Cummins and Flagg Rival Candidates for Mayor of Ord

Battle Lines the Same As in 1938; Jewett Named for Clerk by Both Parties.

There were no surprises at the caucuses of Ord's two city political parties held Wednesday evening at the Legion hall. Meeting downstairs, the Good Government party unanimously nominated M. B. Cummins for reelection as mayor while at the Citizens caucus upstairs Gould B. Flagg was nominated for mayor by a vote of 54 to 51 over Cummins. The battle lines at the city election April 2 will thus be the same as they were in 1938 when Mr. Cummins was elected mayor over the incumbent then, Mr. Flagg.

Other caucus results followed expected patterns. The Citizens unanimously nominated Rex Jewett for reelection as clerk while the Good Government members nominated him by a vote of 19 to 18 over Dillo Troyer.

Both parties chose James B. Ollis as candidate for treasurer. Dr. F. L. Blessing and L. D. Miliken as school board nominees, Ed F. Berney for the park board and John L. Andersen for police judge.

Both parties named M. Blomend as their choice for 1st ward councilman but split on the other wards Frank Krikac being the choice of the Citizens party and Bob Noll, present incumbent, the nominee of the Good Government party in the 2nd ward; 3rd ward voters of the Good Government party named Vernon Andersen as their choice for city councilman, while the Citizens party was nominated, Joe Rohla for reelection.

Clarence M. Davis presided as chairman of the Good Government caucus, with John R. Haskell as clerk while Bud Shirley was chairman and Ralph Norman, clerk of the Citizens caucus. These officers constitute committees to fill vacancies and arrange for next year's Citizens caucus. The Good Government officers constitute committees to fill vacancies and arrange for next year's caucus for that party, and Chairman Shirley appointed a similar committee composed of Emil Fafeita, E. C. James and Mr. Norman.

Records Show Licenses

Behind Last March 1st

According to figures furnished by George Satterfield, county treasurer, 2447 motor vehicle licenses of all kinds were issued by March 1st this year, as compared with 2525 at the same time last year. The total number of licenses which will be issued this year is estimated at between 3400 and 3500.

Captain Schrein of the state highway patrol has given orders to all patrolmen to pick up all persons found driving on 1939 licenses after March 1. Warnings were given to all found driving on old licenses after Feb. 15. It is believed that the winter weather of the past two months is responsible for the reduction in the number of licenses issued as compared with 1939.

County Spelling Meet Coming on March 29th

The Valley county spelling contest will be held in Ord March 29. Miss Clara McClatchey announces. This will be followed by the World-Herald and Interstate contests in Omaha, April 26 and 27. The winner over all in the county contest will compete in the World-Herald contest, and second and third place winners will compete in the Interstate.

Emergency Loans Now Available for 1940

Emergency crop and feed loans for 1940 are now available to farmers in Valley county, and applications for these loans are now being received at Ord by H. J. Hetrick, field supervisor of the emergency crop and feed loan section of the Farm Credit Administration. Anyone needing this type of loan should make application as soon as possible.

This early opening of the loan program in Valley county is part of a plan recently announced by the Farm Credit Administration whereby emergency crop and feed loans are being made available immediately in all areas where farming conditions are seriously affected this year by drought or flood.

Judge Clements Returns.

About 11:00 this morning Judge and Mrs. E. P. Clements returned from a several weeks' sojourn in Ontario, Calif. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Clements, who will visit here about a week and then drive home a new Plymouth purchased from the Anderson Motor company. On their trip the Clements party ran into a snow storm in New Mexico and so detoured through Texas instead of coming over Raton Pass and thru Colorado as planned.

Mrs. Barr Wins Prize.

During February the Beraneck drug store ran a misspelled word contest sponsored by the Rexall Drug company. The contest closed Feb. 29, and a checkup showed that Mrs. Harvey Barr of Arcadia won the set of aluminum with a total of 75 correct words out of 78. John L. Ward and Mrs. J. W. Severns tied for second place. A total of 79 persons entered the contest.

Pigeons Are Like Humans, Sometimes Male Is Boss, Sometimes Female, Says Pigeon Fancier

Squabs Worth 60¢ per Pound on Chicago Market, Haskell Tells Rotary.

"Pigeons are about like human beings, sometimes the male bosses the household and sometimes the female," members of the Ord Rotary club were told Monday evening by John R. Haskell, Ord's leading pigeon fancier. "Unlike humans, it usually is the male who runs the home," he added.

Mr. Haskell has been interested in pigeons only three years. Searching for a hobby, he first thought of raising some odd breed of chickens but became interested in pigeons and at present has about 150 Carneaux, Homers and Rollers. He has sold 250 in recent months.

There are more than 3,500 different breeds of pigeons, divided roughly into three classes, the utility type, athletic or acrobatic type and fancies, he stated. The utility or squabbing breeds include White Kings, Giant Homers and Carneaux, the athletic breeds include Flying Homers, Tippers and Rollers, and the fancies are too numerous to name but include the fantails, pouters and swallow types, among others, the speaker informed Rotarians.

He had on display pigeons of each type, including two fantails belonging to Keith and Kirk Lewis, and some rollers which did tricks at Haskell's command. Also on display he had a beautiful tan-colored Carneaux hen given him by a Mr. Beachey, a Baltimore hardware millionaire, and another Carneaux which he purchased recently from a vice-president of the Sears-Roebuck company, of Chicago.

Pigeon raising may be a hobby, as it is for hundreds of Americans, poor and wealthy, or it may be done commercially, Haskell stated. A good pair of pigeons of one of the squabbing breeds will raise 18 squabs per year, weighing from one pound to 2½ pounds each, and there is a steady market for squabs at 45¢ to 65¢ per pound. At present the Chicago market on squabs is 60¢ per pound. Feed for a pair of pigeons and their squabs will not cost more than $1.00 per year, Haskell estimated, and the squabs raised by a pair should sell for not less than $8.00 per year, leaving a nice sum to pay for the handler's time.

So far he has sold none as squabs but has grown them to maturity and sold them as breeding stock, usually at from $1.50 to $2.50 per pair. He sold one pigeon recently for $14 to a Kentucky fancier, Mr. Haskell said.

Pigeons usually mate for life but occasionally a female will "step out" on her mate and vice versa, even as humans do, said the Ord fancier, Mr. Haskell said.

Pigeons are subject to very few diseases but require good feed and cleanly surroundings, and they will repay every attention given them.

Ralph B. Sill Dies at St. Paul, Minn.

Ralph B. Sill, 51, died Feb. 23 at St. Luke's hospital in St. Paul, Minn., after an illness of several weeks, and funeral services were held from Wadlow's mortuary in Lincoln Saturday with Rev. Walter Aitken officiating. Interment was in Wyuka cemetery.

Mr. Sill was born at Fontenelle, Ia., Sept. 18, 1888, moved to Lincoln with his parents Mr. and Mrs. John S. Sill, and was graduated from the University of Nebraska, April 19, 1911 to Edna Viola Clements, a daughter of the late Judge E. J. Clements, of Lincoln, and two children, Richard and Virginia, were born to them. The widow and children survive. Mr. Sill was a member of Golden Star Lodge No. 9, A. F. & A. M. of Lead, S. D., and was buried with the time honored rites of this order through the courtesy of Liberty Lodge No. 300A, of Lincoln.

Ord relatives include the Clements and Leggett families who were unable to attend the funeral service Saturday.

Rotation of Crops Must Be Practiced Under Irrigation

So Farmers Told Wednesday by Filts at Water School Held Here in Ord.

A well attended irrigation school was held at the court house last Wednesday under the direction of C. C. Dale, county agent. Speakers were Walter Filts and R. O. Pierce of the agricultural extension service.

Filts discussed water storage in the soil and gave a very interesting description of the methods by which water enters the soil and emphasized the fact that water stored in the soil remains there until used up by plants. From a point about six inches below the surface, soil moisture is not subject to evaporation and water thus stored is available for plant growth from the bottom of the evaporation zone, down as deep as the plant roots can go.

He showed the necessity of keeping a balance between soil fertility and moisture and stated under irrigation crop rotation must be practiced to maintain soil fertility and increase crop production to a point where the extra cost of irrigation can be overcome by increased crops. Several different cropping systems as used in the older irrigated areas were discussed.

Regarding commercial fertilizers, Filts stated that tests made this year on the W. O. Zanger and A. H. Easterbrook farms showed no results from the use of commercial fertilizers. He further stated that nitrogen is the only element in our soils which will need replacing for many years and that two years of sweet clover or three to four years of alfalfa will store as much nitrogen per acre as a $25.00 application of commercial fertilizer.

R. O. Pierce discussed irrigation methods and stated that one great mistake new irrigators made was in trying to irrigate rows which are too long for efficient use of the water. This practice results in over-irrigation of areas next to the lateral and not enough on the areas too far away. Both have bad results he said because over-irrigation carries the nitrogen down below the plant root zone and thus cuts down plant growth, while insufficient water also retards growth and yields. He emphasized the necessity of constant testing for moisture with a soil auger, post-hole digger or shovel to determine the depth of sub-soil moisture.

The group was especially interested in the showing of pictures of crops and irrigation methods in Nebraska.

Several of these pictures were taken on farms in the North Loup and Middle Loup Valleys which added to their interest locally.

The Loup Valley Music Festival At Burwell

The annual Loup Valley music festival will be held at Burwell, March 21, starting at 1 p.m., in the high school auditorium. The artists' program will begin at 7:30 in the evening. Critics will be Mrs. William Tempel, vocal, of the state university, and James King, instrumental, of Hastings college.

The second district comprises

Geranium, Michigan and Vinton townships; the fourth district includes the second and third wards in Ord city; and the sixth district is composed of Independent, Davis Creek and Enterprise townships. In every office there are enough candidates to give the voters a chance to express a preference, and for this reason there should be a good turnout at the primary election April 9.

Co-op Oil Company Had Big Celebration

The Ord Cooperative Oil company celebrated the completion of the world's first cooperative refinery last Saturday, serving coffee and doughnuts throughout the day and demonstrating gasoline made in the new refinery. About 500 people visited the Ord station during the day. Extra help was required to service 250 cars from noon to 7:00 p.m., an average of one car every 1½ minutes. Manager Bert Janssen is very pleased with the interest shown by stockholders and patrons of the company.

Mother, Daughter Are Both Married Tuesday

John L. Anderson, county judge, has married a large number of people, and in that capacity has officiated at some unusual weddings. Most unusual was that which took place yesterday, when he was called upon to marry two couples from Plainview. The unusual feature was that the ladies were mother and daughter, and each acted as a witness to the other's wedding. The contracting parties were Marvin Tepper and Miss Betty McGrady in the first wedding, and Ralph Bomer and Mrs. Alta McGrady in the second.

Arrowhead Hunting is Lashmett Family Hobby

Hunting Indian arrowheads is the hobby of the Leftoy "Brother" Lashmett family, of Burwell, and in the picture above "Brother" and his daughters, Jean and Joan, are shown with about a third of the arrowheads they have found during the past three years. Mrs. Lashmett, also an enthusiast, Every arrowhead in the Lashmett collection was found near Burwell and every one was found by a member of the family, none having been given to them or acquired by trade or purchase.

Experts have told Mr. Lashmett that some of his arrowheads came originally from as far away as California but that most of them are from the Black Hills region. Windy days are the best for arrowhead hunting, the Lashmetts say, and old fields that have been farmed for many years, or sandy fields, are the best places to look. Dry lake bottoms are no good, they say, because so much soil has washed into such places that any arrowheads there are so deeply buried it is impossible to find them.

The Lashmett family formerly lived in Ord, where Jean and Joan both were born, but now live in Burwell where LeRoy manages a seed store.

Salesman's Auto Stolen Thursday, Found Stripped

Cooper's Car Taken from in Front of Petska Home, Found Next Morning.

A 1938 V-8 car was stolen from in front of the Jerry Petska home in the night Thursday, and was found the next day parked west of the Charles King property in southwest Ord, with the radio, clock and hub caps taken off. The car belonged to B. E. Cooper, salesman for Nash-Finch company of Grand Island. He frequently spends the night at the Petska home, and this was the first night he had failed to lock the car.

Mr. Cooper notified the officers Friday morning and they spent some time trying to locate it. In the meantime V. W. Russell, who lives just north of where the car was left, had noticed it, and wondered why it was there. As soon as he heard of the stolen car, he notified Sheriff Round, who investigated and found it was the missing car.

Russell Rose, who is employed by Worm Bros., saw a man near the Worm truck that night, who got into a green coupe and drove away. He did not think anything of it at the time, but later they found that he had taken the defrosting fan from the transport and had partly loosened the spotlight. As Rose recalls him, he was a small man and stooped over which might indicate that he had something under his coat.

Friday night cars belonging to

L. J. Turk and Allen McGuire of

Grand Island were stolen and were found late Saturday afternoon on a Platte river island stripped of tires and other removable parts.

THE TAXATION QUESTION

Much has been said pro and con on the subject of taxes. While all agree that taxes are necessary, most people believe that they are already far to high. In spite of this fact, it is essential to raise more money, not only to use in reducing the public debt, but also to take care of the needs of the present.

To go on increasing property tax is practically useless, since it has been shown that increases under present conditions are offset by the failure of more people to pay their taxes. The taking of property for taxes does not help, since it makes the city owner, and the city pays no taxes. Often the property will not bring the amount of the taxes against it.

The subject of a sales tax is controversial, especially in Nebraska, but we may as well face the fact that some such tax must be levied in the future instead of placing all the burden on the property owner. This load has become so heavy in recent years that men who could start purchasing property on payments are hesitating to do so.

It is fact that the people who are developing our town and country are those who own their homes, but it is obviously unfair to expect them to pay an exorbitant price for that privilege. The man who rents gets all the benefits from the law that the home owner gets, and at a fraction of the price that the home owner has to pay.

The sales tax has this one important advantage. Every consumer must pay his share. If for every dollar he spent he had to pay 2¢ in tax, he would not miss it and by the end of the year he would have paid a sizeable sum in taxes without missing it. If it cost the average family two dollars a day to live, that family would pay $14.60 a year in taxes, on the basis of 2%, in addition to its regular taxes.

As it is now, some pay up to as much as a hundred dollars per year personal property taxes, to say nothing of the land tax. Other families just as large, with perhaps as much actual income, are getting by on $5 or less. Lincoln said, "No country can exist, half slave, and half free." Under our present tax system it would seem that some are slaves and some are free.

The chief objection to the sales tax is not the tax itself but the method of its application. In states where the tax token method is in use we find the public objecting to the idea. Most of them do not mind paying the extra tax, but they do object to having to foot around with the tokens. Here in Nebraska the token idea is unpopular, for we have so far been in a class by ourselves, and we dislike having to adopt ideas used by others.

Whatever method is used, it should be one which calls for a minimum of expense in administration. We are paying all out of reason for many of the benefits we are deriving from the government today. A sales tax would be of little value to us if we had to spend half of it in collecting the other half. Nebraska as a state has a reputation for common sense. Let us hope that our legislators will earn for us that reputation in the future.

HOW TAX MONEY IS DIVIDED

When we people go shopping we think we are interested in the price we pay and the quantity and quality of goods we receive for our money. Actually what we are interested in is what we have to pay for a certain quantity and quality of goods as compared with what our neighbor has to pay. That is as it should be, we should not expect to pay less than our neighbors, and it would be unjust if we had to pay more.

When we pay taxes it is merely a form of shopping. We must pay the tax, but we get something in return. Like the shopper, no person should have to pay more for what he receives than any other, and he should not expect to pay less. The owner of property should pay more taxes than the man who has none, for his taxes help protect his property. But he should not be expected to pay it all.

The American people pay taxes for a large number of different purposes. There are state taxes, county taxes, city taxes and school taxes, each for the support of that part of the government to which it is attributed. There are also special taxes to fit a thousand and one needs of the government and each tax and the amount thereof shows on your tax receipt.

For example the tax in Ord city for 1939 is 43.48 mills, and consists of state tax, county tax, school tax, school bond tax, township tax and city tax. Of each dollar paid in taxes for the year the state gets 6.6 cents, the county gets 10.6 cents, the school gets 37 cents, the school bonds get 11 cents, the township gets 3.6 cents and the city gets 31.4 cents.

In addition to these divisions, which are always clearly indicated on your tax receipt, there are the special taxes known as poll tax and old age pension. The old age pension tax clearly states what it is to be used for. The poll tax was originally designated to take formerly worked out on the roads, care of the roadwork, and was but it is now paid in cash.

Long ago it became pitifully inadequate to keep up the roads, and is now supplemented by the township tax, which is used on the township roads. The chief source of funds for road work is the state gasoline tax, about two thirds of which goes to the counties and the rest is used by the state for building and maintaining state highways.

The last legislature passed a law diverting a part of the gasoline tax to the old age pension fund, but the percentage of distribution of the remainder remains the same. Every taxpayer should know what appears on the face of his tax receipt, but it is surprising how few really know, and what is worse, there are many who do not care.

Your tax receipt shows the description of the property you pay taxes on, the valuation of that property, and in the proper columns the amount of each kind of tax you pay. The figures are totaled in the final column and tell the total amount of tax you pay. This system of keeping the public informed is most highly developed in the United States, and is practically unknown in European countries. It is just another of the features of our representative form of government for which we should be thankful.

NEW RECORD IN FILINGS.

The final returns are in for the great Nebraska primary sweepstakes, and the number of filings for state and national offices is ahead of that of any former years.

No less than 456 persons paid their filing fees in the hope of

It is pretty near impossible for the general public to know anything about what congress is doing regarding the spending of money.

One day a large slice will be lopped off some appropriation bill and a few days later, after a great splash has been made about the savings, it will be quietly put back and voted a law.

It is my conviction that most of our congressmen want to keep the people who are now taxed beyond their ability to pay, feeling encouraged by making a show of reducing expenditures, and at the same time keep the people who are demanding the continuing of spending feeling good by slipping the thing over when the other crowd is not looking.

The figures for Valley county in 1936 should prove of interest. The Republican party had a total of 29 state and national offices to fill, counting everything. The number of persons on the primary ballot for these offices was 71.

Counting out the convention delegates and national chairman, for which only a few ran, we find there were 15 offices to fill, and 55 persons running for those offices.

The Democrats had fewer candidates and national committeemen, there are about 75 state and national offices to be filled in Nebraska. This puts the figures into concrete form and shows conclusively that there is an average of six aspirants for each of those offices. The old convention system had its faults, but the most to run for each office was one candidate for each party.

No one has suggested a workable solution of the problem as yet, but there must be one. It is up to us to find it.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD.

Thursday morning K. W. Peter-son was in a cafe and asked Harry Wolf, who was sitting beside him, who was running against Cummins. Just then Harry McBeth came in and Wolf told him it was Harry McBeth. Ken then asked Harry what he would do if elected and Harry made his program sound so well that Ken was sold on the idea, and started out on a campaign of "McBeth for Mayor." He was talking it up strong when H. Anderson overheard him and gave the deal away.

Since Mrs. Florence Chapman went to California her dog, "X," has been taken care of at the Ambrose home. Friday morning Mrs. Ambrose went to Grand Island on the bus, and "X" wanted to go along. He insisted on it so much that Mrs. Ambrose shut him in the car before she got into the bus, and he made plenty of fuss when the bus pulled out. Later Kelly let him out of the car and he spent an hour running around town trying to figure out where she had gone. By evening, however, he had found Mrs. Ella Hughes and seemed perfectly contented.

Bates Copeland of North Loup, who was manager of the Ord baseball club at the time that Emil Fafeita was one of the players, heard about Emil's eleventh birthday and so on Feb. 29 he sent him a diamond willow cane. He gave it to W. F. Williams, who delivered it. It is a very fine specimen of the canemaker's art, and Emil figures he will have use for it before his twenty-fifth birthday.

The Model Tobacco man was in Ord the other day and meeting John Ward, asked him if he ever tried Model, at the same time tendering him a liberal package.

"I never smoke any other kind," said John. But I am the only pipe smoker in the Quiz office and so far John has not handled me that package, which of course he can't use.

Herbert Hoover is urging congress to make an initial appropriation of twenty million dollars to help feed the war sufferers of Europe, yet there are millions and millions who are going hungry and ill clothed. There is an old saying that charity should begin at home. Is there a limit to what this country can do? There comes a time when a business man, a business firm or a division of government has to quit spending.

Down in Lincoln, an effort is going to be made to keep dogs off the grass on the postoffice lawn. Even the cast iron lamp posts are to be taken away, as a help to the campaign and notices are being posted so dogs may know that their presence is not wanted on the grass.

Yet, with this information before them, those responsible for the fine green lawn that will be maintained around the new Ord postoffice, are practically insuring the presence of numerous Ord dogs on that lawn by planting eight shade trees promiscuously throughout the postoffice lawn. Trees and lamp posts seem to hold a strong attraction for dogs. I can see why, with trees, they could be seeking the shade, but lamp posts, well, someone will have to figure that one out.

Raleigh Meyer Robbed of $80 by Nervous Bandit

Raleigh Meyer, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Urban of Ord, recently was held up and robbed of $80 by a "nervous bandit" at Santa Ana, Calif., a newspaper clipping received this week by Mr. Urban says.

Young Meyer is a filling station attendant and one evening last week a stranger walked into the filling station office, pointed a revolver at Meyer and handed him a paper sack, saying "Fill it up."

He waited impatiently while Meyer put $40 in five and ten dollar bills, 20 one dollar bills and $20 in silver in the bag, then left the office and ran down the street. Police were called and they rounded up some suspects, none of whom was identified by Meyer.

August Kriewald's dog can run 3½ miles an hour by the speedometer of my car.

On the other hand he and the town of North Loup always have a surplus of pennies. Several times he has loaded up a batch of them and took them to Ord and traded them to the banks there where they seem to be glad to get them.

With nickles he just about plays even. A few times he has been short of them and when he is he goes to Scotts where he can buy all he needs. At Scotts there are several one armed bandits and slot machines and they gather the surplus nickles apparently.

With all the other pieces of money and coins he runs distressingly short all the time. If he doesn't ship in currency, he made no attempt to explain the reason for it all; just told the situation that exists.

One-Armed Bandits.

And speaking of one-armed bandits, if a person wants to be held up by one of them, there are usually plenty in Scotts. Few cities allow them any more and Scotts has the distinction of being one of the few.

Not long ago I was in a place of business where one was in operation and the jack-pot got out of order. The proprietor took a key and opened the machine up. He tinkered it awhile, taking out about thirty-five nickles. When he finally had it repaired, he handed the thirty-five nickles to the lady clerk who delightedly consented to ring them back into the machine. She not only rang this $1.75 worth of nickles back but as she won, she would ring back the winnings too.

In less than a half hour the thirty-five nickles were safely devoured by the one-armed bandit.

Dream Model.

Alfred Christensen, who has been winning most of the prizes with his Chester White hogs at the surrounding county fairs the last few years seems not to be entirely satisfied for recently he purchased and imported two small hogs from Iowa, and they promise to be something better yet than he has had.

The sire of the male pig he bought has a name of Rainbow Supreme and he has been world's champion at the International Show for three years. The mother of this pig of Alfred's was grand champion sow last year, so if blood lines have anything to do with it, this pig of Alfred's ought to be something extra to be sure.

Alfred bought a gilt too, the sire of this pig named Dream Model, and the heritage here is about as meritorious.

A Necessity.

No little complaint has been registered lately that the officials of the schools allow agents to solicit students and take orders for expensive articles. The most recent was that of an agent who took orders for eight dollar class rings.

It seems most of the students allowed him to take their names and then they rushed home for the eight dollars, as if eight dollars was an inconsequential sum, and any man who could not dig it up pronto was a tight wad of the highest order.

My daughter nearly wept aligator tears when I demurred slightly at the idea. I inquired who was buying those eight dollar rings anyway, and she informed me with a sigh of distress, "Why all the kids, Daddy."

Still I was stumped. Many of the families represented in her class (all classes for that matter) are on relief of some nature and many of those not on relief are having a heck of a time paying their bills for the necessary expenditures. But she seemed to think that an eight dollar class ring was an absolute necessity and that ended all arguments.

I wonder if Crawford will loan me eight dollars.

Short Shaving.

Ed Lee was a little put out because of the way the papers reported the election at the recent Farmer's Grain and Supply company. Ed said that he went to the officials before the election and absolutely refused to serve as a candidate.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Mrs. Harry Patchen Writes.
Note: The following letter was written by Mrs. Patchen to her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Jorgenson and other relatives, but is so interesting that they gave it to the Quiz for publication.

LaConner, Wash.
Febr. 1, 1940

Dear Folks:

Your letters received and I am sure sorry it is so cold back there. It is hard to realize, because it is so mild here. Harry works in the woods all day in just his shirt sleeves and overalls. We moved here to LaConner so that Lester could go to town school and it's also nearer to work for the men.

This is a pretty little town, located between the Skagit river and Budget Sound. The main street is where the stores are located, and they are built with their rear doors out over the river. Our house is located 2 blocks from main street straight up a big hill where we have a lovely view of the surrounding country, and believe me, it is beautiful.

Just like a picture with huge mountain peaks rearing up in the sky for thousands of feet. They are snow covered and are miles away, but look very close, especially when the sun shines upon them. Mount Baker is beautiful from here, also a rough needle point range of the Cascades and Index mountains, as well as mount Rainier can be seen from our bedroom window, while from the kitchen window I can see the Olympic mountains over in Canada.

Down the street towards town just two doors away is a Catholic church. They had a funeral there this morning. It was a military affair. The coffin was flag draped and a whole company of soldiers in full military dress, guns and all, attended. There were so many flowers it took two florist trucks to haul them. I counted 200 cars and then lost count. The church bell tolled 25 times, so I wonder if that was not the age of the one who died.

There is an Indian settlement here and they live in government built houses just across the river from the main town. The houses are all built alike and are painted white and set in rows. They are a pretty sight with a hill covered with great pine trees as a background for them. Several Indian children go to the school Lester does, and he thinks that is something. He says the Indian kids are all good athletes.

Lester made the second basketball team and is thrilled. He has been asked to join the Boy Scouts here and attended his first meeting last night. He came home all excited, he has a Scout instruction book and is now preparing for his tenderfoot test. Harry and George wanted to go to Canada to see about setting up a shavings press, so we all went and made a day of it. Lester says he has been "abroad" now.

A few miles down the road we saw beautiful blue Lake Padden, surrounded by pine-covered shores and beautiful resorts. Next came the lovely city of Bellingham, which is an industrial center. They have coal mines, lumber and paper mills, and manufacturing plants of all kinds. Ferndale came next. It is a chicken raising community. Every farm has three or four great chicken houses hundreds of feet long and most of them two stories.

At Blaine, which is on the border line, we saw our first coast guard station out in the bay. Here, too, is located the International Peace arch. It is a huge cement arch, with wrought iron gates thrown wide open, and an inscription on the top of the arch which reads: "In Commemoration of 100 Years of Peace between these two Great Nations. May these Gates never be closed." This arch is very impressive and causes one to do some deep thinking.

Nearby are the customs, the Canadian customs going in and the U. S. A. customs coming out. As you enter they examine your car, take names, birth places and dates, and your car license. On coming out your luggage and car are all gone through for anything you may have bought in Canada as an import duty is charged on these things.

All along the road are wayside stands selling live oysters in the shells by the gunny sack full for 50¢ per sack. They also sell ready cooked fresh crabs which look like huge frowning red spiders. I don't imagine I'd care for them, though the natives declare they are delicious. They also have shrimp and other sea foods.

In Canada the first town is Cloverdale and around there are located many silver fox and mink farms. There too they have bees, and the roadside stands have honey in all forms and quantities for sale. Close to the next town, New Westminster, we saw large dogs. From these dogs comes the peat moss used for litter in chicken houses, etc.

We crossed a beautifully arched toll bridge over the historic Fraser river into New Westminster. The British Columbia penitentiary is located there, also lumber mills and boat building factories. From there we drove upon the King's Highway through Burnaby town, where there is a large Ford factory, and on to Vancouver, which has a population of 650,000 people.

We drove directly to the ship docks as we understood it was visiting day aboard any of the big ships. Upon inquiry we found that, as Canada was at war, the government had taken control of all ships for the duration of the war, and no visitors were allowed on shipboard unless traveling that way. CHASE'S TOGGERY

There were picnic kitchens, benches and tables made out of pine and fir natural timber and a huge outdoor theatre. There was also a zoo with a lot of animals.

At one point on the park drive we saw a cement pedestal with the old figurehead off the Empress of India ship mounted on it. At another point there was a light house. Here we began seeing cannons mounted in little gun houses and facing out across the bay.

Guards were pacing back and forth constantly. Soon the coast line was all barricaded with sand bags and whole companies of soldiers were drilling everywhere. Cannons were thick along the shore, while out on the bay large seaplanes patrolled the waters. They would take off and fly up and down English Bay and then land on the water again. They were very fascinating to watch. The soldiers drilling and cannons everywhere made us feel as if we had better be going back to the U. S. A.

We came home on the Marine Drive, and all along were lovely English estates, surrounded by hedges, some of which were 12 feet tall. It was dark when we got back to the customs but we had no trouble there, so we were soon on our way. Of course I have not been able to tell you all we saw, but it will give you an idea, anyhow. We are supposed to have oysters for supper, so I will have to stop and clean them. Please write soon.

Great Nebraskan Passes.
In the death, last week, of George W. Ayres, of Lincoln, Nebraska lost an outstanding citizen. It was never his lot to hold the office of attorney general of Nebraska, and yet he wielded as much influence in the office as any man elected, for he was assistant to all attorney generals, both republican and democrat, for a period of thirty years.

There was an exhibit of Indian canoes and totem poles in one place and in another pools of water with graceful white swans and ducks of all kinds. These were among shrubbery and trees and a great fountain was there too. There were sunken gardens, rock gardens, rose gardens, and "believe it or not" rose gardens all in bloom.

From there we drove to Stanton Park, located right in the heart of Vancouver. It is six miles around this park, English Bay borders along the shore, walks higher up among the rocks, walks across the park everywhere. Each little path has an arch at the beginning of it and a sign telling where it leads. The native timber in the park is pine, fir, hemlock, spruce, alder etc.

There was an exhibit of Indian customs, the Canadian customs going in and the U. S. A. customs coming out. As you enter they examine your car, take names, birth places and dates, and your car license. On coming out your luggage and car are all gone through for anything you may have bought in Canada as an import duty is charged on these things.

Virtue, Vice and Vice Versa

Aluminum, steel reinforced, has the highest ratio of strength to weight of any available transmission cable. But its diameter is greater than that of other cables, increasing the problem of ice loading and wind resistance. On the other hand the larger diameter is an advantage because "corona losses" (the bluish halo visible on transmission lines in severe conditions) decrease with increase in cable diameter.

He explained that housewives prefer the smaller cuts of meat nowadays owing to the decrease in the size of families. He said that the smaller pieces were also easier to cut up and cure.

He said that a hog should be stunned or shot and then turned over and stuck. The one demonstrated on was shot with a rifle,

"Don't excite an animal before you kill it," Mr. West warned, explaining that this gave hogs and cattle a fever and that they would not bleed properly, which would endanger the keeping qualities of the meat. Mr. West pointed out that water slightly below the boiling point is best for scalding a hog and that a teaspoonful of lye and bar of soap should be added to the water in order to cut the scurf on the hog. Mr. West explained that a barrow usually makes better bacon and firmer hams than a gilt or sow.

He said that a hog should be stunned or shot and then turned over and stuck. The one demonstrated on was shot with a rifle, stuck, scalded, scraped, its intestines removed, sawed in half and hung up to cool in an unbelievably short time.

Prior to the hog killing, Mr. West explained the qualities of the various cuts of beef from the heifer which was killed the week before. He and his high school agricultural students had all of the cuts attractively labeled and displayed. Leslie Chaffin, a high school student, auctioned off the beef, the people present selecting the cut and the amount which they wanted. The Future Farmers of America, who bought the heifer, which was killed at the Burwell Livestock market, made about eight dollars over the price paid for the heifer.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Writes from Bayard, Nebr.

Greetings to Valley county friends. We have enjoyed the letter box plan very well and think it is a great idea. Have read all the letters so far and felt like sending a few lines too and are wishing that the letters would continue coming until all those who moved away had sent theirs. However, we like to hear from those who remained, just as well.

In other words, we enjoy reading the Quiz, to hear how home folks are and what they are doing. We always look forward for the Quiz to come every week. It reaches us Friday mornings.

We are still at Bayard, but are planning to come home before long. The winter seemed short so far and we have enjoyed staying with our children. According to reports from the Quiz and friends who have written us, it was about 10 degrees colder in Valley county than here. The government thermometer didn't drop lower than 17 below zero two nights and there was very little wind ever since we were here. The snow laid just as it fell and the ground looks pretty well soaked up. The bluffs are still covered with snow at this writing.

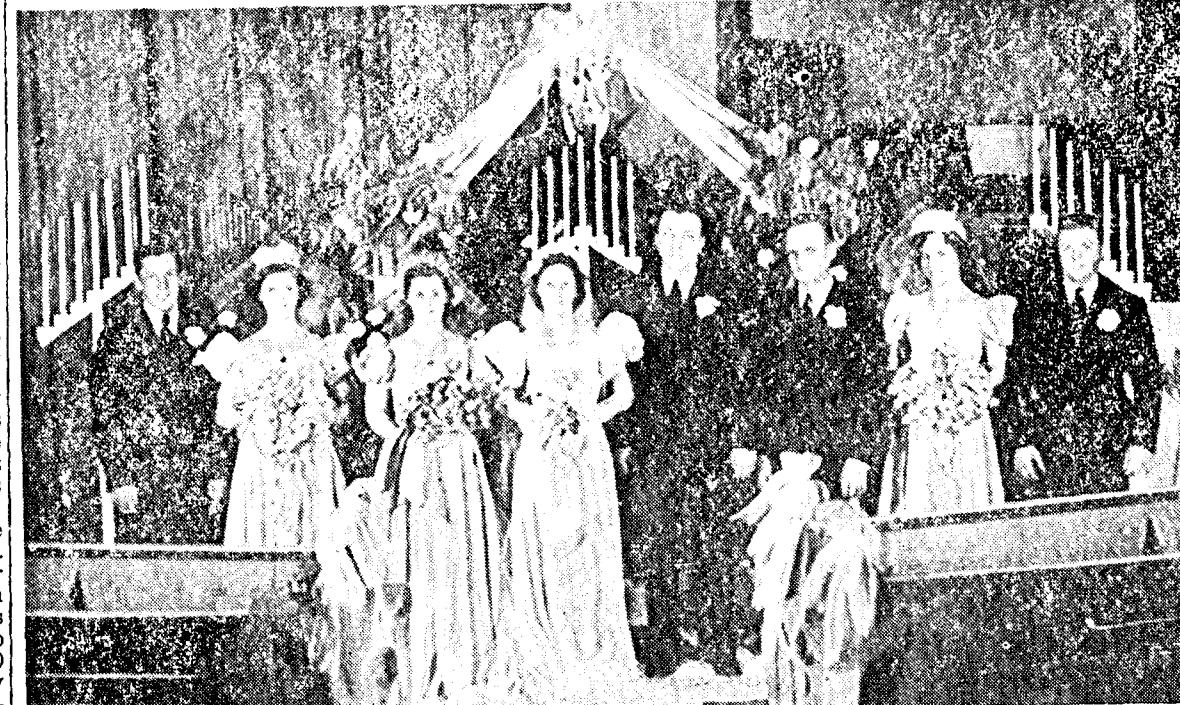

Bayard is a real nice little town with a sugar beet factory and a CCC camp and a beavery. It has twelve churches, one of them is a Greek church. There are only two Greek churches in Nebraska. One is in Omaha and one at Bayard. The sugar beet factory is one that used to be at Grand Island. They wrecked it and moved it to Bayard. It employs three hundred men during beet season which lasts about two months, depending on the crop. The factory can store six hundred carloads of sugar and still they are paying more for a pound of sugar at Bayard than we do at Valley county. In fact all living expenses are higher here excepting potatoes.

The CCC camp is right across the street from here. We see the boys every day and there are 180 here now. A few were sent to their homes on account of bad behavior. The camp was erected last October and so they are not very well established as yet. They are building up right along. They have a hospital with eight beds, and a doctor who works under the doctors of town. A great amount of the boys work at a dam for irrigation. They drive to work in canvas covered trucks and come to camp for meals. They take visitors through the camp any time. It was quite interesting to go thru. It seems everything is done orderly.

We have a good view of Chimney Rock, which is a few miles from Bayard, but seems close by. That is where they are showing the Passion play every year in June. The Bayard people are making preparations for it now.

They have different fields of soil here. Some is a sandy loam and some is very light, a volcanic ash, some gravel and some is heavy and

Miss Marjorie Hinman of Loup City and Martin F. Lewin of Arcadia were united in marriage by Rev. Harwood in the Presbyterian church in Loup City, Feb. 28, 1940 at eight o'clock.

The church was a most beautiful sight, being decorated with a profusion of ferns, foliage plants and white carnations. The center aisle was carpeted with a beautiful white rug and the edge of the pews draped with white tulle ribbon and bordered with lighted candles.

The altar was hung with gold hanging baskets of ferns and white carnations, the arch was centered with a cluster of gold bells, at the sides of the altar, and to the back were white candelabrum.

The soft organ music before the ceremony was played by Miss Lois Swanson. Shirley Outhouse and Janette Amick, dressed in pink and blue evening gowns, lighted the candles.

Two songs, "For You," and "At Dawning," were sung by Miss Marjorie Hinman. To the strains of Mendelsohn's wedding march the bridal party proceeded down the white aisle, the bride on the arm of her father. The single ring service was read, vows exchanged and the wedding party retired to the vestibule of the church, where they greeted their many friends.

The bride's gown was a princess creation of white brocade satin with puffed sleeves and long train. The long veil was caught in a corner of seed pearls. The bride's bouquet was of white gardenias, white roses, lilies of the valley and an orchid in the center.

The maid of honor was Miss Ruth Hinman of David City, who wore a gown of pastel green taffeta with a small turban of the same material. She carried a bouquet of talisman roses. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Coralyne Christ, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Eva Belle Spelts, who wore pastel peach gowns with matching turbans. Their bouquets were varicolored sweet peas.

Maynard Carver was best man, Alan Hinman, brother of the bride, and Melvin Swanson, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, acted as ushers. The men of the bridal party wore dark suits.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hinman, sr., of Loup City. She graduated from the Grand Island high school and after moving to Loup City was employed by the telephone company for a time.

The bridegroom is the only son of Mrs. Inez Lewin and has lived in Arcadia all of his life. He graduated from the Arcadia high school in 1929 and attended the University of Nebraska four years.

very productive, which sell for $300 to $400 dollars per acre.

There are many Mexicans here, who are beet tenders. Some farmers are out in the fields starting field work. The potato crop was great last fall and a very good quality. Some of the large potato cellar have not been opened as yet.

Best wishes to all,
Mrs. E. Rahmeyer.

Do you want the Very Best in... BEEF

We pride ourselves on the quality of our beef. Every steer we butcher is selected by ourselves from the feed lots of one or another of the good G.O.D. feeders, who really know how to finish beef right.

We butcher it ourselves and after it is cut up we see that it is refrigerated under proper conditions for the right length of time. You get no new or "green" beef at our market.

We cut it to suit the customer and you can be sure of getting the steak or roast cut you want simply by telling us what you want and how you want it cut.

If you want real, tender, juicy beef, try ours once and be convinced.

Mr. Lewin is now vice-president of the First National bank of Arcadia. The Lewins will spend two weeks in New Orleans, after which they will be at home in Arcadia at eight o'clock.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Irrigation was the theme in Ord last Wednesday when Engineer Pierce and Agronomist Fitts told a court room full of interested farmers how to water their crops. Bill Pierce made this impressive remark: "I believe that the Loup Valley is the best place in Nebraska for irrigation, from the standpoint of soil and water."

A representative of the Grand Island sugar factory substantiated this observance. He reported that beets from the Burwell area produced several tons per acre more than the average yield of all acreage contracted by their firm.

Agronomist Fitts showed what returns are possible here, in telling about a Mr. Garner who has 80 acres of irrigated alfalfa above Taylor. In 1937, Garner threshed 14 bushels of Cossack seed per acre; in 1938 he got 7 bushels to the acre; in 1939 he grew 11 bushels per acre. Alfalfa seed is worth over twenty dollars a bushel.

Several good crop rotations were explained by Mr. Fitts. They included generous use of such legumes as alfalfa and sweet clover—but not soybeans. Fitts also advised against growing sugar beets right after alfalfa. In stressing the need of fertilizer, he declared that irrigators around Scottsbluff are shipping in manure from other parts of the state.

Early watering was stressed by Mr. Pierce. He stated that fall irrigation has boosted potato yields over 200 bushels per acre. On the other hand, corn will burn up in July while being flooded if there is no subsoil moisture. Pierce recommended the lath box method because it puts water on slowly, and irrigation water takes a long time to soak in. More frequent and lighter applications of water were advised.

The two young men, Pierce and Fitts, team together nicely and give a practical program. In the forenoon Fitts instructed the adult group. Meanwhile, Pierce took the high school ag students out to Arnold's farm, where he taught them how to use a surveyor's level and make topographical maps for the location of lateral ditches.

"These boys," he said, "are the ones who will do most of the irrigating here."

In coming back to his old home town, Bill probably faces his severest critics, and he does it most capably. Bill speaks the farmers' language. He has a cool easy manner that is refreshingly different from the bookish ways of most college professors. Many favorable comments were overheard regarding his way of teaching the farmers how to irrigate.

Correction: Last week Back Forty column featured this scathing remark: "Creameries have never been known to give test readings that were too high." But it was the witness product of some typesetter in the Quiz office. The writer had said that "Creameries have even been known to give test readings that were too high." He does not wish to acknowledge either praise or blame for the way the statement was published.

Domestic Science Club Sets Beautiful Table

That culinary art stands high in Burwell the ladies of the Domestic Science club proved at a beautiful 1 o'clock luncheon given at the home of Mrs. Dewey Meyer, Feb. 28. The lace-covered table had for its centerpiece a large shiny heart which held twenty smaller hearts daintily edged with paper lace and decorated with pastel candy flowers. Little red streamers trailed to tiny white hearts each bearing a lady's name. Mrs. James Kelli was the originator of this lovely decoration.

There were cool fruit cocktails in crystal and silver goblets. Shimmering salads garnished with endive and radish roses added to the colorful beauty of the table. Meats delicately browned and enticingly served with escalloped vegetable dishes and cheese-garnished potatoes in the half-shell. Fluffy delectable desserts completed the spring luncheon. A dainty, white, three tiered confectionery creation, fragile as a fairy castle, held mints adorned with candy spring flowers. The club members' motive had been to make a beautiful table and so successful were they that the result would have ranked high in comparison with any magazine illustration.

Howard Deems, assistant supervisor of vocational agriculture visited the Burwell school Tuesday.

Burwell Victim of Hit-and-Run Driver Is Now Recovering

Leonard Partridge, of Burwell, who suffered a fractured arm Sept. 11, 1939 when a truck ran into his car between Elyria and Burwell, is shown here wearing his seventh, and what he hopes will be his last, cast, for he is now thought to be on the way to recovery.

After the accident he was in Dr. Cram's hospital seven days and they managed to save his arm although at first it was thought amputation would prove necessary. He was in University hospital, Omaha, for 23 days, and has had six other casts on the arm. About a month ago surgeons at Omaha grafted a piece of Leonard's shinbone into the bones of his arm. The cast he is now wearing weighs ten pounds.

The accident was caused by a hit-and-run driver whose identity never was discovered. Leonard will return to Omaha March 19 for another check-up.

The office of county commissioner in the first district comprising Burwell, Rockford and Willow Springs precincts, which for a long time appeared to be going begging, has suddenly become very popular. Eight men are vying for this office. On the Democratic ticket S. P. Lakin, a retired farmer and John Penas, a farmer, telephone company manager and Butter Factory director are contesting for the nomination.

Roy Nightingale, a farmer, W. D. Massey, a retired farmer and implement dealer, A. E. Jenks, a trucker who was county commissioner sixteen years ago, C. J. Bleach, a farmer, and Claude Becker, a retired merchant who formerly operated a theatre in Burwell and who is at the present time mayor of the city, have filed for the same office on the Republican ticket. F. J. Grunkemeyer, incumbent, who stated that he did not intend to file for reelection, apparently decided that if so many men wanted his job that it must be worth keeping and so he filed Thursday, just getting in under the deadline.

Another commissioner is to be elected for the third district comprising the east part of the county. Louis Bodyfield, who was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Victor Johns, who died before he took his office, has filed for election on the Democratic ticket. His opponents are D. J. Guggenmos and Frank Bartos who formerly was the commissioner from this district. Mrs. Victor Johns, who asks the voters to elect her to the office for which her husband was chosen but did not live to fill, has no opponents on the Republican ticket.

Three men are contesting the election of county judge, B. A. Rose, who now holds this office, George Lange, real estate dealer, and Glenn Runyan, formerly county attorney, who made a last minute filing.

Lloyd Alderman, a farmer who is compelled to seek lighter work because of his health, has filed on the Republican ticket for county treasurer opposing George Tunnicliff who was appointed to this office by county commissioners following the resignation of John Beynon. Mr. Alderman is familiar with the work of the county treasurer's office, having served as deputy under his uncle, James Butler.

Herman Grunkemeyer has filed for reelection as a director of the North Loup Valley Power and Irrigation district. He was the only candidate to file for this position. A. C. VanDiest and Everett Satterfield of Taylor have filed for the unicameral legislature. VanDiest is the present incumbent. Satterfield is now in the Methodist hospital in Omaha having suffered a broken shoulder when he was thrown from a horse. He is a former county clerk of Loup county. Four men from Custer county have filed for the privilege of representing the 35th legislative district.

Mrs. D. C. McCarthy taught the poetry class of the adult education school Thursday evening. She read and discussed several of Alfred Noyes' poems and read a number of her favorite poems.

The luncheon was served buffet style and the center of each individual table held four dewy red roses used as favors.

Mrs. James Kelli lesson leader, gave an illustrated talk on table setting and table adornment. One of the thoughts she stressed, taken from an Emily Post rule, was that holiday decorations should be used on and after the holiday—never before. Each lady showed as her roll call a magazine illustration of table decorations.

Howard Deems, assistant supervisor of vocational agriculture visited the Burwell school Tuesday.

Mrs. B. A. Rose and Mrs. William Eatherton were guests.

For town council nominees the Democrats chose Albert Bolli, Glow Fackler and R. B. Grunkemeyer. For the school board they selected Mrs. G. A. Butts and Archie Bangert to make the race. It is expected that some of the people named will refuse to have their names placed on the ballot.

Rev. Light preached at the Junior service held in the Evangelical church at Taylor Monday evening.

Methods of feeding cattle, types of cattle that make the best gains, food values of various feeds, and ways of planning good rations were discussed Thursday evening at the beef production class of the adult education school taught by George West. LeRoy Lashmett brought a collection of various feed materials which were used to make the discussion more interesting. It is planned to have Dr. McGinnis of Ord present at the next meeting to discuss the diseases of cattle, their control and prevention.

Rev. Shelby J. Light will preach at the Seventh Day Baptist church in North Loup Saturday morning. Besides preaching in Burwell, he will speak at a union service in the Congregational church in Taylor Sunday evening.

Recreation Project Action Deferred to Allow Investigation

tion project. Two of these would be unskilled workers; two would be junior recreation leaders, one lady; one person would be a skilled recreation leader; and one would be a non-certified recreation leader. The total salary of these six would be $4,052 for the twelve month period.

Mayor Cummings stated that he would not be willing to obligate the city in the amount of $1,800 without a thorough investigation. He felt that the council should know definitely just how much of the equipment could be obtained by donation and how cheaply a building could be rented. In fact he felt that the amount the city would have to raise should be known definitely before any action was taken. The council concurred in this, and the matter was laid over for more investigation and future action.

There was considerable talk relative to the proposed change in the pool hall, billiard hall and the bowling alley ordinance, and Attorney Davis presented two amendments, one of which would permit the sale of beer in pool halls now holding beer licenses, and the other which would permit the sale of beer in both pool halls and bowling alleys. The council decided the former would be preferred, and it was passed by three readings and made a part of the civil code of Ord.

Due to the fact that the WPA is furnishing more men at present on the athletic field project, there is not enough means of moving the dirt they all are able to dig. For this reason George Allen asked the council that two dump wagons and means of pulling them be furnished by the city to expedite the finishing of the field. Mr. Gyger agreed that the WPA would furnish gas and oil for the tractor.

It was decided to leave the position up to the park board, A. J. Shirley, L. H. Covert and Councilman Rohla, and have them make some arrangement whereby the tractors operated by Shirley and

In the past year the ag boys have distributed about a ton of feed for the pheasants. Mr. Kovanda does not know whether this feed has done much for the birds, but he feels certain that the work has done much for the boys in keeping them interested in conservation.

He spoke of the advertising value of our wild life program, especially the pheasants. During the open season hundreds of hunters come to the valley and they will see the results of irrigation here, and will tell about it when they go back home.

Mr. Kovanda had some of the older issues of Wild Life stamps, which he showed to the club. The stamps for 1940 are being issued now. He said these stamps were sold by Boy Scouts and were the sole means of support for the national conservation program, and it is now 3 years old.

He has done some investigating, and believes that many of the pheasants planted last fall and which have been reported dead, in reality migrated some ten miles northeast and are to be found in the hills in that section. If this is correct the report is most gratifying.

In the business session of the club it was announced that the picture will be taken at the City Cafe following the regular dinner next Monday evening. A. A. Wiegarde suggested the soap box derby as a recreation project. Wiegarde and James Gilbert were selected to represent the club at the council meeting later the same evening.

Monday evening the members of the Ord Cosmopolitan club had as guest speaker, J. A. Kovanda, who spoke on the subject "Conservation of Wild Life." This is a subject in which Mr. Kovanda has taken considerable interest. He told why game laws are necessary and why they should be enforced.

State Asking Bids for Hard Surfacing Ord-No. Loup Road

Work Will Be Done By Fall, Present Plan; Contract Letting April 4th.

The Nebraska highway department this week asks for bids for hard-surfacing 11.4 miles of highway between Ord and North Loup, with a promise that the paving will be completed by next fall. This news comes as a pleasant surprise to people of the North Loup valley, who had hoped for paving in 1941 but scarcely expected that grading, bridges, and culverts could be finished in time for surfacing this year.

Work of putting in the new bridges and culverts is under way now, and grading operations to re-route the highway back of the Long place and above the irrigation ditch, eliminating two sharp corners, will start soon. All right-of-way difficulties have been settled.

Material needed to hard-surface this road with "stabilized soil base course prime coat, armor coat, etc." to quote the notice being published by the highway department, will include 6,390 cubic yards of gravel, 9,890 cubic yards of sand-gravel, 3,800 cubic yards of fine sand, 4,650 cubic yards of clay for binder material, 91,000 gallons of water and 54,230 gallons of asphalt oil. The clay used is of several special types, depending on soil to which it is applied as binder, and negotiations for purchase of the types needed have been completed.

The highway department also is advertising this week for 1.7 miles of grading and incidental work on the west end of the North Loup west highway, connecting with the Ord-Arcadia highway. This will close the gap remaining in the all-weather connecting road.

All bids are to be filed at Lincoln and contract letting is scheduled for April 4.

Mrs. Mary Troxel, 89, Dies at Sargent Home

Mrs. Mary Jane Troxel, 89, a Nebraska citizen since 1869, passed away at her home in Sargent Friday morning. In the fall of 1878 she and her husband, John T. Troxel, came up the North Loup river trail and settled on a homestead 11 miles west of the present town of Taylor, five years before the formation of Loup county. Mrs. Troxel was an aunt of E. E. Troxel and Frank A. Johnson of Burwell.

The committee for the festival is comprised of Supt. C. C. Scifield, Burwell; Carol Nygren, Arcadia; Henry Deines, Ord, and Marvin H. Struve, music instructor at Burwell.

Comstock Too Much for Palmer, Score Was 32-23

Paced by C. Wells, who bucketed 12 points, the Comstock high school quintet had little difficulty with Palmer and won the Class C play-off at Ord Friday evening by a score of 32 to 23. The Palmer boys started off well and the first quarter was a nip-and-tuck affair but Comstock forged ahead and led by 10 points most of the game. Frank Lee did an excellent job of refereeing.

The win over Palmer gives Coach Dasher's team the right to compete in the Class C state tournament at Lincoln this week.

1st Guessers Say Ord's Population to Show Increase

If the early guessers in the Quiz "population of Ord in 1940" contest are right, this city will show a healthy increase in population when census figures are revealed.

Estimates so far are 2,600, 2,850, 2,500, 3,500, 2,700 and 2,376.

Ord's population in 1930 was 2,226. The 1940 census gets under way April 1 but official figures will not be revealed until some time during the summer. Will Ord be smaller or larger than in 1930?

All in the spirit of fun, and to see how close to the actual population will be estimated, The Quiz will give a prize of a year's subscription to the best guesser.

Your guess must be filed before March 15.

J. P. Hoffman Breaks Leg in Lumber Yard

A fall he sustained in the Koupal and Barstow yards Monday morning broke J. P. Hoffman's left leg. Ice covered with snow was the cause of the accident. Dr. F. A. Barta was called and found that the tibia was broken about six inches above the ankle.

He was taken to the Ord hospital and the limb placed in splints, and he is reported as resting easily. Jake has been in the employ of Koupal and Barstow for more than 35 years, and this is the first really serious accident he has had in that time.

John Shawerd and Walter Anderson were near by when the accident occurred and hurried to Hoffman's assistance, both of them falling down on the same piece of ice, but without getting hurt, thus indicating how dangerous patches of ice can be when hidden by fresh snow.

Mrs. Wm. Ramsey's Brother Killed In Auto Crash Sat'day

John Lowe, 38 Died at Once, Wife Died in Hospital at York on Tuesday.

Arcadia—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. William Ramsey, Jr., were called to York early Sunday morning by the news that Mrs. Ramsey's brother, John Lowe, had been killed the night before in an auto collision near Waco and that his wife was in a York hospital in a critical condition. Tuesday came word from Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey that Mrs. Lowe also had passed away. Marjorie Lowe, 12 years old, was reported seriously hurt, as was Donald Young, 21, driver of the car which struck the Lowe automobile, mobile.

Mr. Lowe, originally a resident of Wolbach, was 38 years old and had long been an employee of the Union Pacific railroad at Grand Island. He and his family were enroute to Lincoln to spend Sunday with Mrs. Lowe's mother when the accident occurred.

The sheriff of York county, L. M. Brock, was quoted as saying that fog and freezing mist caused the head-on collision and that no inquest would be held.

Camp Fire Girls Hold Anniversary Meeting

The local Camp Fire organizations observed the 25th anniversary of Camp Fire Girls of America by holding an all-day field and recreation meeting at the high school auditorium last Saturday. All fifty-one Camp Fire and Blue Bird members and their guardians attended with Miss Myra Bumgardner of Lincoln, field representative, directing.

Only one other boy outscored Leonard. That lad, Carl Sorenson of Kearney, was state high school champion last year, and second ranking judge in the national meet at the Kansas City Royal Livestock show in 1939. In reward for his efforts Leonard received three dollars in cash, and a blue ribbon. It was his first contest.

The scores of the other local boys were not so outstanding, the Ord group barely placing in the upper third of the 21 high schools competing. This put them in the money, however, and just above Belleville, Kas. Other local students getting prize ribbons were Edward Rousek, Charles Robertson, George Krajnik, Eldon Cernik, Donald Miller and Calvin Ferris.

The boys were guests of the Grand Island chamber of commerce for a free lunch at noon. They were also entertained by cowboy singers from radio station KMMJ. A prominent local farmer, R. Clare Clement of Miral Valley, was a judge at the contest. He is secretary of the Nebraska Hereford Breeders association, and was re-elected at the meeting for the coming year. He was largely responsible for the excellent program arranged for the boys.

Chet Austin's Home Damaged by Smoke

An alarm sounded at five minutes before ten a. m. Sunday called the Ord fire department to the Chet Austin home, where the basement was found full of smoke. The fire was caused by a plugged overflow pipe which caused the oil to accumulate below the grates, after which it caught fire from the blaze above.

The fire was confined to the base of the furnace, and was put out by throwing dirt on it. There was no damage except from the smoke. Mr. Austin had started for Grand Island and had stopped for Ed Parkos at his home at the south edge of town. When the alarm sounded they drove back and he found the fire at his own home.

Fire Department to Buy Inhalator, Support Is Asked

Many Lives Can Be Saved With New Equipment, Is Feeling; Need $415.00.

Encouraged by enthusiastic comments received from doctors, laymen and civic organizations about their proposal to sponsor the purchase of an inhalator and train the first aid squad in its use, the Ord volunteer fire department voted unanimously Friday evening to purchase such equipment at once and depend upon the community for financial support.

Many lives can be saved in Ord and surrounding communities in the future by having such equipment available, the fire department feels, and it is also felt that firemen are the proper persons to be trained in its use since the department already has a first aid squad and since firemen are always available in emergency.

Move to sponsor the purchase of an inhalator was started about a month ago with appointment of a committee composed of Chester Austin, Vernon Andersen and Ed Oetken. The committee investigated, sounded out sentiment and then reported in favor of the department sponsoring the purchase. Action followed Friday night.

The equipment decided upon is known as the "E & J Resuscitator, Inhalator and Aspirator," and its cost is $475 with all attachments which the fire department believes is the proper way to buy one, since the very attachment omitted might be the one for which need would arise first. A poll of fire departments elsewhere in Nebraska indicates that the E & J outfit is the best and it is said to be the only inhalator approved by the American Medical Association.

It is a combination of automatic breathing machine, emergency lung which will supply oxygen to any person unable to breathe; a suction device for removing obstructions from the upper air passages; a simple inhalator for giving oxygen to the person having difficulty in breathing.

Drowning, lightning stroke or electrical shock, strangulation of the new-born, smoke, gas, drug poisoning, pneumonia and infantile paralysis are some of the accidents the outfit must be able to treat.

As soon as the inhalator arrives and firemen are trained in its use the machine will be at the disposal of doctors, hospitals and individuals of Ord and surrounding communities and no charge ever will be made for its use. It is the fire department's desire that this be made entirely clear, since the outfit must be bought and paid for from voluntary contributions and the fire department will act as sponsor only, acting to the best of their knowledge for the welfare of the public at large.

Need for an inhalator and resuscitator as "life insurance" for all the people seems to be generally recognized, the fire department having been urged by countless persons to get such an outfit at once.

The department appeals for funds, not only to community clubs, organizations, lodges and churches, but to business houses, individuals and all other possible sources for contributions to the "Inhalator Fund," either large or small.

The sum of $50 has been contributed by the fire department and other contributions are:

M. B. Cummings, $5.00

The Ord Quiz, $5.00

Checks should be made out to "Treasurer, Ord Fire Department," and may be handed to Mark Tolén, secretary-treasurer, to Fire Chief C. C. Clark, to Chester Austin, Vernon Andersen or Ed Oetken, or may be left at the Quiz office. All donations and contributions, large and small, will be publicly acknowledged.

Give as much to this worthy cause as you can spare, whether it be 10¢ or $100.00. If more money is received than the outfit costs will be placed in a fund for the purchase of oxygen, replacement of parts, etc.

Laverne Lakin Now on Daily Rocket Staff

Laverne Lakin, formerly with the Ord Quiz and later with the World-Herald and other publications, started last week in charge of the engraving plant of the Daily Rocket, a publication at Rock Springs, Wyo. A very fine engraving, probably made by himself, shows his smiling face on the front page.

The plant and Lakin are both new to the Rocket. With good equipment and new materials, Lakin should be off to a fine start, and he proves it by having no less than seven splendid engravings in the first issue of the paper after he went to work. They are on widely different subjects, and can be classed with the best anywhere.

Walter Sorensen, Barber in Arcadia 45 Years, Retires Saturday; Raises Canaries As Hobby

Arcadia—(Special)—Walter Sorensen rounded out forty-eight years of working at the barber trade Saturday evening, forty-five of them spent in the same building in this village, and when he walked out of the shop that night he announced his retirement from the barbershop business. In future he will devote his time to his dairy and to his hobby, which is raising canary birds.

Mr. Sorensen was born in Ribe, Denmark, and came to Loup City in 1891. For a short time he worked in Henry Ohlsen's brickyard and on a farm but in 1892 began learning the barber trade in Loup City. Three years later he moved to Arcadia and opened his own shop in the same building which he left Saturday night.

He was married in 1899 to Nina Landers and they have five children and six grandchildren.

Harry Allen, Walter's helper for many years, expects to continue operation of the barber shop.

Inter-Class Cage Tournament Is Won Tuesday by Juniors

Subduced Seniors 37 to 33 in Finals After Beating Freshies 41 to 23.

Much interest was centered this week on the Ord high school inter-class basketball games. F. L. Stodard was coach for the seniors, C. C. Thompson for the juniors, J. A. Kovanda for the sophomores and Earl Bridgeford for the freshmen. Classes lined up solidly behind their teams and much excitement prevailed.

The first playoffs came Monday afternoon, starting at 3:30. The seniors had little trouble in disposing of the sophomores by a score of 41 to 26. H. Misko was high point man for the seniors, with 17 points, and Bailey Flagg made 11 points for the sophomores.

The juniors fared fully as well in defeating the freshmen by a score of 41 to 23. Furtak was high man for the juniors with 14 points and G. Cetak made 7 points for the freshmen.

In the playoffs last night the seniors and juniors met in the main event, the juniors finally winning in the hottest contest of the series by a score of 37 to 33. Romans made 11 points for the juniors, while H. Misko again starred for the seniors with 14 points.

In the sophomore-freshman contest the sophs had a rather easy time winning at will by a score of 32 to 12. New men scored the high points in this game, H. Adams making 13 for the sophomores, and Johnson making 4 for the freshmen.

A. J. Cochran acted as referee in the contests Monday afternoon and Wilmer Anderson officiated at last night's games. There was a good attendance and interest was keen. These games marked the official closing of the basketball season in Ord.

The Ord high basketball squad ended their competitive play last Wednesday evening, when they met defeat at the district tournament at Hastings. Nelson bounded back from a hairline decision over Hebron the day before and had a rather easy time subduing the Chanticleers by a score of 33 to 26.

ORD AND RECREATION

Last week there was presented to the Ord city council a project proposal of the Works Progress Administration, more directly known as a recreation project. As there has been a great deal of talk pro and con on the subject since the council meeting, and since it is evident that all the facts are not clear to all the people, the Quiz offers this editorial in explanation.

The technical sponsor of this project is the State Board of Control, Lincoln, Nebr., and comprises these locations for project operations, namely: Recreation Center, City Park and adjacent Athletic Field, and Swimming Pool. The purposes as set forth in the proposal are as follows:

(a) To provide employment for needy persons.

(b) To provide a recreation program consisting of activities in Arts and Crafts, Social Recreation, Supervised Game Rooms, All Types of Physical Activities, Dramas, Music and other types of activities approved by local recreation council and the State WPA Director of Recreation. The above program is to be operated in an efficient and democratic manner with no discrimination of race, color or creed.

Public play areas are to be maintained and kept in good playing condition.

Under the subject of costs there is a total of $4,052 of federal funds and a total of $1,337 of sponsor's funds, making a grand total of $5,389 from both sources. The project is to furnish employment for six persons and is to last for 12 months. The sponsor's funds are divided as follows: equipment, $756; material and supplies, $200; other non-labor costs, $887.

A. J. Cochran, who presented the project to the council stated that the $200 item must be cash, but that the rest could be in the nature of rental. That if the city could arrange to furnish the necessary equipment without expense to the city, the rental on the various items would be allowed as a part of the city's contribution. It must be remembered that wherever the word sponsor is used, except for the general sponsorship of the State Board of Control, the City of Ord is meant.

The equipment is itemized as follows: 4 work benches, 4 work tables, 6 game tables, 50 chairs, 1 piano, 1 typewriter and 2 desks, the combined rental of which would equal $756 for this year. The materials included game room equipment, $50; playground equipment, $50; and craft supplies, $100, a total of $200.

Other expenses listed and which the sponsor would have to pay in included: Recreation center, rental $40 per month, $480; improvements on park and athletic field, $25 per month, 3 months, $75; improvements on tennis courts, $10 per month, 3 months, $30; heat for recreation center, $20 per month for 7 months, $140; lights for recreation center $8 per month, $96; one lot of craft tools, $5 per month, $60.

This recreation setup as proposed would be for a period of 12 months, and would cost the city of Ord $1,337, as before stated, unless a part of the above equipment could be secured without expense to the city. So far as can be learned very little, if any, of the equipment could be obtained without expense, and the benches probably would have to be bought instead of being rented.

In fact, since the rental on benches and tables amounts to $24 per year, it would be cheaper to make them than to rent them. One fact that must not be overlooked is that recreation and instruction in arts and crafts is well taken care of by the Ord public schools for nine months of the year and it is doubtful if the children would have either time or inclination then for more recreation than they already receive.

If there is a real need for recreation in Ord it would be during the three months of summer, but this project calls for a 12 months program. It is doubtful if one hundred children would attend any summer program, and even if they did, $450 would be a rather high price, to pay for their amusement, instruction and entertainment.

If such a program is needed, why not hire some one to superintend the work for the summer months, buy what equipment is needed, and take care of our own project? It is about time we quit blinding ourselves to the fact that whether the funds are paid here or by the government, we will have to pay the bill in the end.

The expenditure of $1,337 for such a purpose should be put to a vote. It is too large a sum for the council to spend without knowing whether the taxpayers are willing that they should spend it. If the public votes upon it and decides that they want it, then by all means we should have it. The Quiz would like to have such propositions presented to the people for their approval or rejection.

A CAREFUL MAN.

In the spring of 1920, twenty years ago in the columns of the Quiz appeared a primary election notice, made out in due form as required by law, and signed by the name of one J. T. Knezeck. Joe was not as well known then as he is in Valley county today, but the name was a familiar one to the people of Ord.

J. T. Knezeck was then county clerk, and the publication of the notice was a part of his official duties. In that notice appeared a paragraph which is of considerable interest. "12. For the nomination by each of the political parties of one candidate for State Senator from the Twenty Third Senatorial district, as provided by the statutes." The election is now non-partisan, unicameral, and the district is the 29th. We wonder if it occurred to Joe then that he would one day run for the office of senator.

An inspection of the records of the county clerk's office of that time is of interest. It shows the painstaking care with which all records were kept. That was before the day in which the record books were made so that the typewriter could be used, but nobody has any trouble finding what he wants to in the books, for everything was kept with remarkable clearness and accuracy, in the neatest and most unusual handwriting in all the books since the beginning of Ord and Valley county.

That care and thoroughness is a part of J. T. Knezeck's life, and is well known to all who have had occasion to do business with him. It is one of his best recommendations for the office of senator to which he aspires. To this may be added a keen understanding of the needs of the district, of which he has made a special study. Careful habits learned in youth and adhered to throughout his life fit him well for the position of senator.

NORRIS WAS RIGHT.

Twenty years is not a long time in the affairs in the universe, but much can happen in twenty years as we individuals see it. In that twenty years half of the world has passed on, and their places have been taken by a corresponding number of the rising generation.

Twenty years ago we turned from war to the ways of peace. Today we view conditions in Europe with apprehension, but with a determination to stay out of the trouble.

Twenty years ago one George W. Norris, then, as now, senator from Nebraska, wrote about the treaty of Versailles: "How can the people who are honest ask that we give our approval to such national dishonor?" When all these nations are represented by the common people instead of being represented by a few aristocrats, the world will be in shape to get a League that will bring an honorable and lasting peace."

The apprehension of Senator Norris was well founded. Today we see those nations whose territory was divided by the Treaty of Versailles expanding their borders to where they were originally and even beyond. Germany has already taken back all the contingent lands that were taken from her, and also Austria, and part of Poland that formerly belonged to Russia. Russia is at war trying to get back Finland, taken from her by the same treaty.

BEWARE PROPAGANDA.

Nobody knows better than newspapermen the insidious workings of propaganda. Every week the Quiz gets pamphlets, booklets, letters and various other types of propaganda, some for one side in the European conflict and some for another, for it must be remembered there are many sides, and each side has propagandists working in its interests.

In its broadest sense, it is impossible to separate news and propaganda. Whether we wish to be influenced, the fact is that we are influenced by propaganda. If we wish to be fair, and read what each side has to say in its own behalf, we are bound to be influenced to a certain extent by what we read.

To the propagandist all means are legitimate, so long as the end is one to be desired. If that end can be accomplished by fair means and by telling the truth in whole or in part, that is the method used. But if it is necessary to put out statements built on a foundation of lies in order to influence the public, that method is the one used.

One thing to remember, is that, regardless of where your sympathies may lie, no dependence can be placed upon the statement made by a propagandist. His statements are made for the sole and only purpose of refuting and nullifying statements made by the other side, and if one side has misstated the facts, the other will misstate also.

Even news stories emanating from supposedly neutral sources should be taken with a grain of salt. Remember this, that in all Europe today there is not and cannot be, a neutral nation. For the most part the nations not now actually at war are helping those who are at war, and their viewpoint must be colored by the business they are getting from the nations at war.

The British-French-German conflict has degenerated into a war of propaganda, each side seeking to influence the opinion of neutral nations by the use of cleverly worded press despatches which may not necessarily be untrue, but which are played up in such a way as to magnify the interest in the side sending them out, and minimize public interest in the opposition.

America went into the World war for the definite purpose of making the world safe for democracy. In effect, at least, there is no such thing as democracy in Europe today. It is doubtful if there ever will be true democracy there again, such as is known in the western hemisphere. If we failed in our objective then, we certainly don't want to go into the other fellow's war again. Propaganda got us in then. Beware of propaganda.

Richard Gross of Burwell went to York Tuesday morning to spend a few days visiting his brother Alvin and family. Alvin is manager of the York Food Center store, which is one of the largest.

My Own Column

There are some things we never forget. In a personal letter recently received from E. L. Ball, he said one thing he had never forgotten was that I was the last one to greet him at the railroad station years ago when he was leaving for Canada. He was feeling a bit blue at leaving home and says I cheered him up with some encouraging remarks. He has always remembered it. I forgot it and have no idea what either of us said. Since printing the nice letter which Mr. Ball sent a couple of weeks ago, many have commented on how they enjoyed it, several have come in to buy an extra paper because they wanted to send his picture and the story to some friend. I hope a number have remembered to sit down and write a letter to him and how he would enjoy getting them. And I depend on his sending us another letter for the old timers edition next year for people do like to read those letters. I would be glad to have two or three such letters every week.

Congress is getting all het up over whether the influence of the Hatch law shall extend to all employees who are in whole or in part financed by government funds. That would include pretty much all employees. But if they do that who in heck is going to play politics. Pretty much everyone is now employed by the government.

Children cause lots of trouble by playing with matches, but why pick on the poor kids and let cupid go scot free.

Our Arcadia correspondent says he is a firm believer in clubs for women, but only after kindness has failed.

I am writing this paragraph for two reasons: There is a bill before congress which proposes to take some of the great volume of printing which has gradually been centralized in the government printing office in Washington and return it to the country where it was originally done. The other is that I think my friend Congressman Coffey may notice it. All of us in the business who are older can remember the steady slipping away of printing jobs that we used to do, to the central government plant. And the tendency is the same all down the line. It is no doubt true that much of the printing being turned out by the big government shop could and would be done for half in the local shops. Then it is franked out and the cost added to the government postal deficit. It doesn't seem fair or right.

Mother: "Daddy and I won't be home tonight, Johnny. Do you want to sleep alone with nurseries?"

Johnny (after some deliberation): "What would you do Daddy?"

The president wanted to inspect the canal zone defences and went in a war ship with a couple of government destroyers as convicts and is said to have looked the whole works over. The expense must have been thousands of dollars. I am wondering if he could not have received more real information if he had sent a skilled engineer who would really know about such things, and who could have traveled down there quietly without the whole world knowing what he was doing and without the necessity of three great warships.

There is one thing in which the people who are not satisfied with this administration, are not treating the president right. On the start Mr. Roosevelt said, in regard to his proposals, "We will try this and if it doesn't work we will try something else." For the most part it didn't work and the party in power has been trying something else ever since for seven years. That is the way the doctors have to do. If they don't know what all a guy they try something. If he gets worse or no better they try something else. If he gets well they are very wise and if he died it is just too bad.

The mistress of the house heard the bell ring and saw a Chinese peddler standing at the open front door. Quickly retreating she called out to the maid. "There's a Chinese at the door. You go, Ella. This was too much for the Chinese, who stuck his head in at the door and shouted, indignantly: "You go 'ella yourself."

We May Be Sorry.

A little discussion in the cheese factory the other day was carried on by an Ericson man and the local nestors who had congregated there. The Ericson man was asked about the abandonment of the branch line railroad to that town.

Most of the people, he said, are very opposed to the taking up of the line, but on the other hand, most of the hauling goes to the trucks. In other words, so some loafers offered, the people want the railroad to pay taxes.

Our farmers will plant considerable early grain this year. Spring wheat must be seeded first, and is going into the ground now. Rising prices, and poor winter wheat prospects are boosting the spring wheat acreage. Ceres is an excellent variety commonly grown here. Thatcher is good too, and more resistant against rust.

After the spring wheat, comes oats, which should also be put in early for big yields. The kinds of oats raised here are good, but not necessarily the best. Brunker is the highest producing variety for this section, and more of it ought to be planted locally. Igold is advised for irrigated lands or on the bottoms.

Barley is likewise planted early, but the seeding of this crop can be delayed without hurting its chances as much as that of spring wheat or oats. More farmers are turning to barley rather than oats. They are also turning to Spartan which is the leading variety all over Nebraska. Spartan yields high, makes good feed, and fits in well as a nurse crop. But some of it has poor germination, having been cut green to avoid shattering and the grasshopper damage.

A couple of other barley varieties that may do nicely here under certain conditions are Trebil for wet lowlands, and Club Marlot on dried out hills.

The present prospect for corn isn't encouraging, so small grain or sorghums seem to be the farmers' best bets. There is enough moisture in the soil to give small grain a fair start, and a likelihood of considerable more if 1940 is anywhere near normal. Small grain has the best chance to escape those hot, dry winds that usually arrive in July or August.

Somewhere, and it is uncertain where, the following quotation entitled "IF'S" came into my possession. Not knowing its source, I cannot give credit for this interesting arrangement of a number of important truths about our old enemy, cancer. It is obvious that whoever wrote it, did so in order to impress these facts on those who might read them, so he probably took no mind their being passed on in this manner.

"Certainly the death rate from cancer could be reduced if every physician could say to every patient:

"Come and see me—

"If you have persistent digestive disorders. It may be cancer of the stomach. If you find a sore or ulcer which does not heal quickly. It may be cancer of the skin.

"If you have a mole, particularly a raised mole, at some place where it is liable to be irritated. It may be cancer of the skin.

"If you find white patches on your tongue or lips, possibly from use of tobacco. It may be cancer of the tongue or lips.

"If you have a lump in your breast. It may be cancer of the breast.

"If you see blood in your urine. It may be cancer of the bladder or urinary tract.

"If you see blood or mucus in your stool. It may be cancer of the bowel.

"If you suffer from abnormal bleeding from the vagina. It may be cancer of the cervix (womb).

"If more people acted on these ifs, fewer would die of cancer."

While we are talking about cancer, it may be well to draw your attention again to the fact that cancer kills about 150,000 people in our country yearly but that about one-third of these deaths are unnecessary. If folks would take the trouble to learn a few simple facts like the above and act on them PROMPTLY, at least one out of three could be saved. This means that cancer is curable if discovered early and treated properly.

To get accurate information concerning the successful treatment of cancer, the American College of Surgeons began, a few years ago, to keep careful records of all the cases on whom they could get good and complete data.

They have collected, to the end of 1938, proven records of 29,195 cured cases.

Billings says Paul told him not long ago, when he (Paul) was a young fellow, there happened to be a girl in another town that his folks teased him about and among other things, about writing to her.

Paul was always more or less bashful and as a consequence of this talk he balked on the writing business. He became a little stubborn and the occasion never arose since that he needed to write a letter and, in the end, last winter, when he was telling Billings about it, he never in his life had written a letter.

Billings said, "All right. When you get down to York, you change your ways and write me a letter." This one to me was a result of that, for Paul instructed me to let Billings see the letter, along with his sister, brother and the Oddfellow lodge.

These people have come through the worst of the winter in fairly good shape, considering that certain areas had more snow and colder weather than for many years. In order that all counties in Nebraska may have an open season next fall, the department will try to stop spring shooting of parent birds.

In his case the piece failed to knit and the finger had to be taken off at the first joint.

As it had not arrived, Bob checked the feed, and found that the feed had been delivered all right, but not to the present Ward residence, and not even to the place they lived in last summer in southeast Ord, but to Harry Patchen place where they lived a year ago.

—Some time ago Jack Tetschner of Burwell tackled Elwin Auble for a trade, telling of a horse he had traded for which was quite old and heavy on its feet, but still able to stand up. Elwin told him he would trade a shotgun for it. Saturday Jack came to Ord, went to the Dick Long place and paid him 75¢ for one of those iron horses that are used to balance windmill wheels, and brought it up to Auble and demanded his shotgun. Elwin was good as his word, and produced the gun, which was an old one he had been trying to give away for some time but could not get anyone to take. Now the boys are trying to figure out which one got the worse of the trade, since Elwin can't use the horse and Jack can't use the gun.

—Friends of Charlie Hunt are calling attention to his proficiency as a modern weather oracle and bets are being made as to whether or not his predictions, made when the first snow fell in December, will come true in every detail to the end of winter as they have to date. Consulting his private weather almanac, or whatever system he uses, Charlie said then that we would have 23 days of snow-fall before spring. His friends hooted, for in recent winters 23 hours of snow have been unusual. But to date snow has fallen on 19 separate days and Charlie needs only four more snow-storms to be vindicated in his fast-growing reputation as a prophet.

—Edwin Clements, who served 12 years as postmaster here, returned last week from California, possibly for a visit but more probably to inspect the new postoffice and tell Alphe and the other boys how to run it in proper fashion. Anyway, he was inspecting the building from top to bottom Saturday.

Ducks Going Northward.

For at least three weeks flocks of northbound ducks and geese have been reported, so their presence here is scarcely news. Last week, however, a big flock of red-heads arrived and spent a few days on the pond on the Long farm east of Ord. The big white-breasted red-headed birds seldom spend any time in the shallow ponds of central Nebraska; in fact, they usually follow the Mississippi river northward. This particular flock, or at least one about the same size, stops at the Long pond every spring, according to J. A. Kovanda.

"Early Marriages Best," Says Burwell Man, Wed 58 Years Ago; "Older People Too Set in Own Ways

Everyone who has ever moved from one community into another, has experienced the heart ache of parting from his friends. "Absence may make the heart grow fonder," but a person who is leaving his home and acquaintances to seek his fortune elsewhere seldom takes much comfort in this old adage.

Fifty-eight years ago it was moving day in Iowa and two youngsters very much in love, were heart broken because the young lady was soon to move far away with her parents. This couple was Mr. and Mrs. J. V. DeLashmutt, who since they loved each other too much to bear parting decided to get married even though the groom was only eighteen and the bride was even younger.

Saturday they celebrated their fifty-eighth wedding anniversary in their home in Burwell, both declaring that they are still just as much in love as they were fifty-eight years ago. Owing to Mrs. DeLashmutt's health no elaborate party was planned. Their daughter, Mrs. Q. Matthews and her son of Aurora and their younger son, Paul, spent the day with their parents.

Mr. DeLashmutt declared that he has never regretted his early marriage. "I believe that most folks would be better off if they married younger," he opined, "because then they are not set in their ways and can more easily learn to get along together."

"I was old enough to know what I was doing and even though I was only eighteen I'd been around more than some people who are thirty years old," he added.

Owing to the suddenness of their decision there was no time for the preparation for an elaborate wedding. Mr. and Mrs. DeLashmutt drove ten miles in a lumber wagon to Glenwood, Ia., where they were married in the home of Mr. DeLashmutt's sister. Several persons who witnessed the wedding are still living, including Mrs. DeLashmutt's mother, who is now ninety-four.

Mr. DeLashmutt's brother, D. W., and his wife celebrated their 31st wedding anniversary in the home of their daughter, Mrs. L. H. Johnson in Burwell two weeks ago.

Following their marriage Mr. and Mrs. DeLashmutt made their home on a farm four miles south of Pacific Junction, Ia., where they lived for thirty-two years. Here their eight children were born. Their eldest daughter died in early childhood. Their children are Clay of Sidney, Mrs. Grace Martin of Omaha, Mrs. Esther (A. H.) Meyer of Ord, Mrs. Lucille (Q.) Mathews of Aurora, Gladis DeLashmutt of Omaha, Mrs. Genevieve (Fred) Schnable of Imperial, and Paul of Burwell. The DeLashmutts have seven grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Mr. DeLashmutt denies that he ever experienced any of the hardships endured by the pioneers. He said that Iowa was a settled community even in his day, and that he never got to shoot any buffaloes or scalp any Indians. He took his bride into a comfortable frame home and they never lived in a log or sod house. The blizzard of '88 was nothing more than a bad snow storm in Iowa according to him.

The Missouri river was the bane of Mr. DeLashmutt's life. It bordered his farm and every spring it rose and washed away several acres of his good Iowa land.

Finally he decided that he had better sell his farm while he still had a farm to sell, so he disposed of it and moved to Loup county, Nebraska, thirty-three years ago.

The ranch on the Calamus river where they settled is now owned by D. A. Wallace of Detroit, vice-president of the Chrysler corporation. Mr. Wallace's brother, John, lives on it. Mr. DeLashmutt operated this ranch for eighteen years.

During much of this time the DeLashmutts maintained a home in Burwell where they lived most of the time. Mr. DeLashmutt retired about fifteen years ago.

He is in the best of health. His daughter, Mrs. Mathews, stated that her father was full of pep and zip and even easier to get along with now than when he was younger.

"I can see now why mother married him," she stated. Mr. DeLashmutt has never used liquor.

Mrs. DeLashmutt has been in poor health this winter but she is feeling better now. Owing to deafness she has not attended any public functions in late years. "Our married life has been quite common place and our years filled with everyday living," this couple said.

"Nothing sensational and little of general interest has ever happened to us." Both are apparently good for many more years of life and two years from now they and their children are planning a diamond wedding anniversary celebration with all the fuss and trimmings.

I know this. If I had to stand in front of a crowd composed of lots of people and hear many interesting anecdotes this column practically writes itself. I am abulge (my own word) with items of interest. If I stay home and don't see anyone or hear any chatter, the column is as sterile of interest as vinegar is of sweetness. And I should think you could easily judge whether I have been home or visiting the neighbors when you read it.

I am always amazed when someone far, far away is introduced and almost instantly informs me, he or she reads my column every week. Usually these readers are such brilliant, well-informed people that I think in response, "Now what on earth could I ever write that would interest them?" I feel humble to think they would bother.

Sometimes they tell me nice things about it, and I am thrilled:

one man took the conceit out of me by saying it is "good practice for me."

Conversation is pretty much standardized at present, don't you notice?

It is about politics . . . should he run or shouldn't he? Would he be easy to beat or wouldn't he?

Sometimes it veers to Mrs. Roosevelt, and I believe most people admire her whether they care for the politics of her husband or not.

It is about "Grapes of Wrath" . . . should it be in the libraries?

They argue pro and con, "well, it isn't any worse than "Slogum House," and "what about the Bible?" and Mr. Fenner shouldn't have written about it to the Burwell library board" or perhaps they say he should have. Usually the discussion wanders off . . . should an adult reader have his reading censored, or should he censor it himself? And etc., etc., etc.

The poor Finns . . . they talk about them. If sympathy were cannons, they wouldn't have room left to park a soldier on their Russian border.

And lately I have heard several corking confabulations on how to pronounce "Pinocchio." Is it Pin-no-chee-o or is it Pin-No-kee-o? A dozen people can get in a dandy discussion, those that were "taught" one way and another, those who "always said," and so on. Teachers don't agree, and neither do expert story-tellers, as far as I can hear.

We wire flowers any where any time.

Youthful Burwell Judges Place 4th

Burwell's cattle judging team composed of Frank Bratka, Don Edwards, Thomas Meuret, Lewis Dunkel, Roy Gerdes and Calvin Key ranked fourth among the 21 high school teams competing in the contest sponsored by the Nebraska Hereford Breeders Association in Grand Island Wednesday. Burwell was surpassed by Wisner, Kearney and Sargent. The Ord team won seventh place.

George West, who coached the team was especially pleased with the record of Frank Bratka, sophomore, who ranked second place with 250 students competing. Frank who has had little experience in judging cattle, won a score of 758 points out of a possible 900. Don Edwards, who is a junior, ranked sixteenth. Burwell's team made a score of 2,254 points, 72 less than that of the Wisner team which won first place. Edwards made 749 points and Meuret 747.

Twenty-three Burwell boys participated in the contest. They were taken to Grand Island by Mr. West, Edgar Maxson, A. H. Rowse, and Dave Guggenmos. Burwell's 4-H club team composed of Bernard Guggenmos, Melvin Horwart, Marvin Donner, Joe Daly, Dean Rowse and Donald Loeffler ranked seventeenth. Marvin Donner rated 24th place among the contestants with 745 points.

The boys visited places of interest in Grand Island, including the horse sale and were the luncheon guests of the Junior Chamber of Commerce where they listened to music by the KMMJ entertainers.

Old-Time 'Schoolmarm' Give Program Friday

The teachers who have instructed the pupils in the rudiments of learning for a period of over forty years were in charge of the program at the literary held in the Gold Standard school Friday evening. Five of the old time "schoolmarm" were present.

Mrs. Oscar Smith, who taught this school 41 years ago told of the trials of the early day teacher. She related how she taught in a rat-infested sod building and that even though she was deathly afraid of the rats she stayed at her post until the end of the term. "Rats and fleas made it extremely difficult to conduct school," she declared. "But I stuck it out until the bitter end."

She was very happy when the board erected a new sod school house before the next term. None of the children whom Mrs. Smith taught now live in this community.

Mrs. Colin Anderson, who taught this school 21 years ago told of her experiences. Miss Mabel Mars, who was one of her pupils, was present. Mrs. Boyd McKenzie, who taught here 17 years was also present. Several of her pupils, Earl, Eldon and Edith Dent were present. She and Mrs. Anderson entertained the crowd with songs and recitations. Two other ex-teachers, Mrs. Elmer Wilke and Mrs. Earl Dent also appeared on the program. A quartet composed of Mrs. Dent, her husband, and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Ehresmen sang "Home on the Range." The children of Mrs. Alfred Craichy, who also held the fort in this school, presented a dialogue. Other former teachers who were unable to attend were Mrs. Harry Conrad and Mrs. John Beynon.

Miss Nina Nickells entertained the crowd with an account of her trip to Europe. The children of the school and community gave several recitations and songs, which were enjoyed by an audience which packed the house.

In the picture are, left to right, Mrs. George E. Conner, Mr. Conner, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Freeman, the latter the eldest of the George Conner children. The celebration, held Saturday at their home in Bryan precinct, Garfield county, was not only to observe the Conner golden anniversary, but also the 27th anniversary of the Freemans.

In the front of the group are seen five of the twenty cakes that were baked and brought in by those in attendance, and some flowers, one bouquet being sent by their sons, Ray and George, who live in California. In addition to the cakes there were turkeys, chickens, salads and an abundance of other good things to eat, as the Quiz men who were present can testify.

Anderson, just across the river north of Elyria, March 9, 1890. James E. Bowen, Justice of the peace of Calamus precinct, performed the ceremony, and the witnesses were Eva R. Bowen and Robert Kipling. The wedding occurred in a log cabin in which the Andersons lived.

Mrs. Lett Anderson, now Mrs. Laura E. Barnhart and five children are living in Santa Cruz, Calif., and a brother of Mrs. Conner, J. C. Anderson, lives in Valley county near Ord. The Connors started housekeeping on a farm Mr. Conner had pre-empted 10 miles northeast of Willow Springs, which was at that time the county seat of Garfield county. Their home there was a sod house. They moved from there to their present home and lived in a sod house until Sept. 1899, when they built the frame house in which they still reside.

The Connors were the parents of 13 children, two of whom died in infancy. A son, Lett, was accidentally drowned in 1919, leaving a wife and two children. Ten children are still living, and there are 47 grandchildren and one great grandchild, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Rieck of Burwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Conner received a great many valuable and beautiful gifts, among them chenille bedspreads, one from California, picture tables, cover, lace table cloths, mirrors, guest books and logs, dishes, stand covers and other articles too numerous to mention individually. NORTH LOUP

WRITTEN BY MRS. ETHEL HAMER

The high school band wore their new uniforms for the first time at the music elimination contest held Wednesday night in the high school auditorium. The blue and white caps, military style, and the blue capes lined with white and a blue N on the white facing, gold buttons and braid, with white slacks to complete the uniform made a striking picture when the band, forty in number, were assembled on the platform and it almost seemed as though the music was better. The Fortnightly club are responsible for the uniforms although the school board and village board helped with the financing. Mrs. Harold Fisher and Mrs. Floyd Hutchins, Mrs. Ben Neilson and Mrs. Albert Babcock were the committee in charge and too much credit cannot be given them as well as other members of the club who spent hours working on the uniforms. The program given was long, lasting more than two hours, and was composed of vocal and instrumental solos with three band numbers at the close. Henry Deines of the Ord schools acted as critic. Mr. Van Horn was director. There were eight vocal solos by girls and six by young men, two violin and two piano solos, two clarinet solos, two baritone, three cornet, one trombone, one E flat and one BB flat bass solo. Mrs. Deines recommended that Mary Babcock, violin, Marcelline Manchester, girls medium voice, Dorothy Brannon, girls low voice, Mavis Schudel, girls high voice, attend the festival at Fullerton in April. Honorable mention was made of Marion Maxson, Daryl White, Derrel Barber, Maynard Schudel and Wayne Babcock, vocal solos; and Donald Hutchins, clarinet; LaVerne Hutchins, baritone; Allen Babcock, cornet; Warren Brannon, trombone; and Albert Babcock, BB flat bass. Student accompanists were Dorothy and Warren Brannon, LaVerne Hutchins, Esther Zanger, Marion Maxson and Mavis Schudel. The band, orchestra, girls glee club, LaVerne Hutchins, Warren Brannon and Allen Babcock will represent the North Loup school at Durwell, March 21.

The vocational agricultural class and their instructor, Mr. Hammond, entertained the home economics classes and their instructor Miss Green, at the school house Thursday night. The evening was spent playing games and consuming eight gallons of ice cream and seven luscious chocolate cakes. Other faculty members present were Mr. Van Horn, Robert Houtchens and Harold Pearson. Mrs. Van Horn and Mrs. Hammond were there.

Ruth Williams, teacher of the first and second grades, has resigned, and accompanied her sister, Mrs. Paul Skinner to her home in Lake Orion, Mich. Miss Williams, have somebody else read."

Miss Ruth Williams attended a birthday dinner for her mother, Mrs. Elmer Williams, at her home in Scotia Thursday evening. Other guests included her sisters, Mrs. Paul Skinner of Lake Orion, Mich., Mrs. John Matt of Casper, Wyo., and Mrs. Merritt King of Ames, also Mrs. Williams' sister, Mrs. Bertha Haught of Kansas City, Mo.

ORD LIVESTOCK MARKET

Learn by doing is the motto of George West, Burwell high school vocational agricultural teacher. Here he is shown putting his idea into practice. His students are getting experience in the science of carpentry in building a barn for Don Anderson just east of the school house. The boys are learning to saw a board straight and to drive nails without hitting their fingers with the hammer. The project is very popular with the pupils who would prefer working outside to sitting at their desks studying books, especially when spring fever is prevalent.

Entries Coming In for Annual Quiz "Big Egg" Contest

A few big eggs are being brought in for the Quiz "big egg" contest, held each spring, and so far an egg from Mrs. Clarence White's flock of White Leghorn's is largest. The egg weighed 3.9 ounces and was almost round. Another egg brought in by Mrs. White weighed 3 1-8 ounces.

Mrs. Vancura brought in a big egg, hers being just a trifle lighter than Mrs. White's egg. Exact weight was 3 7-8 ounces. An egg brought in by Mr. Rachay was a bit lighter than the Vancura egg.

In fairness to all, weight will be the governing factor in this year's big egg contest. Measurements are difficult to take and quite frequently an egg that has a big measurement the long way will be so slim that it does not weigh up very heavy.

The Quiz wants people who have freak eggs, extra small eggs, etc. to bring them in also. Some pictures will be printed of some of the eggs brought in, later.

Sugar Beet Raisers Are Not Restricted on Acreage Planted

But G. I. Factory Cannot Increase Its Output; New Sugar Act in Offing.

The government has removed all restrictions on the planting of sugar beets in the North Loup valley for 1940, according to information furnished the Quiz this week by C. C. Dale, county agricultural agent. The only requirement is that the farmer have a contract with the American Crystal Sugar company of Grand Island for the acreage he is growing.

This sounds like good news to the beet farmers of the North Loup district, but there is a catch to it. The sugar company will contract only the number of acres of beets that it can process with its present equipment at Grand Island. For this reason it is not likely that the acreage here will be greater than it was a year ago.

It is understood also that the sugar company is restricted in the amount of sugar it is permitted to manufacture, and that the company will not increase its capacity for that reason. Without a doubt the North Loup valley could raise double the amount of beets in 1940 that it did in 1939 if the farmers were permitted to do so.

This seems like an opportune time to take up the subject of a local sugar factory. This is an industry that is certain to come to the valley in the future, and the quicker it comes, the more certain farmers are of being permitted to raise a greater acreage of beets.

The shipping of beets out of the valley means an economic loss, since the pulp should be kept here to feed stock. This supply of feed would in time rebuild the cattle industry in the county. Cattle have been the backbone of agriculture here in the past, and should mean much in the future.

Further, the building of a factory here would mean the bringing into the valley of a sizeable payroll for about three months of the year, an advantage that should not be overlooked.

This is the year that the beet sugar act of 1937 expires, and a new act will be passed for the next year. Men interested in the reclamation program are desirous of getting a bigger beet sugar quota in the new act, which will doubtless run for a period of years, as did the last one.

If we are to have any favorable action along that line taken, now is the time to get to work. All those who feel an interest in the expansion of the beet acreage here should write their congressmen and senators at once and urge that action be taken to secure for us as large an acreage as possible in the new sugar act.

Organization Formed to Further Polish Relief

With Francis P. Kawa, of Omaha, as principal speaker, meetings were held Sunday at Boleszn church and in Elyria to further the Polish relief movement and an organization was formed for Valley county with Rev. Conni Shumski, of Elyria, as honorary president; Anton Welnak, Thomas Paprocki and Joseph Danczek as committee members.

Purpose of the organization is to raise funds for the relief of homeless Polish refugees now in Romania, Lithuania, Hungary and other parts of Europe. General Jozef Haller, exiled Polish general, is now touring the United States in the interest of this movement and spoke last week in Omaha and Grand Island. He visited Gov. Roy Cochran in an Omaha hospital.

Large crowds attended both Valley county meetings Sunday, about 100 being present at Boleszn and 200 at Elyria. Father Shumski presided as chairman at both meetings and introduced the speaker.

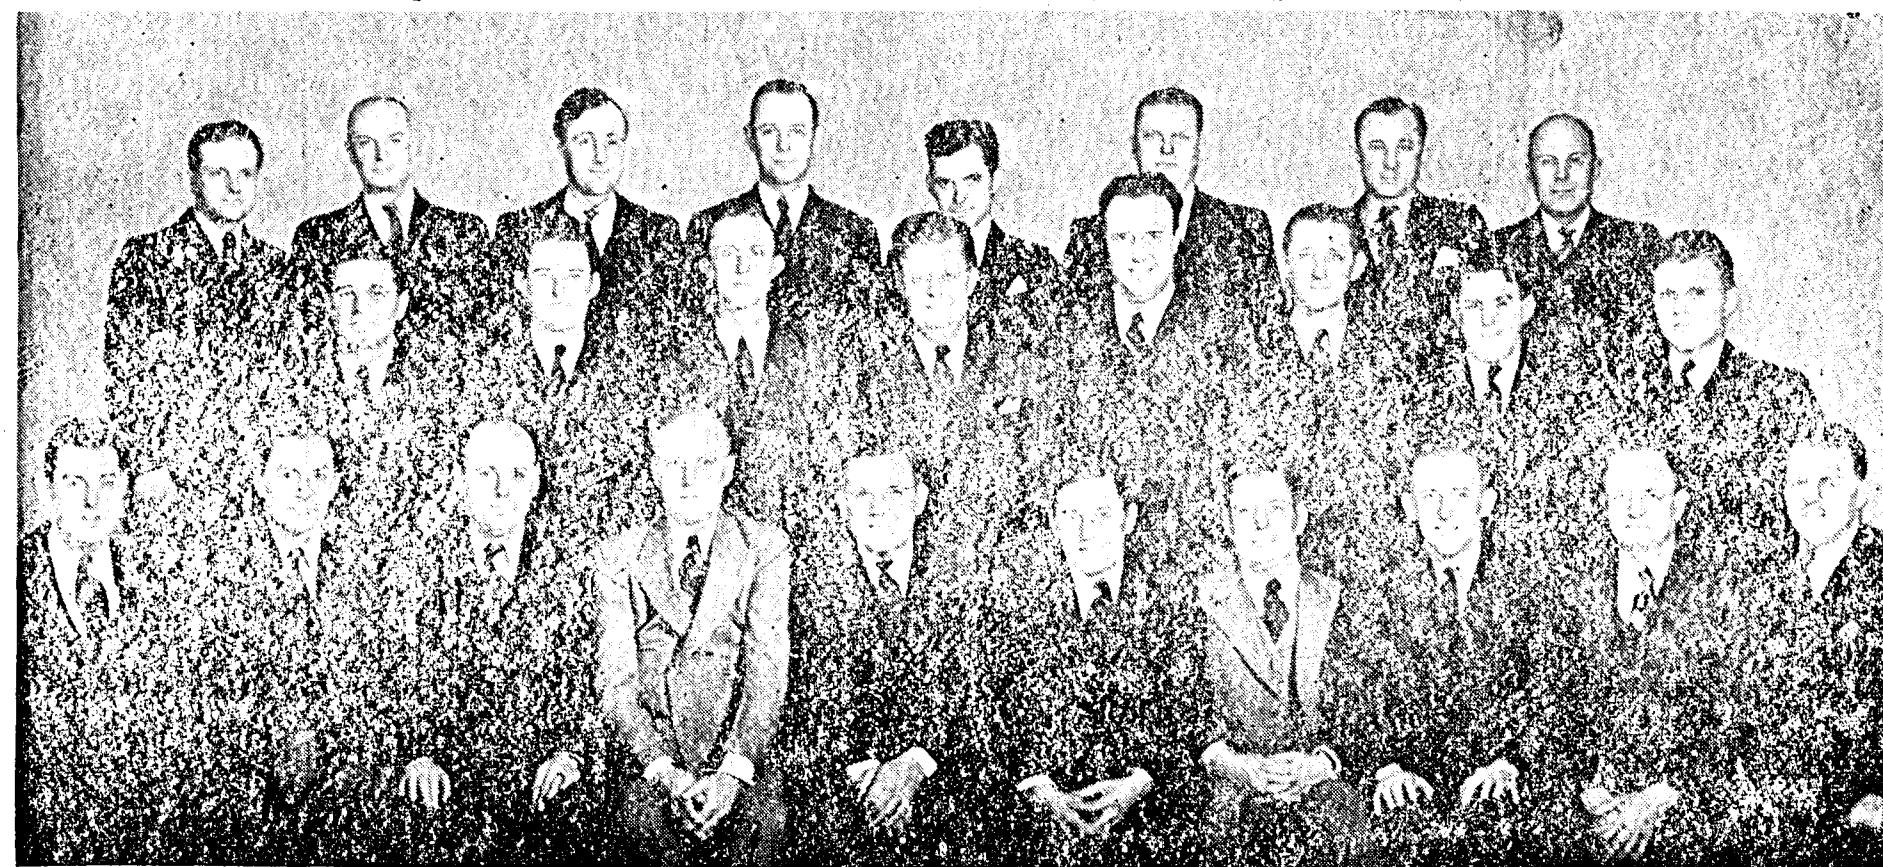

Mr. Kawa is president of the Polish-American Federation of Nebraska, commander of the Nebraska Polish World War veterans organization and secretary of the Polish American Council for Polish Relief in Nebraska. He was a guest in Father Shumski's home during his visit to Valley county.

540 Head of Sheep to Sell at Plate Auction

The public sale of Will and Rudolph Plate to be held on the farm in Sumter next Tuesday, March 26, will be unusual in that about 600 head of livestock will be sold, including 540 head of sheep. Although a few sheep are sold occasionally it is seldom that a big flock has been auctioned off in Valley county, so this sale should attract many buyers. The rest of the offering is good also. See the ad elsewhere in this issue.

Signs of Spring

Of course the robins have been very much in the picture for some time, and the geese and ducks are heading north in quantity, but the best sign of spring reported to date is that yellow crocuses were in bloom in the Clarence M. Davis yard last Saturday.

The Cosmopolitan club, organized in Ord only about two years ago, is Ord's newest service club but is one of the liveliest organizations in the city and has successfully sponsored several worthy projects since it came into existence here. Among them are the Loup Valley football banquets of 1938 and 1939, five Camp Fire groups, sending of a boy to Boys State last spring, sponsoring of a skating pond in north Ord this winter, and the soap box derby, for which plans are now being perfected. John P. Misko, first president of the Ord group, was elected state governor of Cosmopolitan clubs last spring and Dr. J. G. Krum, of Ord, was chosen state secretary.

The club has a membership of 29, of whom 26 are pictured above. They are: Front row, left to right—Kenneth Draper, Frank Krum, George Satterfield, Dr. F. L. Blessing, Hilding Pearson (vice-president), Dr. J. N. Round (president), Harold Taylor (secretary-treasurer), Irwin Underberg, Ed Gaaster, Dr. F. J. Osendowski; second row—Ed Michalek, Virgil Cuckler, LeRoy Frazer, John Misko, H. F. Brockman, A. A. Wiegardt, Harold Cuckler, Floyd Beranek; back row—Syl Furtak, Glen Furtak, Frank Dubsky, Clifford Brown, Russell Craven, Olof Olsson, Gus Schoensteine, James Gilbert. Not in picture but members are C. C. Davis, Dr. J. G. Krum and K. W. Peterson.

Rotarians Told of Polish Plight By Rev. Shumski

Spread of Communism to U.S. Hinted by Elyria Priest; Firemen Also Speak.

Rev. Conni Shumski, resident priest of St. Mary's Catholic church of Elyria, Monday evening was a guest of the Ord Rotary club and told Rotarians about conditions in Poland since it was conquered by Germany and devastated by German and Russian armies. He was introduced by Wilmer Anderson, chairman of the program committee.

Father Shumski was educated in Poland, some of his studies being under a Polish bishop who was killed by German soldiers during the recent occupation, and he is in correspondence with a prelate in Rome who keeps him advised as to conditions in Europe. He also had the pleasure of meeting General Josef Haller, Polish ambassador without portfolio, when he spoke at the Yancey Hotel in Grand Island last week. Father Shumski had met General Haller twice previously and admires him greatly.

The Nazi party in Germany is really a communistic organization, Father Shumski believes, as proved by Nazi persecution of religion in Germany in recent years and more particularly by the manner in which German soldiers shot priests and nuns and destroyed churches in Poland after they occupied that country.

Communism is spreading and America must be watchful that it does not become more firmly established here. Father Shumski believes. Detroit is this country's worst hot-bed of communism, he believes, and he traces an affiliation of certain labor parties to the communist party.

The Elvira clergyman's talk was greatly enjoyed by members of the Ord club.

Other guests Monday evening included Chester Austin, president of the Ord volunteer fire department, and Vernon Andersen, both of whom explained the department's present campaign to raise funds for the purchase of an inhalator for use by the whole community. John Polak, of Cody, Wyo., was present as a guest of his brother-in-law, E. L. Vogeltanz.

North Loup Landmark Being Razored this Week

North Loup—(Special)—Another landmark is being destroyed this week with the razoring of the building at the end of main street on the north side. Built early in the 80's, the building was first used as a bank by the Sears brothers and both families lived in the back part and upstairs. During the sixty years it has stood, several restaurants, stores, shoe shops and other businesses have been conducted there. For years Arch Moulton's harness and shoe shop occupied the building and since Mr. Moulton moved to Michigan some years ago it has been empty most of the time. Falling to pieces and a bad fire-trap, the building has long been a menace and an eye-sore.

The property belonged to the estate of the late Maud Thomas, and Claud Thomas is wrecking it with the help of his sons. What material is usable will be taken to their farm across the river.

John Okrzeska, 52, Dies After Brief Illness

Following two weeks spent in the hospital during which it was found that nothing could be done for him, John Okrzeska was taken to his home near Elyria last Monday evening. He grew steadily worse until Friday afternoon, when he passed away, at the age of 52 years, 9 months and 26 days.

John Okrzeska was born May 19, 1887, at Tarnow, Poland. He came to America at the age of 18 years, and made his home for a time with his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wegzyn. He was married July 15, 1914, to Miss Mary Swinmonogah, at the Elyria Catholic church. The family has farmed in a number of places in this vicinity near Arcadia, Comstock, Burwell and Elyria.

He leaves to mourn his passing his wife, and seven children, Joe, Julius, Rose, Anna, Rudolph, Gertrude and Martha. Also a sister, Mrs. Joe Wegzyn, and two sisters and a half-brother in Poland. Also several cousins and a large number of friends.

The funeral was held at Elyria Monday at 10:00 a.m. Father Shumski in charge. Pallbearers were Anton Welnak, John Welnak, Tom Paprocki, Ign. Krason, Frank Baran and Joe Konkolewski. The Frazer Mortuary had charge of arrangements.

Adam Dubas Buys Burwell Business

Burwell—(Special)—Adam Dubas, of Ord, who recently purchased Joe Flakus' pool hall and beer parlor, assumed charge of the business Monday but for six weeks will be assisted by Mr. Flakus due to the fact that this waiting period is required before Mr. Dubas' application for a beer license may be acted upon.

Owner of a confectionery and news stand in Ord, Dubas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dubas who live east of Burwell. His wife will operate his business in Ord until he can dispose of it.

Mr. Flakus plans to enter the Veterans' hospital at Lincoln for a physical examination as soon as he is relieved from his business and later plans to visit Hot Springs, Ark. Mrs. Flakus is making an extended visit with relatives in New York City.

Burwell Installs New Code of Ordinances

The village of Burwell Tuesday evening installed its new municipal code of ordinances, drawn up by Glenn E. Runyan, village attorney, with the assistance of J. L. Pearl, and passed by Chairman C. W. Becker and the board of trustees Feb. 27 with publication in pamphlet form completed in the interval between that date and March 19. This is the first time in 40 years that Burwell ordinances have been revised. Fifty copies of the new code were printed for the village of Burwell by The Quiz, and delivered Tuesday evening.

Hiner Committed to State Asylum

Co. Attorney Misko Dismisses Rape Charge Against Hiner After Commission Acts.

The three members of the Valley county insanity commission, Dr. F. A. Barto, Clarence M. Davis and Alfred Wiegardt, went to Lincoln Friday and at the state penitentiary held a hearing on the case of Marion Hiner, 43-year-old Ord war veteran, who has been held there for safekeeping ever since he ran away with Mary Sowers, 16-year-old dwarf, early in January.

Result of the hearing was that Hiner was committed to the state hospital for the insane. Aliens at the Veteran's hospital in Lincoln had examined him previously and reported to Valley county officials that he is of the "recurrent criminal type."

After the insanity board's action County Attorney John P. Misko dismissed the charge of statutory rape filed against Hiner after his arrest near Union, Nebr., by members of the state highway patrol Jan. 12. He and the Sowers girl were on their way to Missouri to get married.

Because of his record as an inmate of various insane hospitals, state and federal, there would be little chance of convicting Hiner on the statutory charge, County Attorney Misko believes. To try him on this charge before a jury might cost Valley county $500 to $600 and Hiner would always have insanity as a refuge should he be found guilty.

The insanity board's decision to certify him as insane and have him committed to a state institution will result in a considerable saving to Valley county.

Hiner has been committed to mental institutions five times the commission's inquiry brought out.

Flames Destroy Will Cronk Home

Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the farm home of William H. Cronk Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Cronk and their son Walter and his family, who live with them, were all in town. Neighbors saw the house in flames at ten o'clock. There was no wind and the other buildings on the place were saved.

The Cronk place is about ten miles northeast of Ord and a mile south of the Plain Valley school. The barn on the place was destroyed by fire some three years ago, and Mr. Cronk, at the age of 79 years, built a new barn. The house was fully covered by insurance, according to Mr. Murray of the Capron Agency, who wrote the policy.

Bobbie Walters Broadcasts.

Friday night a group of school children in Washington, D. C., took part in a broadcast over the National Broadcasting company's system and dedicated to Admiral Byrd and his South Polar expedition. A half dozen took part, among them Bobbie Walters, 10 year old son of Mrs. Gladys Walters, the former Gladys McClatchey of Ord. Bobbie gave a reading in behalf of school children all over the United States. He is in the fifth grade.

Ord Churches Planning Fine Easter Observance

As is usual at this time of the year, the churches of Ord are all planning a special observance for next Sunday. Easter comes somewhat earlier than usual this year, but in most cases plans have been underway for some time to make this an Easter observance well worth while.

The United Brethren church begins its Easter observance with a prayer hour on Thursday morning.

Following Sunday school at 10 a.m. Sunday, Miss Young will deliver the Easter message at 11 o'clock. Christian Endeavor and Bible study will come in the evening.

At the Presbyterian church a group of young people under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Misko will give a program of Easter music in the morning following Sunday school. On Monday evening the yearly congregational business meeting will be held at the church.

The Easter services at Bethany Lutheran begin with a Good Friday service at 10 a.m. March 22. The Sunday service opens at 9 a.m., the theme of Pastor Jensen's morning message being "Our Joyous Easter Festival." There is also to be special music by the Aagaards.

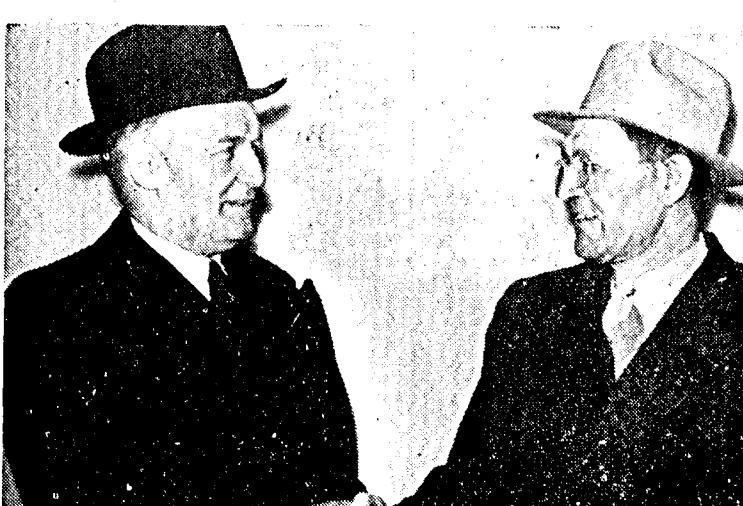

Father Michael of the Scotia Church has charge of the Holy Week services this week at the Ord Catholic church, as Fr. M. A. Lawler is sick and unable to attend to the work. Saturday a priest will arrive from Creighton University and will have charge of the Sunday services.

Following the usual Sunday morning services with a special message from Rev. G. C. Roberson, the robed choir of the Methodist church will present a cantata Sunday evening, entitled "Life Eternal." This will be under the direction of Hilding O. Pearson, with Miss Ruth Auble as accompanist.

A cordial welcome is awaiting you in any of these church services. If you are not attending church regularly this would be a good time to get started. No special service is planned at the Christian church this year, as they have no pastor, but you will be welcome there also.

Senator E. L. Burke Ord Visitor Tuesday

Senator Edward L. Burke, shown at left above as he was greeted by Ralph W. Norman, chairman of the Valley county democratic central committee, was an Ord visitor Tuesday afternoon. He is making a whirlwind tour of the state presenting his record in the United States to voters and hopes to be nominated and reelected this year.

From his sound truck parked on the Ord square Tuesday, Senator Burke gave a brief review of his vote in the Senate on important legislation, reiterated his challenge to Governor Cochran to a joint debate, and made a very favorable impression on those who heard him and who had the pleasure of meeting him.

Volunteer Firemen Ask Contributions to Inhalator Fund

$74 Now in Fund but General Public Not Responding. As Had Been Hoped.

A worthy cause which should be supported financially by every Ord business house, every club, lodge and civic group, and by all individuals, is the Ord volunteer fire department's proposal to buy an inhalator and resuscitator for the use of the whole community. Neighboring communities might well contribute also, since the equipment will be available for use anywhere in this territory where arises.

So far only $74 has been contributed, including $50 donated by the fire department itself. Cost of the equipment is $475, so it can readily be seen that contributions must come in at a more rapid rate or the project will fail for want of funds.

Every person in Ord and surrounding communities should realize the need for an inhalator and resuscitator located where it is available quickly in case of accident or serious illness. Disaster is likely to strike any household, and availability of such equipment with trained persons to operate it might mean the difference between life and death to one of your own loved ones.

Even after life is commonly thought to be extinct, a resuscitator of the type being purchased by the fire department often clears water, smoke or gas from the lungs and starts the heart beating again. It is far superior to artificial respiration because pure oxygen is pumped into the lungs of the accident victim at the same time water or gas is forced out. Such equipment also is useful for lightning or electric shock, in certain types of asthma and pneumonia, for newborn babies who cannot breathe without artificial aid, and in many other instances.

Contributions to the Inhalator Fund made to date include:

- Ord Fire Department, $50.00.
- M. B. Cummings, $5.00.
- Ord Quiz, $5.00.
- First National Bank, $5.00.
- Nebraska State Bank, $5.00.
- Rev. C. Shumski, $2.00.
- L. E. Walford, $1.00.
- Emanuel Petska, $1.00.

Any amount you wish to donate, no matter how small or how large, will be gratefully accepted by the Ord fire department. This is not a project for any one organization but should be shared by the community as a whole. Make out your checks to Ord Fire Department and hand them to Mark Tolten, secretary, to Fire Chief Cecil Clark, to Chester Austin, Ed Oetken, or leave them at the Quiz office.

Last Minute Plans for Music Festival Made

The Loup Valley Activities association met in Ord Friday evening. Following a 6 p.m. dinner at the Thorne cafe the president, Arnold Tuning of Arcadia conducted the business session.

Rules and regulations were drawn up for basketball tournaments, arrangements were made for a track meet in Burwell in April, and a revised constitution presented by C. C. Thompson and his committee was adopted. Last minute arrangements were made for the Loup Valley Music Festival to be held in Burwell tomorrow, March 21.

THE ORD QUIZSubscription $2.00 Per Year
Published at Ord, NebraskaEntered at the Postoffice in Ord, Valley County, Nebraska, as Second Class Mail Matter under Act of March 3, 1875.Publisher - - - H. D. Leggett
Editor-Manager - - E. C. LeggettTHE PUBLIC APPROVES.

The article published in the Quiz last week concerning the recreation program for Ord has been generally read, if one may judge from the comments that have been made upon it. The paper does not necessarily expect the approval of the public on all things that it advocates, and criticism is not unusual, but this is one proposition which the public seems to approve.

Not all people are opposed to some form of recreation program for Ord, particularly through the summer months during which the young people are left largely to look after themselves. Some favor a summer program, a few seem to think some kind of a year-round program could be worked out, but by far the greater number are opposed to greater expense at this time.

On one proposition all seem to be agreed, and that is, that such a program should be voted upon by the people of Ord, who will have the expense to meet in any case.

There is still time to have such a proposition put upon the ballot, in case the advocates of the idea wish to obtain an expression of the people on the subject. Now that the question has been brought up, the Quiz would like to have the proposition put to a vote.

Somewhere in our laws, forgotten, perhaps, but nevertheless a part of the law, is the statement, that the board cannot obligate the people for a sum greater than $500 without having that amount appropriated for the purpose by a vote of the people. Such a proposition was a part of the law some 30 years ago, and so far as known, it has not been repealed. This of course does not apply to moneys appropriated by law to definite purposes, but to sums over and above those specified amounts, for purposes not authorized.

If this is a part of the law, then any board going beyond that limit without proper authority would be liable for the amount so spent. In these days we have become so used to having the spending of funds thrust upon us by various governmental agencies that many of us think that the people have no say in the matter. If we are losing the right to say how our money shall be spent, it is time for us to do something about it.

The Ord city council is right in its stand opposing the expenditure of funds for recreation without proper authority. The total tax levied for all purposes in the City of Ord is 43.48 mills, or $43.48 on property worth $1,000. This amounts to nearly 4½%, which is a fair rate of interest these days. In fact, the city bonds are now being refinanced at a rate much lower than that. Without any further expenditures, it must be noted that some city departments are falling behind financially.

The pioneers of Ord and Valley county had no supervised play. They had no radios, they had no picture shows. In the schools they had no special courses such as agriculture, home economics, or normal training. They did not have the opportunity to take a course in music, or to participate in a course of athletics. They grew up without these advantages, and yet we find that they are the backbone of our town and county today. School tax already takes 4½¢ of every tax dollar, which should take care of the needs of the children without further expense.

CARPENTER FOR PARTY POST.
The candidacy of G. E. (Bert) Carpenter of Omaha for the post of National Committeeman on the republican ballot is meeting with the hearty approval of the newspaper fraternity and business men throughout Nebraska. This is as it should be. As vice-president of the Carpenter Paper company, he has been in close touch with the newspapers and small business men of the state over a long period of years, and he has always been found dependable and reliable.

Several thousand republicans signed the petition for his candidacy and they did so because they thought a man of his character could best represent Nebraska as a member of the national committee. This year is a vital one for the party, and the selection of the committee will have much to do with the success or failure of the party next fall.

A man who has made an outstanding success of his own business is a logical man to entrust with the affairs of the public, and Mr. Carpenter has had much to do with the success of the organization of which he is a part. He thinks business principles should be put into practice in the administration of government affairs.

He has a political creed which should be of interest, and that is: "Less government in business and more business in government." The meaning of this creed grows on one as he studies it. In it Mr. Carpenter has touched upon the outstanding fault in our government today. Only when we have a more businesslike administration of government affairs and less meddling by the government in private business can we hope for real recovery.

The office of National Committee man carries no salary or other financial emoluments. As in the past, Mr. Carpenter is not in politics for financial reward, but for service to the party. As a member and treasurer of the Douglas County Central committee in 1936 he was highly successful in directing its fund-raising campaign for the election.

In private as well as public life, Bert Carpenter is a man of highest character, and stands for all things which he believes are for the best interests of his city, state and nation. He is a true sportsman, a lover of fishing and hunting, and believes in and works for the Nebraska and Federal conservation program. With the choice lying between Carpenter and Lyle Jackson, all thinking republicans should choose Carpenter.

SPRING IS HERE.

Officially spring is due to arrive tomorrow. Whether the ground hog saw his shadow on Feb. 2 is a disputed question, but there is no denying that winter held on definitely for the full six weeks supposed to follow the ground hog's preliminary survey. We have had worse winters and we have had better. Speaking as an amateur who recalls less than half a century of winters, we would say that it was a fair average.

The public at large and the farmer in particular is glad for the presence of much needed moisture and faces the future in the fond hope that damp conditions will continue. The law of averages says that drought conditions cannot continue much longer, and indications are strong that the year 1940 will produce crops more worth while than the present crop of candidates for office.

History tells us that a long, dry spell, similar to that through which we have passed occurred during the early years of the 19th century, beginning in 1816. Corroborative evidence has been found in the growth rings on ancient trees in the eastern part of the United States, which show a very light growth for a period of nine years. But how those same trees did grow in the years immediately following.

In this section of Nebraska we have passed through nine seasons of drought. If history is true to form, the years that follow this period should be wetter than the average. Given just one bumper crop, and the farmer will be so much better off than he has been that he will feel like shouting for joy. The Quiz is not guaranteeing this, but we are living in the ardent hope that this will be a year long to be remembered.

It looks like Arthur Weaver is going to try to follow the style of Senator Norris. Weaver says he never voted a straight republican ticket in his whole life. Where he made his mistake was in not filing as an independent candidate for senator instead of on the republican ticket. I rather admire a man who is independent enough to vote for the man he thinks is best regardless of party but when he does so he has no business posing as a party man. Weaver supported Roosevelt 4 years ago but that can't help him much in the coming primary.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

Fellow asked me the other day why I thought it was that there were so many candidates for state office. That's easy. Most of them couldn't earn half as much at anything else and never did as the office pays. And the same goes for most other offices from top to bottom and back up.

Editor Ben Sallows of Alliance says he feels good to have President Roosevelt keep on telling us he will keep us out of war, but that he would feel still better about it if he could forget Roosevelt's promise seven years ago, that he wouldn't spend money like that man Hoover did.

I laughed last week when I read the one John Ward told on Bob Noll. And of course that one never would have got out had it not been for the fact that John wanted to get even. Most people's mistakes never get told about, but newspaper folks cannot cover up their errors for they are in print for everyone to read. And most people seem to take on face glee in telling us about our mistakes, though they seldom remember to compliment us on anything praise worthy that we may do.

Postmaster General Farley says the American people should cultivate a sense of humor, probably to enable them to laugh off the mess we are now in.

Earlier in the campaign I was convinced that Governor Cochran would defeat Senator Burke for the nomination for senator in the primary this spring and so stated in this column. I have changed my mind. I thought that Cochran had a pretty well organized machine. I frequently hear, now, that many of those he has rolled upon to vote for him, will not do so. They just don't like his attitude and the time is almost here when they are no longer in any way dependent upon him for their jobs. Then I recall that it was only in Omaha that he was so strong. Charley Warner beat him for governor in practically every county in the state outside of Omaha. Cochran might command the same Omaha vote again but for the fact that his opponent is an Omaha man who is popular there and who may even carry Douglas county for senator so it don't look so good for Cochran now. Word is even going the rounds that Mr. Cochran does not any longer even think he can win.

A man down in Georgia struck his wife and night riders gave him a beating within an inch of his life. Perhaps his wife needed slapping and probably the man got too much punishment, though I feel that there is almost no punishment too severe for a man who will slay his wife and the mother of his children.

Always, Thursday, there is a steady stream of people at the post office mailing their copy of this paper to absent loved ones. Now no one questions their full right to do this. But I do question their judgment, for usually they need the paper after it has been mailed and, at the end of the year they have paid out about the same amount in postage, as it would cost them to subscribe for and have us send the paper, and they have deprived themselves of the full use of the paper at home.

Suggests Anniversary Observance This Year

Fifty years ago on June 4th the first graduating class of Ord high school went forth into the world. This week the Quiz received a letter from a member of that first class, R. M. (Dick) Lavery, suggesting that there be some suitable observance of the occasion.

The class was not large, 6 in all, but all are living except James Milford, and all are available for a celebration. They are: Harold W. Foght, Mound, Minn.; Edith Lucille Robbins, Lincoln, Nebr.; Everett Williams, Long Beach, Cal.; Mable Wilson McCord, San Pedro, Calif.; and Mr. Lavery.

Last year the Chanticleer was issued in commemoration of the completion of the fiftieth school year since the organization of the high school, but the first class of course had to go through the school year before they could graduate, which makes this the 50th anniversary of the first graduating class.

It would certainly be a splendid thing to have such a celebration this year, with the present high school band to furnish the music, with a group of graduates, who have become famous to return and lend their voices in speech and song, for graduates of all the years to make this a homecoming day in honor of the members of that first graduating class.

The Quiz will be glad to boost for such a celebration in every way

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!

The Farm Home Taxes Again

Short Shavings

The Farm Home.

According to an article not long ago in the Daily, the University of Nebraska has no less than two homes equipped and maintained for the use and training of the Domestic Science classes. It is the plan now to establish a third home, this one to represent a burdensome property tax. He was in favor of an income tax but was definitely opposed to a sales tax.

When I asked him why, he said, "The sales tax is too painful. We would all be paying them and not know it. What we want is a tax that will make us groan when we pay and then we will be a little more careful how the officers spend our money."

The idea is good enough, but under that theory, what's the trouble with the present system?

Short Shavings.

Will Davis writes his brother Edgar that they are well settled in Michigan. He said that their pasture land is so wet that it is to be tilled. Edgar said that after living in Nebraska as long as he has, if he should move back there he'd leave a little corner without the tile so as to continually know what wet weather was.

At a meeting in Scotia a month or so ago telling the farmers how to beautify their farmstead, the question arose where to plant the garden. Some smart alec said the best place to plant it is in the chicken yard. He maintained that the only place one could expect to grow anything as the hoppers would take the garden any other place.

So far so good. The university should make a typical farm home. To make it conform to the average there should be an outside toilet and this need not be very elaborate nor need it be a fancy government structure. I think striking an average, there should be one, although there are some farm homes where there is none at all. I could elaborate much further here but I do not want this to become monotonous.

The farm home might have a sink to strike an average although many don't. To make it conform they should set a bucket under it to drain the water or for a pipe outside they might cut a hole in the floor and that would be a luxury far too great for a farm home. In Scotia there is a Husch all the time. On the other hand, in North Loup there are Noyes' all the time. In fact there are several big Noyes' and at least one little Noyes'. And while we are mentioning it, there are several little Husch's down at Scotia besides the big Husch's.

Although some farm homes have water piped into the house, surely the most of them do not. A well, twenty rods (or forty) from the house would be more natural. If the well is near the barn that is all that can be expected. I can think of two wells made recently by loan companies too and both of them were twenty rods or more from the house and down a steep hill to boot.

One outside door to the house is all that a farmer should ever need or want. What farmer would be so foolish as to desire a front door and back door both. To find one's way to the parlor, visitors of a farmer should expect to trapse through the back porch, past a dozen swill pails and shot guns, worm around the separator and a sick cat, then into the kitchen and from there to the front room.

One who does not get about the country houses would be surprised as to how many places are just like that.

Clothes closets are unheard of in many farm homes. Why would a farmer need a clothes closet when he has such few clothes anyway and a Sunday suit lasts a lifetime?

The university farm home should have a chicken coop in the front yard and perhaps a calf pen too, as the livestock is handled fed there than off further. Some farm homes are fenced from the pigs and chickens but not many of the rented ones are and more often than not the cars are parked and left standing close to the door. Striking an average the university should not expect a lawn but a smooth highway to the front door. (No, the door)

Perhaps off a little distance as one approaches the farm home, the university might have a tough gate to open. This might not be necessary, but it is quite common.

Two dogs should greet the caller, barking until the welcome rings. The university might only have one dog, if he barks a plenty, but I rather think two would be the right number as many farm homes have many more. A litter of pups... well maybe that would be too many. These dogs not only should bark but they smell of your tires and do other things too. There should be at least a dozen cats too.

The farm home should not be bothered with electricity or any of those foolish gadgets or monkey doodles. The university could buy a few kerosene lamps, a hand washing machine and an ice box without any ice. The farmer need not fret over the butter getting soft, because sure enough it will get hard when winter comes. If the well is not too far away a barrel might be fixed out there where the girls can get along fine with refrigeration.

Now I have just tried to strike an average. I have not taken up the subject of the tenant houses or the place the hired man and his wife and children live. I don't suppose the university would consider them as farmers, for no one else considers them as anything—that is judging from the homes many of them are supplied with. Mercy upon us, lets don't think about it.

Taxes Again.

Here is a new idea about taxes, propounded by Albert Babcock. He thinks, as many do, that we should have some new and different kind of taxes to supplant the present possible, and welcome ideas and suggestions on the subject. If you desire to express yourself, feel at liberty to do so, either in person or by mail. Now is the time to start the ball rolling if we want to hold such an anniversary and if we would make it the success it should be.

Returning to Ord Sunday night from a trip to Grand Island, John Galka lost his pocketbook about ten miles out of town when he got out of the car to change places with one of the boys. Early Sunday morning he drove back and found it. He figures the reason for his good luck is that Monday was his 51st birthday. It was lucky for him that he wasn't born the day before, on March 17, or he would doubtless have been an Irishman.

Herman Rice quit his Saturday sales in December when the weather got too bad, with the intention of holding a sale every Saturday the weather was fit. There were number of nice days during the winter, but none of them came on Saturday, and last Saturday was the first decent sale day he saw all winter. A year ago only two Saturdays were too stormy to hold a sale.

Last week a telephone call came for Anton Bartunek. The call was made to Frank Kapusta at the Standard station and Frank relayed it to Anton. The service was bad that day, and Frank could hardly hear what was said. As he heard it, Anton's sister had died at Farwell, and the funeral was to be Thursday. Mr. Bartunek went down Thursday, only to find that it was his niece instead of his sister, and that the funeral was to be on Friday.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORHOOD

The Gordon fire department has taken steps to abate the nuisance of having everybody call central when a fire alarm is turned in. They are of the opinion that the only person who must know is the property owner, and he will be called by a department member. Others are asked not to bother the central office, as it interferes with the answering of regular calls.

Endeavor to attend the services this week. Easter means the confirmation of everything sacred to life. Apostolic faith perished with the crucifixion. It was revived with the risen Christ. Friends turned from the cross with bitter hearts. But the appearance of the living Christ brought their loyalty to full fruition.

Most People AgreeOrd Will Be Larger

When the 1940 census figures are published next summer they will reveal that Ord's population is larger than it was in 1930, agree most of the people who guessed on the population in the Quiz contest which ended March 15.

Here are the guesses:

3,500—Mrs. Carl Niemann.

2,600—Lydia Lehecka.

2,580—Robert Lehecka.

2,500—Lloyd Lehecka.

2,450—Mrs. E. L. Kokes.

2,376—Mrs. J. E. Gilmore.

2,719—Lillian Jones.

2,310—Maxine Jones.

2,211—Mrs. W. R. Cowan, Madison, Wis.

9,000—Nina Looker.

2,225—Mrs. B. J. Jones.

2,441—B. J. Jones.

The 1930 census gave Ord's population as 2,226 but a check-up made by the Chamber of Commerce after the official enumeration ended indicated that about 60 people were missed, principally because they were absent from the city while the census was in progress.

150 Arcadians at Farmers Day Dinner, Meetings Well Attended

... M. L. Flack, dairy specialist, tells the men about it while Muriel Smith, home economics expert, lectures to the women

A fine program was given for farmers of the Arcadia territory Thursday in the Methodist church and high school building there. Because of a late start in the morning the originally planned program was not followed. Four experts from the University of Nebraska college of agriculture were in Arcadia for the day. They were L. I. Frisbie, 4-H club leader, M. L. Flack, dairy specialist, Muriel Smith, home economist, and G. T. Webster, agronomist.

At 11 o'clock a round-table discussion on crops and domestic economy was held in the church basement, at noon 150 farmers and town people enjoyed dinner together, with Mrs. Jim Meyers in charge, and after dinner the program was continued at the high school where the school band played several numbers and Carroll Nygren sang two solos. A talk by Mr. Frisbie followed.

Dairying, 4-H work, general farming and home economy were subjects discussed in an informal manner during the afternoon, with the University of Nebraska experts in charge of the round-table sessions.

the 1940 census is expected daily and the census will get under way about April 1.

A record of the guesses above will be kept and when census figures are published the best guesser will be awarded a year's subscription to The Quiz as a prize.

Wild-Life Restoration Week—Buy Stamps Now

Remember how grandfather used to regale us with the tales of the long ago, when the ducks and geese in flight darkened the skies; when prairie chickens in Nebraska were so thick market hunters used to kill a wagon load in a morning's hunt; how the rivers and streams and lakes were alive with fish?

Grandfather's day belongs to a dead and forgotten past. But grandfather's tales live on with each succeeding generation. And the stories of the vanished wildlife wonders of Nebraska live on and on.

But today these stories of an earlier era bring sighs from another generation, a generation that must call upon imagination to picture the sights of a grand father's tale.

We must turn to our history books for verification. Verily, Nebraska was a wildlife paradise before the white man's plow dug into the lush prairie.

Will it ever come back? Never. Civilization is a stern taskmaster, but at least we can recapture a remnant of the dissipated glories of wildlife. We of this generation can do our part to save what is left of our heritage, can do our part to enhance and rebuild—for generations to come.

These are the prime purposes of National Wildlife Week—to save and build—for the future.

This week, March 17 to 23, has been set aside by presidential proclamation as an urge to all of us to pause and consider; to lend a helping hand to wildlife.

No one of us can bring back fish and game, restore the forests, restock the rivers and lakes. But united, our dollars can give the impetus to both the national and state movements for a sound and sane program of conservation and restoration.

Whether we fish or hunt, whether we delight in beauties of untrammeled wildlife—we can do our part.

By purchasing wildlife stamps through our local agents, we can contribute to the nation-wide and state-wide movement to crystallize public opinion against further spoliation of nature; can put a hand to the wheel in the drive to reclaim and regain that which we Americans have wasted.

Here in Nebraska, where wildlife once was so abundant, we have high hopes that all is not lost. Proper legislation, proper consideration, will help us to help ourselves to a greater and fuller existence.

Wildlife stamp sales are the only sources of revenue to carry out the functions of the National Wildlife Federation and its affiliate.

Airplanes Necessity for Chambers People

Necessity is the mother of invention and when the state highway department slighted Chambers in portioning out the road construction projects and the spring thaw leaves the roads in this vicinity a bottomless quagmire the citizens have no way to get out of town except to fly and so they do just that. This little town having slightly more than two hundred souls dwelling within its corporate bounds boasts of a municipal airport and five airplanes.

'Queen Elizabeth' Used

Socony-Vacuum Oils

The vast job of equipping the "Queen Elizabeth" for her epic dash across the U-boat infested North Atlantic has been disclosed here by the Dugan Oil Co., jobber for the Socony-Vacuum Oil company.

Twenty-nine thousand gallons of lubricating oil, enough to take care of the requirements of 23,200 motor cars, was used to charge the four great turbines of the huge ship.

We are very proud of the part played by Socony-Vacuum in lubricating the main turbines of the giant ship for her history-making sea dash," Mr. Dugan says. "All of the cumulative experience which this company has gained in the manufacture of Mobiloil and Mobilgas was put behind the specific problem of properly lubricating the

"Queen Elizabeth."

They naturally

had the advantage of experience gained in lubricating the "Normandie" and "Queen Mary," as well as every North Atlantic record-breaker for the last quarter century."

The world's largest ship, her length is 1,031 feet and her beam

118 feet. Steam is supplied by 12

huge boilers, the largest ever made for a ship. They generate steam at the terrific pressure of 425 lbs.

per square inch, with a steam temperature of 750 degrees Fahrenheit.

The total length of her engines is 220 feet, and each of the 257,000

turbine blades had to be tested and fitted by hand.

Burwell Tot, 3, Says Wait Til Summer, Then Don't Fall Hard, After He Falls, Cuts Lip

Burwell—(Special)—Sunday forenoon little Bruce Hughes, 3 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hughes, had the misfortune to fall on the frozen ground splitting his lip wide open. With blood spurting from the wound and the little fellow crying lustily his mother took time only to throw a coat about her and start to Dr. Cram's hospital.

By the time they reached the hospital Bruce's tears had ceased, perhaps driven away by the sight of his mother's tears and anxiety as she saw the pain the little one was experiencing and imagined the scar he might have to carry the rest of his life.

When Dr. Cram was preparing to take a stitch in the little torn lip, Bruce insisted that Dr. Cram put mercurochrome on him but that he would not allow him to stick a needle into him. Seeing that Mrs. Hughes was still very much upset Bruce reversed the usual procedure and patted his mother to reassure her much to the doctor's surprise and amusement.

Either finally downed Bruce's objections and his lip was sewed up. No one had ever told the young patient that eating before taking either was unwise so his breakfast did a backward peristalsis.

Later in the day when Bruce received a young caller, Glen Fackler and his mother, he was still quite pale and subdued. It may be imagined that Bruce's advise to Glen was, "Boy, when you pick a piece of ground to fall on wait until summer—then don't fall too hard."

Big Eggs, Small Eggs,
Freak Eggs, Coming In
Valley county hens, and hens elsewhere as well, are laying not only big eggs but also small eggs and freakish eggs at this season of the year, if the eggs brought to the Quiz office this week can be taken as examples.

Yesterday J. W. Sevenker brought in a White Rock egg that weighed exactly 4 ounces, which is the largest egg brought in to date. From Pequot, Minn., this week came a very big egg laid by one of Oscar Wallin's hens, breed unspecified. Either the weather in northern Minnesota is so hot that Oscar's hens are laying soft-boiled eggs now, or else Mrs. Wallin boiled it before mailing, for the egg was nicely cooked when it arrived. Weight was a strong 4 ounces but the Quiz "big egg" editor doesn't know whether cooking an egg increases its weight or decreases it so the egg will have to be ruled out of this year's contest. The hen that laid it might be called a "Cullen Lake Special."

A 3½ ounce egg comes from Andrew Shotoski's flock and the smallest egg submitted to date, from a White Rock hen, was brought in by Mrs. Louis Vancura. It weighed only a little over ½ ounce. A slightly larger, but still very small egg, was brought in by Mrs. George Wozniak, from her flock of Buff Leghorns. Another tiny egg is brought by V. J. Dobrovsky, laid by a Plymouth Rock hen.

Most unusual egg of the week is brought by John B. Loeffler. It is very long and very narrow and according to John, he has one hen who always lays eggs of this odd shape.

Adult Education School Ends Tonight

The last session of the adult education school will be held tonight when Mr. West's agricultural class and Miss Leupold's home economics group will hold a joint pot luck supper followed by a lesson afterwards. The other classes ended with a group meeting last Thursday when a member of each class summed up the work accomplished by his group.

Mr. Scofield gave a summary of the material studied in the citizenship class. Mrs. G. A. Butts spoke for the poetry group, comparing a poem to a cathedral. She said that spires were built on the older cathedrals to direct one's thoughts upward to the Deity but that the newer ones were spread out and larger so that more people could be sheltered and that tended to direct one's thoughts toward humanity. Likewise she said the older poets directed more attention to form and the modern ones are more interested in thought.

Miss Leupold said that a valuable exchange of ideas and experiences resulted in her group.

She pointed out that her class started with an enrollment of four and that more than twenty were present for the last session.

As an example of the interchange of ideas, she stated she was now learning the correct way to make kolaches.

Miss Anna Cameron stated that in years to come the people who took part in this project would be proud to declare that they were members of the first adult education group. She stated that she expected the movement to grow until nearly everyone in Burwell was reached by it. She expressed her admiration for the spirit of the people of Burwell in that they believed that they could get whatever they wanted by going after it.

Miss Cameron presented the cast of "Our Town" the play which will be presented April 16th by her dramatics class in a part of one act. Those present were greatly interested by the glimpse they saw of the play and are eagerly awaiting its presentation. The income from the play will be used to finance the next session of the adult education school. Miss Cameron stated that another comedy play would be presented later.

Mrs. Rudolph Edwards of Sheridan, Wyo., submitted to a major operation in the Cram hospital Wednesday.

A daughter, weighing six pounds, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Scofield Thursday, with Dr. Cram in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bald were guests in the Claude Kennedy home Tuesday.

Cooperation Plea Voiced by James at Rotary Dinner

District Belongs to Everyone, Must Work Our Problems Jointly, He Said.

A plea for the cooperation of everybody in the valley in working out problems of the North Loup irrigation district was voiced Monday evening by H. C. James, new engineer-manager of the district, when he spoke following a meeting of the Ord Rotary club. The district belongs to everybody, and should be so regarded, he said.

Money is available to keep water running in the ditches for approximately half of the irrigating season of 1940, Mr. James said, but he added "we are advising all farmers to make their plans to irrigate for the full season, because we are going to get the money to keep going some way."

He commended the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for its recent loan of about $50,000 to keep the Middle Loup going until revenues catch up with expense and said he hopes that the North Loup district will soon have its affairs in shape to be eligible for a similar loan.

At present many problems, right-of-way, legal, financial and construction, remain to be solved in this valley. They have piled up and must be gotten out of the way before the R. F. C. will consider making an additional loan. Eugene T. Porter, the R. F. C. field representative, has been "very cooperative," James stated.

He sidestepped neatly the controversial power matter but said farmers in this valley are increasing their irrigated acreage at a rapid rate and hoped that in "four or five years" maximum acreage under irrigation will make the district self-sustaining.

Mrs. James gave the impression of complete sincerity and absolute honesty in everything he said, and President C. C. Thompson pledged support of the Rotary club as an organization and as individuals to the district.

Another guest of the club Monday evening was Dr. Forrest Whitcraft, new Boy Scout area executive with headquarters at Grand Island. Dr. George R. Gard, secretary, discussed a proposed joint meeting with the Broken Bow Rotary club, E. L. Kokes as the "On to Omaha" chairman spoke briefly and President Thompson appointed a committee composed of Dr. F. A. Barta, George Allen and J. A. Kovanda to nominate a slate of officers and directors to be voted on at the annual election next Monday. The club will have a new picture taken on April 22, it was decided, and a full attendance for that date is urged.

C. Romans Pays Fine for Disturbing Peace

In the court of John L. Andersen, police magistrate, Saturday morning, Charlie Romans pleaded guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace filed by City Attorney Clarence M. Davis and was fined $3.00, which he paid together with costs totalling $4.50. He also agreed to replace dishes broken and pay for other minor damage done at the Onyx Cafe about 2:30 Saturday morning in a disturbance which brought about filing of the charge.

Complaint was made by O. W. Bogner, operator of the Onyx. Evidence tended to show that Romans, preceded by Walter Douthit, was leaving the cafe about 2:30 a.m. All in the spirit of fun, Romans testified, he gave Douthit a shove with his shoulder, pushing him into the lap of one of a group of highway construction workers seated at a table. Apparently these men thought Romans and Douthit were fighting for one of them grabbed and held Douthit while others held Romans. In the resulting disturbance a table was overturned, some dishes broken and a couple of stools pulled loose from the floor.

At first Bogner also filed complaint against Mr. Douthit but asked that this be withdrawn when it became apparent to him that Douthit was in no way to blame for the disturbance.

Ord Has White Easter, Temperature 10 Above

Temperature was only 10 degrees above zero Sunday and Ord had one of the few "white Easters" in its history, with about a half inch of snow on the ground from an after-midnight snow storm. Church services all were well attended but few spring outfitts were in evidence in the Easter parade. The cantata given by the Methodist choir under Hilding Pearson's direction Sunday evening was especially enjoyable.

Mrs. Roy Randolph, with Ted and Vernie, drove to Lincoln Thursday afternoon to spend the Easter vacation with relatives. Mrs. Randolph's mother, Mrs. Emma Olier, returned to Ord with the Randolphs and will spend a week or ten days visiting here.

1,500 People Attend 10th Annual Music Festival Thursday

Crowd Highly Appreciative as Hi School and University Musicians Perform.

Burwell—(Special)—A crowd of fifteen hundred people, the largest ever assembled within a building in Burwell, gathered in the high school auditorium Thursday evening to hear the program of the tenth annual Loup Valley music festival. This was also the largest crowd which ever has attended a music festival in the Loup Valley.

An auditorium packed with people even to the galleries greeted the male chorus and a violinist from the University of Nebraska, a cornet trio and a clarinetist from Hastings college. The program was under the direction of Mr. Tempel of the University of Nebraska and Mr. King of Hastings college who served as critics for the afternoon program.

The University of Nebraska chorus consisted of nine voices. Dick Koupal, of Ord, who was the accompanist, received an ovation from the crowd. They sang two numbers, each of which received great applause from the crowd. The cornet trio and the clarinetist from Hastings college and the violinist from the University of Nebraska also were applauded until Mr. Struve had to ask the crowd to restrain, assuring them of a long and varied program.

The entertainers expressed themselves as being greatly pleased by the crowd which attended their performance, declaring that it was indeed a pleasure to entertain so large and such an appreciative audience.

The afternoon program was divided into two sections which were put on simultaneously. The individual and small group entertainers performed in the study hall while the glee clubs, bands and orchestras gave their program in the auditorium.

Asimus Shed Burned, House Was Threatened

Joint—(Special)—A call over the telephone last Thursday evening brought a large crowd of neighbors to the Asimus ranch where a building about 16 by 24 feet in size, located about a dozen feet from the house, was discovered to be on fire. The fire had too much start to be extinguished and was destroyed, with all its contents. The building was used as a wash house and also contained the ranch lighting plant. Also destroyed was a new power washer, cream separator and other equipment. A short circuit is thought to have caused the blaze. Fortunately there was no wind that night or more damage would have resulted.

If another snow storm comes we'll have to call it over-production and the farmers will just have to plow it under," said Charlie.

Michalek Buys Liquor Store in Sidney After Selling to Butte Man

Ed Michalek reported last Wednesday evening from Sidney, Neb., where he closed a deal to purchase the Sokol Liquor store, one of the largest in that city. He will take over there May 1 and plans to move his family to Sidney after school is out this spring.

A few weeks ago Mr. Michalek sold his Ord liquor store and also his home to S. M. Perkins, of Butte, Neb., the deal to become effective May 1 provided Mr. Perkins' application for a liquor license is approved. Mr. Perkins has been in Ord for the past 30 days, making his home at Hotel Ord, but the liquor store will remain under Mr. Michalek's management until May 1st.

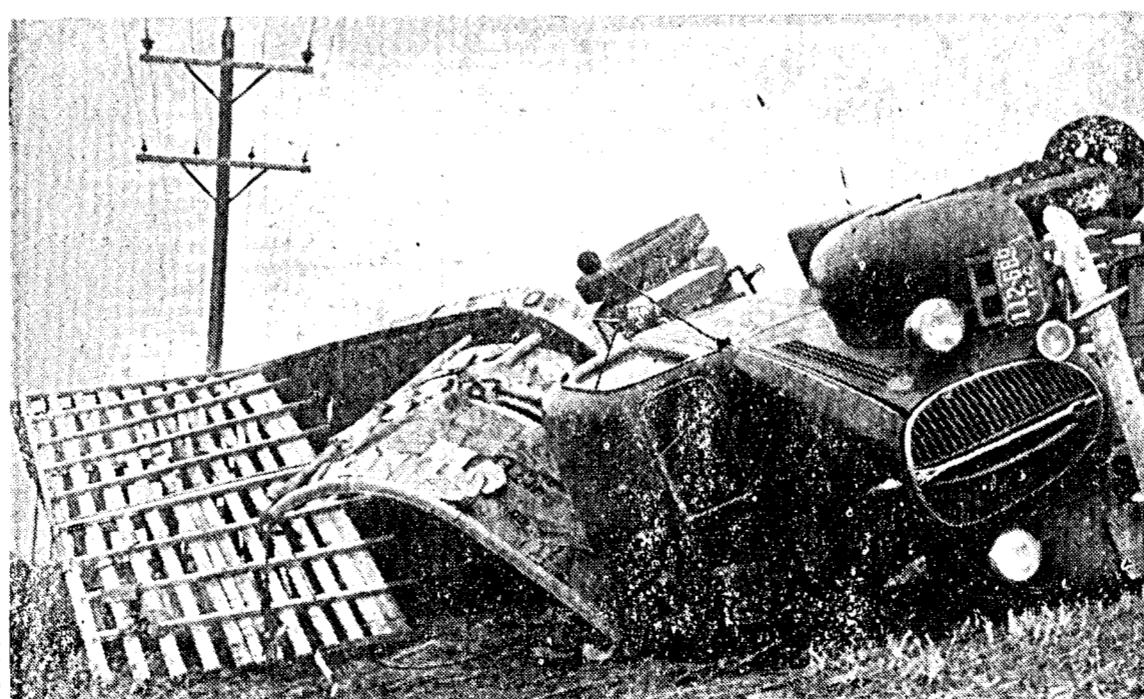

Mr. Perkins formerly owned a hotel at Butte.

Ord Picnic April 7th.

Former residents of Ord and vicinity now living in California will hold their semi-annual picnic Sunday, April 7 at Bixby Park in Long Beach, the Quiz is asked to announce by Fred J. Bell, president, and Mrs. Rudolph Sorenson, secretary of the association.

Early in May the picture everyone is talking about, "Gone With the Wind," will be screened in Ord, probably four days.

Driver Rice Making 4th Omata Trip in 4 Days Goes to Sleep, Truck Upsets

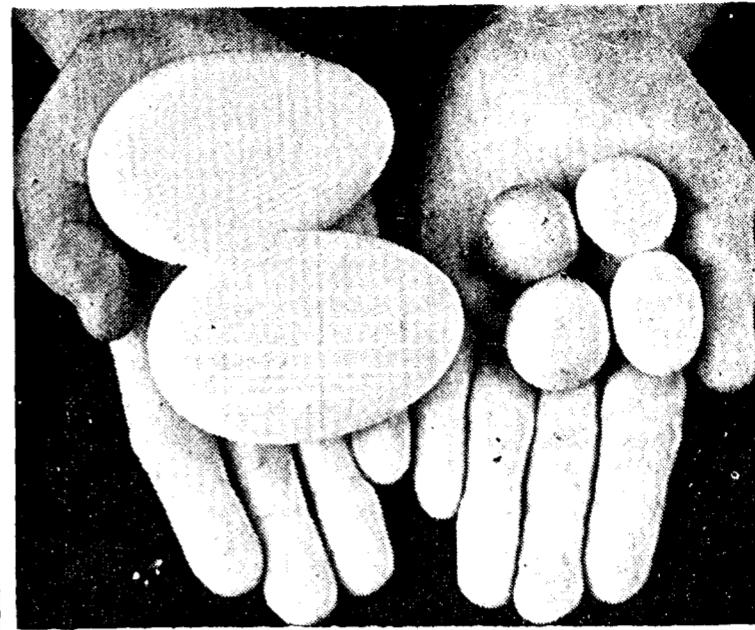

Here is the big Watson Transfer cattle truck that overturned in the ditch between Ord and Elyria Wednesday about midnight when Hubert Rice, the driver, dozed off. He was hauling 17 cattle belonging to Andrew Larsen and was just getting started for Omaha when the accident happened. Three cattle were injured and the truck considerably damaged by the driver was unharmed.

This would have been his fourth round trip between Ord and Omaha in a four days period. Rice made the round trip on Saturday night and a third Tuesday night. Each time he made the return trip to Ord during the day, loaded cattle in the evening and made the down trip at night. Cumulative loss of sleep was responsible for the accident, Rice says.

Forrest Watson, owner of the big trailer truck, had a wrecker and a caterpillar tractor at work Thursday getting the truck back on its wheels.

The Large and the Small of the Egg Business

Some beautiful examples of over-size eggs laid by Leghorn hens, as well as extra tiny eggs laid by hens of the heavier breeds, are here illustrated. They were entered during the past week in the Quiz "big egg" contest.

In the hand at left of the above picture are seen a 4 ounce egg from Mr. Steve Jablonski's flock of White Leghorns and a 3 1/2 ounce egg brought in by Joe Mach, also laid by a Leghorn hen. In the hand at right are seen four eggs, the smallest weighing 1 1/4 ounce. This egg was submitted by Gilbert Babcock and was laid by one of his mixed breed hens. Other tiny eggs weighed from 1 1/4 to slightly over 1 1/2 ounce each and were brought in by Mrs. John Kovarik, Walter Guggenmos and Adolph Nevriv. One is a Rhode Island Red egg, another a Buff Orpington egg, and Mr. Guggenmos does not tell the breed of chickens he keeps.

The 4 ounce egg from Mrs. Jablonski's flock ties with an egg of identical weight submitted last week by J. W. Sevenker. Several other eggs previously entered weighed within a fraction of an ounce of as much. And from Nebraska City comes word that a hen there laid an egg that weighed 6 ounces. Valley county hens take notice.

11,500 Trout Were Planted Thursday in Calamus River

Burwell—(Special)—Ten thousand small trout and 1,500 large trout from the state hatchery at Benkelman were distributed in the Calamus river Thursday by H. A. Phillips. He took some of the trout to his ranch at Beardwell, a distance of 50 miles, before releasing them.

Mr. Phillips says that in two years the small fish will be big enough to eat and he believes trout from the Calamus will be as delicious as those caught in mountain streams.

The sand in the river bed of the Calamus makes it difficult to hatch trout there, as sand washing against the eggs breaks them.

Annual Spelling Contest Will Be Held on Friday

The Valley county spelling contest is to be held Friday at 1 p.m. at the Ord high school auditorium. Most of the schools of the county will be represented. Among the contestants will be Billy Weddel of Arcadia and Miss Jacqueline Burrows of Dist. 47, both of whom have competed and placed high in the contest before. Miss Delores Greenwalt of Dist. 2 will be again. Miss McClatchey expects this to be one of the most interesting contests held to date.

Mrs. Ed Verstraete went to Grand Island on the bus this morning to visit her daughter, Alyce, who will be transferred Sunday from St. Francis hospital to St. Joseph's hospital in Omaha for a two months training period.

Whole Population of Bartlett Helps Fight Boyles Fire

Village Chemical Cart Frozen and House Razed but All Contents Were Saved.

Bartlett—(Special)—"Some of the best people in the world live in Bartlett," vowed Owen Boyles, county clerk of Wheeler county, after his house had inexplicably burned to the ground Monday morning.

Arising at 7:30, Mr. Boyles went to the kitchen to put the water on the stove. His movements were arrested by a crackling sound from the attic and when he investigated he found it full of smoke.

Calling to Mrs. Boyles (who, with their three children, was still sleeping) to get up and telephone the alarm, Mr. Boyles rushed from the house to his car and drove down the street, tooting all the way.

At the small underground firehouse in the court house yard he couldn't entirely open the doors but did manage to get hold of the tongue of the chemical cart. Fastening it to the back of his car, Boyles pulled fire cart, doors and all and took the cart to his blazing home only to discover that it would do no good—it was frozen up.

By this time all the 133 inhabitants of Bartlett had assembled at the Boyles home. Men and women already had started dragging furniture from the house. As soon as they learned there was no chance of saving the house they concentrated on saving its contents. Curtains, rugs, beds, chairs—everything carried by sympathetic and willing hands—found places of safety in the yard. Even the kitchen sink was jerked from the wall and the bath tub was about to exit when the flames, fanned by a stiff south wind, collapsed the bathroom ceiling.

Fearing that sparks might spread to Mrs. Wyman's garage, strong arms tireless in kindly effort picked up the garage and set it away from danger. In less than an hour from the time Mr. Boyles heard the crackling of flames in his attic, the once-attractive home of the Boyles family lay leveled to the charred ground with only the smoke-blackened chimney remaining.

"Gee, Dad, and we just got through papering the front room," lamented the little Boyles boy.

The American Legion is sponsoring Orville Stoddard, who was selected by the committee, C. W. Clark, Mark Gyger and Alfred L. Hill, after conferring with Supt. C. C. Thompson and securing a list of all eligibles. Rules require that to be eligible a boy must be in the junior class and well up in scholastic attainments. Boys' State will be held at Lincoln beginning June 8.

Informal Dinner.

Dr. A. L. Miller, republican candidate for governor, will address the Ord Chamber of Commerce tomorrow evening in a non-political talk. Ord republicans are arranging an informal dinner at the City Cafe before the meeting, at which Dr. Miller will be a guest. Any who desire to do so are at liberty to attend, the only expense, of course, being the price of the meal.

Ralph Norman made a business trip to Loup City Tuesday.

THE WEATHER

Partly cloudy and occasional showers tonight and tomorrow. Warmer tomorrow.

TAXES AND CROPS.

These two items may seem widely separated at first, but they are not. The two have always had much in common, and more so now than ever before. The reason is that, as the governmental cost per acre on land increases, it becomes necessary to show a greater return per acre from the land.

When the settlers first came to the valley the potential productivity of the land was greater than it is today. The saying, "Tickle the soil with a stick and it will laugh a fortune," was not far from correct. No matter what was planted in those days, the settler seemed certain of raising a crop.

The early settlers did not go in so strong for stock raising, since they could make plenty of money on their grain crops, and they did not have to pay it all out in taxes. The earliest records show land valuations on some of the choice land as low as $1.75 per acre. An early levy shown on the records was 7 mills.

At those figures the taxes on a quarter section of land would be less than two dollars. In many cases the tax on the land has increased to one hundred times the original amount, and the productivity of the land has decreased thru the years.

In the decade following the drouth of 1894 many of the farmers went into wheat raising on a large scale, hoping thus to make a fortune. One well known farmer, with the help of a number of hired men, raised 500 acres of winter wheat which threshed more than 20 bushels per acre. He then discarded wheat into the stubble that fall and the next year his yield was less than 5 bushels per acre, and he lost all he had gained the year before.

Finding wheat would not produce enough to make up for the increasing taxes, many men, especially during and after the war, went into corn raising on a vast scale, only to find that they might make money one year and lose it the next. In fact, these experimenters through the years have proven that grain or corn farming alone will not do in this section of the state.

Most of the farmers who have made a success of the game have done so by the method of raising their own feed and feeding it to their own stock right on the farm. Even this method has failed in the past few years of drouth, and thousands of farmers have lost the savings of a lifetime. A new method must be found, and that is what the Pasture-Forage-Livestock program is intended to do.

The day of huge profits on the farm is gone, but this program should guarantee a man a fair return for his labor and his investment. It must succeed, for, if it fails, agriculture, the backbone of Nebraska enterprise, has failed. The farmer of today cannot afford to experiment, but with the results of state farm experiments for a guide, he can succeed.

WHY THE SOCIAILITY.

The American public is now being beset by that perennial pest, the public office seeker. Strangely enough, they flock to our cities on election years, and are elected and not seen again until the time comes for the public to hand out the jobs once more. Is it possible that their only interest in their constituents is to be elected to the job for another term.

With the man who is out, it is different. He has not been holding a job. He has not been depending upon public funds for his living, and he can hardly afford to quit his job long enough to come and visit us in a year when he is not running for office. Also, he has to do all his campaigning for public office at his own expense, and while he is away his private business suffers.

The man in public office has just as much right to quit his job and rush around over the state in an off year as he has during an election campaign, but who ever heard of him doing it. Just try getting a state official to come out from Lincoln in an off year to pay a visit or make a speech, and he will tell you in no uncertain terms that the duties of his office demand his constant attention.

These same men find plenty of time to get out in an election year. They spend fully as much time out over the state as they do on the job. They claim that the trips are not being taken at government expense, but are they? Did the people not elect these men to put in their time taking care of their job at Lincoln? If they go campaigning, just what are they giving the public in return for their salary?

Fair boards over the state are in luck this year. They can boost their attendance by inviting almost any of the big shots of the state as guests, and be practically certain they will be there. Next year it will be different, as every fair board member knows. They will be so busy with their duties to the dear public that they positively cannot come.

over other aspirants to office, and put them nearer on a common basis.

It is doubtful if the good accomplished by candidates traveling over the state is worth the expense incurred. Why not limit them to a few outbursts over the radio, and limit them to the truth, so the programs would not be too long. Perhaps they could all go in together and make a WPA project out of it, thus furnishing some employment for those who need work and making it useful as well as spectacular. The big question before the American public today is: Why is a Political Campaigner?

NUMBER FIFTY-THREE.

There are 52 weeks and 1 day in ordinary years and 52 weeks and 2 days in leap years. It thus happens that 5 extra days toward another week occur in every four years, or a full extra week in a little less than 6 years. The average volume of a newspaper contains 52 issues, one for each week in the year.

But with the accumulation of extra days, it is apparent that the extra time must be taken care of in order to keep the start of the new volumes from backing up gradually. In fact, if it were not taken care of from time to time the date would back up all the way around the calendar in the course of 292 years, with the result that an extra volume would be gained.

The Quiz was founded by Mr. Haskell and its first issue was April 6, 1882. Since that time it has been the object of the Quiz to keep No. 1 of each volume as close to the first week in April as possible. In order to do this, an extra number, 53, is issued from time to time to take care of the accumulated days. That is being done in this issue, which you will note, is No. 53.

This has been done with the Quiz a total of 10 times. The last time this was done was in 1934. It will be necessary for the Quiz to keep No. 1 of each volume as close to the first week in April as possible. In order to do this, an extra number, 53, is issued from time to time to take care of the accumulated days. That is being done in this issue, which you will note, is No. 53.

If you don't spend money you are a miser. If you don't work for it you are a loafer. If you get it easily you're a gifter. If you can't get it you are a fool. And just about when you are making both ends meet, somebody moves the ends."

Henry C. Blome, republican candidate for Congress, lives at Dalton. He is one of four candidates and looks to me like a real prospect. He is a farmer, rancher and stockman, lives on his ranch, farms heavily in wheat and feeds lots of cattle. He knows about irrigation because he has one thousand acres of land under irrigation. He is president of the Platte Valley Livestock & Commission company at Scottsbluff. He has been a tireless worker for agriculture for forty years and if nominated and elected ought to be about what we are looking for in this country to represent us in Congress.

And there was the lady who fell asleep in the plastic surgeon's office and someone lifted her seat.

There are said to be nine million unemployed in the United States, about the same number as there were seven years ago. Then there are said to be a million salaried officials galloping over the country in connection with the unemployment situation. Don't you begin to think things are getting into a serious condition.

Do you remember how the Hoover administration told us for months that prosperity was just around the corner? But we never caught up with it. The present administration has been telling us that less unemployment was just around the corner, only they have been telling us that for years instead of for months, and we seem to be no nearer a solution of the unemployment problem than we were seven years ago, and instead of slowly reducing the public debt as Hoover did, we are twenty billions of dollars more in debt than we were when this administration took office.

Nature and science are both wonderful. Now comes two months in advance the story that a 22 year old expectant mother in Florida will give birth to quintuplets sometime in May. Canada will have nothing on the good old U. S. A.—

I can remember the financial crash after the civil war, which lasted for many years, and how my folks struggled to clear a new farm and make a living with eggs at 3 to 5 cents a dozen and butter from 7 to 10c a pound and everything else raised on their few broken acres in the same proportion. Some farm relief in those days would have been fine but no one thought of it.

Singers Were Ord Guests. The group of singers from the state university who put on the evening program and the Loup Valley music festival at Burwell Thursday, were guests in Ord homes while here, due to the fact that Dick Koupal is a member, and they left it to him to find accommodations.

In W. G. Tempel's car came Dick Koupal, Elmer Bauer, Jack Traver, Earl Jenkins and Lynn Myers, the group eating dinner at the Rudolph Koupal home. Nate Holman furnished the second car and was accompanied by James Price, Keith Sturdevant, Jack Donovan, Bob Sandburg and Cleve Genslinger.

They were distributed as guests in the Dr. C. J. Miller, E. L. Vogeltanz, James Ollis, Hilding O. Pearson, Gould Flagg and Rudolph Koupal homes, and were most appreciative of the hospitality extended them while here.

Zikmund's Picture Appeared. Several people have commented on the fact that Lloyd Zikmund was one of the young men pictured in the University of Nebraska glee club last week, although the news item mentioned only Dick Koupal as an Ord member of the glee club. Reason for this is that Lloyd went out for glee club the first semester when the picture was taken but not the second semester when the glee club goes on tour.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

The way to make time go fast is to have a note at the bank due in six months and you will be surprised at how fast the months pass.

I haven't mentioned it for some time but we do appreciate having you drop in for us to send in your daily newspaper renewals. Mrs. Hardenbrook who has charge of this part of the work, tells me that she is constantly receiving these daily renewals and I want to take this means of thanking you who have given us this business. We do appreciate it.

I really think it is wrong to steal but I hope Ase Wood and some of the other columnists from whom I swipe stuff don't read this item.

An announcement in the daily papers says that Omaha is going to hold the number of liquor stores to 612 for that city. Well, 612 liquor stores ought to be enough to fairly quench the thirst of the population of Omaha and leave a little for out state stragglers into the city.

What bid fair to be a real ruckus in Ord was averted when Jake Hoffman got his leg broken. Jake and Charley Hunt were both desirous of getting a franchise to organize a Gracie Allen for President club in Ord. With Jake out of the running Charley has a clear field and says he expects to bring Gracie to Ord before the campaign is ended.

There were a dozen or more men on the train riding with Mr. Dewey. He had a special compartment in the car and in turn the different local men were called in to visit with the candidate.

Clarence, being a candidate for delegate to the republican convention, made it plain that that ride with Mr. Dewey did not mean he was necessarily for Dewey for president in preference to anyone else. He just said that Mr. Dewey impressed him favorably, that he was nice appearing, that his ideas seemed sound as far as Clarence could detect.

It is important that anyone who may be elected as a delegate to either national convention should find out all he can about all the candidates and we believe that Mr. Davis will do that very thing about each Republican candidate so that, if elected, he can use his best judgment in voting at the meeting in Philadelphia in June.

More, this was a short trip that any of us would be glad to have taken.

And there was the lady who fell asleep in the plastic surgeon's office and someone lifted her seat.

There are said to be nine million unemployed in the United States, about the same number as there were seven years ago. Then there are said to be a million salaried officials galloping over the country in connection with the unemployment situation. Don't you begin to think things are getting into a serious condition.

Do you remember how the Hoover administration told us for months that prosperity was just around the corner? But we never caught up with it. The present administration has been telling us that less unemployment was just around the corner, only they have been telling us that for years instead of for months, and we seem to be no nearer a solution of the unemployment problem than we were seven years ago, and instead of slowly reducing the public debt as Hoover did, we are twenty billions of dollars more in debt than we were when this administration took office.

Everyone's Friend. Joe Kneazek, after traveling to many of the different towns in his effort to win the nomination for the unicameral report that things look good to him. He finds more friends than he expected, or at least he finds more people who pretend to be his friends, than he expected.

And who is there who has ever met Joe, who is not his friend?

Short Shavings.

And here is a little trick in voting that might help out a favorite candidate. If three men are running for two offices and we are anxious to nominate one of the three, in place of voting for two as the instructions say, if we only vote for one it would be better. Voting for two makes a half a vote against our man.

Regardless of the ridicule made of James Cromwell, the minister to Canada and his multi-millionaire wife Doris Duke, the worst thing about his recent speech was the truth it contained.

Oh My! Oh My!

Following are a few remarks gleaned from a talk with Alvin Brox, the county assessor.

What is going to happen to the cities like North Loup, Arcadia and Ord if we revalue the property this year down to where sales indicate the valuation should be? I replied, simply raise the levy and he replied there is a limit to the amount that can be levied and that in many cases the limit is reached.

He said if the property levy is scaled down as some are talking it would throw the municipalities into bankruptcy, he is afraid.

He said many people are refusing to pay their taxes now, simply selling their property to the counties in that way. For every piece of property where the owners refuse to pay their taxes, the situation is just that much worse for those that are left who are paying.

He refused to speculate what would happen if the districts were thrown in bankruptcy.

There is a conflict in the statutes, one saying the valuation can be forced down if actual sales are established to prove the point, such as the Art Watts property (a good two story house in good repair) selling for $300 and the elevator selling for $500, and another statute says that the different properties should be kept in line.

He said it is a little wrong where extra lots are valued so high, making the tax on property with eight lots much higher than one with one lot (the houses the same) for the lots are of little value. In several instances persons have had their property divided and only pay on the lot on which the house stands.

He said farm lands outside the large school districts are not worrying him so much. He maintained that if we only had crops those taxes would not be so bad. He said that they average about 50c an acre. It is the property in the three large school districts that keeps him awake nights. Farm land there is about $2.00 an acre. Small tracts in the city are taxed around $6.00 an acre or at the rate of $1000 a quarter.

He said too that at the court house, or at least in his, the treasurer's and clerk's office is not the place to howl about the high taxes.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT!

Oh My! Oh My!

At the school meetings and township meetings the amount of money to run the affairs are voted and these officials only do their best to make the taxes collected, pay the bills.

He said he had been at most all the state meetings for County assessors and other tax gatherings and he does not believe there will be any sales or income tax placed on our laws. He says that in the eastern part of the state, the large municipalities, the sentiment is very strong against it. He says there is quite a sentiment in the country districts for some supplementary tax but even out here it is not unanimous.

He said too that it is a mistake that the H. O. L. C. and the Federal Land Bank properties are exempt from taxation as was reported in the daily papers.

It was stormy that day but as they came to Fremont Mr. Dewey was said if there were only one person on the platform who had made the trip to the depot to see him, he would want to go out. Clarence was very much surprised at the items in the papers afterwards of how Mr. Dewey called different men down for speaking out of turn; for Clarence said nothing that he saw indicated any such attitude.

Mr. Brox at least gives us something to think about, should some of our districts be thrown into bankruptcy.

MEDICAL FACTS

Sponsored by
4-COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

Back in 1918, when all the world was suffering from the effects of a world-wide epidemic (called a pandemic when so wide-spread) of influenza, a new disease appeared among pigs. Those familiar with the diseases of swine recognized that this was something new. Further study of it showed that it was very similar to the influenza of human beings, if not identical.

Up to 1919, those who had studied influenza thought it was due to a germ which has a long name but is commonly spoken of as the influenza bacillus. Study of that epidemic, however, threw some doubt on this theory and seemed to show that either a virus or a virus with the influenza bacillus caused the disease.

Now a virus is a disease producing substance, undoubtedly a living organism, that is too small to be seen through the microscope. It is so small that it will pass through filters which hold back all the visible germs. The size of these viruses is measurable by finding out the size of the pores in certain membranes and then determining the smallest pores the organism will pass through. Viruses, too, are particular what they eat. They will grow and multiply only in the cells of living tissue.

We now know of about thirty human diseases that are caused by viruses. Some of the common ones are such diseases as smallpox and chickenpox. They also cause the diseases in animals and in plants. Undoubtedly, the next few years will be filled with new discoveries about these causes of disease, because many research workers are busily engaged in studying them.

This has been true of the influenza of swine and humans. Dr. R. E. Shope of the Rockefeller Institute, as well as a number of other doctors, has been carrying on this work for a number of years and has come to some very interesting conclusions.

Dr. Shope believes the pigs caught the influenza from human beings and that the virus has remained unchanged in swine for the past twenty years. The disease has been constantly present in pigs at this time. In man, however, there has been a slight change in the character of this infecting agent, so that of man, at present is slightly different from that of swine. One of the proofs of this is that the blood of nearly all the people over twenty years of age will neutralize the virus of swine influenza but that the blood of those under ten years old does so in a very small number of instances.

Another interesting finding of Dr. Shope is that the eggs of worms which live in the lungs of hogs often contain the virus of swine influenza. Earthworms living in hog-lots eat these eggs. Susceptible hogs eat the earthworms and become infected with influenza. Besides being very interesting, this knowledge may be very important in figuring out the life cycle of this virus. Information such as this is the material on which the rational treatment and prevention of disease is based.

NORTH LOUP
WRITTEN BY MRS. ETHEL HAMER

James Alberry Dies.

James Washington Alberry was born in Beverly Hills, Ohio, in 1872. He came to Nebraska with his parents when eight years of age, his parents homesteading in Madison county where his father followed the trade of a shoemaker.

He grew to manhood on the homestead and at the age of eighteen he left for the west. A few years later he came to Ord where he was employed as a stage driver for Linton Bros. Here he met and later married Miss Cora Weaver.

Seven children were born to them all of whom are still living and were with their mother at the burial of their father.

At the age of forty he became interested in church work and for a time was a member of the Friends church at North Loup. He was deeply interested in American Sunday School work and organized Sunday schools all over the state of Nebraska. He was known by all as a gentle, kindly man and made many friends, especially in his Sunday school work. To meet him was to meet a friend.

For several years Mr. and Mrs. Alberry have spent the summer months at their home in North Loup, living with their children in Omaha during the colder weather.

The union services that the churches have held the past two weeks are to be continued this week and are being held in the Seventh Day Baptist church Saturday morning, under the direction of Mrs. A. H. Babcock, with Mrs. W. G. Johnson at the piano. Solo parts were taken by Delmer Van Horn, Merlyn Van Horn, George Cox, Mrs. E. T. Babcock, Lillian Babcock and Mrs. Harlan Brennick.

Sunday evening the Methodist choir gave their cantata "Our Living Lord," under the direction of Mrs. M. R. Cornell. Mrs. H. J. Hoepner, Mrs. Cloyd Ingerson, R. W. Hudson and Deryl White were soloists.

A special Easter program was given Sunday morning at the Friends church that had been arranged by Donna Cox.

They have about twenty birds, among them rice birds, love birds, canaries and cockatoos, all of which were trained to perform on ladders, ferris wheels, tight ropes and various swings and cars. The Kecks travel from school to school, giving as many as five shows a day so their stay here was necessarily short.

School children, especially the younger ones were thrilled with the circus.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD. Syl Furtak must have had his rabbit's foot in perfect working order at the Goodhull alleys Monday night. He rolled a three game series with Russell Craven, winning the first and losing the second. He started out the third game with a strike and kept it up until he had six strikes straight and wound up with ten strikes and a spare and a total of 250, a new high for the big alleys. Charley Veleba remarked, "Pretty fair, for a kid," so the boys are waiting for Charley to show them a man's score.

The Northern Lights put on a real show Sunday evening, according to those who were fortunate enough to see them. Brilliant red streamers extended from the north to a point directly overhead, and the spectacle was interspersed with green in the general direction of the north star. It was the most brilliant exhibition seen here in years, and no doubt had some connection with the disturbance that wrecked communication by radio and wire that night.

Ed Dlugosh, the early morning man on the Quiz force, found Monday morning that the door would not open when he tried his key, so after failing in every attempt, he jimmied a window and crawled in. The safety lock had been put on from the inside, rendering the key useless. It happened that the north door was unlocked and Ed could have walked in there, but it did not occur to him to try it.

Ord Firemen Address Cosmopolitan Group

Chet Austin and Vern Andersen met with the Ord Cosmopolitans Monday evening at the City Cafe and explained the proposition of buying an inhalator for the use of the community. Mr. Austin called upon Dr. Round to give the medical point of view of the value of the machine to the community, which he did.

"The Ord firemen are for this proposition 100%," said Austin, "and we plan to keep working for it until we get it. A campaign will start soon, and everybody will be given a chance to contribute toward the purchase of this machine, which will be available to the entire community whenever needed." Mr. Andersen affirmed Austin's statements and read letters from fire departments that have inhalators.

In the business session Henry F. Deines was introduced as member No. 30 of the club. Ed Gnaster reported for the soap box derby that half a dozen boys are interested already, and that the date for the affair had been set for June 19. The prizes have not yet been selected but are to be merchandise. All the rules were made out, and copies were distributed to each member of the club.

It was decided to have the committed purchase the prizes as soon as possible and put them on exhibition in a downtown window, in order to give the boys some idea of what they are contending for. The winner in the Ord contest will be sent to the contest in Lincoln. The committee has not yet decided

Flagg For Mayor

Friends of Gould B. Flagg who are interested in his candidacy for Mayor have secured the following statement as to his intentions if elected:

He is opposed to any raise in taxes.

He proposes to practice strict economy in all departments; to eliminate some functions now in force; to confirm as bookkeeper the person elected by the people as Clerk; to reduce all salary raises of the last two years to the 1937 level and to show no favoritism in administering the laws.

Mr. Flagg believes that the expenditure of City money beyond the reasonable and legitimate expense of running the City should be submitted to the voters for approval.

During his term of office as Mayor electric rates were reduced 33 1/3 per cent, saving the electric users over $900.00 per month. During the last six years this amounts to almost $70,000.

Mr. Flagg proposes to hold electric rates at their present level or lower them if possible.

He is opposed to any raise in electric rates.

Mira Valley Evangelical Church.

A very beautiful and effective service of the year was held on Thursday evening of Holy week.

The congregation gathered at five minutes to eight o'clock, and were seated close in about the altar, which was beautifully lighted by the mellow glow of candles on three candelabra, one at each end of the altar, and the third in the pulpit space just back of the communion table, which was placed where the pulpit ordinarily stands.

On either side of the communion table stood a pulpit chair. The one on the left was occupied by the pastor. The other was occupied by the invisible Christ, whose fellowship the congregation met to share.

Soft music filled the room while the people gathered.

Apart from an opening sentence, by the pastor, hardly a word was spoken through the entire service, except the impressive words of the Christ and his disciples as given by St. John, who was present during that supper hour in an upper room long ago. The pastor read the thirteenth chapter to the middle of the 31st verse, continuing with the 15th and 16th chapters then returned to Chapter 13:31, beginning in the middle of the verse, and finished the chapter, concluding with the entire 14th chapter.

The communion emblems were then taken in silence. While the congregation and pastor sat with bowed heads, the great high-priestly prayer of our Lord, in Chapter 17 was read. "And when they had sung a hymn;"

"Tis midnight; and on Olive's brow the star is dimmed that lately shone; 'Tis midnight; in the garden now the suffering Saviour prays alone;" the congregation silently withdrew, feeling that we had truly been with our loving Lord.

They said it was like traveling from spring into winter to come back to Ord.

Tub Steinwart Says He Can't Get Away from Ord

Writing this week to J. P. Hoffman, who is his uncle, Manford S. (Tub) Steinwart inclosed several pictures of the army camp where he is located near Salinas, Calif., and remarked that he just could not get away from Ord, as the camp is named Camp Ord, no doubt after General E. O. C. Ord, just as our town was.

He rather likes the idea, as there is something homelike about the name. Tub has been employed now for some time as chauffeur for the colonel. He was formerly with the 7th infantry, but recently was transferred into the service company. They are living in tents at present, and do not know when and if permanent barracks will be built.

Henry Blome, Farmer and Stockman, Seeking Congressional Seat

Henry C. Blome, of Dalton, Nebr., a candidate for the republican nomination for Congress in the 5th district, was an Ord visitor Friday.

He is a farmer, stockman, and business man of 40 years experience; a member and stockholder of the Farmers Union at Omaha, of the Farmers Elevator at Dalton and the Farmers Union Elevator at Gurley; co-operator of the famous Camp Clarke ranch at Bridgeport; owner of the Blome wheat farms at Dalton and Gurley; president of the

Platte Valley Livestock Commission company of Scottsbluff; and is experienced in dry land and irrigation farming through operation of land in Cheyenne county.

1,000 acres of irrigated land near Bridgeport and 960 acres of dry

Apparently Mr. Blome has the background adequately to represent the 5th district in Congress, should he be nominated and elected.

This is his first experience campaigning for public office but he takes to it as a duck takes to water because of his friendliness and genuine interest in everyone whom he meets.

Easter Dinner Guests. Last year several farmers in this locality mulched their potatoes with straw. We made inquiries about the yields from these mulched patches on a half dozen places, where the mulched potatoes grew greater ordinary cultivated plots. All reported increased yields from the straw covered patches. In most cases the increase was small, but in one instance the mulched potatoes produced over twice as many bushels per acre as the cultivated ones.

Some farmers put the straw at planting time, while others apply it between the rows after the potatoes are up. It is no more work than cultivation, if the farmer is lucky enough to have a straw stack. He is quite certain to get more potatoes, unless the year is wet. The potatoes will be better for seed, and will leave more soil moisture for the next crop.

Whatever planting method is used, the crop should go in early. There are several good early varieties, although none is ideal. Warbas are superior yielders, but do not keep well. Early Ohio tend to get knobby. Triumphs are subject to leaf burn. Irish Cobbler may become hollow. Consequently the growers are still searching for a perfect variety of potato.

Potatoes are of two types, waxy and mealy. In general, our early potatoes are of the waxy type most suitable for frying or salads. For boiling, steaming or mashing the mealy type should be used, and this calls for late potatoes.

Judge and Mrs. E. P. Clements will entertain the Ord Contract club at their home Sunday evening.

A dinner attended by eighty-five people climaxed the finish of the adult education school Wednesday night in the high school gymnasium. The tables were decorated in pastel colors with two attractive buntings furnishing the Easter motif. An abundance of home cooked food was served. The home making class under the direction of Miss Leupold made the arrangements for the dinner. The Future Farmers of America set up the tables and had charge of the program which consisted of four numbers by the school band directed by Mr. Struve and colored motion pictures exhibited by Dwight Johnson which displayed scenes at the 1939 show of Nebraska's Big Rodeo and of fishing trip to the Lake of the Woods in Canada. After the program the last sessions of the home making and the beef production classes were held. A group of young people of the Congregational church with vigorous constitutions, wills and iron clear if exacting consciences arose early Easter morning, braved the rigors of the weather and assembled at the river in Cliff Fogel's pasture at 6 o'clock where they observed sunrise services. The folks maintained that they did not get as cold this year as they did last year.

"Usually we go dressed for sunmer and freeze, this time we knew it was cold and dressed accordingly," they explained. A roaring fire also helped keep the frost from penetrating their bones. The members of the group considered their undertaking worthwhile for never again will they have an opportunity to attend Easter services on the 24th of March in a snowstorm.

They are putting the story of this deed carefully away in their memories where they will save it to tell their grandchildren to prove to them the steadfastness and the sturdiness of the folks of their generation. After the service a breakfast was held in the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Johansen spent Sunday with relatives in Loup City.

Amos Grant of Omaha spent Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Burwell and at his ranch northwest of Burwell.

Mrs. Jack Berney, Mrs. Alberta Burhans and son, Mrs. John Sloan and children of Bartlett and Geo. Kiplinger and son Gerald of Ericson attended the funeral services of A. A. Waters in Burwell, Saturday.

Superintendent Arnold Tuning of the Arcadia schools and his sister, Mrs. Henry Engle of Sargent whose husband teaches vocational agriculture, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. George West Thursday evening.

Another good band, that of Scotta, was the next to the last one to appear on the program. After six o'clock, the program having been delayed by the length of time required in getting the different groups arranged on the stage, the Ord band appeared. A crowd which had sat all afternoon on uncomfortable chairs and which was becoming restless came to with alertness when the Ord band under the direction of Mr. Deines burst into action. Forgetting the lateness of the hour and their hunger for supper, all sat entranced by the music. The band played three selections and at 6:30 the afternoon program closed.

Six hundred high school students participated in the festival.

For the first time the affair shows a financial profit, according to Superintendent Scofford. There will be about forty dollars left after the expenses are paid which he said would be prorated back to the various schools which participated.

The senior class which was in charge of the candy sales made a profit of more than thirteen dollars during the day. The Future Farmers of America under the direction of Mr. West provided stage arrangements. When the day was over a group of boys who tried hard to please the exacting demands of the various music directors for stands, chairs, drums, horns, racks, benches and the like, were indeed very tired.

Mrs. Clark Beach returned home Thursday from an extended visit with her three married children, who live in Los Angeles.

1,500 People Attend 10th Annual Music Festival Thursday

Burwell opened the program in the auditorium.

The girls' glee club was the first to perform. Attired in white dresses adorned with purple buttons, they made an attractive appearance on the stage. The boys' glee club came second. Deafening applause followed Burwell's performance, the students and townspeople being pleased and surprised by the quality of the local entertainers.

The girl's glee club from Taylor was third on the program. They wore white smocks and gave an excellent performance. The Comstock girls followed them. They and their director were dressed in white blouses and black skirts making a striking appearance on the stage.

Next the velvet curtains parted revealing the mixed chorus from Ord exceedingly attractive in scarlet tunics with white collars and black ties which emblazed made an effect very pleasing to the eye. The boys were placed in the center of the stage with the altos and sopranos arranged on the sides. Before the crowd were through with the ohing! and the ahing! caused by the attractiveness and the unusualness of the brilliantly arrayed young people before them, the chorus commenced to sing. No accompaniment was used. The group sang full throated and strong in perfect unison and harmony. The crowd sat enthralled until the last melodious note had died away and then all the jealousy felt toward the largest school in the Loup Valley which often dominated the extra curricular activities was forgotten by the audience which gave the Ord boys and girls a deafening ovation.

The North Loup girls' glee club was on next followed by Arcadia who made an exceptionally good showing presenting a mixed chorus, a girls' glee club and a boys' glee club. The Arcadia boys attired in grey waistcoats, red girdles and white trousers were an unusually pleasing sight.

Again the velvet curtains parted this time revealing the Dannebrog mixed chorus all dressed in white with dark blue capes decorated with monograms, which were complimentary to their blond complexions. Their director, a beautiful young lady, was similarly attired. Again the crowd was enthralled by the excellence of the rendition of the music. Even though the Dannebrog chorus was smaller it compared favorably with the one from Ord.

St. Paul's girls' glee club, which was one of the best ones appearing, closed the vocal program.

Arcadia's band was the first to appear, followed by those of Comstock and North Loup. The Dannebrog orchestra was next on the program. They played a symphony number having six violins in the group, which impressed the audience. Loup City followed with a larger, well trained orchestra with many pieces and fine balance which received generous applause from the crowd. The North Loup orchestra was the last one to appear.

A group of young people of the Congregational church with vigorous constitutions, wills and iron clear if exacting consciences arose early Easter morning, braved the rigors of the weather and assembled at the river in Cliff Fogel's pasture at 6 o'clock where they observed sunrise services. LET THE RECORD DECIDE!

This is the season when City Councils and County Boards have the responsibility of passing on yearly applications for beer licenses.

It is the hope of the Nebraska Brewers and Beer Distributors' Committee that local authorities will scrutinize the record of each applicant, and will deny renewals to the few who have abused the privilege of a license.

Careful selection of licensees fosters better law observance, requiring a smaller expenditure for enforcement and allowing larger sums for welfare and school purposes.

Pasture—Forage—Livestock Program Explained With Movies by Geo. Round, Jr., Thursday Eve

George Round, Jr., of the University of Nebraska college of agriculture delivered one of his illustrated lectures on the Nebraska pasture, forage and livestock program at the Masonic hall Thursday evening. The affair was put on under the auspices of the Ord Chamber of Commerce, and fifty farmers and business men were present.

Mr. Round's talk was given on the eight points of the program and was illustrated with colored movies taken at various places over the state where this program is being used with good effect. The eight points stressed in the program are as follows:

1. Maintain proper livestock-forage balance. This calls for enough stock on the place to take care of forage raised, and vice versa, the raising of sufficient roughage to feed the stock without the necessity of buying.

2. Restore drought-injured grass lands. Under this heading were shown grass lands in several parts of the state that were badly wind blown, and how they looked after they were partly grassed over. This work requires several seasons for successful completion.

3. Return unproductive crop land to grass. Under this heading were shown lands in the northern part of the state that were badly wind blown, and how they looked after they were partly grassed over. This work requires several seasons for successful completion.

4. Increase acreage of soil building crops. This of course consists mainly of the raising of legumes of which the quickest to grow is the sweet clover, which grows well on light soils.

5. Produce heavy yields of high quality roughages. The pictures here showed fields of some of the more rank sorgo crops and the heavy yields that could be expected under reasonably fair weather conditions.

6. Utilize forage crops profitably. This when to cut the crop and how to handle it when cut to conserve the feed value. Under this heading the use of silage was stressed.

7. Build up feed reserves. Pictures showed where one farmer had held over his unused forage in stacks for three years, and how it still contained most of its original feed value.

8. Encourage livestock on rented farms. A typical farm was shown and how the owner and tenant worked together to build up the amount of livestock on the place. It also showed how, in this one case, the tenant planted large numbers of trees, and how such planting improved the farm.

At the close of the program a splendid lunch was served by a group from Ben's Grill, under the personal direction of Ben Clark. Syl Furtak assisted Mr. Round by running the projector while he delivered the lecture. All present were highly pleased with the program.

Mrs. Cram's Prized Collection of Dolls on Display in Library

Five years ago Mrs. A. I. Cram was called upon to give a lesson on dolls for P. E. O. meeting and she gathered together a collection to illustrate her talk and when she was through with them she decided that the ones she had acquired were a nice beginning for a doll collection so she kept them and added more. The oldest doll in her collection, which now numbers 32, is a wax one which has been in the Cram family for sixty-five years. Her husband had no sisters, and the doll was unloved and neglected by a family of boys, so after Mrs. Cram's marriage into the family the doll was given to her. She never allowed her girls to play roughly with the doll, deciding that after her mother-in-law had kept the doll so many years that she was not going to allow it to be destroyed.

Another old doll in the collection is a Scotch one which is fifty-five years old. It was the prized possession of Miss Meta Draver and her sister. Miss Draver is also interested in dolls declaring she is as much interested in them now as she was in her girlhood days.

The latest addition to the collection was an Indian doll which was sent to Mrs. Ilgenfritz about the first of the year by an Indian family whom she befriended at the rodeo last year. The entire collection is now housed in a glass case in the library. Mrs. Ilgenfritz says that following the publication in the Ord Quiz of the story about the Indian doll that many people called at the library to see it. The collection never fails to interest the children who visit the library.

Many people now give Mrs. Cram dolls. She has many of different nationalities. Her daughter, Bess, Mrs. Frank Beleser, always sends or brings Mrs. Cram a doll when she goes on a trip. She says that most daughters receive dolls from their mothers but that she reverses the usual order and gives her mother dolls.

The first attempt to produce certified seed potatoes in the North Loup valley will be made this spring. Ralph Douglas, extension agent, has received six hundred pounds of certified Irish cobber seed potatoes from the Nebraska Certified Potato Growers. He will distribute this seed among several farmers. Mr. Douglas explains that in order to grow certified seed the pieces cut from one potato must be planted together and space left between the seed pieces from each potato. This is done so that if any disease is found all of the infected stock can be discarded. Planting potatoes in this method is simplified by not completely cutting pieces apart. When they are planted it is then an easy matter to tear the pieces containing the eyes apart. Mr. Douglas said that in order to produce certified seed that the fields must also be inspected at regular intervals throughout the growing season.
