is the poor devil who holds no grudge against the foreigner except in that he is schooled to it by propaganda. Thinking of the Germans and the terrible things said of them during the last war, one seems silly to think that he even believed in that.

I see and talk with Rudolf and Will Plate, with Frank Lehanthal, with Otto Bartz, men who were born in Germany, of their folks were, and it haunts one to think of going out with the sole purpose to shoot down such fine men.

But the killing of one another is not all of it. The destruction of property that has taken sweat and tax money of centuries to build up is too ridiculous for somber thought and let us be reminded of the terrible time we had getting funds to build our small frigate canal, but this whole system might be destroyed in a day's time during war, and the amount of money spent on it would be only a pittance when compared to the cost of war.

theory of existence; that is, to look out for ourselves first, for no one else will do it if we don't.

However, looking at it from a little different angle, I knew a man who lived in Porto Rico for a few years. He told me the people there were desperately poor, working only part of the year in the sugar cane plantations for a few cents a day. He said it was almost a hopeless situation for those people for the plantations were all owned by rich industrialists of U. S. and Wall Street, and the main object of these owners was profits and dividends, and not the welfare of the common people of those countries.

So by limiting the production of beets in this country, we are only helping those wealthy men of Wall Street and not the poor people of Cuba.

In this valley there would be many more acres planted to beets if there could be contracts procured. Also in the middle West, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and other places, there are farmers who would like to grow this crop. But in place of an increased acreage this year there has been a scaling down.

When we write to our congressman, as Hank suggests, to keep us out of war, let us mention also this fact, that he should vote to override the President's objection, as Norris suggests too, and pass the Ellender bill which would permit the sugar beet growers to increase the acreage by 200 thousand acres.

MEDICAL FACTS

Sponsored by 4-COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

In the last few weeks this columnist has been telling you about the wonderful protection your skin has against the invasion of the body by the army of bacteria that constitute so many of your ailments. It was pointed out that any injury to this hide of ours, from the more severe mishaps like puncturing and tearing to the less severe of bruising and scragging, may serve to open a pathway for the admission of bacteria or germs. We discussed some of the more severe diseases that may result from these injuries, particularly lockjaw and blood poisoning. There are, of course, many other serious diseases that may follow puncture wounds of the skin. We have not mentioned any of those that may follow animal or insect bites or stings. There is, however, another in the same class with ordinary 'blood poisoning' which I wish to discuss a little more fully, because it is of importance in its frequency of occurrence, its deathly consequences if not prevented or treated properly and because something can be done toward preventing it, if it is kept in mind. I refer to gas gangrene.

Gas gangrene, like lockjaw, is much more frequent as a complication of gunshot wounds received in war time, especially on old battle fields, than in private life accidents. However, never a year passes, but that a few cases are seen in any general hospital of average size. This disease is caused by one of several closely related germs whose habits are much like those of the tetanus bacillus which causes lockjaw. They are found living harmlessly in the bowels of animals; hence, are numerous in the barnyard and in any soil contaminated by manure. They form into resistant forms called spores that can endure drying, cold, heat and other unfavorable circumstances for long periods of time. They grow best in material having no oxygen; that is, they will not grow in contact with the air.

Any object contaminated with soil which is driven through the skin and into the deeper tissues away from the chance of getting air may implant these germs where they will grow best. In this case they produce death and breaking down of the tissues. This is accompanied by the production of gas which can be felt and heard to crackle when one presses on these tissues. If an opening be made in this tissue the gas will bubble out. This gives the disease its name, gas gangrene. It spreads very rapidly along the muscles, melting them into a formless, almost liquid mass. It is accompanied by signs of the greatest poisoning of the patient. In fact the sick man may be so deeply poisoned that his body can't get up a fever. At times the germs may get into the general circulation and swarm thru all the internal organs. Death comes very quickly when this disease has gotten a fair start.

Whenever one has a deeply penetrating wound by any object that may be contaminated by this type of germ he should immediately receive serum for the prevention of this type of infection as well as that for the prevention of lockjaw. In fact these two serums are now put up together for the purpose of preventive treatment. Your family doctor knows all about this and has at his disposal a supply of these serums. If you should be the victim of such a wound go to him promptly for the preventive treatment of gas gangrene and lockjaw.

Taft's Gridiron dinner speech didn't do much for his presidential ambitions. Two schools of thought on the subject of a European war... Sabre shaking here might help to keep peace there... New Dealers present another of their brilliant ideas in the new job fixed for Edward J. Noble.

WASHINGTON—It is not permitted to repeat anything said in a speech made at a Gridiron dinner, though from time to time history has actually been made by speeches at the gatherings of that organization. But there is no ban on the comments of guests following the dinner.

Consensus is that Sen. Robert A. Taft did not do his presidential ambitions any good by his speech at the recent dinner. As a matter of fact, one diner actually congratulated Thomas E. Dewey on Taft's speech.

Dewey, incidentally, who spoke at the December Gridiron dinner, had a much better break all around than Taft. In the first place, President Roosevelt did not reply to Dewey. He did not really make a speech at all, just a few pleasant remarks at the end of the dinner. After Taft's speech, however, the President made a real speech, which, according to comments of guests afterwards, was a very good one.

In the case of Dewey the club followed its customary practice of having one speaker from each of the major parties, but the President not wishing to make a regular talk, James A. Farley had to carry the load for the Democrats. Farley was in a tough spot. He had to make a speech to which the President would listen, which had meant that he had to be very careful about what he said.

General opinion afterwards was that Jim did not do himself justice, which made Dewey's spot all the more attractive. A curious phase of all this is that the President actually feels rather friendly, personally, toward Taft, and dislikes Dewey very much indeed, yet as a result of his own actions Dewey was helped and Taft was hurt before gatherings of tremendous political importance.

Taft's Economic Views Anathema to New Dealers Roosevelt is so politically minded that it is just possible he planned it that way. Taft may be personally more agreeable to the New Dealers than Dewey, but his economic views are anathema. It is very obvious that most of the New Dealers have been moving heaven and earth to discredit the Ohio senator for months. Taft in the White House, with a sympathetic congress is just the last thing the New Dealers would want to see. It might, as they see it, bring about a reaction in their favor, which would sweep them back into power four years later, but they shiver at what he would do to their social and economic 'reforms' in the meantime.

Many of the tycoons present at the Gridiron dinner were terribly disappointed. They have been agreeing with so much that Taft has been saying, in his speeches, statements and radio talks, that the Ohio senator had obtained a considerable following for his candidacy in down-town New York, and in the financial districts of most of the big cities of the country.

They not only liked his views, but his magnificent showing in Ohio against New Deal Sen. Robert J. Bulkley. But since the Gridiron dinner they are remembering Alfred M. Landon, whose views also they agreed with. In fact they remember sadly the points the Kansas governor made in his 1936 speeches. But they also remember the deadly dullness of his speeches—how he drove away votes every time the radio carried his voice. Which is not so good at the moment for Mr. Taft's chances.

Two Schools of Thought As to a European War President Roosevelt is being sharply criticized for his warlike utterances, even attacked for 'gambling' on getting this nation involved in casualty lists. But there is a school of thought, to which many friends and many opponents of the New Deal subscribe 100 per cent, that the more certain Mr. Roosevelt can make Hitler and Mussolini that the United States will enter the war on the side of Britain and France, if and when war comes, the less chance there will be of a big European war.

Even more important, those holding this view believe that if the opposite is done—that is if Hitler and Mussolini can be convinced that the United States will remain neutral, the probability of war is increased, and the probability that the United States will eventually be sucked into it will become much greater.

The theory behind the support that President Roosevelt gets on this issue, on which he is being opposed by most Republican leaders and by a great many Democrats is very simple. We start with the assumption that war is not absolutely certain—that it may be that a sufficient number of factors can prevent it—that Hitler and Mussolini are not absolutely determined to keep on until they force a general conflict. If this assumption is not correct, then nothing matters very much. There will be war, and eventually the United States will be drawn into it. In that case nothing said at this time by President Roosevelt or anybody else is important. Only what is done by the way of preparation is important.

But if the assumption is correct, then it would seem obvious that the more strength Hitler and Mussolini know is going to be thrown to their enemies the more chance there is that they may decide not to risk the consequences of war.

Sabre Rattling in U. S. Might Help Keep the Peace There are several theories which seem to reinforce the argument. For example, it is believed by most army officers here that if war comes the power of Hitler will at once become very much curtailed. The German army does not recognize Hitler as a military genius. It has been backing him right along because of his demonstrated hold on the people, and because of his demonstrated power as a bluffer in international negotiations. But with the coming of war, it is held, he would be sidetracked and ignored. The prestige resulting from the early victories—most army officers think the early conflicts would be German victories—would go to the men who directed the troop movements.

Pretty soon a new Hindenburg or a new Ludendorff would be the popular hero of Germany. The thought is that Hitler must know this, and would be scarcely human if he realized the idea. Hence the sabre rattling, instead of actual military encounters, the longer he remains No. 1 man in Germany and retains practically dictatorial powers.

Noble's New Job Another Bright New Deal Idea No one is ever going to say that the New Dealers do not have ideas. They reek with them. One of the most interesting involves the reasons for the sudden elevation of Edward J. Noble, administrator of the civil aeronautics authority, to assist in administration's program for the promotion of business recovery and secretary of the department of commerce, a new position which congress will be asked to create.

The answer, it is explained, can be found in a public statement made by Mr. Noble the day before his appointment. In brief, Mr. Noble, in the eyes of President Roosevelt and Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins, has made a huge success in applying government regulation to one industry—the air lines—which are highly competitive and alive with individual initiative.

So the theory is that Mr. Noble, having accomplished this with air lines, can spread out over all lines of business his supervision and coordination, to bring about the ideal economic state visualized by Roosevelt and Hopkins—no monopoly, plenty of competition, plenty of individual initiative, and yet complete regulation and control by a beneficent government.

In the public statement in question, Mr. Noble dwelt at length on the record made by the air lines during the last winter. The lines he pointed out, flew more than 64,000,000 passenger miles for each passenger fatality between December 21 last and March 20. There was but one fatal accident in that period, during which the lines flew 17,863,270 plane miles. The statement also pointed out that the three transcontinental lines and the principal north-south line flew 50,000,000 passenger miles this winter without a single forced landing.

After recounting this record Mr. Noble said: 'These figures present a striking example of the way a highly competitive business, in a stage of highly individual initiative, can cooperate with government regulation and get results.'

Much further down in the same statement Mr. Noble said: 'It seems to me that the lesson is obvious. Same and wise application of our regulatory laws not only protects the public but at the same time enhances the profit of the business. Long experience has shown—and it is shown strikingly in the air transport industry—that only through the co-operative services of the government can this kind of regulation produce a result that protects everybody, both the enterprise and the citizen. I wish other business men in this new day might learn what the air transport industry has learned so well, and applied so well, on the record it presents here today.'

A critical examination of all this might produce just a little skepticism. In the first place, it is pointed out, the railroads also can make a magnificent showing so far as passenger miles per fatality are concerned. But this 'proof' that government regulation of highly competitive enterprises is not calculated to appeal to investors. The financial situation of the railroads, to put it mildly, is not bright.

Also critics are inclined to think that fate had more to do with the small number of fatalities in the air service this winter than government regulation.

Misko, Stars Partners in Business 50 Years Ago

Fifty years ago two young men of Ord, each an expert in his line, entered into a partnership in the meat butchering and selling business in Ord. Today both men, although retired from active work, are still enjoying good health, and still take a keen interest in the affairs of Ord and of the country at large.

Those two men were Wencel (Jim) Misko and F. J. Stars. Both men had come to America and to Valley county only a few years before, and both had engaged in the occupation that was to become the principal work of their lives in the community. Mr. Stars had spent three years, and seven months in the employ of another well known butcher, Henry Reithardt.

They opened for business in the building now occupied by the Pecenka market and meat has been marketed from that location from that day to this. After a time the partnership was dissolved and Mr. Stars went into business for himself. He still owns the building on the west side of the square in which he last ran a butcher shop, the place where the Langer grocery is now located.

Mr. Misko continued in the same location and later took in as a partner Joe Pecenka. When he decided to retire a number of years ago, he sold his interest in the business to John Perilinski, and the business then was known as Pecenka and Perilinski. When Perilinski decided to go west he sold out his interest, and Otto, who had been employed there for some time, joined with his father in the Pecenka and Son market.

Since the death of his father Otto has continued the business under the same name. Fifty years is a long time for one business to be carried on under one roof, and fifty years is a long time for two partners of old to continue in good health and keep up their interest in the affairs of the community. May they keep up that interest for many years to come!

High jump—Zikmund, first, Cleburne, Burwell, second; Sheldon, North Loup, third; Igenfritz, fourth. Height, 5 ft. 9 5/8 inches. (New record. Old record 5 ft. 9 1/2 inches held jointly by Abbott of Sargent and Nelson of Ord.) Pole vault—Tatlow, first; Tunnicliff, Igenfritz and Gregory, Arcadia, tied for second, third and fourth. LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Mrs. Charles Palmatier Writes Editor Quiz: Inclosed find one dollar to continue our subscription as we don't want to miss a single copy. This leaves Charles and myself quite well. I am able to walk around the house without the use of crutches of a cane. This has been a beautiful, sunny day. We have had a very rainy spring if they had our Valley county soil they would be O. K. Charles is going to help his son-in-law plant about a car of potatoes tomorrow. He can't hold himself down when garden time comes. He is still very active in spite of his 83 years. Perhaps you don't know that Charley was one of the oldest settlers in Valley county. He was one of the first mail carriers in the horse and saddle days, from Ft. Hartuff to Ft. Niobrara. He had some thrilling experiences with the Indians. He got by with them by being friendly and dividing his tobacco with them, of which they were very fond. He was one of the first taxpayers, and is still, as all we possess is in Valley county. It seems very unjust to tax a man after he is too old to work. He was postmaster at Geranium, Nebr., from the year 1880 until the route was changed to an R. F. D. and the office was no longer needed. He resigned with high honors, but there was no money in keeping the office.

In the old days there was a great deal of mail coming to the office and I was sworn in as assistant and did much of the work. Later much of the business went to Ord. There was a great deal of red tape in the handling of the office, and in all the years Charles made only one mistake, and that for one cent, which he made up when notified. I wish I could receive a greeting card from each first subscriber for the Quiz. When O. S. Haskell was canvassing for subscriptions for his son Will, Charles was breaking prairie in summer and carrying mail in winter, so he had the paper sent to New York to his grandparents until we were married in 1884. We have been taking it ever since. Charles' sod house once served as a school house, and Mrs. H. C. Stroup was the teacher. He still has an interest in the fair ground, and we are sorry to hear that the wind damaged the new stand, but it is an ill wind that blows nobody good. This would be a good job for Irma. While she is getting dinner maybe she could place it together where it should be. There are just three living today that helped build our house: Chas. Goodhand, Art Dumond, and Charley himself. Others who helped were John Wentworth, who was the contractor, Sam Warner, Will Moses, Howard Mason, Chester and Marshall Palmatier. May 2 is my 73rd birthday, and I will have a car ride as a treat. We still have our home, and thank God, some fine children. I will say good bye. Mrs. Charles Palmatier, 10543 Avenue L, Chicago.

Loup Valley Pig Club.

The members of the Loup Valley pig club held their meeting May 1 at the home of Wesley Miska. Eight members were present and Bobby Kucera was a visitor, also becoming a member at the meeting. The vice president called the meeting to order, and an opening song was sung. Following the reading and approval of the minutes, a committee was appointed to write up the constitution. The next meeting will be at the home of Harold Owens, June 5. The leader gave a very interesting lesson on diseases of pigs. He brought a pig with the tickets to show to the club. A lovely lunch was served by Mrs. Miska.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Twenty-six high school pupils and graduates were honored at Lincoln last week. They were awarded the gold key of the State Farmer degree by the Nebraska Farmer Magazine. These boys are members of the Future Farmers of America, the fast growing national organization for vocational agriculture students.

They were selected out of over 3,000 farm lads, who are enrolled in agricultural classes. How were they selected?

Candidates for the State Farmer degree must earn $250 thru their project program. They need to rank high in scholarship. They must be members of a winning judging team. They must pass an examination prepared by the state committee. They are required to lead a group discussion on some farm topic for 40 minutes. They must have been officers in their local F. F. A. chapter.

There are four degrees of membership in F. F. A., based on achievement. These degrees are the Green Hand, Future Farmer, State Farmer, and American Farmer. One or two of the most outstanding State Farmers from Nebraska are elected to the American Farmer degree at the annual national convention, which takes place in Kansas City.

The state F. F. A. convention is held in Lincoln two years out of three, and at North Platte every third year. It comes at the same time as the high school judging contests, but there is no relationship between the two activities.

Water Again Runs in Park Lateral, New Stone Bridge Completed

Repairs to the irrigation ditch near the Barnard home were made last week and water was again turned into the lateral that runs through Bussell park, with a spillway leading into Dane creek. This beautiful picture shows the spillway and the new cement and stone bridge built by Lawrence Berger and his crew for the city of Ord. Children already have discovered the fun to be had by playing in the spillway and several were sailing boats down it when this picture was taken. Several loads of crushed rock were dumped along the bank near the spillway to protect it during rainstorms.—Quiz photo.

Initials and Dates on Concrete Sidewalks

Recall Early Incidents in Ord's History
Ever since concrete sidewalks came into fashion, the public at large and the small boy in particular, has considered it a privilege to carve his initials and other carvatures in the cement mixed sands of time. These fall into two general classes; those that advertise the maker, and those inscribed on the spur of the moment.
One of the earliest concrete artists of Ord was Charley Dinkel, who cut his name in letters two feet high in the soft concrete of a sidewalk near where the Dr. H. N. Norris residence now stands. Charley is gone and almost forgotten, but his handiwork still stands. Later Charley Detweiler was accused of doing the art work, because the initials were the same.
Another early day inscription which is easily read is that put on the sidewalk at the corner where the C. A. Anderson Motor company is now located. Back in 1904 Tot Johnson, the cement man, put in the sidewalk that runs south along the lots there, and he scratched his name, business and the date in the concrete, where it still shows. The old Blue Barn stood there at the time.
Thirty years ago Charley Siler built the brick building where the Butar Ord Hatchery is now located. He handled Reo cars, and set brass thumb tacks in the concrete just in front of the doors to form the three letters, REO. It was the latest thing in garages then, but for that purpose it is hopelessly out of date now. However, the inscription is still before the door for the public to read.
Not so long ago, comparatively, a new walk was built from the Standard Oil Station toward the east. A hen got loose from the poultry buyer located where L. M. Loft now is, and Archie Keep saw him chase the hen across this new sidewalk. Result, you may still see the tracks of that hen in the cement, although she was doubtless built into a chicken pie many years ago.
Some twenty years ago the concrete was placed in front of the present City Bakery and the Gamble Store. Before the former the words, "Drape's Place" and before the latter the word, "Parkins," were sunk into the concrete in metal letters. Draper passed on shortly after, but his name and the business he started still go on.

Bob Noll Named 2nd Ward Member of Ord's Council

Seed Man Appointed, Confirmed Friday Eve After Flynn, Hansen, Rejected.

For the first time in six months the Ord city council had a full membership present Friday evening, after the appointment and confirmation of Robert Noll as a member from the 2nd ward to succeed Joe L. Dworak, resigned. Mr. Noll will serve until the next city election.

The meeting opened with Mayor M. B. Cummins making a statement to the effect that he would first appoint Clifford Flynn and Jens Hansen, choices of a sparsely attended 2nd ward caucus held last Tuesday, and that if neither proved acceptable to the council he would present a third candidate who had agreed to take the position if appointed and confirmed.

Pressed to name the third candidate, Mayor Cummins revealed his identity as Robert Noll.

ROBERT NOLL

It was then moved and passed that the council take an informal, secret ballot on their preferences for councilman and this was done. With Mayor Cummins not voting, this ballot revealed 3 votes for Harold Hallen, 1 for Clifford Flynn and 1 for Jens Hansen.

Mayor Cummins then announced his appointment of Clifford Flynn subject to confirmation by a majority, and Councilman Guy Burrows moved that Flynn be confirmed. The motion died for lack of a second. The mayor then substituted Jens Hansen's name but no motion to confirm being made this also was lost.

The appointment of Mr. Noll then was made and after a ten minute silence during which Mayor Cummins threatened to leave the council chamber and go home if the candidate was not confirmed, Councilman J. W. McGinnis moved the confirmation, it was seconded by Councilman Frank Johnson and on motion unanimously passed. Mr. Noll then was summoned and sworn in, taking his place immediately for the routine session which followed.

Seating of Noll marks the end of a four weeks' attempt to complete the council's membership. After party caucuses in March, when it was too late to get the name of a candidate on the ballot, Joe Dworak's resignation was received after his removal to Omaha. A caucus was called and held informally and James Petska, jr., was recommended by 2nd ward voters for the position, with Harold Hallen being the second choice. Before the next council meeting Mr. Petska announced he would not accept the appointment if made, so a second caucus was called, endorsing Flynn and Hansen. With the acceptance of Mr. Noll the matter now seems settled and Mayor Cummins and the council may go along toward settlement of problems affecting the city.

Ellsworth Ball Tells Rotarians About Relief

Stating that he is an American first and then a democrat, County Supervisor Ellsworth Ball discussed relief problems briefly in a talk before the Ord Rotary club Monday evening. As a result of widespread relief too many people are losing all initiative, he believes, and he cited a survey recently made by Relief Director Frank Kruml in which 50 per cent of the relief clients in Valley county stated they have no idea of what they would do to make a living if government relief should be cut or withdrawn. Mr. Ball also discussed the new lawn being built at the court house with NYA labor and said that because of delay in getting the spading done it is now deemed best to defer planting until late August.

Wild Life Movies To Be Shown Thursday Eve

All farmers interested are invited to be guests of the Ord chamber of commerce Thursday evening, May 11, when there will be a showing of sound movies by the Nebraska fish and game department. The movies will be shown at 8:00 following a short business session at 7:30 for chamber members.

J. A. Kovanda, president of the business group, was instrumental in arranging for the show. Deputy Game Warden Bill Lytle is expected to be here with the pictures which show Nebraska fishing and hunting scenes as well as depicting efforts of the state to raise fish, pheasants, partridges and other game birds at state hatcheries and rearing stations. Nebraska beauty spots also will be shown.

Sportsmen who may not be members of the chamber, as well as all farmers and of course the Ord business men are invited to attend.

Hallers Taken to Omaha for Hospital Treatment

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haller, who were both seriously hurt last week when their car went off a high grade near Cedar Rapids as they were returning to Albion from Ord, were taken to Albion for emergency treatment and from there taken to Omaha, where Mr. Haller was placed in St. Joseph hospital.

Mr. Haller sustained a bad gash on his forehead, broken ribs and possible internal injuries. Mrs. Haller was driving and sustained a fracture of the right arm. He is field supervisor for the Emergency Crop and Feed loan office with headquarters in Albion, and was formerly connected with the office at Ord.

Kid's Tickets Still Available for Circus Friday

Over 1,300 Already Given Out at Quiz Office; Anderson Show a Good One.

Although more than 1,300 children's tickets to the Bud E. Anderson Jungle Oddities and 3-Ring Circus, showing in Ord Friday, have already been given out at the Quiz office, about 300 are still available and will be given to the first comers.

With one of these guest tickets any boy or girl will be admitted to the circus Friday afternoon upon payment of only 10c. The tickets are not good at the evening performance.

The Anderson show, one of eight circuses on the road in the United States this year, is said to be a good one. According to the advance man, over 500 people travel with the show. In the menagerie, it is claimed, are lions, tigers, pumas, camels, elephants and many smaller wild animals. There is a troupe of 12 clowns. Scores of horses and trained dogs, the famous Luigi Troupe of bareback riders and acrobats, 12 tents, a beautiful pageant called "Noah's Ark" and many other features will make the Anderson Circus worth driving miles to see.

Performances are given at 2:00 and 8:00 p. m. with the doors scheduled to open one hour earlier in each instance. Other places in Nebraska where the Anderson circus is showing include Lincoln, Omaha, Crete, Grand Island and Broken Bow. The circus is scheduled to arrive in Ord at an early hour Thursday and will appear on the fair grounds.

Children who want the identification tickets which will get them into the circus and give them a seat at a total cost of only 10c should come to the Quiz office quickly as the supply will soon be exhausted and no more will be available. Remember, also that these tickets are good only at the afternoon performance—not in the evening. Regular prices are 25c and 35c, with seat included.

Heavy Rains Miss Ord Again The Past Week

While heavy rains were reported to the south of this section Saturday evening and again on Sunday evening, Valley county had to be content with light showers on both evenings. In Ord this amounted to .14 of an inch both days. The rain at St. Paul and vicinity was so heavy that it did more harm than good in some places, while considerable hail is reported from the Grand Island territory. Crops here are not suffering from lack of moisture, but more rain is needed to soak the subsoil.

NYA Stores Park Benches, Builds Court Yard Fence

Last week the NYA completed the job of spading, raking and leveling the court house lawn, and because there was no place the benches could be left for the use of the public, they were stored in one of the buildings at the fair grounds until such time as they can be returned for use.

Monday the group were busy driving iron posts around the spaded plots of ground to keep the public off until the grass will have had time to grow. The grass probably will not be sowed until fall, as it will take some time to wet the ground down thoroughly and make it into a good seed bed, and the grass would not be killed then by the hot sun of summer.

Mrs. A. Loeffler Is Hurt in Fall Friday

The heavy south wind Friday was responsible for the serious injury of Mrs. Anton Loeffler at her home in northwest Ord. It is believed that the wind blew the screen door against her, causing her to fall. Mr. Loeffler was in the house, but did not hear her, and Mrs. H. P. Hansen, neighbor, was the first to discover her plight about 4 p. m.

She and Mrs. Ellsworth Ball, who came at almost the same time, discovered her lying on the ground and unable to get up, and called Dr. J. G. Kruml. When she was carried into the house the doctor took two x-ray pictures, which showed the femur bone badly broken at the left hip. Her children were at once notified, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Simonds, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bartz, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Dahsted, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Loeffler and Mrs. Joe Thiem came at once.

It was decided to take her to St. Francis hospital in Grand Island, and the Pearson-Anderson ambulance called. Dr. Kruml believes that it will take from two to six months for the broken bone to heal and that the limb will be about an inch shorter than the other when it knits. Mrs. Joe Thiem is staying with her father at the present time.

Played in Tournament at Dannebrog Sunday

Syl Furtak of Ord and Bert Sayre and Mills Hill of North Loup drove to Dannebrog Sunday and participated in an invitational golf tournament held there. About 35 persons were in attendance and a number of central Nebraska towns were represented.

Furtak and Hill did not win, but Sayre was the winner of Flight D with a score of 128 for 27 holes, which is considered very good. The championship flight was won by Ed Lewandowski, one of the outstanding players of this section.

Slow Soaking of Field Will Assure Corn Crop, Experts Advise

Advice to individuals and small groups on best irrigation practices was the rule Tuesday as 500 farmers gathered at the Geweke farm near Ord to hear A. Molenaar and Walter Fitts, from the college of agriculture. In this picture Mr. Fitts is demonstrating the "lath box" method of irrigating corn. By this method water goes down the lath rows slowly and soaks the subsoil thoroughly. Here Fitts is showing two irrigators, Frank Flynn and J. D. McCall an outlet stop box made of lath and metal by which water is taken from the main lateral into a smaller lateral, where smaller lath boxes take it down each row through the field. Cost of these outlet boxes is about 35c each, Fitts tells the men. The small lath boxes are cheaper. While Mr. Fitts was demonstrating corn irrigation, Mr. Molenaar was showing a larger group how to irrigate alfalfa in a near-by field.

Irrigation School Tuesday Attended By 500 Farmers

Lath Box Method Showed for Corn, Border Method in Alfalfa Field.

A crowd estimated at over 500 people attended the irrigation demonstration at the Archie Geweke farm Tuesday. A. Molenaar, extension agricultural engineer and Walter Fitts, extension agronomist, aided in conducting the demonstration and both gave talks during the afternoon and were kept busy answering the questions of interested farmers during the greater part of the day.

Irrigation by the lath box method was demonstrated on a rather difficult plot because of the slope. This was the spot chosen by Mr. Geweke because, he stated, "Anyone should be able to irrigate where it is easy but I believe farmers should see the proper method of irrigating under difficult conditions," so he chose what he considers the hardest part of the farm to irrigate.

Molenaar in his talk stressed the necessity of having control of the water on this type of land and of running rather small streams into the furrows, slowly so that it would have an opportunity to soak into the dry subsoil. "You can force water across the land," he said "but you can't force it into the soil, it must be permitted to soak in." He recommended fall and early spring irrigation for corn so that there will be moisture in the subsoil.

Mr. Geweke had also prepared borders for the seeding of alfalfa which is to be irrigated by the border method, but because he is going to seed immediately, it was not possible to turn the water into this field, because the soaking would delay seeding too long. Many farmers displayed a lot of interest in this method and the equipment used.

The retailers of Ord served coffee and doughnuts to the crowd at mid-afternoon and this feature was greatly enjoyed by everyone in attendance, and was certainly appreciated by those in charge of the demonstration. County Agent C. C. Dale, who planned the demonstration in cooperation with Mr. Geweke, expressed himself as greatly pleased with the attendance and the great interest displayed.

New Township Library Is Accepted By Board

The new Ord Township Library building was formally accepted by the library board at its meeting Monday, subject to a few minor alterations. Present for the inspection in addition to the board were J. F. Reynolds of Lincoln, architect, Soren Jensen, PWA representative from Grand Island, and F. Ream, representing the contractors, the Diamond Engineering Co. of Grand Island.

While the building is now complete, it will not be ready for public inspection for some little time, as the furniture is not yet in place, and the library will not be moved from the present location until all the furniture is here. A quantity of new books will arrive soon and will be placed on the shelves in the new building ready for the use of the public as soon as the building is formally opened.

Ord Track Team Takes Second Place at Albion

Ord's fast track team ran into its heaviest competition of the year at Albion Friday, where twenty of the fastest teams of east central Nebraska were entered in the competition. Neligh ran off with top honors with 40 points, Ord took second with 22 points and Albion third with 20 points. Madison, Genoa, Columbus, York and Norfolk finished in the order given.

Five new records were made at the meet, Zikmund making a new mark of 147 ft. 4 in. with the discus, and tying with Christensen of Genoa at 5 ft. 10 1/4 in. for a new record in the high jump. Zikmund also took first in the broad jump, was second to Reiss of Neligh in the century where a new record of 9.9 was made, and placed fourth in the javelin.

Tunnell placed in a three way tie for third place in the pole vault, Hurlbert took fourth place in the 440 yard dash, and the Ord relay team took third place. Of interest is the fact that Don Kohl of Madison, nephew of Mrs. Wm. Heuck, made a good showing for his team. He took second in the low hurdles and tied for third in the high jump to account for one-third of his team's points.

Senior Class Play Will Be Tonight

Tonight at the Ord high school auditorium, seniors of the school will present their play, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," from the novel by John Fox, Jr. The cast includes John Rogers, Charles Keown, Mildred Waldmann, Lawrence Kusek, Vera Severns, Margaret Tvedrik, Eleanor Wolfe, Gerald Goff, Norma Hall, Gerald Hatfield, Jeanne Towne, Lloyd Zikmund, Marilyn Dale and Audrey Hoyt.

The student manager is Darlene Geweke, the stage manager Billy Bouda and Miss Wilma Shavlik is director. Assistant stage managers are Dick Koupal, Edwin Hitchman, Wayne Stewart, Emanuel Kokes, Eldon Mathauer, and Allen Zikmund. Bonnadell Hallock is prompter and the costume committee is made up of Norma Ben, Lucille Lakin and Marguerite Wegryn. Loretta Mae Achen, assisted by Cornelius Biemond, has charge of properties, and Eloise Norris assisted by Capron Coe will take care of make-up. The high school orchestra will furnish music.

Sponsor of the senior class, and generally in charge of the play, is Miss Viola Crouch. Tickets have been on sale at Beranek's several days and advance sale indicates a satisfactory crowd.

New Home Ec Teacher Was Elected Monday

At a special meeting of the Ord school board Monday afternoon Miss Edith Filley, of Lincoln, was elected home economics teacher for the 1939-40 term. Miss Filley is a daughter of Dr. H. C. Filley, of the University of Nebraska college of agriculture and she graduated this spring from the University. She will succeed Miss Sarah Harmon who ends her first term in the Ord schools this month and was not a candidate for reelection.

—Mel Lewis, of the Firestone Super service station at Grand Island, brought a group of young people to the young people's convention in Ord Sunday. While here he visited with Gould Flagg.

Hoppers Hatching By Millions Now

Early Poisoning Urged by Dale and 75 Tons Poison Bran Are in Storage Here.

Grasshoppers have been hatching by the millions the past 10 days in Valley county, according to reports received at the county agent's office. In many places along fence rows, waste places, alfalfa fields and pasture land investigation shows that the grass and weeds are literally alive with little hoppers.

This spells trouble for the farmers again, but the farm bureau office is ready for war on the pests. A total of 75 tons of bran and sawdust and 1800 gallons of sodium arsenate are in storage here and will start as soon as the demand for bait comes from the farmers.

Dale urges early poisoning because past experience has shown that one sack of poison bait used in May kills more hoppers than a ton in July. Poisoning at the hatching grounds gives better kills and prevents the spread of the pests to cultivated crops later in the season.

Plans Are Developing For Old Settlers Picnic

The date for the old settlers' picnic for 1939 has been definitely settled for Sunday, June 18, and the location at the park at Burwell. Plans for the entertainment that day are developing, and include the inviting of both the Burwell municipal band and the Loup Valley band to play on that day.

The list of speakers for that day has not been made up as yet, but Mr. McAnulty is lining up a tentative program, which will be submitted to the committee soon for their approval. The plan is to give the picnic as much publicity as possible this year and make an effort to get out a record attendance.

Two Pay Fines For Traffic Violations

In Judge John L. Andersen's court Friday J. R. VanWagenen of Burwell entered a plea of driving a car while intoxicated, and was assessed a fine of $10 and costs of $2.75, which he paid. He was also ordered not to drive a car for a year. He was apprehended on complaint of Highway Patrolman Zink Ign. Wajda, who lives north of Arcadia, was arrested by Night Marshal W. E. Lincoln Sunday night, paid a fine of $15 and costs of $2.75 and was released.

Fault Best in U. S. in Insurance Contest

Best salesman in the whole United States during March, in a contest being conducted by the Farm Mutual insurance companies, of Bloomington, Ill, was Charles Faudt of North Loup. He scored 117 points to 105 for his closest competitor, a man from Duluth, Minn. Faudt also led the list in life insurance sales with a total of $41,500.00 during March, which topped all other agents of his company that month.

Vernon Collins, 23, Killed Tuesday in Accident on Farm

Team Ran Away, Wagon Tipped Over on Young Farmer, Killed Him Instantly.

Vernon Collins, 23-year-old farmer who lived about 6 miles south of Ord, was the victim of a tragic farm accident about noon Tuesday. He was killed, probably instantly, when a wagon tipped over on a side hill and fell on him.

He had gone to the pasture to fix the fence driving a team hitched to an old manure spreader which he used for hauling posts. As he was fixing fence with the team stopped at the top of a steep incline he noticed that the team was walking away and shouted to the horses to stop. Then he ran toward them and as they went down the steep hill he leaped on the manure spreader.

Apparently the wagon was tipped to such a degree that when Collins' weight hit the edge the vehicle went over on top of him, with the load of posts hitting him also. It is thought also that the team stopped at once, as there was no indication that Mr. Collins' body had been dragged.

The tragedy was discovered by Mrs. Collins about 1:30 when her husband not having come to the house for dinner, she went to the pasture to see what was detaining him. She summoned Albert Peterson, who hired the manure spreader from Mr. Collins' body and found that life was extinct.

Dr. C. W. Weekes and the Pearson-Anderson ambulance were called to the Collins farm and the body was brought to the Pearson-Anderson mortuary in Ord after an examination by the doctor revealed that death occurred almost instantly. It is thought that a post hit Mr. Collins in the back of the neck, as the neck was broken. Mr. Collins was a son of the late Lynn Collins, a pioneer family in that part of the Mira Valley community. He was married and had one child. His mother also survives.

As a boy in Ord high school, Mr. Collins ranked high in his studies and was an honor student. He was a member of the Ord high agriculture team that won state championships in crops judging and dairy products in 1933.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon, first rites being at 1:30 p. m. at the home followed by a church service at 2:00 at the Mira Valley Evangelical church. Rev. J. A. Adams will conduct the service. Burial will be in Ord cemetery.

Grade Students Have Marbles, Jacks Tourney

Marble and jacks tournaments were held at the Ord grade school last week under the supervision of B. A. Eddy. Winners and runners-up in the marbles tourney were given bags of marbles while the jacks winners got jacks and ball and the runners-up were awarded jumping ropes.

Marble winners were Joe Frazier, Kenneth Adams, Donald Hower, Martin Piskorski, Thomas Tolen and Archie Wegryn; the runners-up included Paul Stoddard, Richard Tolen, Jay Stoddard, Edmund Swanek, Joe Lola and Eldon Cetak. In the jacks tourney the prizes went to Jocelyn Wilson, Clara Gross, Jackie Shunkweiler, Evelyn Fleider, Shirley Martin and Carolyn Aulse, the winners, and to Stella Christofferson, Jeannette Fox, Marie Harvey, Marilyn Parks, Arlene Wolf and Darlene Puncocar, runners-up.

Grade school boys will compete in a track meet at the practice field next Monday afternoon under Mr. Eddy's direction.

Two Davis Creek Men Meet With Accidents

Davis Creek—(Special)—Frank Abel had a narrow escape from serious injury Thursday when the four horse team he was driving hitched to a disc got beyond his control. When he found they were running away he tried to free himself, but caught his shoe on the machine and was dragged some distance, receiving bruises on his ankle and hip.

Frank Polak was kicked by a horse Sunday evening while feeding his stock. He was hit by the horse's hind feet on the leg and on his side and it is thought that he had some ribs broken. He is in bed at the present time.

New Ord-Omaha Truckers.

Edward Viner and Tony Poata are now operating the former Charles Tomans truck line between Ord and Omaha, and expect to continue the operation much as it has been run in the past. Both men are experienced in their line and should make a success of the work.

—Bert Sell of Arcadia and L. J. Aulse have been busy the past week and have sold four Woods Bros. threshers to Valley county customers.

NATIONAL HARDWARE WEEK

May 7 to 13 has been designated as national hardware week. It is not specifically stated in what manner this week should be observed...

Coming at the time of year when anything in the cleanup line is in order, there are doubtless a number of articles you might need...

This week is an appropriate time to go back into the files of the Ord Quiz and find out a few facts about the men who pioneered in the hardware business in Ord...

Early in 1883 it seems that Ord, which was not a large village at that time, had no less than three hardware stores, all of which were advertising in the Quiz...

F. W. Weaver and company, perhaps the best known firm ever in the business in Ord, was advertising hardware and farming implements in 1883...

In the early days North Loup firms made a business of advertising in the Ord papers, and the firm of Pratt and Bohne, Hardware and Jewelry, used considerable space...

In 1889 a new hardware store was started in the Oddfellow building, in the room at present occupied by Anton Bartunek's harness shop...

The record of just when the Ord Hardware started and who started it is lost, but it was going strong in 1897, when they were advertising Flint, Sears and Scofield bugles and Harrison wagons...

Some time early in the present century Cornell Bros., Cass and Charles, bought out F. W. Weaver and company, and ran the business for many years in the building now occupied by the Seward store...

The Leggett-Wisda Hardware sold out to a group headed by Rudolph Sorensen, who later sold to S. J. W. Brown. Brown took W. M. Gray later as a partner for a time, and later ran the business alone once more...

In 1904 the Ord hardware, located in an old building where the Frazier Furniture store now is, was sold to the firm of Bailey and Detweiler. They later built the new building, and continued to operate in that location for several years after the World War...

The last man to enter the hardware field in Ord was Joe

Lola, second door west of the Millford corner. Thus in brief is given a history of the hardware business in Ord for the past 56 years...

A HIGHWAY PROBLEM. One of the problems that is confronting the mayor and city council of Ord today is that of traffic. It is becoming so important that the proposition was discussed pro and con at a recent meeting...

Ten years or more ago cities and towns were falling all over themselves in their efforts to get these main highways routed through the main part of town, because it was felt then that it would add greatly to the amount of trade the town would enjoy...

In Ord there is an arterial highway all along L street from 14th street west to the city limits. This passes along the north side of the square, making stop signs mandatory at two corners of the square...

Ord is the only city on No. 11 which presents difficulties in moving the highway away from the business section. St. Paul has already moved traffic away from its business district by running the highway around the north and east sides of the town...

But Ord, with the river on one side and the hills on the other, presents a very different problem. The difficulties of building a highway to follow the railroad tracks are so great that it might as well be considered impossible...

There does not seem to be any way in which it could be rerouted through the main part of Ord to make it materially safer than it is now. This leaves one way, and only one, and that is to take it through the hills south of town...

The road just west of the Onyx could continue west instead of coming into Ord, cross highway No. 57 and continue up a branch canyon to the west, crossing the ridge to the south of where Hillcrest hospital was once located...

This would place the junction of highways 11 and 57 at the south edge of Ord, and thus remove the hazards of a traffic intersection from the city. It would not be difficult to have No. 11 pass above No. 57 at the above point...

This route is not visionary nor impractical, and may become a reality some day.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Forty-two local high school boys are carrying 56 production projects on their home farms this year. They are also doing a number of improvement jobs such as planting trees, filling ditches, and making soil dams...

Most of the students have chosen livestock. There are 28 animal projects, largely in pork production. Crops were selected by 17 boys and these acreages will be planted mainly to sorghums or corn. Baby chicks are being raised by 11 students...

The boys all hope to make money, also they realize that the financial outcome from farm enterprises is always uncertain. They have read government statistics about carry overs, export prospects, payroll trends, and planting intentions. But no outlook is available on the weather. It has been said that "Nature refuses to sign on the dotted line..."

The lad from a well-to-do family may suffer so little from loss that the experience gained is well worth the cost. Any youngster is apt to learn enough lessons by caring for his project to be ahead, even though he doesn't break even on his cash investment...

My Own Column

By Hank Leggett

That was a very nice letter that my good friend Marcus E. Getter wrote and which appears in this week's Quiz, but I do hope George Gowan won't see it. Mr. Getter should be more careful if he really has my interest at heart...

I was reminded, by Mr. Getters letter, that my own father served his country four years in the civil war. He was a member of the 17th Michigan infantry and he was a physical wreck his whole life as a result of that four years and no doubt his life was greatly shortened by the service...

I should think our members in congress would hasten to pass the necessary legislation permitting the people to vote whether we should go into another war where the fighting had to be done on distant land...

Friends frequently send me items that they think will look well in this column. This one came from Elmer Douthett: Socialism: If you own two cows you give one to your neighbor...

Communism: You give both of your cows to the government which in turn gives you some milk. Fascism: You give both cows to the government which in turn sells you the milk. Nazism: You give both of the cows to the government which extracts the cream and sells you part of the skim milk...

New Dealism: You shoot one cow and get paid for not milking the other. Capitalism: You keep both cows, sell the milk and save up enough money to buy a bull.

Charley Detweiler sent me this one: She: "Did you ever sell brushes?" He: "No, why?" She: "Well, you'd better get one quick and start selling. That's my husband at the front door."

It seems to me the boys down in Washington are talking economy and the next item one reads tells of a new appropriation for a few hundred million. They talk of hundreds of millions (nothing less) and billions like we talk of pennies and nickles. They talk of bringing back good times by increasing the national debt and there is just as much sense in a drunk man sobering up by drinking more whiskey...

When I was down in Arkansas I saw an old farmer plowing with a great durham bull and as he was having a lot of trouble with the bull I went over into the field to see what it was all about. Said I, you have a dozen horses and mules in the pasture there, why do you work the bull. Replied the farmer, "Dad burn him, I am just trying to convince him that life is not just one continuous romance..."

Anything worth having is worth asking for so I am asking that you let me have your daily paper renewals. It don't cost you any more, saves you a few cents in fact.

A little profanity sometimes clears the air and seems to straighten things out or make them go better. Not recommended for preachers however. I always hate to hear women and preachers swear.

A prison survey showed that almost all lines was represented except fishermen. There was not a fisherman in the lot. Last week I had occasion to have several hundred Ord school children, all ages and sizes, call at the Quiz office to get circus tickets and I was really surprised to find what a nice lot of children we have in Ord. They came in smiling and left the same way with their tickets and almost without exception they thanked us for the tickets. Of course I only knew the names of a few of them, though I could guess at many of them because of family resemblance...

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

A New Order

There are now no less than four trucks travelling our road picking up and buying cream, eggs, milk and poultry. One carries mash, grit and other poultry foods for sale. One will deliver your groceries as an added accommodation. It is a new order of things that we are coming to, it looks like.

The merchants of Scotia and perhaps other towns too, are not happy about the situation that has been forced on the country. It is a well known fact that the creameries have before been a main drawing card for merchants, to bring people to town, that is, to deliver their produce and while there, to buy their provisions. Now it turns out that the checks are delivered at the door and it has been found these checks are cashed in many other places than where the checks originated. The cheese factory at N. L. has run trucks for years and has discovered that their factory, outside the local help employed, did not materially help the trade of the other merchants of the city.

Three of these routes coming up my road, are operated by co-operatives, that is, so-called co-ops. These routes overlap into each other's territory, even the Ord route bringing on the Scotia route or vice versa and the operators are using all the fine Queen's English possible to win a customer. In the egg business, two of them guarantee thirteen cents a dozen and give the seller the benefit of the grade if the eggs go over. One even pays the 13c when they take the eggs at the door, the other returning the check the next trip.

There has been complaint of the fact that it is foolish for the co-ops to fight each other this way. The co-ops were established for the benefit of the farmers, to divide the profits and hold in line the big creameries, whom it was thought at one time, profited too much. It is alleged that this scheme of the co-ops fighting each other is just what the corporate creameries are wanting, and when, after the co-ops have fought and broke each other, the corporate creameries will have the field again.

Another point was brought out at the Ladies club in Riverdale last week. These women agreed that in the end and eventually, the farmer or producer always paid the bill, and he would pay for this trucking service too. They thought we were getting along all right before, taking our produce to town and we have to go to town anyway. This will just be one more cost to deduct from the 13c cream and 13c eggs.

I agree with what George Grimes said in the World-Herald Sunday. Nebraska is entirely too apt to let her talented native sons and daughters be enticed away. Mr. Grimes named Howard Hanson, musician, and a number of others, and said Helene Margaret, Omaha poetess, was being gently weaned away by Iowa. He told how Iowa encourages her talented folk to stay with her. But the University of Nebraska does not pay top wages, nor do the Nebraska schools. So as soon as our people begin to show signs of genius, some better endowed schools or foundations coax them from us. And they rarely come home to roost.

Comstock Coach Elected School Superintendent

At a meeting of the board of education at Comstock last week, Earl Dasher was elected superintendent of schools for the coming year. Mr. Dasher has been coach at Comstock this year, and his work has been so satisfactory it was decided to give him a chance in the better job.

A New Order May Time Cook's Column Yum Short Shavings

We wonder what is coming next. We wonder when the banks will start trucks to do their business; when the grocers will start a farm delivery service; when the churches will start routes to peddle their wares, administering them first hand.

Little Beverly Brown, daughter of Gene Brown did not want to go to bed Monday night for she hoped someone would hang her a May basket. Her mother tried to persuade her that it was most unlikely anyone would go that far off the road, back in the hills to hang them a May basket, but the child would not retire, wanting so badly for someone to hang her one.

Her fond hope was fulfilled however, for soon some cars drove into the yard and the baskets were hung. The Social Committee of the local Ladies club had arranged for their social that month to have a May basket hanging, stopping at every house in the community, taking everyone along, finally ending at Vern Thomas' for a short party and lunch. It was a profound secret from everyone except the committee, Vernon Thomas' and Alfred Christensen's.

This is a recipe of a sour cream spice cake that my wife has had made for years, the conclusion being drawn that it must be O. K. or she would have discontinued it. 3 eggs, 1 1/2 c. sour cream, 1 c. sugar, 1 tsp. soda, 1 tsp. cinnamon, 1/2 tsp. allspice, 2 cups of flour, 1 cup raisins, 1 tsp. baking powder, 1 tsp. cloves. Sift all dry ingredients together and bake about forty minutes in a moderate oven.

Primary in Mississippi Sure to Be Toss in Interest

Late in August most of the folks in the country will be more interested in the pennant races and the European situation than in domestic politics, but here in Washington there will be more interest in the Democratic gubernatorial primary in Mississippi than anything else—unless of course there is war in Europe by that time.

The reason for this is that the two contenders for the governorship have made the New Deal the issue. Former Gov. Martin Sennett (Mike) Conner is really responsible, for if he had not begun attacking the New Deal it seems likely that local issues would have predominated. But once Conner began his attack his opponent, Paul B. Johnson, naturally took the other side.

To make the situation more complicated Sen. Theodore G. (The Man) Bilbo is supporting Johnson. Sen. NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Reviewed by CARTER FIELD

Terrible stock market crash is predicted if war should break out in Europe... Democratic primary in Mississippi in August sure to arouse national attention... Illness of Harry Hopkins most important factor in the political situation.

WASHINGTON.—A very shrewd stock market operator, recently in Washington in connection with the government's concern over what might happen to our security values in the event of the outbreak of war in Europe, was talking to an old friend.

"If war should break out in Europe tomorrow," he said, "there will be a terrible crash in the stock market. If you want to make a big profit without any trouble whatever wait for that crash. Then buy any good stock to the limit of your financial ability. Hold it a little while and then sell it."

Most of us remember something about what happened in 1914. When the World War broke out the collapse of the stock market was so terrific that it was necessary to close it. Ignoring what the real value of stocks is, or was, the performance then was remarkable. Actually, most stocks which dropped to record lows in the autumn of 1929 afterwards made record highs.

Some folks are pointing out that this logic is faulty now because of the "take the profit out of war" movement. They are saying that congress would impose such terrific taxation, in the event that the United States got into the war, that no profit could possibly be made.

This is obviously true as far as prospective "war babies" are concerned. There will probably be another world war, resembling, from a financial viewpoint, that which existed shortly after the outbreak of the last World War, up until the entry of the United States into that war nearly three years after it began.

Neutrality laws today might prevent that sort of profits. But it is just possible that they might not. The theory in Washington at the moment is that the administration would not be "neutral in thought" if a world war should break out in Europe tomorrow. Best judgment today is that the administration has made it perfectly clear that in the event of a European war this country would be in strong sympathy with the democracies—Britain and France—from the first day.

If this is true, and it is difficult to deny it, the probability is that there would be "war babies." It is true that they would be subject to a higher rate of taxation than applied in 1914 and 1915, but it is scarcely reasonable to believe that they would be taxed to the point of diminishing returns.

Leaving the war babies aside, the best financial opinion is that war in Europe would mean extraordinary prosperity for the United States for a substantial period—prosperity not only for the manufacturers of war supplies, but for wheat and cotton farmers, for everybody.

Later on, assuming—as most observers do—that the United States would be dragged into the war, the taxation might be terrific. But just as the rain falls on the just and the unjust, so must war taxation fall. And most business men figure that high taxation and good business is better than low taxation and poor business.

So maybe the able financier is right! Primary in Mississippi Sure to Be Toss in Interest. Late in August most of the folks in the country will be more interested in the pennant races and the European situation than in domestic politics, but here in Washington there will be more interest in the Democratic gubernatorial primary in Mississippi than anything else—unless of course there is war in Europe by that time.

The reason for this is that the two contenders for the governorship have made the New Deal the issue. Former Gov. Martin Sennett (Mike) Conner is really responsible, for if he had not begun attacking the New Deal it seems likely that local issues would have predominated. But once Conner began his attack his opponent, Paul B. Johnson, naturally took the other side.

To make the situation more complicated Sen. Theodore G. (The Man) Bilbo is supporting Johnson. Sen. Pat Harrison has not moved into the fight as this is written, but his friends say that he will be found on the side of Conner, as being on the same side as Bilbo in any fight is unthinkable for Pat. Conner ran against Pat Harrison in the 1936 primary, and, though Pat beat him nearly three to one there was a stage in which the senator was badly frightened.

As is natural in such cases, some bitter things were said. Conner attacked Harrison among other things, for playing golf, intimating that he was wasting his time with this effete pastime instead of attending to the business of his Mississippi constituents. Pat Harrison's Golf Story Went Well With Voters "It's true that I play a few holes of golf every once in a while," Hararrison told Mississippi audiences. "The truth is that I do it on doctor's orders. The doctor came to see me a while back and, after an examination, said that I was obviously overworking, and that if I did not take some relaxation I would wind up in a hospital, or a cemetery."

"You are killing yourself," the doctor declared. I told him I could not help it; there was such a press of things that I must do for my country and for the people of Mississippi. Finally he compromised on my promise to play a few holes of golf every time I got a chance, just to give me some fresh air, and exercise, and sunshine."

Harrison's golf story went well with the Mississippi voters but it was his fear of being beaten in that campaign that tied him so closely to President Roosevelt, and made him take so many steps in that fealty which were to embarrass him later.

So, adding together the fact that Bilbo, Pat's bitter enemy, is supporting Johnson, who is defending the administration, to the fact that Conner is attacking the administration, maybe Pat will not be too distressed to support the man he was battling bitterly three years ago.

Health of Hopkins Takes On Political Significance. Perhaps the most important single factor in the political situation today is the state of health of Harry L. Hopkins. The secretary of commerce is a very sick man, according to several close friends. He is now being strongly advised to go back to Rochester, Minn., and undergo more drastic medical attention. If he should take this advice, he will not, of course, be at President Roosevelt's elbow and hence the strength of his pressure for the appeasement of business program will not be so potent.

The tremendous importance of this, both as to business and as to the next presidential election, cannot be exaggerated. It is beginning to be obvious that in the whole so-called appeasement program it is Hopkins and Hopkins alone, who can translate his ideas as to what should be done to encourage business into affirmative action by the President.

Hopkins' program for unshackling business was ambitious. It was tremendously encouraging. In fact it was the first sunshine, as business men see it, from within the ranks of the powers that be in Washington—if one excepts a few mirages—for as long as years. As unforced to individual senators, and to certain gentlemen having influence with the senate, it had many ramifications.

It was especially encouraging to business because it seemed to have sound political logic back of it, and Hopkins gave all and sundry to understand that the President approved both the political logic and the necessary steps involved. It looked, in short, to bringing about a real revival of business which should reach full flood before the election to be held in November, 1940, when the New Deal is either to be continued, under Roosevelt or some successor satisfactory to him, or else voted into outer darkness.

First Step to Stop Scrap With the Electric Industry. The very first step of this program, as Hopkins painted the picture, was to stop the scrap with the electric industry—to have TVA pay a fair price for the Tennessee properties, and to take other steps which would release the piled-up spending, amounting to four billions according to William O. Douglas, which fear of government has been restraining. Before Hopkins had been in office a week the first move was made on this. TVA agreed to buy the Tennessee properties. Later came another step. TVA announced it would pay the state and local governments where it operates a sum more commensurate with the taxes they would receive were privately owned companies operating the properties. It even went further and proposed a study of whether the TVA should not make some return to the federal treasury in lieu of corporation income taxes that the government would receive from the properties if privately operated.

Which, incidentally, is quite a commentary on the majority report of the special congressional investigating committee, which actually approved the yards tick. The majority of the committee disregarded the testimony of David B. Lilienthal, who said the government had certain advantages as against private companies in fixing rates — that the government can charge off large parts of the cost to navigation and flood control that it can borrow money on tax exempt bonds at 2 per cent or less, and that its contributions in lieu of taxes are only a fraction of what private companies would have to pay.

But Hopkins did pay attention to these factors. Since he started this one move he has been sick. And so has the rest of the appeasement program.

Denmark Depends on Cooperatives for Success

On April 19th Nebraska had the honor to have the Danish Crown Prince Frederik and his Princess Ingrid as visitors. From all accounts the Prince and Princess had a very good time while in this state, also had the pleasure of eating good old Nebraska's home grown corn fed beef-steak. (The best in the world.) We are very glad that they were here. Both of these royal visitors representing peaceful nations, Denmark and Sweden. The reason we are especially interested is that when the Crown Prince was asked about agriculture, he replied: "Some years are good and some are bad, though there is usually enough rain in Denmark." When asked again about the co-operative movements in Denmark, surprisingly he replied that he believed it is responsible for the success and stability of Danish agriculture. In Sweden he added, "nobody thought of opposing the co-operatives."

We as co-operators are greatly pleased with the reply the Crown Prince made. It is a well known fact that the thoroughly functioning of the co-operative movements is the very success of Denmark. It seems to influence the entire life of that nation and its people. We feel that it will do the same thing for us, when once the entire populace of this country gets co-operative minded, heart and soul.—Creamery News.

Getter the Last Veteran. Tujunga, Calif. April 30, 1939

To the Publisher of the Ord Quiz, Dear Leggett:— You may care to have a line or two from a man even tho he may be thousands of miles away.

I want to remark at the beginning that it seems remarkable to me that you can publish a paper like the Quiz with its many beautiful pictures and its paid columnists, Carter Field, Karl Grayson, R. H. Wilkinson and George Gowen.

I will class George along with those National Celebrities, for it is a fact Gowen's column is one of the finest to be looked for. Of course he does not know this, and even if he did, his modesty would forbid his admitting the fact, and by the way, I recently met this gentleman's splendid mother at an Ord picnic in Bixby Park in Long Beach.

There is a statement in the Quiz of recent date viz, that O. C. Rashaw might be classed as the last Valley County Civil War Veteran. It devolved upon me as Commander of Post No. 49 Grand Army of the Republic to muster into the Post Comrade O. C. Rashaw, a Loyal Ex. Soldier.

There are now not to exceed one per cent living of the thirteen hundred thousand boys who wore the Blue.

We are proud to feel that we assisted in maintaining this splendid government, Perpetuating the Union, thereby making this a mighty and powerful nation, one and indivisible, never more to be disrupted, where all peoples of the world may come and enjoy full liberty and freedom.

I have no doubt but this letter has already become too long, so I will close by wishing that you Friend Leggett may live and prosper, and continue to publish the splendid journal you do, and that you have fine success catching those fine fish up at that wonderful lake in Minnesota that you write so eloquently about.

Cordially yours, Marcus E. Getter, Ex. Soldier Co. I, 129th Regiment Ind. Vol. Inf. 6630 Olcott St. Tujunga, Calif.

AN OPEN LETTER

To the Citizens of Ord and the Irrigators of the North Loup Valley:

Owing to rumors which have been floating around I felt that I should address this communication to the voters and taxpayers of Ord, especially those of the second ward, and to the irrigators of this trade territory.

At the second caucus held of the voters of the second ward of Ord, called at my request, the names of two men were recommended to me for appointment to fill the vacancy as councilman from that ward, subject to the approval of the city council. These names were presented by me, as I promised, but were not confirmed by the council. I do not desire to criticize the council members in any way, as, under the law, it is their sworn duty to do what they think is for the best interest of the city.

When I was elected as Mayor, I stated to many persons that I was in favor of irrigation. I still am. I have recently presented to the chairman of the power committee of the irrigation district a plan, which I have been assured by my council, would be approved, which would involve a monthly cash payment to said district from the electric fund of this city in excess of the net profit received by this district per month during the time that it was upon the high line. This cash payment plan was offered to this district, with the sole purpose of assisting with irrigation for the irrigators of this valley.

It is my belief that a vast majority of the voters of this city are also strongly in favor of assisting the irrigation interests of this trade territory. I recognize that under this plan I submitted, we are endeavoring to not only assist irrigation but also to protect the past investments that have been made in the establishment of the municipal power plant in Ord by the voters of this city.

M. B. Cummins, Mayor of Ord

thousands of dollars in additional taxes. It should not be put into idleness and the investment there in should not be confiscated except upon a vote of the people.

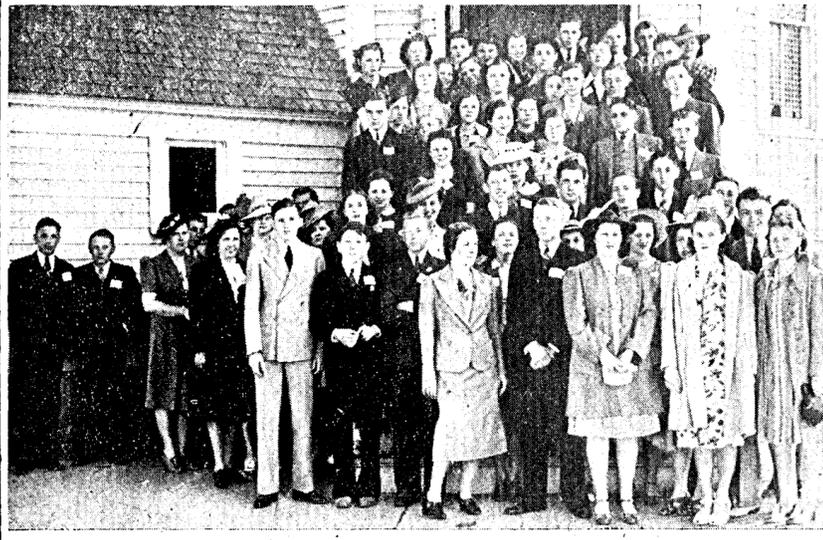

I cannot believe that the taxpayers of this city, the irrigators of this locality nor even the officers and directors of the district deem it necessary to virtually confiscate this local power plant, which is a source of revenue and efficient steady electrical service to the electrical customers of this city, when the present city administration is offering the irrigation district financial assistance equal to or in excess of the amount it would receive if Ord were on the high line, to help the district in operating its irrigation system. I really believe that if Mr. Wingfield of the P. W. A. would carefully examine this plan he would give it his approval under all the present circumstances and conditions.

It is also my firm belief that our citizens were completely satisfied with the power and light service they received from their own electrical plant and were not satisfied with the electrical service when Ord was connected to the high line. Our citizens were irrigation-minded. Our citizens were not power minded. Surely no fair minded person in this city would say that my first obligation as mayor is not to do all I can to protect the investment of the people of Ord in their municipal power plant and to be against its confiscation.

I sincerely believe that the purported contract between this city and the district would virtually amount to such confiscation of this plant if carried out. I also believe that before that purported contract would be legal, it should have been submitted and approved by the voters of Ord at a city election. I still don't believe that it is a legal or moral obligation until it is either approved by the voters or until the courts hold it to be valid. If my vote ever came to be decided on in our council on this question, I would request that a special election be held to approve or not approve the same. This is a right that is established by law and it should not be taken from the voters on a vital question of this kind.

I am submitting this as my own personal opinion but am at all times ready and willing to abide by any decision of the voters of Ord.

Former Arcadian Pitches No-Hit Game

The following extract from an item in the Daily Bulletin of Laramie, Wyo., should be of interest to the friends of John Higgins of Arcadia, who is attending Laramie university and playing on the baseball team.

"Wyoming's baseball bambinos, two year old infants of the Rocky Mountain conference, are doing right well for a weaning this season. Before the Regis college crowd the Wyoming club beat the Regis nine 6 to 4. Big Johnny Higgins, Cowboy flogger and burly right hander, masterfully set the Regis batters down without a hit. Higgins also contributed two hits in his two trips to the plate for a perfect day at bat."

ERICSON NEWS

Last Wednesday evening was one of the most successful Mother-Daughter banquets ever held here. It was under the auspices of the Ladies Aid of the Methodist church and captured the interest of most of the women and girls of the community. It was held in the Odd Fellows hall as rooms at the church were inadequate. There were 87 plates. The room and tables were very beautifully decorated and a very spley program of local talent was given between courses. The success of this kind of an event last year and this probably means that this will be a regular annual event.

The Ericson grade school took the county grade school track meet at Bartlett last Wednesday, May 3. We cannot give the record of every one but a few of the high records were as follows: Holt Pierce, in 8 events, won first in three, four 2nds and one 3rd, getting a total of 28 points; Erma McVay, in 4 events, got 4 firsts, and 20 points; Harold Pierce, 5 events, got 2 first and 16 points; Dudley Poulk, in 6 events, got 3 firsts, one 2nd, two 3rds and 20 points. Lloyd Foster made the 440 yard dash in 1 minute, 10.6 seconds. Leon Fouk threw the discus 78 feet. Most all of the other entries were very creditable. Here is a challenge to keep this record another year.

Mrs. Pearl Pierce, Bertha Jean Pierce and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hoefner and daughter went to Greeley Sunday to enjoy part of the few days of family reunion of five aunts of Mrs. Pierce. They are: Mrs. Sadie Cram and Miss Nettie Hill of Greeley, Mrs. DeLancey of Hastings, Mrs. P. J. Cook of Oakland, Calif., and Mrs. Ed Conklin of Pasadena, Calif. These sisters are now getting well up in years and were members of the Hill family of early days in the Mud Creek community.

Mrs. Wm. Cheyney came home again Saturday from Aurora for a little stay at home.

Monday was Achievement Day for the county Women's clubs and a number of the members from here attended.

Traffic Laws

By R. H. WILKINSON
Associated Newspapers.
WNU Service.

"JO, THAT'S the last time you'll take the car out alone! I'm tired of getting you out of jams. Sergeant Ryan is tired of it, too. He told me today that he'd let you off for the last time."

"Really, Art, you're getting all excited over the silly business. The car is mine as much as it is yours. Moreover, I intend to drive it. I've got to learn some time."

"Now look here, Jo, I've listened to that story for the last time. It's always the same. In my opinion, women shouldn't be allowed to drive cars anyhow. They don't attach enough importance to it."

Art Phillips went out and slammed the door. Jo, his wife, watched him drive away. Of late Art had been considerate enough to leave the car at home for her use, and ride to work on the bus. But now it looked as if all that was over. Art was really angry.

Jo didn't mind so very much. But the fact that that afternoon she was scheduled to be at a bridge party in the neighboring town of Benton, and had been depending upon the car to transport her there, was annoying.

Jo glanced at her watch. The last bus to Benton for over an hour had left ten minutes ago. She became a little panicky at thoughts of being deprived of the afternoon of bridge.

Then, abruptly, came a thought. Quick action followed. She dashed upstairs, dressed quickly, and ten minutes later was on a bus riding down town. As she had expected, the car was parked at the curb in front of Art's office.

Feeling somewhat like a small boy stealing apples, she climbed into the car and was away. Once beyond the city limits she didn't care a hoot whether Art discovered the theft or not. It would do him good.

Jo arrived back in town just before five. She parked the car in the exact spot where it had stood three hours previous, caught an outgoing bus, and was home by 5:15. She had hardly divested herself of coat and hat when the phone rang.

"Hello, honey," he began sweetly. "Sorry I can't be home to dinner. Something happened to the car this afternoon. I brought it to a garage and left it there. They just called and said it wouldn't be ready until seven. Guess I'll wait."

Jo's heart leaped. For a moment she was silent. Then: "What—what time did you say you brought the car to the garage?"

"Oh." Jo hung up without replying. She felt weak and wanted to sit down. So this was why Art had been making excuses to stay out late. Probably carrying on an affair with another woman. And she, Jo, had believed in him implicitly.

She suddenly flung herself on a divan and wept.

A half hour later Jo dried her eyes and went upstairs. Her mind was made up. She'd pack and leave on the 6:30 train. She could never be happy with Art again. She could never trust him, never feel that he was loyal and fine as she had always thought.

Hastily she packed, scribbled a note, briefly explaining that she knew of his deceit, and went downstairs, paused at the foot and stared wide-eyed.

Art, grinning broadly, was standing in the center of the living room floor.

"Going some place?" he asked. "Say, I'm glad I got home in time to see you off. They brought the car around earlier than I expected and . . ."

"Art! Please! I don't care to listen to more of your lies!" She tried to get past him, but Art stepped in her way.

"Don't be foolish, Jo. You'll regret it. Wait till you hear my story."

Jo paused. After all, it was only fair to let him explain. She did love him, and she'd never feel right unless she had given him a chance.

"All right. But hurry."

"Then, you do care? You're not really going to run out and leave me flat? I didn't think you would, honey."

"I said I'd listen."

"Jo," Art suddenly swept her into his arms. "Jo, I don't blame you for getting sore. I shouldn't have taken the car, knowing you wanted it this afternoon. But," he paused to grin, "the fact is I saw you drive off from in front of the office. I wanted to teach you a lesson. That's why I hatched up that story about the garage. You see, I went up there this afternoon to make arrangements to have them give you driving lessons. That's what gave me the idea. I was at the garage when I called. And that's why I was so late in getting home."

Jo, both arms about Art's shoulders, reached inside her bag, extracted the note and crumpled it into nothingness.

The Junior-Senior banquet, which was held in the dining room of the Methodist church Friday evening, was developed around the pirate idea. Small colored parrots perched on water glasses held the place cards in their bills. Favors were realistic looking rubber daggers. Nut cups were blue, and decorated with a little white and gold ship. GWENDOLYN SNIDER

JOE LEE

The usual welcome and response were given by the president of the Junior and Senior classes, Edwin Christ and Carolene Brown, respectively. Mr. Nygren entertained with a solo which was thoroughly enjoyed. The sophomores, who served the dinner, were attired in typical pirate garb. Immediately after the dinner the juniors and their guests went to the high school auditorium for the event. As soon as the guests assembled, a spotlight was thrown upon the stage. Two of the sophomore pirates appeared in the two arches and played a fanfare on their trumpets. Then the queen (Gwendolyn Snider) and the king (Joe Lee) of the Senior class appeared. Their identity had been kept a secret and was only revealed at this time. They stopped a moment under the arches, then together moved to the front of the stage. Edwin Christ, Junior president, gave the Queen the cord which released the small balloons from the huge one, which was suspended from the center of the auditorium. The pirate waiters and waitresses entertained with a sailor's hornpipe, after that the floor was soon full of dancers and the rest of the evening was spent in dancing. The auditorium was decorated in blue and gold, the senior colors. The class roll: Ellwyn Apperson, LaVonne I. Jones, William Babel, Joe Lee, Alice E. Bauhard, Darr L. ## Dairy By-Products For Pig Feed

Whole milk is the food designed by nature for young mammals. It contains all of the constituents needed for growth except possibly iron. The value of the buttermilk generally precludes the use of whole milk for pig feed except under unusual circumstances.

Skim milk is undoubtedly the best farm grown protein supplement for pig feeding. It supplies an abundance of protein of excellent quality, together with ample quantities of minerals for growth and development. Skim milk is deficient in the fat-soluble vitamins and care should be exercised to secure a supply through one of the other feeds used.

The monetary value of skim milk naturally varies with the price of other feeds, the price of hogs and the amount of milk fed. It is more valuable for young pigs than for pigs in the last stage of fattening. An old rule generally given is that for supplementing corn, 100 pounds of skim milk is worth one-half the price of corn per bushel.—Creamery News.

MEDICAL FACTS

Sponsored by
4-COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

"We are now in fact the possessors of better general health, are less afflicted with disease known to be preventable, are more secure in the survival and growth of our offspring to maturity, and have an average expectancy of life greater than any population group in the history of man, comparable in size, variety of races, economic and climatic conditions. We are today as this year draws to its close at the very zenith of a march of progress toward health. Never before on this or any other continent have any 130,000,000 people recorded such low death rates as will be reported in the United States for the year 1938, for all causes, for tuberculosis, typhoid, diptheria and infant mortality. Not in our time has the maternal mortality been so low, or the death rate from pneumonia.

The above is taken from an address by Dr. Hven Emerson, professor of public health practice at Columbia University, November 18, 1938. I suggest that you read over the above paragraph several times, as I have done, because it is so packed with startling information that it is difficult to grasp at the first reading. One of the first quests this brings to my mind is "Why are these startling facts true?" Let us, for a few moments, analyze some of the reasons.

Perhaps one of the first reasons we should mention is the intelligence of the people of the United States. No matter what benefits in regard to health are offered to the public, they cannot be successful if the public is not intelligent enough to see their value and permit their application. Then, also, the demand made by the people for medical service of high grade goes a long way toward assuring the delivery of that kind of service. In other words, if you did not permit your doctor to give you the benefits of his knowledge, he would be unable to do so. If you were satisfied with mediocre medical service that would be the kind you would be still getting.

The next reason why Doctor Emerson could make the above statement is the tenacity with which the medical profession clings to the philosophy underlying its work. A few nights ago I heard a lecture by a chemist. He pointed out that the chemists of the United States are constantly seeking and recording truth. The total volume of this per year is enormous but there is no underlying philosophy which ties together the products of their work, making it all apply to a single purpose. He drew attention for comparison, to the research work of doctors and stated that every problem undertaken by them had one underlying reason or purpose, namely the benefit of society, to find further means of preventing and curing disease. This is absolutely true. The discovery made in some laboratory or research institution, or as has often been the case, by some country practitioner, casting new light on the cause, cure or prevention of disease is

50th Graduating Class at North Loup Honored Thursday

First Class in 1889 Had One Member, 14 Get Diplomas Fifty Years Later.

North Loup—(Special)—Fifty years ago, in the spring of 1889, the high school of this village held its first commencement program. There was only one graduate that year, George Babcock, who later spent many years as a Y. M. C. A. worker in Mexico, but is now dead. Thursday evening at the high school's golden anniversary commencement program 14 students were given diplomas. In the 1939 class were seven boys and seven girls. They are: James Birmingham, George Cox, Paul Goodrich, Carlisle Hoepner, Velma Jackson, Lillian Babcock, Iris Barber, Muriel Bartz, Betty Jo Manchester, George Maxson, Jr., Cletus Nolde, Darwin Sheldon, Lyda Smith and Myrtle Taylor.

The old North Loup high school was built in 1886 and the fine structure in which schools are housed at present was put up in 1925.

Commencement speaker Thursday evening was Horace M. Davis, who graduated in 1891 and was a student in the schools here when the first class was graduated. Much of Mr. Davis' talk was devoted to a contrast between educational advantages enjoyed by students of 50 years ago and the present time.

Other features included a number by a mixed quartet composed of Mavis Schudel, Muriel Bartz, Laverne Hutchins and Wayne Babcock, with Warren Brannen at the piano; a saxophone solo by Darwin Sheldon; a clarinet solo by Donald Hutchins.

The salutatorian's address was delivered by Velma Jackson and the valedictorian's address by Lillian Babcock.

Superintendent W. W. Willis presented the class and Albert Babcock, as president of the school board, presented the diplomas.

A $150 scholarship to any Nebraska teachers' college was won by Lillian Babcock and another scholarship of similar value good at any of the church colleges was given to Betty Jo Manchester. The activities medal went to Paul Goodrich, this medal being given annually for the most outstanding work in athletics.

Ever since 1889 North Loup high school has graduated students except in 1894, when no students qualified for diplomas. Several years there have been only one or two graduates. The 1939 class of 14 is about of average size.

Leases Burrows Station. Joe Rowbal has leased the Burrows filling station and bought the equipment and stock on hand and starting Saturday the station will be operated by Joe's son, Richard F. Rowbal. Jack Burrows, who has been running the station, leaves this week for the west in hope of bettering his health.

Poppy Day Will Be Saturday, May 27th

Following the custom of having Poppy Day on the last Saturday of May, Mrs. Harry Wolfe, president of Fidelity unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, has announced that poppies will be sold this year on Saturday, May 27. The observance will be led by the ladies of the auxiliary, who will assist a group of junior auxiliary members in distributing the poppies that day.

More than eleven million of the little red flowers, symbolic of the battle fields of France, replicas of the poppies that grow on the fields over which soldiers fought for democracy in the World War, have been made by disabled war veterans in the hospitals and are now ready for distribution.

Mrs. Alfred L. Hill has been chosen Unit Poppy chairman, and will be aided by a large committee. Poppies for distribution have been ordered from Lincoln, Nebr., where disabled veterans have been busy through the winter and spring making the little mementos. They are expected to be worn more generally than ever on Poppy Day this year.

Cecil Hansen Opening New Suburban Grocery

Ord will have a new grocery store this week, to be operated on West M street in the building where Frank Dworak, Jr., formerly had a suburban store. Cecil Hansen will manage the store, and it is owned jointly by Mr. Hansen and his father-in-law, Val Pullen, of Odebolt, Ia.

Quick deliveries at any hour of the day will be featured by the new store, which is called the White Spot Grocery. The store will be open from 6:30 a. m. until 10 p. m., daily except Sundays.

3 Boys Are Fined For Stealing Fowls

John L. Andersen reported a heavy week's business with two marriages and several infractions of the law. May 12 Fred Hatten of Grand Island was picked up by Game Warden Norman Wolfe for taking a catfish that was too small. He was fined $10 and costs of $2.75, which he paid and was released.

Monday Frank Fajmon was arrested by Wolfe for fishing without a license and was fined $5 and costs, which amounted to $8, because Mr. Fajmon refused to appear without a warrant being issued. Tuesday morning he had not raised the money and was still in custody.

Monday Robert Albers, 17, Dean Blessing, 17, and Melvin Moore, 16, were arrested by Marshal L. H. Covert, who signed the complaints, charging each with the theft of a fowl. Albers and Blessing obtained their fowls from Frank Koupal, and Moore from his stepfather, N. J. Holt.

They entered pleas of guilty as charged, and as it was the first offense in each case, the judge took the age of the boys into consideration and paroled them, Moore and Blessing to John Misko, and Albers to V. W. Russell, by whom he is employed on Saturdays.

The terms of the parole are very strict and include restitution in double the amount of the theft, the payment of the costs of the action, both to be made in four months by money earned by themselves. The judge also laid down a number of rules of conduct which the boys must follow faithfully.

State Engineers at Work On Ord-North Loup Road

A crew of state engineers are busy at the present time running a preliminary survey of the proposed new Ord-North Loup highway. While there is no definite information as to when the work will begin, it is expected that it may start next fall.

The object of pushing the work on the Ord-Loup City highway at this time is to get it in shape for graveling, which the state will do to provide a detour while the work is being done on highway No. 11. The work on No 11 will doubtless start as soon as the detour is ready.

Lawrence Kusek Wins Bank Essay Contest Lawrence Kusek, a senior in Ord high school, is announced as winner of the essay contest sponsored by the First National bank on the subject, "The Value of the Bank to the Community." ### Charles Verzal, 59, Drops Dead Sunday After Auto Afire Heart Attack Brings Death to Bachelor-Farmer After an Exciting Experience.

Heart failure claimed another victim in the person of Charles Verzal, 59, who passed suddenly while engaged in conversation with a neighbor, Chester Kirby, at his home northwest of Ord Sunday evening. He was talking and laughing when he toppled over. Mr. Kirby raised his head and shoulders but it was soon evident that life was extinct.

Shortly before his death he had extinguished a fire that started under the hood of his car by throwing sand upon it, and the excitement and exertion may have been a contributing cause. While he was not accustomed to complain of his physical condition, it is certain that his heart had been weak for some time.

Sheriff Round was notified and he and Dr. John Round went out immediately. Shortly after Coroner John Misko was also called, and it was so evident that death was due to natural cause that no inquest was held.

Relatives were notified, and a sister, Mrs. Annie Showalter came up from Omaha Monday. A brother, John, of Compton, Calif., sent word that he would be unable to come. Another sister, Mrs. Mary Hagemann, of Ponoka, Alberta, Canada, sent word that she would attend, and the funeral was set for Friday to give her time to arrive.

Later word was received from Mrs. Hagemann's son that his mother would not be able to come because of doctor's orders. In addition to the relatives mentioned Mr. Verzal is survived by a brother, Joe, and four other sisters, Mrs. Katharine May, Mrs. Sophia Novak, Mrs. Ina Klimak and Mrs. Rosie Worzal. Two brothers preceded him in death some twenty years ago.

Funeral services will be held from the Ord Catholic church Friday morning at 10. The Knights of Columbus, of which he was a member, will attend in a body, hold their ritualistic service, and furnish the pall bearers. The Rosary will be at the Ord Catholic church on Thursday evening at 8:00. The Frazier mortuary has charge of the arrangements.

Mr. Verzal was a man of high character and much esteemed by all who knew him. He was one of the first men in the valley to experiment in well irrigation, and his experiments on his farm were watched with interest. He also owned a half section of land in the hills west of where his farm is located. He was nearly 59 years of age at the time of his death.

Identity of Honor Graduates of Ord High School Revealed

Identity of the 1939 honor graduates of Ord high school was revealed this week, Wilma Kluna being announced as valedictorian, Adeline Kusek as salutatorian and Allen Zikmund as winner of the Haskell-Melia trophy.

To become valedictorian, Wilma had the highest 4-year scholastic average of any graduate, while Adeline had the next highest average. The Haskell-Melia trophy, which goes to Allen Zikmund this year, was established by the class of 1937 in memory of the two members of that class who met death in an automobile accident. It is given for outstanding performances in the field of athletics, music, annual staff, Hi-Y and scholarship.

Wilma Richardson, who won a competitive examination, is announced as winner of the Regents' scholarship to the University of Nebraska. As valedictorian, Wilma Kluna will receive a scholarship good at any of Nebraska's teachers' colleges, while Adeline Kusek wins a scholarship to any of Nebraska's church colleges. Marilyn Dale is alternate for the Regents' scholarship.

Track Athletes 3rd in Class B

Allen Zikmund Places First in Broadjump and Other Boys Add Points.

Neligh, paced by Leslie Reiss and Gene Grace, dominated the Class B section of the state track meet at Lincoln Friday and Saturday and scored first with 33 points while the most Ord could muster was 10-4-4 for third place. Oshkosh barely edged out the Ord boys to capture second place with 11 points.

Allen Zikmund's broadjump of 21 feet 4 5/8 inches gave Ord its only first place but they scored in several other events. In the high jump Zikmund tied for third and fourth places, in the discus event he placed second with a toss of 136 feet 3/4 inches, in the pole vault Raymond Tatlow tied for fourth place; and in the relay Ord scored fourth place.

As was expected, Lincoln won in Class A, while in Class C Winnebago romped home. Ohiowa won Class D. Four new records were set in the 120 yard high hurdles, 15.1 by Ralph King of Waterloo, 200 yard lows, 23.1 by Lawrence Retzlaff of Pierce, 880 yard run, 1:59.3 by Bob Ginn of Madison, and discus, 153 feet 3/4 inches, by Howard Debus, of Lincoln.

Ord boys who made the trip with Coaches H. F. Brockman and Frank Lee included Allen Zikmund, Don Dahlin, Gerald Stoddard, Ray Hurlbert, Emil Krikac, Dean Bresley, Raymond Tatlow and Bob Tunnicliff.

The Ord golf team also went to Lincoln and competed in the state scholastic tournament on Pioneer course, placing 8th in a field of 23 teams. Only Omaha and Lincoln teams placed above them. On the golf team are Boyd Rose, Robert Malotepsky and Ray Furtak.

Mortensens Tell Rotarians, Cosmos, of New York Fair

Ord People Who Attended the Opening April 30 Describe Event to Service Clubs.

The Ord Cosmopolitan club enjoyed a real treat when they listened to C. J. Mortensen Monday evening at the City Cafe, as he described some of the sights he saw when he attended the opening of the New York World's fair, while at the same hour at Thorne's cafe members of the Ord Rotary club were enjoying a similar talk by Mrs. Mortensen, who attended the "World of Tomorrow" exposition with her husband.

Both agreed that the sight that impresses visitors at the fair more than anything else is the Trylon and Perisphere, symbolic of America of the future. The first day they found it difficult to get anywhere or do anything for the reason that 605,000 people were all trying to do the same things and go to the same places at the same time.

The main trouble seemed to be, Mr. Mortensen told Cosmos, that there was no chance to get anything to eat. People had to stand in line for from 45 minutes to two hours to get even a sandwich. After the first day the fair was much better organized and the crowd less, and the long waits were done away with. With thousands of others they heard the president's address over the loud speakers, and caught a glimpse of him through the television instrument, displayed publicly for the first time.

The "World of Tomorrow" exhibit housed in the Perisphere is the most marvelous thing she saw during her 2 1/2 days at the exhibition. Mrs. Mortensen told Rotarians, New metals, new fabrics, new plastics and hundreds of new developments of all kinds are on display in a beautiful setting, she said.

The General Motors exhibit was of special interest, displaying a miniature of the nation's highways as they will probably appear about 1960. The Ford exhibit was not so (Continued on Page 4).

2 Ord Musicians Place High at the National Contest

Highly Superior Rating Won By Ord Girl, Superior to Dick Koupal.

Competing against dozens of the finest high school musicians from the central section of the United States, two Ord students—Angelina Wachtler and Dick Koupal—made a splendid showing last Friday and Saturday at Colorado Springs where the district national music contest was held.

Angelina gave a No. 1 or highly superior, rating, for her bassoon solo, while Dick won a No. 2, or superior, rating for his baritone horn solo.

The young people accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Dean S. Duncan to the contest and returned Sunday. About 8,000 young musicians took part in various divisions of the meet.

Beck Restaurant Closes. Today Burr Beck is closing the restaurant he leased a few months ago from Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kerchal and the equipment is being removed and stored in the Kerchal garage. Sophie McBeth's beauty parlor will occupy the building in the near future.

Bud Anderson Circus Pleases Its Patrons

The extensive modern equipment and high quality of the varied acts presented by the Bud Anderson circus Friday made a favorable impression on the patrons who filled the tent for the two performances, afternoon and evening. While not as large as the circuses of the past, it made up in quality what it lacked in quantity, and the public was satisfied. About 1,500 children used Quiz tickets to attend the afternoon performance.

Groups of highly trained acrobats went through breath taking performances in the ring. The band, few in numbers but highly efficient in performance, put lots of pep into the many performances. The clowns, without which no circus would be complete, kept the kiddies and some not so young in a continuous state of mirth and expectation. The elephant acts were especially good.

A main feature of the show was the display of pure bred horses and fine draft stock featured in a number of acts. The quality of these animals was above that usually seen in a traveling show. The show was of a much higher type than some that have visited Ord in the past and fully lived up to the promises put out in its advertising.

13 Ord Scouts Honored Monday

Arcadia and Loup City Boys Also Took Part in Ceremony at Hi School.

Monday evening at the Ord high school auditorium with Scout Executive Willis Elliott, of Lincoln, in charge, 13 Ord Boy Scouts and several from Arcadia and Loup City were elevated in rank or received merit badges at a "court of honor" ceremony, the first held in Ord since the Scout troop was reorganized.

First the Scouts went before an examining board composed, for Ord, of George Allen, chairman, C. C. Thompson, M. Biemond, Wm. Sack, J. A. Kovanda and Fred Carhill. Examining boards from Arcadia and Loup City sat with the local board and gave the tests in which Scouts proved their fitness for higher rank.

Ord boys who went from tenderfoot to 2nd class Scouts were Bobby Haught, Kenneth Hoyt, Keith Kovanda, James Ollis and Raymond Biemond. Elevated from 2nd class Scouts to 1st class Scouts were David Milliken, Gould Flagg, Harry McBeth, Bobby McBeth and Orville Stoddard. Warren Allen became a Star Scout, having 7 merit badges, and Corky Biemond became a Star Scout with 6. Gerald Jirak was given a 2nd class merit badge in music. Badges and symbols of higher rank were given by Executive Elliot.

A program was presented by the Ord troop, features being a concert by a swing band led by Warren Allen, a number by a trumpet trio composed of James Ollis, Orville Stoddard and Gerald Jirak, and a first aid demonstration.

There are now 31 Scouts in the Ord troop, 13 of them having the first class rank. Rex Jewett is scoutmaster and Wilmer Anderson assistant scoutmaster. The program Monday evening was open to the public and a large group of Ord parents and friends attended, as well as a number from the other towns.

THE GREAT AMERICAN CIRCUS.

One of America's great institutions which is being crowded into the background by the march of time is the American circus.

The name circus goes much further back into history, and was the name given to a nearly oblong building without a roof built by the Romans in which to run their chariot races, and in which exhibitions of pugilism, wrestling and other sport took place.

The modern circus resembles that of olden times in many respects. It is essentially a place in which exhibitions of all kinds are held. It is oblong in shape, with the seats arranged around the outside.

It differs materially from the ancient circus in that it is designed for one day stands, or at most, not to exceed a week in any one place.

There were all kinds of traveling shows prior to the development of the three ring circus, but the first really great show was that developed by Phineas Taylor Barnum in 1871.

Barnum developed a huge traveling show which traveled about the country by train, with a small army of performers and an even larger army of men to set up the tents and seats and tear them down again.

Counter attractions were the cause of the fall of the circus in America. The development of the motion picture industry alienated the affections of thousands of potential circus fans.

Today the circus travels by truck and those that still survive offer the public fully as much for their money as did the big shows of former years.

IT IS NOT PERMITTED. It is not the purpose of this article to say "Thou Shalt" or "Thou Shalt Not," for this has already been done in the ordinances of the city of Ord.

For example, there is the section applying to air guns, niggershooters or slingshots. These are not to be discharged in the city limits.

The riding of bicycles and coaster wagons on the sidewalks in Ord is permitted, although it is contrary to ordinance, because of the fact that it lessens the danger of the riders being struck by automobiles.

Aerial traffic above Ord must maintain an altitude of at least 2,000 feet, the law says, and there is to be no stunting above the corporate limits.

Children under 16 are prohibited from loitering on the streets, alleys, vacant lots or another's property in the city of Ord, after 9 p. m., except when accompanied by their parents, on errands for their parents, or attending some lawful assemblage.

Section 21 of the city code applies to everybody who is old enough to walk alone. It says: "No pedestrian shall cross any street at a place other than the sidewalk, or cross any street intersection diagonally."

One source of annoyance to passersby very difficult to regulate is the height of overhanging branches above sidewalks. The ordinance specifies that these shall be at least 7 feet above the sidewalk, and most of them are when the weather is dry.

The correct height for awnings above the sidewalk is 7 feet also, and they are not supposed to project over more than three-fourths of the width of the sidewalk.

Section 5 of the waterworks ordinance is important, yet it is not likely that many of the citizens of Ord know of its provisions. It states that private use of city water during a fire is prohibited, and that all hydrants should be kept closed at such time.

These are but a few of the sections of our municipal code that are frequently broken, and they are given simply to prove to the public that we are all law breakers in one way or another.

There are all kinds of traveling shows prior to the development of the three ring circus, but the first really great show was that developed by Phineas Taylor Barnum in 1871.

The best way to save rainfall is by covering the ground with straw. This method beats the damming lister, the plow, or the disc, according to tests being conducted in Nebraska by the state and federal agencies.

The most valuable practice is to cover the ground with straw, then work it with a duck-foot machine just often enough to keep the weeds down.

Plowing under straw coated land does not work so well. It keeps a third of the rainfall. The plowing of bare land only saves one-fifth of the rain.

The basin lister retains 27 per cent of the rainfall. An objection to listing is that it causes more surface to be exposed to evaporation by ridging the ground.

The plowing under of decayed straw was found to be worthless as a means of increasing a soil's water-holding capacity.

A top dressing of straw not only retards evaporation, but also lets more water go into the ground when rain first strikes the earth. It soaks in rapidly.

Straw prevents the formation of this surface film. Soil under straw will steadily take in water at the rate of three-fourths inch per hour.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT! For the Gardener Short Shavings

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

For the Gardener. Mrs. Sylvia Brannon told Mrs. Joe Fisher and she told Mrs. Gowen, that in as much as the Heavenly Blue Morning glory seeds are so slow in coming out of the ground, she (Mrs. Brannon) simply takes a file and cuts the shell of the seed until she can see the white, and then when she plants the seeds they come up pronto.

Last fall Mrs. Fisher had some lettuce that she had not planted, so she sowed it about her garden. Early this spring this lettuce came up and there has been enough to supply her table ever since.

Mrs. Fisher received from a seed house where she sent an order, a gift package of petunia seed called Blue Bees. Mrs. Fisher thinks they must be something especially nice and very different than any other petunia for she has been unable to find this kind of seed advertised in the catalogue of the house that sent her the present or any other catalogue.

One of the most beautiful plants that Mrs. Fisher has now is a Missouri Bluebell belonging to Mrs. Alfred Crandall. It blooms in clusters the buds, a delicate pink, but after they open a blue, so the cluster or combination is blue and pink. Mrs. Fisher gathered from what Mrs. Crandall said, these grow wild in Missouri.

Mrs. Crandall was so choiced of this plant that she never would divide it for fear of killing it, but in transplanting it outdoors this spring, Mrs. Fisher accidentally did break off a clump. She transplanted this and it is growing nicely, so she hopes to have a plant for herself when she has to return the main one to Mrs. Crandall.

Joe Veleba does not plant his gladioli until the first of June, he maintains that the later plants are in the cooler weather, grow better blossoms. Joe has grown gladioli and bulbs during all the dry years without irrigation.

Mrs. E. E. Davis has a Chinese elm tree that produces seeds and about the yard she had dozens of small seedlings coming up. Mrs. Mills Hill said that with peonies, if one would pick off all the buds except one on each stem, the one would be a much nicer flower when it did bloom than all the others.

Mr. Anderson has more unselfish interest in the welfare of those who come after him than anyone I have ever known. Particularly in children, and young people. Mr. Anderson studies constantly, and has a lively concern in such things as schools, and trees, and parks, and yards. And churches.

Mr. Anderson came over to call on me while I dug dandelions, one recent afternoon. He inquired what I was going to do to see that Ord got a community church. He said, "You and Mrs. Misko seem to have a good deal the same idea on the subject. You know, don't you, that there wouldn't be any religion in a community if it were left to the men to provide? Well, then, you know that it is up to you women to do something about it. The question is what are you going to do about it?"

"You know," Mr. Anderson went on, "someone always has to go ahead with such a project. Mr. Anderson went on to tell a bit about his own life. "The first forty years of my life I lived in constant fear," said he. "I was brought up to fear God, and I did. I thought he was around every corner, behind every bush watching me." He said that since he was a boy he had read the Christian Advocate, and often enjoyed corresponding with the editor.

There are some 126 separate Protestant religious sects, says Mr. Anderson, and points to the consolidating work of most of these churches in Canada as proof that such consolidation does help. In Canada the community churches are a much stronger factor than they were before they combined, he says, adding that he followed the experiment with great interest. It had long been a pet idea of his.

When Rev. Real was in charge of the Presbyterian church in Ord he almost succeeded in effecting such a union between his church and the Methodist church. Nearly all necessary work of organization was completed, at one time. I distinctly remember that two columns of information about the details was already in type in the Quiz office, when p-pou-ff... the deal was off. I am not positive now, but I believe the Christian church was included in the plan.

The plans almost succeeded that time. Perhaps next time they can be completed. What do you think of it? Write a letter to the Quiz or talk to your neighbors about it, will you please? Coach Brockman comes of German stock and had several cousins and near relatives there with whom he corresponded until recently. His relatives were students, professors, well informed as to what went on, so when Mr. Brockman read in their letters the phrase "We're so happy about Czecho-Slovakia," without any further explanation, he was a little puzzled.

But when some of the relatives hot, but the editors wouldn't even print it the first time. And saying these good things over and over is all right in other ways too. At a recent commencement exercise in a nearby town, the speech given by the valedictorian was identically the same as was given by the valedictorian five or more years ago. This speech was furnished by the superintendent who sent off to the mail order house for it, or at least, it was alleged that he did.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

President looks upon Jesse H. Jones as potential enemy of New Deal. Watchful waiting is attitude of business, which looks to next year's election for decided change. Roosevelt-Wheeler feud may draw to close.

WASHINGTON.—Jesse H. Jones, the Houston banker who has been the "greatest leader in the world" as head of the RFC since he was appointed to that body by President Hoover, was recently offered the post of secretary of the navy by President Roosevelt, but declined it with thanks.

Jesse's friends insist that it was nothing but a move to shove him as everybody knows that the post of secretary of the navy under this administration is merely a niche for a figurehead.

Wagner Act Useless In Event of War. Then take Wagner act revision. Everyone knows congress would act very differently in a war emergency in dealing with amendments to this law. If indeed there were any necessity for touching it at all in a war emergency, Labor's attitude would be very different. There would be little interest and no sympathy for any move to restrict hours, all the pressure in the world for getting more wages.

And consider the wage and hour act. There would be no inclination to remove any floor under wage levels. In waiting that would take care of itself. But there would be tremendous opposition to any attempt to restrict working hours.

So, all in all, with the prospect of a more friendly President, who would sign legislation from a more friendly congress (everyone knows that it would be terribly difficult to muster a two-thirds vote to override a Roosevelt veto of any change in existing law that he did not approve), plus the possibility of a war emergency, why get all hot and bothered about changes which will "run only (a) until the next President came in, or (b) until war broke?"

Wheeler in Background During 1932 Campaign. With two other radicals, Wheeler was kept in the background during the 1932 campaign. It was thought that Roosevelt was sure of the liberal vote, as against Herbert Hoover, and hence speeches by Wheeler Huey Long and Clarence C. Dill would do him little good. In fact they might do harm by alienating conservative support.

After the election Wheeler found he was sidetracked for a different reason. The President was very fond, personally, of Bruce Kramer, for years national committeeman from Montana, and Wheeler's bitter political enemy in the state. As a result Kramer got all the gravy, and Wheeler was ignored.

Wheeler sizzled within, but kept peace on the surface, for five years. But if he was biding his time for revenge, he could not have planned it better himself when the opportunity to oppose the President on the portfolios was made only after several senators and members of the house with whom the President had discussed changes he proposed to make under the reorganization bill, told him he would run into a hot net's nest on Capitol Hill if he tried kicking Jesse Jones around.

The President was told that there was not only the certainty of trouble, but the real probability that congress might actually veto the whole set of changes—under its power to disapprove within 60 days—if the President should attempt to put Jones, in whom Congress has great confidence, under Hopkins, about whom congress is very skeptical.

So he tried to kick Jones upstairs but Jones preferred the floor he has been working so long. As a matter of fact, Jones though a conservative at heart, is probably the most powerful figure in Washington outside the White House and immediate environs.

Business Enters Period Of Watchful Waiting. "Watchful Waiting" is now the attitude of business, big and little, as contrasted with the earlier prodding and pleading for relief at the hands of congress from what it regards as the harsh and distorted economic philosophy of the New Deal.

Answer? Twofold. Business believes firmly that it will get relief from New Deal oppression—not only changes in the law, but in the succeeding in leaving that land and reaching this one, they breathed great sighs of relief. They lost no time in stating that they were happy to be gone from that land of Hitler, and never wanted to go back to such a life.

administrative agencies—as a result of the election next year. The second reason is the possibility of war. War in Europe without the United States participating would mean a spurt in business here. War with the United States participating—and most business men think we could not stay out—would mean activity to the utmost of everybody's power, just as in 1917 and 1918.

All of which makes most of the pending legislation, in which normally there would be tremendous interest, of much less importance to the people most affected. For instance, neutrality. No one believes any neutrality law now enacted would stand 10 days if war broke out and it were manifest that the new law interfered with something this government wanted to do—help the democracies, for example, by shipments of war supplies which would be forbidden by the law.

As for taxes, everyone knows that if the United States got into the war there would have to be a new tax law, which must raise ever so much more money than at present. This would make whatever tax revision might be passed this session unimportant. Not that anyone thinks there would really be anything like the Bone measure, designed to "take the profits out of war."

Wagner Act Useless In Event of War. Then take Wagner act revision. Everyone knows congress would act very differently in a war emergency in dealing with amendments to this law. If indeed there were any necessity for touching it at all in a war emergency, Labor's attitude would be very different. Supreme court issue presented itself. Now the President is courting Wheeler. One might think Wheeler was the only man on Capitol Hill he trusted! It isn't like Roosevelt! Assuming his genuineness, it is the first time of record he has ever forgiven anyone who dealt him such a blow—and a blow below the belt, as he regarded it—as Wheeler gave him on the court issue.

Nor is it like Roosevelt to abandon his scheme to get rid of Jesse Jones without a fight, merely because he was told Jesse had too many friends on Capitol Hill to make possible his being shifted under Harry L. Hopkins! It's worth waiting for the last act! Roosevelt Reverts to Quarterback Tactics

Two developments in connection with Franklin D. Roosevelt's recent actions hint a remarkable change in his role as political leader. They reveal a new Roosevelt, apparently a compromiser, but perhaps, to revert to his own description of himself long ago, a quarterback, circumventing his opponents by trick plays rather than ruthlessly crushing them by overwhelming force.

It may be, of course, that he learned something from the purges both the nine he lost and the one he won. In the nine he lost he discovered that he could not defeat the senators on their home grounds. In the one he won, that fight against John J. O'Connor, he discovered that the price of victory was high and its fruit disappearing.

He obtained thereby the selection of ever faithful Adolph J. Sabath, of Illinois, as chairman of the powerful house rules committee, and he has seen the actual power that committee, as a direct result of the defeat of O'Connor, pass into the hands of Eugene E. Cox, of Georgia, who averages ten instances of opposition to New Deal objectives to every one of O'Connor's insurgences.

The two recent instances, which are taken by some to indicate a change in Roosevelt, relate to two men, both of whom are Democrats, one of whom is intensely conservative at heart, and the other formerly regarded as much more radical than Roosevelt himself. The conservative is Jesse H. Jones. The radical is Sen. Burton K. Wheeler.

Correction. The party mentioned in last week's Quiz was not given for Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Peterson, as stated, but for Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Underberg on the occasion of their second wedding anniversary.

Mortensens Tell Rotarians, Cosmos, of New York Fair

(Continued from page one) large, but consisted mainly of a new type of rubber highway, made from old rubber tires, upon which cars moved back and forth, in miniature, of course, without wheels. Practically all the exhibits were in miniature, but one which was not was that of the trains of yesterday and today, and the Coronation Special sent over from England to show the type of train used there. In the Firestone building tires were shown in the various processes of making. In the Edison building was the huge waterfall and huge flashes of artificial lightning.

The oil industry with an oil well, and refineries made a fine exhibit. Of interest was the court of states, with fine buildings for a number of the state. Nebraska was not included in the list, since the expense of putting out a worth while exhibit is almost prohibitive. The first day parade was a sight never to be forgotten, although difficult to see because of the crowds.

Many of the countries did not have their buildings open, but of those who did that of England was very impressive. Mr. Mortensen was of the opinion that the Russian exhibit would prove the most interesting of all when opened, as they had spent a huge sum of money on it, and their building was taller than any of the rest.

The Ord people saw the Japanese replica of the liberty bell made in precious stones, and valued at one million dollars. More people were watching the Borden Milk show than anything else, being drawn by the sight of a large herd of purebred cows. While in New York Mr. Mortensen went up the Hudson to Hyde Park and saw the president's "dream house" in which he will entertain the King and Queen of England.

Research Makes RCA the Symbol of the Radio Age

Every schoolboy has heard of the Stone Age, the Iron Age, the Age of Steam. It is not unlikely that the schoolboy of the future will hear his history teacher refer to the twentieth century as "The Radio Age."

Marconi's first transatlantic message in 1901... the creation of the Radio Corporation of America in 1919... the formation of the National Broadcasting Company in 1926... the public introduction of television by RCA in 1939... these are just a few significant milestones which identify the age we live in with the swift progress of radio.

All the public services of radio... in communications, in broadcasting, in the creation of instruments for sending and receiving sound and sight through the air... have grown out of the research work carried on year after year by radio scientists. Radio without research would be like a well without a spring. Each year brings new services, new devices, new improvements in radio that have originated in the RCA Laboratories... the world's largest organization devoted to every phase of radio research. That is one reason why the three letters... R C A... are often called "The Symbol of the Radio Age."

OBITUARY

VERNON LEROY COLLINS

Vernon LeRoy Collins was born in the Clear community, Valley county, Nebraska, on January 3, 1917, and passed away on May 9, 1939, at the age of 22 years, 4 months and 6 days.

He was the second child of Lynn and Edna Collins. There are three sisters, Mrs. Lois Peterson, Gladys and Thelma, and one brother, Marvin.

On January 15, 1938 he was married to Miss Marie Johnson of Horace, Nebr. He brought his wife to Mira Valley and resided with his mother at the old family home, and was in charge of the farming operations at the time of his passing.

Into their home, on October 22, last, came a beautiful baby boy, Leon LeRoy, around whom the love of the parents was closely entwined.

Vernon, with his sister Lois and their parents were received into the Evangelical church of Mira Valley by the Rev. Nathan Thomas on January 2, 1928. On April 19, 1939, he and his wife presented their baby boy at the altar of this church for baptism.

Vernon proudly holding the baby in his arms for that holy sacrament. At that time the mother was also baptized and received into church fellowship.

To Vernon the end came Tuesday, May 9, 1939. In the morning of that day he left the house in good health and high spirits to make repairs on some fence at the back side of the farm. Sometime before the noon hour, the wagon which he was using, upset and he was caught under a load of fence posts.

His wife found the remains soon after the noon time, and hastened to summon help.

Services at the home were held at 1:30 o'clock followed by services at the Mira Valley Evangelical church. Interment was made at the Ord cemetery.

Pallbearers were: Albert Peterson, Forrest Peterson, Elmer Bredthauer, Herbert Bredthauer, Merrill Koelling and Clare Clement, all neighbors and friends of the deceased. Honorary pallbearers were some of his old friends and schoolmates: Harold Koelling, Kenneth Koelling, Edwin Lenz, Howard Cook, Elroy Cook and Melvin Haeckel.

Mrs. Albert Peterson and Mrs. Will Poth took care of the many flowers.

Tall Raining Nebraska needs rain now, but many may hope that when rain does come it will not fall in such torrents as were reported in 1887.

According to research workers of the Federal Writers' Project, WPA, a Butler County farmer related that a barrel which he had placed beside his barn was filled with rain water in just ten minutes by the watch. That downfall, though, was only a shower.

"That's nothing said another farmer. 'I laid a barrel down out in my yard, bungalow up. It had both heads and the bung out. It didn't go through the bung-hole so fast that it couldn't run out the ends and overflowed at the bung.'"

Neighbors in Mira Valley have been helping Mrs. Lynn Collins in getting her farm work done, as she has lost valuable time due to the death of her son Vernon last week.

A REQUEST TO BICYCLE RIDERS
My attention has been called by Ord police officers to the fact that Ord bicycle riders are being very careless about using the rack provided for their convenience about the business district of Ord. Bicycles have been left standing against buildings or laying on the sidewalks and pavement, even though a rack was close by.

Some cities levy a fee of 25c each time a bicycle is left standing in the business district without being racked, when a police officer notices the happening. We dislike having to levy a fee of this kind in Ord and therefore request that bicyclists use the rack at all times.

We want to avoid traffic accidents and possible injury to pedestrians, which is the reason for this request. Kindly observe it.

Lieut. Earl Signor of Ericson Shot in Accident

Ericson—(Special)—Friday forenoon Lieut. Earl Signor was accidentally shot in the upper part of the right leg at the Hascall place northeast of town. He and his wife and two children had driven to Ericson from San Antonio Tex., two days before for a visit, and his two year old son had gone to the Hascall place on an errand, but the boys were not at home.

He had arranged to get a gun he owned from the Hascall place, and as he was putting it into the car it was discharged, wounding him. He crawled to the house and found cloth to make a tourniquet, but he was too weak from loss of blood to draw it tight. Later Glen Hascall arrived and he and his brother Everett Signor started with him to Burwell.

They were met by the doctor about five miles from Ericson and temporary aid administered, after which he was taken to Burwell and blood transfusions were given. Monday Lieut. Signor was reported as resting easily and his condition was favorable, although more blood transfusions will be necessary. A number of Ericson young men have volunteered to furnish blood.

James Cech of Burwell drove to Ord this morning, bringing back to her home here his sister-in-law, Mrs. Vincent Vodehnal, who had been visiting the Cechs. Mrs. Cech has been quite ill for some time, but is now improving.

Saturday Sale

AT THE SALE RING IN ORD

SATURDAY, MAY 20

SALE STARTS AT 1:00 O'CLOCK

There was a nice line of stock in Saturday's sale, which included 347 hogs, which were about half butcher hogs. The packer buyers were here wanting the fat hogs, and consignments came from a large radius. We are paying for hogs as soon as they are sold and figured, so you can consign them here where you will get good service, good weights, and the highest possible price.

The cattle market, I thought, was a little cheaper. The buyers thought it about steady.

The horse market was fair. There are several buyers that want horses, but they want to buy a good horse from $30.00 to $65.00.

In next Saturday's sale, it looks like: 125 head of cattle, which include 50 head of Hereford cattle of the Chas. Verzal estate. There will be a matured registered bull, and a registered bull calf, both of Clement breeding. 25 head of cows with young calves by their sides. Mr. Verzal had one of the good herds of Hereford cattle in this territory. This can be testified to by any feeder who has purchased any of his stock and fitted it for a consumers market.

125 head of feeder and weaning pigs.
4 head of horses.

Consign your stock to this market, where everyone connected with this organization is striving to give his best in the line of service to the consigner.

Interest Payments Take Too Big Share of City's Receipts

Out of $23,252 Levied Only $14,713 Left to Run the Various Departments.

Much concern over the amount of interest necessarily paid on city bonds each year, and over the comparatively small amount left to run city departments after this interest is paid, is being felt by Mayor M. B. Cummins, who this week compiled figures showing the situation.

Out of $23,252 levied in all funds, only $14,713.65 was left in the general fund this year after interest of $8,538.91 was paid on city hall, paving intersection and refunding bonds, he says.

1937 and 1938 taxes collected for the city by County Treasurer Satterfield during the period from April, 1938 to March, 1939 amounted to $23,252.56, of which $14,713.75 was left in the general fund. The city general fund levy was only $14,713.65 but some back taxes were collected also, swelling the total.

The cemetery fund runs behind all the time, Mayor Cummins says. It costs about $1,500 annually for the cemetery and in some years only $400 in taxes have been collected in this fund. Balance must, of course, come out of the general fund. The cemetery fund levy will have to be increased, he believes.

Mayor Cummins points out that on Nov. 1, 1920 the city of Ord issued $55,000 in city hall bonds drawing 6 per cent interest and non-optional—in other words, they cannot be paid off until 1940. On Dec. 1, 1920 the city issued $29,900 in paving intersection bonds at 6 per cent interest, also non-optional.

At the end of the 20-year period the city will have paid in interest on these $84,900 of bonds, the sum of $101,850, and will still owe the entire amount of the principal. Bankers tell him that in 1940 these bonds probably can be refunded on an amortization basis at 3 1/2 to 4 per cent interest. The saving in interest alone, he estimates, will enable payment of $1,700 per year to be made on the principal of the bonds.

The mayor is desirous of calling the attention of Ord taxpayers to the situation this week, as some important matters involving expenditure of city funds and the welfare of the city will be coming up soon, including the levies for the coming year.

Fire Started By 7-Year-Old Boy Endangers Babies

Outbuilding Burns, Parker House Where Infants Were Saved by Fast Action.

Arcadia — (Special) — Wednesday afternoon, May 17, about 3:30, little Jess Nehls, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nehls who live on the George Parker farm just east of this village, started a fire in an old stove in a building near the house, sending up flames that burned the building to the ground and endangered the Parker home.

Mrs. Nehls had gone to town on a hurried mission leaving the twins, about 2 years old, and an infant asleep in the Parker home.

When little Jess realized that the building was a fire he tried to put out the blaze by throwing dirt on it, then hurried to a field where George Parker was working. Parker tied his four horses and ran to the house, finding that flames were spreading through the roof of the outbuilding and endangering the home when he arrived.

George White, Glen Drake, Nels Sorensen and several others were soon at the scene carrying water to protect the Parker home, which was saved. The three tiny children were carried to safety as soon as Mr. Parker arrived.

The 7-year-old boy, when questioned by his mother, told that he had planned to start a fire in the old stove for some time and seized the opportunity afforded by her absence. He, of course, didn't realize that a serious blaze might result. The building destroyed was about 20x24 feet in size and had been a dwelling moved to the Parker farm from another place. There was no insurance.

Sorghum Interest Higher As An Ideal Seeding Time Nears

Many Kinds Are Now Classed As Non-Depleting Under the Federal Program.

A vastly increased acreage of forage and grain sorghums in 1939 is now being forecast for Valley county with weather conditions during the past few weeks causing more and more farmers to increase their planting intentions.

In attempting to answer the scores of questions of farmers concerning grain and forage sorghum production, County Agricultural Agent Dale this week pointed out some recommendations which are based on experimental work, local tests and farmer experiences in the PFL program. Most farmers, he said, are aware of the fact that the sorghum grain is nearly as valuable as corn as a livestock feed.

Here are the recommendations:

1. Don't plant until the soil is thoroughly warmed up. Many early plantings are lost because the seed rots in the ground or because the weeds overtake your seedlings.

2. Treat all sorghum seed for smut. Use copper carbonate at the rate of 2 to 3 ounces per bushel of seed or New Improved Ceresan at the rate of 1/2 ounce per bushel. Proper treatment is practically 100% effective in controlling the disease.

3. Plant milos (like Sooner) at the rate of 2 to 3 pounds of good seed per acre; kafirs (like Kalo) at the rate of 3 to 4 pounds per acre, when seeded in cultivated rows.

4. Be sure to plant adapted varieties. You can get the latest information on recommended varieties for Valley county from the Farm Bureau office.

Following is a list of sorghums which when grown for fodder are considered non-depleting under the Agricultural Conservation Program:

1. Atlas (commonly known as Atlas Sorgo)

2. Sumac (all strains—commonly known as red top cane)
3. Amber (all strains)
4. Orange Sorgo (all strains—commonly known as orange cane)
5. Honey (sometimes known as Japanese Ribbon Cane)
6. Goose-neck sometimes known as Texas Seeded Ribbon Cane)
7. White African
8. Sourless (commonly known as African Millet and sometimes known as White Orange)
9. Leoti Red
10. Collier
11. McLean
12. Denton
13. Planter
14. Bolger
15. Dwarf Ashburn (commonly known as Dutch Boy)
16. Tricker
17. Sapling
18. Red X (commonly known as Rex)
19. Colman (commonly known as Red Orange)
20. Fremont

All others are considered grain sorghums and will be classed as depleting. The forage varieties especially recommended for this territory are Atlas, Early Sumac and Leoti Red. Early Kalo and Sooner Milo have been the most satisfactory varieties of grain sorghums.

Burwell Man Unhurt When Wall Collapses

Don Anderson of Burwell, brother of Asa Anderson of the Quiz force, must have been carrying a horse shoe when he decided Sunday evening to remain in Burwell at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Anderson, sr., instead of going out to the farm, three miles north of Burwell.

The house is located in a canyon, with a large clay bluff just behind it. When Anderson went out there Monday, he found that the bluff had caved off, and his bed was broken down and completely covered with dirt. If he had been at home in bed instead of visiting, he would have been killed in his sleep.

Fiftieth Annual Ord Commencement Was Held Tuesday

83 Seniors Were Graduated by Ord High After Splendid Evening Program.

Fifty years ago the newly organized Ord high school graduated a class of 6 seniors; Tuesday evening, at the 50th annual commencement program, 83 seniors received their diplomas.

A splendid program featured by the address of Dr. W. K. Pfeiler, professor of Germanic languages at the University of Nebraska, preceded the presentation of diplomas Tuesday evening. The auditorium was well filled with patrons of the school and parents of the graduates.

To the strains of a professional march played by the high school orchestra, seniors led by their president Edwin Hitchman and all in caps and gowns entered the auditorium and were given seats of honor.

Then came the invocation by Rev. G. C. Roberson, followed by a song, "When Day is Done," by a girls' small vocal group. The principal address followed.

Dr. Pfeiler was born and accured his education in Germany serving in the German army during the World War. Abreast of the current situation in Europe through extensive travel there last summer, he was able to tell graduates how their prospects in the United States—dark as they seem to some—are immeasurably better than those of graduates from the schools of European countries. The title of Dr. Pfeiler's address was "The Privilege of American Citizenship in a World of Dictators," and it was thought by hearers to be one of the most powerful commencement addresses ever given here.

A selection, "Bolero," by a trumpet trio, followed the address, and then came the presentation of diplomas. Dr. F. L. Blessing, president of the school board, handed diplomas to students as they filed past him. Members of the school board and faculty had places of honor also.

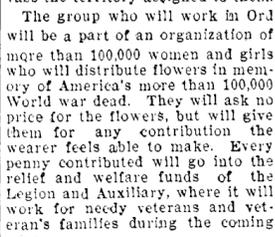

Miss Wilma Kluna, valedictorian, Miss Adeline Kusek, salutatorian, and Miss Wilma Richardson, winner of the regents' scholarship, were given awards as Ord's honor students of the year by Principal F. L. Stoddard, then benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Roberson to end the program.

Today students in all departments of the Ord school system officially dismissed for the summer vacation.

Edward Waggoner Has Fine Record at School

Edward Waggoner, son of Ed Waggoner, is ten years old and attends school in District 47. He is proud of the fact that he was neither absent nor tardy during the entire school year just closed. His teacher was Miss Lois Bremer.

Miss McClatchey says that there were quite a number who made the same record the past year, due largely to the fine winter weather.

1st Band Concert Coming Wednesday

The first regularly scheduled rehearsal will be Monday night, May 29, on the stage of the high school auditorium. Used band caps are in demand and if anyone, no longer active in band work, wishes to sell or rent his cap, report to Mr. Duncan immediately. The Ord high school band will play a one-half hour concert, and take part in a large massed band at the Burwell Park, Sunday afternoon, May 28, at 2:00.

Decoration Day Service Tuesday

The program for the services at the Ord cemetery Tuesday May 30, has been completed by the committee, of which Ign. Klima is chairman. The order of march will be as follows: the colors, Ord high school band, the firing squad, Civil war veterans, Spanish war veterans, Ladies of the G.A.R., American Legion Auxiliary, Junior Auxiliary, American Legion, and others. The parade will form at the north gate of the park, at the memorial plot, and march off promptly at 10:30 a. m.

The program will open with a prayer by Rev. Mamie Young. This will be followed by the service by the Ladies of the G. A. R. A selection by the Ord high school band will precede the address of the day, given by Rev. G. C. Roberson. Following a selection by the high school quartet, the firing squad will fire, in salute to the dead, the band will play the National Anthem, and the program will close with the sounding of "taps."

1.37 Inches Rain Fell Sunday Eve

Was General in Loup Valley Region With More Than 2 Inches at Burwell.

The first rain that could be classed as a general rain fell in the county and surrounding territory Sunday night, starting shortly before midnight, and continuing for one to two hours. The rain fell in Ord, according to Horace Travis, was 1.37 inches, which is by far the heaviest for the year.

Burwell reports 2.79 inches, Elyria about two inches, and North Loup 1.42 inches. John Bremer says there was about .60 of an inch at his farm in Mira Valley, while W. S. King reports about an inch at his farm further northwest. Definite information from Arcadia is lacking, but it is understood that a good rain fell there also.

A number of people who had winter wheat are of the opinion that the rain came too late to do it much good, as much of it had died before the rain came. Because of the dry condition of the ground, many farmers had quit listing corn, but the work will begin again as soon as the ground is ready, which should be today, and possibly Tuesday afternoon.

Because of the fact that all plowing and listed ground was very loose due to lack of heavy rains, practically all the water soaked in, wetting the ground in the fields to a depth of from six to ten inches. The weather reports Monday were for more rain in this section that afternoon. It is not known how long the wet weather may last, but it is certain that the drought is broken for the present, at least.

At the meeting of Group 5 of the Nebraska Bankers association held in Holdrege Tuesday, Emil R. Fafeita, cashier of the Nebraska State bank of Ord, was chosen president for the ensuing year. An invitation extended by Ord bankers was accepted and the next Group 5 convention will be held in Ord.

In attendance from here were Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mortensen, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Misko, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Fafeita and Harold Taylor.

George Jensen Had Operation At Mayos

George Jensen of Sargent, manager of the Koupal and Barstow lumber yard there and a former Ord man, underwent an operation Thursday morning at the Mayo Bros. clinic at Rochester, Minn., for the removal of an ulcerated portion of his stomach. He is reported to have passed through the operation nicely and to be recovering as well as could be expected.

Music for the evening will be furnished by Mr. Duncan's music department. The boys quartet, Eugene Puncocchar, Edwin Hitchman, Allen Zikmund and Dick Koupal, will sing, and there will also be an instrumental trio. Miss McClatchey will then present the diplomas. ## North Loupers Guests of Ord Cosmopolitans

Monday night was another guest night at the Ord Cosmopolitan club, when four North Loup business men accepted an invitation to be present. More were invited but were unable to come. As the close of the meal John Misko as presiding officer called upon each of the visitors for a talk and all responded briefly.

Mills Hill, manager of the Farmers store, said a few words, and stated that he would rather listen than to talk. M. R. Corneil spoke of the power of the press, especially of the Loyalist press. Last week he filled in a two column space with an ad asking for a two inch rain, and Sunday night 1.42 inches fell at North Loup and about the same throughout the section, thus proving that advertising paid.

Albert Babcock of the North Loup Credit association was then introduced. He too spoke a few words, and said that he would prefer to listen to Dr. W. J. Hemphill, the last member of the group. The doctor can truly qualify as a pioneer doctor, and he told a very interesting story of his experiences in the horse and buggy days. The meeting was greatly enjoyed by all present.

Ord Painters Attend Painting Demonstration

Monday evening at Thorne's Cafe, C. D. Mull, Dupont Paint representative, put on a demonstration of their products under the auspices of the Sack Lumber and Coal company, local agents. Fifteen men were in attendance and enjoyed the pictures showing the new developments in chemistry, and also the different processes in painting. At the close of the entertainment the Sacks were hosts to the group at an informal luncheon.

Ord Seniors Brilliantly Entertained by Juniors at Top Hat Nite Club Thursday

Something new in Junior-Senior banquets was given in Ord Thursday evening, May 18, when the 1940 class entertained the 1939 graduates-to-be in brilliant style at the "Top Hat Nite Club." In acappella, the Quiz tells the story of the banquet in a new way—in pictures.

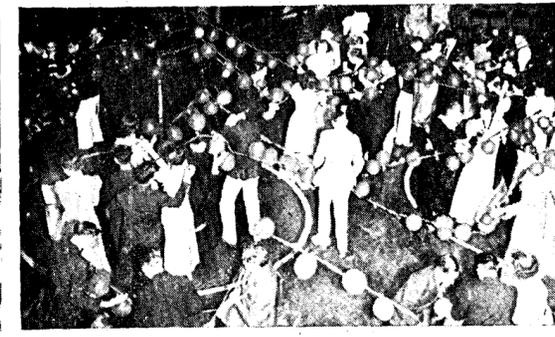

In the photo above Seniors and Juniors are being ushered into the beautifully decorated high school auditorium by Myrtle Auble, dressed as a night club entertainer with top hat and all. Heading the line is Lyle Plagg, junior class president, and Betty Meyer, while immediately behind them are Edwin Hitchman, senior class president, and Eleanor Wolf.

In the transformed auditorium, gay with blue and gold streamers and with balloons in clusters on the ceiling, the guests are here shown dining, while music is furnished by Bob Calame's orchestra, from Grand Island. A delicious three-course banquet was prepared by Catholic ladies and served by Ord sophomores.

The banquet is over, and now the program begins. Junior President Plagg, as toastmaster, arises to make his opening remarks. Talks were given by Edwin Hitchman, J. A. Kovanda, Dr. F. L. Blessing, Bette Vogeltanz, Dick Koupal and Angeline Wachtrie. A pleasing number "Deep Purple," was sung by Jeanne Towne and Myrtle Auble tap danced.

And now for the part most enjoyed by the young people! Tables have been removed and everything is ready for the prom Bob Calame's orchestra—eight men in evening clothes, and a girl singer—are "swinging it." Another hour of dancing and the evening will end, but it will be an evening long remembered by juniors and seniors.

WONDERS OF RAINFALL

For the first time this year, and for the first time since last July 2, more than an inch of rain fell in Ord. To make it all the more interesting, the rainfall was general throughout central Nebraska.

In view of past performances, perhaps this rain was not so remarkable, but when one produces some figures in connection with this rain, it becomes astounding.

Officially there was 1.37 inches of rain, which was not unusual. In that July 2 rain last year we had 1.63 inches in one rain, and a rain later in the night brought the total up to 2.11 inches.

From the wild dream of its inventor, radio has developed in twenty years from the plaything of the few to the daily necessity of almost every household in the land.

From Marconi's first transatlantic message of 1901 to the Radio Corporation of America in 1919, the National Broadcasting Company in 1926, and the public introduction of television in 1939.

In the past each has been a greater one than any that preceded it, and we may feel assured that the age of radio will far transcend that of Steam.

Instead of having about reached the limit in the radio field, inventors are certain that they are now standing on the threshold of a greater world than we have ever known before.

No man can predict what the rest of the century may bring. The RCA company, the National Broadcasting Company, the RCA Photophone, the RCA Victor sound systems for schools, Victor higher fidelity records, and the RCA Communications and Radiomarine for service at sea are all allied industries, and are developed with one end in view, service to the public.

When the service is satisfactory the officials of the corporation feel that their efforts have been a success. In addition to those branches of which the public knows RCA carries on extensive and expensive research work, and in this way is discovering and developing for the use of the public something new in the field of radio every few weeks.

The marvelous development of radio during the past twenty years is directly due to the vast sums that have been spent to bring more quickly the wonders of radio in a form that the general public can use.

Other news stories say that the president denies that he said the southern beef was better. The news stories quote him, however, as saying that the price of the Argentine beef was 9 cents a pound whereas American beef was 23 cents a pound.

Now the question arises, should the government pay the higher price to protect American beef raisers and keep from forcing them to meet the southern price? Surely no American farmer who buys oleo for his family to eat and sells his own good cream, can make that claim. All American farmers who do that must stand with the president. And by the same process of reasoning the government should buy all its supplies in the cheapest markets of the world.

New Dealers disappointed in Representative Smith's debating abilities...

WASHINGTON—New Dealers are tremendously disappointed in the popular reaction to the debates between Senator Robert A. Taft and Representative T. V. Smith of Illinois as shown by recent polls.

In the first place Smith is a prime favorite with the New Deal. It was common gossip that the New Dealers wanted Governor Henry Horner of Illinois to appoint Mr. Smith to the senate vacancy caused by the death of J. Hamilton Lewis, though the governor didn't oblige.

Whereas Senator Taft is simply anathema to the New Deal. He is stoutly expressing views which seem to the administration a turning back to the Grand Old Party in the days of Boise Penrose and Reed Smoot.

But there is another angle. After the Gridiron dinner, followed by the editors' convention here, most observers in Washington had virtually wiped Senator Taft off the slate of Republican possibilities for the presidential nomination next year.

It is not a defense of the morals of the chain store operators. No one thought anything else than that the operators thought they would make more money by selling a lot of cream at a smaller profit. And they were right; resumably the AAA executives thought that if the chain stores stopped cutting cream prices, the concern delivering the fresh milk and cream would get more business. Maybe the Triple A executives even thought eventually they could reduce cream prices to everybody.

But that was not what happened. When the price was put up in the chain stores, people stopped buying so much. In fact chain store sales of cream approached the vanishing point, while sales of cream by the delivering companies remained precisely as they were.

There was no attack on the delivery price of cream as being unreasonable. The profit was not exorbitant. But the chain store was able to sell more cheaply because they had no delivery expense, and no loss on bad debts.

Result: Poorer people, to whom a few cents on a bottle of cream is important, turned to canned milk, not because they wanted to, but because it was that or no cream at all.

Tax Changes Await End of Waiting Game Tax changes to aid business recovery are long on lip service and short on action, with President Roosevelt, the treasury and congress all playing a waiting game.

Congress is willing to act, but is not willing to stick its neck out. The treasury is eager to act but its first real move toward action—an inspired story given to the Associated Press outlining four important proposals—is promptly brushed aside by the President as referring to mere "estimates" supplied on request from congressmen.

The President sticks to his announced plan; Congress can do anything it wants to do to encourage business in the way of tax revision but in the estimated cash returns to the treasury from business must not be reduced.

The President leaves it to congress to take the initiative but doesn't like any setup for tax revision that he has seen.

The treasury knows just what it wants and finds itself in rather surprising agreement with the conservative Democrats on Capitol Hill, headed by Pat Harrison, the chairman of the senate finance committee, and Robert L. Doughton, chairman of the house ways and means committee. Most important of the treasury's proposals are:

Elimination of present undistributed profits, capital stock and excess profits taxes. Substitution of a flat rate corporation income levy of not more than 22 per cent, with special treatment for incomes under $25,000.

Higher-Bracket Tax Reduction. Reduction in higher-bracket personal income taxes from a maximum of 75 per cent to a maximum of 60 per cent. (Actually, treasury experts have believed for several administrations that 50 per cent provides the maximum revenue.)

Authorization for corporations to carry over tax credits for losses for three years instead of one. Modification of the capital gains tax to encourage investment.

Under Secretary John W. Hanes, leading axitator for tax revision as a business aid, now has 100 items in his "little black book," from which he quotes freely to legislators and officials. But nothing the treasury says or thinks is "official" until the President approves. If the house ways and means committee should summon Henry Morgenthau, Jr., he would stutter unhappily unless he had the "Go" sign from the White House.

Meanwhile plenty of conservative Democrats on Capitol Hill are taking private satisfaction in evidence that the President will not support action. The result, they think, will be the nomination of a conservative by the Democratic convention next year. By the same token Republican leaders on Capitol Hill are placing the responsibility squarely on the Democrats, figuring that if no action comes a G. O. P. President next time is a cinch.

Mrs. George E. Mickel of Burwell went to Omaha Friday morning to visit George Mickel, Jr., and family and also a daughter, Mrs. C. G. Follmer and family.

We are lucky indeed to have such good dairies and dairymen in Ord. They provide us with clean, high quality, above standard milk. Surely you have been forced to notice, on drinking milk whitts in nearby cities or towns that our Ord milk tastes so much better and richer?

I have visited several dairies near Ord. The owners were glad to have me inspect their plants, showed me through stables, explained machinery, cooling and pasteurizing devices. I enjoyed my tours very much, and I suggest you make such a trip, too.

And as my brother-in-law, Dr. Wilcox, of Ansley, recently told me, "Everyone should inspect the place from which he buys milk. He should learn how clean it is and just how the milk is handled before he drinks it. Or before he gives it to his children to drink."

Rev. Roberson of the Methodist church is no slow-poke. Nor is he a man who never had an idea of his own. I am sure I saw him wearing a straw hat before the particular spring date some mayors (perhaps it was a hat manufacturer) duly proclaim as "Straw hat day."

One of the nicest ideas put over in Ord in a good while was the dance which followed the Junioring and Senior banquet. School sponsored dances can be happy and successful affairs, I know, for they had them in Los Angeles when I was a sophomore. There they had tea dances regularly, certain afternoons in the week, and infrequently, an evening dance.

The Ord girls in their pretty long dresses, will never feel more alluring or important than at their banquet. And the fellows in their new suits don't feel exactly trivial. How suitable, then, that a dance followed.

I hope dances at the schoolhouse become common in Ord. I think that is just where dancing belongs. Who should feel more like dancing than our young? They are at the age for safety.

I know that Mr. Thompson and his teachers already have all they can do, heavy schedules both in and after school hours, but I think probably dancing will be at least as much service, in after life as we'll say, Latin.

Or perhaps some parents would be willing to help? I'm sure I would.

Something Different

Ord was fortunate to have such a good little circus showing here. Not so little either, for it was plenty big enough to give children and adults some fine entertainment.

The acrobats were as skillful as such acts can be made, and more brilliant work was done by the wire performing experts.

Children can see what Zebras look like by seeing one Zebra. The same goes for monkeys, camels, elephants. The shetland ponies were as "cute" as always. The elephant act was the finest I have ever seen, and I am an old circus-goer.

Come in and talk it over. THRESHES WHEAT, FLAX, ALFALFA "I purchased a 26x46 Wood Brothers thresher in the fall of 1933 and since then have threshed over 50,000 bushels of grain and about 15 days threshing fodder corn without a cent for repairs. "I use a 10-20 tractor and keep bundle teams plenty busy as we have run through 88 loads of bundles in a 10-hour day. "The cleaning ability of the Wood Brothers thresher is unexcelled. For example, this fall I threshed a carload of winter wheat which was sold in Minneapolis without a pound of dockage on the whole load. I have also done very satisfactory work threshing flax and alfalfa. "I sincerely approve, and will continue to boost 'The World's Lightest Running Thresher'."—GLENN W. JOHNSON, Walnut Grove, Minnesota. PLENTY OF POWER "I purchased my first Wood Brothers separator in 1924, a 21x36, and threshed 11 falls. It was a good machine, did good work and I threshed over 250,000 bushels of all kinds of grain. "Last fall I traded for 26x46 Wood Bros. It was the best separator I ever used. We ran 8 bundle teams and kept them all busy. It sure does nice work in all kinds of grain. "I pull it with a 10-20 tractor and have plenty of power. Threshed for 18 different men and they all asked me to thresh for them another year. "The Wood Brothers is the best machine and easiest-running there is."—G. C. STEARNS, Grand Meadow, Minn

Mrs. Robert Van Horn Dies at North Loup

Mrs. Robert Van Horn Dies at North Loup
North Loup—(Special)—Leah Adeline Babcock Van Horn, the eldest daughter of Joel B. and Medelia Lippincott Babcock, was born November 8, 1870, in Saline county, near Western, Nebr., and departed this life at her home in North Loup May 22, 1939 at the age of 68 years, 6 months and 14 days. With her parents she moved to Humboldt, Nebr. in 1876 and here spent her childhood days, and here under the leadership of Rev. U. M. Babcock she accepted Christ as her saviour and joined the Seventh Day Baptist of Long Branch, Nebr.
In 1888, October 20 she was united in marriage with Robert Van Horn, the fifth anniversary of their marriage being celebrated last October at the home here in North Loup, when they kept open house for the day, very graciously receiving the felicitations of their many friends, relatives and neighbors.
Four children were born to this union, Mrs. Elsie B. Sweetland of Alliance, Nebr., Alta L. of Salem, W. Va., Delmer E. of North Loup and R. Lynn, who died when a lad of 8.
In the year 1891 the family moved to Farnam, Nebr., and in 1919 to North Loup, where here in the Seventh Day Baptist church she placed her membership, working and worshipping helpfully and sincerely, until her failing health made it impossible for her to longer continue her service.
Mrs. VanHorn had been in delicate health for many years and at the time of her death had only partially recovered from an attack that had kept her bedfast most of the winter. She was not one to complain, always thinking of others and insisting that she herself was "alright". She was a lover of children and no child even came into her presence without experiencing this motherly instinct and being blest with a beneficent interest that amounted almost to a benediction. She loved flowers, cultivated them and shared with others, and the room in her home where she lay after her death till the time of the farewell services was filled with flowers, many of them picked by her own family from the home garden. Her hospitality is a well known characteristic and the little verse that hangs just below the knob of the front door of the home expresses her attitude along this line—Knock on this portal here, come in and share our cheer.
Aside from her husband and children she is survived by the following members of her father's family; Mrs. Gertrude Scouten and Mrs. Ettie Scouten of Pouke, Ark., August Babcock of Pawnee City, Nebr., and Mrs. December Bailey of Greeley, Colo. and many other relatives and friends.

Farewell services are being conducted at 2 p. m. this Wednesday afternoon at the Seventh Day Baptist church by her pastor, Rev. C. L. Hill and burial will be in Hillside cemetery. Bearers will be nephews of Mr. and Mrs. VanHorn and music will be by a mixed quartette.

—This morning Charles Schmidt was busy with a team and disc going over the courthouse lawn for the purpose of killing the weeds, breaking up all clods and conserving the moisture. This is probably the first time that a disc has been seen on the square since the paving was laid.

Little Choice
Speedy punishment, according to research workers of the Federal Writers' Project, WPA, was often given criminal offenders in pioneer Nebraska. When a "slick finger" was caught petty thieving at Hastings in 1853, he was gagged, tied to a pole and given fifty lashes on his bare back. Upon recovering he was told to skip or be hung to the top of the pole. He skipped.

Charles Verzal Laid To Rest On Friday

Funeral services were held for Charles Verzal from the Ord Catholic church Friday morning at 10:00, preceded by the special service by the Knights of Columbus, who met at the Frazier Chapel and escorted the body to the church. A large number of friends and fellow members of the church and lodge assembled to pay their last respects. Burial was made in the Ord cemetery.

Charles Verzal was born in Platte county, Nebr., and moved with his parents when he was four years old to Holt county, where he lived 7 years. Next they moved to a farm near Elyria, living there three years. They moved to a farm west of Ord and the following spring to the Loren Dancaak place, where his father passed away from a heart attack.

Shortly after they bought a section of land nearby, which Charles helped pay for, assisting his brothers and sister. John built the house in which Charles died, and then left to farm elsewhere. A brother, James, died of appendicitis at the age of 21 years, and two years later a sister, Josia died at the age of 21 years, after a long illness.

Charles' mother passed away at Hillcrest hospital about five years ago. Left to mourn his loss are six sisters and two brothers: Mary Hageman of Canada, Annie Showalter of Lincoln, John Verzal of California, Kate May of Burwell, Ina Klimak of Ord, Rosie Wozal of Comstock, Joe Verzal of Ord and Sophia Novak of Ord.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD.
One Ord woman was watching her neighbor on one side pumping water and carrying it to do her washing, and smiling to think how old-fashioned the neighbor was, when she happened to recall that the neighbor was carrying the water to use in an electric machine while she was doing her washing with a tub and washboard. Then she looked over on the other side and saw another neighbor woman wielding an axe, cutting her own wood to heat the water for washing.

Then it was noised abroad Saturday that a group of Ord people planned to leave this week for the east. They were supposed to make quite an extensive tour of points of interest, winding up with a week or so at the New York World's fair. It had all the earmarks of a good story, so the Quiz man spent some little time checking up, and found that the only people who seemed to know absolutely nothing about it all were the very people who were supposed to make the trip. Just another of life's little disappointments.

Mrs. Laura Barnhardt Is Great Grandmother

Mrs. Laura E. Barnhardt of Santa Cruz, Calif., is now a great grandmother. The word of the happy event was sent from Burwell, where the great great grandson, Loral Leo Rieck, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Leo Rieck on April 29. Laura's mother was formerly Miss Florence Freeman. Her mother, Mrs. Laura (J. C.) Freeman is a daughter of Mrs. Minnie Coener of Burwell. Mrs. Coener is the eldest daughter of Mrs. Barnhardt and her first husband, L. R. Anderson. Mrs. Barnhardt will be 83 years old Oct. 1.

Former Ordite Member Important Parks Group

Mrs. W. A. Bartlett brought to the Quiz office Friday a copy of the Idaho Statesman, published at Boise, in which appears a very good picture of the five directors of the Boise Parks Corporation. This is the group under whose direction the Airways Park for the Boise baseball team might have a place to play and the crowds a place to watch the games in comfort. It is fought for evening games.

Lawiston helped the Boise team dedicate the park May 2 in the opening game of the season, and the paper sent Mrs. Bartlett was a booster edition for the team and for the new park. The other teams in the league are Ogden, Salt Lake, Twin Falls and Poacatello.

The Public is Warned of Some Dangerous Practices

Now that the fishing season is on full blast, it seems an appropriate time to warn the young people, and others not so young that caution must be used in fishing from the Burlington bridge east of Ord. Several times this spring boys have been trapped on the bridge. In most cases they barely got off in time, but in at least one case the boy had to jump off the bridge to the sand bar below. Due caution should be observed while on the bridge, as a serious accident might result.

Young people have the habit of playing tag with their cars when they think they can get away with it. The tracks indicated that this is what was being done shortly after midnight Sunday morning on the street north from the Onyx. At least, one of the cars skidded completely across the road from the west to the east side, went into the ditch, climbed up against the fence beyond, then went back into the ditch and across the highway to the west side again. The incident was accompanied by plenty of noise, much to the annoyance of the neighborhood. Only a miracle prevented a wreck.

—Mrs. C. W. Graff, of Burwell, was in Ord Wednesday consulting Dr. F. A. Barta about her eyes.

Manderson School Notes.

Friday was the closing day at Dist. No. 31 and the teacher and pupils celebrated the day by having a picnic for themselves at the schoolhouse. For the past two terms, a picnic was held for the entire community, so a different plan was tried this term. After the picnic lunch, games were played and later ice cream was served. George Hlavinka, teacher for three terms here, is to return again for the next term.

As a closing announcement to the parents we wish to thank for their cooperation during the school term and their interest in our activities. We appreciate the regular attendance represented in our school, the essential quality needed for success. We are proud to mention that Joyce Zalina, a member of the beginning class has attained a perfect attendance record for the entire school term. She will be awarded by the teacher with a large certificate for framing. Joyce was tardy only on one occasion, and that was due to some difficulty in getting the car started when her father was taking the children to school. Our next almost perfect record was attained by Alvin Moudry, having missed only one day.

Another honorable mention goes to Marie Maresb, who was never tardy and absent only a few days, in spite of the long distance she had to walk. Marie is one of the graduates here and plans to attend high school next year.

—Mrs. A. J. Ferguson left Thursday for Oakland, Calif., where she will visit her daughter Jane, who has a position there.

"Whereas, among these young men were many from Fidelity Post No. 38, who served gallantly and sacrificed greatly in the conflict, and

"Whereas, more than one hundred thousand young Americans were called upon to sacrifice their lives that America might be secure as the land of liberty, justice and democracy,

"Now, therefore, I, M. B. Cummins, Mayor of the City of Ord, believing that the memory of their high patriotic sacrifice should be kept bright for the inspiration of America, urge all citizens to wear their memorial flower, the poppy, on Saturday, May 27, and give for the poppy as generously as they are able to aid the war's living victims, the disabled veterans and dependent families.

University Astronomer Charts Path of Meteor

Lincoln, Neb., May 25—Nebraska's 1939 spring fire-ball has been charted by Professor O. C. Collins, University of Nebraska astronomer, from reports he has received from witnesses in eastern Nebraska and western Iowa.

The meteor appeared above Nebraska slightly north of Omaha one night several weeks ago and pursued a southwesterly course. The three X's in its path mark the points at which the meteor burst. This circle north of Orleans marks the vicinity in which it would have struck the ground had it not vanished high in the air at the third burst between Gibbon and Hampton.

"According to information provided me," said Professor Collins "the object was approaching the earth's surface at an angle of at least 20 degrees to the horizontal over this part of its path. When first sighted it may have been as far east as Dubuque, Ia."

Reports from the thirty localities on the map state that at each one the meteor's flash was seen at least in part although several observers wrote the University astronomer that they had witnessed the progress of the meteor throughout its journey over the state.

The meteor was seen near Ord by A. C. Waterman.

Zigmund, Gerald Clark, president of the class of 1937, then presented the Haskell-Melia award to Allen Zigmund. The program closed with the loyalty song.

Was This Constitutional?

Though research workers of the Federal Writers' Project, WPA, found the following novel marriage ceremony reported in an 1893 Nebraska newspaper, they do not vouch for its authenticity. It was related that a western Nebraska justice of the peace, in tying the marital knot, used this form: "Do you solemnly swear that you will support the Constitution of the United States, the Constitution of the State of Nebraska and perform the duties of man and wife to the best of your ability?"

Weather Tuesday Was Perfect for Memorial Service

Big Home-Coming Throng Attended Decoration Day Program at the Park.

Tuesday was an ideal day for Decoration, with enough breeze to keep the day from seeming sultry, and just enough warmth to remind one of the approach of summer.

Those who took part in the parade met at the plot at the north edge of the park and were ready to march promptly at 10:30 a. m.

Next came the delegation of the American Legion, the largest ever to appear for a Decoration Day program, there being a total of more than seventy in the line of march.

At the plot the program opened by the band playing "America" followed by a prayer by Rev. Mamie Young.

The high school quartet, composed of Eugene Puncocchar, Edwin Hitchman, Dick Koupal and Allen Zikmund, sang both before the address by Rev. G. C. Robertson and after he had finished.

Rev. Robertson, introduced by E. L. Vogelzanz as the son of a Confederate soldier who had fought four years in the Civil war, gave a very powerful address, impressing especially upon the younger generation the fact that they must appreciate the blessings of living in a land of freedom.

The high school band played "God Bless America," with Mrs. Mark Tolson singing the words in a way that brought applause from the crowd.

This closed the program, which was brought clearly to the vast audience through the Aulsebrook address system.

Plain Valley Hit By Hail Thursday Much Damage Done

Storm Followed Almost Same Path as That of June 10, 1938 but Less Damage.

Thursday afternoon a severe hail and wind storm hit Plain Valley, covering much the same territory hit on June 10 of last year, but not causing quite as severe loss.

E. F. Babka states that he unhitched his team when saw the storm approaching and started for the house, about half a mile east.

Windows were broken out of the east side of the Will Cronk and Arthur places, and also at the John Kokes place.

The Albert Volf family was away and lost 90 chickens in the storm. They saved the ducklings by keeping them in the house, and when they got home the little fellows were swimming around in the water that had blown into the room.

The Joe Hybl's heavy losers last year, lost 50 chickens. At Ed Kasper's 50 chickens and an old hen were lost and their bodies were not found until next day, having been covered up in trash.

The Jubilee celebration starts Thursday, June 1 and continues throughout the month, Mr. Darges says.

Thomas Cushing, 22 Dies Friday After Car Wreck Injuries

Was Son of Herbert L. Cushing and U. of N. Senior; Funeral Held Monday.

Thomas Cushing, 22, oldest son of President and Mrs. H. L. Cushing of Kearney State Teachers' college, was fatally injured in a car wreck Thursday morning when the car in which he and two companions were riding failed to negotiate a turn in the highway seven miles north of Nebraska City.

Mr. Cushing was thrown clear of the car and received a crushed chest and a fractured skull, the latter being the direct cause of his death Friday night.

The group with three others had gone to Auburn to get a car belonging to a Miss Wrightman, and the others were following with the Wrightman car when the accident occurred.

Funeral services were held Monday morning at 10:30 from the Episcopal church in Kearney, and was largely attended.

The Cushing family left Ord 13 years ago, moving to Lincoln where Mr. Cushing was deputy state superintendent of schools.

Postmaster Hill At State Convention

Postmaster Alfred L. Hill and family drove to Omaha last week where Mr. Hill attended the state convention of postmasters.

Other speakers were Second Assistant Postmaster General Ambrose O'Connell, Governor Cochran, Mayor Butler, Francis P. Matthews, president of the Omaha C. of C., Miss Rena B. Smith, manager of the 5th civil service district.

A large number of other notables were in attendance at the convention. At the election of state officers R. E. Harmon of Auburn was elected secretary-treasurer.

What pleased Postmaster Hill most of all was the phenomenal growth of the organization from 153 members in 1938 to 513 in 1939. This represents about 75% of the entire state.

Tuesday morning Bert Rich, North Loup farmer, who had entered the Ord hospital for a major operation the previous evening, became mentally unbalanced and hospital officials had to call police to have him removed to the court house, where at a rush meeting of the Valley county insanity commission he was committed to Ingleside State hospital near Hastings for treatment.

According to his brother, Mr. Rich has shown signs of mental unbalance since his wife died about three years ago. He has suffered lately with gall bladder trouble, for which he was to be operated Tuesday.

Doctors believe Mr. Rich's case will respond to treatment readily at the state hospital and that he will soon be able to return home.

Trail of the Loup Picnic Will Be Held at Taylor

The Old settlers' picnic for 1939, under the name of the Trail of the Loup picnic, will be held at Taylor, Nebr., Sunday, June 18, under the auspices of the North Loup valley historical society.

In sending out the invitations, the secretary, Anna M. Cameron, says the dinner will be served in typical old settler style. Music for the occasion will be furnished by the eighty five piece Loup Valley band, and community singing will be led by Mrs. Arthur Langstrom of Burwell.

Projects to be discussed and boosted at the picnic will be the restoration of Old Ft. Hartuff, the marking of historic spots in the North Loup Valley, and the collection of historical documents for local schools and libraries.

"All residents of the North Loup Valley no matter how recently arrived, are eligible to participate," says Miss Cameron.

There are hundreds of people living in the lower part of the North Loup valley who have never had the pleasure of enjoying a picnic in the beautiful setting nature has given the village of Taylor.

Succeeds C. McClellan Who Resigns; Sept. 12 to 15 Are Dates of 1939 Fair.

The Valley county fair board held a meeting at the office of the secretary, Ed Kokes, Saturday night, and considered the resignation of President C. W. McClellan, who asked to be relieved of his duties as head of the organization.

Mr. McClellan has held the office of president for many years and has done a very satisfactory job, but due to the fact that his health this spring has not been the best, he decided to drop out of the work.

Dr. J. W. McGinnis was elected vice-president to fill the vacancy caused by the advancement of Mr. Clement. It was decided to go ahead with plans for a fair in 1939, and the dates were set for Sept. 12 to 15 inclusive.

Poppy Day, May 27, Was Great Success

Saturday was poppy day in Ord, and whether it was the effect of the recent rains or some other cause, the sales went far ahead of last year.

The bulk of the work, however, was performed by the Junior Auxiliary, twenty in number, under the management of Mrs. Syl Pur-tak. These girls covered the entire residential district, with such good effect that when the money was counted there was more than $98, an increase of $29, over the results of last year.

While all the members did well, the most successful sales ladies were Misses Reva Lincoln and Maxine Wardrop, each disposing of more than 100 poppies.

Premium Prices Paid Next Week For Old Roosters

June 8-9-10 Will Be "Rooster Days" in Ord; Merchants Plan Special Events.

In keeping with a custom started several years ago, next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 8, 9 and 10, will be "Rooster Days" in Ord, and on those days all Ord produce buyers will pay for old roosters a price per pound considerably higher than usual.

Many merchants of Ord are joining with produce buyers to make the price for old roosters more attractive and will give 10 per cent in trade over the price paid by the buyers.

This move, of course, is designed to get old roosters out of laying flocks before warm weather, thus raising the quality of eggs. Infertile eggs keep much longer in hot weather than do fertile eggs, and command a better price on the eastern markets.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday next week also will be real trade days in Ord, with many of the stores planning special sale events.

The Ord chamber of commerce is offering cash prizes ranging from 50c to $5.00 on a unique contest each day during "Rooster Days."

All rooster imitations will be broadcast from the court house steps over the Aulsebrook speaker system. Judges will be appointed to decide who gives the best rooster imitations daily.

Remember, it costs nothing to enter this contest—just produce a sales slip from an Ord produce buyer showing you have sold old roosters in Ord, and you are eligible to compete.

Bring your old roosters to Ord next week and sell them. Profit by the special price offered, by the 10 per cent premium in trade offered at stores, and take part in the rooster contest.

Crop Prospects Are Best in Many Years

Crop prospects right now are the best in several years as result of 1.65 inches of rain fall last Thursday and Friday, which followed a nice rain the Sunday previous and brought the week's rainfall to a total of 3.02 inches.

No more rain is needed to assure a fair wheat crop, some farmers say. The grain is well headed out and although the straw is short a good crop is anticipated in most Valley county sections.

Respected Farmer Had Been in Poor Health Long Time; Funeral to Be Friday.

Will Prien, 51, well known farmer of the Midvale neighborhood, passed away Monday night at his home, following a long illness from diphthery.

William Prien, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Prien, sr., was born in Muscatine county, Ia., Jan. 13, 1888 and was 51 years, 4 months and 17 days of age at the time of his death, early on Decoration Day morning.

In 1914 he was married to Miss Rose Koll, and to them three children were born, one son, Richard and two daughters, Mrs. George Chipps and Margaret Ann, at home. His father passed away a number of years ago.

Three sisters: Mrs. Jens Christensen of Saco, Mont., Mrs. Earl Leonard of Kimberly, Ida., and Mrs. Archie Bell of Ord; two brothers, Charles Prien of Lyons, Nebr., and John Prien of Ord. He is also survived by a number of other relatives and a large number of friends.

—Mrs. Earl Blessing underwent a major operation Friday and was said this morning to be making a splendid recovery. She is at the Ord hospital. Earl, who works for the state highway department and is now stationed at St. Paul, was here over Decoration day to be with her and also to visit his many relatives.

Athletic Field on Moudry Tract Being Discussed

WPA Would Furnish Labor, City and School Board Might Share Expense.

A proposal to buy the Moudry tract of land east of Russell park and establish a permanent athletic field for the use of school and city sports of all kinds is occupying the minds of city officials and school board members this week.

The 18-acre tract can now be bought for $1,600—in fact, it was stated by Mayor M. B. Cummins Friday that Mr. Moudry has signed a 90-day option to sell at that figure.

Last week Mark Gyger, the head of the Works Progress Administration for this area, inspected the tract and stated that in his judgment cost for materials, team hire, truck rental, tools, etc., should not exceed $500, which the city government, school district, or other interested local agencies would have to pay, in addition to buying the land.

The WPA, said Gyger, would furnish all labor, so total cost to the city and school district should not exceed $2,100. The WPA would spend about $5,500 on the project.

Not only a cinder track and football field but also a diamond for softball or baseball, or both, as well as tennis courts and a croquet ground, could be laid out on the tract, if it should be bought and developed. Flood lighting equipment already installed in Russell park and at the fair grounds could be moved to the new athletic field at minimum expense.

Later, as funds warrant, it might be possible to build a permanent grandstand on the tract, Mayor Cummins believes. Space for a swimming pool to be built later could be provided also.

Having all the city and school athletic activities on one tract where supervision will be simple is very advantageous, it was pointed out by civic club representatives. With the WPA paying major share of the initial cost, the city can ill afford to wait until a later date if such a plan ever is to be carried out, said Light Commissioner George Allen.

With a single exception, representatives of civic organizations present at the meeting Friday evening expressed themselves as heartily in favor of the project being carried out. Scoutmaster Rex Jewett said he wants to study the proposal more thoroughly, especially with regard to how the city will raise funds to pay for it, before committing himself.

An unofficial proposal was made to the school board by Mayor Cummins, subject to approval by the council, to the effect that the city would buy the land and pay entire cost of the project, with the school district repaying one-third of the entire cost to the city over a 5-year period.

Both Mr. Gyger and George Allen, jr., of the WPA, pointed out that more than 20,000 cubic yards of dirt will have to be moved to level the tract as it should be leveled. Gyger said he thinks there is no doubt the project would be approved by WPA, if application is made. It will take about six weeks to get the formal approval, he thinks.

The matter will come up before the Ord council for discussion Friday evening, with an excellent chance of its being adopted.

Rotarians Entertain Guests Monday Eve

Monday evening was "Good Neighbor" night with the Ord Rotarians, and a number of the members brought as a guest a competitor in the same line of work. Dr. C. J. Miller was the guest of Dr. F. A. Barta, Clarence Davis brought Alvin Lee, Dr. G. R. Gard brought Dr. G. W. Taylor, Emil Fafeta was the guest of Ralph Misko, Cecil Hansen the guest of F. V. Cahill, Rudolph Koupal came as the guest of Wm. Sack, and Ralph Norman as the guest of E. L. Vogelzanz.

The talk of the evening was given by Clarence M. Davis, who took for his topic "Three Schools of Competition." He drew a picture of the various kinds of competition practiced now and in the past, and showed clearly that the only kind of competition which really stands the test is the co-operative type in which a man is willing to co-operate with his competitor rather than work against him.

—The Comstock band plans to give its first concert of the summer on June 8. A new band stand is being constructed and will be ready for use by that time. Plans are being made to have the Burwell Community band there at that time to help dedicate the new band stand.

WHY WE DECORATE.

Decoration Day is a day set aside for marking the graves of soldiers and sailors who fell in the Civil war, and other wars. The practice took its rise early in the Civil war, and strangely enough, both the North and the South developed the idea about the same time.

Since the establishment of the custom, nearly all of those who fought on either side in the war of the rebellion have gone to their reward, but the custom will survive as long as our nation shall last.

For the reason that flowers mature at an earlier period in the south, most of the southern states hold their memorial services and decorate the graves of their soldier dead in April, but the principle is the same.

The memorial principle was set forth in the never to be forgotten address of Abraham Lincoln at Gettysburg. You may have thought that he made that address in memory of the Union soldiers who lost their lives on the field of Gettysburg.

This is as it should be. No matter how far apart our ideas and ideals may be in life, we are brought together in death. Those soldiers lying on the field of Gettysburg did not lie in orderly ranks, the blue on one side, the gray on the other.

Each county plot includes 100 samples of wheat. In addition, there is a master plot at Lincoln, where all 2,100 samples will be checked.

The different wheats will be graded A, B, or C, according to variety, purity, freedom from rust, yielding ability, resistance to lodging, diseases and other factors.

Farmers will be shown how their wheat compares with other wheats grown in the neighborhood, and also in different parts of the state. Those having grade C wheat will be encouraged to get rid of it and obtain some A or B seed wheat.

Dates have been set for meeting days in counties where the samples will be judged. The meetings are sponsored by the Extension Service, Experiment Stations and the Nebraska Grain Improvement Association.

THE OLD HOME TOWN.

It matters not where it is located, the old home town is one of the institutions of human existence which has more to do with the formation of character, perhaps, than any one other influence.

This home town may have been large and well known over the state. It may have been so small that its existence was unknown outside its immediate circle of acquaintance.

has not had at least one man born and raised in the community who rose to great heights in his chosen profession. Greatness is where you find it, and it is the privilege of communities to search out that greatness and encourage it, although true greatness is seldom recognized in its own community.

However, experience has proven that it does not work out that way. Identical twins should be born with exactly the same opportunities for they are more alike than any others of the human species.

It thus happens that only a small percent of the human race arises above the mass of humanity, and in this respect the number is fully as large per capita in the small community as the large. Honesty is the greatest asset to true greatness, and this is one cardinal virtue that is taught in the rural school or the small town more than elsewhere.

It is idle to claim that all the opportunities for advancement are in the cities. More men are gaining success there, but more are failures. We hear of those who succeed, but lose sight of those who sink into oblivion.

We have a right to believe in our old home town, and we must believe in it if we expect it to believe in us. It may not be much of a town, as towns go; it may not have paving, it may not have electric lights, and it may not have adequate fire protection and a sufficient supply of city water, but we still believe in it.

We point proudly to such improvements as we have, and explain to the sneering visitor from the big town that we expect to have all these improvements in time, and that, when they come, we, individually, will have a certain definite part in bringing them to pass.

So, if you have no paving in your town, wade the mud and be proud of the privilege. Our nation's greatest men of early days waded the mud before you. If the lighting is not adequate, be thankful for the kerosene lamp. Lincoln studied by the light of the open fire. If you have to take a bath in a wash tub, you are no worse off than all your Colonial forebears.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

A new method of improving wheat is being started in Nebraska. It is known as the Canadian plan, and consists of gathering hundreds of actual samples of grain from farmers and planting the samples side by side in county test plots.

Each county plot includes 100 samples of wheat. In addition, there is a master plot at Lincoln, where all 2,100 samples will be checked.

The Canadian plan has the advantage of testing out crops under exact local conditions. Nebraska has so many climatic and geographical differences that crops which show promise at North Platte or Lincoln may react differently a hundred miles away.

When this picture was taken we had been getting hungry for some time and had been kidding Mr. Hallaway, who was driving, urging him to find a nice place to eat the sandwiches and other things in the lunch we had prepared for that day.

Garlic-Parsley an Aid in HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

On a recent vacation trip to the south I took numerous pictures and planned on using some of them in this column. Upon returning home the Quiz office has continually been rushed and no time could be found to make engravings of my pictures.

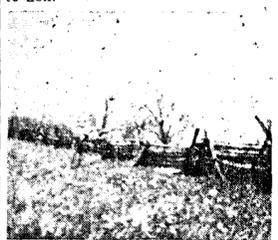

Everywhere, after one gets to mid-Missouri, the women do the family washing out of doors, apparently. At least, this is true through the country, and the above picture was taken at or near the line between Missouri and Arkansas.

This shows a common scene on the Elk River road, said to be the most scenic in the Ozarks. I got out and walked ahead and across the road and snapped the picture as Hallaway drove along right under the overhanging shelf of rock.

There were twenty miles or more of road winding in and out, up and down, under overhanging rocks, across rushing trout brooks, along high ridges where views were obtained of miles and miles of forest covered hills stretching away in the distance as far as one could see.

This is another picture taken beside the road on this same highway in northern Arkansas. Some of the cliffs were so high that we had to get out and walk to the outside of the road to see the top. Rocks are continually breaking loose and falling onto the road and state men go over the road every day prepared to clear them.

I very well remember when I was a boy in Michigan, that all fences were made of rails and looked like the picture above. The ground is covered with stones. I have marked this field as about four or five acres and it was in cotton last year.

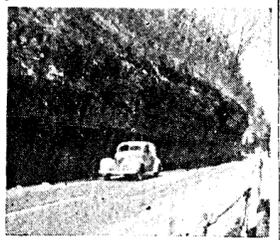

When this picture was taken we had been getting hungry for some time and had been kidding Mr. Hallaway, who was driving, urging him to find a nice place to eat the sandwiches and other things in the lunch we had prepared for that day.

This is the home of a typical Arkansas family and I just wish you could see the field just over the fence from where I stood to take the picture. The soil, if there was any, was covered completely with small shale and little stones.

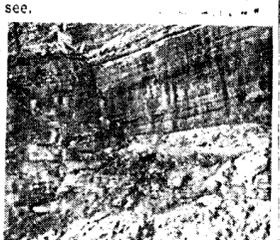

the typical rail fences as I took the picture. A well worn path down the sidehill, winding among huge rocks, probably led to the spring where all the water used by the family was secured, as there was no sign of a well around the place. I wanted to see the fireplace where no doubt the cooking was done, but there was no one at home.

And there we are. One branch of the government spends money to eliminate the grasshopper pest; another branch opens the season and allows men from all over the state to come in and bang off the one natural enemy of the pest.

This is a picture of the tourist cottage where we stayed the night at Lake of the Ozarks, north and east of Springfield, Mo., on the way home. The picture was taken early in the morning as we were loading up for the start.

One branch of the government spends millions of dollars planting tiny trees that will some day, we hope, provide a windbreak to knock back some of the hot winds and cold winds that whistle around our necks.

One branch of the government (the labor branch) advocates shorter hours and more pay, thereby giving more men work, while the Postoffice department consolidates their mail routes, giving one man a more beautiful job, leaving another to go on relief.

One branch of the government provides funds to build irrigation plants, to enable more men to raise more beets and another branch limits the growth of these same beets, that men in foreign countries may prosper.

One branch of the government worries over the plight of the farmer, and another branch (the navy) buys beef of a foreign country, thereby depressing the beef market of the farmers at home, and it must be remembered that the lowly cow comes as near being a universal American farm fixture as there is.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

Like the Ocean Few Screwy Things Short Shavings Not Very Far Away

As noble as the intentions are of those in charge of feeding poison to the grasshoppers and thus eliminating the pest from our midst, many of us feel there will have to be some other method enacted before much headway can be accomplished with this task.

Taking my own case for example, I have over 300 acres of pasture and at one time last year this entire pasture was alive with grasshoppers. North and east of my place there are more thousands of acres of pasture and there are more thousands of acres of waste land in every direction.

For people with small tracts, such as beets and gardens, spread-poison may do some good. There is much difference in opinion on that point however, but probably where the poison has been ineffective it was more than likely was not spread properly.

One might say of this paragraph, that the author finds fault with the methods now used but offers no solution. Perhaps that is true, but it is more true that poisoning does not do the trick.

And there we are. One branch of the government spends money to eliminate the grasshopper pest; another branch opens the season and allows men from all over the state to come in and bang off the one natural enemy of the pest.

A Few Screwy Things.

And this just brings up the subject of our government, under the present regime, and although we will admit we have the best system in the world and the best people and the best land, still, along a few minor lines there are things that are terribly screwy.

One branch of the government spends money to kill grasshoppers, another kills the natural enemy of the grasshopper.

One branch of the government (the labor branch) advocates shorter hours and more pay, thereby giving more men work, while the Postoffice department consolidates their mail routes, giving one man a more beautiful job, leaving another to go on relief.

One branch of the government provides funds to build irrigation plants, to enable more men to raise more beets and another branch limits the growth of these same beets, that men in foreign countries may prosper.

One branch of the government worries over the plight of the farmer, and another branch (the navy) buys beef of a foreign country, thereby depressing the beef market of the farmers at home, and it must be remembered that the lowly cow comes as near being a universal American farm fixture as there is.

Rev. Claud Hill always plants yellow and white tomatoes, for he says the red ones have more acid and that acid does not agree with his health. He can eat the yellow ones but not the red.

And speaking of Mrs. Hill, I am reminded of Mrs. Hill, and her knowledge of strawberries. She was raised in southern Illinois where almost everyone made a business of strawberries. What she does not know about the strawberry business, is not worth the bother of putting in books.

Mrs. Alfred Christensen has now started a Buffalo grass lawn and has had good luck with it so far. Last year she discovered a small patch in her yard. She raked this patch and thinks there must have been seed in the rakings, for where the old grass was raked over, the new grass came up.

The Buffalo grass has some advantages over the Blue grass. It is drought resistant. It is not as dark green as Blue grass. One cannot mow it with a lawn mower, for it is so tough. (That would suit me). Alfred had to mow it with the tractor and it even made the tractor bellow to cut it.

Not Very Far Away.

At the funeral of Mrs. Robert Van Horn last week, after the services and while we were waiting, an oriole perched himself on the window ledge and sang for all he was worth, just as if he were trying to cheer our saddened hearts, telling us best he could, that "she was not very far away."

He sounded as if he were right in the room, purposely placed there. One would think, first off, that it was a coincidence and still, on more somber thought, we don't know. Perhaps there was a Guiding Spirit there.

A Dowry With Each Groom

Marriage dowries, brought by brides to their husbands, have long been common, but, say research workers of the Federal Writers' Project, PWA, a Nebraskan saw fit to change that order in 1894. One Cass County father, who had five handsome sons, offered a marriage dowry of $100 with each one of them. He did not forget that competition is a powerful incentive, for he proposed to pay $100 more for the first grandchild.

Something Different

In some cities we have organizations which work toward the abolishment of unnecessary noise. They have proved very effective, too, reducing noises in some cities as much as 85%. Automobile horn tooting they have proved to be particularly unnecessary and inefficient, finding that the best drivers did the least tooting, and that these drivers who tooted the least had far fewer accidents. So horn blowing was proved largely unnecessary.

The noise combatants even went so far as to decide from the data they had collected that he who blew his car's horn the most was the poorest driver and made the most foolish decisions. . . . was he who took the most chances and thereby got himself into "spots" where he felt only a lot of tooting would help him get through safely.

I wish Ord could have a non-tooting sentiment stirred up. With the courthouse lawn unuseable this summer, I foresee a great deal of car-sitting for band concert audiences, and therefore more horn blowing than in previous years. The ugly blare of horns is supposed to repay the band for creating lovely music.

And once in a while when a noisy charivari party toots away an hour of the pleasant evening I also long to do something about that. Hain't I getting crabby and full of hates and set in my ways? Signs I am getting old I fear.

And you couldn't drag me to a horror picture at the movies though I know there are those who enjoy them. "The Son of Frankenstein" was a corker, I don't doubt. I hear one sixteen year old who attended with his father went home and began hearing strange noises in the house.

The next thing the father knew the son said shiveringly, "Get over, I'm going to sleep with you." The father answered, "Why, are you that cold, fella?" and the son replied honestly, "No, I'm just plain scared to death!"

They had a hobby show in Omaha the other day. I would like to have seen it. I wonder if we haven't plenty of material for a good hobby show here at home? For instance Mrs. Robert Noll avidly chases salt and peppers, and she has more than three hundred pairs of them now and she is still going

President Wades Into Political Buzz Saw on Argentine Beef Deal

Affair Costs Mr. Roosevelt Dearly in Personal and Political Prestige; Executive's Explanation Never Caught Up With His Original Statement on Transaction.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—When I was a kid on the farm, my father used to warn me against getting too close to the big saw that was used to cut up wood for our kitchen stove—the old buzz saw, it was called. He was right. It could have done to me exactly what it did to logs of oak or hickory. Many times since those days, I have thought of the wisdom of those warnings as applied to other acts of life. And, the other day, I thought of how much trouble President Roosevelt could have avoided if only his advisors had guided him away from the buzz saw of Argentine canned corned beef.

It must be painfully evident to the President and to his advisors now that he waded right into a few million political buzz saws when he instructed the secretary of the navy to buy canned beef from the Argentine Co-operatives, Inc., for use of Uncle Sam's blue jackets. As a matter of fact, most of the President's stalwart supporters not only recognize that he got his hands badly mangled in the saw, but that he failed to have a "doctor" handy in the form of an offset for the grievous political error.

But the details of the situation ought to be reviewed in order fully to understand why so many people are saying that the Argentine beef affair has already cost Mr. Roosevelt dearly in political and personal prestige. Many are saying, indeed, that the cost has been greater than his ill-fated and badly judged plan to change the makeup of the Supreme court of the United States. All of the facts ought to be stated clearly for the reason that none now can foretell how widespread this prairie fire will be. Obviously the Republicans will use it as ammunition in their warfare, and in all probability quite a large segment of old line Democrats are laughing up their sleeves at the damage the beef case will do to their pet hates, the New Dealers surrounding the President.

Facts of Argentine Corned Beef Affair

Briefly, the facts are these: Pursuant to law, the secretary of the navy called for offers to sell the navy certain quantities of supplies, including 48,000 pounds of canned corned beef. The law says that government agencies must award the contract to the lowest responsible bidder—the bidder regarded as able to fulfill the requirements of the navy. There is, however, another law that says, in substance, the government must award the contracts to a firm of citizens of the United States and that the products be made from the United States—provided they are equal or better in quality than a foreign-made product and that the price is not too much higher than the foreign bid. The reason for this being, obviously, to encourage business in the United States and give jobs to our citizens for whom, as a national policy, the American standard of living must be maintained.

So, there is, first—quality and price, and second—national policy. The bids on corned beef reached the navy offices. Argentine Co-operatives, Inc., offered to sell the 24 tons of corned beef at about 16 cents a pound. The nearest bid from the United States was approximately 23 cents a pound. In addition, there is a tariff duty of six cents a pound that is applicable to imports of beef—placed by congress to protect cattle growers in this country. But the navy would not have to pay that tariff duty. Thus, the real cost to the navy would be that much less.

Navy officers felt there was considerable difference, but they were unwilling to assume responsibility for what some critics might say was a violation of the "Buy American" law. In the course of the consideration, the department of state learned of the situation, and Secretary Hull took a hand. You see, Mr. Hull has been having his own troubles with United States relations with the Argentine government. It has been necessary to prohibit importations of fresh beef from the Argentine because there is so much foot and mouth disease in the vast reaches of Argentine grazing areas. It has even become necessary to forbid the Argentine government to bring in steaks for use in its government pavilion at the New York World's fair. That did not leave a good taste in the mouth of the Argentine people. Mr. Hull was anxious to make a peace offer of some kind or another.

Subsequently Mr. Roosevelt had sought to explain what he meant by the statement that Argentine beef is superior in quality. He pointed out that the Argentine practice is to can better cuts of beef because of the slack sale for fresh meat in that part of the world. But the explanation never has caught up with the original statement, and it never will.

When this attempted explanation came from the White House, I heard an old time political battler at the capitol observe: "That is mistake No. 2. One of the first rules in politics is 'never make a statement that you have to explain.' If you do, your explanation will get you into trouble. It is better never to explain anything."

Yet, in fairness, it must be observed that the price in the United States at that time the government must pay, therefore, results from a combination of circumstances. Our national policy for years has been to encourage what we advertise as the American standard of living. To that end, congress has passed laws, many of them. The Walsh-Healy act, for example, says that the government may not buy from any manufacturer who does not comply with stated requirements as to hours and wages for work. There is the so-called fair labor standards act—the wage and hour law—for another. Fifty more could be named. Nor do I wish myself to be placed in the position of condemning all of them. I point to them merely as causes for the situation in which Argentina underbid our own folks because most of our people on relief live better than the employed workers in South America. It serves, moreover, as an illustration and a proof that most so-called statesmen advocate national policy and national laws without knowing where or when or how they may have to eat their own words.

FACTS FAVOR FORD
1 The 1939 Ford V-8 is a beautiful, modern motor car. Its 85-horsepower engine gives you economical, well-balanced performance over the entire speed range—and the 60-horsepower engine is even more economical.
2 The structural strength of the Ford car—frame, bracing, axle, body—makes not only for safety, but durability and long life.
3 Ford hydraulic brakes are exceptionally large and strong in proportion to car weight.
4 The Ford car is stabilized for comfortable riding. Its springbase, the distance between front and rear suspension, is 123 inches. Seats are toward the center, perfectly balanced. The car does not bob or dip and can have very little sway.
These four points—power, strength, safety, comfort—are by far the most important essentials in any motor car. They form the basic value of your investment.
With this solid foundation to build on, the Ford V-8 has been made beautiful, spacious, easy to drive. It is richly upholstered and has all the modern features which add to the luxury and pleasure of motoring.
You can see these things when you take a trial drive, but do not forget that the main value is in the things you do not readily see—quality of materials, precision of manufacture, fundamental engineering.

The car turned over and landed on the edge of a high embankment. Help soon arrived and they were able to go on to Kearney, Mr. White driving, where they were all examined by a doctor. Mrs. Pascoe was the most seriously injured, having the ligaments torn in her left shoulder and her arm bruised considerably.

Clothes may make the man today but research workers of the Federal Writers' Project, WPA, find evidence in Nebraska newspapers that in 1884 clothes almost unmade some men. Physicians were then recording instances of young male dudes fainting and falling in the streets because their pants fitted the calves of their legs so tightly. The Burtonian, Tekamah, commented: "Tekamah is catching the disease in a mild form, and it only needs a little sunshine to fully develop the deformity in all its dudsness."

Promotion Exercises For Valley County's 8th Grade Held Wednesday

Promotion exercises for the 84 Valley county eighth graders was held at the Ord high school auditorium Wednesday evening. Due to the weather conditions only 41 were in attendance. The two act play put on by the North Loup eighth graders was very interesting, as were the two marionette shows put on by the pupils of Dist. No. 27. The puppets used were about a foot high and all of the show, including the stage, was made by the school. The music for the program was furnished by the Ord senior boys' quartet, and there was also an instrumental trio.

In the above picture the six Valley county 8th graders who ranked highest scholastically are shown in the front row, with Miss McClatchey at the right. ## Ford To Open Tractor Plant

Taking cognizance of war scares in its own particular way, the Ford Motor Co. announced Thursday it would begin beating swords into plowshares "to take the minds of the people off war."

Specifically, Henry Ford said that he was turning the B building at the Rouge plant, which manufactured Eagle boats for the Navy in the World War, into a plant to build a new kind of farm tractor on a mass production basis.

"Power Farming Is Here" The date on which actual mass production will start was expected to be announced in another week. How many men the plant would employ would depend on the demand for the tractors, it was explained, but Ford said confidently that "power farming is really here."

The new model will reduce tractor weight from 3,000 to 1,700 pounds, with research continuing for even lighter models.

The new machine, Ford said, "in the case of the plow, which has caused the greatest amount of tractor trouble, uses a principle which pulls the plow point into the ground instead of, as is now done, out of the ground. Striking an obstruction in the field, there can be no rearing of the front end of the tractor."

New Coupling Invented Harry Ferguson, of Belfast, Ireland, he said, worked out a contrivance which includes a hydraulic coupling which keeps the plow level under heavy load or on uneven ground.

Ford, who for the last two decades has advocated closer relationship between the farm and factory, expressed belief that he was nearing his goal through development of power farming by encouraging the return to farms of young men who had been discouraged from farming because of the volume of work involved for a relatively small return.

"If we can make farming easier," he said, "less expensive to start and more profitable to carry on, people will return to the land."

"There isn't a thing produced from the soil that we cannot use in industry," Ford added. "Name anything grown on the farm and I will tell you an industrial use for it."

Mechanized farming, he insisted, would so engage the attention of young men that they would have no time to think of war. "I don't believe there will be another world war," he declared, "because there are people who believe in producing things instead of destroying them."—Detroit Free Press.

"I would," replied the lady, "but we don't take that magazine." —Irma.

Nearly thirty years ago a building stood on the present Ord creamery site, and it was used in 1910 by Desch Bros. for an office for their monument business. Dr. Ludington later moved this building down across the tracks on east M street and remodeled it into a residence, now the home of the Earl Crusleys. It was painted white, but the signs put on by Desch Bros. have come through the white paint and can be read about as clearly as ever.

Old Signs Still Visible in Ord Are Still Good Sources of Information About Early Days

By John L. Ward.

A recent article dealt with the value of sidewalks in the preservation of local history, and this will deal with another source of early day information which many people may take as a matter of course, but which is far too valuable to be overlooked. Since the beginning of merchandising it has been the custom of store keepers to use the front of their buildings as a means of advertising their name and the nature of their business.

Today a number of those signs still remain for the public to read, although the owners quit the business long ago, and most of them have passed to the great beyond. But, for example, no doubt every old timer in Ord is reminded of the past when he passes the building on 15th street now occupied by the Harris and Hower carpenter shop and sees the signs on the front and south side advertising, "Furniture & Undertaking."

On May 19, 1884, fifty-five years ago, Carpenter Way began the erection of that building, which was to house the furniture store of Way and Wolf. In the June 20 issue of the Quiz appeared a half page ad announcing the opening of their new store. They advertised their line of coffins as complete, but were prepared to make any style coffin at from 1.25 per foot up.

In the July 18 issue a dissolution notice appeared. C. Wolf dropping out and D. C. Way taking over the business. Still later Henry W. Nelson occupied the building with a line of furniture. Many of the older generation can remember when Hady Stong of North Loup came to Ord and ran a furniture and undertaking business in that same building.

Later A. M. Daniels, who will be very well remembered by most Ordites took over the business there and continued it until his health failed. After he quit the building was repainted white, but in time the black in the signs found its way to the outside once more, and they now show up like ghosts of the past.

Cornell Bros., who believed in advertising of all kinds, not only in the newspapers, but also with signs. They have been out of business in Ord for nearly a quarter of a century but a number of signs they had painted still remain. One of them is along the north side of the warehouse of the Belers Implement company, and another on the back part of the east wall of the former Cornell building where the Safeway is now located.

Fragments of still another form a patchwork puzzle on the south end of another of the Belers sheds, which was rebuilt. At one time a large metal Cornell Bros. sign adorned the top of the main building facing on M street, but that was taken down after the business had changed hands. This same company once had a number of signs scattered along the roads leading into Ord, but probably all of them are now gone.

Dr. Ludington later moved this building down across the tracks on east M street and remodeled it into a residence, now the home of the Earl Crusleys. Lavender Lining

By MARY WAVERLY
 © Associated Newspapers.
 WNU Service.

LOU EM shook out the fur coat almost savagely. So this was the end of her dreams of comfort. A punishment, some would say, for her ever thinking of a little home in the country, all her own, and fat little cheeks coming in every month to keep the home fire burning. As if she wished harm to old Aunt Louise Emeline. But dreams and wishes were done now. Charities had received aunt's money, and to Lou Em had come some boxes of ancient clothing. The coat among them. No doubt the executors thought it too frail to be worth anything, or they may have thought it was but another cracked silk dress, as it lay in a trunk with its lavender lining outermost.

"It's not really worn. She must have had it made just before that accident that kept her bedridden afterward. But how old-fashioned! Look at those huge sleeves! Enough to make two coats. And that's an idea."

Lou Em's pale cheeks flushed as she pulled out the sleeves and straightened the collar of the rich garment.

"Genuine mink, for aunt would scorn imitation. And with my hair—" She held a sleeve up against her face. "I am not so ugly after all, with something beautiful on me. I'll just try that plan I thought of; I can only be laughed at, and maybe it'll work."

Swiftly she bundled the coat into the box in which her marked-down suit had come, and leaving the old silk and cloth frocks of her legacy on the floor, hurried down the boarding house stairs. Saturday afternoon was not a good time for her experiment, but business girls can't choose times.

The splendor of the new furrier's in the new building on the avenue of fashionable shops almost daunted Lou Em, but she would not give up, now that she was started.

"I have here a coat—" she stammered to the attendant.

"For the remodel, yes? See Mr. Moon."

Mr. Moon proved to be a young man with the most wonderful eyes and manners that Lou Em had ever approved of.

"How much will it cost?" she asked anxiously, trying to hide her foot with its cracked shoe. "Not too much, and could I—?"

"New lining, of course. Something neat in beige. And recut to fit you. Something smart. Say, a $150."

"Dollars?" inquired Lou Em faintly. He might as well have said kingdoms. She had as many as she had dollars.

"But the extra fur. There's a lot of that. Look how long and full the coat is, and those sleeves—couldn't you—that is—surely it's worth something, that fur."

Young Mr. Moon raised his eyebrows, and then he took a good look at Lou Em. He saw the cracked shoe and the too-much washed crepe blouse and the last year's hat. He saw something else, too, for Mr. Moon was really an observing as well as a good young man.

"Most unusual, Miss—Henly, was it? But I'll ask the boss. He's in, I think. Can't promise, though."

Lou Em sat in the pale-gray reception room then and prayed for the five minutes that seemed five hours until Mr. Moon returned, followed by a human volcano, carrying the mink coat.

Mr. Schonbrunn of Schonbrunn Furs, Inc., was not ordinarily an excitable man, but now he appeared to be one huge sputter.

"You get this, where? This—this—I myself make this complete, the first work I do when I finish the apprentice. The lining, how I fought the old lady about that. But she beat, and for doing as she said I got $50 extra.

"Ah, ah—the good old days when I was a young feller, them was. It makes me cry—"

Mr. Schonbrunn's eyes indeed were tearful.

"You want a coat? I'll make you a coat of good mink, a grand coat, lining the best I got, but this coat I don't cut. No. This coat hangs in my office in a glass case, as long as I got it an office. You know why? That $50 started me up. I traded a bit in small skins till I could leave the boss and start for myself. I come here—now look!"

Mr. Schonbrunn waved a prideful hand about the pale-gray salon, with its one priceless sable scarf on display.

"The lavender lining that made my fortune—" He stroked the silk caressingly. "Yes, you take the order, Moon. A mink coat of the best for the young lady. And you see to it personally. See that she's suited."

Mr. Moon would do that. Certainly he would. And there was much to talk about, Aunt Louise Emeline and the charities that probably needed her money, and Mr. Schonbrunn and his romantic streak, so that Mr. Moon came the next evening to Lou Em's boarding house parlor. And kept coming and taking her out to get the good of the new coat.

He really was such an understanding young man that when his salary was raised Lou Em consented to give up the boarding house and as Mrs. Moon live in the dearest little flat where the new mink coat would be more at home.

MEDICAL FACTS

Sponsored by
4-COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

It is sometimes startling to realize how ones ideas may be influenced by a little knowledge. We have a disease in this country and in Nebraska called undulant fever. Its original name was Malta fever. It got this name a long time ago because it was discovered around the Mediterranean Sea, especially on the island of Malta and it was first thought to be limited to this region. In studying the cause of this disease it was found to be transmitted to man from goats. This gave me the idea that goat raising was the main business of the people living in Malta. In fact, I find that this little island, which consists of only 95 square miles of ground, is used largely for the raising of wheat, barley, potatoes and cotton. Goats aren't even mentioned.

It was a physician by the name of Bruce who discovered the little germ which causes undulant fever. This discovery was made in 1886.

Garlic-Parsley an Aid in HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Medical reports say that Garlic-Parsley concentrate has a double action in reducing high blood pressure. First, it tends to relax tightened arteries. Second, it checks or inhibits decomposition of the matter in the blood, a contributory cause of high blood pressure. To get concentrated garlic and parsley in a sterile, tasteless form, ask for ALLMID, these tablets, used at regular intervals, aid in reducing blood pressure and relieving headache and dizziness caused by excessively high readings. To learn what raises your blood pressure and medical treatment consult your doctor. ALLMID is for sale by all druggists. Large box, 50c. Special economy size, $1.00.

Later it was found that cattle and hogs had diseases caused by similar germs. In cattle this germ caused contagious abortion. The germ was discovered by Doctor Bang, in 1897.

These germs are transmitted to man largely by way of the milk. When man gets the disease he has a peculiar type of fever. The fact that this fever often comes in waves lasting a few days or weeks followed by periods of normal temperature, gives it its present name, undulant fever.

The victim of this disease may be fortunate enough to have only one or two of these waves of fever, in which event he will be sick only a month or two. Often, however, one wave of fever follows another over a period of many months, up to two years. The fever is accompanied by chills, profuse sweating, pains in the joints and bones and neuralgias. As one bout follows another the patient becomes pale and anemic, due to the long continued poisoning of the system by the infection. Weakness, of course, accompanies the pallor and anemia. There are abdominal pains and sometimes complications affecting the lungs, testicles, eyes and other organs. Some of these victims die but the greatest calamity usually lies in the long continued illness with forced interruption of work and business.

The diagnosis of this disease is not easy, in fact is often very difficult. The germs are hard to cultivate. The blood tests are sometimes positive in those who have not had the disease, especially in veterinarians and others who handle animals and animal products intimately. On the other hand, the victim of the disease may have a negative blood test.

Prevention in general can be had by boiling the infected milk. A good example is a story related about a shipload of goats being taken from Malta to Antwerp. All ten of the crew drank the milk from the goats. Eight of the ten came down with the fever. Two of the engineers boiled the milk before drinking it and they remained healthy.

It is well to remember that this disease is present in Nebraska and sometimes causes fevers that seem obscure in origin and difficult for your doctor to diagnose.
