THE ORD QUIZ, ORD NEBRASKA WEDNESDAY, JUNE 5, 1940

Vol. 58 No. 10

Ord's Decoration Day Rites Were Largely Attended

Perfect Weather Made Observance Pleasant; Mr. Lowe's Talk Splendid.

Decoration Day services at the Ord cemetery Thursday morning were very largely attended, many coming from a distance to swell the numbers of the local people.

As usual the procession formed at the G. A. R. lot opposite the south gate of the cemetery, and from there marched through the cemetery then east and south to the Legion plot where the ceremonies are held.

In the line of march were the colors and color guard, the Ladies of the G. A. R., the American Legion, the Legion Auxiliary, Camp Fire girls, and various other groups.

The Ladies of the G. A. R. then put on their ritualistic work and the band played another selection. Another feature which was very pleasing to the audience was the singing by the high school boys' octet.

The topic of Mr. Lowe's address was patriotism, which he defined as love of country. This he divided into three sections, the first a love of the land, which is inherent in all animal life as well as among men.

He named selfishness as the foe of patriotism, and showed how no man interested only in himself could be patriotic. He cited his heavers to the Golden Rule as a true guide to the highest patriotism, and said that faith in God and man is essential to patriotism.

Most of those present were agreed that Rev. Lowe's talk was one of the best ever heard on a Decoration Day program in Ord. Much of the success of the program is due to the use of A. O. Auserer's public address system, which worked perfectly and carried the words of the speaker to all parts of the grounds.

At the close of the speech the firing squad from the American Legion, commanded by Emil Fafetta, fired the salute to the dead. The band then played "Taps," concluding with the echo played by trumpeters located some distance to the south.

Oil Mat Near Elba

The first coat of oil mat has been started just south of Elba to ward Midway, according to R. P. Randolph, highway supervisor. He advises all persons driving in that neighborhood to avoid driving over the road until the work is entirely completed, because now the oil will splash up and stick to the under side of running boards and fenders. This will not occur after the road is completed.

At the home of Nels Bossen near Grand Island Sunday afternoon, Miss Maxine Virginia Bossen became the bride of W. Lyle Whiting, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Whiting of Grand Island. The bride was reared in Arcadia, graduated from the Ord schools in 1935, and has since taught in rural schools. Mr. Whiting is superintendent of the schools at Alda, Neb.

Ord's Population April 1 Was 2,232, Gain of Only Six

Unofficial Figure Released by Brega Tuesday; Subject to Later Correction.

In a letter received by the Quiz yesterday, R. E. Brega of Kearney gives out the information that the unofficial population of Ord as of April 1, 1940, was 2,232, as compared with 2,226 for April 1, 1939, showing a gain of 6 in the ten year period. The figures are subject to correction, but are probably correct.

Mr. Brega did not release figures for Burwell, North Loup, Arcadia or Elyria in his letter to the Quiz. According to census figures given out the past week, all of which are subject to possible correction, there have been some interesting changes in the population of a number of cities in Nebraska in the past decade.

Two western towns, McCook and Alliance showed a decided loss, but maintained the same relationship in the list. In 1930 McCook had 6,683 and Alliance 6,669, a difference of 14. In 1940 McCook had 6,187 and Alliance 6,170, a difference of 17.

Cities in Ord's class are; O'Neill, 2,499; Wymore, 2,443; Central City, 2,437; Aurora, 2,406; Albion, 2,272; and David City, 2,265. These figures are for 1940.

The results in 23 counties have been given out, and show just what was expected, that nearly all of them lost in population. Twenty-four of them showed a loss. The greatest losses were in Boone, 7,733; Knox, 2,637; and Saunders, 2,284. The four showing a gain were Hooker, Keya Paha, Lancaster and Nemaha, the total gain of the four being 638.

On the basis of complete figures the population of the state as a whole seems to have dropped about 6%, but in any case is about one per cent of the total population of the United States. It is estimated that 40% of Nebraskans now live in the 47 cities having a population of 2,000 or more.

Monday Chairman Hansen, Mr. Kruml and Mark Gyger, WPA director, were business visitors to Lincoln.

Rev. M. A. Lawler Will Be Honored Wednes., June 12

25th Anniversary of Priesthood to be Celebrated; Jubilee Dinner to be Served.

Members of Our Lady of Perpetual Succor Catholic church in Ord are busy completing plans for a silver jubilee celebration, honoring the pastor of the church, the Rev. Martin A. Lawler, who will this week complete 25 years of service in the priesthood.

On Wednesday, June 12, the Most Rev. Stanislaus V. Bona, Bishop of Grand Island will preside at the jubilee mass, and the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Bernard Calvin will be present in the sanctuary.

Officers of the Mass will be Father Lawler, celebrant; the Rev. T. D. Sullivan, assistant priest; the Rev. Anton Link, deacon; the Rev. Robert P. Barry, sub-deacon and the Rev. Constantine Szumski of Elyria, master of ceremonies. The Rev. Henry Muenstermann and the Rev. Michael Feeney will be chaplains to the Bishop. The Rev. Patrick McDavid will give the jubilee sermon.

The Rev. Lawler was born Sept. 3, 1855 in Wilmington, Del. He received his early education in the public schools and then attended St. Ann's parochial school. Later he attended St. Joseph's college in Philadelphia, Pa., for two years, and spent four years at St. Charles' preparatory seminary at Elliot, Md. He was graduated in 1903 and took philosophy and two years of theology at St. Mary's seminary, Baltimore, completing his last two years of theology at St. Bonaventure's seminary at Allegany, N. Y. He was ordained by Bishop Grimes of Syracuse, N. Y., June 10, 1915.

An unusual record of saying Mass immediately following his ordination is held by Father Lawler. He said Mass in Allegheny on Wednesday, Thursday at Chicago, Friday at Omaha, and Saturday at Sidney, also attending the missions of Dalton, Chappell and Mitchell. In 1918 he was sent to the Sacred Heart church at Burwell. He was transferred to Ord on June 20, 1921.

Father Lawler has been active in the organizing and the development of the Ord council of Knights of Columbus, in the work of the Ord Community club, and in many public affairs.

A jubilee dinner will be given by the Catholic Ladies club in the basement of the Catholic church. Everyone is invited to attend.

Red Cross Drive Nets $365 Total

"Public Response Is Very Gratifying," Says H. T. Frazier, Chairman.

The special campaign for Red Cross funds which was put on last week under the leadership of H. T. Frazier is over, and the volunteer workers have a right to feel proud of the results. The quota for Valley county was set at $340, and when the campaign closed $365 had been raised.

No set amount was asked from any one, and no urging was resorted to, but the public, realizing the need of funds at this time, gave freely and cheerfully. The workers found their task a pleasant one, as every one approached was glad to assist in the worthy cause. A complete list of donors will appear next week.

Bakery to Install New Type Ice Cream Maker

A counter ice cream freezer, with which ice cream is mixed and frozen right at the fountain, will be installed this week by Porrest Johnson at the Ord City Bakery. This is a new type of machine that has proved very popular in the cities.

Two and one-half gallons of ice cream can be frozen in eight minutes with the equipment. Storage space for 60 gallons of ice cream is provided, which with his present refrigerator cabinet will give Mr. Johnson 100 gallons of storage space.

He plans to make and have on hand at least a dozen flavors of ice cream and sherbet at all times and will solicit special orders. When the equipment is installed people are invited to drop in at the bakery and see how it operates.

First Game Played on Ord's Athletic Field

The Ord American Legion Junior baseball team played their first game of the season at the new athletic park Sunday afternoon, their opponents being the North Loup town team. It was also the first game played on the new field. Due to the lack of a backstop as much as anything, the Legion boys finally lost out by a score of 21 to 18.

Ernie Piskorski began for Ord and did very nicely on the mound for 2-3 innings. Bill Novasod pitched 2 1-3 innings, and Harold Christensen tossed them over for the final 2 innings. Ernie fanned eight and allowed eight hits, Bill fanned 3 and allowed 3 hits, and Harold fanned 4 and allowed 4 hits.

Shelton started for North Loup, fanned 2 and allowed 11 hits in 4 innings. Honeycutt finished the game on the mound, striking out 11 men and allowing 5 hits. Christensen, R. Furtak and Piskorski each landed on the ball for home runs. Honeycutt circled the bases on an easy out, which a fielder misjudged, but which went for an error.

R. Rathbun caught for Ord until the sixth inning, when a backswing of a bat damaged his hand and he retired in favor of Dean Misko. The high point of the game came in the ninth inning, when North Loup failed to score on four successive hits, Rathbun transferred to third, cutting off two runners in succession at that base.

R. E. Teague, manager, and V. W. Russell, who looks after the team for the American Legion, have a right to be proud of the showing the boys made against an older and more experienced team. Everett Honeycutt, after the game, commented on the fine material in the Ord squad, and believes that the boys will be a splendid team with a little more experience.

There is also a possibility that North Loup will have a Legion Junior team this year. If they do, this would furnish games for Ord closer home and which should be of more interest to Ord fans. The Juniors will play another game Sunday afternoon with the Ord town team, and the public is cordially invited to get out and see what they can do. The personnel of the Ord squad is not yet determined, but will be available next week.

Farmers Checking AAA Performance

Checking of performance on farms of 1400 Valley county farmers who are participating in the 1940 AAA farm program has started this week. It was announced by Charles E. Veieba, chairman of the county AAA committee. This work will be done by farm reporters, all of whom are farmers. They will inspect the farms in their own communities. The work will be supervised by members of the county committee.

Men who will work as farm reporters include: U. G. Evans, Burt Sell, Thurman Bridges—Arcadia Precinct; John Skala, Ed Burrows—Davis Creek; Wm. Dodge, Ben Augustyn—Elyria; Geo. Clement, Lesha Leonard—Enterprise; Albert Kamard, Ed Hulsinsky, James Ruzicka—Eureka; Louis Wolf, Anton Novotny—Geranium; Alex Brown, Lee Mulligan, Wm. Earnest—Independent; Anton Radl, David Nordstrom, Glenn Dockhorn—Liberty; Victor Cook, Steve Papernik—Michigan; Louis Blaha, Leonard Woods—Noble; Ed Lee, Archie Waterman—North Loup; Cash Rathbun, John Ulrich, George Nay—Ord; Marion Strong, Mel Rathbun and Elmer Vergin—Springdale; Emil Kokes, Laverne Johnson—Vinton; Earl Drake, Carol Lutz, Knight Dorsey—Yale.

Farm reporters will determine crops planted on the farm of each producer who this spring signed a farm plan indicating his intention of participating in the 1940 AAA program. Fields in which various crops are planted will be measured on aerial photographs in the county office to determine conservation and parity payments earned by each participating farmer. The actual work of checking field acreages is done only when the farmer or his representative is present. Usually the farmer assists the farm reporter with the work.

L. J. Auble Fined For Assault and Battery

Monday complaints were filed by County Attorney John P. Misko at the instance of Charles Schuling, of Burwell, charging L. J. Auble and Edwin Auble with assault and battery. They appeared before Judge John L. Andersen Tuesday morning. L. J. Auble entered a plea of guilty as charged, and the case against Edwin Auble was dismissed. The judge assessed a fine of $10 and costs, which was paid.

The court action grew out of an altercation which occurred when Mr. Schuling, Frigidaire dealer from Burwell, went into the Auble shop on a business mission. An argument developed over the sale by Schuling of a refrigerator in Ord. Schuling, only recently out of the hospital, claimed he was struck by Auble and forcibly ejected from the premises.

Ord Went Back on Highline June 1st

At midnight Friday, May 31, Ord resumed buying electricity from the North Loup district, under terms of a 2 1-2 year contract signed recently by the city council.

This morning Mayor M. B. Cummins visited the Quiz office to re-emphasize that an appeal to Ord people for cooperation in living up to terms of the contract be printed. "The R. F. C. has agreed," said the mayor, "that buying power under this contract for 2 1-2 years will release the city of Ord from all legal and moral obligations to the district. When the contract expires, Ord will have a perfect right to resume operation of its own plant if it desires, and if North Loup district wants to sell power to us it will do so on a business basis entirely."

Inconveniences such as temporary outages should be overlooked by Ord people, said the mayor, and every effort made to cooperate with the North Loup district.

Spring Drouth Is Broken Monday Eve By .92 Inch Rain

Other Communities Received More, and More Falling Today; Hugo Gets Credit.

Is the drouth definitely broken, and are rains of this week fore-runners of more to come? A lot of people here, farmers and business men alike, would like to know.

After the driest May in history, .22 of an inch of moisture, which was definitely less than during the drouth year of 1934, rains started in the Loup valley region on June 2 and are continuing.

The Saturday night rain missed Ord but Burwell had .57 of an inch North Loup .71 on an inch and many other communities fully as much. Two inches fell that night on the sand flats and to a point within six miles northeast of Ord.

Monday night came the rain that is being generally heralded as the "drouth breaker." Ord had .92 of an inch, Burwell 1.53 inches, North Loup .62, Arcadia .33, and amounts ranging up to two inches in some rural districts. The rain appeared to be general throughout the North and Middle Loup regions.

This morning it rained hard again, about 1-4th-inch falling in Ord, and the forecast indicates that rainy conditions will continue for a few days at least.

Harry Hugo, who arrived in Ord Monday with his show, is receiving credit from some as being the "rain-maker." Usually when the Hugo Players come to town it rains and this year was no exception. Hardly had the tent been set up and the opening performances started when rain began falling. Tuesday morning Mr. Hugo told the Quiz: "Tell people for me that last night's rain is just the beginning; I have ordered more rain for later in the week." His prediction was borne out by the rain this morning.

A little damage to county roads, particularly on Haskell Creek, is reported by Tracy Hamilton. State highways remained in good condition. There was little damage to ditches of the North Loup irrigation district and none to the dams, according to Watermaster L. E. Walford, although the water was about as high at Hardenbrook Dam as it was last summer when the Burwell dam went out.

Council Asked to Provide Swimming Pool by 30 Youths

Lease Old Ice Pond, Put in Pool Equipment, Suggested As a Possibility.

A request that the Ord city council immediately take steps to provide young people of Ord with a swimming pool was made Monday evening by a group of about thirty youths, both boys and girls, who appeared before the council. Capron Coe was spokesman for the delegation.

It was suggested that the city of Ord lease or buy the old Pat-chen ice pond, pump out the moss, provide drainage facilities and install pool equipment, which the delegation thought would provide a swimming place adequate for the present season.

Cost of such procedure need not be excessive, this being variously estimated at from $150 to $500. While the matter was being discussed another suggestion was made to the effect that the city go ahead and install a lake at Burwell park, utilizing water from the irrigation canal as was contemplated when the canal was installed and water rights secured.

Mayor Cummins appointed a committee composed of Dr. J. W. McGinnis, George Allen and Mark Gyger to investigate all swimming pool possibilities and report on probable cost. A special meeting will be called to hear the committee's report if interest warrants.

Ask Federal Aid Because of Drouth

Because Valley and other Nebraska counties are again facing drouth conditions, the Valley county board of supervisors Tuesday passed a resolution calling upon Governor Roy L. Cochran to make an immediate study of the situation and request federal aid for direct relief to provide for immediate needs of the people.

Only $,000 of Valley county's 368,648 acres are under irrigation, the resolution points out; this is the 7th consecutive drouth year; WPA has been unable to assign all needy persons and Valley county has exhausted its 1939 levy for indigent relief and its 1940 levy to legal limitations of budget laws.

Copies of the resolution were sent to all Nebraska congressmen and senators and to Dwight Felton, WPA administrator for the state.

Two District Court Cases Are Laid Over

In district court last week three civil cases were to be heard, but only one of them, that of the First Trust Company vs. Fred Dowhower, was tried. The defendant in this case had filed a demurrer on the payment of a note, but the court found for the plaintiff and entered judgment.

The case of the Department of Roads and Irrigation vs. Mrs. Emma Long, in which Mrs. Long is asking more damages from the new route of Highway No. 11 than was allowed, was continued until the next term of court.

The case of Hubbard vs. Prochaska, wherein George Hubbard is asking damages for injuries received in an auto accident in which the defendant was involved, was continued for the reason that one of the attorneys for the defense, Guy Touvelle of Lincoln, was killed in a recent auto accident. Acting with Touvelle were Davis and Vogeltanz of Ord, and the plaintiff's attorneys are Munn & Norman of Ord and Harold Prince of Grand Island.

Flagg Goes to New York For Summer Vacation

Lyle Flagg, one of this year's Ord high graduates, leaves for Lincoln Sunday, where he will join his aunt, Mrs. C. G. Noyce, the former Marjorie Hostetter, and drive back to New York for the summer. Mrs. Noyce's home is in White Plains, N. Y. Her husband is a graduate of Doane college in Crete, is vocational guidance director in the White Plains high school.

From July 1 to Sept. 10, Lyle will serve as junior counselor at Camp Greenkill on Lake Marling. This camp is 75 miles from New York City, in the mountains of Orange county. There is a staff of 60 and usually 150 campers, boys from 12-16. Mr. Noyce is the director of Camp Talcott on Seashore Lake, a mile away. This camp is for boys from 8-11. The two camps are called Huguenot Camps and are owned and operated by the Y. M. C. A. of New York City.

BURWELL

The fifth baby boy to start life within less than a week in Dr. Cram's hospital was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Benton Wednesday. This baby, which weighed nine pounds was the largest one of the six babies born last week in Dr. Cram's hospital.

Mrs. Karl Graber submitted to an emergency major operation in Dr. Cram's hospital Friday. For a time her condition was critical but she is now much improved.

Paul Runyan, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Runyan, was accidentally shot in the foot by a .22 pistol Monday while he and some of his friends were enjoying an outing at the river. He was brought to Dr. Cram's hospital for attention.

Pat Breneman, Burwell's popular police officer, has decided not to play ball on Sunday and if he does he will be more careful not to exceed the speed limits. Sunday evening while in the act of making a home run he ran into a barbed wire fence and scratched himself up considerably. He was taken to Dr. Cram for medical attention and Monday he was back on the job of preserving law and order.

Dr. Cram has lost eight of his valuable Labrador retrievers since April 21. Six puppies and one grown dog have died of distemper while he lost his best dog from a heart ailment while she was in training over at Cedar Rapids. Dr. Cram believes that his dogs caught distemper at shows where they have been exhibited. He now has only three dogs left and one of them is sick.

Miss Dorothy Pauln entertained four friends from Hastings Memorial Day. She spent the week end in Hastings. Mrs. Howard Olson of Salina, Kans., came back to Burwell with her, being the guest of Miss Pauln until Tuesday.

A commissioner of the Surplus Commodity Corporation was in Burwell Monday to make arrangements for serving hot lunches to the school children next fall.

A new grocery store, which will be operated by Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Duncan, will open in Burwell next week. Mr. and Mrs. George Zimmerman and Frank Plakus, are hard at work getting the Britt building ready for occupancy.

Plans for conducting a successful campaign for the Republicans in Garfield county in the forthcoming election were made Monday evening when Kenneth Wherry of Pawnee City, the state chairman, Mrs. Ella E. Wagener of Lincoln, the state vice-chairman, Joe Wishart of Lincoln, a member of the finance committee and Richard Larsen of Lincoln, republican candidate for the Railway commission came to town. A dinner was held in the Burwell hotel which was attended by those officials and Mrs. Edwin Meyers and Kenneth Meyers and Mrs. Haumont of Broken Bow and Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Rose, O. W. Johnson, Clyde Ilgenfritz, and J. L. Pearl. After the dinner the group went to the B. A. Rose home where the evening was spent making campaign plans and discussing the problems confronting the Republican party and the nation. Mr. and Mrs. J. Moray when of Ord joined the group when they met in the Rose home.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Wagner and family drove to Grand Island Monday where they were guests of Mrs. Rose Webster. Richard Jr., who had spent a week visiting his grandmother returned home with them.

Burwell and the vicinity are well soaked up by the 1.43 inches of rain which fell Monday night and by another .56 of an inch of rain which fell in Burwell Saturday evening. The rain Saturday evening extended about two miles east of town, one mile south and two miles west. Taylor received a good rain Saturday night even though it rained none between Burwell and Taylor. North of Burwell the rain developed into a cloud burst and a flood. Over three inches and some hail fell on the Oscar Pearson farm six miles northeast of Burwell, which washed out the newly planted corn and pounded the small grain into the ground.

The farmers in this vicinity are replanting their corn and many of them are listing their small grain fields into corn and sorghum. Fortunately little of this work was done before the rain Monday night. A tornado Saturday evening tore the roof off the barn on the Jay Conner farm ten miles northeast of Burwell, uprooted trees on the Elmer Miller place nearby and wrecked a cattle shed, blew down a windmill and shoved a granary off its foundation on the George Davis farm further east and south.

In the Ballagh neighborhood in the northern part of Garfield county the lightning started four prairie fires. One on the Brandenburg ranch burned over a hundred acres before it was extinguished.

Everyone who ever attended or taught in the Burwell high school is urged to attend the alumni picnic which will be held in the high school gymnasium Thursday, June 6 at 7 o'clock. Ticket sales are in charge of Miss Vivian Clark and may be purchased at Rose's office.

Mrs. Russell Anderson and family, Mrs. LeRoy Anderson and daughters and Mrs. L. E. Walford and daughter of Ord drove to Loup City Wednesday where they enjoyed an outing in Jenner's park. Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Wagner and family drove to Kearney Sunday where their daughter, Naomi, enrolled for the summer session at the State Teacher's college. They were dinner guests of relatives at Mason City.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Reeves, Paul Reeves and Mrs. A. S. Reeves, who live in Kansas, the sons and second wife of Rev. A. S. Reeves for many years was pastor of the Christian church, were Memorial Day dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Kern.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD

Joe Elsik of 4 miles west of Ord on the Sargent road brought to the Quiz office Saturday morning a strange looking bird which he said they found "between their chickens" just before starting for town. It was a coot or mudhen, and having once landed in the yard it could not fly, as they are the hydroplanes of the bird family and can only rise into the air by beating their wings on the water.

The Quiz made some kind of a record last week when we went to press at 2 p. m. with the story of the not guilty verdict in the Dr. Nay case on the front page. That news was only about twenty minutes old when the press started. There was no time to check the record, and for that reason the name of the foreman was given as John Mottl, when it should have been Louis Wolf. The verdict was unanimous on the first ballot.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda
This community is experiencing one of the severest cut worm epidemics in many years. Northeast of town, a 35 acre field of irrigated hybrid will have to be replanted. Garden plants, especially tomatoes, are being cut off repeatedly. There are some losses on almost every farm.
The unfortunate owners of cut worm infested corn may do one of three things. They can poison the worms before replanting. They may poison them after replanting. Or they can simply replant and take a chance that the worms will mature and stop feeding before the second crop is up. Flooding does not kill many.

Since the cutworms are in the ground both before and after replanting, it is best to kill off as many as possible with poison bait before replanting.
Cutworms are easier to poison than grasshoppers, but the bait should be put out in the evening and should contain molasses. Ordinary grasshopper bait is not so good for use against cutworms. Here is a good formula for the latter:
Wheat Bran 100 pounds
White Arsenic 5 pounds
Blackstrap Molasses 2 quarts
Water 1 gallon
We have over 20 kinds of cutworms and armyworms in this state. Most of them raise only one generation a year, but some continue eating until the middle of July.

July. Cutworms are night feeders and hide in the ground during the day. After taking all the corn plants in one row they will quickly travel over the hister ridges into adjacent corn.
Early seed corn would be best where replanting is necessary. It is only about 115 days from now until frost, and perhaps fewer than that before autumn drouth sets in.
The Valley Midgets 4-H Club held their meeting Friday evening at the Valleyville schoolhouse. Nine members were present. After the business meeting, the group discussed various subjects concerning calves. The next meeting will be held at the George Clement home on Thursday, June 13.

MEDICAL FACTS

Diabetes is a disease which cannot be cured but can be controlled. With proper care, one who has diabetes can live an essentially normal life. His ability to live, work, and enjoy life depends on keeping the disease constantly under control. This disease, in turn, depends largely on the diabetic's personal knowledge of his own disease. He must learn to know almost as much about his own case of diabetes and its proper treatment, as the doctor does. The most difficult years for a young diabetic are those of the "teen" age. It is then that he first realizes that he must face life with a certain handicap. It is during these years that he is most in need of help. It has been found helpful to this group of diabetics to gather them in some place where they may learn about their disease and its treatment, such as if they were going to school. A summer camp where this schooling can be given along with a good deal of fun has been almost ideal for this kind of teaching. Largely through the kindness and interest of Mr. L. L. Coryell, Sr. of Lincoln, Nebraska is to have such a summer camp for diabetic children. This camp will be located at the Coryell Park near Auburn. This park is one of Nebraska's beauty spots where there are plenty of trees, green lawns, playground equipment, picnic spots and all the other things which delight the young folks. Those attending the camp will be housed in two cottages which have all modern conveniences. The medical profession of the state of Nebraska is lending its full support to the establishment of this camp. It will be operated without financial profit to anyone. The 1940 session will open June 9 and will continue for two weeks. During this year, only girls between the ages of nine and sixteen will be accepted. The operation of the camp in future years will depend upon the demand there may be for this recreational type of schooling in the care of this disease. Practically all of the two hundred or more diabetic children in Nebraska could be benefited by spending a few weeks each summer at this camp. The cost will be eight dollars ($8.00) per week, which will include all the necessities excepting clothing and bedding. A graduate physician will be in attendance at the camp constantly and will serve as a teacher as well as medical supervisor. A graduate dietitian will have charge of diets and will instruct the campers in diet management. There will also be a camp counselor who will have charge of the usual camp activities. While there are such camps which have been in operation for a number of years, in other parts of the United States, there have been none in the middle west. Those of you who are interested in learning more about this camp can obtain this information from your home doctor or by writing to Miss Della Caster, 2010 South 24th Street, Lincoln, Nebraska.

Elyria Baptist Church Sold to Burwell People The old abandoned Baptist church in Elyria, which for years has been only a roosting place for pigeons and sparrows, has been purchased by St. John's Lutheran congregation in Burwell and will soon be razed and re-erected in Burwell. The Lutherans have bought the lots north of the Bristow property and excavation for the new edifice will start within a short time. The church building was sold to the Lutherans for $150. They have borrowed $500 from the Lutheran Board of Home Missions, which with the donations from their 97 communicants, will be sufficient to finance the project. Most of the work will be done by men of the church. The building will have a full basement and will be succeeded. The congregation, which belongs to the Missouri Synod, can borrow money for 1 1/2 interest from the Lutheran Board of Home Missions. St. John's church in Burwell was organized in the Methodist church by Reverend Feuhlau June 28, 1932. It has experienced a strong and steady growth since its organization. Reverend Feuhlau was pastor for nine months and was succeeded by Rev. Edgar H. Brohm, who has been in charge of the church five years. Until a year ago he lived in Burwell serving a charge in Scotia as well as St. John's church. He moved to Scotia because that congregation owned a parsonage which he could occupy and save paying rent. Rev. William F. C. Brohm of Ord first conducted Lutheran services in Burwell holding them in homes, in the court house and later in the Odd Fellows hall. For eight years services have been held in the Methodist church.

Brewing Industry Enters Third Year of Self-Regulation in Nebraska

Two years ago the Self-Regulatory program of the Nebraska Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee was launched as an experiment entirely new in the history of American industry.

Today, as the Committee begins its third year of activity, the experiment has been proved a vital force in maintaining beer's position on a sound social basis. Under the guidance of Charles E. Sandall, the program in Nebraska became so practically effective as to cause the same Self-Regulation program to be installed in 12 other states under the sponsorship of the United Brewers Industrial Foundation.

At this time the Committee and Mr. Sandall renew the pledge made two years ago to assist the efficient Nebraska Liquor Control Commission and local law enforcement officials in eliminating the small minority of law-violating retail beer dealers.

LIFE'S CONTRADICTIONS

Life is just one thing after another, and many of those things are contradictory. We think we are knowing, but no man living can keep track of the thousands of new inventions and ideas that are being developed all the time. Because of the fact that different men develop them, many of these inventions work at cross purposes.

Here in America the bulk of our inventive genius is directed toward the paths of peace, and some of the strides made in that direction are almost beyond belief. There are the radio, the airplane, the streamlined trains, television, wire and radio photos, synthetic foods for man and beast and even plants, miraculous chemical cures for disease.

But while one group here and abroad is working to preserve life and to increase the fund of human happiness, another equally zealous group is working just as hard to destroy life and happiness. In America our airplanes are traveling in the paths of peace, while abroad they are winged messengers of death and destruction.

Here we use explosives to blast highways through the mountains, there they use explosives to ruin the work of human beings through the centuries, and to blast the great man power of Europe into eternity. Our caterpillar tractors are used for the building of roads and dams for the benefit of humanity. Theirs are made into war machines for the detriment of even the people who construct them.

Worst of all is the fact that people who have no intention of going to war at all are compelled to prepare for war in order that they will not be overrun by the invader. Today our government contemplates the expenditure of five billion dollars for armaments, which amounts to about $40 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

For generations Germany was considered the ultimate in culture, and scholars from every enlightened nation in the world went there for the final touch in the arts and sciences. Today from that country is emanating the most destructive machine ever devised by the hands of man, a machine which threatens to set the entire world back a generation or more.

Here in America engineers are working continually to develop devices that will make automobiles more safe to drive, and another set of men are working just as hard to make a car that will travel faster than the machines we now have. The result is that, instead of materially decreasing the death rate, it is constantly increasing.

A man in Ord may mail two letters at 3 p. m., one to a man in Arcadia or Ericson, the other by air mail to a man in California or New York, and the last letter will reach its destination 1,500 miles away sooner than the one going to a place only 25 miles away. In spite of all the developments in transportation he could walk to either town and deliver the letter quicker than it would be delivered through the regular channels.

You tune in on a National broadcast and pick up a program coming from a point 1,500 miles away. At the same time a crowd is listening to the program in the hall, not more than a hundred feet from the speaker. Yet you hear the program a fraction of a second sooner in Ord than do the people standing in the back of the hall, in sight of the people who are producing the program.

Some day man will devise an airplane capable of traveling more than 1,000 miles per hour for a sustained flight of 24 hours. Then he can start at noon and fly west, fly completely around the world in 24 hours and the sun will be directly above him all the time. If he wanted to do so he could hop into another plane and keep the sun directly above him for another 24 hours. If his constitution could stand it, he could keep the sun from setting for the rest of his life.

The inconsistencies of human nature are responsible for the contradictions of life. In spite of the known 6,000 years in which mankind has been growing out of a condition of savagery, a man's mind will again revert to savage conditions when the time and opportunity arrive and he will seek only to destroy and kill. It takes time for a man to climb a tall ladder, but he can fall from top to bottom in an instant.

By H. D. Leggett

May 28, 1940.

Dear Quiz:

The Minneapolis weather man said this morning that the temperature was 53 and I think it is at least that cool here on the lake. It is cloudy and rainy, though yesterday was a delightful day here.

Saturday morning we loaded up, the Missus, Shirley and I and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Luther and started for the North Shore country on a trout fishing expedition. It was a beautiful morning but before we reached Deluth it was raining on us and we drove in the rain until we reached Devil Track river 4 miles above Grand Marais. There we rented a nice cabin on a point between the mouth of the river and Lake Superior. We had a large, well equipped cottage and were not long in getting a good one going, as it was plenty cool. It continued to rain most of the night and the wind was blowing hard. The waves rolled up onto the rocks and we slept to the tune of the breakers. The cottage we were in was only about 25 feet from the water's edge and as the wind was on shore the spray flew over the house constantly. With that roar on one side and with the river rushing past on the other side of the house about the same distance away, we wondered sometimes if we were real safe there. But as the house had stood many such storms we didn't worry.

But we soon decided that we had attempted this fishing trip a couple of weeks too early. The streams were so high and swift that fishing was difficult. Then to add to the difficulties I developed one of my spells of lumbago and you can imagine I was far from happy. I did manage to fish a little along the stream back a half mile or so but no one was getting trout and I soon had to give it up. Ray Luther is an enthusiastic trout fisherman and a glutton for punishment and he kept right on fishing but with no luck. Monday morning the 27th, he got up at 4 and drove inland to a well known trout stream thinking the luck might be better there but he never got as much as a strike and when he returned about 9 a. m., we decided to pack up and come home. It had warmed up and we had a delightful trip home, arriving about 7 p. m. It is 250 miles to Grand Marais.

No, we didn't go without fish to eat but we caught them with a silver hook, from the commercial fisherman who sets his nets and lines far out in the lake. He also admitted that the fishing was poor and he only had a couple of 5 lb. trout on hand. I got one of them and bought some smoked trout also. He told us Saturday that he would "run the line" Sunday morning and would have plenty of fish again. But Sunday morning the storm was so bad that he couldn't go out and when we left about 10 a. m. Monday he was out on the lake and we had to leave without a fish to bring home.

Inquiry in Nisswa as we came through last night indicated that the walleyes have not started to strike here much, but a few days like yesterday would soon start them. Last evening the surface of the lake, smooth like glass, was a mass of fish rising and I am sure crappies could have been taken had the season been open. But it is cold this morning and that means more delay so far as the pike fishing is concerned. My boat is ready now however, and as soon as this old broken back of mine will allow, I will be out trying them. If it runs true to form it will be several days before I can get into and out of a boat with any degree of comfort. I have hard work this morning, to get into and out of a rocking chair.

We saw something Sunday evening that most Quiz readers never saw and never will. I was standing outside the cottage on the point where we had been for a couple of days, looking down the shore of Lake Superior. I heard the fierce barking of what sounded like a savage dog and a moment later I saw a large buck deer run out of the woods a few rods down the lake shore and out into the water and distant swimming. The large police dog that had been chasing the deer stopped at the water's edge, looked at the swimming deer for a moment, then turned and went back into the timber. The deer kept swimming, circling the mouth of the river and the scattered cottages, evidently intending to come ashore further up the lake. Some autoists saw it however and stopped on the highway about where the deer was headed in and getting out of their car, went down to the water's edge. Their thought no doubt was to get a better view but it's so freightened the already scared deer that it turned and again headed out into the lake and kept going until it became chilled and exhausted and as Ray Luther watched it with the field glasses, it sank out of sight. The natives told us that this often happened. Deer would be chased into the lake and stay in the water too long and finally drowned.

I can well realize the reason radio people are always begging the listeners to drop a card of appreciation (or otherwise) for the programs. That is the way they judge the worth and consequently demand their pay and hold their jobs. It is the same with me. I get to feeling no one reads this strip and then I hear of a response from California, or Greeley, Neb., or from someone I do not know. Of course I hear when someone is mad, and even that brings home the point that my stuff is read, which, of course is the test.

Not long ago a man in N. L. came to me and said, "That piece last week was the best you ever wrote." "Thanks," I replied. "But hurry and tell the editor, before I am fired."

And so week before last when I wrote the saub on the war I did so with trepidation. I knew the war was the paramount thought with almost everyone, but still it is a local paper, trying to deal more in local items than world affairs. However I felt quite qualified in writing about it. In the first place, I frequently visit with I. J. Thelin and he is the best posted man on that subject of anyone I know. You see I said man. I believe my wife is even better posted on European questions than he is, although these two people read different magazines and consequently have slightly different viewpoints.

From none of my columns have I received as many comments as from that war one. I think this was because everyone is so concerned. Everyone, if they are not talking of the war, soon bring the conversation to that subject and everyone is sub-consciously worried. Practically everyone is hopeful that the Allies will, by some miracle, win, but they also fear the worst.

Of course, in a lighter vein, a good deal of comment was made when it became noised around that I was due for a whipping. I could not quite figure out whether the people wanted to see me trounced, or if they wanted to see how fast I could run if I really became scared. Never-the-less, for a serious piece, the war one takes the prize.

Fifth Columnists.

However, the paragraph in regard to who are the "fifth-columnists" in Valley county brought out a response or two. The fact of the matter is, those conversations I reported sounded like "so-and-so talks like a communist," etc. were entirely fictitious although since I have heard of an instance or two that I did not know at the time.

Since that paragraph was published, I was told of an extension club meeting where the war argument became so intense that the meeting was nearly broken up. I was told of several families whose approval of Hitler has been so strong that those families are under suspicion of belonging to the "fifth columnists." There has been an organization in one town in the county whose members make no secret of believing in communism and at one time wore red shirts.

More that this one man seemed that the "so-and-so" was referring to no one but him and he apparently resented it. For a fact I did not mean him at all and should he not have mentioned it, no one would ever have accused him. As a result he sent word to me that if I would go to the Canadian border and join the army there he would go too. I might do that but for the fact that it may not be long until Hitler will be here and both of us needed in our own United States army worse.

War Comments

From the outlook now, there is only one thing that can save France from a whipping by the Germans, and that is the economic status. No one knows, but the Germans may be gasping for breath and if they are, the Allies may win. Germany never lost a quick war; she never won a long one, and this may be the principle on which Hitler is working. England and France together are not a match for the Germans in actual warfare, but they may have more endurance.

Germany was the biggest country in Europe before her annexations. Each annexation gave her some swag to go on with. After the swag is used up, these annexations may be a burden and Hitler will have to take another country to get more money. That is the reason, most feel, when he gets Europe taken, he will have to take the United States. If he had the English fleet, fighting the United States might not be so tough. Mexico is a weak country and is overrun with "fifth columnists" now. A landing there would not be out of the question. Our 130 million people could not stop one tank if those people were not equipped with proper machinery to fight those tanks. Bravery and loyalty are of no consequence against airplanes, bombs, tanks and machine guns.

The French are woefully lacking in airplanes. Most of their guns are not powerful enough to stop the tanks. They must watch the southern border for fear of Mussolini, although most experts think the latter is only bluffing. He is not popular among his own people like he once was and the Italians do not want to go to war and do not like the Germans.

Without a navy, the 30 miles across the English Channel (the English note!) is a long way for Hitler to jump, and most people think he will not risk it until he has first whipped France. The days look darker for France than England at the present.

Another point in the Allies favor is that as yet the blockade of the English and French navies has not been effected. The stories are prevalent that Germany is short of vital materials for the manufacture of war equipment besides oil. They are not short enough yet but what they whip any army they come to.

The story is told by Jack Dempsey that at one of his early fights he fought with a fellow who was apparently his match. At about the tenth round Jack came back to his corner panting for breath and gasped to his trainer, "I'm all tuckered out. I'll have to give up." "Now you don't," the trainer told him. Go on back in. The other fellow is just as tired as you are." With that encouragement Jack went back and whipped his opponent.

It may be the same with the Germans, no one knows. The Allies are positive there is a limit to Germany's reserve but whether they are near that limit no one can tell. Economically, the Allies are by far the best off and if they can hold the Germans back long enough, they'll win.

Short Shavings

I was calling at Joe Jensen's the other day, who lives south of Horace, and to my knowledge there is no one in the country (outside of Harry Breesley) who has nicer and more horses than Joe. He works two six horse teams. Most of these horses are mares with colts, and they are nice ones too, from his Shire stallion.

He has a few mules also and one baby mule with a star in its forehead. I thought that quite unusual but I was told later that Bud Knapp has a baby mule with a star in its forehead.

More than that Joe bought recently a cream colored saddle horse that seemed nice to me. Joe says there are quite a few in certain sections of the sand hills. Not only is this horse cream colored on its body but his eyes match, they being a yellow color, and that is something I never saw before.

Fifty Pounds of Carp Is a Good Day's Catch

Theron Bechtle is a good fisherman wherever you put him but he is especially good at catching carp, as this picture proves. He caught them near the Ord dam Tuesday, assisted to some extent by Charlie Brickner and Clarence Blessing. There are over 50 pounds of fish on this string.

North Loup

Tom Henning, who was cheese maker in the North Loup cheese factory for more than eight years and who three years ago moved to Sacramento, Calif., was killed Wednesday last week when he was struck by a pick-up coming out of an alley within three blocks of his home. He had spent the afternoon fishing and had cleaned the fish he caught and was taking them to his sister, who lived near, when the accident happened. Funeral services were held Saturday and burial was in California.

H. C. Sample received word Sunday that his son Joseph was in a Los Angeles hospital where he had submitted to an operation for appendicitis. His brother, Samuel had been in the hospital for treatment of a wound on his leg when he was bitten by a police dog. Both are recovering. A North Loup picnic held there Sunday, May 23, was attended by nearly one hundred people who formerly lived here. They have effected a permanent organization and hold a picnic each May. Olen Finch is president and Mrs. Ray Gipo secretary.

Mrs. Ira Cruzan and four children of White Cloud, Mich., arrived on the Sunday night bus for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Sylvia Brannon and with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Cruzan. W. O. Gillespie of Murdock arrived Saturday for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Gillespie.

Mrs. Maud Johnson reached the 87th mile stone in her life Monday and her sons, Glen and James and their wives spent the evening with her mother. For a woman of 87 years she is extremely well but her falling eyesight makes it difficult for her to get about much.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Knezacek and Mrs. Mary Radil of Ord spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles John.

Erma Malotte went to Chappel Thursday morning and expected to go from there to Los Angeles for the summer. She had been teaching in the Chappel schools for the past eight years and has been re-elected.

Mrs. Mary Holman, Resident Here Since 1881, Observes 88th Birthday Anniversary

Mrs. Mary Holman observed her 88th birthday Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Brown. Due to the fact that Mrs. Brown has been ill, no others were present. Mary Ellen was born at Bothwell, Ontario, Canada, June 3, 1852. She was second from the youngest of a family of ten children, 6 brothers and 3 sisters, all of whom have passed on.

She was married in Canada to Edward Holman, who died 12 years ago. The family came to the United States and to Valley county in 1881, and Mr. Holman took a homestead 1-2 mile east and 1-2 mile north of the brick school on Elm Creek.

They lived there for eight years, then went to Oregon and lived near Eugene 5 years. Coming back to Ord they lived in Ord until Mr. Holman's death. Since then she continued to live in Ord except a trip she took to Idaho six years ago.

Mrs. Holman has two sons living, William, of Bakersfield, Calif., and Alfred, of Washington, who is a traveling evangelist. Her two daughters are deceased. She has 14 grandchildren and about 30 great grandchildren, the latter, she says, being harder to keep track of.

Mrs. Holman was brought to the

Quiz office by Mrs. J. A. Brown yesterday and told the above sketch of her life. Her sight and hearing are good, and her memory is exceptional. She says she loved the prairie around their homestead, and that she thinks a great deal of Ord, but Eugene, Ore., is the favorite of all the places she has lived.

The above picture shows a group of relatives who helped Mrs. Arthur Jensen celebrate her birthday Sunday. A picnic dinner was held at the Pete K. Jensen home.

Friends received word this week of the marriage of Eva Sheehan to Walter Stultz of North Platte at Riverside, Calif., on May 14. She taught in the Malden Valley school several years and two years ago went to California. Mr. Stultz is a railroad employee and is being transferred from North Platte to California.

Lester Jorgensen came home from his work near Farnamville, Ia., for the week end. Willis Miller accompanied him back and expected to find work there.

At the meeting of the school board held Monday night Marcia Rood was elected as teacher for the seventh and eighth grades for next year. This completes the list of teachers.

Bessie Eberhart came home from Blair Monday where she has finished another successful term of school, and Wednesday went to Lincoln.

Nettle Clark came home from Madison Wednesday. She was re-elected to her position as principal of the grade department of the Madison schools at a raise in salary. Saturday Mrs. C. B. Clark and Nettle were Grand Island visitors and Wednesday Nettle went to Denver for a weeks vacation.

Harmless Monster

Remains of the iguanodon were first discovered in the sandstones of the Weald in Sussex, England. Although 60 feet in length and able to stand on its hind legs, it was a vegetable eater, and comparatively harmless.

Hyena 'Dumbest'

Animal trainers agree that the hyena is the dumbest and least responsive of animals and the most difficult to train. They have learned, too, that the females of all species are easier to train than males.

Surplus Apples

The 211-million apple crop of 1937 was the largest on record to that date, and threatened farmers with ruinous prices. But a surplus drive conducted by chain and independent stores disposed of the tremendous tonnage, added a minimum of five cents a bushel to the seasonal average price and put $10,500,000 into the pockets of growers, according to the American Fruit Grower.

Court Testimony

In New York city in 1741, the uncorroborated testimony of any white woman, irrespective of her character or motive, was sufficient to convict a Negro, according to Collier's Weekly. The result was that 71 were transported, 20 were hanged and 14 were burned at the stake.

Instead of independent merchants going out of business, their number is increasing. Independent grocers in the 13 largest cities of the country increased from 40,189 in 1929 to 49,229 in 1935, or 22 per cent, according to the latest figures of the United States census of distribution. At the same time chain grocery stores in the same cities decreased in number by 13 per cent.

How Mrs. Always-Broke Balanced Her Budget

She Never Used To Know Where Her Money Went

Who could blame her husband for getting cross once in a while? She never seemed to know where the household money went. It just went.

How different now! When hubby asks about the finances, she confidently reaches for the old check book. There in the stubs is the whole story—a businesslike record of the month's expenditures.

It is so simple to balance your budget when a checkbook record is kept of each expenditure.

Mrs. Mary Holman, Resident Here Since 1881, Observes 88th Birthday Anniversary

Mrs. Mary Holman observed her 88th birthday Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Brown. Due to the fact that Mrs. Brown has been ill, no others were present.

Mary Ellen was born at Bothwell, Ontario, Canada, June 3, 1852. She was second from the youngest of a family of ten children, 6 brothers and 3 sisters, all of whom have passed on.

She was married in Canada to Edward Holman, who died 12 years ago. The family came to the United States and to Valley county in 1881, and Mr. Holman took a homestead 1-2 mile east and 1-2 mile north of the brick school on Elm Creek.

They lived there for eight years, then went to Oregon and lived near Eugene 5 years. Coming back to Ord they lived in Ord until Mr. Holman's death. Since then she continued to live in Ord except a trip she took to Idaho six years ago.

Mrs. Holman has two sons living, William, of Bakersfield, Calif., and Alfred, of Washington, who is a traveling evangelist. Her two daughters are deceased. She has 14 grandchildren and about 30 great grandchildren, the latter, she says, being harder to keep track of.

Mrs. Holman was brought to the

Quiz office by Mrs. J. A. Brown yesterday and told the above sketch of her life. Her sight and hearing are good, and her memory is exceptional. She says she loved the prairie around their homestead, and that she thinks a great deal of Ord, but Eugene, Ore., is the favorite of all the places she has lived.

The above picture shows a group of relatives who helped Mrs. Arthur Jensen celebrate her birthday Sunday. A picnic dinner was held at the Pete K. Jensen home.

In the early days, the personal signature of those to whom the postal franking privilege was granted, were required on the faces of their letters as evidence of their frank. With signers of the Declaration of Independence the stamp collector is in competition with the autograph hunter, and the outlook is hopeless, but of the Presidents, there are several collections approaching completeness.

Frazier with the drive reported Ord people contributed generously and sympathetically. There were almost 300 less-than-a-dollar contributors and the spirit with which these respondents speak well in these hard times.

Thanks are due to the Ord Quiz and to the pastors of the churches who made public appeals from the pulpits; also to all organizations which are working toward completion of the campaign. The Camp Fire Girls who received voluntary contributions Saturday afternoon are also aiming to raise 100% in contributing some small amount personally to the extent of sacrificing some little pleasure in order to help those less fortunate.

Mrs. Mortensen Addresses Girls' State Meeting

Mrs. C. J. Mortensen addressed the girls attending Girls' State Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Mortensen, who is the department president of the American Legion Auxiliary, left Ord Saturday morning taking with her Phyllis Munn, Girls' State representative and Orville Stoddard, Boys' State representative. The Girls' State meeting was held at Camp Kiwanis near Crete.

Asimus Brothers Build 'Town Within a Town'

Up in O'Neill, Nebr., exists a "town within a town," according to a letter appearing in the Omaha World-Herald, and this "town within a town" was developed and is being rapidly expanded by two former Ord men, Tony and Carl Asimus. Natives of O'Neill refer to it as "Tonytown," after one of the Asimus brothers.

Formerly farmers and ranchers north of Ord, the Asimus brothers got into the gasoline hauling business early and soon established a service station at Ericson and others at various points as outlets for the gasoline they transported.

Most successful of their stations was at O'Neill and the brothers soon leased their ranch and moved to that city to make their headquarters. Soon they started a general store known as "Outlaw Trading Post," which drew trade from far and near. A garage for the servicing of motor vehicles followed. Now excavation for an addition to the Outlaw store is under way, the Stockade Theatre is being opened and plans are drawn for a Hotel O'Neill with 17 rooms as a starter.

At the primary election Tony Asimus was one of the two nominees for unicameral legislature and came within a few hundred votes of equaling the total voted up by Frank Brady, the veteran senator from Atkinson, with two others in the race. Brady and Asimus will fight it out at the general election this fall.

The New Deal Oil company is the name under which the Asimus petroleum interests operate, and since the concern came into existence about the time Roosevelt went into the White House the name is very apt.

Six Students Received Degrees

Six Valley county students who were attending the University of Nebraska received their degrees at the university's annual commencement exercises Monday.

Arthur Auble, son of Dr. and Mrs. G. D. Auble, received his Masters degree in economics. Arthur graduated from Hastings college. Edwin Dodge of Elyria and Harold Schudel of North Loup received Bachelor of science degrees in agriculture. Dodge also received a vocational education certificate in agriculture. Leonard Cronk and Viola May Flynn were awarded Bachelor of arts degrees in the college of arts and sciences. Dorothy Allen received a bachelor of science degree in education.

Loup Valley Baseball League Starts Sunday

The Ord baseball team met Monday evening at the Furtak barber shop with representatives of North Loup and Pleasant Hill for the purpose of organizing a baseball league. Mira Valley and Taylor were not represented but had notified the rest to go ahead with the meeting.

Vernie Russell was elected president and Charles Lewis vice-president of the organization, and Bates Copeland of North Loup was elected secretary-treasurer. The name chosen was the Loup Valley League. There are to be six teams, Ord, Taylor, North Loup, Mira Valley, Pleasant Hill and a sixth to be decided before Sunday.

The first game of the schedule will be played June 16 when Ord plays Mira Valley at the athletic park. North Loup plays Pleasant Hill at North Loup, and Taylor plays the sixth team, probably at Taylor. The complete schedule will be published next week.

Harry Hugo Is Pleased with Reception in Ord

The Hugo shows have come and gone, and as always, the people patronized them liberally, and were highly pleased with the entertainment they received. The best part was the fact that Harry made good on his ralmaking reputation with great success, at the showers at times hindering attendance at the shows.

A good show was given each night during the week in the big tent south of the Bohemian hall, with special amateur performance Thursday in which local talent participated. A song with guitar accompaniment won first place for Miss Pauline Heitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Heitz.

Second place was so difficult for Mr. Hugo to decide that he divided the prize money equally among three contestants, Louise Brechauer, song with guitar, Eleanor Jablonski, song, and the Wolf twins, song and baton twirling. The Midshipman boys' octet also sang.

Band Postpones Concert The Ord municipal band, which was to have played a concert at the Burwell park Sunday, has postponed the concert to a later date, announced Henry Deines, director of the band.

Rummage Sale Saturday, June 15th, in the building south of the postoffice.

4 Softball Teams Organized in Ord, Play Tuesday Eve

Vernon Nay Strikes Out 16, Gets Fine Support, and Cold Storage Wins.

Four softball teams will contend for the championship of Ord this summer and incidentally furnish exercise for the players and entertainment for the spectators. The games will be played at the fair grounds, where undue moisture drowned them out last week. Arrangements have been made to play these games tomorrow night.

The four teams will be designated as follows: Leland Barrett's team, probably known as the Dr. Peppers, lineup: Paul Adamek, Horace Johnson, Paul Blessing, Bill Maslonka, Buster Kokes, Ed Zahn, Syl Furtak, R. Christensen, Jim Covert, Vere Carson, Harry Zulkoski, Harry Knecht, Harry Wolf, and Bob Adamek.

The line-up of the Piskorski Cold Storage team is: Axel Jorgensen, Mgr. L. Furtak, Cecil Hansen, Paul Hubert, H. Misko, sr., Leon Larsen, Bud Lashmet, Vernon Nay, George Knecht, E. Piskorski, R. Piskorski, Jake Lathrop and Wilmer Anderson.

The Douthits are composed of the following persons: W. Douthit, R. Jensen, C. Cummins, O. Hather, C. Cetak, D. Misko, R. Rathbun, G. Sargent, A. Zikumund, E. Barnes, E. Krikac, D. Miller, P. Timmerman, R. Severson and W. Stewart.

This is how the Chanticleer group lines up: D. Dahlin, H. Christensen, G. Stoddard, J. Fryzek, D. Severson, R. Furtak, P. Misko, Ed Dlugosh, D. Lint, R. Frederiksen, H. McBeth, H. Benda, W. Johnson, H. Misko, jr., and Bob Klina.

Last night at the fairgrounds park Ord's softball teams met in two most interesting games, the first being one of the best that will be seen this season, and the other, it is hoped, one of the worst. It was a cool night, almost too cool for comfort, but the excitement helped keep the crowd warmed up.

The attendance was fine, with 25 cars parked along the four lines. The Pearson and Anderson public address system was on the grounds and Mayor M. B. Cummins was present to put out the play by play account of the game, which he did in big league style, with comic comments which kept the crowd amused throughout.

C. Rathbun, C. Cummins and R. Jensen umpired the first game, with Carlson as score-keeper. The batteries for the Dr. Pepper team were Blessing and Johnson and for the Cold Storage, Nay and Furtak. This game was a pitchers' battle throughout, a scoreless tie at first, a 2 to 2 tie at the end of the 7th inning and was won 3 to 2 by the Cold Storage in the 8th inning.

Vernon Nay was in fine form and struck out 16 men in the 3rd inning, while allowing five hits, one of them a home run by Horace Johnson. Paul Blessing struck out 8 men, and allowed only 3 hits in the first 7 innings, one a home run by Don Dahlin, but two successive hits spelled his downfall in the 8th. Don Dahlin, borrowed from the Chanticleer team by the Cold Storage, made two hits and two runs.

The second game was a comedy for the Chanticleers and a tragedy for their victims, the Douthits. Rathbun, L. Barrett and R. Adamek umpired the affair, which was more of a track meet than a soft ball game, and W. Anderson kept score. The high school boys' battery was R. Frederiksen and D. Dahlin, and the Douthits, R. Jensen and R. Rathbun.

After the Douthits had been put away in the first with one hit and no scores, the Chanticleers went on a hitting and scoring spree, and with 9 hits and 4 errors ran in a total of 13 runs. Sixteen men faced the pitching of Jensen in that fateful first inning, D. Severson getting a home run. At the end of 4 1-2 innings the Douthits gave up with the score 19 to 3 in favor of the Chanticleers. The games for Tuesday of last week were postponed until Thursday because of muddy grounds, and were again postponed until tomorrow night. Work has been done on the field at the fair grounds, and it is in good condition at present.

Evelyn Sharp Appointed CAA Pilot at Mitchell

Evelyn Sharp added another record to her list Saturday when she passed her flight instructor's test at Lincoln and is now the youngest woman holding an instructor's license. After the test, she left for Mitchell, S. D., to take charge of the CAA pilot training unit.

Evelyn began flying when she was fifteen years old, attending Ord high school. For two years she has been credited with being the youngest woman commercial licensed pilot. Since December she has made her home in Grand Island.

K. of C. Initiation at St. Paul Sunday

Five men from Ord were initiated into the Knights of Columbus at St. Paul Sunday. They were Vernon Beran, John Ulrich, Emanuel Kokes, Walter Douthit, sr., and Joe Hruly.

Other members of the Ord council, attending the initiation were Dr. F. J. Osentowski, James Petaka, Emil Sedlacek, Frank Krikac, Edward Penas, Jerry Puncocar, Joe Patska, Ed Hruly, Sylvester Furtak and Albin Carkoski of Elyria.

Viola Puncocar and Margaret Patska presented two musical numbers at the banquet in the evening. Miss Patska played a piano solo; and Miss Puncocar accompanied by Miss Patska, played a violin solo.

Brockman Chosen Coach at Kewanee

Deserved Honor Comes To Ord Man Whose Teams Made Fine Record.

New honor has come to Helmut F. Brockman, Ord coach for six years, whose football teams won state and national reputation. Recently he was elected coach at Kewanee, Ill., a city of 16,634 population, and he has accepted.

The new athletic mentor was chosen from a field of 90 applicants, whose qualifications were studied carefully by the teachers' committee and the entire board of education. He takes the place of Ross Anderson, who goes to Galesburg, Ill., a city of 28,000 population.

No small part in the advancement to this position is due the Tunit-cliff brothers, Bob and Eddie, who notified Mr. Brockman of the vacancy and urged him to make application for the place.

The showing made by Brockman coaching doubtless had something to do with Brockman's selection. Brockman graduated from Elmwood, Neb., high school in 1926, and in 1929 from Peru, Neb., State Teachers' college. At Peru he was an all-state tackle for three years and captained the 1929 championship team. He was a four-letter man in basketball and all-state center in 1929. He twice won a letter in track.

Following his graduation he was at Valparaiso for one year, where he won championships in basketball and track. He was at Edgar for three years and had a championship team in the Southern Nebraska conference, scoring 109 points to opponents' 3.

His record is familiar to every follower of sport here. Coming to Ord in 1934, his football teams did well from the start and ran up a series of 41 games without defeat. His basketball teams won four Loup Valley titles and were twice Mid-Six champions. His track teams won the Loup Valley and Mid-Six titles four times each. His athletes won the pentathlon championship of Nebraska in 1938, and were runners-up to Lincoln in 1939.

Brockman was elected coach at Columbus, Neb., recently, and had planned to go there when this greater opportunity was offered. By his work in Ord he has earned the right to this job, and the mentorship at Kewanee will be a stepping stone to a higher position in one of the outstanding colleges of the country.

The Gould Flagg family is in receipt of a letter from H. F. Brockman in which he stated that he was notified by telephone June 5 of his selection as head coach of the Kewanee schools. He drove to Columbus, Neb., at once, and succeeded in obtaining his release from his contract there, and at once wired acceptance of the Kewanee post. They plan to move to Kewanee about Aug. 1. He will be director of athletics and head coach with six other men working in the athletic program, which includes schedules in football, basketball, track, baseball, wrestling, golf and tennis, as well as a program for the junior high school. They plan to come to Ord some time during the summer before they leave for Illinois.

Dr. Parks Speaks on China to Rotarians

Dr. Burton Parks, research director at Claremont Graduate college, Claremont, Calif., for the American Research Council in Optometry, of which Dr. George A. Parkins of Ord is director, has been in Ord spending a week with Dr. Parkins in checking data compiled at the college during the year.

This young optometrist spent three years in China, from 1934 to 1937, as tutor in a wealthy Chinese household and also taught in Chinese semi-government schools. Monday he gave an intensely interesting talk on China to the Ord Rotary club.

—Mrs. Joe Rowbal left on the bus this morning for Maxwell, where she will visit her daughter and husband, Rev. and Mrs. Earl Cummings, until Monday. She will then go on to Oakland, Calif., to visit her sons, Billy and Richard and their families.

In observing National Dairy Month in June, Mrs. Ruth Buckner (right) of the Omaha Dairy Council presents the above ice cream cone to Director W. H. Brokaw of the Extension Service of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture. Mrs. Buckner says ice cream in all its forms is good food. It looks like Director Brokaw agrees.

Mrs. L. Vancura Rites Held Today

Mrs. Louis Vancura died in the hospital at Rochester, Minn., Sunday morning, where she had gone April 21 in hope of benefiting her health. The body was shipped to Ord, arriving over the Union Pacific Monday evening and taken to the Pearson and Anderson mortuary. Funeral services are being held this afternoon at 2:30 at National Hall, in charge of Rev. B. A. Filipi of Clarkston and burial will be made in the Bohemian cemetery.

The pall bearers are Joe Skoll, Frank Smolik, John Mottl, Jim Hrebec, James Sich and Anton Novotny. Mrs. John Mottl and Mrs. Joe Skoll will have charge of the flowers and Mrs. E. O. Carlson and Mrs. Mark Tolen will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Robert Noll.

Bessie Klat, daughter of Joseph and Katie Klat, was born near Cedar Rapids, Ia., Dec. 20 1881, and was 58 years, 5 months and 29 days of age. She came to Valley county with her family as a small girl. April 4, 1904, she was married to Louis Vancura.

After their marriage they lived one year on a farm fourteen miles south of Ord, then for 5 years on a farm near Elyria. They then moved to the farm in Germanum township which has been their home since that time.

She is survived by her husband; three daughters, Mrs. Bessie Janick of Burwell, Mrs. Emma Wodchmal of Ord, and Wilma, at home; two sons, Louis of Comstock, and William of Elyria and 6 grandchildren.

There are also six sisters, Mrs. Anna Drobny of Chiclo, Calif., Mrs. Kate Bruba of Comstock, Mrs. Emma Cadek of Chiclo, Mrs. Rose Vancura of Ord, Mrs. Tillie Valle of Comstock, and Mrs. Sadie Mathauer of Chiclo, two brothers, John Klat of Burwell and W. J. Klat of Ord.

Old Settlers' Picnic at Taylor This Month

By virtue of action taken at Taylor at the Old Settlers' picnic last June, the picnic will be held there again this year. Plans are going forward for the celebration, which will be held in the town, and in the park as it was last year.

The Loup Valley Historical society is having charge of arrangements at Taylor, but has asked the Old Settlers' Association to make arrangements to put on the program. Dr. Glen Auble assures the old settlers that the Loup Valley band will be on the job as it was last year.

The Taylor people have not yet reported what day the picnic will be held but it will be on Sunday, either June 23 or June 30, and the date will be given in the Quiz next week. E. L. Vogltanz of Ord has been asked to give a talk on the program, and has accepted.

The Old Settlers' committee has been rather hit the past year, the president, George W. McAnulty, passing on, and Rev. Claude L. Hill, North Loup representative, moving to Illinois. To further complicate matters Clarence M. Davis, Ord representative, will be at the Republican National convention when the picnic is held. However the rest of the committee will carry on, and the program will be a success.

Ord Crop Outlook Good After 3.85 In. of Rain in a Week

Saturday Night's 1.43 Inches Was Heaviest; Some Corn Being Replanted.

The rain which broke the long drought on Monday evening of last week was the first of a series which continued through the week, bringing a total of 3.85 inches to Ord. The figures given out by Horace Travis are: Monday night, .92; Wednesday morning, .27; Wednesday night, .74; Thursday night, .43; and Saturday night 1.43.

The rains were general but very uneven, only two of them hitting a part of Mira Valley for a total of about half an inch. In general the rain appears to have been heavier to the north and east of Ord and lighter to the south and west, although the Broken Bow report shows a higher total than at Ord, part of which fell Saturday, June 1.

The Burwell rain report for the period, as given by Gus Becker, government weather reporter, was Saturday, .57; Monday, 1.43; Wednesday, .79; Thursday, .37; Friday, .02; and Saturday, 1.11, for a total of 4.23.

L. A. Walford, water master for the North Loup district, says that there was no real damage to any of the ditches, but that the water has been shut off in all three to give the crew a chance to examine them for places that might need repairing in preparation for the irrigation later on during the hot weather. All who wanted irrigation water had it by the time the rains came. The water will probably be on again the first of next week.

Due to the fact that flood waters washed dirt from under the ties at a place between Elba and Cotesfield, the morning Union Pacific train did not arrive in Ord until noon. However, no serious damage was done. Corn is reported badly washed out to the north of Ord and Garfield county, and some will have to be replanted in all parts of the county.

Soap Box Derby Coming June 19

Just a week from today the soapbox racers will line up on the paving on 21st street in west Ord and will race for the big list of prizes offered by the Cosmopolitan club of Ord. It was brought out at the meeting of the club Monday night that it is imperative for all contestants to see Ed Gnaster at once and fill out the application forms.

The prizes are now being displayed in the window of the City Cafe, and all the boys are asked to look them over and get busy at once and put the finishing touches on their racing cars. There are thirteen fine prizes on the list, and there are just about that many boys getting ready to enter the competition, which opens at 2:30 Wednesday, June 19.

In addition to the prizes to be won locally, the winning entries have an opportunity to enter the state competition and win even larger prizes there, with the added possibility of going to the national meet. This is a wonderful opportunity for boys who have the ambition to put together a good racing car.

Cutworms Reported Damaging Some Crops

A. J. Wise brought in a large number of a certain type of cutworm from his farm this morning, saying he got them off a patch of five about a foot square in his field. They are climbing the stalks and cutting off the leaves and heads. They have been reported in a number of places of late, and W. J. Hather has about 20 acres of corn which is nearly all cut off.

County Agent C. C. Dale states that the infestation is spotted and that the pest is fairly easy to control by the use of poison bran, which should be spread at night instead of in the morning as with the grasshoppers, as the cutworms feed at night. They are a menace, as they flourish when the weather is cool and damp, as it is just now.

New Municipal Judge Hears His First Case

Monday W. T. McLain, Ord's new police judge, heard his first case. It arose out of an argument on Saturday between George Anderson and Emil Barta in front of Douthit's beer parlor as a result of which Anderson was cited to appear to answer to a charge of disturbing the peace.

Judge McLain held court in the north room of the sheriff's suite of offices. Anderson entered a plea of guilty as charged and received the minimum fine of $1 and costs of $4.50, all of which he paid and was released. McLain was appointed police judge at the May council meeting.

ARCADIA

Hawthorne - Kassik

Miss Neva Hawthorne, Sunday became the bride of Albert Kassik Jr., son of Albert Kassik, Sr., of Milligan, in a lovely afternoon ceremony at the Methodist church in Arcadia.

The church doors were opened at 3:40 p. m., it being a public wedding. The building was filled before four o'clock, the time for the ceremony to begin.

The church was beautifully decorated with pink spring roses and white streamers. At the altar the back ground was a panel of fine cut white streamers with a faint touch of silver in it. Above this panel was a large illuminated white cross. On the altar there were several glass bowls of pink roses and many potted plants. The center aisle was carpeted with white and roped off by dainty fern leaves and on each pew was a pink rose bud. In the choir there were two large baskets of pink roses, one on each side of the piano.

Mrs. S. B. Warden played the piano for the ceremony. Promptly at four o'clock, John Hawthorne, brother of the bride, appeared in the choir and sang "The Day of Golden Promise," after which he was joined by Mavis Warden in a duet, "My Hour." Miss Warden then sang, "At Dawning." At this time the bride's mother arrived dressed in a dark blue and white street dress with white accessories.

Rev. E. A. Smith entered the side door of the church followed by the bride groom, his best man, John Hawthorne and his attendant, Leonard Kassik, brother of the bride groom. The bride groom, as did the best man and attendant, wore a dark blue suit.

The wedding march sounded and the bridal party proceeded down the center aisle, the bride's maid, Mavis Warden, dressed in a formal blue moire taffeta, carried a small mixed bouquet of spring flowers. The maid-of-honor was Marian Kassek, sister of the groom. She wore a pale pink silk chiffon formal and also carried a bouquet of spring flowers. The ring bearer was little Jane Ellen Conger of Loup City, dressed in pale pink satin and the ring was carried in a white peony. The bride entered on the arm of her father, C. C. Hawthorne. She was beautifully dressed in a white satin, princess style dress with long sleeves, slightly puffed at the shoulder. Her veil was of finger tip length fastened to a Juliet cap with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a white bouquet.

After the single ring ceremony a reception was held in the church basement.

Mrs. Kassik is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hawthorne and graduated from the Arcadia high school in 1937. For the past year and a half she has been employed in the Arcadian office.

Mr. Kassik is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kassik Sr., mother deceased, of Milligan, Nebr. He is a graduate of Milligan high school in 1932 and attended the University of Nebraska. He is in the milling business.

They left for a two weeks trip to the Black Hills and will be at home in Milligan after July 1.

Wood Brothers Thresher and Combine

PLENTY OF POWER

"I purchased my first Wood Brothers separator in 1924, a 21x3, and threshed 11 falls. It was a good machine, did good work and I threshed over 250,000 bushels of all kinds of grain.

"Last fall I traded for 26x46 Wood Bros. It was the best separator I ever used. We ran 8 bundle teams and kept them all busy. It sure does nice work in all kinds of grain. I pull it with a 10-20 tractor and have plenty of power. Threshed for 13 different men and they all asked me to thresh for them another year.

"The Wood Brothers is the best machine and easiest-running there is."—G. C. STEARNS, Grand Meadow, Minn.

- Large Cylinder
- No Beater
- Eccentric Rotary Racks
- Chain type return.
- Windstacker built in main frame.
- Two bottom tractor will pull 26 inch.
- Will save more grain -- Clean better.
- Less power size for size than any other make.
- 14 Timken taper bearings.

The new Combine a revolution in harvesting. The threshing crew—1 man, 1 two-bottom tractor, 1 truck.

WOULDN'T DO WITHOUT IT

"I purchased one of your 5-Ft. Combines in 1937 and I want to tell you of all the different kinds of harvesting and the success I had with it. I not only combine my own grain but did a lot of work for my neighbors. The following shows total acres and the kinds of grain: 127 acres wheat, 25 acres oats, 12 acres rye, 7 1/2 acres pop corn and 83 acres soy beans.

"Besides this I headed 30 acres of Kaffir corn and threshed 40,000 lbs. of seed. It was my first experience with a combine but it did such good work that I wouldn't do without it on my farm now."

Quiz Forum —Doesn't Want Frog Pond To the Editor of The Quiz: Twenty-seven years ago there was a slogan, "vote for so-and-so and keep us out of war." Well, the man was elected and a few weeks later he had us in the war. Almost the same slogan flopped over in the same way after the Ord city election, for in the campaign we were told "vote for so-and-so and keep off the highline," and soon after election we were put back on the highline without a peep to the consumer or taxpayer. There have been rumors that the mayor and council were threatened that they would have to sign up again for electricity or irrigation would be shut off, so they signed up again without a vote of the public. That is the second project the public let slip by. I wonder that the forthcoming shortage of funds was not observed when a certain gentleman was allowed to crawl off with five or six hundred dollars a month for a good many months; I wonder how their contracts surely were signed with the idea that the irrigator was paying for his water, without the electric energy consumers paying for it. You know how many letters it takes to spell the answer you get if you asked someone else to pay for the water you use on your garden—just eight, "go to h—". Now comes one more project, a frog pond called a swimming pool. Anyone wishing for a pond, just let him dig it and he can be sole owner. Bear in mind, Mr. Taxpayer, that if the state or the U. S. is going to pay for part of a project you are going to pay it all just the same. Set the brakes, Mr. Taxpayer; we have plenty to pay for without frog ponds or sports. ALBERT R. LUKESH

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

Fighting Our War

A man said to me the other day, "If I were doing it, I'd help the Allies in every way possible short of sending men there. I'd give them arms, planes, money, ships or anything to help them win. I would do this because I believe they are fighting our war for us, and if they lose, our turt would surely come."

It seems to many that is the sentiment which is gradually coming over the country. Most of us do not realize the tragedy involved should Germany conquer France and England. Few of us comprehend what import it is to us that the Allies whip Hitler back to his homeland. Most of us do not realize how near Hitler is to having them whipped right now.

A person could write a book on the consequences, but only a few points will suffice here. If the English Island is captured, Churchill says they will carry on just the same. With all probabilities headquarters will move to Canada. If they do not move and are whipped beyond moving, Hitler will expect to get Canada along with the other possessions. Could he take Canada without a war? Without doubt he could not.

Canada and United States are so friendly that we live side by side, having thousands of miles of border and not a fortress along it. But would we feel so secure if Canada were taken by Hitler? Would we stand by and watch Hitler try to capture Canada without going to her aid? Of course not.

If the British Government moved to Canada, that would make a warring nation on this continent. Then what would we do? If the British Navy came to America, having been driven out of the British Isles, it would have to use U. S. ports, for Canadian ports can't handle it. Would we turn down this docking when they are helping to guard our own continent? Surely we would not.

If Hitler should get the British navy, we would be in more danger yet from attack by that man. It is not beyond question that he might get that navy. It might be bargained to him to keep him from persecuting the English people like he has Polish, although his puppy word in a bargain means little and the English know it.

Although the English are not perfect, still they have controlled the sea lanes and the job could be much worse done. Most of us would hate to change the present setup to a man of Hitler's disposition. For the last century, aggression has not been the policy of Great Britain, regardless of her actions before that. She simply has policed the seas, protecting all shipping, small and big.

The whipping of France would not be quite so dangerous to United States as that of the British Isles. On the other hand, France has repeatedly refused (and so has England), to talk peace without her ally. Few people think that the French separate from England. So it looks like France and England stand as one nation, and should France be taken, England will still carry on, perhaps from the American continent.

The President of the U. S. is worried and well he may be. He seems more worried than his people. However most politicians think that the President's action in regard to foreign affairs is fine and he is feathering his nest beautifully for a third term. He seems to be trying to observe the Allies in every way possible, short of actually sending troops to the battlefield. Rank Republicans are approving of his foreign policy.

There is a different feeling in United States about this war than when it broke out. One man who is well posted on international affairs said, "We'll be in it yet." "Sure we will," was the reply, "if Hitler whips the Allies our turn will come like the others."

union be 13 white stars on a blue field, representing a new constellation. Jan. 13, 1794, by act of Congress, the flag was altered to 15 white stripes and 15 stars in the constellation.

This was done for the reason that two new states, Vermont, March 4, 1791 and Kentucky, June 1, 1792, had been admitted to the union. This was the official flag for a period of more than 24 years. Finally, April 4, 1818, Congress again changed the stripes to 13, leaving the stars at 15 and providing that a new star be added for each new state.

Since Friday is Flag Day, this week has been designated officially as Flag Week, and should be observed as such. This year, with the flags of so many formerly independent nations hauled down by the powers of absolute government, we should be proud of the opportunity to display the flag that guarantees to us the liberties we enjoy as a free people.

that time on his brilliance gradually leaves him. Ol Winder stopped the other day and said he would buy anything but goats. He would not buy a goat. After a few minutes my boy Dick, told him he would like to sell him some cats. Ol couldn't hardly refuse to buy the cats after his previous introductions so he said he never bought cats unless he could get them a dozen at a time.

arians can save many more once they get on the job. The vets use a commercial preparation which is injected into the vein, and gives almost instant relief. This solution is usually made up of 30 percent thiosulphate of sodium and 2 percent of sodium nitrate in distilled water. The dose ranges from 30 to 50 cubic centimeters for cattle, and about half as much for sheep. How such a mixture gives relief is not known, but it is thought that the sulphur help more than the sodium.

Some stockmen mix a little sulphur with their cattle salt when pasturing sudan or other sorghums and think that it helps. The amount of sulphur in the salt ranges from 5 to 7 percent. Another treatment is two table spoons of sulphur daily to grown cattle while on sorghum pasture. The value of sulphur against prussic poisoning has been substantiated by recent findings of South African investigators.

A few experts on the subject believe that feeding corn or some similar starchy feed along with sorghum forage retards the formation of prussic acid in the stomach. Others recommend glucose.

Sorghums are a splendid grain or hay crop and their acreage in this locality may well be expanded, but their dangers should also be considered. Sorghums are widely used for summer pasture in the south, and occasionally a farmer can be found pasturing them here. But the practise is risky since prussic acid develops so often in wilted or frosted second growth. Similar poison can also be found in chokeberry leaves, and a wide assortment of other plant species.

I listened till I went to sleep and I managed to kill half the afternoon that way. We had been making the trip to the upper lake almost every late afternoon and we go to town every morning after the mail. One day each week have to wash. I am the engineer and run the Armstrong washing machine. Then Ray comes down every day or two and we swap fish stories for a couple of hours. Yesterday Clarence Luther dropped in and we had a nice visit. We listen to the war news a couple of times each day and there are a few other programs that we like to listen to and we have to eat three times a day and that takes about four hours a day, what with getting the meals ready, eating them and cleaning up after them.

The windows in my cottage on the Penner side have been too small and the large living room was too dark and right now I am having Dick Wallin and Charley Potter take those small windows out and put them in the south side where the bedrooms are and where we have always had only shutters and we are putting in a lot of large windows in the north side. This job is going to take a couple of days and it takes most of my time to hose them and keep track of the women and see that they do their housework properly. So friends you see that I am a busy man. Last week I had an attack of the lumbago and it took most of my time to lay down and get up. It took a lot of time to get onto the bed slow enough so it didn't almost kill me and then it took longer to get up.

The Gelows left yesterday for their home in Grand Island but they promised to be back inside of a month and I believe they plan on staying several weeks then. Mrs. Gelow has been here the past month having a fire place built, trees set, painting and varnishing done and otherwise improving their cottage. Clarence Luther has bought the Mackowsky cottage, this was originally the Boyer cottage, and is making some improvements. Michalek has written Ray Luther that he will be here for the opening of the season, but can only stay a few days. Ray drove to Minneapolis yesterday to get a load of a thousand butter tubs which are used now for shipping fish. They have been shipped to market with butter, renovated and are dandy for shipping 24 lbs. of fish. Ray bought three thousand of them and just went after the first load which he already has sold. He thinks he will have no trouble disposing of the whole lot. And that just about tells the news of the camp. And you can see that time does not hang so heavy on my hands except when I have the lumbago. H. H. Leggett.

My Own Column

By H. D. Leggett

Dear Quiz: This is Thursday, June 6 and it is raining. We drove into town this morning to get the mail and a can of gas for the stove. It is about three miles and a slow road, as the authorities have been working the road. This is a sandy country so the roads are not very slippery, though some of the way it has been clayed and during a hard rain it is quite slippery.

This is not a hard rain, just a nice, gentle drizzle. We had a nice rain Thursday afternoon and night, then the Missus and I came down from the upper lake last evening just ahead of a good wet shower. It didn't quite catch up with us, that is, I didn't get wet as I was forward in the boat but the Missus who was in the back end of the boat running the motor, got a little wet. No we didn't catch any fish. We hoped to get two or three walleyes, but brought home one nice bullhead. We caught several crappies but as the season does not open on them until June 11 we had to turn them loose. I saw by the paper that one guy paid ten dollars fine for having one bluegill in his possession and they confiscated his tackle also. That is too much to pay for fish even when we are hungry for them. But the fact that crappies and bluegills and bullheads are striking is good evidence that they will soon be able to catch fish. So far the water has been too cold to start them biting.

Had a postcard from a Valley county friend and he says, "What do you do to keep busy, since the fish won't bite." Well so far we have had plenty to do. We had lots of flower beds to spade and fertilize and plant. We have set out many flowers and a few trees and any of you who happen to come this way later in the season will see lots of flowers unless something unusual happens. We have only set out three trees. We drove over to a nursery with the idea of getting a few perennial phlox to replace some that died during the winter. While there Shirley saw a small blue spruce that she wanted. The Missus had been wanting a flat leaved cedar and we saw a hemlock that was very pretty. All were small and not too expensive so we bought the three of them and took them home and set them out. Then the Missus got a notion that a row of wood ferns along the south side of the cottage would look good and we got Oscar to help her get them. I had a very convenient lame back that day. I don't like to go dig ferns and besides it was a hot day. I had paid ten cents a dozen for several dozen annual flowering plants however and while in my time setting them out while they got the ferns and set them. Then we went to town and got a couple of red petunias and set a row just in front of the ferns and unless I am mistaken they are going to look pretty nifty by the time Flora and Irma and kids come.

Then I had a boat to paint and finally got at that, and it takes me quite a while to paint a boat inside and out and do a good job. My old garage was more of a woodshed than a garage anyhow and the way it set I was not able to get into it with the new longer car, so I had Oscar get six 12-foot jackpines about 8 inches through, peel them and we set them and put a roof on, leaving sides and ends open and it is convenient to drive in and when the next trip is made drive right on through and out another trail. We made it 22 feet long and 12 feet wide so I will be likely to get the car in even should I come home.

Little or confused sometime, and it protects from rain and sun and with the old garage on one side close and plenty of trees on the other, not much storm can get in even in a driving storm. Building that took the best part of a day.

Tuesday afternoon when it was raining I went up stairs and listened to the rain on the roof, that is,

IF HAPPENED IN ORD
Ivan Botts noted a peculiar thumping in the kitchen range Thursday. He investigated but could find nothing in the oven, the fire box or the reservoir. When he would tap the stove, however, there would be an answering series of taps from within the stove. He finally took off the pipe and opened the door under the oven. He then started taking out the soot and pulled out what he thought at first was a crow, when a very dirty and dark looking bird appeared. Closer examination disclosed the fact that it was a red-headed wood pecker, which had come down the chimney and through the stove pipe.

Charles Lemasters is an honest man, but when he claimed that he had picked a ripe tomato Friday in his garden, the story sounded pretty strong. However, investigation has proven that Charlie wasn't lying at all. The tomato was growing on a tomato vine in the garden, and he picked it, just as he said he had. Ripe tomatoes on June 7 are plenty early.

Rev. W. Ray Radcliff, besides being a capable man in the use of the king's English, is also a brush welder of no mean ability. The reporter caught him Saturday painting his garage, and believe it or not, he was working with speed and doing just as good a job as most experts could.

Clarence Blessing says he would not think of having his picture taken with such fish as carp, and that sometime when he has a catch worth taking a picture of he will call the Quiz photographer. So almost any time now you may expect to see Clarence's picture with a fine catch of -bullheads.

Jos. Prince said that the thermometer on his porch early Monday morning registered just 50 degrees, which is hardly what you might call summer weather for June 10. Horace Travis says the cold weather is doubtless due to the heavy fall of rain over a wide area of the state and the prevailing north wind of Monday.

Rev. W. Ray Radcliff believes in doing a thing well, and he had the American flag displayed on his porch early Monday, the start of Flag Week. Here's hoping that others will follow the good example and that there will be a big display of flags on Friday, official Flag Day.

The arrival of his friend, C. L. Lord from Leavenworth, Kan., the past week, is a fine thing for John Gaika, for now he knows that the

The time for putting up hay and for other kinds of harvest is coming, and so is hay fever time. The blossoming of the flowers and grasses and all sorts of weeds means the production of large amounts of pollen. The light colored and sweet smelling flowers attract the bees and other insects. The wings and feet of these insects become laden with pollen granules and these are deposited in other flowers, resulting in fertilization and reproduction. These plants have a heavy pollen and not much of it, so it does not blow into the breezes, does not get into people's noses and, therefore, is not the cause of much of our hay fever.

Some of the less fortunate plants have small dust flowers that one can hardly recognize as such. The bees and other insects do not pay much attention to these so nature has provided them with an abundance of very light weight pollen. This is blown by the wind from plant to plant. Naturally, at times the air is full of these pollens and they are deposited in abundance on the lining of the noses of people. Some folks become sensitive to some of these pollens and have the resulting disease known as hay fever. Most of these sufferers have their troubles from mid-summer or early fall, to frost, though a few have it in the spring and early summer.

It is possible by certain skin tests to determine just what pollen or pollens cause individual cases of hay fever. Knowing this fact, it is possible to keep the afflicted person from having the disease or to make his symptoms very slight. This is done by injecting extracts of the offending pollen hypodermically. This is not a very costly treatment. It is not dangerous and not particularly painful. Those who have been thus relieved feel it highly worth the cost and trouble, even though it has to be repeated yearly.

Hay fever itself is far more uncomfortable than dangerous but when allowed to repeat year after year, it is sometimes followed by complications which are dangerous. This, added to the discomfort and lasting for weeks each year, makes the proper treatment of this disease a desirable undertaking.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

Farmers around here would put in a lot more sorghums if they weren't afraid of poisoning their cattle and sheep. Prussic poisoning is the biggest drawback to the so-called "camel crops." Some believe that sorghums might become popular in the long run if greater emphasis were placed on this problem, and upon methods of overcoming it.

It is no simple matter to keep animals from breaking out of dry pastures into green fields, when fence posts are rotting away and wires rusting through. Losses from grazing cane or sorghum pasture have been too common. There has even been a local instance or two of poisoning from sorghum or sudan hay in the early fall. Prussic acid has also been found in new sudan grass ensilage.

A cautious method of pasturing sudan grass is to test it with a few scrub animals first, before turning in the main herd. The best home remedy for prussic acid poisoning is a pound of baking soda. Stricken animals die so rapidly, however, that veterin-

The Good Old Days

About the time we went to press last week we received a letter from Mrs. Jos. Waldmann naming the people in the old time picture of the week before. She agreed with Mrs. John Moudry on the first four, left to right, but named the others as follows: Katie Voracek, later Mrs. Joe Voracek; Irene Fereter, later Mrs. George Finley; Mrs. Bursik; last to the right, either Mrs. Boquet or Mrs. McDonald. Last week's picture presented little difficulty to at least two persons, both of whom guessed them right. Miss Maude Goodenow called first, and a short time afterward Kit Carson identified them. Left to right, they are: Prof. J. M. Hussey, Icy Carson, Ethel Gard, who was the first wife of Ed Mitchell, right. Above is shown another old time picture which should present very little difficulty.

Something Different

I have read that in Europe the folks never discuss the weather! I can't understand this. We talk about the weather perpetually, and we all come from over there, long ago so how did we get to considering it critically and discussing it with every passerby.

It seems too bad to me that so many of us will never get to see that story book Europe of which we read—that Europe being destroyed so rapidly.

From childhood the stories and legends of the Europe that was have held for all of us so much fascination. History and fairy tales of European background were absorbed eagerly.

Stop and think a minute. The stories of King Arthur and his Knights, Robin Hood, tales of the Crusaders, of the Holy Grail, the two beautiful little princes who were murdered in the Tower of London by an evil uncle.

Or the lovely folk tales—the ones of Hansel and Gretel, the stories of forest and castles and gnomes and good little boys and lost little girls, of brave woodsmen, and shining axes and poor widows. The magic wands and fairies and witches and red apples. Trees made of jewels, billy goats that talk—don't these stories seem backgrounds in Europe, when your mind pictures them?

And gay Vienna and delightful Paris, and royal Petersburg, old Florence, smoky London, romantic Madrid—don't tell me you didn't hope some day to see them.

Well, we can all relax. They have been fairy tales to us, and now that is all they ever will be. Fairy cities that are gone.

For if we ever go to see them, they are going to be so very different, not only in appearance but in feeling. The atmosphere is being destroyed. A new feeling will replace the old one. Perhaps it will be as fascinating but I surely doubt it.

Ration cards, breadlines, regimented youngsters, marching young men and women. Countries where the people are reduced to slavery. Why should these appeal? I have no desire to inspect endless cemeteries and shell battered landscapes. I would not expect to find a people interesting, who were told what to hear, to read, to think, or to vote. Nothing more than slavery, mental and physical. Poor things, pity them. —Irma.

Burwell News

Written by Rex Wagner

Burwell Reports Three June Brides

The first week in June disclosed that three couples of this community had entered into the bonds of matrimony. They are Bernard Garaska and Irene Sears, Dewey Marling and Opal Lewis, and Elnor Conner and Opal Neal.

Bernard Garaska and Irene Sears were married Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. C. L. Petersen by Rev. Edgar H. Brohm. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Boll of Taylor. The groom is a farmer of the Kent neighborhood. A dinner honoring the newly-weds was served in the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Garaska, Saturday evening. William Garaska of Paxton and Elden Garaska of Sutherland came to Burwell to be present at their brother's wedding and the consequent festivities. The bride and groom will be hosts at a wedding dance in Taylor Friday night to which all of their friends are invited. They will make their home on the Garaska farm near Kent which the groom assists his father in operating.

Dewey Marling, the son of Logan Marling of Blake and Miss Opal Lewis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lewis of the Eriana neighborhood, were married June 1 in Grand Island. They are making their home on the McMaster farm seven miles northwest of Burwell where the groom is employed by Claude Kennedy. A large group of friends and neighbors surprised these newly-weds with a charivari party at their home Sunday evening.

Dr. Cram Chosen Alumni Head

Ninety-eight people who at one time or another attended Burwell high school, eager to spend an evening in reminiscing their school day experiences and visiting with their childhood friends gathered in the school gymnasium Thursday evening where an indoor picnic was held and the Alumni Association of Burwell high school was formed. Plans were made for making this an annual event, always to be the first Thursday in June of every year.

Dr. Cram was elected president of the association, Rex Wagner, vice-president, Miss Nina Nickells, secretary-treasurer and Miss Alaire Pulliam, corresponding secretary. A planning committee consisting of Mrs. R. L. Walker, Mrs. Carmen Hornby and Gordon Ballagh was appointed by Dr. Cram to work with the officers in putting on the next affair or to help with any activities which the association may attempt. Miss Odessa Griffith of Log Angeles was the graduate coming the greatest distance. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Abelson, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Sevener, Chester Houtby and Miss Ava Leach all of Ord were present. Mrs. Hannah Quinn whose grandson, Gerald Quinn, was graduated from Burwell high school this spring had the distinction of being the oldest former student present. Seven parents who graduated from Burwell high school attended who had children present that had graduated from the same school. The class of 1940 were guests. The evening was spent in visiting, community singing led by Mary Langstrom, hearing a paper prepared by Miss Vivian Clark, and with the business meeting.

The lunch was served in paper bags. It was planned so that no dishes or silverware were required and consisted of sandwiches, potato salad and ice cream, which were served in paper cups and lemonade. The dinner was prepared by Mrs. F. B. Wheeler, Mrs. Leonard Johnson, Mrs. R. L. Walker, Mrs. Archie Bangert, Miss Sarah Grunckemeyer, Miss Virginia Beck, Miss Betty Manasil and Miss Thelma Mae Johnson.

Last week was moving day for the governmental offices in Burwell which were transferred from the old grade school building into the old high school. All of the offices with the exception of the sewing circle were moved by the end of the week. It is expected to be established in the assembly room occupying the east half of the first floor before Saturday. The rooms on the west side down stairs will be taken by the assistance director and her secretary and by the commodity clerk. The farm security office is located in the south east corner upstairs, the soil conservation office and allied projects take the two south rooms on the west side while the farm bureau is housed in the northwest corner. The change makes cleaner and more pleasant surroundings for the people who work in these offices. A great deal of fuel can be saved as the heating plant in the high school is more efficient. The school board consented to this change believing that the building would deteriorate less rapidly if it were occupied.

OIL DRILLINGS IN NEBRASKA

This is the eighth of the series of articles concerning oil drillings in Nebraska. All information was compiled by research workers of the Nebraska Writers' Project, WPA, from old newspapers and from data supplied by the University of Nebraska.

"Who says that Red Cloud may not be in the near future the third city, in population, in the state," explained the Red Cloud Chief in 1917. This optimistic outburst came as a result of drilling an oil well near Red Cloud. The paper further stated, on July 5, 1917, that negotiations with land-owners for leases on their property were progressing satisfactorily. Meetings were held regularly by a group of promoters to stimulate interest in the proposed venture, and, according to reports, the townspeople were responding in a "gratifying" manner.

By August 9, all the necessary leases had been obtained, but there was still a small amount of money that had to be raised before actual drilling could start. A week later, three cars loaded with casing and derrick equipment arrived at Red Cloud and the occasion inspired the Chief to say: "Shortly we will have millionaires galore speeding in Super Sixes or the tranquility of silent hills and fertile valleys."

Drilling started October 27, on the Allee Hosmer place, north of town, but it was not until November 8, that notice of incorporation was given of the company. The title "Big Chief Oil and Gas Company" was adopted. An authorized capital of $100,000 was pledged; $35,000 of which was to be subscribed and paid at the commencement of drilling.

On March 8, 1918, an account stated that drilling had reached a depth of 2,000 feet. The stockholders had been led to expect an oil flow at that depth and anticipating crowds gathered at the well. No oil was struck but the drilling continued until August 8, 1918, when the contract with the drillers expired. There was agitation among the stockholders to renew the contract and another subscription of money was sought. Drilling was at 3,011 feet and those especially interested in the well pointed out that most wells in nearby Kansas towns "came in" at around that depth.

The movement for raising more money succeeded, apparently, for on January 16, 1919, the Chief stated that the operators had managed to recover the lost cable which was left in the well when it had shut down pending financial assistance. There were several reports of water seeping into the casing and at one time it was found necessary to employ two crews; a day crew and to continue drilling operations, and a night shift to bail the water out. This condition was overcome, however, and on March 27, 1919, the people of Red Cloud became greatly excited when it was announced that the drill had penetrated what ap-

DR. CHARLES C. SHEPARD
Sixteen students from Nebraska were among the 1,925 candidates for degrees at Northwestern University's 82 annual commencement, held at Evanston, Ill. This is the largest in the school's history. peared to be oil-bearing sands. But these heartening reports proved to be of little value and on December 16, 1920, after nearly three years of fruitless drilling, the company disposed of all its equipment and disbanded.

While drilling was actually taking place at Red Cloud, the people of Riverton were just planning theirs. Because oil had reportedly been struck by laborers who were digging a cess-pool, the demand for sinking a test well in the vicinity of Riverton became so great that a committee was formed to hasten this end. An Oklahoma oil concern offered to drill a well without any local capital if the people would be willing to lease their land, but the concern's apparent honesty about not requiring any local investment caused the citizens to become suspicious and they were all for drilling on their own initiative. It was stated, in the Riverton Review, that if the company was willing to gamble thousands of dollars of its own money, then prospects of finding oil must be good indeed. While all this talk was going on, several reputable oil men and geologists reported that the oil in the cess-pool was caused by seepage from a nearby oil main. But this information was ridiculed by those interested in finding oil, and on May 8, 1919, two Riverton men went to Denver, to see drillers for the proposed well.

The attempt at finding drillers in Denver failed due to all available men working in the productive fields of Oklahoma and Texas. So on July 17, 1919, the recently formed Riverton Oil Company completed arrangements with a Chicago firm, the Bethlehem Oil Company, which agreed to drill a test well providing leases could be secured on a solid block of 15,000 acres.

It was nearly a year after the cess-pool "strike," before actual drillings preparations were begun. On October 9, 1919, the Review announced the completion of all lease details. A short time later the paper stated that materials for drilling were being hauled to the Fred Hunter property, which had been selected for the drilling site. By October 23, the derrick was fully constructed and drilling plans were being discussed.

In the beginning, drilling showed good signs. At a depth of 140 feet it was said that a five-barrel seepage of oil occurred. But at 600 feet a vein of salt water was struck which flowed up into the casing. Work was halted until the water could be "cased out." Reports of further drilling continued for over a year, with minor mishaps occurring at intervals, but on April 7, 1921, the first well at Riverton became a thing of the past when the last load of equipment was shipped out of town.

However, drilling near Riverton was not to cease entirely. So quietly that few persons were aware of their arrival, another drilling outfit appeared. Newspaper accounts do not state where this concern sunk a well but it is known that fanfare incident to the first well was absent in this drilling. The well barely got started, however, before being abandoned.

In October, 1923, another drilling took place at Riverton, this time on the Fred Kobl farm, 3 1/2 miles northwest of town. In this undertaking, much trouble was encountered in retrieving a drill which was buried at 600 feet in a cave-in of shale. After a time drilling at this well was also discontinued, but on July 31, 1924, it was reported that the Kobl site had been selected by another group for a drilling and an invitation to investors was extended. For various reasons, mainly because the people of Riverton refused to invest more money in oil wells, drilling never began.

For some time past the plaster in the dining room of the Legion hall, where the Auxiliary holds its meetings, has been in bad condition. At a recent meeting the problem of making repairs was discussed and it was decided to have the old plaster knocked off and new plaster put on.

Last week John Mason and his assistant, Art Mason, knocked off the old plaster and this week are putting on a fine new coat. When the job is finished the room will present a much improved appearance.

'Now or Never' in Grasshopper War, Claims C. C. Dale

Insects Nearly All Hatched but Haven't Wings Yet, Can be Easily Poisoned.

It's "now or never" if Valley county farmers are to halt the grasshopper drive on Nebraska crops this year, County Agent C. C. Dale said this week.

He has received information from Don B. Whelan, state grasshopper control leader, that the small migratory hoppers which make up the dominant species in the southwestern and western areas of the state are all hatched and a majority of them are becoming adults.

So far their feeding has been mostly confined to weeds along the roadsides and to margins of fields. Only slight amounts of damage have been inflicted on small grain and other crops, in many counties amounting to less than one per cent.

As these hoppers become adults and get their wings they will spread out over the fields of crops and much more damage may be expected.

The answer is to bait them now before they all get their wings, before they spread out into the crops and before they begin to lay their eggs. The next two weeks is the best time in which to bait. "A sack of bait in June will kill them mighty soon," says Dale.

In eastern Nebraska, the large yellow differential grasshopper is now hatching. This is the species that will start the farmers to town after bait materials. The recent rains and cool weather have not injured these grasshoppers much, as most of them have been in the egg stage in the ground.

Most of the grasshopper bait mixing stations in the state are now in operation. The ones in the eastern half of the state are slower in getting started, mostly due to the different species of grasshopper involved. The counties that have disposed of the most bait to date are Sheridan, Custer and Box Butte. Bait is available at the mixing station in Ord, located on the fair grounds.

Cold Storage and Douthit Teams Will

Two games of softball were played at the fairground Tuesday, and were well attended. As usual, the Pearson and Anderson public address system was on the grounds. Mayor M. B. Cummins acted as announcer with some assistance from "Hip" Norman, who could not resist the temptation to root for the players.

The first game between the Chanticleers and the Cold Storage stopped at the end of 4 1/2 innings when the Cold Storage boys were ahead 15 to 2. Fredericksen let in five scores in each of the two innings he pitched, and H. Misko, Jr. allowed five runs in the next two innings. Nine errors by the high school were offset somewhat by two snappy double plays.

The second game was a more interesting affair, with the Douthits finally defeating the Dr. Peppers by a score of 7 to 2. Jensen for the Douthits struck out 3, allowed 4 hits, and no walks. Blessing for the Peppers struck out 7 allowed 5 hits and issued no walks. The Douthits committed 3 errors and the Peppers 4.

High points of the game were home runs by Rathbun and Krikac for the Douthits, three bagger by Johnson of the Peppers, a two-bagger by Severson of the Douthits. The high class fielding of Hather and Krikac for the Douthits and also the fielding of Hather, who substituted in the Cold Storage line-up in the first game.

Error in Cienny Ad

Trough error, an ad was published last week for the Cienny dance hall, advertising a dance for last Sunday night. Mr. Cienny has been having dances every two weeks and had none scheduled for last Sunday, so it was quite embarrassing to him when 35 or 40 cars of would-be dancers arrived to attend the dance advertised by mistake. Leon Nesiba, of Parwell, will play for a dance at Cienny Hall on Sunday, June 23, and future dances will be announced in these columns.

Walker Buys New Plymouth

A few weeks ago Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Walker, of Omaha, wrecked their car near Ord, as they were leaving the city after a visit with the Keith Lewis family. The car was towed to the Plymouth garage where it has been in storage. Tuesday Dr. Walker's son, Dick, came to Ord with an insurance adjuster and after making a settlement for the damage traded for a new Plymouth with the Anderson Motor company, and drove the new car back to Omaha for his father. Mrs. Walker, who suffered four broken ribs and a dislocated vertebra in the accident, is still confined to her bed, he told Ord friends.

$100,000.00 Amount of U. P. Mortgage Being Recorded Here

The county clerk's office is recording one of the biggest mortgages on record. It is given by the Union Pacific Railroad Co. of the Chase National bank of New York City and is for $100,000.00, with the option of increasing it to twice that amount. It is in booklet form and comprises 122 pages, covering all the holdings of the company in a total of 45 counties. The recording fee is $40.85. The release that came with it is 25 pages. Mr. Klima believes it is the largest ever recorded here.

Potato Tour of 2 Loup Valleys Thursday, June 27

Arcadia and Burwell Fields to Be Visited; Certified Seed May Be Raised Here.

All potato growers and men who are considering potato growing under irrigation should plan to attend the potato tour of the Middle Loup and North Loup valleys, on Thursday, June 27.

The tour is sponsored by the agricultural extension service and will start from the Floyd Bossen farm northeast of Arcadia at 9:30 a. m. Next stop will be at Fred Murray's on the west side of the river and a third at the Glenn Nelson farm in Custer county, a mile southwest of Constock or 1 mile south and 1/2 east of Westcott. From there the tour will continue to Burwell where the afternoon will be spent visiting fields and test plots in that vicinity.

A number of the foremost potato experts of the state including, Dr. Goss, plant pathologist, Prof. H. O. Werner, E. H. Hoppert and others from the College of Agriculture, and several officials of the Nebraska Potato Growers Association, will be present and will discuss potato diseases, and all phases of potato culture and answer the questions of those in attendance.

Everyone is invited to attend any part or all of this tour, to get first-hand information on potato growing problems. The tour follows the one in Buffalo county on the 26th and the same potato specialist will lead the discussions.

Potato growing in the two valleys may have a great future in the opinion of E. H. Hoppert, who visited the valleys last week. Mr. Hoppert believes there may be a real opportunity for farmers here to go into the production of early certified seed for fall planting in the south. This is a market which cannot be supplied by the western Nebraska growers since they cannot mature their crop early enough. Potatoes for this market must be harvested in July and shipped south where they are held in storage for fall planting and the production of the winter crop. So far Nebraska has been unable to get this business and the state association would like very much to find an area which can produce this type of seed, and they believe that this area may be the place to build up a profitable business.

Workers Are Continuing County Red Cross Drive

Mrs. Syl Furtak, county chairman of the Red Cross, announces that the campaign to date has brought in a total of $386 with the addition of the amount turned in from North Loup. The drive is continuing under the leadership of Harlan T. Frazier, chairman. The original amount asked for was doubled after the start of the campaign, due to the increasing need of funds to take care of the refugees in war-torn Europe. The public is asked to contribute generously to the fund in this time of calamity, a calamity which has not, as yet, visited the homes in America. So long as war continues the need will increase.

Children's Society to Have Field Man Here

Carl O. Ike of Lincoln, field representative of the Nebraska Children's Home society, is expected in Ord this week for the annual solicitation of donations for the society. This is a private agency, licensed by the state for the care and placement of children of all ages. It is non-sectarian and statewide in its work.

Since it was founded in 1893 more than 23,000 children have had care and 4,000 placed in good homes. In this number are included 74 children from Valley county. The society is supported almost entirely by donations. It does not receive tax funds. Members of the local board are: In Glen Auble, Mrs. Walter Noll and Mrs. C. J. Mortensen.

Boy Scouts Attended Loup City Camporee

A group of Ord Boy Scouts attended a camporee held at Loup City Monday and Tuesday of this week. They were taken there by the scoutmaster, Rex Jewett, and Wilmer Anderson, John L. Andersen, L. D. Milliken and M. Biemond. John Andersen hauled their equipment in his trailer.

The boys held regular camping contests in scouting activities. The judging is done by established Scout standards and not in competition with each other. The Ord boys made a good big Class B troupe. They went over Monday afternoon and returned Tuesday evening. In the afternoon part of the Ord boys played a game of baseball against the Loup City scouts, winning by a score of 15 to 7. The rest of the boys went swimming.

Ord boys attending were Warren Allen, Harry McBeth, Cornelius Biemond, Bob Haught, Lyle Manchester, Gould Flagg, Jr., Loyal Hubbert, Donnie Anderson, Bob Gruber, Dick Radloff, Bob McBeth, Junior Wilson, Roger Miller, Buddy Larsen, Gerald Stoddard, Hughie Cahill, Keith Kovanda and Elton Walker.

Mrs. C. E. McGrew returned Friday from Oxford, where she had been called by news of the serious illness of her son, Dr. K. C. McGrew. He was showing steady improvement when she left. Mrs. McGrew had been in Kansas City attending Unity Training school with Mrs. Addie Woods of Lincoln, who is now back home. Both ladies were much enthused over the lovely surroundings and location of the school.

Soap Box Derby Scheduled Today

Today is the day on which the soap box races are to be run, and they are scheduled to begin on the paving on 21st street, starting near the top of the grade and running north, to a finish line near the M. Biemond home. Clyde Baker, because of his long experience with the races at the Valley county fair, has been selected as superintendent of the races, and the contestants and spectators are thus assured that everything will be according to rules.

Not as many boys as had been expected are to take part in the contests, due to the fact that even a home made racer requires some outlay for parts, and many of the boys felt that they could not afford to pay out money in building a racing car for a contest of this kind.

The club is already planning to overcome this difficulty next year, and are confident that the start made today will lead to a much larger and more interesting contest next year. What the cars lack in number this year they make up in quality, according to reports.

The course is laid out on the paving on 21st street, starting near the top of the grade and running north, to a finish line near the M. Biemond home. Clyde Baker, because of his long experience with the races at the Valley county fair, has been selected as superintendent of the races, and the contestants and spectators are thus assured that everything will be according to rules.

C. M. Davis Leaves for Republican Convention

Early Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Davis and daughters, Virginia and Beverly, left by auto for Philadelphia, where Mr. Davis is slated to be one of those who will select the republican candidates for national office. They expected to go first to Washington and spend a few days in sight seeing there before the convention opens next Monday. The latter part of this week the committee will meet to draw up the republican platform for acceptance or rejection by the convention when it meets.

John P. Misko, who is alternate delegate to the same convention, expects to leave Ord by train Friday and be on hand in time for the opening session. Mr. Davis did not express himself as to who he thought the convention would nominate. Mr. Misko does not look for either Dewey or Willkie to win the nomination, but believes it will go to an older and more experienced man.

Monday's 96 Was Hottest of Year

Ord's hottest day so far in 1940 was Monday, when the official government thermometer registered a sultry 96, according to Horace Travis and another in the park after dinner, or whether it will all be one big program. Watch the papers for full details next week.

Elwin Dunlap took his children, Lorraine and Rosalie, and Barbara Andersen to the Porter Dunlap home Saturday night where they remained to visit, and Elwin came back home. Mr. and Mrs. John L. Andersen visited there Monday evening and brought the children back home.

Council Votes to Pay Off $29,900 in Intersection Bonds

Will Refund Only $55,000 of City Hall Bonds, Is the Decision Monday Eve.

When $29,900 of intersection paving bonds issued 20 years ago fall due Dec. 1, 1940, they will be paid off in full and retired, instead of being refunded, the city council decided Monday evening. Originally it was planned to refund $14,900 of these bonds and refund $15,000 at the same time $55,000 in city hall bonds are refunded. Now only the city hall bonds will be refunded.

The city has about $58,000 in cash and securities in all funds, says Mayor M. B. Cummins, and unless some major calamity strikes the city or heavy new obligations are incurred the city should be able to pay off this $29,900 on Dec. 1 and still have $28,000 left in the various funds.

The two Ord banks will buy the $55,000 in city hall bonds as was originally contemplated for the $70,000 refunding issue.

Old Settlers Picnic to Be Held June 30

A letter received from Judge Thurman Smith last Wednesday evening brought the information that the Old Settlers' picnic will be held at Taylor June 30. This was too late to use in the Quiz last week, but as it is the last Sunday of June, there is still ample time to complete arrangements for the event.

As the Loup Valley Historical society, of which Judge Smith is president, has asked the Old Settlers' association to furnish the program, this will be done, but a complete program cannot be given at this time, since those who will participate have not all been contacted and expressed themselves as willing to take part in the program.

However, the complete program will be given in these columns next week. As has been stated before, Taylor is host to the old settlers again this year, and all who attended the picnic and program there last year should be glad to go again, as well as many who were not present last year. This should be the largest gathering of pioneers for many years.

The tentative program calls for an address of welcome by Judge Smith, a response by some one from North Loup, a talk by E. L. Vogeltanz of Ord, and a story on some suitable subject by a member from Burwell. For the musical part of the program there will be singing by a group from North Loup, singing by a group from Burwell, and the singing of old time songs by the entire assemblage.

As last year, Dr. Glen D. Auble and the North Loup Valley band will be present and will furnish music during the day. Other bands have been invited to participate, and some of them will doubtless be present. The Auble Bros. public address system will be on the grounds. It is not known at this time whether there will be a program in the hall, as it was last year, and another in the park after dinner, or whether it will all be one big program. Watch the papers for full details next week.

Metzger Raising Funds for the Salvation Army

Charles Metzger, of Indianopolis, was in Ord this week soliciting funds for the Salvation Army. He takes the place of Captain Inez Reno who has visited Ord for several years and states that Miss Reno is now in a St. Paul, Minn., hospital suffering with pernicious anemia. Mr. Metzger was having excellent success in his drive for

Ord Men Escape With Minor Hurts in Wreck

While two Ord young men, Leon (Barney) Larsen and Robert Lambdin were returning Saturday evening from a barn dance north of Ord in Garfield county, Lambdin, who was driving, failed to make the turn near the Henry Jorgensen place on Haskell check, and the car tore off the south rail of the bridge and landed in the creek.

They got out of the wreck and went to the Jorgensen place, and Henry brought them to Ord, where Dr. J. N. Round bandaged Lambdin who seemed to be the only one who suffered injury. Glass from the broken windshield had cut both his hands quite badly. There was also a cut near his left eye, and both had suffered numerous bruises.

The auto was fished out of the creek and was found to be still in fair condition and well worth repairing. The south rail of the bridge will have to be replaced. However, the men consider that they were exceedingly lucky to escape without more serious damage.

Cooley to Speak at G. O. P. Rally in Ord Thursday

Hal Cooley, now of Arcadia but formerly of Minneapolis where he served on the Minnesota republican speakers' bureau in the 1933 election will be principal speaker at a rally of republicans of Valley county to be held in the Ord opera house at 8:00 p. m., Thursday, June 20. Tom Springer will preside as temporary chairman.

Purpose of the meeting is to organize a Valley county republican club along lines worked out in 1933 in Minnesota and used successfully in other states since that time. While it will cooperate with county, state and national republican committees in distributing literature, the club will have no direct connection with these organizations.

At the Thursday evening meeting the organization will be formed and officers elected. Farmers, women voters, first voters, business men, young republicans and other elements within the party will all be represented on a committee that will administer affairs of the club.

Avowed purpose is to facilitate election of republican candidates to county, state and national offices at the November election, and the complete overthrow of the New Deal.

All republicans are invited and urged to attend the Thursday evening meeting and hear Mr. Cooley, who is a speaker of exceptional ability.

Crops Field Day Held at North Platte Thurs.

Crops field day is being held at North Platte tomorrow, and will be largely attended. There is to be a basket dinner on the grounds with lemonade and coffee furnished by the substitution.

The forenoon program will consist of "Weeds and Their Control," by J. V. Srb, "Grass Seed Production and Seeding Methods," by E. C. Conrad, and "Visit the Native Grass Pasture Plots," by O. J. Webster.

The afternoon will start with a tour of a dry farm, followed by assembly at the machine shed. "Wheat Production Studies in Kansas," will be given by H. H. Laude. "New Developments in Soil Moisture Conservation," by F. L. Dufey, and "Nebraska's New Crops Bulletins," by O. J. Webster.

After some further discussion, the council decided to invite T. E. Filipi here to meet with the council either Monday, June 24 or Monday, July 1 to inspect the ice pond, the proposed park lake site, and explain swimming pools in general. Mr. McClure, the Kearney architect, also will be invited to explain cost of a modern pool.

Mayor Cummins intimated that he would favor submission of the pool question to a vote at a special election should it be deemed advisable to construct a pool and issue bonds to pay for it. In his remarks, Mr. Misko estimated that cost to the taxpayers of paying off the entire bond issue would only be about 35c per 1,000 dollars of valuation.

The special meeting Monday evening was called at the request of the First National and Nebraska State banks of Ord so that some resolutions needed to legalize the refunding bond issue now under way could be passed. Discussion of the swimming pool project was incidental and no action on it was taken, other than that outlined in this article.

Miss Margie Swanek is spending this week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kaputka.

3 Swimming Pool Proposals Made by Gyger Monday

But State Board of Health Not Likely to Approve a Makeshift Affair.

Three proposals by which Ord might secure a swimming pool, ranging in cost from $200 to $7,000, were made to the Ord city council at a special meeting Monday evening by Mark Gyger, WPA engineer speaking on behalf of a committee composed of Dr. J. W. McGinnis, George Allen and himself. Only one of the three would be likely to receive approval of the state board of health, Gyger intimated.

He first analyzed cost of putting in a 4-acre lake at Bussell park, as was suggested when the irrigation lateral was installed last summer. A horseshoe-shaped pond could be created by building an earth dam across the points of the horseshoe, he suggested. By setting up a WPA project and getting the labor by this method, he said cost to the city for the earth dam, a concrete slab five inches thick on the water side, intake and outlet, a cement curb around the lake and sidewalks around it, would be $2,298.40. An additional $900 would be required for sand and gravel for a bathing beach.

Cost of cleaning out the Patchen ice pond, putting in a dike and a sand beach, would be $200 to $250 Mr. Gyger said, providing WPA labor was used. This would not include cost of leasing or buying the lake.

A letter from T. E. Filipi, sanitation engineer with the state board of health, was read to the council by Mr. Gyger, in which Filipi stated that his department has never recommended sand beach pools and rarely has approved construction of pools of this type. He expressed willingness to visit Ord at any time and inspect the suggested development and make recommendations to the council.

Third pool suggestion made by Mr. Gyger was a concrete pool which would have no difficulty in getting the approval of the state board of health. The concrete tank alone, size 40x100, would cost the city about $2,000 for materials, Gyger estimated, and complete cost of a concrete pool with filter system, pumps and everything required, would be between $6,000 and $7,000, providing it was built as a WPA project.

Should the council desire, the concrete tank alone could be built at this time and used as a "drain and fill" pool with city water until funds permitted addition of the pumping and filtering equipment, Gyger suggested. Several Nebraska cities have followed this procedure, he suggested, and it has proved satisfactory, having the advantage of providing swimming facilities immediately with the cost spread over several years.

The council discussed all three proposals at some length and Mayor M. B. Cummins invited citizens present to make suggestions. John P. Misko, who recently inspected the Kearney pool and consulted the architect, Mr. McClure of Kearney, said that in his opinion the city should not install anything but a pool that would meet with the approval of the state board of health.

The Kearney pool, he said, is paying that city a net profit of only 3c for local children and 6c for local adults for each swim. Ord, while smaller than Kearney, would not need to invest such a large amount of money in a pool and could conceivably expect to realize a profit on the investment made. A pool would bring swimmers here from Sargent, Burwell, Loup City and many other near-by towns that do not have good swimming facilities, he said, and it would prove a profitable drawing card for business interests of the city.

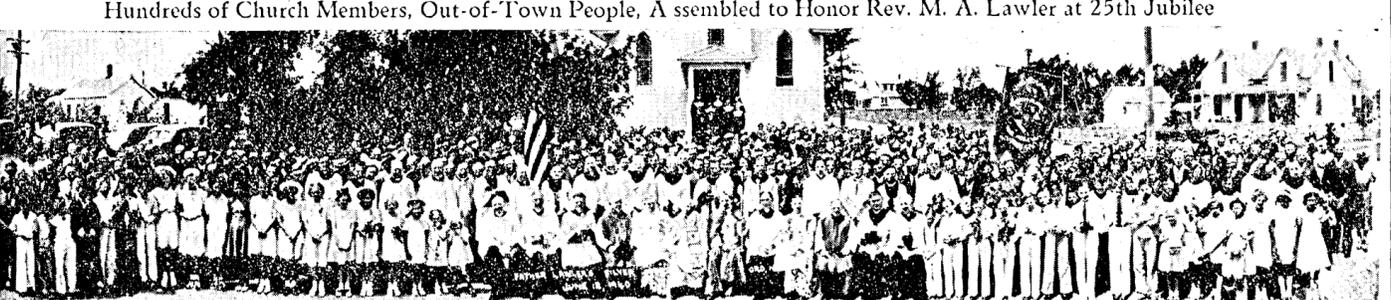

"We don't need any tile floors or marble columns in our pool—just a good, hygienic pool in which people can swim," he stated.

After some further discussion, the council decided to invite T. E. Filipi here to meet with the council either Monday, June 24 or Monday, July 1 to inspect the ice pond, the proposed park lake site, and explain swimming pools in general. Mr. McClure, the Kearney architect, also will be invited to explain cost of a modern pool.

Mayor Cummins intimated that he would favor submission of the pool question to a vote at a special election should it be deemed advisable to construct a pool and issue bonds to pay for it. In his remarks, Mr. Misko estimated that cost to the taxpayers of paying off the entire bond issue would only be about 35c per 1,000 dollars of valuation.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM

Believing that the strenuous time in which we are living calls for a greater application of the rights and privileges we enjoy as Americans, Music Director Henry Lines has decided to close each of the band concerts this summer with that piece of music that should mean more to us than all others, the Star Spangled Banner.

This was done at the concert last Wednesday evening, and it must be admitted that more than half the persons who heard the National air either did not recognize it, or else didn't care to give it the proper respect. While a few uncovered and stood at attention, the rest went about their business as though nothing worthwhile was occurring.

There is no excuse for the public not knowing our national air. If it has not been played frequently enough in the past, that condition should be remedied by having it played oftener, and if people do not care to give it the respect it demands, they should be required to do so. The national air is a symbol of the rights guaranteed us under the constitution.

At a Valley county fair many years ago flags were used to mark out the course for a track meet. The extras were leaned up against one of the buildings. The crowd soon knocked them over and a boy was standing on one of them. An old man stepped up to the boy, pushed him off the flag, picked it up and carefully brushed off the dirt.

Then turning to the boy he said: "Sonny, I fought four years for that flag. Please don't step on it. Whenever you see that flag, whenever you see this blue uniform with the brass buttons, whenever you see this G. A. R. button, whenever you hear the Star Spangled Banner, please show them proper respect. They are the emblems of a nation one and inseparable. Die for them, if need be, but don't neglect them."

Another incident occurred on the Mexican border in 1916. It was during regimental guard mount. Col. H. J. Paul was seated on his horse near one edge of the parade ground. Near the center of the grounds, facing him, was the guard, which had just been inspected, and to the right of them the regimental band had just started playing the National Air, while everyone around the field was standing at attention.

Just as the music started a man started across the field, passing diagonally between the colonel and the guard. He had nearly crossed the parade grounds when the music ceased, but he did not get away. Nobody who heard what Colonel Paul told that man that day will ever forget the scathing, withering lecture he received, and not a man pitted him, for he deserved all he got.

Don't confuse respect for the flag or national air with getting into the war. The two have nothing in common. In fact, if we have more respect for our national institutions we are less likely to get into war. But it is times such as these that should awaken in us a proper reverence for those things for which our ancestors fought.

Let us in the future show a decent respect for our flag, our national air, the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence. We can best do so by making our lives examples of one hundred per cent Americanism, by declaring unrestricted warfare upon all subversive elements in our government, and most of all by our attitude when the flag is displayed or the national air is played.

Mrs. Charles C. King
F. E. Glover brought to the Quiz office this week a clipping from a Whitefield, N. H. paper giving the obituary of Mrs. Charles C. King, an old time resident of Ord. She and her husband, whom she married in 1859 at Ord, had made their home in Whitefield for the past 76 years.

Born Emma Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Reynolds, she came to Ord in the '30s and taught school here several years. She had held membership in the Eastern Star Lodge 50 years. Her half-brother, Charles Emig, now of New York City, was also well known here. She was prominent in church work and music circles while living in Ord.

Burdette Cowel Advances
The dailies carried the news last week that Burdette Cowel, coach at Minatare for the past three years, had been elected coach at Wheatland, Wyo. Mr. Cowel's work at Ord prior to his going to Minatare in 1937 will be recalled by Ordites. He was assistant coach under H. F. Brockman while in Ord.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Urban, Maurine 9 and Donald Dean 9, arrived Sunday from Prague, Okla., and will spend most of the summer visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Urban. The Urbans and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Svoboda and Leonard drove to Fairmont Sunday and brought them from there to Ord. The little folks made the rest of the trip alone, and found that they got along better than older people, for a man bought their Sunday morning breakfast for them, and they came all the way without having to spend any money.

My Own Column
By H. D. Leggett

Jackpine Lodge on Middle Cullen Lake near Nisswa, Minnesota.

Dear Quiz Readers:
This is the 21st year that I have been coming to this part of Minnesota. During the first ten years or so I had only a couple of weeks vacation but as the years passed and as Eugene grew into the Quiz business I have been able to make the stays here longer and the past four or five years I have been here much of the time from early May until late September and one year a couple of seasons back I didn't go home all summer. During all those years I have done much fishing. Most of it has been in the lakes within a radius of a few miles of our cottage. Many times I have been able to take limit catches and in the early days the limit was much larger than now. When we began counting here the bass limit was 25 in any one day and 50 in possession and I was able to get those limits. Now the bass limit is 6 in a day and 12 in possession and a great majority of the time one has to work hard to get his limit. There are many bass here still and there is a wonderful supply of pan fish yet and probably will be for many years to come. Probably, as the years pass, limits will be cut further and I believe they should be. Five good sized bass is more than any man needs to take for his own use, unless he has an exceptionally large family. I believe a daily limit of 3 on bass with the possession limit 6 would be plenty large enough.

I recall a trip to Youngs lake, some 12 or 15 miles east, back 15 or 18 years when the Missus and Judge Clements and I brought home our limits of 25 bass each and when we got down fishing we turned loose more fish than we brought home. A trip to Loughes like Mr. and Mrs. John Keown and the Missus and I brought home 40 bass, the smallest one around 4 pounds, and we had several such trips to the same lake with similar catches. Another time we fished on Big Bass Lake 10 miles northeast and caught our limits of bass, my largest one being 6 1-2 pounds. We often caught our legal limits of both bass and crappies on Lake Hubert a few miles southwest and often we took limit catches of all kinds of fish out of our own Middle and Upper Cullen lakes and have no doubt we can and will be able to do so. But what I started to tell you was about a trip I just made to the Canadian border lake known as Mountain Lake 35 miles north of Grand Marais, Minn. Grand Marais is up the shore of Lake Superior 150 miles from Duluth. It is 293 miles from our cottage to Clearwater Lake, 35 miles north of Grand Marais. We left here at 5 a. m. Sunday morning June 9. The party consisted of Ray, Luther, Peter Wallin, his father-in-law, and myself. We had breakfast before we started and ate dinner at Grand Marais.

We took a 16-foot boat, oars, motor, tent and other needed camping equipment and had a most pleasant trip all the time until we got home. We drove along about 45 miles per hour, never over 50, the day was cool and clear with just enough breeze to make it comfortable and the temperature was about 65 degrees. After eating our dinner at Mable's Place in Grand Marais, and I can most heartily recommend that cafe to anyone going that way wanting a good meal, we drove north up what is called in all the literature the Beautiful Gunflint Trail. It was about 3 p. m. when we got to Clearwater Lodge on the west end of the lake of the same name, and by the way, that is the end of the road, a branch about four or five miles long, that turns east off the Gunflint Trail. Clearwater Lodge is as far as one can go except by boat, so the proprietors of Clearwater Lodge have a fine business. They are on the extreme west end of the lake which is said to be about 15 miles long and not over a mile wide in the widest place and less than half that much most of the way as far as we went down the lake. Here we unloaded, slid our boat into the water, got some ice for our ice box, made arrangements for a boat at Mountain Lake and pushed off a little after 3 p. m. We motored down the lake about 8 miles and landed at the portage where one climbs over the ridge into Mountain lake which is right on the border between the United States and Canada, the line, they say, runs right down near the middle of the lake. We got to the portage about 4 p. m., set up our tent, got beds arranged, our grate for cooking set up, wood chopped ready to start supper, then went out to get trout for supper. That of course in Clearwater lake. We were back in less than 30 minutes with three fine trout weighing about 1 1-2 pounds each, each one of us catching his own trout. We had agreed to catch just three that night. We boiled some potatoes, fried the trout, made coffee and had a supper by 5:30 fit for a king or even a dictator. Mr. Luther proclaimed himself cook, designated Mr. Wallin, an old woodsman, to chop and bring in the firewood and said that yours truly could be the dishwasher. We got our cooking and drinking water right out of the lake and I am telling you it was plenty cold. As we were eating supper hearing a noise in the woods near us, we discovered a large porcupine. He was within a dozen feet of us before we saw him and we no doubt attracted by the savory smell of the food. Ray grabbed a stick and spanked him up the hill, but we put everything in the tent in boxes before retiring. After supper and when the dishes were done and everything put away, we built up a big fire and put heavy coats on and sat for a time before the fire and talked of the trip and the prospects for the next days fishing. We agreed to get up at 3:30, have breakfast and go over into Mountain lake as soon as possible. While we were talking three people came down the lake paddling their canoe, landed and loading up their pack bags, and two of them picking up the canoe, they started over the divide at dusk.

When we finally retired at the late hour of 8:30 the temperature was 50 and if you think we undressed and donned night shirts you are crazy. Instead we each put on another wool shirt and crawled between the blankets with our clothes on. It was too cool for mosquitos and there are no flies up there as yet. Ray was snoring in five minutes and soon Mr. Wallin joined in on the chorus, the two of them making a nasal duet that must have been a surprise to the animals that were prowling about. A couple of porcupines evidently got into a scrap over the potato peelings and supper scraps but they soon disposed of what there was and seemed to sleep peacefully. I know how long I slept, but I awoke with a start when a buck deer whistled within a few rods of the tent and I heard him and his doe and probably fawns gallop away into the woods. There was a rock under my hip and I finally decided that I had best sleep on my stomach. That hip is still sore and from then on I refrained from sleeping on my side.

It didn't seem long till Ray said, "Come on boys, it's 3:30," and I awoke to find it broad daylight. We hurriedly dressed. All we had to do was to put on our coats and glasses. Ray built the fire, I got water from the lake for coffee, then with it on the grate we all repaired to the lake for the morning wash, and it was not long until bacon was sizzling in the pan and fortified with bacon and eggs and bread and butter and plenty of good black coffee, we shouldered our loads and started up the rocky trail over the top. We had to carry fishing tackle, boat cushions, oars, minnows and the motor and we thought we had loads. A bear tacked on a tree at the edge of the portage said it was 38 rods to the landing on the other side. We found it was up and up about two-thirds of the way, a gradual slope in most places with a few sharp inclines for good measure and we were at the top. The other third of the way it is very steep, at places you are glad to grab a small tree to steady yourself in the descent. All the way the path, none too wide, winds among and over rocks. Scores of the rocks you walk around are as high as your knees and some as high as your head and much of the way you step from rock to rock. But we made down that last third of the way easier than we made it back up on the return trip.

It was 5 a. m. when we started the motor at the west end of Mountain lake and started the six mile trip down the lake to the place we wanted to fish. Ray Luther had been there a few days before and had learned some of the good places to fish and one in particular was down the shore 6 miles to a place on the Canada side where a spring brook comes tumbling down over the rocks into the lake. We fished right in front of that stream about three rods from the water's edge and in water 25 to 30 feet deep. When the water is still one can see the fish 20 feet down in the water. We had not fished long before someone caught a trout and from then on till we quit at 11 o'clock to go in and make dinner, we caught 43 trout, the largest about 5 pounds and the average between 2 and 3 pounds. We fished entirely with fly rods, my Heddon No. 17 being a 5 1-2 ounce rod. I believe one of those 2 1-2 pound native or land locked salmon trout as they are called, gave me as hard a battle as does a 5-lb. bass here at home. Sometimes an extra game scrapper of 3 pounds would take several minutes to lick and Ray was 12 minutes by the watch landing one that weighed a little over 3 pounds and he did it as fast as possible. It was when I carried that bunch of 43 trout, in a gunny sack over my shoulder, over the mountain to camp on the Clearwater side, that I realized how steep that first third of the trail was. I believe another pound would have licked me.

We spent two full days there. When we went in at noon Tuesday we were much surprised to find that our paper box cartons had been carried out of the tent and a dozen feet away and the contents scattered over the ground. The dishes had been knocked from the table and we had to hunt the silverware from among the dirt and leaves. The pounds of beautiful home made butter which Mrs. Wallin had sent, had been eaten and all our bread was eaten. Fruit jars which contained our bacon, pickles, coffee etc., were rolled about but not broken so that much food was safe. We were mad and I said "Ray, I thought you said porcupines wouldn't go into the tent." "They won't" he replied. In the meantime he had been looking about and called me to a damp place at one edge of the cleared place where our tent was set and showing me tracks. "There are the tracks of an old mother bear and her two cubs," he said, "and they are the bables that did most of the damage." But we didn't see them. Probably they got away when they heard us coming, or perhaps they

A Letter Coming
The Winner

A Letter Coming

Clarence Davis was to have left Sunday for Philadelphia to be a delegate to the Republican National Convention which will nominate the next candidate for President.

Yesterday (this is Saturday) he showed me a stack of letters he had received endorsing different men and recommending that he vote for them. Clarence said he had thrown away many more than he had saved. He says he gets a dozen letters a day sometimes. One I recall spoke highly of Hanford MacNider, another of Wilkie and various other men of whom I have never heard.

He plans now to take his family in his car and on the trip visit New York, Washington and other points along the road.

I also asked him to write me a letter or two, requesting he tell me some little interesting occurrences he notes at the convention that would not likely be published in the large papers. This he promised to do, and if he does, I'll pass it on through this column.

The Winner

There is not much question who will win the war now raging in Europe. Regardless of the triumphs heralded from Paris or Berlin, or perhaps London, no country there will win. United States is going to win this war more surely if she stays out. United States won the world war twenty years ago; in a greater measure she will win this one.

No country can win enough swag to pay for a war like the one now being carried on. The money Germany spends for war, the loss of life and property, can never be repaid regardless of how much country she captures. Of course the invaded territory loses. The winner always stands on the sidelines.

This war is only history repeating itself. Passing up the once great civilizations of China and India, lets look first at Athens and Sparta. They fought for 30 years, Athens with its great seapower and culture, Sparta with its better army. Finally Sparta whipped Athens but Rome won that war by swallowing up both.

Other instances are similar but Napoleon probably forms the nearest example. He fought with all of continental Europe and conquered nearly all of it, even more than Hitler has yet, if we do not figure Russia. All the time England played one country against the other, willing all the time to fight him should he come across the channel. In the end England won; not the conquerer, Napoleon, but her, even the victor loses.

Airplanes may have made the English Channel useless for protection of England against a conquerer. Some say so and we will find out if Hitler is able to invade the isle as he has the other countries. Most authorities think England will be even easier prey to the Nazis than France with her many fortresses.

Be that as it may, the Atlantic ocean is yet a barrier against Europe invasion of the United States. We are in a position to stand here and talk, play one side against the other and wax fat while the fighters exhaust themselves. We stand over here aloof, and raise more food than we can eat while the European countries fight and starve. On account of our security, the money market of the world has moved from London to New York. We have more cars, more machinery, more roads, more newspapers, more freedom of thought, more freedom of religion than any country on earth.

Regardless of who wins the European war, he will lose. If Hitler conquers and polices all of Europe he will have nothing but a starving mass of people and bombed industries to rule. Although everything else seems to have been figured out in advance, the question as to what the people are going to eat next winter has not been solved. Already there is a shortage of food and production of this year's crop has almost ceased.

More too, in most ways, there is no European country that has the standards of living or education or the machines of industry that United States have. Many students of history think this is the beginning of the end of Europe, just as China, India, Greece and Rome slipped backward from high civilized states. Prosperity cannot come from destruction.

At the N. L. alumni banquet, after the speeches, there was a business meeting, where the motion was made to give some money to the Red Cross. A discussion followed as to the amount and after several minutes of debate motion was amended to make the amount ten dollars. The vote was taken. The second it was finished the clock struck ten, and the funny part is that was the only time that evening the clock had struck at all.

Short Shavings

It was a lovely day, a cool breeze blowing through a swale in the sandhill pasture. Clouds kept the sun from shining most of the time, but when it did break through it shown hotly down on the thirty or more people assembled for the branding. Twenty-two were workmen, the rest spectators.

Though raised in a cattle country I had never watched branding before, and of course it was new to Kerry too. I had read western stories about round-ups and gained a few more idea about it from the movies, but it wasn't much like either of these. I forgot it might be possible to modernize branding as well as other things in this modern era of streamlining.

This was the fifth day of branding on the Peterson Brothers ranch, thirty or so miles south of Alliance, down in the sandhills. Since they had done it so often they had the work done pat, organized as smoothly as a machine, and they went at the task of branding 316 calves without wasting a move.

First the cowboys in two or three pick-up trucks drove to the scene and set up a good strong wire fence in a hairpin shape, bracing it firmly at each end and the corners. Meanwhile other cowpokes had rounded up the calves and their mothers, and now they ran them carefully into the pocket formed by the fence, after which the pick-up trucks and two or three other cars drove into line to make a fence on the last open side. Very little clear space was left inside this pen, for in it was set up the searing hot branding stove with its irons, three cowpunchers on their trained ponies and the other workers and on-lookers.

Every worker there had a job and knew it perfectly, and he now went to work. The three men on horses rode into the herd and brought out a calf each trip, roping it usually by one or two back legs, dragging it rather carefully out so that a crew of two men could at once throw it to the ground and hold it there firmly. Within five seconds after it was down, along came a man who notched an ear of the calf and put the piece in his pocket; along came one Peterson brother with a hot iron to burn a small mule shoe mark on the left rear hip of the calf; along came another Peterson brother with a second hot iron who marked a bar across the leg below the other mark. And along came the third Peterson brother to castrate the male calves and another trusted employee who vaccinated the calf for blackleg. Often these operations were done simultaneously, and the calf released and on its way again in about a minute.

Some of the calves were so big it was all the two fellows could do to hold them down, and at the other extreme, two or three of the calves were less than a day old, little bitty fellows who just stood and looked uncertainly about this cruel world into which they had blundered.

Something Different

But there were platters of a delicious sliced roast meat, big pots of beans, creamed potatoes heavy with cream, home made butter and bread and cottage cheese, every bit of it as good as it could be. There was hot coffee and also a lot of fruit juice for the youngsters. There was chocolate cake, tender and rich. Those cowboys liked it too, though too busy eating to say a word. Each fellow filled his plate and retired to the nearest shady running board, shored his feet under the car and got to work on that food. After finishing a couple of helpings of everything, a little more conversation was heard.

The small boys climbed on the ponies and began to play. William Morrow and Mrs. Clarence Peterson, who had taken colored movies of everything including the lunchers, continued to take movies until their reels of film were exhausted and a fine record of the branding obtained. The films should be attractive with green grass, the blue, blue sky and its army of white clouds, the handsome white-faced cattle.

I almost forgot to mention, the calves weren't the only thing burned that day. I captured the loveliest red nose of my career, unburned, my arms and even my shin bones. Nothing white-faced about me!

—Irma

All of the work was done with greatest carefulness. The branding, for example, must be deep enough to leave a mark always, but not too deep. All the workers were rejoicing because the day was clear. The day before had not been good branding weather, for it was almost misty, which might cause trouble. Sometimes infection follows a hot iron put on a damp-haired calf. The owners took the most important tasks for themselves, and I didn't blame them, for I had never seen anything prettier than this herd of 316 Hereford mothers and their 316 calves, every single one of them a soft red color with that distinguishing white face.

This was the end of the branding for the Peterson ranch. The first four days had seen about 500 calves branded per day, and this half day's work ended it.

The stove which heated the irons had been made in the ranch blacksmith shop and it was a dandy though odd looking. It sat off the ground on metal legs, with a long chimney sticking ten or twelve feet up into the air, the whole resembling an inverted letter T. A drum of oil provided fuel, and the branding irons were plunged through slots in the side of the hot burner. Poking each iron in a separate slot kept them from tangling and being ruined. The stove was so hot no one wanted near it, though a man stayed to tend it. Three or four calves were on the ground being branded at a time, so hot irons were in great demand although a hot iron would brand about three calves before it needed re-heating. This stove had appealed to all who saw it so much so that Peterson's had made them for a number of neighbors and other ranchers.

As the herd was finished, one car moved away, and cattle and calves ran out toward a water tank and windmill visible some quarter of a mile away. As the cattle came through the narrow opening, all hands stood by to inspect them to be sure not a single calf had been missed. Two little calves were thus caught and returned for branding, though the day before with 500 calves not a one was missed.

Cowboys took off for the water tank to scrub for a meal they had earned richly. The fence came down quickly and was loaded into trucks. The cars drove a little distance away from where the branding corral had been, and other cowboys set up trestles and topped them with planks. On this big table Mrs. Gus Peterson began to set out one of the best dinners I have ever tasted. And in what quantity! A kettle as big as a peck measure held red gelatin full of fruit, not that we bothered about that at first.

Potato Tour June 27
A tour of inspection of some of the better potato fields in this part of the Loup valley which will enable people to see the excellent prospects for a bumper potato crop and to learn something about the possibilities for developing the potato growing industry in this locality will be held June 27 under the direction of R. L. B. Fenner at Alpine Pass Between France and Italy

This is a picture of L. B. Fenner of Burwell taken in 1918 in the Alpine pass between France and Italy near Nice, a city in France which Mussolini now demands for Italy. Mr. Fenner who was a major in the Red Cross was stationed in France during the World war. One day he was compelled to wait for a time near this pass. He decided that he would walk over into Italy, merely for the reason of setting his foot on the soil of another country. The pass was guarded by the large African-Italian guard who would not allow Mr. Fenner to even as much as put his foot down on the Italian side as he had no visa for Italy. Mr. Fenner argued with the negro in French with no avail but he did consent to having his picture taken with Mr. Fenner by Mr. Fenner's chauffeur. The negro guard stood in Italy while Mr. Fenner stood in France when the picture was taken. Back of Mr. Fenner is a boundary marker. Another one stood on the other side of the pass, the walls of which were rocky and almost perpendicular for many feet. Mr. Fenner says that there is no way for an army to get into this region of France from Italy except through this pass which can be easily defended. While Mr. Fenner was thwarted in his first attempt to enter Italy he later spent considerable time in that country.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Nelson and LaRue and Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Garlick of Elyria enjoyed a picnic dinner in the Ord City park Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hughes and Patty were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Doran Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson spent the week end in Elgin where they were guests of relatives.

The fried chicken picnic sponsored by the Ericson Catholic parish at the lake Sunday attracted a large number of Burwellites. Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Meyers, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Manasil, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Flakus, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Beck, Mr. and Mrs. Knute Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. McCarthy, Gordon Cassidy, Elizabeth Flynn, Joe Meyers, Wayne Woods, Keith DeLashmuth, Gerald Bishop, Marie Malicky, Betty Manasil, Bernard Beck, Nina Nickells, Russell Troxell, Dwight Johnson and Lewis Moore were among those present. A wrestling match between Ericson's Ed Kruml and E. Dusek of Omaha was the main attraction of the day. The eager spectators were pleased to see their local favorite win the event. A ballgame, fishing, boating and bathing furnished other amusement.

A. E. Shoemaker spent the week end in Custer county where he visited a niece at Mason City and a nephew at Oconto and their families.

Melvin Edgill was a Grand Island visitor Monday.

Old Mill Being Razed.

An old familiar landmark has disappeared from the horizon. The Burwell Roller Mill built in 1887—the year the Burlington railroad came to Burwell—is being razed. Over a year ago the mill was sold at public auction to settle the A. A. Graber estate and G. W. Packer bought it for $400. Mr. Graber, who had owned and operated the mill for many years had $6,000.00 invested in it.

Last summer the mill was used to shelter a potato grader and washing machine. A potato cellar will be built and the washing and grading machine will be housed in a shed which will be built from part of the lumber salvaged from wrecking the mill, on the same location.

The mill had a long and unprofitable career. It was built by Ames Brothers. After several years they discontinued operating it and it was bought by the late T. H. Doran. Mr. Graber owned the mill longer than any other man. He operated it with a series of partners of whom A. L. Pulliam, father of Hallett and Clyde Pulliam, "Miller" Smith and the late M. W. Leahy were several. Ten years ago the mill was leased by the Kincaid Mineral company and the plant was used for the preparation of a mineral mixture for cattle but this venture did not prove to be profitable.

During the World War Burwell housewives recall that the mill manufactured "victory" flour which was composed of half corn and half wheat. By using it they were not compelled to buy the large amounts of wheat substitutes but it took a good and ingenious cook to make palatable bread from this "victory" flour.

Strawberry Harvest in Full Swing at North Loup Patches

North Loup—(Special)—Some day this village may be known as the "strawberry capital" of Nebraska, instead of the "popcorn center" as it was called for so many years, for strawberries are becoming an important money crop in this locality.

Pictures above and at the right were taken in the Sterling Manchester berry patch, an acre in size, which comes into full bearing this summer. At the top pickers can be seen working down the rows while at the right they are emptying their pails and baskets under a shelter beside the patch, where Mr. and Mrs. Manchester and daughter Harriet sort them and pack them in cases.

The Manchester berries are Premiers, a variety new to this locality, and Mr. Manchester is finding a ready market for his surplus over local needs in Grand Island and Kearney.

On Friday 51 crates of berries were picked from this patch by 23 pickers. Harold Fortis was the champion picker that day, getting 124 boxes, 52 from a single row. Most boxes picked yet from one row is 66. At 10:30 Monday morning 35 crates had been picked and the patch had only been about half gone over. These pictures were taken Monday afternoon. Total pickings that day was 77 crates.

Another fine commercial strawberry patch here is that of W. T. Hutchins, who is trying out eight varieties to see which is best suited for local culture. He expects to set out a large acreage of the favored variety for next season.

WHY DO WE HAVE BANKS, ANYWAY?

They Are As Essential As Forts to the Pioneers

A strong bank is a fortress of financial strength for a community. Built through the joint strength of the community, the bank serves the community.

In the early days our ancestors joined forces and built strong forts to protect the community from savages. Today our dangers are financial rather than physical. And the community has joined forces to build this strong fortress of financial strength.

Instructions FOR Quick Freezing

SEASONABLE VEGETABLES

Vegetables and fruits grown at home may be prepared for freezing by following a few simple rules, and for the benefit of our patrons who want to freeze and store their home grown products we print these instructions about vegetables and fruits now in season. From time to time in future rules for freezing other fruits and vegetables will be given.

Whole Strawberries in Syrup

Best varieties of strawberries for freezing are the Marshall, Red Heart, Senator Dunlap, Missionary, Klondike and Blakemore. To prepare the whole strawberries use fully ripe but not mushy berries. Wash them in ice water and then hull. Place fruit in heavy paraffin paper board cartons to within 1/2 inch of the top. Sufficient sugar syrup should be added to cover the berries in each package. Close box and place promptly in sharp freezing room at 0 degrees Fahrenheit or lower. The sugar syrup is made by dissolving 65 parts of granulated sugar in 35 parts of boiling water. Make the syrup in advance and cool to below 70 degrees Fahrenheit before using.

Whole Strawberries with Sugar

Stir the washed, hulled, chilled berries with 1-2 of their weight of sugar until most of the sugar has dissolved in the juice. This produces a better flavored but more mushy mixture. Place fruit in boxes and cover with the juice made from the sugar. Place promptly in freezing room.

Sliced or Chopped Berries with Sugar

Chop or slice berries which have been washed and hulled and add one pound of sugar to each four pounds of strawberries. Mix, package, and put into freezing room. The sliced berries keep their flavor longer than any other type of frozen strawberry.

Fresh Peas

Varieties best suited for freezing are the Thomas Laxton and the Alderman (Telephone). Non-starchy peas that have been picked at the best point of their maturity should be used. In small quantities peas should be shelled by hand so that the wrinkled pods of over-mature peas can be thrown out. The shelled peas should be washed in cold water, then placed in a colander or wire basket and put into rapidly boiling water. Each pound of peas must have at least one gallon of water. Scald for one minute, lifting the peas up and down in the water the whole while to distribute the heat evenly through the entire batch. Remove and immerse peas in very cold water, 50 degrees Fahrenheit or lower if possible. Use two gallons of cold water to the pound of peas. When the peas have cooled to 60 degrees Fahrenheit or lower, remove, drain and place in moisture-proof containers—heavy paraffin bags or cellophane lined bags are good—use not more than 1 1/2 pounds of peas to the container. The product should then be placed in the sharp freezer as quickly as possible. If it is necessary to keep them in a warm atmosphere over a few minutes they should be fed or refrigerated in some manner.

Sour Cherries

Sour cherries should be washed in ice water as soon as they are picked from the orchard. The best varieties are Montmorency, English Morello and Early Richmond. Sort over cherries and stem, then pit either by hand or machine. Mix the pitted cherries with sugar while still cool, using three parts fruit to one part sugar. Place in cartons and cover with juice similar to the way whole strawberries in sugar are prepared.

For instructions about preparation of any other fruit or vegetable for freezing, consult us. If you don't have a locker and would like to freeze and store your fruit and vegetables for grand eating next winter, you will find upon investigation that cost of a locker is very low. Instructions FOR Quick Freezing

Vegetables and fruits grown at home may be prepared for freezing by following a few simple rules, and for the benefit of our patrons who want to freeze and store their home grown products we print these instructions about vegetables and fruits now in season. From time to time in future rules for freezing other fruits and vegetables will be given.

Whole Strawberries in Syrup

Best varieties of strawberries for freezing are the Marshall, Red Heart, Senator Dunlap, Missionary, Klondike and Blakemore. To prepare the whole strawberries use fully ripe but not mushy berries. Wash them in ice water and then hull. Place fruit in heavy paraffin paper board cartons to within 1-2 inch of the top. Sufficient sugar syrup should be added to cover the berries in each package. Close box and place promptly in sharp freezing room at 7 degrees Fahrenheit or lower. The sugar syrup is made by dissolving 65 parts of granulated sugar in 35 parts of boiling water. Make the syrup in advance and cool to below 70 degrees Fahrenheit before using.

Whole Strawberries with Sugar

Stir the washed, hulled, chilled berries with 1-2 of their weight of sugar until most of the sugar has dissolved in the juice. This produces a better flavored but more mushy mixture. Place fruit in boxes and cover with the juice made from the sugar. Place promptly in freezing room.

Sliced or Chopped Berries with Sugar

Chop or slice berries which have been washed and hulled and add one pound of sugar to each four pounds of strawberries. Mix, package, and put into freezing room. The sliced berries keep their flavor longer than any other type of frozen strawberry.

Fresh Peas

Varieties best suited for freezing are the Thomas Laxton and the Alderman (Telephone). Non-starchy peas that have been picked at the best point of their maturity should be used. In small quantities peas should be shelled by hand so that the wrinkled pods of over-mature peas can be thrown out. The shelled peas should be washed in cold water, then placed in a colander or wire basket and put into rapidly boiling water. Each pound of peas must have at least one gallon of water. Scald for one minute, lifting the peas up and down in the water, the whole while to distribute the heat evenly through the entire batch. Remove and immerse peas in very cold water, 50 degrees Fahrenheit or lower if possible. Use two gallons of cold water to the pound of peas. When the peas have cooled to 60 degrees Fahrenheit or lower, remove, drain and place in moisture-proof containers—heavy paraffin bags or cellophane lined bags are good—use not more than 1 1/2 pounds of peas to the container. The product should then be placed in the sharp freezer as quickly as possible. If it is necessary to keep them in a warm atmosphere over a few minutes they should be iced or refrigerated in some manner.

Sour Cherries

Sour cherries should be washed in ice water as soon as they are picked from the orchard. The best varieties are Montmorency, English Morello and Early Richmond. Sort over cherries and stem, then pit either by hand or machine. Mix the pitted cherries with sugar while still cool, using three parts fruit to one part sugar. Place in cartons and cover with juice similar to the way whole strawberries in sugar are prepared.

For instructions about preparation of any other fruit or vegetable for freezing, consult us. If you don't have a locker and would like to freeze and store your fruit and vegetables for grand eating next winter, you will find upon investigation that cost of a locker is very low. Fuson Tale Printed in Portland Tumbleweed

Merritt Hiram (Pat) Fuson continues to win honors in the literary field. Under the name of Hiram Merritt a story of his appears in the June issue of Tumbleweed, a magazine published at Portland, Ore. The story, "Sixteen and Nema," is written with the town of Ord as a background and the writer as the hero, or rather, the goat. Places alluded to are the cemetery, the fair grounds, Anderson's Island and the bakery. It is a short story, but very much to the point.

Ball Games Thursday Exceptionally Fast

More than one hundred spectators attended the softball games at the fair grounds park Thursday evening, and they were rewarded by getting to see two very fine games. These were the games postponed from the week before because of rain. In the first game the Douthits won a very fast game from the Cold Storage by a score of 3 to 2. Jensen and Rathbun were battery for the Douthits and Nay and Furtak for the Cold Storage. In the second game the Romans, Dr. Peppers, with the assistance of players drafted from other teams, defeated the Chanticleers 6 to 4. Blessing and Johnson did the battery act for the winners and Fredericksen and Dahlin for the losers. Again the Pearson and Anderson public address system was on the grounds, and Mayor M. B. Cummins officiated as announcer and did the play by play in true big league style.

Subscribers After 30 Years To the Editor of Quiz:

It has been thirty years since I left Nebraska after having lived three years in Valley county. Those were good years in the sense that they embodied days of peace, prosperity and security for this nation, especially for farmers. I often wonder how the morale of central Nebraska people has kept through the days of depression and recent New Deal, so for this reason I am mailing you a check for subscription to your paper. I hope to be able to make a trip through Ord sometime this year. Yours truly, L. Roy Danner. Editor's Note.—Mr. Danner's letter-head shows that he is a dealer in grain, seeds, feeds, flour, fence and salt in Astoria, Ill.

Board of Equalization Meeting June 11th 1940 at 10:00 a. m. Regular meeting of the County Board of Equalization of Valley County, Nebraska, called to order by Chairman with supervisors Jablonski, Suchanek, Bremer, Zikmund, Ball, Barber, and Hansen, and County Assessor Brox and County Clerk Klima, present upon roll call. The Chairman then announced the appointment of the following standing committees for 1940. COMMITTEE ON EQUALIZATION: Suchanek, Jablonski, Brox, Bremer. COMMITTEE ON COMPLAINTS: Zikmund, Ball, Barber. COMMITTEE ON LEVIES: Barber, Bremer, Ball, Klima. First name in each group is Chairman of such group or committee. The County Assessor Brox, then presented his report which read as follows, to-wit: June 10, 1940. Honorable Board of Equalization: In making my 1940 report I wish to state that 2850 personal tax schedules have been returned by the various precinct assessors on which I find an accumulated total valuation of tangible property in the amount of $1,553,555, which is a decrease of $115,715 from that of 1939 or about 7.0%. A study of some of the factors that account for this reduction shows that while the number on hand of all classes of livestock compare quite favorably with last year, the average price per head is a trifle lower. There is also very marked shortage of all kinds of grain and feeds and a slight decrease in the stocks of merchandise.

The Class A. intangible return in the amount of $262,430, shows a gain of $7900 or about 3.0%. The Class B. intangible return in the amount of $126,500 shows a gain of $10,060 or about 8.0%. Inasmuch as this is the year for the revaluation of all real estate I wish to make the following recommendations as County Assessor of Valley County. 1.—That a flat scale reduction be given to all real estate in the country subject to taxation and that inasmuch as there is very little real estate changing hands at the present time upon which to establish any fixed valuation that the amount of such reduction be kept in line with that being made in other counties and that of continuing the operation of this county on a sound financial basis. 2.—That a further reduction be given all farm lands situated within the boundaries of city school districts in line with Sec. 77-201, of the Statutes of Nebraska, as amended by the 1939 legislature, and that the amount of such reduction also be on a flat scale percentage basis, such scale to be determined by this board during their 1940 session.

submitted the following report, to-wit: We your committee on equalization for the year 1940 wish to make the following report and recommendations for the equalization of all tangible property in the County of Valley. 1.—In view of the 1940 assessed value of all real estate as heretofore determined by this Board, we suggest that in accordance with Sec. 77-201 of the compiled statutes of Nebraska for 1939 as amended by the 1939 legislature that a reduction of 13% be granted to all real estate together with the improvements thereon situated within the boundaries of the city or village school districts of North Loup, Ord and Arcadia and lying outside the corporate limits of these respective cities or villages. 2.—We suggest that after the above provisions have been complied with, that the following adjustments be made on the 1940 Real Estate assessment: (a) That all lands in this county lying within the North Loup River Valley be raised on the basis of $4.00 per acre on the number of acres irrigated on such lands during the 1939 season whether such irrigation be from public ditches or pumped from wells or streams. (b) That all lands in this county lying within the Middle Loup River Valley be raised on the basis of $3.00 per acre on the number of acres irrigated on such lands during the 1939 season whether such irrigation be from public ditches or pumped from wells or streams. 3.—We suggest that the County Assessor be instructed to make an assessment of $25.00 each on the Canteen candy dispensers in Ord City. 4.—In view of the foregoing action of this board in allowing a flat scale cut in all farm real estate, we suggest that any other reductions made by precinct assessors on farm real estate be disregarded by the County Assessor in computing the 1940 real estate assessment. Upon motion duly carried, meeting recessed subject to call of Chairman. IGN. KLIMA JR., County Clerk.

NOW... As Little As $345.00 Will Buy a New Allis-Chalmers All-Crop Harvester Buy an Allis-Chalmers All-Crop Harvester NOW and pay for it with your saving in harvesting costs on this year's grain crop. You say it can't be done? Come in and we'll prove to you that it can. The A-C Harvester is the modern way of harvesting all small grain and seed crops. Once over the field and you are done, with your grain sacked ready to be sold or put in the bin ready to be fed. No shocking grain, no long wait until the threshing machine can come. When you finish cutting your grain you are through threshing too, for the A-C Harvester cuts and threshes at the same time. IDEAL FOR SHORT GRAIN When the grain is short and ordinary cutting, shocking and threshing would result in a big loss, that's where the All-Crop shines. No matter how short the grain, or how tangled or matted it may be, or how many down stalks there are, the header of the All-Crop gets right down to the ground and gets every bit of the grain. Green weeds don't bother, either; no matter how weedy the field may be, your grain is clean when it comes out of the separator. TERMS CAN BE ARRANGED Come in today and see the various models of the Allis-Chalmers All-Crop Harvester. Let us tell you how you can get a new machine for as little as $345.00. Terms can be arranged if you desire. Anderson Motor Co. CHRYSLER ALLIS-CHALMERS IMPLEMENTS PLYMOUTH

The picture of the twins published last week proved easy for Quiz readers, who recognized them as the Severson twins, Addie and Ada, or Mrs. Noble Ralston and Mrs. John Mason. Mrs. John L. Robinson guessed the twins, and thought the other lady might be their mother. Mrs. A. C. Wilson and Mrs. E. E. MEDICAL FACTS

Sponsored by 4-COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

A group of new drugs, the best known example of which is sulfanilamide, have been the subject of news stories many times in recent years. There are a number of names for the same drug and some closely related compounds. The news stories have pictured the marvelous benefits to be expected from the use of some of these substances in various kinds of infections such as streptococcus infections, pneumonia, gonorrhea and many others, but rarely have these stories told the people the dangers of taking these medicines without careful supervision by your doctor.

These same stories have so impressed people who have read them that many druggists are frequently asked to sell these medicines without a doctor's prescription. Of course, your druggist is aware of the dangers of the sick person assumes if he treats himself with these drugs and always refuses to sell them "over the counter."

What are some of the things that may happen to some people who take these medicines? One of the less serious complications is a high fever sometimes accompanied by chills and sweats. This fever may continue as long as the drug is taken by that person. Sometimes this fever is the forerunner of some more serious complication. The fever itself, if not dangerous, is very uncomfortable and, if added to the symptoms of some disease for which the patient is being treated, may make matters worse.

These drugs have a depressing effect in some individuals, on the organs that form blood. This effect may rapidly lead to a very severe type of anemia. This anemia may not respond and death may result.

This depressing effect on blood forming organs may not affect all kinds of blood cells, but only the white corpuscles. When these little fighting cells disappear from the blood, ulcerations of the throat, high fever, blood poisoning come on and often this ends in disaster.

Another serious complication of the taking of this medicine is degeneration of the liver with jaundice. If this is not recognized and treated promptly, it too may kill the person.

Now all these complications can be recognized early and treated properly, if the one taking this drug is under proper medical supervision. It is, therefore, possible to safely use these valuable remedies in those diseases in which they will do good but it is unwise to use them in conditions where the value of their action is questionable and it is never safe to take them without medical supervision.

Ord Scouts Take Part in Camporee at Loup City

Events eagerly looked forward to by Boy Scouts are the Camporees held occasionally during pleasant weather, and the photos presented here were taken at the Camporee held in Loup City Monday and Tuesday. In the top photo is shown the morning flag raising, with Scouts standing at attention. In the middle photo the cooks are preparing dinner, while in the picture at bottom the meat is being served. The Scouts are lined up, plates in hand, while Warren Allen dishes out the corn and spuds, Scoutmaster Jewett puts steaks on their plates and another Scout serves cocoa to all comers.—Photos courtesy Sherman County Times.

Drilling at this well was financed largely by Nebraska people much like the Ardmore drilling in 1913, which also took place near the Nebraska-South Dakota line. In 1921, it was reported that it had been struck. However, on April 4, 1924, it was announced that the well would be abandoned. On May 9, 1924, hopes were revived somewhat when it was reported that gas had been found seeping from the waters of Beaver Creek on the Charles Krotz farm. An account from the Rushville Standard stated that gas bubbles arising to the top of the water burned readily when flame was applied to them. This development caused much enthusiasm. Apparently the gas flow was in too small a quantity for commercial use for nothing further was ever mentioned regarding it.

Later in 1924, the Standard referred to a Dr. Henry C. Cook, a geologist. This man was regarded as an authority on oil matters and aided in locating many drilling sites over the state. Dr. Cook, as he was known, was attempting to interest people in signing over leases of their property so that he could begin drilling. It was said that he had Omaha and Los Angeles capital behind him so there was no necessity for local investment.

In October, 1925, the Standard first mentioned an oil well Doc Cook was sinking on the Miller ranch, east of town. The last report concerning the drilling appeared in the paper on November 19, 1926.

The Quiz will print the complete schedule next week.

OIL DRILLINGS IN NEBRASKA

This is the ninth of the series of articles concerning oil drillings in Nebraska. All information was compiled by research workers of the Nebraska Writers' Project, WPA, from old newspapers and from data supplied by the University of Nebraska.

In 1918, the Bassett Oil and Gas Company completed arrangements for drilling a test well near Bassett. The demand for stock in the well became so great, according to Rock County Leader, that "curbstone" speculators were doing a thriving business selling stock to those who were unable to secure it when first issued.

Actual drilling began in April, 1918. Although operations were slowed considerably by quicksand over 30 feet were drilled on the first day. On one occasion drillers struck an oil fossil bed and a number of bones were brought up. By August 1, unofficial reports stated that a depth of over 2,000 feet had been reached. It was said that "smells" coming from the well resembled the odor of gas or oil. The undertaking was delayed by a series of breakdowns and cave-ins, but hopes remained high for a "gusher" strike.

On September 26, directors of the company decided to cease work temporarily because of inclement weather. For several months prior to this decision drilling had lagged while means were sought with which to retrieve a drill that had become lodged in the casing. During the winter months the company planned on increasing its capital stock so that drilling could continue in the spring.

In 1919, however, the first "hole" was abandoned and a new drilling site was selected. In October it was said that the new well was going down at a fast rate, without the delays which were experienced with the first well. But on November 13, 1919, cold weather began to hamper operations and the well was shut down for winter.

By the early part of 1920, drilling was resumed. In October of that year, it was reported that "favorable" indications of oil had appeared at between 1,500 and 2,000 feet. During the following month two obstacles, cold weather and lack of financial backing, caused the directors of the company to hold a meeting to discuss future plans. Nothing could be done about the weather, it was said, but one member suggested that if the par value of the stock were raised, it might improve the financial situation. Research workers of the Nebraska Writers' Project, WPA, assume that this procedure was adopted as drilling recommenced in the spring of 1921. According to records in the Nebraska Geological Survey's office, the drillings continued until a depth of 2,965 feet was reached. Then operations ceased.

In May, 1923, the Leader published information concerning a third drilling that was taking place near Bassett. The Royal Oil Company sponsored this endeavor but work was halted in November, 1923, at a depth of only 300 feet.

About the time that the first Bassett well was nearing completion, a drilling was started southeast of Potter by the Liberty Oil and Refining Company. The well was "spudded-in" May 3, 1919, before an enthusiastic gathering. Schools and stores in Potter were closed in order that everybody could attend the event. This spirit was noticeable throughout the first few months of drilling; picnics and other forms of entertainments taking place each week. On October 3, 1919, the Potter Review informed its readers that the drill had struck "different kinds" of shale at 370 feet, and that indications pointed towards a producing oil-well in the near future. In the same month the shortage of money resulted in the company making a plea to the stockholders for financial assistance. Enough money was raised by subscription so that drilling continued until December 5, at which time operations were forced to halt again for lack of money. Drilling was at a depth of 3,370 feet.

It was not until July 23, 1920, that negotiations for reopening the drilling began. At this time efforts were put forth to borrow money from local banks. These attempts failed however, when it was found that all available funds were tied up in financing the harvesting of the wheat crop. The site was then abandoned and the equipment that could be salvaged was sold to pay off debts.

In 1920 the people in and around Rushville were excited by an oil well near their town. A promotional company had been signing leases in northern Sheridan county for some time and many Rushville people became so enthusiastic over this procedure that they began to offer money for investment in the proposed well. When the drilling site was announced, 26 miles northwest of Rushville, just across the Nebraska boundary, line in South Dakota, there was a certain amount of disappointment noticeable in Rushville as the townspeople had expected a drilling within distance of town. Nevertheless they continued to put money in the venture.

IT HAPPENED IN ORD

A new type of motor vehicle is becoming quite the fad in Ord and Petska's grocery and Benda's clothing store are making deliveries with much speed of late. Hank Benda has been riding about town on his motor scooter, sometimes with the sidecar and sometimes without, and everybody in the Petska store and Dr. Lee Nay have been giving the Petska tricycle outfit daily workouts. Joking aside they look like an efficient and economical means of transportation.

Jack Janssen, not to be outdone, has painted his car a brilliant vermilion, with equally bright yellow trim. From now on Jack will have to be on his good behavior, because everyone will see and remember that car of his wherever he goes.

Kerry Leggett and Donnie McBeth were playing with toy airplanes in the Quiz yard last week. The planes cut many remarkable maneuvers and a man passing by had to dodge one of them to keep from getting hit. He was rather amused at the incident and said that it was all right because if it were Europe instead of America he would probably be trying to dodge real airplanes.

Springer Heads Republican Club Formed Thursday

Held Meeting at Opera House, Mrs. Lewin and C. W. McClellan, Vice-Presidents.

As the result of a county meeting of republicans held at the Ord Opera house Thursday evening, Tom Springer is president of the newly formed Republican club. The two vice-presidents are Mrs. Inez F. Lewin of Arcadia and C. W. McClellan of North Loup. Ed Kerchal of Ord is secretary-treasurer.

In spite of the heavyweight championship fight which was in progress and kept a number away listening to their radios, about one hundred persons were present when the meeting was called to order by temporary chairman, Tom Springer.

Mr. Springer explained the purpose of the meeting, and told of the temporary organization which had been effected two weeks before. "The purpose," said Mr. Springer, "is to form a Republican club modeled along the lines of those formed two years ago in Minnesota. These worked very effectively and the same plan is to be tried here."

The committee consisting of Hal Cooley of Arcadia, Gould Plagg and Mr. Springer, worked out a plan for the formation of a club in Valley county, selecting the best features of the constitution and bylaws used in Minnesota, where Mr. Cooley had much experience in forming clubs. One point of interest is that the club is entirely distinct, from, yet co-operating with, the Republican county committee.

As a prelude to the business session Mr. Cooley was introduced, and gave one of the best talks heard in Ord in years. He proved to be a forceful speaker with a fund of information on governmental subjects which he used most effectively throughout his speech. He had a startling array of statistics to prove various points as he brought them out.

He said: "We must not lose sight of the fact that above all else that there is no danger to democracy from the president of the United States than from all foreign dictators." He then proceeded to prove his statement by citing many and indisputable proofs.

Mr. Cooley then told of correspondence between John Adams and Thomas Jefferson, in which both expressed fears of the development of a "money aristocracy" in the United States. He quoted Adams: "Fears are indeed grave that some day dangerous demagogues may gain power through the public treasury and place such taxes on industry that they will become unbearable."

He showed how the very thing Adams and Jefferson feared had apparently come to pass. Mr. Cooley talked for half an hour and his remarks were listened to with great interest, and occasional bursts of applause.

Mr. Springer then read the proposed constitution and by-laws for the club, which were commented upon and then passed by a unanimous vote. There are to be no membership fees, the organization being supported entirely by donations. A board of 25 directors, representing the various voting interests of the county is to be chosen.

After the adoption of the constitution blank membership cards were passed and signed by practically all present. It was decided to elect the four officers at the present and attend to the selection of the other 21 committeemen at a meeting immediately following the close of the Republican national convention.

Ord Legion Juniors Lose Game to Greeley Friday

The Ord Legion Junior team apparently met up with a Friday flax at the new athletic field when they met defeat at the hands of the Legion Juniors from Greeley. Piskorski started for Ord and pitched the first 6 and 2-3 innings, with Rathburn receiving Stan Johnson served the slants for the visitors.

Ernie held the Irish without a score the first inning while a man hit by the pitcher and three hits started Ord off in the lead with three runs. For the next five innings Johnson held Ord with a hit, while he and his team mates took 12 off Piskorski, who also issued eight bases on balls in that number in innings.

At the end of the seventh inning the score stood 22 to 4 for the visitors. Here the Ord boys took a sudden lease on life, and when the dust had cleared away at the end of the ninth inning they had pushed seven runs across the plate to make the final score 24 to 11. Ord's next game is July 2 at Greeley.

Burwell Gains 256 in 10-Year Period

Burwell—(Special)—Residents of this village were elated Thursday when the census report was released showing that population has grown to 1,412, an increase of 256 since 1930. This is the largest gain of any town in the Loup valley region.

Mathematicians here have figured out that Burwell's rate of growth for the decade is 21.2807 per cent, as compared with Ord's rate of only .2695, and they point out that if the same ratio of gain persists Burwell eventually will be larger than Ord.

Taylor can claim the honor of having the most rapid growth of any Loup valley town, her population in 1940 being 350, a gain of 78.

Both Burwell and Taylor people are looking toward the future through rose colored glasses.

County Petroleum Industries Meeting

Officers Elected and Tax Relief for Users of Nebraska's Highways Urged.

Protesting against the high gasoline tax rate as well as other burdensome taxes and fees paid by oil men and car and truck owners and operators, and registering opposition to the use of gasoline tax and other highway revenue for any purpose other than the construction and maintenance of highways, members of the oil industry of Valley county met June 19, at Ord and elected the following officers: Chairman, Vernon Anderson, Ord; vice-chairman, Albert Boll, Burwell; secretary, Kenneth Leach, Ord.

A legislative committee was chosen, made up of the following men: Chairman, Jess H. Marvel, Arcadia; Ed Holub, Elyria; Vern Porter, Ord; I. S. Sheldon, North Loup.

Other committees are as follows: Public Relations, Chairman, F. V. Haight, Ord; Ben Janssen, Ord; O. M. Fredericksen, Ord; L. J. Auble, Ord. Local Affairs, Chairman, Paul Hubert, Ord; Frank Piskorski, Ord; A. C. Husbands, Ord.

Attention was called to the fact that Nebraska motor vehicle owners and operators paid 72.5 per cent of the total state taxes. This is far more than that paid by the same class in neighboring states. H. H. Hahn, secretary of the Nebraska Petroleum Industries committee, addressed the meeting and told the oil men the average filling station operator collected far more in taxes than in gross profits and that local government in Valley county received $40,516.16 in taxes from the county's 2,638 motor vehicle owners, an average of $15.39 per vehicle, in 1938. (This figure does not include real estate and personal property taxes on service stations, garages, etc.)

Mr. Hahn also called attention to the fact that highway taxes had increased $66,913,422 more in the decade ending in 1939 than they had during the prosperous decade ending in 1929.

—S. T. Grohosky of Scottia was in Ord Tuesday afternoon on business.

R. J. Clark Rounds Out 68 Years of Living in Valley County; First Settled on Huff Farm

Not many Valley county people can contest the record made by Rufus J. Clark, who, on June 7, completed 68 years of residence in the county. Mrs. O. A. Clark and her five children, of which Rufus was the second in age, arrived on that day from the old home in Washara county, Wis.

With her also came Mrs. Clark's brothers, Warren Collins, Hawley Collins and Rufus Collins. Warren Collins came with his family, but brother Hawley came with Mrs. Clark and Rufus came by train to Grand Island, leaving their families behind and going back to get them in the fall.

The caravan came by way of Des Moines and Council Bluffs, camping one evening on the bank of the Missouri in Iowa and then crossing on the ferry to Grand Island. Mr. Clark was past 3 years of age then, and remembers much of what happened.

Rufus and Hawley Collins got a rig at Grand Island and drove up into the North Loup valley to pick out their claims, then went back to Grand Island and came up with the rest of the group. There was no town anywhere this side of Grand Island except a few houses on the present site of St. Paul. A few families were already located near the present site of North Loup.

Mrs. Clark took for a homestead the place on which Howard Huff now lives and her brother Hawley took the place just west of town. The Warren Collins homestead was

Potato Will Be 'King for a Day' in Loup Valleys

Experts, Local Farmers, Will Inspect Fields on All-Day Tour of Two Valleys.

The lowly spud, despised by the modern woman in her effort to gain a slyph-like form, is coming into its own and Thursday, June 27 it will be king for a day when a number of business men and farmers and various experts from the University of Nebraska and officials of the Nebraska Potato Growers association will make a tour of inspection of the 800 acres of potatoes being grown in this section of the North Loup valley. The tour has been planned by R. H. Douglas, agricultural extension agent at Burwell, cooperating with C. C. Dale, Valley county agent.

Four of the outstanding fields near Burwell will be inspected in the afternoon. Those who will assist in conducting the tour are Dr. R. W. Gross, plant pathologist, Dr. H. O. Werner, and E. H. Hopper, horticulture specialist from the college of agriculture of the University of Nebraska; Vernon Linn, of Kimball, and T. H. Hankins, of Scottsbluff, two extensive potato growers in western Nebraska who have done much to encourage the potato industry in this locality; Marx Koehne, manager of the Potato Growers association and William Morrow, sales promoter for the Potato Growers association, both of Alliance, and possibly Carlisle Hodgson, who writes the R. F. D. column in the Omaha World-Herald.

Last year farmers believed that finally they had found a way to earn an honest dollar when $9 carloads of potatoes were shipped out of Burwell while possibly an equal amount were trucked away to markets. The acreage was doubled this year and farmers have high hopes for an abundant harvest as the fields are in excellent condition with large tubers already set on. Two spraying outfits have been operating day and night in an effort to keep the bugs from damaging the crop.

Burwell business men are enthused over the infant industry which has brought a measure of prosperity to their town and are planning the tour in large numbers. Taylor is also cooperating in making the day a success and a dozen or more carloads of Loup (Continued on page 6)

Old Time Ord Residents Visited Here on Monday

Harry Kates of San Diego, Calif., his son Richard, Mrs. H. H. Roosa of Lincoln and Mrs. A. R. Capron of Lincoln drove to Ord from Lincoln Monday and spent the day renewing acquaintance with old friends. Mr. Kates worked on the Ord Quiz when he lived in Ord, but moved away from here 35 years ago.

Mrs. Roosa is the former Lula Kates, and Mrs. Capron is her sister, the former Jennie Kates. They are the children of Frank Kates, once of Ord, and J. P. Kates, early day county superintendent and school teacher, was their uncle. They had not visited in Ord for 35 years and found it difficult to recall many of the places they once knew.

11 Ord Boys Won Prizes in Their Home-made Racers Wednesday

In the lower photo are shown, at left, Daryl Johnson and Billie Anderson. The former had the best racer made entirely by himself, and Billie had the fastest car. In the photo at right, below, Chairman Ed Gnaster is presenting a double-barreled air rifle to Billie Anderson while other racers and their friends look on enviously, though every boy who competed won some kind of a prize. All Roads Will Lead to Taylor Sunday, June 30

Plans are about complete for the old Settlers' picnic which is to be held at Taylor next Sunday, June 30. The Taylor people will furnish plenty of good water and free hot coffee, and the program will be given in the park, with the band pavilion available for the bands, of which there will be several.

All who attended the picnic at Taylor last year do not need to be told that a fine time is in store for them, and the Taylor people are ideal hosts and make everybody feel at home. All visitors are to bring their picnic lunch and there is plenty of room to have your picnic in the park.

The principal features of the program will be the address of welcome by Judge Thurman A. Smith of Taylor, the response by Mrs. Mary R. Davis of North Loup a commemorative service for Geo. W. McAnulty with Mrs. B. A. Rose of Burwell in charge, and a talk by E. L. Vogelzanz of Ord. In addition there will be community singing, special music by a group from North Loup, and talks by a number of old settlers.

Bands from Sargent and Comstock and the Loup Valley band will be on the grounds to furnish music during the day. Auble Bros. public address system will be in use during the program. Visitors from down the river will have an opportunity to see the fine crops growing under irrigation in the upper Loup valley.

Millard D. Bell, former superintendent of the Ord schools, is now supervising principal of a public elementary school in Ladue, a suburb of St. Louis, Mo., of which most residents are wealthy. Ord Rotarians learned Monday evening from Mr. Bell, who was visiting friends in this city. When he lived here Mr. Bell was a Rotarian and served one term as president of the club.

After leaving Ord he attended Columbia university, New York City, two years, and emerged with a Ph. D. degree to supplement his A. B. and A. M. degrees previously earned at University of Nebraska, Peru Normal and elsewhere. He was given a three-year contract at the Ladue, Mo., school, and during the past two summers has taught special courses at Auburn University and Ohio University, in the college of education of each school.

Ladue, where he will be head of the school system for a third year next term, has a population of about 4,000, mostly wealthy families whose men head businesses in St. Louis and have large suburban homes at Ladue. "Our home town is neither country nor city," he combines the advantages of both," Mr. Bell says.

On his school board is a vice-president of the Lambert Pharmaceutical Co., the comptroller of Amheuser-Busch corporation, one of the leading medical specialists of St. Louis, two wealthy real estate men and a St. Louis broker, he told Rotarians.

Only kindergarten and the first eight grades are included in the Ladue system, since a big majority of residents send their children to private schools when they reach high school age. Newest theories of education are used in the Ladue schools, said Mr. Bell. For instance, it is the only elementary school in the United States to have typewriting classes for children in (Continued on page 6)

K. of C. Regular Meeting

The regular meeting of the Knights of Columbus will be held at the hall Wednesday evening, July 3. There is a special entertainment to welcome the new members, who are requested to be present to receive their certificates.

Schauer Bitten By Spider

Bill Schauer was bitten by a black widow spider at his home last Tuesday evening, and he was a very sick man for two nights and a day. He is not yet fully recovered. He was brought to town Wednesday morning where Dr. J. N. Round took care of the case.

New Inhalator Was Used for First Time

The first call for Ord's new inhalator came late Friday evening. Dr. H. N. Norris suffered a heart attack at about 3 a. m. and was breathing with great difficulty. Mrs. Norris called and the firemen took the instrument to the doctor's home where it was used with success and he was soon breathing normally again. He is now feeling as well as usual.

Early Sunday morning Dr. J. G. Kruml was called to the Donald Cone home west of Ord where a baby was born. The baby was not breathing properly and it took some time to correct the difficulty. There was no phone and for this reason the inhalator was not called for, although it could have been used to good advantage.

Cosmopolitan Club in Final Meet of Season

The Ord Cosmopolitan club met Monday evening in the final meeting of the season at the City cafe. Bill Anderson and Jay Stoddard, winners of first and second place, respectively, of the soap box derby, were present as guests of the club.

President J. N. Round spoke of the success of the derby, saying that the interest shown by the boys made it certain that it would be made an annual affair. It was decided to put off the election of officers until the first meeting next fall. A motion carried to send a telegram from the club to John P. Misko, now at the republican convention in Philadelphia.

Ed Gnaster, chairman of the derby committee was complimented for his success in putting it over, and he, in turn, gave credit to several members who helped him in the work. Mr. Gnaster then introduced Bill Anderson, first place winner, who thanked the club for making it possible for the boys to win prizes, and said he would start in two weeks on his racer for next year, which he would make all by himself. Jay Stoddard was next introduced, and admitted that he had made his winning car in two days, and that he would make a much better one for next year.

Nordstrom Auto Hits Post Saturday Night

The 1935 Chevrolet owned and driven by Dave Nordstrom collided with one of the posts of a culvert on highway 57 just south of Ord Saturday evening, with the result that considerable damage was done and Mr. Nordstrom suffered a number of bruises. The car was towed to the Anderson Motor company where Mr. Nordstrom traded it in on a 1936 Plymouth. George Anderson is repairing the old Nordstrom car.

State Engineers Here

C. B. Felger, engineer in charge, assisted by F. L. Dotson and H. C. Merriam, all of Lincoln, are in the valley at present, surveying highway No. 11 between Ord and Burwell. Repairs more extensive than the maintainer can make are planned, and a new survey is necessary to indicate the places where the grade will need to be raised.

Many Ordites Enjoy Ord's First Derby Races Wednesday

Event Sponsored by Cosmo Club Most Interesting Affair of Season.

Wednesday afternoon was ideal for the running of the Cosmopolitan Soap-Box Derby, which proved to be one of the outstanding sporting events of the year. The people began to arrive right after dinner, and so many came that Nels Hansen, official timer and traffic cop, was kept busy lining them up where all could see and still not be in the way of the autos.

The affair, which for a time promised to be a flop for lack of contestants, took on added interest in the last few hours as more of the boys got their machines in readiness and arrived to take part in the races. In fact the last contestant to arrive, Bill Husbands, got in too late to compete in the main events and had to be satisfied with winning the consolation. With Ed Gnaster as superintendent of speed, the races started promptly at 2:30. The services of Clyde Baker had been secured as official starter, and he handled the several events with neatness and dispatch. Nels Hansen, official timer, held the stop watch on the contestants, and reports that the fastest cars attained a maximum speed of 29 1/2 miles per hour.

Harry Wolf, John Haskell and Elmer Dahlin were the official judges. K. W. Peterson was in charge of the tow car and pulled the cars back up to the starting line behind his auto. Two doctors were on the job in case of accidents. Dr. John Round at the starting line and Dr. J. G. Kruml at the finish. Luckily their services were not needed.

The following is the list of events, the names being given in the order in which the boys finished.

- Event No. 1: Bob McBeth, Bill Whelan, Ted Golka.
- Event No. 2: Bill Anderson, Donald Walker, Verden Valasek.
- Event No. 3: Jay Stoddard, Jimmie Pafeita, Darrell Johnson.
- Event No. 4: Pafeita, Walker, Whelan.
- Event No. 5: Valasek, Golka, Johnson.
- Event No. 6: Bill Husbands, Raymond Biemond, Whelan, Johnson.
- Event No. 7: Anderson, Stoddard, McBeth.

The most exciting events were No. 5, in which the Johnson car crashed, and the Nebraska Sweepstakes, No. 7. In event No. 5, Johnson was going good when he hooked wheels with Golka, bent his front axle double and threw off every tire. In spite of this he got his car repaired in time to take part in race No. 6. Golka got back into the running and managed to coax his car across the finish line.

In event No. 7 it was anybody's race most of the way, with Stoddard leading for the first 200 feet. However "Wild Bill" Anderson's entry had greater staying power and crossed the finish line nearly two feet in advance of Stoddard, who took second place, with McBeth a cinch for third. It is to be regretted that the Husbands' entry arrived too late, as he had the fastest car on the hill, and would have made it plenty exciting for the spectators in the main events.

The boys won as follows: Darrell Johnson won the hunting knife for having the neatest outfit. Anderson won a tennis racket and an air rifle. Stoddard won a pair of skates and a leather jacket. McBeth won a wrist watch. Pafeita won a baseball glove. Valasek won a football. Walker, Golka, Husbands, Biemond and Whelan each won flashlights.

The Cosmopolitan club is highly pleased with the interest shown in the contest by the boys, their parents and the public in general, and they are planning already to make the event bigger and better in 1941. They wish to thank all who contributed in any way to make the affair a success.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Klein and daughter Mae drove to Ogallala Saturday to visit relatives. They were accompanied by John Eddie Rohde and he visited his brother at Ogallala.

OUR COMPLEX CIVILIZATION

The story of the family that starved to death because the husband brought home a loaf of bread that wasn't sliced may be slightly exaggerated, but it serves to make us realize what a long distance we have come since the day of the old-fashioned storekeeper who sold everything in bulk and wrapped up the amount you wanted.

There were no breakfast foods as we know them fifty years ago. They are a development of our modern civilization and came into being about the start of the 20th century, although a few, like Shredded Wheat, date back much further. However, they did not come into general use for nearly a decade, and the variety was not as great as it is today.

Not one family in fifty used bakery bread fifty years ago, and in many places there were no bakeries. That was in the days when every woman you met knew how to bake good bread. Today with many women the baking of bread is a lost art, and even the best of them use the bakery product occasionally.

Then too, the methods of handling bread have changed radically through the years. In the early days the bread was all put into shelves under glass, and when a customer bought a loaf or two they were wrapped up in the regular brown or yellow wrapping paper. How shockingly unsanitary! A sliced loaf of bread was unknown.

The ways of handling meat have changed radically through the years. A half century ago the animals were slaughtered and brought up from the slaughter house in quarters or halves and hung on the meat hooks which adorned both sides of the front part of the butcher shops. When you wanted some meat you indicated what you wanted and the butcher took down the piece from the hook and cut it off.

Much depended on a quick turnover then, for meat spoiled quickly without adequate refrigeration, and the ice boxes of the time were entirely inadequate either to hold all the meat that needed cooling or to keep it as cool as it should be. Farmers then butchered their own meat and either smoked it or kept it in brine. Today many farmers do not butcher at all, but get the meat from the shop as they need it.

Gasoline was practically unknown fifty years ago, and what little there was, was used to run the few gas engines that there were then. The principal business in fuel was in the sale of kerosene or coal-oil, which was used almost exclusively for lighting purposes or for kerosene stoves. Stores handled both kerosene and gasoline, which accounted for many articles of food being flavored with kerosene.

Perhaps the greatest change has come in the dairying industry. The early settlers milked their cows, skimmed the milk, churned the cream and took the butter to town, selling it at about one third what butter is worth on the market today. Now they bring their cream to town, sell it at the creamery and take home butter even better than they could make themselves.

The old time grocer had a job on his hands when a customer gave him an order. He had to weigh out, measure out and wrap up each article that the customer wanted. Perhaps this gave the transaction a personal touch that it does not have today, but who would care to go back to those times and put up with those inconveniences.

These changes have come in our everyday life in the past half a century and many still living can recall all the steps of the change. It serves to show us that we have come a long way in a comparatively short time. It proves that the world in which we live is changing, and changing fast. It is up to us to change with it or be left behind.

A FEW THINGS TO THINK ABOUT

Written by GEORGE GOWEN

Are You Pro-German Works Either Way All In a Hurry Leak in the Dyke

Are You Pro-German?

There is much discussion around about who are pro-German and who are not. It seems to many that this is carrying things a little too far in that we are not at war with Germany yet, and this is supposed to be a country of free speech and thought.

Never-the-less, there is a preponderance of sympathy for the allies in this war, and those people who uphold Hitler and his conquests, his invasions of small neutrals, his gestapo and despotic form of government, are very unpopular.

It is told that two men from Scotia were called by the P. B. I. to Grand Island for questioning as possible fifth columnists. There have been several instances where fights were nearly started because someone was standing up for Hitler.

It is told that one German immigrant expressed the fact that he would have been better off had he never come over here. A man promptly answered, "Why don't you go back. No one asked you to come." He replied, "I haven't the money to go back." The American dug in his pocket, "I'll give you a dollar and take up a collection and we'll see to you getting back all right." That ended the conversation.

On the other hand a man of German parentage came to me the other day and said he had been accused of being pro-German. He said he had little use for the English but he was for America ahead of any country. This man was sixty years old and quite fleshy. He said if Hitler invades this country, I'll join the army. I would be no good as a fighter but I could run a truck, and would do it if they would let me.

Works Either Way

A rather peculiar mechanical incident occurred at the cheese factory a couple of weeks ago. It happens that the factory has its own water pump and pressure tank and they try to use it for all their water with the exception of the minimum amount allowed by the city. They also have the city water and both systems are hooked together. The pressure in the city system is about 35 pounds so the way the hook-up is set, the water used will come from the private pump and pressure tank except when turned otherwise.

A few weeks ago the city drained the water tower so as to paint it. The factory had not been using the city water for the men watch the meter and they already had used 16,000 gallons. Not thinking of the city water pressure being low they went home at night, as usual, without turning the valves. Late that evening the manager went back to the factory and was surprised to hear the motor and their water pump operating. As he stood there he also heard the water meter clicking.

He couldn't understand it all so he took a flashlight and studied the meter. He discovered the meter was running backwards and that in place of 16,000 gallons registered, there was 10,000 gallons. Their private system was pumping water back into the city mains, trying vainly to get the pressure in the small tank.

All in a Hurry
A few people already in the city of North Loup have been able to get irrigation water to their gardens. Every effort is being made to get the street crossings dug in, because now, again, the gardens need water.

The WPA boys are doing the work but they need a boss badly. Cliff Goodrich has been helping when he gets the mail carried and everyone says he is a splendid manager. He says too that the boys are O. K. if they have someone to keep them going. Jim Coleman has helped and others have volunteered. Walt Paddock has been the boys' boss all along but with the rush desired, he cannot see to it all.

Placing the large cement tile across the streets is the big job. Then there is the making of the ditches, and on top of that everyone wants water and wants it now.

The Leak in the Dyke
The story was told me by Roy Hudson. It happens that between Ord and Burwell there is a stretch of the main canal that is especially vulnerable and should any leak or small accident occur there, the whole system might be wrecked.

L. E. Walford, the engineer, knows this well and has made it a point every time he is near to take a look to be sure things are intact. One day last week on a hurry call to Burwell he was tempted to pass up looking, but finally decided he better not as he had never passed it up before. He parked his car a short distance away and walked up to the canal. He was lucky for just as he got there he discovered a hole about a foot deep and the water was beginning to rush out in a hurry.

By the time he could get his shovel the hole would be much larger and he couldn't throw enough dirt with his hands to stop the break. He did not hesitate. He jumped into the water and sat down in the hole. That stopped the break; then he took his hands and pulled the mud in under him with both hands, building himself up until the leak was stopped.

Short Shavings
If you recall, just before the last rain, things were getting pretty dry, so Gus Wetzel spent several days irrigating his forty acres of vegetables. He hated to do this for at this time of year, Gus and his crew have a dozen jobs every day. Never-the-less he irrigated. Then it rained and rained again and after the week of wet weather Gus had to spend a couple of days draining his fields. Ed Miller has had his head clipped and shaved. Then on top of this, he loafs on the streets Saturday and Wednesday evenings without his hat on. The story is told that Sterling Manchester took in (gross) over a thousand dollars from his one acre of strawberries.

Notes From the VALLEY COUNTY FARM BUREAU

By C. C. Dale

Some suggestions for properly eradicating bindweed were passed on to Valley county farmers this week by Agricultural Agent C. C. Dale.

Clean cultivation has proved to be the most dependable and economical method of eradication, according to research work done by the University of Nebraska and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, cooperatively near York. A duckfoot cultivating or some machine utilizing a similar tillage principle is the best implement for cultivating bindweed.

Discing, the experiments show, is not a satisfactory eradication method because of failure to cut off all the bindweed plants. Thoroughness of each cultivation is all important in the success of the cultivation program which should be started about two weeks after the first bindweed plants appear or about the middle of May. Cultivations should follow at two-week intervals until top growth is killed by low temperatures in the fall. This frequently of cultivation is based on cultivations made about 4 inches deep. The depth is apparently not an important factor in eradication and since deep cultivation requires more power and decreased the number of operations only slightly, it is doubtful if cultivations deeper than four or five inches advisable.

Dale says cultivation at two-week intervals will permit from 6 to 9 days' growth of the bindweed plants above ground. This has been found to be advantageous in depleting root reserves. Cultivations at two-week intervals will require 12 to 14 cultivations during the first season and from 8 to 10 cultivations the second season for successful eradication. Persistent patches may even require a few cultivations in the third season.

Farm Facts and Fun
The final Farm Facts and Fun radio broadcast for the current season is scheduled for this Saturday, June 29, over a statewide wireless network. The program will be resumed on September 7. One feature of the broadcast this Saturday will be a discussion of the tenant purchase program of the U. S. department of agriculture. Theodore Gerdes, Gage county tenant purchase borrower, and Kenneth Wachter, Gage county Farm Security supervisor will take part.

Be sure to hear this last broadcast of Farm Facts and Fun in the current season's series this Saturday. The broadcast will be heard from 1 until 1:30 p. m. over the following stations: WOW, Omaha; KGNF, North Platte; KMMJ, Grand Island; KORN, Fremont; WJAG, Norfolk; KGFV, Kearney.

Produces Alfalfa Seed
Alfred O. Olson, Nance county farmer living near Fullerton, believes alfalfa seed can be profitably produced in Nebraska. And he backs up his statement with actual experience.

A grower of alfalfa for 30 years, he started producing seed in 1932. Later in the spring of 1935 he seeded 87 acres to certified Grimm alfalfa. The seed crop from this field for the two years of 1933 and 1939 brought in almost $6,000, in addition to fair crops of fine quality hay.

Olson, however, goes about his seed production systematically. He scatters poison bait over his entire field immediately after the first crop has been taken off to kill the grasshoppers. He has no appreciable trouble, as a result, from the hoppers. Also, Olson says it is a good plan to manage the cuttings so as to leave a little growth of alfalfa on the ground in the fall months. This will protect the plants and help conserve moisture.

4-H Conservation Camp
The next big statewide event on the 4-H club calendar in Nebraska is the annual Conservation Camp which will be held at the Chadron State Park in the northwestern part of the state, July 16-19. It is the first time the camp has been held at Chadron. The camp officially opens at 9 a. m., July 16, and closes with a short meeting following the evening meal on July 19. During the encampment, the 4-H club members and adults will have an opportunity to study conservation of natural resources.

Two New Publications
Two new publications are now available to Valley county farm people. E. F. Frolik and P. D. Keim have written Circular 63, entitled "Buffalo Grass for Lawns," which gives the latest information about how to use this type of grass for farm and city lawns. O. S. Bare, Extension Entomologist, has prepared the latest information on chinch bug control in Extension Circular 151. The publication is entitled "Construction and Use of Chinch Bug Barriers."

Free copies of these publications are available at the County Agents office.

++ Something Different ++

Surely Ord is glad to hear of the good fortune of Evelyn Sharp, most famous young lady raised here in a number of years. Evelyn has an excellent government job at Mitchell, S. D., instructor in flying there, which she won by passing some good stiff examinations and plenty of them.

I am always disappointed in Evelyn's pictures, for they never do her justice. They never show her gayety or vivacity, her cuteness.

Just as I was amazed last week at the insulating picture of the little bride, Mrs. Laverne Duemey, here is a most attractive little person but no one would ever guess it from that picture of her in the Quiz last week! While her husband's photo made him look like a movie star; what goes on here?

I think it is time rules of our city park were made more strict, and enforced better. There is so much waste and damage done there most of it by young people who know much better. Bud works awfully hard out there, and he deserves some help from all of us.

He has installed drinking cups at that well dozens of times, only to have them stolen. Toilet paper disappears and is wasted to decorate trees or play ball with, or other nonsense... dozens of rolls of it a week, did you know?

Bud works all winter on his own time building bird houses. A year or two 30 to 39 new ones vanished in one day or were broken, did you know that? Only a few days after they were installed.

After much experimenting, Bud perfected and made strong sturdy benches for the park. He moulded the cement ends with steel bars in them to make them tougher, scouring the countryside to find castoff steel because he has no funds allotted for such material. Heavy boards made the seats, proper. Not long ago some people hauled all those heavy benches across the road to assemble them for some meeting. They promised to lug them back to their places. But they never did.

Bud works backbreaking hours on the lovely flower beds he creates each summer. Many people feel free to steal the flowers. The wooden benches and tables for picnicking have to be painted and kept sturdy for they are much used. But many diners let their children race over the table tops, jump on and off of them and otherwise weaken them.

This spring two seventeen-year-old youths came down to the park with slingshots. One boy would shake the poles on which the bird house rested while the second youth stood at a distance. When the mother bird rushed out to see what was threatening her young, this brave young sportsman shot her! They had a pile of mother birds when Bud found what they were doing.

The outdoor fireplaces Bud built a number of years ago of concrete and iron bars have many broken and twisted bars, as well as crumpled cement. It must have been hard work for someone to ruin these to this extent. I think it would have to be done deliberately.

Whether you like Bud and his crusty ways or not, recognize that he labors faithfully at Bussell park. He puts forth every effort to improve it and make it beautiful and usable for us. I think he should have our support. The law should be enforced. People found defacing park property should be punished or fined. Our park is lovely and worthy of our efforts. —Irma.

In the Good Old Days

Abvoo is shown another H. G. Westberg photo of some fifty years ago, and old timers and possibly some not so old should have little trouble figuring out who the two men are. The fishermen last week were Phil Busby and Ed Watson, and were guessed correctly by Kit Carson, Clay McGrew and Dr. G. W. Taylor in that order. J. J. Beehrle guessed Busby all right, but did not know Watson.

In County 68 Years Is Record Made by Ordite

The Haskells then lived across the river near the present Bailey school. Frank, son of Uncle Daniel Bailey lived at the Bailey place and Rufus was staying with his uncle, Rufe Collins. The three crossed the North Loup river in a flat bottomed boat and then waded through damp grass higher than their heads on their way to the school house. The school lasted about three months.

In 1874 the S. S. Haskell family came to Ord and that same summer the first schoolhouse was being built in what is now Ord. The frame of the building was up and the roof being put on, and the Haskells moved into the unfinished structure while Mr. Haskell built his hotel, which stood northeast of the present city light and power plant.

Mr. Clark went to this school for a time when it was completed and ready for use that fall. The Haskell hotel was run on its first location until 1886, when it had to be moved, as it was on the right-of-way of the Union Pacific railroad, which built into town that summer. The building was then moved and is still a part of the present Jones rooming house, better known as the Transit house.

As a young fellow Mr. Clark worked at whatever he could get to do. One summer, in 1876 or 1877, worked for a man named David Moore near where Scofield now is. George McAnulty later married the daughter of Mr. Moore and afterward purchased the farm, which he still owned at the time of his death. There young Clark herded cattle and hogs all summer at $6 per month.

He worked a year for Dan Buchanan on a farm about a mile west of Ft. Hartsuff. He took the place of Buchanan's daughter, who was supposed to herd them, but fell off her pony and broke her leg, leaving the job for Clark. He drove the cattle across the river to the south every day and back at night, herding all the time without a pony.

Among the cattle there were four cow elk and one bull. The cow elk gave Clark very little trouble, but the bull was of a mean disposition, and he had to carry a heavy club all the time to make him behave. As a further protection, the bull had about 50 feet of rope on him all the time.

Mr. Clark visited the Fort a number of times while working for Mr. Buchanan, and took dinner with the soldiers one day. He recalls that they had a fine lawn in the parade ground, which had a flag pole in the center from which the American flag fluttered all day long. There were also small trees set about in orderly array wherever space permitted.

Of special interest was the stockade, which was built on the hill around the well and connected with the fort proper by an underground passage. The walls of the stockade were built of red cedar logs set upright about three feet into the ground and six or seven feet above, forming a solid wall all the way around. Years later he and his father-in-law, Mr. Gifford, hauled the last of these logs from the stockade to Ord, where they were sold for windmill anchor posts.

Mr. Clark recalls that he did a lot of work for Uncle Daniel Bailey and for his own uncles, Rufus and Warren Collins. At the age of 14 he went into the harvest field and bound his station with such old timers as Sam Stacy and Harve Potter, and kept right up with the rest. Then came the harvester with the platform on which the men stood and bound the grain as it came up the elevator.

With his older brother, Jerry, Mr. Clark did what farming he could on the home place, and he also worked for a time for his sister's husband, Lon Firkins. While the pay was not much, he recalls that there was always plenty of work for those who wanted it. In those days any boy 14 years old who was physically able could and did handle a man's job.

R. J. Clark and Miss Mittie Gifford were married February 2, 1887. The first year after their marriage they farmed on the now Frank Kull farm across the river. The second year they farmed the place of his uncle Rufus, while the third year they farmed the Eastman farm (now the Hawes Timmerman place) in Springdale, while the Eastmans went east.

From there they moved up to the Robbins place on Elm Creek, a mile south of the brick school, and stayed there two years. They then moved to the Lon Firkins place (now W. J. Hather.) The first year there, 1893, they lost all their crop by hail, and in 1894 they were dried out, and, as might be expected went flat broke.

They moved to town, and that

OIL DRILLINGS IN NEBRASKA

This is the tenth of the series of articles concerning oil drillings in Nebraska. All information was compiled by research workers of the Nebraska Writers' Project, WPA, from old newspapers and from data supplied by the University of Nebraska.

In 1919, the editor of the Crawford Tribune was doing his utmost to secure an oil test well at Crawford. Recent developments at the Lusk, Wyo., fields had led him to believe that oil in paying quantities could be found near Crawford. After waging a campaign for several months the Tribune managed to create sufficient interest in the oil possibilities to interest two local men in sinking a well on School-House Hill at Crawford. The well was named the "Stapleton-Coleman Well."

Drilling commenced in early 1920. On April 16, 1920, it was reported that a gas flow had been struck which was so powerful that it blew water, mud and oil 75 feet into the air. A heavy roaring as of boiling water continued for some time after the explosion. A curious crowd gathered at the site and one adventurous spirit threw a lighted paper in the casing which caused the escaping gas to ignite. The fire destroyed much equipment before the well could be capped.

Rumors of the gas strike attracted representatives of several large oil companies who apparently were not impressed, for nothing more was done at the site until March, 1923, when local citizens undertook the formation of a company to test further the gas possibilities in the locality. After a series of meetings enough money was raised by subscription to organize the Crawford Drilling Syndicate and preparations were completed for drilling another well on School-House Hill.

On June 8, 1923, the Tribune stated that drilling had reached a depth of 40 feet. A later report gave incomplete information concerning two other wells that were being drilled nearby; the Mass Well which was over 200 feet deep, and the Phillips Well. By July 13, the latter wells had been abandoned, and, because of cave-ins and other difficulties, it was feared that the School-House Hill well would also be forced to shut down.

Two months later, on Sept. 14, 1923, it was announced that the School-House Hill well would be abandoned even though a definite showing of gas was present. At the time there was some agitation for sinking a well on lower ground but the idea was never acted upon.

A short time after the gas strike at Crawford, the Harrison Sun told of a proposed deep-well drilling that was to take place near Agate. At the outset, the Associated Oil Company of Wyoming, nationally known promoters of the well, made plans for sinking a 4500 foot test well on a location several miles east of Agate Springs Ranch. This drilling is not to be confused with a later Agate Springs well which winter Mr. Clark worked on the ditch for the sewer which was being put in from the Ord hotel to the river. The next spring he started the Clark dray line, which he kept going for a period of 20 years, until his health began to fail and he had to quit. He sold his four teams and drays at auction and Harry Dye bought one of them and continued the business.

Beginning January 7, 1920, Mr. Clark became custodian of the First National bank, a position he held for 18 years. Even before that time he was janitor of the Methodist church, a job he held for 18 years. In 1936 he retired from both jobs because of his health.

Mr. Clark is of the opinion that the danger from hostile Indians in the '70s was not as great as some seem to think. He says the people around Ord were never troubled by them. Of course the building of the fort to the north of the settlement doubtless had much to do with the feeling of security they enjoyed.

A high point in the life of Mr. Clark occurred last fall when his two living brothers, Jerry of Gig Harbor, Wash., and George of Custer, S. D., arrived to spend a short time visiting him. It had been the first time they had all been together in 49 years. The sister, Mrs. Lon Firkins of Nampa, Ida., was unable to be here at the time. Mrs. Firkins owns land at Nampa, but spends most of her time in California. A half-sister of the group lives near Seattle, Wash.

Both happiness and sorrow has been the lot of Mr. Clark, but he feels that the happiness has outweighed the sadness. At 76 he can look back on a life well spent. His children, Cecil and Mrs. Ava Nell of Ord, Ancil of Mead, Colo., and Bernard of Frederick, Colo., are all doing well, and are a credit to the communities in which they live.

Mr. Clark says that 68 years seems like a long time, but as he looks back it seems only yesterday that he was a boy herding cattle on the prairies of the valley.

was sunk to a greater depth than any other Nebraska well. Among the elaborate arrangements made by the company at the drilling site was a boarding house for employees, and telephone connections with nearby towns. According to the Sun, this was to be a "real up-to-date" drilling.

The well was "spudded-in" Nov. 15, 1920. Research workers of the Nebraska Writers' Project, WPA, find that there was little "ballyhoo" in connection with this drilling. Most of the newspapers accounts were brief and carried little information of the well's progress. This condition was more than likely due to the "close-mouthed" drilling crew who had been instructed not to give out facts concerning the undertaking.

On Nov. 23, 1921, the company decided to discontinue work on the well at a depth of 4470 feet. The $250,000 had been spent in making the test, it was said. There was resentment on the part of certain persons in Harrison who felt that the company withheld vital facts of the drilling which might have aided in future drillings.

In 1922, another Sioux county drilling took place, this time 12 miles northwest of Harrison. Few accounts of the drilling were published by newspapers, but one report stated that gas and oil had been found. Nevertheless, the well finally proved to be a "dry" hole.

Eastern Nebraska also came in for its share of oil drillings at this time. Reports from the Fairbury News, described attempts that were being made to attract investors in the Jefferson County Oil Project Development Company. On Dec. 23, 1920, it was said that the financial end of the drilling was completed and preliminary work for drilling on the William Germer farm west of Jansen had started. However, actual drilling never took place. A short time later, on Febr. 24, 1921, the Ross-Dome Oil Company divulged its intention of drilling on the Nels McDowell farm southwest of Fairbury. This organization had been obtaining leases on Jefferson county land for four years and at the time had 20,000 acres under lease. According to a spokesman the company planned to sink three wells near Fairbury. A noticeable feature of this concern's activities was the number of lawsuits that it became engaged in over leases.

Drilling operations on the McDowell farm started in June, 1921. By Oct. 13, the well had reached a depth of 1110 feet, but at this point drilling ceased due to a court order which placed an attachment on the rigging for non-payment of the driller's salaries. The News expressed dismay over this action and issued a plea that local people get behind the venture in a financial way so that drilling might go on. The plan fell, unexecuted, however, and the Ross-Dome Company left town leaving behind many creditors.

There was much litigation over the disposal of the equipment, but in 1925, a new concern, headed by several Omaha men, bought out the creditors and moved the rigging to a new location south of Thompson, a short distance from the Kansas line. W. H. Ingersoll, a familiar figure in previous Nebraska drillings was employed to sink this well. Drilling continued for some time but eventually the well was found to be "dry" and was abandoned.

From 1920 to 1926, the News published information of other proposed wells near Fairbury but these never got beyond the "planning stage." (To be continued)

News of the Neighborhood

"Men," says the Schuyler Sun, "we are sorry to admit are guilty of three most astonishing follies. The first is the climbing of trees to shake down the fruit, when if they would but wait, the fruit would fall off itself. The second is that they should run after women, when if they did not do so, the women would surely run after them. And the third is going to war to kill one another, when if they would only wait, they must surely die naturally."

NORTH LOUP

The 19th annual session of daily vacation Bible school closed here Friday with a demonstration given in the Seventh Day Baptist church. The program consisted of songs and memory work by the pupils and a pageant, "The Builders." Sixty-eight children received certificates for attending ten days. Twenty-six had perfect attendance. Eight of these, Dean Hutchins, Sylvia Ingerson, Evelyn Hamer, Dwayne Meyers, Corrine Meyers, Alice Meyers and Bonnie Babcock, were given large certificates for having attended four years, and five students, Belva and Phyllis Babcock, Richard Hutchins, Marlan Maxson and Grace Sims were given testaments for attending eight years. Sylvia Ingerson, who is only six years of age is the youngest child ever to receive a four year certificate. Classes were held in the school house again as they have been for several years with C. Ingerson doing the janitor work. Mary Davis was supervisor, Vesta Thorngate taught the high school, Birdine Ingerson the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth, Martha Miller the third and fourth, Helen Munson the first and second and Ida Babcock the kindergarten. Rev. Olsen, Rev. Adams and Rev. Stevens had charge of the chapel periods and Rev. Stevens conducted most of the praise periods, teaching the children many new songs. Wednesday the entire group enjoyed a picnic in the park at Ord. Finances of the project were met by collections taken each day and by gifts from the Sunday schools of the village supplemented with private gifts.

all age groups from the 2nd grade to the 5th grade. About forty typewriters are owned by the school and some surprising results have been obtained.

Elaborate precautions against kidnapping of students are taken, he stated. No written excuses are accepted and no person may remove a child from the school during school hours unless he identifies himself as a parent of the child.

The Ladue school is supported by taxation and the district has $13,000,000 of taxable property. Mr. Bell stated. Levy is eight mills for all school purposes, including debt service. The district recently erected a new $250,000 building to supplement a fine building already in use. There are about 25 instructors and 700 students.

Ladue has no business district and only five streets, two running east and west and three north and south, bisect the city. Most of the residents have large estates and roads through these estates are maintained privately. The city has a uniformed police force of nine men and a fire department of about the same size. The police force has motorcycles and cruiser cars with 2-way radios.

All children of elementary school age within the district attend the school headed by Mr. Bell and about the only way it is possible to tell the son of a chauffeur or other servant from the son of a millionaire is that the former dresses more neatly and is more courteous, said the school man.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fofeita, jr., while visiting in Ord.

Softball Drew Large Attendance Last Night

In the first game of softball at the fair grounds last night a pitchers' battle developed between Nay for the Cold Storage team and Paul Adamek of the Romans' Dr. Peppers. Nay finally winning out 4 to 3. Nay allowed 3 hits and 3 runs while his team mates made one error. Adamek allowed 6 hits and 4 runs while his team made one error.

The Chanticleers turned the second game into another merry-go-round when they landed on Jensen of the Douthits and his successor, C. Cetak, for 9 hits and 12 runs in the first inning. H. Misko turned in a home run with the bases loaded in this inning, and another with the bases empty in the third inning. Just to make it a cinch they took 4 hits and 4 more runs in the fourth.

T. Stoddard was the new catcher for the Chanticleers and did very nicely. Frederikson allowed two hits and two runs. The hit spot of the evening was a fast double play by the Chanticleers, Dahlin, ss, to F. Misko, 2b, to H. Christensen, lf, to retire the Douthits. It was announced that all players must have their dues paid by next Tuesday.

Zlomke Picnic.

A special-get-together of the Zlomke clan was held at Bussell park Sunday, with more than fifty in attendance. All the families brought a basket dinner and a fine time is reported.

In attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Zlomke and sons of Ord, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zlomke and Mr. and Mrs. George Zlomke of St. Paul; also the following cousins of the first named group: Mr. and Mrs. Art Zlomke and Mrs. Jack Horner and family of Duff, Mr. and Mrs. George Zlomke and family of Archer, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Zlomke and family of Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Bick of Grand Island, and several Zlomke sisters and their families of Merrick county. Edward Zalina Makes Record.
This week the Quiz received a letter from Mrs. Joseph Zalina, Colorado Springs, Colo., in which she told of the fine record made by their son Edward, who graduated from Colorado college this spring with a bachelor's degree, summa cum laude. He majored in physics and shared top honors with Otis Bainbridge of Glendale, Calif., who majored in music.

Mr. Zalina also set a remarkable record in the number of assistance-offers he received for next year from institutions with outstanding physics departments. He received ten offers and accepted an assistance at Yale. Other schools which made offers included Princeton, Cornell and California. The Zalinas formerly lived in the Comstock neighborhood, leaving there in 1922.

BURWELL

That the war in Europe will be over in sixty days is the prophesy of L. B. Fenner, Burwell resident who was a major in the Red Cross during the World War. Mr. Fenner expects Great Britain to capitulate in a short time. He believes that the Germans will dominate the continent of Europe but that the demands which they will make on their conquered enemies will be less harsh than most people expect. Mr. Fenner has been uncannily accurate in his predictions up to date. After Poland was conquered he opined that Hitler would strike in the Baltic regions and in the lowlands rather than in the Balkans. He also prophesied that the Germans would capture Paris before they moved against England when the Germans gained control of Calais and other channel ports. Early in the war he predicted that Mussolini would join Hitler. He also expected the smaller countries of Europe to reshape their governments more to the liking of Hitler as Jugoslavia has already done. Mr. Fenner does not expect Russia to march into Germany even though large numbers of Russian troops are massed on the German border. He has spent much time in Europe and crossed the Atlantic twice. He also reads a great deal and listens to discussions over the radio concerning international affairs. He opposes American intervention and respects the opinions of Lindbergh.

Strangers coming into Burwell have always experienced difficulty in locating the court house and now that its "law" is covered with a beautiful, high, verdant green, vegetation, known in the vernacular as weeds, it is almost impossible for "foreigners" to locate the seat of government. Ed Simes who in years past has carefully tended the lawn which delighted the eyes of the townspeople has evidently decided to cooperate with the government shelter belt program. The weeds serve several purposes, they camouflage the building until Hitler's bombers could never find it, they afford shade for the building and next winter the growth will be valuable as a windbreak to lessen the velocity of the icy blasts from the north. Several persons have expressed a desire for some seed when the commissioners decide to harvest their abundant field and one Burwell citizen has suggested that they insert an ad in the columns of the Ord Quiz for bids on the seed crop. Miss Huldah Bennett spent the week end with relatives at Fullerton.

Green home while the Runyan girls visited their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Runyan. Grunke Meyer home and Sonny is staying with the Vernon Anderson home. Mrs. Alberta Todd and daughter Betty and Miss Edna Mills of Aberdeen, Wash., left Sunday after spending several weeks visiting Mrs. Todd's relatives in Burwell. They are driving to New York where they will attend the fair. Mrs. Mamie Anderson was a guest in the G. R. Anderson home Sunday. The day was Dorothy's birthday and a picnic in the park had been planned but owing to the wind and cold weather it had to be called off. Miss Hazel Nelson of Creighton is a guest in the home of her brother Vernon Nelson and Mrs. Nelson. Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mayo, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Clements, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hughes and family all of Ord were Sunday dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Hughes.

advantage over hybrid corn. It may not drop off in yield if used for seed year after year, as hybrid corn does. For the present, agronomists are recommending that farmers use a combination of seed for irrigated ground. They advise mixing half Cossack and half Ladak alfalfa. Cossack yields the highest, while Ladak gives the biggest first cutting and some resistance to wilt. Ladak seed can only be secured from Montana. Oregon has developed an excellent new alfalfa called Orestan. Grimm and Common are still considered good. Hardistan used to be tops, but seed sources in northwestern Nebraska have succumbed to drought and grasshoppers. Dakota 12, once a leading variety, has also been lost in the shuffle.

Summer Meat Values

Its simple to plan an appetizing menu, one that will satisfy the family either at home or on that 4th of July picnic, with a minimum of time spent in preparation. All you need to do is select from our line of COLD MEATS. Meats that hit the spot after a long ride or a refreshing swim. Meats that make a perfect lunch. Meats that tempt hot weather appetites. They are priced very low here; we have a big selection for you.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda. Although they aren't saying much about it, the agronomists at Lincoln have developed a new alfalfa strain, which seems to combine all the good features of other varieties, and promises to revolutionize alfalfa raising in this state. So valuable is the new strain, as yet unnamed, that they will not risk growing it on dryland. Most of the available seed is on a 15 acre plot at an undisclosed location in western Nebraska. It unites with resistance with high yields, a combination of qualities which no other alfalfa possesses. Hybrid alfalfa is just around the corner, too. At Lincoln, Dr. Tisdall has made some good crosses and some poor ones. He believes that hybrid alfalfa will have one

My Own Column By H. D. Leggett

Dear Quiz:
There is not much out of the ordinary to write about this week, just the routine work and play. The temperature at 8 this morning is 52 but earlier it was colder. I just heard the Missus say she was going to do some baking this morning but that she would have to wait until the girls get the morning dishes done up and get out of her way, as it is too cold to work on the back porch where she usually does such work and she will use the wood stove oven in the kitchen instead of the gas oven on the back porch.

Notice to the Public

Ordinance No. 85, Chapter 11, Section 3, of the Ordinances of the City of Ord, Nebraska, states:

"It shall be unlawful for any person or persons within the corporate limits of this City to sell, ignite or cause to be exploded any firecrackers, roman candles, torpedoes, rockets or any kind of fireworks or other pyrotechnic displays—

Penalty provided for failure to observe this Ordinance is a fine of $25 and costs, with imprisonment in the City Jail if the fine is not paid.

This ordinance is not being generally observed in Ord at the present time, and to avoid possible fire damage and possible injury to children and older people, it is requested that parents require their children to obey the ordinance and also obey it themselves.

Police have been instructed to warn violators of the fireworks ordinance and to make arrests if necessary in flagrant cases but we do not wish to do this unless it becomes absolutely necessary. We are following the line taken by previous administrations—that the ordinance was passed as a corrective measure and the cooperation of citizens is required if it is to have the effect desired.

Ord Legion Juniors Win From St. Paul Tuesday
 Playing the best game they have played this season the Ord Legion Junior baseball team snapped out of their losing streak at the new athletic field yesterday afternoon to win over the strong St. Paul team. It was the first win for Ord and the first loss for St. Paul.

Bill Novosad started on the mound for Ord and did a fine job for the first seven innings. He weakened in the eighth, and Plskorski, who succeeded him, was ineffective and wild. Bill Johnson finished the inning after 8 scores had come in and allowed three runs in the ninth.

Ord made 20 hits good for 24 runs, while St. Paul was making 20 runs on 14 hits. The team standings to date, with an evening game between St. Paul and Greeley at Greeley Friday is: St. Paul two wins and one loss; Greeley two wins and one loss; and Ord, one win and three losses. With the improvement they are showing the Ord boys have a good chance to win out in July.

WATCH YOUR CREAM

TO OUR PATRONS:
 Quality of cream you furnish your creamery largely determines the quality of butter we are able to turn out.

Quality of butter, as you know, fixes the price obtained for it and, therefore, the price paid you for butterfat.

For largest possible final returns always do this: Strain all milk through new cotton pad; cool the fresh cream quickly; keep it cold; protect it from sun, dust and flies; keep separator and all utensils spic and span.

Glow Fackler and Elsie Hansen went to Crete with Mr. Fackler's semi-trailer Monday where they got the six cylinder Fairbanks Morse engine which the town board has bought from the Crete Mills. The floor of the municipal utilities building had to be removed for a depth of four feet in order to install the new engine. As car frames, bricks, tiles, stones, rocks and other objects were embedded in the concrete this excavation was an exceedingly difficult job. Don Cain stated that a carload of cement would be required to set the new engine in its foundation sufficiently solid to prevent vibration.

It Doesn't Cost—IT PAYS to Own an All-Crop Harvester

Bulletin No. 436, issued recently by Purdue University agricultural experimental station, Lafayette, Ind., says:

"Average total acre costs for combining with the small machine (in research conducted by this station) were less than one-half of the total acre costs with the binder and thresher."

"The acre cost of harvesting with the small combine were $1.29 an acre as compared with $2.87 per acre for the binder and thresher."

"Less than one-fifth as much man labor was necessary to harvest grain with the small combine as with the binder and thresher and the total number of men was considerably smaller."

"The saving in labor in addition to the saving in cost made for a shorter and later harvest season, which in turn liberated more time for later cultivation of corn, making hay and attending to chore duties."

"Average acres cut per year per machine by all machines recorded was 258 acres."

WHY YOU SHOULD CHANGE FROM BINDER-THRESHER TO ALL-CROP HARVESTING THIS SUMMER

- Because—
- you harvest when you're ready, not when its "you're turn" in the run—no outside help—no extra meals—no harvest headaches.
 - you harvest when crop and weather are right—get larger yields, better grades, higher prices.
 - you save an extra dime, or more, on every bushel over binder-thresher harvesting costs.
 - you can be through harvest in about the same length of time it takes to put grain in the shock with a binder—and threshing still to come.
 - you can harvest and save lodged, matted crops that a binder can't cut and tie—you can save all grain no matter how short the straw.
 - it frees your womenfolks from the annual "cooking for threshers" ordeal—takes the sweat out of the kitchen as well as out of the field.

WHY YOU SHOULD BUY AN ALLIS-CHALMERS ALL-CROP HARVESTER NOW!

By special arrangement with the factory we are privileged to offer two different A-C models at a price $100 and more below regular price. When those machines now in storage here are sold no more will be available at these low prices. You can arrange terms if you desire, we will take in your old equipment in trade, and you now have a chance to get a modern All-Crop at only—

Harvest time is almost here. Don't delay another day but see the All-Crop now and make arrangements to put one to work in your grain field next month.
