Wm. Kapustka Dies On Friday After a Lingering Illness

Funeral For Elyria Young Man Held at St. Mary's Church Saturday.

William Kapustka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kapustka, passed away at the home north of Elyria at 1:30 a. m. Friday, after a prolonged illness from leakage of the heart.

He was born Febr. 6, 1912 on a farm near Ord and was 27 years, 5 months and 22 days of age at the time of his death.

He was buried Saturday at 9:30 a. m. from St. Mary's church at Elyria, Rev. C. Shumski in charge of the services.

Sixth Annual Reunion of Co. "I" Held Soon

The call has been sent out for the sixth annual reunion of the boys of Co. "I", 134 U. S. Infantry, to be held in Bussell Park, Ord, Sept. 3, 1939.

As usual, it will be in the nature of a picnic lunch at one o'clock, drinks and paper plates furnished, and the families are of course invited to attend.

Local Musician Plays in Colorado All-Star Band

An all-star band of fifty selected musicians playing weekly concerts at the big summer school at Colorado State College of Education, in Greeley, Colo., has as one of its members Eugene Puncoschar of Ord.

Car Cushion Catches Fire

Burwell, Nebr.—Special—While K. W. Peterson was driving his car between Burwell and Ord Sunday, fire of unknown origin set the back cushion on fire.

New Refrigerator at Farmers.

A new Koch refrigerator was put into service at the Farmers Grain and Supply company store last week and adds a valuable improvement to the equipment of the store.

Music Department Honors Duncans

The Ord high school music department planned a picnic last evening at Bussell Park in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Duncan and the children, who will soon leave Ord for their new duties at Lexington.

In the photos above are shown a general view of the crowd, and also a good picture of the Duncan family as they were eating their picnic dinner.

Fire Destroys Barn At Joe Klat Farm

Fire discovered at 10:20 Wednesday evening destroyed a combination barn, cattle shed, granary and driveway on the Joe Klat farm four miles southwest of Ord on the Arcadia highway.

The loss included harnesses, collars, and a little grain. The building was insured, but not the personal property.

James Aagaard and Pupils Give Program on Friday

A program of special interest to all music lovers is to be given Friday evening at 8:15 at the Ord Christian church, when the pupils of James Aagaard will demonstrate what they have accomplished during the past year.

Those who will take part in the musicale are Arthur Larsen, Christina Petersen, Marilyn Dale, Capron Coe, Darrell Petersen, Frank Roberson, Mrs. Archie Rowbal, Marjorie Coe, Virginia Sack, Bette Vogelanz, in addition to the Aagaards.

Mrs. J. W. Severns and daughter Lois were in Ord for the day Tuesday.

Frank Wigent Died Monday Evening in A Oregon Hospital

Body Will be Brought to Ord For Burial Friday or Saturday.

Frank Wigent, until two years ago a resident of Valley county, passed away Monday night at 11 p. m., in a hospital at Eugene, Ore., according to word received Monday morning by relatives here.

Mr. Wigent was 49 years old on June 25, and is survived by his wife and son Lamoin, who were with him when the end came.

Ericson Boy Caught a 34-pound Catfish

Ericson, Nebr., Aug. 1—(Special)—Harry Schamp, fourteen year old Ericson lad, won top honors in fishing for 1939 when he hooked a huge catfish at Lake Ericson this week which was so large that it was all he could do to handle it after he got it out of the water.

A. W. Cornell Tells Of Recent Trip to Mountains

A. W. Cornell was in town Saturday and gave a few of the high points of the recent trip to Montana and Wyoming which he and Mrs. Cornell made in company with Miss Clara McClatchey.

Here they and two sisters from New York on vacation held a family reunion. Afterward one of the sisters went on to attend the Golden Gate Exposition, while the other returned east.

Rotarians Listen To Dr. Grace Crandall

At their meeting Monday night the Ord Rotarians listened with interest to Dr. Grace Crandall, a missionary who recently returned from China, and who is at present visiting with her sister, Mrs. G. L. Hutchins in North Loup.

No. Loup Elevator Sold For $515 At Auction

The elevator at North Loup formerly owned and operated by Geo. Johnson was sold at auction last Thursday, M. E. McClellan making the winning bid at $515.

Horseshoe Champ Shows Skill to Ord Players

At Bussell park Sunday horseshoes played an important part in the entertainment of a group of men picnicking there.

Two Fast Games Were Played Tuesday Eve

Two more fast games of softball were played last night. In the first the Douthits easily defeated the Chanticleers, formerly known as the High School and the Juniors, the final score being 6 to 3.

Arnold Tractor Goes on Rampage

Thursday afternoon Leslie Arnold, who farms the Braden place east of Arcadia, met with a mishap while grinding feed with a tractor. He tried to turn on the power drive to the grinder, and the clutch slipped into low gear ahead instead.

Business Men of Ord-- Shall The Fair Be Allowed To Die?

People of Valley county, and primarily the business men of Ord, have a serious question to face right now—whether they want the Valley county fair to die or to continue.

Admittedly, finances of the fair association are in considerable of a muddle but in the situation there are rays of hope. There are debts of over $6,000, including a $2,200 mortgage on the physical assets of the corporation and $1,600 in unpaid 1938 premiums.

The Valley county fair is Ord's one big annual celebration. It is a valuable asset to Ord, and if a fair is not held this year and the county allotment and parimutuel funds forfeited to some other agricultural show in Valley county, it is very likely that the Valley county fair will forever cease to exist.

Only about 35 of the 150 business and professional firms in Ord own stock in the corporation. The other 115 are probably not to blame for this—they have entered business in Ord since the present Valley county fair organization was perfected in 1919 and never have had an opportunity to buy stock and thus back the annual fair.

The fair association has only $13,050 of stock outstanding. It is permitted by law to issue up to $20,000 in stock. Since, admittedly, funds must be raised if a fair is to be held this fall, it seems to the Quiz that the fair association might well issue $2,000 to $3,000 more stock—in fractional shares, perhaps—and permit Ord business men to purchase it, thus giving them a financial "stake" in the fair's success and also providing the funds needed for success.

If the Ord Chamber of Commerce wants to do something for the city and preserve an institution that means much to Ord and Valley county, it should back a plan of this kind, it seems to us. The Chamber of Commerce, through its Retail Committee, might well ask the fair association to issue more stock and then put on a drive to get this stock into the hands of Ord's newer business and professional men.

Only thirty-five out of 150 men active in Ord's business circles holding stock in the fair association! If the fair is valuable to the city then it deserves the backing 100% of the business and professional men.

Given enough money to clear the slate of immediate debts there is every reason to believe that the fair could succeed. A contract recently negotiated with Valley county for rent of the grounds except when the fair is being held brings in $30 monthly, almost enough to pay interest and insurance.

The question is one that Ord people must face NOW! Other Valley county communities are interested but not to the extent Ord is. The problem is simple: Either support the fair financially NOW or reconcile yourselves to seeing it forever cease.

Chamber of Commerce, here is a thing worthy of your best thought and efforts. Cooperate with the fair association and help your city.

Investigators Are Here Looking Into Power Problem

Government Men Meet With Council Thursday; No New Developments.

J. G. Handy, special agent for the division of investigation, and his assistant, C. R. LaFrance, have been in Ord for the past week looking into the power situation here with a view to learning the facts.

By special request of Mr. Handy, C. J. Mortensen was also invited to attend and give his views of the proposition from the view point of a banker.

While nothing new developed in the course of the meeting, it is understood that progress is being made toward a settlement satisfactory to both the council and the irrigation district. When that settlement is made a full report will appear in the columns of the Quiz, which does not want to jeopardize a settlement by statements made while negotiations are in progress.

East Area of Nebraska In Rain Belt for July

A survey of rainfall for July shows that the eastern part of the state was in the rain belt for that month, about a dozen counties receiving rain that approached the normal for the month.

The rainfall of Monday night, most of which fell on the morning of August 1, and that which fell during the day Tuesday, totaled .39 of an inch, and was about as much as fell all through July.

Corn in Valley County not under irrigation is practically gone, and in many sections even the fodder has been ruined by grasshoppers. The only crops that seem to be standing the drought are the various kinds of sorghums, which are still growing and seem to be insect proof.

K. of C. Softball Team Played at Columbus

The Ord Knights of Columbus softball team played in the K. of C. state tournament at Columbus Sunday, meeting Wahoo, the defending champions, in their first and only game. They made a good showing, but were defeated. The finals were to be fought out between teams from North Platte and St. Paul.

Rev. Charles M. Shepherd Also a Collector of Guns

The Quiz is in receipt of a letter from Henry Allen Brainerd of Lincoln, in which he comments upon the story of Fred Bartz and his guns, published in last week's Quiz. He tells of Rev. Charles M. Shepherd, at one time Methodist pastor at Chester.

He gave a large number of them to the Nebraska State Historical society, but they are not on display because of lack of room. The remainder were left to his son at the time of his death.

Neighbors Hoped Thresh At Farm of Mrs. Knudsen

Last week a group of neighbors assembled at the home of Mrs. Niels Knudsen west of Elyria and helped her with the threshing. The threshing was done with the outfit of Portzeba brothers.

Harley Eschliman smashed his right fore finger Friday under a block of salt while working at the seed house. It will probably cause him trouble for a week or two.

Band Concert Program BY THE ORD MUNICIPAL BAND DEAN S. DUNCAN, DIRECTOR Wednesday, August 2, 1939, 8:00 P. M. Specials: Clarinet Duet: Eldon Mathauser and Emanuel Smolik

LOCAL NEWS —Mrs. Matilda Davis of Burwell came to Ord on the bus Sunday morning and spent the day visiting in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sarah Adams.

Arnold Tractor Goes on Rampage Thursday afternoon Leslie Arnold, who farms the Braden place east of Arcadia, met with a mishap while grinding feed with a tractor.

MORE ABOUT PROMISES.

In the issue of the Quiz of July 12 appeared an editorial under the title "Broken Promises."

It set forth some promises that had been made in the past, in particular with respect to the Ord-Ericson highway, and stated that this promise of an improved highway had not been kept.

Van W. Robbins of North Loup wrote Governor R. L. Cochran in regard to this editorial, as follows: "Dear Sir:—I am writing in regard to a write up that I noticed in a local paper, a week or two ago."

It was in regard to promises that were made by one of your departments in connection with the Ord-Ericson highway being completed as soon as possible.

These promises were made just before election, if I am not mistaken. "As I understand the situation, the Ord-Ericson highway has been talked about and some work done on it for quite a good many years, and yet it is in very poor condition for any one to travel, if they wanted to go in any hurry."

This road is quite important to Ord, as it is incorporated in the names of both projects today. However, through some circumstances or a change of circumstances the power part of the proposition fell by the wayside, and both projects were developed for irrigation only.

This was a matter of keen regret at the time, and the question of power is still being threshed out in the North Loup district. Be that as it may, a development on the Middle Loup the past week made irrigators thankful that no power had been developed.

The Central Power company complained that too much water was being used for irrigation, and the water at Boelus was so low that they could not develop the needed horse power from the plant there.

In fact, it appeared that plant was putting out only a little more than one third of the horse power the users needed. Instead of a normal 800 to 1,000 kilowatts per hour, the output dropped to 350 kilowatts per hour.

The state first ordered the Middle Loup head gates closed, because the power company was operating first, and then rescinded the order, because in Nebraska the needs of irrigation come before anything else.

Thus, while the power situation at Boelus is acute, plenty of needed water is pouring into the fields of irrigators on the Middle Loup. If the project had been developed for power as well, the state might have ruled that the power project first in operation had priority rights over the later one, but the Middle Loup is not a power project in its present setup.

The time may come when the Columbus power district will complain of a lack of water, but, if they do, the irrigators of the upper Loup rivers have the first right to the water. Thus what has been looked upon for some time as a catastrophe may be a blessing in disguise.

The present setup gives the North Loup River Public Power and Irrigation district priority rights over any company organized for power only. Farmers here may plant their crop with the assurance that they will not lose them in the middle of summer because some other organization claims use of the water.

WHY NOT BUFFALO GRASS? During band concert last week a certain Ord man made a suggestion that sounds like a good one. Soon the court house yard is to be sowed to grass, and bluegrass would be fine for the purpose if it would be possible to get a good stand, and to keep it. Time was when we could get a fine lawn by using bluegrass but under present drouth conditions it seems impossible to keep it from dying out or being killed out by other plants.

This Ord man suggested that the yard be sodd to buffalo grass, which is more drouth resistant, and which does not grow high and therefore does not require much cutting. Further, it is a known fact that no other plant can get anywhere in buffalo grass sod, which spreads by roots and forms a compact mass beneath the surface, thus choking out all the troublesome weeds, including the dandelion.

The chief difficulty with buffalo grass is that it is very hard to propagate from seed, and is usually started by setting out small blocks of sod at regular intervals, and these in time will spread out to cover the entire ground. When it is well started it is almost impossible to kill it out, rough treatment serving only as an incentive to more vigorous growth.

But the president recently uttered a statement which met with the hearty approval of the majority of Republicans, Democrats and New Dealers, when he made the statement that will go down in history, "You can't strike against the government." That statement deserves a place with Patrick Henry's "Give me liberty, or give me death," Sherman's "War is Hell," and Calvin Coolidge's, "I do not choose to run."

To strike against the government for any cause whatever is rebellion, and nothing else. Our labor law recognizes the right of the laboring man to refuse to work for an individual or corporation when the conditions under which he works do not suit him, and the government will protect him in this right. But it will not protect him in preventing others from working who wish to do so, for this is a free country.

The government is run by representatives of the people, and they make its laws. Representatives of you and I changed the WPA law by a majority vote. They cannot compel anyone to work on WPA if he chooses not to do so. But striking in an effort to compel the government to meet demands is vastly different from quitting a job. Seeking to compel the government to do anything by show of force is insurrection, and can be punished as such.

FOR IRRIGATION ONLY. Only a few years ago the agitation was started in the Loup valleys which finally resulted in the formation of the two irrigation districts, which this year are using the water on thousands of acres of land with most satisfactory results. It will be recalled that in the first electric plan was to have hydro-electric projects, and that fact is incorporated in the names of both projects today.

However, through some circumstances or a change of circumstances the power part of the proposition fell by the wayside, and both projects were developed for irrigation only. This was a matter of keen regret at the time, and the question of power is still being threshed out in the North Loup district. Be that as it may, a development on the Middle Loup the past week made irrigators thankful that no power had been developed.

From the sentimental point of view it would be fine, as it is a native grass in Valley county, which bluegrass is not. The fact that it was found growing in abundance on the uplands in the early days proves that it is well adapted for use in the soil of the courtyard, and when once started, it should require very little attention. This suggestion is not made to embarrass the county dads, but in the hope that it may prove helpful.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

Well, I have learned quite a lot about cooking the past three weeks and if I was to keep on with the job I believe I would, in time, know the likes and dislikes of my boarders, that is, if I didn't lose them. I have had three boarders a part of the time and some of the time Eugene was gone. He may have claimed it was necessary for him to make the trips to get a change of board for a couple of days. The other two boarders were Bill and Buck and Buck is about as particular as the others, perhaps more so.

The worst I saw was at Chas. Boettgers and at Will Koellings. I was told that the grasshoppers are even worse at other places. The corn fields there look like broomhandles sticking up. The hoppers have eaten all the leaves and stalks. I was told of fields where there are no stalks left. I was told of potato patches where the vines were eaten and even the potatoes were eaten.

Bill Heckler has gone to the World's fair at New York. He wrote back to Les Leonard and said "It is pretty hot. Be sure and water the trees for I want some shade around the house when I return."

Les said he is watering the trees as Bill said but there will be no shade. The grasshoppers have eaten all the leaves from the trees, and even the needles from the pine trees. In some instances the pests have eaten the bark.

The damage seems to be spotted. One corn field will be stripped bare to the stalk and many of the stalks cut off and another close by not damaged so badly and one does not know quite the why of it all. At any rate there are very few corn fields in these sections that will make even fodder if it would rain until Christmas.

These grasshoppers are the most serious catastrophe that has befallen us yet, and the denizens in that part of the country have a super attack of the blues, and why shouldn't they? There has been considerable questioning as to why Greeley and Valley county have not received some of the federal assistance to fight the grasshoppers like Howard and Sherman county has got this summer. It is said if the federal men in charge are notified that the pests have got beyond our control, CCC men and other government workers will be sent and a thorough poisoning will be undertaken.

It is a fact that there was an appropriation made for that purpose and if there is some logical reason why this county did not get it, with our crops mowed off as they are, an explanation would surely be made and stop the scandal that is going around.

Quick Work. At Columbus the other day, R. M. Evans told the story of two soldiers fighting in Europe during the World war. One was an American negro and the other a German. They met face on with their bayonets ready to jab through each other.

As they charged the first time they did no damage except that the German knocked the bayonet from the hand of the negro, so one might think, Mr. Negro was pretty near out of the fight as far as he was concerned. As yet however he was not worrying a great deal for he reached into his pocket and drew out an implement of war; a short knife affair where the blade turned back.

The two started for each other again. The German made a jab but missed; the negro made a quick swish with his arm as the German went by. "You missed," the German boasted.

another dew and another experience like was at Burwell and then the only assurance any one has is to water his crop with a bucket. Those that are benefited by any project, only those should support it and not mooch it off any one else.

Three of our friends came in the past week and had us renew their World-Herald. And why not? It don't cost them any more, we make a commission that they couldn't get and we actually save them a little bother of writing to order. We sure do appreciate the daily paper renewals.

When you read this I will be out on Pelican lake a couple of miles from shore catching walleyes. I hope, Ed Michalek is home and he says they are sure biting good and that fishermen are getting their limits.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

Those of you who have not traveled out in Mira Valley or Davis Creek in the last few weeks would do well to do so some evening and see the grasshopper damage there. Last week I was out in that direction and later took a trek to Columbus and back and in all that galavanting no place that I saw compared with the destruction in our own fertile sections.

The worst I saw was at Chas. Boettgers and at Will Koellings. I was told that the grasshoppers are even worse at other places. The corn fields there look like broomhandles sticking up. The hoppers have eaten all the leaves and stalks. I was told of fields where there are no stalks left. I was told of potato patches where the vines were eaten and even the potatoes were eaten.

We Need Help

Quick Work Short Shavings

The negro calmly wiped the blade on his britches and answered, "You just wait, big boy, until you try to turn your head."

Short Shavings. Harry Foth went after his cows the other morning and found them not where they should be; that is in the corn field. Frightened then beyond speech he hurried on with vivid hallucinations that he now would have the loss of his herd of cows on top of the drouth and grasshoppers. He saw his herd in a cane patch across the fence, all lying quietly. He hurried on.

The cows were all quietly there chewing their cud, alive as could be. The treatment in a case of that kind is to call the doctor at once and give a stimulant (a strong one too) to the owner of the cows.

In looking over the big power plant at Columbus, we, the Wallace Creek committee, decided that water is the most powerful thing in the world. Rushing down thru those great tubes into the turbines, making electricity beyond measure, brought us to that conclusion for a minute.

That seemed quite settled until Jim Jensen wondered if beer would not be more powerful than water. Jim had heard it had more power in other places, and he believed it would be better there.

Then Joe Jensen informed us that without a doubt, the country over, there was that much beer drunk in a day, and then we bewailed the fact of all that power (beer power) was not put to better use.

We should all save our last year's telephone book. They have the Ord numbers. The new ones are of little value, and in only a few minutes we can mark the old one over making the necessary corrections. This is information for N. L. people. Ord people will just have to call at the N. L. central office and buy a book. Too bad.

My brother-in-law is a very meticulous man and I never knew of him to make errors in spelling, dates, etc. He is in France now studying and he wrote us a card the other day dated, "A. M., July 12, Paris, Tuesday." If you will notice, our calendar says that Tuesday is the 11th. Was that a mistake on his part?

Doug Barber has for years been an old time road man. He says that he thinks it would be a good idea for the State Road department to take part of the money they are spending to survey the change in the road down by Scottia and build the road.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

The ideal type of livestock, as exhibited at county fairs, may change considerably from one season to another. At the present time there is much disagreement as to what the latest models should look like.

Swine breeders have been going in circles on this problem for the last ten years, and are now back to about the type of 1915. Some want their hogs smaller, while others do not. Packers are promoting Berkshires because they are little. There has been an infusion of Poland China blood in Hampshires and Berkshires, in order to give them shortness and thickness of fleshing. Minnesota's experiment station had added to the confusion by recommending cross-breeding.

Sheep fanciers are raising and exhibiting several different types because they are uncertain which kind will win. Eastern shows prefer a small, refined animal. Western judges favor a larger, more rugged style. Horsemen are agreed upon a medium sized drafter, but judges continue to place the big ones up. Belgian and Percheron breeders are working toward the same medium type of horse, with Belgians in the lead. Clydesdale men are still placing their emphasis upon action.

Only the cattlemen are in accord on type. The trend in beef cattle is toward a smaller, quicker maturing and even shorter legged kind than we have at present, particularly in Herefords and Angus. Extreme blockiness is desired.

Dairymen want their cows to show lots of scale, and body depth. Holstein breeders are trying to get rid of individuals that are high, straight-sided, and "horsy" in appearance.

North Loup

Written by Mrs. Ethel H. Hill

William Howard Preston
William Howard Preston, son of Robert and Lurena Preston, was born in Annesa, Iowa, Feb. 11, 1874 and passed away at his home in North Loup July 28, 1939, having reached the age of 65 years, 5 months and 17 days.

He came to North Loup with his parents in the spring of 1880 where he grew to manhood amid the hardships of early pioneering. When he grew to manhood he chose farming and stock raising as his occupation, building the improvements on his farm by his own labor. No task was too hard nor discouraging for his strength and energy. On Feb. 22, 1899 he was united in marriage with Miss Susie Mayo of North Loup who proved a worthy helpmate, and tenderly cared for his every need in his declining years when his health failed and his strength was gone.

Seven children were born to this union. Erma (Mrs. Albert Baller, Exeter, Neb.), Esther, who passed away at the age of five, Howard of North Loup, Mrs. Lawrence Mitchell of Davis Creek, Robert of North Loup, Richard of Cheyenne, Wyo., and David who passed away at the age of 21. There are thirteen grandchildren of whom he was very fond and who were always welcome when they came to see him.

Mr. Preston's decline in health really began when he overstrained his rugged physique in lifting, unaided, a heavy tree which had fallen upon his son Robert, pinning him to the ground. Trips to the springs for treatments, and to the mountains and California failed to relieve his condition, which gradually grew worse, his strong body grew weaker until he was compelled to take to his bed eight months ago. He was a patient sufferer, had expressed his desire to be released, which prayer was granted and his release came in a very quiet peaceful manner in the presence of his family and other relatives by whom he will be greatly missed. He took a great deal of satisfaction in the Bible often asking for the stories and promises of the Book be read to him.

He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Jennie Schultz, Mrs. Mattie Sheldon, both of North Loup, and Mrs. Lelia Newer of Denver and one brother, Mr. Walter Preston of Morrill, Neb., who joined with other relatives, friends and neighbors in mourning and will hold him in lasting remembrance.

After a brief home service the funeral was conducted from the Methodist church Sunday afternoon by the pastor, Rev. W. C. Birmingham. Music was a mixed quartet, Mrs. Harold Hoepfner, Mrs. Cloyd Ingerson, Albert Babcock and Melvin Cornell, Mrs. A. C. Hutchins, pianist. The church was filled with relatives, friends and neighbors in spite of the 100 degree heat. The funeral was directed by Harlan T. Frazier and burial was made in the North Loup cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fisher and two children left about midnight Wednesday evening for Tecumseh. They left later so that it would be cooler traveling.

Ruth Boyer and daughter Joyce left on the Friday morning bus for their home in Eugene, Ore., after spending a few days here with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Roberts, Mrs. Emma Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Leonard called on Mrs. Bartholomew and took her to Erierson to spend the day.

Ord Banks Offer Buy City Bonds at 3% Interest Rate

Would Save Nearly $3000 Annually by Proposal to Refund Present Bonds.

Acting in conjunction, the two banks of Ord through their presidents, C. J. Mortensen and F. P. O'Neal, Friday evening offered to refund $34,900 in Ord city bonds that come due in 1940 at an interest rate of 3 per cent.

The new bonds would be issued for a 15-year period and payment would be made on any interest date, according to the proposal. The two banks offered to sign a contract now protecting the city against any increase in interest and refund the bonds when they come due in the fall of 1940 at the 3 per cent rate.

Present bonds were issued 20 years ago and were non-optional. Throughout this period the city has paid interest at the rate of 6 per cent. No sinking fund was established to pay off the bonds when they fell due so the city still owes the entire amount of the principal.

Acceptance of the banks' offer would mean a saving to the city of nearly $3,000 annually in interest alone. Leaving the levy where it is as present and applying money saved in interest toward payment of the principal would retire the bonds within a reasonable period, it is pointed out.

A Lincoln bond house, Greenway & Co., had previously offered to refund the bonds at 3 1/2 per cent and an Omaha firm, Kirkpatrick, Pettis & Co., have indicated a desire to submit a proposition at the September meeting of the city council.

It is probable that some action toward refunding the bonds will be taken at the September meeting.

Services Saturday For Frank Wigent

The body of Frank Wigent, who passed away July 1 at a Eugene, Ore., hospital, arrived Friday afternoon at 4:15 p. m., at Grand Island and was met by Pearson and Anderson, and by his brother, William D. Wigent, who had just arrived from Chicago. Mrs. Wigent, who accompanied the body, was brought to Ord by William.

The funeral was held from the Ord Methodist church in charge of Rev. G. C. Robberson, assisted by Miss Mamie Young, and burial was made in the Ord cemetery. The pall bearers were Marion Strong, William Albert, George Lay, Dave Arnold, Art McLain and L. H. Covert. J. R. Stoltz, John R. Haskell, Dean Duncan and Boyd Holloway sang, with Miss Anna Aagaard at the piano. The flowers were in charge of Mrs. R. O. Hunter and Mrs. Archie Waterman.

Frank Wigent was born June 25, 1859, at Ord and passed away July 31, 1939 at Eugene, Ore., at the age of 80 years. He was the son of Agnes and David Wigent, brother of Mamie Harkness and Bessie Johansen and William D. Wigent. On June 22, 1914, he was married to Stella Douglas. To this union one son, Lamoin, was born.

Mr. Wigent grew to manhood in Valley county. Two years ago he took up his residence in Oregon, where he lived until his death. Beside his faithful and devoted wife and son, he leaves his mother and numerous relatives and friends to cherish his memory. Possessed of a generous spirit, he cherished his friendships highly and was ever ready to respond to the call of a friend in need.

Street Improvement Project Progressing

The NYA boys, under the direction of Leland Barrett and L. H. Covert, are doing some needed work in the drainage project in Hillside addition to Ord. The work is progressing nicely on 22nd street between M and N streets, and will also be done on O street between 18th and 19th streets.

Both these blocks are not now surfaced, and water running down the hill in the past has cut up the streets. The work consists of digging out the dirt along the line of the curb and putting in a cement gutter which takes care of all surplus rain water, and in addition to being a worth while improvement, it furnishes employment for the NYA boys.

—Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Parkhurst of Rock Island, Ill., accompanied by the latter's brother, J. H. Booth of Ericson, drove to Ord Tuesday for a brief visit. The Parkhursts left Ord about 1909, and this is the first time they have been back. They were on an extended trip which took them first to New York to see the World's fair, and then back here to attend the Burwell rodeo. They are visiting with the Booth family while here. He is auditor in the government finance department at the Rock Island arsenal.

Finest Corn He Ever Saw in Nebraska, Is Word of Dr. Rhodes

J. D. McCall's field of irrigated corn near North Loup is the finest field of corn he ever saw in Nebraska, said Dr. Rhodes, agronomist from the University of Nebraska, who in company with W. S. Pitts and R. O. Pierce visited Valley county Friday. The field will make about 85 bushels of corn per acre, it is estimated.

One other Valley county corn field, that of A. H. Eastbrook in the Middle Loup project, is almost on a par with the McCall field; in fact the Lincoln men had difficulty in deciding which is the best.

Rhodes, Pitts and Pierce were here assisting County Agent C. C. Dale in making plans for an inspection tour of the North and Middle Loup projects to be held late in September, this event being the climax of a series of irrigation schools held here during the winter and spring. Various crops irrigated in accordance with methods taught at these schools will be inspected.

Dates of the inspection tour will be announced later.

Still Negotiating on Power Contract

Draft Satisfactory to City Sent to Washington for Approval of R. F. C.

Negotiations between the city of Ord and the North Loup power and irrigation district are still under way and there is every likelihood that a solution satisfactory to both parties will be reached soon, said Mayor M. B. Cummings yesterday.

A buy-sell contract satisfactory to the city has been drafted and sent to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in Washington, D. C., for approval. The RFC owns bonds issued by the district. One clause in this contract did not meet with the approval of Guy Laverty, attorney for the district, but city officials say they feel it is necessary for the city's protection and are hopeful the RFC will approve its inclusion in spite of Attorney Laverty's veto.

J. G. Handy, special agent for the PWA's division of investigation is still here this week and is understood to be taking depositions from city officials, farmers and others regarding statements made by district employees while the project was under construction.

Capacity Crowd Attends Aagaard Recital Friday

The Christian church was filled to capacity Friday evening to hear the recital given by the pupils of James Aagaard, and all were more than pleased with the program. Arthur Larsen opened the program with piano accordion selections. An English air, "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes," was sung by a quartet composed of Christina Petersen, Marilyn Dale, Capron Coe and Darrell Petersen.

The program continued with vocal and instrumental solos by Darrell Petersen, Bette Vogeltanz, Frank Robberson, Mrs. Archie Rowbal, Marilyn Dale, Capron Coe, Christina Petersen, Virginia Sack, with accompaniments played by Margaret Petska, Marian Wardrop and Sarah Wardrop. Mr. Aagaard sang "The Lost Chord" with violin obligato by Marilyn Dale, and the Misses Aagaard played two piano duets.

County Board Fixes Levies for Next Year

At their meeting Tuesday the Valley county board fixed the levies for 1939, which in general are lower than they were last year. The country school districts and the townships are making their levies very much the same as last year, with only slight variations, and for this reason these levies are not given here. The following levies are given and will give an indication of the general trend toward lower levies:

|---------------------|-------|-------|
| State               | 2.93  | 2.86  |
| County              | 4.89  | 4.51  |
| Ord City            | 13.70 | 13.65 |
| Arcadia             | 13.06 | 10.86 |
| North Loup          | 8.50  | 9.50  |
| Elyria              | 5.00  | 3.00  |
| Dist. 1, North Loup | 23.3  | 23.0  |
| Dist. 5, Ord        | 20.7  | 20.9  |
| Dist. 21, Arcadia   | 19.1  | 21.3  |
| Dist. 63, Elyria    | 3.50  | 6.00  |

—Miss Betty Lou Sweet, a graduate of Ord high school when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Sweet, lived in this city, was graduated from Colorado State college, Greeley, Colo., Saturday. She received the degree of bachelor of arts in education.

Work to Start in September on New Recreation Field

Gyger, Dillon, Bring Official Word of Project's Approval by Federal Agency.

Official notice that the Ord athletic field and recreation ground project has been approved by the Works Project Administration was brought to the city council Friday evening by Mark Gyger, county WPA supervisor, and Lloyd Dillon, area supervisor. Work will start in September and the project will continue throughout the winter until completed, it is thought now.

The Moudry tract in west Ord, on which the city has had an option, is being purchased for $1,600 and the project consists principally of leveling the tract. Cost to the city, exclusive of purchase price of the land, will be $600. The WPA will furnish $4,400 in labor.

When leveled the tract will be used for a football field, softball field, possibly a baseball diamond, tennis courts, horseshoe and croquet courts and places for other sports.

Civil War Veteran, 99, Celebrates His Birthday

Henry H. Copp, one of the few remaining Civil War veterans in central Nebraska, celebrated his 99th birthday last Wednesday, Aug. 2, at his home in Brewster, a large number of relatives from Loup county were in attendance at the celebration. Mr. Copp has always been a staunch republican, and hopes to live to see his one hundredth birthday and vote for his party's choice for president.

Ove Fredericksen is New Sinclair Representative

By virtue of a change in the bulk Sinclair station at Ord Thursday, Max Pearson was let out, and is replaced by Ove Fredericksen, who recently moved to Ord from Long Pine, where he had been operating a motion picture theater. Mr. Pearson and family moved to Lincoln Sunday after two years residence in Ord, during which time they made many warm friends here, who regret to see them go.

Mr. Fredericksen is no stranger to Ord nor to the Sinclair people, as he operated the Sinclair station here at the time he moved to Long Pine two years ago. He was well liked at that time, not only by the public at large, but also by the people by whom he is employed. The family moved here ten days ago, and are living in the John S. Hoff house on south 14th street.

—Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Taylor and daughter Barbara arrived Monday night from Monroe, Mich., and will spend two weeks visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Taylor and other relatives and friends.

Corn Like This Possible With Irrigation

Here is shown Carl Dale, Valley county agricultural agent, in the corn field on the J. D. McCall farm north of North Loup, acclaimed last week by a University of Nebraska agriculture expert as "the finest corn he ever saw in Nebraska." There are other fields in the North and Middle Loup valleys almost, if not full, as good. Farmers are just beginning to realize what yields are possible when proper irrigating methods are followed.

10,000 Gallons Water Free to Ord People

To help Ord citizens preserve shrubbery, trees and lawns the city council decided Friday evening to give 10,000 gallons of water free to every person taking water from the city plant, during the quarter that began August 1 and ends November 1. A charge will be made for normal consumption during the period and 10,000 gallons above normal usage will be metered free.

Because of the dry summer, trees and lawns are in worse shape, possibly, than in any previous year. It is a certainty that many trees will die next winter unless they are watered now.

In 1938 the city gave 7,500 gallons of water free but because it is dryer now than then it was decided to hike the free quantity to 10,000 gallons.

Ord Schools Will Open New Term on Monday, Sept. 4th

High School Registration To Start Aug. 28; Four New Teachers on Staff.

The Ord schools will open for the 1939-40 term on Monday, September 4, announces Superintendent C. C. Thompson, and registration for high school students will be held Aug. 28, 29, 30 and 31. No registration will be necessary for the grade school.

In order to be eligible for entrance in the kindergarten, children must be five years of age or before Dec. 15, 1939, the superintendent states.

Four new teachers will be on the staff of the Ord schools this year: Henry Deines succeeds Dean S. Duncan, Miss Edith Filley succeeds Miss Sarah Harmon, Miss Arletta Robinson succeeds Miss Thelma Ludlow, and Miss Elaine Donaly succeeds Miss June Schneider.

There are a number of students, says Thompson, who would like to work for their board and room while attending high school. Anyone who plans to take a student to work during the school year may secure this list from his office.

Burwell Potato Office Opened by Kimball Man

Burwell—(Special)—Vernon Linn of Kimball has opened a potato office in the building north of the Burwell Bank. Seventy-eight bales of 300 burlap sacks each or approximately 25,000 sacks are on hand. Digging of potatoes began Monday afternoon in some of the fields near Burwell. After they are dug they are washed, graded, sacked and loaded. A car is being loaded at the present time. Two graders of the T. J. Lockwood invention are in Burwell, one at the old mill owned by Glow Fackler and the other at the Bum Phillips feed store. Mr. Lockwood is also a Kimball man.

Dry Land Potatoes

Above is shown Frank Naprstek and some Irish cobbler potatoes he raised by dry farming on his place near the brick school on Elm creek. He planted a quarter of an acre about March 15, and believes that early planted potatoes are the only kind in this section.

Softball Continues To Interest Crowds

Scotia came to Ord Sunday evening and played a weird, fantastic game of softball with the Ord All-Stars. Ord finally winning by a score of 14 to 13. Nay allowed Scotia only four hits, but these, added to bobbles by Ord players, accounted for all the Scotia runs. Ord made their scores with a total of 9 hits.

In the first game Tuesday night the Douthits won from the KCs by a score of 9 to 3. The hits were 8 for the Douthits and 5 for the KCs. By virtue of a ten run spurge in the fifth inning the Chanticleers defeated the Livestocks by a score of 11 to 9. The Chanticleers had 6 hits and the Livestocks had 4.

The summary to date shows Axel Jorgensen of the Livestocks leading in hitting with 555 for six games. Harvey Dahlin of the Chanticleers is in second place with 533 for five games. Syl Furtak of the KCs is in third place with 497 for five games. Raymond Christensen seems to be leading the full time players on the Douthits with .305 for six games.

Ord Shoe Repair Man Leaves Town Suddenly

C. R. Turnblade, who ran a shoe repair business just east of the Ord Co-op Oil company, left Ord suddenly last week, and his whereabouts are unknown. It is understood that a number of Ord men to whom he owed bills would like to know where he is. As soon as it was learned that he had left town the sheriff levied upon two machines left in the building for unpaid taxes.

Work on Ord Postoffice Started Monday, Aug. 7

Charles E. Goodhand, successful bidder for the construction of Ord's new postoffice, received notice a short time ago that the government had accepted his bid. Monday he started a crew of men at the work of excavation, and plans to push the work right along until the job is completed.

St. Paul Here Sunday.

The St. Paul softball team will be in Ord to play the Ord All-Stars Sunday evening, and a fast game is certain. All are invited to come out and boost for the home boys.

Notice—Office Closed.

The office of Dr. F. A. Barla will be closed until August 17, as the doctor is now on his vacation. 20-ltc —Miss Ruth. Jame is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. James, Her father drove to Auburn Monday and brought her back with him to visit for a week.

Notes About the BURWELL RODEO

This Wednesday noon, officials of Nebraska's big rodeo report that the sale of reserve seats is much better than last year and the crowd is one of the best first day crowds seen for several years. The crowd began coming early, and the percentage coming from a distance is higher than usual. This is accounted for by the cool weather, which makes traveling more pleasant than usual.

The rodeo has set a new all-time record for cowboys registered, with a total of 118, from all parts of the west. This is about 5 more than have been registered at any time before, and should guarantee plenty of hot competition in all rodeo events. The race stables are filled with some of the finest race horses in America, and should furnish thrills for all lovers of horse racing.

The Landes Carnival company came around by way of Arcadia and Ord Sunday on the way from Broken Bow to Burwell. They were afraid to try the more direct route by way of Sargent and Taylor because a part of the road was under repair.

Just a short time before the opening of the fair the board decided to turn over to the North Loup Valley historical society the former ladies rest room for use as a display room for relics of the early days. This is the consummation of a campaign that had been carried on for years to have something of the kind done.

Traffic toward Burwell began to increase the latter part of last week, both by bus and by car, and indications are that a large crowd will be in attendance as usual. The organization known as the Frontier Rangers, started recently by a bunch of Burwell boosters, has a large membership list, with such illustrious members as Eddie Cantor and Jack Benny.

The men repairing the north bridge at Burwell hurried the work as much as possible and had the bridge passable last Monday in plenty of time for the fair. A rodeo performer named J. L. Case arrived a week too soon from North Dak., having got the dates mixed, but he stayed over the extra week.

The earliest arrival for the fair was a rodeo performer who got his shoulder smashed about a month ago at a rodeo at Sidney, Neb., and came to Burwell hoping to be well enough to work this week. He was unable to do so, however. Red Thompson, who was gored by a steer three years ago at Burwell, and who performed there last year, is reported in the hospital and in a serious condition, probably caused by his injury.

This year fair visitors from the west and south are having a real opportunity to see some of the results of irrigation in the valley, as all crops under irrigation are looking wonderful.

O. J. Miller of Omaha, formerly of Burwell, was in Burwell Sunday and expected to spend the week taking in the fair. He was one of the men who had much to do with its success while he lived in Burwell.

Lyman Kern, who handled the information office the past two years is doing the announcing, taking the place of Dr. E. E. Clark of Ashland, who acted in that capacity for several years. Rev. W. L. Goodell has charge of the information office this year.

—Mrs. John LaCornu of Kearney drove to Ord Sunday and remained until Wednesday as a guest in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Bratt.

Night Auto Races Will be Attraction At Valley Co. Fair

Chamber Agrees Monday Eve to Back Fair Financially; Plans Are Progressing.

At a meeting held at the American Legion hall Monday evening at which both members of the Chamber of Commerce and officials of the Valley county fair were present, the general sentiment was in favor of continuing the fair in spite of adverse weather and crop conditions. It was agreed that the fair is a good thing for Ord and Valley county and that it would be a serious mistake to drop it even for a single year.

About one fifth of the members of the chamber were present and most of them responded when called upon to express their opinion on continuing the fair. All were in favor of a fair of some sort but a part of them were quite enthusiastic, believing that a good fair can be put on this year without incurring too great expense.

President J. A. Kovanda of the Chamber of Commerce will appoint a committee at once who will see all persons not now owning stock in the fair and sell additional stock in fractional shares, also accepting donations from any who prefer a donation to the purchase of stock. This work will get under way this week, and any who are overlooked should feel at liberty to see Mr. Kovanda or members of the committee.

It has now been definitely decided to hold night auto races in the evening this year, which is an innovation meeting with popular approval by all who have heard of it. It has the advantage of better weather conditions, as the nights will be cooler and much of the dust will be eliminated. Also the idea of night racing is meeting with the hearty approval of the racers themselves.

Since Ord first took up auto racing 15 years ago, all drivers who have competed here have been treated well by the fair board, and out of ten leading drivers in the United States today four have seen competition right here in Ord. Because they have always been treated well in the past, these drivers have expressed willingness to race at Ord this year even though prize money is lower than usual. At least 15, probably 20 or more drivers, will compete.

Because of the fact that Clyde Baker, race superintendent, is now vacationing in Colorado, it is impossible to interview him in regard to the races. However, while he is away he plans to see a number of racers who have appeared on the Ord track in the past and he will no doubt have a number of them signed to race in Ord by the time he returns.

The dates for the fair have been set definitely for Sept. 13, 14 and 15, with the entry day Sept. 12. It has also been decided to cut the gate admission to 25c for both afternoon and evening, thus giving all who wish to look at the exhibits in the afternoon and see the races in the evening a chance to do so for a gate charge of a quarter.

The grandstand seats will sell at prices ranging from 50c for the main grandstand down to 25c for the bleachers south of the track, and 35c for the other stands north of the track. It is thus possible to see a whole evening of racing from a comfortable seat for only 50c. Premiums will be paid on agricultural and livestock exhibits this year as usual. The premium list will be printed in next week's Quiz.

John Haskell Retained As Foreman-Timekeeper

Under a change in the WPA set up announced in the Quiz two weeks ago John Haskell was let out as head of the WPA sanitation project here, due to the fact that no provision was made for supervisors in this department after that date. However, under the revised plan, Mr. Haskell has been retained on the project as foreman and timekeeper. This means that he will no longer solicit work, but since the project is well established, there is no doubt that work will continue indefinitely.

Weather Cooler After Two Light Showers

Following the two light showers of early last week a nice rain of .31 of an inch fell in two showers Friday, .03 of an inch on Saturday, and .11 of an inch on Monday. Somewhat heavier rains were reported from widely scattered parts of the state, but the rains were not general nor of sufficient quantity to soak up the soil for fall work.

A peculiar condition of the weather Monday night was the sudden change in temperature, the thermometer reaching a low of 43 degrees during the night. This was apparently in the wake of a severe cold wave which swept over Wyoming in which snow fell as far east as Scottsbluff, but no frost is reported in that section.

SHALL WE HAVE A FAIR?

Twenty years ago the Loup Valley Fair was recognized and taken over by a group of nine public spirited men from the wreckage of the old Loup Valley Agricultural Association...

When the fair was about to be lost I felt it was a mistake and spoke several times to different business men, telling them to try and do something to keep it going...

The business men of Ord and the Valley county fair are faced with a situation strikingly similar to that of twenty years ago. It may be argued that times are not the same today as they were then...

one milk white stallion, a freak, and the breed is the result of years of scientific selection and breeding. These horses have a number of advantages over the ordinary horses...

HE MISSTATED THE FACTS. A man named J. A. Bowman, who claimed to be a former feature writer for a Chicago paper...

When asked for information for a local item he offered to write a little about himself and the Quiz could use whatever it wanted to. With this as an excuse he went to different Ord firms and presented an advertising proposition...

The Quiz did not authorize him to use the name of the paper or the name of any of its employees in any way, but he did so, and it is only fair to all concerned to state the position of the paper. The Quiz does not lend its support in any way to crackpot schemes for advertising, but legitimate means of publicity has its approval.

Whether his scheme is legitimate or not, the Quiz wishes to call the attention of the public to the fact that if he used the name of the Quiz in any way, he did so without authority. If anyone lost through his misstatements the Quiz is sorry, but certainly cannot be held responsible for any unauthorized statements he may have made.

Well, it has been so long since I done done my duty by this column that I don't know where to start. What shall I write about? Shall I tell what I've been doing, and what I've seen? Or what shall I talk about?

Shall I tell about our one-day trip to Itasca State Park in northern Minnesota, famous for its tall Norway pine which loom up into the air a hundred feet or two before they bother to have a branch...

If I were going to write about Itasca I could tell about the lone-some man from Auburn, Neb., who rushed over as soon as we parked the car. Of course he wanted to hear about weather and crops "down home", and we asked him about the three huge crapples he held on a stringer. He said he had caught them in Itasca lake, and they would be cooked at once, and also told us the friendly camp custom...

ABOUT WHITE HORSES. Since the dawn of history there has been something about the white horse that has appealed to the imagination of writers of facts and fable. While there is no absolute proof for the statement, it is commonly supposed that Alexander the Great's horse, Bucephalus, was snow white, as was the palfrey of Lady Godiva which she rode through the town of Coventry.

city professors have summer homes there, some of those who used to enjoy your struggles and mine. Perhaps you'd like to know that the summer people in Minnesota wear typical resort clothes...

Men in Minnesota also wear less, often it is merely trunks or slacks, sometimes with a dinky sweatshirt and sometimes without. They look comfortable. It seems good to see them wearing colors. Everyone, I could mention, either has a glowing sun tan or burned brown skin, or is enroute to one via the painfully red hurry-up method.

4-H CLUB NEWS

Rotary Pig Club, 2nd. The Rotary Pig Club the second met at the home of Henry Sok Monday evening. A short business session was held which was followed by play practice. Six members were absent. Games were played the remaining part of the evening. Cake was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held at the home of Arthur and Richard Palsler...

Nimble Fingers, News. The Riverdale Nimble Fingers 4-H club met at the home of their leader, Mrs. Alfred Christensen, Thursday, Aug. 3. Assembling a complete costume was discussed. The roll call was to give the value of a sewing club. All members were present. It is now planned to have achievement day on Tuesday night, Aug. 29. Darning and patching was studied. The leader gave a demonstration on patching. The club plans to attend the demonstration day at Greeley Aug. 11. Each girl of the club plans to assemble a complete costume and exhibit it at the Spalding fair. The next meeting will be held August 10.—Olive Marie Brown, reporter.

Valley Side Progressives. On July 27 the Valley Side Progressives met with Ruth Bredthauer. For roll call the members told another new bird and its habits. The club has taken up a conservation study of birds and at this meeting the members received the leaflets for the study of wild life. At this meeting the members took measurements of each other to learn to do this correctly. After the lesson delicious refreshments were served. The next meeting was held Aug. 3 at the home of Betty Jean Fuss. Birds were again the topic of roll call. The lesson on fitting was discussed. The members have finished their slings and have started on their dresses. Refreshments were served following adjournment. The next meeting will be held Aug. 17 at the home of Thelma Collins.—Roberta Cook, reporter.

Clearview Calf Club. The Clearview calf club met at the Louis Florian home Aug. 6 with all members present and two visitors. After the meeting a demonstration of leading calves was shown. This was followed by a lunch. The next meeting will be held at the Ben Maly home Sept. 3.—John Duda, reporter.

Junior Priscilla. The Junior Priscilla 4-H club met at the E. Walford home Aug. 3, at 1 p. m. Seven members responded to roll call by telling "Your Idea of a 4-H Girl." Their slings were examined and judged. Dorothy Albers was given first place with Donetta Johnson and Elinor Walford tying for second and Reva Lincoln third. Mrs. Walford helped the members with their record books and portfolios. Adjournment was taken to meet Aug. 17. After this Donetta Johnson and Elinor Walford gave a demonstration, "How to Give a Shampoo." Group singing was enjoyed at the close of the meeting.—Priscilla Flagg, reporter.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT! Written by GEORGE GOWEN

Waxola or Hoja Plant. Joo Veleba met me on the street the other day and he said the plant belonging to John Sevenker, of which there was a picture July 12, is identical to the one my wife gave him a few years ago. He said their plant is blooming just the same as the picture.

Mrs. Gowen got her slip from a lady in Iowa. This Iowa lady got her first slip from an Irishwoman who brought the plant direct from Ireland, and she was so choiced of the plant she would not give any away. After several calls and trading, the Iowa lady got one slip and from it grew a plant.

The Iowa lady did not know the name of the plant so she sent a branch to the Iowa State Uni., and they wrote back naming it "Hoja" plant. Mrs. Gowen called it Wax plant or Waxola. Mrs. Gowen has seen it advertised in Burpee's Seed catalogue as Waxola.

In a book on house plants my wife read of it: Do not disturb the roots. In the winter keep warm and dry. Water heavily when growing; spray with cold water for mealy bug; keep surface soil loose and one should be very careful of it where the blossoms are. It will grow large, the one in Iowa from which ours came, growing four feet tall, box and all.

More Territory.

The story was told me of the traveling man who begged of his employer that he wanted more territory. After several complaints the boss gave him North Dakota and said, "Now it is a long ways up there and you don't need to come back every week. Just mail your orders."

The salesman was gone one week, then two, and no orders came back. Finally at the third week the boss came to his office and there was his salesman at the desk writing. "What you doing," the boss asked. "Writing up your orders?" "No," was the answer, "I'm writing to Hitler," and when the boss asked the why of writing to Hitler, the answer was: "Hitler has been wanting more territory and I'm just going to give him North Dakota."

New Lows in R. E. A new low was established in real estate prices when the property of Art Watts sold in North Loup for $360.00. It is a nice house, two stories, good shape, on a sidewalk and considered a very nice residence. This is far below the value that it should have brought. It might have wrecked out at that price, but it was too good a house to wreck.

It takes two men, that is two bidders to make an auction sale successful. A person is taking a big chance to offer his real estate at auction in times like these. Occasionally a property will bring a good price but who wants to be the one who does not get the two bidders. Although the taxes will eventually get the property it is no worse to hang on hoping for better times than to give your property away, just to get out of paying those taxes.

You Guess. I have been asked by a great number of farmers lately, how long we can stand such times and crops, as if I knew any better than the next man. However, asked as I have been I'll say, we each one, will last, if the present conditions continue, just as long as the amount we had in the first place lasts. It is not a matter of good farming, good farms or hard work or good management. It reminds me of the story an old gold prospector told me when a group of men became stranded in the desert without water. It was every man for himself and the man who was strongest in the first place lasted the longest. Any more, there is no disgrace for going broke as we are all alike.

Barley King. John Kriewald, who had one of the best crops of barley and oats I have heard of in this section (1,000 bushels from 100 acres) has little use for Spartan barley and vows he will never plant it again. He says where it was planted by the side of the other old time varieties, the Spartan did not do nearly as well. The reason he thinks is the grain is softer and more palatable to the grasshoppers. Also there are only two rows of heads, leaving more room on the head of the grain for the grasshoppers to sit and eat. Some of John's Spartan barley was so poor he did not thresh it, while the other varieties close by made enough so as to bring his average (Spartan included) up to the huge total of about ten bushels an acre.

Short Shavings. Yoc Jensen, who is on the school board at Horace, said they were having trouble getting teachers for their school. He added that there had been no good looking girls applied yet. On the way to Horace the other day, we had to slack our speed at Genoa on account of the sign at the middle of the road, "SLOW men working." After hearing, over the radio, the Scotta band play at Grand Island, someone remarked that they believed they did more dedicating than they did playing.

In salting cream to keep it sweet, as I mentioned a few weeks ago, in the Cornhusker News, a letter sent out by the State Statistician A. E. Anderson, he said .6 of a pound of salt to a gallon of cream would do the trick. Even with that amount, more salt will have to be added when the cream is churned. He would like to know of anyone's experience in trying the cream salting idea. Yup, Ernest Coats and I eat dinner in the evening. We are thankful we can still eat even if we can't pay our taxes and have to have our gasoline charged. We have all the milk we can drink (6c a gallon, cheese factory price), all the eggs we can lay to (1c each or less) and chickens (15c each for a two pounder). Now that's a fare fit for a king and we make a dinner of it three times a day. The worst part of it is we have to eat it without salt. The grocer will not run a charge account.

roads until the next session of congress. In fact, the bill which the senate approved but which will continue to sleep in conference until January does not contain very much hope either. The real situation is that there is small probability of congress being willing to do anything which would be of any real help to the roads.

The curious part of all this is that both congress and President Roosevelt are really anxious to do something for the carriers. It is not a question of being against the vested interests, nor of a pet peeve. There is really no outstanding figure in public life who is crusading against the railroads. The troubles lie deeper. It lies in the fact that having been strait-jacketed so long, by the government on the one hand and the unions on the other, the roads just began to sicken when they got up against truck and bus competition.

A distinguished Middle Western banker jolted several senators at dinner the other night by his insistence that it was rate reductions and taxes that had hit the railroads. He insisted that the volume of traffic, considering freight traffic, that is all that most of the railroads really profit on, was greater than in various boom years which could be cited, despite the huge amount of freight now carried by trucks.

He had so many statistics that he had the senators dizzy, all tending to show that the railroads had enormously increased their efficiency, but that the tremendous increase in the burden of taxes, plus the constant reductions in their rates, had gotten them down. Real Wallow for Railroads Comes From Local Taxation

This burden of taxes is heavy enough if only those imposed by the federal government are considered, but the real wallow comes from local taxes, state, county and city or town. "Most small towns are strung out along the railroad tracks," said this banker. "Every time the town needs more revenue its council extends the city limits so as to take in more railroad property to tax." The trouble is, senators point out privately, that there is no earthly way of reaching this situation. Congress can't very well pass a law which will declare that interstate carriers are not subject to local taxation! Even if such a measure were conceivable, politically, which it certainly is not, the problem then would arise, where are these towns going to get their revenue? A small county in northwestern North Carolina gets 42 per cent of all its revenue from taxes on one line of railroad which runs through the county, end to end. It just so happens that this particular railroad—the Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio—has been in the hands of receivers for some time and has none too good prospects. There is no attempt here to prove that this railroad is overtaxed, and that relief of this sort of burden it could get along without being a problem child to congress. That would certainly enter a controversial field.

Continuance of Alcatraz Certain Despite Murphy Connecticut politics, mixed up with President Roosevelt's desire—whatever he may eventually decide to do to keep the ways greased for his own nomination for a third term—is what makes continuance of Alcatraz certain despite the eagerness of Attorney General Frank Murphy to get rid of this "American Devil's Island."

It so happens that Sen. Francis T. Mahoney is up for re-election in Connecticut next year, and he is very anxious to go on being a senator. Mahoney knows all about the enthusiasm for Roosevelt and the New Deal in Bridgeport and other industrial centers in the Nutmeg state, but he also knows about anti-third term sentiment in the rural sections. After weighing the pros and cons very deliberately he has decided that his own chances for re-election will be very much better if some other Democrat than Roosevelt is the presidential nominee next year. And he is more interested in his own re-election than in giving the New Dealers a chance to prove him wrong.

In his defense it should be stated that a senator who finds his own state is strong one way is apt to believe that he has read national sentiment also. Which would mean that Maloney would have to believe that as a third-term candidate Roosevelt could not be elected whereas another Democrat might be. Whether Maloney is right or not has nothing to do with the case. That is his judgment which means that his influence in selecting Connecticut's delegation to the Democratic national convention will be (Continued on page six)

Friends, seeking to prevent extinction of the American whaling industry, make favorable impression in congress in their attempt to repeal the prohibitive whale oil tax. No hope for railroad legislation until the next session of congress. Local taxes the real burden the railroads are forced to shoulder.

WASHINGTON—Advocates of repeal of a prohibitive whale oil tax, seeking to prevent the extinction of the American whaling industry, made a very favorable impression in congress, one gathers from talks with senators and representatives, so that there is the possibility that it will be a live issue next year. This may be too late for the present interested group, as withdrawal of the tax they declare they cannot possibly start operations for next season.

What the whale people want to repeal is a three-cent excise tax on whale oil which is obtained from whales killed by "killer ships" flying a foreign flag. The situation is that the killer ships used by the American concern involved are Norwegian, and the gunners in every instance are Norwegian. It is claimed that Americans will eventually become adept gunners, but there are none left of the men who once gave the American whaling industry world leadership. Their exodus began with the Civil war, when Confederate privateers drove them from the seas, and practically concluded when their wooden craft, in twos and threes and whole fleets, were caught in ice packs in the polar regions after the whales had been driven from warmer waters.

The skill of the gunner is not merely that of a marksman, it is explained. That is important, but only one of the little steps. The main art lies in figuring where a whale will come up, after he has been sighted blowing and then has dived beneath the surface. The Norwegians have become marvelously accurate in this calculation, and hence bag more whales and waste less time on the part of the killer ships than amateurs would. Hence, it is claimed, it is impractical to use Americans for this job, until they have been trained, and it is also said to be impractical to use American flag killer ships. The tankers that bring the product back from the killer ships to port fly the American flag, and the enterprise is owned by an American corporation.

Purpose of Tax Was to Aid the American Farmer A little joke on the company is that when it first acquired a big tanker ship for this purpose, the United States government had a loan on the vessel. Had this loan been allowed to stand the treasury would have had a considerable interest in not having the vessel made worthless. But the loan was paid off, so Uncle Sam was lost as a partner! The alleged purpose of the tax, which was added to the 1938 revenue bill at the last moment, was to aid the American farmer. Congressmen were given to understand that the dairy interests were for the amendment. It develops that none of the whale products compete with any edible fats. They compete chiefly with inedible fats and tallow rendered from garbage. As domestic sources supply less than 60 per cent of domestic requirements for inedible fats, it is contended that the protection granted favors one American industry at the expense of another.

The company interested also informs congressmen that the whaling ships of all nations employ Norwegian gunners and Norwegian killer ships. No Hope for Railroads Until the Next Session There is no hope for the rail-

Clarence Duane Donner.

Clarence Duane Donner was born November 8, 1923 at the family home near Kanorado, Kas., and departed from this life at the Cram hospital, at the age of ten years, eight months and twenty-six days. He was fatally injured in an accident at the farm home north of Burwell. Though the odds were against him, Duane never once lost courage and remained faithful to God through all his suffering. He was a regular member of Rose Hill Sunday school and because of his cheerful and loving disposition, he was loved by all who knew him and will be greatly missed by those who are left. He leaves to mourn his death, his loving parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Donner, two sisters, Darlene, age eight, and Dorice, age three, one grandmother, Mrs. P. C. Donner, of Burwell, one grandfather, L. L. Livengood of Kanorado, Kas., several aunts and uncles and many other relatives and friends. Funeral services were held at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 2:30, in charge of Rev. J. Bruce Wylie. Mrs. Maynard Lakin and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Grunkmeyer sang "Jewels" and "Beckoning Hands." Marietta Udell and Dorothy Goodell sang a special favorite of Duane's, "In the Garden." The pall bearers were Clayton Cratchley, Rodney Key, Billy Udell, Donald Hoppen, Orville Eberle and Eldon Davis. Out of town relatives to attend the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Jones and family of Weskan, Kas., Mrs. Norman Anderson of Kansas City, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Jay Dorothy and son of Midwest, Wyo., and Mrs. George Donner of Lyman, Neb., Mr. and Mrs. E. W. ## BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovando

Do the people of this locality want an open season on turtle doves? If not, they had better write to the state game warden and tell him to close it.

There is agitation on the part of many Nebraska hunters for an open dove season this fall. It is argued that we raise mourning doves for other states to kill, under the present set-up. That increased hunting license sales would result, and bring added revenue for the propagation of other game, if a season were allowed.

Turtle doves, they add, are hard to bring down if hunted properly. Federal wildlife statutes provide for an open dove season, and dove shooting is permitted in all but five states.

Should we have an open season on pheasants? Certain areas will be closed to pheasant hunting where protests are received from those areas.

Areas will not be closed on account of the grasshopper infestation, but to satisfy the public. Contrary to general opinion, pheasants do not eat many grasshoppers.

A daily bag limit will also be placed upon rabbits, with the possibility of a closed season. Meanwhile the shelter belt folks will be fighting the bunnies with poisons, traps and firearms.

The season on ducks and geese will probably be about the same as last year. But this will be decided by federal officials, who generally arrange our duck hunting season the way we don't want it.

Edwin Hitchman Is a Designer of Model Airplanes

The above photos show Edwin Hitchman, resident of Ord for the past five years, but now moving to Lincoln, and some of the many model airplanes he has made. In the photo, upper left, he is holding a Douglas DC 2 model which has a 42 inch wingspread. It is accurately built on the scale of one half inch to the foot. Upper right shows him at work at his bench with various pieces of airplanes all about him. Lower left is a closeup of the plane in the first photo, showing the fine detail of the work. In fact, it would be easy to convince anyone that it was a full sized plane. It is made of balsa wood, and, in spite of its size, weighs only three ounces. In the photo, lower right, Mr. Hitchman is letting a Northrup A17 attack plane take off from a cement runway. This plane is also built to the one half inch to one foot scale, and is powered with a rubber motor. This is of the type which the government recently bought in quantities. It takes two weeks to build the motor alone. This is a 24 cylinder type with the cylinders in a double row, and requires about 130 pieces of wood to complete, it is a dummy motor, but has every essential part. For a more common type of plane, it takes about a week to build. He has built about 100 models during his high school career, and sold all of them at prices ranging from 50c to one dollar or more.

He plans to attend the University of Nebraska and study aeronautics, engineering and designing. He has designed and flown a number of models of his own. Mr. Hitchman completed his four years of high school at Ord last spring, and in addition to his regular work, won honors in football, basketball, H. Y. band, orchestra, glee club, student council, Oracle staff, annual staff and was class president.

Minnie May Taylor Buried at Burwell

Minnie May Miller was born at Alexander, Ind., July 4, 1879, and departed this life at Omaha, Nebr., July 22, 1939, having attained the age of 60 years and 18 days. Her parents moved from Indiana to Blaine county in 1886. A few years later they moved to Burwell, Neb. There she grew to womanhood and spent the remainder of her life.

She was united in marriage to O. W. Taylor, April 12, 1898, and to this union two children were born, Margerite passing away in infancy. Mrs. Taylor was kind and considerate. She thought in terms of other people's happiness and worked to attain that goal. Surviving her besides her husband is her daughter, Mrs. Siva Asplund, one brother, Ora Miller of Burwell and a host of friends.

Funeral services were held at the family home in Burwell, Tuesday afternoon, July 25 at 2:30 in charge of Rev. Lyman Kern. Mrs. Wm. F. Grunkemeyer and Mrs. Arthur Langstrom sang three beautiful numbers. Fred Grunkemeyer, Ira Beat, John Beynon, Richard Banks, Frank Hallock and Ralph Walker acted as pall bearers, and burial was made in the Burwell cemetery.

After moving to Burwell Mrs. Taylor's father, R. L. Miller, went into the publishing game, and for several years was editor of the Burwell Eye. She thus had a number of years experience in the print shop as assistant to her father. At the time of her marriage Mr. Taylor was waterworks engineer at Ord, and they made their home in Ord for a time afterward.

Postmistress 40 Years In Ord Visiting Niece

Mrs. Dora Nixon, 80, is visiting her niece, Mrs. C. E. McGrew in Ord. Mrs. McGrew went to Grand Island to meet her Sunday and found her waiting in the bus depot, where her son and wife, who had brought her that far on their way to Portland, Ore., for a vacation trip, had left her. They remained in Grand Island that night and came to Ord Monday morning.

Mrs. Nixon was postmistress in Oak Hill, Ill., for more than 40 years, and her husband held the position for years before that time. She retired from the job July 1, and is now on her first vacation in many years. Although nearly 80 years of age she is very active, and still uses the teeth that nature gave her.

She is taking a great interest in the North Loup irrigation system, is taking notes on everything of interest, and plans to have a real story to tell her son when she returns to Illinois. A highly prized possession is her gold watch which was given her by her husband nearly fifty years ago for the privilege of being permitted to talk politics in the postoffice, which was in their home at the time Cleveland was running for his second term of office.

Presbyterian Church.

11 a. m., church service. Dr. Crandall, who has just returned from China, after serving nine years as a medical missionary, will speak. Dr. Crandall is visiting relatives in North Loup, which makes it possible to have her with us. She has had wide and varied experiences and speaks with interest and authority upon conditions in China as they are at present.

7 p. m., Young People's society at the church.

Friday, 7:30, choir practice at the church.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Bright White Spot.

Peace, comfort and security is what many of us seem to be longing for, but we read that because of our farm foreclosures 300,000 farm families drift homeless on our highways.

Nebraska has had its share of families who have left for greener pastures. Before they start and when they land in a new place, they use their thinking processes to determine what a future in the new location might be. Some of these families make good and some lose what they had when they left here.

Why do they not open their eyes and their thoughts to what we now have here, and what the future holds in the way of probable advantages? With river transportation established from Omaha, and the wealth of electric power in the state, and our good highways, the time is not so far distant when industry will begin to spring up and flourish, as will our irrigated fields.

While there are families who can see no future in their localities are moving away, it is reported that two brothers have migrated here from the Bronx of New York City and located in the sandhills probably not more than an hour's drive from Ord. We are told that these fellows are thrilled over their new home and can now plant their heels into the soil instead of the sidewalks of New York City and can say "This is mine." These fellows' minds are open to possibilities and are considering making some low cost buildings by using a liquid asphalt emulsion and combining it with soil to make a tough adobe brick.

It is the writer's intention to discuss inexpensive homes for the dispossessed, the "have nots" and also for the man who wants inexpensive buildings for tenants. If the early pioneers could go thru hardships and stick it out, because they could vision a better future, how much more reason have we to weather hardships, because the future now is even brighter than ever before. Those early pioneers lived in sod houses with roofs made of branches and dirt piled on top, or in homes improvised in other ways, from only the sources of material which nature alone provided. Why can we not use those same materials that the early settlers used, which are still available to us at little or no cost, but with increased opportunity for utilization in more attractive and more comfortable buildings than they knew? Why do we not make use of them for modern, comfortable and attractive interiors now? And if the cost is prohibitive at present postpone the exterior finish or beautification until a later date.

A small acreage not necessarily in town could produce much of one's living and would leave time free to help farmers that need help or to work at some other business.

In some places in western Nebraska sod houses are still being built, and by using poultry wire on the wall they plaster inexpensive. Some are also succeeded when one's "ship comes in" or the hardships quit coming. Commercially

It is work to be done here, the same as there is in strange lands if we set our thoughts to find it or create it. With people housed in their own debt free homes, central Nebraska could be the brightest, whitest part of the White Spot of the nation.

Will try to write a short detailed article on bitudobe and one on rammed earth with addresses where complete information can be secured for the request for it.

Edith Tully Fiala

—Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Baker left Sunday for Denver, where they will spend a two weeks vacation.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

August 6, 1929.

Eight Ord men paid fines and costs of ten dollars each for chasing to the fire and hindering the work of the fire department in so doing. Five others were also cited to appear, but they had not yet been found.

Two Ord girls, Miss Merna Rowhal and Miss Ruth Haas, came very nearly drowning while bathing at the Burwell park.

Frank S. Hoese, jr., broke his right leg above the knee when the big tractor he was trying to start backfired, the crank hitting the member.

The Peoples State bank of Wolbach went into the hands of the state banking department following heavy withdrawals during the past few months.

Chet Carkoski, athletic coach at Alma, was promoted to the position of athletic coach at Hartington, a position he still holds.

A. W. Jackson, editor of the Ord Journal from 1888 to 1895, had passed away in a hospital at Eugene, Ore., following a few days illness.

Dr. Robert A. Billings, doctor at Comstock for 12 years and at Ord for 21 years before that, died in his car at Valentine, Nebr., where he had gone on a fishing trip.

John Nelson, mail clerk on the Ord-Grand Island run, was taken ill with appendicitis, and underwent an operation in the latter town. His wife drove to Grand Island to be with him.

The old settlers picnic was held in Russell park, Aug. 6, and was very well attended. Miss Maude Goodenow and W. B. Weekes were re-elected as president and secretary.

A celebration was held for the 56th birthday of Bill Wigent in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Nancy Covert.

A large number of applications were in for the position of city manager, left vacant by the death of Bill Wolters.

Miss Nellie Moul and Jim Covert were married July 31 at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. J. A. Moorman.

August 7, 1919.

Over near Sargent some cattle got into a cane field and in a few minutes six head were dead. History is repeating itself this year, and cane and kindred crops are causing much sickness. However, the veterinarians are better informed as to what to do than they were then.

Rudolph Collison, who but recently returned from France, was married to Miss Nora Jorgensen by Rev. Alonzo Knight on Aug. 2, and they left at once for a wedding trip.

Little Ross Blessing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Blessing, was run over when he dodged in front of the George Newbuck car at the Millford corner. He was only slightly damaged.

A movement was being started for the formation of a civic service organization. A meeting was held over which President Huff of the city council presided, and a committee was named to work out the plans for the organization.

Jake Hoffman was taking his annual vacation from the Koupal and Barstow lumber company.

The Harold Proctor company, Dr. Loveland, The Premier Artists and the play, "It Pays to Advertise," were the concluding numbers of the Ord chautauqua program.

The people of Ord were face to face with two bond propositions which they were to vote on before another issue of the Quiz. One was for $15,000 for water improvement, and the other was for $40,000 for a main sewer from the river to the square. A mass meeting of the voters was called to give them an opportunity to ask any questions about the proposed plans.

The Ord and Hugo Bros., bands united to play a splendid concert, and afterward both bands played for the show. An accident to the light plant cut off the lights just as the show was closing, and there were no more lights for that evening.

Tom McClatchey had been appointed local manager for the Sinclair Oil company.

August 5, 1909.

Ord defeated the Arcadia team on their home grounds by a score of 8 to 4, with Cooke in the box for Ord and Burger doing the catching.

Lightning struck in two places in Ord, setting the W. H. Ramsey barn on fire and calling out the fire department, and knocking off plaster and demolishing a window casing in the Charles Palmatter house in east Ord.

Rufus Clason was mixed up in a runaway, and was badly bruised besides suffering a game knee.

F. E. Thorne had opened up a restaurant in the Gruber building on the north side of the square, which was probably the first Thorne Cafe in Ord.

Clark Lambert hitched a drag behind his car and planked the streets about the square, just to prove that a car is good for something besides riding around in. That was perhaps the ancestor of the modern trailer.

Miss Lottie Chotena returned from her vacation trip to Iowa and went back to work in the Clements Bros. law office.

The Ord Quiz had a nice new sign which was made by Tommy Fuson and Will Warwick.

Marion Strong and Lewin Drake left for the west where they were to register for the government land drawings.

Clyde D. Ramel and Miss Beulah S. Russell were married at 6 a. m., Aug. 5, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Russell, Rev. Kechley performing the ceremony.

A. Ward had bought the Garnick property in Ord and was expecting to move to town soon.

Ord had a number of big days all in one season, including a small circus early in the season, a July 4 celebration, Bryan in Ord, and last but not least, Ringling Bros. circus was coming in September.

William Nay came to Ord to take possession of the Stafford and Hewitt blacksmith shop which he had bought.

The Millford brothers, Jim and Bert, were the proud owners of a tandem bicycle. If that machine were available today it would doubtless bring more on the market than it did when it was new.

Miss Delphia Taylor had accepted the position in the Journal office made vacant by the resignation of Miss Breeze Parks.

Ming Coombs held an auction on the east side of the square on Saturday, selling dingbats to the highest bidder in quantities to suit the purchaser.

Two well known Ord men met with accidents. Frank McClellan dropped a trunk on his foot, and George Honeycutt stepped on a needle, breaking it off in his foot.

Emil Beuschausen, the hardware man, shot himself in the hand while fitting a cartridge to Dr. Bruik's revolver.

Herbert Severson was badly burned about the face when he set fire to some spilled powder while playing store.

Prof. Harold W. Foght came home to Ord for a few weeks rest before going to Blair, where he had signed a five year contract to teach in Dana college.

P. Calhoun found and killed a rattlesnake with nine rattles while putting up hay south of Ord.

Cards were out announcing the coming marriage of Phillip Homer Crow of Ord, and Miss Lenore Cone, of Bethany, Nebr.

Everett Lewin and Miss Maud Ratliff were married at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. James Milford, Monday, Aug. 7.

August 9, 1888.

George A. Percival had packed his goods preparatory to departing for Hartford, Conn., or Ogden, U. S. at one of which places he intended to enter business again. As one of the founders of the First National bank and its cashier he was a potent factor in bringing that institution to its present prominence among the banks of this section of Nebraska.—From Quiz.

John W. Klinker and Miss Ina Alberta Dixon were married at Ord the ceremony being performed by Rev. Geo. O. Ferguson at the home of C. M. Jacques. He was an experienced druggist and planned to take his bride to Ogden, U. S. where he had a good position awaiting him.

Oscar Babcock received official notification of his appointment as postmaster of North Loup. The postoffice was in location as soon as he took it over.

Mrs. F. W. Salties, a sister of Mrs. A. E. Charlton, had been elected as a teacher in the Arcadia high school.

Schaefer and Kokes had redecorated the room recently vacated by Dr. Perry, and had moved their drug store into it.

The Quiz said: "Ord has succeeded in settling up Southern California and now the tide seems to be turned toward Ogden." Perhaps ten times as many Ordites have moved to California in the past fifty years as had moved there before that time.

Some Italians with a couple of trained bears were in Ord collecting nickles from people who watched the antics of the comical fellows.

An entertainment called the "Deestrick Schule" was put on at the court house by the people of the Methodist church. It was plenty funny, and no doubt a few can still remember it.

Fred Bartlett has accepted a position as cashier of the new Bank of Commerce at Broken Bow.

August 8, 1881.

Prof. Bernard Lee, formerly of Ord, had opened a tailor shop in Fullerton.

The Loup City baseball team came to Ord unexpectedly and found the Ord team only partly available for a ball game. However, they played anyway, and Ord lost by a score of 21 to 18. One of the Ord players, and the only one on the team still alive was A. J. (Bud) Shirley.

H. H. Bailey brought in a sample of wheat with stalks five feet high and the heads large and well filled. It don't grow that high these years.

thrown toward picking men and women who will be against Roosevelt's renomination.

But this does not fit in with present White House plans at all. Whatever the President may decide to do next June, it is certain at present that the President wants to be able to be renominated.

Some think he wants this strength in order to choose the candidate to succeed him, and some think he wants four more years in the White House. But there is no doubt about the desire to have pro-Roosevelt and pro-third term delegates chosen.

Homer Cummings, All Smiles, Now Enters the Picture

Which is where former Attorney General Homer S. Cummings enters the picture. He is still very potent politically in Connecticut. He was its national committeeman for many years, was once chairman of the national committee, up to and including the San Francisco convention, and still is reputed to hold his own county in the hollow of his hand.

Cummings has been advocating a third term for Roosevelt every time anyone would give him a chance by asking a question. Sometimes, when no one brought up the subject, it so happens that no other prominent Democratic organization leader in Connecticut has been doing this—certainly no one who has proved his ability to get delegates.

So when Homer Cummings dropped in on his old chief a few days ago he found the President most cordial—and willing to listen.

Emerging, Cummings was all smiles. He declined to discuss what he had talked to the President about. But when asked a question about the San Francisco bay prison he said: "Alcatraz will be there when Murphy and I are both in our graves."

It Happened in Ord.

It may not be very nice to mention it while he is not here to defend himself, but ever since the weather man, Horace Travis, left on his vacation last week the weather has been threatening and we have even had a few showers of real rain. May his vacation be long and pleasant.

When the crew was putting on the top coat of asphalt at the southeast corner of the square a little fellow came along before the sand had been put on, walked through the asphalt and along the sidewalk west, leaving his barefoot prints on the cement as a lasting memorial.

Last week Clarence Blessing caught a big catfish, and Theron Beehrle, who was tagging along, wanted to carry it. Whenever he met anybody he would hold up the fish and exclaim, "Look at the big fish WE caught!" Clarence says he don't care how much credit Theron claims so long as he gets to eat the fish.

On three successive days last week F. C. Williams climbed aboard the eastbound bus in the morning apparently going somewhere, but his heart failed him each time and he got off again when the bus stopped for the sign on 14th street.

Monday noon Rex Jewett, Dr. Norris and George Allen senior and junior were either promoting a dog fight or trying to stop one right in front of the city hall. Finally Rex collared Stormy Weather and Doc got Peggy by the ear and the battle was over, for the time being. Those two dogs simply don't like each other, and they don't seem to care who knows it.

Miss Wilma Weverka went to Burwell Sunday morning where she expected to visit the rodeo and spend the week with her friend, Miss Lula Wiberg.

Nebraska's Big Rodeo Was Again A Great Success

30,000 People Bought Tickets for 3 Afternoon Shows; Best Program Ever.

Agreeable weather and the largest aggregation of cowboys ever to appear in Burwell, 118, combined to make Nebraska's Big Rodeo of last week an outstanding success. In the opinion of those who have watched the performances through the years it was the finest show in point of attendance, entertainment and interest that has been held since 1930.

There was a fine crowd on all three days, conservatively estimated at 30,000 people in all, according to a check of ticket sales. As usual, the largest crowd came on Thursday, when all the seats were filled both outside and inside the track, and the best performances were put on that day. The carnival and concession men were well pleased with the patronage they received.

The larger attendance is partly accounted for by the cool weather which prevailed throughout the entire show, and the fact that light showers fell on Wednesday and Thursday evenings to keep the dust reduced to a minimum. The races, under the direction of Bernard Wagner and Harry Hughes, were all run with a minimum of time wasted in starting, and all were hotly contested.

Music was furnished the first day by the combined St. Paul and Scotia bands, and on the second day by the band from O'Neill. On the final day the Ainsworth band, under the direction of Frank Fisher, furnished a fitting finish to three days of grand entertainment. The final number, the American Triumph march, was one of the best ever heard on the grounds.

Noted visitors were in attendance each day of the show, with Governor R. L. Cochran and a group of his Omaha and Lincoln friends present on Friday. When asked by Announcer Kern to speak, the governor responded very briefly, realizing that what the people wanted was to see the show, and his consideration in this respect was appreciated.

Two novelties were put on during the show. One, which took place on all three days, was a rider seated in a matador chair strapped to the back of a bucking broncho. The rider had no control over the horse whatever, and had to be caught by the pickup men before he could dismount. The last day the Miller brothers, Sidney and Buck, each rode one of the association's buffalo out of the chutes.

Two changes which met with approval were the selection of Lyman Kern as announcer and Rev. W. L. Goddell as information man. Mr. Kern had never tried the microphone before the show, but he did a remarkably fine job, always announcing every race and its result, and the performer and time made in all the rodeo events. He has a clear, well modulated voice, and was understood in all parts of the stands.

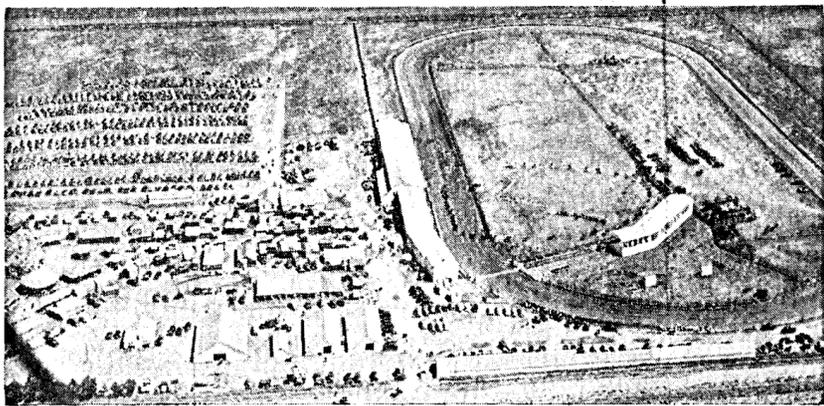

As in the past, E. W. Boettger and Will Fuss of Ord were on the job as mounted police, and did splendid work. Thursday evening some of the wild west horses stampeded, and Everett, who was trying to get a gate closed, was caught between the gate and gate post with the full weight of the stampeding stock against him, and had three ribs cracked. The management tried to keep him from working on Friday, but he insisted and worked all day.

The Miller horse show, in personal charge of Mr. Miller, assisted by Jack Hoey, editor of the Cowboys Journal of Houston, Tex., was better than ever with a number of new acts and improvements in the old ones. The Sioux Indians were present and put on their usual performance. A light shower near the close of the Friday performance, coming while the sun was shining, was an interesting diversion. The following is a list of the winners in the various events.

Finals:
Bronc Riding—1st, Jerry Ambler; 2nd, Vic Blackstone; 3rd, Paul Carney.
Calf Roping—1st, Jim Snively, 55.1 seconds; 2nd, Bud Spilberry, 61.0 seconds; 3rd, Toots Mansfield, 65.4 seconds.
Bull Dogging—1st, Gene Ross, 31.4 seconds; 2nd, Lonnie Allen, 40.5 seconds; 3rd, Norman Pierson, 42 seconds.
Winners in Bareback Riding—1st, Ken Roberts; 2nd, Kid Fletcher; 3rd, Jim Whitman.

Attend District League.
Pastor Clarence Jensen, president of the Nebraska district Luther league, accompanied by Mrs. Jensen, Peter Peterson, Joy Loft, and Thora Rasmussen of Ord and Emma Petersen and Myrtle Jensen of Dannevirke, returned home on Monday evening from Blair, where the Nebraska district Luther league convention was held. The convention theme was "Christ in My Life." Over one hundred young people were in attendance, and a very fine convention is reported.

Airplane View Taken Thursday at Nebraska's Big Rodeo

The above photo, taken by Lewis Moore, official rodeo photographer, is without doubt one of the finest ever taken of the Burwell rodeo. It was taken at 1 p. m., Thursday, looking east, and shows the half mile track at the right, with the parade coming in off the track and forming in the arena. To the left, above, are the double rows of parked cars, with the concessions and part of the carnival below them, and the exhibit buildings near the bottom of the picture. Not many people are in evidence, as the crowd was mostly in the stands. Some idea of size can be gained when it is known that the grandstands in the center of the picture are 600 feet long.

Nebr. Press Ass'n. to Publish "Who's Who in Nebraska"

List of Prominent Citizens of Whole State Chosen; Work Going on Here Now.

Rex Shaner, a representative of the Nebraska Press association, is in Valley county this week compiling data and securing the services of local historians to collect a compendium of the history of outstanding individuals of this county. Materials gathered will be used in a state-wide Nebraska publication, "Who's Who in Nebraska."

This compilation will be issued in book form, with data of the whole state in one compact volume. It will be compiled alphabetically by counties. Names and the listings from each county will be preceded by the history of that county.

The press association, composed of daily and weekly newspapers of Nebraska, has offices in Lincoln. Various groups throughout the state requested it to undertake this tremendous task of compiling a complete history of Nebraska and its leading citizens and only recently the association agreed to compile the data and publish the book. The activity commemorates the 90th anniversary of the press association.

A selected list of Valley county people has been chosen to go into the edition. They have been selected because of their active civic life, or because they have attained unusual recognition in their respective fields. The volume will contain no commercial advertising. The Quiz, as a member of the Nebraska Press association, endorses this project and hopes it will receive the full cooperation from the public in order that Valley county's section of the book may be as complete and authentic as possible.

Vojta Benes to Speak in Ord August 2nd

Vojta Benes, brother of Eduard Benes, ex-president of Czechoslovakia who was deposed when Hitler seized that republic, is to speak in Ord at 8:00 p. m., Tuesday, August 22, announces the local Czech organization this week. Mr. Benes will speak in the Czech language, his lecture is free and everybody is invited to attend.

Snake Pre-empts Spot on Davenport, Spoils Arcadia Woman's Nap

Arcadia — (Special)—Mrs. Warren Pickett received the surprise and shock of her life a few days ago when, going into her parlor to take a midday nap on the davenport, she found her favorite spot pre-empted by a two-foot snake. Mrs. Pickett killed the snake, then looked carefully about the room for a possible second reptile. No other snake was there, but she was entirely out of the notion of sleeping that afternoon.

Arcadia Boosters Will Visit Ord August 28th

The Arcadia band and a group of business men from that village will visit Ord around the noon hour on Monday, August 28, as boosters for the Jubilee celebration being held at Arcadia early in September. They will have dinner here and the band will play on the streets. Other towns to be visited by the Arcadia boosters will include Comstock, Taylor, Sargent, Burwell, Elyria, North Loup, Scotia, Ashton and Loup City.

Ord School Girls Want Work in Homes of Ord

Quite a number of girls registering for studies in Ord high school would like to work for their board and room in Ord homes, according to C. C. Thompson, superintendent of schools. A few boys have expressed desire to work for their board and room also, he says.

A list of all students desiring work is being compiled and anybody who wishes to take a student for the school year should get in touch with Superintendent Thompson.

Rich Sanitarium To Be Continued by E. L. Rich

The Dr. Rich sanitarium for rectal diseases at Grand Island will be continued under the management of Dr. Edward L. Rich and sister, Margaret Price, says an announcement made this week. The sanitarium was founded by Dr. M. L. Rich, who died recently. Dr. E. L. Rich was associated with his father for the past six years.

Mrs. Holloway Dies At Home of Daughter

Mrs. Sarah Holloway passed away Aug. 10, 1939, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clifford Goff, north of Ord. Born Sarah Belle Ryan, daughter of James and Mary Ryan, at Good Intent, O., May 6, 1856, she was 83 years, 3 months and four days of age at the time of her death.

Her mother died, leaving her an orphan at the age of seven. As there was a large family, she was thrown in homes here and there until she was old enough to command wages. Early in life she joined the Dunkard church, but later in life she made the Methodist church her church home.

On Feb. 27, 1878, she was married to J. Dayton Holloway. She immediately left for the west, coming first to Syracuse, Neb., where they lived for six years. In 1884 the family came to Valley county, living on a homestead southwest of Ord.

In 1909 they moved to Ord, where she and her husband and daughter resided until the death of Mr. Holloway in 1929. She continued to live here until the marriage of her daughter in 1939, since which time she has made her home with them. Due to a fall she had been confined to her bed since 1937.

She was preceded in death by her son William, a stepson, Oliver, and her husband. She leaves to mourn her passing her sons, Edward of Ord, Ernest of Burwell, Louis of Rockville, daughter, Mrs. Ruth Goff of Ord, and a stepson, Wallace of Canby, Ore.

Besides her children she is survived by four granddaughters, eight grandsons, and seven great-grandchildren. There are also a number of nieces and nephews in the east. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon from Prazer Chapel, with Rev. G. C. Roberson in charge, and burial was made in the Ord cemetery. Mrs. Mark Tolen, Mrs. E. O. Carlson, J. R. Stoltz and Robert Noll sang, with Mrs. Noll at the piano. The pallbearers were: Clarence White, Everett Johns, Arthur Craig, Roy Swanson, Theo. Nelson, Jr., and Glen Watts.

Wednesday Concert Was One of Special Interest

The concert by the Ord band under the direction of Dean S. Duncan was given as usual Wednesday evening, and was a pronounced success. The crowd was not as large as usual, due to the fact that it was the first program night at the Burwell rodeo, and many were in attendance there. However, a very satisfactory crowd was present, most of them remaining in their cars because of the coolness of the weather.

Dick Koupal was baritone horn soloist with band accompaniment in the selection, "From the Shores of the Mighty Pacific." Two popular songs were played by the band, "Little Sir Echo," and "Without a Song," with Allen Zikmund as soloist. The concert tonight is to consist entirely of request selections. The Burwell municipal band is to be in Ord to give the concert next Wednesday.

Prairie Fire Burns Hay Land Sunday Eve

A prairie fire that started in a chokecherry patch on the Mrs. Hannah Jones hay land southwest of Ord Sunday evening destroyed 100 acres of grass before it was halted. About 100 friends and neighbors gathered, including a number of people from Ord and Arcadia, and helped fight the fire. For a time buildings on the Walter Jones and Albert K. Jones farms were threatened.

Committed to Ingleside.
William Johnson, 36, of the Arcadia neighborhood, was adjudged insane at a hearing last week, and was taken to Ingleside for treatment Friday. F. J. Cohen going there with him. A couple of weeks ago Randall Mensing was committed to Ingleside from Valley county.

Lower Admission Charge to Step Up Fair Attendance

Many Favorable Comments Being Heard; Chamber to Make Drive for Funds.

1-DAY CHANGE IN FAIR DATES IS ANNOUNCED.

That a 1-day change in dates for the 1939 Valley county fair has been found necessary was announced at noon today by Secretary Kokes, and the new dates have been set as Sept. 11, 12, 13 and 14. Entry day will be on Sept. 11, Monday, and programs will be given on the other days.

It was necessary to advance the starting date a day, Kokes says, because the Lincoln mid-gate auto race track opens on Sept. 15 and drivers signed to race here also were signed to race at Lincoln. They race in Sioux City, Sunday night, in Ord Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday night, and in Lincoln Friday, thus forming a circuit that will attract many more drivers than a single meet would attract.

Many favorable comments are being heard over the fact that admission charges to the 1939 Valley county fair, both for the gate and grandstand, are lower than ever before, say fair officials this week. Farmers seem to feel that this was a wise move and will enable many to attend the fair who would not otherwise feel they could do so.

The gate charge will be 25c and this fee admits both afternoon and evening. Grandstand charges for the evening show will be 25c, 35c and 50c.

In today's Quiz the premium list is published on pages 4, 9 and 10, showing that approximately $1,600 will be paid on agricultural, livestock, fine arts, floral, school and 4-H exhibits. Copies of the list may be secured from the secretary, E. L. Kokes, Saturday of this week or thereafter.

Negotiations with a carnival company are under way and probably a good sized carnival will be on the grounds. In any event, there will be rides for the children.

At present it is planned to present an evening program only, mid-gate auto races to be featured under the floodlights. The program will be snappy, starting about 7:30 and finishing by 9:30. Some of the best drivers in the country will be here to compete.

Tuesday evening directors of the Ord Chamber of Commerce met to work out a plan for raising funds to help the fair "over the hump" this year. It was decided to mail out letters explaining the situation to all non-stockholders among Ord business and professional men, the letters to be accompanied by pledge cards. People receiving the letters may make up their own minds as to what they prefer to do—buy a fractional share of stock at $25 or $50, a full share at $100, or simply make a cash donation to help the fair. Later a committee will call on these firms and pick up their pledges.

To keep the fair going it is necessary to raise a few hundred dollars, fair officials say, and a general meeting of the Chamber held recently instructed President Kordova to work out a plan for raising the money. Realizing that many merchants are in dire financial shape and will not be able to purchase stock, directors of the Chamber worked out this plan by which each non-stockholder may do just what he thinks he can afford, without any hint of coercion. Donations from merchants who already own stock but want to help keep the fair going will also be welcomed.

Board Asks No Open Season on Pheasants

At their meeting last week the Valley county supervisors adopted a resolution asking that the state declare no open season on pheasants this fall. The reasons assigned were that because of adverse weather and crop conditions the birds are not as numerous this fall as usual, and the pheasants are believed to be a real benefit to the farmers because of the numbers of grasshoppers they eat.

George W. McNulty Suffers Heart Attack

While in Burwell attending the rodeo Wednesday, George W. McNulty of Scotia suffered a heart attack. He was taken at once to the Goodenow home in Burwell, where he rallied rapidly. His daughter, Mrs. O. M. Rasmussen of Keeline, Wyo., was sent for and is taking care of him. Saturday evening he had a second attack, and has been hovering between life and death since that time, and his death is expected at any time. Mrs. John L. Ward went to Burwell on Tuesday morning to assist in taking care of him.

—Miss Betty Meyer has been visiting at the C. C. Hawthorne home in Arcadia for the past three weeks and expects to remain there for another week.

Lee Will Appeal Misko Election to the Supreme Court

Alvin B. Lee, defeated candidate for Valley county attorney, last week filed on John P. Misko, the successful candidate, notice of his intention to appeal the case to the Nebraska Supreme court.

After the November, 1938 election, Mr. Lee was declared elected by the counting board but Mr. Misko's contest of the election was sustained by the Valley county court and later by the district court. Judge Lightner presiding.

Lee is a democrat and held the county attorneyship one term, from 1934 to 1938. Misko is a republican.

North Loup Man Falls, Breaks Leg and Hip

North Loup—(Special)—While cutting dead limbs from some trees near the Gus Eisle home last Wednesday, Sherm Fuller fell, breaking one leg and one hip. James Coleman, who happened by, took him to his home and Dr. W. J. Hemphill was called. Mr. Fuller was taken to an Ord hospital where the breaks were found to be so serious that it was deemed best to take the injured man to University hospital in Omaha. Dr. Hemphill took him there later in the day.

125 Men Employed As Burwell Potato Digging Under Way

28 Carloads Already Shipped, Estimate 150 Carloads to Be Dug Before End.

Burwell—(Special)—With 125 men employed, the potato industry here has been very busy for the past week and the big crop is rapidly being harvested. This is the first season that raising of irrigated potatoes has been done on a large scale here.

Twenty-eight carloads of pre-cooled No. 1 grade potatoes have been shipped, growers of the first three carloads being paid $1.08 to $1.16 per hundredweight. Returns on the sale of other carloads have not been received. It is thought there will be 150 carloads or more of potatoes dug here this year.

Two graders and washers are in use, requiring 22 men to operate them. Twelve men are employed to follow the six diggers that are in the fields. Six trucks with four men on each are hauling the spuds to town. Several men work on the pre-coolers and other trucks are kept busy hauling potatoes from the uptown plant in the H. A. Phillips building to the freight cars. The Packler and Mallick plant is located in the old mill, and potatoes from this plant are loaded directly into freight cars.

The precooling process takes about 2½ hours per car. W. M. Hendrix, of Shelton, is operating the potato grader and washer in the Phillips plant, this machine having averaged 2½ to 3 carloads a day since August 7.

If the price holds up, potatoes will prove a profitable crop in this territory and probably more acreage will be planted to them next season.

Crew Start Second Coat on Paving Repair Project

Last week the force of men who have been giving the paving a top dressing completed the first coat around the square and for one block out in each direction, and Monday they started putting on the second coat. This does not extend all the way to the gutter, but across the center section where the greatest wear has been.

As soon as this second coat is completed the crew will work their way north on 15th and 16th streets to and around the depots. It will also be necessary to raise the crossings at the intersection with the railway tracks, and this will be done before the coating is put on. Also, any place in the paving where one coat is considered insufficient will receive a second coat.

Sues For Large Sum in Death of Husband

Mrs. Mary Petersen, special administratrix, through her attorneys, Davis and Vogeltanz, has started suit in district court for the recovery of $30,451 for alleged damages resulting from the recent death of her husband, Fred Petersen, in a truck accident July 19, 1939. Defendants named are Elmer W. Nickolaus, owner of a fleet of trucks, and Charles Riskowski and Roy George, truck drivers.

Amounts specifically stated are $25,000 for his death, $11 for doctor's bill, $440 for funeral expenses, and $5,000 for the pain and suffering the deceased underwent before his death. The defendants have until Sept. 11 to answer the charges as set forth.

Lineman's Back Is Broken in Falling From 35 Foot Pole

Was Carried 1½ Miles on a Stretcher to Ambulance, Now in Hospital.

Guy Vincent, lineman for the Western Public Service company and former Ord man, suffered a broken back in a fall from a 35 foot pole on the Ed Kasper place northeast of Ord Thursday at 4:30 p. m. The accident occurred when the crew were working on the line which runs through the Kasper pasture to the east of the house.

Mr. Vincent was at the top of the 35 foot pole which stood on top of a knoll and was trying to push the wire up over the cross arm. Because of the tension of the wire he had to exert all his strength, and in so doing broke his safety belt, which has fastened around the pole. This left him holding only to the wire, which offered no support.

Drs. C. J. Miller and J. N. Round were called and Dr. Round drove at once to the Kasper place. The accident occurred in one of the most inaccessible places in this part of the state, and the doctor had to walk about a mile and a half to get to the injured man, and about one and one-half hours had elapsed before he arrived. First aid was administered and this had to take effect before he could be moved.

The doctor and members of the line crew constructed a stretcher from jackets and a couple of tampers, and on this he was carried all the way back to the Kasper home. Meanwhile the Pearson & Anderson ambulance had been summoned, and in this he was brought to the Ord Hospital, where examination disclosed that the lower part of his back and his left foot were broken and he was suffering from shock.

At present he is showing improvement, but will have to remain in the hospital an indefinite period. However, he will undoubtedly make a very satisfactory recovery, as the back injury was so low that the spinal cord is not injured. Mr. Vincent is about 45 years of age, and is married.

Arcadia, Ord Scouts at 'Camporee' at Burwell

With State Supervisor Elliott, of Lincoln, present, Boy Scouts of Ord and Arcadia enjoyed their annual "camporee" Sunday afternoon and night on the river near Burwell. There were 28 present, of whom 11 came from Arcadia and 17 from Ord. The Ord Scouts were accompanied by Wilmer Anderson and George Allen, sr., and the Arcadia Scouts by Paul Easterbrook and Harold Weddel.

Boys in attendance from Ord were Billy Pafeta, Warren Allen, Cornelius Biemond, Raymond Biemond, Gerald Stoddard, Orville Stoddard, Gould Flagg, Junior Wilson, Kirk Lewis, Donnie Haught, Bob Gruber, Paul Covert, Keith Kovanova, Harry McBeth, Bobby McBeth, Capron Coe.

Work in bedmaking, packing, building fires, making and breaking camp and other branches of scoutcraft was done, and the boys also enjoyed swimming and boating. Supervisor Elliott expressed himself as being greatly pleased with facilities afforded by the Burwell lake and said possibly a week's camp for Scouts may be held there next summer, if a few minor changes are made.

Land Bank Farms Sold At Auction in Ericson

Monday, as advertised, five properties comprising 3,000 acres of land in Garfield and Wheeler counties, was sold at auction in Ericson by the Lincoln Joint Stock Land bank. J. J. Brow, representative of the company, reports that all the land was sold, at prices ranging from one dollar per acre up to $5.00.

Most of the land consisted of sandhill land which run largely to pasture and hills. All sales are subject to confirmation by the board of directors, and it is doubtful if the lower priced sales will receive their approval, but Mr. Brow believes that the property selling at the higher price brought a fair price.

John S. Hoff Will Have Large Irrigation Well

John S. Hoff of Vinton left on the bus Sunday for Oklahoma, where he once lived for a number of years, partly to visit his old friends there and also to see about getting a 16-inch metal casing for an irrigation well he is putting down on his farm. The well is already dug and a good flow of water was struck at 170 feet. The well was continued to a depth of 203 feet, and the water rose to within 70 feet of the top of the well, a rather unusual condition.

—Dick Pedersen, of Burwell, underwent emergency surgical treatment at the Ord hospital last Wednesday night, Drs. C. J. Miller and E. J. Smith being the surgeons.

NEBRASKA STATE FAIR

The state of Nebraska is by its very nature agricultural. It is far from the chief lanes of world commerce to be commercial, it has no mining industries, and very little virgin timber. It is too far from the sources of supply of raw products and too far from the leading markets to take a very prominent place in manufactures except those allied with the agricultural and stock raising industries.

This brief survey should convince one of the importance of the Nebraska State Fair in the one purely agricultural state of the nation. Our products are the crops of the fields, the orchards and the gardens. Our chief allied industry is the raising of stock, with its kindred businesses, the making of butter and cheese and the packing and curing of meat. Add to this the milling of flour, and the big industries of Nebraska have been named.

The State Fair was organized only a short time after the state was admitted to the union, and was provided for by the constitution of 1875. It was a branch of the state department of agriculture and was organized to encourage and promote agriculture, horticulture, live stock, dairying, cheese making, poultry, bee keeping and other allied industries.

Since it is one of our oldest and most necessary institutions, the state fair deserves our support, and must be supported if it is to continue. As it was organized for the sole and only purpose of boosting the only industries in the state worthy of the name, its preservation is vital to the agricultural interests of Nebraska. Agriculture can hope to prosper only as the interest in the state fair increases.

In the early days, when the state fair and county fairs as well were run for the purpose of exhibiting the best of the state or community had in the line of crops or stock, large crowds attended for the sole purpose of visiting the exhibits. They came, admired, and went home determined to improve the products of their own farms. It was that interest that has made Nebraska the great agricultural state it is today.

But as time went on other interests began to claim the interest of visitors, who looked upon exhibits as too tame and wanted something more exciting. Today fairs vie with each other in producing programs that will out-thrill all competition. Too many people go to the fair, not for what good it may do them, but for the excitement it will mean to them for a few hours. An exhibit of power machinery will claim more admirers than the finest of blooded stock.

What we Nebraskans need is some kind of a get back to the soil movement. We should thrill with pride as we used to do at a parade of blooded animals, proud to acknowledge that we live in a state where such fine live stock is produced. We should do everything we can to get this stock back to the farms where it rightfully belongs and from which drought conditions of the past ten years have been stealing it, little by little, until most of it is gone.

What is wrong with Nebraska today is that we have too many men who can drive a truck or tractor, and too few who can drive a team of horses. We have too many women who can drive a car, but who cannot milk a cow; who can flourish a can opener with grace and agility, but who are forgetting how to cook. It is a dangerous condition of affairs. Our state fair is a barometer, and when the interest increases it shows that our people are showing increased interest in agriculture.

Not so many years ago the Nebraska State Fair was an institution Valley county people were proud to attend. In those days ten people attended where one attends today. Those who went brought back with them valuable ideas which they put into practice on their farms. As a class we of the farms are losing our contact with the state fair, and we and the fair are the losers. Let us attend this year for the mutual benefit of ourselves and the fair.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

Vignettes from China
Life in China
More About War

Vignettes From China.
From the Talks of Dr. Grace Crandall.

Dr. Crandall thinks the Chinese will eventually win the war against the invasion of Japan. At the present time there is about as much war as ever only it is carried on at night by the guerrilla method. The Japs have captured a narrow strip along the railroads and main thoroughfares. The Chinese mingle with the soldiers and at the garrisons in the day time, then at night run surprise attacks, fighting and running away, living to fight another day (night). The Chinese are better fighters at hand to hand fighting than the Japs. A good bit of fighting is done with hand grenades.

The Chinese soldiers have carried their iron workers and small furnaces along with them into the hills. They raid a railroad, or something of the Japs, carrying home rails or iron, and with this make big knives, and even guns. Ten miles away from the agrarians, the Japs have no control and the cost is something like three million gold dollars a day. Their reward or booty as yet has been practically nothing.

Mentioning the fact that there was an item in the paper a few days ago that many prominent people think war between U. S. and Japan is inevitable, Dr. Crandall laughed. "There is no danger, Japan has her hands full as it is. She will go just as far as it is safe for her to go to war with U. S."

Asked about Russia fighting Japan, Dr. Crandall said, that reports of the battles are greatly exaggerated. The Russians have a little hill overlooking a Japanese railroad where they (the Russians) can take a pop at the trains as they go by. There has been fighting over this hill but the Japs have not taken it from Russia yet. Hundreds of airplanes have been reported dropped by both Russia and Japan, but if the facts were known, only a few were actually shot down.

Life in China
A high wage in China is $1.00 a day. Average wage is about twenty cents. Frequently a family will live on the twenty cents. The main diet is rice and it is now twenty cents a pound. Butter is $2.60 a pound.

The land around Shanghai is very fertile and is trucked mostly. All work is done by hand, no tractors or horses. Shanghai is one of the largest cities in the world. It is little different than other world cities except that it is more crowded.

Since Japan has captured the city and land there is practically no law and order. Bandit gangs have sprung up everywhere. They have racketeers that go to the farmers saying if he does not give them ten percent they will destroy his crops. So the farmer pays the gang for protection.

Then when he sells, they demand to be the buyers and they buy at ridiculously low prices. The Japs do nothing about all this as long as the Japs themselves are not molested.

Compared with other countries there is little drinking of liquor in China and little damage done on that score. Chinese, when they drink, drink mostly at night, then retire. They are also a good natured people, and in their cups, do not turn to fighting. Chinese use little tobacco.

The Chinese like games and are apt to spend much of their time gambling. Opium smoking is probably their greatest vice. Many men smoke a few times a day to make their spirits better, to make them forget their troubles. Many prominent business men smoke once or twice a day. Many go very much to the extreme with it. Before the war, there was a strong effort to curb the opium smoking. Japan, since the war, has tried to encourage it.

Telling Japs from Chinamen.
Asked if she could always tell a Jap from a Chinaman, Dr. Crandall smiled and said, "Usually but not always." They, in their looks, can be quite similar. The Japs established a college in China before the war to educate some of their boys so they could mingle with the Chinese as spies. These boys, so she was told, could not be told apart.

However there was one way they could be distinguished and that was by taking off the shoes. Japs wear a sandal with a strap between the first two toes, and the Chinese do not. This strap forms a callous that cannot be taken off.

More About The War.
Dr. Crandall has had her hospital destroyed twice. Once several years ago by some Chinese but it was repaired again. This time the Japs dropped a bomb and blew it all apart.

Since this last war began Dr. Crandall has been doing refugee work, working in connection with another hospital. In some cases she has had as many as 160 patients a day and has had to turn 40 away. All of these got some attention although some of the ailments were skin diseases of minor nature. The nurse would group the patients some, and at times the Doctor would consult six or a dozen at a time.

One of the worst cases she had was that of a man the Japs caught and thought was a guerrilla. He insisted he was not and they insisted he was and tried to make him tell where the arms were hidden. He would not tell, claiming he did not know. They tied up his arms, burning him in the arm pits trying to make him tell. They burned him badly before they turned him loose. Then Dr. Crandall had the job of saving his life. He recovered remarkably well, she said, and better than she hoped. She said it would surprise one to know what she used on the burns, but it was simply cod liver oil and it seemed to do the trick.

Then Dr. Crandall had the job of saving his life. He recovered remarkably well, she said, and better than she hoped. She said it would surprise one to know what she used on the burns, but it was simply cod liver oil and it seemed to do the trick.

She tells of the bombing of the railroad station at Shanghai. She was standing in the door of her house at the time watching the maneuvering of a dozen airplanes roaring overhead. All at once two of them went together, swooping downward and then she heard the explosion. Other airplanes followed dropping their death pills. After several minutes of this the ambulances started tearing past and she heard the depot had been blown up. Hundreds of innocent people were killed and injured.

The reason for this bombing, the Japs said, was that they thought troops were at the station at the time but they had left. The station was packed with women and children waiting for a train to take them to the country away from the war zone.

Dr. Crandall's adopted Chinese daughter was working at the city hospital where many of these people were taken. Injured were in the halls and everywhere waiting their turn and many died because they could not get attention.

Money in This Sock.
One old lady had her leg blown off. It was necessary to amputate the stub. She did not seem to worry a great deal over the loss of the leg, but she said she had on a stocking and under it was thirty dollars. She fretted a great deal over the loss of the thirty dollars.

Even after she awoke from the anaesthetic she began worrying about the thirty dollars. After a while one of the helpers was looking over the limbs and pieces picked up and found a leg with a stocking. He rolled down the stocking and there, sure enough, was the thirty dollars. It was returned to the old lady and she was much happier.

The Finis.
Dr. Crandall feels sure China will eventually win the war. Japan finances are not the best and they as yet have only conquered a fraction of the Chinese territory. When the war is over, she feels China will be one of the leading nations. This war is teaching them they must unite under one head, and they are fast becoming conscious that the Christian religion is the best. The people are becoming educated to the fact that they have an enemy at their door they must be prepared to hold off. Japan is fast becoming conscious too of the fact that they have bitten off all or more than they can chew.

Something Different

Foster May posed a fascinating question a few days ago when he asked his stogees, "What is your hidden dream? What have you always longed to do?" He made me stop and consider... what stories had made me stop and wish I could go to the exploring myself?

Probably the first, and still dear to me were the stories of the brave Incas who were so badly treated by the Spaniards... the South American Indians, you know? To a lesser degree Aztec and Mayan tales intrigue also.

And what far places would I like to see? Well, I want to see Alaska and the coast of western Canada, all that northern wonderland. Then, if I had to move out of the United States do you know that I would want to move to New Zealand? Or to Alaska? Where would you want to move, if you were forced to go?

Once upon a time I longed to see Russia, the court and splendor of the city that was Petrograd. I wanted to see Vienna, Rome, Paris, London, and some of the country districts of northern France, of Italy, of England. But the map has changed so sadly that I no longer have much taste for Europe. I certainly do not have any interest in the Soviets. The old gay Vienna of the story is gone, I have no desire to go to see the Jews persecuted and the people regimented down into the seven year old boys who drill and march.

But what are your hidden dreams, have you ever paused to think? Or have you been too busy peeling potatoes, wiping the baby's nose or whatever your work may be to do any dreaming?

I think Burwell is to be complimented on the way her citizens cooperate to put over that rodeo. Year after year they dig like good fellows, using their time and money and energy to develop the rodeo, to make Burwell famous because of it, to make the rodeo one of the best in the land.

Genuine range country surrounding Burwell on a couple of sides adds just the proper fillip to the rodeo. The setting seems perfect. The fact that all Garfield county turns out to see the rodeo year after year, that the rodeo pleases the cowmen and the people who know real bucking and real steer-rassling when they see it, I think proves the rodeo a success. When cattlemen and cowboys think a rodeo is worthwhile it must be a real western rodeo.

They do tell me that a person who likes to watch bronco-riding and other such stunts can see a dandy rodeo free of charge any Sunday afternoon by perching on the top rail of a corral fence in a typical cow town's stock yards. I was raised in a cow town myself and have never lost interest in good rodeo-riding.

I hear Mari Sandoz' next book, her third since she won fame, will reveal Lincoln and its people, dissect them and discuss them. I also hear that Miss Sandoz realizes she has lost all chance for personal popularity in western Nebraska and that her forthcoming book will have the same result in eastern Nebraska. Therefore she plans to finish the new book and then move out of the state.

Some brilliant young men can be claimed by Ord these days. Floyd Beranek, Ord born and bred, is a pharmaceutical genius who made excellent marks in school. He topped his class with no struggle at all... and then had to wait a year to be examined for his license because he was too young! Now he is going back to the University of Nebraska to study for more honors, but with an assistant's job to keep him busy and help support him.

Arthur Auble went from Ord high school with honors to finish at Hastings with honors and now will go to Lincoln as an assistant instructor while he studies for further degrees.

Arthur is an Ord boy, his parents and grandparents have been Ord citizens of repute, so Arthur is carrying on the family tradition.

Young Fred Cahill Ord cannot claim quite so wholeheartedly, since he was fairly tall before his parents moved to Ord. His scholastic record has been brilliant, and he went from university in this state to Yale, where he is also making great headway. He has a fine mind and is bound to be heard from in his chosen field, that of political science some of these days. His command of English and his manner of speaking are a joy to hear.

Our "PRESIDENT" The Best Wearing Work Shoe in America

for the Money — Believe it or Not!

Into its construction has gone the leather, the shoe making, and the styling which the combined experience of men who wear work shoes demanded. In the first place it is as comfortable on the foot as a house slipper. The uppers, while tremendously strong and durable, are very soft and are treated against baryard acids. The plain soft toe is roomy but not clumsy. The sole, on oak tan bend, is the best wearing leather in a hide. It is Goodyear welted, counters are of sole leather, the insole is of leather. Believe it or not—America's Best.

Evangelical Pastor Is Great Gardener

Here is seen J. A. Adams, pastor of the Evangelical church of Mira Valley, at work in the vegetable garden at his home in North Loup. Rev. Mr. Adams takes great pride in his garden and especially in his tomatoes, which he has trellised. Mrs. Adams helps her husband with his gardening by keeping accurate records of dates of planting, when first vegetables are picked, and when each season ends. She also does the canning. —Photo by W. Three Softball Teams Tie For First Place

With the championship of Ord within their grasp, the Douthits slipped last night and lost an 11 to 9 decision to the Livestocks. In the second game the KCs could not muster enough players, and forfeited to the Chanticleers, thus leaving the Douthits, Livestocks and Chanticleers in a three way tie for first, with four won and two lost for each, and the KC out of the picture with six losses and no wins.

Nimble Finger News. The Riverside Nimble Finger club spent Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alfred Christensen. The afternoon was spent preparing for their demonstrations. Geraldine Gowen and Darlene Brown gave their demonstration on accessories. Connie and Olive Brown also gave their demonstration on posture. The assistant leader, Mrs. George Gowen, met with the club for this meeting. Roll call indicated that all members were present. The Riverside club attended the Demonstration Day at Greeley Friday. The leader, Mrs. Christensen, was unable to attend, so the assistant leader, Mrs. Gowen, went with the club. The girls' demonstrations were given. They

Picnic For The Treferns at Bussell Park Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Trefren and two children of Shoshone, Ida., and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Trefren of Saint Maries, Ida., and Miss Doris Trefren of Pasien, China, arrived in Ord Wednesday evening after visiting relatives in Oklahoma and George Trefren in Omaha. Mrs. Henry Trefren taught school at Davis Creek in 1894, and Henry Trefren lived in the Robert Johnson home for seven years, so they were well remembered by the Davis Creek people.

Mrs. Barnhart First of 5 Generations

Just back from the coast where they went by auto are Mrs. Minnie A. Conner, Mrs. Laura L. Freeman, Mrs. Florence R. Reick, and son Laurel Leo, who made the trip to Santa Cruz, Calif., to visit the great grandmother, Mrs. Laura Barnhart. While there the above 5 generation picture was taken. Left to right, standing are Mrs. Conner, 65, Mrs. Freeman, 45, Mrs. Reick, 25. Mrs. Barnhart, 83, is holding Laurel Leo, born April 29, 1939.

also enjoyed a picnic on Tuesday, Aug. 15.—Olive Marie Brown, reporter.

Jolly Sewing Circle. The Jolly Sewing circle club held its eighth meeting at the home of Misses Barbara and Marilyn Parks on Aug. 9. Roll call was taken and 14 members were present. Pot holders were judged but, as each member put down the ones they would give first, second and third place to, no definite ones were chosen.

The Ord team was entered as a Legion junior team, and their share of the receipts was $3, which was turned into the Legion junior baseball fund. Mr. Russell did a very fine job as manager, and special credit should be given John Haskell, Cecil Hansen, Frank Piskorski and Jim Gilbert, all of whom helped by taking players to the games.

Postoffice Excavation Finished This Week. Charles E. Goodhand has a crew of men with a tractor and dump wagons busy digging the excavation for Ord's new postoffice, and expects to have that part of the work completed this week.

Ord Business Women Entertained at Petska's. The Ord Business and Professional Women's club enjoyed a 6:30 dinner at the home of Mrs. Jerry Petska, Tuesday evening.

Joe Jablonskis Have Baby Alligator. The Joe J. Jablonski family north of Elyria have a most unusual pet, as shown in the above photo. It is an alligator named Oscar which was sent to them by their daughter, Genevieve, who is attending a nurses' training school at Ferriday, La. He is about six months old, and is 20 inches long, and was sent in a cheese box, wrapped in moss. He eats about the same diet as a turtle, and is blessed with a good appetite.

Ord Legion Juniors Look Well at St. Paul. Last week Don Lynch, former Legion junior player from St. Paul, put on a most interesting baseball tournament, in which eight towns had competing teams.

Charles E. Goodhand has a crew of men with a tractor and dump wagons busy digging the excavation for Ord's new postoffice, and expects to have that part of the work completed this week. It requires the removal of from 1,500 to 2,000 cubic yards of dirt, which is no small job in itself. The dirt is very dry, but is plowed before it is shoveled, which makes the work much easier.

The Ord Business and Professional Women's club enjoyed a 6:30 dinner at the home of Mrs. Jerry Petska, Tuesday evening. The serving committee was composed of Mrs. Helen Osenowski, Misses Helen Russell, Delores Redfern, Friday Ord defeated Dannebrog, getting 11 runs with 3 hits, while Dannebrog got 10 runs on 9 hits. Meanwhile Farwell was disposing of Wolbach without difficulty.

The boys went back to St. Paul Sunday, and were treated rather roughly by the Farwell boys, who made 13 runs on six hits while Ord was getting one run with four hits. Kylin, Farwell pitcher was the star of the series, and pitched some brilliant ball. Mr. Lynch, who will be remembered as a star athlete of St. Paul high a few years ago, umpired the games and gave general satisfaction.

Friday the Lukes sisters and Mrs. John Lukes and Mrs. Rudolph Kerchal visited in the home of the Joe Cernik family near Olean. They had the opportunity of observing the process of irrigation. To Miss Minnie this was not so novel as she had seen a great deal of irrigation in Idaho and other western states. Yet she agreed with the others that it was a thrill to see the water course down the rows of corn and other vegetation, saving it from drought, be it in Nebraska or elsewhere. At noon they feasted on fried chicken and all the trimmings, and believe it or not, practically all the menu was of home grown products, including the watermelon.

Saturday Mrs. Joe Novotny of Kimball and Mrs. John Ptacnik called on the Lukes sisters for a few hours visit.

The families of Joe Ptacnik and Joe Lukes, sr., Frank Lukes, Minnie Beth and Barbara Lukes were dinner guests of the Mat Kosmata family Sunday.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT
CLARA MCCLATCHEY, Superintendent

Arrange all exhibits on the cards so they will hang the long way. Mounting Cards may be obtained from the office at any time. Fasten all exhibits on the cards with brass paper fasteners. Do not paste or glue exhibits to the cards. Be sure to fasten at both top and bottom of exhibit.

In marking the exhibits use the following form, written on the exhibit itself or on a piece of paper securely fastened to the exhibit.

Name _____
Grade in School _____
Class (as A1 or E16) _____
District _____

This year instead of awarding just a first and second place we are judging each entry on the basis of quality: SUPERIOR will be given 5 points; EXCELLENT will be given 3 points; GOOD will be given 1 point, and FAIR will be marked but no points awarded. The points earned by each district will then be added and the prize money prorated according to the number of points the school earned.

Each Rural One-room school will be limited to six cards. Two-room schools to ten cards and town school limited to five cards for each grade. Only one entry under each class will be considered. If more than one entry is displayed, it will be judged as one exhibit.

Each year the question arises as to the disposition of the prize money. It is the opinion of this office that all prize money should be school property. Try to train your pupils to have a pride in winning honors for the school rather than the individual.

Reviewed by CARTER FIELD

Frantic efforts of White House fail to stop passage of the Hatch bill. . . . Most major problems have been shifted onto the next session of congress—and that an election year. . . . Roosevelt's friends are seeking to grab the Texas delegation away from Garner.

WASHINGTON—Certain unheralded events in the Triple A of Henry A. Wallace's department of agriculture had a lot to do with the Hatch bill through the house despite the most frantic efforts of the White House to stop it.

The events had all the earmarks of planning to use the entire relationship between the department and the farmer of the country as a political machine. Naturally, members of the house and senate began to hear the rumblings, but for some time they could not make head or tail of them.

At first, the politicians on Capitol Hill assumed that the Politics that was obviously being played was in behalf of Henry Wallace's own presidential ambitions. It seemed, as it was told up under the big dome, that N. E. Dodd, in a speech to the employees of the western division—revised version of the old wheat section or pre-soil conservator days—laid a great deal of emphasis on his own idea that the jobs in his department ought to go to "farmers." He also irritated the clerks summoned to hear his oratory, many of whom had civil service status which contained no credits for milking cows or pitching hay, by telling them the difference between "people" and "folks."

"Folks," one gathered, were the sterling sons of the West—anywhere west of the Mississippi. "People" were the city slickers who lived east of the Father of Waters. Whatever he meant, he scared the eastern non-horny handed clerks quite a little, and some of them made straightway to their senators and representatives, wanted to be assured that congress would not permit them to be thrown out on their ears to make way for the only sort of "folks" that Mr. Dodd seemed to like.

Wisconsin Senator First To Sound Off in Public

In explaining their fears, they told of what had been happening in Triple A, with the western division apparently the worst sore spot. . . . But it was not confined to the western division. Some of the constituents of Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin went running to him with their troubles, and it happened that he was the first man on Capitol Hill to sound off publicly. . . . Which, coupled with the fact that the cutting off of civil service heads among the executives, plus the appointment of politically presumable persons to take their places, was worse in the western division, caused several mixups.

One was the general assumption as a result that Wisconsin was in the western division. On the contrary, apparently the Wolverines are "people" not "folks." . . . But the reports of these frightened clerks, added together, were little short of shocking to the congressmen. They want to do the naming of the new employees, and they want the right to protect the old employees.

So the notion of a high-powered political machine being built up from Washington, and operated without their knowledge—well, the Hatch bill isn't such a bad idea. . . . Major Problems Shifted Onto Next Session of Congress

With most of its major problems postponed—neutrality, new taxes, amendments to the wage hour and labor relations act, and a half dozen others—congress is merely putting off the evil day—and putting it off, of all things, to the session which will not only be in a presidential election year, but which will run right into the conventions of both parties that will nominate their candidates for President.

During the session which began last January, Republicans and conservative Democrats, despite plenty of denials, were steadily working towards a coalition. . . . On the whole, it was more effective in the house, perhaps because the Republican organization was much tighter in the house. . . . In the senate, every member is a power in his own right. He can hold up bills, he can force amendments if they are not too important. He can do all sorts of things. . . . The real importance, now, is for the future—how this coalition will be next session—how it will develop. . . . There is no such thing as a definite group of Democrats in either house or senate who can be counted on to vote against President Roosevelt with the Republicans.

But the interesting factor in this tendency toward coalition of the Republicans and the conservative Democrats is that it has been developing—growing with the passage of every week to be more and more a threat to the White House domination of congress. . . . There is no such thing as a definite group of Democrats in either house or senate who can be counted on to vote against President Roosevelt with the Republicans.

Move to Capture Texas Delegation for Roosevelt

Acting on the advice of friendly Texans who insist that the delegation from the Lone Star state to the next Democratic convention can be captured for Franklin D. Roosevelt despite the fact that John Nance Garner will be a favorite son, the White House is moving to consolidate its political forces down by the Rio Grande, not to mention up in the Panhandle or "back East" in Texas.

The latest move was the tender of the post of head of the rural electrification administrator to Rep. Lyndon B. Johnson of the Tenth Texas District. . . . But the striking angle of the affair was that this offer of the appointment was made without regard to the wishes of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

President Roosevelt

But the striking angle of the affair was that this offer of the appointment was made without regard to the wishes of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. . . . The secretary, to whose jurisdiction it, E. A. was given in the reorganization, has been much concerned about who should head it. . . . Garner People to 'Smoke Out' Some Texas Congressmen

It is also interesting in that Johnson, since the defeat of Maury Maverick, is the most left wing of the Texas delegation in the House. . . . The appointment was and is a pretty nice plum.

Only four states, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio have more votes on a roll call to nominate a presidential candidate at the national Democratic conclave. . . . But it is almost a political axiom that a presidential candidate must have his own state solidly behind him.

Dog Days

The "dog days" are here, with high temperatures, wilted cellars, dripping brows, warped dispositions, and a desire to go fishing rather than do your regular appointed job. Yet whatever your disposition and whatever your inclination, we all have certain tasks to perform.

In our own business this is the time of year when we have trouble with cream that has not been cooled as soon as separated and kept in a cool place until time to take it to town.

Every Producer can market cream that will make fine 92 score butter—If they will practice the following:

Suggestions for Producing Good Cream

1. Separate cream as soon as you are through milking. Don't let it get cold.
2. Keep your separator in a clean place. Wash it every time it is used.
3. Cool the cream with water as cold as possible immediately after separating so as to get the animal heat out. Set the can of fresh cream in cold well water. Stir with a big spoon three or four times in an hour. It should then be cooled out and ready to put in the big can. Lld of large can should be kept tight, as experiments have proven that cream keeps better when lid is tight. Large can should be kept in cooling tank or a very cold cellar. Cream readily absorbs and retains foreign odors, therefore a refrigerator is usually a poor place to keep cream unless it is in a tight container. A cooling tank is much the best.
4. Never mix warm and cold creams. Stir cream well twice daily.
5. Skim a cream that will test at least 35 to 40%. Thin cream sours easily and gets curdy. Save your skim milk for the hogs.
6. Do not let your cream stand in a warm place. Keep your milk and cream cans clean and well aired.
7. While delivering cream see that it is protected from the sun and dust.
8. Never put gasoline, kerosene or any kind of oil in or near a milk or cream utensil.
9. Don't use cream cans for buttermilk or whey. Never leave fresh cooled cream sit out all night or all day. Get it dumped in large can as soon as it is cooled properly.
10. Use a good strainer so as to remove all foreign substances from the milk before it goes to the separator. Deliver cream often.

We want to buy your Cream and will appreciate your cooperation.

Cream Separators

We know of some people who are selling whole milk, not because they think it pays them to trade their skim milk for whey but because they have no separator or their old one is out of condition.

If you happen to be one of these, we will try and help you save the best animal feed you have on the place (skim-milk). We have reconditioned several old machines for our customers (at a very small cost) so that they operate as efficiently as a new one. We also have several reconditioned machines and some new ones that we can sell at a very low price and on easy terms.

When corn is worth 50c per bushel skim milk is worth 25c per hundred pounds, or 2c per gallon, for hog feed. It is still more valuable if fed to chickens of any age.

EGGS

We notice that our patrons' eggs are grading better now than they were three or four weeks ago. I wonder if it is because flock owners got careless during the busy season but are now giving their hens better care, gathering the eggs oftener, keeping them clean and putting them in a cool place until time to take them to town. Egg quality runs a lot lower in hot weather but a balanced ration will overcome some of this and should start your old hens laying again. We look for prices to be higher this fall on quality eggs.

Our Graded Price at this time—Specials 15c, Firsts 10c, Seconds 9c.

POULTRY

The Big Shots in the Poultry Business (The Centralizers) have been warning us for some time that poultry prices should be lower. They tell us that Ord is the highest place on the map when it comes to Poultry Prices.

Now they may be right and we may be sorry, BUT

For the Balance of This Week at Least

We are going to pay 10c per pound for Heavy Hens and Heavy Springs. We are not going to grade them for weight or color, nor will we dock you for full crops, and we never use any trick scales. However we don't want to buy culls at that price and we ask you to be reasonable about the amount of feed in your chickens' crops when you bring them in.

We will pay 8c per pound for Leghorn hens and 8c per pound for Leghorn Springs.

If you find some one beating this price, wish you would let us know. While we are guaranteeing this price for this week only, that don't necessarily mean that the price will be down next week—but it might be. See us when you have a good bunch of poultry to sell.

Good Contingent of Race Drivers Assured for Fair

Axel, Felt, Hoffman Among Old Timers Who Will Return; Night Racing Only.

The Valley county fair board has every reason to believe that the auto races Sept. 12, 13 and 14 will be fully up to the standard of former years. Clyde Baker, superintendent of races, returned the past week from his vacation trip to Colorado, during which time he visited Merchants Park in Denver, where the midget auto races are held each Wednesday and Sunday.

All the race drivers at Denver are running AAA, but the organization has made a special exception in the case of Ord, and all who want to do so will be granted permission to come here to race this year. They are also requesting the management of the Merchant's Park track to discontinue racing there the week of the Ord fair, which will probably be done.

Lloyd Axel, who cut his eye teeth in the racing game on the Ord track more than a decade ago, has promised definitely that he will be here when the show opens Sept. 12. He will be driving Jud Pickup's Offenhausers, one of the best known and most highly respected jobs in the racing game today, and one which usually winds up in the winning column.

Vic Felt, once of Deer Trail but now of Denver, is another of the old favorites who has promised definitely to be back. He had the honor of setting a new track record on Ord's half mile track more than ten years ago, and he has been back a number of times since then. He is driving a Norburg special which he built himself, and has been going great.

Others who are certain to be here this year are Roy Sherman, who is now driving Buzzard's Offenhausers, and who was in competition here last year; Smiling Sam Hoffman, who is also driving an Offenhausers special, and who has appeared so often in Ord that he seems like one of the family; Chris Dellaven of Houston, Tex., the man with the toothed motor job; and Eddie Krajteck of Omaha who was here last year with a Ramer special.

Midget races will be held only at night this year. About a 2-hour program, starting promptly at 7:30 and moving through rapidly, is planned. Time trials will be held each evening one race will follow another in quick succession, since there will be few of the usual free acts interspersed with the races.

The fair board reduced admission charges to 25c at the gate this year and grandstand charges were reduced also. One payment at the gate admits both afternoon and evening.

With a snappy program of racing assured there is every reason to believe that the 1939 Valley county fair will draw a big attendance.

Herman Hinrichs Tosses Wicked Horseshoe Game
A former Burwell resident, Herman Hinrichs, is doing his bit to put Aurora on the map as the outstanding town in the ancient and honorable game of horseshoes. Mr. Hinrichs was formerly mail clerk out of Burwell but is now living in Aurora and handling the Aurora Sargent run. In a recent matched game with Palmer he won four out of five games for his team with 242 points out of a possible 250.

George Evans Killed in Highway Accident

Taylor, Nebr.—(Special)—George Evans, former Loup county sheriff, was killed Thursday afternoon near Clarks, Nebr., when the car he was driving collided with a truck. With him were Mrs. Evans, who was seriously hurt, and Mr. and Mrs. Riley Rainer. The latter was slightly injured.

Mrs. Evans was taken to the hospital at Central City but was able Monday to be brought home to attend her husband's funeral. She then went to Sargent where she will remain under a doctor's care.

The party were enroute to Iowa to attend an Evans family reunion when the accident happened.

Married in Lincoln.

At a simple ceremony performed at 9:30 a. m. yesterday at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Davis in Lincoln, Miss Maxine Stalder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Stalder of Salem, became the bride of Richmond Davis of Kearney. Mr. and Mrs. Dale Halverson were the only attendants, and Rev. E. L. Geisinger was the officiating clergyman. Both bride and groom are graduates of the state university, and Mr. Davis is an instructor in Kearney State Teachers' college.

Nine Young Ord Athletes Attend Coaching School

H. F. Brockman, with the assistance of Fred Stoddard and Dillo Troyer, took nine athletes of the Ord high school to Lincoln Monday to attend a three day coaching school being held there. Those taken were Raymond Hurlbert, Raymond Tatlow, Henry Benda, Orville and Gerald Stoddard, Gould Flagg, Henry Miska, James Petka and Harold Barnes. Mr. Stoddard and John Haskell are driving to Lincoln Thursday to help bring the boys home.

Huge Crowd Hears Vojta Benes Speak At Bohemian Hall

Czechoslovak Senator Tells 800 People Here "Jesus, not Caesar, Will Triumph."

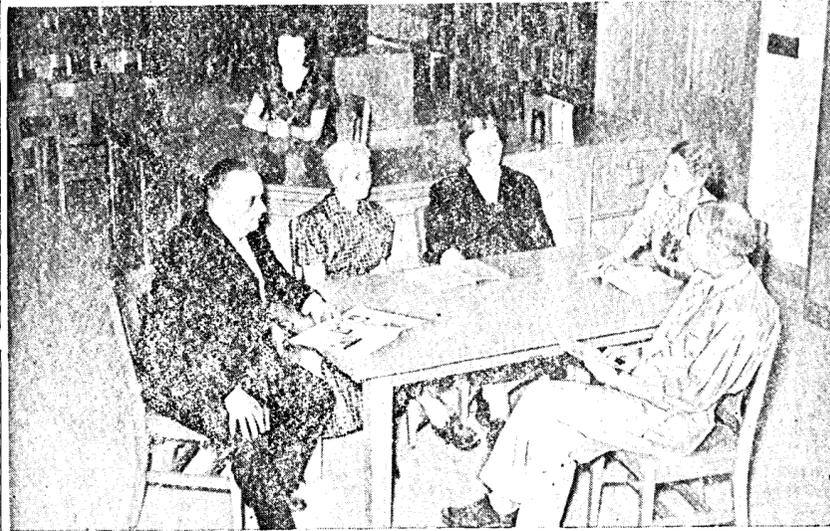

One of the largest crowds ever to attend a meeting in Ord was present last night at the Bohemian Hall to listen to the message brought by Senator Vojta Benes, brother of the late president of the dismembered Czechoslovak republic, Eduard Benes. A conservative estimate placed the number at 800, and during the program the interest was so intense that every word could be heard distinctly in all parts of the building.

President F. J. L. Benda of the Czech-American Alliance opened the meeting with a well chosen speech which he closed by introducing Senator Benes. The other officers of the Alliance were also on the stage. They are Stanley Rutar, vice-president, Mrs. Anton Stepanek of Taylor, secretary, Joe Urbanovsky, financial secretary and Anton Adamek, treasurer. Singing was led by a quartet composed of Misses Minnie and Beth Lukesh, Dr. Osentowski and Frank Lukes.

The stage was beautifully decorated with red, white and blue bunting, and in the background the American flag was hung at the speaker's right, and the Czechoslovak tri-color at his left. Bouquets of lovely flowers were also in evidence. Preceding the principal speaker, Miss Minnie Lukesh spoke for a time in the English language. The Pearson and Anderson public address system was used.

Board and Librarian Discuss Plans for Opening Saturday

Above is shown an interior view of the new Ord Township library which will be open for public inspection Saturday. The librarian, Miss Elsie Wiberg, is seated at her desk in the background, while the members of the library board are seated about the table in the foreground. They are, left to right: Clarence M. Davis, Mrs. G. W. Taylor, Mrs. Evet Smith, Mrs. C. E. Goodhand and Frank T. Johnson.

Northern Lights Were Beautiful Last Night

The greater part of the night last night the northern sky was aglow with the aurora borealis, a display which extended from northwest to northeast along the horizon, and which sent forth streamers which at times reached the height of the north star and even beyond. The display indicated that, for the time at least, the air was exceptionally clear to the north all the way to the Arctic circle.

Mr. Matthews is president of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce, and a leader in most Omaha civic activities. Although the head offices are in New Haven, Conn., Mr. Matthews will continue to make his home in Omaha. He

White Horses Will Furnish Afternoon Programs at Fair

New Breed of Albinos Raised on Stuart Ranch Engaged for 2 Daytime Shows.

The famous "White Horse Troupe" from a sandhills ranch near Stuart, Nebr., has been engaged to furnish afternoon programs at the Valley county fair on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 12 and 13, the fair board announced yesterday. Grandstand admission of 25c for adults and 10c for the children will be charged.

These milk white albino horses are a new breed originated at White Horse ranch about 20 years ago and since bred up to a state of perfection. Nation wide interest in the breed has been aroused recently.

Among the acts which will appear on the program at Ord will be Great 15th and Snowchief 2nd with Cal Thompson and Deloss Wilke, riders; White Wings will present a high jump act; Flash appears in a high jump act; Royal Lady puts on a walking act on her hind legs and a group of four albino horses give a 15-minute high school act.

The troupe includes six registered albino stallions doing many unusual tricks consisting of dance steps, teeter-totter, cake walking and the like. White Beauty, a 3-year-old mare, will bring with her an unusual colt which was foaled white and still is white, which many horsemen insist is impossible.

These horses are very unusual in that they are now an established breed originating from one white stallion, a freak, and twenty years of scientific breeding.

Also with the troupe is Queenie the educated cow, who gives an unusual program. She was shown at the grand championship rodeo in Chicago and many other places.

Rains Plentiful, But All of Them Light

Rains from a trace to 3.3 of an inch have fallen in ten days of August, enough for the crops if the soil had been moist to start with. The record kept by Syl Furtak shows the following: Aug. 1, .27; Aug. 4, .31; Aug. 5, .03; Aug. 7, .11; Aug. 9, .05; Aug. 10, .32; Aug. 11, .18; Aug. 19, .31; Aug. 21, trace; Aug. 22, .01. Total to date for August, 1.59 inches. Saturday night rain in excess of an inch was reported from Loup City.

John G. Wirsig Died Aug. 14 in Arkansas

Taylor, Nebr.—(Special)—At his home in Harrison, Ark., on Aug. 14th, John G. Wirsig, formerly of Taylor, passed away. Mr. Wirsig was educated in the schools of Taylor and Ord and in York college and most of his adult life was spent in Taylor where he established and operated the Loup Valley News, and later ran a prosperous implement business. He also was in the implement business at Sargent for a time, and had a bank there until 1932, in which year the family moved to Arkansas.

He is survived by his widow and four children. The body was brought to Taylor for funeral rites held August 17 in the Congregational church and burial was in Taylor cemetery.

Dedication of Ord Township Library Will Be Saturday

Furniture Installed and $250 Worth of New Books in Place for the Opening.

After some delay due to the failure of the new furniture to arrive on schedule, the new Ord Township library will be opened Saturday for public inspection, it is announced. The library in the former location in the council room of the city hall was closed last week, and the librarian and members of the library board have been busy since that time arranging the books, in preparation for the opening.

The present library came into existence on July 27, 1922, when a meeting of citizens was held to consider the proposition of a new library; as the old library in the basement of the American Legion hall had been closed for some time. At that time it was decided to locate the library in the city hall, the use of the council room having been offered for the purpose. The library remained there until closed last week.

At first public spirited women donated their services as librarian, the first regular librarian being Miss Nina Smith, appointed in August, 1925. Others who served in that capacity were Mrs. D. Tolbert, Mrs. Cecil Hansen and Mrs. Frank T. Johnson. The present librarian, Miss Elsie Wiberg, assumed her duties Oct. 1, 1938.

June 6, 1937 the Ord Township library board was organized, and the library property turned over to them. The following was the membership: Clarence M. Davis, 5 years; Mrs. Charles E. Goodhand, 4 years; Mrs. Paul Hanson, 3 years; Jos P. Barta, 2 years; and Mrs. Evet Smith, 1 year. Mrs. Ruth Cushing took Mrs. Hanson's place, which was later taken by Frank T. Johnson, and Mrs. G. W. Taylor took Mr. Barta's place on the board, July 15, 1938.

July 9, 1936 the site of the new library was purchased from Keene Haldeman, and the present building, begun early this year, was completed at a cost of $9,500, exclusive of furniture and building site. The township owes no bonded indebtedness and the library tax levy has been reduced for 1939. J. W. Reynolds of Lincoln was the architect for the building, which was constructed by the Diamond Engineering company of Grand Island.

The library board is paying for most of the furniture from funds on hand, but the Ord Business and Professional Women's club paid for the librarian's desk, the Ord P.E.O. chapter bought two tables and six chairs, and the Women's club of Ord is paying for the magazine shelving section, the two drawer vertical file section and thirty shelf label holders.

One modern tendency worthy of note is the fact that the floor is on the ground level, making entry easy for young and old. It is to be heated with a modern oil-burning furnace. It is located at the edge of the business district, midway between the two school buildings. The floor is of mottled and the roof of asbestos shingles. Lighting is by modern indirect light fixtures, which reduce eye strain.

About $250 worth of new books have been added to the large number already in the library, and these will be available to the public after the opening Saturday. The building is equipped with eight tables, with six chairs for each, so that forty-eight persons may use the reading space at one time without crowding.

Saturday the new Ord Township library will be thrown open for public inspection. Patrons may bring in books on that day, but none will be given out. There will be a children's hour in the morning from 10 to 11 a. m. In the afternoon the general public will be welcome from 1 to 5 and in the evening from 7 to 10. All are cordially invited to call and look over the building and equipment on Saturday, Aug. 26.

Ole Norland of Wolbach Will Edit Aurora Paper

The Wolbach Messenger, of which Ole Norland was editor, was sold recently by the owner, Darwin Jackson, to Harry L. Peterson of Ponca, Nebr., who will assume charge Sept. 1. Mr. Norland will go to Aurora to take charge of advertising in the Republican-Register of that place.

To Be Married Soon.

Miss Sylvia Cornell of Lincoln, daughter of Murray Cornell of Ericson, has revealed to her friends that she will become the bride of Ward Schellenberg on Sept. 2.

Site of Indian Excavations on Davis Creek "Goes Modern" with Hot Dog Stands, Watermelon and Soft Drink Places; 2,000 Visitors Were There on Sunday

One of the most interesting WPA projects in Nebraska is that undertaken by the State Historical Society in unearthing the homes of the ancient inhabitants of Nebraska for the purpose of learning whatever is possible in regard to their racial characteristics, tribal customs and manner of life. This is undertaken as a state wide project, with area supervisors in charge for the WPA in each locality where work is done. Mrs. Minnie Hardenbrook is the area supervisor for this project, which is located in the southwest part of Greeley county.

Since July 18 fourteen men have been busy on the H. E. Wittwer farm five miles southwest of Scotia on Davis Creek, unearthing the records of Indian life under direction of A. T. Hill, director, who is in charge for the State Historical society.

The object of the work is not merely the collection of Indian relics, as many seem to think, but rather the reconstruction of early Indian life in Nebraska. It is estimated that the people, probably Indians, who lived here at the (Continued on Page 7.)

THE HARDY PIONEER.

After all, the hardy pioneer did not have it so tough. It is true he had to drive his ox team or walk, but how about the modern traveler who has to stop his car every 150 miles for gas, an oil check, a windshield wipe and a hot dog. Those are some of the things grandpa never had to do, a fact for which he ought to be truly thankful.

The pioneer paid his filing fee, built his shack, and lived on the land, if he could, for a period of five years before he paid any taxes. The landowner today pays out more in taxes than the entire farm was worth in pioneer times, but after all, why worry? If he don't get the taxes paid the government will own the land and rent it to him tax free.

The pioneer did not see any other human being for weeks at a time, and he probably welcomed even the sight of an Indian's face. But what about the modern farmer, who is pestered day and night with government supervisors of all kinds until he has no privacy whatever. They are useless to him, for all he needs is a hired man and they won't work.

The pioneer spent his spare time in fishing, when he had any spare time, and he also hunted game when he was short of meat. The modern Isaac Walton has to go fishing with a license displayed upon his person, and with so many wardens around that they frighten all the fish away. If he gets enough for his family he has more than his limit and must pay a fine.

The pioneer sowed spring wheat on the south eighty and planted soft corn on the new breaking with an ox. He planted his potatoes in the dark of the moon and nobody objected. The present day farmer plants what the administration says he can plant, sees his idle acres grow up into a breeding ground for grasshoppers, and sighs for the good old days.

The pioneer fought a losing fight against drouth, floods, hail storms, blizzards, grasshoppers, chinch bugs, potato beetles, blight, rust and Indians. The present day farmer is fighting against drouth, hail storms, floods, blizzards, grasshoppers, chinch bugs, potato beetles, blight rust and government supervision.

The pioneer paid ten dollars for his complete farming outfit, and raised a good crop when weather conditions permitted. The modern farmer pays ten times as much for equipment as the pioneer's farm was worth, and nine years out of ten don't raise enough on the farm to pay the taxes or the interest on his investment.

In fact, it is about time we quit being sorry for the poor pioneer, who had such a hard time to get along. He got by, and that is more than most of the modern farmers are doing. If he got a dollar an acre, 90c of that dollar belonged to him. If the modern farmer gets ten dollars per acre, it only pays about half of the expense bill that he must pay before he realizes any profit for his work.

CHANGING THANKSGIVING.

President Roosevelt has announced that he will advance the date of Thanksgiving this year by setting it one week ahead, on Nov. 23 instead of Nov. 30, the date upon which it would fall following general custom. Then next year he plans to set it on the second Thursday in November, instead of the last.

He said he found that Thanksgiving was the only national holiday with which he could tamper the others being set on some definite date, and that he had been getting many requests in the past six years to have the date set forward, spacing it more evenly between Labor Day and Christmas. Labor Day was established much later than Thanksgiving, but it is immovable.

One important fact that the president has overlooked is that while let us say, ten thousand have changed a desire to have the day changed, the other one hundred and thirty million people of the United States are well satisfied with it as it is, and would go right on celebrating it on the last Thursday in November if no proclamation was issued.

It is possible that the president is setting aside a precedent established since 1863 in order to lay the foundation for setting aside another precedent established since 1797 and running for a third term for the office of chief executive? It may seem like a small matter, but already the president's suggestion is arousing a storm of protest all over the United States.

Thanksgiving Day is not to be taken lightly. History tells us it was first celebrated by the Pilgrims probably in the year 1623, as that was the first year in which an abundant crop was raised. In all the states the day is set on the last Thursday of November, and has been for more than 75 years. A date so long established should not be changed by any individual, however high he may stand in governmental affairs.

Vignettes from China
One Man in 450 Million

VIGNETTES FROM CHINA.
Going Alexander One Better. The Japanese muffed their hopes of quick victory at Nanking, then China's capital, and perhaps their chances of ever a victory, according to Dr. Crandall. This was one of the worst massacres in the history of the world.

This great carnage was the result of the desertion of the Chinese general in charge of the city during the battle there. It had been the policy of the Chinese to fight and fall back retreating under order. During the battle as the Japs were coming closer, the word became spread that the Chinese

ORD PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Just when this public school proposition got its start in Ord is a little difficult to find out, since the files of the Quiz do not go back further than 1882, and that is the chief source of information for articles written on the early days. However, it is well known that Ord had a flourishing public school more than sixty years ago. Dr. Charles Badger was the first superintendent of Valley county schools and was elected in October, 1873. In 1875 Oscar Babcock was elected Superintendent, and in 1879 Mingson Coombs was elected Superintendent. John F. Kates was elected in 1881, and held the office until 1887, when he was succeeded by Stephen A. Parks, who was followed by J. H. Jennings in 1891. D. McCall was elected in 1893, to be succeeded by Lorenzo Blessing in 1897.

Such is the history of the county superintendent's office in Valley county until the turn of the century. The record of the early schools is more difficult to trace, since they are not a matter of county record and are not as well preserved. However, T. T. Bell, now of St. Paul, was in charge of the Ord schools 55 years ago, and J. M. Hussey was superintendent fifty years ago, the year when Ord High school was first organized.

The members of the class of 1890 were: Harold Poght, author of the "Trail Of The Loup"; Richard Laverty, James Milford, Edith Lucile Robbins, Everett Williams and Mable Wilson (McCord). The class of 1892 comprised Mark and Mazie Bussell, Jesse Laverty and James Thompson, and the smallest class in the history of the school. The largest class was that of 1933, with 87 members.

In its fifty years of existence the Ord high school has graduated nearly 1600 students, many of whom have filled, and are filling, important positions in the world of education, trade and commerce. Such persons as Miss Delpha Taylor, Dr. Herbert L. Cushing, the late Grover C. Long, Irl Tolen, George R. Mann and others, have made and are making important contributions to the development of the state.

In the nation might be mentioned Dr. Tutton Charlton, Arthur Honnold, Bessie Clements Stacy, Dr. George Clason, Dr. E. E. Wise and a dozens of others who are doing their bit for humanity in their various capacities. At home we find them in every line of human endeavor, doctors, lawyers, teachers, merchants, farmers. Their influence on local affairs is immeasurable.

The number of graduates from Ord high alone is equal to one-sixth of the total population of Valley county, and it is probable that North Loup and Arcadia have contributed about that many more. This fact will go far to explain why the state of Nebraska has a higher rate of literacy than any in the nation.

The standards set by the Ord high school throughout its existence have set a pattern for other schools to copy. In athletics the prowess of her young men was known and feared more than forty years ago, and that high standard has been maintained throughout the years. The readers of the Quiz do not need to be told what Ord's athletes have been doing in the past few years.

In music, also, a high mark has always been set. In the past few years the band, orchestra, small groups and soloists have made their presence felt in district contests and have made the name of Ord well known and respected throughout the state. Many of Ord's music students have gone on and far in this profession.

Ord's agricultural students have probably been having a more noticeable effect on local conditions than any other group, as many of them have returned to the farm and are using the knowledge they gained to better farming conditions. Ord's normal training students are following the teaching profession in nearly every state in the union, her commercial students are holding office positions of responsibility.

From the humble beginning of one professor in 1889, the Ord high school faculty has expanded until today there are fifteen persons teaching in the various departments of the school. In fact it is possible now to get more in the Ord high school than it was possible to get a few years ago in business college or normal school, and the students are kept at home and under home influence while studying.

In a short time now the schools will be entering the second half-century of service to the public, and all young people who feel able to do so should arrange to attend, whether it be in Ord, or some other accredited high school. With so many high school graduates in the community, a high school education is almost essential to future success.

general in charge had fled. The Chinese people at once became panicky, which is one of their characteristics. Every person at once started for the one long street leading to the gates of the city for escape. It was a city of one million people.

Many who could not crowd into this street climbed the wall. This wall is higher on the outside than the inside. They jumped and fell outside, killing some. Many of those who lit safely ran into the enemy and were slain and others jumped into boats in the river and these were so crowded a great number drowned.

As this scething mass of people pushed toward the gates, the Japs dropped bombs into this street murdering the people by the hundreds. To make it worse a car was driven near the city gates and there caught afire. Hundreds of people were burned to death as those from the rear pushed those ahead into these flames.

In spite of all this Chinese soldiers fought outside the gates to the last man, holding the Japs back thinking the general was conducting his retreat as he should, taking the people of the city to safety in the hills to the west.

When the city was finally captured the Japs were so delighted their soldiers were turned loose to do as they pleased with it and the remaining people. Dr. Crandall says no story that he hear of the pillage done there by the Japs can be exaggerated. Men were marched out and shot down by the hundreds. All women were raped or slain. Every house was ransacked. This massacre in 1933 put even Alexander, the Great, to shame.

So interested in the slaughter of these innocent people were the Japs that the army remained in the city many days, ceasing their fight temporarily. More than that, they thought, capturing the capital, would be the end of Chinese fighting. It is true, the Chinese army was pretty well shattered and discouraged by then. Had the Japs kept on at that time following the Chinese army, a complete victory might have been made.

But there is where they muffed. The time they spent razing the city gave Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek opportunity to reorganize. Now, throughout all China, the Chinese government still exists although hunted in many places, it exists just the same, the one object of it to expel the Japs.

One Man in 450 Million.
Dr. Crandall thinks Chiang Kai-shek is the one man in the 450 million Chinese who can bring victory to the nation. She trembles at the thought should something happen to him. At the once he seems to be the leader of all the many tribes that once ruled sections of China.

The question was asked if he could do as well organizing the Chinese should the Japs withdraw. Dr. Crandall replied that that would be a task and a big one. She did not know. Should the withdrawal be gradual the reorganization would be easier. Even now sectors are being recaptured by the Chinese and in each instance a Chinese government is set up at once.

Dr. Crandall says a victory for China is beyond question. If it is not accomplished at this time, she says the news we hear is all Japanese and so colored we can believe little of it. West China is not captured at all. Even with the eastern seaports blockaded, Japan is having trouble holding it. Before the war the Japanese yen was worth about 2 1/2 to one of American money. Now the yen has dropped to about 8 to one, meaning the Japs have to spend that much more for their munitions and goods than normal. The Chinese money is worth more than the Japanese is today. Japan has sacrificed far more than China to conduct this war.

There is a strong element in Japan who think this war is foolish. It is the army who has control in Japan and even the Emperor has his news censored, but in spite of (Continued on page five)

By J. A. Kovanda

There is little chance for prices of agricultural products to be strengthened in the future, say our leading economists. They state that rural folks may expect a long period of moderate farm earnings, dependent for any increase upon better city incomes. The chief reason is that there will be more farmers and fewer consumers.

Our population will start declining after 1950. Already there are 12 per cent fewer children and this affects the price of milk. Decreased demand for houses and other goods will also result.

Formerly it took the efforts of three farm families to feed one non-farm family. Now the figures are reversed. It is said that one-half of our agriculturists could produce all the food this country needs. But the number of farmers will increase because cities no longer need additional meat. It will increase 40 per cent in the next fifteen years.

farmers, whether they like it or not. He believes that subsistence farming on areas of reduced size will be the result. Outgo will be the main consideration, rather than income. More families will be ek-ing out scanty existences on small-acreages. It is not a pretty picture.

However, continued and increased federal aid will be given farmers in the future, according to Dr. Barr of Cornell. Various means of governmental price pegging will be employed in the years to come, regardless of which political party is in office. That party will need the farmers' support at the polls.

Farm situation not measurably improved and little hope on the horizon before another year . . . Conditions might arise to make Wallace President . . . Appropriations exceed those of last year by more than a billion . . . Even Farley cannot find out of the President wants a third term.

WASHINGTON.—It was the farm revolt against the New Deal that was responsible for a good many of the Republican victories in the 1933 election, and, to a lesser extent, for the failure of the New Deal against recalcitrant Democratic senators.

This was notably true in Ohio, where perhaps the turnover as between the 1936 and the 1938 votes was the most spectacular in the country. But there was scarcely a state in which this dissatisfaction of the farmers with the way things were going did not play a part in the reaction.

What makes this so important right now is that the farm situation has not measurably improved, and that there is nothing of importance on the horizon which indicates that it may be substantially improved before next year. The food and clothing stamps for surplus commodities will help a little bit. The idea seems to be good, and it is working fairly well in experimental areas. This means that it will be liberally extended, and may prove very important. But few keen students of the farm problem in Washington think that it is going to be enough to change the tide.

What can change the tide, of course, is a very different farm picture next year. Nobody can tell about that now, but nature may take a hand, either in restricting the crops here, or, even better from the standpoint of farm incomes, by restricting them abroad.

Conditions might arise to make Wallace President. If the farmers of this country next season should have bumper crops, while the farmers of the Argentine and other competing areas suffer drouth and pestilence, so that the price of this country's United States not only have a lot to sell, but are able to get good prices for their crops, the Republican candidates can scream their heads off without getting anywhere. The farm revolt will simply disappear.

It might even make Henry A. Wallace president! But the present situation is desperate, from the Wallace standpoint. The estimated corn crop is 2,500,000,000 bushels, which is not only bad because it is enormous, but because this is the third year of succession that the corn growers of this country have produced more than they can sell, or at least as B. M. Baruch likes to state the same problem, "more than they can sell at a profit."

Wallace's ever-normal granary is taxed to the roof with a 400,000,000-bushel carry-over. In fact no one knows what to do with the corn. Wallace has sent out a call for $5,500,000 worth of steel corn bins in which the commodity credit corporation can store 50,000,000 bushels along railroads and near elevators.

So it is small wonder that the food and drug administration was kicked around when it tried to prevent, by law, continued use of dextrose without stating on the label that it was contained in processed foods. The beet and cane sugar group in this country is pretty strong politically, but not strong enough to battle the problem in that mammoth corn crop. If anybody wants to use corn sugar in food why that is fine—it will use up a little corn.

Legislators Love Pork but Want to Do Own Carving. "Spend and spend, tax and tax" is out the window unless Franklin D. Roosevelt can get another mandate next year, thus proving the "elect and elect" part of the trilogy attributed to but denied by Harry L. Hopkins. This does not mean that congress has turned parsimonious, despite the spectacular rejection of the rule to take up the spend-lead bill, and the shelving of the housing measure. The legislators still love their pork, but they want to do the carving themselves, and they want to select the favored plates to receive the best slices.

Actually this congress was pretty liberal with the people's money. It appropriated about $12,500,000,000 this year, which is hardly cheese-paring or a step toward balancing the budget. But—it refused to increase the present $45,000,000,000 debt limit, and then refused to get around it by the spend-lead device.

The two things took different sorts of courage, one easy, politically, if one leaves out the angle of defying the White House, and the other much more difficult. Refusal to increase the debt limit did not make any group of voters mad. It did not deprive any group who wanted a piece of federal pork or even the gravy to go with it. It was just a gesture. Voting to adopt it did not stop a single appropriation. It simply served notice that, after the federal debt has been increased about four more billions, we are going to stop increasing it.

Appropriations Exceed Last Year's by Over Billion.
This year's appropriations, however, were roughly $1,000,000,000 more than last year's, which were $11 billion 400 millions. But the important thing now is to note the trend. The economy revolt, if it can be called that from such an extravagant congress, came right at the end of the session. Just after the house refused even to take up the spend-lead bill, by voting down the rule under which it was to have been considered—the house appropriations committee was introduced into the final deficiency appropriation bill, cutting the amounts authorized more savagely than any appropriation bill has been cut by this body since 1933.

This would seem to spell plenty of economy next year. If business gets better—as the stock market seemed to predict the day after the house killed the spend-lead bill—it would seem unlikely that the President can work the country up against the men who voted to kill the bill.

Which would mean economy, plentifully sprinkled with pork. Not even Jim Farley could find out President's Plans. Shortly after the Hatch bill became law, enthusiastic Garner boosters actually made bets, giving three to one, that Roosevelt would not be re-nominated. Pressed as to the explanation of their confidence, they insisted that they were now sure the President had decided not to seek a third term or he would not have signed the bill.

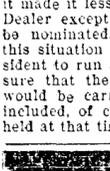

This is far from conclusive logic, as there is strong opinion that for the President to have vetoed the Hatch bill, and then run, would have given the Republicans a very useful club with which to belabor him during the campaign.

Not even Jim Farley was able to find out whether the President will make the race or not, so everything is speculative, but there is one very curious element in the situation, resembling slightly the political effect of the President's defeat last year in the "purge" primaries.

It was contended then by some very astute politicians that every time the President lost a purge fight he thereby made his own re-nomination more likely. The theory at that time was that each defeat made it less likely that the President would be able to force the delegation from that state to the next Democratic convention to vote for some other New Dealer. Hence it made it less likely that any New Dealer except the President could be nominated. And finally, that this situation would force the President to run again in order to ensure that the New Deal policies would be carried on. convention would not dare refuse renomination if the President's friends were fighting for it. By the same token, the Hatch bill has undoubtedly curtailed the power the President will be able to exercise over the national convention. It will be possible to beat the devil round the stump, in many instances, but every time this is done a weak link is inserted in the chain.

Might Work Out This Way in The National Convention. Imagine, for example, Postmaster A, who normally, being a political power in his community, would be a delegate to the national convention. The Hatch law prevents this, so A has his political man Friday selected as delegate instead. Immediately two possible weaknesses occur to the line of federal control which would not exist if A himself were a delegate. First, of course, Friday may intend to do what A orders when he goes to the convention. But when he gets in a delegation caucus—say, for instance, on the question of whether that state delegation will stick by Roosevelt for another ballot—Friday may decide to run out on A, and on Roosevelt. Of course there is nothing A can do about it in time to change the convention results. Or it may be that A wants to retain the appearance of loyalty to Roosevelt, but privately thinks the party's chances in his state would be better with some other nominee. Then he may tell Friday, very confidentially, that he wants the delegation to leave Roosevelt at the first opportunity, and Friday may obey him. Then A can protest to the White House that he was betrayed by that "ingrate" Friday.

But while Roosevelt's chances of controlling the convention are thus weakened, this is no guarantee that he will not be re-nominated. If there is a surge of sentiment for him, just before the convention, which might be manifested in preferential presidential primaries, it is entirely conceivable that the convention would name him.

ERICSON NEWS

Junior Priselilla. . . . . This 4-11 club met last Thursday at the home of their leader, Mrs. L. E. Walford. Only four members attended, due to the fact that several were away on vacations. Considerable work was done on their portfolios, which will probably be exhibited at the Valley county fair next month. Under the supervision of Mrs. Walford the girls started their darning. The next meeting will be held Sept. 1, and the members are inviting their mothers.

Junior Auxiliary. . . . . Fifteen members of the Junior Auxiliary met at the Legion Hall Saturday. In the absence of the president, Loretta Achen, vice-president, presided. Marian Wardrop, historian, exhibited the club's history which will be taken to the state Legion Convention. The greater part of the time was spent making plans for a penny carnival to be held in the Legion hall, Saturday afternoon, August 26. After the business meeting a lunch was served by Doris Klima and Irene Iwanski.

Check Their Eyes Before They Return to School

Defective vision is a handicap to good school work. This condition will be aggravated, now that the new year starts. Constant reading and writing under artificial light is a further strain on their eyes. Before they go back to school, bring them here for a complete eye check.

Arcadia is proud of its distinction in having a canary market. Mr. Walter Sorensen who has bartered here for years took a number of years ago to Canary raising as his hobby. Now when you go into his shop your shaves and haircuts are accompanied by the lovely warbling and singing of Canaries. There are about 100 Canaries in his possession in the barber shop at this time, most of which are young birds hatched at various periods last spring. They are kept in the barber shop for the purpose of learning to sing. They are schooled by Mr. Sorensen and an imported male bird from London which cost Mr. Sorensen $125 about a year ago. This bird is tops in singing as far as Canaries go. Mr. Sorensen says, "When this bird starts singing the younger ones join in and keep this up day after day. Some Canaries make greater progress than others. If I discover a harsh or shrill twitterer, I take it out and place it in another room as it might mar the singing of the good birds." Mr. Sorensen raises two breeds of Canaries. One is of the bright yellow and the other a dark green color. The green birds are the better singers. Mr. Sorensen has shipped birds to all sections of the United States. This has proven to be a financial hobby as well as an interesting one to Mr. Sorensen.

that the knowledge is seeping into Japan and it is becoming evident that the war as yet has not been profitable, and very costly in money and prosperity.

Between the Devil and the Sea.

The controlling party of Japan (the army) dare not take their armies home in defeat. Should they do this, they would be out. As yet they cannot conquer China and their funds are getting low. All peace proposals to Chiang Kiashek are turned down by him except a peace proposal that would be defeat for Japan.

The pick on Great Britain and other foreign powers are merely excuses for their defeat, trying to lay the blame elsewhere than with themselves. Great rewards were promised the Japanese soldiers upon victory, and as yet these have not been met, and the casualty lists have been enormous. The great Chinese dragon is swallowing them up.

Asked in regard to Manchuria whether China could recapture that section or not, Dr. Crandall replied that is the hopes of the Chinese and the Japs have not even that state under good control nor has it yet been a profit to them. The Japs have to keep a big army there all the time and the guerrilla bands are nearly as active as west China.

A New China.

In another way, a new China is developing in the west. Besides the educated and well to do people retreating there, that section has undeveloped mines and fertile lands almost unknown before the war.

There is a railroad part way thru Burma where supplies are brought from Mandalay to the armies and the people. A truck line is being completed and a railroad to connect the Burma road. All fast messages are carried by airplanes. Trucks carry some supplies. Mules carry some, wheelbarrows some. It is said every old device for carrying is used and every modern one, too.

It is Dr. Crandall's hope that the Missionary board will see fit to return her to China to continue her work there, and it is her hopes that she might be sent to west China this time. So strong is her prejudice against the Japanese that she feels she could never work successfully with them, should they continue control of eastern China. Although she does not believe the Japanese as a rule are desirous of killing the Chinese outright, still they make life so miserable for them in the east they about as well be dead.

But should the Missionary board feel as if they could not send her back she will go anyway. She will go if she has to scrub floors and wash dishes for passage. Although she still retains her American citizenship, her heart is in China; she likes the people, expects to spend the rest of her days there, to die there.

Opinion Divided On Advisability of Closed Season

Many Farmers Think Birds Don't Eat Enough Hoppers to Deserve Protection.

Opinion as to the advisability of closing the season on pheasants in Valley county this year is very much divided, not only among sportsmen but among farmers as well, believes County Clerk Igu. Klima, jr., who has been sounding out opinion since the board of supervisors recently requested the state fish and game commission to keep the season closed this year.

Many farmers feel that pheasants do not eat enough grasshoppers to deserve protection on this score, Klima finds. It also is brought out that if the pheasant crop grows large it is likely that the state will trap them again and distribute the birds in less favored sections of the state, so the only effect of a closed season might be to deprive Valley county sportsmen of their hunting this fall.

Six Softball Games on Program of Past Week

Thursday night three Ord teams went to Cotesfield and played three teams from that town. The Ord midgels won the first game by a score of 17 to 2, with Barnes and Billy Johnson as battery. The Ord second team with Blessing and D. Dahlin as battery, lost their contest 3 to 5. Nay and Christensen were performing in good form for the first team, which won by a score of 6 to 4.

Sunday night the Ord first team defeated the second team by a score of 12 to 8. Nay opposed Blessing in the pitching assignment. In the league games last night the K. C.'s finally won a game, defeating the Livestocks by a score of 14 to 8. The Chanticleers defeated the Douthits in the final game, 15 to 4 to lead the league. The standings: Chanticleers, won 5, lost 2; Douthits, won 4, lost 3; Livestocks, won 4, lost 3; and the K. C.'s, won 1, lost 6. Aug. 29 the Livestocks play the Chanticleers, and the Douthits play the Livestocks.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett
Cullen Lake, Minn.

This is Monday morning, 9 o'clock, August 21st and the Leggett cottage is a mighty lonesome place. Hi and Flora and Rosie Dabas and the three little Andersons left at 5 a. m. for Ord. We got up at 4 and made breakfast for them, then when they drove out we tried to sleep again, but couldn't. So at 6:30 I got up and built the fires and we had breakfast. We didn't eat at 4:30 with the folks bound for home. At 7 we turned on the radio and got the weather. We knew it was coolish and Minneapolis said it was 54, makes us think of fall not too far away even though it is only past mid-August. The lake in front is like glass, a beautiful morning and yesterday morning morning and yesterday morning I wanted to take Hi pike fishing at 5 a. m. it was blowing a gale so we couldn't go on the lake. We did go to another lake in the evening but it was still blowing cold from the north and we didn't get any fish. We had a lot of moving things about, getting the cottage back to normal for three people after having a dozen much of the summer with every nook and corner filled. Beds had to be rearranged, the porch swing changed back to its accustomed place, which for the past two months has been occupied by a bed. For the past half hour I have been walking about the yard and picking up toys and putting them in the hinged covered toy box which will be stored up stairs till the children come again next year, and here is hoping we will all be here to enjoy them again as much as we have this summer. I expect to be but the never knows. I am sitting on the front porch facing the lake and I just notice a great flock of wild ducks flying about over the rushes and rice bed out to the right. There are more than a hundred ducks in the flock and they are not very wild. Sometimes as we row along the rushes we get within a few feet of some of them before they fly, but it won't be long now until hunters will be shooting at them and killing many of them. Judge and Mrs. Clements and Lena are with us and will stay till the latter part of this week and then we will be all alone again. But the Fenner's are next door and they I understand, plan on staying into October. I think they will if the work holds out. Mr. Fenner has used up tons of rock and hundreds of pounds of cement this summer, in making a rock wall along the 150-foot line between his lot and the Simpson lot and he is now busy completing the wall across the back end of his lot line with the wall across the back end of my lot. Only he is spending more time and making a nicer wall than I made. Mine was the original idea and of course those who come after can see my mistakes and make such improvements as they think about and the last wall builder will naturally have the nicest wall. That is what is happening at the Dr. Gelow cottage. They have not been so they could spend more than a couple of weeks here each summer and during the time they have owned their place, the former Dr. Shepard cottage, they have done little to improve it. This summer, after most of us have made extensive improvements, each fellow outdoing the others, they are busy rebuilding their cottage. They bought a half lot, formerly owned by the late George Pratt and later by H. Anderson, moved their cottage, built on a large addition facing the lake and they are making it into a beautiful home. Carpenters and masons and plumbers have been busy for weeks and the end is not yet. Dr. Gelow attended to his practice in Grand Island but Mrs. Gelow is here bossing the job. The Dr. is to come for her early in September, spend another week here and then the work will have to stop till next year. But they plan on landscaping the place, setting trees and flowers and when the Dr. retires and they spend most of their summers here as they plan to do, no doubt artistic walls will be built, only they will probably have granite hauled to build of instead of using the native rock as the rest of us are doing. . . . And E. W. Augustine has also made extensive improvements this season with a fine store house a part of which is used for a modern bathroom and he has further improvements in mind for next year, one of which is electric lighting from the high line which is scheduled to come down the highway back of our camp. Several others in camp have signed up for the job when the line is built which is promised by spring. . . . And Ray Luther the guide is buying four lots in addition to the two he already owns and will build several cottages at his end of camp for rental purposes. He expects to have a couple of them ready for the 1940 season. The Clements, who have spent a part of their vacation here for 20 years, are wondering if this may, perchance, be their last visit here. They plan on spending their next summer vacation in California to build their home where they will live after the end of the Judges present term expires January 1, 1941. I predict that after a year or two in California they will be looking forward to spending some of the California summer with the Leggetts on Cullen lake and in turn we may be glad to repay the visits in the winter. Anyhow we hope it will work out that way. . . . And now I must get busy at something to take my mind off the stillness hereabout because of the absence of Tommie and Coralee and Shirley. H. D. Leggett.

men of Indian art, and is still in a perfect state of preservation. A large number of pieces of pottery were found, but not enough to reconstruct a single complete pot. Middle right are shown a group of the men at work digging in another site, with Mr. Smith, right, checking them. The work has been very difficult because of the hardness of the soil, which prevents scraping it off, which is the usual procedure in this kind of work, as it is possible to get much more accurate data by this method.

The lower photos were taken the past week, and show, lower left, the remains of a number of skeletons, left on pedestals. The bones are not disturbed, but the ground was dug lower in order to find any traces of earlier inhabitants. The picture shows only a small part of the excavation space, which is on top of the highest hill in the neighborhood, and in which no less than 54 skeletons had been found at the time the picture was taken.

Lower right is shown a close-up of one of the more perfect skeletons, which has all its bones. The graves were dug with a tool made from the shoulder blade of a buffalo with the wide end sharpened, a specimen of which was found. The skeletons run in depth from 10 inches to more than four feet under ground, and those near the surface are badly damaged by moisture and frost. A number of skeletons of little babies were found, each with the complete fragments of a piece of pottery.

The Nebraska State Historical society has known of the existence of these buildings and grave sites for years, and they were located many years ago by Paul Mortensen of Cotesfield, one of the best known archeologists in the state, who has been active in this line of work for a quarter of a century, but the work was delayed by lack of funds. With the help of the WPA valuable facts have become known of these prehistoric citizens.

Since the work began public interest in the project has been increasing until at the present time they are coming by the hundreds to see what is being done, with amateur photographers by the score taking pictures from every angle. Last Sunday's visitors found the location equipped with hot dog, soft drink and watermelon stands, the owners of which were doing a thriving business. The ground will be filled in again as soon as the work is completed.

Excavating at Indian Village on Davis Creek

(Continued from Page 1). time, approximately 1500 years ago, were an agricultural race, since they subsisted largely on corn which they raised and stored in large pits in the ground. Caryle S. Smith of Columbia university, N. Y., is WPA supervisor for this project, and is assisted by two students, Moss Fletcher of Illinois and Ralph Solcecka of N. Y. The group have a trailer and tent camp right on the grounds, and thus are on the job practically all the time. The work will continue until Sept. 17, and possibly longer.

The first two places uncovered were the house, upper left, which measures about 27 feet square. Mr. Smith is examining the fire place in the center, where all the cooking was done, and where fire was kept to keep warm. Most of the holes shown were for poles, which set upright in the ground. They were forked at the top, and carried other poles for the framework of the house. The large hole to the left is a storage pit for corn. Upper right is shown a large granary, with a number of storage pits for corn, each large enough to hold several bushels of corn. Proof that they were used for corn was found in the fact that some scorched corn was found. Any corn not scorched would have disappeared long ago, but charred corn is almost indestructible. The photo, middle left, shows some of the relics found while digging. They are, left to right, a fragment of pottery, a stone celt, or skinning knife, a flint knife, and a bone knife. The latter is an especially fine specimen.

Kearns' Observe Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Kearns celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, Aug. 20, at their farm home northeast of Ord, with a family dinner for thirty guests, and open house for neighbors and friends in the afternoon. A mock wedding was held in the afternoon and numerous gifts were received.

Mr. and Mrs. Kearns were married 50 years ago at Chappell. Mrs. Kearns, who was Millie Kelly before her marriage, was born in Fulton county, Ill., 1871, and came to Saunders county, Nebr., in 1882, moving to Cheyenne county in 1887. Mr. Kearns was born in Taylor county, Ia., and came to Saunders county at the age of 4 years.

In 1892 he and Mrs. Kearns moved to Silver Creek, Nebr., and two years later purchased a farm in Polk county, where they lived until moving to Valley county in 1936. They have five children, all of whom were home Sunday. Mrs. Leonard Wiseman of Osceola, Ray of Scotia, Viva of Kearney, and Delos and Edward at home.

Seven of their eight grandchildren also attended the anniversary. Relatives attending from a distance were Wm. McCay of Deer Harbor, Wash., uncle of Mr. Kearns, Mrs. George Sime of Lodgepole, Nebr., sister of Mrs. Kearns, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wiseman and Melvin of Osceola, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wiseman of Clark, Mr. and Mrs. George Hewitt of Stromburg, Paul Gassman of York, Miss Viva Kearns of Kearney, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kearns and three children of Scotia, Luella McDonald of Scotia, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Evans of Burwell, Mrs. Lewis Moore and two children of Burwell, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Andrews of Aurora, and Mrs. Martin Nelson and daughter of Aurora. One granddaughter, Mrs. Cella Craft, of North Loup, was unable to attend, as she was attending a reunion of her husband's relatives the same day.

HALFWAY HOUSE EARLY DAY RELIC

Some time in the '70s there was established at a point across the river east of Cotesfield, a hotel known as the Halfway House, for the benefit of those who were traveling either to or from Ft. Hartsuff, then in the process of construction. In fact this travel continued for a number of years after the fort was completed, possibly until the railroad built into North Loup and made it possible for people to obtain a market closer home.

The first man with whom the proprietorship of the Halfway House is connected in local history was a man known as Doc Beebe, who conducted the hotel, which had a large straw barn in connection for the use of the teams, and also made a number of lime kilns in the canyon back of the hotel, where he burned lime from the chalk rock he dug from the canyon banks. To insure against surprise by the Indians, a tunnel was built through a ridge behind the hotel through which the besieged could gain access to a neighboring canyon and escape.

In these kilns lime was burned for many years, and much of it was used by the government in the construction of the buildings at Ft. Hartsuff. It is said that much of it was also used in construction in Ord, and that some buildings still standing, including the Ord Hotel, contain some of this material. It was not the best, perhaps, but it has lasted a long time in the buildings of the fort, and would last a great many more years if the buildings were properly cared for as a park project.

The buildings are located on what is now known as the Ed Dishaw place. Frank Miller, Scotia hardwareman, went with the Quiz photographer to the place when he took the pictures, and he appears in one of the lime kilns. Mr. Miller got Joe Billyeu, also of Scotia, to tell what he knew of the early day history of Halfway House. Mr. Billyeu says that Doc Beebe was located at the house and was burning lime when they first came to the valley in 1877.

Doc was one of those men who believed in making himself useful at all times, especially if his work offered some remuneration. In the early days bridges were none too good, and would wash out or break down. Whenever this happened Mr. Beebe would construct a ferry and ply a brisk trade taking people across the river. Later he was crippled by a fall from a windmill, which also shortened his life.

After a time he sold the place to his son-in-law and bought the place just south of it, on which he built a set of buildings. The hotel was about 40 by 60 feet in size, and the upstairs was divided into bed rooms. After a time the partitions were taken out of one side and the space converted into a dance hall, which was liberally patronized by the settlers. About 1903 or 1909 the house burned down under rather suspicious circumstances, but the walls still stand.

In the pictures above are shown, at the left, a view of the canyon in which the Halfway House was located; at right, the walls of the old building can still be seen on either side of the new building, which was built on the old foundation. In the white circle is shown the opening to the old tunnel which reached through the hill. It is now used for a cellar. Below, Mr. Miller stands with one foot inside one of the old lime kilns, the front of which has fallen away.

When You And I Were Young Maggie

August 22, 1929. It was expected that records would fall in Ord's 1929 racing program, as some of the fastest dirt track half-milers were to be entered in the competition.

August 21, 1919. A group of Ord business men formed an organization and had purchased a Curtiss airplane under the name of the Ord Aero company.

August 19, 1900. Secretary W. H. Carson was assuring the public that the 1909 Valley county fair would be the best ever.

August 25, 1899. A deal was reported whereby Alonzo Sutton of Loup City was to buy the Jaques and Crow ranches in Garfield and Valley counties for $65,000.

August 23, 1880. Cinderella was to be presented at the court house by a group of little people on Aug. 23.

Arcadia was talking strongly of opening a brick yard there in the fall and making their own brick. The Ord ball team went to North Loup and lost a game to the team of that town by a score of 32 to 7.

Notes From the VALLEY COUNTY FARM BUREAU By C. C. Dale

Circular on Silage. A new emergency circular on harvesting, storing and feeding silage is now available free at the Valley county (farm bureau) office in Ord.

Fall Seeding of Alfalfa. Reserve soil moisture, grasshoppers and weeds are among the chief factors taken into account by Valley county farmers who are making plans to seed alfalfa this fall.

Mary Quinn Brandfas.
Mary Magalene Quinn, daughter of John and Johana Quinn, was born at Erina, Nebr. June 11, 1895 where the early years of her childhood were spent. She passed away in Burwell August 17, 1939 at the age of 44 years, 2 months and 6 days. In 1905 she came to Burwell to attend school and made her home with her aunt, Mrs. Herb. Davis with whom she lived for eighteen years. Graduated from the Burwell high school in 1915 she taught school in and around Burwell for a number of years, part of the time as Principal of the Burwell high school. She attended the Kearney State Normal college and received both her first grade state and life certificate from that institution in 1921. Baptized in early infancy she remained an earnest Christian. She was a loving wife, daughter and friend and her cheerful personality was interwoven with those she met in the common walks of life. She was married to Ernest Brandfas October 11, 1923 and has since resided on a farm near Burwell. For the past three years she was county relief administrator and state assistance director. In this service she found discouraged and weary, and they went on their way comforted and happier for having passed in the happy and stress of life for her. She never refused to give of herself for those who needed her help. She was given ability of making deep and lasting friendships. Youth and age alike looked into her face and knew that they had found a friend. In her work as Principal of the Burwell high school she gave her students something more than the accumulation of facts. Through her council and personality she built into their lives a background of faith, or courage and of achievement. Mrs. Brandfas was a member of the Royal Neighbors and Robekah Lodges, and a member of local and county Women's clubs, taking an active part in all of these organizations. She was secretary of the county federation of women's clubs for a number of years. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, mother, a sister Mrs. Carl Treptow and a brother Jack Quinn all of Burwell; a sister Margaretha Schuldt of Ashland, a brother Donald Quinn of Douglas, Wyo.; besides six nephews and two nieces, two uncles William McDonald of Burwell and Tom McDonald of Aurora; four aunts Mrs. T. ## PUBLIC AUCTION of Real Estate

A quarter section of Howard County land lying one mile west of the city limits of the village of Cushing, Nebr., the legal description of which is: The West Half of the Northeast Quarter and the North Half of the Northwest Quarter of Section 6, Township 15, Range 9.

Sale will be held on the premises starting at 2:00 o'clock on Tuesday, August 29th

The reason for the selling of this farm is that the present owner's health has failed and she is going to sell it regardless of price.

IMPROVEMENTS: One 5 room house, A 2 room farm house, 16x24, which will be sold separately from farm. Barn, 36x40, with a large hay mow, stanchions for 12 cows 2 large grain bins. Good windmill, well and cistern. Double garage, stock cow barn with two grain bins and stock cattle shed. Farm is fenced and cross-fenced. Wash house and a milk house with a cement floor, 14x16. Hog house, 20x24 capacity 6 sows. Several other small buildings. These buildings are in fair condition, but a little repair will put them up in A-1 shape. The share of the crop, which is 2-5ths of all corn and 1-3 of all forage will be sold for cash at the time of sale. There are 34 acres of tillable land, about 65 acres of which is practically level, the balance of this tillable soil has been in alfalfa in recent years and is really productive. This leaves about 60 acres in pasture and hay land.

Note: The above and foregoing tax levises for the various taxing subdivisions represent also total dollars tax on each $1,000.00 of assessed value of tangible property in such subdivisions.

Upon motion duly carried, meeting adjourned sine die.

Ign. Klimka, Jr., County Clerk. August 8, 1939, 2:00 P. M.

Meeting of Board of Supervisors called to order by Chairman with Supervisors Jablonski, Suchanek, Bremer, Zikmund, Ball, Barber and Hansen present upon roll call.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved as read. Report of Frank Kruml, County Relief Director, of expenditures of $355.80, for relief during July, was accepted as read.

Requisition of Frank Kruml, County Relief Director, for $500.00 for relief purposes during August, was allowed in the amount of $700.00.

The matter of adequate administrative staff for the Assistance office then came on for a discussion with Frank Kruml, after which Supervisor Ball introduced the following resolution, to-wit:

WHEREAS, Nature and Providence has by drought again reduced all crops to a minimum, leaving many families in a distressed condition and creating a new emergency situation, and

WHEREAS New Legislation and Federal Relief Program Administrative Rules, demand additional local administrative procedure, and

WHEREAS Both new legislation and drought have seriously reflected in case load increases, making it advisable to increase administrative staffs,

WHEREAS Due to the complications arising from the revised Budget Law, and the inability of Valley County to meet the additional burden of increasing the administrative staff,

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that this Board of Supervisors, of Valley County, Nebraska, do hereby petition the State Director of Assistance, and the State Board of Control, to assume the necessary additional expense of maintaining an adequate administrative staff in the Valley County Assistance office during the ensuing crisis, as provided for in Sec. 68-324, Comp. Stat. Supp. 1937 and amended by Sec. 1, Legislative Bill No. 429, of the Fifty-Third Session, Nebraska State Legislature.

Motion to adopt was seconded by Jablonski, and carried and said resolution unanimously adopted.

Upon motion duly seconded and carried, County Court Order, awarding mothers' pension to Aimee Carmody, at $10.00 per month for six months from August 1, 1939, was confirmed by Board.

Upon motion duly carried, County Clerk was directed to draw General Fund warrant for $1,123.44 in payment of 19th installment of paving tax, account of paving around courtyard.

Upon motion duly seconded meeting recessed to August 9, 1939, at 1:00 P. M., at which time again called to order by Chairman with all supervisors present upon roll call.

The matter of a 1939 open season on pheasants came on for consideration, and after considering a large number of requests to the various supervisors for a closed season, Supervisor Barber introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption, to-wit:

WHEREAS, on account of extreme drought and grasshopper infestation during the year 1939, there appears to be a lack of feed and a scarcity of young pheasants in Valley County, Nebraska, and

WHEREAS, pheasants play an important part in the control of grasshoppers,

BE IT RESOLVED that there be no open season on pheasants in Valley County, Nebraska, during the year 1939, and that a copy of this resolution as adopted be certified to the State Department of Game and Fish, as a formal request for a closed season on pheasants during 1939, in Valley County, Nebraska.

Said motion to adopt, was seconded by Jablonski and unanimously carried, and said resolution adopted.

Supervisor Jablonski then introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption, to-wit:

WHEREAS It has come to the attention of this Board of County Supervisors of Valley County, Nebraska, that many persons receiving aid from Valley County, have been and are buying such goods and provisions as are not considered necessities of life, but are considered as luxuries as shown by claims of the various merchants, filed against this County, therefore

BE IT RESOLVED, by this Board of County Supervisors, that from and after the adoption of this Resolution, no claim of any merchant will be allowed to be paid, for any articles or provisions, other than those enumerated herein, unless such other articles or items of provisions or merchandise are specifically authorized by a County Supervisor in writing.

Motion to adopt was seconded by Suchanek, carried and said resolution adopted.

Harvesting Burwell's First Crop of Irrigated Potatoes

At Burwell potato growers have been busy for the past week or two harvesting the first crop of potatoes raised under the North Loup irrigation project. Upper left is a scene on the Wayne Mann farm three miles southwest of Burwell, with five pickers at work. They look like grain shocks because they have a belt full of empty sacks to carry along. Just beyond them is the digger, and beyond that a truck picking up the potatoes. Upper right, is a view taken at the old mill, where the potatoes are being emptied from the sacks into the sorter, which takes out the clods and small potatoes. Two hand pickers also help here. Middle left shows the washing process. The potatoes are soaked in water below and carried up the incline, where jets of water wash off all the dirt. The No. 1 potatoes and No. 2's and also separated here. Middle right, the potatoes are being sacked and weighed. Lower left, Jack Lenker and Franklin Houser are loading the sacked potatoes into a boxcar for shipment. Lower right shows the pre-cooler, which blows cold air into the boxcar and cools the cargo to 32 degrees before the doors are sealed for shipping. This takes 2 1/2 hours. Twelve men are employed on the work, and the sorter has a maximum capacity of about 200 pounds per minute. The seconds are being sold at 50¢ per hundred locally, while the first cars of first grade potatoes shipped brought $1.15 on the market.

Leo Sell left Sunday for Elmwood where he will be employed. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hale and family moved Wednesday to the Charley Gartside house. A charivari party was held Monday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Creech. Mr. and Mrs. Creech have moved to furnished rooms in the Eva Bulger home.

Space does not permit copying Senator Benes' speech verbatim, but the following are a few of the more pertinent statements he made. "The settlement of Munich was for the Czechoslovaks a dreadful awakening from a dream. But even Munich preserved our state and some liberty in it. March 15 destroyed the rest of the Czechoslovak republic, giving her the last mortal blow. When the German armies marched through the old walls of our beautiful Prague, the anger, sorrow, and reproaches of Sept. 30, 1938, changed to despair, and finally into helpless apathy, mistrusting everybody and even ourselves."

"There is no more 'public thinking,' authors have ceased to write and publish their works. The whole book production is constantly sinking. Writers and scientists do not have freedom for their creative work and are discontinuing publication because their liberty would be threatened. Thus the spiritual life of the nation is declining. Those 20 years under Masaryk and Benes restored our national self-confidence: With our own hands, we built up a happy country. But now our work is lying in ruins."

"We do not think of war. We know that war is a crime. But we fear no more those who live in crime. We believe in our truth and our future. Through all the land of Czechs and Slovaks goes a faith that the world will return to light, to God, from materialism to spirit. The Czechoslovak people believe just as T. G. Masaryk, the dead and eternally living leader of his nation, that in the end, 'not Caesar, but Jesus will be victorious.'"

At the close of the speech the little daughter of Joe Urbanovsky presented Senator Benes with a lovely basket of flowers. He was a guest, while in Ord in the F. J. L. Benda home and left today for Havana, where he will hold a similar meeting this evening.

Saturday Sale
AT THE SALE RING IN ORD
SATURDAY, AUGUST 26
SALE STARTS AT 1:00 O'CLOCK
We had a heavy run of pigs and cattle last Saturday. The market on the pigs was slow. But on the cattle, was steady and very active. We had a lot of buyers who are absorbing all the cattle in this territory.
In next Saturday's Sale, it looks like:
135 HEAD OF CATTLE, including good feeder steers and heifers mixed. Several fat cows. 2 good Hereford bulls, 1 year old. 40 bucket calves.
150 HEAD OF HOGS, including weanling pigs, feeders and sows.
We had orders last Saturday for light hogs, within 30c of Omaha top, which made a splendid market for all consigners. We have a broad outlet for all classes of stock. And the buyers are coming from a greater radius because they like to buy this stock right from this market where it comes fresh from the country.
Consign your stock here, where you will receive fair and courteous service.

Six New Teachers on Faculty of Ord Schools; Registration Under Way Now, Schools Will Open Monday, September 4th

MARY KAY RISSER.

Registration is under way this week and the Ord schools will open next Monday, Sept. 4, probably with an enrollment about the same size as in 1938, said Superintendent C. C. Thompson this morning.

Six new teachers have been engaged and their pictures appear above, so that students and par-

Midget Auto Races at Night Bound to Be Crowd Pleasers

Snappy 1 1/2 Hour Show is the Aim of Supt. Baker; Only 12 Days Until Fair.

For President R. Clare Clement, Secretary E. L. Kokes, Race Superintendent Clyde Baker and others in charge of the Valley county fair the next 12 days will be days of frenzied preparation, for the big event starts Sept. 11 and less than two weeks remain before that date.

Completion of the program was announced yesterday by Kokes and Henry Enger. Racing programs will be given each evening, they say, but there will be afternoon shows only on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 12 and 13. The night programs are to be put on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

A snappy 1 1/2 hour race program is the aim of Superintendent Baker. He is assured that at least 20 of the middle west's leading midget drivers will be in Ord to compete. Among them will be Sam Hoffman, smiling policeman from Sioux City, Ray Leslie, Vic Felt, Lloyd Axel, Ray Vorbeck, Vic Shay and others from Denver, Bud Martinson, from St. Louis, Bert McNece, of Pueblo, and a number of others who have won renown on tracks of the central west.

Flood lights are being installed so that every foot of the track will be illuminated. The track itself is being put in shape this week. Nine or ten races will comprise the card each evening, says Baker, and they will be run off in rapid succession with no long, tiresome waits between races.

Several of the drivers who have signed up to race in Ord have cars powered with Offenhauser racing motors, making them the aristocracy of the racing game. Most expensive car to show here probably will be Ray Leslie's $4,000 job but others are almost in the same class. And some of the cars powered by Ford V-8 motors may take the measure of the Offenhausers—they have on occasion this season at Overland Park in Denver.

Cal Thompson and his famous White Horse Troupe from Stuart, Neb., will provide the afternoon programs Tuesday and Wednesday. A 45-minute show will be put on by these albino horses. Admission charges have been reduced to 15c for this show, the fair management has announced.

Drastic reduction in all admission charges is planned. Gate charges will be 25c for adults, 10c for children and a ticket will admit the holder both afternoon and evening. It will cost only 25c to take an auto into the grounds, this ticket likewise being good for all day. Grandstand seats for the evening performance will be $50, scale down to 25c. Sept. 12 will be school children's day with all children admitted free at the gate.

Excellent exhibits in all departments are predicted by the various superintendents, who will be busy this week getting the buildings ready for entry day, Sept. 11. The 4-H club show will be especially large, it is stated.

Chris Belers, concession superintendent, announces that a contract has been signed with the Thomas Amusement company to put a carnival on the grounds. There will be four rides, four shows and at least 15 concessions in this outfit. Various independent concessionaires also are seeking space. Nightly dancing in Boby's pavilion with music by Harry Collins' orchestra is promised.

The auto races this year at the Valley county fair will be night midget races, which are said to be much more thrilling and dangerous than daytime racing. Plan now to attend the Valley county fair Sept. 12, 13 and 14.

Burwell Municipal Band Played Here Wednesday

The Burwell Municipal band, under the direction of M. H. Struve, played a concert from the steps of the courthouse Wednesday evening. The concert comprised fourteen selections, making a well rounded evening of marches, polkas, waltzes and specialties. Two of these were Little Sir Echo and the Beer Barrel Polka, with Gale Demaree, 8 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Demaree playing the solos on a trumpet, to the delight of the crowd.

He did very well indeed, especially when it is stated that he lost a piece from his cornet a few days before and had to borrow a trumpet for the occasion. The singing of "God Bless America" by Mrs. Struve was also a most pleasing feature. She has a very deep contralto voice and the people liked the song so well that they asked her to sing it a second time.

Nursery School. Nursery school children are having a vacation this week while the teachers are painting, varnishing and cleaning the rooms and toys. School will re-open Sept. 4. Parents having children eligible for nursery school should get in touch with Mrs. Lois Work.

14 New Teachers in Rural Schools of Valley County

73 Will Teach in the Country Schools This Year; Opening Date Is September 4th.

Miss Clara McClatchey, county superintendent, announces the following list of teachers in the rural schools of Valley county for the coming year. Included in the list is No. 1, the No. Loup rural school, and No. 63, Elvira. Out of the 73 teachers on the list, 36 are new to their position this year, and 14 are teaching for the first time.

A pre-opening meeting for rural teachers will be held in the office of the county superintendent on Saturday, Sept. 2. Most of the rural schools will open on Sept. 4. One school, No. 59, will be closed this year. This is known as the Otto Lueck school about 6 miles northeast of Arcadia. There has been no school in No. 72, four miles south of Ord, for several years.

Arcadians Stop in Ord Monday on Booster Trip

A cavalcade of about thirty Arcadia cars arrived in Ord Monday shortly after noon, advertising the fall festival being held at Arcadia Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 5 and 6. They had been scheduled to arrive at noon, put on their show and eat dinner here. This part of the program was carried out to the letter, but possibly a few minutes late. They were accompanied by the band, which played some fine music.

Of most interest were the whiskers sported by every booster of the male sex, in every style and every color of the rainbow. The ladies of the expedition made the excursion in dresses of the vintage of fifty years ago, and there were also a few clown suits in evidence. They made everybody in Ord feel welcome to attend the big celebration they are putting on Sept. 5 and 6.

Quiz Will Sponsor Cooking School At Theatre Sept. 19-20

Miss Dorothy Gill Again Will Bring New Recipes and Methods to Homemakers.

Preparations are under way for a big 2-day cooking school to be given at the Ord Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 19 and 20, under the sponsorship of the Quiz, with Miss Dorothy Gill, of Omar Mills, Inc., as demonstrator. The sessions are absolutely free, there will be a fashion show in connection with the school, a number of door and other prizes will be given away, and homemakers of the Ord territory are urged to mark these dates on their calendars in red ink.

Scene of the 2-day culinary sessions will be the Ord Theatre, which location was chosen because it provides ample room. Two years ago when Miss Gill conducted a school in the Masonic Hall the crowd was so large that many had to stand. There will be plenty of comfortable seats for all in the Ord Theatre.

Miss Gill, as women who attended the 1937 school know, is young and attractive, has a pleasing style and a ready wit. She is famed throughout the middle west for her work as a demonstrator in the science of homemaking.

No effort will be spared to make attendance at the Quiz's free cooking school worth while. All the delicious and attractive food dishes prepared by Miss Gill will be given away at the close of each session. In addition there will be special merchandise prizes.

Ord firms will be invited to display electrical appliances and home conveniences in connection with the show. The fashion show, 20 minutes in length, will be given by Chase's Toggery each day.

Ord Received Another Nice Rain Early Monday

Following in the wake of a windy and very disagreeable day Sunday, this section was visited by three showers early Monday, the total fall being .80 of an inch in Ord. The Arcadia boosters stated that Arcadia had only a quarter of an inch, but that Taylor reported 1.37 inch, and Burwell about the same amount. The fall was heavier at Elvira, and amounted to a flood on Haskell creek, which was running bank full that morning. The humidity is high at present, and showers are predicted for Nebraska.

New Ord Library Inspected by 316 People Saturday

Morning Story Hour Heard by 30 Little Folks; Souvenir Program Given.

Registration at the Ord Township library opening Saturday showed that 316 people had inspected the building and equipment during the afternoon and evening. In addition 30 little folks came in the morning for the story hour and signed their names on a special roster. Souvenir programs were handed out to all who inspected the new library.

For the story hour Miss Daisy Hallen told the young people about five little books that are to be found on the shelves of the library. Mrs. Mark Tolén had a number of large pictures which she had drawn and which she used to illustrate stories she told. This story hour will be a regular feature from 10 to 11 a. m., each Saturday.

Many flowers were received for decorating the room, the donors being Mrs. Vincent Kokes, Mrs. Charles Bals, Mrs. Clarence M. Davis, Mrs. Will Zabloudil, and the Loup Valley Florists. During the afternoon Miss Mada Clement helped the librarian, Miss Elsie Wiberg, as did also the lady members of the board, Mrs. C. E. Goodhand, Mrs. Evet Smith and Mrs. G. W. Taylor.

The new library has two cases in which were displayed many relics of early days, loaned for the occasion by their owners. Among them were: A sketch of the village of Ord in 1884, loaned by Mrs. Coombs; a very old lamp, loaned by W. A. Anderson; a collection of Valley county Indian relics owned by J. A. Kovanda; an old time chopping knife loaned by N. J. Holt; a cross made of Colorado semi-precious stones and a lion sculptured by Antoine Louis Bayre, loaned by Mrs. Goodhand; a Staffordshire china plate of 1803.

In the other case were a Bible of 1655, loaned by Jack Brown; Lives of the Apostles, 1810, loaned by W. A. Anderson; the first indictment in district court in Valley county, action started in 1874; the first probate in county court, will of Wm. H. Fradenburgh; newspaper of 1807, loaned by Clarence M. Davis; the first county marriage record book, showing the marriage record of William A. Hobson and Emily C. Bancroft, married by W. D. Long, Aug. 9, 1873; also a very old silk dress.

The relics in the cases will be changed from time to time, and the board will appreciate the loan of any small articles of interest for display in the cases. The interest shown by the public in the opening of the new Ord Township library is very gratifying. The library was open Monday for the first loaning of books, and will be open at regular hours hereafter. The public is cordially invited to use the library, and to call and see the new books that have been added to the already large list.

Movie of Crucifixion to Be Shown in Ord

A talking motion picture depicting the crucifixion of Christ will be shown at the Bohemian hall in Ord, Sunday, Sept. 3 under the auspices of the Christian Ladies Aid. The picture is "Golgotha," which cost over $500,000 to film, and required a cast of thousands. It is the first talking picture ever made of the life of Christ.

—Mrs. J. B. Hansen returned home Thursday from North Platte, where she had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Bertie Bartholomew.

George Allen, Jr., Named Utility Head at Friend

Announcement was made this week that George Allen, jr., of Ord, has been appointed light and water commissioner for the city of Friend, effective September 1. George attended the University of Nebraska college of engineering and for the past couple of years has been employed in and around Ord, first as an engineer on the North Loup project and then as a WPA engineer. More recently he has been manufacturing and installing air conditioning units in this city.

372,891 Trees Have Been Planted in Valley County

Since the federal shelterbelt program started in 1936, Valley county farmers have assisted the Prairie States Forestry project in establishing 38,12 miles of field shelterbelts on 65 farms, reports L. A. Ricket, of Loup City, senior shelterbelt assistant. A total of 372,891 trees have been planted, he says.

Most of these trees have made a remarkable growth and some of the faster-growing varieties are now 15 to 20 feet tall. Plantings that have received good cultivation and care have outgrown those that had poor or medium care.

Plans are now being made for planting shelterbelts in Valley county in 1940. Any farmer interested should apply to County Agent C. C. Dale or to the district office at St. Paul.

Klat Committed To Asylum

Following a period Monday evening in which he remained out all night and acted strangely, Wm. Klat was taken before the insanity board Tuesday morning and was committed to the asylum at Hastings. F. J. Cohen and L. H. Covert made the trip there with him. He has had sanitarium treatment in the past, but this was his first regular commitment.

Jack Jefford Visits Ord, Has Pleasant Job of Ferrying Six Stinson Planes to Nome, Alaska

Jack Jefford, who once operated a flying school in Ord, was a visitor here Saturday, but his visit was very short. Jack is now chief pilot for the Mirrow Airlines, of Nome, Alaska, and he has the pleasant job of ferrying six new Stinson 12-passenger tri-motor airplanes from the factory at St. Joseph, Mo., to the company's base at Nome.

He was flying one of these huge 8-ton planes when he was in Ord Saturday, and Elwin Dunlap, who recognized the plane and drove to the landing field, had the pleasure of riding with Jefford to Hastings, the trip being made in 23 minutes. He returned with Larry Litwiller, of Taylor, in a new Aerona Chief. In the picture above Jefford, at

Three Ord Women Win Offices At State Convention

Mrs. Mortensen Heads Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. Wiegardt Heads 8 et 40.

When Ord women announced their program to the Legionnaires some two months ago, to go to the department convention with the purpose in mind of winning two or more offices, the men thought they were too ambitious, and told them so. They offered to help in any way they could, but did not think it was possible to bring so much honor to Ord. However, the women came home with three department offices, as follows: Mrs. C. J. Mortensen was elected president of the Nebraska department of the American Legion Auxiliary. Mrs. A. A. Wiegardt was chosen as head of the 8 et 40, department of Nebraska in a meeting held in connection with the department Legion-Auxiliary convention. Mrs. C. R. Wareham of Ord was elected secretary of the same organization. Mrs. Wiegardt is known as the chapeau-department, and Mrs. Wareham is secretary-cassiere.

Among those from Ord who were in attendance at the several conventions were Jim Gilbert, Glen Johnson, Fred Zlomke and Mrs. Mortensen, who went Saturday; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Springer, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wolf, Mrs. Wiegardt, and C. J. Mortensen, who went Sunday; and A. A. Wiegardt, C. W. Clark and possibly others who went yesterday. They say that the conventions were among the best ever held in Nebraska.

A mistake was made in the copy of the premium list which was handed the Ord Quiz for publication two weeks ago. Dave Arnold, superintendent of horses and mules, is also to have charge of cattle and sheep, as was stated in the original copy.

Brick Laying Is Started On Ord's New Postoffice

Monday the brick layers began work on the new Ord postoffice, the base for which was poured last week. The foundations for the central part of the building are also in place. The ground is being leveled this morning for the six foot sidewalk along the west side of the lot, and this will be laid at once. Weather conditions have been fine for the work and Mr. Goodhand is well pleased with the progress being made.

George Benda Fined On Drunken Driving Charge

George Benda was picked up on Sunday while driving under the influence of liquor. Monday he entered a plea of guilty to a charge made by County Attorney John P. Misko of operating a motor vehicle on the public highway while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, and drew a fine of $25 and costs of $3.75. He also drew a jail sentence of 5 days and had his driver's license suspended for a period of 30 days.

Pheasant Season Closed in Valley, 7 Nearby Counties

Game Commission Heed Plea of Supervisors; Season on Ducks Announced.

Valley county sportsmen will have to go far afield for their pheasant hunting this fall, for Friday the Nebraska game commission announced that the season would be closed, not only in Valley but in 7 nearby counties.

Other counties near Valley in which pheasants may not be hunted this fall include Boone, Garfield, Greeley, Hall, Howard, Loup and Wheeler. Other Nebraska counties that will have a closed season on pheasants are Kimball, Gage, Johnson, Merrick, Nance, Pawnee and Stanton.

Only counties adjacent to Valley in which hunting will be permitted are Sherman and Custer. Last year Sherman had a closed season.

Dates of the pheasant season, in counties where hunting is permitted, are Oct. 22 to Oct. 31 inclusive. Shooting is permitted between the hours of 7 a. m. and 5 p. m.

The waterfowl season for Nebraska also opens on October 22 and continues until Dec. 5, the season being placed later this year at the plea of western sportsmen. Hours are 7 a. m. to 4 p. m., daily limit on ducks is 10 and possession limit is 20. Daily bag limit on geese is 4, possession limit 8.

Harry Bresley's Barn Struck by Lightning

About 6:00 a. m. Monday during the rain and electric storm Harry Bresley's barn was struck by lightning and caught afire but flames were extinguished before much damage was done. The bolt of lightning tore out a studding, ran down the electric wires and caught the hay afire. Dean Bresley, Bruce Sinkler and Vernon Stanton were milking near by and ran into the barn, putting out the flames within a few minutes.

The barn was full of Bresley's prize horses but none was hurt. One horse was knocked down by the lightning bolt and all were frightened but soon calmed down as the three men put out the fire.

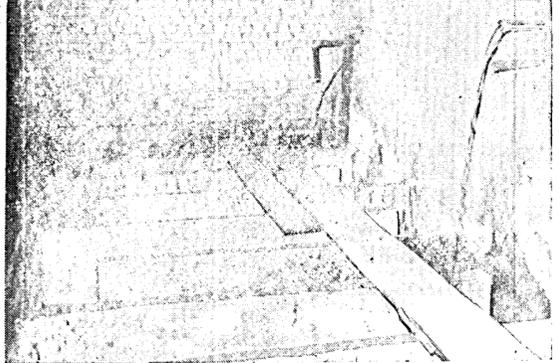

—Bill Balrd arrived in Ord last evening on the bus and will visit here for a short time. He had been in California and is on his way back to his work at Cornell University.

Ord's Water Filtration Plant Shown in Pictures

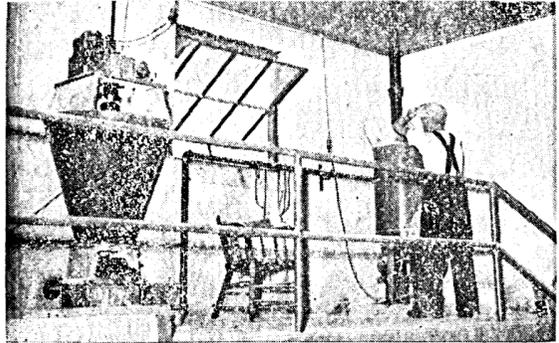

Since Ord's filtration plant was built a number of years ago, the city has had an unending supply of water, but very few of the consumers have had an opportunity to see just how the plant operates.

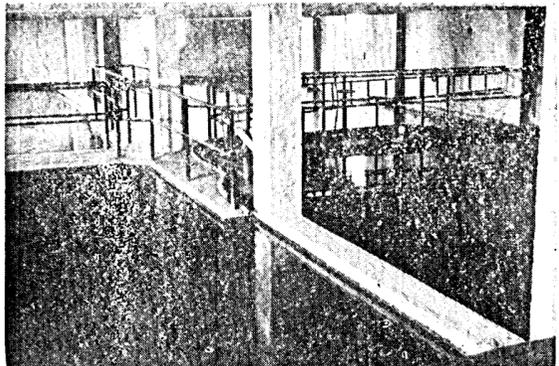

The photo directly at left shows the water as it is pumped into the plant, running down over the big aerator, which puts oxygen into the water and cools it.

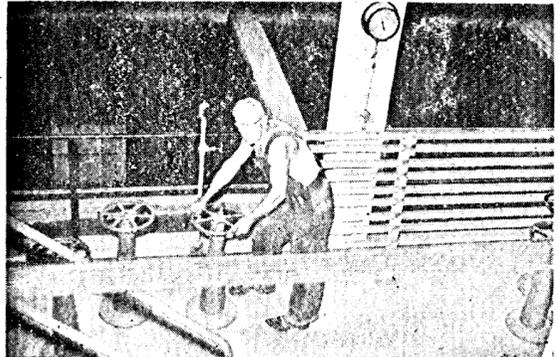

1. From the aerator the water runs into this mixing vat, made with walls projecting from each side which cause the water to flow back and forth and mix the chemicals thoroughly.

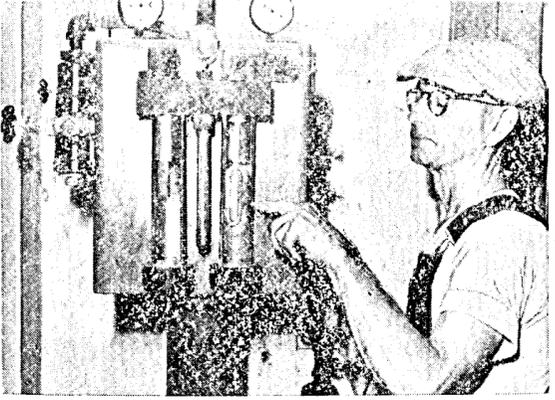

2. This is the opposite side of the wall shown in No. 1, showing the machines that prepare and measure the lime, left, and the alum, right.

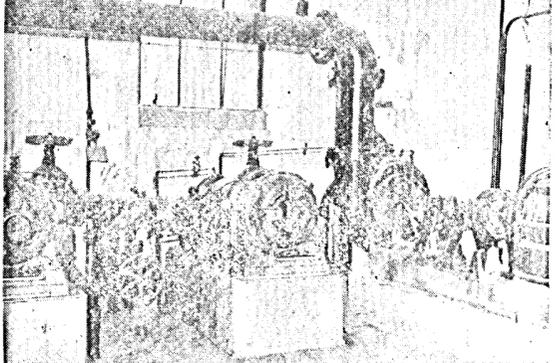

3. The water then flows to the four large settling vats shown here, in which all the mud settles to the bottom. The tanks are clarified every week or ten days by washing them out with water under pressure.

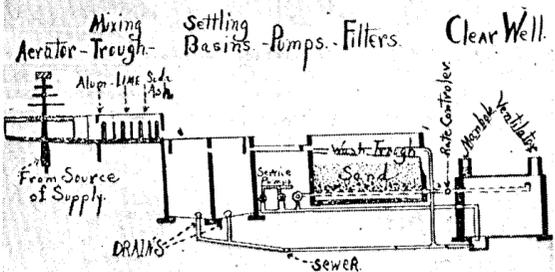

4. From the settling vats the water goes into the filter, which contains about six different sizes of sand, the coarsest on top and the finest a special grade of round sand shipped in from Minnesota.

5. Here Harry Dye is showing the chlorinator, which automatically adds chlorine to the water in just the right proportion.

6. This view shows the centrifugal pumps which do all the pumping within the plant, and also force the purified water to the reservoir on top of the hill.

7. This drawing by Ilene Weller shows, left to right, the different processes as shown in the photos, except that the pumps are shown in their location, between the settling basins and the filter.

If you have thought in the past that you were drinking water out of the North Loup river, these pictures should change your mind, for the water is so thoroughly cleaned in the filtration plant that it is far purer than is necessary to pass inspection by the state board of health.

North Loup

North Loup received .44 inches of rain Sunday night and Monday morning.

Let's Take a Peek at the New Fashions in ... Fall COATS

You will find a fascinating panorama of flattering autumn shades in our new Mary-Lane and Redfern coats for fall, our stock of which is now complete.

Especially smart are the untrimmed fleeces and colorful tweed. Come in and try them on. You'll get a zesty new feeling expressing yourself in becoming new colors.

By all means ... come to our store ... "take a peek at the new fashions in fall coats."

Above is illustrated one of the Mary-Lane coats in a new Tailored style. In this group figurelines are slim, skirts are gracefully fuller. The new tailored coats still have that "man-nish" look but they are extremely feminine, too.

At the right is illustrated a Redfern coat in dressmaker styling. Softer, more flattering lines here. Note squared shoulders, smaller collars. New tweeds, solid plaids.

Our Stock Complete Now

Come in ... inspect ... select ... Let us lay YOUR COAT away for you, so you'll have it when the first hint of frost comes.

Something Different

Dear Folks: This week I want to deliver a lecture. It was first addressed to me by Mr. Eugene Leggett. Like a pill, I didn't care for it, but took it, and the more I digested that pill the more I felt I had needed it.
Like every one of you I suppose, I have been living with one ear glued to the radio for several days past, listening to the pro-and-con war talk and worrying about Danzig and the poor Poles. My sympathies seemed to be decidedly with the English and French and I thought it was terrible for Poland to be the pawn and perhaps get swallowed up. No, I didn't want to go to war, but I felt that it was only a matter of time before we would have to do it.
I made some disparaging remark about Mr. Hitler, and then my husband took a deep breath and spoke his mind on the subject. I will try to tell you what he said.
"Who should we take sides in this matter? The first thing you know, if you and I and everyone else keeps expressing his ideas and sympathies for Britain and France we'll be in a war. Now the President does not have the power to declare war in this country. But Congress does have the power to declare war and Congress is singularly responsive to the feelings of the people.
If you and I and everyone else continues to talk anti-Hitler and anti-Germany we will influence more people to feel that way and we'll talk ourselves into a war. We haven't anything to do with Poland and that land-grab, or whatever goes on over there."
I made a few feeble passes at resistance.
"Will that's the way England got her colonies, just reached out and took them away from someone else. An that's the way France got her territorial possessions. Stronger nations have always taken land from weaker peoples and I'll admit it's a shame but why should we get into it? Here we are half-way around the world from there, and it is none of our business.
"Just because France and England took their colonies long years ago and have forgotten about it doesn't make it a crime when Germany tries to do the same thing, does it? France and England have not any cleaner hands themselves, only we have all forgotten about that.
"Maybe we will have to fight eventually as you say, but let them scrap it out. Let them fight out their own troubles over there and then if a day comes when we have to fight the victor, all right. But why we should get mixed up in this, I can't see.
"Whether Mr. Roosevelt wants us to go to war or not isn't going to matter as long as Congress does not declare war. But if you and I and every one keeps talking about it and stirring up more people, then Congress will declare war and we will be into it.
"So I think you ought to stop talking against Hitler and stop feeling that way as much as you can, and so had I and every one else. Or the first thing you know we will have talked ourselves right into a war that isn't ours, that we don't need to fight, that isn't any of our business over here at all. I think we ought to try to feel and think and live just as nearly neutral as we can."
How about it? Did you need a pill?
I'm sure I did. —Irma

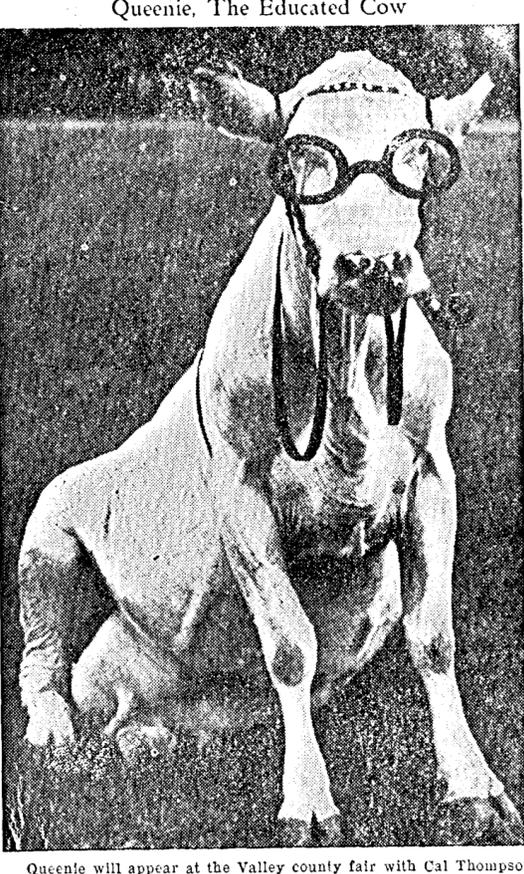

The above is a very good photo of Roy Leslie of Denver, Colo., and his specially built Offenhauser motored midget racer, with which he has been doing well this season. He recently returned from a trip to Chicago, where he drove in a big championship race. He did not win, but he made the best of them travel right along. His was the first entry for the midget auto races in Ord this year. At Chicago he crashed this $4,000 car, and it cost $1,700 to get it rebuilt.

Howard County Fair Is Held Next Week
The Howard county fair will be held at St. Paul Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 6, 7 and 8. There will be something doing all the time with an entire change of program and events every day and night.
Wednesday will be featured by a grand parade, two miles long in sixteen sections with eight bands in the afternoon, and a high school band contest in which eight high school bands will compete, including North Loup and Burwell. In the evening there will be a mass band concert in which eight high school bands will play at the same time.
Thursday will be featured by the appearance of Doctor Oskar Sederhold of Copenhagen, Denmark, noted author, traveler and humorist, in front of the Grandstand in the evening. He will be remembered and talked about for a long time to come.
Friday will be featured with a new and different kind of fireworks, first time in the State of Nebraska and coming directly to the Howard county fair from the Iowa state fair.
There will also be a free dance on the grounds with music by good orchestras in person, every night. Ten professional free attractions have been engaged, featuring The Four Rounders, four Bohemians from Chicago who can really entertain.
Look up its ad elsewhere in this issue of the paper for a brief synopsis of its program. Plan to attend at least one day. It will pay you. The admission is only 25c.

Five Softball Games Played in Past Week

Last night saw two very exciting games of softball at the fair grounds, with the Livestocks winning easily from the Chanticleers by a score of 17 to 8, and the KCs taking their second successive game by a score of 13 to 9.

and 3 lost, the Douthits in third place with 4 won and 4 lost, and the KCs at the bottom with 2 won and 6 lost.

Adamek for the KCs got 4 hits out of five times up, and John Kokes and E. Sedlacek each got 2 out of 4. R. Christensen and Tunnell were the leading batters for the Douthits. Bill Mastonka was the hard luck guy of the evening, getting hit first by a hot one that arched over the bat of another player, and then getting beamed by one of Nay's slants which put him out of the game for the rest of the evening.

Sunday evening three games were scheduled at Ord with the Cotesfield teams. The visitors arrived very late, the first game did not get under way until 8:40, and the finish did not come until midnight. The Ord midgets won the first game with Lukesh in the box by a score of 14 to 1, the lone Cotesfield score coming in the final inning. He allowed two hits while Sintek for Cotesfield allowed six.

The second team game was the best of the evening with a score of 4 to 0 in favor of Cotesfield. H. Jensen for Cotesfield held the Ord batters to a single hit, while Blessing held the big guns to five hits. Jensen pitched one of the best games seen in Ord this year. The final game started out to be a pitcher's battle, but three runs in the final frame gave Cotesfield a 6 to 4 victory.

Glenn A. Schaefer Dies; Born in Ord in 1880

Through the interest of Mrs. Wm. McMullen, sr., of Burwell, the Quiz has learned of the death recently at his home in Pasadena, Calif., of Glenn A. Schaefer, who was born in Ord in 1880. He was the son of A. H. Schaefer, who was clerk of Valley county four years from 1884 to 1888, between the terms in the same office of H. A. Babcock and J. A. Patton.

Mr. Schaefer completed his education in Cleveland, O., where the family moved in the late '80s. At Salem, Ore., he was in the employ of the Capitol Journal and the State Printing Office. In 1906 he became affiliated with the Union Title company of San Diego, and at the time of his death he was vice-president of the Consolidated Title Securities company. His mother, who was a sister of Fred Ferguson, is now the wife of Marcus A. Getter of Tujunga, Calif.

Mrs. Frank Komsak Dies At Home South of Elba

Mrs. Frank Komsak, 39, wife of the county commissioner in the second district, Howard county, died suddenly at the farm home south of Elba, shortly before 6 p. m., Wednesday, Aug. 23. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kokes of Ord, and is also survived by four brothers. There were no children in the family.

She died of a heart attack with which she was stricken while cutting weeds near the house. Mr. Komsak had been working in the yard and had left her only two or three minutes. When he returned he found her dead. There had been no indication of heart trouble and apparently she had been feeling well all day.

Funeral services were held at 9 a. m., Friday, from the Warsaw Catholic church, Rev. Fr. Gleason of St. Paul officiating. The body was brought to Ord and laid to rest in the Ord cemetery. It was one of the most largely attended funerals ever held in Howard county, testifying to the esteem in which Mrs. Komsak was held by those who knew her best. A large number of relatives and friends attended from Valley county.

Ord Legion Juniors Won From Taylor

The Ord Legion Juniors forgot all their troubles during the baseball season and made it a field day Sunday when they played the Taylor Cubs at the ground west of the Catholic church. The boys had little warning of the game, and the Taylor team announced their coming only the day before.

However, V. W. Russell got the boys together, and they played as they have never played before.

When the smoke of battle cleared away it was found that Ord had won by a score of 27 to 0. Henry Misko, on the mound for Ord, held the Cubs hitless until the final inning, when a single hit marred his otherwise perfect record. The Ord boys will go to Taylor for a return game Sunday if Taylor can make the necessary arrangements, but they have agreed to play the best team that Taylor can muster.

Kriz Changes Location. Aug. 23, 1939

The Ord Quiz, Ord, Nebr. Dear Sirs: Please change our mailing address for the Quiz from Toppenish, Wash., to Sunnyside, Wash. We have sold our Ben Franklin Store at Toppenish to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kaminski, of Sargent, Nebr., Mrs. Kaminski is Mrs. Kriz's sister. We have bought a large Ben Franklin store here in Sunnyside, Wash. The two cities are only twenty miles apart and are located in one of the richest agricultural valleys I believe in the United States. Sunnyside has one of the largest asparagus fields in the world, and this product is shipped from coast to coast. Also Sunnyside is located in one of the best diversified districts in the State of Washington.

The crops this season are wonderful. The fruit prices are above what they have been for several years. Right now the valley is in the harvest of pears and peaches, of which there will be several thousand carloads moving within the next few weeks. The hop season will take swing in about the next week or so and this employs about twenty-five thousand people in the valley for about three to four weeks. All this help is available in the valley, and a majority of this is done by the Indians. Rene Desmul and his family stopped to see us last week on their trip to the coast. We are located on No. 410 highway, the main highway that goes through the famous Yakima valley. Mr. and Mrs. Kaminski are very pleased with the country and also with the nice business they have in the store they bought from us, and we are more than pleased to have the folks locate so close to us. With best regards, Yours truly, Henry Kriz.

Mrs. Gizinski Writes.

Mr. Leggett: Enclosed find $2.00 for renewal of our Quiz. To be without the Quiz would be like losing our best friend. We always look forward to Monday as that is our Quiz day, and its almost like visiting Ord, to read it.

The forest fires are certainly raging along the Pacific coast. They estimate about 200,000 acres of timber burned in the past two weeks, which is said to be the greatest loss in years. There have been several losses to Port Townsend, too, two of which are still burning, one has covered about 1,200 acres. Most of the fires are under control now, unless a sudden change of wind would happen along. One of the fires destroyed a small logging village of about 400 population, although no casualties were reported. The worst fires are down in Oregon, one especially big one that has destroyed thousands of dollars worth of timber. The air is heavily laden with smoke, but the fire fighters are encouraged by cooler weather and heavy morning fogs. The temperature has been about 85 degrees with very little breeze.

Living only about a half mile from Fort Wooden, one of Uncle Sam's fortresses, we had the opportunity to see some of the war maneuvers. The night maneuvers are most interesting, to see how they seek out enemy planes with strong flood lights. The strong beams seem to penetrate the sky.

Our fruits and gardens are quite late this year due to the late cold spring we had, although fruit seems to be plentiful. There certainly is lots of it that goes to waste here every year.

Fishing has been exceptionally good here this year. Salmon ranging from 34 to 45 pounds seem to be very plentiful around here. They have a salmon derby here every year and the person catching the largest fish wins a car or some prize like that.

Would like to say hello to all of our friends and relatives back there and although we like Washington very much we certainly miss all of our fine friends in Nebraska. Alfred has been working in the National Paper Products Co., mill for the past three years and enjoys his work very much. He works on an average of 40 hours a week, which is usually divided into five 8 hour days. Any hours over 40, that they work or if they work on Sunday, they get paid time and a half, although this seldom happens. There are about 500 men employed at this mill. Things are rather slow here at present and it is very difficult to find any jobs open due to so many strikes.

Must close now. Sincerely, Mrs. Alfred Gizinski Tremont St., Port Townsend, Wash.

Personal Items ABOUT PEOPLE YOU KNOW!

Mrs. Hannah Riley, sewing project supervisor at Burwell, was in Ord on business Saturday. Wilson Bell returned Saturday evening from Lincoln, where he had spent the past eight weeks visiting in the W. J. Byington home. Larry Shafer, 5 1/2 years old, of Aurora, made the trip by bus to Burwell Saturday evening to spend a week visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gavin. Mrs. Winifred Dustin and daughter, Barbara Ross of Omaha, arrived Saturday morning and will visit until after Labor Day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gates and other relatives. Walter Stanton and wife and grandson, of Shamrock, Tex., visited Mrs. C. H. Finley and niece, Miss Lois Finley over the week end. Miss Delpha Taylor of Lincoln also spent the week end in the Finley home. Mr. and Mrs. Lars Jacobsen and family of Dannebrog visited at the S. W. Roe home Sunday and took back with them Mrs. Susannah Morris, who had been keeping house at Roe's while the family was away. K. W. Harkness returned Saturday evening from a trip to Galesburg, Elmwood and Peoria, Ill., where he visited relatives in all three towns. He was away three weeks. Among those from the Burwell territory who were in Ord Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Art Pearl and Claude Kennedy. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mills of Long Beach, Calif., visited in Ord three or four days last week at the J. L. Tedro home. Mrs. Mills is a sister of Mrs. Tedro, and Friday they left for Correctionville, Ia., to visit another sister. Joe Rousek, who lives a half mile south of Jungman hall, hauled in a rather unusual load of pure bred Poland China hogs Saturday. One weighed 660 pounds, another 560, and four more totaled 1,560, for an average of 463 pounds. Joe has plenty of lighter stock and decided to get the heavier ones out of the way. Frank Fryzek and son Jim last week completed a two coat job of painting on the Dr. C. W. Weekes residence at 405 south 20th street. The body is white with red trim and the porch ceilings are blue, giving the house a very striking appearance. Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Leland Barrett had guests arrive in the persons of his father, H. C. Barrett and brother Art of Lincoln and brother Frank of Little Rock Ark. They left for home Sunday forenoon. Miss Virginia Langston of Grand Island has been visiting Miss Dycke Lorraine Miller at the Barrett home. Mr. and Mrs. George Kucera and family of Perkins county, who had been visiting at Fairbury and Omaha, arrived in Ord on Wednesday accompanied by Miss Zola Stara, and visited in the H. A. Stara home until Monday. Lloyd Bower of Pearson, Ia., his son-in-law, Dwight Linn of Correctionville, Ia., and Mrs. Linn's father, Frank Linn, of Shelby, Ia., arrived in Valley county Saturday on the lookout for a herd of cattle to buy and ship back to Iowa. They failed to find them here in sufficient quantity and thought they might try the cattle country to the north. Mr. Bower lived on Davis Creek in the early days but left there 38 years ago. Mrs. Maise Pradenburg, who had been here visiting her mother, Mrs. Marilla Flynn and other relatives, got a telegram Saturday morning asking her to come home at once. No further particulars were given. Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Vodehnal drove her to Grand Island that same morning, where she caught the Zephyr for her home at Ridgefield, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. C. Harris, who live in the Keat neighborhood west of Burwell, were visitors in Ord Thursday. A good photo of Herbert L. Cushing appeared in Sunday's World-Herald in connection with a story on lower cost of higher education. Mrs. Vern (Dutch) Anderson was returning to her home in Burwell Sunday morning after a visit to her husband in Grand Island. Mr. Anderson is employed part time on the Union Pacific. Two Burwell young men, Joe Atkinson and Irvin Binkley, were bus passengers to Omaha Thursday afternoon, where they went to enlist in the aviation department of the U. S. army. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Karty and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Beran drove to Farwell Friday morning to attend the funeral of Mrs. Frank Komsak. A. W. Frederick of Burwell was in Ord on Thursday, returning to his home on the evening bus. Miss Ednie Riley, who had spent seven weeks visiting the C. A. Danell family northwest of Burwell, left for Denver Thursday afternoon, to get back home in time for the opening of school. F. B. Wheeler, Mrs. R. L. Walker, Dr. R. W. Wood, R. E. Johnson and Prof. Struve were among those who brought members of the Burwell municipal band to Ord for the concert they gave here Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McCauley, the latter a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Doby of near Taylor were returning to their home at Lincoln Thursday after a visit to the Doby home. Mrs. McCauley was home for the Burwell rodeo, but he came the following week. Miss Thelma Moser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Moser, underwent an appendectomy at the Ord hospital Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Benesh of Prague, Okla., visited in the Vencil Bouda home last week. They arrived on Wednesday and left last Monday. Miss Laura Sobon was a bus passenger to Omaha Friday morning to visit her sister, who is employed there. Misses Marie and Alice Schneider were returning Friday morning to their work in Omaha, after a visit to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Schneider of Burwell. J. H. (Harry) Doran returned to Burwell Thursday evening from an extended visit in California. He went there expecting to find a location, but did not meet with the success he had hoped for. He planned to move his family there, but is not certain that he will move now. He spent most of his time at Sacramento and Grass Valley, which he says is the richest mining section of the state. Misses Millie and Camella Trojan were returning to their work in Omaha on the bus Friday morning after a visit to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Trojan of Sargent. Miss Phyllis Krumal was returning to her work in Omaha Friday after spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Krumal of Burwell. Miss Martha Jane Lecky left for Seattle on the bus Friday morning after spending three weeks with her mother and other relatives in Burwell. Paul Lecky of Burwell left for Los Angeles Friday morning where he will attend school the coming year. Walter Stark arrived by bus from Denver Tuesday evening, his sons, Vern and Avery, going to Grand Island to meet him. He plans to remain here for several days, and hopes to meet most of his old friends while here. Harvey L. Seng, who was vocational agriculture teacher in Burwell a few years ago, has transferred from Kimball to Gothenburg for the coming year. He was a popular teacher while at Burwell, and his friends there will be glad to know of his advancement. Mr. and Mrs. Art Lewis, who have lived in St. Paul the past 20 years, are moving to Eugene, Ore., to make their home. It is understood that they are moving in the interests of Mr. Lewis' health, which has not been the best for some time. Art was formerly an Ord man and a member of old company "I", both on the border and during the World war. Ross Vincent and family of Scottsbluff have been in Ord visiting his brother, Guy Vincent, who was hurt while working on the Western Public Service lines and is in the Ord hospital. They left for home Friday and planned to stop at Kearney to visit another brother who is employed by the telephone company there. Among those attending the funeral of Mrs. Frank Komsak at St. Paul Friday were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kokes, sr., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kokes, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kokes, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Kokes, Anthony Kokes and Mr. and Mrs. James Petska.

Jack Romans trucked in two late model Farmalls, one a model H and the other a model M, for Mensing and Huff Saturday evening. Dr. and Mrs. Eldon Benda left Thursday morning for Scottsbluff where they will make their home and where Dr. Benda will be connected with the Scottsbluff Clinic. Mrs. Della Benson Sheldon writes the Quiz to notify of a change of address from Iraan to Pampa, Tex. She says that Pampa is about 400 miles north of Iraan in west Texas, and is a paradise compared with the latter place, as it is much cooler there, and they have been having lots of rain. The reason for the change of location was a promotion that Mr. Sheldon received from the oil company by which he is employed. The Quiz is in receipt of two fine letters from the Arcadia correspondent, Mrs. Edith Bossen, who is taking a tour of the west. She left Arcadia in company with Brownie Barger as driver, and Bill Nordstrom, who was enroute to Oregon and taking his trunk along. She speaks of visiting the John Higgins family at Laramie. As they entered Idaho they passed a Valley county car. Cities visited included Pocatello, Twin Falls, Boise, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Owen Monteith. She asked to have the Quiz sent her at Dallas, Ore. Tuesday of last week Joe Ramackers and daughter, Florine, accompanied by Misses Frances Ducey and Lillian Karty drove to Omaha and spent a few days. Miss Florine has found employment there. Mrs. Ramackers drove to Tekamah Wednesday evening and spent the night with a cousin there. Miss Karty registered at the Creighton school of journalism. All except Miss Florine returned home early Friday. While there they saw Boyd Holloway, who is employed in a foundry, Jack Janssen, who is in the Bulck service, Miss Bernice Zukoski, who is a nurse in the city hospital, and Misses Lillian Irebee, Lorene Zukoski, Lorraine Duda and Eleanor Iwaniski, all of whom are employed in Omaha. Duncan Leads Lexington High School Band at Fair According to the Lexington Clipper, Dean S. Duncan, new music supervisor of the Lexington city schools, is working hard to get his band in shape for the fair there this week. He is well pleased with the willingness of both patrons and pupils to cooperate, and so the group is no doubt pleasing fair visitors. Lady Night Owls. The lady members of the Night Owls club planned a surprise on Mrs. Elmer Alquist last Wednesday, it being the occasion of her birthday. While the ladies were enjoying the afternoon the men members arrived in time for lunch, much to the surprise of their better halves, bringing with them a load of melons. Quiz want ads get results.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD. It should be of special interest to Ord people to know that Vojta Benes, senator of the now defunct Czechoslovak republic, who was in Ord and gave a fine talk to a large crowd last week, is a cousin of J. A. Kovanda, teacher of Smith-Hughes agriculture in the Ord schools. J. A.'s grandfather and the father of Senator Benes were brothers. Regular crops were pretty much of a failure in Ord this year, but Mrs. Anton Capek managed to raise a most unusual plant in her yard in east Ord. She has several cotton plants in her garden that have been doing very nicely and are promising a crop of cotton. John J. Wozab tells the following yarn on himself. Friday Mrs. Wozab fed the cat, putting the dish a tall goblet, on the running board of John's runabout. John got into the car from the opposite side and drove it up town with the dish still on the running board. It was still there and half full of milk when he arrived. He says the reason he did not notice it was that he was worried because Valley county is to have no open season on pheasants this year. John L. Andersen stayed up most of the night last Tuesday night taking pictures of the northern lights, using different lengths of exposure in an effort to get a good picture. When he developed the film he found that one of the pictures looked pretty good, but that it had small black specks on it after the film had dried. With appropriate remarks about files who would not keep their place, he tried to wash the specks off, working for two hours and using every method he could think of without results, when it finally dawned upon him that the specks were only the stars that happened to be in the picture. Union Pacific showed the latter part of the week to large and enthusiastic crowds at the Ord Theater. Friday evening that grand old man of the Burlington, Chris Heleberg, overcame any prejudice he might have had and went to see the show. He must have liked it, for he stayed a long time after the first show was over. If it passed his inspection it must have been good, for Chris can still smell a low joint a mile away. Band To Be Organized By Aule At Sargent The Sargent Leader announced last week that Dr. Glen D. Aule of Ord had been secured by the city to organize a band at that place, and that he is holding a meeting Aug. 31 at the Sargent school for the purpose of talking over the proposition with all parents and students who are interested in the formation of a band there. NATIONAL AFFAIRS. (Continued from page 7) make a big set speech on some occasion this fall, it will probably be the most interesting of anything he has ever made, and this is no relection whatever on the importance of many of his former speeches and fireside chats. In the very nature of things the President, being distinctly on the defensive at the moment, is almost sure to follow old military strategy and take the offensive. But he must take it so spectacularly that he will get the country talking about what's new, rather than what happened a little while back. There is another difficulty in his problem, which would be plenty hard without it. The additional hurdle is that Roosevelt is a very stubborn man, a man who hates to admit defeat, as evidenced by his recent reference to the Supreme court packing battle. So Roosevelt will find himself anxious to inject into his new scheme, whatever form it may take, some thing in with the old battles. He wants vindication on his advocacy of the spend-lead bill that congress rejected. He wants vindication on the neutrality program that he demanded and that congress turned down. Regarding this last, everything depends upon what happens in Europe. It may easily be that events in Europe will convince the country long before congress meets again, that the President was right.

THE FINAL DEMAND.

Last September Hitler made what he termed the last territorial demand the German people would ever make, when he told the four power group at Munich that all he wanted was to safeguard the rights of Germans living in the Sudetenland, and take certain sections of Czechoslovakia into the Reich.

Hitler's word had been worth anything, Europe might still be at peace today, but six months later German troops were again on the march, and all of Czechoslovakia was occupied, on the pretext that the Czechs were fomenting trouble for the Reich, that they could not control their own people, and that for this reason they must be controlled.

Again after six months we find Hitler making further territorial demands, this time on Poland. He demands the return of Danzig, the free city established at the close of the World War, and all other territory taken from Germany at that time and added to Poland.

Poland stood firmly against this demand, the Hitler controlled press opened an inspired attack against Poland, telling of atrocities committed by her troops, and how the Polish armies were getting out of hand and threatening to attack Germany.

As this is being written Friday morning, there has been no declaration of war, but indications are that war will actually exist within 24 hours. If Poland had granted Germany the territory she demanded she would have found herself in the same position that Czechoslovakia did a year ago, so reduced in territory that any attempt at war would be useless.

In taking over Austria and Czechoslovakia Hitler was merely continuing his plan. The Austro-Hungary had been under the domination of Germany and it is again today. His latest demand for the territory in East Prussia taken from Germany would seem to complete his plans, but he has already gone further, and has demanded a protectorate over Poland.

While the pact between the Reich and Russia on the surface appears one of mere non-aggression, it is apparent to all thinking men that there is more to it than meets the eye. Eminent men have already expressed the opinion that the aim of the treaty is the re-establishment of the Russia-German-Austrian border as it was before the World War.

Since the dawn of European history that continent has been cursed from time to time by some leader who believed himself chosen by God to conquer all the other nations. In every case these conquerors have flourished for a time and then have fallen into oblivion, which is in accord with the prophecy of the Bible: "The wicked shall prosper for a season."

Caesar, Charlemagne, Napoleon, Kaiser Wilhelm, and a dozen others had a try at it, met with success at first, and then fell by the wayside, while time marched relentlessly on. No conqueror has ever brought all of Europe under one dominion, and no one ever will, but that does not discourage a new attempt every generation or two.

The Romans came the nearest to conquering Europe. Caesar started it, but the empire reached its greatest extent about 117 A. D. Under Roman rule then were Britain, Hispania, Gallia, Helvetia, Dalmatia, Dacia, Traclia, Macedonia all of Greece and of course Italia. The only territory unconquered was the pre-war Germany, Austria, Russia and the Scandinavian peninsula.

If Caesar, backed by the mighty Roman legions, could not conquer the comparatively uncivilized people of the north, there is no likelihood that any one man or race can conquer the Europe of today. Hitler has flourished for a season, and may possibly continue to win for a time, but in the end the eternal pendulum will swing the other way, and when it swings, no human power can stop it.

COIN SUBSTITUTE NEEDED. The crying need of Nebraska today seems to be a suitable substitute for corn as a grain crop. The new sorghums are proving a good dry weather and grasshopper proof crop to take the place of corn for a fodder crop, but to date no very effective substitute for the grain itself has been developed.

When weather conditions permit corn is still the king of crops, making the ideal feed, both as forage and as grain, but for the past decade the crop has been too uncertain in central Nebraska for the farmer to place any dependence upon it. Finding that moisture in the vital summer months is inadequate, the farmers are turning more and more to corn substitutes.

When it comes to a question of drought resistance the sorghums have proven their worth, continuing to grow and keep green long after the corn has been ruined by lack of rain. Also, sorghums that have become dead on top will come out and make a good forage crop when the rains begin again, but corn in this condition cannot recuperate.

The past season has proven conclusively that grasshoppers will not eat sorghum crops to any extent, even when there is nothing else at hand to eat. They prefer to migrate rather than eat it. In dozens of places corn was completely ruined by the pests while the sorghum crop growing beside it was hardly touched.

Irrigation has proven that grasshoppers will not do serious damage in fields adequately supplied with water, indicating that the pest will disappear from the scene during the first wet season, but the question is when and if that year will ever come. In the meantime a pest proof crop will guarantee feed for the stock in case the season is dry.

My Own Column
By H. D. Leggett

Dear Quiz Readers:

The weather here is very delightful for the past few days, except that we had a couple of very windy days the first of this week, following a couple of rains. There is a 5-mile breeze from the southwest that makes a little ripple on the lake, the sun is shining brightly and the temperature is 70 at 11 a. m., and today is Friday, August 25. The last of our guests, the Judge Clements family, have gone home and we are pretty lonesome. The Clements people got away about 8 a. m., and plan on being home some time Saturday. I shall not be much surprised if they keep right on driving and arrive home some time this evening. We have had a lot of company if our kids can be called company, most of the summer, or continuously since in June and with all of them here and five grandchildren playing and swimming and having a general good time, there was plenty of fun and excitement, making the present quiet seem almost oppressive.

But we have a lot of work about the place, that we have planned to get done this year and so far there has been no chance to do it and we plan on putting in a couple of weeks now, doing the things that we want to do to beautify the place. The rock garden has to be reorganized for one thing. It looked pretty good last year and the early part of this season after we cleaned it up, but now the flowers have multiplied to such an extent that we must change them. We are sick of the present design and the Missus has some ideas that are going to make me handle a lot of rock and do a lot of spading and moving of plants but when it is done it will look different if not better and we hope it will be an improvement. Then we want to get black dirt hauled in and level the yard. It is a fairly nice blue-grass lawn which we have kept mowed, but there are depressions and humps and several loads of black dirt will be required and much wheeling of the dirt will be required and then grass seed will have to be sowed. And when the improvements are made we will have to wait for the rains of next spring to make it look beautiful again. We have had some beautiful flowers this year and they have been enjoyed and admired so much that we plan on having many more next year.

The Bowman's who own the former John Keown cottage, and who, by the way, are the only cottage owners in camp who never make an effort to improve their place from what it was in the beginning, left early this morning for their home at Clarinda, Iowa. They were here for five or six weeks. I am believing that when they come next year they will bring plans and ideas for at least some needed improvements. Surely the spirit of improvement that prevails in this camp must be a little bit catching.

A telegram just received by the Penners say that a son of the Guy Gerber family will come from New Mexico to spend a month with them. He is 23 years old and named Dick and he will be a lot of company for the Penners during the fall.

Savory smells are coming from the kitchen (I am on the front porch) and from what I hear the Missus and Minnie saying, we are to have bacon, potatoes, tomato gravy, coffee, pickles and cherry pie. The cherry pie was donated by Judge Clements who had a half a pie left from the lunch they served last night after the picnic. I mean bridge party which they had over at their former cottage where we slept them while they visited us. Mrs. Clara Gelow was a guest at the party, and with the Judge, Mrs. Clements and Lena made up the group of players. The pie was cut in six pieces and I am unable to figure out who didn't eat pie, for we got three pieces donated and both Lena and Mrs. Gelow are trying to reduce, so how could I guess who refused pie.

I saw Ernie Augustine standing out in the back street looking at Mr. Fenner's rock work and scratching his head in a meditative mood this morning. I think Fenner has Augustus guessing, and wondering what other improvement he can make to keep pace, and well he may for I happen to know that the rock rustic seat which Fenner is building around a birch tree in his yard is just the germ which has hatched a whole covey of ideas for other and further improvements, and one of the first is to be an out-of-doors rock fireplace. A rock fireplace is about as useful as a fifth wheel on a cart but it can be very ornate and will no doubt be that if Fenner builds it, for he spares no time or labor or expense in any of his undertakings.

There are two members of our colony who have not put in an appearance this season, Mrs. Page, who owns the former B. E. Hoffmaster cottage, and the Simpsons of Omaha. An Omaha man who drove into camp a while back, was surprised not to find the Simpsons as he said they left for Cullen lake the Saturday before. They never put in an appearance. We have been looking for them ever since but they have not showed up and now we have about given up hope that they will come. It is the first time in many years that they missed coming.

We have been doing a lot of fishing the past week, helping Judge Clements get a couple of boxes of just the kind and size fish he wanted to ship, one to his son Wayne at Boulder, Colo., and the other to A. A. Clements at Paonia, Colo. Fishing has not been good, never is in August, but we did get two beautiful boxes of fish and they were shipped yesterday. Then we went to Pelican in the evening to try for walleyes and got a nice string of four. The principal reason for the trip was to try out our new 18-foot Larson boat that Dick Parks left over there for the purpose. Dick wants to sell me a new boat before next year to replace one of the boats which I have used for 19 years and which, while still useable has seen its best days. I think, though, that I will use it another year or two. Mr. Parks has a big sportings goods store at Nisswa. He sells Evenrude motors, Larson boats and all kinds of fishing tackle, Blaugas stoves and gas engines and pumps. He also takes a few road contracts, is justice of the peace and sends game law violators to jail or fines them, owns hundreds of acres of pine timber hereabouts and a awful mad if so much as a single tree is cut on his property. If, any of you, ever come to Nisswa and want any information about anything, see Dick Parks or his wife, the postmistress, next door. Either one of them know everybody in this neck of the woods and are always willing to be helpful.

BACK FORTY
By J. A. Kovanda

Considerable publicity is given to hybrid fruits such as corn, sorghums, clover and grasses. Hybrid poultry and livestock is lauded for its excellent merits.

As yet, no mention has been made of another promising "hybrid" group. It is that rising generation of young citizens who are products of the American "melting pot."

They are youngsters whose fathers may have been Danish, Polish or English, whose mothers may have been Irish, Czech, German or of some other nationality.

The pupils that predominate in our schools today represent such mixtures of many lands. They are quite equal to students of pure stock, and sometimes combine the better characteristics of different nationalities to superior advantage.

But no crop, whether of pure or hybrid lineage, can succeed without tillage. Our children need cultivation in a scholastic way as never before. And parents are wisely making the utmost sacrifices to provide it.

Climatic drought has seared the fields but there will be no educational drought at the Ord high school. The school's business is not depressed; it continues in normal volume.

Ord high's enrollment will be large because it offers the most modern courses in business training, teacher training, home economics, vocational agriculture, manual arts, music, athletics, civics, and college preparatory work. Ord is also the best trading center for parents of school children.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!
Three Stages of War
One Way to Live
Our Foreign Policy

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

Three Stages of War. If you will get out your maps of Asia and draw a line from the following cities you will see something of the territory that Japan is trying to occupy in China. Now, they pretend to hold all of the state of Manchuria under a puppet government. South of that they have captured Peking, Tientsin, Nanking, Kaifeng, Siam, Suichow. Other coast cities like Canton, have been taken to complete the blockade and also Hankow. Even using these cities as a boundary, there are great areas throughout this territory that are still in Chinese hands. These battle lines along a railroad, run some five hundred miles inland, and still it is only a small part of China proper. There has not been a major victory in China by the Japs for many months. It was the original plan of the Chinamen to conduct this war in three stages. For years the leaders have been aware that Japan was planning to take them. Dr. Crandall said that the last ten years China has made more progress in building their country than ever before and Japan knew if she did not take the country soon, she never would.

The first stage of this war was to resist and fall back, leaving nothing that is a scorched policy. This, China has done quite successfully. They have made the war cost Japan tremendously, even more than the China leaders expected. The retreats have been quite systematic in most instances where the leader did not desert his people, as in Nanking, Japan's capture of property so far have hardly been worth while.

The second stage was the guerrilla stage such as they are carrying on now. The idea is to so harass the Japs that they will wear down in spirit and in finances. This stage of the war is proving to be successful too. It has been said that there never has been a nation captured who carried on their war under a systematic guerrilla method. It is inexpensive, comparatively, and everlasting.

The third stage will be the squeeze that is, the final driving the Japs home. This is to come when Japan is weary and financially broke. Dr. Crandall says, with eyes gleaming, when that happens, if it does, it will be just like pulling out a fish hook.

At this date, Dr. Crandall says the Japanese have gone to greater sacrifices than the Chinese. Japanese are enlisting young teachers, scientists, professional men and anyone who can carry a gun. At home, on the Japanese streets only old men and boys are seen and women are taking men's places in the factories and workshops. She says, although the Chinese soldiers are not paid much, neither are the Japs, their money coming largely from what they might pilfer. In some ways China is the strongest she ever was because she is better organized.

One Way to Live.

Throughout this territory the Japs have captured, and stories of the cruelties there cannot be exaggerated. Most of these cities were immense and prosperous like Omaha and Chicago. In many instances now, only a fifth of the population is left and the whole country is deserted.

Dr. Crandall tells of the city of Soochow, which she has visited many times because of its beauty. In all her travels she never has seen a more scenic city with lakes, mountains, resorts and silk manufacturing plants. Now this city is in ruins and only a very few poor and old people remain, wandering the streets. It has been practically annihilated. Hangchow and Huchow, cities of 600,000, are nearly ruined.

Throughout the area the guerrilla bands still attack the garrisons. Unable to cope with the guerrillas, the Japs take their reprisals on the poor people and the farmers. For every Jap that is killed, ten farmers will be slain.

Although a conscious effort before the war was made by the Chinese government to curb the opium trade, the Japs have done all they could to encourage the use. Under the Japanese guidance and licenses, the hotel business has boomed with opium beds, prostitution and gambling. Systematic inspections are made by the Japs to see that none of their people are smoking the opium; only the Chinese.

Unable to profit otherwise the Japs are turning to the opium traffic. The idea is, so Dr. Crandall thinks, to get the habit established with the people and when they will not do without it, to tax them heavily.

Our Foreign Policy.

The following instance was told me by a man of ----- and I was told not to tell; that is, any names. If you care to know, ask me personally and I can tell all. This man said that he was acquainted with a cartoonist drawing for some 150 papers in the country. One year he spends in Europe; the next in the Orient. He was in Shanghai when it was bombed by the Japs.

He was in his hotel room one night when close by he heard a terrible explosion. He ran out into the midst of it, like reporters are supposed to do. He stumbled over arms and legs, every dying people, fell in blood and brains of humans blown to bits. Even at that he ran to see what he could arriving at the place of the explosion. There, looking around with his flash-light he saw the cap of the bomb. He picked it up, looked generally disposed to "copper" anything the President says.

As a result a great many persons who might be making investments or buying securities have been holding off. There is no doubt about the accuracy of this. A cable, vass either in New York or any other city boasting a financial center will disclose fears of the business situation which can be traced directly to pessimistic views expressed privately to this or that banker or broker by some official of the federal reserve board.

Wheller a Possibility as Nominee for President

If candidates for the Democratic nomination for President were going to run like horses in the derby, it would not be a bad idea to put a little money on Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, for "show."

For the Democratic sweepstakes next June the odds-on favorite is still Franklin D. Roosevelt, the second choice is John Nance Garner and the horse that didn't even look as if it were going to get away from the starting post, just a little while back, Wheeler, is now in third position and going strong. The really important point is that this recent spurt of Wheeler has resulted in his passing Paul V. McNutt, and for significant reasons.

Six months ago Wheeler scoffed at the idea he might be nominated and would carefully explain to admirers just why the then political setup made it impossible. The key log in this setup, as Wheeler's friends then understood it was that Roosevelt would never accept Wheeler as a "compromise" candidate.

Since that time Roosevelt has poured a lot of oil on the Montana senator. He has sent for him again and again, first on the railroad legislation but gradually on other things. Examination of the list of White House appointments—which are made public every day—for the period from February to the adjournment of congress, will show a perfectly astonishing number of talks between the two.

Montana Senator Plays Ball and Keeps His Word

Many of us in Washington have believed since the fight to enlarge the Supreme court in which Wheeler was made the leader against the President, that Roosevelt would never forgive him. Some of us still believe that. We simply cannot remember any other man who has fought Roosevelt and been forgiven and we find it difficult to conceive of his doing it in Wheeler's case. But we may be wrong. Whatever one may think of Wheeler, he is very likeable personally as well as a forceful character. He plays ball and keeps his word. He seldom promises anything that he cannot deliver. His judgment as to what can or cannot be done is excellent.

Perhaps the worst feature of the situation is that there are plenty of business men and investors who agree heartily with the President as to the effects on the country's buying power of this eleventh hour retrenchment drive by congress. Plenty of argument is being made on the other side, those holding this view citing two important factors. The first is that actually the appropriations of the session of congress just closed were not small. Actually they were more than a billion dollars in excess of those of the previous session. The second factor is some recent reports, one from the New York employment agency, indicating that despite this feeling on the part of the President and the gloomy agreement with his views on the part of many business men, employment by private capital is on the increase, whether it is sufficient to take up the slack or not.

This last factor was rather curiously demonstrated by a Harry Hopkins department of commerce report showing business improvement. The timing of this report caused considerable amusement in Washington, as it was published on the front pages of many newspapers in juxtaposition with the gloomy statements of the President. Should Stop Feeling Out Pessimistic Propaganda. But assuming that Mr. Roosevelt does want business recovery to continue, and that he would be distressed to have his gloomy forebodings sustained, there is one thing he certainly ought to do. This is to give preemptory orders to the federal reserve board to stop feeding out pessimistic propaganda to the back door.

Various lieutenants of Marriner S. Eccles have caused much more pessimism in New York and Washington by their "confidential" comments to their personal friends among stock brokers and market operators than did the President's own statement. The trouble here is that these reserve board attaches convince the very people who are Roosevelt has not found many among those whom he has actively liked since he entered the White House who have possessed all those qualities. For instance, Senators Sherman Minton of Indiana, and J. G. Murphy of Pennsylvania, who were as enthusiastic about the "purge" as Tommy Corcoran and Ben Cohan. For instance, the great Marathon orator, whom the President made Democratic leader of the senate, Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky.

So it just may be the next June, if the President discovers that he cannot nominate a man who agrees with him 100 per cent, he might turn to Wheeler rather than see the nomination of someone eager to tear down more of the New Deal than Wheeler. Always assuming of course that Roosevelt is not nominated himself.

It must be remembered that Wheeler has been so liberal for years that some have called him a Communist, that he was one of the most active of the "For Roosevelt Before Chicago" club, and that despite the fact that the White House ignored him on patronage in favor of his bitter political enemy, J. Bruce Kremer, Wheeler never opposed the President on any important issue until the Supreme court battle.

Incidentally Both Garner and Jim Farley are friendly to Wheeler. President Seeks Credit for Improvement in Business

Improvement of business despite defeat of the spend-lead bill, bumper crops on top of carry-overs and big crops abroad and the obvious intention of the U. S. P. O. Conservative Democrat coalition to upset more New Deal apple carts when congress meets next January—all these are spurring Franklin D. Roosevelt to develop a new theme. Call it new rabbits from new hats, if you like, but what the President needs is something to bring about three things:

1.—Make the administration the leader in the improvement of business—in other words, get the credit, thus upsetting the picture now that the improvement is in spite of the New Deal.

2.—Divert Capitol Hill from its conservative course toward undoing New Deal reforms by giving congress something new to fight over—but not at the risk of another major defeat on the eve of the national conventions and the election campaign.

3.—Work out some bigger and better way of handling the farm surplus and low farm price situation. Not necessarily, for example, letting prices slide away down to encourage consumption and export, and compensating the farmers directly by AAA checks, but something as radical as that.

If Roosevelt can produce formulas for these three problems, he may have the political bear by a nose-ripping instead of by the tail next winter.
