Lightning Terrific Monday; Buildings Damaged by Wind

Mrs. Sam Marks Shocked By Lightning When Hanging Out Clothes.

In the main the weather for the past week was warm and dry, but Monday forenoon the sky was overcast with rather light clouds. At 11 a. m. several terrific bolts of lightning hit in various parts of Ord, but were not followed by the usual burst of rain. Instead only a light shower fell, and very little rain was reported anywhere in this section.

The city plant was carrying a heavy load at the time the lightning and such a charge was thrown into the plant that the two diesels running were knocked out. The city was out of lights for a few minutes while the third diesel was being started. No damage was done to either engine.

A bolt hit the Sarah McLain residence, blowing out a fuse with such violence that the pieces were scattered all over the kitchen. Miss McLain received quite a severe shock. Miss Gertrude Hawkins was out in the yard at the clothes line taking in clothes, but did not have hold of the line when the shock came. She says that she felt no shock, but it seemed that fire was flashing all around the yard.

Mrs. Sam Marks was also at her clothes line nearby, and had her hand on the line when the bolt struck. She was nearly knocked to the ground and her hand was burned, and it took her some time to recover from the shock. It was the most vicious electrical storm that Ord has known for some time, and struck entirely without warning.

Tuesday following a strong southeast wind all day, rain clouds appeared in the west, and just about the time they reached Ord, a terrific wind blew up from the south, carrying a heavy cloud of dust ahead of it, so heavy that car drivers had to turn on their lights and many of them parked until the worst of the storm was past.

Several trees were blown down in Ord. At the Wise place, in Vinton township, the windmill and a tree were blown down, and minor damage is also reported at the Charley King place as well as several other places over the county. The rainfall in Ord amounted to .31 of an inch, and it all came slowly with no hail. Northeast of town more rain fell. Some hail fell at the Yavra place, 7 miles west of Ord, but did no damage.

Sargent Out of Water After Storm Last Week

Last Wednesday the pump at the north well at Sargent ceased to function, due to a burned out generator, and as this was the only well that had been operating for some time, the city was out of water. The high flood water of Sunday morning, June 25 filled the city well with muddy water, and it took some time to get the mud cleared out, the trouble being complicated by the failure of the pump.

However, repairs had been ordered for the pump in the west well, and when these arrived workmen went to work at once and made the necessary changes. In addition a new transformer arrived and had to be put in place. When all this was done and the pumps started, it did not take long to clear up the water situation, much to the satisfaction of Sargent housewives.

Frank Dubsky Is New Council Oak Manager

Frank Dubsky of Howells, Nebr., arrived Thursday to take the place of Bob Cook as manager of the Ord Council Oak Store. Mr. Dubsky was manager of the Council Oak store at Howells before coming to Ord, and is a man of several years experience in the merchandising game. His family, consisting of Mrs. Dubsky and their daughter Arlene, came with him. Mr. Dubsky is a man of pleasing personality and should make a success of his work here.

Dr. Baird and Wife Injured In Accident

Dr. and Mrs. Joe Baird, of Arcadia, left Sunday on a vacation trip to Texas. While Mrs. Baird was driving near Geneva, she missed a corner and the car turned over. Mrs. Baird was quite badly bruised, while Dr. Baird's arm was injured. They phoned George Olsen at Arcadia and he drove down after them. Their car was brought to Grand Island for repairs.

See Rev. Real and Horse. Rev. Real, former Ord minister, and his wonder horse will appear as a part of the show at the Ord Theatre Sunday and Monday. This horse is the same one which was shown being put through his paces by Rev. Real in some pictures in the Quiz last January 11.

GOVERNMENT MAY LOCATE AIRPORT AT ORD

Within the next week government engineers will be in Ord making a survey of the possibilities of establishing a government airport here. The state has $40,000 collected from aerial gas tax which must be spent on aviation improvements in the state. The Nebraska Aeronautical Association has recommended that an airport be built at Ord. According to information received here this week it is very likely such a project will be built here should the engineers report favorably.

Former Arcadia Girl Admitted to Bar

EDITH H. SANDERS.

The above is a very good photo of Mrs. Edith H. Sanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. V. Hansen of Arcadia recently graduated with a degree of Bachelor of Laws, cum laude, from the Omaha Municipal university. She was admitted to the bar in the state of Nebraska on June 23. She has been employed in the legal department of the Fairmont Creamery company for the past ten years and worked her way through school, studying in her spare time. She stood second high in her class, and is the first woman from Valley county, so far as can be learned, to receive an L. L. D. degree.

Loft Boy Rescued From Under Gate At Irrigation Dam

Was Swimming Above Dam When Under Current Pulled Him Into Opened Gate.

Reynard Loft, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Loft, had a narrow escape from drowning at Hardenbrook Dam Thursday. He and a group of other boys had been swimming in the water above the dam and diving off the structure, when Reynard approached too close to the gates, and was drawn under one of them in a sitting position.

The gate was raised just enough to permit his legs to be sucked in, and the water was too deep for him to keep his head above water. Donald Ward saw him go in, and went to his assistance, but could not pull him out. Bud Tatlow, Boyd Holloway and Joy Janssen were also there, and it took the combined efforts of all of them to release him.

He had swallowed some water when released, and his legs were blue from the pressure, but he suffered no ill after-effects. The boys are not permitted to swim above the dam or dive from the structure, and Archie Bradt, who is in charge enforces this rule when he is there, but he was away at the time of the accident. One narrow escape is enough, and it is hoped no further warning will be necessary.

Funeral Held at Madison For Hon. Willis E. Reed

Nebraska lost one of its outstanding citizens in the death at Madison last week of Hon. Willis E. Reed, 73, who was attorney general from 1915 to 1919. This was during the time of the World war, and he was called upon to prosecute a number of very important cases. At the time of his death he had retired to private life and was living quietly at his Madison home. Funeral services were held at Madison Sunday afternoon and the body taken to Malvern, Ia., for burial Monday afternoon.

—For the past week or more Jack Riley has been having trouble with his right hand because of infection from hopper poison. He has been working in the mixing plant for a month or more, wearing rubber gloves as a safeguard, but some of the poison got to working on his hand anyway.

Ord Athletic Field Project Accepted By WPA Officials

$15,630.00 Will Be Spent To Level and Improve Tract Purchased by City.

The president has approved the Ord athletic park improvement project, according to information issued June 30. This is the project whereby the city of Ord is to expend the sum of $1,600 for the purchase of the John Moundry 13 acre tract of land lying between Bussell Park and Ord, and the WPA will expend the sum of $15,280 for its improvement.

One of the chief advantages of the project at this time is that the sum of money advanced will practically all be expended in labor and will furnish work for a group of men who otherwise would be without employment. Another important point is that this land will be valuable in the future as Ord expands, and it can now be obtained at a nominal sum.

Mark Gyger, area engineer, when approached on the subject Saturday, stated that the work would probably start whenever men were available. They are employed on other projects at present, but these will soon be completed. A man with experience in this type of work will be in charge of the work when it starts.

Present plans call for an athletic field which will include a football gridiron, a baseball and softball diamond, and athletic track, and space will be provided for tennis courts, croquet grounds, and other sports. Space will also be allotted for a swimming pool, although no specific plans are being made for at this time. Also included in the project is a band shell to be constructed in the park, should the city desire it.

Mr. Gyger stated that in all probability a crew of about 20 men would be employed when the work starts, and road machinery will be used in moving the dirt. When the work has progressed sufficiently to warrant, the flood lighting equipment will be moved from the field in Bussell park and installed.

It is estimated that the amount of WPA funds required for the leveling of the field would be $5,500, leaving $10,000 to be used in landscaping, construction, or any other work that might be deemed advisable. Two arguments advanced in favor of the new field is the nearness to town, and the fact that the present layout at Bussell Park would not be changed.

Since work must be provided for local WPA in any case, it would seem that it might as well be expended in the project of providing a permanent athletic field, well located and amply large for the needs of the present and the exigencies of the future. The project was approved almost unanimously by representatives of a number of Ord groups at the time of its inception.

Fire Destroys Harrod Farm Home at Burwell

The farm home of Will Harrod, four miles northwest of Burwell on the Calamus was completely destroyed by fire early Wednesday morning. The Burwell fire department was notified at once, but as it would have been necessary to go around by the Willow Springs bridge east of town to get to the Harrod place, it was decided that the trip would be useless.

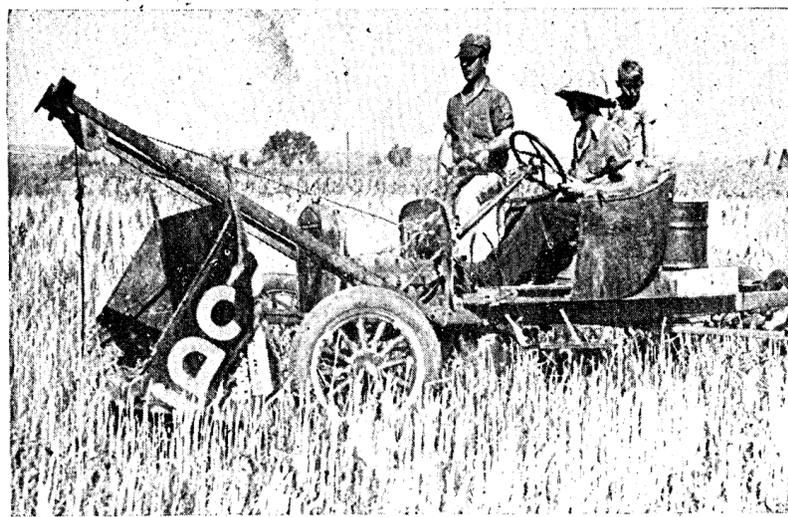

Mr. Harrod got up that morning and started a fire in the oil stove, then went to the barn to do his chores. He soon saw the smoke at the house caused by the exploding of the stove, and hurried to the house. However, all that he had time to do was to get Mrs. Harrod out of the house, and with the help of the neighbors, save whatever he could of the furniture.

Although it was early in the morning a large number of neighbors responded promptly, and helped to keep the flames from spreading to the other buildings. The house and most of the contents was completely destroyed, but both are fairly well covered by insurance, so the loss will not be as great as was at first feared.

WPA Worker Takes Life Tuesday At Scotia Home

Apparently overcome by a fit of despondency, Albert Sternberg of Scotia took his own life by shooting himself in the left side with a 16 gauge shotgun. The act was committed at 6:00 p. m. last Tuesday evening at his home in the suburbs of Scotia. Mr. Sternberg had been employed on a WPA project and had just returned from his work on the highway east of Scotia. The fact that he took his life on his 29th birthday is significant. Besides his mother, Mrs. Emory Welsh, with whom he made his home, he leaves two sisters, Mrs. John Hansen of Ord and Mrs. Fred Seiber of DeLus, three brothers, Howard and Fred of Scotia and Roy of Fish Creek, and his step-father Emory Welsh. Funeral services were held from the Scotia Methodist church Friday afternoon and burial was made in the Scotia cemetery.

Bud Beebe, Sam Drawbridge, Build Hopper Catching Machine

Two North Loup men, Bud Beebe and Sam Drawbridge, recently built the above hopper catching machine. For the tractor part of it they used a Model T truck. The first machine did not work, because the liquid splashed out of the trough. This one was built with anti-splashers, and does a fine job. He ran the machine around a little while for the benefit of the photographer and picked up about 2 1/2 bushels of hoppers.

He says they can cover a 60 acre field in a day and get about ten bushels of hoppers per acre, which is more in some cases than the grain is making. He uses a mixture of water and oil, which kills the insects without undue delay. The best time to catch them is early morning or late evening. In top picture left to right, Mr. Beebe, Mr. Drawbridge and Beebe, Jr. Mr. Beebe is seen investigating the catch in the lower photo.

Leonard Mostek Injured When Kicked By Horse

Leonard, 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Mostek, who lives in the Davis Creek neighborhood, was severely injured last week when he was kicked in the stomach by a horse. The lad was raking hay and the doubletree broke. He got off the rake and attempted to fix it when one of the horses kicked him with both feet. He was taken to the hospital in Loup City and remained there several days. He is home again now and is slowly recovering though he is unable to amount much.

Weather Fine for Band on Wednesday Evening

As usual, the weather was fine for the band concert Wednesday evening, and the streets were thronged with people. Cars from a number of the surrounding counties were seen, and their owners vowed their intention of coming again to hear the band from week to week.

A total of fourteen numbers were given, specials including "My Regards," with Dean Barta appearing as cornet soloist; Bohemian selection, "Cuckoo Waltz," and "Muzicky Muzicky March," the popular songs "I Have Eyes," and "You're A Sweet Little Headache," with refrains sung by Marilyn Dale; and community singing led by Tom Springer, "My Nebraska," and "America."

Ignowski Is Sentenced For Stealing Chickens

Arnold Ignowski of south of Arcadia was arrested Tuesday by P. J. Cohen and was brought before District Judge E. P. Clements Wednesday morning on a charge of stealing twelve chickens from William George on or about June 17. Upon his plea of guilty he was sentenced to thirty days in jail and to pay the costs of the action.

Louis Severson Held First Sale Saturday

As advertised in last week's Quiz Louis Severson held his first auction sale Saturday on the lot north of the old Weekes' Seed company. There was a fair offering and also a fair attendance, considering that it was the first sale to be held there. He plans to hold sales there each Saturday.

Rotarians Hear Stoddard.

Gerald Stoddard was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Ord Rotary club Monday evening. He gave a very complete and interesting account of his recent trip to the Boys' State at Lincoln. Due to the fact that it was the night before July 4, there was not a large attendance, but those present appreciated the entertainment furnished them. The new president, C. C. Thompson, took over the meeting, supplementing Dr. P. A. Abita, president for the past year. Dr. Gard, holds over as secretary.

Ordites Celebrated Elsewhere.

Perhaps half of the population of Ord and vicinity went elsewhere to celebrate the 4th. St. Paul drew about the greatest number, as they were putting on a special two day show for the Golden Jubilee of the fire department. Several parties went to Ericson, and some to Taylor and Comstock. Other groups picnicked at the Sumter bridge and at Bussell and Anderson parks. All had a good time, and no serious accidents are reported.

Softball Schedules to Begin Next Week

Ord softball has been organized, with Raymond Christensen as president and Axel Jorgensen as secretary. Four captains have been chosen, as follows: Don Dahlin, Juniors; Russell Jensen, Third Team; Axel Jorgensen, Livestocks; and Syl Furtak, K. of C. The last practice game will be this Thursday evening, with a general meeting to follow.

League play will start Tuesday evening, July 11. All postponed games will be played on the following Thursday. The Livestocks will play the K. of C. in the first contest and the other two teams will tangle in the second game. Batting averages and team standings will appear each week in the Quiz.

Leave For California.

Mrs. Florence Chapman and son Delbert are leaving Ord today to make their home at Long Beach, Calif. Mrs. Minnie Hardenbrook and Miss Mamie Smith are taking them by car to Grand Island, and they will travel by easy stages to Long Beach. Mrs. Chapman received word Tuesday from Miss Mamie Siler that she had found and rented a nice apartment on the ground floor, and that she would meet them at the station when they arrived.

Mrs. Chapman, born Florence Maude Smith, came to Ord with her parents from LeMars, Ia., at the age of 3 years. They lived for a year on a farm on Turtle Creek and then moved to Ord. She attended school under T. T. Bell, Prof. Gillespie and Prof. Hussey. She was fourteen years old when she first worked on the Ord Quiz under W. W. Haskell, for three months she worked for O. S. Haskell for 5 years on the Blizzard.

The paper was then sold to Dr. J. M. Klinker, who ran it for several years, Mrs. Chapman working for him. She also worked a long time for H. M. Davis on the Ord Journal. She worked for the Quiz at different times under Mr. Haskell and when he sold to H. D. Leggett she continued to work for him.

Mrs. Ada Munn had Mrs. Chapman and Delbert at her home for supper last Saturday evening. Friday the members of the R. N. A. met at her home, bringing their own chairs and tables with them, as the Chapman furniture was mostly sold. The Degree of Honor met with her on Saturday night, and on Monday evening the Rebekahs met there, showing the high esteem in which she is held by the members of these organizations.

Former Council Oak Manager Arrested On Assault Charge

Robert Cook and Brother Fined Saturday by Judge John L. Andersen.

Upon complaint of Melvern Ferris filed with County Attorney, John P. Misko, George and Robert Cook were arrested Saturday morning by Sheriff George Round on a charge of assault and battery, and upon their admission of guilt before John L. Andersen, County Judge, were fined $5 and costs of $6 each, a total of $22, all of which they paid and were released.

The assault was entirely unprovoked, and came as a surprise to all who were in the vicinity. Robert Cook had been discharged from his position as manager of the Ord Council Oak store two days before, and he and his wife planned to leave Ord Saturday. His brother George and wife were in Ord helping them get ready to move.

Friday evening they were invited to supper at the Daryl Hardenbrook home, and also played badminton while there. While they were playing Melvern Ferris drove up and stopped to play a few games. The Cook brothers invited him to go down to the park, and upon his refusal to go with them, Robert took off Melvern's glasses and ordered his brother, who is a boxer, to hit him.

George Cook hit him, and Robert slapped him several times. He broke loose from Robert and got George down when Hardenbrook and Glen Holloway took a hand. The Cooks then got in their car and drove away. The only possible excuse they could have had for the assault was that Robert Cook had an argument with the proprietors of the Ord City Bakery, by whom Mr. Ferris is employed.

June Prove a Good Month for Marriages

No less than ten couple obtained licenses from County Judge John L. Andersen in June, which makes the past four Junes very fine months indeed for marriages. The record for the past ten years is as follows: 1930, 9; 1931, 9; 1932, 5; 1933, 9; 1934, 5; 1935, 8; 1936, 11; 1937, 10; 1938, 7, and 1939, 10. The average for the past four years is 9 1/2, while that of the four years before was only 6 1/2.

Townsend Club Plans.

The Ord Townsend club will meet at Bussell Park, Friday, July 7, at 6 p. m., for their regular meeting. There will be lunch and entertainment. Everybody is welcome.

—Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cox and daughter of North Loup were in Ord Saturday evening.

Prien Knocked Out By George Benda Saturday Night

One Man Taken to Hospital, the Other to Jail; Both Paid Fines Monday.

Monday afternoon George Benda and John Prien were brought before John L. Andersen, county judge, on a charge of assault and battery, and upon their admission of guilt, were both fined. Benda received a fine of $15 and paid costs of $10, and Prien was fined $25 and paid costs of $8.

The facts as brought out at the hearing showed that both men had been arguing and quarrelling, and that about 9:30 p. m., Saturday, Frank Kasal asked them to leave his pool hall, because they were causing too much of a disturbance. They continued the argument and shortly afterward came back in again.

After they were inside Prien made a pass at Benda, but without hitting him, and Benda landed a heavy blow on Prien's face, breaking his nose and splitting his lip, as was learned upon examination at the hospital later. Prien sank to the floor unconscious, and immediate efforts to arouse him failed.

He was then taken to the Ord hospital, where he later recovered consciousness, and where he was kept until the time of the hearing Monday. It is known that both men had been drinking, and it is believed that Prien's failure to rally after the fight was due as much to the effects of the liquor as to the results of the fight.

Married at Bartlett.

Dave Haight and Miss Jessie Adams were married at Bartlett Wednesday, June 28. Because of the fact that both of them have been much in the public eye in connection with their work for a number of years, the public felt a special interest in the wedding.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Sarah Adams of Ord, is a graduate of the Ord schools, and for years has been employed in different Ord restaurants. Recently she leased the Thorne cafe for a period of six months, and has been enjoying a very good business there.

Mr. Haight has been custodian of the court house for a long period of years, and in that capacity has become one of the best and most favorably known men in Ord. Their hundreds of friends unite in wishing them the best of this life's blessings.

Cosmopolitans Planning Soap Box Derby for Ord

Some time ago the Cosmopolitan club decided in favor of having a soap box derby for Ord, and named Ed Gnaster as a committee of one to make the necessary arrangements. Mr. Gnaster wrote the World-Herald and learned that the paper is no longer sponsoring the contests.

Hearing that a state contest was to be held this year at North Platte, he wrote there, and under date of June 30 received a letter from the North Platte Daily Telegram, that read as follows:

"Dear Sir:—The Nielsen Chevrolet company has referred your letter of the 26th to me and enclosed you will find a number of rule books, application blanks, driver's licenses and other data. We are anxious to have as many Ord boys and boys in your trade territory as possible to participate in the Nebraska finals of the 1939 All American Soap Box Derby, which will be held in North Platte on Sunday afternoon, July 30.

You will note the yellow and white entry blanks. Have the boys who intend to build cars have their parents sign up a yellow and white slip and return them as soon as possible to James Kirkman, Daily Telegram, North Platte, Nebr.

Each boy whose parents sign the blanks may then receive a license card which he is to present upon his arrival at North Platte for car inspection. There is no entry fee here and the winner will receive an all-expense trip to the national finals in Akron, O., in mid-August, together with his mother and father. The winner will also receive a large silver trophy and an engraved wrist watch.

Each entry here will receive a nice metal helmet and there will be various heat prizes here. Please let us hear from time to time how you are coming along. Yours truly, James Kirkman."

The club is considering the plan of having a local meet a short time before the state event to find out which boys are the best drivers. If the local boys show sufficient interest this will doubtless be done. Any boy who is interested should see Ed Gnaster at the Chevrolet Garage at once for full particulars.

—C. C. Hawthorne and Max Wall of Arcadia were in Ord on business Friday.

CURE FOR NEBRASKA'S ILLS.

What ails Nebraska, and the cure may be summed up in a few words:

1. When homesteaders came to Nebraska they found virgin soil, largely free from weeds and harmful insects. These came later with civilization and must be eliminated by careful and complete cultivation of all our tillable land.

2. The pioneers found the land cheap, the taxes light. Present land values are too high, and taxes must be cut. They founded simple, but practical schools. We have over-sold ourselves on education, and the cost is becoming entirely too great.

3. The pioneers did not borrow money except in case of dire necessity. He bought only those things he needed, and for cash. If we had stayed on a cash basis there would have been no financial crisis in Nebraska or in the nation.

4. The pioneers thought for themselves. Today we have others, too often less competent than we are, to do our thinking for us. We should run our own affairs without government assistance or interference.

5. The pioneer was a man of reverence. He believed in church and attended regularly. To better our general condition spiritual needs must come first, for they are the foundation. It will be worth while for itself alone, and will actually pay big dividends in the decrease of crime and its attendant cost.

6. Since 1934 we Nebraskans have been living a lie. We say the saloon is gone, but we know better. Let us call a spade a spade. Let us either vote the liquor dispensaries out of existence, or recognize them for what they are. The present name is a distinction without a difference.

7. Let us do our farming as God intended, with animals raised on the farm, fed with crops raised on the farm, and use the fertilizer to replenish depletion of the soil. Today we are farming with tractors built in the east, with fuel that comes from the south, and shipping in fertilizer that comes from all parts of the world.

8. Let us worry less about the welfare of the other states of the nation or the other nations of the world. The one job that we alone must do is to settle our own problems. While we are doing that perhaps the other states and nations will settle theirs.

9. Each community should take care of its own problems and as far as possible provide for its own needs. When bread, soft drinks, ice cream and even groceries are hauled one hundred miles or more each day and sold in direct competition with the home baker, the home pop factory, the home ice cream factory and the home grocer, the result is certain to be detrimental to the home town.

10. Let us forget this silly talk about so-called progress. We started going backward when we overstepped ourselves and went in debt going forward. True progress means the greatest happiness to all our citizens, and we certainly are not happy in the broadest sense today.

OUR NATION'S BIRTHDAY.

Yesterday was the 163rd anniversary of our nation's birth. Born July 4, 1776, it must not be forgotten that it was not until several years later that it was known for certain that the child would live. The young nation was in a struggle for life against the oppression of England, or rather the oppression of its reigning monarch, King George the 3d.

It is only fair to say that the king's program of oppression was by no means popular at home, and was the subject of much biting criticism in the houses of parliament. Further, if England had been governed at the time by a more indulgent king, such for example as the king of today, we might today be subjects of Great Britain, much as the Dominion of Canada.

At the time of the Declaration of Independence the revolution was still a rebellion. The first guns of the war had been heard at Lexington on April 19, 1775, less than fifteen months before. The colonies had recently completed the bloody conflict of the French and Indian war, and in the outlying districts the Indians were still raiding the settlers. The thirteen colonies were sandwiched between the French and Indians on the north and west, and the Spanish on the southwest and south. If left to their own resources without a fight, it would have seemed a formidable task to conquer the wilderness and the armies of both France and Spain. True, England owned Canada, but the vast majority of its inhabitants were French.

When we consider the difficulties that confronted our forefathers we cannot but marvel at the courage they must have shown to face the difficulties that beset them. It was in such troublous times that the document was penned that for more than a century and a half has excited the wonder and admiration of all that study its provisions.

It was not until Oct. 16, 1781, that it was definitely known that the new born country was destined for a permanent place in the galaxy of nations. Today the United States is recognized as the outstanding nation of the world, but at the start it was literally "one of the least of these." We who live in America have a right to be proud of the fact that we live in the greatest nation of them all.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD.

Mrs. Emma Hunder has a real curiosity in her home in the form of a Christmas cactus that is in full bloom just six months out of time. It is fully as beautiful as those that bloomed last winter, but apparently has lost all track of time.

When the St. Paul boosters came to town last week some good sized Ord kids got to see their first fireworks on the public square. The ordinance against fireworks in the city limits has been enforced here for a number of years, but apparently such things are permitted in St. Paul, as they had a supply of torpedoes to explode on the paving.

Not to be outdone by the George Round cat, Doc Ferguson's dog, Skipper, did some real traveling last week. Evidently somebody stole him and took him a long way off, but after a week or two he came back, so poor he could hardly walk, and with the pads and claws of his feet so worn down that his feet were very tender. Like the cat, he was very, very hungry, and delighted to get home.

Lloyd (Spud) Richardson tells of a certain cowboy, who went into the Ord Golden Rule store and bought some very red percale, designed for the purpose of inflaming the indignation of furious Ferdinands. The lady clerk was talking with a lady customer who had just made a purchase. Lloyd, we mean the cowboy, paid for his purchase and was handed a package. Outside the store he opened the package to show the goods to a friend and discovered a mistake had been made. He took the package back and the lady clerk opened in the presence of the lady customer and there were some very red faces for the package contained—yes, you are right, that's what they were.

Ord Legion Juniors Win From St. Edward

Playing the best game to date, the Ord Legion Juniors took a thrilling contest from St. Edward Wednesday afternoon to draw them into a second place tie with Ord, while Greeley remained in first place with 4 wins and 1 loss. Ord and St. Edward each have won 3 and lost 2, while Spalding, dropping out of the league, has lost all her five scheduled games.

The St. Edward boys scored one in the third, while Ord scored two in the fourth and again the seventh. With the score three to one, St. Edward ran in three in the ninth to make it 4 to 3. In Ord's half Wayne Johnson got to first on an error. Allen Zikmund drove out a two bagger which he stretched into an extra base on a fielder's error. Misko then drove the ball to the shortstop, whose throw to the plate was late, and the game was over.

Henry Misko was wild throughout but managed to pull the game out of the fire on several different occasions through the timely assistance of the entire Ord team. Four runs were cut off at the plate, two men were out on the way to third, and one out stealing second. Misko struck out 9, issued 7 bases on balls, hit two batters and allowed 6 hits. The St. Edward pitchers struck out 8, issued 3 bases on balls, hit 2 batters and allowed 7 hits.

Table with columns for Player, Ord, and St. Edward, listing statistics for various players like B. Johnson, W. Johnson, A. Zikmund, etc.

Glen Johnson and Eddie Dumond of Ord and Walt Beck of Scotia, drove to Grand Island Thursday, where they were guests of the Pabst Brewing company at a celebration they were holding there. They were accompanied to Grand Island by Misses Magdelaine Greenwalt and Clara Geneski.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

Danger Conscious. I. J. Thelin tells me that I should mention sometime of the many farm accidents that occur. He says that many or most of the farm accidents should be and could be avoided if more caution and care were taken. It has been said by good authority that farm work is one of the most dangerous of all endeavors, and this is quite largely true because the farmer is not danger conscious.

All animals are dangerous, especially horses, bulls and even hogs. I know a man once who kept a rooster that would attack people. He jumped on a child once and might have pecked his eyes out had help not come. All machinery is dangerous and there is no place where there is less protection offered than with farm machinery.

Mr. Thelin sights me to the campaign put on by the railroads to lessen the number of accidents. Men are put to work studying the safest methods to do every task and where ever there is an accident, the case is studied to find who was at fault, and in practically every accident, it is shown where it might have been avoided had proper caution and methods been used. With this campaign, railroad accidents have been reduced to a minimum. Mr. Thelin says that the railroad workers have become accident conscious, that is, their sub-conscious mind has been trained to be ever alert to save themselves from injury.

Mr. Thelin sights me also to the early days in this country when the land was infested with rattlesnakes, and still there were very few people bitten. They were not bitten because everyone was constantly alert to the danger and constantly watchful. Likewise, he says, with the railroads, working at a dangerous task, and still these workers are so trained and so danger conscious that, comparatively there are few accidents.

Along with the many other schemes to spend money, the government or agriculture college might make a study of the best methods for the farmer to avoid catastrophes and accidents and institute a safety campaign such as the railroads have found so helpful.

Playing With Possums.

SI Kriewald, says he found a mama possum down at the river the other day, and this mama possum had a half dozen baby possums hanging in her pouch. SI says the baby possums were about the size of mice and hung tenaciously to their mama as SI picked them all up and looked them over. SI says when the family goes to sleep they climb a tree and the mama possum twists her tail around a limb and they hang there throughout the night. SI let them go on their way unharmed.

Another story that Chas. Cress tells of some acquaintance of his is that he caught a possum and the animal played possum (dead). They tried in several ways to bring the possum awake, or for him to get awake, but with no avail. Finally they took it to the chopping block and cut the end of its tail off. Even that did not awaken Mr. Possum so another chunk was chopped off and finally the tail was clear off but no luck. Then they took the ax and chopped the head off and the person was sure all the time up until the last that the possum was alive and awake as could be.

A Secret as Yet.

Here is a little secret that I heard the other day when I was in Lincoln. Don't tell anyone I told you, but some people somewhere have been carrying on some experiments on salting cream and milk. It has been found that cream can be kept sweet for three weeks simply by salting. The salt goes out with the buttermilk and more even has to be added for the proper amount in the butter. Milk too can be kept sweet by salting and the salt goes out in the skim milk when it is separated. This experiment has not been given out yet for the amount of salt necessary has not been fully determined and fear that farmers would try salting their cream or milk when they did not understand it, but those experimenters have hopes that this discovery is going to be a big thing for the dairy industry. We will surely hear more about it.

Our Worst Catastrophy.

It seems to many of us that the grasshoppers are worse in some sections than in others. West of N. L. they appear to abound in greater millions than, perhaps, in other places. The small grain was taken long before the farmers had a chance to race the hoppers for it. They ate the potatoes and gardens and have thinned the corn stand long ago, too. Some of the farmers there have come to the conclusion that it is as hopeless to try to fight this enemy as it is to stop the wind that blows. This grasshopper menace, it seems to many, is the worst catastrophe of anything that has happened yet—even worse than drought, floods, or hail storms. Drouths or hail storms are usually only of a short duration but the grasshoppers go on forever.

I repeat, like I said a few weeks ago, something else must be done than simple poisoning by the farmers. Poisoning gets some of the insects, but even where the poison is spread and dead hoppers are found, still the ground will abound with the live ones. More than this there are great areas where there is no poison ever spread, and in land as vast as this it seems like a hopeless task.

Bud Beebe has rigged up a grasshopper catcher on the front of an old car, dousing the critters in oil solution as they hop into it. Bud harvests millions and bushels of these fellows for, they say, a dollar an hour. Perhaps a few dollars invested in a few of these rigs would give some relief men work, and this machine really does catch the bugs. No question.

Short Shavings.

SI Kriewald says that to make some of the best pancakes one ever slapped his lips over, gather some elderberry blossoms and put them in the batter. I have heard of many things made of elderberries, including elderberry wine, but never before have heard of elderberry pancakes. I am wondering if they have somewhat the same effect as elderberry wine.

Gus Wetzel caught a five pound catfish last Sunday morning before the waters of the river rose so turbulently. Gus says he had been fishing for fourteen years just for that fish.

Howell Laverly, a nephew of Attorney Laverly son of Jess Laverly and Mable Horr Laverly, old timers here, and a resident of Denver has been recently elected to the city council of that city. And that is not so bad for a boy who has been poor as a Nebraska farmer all his life. Yes, that is worth mentioning.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

In wondering whether Valley County will ever get rid of grasshoppers, one may find encouragement in the uneventfulness of this year's outbreak. Some southeastern counties which were more heavily infested than ours in 1938 have scarcely a grasshopper at present.

Damp autumn weather in those counties brought on an infectious disease that killed the pests. In Pawnee County, where one of the worst outbreaks occurred last year, only seven sacks of poison bait were sold this spring. Their mixing station is now closed due to lack of grasshoppers.

Although our local climate is not so humid, it is sufficiently damp that we may expect hoppers to perish from disease here also, if normal rainfall ever returns. In fact, there are fewer grasshoppers in many lowlands now because of this fungus infection. Poison bait has helped a lot too.

Poison bran bait generally destroys more insects than it gets credit for. The poisoned hoppers live for a couple of days, and are hard to find after they die. The sick ones hide themselves, small ones dry up, and many are eaten by other grasshoppers, who in turn die too.

Grasshoppers do most of their feeding on bran bait during the first 24 hours. The bait lasts longer when made with molasses. Moistening from dew may prolong its usefulness. Rain and wind will spoil it. Scattered bran is harmless to birds or poultry, and 1 or 2 pounds are needed to kill a farm animal.

This year's grasshopper hatch was peculiar in that it started so early and lasted so long. The infestation is about as predicted by state entomologists last winter. Most grasshoppers produce only one brood a year, but the little migratory species sometimes hatches out a second generation in the fall. There are 150 different kinds of grasshoppers, but only 3 or 4 do serious damage. The worst ones in Nebraska are the two-stripe, the yellow and the lesser migratory.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Reviewed by CARTER FIELD

Political strategy of the New Dealers seems to be to start hitting the most likely opponent early... American merchant marine in danger of receiving another blow... Developments in the Democratic sparring match for the presidential nomination are thick and furious.

WASHINGTON—It has been rather widely quoted that President Roosevelt, in introducing Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan to King George at the famous British embassy garden party, commented: "This is the man who thinks he is going to succeed me next year, but he isn't." Also that the President did not mention Vandenberg's name.

It has not been widely quoted at all, even in Michigan, that the following day, when Senator Vandenberg was presented to the king in the Capitol, the king said: "I am very glad to get your name in order to connect it up with what occurred yesterday."

All of which is chiefly of interest in that Mr. Roosevelt's feeling about this Senator particular candidate Vandenberg for his seat dropped out so visibly that even a visiting ruler, whose mind was concentrated almost entirely on trying to do the right thing and make an impression which would not let England down, noticed it.

It is of a piece with the President's reference to Thomas E. Dewey as "that little two-spot" and to the campaign the New Dealers have been so consistently conducting since last winter against Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

The point here is not whether this is sound strategy or not. If the best political traditions are to be followed, it would seem to be start hitting the most likely opponent early.

The importance at the moment is that apparently this is the strategy of the New Deal, and that the No. 1 target has changed three times since last November. In that month the remark about Dewey being a "two-spot" was made. By February apparently the New Dealers were figuring that Taft was the man they had to beat. By June of this year Vandenberg had moved up to this dangerous position.

Later On It Probably Will Be Some One Else. Next September it may be somebody else. Undoubtedly three or four more Republicans will be on this hot spot before next June, when all doubts will be resolved by the Republican national convention.

Dewey is still the most popular Republican for the nomination if one believes the polls. But inside New Deal information is that he began slipping rapidly some time back so far as the men apt to control the delegates are concerned. Dewey does not hit the New Deal and Roosevelt himself so hard as most Republican leaders would like.

So Taft went into top position, as far as they are concerned, and it didn't take the New Deal scouts long to find this out. Then Taft was hurt by two things. One was his failure to make a hit at several important gatherings where he spoke, of which one was the annual dinner of the newspaper editors. The other was the reported dislike for his chief opponent for the Buckeye delegation, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, by the county chairman of that state.

This put Vandenberg out front, which is the reason he seemed the chief menace to continuance of the New Deal early in June. It may be of course that Mr. Roosevelt was also especially annoyed with the Michigan senator because it was Vandenberg who directed the successful fight to block further appropriations for the Florida ship canal.

American Merchant Marine To Receive Another Blow

Something is always cropping up to prevent the development of an American merchant marine. Now it is about to receive another blow. The house foreign affairs committee went out of its way to prevent it, but the blow is almost surely coming when the so-called Bloom bill (introduced by Representative Sol Bloom along the lines advocated by Secretary of State Cordell Hull) gets over to the senate.

The trouble lies in the "cash and carry" provisions of the measure. The bill provides that munitions and war materials may be sold abroad, even to belligerents, and may be shipped, but it also provides that title to the goods must be transferred from American ownership before goods leave American harbors.

The original cash and carry provisions, regarded as going a long way toward removing the danger of possible incidents, forbade their shipment in American vessels. The Bloom bill was changed in this respect so as to permit the use of American bottoms in shipping war supplies abroad. The prevailing argument in the house committee was that if ships flying the United States flag were barred from this trade, this would be another blow to American shipping, and a deterrent to building American ships.

Under the Bloom bill ships flying the American flag may transport anything they please except that they may not enter zones that, after the breaking out of war, may be declared dangerous by the President of the United States.

But on the senate side of the Capitol this idea of permitting ships flying the United States flag to carry munitions of war to the ports of a belligerent country seems a very dangerous doctrine to the group of senators anxious to isolate this country—or insulate to use the latest word—against every possible danger of war. Danger of an 'Incident' That Might Lead To War

Senators in this group insist that the danger of an "incident" is just as great—as apt to inflame the people of this country to a stage where war might result—if a ship flying the American flag and manned by United States seamen were torpedoed as though United States nationals also owned the cargo she was carrying.

They do not see any difference in the possible effects. They do not think that the shipment of munitions to belligerents should be permitted at all, and would like to prevent the shipment of all war supplies, but recognize that the opposition to them is too strong to permit their going this far.

But in the amendment of the present neutrality act they are sure they can work up enough popular sentiment on their side to prevent ships flying the United States flag from sailing with loads of foreign owned munitions—though produced in the United States and sold by United States nationals—to belligerent ports.

Bitterness Against Jones Something to Write About. Developments in the Roosevelt-Garner-Parley-McNutt presidential sparring are as thick and furious as though this were next spring instead of the Democratic National convention being a full year off. Within the last week bitterness of many of the New Dealers against Garner has reached the danger stage, all of it resulting from what the New Dealers assumed to be a Garner-inspired story which stated that the vice president would stick to the end, regardless of any other development, in his fight for the nomination.

As a matter of fact, Garner did not know about this story before it was printed. But it so happens that it was written by the Washington correspondent of a Texas newspaper owned by Jesse H. Jones! Hence bitterness against Jones is something to write home about. The New Dealers are calling him everything from an "ingrate" up and down.

Moreover, they are trying to cut in on Garner's Texas strength now by flirting with Sam Rayburn, Democratic leader of the house, on the notion that Rayburn may be nominated for vice president, with Roosevelt as head of the ticket, next year. This same hope is being held out to a number of other Democrats who they have reason to fear might not go along with the Roosevelt forces—otherwise—at the convention.

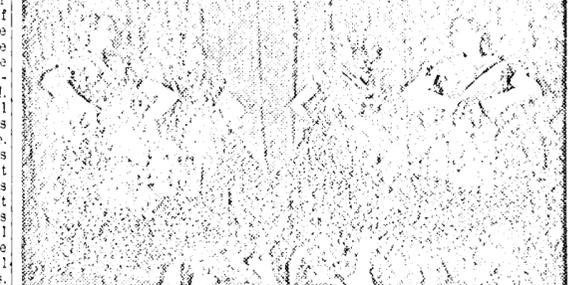

Not Disloyal for Any Democrat to Make the Race. "Why shouldn't any Democrat run for the nomination?" one of them demanded of the writer. "Roosevelt has not said one word to indicate that he intends to run. But even if he did tomorrow, does that mean that it is disloyal for any other Democrat to have aspirations? And disloyal to whom? They talk about Garner's pledging himself for the 'duration' at the Philadelphia convention. What do they mean 'duration'? As long as Roosevelt lives? Roosevelt doesn't own the Democratic party. If he wants the nomination nothing will prevent his going after it. But there is nothing disloyal, to the party or to anybody, in any Democrat who chooses making the race. Our man is in the fight, and he will win."

One development that caused much surprise was the statement of Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana that Paul V. McNutt would be a candidate only in the event that Roosevelt decides not to run for a third term. As few people in Washington really doubt that Roosevelt will try or that McNutt thinks anything else, this is taken as a bid by McNutt for the vice presidential nomination.

As a result, the Texans have been digging in further on the Indiana situation. They had been making cautious inquiries before, trying to get second-choice commitments. An insister in the Garner movement tells the writer that unless there are some unexpected upsets Roosevelt will probably get 19 of Indiana's delegates and Garner nine.

Walt Mason Once Worked On a Greeley Newspaper

Of interest to all admirers of Walt Mason, the famous humorist and poet who died recently at San Diego, Calif., is the fact that he once was employed in Greeley, Neb., where he worked three months on the Greeley Democrat in 1890. In the bitter feud between Scottia and Greeley over the county seat, Mason wrote editorials for the Democrat, urging the removal of the courthouse to Greeley.

He was always broke and poorly dressed. He once entered a Greeley saloon and talked the barkeeper, Luke Finn into giving him a couple of drinks. When Luke refused him a third drink Mason wrote a clever poem about the incident, and Finn traded him a drink for the poem. T. W. Lanigan, now in Washington now has that copy of the poem.

TWINE.

We handle two brands Silver Crown and McCormick Deering.

Silver Crown is double treated to resist insects and by actual test last year grain tied with this twine was bothered less by insects than with any other brand of twine.

Silver Crown runs smooth and very few knots in this twine. If you are using an old binder you will have a minimum of trouble if you will use Silver Crown.

Silver Crown runs 500 ft., to the pound and is cheaper than many brands that run 600 ft., to the pound.

Harvest Now On, Yields Are Fair But Quality Poor

Ord Elevators Report First Grain Coming In; Corn Injured by Hoppers.

The hot weather of the past week has brought on the harvest rapidly and binders and combines are busy all over the country. In many communities the grain is being cut rather green in order to save it from the grasshoppers. The wheat crop is not bothered much, as the hoppers do not seem to care for wheat, but the oats and barley fields are being damaged greatly.

The Ord Seed and Grain company had not received any grain Monday morning but expected some in the afternoon. Mr. Eschliman said he expected the prices on grain to be fully as good as last year, but the quality would not be as good, especially the oats and barley, because of the fact that so many grasshoppers went into the machines and the remains went into the grain.

At the Farmers elevator Fred Clark said that they had some of this year's barley in, that it had quite a lot of trash in it, but that it would probably keep. They had some wheat there, brought in by C. A. Anderson from Vinton township, and it was of good quality, with a yield of 15 to 20 bushels per acre, the exact yield not certain until the entire field was harvested.

Willson and Gross were also getting in some grain, but not a great deal was coming in, most farmers preferring to hold their grain until it became dry and for a higher price. C. A. Anderson is storing his barley at the garage until the price comes up, as he believes it will when the first rush of harvest is over.

Farmers are reporting serious damage to the corn from grasshoppers in some parts of the county. Charles Hunt has a fine field of corn on his place southwest of Ord, but he says that when he looked at it Sunday it seemed that there were a dozen or more large grasshoppers in the top of each plant cutting off the tassel as soon as it appeared.

The grasshoppers have been traveling about considerably the past week, and are reported as congregating together in some places, apparently with the intention of moving off to some new destination. This makes the situation the more hazardous for the farmers who have escaped to date, as their crops may suffer from the hoppers coming in from other places.

Harry (Sport) Howard Passed Away in Illinois

Through his sister, Mrs. Daisy Paddock, the Quiz learns of the death, June 11, of a one time famous baseball player of the North Loup Valley, Harry (Sport) Howard, who lived at North Loup and played ball in this section of the state more than thirty years ago. In his day he was one of the cleverest pitchers who ever threw a curve across a plate.

All of the old time ball players will remember him and will mark his passing with regret. Broken in health, and through as a ball player, he retired some years ago and was living in Rock Island, Ill., when a fall down stairs resulted in injuries that caused his death that same evening. Unknown by the present generation, he will always hold a place of honor in the minds of those who knew him a generation ago.

Clark Anderson Wins Salesmanship Award

The Socony-Vacuum oil company has been conducting a series of contests recently in which a representative of the company, traveling incognito, goes from one station to another driving in for service and testing the service and salesmanship of the operator. Prizes are given for the operator who passes this X-man test with the highest score.

The past week the name of Clark Anderson, perhaps better known as "Swede," was announced a winner in the contest, which comprises the entire state. He is in the employ of the Dugan Oil company, and before coming to Ord was located at Newman Grove. This is quite an honor that has come to Anderson, but the Dugan Oil company customers say that he deserves it.

Miss Crouch, a member of the Ord high school faculty, is spending the summer with her parents at Archer, Nebr.

Floyd Beranek Named U. of Nebr. Instructor

Appointment of Floyd Beranek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed F. Beranek, of Ord, as graduate assistant in the pharmacological research department was announced last week by the University of Nebraska. Mr. Beranek will instruct classes half of each day and devote the rest of his time to studying for his master's degree. The position pays $500 per year and tuition.

Floyd was graduated from the University of Nebraska college of pharmacy in the spring of 1933 but since he was not yet 21 years old he could not take the state examinations and become a licensed pharmacist until this spring. Recently he took the examinations and received the highest grade among 24 young men taking them.

He will go to Lincoln about September 1 to begin his work as assistant to Dr. Hoke of the pharmacology department. The appointment is for a two year period.

Burrows service station, more recently run by the Rowbals, and is already open for business. He will handle Conoco products exclusively, and of course do tire repair work and grease jobs. E. Barnhart, Conoco dealer from North Loup, and Ollie Spickol, district superintendent from Grand Island, were in Ord the first of the week helping Mr. McKay get lined up for the new line of products. Mrs. McKay will be better remembered as the former Mrs. Ed Jensen.

Corn Loans May Be Extended One Year By New ACP Plan

66,000 Bushels of the 1938 Crop Affected in This County by Ruling.

Valley county farmers will have the opportunity to extend the loans on corn they have under government seal, announces Charles Vebba, chairman of the ACP committee.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has announced plans for an extension of the loans for a 12-month period, from August 1, 1939, to August 1, 1940. The extension will apply to any farmer now having a loan on 1937 or 1938 corn.

When approved, the loan extension will affect 66,000 bushels of the 1938 crop sealed in the county last fall and winter under the 57-cent loan.

To encourage farmers to hold their corn during the 12-month period, the program provides for the payment to farmers of 5 cents per bushel if they deliver corn in payment of the loan at the end of that time. If the price of corn is higher than the loan rate, plus carrying and storage charges, and farmers redeem the loans, they will not receive the storage credit, but in effect will receive it in the higher corn price.

A special provision is being made for the farmer who may find it necessary to provide additional storage space on his farm by offering the 6-cent charge in the form of an advance at the time the loan is renewed. This advance must be used for providing corn storage facilities, and it will be in the form of an additional lien against the corn.

Corn of the 1937 crop must be stored as shelled corn. Farmers may store shelled corn in approved bins on their farms or make arrangements to store it in a local elevator in the community in which the corn is produced. Farmers will have until October 1, 1939, to extend their loans. No deliveries on corn which is not resealed will be accepted in payment of existing loans until September 1, 1939, or until such time as the size of the 1939 corn crop can be determined.

All corn eligible for a loan must grade No. 3 or better, and be stored in suitable storage cribs or bins. When stored as shelled corn, it must not contain more than 1 1/2 per cent moisture, and when stored as ear corn, not more than 15 1/2 per cent moisture. All corn will be re-inspected and resealed.

Arcadia Men Are Growing Beards Now

Arcadia—(Special)—Plans are progressing here for the annual jubilee to be held on September 5 and 6 and a number of the business men are beginning to grow different styles of beards and moustaches. Ladies are wearing large hair bows and sunbonnets to advertise the coming event. Kan-garoo court for both ladies and men will be held each Wednesday evening following the band concert.

Council Discusses Electric Question and Athletic Field

Also Table Request to Make Stores Close on Sunday; Levy Fixed at 13.65.

A number of items of general interest were taken up by the city council at their meeting Friday evening. The levy for the coming year was set at 13.65 mills, which is slightly smaller than that for the past year, which was 13.7. In view of the fact that expenses in several departments are gradually increasing, even a slight reduction is worthy of comment.

The matter of the athletic field was taken up and the contract passed by the school board at its meeting last week, wherein they agree to pay one third of the local cost of the field, not to exceed $1,000, was duly approved. Final action was deferred on the field, however, until the August meeting, as the time for acceptance does not expire until after that date.

The electric question was then taken up and a new plan was presented which had been submitted by the irrigation district. This plan was referred to the power committee of the council for further negotiations. The members of this committee are Councilmen McGinnis and Johnson, Geo. Allen and City Attorney Clarence M. Davis.

A plan for refinancing the bonds of the city of Ord was presented by a representative of the bonding company. Under the plan submitted the new bonds would draw 3 1/4%. This will represent a saving of approximately 3%, which on a total of $35,000 in bonds would amount to $2,550 of a saving in interest per year over the present rate.

The new bonds will be payable at any time in denominations of $1,000 each, and the debt can thus be reduced as fast as funds are available. The present bonds are not due until 1940, but the company will take them up, collect the full 6% and refund the difference. No definite action was taken at the meeting, but the council was favorable to this kind of method of refinancing the bonds.

A resolution presented to the council by the retail committee of the chamber of commerce in regard to business places closing on Sunday was read and tabled. It is probable that no action will be taken on this matter by the council because members feel it is a problem that can best be handled by retail merchants themselves. The council does not feel that it should dominate a situation of this kind.

Ord School Census Shows Small Decrease From 1938

According to figures furnished the Quiz by Supt. C. C. Thompson from the recent school census taken by Mrs. Bob Hall, there are 300 boys between the ages of 5 and 21 years of age in the Ord school district this year, and 303 girls. Last year there were 303 boys and 310 girls. This does not mean that this will be the number of pupils in school, however, as a certain per cent have graduated from high school and are not yet 21 years of age.

Those who have graduated, however, are entitled to take post graduate work in the school if they choose to do so, although the subjects available to them are of course limited. Because they are potential pupils until they pass the age of 21, all are included in the census. Perhaps the most interesting class in the entire school are those who will enter school in the kindergarten, for the first time this year. The preliminary list of these follows:

Mystifies Rotarians.

Kendall Wiegardt, Ord's amateur magician, performed in professional fashion Monday evening to mystify and entertain Ord Rotarians at their regular weekly meeting. His card tricks and rope tricks had service club members thoroughly puzzled and they voted the young man a grand entertainer.

Townsend Meet at Burwell.

The Townsend clubs of Ord and Burwell are having a meeting Sunday afternoon at Burwell, with a picnic dinner in the Hannah grove, one block north of the square, at 1 p. m. The Loup Valley band will be present and play a concert. The public address system will be used. There will be a good speaker. Read the complete details in the Burwell news.

Catches Big Catfish

The catfish displayed above by Dickie Andersen was caught last week by Harlan George, who now lives south of Lincoln but at one time was section foreman at Sumter. He was in Ord visiting at the Paul Duemey home and caught the fish near the Sumter bridge. It weighed 11 1/2 pounds.

Hot Winds Damage Corn Fields And All Garden Crops

107 Tuesday Was Hottest Day of the Summer; Some Hope For Relief.

The past week was dry throughout, with no rainfall for the entire period. Monday, a hot wind blew steadily from the southwest all day, sending the thermometer up to a new seasonal high of 101 degrees. The wind blew from the same direction all day Tuesday, and the highest temperature reported by Weather Reporter Horace Travis for the day was 107 degrees. Thermometers in general about the square registered higher, but this was doubtless due to the influence of the paving.

Early corn is badly hurt by the hot winds, which have dried up the tassels in many fields, thus precluding development of the ears even if the silks should come out later. The long distance forecast for Wednesday called for scattered showers, and there is some hope that the extreme heat may be broken on today.

Miss Evelyn Sharp Flies For Big Crowd at Curtis

Recently Miss Evelyn Sharp flew passengers at Curtis, and drew a fine writeup of the event on the front page of the Enterprise, of which the following is an excerpt: "Evelyn Sharp, Ord, the nation's youngest aviatrix, spent Monday and Tuesday of this week in Curtis entertaining crowds on one leg of her summer barnstorming tour. She appeared here in connection with the Curtis volunteer fire department's annual Fourth of July celebration.

"A fine pianist, Miss Sharp is also a crack tennis player, likes to hunt and fish, and designs her own clothes. She was a prize student in the home economics class in the Ord high school. She is an accredited air mail pilot and carried mail for the postal department during air mail week."

Horace Postoffice Burns Tuesday Eve

Horace—(Special)—Fire, apparently caused by spontaneous combustion in a vacant room, burned the postoffice here to the ground Tuesday night. The fire was first noticed by Mrs. Lee Jefferies who notified neighbors but by the time help gathered it was too late to save the building. Mail and most of the postoffice equipment was carried to safety. Money and stamps in the vault are thought to be safe.

The building was owned by Martin Hille, former Burlington agent in Horace, and it is believed he carried insurance. No plans for continuance of postal service had been made Wednesday morning by the postmistress, Miss Luree Welsh pending receipt of instructions from her superiors.

This is the second time in four years that the postoffice here has been completely destroyed by fire.

Red Cross Meeting. A general Red Cross meeting is called for Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. John P. Misko. All members of the Valley county chapter are invited to attend.

Irrigation Water Available for All Users by Thursd'y

Flood Damage at Burwell Dam Repaired and Canal Is Running Bank Full.

The flood of two weeks ago did a great deal of damage in the valley and to the irrigation ditches of the North Loup district, especially the dam at Burwell, but in spite of this, water will be available to all users on all the canals tomorrow, according to a statement made Tuesday by the manager, C. R. Wareham. The head on the Ord-North Loup canal was maintained all the time, and the only delay was while a break a short distance below the dam was filled in.

This break was made purposely to give an outlet for the flood waters, rather than take a chance of doing damage further down. The chief cause of delay on the Taylor Ord ditch was the fact that the high water carried away portions of the banks of the ditch above Burwell, and these had to be filled in again.

The Litwiller drag line was used at Burwell to repair the damage to the dam there. This was completed a few days ago, and the lake was filled up Tuesday. The water was to be turned into the Burwell-Sumter ditch last night, and should have the ditch full from end to end by tomorrow morning if a full head of water is maintained at the dam.

A minor cause for delay on the lower part of the Taylor-Ord ditch was a place near the Dubas place above Elyria where the bank of the ditch had settled in a small gully. Pipes were used there to carry the water across until such time as the drag line, a new one received by the district today, can be used to build up the weak place in the bank of the ditch. The pipes were in place and the water started through them yesterday afternoon, so that water is available to users between Elyria and Ord today.

The new drag line is one of about half a yard capacity, is light and easily moved from place to place on a trailer hitched behind a truck. It is similar to the one that has been used for more than a year on the highways of central Nebraska, especially on No. 11 near the mouth of Davis Creek. It will greatly speed up repair work whenever repairs are necessary, and will be used in the construction of spillways for the three dams.

Nearly all water users have had some water prior to the present time, and their crops have not suffered seriously from the dry weather. With water available all irrigation acreage should have plenty of water the rest of the growing season. Tuesday morning there were 35 farms taking water on the Ord-North Loup ditch, 23 on the Taylor-Ord ditch, with more to be added on the lower end last night, and in a day or two there will be a large number using water from the Burwell-Sumter ditch.

Charles Goodhand Is Low Bidder on Ord's Postoffice

His Bid of $47,950 Lowest of Eight Filed; Work to Start in 30 Days.

The past week the postoffice department announced that Charles E. Goodhand of Ord was the low bidder for the new Ord postoffice. There were eight bidders in all who got their bids in before the time for placing bids expired. In addition there were two others, the Anderson Construction company of Omaha and Sothman of Grand Island, who sent in bids which failed to arrive in time.

The bidders and the amounts of their bids are as follows: C. E. Goodhand, $47,950; Busboom and Raab, Salina, Kas., $50,300; Stephens-Brown, Kansas City, Mo., $50,612; Ernest Kokahr and Sons, Lincoln, $53,360; Weitz Company Inc., Des Moines, Ia., $57,600; MacDonald Construction company, St. Louis, Mo., $57,458; John Soderburg Construction company, Omaha, $57,477; J. H. Marchbank Construction company, Chicago, $57,875.

While there is always a possibility that the low bidder will not receive the contract, it is generally believed that Mr. Goodhand will have the job, and it is a source of gratification to know that the work will go to an Ord man. This morning Mr. Goodhand stated that the work would in all probability be started within thirty days, as soon as government approval was received.

Scotia Band Pleases Ord Crowds Wednesday Eve

The Scotia forty piece band under the direction of Kenneth Moore exchanged places with the Ord band Wednesday evening and played at Ord while the Ord band was playing at Scotia. The large crowd was highly pleased with their entertainment, especially when the girls' sextet, comprising Doris May West, Esther Daily, Mrs. Moore, Betty Landeberg, June Mitchell and Janice Nelson, sang "Tippy, Tippy, Tin."

The crowd got a lot of real comfort out of the park benches, which had been brought back from the fair grounds, where they had been stored, and replaced, this time along the edge of the sidewalk. Among Scotians who came to Ord with the band were John Davis, Elmer Larson, Bob Mitchell, Bobby Bryson and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Mihane.

Cars Crash Near Bussell Park, 5 People Are Hurt

Illinois Man Ran Past Stop Sign, Hit Car Driven by G. I. Liquor Salesman.

Shortly before noon Tuesday a car driven by Lloyd Tobias, of Peoria, Ill., passed up the stop sign where the Sargent highway intersects with No. 11 and crashed with a car driven by T. E. Ross, of Grand Island, a liquor salesman. Both cars were traveling at a high rate of speed at the time of the crash, and both were badly damaged.

With Tobias were his wife and daughter and a friend, Jack DeTrempe and all suffered minor cuts and bruises and were taken to the Ord hospital for first aid treatment, and a check-up. Mr. Ross was taken there also, but was practically unharmed. The Tobias car, a Hudson, was coming from the west and the driver ran through the stop sign and hit the Buick of Mr. Ross, who was going north, near the left front wheel, smashing fender, radiator and lamp and driving the wheel backward about a foot.

The Tobias car had the entire right side smashed in and scratched, but it was able to proceed to the Ord Auto Sales company under its own power. The Ross car was towed to the McCullough Motor company, and Ross phoned to Grand Island for another car in which he proceeded to Valentine shortly after dinner. Sheriff Geo. Round was called to the scene of the accident, and both parties agreed as to the responsibility for the damage.

The Tobias family had been on a trip to the west coast, and had traveled 6,000 miles at the time of the accident without so much as having a puncture. They had been to Sargent to visit a sister, Mrs. Sheldon, proprietor of the Sheldon Hotel there. All concerned are well pleased that no one was seriously hurt, as it is a wonder that no one was killed.

The report from the Ord hospital in regard to the injured persons is as follows: T. E. Ross, scalp wound and shaken up; Mr. Tobias, injured side; Mrs. Tobias, fractured wrist, head bruises and cuts; Miss Tobias, shock; Jack DeTrempe, injury to knee. Miss Tobias was unconscious for a time, but seemed none the worse upon recovery.

Tenth Birthday For New Small Size Bills

Last Monday, July 10, was the tenth birthday anniversary for Uncle Sam's new bills, the kind that take up less space in the billfold, and in that time they have saved the treasury department a large sum of money in the saving in paper and ink. When they first appeared the public was averse to taking them, many preferring the old staidy bills.

The new bills had the advantage of being smaller and taking up less space and at the same time the figures on them were larger making it easier to count them in the banks. In time the old bills were entirely withdrawn from circulation, and are as much of a curiosity today as the small bills were then.

Arcadia Lad Hurt Shooting Fireworks

Duncan Resigns As Music Instructor, Goes to Lexington

Action Follows Squabble at Board Meeting Last Week; In Ord Seven Years.

Resignation of Dean S. Duncan as music instructor in the Ord schools was announced last week by the Ord school board, and Monday it was revealed that Mr. Duncan has accepted a contract to direct music activities in the schools of Lexington, Nebr., at a salary slightly higher than the $1,900 stipend he would have received here next year.

Mr. Duncan's resignation was handed in following a session of the school board at which Glen and A. J. Auble, music store owners appeared and protested against sale of musical instruments to the students by Director Duncan, which they claimed was not legitimate competition.

The board of education sifted charges made by the Auble brothers and it is stated by Secretary Ralph W. Norman that the record showed that in seven years Duncan had sold only nine instruments to students, all at the direct request of parents, that he secured instruments for their children.

A motion was made at this meeting by Secretary Norman expressing confidence in Director Duncan and directing that he continue sale of instruments, when asked to do so by parents, on the same basis as in the past. The board passed this motion with one dissenting vote. Since no record vote is taken at school board meetings the way in which members voted was not revealed.

A few minutes later Mr. Duncan handed in his resignation and asked that it be accepted. The Lexington schools have been trying to get him as director for some time and last Tuesday he signed a contract with the school district, the Quiz learns. The Lexington school system is somewhat larger than Ord's, though music facilities are poorer. It is understood that Mr. Duncan's salary there will be $2,000.

Mr. Duncan has just completed a period of seven years as head of the music department of the Ord schools and his friends regret that he feels it necessary for his best interests to accept a position elsewhere.

When he came to Ord in the fall of 1931 he found only a small group of students in both the band and orchestra, not more than a dozen in all, and these were without uniforms. He began the work of building up the music department and in 1939 there were 66 members in the band and 45 or more in the orchestra.

In 1931 Mr. Duncan found a good girls' glee club in the Ord schools but very little had been done about organizing the boys. Today there are about 30 boys in the boys' glee club and a total of 110 to 115 girls in the two girls' organizations, the senior group and the girls reserve. Uniforms for the Ord school band and orchestra were procured in 1935 through the efforts of the American Legion, and new uniforms have been purchased since as needed.

In addition to the work mentioned above, Director Duncan has at different times during his stay here organized various instrumental groups, among them the brass sextet, the clarinet quartet, the woodwind groups, the mixed quartet, the trumpet trio, the saxophone quartet, and has trained soloists on practically all instruments from the flute to the tuba.

Under Mr. Duncan the Ord music department reached top ranking in Nebraska scholastic music circles; in fact, the times that various groups and individuals have won district, state and national recognition are so many that it would be difficult to enumerate them.

Nor were Mr. Duncan's activities confined to the school alone, for on occasions without number he furnished groups and soloists to entertain in the Legion, the Ord service clubs and the chamber of commerce, for church entertainments and for any other social activity where such service was requested. He has directed the municipal band, made up almost entirely of musicians trained in the Ord schools, for the past several years. He will continue to act as band leader for the summer concerts until the middle of August, so these entertainments will continue without interruption.

News of Mr. Duncan's resignation was a great shock to patrons of the Ord schools, who had hoped that he might continue the great work he was doing with Ord children for many years to come. His resignation came so suddenly and was such a surprise to the board of education that members had nobody in mind who might be employed as successor to Mr. Duncan. It will be difficult to secure a director who will continue to build musical appreciation in the community as Mr. Duncan has done but the best person available will be employed, school board members say.

BROKEN PROMISES.

Near the south end of 14th street, where highway No. 11 enters Ord, a large placard announces to the public: "Re-elect Governor Cochran—Performances, Not Promises." The placard was placed there before the 1938 election, and has been left there ever since, despite the fact that it is illegal to tack placards on poles in the City of Ord. In other words, the highest law enforcement official in Nebraska was a party to breaking the city ordinance while running as a candidate for re-election.

This is not so important if it were not for the fact that certain definite promises were made by his department before election, even if he did claim to be a performer, and not a promiser. It is a well known fact that the people of this territory had definite promises that the road between Ord and Ericson would be fixed as soon as possible. It is also certain that the public is still traveling over the old road, when the building of about four miles of road would complete a good highway.

The career of any politician before election may well be likened to the traveling circus. The advance notices make large promises, mostly veiled in generalities, so that it is difficult to pick out any one point in which the performance failed to meet expectations. Then when the circus comes, the artists do their best to satisfy the public, even though they know that it is impossible to produce all the thrilling items mentioned in the bills.

The people of Valley county cannot complain that the Ord-Ericson highway has been neglected entirely. Since election surveys have been busy checking over the route, with the view to changing it and making it into a permanent highway. In fact, the money wasted in this survey might have gone a long way toward making that four mile piece of road fit to travel over. The public is not so much interested in having the route changed as they are in having the present route improved.

Granting that this survey was necessary, it should have led to some definite end, but today it is still barren of results. The public travels over the same old road. Local people tolerate conditions, and strangers form their opinion of people who will permit such a condition to exist. Meanwhile we are promised still more improvement over No. 11, over which we can travel with comfort in its present condition. It is time we insist that the pre-election promise in regard to the Ord-Ericson road be fulfilled.

But perhaps we should not be too critical of Governor Cochran. Candidates for office always have been granted plenty of leeway in the matter of pre-election promises. He has been a good governor, as governors go, and we might have gone elsewhere and fared worse. After all, what we want and have been waiting for a long time is a good road to Ericson, and it may be that our hope will be realized soon.

Another question over which many promises have been made, and broken, is that of Fort Hartsuff for a public park. For twenty years and more the civic organizations of both Ord and Ericson have been boosting for this proposition, and more recently the communities further up and down the Valley have joined hands with them in trying to have something definite done while the buildings are still capable of being restored.

No blame should be placed upon the shoulders of Senator John F. Doyle for the failure of the Fort Hartsuff resolution at Lincoln this spring. He put in a lot of time and did what he could to get the resolution put through. He did manage to have it brought up before the appropriations committee, but it died in the committee, as did a lot of other measures supported by powerful lobbies. Support for the resolution was too weak.

all parts of Nebraska and the nation to visit it. In so doing they will pass through the finest valley in the state and the best of its natural irrigation projects, and they will return home with words of commendation for the greatest state in the union.

Broken promises make a weak structure on which to build for the future, but perhaps from this foundation will rise a safeguard to prosperity and progress, just as the Fort Hartsuff of old was a safeguard to the settlers that came to build the foundation of our social, political, moral and spiritual structure of today. Some man will rise to immortality some day by being the instrument through which the dream of the old settler becomes a reality, the restoration of Fort Hartsuff.

My Own Column
By H. D. Leggett

Well, I am back on the reservation after about six weeks in Minnesota where I did lots more loafing than working. Eugene and I arrived home Sunday at 4 p. m., making, I think, a new record for the trip. We left the cottage on Cullen lake at exactly 4 a. m., and the distance shown by the speedometer was 583 miles. We stopped for breakfast at St. Cloud at 6 a. m., stopped twice for gas during the day, lost a few moments on the later stop while we had some sandwiches made up, which we ate later as we drove along, stopped in Sioux City for fifteen or twenty minutes to get Billie Mann, who came home with us, located at a hotel where he was to meet his parents later, and we lost another fifteen minutes while we changed a tire when a big nail was picked up. Otherwise we drove steadily at 45 to 62 miles per hour. L. B. Penner claimed the record at 13 1/2 hours when he came up there ten days ago. . . . We left the two Leggett families enjoying themselves and Eugene will go back later to get his family. I will be home a few weeks to help with the work here while Harry McBeth is in California on his vacation and while Eugene does some necessary driving in the state. . . . The Soren Jensen family are in my other cottage and seemed to be having a fine time when we left. John Jensen, Kearney attorney and brother of Soren and Dr. Smith, a friend, also of Kearney, were there last week and left early Saturday morning for home. Mrs. Jensen, sr., the mother, is with the Soren Jensens, also a young lady who is assisting in caring for Sammie. . . . Next week Mr. Downing of the state banking department and a friend of the Penners, will have the cottage and be there for two weeks. . . . Mr. Mackowsky and wife and little granddaughter are having a good time and were planning to leave in a few days for their home at Des Moines. He improved his cottage while there by adding a new 10-foot porch on the lake side and replacing some shutters with nice windows and he plans on returning for another stay in September. . . . The Ed Michaleks have made a lot of improvements around their place this year. He bought the former Lakin & Lincoln cottages. They have set out ferns, made flower beds, took out shutters and put in nice windows in their cottage, bought a new 16-foot Larson boat, one of the finest on the market. Anyone around Ord who has the idea that Ed won't work should see him hopping to it building dock, leveling off the grounds of his lot, etc. He told me when I left that he was going to stay another month anyhow. The Jimmie Grants of Columbus visited the Michaleks over the 4th. . . . The Dr. Gelows of Grand Island are in their cottage or were when we left, though they planned on leaving Monday of this week for Lake of the Woods to have a try at the big muskies for a week, then were going back to their Cullen cottage where they planned to be for a month. They also plan to go back in September, have their cottage moved and add a nice 12-ft. porch, which will make it much more comfortable. . . . Mr. Penner is another of those men who can't loaf. He just has to work all the time. He has been installing a new enameled sink and has got in awful bad with the plumbers until by doing his own work. He has cleaned up the large lake front in front of his stone wall in front of his cottage and has the space filled with flower plants and is filling with flowers it is going to be beautiful. . . . The weather up there has been cool to cooler much of the time with enough warm days to keep us reminded that warmer weather was possible and the lake water has been ideal for swimming and out in front of our cottage there is a constant din of small voices as Shirley Anderson, the one little girl in camp, and the eight small boys in camp swim and dive and splash. Some of them almost never take off their swimming suits and put on clothes and none of them for very long at a time. The big sport the past two or three weeks has been taking a rock about the size of one's fist, throwing it into the water and then diving and swimming under water and retrieving it and some of them are very expert. Billie Mann of Lincoln who accompanied Eugene's folks up, is an expert in the water, as is the young lady with the Jensens and between them they have taught the younger kids a lot of water tricks. The first harvest we saw on the trip home was a line a hundred miles or so and it increased as we came until in northeast Nebraska most of the small grain is in shock and

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

We'll All Be There Short Shavings

We'll All Be There. A most momentous decision is to be made at the township hall at eight o'clock July 20, and all loyal sons and daughters should be present, if not to vote, to hear the fireworks.

The issue at stake is whether the N. L. township shall vote a mill levy designed to produce $1,200.00 or more to help build a new community hall out of the old one they now own and two other edifices that are to be razed also, one the old hotel and the other the community building.

As the set-up now is, the WPA will furnish the work and part of the material, and some people argue that the government has this money to give away and N. L. better get in and get their share before someone else does. Up to date N. L. has received very few of these gifts that have been passed out and some people feel slighted and think they should start grabbing even if they have to add another mill or more bonds to the now burdensome taxes to get it.

There are a few, perhaps a quite a few too, who feel that N. L. is getting along O. K. and do not want the added taxes levied. One of these is very oratorical and really lays it off to the rest of us right in meeting. Some feel that this proposed building will be a city benefit and the township should not have to pay. One man is so worked up that he threatened to boycott N. L. and go to Ord to trade. (Note: This will offset some of the boycotting proposed against Ord lately.)

All sorts of scandalous things have been said concerning this happy little ruckus now embroiling this quiet little country town of N. L. Some do not like the building plans presented. Everyone thinks of some added adjunct. The library wants a room and the Odd-fellows are getting a room for the one they now have leased of the township in the old hall. A museum is planned and the Popcorn Committee want space, and the Women's clubs (of which there are many here) want a hall, and of course there must be a dance floor and the last request, although this may not be yet under serious consideration, is that there be a swimming pool in the basement.

One man is all worked to a lather over getting irrigation ditches in town to water the gardens, and is ringing that into the community hall discussion, although some have fallen as yet to quite get the connection between irrigating gardens and the community hall. After the meeting the other night, as I lay in bed, pondering over the different arguments presented, the happy thought occurred to me that perhaps this man planned to supply the swimming pool by running the irrigation ditch through the basement. And now this is my own suggestion for improvement. Should the speaker on the stage in the new community building be especially boresome, and seemed inclined not to cease his clatter, a trap door might be arranged and sprung at the psychological moment, quickly dropping him in the pool underneath.

There are other scandalous statements made also. It is said that some things have been done already, that are not according to statute and one man threatened (to me) it sounded like threatening to me) that if the whole business was not dropped pronto, the case would go at once to district court and then to the supreme court and then to Hitler's star chamber too I guess, and when the decision was handed down we'd all be sorry. He failed to mention who was going to put up the costs to get this into district court, and I looked around the room, and I was not sure, if all taxes were paid, whether there was enough money represented in the meeting to get the case into that court.

Then the motion was made to adjourn sine die, and then they all proceeded to debate that motion and the chairman was promptly called to point of order for that motion is not debatable. That motion lost by one vote and the fireworks continued. Later they voted to adjourn until July 18 because there were such a few people there. Only one member of the township board was present and that body was the one that started this building business, so it was said.

The mere adjournment did not stop the debate. One man said that within four miles of N. L. there is a school where the teacher has not been paid yet. Another man said that in the N. L. city alone there are over $10,000 unpaid (taxes one half of them), and these men, mostly landowners, were a little grumpy that people who paid no taxes were voting more taxes that one person said he was in favor of it because it seemed to him, so I interpreted, that N. L. was dying a slow and lingering death and he was not the one to kick it in the face. He was in favor of an infection in the arm, so to speak, threshing machines are being tumbled up for the threshing campaign. Corn looks good all the way and while it looks to us as if it could well stand some good showers in Valley county, most of the way it is plenty wet. The best corn is in southern Minnesota and northwestern Iowa so far as we saw it, but Nebraska corn is looking right good. The weather here is not as hot as I expected to find it.

such as this hall, and at least try to save our patient. Scotia, Ord and Kansas City were cited, and how many gifts they had received for parks and halls, libraries and postoffices, and what fine towns they were in spite of the indebtedness.

Well, it was a rare and glorious time we had there that evening, and even if it rains bullfrogs and mud turtles every mother's son and daughter should be present on Thursday night, July 20 to vote on this levy, one way or the other. Those who are talking court action should remember that defeating the proposition here would be a lot less expensive. And those who are in favor should remember that frequently these small elections are so close that one vote will change the whole thing. It is our business and we'll have to live the fiddler, either in court costs or taxes, so we should all be there to say we did our part anyway, either in its defeat or its victory.

Short Shavings.

Glen Egiehoff lost four of his five milk cows the other day, they dying from eating sudan grass pasture. This sudan grass was planted in a canyon in the pasture and the cows had not discovered it before. One cow has not discovered it yet and she is alive. Orin Karre also lost a cow from sudan grass poisoning and he was suspicious there was a little cane in it, although he could not see where it was.

A new scheme of gardening is now in vogue and that is to set the chicken coop in the middle of the garden, the chickens to eat off the grasshoppers. This works quite well in many cases.

I was over town the other day and a young fellow abiding there has fifty little roosters that he is rearing as an agriculture school project. As I walked by his place I noticed him with a blacksnake, driving those roosters about the countryside.

That was a new one to me so I watched him a few minutes and soon discovered that he was herding those project roosters into his mother's garden so that they would feed on the grasshoppers there, but the sad part of it was these roosters had their crops bulging already from the steaks and were wanting to rest a while, the grasshoppers in the process of digestion were never missed from the trillions that were left.

In asking Irwin Thelin the price of a telegram he said, "forty eight cents for the telegram and two cents war tax."

Notes From the VALLEY COUNTY FARM BUREAU

By C. C. Dale

4-II Bees Look Fine.

There are a number of very good baby bees among the 43 head beehives fed by Valley county 4-II club members and competition should be keen at the county fair this fall.

Four-II members here have contributed to the greatly increased number of baby bees on feed in Nebraska this year. There are a total of 2,500 members of beef clubs which is an all-time high record enrollment. Last year the state enrollment was 1,610. However, despite the fine start with good feeding conditions, the most difficult part of the feeding period lies ahead. County Agricultural Agent Dale says. During the summer months when heat and flies annoy the calves, the rate of gain declines. Calves which are only standing still or making low gains lose the bloom and finish which more rapidly gaining calves have. Sometimes calves which have made phenomenal gains during the winter are the most difficult to keep gaining rapidly during summer months.

As a result, 4-II club members are advised to make efforts to keep their calves comfortable. Well ventilated, darkened shelter should be provided. Windows may be removed and doors fastened open to permit the circulation of air. If burlap is hung across these openings, it will darken the quarters sufficiently to reduce annoyance by flies. Strips of burlap hung from the ceiling at a height which the calves can brush against them will also keep away the flies.

As soon as temperatures drop in the evenings, the calves should be turned out to an exercise lot or taken for a walk. Scrupulous cleanliness as to feed and water is also essential for maximum gain. Often a gradual change of ration will help stimulate the appetite. The addition of some high protein feed such as linseed meal, soybean meal or cottonseed meal or a mixture of these usually stimulates the appetite and supplies protein also.

Dr. M. L. Rich Retires.

Ord friends of Dr. M. L. Rich, head of the Rich Sanitarium of Grand Island, will be interested in learning that he has retired from active duty after 35 years, due to ill health. His son, Dr. E. L. Rich, who has been associated with his father since his graduation from Creighton medical college in 1932, will continue to run the sanitarium.

Roosevelt's three-billion-dollar lending program is destined for hard sledding. . . . Many see in it all the earmarks of a pork-barrel bill. . . . Good will gestures toward the La Follettes seen as part of third term maneuvers. . . . Amendment of income tax law gaining in favor.

WASHINGTON—The three-billion-dollar "lending" program is destined for hard sledding. It has all the earmarks of a pork-barrel bill—in reverse. The political, though highly uneconomic, merit of a pork-barrel bill was that by gathering all the little groups that favored the different tasty local bits in it, a majority would be formed which could triumph over the more economy-minded legislators.

President Roosevelt and Marriner S. Eccles, the reserve board chief who has consistently favored more and bigger spending to get this country out of the woods, have picked up so many little groups of opposition in their lending bill that if it passes at all, even in expurgated form, it will be almost a miracle.

For instance, take the foreign loans question. If it faced a vote on its own merits alone in either house or senate it would probably be beaten. But there is something more. Senator Hiram W. Johnson is very proud of his name being attached to the law which forbids loans to any nations which have defaulted on their obligations to the United States. Now Senator Johnson is not given to filibusters. He was sympathetic with lots of them, but he does not make long time-consuming speeches.

But political-minded folks would rather have almost any other member of either house against them than Hiram Johnson, if he happens to feel strongly. He has a way of stalling a hated bill with a quick sentence, delivered in his staccato manner, that almost always finds its way into the lead of every newspaper man's story of the debate.

Objects to Lending Money Abroad to Make Work Here

His "Praise be to God" after the administration's capitulation on the Supreme court enlargement bill was featured in all the newspaper accounts next day. This is merely cited as an example. It happens all the time. He has one of the most caustic tongues on Capitol Hill, but his caustic sayings are rarely personal.

Johnson, of course, is outraged at the idea of lending a lot of the taxpayers' money to nations which have defaulted loans—even if they were not war loans. He does not approve the idea of lending money abroad to make work here.

Then there is the little matter of the high-speed toll roads. It comes within a few weeks after the bureau of roads submitted an exhaustive study of this whole situation to congress, a study which showed that the superhighways could be expected to pay interest on more than a fraction of its cost.

Adding to the weakness is that there is not even one feature which appeals to the economy bloc, where the whole thing stands up to those who fought the idea of increasing the federal national debt limit. Making Gestures of Good Will Toward the La Follettes

It is easy to underestimate the political importance, especially looking toward the now almost certainty that Franklin D. Roosevelt will seek a third term, of the recent administration gestures of good will toward the La Follettes. It just may turn out that Wisconsin's 12 electoral votes will mean the difference between four more years of Roosevelt and a Republican President.

Of course nothing will make much difference if the hope of the Republicans that the tide has turned against the New Deal is based on reality. But that is far from a certainty. Indeed recent polls would seem to indicate that the ups and downs of Roosevelt's popularity resemble a corkscrew more than the straight line the Republicans like to project.

Actually, in 1938, the Democrats carried the country—as far as electoral votes are concerned. That is they carried enough states, had there been a presidential election, to have elected their ticket.

At a recent Washington dinner party a very prominent Virginian declared, over the coffee, that if Roosevelt ran for a third term the Old Dominion would go Republican. That particular gentleman is certainly far better qualified than the writer to judge Virginia sentiment, but the writer does not believe he is correct. It may be recalled that Virginia, North Carolina, Florida, Texas and every one of the border states went for Herbert Hoover in 1928, but it is mighty difficult to prove from that fact that they may do so again in the near future. No Religious Issue Nor Prohibition Problem Now

There will be no religious issue to drive the southern and border states away from the Democratic party if Roosevelt runs again. Prohibition, which did figure some in 1928, will not be an issue. But also important, though not generally appreciated, is that the men who led the revolt against Smith in the South, almost without exception, committed political suicide.

So it is really a fair assumption, and based on the best possible political logic, to count all the southern states for Roosevelt even if the third term issue is involved. There are 135 electoral votes in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia, Maryland, Missouri, and Oklahoma will give 34 more, making the total 169.

In the so-called Republican swing of 1938 New York went Democratic by more than 500,000 for both senators, both representatives at large, in fact for every state-wide office except governor. California also went overwhelmingly Democratic. These two states with Wisconsin, roll up 81 more electoral votes which Roosevelt would not have to be unduly optimistic to count as sure for him—if the La Follettes are with him. That makes 250, and he would have to pick up only 16 scattering electoral votes to win the 266 necessary for election!

La Follette Amendment to Income Tax Law Gains Favor

The La Follette amendment to the income tax law, reducing exemptions, bringing in a much broader base, and of course increasing the tax every individual would pay because his exemption would be less, is going to become law eventually.

For the second time the senate has approved the idea, and then backed away from it for purely temporary emergency reasons. This time the first vote was 39 to 37 for the amendment. But when it was realized that the amendment had been adopted, and that this would delay passage of the tax bill until there could be a perhaps lengthy conference with the house, Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland changed his vote. This resulted in a tie, which defeats any amendment.

But the point is that the government must have the money. There is no possibility that government spending will decrease anything expenditures within striking distance in the next two years. It is now a demonstrated fact that there is a majority sentiment in the senate for the La Follette idea.

Senator Robert M. La Follette has been battling for five years for this tax law change. He is one of the very few men in public life who believes in government spending—but believes that the taxpayers ought to know they are paying for it. Most other public figures have been trying for that same five years to work out ways and means of raising all the money possible without the taxpayers knowing they are being burnt. Or, to put it more accurately, without the small-income group of taxpayers knowing they are helping pay the freight.

Many People Not Aware They Are Paying Taxes

As an evidence of how successful they have been there is the amazing result of a recent poll which shows that one-fourth of all the people asked—in the usual Gallup cross section—did not know they were paying any taxes, and that 40 per cent, two out of five, of the smaller-income group did not know they were paying any!

But a gradually increasing number of senators has come to the conclusion that the voters should know about taxes. Some even go further, to insist that knowledge that he is paying an income tax to the federal government makes a man a better citizen, gives him a sense of responsibility, and will make him take more interest in voting.

President Roosevelt until this summer has always opposed the La Follette idea. But the President has now come around to the Wisconsin senator's view, which leaves, as a matter of fact, very little difference between their economic theories, though the La Follettes have never let the Democratic party organization get away with much in Wisconsin. As for instance when they fought the re-election of Senator F. Ryan Duffy.

Roosevelt once told a friend—this was about four years ago—that 'the La Follettes are our kind of people.' Just recently Attorney General Frank Murphy extolled the whole La Follette family, holding that they were one of America's best political traditions.

"Lightning Rods Are Still Popular." Says Andy Cook

A generation ago the lightning rod man had work enough to keep him busy much of the time, but lately the work has slowed down, and it is safe to say that many high school graduates never saw rods put on a building nor a demonstration of a static machine. One of the chief reasons for this, according to A. J. (Andy) Cook who puts them up when occasion demands, is that when a building is well rodded it needs no further attention during the life of the building. The lightning rod man does his work so well that in time he just about runs out of a job. In the above pictures Mr. Cook is shown, left, just as he finished erecting one of the points on top of a new building on the Arnold Bredthauer place in Jura Valley. In the other he is showing how a hole is made ten feet into the ground and the end of the cable shoved into it. Mr. Bredthauer is a firm believer in rods, and every one of the many buildings on his farm are well rodded. Mr. Cook has been in the lightning rod game since 1917, and in that time has rodded a great many houses and other buildings, not one of which has been struck by lightning. Before that time W. A. Anderson was in the same business for a number of years. Perhaps another reason why rods are not used as much of late years is because terrific thunder storms are not as common as they used to be.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD.

Hank Stara relates the tale of a cow which he was driving up from the Pecenka slaughter house. At the John Mason place she ran past the stone elephant in the yard, and after she had got past it, looked around and decided that it must be something to fight with. So she went back and hit it three blows with her head, crack, crack, crack. Then she decided she was getting nowhere fast and started up the street at a gallop. The elephant's trunk was cracked in the fracas. Last week Mrs. John Klein was in Lincoln so John and daughters Mae and Virginia were batching. They got along fine with the meals, but Mae didn't like it so well when she had to deliver telegrams all over town without the car. She said that "Earis could keep mamma there if they wanted to, but she sure wished they would bring the car back."

Ord Juniors Lose Game In Hectic Second Inning

The Ord Legion Junior team had one bad inning at Greeley Wednesday afternoon, and a good 7th inning, but the bad inning was too bad, or the good inning was not good enough. They lost the game by a final score of 15 to 10. In the second inning 12 Greeley players went to bat. There were six walks one hit by pitcher, three errors, three passed balls and two hits, which combined to produce 9 runs. Both Zikmund and Misko worked in the inning, but both were equally inefficient. In the third inning Wayne Johnson, who isn't supposed to be a pitcher, went into the box, with Gerald Stoddard behind the plate. For the rest of the game he held the Greeleyites to six runs and six hits. Ord's big moment came in the seventh, when four hits and two hit by the pitcher produced five runs. The loss nearly put Ord out of the running, as Greeley has to cop but one more game to win the championship and the privilege of playing in the finals. The box score:

BACK FORTY By J. A. Kovanda

Buffalo grass is becoming quite popular for lawns. Several Ord grounds have been sodded with this native wild turf. One of the latest and best examples is the Hardenbrook yard. Buffalo grass makes a tough, dense sod which resists drought, competes with weeds, stands some shorter mowing, and requires less care than blue grass. Sodding must be done on a plowed seedbed and preferably in the fall. Some watering and weeding may be needed at first. A sod spot will stretch about one foot per year, but don't stick a spadeful of sod into a bunch of blue grass and expect it to spread. Sod pieces are for sale on the market at 2 or 3 cents a square. Buffalo grass can also be obtained locally, as our pastures are full of it. In digging sod, one should be certain that it is buffalo and not grama, wire grass or some other annual. Buffalo grass has a number of disadvantages. Unlike blue grass which stays green from March to first of Thanksgiving, buffalo does not green up until early May and turns brown at the first frost. It does not grow well in the shade of trees or buildings. Sodding is rather expensive and one year is required to get a stand. The seed cannot be purchased. It is sometimes harvested by hand, but germinates slowly and poorly. A plot of buffalo grass is somewhat different in appearance from ordinary lawns. Before planting the yard to this new grass, the head of the house had better show it to his wife and find out if she likes it. Paul Blessing, Harold Barnes, Marvin Wilson, John Beran, Norval Loft and Richard Severson were called to Ogallala Thursday evening by the information that they were wanted there for WPA employment. They went over and worked eight hours, after which all but Loft and Severson came home, as the work was completed.

Ord Junior Legion Wins

Game at St. Ed. Sunday

The Ord Junior Legion team went to St. Edward Sunday and scored a fairly easy win over the juniors there, the final score being 10 to 7. As usual, one had inning decided the contest, this time for Ord in the second. With two hit by pitcher, four errors and three hits, Ord managed to score 7 in that inning to put the game on ice.

Ord had an entirely new man in the box, Ernie Piskorski going almost the entire route and allowing only 5 hits and 5 runs in 8 innings. He started the ninth inning, but walked the first two men. Misko then went in and allowed two hits which brought in two scores, but retired the next three men in order.

MEDICAL FACTS

Sponsored by 4-COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

Last week this column was given over to a brief discussion of the direct and bad effects of heat on the human body, and a few things were listed that one may do to help avoid heat stroke and heat exhaustion.

The effects of climate, season and weather on the human race, its energy, its degree of civilization and its health are very interesting and have been made the subject of exhaustive study. Even before those scientific observations were made, men were attributing all kinds of good and bad influences on man to the weather. This has sometimes been instrumental in giving a disease its name. An example of this is influenza. The word literally refers to "a flowing in" of some influence. It was so named by the Italians because they believed it was due to some bad influence by the stars and the earthly elements.

Dr. Vaughan, in discussing this subject, quotes from a number of old writings. One of these quotations is from Short's History of the Air, published in 1749, stating that the influenza epidemic of 1510 "was preceded by a large moist air." Again, regarding the epidemic of 1580 he says: "The weather for some years past having been extraordinarily moist, wet and rainy, wind south, at the rising of the Dog Star, came a cold dry north wind. From the middle of August to the end of September raged a malignant epidemic catarrh."

Careful studies have shown that the temperate zones of the world, in which lie Europe, North America, New Zealand, the southern half of Africa and the southern half of South America, are the areas of the world in which mankind displays the greatest energy and also in which the greatest degree of civilization is to be found. It is assumed that the increased energy and higher civilization have some connection with the climatic conditions.

Comparison of the various areas in the United States itself show a marked similarity between climate, human energy, civilization and condition of health. If the United States is carefully mapped in regard to each of these factors, the four maps are substantially the same and show that certain climatic conditions are accompanied by a greater show of energy in man, a higher state of civilization and a greater freedom from disease.

There would undoubtedly be a great deal of argument about the one factor, civilization, and it would be the one factor most open to individual opinion rather than scientific proof.

As an example of the statements made in the preceding paragraph, Huntington shows by mapping, that the soldiers in various camps in the United States during the World War had a death rate from disease that varied directly with the climatic conditions of the region in which the camp was located. In the Northwest, about the Great Lakes and in the New England states, the death rate was lowest. Through the central states and the Great Plains area there was a slightly higher death rate. In the far South it was the greatest.

NYA Summary for Year Ending on June 30th

ORD CITY BAKERY

Ord Not the Only City To Have Its Troubles

Mayor M. B. Cummins received a clipping through the mail a few days ago, sent without a signature, or comment other than "Every City Has Its Troubles," written across the top. It was so good that he thought it ought to be passed on, so here it is:

"West Wildwood, N. J., June 14

Most of this borough's 178 inhabitants sidestepped tubs and pails of water in their homes today and wondered when the council members would patch up their differences and form a quorum, so the quorum could elect a mayor, so the treasurer could name a treasurer, so the treasurer could figure out how to pay the town's $21,000 water bill, so the nearby city of Wildwood wouldn't shut off the water any more.

There hasn't been a council meeting for 10 weeks for lack of a quorum. The two democratic members refused to attend. Last night, at a special meeting to deal with the water situation, the two democrats showed up, but two republican members were absent. About 100 citizens gathered outside the chamber stomped off to their homes and began filling the water pails. The water had been shut off three hours Saturday night, but the mayor of Wildwood had agreed to turn it back on pending last night's efforts to adjudge the bill.

West Wildwood did have a mayor; elected a republican last November. It also elected six councilmen, two of them democrats. The defeated democrats obtained a recount and succeeded in replacing the mayor and one republican councilman with democrats. The republicans came right back and got the new mayor and one of the democratic councilmen turned out because they were not legal residents.

This left the present lineup of three republican and two democratic councilmen, with four needed for a quorum. The town did have a treasurer, too, and a tax collector. But the man who filled both jobs was jailed on a charge of having embezzled $28,000 in borough funds."

Sandhill Cattle Feeders Hold Annual Convention

The annual meeting of Sandhill Cattle Feeders Association was held at Chadron State Park, June 24. About 100 members came with their families and lunch baskets.

President Sam R. McKelvie reported that the association has 333 rancher members at this time compared with 270 for the entire past year. These members own over 250,000 cattle.

The purpose of the organization is to "advertise, popularize and aid in the sale of Sandhill feeder cattle." This is done by issuing a bulletin listing the members and their cattle to over 10,000 feeders in the corn belt. Advertising is also run in market publications in that territory.

The board of directors voted to open branch offices during the selling season—July 15 to November 1—in 15 or more principal north-west Nebraska points. Highway signs will be used calling attention to these offices and advertising the Sandhill feeder cattle.

Officers and directors elected for the ensuing year were: President, Sam R. McKelvie; vice-president, Earl Monahan, Hyannis; secretary-treasurer, Ralph Baker, Valentine. Directors: Irwin Adamson, Cody; D. J. Cole, Merriman; G. H. (Chick) Coffee, Harrison; Raymond Gentry, Hyannis; Henry P. Hansen, North Platte; Harold Harms, Wood Lake; J. E. Lowe, Mullen; Robert Lee, Picnic for Duncans.

 The Legion and Auxiliary held a special picnic Thursday evening at Bussell park in honor of members, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Duncan, who will leave late in August for their new duties at Lexington. About 75 people were in attendance, each family bringing a well filled basket. There was enough fried chicken for all and some to spare, and plenty of ice cold sherbet and tea. In addition there was enough ice cream for all the little folks and some for the larger ones. At the close of the meal, A. A. Wiegardt, in behalf of the two organizations, presented Mr. and Mrs. Duncan with a cut glass buffet set. Mr. Duncan replied that the fact that they must leave the various organizations of Ord, and especially the Legion and Auxiliary, was the one thing that made their departure most difficult. He referred to the fact that the Legion had taken the lead in seeing that the members of the band were provided with uniforms, which were essential to the success the band members have attained.

Second Break in Ten Days Paralyzes Lower Taylor-Ord Canal

The second serious break in the Taylor-Ord canal within a ten day period occurred about midnight Sunday near the Stanley Jurzenski farm north of Elyria and, excepting the Burwell dam disaster, it is causing more worry to employees of the North Loup district than any other this season.

Shown above is the scene of the wash-out. By means of a siphon drop using two pipes of 24-inch diameter, water, descends into the silted basin shown in this picture and from the basin on down the canal. Tons of dirt washed out beneath the cement basin, leaving it extending like a roof over vacant space as shown by the photo.

The break was discovered by Frank Kuklish, night ditch rider, and immediately water in the canal was diverted into the Goodenow spillway a few miles above. Even so, a wall of water raced down the Jurzenski canyon and across the road leading to the Jurzenski home, cutting deep gulleys in the road and nearby fields.

Fortunately, the small dragline bought by the North Loup district had arrived and been unloaded a couple of days before and was rushed to the scene of the break. Monday was utilized in getting it into position and Monday evening Watermaster L. E. Walford said he hoped to have the break temporarily repaired and water flowing again within 48 hours.

The wash-out was the result of another about 100 rods below that occurred several days previously. There a 3-foot culvert reinforced with sandbags was put in, and a smaller ditch to accommodate overflow was cut around the culvert. But the culvert and ditch couldn't handle the volume of water and the serious washout near the Jurzenski home resulted.—Quiz Photo.

Picture Study on How to Keep Cool in Ord

There has been some complaint about the heat in Ord the past few days, so the Quiz offers the above suggestions on how to keep cool. Above left to right at (1) Lynn Nelson and Sue Hather demonstrating how to dispose of frozen sweetness. (2) Peggy and Gerald Donnelly (and Peggy's doll) all keeping cool, thank you. (3) Bobby Hughes demonstrates the tub method, (fat men should use a tank.) Below, left to right, (1) Vernon Wells and Donald Hansen have discovered a new use for the old rainbarrel. (2) Alfred Albers demonstrates how to keep cool from the foundation up. (3) Dr. Eldon Benda turns the hose on Mrs. Benda and his mother, Mrs. Roy Severson. Try all these methods, and if you are not cool by that time you are a hopeless case.

While in town Friday John Bremer reported that when he returned home from Ord Wednesday he found that the extreme heat had killed fifteen or twenty of their hens. He thought at first it might be some disease or poison, but when he called the neighbors he found they, too, had all lost some hens. He thinks perhaps the hens were too fat for such extremely hot weather. Miss Anna Marks returned on Thursday from a trip of seven weeks, most of which she spent visiting the New York World's fair. She returned by way of Washington, D. C., and Columbus, O., where she visited her niece, Mrs. John Reimers the former Ellamae Marks and came home by way of St. Louis. If T. Frazier drove to York Saturday, taking home Mrs. Shirley Norton and daughter, who had been visiting a few days in Ord. He brought back with him that evening the other daughter, Patricia, who had been at Milford at the girls' camp there, which closed on Saturday. Mrs. Ralph B. Frazier and daughter Patty Lee of Philadelphia came from York Wednesday to visit the Fraziers here. Mrs. Shirley Norton and daughter came with them. Mr. Frazier arrived Sunday, and the family plan to visit here all this week. Loren DeWitt, who had been in Ord for the past ten days visiting his cousin, Mrs. Ina Belfany, left Saturday morning for his home at Huntington Park, Calif. He formerly lived a few miles south of Arcadia, but acquired as heavy a coat of sunburn while he was here as he ever had while he lived here. Mrs. Gladys Parker and Morris, who had been visiting relatives in Burwell for some time, left by bus for Osceola Saturday morning to visit another sister there before returning to their home in San Francisco. This section has at least three representatives at the CMTC camp at Ft. Crook this month. They are Raymond Hurlbert, Richard Piskorski and Joey Gregory. They went there last Tuesday, and will remain a full month for training under regular war conditions. Richard wrote V. W. Russell and said they were having plenty of work, enough to eat and too much hot weather. The boys are dropping out on the hikes because of the heat. James Cassidy of Oklahoma arrived in Ord Saturday evening on his way to Lemmon, S. D. He came this way thinking he could get through by way of Atkinson on the bus, making the second person who had been misled in this respect in the past week. Mrs. C. A. Anderson and children and Miss Rose Dubas left Sunday for a vacation at Cullen lake, Minnesota. Walter Anderson took them as far as Pipestone, Minn., where they were met by Ray Luther, driving H. D. Leggett's car. In a few weeks Mr. Anderson will go up and bring them home. Lavern Jacobsen of St. Paul has severed his connection with the St. Paul Cash Grocery, beginning Aug. 1, to devote his entire time to the Top Hat cafe. His place in the grocery will be taken by Floyd McLain, who is at present night attendant at the Jacobs Oil company. Vencil Ulrich went to St. Paul Saturday morning on the bus to look after the sand pumping outfit that is working there. He has the contract for pumping the gravel for the St. Paul-Palmer road for the state. The war department has announced that federal recognition has been given second Lieutenant John H. LaCornu, Kearney, Nebr., and that he now is a commissioned officer of the National Guard of the United States. Mr. LaCornu is the husband of the former Ruth Bradt of Ord.

Lexington Clipper Well Pleased With Duncan On the front page of the Lexington Clipper last week appeared the following very fine article in regard to Dean Duncan, who recently signed to teach music there for the coming year: "Dean S. Duncan, music supervisor in the Ord city schools for the past seven years, has been elected to supervise music in the Lexington city schools. He plans to come here the fore part of August and will attempt to get the band ready for the Dawson county fair. "Mr. Duncan, who will supervise music here on a twelve months basis, received his schooling at Tarkio college, Tarkio, Mo.; University of Nebraska school of music, Hastings college and the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colo. He has also taken considerable private instruction. "The new music supervisor, 39, is married and has a son, 10, and a daughter 7. He is a member of the Presbyterian church and the American Legion. "Mr. Duncan has developed a large number of outstanding group and individuals in the music field. The Ord band was the only band which ranked superior, along with the Lexington band at the district contest at Kearney this spring. "With the signing of Mr. Duncan, the teaching force of the Lexington city schools for the coming year is now complete."

Scouts Camped Thursday. Nine Boy Scouts, under the direction of Scoutmaster Rex Jewett, went out to the camp grounds on Dane creek Thursday evening, made camp, cooked their supper, and took examinations in various tests. The Scouts are buying camping equipment, using troop funds, which will thus be troop property. The equipment ordered the past week consists of four tents, six cooking kits and six canteens, cups and covers in single units. More equipment will be secured later. —E. H. of a fact that we must meet, that we are now living in a semi-arid land.

The boys who went to the Mexican border in 1916 can tell you that in that country where it seldom rains, most of the vegetation is equipped with thorns. Thorns are leaves that failed to develop as they should for two reasons: Plant food is insufficient to develop all the leaves, and since the plant cannot develop properly it has no need of heavy foliage, hence the thorns.

Another indication of the arid era in which we are living is the fact that the entire country is over-run with all kinds of obnoxious insects. Most of them have been present in lesser numbers for years, but because drouth conditions are ideal for their development, they are flourishing as never before. It is probable that leaving much of the land stand idle in the past few years has helped their development, but they were coming anyway.

So long as we have so many predatory insects at large in our fields we cannot hope to have much success in raising crops, and so long as the dry weather continues we will have plenty of insects, especially with plenty of idle acres in which they can propagate. Between nature's crop control at home and the government crop control in Washington we won't raise much, and it will be necessary to ship in more grain from other countries.

Ten cent corn with abundance would do the farmer a lot more good than dollar corn when he hasn't any to sell, and insects don't get much of a chance to increase on farms that are well and completely cultivated. Careful and complete cultivation conserves the moisture, and has a tendency to increase the rainfall. Such a course might bring back normal conditions in a few years, and again, it might not. Who knows?

My Own Column
By H. D. Leggett
How are we, the people, going to really know much about the facts regarding the necessity for a change in our national neutrality laws, when 11 members of the powerful foreign relations committee want to change the laws and 12 are just as emphatic that they be not changed? The 11 insist that unless the neutrality laws are revised in accordance with the wishes of the president, war danger is greatly increased while the 12 who voted to leave the matter rest till next year, are just as sure that to monkey with the neutrality laws now would hasten the coming of war. All are supposed to be high minded, loyal American citizens; they are supposed to be the smartest and best posted men in the nation. I feel about that like I used to feel about the 5 to 4 supreme court decisions; about half of the officials must be wrong and that just couldn't happen if the question was so very one sided. So I conclude that we don't need to get very much excited about the neutrality matter.

Nearly everyone I meet wants to know why I came home from Cullen into this heat when the weather up there was so nice and it greatly embarrasses me to have to patently explain that Helen, the office manager, quit sending me expense money and I just had to come home for a time and make some little show of work in order to again get into the good graces of the cashier. I hope to go back in a week or two and take along enough money to be able to buy salt for the fish that I eat daily.

Dr. Barta and Ed Vogelanz and their families will occupy my spare cottage for a week beginning August 10 and I am having notices posted in the lakes advising the fish to be mighty careful, as these men are real fishermen. I am also advising the bridge players to start practicing as they are better bridge players than they are fishermen.

The Missus writes that Ed Michalek has been down frequently to check up on my Delco plant and make sure that it is functioning properly. When I left I installed Miss Minnie Wald as chief Delco plant engineer and I want it distinctly understood that Ed is only an assistant or at best, 2nd engineer. I had probably better add, also, that he is working without pay, solely for the glory. Anyhow I appreciate his kindness.

I am supposed to be doing the cooking for Eugene and myself while our families are away and we are alone and so far I have got along fine. I have made breakfast every morning. Making the breakfast is not such a hard job. Toast, coffee and bacon and eggs and a can of grapefruit or peaches or apricots or some such fruit fills the bill. Some mornings we have oatmeal or flakes in place of the bacon and eggs. Then I have a system that has worked pretty well. I go across the road to the Floras and play with Tom a while and then casually remark that I must go down town and get some pork chops for dinner or some cold meat for supper. It must be done casually to get the best results, and I must have done it right, for so far she has said, "Oh, I planned to have you folks eat with us today." Then of course I feign reluctance, but not too much, and as gracefully as possible, accept the invitation. If she has mentioned just dinner I forget and pretend to have understood her to say both dinner and supper and we are right on hand for both. But she is leaving Sunday, for Cullen to join, with her

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!

Written by GEORGE GOWEN Short Shavings

Short Shavings

Mable Lee, who was spending a few days at the home of Clyde Atchey's says that their hired man, Richard Vasicek, was in the field and found one of those overgrown grasshoppers, one of those big fellows that can't fly but can surely eat, and Richard was so astonished and startled by the size of the insect that he wanted to rush at once to the house and show the family, but dared not leave the team to do it.

He was in a little quandary as to what to do with this grasshopper until night as he had no cage either into which to put him and Richard wanted to keep him alive too. So he took a piece of binder twine, tied it to the grasshopper putting on two half hitches (two h. h. will hold all hell you know) and then securely tethered his capture to the wagon wheel until eventide came around. Richard also said that the grasshopper objected quite a little to this treatment and when found to be anchored, kicked just like a mule. Be that as it may, Mr. Grasshopper was still on hand when night came.

North Loup needs another night or two in the week. In trying to have a meeting lately, one man found great difficulty. Four nights are already taken, that is, Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Wednesday. Crowded into the remaining nights must come school board meetings, parties, town and township meetings, Pop Corn Days meetings, community meetings, et cetera without end. One rather popular man, one who is on most of these boards, is gone so much evenings, that his family hardly knows what he looks like.

Even those without deep religious convictions can garner some entertainment, besides no doubt considerable good, by attendance at church meetings.

Those who sat in my section a few weeks ago were slightly amused at the maneuvers of two ladies wearing big wide hats and who suddenly thought of some profound secret they must tell each other, a secret that couldn't possibly wait, and it had to be told with the lips of one lady close to the ear of the other. All I can say was that the message was given, and the answer returned in expert manner, too.

Besides killing grasshoppers, the grasshopper poison makes the most excellent fly poison. My wife takes a small pan of it and adds a sprinkling of molasses, then water for moistening and sets the dish where the flies assemble. It is the best fly killer we ever found. Each day on the step where the flies gather, we sweep up a scoop full of the pests.

Melvin Cornell, after watching me take a drink of water following a drink of root beer, said nine out of ten people do that very thing. They pay a nickel or a dime for a fancy cold drink, then drink a glass of water to take the taste out of their mouth.

Meeting a farmer the other day dressed in good summer white trousers and light shirt, Floyd Heddon wondered and asked the why of it; that is a farmer dressed so spiffy.

The farmer explained that poverty was the why of it. He had worn out all his overalls and had no money to buy more with, so to keep his nakedness covered and abide with the law, he was forced to wear his good clothes.

That seemed a good explanation although different than another man who Floyd met a few days before who said his good clothes had all worn out and consequently he could not go to church. Of course he couldn't go to church in overalls. And then a third man entered the conversation and said he had really become poor. He said when a man gets so hard up he cannot buy new razor blades and has to yank out his whiskers with a dull one, that is poor, no question, and that is what happened to him.

In discussing the loss of a cow from eating sorghum, the wife said to her husband, in trying to appease the grief, "Everyone will lose once in a while, even at the best managed places. But we should always be careful for the less we lose, the more we profit."

"No," her husband replied. "You said that wrong. You should say instead, we should be careful for the less we lose the less we lose."

The Dead Man (so called) of the St. Paul rendering works, said that he has been getting a lot of cattle lately that have died from eating sorghums and red roots. Only a few mouthfuls will kill them. He has been getting a lot of hogs and also a quite a few horses, that have died from the heat. He says as yet he has got no horses that he was sure died from sleeping sickness. He said he had got a few horses that had been vaccinated for sleeping sickness, that is, the theory he had propounded, was that the horses were ailing when they were vaccinated and died pronto.

In the event that Prof. Kovanda wants an item or two to write about, I would like to suggest he explain how to kill out and eliminate Jasmine Vine that is rooted under the edge of the house. Another subject that worries many of us is the gray and black bug or beetle that has stripped out potato vines and other parts of the garden. How should we battle them? Thanks in advance.

This following incident of law-breaking occurred in our quiet village, in the dark of the full moon, when everyone should have been sleeping the sleep of the just, but when everyone wasn't. I am allowed to give the incident but with the definite promise that I will reveal no names, either of the parties who committed the act, or of the person who lay awake that moonlight night and saw it committed.

Here it is. There is one of our better houses in the village that has been vacant for several months and during this vacancy, prowlers have repeatedly entered the house, running folks as well as children, grown the house over, up stairs and down and in the basement. Locked doors seemed to be of little value for they entered by prying screens and with skeleton keys.

The landlord, living in another town, tiring of this goings-on, arranged and had installed some Yale and special locks, to keep the house from actually walking off in his absence.

And it happened one hot night, late after house lights about were doused, a car drove to the curb and stopped. Three people crawled out and went to the door, planning to go in. The skeleton key would not work and these three people worked at different entrances, impatiently but in vain. Finally they had a conference, glanced around again, then grabbed the rose trelis on the porch, ripped it off, took it to the car and drove away.

I have no reason not to believe this person who lay awake in a near by house and saw it all, and no reason to believe that she does not know the parties as she says she does.

There are other law violations continually committed in our town of which nothing has ever been done. We all know of them but do nothing to stop them. None of us want to get in these messes, so we sit back mum, not wishing to make everlasting enemies of our neighbors, neighbors who may be well to do.

It is very right that drunks and bogus check givers be chastized, but why stop at that? Our country has always been noted that the law is impartial, that it is for the protection of the weak against the strong, that the rich are persecuted as well as the poor. But are they? At least it seems not so often that it is common talk that if one has money he is relatively safe.

family, the balance of the Leggett tribe and I will be thrown on my own resources with Ill added as a steady boarder. The boys say I am to continue as cook. The first one of them that kicks will be given the job and I will join the kickers.

The corn crop has been ruined at least three times already and it will probably be ruined two or three times more before it matures a fairly good crop this fall. And I don't wonder any either for we have lost so many crops that produced up in July and August. I know that early corn at least has been hurt to some extent and the critical time will come later for the later corn and all the danger will not be over until August is about gone. If there was plenty of sub-soil moisture it would be different but there is little or no subsoil moisture and the corn must depend upon rains, which do not always come along just when they should do the most good. But we must keep on being optimists even if we are scared optimists. There is a difference between a pessimist and a scared optimist.

We will appreciate the opportunity to send in your daily paper renewal. It don't cost you any more and we get a small commission. Why not let us have the business? And, also, if your Quiz is quite a bit in arrears, which you can tell by your label on the paper, send your address name on the paper, send or bring us a dollar to push it ahead a bit.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Reviewed by CARTER FIELD

Recent polls show Garner is away the most popular of the Democratic contenders for the presidential nomination. Polls are very annoying to New Dealers; they want an investigation. Recent opposition to some of the President's policies indicates that congress has got back to normal.

WASHINGTON.—Friends of Vice President John Nance Garner are naturally delighted with the recent polls showing that Garner is far and away the most popular of the Democratic contenders for the presidential nomination next year, not counting President Roosevelt himself. His tremendous lead over New York's native son, James A. Farley, who runs second in the polls, with everybody else way down the list, is most impressive.

There is one angle of this, however, which keeps the whole effect from being perfect, from the Garner men's viewpoint. That is the possibility that the effect of such polls will cause Farley to become a hundred per cent booster for a Roosevelt third term. That, to the Garner men, would be just about the most terrible thing that could happen. They are counting heavily on Big Jim in the next ten months—not to add Garner directly, but to oppose Roosevelt and thus aid the Texas candidate indirectly.

For some time now the Garner folks have admitted privately that their one big hurdle is Roosevelt himself, not the fear that he will support some candidate other than Garner—that would not worry them at all—but the fear that he might go after the nomination for himself. They are sure they can beat anyone else at the Democratic convention. They think they can beat Roosevelt himself, but when they begin to talk about that there is a certain change in their manner which indicates that there is at least an element of doubt.

Hence another phase of the recent polls, which would seem to indicate that, at the present moment Roosevelt could not carry New York state against a strong Republican is highly satisfactory to the Garner workers. Their chief fear about the delegates at the Democratic national convention is that they may believe that Roosevelt is the only Democrat who could possibly be elected.

View Is Unwillingly Encouraged by Republicans

Curiously enough this view is being given more encouragement than unwittingly, by the Republicans than by the Roosevelt fanatics themselves. The point is that every time a Republican leader sounds off about the third term he creates the impression that the Republicans would rather have the Democrats nominate anyone else than Roosevelt. Hence the logical deduction that the Republicans believe they would have more difficulty beating Roosevelt than any other Democrat.

To a man interested chiefly in party success—as many of the delegates will be, because in the nature of things they are men either holding office or benefiting in some other way from Democratic rule at Washington—it might become very important that the Republicans believe Roosevelt would be the hardest man to beat. It would give Roosevelt a strong ace in the hole in the convention maneuvering.

The truth is that there is no such positive conviction among the Republicans, though there is enough fear that it is true to justify the suspicion. The Republicans have been concentrating on the anti-third term tradition because they have been believing rather firmly up to now that Roosevelt would be the Democratic nominee.

Embarrass Advocates of Third Term for Roosevelt
New Dealers are terribly annoyed over the recent polls, widely published throughout the country. The move to have a congressional investigation of such polls—as to how they are taken, and particularly why they are taken—was born some weeks before the recent poll of New York state, which has been more embarrassing to the advocates of a third term for Roosevelt than any one other thing that has happened, anywhere, any time, or on any subject.

A very sound argument can be made against the polls, due to a queer characteristic of human nature. For some reason there are lots of people who like to be hand-wagon riders. They want to be with the winner. This resulted in quite an outcry from the Democratic leaders back in 1916. It will be recalled that most of the eastern states, which reported fairly early on election night, went decisively for Charles E. Hughes. Democratic leaders contended that something should be done about this on the theory that on the Pacific coast people who had not yet voted would hear about how the East was going, and would be influenced.

To those of us who cling to our views and vote for candidates even if we know they are going to lose, it is hard to understand, but there is no doubt that there is enough truth in it to make it important.

There is another point. So far, the polls that are now so embarassing to New Dealers have been astonishingly correct. But there is no proving that sooner or later they will not come a terrific cropper. That has been the history of all other polls on elections which have attracted national attention. Up to 1916, for example, the polls taken by the old New York Herald were amazing in their accuracy. In that year, every Sunday for months before election, the Herald editors apologized to their readers because they had taken too large a percentage of their totals in California.

As California was virtually two to one for Hughes as against Woodrow Wilson, the editors explained, this improperly weighted their totals—making them appear too strong on the Hughes side.

Most people have forgotten, but that is the explanation of why the eastern newspaper editors and political writers were so gullible about the early returns on that election night, when, as a matter of fact, newspapers of all shades of political opinion, including the New York Times, which was ardently for Wilson, conceded Hughes' election.

That was the end of the Herald polls. Big newspapers began after that election sending their own correspondents over the country to investigate political situations. But then came the Literary Digest poll.

Its accuracy was uncanny for years. In 1936, when every good political reporter began to suspect that there was something sour about it, the poll none the less had the effect of putting doubt in the minds even of the most optimistic New Dealers.

In a subsequent magazine article Charles Michelson, shrewd director of New Deal publicity, admitted that he had spent a lot of money unnecessarily to combat the last minute pay envelope tax attack of the G. O. P. forces. He expresses only scorn for the Literary Digest poll, but one wonders whether this expense would have been approved if there had not been a lingering fear that maybe the Digest poll was indicating a ground swell which somehow escaped investigators.

The new polls are much more scientific, of course. Actions Tend to Put Doubt in the Minds of Voters

Congress has almost gotten back to normal—after more than six years of following the leader. This was nothing to do with how much President Roosevelt succeeds in getting his way despite the critical attacks, first of the house, on the TVA question, and second, of the senate, on the silver and devaluation questions.

Every member of the house voted against the President on TVA, and every senator voting against him on silver and devaluation knew that these votes would hurt Mr. Roosevelt between now and next June when the Democratic National convention will pick the party's nominee for President.

The actions tend to put doubt in the minds of the voters as to whether the President is right on TVA, whether he is sound on the monetary questions. They will form the subject of crossroad store debates all next winter, from Maine to California, with the only possible result that the President will lose a certain percentage of his supporters. When the senate and house fight on such controversial issues it is almost beyond question that folks will be found, here and there, who will take the opposition side, no matter what the real merits of the case may be.

Since the President figures to a dominating degree in the monetary disputes, and since his attitude on TVA is well known, the effect can only be harmful to him. Some of those supporting him up to these issues are almost bound to leave him.

This is almost an inexorable political law. It has nothing to do with Mr. Roosevelt's virtues or failings. It proves nothing with respect to them. It is just a thing which always works.

Despite His Huge Majority Former Leaders Opposed Him

This law works with especial rigour against a President who does a lot of things. Probably Calvin Coolidge suffered less from it than any President, since the Civil war, but the chief accusation that critics bring against his record is that he was a "do nothing." Mr. Roosevelt has done a lot of things. Nearly every one of them went against the grain with some of his supporters, be they few or many.

In 1936, despite his thumping majority, a number of distinguished former leaders of his party opposed him publicly. The thing is cumulative.

Will H. Hays once said that the function of the Republican national committee was to "assimilate, not eliminate." The process under discussion here amounts to a series of eliminations.

The whole point of this is that every politician of enough importance to have gotten elected to the house or the senate appreciates the political axiom. So the boys in the senate knew what they were doing when they made a spectacular stand against President Roosevelt.

—Elmer Hallock, assisted by Art Craig, Donnie Craig and Fred Nickles, began pumping water from Haskell Creek to irrigate about 40 acres of land on the eighty acres of the Smith place which he is farming this year. He is using a Farmall F20 tractor for power, and pumping with a 6-inch centrifugal pump. It is a little too soon to note the effect on the crop as this is written, but he believes it will make a great difference. The worst trouble is that grasshoppers are numerous in the field and they are cutting off many of the silks as fast as they appear, which will of course cut down the yield.

Clyde Ilgenfritz, One of the "Big Chiefs" of the Burwell Rodeo, Is Interested in Indian Lore and is a Collector of Arrow Heads

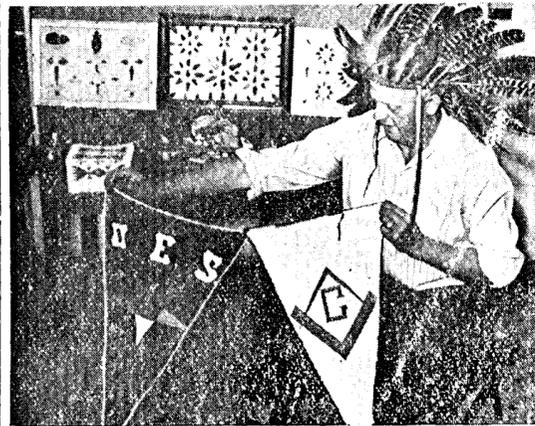

Wearing a feather head-dress that came from New Mexico and holding two bead pennants made by himself and wife in 1912, the year after they were married and homesteaded near the Indian reservation at White River, S. D., Clyde Ilgenfritz, of Burwell, is shown in the photo at the right. At top is part of Mr. Ilgenfritz' collection of Indian arrowheads.

The bead pennants held by Ilgenfritz are beautiful when seen, as they are in striking colors. It took thirty days of constant work to make each one, he recalls, and each contains exactly 161,000 beads. The pennants are examples of woven beadwork, the thread passing through each bead twice. Moccasins and a bead pocketbook on the table behind Ilgenfritz, not discernible in the picture, are examples of sewed beadwork, the beads being sewed on cloth backing. The pocketbook is so beautiful and represents so much work that Mrs. Ilgenfritz was offered $50 for it a few years ago, but declined to sell it.

The collection of Indian arrowheads—in fact, of everything pertaining to the American Indians—is the hobby of Ilgenfritz, his wife and his daughter, now Mrs. Ben Meckel of Harvard. When Mrs. Meckel and her husband lived in Colorado, where Rev. Meckel served as chaplain in a CCC camp, they collected and sent a number of arrowheads to Mr. Ilgenfritz and they now comprise part of his collection. T. E. Cain, superintendent of Burwell schools several years, is also an enthusiastic collector of arrowheads.

Most of the 400 arrowheads in Mr. Ilgenfritz' collection were found within 50 miles of Burwell. Blow-outs in the sandhills are the best place to find arrowheads, he says. In one blowout near Bartlett, he and his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Cain picked up over 30 arrowheads in a very short time. Another blowout up the Calamus river yielding many beautiful arrowheads also. Plowed fields often yield finds of excellence, he says, as do the hard hills south of Ord.

Indian arrowheads are made from many different types of stone, the most beautiful being the moss agate and obsidian arrowheads. Flint and sandstone also were much used.

For hunting, the Indians notched their arrowheads, which were then tied to the arrow in such a manner that the arrow with head attached could be pulled from the game animal. For warfare unnotched arrowheads were used, the arrowhead remaining in the body of the person hit even though the shaft was pulled loose.

War arrows are generally smaller than those used for hunting, Mr. Ilgenfritz says. Then there were arrowheads known as "stunners," which are large and with blunt heads, evidently used when the Indian wanted to stun his game without killing it. Some spearheads and stone fish-hooks also are included in his collection.

Collecting Indian arrowheads is a fascinating hobby and one in which many people engage, Mr. Ilgenfritz says. Since the Indians roamed almost the entire continent arrowheads are found virtually everywhere. By exchange, collectors in different parts of the country complete their collections. Generally, an expert can tell by looking at an arrowhead what tribe of Indians used it.

Mr. Ilgenfritz has mounted his arrowheads in panels and had them framed and they make a beautiful display, as shown by the photo at top. The arrowheads and other items in his Indian collection are now on display at the L. B. Fenner land office in Burwell and will remain there until after the annual Burwell rodeo in August.

Chris M. Sorensen World War Vet., Buried at Burwell

Former Ord Man Died July 16 in Hospital at Hines, Ill., After a Long Illness.

Last week the Great Musician sounded "taps" for a truly great soldier, and in the passing of Chris Sorensen of Burwell all the boys who knew him best feel a distinct sense of loss.

Christian Marius Sorensen was born June 4, 1884, in Aalborg, Denmark, and passed away July 16, 1939, in the veterans' hospital at Hines, Ill., at the age of 55 years, 1 month and 12 days.

While on the border in 1916 he was a member of the Nebraska Rifle team which went to Florida for a national match, and in 1919 and 1920 he represented the Nebraska military rifle team and received two bronze medals for marksmanship.

August 22, 1917, he was united in marriage to Miss Frances Liberski at Grand Island, Mr. and Mrs. Sorensen went to Camp Dodge Ia., following their marriage where he was an instructor in the army and remained in the service until March, 1919.

In 1921 they moved to a farm six miles northwest of Burwell, and since that time the family has been engaged in farming in Garfield county. In 1932 he was advanced to the rank of captain, and in 1933 took charge of the CCC camp at Custer, S. D., for a period of four months.

Mr. Sorensen was a man of kindly disposition and made friends wherever he went. He was more interested in the welfare of his family and friends than in himself, and little realized the sacrifice he was making until his health failed and he was compelled to enter the veterans' hospital March 7, 1939, for medical treatment.

Besides his wife he is survived by his five sons, Marshall, Reuben, Robert, Carroll and Sylvester, all at home, and also a host of friends. His son, Alvin, preceded him in death March 24, 1939. Funeral services were held from the Burwell Christian church Thursday, July 20, with Rev. W. L. Goodell in charge.

Accompanied by an almost terrifying electrical display, heavy rains visited most Nebraska territory from the center to the eastern part of the state Monday evening. The heaviest rain reported was at Stromsburg, where four inches fell.

The Ord territory appeared to be completely surrounded by the storm as it developed during the evening, but only a few drops fell here. At Burwell a little more than half an inch fell, and more than an inch is reported eight miles north. Rain is also reported at Loup City on the south, and at all towns southeast, east and north also. Light local showers are also reported in places to the west.

Heavy Rains Miss Ord Monday Eve

All crops not under irrigation are suffering from lack of moisture, and in some sections the corn is too far gone for rain to do any good. Because of the dry weather the grasshoppers have been very active, and have ruined crops completely in some localities.

Fair weather is predicted, and no rain is probable before the end of the week.

Young People to Lead In Church Services

The Inner Circle, with the assistance of the Epworth League will have charge of the morning church services at the Methodist church on Sunday, July 30. The entire program will be presented by the young people and is sure to be a fine one.

—Robert Frye of Burwell was returning home Tuesday evening from a week's visit to his grandmother Frye in Grand Island.

Fred Peterson, 45, Fatally Injured As Truck Upsets

Accident Near Columbus Takes Life of Farmer; Funeral Here Saturday.

Fred Peterson, well known farmer living about four miles east of Arcadia, was fatally hurt Tuesday evening near Columbus, Neb., when the truck load of corn on which he was riding upset, pinning him beneath the edge of the box.

He was taken to the hospital at Columbus, where he passed away at 7 a. m. Wednesday morning, July 19. The body was brought to Ord Wednesday by the Pearson and Anderson ambulance.

Fred Peterson was born Dec. 24, 1893, at Fremont, Neb., and was 45 years, 6 months and 26 days of age at the time of his death. At the age of two years he moved with his parents to Valley county, which had been his residence since that time.

He was preceded in death by his father, one brother, and his only child. He leaves to mourn his tragic departure, his faithful and loving wife, his dearly beloved mother Mrs. Johanna Peterson, one sister, Mrs. Mary Rasmussen of Ord, four brothers, Knud of Elyria, Hans of White River, S. D., Chris of Grand Island, Will of Ord, a number of other relatives and a host of friends.

The funeral was held from the Pearson-Anderson chapel Saturday morning at 10 a. m., with Pastor Clarence Jensen in charge of the services. The service in song was given by J. R. Stoltz, Robert Noll, Mrs. Mark Tolen and Mrs. E. O. Carlson, with Mrs. Noll at the organ. Members of the Arcadia Legion post acted as pall bearers, and a group of Ord Legionnaires were also in attendance. Burial was made in the Ord cemetery.

Many People Hear Wednesday's Concert

A large and enthusiastic crowd was in Ord Wednesday evening to attend the regular band concert, many drawn, no doubt, by the word that the Fusons were to sing special numbers. A survey of the cars parked about the square revealed the fact that twenty counties were represented and five states, including Nebraska, in the car numbers.

Junior Band to Give Concert at Bussell Park

Summer music classes, that have been rehearsing for the past seven weeks under Mr. Duncan's direction will come to a close next week for the remainder of the summer. As a finale to their work, an hour's concert will be presented at Bussell park at 8 p. m. next Tuesday, August 1st.

Weather permitting, a special string group will be on hand to play several selections, and also a class of baton twirlers will demonstrate the fundamentals in this art, preceding the concert by the junior band of approximately 45 pieces. Eleanor Wolfe, who has been drum major for the Ord high school band for the past two years, will be in charge of the baton twirlers.

—Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hopta, Mrs. Mary Hopta and daughter Julia, of Newark, N. J., Miss Emma Raydon of Rahway, N. J., and Fred Stoyak of Columbus, Neb., spent a week's vacation with the Joe Wadas family, returning to their home Monday.

Ord Firemen Attended Convention at Greeley

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. L. Shunkweiler, Mr. and Mrs. Chet Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Oetkin, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hornor, George Anderson, Harry Wolf, Mart Beran, Mark Tolen, Frank Pray and Miss Dorothy Seerley and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Albers made up the group of Ord firemen and ladies who attended the district fire meet at Greeley Thursday.

Among the notables in attendance who made speeches were Gov. R. L. Cochran, O. A. Abbott of Grand Island, John F. Doyle of Greeley, Dr. Sullivan of Spalding, George O'Malley and others. Various demonstrations were put on by different groups during the afternoon, most interesting being that by the daughters of Greeley firemen.

In the evening a Dutch lunch was served in the basement of the Sacred Heart church. At the evening session talks were made by Chaplain Samuelson of the Omaha Fire Department, Horace M. Davis, state fire marshal, and Ray Woods, mayor of York and former president of the state fire department. This was followed by a short business session.

Two Grand Island firemen acted as judges in the competitive events. The 27 towns in the organization were nearly all represented. Ord was in competition with Spalding, winning once and losing once. The Greeley and Spalding teams had a water fight. The next year's meeting of the district will be held at St. Paul, as the firemen from that town extended a special invitation to the group to meet there.

Misko Elected by Four Votes, Rules Judge L. Lightner

District Court Finds Official Count to Be 1,733 for Him, and 1,729 for Lee.

Almost nine months have elapsed since Valley county's 1938 election was held but only Monday was the contest over the county attorneyship officially determined. Judge Lewis Lightner, of Columbus, substituting for Judge E. P. Clements, ruled that John P. Misko was legally elected by a vote of 1,733, four more than his opponent Alvin Lee, who had 1,729.

When the canvassing board met following the November election, Lee was declared elected by a margin of 1 vote. Misko, the republican candidate, filed a contest in county court, and after the votes were recounted under Judge John L. Andersen's direction it was found that Misko had been elected by 3 votes.

The county court decision was appealed to district court by Mr. Lee, and after numerous hearings the contestant and contestee were directed by Judge Lightner to file briefs. This was done and Monday Judge Lightner announced his decision that Misko received a majority of votes cast and should be confirmed in the office.

Judge Lightner wrote a voluminous opinion. He said that in his judgment there was no evidence of fraud in the election; that any errors in voting or counting resulted from the work being done by comparatively inexperienced persons. Rather than disenfranchise voters, he believed all votes should be counted unless a real infringement of law had occurred.

Out of the 42 votes in dispute Judge Lightner threw out 7, counted 15 for Lee and counted 20 for Misko. Had purely technical rules been followed, Misko would still have to be adjudged to have won the county attorneyship since a majority existed for him by any method of counting, Judge Lightner commented.

The defeated candidate, Mr. Lee, still has the privilege of appealing the case of Supreme court and asking for a new trial but it is doubtful that he will do this since the decisions of both county and district court have gone against him.

Resurfacing Work On Paving Project Is Started Tuesday

Asphalt Top Coat Being Put on Old Paving by WPA Men; Engineer Here.

Following some preliminary experimental work on the paving resurfacing project last week, the work started full time yesterday, with Ray N. Green of the Western Laboratories of Lincoln in charge. Mr. Green expects to remain in Ord until the crew has learned enough about the work to handle it for themselves.

The work last week consisted of resurfacing a section next to the gutter on the south side of the square from the southwest corner of the block to the center. This was completed and a barricade put up to keep cars off the material until it became solid enough to bear their weight. A patch was also laid in the center of the street near the southeast corner of the square.

The work started yesterday morning with ten men from the WPA office, and this number was increased to fifteen during the day. The work consists of scraping all dirt from the paving, cutting off the humps that have been produced by cars standing at the curb in summer, and blowing all dust out of the cracks with a powerful compressor.

The parts for the compressor all belonged to the city and were assembled on a trailer for use on the job. The material used for the coating is an asphalt emulsion mixed with water and a small amount of sand, and it is covered with sand when laid. In the center the coating will be thicker, as the top surface is mostly worn off there, and the foundation material exposed.

Only a thin coat is to be put on, and only a thin coat is needed, since the material is very durable. In the center of the street it will be as much as a quarter of an inch thick, and from an eighth to a sixteenth at the curb. Mr. Green stated that when the crew gets used to the work they will lay from a block to a block and a half per day.

Arcadia Beards Will Be Plenty Evident by Jubilee Time; Right Now a Dab of Shoe Polish is Helpful

Two weeks along in a whisker-growing contest being held to advertise a jubilee September 5 and 6 are these Arcadia business men, and although their hirsute adornment is apparent to the naked eye a little dab of shoe polish helps out for picture purposes.

Arcadia's September jubilee is an annual event started two years ago. People of the trade territory will enjoy the free entertainment offered, there will be a carnival on the streets and merchants will offer special bargains.

Committee in charge of plans for the celebration is Dr. Baird, Dwan Williams and Floyd Bossen. Women, who are wearing hair-ribbons, sun bonnets and old time costumes while the men grow beards, are represented on the committee by Mrs. S. B. Warden, Mrs. George Hastings and Mrs. Elno Roberts.

Growing hair on the face is compulsory for Arcadia men and enforcement is taken care of by a kangaroo court that meets every Wednesday evening after band concerts. Women have charge of the court alternate Wednesdays.

Chokecherry Seed Is Picked by WPA Crew

Brennan Davis, area director of the Prairie States Forestry project, gives out the information that a group of WPA employees at Sargent has just finished picking 900 pounds of chokecherry seed in the vicinity of Sargent. This seed is sent to Norfolk, where it is put through a special machine and the greater part of the outside removed.

The seed is to be used in future shelterbelt planting by the forestry service, and the trees will be started in a nursery and later transplanted to the shelterbelt areas. The service favors the use of native Nebraska trees for this work in so far as possible, and the chokecherry makes an ideal tree for furnishing undergrowth in a shelterbelt.

Ord School Board Elects Albion Man in Duncan's Place

Henry Deines Directed Music 8 Years at Albion and Gave Ord Most Competition.

Announcement that Henry Deines, for the past eight years director of music in the Albion schools, has been elected to succeed Dean S. Duncan in Ord was made Tuesday by the board of education upon receipt of a telegram from Mr. Deines saying that the Albion school board released him from his contract.

Mr. Deines will be paid $1,800 as a starting salary and will take charge of all community music activities including the municipal band on a 12-month basis. The board of education pays $1,500 toward his salary, the city $300.

The new music director was educated at the University of Nebraska where he received a degree from the college of fine arts with a major in music. He is an accomplished violinist and plays many other instruments.

Before going to Albion Mr. Deines taught music in the schools of Harvard and Superior. The system he has built up at Albion is very similar to Mr. Duncan's system here, so the new director will step into Duncan's place without making any major changes.

Through arrangement with the Nash's Coffee people, Ben's Grill in Ord will serve either hot or iced coffee free of charge next Saturday. Some of the Ord grocers are quoting special prices on Nash's Coffee this week end also.

Ord Must Sign Up or PWA, RFC, Will Take Over Project

So Ord Business Men Told by Laverty, Hudson, Tuesday; Investigator Here Now.

Unless the city of Ord immediately signs up to purchase electricity from the North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation district and thus helps out with finances there is great likelihood that the district will be taken over by the Public Works Administration, who gave and loaned money for its construction, and by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which owns the bonds. So a group of Ord business men were told Tuesday evening by Roy Hudson, president of the district, and Guy Laverty, attorney.

Mr. Handy, a representative of the PWA division of investigation, is here this week and a probe of district affairs no doubt will be launched at once if the district and the city of Ord do not come to terms.

The meeting Tuesday evening was an informal one held in the district's offices in the Auble building. Attendance was by invitation. President Hudson said that it was held merely to acquaint Ord people, particularly business men, with the facts as they exist.

The North Loup district has, said Hudson and Laverty, conceded everything that the city of Ord asked at the beginning. They have agreed to let Ord continue operation of its municipal plant and accept a 4 1/2 mill subsidy from Ord in lieu of selling Platte Valley power to the city. Agreement has been reached as to rights both parties retain as regards the disputed 30-year contract. The city has been given the right to cancel the new agreement upon 30-day written notice without forfeiting any rights or incurring any penalties, the men said.

What is holding up agreement now is the city's insistence upon a clause being inserted in the contract which would, in the judgment of district and PWA attorneys, invalidate rights expressly reserved by the district in a previous clause to which the city has agreed.

If Ord continues to refuse to assist the district financially it is probable that the district will be sued by PWA and RFC and in that event would have no alternative but to sue the city. Attorney Laverty said. Such a suit would involve at least $500,000 damages, he intimated. He made it plain, however this statement should not be construed as being a threat.

The Ord business men were asked to discuss the matter with the Ord mayor and council and induce them to sign the contract and thus preserve the district.

WPA Costs Cut In State and County

Important changes made in local office for coming year. WPA administrative costs in Nebraska will be cut about ten thousand dollars as the result of congress cutting the budget. As a result the four field offices at Norfolk, Grand Island, Lincoln and Alliance will be closed. The area office for this area will be at Ord, with Lloyd Dillon of Sidney in charge as area engineer.

The Ord office will have charge of the area comprising Garfield, Valley, Wheeler, Greeley, Sherman and Howard counties. Mark Gyger, former area engineer, will remain at Ord as project supervisor for Valley county. George Garfield will be transferred to Howard county, where he will be project engineer for Howard.

Clarence Reed remains on in the county office as helper to Mr. Gyger. John Haskell will be let out, as all sanitation projects will be deprived of supervisors. The sanitation work can continue so long as there is work ahead, but only with voluntary orders. In case the work stops, work enough to keep the crew busy two weeks must accumulate before work can start again.

George Allen, Jr., is also let out, due to the fact that the WPA cannot furnish an engineering force. There will be no project supervisors in either Garfield or Wheeler counties, because the small load there does not justify the expense. In the future more emphasis will be placed on larger projects with savings to be effected through better supervision.

Greeley Legion Juniors Lose in District Meet

Healthy Stock for Fairs. With the state and county fair season approaching, simple precautions for farmers to observe in sending livestock to and from the fairs were suggested in a health bulletin issued here today by the American Foundation for Animal Health. "Farmers need have little fear of exhibiting their stock at any fair if they will follow a few sound rules," the Foundation states. "The livestock owner should first check with his local veterinarian in ample time before loading, to be sure that his stock complies with all laws and regulations governing the congregating of livestock at such exhibits. These regulations vary widely in different states, so that stock which may comply in one state may be ruled out in another. This especially applies to such items as immunization against hog cholera, encephalomyelitis, and proper tests for tuberculosis and Bang's disease. "It is especially important that animals be segregated from the herd for at least two weeks, when they are returned from fairs and such exhibitions. This segregation will allow time for latent diseases to show up—particularly such diseases as swine influenza, cholera, shipping fever in cattle, and horse distemper.

Strict veterinary regulations and inspection is maintained at virtually all fairs, for the protection of the livestock exhibited, but these extra precautions taken by the farmer will be more than worth while as an added safeguard for his animals."

Practical

By SMITH STEVENS
© Associated Newspapers.
WNU Service.

IT HAD taken exactly 18 years to make Katherine Arnold practical. That is to say, it had taken those teeny years to make her realize to an uncanny extent, it seemed to her pretty city aunt, Agnes Raymond, that life was extremely serious and mainly unpleasant. This same aunt was determined that now her exacting grandparents had died she should learn to be impractical.

The two were sitting one summer evening on the old farm porch. The air was mellow with a surge of rain-drenched geranium and roses and the scene as peaceful as the heart of Katherine was not.

"I'm just wondering," began Agnes, "if you've ever believed in fairies. I rather doubt it. Have you?"

The words were spoken so thoughtfully yet carelessly that Katherine felt a sudden fear for her charming relative's sanity. "I certainly have not," she said sullenly. Then, perceiving that her reply was scarcely gracious, she added, "Grandmother forbade fairy books. We did read some in school, though."

"You know, dear, to me that's horrible. You 'did' fairy-tales! You poor youngster; instead of living them! And in this paradise, for this country is lovely. It reminds me of Sicily."

The ranch was situated in Marin county, California, that home of exquisite wild flowers.

"You couldn't, I suppose, try—just to please me—to believe in them now? You see, I do believe in fairies—that is, in all lovely spirits dwelling in flowers and trees and sunsets and books and theaters—yes, dear, I know grandmother thought theaters were wicked, but they're not! And in music—oh, yes, there are fairies in music perhaps most of all. I want you to know and enjoy all these things, because until you do you just haven't really lived at all."

And so Katherine was taken to be outfitted in San Francisco. The girl inherited all her grandparents' savings. She wasn't poor—"but, oh, so poor in joyful experience," thought her aunt.

Katherine was passive. She allowed her hair to be bobbed and conceded it made her look less solemn. She submitted to soft and silken underwear. She admired the attractive frocks and hats that now were hers. But at one thing she rebelled. She would not be "nice" to the well-meaning young men her conscientious aunt provided as playmates.

"I do not intend to marry, Aunt Agnes," she declared, watching the seals ambling over the rocks from the Cliff house, "I have a little money and I am quite convinced I should be happier single."

"You are quite the funniest little girl I've ever met," said Agnes, "for you talk like a book about—oh! maybe 1800. You are far too quiet ever to succeed as a bachelor girl; old maids are extinct; it's just that you don't like the way Harry's hair grows and the way Ambrose eats spaghetti—well, I don't myself."

Katherine had to smile. "I confess you're right, Aunt," she said. "But I can't imagine how it is you know."

"I chose a husband myself—once," her eyes clouded, for the adored husband lost his life in the beginning of the great war, "but Katherine, you really do rather like Jim Jackson, now don't you?"

"Yes I do," Katherine was always frank. "And if you won't think me crazy I'll tell you why. He hates the country."

"My dear!" Her aunt paused. Then very softly, "Was it as bad as that?"

"It was horrible. If you really think that Jim will never, never want to go away even in the summer, or if he must, will fish alone, I'll have him. He is rather dear in lots of ways, but I won't ever milk a cow or listen to a squeaky radio or hold conversations over the telephone with neighbors 'listening in' again as long as I live. Aunt, Jim asked me to marry him last night. I was afraid. I don't know city life although I think I love it. I've never worn a dress that grandmother didn't choose. Last night is the first time I've ever been to a theater. Until Jim told me what it was I didn't know the meaning of a symphony concert. I knew nothing but cows and calves and harvesting fruit and, oh, you have no idea how dreadful it was! Grandmother believed in mortifying the flesh and made me eat coconut cake. I asked Jim if he liked it and he said he'd have a luxury tax on coconuts if he could. And he hates coconuts, too." She sighed.

"This is very, very nice," said Agnes, forbearing to laugh, "Jim's quite a dear boy, and I know all his people well. He loathes the country—the kind of aspect of it that you know, you poor, poor child! As much as you do. And he once threw a coconut cake out of the window when he was about nine years old."

"How heavenly!" Katherine flew to the telephone and called Jim's number. Her aunt withdrew. "She's growing young, thank goodness," she said to herself. "I couldn't have stood her elderly ways much longer."

Burwell Rodeo Is Nebraska's Biggest

Nebraska's Big Rodeo, at Burwell, Nebraska, again extends to the public a cordial invitation to attend its annual meet on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, August 9, 10 and 11. This invitation is extended with the feeling that the Association has this, its nineteenth year, arranged a program which will equal if not excel anything attempted in previous years.

Nebraska's Big Rodeo offers a continuous afternoon performance of horse races, bronc riding, steer bulldogging, Brahma steer riding, calf roping, ladies bronc riding and trick and fancy riding and roping. All of these rodeo events are strictly contested with the best talent in the country competing. In addition to this rodeo entertainment there will be the Sioux Indians in their native village and native dances, Maxine Martin and her troupe of white Arabian horses, Winton Bird and the Hollywood Stars in fancy trick riding and roping, Clyde Hightower with his Roman team jumping act, cowboy and cowgirl relay races, funny clowns, trick mules and many other features. Two big carnival companies with a dozen or more rides and half a hundred side shows. The spirit of the old west prevails at Nebraska's Big Rodeo, a spirit of friendliness and good will—the spirit that has made Nebraska's Big Rodeo the one big entertainment of the kind in the state. Big night show and dancing pavilion for those unable to attend the day show. Come and remain for all three days. As thousands have attended this show during the past 19 years you undoubtedly have a neighbor who has attended. Ask him. We stake our reputation on our satisfied customers. Write or wire the secretary for desired information.

80 Bushel Corn and 400 Bushel Potatoes Are Expected by A. H. Easterbrook of Arcadia in 1st Year of Irrigation

July 14 feet tall and still shooting upward is the corn on A. H. Easterbrook's farm at the east edge of Arcadia. In the photo at left, above, Mr. Easterbrook holds a shovel at arm's length overhead to show height of the corn. It will make 60 to 80 bushels per acre, possibly more.

At top, right, Easterbrook shows a 14-quart pail of Cobble potatoes dug from only 8 hills. Five, 6 and up to as many as 9 No. 1 potatoes are found in each hill. His irrigated potatoes will make 400 bushels per acre, possibly more, a sample digging indicated Friday.

At bottom, right, Mr. Easterbrook is seen at the point where water from the Middle Loup district's canal enters his own laterals and is diverted to different parts of the 135-acre farm. Three main laterals and about 60 small field laterals enable the Easterbrooks to do a thorough job of irrigating.

"Since we began irrigating we don't know when night comes and Sundays are just like any other days," said A. H. Easterbrook, one of the biggest land owners under the Middle Loup project. With the help of his two sons, Paul and Carl, and with one or two hired men, Mr. Easterbrook is farming a 135-acre place at the east edge of Arcadia. He owns another farm, also under the ditch, that is being farmed by a tenant.

There are 135 acres in the Easterbrook home place and 75 acres are in corn. No finer field of corn could be found in central Nebraska than the Easterbrook field. Two varieties of hybrid corn, with a small patch of home grown seed for a check, are included in the field. Stalks range up to 14 feet high.

"How much will your irrigated corn make?" the Quiz reporter asked Mr. Easterbrook Friday. "Sixty to 80 bushels was my guess but a man from Gibbon who knows irrigated corn says it'll make 85 or more sure," the farmer answered.

Potatoes are another crop in which Mr. Easterbrook plans to specialize. South of his house he has a field of 3 1/2 acres that will be ready to harvest in two or three weeks. Well over a foot of water has been put on the field to supplement rainfall. Friday afternoon, assisted by the Quiz reporter and photographer, Easterbrook dug a rod of potatoes to get an estimate of the coming yield. In 16 1/2 feet of one row he dug a heaping half bushel basket of potatoes and then estimated that at that rate his patch will yield 400 bushels per acre. That figure may be exceeded since the potatoes will grow two or three weeks yet.

Alfalfa hay, oats and barley are other crops on the Easterbrook

Johnson farm last week were startled when they came upon one shock in a field of rye that was almost completely burned up, and scorched kernels were found to be scattered around the spot. NEW FASCIST PURGE

Some two hundred thousand German-speaking Italians in the Tyrolean mountains in northern Italy are worried at the present over what their fate may be in the plan of the fascist government to Italianize the region.

This is the territory which was a part of Austria before the World War and post-war settlements made them Italian.

Officially the Tyrolese know only that they will be offered the opportunity of joining the German-born in being transported into the Reich.

Fascist authorities claim that they have no information on possible treatment of Tyrolese who choose to remain in Italy.

It would mean the elimination of their language, Italianization of their names, suppression of their local German language newspapers and the prohibition of religious services and instruction in German.

Many inhabitants of the province both German and Italian speaking attribute the expulsion and repatriation measures to the zeal of Nazi sympathizers for the return of South Tyrol to Germany even after Hitler's renunciation of it.

Many students of international affairs see in the movement the desire on the part of Mussolini to eliminate in South Tyrol the menace that caused the seizure of Sudetenland by Germany last year.

It is hard to impress the boys and girls of today with the importance of preserving the knowledge of old time customs.

Anyhow I am going to throw up the job in about another week and go back to Cullen where I won't have to cook unless I want to do so.

But this cooking has been a good experience for me. I lost a few pounds that week that it was so hot but since cooler weather has come I am gaining it back and it looks now as though I might go back north a notch or two heavier around the waste line than I came.

There are about four hundred, not THE 400, who are more or less in arrears on their Quiz subscription and while I don't want to go to the expense of sending notices and I don't want to stop their papers, I wish that they would come in with a dollar to push their dates forward that much.

How many boys and girls of today ever saw a spinning wheel, an ox yoke, a flail or a melodeon? How many children born 25 years hence will ever see a buggy, a phonograph, a walking plow or a weight clock.

Hastings, Nebraska, recently dedicated a building, the sole and only purpose of which is to preserve the past. It cost a large sum of money, and in it the dreams of a number of people were realized.

But Hastings labored under a handicap, in that she had to build an entirely new building in which to preserve the relics of the past. Here in Valley county we have available one of the finest relics of the past in the entire state in the buildings of Ft. Hartsuff.

No more fitting place for a public museum could be imagined than one of these buildings, built from native materials and restored by the use of native materials.

We need more intelligently directed efforts to preserve the past for posterity. A searching for those relics still left to us before they have been ruined beyond repair could be inspired by a contest offering suitable prizes for the best contributions in the various classes.

There must be something about this season that makes fishing better than usual. They tell me that fishing is the best it has been here in years.

Fishing has been better than usual in our Minnesota lakes also, that is bass and panfish have been biting better, walleyes were not going so good until just the past few days but they are said to be striking good now.

I am doing a pretty good job of cooking for H and Eugene and admit it but I sometimes get to wondering why they don't show up for meals.

Anyhow I am going to throw up the job in about another week and go back to Cullen where I won't have to cook unless I want to do so.

But this cooking has been a good experience for me. I lost a few pounds that week that it was so hot but since cooler weather has come I am gaining it back and it looks now as though I might go back north a notch or two heavier around the waste line than I came.

There are about four hundred, not THE 400, who are more or less in arrears on their Quiz subscription and while I don't want to go to the expense of sending notices and I don't want to stop their papers, I wish that they would come in with a dollar to push their dates forward that much.

How many boys and girls of today ever saw a spinning wheel, an ox yoke, a flail or a melodeon? How many children born 25 years hence will ever see a buggy, a phonograph, a walking plow or a weight clock.

Food Most Important. Looking at the situation practically, of all the articles that this country might export to the nations mentioned as being favored by the President's plan, food is the most important.

Monetary Bill Not Likely to Be an Issue in Campaign

There is much talk about the monetary bill being an issue in the campaign but, while it is of course impossible to say that it will not be it would seem that the probabilities are against it.

Had the revolt against President Roosevelt succeeded, that would have been something else again. Had the net result been that the Government ceased its subsidizing of domestically mined silver, that would have been decidedly a couple of other horses.

As it is, the silver mine owners will get just six cents an ounce, roughly, more than they were getting before. It is not important politically. Even if it were terribly important economically, which it is not, it would have been a settled fact so long before the heat of the campaign develops that only a few persons would have been interested.

It may be that the Republicans will be able to make some use of the continued subsidizing of foreign silver. Few persons inside the United States are in favor of that, and these few only exporters to silver producing countries, of which, after Mexico is named, there are few.

Important Factor Is If Something Else Pops Up. But that issue also may result in indifference on the part of the voters.

But that issue also may result in indifference on the part of the voters. The important factor there is whether anything else happens to keep public interest in it alive.

So, if it happens to be a dull campaign with very little to interest the voters, this foreign silver situation just might happen to be important, especially as none of the rank and file of the Democrats would be interested in defending it.

Or, if Hitler should be raising Cain at that time, with Mexico apparently on the side of the dictators, it might easily become a tremendously important issue.

No Leaves but Many Apples on Koelling Trees; Grasshoppers Are Now Attacking the Bark Too

When Mrs. John Williams, Davis Creek correspondent of the Quiz, wrote last week about the grasshoppers eating the bark off trees in the Will Koelling orchard many people may have thought it an overstatement. This Quiz photo proves it true. Not a leaf is left on the Koelling apple trees—all have been eaten off by hoppers. The apples remain, offering an unusual sight on the bare trees, but the ground below is littered with apples that fall as hoppers eat through the green stems. Bark of the trees is covered with yellow hoppers and in many places the bark has been eaten off. A cloud of grasshoppers arose from the bare ground when the Quiz photographer walked through the orchard. Fields in the same neighborhood also show prevalence of the pests. Bare corn stalks, their leaves eaten away, stand in many fields, particularly where near-by fields were not plowed this summer.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD.

Cuckler Bros. of the Gamble store got a real kick out of an incident that occurred Saturday. A small lad, apparently at the age of his first year in school, came into the store with a total of 319 pennies, which he counted out in payment for a coaster wagon. He had been saving them for a long time, and doubtless passed up many a chance to buy candy or pop just for the sake of having a wagon. Such perseverance is worthy of comment.

Friday afternoon, Buck, the big Chesapeake dog belonging to the Cetak family, got trapped on the Burlington bridge by the freight. He was knocked down by the cow catcher, which catches dogs as well and met with many exciting experiences as the train passed over him and he tried to get out. As soon as the train passed he got off the bridge and disappeared, and the boys thought he must be fatally hurt. However he was back home the next morning minus tail and one ear, and with a bad gash in his side where the train hit him. He was taken to McGinnis and Ferguson, and at present seems to be getting along fine, although he will never look the same again.

George Bartz of North Loup Collects Guns and Relics

George Bartz, who lives across the river northeast of North Loup, has one of the finest collections of old guns of all kinds to be found in Nebraska. He has over eighty of them in all, only a small part of which appear in the photos, as they could not be gotten into one picture without a great deal of trouble. The spinning wheel, which Mr. Bartz' daughter Lella is demonstrating, and also a brass kettle were brought to America from Germany by Mr. Bartz' parents. As many of the guns were in bad condition when he received them, he made a lathe from a cream separator and parts of a grain separator, and turns them to make them look as good as new. He also makes any parts which may be missing. He has several guns inlaid with silver and gold and with foreign writing, possibly Portuguese, on them. He is wearing a cap of Civil war days. He has a collection of arm buttons, including those worn by his father at the battle of Ft. Niobrara, and a full set of Civil war buttons still on the original card. He started his gun collection about 1917. He also has a collection of Indian relics, including two steel arrow heads made by the Indians from a government spade. He keeps all his relics in one upstairs room, and is always glad to display them to visitors.

Saturday Sale

AT THE SALE RING IN ORD
SATURDAY, JULY 29
 SALE STARTS AT 1:00 O'CLOCK

There was a good run of stock last Saturday. The cattle run was larger than usual, they sold well. We had orders for several head of cattle and the outside buyers that were here, made the market active. The pigs were hard to dispose of, as has been the case in the last three or four sales. But, I still think that at the present price of grain and the price that these pigs are selling for that they are a very good buy, and will show a nice profit.

In next Saturday's sale, it looks like: 100 head of cattle of all classes.

125 head of feeder and weanling pigs.

6 head of horses.
